Eliphaz: Job Is Chastened by God

5 "Call out now;
Is there anyone who will answer you?
And to which of the holy ones will you turn?
2 For wrath kills a foolish man,
And envy slays a simple one.
3 [a]I have seen the foolish taking root,
But suddenly I cursed his dwelling place.
4 His sons are [b]far from safety,
They are crushed in the gate,
And [c]there is no deliverer.
5 Because the hungry eat up his harvest,
[1]Taking it even from the thorns,
[2]And a snare snatches their [3]substance.
6 For affliction does not come from the dust,
Nor does trouble spring from the ground;
7 Yet man is [d]born to [4]trouble,
As the sparks fly upward.

8 "But as for me, I would seek God,
And to God I would commit my cause—
9 Who does great things, and unsearchable,
Marvelous things without number.

■ 4:16 A form. Eliphaz is not sure who it is or what it is, but he is sure it is a supernatural revelation.

■ 4:17 more righteous than God. Another way to render this phrase is, "can a mortal be righteous before God?" The question is not whether humans can be more righteous than God, which was unthinkable in that culture, but whether they can be righteous at all in His sight. Even the angels are not pure in His sight (v. 18). It is possible that only v. 17 is the revelation from the Spirit, and that vv. 18–21 are Eliphaz's comment on these words. The quotation mark in that case would come after v. 17 instead of after v. 21.

■ 4:21 die, even without wisdom. That is, their death was without any purpose and therefore meaningless. They "perish forever" (v. 20) without there ever having been a purpose to their lives.

■ 5:1 to which of the holy ones will you turn. None of the "sons of God," the holy angels, would dare to help Job.

■ 5:7 man is born to trouble. Eliphaz's point is that trouble does not spring up spontaneously like a weed, but has to have been sown by those who reap it.

As the sparks fly upward. Lit. "the sons of Resheph fly upward." Resheph was the god of pestilence, lightning, and destruction. A similar idiom is used in Song 8:6, where love is described as "flames of fire." In other places the idiom is used for bolts of lightning (Ps. 78:48) and of pestilence (Deut. 32:24; Hab. 3:5).

10 [e]He gives rain on the earth,
And sends waters on the fields.
11 [f]He sets on high those who are lowly,
And those who mourn are lifted to safety.
12 [g]He frustrates the devices of the crafty,
So that their hands cannot carry out their plans.
13 He catches the [h]wise in their own craftiness,
And the counsel of the cunning comes quickly upon them.
14 They meet with darkness in the daytime,
And grope at noontime as in the night.
15 But [i]He saves the needy from the sword,
From the mouth of the mighty,
And from their hand.
16 [j]So the poor have hope,
And injustice shuts her mouth.

17 "Behold,[k] happy is the man whom God corrects;
Therefore do not despise the chastening of the Almighty.
18 [l]For He bruises, but He binds up;
He wounds, but His hands make whole.
19 [m]He shall deliver you in six troubles,
Yes, in seven [n]no evil shall touch you.
20 [o]In famine He shall redeem you from death,
And in war from the [5]power of the sword.
21 [p]You shall be hidden from the scourge of the tongue,
And you shall not be afraid of destruction when it comes.
22 You shall laugh at destruction and famine,
And [q]you shall not be afraid of the [r]beasts of the earth.
23 [s]For you shall have a covenant with the stones of the field,
And the beasts of the field shall be at peace with you.
24 You shall know that your tent is in peace;
You shall visit your dwelling and find nothing amiss.
25 You shall also know that [t]your descendants shall be many,
And your offspring [u]like the grass of the earth.
26 [v]You shall come to the grave at a full age,
As a sheaf of grain ripens in its season.
27 Behold, this we have [w]searched out;
It is true.
Hear it, and know for yourself."

Job: My Complaint Is Just

6 Then Job answered and said:

2 "Oh, that my grief were fully weighed,
And my calamity laid with it on the scales!
3 For then it would be heavier than the sand of the sea—
Therefore my words have been rash.

27 [w]Ps. 111:2

■ 5:17–26 This reference to the disciplinary nature of human suffering is the only place in the speeches of the three counselors where the subject is even broached.

■ 5:19 in six . . . in seven. A poetic expression meaning "many."

■ 5:23 a covenant with the stones of the field. Attempts to explain such a covenant as merely figurative language do not satisfy the context. Some read this, "covenant with the offspring of the field," since the other side of the parallelism reads, "the beasts of the field shall be at peace with you." Since the wild animals often kill the domestic animals, this fits the entire context, for in v. 22 Eliphaz said that Job had no need to fear the beasts of the earth.

■ 5:25 your descendants shall be many. Considering that Job has lost all his children, the statement is both unnecessary and cruel.

■ 5:26 At this point neither Job nor Eliphaz could have imagined that this statement would come true for Job.

■ 5:27 this we have searched out; It is true. This final verbal volley shows that Eliphaz was in error. He thought he understood what was happening to Job, but he did not. Such an assertion reveals spiritual arrogance.

■ 6:1—7:21 Job upbraids Eliphaz for uttering presumptuous, insensitive, not to mention false, words about him (6:1–30), and then addresses his complaint to God.

■ 6:3, 4 my words have been rash. For the arrows of the Almighty are within me. Job excuses his raging by fantasizing that God has become his enemy.

4 [a]For the arrows of the Almighty are within me;
My spirit drinks in their poison;
[b]The terrors of God are arrayed [c]against me.
5 Does the [d]wild donkey bray when it has grass,
Or does the ox low over its fodder?
6 Can flavorless food be eaten without salt?
Or is there any taste in the white of an egg?
7 My soul refuses to touch them;
They are as loathsome food to me.

8 "Oh, that I might have my request,
That God would grant me the thing that I long for!
9 That it would please God to crush me,
That He would loose His hand and [e]cut me off!
10 Then I would still have comfort;
Though in anguish I would exult;
He will not spare;
For [f]I have not concealed the words of [g]the Holy One.

11 "What strength do I have, that I should hope?
And what is my end, that I should prolong my life?
12 Is my strength the strength of stones?
Or is my flesh bronze?
13 Is my help not within me?
And is success driven from me?

14 "To[h] him who is [i]afflicted, kindness should be shown by his friend,
Even though he forsakes the fear of the Almighty.
15 [j]My brothers have dealt deceitfully like a brook,
[j]Like the streams of the brooks that pass away,
16 Which are dark because of the ice,
And into which the snow vanishes.
17 When it is warm, they cease to flow;
When it is hot, they vanish from their place.
18 The paths of their way turn aside,
They go nowhere and perish.
19 The caravans of [k]Tema look,
The travelers of [l]Sheba hope for them.
20 They are [m]disappointed[2] because they were confident;
They come there and are confused.
21 For now [n]you are nothing,
You see terror and [o]are afraid.
22 Did I ever say, 'Bring something to me'?
Or, 'Offer a bribe for me from your wealth'?
23 Or, 'Deliver me from the enemy's hand'?
Or, 'Redeem me from the hand of oppressors'?

24 "Teach me, and I will hold my tongue;
Cause me to understand wherein I have erred.
25 How forceful are right words!
But what does your arguing prove?
26 Do you intend to rebuke my words,

21 [n]Job 13:4 [o]Ps. 38:11

■ 6:6, 7 flavorless food . . . My soul refuses. Eliphaz has offered him no real food (v. 5); i.e., words of comfort. What was supposed to be good food (words) made Job sick.

■ 6:8 grant me the thing that I long for. The only comfort left is the exquisite release from pain that death would bring him. He strongly affirms continued faith in the Lord. Note that this passage shows Job believes in a blissful afterlife.

■ 6:25 How forceful are right words. The difference between Job and his friends is summed up here. The speeches of the friends are formally correct but do not necessarily apply to Job. Indeed, the friends accuse Job falsely of having lived a sinful life. Job insists on speaking honest words about his life. He has not forsaken God or lived in a profligate way.

And the speeches of a desperate one, which are as wind?
27 Yes, you overwhelm the fatherless,
And you [p]undermine your friend.
28 Now therefore, be pleased to look at me;
For I would never lie to your face.
29 [q]Yield now, let there be no injustice!
Yes, concede, my [r]righteousness [3]still stands!
30 Is there injustice on my tongue?
Cannot my [4]taste discern the unsavory?

Job: My Suffering Is Comfortless

7 "Is there not [a]a time of hard service for man on earth?
Are not his days also like the days of a hired man?
2 Like a servant who [l]earnestly desires the shade,
And like a hired man who eagerly looks for his wages,
3 So I have been allotted [b]months of futility,
And wearisome nights have been appointed to me.
4 [c]When I lie down, I say, 'When shall I arise,
And the night be ended?'
For I have had my fill of tossing till dawn.
5 My flesh is [d]caked with worms and dust,
My skin is cracked and breaks out afresh.

6 "My[e] days are swifter than a weaver's shuttle,
And are spent without hope.
7 Oh, remember that [f]my life is a breath!
My eye will never again see good.
8 [g]The eye of him who sees me will see me no more;
While your eyes are upon me, I shall no longer be.
9 As the cloud disappears and vanishes away,
So [h]he who goes down to the grave does not come up.
10 He shall never return to his house,
[i]Nor shall his place know him anymore.

11 "Therefore I will [j]not restrain my mouth;
I will speak in the anguish of my spirit;
I will [k]complain in the bitterness of my soul.
12 Am I a sea, or a sea serpent,
That You set a guard over me?
13 [l]When I say, 'My bed will comfort me,
My couch will ease my complaint,'
14 Then You scare me with dreams
And terrify me with visions,

■ 6:27 you overwhelm the fatherless. Later, Job will speak of his own loving care for the fatherless (31:16–22). His own name possibly means "without a father."

■ 6:29 still stands. Lit. "is in it." The "it" is their insistence that he is suffering for his sins. Either he or they must be wrong.

■ 6:30 my taste. Lit. "my palate." In vv. 6, 7 Job had already spoken of their words as bad food. Here he pleads that they change the "stuff" they are feeding him.

■ 7:1–21 Job now directs his words toward God. This is a prayer in the form of a complaint the psalmists often use.

■ 7:1 hard service. The terminology often refers to military service.

■ 7:5 Job's malady may have been a combination of diseases. Repellent symptoms, however, appeared all over his skin, his largest and most sensitive bodily organ.

■ 7:7 never again see good. Worse than pain is the loss of hope for a return to health.

■ 7:9 does not come up. This is the language of appearance. Job is not developing a doctrine, but merely stating what all observe. Later, Job will show he believes in the possibility of resurrection (14:12–15).

■ 7:11 will not restrain my mouth. Like the psalmist, Job insists on complaining out of his "bitterness of soul"; but note that he complains to God, not to man here.

■ 7:12 Am I a sea. The Hebrew uses "sea" as a proper name here without the definite article. This is poetic language for the boisterous Canaanite deity Yam (Sea). Job does not worship Yam, but he knows the story about him.

■ 7:14 You scare me. Job imagines that God is actually doing all this. The reader knows from the prologue that He permitted Satan to do it. Yet that permission is within God's sovereign ordination.

15 So that my soul chooses strangling
And death rather than [2]my body.
16 [m]I loathe my life;
I would not live forever.
[n]Let me alone,
For [o]my days are but [3]a breath.

17 "What[p] is man, that You should exalt him,
That You should set Your heart on him,
18 That You should [4]visit him every morning,
And test him every moment?
19 How long?
Will You not look away from me,
And let me alone till I swallow my saliva?
20 Have I sinned?
What have I done to You, [q]O watcher of men?
Why [r]have You set me as Your target,
So that I am a burden [5]to myself?
21 Why then do You not pardon my transgression,
And take away my iniquity?
For now I will lie down in the dust,
And You will seek me diligently,
But I will no longer be."

Bildad: Job Should Repent

8 Then Bildad the Shuhite answered and said:

2 "How long will you speak these things,
And the words of your mouth be like a strong wind?
3 [a]Does God subvert judgment?
Or does the Almighty pervert justice?
4 If [b]your sons have sinned against Him,
He has cast them away [1]for their transgression.
5 [c]If you would earnestly seek God
And make your supplication to the Almighty,
6 If you were pure and upright,
Surely now He would [2]awake for you,
And prosper your rightful dwelling place.
7 Though your beginning was small,
Yet your latter end would [d]increase abundantly.

8 "For[e] inquire, please, of the former age,
And consider the things discovered by their fathers;

7 [d]Job 42:12

8 [e]Deut. 4:32; 32:7; Job 15:18; 20:4

■ 7:15 my soul chooses . . . death. Job sees death as the way out, but Satan was not permitted to go that far, nor would death have served Satan's purpose of getting him to curse God to His face.

■ 7:16 Let me alone. Again, Job imagines that God is the one who torments him. We know from the prologue, however, that God has a high and holy purpose in permitting Satan to touch Job.

■ 7:17 What is man, that You should exalt him. Cf. Ps. 8:4 and 144:3. The psalmist is not suffering, so his thoughts on this subject are positive. He marvels that God cares so much for the creature He has made to reflect His own image. But Job, in his distress, wishes that God would leave him alone.

■ 7:20 O watcher of men. He thinks God is too faultfinding. For what sin is it that God is punishing him so severely?

a burden to myself. Some Hebrew manuscripts and the ancient Greek translation read "a burden to you."

■ 7:21 And take away my iniquity. Though Job will stress his integrity (i.e., his honest commitment to godliness and righteousness) in his former life, he never denies that he was a sinner.

■ 8:1–22 This reply presents Bildad as a blunt and unfeeling man. He had failed to hear Job's cry for compassion (6:13, 14, 26). His message to Job is forthright. He and his family have gotten what they deserve. If only now he will repent of the shameless deeds that brought on this disaster, he can be restored to even greater prosperity and happiness than he had before.

■ 8:2 like a strong wind. This is a strong accusation. It is unlike the tone of Eliphaz who attempted a soft approach at first (4:2).

■ 8:6 If you were pure and upright. In Bildad's mind God has mercy only when human beings deserve it. Mercy, however, cannot ever be deserved. If it is deserved it would be justice.

■ 8:8 inquire . . . of the former age. Eliphaz had appealed to revelation as his authority, even though that revelation was somewhat enigmatic (4:12–17). Bildad appeals to human tradition.

9 For [f]we were born yesterday, and know [3]nothing,
Because our days on earth are a shadow.
10 Will they not teach you and tell you,
And utter words from their heart?

11 "Can the papyrus grow up without a marsh?
Can the reeds flourish without water?
12 [g]While it is yet green and not cut down,
It withers before any other plant.
13 So are the paths of all who [h]forget God;
And the hope of the [i]hypocrite shall perish,
14 Whose confidence shall be cut off,
And whose trust is [4]a spider's web.
15 [j]He leans on his house, but it does not stand.
He holds it fast, but it does not endure.
16 He grows green in the sun,
And his branches spread out in his garden.
17 His roots wrap around the rock heap,
And look for a place in the stones.
18 [k]If he is destroyed from his place,
Then it will deny him, saying, 'I have not seen you.'

19 "Behold, this is the joy of His way,
And [l]out of the earth others will grow.
20 Behold, [m]God will not [5]cast away the blameless,
Nor will He uphold the evildoers.
21 He will yet fill your mouth with laughing,
And your lips with [6]rejoicing.
22 Those who hate you will be [n]clothed with shame,
And the dwelling place of the wicked [7]will come to nothing."

Job: There Is No Mediator

9 Then Job answered and said:

2 "Truly I know it is so,
But how can a [a]man be [b]righteous before God?
3 If one wished to [1]contend with Him,
He could not answer Him one time out of a thousand.
4 [c]God is wise in heart and mighty in strength.
Who has hardened himself against Him and prospered?
5 He removes the mountains, and they do not know
When He overturns them in His anger;
6 He [d]shakes the earth out of its place,

8 [f]Gen. 1:6; Job 37:18; Ps. 104:2, 3; Is. 40:22

■ 8:13 the hypocrite. Bildad draws on several illustrations from nature to describe the hopelessness of those whom he calls "the hypocrite." The Hebrew word refers to someone who is profane or defiled by sin. Obviously, Bildad sees Job as a case in point.

■ 8:20 God will not cast away the blameless. This verse contains the heart of Bildad's theology of suffering. As standard wisdom it was not wrong. Ps. 1:6 teaches that the Lord cares about the way of the righteous, but the way of the wicked shall perish. Bildad's error consisted in assuming that because Job was suffering he had to be a godless person.

■ 9:1—10:22 Job's reply to Bildad in chs. 9; 10 starts with a discourse on God's power and wisdom (9:1–13), but shifts to questioning his justice (9:14–35). In 9:30 he begins to direct his words to God, and this continues through ch. 10.

■ 9:2 But how can a man be righteous before God. Job agrees with the view of Bildad that God punishes the wicked and cares for the righteous (Ps. 1:6), but is there anybody who is wholly righteous?

■ 9:3 Job does not know yet that God Himself will be his cross-examiner (38:3; 40:7).

■ 9:6 its pillars. The earth is described poetically as having subterranean architecture.

■ 9:7 The reference is to an eclipse of the sun and the disappearance of certain stars over the seasons.

■ 9:8 The poetic figures in this verse refer to God's creation and control of the forces of nature.

And [2]treads on the [3]waves of the sea;
9 [g]He made [4]the Bear, Orion, and the Pleiades,
And the chambers of the south;
10 [h]He does great things past finding out,
Yes, wonders without number.
11 [i]If He goes by me, I do not see Him;
If He moves past, I do not perceive Him;
12 [j]If He takes away, [5]who can hinder Him?
Who can say to Him, 'What are You doing?'
13 God will not withdraw His anger,
[k]The allies of [6]the proud lie prostrate beneath Him.

14 "How then can I answer Him,
And choose my words to reason with Him?
15 [l]For though I were righteous, I could not answer Him;
I would beg mercy of my Judge.
16 If I called and He answered me,
I would not believe that He was listening to my voice.
17 For He crushes me with a tempest,
And multiplies my wounds [m]without cause.
18 He will not allow me to catch my breath,
But fills me with bitterness.
19 If it is a matter of strength, indeed He is strong;
And if of justice, who will appoint my day in court?
20 Though I were righteous, my own mouth would condemn me;
Though I were blameless, it would prove me perverse.

21 "I am blameless, yet I do not know myself;
I despise my life.
22 It is all one thing;
Therefore I say, [n]'He destroys the blameless and the wicked.'
23 If the scourge slays suddenly,
He laughs at the plight of the innocent.
24 The earth is given into the hand of the wicked.
He covers the faces of its judges.
If it is not He, who else could it be?

25 "Now [o]my days are swifter than a runner;
They flee away, they see no good.
26 They pass by like [7]swift ships,
[p]Like an eagle swooping on its prey.
27 [q]If I say, 'I will forget my complaint,
I will put off my sad face and wear a smile,'
28 [r]I am afraid of all my sufferings;

■ 9:13 the proud. Lit. "Rahab." Rahab is the Semitic sea monster after whom the prostitute in Josh. 2 was named. Cf. 26:12. In Is. 30:7 it is a symbol of Egypt.

■ 9:15 Job desires an audience with God to prove his innocence, but thinks that his cause could be hopeless (vv. 14–20, 32–35).

■ 9:21–24 These verses represent the lowest point of Job's speeches. As happens to many who suffer greatly over a long period, Job is tempted to be fatalistic. He wavers between hope and doubt and even accuses God.

■ 9:24 If it is not He, who else could it be. These sad but profound words reflect Job's belief in the absolute sovereignty of God. He would not have felt this perplexity if he thought God were limited.

■ 9:25–31 Job finds himself caught in an impossible dilemma. He believes he is innocent, but according to the traditional view of suffering his experience proclaims that God thinks the contrary.

32 "For [u]He is not a man, as I am,
That I may answer Him,
And that we should go to court together.
33 [v]Nor is there any mediator between us,
Who may lay his hand on us both.
34 [w]Let Him take His rod away from me,
And do not let dread of Him terrify me.
35 Then I would speak and not fear Him,
But it is not so with me.

Job: I Would Plead with God

10 "My [a]soul loathes my life;
I will [1]give free course to my complaint,
[b]I will speak in the bitterness of my soul.
2 I will say to God, 'Do not condemn me;
Show me why You contend with me.
3 Does it seem good to You that You should oppress,
That You should despise the work of Your hands,
And smile on the counsel of the wicked?
4 Do You have eyes of flesh?
Or [c]do You see as man sees?
5 Are Your days like the days of a mortal man?
Are Your years like the days of a mighty man,
6 That You should seek for my iniquity
And search out my sin,
7 Although You know that I am not wicked,
And there is no one who can deliver from Your hand?

8 'Your[d] hands have made me and fashioned me,
An intricate unity;
Yet You would [e]destroy me.
9 Remember, I pray, [f]that You have made me like clay.
And will You turn me into dust again?
10 [g]Did You not pour me out like milk,
And curdle me like cheese,
11 Clothe me with skin and flesh,
And knit me together with bones and sinews?
12 You have granted me life and favor,
And Your care has preserved my spirit.

13 'And these things You have hidden in Your heart;
I know that this was with You:
14 If I sin, then [h]You mark me,
And will not acquit me of my iniquity.

14 [h]Job 7:20; Ps. 139:1

■ 9:33 Nor is there any mediator. Eliphaz had taunted Job with the thought that no heavenly being would think of defending him (5:1). Here Job touches a profound truth, that sinful man needs an arbiter who can reach both God and man. Although not a direct prediction, this verse foresees the need of the "one Mediator between God and men" (1 Tim. 2:5).

■ 10:1 My soul loathes. Cf. 7:16; 9:21. Job is not only willing to die, but is seeking it as his only means of escape (6:8, 9). Nothing worse can happen, so he will complain freely.

■ 10:2 Show me why You contend with me. He speaks on the assumption that the traditional view of suffering held by the counselors is correct. He has not been able to deliver himself from this view.

■ 10:3 Does it seem good to You. Lit. "is it good?" Perhaps it should be translated, "is it right?"

smile on the counsel of the wicked. No wonder God would later accuse him of discrediting his justice (40:8).

■ 10:4–7 Here is irony. Job knows God is omniscient. He does not have to search out sins like a human prosecutor. He knows Job is innocent; yet He has made Job His helpless victim.

■ 10:8–12 Like the author of Ps. 139:13–16, Job understands that God fashioned him in the womb, gave him life, and blessed him. Now he cannot understand how the same good God can treat him so badly.

■ 10:13 these things. What are the "things" Job refers to? Job seems to mean that his suffering is a divine punishment planned right from the beginning of his life. He does not understand that God's plan in his suffering is something other than punishment.

■ 10:14, 15 All this is predicated on the mistaken assumption that his suffering is due to God's punitive wrath.

15 If I am wicked, [i]woe to me;
[j]Even if I am righteous, I [2]cannot lift up my head.
I am full of disgrace;
[k]See my misery!
16 If my head is exalted,
[l]You hunt me like a fierce lion,
And again You show Yourself awesome against me.
17 You renew Your witnesses against me,
And increase Your indignation toward me;
Changes and war are ever with me.

18 'Why[m] then have You brought me out of the womb?
Oh, that I had perished and no eye had seen me!
19 I would have been as though I had not been.
I would have been carried from the womb to the grave.
20 [n]Are not my days few?
Cease! [o]Leave me alone, that I may take a little comfort,
21 Before I go to the place from which I shall not return,
[p]To the land of darkness [q]and the shadow of death,
22 A land as dark as darkness itself,
As the shadow of death, without any order,
Where even the light is like darkness.' "

Zophar Urges Job to Repent

11 Then Zophar the Naamathite answered and said:

2 "Should not the multitude of words be answered?
And should [1]a man full of talk be vindicated?
3 Should your empty talk make men [2]hold their peace?
And when you mock, should no one rebuke you?
4 For you have said,
[a]'My doctrine is pure,
And I am clean in your eyes.'
5 But oh, that God would speak,
And open His lips against you,
6 That He would show you the secrets of wisdom!
For they would double your prudence.
Know therefore that [b]God [3]exacts from you
Less than your iniquity deserves.

7 "Can[c] you search out the deep things of God?
Can you find out the limits of the Almighty?
8 They are higher than heaven— what can you do?
Deeper than [4]Sheol— what can you know?
9 Their measure is longer than the earth
And broader than the sea.

10 [d]Job 9:12; [Rev. 3:7] [5]restrain

■ 10:21 the place . . . return. Notice the difference between Job's present description of that place as a land of darkness, while in 3:13–19 he looked on it as being a place of peace and rest. This proves that Job's emotional raging must not be used as a basis for constructing normative Old Testament or Christian theology. The rule of interpretation should be that when Job or the counselors are in agreement with normative theology we accept them. But in the dramatic flow of the book, neither he nor they can be relied on as a source of theological formulations.

■ 11:1–20 Zophar, the most severe of Job's counselors, now speaks his mind on Job's plight, misapplying some truths about God.

■ 11:1 the Naamathite. Possibly from Arabia. This is not the Naamah mentioned in Josh. 15:41, which was in the western foothills of Judah.

■ 11:4 I am clean in your eyes. This is not an exact quotation of Job, who has not said he was sinless. He has claimed not to have led the kind of sinful life that might deserve such severe suffering. He has admitted that no mortal can be righteous before God (9:2).

■ 11:6 Less than your iniquity deserves. The words reflect Zophar's supposition of the enormity of Job's sin.

■ 11:7–9 These words are an eloquent expression of the transcendence of God, which Zophar then misapplies.

11 For [e]He knows deceitful men;
He sees wickedness also.
Will He not then consider it?
12 For an [f]empty-headed man will be wise,
When a wild donkey's colt is born a man.

13 "If you would [g]prepare your heart,
And [h]stretch out your hands toward Him;
14 If iniquity were in your hand, and you put it far away,
And [i]would not let wickedness dwell in your tents;
15 [j]Then surely you could lift up your face without spot;
Yes, you could be steadfast, and not fear;
16 Because you would [k]forget your misery,
And remember it as waters that have passed away,
17 And your life [l]would be brighter than noonday.
Though you were dark, you would be like the morning.
18 And you would be secure, because there is hope;
Yes, you would dig around you, and [m]take your rest in safety.
19 You would also lie down, and no one would make you afraid;
Yes, many would court your favor.
20 But [n]the eyes of the wicked will fail,
And they shall not escape,
And [o]their hope—[6]loss of life!"

Job Answers His Critics

12 Then Job answered and said:

2 "No doubt you are the people,
And wisdom will die with you!
3 But I have [1]understanding as well as you;
I am not [a]inferior to you.
Indeed, who does not know such things as these?

4 "I[b] am one mocked by his friends,
Who [c]called on God, and He answered him,
The just and blameless who is ridiculed.
5 A [2]lamp is despised in the thought of one who is at ease;
It is made ready for [d]those whose feet slip.
6 [e]The tents of robbers prosper,
And those who provoke God are secure—
In what God provides by His hand.

7 "But now ask the beasts, and they will teach you;
And the birds of the air, and they will tell you;
8 Or speak to the earth, and it will teach you;
And the fish of the sea will explain to you.

■ 11:13–20 This looks like good advice for a profligate sinner, but it does not properly apply to Job. Like Bildad, Zophar makes no allowance for mercy. Job has to become righteous before God will accept him.

■ 11:14, 15 It is arrogance on the part of Zophar to think that he knows why Job is suffering. We know from the prologue that it was not because Job had sinned. Job was called by God to join that grand company of innocent sufferers for the glory of the Lord.

■ 12:1—14:22 Job's reply in this long speech starts with a blast of sarcasm against his counselors. He continues to speak to them through 13:19. Beginning in 13:20 Job turns to God, creating a major break in the speech. This inclination of Job to talk to God (to pray) is in notable contrast to the counselors, who never say a word to God. They only talk about Him.

■ 12:4–6 Job agonizes over being made a laughingstock, even to his friends, while evildoers and idolaters live in ease and security.

■ 12:7, 8 ask the beasts . . . speak to the earth. Like Eliphaz who had called upon revelation and Bildad who had called upon tradition to support their arguments, Job calls on every creature in the universe to bear witness to his argument that the wicked prosper and the righteous suffer.

And the [g]breath of [4]all mankind?
11 Does not the ear test words
And the [5]mouth taste its food?
12 Wisdom is with aged men,
And with [6]length of days, understanding.

13 "With Him are [h]wisdom and strength,
He has counsel and understanding.
14 If [i]He breaks a thing down, it cannot be rebuilt;
If He imprisons a man, there can be no release.
15 If He [j]withholds the waters, they dry up;
If He [k]sends them out, they overwhelm the earth.
16 With Him are strength and prudence.
The deceived and the deceiver are His.
17 He leads counselors away plundered,
And makes fools of the judges.
18 He loosens the bonds of kings,
And binds their waist with a belt.
19 He leads [7]princes away plundered,
And overthrows the mighty.
20 [l]He deprives the trusted ones of speech,
And takes away the discernment of the elders.
21 [m]He pours contempt on princes,
And [8]disarms the mighty.
22 He [n]uncovers deep things out of darkness,
And brings the shadow of death to light.
23 [o]He makes nations great, and destroys them;
He [9]enlarges nations, and guides them.
24 He takes away the [l]understanding of the chiefs of the people of the earth,
And [p]makes them wander in a pathless wilderness.
25 [q]They grope in the dark without light,

[c]You are all worthless physicians.
5 Oh, that you would be silent,
And [d]it would be your wisdom!
6 Now hear my reasoning,
And heed the pleadings of my lips.
7 [e]Will you speak [l]wickedly for God,

■ 12:12 This verse can also be translated as a question: "Shouldn't wisdom be found among the aged?" The verse is irony aimed at the counselors who are old but have not become wise.

■ 12:13–25 In this unit of poetry Job expounds the doctrine of God's sovereign freedom. Some have interpreted this as said tongue-in-cheek, a subtle criticism of God for mismanaging the universe. In this view God is limited, and needs to be "forgiven" by his creatures. But throughout this book, even when Job is raging over his suffering and suggesting doubts about God's justice, he always assumes that God is sovereign, and that man can make no effective objection to what He does. Job wrestles with a mystery, one too deep for the shallow counselors. This part of the speech may have been provoked by Zophar's question in 11:7, "Can you search out the deep things of God?" The poem may also be a reply to Eliphaz's hymn in 5:1–26, where only good things happen to good people, an idea proved false in this stanza.

20 "Only[l] two things do not do to me,
Then I will not hide myself from You:
21 [m]Withdraw Your hand far from me,
And let not the dread of You make me afraid.
22 Then call, and I will [n]answer;
Or let me speak, then You respond to me.
23 How many are my iniquities and sins?
Make me know my transgression and my sin.
24 [o]Why do You hide Your face,
And [p]regard me as Your enemy?
25 [q]Will You frighten a leaf driven to and fro?
And will You pursue dry stubble?
26 For You write bitter things against me,
And [r]make me inherit the iniquities of my youth.
27 [s]You put my feet in the stocks,
And watch closely all my paths.
You [4]set a limit for the [5]soles of my feet.

■ 13:13–27 Job returns to the thought suggested in v. 3. He has decided now that he must have an audience with God.

■ 13:14 put my life in my hands. He is fearful that he might not survive such an audience.

■ 13:15 Though He slay me, yet will I trust Him. This verse has often been quoted as the supreme expression of trust in the Lord. Job is confident that he will have an audience with God and that this will bring about his deliverance: "For a hypocrite could not come before Him!" Moreover, v. 18 makes it clear that Job is positive about his being vindicated when he comes before the Lord. The word "vindicated" implies that Job will be shown to be right in his claim that he is innocent of the false charges the counselors have been making against him.

■ 13:23 How many are my iniquities and sins. Job trusts that if his sins are discovered they will not include the sort of unbridled wickedness that might justify his terrible suffering. See notes on 11:4 and 29:7–17.

■ 13:24 And regard me as Your enemy. This is the delusive fantasy with which Job is struggling. God never considered Job his enemy.

■ 13:28 This verse is probably the opening line of the poem in 14:1–6. In this poem Job imagines that God is constantly punishing human beings for their misdeeds.

And [d]bring [2]me to judgment with Yourself?
4 Who [e]can bring a clean thing out of an unclean?
No one!
5 [f]Since his days are determined,
The number of his months is with You;
You have appointed his limits, so that he cannot pass.
6 [g]Look away from him that he may [3]rest,
Till [h]like a hired man he finishes his day.

7 "For there is hope for a tree,
If it is cut down, that it will sprout again,
And that its tender shoots will not cease.
8 Though its root may grow old in the earth,
And its stump may die in the ground,
9 Yet at the scent of water it will bud
And bring forth branches like a plant.
10 But man dies and [4]is laid away;
Indeed he [5]breathes his last
And where is [i]he?
11 As water disappears from the sea,
And a river becomes parched and dries up,
12 So man lies down and does not rise.
[j]Till the heavens are no more,
They will not awake
Nor be roused from their sleep.

13 "Oh, that You would hide me in the grave,
That You would conceal me until Your wrath is past,
That You would appoint me a set time, and remember me!
14 If a man dies, shall he live again?
All the days of my hard service [k]I will wait,
Till my change comes.
15 [l]You shall call, and I will answer You;
You shall desire the work of Your hands.
16 For now [m]You number my steps,
But do not watch over my sin.
17 [n]My transgression is sealed up in a bag,
And You [6]cover my iniquity.

18 "But as a mountain falls and crumbles away,
And as a rock is moved from its place;
19 As water wears away stones,
And as torrents wash away the soil of the earth;
So You destroy the hope of man.
20 You prevail forever against him, and he passes on;
You change his countenance and send him away.
21 His sons come to honor, and [o]he does not know it;
They are brought low, and he does not perceive it.
22 But his flesh will be in pain over it,
And his soul will mourn over it."

■ 14:7–22 Having concluded that death is the only escape from suffering, Job suggests that God let him die and then raise him up after His anger has cooled down. The reader, however, knows God was not angry to begin with. This chapter does not clearly teach a doctrine of resurrection, but it shows that the subject was in people's minds.

■ 14:13 that You would hide me in the grave. Job is doubtful that God will inflict a temporary death, and He concludes that He will not. But he believes in God's ability to do it.

■ 14:14 I will wait. Here, and in succeeding verses, some translate "will" as "would" (e.g., "I would wait" and "You would call" [v. 15]).

change. A form of the word translated "sprout again" in v. 7.

■ 14:18–22 Job finally concludes that the world will go on as it has in the past, and those suffering like him will continue to have little hope. He declares that God goes so far as to destroy man's hope (v. 19).

Eliphaz Accuses Job of Folly

15 Then [a]Eliphaz the Temanite answered and said:

2 "Should a wise man answer with empty knowledge,
And fill [1]himself with the east wind?
3 Should he reason with unprofitable talk,
Or by speeches with which he can do no good?
4 Yes, you cast off fear,
And restrain [2]prayer before God.
5 For your iniquity teaches your mouth,
And you choose the tongue of the crafty.
6 [b]Your own mouth condemns you, and not I;
Yes, your own lips testify against you.

7 "Are you the first man who was born?
[c]Or were you made before the hills?
8 [d]Have you heard the counsel of God?
Do you limit wisdom to yourself?
9 [e]What do you know that we do not know?
What do you understand that is not in us?
10 [f]Both the gray-haired and the aged are among us,
Much older than your father.
11 Are the consolations of God too small for you,
And the word spoken [3]gently with you?
12 Why does your heart carry you away,
And [4]what do your eyes wink at,
13 That you turn your spirit against God,
And let such words go out of your mouth?

14 "What[g] is man, that he could be pure?
And he who is born of a woman, that he could be righteous?
15 [h]If God puts no trust in His saints,
And the heavens are not pure in His sight,
16 [i]How much less man, who is abominable and filthy,
[j]Who drinks iniquity like water!

17 "I will tell you, hear me;
What I have seen I will declare,
18 What wise men have told,
Not hiding anything received [k]from their fathers,
19 To whom alone the [5]land was given,
And [l]no alien passed among them:
20 The wicked man writhes with pain all his days,
[m]And the number of years is hidden from the oppressor.
21 [6]Dreadful sounds are in his ears;
[n]In prosperity the destroyer comes upon him.
22 He does not believe that he will [o]return from darkness,
For a sword is waiting for him.
23 He [p]wanders about for bread, saying, 'Where is it?'
He knows [q]that a day of darkness is ready at his hand.
24 Trouble and anguish make him afraid;

■ 15:1–35 Eliphaz begins the second cycle of speeches (15:1—21:34), moving away from the tactful approach he used in chs. 4; 5.

■ 15:3 speeches with which he can do no good. It is more than peer pressure that has moved Eliphaz. It was the additional raging that he heard coming from Job's lips.

■ 15:7, 8 This list of rhetorical questions drips with sarcasm. In v. 8 Eliphaz returns to Job the very sarcasm Job used on him in 12:2.

■ 15:9 He continues to answer Job using Job's own words. Cf. 12:3; 13:2.

■ 15:10 Job's irony in 12:12 is not lost on Eliphaz. He assures Job that all the elders are on their side, not his.

■ 15:14, 15 Eliphaz harks back to the oracle he received in 4:17. Compare vv. 15, 16 with 4:18, 19.

They overpower him, like a king ready for [7]battle.
25 For he stretches out his hand against God,
And acts defiantly against the Almighty,
26 Running stubbornly against Him
With his strong, embossed shield.

27 "Though[r] he has covered his face with his fatness,
And made his waist heavy with fat,
28 He dwells in desolate cities,
In houses which no one inhabits,
Which are destined to become ruins.
29 He will not be rich,
Nor will his wealth [s]continue,
Nor will his possessions overspread the earth.
30 He will not depart from darkness;
The flame will dry out his branches,
And [t]by the breath of His mouth he will go away.
31 Let him not [u]trust in futile things, deceiving himself,
For futility will be his reward.
32 It will be accomplished [v]before his time,
And his branch will not be green.
33 He will shake off his unripe grape like a vine,
And cast off his blossom like an olive tree.
34 For the company of hypocrites will be barren,
And fire will consume the tents of bribery.
35 [w]They conceive trouble and bring forth futility;
Their womb prepares deceit."

Job Reproaches His Pitiless Friends

16 Then Job answered and said:

2 "I have heard many such things;
[a]Miserable[1] comforters are you all!
3 Shall [2]words of wind have an end?
Or what provokes you that you answer?
4 I also could speak as you do,
If your soul were in my soul's place.
I could heap up words against you,
And [b]shake my head at you;
5 But I would strengthen you with my mouth,
And the comfort of my lips would relieve your grief.

6 "Though I speak, my grief is not relieved;
And if I remain silent, how am I eased?
7 But now He has [c]worn me out;
You [d]have made desolate all my company.
8 You have shriveled me up,
And it is a [e]witness against me;
My leanness rises up against me
And bears witness to my face.
9 [f]He tears me in His wrath, and hates me;
He gnashes at me with His teeth;
[g]My adversary sharpens His gaze on me.

They [i]strike me reproachfully on the cheek,

■ 15:30–35 A grim poetic description of what the counselors mean by perishing.

■ 16:1—17:16 Job dismisses Eliphaz's harangue as a sickening repetition of a defective perspective on suffering.

■ 16:3 that you answer. Job has grown weary, not of the length of their speeches, but of their failure to say anything helpful.

■ 16:8–14 Again Job imagines God is his adversary. In v. 9 the figure is that of a lion. In vv. 12–14 a graphic warrior figure is employed.

They gather together against me.
11 God [j]has delivered me to the ungodly,
And turned me over to the hands of the wicked.
12 I was at ease, but He has [k]shattered me;
He also has taken me by my neck, and shaken me to pieces;
He has [l]set me up for His target,
13 His archers surround me.
He pierces my [3]heart and does not pity;
He pours out my gall on the ground.
14 He breaks me with wound upon wound;
He runs at me like a [4]warrior.

15 "I have sewn sackcloth over my skin,
And [m]laid my [5]head in the dust.
16 My face is [6]flushed from weeping,
And on my eyelids is the shadow of death;
17 Although no violence is in my hands,
And my prayer is pure.

18 "O earth, do not cover my blood,
And [n]let my cry have no resting place!
19 Surely even now [o]my witness is in heaven,
And my evidence is on high.
20 My friends scorn me;
My eyes pour out tears to God.
21 [p]Oh, that one might plead for a man with God,
As a man pleads for his [7]neighbor!
22 For when a few years are finished,
I shall [q]go the way of no return.

Job Prays for Relief

17 "My spirit is broken,
My days are extinguished,
[a]The grave is ready for me.
2 Are not mockers with me?

3 "Now put down a pledge for me with Yourself.
Who is he who [c]will shake hands with me?
4 For You have hidden their heart from [d]understanding;
Therefore You will not exalt them.
5 He who speaks flattery to his friends,
Even the eyes of his children will [e]fail.

6 "But He has made me [f]a byword of the people,
And I have become one in whose face men spit.
7 [g]My eye has also grown dim because of sorrow,
And all my members are like shadows.

■ 16:18 The earth is personified as a witness to Job's suffering.

■ 16:19 Job believes he has a witness in heaven, a notion that was summarily dismissed by Eliphaz in 5:1. But now the thought has tremendous meaning for Job.

■ 16:22 This verse goes better with ch. 17 (cf. 13:8 note). This is a reminder that the chapter divisions are not original. Job longs for death as a release from his constant pain (14:13), although he expects to live "a few years" longer.

■ 17:3 Job wants God to vindicate him, i.e., to prove to the counselors that he is in the right.

■ 17:4 their heart. That is, the minds of the counselors.

■ 17:6 Since God has not vindicated him, he continues to hold God responsible for his frightful condition. Cf. 30:10.

■ 17:7 The symptoms of his disease included boils, other skin problems, and nightmares (2:7; 7:5, 14). Here and in 19:20 there is loss of weight; and in 19:17, bad breath, in 30:30, fever; and in 30:17, pain day and night.

8 Upright men are astonished at this,
And the innocent stirs himself up against the hypocrite.
9 Yet the righteous will hold to his [h]way,
And he who has [i]clean hands will be stronger and stronger.

10 "But please, [j]come back again, [2]all of you,
For I shall not find one wise man among you.
11 [k]My days are past,
My purposes are broken off,
Even the [3]thoughts of my heart.
12 They change the night into day;
'The light is near,' they say, in the face of darkness.
13 If I wait for the grave as my house,
If I make my bed in the darkness,
14 If I say to corruption, 'You are my father,'
And to the worm, 'You are my mother and my sister,'
15 Where then is my [l]hope?
As for my hope, who can see it?
16 Will they go down [m]to the gates of [4]Sheol?
Shall we have [n]rest together in the dust?"

Bildad: The Wicked Are Punished

18 Then [a]Bildad the Shuhite answered and said:

2 "How long till you put an end to words?
Gain understanding, and afterward we will speak.
3 Why are we counted [b]as beasts,
And regarded as stupid in your sight?
4 [c]You[1] who tear yourself in anger,
Shall the earth be forsaken for you?
Or shall the rock be removed from its place?

5 "The[d] light of the wicked indeed goes out,
And the flame of his fire does not shine.
6 The light is dark in his tent,
[e]And his lamp beside him is put out.
7 The steps of his strength are shortened,
And [f]his own counsel casts him down.
8 For [g]he is cast into a net by his own feet,
And he walks into a snare.
9 The net takes him by the heel,
And [h]a snare lays hold of him.
10 A noose is hidden for him on the ground,
And a trap for him in the road.
11 [i]Terrors frighten him on every side,
And drive him to his feet.
12 His strength is starved,
And [j]destruction is ready at his side.
13 It devours patches of his skin;
The firstborn of death devours his [2]limbs.
14 He is uprooted from [k]the shelter of his tent,
And they parade him before the king of terrors.

14 [k]Job 11:20

■ 17:12 Job appears to remember Zophar's words in 11:17.

■ 18:1–21 Bildad accuses Job, impatiently repeating his earlier exposition on the destiny of the wicked (cf. 8:8–19).

■ 18:2–4 Bildad opens his speech with a heartless rebuke of one who is suffering greatly. He has not changed his argument.

■ 18:14 the king of terrors. The Canaanites understood death as a god whose one lip touched the earth and the other the heavens, so that he swallowed up everything. According to Bildad, "the firstborn of death" following in the footsteps of his father, eats away the skin and devours the limbs of the wicked. According to Is. 25:8, the Lord will "swallow up death forever" (1 Cor. 15:54).

17 [m]The memory of him perishes from the earth,
And he has no name [3]among the renowned.
18 [4]He is driven from light into darkness,
And chased out of the world.
19 [n]He has neither son nor posterity among his people,
Nor any remaining in his dwellings.
20 Those [5]in the west are astonished [o]at his day,
As those [6]in the east are frightened.
21 Surely such are the dwellings of the wicked,
And this is the place of him who [p]does not know God."

Job Trusts in His Redeemer

19 Then Job answered and said:

2 "How long will you torment my soul,
And break me in pieces with words?
3 These ten times you have [1]reproached me;
You are not ashamed that you [2]have wronged me.
4 And if indeed I have erred,
My error remains with me.
5 If indeed you [a]exalt yourselves against me,
And plead my disgrace against me,
6 Know then that [b]God has wronged me,
And has surrounded me with His net.

7 "If I cry out concerning [3]wrong, I am not heard.
If I cry aloud, there is no justice.
8 [c]He has [4]fenced up my way, so that I cannot pass;
And He has set darkness in my paths.
9 [d]He has stripped me of my glory.
And taken the crown from my head.
10 He breaks me down on every side,
And I am gone;
My [e]hope He has uprooted like a tree.
11 He has also kindled His wrath against me,
And [f]He counts me as one of His enemies.
12 His troops come together
And build up their road against me;
They encamp all around my tent.

13 "He[g] has removed my brothers far from me,
And my acquaintances are completely estranged from me.
14 My relatives have failed,
And my close friends have forgotten me.
15 Those who dwell in my house, and my maidservants,
Count me as a stranger;
I am an alien in their sight.
16 I call my servant, but he gives no answer;
I beg him with my mouth.
17 My breath is offensive to my wife,
And I am [5]repulsive to the children of my own body.

■ 19:1–29 In ch. 19 Job accuses God of wronging him and not listening to his plea for justice (vv. 6, 7), of stripping him of honor and attacking him (vv. 9–12), and of alienating his kinsmen and friends (vv. 13–20). Job was wrong on all points. He was wrestling with God over the apparent meaninglessness of his suffering that was actually the work of the Adversary, but ordained by the Lord to accomplish a higher purpose. The counselors, on the other hand, had reduced God and His acts to an impersonal formula. They were incapable of empathy with the agony of Job's predicament or of showing him any mercy.

18 Even [h]young children despise me;
I arise, and they speak against me.
19 [i]All my close friends abhor me,
And those whom I love have turned against me.
20 [j]My bone clings to my skin and to my flesh,
And I have escaped by the skin of my teeth.

21 "Have pity on me, have pity on me, O you my friends,
For the hand of God has struck me!
22 Why do you [k]persecute me as God does,
And are not satisfied with my flesh?

23 "Oh, that my words were written!
Oh, that they were inscribed in a book!
24 That they were engraved on a rock
With an iron pen and lead, forever!
25 For I know that my Redeemer lives,
And He shall stand at last on the earth;
26 And after my skin is [6]destroyed, this I know,
That [l]in my flesh I shall see God,
27 Whom I shall see for myself,
And my eyes shall behold, and not another.
How my [7]heart yearns within me!
28 If you should say, 'How shall we persecute him?'—
Since the root of the matter is found in me,
29 Be afraid of the sword for yourselves;
For wrath brings the punishment of the sword,
That you may know there is a judgment."

Zophar's Sermon on the Wicked Man

20 Then [a]Zophar the Naamathite answered and said:

2 "Therefore my anxious thoughts make me answer,
Because of the turmoil within me.
3 I have heard the rebuke [1]that reproaches me,
And the spirit of my understanding causes me to answer.

4 "Do you not know this of [b]old,
Since man was placed on earth,
5 [c]That the triumphing of the wicked is short,
And the joy of the hypocrite is but for a [d]moment?
6 [e]Though his haughtiness mounts up to the heavens,
And his head reaches to the clouds,
7 Yet he will perish forever like his own refuse;

5 [c]Ps. 37:35, 36 [d][Job 8:13; 13:16; 15:34; 27:8]

6 [e]Is. 14:13, 14

■ 19:20 the skin of my teeth. This idiom has entered the English language through the Bible, but it is hard to see how the figure suggests a narrow escape. Some suggest that the phrase means "with only my skin or gums remaining." His teeth would be lost.

■ 19:21 Job needed heartfelt friendship (6:14), but nothing of the sort was possible from his counselors who only added to his misery.

■ 19:23, 24 Job has an important message that he wants permanently inscribed for posterity. Through the inspiration of the Spirit his words are preserved for all time in the Bible (cf. Mark 14:9).

■ 19:25 I know that my Redeemer lives. The Hebrew word translated "Redeemer" can also be rendered "Avenger," "Guarantor," "Vindicator," or "Kinsman-Redeemer" (Ruth 2:20 note). Job's words are clear, but from his perspective, who does he expect to help him? The prologue reveals that God was not Job's enemy. Indeed, God will become his vindicator (42:7). Job seems to be thinking of the Redeemer as a third party (16:19–21).

He shall stand at last on the earth. In Job's mind this Vindicator will be both heavenly (16:19) and earthly (able to stand on the earth).

■ 19:26 in my flesh. The meaning of the preposition "in" could be either "in" my flesh or "apart from" my flesh. Since the book does touch on the idea of resurrection in ch. 14, it seems likely that when death is spoken of in v. 26, resurrection is in mind here, and the translation should be "in" my flesh. What is certain is that Job believes he has a Redeemer who loves him and for whom his heart yearns (v. 27). The whole passage is strongly evocative of every sinner's need for the one Mediator who is both God and man (1 Tim. 2:5, 6).

■ 20:1–29 Ch. 20 is another eloquent statement of the fate of the wicked. In it, Zophar expresses the truth of the moral governance of the world by God, but fails to make a correct application of it.

■ 20:2 the turmoil within me. Job's closing words in 19:28, 29 have not been lost on Zophar.

Those who have seen him will say, 'Where is he?'
8 He will fly away [f]like a dream, and not be found;
Yes, he [g]will be chased away like a vision of the night.
9 The eye that saw him will see him no more,
Nor will his place behold him anymore.
10 His children will seek the favor of the poor,
And his hands will restore his wealth.
11 His bones are full of [h]his youthful vigor,
[i]But it will lie down with him in the dust.

12 "Though evil is sweet in his mouth,
And he hides it under his tongue,
13 Though he spares it and does not forsake it,
But still keeps it in his [2]mouth,
14 Yet his food in his stomach turns sour;
It becomes cobra venom within him.
15 He swallows down riches
And vomits them up again;
God casts them out of his belly.
16 He will suck the poison of cobras;
The viper's tongue will slay him.
17 He will not see [j]the streams,
The rivers flowing with honey and cream.
18 He will restore that for which he labored,
And will not swallow it down;
From the proceeds of business
He will get no enjoyment.
19 For he has [3]oppressed and forsaken the poor,
He has violently seized a house which he did not build.

20 "Because[k] he knows no quietness in his [4]heart,
He will not save anything he desires.
21 Nothing is left for him to eat;
Therefore his well-being will not last.
22 In his self-sufficiency he will be in distress;
Every hand of [5]misery will come against him.
23 When he is about to fill his stomach,
God will cast on him the fury of His wrath,
And will rain it on him while he is eating.
24 [l]He will flee from the iron weapon;
A bronze bow will pierce him through.
25 It is drawn, and comes out of the body;
Yes, [m]the glittering point comes out of his [6]gall.
[n]Terrors come upon him;
26 Total darkness is reserved for his treasures.
[o]An unfanned fire will consume him;
It shall go ill with him who is left in his tent.
27 The heavens will reveal his iniquity,
And the earth will rise up against him.
28 The increase of his house will depart,
And his goods will flow away in the day of His [p]wrath.
29 [q]This is the portion from God for a wicked man,
The heritage appointed to him by God."

■ 20:29 This is the portion from God for a wicked man. What Zophar teaches will ultimately come to pass, but sadly, he has no word to say about God's mercy. Even in his earlier speech in 11:13–20, where he called on Job to change his ways, there is no mention of mercy. People get God's blessing, according to Zophar, only by earning it.

Job's Discourse on the Wicked

21 Then Job answered and said:

2 "Listen carefully to my speech,
And let this be your [1]consolation.
3 Bear with me that I may speak,
And after I have spoken, keep [a]mocking.

4 "As for me, is my complaint against man?
And if it were, why should I not be impatient?
5 Look at me and be astonished;
[b]Put your hand over your mouth.
6 Even when I remember I am terrified,
And trembling takes hold of my flesh.
7 [c]Why do the wicked live and become old,
Yes, become mighty in power?
8 Their descendants are established with them in their sight,
And their offspring before their eyes.
9 Their houses are safe from fear,
[d]Neither is [2]the rod of God upon them.
10 Their bull breeds without failure;
Their cow calves [e]without miscarriage.
11 They send forth their little ones like a flock,
And their children dance.
12 They sing to the tambourine and harp,
And rejoice to the sound of the flute.
13 They [f]spend their days in wealth,
And [3]in a moment go down to the [4]grave.
14 [g]Yet they say to God, 'Depart from us,
For we do not desire the knowledge of Your ways.
15 [h]Who is the Almighty, that we should serve Him?
And [i]what profit do we have if we pray to Him?'
16 Indeed [5]their prosperity is not in their hand;
[j]The counsel of the wicked is far from me.

17 "How often is the lamp of the wicked put out?
How often does their destruction come upon them,
The sorrows God [k]distributes in His anger?
18 [l]They are like straw before the wind,
And like chaff that a storm [6]carries away.
19 They say, 'God [7]lays up [8]one's iniquity [m]for his children';
Let Him recompense him, that he may know it.
20 Let his eyes see his destruction,
And [n]let him drink of the wrath of the Almighty.
21 For what does he care about his household after him,
When the number of his months is cut in half?

22 "Can[o] anyone teach God knowledge,
Since He judges those on high?
23 One dies in his full strength,
Being wholly at ease and secure;
24 His [9]pails are full of milk,

■ 21:1–34 Job closes this second cycle with a firm rejection of the friends' arguments that the wicked always suffer. Note how he alludes to their very words. Cf. 20:11 with 21:7; 8:19 with 21:8; 18:5 with 21:17; 5:4 and 20:10 with 21:19; 20:5–7 with 21:28–30.

■ 21:5 Look at me and be astonished; Put your hand over your mouth. If they had any compassion, Job thinks that they would stop accusing him and lying about him.

■ 21:7 Why do the wicked live. Job admits that he is perplexed. He has no answer. The counselors assumed they knew exactly what was going on (cf. John 9:41).

■ 21:22 Can anyone teach God knowledge. Job's high view of God only makes his problem more perplexing.

And the marrow of his bones is moist.
25 Another man dies in the bitterness of his soul,
Never having eaten with pleasure.
26 They [p]lie down alike in the dust,
And worms cover them.

27 "Look, I know your thoughts,
And the schemes with which you would wrong me.
28 For you say,
'Where is the house of the prince?
And where is [1]the tent,
The dwelling place of the wicked?'
29 Have you not asked those who travel the road?
And do you not know their signs?
30 [q]For the wicked are reserved for the day of doom;
They shall be brought out on the day of wrath.
31 Who condemns his way to his face?
And who repays him for what he has done?
32 Yet he shall be brought to the grave,
And a vigil kept over the tomb.
33 The clods of the valley shall be sweet to him;
[r]Everyone shall follow him,
As countless have gone before him.
34 How then can you comfort me with empty words,
Since [2]falsehood remains in your answers?"

Eliphaz Accuses Job of Wickedness

22 Then [a]Eliphaz the Temanite answered and said:

2 "Can[b] a man be profitable to God,
Though he who is wise may be profitable to himself?
3 Is it any pleasure to the Almighty that you are righteous?
Or is it gain to Him that you make your ways blameless?

4 "Is it because of your fear of Him that He corrects you,
And enters into judgment with you?
5 Is not your wickedness great,
And your iniquity without end?
6 For you have [c]taken pledges from your brother for no reason,
And stripped the naked of their clothing.
7 You have not given the weary water to drink,
And you [d]have withheld bread from the hungry.
8 But the [1]mighty man possessed the land,
And the honorable man dwelt in it.
9 You have sent widows away empty,
And the [2]strength of the fatherless was crushed.
10 Therefore snares are all around you,
And sudden fear troubles you,
11 Or darkness so that you cannot see;
And an abundance of [e]water covers you.

12 "Is not God in the height of heaven?

■ 22:1–30 Eliphaz begins the third cycle of speeches (22:1—26:14) listing Job's sins and calling on him to repent.

■ 22:2, 3 Eliphaz reacts to Job's statement that God allows wickedness to go unpunished, and he also says that human uprightness adds nothing to Him.

■ 22:3 The sense may be, "Would it please God if you were vindicated?"

■ 22:5 Eliphaz reached the conclusion Zophar and Bildad had already expressed—that Job's sins are endless.

■ 22:6–11 Here is a direct personal attack on Job for specific sins, especially social sins against the poor and widows. Later Job will emphasize his social righteousness (chs. 29, 31).

■ 22:12–14 Eliphaz attacks Job's complaint that God is absent (13:24).

13 And you say, [f]'What does God know?
Can He judge through the deep darkness?
14 [g]Thick clouds cover Him, so that He cannot see,
And He walks above the circle of heaven.'
15 Will you keep to the old way
Which wicked men have trod,
16 Who [h]were cut down before their time,
Whose foundations were swept away by a flood?
17 [i]They said to God, 'Depart from us!
What can the Almighty do to [3]them?'
18 Yet He filled their houses with good things;
But the counsel of the wicked is far from me.

19 "The[j] righteous see it and are glad,
And the innocent laugh at them:
20 'Surely our [4]adversaries are cut down,
And the fire consumes their remnant.'

21 "Now acquaint yourself with Him, and [k]be at peace;
Thereby good will come to you.
22 Receive, please, [l]instruction from His mouth,
And [m]lay up His words in your heart.
23 If you return to the Almighty, you will be built up;
You will remove iniquity far from your tents.
24 Then you will [n]lay your gold in the dust,
And the gold of Ophir among the stones of the brooks.
25 Yes, the Almighty will be your [5]gold
And your precious silver;
26 For then you will have your [o]delight in the Almighty,
And lift up your face to God.
27 [p]You will make your prayer to Him,
He will hear you,
And you will pay your vows.
28 You will also declare a thing,
And it will be established for you;
So light will shine on your ways.
29 When they cast you down, and you say, 'Exaltation will come!'
Then [q]He will save the humble person.
30 He will even deliver one who is not innocent;
Yes, he will be delivered by the purity of your hands."

Job Proclaims God's Righteous Judgments

23 Then Job answered and said:

2 "Even today my [a]complaint is bitter;
[1]My hand is listless because of my groaning.
3 [b]Oh, that I knew where I might find Him,
That I might come to His seat!
4 I would present my case before Him,
And fill my mouth with arguments.
5 I would know the words which He would answer me,
And understand what He would say to me.
6 [c]Would He contend with me in His great power?
No! But He would take note of me.

3 [b]Job 13:3, 18; 16:21; 31:35
6 [c]Is. 57:16

It is not unnatural for Job, in the midst of suffering, to complain that God is either too observant and intrusive to leave him alone (7:17–19; 10:8; 16:9), or too far away.

■ 23:1–12 Job's thoughts vacillate. In ch. 9 he doubted God would give him a hearing. In ch. 13 he is convinced he will get a hearing and be vindicated. In 17:1 he is convinced only death awaits him, but also his counselors will not triumph and he will be vindicated (17:10–16). That conviction reaches its zenith in 19:25–27, and from then on he never again doubts it, as these verses and especially ch. 31 prove.

7 There the upright could reason with Him,
And I would be delivered forever from my Judge.

8 "Look,[d] I go forward, but He is not there,
And backward, but I cannot perceive Him;
9 When He works on the left hand, I cannot behold Him;
When He turns to the right hand, I cannot see Him.
10 But [e]He knows the way that I take;
When [f]He has tested me, I shall come forth as gold.
11 [g]My foot has held fast to His steps;
I have kept His way and not turned aside.
12 I have not departed from the [h]commandment of His lips;
[i]I have treasured the words of His mouth
More than my [2]necessary food.

13 "But He is unique, and who can make Him change?
And whatever [j]His soul desires, that He does.
14 For He performs what is [k]appointed for me,
And many such things are with Him.
15 Therefore I am terrified at His presence;
When I consider this, I am afraid of Him.
16 For God [l]made my heart weak,
And the Almighty terrifies me;
17 Because I was not [m]cut off [3]from the presence of darkness,
And He did not hide deep darkness from my face.

Job Complains of Violence on the Earth

24 "Since [a]times are not hidden from the Almighty,
Why do those who know Him see not His [b]days?

2 "Some remove [c]landmarks;
They seize flocks violently and feed on them;
3 They drive away the donkey of the fatherless;
They [d]take the widow's ox as a pledge.
4 They push the needy off the road;
All the [e]poor of the land are forced to hide.
5 Indeed, like wild donkeys in the desert,
They go out to their work, searching for food.
The wilderness yields food for them and for their children.
6 They gather their fodder in the field
And glean in the vineyard of the wicked.
7 They [f]spend the night naked, without clothing,
And have no covering in the cold.
8 They are wet with the showers of the mountains,
And [g]huddle around the rock for want of shelter.

9 "Some snatch the fatherless from the breast,
And take a pledge from the poor.
10 They cause the poor to go naked, without [h]clothing;
And they take away the sheaves from the hungry.
11 They press out oil within their walls,
And tread winepresses, yet suffer thirst.

■ 23:8 Job's God is invisible but He has an all-seeing eye (v. 10).

■ 24:1–25 Job has not yet learned the important lesson that justice does not operate mechanically in this world, but according to the divine will. If it were not so, the human race would have perished long ago. This chapter alternates between descriptions of the fortunate wicked and the sufferings of their victims, with emphasis on the sufferings. Job wants the wicked to be judged so that those who know God will see it and know that God is just. The chapter shows Job's hatred of wickedness.

And the souls of the wounded cry out;
Yet God does not charge them with wrong.

13 "There are those who rebel against the light;
They do not know its ways
Nor abide in its paths.
14 [i]The murderer rises with the light;
He kills the poor and needy;
And in the night he is like a thief.
15 [j]The eye of the adulterer waits for the twilight,
[k]Saying, 'No eye will see me';
And he [l]disguises his face.
16 In the dark they break into houses
Which they marked for themselves in the daytime;
[l]They do not know the light.
17 For the morning is the same to them as the shadow of death;
If someone recognizes them,
They are in the terrors of the shadow of death.

18 "They should be swift on the face of the waters,
Their portion should be cursed in the earth,
So that no one would turn into the way of their vineyards.
19 As drought and heat [2]consume the snow waters,
So [3]the grave consumes those who have sinned.
20 The womb should forget him,
The worm should feed sweetly on him;
[m]He should be remembered no more,
And wickedness should be broken like a tree.
21 For he [4]preys on the barren who do not bear,
And does no good for the widow.

22 "But God draws the mighty away with His power;
He rises up, but no man is sure of life.
23 He gives them security, and they rely on it;
Yet [n]His eyes are on their ways.
24 They are exalted for a little while,
Then they are gone.
They are brought low;
They are [5]taken out of the way like all others;
They dry out like the heads of grain.

25 "Now if it is not so, who will prove me a liar,
And make my speech worth nothing?"

3 [b]James 1:17 [l]Can His armies be counted?

■ 24:18–24 Some think these words are an unannounced quotation from the counselors since the views expressed here seem more consistent with their positions than Job's. Others think the whole chapter is an attempt by early editors to make Job sound more orthodox. But Job may have a reason for seeming to adopt the counselor's argument.

■ 24:23, 24 These verses must be connected with v. 1 in order to understand the point of the chapter. Job is trying to show that, though the wicked are punished, it takes place little by little (vv. 23, 24), while what the righteous want to see is justice meted out completely. Job's thought anticipates the "day of the LORD" doctrine of the prophets, which looks for the final judgment day.

■ 25:1–6 Bildad makes no new argument, but repeats what has already been said about God's dominion, power, and purity.

CHAPTER 27

2 [a]Job 34:5

4 [c]How then can man be righteous before God?
Or how can he be [d]pure who is born of a woman?
5 If even the moon does not shine,
And the stars are not pure in His [e]sight,
6 How much less man, who is [f]a maggot,
And a son of man, who is a worm?"

Job: Man's Frailty and God's Majesty

26 But Job answered and said:

2 "How have you helped him who is without power?
How have you saved the arm that has no strength?
3 How have you counseled one who has no wisdom?
And how have you declared sound advice to many?
4 To whom have you uttered words?
And whose spirit came from you?

5 "The dead tremble,
Those under the waters and those inhabiting them.
6 [a]Sheol is naked before Him,
And Destruction has no covering.
7 [b]He stretches out the north over empty space;
He hangs the earth on nothing.
8 [c]He binds up the water in His thick clouds,
Yet the clouds [1]are not broken under it.
9 He covers the face of His throne,
And spreads His cloud over it.
10 [d]He drew a circular horizon on the face of the waters,
At the boundary of light and darkness.
11 The pillars of heaven tremble,
And are [2]astonished at His rebuke.
12 [e]He stirs up the sea with His power,
And by His understanding He breaks up [3]the storm.
13 [f]By His Spirit He adorned the heavens;
His hand pierced [g]the fleeing serpent.
14 Indeed these are the mere edges of His ways,
And how small a whisper we hear of Him!
But the thunder of His power who can understand?"

Job Maintains His Integrity

27 Moreover Job continued his discourse, and said:

2 "As God lives, [a]who has taken away my justice,

■ 25:4 be righteous before God. Human impurity is a given, but what is missing here is a hint of grace. Paul, who developed the doctrine of the total depravity of man in Romans, did so as a background for God's marvelous grace. Bildad does not think in terms of grace.

■ 25:5, 6 a maggot . . . a worm. Bildad risks overstating the depth of human worthlessness because he has a pessimistic view of man (cf. Eliphaz in 15:14–16). The doctrine of total depravity is not pessimistic. Even in sin human beings retain the image of God, giving each person dignity and value.

■ 26:1–14 This chapter falls into distinct parts: vv. 1–4 and vv. 5–14. This has led some to say that only the opening verses are the words of Job. Notice the ironic use of rhetorical questions ending with the suggestion (v.4) that his counselors represent some outside source.

■ 26:5–14 These verses celebrate God's omnipotence. They are not unlike Job's words in 9:5–10, and need not be assigned, as they sometimes are, to one of the counselors.

■ 26:5, 6 Unlike the Canaanite gods, who each had a restricted domain of power, the true God is Lord even of Sheol (Prov. 15:11), the supposed domain of Mot, the god of death.

■ 26:7, 8 Job's purpose here is not to teach the science of space or weather. but to glorify God through the mysteries of His work in nature.

■ 26:11 The pillars of heaven. Here possibly is a reference to the mountains, that often reach into the clouds and appear to support the sky.

■ 26:12 stirs up the sea. God rules the supposed dominion of Yam, the Canaanite god of the sea. Jesus Christ showed He was the true God of His ancient people when He calmed the sea in Matt. 8:23–27.

the storm. In Hebrew, "Rahab," a mystical Canaanite monster of the deep, similar to Leviathan. This poetic imagery enriches the concept of God's great power over the boisterous sea (Ps. 89:9, 10).

■ 27:1–12 These verses are directed at the counselors. With an oath founded on God's existence, Job denies their false accusations, and at the same time asserts his integrity.

And the Almighty, who has made my soul bitter,
3 As long as my breath is in me,
And the breath of God in my nostrils,
4 My lips will not speak wickedness,
Nor my tongue utter deceit.
5 Far be it from me
That I should say you are right;
Till I die [b]I will not put away my integrity from me.
6 My righteousness I [c]hold fast, and will not let it go;
[d]My heart shall not [1]reproach me as long as I live.

7 "May my enemy be like the wicked,
And he who rises up against me like the unrighteous.
8 [e]For what is the hope of the hypocrite,
Though he may gain much,
If God takes away his life?
9 [f]Will God hear his cry
When trouble comes upon him?
10 [g]Will he delight himself in the Almighty?
Will he always call on God?

11 "I will teach you [2]about the hand of God;
What is with the Almighty I will not conceal.
12 Surely all of you have seen it;
Why then do you behave with complete nonsense?

13 "This[h] is the portion of a wicked man with God,
And the heritage of oppressors, received from the Almighty:
14 [i]If his children are multiplied, it is for the sword;
And his offspring shall not be satisfied with bread.
15 Those who survive him shall be buried in death,
And [j]their[3] widows shall not weep,
16 Though he heaps up silver like dust,
And piles up clothing like clay—
17 He may pile it up, but [k]the just will wear it,
And the innocent will divide the silver.
18 He builds his house like a [4]moth,
[l]Like a [5]booth which a watchman makes.
19 The rich man will lie down,
[6]But not be gathered up;
He opens his eyes,
And he is [m]no more.
20 [n]Terrors overtake him like a flood;
A tempest steals him away in the night.
21 The east wind carries him away, and he is gone;
It sweeps him out of his place.
22 It hurls against him and does not [o]spare;
He flees desperately from its [7]power.
23 Men shall clap their hands at him,
And shall hiss him out of his place.

■ 28:1–28 The new form of ch. 28 indicates that the disputation or dialogue is over. Now a different type of wisdom literature is presented: the

2 Iron is taken from the [1]earth,
And copper is smelted from ore.
3 Man puts an end to darkness,
And searches every recess
For ore in the darkness and the shadow of death.
4 He breaks open a shaft away from people;
In places forgotten by feet
They hang far away from men;
They swing to and fro.
5 As for the earth, from it comes bread,
But underneath it is turned up as by fire;
6 Its stones are the source of sapphires,
And it contains gold dust.
7 That path no bird knows,
Nor has the falcon's eye seen it.
8 The [2]proud lions have not trodden it,
Nor has the fierce lion passed over it.
9 He puts his hand on the flint;
He overturns the mountains [3]at the roots.
10 He cuts out channels in the rocks,
And his eye sees every precious thing.
11 He dams up the streams from trickling;
What is hidden he brings forth to light.

12 "But[a] where can wisdom be found?
And where is the place of understanding?
13 Man does not know its [b]value,
Nor is it found in the land of the living.
14 [c]The deep says, 'It is not in me';
And the sea says, 'It is not with me.'
15 It [d]cannot be purchased for gold,
Nor can silver be weighed for its price.
16 It cannot be valued in the gold of Ophir,
In precious onyx or sapphire.
17 Neither [e]gold nor crystal can equal it,
Nor can it be exchanged for [4]jewelry of fine gold.
18 No mention shall be made of [5]coral or quartz,
For the price of wisdom is above [f]rubies.
19 The topaz of Ethiopia cannot equal it,
Nor can it be valued in pure [g]gold.

20 "From[h] where then does wisdom come?
And where is the place of understanding?
21 It is hidden from the eyes of all living,
And concealed from the birds of the [6]air.
22 [i]Destruction[7] and Death say,
'We have heard a report about it with our ears.'
23 God understands its way,
And He knows its place.
24 For He looks to the ends of the earth,
And [j]sees under the whole heavens,
25 [k]To establish a weight for the wind,
And apportion the waters by measure.

standard wisdom like that of the Book of Proverbs. The author of Job reflects on the lack of wisdom displayed so far in the dialogue. The subject is the elusiveness of true wisdom (cf. the refrain in vv. 12, 20). The poem ends (v. 28) with the answer to the question asked in the refrain, "Where can wisdom be found?"

■ 28:1–11 Man, the technologist, gathers treasure from the hidden recesses of the earth.

27 Then He saw [g]wisdom and declared it;
He prepared it, indeed, He searched it out.
28 And to man He said,
'Behold, [m]the fear of the Lord, that is wisdom,
And to depart from evil is understanding.' "

Job's Summary Defense

29 Job further continued his discourse, and said:

2 "Oh, that I were as in months [a]past,
As in the days when God [b]watched over me;
3 [c]When His lamp shone upon my head,
And when by His light I walked through darkness;
4 Just as I was in the days of my prime,
When [d]the friendly counsel of God was over my tent;
5 When the Almighty was yet with me,
When my children were around me;
6 When [e]my steps were bathed with [f]cream,
And [f]the rock poured out rivers of oil for me!

7 "When I went out to the gate by the city,
When I took my seat in the open square,
8 The young men saw me and hid,
And the aged arose and stood;
9 The princes refrained from talking,
And [g]put their hand on their mouth;
10 The voice of nobles was hushed,
And their [h]tongue stuck to the roof of their mouth.
11 When the ear heard, then it blessed me,
And when the eye saw, then it approved me;
12 Because [i]I delivered the poor who cried out,
The fatherless and the one who had no helper.
13 The blessing of a perishing man came upon me,
And I caused the widow's heart to sing for joy.
14 [j]I put on righteousness, and it clothed me;
My justice was like a robe and a turban.
15 I was [k]eyes to the blind,
And I was feet to the lame.
16 I was a father to the poor,
And [l]I searched out the case that I did not know.
17 I broke [m]the fangs of the wicked,
And plucked the victim from his teeth.

18 "Then I said, [n]'I shall die in my nest,
And multiply my days as the sand.
19 [o]My root is spread out [p]to the waters,
And the dew lies all night on my branch.
20 My glory is fresh within me,
And my [q]bow is renewed in my hand.'

■ 28:28 The application of the poem that makes up ch. 28. We can learn God's wisdom through His revealed will and obeying it (Deut. 4:5, 6; Prov. 8:4–9; 9:10). For the New Testament application, Col. 2:2, 3 and Eph. 3:8–10.

■ 29:1–25 This chapter begins the first of three monologues (chs. 29—31 [Job]; chs. 32—37; chs. 38—41). First Job looks back at the days of blessing. In ch. 30, he laments his loss, especially the loss of God's friendship. In ch. 31 he defends himself and calls again for vindication.

■ 29:2–6 Job bemoans the loss of God's favor on him and his house.

■ 29:7–17 Job recalls the noble reputation he built as a practitioner of what James will call "pure and undefiled religion" (cf. vv. 12–16 with James 1:27).

■ 29:14 righteousness . . . clothed me . . . justice was like a robe and a turban. This verse is the middle of the chapter, everything centering around it as an emphatic assertion of his main point, his call for vindication.

■ 29:18–20 In light of his past deeds, Job had expected to be vigorous in the later years of his life.

The days of affliction take hold of me.
17 My bones are pierced in me at night,
And my gnawing pains take no rest.

■ 29:21–25 Job remembers his former dignity and honor.

■ 30:1–31 Cf. ch. 30 with ch. 29. Here, point for point, Job laments how the blessings he enjoyed were taken away from him. In ch. 29 he dealt with honor from man, blessings from God, and his own benevolent deeds. Note how this chapter stresses the opposite.

■ 30:1–15 Job bewails his dishonor from hoodlums (cf. 29:7–10, 21–25). These verses are a good example of the discursive style of the poet.

■ 30:16–23 He has no blessing from God (cf. 29:2–6, 18–20).

■ 30:18 my garment is disfigured. The Septuagint (ancient Greek translation) reads "He seizes my garment." Job is talking again as if God were his enemy.

■ 30:24–31 See 29:11–17. Job receives no benevolence from his friends. They forget his kindness without returning it.

■ 31:1–40 The most important issue in Job's mind in ch. 31 is the false accusation that he was a man of exceptional wickedness, suffering no more than what he deserved. This chapter is based on an important theme in the legal procedure of Job's day. He appeals to God with an oath in the divine name and with a call for divine sanctions if he is lying. Although this is a protestation of innocence, it is not the self-righteousness of the Pharisee in Luke 18:11, 12. Like the psalmist, Job is the victim of false accusation, so vindication has become a passion with him.

■ 31:1–4 Job explains that he determined not to sin with his eyes (1 John 2:16). He may be speaking of more than ordinary lust, that is of the worship of the fertility goddesses so popular in Old Testament times. The word translated "young woman" (v. 1) is used of the goddess of fertility in Canaanite writings. She was a kind of Venus and was called the "maiden Anat" in Ugarit.

■ 31:5–8 Job clears himself of avarice with a sanction based on God's "honest scales," His justice.

9 "If my heart has been enticed by a woman,
Or if I have lurked at my neighbor's door,
10 Then let my wife grind for [g]another,
And let others bow down over her.

And would root out all my increase.

15 [k]Did not He who made me in the womb make them?
Did not the same One fashion us in the womb?

16 "If I have kept the poor from their desire,
Or caused the eyes of the widow to [l]fail,
17 Or eaten my morsel by myself,
So that the fatherless could not eat of it
18 (But from my youth I reared him as a father,
And from my mother's womb I guided [4]the widow);
19 If I have seen anyone perish for lack of clothing,
Or any poor man without covering;
20 If his [5]heart has not [m]blessed me,
And if he was not warmed with the fleece of my sheep;
21 If I have raised my hand [n]against the fatherless,
When I saw I had help in the gate;
22 Then let my arm fall from my shoulder,
Let my arm be torn from the socket.
23 For [o]destruction from God is a terror to me,
And because of His magnificence I cannot endure.

24 "If[p] I have made gold my hope,
Or said to fine gold, 'You are my confidence';
25 [q]If I have rejoiced because my wealth was great,
And because my hand had gained much;
26 [r]If I have observed the [6]sun when it shines,
Or the moon moving in brightness,
27 So that my heart has been secretly enticed,
And my mouth has kissed my hand;
28 This also would be an iniquity deserving of judgment,
For I would have denied God who is above.

29 "If[s] I have rejoiced at the destruction of him who hated me,
Or lifted myself up when evil found him
30 [t](Indeed I have not allowed my mouth to sin
By asking for a curse on his [7]soul);
31 If the men of my tent have not said,
'Who is there that has not been satisfied with his meat?'
32 [u](But no sojourner had to lodge in the street,
For I have opened my doors to the [8]traveler);

- 31:13–15 Job clears himself of injustice with reference to God's court as the sanction.
- 31:16–23 Job clears himself of neglect of the needy and abuse of the helpless with God's terror as the sanction.
- 31:24–27 Job clears himself of idolatry with regard to gold or the gods.
- 31:29–34 Job clears himself of hatred, selfishness, and hypocrisy. In these verses God's divine judgment is the sanction (v. 28).

34 Because I feared the great [w]multitude,
And dreaded the contempt of families,
So that I kept silence
And did not go out of the door—
35 [x]Oh, that I had one to hear me!
Here is my mark.
Oh, [y]that the Almighty would answer me,
That my [1]Prosecutor had written a book!
36 Surely I would carry it on my shoulder,
And bind it on me like a crown;
37 I would declare to Him the number of my steps;
Like a prince I would approach Him.

38 "If my land cries out against me,
And its furrows weep together;
39 If [z]I have eaten its [2]fruit without money,
Or [a]caused its owners to lose their lives;
40 Then let [b]thistles grow instead of wheat,
And weeds instead of barley."

The words of Job are ended.

Elihu Contradicts Job's Friends

32 So these three men ceased answering Job, because he was [a]righteous in his own eyes. 2 Then the wrath of Elihu, the son of Barachel the [b]Buzite, of the family of Ram, was aroused against Job; his wrath was aroused because he [c]justified himself rather than God. 3 Also against his three friends his wrath was aroused, because they had found no answer, and yet had condemned Job.

4 Now because they were years older than he, Elihu had waited [1]to speak to Job. 5 When Elihu saw that there was no answer in the mouth of these three men, his wrath was aroused.

6 So Elihu, the son of Barachel the Buzite, answered and said:

"I am [d]young in years, and you are very old;
Therefore I was afraid,
And dared not declare my opinion to you.
7 I said, [2]'Age should speak,
And multitude of years should teach wisdom.'
8 But there is a spirit in man,
And [e]the breath of the Almighty gives him understanding.
9 [f]Great[3] men are not always wise,
Nor do the aged always understand justice.

10 "Therefore I say, 'Listen to me,
I also will declare my opinion.'
11 Indeed I waited for your words,
I listened to your reasonings, while you searched out what to say.
12 I paid close attention to you;

■ 31:35–37 The climax: Job attaches his binding signature ("Here is my mark," v. 35) and challenges for a specific indictment.

■ 31:37 Job has already expressed confidence that God would accept him if he had an opportunity to present his case (13:14–16). In the end this is possible only through grace.

■ 31:40 The words of Job are ended. With his signature Job closes his case. The rest is now up to the Judge.

■ 32:1—37:24 These chapters present the second monologue, that of the young man Elihu who, unlike the others, has a Hebrew name. Many critics see him as a self-important, know-it-all person. Others believe these chapters are additions to the original text. Both views are defective. Elihu is not mentioned in the Epilogue (ch. 42) but the reason is that he is not guilty of the same errors as the other three. Elihu's critique centers on Job's words uttered during the dispute. He quotes Job, but does not accuse him of having lived a wicked life. He stresses an issue neglected by the three friends: the disciplinary and redemptive role of suffering. Eliphaz alone had touched suffering as discipline (5:17). Elihu's wordiness, like that of Job and the counselors, was considered eloquent in their culture.

■ 32:1–5 The narrator introduces Elihu's four speeches on Job's situation with an explanation for why he injected himself into the debate.

■ 32:3 and yet had condemned Job. According to ancient Jewish tradition the original reading was "condemned Elohim," changed by pious convention to "condemned Job," so as to avoid writing a blasphemous thought.

■ 32:6—33:7 It takes Elihu this entire section just to make his introduction and to give his reason for speaking. He appears to have a warmer personality than the counselors who never called Job by his name (cf. 33:1, 31).

God will vanquish him, not man.
14 Now he has not [4]directed his words against me;
So I will not answer him with your words.

15 "They are dismayed and answer no more;
Words escape them.
16 And I have waited, because they did not speak,
Because they stood still and answered no more.
17 I also will answer my part,
I too will declare my opinion.
18 For I am full of words;
The spirit within me compels me.
19 Indeed my [5]belly is like wine that has no [6]vent;
It is ready to burst like new wineskins.

Nor let me flatter any man.

Else my Maker would soon take me [h]away.

Elihu Contradicts Job

33 "But please, Job, hear my speech,
And listen to all my words.
2 Now, I open my mouth;
My tongue speaks in my mouth.
3 My words come from my upright heart;
My lips utter pure knowledge.
4 [a]The Spirit of God has made me,
And the breath of the Almighty gives me life.
5 If you can answer me,
Set your words in order before me;
Take your stand.
6 [b]Truly I am [1]as your spokesman before God;
I also have been formed out of clay.
7 [c]Surely no fear of me will terrify you,
Nor will my hand be heavy on you.

8 "Surely you have spoken [2]in my hearing,
And I have heard the sound of your words, saying,
9 '[d]I am pure, without transgression;
I am innocent, and there is no iniquity in me.
10 Yet He finds occasions against me,
[e]He counts me as His enemy;
11 [f]He puts my feet in the stocks,
He watches all my paths.'

12 "Look, in this you are not righteous.
I will answer you,
For God is greater than man.

■ 33:8 your words. In quoting Job, Elihu is accurate (cf. 33:10, 11 with 13:24 and 27). Verbatim quotation was not the expected norm in ancient Eastern culture.

■ 33:12–22 Elihu's appeal to God's transcendence repeats what the counselors have already said, but he handles the theme differently from them. His purpose is to show that, despite God's transcendence, He does speak to man: through revelation (dreams) and through suffering.

13 Why do you [g]contend with Him?
For He does not give an accounting of any of His words.
14 [h]For God may speak in one way, or in another,
Yet man does not perceive it.
15 [i]In a dream, in a vision of the night,
When deep sleep falls upon men,
While slumbering on their beds,
16 [j]Then He opens the ears of men,
And seals their instruction.
17 In order to turn man from his deed,
And conceal pride from man,
18 He keeps back his soul from the Pit,
And his life from [3]perishing by the sword.

19 "Man is also chastened with pain on his [k]bed,
And with strong pain in many of his bones,
20 [l]So that his life abhors [m]bread,
And his soul [4]succulent food.
21 His flesh wastes away from sight,
And his bones stick out which once were not seen.
22 Yes, his soul draws near the Pit,
And his life to the executioners.

23 "If there is a messenger for him,
A mediator, one among a thousand,
To show man His uprightness,
24 Then He is gracious to him, and says,
'Deliver him from going down to the Pit;
I have found [5]a ransom';
25 His flesh shall be young like a child's,
He shall return to the days of his youth.
26 He shall pray to God, and He will delight in him,
He shall see His face with joy,
For He restores to man His righteousness.
27 Then he looks at men and [n]says,
'I have sinned, and perverted what was right,
And it [o]did not profit me.'
28 He will [p]redeem [6]his soul from going down to the Pit,
And [6]his life shall see the light.

29 "Behold, God works all these things,
Twice, in fact, three times with a man,
30 [q]To bring back his soul from the Pit,
That he may be enlightened with the light of life.

31 "Give ear, Job, listen to me;
Hold your peace, and I will speak.
32 If you have anything to say, answer me;
Speak, for I desire to justify you.
33 If not, [r]listen to me;
[7]Hold your peace, and I will teach you wisdom."

Elihu Proclaims God's Justice

34 Elihu further answered and said:
2 "Hear my words, you wise men;

14 [h]Job 33:29; 40:5; Ps. 62:11

■ 33:23–30 Unlike the counselors who saw no place for grace or mediation (5:1), Elihu knows God provides both.

■ 34:1–37 Following a pedantic introduction, Elihu quotes words from Job that are easy to refute (12:4; 13:16; 27:2, 6). His thesis is that no one

CHAPTER 34

Give ear to me, you who have knowledge.
3 [a]For the ear tests words
As the palate tastes food.
4 Let us choose justice for ourselves;
Let us know among ourselves what is good.

5 "For Job has said, [b]'I am righteous,
But [c]God has taken away my justice;
6 [d]Should I lie concerning my right?
My [1]wound is incurable, though I am without transgression.'
7 What man is like Job,
[e]Who drinks [2]scorn like water,
8 Who goes in company with the workers of iniquity,
And walks with wicked men?
9 For [f]he has said, 'It profits a man nothing
That he should delight in God.'

10 "Therefore listen to me, you [3]men of understanding:
[g]Far be it from God to do wickedness,
And from the Almighty to commit iniquity.
11 [h]For He repays man according to his work,
And makes man to find a reward according to his way.
12 Surely God will never do wickedly,
Nor will the Almighty [i]pervert justice.
13 Who gave Him charge over the earth?
Or who appointed Him over the whole world?
14 If He should set His heart on it,
If He should [j]gather to Himself His Spirit and His breath,
15 [k]All flesh would perish together,
And man would return to dust.

16 "If you have understanding, hear this;
Listen to the sound of my words:
17 [l]Should one who hates justice govern?
Will you [m]condemn Him who is most just?
18 [n]Is it fitting to say to a king, 'You are worthless,'
And to nobles, 'You are wicked'?
19 Yet He [o]is not partial to princes,
Nor does He regard the rich more than the poor;
For [p]they are all the work of His hands.
20 In a moment they die, [q]in the middle of the night;
The people are shaken and pass away;
The mighty are taken away without a hand.

21 "For[r] His eyes are on the ways of man,
And He sees all his steps.
22 [s]There is no darkness nor shadow of death
Where the workers of iniquity may hide themselves.
23 For He need not further consider a man,
That he should go before God in judgment.
24 [t]He breaks in pieces mighty men without inquiry, is really innocent, so God denies no one justice (v. 5). The bulk of this second speech is a defense of God's goodness and justice (vv. 10–30). Elihu closes with another condemnation of Job's words and a call for repentance (vv. 31–37).
And sets others in their place.

■ 34:10 Far be it from God to do wickedness. For the next twenty-one verses Elihu expounds this theme. In moments of extreme stress Job had said practically the opposite (10:3; 12:4–6; 21:7,8; 24:1–12).

■ 34:14, 15 Elihu is right: God's continual common grace is necessary for any of His creatures to continue its existence.

■ 34:16–20 Job had asked why the innocent do not see God's judgment of the wicked (24:1). Elihu's answer is that God is judging them all the time, though it is not always evident.

Therefore He knows their works;
He overthrows them in the night,
And they are crushed.
26 He strikes them as wicked men
In the open sight of others,
27 Because they [u]turned back from Him,
And [v]would not consider any of His ways,
28 So that they [w]caused the cry of the poor to come to Him;
For He [x]hears the cry of the afflicted.
29 When He gives quietness, who then can make trouble?
And when He hides His face, who then can see Him,
Whether it is against a nation or a man alone?—
30 That the hypocrite should not reign,
Lest the people be ensnared.

31 "For has anyone said to God,
'I have borne chastening;
I will offend no more;
32 Teach me what I do not see;
If I have done iniquity, I will do no more'?
33 Should He repay it according to your terms,
Just because you disavow it?
You must choose, and not I;
Therefore speak what you know.

34 "Men of understanding say to me,
Wise men who listen to me:
35 'Job[y] speaks without knowledge,
His words are without wisdom.'
36 Oh, that Job were tried to the utmost,
Because his answers are like those of wicked men!
37 For he adds [z]rebellion to his sin;
He claps his hands among us,
And multiplies his words against God."

Elihu Condemns Self-Righteousness

35 Moreover Elihu answered and said:

2 "Do you think this is right?
Do you say,
'My righteousness is more than God's'?
3 For [a]you say,
'What advantage will it be to You?
What profit shall I have, more than if I had sinned?'

4 "I will answer you,
And [b]your companions with you.
5 [c]Look to the heavens and see;
And behold the clouds—
They are higher than you.
6 If you sin, what do you accomplish [d]against Him?
Or, if your transgressions are multiplied, what do you do to Him?
7 [e]If you are righteous, what do you give Him?
Or what does He receive from your hand?

■ 34:31 The Hebrew text of vv. 31–33 is difficult to understand.

■ 35:3 This question resembles Eliphaz's words in 22:3, but may be extrapolated from Job's words in 9:14–31.

■ 35:6, 7 Elihu does not say that God is beyond good and evil, but that God is not within the power of the creature. See Rom. 11:34, 35.

8 Your wickedness affects a man such as you,
And your righteousness a son of man.

9 "Because[f] of the multitude of oppressions they cry out;
They cry out for help because of the arm of the mighty.
10 But no one says, [g]'Where is God my Maker,
[h]Who gives songs in the night,
11 Who [i]teaches us more than the beasts of the earth,
And makes us wiser than the birds of heaven?'
12 [j]There they cry out, but He does not answer,
Because of the pride of evil men.
13 [k]Surely God will not listen to empty talk,
Nor will the Almighty regard it.
14 [l]Although you say you do not see Him,
Yet justice is before Him, and [m]you must wait for Him.
15 And now, because He has not [n]punished in His anger,
Nor taken much notice of folly,
16 [o]Therefore Job opens his mouth in vain;
He multiplies words without knowledge."

Elihu Proclaims God's Goodness

36 Elihu also proceeded and said:

2 "Bear with me a little, and I will show you
That there are yet words to speak on God's behalf.
3 I will fetch my knowledge from afar;
I will ascribe righteousness to my Maker.
4 For truly my words are not false;
One who is perfect in knowledge is with you.

5 "Behold, God is mighty, but despises no one;
[a]He is mighty in strength [1]of understanding.
6 He does not preserve the life of the wicked,
But gives justice to the [b]oppressed.
7 [c]He does not withdraw His eyes from the righteous;
But [d]they are on the throne with kings,
For He has seated them forever,
And they are exalted.
8 And [e]if they are bound in [2]fetters,
Held in the cords of affliction,
9 Then He tells them their work and their transgressions—
That they have acted [3]defiantly.
10 [f]He also opens their ear to [4]instruction,
And commands that they turn from iniquity.
11 If they obey and serve Him,
They shall [g]spend their days in prosperity,
And their years in pleasures.
12 But if they do not obey,
They shall perish by the sword,
And they shall die [5]without [h]knowledge.

12 [h]Job 4:21 [5]MT as one without knowledge

■ 35:9–13 Job had complained in ch. 23 that God was indifferent to his condition. Elihu counters with some good advice (especially vv. 9–11). But some of it does not apply to Job (v. 12).

■ 35:14–16 Elihu criticizes what Job has said and its effect on his relation to God.

■ 36:1—37:24 Elihu's fourth speech focuses on Job's suffering from the perspective of God's perfect righteousness and absolute power.

■ 36:1–4 Elihu opens the speech with an apology in which he reasserts his credentials.

■ 36:5–15 Elihu struggles with Job's complaint about the wicked who prosper and the righteous who suffer (v. 6). With this in mind he dwells on God's power, goodness, justice, and mercy. But all this is in the context of the view of suffering where suffering is always in direct proportion to sins and righteousness is always blessed. Only the last judgment will reveal this; compare John 9:2, 3 with Rom. 2:6; 2 Cor. 5:10.

13 "But the hypocrites in heart [i]store up wrath;
They do not cry for help when He binds them.
14 [j]They[6] die in youth,
And their life ends among the [7]perverted persons.
15 He delivers the poor in their affliction,
And opens their ears in oppression.

16 "Indeed He would have brought you out of dire distress,
[k]Into a broad place where there is no restraint;
And [l]what is set on your table would be full of [m]richness.
17 But you are filled with the judgment due the [n]wicked;
Judgment and justice take hold of you.
18 Because there is wrath, beware lest He take you away with one blow;
For [o]a large ransom would not help you avoid it.
19 [p]Will your riches,
Or all the mighty forces,
Keep you from distress?
20 Do not desire the night,
When people are cut off in their place.
21 Take heed, [q]do not turn to iniquity,
For [r]you have chosen this rather than affliction.

22 "Behold, God is exalted by His power;
Who teaches like Him?
23 [s]Who has assigned Him His way,
Or who has said, 'You have done [t]wrong'?

Elihu Proclaims God's Majesty

24 "Remember to [u]magnify His work,
Of which men have sung.
25 Everyone has seen it;
Man looks on it from afar.

26 "Behold, God is great, and we [v]do not know Him;
[w]Nor can the number of His years be discovered.
27 For He [x]draws up drops of water,
Which distill as rain from the mist,
28 [y]Which the clouds drop down
And pour abundantly on man.
29 Indeed, can anyone understand the spreading of clouds,
The thunder from His canopy?
30 Look, He [z]scatters His light upon it,
And covers the depths of the sea.
31 For [a]by these He judges the peoples;
He [b]gives food in abundance.
32 [c]He covers His hands with lightning,
And commands it to [8]strike.
33 [d]His thunder declares it,
The cattle also, concerning [9]the rising storm.

37 "At this also my heart trembles,
And leaps from its place.

■ 36:16–21 Elihu assures Job of God's good purpose in his suffering and sternly admonishes him to receive his divine discipline with its promise of deliverance from distress.

■ 36:22–26 Elihu now returns to his opening thesis (v. 5) concerning the sovereignty of God, whose purpose is always good.

■ 36:27—37:13 Elihu's graphic description of God's majesty displayed in the forces of nature is somewhat like the first speech by God (cf. ch. 38).

And the rumbling that comes from His mouth.
3 He sends it forth under the whole heaven,
His [l]lightning to the ends of the earth.
4 After it [a]a voice roars;
He thunders with His majestic voice,
And He does not restrain them when His voice is heard.
5 God thunders marvelously with His voice;
[b]He does great things which we cannot comprehend.
6 For [c]He says to the snow, 'Fall on the earth';
Likewise to the [2]gentle rain and the heavy rain of His strength.
7 He seals the hand of every man,
[d]That [e]all men may know His work.
8 The beasts [f]go into dens,
And remain in their lairs.
9 From the chamber of the south comes the whirlwind,
And cold from the scattering winds of the north.
10 [g]By the breath of God ice is given,
And the broad waters are frozen.
11 Also with moisture He saturates the thick clouds;
He scatters His [3]bright clouds.
12 And they swirl about, being turned by His guidance,
That they may [h]do whatever He commands them
On the face of [4]the whole earth.
13 [i]He causes it to come,
Whether for [5]correction,
Or [j]for His land,
Or [k]for mercy.

14 "Listen to this, O Job;
Stand still and [l]consider the wondrous works of God.
15 Do you know when God [6]dispatches them,
And causes the light of His cloud to shine?
16 [m]Do you know how the clouds are balanced,
Those wondrous works of [n]Him who is perfect in knowledge?
17 Why are your garments hot,
When He quiets the earth by the south wind?
18 With Him, have you [o]spread out the [p]skies,
Strong as a cast metal mirror?

19 "Teach us what we should say to Him,
For we can prepare nothing because of the darkness.
20 Should He be told that I wish to speak?
If a man were to speak, surely he would be swallowed up.
21 Even now men cannot look at the light when it is bright in the skies,
When the wind has passed and cleared them.
22 He comes from the north as golden splendor;
With God is awesome majesty.
23 As for the Almighty, [q]we cannot find Him;
[r]He is excellent in power,
In judgment and abundant justice;
He does not oppress.
24 Therefore men [s]fear Him;
He shows no partiality to any who are [t]wise of heart."

■ 37:14–24 Here the link with the divine speeches (chs. 38—41) becomes more pronounced, as the young counselor begins to cross-examine Job about God's power and righteousness. His concluding words anticipate the appearance of God in the heavens (vv. 21, 22).

The LORD Reveals His Omnipotence to Job

38 Then the LORD answered Job [a]out of the whirlwind, and said:

2 "Who[b] is this who darkens counsel
By [c]words without knowledge?
3 [d]Now [1]prepare yourself like a man;
I will question you, and you shall answer Me.

4 "Where[e] were you when I laid the foundations of the earth?
Tell Me, if you have understanding.
5 Who determined its measurements?
Surely you know!
Or who stretched the [2]line upon it?
6 To what were its foundations fastened?
Or who laid its cornerstone,
7 When the morning stars sang together,
And all [f]the sons of God shouted for joy?

8 "Or[g] who shut in the sea with doors,
When it burst forth and issued from the womb;
9 When I made the clouds its garment,
And thick darkness its swaddling band;
10 When [h]I fixed My limit for it,
And set bars and doors;
11 When I said,
'This far you may come, but no farther,
And here your proud waves [i]must stop!'

12 "Have you[j] commanded the morning since your days began,
And caused the dawn to know its place,
13 That it might take hold of the ends of the earth,
And [k]the wicked be shaken out of it?
14 It takes on form like clay under a seal,
And stands out like a garment.
15 From the wicked their [l]light is withheld,
And [m]the [3]upraised arm is broken.

16 "Have you [n]entered the springs of the sea?
Or have you walked in search of the depths?
17 Have [o]the gates of death been [4]revealed to you?
Or have you seen the doors of the shadow of death?
18 Have you comprehended the breadth of the earth?
Tell Me, if you know all this.

19 "Where is the way to the dwelling of light?
And darkness, where is its place,

■ 38:1—41:34 In His appearance to Job, God does not mention the subject of Job's suffering, much less give the reason for it. What the Lord says is far more important than Job's suffering, which the Lord knew He would shortly remove. Nor did Job receive the bill of indictment he wanted (31:35), because there was none. Job learns he must rest his case, including his desire for vindication, in the hands of a sovereign and good God, who is not his enemy (1 Pet. 4:19).

■ 38:1—40:2 The Lord calls on Job to withdraw his accusations against the Almighty by exposing his weakness and foolishness.

■ 38:1 the LORD. The divine covenant name is now used again, as in the prologue, showing that the author was an Israelite. Job and the counselors use other divine epithets, like "God," and "the Almighty." Job 12:9 is the only place where Job or the counselors use "Yahweh," and some manuscripts have "God" even there. Job was evidently not an Israelite.

■ 38:4—39:30 In this cross-examination of Job, the Lord reveals Himself as sovereign over the natural world. He is Creator (38:4–14) of the earth (vv. 4–7), of the sea (vv. 8–11), and of day and night (vv. 12–15). He is Lord of inanimate nature (38:16–38) and of animate nature (38:39—39:30).

■ 38:5 Surely you know. The irony here and in vv. 18 and 21 is not sarcasm, but a reminder that God is the Creator.

■ 38:7 For the personification of natural forces as God's angels see Ps. 104:4 and Heb. 1:7.

■ 38:15 The light of the wicked is darkness (Is. 5:20; Luke 11:35).

■ 38:17 the gates of death. The "gates" stand for dominion (Matt. 16:18). The Lord is sovereign over this invisible realm, which no living person has ever seen (17:16). According to the pagan religions of Canaan, the god Mot was ruler of the realm of the dead, but Job knew otherwise (cf. 26:6).

20 That you may take it to its territory,
That you may know the paths to its home?
21 Do you know it, because you were born then,
Or because the number of your days is great?

22 "Have you entered [p]the treasury of snow,
Or have you seen the treasury of hail,
23 [q]Which I have reserved for the time of trouble,
For the day of battle and war?
24 By what way is light [5]diffused,
Or the east wind scattered over the earth?

25 "Who [r]has divided a channel for the overflowing water,
Or a path for the thunderbolt,
26 To cause it to rain on a land where there is no one,
A wilderness in which there is no man;
27 [s]To satisfy the desolate waste,
And cause to spring forth the growth of tender grass?
28 [t]Has the rain a father?
Or who has begotten the drops of dew?
29 From whose womb comes the ice?
And the [u]frost of heaven, who gives it birth?
30 The waters harden like stone,
And the surface of the deep is [v]frozen.[6]

31 "Can you bind the cluster of the [w]Pleiades,[7]
Or loose the belt of Orion?
32 Can you bring out [8]Mazzaroth in its season?
Or can you guide [9]the Great Bear with its cubs?
33 Do you know [x]the ordinances of the heavens?
Can you set their dominion over the earth?

34 "Can you lift up your voice to the clouds,
That an abundance of water may cover you?
35 Can you send out lightnings, that they may go,
And say to you, 'Here we are!'?
36 [y]Who has put wisdom in [1]the mind?
Or who has given understanding to the heart?
37 Who can number the clouds by wisdom?
Or who can pour out the bottles of heaven,
38 When the dust hardens in clumps,
And the clods cling together?

39 "Can[z] you hunt the prey for the lion,
Or satisfy the appetite of the young lions,
40 When they crouch in their dens,
Or lurk in their lairs to lie in wait?
41 [a]Who provides food for the raven,
When its young ones cry to God,
And wander about for lack of food?

■ 38:26 to rain . . . A wilderness. In a world where rainwater was precious, God impresses on Job his sovereign freedom to do what perplexes those who don't appreciate the distinctions between the sovereign God and themselves.

■ 38:31 bind . . . Pleiades . . . loose the belt of Orion. God alone has dominion over the cosmic forces that constrain the cluster of stars called Pleiades and those making up the belt of the hunter Orion.

■ 38:36 the mind . . . the heart. The Hebrew word translated "heart" occurs only here, and its meaning has been in question since the ancient times. If one traditional translation is accepted, the verse asks who gave wisdom to "the ibis" and "the rooster," birds that were thought to announce the coming of the rain and the flooding of the Nile.

■ 38:39 Here the questions shift from the inanimate to animate creation: a sampling of God's creatures great and small.

39 1 "Do you know the time when the wild [a]mountain goats bear young?
Or can you mark when [b]the deer gives birth?
2 Can you number the months that they fulfill?
Or do you know the time when they bear young?
3 They bow down,
They bring forth their young,
They deliver their [1]offspring.
4 Their young ones are healthy,
They grow strong with grain;
They depart and do not return to them.

5 "Who set the wild donkey free?
Who loosed the bonds of the [2]onager,
6 [c]Whose home I have made the wilderness,
And the [3]barren land his dwelling?
7 He scorns the tumult of the city;
He does not heed the shouts of the driver.
8 The range of the mountains is his pasture,
And he searches after [d]every green thing.

9 "Will the [e]wild ox be willing to serve you?
Will he bed by your manger?
10 Can you bind the wild ox in the furrow with ropes?
Or will he plow the valleys behind you?
11 Will you trust him because his strength is great?
Or will you leave your labor to him?
12 Will you trust him to bring home your [4]grain,
And gather it to your threshing floor?

13 "The wings of the ostrich wave proudly,
But are her wings and pinions like the kindly stork's?
14 For she leaves her eggs on the ground,
And warms them in the dust;
15 She forgets that a foot may crush them,
Or that a wild beast may break them.
16 She [f]treats her young harshly, as though they were not hers;
Her labor is in vain, without [5]concern,
17 Because God deprived her of wisdom,
And did not [g]endow her with understanding.
18 When she lifts herself on high,
She scorns the horse and its rider.

19 "Have you given the horse strength?
Have you clothed his neck with [6]thunder?
20 Can you [7]frighten him like a locust?
His majestic snorting strikes terror.
21 He paws in the valley, and rejoices in his strength;
[h]He gallops into the clash of arms.
22 He mocks at fear, and is not frightened;
Nor does he turn back from the sword.
23 The quiver rattles against him,
The glittering spear and javelin.

■ 39:1, 2 Do you know . . . can you mark . . . Can you number. God reminds Job of His creative, wise, and sustaining work even in the barren hills where man can scarcely live—and of Job's ignorance by contrast.

■ 39:5 Who set the wild donkey free. This wild creature was greatly admired for its freedom and its ability to live in "the barren land" (v. 6).

■ 39:9 Will the wild ox be willing to serve you. This now extinct animal was already rare in Palestine in Job's day. They were hunted to extinction by the Egyptians and Assyrians.

■ 39:18 She scorns the horse and its rider. The ostrich is a bird that cannot fly yet runs faster than a horse. Job has complained of paradoxes in his life; God shows him natural paradoxes that are resolved only in the secret (or revealed) purposes of the self-existent God.

■ 39:19 Have you given the horse strength. Probably this is the warhorse, by reputation the strongest and most intelligent animal.

24 He devours the distance with fierceness and rage;
Nor does he come to a halt because the trumpet has sounded.
25 At the blast of the trumpet he says, 'Aha!'
He smells the battle from afar,
The thunder of captains and shouting.

26 "Does the hawk fly by your wisdom,
And spread its wings toward the south?
27 Does the [i]eagle mount up at your command,
And [j]make its nest on high?
28 On the rock it dwells and resides,
On the crag of the rock and the stronghold.
29 From there it spies out the prey;
Its eyes observe from afar.
30 Its young ones suck up blood;
And [k]where the slain are, there it is."

40 Moreover the LORD [a]answered Job, and said:

2 "Shall [b]the one who contends with the Almighty correct Him?
He who [c]rebukes God, let him answer it."

Job's Response to God

3 Then Job answered the LORD and said:

4 "Behold,[d] I am vile;
What shall I answer You?
[e]I lay my hand over my mouth.
5 Once I have spoken, but I will not answer;
Yes, twice, but I will proceed no further."

God's Challenge to Job

6 [f]Then the LORD answered Job out of the whirlwind, and said:

7 "Now[g] [l]prepare yourself like a man;
[h]I will question you, and you shall answer Me:

8 "Would[i] you indeed [2]annul My judgment?
Would you condemn Me that you may be justified?
9 Have you an arm like God?
Or can you thunder with [j]a voice like His?
10 [k]Then adorn yourself with majesty and splendor,
And array yourself with glory and beauty.
11 Disperse the rage of your wrath;
Look on everyone who is proud, and humble him.
12 Look on everyone who is [l]proud, and bring him low;
Tread down the wicked in their place.
13 Hide them in the dust together,
Bind their faces in hidden darkness.
14 Then I will also confess to you
That your own right hand can save you.

■ 39:29 Its eyes observe from afar. In addition to the mysterious migratory instinct of birds (v. 26), these words speak of the phenomenal eyesight of eagles.

■ 40:1, 2 This conclusion of the first speech should be compared with its opening in 38:2. Both are directed toward Job's bold but erroneous utterances during his moments of doubt.

■ 40:3–5 Job abandons his obsession with being vindicated. It is his turn to speak, but he has nothing to say. He is brought low before the Almighty.

■ 40:6—41:34 The Lord opens His second discourse (40:6, 7) as He did in 38:1–3, but here challenges Job with a new line of reasoning about Job's questioning whether God is just in judging the wicked. In His first speech God revealed Himself as Lord of nature, but here as the Lord of the moral realm.

■ 40:8–14 This section emphasizes God's power over pride and wickedness (vv. 11, 12). The monsters in the verses following, behemoth and leviathan, probably represent such forces of evil that God can control but before which Job is helpless.

15 "Look now at the [3]behemoth, which I made along with you;
He eats grass like an ox.
16 See now, his strength is in his hips,
And his power is in his stomach muscles.
17 He moves his tail like a cedar;
The sinews of his thighs are tightly knit.
18 His bones are like beams of bronze,
His ribs like bars of iron.
19 He is the first of the [m]ways of God;
Only He who made him can bring near His sword.
20 Surely the mountains [n]yield food for him,
And all the beasts of the field play there.
21 He lies under the lotus trees,
In a covert of reeds and marsh.
22 The lotus trees cover him with their shade;
The willows by the brook surround him.
23 Indeed the river may rage,
Yet he is not disturbed;
He is confident, though the Jordan gushes into his mouth,
24 Though he takes it in his eyes,
Or one pierces his nose with a snare.

41 "Can you draw out [a]Leviathan[1] with a hook,
Or snare his tongue with a line which you lower?
2 Can you [b]put a reed through his nose,
Or pierce his jaw with a [2]hook?
3 Will he make many supplications to you?
Will he speak softly to you?
4 Will he make a covenant with you?
Will you take him as a servant forever?
5 Will you play with him as with a bird,
Or will you leash him for your maidens?
6 Will your companions [3]make a banquet of him?
Will they apportion him among the merchants?
7 Can you fill his skin with harpoons,
Or his head with fishing spears?
8 Lay your hand on him;
Remember the battle—
Never do it again!
9 Indeed, any hope of overcoming him is false;
Shall one not be overwhelmed at the sight of him?
10 No one is so fierce that he would dare stir him up.
Who then is able to stand against Me?
11 [c]Who has preceded Me, that I should pay him?
[d]Everything under heaven is Mine.

12 "I will not [4]conceal his limbs,
His mighty power, or his graceful proportions.
13 Who can [5]remove his outer coat?
Who can approach him with a double bridle?
14 Who can open the doors of his face,
With his terrible teeth all around?

■ 40:15 behemoth. The Hebrew root is used for "cattle," but the form here implies the meaning, "the beast beyond comparison." Parts of the description, especially v. 19, go beyond any natural creature like the hippopotamus or the crocodile. Canaanite literature describes the goddess Anat overcoming a terrible bull and a seven-headed "Leviathan." The Lord's speech indicates that whatever may be the forces suggested by such creatures, they are no more than playthings in comparison with His unfathomable power.

■ 41:1 Leviathan. Possibly "leviathan" and "behemoth" form a poetic repetition, both referring to one creature. The poetic description in these lines is anchored in nature, but the creature or creatures described represent something more. Like Leviathan in Is. 27:1 and Ps. 74:14, they symbolize threatening powers in the heavenly and earthly realms (Rev. 12:7, 13:1).

Because of his crashings they [8]are beside themselves.
26 Though the sword reaches him, it cannot avail;
Nor does spear, dart, or javelin.
27 He regards iron as straw,
And bronze as rotten wood.
28 The arrow cannot make him flee;
Slingstones become like stubble to him.
29 Darts are regarded as straw;
He laughs at the threat of javelins.
30 His undersides are like sharp potsherds;
He spreads pointed marks in the mire.
31 He makes the deep boil like a pot;
He makes the sea like a pot of ointment.
32 He leaves a shining wake behind him;
One would think the deep had white hair.
33 On earth there is nothing like him,
Which is made without fear.
34 He beholds every high thing;
He is king over all the children of pride."

Job's Repentance and Restoration

42 Then Job answered the LORD and said:

2 "I know that You [a]can do everything,
And that no purpose of Yours can be withheld from You.
3 You asked, [b]'Who is this who hides counsel without knowledge?'
Therefore I have uttered what I did not understand,
[c]Things too wonderful for me, which I did not know.
4 Listen, please, and let me speak;
You said, [d]'I will question you, and you shall answer Me.'
5 "I have [e]heard of You by the hearing of the ear,
But now my eye sees You.

■ 41:34 This fits exactly the lines introducing behemoth and leviathan in 40:11, 12.

■ 42:1–6 Appropriately, Job is now more than humbled: he must repent for his rash words doubting God's justice during his deepest suffering. Because of his experience, his repentance is unforced and sincere.

■ 42:2 See "Omnipresence and Omnipotence" at Jer. 23:24.

■ 42:5 But now my eye sees You. Job could not see physically through the whirlwind out of which God spoke (38:1; 40:6); he expresses a deeper meaning. He knew God with words, but he now experiences His living presence in his inner being. He meets Him as Savior and friend and, above all, God.

6 Therefore I [f]abhor[1] myself,
And repent in dust and ashes."

7 And so it was, after the LORD had spoken these words to Job, that the LORD said to Eliphaz the Temanite, "My wrath is aroused against you and your two friends, for you have not spoken of Me what is right, as My servant Job has. 8 Now therefore, take for yourselves [g]seven bulls and seven rams, [h]go to My servant Job, and offer up for yourselves a burnt offering; and My servant Job shall [i]pray for you. For I will accept [2]him, lest I deal with you according to your folly; because you have not spoken of Me what is right, as My servant Job has."

9 So Eliphaz the Temanite and Bildad the Shuhite and Zophar the Naamathite went and did as the LORD commanded them; for the LORD had [3]accepted Job. 10 [j]And the LORD [4]restored Job's losses when he prayed for his friends. Indeed the LORD gave Job [k]twice as much as he had before. 11 Then [l]all his brothers, all his sisters, and all those who had been his acquaintances before, came to him and ate food with him in his house; and they consoled him and comforted him for all the adversity that the LORD had brought upon him. Each one gave him a piece of silver and each a ring of gold.

12 Now the LORD blessed [m]the latter days of Job more than his beginning; for he had [n]fourteen thousand sheep, six thousand camels, one thousand yoke of oxen, and one thousand female donkeys. 13 [o]He also had seven sons and three daughters. 14 And he called the name of the first [5]Jemimah, the name of the second [6]Keziah, and the name of the third [7]Keren-Happuch. 15 In all the land were found no women so beautiful as the daughters of Job; and their father gave them an inheritance among their brothers.

16 After this Job [p]lived one hundred and forty years, and saw his children and grandchildren for four generations. 17 So Job died, old and [q]full of days.

■ 42:7–17 The drama introduced in the prologue now comes full circle.

■ 42:7–9 God rebukes Job's counselors and accepts Job's prayers on their behalf.

■ 42:7 what is right. Since God has rebuked (and forgiven) Job for things he had said, why does He say here that Job said what was right while the counselors did not? Their words were often formally blameless. The counselors failed since without knowing why Job was suffering, they arrogantly assumed they did, and falsely accused Job of kinds of sins of which he was not guilty. That God accepted Job's prayer on their behalf indicates His gracious forgiveness of them also.

■ 42:8 shall pray for you. We often assume that praying for one's detractors is a New Testament teaching, but it is here in Job. In this way Job foreshadows Christ, who when nailed to the cross prayed, "Father, forgive them, for they do not know what they do" (Luke 23:34).

■ 42:12 the LORD blessed. Job is restored, and those who refused to be near him in his dark hour (19:13–20) are forgiven. Commentators have objected to this restoration, since so many through the ages have suffered without being restored. But God had allowed Satan (the Adversary) to strike Job to prove that His servant would remain true. The reader knows that Satan was proved a liar: Job never cursed God (1:11; 2:5) and God was glorified. It was the good pleasure of God to reward His servant. The "perseverance of Job" was known to God (James 5:11). Job's cry, "I will defend my own ways before Him" (13:15), can be compared with Jacob's, "I will not let You go unless You bless me" (Gen. 32:26).

The Lord Challenges Job (42:1)

In the face of God's fearful challenge, Job could only humble himself:

God's Challenge	Job's Response
First, Job's ignorance (38:1—40:2) • He was absent at creation • He cannot explain the forces of nature	Job admits his ignorance and becomes silent (40:3–5)
Second, Job's frailty (40:6—41:34) • He cannot overrule God's ways • He cannot control the forces of nature	Job confesses his presumption and repents (42:2–6)

Introduction to

HEBREW POETRY

The most prominent distinguishing feature of Hebrew poetry is the repetition of ideas, called parallelism. An idea is stated and then immediately expressed again in different words, with the concepts of the two lines corresponding more or less closely. The types of parallelism were described by Lowth (1753) as belonging to three basic categories. These are: synonymous, in which the idea is repeated in a similar way; antithetic, in which the idea is stated by opposition; and synthetic, in which the second line develops or extends the thought of the first rather than merely repeating it. Other categories have also been distinguished. For example, in emblematic parallelism one line is a figure of speech and the other puts the same idea literally, explaining the figure. In step, staircase, or climactic parallelism, the succeeding lines carry the idea forward, each one adding a new element to what went before. Characteristic examples of the types mentioned are: (a) synonymous, Ps. 113:7; Ps. 147:10 (b) antithetic, Ps. 1:6; Prov. 10:1; (c) synthetic, Ps. 52:9; (d) emblematic, Prov. 25:4, 5; and (e) step, Judg. 5:30; Ps. 29:5, 6; 65:4.

The corresponding parts of parallel lines often help to explain each other. Two lines together may define an idea more clearly than one alone. More recently, it has been observed that even if the two lines are practically identical, there is still a special effect due to repetition alone. In this sense, all parallelisms are to some extent synthetic. However, the usual analysis has not lost its validity and is widely used in discussions of biblical poetry.

It is helpful to study the techniques of antithesis, figurative speech, and so on, in simple parallelisms, because the same techniques are combined in more complicated examples. Thus Ps. 92:12–15 has synonymous and emblematic elements that compare a flourishing tree with a righteous person, and define the righteous person as one who is planted, or remains, in God's house. The fruit of the tree is the praise of God's righteousness. Comparing and contrasting the balanced parts of parallel expressions is the basic key to understanding as well as enjoying biblical poetry.

The meter or rhythm of Hebrew poetry has been a subject of continuous debate. It seems established that there is at least one clearly defined meter, the qinah or lament, having three beats and then two in each line. But there is no general agreement about other proposed meters. In any case, while the parallelism of ideas can be carried over and appreciated even in translation, meter is much harder to replicate. The same is true of features like alliteration, rhyme, and other effects depending on the sound of words. In Hebrew poetry these are not nearly as important as parallelism.

Another formal feature, which is often indicated in the margins or notes of translations, is the acrostic. In this type of composition lines or stanzas begin with successive letters of the alphabet. This technique, like parallelism, would help in memorizing and teaching. It may also be a way of suggesting that the subject has been handled completely. The outstanding example is Ps. 119.

Poetry in general, and not just Hebrew poetry, is characterized by compression of ideas and economy of expression. This means that transitions are often left out and the relationship of ideas is left for the reader to determine. For example, in the Psalms there are many confusing changes of subject, and ideas that seem unrelated may nevertheless occur next to each other. But the difficulty and subtlety of poetic language can be regarded as a virtue. Good poetry rewards the effort required to understand it, as well as to memorize it. □

The Book of

PSALMS

Author

Many of the psalms begin with a title linking the psalm with a particular individual or group, using a Hebrew preposition that could possibly indicate dedication ("to David"), subject matter ("about David"), or authorship ("by David"). However, one of the few psalm titles with an expanded context leaves no doubt that the title intends to identify the composer of the psalm (Ps. 18). David is by far the most frequently cited author, most of his psalms being in the first two books (see Structure), though there is a small collection of psalms by him at the very end (Ps. 138—145). The tradition that associates David with singing and psalm composition is so strong that there is little doubt that David wrote the psalms that bear his name (1 Sam. 16:14–23; 2 Sam. 1:17–27; 2 Sam. 22; 2 Sam. 23:1; 1 Chr. 6:31; 15:16; 16:7; Ps. 18; Amos 6:5).

Other authors appear in psalm titles: Moses (Ps. 90), Solomon (Ps. 72; 127), the sons of Korah (Ps. 42—49; 84; 85; 87; 88), the sons of Asaph (Ps. 50; 73—83), and Ethan the Ezrahite (Ps. 89). A number of psalms have no designated author (e.g. Ps. 1; 10).

Date and Occasion

The titles of the psalms show that they were composed by individuals in response to a particular corporate or individual experience. The dates and occasions of the psalms (see introductory paragraphs to the psalms in the notes) range from the time of Moses (Ps. 90), to the experiences of David (Ps. 51), to the time after the exile of the Jews in Babylon (Ps. 126). Still, the psalms collected for use in public worship were never so specific that they could not be used in new situations.

Forming the collection took several centuries, arriving at its present form some time after the exile in Babylon. The name "Psalms" means "songs," and is taken from the Septuagint, the early Greek translation of the Old Testament. This is the name used in the New Testament (Luke 20:42; 24:44; Acts 1:20).

Characteristics and Themes

Titles. The titles of individual psalms are usually not assigned a verse number in translations, giving the impression that they are separate from other verses. In the Hebrew Bible the titles are usually numbered as the first verse. The titles are either an original part of the psalms, or at least from extremely early tradition.

The titles may be divided into five basic types: authorship, historical, musical, genre (literary type), and instructions for use in worship.

1. Authorship Titles. See the discussion under "Author" above.

2. Historical Titles. There are fewer historical than authorship titles (Ps. 3; 7; 18; 30; 34; 51; 52; 54; 56; 57; 59; 60; 63; 142). The authenticity of the former has been disputed, although there is no textual evidence that they were added later. However, some believe that apparent disharmony between psalm and title (as in Ps. 30) or between the title and other books (Ps. 56 compared with 1 Sam. 21:10–15) indicates that those titles are late and artificial. Others argue that if historical titles were added later, whoever added them would have made sure they matched the content of the psalm. To give an example, why would a later editor connect Ps. 30 with the dedication of the temple when there was no mention of the temple in the psalm?

The historical titles may give us an indication of the origins of a psalm (see below), but they are of limited help in interpretation. That is, while psalms may have been written in reaction to particular historical events, the composers were careful not to be specific in the body of the poem.

The psalms were intended to express what others could share in formal and public worship, and were not private poems. However, the interpreter is not bound to reconstruct the historical background of all the psalms (a practice of many earlier psalm commentators).

3. Genre Titles. A number of the terms in the titles classify the psalms into genres, or literary types. It is difficult to know the precise meaning of the terms used. Some are found often: mizmor (a "song," e.g. Ps. 139) and shir ("song"), others rarely. In today's discussion literary types are determined from the content of the psalms and not from the titles.

4. Musical Notations. Some of the genre terms, as above, are also musical notations, notably mizmor (from a verbal root "to sing") and shir ("song"). Others are of less certain meaning. A few are probably names of tunes (e.g., Ps. 60, "Set to 'Lily of the Testimony' ").

Selah is a word that occurs frequently in the body of the psalms. Its meaning is unknown, though it could be a musical term, like "rest" or "interlude."

5. Instructions for Use in Worship. Occasionally the titles indicate how the psalms were used in formal worship. Of these the best known are the "Songs of Ascents" (Ps. 120—134; see the introductory paragraph to Ps. 120).

Structure. The psalms are arranged in five books. Each book closes with a doxology and benediction (Ps.

1—41; 42—72; 73—89; 90—106; 107—150). Jewish tradition is that the number five was chosen to match the five books of Moses.

Psalms 1 and 2 are the entryway into the sanctuary of the Psalms, and Ps. 146—150 conclude the book with a long doxology. Ps. 1 transforms the prayers and praises originally offered in the temple into a book for meditation in meetings and at home.

The first two books celebrate Israel's golden age during the time of the united monarchy. Ps. 2 and 72 are prayers that the king will extend the rule of God to the ends of the earth. All the psalms in Book I are attributed to David, except Ps. 1, 2, and 33. Laments in the first two books always conclude with praise.

By contrast, Book III (Ps. 73—89) is dark. The first psalm of the section complains that the righteous suffer. The last psalm of the section laments that the Davidic covenant seems to have failed, with the king's crown rolling in the dust. Ps. 88 is as the only psalm without praise.

Book IV (Ps. 90—106) turns to God Himself who has been Israel's help in ages past. In this book Moses is mentioned seven times; he is mentioned only once before (Ps. 77). Psalms 93—99, called "enthronement psalms," look to God's reign on earth. The writer of Hebrews assigns the praise of God celebrated in Ps. 102:25–27 to Jesus Christ (Heb. 1:10–12).

Book V begins by thanking God for bringing Israel back from the exile. The book includes psalms holding up David as a model for piety (138—145) and psalms predicting the reign of Christ (110).

Genres. Distinguishing characteristics allow the psalms to be assigned to literary groups for the purpose of study. Following are the literary types commonly used.

1. Hymns of Praise. Hymns are easily recognized by their exuberant praise of the Lord. God is praised for who He is and for His power and mercy. For examples, see Ps. 8; 24; 29; 33; 47; 48.

2. Laments. Laments express an emotion opposite to that of praise. In the lament, the psalmist opens his heart honestly to God, a heart often filled with sadness, fear, or even anger. With few exceptions the laments turn to the Lord with confidence at the end. For examples, see Ps. 25; 39; 51; 86; 102; 120.

3. Thanksgiving Psalms. A psalm of thanksgiving is appropriate when the Lord answers a prayer of lament. The first three psalm types form a kind of triad. The psalmist sings hymns when he is right with the Lord, laments when he is out of harmony with Him, and gives thanks when the relationship is reestablished. For examples see Ps. 18; 66; 107; 118; 138.

4. Songs of Confidence (or trust). Some psalms have trust as their dominant mood. These are often short and contain a striking metaphor that captures the psalmist's trusting attitude. For examples, see Ps. 23; 121; 131.

5. Kingship Psalms. Since God, the King of the universe, is the subject of the Psalms and since David, the human king, is both singer and subject of many psalms, kingship is an important concept in the Psalter. However, a few psalms focus so intensely either on God's kingship (Ps. 24; 93) or on the human king (Ps. 20; 21; 45) that they stand out.

6. Wisdom Psalms. For biblical wisdom we commonly turn to books like Proverbs, Job, Song of Songs, and Ecclesiastes. In these books are practical directions for how God wants us to live our lives. The "wisdom psalms" make use of themes found in the wisdom books. For instance, the strong contrast between the righteous and the wicked found in the Book of Proverbs is found in Ps. 1. For other examples, see Ps. 37 and 49.

Poetic Style. No special knowledge is needed to recognize the poetic quality of the Psalter. Instead of sentences forming paragraphs, the psalms are composed of short poetic verses of nearly equal length. This characteristic is easily recognized on the printed page.

Poetry is deliberate communication that pays particular attention to its own form. The poetic language addresses not only the mind but the imagination and emotions. To say "The LORD is my Shepherd" (Ps. 23:1) does more than inform. The metaphor of a shepherd evokes a picture and touches the emotions in a way that a didactic statement would not.

Parallelism is the most obvious poetic device in Old Testament poetry. Ps. 6:1 is a good example:

> O LORD, do not rebuke me in Your anger,
> Nor chasten me in Your hot displeasure.

To interpret parallel lines, it is important to bear in mind that the second line continues and carries forward the thought of the first. In this verse, the first line asks the Lord not to punish in word, while the second part asks Him not to punish in deed.

Examples may be found of lines that are even more similar (Ps. 2:1) and of those where it is harder to recognize the connection (Ps. 2:6). But the general principle of interpretation is that the second half of a poetic verse carries forward the thought of the first half. See "Introduction to Hebrew Poetry."

Theology of the Psalms. Just as the Psalter was formed during the entire period of the Old Testament, so the theology of the psalms is as large as the Old Testament. Martin Luther called the Psalms "a little Bible, and the summary of the Old Testament."

Christian readers of the Psalms appreciate the relationship these ancient songs have to Jesus Christ. Jesus told His disciples after the Resurrection that "all things must be fulfilled which were written in the Law of Moses and the Prophets and the Psalms concerning Me" (Luke 24:44). The Old Testament, including the Psalms, looked forward to Christ's coming, His suffering, and His glory. Jesus and the New Testament writers use psalm after psalm to express His suffering (Matt. 27:46) and His glorification (Matt. 22:41–46). In addition, Jesus was revealed as the object of the worship of the psalms.

Since Christ is the Second Person of the Trinity, the hymns and laments of the psalms are directed to Him as to the Father and the Spirit. Jesus is both a singer of the psalms (Heb. 2:12) and the focus of their interest. We can sing to Him our praise, tell Him our complaints and petitions, and thank Him for His goodness. We extol Him as our King, rest our confidence in Him, and look to Him as the embodiment of God's wisdom.

The Curses of the Psalms. Some psalms cry out not only for the righteous to be vindicated, but also for God to punish the wicked (Ps. 69:22–28). Such prayers reflect the calling of Israel to holy war as God's instruments of judgment. With the coming of Christ to bear God's judgment, the warfare of God's people continues, directed now against "spiritual hosts of wickedness in the heavenly places" (Eph. 6:12). In their present warfare, Christians are commanded not to curse, but to bless their personal enemies, overcoming evil with good (Rom. 12:17–21).

Title "Psalms" means "songs" and is taken from the Septuagint, the early Greek translation of the Old Testament. The New Testament uses this name (Luke 20:42; 24:44; Acts 1:20). The corresponding Hebrew word mizmor occurs frequently in the psalms and means a vocal or instrumental song.□

PSALM 1

The Way of the Righteous and the End of the Ungodly

Blessed [a]is the man
Who walks not in the counsel of the [1]ungodly,
Nor stands in the path of sinners,
[b]Nor sits in the seat of the scornful;
2 But [c]his delight is in the law of the LORD,
[d]And in His law he [2]meditates day and night.
3 He shall be like a tree
[e]Planted by the [3]rivers of water,
That brings forth its fruit in its season,
Whose leaf also shall not wither;
And whatever he does shall [f]prosper.

4 The ungodly are not so,
But are [g]like the chaff which the wind drives away.

■ Ps. 1 Like the gateway to a sanctuary, one of the relatively few wisdom psalms introduces the whole collection. Before having close conversation with God, the reader's attitude toward the law of God has to be considered. The righteous person loves and studies it; the wicked person hates it.

■ 1:1 Blessed. A stronger word than "happy"; to be "blessed" is to enjoy God's special favor and grace.

walks not . . . Nor stands . . . Nor sits. The righteous man is described by what he avoids. There is a downward progression in the verbs "walks," "stands," and "sits."

■ 1:2 his delight. The righteous man is described as someone who loves the law of God. "Law" can refer to a specific command, but also to the whole Scripture. The righteous person grows by an obedient response to the Scriptures, which express the will of God.

■ 1:3 like a tree. As Joseph prospered in Egypt, so will the righteous man. He is compared to a luxuriant tree, ever blooming because water is near.

■ 1:4 The ungodly are not so. The contrast is strong. The wicked are compared to dead and rootless plants. A puff of wind carries them away.

5 Therefore the ungodly shall not stand in the judgment,
Nor sinners in the congregation of the righteous.

6 For [h]the LORD knows the way of the righteous,
But the way of the ungodly shall perish.

PSALM 2

The Messiah's Triumph and Kingdom

Why [a]do the [1]nations [2]rage,
And the people plot a [3]vain thing?
2 The kings of the earth set themselves,
And the [b]rulers take counsel together,
Against the LORD and against His [c]Anointed,[4] saying,
3 "Let [d]us break Their bonds in pieces
And cast away Their cords from us."

4 He who sits in the heavens [e]shall laugh;
The LORD shall hold them in derision.
5 Then He shall speak to them in His wrath,
And distress them in His deep displeasure:
6 "Yet I have [5]set My King
[6]On My holy hill of Zion."

7 "I will declare the [7]decree:
The LORD has said to Me,
[f]'You are My Son,
Today I have begotten You.
8 Ask of Me, and I will give You
The nations for Your inheritance,
And the ends of the earth for Your possession.
9 [g]You shall [8]break them with a rod of iron;
You shall dash them to pieces like a potter's vessel.' "

10 Now therefore, be wise, O kings;
Be instructed, you judges of the earth.
11 Serve the LORD with fear,
And rejoice with trembling.
12 [9]Kiss the Son, lest [i]He be angry,
And you perish in the way,
When [h]His wrath is kindled but a little.
[i]Blessed are all those who put their trust in Him.

■ 1:6 the LORD knows the way. The two ways of life are determined by one's relation to the Lord. The ideal of righteousness is fulfilled in Jesus Christ.

■ Ps. 2 The theme of kingship pervades this psalm. While most of the kingship psalms focus on either divine or human kingship, Ps. 2 masterfully integrates both, contrasting the divine King and His human counterpart with the hostile "kings of the earth." The psalm has no title, but the New Testament ascribes it to David (Acts 4:25). The New Testament frequently quotes and alludes to this psalm (Matt. 3:17; 17:5; Acts 4:25–27; 13:33; Rom. 1:4; Heb. 1:5; 5:5). Jesus Christ is the Son of David and the Son of God; the promises given to David come to fulfillment in Him.

■ 2:2 kings. The nations are being organized by their political leaders.

His Anointed. While the living Davidic king is undoubtedly in view for the psalmist, the ultimate reference of the song is to Christ, the King of Kings.

■ 2:3 break Their bonds. A metaphor for rebellion.

■ 2:4–6 The Lord answers His enemies with the installation of the King.

■ 2:6 My King. The Lord counters the plotting of the kings by pointing to the establishment of His messianic King, prefigured in the temporal monarchy of Jerusalem.

Zion. Zion is a hill north of the Davidic city of Jerusalem. It is not important because of its size, but because it is the location of the temple. Jerusalem as a whole is sometimes called Zion. Earthly Zion was a token of the heavenly Zion. Much of the symbolism of the temple pointed to heavenly realities.

■ 2:7 You are My Son. The divine speech addressed to the divine Son (cf. Heb. 1:5), with David as witness, reflects the promise of 2 Sam. 7:14—the "Davidic covenant," which had in view not merely David's earthly descendants, but the divine Son of whom David was also an ancestor.

■ 2:9 See "God Reigns: Divine Sovereignty" at Dan. 4:34.

■ 2:12 Kiss the Son. To kiss the Son is an act of submission (cf. 1 Sam. 10:1). The word "Son" is not the usual Hebrew term, but an unexpected Aramaic term.

PSALM 3

The LORD Helps His Troubled People

A Psalm of David [a] when he fled from Absalom his son.

LORD, how they have increased who trouble me!
Many are they who rise up against me.
2 Many are they who say of me,
"There is no help for him in God." Selah

3 But You, O LORD, are [b] a shield [1] for me,
My glory and [c] the One who lifts up my head.
4 I cried to the LORD with my voice,
And [d] He heard me from His [e] holy hill. Selah

5 [f] I lay down and slept;
I awoke, for the LORD sustained me.
6 [g] I will not be afraid of ten thousands of people
Who have set themselves against me all around.

7 Arise, O LORD;
Save me, O my God!
[h] For You have struck all my enemies on the cheekbone;
You have broken the teeth of the ungodly.
8 [i] Salvation belongs to the LORD.
Your blessing is upon Your people. Selah

The Safety of the Faithful

To the [1] Chief Musician. With stringed instruments. A Psalm of David.

Hear me when I call, O God of my righteousness!
You have relieved me in my distress;
[2] Have mercy on me, and hear my prayer.

2 How long, O you sons of men,
Will you turn my glory to shame?
How long will you love worthlessness
And seek falsehood? Selah
3 But know that [a] the LORD has [3] set apart for Himself him who is godly;
The LORD will hear when I call to Him.

title [1] Choir Director

1 [2] Be gracious to me

3 [a] [2 Tim. 2:19] [3] Many Heb. mss., LXX, Tg., Vg. made wonderful

■ Ps. 3 Surrounded by trouble and crying out to the Lord in distress, the psalmist expresses deep trust in God. The psalm was originally composed when David fled from Absalom and battled against revolt. The military terminology throughout the psalm may indicate that it continued to be used in warfare.

■ 3:1 Many . . . who rise up. The number and nature of the foes betrays the royal origin of the psalm. The foes of the nation are also the king's foes.

■ 3:3 lifts up my head. An expression of encouragement.

■ 3:4 holy hill. That is, Zion (see note on Ps. 2:6). God designated Zion as the place where His people could approach Him through sacrifice.

■ 3:5 I lay down and slept. As in Ps. 91, the psalmist is able to sleep in the war camp, though the enemy surrounds him.

■ 3:7 Arise. This expression is typical of psalms sung at the beginning of war. God fights for His people against their flesh and blood enemies.

■ Ps. 4 Like Ps. 3, this psalm was composed in distress, and the psalmist exhibits a deep confidence in God. Both psalms meditate on faith in the night (vv. 4, 8). The righteous have nothing to fear, because God hears their prayers and cares for them. The righteous are not without sin, but are in covenant relationship with God.

■ 4:1 Hear me . . . my righteousness. The imperative verbs in this verse show the boldness of the psalmist in prayer. He can fearlessly call on God because he knows that God is his righteousness (Jer. 23:6).

■ 4:2 turn my glory to shame. It seems that the psalmist is angry at men who turn away from God to serve the false gods of the nations.

worthlessness. Lit. "empty things."

seek falsehood. The idols of the nations are lies because they don't really exist; they are the figments of sinful imagination.

■ 4:3 godly. Those who are in covenant with God, the recipients of God's lovingkindness.

7 You have put [g]gladness in my heart,
More than in the season that their grain and wine increased.

9 [g]Rom. 3:13 [5]uprightness

To the Chief Musician. With [1]flutes. A Psalm of David.

Give [a]ear to my words, O LORD,
Consider my [2]meditation.
2 Give heed to the voice of my cry,
My King and my God,
For to You I will pray.
3 My voice You shall hear in the morning, O LORD;
[b]In the morning I will direct it to You,
And I will look up.

4 For You are not a God who takes pleasure in wickedness,
Nor shall evil [3]dwell with You.
5 The [c]boastful shall not [d]stand in Your sight;
You hate all workers of iniquity.
6 You shall destroy those who speak falsehood;
The LORD abhors the [e]bloodthirsty and deceitful man.

7 But as for me, I will come into Your house in the multitude of Your mercy;
In fear of You I will worship toward [4]Your holy temple.
8 [f]Lead me, O LORD, in Your righteousness because of my enemies;
Make Your way straight before my face.

9 For there is no [5]faithfulness in their mouth;
Their inward part is destruction;
[g]Their throat is an open tomb;
They flatter with their tongue.

■ 4:4 Be angry, and do not sin. Compare with Eph. 4:26. These are the sacrifices prescribed in Lev. 1—7, offered with a righteous attitude without which all sacrifice or worship is unacceptable (Ps. 40:6–8).

■ 4:6 good. The skeptics taunt that there is nothing good. The psalmist responds to their doubts with an appeal that God would reveal Himself.

light of Your countenance. The phrase resembles the priestly blessing found in Num. 6:25, 26.

■ 4:8 lie down in peace. God's intimate presence allows the psalmist to sleep peacefully and with full confidence. His heart is filled with spiritual blessing.

■ Ps. 5 This lament petitions the Lord in the midst of distress. However, the psalmist also expresses trust in the Lord's protection. The psalmist's distress is caused by the evil speech of the wicked.

■ 5:1 meditation. The Hebrew word implies a kind of muttering or scarcely audible speech, as would accompany memorizing and reflection (1:2).

■ 5:2 King. David, Israel's king, addresses God as his King. He knows that his own kingship is a pale reflection of God's.

■ 5:4 not a God who takes pleasure in wickedness. This is a poetic understatement. God hates sin (v. 5; 11:5).

Nor shall evil dwell. God is holy, "set apart" from all evil. Sinful people may not come into His presence without a substitutionary sacrifice.

■ 5:7 I will come into Your house. The psalmist protests his innocence by stating his desire to worship the Lord. "Your house" and "Your holy temple" may refer to the site where the temple would be built, or perhaps the tabernacle of the psalmist's own time (1 Sam. 1:9).

multitude of Your mercy. The writer knows that he is different from the wicked only because of God's grace. His own sin would destroy him if God did not have compassion on him as he approached God's presence.

■ 5:8 Your way. The path of safety that God opens is also the path of obedience to His will.

■ 5:9 destruction . . . open tomb. Note how evil speech brings death.

10 Pronounce them guilty, O God!
Let them fall by their own counsels;
Cast them out in the multitude of their transgressions,
For they have rebelled against You.

11 But let all those rejoice who put their trust in You;
Let them ever shout for joy, because You [6]defend them;
Let those also who love Your name
Be joyful in You.
12 For You, O LORD, will bless the righteous;
With favor You will surround him as with a shield.

PSALM 6

A Prayer of Faith in Time of Distress

To the Chief Musician. With stringed instruments. [a]On [f]an eight-stringed harp. A Psalm of David.

O LORD, [b]do not rebuke me in Your anger,
Nor chasten me in Your hot displeasure.
2 Have mercy on me, O LORD, for I am weak;
O LORD, [c]heal me, for my bones are troubled.
3 My soul also is greatly [d]troubled;
But You, O LORD—how long?

4 Return, O LORD, deliver me!
Oh, save me for Your mercies' sake!
5 [e]For in death there is no remembrance of You;
In the grave who will give You thanks?

6 I am weary with my groaning;
[2]All night I make my bed swim;
I drench my couch with my tears.
7 [f]My eye wastes away because of grief;
It grows old because of all my enemies.

8 [g]Depart from me, all you workers of iniquity;
For the LORD has [h]heard the voice of my weeping.
9 The LORD has heard my supplication;
The LORD will receive my prayer.
10 Let all my enemies be ashamed and greatly troubled;
Let them turn back and be ashamed suddenly.

6 [2]Or Every night

7 [f]Job 17:7; Ps. 31:9

8 [g][Matt. 25:41] [h]Ps. 3:4; 28:6

■ 5:10 Let them fall by their own counsels. The psalmist calls upon God to punish the wicked because they are guilty. Sin often brings its own retributive consequences.

■ Ps. 6 The psalm is an individual lament. As with many laments, the psalmist expresses his trust in the Lord at the end of the psalm. The occasion of the psalm appears to be a severe illness (vv. 2, 5). This psalm is one of seven "penitential psalms" (along with 32; 38; 51; 102; 130; 143).

■ 6:1 rebuke . . . chasten. The psalmist begs the Lord to refrain from verbal and physical punishment. Though God disciplines His people (Heb. 12:1–13), it is for correction and not destruction.

■ 6:2 I am weak . . . my bones are troubled. The psalmist experiences suffering, probably a serious illness. Some take the language as figurative for spiritual distress.

■ 6:3 how long. The psalmist boldly asks how long God will permit his suffering to continue. He desperately seeks relief from the One who is able to give it.

■ 6:4 Return, O LORD. The psalmist thinks that God has turned away from him.

Your mercies' sake. The word translated "mercy" indicates how devotedly God binds Himself to His people by His covenant.

■ 6:5 no remembrance. A similar statement is expressed in 30:9. The doctrine of resurrection, like the doctrine of the Trinity, is implicit in the Old Testament, but not developed fully until the New Testament. The living observe that the dead are silent and do not take part in worship.

grave. Hebrew sheol. This word is found most often in poetic passages that reveal the thoughts and fears of the living, but are not presentations of a doctrine of resurrection or of the intermediate state. See Is. 14:9–11 note.

■ 6:8 all you workers of iniquity. This reference, along with the reference to "enemies" in the preceding verse, is abrupt. It is possible that the foes are people, like the "friends" of Job, who blamed the patient's sickness on his sin.

PSALM 7

Prayer and Praise for Deliverance from Enemies

A [a]Meditation[1] of David, which he sang to the LORD [b]concerning the words of Cush, a Benjamite.

O LORD my God, in You I put my trust;
[c]Save me from all those who persecute me;
And deliver me,
2 [d]Lest they tear me like a lion,
[e]Rending me in pieces, while there is none to deliver.

3 O LORD my God, [f]if I have done this:
If there is [g]iniquity in my hands,
4 If I have repaid evil to him who was at peace with me,
Or [h]have plundered my enemy without cause,
5 Let the enemy pursue me and overtake me;
Yes, let him trample my life to the earth,
And lay my honor in the dust. Selah

6 Arise, O LORD, in Your anger;
[i]Lift Yourself up because of the rage of my enemies;
[j]Rise up [2]for me to the judgment You have commanded!
7 So the congregation of the peoples shall surround You;
For their sakes, therefore, return on high.
8 The LORD shall judge the peoples;
[k]Judge me, O LORD, [l]according to my righteousness,
And according to my integrity within me.

9 Oh, let the wickedness of the wicked come to an end,
But establish the just;
[m]For the righteous God tests the hearts and [3]minds.
10 [4]My defense is of God,
Who saves the [n]upright in heart.

11 God is a just judge,
And God is angry with the wicked every day.
12 If he does not turn back,
He will [o]sharpen His sword;
He bends His bow and makes it ready.
13 He also prepares for Himself instruments of death;
He makes His arrows into fiery shafts.

14 [p]Behold, the wicked brings forth iniquity;
Yes, he conceives trouble and brings forth falsehood.
15 He made a pit and dug it out,
[q]And has fallen into the ditch which he made.
16 [r]His trouble shall return upon his own head,
And his violent dealing shall come down on [5]his own crown.

17 I will praise the LORD according to His righteousness,
And will sing praise to the name of the LORD Most High.

■ Ps. 7 A lament and psalm of refuge by an innocent person beset by enemies. As one falsely accused of murder could find sanctuary in the house of God and appeal his case to God's judgment, so the psalmist commits his case to God. His protestations of innocence refer to specific charges and are not a claim to be sinless. See Ps. 11; 17; 26; 27; 31; 71.

■ 7:2 like a lion. Though not found in Israel today, lions were plentiful there in ancient times. The lion often symbolized power, cruelty, and ruthlessness (Is. 5:29; Nah. 2:11, 12).

■ 7:5 Let the enemy. He is not afraid to invoke a curse on himself, since he knows he is innocent.

■ 7:6 Arise. See 3:7 note.

■ 7:8 Judge. There is a judicial setting in this psalm of refuge. God must judge between the psalmist and his opponents.

■ 7:14, 15 conceives trouble . . . made a pit. These terms express the conviction that a sinner reaps what he sows. Sin brings its own retribution.

PSALM 8

The Glory of the LORD in Creation

To the Chief Musician. [1]On the instrument of Gath. A Psalm of David.

O LORD, our Lord,
How [a]excellent is Your name in all the earth,
Who have [b]set Your glory above the heavens!

2 [c]Out of the mouth of babes and nursing infants
You have [2]ordained strength,
Because of Your enemies,
That You may silence [d]the enemy and the avenger.

3 When I [e]consider Your heavens, the work of Your fingers,
The moon and the stars, which You have ordained,
4 [f]What is man that You are mindful of him,
And the son of man that You [g]visit[3] him?
5 For You have made him a little lower than [4]the angels,
And You have crowned him with glory and honor.

6 [h]You have made him to have dominion over the works of Your hands;
[i]You have put all things under his feet,
7 All sheep and oxen—
Even the beasts of the field,
8 The birds of the air,
And the fish of the sea
That pass through the paths of the seas.

9 [j]O LORD, our Lord,
How excellent is Your name in all the earth!

PSALM 9

title [1]Heb. Muth Labben

2 [a]Ps. 5:11; 104:34 [b][Ps. 83:18; 92:1]

■ Ps. 8 The subject of this hymn is the excellence of God in His works of creation, a major theme of the wisdom literature. The psalm can be called a wisdom poem. It ponders God's exaltation of lowly humanity in giving them dominion over creation (Gen. 1:28).

■ 8:1 LORD. The personal, or covenantal, name of God revealed to Moses at the burning bush (Ex. 3).

our Lord. A title, which can also be translated "governor" or "master." He is our Lord because He has established His covenant with His people.

How excellent is Your name. The repetition of this line at the end enhances the high note of reverence that pervades the psalm. "Name" signifies the character or reputation of God.

■ 8:2 babes . . . enemies. Note the contrast between the weak and the strong. However, because of God whose praise they sing, the weak silence the powerful. See Matt. 21:16.

■ 8:3 the work of Your fingers. The almost limitless universe is described as the work of God's fingers, emphasizing the power of God.

■ 8:4–6 This passage is applied to Jesus in Heb. 2:6–8. He was perfect Man as well as God. Jesus is the model of redeemed humanity and restored human dominion over creation (Gen. 1:28). See also 1 Cor. 15:27 and Eph. 1:22.

■ 8:4 What is man. See Job 7:17; 25:6; Ps. 144:3. In the vastness of the universe and against the greatness of God's power, man is little.

■ 8:5 angels. The Hebrew word 'elohim, here translated "angels," usually means "God," but it can mean "divine beings." If God were in view one would have expected, "You have made him a little lower than Yourself."

■ 8:6 dominion. The "cultural mandate" of Gen. 1:28 divinely confers on humanity the authority and responsibility for governing earthly life.

■ Ps. 9 This lament begins like a thanksgiving, but in v. 13 the psalmist turns to the Lord with new petitions, and the psalm concludes on this note. Probably Ps. 9 and 10 were originally a single psalm. Together they form a single acrostic (see Introduction to Hebrew Poetry).

■ 9:1 marvelous works. The Hebrew word refers to the great acts of God, His intervention in human affairs, as at the Exodus from Egypt.

3 When my enemies turn back,
They shall fall and perish at Your presence.
4 For You have maintained my right and my cause;
You sat on the throne judging in righteousness.
5 You have rebuked the [2]nations,
You have destroyed the wicked;
You have [c]blotted out their name forever and ever.

6 O enemy, destructions are finished forever!
And you have destroyed cities;
Even their memory has [d]perished.
7 [e]But the LORD shall endure forever;
He has prepared His throne for judgment.
8 [f]He shall judge the world in righteousness,
And He shall administer judgment for the peoples in uprightness.

9 The LORD also will be a [g]refuge[3] for the oppressed,
A refuge in times of trouble.
10 And those who [h]know Your name will put their trust in You;
For You, LORD, have not forsaken those who seek You.

11 Sing praises to the LORD, who dwells in Zion!
[i]Declare His deeds among the people.
12 [j]When He avenges blood, He remembers them;
He does not forget the cry of the [4]humble.

13 Have mercy on me, O LORD!
Consider my trouble from those who hate me,
You who lift me up from the gates of death,
14 That I may tell of all Your praise
In the gates of [5]the daughter of Zion.
I will [k]rejoice in Your salvation.

15 [l]The [6]nations have sunk down in the pit which they made;
In the net which they hid, their own foot is caught.
16 The LORD is [m]known by the judgment He executes;
The wicked is snared in the work of his own hands.
[n]Meditation.[7] Selah

17 The wicked shall be turned into hell,
And all the [8]nations [o]that forget God.
18 [p]For the needy shall not always be forgotten;
[q]The expectation of the poor shall not perish forever.

■ 9:3 When my enemies turn back. This is a statement of future hope, not past reality.

■ 9:4 throne judging in righteousness. The psalmist is not confident in himself, but in God's character as the righteous Judge.

■ 9:5 blotted out their name. To be remembered no more, contrasted with God's name (v. 2), which will be praised forever.

■ 9:11 dwells in Zion. See 2:6 note. The afflicted should know that God is present with them in the world.

■ 9:12 avenges blood. Lit. "seeks blood." God does not let wickedness go unpunished (Gen. 9:6; Nah. 1:2–6).

■ 9:13 gates of death. See Prov. 1:12 note. This verse is the first sign of the psalmist's present distress.

■ 9:14 the gates of the daughter of Zion. Contrasted with "gates of death" in the previous verse. The psalmist will praise God for answered prayer in the most public places in Jerusalem, the "daughter of Zion."

■ 9:15 have sunk down in the pit which they made. See Ps. 7:14–16. The wickedness of such enemies will come back to haunt them.

■ 9:17 wicked. Further defined in the second half of the verse as "all the nations that forget God."

hell. Hebrew sheol (Prov. 1:12 note).

■ 9:18 the needy . . . the poor. The phrase "the poor and the needy" (35:10; 74:21; Prov. 31:9; Ezek. 18:12) is a fixed expression in the Old Testament, and the words also appear frequently in parallel (72:12; Job 24:4; Is. 32:7; Amos 8:4). The meaning is frequently literal poverty, but the words may also be used figuratively to express total dependence on God (40:17; 86:1; 109:22; also Matt. 5:3 and Luke 6:20). Poverty is not itself meritorious, but God gives special attention to the cries of the oppressed (12:5; 72:4 note). Jeremiah equates bringing "justice and righteousness" to the "poor and needy" with "knowing Me" (Jer. 22:15, 16). This was an explicit responsibility of those in power.

19 Arise, O LORD,
Do not let man prevail;
Let the [9]nations be judged in Your sight.
20 Put them in fear, O LORD,
That the [1]nations may know themselves to be but men. Selah

PSALM 10

A Song of Confidence in God's Triumph over Evil

Why do You stand afar off, O LORD?
Why do You hide in times of trouble?
2 The wicked in his pride [1]persecutes the poor;
[a]Let them be caught in the plots which they have devised.

3 For the wicked [b]boasts of his heart's desire;
[2]He [c]blesses the greedy and renounces the LORD.
4 The wicked in his proud countenance does not seek God;
[3]God is in none of his [d]thoughts.

5 His ways [4]are always prospering;
Your judgments are far above, out of his sight;
As for all his enemies, he sneers at them.
6 [e]He has said in his heart, "I shall not be moved;
[f]I shall never be in adversity."
7 [g]His mouth is full of cursing and [h]deceit and oppression;
Under his tongue is trouble and iniquity.

8 He sits in the lurking places of the villages;
In the secret places he murders the innocent;
His eyes are secretly fixed on the helpless.
9 He lies in wait secretly, as a lion in his den;
He lies in wait to catch the poor;
He catches the poor when he draws him into his net.
10 So [5]he crouches, he lies low,
That the helpless may fall by his [6]strength.
11 He has said in his heart,
"God has forgotten;
He hides His face;
He will never see."

12 Arise, O LORD!
O God, [i]lift up Your hand!
Do not forget the [j]humble.
13 Why do the wicked renounce God?
He has said in his heart,
"You will not require an account."

■ Ps. 10 This psalm has no title. In its original form, it was likely combined with Ps. 9 (see above on Ps. 9). Taken separately the psalm would be an individual lament, bemoaning the wicked who victimize the righteous and calling on God to restore justice.

■ 10:1 Why do You stand afar off. The psalmist is more troubled by the apparent absence of God than by the presence of enemies.

■ 10:3 blesses . . . renounces. The wicked person's ethical judgments are upside-down. He should bless the Lord and reject the greedy.

■ 10:5 always prospering. From the perspective of the oppressed, it appears that the oppressor has no troubles (Ps. 73:12).

■ 10:6 I shall not be moved. This attitude of self-trust brought trouble to the psalmist himself (Ps. 30:6). Confidence must be in God, not in one's own ability.

■ 10:7 mouth . . . tongue. Sins of speech are the focus of attention. Rom. 3:14 alludes to this verse.

■ 10:8 sits in the lurking places. The metaphor of the wicked in ambush is well known from Proverbs (Prov. 1:11).

secretly. The wicked prefer to work in darkness, not in the light (John 3:19).

■ 10:9 into his net. The wicked is a hunter of the helpless.

■ 10:12 Arise, O LORD. See note on 3:7.

PSALM 11

Faith in the LORD's Righteousness

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David.

In [a]the LORD I put my trust;
How can you say to my soul,
"Flee as a bird to your mountain"?
2 For look! [b]The wicked bend their bow,
They make ready their arrow on the string,
That they may shoot [1]secretly at the upright in heart.
3 [c]If the foundations are destroyed,
What can the righteous do?

4 The LORD is in His holy temple,
The LORD's [d]throne is in heaven;
[e]His eyes behold,
His eyelids test the sons of men.
5 The LORD [f]tests the righteous,
But the wicked and the one who loves violence His soul hates.
6 Upon the wicked He will rain coals;
Fire and brimstone and a burning wind
[g]Shall be [2]the portion of their cup.

7 For the LORD is righteous,
He [h]loves righteousness;
[3]His countenance beholds the upright.

■ 10:14 fatherless. In the ancient Near East the fatherless and the widow were extreme examples of helplessness, since they had no kinship protection.

■ 10:16 King. God is covenant LORD; see Introduction: Characteristics and Themes.

nations. Those who worship other gods and persecute God's people.

■ 10:17, 18 justice to the fatherless. The lament concludes with a strong statement of trust in God, who delivers the weak from oppression. Men terrify, but God overrules the wickedness in men.

■ Ps. 11 Another psalm of refuge. Threatened by his enemies, the psalmist puts his confidence in God.

■ 11:1 to your mountain. Possibly, "from your mountain." If it is "to your mountain," then the advice is to flee the city for a mountain fortress. If it is "from your mountain," the reference is to Zion. In either case David is being advised by others to find salvation elsewhere than in God.

■ 11:2 bow . . . arrow. While the psalm may have had an original military setting, and would find an appropriate use during periods of war, the image could also refer to other types of affliction as well.

■ 11:3 foundations. That is, of the kingdom conceived as a political entity; including its economy, military, and the like.

righteous. Or perhaps this is a reference to God: "Righteous One." The next few verses go on to describe what God is doing.

■ 11:4 throne. As King of the universe, God is in control. Nothing escapes His notice. Not even the actions of the wicked are beyond His purview.

■ 11:6 Fire and brimstone. Reminiscent of the judgment on Sodom and Gomorrah (Gen. 19:24). Evil will be completely burned up.

the portion of their cup. There is a cup of God's blessing (Ps. 23:5) as well as a cup of His wrath. The wicked will drink wrath to its dregs (75:8). Jesus Christ took His people's punishment upon Himself by drinking the cup of God's judgment.

■ 11:7 His countenance. God will make His presence known to His people in the darkness. In the resurrection of the just this hope will be realized.

PSALM 12

Man's Treachery and God's Constancy

To the Chief Musician. [a]On [1]an eight-stringed harp. A Psalm of David.

Help,[2] LORD, for the godly man [b]ceases!
For the faithful disappear from among the sons of men.
2 [c]They speak idly everyone with his neighbor;
With flattering lips and [3]a double heart they speak.

3 May the LORD [4]cut off all flattering lips,
And the tongue that speaks [5]proud things,
4 Who have said,
"With our tongue we will prevail;
Our lips are our own;
Who is lord over us?"

5 "For the oppression of the poor, for the sighing of the needy,
Now I will arise," says the LORD;
"I will set him in the safety for which he yearns."

6 The words of the LORD are [d]pure words,
Like silver tried in a furnace of earth,
Purified seven times.
7 You shall keep them, O LORD,
You shall preserve them from this generation forever.

8 The wicked prowl on every side,
When vileness is exalted among the sons of men.

PSALM 13

Trust in the Salvation of the LORD

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David.

How long, O LORD? Will You forget me forever?
[a]How long will You hide Your face from me?
2 How long shall I take counsel in my soul,
Having sorrow in my heart daily?
How long will my enemy be exalted over me?

3 Consider and hear me, O LORD my God;
[b]Enlighten my eyes,
[c]Lest I sleep the sleep of death;
4 Lest my enemy say,
"I have prevailed against him";
Lest those who trouble me rejoice when I am moved.

5 But I have trusted in Your mercy;
My heart shall rejoice in Your salvation.

■ 12:1 the godly man ceases. Like Elijah in 1 Kin. 19:14, the psalmist feels alone in his devotion to the Lord.

■ 12:2 They speak idly. Lit. "they speak lies," or "emptiness," including outright falsehoods, but also insincere and irresponsible talk, which cheapens and corrodes all human communication.

■ 12:3 cut off. To be "cut off" usually means to be excluded from the community, but occasionally may mean death.

■ 12:5 arise. See Ps. 3:7 note.

■ Ps. 13 A lament expressed from the perspective of an individual. The situation of distress is not clearly defined, allowing multiple applications. If "enemy" is taken literally, warfare is in view. Or the psalmist may be ill and near death (v. 3).

■ 13:1 How long. See note on Ps. 6:3. The fourfold repetition expresses his anguish.

■ 13:5 mercy. A covenant term, specifically, gracious devotion, the love by which God has bound Himself to His people.

shall rejoice. Contrast v. 4. The enemy rejoices in the fall (death) of the psalmist; God, in his salvation.

6 I will sing to the LORD,
Because He has dealt bountifully with me.

PSALM 14

Folly of the Godless, and God's Final Triumph

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David.

The [a]fool has said in his heart,
"There is no God."
They are corrupt,
They have done abominable works,
There is none who does good.

2 [b]The LORD looks down from heaven upon the children of men,
To see if there are any who understand, who seek God.
3 [c]They have all turned aside,
They have together become corrupt;
There is none who does good,
No, not one.

4 Have all the workers of iniquity no knowledge,
Who eat up my people as they eat bread,
And [d]do not call on the LORD?
5 There they are in great fear,
For God is with the generation of the righteous.
6 You shame the counsel of the poor,
But the LORD is his [e]refuge.

7 [f]Oh,[1] that the salvation of Israel would come out of Zion!
[g]When the LORD brings back [2]the captivity of His people,
Let Jacob rejoice and Israel be glad.

PSALM 15

The Character of Those Who May Dwell with the LORD

A Psalm of David.

Who may dwell in Your holy hill?

And works righteousness,
And speaks the [b]truth in his heart;

PSALM 15

1 [a]Ps. 24:3–5 [1]sojourn
2 [b]Zech. 8:16; [Eph. 4:25]

■ Ps. 14 This psalm has an attitude of quiet meditation while focusing on human evil. See Ps. 53, which has a similar opening.

■ 14:1 fool. The fool may be highly intelligent by the world's standards, but is oblivious to the true nature of reality (Eccl. 2:14). To be called a fool is a moral judgment.

There is no God. The fool denies the existence of God as a matter of human concern. This is practical atheism. God is held to be unconcerned about the affairs of the world and especially the affairs of the individual. See "Mankind's Guilty Knowledge of God" at Rom. 1:19.

corrupt. Note the use of this psalm by Paul in Rom. 3:10–18. Foolishness points to lack of morality, not absence of native intellect.

■ 14:2 who seek God. Fallen man does not actively seek God.

■ 14:4 as they eat bread. The wicked exploit people frequently and without feeling guilt. It is as natural to them as eating bread.

■ 14:6 his refuge. God can overrule the wicked plans of evildoers for the good of the afflicted. This principle is stated by Joseph (Gen. 50:20), and is applied to the Crucifixion in Acts 2:22–24.

■ 14:7 out of Zion. The place where God most personally and directly revealed His presence.

■ Ps. 15 This psalm, reminiscent of Ps. 1, focuses on the requirements for approaching God's presence at the sanctuary. It is similar to Ps. 24:3–6. The two passages (cf. also Is. 33:14–16) have been called "entrance liturgies," since they answer the question, "Who can enter the holy place of God?"

■ 15:1 tabernacle. Lit. "tent." Before the temple was built, the symbol of God's dwelling with His people was a tent.

holy hill. Mount Zion, where the temple was located.

■ 15:2–5 The ten requirements for entrance are ethical, not formal or liturgical.

3 He who [c]does not backbite with his tongue,
Nor does evil to his neighbor,
[d]Nor does he [2]take up a reproach against his friend;
4 [e]In whose eyes a vile person is despised,
But he honors those who fear the LORD;
He who [f]swears to his own hurt and does not change;
5 He who does not put out his money at usury,
Nor does he take a bribe against the innocent.

He who does these things [g]shall never be moved.

PSALM 16

The Hope of the Faithful, and the Messiah's Victory

A [a]Michtam of David.

Preserve[1] me, O God, for in You I put my trust.

2 O my soul, you have said to the LORD,
"You are my Lord,
[b]My goodness is nothing apart from You."
3 As for the saints who are on the earth,
"They are the excellent ones, in [c]whom is all my delight."

4 Their sorrows shall be multiplied who hasten after another god;
Their drink offerings of [d]blood I will not offer,
[e]Nor take up their names on my lips.

5 O LORD, You are the portion of my inheritance and my cup;
You [2]maintain my lot.
6 The lines have fallen to me in pleasant places;
Yes, I have a good inheritance.

7 I will bless the LORD who has given me counsel;
My [3]heart also instructs me in the night seasons.
8 [f]I have set the LORD always before me;
Because He is at my right hand I shall not be moved.

9 Therefore my heart is glad, and my glory rejoices;
My flesh also will [4]rest in hope.
10 [g]For You will not leave my soul in [5]Sheol,
Nor will You allow Your Holy One to [6]see corruption.
11 You will show me the [h]path of life;

■ 15:4 to his own hurt. Alternatively, "and does not falter." The point is the same: when he promises, the righteous person fulfills his word.

■ 15:5 not . . . at usury. See Deut. 23:19, 20. A foreigner could be charged interest, but not a fellow Israelite. Loans were intended to relieve extreme need, and such interest was a form of exploitation.

■ Ps. 16 This psalm expresses confidence in the Lord, though it is difficult to tell whether the crisis is past or present to the psalmist. Death may be imminent for him (v. 10).

■ 16:1 An invocation of the Lord and a plea for help. This line indicates that the crisis is still present to the psalmist.

■ 16:3 saints. Lit. "those who are set apart," God's elect people.

■ 16:4 another god. The danger of worshiping other gods was always present in Israel (cf. 1 Kin. 18). The psalms emphasize that the powers and epithets ascribed to the pagan gods really belong to Yahweh (Ps. 29).

offerings of blood . . . names. That is, of foreign gods. These are two examples of ways that the religious systems of the surrounding nations tried to compel their gods to help them.

■ 16:5 portion . . . cup . . . lot. Three metaphors that describe life as a gift of God.

■ 16:6 lines. Once again, probably metaphoric for the psalmist's quality of life. Not only is the life that God has given him secure (v. 5), it is also "pleasant."

■ 16:7 heart. Lit. "kidneys." Like "heart," it stands for the core of a person's being.

■ 16:10 You will not leave my soul in Sheol. The immediate application of this psalm is to David and to the Old Testament saints. It refers to deliverance from the immediate threat of death, but it points prophetically to the Son of David whom the historical David reflected and anticipated. Both Peter and Paul recognized that Jesus was the ultimate fulfillment of this psalm (Acts 2:25–28; 13:35).

Prayer with Confidence in Final Salvation

A Prayer of David.

Hear a just cause, O LORD,
Attend to my cry;
Give ear to my prayer which is not from deceitful lips.
2 Let my vindication come from Your presence;
Let Your eyes look on the things that are upright.

3 You have tested my heart;
You have visited me in the night;
[a]You have [1]tried me and have found [2]nothing;
I have purposed that my mouth shall not [b]transgress.
4 Concerning the works of men,
By the word of Your lips,
I have kept away from the paths of the destroyer.
5 [c]Uphold my steps in Your paths,
That my footsteps may not slip.

6 [d]I have called upon You, for You will hear me, O God;
Incline Your ear to me, and hear my speech.
7 Show Your marvelous lovingkindness by Your right hand,
O You who [3]save those who trust in You
From those who rise up against them.
8 Keep me as the [4]apple of Your eye;
Hide me under the shadow of Your wings,
9 From the wicked who oppress me,
From my deadly enemies who surround me.

10 They have closed up their [e]fat hearts;
With their mouths they [f]speak proudly.
11 They have now surrounded us in our steps;
They have set their eyes, crouching down to the earth,
12 As a lion is eager to tear his prey,
And like a young lion lurking in secret places.

13 Arise, O LORD,
Confront him, cast him down;
Deliver my life from the wicked with Your sword,

■ Ps. 17 A psalm of refuge whose title is "Prayer." The Book of Psalms is a prayer book as well as a collection of hymns.

■ 17:1 my prayer. The psalmist is not denying that he is a sinner. He is denying specific charges made against him.

■ 17:2 vindication. Lit. "judgment." The psalmist appeals his case to God.

■ 17:3 tested my heart. Here, the "heart" is the hidden center of a person's being, but God can read the heart.

■ 17:4 word of Your lips. God's will, disclosed in the law of God.

■ 17:5 Your paths. These ways, as spelled out in God's Word, are to be contrasted with the "paths of the destroyer" (v. 4).

■ 17:7 marvelous lovingkindness. The Hebrew word denotes God's love toward those with whom He is in covenant relationship.

You who save. The psalmist could look back over the history of Israel and see how many times God saved His people in distress. The Exodus from Egypt is the prime example of God's saving love.

■ 17:8 apple. The pupil, one of the most sensitive parts of the body (Deut. 32:10).

■ 17:10 their fat hearts. An alternative translation is "their fat," a caricature of their physical appearance.

■ 17:11 surrounded us. The enemy has taken the initiative to destroy the psalmist.

■ 17:12 lion. Commonly known for its ruthlessness and cruelty. Cf. Ps. 7:2; 10:9; 22:13.

■ 17:13 Arise. Ps. 3:7 note.

14 With Your hand from men, O LORD,
From men of the world who have their portion in this life,
And whose belly You fill with Your hidden treasure.
They are satisfied with children,
And leave the rest of their possession for their babes.

15 As for me, [g]I will see Your face in righteousness;
[h]I shall be satisfied when I [i]awake in Your likeness.

PSALM 18

God the Sovereign Savior

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David [a]the servant of the LORD, who spoke to the LORD the words of [b]this song on the day that the LORD delivered him from the hand of all his enemies and from the hand of Saul. And he said:

I [c]will love You, O LORD, my strength.
2 The LORD is my rock and my fortress and my deliverer;
My God, my [1]strength, [d]in whom I will trust;
My shield and the [2]horn of my salvation, my stronghold.
3 I will call upon the LORD, [e]who is worthy to be praised;
So shall I be saved from my enemies.

4 [f]The pangs of death surrounded me,
And the floods of [3]ungodliness made me afraid.
5 The sorrows of Sheol surrounded me;
The snares of death confronted me.
6 In my distress I called upon the LORD,
And cried out to my God;
He heard my voice from His temple,
And my cry came before Him, even to His ears.

7 [g]Then the earth shook and trembled;
The foundations of the hills also quaked and were shaken,
Because He was angry.
8 Smoke went up from His nostrils,
And devouring fire from His mouth;
Coals were kindled by it.
9 [h]He bowed the heavens also, and came down
With darkness under His feet.
10 [i]And He rode upon a cherub, and flew;
[j]He flew upon the wings of the wind.

■ 17:14 whose belly You fill. This verse expresses the general truth that the righteous will not want.

■ 17:15 will see Your face. The psalmist will know God's presence, hinting at his resurrection in the "likeness" of God (1 John 3:2).

■ Ps. 18 The psalm thanks the Lord for a great deliverance. The same psalm appears in 2 Sam. 22 with minor differences.

■ 18:title See Introduction: Author; Characteristics and Themes. The title unambiguously attributes this psalm to David.

■ 18:1 love. Not the usual Hebrew word for love, it emphasizes intimacy, expressing David's personal devotion.

■ 18:2 rock. This term connotes protection. When David fled from Saul, he could find refuge in the caves and cliffs of the dry streambeds.

horn. See text note.

■ 18:4 pangs of death. The tentacles of death rise up from Sheol, the underworld, to drag the psalmist down.

floods of ungodliness. The powers of evil and death are frequently likened to an overwhelming flood (Is. 28:15, 17, 18; Matt. 16:18; Ps. 46:2 note; 69:1, 2 notes).

■ 18:6 from His temple. The place of God's special presence. At the dedication of the temple Solomon indicated that this was the proper response to trouble (1 Kin. 8).

■ 18:7 the earth . . . trembled. When God reveals Himself as a warrior, nature convulses (Is. 24:4–13; Nah. 1:5).

hills. The hills symbolize all that is firm and established in the world, but they shake before the might of God.

■ 18:8 nostrils . . . mouth. The nostrils and mouth are standard figures of speech for anger. Smoke and fire often accompany a theophany (a visual self-revelation of God; Gen. 15:17; Ex. 19:18; Nah. 1:6).

■ 18:9 darkness under His feet. God is pictured as coming with the storm clouds into battle. This portrayal is frequent in the Bible (Ps. 68:4; 104:3; Nah. 1:3; Dan. 7:13). In the New Testament, Christ is portrayed as coming in the clouds (Mark 13:26; Rev. 1:7).

■ 18:10 cherub. Angelic beings first mentioned in Gen. 3:24. Their role

11 [k]He made darkness His secret place;
[k]His canopy around Him was dark waters
And thick clouds of the skies.
12 [l]From the brightness before Him,
His thick clouds passed with hailstones and coals of fire.

13 The LORD thundered from heaven,
And the Most High uttered [m]His voice,
[4]Hailstones and coals of fire.
14 [n]He sent out His arrows and scattered [5]the foe,
Lightnings in abundance, and He vanquished them.
15 Then the channels of the sea were seen,
The foundations of the world were uncovered
At Your rebuke, O LORD,
At the blast of the breath of Your nostrils.

16 [o]He sent from above, He took me;
He drew me out of many waters.
17 He delivered me from my strong enemy,
From those who hated me,
For they were too strong for me.
18 They confronted me in the day of my calamity,
But the LORD was my support.
19 [p]He also brought me out into a broad place;
He delivered me because He delighted in me.

20 [q]The LORD rewarded me according to my righteousness;
According to the cleanness of my hands
He has recompensed me.
21 For I have kept the ways of the LORD,
And have not wickedly departed from my God.
22 For all His judgments were before me,
And I did not put away His statutes from me.
23 I was also blameless [6]before Him,
And I kept myself from my iniquity.
24 [r]Therefore the LORD has recompensed me according to my righteousness,
According to the cleanness of my hands in His sight.

25 [s]With the merciful You will show Yourself merciful;
With a blameless man You will show Yourself blameless;
26 With the pure You will show Yourself pure;
And [t]with the devious You will show Yourself shrewd.
27 For You will save the humble people,
But will bring down [u]haughty looks.

28 [v]For You will light my lamp;
The LORD my God will enlighten my darkness.

- 18:13 voice. Thunder; cf. Ps. 29:3–9.
- 18:14 His arrows. Lightning.
- 18:15 were seen . . . uncovered. When God appears as a defender of His people, the waters representing chaos and evil shrink back. Compare 77:16–19 (reflecting on the Exodus from Egypt); Nah. 1:4; Rev. 21:1.

rebuke. God controls the chaotic waters of the sea (Ps. 106:9). Jesus shows Himself to be the Second Person of the Trinity by silencing the chaotic waters with His rebuke (Luke 8:22–25).

- 18:16 many waters. Symbolic of trouble and distress (Ps. 69:2).
- 18:19 broad place. This may be an allusion to the Exodus and the conquest of Canaan. God delivered Israel from many waters (Red Sea) and brought them to a broad place (the Promised Land). The broad place contrasts with a narrow one, from which it would be hard or impossible to escape from an enemy.
- 18:21 ways of the LORD. God's covenant law.
- 18:25 merciful . . . show Yourself merciful. The term translated "merciful" has reference to God's special lovingkindness toward those with whom He is in covenant relationship.
- 18:27 You will save the humble. A constant teaching of the Old Testament and the Psalms, most notably Ps. 113:7–9.

29 For by You I can [7]run against a troop,
By my God I can leap over a wall.
30 As for God, [w]His way is perfect;
[x]The word of the LORD is [8]proven;
He is a shield [y]to all who trust in Him.

31 [z]For who is God, except the LORD?
And who is a rock, except our God?
32 It is God who [a]arms me with strength,
And makes my way perfect.
33 [b]He makes my feet like the feet of deer,
And [c]sets me on my high places.
34 [d]He teaches my hands to make war,
So that my arms can bend a bow of bronze.

35 You have also given me the shield of Your salvation;
Your right hand has held me up,
Your gentleness has made me great.
36 You enlarged my path under me,
[e]So my feet did not slip.

37 I have pursued my enemies and overtaken them;
Neither did I turn back again till they were destroyed.
38 I have wounded them,
So that they could not rise;
They have fallen under my feet.
39 For You have armed me with strength for the battle;
You have [9]subdued under me those who rose up against me.
40 You have also given me the necks of my enemies,
So that I destroyed those who hated me.
41 They cried out, but there was none to save;
[f]Even to the LORD, but He did not answer them.
42 Then I beat them as fine as the dust before the wind;
I [g]cast them out like dirt in the streets.

43 You have delivered me from the strivings of the people;
[h]You have made me the head of the [1]nations;
[i]A people I have not known shall serve me.
44 As soon as they hear of me they obey me;
The foreigners [2]submit to me.
45 [j]The foreigners fade away,
And come frightened from their hideouts.

46 The LORD lives!
Blessed be my Rock!
Let the God of my salvation be exalted.

■ 18:29 against a troop. A glimpse at the original inspiration of the verse. It appears as if the psalmist is waging war.

■ 18:30 The word of the LORD. His revelation to His people. Since this is a psalm of David in a warfare setting, perhaps the reference is more specifically to 2 Sam. 7, the Davidic covenant, where God promises to be David's Father and God.

■ 18:31 except the LORD. The use of these rhetorical questions is emphatic: there is no one like the Lord (Ex. 15:11).

■ 18:34 bow of bronze. Bows were constructed primarily of wood, at times reinforced with metal. The bronze bow is meant to suggest the psalmist's God-given strength.

■ 18:36 my feet did not slip. Paths are narrow and rocky in Israel permitting slipping and injury to a soldier. The divinely enabled, steadfast faith of David is illustrated.

■ 18:38–40 under my feet . . . necks of my enemies. Ancient Near Eastern tablets and stone memorials show enemies under the feet of conquerors and bowing before their captors.

■ 18:41 They cried . . . Even to the LORD. This indicates that the psalmist was battling fellow Israelites.

■ 18:43 me. David's personal imprint is strong here. God granted him victories over neighboring nations that were brought under his rule (2 Sam. 8:1–14).

PSALM 19

The Perfect Revelation of the LORD

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David.

The [a]heavens declare the glory of God;
And the [b]firmament[1] shows [2]His handiwork.
2 Day unto day utters speech,
And night unto night reveals knowledge.
3 There is no speech nor language
Where their voice is not heard.
4 [c]Their [3]line has gone out through all the earth,
And their words to the end of the world.

General Revelation

God's world is not a veil hiding the Creator's power and majesty; "the heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament shows His handiwork" (Ps. 19:1). The natural order proves that there is a mighty and majestic Creator. Paul says the same in Rom. 1:19–21, and in Acts 17:28 calls Aratus, a Greek poet, to witness that every living person was created by the same God. Paul also affirms that the goodness of the Creator is evident from kindly providences (Acts 14:17; cf. Rom. 2:4), and that some at least of the demands of His law are apparent to every human conscience (Rom. 2:14, 15), along with the uncomfortable certainty of eventual judgment (Rom. 1:32). These evident certainties are the content of general revelation.

General revelation is so called because it comes to everyone, just through their being alive in God's world. God has revealed Himself this way from the start of human history. He actively discloses these aspects of Himself to everyone, so that failure to thank and serve the Creator is always a sin against knowledge. In the end no denial of having received this knowledge will be admitted. Paul uses God's universal revelation of His power and goodness as the basis for his indictment of the whole human race as sinful and guilty before God for our failure to serve Him as we should (Rom. 1:18—3:19).

God has added to general revelation the further revelation of Himself as the Savior of sinners through Jesus Christ. This revelation, accomplished in history and written in Scripture, is called "special revelation." It includes explicit verbal statement of all that general revelation tells us about God. □

■ 18:49 among the Gentiles. Quoted by Paul in Rom. 15:9 as fulfilled in Christ, who brings the Gentiles to join in His praise of God the Father.

■ 18:50 anointed. At his coronation, the king was anointed with oil by the priest. Jesus Christ, David's Lord and descendant, fulfills this psalm.

■ Ps. 19 The psalm praises the Lord for His two great gifts to humanity: creation and the law. To use modern terminology, the psalm speaks of God's general revelation in nature and His special revelation in Scripture.

■ 19:1–6 God is revealed in His creation, but people resist what they see (Rom. 1:18–20).

■ 19:1 heavens. The psalmist uses creation language here; compare Gen. 1:1–8, where this word has been translated "firmament" or ("expanse"). See theological note "General Revelation."

■ 19:2 utters speech. This metaphor claims that the creation, specifically the heavens, constantly attests God's power and goodness.

■ 19:4 all the earth. God's revelation in creation is open to all who do not suppress it. Paul applies this verse to gospel proclamation (Rom. 10:18).

In them He has set a [4]tabernacle for the sun,
5 Which is like a bridegroom coming out of his chamber,
[d]And rejoices like a strong man to run its race.
6 Its rising is from one end of heaven,
And its circuit to the other end;
And there is nothing hidden from its heat.

7 [e]The law of the LORD is perfect, [5]converting the soul;
The testimony of the LORD is sure, making [f]wise the simple;
8 The statutes of the LORD are right, rejoicing the heart;
The commandment of the LORD is pure, enlightening the eyes;
9 The fear of the LORD is clean, enduring forever;
The judgments of the LORD are true and righteous altogether.
10 More to be desired are they than [g]gold,
Yea, than much fine gold;
Sweeter also than honey and the [6]honeycomb.
11 Moreover by them Your servant is warned,
And in keeping them there is great reward.

12 Who can understand his errors?
[h]Cleanse me from secret faults.
13 Keep back Your servant also from [i]presumptuous sins;
Let them not have [j]dominion over me.
Then I shall be blameless,
And I shall be innocent of [7]great transgression.

14 [k]Let the words of my mouth and the meditation of my heart
Be acceptable in Your sight,
O LORD, my [8]strength and my [l]Redeemer.

PSALM 20

The Assurance of God's Saving Work

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David.

May the LORD answer you in the day of trouble;
May the name of the God of Jacob [1]defend you;
2 May He send you help from the sanctuary,
And strengthen you out of Zion;
3 May He remember all your offerings,
And accept your burnt sacrifice. Selah

4 May He grant you according to your heart's desire,
And [a]fulfill all your [2]purpose.
5 We will rejoice in your salvation,

PSALM 20
1 [1]Lit. set you on high
4 [a]Ps. 21:2 [2]counsel

set a tabernacle. The sun is personified throughout this section, but not deified as in other ancient Near Eastern religions. The context indicates that the reference to the tabernacle (tent) is probably an allusion to its absence from the nighttime sky.

■ 19:5 like a strong man. Robust and strong as it courses across the sky, the sun is God's creation. If it is powerful, how much more is God.

■ 19:6 nothing. Nothing escapes the heat of the sun, and nothing can hide from the Creator.

■ 19:7–11 The law, God's special revelation, reflects the character of its author. Different names are used for the law, synonyms that point to the whole of God's special revelation to humanity.

■ 19:7 law. Torah, the most general term for the law.

converting the soul. God's Word transforms the lives of those subject to that Word.

making wise. Wisdom is not superior intellectual power. God's Word instills reverence for God.

■ 19:12, 13 secret faults . . . presumptuous sins. The psalmist knows that he sins consciously and unconsciously, in ignorance of what God requires. He prays against both faults.

I shall be blameless. Only by God's grace.

■ 20:1 you. The king. The congregation calls upon the Lord to bless the king as he sets out for war. The blessings in these verses are also properly applied to New Testament believers in their battle of faith.

■ 20:2 from the sanctuary. Cf. 1 Kin. 8:44, 45.

■ 20:5 rejoice in your salvation. The psalms contain hymns of praise sung to God after victories. Two examples are Ps. 24 and 98.

PSALM 21

Joy in the Salvation of the LORD

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David.

The king shall have joy in Your strength, O LORD;
And in Your salvation how greatly shall he rejoice!
2 You have given him his heart's desire,
And have not withheld the [a]request of his lips. Selah

3 For You meet him with the blessings of goodness;
You set a crown of pure gold upon his head.
4 [b]He asked life from You, and You gave it to him—
Length of days forever and ever.
5 His glory is great in Your salvation;
Honor and majesty You have placed upon him.
6 For You have made him most blessed forever;
[c]You have made him [1]exceedingly glad with Your presence.
7 For the king trusts in the LORD,
And through the mercy of the Most High he shall not be [2]moved.

8 Your hand will find all Your enemies;
Your right hand will find those who hate You.
9 You shall make them as a fiery oven in the time of Your anger;
The LORD shall swallow them up in His wrath,
And the fire shall devour them.
10 Their offspring You shall destroy from the earth,
And their [3]descendants from among the sons of men.
11 For they intended evil against You;
They devised a plot which they are not able to [d]perform.
12 Therefore You will make them turn their back;
You will make ready Your arrows on Your string toward their faces.

13 Be exalted, O LORD, in Your own strength!
We will sing and praise Your power.

■ 20:6–8 Israel will win the battle because of the Lord's presence. Israel's trust is rooted in God's promise to protect His people in warfare when they are obedient to His commands (Deut. 7 and 20).

■ 20:6 anointed. The Davidic king, anticipating the Son of David who reigns forever, Jesus Christ (text note).

■ 20:7 we will remember the name. The believer's rescue from sin and Satan, like Israel's deliverance from enemies, is grounded in God's trustworthiness.

■ 21:2 his heart's desire. Similar language is used in 20:4, though it is uncertain whether the same occasion inspired both psalms. The first part of Ps. 21 sounds like the answer to the prayer in Ps. 20.

■ 21:3 set a crown . . . upon his head. While some think this verse is about a coronation, it probably refers to the king's transition from a war leader (who does not wear his crown) to a king sitting on his throne.

■ 21:4 asked life from You . . . forever and ever. The king prays that his life will be spared during battle—and was also given life eternal, as is the believer of today.

PSALM 22

The Suffering, Praise, and Posterity of the Messiah

To the Chief Musician. Set to [1]"The Deer of the Dawn." A Psalm of David.

My [a]God, My God, why have You forsaken Me?
Why are You so far from helping Me,
And from the words of My groaning?
2 O My God, I cry in the daytime, but You do not hear;
And in the night season, and am not silent.

3 But You are holy,
Enthroned in the [b]praises of Israel.
4 Our fathers trusted in You;
They trusted, and You delivered them.
5 They cried to You, and were delivered;
[c]They trusted in You, and were not ashamed.

6 But I am [d]a worm, and no man;
[e]A reproach of men, and despised by the people.
7 [f]All those who see Me ridicule Me;
They [2]shoot out the lip, they shake the head, saying,
8 "He[g] [3]trusted in the LORD, let Him rescue Him;
[h]Let Him deliver Him, since He delights in Him!"

9 [i]But You are He who took Me out of the womb;
You made Me trust while on My mother's breasts.
10 I was cast upon You from birth.
From My mother's womb
[j]You have been My God.
11 Be not far from Me,
For trouble is near;
For there is none to help.

12 [k]Many bulls have surrounded Me;
Strong bulls of [l]Bashan have encircled Me.
13 [m]They [4]gape at Me with their mouths,
Like a raging and roaring lion.

14 I am poured out like water,
[n]And all My bones are out of joint;
My heart is like wax;
It has melted [5]within Me.

14 [n]Ps. 31:10; Dan. 5:6 [5]Lit. in the midst of My bowels

■ Ps. 22 This psalm is well known for its many citations and allusions in the New Testament (Matt. 27:35, 39, 43, 46; John 19:23, 24, 28; Heb. 2:12). The psalm, like Ps. 69, expresses the suffering of Christ, the Son of David, dying at the hands of wicked men.

■ 22:1 why have You forsaken Me. The psalmist cries in anguish the "why?" of the righteous sufferer. Where is the presence God has promised (Josh. 1:5)? The cry is taken up by Jesus, who knew the reality of a total abandonment that was only partial with David. In the place of David and all the people of God, Jesus bore the dreadful curse that sin deserves.

■ 22:3 Enthroned in the praises. God's kingship exists before any human acclamation, but His reign becomes manifest to worshipers through their praises.

■ 22:4, 5 Our fathers. David could think of the time that Abraham was delivered from the five kings (Gen. 14), Joseph from the Egyptian prison (Gen. 41), and most of all Moses and Israel from the land of Egypt (Ex. 1—15).

■ 22:7 ridicule. His enemies ridicule his trust in God. This experience is alluded to in Matt. 27:41–44, as Christ had to endure the ridicule of hypocritical priests and criminals.

■ 22:9 out of the womb. He affirms a long-standing trust in God's ability to save him. He has had confidence in God as far back as he can remember.

■ 22:12 bulls of Bashan. These bulls were noted for their power and size (Amos 4:1).

■ 22:13 roaring lion. Often representing power, ferocity, and ruthlessness in the Bible and the ancient Near East (Nah. 2:14; Zeph. 3:3).

■ 22:14 My bones . . . My heart. Outward attack is matched by inward agony. The figures, as used by David, reflect the inward turmoil induced by the encircling threat of his enemies. As fulfilled in Christ, the prophetic words describe the agony of the crucified One.

15 [o]My strength is dried up like a potsherd,
And [p]My tongue clings to My jaws;
You have brought Me to the dust of death.

16 For dogs have surrounded Me;
The congregation of the wicked has enclosed Me.
[q]They[6] pierced My hands and My feet;
17 I can count all My bones.
[r]They look and stare at Me.
18 [s]They divide My garments among them,
And for My clothing they cast lots.

19 But You, O LORD, do not be far from Me;
O My Strength, hasten to help Me!
20 Deliver Me from the sword,
[t]My[7] precious life from the power of the dog.
21 [u]Save Me from the lion's mouth
And from the horns of the wild oxen!

[v]You have answered Me.

22 [w]I will declare Your name to [x]My brethren;
In the midst of the assembly I will praise You.
23 [y]You who fear the LORD, praise Him!
All you [8]descendants of Jacob, glorify Him,
And fear Him, all you offspring of Israel!
24 For He has not despised nor abhorred the affliction of the afflicted;
Nor has He hidden His face from Him;
But [z]when He cried to Him, He heard.

25 [a]My praise shall be of You in the great assembly;
[b]I will pay My vows before those who fear Him.
26 The poor shall eat and be satisfied;
Those who seek Him will praise the LORD.
Let your heart live forever!

27 All the ends of the world
Shall remember and turn to the LORD,
And all the families of the [9]nations
Shall worship before [1]You.
28 [c]For the kingdom is the LORD's,
And He rules over the nations.

29 [d]All the prosperous of the earth
Shall eat and worship;
[e]All those who go down to [2]the dust

29 [d]Ps. 17:10; 45:12; Hab. 1:16 [e]Ps. 28:1; [Is. 26:19] [2]Death

■ 22:16 pierced. The traditional Hebrew reading may reflect a copyist's error, for it reads (lit.) "like a lion." The Septuagint (the ancient Greek translation of the Old Testament) suggests that the correct reading is "pierced."

■ 22:19–21 After the laments and confessions of trust comes the climax, an appeal to the Lord. Notice that the enemies are named in reverse: humans, dogs, lions, and oxen.

■ 22:21 You have answered. The assurance of being heard is also present in other psalms of lament (3:4; 28:6; cf. 27:13; 34:4, 6; 38:15; 118:5, 21).

■ 22:22 I will declare. The thankful praise of the psalmist will be offered as the payment of his vows (v. 25). In Heb. 2:12 this verse is applied to Christ, who leads the praise of the great congregation.

■ 22:24 Nor has He hidden His face. Christ's enemies despised Him, but God did not.

■ 22:25 My praise shall be of You. Lit. "My praise comes from You."

pay My vows. Mention of vows is common in psalms of lament (13:6; 27:6; 35:18; 54:6; 69:30, 31; cf. 51:16; 116:13, 14). The sufferer promises to bring a thanksgiving when his prayer is answered (Lev. 7:16; 22:23; Deut. 12:6, 7).

■ 22:26 shall eat and be satisfied. Perhaps a reference to the sacrificial meal of the Old Testament peace offering, when the vow is paid and the worshipers are included.

■ 22:27 All the ends of the world. The scope of praise expands, showing the prophetic reference to Christ and the New Testament church.

Shall bow before Him,
Even he who cannot keep himself alive.

30 A posterity shall serve Him.
It will be recounted of the Lord to the next generation,
31 They will come and declare His righteousness to a people who will be born,
That He has done this.

PSALM 23

The LORD the Shepherd of His People

A Psalm of David.

The LORD is [a]my shepherd;
[b]I shall not [1]want.
2 [c]He makes me to lie down in [2]green pastures;
[d]He leads me beside the [3]still waters.
3 He restores my soul;
[e]He leads me in the paths of righteousness
For His name's sake.

4 Yea, though I walk through the valley of [f]the shadow of death,
[g]I will fear no evil;
[h]For You are with me;
Your rod and Your staff, they comfort me.

5 You [i]prepare a table before me in the presence of my enemies;
You [j]anoint my head with oil;
My cup runs over.
6 Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me
All the days of my life;
And I will [4]dwell in the house of the LORD
[5]Forever.

PSALM 24

1 [a]1 Cor. 10:26, 28

2 [b]Ps. 89:11 [1]Lit. rivers

■ 22:31 That He has done this. The final victory of salvation is accomplished by Christ (John 19:30).

■ Ps. 23 This psalm is perhaps the best known example of a psalm of confidence (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes). It is a literary unity, with two governing metaphors expressing God's care and goodness: the shepherd and the banquet table.

■ 23:1 shepherd. The image of God as shepherd is inexhaustibly rich. The shepherd stays with the flock (Is. 40:11; 63:9–12). His sheep are totally dependent upon him for food, water, and protection from wild animals. In the New Testament, Jesus is revealed as the shepherd of His people (John 10:11, 14), fulfilling the prophecy that God will come to shepherd His people (Ezek. 34:7–16, 23).

■ 23:2, 3 makes me to lie down . . . leads me . . . restores . . . leads me. These verses extend the metaphor of the shepherd's care for the sheep. The Lord lovingly cares for His people.

■ 23:4 valley of the shadow of death. See Job 10:21, 22.

rod . . . staff. The rod was used to fight wild animals and the staff to direct the flock.

■ 23:5, 6 The Lord treats the psalmist as an honored guest.

■ 23:5 table. The image shifts to that of a banquet, a victory celebration.

anoint. Guests were anointed at feasts (Ps. 104:15; Luke 7:46).

■ 23:6 I will dwell. Like the sheep with its shepherd, the psalmist quiets himself in God's assurance of an eternal home with Him. See John 14:23; "God Is Love: Divine Goodness and Faithfulness" at Ps. 136:1.

■ Ps. 24 Jesus alone is qualified to ascend to heaven (vv. 3, 4), and He is the victorious Lord, for whom the gates of glory open (vv. 7–10).

■ 24:1 The earth is the LORD's. God created and sustains the whole earth; it belongs to Him. Paul cites this verse to establish the principle that there is no food, even things offered to pagan idols, which is unlawful for Christians to eat (1 Cor. 10:25, 26).

■ 24:2 He has founded it upon the seas. This section reflects the

3 [c]Who may ascend into the hill of the LORD?
Or who may stand in His holy place?
4 He who has [d]clean hands and [e]a pure heart,
Who has not lifted up his soul to an idol,
Nor [f]sworn deceitfully.
5 He shall receive blessing from the LORD,
And righteousness from the God of his salvation.

The LORD mighty in [j]battle.

PSALM 25

A Plea for Deliverance and Forgiveness

A Psalm of David.

To [a]You, O LORD, I lift up my soul.
2 O my God, I [b]trust in You;
Let me not be ashamed;
[c]Let not my enemies triumph over me.
3 Indeed, let no one who [l]waits on You be ashamed;
Let those be ashamed who deal treacherously without cause.

4 [d]Show me Your ways, O LORD;
Teach me Your paths.
5 Lead me in Your truth and teach me,
For You are the God of my salvation;
On You I wait all the day.

6 Remember, O LORD, [e]Your tender mercies and Your lovingkindnesses,
For they are from of old.
7 Do not remember [f]the sins of my youth, nor my transgressions;
[g]According to Your mercy remember me,
For Your goodness' sake, O LORD.

8 Good and upright is the LORD;
Therefore He teaches sinners in the way.

creation account in Gen. 1. However, the sea is also a poetic image for evil. Throughout the psalms and the prophets, God is pictured as winning a victory over the sea (Ps. 29:10, 11; 77:16–20; 104:5–9; Nah. 1:4; Dan. 7).

■ 24:3 See "God's Pattern for Worship" at 1 Chr. 16:29.

■ 24:4 clean hands. Righteous action.

pure heart. Righteous thoughts and motives.

deceitfully. By the names of false gods.

■ 24:7–9 heads. The city or temple gates are personified.

shall come in. The return of the King of glory implies that He has gone out to battle and returns in victory.

■ Ps. 25 This acrostic psalm is primarily the lament of an individual (vv. 16–21), but the last verse applies it to the community. Covenantal (v. 10) and wisdom (vv. 4, 5) language pervade the poem.

■ 25:5 See "Understanding the Word of God" at 119:34.

■ 25:6, 7 Remember . . . mercies . . . lovingkindnesses. These words are all closely connected with God's covenant, which is the basis of the psalmist's trust.

9 The humble He guides in justice,
And the humble He teaches His way.
10 All the paths of the LORD are mercy and truth,
To such as keep His covenant and His testimonies.
11 [h]For Your name's sake, O LORD,
Pardon my iniquity, for it is great.

12 Who is the man that fears the LORD?
[i]Him shall [2]He teach in the way [2]He chooses.
13 [j]He himself shall dwell in [3]prosperity,
And [k]his descendants shall inherit the earth.
14 [l]The secret of the LORD is with those who fear Him,
And He will show them His covenant.
15 [m]My eyes are ever toward the LORD,
For He shall [4]pluck my feet out of the net.

16 [n]Turn Yourself to me, and have mercy on me,
For I am [5]desolate and afflicted.
17 The troubles of my heart have enlarged;
Bring me out of my distresses!
18 [o]Look on my affliction and my pain,
And forgive all my sins.
19 Consider my enemies, for they are many;
And they hate me with [6]cruel hatred.
20 Keep my soul, and deliver me;
Let me not be ashamed, for I put my trust in You.
21 Let integrity and uprightness preserve me,
For I wait for You.

22 [p]Redeem Israel, O God,
Out of all their troubles!

PSALM 26

A Prayer for Divine Scrutiny and Redemption

A Psalm of David.

Vindicate [a]me, O LORD,
For I have [b]walked in my integrity.
[c]I have also trusted in the LORD;
I shall not slip.
2 [d]Examine me, O LORD, and [1]prove me;
Try my mind and my heart.
3 For Your lovingkindness is before my eyes,
And [e]I have walked in Your truth.
4 I have not [f]sat with idolatrous mortals,
Nor will I go in with hypocrites.
5 I have [g]hated the assembly of evildoers,
And will not sit with the wicked.

■ 25:10 His covenant and His testimonies. His revealed will for our lives; that is, the law.

■ 25:12 fears the LORD. Cf. Prov. 1:7 and Eccl. 12:13. The fear of the Lord is reverence and awe toward God, not life-disrupting anxiety. Also, see note on Ps. 111:10.

■ 25:13 inherit the earth. The blessings and curses of Deut. 27; 28 make it clear that Israel will keep the land given them by God if they remain faithful to the conditions of the covenant (cf. v. 10).

■ 25:14 show them His covenant. Each time Abraham doubted God's ability to fulfill the promises of Gen. 12:1–3, God appeared to him and renewed the covenant (Gen. 15 and 17).

■ 25:18, 19 my sins . . . my enemies. He recognizes that his troubles are caused by both his own sins and the attacks of outside forces (the "enemy").

■ 26:1 in my integrity. David identifies himself in motive and action with the righteous rather than the wicked. He invites God to test the truth of this claim (v. 2). David has no illusions of being sinless (53:5) or of having no need for mercy (v. 11; 130:3).

■ 26:4 I have not sat. Cf. Ps. 1:1.

6 I will wash my hands in innocence;
So I will go about Your altar, O LORD,
7 That I may proclaim with the voice of thanksgiving,
And tell of all Your wondrous works.
8 LORD, [h]I have loved the habitation of Your house,
And the place [2]where Your glory dwells.

9 [i]Do[3] not gather my soul with sinners,
Nor my life with bloodthirsty men,
10 In whose hands is a sinister scheme,
And whose right hand is full of [j]bribes.

Redeem me and be merciful to me.

PSALM 27

An Exuberant Declaration of Faith

A Psalm of David.

The LORD is my [a]light and my salvation;
Whom shall I fear?
The [b]LORD is the strength of my life;
Of whom shall I be afraid?
2 When the wicked came against me
To [c]eat[1] up my flesh,
My enemies and foes,
They stumbled and fell.
3 [d]Though an army may encamp against me,
My heart shall not fear;
Though war may rise against me,
In this I will be confident.

4 [e]One thing I have desired of the LORD,
That will I seek:
That I may [f]dwell in the house of the LORD
All the days of my life,
To behold the [2]beauty of the LORD,
And to inquire in His temple.
5 For [g]in the time of trouble
He shall hide me in His pavilion;
In the secret place of His tabernacle
He shall hide me;
He shall [h]set me high upon a rock.

6 And now [i]my head shall be [3]lifted up above my enemies all around me;
Therefore I will offer sacrifices of [4]joy in His tabernacle;
I will sing, yes, I will sing praises to the LORD.

5 [g]Ps. 31:20; 91:1 [h]Ps. 40:2
6 [i]Ps. 3:3 [3]Lifted up in honor [4]joyous shouts

■ 26:6 Your altar. The language fits a prayer for admission to the sanctuary.

■ 26:9 sinners. He wants to distance himself from the wicked, for if they enter the sanctuary precincts (vv. 6–8), they will be quickly destroyed. David asks to be spared this judgment.

■ 26:12 in an even place. A metaphor for personal stability and right relationship with the Lord.

■ 27:1 light. God brings clarity, order, and understanding, while darkness is evil and chaotic. See Nah. 1:8, where the defeat of the enemy is shown by their being pursued into darkness. Also see "God Is Light: Divine Holiness and Justice" at Lev. 11:44.

■ 27:2 eat up my flesh. The enemy seeks the physical harm of the psalmist. The expression also has a figurative meaning, "to slander me."

■ 27:4 house of the LORD. The place where God's presence is manifest is a place of sanctuary from the enemy.

■ 27:5 set me high. Above all trouble.

■ 27:6 sacrifices of joy. He shouts for victory because the Lord has saved him.

7 Hear, O LORD, when I cry with my voice!
Have mercy also upon me, and answer me.
8 When You said, "Seek My face,"
My heart said to You, "Your face, LORD, I will seek."
9 [j]Do not hide Your face from me;
Do not turn Your servant away in anger;
You have been my help;
Do not leave me nor forsake me,
O God of my salvation.
10 [k]When my father and my mother forsake me,
Then the LORD will take care of me.

11 [l]Teach me Your way, O LORD,
And lead me in a smooth path, because of my enemies.
12 Do not deliver me to the will of my adversaries;
For [m]false witnesses have risen against me,
And such as breathe out violence.
13 I would have lost heart, unless I had believed
That I would see the goodness of the LORD
[n]In the land of the living.

14 [o]Wait[5] on the LORD;
Be of good courage,
And He shall strengthen your heart;
Wait, I say, on the LORD!

PSALM 28

Rejoicing in Answered Prayer

A Psalm of David.

To You I will cry, O LORD my Rock:
[a]Do not be silent to me,
[b]Lest, if You are silent to me,
I become like those who go down to the pit.
2 Hear the voice of my supplications
When I cry to You,
[c]When I lift up my hands [d]toward Your holy sanctuary.

3 Do not [f]take me away with the wicked
And with the workers of iniquity,
[e]Who speak peace to their neighbors,
But evil is in their hearts.
4 [f]Give them according to their deeds,
And according to the wickedness of their endeavors;
Give them according to the work of their hands;
Render to them what they deserve.
5 Because [g]they do not regard the works of the LORD,
Nor the operation of His hands,

■ 27:8 face. To seek God's face is to seek intimate fellowship with Him.

■ 27:9 Do not hide Your face. The psalmist recognizes that, however great his desire, he can only see God's face if God reveals it.

■ 27:13 goodness of the LORD. He is confident of God's vindication while he is still alive.

■ 27:14 Wait on the LORD. See text note. His counsel is, "In the midst of present trouble, do not give up; give God time to answer."

■ 28:1 my Rock. Using this familiar name the psalmist remembers God as his source of protection and strength (Deut. 32:4, 18, 31; Ps. 78:35).

go down to the pit. That is, to die. The pit stands for Sheol, the grave (6:5 note).

■ 28:2 holy sanctuary. The Most Holy Place, the inner room in the tabernacle or temple where the ark of the covenant stood.

■ 28:3 speak peace. The psalmist knows the hypocrisy of his enemies.

■ 28:4 Render to them. An imprecation, that is, a prayer that God would punish the enemy.

■ 28:5 He shall destroy them. The previous verse appealed for judgment and this one pronounces it.

He shall destroy them
And not build them up.

6 Blessed be the LORD,
Because He has heard the voice of my supplications!
7 The LORD is [h]my strength and my shield;
My heart [i]trusted in Him, and I am helped;
Therefore my heart greatly rejoices,
And with my song I will praise Him.

And bless [k]Your inheritance;
Shepherd them also,

PSALM 29

Praise to God in His Holiness and Majesty

A Psalm of David.

Give[1] [a]unto the LORD, O you mighty ones,
Give unto the LORD glory and strength.
2 [2]Give unto the LORD the glory [3]due to His name;
Worship the LORD in [b]the [4]beauty of holiness.

3 The voice of the LORD is over the waters;
[c]The God of glory thunders;
The LORD is over many waters.
4 The voice of the LORD is powerful;
The voice of the LORD is full of majesty.

5 The voice of the LORD breaks [d]the cedars,
Yes, the LORD splinters the cedars of Lebanon.
6 [e]He makes them also skip like a calf,
Lebanon and [f]Sirion like a young wild ox.
7 The voice of the LORD [5]divides the flames of fire.

8 The voice of the LORD shakes the wilderness;
The LORD shakes the Wilderness of [g]Kadesh.
9 The voice of the LORD makes the [h]deer give birth,
And strips the forests bare;
And in His temple everyone says, "Glory!"

■ 28:9 Your people. The psalmist broadens his appeal to the Lord to include the whole nation.

Shepherd them. See note on Ps. 23:1.

■ Ps. 29 A song of praise to God the King. The psalm uses themes that were current in the religions of the surrounding nations: the power behind storms (vv. 3–9) and the victor over floodwaters (vv. 10, 11). The psalmist attacks these religions by taking the praises they claimed for their false gods and ascribing them to the Lord. The picture of God as King, enthroned over the vanquished floodwaters, is one of many indications that the psalm was used to celebrate a divinely given victory in battle.

■ 29:1 mighty ones. Lit. "sons of gods." This phrase is used in the religious texts of the Canaanites and refers to the gods of their pantheon. In the Bible it would refer to spiritual beings such as the cherubim and the angels.

■ 29:2 name. This is His reputation achieved through His acts in history.

■ 29:3–9 The Canaanites believed that Baal provided rain and fertility, and that his power was seen in the storm. They called him "cloud rider" in their religious texts. But the Lord controls nature (1 Kin. 18).

■ 29:3 voice of the LORD. Thunder.

waters . . . many waters. In the religions of the Near East, as in the Bible, the sea represents forces of chaos and evil. See 18:4; 46:2; 69:1, 2 and notes.

■ 29:6 Lebanon . . . Sirion. These are regions of mountains that will shake before the power of God. See Ps. 46:2.

■ 29:8 Wilderness of Kadesh. This could be translated (lit.) "holy desert." Its location is uncertain.

10 The [i]LORD sat enthroned at the Flood,
And [j]the LORD sits as King forever.
11 [k]The LORD will give strength to His people;
The LORD will bless His people with peace.

PSALM 30

The Blessedness of Answered Prayer

A Psalm. A Song [a]at the dedication of the house of David.

I will extol You, O LORD, for You have [b]lifted me up,
And have not let my foes [c]rejoice over me.
2 O LORD my God, I cried out to You,
And You [d]healed me.
3 O LORD, [e]You brought my soul up from the grave;
You have kept me alive, [f]that I should not go down to the pit.

4 [g]Sing praise to the LORD, you saints of His,
And give thanks at the remembrance of [2]His holy name.
5 For [h]His anger is but for a moment,
[h]His favor is for life;
Weeping may endure for a night,
But [3]joy comes in the morning.

6 Now in my prosperity I said,
"I shall never be [4]moved."
7 LORD, by Your favor You have made my mountain stand strong;
[i]You hid Your face, and I was troubled.

8 I cried out to You, O LORD;
And to the LORD I made supplication:
9 "What profit is there in my blood,
When I go down to the pit?
[j]Will the dust praise You?
Will it declare Your truth?
10 Hear, O LORD, and have mercy on me;
LORD, be my helper!"

11 [k]You have turned for me my mourning into dancing;
You have put off [5]my sackcloth and clothed me with gladness,
12 To the end that my [6]glory may sing praise to You and not be silent.
O LORD my God, I will give thanks to You forever.

■ 29:10 Flood. See v. 3.

■ Ps. 30 The title indicates that the psalm was written for the dedication of the temple. In David's time the temple had not yet been built, but he could have prepared for its dedication much as he prepared for building it by gathering supplies (1 Chr. 22). A greater difficulty is the lack of any mention of the temple in the body of the psalm (Introduction: Characteristic and Themes). Attempts to link the psalm with the plague recorded in 1 Chr. 21:1—22:1 fail to take into account that David himself was not afflicted.

■ 30:1 lifted me up. The Hebrew verb is used of drawing a bucket out of a well, an appropriate portrayal of saving someone from Sheol (i.e., the grave), which is often pictured as a wet and muddy pit.

■ 30:2 healed me. An indication that the psalm is a thanksgiving in response to physical healing.

■ 30:3 soul. See "Body and Soul, Male and Female" at Gen. 2:7.

■ 30:4 saints. The word is related to covenant lovingkindness and specifies those in covenant relationship with God.

■ 30:5 for a moment. God's mercy is sure. See Rom. 8:18; 2 Cor. 4:17.

morning. Cf. Ps. 90:14.

■ 30:7 my mountain. Mountains, as opposed to the sea, are a symbol of stability and often represent security in the protection of God (Ps. 46:2).

■ 30:9 profit. The psalmist bargains with God for his life (Gen. 18) by pointing out that God would gain a voice of praise if He healed him. This is not a developed treatment of the afterlife. The point is that death would bring to a conclusion David's desire to glorify God in this world.

PSALM 31

The LORD a Fortress in Adversity

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David.

In [a]You, O LORD, I [1]put my trust;
Let me never be ashamed;
Deliver me in Your righteousness.
2 [b]Bow down Your ear to me,
Deliver me speedily;
Be my rock of [2]refuge,
A [3]fortress of defense to save me.

3 [c]For You are my rock and my fortress;
Therefore, [d]for Your name's sake,
Lead me and guide me.
4 Pull me out of the net which they have secretly laid for me,
For You are my strength.
5 [e]Into Your hand I commit my spirit;
You have redeemed me, O LORD God of [f]truth.

6 I have hated those [g]who regard useless idols;
But I trust in the LORD.
7 I will be glad and rejoice in Your mercy,
For You have considered my trouble;
You have [h]known my soul in [4]adversities,
8 And have not [i]shut[5] me up into the hand of the enemy;
[j]You have set my feet in a wide place.

9 Have mercy on me, O LORD, for I am in trouble;
[k]My eye wastes away with grief,
Yes, my soul and my [6]body!
10 For my life is spent with grief,
And my years with sighing;
My strength fails because of my iniquity,
And my bones waste away.
11 [l]I am a [7]reproach among all my enemies,
But [m]especially among my neighbors,
And am repulsive to my acquaintances;
[n]Those who see me outside flee from me.
12 [o]I am forgotten like a dead man, out of mind;
I am like a [8]broken vessel.
13 [p]For I hear the slander of many;
[q]Fear is on every side;
While they [r]take counsel together against me,
They scheme to take away my life.

14 But as for me, I trust in You, O LORD;
I say, "You are my God."

■ 31:1 in Your righteousness. The psalmist appeals to the Lord's righteousness in his distress caused by the wickedness of the enemy. "Your righteousness" indicates God's commitment to save those who are in covenant relationship with Him.

■ 31:5 I commit my spirit. Jesus quoted these words on the cross (Luke 23:46). The desperate cries of lament found in the psalms often express Christ's own anguish as He faced the rejection of the world (Ps. 22 and 69).

■ 31:6 useless idols. They are worthless because they are the figments of their worshipers' imaginations. The psalmist trusts the Lord, who is the "God of truth" (v. 5).

■ 31:7 mercy. Specifically, the love between covenant partners (God and David), which moves God to respond to the psalmist's distress.

■ 31:10 iniquity. Several ancient translations read, "affliction," which draws support from the psalm's general theme of distress from outside forces rather than from the psalmist's guilt.

■ 31:12 broken vessel. A metaphor for serious illness, even death (Eccl. 12:6).

■ 31:14 You are my God. A simple and foundational confession that David is in covenant with God.

15 My times are in Your [s]hand;
Deliver me from the hand of my enemies,
And from those who persecute me.
16 [t]Make Your face shine upon Your servant;
Save me for Your mercies' sake.
17 [u]Do not let me be ashamed, O LORD, for I have called upon You;
Let the wicked be ashamed;
[v]Let them be silent in the grave.
18 [w]Let the lying lips be put to silence,
Which [x]speak insolent things proudly and contemptuously against the righteous.

19 [y]Oh, how great is Your goodness,
Which You have laid up for those who fear You,
Which You have prepared for those who trust in You
In the presence of the sons of men!
20 [z]You shall hide them in the secret place of Your presence
From the plots of man;
[a]You shall keep them secretly in a [9]pavilion
From the strife of tongues.

21 Blessed be the LORD,
For [b]He has shown me His marvelous kindness in a [1]strong city!
22 For I said in my haste,
"I am cut off from before Your eyes";
Nevertheless You heard the voice of my supplications
When I cried out to You.

23 Oh, love the LORD, all you His saints!
For the LORD preserves the faithful,
And fully repays the proud person.
24 [c]Be of good courage,
And He shall strengthen your heart,
All you who hope in the LORD.

PSALM 32

The Joy of Forgiveness

A Psalm of David. A [1]Contemplation.

Blessed is he whose [a]transgression is forgiven,
Whose sin is covered.
2 Blessed is the man to whom the LORD [b]does not [2]impute iniquity,
And [c]in whose spirit there is no deceit.

3 When I kept silent, my bones grew old
Through my groaning all the day long.
4 For day and night Your [d]hand was heavy upon me;

■ 31:15 My times. The psalmist knows that God controls history in general and his life in particular. This comforts him in his distress.

■ 31:16 face shine. See the priestly blessing of Num. 6:25. The metaphor of God's face represents His loving presence that will bring salvation to the psalmist.

■ 31:21 strong city. This phrase is difficult to understand. The psalmist could be remembering a particular incident. It may be that the original reading was "in a difficult time," a rendering that fits the context well. A copyist's error in one letter would account for the difference of reading.

■ 31:23 His saints. The word is formed from the same Hebrew root (hesed) as "mercy," understood as God's lovingkindness toward those in a covenant relationship with Him.

■ Ps. 32 A penitential psalm containing some distinctive wisdom language (vv. 1, 2, 8–10).

■ 32:2 iniquity. Three different words for sin are used in the first two verses to bring out the many aspects of man's rebellion against God. Paul cites the first two verses of this psalm in Rom. 4:6–8 in describing the grace of God's forgiveness.

■ 32:3 my bones grew old. The psalmist perceives sin's consequences in his body. This is not merely poetic language, although sin does not always have immediate physical consequences.

■ 32:4 My vitality was . . . drought. Guilt immobilized and enervated the psalmist.

My vitality was turned into the drought of summer. Selah
5 I acknowledged my sin to You,
And my iniquity I have not hidden.
[e]I said, "I will confess my transgressions to the LORD,"
And You forgave the iniquity of my sin. Selah

6 [f]For this cause everyone who is godly shall [g]pray to You
In a time when You may be found;
Surely in a flood of great waters
They shall not come near him.
7 [h]You are my hiding place;
You shall preserve me from trouble;
You shall surround me with [i]songs of deliverance. Selah

8 I will instruct you and teach you in the way you should go;
I will guide you with My eye.
9 Do not be like the [j]horse or like the mule,
Which have no understanding,
Which must be harnessed with bit and bridle,
Else they will not come near you.

10 [k]Many sorrows shall be to the wicked;
But [l]he who trusts in the LORD, mercy shall surround him.
11 [m]Be glad in the LORD and rejoice, you righteous;
And shout for joy, all you upright in heart!

PSALM 33

The Sovereignty of the LORD in Creation and History

[a]Rejoice in the LORD, O you righteous!
For praise from the upright is beautiful.
2 Praise the LORD with the harp;
[1]Make melody to Him with an instrument of ten strings.
3 Sing to Him a new song;
Play skillfully with a shout of joy.

4 For the word of the LORD is right,
And all His work is done in truth.
5 He loves righteousness and justice;
The earth is full of the goodness of the LORD.

6 [b]By the word of the LORD the heavens were made,
And all the [c]host of them [d]by the breath of His mouth.
7 [e]He gathers the waters of the sea together [2]as a heap;
He lays up the deep in storehouses.

■ 32:5 I acknowledged my sin to You. He praises God's willingness and authority to forgive.

■ 32:6 godly. Or "saints"; see Ps. 31:23 note.

great waters. Elsewhere translated "deep waters." See notes on Ps. 18:4, 16; 29:3, 10; 46:2; 69:1, 2; 144:7.

■ 32:8 I will instruct you. Using language found in wisdom sections of the Old Testament (e.g., Ps. 1 and Prov. 1—9), God promises to direct the psalmist in the way of the covenant, in the way of righteousness.

■ 32:9 like the horse. Horses and mules do the will of their masters only under compulsion (Prov. 26:3). The righteous should obey out of love and gratitude to their God.

■ Ps. 33 There are twenty-two verses in the psalm, the same as the number of letters in the Hebrew alphabet, but the psalm is not an acrostic (see Introduction to Hebrew Poetry).

■ 33:3 new song. Often such "new" psalms are found in contexts of victorious war and can be seen as shouts of victory. Cf. Ps. 96; 98; 144; 149; Is. 42:10; Rev. 5:9; 14:3).

■ 33:4 the word of the LORD is right. God's speech to men reflects His character. He does not deceive His people, but leads them into the truth. The Bible, as God's written Word, does the same.

■ 33:6 host of them. Literally, this word is simply "hosts" and may refer not merely to the innumerable stars of heaven, but also to the angelic armies.

■ 33:7 the waters of the sea. The creator is pictured poetically as exercising command over the waters of chaos (Ps. 18:16 note). There may also be a poetical allusion to the song of Moses and Israel at the Red Sea (Ex. 15).

8 Let all the earth fear the LORD;
Let all the inhabitants of the world stand in awe of Him.
9 For [f]He spoke, and it was done;
He commanded, and it stood fast.

10 [g]The LORD brings the counsel of the nations to nothing;
He makes the plans of the peoples of no effect.
11 [h]The counsel of the LORD stands forever,
The plans of His heart to all generations.
12 Blessed is the nation whose God is the LORD,
The people He has [i]chosen as His own inheritance.

13 [j]The LORD looks from heaven;
He sees all the sons of men.
14 From the place of His dwelling He looks
On all the inhabitants of the earth;
15 He fashions their hearts individually;
[k]He [3]considers all their works.

16 [l]No king is saved by the multitude of an army;
A mighty man is not delivered by great strength.
17 [m]A horse is a [4]vain hope for safety;
Neither shall it deliver any by its great strength.

18 [n]Behold, the eye of the LORD is on those who fear Him,
On those who hope in His mercy,
19 To deliver their soul from death,
And [o]to keep them alive in famine.

20 Our soul waits for the LORD;
He is our help and our shield.
21 For our heart shall rejoice in Him,
Because we have trusted in His holy name.
22 Let Your mercy, O LORD, be upon us,
Just as we hope in You.

PSALM 34

The Happiness of Those Who Trust in God

A Psalm of David [a]when he pretended madness before Abimelech, who drove him away, and he departed.

I will [b]bless the LORD at all times;
His praise shall continually be in my mouth.
2 My soul shall make its boast in the LORD;
The humble shall hear of it and be glad.

PSALM 34

title [a]1 Sam. 21:10–15

1 [b][Eph. 5:20; 1 Thess. 5:18]

- 33:8 fear the LORD. To honor, love, and obey Him.
- 33:10 nations. Godless nations who seek their own will and not God's.
- 33:11 The counsel of the LORD stands forever. Nothing can subvert God's purposes. He is in absolute control of history.
- 33:12 The people He has chosen. God is the One who initiated the relationship with Israel, the nation He chose (Deut. 7:7–11).
- 33:13 heaven. See "Heaven" at Rev. 21:1.
- 33:15 God not only sees all, He forms the hearts of all.
- Ps. 34 The psalm has a historical title (see below), but the verses themselves are written in a general style, lending the poem to use by different people in different situations. The psalm is an acrostic (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes), although there is no line for the sixth Hebrew letter (waw), and the line for the seventeenth letter is out of order, coming last.
- 34:title See 1 Sam. 21:10–15 for the historical situation of the title. Abimelech is probably a royal title for the king of the Philistines, not the proper name of the king (Achish, in the time of Samuel).
- 34:2 boast in the LORD. While boasting in oneself is the height of pride and godlessness (Rom. 1:30), to boast in God is right (Jer. 9:24; 2 Cor. 10:17).

3 Oh, magnify the LORD with me,
And let us exalt His name together.

4 I [c]sought the LORD, and He heard me,
And delivered me from all my fears.
5 They looked to Him and were radiant,
And their faces were not ashamed.
6 This poor man cried out, and the LORD heard him,
And saved him out of all his troubles.
7 [d]The [1]angel of the LORD [e]encamps all around those who fear Him,
And delivers them.

8 Oh, [f]taste and see that the LORD is good;
[g]Blessed is the man who trusts in Him!
9 Oh, fear the LORD, you His saints!
There is no [2]want to those who fear Him.
10 The young lions lack and suffer hunger;
[h]But those who seek the LORD shall not lack any good thing.

11 Come, you children, listen to me;
[i]I will teach you the fear of the LORD.
12 [j]Who is the man who desires life,
And loves many days, that he may see good?
13 Keep your tongue from evil,
And your lips from speaking [k]deceit.
14 [l]Depart from evil and do good;
[m]Seek peace and pursue it.

15 [n]The eyes of the LORD are on the righteous,
And His ears are open to their cry.
16 [o]The face of the LORD is against those who do evil,
[p]To [3]cut off the remembrance of them from the earth.

17 The righteous cry out, and [q]the LORD hears,
And delivers them out of all their troubles.
18 [r]The LORD is near [s]to those who have a broken heart,
And saves such as [4]have a contrite spirit.

19 [t]Many are the afflictions of the righteous,
[u]But the LORD delivers him out of them all.
20 He guards all his bones;
[v]Not one of them is broken.
21 [w]Evil shall slay the wicked,
And those who hate the righteous shall be [5]condemned.
22 The LORD [x]redeems the soul of His servants,
And none of those who trust in Him shall be condemned.

■ 34:3 His name. That is, His reputation. The congregation is exhorted to witness to God's great acts in history and in our lives.

■ 34:4 He heard me. One of the most frequent themes of the psalms is stated boldly: God hears and answers the prayers of His people.

■ 34:5 were radiant. They reflect the Lord's shining upon them (Ps. 31:16 note). Radiance reflects the joy of God's revealed presence, while the sense of God's withdrawal from us brings the darkness of shame.

■ 34:6 This poor man. The psalmist, who had no power to save himself.

■ 34:7 The angel of the LORD. One of God's heavenly troops. See text note; "Angels" at Zech. 1:9.

those who fear Him. Those who are in a right relationship with Him. Gehazi learned the truth of this verse when Elisha prayed for his eyes to be opened and showed him the army of the Lord (2 Kin. 6:8–23).

■ 34:8 taste. The psalmist describes his personal experience of God's goodness. After tasting God's goodness in Christ, Peter alludes to this passage (1 Pet. 2:3).

■ 34:10 The young lions. The strong and ruthless do not always get what they want, but God's people lack nothing that is good for them.

■ 34:11 children. A common and poetic form of address to all ages.

■ 34:20 Not one of them is broken. John 19:36 applies this verse to Christ, the only perfect righteous Man.

PSALM 35

The LORD the Avenger of His People

A Psalm of David.

Plead[1] my cause, O LORD, with those who strive with me;
Fight against those who fight against me.
2 Take hold of shield and [2]buckler,
And stand up for my help.
3 Also draw out the spear,
And stop those who pursue me.
Say to my soul,
"I am your salvation."

4 [a]Let those be put to shame and brought to dishonor
Who seek after my life;
Let those be [b]turned back and brought to confusion
Who plot my hurt.
5 [c]Let them be like chaff before the wind,
And let the [3]angel of the LORD chase them.
6 Let their way be [d]dark and slippery,
And let the angel of the LORD pursue them.
7 For without cause they have [e]hidden their net for me in a pit,
Which they have dug without cause for my life.
8 [4]Let [f]destruction come upon him unexpectedly,
And let his net that he has hidden catch himself;
Into that very destruction let him fall.

9 And my soul shall be joyful in the LORD;
It shall rejoice in His salvation.
10 [g]All my bones shall say,
"LORD, [h]who is like You,
Delivering the poor from him who is too strong for him,
Yes, the poor and the needy from him who plunders him?"

11 Fierce witnesses rise up;
They ask me things that I do not know.
12 [i]They reward me evil for good,
To the sorrow of my soul.
13 But as for me, [j]when they were sick,
My clothing was sackcloth;
I humbled myself with fasting;
And my prayer would return to my own [5]heart.

■ Ps. 35 The psalm is a lament by one whose life is threatened. The psalm uses the language of warfare (vv. 1–3) as well as legal language (vv. 11, 23, 24). Twice the psalm comes to a climax with the figure of the offering of a vow in praise (vv. 18, 28).

■ 35:1 Plead. The word is a legal term that means "bring a case against someone." Such language runs through the psalm (vv. 11–16, 23, 24), as David commits his case to God.

Fight. The psalmist calls upon the Lord to wage war on his behalf.

■ 35:2 stand up. A request that occurs in many of the psalms in the setting of warfare (cf. 3:7; 7:6; 12:5, etc.).

■ 35:3 your salvation. In the particular context, this phrase indicates victory in battle.

■ 35:5 like chaff. Easily scattered and unable to stand. See Ps. 1:4.

■ 35:7 without cause. The Lord's righteous servant has done no evil to his enemies.

■ 35:8 destruction come upon him. The enemies' evil intentions turn back on themselves. Their evil becomes their own judgment, a frequent theme in the prophets. If they dig a pit for someone they will fall into it themselves. See Ps. 7:14–16; 34:21.

■ 35:10 LORD, who is like You. Compare Ex. 15:11, in another divine warrior psalm. Vv. 9, 10 anticipate the sure victory of God.

■ 35:11 Fierce witnesses. The law condemns circulating false reports (Ex. 23:1). "Fierce" indicates the cruelty of such witnesses who want to harm the defendant.

■ 35:12 evil for good. The height of injustice; cf. Gen. 44:4; 1 Sam. 25:21; Ps. 38:20; 109:5; Prov. 17:13.

■ 35:13, 14 The psalmist did no evil to those who now attack him; he actively and sacrificially pursued their well-being.

PSALM 36

1 [a]Rom. 3:18

14 I paced about as though he were my friend or brother;
I bowed down [6]heavily, as one who mourns for his mother.

15 But in my [7]adversity they rejoiced
And gathered together;
Attackers gathered against me,
And I did not know it;
They tore at me and did not cease;
16 With ungodly mockers at feasts
They gnashed at me with their teeth.

17 Lord, how long will You [k]look on?
Rescue me from their destructions,
My precious life from the lions.
18 I will give You thanks in the great assembly;
I will praise You among [8]many people.

19 [l]Let them not rejoice over me who are wrongfully my enemies;
Nor let them wink with the eye who hate me without a cause.
20 For they do not speak peace,
But they devise deceitful matters
Against the quiet ones in the land.
21 They also opened their mouth wide against me,
And said, "Aha, aha!
Our eyes have seen it."

22 This You have seen, O LORD;
Do not keep silence.
O Lord, do not be far from me.
23 Stir up Yourself, and awake to my vindication,
To my cause, my God and my Lord.
24 Vindicate me, O LORD my God, according to Your righteousness;
And let them not rejoice over me.
25 Let them not say in their hearts, "Ah, so we would have it!"
Let them not say, "We have swallowed him up."

26 Let them be ashamed and brought to mutual confusion
Who rejoice at my hurt;
Let them be [m]clothed with shame and dishonor
Who exalt themselves against me.

27 [n]Let them shout for joy and be glad,
Who favor my righteous cause;
And let them say continually,
"Let the LORD be magnified,
Who has pleasure in the prosperity of His servant."
28 And my tongue shall speak of Your righteousness
And of Your praise all the day long.

PSALM 36

Man's Wickedness and God's Perfections

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David the servant of the LORD.

An oracle within my heart concerning the transgression of the wicked:
[a]There is no fear of God before his eyes.

■ 35:19 wink with the eye. Taunting the psalmist.

■ 35:20 do not speak peace. A technical term in ancient treaties. They are breaking their covenant agreement.

■ 35:28 my tongue shall speak. The deliverance has not yet come, but the psalmist is singing with praises.

■ 36:1 oracle. Usually this word is found in the formula "oracle of the LORD," identifying what follows as a new revelation from God.

2 For he flatters himself in his own eyes,
When he finds out his iniquity and when he hates.
3 The words of his mouth are wickedness and deceit;
[b]He has ceased to be wise and to do good.
4 [c]He devises wickedness on his bed;
He sets himself [d]in a way that is not good;
He does not [f]abhor [e]evil.

5 Your mercy, O LORD, is in the heavens;
Your faithfulness reaches to the clouds.
6 Your righteousness is like the [2]great mountains;
[f]Your judgments are a great deep;
O LORD, You preserve man and beast.

7 How precious is Your lovingkindness, O God!
Therefore the children of men [g]put their trust under the shadow of Your wings.
8 [h]They are abundantly satisfied with the fullness of Your house,
And You give them drink from [i]the river of Your pleasures.
9 [j]For with You is the fountain of life;
[k]In Your light we see light.

10 Oh, continue Your lovingkindness to those who know You,
And Your righteousness to the upright in heart.
11 Let not the foot of pride come against me,
And let not the hand of the wicked drive me away.
12 There the workers of iniquity have fallen;
They have been cast down and are not able to rise.

PSALM 37

The Heritage of the Righteous and the Calamity of the Wicked

A Psalm of David.

D[a] not fret because of evildoers,
Nor be envious of the workers of iniquity.
2 For they shall soon be cut down [b]like the grass,
And wither as the green herb.

3 Trust in the LORD, and do good;
Dwell in the land, and feed on His faithfulness.
4 [c]Delight yourself also in the LORD,
And He shall give you the desires of your [d]heart.

5 [e]Commit[1] your way to the LORD,
Trust also in Him,

2 [b]Job 14:2; Ps. 90:5, 6; 92:7; James 1:11

4 [c]Job 22:26; Ps. 94:19; Is. 58:14 [d]Ps. 21:2; 145:19; [Matt. 7:7, 8]

5 [e][Ps. 55:22; Prov. 16:3; 1 Pet. 5:7] [1]Lit. Roll off onto no fear of God. The psalmist identifies the root of all evil, just as Prov. 1:7 cites the fear of God as the beginning of all knowledge. The fear of God that springs from faith is a special response to revelation, the reverential awe that recognizes total dependence upon the Lord. In the absence of reverence a different type of fear of the Lord will be experienced, namely dread.

■ 36:3 wickedness . . . wise. Wisdom has an ethical side: to be wise is to do good.

■ 36:4 on his bed. Wickedness is a full-time occupation for the wicked. Even at night, when they should be praying before sleep, wicked people plot and scheme.

■ 36:5 mercy. A special word in Hebrew, signifying the loving devotion in which God binds Himself to His people. It indicates His lovingkindness toward those with whom He is in covenant relationship. This word recurs throughout Psalms, showing that it is a book of covenantal prayers.

■ 36:6 great mountains. See notes on Ps. 29:6; 30:7; 46:2.

■ 36:7 wings. This seems to refer to the wings of the cherubim of God's throne, as represented by the beings depicted as covering the ark of the covenant with their wings. Otherwise God is perceived as the protector of His people, like a mother bird who protects her young brood.

■ 36:8 abundantly satisfied. The psalmist pictures God as a rich and generous host.

■ 36:9 fountain of life. God is the source of all life. The doctrine of eternal life is more fully revealed in the New Testament (e.g., Matt. 22:31, 32; Luke 23:42, 43; John 3:16; Rev. 21:3–7; 22:3–5). See "Resurrection and Glorification" at 1 Cor. 15:21.

■ Ps. 37 An acrostic (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes), and like most acrostics, a wisdom meditation.

■ 37:2 grass. The metaphor is apt. In Israel the grass comes up and flourishes in the winter, but in the summer is withered by the sun.

And He shall bring it to pass.
6 [f]He shall bring forth your righteousness as the light,
And your justice as the noonday.

7 Rest in the LORD, [g]and wait patiently for Him;
Do not fret because of him who [h]prospers in his way,
Because of the man who brings wicked schemes to pass.
8 [i]Cease from anger, and forsake wrath;
[j]Do not fret—it only causes harm.

9 For evildoers shall be [2]cut off;
But those who wait on the LORD,
They shall [k]inherit the earth.
10 For [l]yet a little while and the wicked shall be no more;
Indeed, [m]you will look carefully for his place,
But it shall be no more.
11 [n]But the meek shall inherit the earth,
And shall delight themselves in the abundance of peace.

12 The wicked plots against the just,
[o]And gnashes at him with his teeth.
13 [p]The Lord laughs at him,
For He sees that [q]his day is coming.
14 The wicked have drawn the sword
And have bent their bow,
To cast down the poor and needy,
To slay those who are of upright conduct.
15 Their sword shall enter their own heart,
And their bows shall be broken.

16 [r]A little that a righteous man has
Is better than the riches of many wicked.
17 For the arms of the wicked shall be broken,
But the LORD upholds the righteous.

18 The LORD knows the days of the upright,
And their inheritance shall be forever.
19 They shall not be ashamed in the evil time,
And in the days of famine they shall be satisfied.
20 But the wicked shall perish;
And the enemies of the LORD,
Like the splendor of the meadows, shall vanish.
Into smoke they shall vanish away.

21 The wicked borrows and does not repay,
But [s]the righteous shows mercy and gives.
22 [t]For those blessed by Him shall inherit the earth,
But those cursed by Him shall be [3]cut off.

23 [u]The steps of a good man are [4]ordered by the LORD,
And He delights in his way.

■ 37:8 anger. Probably anger against God.

causes harm. Anger is a dangerous force (James 1:20).

■ 37:9 cut off. A technical term meaning to be exiled, to be excommunicated from society, or even to be executed (Gen. 17:14; Lev. 17:14).

■ 37:11 the meek shall inherit the earth. Land and its cultivation is the basis of physical life. This verse is used in Matt. 5:5.

■ 37:13 The Lord laughs at him. See Ps. 2:4. Vivid human language describes the folly of rebellion against the Almighty. God is not threatened, nor is His judgment avoided.

■ 37:15 Their sword shall enter their own heart. The consequences of sin are frequently the result of its own outworking. See 7:14–16; 34:21; 35:8.

■ 37:21 borrows and does not repay. The wicked break the eighth commandment, against stealing, by not repaying their debts. The righteous pay their debts and give money generously. Those who give mercifully in God's cause prosper at last.

24 [v]Though he fall, he shall not be utterly cast down;
For the LORD upholds him with His hand.

25 I have been young, and now am old;
Yet I have not seen the righteous forsaken,
Nor his descendants begging bread.
26 [w]He is [5]ever merciful, and lends;
And his descendants are blessed.

27 Depart from evil, and do good;
And dwell forevermore.
28 For the LORD loves justice,
And does not forsake His saints;
They are preserved forever,
But the descendants of the wicked shall be cut off.
29 [x]The righteous shall inherit the land,
And dwell in it forever.

30 [y]The mouth of the righteous speaks wisdom,
And his tongue talks of justice.
31 The law of his God is in his heart;
None of his steps shall [6]slide.

32 The wicked [z]watches the righteous,
And seeks to slay him.
33 The LORD [a]will not leave him in his hand,
Nor condemn him when he is judged.

34 [b]Wait on the LORD,
And keep His way,
And He shall exalt you to inherit the land;
When the wicked are cut off, you shall see it.
35 I have seen the wicked in great power,
And spreading himself like a native green tree.
36 Yet [7]he passed away, and behold, he was no more;
Indeed I sought him, but he could not be found.

37 Mark the blameless man, and observe the upright;
For the future of that man is peace.
38 [c]But the transgressors shall be destroyed together;
The future of the wicked shall be cut off.

39 But the salvation of the righteous is from the LORD;
He is their strength [d]in the time of trouble.
40 And [e]the LORD shall help them and deliver them;
He shall deliver them from the wicked,
And save them,
[f]Because they trust in Him.

■ 37:24 fall. The wise man is not perfect—he may fall in the way. But God guides and protects him even when he sins and encounters obstacles.

■ 37:25, 26 Confirming the truth of v. 24, the psalmist draws on the experience of his own long life to assure the upright that God will abandon neither them nor their children. The righteous are known by their deeds of mercy and generosity.

■ 37:30, 31 Governed inwardly by God's law, both the speech and actions of the righteous person are wise and just. In Hebrew, "heart" is the normal way of referring to the inner principle that governs outward performance (Prov. 4:23).

■ 37:33 judged. The Lord will not allow the accusations of the wicked to destroy those He deems righteous. At His own bar of justice God will pronounce them innocent.

■ 37:35 green tree. It commonly happens that the wicked prosper in the business of this world (Luke 16:8). Far from being envied they should be mourned, since their temporary success is but a prelude to eternal loss.

■ 37:37 future. Or "posterity." Either the individual's later life or his children are meant here, but in the ultimate sense this promise speaks of the eternal peace enjoyed in God's presence.

PSALM 38

Prayer in Time of Chastening

A Psalm of David. [a]To bring to remembrance.

O LORD, do not [b]rebuke me in Your wrath,
Nor chasten me in Your hot displeasure!
2 For Your arrows pierce me deeply,
And Your hand presses me down.

3 There is no soundness in my flesh
Because of Your anger,
Nor any health in my bones
Because of my sin.
4 For my iniquities have gone over my head;
Like a heavy burden they are too heavy for me.
5 My wounds are foul and festering
Because of my foolishness.

6 I am [1]troubled, I am bowed down greatly;
I go mourning all the day long.
7 For my loins are full of inflammation,
And there is no soundness in my flesh.
8 I am feeble and severely broken;
I groan because of the turmoil of my heart.

9 Lord, all my desire is before You;
And my sighing is not hidden from You.
10 My heart pants, my strength fails me;
As for the light of my eyes, it also has gone from me.

11 My loved ones and my friends [c]stand aloof from my plague,
And my relatives stand afar off.
12 Those also who seek my life lay snares for me;
Those who seek my hurt speak of destruction,
And plan deception all the day long.

13 But I, like a deaf man, do not hear;
And I am like a mute who does not open his mouth.
14 Thus I am like a man who does not hear,
And in whose mouth is no response.

15 For [2]in You, O LORD, [d]I hope;
You will [3]hear, O Lord my God.

■ Ps. 38 In this penitential psalm the writer attributes his illness to sin and guilt. He calls on the Lord for help in the midst of intense pain.

■ 38:2 Your arrows. God usually fights for the psalmist and against the enemy (Ps. 18:14), but here is a quite different case. The psalmist confesses the sin that has brought God's anger upon him.

■ 38:3 Because of Your anger . . . Because of my sin. These two phrases are parallel and show a dual (divine and human) reason for the psalmist's illness.

Nor any health. The psalmist's sin had serious effects on his health. In some cases sin and guilt are the cause of illness, but sickness is not always the result of sins committed by the person who suffers (Book of Job; John 9:1–12).

■ 38:5 wounds. Implies some kind of physical abuse by others. The symptoms cannot all be related to a specific disease or condition. It has been suggested that the symptoms are actually a catalog of distresses experienced over a period of time.

■ 38:11 my friends . . . stand afar off. Friends are of no help to the psalmist because they are afraid or repulsed by the intensity of his suffering. Here, as elsewhere in the psalm, we are reminded of Job's experience (v. 3).

■ 38:12 lay snares. While friends stay away, his enemies draw near to hurry his downfall.

■ 38:13 deaf man . . . mute. The psalmist is totally unable to do anything to help himself.

■ 38:15 in You . . . I hope. This verse strikes the most positive note of confidence in the psalm.

16 For I said, "Hear me, lest they rejoice over me,
Lest, when my foot slips, they exalt themselves against me."

17 [e]For I am ready to fall,
And my sorrow is continually before me.
18 For I will [f]declare my iniquity;
I will be [g]in [4]anguish over my sin.
19 But my enemies are vigorous, and they are strong;
And those who hate me wrongfully have multiplied.
20 Those also [h]who render evil for good,
They are my adversaries, because I follow what is good.

21 Do not forsake me, O LORD;
O my God, [i]be not far from me!
22 Make haste to help me,
O Lord, my salvation!

PSALM 39

Prayer for Wisdom and Forgiveness

To the Chief Musician. To Jeduthun. A Psalm of David.

I said, "I will guard my ways,
Lest I sin with my [a]tongue;
I will restrain my mouth with a muzzle,
While the wicked are before me."
2 [b]I was mute with silence,
I held my peace even from good;
And my sorrow was stirred up.
3 My heart was hot within me;
While I was [1]musing, the fire burned.
Then I spoke with my tongue:

4 "LORD, [c]make me to know my end,
And what is the measure of my days,
That I may know how frail I am.
5 Indeed, You have made my days as handbreadths,
And my age is as nothing before You;
Certainly every man at his best state is but [d]vapor. Selah
6 Surely every man walks about like a shadow;
Surely they [2]busy themselves in vain;
He heaps up riches,
And does not know who will gather them.

7 "And now, Lord, what do I wait for?
My [e]hope is in You.
8 Deliver me from all my transgressions;
Do not make me [f]the reproach of the foolish.
9 [g]I was mute, I did not open my mouth,
Because it was [h]You who did it.

8 [f]Ps. 44:13; 79:4; 119:22
9 [g]Ps. 39:2 [h]2 Sam. 16:10; Job 2:10

■ 38:16 lest they rejoice over me. He mentions to God the shame he will suffer when the enemy rejoices at the downfall of one of God's children.

■ Ps. 39 This lament is more personal and autobiographical than most. The author seems to have been an older, reflective person, like the writer of Ecclesiastes. His anger (vv. 2, 3) is not unlike Job's.

■ 39:1 Lest I sin with my tongue. The psalmist may have been questioning the prosperity of the wicked, and feared that if he spoke in his anger and frustration he might say something offensive to God. muzzle. He desires to speak out and has to force himself to be quiet.

■ 39:2 my sorrow. The psalmist repressed his feelings but could not do away with them. Finally, he spoke.

■ 39:4 measure of my days. Their own short, hard lives tempted the faithful as they compared them to the prosperity of the wicked and questioned God's wisdom and justice. See note on Ps. 88:5.

■ 39:6 in vain. The same Hebrew word is translated "vapor" in v. 5. The sentiment is similar to that found in the Book of Ecclesiastes (5:8–20).

10 [i]Remove Your plague from me;
I am consumed by the blow of Your hand.
11 When with rebukes You correct man for iniquity,
You make his beauty [j]melt away like a moth;
Surely every man is vapor. Selah

12 "Hear my prayer, O LORD,
And give ear to my cry;
Do not be silent at my tears;
For I am a stranger with You,
A sojourner, [k]as all my fathers were.
13 [l]Remove Your gaze from me, that I may regain strength,
Before I go away and [m]am no more."

PSALM 40

Faith Persevering in Trial

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David.

I [a]waited patiently for the LORD;
And He inclined to me,
And heard my cry.
2 He also brought me up out of a horrible pit,
Out of [b]the miry clay,
And [c]set my feet upon a rock,
And established my steps.
3 [d]He has put a new song in my mouth—
Praise to our God;
Many will see it and fear,
And will trust in the LORD.

4 [e]Blessed is that man who makes the LORD his trust,
And does not respect the proud, nor such as turn aside to lies.
5 [f]Many, O LORD my God, are Your wonderful works
Which You have done;
[g]And Your thoughts toward us
Cannot be recounted to You in order;
If I would declare and speak of them,
They are more than can be numbered.

6 [h]Sacrifice and offering You did not desire;
My ears You have opened.
Burnt offering and sin offering You did not require.
7 Then I said, "Behold, I come;

■ 39:10 Your plague. This could be sickness, but it could include depression and other setbacks in life.

■ 39:12 The psalmist has passed from anger to weeping. The strong emotion of the psalm makes its final prayer especially vivid.

■ Ps. 40 This psalm has two sections joined together with vv. 9–10 as an appropriate transition. God has answered an earlier prayer of the psalmist, but he still has problems to bring before God. He looks to God in a time of new crisis.

■ 40:2 horrible pit . . . rock. A miry pit is contrasted with the sure footing of a rock. Sheol, the grave, is often pictured as a pit (6:5 and notes; 30:3). Perhaps the psalmist was ill and threatened with death; or, since the psalm is probably royal, he may have felt the threat of death in battle.

■ 40:3 new song. See Ps. 33:3 note.

■ 40:4 Blessed. See Ps. 1:1 note.

proud. A rare word used of Egypt in Ps. 87:4 and there simply translated "Rahab." Here it probably refers to the false idols of the surrounding nations.

■ 40:6 You did not desire. The psalmist knows that the animal sacrifices of the Old Testament were mandated by God. But if they were offered without genuine repentance and faith, God did not want them.

My ears You have opened. This difficult phrase may be idiomatic. The Hebrew more literally translated would be "dug" rather than "opened." This would mean that God gave the psalmist ears to hear and obey. The phrase is important because it is cited in Heb. 10:5–7. Hebrews uses the Septuagint (Greek Old Testament) translation, "a body You have prepared for Me." The meaning is the same; the "ears" are to the "body" as the part to the whole. The obedience of Jesus in the body is to offer Himself once and for all, replacing the animal sacrifices of the Old Testament.

■ 40:7 In the scroll of the book it is written of me. The reference may refer to the commandment recorded for kings in Deut. 17.

In the scroll of the book it is written of me.
8 [i]I delight to do Your will, O my God,
And Your law is [j]within my heart."

9 [k]I have proclaimed the good news of righteousness
In the great assembly;
Indeed, [l]I do not restrain my lips,
O LORD, You Yourself know.
10 [m]I have not hidden Your righteousness within my heart;
I have declared Your faithfulness and Your salvation;
I have not concealed Your lovingkindness and Your truth
From the great assembly.

11 Do not withhold Your tender mercies from me, O LORD;
[n]Let Your lovingkindness and Your truth continually preserve me.
12 For innumerable evils have surrounded me;
[o]My iniquities have overtaken me, so that I am not able to look up;
They are more than the hairs of my head;
Therefore my heart fails me.

13 [p]Be pleased, O LORD, to deliver me;
O LORD, make haste to help me!
14 [q]Let them be ashamed and brought to mutual confusion
Who seek to destroy my [r]life;
Let them be driven backward and brought to dishonor
Who wish me evil.
15 Let them be [r]confounded because of their shame,
Who say to me, "Aha, aha!"

16 [s]Let all those who seek You rejoice and be glad in You;
Let such as love Your salvation [t]say continually,
"The LORD be magnified!"
17 [u]But I am poor and needy;
[v]Yet the LORD thinks upon me.
You are my help and my deliverer;
Do not delay, O my God.

PSALM 41

The Blessing and Suffering of the Godly

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David.

Blessed is he who considers the [l]poor;
The LORD will deliver him in time of trouble.
2 The LORD will preserve him and keep him alive,
And he will be blessed on the earth;
[a]You will not deliver him to the will of his enemies.

PSALM 41

1 [l]helpless or powerless
2 [a]Ps. 27:12

■ 40:8 I delight to do Your will. This verse comes to the heart of the matter. The psalmist offers what God requires—heartfelt obedience.

■ 40:9 great assembly. Either the assembled worshipers or the whole nation.

■ 40:12 evils . . . iniquities. The psalmist identifies the source of his troubles as both external (enemies seeking to thwart him) and internal (his own sin).

■ 40:13–17 See notes on Ps. 70.

■ Ps. 41 The psalm begins with the atmosphere of the wisdom tradition, shifting in v. 4 to lament and prayer.

■ 41:1 Blessed. See note on Ps. 1:1.

considers the poor. Understands or empathizes with those who are helpless and unable to take care of themselves. The psalmist is in this condition due to his debilitating sickness. Accordingly, the first three verses here may have been spoken to him by another person, perhaps a priest.

The LORD will deliver him. Those strong in self-confidence do not turn to the Lord, because they think they have no need for Him. Those not so deluded, realizing their weakness, have nowhere else to turn.

■ 41:2 on the earth. The Lord preserves the life of His people, but He will also prosper them in the land. This applies the promise of the land found in the Abrahamic covenant (Gen. 12:1–3).

You will [2]sustain him on his sickbed.

4 I said, "LORD, be merciful to me;
[b]Heal my soul, for I have sinned against You."
5 My enemies speak evil of me:
"When will he die, and his name perish?"
6 And if he comes to see me, he speaks [3]lies;
His heart gathers iniquity to itself;
When he goes out, he tells it.

7 All who hate me whisper together against me;
Against me they [4]devise my hurt.
8 "An[5] evil disease," they say, "clings to him.
And now that he lies down, he will rise up no more."
9 [c]Even my own familiar friend in whom I trusted,
[d]Who ate my bread,
Has [6]lifted up his heel against me.

10 But You, O LORD, be merciful to me, and raise me up,
That I may repay them.
11 By this I know that You are well pleased with me,
Because my enemy does not triumph over me.
12 As for me, You uphold me in my integrity,
And [e]set me before Your face forever.

13 [f]Blessed be the LORD God of Israel
From everlasting to everlasting!
Amen and Amen.

PSALM 42

Yearning for God in the Midst of Distresses

PSALM 42

title [1]Heb. Maschil
1 [2]Lit. longs for
2 [a]Ps. 63:1; 84:2; 143:6; [Jer. 10:10] [b]Rom. 9:26; 1 Thess. 1:9 [3]So with MT, Vg.; some Heb. mss., LXX, Syr., Tg. I see the face of God
3 [c]Ps. 80:5; 102:9 [d]Ps. 79:10; 115:2; Joel 2:17; Mic. 7:10

To the Chief Musician. A [1]Contemplation of the sons of Korah.

As the deer [2]pants for the water brooks,
So pants my soul for You, O God.
2 [a]My soul thirsts for God, for the [b]living God.
When shall I come and [3]appear before God?
3 [c]My tears have been my food day and night,
While they continually say to me,
[d]"Where is your God?"

■ 41:6 he speaks lies. The psalmist's enemies visited him while he was ill, speaking words of comfort, but afterward spreading malicious lies about him.

■ 41:9 lifted up his heel. For this idiom see Gen. 25:19–26 and Jer. 9:4, where the noun "heel" is connected with the verb "to deceive." The point is that the psalmist's close friend has betrayed him in his moment of need. He is abandoned by everyone. Jesus applied this verse specifically to Judas Iscariot (John 13:18).

■ 41:13 Blessed be. After a note of confidence (vv. 11, 12), a doxology concludes the final psalm of Book I of the Psalter (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes).

■ Ps. 42 This psalm and Ps. 43 are actually two halves of a single psalm. A number of early Hebrew manuscripts put them together, and a common refrain unites them (42:5, 11; 43:5). Ps. 43 is without a title in a part of the Psalter where almost every psalm is titled. The two psalms are a single lament in three parts, each concluding with the refrain (42:1–5, 6–11, Ps. 43). For some reason the psalmist is forced to be separated from Jerusalem, the place God has chosen to make His throne. His distance from the Lord and the presence of his enemies causes him to cry out to the Lord for help.

■ 42:1 As the deer pants for the water brooks. A powerful description of deep desire for God's presence.

■ 42:2 appear before God. Due to Jesus' redemptive work on the cross, the Christian has ready access to the Lord in prayer. The psalmist suffers because he is separated from the temple, the place God specifically set apart for worship during the period between David and Jesus. The psalmist desires to return to the temple and the assurance of God's life-giving presence.

4 When I remember these things,
[e]I pour out my soul within me.
For I used to go with the multitude;
[f]I went with them to the house of God,
With the voice of joy and praise,
With a multitude that kept a pilgrim feast.

5 [g]Why are you [4]cast down, O my soul?
And why are you disquieted within me?
[h]Hope in God, for I shall yet praise Him
[5]For the help of His countenance.

6 [6]O my God, my soul is cast down within me;
Therefore I will remember You from the land of the Jordan,
And from the heights of Hermon,
From [7]the Hill Mizar.
7 Deep calls unto deep at the noise of Your waterfalls;
[i]All Your waves and billows have gone over me.
8 The LORD will [j]command His lovingkindness in the daytime,
And [k]in the night His song shall be with me—
A prayer to the God of my life.

9 I will say to God my Rock,
[l]"Why have You forgotten me?
Why do I go mourning because of the oppression of the enemy?"
10 As with a [8]breaking of my bones,
My enemies [9]reproach me,
[m]While they say to me all day long,
"Where is your God?"

11 [n]Why are you cast down, O my soul?
And why are you disquieted within me?
Hope in God;
For I shall yet praise Him,
The [1]help of my countenance and my God.

PSALM 43

Prayer to God in Time of Trouble

Vindicate [a]me, O God,
And [b]plead my cause against an ungodly nation;
Oh, deliver me from the deceitful and unjust man!
2 For You are the God of my strength;
Why do You cast me off?
[c]Why do I go mourning because of the oppression of the enemy?

PSALM 43

1 [a][Ps. 26:1; 35:24] [b]1 Sam. 24:15; Ps. 35:1

2 [c]Ps. 42:9

■ 42:4 When I remember these things. During this time of depression and separation from God, the psalmist recalls the past when his relationship with God was good and he rejoiced in participating in the worship processions in Jerusalem. The Songs of Ascents (Ps. 120—134) were sung at these celebrations.

■ 42:5 Why are you cast down, O my soul. This verse occurs twice more as a refrain (v. 11 and 43:5). In dialogue with himself, the psalmist takes fresh hold on God.

■ 42:6 I will remember You. Ps. 77 is another lament where the remembrance of God's grace provides a bulwark against depression in the present.

land of the Jordan, . . . Hermon, . . . Mizar. Hermon is the mountain range at the far north of Israel's boundaries, near the source of the Jordan River. Mizar is of unknown location.

■ 42:7 have gone over me. The overwhelming waters of chaos are a well-known image of despair and trouble in the Bible. Cf. Ps. 18:4; 32:6; 46:2, 3; 69:1, 2; 114:3.

■ 42:8 lovingkindness. Specifically, God's lovingkindness toward those in covenant with Him, who acknowledge His rule over them, and to whom He has given promises.

■ Ps. 43 See introduction to Ps. 42. The two psalms were originally one.

■ 43:1 Vindicate me . . . plead my cause. These words are technical legal terms that give the psalm a judicial setting.

ungodly. Literally, those who are without covenant lovingkindness. These are nations or people who do not enjoy a covenant relationship with God, who do not honor His laws, and therefore do not share in His covenant promises.

3 [d]Oh, send out Your light and Your truth!
Let them lead me;
Let them bring me to [e]Your holy hill
And to Your [f]tabernacle.
4 Then I will go to the altar of God,
To God my exceeding joy;
And on the harp I will praise You,
O God, my God.

5 [f]Why are you cast down, O my soul?
And why are you disquieted within me?
Hope in God;
For I shall yet praise Him,
The [2]help of my countenance and my God.

PSALM 44

Redemption Remembered in Present Dishonor

To the Chief Musician. A [a]Contemplation[1] of the sons of Korah.

We have heard with our ears, O God,
[b]Our fathers have told us,
The deeds You did in their days,
In days of old:
2 [c]You drove out the [2]nations with Your hand,
But them You planted;
You afflicted the peoples, and cast them out.
3 For [d]they did not gain possession of the land by their own sword,
Nor did their own arm save them;
But it was Your right hand, Your arm, and the light of Your countenance, [e]Because You favored them.

4 [f]You are my King, [3]O God;
[4]Command victories for Jacob.
5 Through You [g]we will push down our enemies;
Through Your name we will trample those who rise up against us.
6 For [h]I will not trust in my bow,
Nor shall my sword save me.
7 But You have saved us from our enemies,
And have put to shame those who hated us.
8 [i]In God we boast all day long,
And praise Your name forever. Selah

9 But [j]You have cast us off and put us to shame,
And You do not go out with our armies.
10 You make us [k]turn back from the enemy,
And those who hate us have taken [5]spoil for themselves.

■ 43:3 Your holy hill. This is Mount Zion in Jerusalem, where the temple was located. God's firm mountain is to be contrasted with the turbulent waters of chaos (46:2, 3).

■ 43:5 Why are you cast down. See note on 42:5.

■ Ps. 44 In this psalm an alternation between "I" and "we" suggests that the psalmist is the king of Israel. It is not possible to identify a special occasion for the writing of the psalm, and it can be applied to many different occasions.

■ 44:1 deeds You did in their days. Memory plays a key role in the psalms (Ps. 77). When in distress, it brings healing to remember God's gracious acts in the past. In this psalm, however, past deliverance throws a question mark over the present. Why doesn't God work now as He did for our fathers in the past?

■ 44:2 them You planted. The reference is to the conquest and settlement of the land as recorded in the Book of Joshua.

■ 44:3 it was Your right hand. Israel did not take possession of the land by their own might or strategy, but through God's power. God fought for them like a warrior in their midst (Josh. 6; Deut. 7).

■ 44:4 Jacob. Another name for Israel.

■ 44:6 Nor shall my sword save me. God's people must fight, but they do not trust in the size of their army nor in their weapons.

■ 44:9 You have cast us off and put us to shame. God was with Israel at Jericho, but now He does not bless the army with His leadership. This resulted in their easy defeat.

11 [l]You have given us up like sheep intended for food,
And have [m]scattered us among the nations.
12 [n]You sell Your people for next to nothing,
And are not enriched by selling them.

13 [o]You make us a reproach to our neighbors,
A scorn and a derision to those all around us.
14 [p]You make us a byword among the nations,
[q]A shaking of the head among the peoples.
15 My dishonor is continually before me,
And the shame of my face has covered me,
16 Because of the voice of him who reproaches and reviles,
[r]Because of the enemy and the avenger.

17 [s]All this has come upon us;
But we have not forgotten You,
Nor have we dealt falsely with Your covenant.
18 Our heart has not turned back,
[t]Nor have our steps departed from Your way;
19 But You have severely broken us in [u]the place of jackals,
And covered us [v]with the shadow of death.

20 If we had forgotten the name of our God,
Or [w]stretched[6] out our hands to a foreign god,
21 [x]Would not God search this out?
For He knows the secrets of the heart.
22 [y]Yet for Your sake we are killed all day long;
We are accounted as sheep for the slaughter.

23 [z]Awake! Why do You sleep, O Lord?
Arise! Do not cast us off forever.
24 [a]Why do You hide Your face,
And forget our affliction and our oppression?
25 For [b]our soul is bowed down to the [7]dust;
Our body clings to the ground.
26 Arise for our help,
And redeem us for Your mercies' sake.

The Glories of the Messiah and His Bride

To the Chief Musician. [a]Set to [1]"The Lilies." A [2]Contemplation of the sons of Korah. A Song of Love.

PSALM 45

title [a]Ps. 69:title [1]Heb. Shoshannim [2]Heb. Maschil

1 [3]skillful

■ 44:12 You sell Your people for next to nothing. These are bold words, a striking example of the honesty of the psalmist's approach to God in prayer.

■ 44:19 shadow of death. Normally reserved for God's enemies (Nah. 1:8).

■ 44:22 for Your sake. The world seems utterly turned around. The people have not forgotten God, yet they suffer for His sake. Paul quotes this verse in Rom. 8:36.

■ 44:23 Awake. The psalmist prays as if God were asleep and unaware of Israel's plight. This daring language reflects the writer's frustration. The usual cry to God before battle is "Arise" (Ps. 7:6).

■ 44:26 Your mercies' sake. Specifically, God's lovingkindness to those with whom He is in covenantal relationship (e.g., Abraham, Gen. 17:1–9).

■ Ps. 45 As the title indicates, Ps. 45 is a wedding song. There are no other examples in the Psalter. The closest parallels are the love poems found in the Song of Solomon. This song is appropriate for a royal wedding, and was probably used in many royal weddings throughout the history of Israel. Since the Davidic kingship reflects God's ultimate kingship and anticipates Christ as King, the psalm has a second application to Christ, the King and Bridegroom, and the church as His bride (Eph. 5:25–32). Ps. 45 is applied to Jesus Christ in Heb. 1:8, 9.

■ 45:1 good theme . . . the King. The messianic King is described.

1 [b]Ps. 62:7, 8 [c][Deut. 4:7; Ps. 145:18] [1]An abundantly available help

2 You are fairer than the sons of men;
[b]Grace is poured upon Your lips;
Therefore God has blessed You forever.
3 [4]Gird Your [c]sword upon Your thigh, [d]O Mighty One,
With Your [e]glory and Your majesty.
4 [f]And in Your majesty ride prosperously because of truth, humility, and righteousness;
And Your right hand shall teach You awesome things.
5 Your arrows are sharp in the heart of the King's enemies;
The peoples fall under You.

6 [g]Your throne, O God, is forever and ever;
A [h]scepter of righteousness is the scepter of Your kingdom.
7 You love righteousness and hate wickedness;
Therefore God, Your God, has [i]anointed You
With the oil of [j]gladness more than Your companions.
8 All Your garments are [k]scented with myrrh and aloes and cassia,
Out of the ivory palaces, by which they have made You glad.
9 [l]Kings' daughters are among Your honorable women;
[m]At Your right hand stands the queen in gold from Ophir.

10 Listen, O daughter,
Consider and incline your ear;
[n]Forget your own people also, and your father's house;
11 So the King will greatly desire your beauty;
[o]Because He is your Lord, worship Him.
12 And the daughter of Tyre will come with a gift;
[p]The rich among the people will seek your favor.

13 The royal daughter is all glorious within the palace;
Her clothing is woven with gold.
14 [q]She shall be brought to the King in robes of many colors;
The virgins, her companions who follow her, shall be brought to You.
15 With gladness and rejoicing they shall be brought;
They shall enter the King's palace.

16 Instead of Your fathers shall be Your sons,
[r]Whom You shall make princes in all the earth.
17 [s]I will make Your name to be remembered in all generations;
Therefore the people shall praise You forever and ever.

PSALM 46

God the Refuge and Conqueror of the Nations

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of the sons of Korah. A Song [a]for Alamoth.

God is our [b]refuge and strength,
[c]A[1] very present help in trouble.

■ 45:2 fairer. The poet takes the bride's part in extolling the beauty of her lover.

blessed You forever. This language reflects the promises of the Davidic covenant in 2 Sam. 7. David would have a descendant on the throne forever, a promise fulfilled in Jesus Christ, who as the Son of David rules from heaven as King.

■ 45:4 Your right hand. The Davidic king was the head of the military forces of Israel, ordained by God to fight for the people. In this role the king reflects God's glory, since the Lord fought on behalf of Israel. Likewise, Jesus Christ leads the church against demonic forces (Eph. 6:10–20) and will return again to destroy all evil (Rev. 19:11–16).

■ 45:6 O God. Here is a clear identification of the divine King in this psalm, that is, Christ.

■ 45:7 anointed You. Davidic kings were anointed at their inauguration (1 Sam. 16:13), which was a temporal prefiguration of the Christ as the anointed King of glory.

■ 45:8 myrrh and aloes and cassia. A description of the king on his wedding day.

■ 45:10 Forget your own people. Just as the bride is exhorted to leave her former family, so the Christian believer breaks every tie to be joined to Christ (Gen. 2:24; Matt. 10:37, 38).

■ 45:16 Your sons. The Redeemer-King is the divine Agent by whom many sons are brought forth to glory (Heb. 2:10).

■ 45:17 the people shall praise You forever. Eternal praises belong to the King of this psalm, the Messiah.

■ Ps. 46 This psalm has some affinities with Ps. 48; 76; 84; and 87, which are called "Zion Songs." Though Zion is not specifically mentioned,

2 Therefore we will not fear,

PSALM 47

Praise to God, the Ruler of the Earth

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of the sons of Korah.

O h, clap your hands, all you peoples!
Shout to God with the voice of triumph!
2 For the LORD Most High is awesome;
He is a great [a]King over all the earth.
3 [b]He will subdue the peoples under us,

PSALM 47
2 [a]Deut. 7:21; Neh. 1:5; Ps. 76:12
3 [b]Ps. 18:47

it is alluded to in vv. 4, 5. Martin Luther was moved by this psalm to write the famous hymn, "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God."

■ 46:1 strength. See "Omnipresence and Omnipotence" at Jer. 23:24.

■ 46:2 the mountains . . . the sea. A violent earthquake is described; there may be ancient Near Eastern portrayals of cosmic violence employed here. God overcomes the sea to accomplish His purposes (cf. Ps. 18; 74; 77; Nah. 1).

■ 46:4 a river. Ancient and present Jerusalem have no river. There was a river in Eden (Gen. 2:10), as well as a "river . . . of life" that flows from the throne of God in the New Jerusalem (Rev. 22:1, 2).

The holy place. As the Israelites looked to the temple, they felt secure in the symbol of God's protection. Later in their history the people regarded the temple as a kind of idol that would save them from the Babylonians (Jer. 7). In this psalm, however, their trust is faithful and obedient, prefiguring the security enjoyed by God's people in the eternal city that is to come (Rev. 22:3).

■ 46:5 she shall not be moved. Ancient Jerusalem indeed fell to the Babylonians in 586 B.C. The New Jerusalem will stand "forever and ever" (Rev. 22:5).

break of dawn. In military campaigns, fighting commenced at first light. God's help will not be slow.

■ 46:6 the earth melted. At the voice of God the tumult of the rebellious is stilled forever.

■ 46:7 with us. The refrain (again in v. 11) reflects the consolation of God's people enjoying His protection.

■ 46:10 Be still. In the true knowledge of God and His deliverance there is peace, in contrast with the troubled "nations" (v. 6).

■ Ps. 47 Along with Ps. 93 and 95—99, this psalm can be classified as a kingship psalm. The image of God's enthronement is at the heart of the psalm. The occasion is a great military victory, and God is King, not only of Israel, but of the universe. This prayer also properly celebrates the ascension and rule of Jesus Christ. Jesus is both King and Warrior (Luke 19:38; 23:38; John 1:49).

■ 47:1 all you peoples. Since God is King of all the earth, and not just Israel, all the nations are called to join in the praise.

■ 47:2 King over all the earth. See "God Reigns: Divine Sovereignty" at Dan. 4:34.

■ 47:3 He will subdue the peoples. God won innumerable victories for His people throughout their history, beginning with the great victory at the Red Sea (Ex. 15).

PSALM 48

The Glory of God in Zion

A Song. A Psalm of the sons of Korah.

Great is the LORD, and greatly to be praised
In the [a]city of our God,
In His holy mountain.
2 [b]Beautiful in [l]elevation,
The joy of the whole earth,
Is Mount Zion on the sides of the north,
The city of the great King.
3 God is in her palaces;
He is known as her refuge.

4 For behold, [c]the kings assembled,
They passed by together.
5 They saw it, and so they marveled;
They were troubled, they hastened away.
6 Fear [d]took hold of them there,
And pain, as of a woman in birth pangs,
7 As when You break the [e]ships of Tarshish
With an east wind.

■ 47:4 our inheritance. This refers to the conquest and allotment of the Promised Land. Deut. 7:1–11 explains that it is only through God's grace that Israel possessed the land.

■ 47:5 has gone up. This is an enthronement. God has been King from all eternity (Ps. 93:2), but after the victory His kingship is celebrated anew.

■ 47:9 The princes. These leaders should gather today; they will gather tomorrow when Christ returns.

■ Ps. 48 Ps. 48 is similar to Ps. 46, and it may also be compared with Ps. 76; 84; 87; 122. After the Fall (Gen. 3) sinful human beings lost their access to God. His holiness could not tolerate their unatoned sin. The patriarchs worshiped God at altars of sacrifice. After the Exodus, sacrifices were offered at the tabernacle and then at the temple appointed by God to be in Jerusalem. The whole city derived its sanctity from God's house. Jesus Christ replaced the symbolism of the temple with the reality of His incarnation (John 1:14). Through His Spirit, the people of God are His temple (1 Cor. 3:16; 6:19; Eph. 2:21; 1 Pet. 2:5). The true Mount Zion is a heavenly reality that is known in the earthly assembly of the saints (Gal. 4:26; Heb. 12:18–28).

■ 48:1 His holy mountain. Mount Zion, the location of the temple in Jerusalem. See "The Greatness of God" at 1 Chr. 29:11.

■ 48:2 joy of the whole earth. Although the nations did not acknowledge Him, God is King of the universe and not only of Israel.

the sides of the north. Lit. "beyond Zaphon." This is not a reference to Jerusalem but to a mountain often described in Canaanite texts as the dwelling place of their gods (Is. 14:13 and notes). Yahweh is described with terms used by the neighboring religions to show that all praise really belongs to the true God. Praise to other gods is in vain because they do not exist (Is. 44:6; 1 Cor. 8:4).

■ 48:4 the kings assembled. The language is similar to Ps. 2:1–3.

■ 48:5 were troubled. Their fear is due to God's power, which He exercised in Jerusalem, because He had chosen that city as His dwelling place.

■ 48:7 ships of Tarshish. Seagoing merchant ships.

8 As we have heard,
So we have seen
In the city of the LORD of hosts,
In the city of our God:
God will [f]establish it forever. Selah

9 We have thought, O God, on [g]Your lovingkindness,
In the midst of Your temple.
10 According to [h]Your name, O God,
So is Your praise to the ends of the earth;
Your right hand is full of righteousness.
11 Let Mount Zion rejoice,
Let the daughters of Judah be glad,
Because of Your judgments.

12 Walk about Zion,
And go all around her.
Count her towers;
13 Mark well her bulwarks;
Consider her palaces;
That you may [i]tell it to the generation following.

Our God forever and ever;

PSALM 49

The Confidence of the Foolish

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of the sons of Korah.

Hear this, all peoples;
Give ear, all inhabitants of the world,
2 Both low and high,
Rich and poor together.
3 My mouth shall speak wisdom,
And the meditation of my heart shall give understanding.
4 I will incline my ear to a proverb;
I will disclose my [1]dark saying on the harp.

5 Why should I fear in the days of evil,
When the iniquity at my heels surrounds me?
6 Those who [a]trust in their wealth
And boast in the multitude of their riches,
7 None of them can by any means redeem his brother,

PSALM 49
4 [1]riddle
6 [a]Job 31:24; Ps. 52:7; [Prov. 11:28; Mark 10:23, 24]

■ 48:8 LORD of hosts. A military title identifying God as the One who leads His heavenly army into battle for the protection of His people.

■ 48:9 lovingkindness. Specifically, God's love for those in covenant relationship with Him.

■ 48:14 our guide. Israel's fate was not a matter of chance or human striving. God is in control and His sovereignty is not limited by death.

■ Ps. 49 This psalm is in the wisdom tradition (vv. 3, 4), treating issues typical of the wisdom books. The psalmist wrestles with two problems: death and the prosperity of the rich. The psalm is one of the most difficult to translate and interpret correctly. Few places in the Old Testament express so directly the hope for the resurrection of the dead. The full doctrine of the resurrection was not revealed until Jesus rose from the grave and ascended to the right hand of God.

■ 49:1 peoples. The psalm applies not only to people in redemptive relationship with God, but to all people everywhere.

■ 49:2 Rich and poor. The psalmist is disturbed by the complacency of the rich.

■ 49:3 speak wisdom. The psalm will provide practical insight on the problem at hand. The psalmist identifies himself with the sages of Israel.

■ 49:4 proverb . . . dark saying. These words locate the psalm in the wisdom tradition.

■ 49:5 days of evil. These are the days approaching one's death (cf. Eccl. 12:1).

■ 49:6 trust in their wealth. Rather than trusting God.

■ 49:7 None . . . redeem his brother. No amount of money can prevent death, and no one can escape his or her obligation to die.

Nor [b]give to God a ransom for him—
8 For [c]the redemption of their souls is costly,
And it shall cease forever—
9 That he should continue to live eternally,
And [d]not [2]see the Pit.

10 For he sees wise men die;
Likewise the fool and the senseless person perish,
And leave their wealth to others.
11 [3]Their inner thought is that their houses will last forever,
Their dwelling places to all generations;
They [e]call their lands after their own names.
12 Nevertheless man, though in honor, does not [4]remain;
He is like the beasts that perish.

13 This is the way of those who are [f]foolish,
And of their posterity who approve their sayings. Selah
14 Like sheep they are laid in the grave;
Death shall feed on them;
[g]The upright shall have dominion over them in the morning;
[h]And their beauty shall be consumed in [5]the grave, far from their dwelling.
15 But God [i]will redeem my soul from the power of [6]the grave,
For He shall [j]receive me. Selah

16 Do not be afraid when one becomes rich,
When the glory of his house is increased;
17 For when he dies he shall carry nothing away;
His glory shall not descend after him.
18 Though while he lives [k]he blesses himself
(For men will praise you when you do well for yourself),
19 He shall go to the generation of his fathers;

PSALM 50

God the Righteous Judge

A Psalm of Asaph.

The [a]Mighty One, God the LORD,
Has spoken and called the earth

■ 49:10 wise men die; Likewise the fool. The thought is reminiscent of Eccl. 2:12–16. The psalmist classifies the rich oppressor with the fools and the senseless.

■ 49:11 Their dwelling places to all generations. The rich spend much of their lifetime building earthly homes and amassing wealth. But all these things soon pass away.

■ 49:12 He is like the beasts that perish. In comparing this experience of both humans and animals, the psalmist parallels the thought of Eccl. 3:18–21.

■ 49:14 Like sheep. Unaware, the self-trusting rich are on the road to slaughter.

■ 49:15 God will redeem my soul from . . . the grave. While God does not accept a ransom for death (v. 7), He provides one for the psalmist. The key to this Old Testament awareness of redemption from death is recognition of the eternity of God and of His eternal relationship with His people: "He shall receive me." See Mark 12:26, 27.

■ 49:16–20 The wicked rich cannot carry their wealth into the dark, joyless eternity to which they are appointed.

■ Ps. 50 This psalm has a prophetic cast since a large part of it is composed of two oracles of the Lord, one spoken to the righteous, and the other against the wicked. The psalm places special focus on the need to give thanks (vv. 14, 15, 22, 23). With regard to its title, see Introduction: Author.

■ 50:1 The Mighty One, God the LORD. The psalm opens impressively with three divine names. The third is God's covenant name, conventionally translated with the word "LORD" in small capitals. In Hebrew it is four consonants, called the "Tetragrammaton," and probably pronounced "Yahweh." "Jehovah" uses the vowels of a different word in a way suggested by the Jewish custom of not pronouncing God's sacred name. See Ex. 3:13–15 and notes.

From the rising of the sun to its going down. From east to west, God addresses the whole earth.

From the rising of the sun to its going down.
2 Out of Zion, the perfection of beauty,
[b]God will shine forth.
3 Our God shall come, and shall not keep silent;
[c]A fire shall devour before Him,
And it shall be very tempestuous all around Him.

4 [d]He shall call to the heavens from above,
And to the earth, that He may judge His people:
5 "Gather [e]My saints together to Me,
[f]Those who have [1]made a covenant with Me by sacrifice."
6 Let the [g]heavens declare His righteousness,
For [h]God Himself is Judge. Selah

7 "Hear, O My people, and I will speak,
O Israel, and I will testify against you;
[i]I am God, your God!
8 [j]I will not [2]rebuke you [k]for your sacrifices
Or your burnt offerings,
Which are continually before Me.
9 [l]I will not take a bull from your house,
Nor goats out of your folds.
10 For every beast of the forest is Mine,
And the cattle on a thousand hills.
11 I know all the birds of the mountains,
And the wild beasts of the field are Mine.

12 "If I were hungry, I would not tell you;
[m]For the world is Mine, and all its fullness.
13 [n]Will I eat the flesh of bulls,
Or drink the blood of goats?
14 [o]Offer to God thanksgiving,
And [p]pay your vows to the Most High.
15 [q]Call upon Me in the day of trouble;
I will deliver you, and you shall glorify Me."

16 But to the wicked God says:
"What right have you to declare My statutes,
Or take My covenant in your mouth,
17 [r]Seeing you hate instruction

■ 50:2 Zion. The location of the temple, the place God has chosen to make His presence known. See Ps. 2:6.

shine forth. The language indicates a "theophany," a visual self-revelation of God. God's presence is manifest at His temple in Jerusalem. See Deut. 33:2.

■ 50:3 A fire shall devour before Him. God's theophany (v. 2 note) is often accompanied by powerful and dangerous forces, especially when He speaks in judgment (Ex. 19; Is. 24; Nah. 1).

■ 50:5 a covenant with Me by sacrifice. A covenant is a solemn agreement between persons. Here, as in most places, it signifies the bond between God and His people. However, since man is sinful, this relationship must be accompanied by sacrifice, representing the punishment for sin.

■ 50:6 heavens. Possibly a poetic way of referring to the inhabitants of heaven, the angels; otherwise, the glory of the inanimate, created heavens.

■ 50:7 testify. This legal terminology is used because covenants were legal instruments, like contracts or treaties. When there was some disruption in the people's faithfulness, they were often put on trial by the Lord or by one of His prophets (Mic. 6:1–8).

■ 50:8 I will not rebuke you for your sacrifices. This verse indicates that the people's problem was not observance of the sacrificial rites. They were faithful to do them, but they apparently misunderstood their significance.

■ 50:9 will not take. The people of the surrounding nations thought that their gods ate the sacrifices offered to them and grew hungry when deprived. In the Gilgamesh Epic, the goddess Ishtar bemoans the lack of sacrifices that resulted in her god-sized hunger.

■ 50:10 every beast of the forest is Mine. God affirms that He created and owns all the creatures of the world.

■ 50:13, 14 Will I eat the flesh of bulls. This rhetorical question makes it clear that the Lord neither eats the sacrifices, nor is He satisfied with them apart from sincere commitment and thanksgiving.

■ 50:16 wicked. Probably the wicked people within the professing covenant community, since they know God's law.

declare. This may be a reference to a covenant renewal ceremony in which the covenant community together recites the law and reaffirms its intention to keep it (Deut. 31:9–11).

■ 50:17 hate instruction. A sure sign of a fool (Prov. 1:7).

And cast My words behind you?
18 When you saw a thief, you [s]consented[3] with him,
And have been a [t]partaker with adulterers.
19 You give your mouth to evil,
And [u]your tongue frames deceit.
20 You sit and speak against your brother;
You slander your own mother's son.
21 These things you have done, and I kept silent;
[v]You thought that I was altogether like you;
But I will rebuke you,
And [w]set them in order before your eyes.

22 "Now consider this, you who [x]forget God,
Lest I tear you in pieces,
And there be none to deliver:
23 Whoever offers praise glorifies Me;
And [y]to him who orders his conduct aright
I will show the salvation of God."

PSALM 51

A Prayer of Repentance

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David [a]when Nathan the prophet went to him, after he had gone in to Bathsheba.

Have mercy upon me, O God,
According to Your lovingkindness;
According to the multitude of Your tender mercies,
[b]Blot out my transgressions.
2 [c]Wash me thoroughly from my iniquity,
And cleanse me from my sin.

3 For I acknowledge my transgressions,
And my sin is always before me.
4 [d]Against You, You only, have I sinned,
And done this evil [e]in Your sight—
[f]That You may be found just [1]when You speak,
And blameless when You judge.

5 [g]Behold, I was brought forth in iniquity,
And in sin my mother conceived me.
6 Behold, You desire truth in the inward parts,
And in the hidden part You will make me to know wisdom.

■ 50:18, 19 The psalmist cites the seventh, eighth, and ninth commandments.

■ 50:21 I kept silent. God's silence was frequently taken by the wicked as a sign that He didn't care if they sinned.

■ 50:22 Lest I tear you in pieces. God insists on obedience from the wicked hypocrites, or they will meet a fearful end.

■ Ps. 51 Ps. 51 is a uniquely powerful statement of the depths of sin and repentance. It is the most striking of the "prayers of penitence" (introduction to Ps. 6), a type of lament.

■ 51:1 According to Your lovingkindness. David had been guilty of a great sin in the matter of Uriah, husband of Bathsheba (2 Sam. 11). David pleads for God's mercy, in keeping with His promised love for His people.

tender mercies. God's forgiveness of sinners is the result of His mercy. Sinners deserve death, but He gives life.

■ 51:2 Wash. The word means specifically to "wash clothes." The psalmist's iniquity is like filthy clothes that need to be laundered.

■ 51:4 You only. David committed adultery with Bathsheba and sent her husband to his death. How can he say he sinned against God only? Rebellion against God was the root of his sin, and his crime injured people who belonged to God and transgressed a social order created by God.

just . . . blameless. David recognized that God's anger against him was just. This verse is cited by Paul in Rom. 3:4.

■ 51:5 brought forth in iniquity. The Bible clearly teaches that children are sinners. They are not born innocent and only later become sinners. Children, too, need God's salvation. See theological note "Original Sin and Total Depravity."

■ 51:6 inward parts . . . hidden part. That is, truth and wisdom at the center of one's being.

7 [h]Purge me with hyssop, and I shall be clean;
Wash me, and I shall be [i]whiter than snow.
8 Make me hear joy and gladness,
That the bones You have broken [j]may rejoice.
9 Hide Your face from my sins,
And blot out all my iniquities.

10 [k]Create in me a clean heart, O God,
And renew a steadfast spirit within me.
11 Do not cast me away from Your presence,
And do not take Your [l]Holy Spirit from me.

Original Sin and Total Depravity

Scripture diagnoses sin as a universal deformity of human nature, found at every point in every person (1 Kin. 8:46; Rom. 3:9–23; 7:18; 1 John 1:8–10). Both Testaments describe sin as rebellion against God's rule, missing the mark God set for us to aim at, transgressing God's law, offending God's purity by defiling oneself, and incurring guilt before God the Judge. The moral deformity is dynamic: sin is an energy of irrational, negative, and rebellious reaction to God. It is a spirit of fighting God in order to play God. The root of sin is pride and enmity against God, the spirit seen in Adam's first transgression, and sinful acts always have behind them thoughts and desires that one way or another express the willful opposition of the fallen heart to God's claims on our lives.

Sin may be defined as breaking the law of God, or failing to conform to it, in any aspect of life, whether thought, word, or deed. Scriptures illustrating different aspects of sin include Jer. 17:9; Matt. 12:30–37; Mark 7:20–23; Rom. 1:18–3:20; 7:7–25; 8:5–8; 14:23 (Luther said that Paul wrote Romans to "magnify sin"); Gal. 5:16–21; Eph. 2:1–3; 4:17–19; Heb. 3:12; James 2:10–11; 1 John 3:4; 5:17.

"Original sin," meaning sin derived from our origin, is not a biblical phrase (it comes from Augustine), but it does bring into focus the reality of sin in our spiritual system. Original sin does not mean that sin belongs to human nature as such; "God made man upright" (Eccl. 7:29). Nor does it mean that the processes of reproduction and birth are sinful; the uncleanness associated with sexuality in the Law (Lev. 12; 15) was typical and ceremonial, not moral. Rather, "original sin" means that sinfulness marks everyone from birth, in the form of a heart inclined toward sin, prior to any actual sins; this inner sinfulness is the root and source of all actual sins; it is transmitted to us from Adam, our first representative before God. The doctrine of original sin makes the point that we are not sinners because we sin, but we sin because we are sinners, born with a nature enslaved to sin.

The phrase "total depravity" is commonly used to make explicit the implications of original sin. It signifies a corruption of our moral and spiritual nature that is total in principle, although not in degree (for no one is as bad as he or she might be). No part of us is untouched by sin, and no action of ours is as good as it should be. Consequently, nothing we do is ever meritorious in God's eyes. We cannot earn God's favor, no matter what we do; unless grace saves us, we are lost.

Total depravity includes total inability, that is, being without power to believe in God or His word (John 6:44; Rom. 8:7, 8). Paul calls this universal unresponsiveness a form of death; the fallen heart is "dead" (Eph. 2:1, 5; Col. 2:13). As the Westminster Confession (IX. 3) explains, "Man by his fall into a state of sin, hath wholly lost all ability of will to any spiritual good accompanying salvation; so as a natural man, being altogether averse from that good, and dead in sin, is not able by his own strength to convert himself, or to prepare himself thereunto." To this darkness the word of God alone brings light (Luke 18:27; 2 Cor. 4:6). □

■ 51:7 with hyssop. The allusion is to Lev. 14:6, 7, where the cleansing of a leper is described.

Wash me. This may be an allusion to Num. 19:19, where instructions are given for ritual washing after contact with a dead person. On the need for washing the heart, see "Legalism" at Matt. 23:4.

■ 51:10 Create. The verb is the same used at Gen. 1:1 for the creation of the world. The psalmist knows that the redirection of his desires and thoughts can only come about through the intervention of God. See "Repentance" at Acts 26:20.

■ 51:11 Holy Spirit. The Old Testament does not make a full disclosure of the personhood of the Holy Spirit. David understands that his spiritual well-being depends on God's presence with him. He fears that the Spirit may be taken away, because the Spirit is holy and David is sinful. See "The Holy Spirit" at John 14:26.

13 Then I will teach transgressors Your ways,

14 Deliver me from the guilt of bloodshed, O God,
The God of my salvation,
And my tongue shall sing aloud of Your righteousness.
15 O Lord, open my lips,
And my mouth shall show forth Your praise.
16 For [n]You do not desire sacrifice, or else I would give it;
You do not delight in burnt offering.
17 [o]The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit,
A broken and a contrite heart—
These, O God, You will not despise.

18 Do good in Your good pleasure to Zion;
Build the walls of Jerusalem.
19 Then You shall be pleased with [p]the sacrifices of righteousness,
With burnt offering and whole burnt offering;
Then they shall offer bulls on Your altar.

PSALM 52

The End of the Wicked and the Peace of the Godly

PSALM 52

title [a]1 Sam. 22:9
[b]Ezek. 22:9
[f]Heb. Maschil

To the Chief Musician. A [f]Contemplation of David [a]when Doeg the Edomite went and [b]told Saul, and said to him, "David has gone to the house of Ahimelech."

Why do you boast in evil, O mighty man?
The goodness of God endures continually.
2 Your tongue devises destruction,
Like a sharp razor, working deceitfully.
3 You love evil more than good,
Lying rather than speaking righteousness. Selah
4 You love all devouring words,
You deceitful tongue.

5 God shall likewise destroy you forever;
He shall take you away, and pluck you out of your dwelling place,
And uproot you from the land of the living. Selah
6 The righteous also shall see and fear,
And shall laugh at him, saying,
7 "Here is the man who did not make God his strength,

■ 51:12 joy of Your salvation. David had suffered from a spiritual dullness that led to moral bankruptcy. To prevent such disaster in the future, he prays for joy.

■ 51:13 I will teach transgressors Your ways. If forgiven, the psalmist promises to use his life to help others find forgiveness.

■ 51:14 sing aloud of Your righteousness. David has previously spoken of God's justice in condemning sin (v. 4). Now, the same justice overcomes sin and condemnation through grace, as explained in Rom. 3:21–26 and epitomized in 1 John 1:9.

■ 51:16 You do not delight in burnt offering. The Bible values heartfelt obedience above outward religious conformity (40:6–8; Mic. 6:6–8). As v. 19 shows, this did not condemn sacrifices as such.

■ 51:18, 19 The restoration of the king leads to blessing for the people.

■ Ps. 52 This psalm expresses confidence in the Lord like a psalm of trust, pronounces judgment on the wicked like a lament, and uses wisdom language.

■ 52:title The historical title refers to the event recorded in 1 Sam. 22:6–23. In effect, the title identifies Doeg with the boastful, wicked man, and David with the righteous psalmist. However, the psalm itself is not so specific and continues to be immediately relevant to the people of God.

■ 52:1 mighty man. A soldier or warrior.

■ 52:4 devouring. More exactly, "confused." The wisdom literature consistently teaches that confusion is on the side of the wicked and order on the side of righteousness.

■ 52:6 fear. This verb may seem strange as associated with laughter. The meaning, however, is not fear in the sense of dread, but rather of reverence and awe. The righteous see the justice of God's judgment against the wicked.

■ 52:7 who did not make God his strength. This man is the opposite of everything the psalms stand for. Throughout the psalms people are urged to make God their stronghold and to put no trust in themselves. God is the power behind His people in all their victories.

But trusted in the abundance of his riches,
And strengthened himself in his [2]wickedness."

8 But I am [c]like a green olive tree in the house of God;
I trust in the mercy of God forever and ever.
9 I will praise You forever,
Because You have done it;
And in the presence of Your saints
I will wait on Your name, for it [3]is good.

PSALM 53

Folly of the Godless, and the Restoration of Israel

To the Chief Musician. Set to "Mahalath." A [1]Contemplation of David.

The [a]fool has said in his heart,
"There is no God."
They are corrupt, and have done abominable iniquity;
[b]There is none who does good.

2 God looks down from heaven upon the children of men,
To see if there are any who understand, who [c]seek God.
3 Every one of them has turned aside;
They have together become corrupt;
There is none who does good,
No, not one.

4 Have the workers of iniquity [d]no knowledge,
Who eat up my people as they eat bread,
And do not call upon God?
5 [e]There they are in great fear
Where no fear was,
For God has scattered the bones of him who encamps against you;
You have put them to shame,
Because God has despised them.

6 [f]Oh, that the salvation of Israel would come out of Zion!
When God brings back [2]the captivity of His people,
Let Jacob rejoice and Israel be glad.

PSALM 54

Answered Prayer for Deliverance from Adversaries

To the Chief Musician. With [1]stringed instruments. A [2]Contemplation of David [a]when the Ziphites went and said to Saul, "Is David not hiding with us?"

Save me, O God, by Your name,
And vindicate me by Your strength.

PSALM 54

title [a]1 Sam. 23:19 [1]Heb. neginoth [2]Heb. Maschil

■ 52:8 olive tree. Reminiscent of Ps. 1. Olive trees can live for hundreds of years.

■ 52:9 in the presence of Your saints. The assurance of the psalmist leads to praise in public worship. See note on 22:22.

■ Ps. 53 Cf. Ps. 14. A meditation on the wickedness of the fool. God will destroy the fool and restore Israel's fortunes. Ps. 53, in contrast to Ps. 14, uses "God" rather than the more specific, covenant "LORD" to refer to the deity. This variation fits the broader context, since Ps. 53 is in Book II of the Psalter, which uses the broader term rather than the covenant name.

■ 53:1–4 See notes on Ps. 14:1–4.

■ 53:5 scattered the bones. In the Old Testament God often fights for His people against their flesh-and-blood enemies. With New Testament revelation the underlying spiritual conflict to save His people from sin becomes the dominant theme, although the real conflict has been at this level from the beginning (Gen. 3:4, 5).

■ 53:6 salvation of Israel. An expression of hope for deliverance from evil.

■ 54:title The historical title locates the inspiration of the psalm in David's premonarchical days. He wrote the psalm after being betrayed by the Ziphites (1 Sam. 23:19; 26:1).

■ 54:1 vindicate me. The word identifies his complaint as a judicial one. David had been unjustly betrayed by the Ziphites, his countrymen from Judah.

PSALM 55

Trust in God Concerning the Treachery of Friends

To the Chief Musician. With [1]stringed instruments. A [2]Contemplation of David.

Give ear to my prayer, O God,
And do not hide Yourself from my supplication.
2 Attend to me, and hear me;
I [a]am[3] restless in my complaint, and moan noisily,
3 Because of the voice of the enemy,
Because of the oppression of the wicked;
[b]For they bring down trouble upon me,
And in wrath they hate me.

4 [c]My heart is severely pained within me,
And the terrors of death have fallen upon me.
5 Fearfulness and trembling have come upon me,
And horror has overwhelmed me.
6 So I said, "Oh, that I had wings like a dove!
I would fly away and be at rest.
7 Indeed, I would wander far off,
And remain in the wilderness. Selah
8 I would hasten my escape
From the windy storm and tempest."

9 Destroy, O Lord, and divide their [4]tongues,
For I have seen [d]violence and strife in the city.
10 Day and night they go around it on its walls;
[e]Iniquity and trouble are also in the midst of it.
11 Destruction is in its midst;
[f]Oppression and deceit do not depart from its streets.

■ 54:3 strangers. Though they are countrymen, he does not know them personally.

■ 54:6, 7 A vow to sacrifice to the Lord as thanks for being rescued from trouble. See 22:22 and note.

■ Ps. 55 Like many laments, this psalm bemoans the attack of enemies. Most unusual is the sorrow over betrayal by a friend. The psalm descends to the pits of despair, but turns at the end toward the Lord with hope. The psalm anticipates the suffering of Christ, who was betrayed by Judas, a disciple of His inner circle (Matt. 26:47–56).

■ 55:3 enemy. The psalmist refers to enemies in general terms because he knows that his song will be used by other people in other situations (v. 22).

■ 55:6 I would fly away. The writer has the urge to escape the source of his distress, but is unable to do so.

■ 55:9 divide their tongues. The psalmist alludes to the judgment the Lord brought upon the wicked generation who built the tower of Babel (Gen. 11:1–9).

■ 55:10 go around it on its walls. Lawless men are loose and active on the walls, the main defense of the city.

■ 55:11 its streets. This description of an ancient city of Israel, presumably Jerusalem during David's reign, could be applied to today's lawless cities.

12 [g]For it is not an enemy who reproaches me;
Then I could bear it.
Nor is it one who hates me who has [h]exalted himself against me;
Then I could hide from him.
13 But it was you, a man my equal,
[i]My companion and my acquaintance.
14 We took sweet counsel together,
And [j]walked to the house of God in the throng.

15 Let death seize them;
Let them [k]go down alive into [5]hell,
For wickedness is in their dwellings and among them.

16 As for me, I will call upon God,
And the LORD shall save me.
17 [l]Evening and morning and at noon
I will pray, and cry aloud,
And He shall hear my voice.
18 He has redeemed my soul in peace from the battle that was against me,
For [m]there were many against me.
19 God will hear, and afflict them,
[n]Even He who abides from of old. Selah
Because they do not change,
Therefore they do not fear God.

20 He has [o]put forth his hands against those who [p]were at peace with him;
He has broken his [6]covenant.
21 [q]The words of his mouth were smoother than butter,
But war was in his heart;
His words were softer than oil,
Yet they were drawn swords.

22 [r]Cast your burden on the LORD,
And [s]He shall sustain you;
He shall never permit the righteous to be [7]moved.

23 But You, O God, shall bring them down to the pit of destruction;
[t]Bloodthirsty and deceitful men [u]shall not live out half their days;
But I will trust in You.

PSALM 56

Prayer for Relief from Tormentors

To the Chief Musician. Set to [1]"The Silent Dove in Distant Lands." A Michtam of David when the [a]Philistines captured him in Gath.

Be [b]merciful to me, O God, for man would swallow me up;
Fighting all day he oppresses me.

PSALM 56
title [a]1 Sam. 21:11 [1]Heb. Jonath Elem Rechokim
1 [b]Ps. 57:1

■ 55:13 The terms become increasingly intimate, from "a man my equal" to "my companion" to the climax, "my acquaintance."

■ 55:14 sweet counsel together. The worst hurt of all is that the close friend was a fellow worshiper in the house of God.

■ 55:15 alive into hell. That is, into Sheol, the grave.

■ 55:18 the battle. While the psalm could conceivably have had its origin in battle, it is more likely that the battle is a metaphor for the struggles that the psalmist feels with his enemies and friends who surround him.

■ 55:19 abides from of old. God hears the psalmist's prayers from His kingly throne in heaven.

■ 55:20 his covenant. The psalmist describes the willful breaking of a formal agreement between friends. A covenant is a solemn agreement under sanctions.

■ 55:21 smoother than butter . . . softer than oil. A powerful poetic description of hypocrisy and deceit.

■ 55:22 He shall never permit the righteous to be moved. The context of the psalm shows that there is no unqualified promise that the righteous will always be happy and prosperous. The psalmist sings this lament to the Lord because he is in despair. The verse must mean that God will not leave the righteous in the fallen position forever, but will vindicate them in the end.

■ 55:23 the pit of destruction. The grave.

■ 56:title The title is difficult to fit into David's life as it is known from the historical books. The closest parallel is 1 Sam. 21:10–15, when David was feigning madness before the king of Gath in order to escape him.

2 [c]Ps. 57:3
4 [d]Ps. 118:6; Is. 31:3; [Heb. 13:6]
8 [e][Mal. 3:16]
9 [f][Ps. 118:6; Rom. 8:31]
13 [g]Ps. 116:8, 9 [h]Job 33:30

2 My enemies would [c]hound me all day,
For there are many who fight against me, O Most High.

3 Whenever I am afraid,
I will trust in You.
4 In God (I will praise His word),
In God I have put my trust;
[d]I will not fear.
What can flesh do to me?

5 All day they twist my words;
All their thoughts are against me for evil.
6 They gather together,
They hide, they mark my steps,
When they lie in wait for my life.
7 Shall they escape by iniquity?
In anger cast down the peoples, O God!

8 You number my wanderings;
Put my tears into Your bottle;
[e]Are they not in Your book?
9 When I cry out to You,
Then my enemies will turn back:
This I know, because [f]God is for me.
10 In God (I will praise His word),
In the LORD (I will praise His word),
11 In God I have put my trust;
I will not be afraid.
What can man do to me?

12 Vows made to You are binding upon me, O God;
I will render praises to You,
13 [g]For You have delivered my soul from death.
Have You not kept my feet from falling,
That I may walk before God
In the [h]light of the living?

PSALM 57

Prayer for Safety from Enemies

To the Chief Musician. Set to [i]"Do Not Destroy." A Michtam of David [a]when he fled from Saul into the cave.

Be merciful to me, O God, be merciful to me!
For my soul trusts in You;
[b]And in the shadow of Your wings I will make my refuge,
[c]Until these calamities have passed by.

- 56:2 hound me. The enemies, like ruthless animals, treat the psalmist as their prey.
- 56:5 twist my words. They change the meanings of his words to put him in a bad light.
- 56:7 cast down the peoples. The parallelism of this verse suggests that the enemies are the foreign nations that surround Israel.
- 56:8 number. The psalmist is calling upon God to hear and remember his prayer.
- 56:9 This I know. The psalmist remembers God's covenant promises, such as Deut. 28:7, a promise that God will scatter the enemies of His people.
- 56:12 render praises. When the psalmist's prayer is answered, he promises to return to offer his thanks. He would do this by offering sacrifices and singing thanksgiving songs similar to Ps. 34. See Ps. 22:22 and note.
- Ps. 57 The psalm was composed before David was king, when he was hiding from Saul in a cave. Many scholars relate the psalm to 1 Sam. 24, but a closer parallel is 1 Sam. 22:1–5, when David fled to the cave of Adullam. This song ends with an intense concluding statement that is close in wording to Ps. 108:1–5.
- 57:1 in the shadow of Your wings. The image of God as a protective mother bird protecting her young from trouble communicates God's compassion for His people. See note on maternal representations of God at Ps. 131:2.

2 I will cry out to God Most High,
To God [d]who performs all things for me.
3 [e]He shall send from heaven and save me;
He reproaches the one who [2]would swallow me up. Selah
God [f]shall send forth His mercy and His truth.

4 My soul is among lions;
I lie among the sons of men
Who are set on fire,
[g]Whose teeth are spears and arrows,
And their tongue a sharp sword.
5 [h]Be exalted, O God, above the heavens;
Let Your glory be above all the earth.

6 [i]They have prepared a net for my steps;
My soul is bowed down;
They have dug a pit before me;
Into the midst of it they themselves have fallen. Selah

7 [j]My heart is steadfast, O God, my heart is steadfast;
I will sing and give praise.
8 Awake, [k]my glory!
Awake, lute and harp!
I will awaken the dawn.

9 [l]I will praise You, O Lord, among the peoples;
I will sing to You among the [3]nations.
10 [m]For Your mercy reaches unto the heavens,
And Your truth unto the clouds.

PSALM 58

The Just Judgment of the Wicked

title [1]Heb. Al Tashcheth

To the Chief Musician. Set to [1]"Do Not Destroy." A Michtam of David.

Do you indeed speak righteousness, you silent ones?
Do you judge uprightly, you sons of men?
2 No, in heart you work wickedness;
You weigh out the violence of your hands in the earth.

■ 57:2 who performs all things for me. This Hebrew phrase might be rendered "who avenges me," and indicates that God judges His people's enemies.

■ 57:4 lions. Lions were numerous in the ancient Near East and in Palestine. They often symbolized power and ruthlessness.

■ 57:5 above the heavens. God is so great that not even the heavens can hold Him (1 Kin. 8:27). He is transcendent, but in His compassion He dwells with men.

■ 57:6 a net . . . a pit. Like a hunter, the enemy sets snares and traps for the psalmist. The principle that evil people are ultimately caught by their own wicked schemes is a theme that runs through the psalms and the prophets. See Ps. 7:14–16; 34:21; 35:8; 37:15.

■ 57:7 steadfast. Nothing can swerve the psalmist from his faithful intention to offer up his hymn of praise.

■ 57:8 I will awaken the dawn. He will praise the Lord through the night, until dawn arises.

■ 57:9 among the peoples. God is more than the God of Israel. He is King of the universe, and the psalmist will praise God's great deeds throughout the universe.

■ Ps. 58 Psalms of lament often contain sections that are curses directed against the evil and unjust. The objects of the psalmist's scorn seem to be human rulers (v. 1 note), especially unjust judges. Early Christian tradition associated this psalm with the high priest and the Sanhedrin as they condemned Jesus (Matt. 26:57–68).

■ 58:1 silent ones. The Hebrew word translated "silent ones" resembles the word for "gods." The word "gods" could be used for the corrupt judges of this verse, according to the example in Ps. 82:1 (see text note at 82:1).

5 [3]Gentiles

3 [a]The wicked are estranged from the womb;
They go astray as soon as they are born, speaking lies.
4 [b]Their poison is like the poison of a serpent;
They are like the deaf cobra that stops its ear,
5 Which will not [c]heed the voice of charmers,
Charming ever so skillfully.

6 [d]Break[2] their teeth in their mouth, O God!
Break out the fangs of the young lions, O LORD!
7 [e]Let them flow away as waters which run continually;
When he bends his bow,
Let his arrows be as if cut in pieces.
8 Let them be like a snail which melts away as it goes,
[f]Like a stillborn child of a woman, that they may not see the sun.

9 Before your [g]pots can feel the burning thorns,
He shall take them away [h]as with a whirlwind,
As in His living and burning wrath.
10 The righteous shall rejoice when he sees the [i]vengeance;
[j]He shall wash his feet in the blood of the wicked,
11 [k]So that men will say,
"Surely there is a reward for the righteous;
Surely He is God who [l]judges in the earth."

PSALM 59

The Assured Judgment of the Wicked

To the Chief Musician. Set to [1]"Do Not Destroy." A Michtam of David [a]when Saul sent men, and they watched the house in order to kill him.

Deliver me from my enemies, O my God;
[2]Defend me from those who rise up against me.
2 Deliver me from the workers of iniquity,
And save me from bloodthirsty men.

3 For look, they lie in wait for my life;
[b]The mighty gather against me,
Not for my transgression nor for my sin, O LORD.
4 They run and prepare themselves through no fault of mine.

[c]Awake to help me, and behold!
5 You therefore, O LORD God of hosts, the God of Israel,
Awake to punish all the [3]nations;
Do not be merciful to any wicked transgressors. Selah

■ 58:3 from the womb. David recognized this of himself in Ps. 51:5. All are born with a nature that rebels against God—this is the meaning of the doctrine of original sin. David means that the wickedness of the evil judges in particular extends back to the beginning of their lives.

■ 58:4, 5 poison of a serpent. The psalmist likens the wicked rulers to snakes. The story of the Fall (Gen. 3), initiated by the serpent, sharpens the image. The rulers' words are as distinctive as the venom of the serpent, and they turn a deaf ear to logical arguments and even divine judgments that may be addressed to them.

■ 58:7 Let his arrows be . . . cut in pieces. Bring to nothing their evil schemes that seek violence against the innocent.

■ 58:10 The righteous shall rejoice. Eternity will show that God's judgment of the wicked is just. This judgment will cause rejoicing since the alternative would be unthinkable: heaven populated with God's enemies (Rev. 16:5, 6; 19:1–3; 21:27).

■ 58:11 there is a reward. When the wicked prosper or the righteous suffer, faith is shaken. The covenant promises of Deut. 28 provide for curses on the wicked and blessings for the righteous. The last judgment will set things right again.

■ Ps. 59 The psalm comes from the period before David became king. Saul set a watch over David's house, hoping to kill him; but David's wife Michal, the daughter of Saul, helped David escape (1 Sam. 19:11–17).

■ 59:3 Not for my transgression . . . my sin. The psalmist is not saying that he is without sin; he is asserting that the enemy has no cause against him. This was true of the original situation, where David had committed no aggression against Saul's kingship. See Ps. 26.

■ 59:5 God of hosts. This divine title indicates that God has heavenly armies at His command.

nations . . . wicked transgressors. The enemies come from the nations outside of Israel, but also from within.

6 [d]At evening they return,
They growl like a dog,
And go all around the city.
7 Indeed, they belch with their mouth;
[e]Swords are in their lips;
For they say, [f]"Who hears?"

8 But [g]You, O LORD, shall laugh at them;
You shall have all the [4]nations in derision.
9 I will wait for You, O You [5]his Strength;
[h]For God is my [6]defense.
10 [7]My God of mercy shall [i]come to meet me;
God shall let [j]me see my desire on my enemies.

11 Do not slay them, lest my people forget;
Scatter them by Your power,
And bring them down,
O Lord our shield.
12 [k]For the sin of their mouth and the words of their lips,
Let them even be taken in their pride,
And for the cursing and lying which they speak.

Yes, I will sing aloud of Your mercy in the morning;
For You have been my defense
And refuge in the day of my trouble.

Urgent Prayer for the Restored Favor of God

To the Chief Musician. [a]Set to [1]"Lily of the Testimony." A Michtam of David. For teaching. [b]When he fought against Mesopotamia and Syria of Zobah, and Joab returned and killed twelve thousand Edomites in the Valley of Salt.

O God, [c]You have cast us off;
You have broken us down;

1 [c]Ps. 44:9

■ 59:6 like a dog. The enemies are like a pack of dogs who roam the streets of the city and make them unsafe. Dogs were not valued in the ancient Near East.

■ 59:7 Who hears. See 64:5 and note.

■ 59:10 God . . . shall come to meet me. God will lead the way in the fight against the enemy. In the time of Joshua, the ark, symbolic of God's presence, led Israel into the Promised Land.

see my desire. For now, the enemy gloats over the psalmist, but the psalmist expects a reversal.

■ 59:11 Do not slay them. The psalmist desires to prolong the suffering of the enemy. This will make them an example to the rest of Israel that evil doesn't pay.

■ 59:12 sin of their mouth. Words are powerful, and can bring either great blessing or tremendous harm.

■ 59:13 let them know. The ultimate goal of the destruction of the enemy is that the glory of God's justice may be seen.

■ Ps. 60 The psalm laments a military defeat and asks God why He has rejected the people. For the most part, the community voice dominates and the psalm addresses God with the first person plural.

■ 60:title This psalm has the longest title in the Psalter, referring to the

You have been displeased;
Oh, restore us again!
2 You have made the earth tremble;
You have broken it;
[d]Heal its breaches, for it is shaking.
3 [e]You have shown Your people hard things;
[f]You have made us drink the wine of [2]confusion.

title [1]Heb. neginah

PSALM 61

Assurance of God's Eternal Protection

To the Chief Musician. On [1]a stringed instrument. A Psalm of David.

Hear my cry, O God;
Attend to my prayer.

events recorded in 2 Sam. 8 and 1 Chr. 18. The historical books, however, tell only of the conclusion of the battle's victory. The title and the psalm suggest that David experienced setbacks on the way to victory. The historical books and the psalm differ on the number of Edomites killed in the Valley of Salt, probably through a copyist's error. The psalm associates Joab with the victory, while 2 Sam. 8:13 names David, and 1 Chr. 18:12 lists Abishai. All three were high commanders in the army and could be credited with the victory.

■ 60:1 cast us off. When God rejects His people, He abandons them and leaves them to the mercy of the enemy. It is only with God's approval that the people of Israel have any reason for confidence.

■ 60:3 drink the wine of confusion. The image is a frequent one in the prophets. The cup that makes a nation stagger is the cup of judgment (Jer. 25:15–38; Nah. 3:11). Jesus drank the cup of wrath to its dregs on behalf of His people (Matt. 26:39 and parallels).

■ 60:4 those who fear You. The verse is a token of hope for the faithful. God gives protection to His people from the weapons of the enemy.

■ 60:6 God has spoken in His holiness. The divine oracle was probably spoken through a prophet associated with the temple. The gist of his message is that victory will be forthcoming, a message borne out by the report in 2 Sam. 8.

I will divide. The following verses exult in the inheritance of the Promised Land.

Shechem . . . Succoth. These names are the first two places that Jacob occupied after returning from his encounter with Esau (Gen. 33:17–20). They are on opposite sides of the Jordan River.

■ 60:7 Gilead . . . Manasseh. Both these areas are located, at least in part, in the region of the Transjordan.

Ephraim . . . Judah. These were the two most powerful tribes in Israel. They were frequently rivals, but here they are united as parts of God's army.

■ 60:8 Moab . . . Edom . . . Philistia. Moab and Edom were east of Judah, and Philistia was west of Judah on the Mediterranean coast. These countries were traditional enemies of Israel, but in this song God exults in His power and authority over them.

cast My shoe. A gesture of contempt, or possibly a claim to ownership (Ruth 4:7).

■ 60:9 me. Likely the king, who speaks on behalf of the nation.

■ 60:12 we will do valiantly. The psalmist confesses that it is only through God's power that they will win the victory. This is the primary attitude that motivates Israel's wars in the Old Testament.

■ Ps. 61 Elements of lament, thanksgiving, and petition are combined in this memorable psalm.

2 From the end of the earth I will cry to You,
When my heart is overwhelmed;
Lead me to the rock that is higher than I.

3 For You have been a shelter for me,
[a]A strong tower from the enemy.
4 I will abide in Your [2]tabernacle forever;
[b]I will trust in the shelter of Your wings. Selah

5 For You, O God, have heard my vows;
You have given me the heritage of those who fear Your name.
6 You will prolong the king's life,
His years as many generations.
7 He shall abide before God forever.
Oh, prepare mercy [c]and truth, which may [3]preserve him!

8 So I will sing praise to Your name forever,
That I may daily perform my vows.

PSALM 62

A Calm Resolve to Wait for the Salvation of God

To the Chief Musician. To [a]Jeduthun. A Psalm of David.

Truly [b]my soul silently waits for God;
From Him comes my salvation.
2 He only is my rock and my salvation;
He is my [1]defense;
I shall not be greatly [c]moved.[2]

3 How long will you attack a man?
You shall be slain, all of you,
[d]Like a leaning wall and a tottering fence.
4 They only consult to cast him down from his high position;
They [e]delight in lies;
They bless with their mouth,
But they curse inwardly. Selah

5 My soul, wait silently for God alone,
For my [3]expectation is from Him.

2 [c]Ps. 55:22 [1]strong tower [2]shaken
3 [d]Is. 30:13
4 [e]Ps. 28:3
5 [3]hope

■ 61:2 From the end of the earth. The psalmist means that he is at a distance from the sanctuary on Mount Zion, and feels himself to be far from God.

rock. He comes to the critical recognition that he does not have the strength to rescue himself; he can only turn to God in trust.

■ 61:3 from the enemy. God has protected the writer in the past against his enemies. This phrase leads us to believe that the psalmist is not only physically distant from the temple, but is engaged in a military action for which he needs God's help.

■ 61:4 The psalmist yearns for God's fellowship. See v. 2.

in the shelter of Your wings. Some see here a metaphor for God's compassion, as in the protection of the mother bird for her young. On the other hand, David's reference to the familiar wings of the cherubim portrayed on the ark of the covenant seems more likely.

■ 61:5 my vows. In the process of petitioning the Lord, the psalmist has made promises of obedience to the Lord. See 22:22 and 1 Sam. 1:11.

heritage. As a member of God's community, he receives the promises of the covenant, including the land of Israel and the promise of God's protection.

■ 61:6 the king's life. Israel's king was the center of the social order in Israel. The stability of that office affected the stability of the society as a whole. The earthly king was a symbol of the divine King. When Christ came, His gospel announced the "kingdom of heaven."

■ 61:7 abide . . . forever. Jesus Christ, David's greater Son, fulfilled this verse beyond the expectation of the psalmist.

mercy. Specifically, lovingkindness toward those with whom God is in covenantal relationship.

■ 62:1 silently waits. Lit. "is silent." True contentment can be found only in a right relationship with God.

■ 62:2 my rock . . . my defense. Portrayals of God's protection from the dangers of life. See note on Ps. 28:1.

■ 62:3 leaning wall and a tottering fence. The modern idiom is to "kick a man when he's down." The wicked continue to take advantage of the weak.

■ 62:4 They bless. The wicked add hypocrisy to violence.

■ 62:5 my expectation. His hope to be saved from the enemy (text note).

6 He only is my rock and my salvation;
He is my defense;
I shall not be [4]moved.
7 [f]In God is my salvation and my glory;
The rock of my strength,
And my refuge, is in God.

8 Trust in Him at all times, you people;
[g]Pour out your heart before Him;
God is a refuge for us. Selah

9 [h]Surely men of low degree are [5]a vapor,
Men of high degree are a lie;
If they are weighed on the scales.
They are altogether lighter than vapor.
10 Do not trust in oppression,
Nor vainly hope in robbery;
[i]If riches increase,
Do not set your heart on them.

11 God has spoken once,
Twice I have heard this:
That power belongs to God.
12 Also to You, O Lord, belongs mercy;
For [j]You [6]render to each one according to his work.

PSALM 63

Joy in the Fellowship of God

A Psalm of David [a]when he was in the wilderness of Judah.

O God, You are my God;
Early will I seek You;
[b]My soul thirsts for You;
My flesh longs for You
In a dry and thirsty land
Where there is no water.
2 So I have looked for You in the sanctuary,
To see [c]Your power and Your glory.

3 [d]Because Your lovingkindness is better than life,
My lips shall praise You.
4 Thus I will bless You while I live;
I will [e]lift up my hands in Your name.

PSALM 63
title [a]1 Sam. 22:5

2 [c]Ps. 27:4
3 [d]Ps. 138:2
4 [e]Ps. 28:2; 143:6

■ 62:8 you people. The psalmist turns to the faithful in the congregation and encourages them to put their trust in God alone.

■ 62:9 vapor . . . vapor. The word may be translated variously. It is the most characteristic word of Ecclesiastes, where it is often translated "vanity" or "meaningless." The point is that people are meaningless and without consequence in and of themselves. The psalmist takes comfort in this; his persecutors, in reality, are not significant.

■ 62:10 riches increase. Doubt arises when people become rich through evil means (Ps. 73). In this psalm, the author clearly sees that such riches are transitory.

■ 62:12 mercy. God is not only able to save the psalmist; He desires to do so.

render . . . according to his work. The psalmist has a long-range perspective here, since at present the righteous are often at the mercy of the wicked. From the New Testament we understand that there will be many unresolved injustices in the present life until Christ returns.

■ Ps. 63 This beautiful psalm expresses quiet confidence in God's ability to protect the psalmist.

■ 63:title The setting of the psalm is the desert of Judah.

■ 63:1 thirsts. Cf. Ps. 42.

My flesh. The Book of Psalms permits no false spiritualization. The whole person yearns for God, not merely a non-physical aspect of the person.

■ 63:2 in the sanctuary. The psalmist remembers the place of God's appointment, and the vision of God's "power" and "glory" entrusted to him there.

■ 63:3 Your lovingkindness. That is, the unchanging love God shows toward those joined to Him by His covenant.

5 My soul shall be satisfied as with [1]marrow and [2]fatness,
And my mouth shall praise You with joyful lips.

6 When I remember You on my bed,
I meditate on You in the night watches.
7 Because You have been my help,
Therefore in the shadow of Your wings I will rejoice.
8 My soul follows close behind You;
Your right hand upholds me.

9 But those who seek my life, to destroy it,
Shall go into the lower parts of the earth.
10 They shall [3]fall by the sword;
They shall be [4]a portion for jackals.

11 But the king shall rejoice in God;
[g]Everyone who swears by Him shall glory;
But the mouth of those who speak lies shall be stopped.

PSALM 64

Oppressed by the Wicked but Rejoicing in the LORD

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David.

Hear my voice, O God, in my [1]meditation;
Preserve my life from fear of the enemy.
2 Hide me from the secret plots of the wicked,
From the rebellion of the workers of iniquity,
3 Who sharpen their tongue like a sword,
[a]And bend their bows to shoot their arrows—bitter words,
4 That they may shoot in secret at the blameless;
Suddenly they shoot at him and do not fear.

5 They encourage themselves in an evil matter;
They talk of laying snares secretly;
[b]They say, "Who will see them?"
6 They devise iniquities:
"We have perfected a shrewd scheme."
Both the inward thought and the heart of man are deep.

7 But God shall shoot at them with an arrow;
Suddenly they shall be wounded.
8 So He will make them stumble over their own tongue;
[c]All who see them shall flee away.

PSALM 64
1 [1]complaint
3 [a]Ps. 58:7
5 [b]Ps. 10:11; 59:7
8 [c]Ps. 31:11

■ 63:5 shall be satisfied. Only in praise to God, in intimate communion with Him, will the psalmist feel spiritually content.

■ 63:6 night watches. The psalmist has confidence in the Lord when he is most vulnerable to fear and attack.

■ 63:7 Your wings. God may be compared to a mother bird who protects her young, but see second note on 61:4.

■ 63:8 My soul follows close behind You. Though far removed from the sanctuary, the place where he has experienced God's presence, the psalmist still enjoys intimate communion with Him. Clinging to the Lord means finding in Him one's only hope (Deut. 10:20; 11:22).

■ 63:9 seek my life. This verse is the first indication of distress or danger in the poem of the psalmist's distress.

■ 63:11 who swears by Him shall glory. God's justice wins out. Those who love God will continue to praise Him, while the wicked will be stifled.

■ 64:1 fear of the enemy. Because unnamed, the "enemy" can apply to any adversary.

■ 64:3 like a sword . . . arrows—bitter words. The Bible consistently teaches that words are powerful and can be used for good (Prov. 25:15) or evil (Prov. 12:18; 25:18).

■ 64:5 Who will see them. They do not fear men, and by their question they show they do not fear God. They think their acts go unnoticed, forgetting that there is a just God in heaven who watches their every move (Ps. 2).

■ 64:6 perfected a shrewd scheme. To their other crimes, these evildoers add the sin of pride.

■ 64:7 shoot at them with an arrow. This verse should be contrasted with v. 4. Some of the same words are used to highlight the reversal. The wicked who try to shoot the righteous are themselves struck by the arrows of God.

■ 64:8 their own tongue. Contrast with v. 3. God reverses the effects of their tongues. They wanted to use their tongues against the psalmist; they finally incriminated themselves.

PSALM 65

Praise to God for His Salvation and Providence

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David. A Song.

Praise is awaiting You, O God, in Zion;
And to You the [f]vow shall be performed.
2 O You who hear prayer,
[g]To You all flesh will come.
3 Iniquities prevail against me;
As for our transgressions,
You will [h]provide atonement for them.

4 [c]Blessed is the man You [d]choose,
And cause to approach You,
That he may dwell in Your courts.
[e]We shall be satisfied with the goodness of Your house,
Of Your holy temple.

5 By awesome deeds in righteousness You will answer us,
O God of our salvation,
You who are the confidence of all the ends of the earth,
And of the far-off seas;
6 Who established the mountains by His strength,
[f]Being clothed with power;
7 [g]You who still the noise of the seas,
The noise of their waves,
[h]And the tumult of the peoples.
8 They also who dwell in the farthest parts are afraid of Your signs;
You make the outgoings of the morning and evening [2]rejoice.

9 You [3]visit the earth and [i]water it,
You greatly enrich it;
[j]The river of God is full of water;

■ 64:9 shall fear. Seeing God's justice, the world will be startled by the judgment of the wicked. People of the world will reconsider their own acts in the light of God's dealings with the wicked.

■ Ps. 65 Israel's agricultural economy depended on rainfall, which was commonly variable. This psalm thanks God for sending rain in answer to prayer.

■ 65:1 in Zion. The location chosen by God for the temple, and the place toward which praise is directed. See notes on Ps. 50:2; 128:5; 129:5, and especially 2:6.

the vow. When Israel brought petitions before the Lord, they frequently promised to offer sacrifices in response to answered prayer.

■ 65:3 our transgressions. From the perspective of the sinner, there is no hope. God in His grace, however, forgives the sinner; this is a source of great joy to the psalmist.

■ 65:4 Blessed. See Ps. 1:1.

You choose. God's free grace is the source of blessing, and the highest blessing of all is to enjoy His fellowship (Ps. 16:11).

■ 65:5 awesome deeds. God is not a distant deity who has nothing to do with His creation. He answers prayer by intervening in history and in the lives of His people.

ends of the earth. In the theologies of the surrounding lands, it was thought that there were different gods for different localities; e.g., Marduk of Babylon and Baal of Ugarit. The psalmist knows that the Lord is not simply another god among many; He is the God of the universe.

■ 65:6 the mountains. A symbol of firmness and strength. God's creation of them shows His power and greatness (Ps. 46:2, 3 and notes).

clothed with power. God is clothed with power as a divine warrior who conquers the enemies of Israel (Ex. 15; Josh. 5:13–15; Judg. 5).

■ 65:7 The noise of their waves. The seas represent chaos and evil (Ps. 77:16–19 and notes), often the chaos and evil of surrounding nations who attack Israel (Dan. 7).

■ 65:8 dwell in the farthest parts. A deeper meaning of this verse was brought to light in the coming of Christ and the preaching of the gospel throughout the world.

■ 65:9 water it. Compare 1 Kin. 17—19, the time of Elijah, when God cursed His rebellious people by withholding the rain.

You provide their grain,
For so You have prepared it.
10 You water its ridges abundantly,
You settle its furrows;
You make it soft with showers,
You bless its growth.

11 You crown the year with Your goodness,
And Your paths drip with abundance.
12 They drop on the pastures of the wilderness,
And the little hills rejoice on every side.
13 The pastures are clothed with flocks;
[k]The valleys also are covered with grain;
They shout for joy, they also sing.

PSALM 66

Praise to God for His Awesome Works

To the Chief Musician. A Song. A Psalm.

Make [a]a joyful shout to God, all the earth!
2 Sing out the honor of His name;
Make His praise glorious.
3 Say to God,
"How [b]awesome are Your works!
[c]Through the greatness of Your power
Your enemies shall submit themselves to You.
4 [d]All the earth shall worship You
And sing praises to You;
They shall sing praises to Your name." Selah

5 Come and see the works of God;
He is awesome in His doing toward the sons of men.
6 [e]He turned the sea into dry land;
[f]They went through the river on foot.
There we will rejoice in Him.
7 He rules by His power forever;
His eyes observe the nations;
Do not let the rebellious exalt themselves. Selah

8 Oh, bless our God, you peoples!
And make the voice of His praise to be heard,
9 Who keeps our soul among the living,
And does not allow our feet to [l]be moved.
10 For [g]You, O God, have tested us;
[h]You have refined us as silver is refined.
11 [i]You brought us into the net;
You laid affliction on our backs.

■ 66:3 awesome. Great and fearful.

submit. When God appears as a warrior, the enemies have reason to fear they will be destroyed (Josh. 2:11).

■ 66:5 Come and see. The psalmist invites the hearer to remember God's great acts in history (Ps. 46:8).

■ 66:6 sea . . . river. The first phrase of this verse refers to crossing the Red Sea (Ex. 14; 15). The second refers to crossing the Jordan forty years later (Josh. 3). These great acts demonstrated God's power to His people.

■ 66:9 keeps our soul. This is a general truth, but there may be an allusion to the Exodus. A context of Israel's more recent testing may also be possible.

■ 66:10 tested us. God occasionally laid difficult decisions before His people to see whether they would be obedient to Him in spite of their suffering (Ex. 15:25).

as silver. When silver is refined, it is purified; the dross is taken away. When God tests His people, those who are not obedient are taken away, while the faithful remain steadfast.

■ 66:11 into the net. The Lord has brought the psalmist and the faithful through a period of affliction.

To the Chief Musician. On [1]stringed instruments. A Psalm. A Song.

God be merciful to us and bless us,
And [a]cause His face to shine upon us, Selah
2 That [b]Your way may be known on earth,
[c]Your salvation among all nations.

3 Let the peoples praise You, O God;
Let all the peoples praise You.
4 Oh, let the nations be glad and sing for joy!
For [d]You shall judge the people righteously,
And govern the nations on earth. Selah

5 Let the peoples praise You, O God;
Let all the peoples praise You.
6 [e]Then the earth shall [2]yield her increase;
God, our own God, shall bless us.
7 God shall bless us,
And all the ends of the earth shall fear Him.

■ 66:12 to rich fulfillment. A possible reference to recent salvation from distress, but there may also be an allusion to Israel's conquest of Canaan.

■ 66:13 pay . . . my vows. The psalmist expresses his individual thanks. Apparently, God has recently saved him from some distress. While he was suffering, he promised to worship God with sacrifices if God heard his prayer. (22:22 note).

■ 66:16 Come and hear. Often, the fulfilling of the vow leads to public praise, witnessing to God's salvation.

■ Ps. 67 The universal scope of this psalm is striking, even in the Book of Psalms where such far-reaching vision is not rare.

■ 67:1 cause His face to shine upon us. The psalmist picks up the standard priestly blessing found in Num. 6:25. The thing promised in the blessing is that God will be present.

■ 67:2 all nations. God is sovereign over all, not merely of a particular country.

■ 67:3 Let the peoples. The psalmist's desire to see peoples from many different nations praise the Lord was begun in a new way when the crucifixion and resurrection of Christ broke down "the middle wall of separation" (Eph. 2:14).

■ 67:6 increase. The psalm may have been sung at one of the agricultural festivals, such as the Feast of Ingathering (Ex. 23:14–17).

PSALM 68

The Glory of God in His Goodness to Israel

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David. A Song.

Let [a]God arise,
Let His enemies be scattered;
Let those also who hate Him flee before Him.
2 [b]As smoke is driven away,
So drive them away;
[c]As wax melts before the fire,
So let the wicked perish at the presence of God.
3 But [d]let the righteous be glad;
Let them rejoice before God;
Yes, let them rejoice exceedingly.

4 Sing to God, sing praises to His name;
[e]Extol[1] Him who rides on the [2]clouds,
[f]By His name [3]YAH,
And rejoice before Him.

5 [g]A father of the fatherless, a defender of widows,
Is God in His holy habitation.
6 [h]God sets the solitary in families;
[i]He brings out those who are bound into prosperity;
But [j]the rebellious dwell in a dry land.

7 O God, [k]when You went out before Your people,
When You marched through the wilderness, Selah
8 The earth shook;
The heavens also dropped rain at the presence of God;
Sinai itself was moved at the presence of God, the God of Israel.
9 [l]You, O God, sent a plentiful rain,
Whereby You confirmed Your inheritance,
When it was weary.
10 Your congregation dwelt in it;
[m]You, O God, provided from Your goodness for the poor.

11 The Lord gave the word;
Great was the [4]company of those who proclaimed it:
12 "Kings[n] of armies flee, they flee,

■ Ps. 68 This psalm has an enigmatic quality. Some have found it so disconnected as to suggest that it was a collection of first lines of other poems. Yet there are common themes and attitudes in the psalm. It has a hymn-like mood of joy with frequent allusions to community worship. God appears as a warrior at its center. His victory over His enemies as expressed here became the background for Jesus' victory over the forces of Satan at the Ascension (Eph. 4:7–13).

■ 68:1 Let God arise. See Num. 10:35. These were the first words Moses spoke each day before Israel marched during the wilderness period. As he spoke, the ark of the covenant would be raised to lead the procession.

■ 68:2 smoke . . . wax. The two images call on God to deal with the enemy quickly.

■ 68:4 who rides on the clouds. God's coming with the clouds is a frequent theme in the Scriptures (Ps. 18:7–15; 104:3; Dan. 7:13; Nah. 1:3).

■ 68:5 fatherless . . . widows. Widows and orphans were particularly vulnerable in ancient society. God commanded Israel to care for them (Ex. 22:22; Deut. 10:18; Ruth 4:14, 15).

■ 68:6 the solitary. Since the family was the center of Israelite society, those outside of its structure were alone and often needy.

■ 68:7 through the wilderness. The reference is to the forty years of wilderness wanderings.

■ 68:8 Sinai . . . was moved. God made the earth shake at Sinai (Ex. 19:18, 19).

■ 68:9 plentiful rain. An essential blessing in a land not known for rainfall. Long droughts had devastating effects (1 Kin. 17—19).

■ 68:11 company. Or "host"; the word is a military term.

■ 68:12 divides the spoil. See Judg. 5:30.

18 [t]You have ascended on high,
[u]You have led captivity captive;
[v]You have received gifts among men,
Even from [w]the rebellious,
[x]That the LORD God might dwell there.

19 Blessed be the Lord,
Who daily loads us with benefits,
The God of our salvation! Selah
20 Our God is the God of salvation;
And [y]to GOD the Lord belong escapes from death.

21 But [z]God will wound the head of His enemies,
[a]The hairy scalp of the one who still goes on in his trespasses.
22 The Lord said, "I will bring [b]back from Bashan,
I will bring them back [c]from the depths of the sea,
23 [d]That [8]your foot may crush them in blood,
[e]And the tongues of your dogs may have their portion from your enemies."

24 They have seen Your [9]procession, O God,
The procession of my God, my King, into the sanctuary.
25 [f]The singers went before, the players on instruments followed after;
Among them were the maidens playing timbrels.
26 Bless God in the congregations,
The Lord, from [g]the fountain of Israel.
27 [h]There is little Benjamin, their leader,
The princes of Judah and their [1]company,
The princes of Zebulun and the princes of Naphtali.

28 [2]Your God has [i]commanded your strength;
Strengthen, O God, what You have done for us.
29 Because of Your temple at Jerusalem,
[j]Kings will bring presents to You.

■ 68:16 the mountain which God desires to dwell in. Though the Bashan mountains are physically majestic, far more imposing than Zion, the latter is surpassing because Zion's majesty is spiritual, not physical.

■ 68:18 received gifts. In Eph. 4:8 Paul writes "gave gifts." In a procession of triumph, the victor would receive and distribute gifts.

■ 68:19 Who daily loads us with benefits. God cares for His people and is constantly in touch with their needs. This passage may be contrasted with Is. 46:1–4, where the prophet decries the inability of the idols to care for their worshipers.

■ 68:20 God of salvation. The Lord saves His people from illness and from death in battle. In Jesus Christ His people learn that He, by His resurrection, delivers from death by obtaining eternal life for them.

■ 68:22 from Bashan. Likely a reference to the defeat of Og, king of Bashan in the period before the conquest of the land (Deut. 3).

from the depths of the sea. God delivered Israel from death at the Red Sea (Ex. 14).

■ 68:24 Your procession. After being led by God in battle, the army would return to the city of Jerusalem, carrying the ark with them (Ps. 24). Worshiping crowds would accompany it to the temple.

■ 68:29 Because of Your temple. Jerusalem's prestige has a single, spiritual cause: God has for that time chosen it as a special place of His dwelling (Deut. 12; 2 Sam. 7; cf. Is. 22:1, 2).

Till everyone [l]submits himself with pieces of silver.
Scatter the peoples who delight in war.
31 [m]Envoys will come out of Egypt;
[n]Ethiopia will quickly [o]stretch out her hands to God.

32 Sing to God, you [p]kingdoms of the earth;
Oh, sing praises to the Lord, Selah
33 To Him [q]who rides on the heaven of heavens, which were of old!
Indeed, He sends out His voice, a [r]mighty voice.
34 [s]Ascribe strength to God;
His excellence is over Israel,
And His strength is in the clouds.
35 O God, [t]You are more awesome than Your holy places.
The God of Israel is He who gives strength and power to His people.

Blessed be God!

PSALM 69

An Urgent Plea for Help in Trouble

To the Chief Musician. Set to [1]"The Lilies." A Psalm of David.

Save me, O God!
For [a]the waters have come up to my [2]neck.
2 [b]I sink in deep mire,
Where there is no standing;
I have come into deep waters,
Where the floods overflow me.
3 [c]I am weary with my crying;
My throat is dry;
[d]My eyes fail while I wait for my God.

4 Those who [e]hate me without a cause
Are more than the hairs of my head;
They are mighty who would destroy me,
Being my enemies wrongfully;
Though I have stolen nothing,
I still must restore it.

5 O God, You know my foolishness;
And my sins are not hidden from You.
6 Let not those who [3]wait for You, O Lord GOD of hosts, be ashamed because of me;
Let not those who seek You be [4]confounded because of me, O God of Israel.
7 Because for Your sake I have borne reproach;
Shame has covered my face.
8 [f]I have become a stranger to my brothers,
And an alien to my mother's children;

■ 68:30 Rebuke. More than a verbal assault, to "rebuke" a nation is to destroy it.

the beasts of the reeds. Either the crocodile or the hippopotamus, both symbols of Egypt.

■ 68:31 Ethiopia. A traditional ally of Egypt (Nah. 3:9). "Ethiopia" (or "Cush") in the Bible is the remote land south of Egypt, including parts of modern Eritrea, Ethiopia, and Sudan.

■ 68:33 rides on the heaven of heavens. As in v. 4, the psalmist poetically alludes to the heavens as God's war chariot.

■ Ps. 69 This psalm is well known because of its application in the New Testament to the anguish of Jesus, God's righteous Servant, as He sought His Father's will during His earthly ministry.

■ 69:1 the waters. The psalmist pictures his distress as one slowly sinking down in a river. The raging waters are a frequent biblical illustration of social or personal chaos. See notes on Ps. 18:4; 46:2, 3.

■ 69:2 the floods overflow me. The poetic language in this section can be compared to a water ordeal, in which a person suspected of a crime might be cast into a river. The river would be expected to overwhelm and carry away the guilty one, but to release the innocent.

■ 69:5 my sins. Although the psalmist is innocent of the charges alluded to in v. 4, he does not claim to be without sin.

■ 69:6 those who seek You. The psalmist is concerned not for himself only, but for others in Israel who might be injured in some way through his sins. The possibility that his sins would affect others is enhanced by his power and prominence in society.

9 [g]Because zeal for Your house has eaten me up,
[h]And the reproaches of those who reproach You have fallen on me.
10 When I wept and chastened my soul with fasting,
That became my reproach.
11 I also [5]made sackcloth my garment;
I became a byword to them.
12 Those who [6]sit in the gate speak against me,
And I am the song of the [i]drunkards.

13 But as for me, my prayer is to You,
O LORD, in the acceptable time;
O God, in the multitude of Your mercy,
Hear me in the truth of Your salvation.
14 Deliver me out of the mire,
And let me not sink;
Let me be delivered from those who hate me,
And out of the deep waters.
15 Let not the floodwater overflow me,
Nor let the deep swallow me up;
And let not the pit shut its mouth on me.

16 Hear me, O LORD, for Your lovingkindness is good;
Turn to me according to the multitude of Your tender mercies.
17 And do not hide Your face from Your servant,
For I am in trouble;
Hear me speedily.
18 Draw near to my soul, and redeem it;
Deliver me because of my enemies.

19 You know [j]my reproach, my shame, and my dishonor;
My adversaries are all before You.
20 Reproach has broken my heart,
And I am full of [7]heaviness;
[k]I looked for someone to take pity, but there was none;
And for [l]comforters, but I found none.
21 They also gave me gall for my food,
[m]And for my thirst they gave me vinegar to drink.

22 [n]Let their table become a snare before them,
And their well-being a trap.
23 [o]Let their eyes be darkened, so that they do not see;
And make their loins shake continually.
24 [p]Pour out Your indignation upon them,
And let Your wrathful anger take hold of them.
25 [q]Let their dwelling place be desolate;
Let no one live in their tents.
26 For they persecute the ones [r]You have struck,
And talk of the grief of those You have wounded.

■ 69:9 for Your house. This verse is applied to Jesus as He cleared the temple of money changers (John 2:17), and through doing good attracted the hatred of the wicked. Enmity directed toward God may cause suffering for those who are like God (Rom. 15:3).

■ 69:11 made sackcloth my garment. When the psalmist performs religious acts like fasting, he must bear the brunt of ridicule from rich and poor alike (v. 12).

■ 69:15 the pit. See Prov. 1:12; Is. 5:14 and notes.

■ 69:21 gall . . . vinegar. The bitterness of gall is proverbial. When the psalmist suffers such maltreatment, he responds with a curse (vv. 22–29). The metaphor became a reality when Jesus Christ was offered vinegar at His crucifixion (John 19:29). He responded with compassion for those who tormented Him.

■ 69:25 Let their dwelling place be desolate. The psalmist asks for the death of the wicked (v. 28). Peter cites this verse in connection with the death of Judas Iscariot and the void he left among the disciples (Acts 1:20).

■ 69:26 they persecute the ones You have struck. The enemy furthers the pain of the afflicted. If God chastises someone, this is no excuse for others to increase his pain.

27 [s]Add iniquity to their iniquity,
[t]And let them not come into Your righteousness.
28 Let them [u]be blotted out of the book of the living,
[v]And not be written with the righteous.

29 But I am poor and sorrowful;
Let Your salvation, O God, set me up on high.
30 [w]I will praise the name of God with a song,
And will magnify Him with thanksgiving.
31 [x]This also shall please the LORD better than an ox or bull,
Which has horns and hooves.
32 [y]The humble shall see this and be glad;
And you who seek God, [z]your hearts shall live.
33 For the LORD hears the poor,
And does not despise [a]His prisoners.

34 [b]Let heaven and earth praise Him,
The seas [c]and everything that moves in them.
35 [d]For God will save Zion
And build the cities of Judah,
That they may dwell there and possess it.
36 Also, [e]the [g]descendants of His servants shall inherit it,
And those who love His name shall dwell in it.

PSALM 70

Prayer for Relief from Adversaries

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David. [a]To bring to remembrance.

Make haste,* [b]O God, to deliver me!
Make haste to help me, O LORD!

2 [c]Let them be ashamed and confounded
Who seek my life;
Let them be [f]turned back and confused
Who desire my hurt.
3 [d]Let them be turned back because of their shame,
Who say, [2]"Aha, aha!"

4 Let all those who seek You rejoice and be glad in You;
And let those who love Your salvation say continually,
"Let God be magnified!"

5 [e]But I am poor and needy;
[f]Make haste to me, O God!
You are my help and my deliverer;
O LORD, do not delay.

■ 69:30 I will praise. The transition from pain and the call for judgment to resolute praise is abrupt. Such compression of thought is not unusual in biblical poetry.

■ 69:31 better than an ox. An ox was the most expensive sacrifice. God is concerned with genuine praise, not wealth (50:12–14, 23; Hos. 14:2; Rom. 15:6; Heb. 13:15).

■ 69:32, 33 The humble . . . the poor. The way to God is open to the humble poor.

■ 69:35 build the cities of Judah. The last verses were probably added later than David, during or shortly after the exile of the Jews to Babylon in the sixth century B.C.

■ Ps. 70 This psalm is nearly identical with Ps. 40:13–17.

■ 70:title To bring to remembrance. This title is used elsewhere only for Ps. 38.

■ 70:1 Make haste . . . to deliver me. In his desperate plight, the psalmist boldly asks the Lord to come to his rescue.

■ 70:2 be turned back and confused. He wants the Lord to turn the tables on the enemy. They seek the psalmist's ruin and his life; he asks God to ruin them.

■ 70:5 poor and needy. See 9:18 note.

PSALM 71

God the Rock of Salvation

In [a]You, O LORD, I put my trust;
Let me never be put to shame.
2 [b]Deliver me in Your righteousness, and cause me to escape;
[c]Incline Your ear to me, and save me.
3 [d]Be my [f]strong refuge,
To which I may resort continually;
You have given the [e]commandment to save me,
For You are my rock and my fortress.

4 [f]Deliver me, O my God, out of the hand of the wicked,
Out of the hand of the unrighteous and cruel man.
5 For You are [g]my hope, O Lord GOD;
You are my trust from my youth.
6 [h]By You I have been [2]upheld from birth;
You are He who took me out of my mother's womb.
My praise shall be continually of You.

7 [i]I have become as a wonder to many,
But You are my strong refuge.
8 Let [j]my mouth be filled with Your praise
And with Your glory all the day.

9 Do not cast me off in the time of old age;
Do not forsake me when my strength fails.
10 For my enemies speak against me;
And those who lie in wait for my life [k]take counsel together,
11 Saying, "God has forsaken him;
Pursue and take him, for there is none to deliver him."

12 [l]O God, do not be far from me;
O my God, [m]make haste to help me!
13 Let them be [3]confounded and consumed
Who are adversaries of my life;
Let them be covered with reproach and dishonor
Who seek my hurt.

14 But I will hope continually,
And will praise You yet more and more.
15 My mouth shall tell of Your righteousness
And Your salvation all the day,
For I do not know their limits.
16 I will go in the strength of the Lord GOD;
I will make mention of Your righteousness, of Yours only.

17 O God, You have taught me from my [n]youth;
And to this day I declare Your wondrous works.

■ Ps. 71 A psalm of lament uttered by an older man (v. 9). This psalm is one of the few in the first two books of the Psalms without a title.

■ 71:2 in Your righteousness. See note on Ps. 31:1.

■ 71:3 my rock and my fortress. God is the psalmist's only place of protection. See note on Ps. 61:2.

■ 71:5 from my youth. The language of the psalmist shows that he is now an older man. He is in a position where he can look back over his life and ponder his relationship with God.

■ 71:6 out of my mother's womb. The psalmist confesses that God created him for a gracious purpose.

■ 71:11 God has forsaken him. Like Job's friends, the psalmist's enemies have come to the wrong conclusion about his suffering.

■ 71:14 I will hope continually. He can look back over his long life and see how God has saved him in the past. His memory serves as a bulwark of devotion.

■ 71:15 For I do not know their limits. Uninterrupted praise cannot adequately express God's mercy; His salvation is beyond comprehension.

18 Now also [o]when I am old and grayhead,
O God, do not forsake me,
Until I declare Your strength to this generation,
Your power to everyone who is to come.

19 Also [p]Your righteousness, O God, is [4]very high,
You who have done great things;
[q]O God, who is like You?
20 [r]You, who have shown me great and severe troubles,
[s]Shall revive me again,
And bring me up again from the depths of the earth.
21 You shall increase my greatness,
And comfort me on every side.

22 Also [t]with the lute I will praise You—
And Your faithfulness, O my God!
To You I will sing with the harp,
O [u]Holy One of Israel.
23 My lips shall greatly rejoice when I sing to You,
And [v]my soul, which You have redeemed.
24 My tongue also shall talk of Your righteousness all the day long;
For they are confounded,
For they are brought to shame
Who seek my hurt.

Glory and Universality of the Messiah's Reign

A Psalm [a]of Solomon.

Give the king Your judgments, O God,
And Your righteousness to the king's Son.
2 [b]He will judge Your people with righteousness,
And Your poor with justice.
3 [c]The mountains will bring peace to the people,
And the little hills, by righteousness.
4 [d]He will bring justice to the poor of the people;
He will save the children of the needy,
And will [1]break in pieces the oppressor.

5 [2]They shall fear You

Throughout all generations.
6 [f]He shall come down like rain upon the grass before mowing,

6 [f]Deut. 32:2; 2 Sam. 23:4; Hos. 6:3

■ 71:18 to this generation. It is the duty of the older members of God's community to teach the young what God has done in their elder's lives.

■ 71:19 is very high. God's righteousness is so great it cannot be contained. It is without limit.

who is like You. To ask this rhetorical question is to answer it.

■ 71:20 You . . . have shown me . . . troubles. The psalmist knows that life is hard and that God has not sheltered him from every difficulty. Nonetheless, he has confidence that God will deliver him.

■ 71:21 comfort me on every side. Job is an example of a person who was restored after a time of intense suffering. But this kind of restoration does not always happen during earthly existence (Luke 16:25; Rom. 8:18; 2 Cor. 4:17).

■ Ps. 72 The second part of Psalms concludes with a royal psalm asking God to bless the just king. Some of the language goes beyond what applies to the earthly king, anticipating the Messiah.

■ 72:title See Introduction: Author. The Septuagint (ancient Greek translation of the Old Testament) understands the title to name Solomon as the subject matter and not as the author of the psalm. The traditional understanding of the Hebrew is to indicate authorship.

■ 72:1 Your judgments . . . Your righteousness. God, the divine King, is the source of all justice and righteousness. If the human king is to have such qualities, he must receive them from God.

■ 72:2 Your people. The human king receives his calling from the divine King.

■ 72:3 peace. See note on 122:6.

■ 72:4 poor . . . needy. The king had a special responsibility to the vulnerable in society. God has a special concern and love for the poor, and the earthly king must take special care of them. See 9:18 note.

■ 72:5 As long as the sun. As applied to an earthly king, this is a poetic overstatement. The language looks forward to the one King who will live forever (Luke 1:33; Heb. 7:16; Rev. 11:15).

Like showers that water the earth.
7 In His days the righteous shall flourish,
[g] And abundance of peace,
Until the moon is no more.

8 [h] He shall have dominion also from sea to sea,
And from the River to the ends of the earth.
9 [i] Those who dwell in the wilderness will bow before Him,
[j] And His enemies will lick the dust.
10 [k] The kings of Tarshish and of the isles
Will bring presents;
The kings of Sheba and Seba
Will offer gifts.
11 [l] Yes, all kings shall fall down before Him;
All nations shall serve Him.

12 For He [m] will deliver the needy when he cries,
The poor also, and him who has no helper.
13 He will spare the poor and needy,
And will save the souls of the needy.
14 He will redeem their life from oppression and violence;
And [n] precious shall be their blood in His sight.

15 And He shall live;
And the gold of [o] Sheba will be given to Him;
Prayer also will be made for Him continually,
And daily He shall be praised.

16 There will be an abundance of grain in the earth,
On the top of the mountains;
Its fruit shall wave like Lebanon;
[p] And those of the city shall flourish like grass of the earth.

17 [q] His name shall endure forever;
His name shall continue as long as the sun.
And [r] men shall be blessed in Him;
[s] All nations shall call Him blessed.

18 [t] Blessed be the LORD God, the God of Israel,
[u] Who only does wondrous things!
19 And [v] blessed be His glorious name forever!

■ 72:8 from sea to sea. There is an allusion here to the promised boundaries of Ex. 23:31, but the language far exceeds any achievement of an earthly king of Israel, and so looks forward to the Messiah's reign.

■ 72:9 Those who dwell in the wilderness. He will subdue the rebellious tribes of the desert.

■ 72:10 Tarshish . . . Sheba . . . Seba. These places were considered to be remote. Tarshish is usually associated with Tartessus in Spain. Sheba and probably Seba are in southern Arabia.

■ 72:17 His name shall endure forever. The verse recalls the Abrahamic promises of Gen. 12:2, 3. The king is a focal point for the society of God's people. He represents the people and is the heir of the promises; in Jesus Christ these promises come to fulfillment.

■ 72:18, 19 Each of the five books of the Psalms concludes with a doxology praising the name of the Lord.

■ 72:20 At some point in the process of collecting the psalms, all of the psalms of David were grouped together in the first two books. This unity was not preserved as the book continued, and this verse cannot be applied strictly to Ps. 1—72.

PSALM 73

The Tragedy of the Wicked, and the Blessedness of Trust in God

A Psalm of [a]Asaph.

Truly God is good to Israel,
To such as are pure in heart.
2 But as for me, my feet had almost stumbled;
My steps had nearly [b]slipped.
3 [c]For I was envious of the boastful,
When I saw the prosperity of the [d]wicked.

4 For there are no [1]pangs in their death,
But their strength is firm.
5 [e]They are not in trouble as other men,
Nor are they plagued like other men.
6 Therefore pride serves as their necklace;
Violence covers them [f]like a garment.
7 [g]Their [2]eyes bulge with abundance;
They have more than heart could wish.
8 [h]They scoff and speak wickedly concerning oppression;
They [i]speak [3]loftily.
9 They set their mouth [j]against the heavens,
And their tongue walks through the earth.

10 Therefore his people return here,
[k]And waters of a full cup are drained by them.
11 And they say, [l]"How does God know?
And is there knowledge in the Most High?"
12 Behold, these are the ungodly,
Who are always at ease;
They increase in riches.
13 Surely I have [4]cleansed my heart in [m]vain,
And washed my hands in innocence.
14 For all day long I have been plagued,
And chastened every morning.

15 If I had said, "I will speak thus,"
Behold, I would have been untrue to the generation of Your children.
16 When I thought how to understand this,
It was [5]too painful for me—
17 Until I went into the sanctuary of God;
Then I understood their [n]end.

■ Ps. 73 The psalm begins with an assertion that God is good, a belief won only after long struggle with what is observed in the world, especially the prosperity of the wicked. This important theme is also treated in Ps. 37; 49, and the Book of Job.

■ 73:1 God is good. What clouded the psalmist's heart and troubled his relationship with the Lord has been resolved.

■ 73:2 my feet had almost stumbled. An obedient life is often compared to a walk along a straight path (Prov. 1—9). The psalmist describes doubt and skepticism with the image of falling off a path.

■ 73:6 pride . . . as their necklace. The prosperity of the wicked leads to the deeper sins of pride and violence.

■ 73:7 eyes bulge. A figure for a heart made insensitive by overindulgence (1 John 2:16).

■ 73:9 against the heavens. The proud are not afraid to talk as if they had created the world themselves, leaving God behind (Acts 20:22).

■ 73:10 waters . . . are drained. It is difficult to understand which cup is meant. Perhaps it means that even though the wicked are so evil, the people still "drink up" what they have to say.

■ 73:13 in vain. These verses show the poet's attitude before he resolved the issue in his mind.

■ 73:15 If I had said. If he had broadcast his doubts and complaints before coming to a solution, he would have instilled doubt in the community of God.

■ 73:16 this. That is, the prosperity of the wicked and the suffering of the righteous.

■ 73:17 into the sanctuary. The change came for him when he entered the presence of God revealed in the temple.

4 [a]Lam. 2:7 [b]Num. 2:2

18 Surely [o]You set them in slippery places;
You cast them down to destruction.
19 Oh, how they are brought to desolation, as in a moment!
They are utterly consumed with terrors.
20 As a dream when one awakes,
So, Lord, when You awake,
You shall despise their image.

21 Thus my heart was grieved,
And I was [6]vexed in my mind.
22 [p]I was so foolish and ignorant;
I was like a beast before You.
23 Nevertheless I am continually with You;
You hold me by my right hand.
24 [q]You will guide me with Your counsel,
And afterward receive me to glory.

25 [r]Whom have I in heaven but You?
And there is none upon earth that I desire besides You.
26 [s]My flesh and my heart fail;
But God is the [7]strength of my heart and my [t]portion forever.

27 For indeed, [u]those who are far from You shall perish;
You have destroyed all those who [8]desert You for harlotry.
28 But it is good for me to [v]draw near to God;
I have put my trust in the Lord GOD,
That I may [w]declare all Your works.

PSALM 74

A Plea for Relief from Oppressors

A [1]Contemplation of Asaph.

O God, why have You cast us off forever?
Why does Your anger smoke against the sheep of Your pasture?
2 Remember Your congregation, which You have purchased of old,
The tribe of Your inheritance, which You have redeemed—
This Mount Zion where You have dwelt.
3 Lift up Your feet to the perpetual desolations.
The enemy has damaged everything in the sanctuary.
4 [a]Your enemies roar in the midst of Your meeting place;
[b]They set up their banners for signs.
5 They seem like men who lift up
Axes among the thick trees.
6 And now they break down its carved work, all at once,
With axes and hammers.

■ 73:20 As a dream. God will come in judgment against the wicked. When He does, their prosperity will seem like a dream.

■ 73:22 foolish and ignorant. His negative emotions blocked clear thinking about God and His ways.

■ 73:23 You hold me by my right hand. God is close to the worshiper to counsel and guide him.

■ 73:24 to glory. While some take this to refer to earthly fame and reputation, it is more likely a reference to eternal glory. Nothing will break the intimate fellowship the psalmist enjoys with God (Rom. 8:38, 39).

■ Ps. 74 This lament for the destruction of the temple in 586 B.C. is comparable to the mournful poems of Lamentations.

■ 74:1 cast us off. Israel's defeat at the hands of the Babylonians indicated that God had abandoned His chosen people and would protect them no longer. The prophets (Ezek. 9—11) describe God's abandonment of His temple, blaming it on Israel's sin and unbelief. See note on Ps. 22:1.

the sheep. The writer appeals to this metaphor of intimate relationship between God and His people in order to plead for restoration. See Ps. 23:1.

■ 74:2 Remember. The psalmist means more than mental recall here; he wants God to act on His ancient covenant promise to save His people.

Mount Zion. The location of the temple and the place where God made His presence known in a special way. See Ps. 2:6; 50:2; 128:5; 129:5.

■ 74:3 Lift up Your feet. The psalmist asks God to survey and to react to the damage the enemy has inflicted on His possessions. When Nebuchadnezzar took Jerusalem in 586 B.C. he ordered the sanctuary to be demolished.

7 They have set fire to Your sanctuary;
They have defiled the dwelling place of Your name to the ground.
8 [c]They said in their hearts,
"Let us [2]destroy them altogether."
They have burned up all the meeting places of God in the land.

9 We do not see our signs;
[d]There is no longer any prophet;
Nor is there any among us who knows how long.
10 O God, how long will the adversary [3]reproach?
Will the enemy blaspheme Your name forever?
11 [e]Why do You withdraw Your hand, even Your right hand?
Take it out of Your bosom and destroy them.
12 For [f]God is my King from of old,
Working salvation in the midst of the earth.
13 [g]You divided the sea by Your strength;
You broke the heads of the [4]sea serpents in the waters.
14 You broke the heads of [5]Leviathan in pieces,
And gave him as food to the people inhabiting the wilderness.
15 [h]You broke open the fountain and the flood;
[i]You dried up mighty rivers.
16 The day is Yours, the night also is [j]Yours;
[k]You have prepared the light and the sun.
17 You have [l]set all the borders of the earth;
[m]You have made summer and winter.

18 Remember this, that the enemy has reproached, O LORD,
And that a foolish people has blasphemed Your name.
19 Oh, do not deliver the life of Your turtledove to the wild beast!
Do not forget the life of Your poor forever.
20 [n]Have respect to the covenant;
For the [6]dark places of the earth are full of the [7]haunts of [8]cruelty.
21 Oh, do not let the oppressed return ashamed!
Let the poor and needy praise Your name.

22 Arise, O God, plead Your own cause;
Remember how the foolish man [9]reproaches You daily.
23 Do not forget the voice of Your enemies;
The tumult of those who rise up against You increases continually.

PSALM 75

title [a]Ps. 57:title [1]Heb. Al Tashcheth

■ 74:9 do not see our signs . . . any prophet. The worst fear of all is that God will be silent in the face of destruction. This psalm was likely written soon after the event, since a number of prophets were active during the period of restoration.

■ 74:10 blaspheme Your name. The psalmist tries to persuade God by arguing that His own reputation is in danger. Asaph is distressed by God's apparent inactivity.

■ 74:13 the sea. In the next few verses the poet alludes to a popular concept of creation and applies it to the Lord. For the defeat of the "Sea," see Ezek. 28:2 and note. In using these figures, the psalmist is not endorsing the popular myths, but using them to say that the God of Israel is the Creator of all. The gods of the Near East are nothing because they do not exist. See Ps. 18:4; 29:3, 10; 46:2, 3; 69:1, 2; Jer. 14:22; 1 Cor. 8:4.

■ 74:14 heads of Leviathan. The psalmist borrows the language of popular mythology, related in texts discovered at ancient Ugarit in Syria. In those texts "Leviathan" (or "Lothan") is a seven-headed sea monster defeated by Baal at the time of creation.

■ 74:20 the covenant. The writer appeals to God's covenant, knowing that His patience is not exhausted despite the disobedience that led to the fall of the northern kingdom in the eighth century B.C.

■ 74:22 Arise. See note on Ps. 7:6.

■ Ps. 75 The theme of casting down the wicked and lifting up the righteous is also found in Hannah's song (1 Sam. 2:1–10) and Mary's words of praise (Luke 1:46–55).

■ 75:1 We. The psalm begins as a communal thanksgiving, though at the end an individual speaks for the community.

The Majesty of God in Judgment

To the Chief Musician. On [1]stringed instruments. A Psalm of Asaph. A Song.

1 In [a]Judah God is known;
His name is great in Israel.
2 In [2]Salem also is His tabernacle,
And His dwelling place in Zion.

The shield and sword of battle. Selah

And none of the mighty men have found the use of their hands.

Both the chariot and horse were cast into a dead sleep.

Your wondrous works. God's great acts in history (Rev. 15:3, 4).

name. See Ps. 8:1.

■ 75:2 judge uprightly. God's judgments are always just, and He knows the secrets of the heart.

■ 75:3 I set up its pillars firmly. God provides the underlying stability of the world order.

■ 75:4 the horn. This common metaphor is one of a powerful horned beast proudly lifting up its head in defiance and anger. God warns the wicked not to act in this way against Him.

■ 75:7 But God is the Judge. God and not any person in the east, west, or south determines what shall stand.

■ 75:8 a cup. See note on Ps. 11:6.

■ Ps. 76 The psalm celebrates a great victory over Israel's enemies. From the New Testament perspective, this song praises God for His victory at the cross and looks forward to the great final victory over evil at the end of the age (Rev. 19:11–21).

■ 76:2 in Salem . . . His tabernacle. Salem is the ancient name for Jerusalem. God's tabernacle is His sanctuary. The tabernacle was a tent, but the temple that replaced it could still be called a tent poetically.

Zion. The mountain where the temple was situated (Ps. 2:6).

■ 76:3 He broke. God defeated the enemy at Jerusalem. A good example of such a battle would be the siege by Sennacherib in 701 B.C. (2 Kin. 19; Is. 37).

■ 76:4 glorious and excellent. See John 1:4–9.

■ 76:5 stouthearted were plundered. God has destroyed powerful soldiers; they are no match for Him.

■ 76:6 rebuke. God's rebuke is the word of His powerful judgment. At 7 You, Yourself, are to be feared;

And [f]who may stand in Your presence
When once You are angry?
8 [g]You caused judgment to be heard from heaven;

With the remainder of wrath You shall gird Yourself.

12 He shall cut off the spirit of princes;
[m]He is awesome to the kings of the earth.

PSALM 77

The Consoling Memory of God's Redemptive Works

To the Chief Musician. [a]To Jeduthun. A Psalm of Asaph.

I cried out to God with my voice—
To God with my voice;
And He gave ear to me.
2 In the day of my trouble I sought the Lord;
My hand was stretched out in the night without ceasing;
My soul refused to be comforted.
3 I remembered God, and was troubled;
I complained, and my spirit was overwhelmed. Selah

4 You hold my eyelids open;
I am so troubled that I cannot speak.
5 I have considered the days of old,
The years of ancient times.
6 I call to remembrance my song in the night;
I meditate within my heart,
And my spirit [1]makes diligent search.

7 Will the Lord cast off forever?
And will He be favorable no more?
8 Has His mercy ceased forever?
Has His [b]promise failed [2]forevermore?
9 Has God forgotten to be gracious?
Has He in anger shut up His tender mercies? Selah

10 And I said, "This is my [3]anguish;
But I will remember the years of the right hand of the Most High."

His rebuke the forces of chaos and evil flee before Him and peace reigns (Nah. 1:4; Matt. 8:23–27; 17:18).

■ 76:10 the wrath . . . shall praise You. God's wrath brings praise because it is directed against the wicked and unjust, who afflict the poor and vulnerable (9:18 note).

■ 76:11 vows. See Lev. 27.

■ Ps. 77 An individual prays on behalf of the community (vv. 7–9). A deep lament is followed by eloquent memory of the Exodus.

■ 77:2 My hand was stretched out. A common gesture of prayer was reaching out toward heaven.

■ 77:5 the days of old. The days when God was near and acted to save Israel from its distress.

■ 77:7 cast off. The Lord's promise to be with His people required their obedience. Though God was longsuffering, at times His patience would run out (1 Sam. 4; Ezek. 9—11; Lamentations).

■ 77:9 Has God forgotten to be gracious. It is impossible that God should cease to be merciful, but the distress of life elicit these questions in the psalmist.

■ 77:10 But I will remember. This verse provides a crucial transition in the psalm. By remembering God's great acts in the past, the poet builds confidence in the present and for the future.

■ 77:13 great. As the writer remembers God's great acts in the past, he is reminded of God's attributes: His holiness and His unique power.

■ 77:15 redeemed Your people. The context shows that the psalmist has in mind the deliverance of Israel from Egypt.

■ 77:16 waters. In this poetic remembrance of the Exodus, the waters of the Red Sea are personified. In this way the crossing of the Red Sea is pictured as a battle against the waters of chaos (18:4; 29:3, 10; 46:2, 3 and notes).

■ 77:19 Your footsteps were not known. God's action was from above, not controlled by the constraints of earthly conditions.

■ 77:20 You led Your people like a flock. The crossing of the Red Sea was a violent conflict; in this verse, the mood is calm as the Shepherd of Israel leads His people through the desert.

■ 78:2 in a parable. The writer means that he will recount the events of the past in a poetic way designed to instruct the hearts of distant generations.

■ 78:3 told us. Instruction was disseminated in his family from generation to generation (Deut. 6:4–9; 32:7).

■ 78:5 testimony . . . law. God established a relationship with His people based on grace alone. In this context He gave them laws to live by and to show their gratefulness to Him. These laws are summarized in the Ten Commandments (Ex. 20; Deut. 5).

■ 78:6 declare them to their children. See note on v. 3.

That they may arise and declare them to their children,
7 That they may set their hope in God,
And not forget the works of God,
But keep His commandments;
8 And [h]may not be like their fathers,
[i]A stubborn and rebellious generation,
A generation [j]that did not [3]set its heart aright,
And whose spirit was not faithful to God.

9 The children of Ephraim, being armed and [4]carrying bows,
Turned back in the day of battle.
10 [k]They did not keep the covenant of God;
They refused to walk in His law,
11 And [l]forgot His works
And His wonders that He had shown them.

12 [m]Marvelous things He did in the sight of their fathers,
In the land of Egypt, [n]in the field of Zoan.
13 [o]He divided the sea and caused them to pass through;
And [p]He made the waters stand up like a heap.
14 [q]In the daytime also He led them with the cloud,
And all the night with a light of fire.
15 [r]He split the rocks in the wilderness,
And gave them drink in abundance like the depths.
16 He also brought [s]streams out of the rock,
And caused waters to run down like rivers.

17 But they sinned even more against Him
By [t]rebelling against the Most High in the wilderness.
18 And [u]they tested God in their heart
By asking for the food of their fancy.
19 [v]Yes, they spoke against God:
They said, "Can God prepare a table in the wilderness?
20 [w]Behold, He struck the rock,
So that the waters gushed out,
And the streams overflowed.
Can He give bread also?
Can He provide meat for His people?"

21 Therefore the LORD heard this and [x]was furious;
So a fire was kindled against Jacob,
And anger also came up against Israel,
22 Because they [y]did not believe in God,
And did not trust in His salvation.
23 Yet He had commanded the clouds above,
[z]And opened the doors of heaven,
24 [a]Had rained down manna on them to eat,

■ 78:7 keep His commandments. The object of the history lesson is not merely antiquarian, but to deepen the faith and obedience of God's people.

■ 78:9 children of Ephraim. This verse should be compared to vv. 67, 68, where the choice of Judah is coupled with the rejection of Ephraim.

■ 78:10 the covenant of God. God promised to protect His people if they obeyed the terms of His covenant, but to destroy them if they disobeyed (Deut. 27:9—28:68).

■ 78:13 He divided the sea. Chief among the great acts of God was the deliverance from Egypt by which God rescued His people from slavery and brought them into their own land. The Red Sea crossing was the greatest demonstration of God's power in the past and, accordingly, was often called to memory by psalmists and prophets.

■ 78:18 tested God. Time and time again Israel grumbled about the food in the desert, and God provided for their needs (Ex. 16).

■ 78:20 Can He give bread also. God's provision of water in the desert should have led to faith and trust. Instead the Israelites tested the Lord by asking for food (cf. John 6:25–58).

■ 78:21 was furious. Rebellion against the Lord led to His judgment (Num. 11:1–3). After judging the people, He returned with His grace (vv. 23–39), but grace led only to further rebellion (vv. 40, 41). This is the story of Israel throughout the Old Testament, perhaps best represented in the Book of Judges (see Judg. 2:6–23). Heb. 12:1–12 reminds us that God chastises those He loves.

And given them of the [5]bread of [b]heaven.
25 Men ate angels' food;
He sent them food to [6]the full.

26 [c]He caused an east wind to blow in the heavens;
And by His power He brought in the south wind.
27 He also rained meat on them like the dust,
Feathered fowl like the sand of the seas;
28 And He let them fall in the midst of their camp,
All around their dwellings.
29 [d]So they ate and were well filled,
For He gave them their own desire.
30 They were not [7]deprived of their craving;
But [e]while their food was still in their mouths,
31 The wrath of God came against them,
And slew the stoutest of them,
And struck down the choice men of Israel.

32 In spite of this [f]they still sinned,
And [g]did not believe in His wondrous works.
33 [h]Therefore their days He consumed in futility,
And their years in fear.

34 [i]When He slew them, then they sought Him;
And they returned and sought earnestly for God.
35 Then they remembered that [j]God was their rock,
And the Most High God [k]their Redeemer.
36 Nevertheless they [l]flattered Him with their mouth,
And they lied to Him with their tongue;
37 For their heart was not steadfast with Him,
Nor were they faithful in His covenant.
38 [m]But He, being full of [n]compassion, forgave their iniquity,
And did not destroy them.
Yes, many a time [o]He turned His anger away,
And [p]did not stir up all His wrath;
39 For [q]He remembered [r]that they were but flesh,
[s]A breath that passes away and does not come again.

40 How often they [t]provoked[8] Him in the wilderness,
And grieved Him in the desert!
41 Yes, [u]again and again they tempted God,
And limited the Holy One of Israel.
42 They did not remember His [9]power:
The day when He redeemed them from the enemy,
43 When He worked His signs in Egypt,
And His wonders in the field of Zoan;
44 [v]Turned their rivers into blood,
And their streams, that they could not drink.
45 [w]He sent swarms of flies among them, which devoured them,
And [x]frogs, which destroyed them.
46 He also gave their crops to the caterpillar,
And their labor to the [y]locust.

■ 78:33 in futility. This word is the same as found in the opening words of Ecclesiastes: "vanity" (Eccl. 1:2). It describes the world apart from God and under the curse of the Fall. Apart from God we have nothing: only the fear of death and the void.

■ 78:37 Nor . . . faithful in His covenant. See v. 10. God initiated a relationship with Israel through His grace, and then revealed His will to them through His law, including the curses and blessings of the covenant. The people disobeyed the law and brought on themselves God's judgment.

■ 78:40 often they provoked. Examples include Num. 11; 14; 16.

■ 78:44–51 He lists six of the plagues of Egypt.

47 [z]He destroyed their vines with hail,
And their sycamore trees with frost.
48 He also gave up their [a]cattle to the hail,
And their flocks to fiery [1]lightning.
49 He cast on them the fierceness of His anger,
Wrath, indignation, and trouble,
By sending angels of destruction among them.
50 He made a path for His anger;
He did not spare their soul from death,
But gave [2]their life over to the plague,
51 And destroyed all the [b]firstborn in Egypt,
The first of their strength in the tents of Ham.
52 But He [c]made His own people go forth like sheep,
And guided them in the wilderness like a flock;
53 And He [d]led them on safely, so that they did not fear;
But the sea [e]overwhelmed their enemies.
54 And He brought them to His [f]holy border,
This mountain [g]which His right hand had acquired.
55 [h]He also drove out the nations before them,
[i]Allotted them an inheritance by [3]survey,
And made the tribes of Israel dwell in their tents.

56 [j]Yet they tested and provoked the Most High God,
And did not keep His testimonies,
57 But [k]turned back and acted unfaithfully like their fathers;
They were turned aside [l]like a deceitful bow.
58 [m]For they provoked Him to anger with their [n]high places,
And moved Him to jealousy with their carved images.
59 When God heard this, He was furious,
And greatly abhorred Israel,
60 [o]So that He forsook the tabernacle of Shiloh,
The tent He had placed among men,
61 [p]And delivered His strength into captivity,
And His glory into the enemy's hand.
62 [q]He also gave His people over to the sword,
And was furious with His inheritance.
63 The fire consumed their young men,
And [r]their maidens were not given in marriage.
64 [s]Their priests fell by the sword,
And [t]their widows made no lamentation.

65 Then the Lord awoke as from sleep,
[u]Like a mighty man who shouts because of wine.
66 And [v]He beat back His enemies;
He put them to a perpetual reproach.

67 Moreover He rejected the tent of Joseph,
And did not choose the tribe of Ephraim,

■ 78:52 like a flock. See Ps. 77:20.

■ 78:54–64 God blessed them with the Promised Land, but they quickly forgot Him.

■ 78:55 He also drove out the nations. Israel fought, but the faithful knew that it was God, the Divine Warrior, who actually won the victories against the enemies. The story of the defeat of Jericho is a model for the battles of the conquest under Joshua (Josh. 5:13—6:27).

■ 78:56 tested and provoked the Most High God. They did not keep His law in the desert, nor did they keep it in the Promised Land. See Judg. 2:10–15.

■ 78:58 with their carved images. The height of their rebellion was to worship false gods.

■ 78:60 the tabernacle of Shiloh. Soon after entering the Promised Land, the tabernacle was set up in Shiloh (Josh. 18:1), twenty miles northeast of Jerusalem, in the tribal territory of Ephraim.

■ 78:61 His strength into captivity. During Samuel's youth, God punished Israel and its leaders, particularly Eli's sons, by abandoning Israel in battle and allowing the Philistines to capture the ark (1 Sam. 4; 5).

■ 78:65 as from sleep. God had left Israel temporarily and seemed to be asleep. An unusual figure of speech explains how He began to act.

■ 78:67 He rejected. The rejection of the tribe of Ephraim refers to the abandonment of the Shiloh sanctuary, and perhaps also the rejection of Saul's monarchy.

68 But chose the tribe of Judah,
Mount Zion [w]which He loved.
69 And He built His [x]sanctuary like the heights,
Like the earth which He has established forever.
70 [y]He also chose David His servant,
And took him from the sheepfolds;
71 From following [z]the ewes that had young He brought him,
[a]To shepherd Jacob His people,
And Israel His inheritance.
72 So he shepherded them according to the [b]integrity of his heart,
And guided them by the skillfulness of his hands.

PSALM 79

A Dirge and a Prayer for Israel, Destroyed by Enemies

A Psalm of Asaph.

O God, the [1]nations have come into [a]Your inheritance;
Your holy temple they have defiled;
[b]They have laid Jerusalem [2]in heaps.
2 [c]The dead bodies of Your servants
They have given as food for the birds of the heavens,
The flesh of Your saints to the beasts of the earth.
3 Their blood they have shed like water all around Jerusalem,
And there was no one to bury them.
4 We have become a reproach to our [d]neighbors,
A scorn and derision to those who are around us.

5 [e]How long, LORD?
Will You be angry forever?
Will Your [f]jealousy burn like fire?
6 [g]Pour out Your wrath on the [3]nations that [h]do not know You,
And on the kingdoms that [i]do not call on Your name.
7 For they have devoured Jacob,
And laid waste his dwelling place.

8 [j]Oh, do not remember [4]former iniquities against us!
Let Your tender mercies come speedily to meet us,
For we have been brought very low.
9 Help us, O God of our salvation,
For the glory of Your name;
And deliver us, and provide atonement for our sins,
[k]For Your name's sake!
10 [l]Why should the [5]nations say,

■ 78:68 But chose the tribe of Judah. Jerusalem succeeded Shiloh as the designated location for the worship of God.

Mount Zion. See note on Ps. 2:6.

■ 78:70 sheepfolds. This verse recalls David's humble origins (1 Sam. 16:11–13).

■ 78:72 integrity of his heart. The psalm climaxes on a positive note with a faithful king in Jerusalem, the place of God's special presence.

■ Ps. 79 The destruction of the temple (v. 1) dates this psalm to the period after the Babylonian defeat of Jerusalem in 586 B.C.

■ 79:1 the nations have come into Your inheritance. Because the people disobeyed God's covenant, He did what He had warned them He would do (Deut. 28:15–68), sending a foreign nation against them. Both city and temple were destroyed at this time (2 Kin. 25; 2 Chr. 36:15–23; Lamentations).

■ 79:2 Your servants . . . Your saints. The faithful also suffered at the hands of the Babylonians. The psalmist singles out the death of the faithful as he appeals to God for restoration.

■ 79:5 How long, LORD. This is a prayer to God to change a hard situation.

jealousy. A synonym for anger.

■ 79:6 Pour out Your wrath on the nations. The poet calls for a reversal, asking God to turn His wrath from Israel to the nations God was using to punish them. In the end the Lord answered the psalmist's prayer, restoring Israel and destroying Babylon.

■ 79:8 former iniquities. This psalm may have been written some time after the destruction of Jerusalem. The chief sin was idolatry, turning to false gods.

"Where is their God?"
Let there be known among the nations in our sight
The avenging of the blood of Your servants which has been shed.

11 Let [m]the groaning of the prisoner come before You;
According to the greatness of Your [6]power
Preserve those who are appointed to die;
12 And return to our neighbors [n]sevenfold into their bosom
[o]Their reproach with which they have reproached You, O Lord.

13 So [p]we, Your people and sheep of Your pasture,
Will give You thanks forever;
[q]We will show forth Your praise to all generations.

PSALM 80

Prayer for Israel's Restoration

To the Chief Musician. [a]Set to [1]"The Lilies." A [2]Testimony of Asaph. A Psalm.

Give ear, O Shepherd of Israel,
[b]You who lead Joseph [c]like a flock;
You who dwell between the cherubim, [d]shine forth!
2 Before [e]Ephraim, Benjamin, and Manasseh,
Stir up Your strength,
And come and save us!

3 [f]Restore us, O God;
[g]Cause Your face to shine,
And we shall be saved!

4 O LORD God of hosts,
[h]How long will You be angry
Against the prayer of Your people?
5 [i]You have fed them with the bread of tears,
And given them tears to drink in great measure.
6 You have made us a strife to our neighbors,
And our enemies laugh among themselves.

7 Restore us, O God of hosts;
Cause Your face to shine,
And we shall be saved!

8 You have brought [j]a vine out of Egypt;
[k]You have cast out the [3]nations, and planted it.
9 You prepared room for it,
And caused it to take deep root,
And it filled the land.
10 The hills were covered with its shadow,

■ 79:11 the prisoner. The writer knows that God has a special place in His heart for the oppressed and vulnerable, so he reminds Him of those who need Him (9:18 note).

■ 80:1 O Shepherd. God is Israel's Shepherd (Ps. 23) because He guides them and provides for them (77:20; 78:52, 71, 72; 79:13). In the ancient Near East, "shepherd" is not an unusual title for kings.

between the cherubim. Above the ark of the covenant, in the Most Holy Place of the temple, the wings of the cherubim stretched out over God's throne (Ex. 25:22; Num. 7:89).

shine forth. Note the allusion to the priestly benediction in Num. 6:24–26. The psalmist is calling upon God to reveal His gracious presence to them.

■ 80:2 Ephraim, Benjamin, and Manasseh. The mention of these chief tribes of the northern kingdom may indicate that the psalm was composed in the last days of that kingdom.

■ 80:5 bread of tears. Their mourning is so continuous that it is like their daily food and drink.

■ 80:8 vine. Israel is the vine God transplanted from slavery in Egypt to the fruitful soil of Palestine (Is. 5:1–7; John 15:1, 2).

■ 80:10 covered with its shadow. The lowly vine became so great through the blessing of God that the mountains and the giant cedars were covered with its shadow (Luke 13:19).

PSALM 81

An Appeal for Israel's Repentance

To the Chief Musician. [a]On[r] an instrument of Gath. A Psalm of Asaph.

Sing aloud to God our strength;
Make a joyful shout to the God of Jacob.
2 Raise a song and strike the timbrel,
The pleasant harp with the lute.

3 Blow the trumpet at the time of the New Moon,
At the full moon, on our solemn feast day.
4 For [b]this is a statute for Israel,
A law of the God of Jacob.
5 This He established in Joseph as a testimony,
When He went throughout the land of Egypt,
[c]Where I heard a language I did not understand.

6 "I removed his shoulder from the burden;
His hands were freed from the baskets.
7 [d]You called in trouble, and I delivered you;

■ 80:11 Sea . . . River. See text notes. The language is reminiscent of the promises made to Abraham.

■ 80:12 Why have You. The psalmist knows that no matter what human army actually defeated Israel, God had allowed it. God seemed to be turning His back on the people He had created.

■ 80:17 the son of man. Though the reference might be to Israel, it is more likely to the Davidic king, and ultimately to the Messiah.

■ Ps. 81 This psalm begins like a hymn, but most of it is a divine pronouncement in which God reminds Israel of the Exodus and the nation's subsequent apostasy. The original setting of the psalm was clearly the Feast of Tabernacles (v. 3).

■ 81:2 Raise a song. The psalms teach us by example to worship with exuberance.

■ 81:3 New Moon. The Bible occasionally mentions a special celebration that took place at the time of the new moon (1 Sam. 20:5, 18; 2 Kin. 4:23; Is. 66:23; Ezek. 46:1, 6; Amos 8:5). Frequently, the New Moon festival is mentioned along with regular Sabbath observance; see also Col. 2:16, 17.

■ 81:5 a language I did not understand. The language may be Egyptian. Another translation is "a voice we did not know," to refer to the verses following.

■ 81:6 I removed . . . the burden. With specific language God reminds Israel of their slavery in Egypt.

■ 81:7 secret place of thunder. This may refer to God's appearance at Mount Sinai (Ex. 19:16–25), although thunder and lightning were frequent signs of His presence.

Meribah. See Ex. 17:1–7; Num. 20:1–13.

[e]I answered you in the secret place of thunder;
I [f]tested you at the waters of [2]Meribah. Selah

8 "Hear,[g] O My people, and I will admonish you!
O Israel, if you will listen to Me!
9 There shall be no [h]foreign god among you;
Nor shall you worship any foreign god.
10 [i]I am the LORD your God,
Who brought you out of the land of Egypt;
[j]Open your mouth wide, and I will fill it.

11 "But My people would not heed My voice,
And Israel would have [k]none of Me.
12 [l]So I gave them over to [3]their own stubborn heart,
To walk in their own counsels.

13 "Oh,[m] that My people would listen to Me,
That Israel would walk in My ways!
14 I would soon subdue their enemies,
And turn My hand against their adversaries.
15 [n]The haters of the LORD would pretend submission to Him,
But their [4]fate would endure forever.
16 He would [o]have fed them also with [5]the finest of wheat;
And with honey [p]from the rock I would have satisfied you."

PSALM 82

A Plea for Justice

A Psalm of Asaph.

God [a]stands in the congregation of [1]the mighty;
He judges among [b]the [2]gods.
2 How long will you judge unjustly,
And [c]show partiality to the wicked? Selah
3 [3]Defend the poor and fatherless;
Do justice to the afflicted and [d]needy.
4 Deliver the poor and needy;
Free them from the hand of the wicked.

5 They do not know, nor do they understand;
They walk about in darkness;
All the [e]foundations of the earth are [4]unstable.

6 I said, [f]"You are [5]gods,
And all of you are children of the Most High.

■ 81:9 Nor shall you worship any foreign god. The warning implies that Israel was not observing this basic commandment (Ex. 20:3).

■ 81:10 I am the LORD your God. Strongly reminiscent of the preamble to the Ten Commandments (Ex. 20:2). The relationship of grace came before revelation of the law.

I will fill it. Much of Israel's history, as recorded in Joshua through Chronicles, is the story of God's people looking for satisfaction without God. If they were worried about rain, they turned to Baal (1 Kin. 18). If they were worried about enemies, they wanted a strong king (1 Sam. 8). They kept forgetting they had a God who could and would fulfill all their needs easily.

■ 81:12 I gave them over. See Rom. 1:24.

■ 81:13 Oh, that My people. God's compassion for Israel is clearly seen in this verse.

■ Ps. 82 This short psalm presents some difficult problems. Chief among them is the "gods" mentioned in vv. 1 and 6. A number of scholars take this as a reference to angelic powers, lesser spiritual beings who make up God's heavenly council. A second interpretation understands "gods" literally, as deities made subordinate to Yahweh. The most probable interpretation is that the "gods" are human judges. The Hebrew word 'elohim ("gods") is used of human judges in Ex. 21:6; 22:8, 9. Within Ps. 82, the human nature of these "gods" is indicated by vv. 6, 7. A rough paraphrase would be, "As judges, people may call you 'lord,' but you are as mortal as anyone else."

■ 82:1 congregation of the mighty. The exact scope of this congregation is unclear. It may be the heavenly assembly (including only spiritual powers), or it may include earthly kings.

■ 82:3 the poor. See Ps. 9:18 note.

PSALM 83

Prayer to Frustrate Conspiracy Against Israel

A Song. A Psalm of Asaph.

1 [a]Do not keep silent, O God!
Do not hold Your peace,
And do not be still, O God!
2 For behold, [b]Your enemies make a [1]tumult;
And those who hate You have [2]lifted up their head.
3 They have taken crafty counsel against Your people,
And consulted together [c]against Your sheltered ones.
4 They have said, "Come, and [d]let us cut them off from being a nation,
That the name of Israel may be remembered no more."

5 For they have consulted together with one [3]consent;
They [4]form a confederacy against You:
6 [e]The tents of Edom and the Ishmaelites;
Moab and the Hagrites;
7 Gebal, Ammon, and Amalek;
Philistia with the inhabitants of Tyre;
8 Assyria also has joined with them;
They have helped the children of Lot. Selah

9 Deal with them as with [f]Midian,
As with [g]Sisera,
As with Jabin at the Brook Kishon,
10 Who perished at En Dor,
[h]Who became as refuse on the earth.
11 Make their nobles like [i]Oreb and like Zeeb,
Yes, all their princes like [j]Zebah and Zalmunna,
12 Who said, "Let us take for ourselves
The pastures of God for a possession."

13 [k]O my God, make them like the whirling dust,
[l]Like the chaff before the wind!
14 As the fire burns the woods,
And as the flame [m]sets the mountains on fire,

■ 82:8 judge the earth. Since the human judges were failing to reflect His justice, God Himself would have to do it.

■ Ps. 83 The psalm is a model prayer for the Christian's spiritual warfare. Instead of calling upon the Lord to destroy our flesh-and-blood enemies, we call upon Him to vanquish the spiritual forces of evil.

■ 83:1 Do not keep silent . . . do not be still. The heart of the covenant is the promise that God will be present with His people. To the psalmist's eyes God is absent from His people if they are defeated before the enemy.

■ 83:5 they. The nations involved in the plot against Israel are listed in vv. 6–8. Attempts have been made to identify the historical situation behind the psalm, but no time period is known in which all of these enemies were actively hostile toward Israel at the same time. The closest is Jehoshaphat's war recorded in 2 Chr. 20, but there is no mention of Assyria there.

■ 83:8 children. That is, Moab and Ammon (Gen. 19:30–38).

■ 83:9 Midian. God enabled Gideon to destroy the Midianites (Judg. 7).

Sisera . . . Jabin. Jabin was a king of Canaan and Sisera was his general early in the period of the judges. God delivered the Israelites from them through the work of Deborah (Judg. 4; 5).

■ 83:11 Oreb . . . Zeeb. Two leaders who were destroyed by Ephraimites during Gideon's battle against the Midianites (Judg. 7:25—8:3).

Zebah and Zalmunna. Midianite kings who were captured and executed by Gideon (Judg. 8:4–21).

■ 83:12 The pastures of God. The land of Israel, where the Shepherd-God settled His sheep, the people of Israel. The quote is ascribed to Israel's enemies in order to highlight the blasphemous nature of their plots against Israel.

15 So pursue them with Your tempest,
And frighten them with Your storm.
16 Fill their faces with shame,
That they may seek Your name, O LORD.
17 Let them be [5]confounded and dismayed forever;
Yes, let them be put to shame and perish,
18 [n]That they may know that You, whose [o]name alone is the LORD,
Are [p]the Most High over all the earth.

PSALM 84

The Blessedness of Dwelling in the House of God

To the Chief Musician. [a]On [1] an instrument of Gath. A Psalm of the sons of Korah.

How [b]lovely [2]is Your tabernacle,
O LORD of hosts!
2 [c]My soul longs, yes, even faints
For the courts of the LORD;
My heart and my flesh cry out for the living God.

3 Even the sparrow has found a home,
And the swallow a nest for herself,
Where she may lay her young—
Even Your altars, O LORD of hosts,
My King and my God.
4 Blessed are those who dwell in Your [d]house;
They will still be praising You. Selah

5 Blessed is the man whose strength is in You,
Whose heart is set on pilgrimage.
6 As they pass through the Valley [e]of [3]Baca,
They make it a spring;
The rain also covers it with [4]pools.
7 They go [f]from strength to strength;
[5]Each one [g]appears before God in Zion.

8 O LORD God of hosts, hear my prayer;
Give ear, O God of Jacob! Selah
9 [h]O God, behold our shield,
And look upon the face of Your [6]anointed.

■ 83:15 Your tempest . . . Your storm. God's wrath is often compared to a violent storm (Ps. 18:7–15; Nah. 1:3).

■ 83:16 seek Your name. The psalm supplies a redemptive reason behind the judgment. As God judges the wickedness of the attackers, they will see their folly and turn to Him.

■ 83:18 Most High. The Hebrew words used sound similar to the most common title of the Canaanite god Baal. The poet is asking God to judge the nations so that they will see that Yahweh, not Baal, is the only God.

■ Ps. 84 This psalm expresses the author's deep longing for the presence of God. While Christians do not have to travel to a special location to enjoy God's presence (John 4:21–24), the psalm gives voice to the yearning and happiness experienced in Christ's nearness.

■ 84:1 Your tabernacle. The temple, the place which God chose to reveal His presence to the people (Deut. 12; 1 Kin. 8).

■ 84:2 living God. The true object of the psalmist's devotion is not the temple building itself, but the God who revealed Himself there. Israel was often tempted to forget God and rely on the external trappings of religion (Jer. 7).

■ 84:3 sparrow . . . swallow. Note the playful envy expressed by the psalmist. He is jealous of the birds who are able to build their homes near the altar. In this way he expresses his deepest longings to be as close as possible to God.

■ 84:4 Blessed. See note on Ps. 1:1.

Your house. The temple, being the place of God's appointment on earth, is like heaven on earth. From a New Testament perspective, this verse gives a glimpse of the unending happiness of heaven.

■ 84:5 Blessed. See note on Ps. 1:1.

whose strength is in You. Their vitality in life is found in God's power, not in their own.

pilgrimage. People living outside of Jerusalem made special trips to the temple to enjoy God's presence in worship. The Songs of Ascents (120—134) were probably used during these journeys (120:title).

■ 84:6 Valley of Baca. The name of a valley otherwise unknown. There is a similar sounding Hebrew verb meaning "to weep." Others identify the noun as a certain kind of tree that flourishes in dry places, like the balsam or aspen. The context indicates that the valley is arid but transformed by the presence of the joyful pilgrims.

■ 84:7 in Zion. The location of the temple, the ultimate goal of their pilgrimage. See notes on Ps. 2:6; 50:2; 74:2; 137:1.

■ 84:9 our shield . . . Your anointed. The king is not only the political leader of Israel, but also the reflection of God's kingship on earth.

10 For a day in Your courts is better than a thousand.
I would rather [7]be a doorkeeper in the house of my God
Than dwell in the tents of wickedness.
11 For the LORD God is [i]a sun and [j]shield;
The LORD will give grace and glory;
[k]No good thing will He withhold
From those who walk uprightly.

12 O LORD of hosts,
[l]Blessed is the man who trusts in You!

PSALM 85

Prayer that the LORD Will Restore Favor to the Land

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm [a]of the sons of Korah.

LORD, You have been favorable to Your land;
You have [b]brought back the captivity of Jacob.
2 You have forgiven the iniquity of Your people;
You have covered all their sin. Selah
3 You have taken away all Your wrath;
You have turned from the fierceness of Your anger.

4 [c]Restore us, O God of our salvation,
And cause Your anger toward us to cease.
5 [d]Will You be angry with us forever?
Will You prolong Your anger to all generations?
6 Will You not [e]revive us again,
That Your people may rejoice in You?
7 Show us Your mercy, LORD,
And grant us Your salvation.

8 I will hear what God the LORD will speak,
For He will speak peace
To His people and to His saints;
But let them not turn back to [l]folly.
9 Surely [f]His salvation is near to those who fear Him,
[g]That glory may dwell in our land.

10 Mercy and truth have met together;
[h]Righteousness and peace have kissed.
11 Truth shall spring out of the earth,
And righteousness shall look down from heaven.

10 [h]Ps. 72:3; [Is. 32:17]; Luke 2:14

■ 84:11 sun. The metaphor comparing God to the sun praises Him as the source of light and energy. The burning rays of the sun in the dry country east of the Mediterranean make it a suitable portrayal of God's power.

No good thing will He withhold. See Rom. 8:28–39, especially v. 32.

■ 85:1 favorable to Your land. A number of occasions in biblical history are illustrative for the psalm. Perhaps most appropriate, though the psalm could have already been in existence for many years, was Judah's return from Babylonian captivity in the sixth century B.C.

■ 85:2 forgiven the iniquity. The people's misfortunes came from their sin before God. Forgiveness of sins means that God's wrath will be stilled. The necessary repentance is also the gift of God's grace.

■ 85:8 I. The community has been speaking as a unit up to this point ("us"), but now an individual steps forward. Whoever he is (priest or prophet), he speaks on behalf of God.

He will speak peace. The word for "peace" (Hebrew shalom) indicates health and wholeness, and like "mercy," is a word intimately associated with the covenant. God promises the restoration of intimate relationship with His people.

His saints. This word is formed from the same root as "mercy" (v. 7), and denotes those who are the objects of God's covenant love.

■ 85:10 met together . . . have kissed. This verse has long been interpreted to refer to the reconciliation that Jesus Christ effected between God's justice, that cannot tolerate sin, and His mercy, that does not rejoice in the death of the wicked (Ezek. 33:11; 2 Pet. 3:9). Justice and mercy came together in the cross of Christ. See "God Is Light: Divine Holiness and Justice" at Lev. 11:44.

■ 85:11 out of the earth . . . from heaven. The future restored relationship with God will join God's blessing from heaven with the faithfulness of His people on earth.

12 [i]Yes, the LORD will give what is good;
And our land will yield its increase.
13 Righteousness will go before Him,
And shall make His footsteps our pathway.

PSALM 86

Prayer for Mercy, with Meditation on the Excellencies of the LORD

A Prayer of David.

Bow down Your ear, O LORD, hear me;
For I am poor and needy.
2 Preserve my [1]life, for I am holy;
You are my God;
Save Your servant who trusts in You!
3 Be merciful to me, O Lord,
For I cry to You all day long.
4 [2]Rejoice the soul of Your servant,
[a]For to You, O Lord, I lift up my soul.
5 For [b]You, Lord, are good, and ready to forgive,
And abundant in mercy to all those who call upon You.

6 Give ear, O LORD, to my prayer;
And attend to the voice of my supplications.
7 In the day of my trouble I will call upon You,
For You will answer me.

8 [c]Among the gods there is none like You, O Lord;
Nor are there any works like Your works.
9 All nations whom You have made
Shall come and worship before You, O Lord,
And shall glorify Your name.
10 For You are great, and [d]do wondrous things;
[e]You alone are God.

11 [f]Teach me Your way, O LORD;
I will walk in Your truth;
[3]Unite my heart to fear Your name.
12 I will praise You, O Lord my God, with all my heart,
And I will glorify Your name forevermore.
13 For great is Your mercy toward me,
And You have delivered my soul from the depths of [4]Sheol.

14 O God, the proud have risen against me,
And a mob of violent men have sought my life,
And have not set You before them.
15 But [g]You, O Lord, are a God full of compassion, and gracious,
Longsuffering and abundant in mercy and truth.

13 [4]The abode of the dead

15 [g]Ex. 34:6; [Ps. 86:5]

■ 85:12 yield its increase. Fertility of land in an arid climate is an indication of God's care and love for His people.

■ 85:13 Righteousness will go before Him. This attribute of God is personified as a herald who proclaims God's way before Him (cf. Ps. 23:6).

■ 86:title Prayer. See introduction to Ps. 17.

■ 86:2 who trusts in You. The psalmist recognizes his own inability, but he knows where true strength lies.

■ 86:3 Be merciful to me. The poet knows that God's answer to his prayer is a manifestation of His unmerited grace. God owes him nothing.

■ 86:5 mercy. The special love of God toward those in covenant with Him.

those who call upon You. God does not forgive all people indiscriminately; He waits until they turn to Him with prayers of repentance.

■ 86:8 there is none like You. The psalmist sees that no god of the surrounding nations can be compared with the Lord in what He is or what He does. This confession of God's uniqueness is not a tacit admission that other gods exist (see v. 10). The psalmist is comparing the foreigners' vain imaginations with the reality of Yahweh.

■ 86:9 All nations whom You have made. Yahweh is the God of all the nations, even though they may not recognize Him. God gives them their existence and whatever blessings they have.

■ 86:11 Unite my heart. Such a united heart is one totally set on God.

■ 86:13 mercy. The lovingkindness freely offered and promised in the gospel.

16 Oh, turn to me, and have mercy on me!
Give Your strength to Your servant,
And save the son of Your maidservant.
17 Show me a sign for good,
That those who hate me may see it and be ashamed,
Because You, LORD, have helped me and comforted me.

PSALM 87

The Glories of the City of God

A Psalm of the sons of Korah. A Song.

More than all the dwellings of Jacob.

title [a]1 Kin. 4:31; 1 Chr. 2:6 [f]Heb. Maschil
1 [b]Ps. 27:9; [Luke 18:7]

■ Ps. 87 The object of this psalm is to glorify Jerusalem, or Zion, the seat of God's special presence; see Ps. 46; 48; 76. The unique contribution of Ps. 87 is to give a glimpse of the universal character of God's worship. Its universalistic language brings to mind the future day when the "Gentiles should be fellow heirs" in the gospel (Eph. 3:6).

■ 87:1 His foundation. This refers to the building of the temple on Mount Zion, north of the city of David and towering over it.

holy mountains. God is omnipresent: He is everywhere. Nevertheless, God met His people in an intimate and special way at Zion. See notes on Ps. 2:6; 29:6; 46:2.

■ 87:2 loves . . . More than. The point is not that God hated other parts of Israel, but that He blessed Jerusalem with His presence. After the temple was built, there was only one designated place for the official worship of God—at Jerusalem (Deut. 12).

■ 87:3 are spoken of you. Referring to the divine pronouncement to follow in the next few verses.

■ 87:4 I will make mention. This formal introduction to the divine pronouncement uses the idea of the "book of the living" (Ex. 32:32; Ps. 69:28; 139:16; Is. 4:3; Rev. 21:24–27).

Rahab and Babylon. Rahab is a name for Egypt (Is. 30:7). Egypt and Babylon were the two superpowers who continually fought against Israel.

those who know Me. There were occasional foreigners, like Rahab and Naaman, who worshiped the Lord during the Old Testament period (cf. Ex. 12:38). This amazing verse looks forward to whole foreign nations bowing down to God.

Philistia. Israel's traditional enemy on the Mediterranean coast west of Judah.

Tyre. An affluent sea power north of Israel.

Ethiopia. Biblical Ethiopia is the remote region south of Egypt, including parts of modern Eritrea, Ethiopia, and Sudan.

■ 87:5 were born in her. The verse refers metaphorically to a spiritual birth in Zion. Zion is mother to the spiritual birth of peoples from all over the world.

■ 87:6 registers the peoples. See v. 4, note on "book of the living."

■ 87:7 my springs. Physical thirst stands for spiritual thirst (Ps. 42:1, 2), that can only be satisfied in Jerusalem, God's chosen place.

■ Ps. 88 This psalm is the most depressed of all the laments in the

Let my prayer come before You;
[2]Incline Your ear to my cry.

3 For my soul is full of troubles,
And my life [c]draws near to the grave.
4 I am counted with those who [d]go[3] down to the pit;
[e]I am like a man who has no strength,
5 [4]Adrift among the dead,
Like the slain who lie in the grave,
Whom You remember no more,
And who are cut off from Your hand.

6 You have laid me in the lowest pit,
In darkness, in the depths.
7 Your wrath lies heavy upon me,
And You have afflicted me with all [f]Your waves. Selah
8 [g]You have [5]put away my acquaintances far from me;
You have made me an abomination to them;
[h]I am shut up, and I cannot get out;
9 My eye wastes away because of affliction.

[i]LORD, I have called daily upon You;
I have stretched out my hands to You.
10 Will You work wonders for the dead?
Shall [6]the dead arise and praise You? Selah
11 Shall Your lovingkindness be declared in the grave?
Or Your faithfulness in the place of destruction?
12 Shall Your wonders be known in the dark?
And Your righteousness in the land of forgetfulness?

13 But to You I have cried out, O LORD,
And in the morning my prayer comes before You.
14 LORD, why do You cast off my soul?
Why do You hide Your face from me?
15 I have been afflicted and ready to die from my youth;
I suffer Your terrors;
I am distraught.
16 Your fierce wrath has gone over me;
Your terrors have [7]cut me off.
17 They came around me all day long like water;
They engulfed me altogether.
18 [j]Loved one and friend You have put far from me,
And my acquaintances into darkness.

Psalter. The writer's distress can be heard from beginning to end, because his pain has lasted from his youth (v. 15) until the present. Most laments turn to confidence and praise at the end, but in this one the only glimmer of hope is that the psalmist is concerned to pray at all. He refers to God as "my salvation" (v. 1). A Christian is not, as such, free from the suffering of this world. Contrariwise, the Christian lot commonly is suffering and pain. We cannot hope to escape all suffering, but we find solace in the suffering and resurrection of Christ (Phil. 3:10).

■ 88:3 the grave. Hebrew sheol; see 6:5 note.

■ 88:5 Adrift among the dead. His condition is so bad that people treat him as if he were already dead.

■ 88:8 an abomination. The psalmist's unhappiness is reminiscent of the suffering of Job.

■ 88:9 stretched out my hands. An attitude of prayer. Though God afflicts him, or perhaps, because God afflicts him, the psalmist knows there is only one refuge for him—God.

■ 88:10 work wonders for the dead. See 6:5; 30:9 and notes.

■ 88:17 like water. For water as a figure of trouble, see notes on 18:4, 15.

■ 88:18 my acquaintances into darkness. His closest friends have abandoned him (v. 8), and God is distant (v. 14), leaving only darkness nearby. This is the only psalm that ends on such a downcast note (introduction to Ps. 88).

PSALM 89

Remembering the Covenant with David, and Sorrow for Lost Blessings

A [1]Contemplation of [a]Ethan the Ezrahite.

I will sing of the mercies of the LORD forever;
With my mouth will I make known Your faithfulness to all generations.
2 For I have said, "Mercy shall be built up forever;
[b]Your faithfulness You shall establish in the very heavens."

3 "I[c] have made a covenant with My chosen,
I have [d]sworn to My servant David:
4 'Your seed I will establish forever,
And build up your throne [e]to all generations.' " Selah

5 And [f]the heavens will praise Your wonders, O LORD;
Your faithfulness also in the assembly of the saints.
6 [g]For who in the heavens can be compared to the LORD?
Who among the sons of the mighty can be likened to the LORD?
7 [h]God is greatly to be feared in the assembly of the saints,
And to be held in reverence by all those around Him.
8 O LORD God of hosts,
Who is mighty like You, O LORD?
Your faithfulness also surrounds You.
9 [i]You rule the raging of the sea;
When its waves rise, You still them.
10 [j]You have broken [2]Rahab in pieces, as one who is slain;
You have scattered Your enemies with Your mighty arm.

11 [k]The heavens are Yours, the earth also is Yours;
The world and all its fullness, You have founded them.
12 The north and the south, You have created them;
[l]Tabor and [m]Hermon rejoice in Your name.
13 You have a mighty arm;
Strong is Your hand, and high is Your right hand.
14 Righteousness and justice are the foundation of Your throne;
Mercy and truth go before Your face.

■ Ps. 89 The psalm opens joyfully, but is finally a lament. The issue at the heart of the psalm is the Davidic covenant. In 2 Sam. 7:4–17 (cf. 1 Chr. 17:1–15) God established a covenant with David in which He promised that the special relationship would pass on to David's obedient sons (32:11). God's language was bold; the covenant was to last "forever" (2 Sam. 7:13).

But this promise was not without conditions upon the recipients. If they sinned they would be punished (1 Kin. 8:25; 2 Sam. 7:14). David's own son Solomon began his slide into apostasy by admitting the religious cults of his foreign wives (1 Kin. 11). The continuing disobedience of the Davidic kings resulted in the Babylonian exile and an end to that period of Israel's monarchy in the sixth century B.C. But the spiritual substance of the promise was not canceled; Christ came to take the throne of David forever (Is. 9:7; Luke 1:32; 22:30).

■ 89:1 mercies. The wonders of God's devotion to His people in the love of His covenant with them.

faithfulness. God is not fickle or capricious, but will keep the promises He makes. Hope in the fulfillment of God's promise to David is what will motivate the lament at the end of the psalm (vv. 38–51).

■ 89:5 heavens. The heavens are here personified; the reference is to the beings in heaven, such as the cherubim and the angels. God is so great that even these powerful spiritual entities fall to their knees in adoration.

assembly. The angels and other spiritual beings in heaven are God's divine assembly through whom He works His will.

■ 89:6 in the heavens. Having mentioned spiritual beings, the psalmist is quick to point out the uniqueness of God. The writings of the Canaanites and Mesopotamians also mention an "assembly of the holy ones," but this was an assembly made up of different gods. The God of Israel is not the best of such gods but wholly different from them. The Old Testament expresses His transcendence in numerous places (Is. 44:6).

■ 89:10 Rahab. Like Leviathan, Rahab is here a sea monster of Near Eastern mythology, standing for forces of evil and chaos (Job 9:13; Ezek. 29:3 and note). Frequently the name Rahab is applied to Egypt (Ps. 87:4 and note).

■ 89:11 You have founded them. Unlike the heathen gods, the Lord is the Creator of the world.

■ 89:12 Tabor and Hermon. Hermon in the far north is the highest peak in Israel. Tabor is a mountain of distinctive shape standing in the Megiddo plain, a landmark of the boundary of three tribes.

■ 89:14 Righteousness and justice. As King, God is responsible for the administration of law in the land. He does not judge arbitrarily.

go before Your face. See Ps. 85:13.

15 Blessed are the people who know the [n]joyful sound!
They walk, O LORD, in the light of Your countenance.
16 In Your name they rejoice all day long,
And in Your righteousness they are exalted.
17 For You are the glory of their strength,
And in Your favor our [3]horn is [o]exalted.
18 For our shield belongs to the LORD,
And our king to the Holy One of Israel.

19 Then You spoke in a vision to Your [4]holy one,
And said: "I have given help to one who is mighty;
I have exalted one [p]chosen from the people.
20 [q]I have found My servant David;
With My holy oil I have anointed him,
21 [r]With whom My hand shall be established;
Also My arm shall strengthen him.
22 The enemy shall not [5]outwit him,
Nor the son of wickedness afflict him.
23 I will beat down his foes before his face,
And plague those who hate him.

24 "But My faithfulness and My mercy shall be with him,
And in My name his horn shall be exalted.
25 Also I will [s]set his hand over the sea,
And his right hand over the rivers.
26 He shall cry to Me, 'You are [t]my Father,
My God, and [u]the rock of my salvation.'
27 Also I will make him [v]My firstborn,
[w]The highest of the kings of the earth.
28 [x]My mercy I will keep for him forever,
And My covenant shall stand firm with him.
29 His seed also I will make to endure forever,
[y]And his throne [z]as the days of heaven.

30 "If[a] his sons [b]forsake My law
And do not walk in My judgments,
31 If they [6]break My statutes
And do not keep My commandments,
32 Then I will punish their transgression with the rod,
And their iniquity with stripes.
33 [c]Nevertheless My lovingkindness I will not [7]utterly take from him,
Nor [8]allow My faithfulness to fail.
34 My covenant I will not break,

■ 89:17 our horn. The king. The metaphor of the horn is associated with that of the bull, which stands for strength. God is the One who endows the human king with power. This thought is specified in the next line.

■ 89:19 in a vision. The exact words of this vision are not found elsewhere in Scripture, but the allusion is probably to the prophetic insight of Nathan in 2 Sam. 7, if not to the initial divine word given to Samuel concerning David's kingship (1 Sam. 6).

■ 89:21 shall strengthen him. The king had sacred responsibilities, both political and religious. God promises to give David the strength he needs to carry out his divinely given tasks.

■ 89:24 My faithfulness and My mercy. These two key words reverberate throughout the psalm, beginning in v. 1; see note on v. 1.

■ 89:26 You are my Father. A reference to the intimate relationship established between God and David in 2 Sam. 7:14. The king played an important role as mediator of the Davidic covenant between God and His people. This special function made the apostasy of later kings especially heinous.

■ 89:27 My firstborn. Calling David the "firstborn" means that he was first in rank in the covenant community, the head of a household (Gen. 4:4; 25:31 and notes). David in particular foreshadows Christ, uniquely the Son of God and Head of the church (Eph. 1:22; Heb. 3:6).

■ 89:29 forever. The dynasty of David as an earthly political enterprise was long-lived, but not eternal. It fell because of the sins of David's successors. Superseding it, as the reality casting a shadow, was the eternal kingdom of Jesus Christ.

■ 89:31 My statutes. God's will as summarized in the first five books of the Old Testament. Deut. 17:19 commands the king to be well versed in God's law and obedient to it.

■ 89:34 I will not break. God's promises stand forever. The Davidic covenant has a conditional element, as this psalm points out in v. 32, but its ultimate fulfillment does not depend on human response. David and the psalmist knew that it would be fulfilled, but could not know everything about how that would occur (Acts 2:29–31; 1 Pet. 1:10, 11).

Nor [d]alter the word that has gone out of My lips.
35 Once I have sworn [e]by My holiness;
I will not lie to David:
36 [f]His seed shall endure forever,
And his throne [g]as the sun before Me;
37 It shall be established forever like the moon,
Even like the faithful witness in the sky." Selah

38 But You have [h]cast off and [i]abhorred,[9]
You have been furious with Your [j]anointed.
39 You have renounced the covenant of Your servant;
[j] You have [2]profaned his crown by casting it to the ground.
40 You have broken down all his hedges;
You have brought his [3]strongholds to ruin.
41 All who pass by the way [k]plunder him;
He is a reproach to his neighbors.
42 You have exalted the right hand of his adversaries;
You have made all his enemies rejoice.
43 You have also turned back the edge of his sword,
And have not sustained him in the battle.
44 You have made his [4]glory cease,
And cast his throne down to the ground.
45 The days of his youth You have shortened;
You have covered him with shame. Selah

46 How long, LORD?
Will You hide Yourself forever?
Will Your wrath burn like fire?
47 Remember how short my time [l]is;
For what [m]futility have You created all the children of men?
48 What man can live and not [5]see [n]death?
Can he deliver his life from the power of [6]the grave? Selah

49 Lord, where are Your former lovingkindnesses,
Which You [o]swore to David [p]in Your truth?
50 Remember, Lord, the reproach of Your servants—
[q] How I bear in my bosom the reproach of all the many peoples,
51 [r]With which Your enemies have reproached, O LORD,
With which they have reproached the footsteps of Your [7]anointed.

52 [s]Blessed be the LORD forevermore!
Amen and Amen.

■ 89:38 You have cast off. The focus of the psalm shifts to the present and the great rift in the relationship between God and the king.

Your anointed. An unspecified Davidic successor to the throne.

■ 89:39 renounced. The psalmist is outspoken, speaking boldly in his appeal to break God's silence.

■ 89:41 All . . . plunder him. God's absence is experienced through the victory of their enemies.

■ 89:49 Your former lovingkindnesses. God's lovingkindness is the love by which God binds Himself to His people in covenant devotion.

■ 89:52 A doxology concludes Book III of the Psalter (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes).

■ Ps. 90 This psalm, the only one ascribed to Moses, contrasts God's eternity and human mortality. Moses seems to pray for God's blessing on his own generation, doomed to wander in the wilderness.

■ 90:2 from everlasting to everlasting, You are God. The psalmist affirms the eternal existence of God. God's work of creation (Gen. 1)

Or ever You [2]had formed the earth and the world,
Even from everlasting to everlasting, You are God.

3 You turn man to destruction,
And say, [d]"Return, O children of men."
4 [e]For a thousand years in Your sight
Are like yesterday when it is past,
And like a watch in the night.
5 You carry them away like a flood;
[f]They are like a sleep.
In the morning [g]they are like grass which grows up:
6 In the morning it flourishes and grows up;
In the evening it is cut down and withers.

7 For we have been consumed by Your anger,
And by Your wrath we are terrified.
8 [h]You have set our iniquities before You,
Our [i]secret sins in the light of Your countenance.
9 For all our days have passed away in Your wrath;
We finish our years like a sigh.
10 The days of our lives are seventy years;
And if by reason of strength they are eighty years,
Yet their boast is only labor and sorrow;
For it is soon cut off, and we fly away.
11 Who knows the power of Your anger?
For as the fear of You, so is Your wrath.

That we may gain a heart of wisdom.

The Self-existence of God

Children sometimes ask, "Who made God?" The clearest answer is that God never needed to be made, because He was always there. He exists in a different way from us: we exist in a derived, finite, and fragile way, but our Creator exists as eternal, self-sustaining, and necessary. His existence is necessary in the sense that there is no possibility in Him of ceasing to exist.

God's self-existence is a basic truth. In his presentation of the "unknown God" to the Athenians, Paul explained that the Creator of the world is not "worshiped with men's hands, as though He needed anything, since He gives to all life, breath, and all things" (Acts 17:23–25). The Creator has life in Himself and draws His unending energy from Himself, needing nothing. The independent self-existence of God is a truth stated clearly in the Bible (Ps. 90:1–4; 102:25–27; Is. 40:28–31; John 5:26; Rev. 4:10).

In theology, many errors result from supposing that the conditions and limits of our own finite existence apply to God. In the life of faith we can too easily impoverish ourselves by embracing an idea of God that is limited and small. The doctrine of His self-existence is a bulwark and defense against such mistakes. The principle that God exists from Himself alone distinguishes Him from every creature and is a foundation of our thinking about Him. Knowing that God's existence is independent protects our understanding of His greatness, and so has clear practical value for our spiritual health. □ brought the whole universe into existence; God Himself had always been there. See theological note "The Self-existence of God."

■ 90:3 to destruction. Lit. "to dust." God's judgment returns the descendants of Adam to the dust in death.

■ 90:4 like yesterday. God is not subject to time, but is its Creator. See "God the Creator" at 148:5.

■ 90:5 The brevity of human life—like a sleep—contrasts with God's eternity.

■ 90:8 Our secret sins. People commit sins they think they can hide, like envy, hatred, and lust. But before God there are no secrets (Heb. 4:12, 13).

■ 90:10 seventy years. To a young person, seventy years seems like a long time. But before God's eternity, and in human retrospect, it is brief.

■ 90:11 Who knows. Only Jesus Christ, who drank the full cup of God's wrath for sinners, knows the full power of death.

PSALM 91

Safety of Abiding in the Presence of God

He [a]who dwells in the secret place of the Most High
Shall abide [b]under the shadow of the Almighty.
2 [c]I will say of the LORD, "He is my refuge and my fortress;
My God, in Him I will trust."

3 Surely [d]He shall deliver you from the snare of the [1]fowler
And from the perilous pestilence.
4 [e]He shall cover you with His feathers,
And under His wings you shall take refuge;
His truth shall be your shield and [2]buckler.
5 [f]You shall not be afraid of the terror by night,
Nor of the arrow that flies by day,
6 Nor of the pestilence that walks in darkness,
Nor of the destruction that lays waste at noonday.

7 A thousand may fall at your side,
And ten thousand at your right hand;
But it shall not come near you.
8 Only [g]with your eyes shall you look,
And see the reward of the wicked.

9 Because you have made the LORD, who is [h]my refuge,
Even the Most High, [i]your dwelling place,
10 [j]No evil shall befall you,
Nor shall any plague come near your dwelling;
11 [k]For He shall give His angels charge over you,
To keep you in all your ways.

■ 90:13 How long. See note on Ps. 6:3.

■ 90:16 Your work. God must act to redeem and restore.

their children. Moses contemplates a generation entering the Promised Land.

■ 90:17 the beauty of the LORD our God. In the midst of life in the wilderness, only the blessing of God's own presence can give meaning and joy.

establish the work of our hands. Wanderers in the desert may leave no monuments, but God can give eternal significance to the deeds of hands that serve Him.

■ Ps. 91 The original setting of this poem appears to be warfare with its threats of battle and plague among the soldiers (vv. 3–8). In the face of the hard realities of war, God is portrayed as a compassionate mother bird protecting her young (v. 4).

■ 91:1 He who dwells . . . Shall abide. The verse states the theme of the whole psalm. Those who draw near to God can have peace in Him, however difficult their circumstances.

■ 91:3 He shall deliver you. God is present and able to deliver His people. See "Omnipresence and Omnipotence" at Jer. 23:24.

■ 91:4 with His feathers. Psalms of confidence often have a metaphor for God's compassion at their core. God is likened to a mother bird who protects her young.

His truth. God's steadfast love and the certainty that He will keep His promises to sustain the psalmist.

■ 91:5 the terror by night. Perhaps a reference to plagues that could sweep through an encampment.

arrow. The literal setting of battle can be taken figuratively for the struggles of life.

■ 91:11, 12 His angels. God often works His will through His spiritual attendants, the angels.

12 In their hands they shall [3]bear you up,
[l]Lest you [4]dash your foot against a stone.
13 You shall tread upon the lion and the cobra,
The young lion and the serpent you shall trample underfoot.

14 "Because he has set his love upon Me, therefore I will deliver him;
I will [5]set him on high, because he has [m]known My name.
15 He shall [n]call upon Me, and I will answer him;
I will be [o]with him in trouble;
I will deliver him and honor him.
16 With [6]long life I will satisfy him,
And show him My salvation."

PSALM 92

Praise to the LORD for His Love and Faithfulness

A Psalm. A Song for the Sabbath day.

It is [a]good to give thanks to the LORD,
And to sing praises to Your name, O Most High;
2 To [b]declare Your lovingkindness in the morning,
And Your faithfulness every night,
3 [c]On an instrument of ten strings,
On the lute,
And on the harp,
With harmonious sound.
4 For You, LORD, have made me glad through Your work;
I will triumph in the works of Your hands.

5 [d]O LORD, how great are Your works!
[e]Your thoughts are very deep.
6 [f]A senseless man does not know,
Nor does a fool understand this.
7 When [g]the wicked [l]spring up like grass,
And when all the workers of iniquity flourish,
It is that they may be destroyed forever.

8 [h]But You, LORD, are on high forevermore.
9 For behold, Your enemies, O LORD,
For behold, Your enemies shall perish;
All the workers of iniquity shall [i]be scattered.

10 But [j]my [2]horn You have exalted like a wild ox;
I have been [k]anointed with fresh oil.
11 [l]My eye also has seen my desire on my enemies;
My ears hear my desire on the wicked
Who rise up against me.

■ 91:12 they shall bear you up. Satan quoted this passage to Jesus in the wilderness (Matt. 4:6) tempting Him to jump from the top of the temple. Satan's aim was to turn faith into presumption.

■ 91:14 Because he has set his love upon Me. God's promise of protection comes to those who have faith in Him.

■ 92:1 Most High. This title is similar to one commonly given to Baal in Canaanite religious texts. Applying it to the God of Israel is a kind of taunt directed toward anyone tempted to worship Baal (83:18).

■ 92:2 Your lovingkindness . . . Your faithfulness. In His covenant with His people, God pledges Himself to love them faithfully. He is the author of the terms of the covenant binding Him and His people together (136:1 and note).

■ 92:4 Your work . . . the works of Your hands. The psalmist concentrates on God's acts in time and space. God is not out of touch with created reality, but works through such reality to demonstrate His love for His people.

■ 92:5 how great . . . thoughts are very deep. God's acts and thoughts overwhelm us as we contemplate them. They draw us on to reverent fascination and humble devotion that exceeds our poor grasp.

■ 92:7 the wicked spring up like grass. The psalmist does not deny that the wicked appear to prosper in this world.

■ 92:9 Your enemies shall perish. As the psalmist meditates on the greatness and justice of God, he comes to the sure conclusion that the wicked will be destroyed.

■ 92:10 my horn You have exalted. The horn of an animal is used in the Bible as a symbol of power. The wild ox raises its horn with pride and confidence. See 75:4; 89:17; 132:17; 148:14 and notes.

14 They shall still bear fruit in old age;
They shall be [3]fresh and [4]flourishing,
15 To declare that the LORD is upright;
[n]He is my rock, and [o]there is no unrighteousness in Him.

PSALM 93

The Eternal Reign of the LORD

The [a]LORD reigns, He is clothed with majesty;
The LORD is clothed,
[b]He has girded Himself with strength.
Surely the world is established, so that it cannot be [1]moved.
2 [c]Your throne is established from of old;
You are from everlasting.

3 The floods have [2]lifted up, O LORD,
The floods have lifted up their voice;
The floods lift up their waves.
4 [d]The LORD on high is mightier
Than the noise of many waters,
Than the mighty waves of the sea.

5 Your testimonies are very sure;
Holiness adorns Your house,
O LORD, [3]forever.

PSALM 94

God the Refuge of the Righteous

O LORD God, [a]to whom vengeance belongs—
O God, to whom vengeance belongs, shine forth!
2 Rise up, O [b]Judge of the earth;
[1]Render punishment to the proud.
3 LORD, [c]how long will the wicked,
How long will the wicked triumph?

4 They [d]utter speech, and speak insolent things;
All the workers of iniquity boast in themselves.

■ 92:12 like a palm tree . . . like a cedar. A strong contrast is drawn between the flourishing of the righteous and the destruction of the wicked (v. 7). The wicked are like fragile grass, whereas the righteous are strong, vital, and productive trees. A similar type of contrast is found in Ps. 1.

■ 92:13 planted in the house of the LORD. The source of the vitality of the righteous is not themselves, but God.

■ Ps. 93 This short poem stands at the head of a group of psalms that praise God as King (93; 95—100). Comparison may also be made with Ps. 24 and 46.

■ 93:1 The LORD reigns. This phrase and its slight variants may be found throughout this section of the Psalter (Ps. 96:10; 97:1; 98:6; 99:1). God is King, with omnipotent power and sovereign control over the world. See "God Reigns: Divine Sovereignty" at Dan. 4:34.

the world is established. This word of assurance is based on the fact that the King has created and maintains the world. The forces of evil, disorder, and chaos (vv. 3, 4) will not overwhelm the world.

■ 93:2 You are from everlasting. God has no beginning; He is uncreated. This conception of the eternal kingship of God stands in stark contrast with the theology of Mesopotamia and Canaan. In these neighboring regions, the power of the gods varied according to changes in the political arena.

■ 93:3 The floods. An ancient symbol of the forces of chaos and evil. See notes on 18:4, 15.

■ 93:5 Your testimonies. The stability and order that exists because of God's eternal kingship is shared with humanity through the revealed law.

■ Ps. 94 The psalmist calls on the Lord as Judge to bring justice to arrogant evildoers, those who disobey Him. The writer mentions an oppressive "throne of iniquity" (vv. 20–23).

■ 94:2 Rise up, O Judge. See notes on 3:7 and 7:6; "God Is Light: Divine Holiness and Justice" at Lev. 11:44.

■ 94:3 how long. See note on Ps. 6:3.

■ 94:4 speak insolent things. They should be ashamed and silent, but instead they shout their evil accomplishments from the rooftops.

5 They break in pieces Your people, O LORD,
And afflict Your heritage.
6 They slay the widow and the stranger,
And murder the fatherless.
7 [e]Yet they say, "The LORD does not see,
Nor does the God of Jacob [2]understand."

8 Understand, you senseless among the people;
And you fools, when will you be wise?
9 [f]He who planted the ear, shall He not hear?
He who formed the eye, shall He not see?
10 He who [3]instructs the [4]nations, shall He not correct,
He who teaches man knowledge?
11 The LORD [g]knows the thoughts of man,
That they are futile.

12 Blessed is the man whom You [h]instruct, O LORD,
And teach out of Your law,
13 That You may give him [5]rest from the days of adversity,
Until the pit is dug for the wicked.
14 For the LORD will not [6]cast off His people,
Nor will He forsake His inheritance.
15 But judgment will return to righteousness,
And all the upright in heart will follow it.

16 Who will rise up for me against the evildoers?
Who will stand up for me against the workers of iniquity?
17 Unless the LORD had been my help,
My soul would soon have settled in silence.
18 If I say, "My foot slips,"
Your mercy, O LORD, will hold me up.
19 In the multitude of my anxieties within me,
Your comforts delight my soul.

20 Shall [i]the throne of iniquity, which devises evil by law,
Have fellowship with You?
21 They gather together against the life of the righteous,
And condemn [j]innocent blood.
22 But the LORD has been my defense,
And my God the rock of my refuge.
23 He has brought on them their own iniquity,
And shall [7]cut them off in their own wickedness;
The LORD our God shall cut them off.

■ 94:6 widow . . . stranger . . . fatherless. See 9:18 note.

■ 94:7 The LORD does not see. The wicked in their prosperity believe that God does not care what they do.

■ 94:8 be wise. The wicked will be wise when they shed the illusion that God does not know their evil schemes, or that He is unable to do anything about them.

■ 94:11 knows the thoughts of man. The Lord knows even the secret thoughts hidden away in the heart (Ps. 90:8).

■ 94:13 Until the pit is dug. The psalmist recognizes that there is often a delay between a wicked act and its punishment. The unrighteous may prosper for a time. However, that they will pay for their crimes is a certainty.

■ 94:14 will not cast off His people. God may discipline the righteous (v. 12), to return them to conformity to His will, but He will never leave them.

■ 94:16 for me. The psalm takes on a personal note as the author prepares to mention how God delivered him.

■ 94:18 Your mercy. Specifically, God's love for those in covenant with Him.

■ 94:20 throne of iniquity. A king who perverts justice. A king of Israel was to reflect the kingship of God, particularly God's justice and compassion. The psalmist refers to an Israelite king who did not seek the will of God. There are many such examples from the history of the divided kingdoms of Israel and Judah.

PSALM 95

A Call to Worship and Obedience

Oh come, let us sing to the LORD!
Let us shout joyfully to the Rock of our salvation.
2 Let us come before His presence with thanksgiving;
Let us shout joyfully to Him with [a]psalms.
3 For [b]the LORD is the great God,
And the great King above all gods.
4 [1]In His hand are the deep places of the earth;
The heights of the hills are His also.
5 [c]The sea is His, for He made it;
And His hands formed the dry land.

6 Oh come, let us worship and bow down;
Let [d]us kneel before the LORD our Maker.
7 For He is our God,
And [e]we are the people of His pasture,
And the sheep [2]of His hand.

[f]Today, if you will hear His voice:
8 "Do not harden your hearts, as in the [3]rebellion,
[g]As in the day of [4]trial in the wilderness,
9 When [h]your fathers tested Me;
They tried Me, though they [i]saw My work.
10 For [j]forty years I was [5]grieved with that generation,
And said, 'It is a people who go astray in their hearts,
And they do not know My ways.'
11 So [k]I swore in My wrath,
'They shall not enter My rest.' "

PSALM 96

A Song of Praise to God Coming in Judgment

Oh, [a]sing to the LORD a new song!
Sing to the LORD, all the earth.
2 Sing to the LORD, bless His name;
Proclaim the good news of His salvation from day to day.
3 Declare His glory among the [1]nations,
His wonders among all peoples.

■ Ps. 95 The psalm opens with an exuberant hymn and ends with God's warning to listen to His voice and obey Him.

■ 95:1 let us. A worship leader, such as a priest, calls on the congregation to worship the Lord together with him.

■ 95:3 the great King above all gods. As the supreme God of the universe all sovereignty is His. The reference is to popular Near Eastern mythology, not the actual existence of such gods (48:2; 74:13 and notes).

■ 95:5 The sea . . . the dry land. As in v. 4, complementary terms are used to indicate the whole earth.

■ 95:6 our Maker. We worship our Creator.

■ 95:7 Today. This is an ever-present day.

■ 95:8 rebellion . . . trial. These place-names may be translated "quarreling" and "testing." They sum up Israel's attitude toward God during the forty years of wandering in the wilderness. For the history see Ex. 17:1–7 and notes; Num. 20:1–13.

■ 95:11 They shall not enter My rest. Those who rebelled against the Lord in the wilderness never entered the Promised Land. Heb. 3:7—4:7 cites this passage and applies it to the Christian's life. Professing Christians must heed God's Word, or they will not enter God's eternal rest.

■ Ps. 96 The psalmist calls on all nations to proclaim God as their King. The psalm contrasts God with the lifeless idols of the nations (vv. 4–6). The theme of God's universal kingship is similar to that seen in Ps. 47; 93; 97; 99, and particularly Ps. 98. 1 Chr. 16:8–36 records the thanksgiving song of David when he brought the ark to Jerusalem, a song composed from Ps. 96 and 105. See especially 1 Chr. 16:23–33 for Ps. 96.

■ 96:1 a new song. See note on Ps. 33:3.

all the earth. Since God is King of the whole earth, and not merely of Israel, the writer calls on all His subjects to praise Him. It is not until Christ returns that substantial numbers from the nations join in the universal chorus of praise.

■ 96:3 His wonders. God's acts in history provide marvelous events for which to praise Him, e.g., He "made the heavens" (v. 5).

4 For [b]the LORD is great and [c]greatly to be praised;
[d]He is to be feared above all gods.
5 For [e]all the gods of the peoples are idols,
[f]But the LORD made the heavens.
6 Honor and majesty are before Him;
Strength and [g]beauty are in His sanctuary.

7 [h]Give[2] to the LORD, O families of the peoples,
Give to the LORD glory and strength.
8 [3]Give to the LORD the glory due His name;
Bring an offering, and come into His courts.
9 Oh, worship the LORD [i]in the beauty of holiness!
Tremble before Him, all the earth.

10 Say among the [4]nations, [j]"The LORD reigns;
The world also is firmly established,
It shall not be [5]moved;
[k]He shall judge the peoples righteously."

11 [l]Let the heavens rejoice, and let the earth be glad;
[m]Let the sea roar, and [6]all its fullness;
12 Let the field be joyful, and all that is in it.
Then all the trees of the woods will rejoice before the LORD.
13 For He is coming, for He is coming to judge the earth.
[n]He shall judge the world with righteousness,
And the peoples with His truth.

PSALM 97

A Song of Praise to the Sovereign LORD

The LORD [a]reigns;
Let the earth rejoice;
Let the multitude of [1]isles be glad!

2 [b]Clouds and darkness surround Him;
[c]Righteousness and justice are the foundation of His throne.
3 [d]A fire goes before Him,
And burns up His enemies round about.
4 [e]His lightnings light the world;
The earth sees and trembles.
5 [f]The mountains melt like wax at the presence of the LORD,
At the presence of the Lord of the whole earth.
6 [g]The heavens declare His righteousness,
And all the peoples see His glory.

7 [h]Let all be put to shame who serve carved images,
Who boast of idols.
[i]Worship Him, all you gods.

■ 96:8 an offering. See Lev. 2. The word is also used for the tribute due a king (2 Kin. 17:4).

■ 96:10 The LORD reigns. The psalmist proclaims God's kingship among the nations.

It shall not be moved. God created the world, and He will hold the forces of chaos in check.

■ 97:1 The LORD reigns. For God as King, see note on Ps. 93:1.

the earth. The psalm calls on all the earth to praise God. This call to the nations has taken on a whole new meaning after the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ.

■ 97:2, 3 Clouds and darkness . . . fire. See Ps. 18 and 29. The visible revelation of God (i.e., in theophany) was sometimes in the context of a storm-like event. Such a manifestation helped God's people to appreciate His awesome power.

■ 97:5 mountains. See note on Ps. 46:2, 3.

PSALM 99

Praise to the LORD for His Holiness

The LORD reigns;
Let the peoples tremble!

■ Ps. 98 A royal psalm, like Ps. 47; 93; 95; 96; 97; 99. The theme of deliverance is divided into past (vv. 1–3), present (vv. 4–6), and future (vv. 7–9).

■ 98:1 a new song. See "Music in the Church" at Col. 3:16.

marvelous things. This phrase translated "marvelous works" in Ps. 9:1 (see note there).

gained . . . victory. In its Old Testament context the reference is to a military victory. It is appropriate today to apply the verse to a spiritual victory, since it is a great victory by God over "the rulers of the darkness of this age" (Eph. 6:12).

■ 98:3 has remembered. More than mere memory, God's remembrance includes His favorable action.

■ 98:4 Shout joyfully. This section demonstrates the enthusiastic worship of a people who have deep love for God. Their worship is active and noisy.

■ 98:7 the sea. Nature is here personified as praising the Lord. He is Creator of all, animate and inanimate (Ps. 95:5).

■ 98:8 the rivers . . . the hills. See note on v. 7 and on Ps. 46:2, 3.

■ 98:9 judge . . . with equity. See note on Ps. 96:10.

■ Ps. 99 A royal psalm (Ps. 93 note). The psalm may be divided into three uneven stanzas based on a refrain that is repeated three times with some variation (vv. 3, 5, 9).

■ 99:1 The LORD reigns. See notes on Ps. 5:2 and 93:1.

between the cherubim. Cherubim are spiritual beings who dwell in heaven with God. They are guardians of God's holiness, as witnessed by their role in protecting the post-Fall garden (Gen. 3:24). Cherubim were [a]He dwells between the cherubim;

Let the earth be [1]moved!
2 The LORD is great in Zion,
And He is high above all the peoples.
3 Let them praise Your great and awesome name—
[2]He is holy.

4 The King's strength also loves justice;
You have established equity;
You have executed justice and righteousness in Jacob.
5 Exalt the LORD our God,
And worship at His footstool—
He is holy.

6 Moses and Aaron were among His priests,
And Samuel was among those who [b]called upon His name;
They called upon the LORD, and He answered them.
7 He spoke to them in the cloudy pillar;
They kept His testimonies and the [3]ordinance He gave them.

8 You answered them, O LORD our God;
You were to them God-Who-Forgives,
Though You took vengeance on their deeds.
9 Exalt the LORD our God,
And worship at His holy hill;
For the LORD our God is holy.

PSALM 100

A Song of Praise for the LORD's Faithfulness to His People

[a]A Psalm of Thanksgiving.

Make [b]a joyful shout to the LORD, [1]all you lands!
2 Serve the LORD with gladness;
Come before His presence with singing.
3 Know that the LORD, He is God;
[c]It is He who has made us, and [2]not we ourselves;
[d]We are His people and the sheep of His pasture.

4 [e]Enter into His gates with thanksgiving,
And into His courts with praise.
Be thankful to Him, and bless His name.

symbolically represented in the tabernacle, both in the innermost curtain (Ex. 36:35), and in the Most Holy Place (Ex. 37:1–9). The psalm refers to the cherubim of God's throne with their outstretched wings above the ark of the covenant.

the earth be moved. At God's special self-revelations (theophanies) reverberations, like those of a natural earthquake were sometimes felt throughout the earth. See "The Greatness of God" at 1 Chr. 29:11.

■ 99:2 in Zion. The location of the temple. See note on Ps. 3:4.

■ 99:3 name. See note on Ps. 8:1.

He is holy. This is the refrain of the song (vv. 5, 9); God is set apart from all His creatures. This is evident from His uncreated nature, His power, and His moral perfection.

■ 99:4 executed justice. See note on Ps. 96:10.

■ 99:6 Moses . . . Aaron . . . Samuel. Three of the most prominent leaders of Israel in the period before the monarchy. All three served as mediators between God and His people.

called upon His name. The emphasis in this section of the psalm is that God speaks to His people when they turn to Him for help in prayer.

■ 99:7 the cloudy pillar. See Ex. 13:21, 22; 40:34–38.

■ 99:8 You took vengeance on their deeds. For their own good, and to preserve His holiness, God may punish His people for the sins they commit. Israel knew this because God gave foreign enemies power over them when they persisted in unbelief. This reflects God's corrective punishment.

■ 99:9 God is holy. See note on v. 3.

■ Ps. 100 See 95:1 note.

■ 100:1 all you lands. As in the royal psalms preceding, the call goes out beyond the chosen people to all the peoples of the earth. God is their King too, whether they are aware of it or not.

■ 100:2 with gladness. God is not a despotic king who forces his people to serve him. Loving service is grateful response to the grace of God.

■ 100:3 the sheep of His pasture. See Ps. 23:1 for note on royal overtones of the portrayal of God as a shepherd.

■ 100:4 His gates . . . His courts. Those of the temple. This psalm may have been sung during a festive entry into the temple precincts.

5 For the LORD is good;
[f]His mercy is everlasting,
And His truth endures to all generations.

PSALM 101

Promised Faithfulness to the LORD

A Psalm of David.

I will sing of mercy and justice;
To You, O LORD, I will sing praises.
2 I will behave wisely in a [1]perfect way.
Oh, when will You come to me?
I will [a]walk within my house with a perfect heart.
3 I will set nothing [2]wicked before my eyes;
[b]I hate the work of those [c]who fall away;
It shall not cling to me.
4 A perverse heart shall depart from me;
I will not [d]know wickedness.
5 Whoever secretly slanders his neighbor,
Him I will destroy;
[e]The one who has a haughty look and a proud heart,
Him I will not endure.
6 My eyes shall be on the faithful of the land,
That they may dwell with me;
He who walks in a [3]perfect way,
He shall serve me.
7 He who works deceit shall not dwell within my house;
He who tells lies shall not [4]continue in my presence.
8 [f]Early I will destroy all the wicked of the land,
That I may cut off all the evildoers [g]from the city of the LORD.

PSALM 102

The LORD's Eternal Love

A Prayer of the afflicted, [a]when he is overwhelmed and pours out his complaint before the LORD.

Hear my prayer, O LORD,
And let my cry come to You.
2 [b]Do not hide Your face from me in the day of my trouble;
Incline Your ear to me;
In the day that I call, answer me speedily.

PSALM 102

title [a]Ps. 61:2
2 [b]Ps. 27:9; 69:17

■ 100:5 His mercy. God's lovingkindness to people who are in covenant with Him.

■ Ps. 101 In this psalm the king promises to live a life of obedience, pursuing holiness in his own life and seeking to root out evil from his kingdom. David could not live up to his own ideals. He failed time after time, though he lived a life of repentance. Many believe that Psalm 101 was written by David and later used as a coronation psalm, beginning with Solomon. If so, high ideals at the beginning of his reign degenerated into disobedience and, in the case of Solomon, open apostasy. Christ alone could offer perfect obedience in the flesh.

■ 101:1 justice. The reference is to God's judgments. The psalmist praises the Lord for them because they are consistent and righteous, not arbitrary.

■ 101:2 a perfect way. As defined by the law of God. See Mic. 6:8 for the classic description.

■ 101:3 I hate. The psalmist strongly repudiates wicked deeds. He will not tolerate them in his presence. In this he seeks to emulate God, who will not tolerate an unrepentant sinner in His presence.

■ 101:5 I will destroy . . . I will not endure. The psalmist will actively oppose unrighteousness in his area of authority.

haughty look . . . proud heart. The heart is the foundation of a person's being and character. The "look" refers to demeanor. See Ps. 131:1.

■ 102:title The title is unusual in that it gives, not a specific historical occasion, but the situation (affliction) in which the psalm finds appropriate use.

■ 102:2 hide Your face. The psalmist wonders at the withdrawal of God's friendship. He knows it is a sign of God's wrath, since He promised to "be with" His obedient covenant people.

3 For my days [1] are [c] consumed like smoke,
And my bones are burned like a hearth.
4 My heart is stricken and withered like grass,
So that I forget to eat my bread.
5 Because of the sound of my groaning
My bones cling to my [2] skin.
6 I am like a pelican of the wilderness;
I am like an owl of the desert.
7 I lie awake,
And am like a sparrow alone on the housetop.

8 My enemies reproach me all day long;
Those who deride me swear an oath against me.
9 For I have eaten ashes like bread,
And mingled my drink with weeping,
10 Because of Your indignation and Your wrath;
For You have lifted me up and cast me away.
11 My days are like a shadow that lengthens,
And I wither away like grass.

12 But You, O LORD, shall endure forever,
And the remembrance of Your name to all generations.
13 You will arise and have mercy on Zion;
For the time to favor her,
Yes, the set time, has come.
14 For Your servants take pleasure in her stones,
And show favor to her dust.
15 So the [3] nations shall [d] fear the name of the LORD,
And all the kings of the earth Your glory.
16 For the LORD shall build up Zion;
[e] He shall appear in His glory.
17 [f] He shall regard the prayer of the destitute,
And shall not despise their prayer.

18 This will be [g] written for the generation to come,
That [h] a people yet to be created may praise the LORD.
19 For He [i] looked down from the height of His sanctuary;
From heaven the LORD viewed the earth,
20 [j] To hear the groaning of the prisoner,
To release those appointed to death,
21 To [k] declare the name of the LORD in Zion,
And His praise in Jerusalem,
22 [l] When the peoples are gathered together,
And the kingdoms, to serve the LORD.

23 He weakened my strength in the way;
He [m] shortened my days.

■ 102:3 like a hearth. Points to the pain and suffering of life or more specifically to a raging fever.

■ 102:5 bones cling to my skin. His suffering is not only spiritual and psychological, but physical as well.

■ 102:6 like an owl of the desert. He is silent in his affliction, and without friends or supporters.

■ 102:8 My enemies. As is typical in a lament, unnamed but real enemies are a source of distress to the psalmist. Because the enemies are unnamed, the psalm has timeless application to all generations.

■ 102:10 Your wrath. The psalmist knows the ultimate cause of his suffering: God's anger. He never disputes the justice of that anger, but he turns to God for relief.

■ 102:12 forever. Over against the fragility of the psalmist's life stands the constancy and eternity of the Lord.

■ 102:13 arise. See notes on Ps. 3:7 and 7:6.

on Zion. See Ps. 2:6; 3:3. The references to the destruction of Zion have led many commentators to place the psalm just after the Babylonian captivity.

■ 102:15 the nations shall fear. As Jerusalem rises up from destruction, all who see it will praise the Lord.

■ 102:20 To hear . . . To release. Though God is above heaven, He enters the world to help the afflicted (9:18; 72:4 and notes).

■ 102:23 shortened my days. Through the sickness that now threatens the psalmist's life.

24 [n]I said, "O my God,
Do not take me away in the midst of my days;
[o]Your years are throughout all generations.
25 [p]Of old You laid the foundation of the earth,
And the heavens are the work of Your hands.
26 [q]They will perish, but You will [4]endure;
Yes, they will all grow old like a garment;
Like a cloak You will change them,
And they will be changed.
27 But [r]You are the same,
And Your years will have no end.
28 [s]The children of Your servants will continue,
And their descendants will be established before You."

PSALM 103

Praise for the LORD's Mercies

A Psalm of David.

Bless [a]the LORD, O my soul;
And all that is within me, bless His holy name!
2 Bless the LORD, O my soul,
And forget not all His benefits:
3 [b]Who forgives all your iniquities,
Who [c]heals all your diseases,
4 Who redeems your life from destruction,
[d]Who crowns you with lovingkindness and tender mercies,
5 Who satisfies your mouth with good things,
So that [e]your youth is renewed like the eagle's.

6 The LORD executes righteousness
And justice for all who are oppressed.
7 [f]He made known His ways to Moses,
His acts to the children of Israel.
8 [g]The LORD is merciful and gracious,
Slow to anger, and abounding in mercy.
9 [h]He will not always strive with us,
Nor will He keep His anger forever.
10 [i]He has not dealt with us according to our sins,
Nor punished us according to our iniquities.

11 For as the heavens are high above the earth,
So great is His mercy toward those who fear Him;
12 As far as the east is from the west,
So far has He [j]removed our transgressions from us.

■ 102:25 Of old. God existed before His work of creation. The author of Hebrews applies vv. 25–27 to Christ (Heb. 1:10–12). There the argument is that however great the angels are considered, they are created, and not eternal. But Christ, the Second Person of the Trinity, exists through all eternity.

■ 102:27 You are the same. See "The Self-existence of God" at 90:2.

■ 102:28 The children of Your servants. The poet's hope is with the future generations. Though he suffers now in the present, he sees a brighter future.

■ 103:1 O my soul. The psalmist carries on a public dialogue with himself. He encourages himself to praise, and so encourages others who see his example.

■ 103:3 forgives all your iniquities. The primary benefit of grace is the forgiveness of sins (Acts 13:38). God is compassionate toward His repentant people.

■ 103:4 from destruction. That is, from death.

lovingkindness. See 92:2 note.

■ 103:5 with good things. God provides everything that is constructive and wholesome for His people.

■ 103:6 for all who are oppressed. See 102:2 note.

■ 103:7 to Moses. By referring to Moses, the psalmist calls to mind all of God's blessings associated with the Exodus, the wilderness wanderings, and even the conquest of the Promised Land.

■ 103:12 As far as the east is from the west. When God forgives sins, He completely removes them. The height and breadth of His mercy are vast.

13 [k]As a father pities his children,
So the LORD pities those who fear Him.
14 For He [l]knows our frame;
He remembers that we are dust.

15 As for man, [l]his days are like grass;
As a flower of the field, so he flourishes.
16 [m]For the wind passes over it, and it is [2]gone,
And [n]its place remembers it no more.
17 But the mercy of the LORD is from everlasting to everlasting
On those who fear Him,
And His righteousness to children's children,
18 [o]To such as keep His covenant,
And to those who remember His commandments to do them.

19 The LORD has established His throne in heaven,
And [p]His kingdom rules over all.

PSALM 104

Praise to the Sovereign LORD for His Creation and Providence

Bless [a]the LORD, O my soul!

O LORD my God, You are very great:
You are clothed with honor and majesty,
2 Who cover Yourself with light as with a garment,
Who stretch out the heavens like a curtain.

3 [b]He lays the beams of His upper chambers in the waters,
Who makes the clouds His chariot,
Who walks on the wings of the wind,
4 Who makes His angels spirits,
His [l]ministers a flame of fire.

PSALM 104
1 [a]Ps. 103:1
3 [b][Amos 9:6]
4 [l]servants

■ 103:13 As a father. The comparison of God to a compassionate and loving father is developed in Rom. 8:12–17. See Ex. 4:22, 23; Hos. 11:1, 8, 9.

■ 103:14 For He knows. God knows us better than we know ourselves.

we are dust. According to Gen. 2:7, God formed Adam from the dust of the ground. The consequence of sin is that humans die as surely as the animals (Eccl. 3:19). Yet God has mercy on us. See "Body and Soul, Male and Female" at Gen. 2:7.

■ 103:17 mercy . . . On those who fear Him. There is a reciprocal relationship between divine initiative and human response. God first loves us, then we love Him in return as shown in the faithful obedience of our lives (Rom. 5:8; 1 John 4:10).

■ 103:18 such as keep His covenant. The obedience of those who keep God's covenant shows the reality of His mercy. They walk in devoted fellowship with the Lord who loved them in His covenant of grace.

■ 103:19 rules over all. See "Providence" at Prov. 16:33.

■ 103:21 His hosts. A reference to the divine army. It would include the angels, the cherubim, and other heavenly creatures. See "Angels" at Zech. 1:9.

■ Ps. 104 God's great act of creation is emphasized, reflecting the teaching and vocabulary of Gen. 1. Parallels may be observed between this song and an Egyptian hymn of Amenhotep IV (Akhenaton) to the sun. But the psalm affirms that the Creator alone, and not any aspect of creation, such as the sun, should be worshiped.

■ 104:1 O my soul. See comment on Ps. 103:1.

You are clothed. This section develops the metaphor of the creation as God's garment. This emphasizes the distinction between the Creator and the creation and implicitly disparages worship of any aspect of the creation, however glorious it may seem (Rom. 1:22).

■ 104:2 with light. A reference to the first day of creation (Gen. 1:3).

the heavens. The second day of creation (Gen. 1:6–8).

■ 104:3 the wings of the wind. See 18:9 and note.

■ 104:4 a flame of fire. God's heavenly servants have an awesome appearance. How much more powerful must God, their Creator, be. This

5 You who [2]laid the foundations of the earth,
So that it should not be moved forever,
6 You [c]covered it with the deep as with a garment;
The waters stood above the mountains.
7 At Your rebuke they fled;
At the voice of Your thunder they hastened away.
8 [3]They went up over the mountains;
They went down into the valleys,
To the place which You founded for them.
9 You have [d]set a boundary that they may not pass over,
[e]That they may not return to cover the earth.

10 He sends the springs into the valleys;
They flow among the hills.
11 They give drink to every beast of the field;
The wild donkeys quench their thirst.
12 By them the birds of the heavens have their home;
They sing among the branches.
13 [f]He waters the hills from His upper chambers;
The earth is satisfied with [g]the fruit of Your works.

14 [h]He causes the grass to grow for the cattle,
And vegetation for the service of man,
That he may bring forth [i]food from the earth,
15 And [j]wine that makes glad the heart of man,
Oil to make his face shine,
And bread which strengthens man's heart.
16 The trees of the LORD are full of sap,
The cedars of Lebanon which He planted,
17 Where the birds make their nests;
The stork has her home in the fir trees.
18 The high hills are for the wild goats;
The cliffs are a refuge for the [k]rock[4] badgers.

19 [l]He appointed the moon for seasons;
The [m]sun knows its going down.
20 [n]You make darkness, and it is night,
In which all the beasts of the forest creep about.
21 [o]The young lions roar after their prey,
And seek their food from God.
22 When the sun rises, they gather together
And lie down in their dens.
23 Man goes out to [p]his work
And to his labor until the evening.

24 [q]O LORD, how manifold are Your works!
In wisdom You have made them all.

verse may be a polemic against Baal worship, since Canaanite mythological texts describe the servants of their god as flames of fire.

■ 104:5 should not be moved. The world is stable and ordered, not chaotic. God's control of the world is comforting to those who recognize it. See "God the Creator" at 148:5.

■ 104:6 The waters. God created the waters and ordered them in rivers, lakes, and oceans. In the religions of the surrounding nations, the sea is a symbol of chaos and disorder. Their pantheistic theology deifies the sea and sets it against the gods of order. The Bible uses this imagery, but disallows the polytheistic theology (Ps. 18:4; 46:2, 3; 74:13–15; Nah. 1).

■ 104:9 may not return. A reference to the promise God made to Noah after the Flood (Gen. 9:11).

■ 104:14 He causes the grass to grow. A reflection of the third day of creation (Gen. 1:9–13).

■ 104:15 wine that makes glad the heart. God's kindness is exhibited in His provisions for daily life (Acts 14:17; 1 Tim. 4:3, 4).

■ 104:19 the moon . . . The sun. See Gen. 1:14–19—the fourth day of creation.

■ 104:21 from God. What appears to be purely natural—lions seeking their prey—is an act of providence.

■ 104:23 Man goes out. God has given His creation a wonderfully ordered rhythm.

■ 104:24 In wisdom. See notes on Prov. 8:22–31. The divine answer

26 There the ships sail about;
There is that [s]Leviathan[5]
Which You have [6]made to play there.

27 [t]These all wait for You,
That You may give them their food in due season.
28 What You give them they gather in;
You open Your hand, they are filled with good.
29 You hide Your face, they are troubled;
[u]You take away their breath, they die and return to their dust.
30 [v]You send forth Your Spirit, they are created;
And You renew the face of the earth.

31 May the glory of the LORD endure forever;
May the LORD [w]rejoice in His works.
32 He looks on the earth, and it [x]trembles;
[y]He touches the hills, and they smoke.

33 [z]I will sing to the LORD as long as I live;
I will sing praise to my God while I have my being.
34 May my [a]meditation be sweet to Him;
I will be glad in the LORD.
35 May [b]sinners be consumed from the earth,
And the wicked be no more.

Bless the LORD, O my soul!
[7]Praise the LORD!

PSALM 105

The Eternal Faithfulness of the LORD

Oh, [a]give thanks to the LORD!
Call upon His name;
[b]Make known His deeds among the peoples!
2 Sing to Him, sing psalms to Him;
[c]Talk of all His wondrous works!
3 Glory in His holy name;
Let the hearts of those rejoice who seek the LORD!
4 Seek the LORD and His strength;
[d]Seek His face evermore!

PSALM 105
1 [a]1 Chr. 16:8–22, 34; Ps. 106:1; Is. 12:4 [b]Ps. 145:12
2 [c]Ps. 119:27
4 [d]Ps. 27:8

to Job (Job 38—41) contains many examples of God's wisdom in creation. See "The Wisdom and Will of God" at Dan. 2:20.

■ 104:25 sea . . . innumerable teeming things. The fifth day of creation (Gen. 1:20–23).

■ 104:26 the ships . . . Leviathan. The psalmist's imagination is caught up with God's mysterious sea. On its surface ships glide to and fro from distant ports, while underneath lurks the monster Leviathan, here, a poetic symbol of God's creative power (Job 41).

■ 104:29 hide Your face. God is omnipresent: He is everywhere (Ps. 139). However, in His anger God withdraws covenant blessings and this is experienced as divine absence.

■ 104:30 Your Spirit. This alludes to Gen. 2:4–8, the creation of man on the sixth day.

■ 104:32 the hills . . . smoke. Hills are the symbol of stability and firmness (Ps. 46:2, 3), but God's mere touch sets them aflame.

■ 104:35 May sinners be consumed from the earth. The psalmist would like to see the removal of everything that opposes the godly order he has so eloquently described.

■ Ps. 105 While Ps. 104 praises God's acts in creating the world, this song meditates on His acts in the world's continuing history. The first fifteen verses are quoted (along with Ps. 96 and part of 106) in 1 Chr. 16, perhaps indicating use of the psalm in worship.

■ 105:1 among the peoples. Israel cannot hide its light "under a basket" (Matt. 5:15). True people of God gladly bear witness to God's grace throughout the world.

■ 105:2 His wondrous works. Those acts of grace and judgment that God performs in history. God enters history and acts graciously on behalf of His people, remarkably so in the life, death, resurrection and ascension of His only begotten Son.

■ 105:4 Seek His face. Seek to live in His presence. The psalmist often testifies of the horror associated with the withdrawal of God's friendship (Ps. 22:1; 28:1).

5 [e]Remember His marvelous works which He has done,
His wonders, and the judgments of His mouth,
6 O seed of Abraham His servant,
You children of Jacob, His chosen ones!

7 He is the LORD our God;
[f]His judgments are in all the earth.
8 He [g]remembers His covenant forever,
The word which He commanded, for a thousand generations,
9 [h]The covenant which He made with Abraham,
And His oath to Isaac,
10 And confirmed it to Jacob for a statute,
To Israel as an everlasting covenant,
11 Saying, [i]"To you I will give the land of Canaan
As the allotment of your inheritance,"
12 [j]When they were few in number,
Indeed very few, [k]and strangers in it.

13 When they went from one nation to another,
From one kingdom to another people,
14 [l]He permitted no one to do them wrong;
Yes, [m]He rebuked kings for their sakes,
15 Saying, "Do not touch My anointed ones,
And do My prophets no harm."

16 Moreover [n]He called for a famine in the land;
He destroyed all the [o]provision of bread.
17 [p]He sent a man before them—
Joseph—who [q]was sold as a slave.
18 [r]They hurt his feet with fetters,
[t]He was laid in irons.
19 Until the time that his word came to pass,
[s]The word of the LORD tested him.
20 [t]The king sent and released him,
The ruler of the people let him go free.
21 [u]He made him lord of his house,
And ruler of all his possessions,
22 To [z]bind his princes at his pleasure,
And teach his elders wisdom.

23 [v]Israel also came into Egypt,
And Jacob dwelt [w]in the land of Ham.
24 [x]He increased His people greatly,
And made them stronger than their enemies.
25 [y]He turned their heart to hate His people,
To deal craftily with His servants.

■ 105:5 Remember. "Remembering" God's works is more than recalling what they were; it means reacting with faith and obedience to what they mean.

■ 105:8 He remembers. Once again (as in v. 5) remembrance involves doing as well as knowing. In this case, God acts in the present based on the promises given to Abraham.

His covenant. The specific covenant here is the Abrahamic covenant (Gen. 12:1–3; 15; 17).

■ 105:9, 10 to Isaac . . . to Jacob. God reaffirmed His covenant relationship with the descendants of Abraham. See Gen. 26:3.

■ 105:11 I will give the land of Canaan. See Gen. 15:17–20.

■ 105:12 strangers. Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob lived in the Promised Land as resident aliens. They wandered from place to place in Canaan.

■ 105:14 He rebuked kings. See Gen. 12:10–20; 26.

■ 105:15 My prophets. Abraham is referred to as a prophet in Gen. 20:7.

■ 105:16–22 God promoted Joseph to a position of power in Egypt.

■ 105:16 He called for a famine. God directed the events in Egypt so that when famine threatened that country Joseph was in power and able "to save many people alive" (Gen. 50:20).

■ 105:23 Israel also came into Egypt. See Gen. 46.

the land of Ham. Another name for Egypt.

26 [z]He sent Moses His servant,
And Aaron whom He had chosen.
27 They [a]performed His signs among them,
And wonders in the land of Ham.
28 He sent darkness, and made it dark;
And they did not rebel against His word.
29 [b]He turned their waters into blood,
And killed their fish.
30 [c]Their land abounded with frogs,
Even in the chambers of their kings.
31 [d]He spoke, and there came swarms of flies,
And lice in all their territory.
32 [e]He gave them hail for rain,
And flaming fire in their land.
33 [f]He struck their vines also, and their fig trees,
And splintered the trees of their territory.
34 [g]He spoke, and locusts came,
Young locusts without number,
35 And ate up all the vegetation in their land,
And devoured the fruit of their ground.
36 [h]He also [3]destroyed all the firstborn in their land,
[i]The first of all their strength.

37 [j]He also brought them out with silver and gold,
And there was none feeble among His tribes.
38 [k]Egypt was glad when they departed,
For the fear of them had fallen upon them.
39 [l]He spread a cloud for a covering,
And fire to give light in the night.
40 [m]The people asked, and He brought quail,
And [n]satisfied them with the bread of heaven.
41 [o]He opened the rock, and water gushed out;
It ran in the dry places like a river.

42 For He remembered [p]His holy promise,
And Abraham His servant.
43 He brought out His people with joy,
His chosen ones with [4]gladness.
44 [q]He gave them the lands of the [5]Gentiles,
And they inherited the labor of the nations,
45 [r]That they might observe His statutes
And keep His laws.

■ 105:28 He sent darkness. The psalmist emphasizes the ninth plague by naming it first.

■ 105:31 flies, And lice. These are the third and fourth plagues in reverse order of their actual occurrence in Egypt.

■ 105:32 hail. The fifth and sixth plagues are unmentioned by the psalmist. The plague of hail was the seventh.

■ 105:36 the firstborn. The tenth and final plague, after which Egypt allowed Israel to leave Goshen.

■ 105:37 with silver and gold. God's great mercy and generosity may be seen here. As a slave nation in Egypt, Israel had little to call their own. Through the plagues, however, God struck fear into the hearts of the Egyptians so that they not only let Israel go, but were willing to hand over their valuables to encourage Israel's exodus (Ex. 12:33–36).

■ 105:40 the bread of heaven. The manna. God's providential mercy went beyond bringing them out of Egypt—He provided for them in the wilderness by giving them food and drink.

■ 105:42 His holy promise. The Abrahamic covenant included the promise that God would make Israel "a great nation" (Gen. 12:2).

■ 105:45 observe His statutes. The covenant relationship between God and His people is established and maintained by God alone as His work of grace. His people (indeed, all humanity) are responsible to reciprocate, not merely in the formal observance of particular commands, but appropriately with all of their being (Mark 12:29–34; cf. 10:20–22).

PSALM 106

Joy in Forgiveness of Israel's Sins

Praise[1] the LORD!

[a]Oh, give thanks to the LORD, for He is good!
For His mercy endures forever.

2 Who can [2]utter the mighty acts of the LORD?
Who can declare all His praise?
3 Blessed are those who keep justice,
And [3]he who [b]does righteousness at [c]all times!

4 [d]Remember me, O LORD, with the favor You have toward Your people.
Oh, visit me with Your salvation,
5 That I may see the benefit of Your chosen ones,
That I may rejoice in the gladness of Your nation,
That I may glory with [4]Your inheritance.

6 [e]We have sinned with our fathers,
We have committed iniquity,
We have done wickedly.
7 Our fathers in Egypt did not understand Your wonders;
They did not remember the multitude of Your mercies,
[f]But rebelled by the sea—the Red Sea.

8 Nevertheless He saved them for His name's sake,
[g]That He might make His mighty power known.
9 [h]He rebuked the Red Sea also, and it dried up;
So [i]He led them through the depths,
As through the wilderness.
10 He [j]saved them from the hand of him who hated them,
And redeemed them from the hand of the enemy.
11 [k]The waters covered their enemies;
There was not one of them left.
12 [l]Then they believed His words;
They sang His praise.

13 [m]They soon forgot His works;
They did not wait for His counsel,
14 [n]But lusted exceedingly in the wilderness,
And tested God in the desert.
15 [o]And He gave them their request,
But [p]sent leanness into their soul.

16 When [q]they envied Moses in the camp,
And Aaron the saint of the LORD,

■ Ps. 106 While Ps. 105 is mainly concerned with God's redemptive acts, this psalm focuses on human sin.

■ 106:1 Praise the LORD. In Hebrew, Halluyah, "You (plural) praise Yah."

for He is good. Though the writer is concerned about Israel's suffering, he knows that its source is in Israel's sin and not in God's character.

■ 106:4 me. The psalmist has no doubt that God will come to aid His chosen people, but he does not assume that he will personally enjoy God's blessing. He turns to God in prayer for this.

■ 106:6 We have sinned. This verse is an introductory statement that gives the theme for the body of the psalm down through v. 39. Israel has deliberately and constantly rebelled against the Lord.

■ 106:7 rebelled by the sea. The poet stands amazed at the stubbornness of his people. He remembers that a previous generation had doubted God's power—even though they had just witnessed the ten plagues—when they were caught between the Egyptian army and the Red Sea (Ex. 14).

■ 106:9 He rebuked the Red Sea. By personifying the Red Sea, the psalmist makes it a part of God's defeat of the powers of chaos.

He led them through. In spite of their sin, God saved them. God's persevering love in the face of rejection is a major theme here, and indeed throughout the Bible.

■ 106:13 They soon forgot. The people's faith and thanks were short-lived. As remembrance (Ps. 105:5 note) includes obedience, so forgetting leads to disobedience.

17 [r]The earth opened up and swallowed Dathan,
And covered the faction of Abiram.
18 [s]A fire was kindled in their company;
The flame burned up the wicked.

19 [t]They made a calf in Horeb,
And worshiped the molded image.
20 Thus [u]they changed their glory
Into the image of an ox that eats grass.
21 They forgot God their Savior,
Who had done great things in Egypt,
22 Wondrous works in the land of Ham,
Awesome things by the Red Sea.
23 [v]Therefore He said that He would destroy them,
Had not Moses His chosen one [w]stood before Him in the breach,
To turn away His wrath, lest He destroy them.

24 Then they despised [x]the pleasant land;
They [y]did not believe His word,
25 [z]But complained in their tents,
And did not heed the voice of the LORD.
26 [a]Therefore He raised His hand in an oath against them,
[b]To [5]overthrow them in the wilderness,
27 [c]To [6]overthrow their descendants among the [7]nations,
And to scatter them in the lands.

28 [d]They joined themselves also to Baal of Peor,
And ate sacrifices [8]made to the dead.
29 Thus they provoked Him to anger with their deeds,
And the plague broke out among them.
30 [e]Then Phinehas stood up and intervened,
And the plague was stopped.
31 And that was accounted to him [f]for righteousness
To all generations forevermore.

32 [g]They angered Him also at the waters of [9]strife,
[h]So that it went ill with Moses on account of them;
33 [i]Because they rebelled against His Spirit,
So that he spoke rashly with his lips.

34 [j]They did not destroy the peoples,
[k]Concerning whom the LORD had commanded them,

34 [j]Judg. 1:21 [k][Deut. 7:2, 16]; Judg. 2:2

■ 106:17 Dathan . . . Abiram. See Num. 16.

■ 106:20 they changed their glory. They put a metal idol in the place of God and worshiped it. As Paul points out (Rom. 1:21–23), idolatry consists in worshiping any part or aspect of creation as God.

■ 106:22 Wondrous works in the land of Ham. Ham is another name for Egypt, and the works are preeminently the ten plagues.

■ 106:23 Moses . . . stood before Him in the breach. See Ex. 32:11–14. Moses interceded on behalf of the people and saved them from the wrath of God. In this, he foreshadowed the work of Jesus Christ, who not only prayed for His people but died to save them.

■ 106:24 they despised the pleasant land. They despised the Promised Land by not having faith that God could give it to them (Num. 13; 14).

■ 106:26 raised His hand. This gesture accompanies a formal oath, showing God's determination to judge the sons of Israel.

■ 106:28 joined themselves. The language is derogatory; worshiping a foreign idol is like becoming a beast of burden.

Baal of Peor. Baal was a god of the eastern Mediterranean region at the time Israel was entering the Promised Land. Baal took slightly different characteristics in each local worship site and so is often identified by the region.

sacrifices made to the dead. This could refer to funeral rituals of some sort. Canaanite funeral rituals involved heavy drinking, feasting, and obscene lust. The whole incident, initiated by Balaam, is reported in Num. 25.

■ 106:31 accounted to him for righteousness. When Israel took the fateful steps toward idolatry, Phinehas took a violent step to bring Israel back to the way of God. As a result, God made a covenant with his family to give them the priesthood. Similar language is used in connection with the covenant promises given to Abraham (Gen. 15:6) and inherited by the church (Rom. 4:3).

■ 106:32 waters of strife. Meribah, see Num. 20:1–13.

■ 106:33 they rebelled. By not trusting God to provide for their survival in the wilderness.

35 [l]But they mingled with the Gentiles
And learned their works;
36 [m]They served their idols,
[n]Which became a snare to them.
37 [o]They even sacrificed their sons
And their daughters to [p]demons,
38 And shed innocent blood,
The blood of their sons and daughters,
Whom they sacrificed to the idols of Canaan;
And [q]the land was polluted with blood.
39 Thus they [l]were [r]defiled by their own works,
And [s]played[2] the harlot by their own deeds.

40 Therefore [t]the wrath of the LORD was kindled against His people,
So that He abhorred [u]His own inheritance.
41 And [v]He gave them into the hand of the Gentiles,
And those who hated them ruled over them.
42 Their enemies also oppressed them,
And they were brought into subjection under their hand.
43 [w]Many times He delivered them;
But they rebelled in their counsel,
And were brought low for their iniquity.

44 Nevertheless He regarded their affliction,
When [x]He heard their cry;
45 [y]And for their sake He remembered His covenant,
And [z]relented [a]according to the multitude of His mercies.
46 [b]He also made them to be pitied
By all those who carried them away captive.

47 [c]Save us, O LORD our God,
And gather us from among the Gentiles,
To give thanks to Your holy name,
To triumph in Your praise.

48 [d]Blessed be the LORD God of Israel
From everlasting to everlasting!
And let all the people say, "Amen!"

PSALM 107

Thanksgiving to the LORD for His Great Works of Deliverance

Oh, [a]give thanks to the LORD, for He is good!
For His [1]mercy endures forever.
2 Let the redeemed of the LORD say so,
Whom He has redeemed from the hand of the enemy,
3 And [b]gathered out of the lands,

■ 106:37 to demons. The spiritual reality behind the lifeless idols is demonic, a world of hostility to the one God.

■ 106:39 they . . . played the harlot. Joining themselves to a false god is spiritual adultery.

■ 106:45 He remembered His covenant. God's promises express the commitment that causes Him to continue with His people even though they turned their backs on Him. On remembrance, see Ps. 105:5.

■ Ps. 107 This community thanksgiving accompanied the offering of sacrifices (v. 22). The date of its original composition is not certain.

■ 107:1 He is good. See vv. 1, 8, 15, 21, 31, 43.

His mercy. God's covenant devotion, by which He binds Himself to His people.

■ 107:3 gathered. The situation after the Babylonian exile seems to be in view here.

From the east and from the west,
From the north and from the south.

4 They wandered in [c]the wilderness in a desolate way;
They found no city to dwell in.
5 Hungry and thirsty,
Their soul fainted in them.
6 [d]Then they cried out to the LORD in their trouble,
And He delivered them out of their distresses.
7 And He led them forth by the [e]right way,
That they might go to a city for a dwelling place.
8 [f]Oh, that men would give thanks to the LORD for His goodness,
And for His wonderful works to the children of men!
9 For [g]He satisfies the longing soul,
And fills the hungry soul with goodness.

10 Those who [h]sat in darkness and in the shadow of death,
[i]Bound[2] in affliction and irons—
11 Because they [j]rebelled against the words of God,
And [3]despised [k]the counsel of the Most High,
12 Therefore He brought down their heart with labor;
They fell down, and there was [l]none to help.
13 Then they cried out to the LORD in their trouble,
And He saved them out of their distresses.
14 [m]He brought them out of darkness and the shadow of death,
And broke their chains in pieces.
15 Oh, that men would give thanks to the LORD for His goodness,
And for His wonderful works to the children of men!
16 For He has [n]broken the gates of bronze,
And cut the bars of iron in two.

17 Fools, [o]because of their transgression,
And because of their iniquities, were afflicted.
18 [p]Their soul abhorred all manner of food,
And they [q]drew near to the gates of death.
19 Then they cried out to the LORD in their trouble,
And He saved them out of their distresses.
20 [r]He sent His word and [s]healed them,
And [t]delivered them from their destructions.
21 Oh, that men would give thanks to the LORD for His goodness,
And for His wonderful works to the children of men!
22 [u]Let them sacrifice the sacrifices of thanksgiving,
And [v]declare His works with [4]rejoicing.

23 Those who go down to the sea in ships,
Who do business on great waters,
24 They see the works of the LORD,

22 [u]Lev. 7:12; Ps. 50:14; Heb. 13:15 [v]Ps. 9:11 [4]joyful singing

■ 107:4–9 God guides those wandering in the wilderness to a city.

■ 107:6 they cried out . . . He delivered them. This section is the first of four that illustrate God's readiness to answer the prayers of His people.

■ 107:10–16 God delivers His imprisoned people to freedom.

■ 107:12 He brought down their heart. God chastises His wayward people in order to elicit their repentance. See Heb. 12:1–13.

■ 107:13 they cried out to the LORD . . . He saved them. See v. 6.

■ 107:17–22 God saves foolish rebels when they call on Him.

■ 107:17 Fools. Not because they were without natural intelligence, but because they refused to face the reality that the Lord is God. "Foolishness" is an ethical-spiritual category, not an academic one.

■ 107:18 abhorred all manner of food. It seems that a physical malady, some kind of sickness, is in view here.

■ 107:20 His word. We learn as early as the creation account (Gen. 1:3) that God's word is powerful and effective.

■ 107:22 sacrifices of thanksgiving. This verse points to public worship in the temple.

■ 107:23–32 God rescues those in trouble on the seas.

■ 107:24 the works of the LORD. The mystery, power, and beauty of the sea, with everything that lives in it, testifies eloquently to God's wisdom (Gen. 1:9, 10, 21).

And His wonders in the deep.
25 For He commands and [w]raises the stormy wind,
Which lifts up the waves of the sea.
26 They mount up to the heavens,
They go down again to the depths;
[x]Their soul melts because of trouble.
27 They reel to and fro, and stagger like a drunken man,
And [5]are at their wits' end.
28 Then they cry out to the LORD in their trouble,
And He brings them out of their distresses.
29 [y]He calms the storm,
So that its waves are still.
30 Then they are glad because they are quiet;
So He guides them to their desired haven.
31 [z]Oh, that men would give thanks to the LORD for His goodness,
And for His wonderful works to the children of men!
32 Let them exalt Him also [a]in the assembly of the people,
And praise Him in the company of the elders.

33 He [b]turns rivers into a wilderness,
And the watersprings into dry ground;
34 A [c]fruitful land into [6]barrenness,
For the wickedness of those who dwell in it.
35 [d]He turns a wilderness into pools of water,
And dry land into watersprings.
36 There He makes the hungry dwell,
That they may establish a city for a dwelling place,
37 And sow fields and plant vineyards,
That they may yield a fruitful harvest.
38 [e]He also blesses them, and they multiply greatly;
And He does not let their cattle [f]decrease.

39 When they are [g]diminished and brought low
Through oppression, affliction and sorrow,
40 [h]He pours contempt on princes,
And causes them to wander in the wilderness where there is no way;
41 [i]Yet He sets the poor on high, far from affliction,
And [j]makes their families like a flock.
42 [k]The righteous see it and rejoice,
And all [l]iniquity stops its mouth.

43 [m]Whoever is wise will observe these things,
And they will understand the lovingkindness of the LORD.

43 [m]Ps. 64:9; Jer. 9:12; [Hos. 14:9]

■ 107:26 They mount up . . . go down again. The ship as it rises and falls on the waves.

■ 107:28 they cry out to the LORD . . . He brings them out. See vv. 6, 13, and 19.

■ 107:29 He calms the storm. God shows His divine power and might by controlling the chaotic sea. See notes on Ps. 18:4, 15. Christ demonstrated His power from on high when He stilled the waters (Mark 4:35–41).

■ 107:33–38 God turns fertility into waste, and waste into fertility. He controls all things.

■ 107:34 For the wickedness. God does not arbitrarily bring destruction upon His people. Here the reason is identified as the people's sin. A historical example of this verse may be found in 1 Kin. 17, where God determined to withhold rain and dew from Israel because Ahab and Jezebel had turned the nation toward Baal.

■ 107:36 establish a city. The ultimate reference is to the conquest in which God gave the land of Canaan to Israel. They passed from the hard conditions of the wilderness wanderings into the pleasant land of Palestine.

■ 107:39–42 God punishes and blesses His people.

■ 107:40 where there is no way. Perhaps a reference to the Babylonian exile.

PSALM 108

Assurance of God's Victory over Enemies

A Song. A Psalm of David.

O [a]God, my heart is steadfast;
I will sing and give praise, even with my glory.
2 [b]Awake, lute and harp!
I will awaken the dawn.
3 I will praise You, O LORD, among the peoples,
And I will sing praises to You among the nations.
4 For Your mercy is great above the [1]heavens,
And Your truth reaches to the clouds.

5 [c]Be exalted, O God, above the heavens,
And Your glory above all the earth;
6 [d]That Your beloved may be delivered,
Save with Your right hand, and [2]hear me.

7 God has spoken in His holiness:
"I will rejoice;
I will divide Shechem
And measure out the Valley of Succoth.
8 Gilead is Mine; Manasseh is Mine;
Ephraim also is the [3]helmet for My head;
[e]Judah is My lawgiver.
9 Moab is My washpot;
Over Edom I will cast My shoe;
Over Philistia I will triumph."

10 [f]Who will bring me into the strong city?
Who will lead me to Edom?
11 Is it not You, O God, who cast us off?
And You, O God, who did not go out with our armies?
12 Give us help from trouble,
For the help of man is useless.
13 [g]Through God we will do valiantly,
For it is He who shall tread down our enemies.

[3]Lit. protection
10 [f]Ps. 60:9
13 [g]Ps. 60:12

■ Ps. 108 This psalm is composed of two previous psalms. The first five verses are from Ps. 57:7–11, and vv. 6–13 are from Ps. 60:5–12. There are only minor changes of wording, but the overall effect of the psalm is quite different. Ps. 57 and 60 include elements of complaint; this psalm is a statement of assurance.

■ 108:1 steadfast. The psalmist has resolved to praise the Lord, and nothing can cause him to swerve from his resolve to offer up his hymn of praise.

■ 108:2 I will awaken the dawn. See note on 57:8.

■ 108:3 among the peoples. The psalmist realizes that God is more than the God of Israel. He is the King of the universe, and as a result He will witness to God's great deeds throughout the universe.

■ 108:4 Your mercy. Specifically, the mercy God has for the people who are in covenant relationship with Him.

■ 108:5 above the heavens. God is so great that not even the heavens can contain Him (1 Kin. 8:27). He is transcendent, yet in special ways (presently by the Holy Spirit), He is also immanent in that He compassionately condescends to dwell with His people.

■ 108:7 God has spoken in His holiness. The divine oracle was probably spoken through a prophet associated with the temple. The sense of His message is that victory will be forthcoming.

Shechem . . . Succoth. These two places are associated with Jacob in Gen. 33:17–20 as the first two places the patriarch occupied after returning from his encounter with Esau. They are on opposite sides of the Jordan River.

■ 108:8 Gilead . . . Manasseh. Both these areas are located, at least in part, east of the Jordan River.

Ephraim . . . Judah. The two most powerful tribes in Israel. They were frequently rivals, but here they are united as parts of God's army.

lawgiver. See Gen. 49:10.

■ 108:9 On this verse see 60:8 and notes.

■ 108:10 me. Likely the king, who speaks on behalf of the nation.

■ 108:13 Through God. The writer confesses that it is only through God's power that they will be victorious.

PSALM 109

Plea for Judgment of False Accusers

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David.

Do[a] not keep silent,
O God of my praise!
2 For the mouth of the wicked and the mouth of the deceitful
Have opened against me;
They have spoken against me with a [b]lying tongue.
3 They have also surrounded me with words of hatred,
And fought against me [c]without a cause.
4 In return for my love they are my accusers,
But I give myself to prayer.
5 Thus [d]they have rewarded me evil for good,
And hatred for my love.

6 Set a wicked man over him,
And let [e]an [f]accuser stand at his right hand.
7 When he is judged, let him be found guilty,
And [f]let his prayer become sin.
8 Let his days be [g]few,
And [h]let another take his office.
9 [i]Let his children be fatherless,
And his wife a widow.
10 Let his children [2]continually be vagabonds, and beg;
Let them [3]seek their bread also from their desolate places.
11 [j]Let the creditor seize all that he has,
And let strangers plunder his labor.
12 Let there be none to extend mercy to him,
Nor let there be any to favor his fatherless children.
13 [k]Let his [4]posterity be cut off,
And in the generation following let their [l]name be blotted out.

14 [m]Let the iniquity of his fathers be remembered before the LORD,
And let not the sin of his mother [n]be blotted out.
15 Let them be continually before the LORD,
That He may [o]cut off the memory of them from the earth;
16 Because he did not remember to show mercy,
But persecuted the poor and needy man,
That he might even slay the [p]broken in heart.
17 [q]As he loved cursing, so let it come to him;
As he did not delight in blessing, so let it be far from him.
18 As he clothed himself with cursing as with his garment,

■ Ps. 109 The psalmist stands before a corrupt court, falsely accused of a crime. In his distress, he turns to God for help, asking Him to reverse the roles and allow him to judge the court, and one person in particular (either the judge or the accuser). The poet does not conceal his strong feelings against his enemies (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes).

■ 109:1 Do not keep silent. See note on Ps. 83:1.

■ 109:4 they are my accusers. The legal language here and elsewhere in the psalm reveals that the psalmist is a defendant in a courtroom setting.

■ 109:5 evil for good. See note on Ps. 35:12.

for my love. What makes the writer's plight so poignant is that his attackers were once friends but have turned treacherously against him.

■ 109:6 a wicked man . . . an accuser. The penalty for accusing someone of a certain crime falsely was the penalty corresponding to that crime (Deut. 19:16–21).

■ 109:8 let another take his office. As this accuser brought false charges against the psalmist, so Judas Iscariot sought Christ's death by turning Him over to the Jewish authorities. Afterwards Judas killed himself in remorse. Peter understood that this psalm was about that situation and cited it as a replacement was sought for Judas among the disciples (Acts 1:20).

■ 109:9 fatherless . . . widow. Among people who depended heavily on their relatives for social support, this verse was a hard-hitting curse, calling for punishment on the accuser and on his family as well.

■ 109:13 their name be blotted out. The curses focus on eradicating the accuser's family line. To have descendants stretching into the distant future was considered extremely important in ancient Israel.

■ 109:17 so let it come to him. Once again the psalmist invokes the principle that the unrighteous will receive the penalty they are trying to call down upon another. See note on v. 6.

So let it [r]enter his body like water,
And like oil into his bones.
19 Let it be to him like the garment which covers him,
And for a belt with which he girds himself continually.
20 Let this be the LORD's reward to my accusers,
And to those who speak evil against my person.

21 But You, O GOD the Lord,
Deal with me for Your name's sake;
Because Your mercy is good, deliver me.
22 For I am poor and needy,
And my heart is wounded within me.
23 I am gone [s]like a shadow when it lengthens;
I am shaken off like a locust.
24 My [t]knees are weak through fasting,
And my flesh is feeble from lack of fatness.
25 I also have become [u]a reproach to them;
When they look at me, [v]they shake their heads.

26 Help me, O LORD my God!
Oh, save me according to Your mercy,
27 [w]That they may know that this is Your hand—
That You, LORD, have done it!
28 [x]Let them curse, but You bless;
When they arise, let them be ashamed,
But let [y]Your servant rejoice.
29 [z]Let my accusers be clothed with shame,
And let them cover themselves with their own disgrace as with a mantle.

30 I will greatly praise the LORD with my mouth;
Yes, [a]I will praise Him among the multitude.
31 For [b]He shall stand at the right hand of the poor,
To save him from those [5]who condemn him.

PSALM 110

1 [a]Matt. 22:44; Mark 12:36; 16:19; Luke 20:42, 43; Acts 2:34, 35; Col. 3:1; Heb. 1:13

■ 109:21 for Your name's sake. The psalmist appeals to God's reputation (Ps. 8:1). He belongs to God, and if he should die at the hand of the wicked, it will appear as if God can do nothing about evil.

■ 109:25 shake their heads. In disgust.

■ 109:26 according to Your mercy. The Hebrew word for "mercy" refers salvation to God's covenant faithfulness.

■ 109:31 stand at the right hand. Instead of finding an accuser at his right hand, the psalmist finds his support in God.

■ Ps. 110 There can be no doubt that this psalm looks forward to Christ. Jesus Himself cites it to show that David knew that its ultimate fulfillment would come with One who is greater than he (Mark 12:35–37 and parallels). Even before Christ's coming, a prophetic-messianic interpretation of the psalm was well known among Jewish interpreters.

Nevertheless, like all other royal psalms, Ps. 110 does address the time in which it was first composed. It is likely that it was sung at the time of the coronation of the king. The composition seems to have been written after David defeated Jebus (Jerusalem), and celebrates his victory and enthronement in that city, explaining why he also inherits the royal priesthood of Melchizedek.

Focusing on two divine oracles, the first (v. 1) shows the close, but subordinate, relationship that the human king bears to the divine King. The New Testament writers cite this oracle to demonstrate Jesus' post-resurrection glory and to point to the struggle between God and the spiritual powers of evil (Acts 2:34, 35; 1 Cor. 15:25; Eph. 1:20; Col. 3:1; Heb. 1:13; 1 Pet. 3:22).

The second oracle appointed the king as a priest, but as a special type of priest. As opposed to the hereditary Aaronic priesthood, this priesthood is descended from Melchizedek (Gen. 14:18–23), whose mysterious origins are related to Jesus Christ, the great High Priest (Heb. 5:6; 7:17; 8:1; 10:12–14).

■ 110:title The truth of the authorship title of this psalm is critical for its interpretation in the New Testament (Mark 12:35–37).

■ 110:1 LORD. As the translators indicate with the use of small capital letters, this is God's name, Yahweh.

Lord. This title is often used for God but can also be addressed to a king or other respected person. The New Testament makes it clear that King David refers to his Son as his "Lord" (Mark 12:35–37). The promised Messiah descended from David but is greater than David. See "Jesus' Heavenly Reign" at Acts 7:55.

Till I make Your enemies Your [n]footstool."

You have the dew of Your youth.
4 The LORD has sworn
And [g]will not relent,
"You are a [h]priest forever
According to the order of [i]Melchizedek."

5 The Lord is [j]at Your right hand;
He shall [l]execute kings [k]in the day of His wrath.
6 He shall judge among the nations,
He shall fill the places with dead bodies,
[l]He shall [2]execute the heads of many countries.
7 He shall drink of the brook by the wayside;
[m]Therefore He shall lift up the head.

Praise to God for His Faithfulness and Justice

Praise [l] the LORD!

[a]I will praise the LORD with my whole heart,
In the assembly of the upright and in the congregation.

2 [b]The works of the LORD are great,
[c]Studied by all who have pleasure in them.
3 His work is [d]honorable and glorious,
And His righteousness endures forever.
4 He has made His wonderful works to be remembered;

at My right hand. The place of honor. After His resurrection, Jesus was exalted to the right hand of God in heaven.

Your enemies. In the Old Testament they were physical flesh and blood enemies of Israel. In the New Testament the battle is intensified, as Jesus fights against the invisible, cosmic powers of evil.

footstool. A place of disgrace, symbolizing subjugation. After a victory, Near Eastern leaders would humiliate their defeated enemies by stepping on their heads or necks (Josh. 10:24–26).

■ 110:2 shall send. God will enlarge the King's authority.

rod. A common symbol of governmental power and authority.

out of Zion. See note on Ps. 2:6.

■ 110:3 the dew of Your youth. A difficult phrase in the Hebrew. The image compares the dew, that appears suddenly during the night and is present in the morning, with the eager and mysterious appearance of the king's troops.

■ 110:4 the order of Melchizedek. The regular priesthood of Israel was from Aaron, and their duties were limited to religious worship. Little is known about Melchizedek (Gen. 14:18–20), but it appears that he combined the functions of king and priest. David also combined these functions to an extent. Jesus Christ is both King and Priest, though not descended from the line of Aaron (Heb. 5:6; 7:17; 8:1; 10:12–14).

■ 110:5 Lord. A title of respect (v. 1 note).

■ 110:6 judge among the nations. God often used the human king to bring His judgment upon the nations through warfare. As applied to Jesus, this verse anticipates the Last Judgment that will take place at the end of time.

■ 110:7 He shall drink. This verse is difficult in Hebrew. The king finds refreshment during the battle and can carry on God's work of judgment.

■ Ps. 111 This psalm of praise recalls the Exodus, wilderness wanderings, and conquest of the Promised Land. The psalm is an acrostic (see introduction to Ps. 112; 119), a trait common among wisdom poems, and it ends on a note that could be called the "motto" of the Book of Proverbs (v. 10).

■ 111:1 In the assembly. The holy congregation as they gather to praise the Lord in the sanctuary.

■ 111:2 The works of the LORD. The psalmist has in mind the great acts of redemption that God performed in their past. The preeminent example would be the Exodus, when God rescued His people from their oppressors in Egypt.

■ 111:3 His righteousness. God acts in history in conformity to His character and law. Through His great historical acts, people can recognize His righteousness.

■ 111:4 to be remembered. Remembrance involves more than an act of the memory; it also involves devotion and obedience. See Ps. 44:1.

gracious and full of compassion. Israel, due to sin, could not deserve God's salvation; it springs from God's love for His people. See Ex. 34:6.

■ 111:5 given food. This may allude to the wilderness wanderings when God miraculously provided food for Israel (e.g., Num. 11).

He will ever be mindful of His covenant.
6 He has declared to His people the power of His works,
In giving them the [2]heritage of the nations.

7 The works of His hands are [f]verity[3] and justice;
All His precepts are sure.
8 [g]They stand fast forever and ever,
And are [h]done in truth and uprightness.
9 [i]He has sent redemption to His people;
He has commanded His covenant forever:
[j]Holy and awesome is His name.

10 [k]The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom;
A good understanding have all those who do His commandments.
His praise endures forever.

PSALM 112

The Blessed State of the Righteous

Praise[1] the LORD!

Blessed is the man who fears the LORD,
Who [a]delights greatly in His commandments.

2 [b]His descendants will be mighty on earth;
The generation of the upright will be blessed.
3 [c]Wealth and riches will be in his house,
And his righteousness [2]endures forever.
4 [d]Unto the upright there arises light in the darkness;
He is gracious, and full of compassion, and righteous.
5 [e]A good man deals graciously and lends;
He will guide his affairs [f]with discretion.
6 Surely he will never be shaken;
[g]The righteous will be in everlasting remembrance.
7 [h]He will not be afraid of evil tidings;
His heart is steadfast, trusting in the LORD.
8 His [i]heart is established;
[j]He will not be afraid,
Until he [k]sees his desire upon his enemies.

9 He has dispersed abroad,
He has given to the poor;
His righteousness endures forever;
His [3]horn will be exalted with honor.

ever be. God is not fickle. His people may depend on Him.

His covenant. When God acts to save His people, He does so because of the relationship He has already established with them.

■ 111:6 giving them the heritage of the nations. God gave to Israel the land of a number of peoples when He gave them the Promised Land (Deut. 7:1–6).

■ 111:10 fear of the LORD. This well-known phrase captures the right way to approach the Lord. The Lord is God, inspiring reverence and awe. He will make good His threats against the wicked. See notes on Ps. 34:7; 36:1; 128:1; 130:4.

■ Ps. 112 Ps. 112 is in the center of three psalms that begin with the expression "Praise the LORD" (Hebrew hallu yah). Both Ps. 111 and 112 are acrostics, each half-line beginning with successive letters of the Hebrew alphabet, and they complement each other in content. Ps. 111 tells about God and His deeds, while Ps. 112 describes the happiness of the person who serves God.

■ 112:1 in His commandments. The righteous person receives the law as a testimony of God, they are a joy, to be kept in love and gratitude for His great salvation.

■ 112:4 in the darkness. Darkness is a metaphor for troubled times. The psalmist knows that there are hard times, but he also knows that "all things work together for good to those who love God" (Rom. 8:28).

gracious, and full of compassion. The godly man reflects the attributes of his Lord; see 111:4.

■ 112:7 not be afraid of evil tidings. The righteous man does not fear trouble or distress, because he knows that God is able to bring him through it.

■ 112:9 has dispersed abroad. Generosity is a basic characteristic of a servant of God. Paul quotes this verse in 2 Cor. 9:9 in a context that encourages generosity.

10 The wicked will see it and be grieved;
He will gnash his teeth and melt away;
The desire of the wicked shall perish.

PSALM 113

The Majesty and Condescension of God

Praise[l] the LORD!

[a]Praise, O servants of the LORD,
Praise the name of the LORD!
2 [b]Blessed be the name of the LORD
From this time forth and forevermore!
3 [c]From the rising of the sun to its going down
The LORD's name is to be praised.

4 The LORD is [d]high above all nations,
[e]His glory above the heavens.
5 [f]Who is like the LORD our God,
Who dwells on high,
6 [g]Who humbles Himself to behold
The things that are in the heavens and in the earth?

7 [h]He raises the poor out of the dust,
And lifts the [i]needy out of the ash heap,
8 That He may [j]seat him with princes—
With the princes of His people.
9 [k]He grants the [2]barren woman a home,
Like a joyful mother of children.

Praise the LORD!

PSALM 114

The Power of God in His Deliverance of Israel

When [a]Israel went out of Egypt,
The house of Jacob [b]from a people [1]of strange language,
2 [c]Judah became His sanctuary,
And Israel His dominion.

3 [d]The sea saw it and fled;
[e]Jordan turned back.

3 [d]Ex. 14:21; Ps. 77:16 [e]Josh. 3:13–16

■ Ps. 113 God is both transcendent (vv. 4–6) and immanent (vv. 7–9); above creation but present with His people. Ps. 113 is the first of several psalms used to celebrate the great annual festivals of Passover, Weeks, Tabernacles, New Moon, and the Dedication of the temple. Ps. 113—118 were sung during the Passover, so it is likely that Jesus and His disciples sang them during their last evening together (Matt. 26:30; Mark 14:26). Ps. 113 (see v. 9) should be compared with the songs of Hannah (1 Sam. 2, especially vv. 5, 8) and Mary (Luke 1:46–55).

■ 113:1 O servants of the LORD. A priest leads the faithful in worship.

■ 113:3 From the rising of the sun to its going down. That is, from east to west, everywhere.

■ 113:4 high above all nations. In the ancient Near East each nation had its imagined national gods. Only the God of Israel could proclaim Himself the true God of all nations.

■ 113:5 Who is like. Yahweh is incomparable.

■ 113:6 humbles Himself. Part of God's greatness is His condescension, as at Bethlehem (Luke 2:4–7; Phil. 2:5–11).

in the heavens. Often the heavens are spoken of as the dwelling place of God, but strictly speaking, God's infinite transcendence is such that even the heavens are unable to contain Him (1 Kin. 8:27).

■ Ps. 114 Jewish tradition assigned this psalm to the eighth day of Passover. In eight short verses, and with virtually unrivaled poetic subtlety, the psalmist describes the tremendous power of God's visual self-revelation (theophany) at the time of Israel's salvation from Egypt and entry into Canaan (Ex. 13:21).

■ 114:1 went out of Egypt. The Exodus was the most tremendous display of God's redemptive power during the Old Testament period. It was constantly remembered and became a source of encouragement for later generations, including Christians who perceive themselves as "strangers and pilgrims" in search of their true "homeland" (Heb. 11:13, 14).

■ 114:2 His sanctuary. The people and their country were God's sanctuary because God chose to be present with them. The tabernacle, and then the temple, were symbols of His presence.

■ 114:3 The sea saw it. The Red Sea is personified (Ex. 14; 15), poetically describing the crossing of the sea as a conflict between it and the Lord.

4 [f]The mountains skipped like rams,
The little hills like lambs.
5 [g]What ails you, O sea, that you fled?
O Jordan, that you turned back?
6 O mountains, that you skipped like rams?
O little hills, like lambs?

7 Tremble, O earth, at the presence of the Lord,
At the presence of the God of Jacob,
8 [h]Who turned the rock into a pool of water,
The flint into a fountain of waters.

PSALM 115

The Futility of Idols and the Trustworthiness of God

Not [a]unto us, O LORD, not unto us,
But to Your name give glory,
Because of Your mercy,
Because of Your truth.
2 Why should the [1]Gentiles say,
[b]"So where is their God?"

3 [c]But our God is in heaven;
He does whatever He pleases.
4 [d]Their idols are silver and gold,
The work of men's hands.
5 They have mouths, but they do not speak;
Eyes they have, but they do not see;
6 They have ears, but they do not hear;
Noses they have, but they do not smell;
7 They have hands, but they do not handle;
Feet they have, but they do not walk;
Nor do they mutter through their throat.
8 [e]Those who make them are like them;
So is everyone who trusts in them.

9 [f]O Israel, trust in the LORD;
[g]He is their help and their shield.
10 O house of Aaron, trust in the LORD;
He is their help and their shield.
11 You who fear the LORD, trust in the LORD;
He is their help and their shield.

9 [f]Ps. 118:2, 3 [g]Ps. 33:20

■ 114:4 The mountains. The mountains were symbols of power, firmness, and endurance (Ps. 46). God's appearance shakes them like frightened rams.

■ 114:5 What ails you. The psalmist questions the poetically personified sea and mountains making explicit what was implicit in the first two stanzas of the poem.

■ 114:7 Tremble. When God comes in judgment and with power, the inhabitants of the earth should fear because they will be objects of His judgment. Nothing can stand in His way.

■ 114:8 turned the rock into a pool. God's provision at Kadesh (Num. 20:1–13) demonstrates His power and compassion.

■ Ps. 115 This psalm is a liturgy for public worship, declaring Israel's faith in the Lord over against the worthless idols of the nations.

■ 115:1 Your mercy. God's covenantal affection for His people.

■ 115:2 the Gentiles. The nations that surrounded Israel at different times: Canaan, Babylonia, Assyria, Persia, and Egypt.

where is their God. As the nations observed Israel struggling, they would say that Israel's God was unable or unwilling to act.

■ 115:3 whatever He pleases. A notable expression of God's sovereignty.

■ 115:4 Their idols. The psalmist draws a sharp contrast between the living God of Israel and the man-made deities of the Near East. See Is. 44:6–23; Rom. 1:21–23; "Syncretism and Idolatry" at Hos. 2:13.

■ 115:8 are like them. When people construct their own gods, they make them in their own image. As they worship these gods, they are more and more conformed to their likeness. See 2 Kin. 17:15.

■ 115:9 O Israel. A reference to all the people of God.

■ 115:10 house of Aaron. The speaker addresses the priests of Israel.

■ 115:11 You who fear the LORD. Finally, the psalmist singles out those who tremble before the Lord. These are the faithful within Israel or, as later usage suggests, also proselytes.

PSALM 116

Thanksgiving for Deliverance from Death

I [a]love the LORD, because He has heard
My voice and my supplications.
2 Because He has inclined His ear to me,
Therefore I will call upon Him as long as I live.

3 [b]The [1]pains of death surrounded me,
And the [2]pangs of Sheol [3]laid hold of me;
I found trouble and sorrow.
4 Then I called upon the name of the LORD:
"O LORD, I implore You, deliver my soul!"

5 [c]Gracious is the LORD, and [d]righteous;
Yes, our God is merciful.
6 The LORD preserves the simple;
I was brought low, and He saved me.
7 Return to your [e]rest, O my soul,
For [f]the LORD has dealt bountifully with you.

8 [g]For You have delivered my soul from death,
My eyes from tears,
And my feet from falling.
9 I will walk before the LORD
[h]In the land of the living.

■ 115:12 been mindful. See Ps. 44:1.

■ 115:15 Who made heaven and earth. As the Creator of all, God is able to provide for His people the material blessings they need.

■ 115:16 the earth He has given to the children of men. God created the earth and it belongs to Him. Along with the gift of the earth comes the responsibility to work and serve God faithfully.

■ 115:17 The dead. See note on Ps. 88:5.

■ Ps. 116 An exuberant thanksgiving to the Lord for delivering the psalmist from death. It is impossible to be precise about the threat that hung over the psalmist (perhaps sickness), but he looks back to his cry of distress to the Lord and proclaims with gladness that God heard him. As a result, he determines to offer sacrifices to the Lord. For the use of this psalm at a feast, see introduction to Ps. 113.

■ 116:1 I love the LORD. The psalmist expresses his deep affection for the Lord, grounding it in God's own love toward him. God showed His love for the psalmist by hearing his prayer.

■ 116:3 The pains of death. It was as if ropes came out of a grave, pulling the psalmist into the ground.

■ 116:5 Gracious . . . righteous . . . merciful. God reveals His kindness in His answer to the psalmist's request. He does not stand at a distance when His people suffer.

10 [i]I believed, therefore I spoke,
"I am greatly afflicted."
11 [j]I said in my haste,
[k]"All men are liars."

12 What shall I render to the LORD
For all His benefits toward me?
13 I will take up the cup of salvation,
And call upon the name of the LORD.
14 [l]I will pay my vows to the LORD
Now in the presence of all His people.

15 [m]Precious in the sight of the LORD
Is the death of His saints.

16 O LORD, truly [n]I am Your servant;
I am Your servant, [o]the son of Your maidservant;
You have loosed my bonds.
17 I will offer to You [p]the sacrifice of thanksgiving,
And will call upon the name of the LORD.

18 I will pay my vows to the LORD
Now in the presence of all His people,
19 In the [q]courts of the LORD's house,
In the midst of you, O Jerusalem.

[4]Praise the LORD!

PSALM 117

Let All Peoples Praise the LORD

And [b]the truth of the LORD endures forever.

PSALM 118

Praise to God for His Everlasting Mercy

[a]Oh, give thanks to the LORD, for He is good!

■ 116:10 therefore I spoke. It was the psalmist's faith in God that led him to pray to Him in the beginning.

■ 116:11 "All men are liars." He remembers his complaint; he apparently had been the object of a false accusation.

■ 116:13 the cup of salvation. This may be a reference to a drink offering (Num. 15:10), but it is more likely a metaphor, contrasting with the more common "cup" of God's wrath (Ps. 75:8).

■ 116:14 in the presence of all His people. The psalmist promises to proclaim publicly God's great acts (Ps. 22:22 note).

■ 116:15 Precious. Their deaths, like their lives, are significant and important to God. See "Death and the Intermediate State" at Phil. 1:23.

■ 116:19 the courts of the LORD's house. The temple in Jerusalem.

■ Ps. 117 This is the shortest chapter in the Bible, but the song's exuberant praise reaches to all the nations. Paul uses the psalm to show that the nations share in the promises to the patriarchs (Rom. 15:7–11).

■ 117:1 all you Gentiles. The call to praise goes beyond Israel to all nations.

■ 117:2 His merciful kindness. Specifically, the love connected with His covenant. This verse, though using different vocabulary, may be seen as a meditation on the truth expressed in Ex. 34:6. It celebrates God's covenant relationship with His people.

■ Ps. 118 This psalm concludes the section associated with the celebration of Passover (113—118). As the last song of the group, it may have been the final psalm in the mind of Jesus as He celebrated Passover with His disciples (Mark 14:26). Jesus quoted vv. 22, 23 about Himself (Mark

The main speaker is likely the king (vv. 5–21), but the psalm as a whole is a liturgy with other speakers as well (vv. 21–27). The references to altar, temple, and procession (vv. 19, 20, 27) show that it was used in corporate worship.

■ 118:1 His mercy endures forever. A refrain of this psalm and Ps. 136.

■ 118:5 I. The king.

■ 118:6 The LORD is on my side. This is the heart of the covenant of grace: God siding with His redeemed. The implication for the psalmist is that he has nothing to fear from anyone because God is in control. Victory is not guaranteed by superior forces or weapons; it is a gift from God.

■ 118:12 a fire of thorns. The simile has two sides: Thorns, with their sharp points are apt descriptions of an enemy; they also burn quickly, like an enemy running away.

■ 118:14 my salvation. For the psalmist the "salvation" in view is victory in battle.

■ 118:15 voice of rejoicing. Israel responds to God's help by singing victory songs that rejoice in God's salvation.

The right hand. This is the arm that is used to wield the sword in battle (v. 16; cf. Ex. 15:6, 12).

■ 118:19 the gates of righteousness. The entrance to the sanctuary, leading to the presence of God, where the psalmist will offer thanks. The gates are righteous because the One who dwells behind them is righteous, and those who enter must be righteous as well (Ps. 15 and 24).

21 I will praise You,
For You have [v]answered me,
And have become my salvation.

22 [w]The stone which the builders rejected
Has become the chief cornerstone.
23 [3]This was the LORD's doing;
It is marvelous in our eyes.
24 This is the day the LORD has made;
We will rejoice and be glad in it.

25 Save now, I pray, O LORD;
O LORD, I pray, send now prosperity.
26 [x]Blessed is he who comes in the name of the LORD!
We have blessed you from the house of the LORD.
27 God is the LORD,
And He has given us [y]light;
Bind the sacrifice with cords to the horns of the altar.
28 You are my God, and I will praise You;
[z]You are my God, I will exalt You.

29 Oh, give thanks to the LORD, for He is good!
For His mercy endures forever.

Meditations on the Excellencies of the Word of God

א ALEPH

Blessed are the [1]undefiled in the way,
[a]Who walk in the law of the LORD!
2 Blessed are those who keep His testimonies,
Who seek Him with the [b]whole heart!
3 [c]They also do no iniquity;
They walk in His ways.
4 You have commanded us
To keep Your precepts diligently.

■ 118:21 my salvation. See note on v. 14.

■ 118:22 The stone which the builders rejected. The metaphor would likely refer originally to the king, who represented his people. The stone was cast off in despair when defeat seemed inevitable, and victory was no longer a realistic hope (but see following note).

the chief cornerstone. The low and insignificant, despite having been rejected, is exalted to the chief place. Jesus later applies this passage to Himself (Matt. 21:42; Mark 12:10; Luke 20:17; Acts 4:11 and 1 Pet. 2:7). Jesus is the cornerstone (Eph. 2:20), cast away by the earthly rulers of His day, but exalted to the right hand of the Father. To some this is a cause for stumbling (Is. 8:14; 1 Pet. 2), but to others the basis of hope.

■ 118:24 the day the LORD has made. Because of God's victory, His people will turn the day of despair into a day of worship before the Lord.

■ 118:26 Blessed is he who comes in the name of the LORD. Later, this cry is lifted up by the crowds as they welcome the true King, Christ Jesus, into Jerusalem (Matt. 21:9). In a way still beyond their understanding, Jesus was about to defeat sin and death on the cross.

■ 118:27 the sacrifice. The sacrifice was performed in public worship before the Lord.

■ 118:29 Oh, give thanks to the LORD. The psalm ends as it began.

■ Ps. 119 As Ps. 117 has the distinction of being the shortest chapter in the Bible, so Ps. 119 is the longest. The psalm is an acrostic of twenty-two stanzas, one for each letter of the Hebrew alphabet. The eight poetic lines of each stanza begin with the same Hebrew letter.

The number eight may be connected with eight Hebrew words that appear throughout the psalm concerning its main theme. The words are translated variously as "law," "testimonies," "precepts," "statutes," "commandments," "judgments," "word," and "ordinances." In five stanzas all eight Hebrew words occur, and every stanza has at least six of the eight.

While the psalmist expresses his love for the law and his desire to obey it, he also recognizes his failures. Elements of lament and petition are intertwined with expressions of confidence and innocence.

The law is a faithful expression of God's character. God sent His Son to keep the law for us. The law no longer condemns us, setting us free to accept it as our own guide for pleasing the One who died in our place.

■ 119:1 Blessed. See Ps. 1:1.

Who walk. A metaphor for the activities of daily life.

the law of the LORD. The law, or Torah, refers to the first five books of the Bible as a unit, or to the legal sections of those books. Here the latter is meant: the Ten Commandments and the other laws of the Pentateuch.

■ 119:2 with the whole heart. The psalmist is not speaking of a mere external adherence to the law. He calls for obedience that comes from a deep-seated faith in the Lord.

■ 119:4 You have commanded . . . keep Your precepts. God entered into a covenant relationship with Israel freely out of grace, and within that relationship God gave them His law to obey. He was not asking them to earn His favor, or pay for their redemption. It was the way of thankful obedience for those in covenant with Him.

5 Oh, that my ways were directed
To keep Your statutes!
6 [d]Then I would not be ashamed,
When I look into all Your commandments.
7 I will praise You with uprightness of heart,
When I learn Your righteous judgments.
8 I will keep Your statutes;
Oh, do not forsake me utterly!

ב BETH

9 How can a young man cleanse his way?
By taking heed according to Your word.
10 With my whole heart I have [e]sought You;
Oh, let me not wander from Your commandments!
11 [f]Your word I have hidden in my heart,
That I might not sin against You.
12 Blessed are You, O LORD!
Teach me Your statutes.
13 With my lips I have [g]declared
All the judgments of Your mouth.
14 I have rejoiced in the way of Your testimonies,
As much as in all riches.
15 I will meditate on Your precepts,
And [2]contemplate Your ways.
16 I will [h]delight myself in Your statutes;
I will not forget Your word.

17 [i]Deal bountifully with Your servant,
That I may live and keep Your word.
18 Open my eyes, that I may see
Wondrous things from Your law.
19 [j]I am a stranger in the earth;
Do not hide Your commandments from me.
20 [k]My soul [3]breaks with longing
For Your judgments at all times.
21 You rebuke the proud—the cursed,
Who stray from Your commandments.
22 [l]Remove from me reproach and contempt,
For I have kept Your testimonies.
23 Princes also sit and speak against me,
But Your servant meditates on Your statutes.
24 Your testimonies also are my delight
And my counselors.

20 [k]Ps. 42:1, 2; 63:1; 84:2 [3]is crushed
22 [l]Ps. 39:8

- 119:5 Oh. The psalmist does not think of himself as an example of perfect obedience.
- 119:7 When I learn. Worship and obedience requires knowledge of the Scripture.
- 119:8 I will. The psalmist decides to follow God's law.
- 119:9–16 The psalmist seeks to keep his way pure by meditating on God's law.
- 119:9 according to Your word. God does not hide from us what pleases Him. He states it clearly in His Word, the Bible.
- 119:10 I have sought . . . let me not wander. There is a deep connection between striving after moral perfection and the realization that the quest is itself impossible without God's help.
- 119:15 I will meditate. God's law requires more than surface reading or rote memorization; it demands careful reflection.
- 119:17 That I may live. The psalmist's life depends on grace.
- 119:18 Open my eyes. We need God's grace to illumine His word. He must guide our understanding.
- 119:19 stranger. See Heb. 11:13. His true home is not on the earth, but with God.
- 119:22 Remove from me. The psalm goes beyond praise of the law to petition for God's grace in distress.
- 119:23 Princes . . . speak against me. Perhaps indicating the royal status of the psalmist.

ד DALETH

25 [m]My soul clings to the dust;
[n]Revive me according to Your word.
26 I have declared my ways, and You answered me;
[o]Teach me Your statutes.
27 Make me understand the way of Your precepts;
So [p]shall I meditate on Your wonderful works.
28 [q]My soul [4]melts from [5]heaviness;
Strengthen me according to Your word.
29 Remove from me the way of lying,
And grant me Your law graciously.
30 I have chosen the way of truth;
Your judgments I have laid before me.
31 I cling to Your testimonies;
O LORD, do not put me to shame!
32 I will run the course of Your commandments,
For You shall [r]enlarge my heart.

ה HE

33 [s]Teach me, O LORD, the way of Your statutes,
And I shall keep it to the end.
34 [t]Give me understanding, and I shall keep Your law;
Indeed, I shall observe it with my whole heart.
35 Make me walk in the path of Your commandments,
For I delight in it.
36 [6]Incline my heart to Your testimonies,
And not to [u]covetousness.
37 [v]Turn[7] away my eyes from [w]looking at worthless things,
And revive me in [8]Your way.
38 [x]Establish Your word to Your servant,
Who is devoted to fearing You.
39 Turn away my reproach which I dread,
For Your judgments are good.
40 Behold, I long for Your precepts;
Revive me in Your righteousness.

41 Let Your mercies come also to me, O LORD—
Your salvation according to Your word.
42 So shall I have an answer for him who [9]reproaches me,
For I trust in Your word.
43 And take not the word of truth utterly out of my mouth,
For I have hoped in Your ordinances.
44 So shall I keep Your law continually,
Forever and ever.
45 And I will walk [1]at [y]liberty,
For I seek Your precepts.

■ 119:29 Remove from me the way of lying. The psalmist sees that, if left to himself, he would be walking in ways contrary to God's law.

■ 119:33–40 The psalmist beseeches the Lord for instruction in His law.

■ 119:34 with my whole heart. He resolves with his whole mind, strength, and will. The psalmist expresses his deep devotion to the Lord. He loves the Lord and wants to be obedient. Jesus told His disciples, "If you love Me, keep My commandments" (John 14:15). See theological note "Understanding the Word of God."

■ 119:36 Incline my heart. He realizes that his love for the Lord has its source in God Himself.

■ 119:37 Turn away my eyes from . . . worthless things. Matching his positive desire to move closer to God's law, there is a corresponding negative desire to turn away from worthless things, particularly idols. For the same word, see note on Ps. 31:6.

■ 119:38 Your word. Likely referring to God's covenant promise of blessing.

■ 119:41 Your mercies. God's love or devotion to those in covenant with Him.

■ 119:45 at liberty. By keeping God's laws the writer will be liberated from slavery to sin.

47 And I will delight myself in Your commandments,
Which I love.
48 My hands also I will lift up to Your commandments,
Which I love,
And I will meditate on Your statutes.

Upon which You have caused me to hope.

Understanding the Word of God

All Christians have a right and duty, not only to learn from the church's heritage of faith, but also to interpret Scripture for themselves. The church of Rome at one time forbid this, alleging that individuals easily misinterpret the Scriptures. The Westminster Confession of Faith agrees that "All things in Scripture are not alike in plain in themselves, nor alike clear unto all," but it also states clearly the authority of individual believers to read the Bible for themselves: "not only the learned, but the unlearned, in a due use of the ordinary means, may attain unto a sufficient understanding" of the Scriptures. The "ordinary means" include principles of interpretation such as the following.

The Bible is inspired by God, and its words continue to be God's words, but the Bible is also the product of human writers. Realizing this is essential. No allegorizing or other fanciful method that ignores the original writer's expressed meaning can be appropriate.

Each book was written, not in code, but in a way that could be understood by the readers to whom it was addressed. This is true even of such books as Daniel, Zechariah, and Revelation, that primarily use symbolism; the main thrust is always clear, even if details are clouded. So when we understand the words used, the historical background, and the cultural conventions of the writer and his readers, we are well on the way to grasping the thoughts that are being conveyed. But a spiritual understanding—that is, discerning the reality of God, His ways with His people, His present will, and one's own relationship to Him—will not reach us from the text until the veil is removed from our hearts and we are able to share the writer's own passion for God (2 Cor. 3:16; 1 Cor. 2:14). We should pray that God's Spirit would generate this passion in us and show us God in the text. See Ps. 119:18, 19, 26, 27, 33, 34, 73, 125, 144, 169; Eph. 1:17–19; 3:16–19.

Each book took its form at a particular time in the process of God's revelation of grace. That place must be considered when interpreting the text. The psalms, for instance, model the godly heart in every age, but they express its prayers and praises in terms of the realities of the life of grace before the coming of Christ—such as the ceremonial law, the sacrificial system, and the special role of Israel as a theocratic kingdom.

Each book proceeded from the same divine mind, so the teaching of the Bible's sixty-six books is complementary and consistent. If we cannot yet see this, the fault is in us, not in Scripture. Scripture nowhere contradicts Scripture; rather, one passage explains another. This sound principle of interpreting Scripture by Scripture is sometimes called the analogy of Scripture, or the analogy of faith.

Each book exhibits unchanging truth about God, the world, and His will for people, applied to and illustrated by particular situations. The final stage in biblical interpretation is to reapply these truths to our own life-situations; this is the way to discern what God in Scripture is saying to us at this moment. Examples of such reapplication are Josiah's realization of God's wrath at Judah's failure to observe His law (2 Kin. 22:8–13), Jesus' reasoning from Gen. 2:24 (Matt. 19:4–6), and Paul's use of Gen. 15:6 and Ps. 32:1, 2 to show the reality of present righteousness by faith (Rom. 4:1–8).

No meaning may be read into or imposed on Scripture that cannot with certainty be read out of Scripture—shown, that is, to be unambiguously expressed by one or more of the human writers.

Careful and prayerful observance of these rules is a mark of every Christian who is "rightly dividing the word of truth" (2 Tim. 2:15). □

■ 119:49 Remember. See Ps. 44:1.

50 This is my [a]comfort in my affliction,
For Your word has given me life.
51 The proud have me in great derision,
Yet I do not turn aside from Your law.
52 I remembered Your judgments of old, O LORD,
And have comforted myself.
53 [b]Indignation has taken hold of me
Because of the wicked, who forsake Your law.
54 Your statutes have been my songs
In the house of my pilgrimage.
55 [c]I remember Your name in the night, O LORD,
And I keep Your law.
56 This has become mine,
Because I kept Your precepts.

I have said that I would keep Your words.
58 I entreated Your favor with my whole heart;
Be merciful to me according to Your word.
59 I [e]thought about my ways,
And turned my feet to Your testimonies.
60 I made haste, and did not delay
To keep Your commandments.
61 The cords of the wicked have bound me,
But I have not forgotten Your law.
62 [f]At midnight I will rise to give thanks to You,
Because of Your righteous judgments.
63 I am a companion of all who fear You,
And of those who keep Your precepts.
64 [g]The earth, O LORD, is full of Your mercy;
Teach me Your statutes.

65 You have dealt well with Your servant,
O LORD, according to Your word.
66 Teach me good judgment and [h]knowledge,
For I believe Your commandments.
67 Before I was [i]afflicted I went astray,
But now I keep Your word.
68 You are [j]good, and do good;
Teach me Your statutes.
69 The proud have [k]forged[2] a lie against me,
But I will keep Your precepts with my whole heart.
70 [l]Their heart is [3]as fat as grease,
But I delight in Your law.
71 It is good for me that I have been afflicted,
That I may learn Your statutes.
72 [m]The law of Your mouth is better to me
Than thousands of coins of gold and silver. •

■ 119:52 Your judgments of old. Given through Moses and contained in the books of Exodus, Leviticus, and Deuteronomy.

■ 119:54 Your statutes . . . my songs. The law was not simply a matter of obedience for the psalmist, but of worship.

■ 119:55 name. See Ps. 8:1.

■ 119:57 my portion. The poet's portion is not an inheritance in the land, but the Lord Himself (Num. 18:20).

■ 119:63 a companion. Obedience to the Lord takes place in community with other believers who also serve the Lord.

who fear You. See Ps. 34:7.

■ 119:65–72 The psalmist found that affliction brought him back from wandering away from God.

■ 119:67 I went astray. God uses distress and suffering in our lives to bring us back to Him (Ps. 31; Heb. 12:1–13).

■ 119:70 fat as grease. Cf. 1 Tim. 4:2.

■ 119:71 It is good for me . . . been afflicted. In retrospect the writer is thankful for his suffering because it has led to a new intimacy with the Lord.

73 [n]Your hands have made me and fashioned me;
Give me understanding, that I may learn Your commandments.
74 [o]Those who fear You will be glad when they see me,
Because I have hoped in Your word.
75 I know, O LORD, [p]that Your judgments are [q]right,
And that in faithfulness You have afflicted me.
76 Let, I pray, Your merciful kindness be for my comfort,
According to Your word to Your servant.
77 Let Your tender mercies come to me, that I may live;
For Your law is my delight.
78 Let the proud [q]be ashamed,
For they treated me wrongfully with falsehood;
But I will meditate on Your precepts.
79 Let those who fear You turn to me,
Those who know Your testimonies.
80 Let my heart be blameless regarding Your statutes,
That I may not be ashamed.

כ KAPH

81 [r]My soul faints for Your salvation,
But I hope in Your word.
82 My eyes fail from searching Your word,
Saying, "When will You comfort me?"
83 For [s]I have become like a wineskin in smoke,
Yet I do not forget Your statutes.
84 [t]How many are the days of Your servant?
[u]When will You execute judgment on those who persecute me?
85 [v]The proud have dug pits for me,
Which is not according to Your law.
86 All Your commandments are faithful;
They persecute me [w]wrongfully;
Help me!
87 They almost made an end of me on earth,
But I did not forsake Your precepts.
88 Revive me according to Your lovingkindness,
So that I may keep the testimony of Your mouth.

ל LAMED

89 [x]Forever, O LORD,
Your word [s]is settled in heaven.
90 Your faithfulness endures to all generations;
You established the earth, and it [s]abides.
91 They continue this day according to [y]Your ordinances,
For all are Your servants.
92 Unless Your law had been my delight,
I would then have perished in my affliction.
93 I will never forget Your precepts,
For by them You have given me life.

■ 119:74 when they see me. As others who share the psalmist's deep commitment to the Lord see his happiness, they will be encouraged.

■ 119:75 You have afflicted me. See vv. 67 and 71.

■ 119:82 My eyes fail. Because he has been looking so long in expectation.

■ 119:83 a wineskin in smoke. A striking metaphor, unparalleled elsewhere. The smoke damages the wineskin; this is comparable to the harm the writer has suffered at the hand of his enemies.

■ 119:84 When will You execute judgment. The poet expects God to come to his aid and punish those who persecute him unjustly. God's seeming delay is a trial for him.

■ 119:86 wrongfully. See Ps. 38:19.

■ 119:87 But I did not forsake Your precepts. The psalmist would not allow his obedience to depend on his situation.

■ 119:89 Forever. As God is eternal, so is His word. It is forever valid. It speaks to all people and for all time.

■ 119:93 forget. To forget something, in the psalms, implies disobedience.

94 I am Yours, save me;
For I have sought Your precepts.
95 The wicked wait for me to destroy me,
But I will [7]consider Your testimonies.
96 [z]I have seen the consummation of all perfection,
But Your commandment is exceedingly broad.

מ MEM

97 Oh, how I love Your law!
[a]It is my meditation all the day.
98 You, through Your commandments, make me [b]wiser than my enemies;
For they are ever with me.
99 I have more understanding than all my teachers,
[c]For Your testimonies are my meditation.
100 [d]I understand more than the [8]ancients,
Because I keep Your precepts.
101 I have restrained my feet from every evil way,
That I may keep Your word.
102 I have not departed from Your judgments,
For You Yourself have taught me.
103 [e]How sweet are Your words to my taste,
Sweeter than honey to my mouth!
104 Through Your precepts I get understanding;
Therefore I hate every false way.

נ NUN

105 [f]Your word is a lamp to my feet
And a light to my path.
106 [g]I have sworn and confirmed
That I will keep Your righteous judgments.
107 I am afflicted very much;
Revive me, O LORD, according to Your word.
108 Accept, I pray, [h]the freewill offerings of my mouth, O LORD,
And teach me Your judgments.
109 [i]My life is continually [9]in my hand,
Yet I do not forget Your law.
110 [j]The wicked have laid a snare for me,
Yet I have not strayed from Your precepts.
111 [k]Your testimonies I have taken as a [l]heritage forever,
For they are the rejoicing of my heart.
112 I have inclined my heart to perform Your statutes
Forever, to the very end.

■ 119:97 I love Your law. The psalmist loves the law because it comes from his God and Savior. See "The Law of God" at Ex. 20:1.

■ 119:98 wiser than my enemies. His enemies rebel against God and reject the law, refusing the insight that God their Creator can give them.

■ 119:99 more understanding than all my teachers. The psalmist does not mean this as a boast but as an emphatic expression of his devotion to God's law.

■ 119:102 You Yourself have taught me. The psalmist does not claim to study with superior intelligence, or even superior determination; he attributes everything to God.

■ 119:105 a lamp to my feet. God's revelation provides the insight to guide His servant. He will not trip in the darkness.

■ 119:109 My life is continually in my hand. The psalmist's obedience is not risk-free, for it exposes him to the wiles of his enemies. He could wish to be free of the danger, but is more concerned to live a godly life in spite of it.

■ 119:113 double-minded. The poet is of a single mind; he loves God and His law. Consequently, he is stable, unlike the double-minded man (James 1:8).

115 [m]Depart from me, you evildoers,
For I will keep the commandments of my God!
116 Uphold me according to Your word, that I may live;
And do not let me [n]be ashamed of my hope.
117 [3]Hold me up, and I shall be safe,
And I shall observe Your statutes continually.
118 You reject all those who stray from Your statutes,
For their deceit is falsehood.
119 You [4]put away all the wicked of the earth [o]like [5]dross;
Therefore I love Your testimonies.
120 [p]My flesh trembles for fear of You,
And I am afraid of Your judgments.

ע AYIN

121 I have done justice and righteousness;
Do not leave me to my oppressors.
122 Be [q]surety[6] for Your servant for good;
Do not let the proud oppress me.
123 My eyes fail from seeking Your salvation
And Your righteous word.
124 Deal with Your servant according to Your mercy,
And teach me Your statutes.
125 [r]I am Your servant;
Give me understanding,
That I may know Your testimonies.
126 It is time for You to act, O LORD,
For they have [7]regarded Your law as void.
127 [s]Therefore I love Your commandments
More than gold, yes, than fine gold!
128 Therefore all Your precepts concerning all things
I consider to be right;
I hate every false way.

For I longed for Your commandments.
132 [w]Look upon me and be merciful to me,
[x]As Your custom is toward those who love Your name.
133 [y]Direct my steps by Your word,
And [z]let no iniquity have dominion over me.
134 [a]Redeem me from the oppression of man,
That I may keep Your precepts.

■ 119:119 dross. The waste that results when metal is smelted. When the wicked are similarly cast off, the righteous remain as refined silver. Cf. Prov. 25:3–5; Is. 1:22, 25.

■ 119:120 The fear of the Lord is vividly described.

■ 119:123 My eyes fail. See v. 82.

■ 119:124 according to Your mercy. The devotion that God shows toward His covenant people, demonstrating His mercy and compassion.

■ 119:126 It is time for You to act. With the direct honesty characteristic of the psalmist, he tells God that He has delayed His judgment long enough. The wicked deserve the punishment they are about to receive.

■ 119:130 The entrance of Your words. It is not clear whether the writer refers to the initial act of revelation, the process of interpreting God's word, or applying the law to his heart. Perhaps all three are intended as a single process bringing light, hope, and understanding to the dark soul.

■ 119:131 panted. The concept is the same as Ps. 42:1, 2.

■ 119:132 toward those who love Your name. Cf. Rom. 8:28.

■ 119:133 Direct my steps. The psalmist wants the Lord to guide him through life. He realizes that one is within the will of God while seeking to obey His revealed word. But he also knows that obedience is impossible unless God supplies the grace to do so.

135 [b]Make Your face shine upon Your servant,
And teach me Your statutes.
136 [c]Rivers of water run down from my eyes,
Because men do not keep Your law.

צ TSADDE

137 [d]Righteous are You, O LORD,
And upright are Your judgments.
138 [e]Your testimonies, which You have commanded,
Are righteous and very faithful.
139 [f]My zeal has [g]consumed me,
Because my enemies have forgotten Your words.
140 [g]Your word is very [g]pure;
Therefore Your servant loves it.
141 I am small and despised,
Yet I do not forget Your precepts.
142 Your righteousness is an everlasting righteousness,
And Your law is [h]truth.
143 Trouble and anguish have [i]overtaken me,
Yet Your commandments are my delights.
144 The righteousness of Your testimonies is everlasting;
Give me understanding, and I shall live.

And cry for help;
I hope in Your word.
148 [j]My eyes are awake through the night watches,
That I may meditate on Your word.
149 Hear my voice according to Your lovingkindness;
O LORD, revive me according to Your justice.
150 They draw near who follow after wickedness;
They are far from Your law.
151 You are [k]near, O LORD,
And all Your commandments are truth.

■ 119:135 Make Your face shine upon Your servant. The psalmist asks for God to come and be with him. He wants to live in the consciousness of God's favor. Compare the priestly blessing in Num. 6:22–27.

■ 119:137 Righteous are You. God acts according to His nature; there is nothing arbitrary or inconsistent about Him.

■ 119:145 with my whole heart. The psalmist is a model of fervent and honest prayer to God.

■ 119:147 I rise before the dawning. The poet's first thought as he awakens is the Lord. His prayer is frequent as well as fervent.

■ 119:149 according to Your lovingkindness . . . according to Your justice. God's love and devotion toward His people is not incompatible with His law.

■ 119:151 You are near, O LORD. God's covenantal presence nullifies the negative effects of the presence of the enemy (v. 150).

■ 119:153 For I do not forget Your law. The psalmist expects that God will bless him because he is obedient. Such an attitude could be presumptuous, a sin the Book of Job guards against, but it could also arise from faith.

■ 119:154 Plead my cause. This phrase comes from the courtroom. The psalmist asks the Lord to intercede for him before his enemies.

155 Salvation is far from the wicked,
For they do not seek Your statutes.
156 [z]Great are Your tender mercies, O LORD;
Revive me according to Your judgments.
157 Many are my persecutors and my enemies,
Yet I do not [o]turn from Your testimonies.
158 I see the treacherous, and [p]am disgusted,
Because they do not keep Your word.
159 Consider how I love Your precepts;
Revive me, O LORD, according to Your lovingkindness.
160 The entirety of Your word is truth,
And every one of Your righteous judgments endures forever.

■ 119:156 Great are Your tender mercies. See Lam. 3:23.

■ 119:161 Princes persecute me. The opposition of princes indicate that the psalmist is probably a powerful person, perhaps the king of Israel.

without a cause. See Ps. 38:19.

■ 119:167 And I love them exceedingly. Obedience is not an onerous task for the psalmist; he follows God's law because he wants to.

■ 119:169 Give me understanding. This line sums up one of the major themes of the psalm: the desire for insight into God's will so that the writer may act in obedience.

■ 119:170 Deliver me. Another major theme of the psalm is summed up: the psalmist's need for deliverance.

■ 119:175 Let my soul live. Once again, an indication that the poet was in the midst of trouble at the time he composed his song.

■ 119:176 Seek Your servant. The psalmist concludes by invoking God as his Shepherd (Ps. 23; John 10); he begs Him to bring him back into the flock.

PSALM 120

Plea for Relief from Bitter Foes

A Song of Ascents.

In [a]my distress I cried to the LORD,
And He heard me.
2 Deliver my soul, O LORD, from lying lips
And from a deceitful tongue.

3 What shall be given to you,
Or what shall be done to you,
You false tongue?
4 Sharp arrows of the [1]warrior,
With coals of the broom tree!

5 Woe is me, that I dwell in [b]Meshech,
[c]That I dwell among the tents of Kedar!
6 My soul has dwelt too long
With one who hates peace.
7 I am for peace;
But when I speak, they are for war.

God the Help of Those Who Seek Him

A Song of Ascents.

I [a]will lift up my eyes to the hills—
From whence comes my help?
2 [b]My help comes from the LORD,
Who made heaven and earth.

3 [c]He will not allow your foot to [1]be moved;
[d]He who keeps you will not slumber.
4 Behold, He who keeps Israel
Shall neither slumber nor sleep.

5 The LORD is your [2]keeper;

■ Ps. 120 This psalm is the first of the fifteen "Songs of Ascents" (120—134). As tradition suggests, they were sung by pilgrims traveling to the mountain of God (Zion) to worship. Ps. 120 opens the group appropriately with the song of a faithful worshiper who is far away from the temple among pagan people (v. 5 note).

■ 120:2 lying lips . . . deceitful tongue. The psalmist's enemies slander him unmercifully.

■ 120:3 to you. The enemy whose lies trouble the psalmist.

■ 120:4 Sharp arrows of the warrior. The liars will be repaid in kind.

■ 120:5 Meshech . . . Kedar. The writer may be speaking figuratively, comparing the treatment he receives from God's people to what he might expect from barbarians. The literal places are far from Israel and also from each other. Meshech was in Asia Minor (Gen. 10:2; Ezek. 38:2) and Kedar was in Arabia (Is. 21:16; Ezek. 7:21).

■ Ps. 121 The first verse suggests why this psalm was included among the "Songs of Ascents" (Ps. 120 note). The psalmist's vision is set firmly on the final goal, Jerusalem, and Zion, the hill of God. The pronoun shift from "I" to "you" could represent an internal dialogue (similar to Ps. 42; 43 or Ps. 103), or more likely the words of the pilgrim who begins the psalm followed by the assurance spoken by a priest or other person.

■ 121:1 to the hills. Jerusalem was in the hill country; the temple was also built on a hill—Zion.

■ 121:3 He will not allow your foot to be moved. A particularly apt image of God's careful protection; Israel is notorious for its rocky and slippery terrain.

■ 121:4 Shall neither slumber nor sleep. God never sleeps, and there is no danger that the psalmist will be forgotten. Elijah ridiculed the prophets of Baal by sarcastically suggesting their god was asleep when they needed him (1 Kin. 18:27).

■ 121:5 your shade. As a person's shadow is always with him, so is God with His people. The metaphor comes from ancient treaty language and has covenantal overtones.

PSALM 122

The Joy of Going to the House of the LORD

A Song of Ascents. Of David.

I was glad when they said to me,
[a]"Let us go into the house of the LORD."
2 Our feet have been standing
Within your gates, O Jerusalem!

3 Jerusalem is built
As a city that is [b]compact together,
4 [c]Where the tribes go up,
The tribes of the LORD,
[1]To [d]the Testimony of Israel,
To give thanks to the name of the LORD.
5 [e]For thrones are set there for judgment,
The thrones of the house of David.

6 [f]Pray for the peace of Jerusalem:
"May they prosper who love you.
7 Peace be within your walls,
Prosperity within your palaces."
8 For the sake of my brethren and companions,
I will now say, "Peace be within you."
9 Because of the house of the LORD our God
I will [g]seek your good.

PSALM 123

Prayer for Relief from Contempt

A Song of Ascents.

Unto You [a]I lift up my eyes,
O You [b]who dwell in the heavens.
2 Behold, as the eyes of servants look to the hand of their masters,

■ Ps. 122 This "Song of Ascents" records the decision of the poet to accompany a group on a visit to Jerusalem. The psalm describes the glories of Jerusalem, where God is worshiped and where the dynasty of David rules (2 Sam. 7), asking God to protect the city and its inhabitants.

This psalm is similar to the "Zion" songs which extol the city of Jerusalem (46; 48; 76). Jerusalem was prized above other cities because God chose to reveal Himself there to His people. Since Christ has come, God's people can meet Him in Christ anywhere on the face of the earth (John 4:19–23). Jerusalem represents all believers (Gal. 4:26), and it typifies the coming New Jerusalem (Rev. 21:9–27).

■ 122:1 I. David is the speaker, although the circumstances of composition are not revealed. Later the psalm would be appropriate for pilgrims going to Jerusalem, as for one of the major festivals (Ex. 23:14–19).

■ 122:4 To the Testimony of Israel. Perhaps a reference to the law of centralization of worship (Deut. 12), or to laws connected with the annual festivals.

■ 122:5 thrones . . . for judgment. The king was the paramount judge in the land, and Jerusalem was the political as well as religious capital of Israel.

■ 122:6 peace. The well-known Hebrew term shalom, which denotes wholeness and health. The prayer is for absence of war and for prosperity and growth.

■ 122:8 For the sake of my brethren and companions. The psalm promotes a sense of community among the people of God. Ultimately, Jerusalem is not bricks and mortar, but people in relationship with one another and with God.

■ 122:9 the house of the LORD our God. The temple building stands for the presence of God in the midst of the people of God.

■ Ps. 123 The last two verses (vv. 3, 4) show that this prayer arises from a situation of distress and persecution.

■ 123:1 I lift up my eyes. See Ps. 121:1.

who dwell in the heavens. The ark and the cherubim in the Most Holy Place were in a representative sense God's earthly throne, but the psalmist, like Solomon, knew that "heaven and the heaven of heavens cannot contain You" (1 Kin. 8:27).

■ 123:2 So our eyes look to the LORD our God. A servant watches the employer's hand for a variety of reasons: to receive orders, to hear

As the eyes of a maid to the hand of her mistress,
[c]So our eyes look to the LORD our God,
Until He has mercy on us.

3 Have mercy on us, O LORD, have mercy on us!
For we are exceedingly filled with contempt.
4 Our soul is exceedingly filled
With the scorn of those who are at ease,
With the contempt of the proud.

PSALM 124

The LORD the Defense of His People

A Song of Ascents. Of David.

"If it had not been the LORD who was on our [a]side,"
[b]Let Israel now say—
2 "If it had not been the LORD who was on our side,
When men rose up against us,
3 Then they would have [c]swallowed us alive,
When their wrath was kindled against us;
4 Then the waters would have overwhelmed us,
The stream would have [1]gone over our soul;
5 Then the swollen waters
Would have [2]gone over our soul."

6 Blessed be the LORD,
Who has not given us as prey to their teeth.
7 [d]Our soul has escaped [e]as a bird from the snare of the [3]fowlers;
The snare is broken, and we have escaped.
8 [f]Our help is in the name of the LORD,
[g]Who made heaven and earth.

PSALM 125

The LORD the Strength of His People

A Song of Ascents.

Those who trust in the LORD
Are like Mount Zion,
Which cannot be moved, but abides forever.
2 As the mountains surround Jerusalem,
So the LORD surrounds His people
From this time forth and forever.

instruction, to receive salary or provisions. The verse teaches that God's people are utterly dependent upon Him for every aspect of their well-being.

■ 123:3 filled with contempt. The strong wording has led some to date the psalm to the period following the Babylonian exile of the sixth century B.C.

■ Ps. 124 In this community of thanksgiving the people praise the Lord for delivering them from a dangerous confrontation with their enemies. The psalm is included in the "Songs of Ascents" indicating its use during festal pilgrimages. The deliverance described would not necessarily be recent, but could be the exodus from Egypt. Today the psalm appeals to the Lord as the One who is able to protect His church from the attacks of principalities and powers in the spiritual realm (Eph. 6:10–20).

■ 124:1 who was on our side. See 118:6 note.

Let Israel now say. These words would be spoken by a priest leading the congregation in corporate thanksgiving.

■ 124:3 they would have swallowed us alive. The enemies would have killed them. See Prov. 1:12 note.

■ 124:4 the waters. See 18:4, 15 and notes.

■ 124:6 to their teeth. The enemy is compared to a lion (Ps. 34:10; 58:6) or a dog (Ps. 59:6, 14).

■ 124:8 Who made heaven and earth. Israel has nothing to fear while God fights for them.

■ Ps. 125 The sixth of the "Songs of Ascents" begins like a confident Zion hymn (cf. Ps. 46; 48; 76). From the temple on Mount Zion the Lord provides protection for His people.

■ 125:2 As the mountains surround Jerusalem. The surrounding mountains were important in the defense of the city and picture God's protective presence (12:1; 2 Kin. 6:17).

PSALM 126

A Joyful Return to Zion

A Song of Ascents.

When [a]the LORD brought back [1]the captivity of Zion,
[b]We were like those who dream.
2 Then [c]our mouth was filled with laughter,
And our tongue with singing.
Then they said among the [2]nations,
"The LORD has done great things for them."
3 The LORD has done great things for us,
And we are glad.

4 Bring back our captivity, O LORD,
As the streams in the South.

5 [d]Those who sow in tears
Shall reap in joy.
6 He who continually goes [3]forth weeping,
Bearing [4]seed for sowing,
Shall doubtless come again [5]with [e]rejoicing,
Bringing his sheaves with him.

PSALM 127

Laboring and Prospering with the LORD

A Song of Ascents. Of Solomon.

Unless the LORD builds the house,
They labor in vain who build it;
Unless [a]the LORD guards the city,

■ 125:3 the scepter of wickedness. The scepter is a symbol of political and military rule, in this case pointing to the oppression of the people of God by a wicked, possibly foreign force.

reach out their hands. By way of imitation, or under the pressures of a corrupt government and society.

■ 125:4, 5 See 18:25, 26.

■ 126:1 When the LORD brought back the captivity of Zion. The allusion is to the return from Babylonian exile in the sixth century B.C., when the captive people of Israel were permitted to return to their country (see books of Ezra, Nehemiah). Cyrus's decision to allow the return was not the mere result of political policy, but of God's intervention.

■ 126:4 Bring back our captivity. Restoration from captivity meant more than a physical return to the land. God's covenantal presence was still needed.

As the streams in the South. The south of Israel is dry, and in a rainstorm the wadi (seasonal streambeds) become dangerous floods.

■ 126:5 Shall reap in joy. God reverses the fortunes of His people. He overrules evil with good, suffering with blessing (Ps. 30:11, 12; John 16:20).

■ Ps. 127 This wise prayer falls into two related parts. The first stanza (vv. 1, 2) expresses the belief that human effort is useless apart from God (paralleling the message of Ecclesiastes), whether for building a house, defending a city, or earning a living. The second stanza (vv. 3–5) focuses on another meaning of building, that of raising children. Children are a gift from God.

A father could be supported during his old age by strong, young sons. Children were a fulfillment of the promise to Abraham that the chosen people would become a great and numerous nation (Gen. 12:1–3). The ultimate focus of the Abrahamic promise of many descendants is on Jesus Christ. In the present day the psalm expresses the joy of Christian parents as they reflect on God's gift of children and His promise to them (Acts 2:39).

■ 127:1 builds the house. The primary reference is to the actual building of a residence, but as a "Song of Ascents" written by Solomon, it is

The watchman stays awake in vain.
2 It is vain for you to rise up early,
To sit up late,
To [b]eat the bread of sorrows;
For so He gives His beloved sleep.

3 Behold, [c]children are a heritage from the LORD,
[d]The fruit of the womb is a [e]reward.
4 Like arrows in the hand of a warrior,
So are the children of one's youth.
5 [f]Happy is the man who has his quiver full of them;
[g]They shall not be ashamed,
But shall speak with their enemies in the gate.

PSALM 128

Blessings of Those Who Fear the LORD

A Song of Ascents.

Blessed [a]is every one who fears the LORD,
Who walks in His ways.

2 [b]When you eat the [f]labor of your hands,
You shall be happy, and it shall be [c]well with you.
3 Your wife shall be [d]like a fruitful vine
In the very heart of your house,
Your [e]children [f]like olive plants
All around your table.
4 Behold, thus shall the man be blessed
Who fears the LORD.

5 [g]The LORD bless you out of Zion,
And may you see the good of Jerusalem
All the days of your life.
6 Yes, may you [h]see your children's children.

[i]Peace be upon Israel!

natural to think specifically of the temple. Furthermore, in the light of the second half of the psalm, the house refers to the family as well as to a physical structure.

guards the city. A city is not secured by its defenses, but by the protection of the Lord. The psalm would remind pilgrims that Jerusalem was not a place of magical protection and security, but that all depended on the Lord.

■ 127:3 children. Lit. "the fruit of the womb." The psalm concentrates on sons, who had the power to provide for their father in his old age, but the second part of this verse includes all children, male and female alike.

■ 128:1 fears the LORD. See notes on Ps. 34:7; 36:1; 119:63.

walks in His ways. Those who obey God's will for their lives as manifested in His law.

■ 128:2 the labor of your hands. One result of the Fall was that Adam would have to work hard to get food on the table (Gen. 3:17–19). The Preacher of Ecclesiastes was driven to despair because some people labored while others, less deserving, enjoyed the benefits of their labor (Eccl. 5:8—6:12; Is. 65:22). The psalmist envisions the righteous prospering from their own labor, a just situation.

■ 128:3 a fruitful vine. The vine produced the grapes for wine, a source of joy to the Israelites (Ps. 104:15). The blessing that the fruitful wife brings includes children around the table.

PSALM 130

Waiting for the Redemption of the LORD

A Song of Ascents.

Out [a]of the depths I have cried to You, O LORD;
2 Lord, hear my voice!
Let Your ears be attentive
To the voice of my supplications.

3 [b]If You, LORD, should [1]mark iniquities,
O Lord, who could [c]stand?
4 But there is [d]forgiveness with You,
That [e]You may be feared.

5 [f]I wait for the LORD, my soul waits,
And [g]in His word I do hope.
6 [h]My soul waits for the Lord
More than those who watch for the morning—
Yes, more than those who watch for the morning.

7 [i]O Israel, hope in the LORD;
For [j]with the LORD there is mercy,
And with Him is abundant redemption.
8 And [k]He shall redeem Israel
From all his iniquities.

5–8). The introduction (vv. 1–4) confidently asserts that the Lord has overturned evil plans against His people frequently in the past.

■ 129:1 afflicted me. The history of Israel is often a history of suffering and oppression, beginning with slavery in Egypt and continuing through the Babylonian captivity.

from my youth. From Israel's beginning as a nation. The nation is personified, speaking of itself as "me" and "my."

■ 129:2 they have not prevailed against me. Slavery in Egypt ended in the Exodus; the Babylonian exile ended with the return and restoration of Judah.

■ 129:3 plowed on my back. The metaphor describes the horrors of Israel's past suffering.

■ 129:4 He has cut . . . the cords. It was as if the wicked held Israel a prisoner bound by strong ropes, but their Savior set them free.

■ 129:5 Zion. See notes on Ps. 2:6; 50:2; 128:5.

■ 129:6 grass on the housetops. Grass is a common metaphor for the brevity of life (37:2; 90:5, 6; 92:7). On the housetop the shallow roots and hot sun make the grass more fragile still.

■ Ps. 130 The psalm is a complaint of a special kind, since the author does not ask for the destruction of the enemy, but meekly turns to God for forgiveness of his own sins.

■ 130:1 Out of the depths. The allusion is to the deep waters of sorrow that overwhelm the psalmist (18:14 and notes).

■ 130:3 who could stand. The psalmist is well aware that there is no one without sin (Ps. 53:1–3; Rom. 3:9–20).

■ 130:4 there is forgiveness. See 103:3; Ex. 34:7; Luke 7:49; Eph. 2:4, 5. The perception of God's mercy helps the heart to rightly cultivate the "fear of the Lord."

■ 130:6 those who watch for the morning. The phrase expresses not only the intense yearning of the poet, but also the certainty of his hope.

■ 130:7 O Israel. The writer now calls upon the whole nation to share his penitence and hope.

Simple Trust in the LORD

A Song of Ascents. Of David.

LORD, my heart is not [1]haughty,
Nor my eyes [2]lofty.
[a]Neither do I [3]concern myself with great matters,
Nor with things too [4]profound for me.

2 Surely I have calmed and quieted my soul,

From this time forth and forever.

The Eternal Dwelling of God in Zion

A Song of Ascents.

LORD, remember David
And all his afflictions;
2 How he swore to the LORD,
[a]And vowed to [b]the Mighty One of Jacob:
3 "Surely I will not go into the chamber of my house,
Or go up to the comfort of my bed;
4 I will [c]not give sleep to my eyes
Or slumber to my eyelids,
5 Until I [d]find a place for the LORD,
A dwelling place for the Mighty One of Jacob."

6 Behold, we heard of it [e]in Ephrathah;
[f]We found it [g]in the fields of [1]the woods.
7 Let us go into His tabernacle;
[h]Let us worship at His footstool.
8 [i]Arise, O LORD, to Your resting place,
You and [j]the ark of Your strength.
9 Let Your priests [k]be clothed with righteousness,
And let Your saints shout for joy.

■ Ps. 131 David expresses his deeply felt confidence in the Lord with this simple, clear, yet profound prayer. It voices the trust of a close, personal relationship with God.

■ 131:1 heart . . . eyes . . . great matters. The first verse has a threefold denial of pride: in the heart, in the eyes, and in actions.

■ 131:2 Like a weaned child. The psalmist draws a beautiful picture of the perfect contentment and confidence he enjoys in God. He is not like an unweaned child, easily disturbed by hunger.

with his mother. God is the Creator of both men and women. The care and protection that is the strength of the mother is a reflection of an aspect of God's own character (Prov. 8; Is. 66:12, 13).

■ 131:3 O Israel. Like Ps. 130, this intensely personal prayer becomes corporate at the end.

■ Ps. 132 Here is a lament asking God to save the king (vv. 1, 6–9). The psalm grounds the petition in God's covenant with David (vv. 10–12; cf. 2 Sam. 7 and Ps. 89) and in the choice of Zion as a revelation of God's earthly presence (see Ps. 46; 48; 76). Since vv. 8–10 are quoted in Solomon's prayer (2 Chr. 6:41, 42), it is likely that this is the time of its composition. After the period of the Hebrew monarchy, the psalm's reference to the Messiah became increasingly clear.

■ 132:1 his afflictions. The historical books record the troubles David endured as he sought to serve the Lord faithfully. In his young manhood he had to run away from Saul; in his maturity he dealt with troubles in his realm, notably Absalom's revolt.

■ 132:2 vowed. David's vow gives the temple and its worship the highest priority. Fulfillment of the vow is implied in vv. 6–9, when David ordered that the ark be removed from Kirjath Jearim and brought to Jerusalem (1 Chr. 13:6).

■ 132:3 I will not go into . . . my house. Similar to his sentiment recorded in 2 Sam. 7, David felt uneasy that he had a comfortable dwelling place while the ark of the covenant, the primary symbol of God's presence, was still housed in the tabernacle.

■ 132:6–9 The ark comes to its proper place.

■ 132:6 Ephrathah. Bethlehem.

the fields of the woods. Kirjath Jearim (1 Chr. 13:1–14).

■ 132:7 at His footstool. A common way to refer to the ark of the covenant. The Lord revealed Himself as enthroned over the ark, resting His feet on it.

■ 132:8 Arise, O LORD. See Ps. 3:7; 7:6.

10 For Your servant David's sake.
Do not turn away the face of Your [2]Anointed.

11 [l]The LORD has sworn in truth to David;
He will not turn from it:
"I will set upon your throne [m]the [3]fruit of your body.
12 If your sons will keep My covenant
And My testimony which I shall teach them,
Their sons also shall sit upon your throne forevermore."

13 [n]For the LORD has chosen Zion;
He has desired it for His [4]dwelling place:
14 "This[o] is My resting place forever;
Here I will dwell, for I have desired it.
15 [p]I will abundantly bless her [5]provision;
I will satisfy her poor with bread.
16 [q]I will also clothe her priests with salvation,
[r]And her saints shall shout aloud for joy.
17 [s]There I will make the [6]horn of David grow;
[t]I will prepare a lamp for My [7]Anointed.
18 His enemies I will [u]clothe with shame,
But upon Himself His crown shall flourish."

PSALM 133

Blessed Unity of the People of God

A Song of Ascents. Of David.

Behold, how good and how pleasant it is
For [a]brethren to dwell together in unity!

2 It is like the precious oil upon the head,
Running down on the beard,
The beard of Aaron,
Running down on the edge of his garments.
3 It is like the dew of [b]Hermon,
Descending upon the mountains of Zion;
For [c]there the LORD commanded the blessing—
Life forevermore.

PSALM 133

1 [a]Gen. 13:8; Heb. 13:1

3 [b]Deut. 4:48 [c]Lev. 25:21; Deut. 28:8; Ps. 42:8

■ 132:10 For Your servant David's sake. The climax of the psalm is an appeal to the Lord to bless the descendant of David who is ruling on the throne. God had promised David that his descendants would rule after him (2 Sam. 7:11–16). Although the line of David was interrupted, God's promises were not thwarted. Jesus, David's greater Son, fulfills the Davidic covenant, and so it is no surprise that the psalm was understood messianically in the early church (cf. Luke 1:32; Acts 2:30).

■ 132:11 I will set upon your throne. An allusion to 2 Sam. 7:11–16.

■ 132:12 If your sons will keep My covenant. There was a conditional element in the Davidic covenant. His physical descendants would only rule successfully in Jerusalem if they were obedient to the covenant.

■ 132:13 Zion. See notes on Ps. 2:6; 50:2.

■ 132:14 Here I will dwell. God chose Zion and had the temple built as the earthly reflection of His heavenly residence. In this sense the temple is His palace from which He rules the world.

■ 132:15 I will . . . bless her. As a generous king, the Lord will tend His subject people Israel with a special eye on the destitute (9:18 note; Deut. 28:1–14).

■ 132:17 horn. A symbol for political strength (92:10 note).

a lamp. See 1 Kin. 11:36.

■ Ps. 133 In this "Song of Ascents," dwelling "together in unity" refers to the relationship among believers as they worship the Lord at Mount Zion. Through Jesus Christ, the New Testament includes with them peoples from all over the world (John 10:16; Rom. 1:5; 15:16; Eph. 2:11–22).

■ 133:title Of David. David's own sons did not live in unity, but fought each other bitterly—Amnon against Absalom, and Adonijah against Solomon.

■ 133:1 brethren. This term could refer to family members, but here probably refers to tribal and national comrades as they unite in worship.

■ 133:2 like the precious oil. The first simile refers to the anointing of Aaron, the high priest. The special and exclusive blend of oil (Ex. 30:22–33) was poured out extravagantly, running down his beard and onto his sacred robes. In the same way the unity of the people of God is a rich perfume making their worship pleasing to Him (Rom. 15:6).

■ 133:3 the dew of Hermon . . . mountains of Zion. Hermon is a majestic mountain on the northern boundaries of Israel, known for a heavy precipitation of refreshing dew. The downward flow of the liquid signifies that God gives the blessing of unity—through the gift of the Holy Spirit.

■ Ps. 134 This brief conclusion to the "Songs of Ascents" is composed of a call to worship (vv. 1, 2) followed by a blessing (v. 3). Many take the first two verses as an exhortation from the departing worshipers to the priests who tend the temple precincts at night. In response the priests bless the congregation. The psalm is a reminder that God's praise is a continual, not momentary, activity (cf. 1 Thess. 5:16, 17).

servants. The reference is probably to the priests and Levites who serve in the temple area. While some have said that "servants" is never used in such a restricted manner, the next two phrases seem to limit the reference to the temple personnel.

■ 135:4 chosen . . . for Himself. The Lord chose Israel for Himself out of His unconditional love, not because of any merit in Israel (Deut. 7:7–11).

special treasure. God has lifted the lowly and made them great in His eyes.

■ 135:5 is above all gods. The foreign nations could not imagine a god like the Lord (113:4 note).

■ 135:6 in the seas. Special reference is made to the seas, since the seas culturally represented the forces of chaos in the ancient Near East (18:4, 15 and notes). But it is God Himself who controls the seas.

■ 135:7 lightning for the rain. God's control over the storm may be a reply to Canaanites or Israelites who dared to attribute the power of the storm to Baal (Ps. 29 and notes).

■ 135:8 the firstborn of Egypt. The culmination of the ten plagues God used to win freedom for His people (Ex. 11).

PSALM 136

Thanksgiving to God for His Enduring Mercy

Oh, [a]give thanks to the LORD, for He is good!
[b]For His mercy endures forever.
2 Oh, give thanks to [c]the God of gods!
For His mercy endures forever.
3 Oh, give thanks to the Lord of lords!
For His mercy endures forever:

4 To Him [d]who alone does great wonders,
For His mercy endures forever;
5 [e]To Him who by wisdom made the heavens,
For His mercy endures forever;
6 [f]To Him who laid out the earth above the waters,
For His mercy endures forever;

■ 135:11 Sihon . . . Og. Kings opposing Israel during their time in the wilderness under Moses (Num. 21:21–35).

■ 135:15 The idols of the nations. The surrounding nations worshiped their gods by statues of wood and precious metals. The psalmist, like Isaiah (Is. 44), ridicules this practice. It is a crude and absurd example of taking a piece of creation and exalting it above the Creator (Rom. 1:21–23).

■ 135:18 are like them. The pagans made their gods in their own image. Those who serve such gods will become like them, powerless and contemptible. See Is. 44:9–20; Rom. 1:22–25.

■ 135:19 house of Aaron. The priests. See Ps. 115:9–11 for a similar progression.

■ Ps. 136 This psalm is an antiphonal liturgy with the memorable refrain, "His mercy endures forever." A priest or soloist would chant the first part of a verse, and the congregation would respond with the refrain. Performance of the liturgy must have been powerful and moving, as the priest added example to example of God's praise.

■ 136:1 His mercy endures forever. God's mercy is His devotion to His people, to whom He is freely bound by the pledge of His own grace in His covenant. See theological note "God Is Love: Divine Goodness and Faithfulness."

■ 136:5 by wisdom. God's wisdom is associated often with the creation (Prov. 8).

God Is Love: Divine Goodness and Faithfulness

The statement, "God is love," is often explained in terms of the revelation, given through the life and teaching of Christ, of the endless life of the triune God as one of mutual affection and honor (Matt. 3:17; 17:5; John 3:35; 14:31; 16:13, 14; 17:1–5, 22–26). With this idea is linked the recognition that God made angels and men to glorify Him in sharing the joyful give-and-take of this divine life according to their own creaturely mode. But when John says "God is love" (1 John 4:8), he means, as he goes on to explain, that God through Christ has saved sinners. "In this the love of God was manifested toward us, that God has sent His only begotten Son into the world, that we might live through Him. In this is love, not that we loved God, but that He loved us and sent His Son to be the propitiation for our sins" (1 John 4:9, 10).

As always in the New Testament, "we" or "us" as the objects and beneficiaries of redeeming love means "us who believe." "We" or "us" does not refer to every individual belonging to the human race. When "the world" is said to be loved and redeemed (John 3:16, 17; 2 Cor. 5:19; 1 John 2:2), that "world" is the great number of God's elect scattered worldwide, in every nation (cf. John 10:16; 11:52). The redeemed "world" is not each and every person who ever did or will exist.

Sovereign redemptive love is one facet of the quality Scripture calls God's goodness (Ps. 100:5; Mark 10:18), that is, the glorious kindness and generosity that touches all His creatures (Ps. 145:9, 15, 16) and that ought to lead all sinners to repentance (Rom. 2:4). Other aspects of this goodness are the pity that shows kindness to people in distress and rescues them from trouble (Ps. 107, 136), and the patience that does not cut off God's kindness from people who continue in sin (Ex. 34:6; Ps. 78:38; Jon. 3:10—4:11; Rom. 9:22; 2 Pet. 3:9). The supreme expression of God's goodness is the love that saves sinners who deserve only condemnation: saving them, moreover, at the cost of Christ's death on Calvary (Rom. 3:22–24; 5:5–8; 8:32–39; Eph. 2:1–10; 3:14–18; 5:25–27).

God's faithfulness is another aspect of His goodness and praiseworthiness. People lie, and break their word; God will do neither. In the worst of times it can be affirmed: "His compassions fail not . . . Great is Your faithfulness" (Lam. 3:22, 23; Ps. 36:5; cf. Ps. 89, especially vv. 1, 2, 14, 24, 33, 37, 49). Even when circumstances are unexpected and bewildering, and threaten to hide His faithfulness, still we know that God keeps His promises to us who believe: "All have come to pass for you; not one word . . . has failed" (Josh. 23:14). □

■ 136:7 great lights. The sun and the moon (vv. 8, 9).

■ 136:10 Egypt . . . their firstborn. The tenth and most terrible plague preceding the Exodus (Ex. 11).

PSALM 137

Longing for Zion in a Foreign Land

By the rivers of Babylon,
There we sat down, yea, we wept
When we remembered Zion.
2 We hung our harps
Upon the willows in the midst of it.
3 For there those who carried us away captive asked of us a song,
And those who [a]plundered us requested mirth,
Saying, "Sing us one of the songs of Zion!"

4 How shall we sing the LORD's song
In a foreign land?
5 If I forget you, O Jerusalem,
Let my right hand forget its skill!
6 If I do not remember you,
Let my [b]tongue cling to the roof of my mouth—

■ 136:19, 20 Sihon . . . Og. See 135:11 and note.

■ 136:23 remembered us. The psalm becomes personal, applying God's salvation to the present. God continues to work as He has worked in the past to save His people from distress.

■ 136:24 our enemies. The enemies are not specified, permitting the easy application of the psalm to all generations.

■ Ps. 137 Of all the psalms this is probably the most clearly related to a historical event, the Exile of Judah to Babylon in the sixth century B.C. There is conflicting evidence about whether the psalm was composed during the Exile or immediately afterward (v. 1 note). The despair experienced in the Exile is eloquently expressed along with anger toward the enemy (vv. 7–9).

■ 137:1 the rivers of Babylon. The Tigris and Euphrates, as well as numerous canals flowed near Babylon, far from Zion and the temple.

we sat down . . . we wept. These words express the deep despair caused by deportation and exile.

Zion. See Ps. 2:6; 50:2; 65:1; 74:2; 128:5; 129:5.

■ 137:2 harps. Instruments of joy. After a victory Israel responded with songs (Ex. 15; Judg. 5). In defeat, the music ceases and there is silence (Is. 24:8, 9).

■ 137:3 those who carried us away. The Babylonians.

one of the songs of Zion. These are songs such as Ps. 46 and 48, about the greatness of Zion and Jerusalem. With Jerusalem destroyed, the Babylonians ridiculed their captives.

■ 137:5 my right hand forget. How to play the harp. If he cannot sing of Jerusalem, he will not sing at all.

■ 137:6 my chief joy. Now that Christ has come, there are no special holy places, but during the period of the Psalms there was but one—Zion. Jerusalem symbolically represented the City of God, composed of all believers (Gal. 4:26; Rev. 21:9–27). For the exiles, not only religious but political and cultural feelings were evoked by thoughts of their homeland.

If I do not exalt Jerusalem
Above my chief joy.

7 Remember, O LORD, against [c]the sons of Edom
The day of Jerusalem,
Who said, [1]"Raze it, raze it,
To its very foundation!"

8 O daughter of Babylon, [d]who are to be destroyed,
Happy the one [e]who repays you as you have served us!
9 Happy the one who takes and [f]dashes
Your little ones against the rock!

PSALM 138

The LORD's Goodness to the Faithful

A Psalm of David.

I will praise You with my whole heart;
[a]Before the gods I will sing praises to You.
2 [b]I will worship [c]toward Your holy temple,
And praise Your name
For Your lovingkindness and Your truth;
For You have [d]magnified Your word above all Your name.
3 In the day when I cried out, You answered me,
And made me bold with strength in my soul.

4 [e]All the kings of the earth shall praise You, O LORD,
When they hear the words of Your mouth.
5 Yes, they shall sing of the ways of the LORD,
For great is the glory of the LORD.
6 [f]Though the LORD is on high,
Yet [g]He regards the lowly;
But the proud He knows from afar.

7 [h]Though I walk in the midst of trouble, You will revive me;
You will stretch out Your hand
Against the wrath of my enemies,
And Your right hand will save me.
8 [i]The LORD will [1]perfect that which concerns me;
Your mercy, O LORD, endures forever;
[j]Do not forsake the works of Your hands.

■ 138:1 Before the gods. See introduction to Ps. 82.

■ 138:3 I cried out, You answered me. The motivating force behind David's thanksgiving. God answers prayer.

■ 138:4 All the kings of the earth. David knows that his individual praise is unworthy of the greatness of God. He envisions all the rulers of the world calling upon the Lord. This never happened during the period of the Old Testament; if anything, the kings of the earth were opposed to God (Ps. 2; 48). After the coming of Christ, the gospel was extended to the nations (note on 133:title). In the end, all the kings of the earth will bring their glory into the New Jerusalem (Rev. 21:24).

■ 138:6 He regards. He cares for them and meets them in their need.

■ 138:7 in the midst of trouble. The trouble is general, enabling later worshipers to readily apply this thought to their own condition.

PSALM 139

God's Perfect Knowledge of Man

For the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David.

O LORD, [a]You have searched me and known me.
2 [b]You know my sitting down and my rising up;
You [c]understand my thought afar off.
3 [d]You [1]comprehend my path and my lying down,
And are acquainted with all my ways.
4 For there is not a word on my tongue,
But behold, O LORD, [e]You know it altogether.
5 You have [2]hedged me behind and before,
And laid Your hand upon me.
6 [f]Such knowledge is too wonderful for me;
It is high, I cannot attain it.

7 [g]Where can I go from Your Spirit?
Or where can I flee from Your presence?
8 [h]If I ascend into heaven, You are there;
[i]If I make my bed in [3]hell, behold, You are there.
9 If I take the wings of the morning,
And dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea,
10 Even there Your hand shall lead me,
And Your right hand shall hold me.
11 If I say, "Surely the darkness shall [4]fall on me,"
Even the night shall be light about me;
12 Indeed, [j]the darkness [5]shall not hide from You,
But the night shines as the day;
The darkness and the light are both alike to You.

13 For You formed my inward parts;
You [6]covered me in my mother's womb.
14 I will praise You, for [7]I am fearfully and wonderfully made;
Marvelous are Your works,
And that my soul knows very well.
15 [k]My [8]frame was not hidden from You,
When I was made in secret,

■ Ps. 139 This psalm is the prayer of a person who calls on God, announcing that he is innocent of all charges. With this purpose in mind he meditates on the character of God, exploring God's wisdom, His omniscience, and His greatness as the Creator.

■ 139:1 You have searched me . . . known me. Compare the appeal in vv. 23, 24. He is the all-knowing God who has an intimate understanding of the psalmist, as of all His creation.

■ 139:2 You understand my thought. God is omniscient. Thoughts may be the most private areas of life, but they cannot be hidden from the Lord (1 Chr. 28:9; Jer. 17:10; John 2:25).

■ 139:4 not a word on my tongue. God knows David's thought before it is spoken. This is why we can pray to God silently in our thoughts. See "God Sees and Knows: Divine Omniscience" at Prov. 15:3.

■ 139:5 You have hedged me. The Lord sets His limits around the psalmist's actions.

laid Your hand. To guide him in life.

■ 139:7 Your Spirit . . . Your presence. God's personal presence is everywhere throughout His creation. The thought of these rhetorical questions is that there is nowhere the psalmist can go that is beyond God's view. Jonah learned this lesson when he tried to flee God's commission to preach to the Ninevites. See "The Spiritual Nature of God" at Is. 66:1.

■ 139:8 into heaven . . . in hell. The psalmist expresses God's omnipresence through a series of contrasts. The first contrast is spatial—God is in heaven; His presence reaches even to "hell," here a translation of the Hebrew sheol, "the grave" (6:5 and note). Yet the hope of life beyond the grave shines through in the psalm (v. 10).

■ 139:9 the wings of the morning . . . uttermost parts of the sea. A poetic expression meaning from the east to the west, anywhere on earth.

■ 139:10 shall lead me. It is not merely that God will see the psalmist wherever he is: He will be there to guide and support him as well. See "Omnipresence and Omnipotence" at Jer. 23:24.

Your right hand. See Ps. 73:23–26; 74:11; 138:7.

■ 139:13 You formed my inward parts. God's knowledge of the writer goes back even before his birth, to his conception, when the Lord created the psalmist's personal existence.

■ 139:14 Marvelous are Your works. Such works include creating the writer and every other human being. The wonder of the developing child in the womb gives praise to the Creator.

■ 139:15 in secret. In his mother's womb.

lowest parts of the earth. Here a metaphor for the womb.

And skillfully wrought in the lowest parts of the earth.
16 Your eyes saw my substance, being yet unformed.
And in Your book they all were written,
The days fashioned for me,
When as yet there were none of them.

17 [l]How precious also are Your thoughts to me, O God!
How great is the sum of them!
18 If I should count them, they would be more in number than the sand;
When I awake, I am still with You.

19 Oh, that You would [m]slay the wicked, O God!
[n]Depart from me, therefore, you [o]bloodthirsty men.
20 For they [o]speak against You wickedly;
[l]Your enemies take Your name in vain.
21 [p]Do I not hate them, O LORD, who hate You?
And do I not loathe those who rise up against You?
22 I hate them with [2]perfect hatred;
I count them my enemies.

23 [q]Search me, O God, and know my heart;
Try me, and know my anxieties;
24 And see if there is any wicked way in me,
And [r]lead me in the way everlasting.

Prayer for Deliverance from Evil Men

To the Chief Musician. A Psalm of David.

Deliver me, O LORD, from evil men;
Preserve me from violent men,
2 Who plan evil things in their hearts;
[a]They continually gather together for war.
3 They sharpen their tongues like a serpent;
The [b]poison of asps is under their lips. Selah

4 [c]Keep me, O LORD, from the hands of the wicked;
Preserve me from violent men,
Who have purposed to make my steps stumble.
5 The proud have hidden a [d]snare for me, and cords;
They have spread a net by the wayside;
They have set traps for me. Selah

6 I said to the LORD: "You are my God;
Hear the voice of my supplications, O LORD.

You have [1]covered my head in the day of battle.

■ 139:16. The days fashioned for me. God's preparation of the poet's days does not wait for time. He rejoices in God's predetermined course for his life.

■ 139:17 precious . . . to me. The incomprehensible greatness of God's knowledge overwhelms the psalmist. To know that One so great knows him so intimately is a source of consolation to David.

■ 139:19 Depart from me. The psalmist wants to distance himself from the wicked, because he is allied with God.

■ 139:23 Search . . . know . . . Try. The psalmist trusts God and invites Him to probe his innermost thoughts and feelings (v. 1). He submits himself to God's correction and direction.

■ Ps. 140 This psalm is a complaint, which characteristically turns to the Lord at the end with confidence (vv. 12, 13).

■ 140:2 gather together for war. Taken literally, this language suggests that the original setting of the psalm was war. Probably the language is figurative, like the reference to hunting in v. 5.

■ 140:3 The poison of asps. The enemy, through gossip and slander, has carefully planned the writer's destruction.

■ 140:7 in the day of battle. See v. 2 note. The psalmist reminds God that He has been his protector.

8 Do not grant, O LORD, the desires of the wicked;
Do not further his wicked scheme,
[e]Lest they be exalted. Selah

9 "As for the head of those who surround me,
Let the evil of their lips cover them;
10 [f]Let burning coals fall upon them;
Let them be cast into the fire,
Into deep pits, that they rise not up again.
11 Let not a slanderer be established in the earth;
Let evil hunt the violent man to overthrow him."

12 I know that the LORD will [g]maintain
The cause of the afflicted,
And justice for the poor.
13 Surely the righteous shall give thanks to Your name;
The upright shall dwell in Your presence.

PSALM 141

Prayer for Safekeeping from Wickedness

A Psalm of David.

LORD, I cry out to You;
Make haste to me!
Give ear to my voice when I cry out to You.
2 Let my prayer be set before You [a]as incense,
[b]The lifting up of my hands as [c]the evening sacrifice.

3 Set a guard, O LORD, over my [d]mouth;
Keep watch over the door of my lips.
4 Do not incline my heart to any evil thing,
To practice wicked works
With men who work iniquity;
[e]And do not let me eat of their delicacies.

5 [f]Let the righteous strike me;
It shall be a kindness.
And let him rebuke me;
It shall be as excellent oil;
Let my head not refuse it.

For still my prayer is against the deeds of the wicked.
6 Their judges are overthrown by the sides of the [i]cliff,
And they hear my words, for they are sweet.
7 Our bones are scattered at the mouth of the grave,
As when one plows and breaks up the earth.

8 But [g]my eyes are upon You, O GOD the Lord;
In You I take refuge;

■ 140:9 evil of their lips. He asks God to turn back on his persecutors the evil they meant for him (7:14–16 notes).

■ 140:10 Let them be cast into the fire. See Introduction: Characteristics and Themes.

■ 140:12 will maintain . . . cause of the afflicted. See 9:18 note; 72:4.

■ 141:2 as incense . . . as the evening sacrifice. This simile comes from the sacrificial worship of ancient Israel and suggests that the psalm was set in that context. The incense was valuable and pleasing to the Lord (Ex. 30:34–38), and the psalmist asks for his prayers to be received favorably also. In Rev. 8:3–5, an angel carries the prayers of the saints, together with incense, to the throne of God.

■ 141:3 Set a guard . . . over my mouth. The writer foresees that he will be tempted to speak unwisely, and so shows forthright humility in asking God to deter him.

■ 141:4 to any evil thing. Indicating any compromise.

■ 141:5 Let the righteous strike me. A wise person accepts correction; the person who refuses to listen will finally be destroyed (Prov. 29:1; Heb. 12:1–13).

[2] Do not leave my soul destitute.
9 Keep me from [h] the snares they have laid for me,
And from the traps of the workers of iniquity.
10 [i] Let the wicked fall into their own nets,
While I escape safely.

PSALM 142

A Plea for Relief from Persecutors

A [a] Contemplation [t] of David. A Prayer [b] when he was in the cave.

I cry out to the LORD with my voice;
With my voice to the LORD I make my supplication.
2 I pour out my complaint before Him;
I declare before Him my trouble.

3 When my spirit [2] was [c] overwhelmed within me,
Then You knew my path.
In the way in which I walk
They have secretly [d] set a snare for me.
4 Look on my right hand and see,
For there is no one who acknowledges me;
Refuge has failed me;
No one cares for my soul.

5 I cried out to You, O LORD:
I said, "You are my refuge,
My portion in the land of the living.
6 [3] Attend to my cry,
For I am brought very low;
Deliver me from my persecutors,
For they are stronger than I.
7 Bring my soul out of prison,
That I may [e] praise Your name;
The righteous shall surround me,
For You shall deal bountifully with me."

PSALM 143

An Earnest Appeal for Guidance and Deliverance

A Psalm of David.

Hear my prayer, O LORD,
Give ear to my supplications!
In Your faithfulness answer me,
And in Your righteousness.

3 [c] Ps. 77:3 [d] Ps. 141:9 [2] Lit. fainted
6 [3] Give heed
7 [e] Ps. 34:1, 2

■ 141:9 the snares. A hunting image; see note on Ps. 140:5.

■ 141:10 into their own nets. See 7:14, 15 and note.

■ Ps. 142 The psalm is the complaint of someone at the end of his resources.

■ 142:title when he was in the cave. Except for this instance, historical titles for psalms are found only in the first two books of the Psalter.

■ 142:3, 4 my spirit was overwhelmed. The psalmist was exhausted from persecution.

■ 142:4 on my right. The place where one would expect to find a helper for him; he wants God to see that there is no one on his side (16:8; 110:5; 121:5).

■ 142:7 out of prison. According to the title, the reference is to the cave where David hid (57:title). In later use, the prison could be any situation that holds a person captive, including a literal prison.

The righteous shall surround me. David looks forward to a time when God will be with him and he will not be alone.

■ Ps. 143 This song is the last of the "penitential psalms" (introduction to Ps. 6). The note of penitence is seen in v. 2, which may be alluded to by Paul (Rom. 3:20; Gal. 2:16). Ps. 142 and 143 are both appeals to God for help in the midst of trouble when there are no resources to depend on.

■ 143:1 In Your faithfulness . . . righteousness. The psalmist appeals to God's nature and character.

PSALM 143

2 [a]Do not enter into judgment with Your servant,
For [a]in Your sight no one living is righteous.

3 For the enemy has persecuted my soul;
He has crushed my life to the ground;
He has made me dwell in [1]darkness,
Like those who have long been dead.

4 [b]Therefore my spirit is overwhelmed within me;
My heart within me is distressed.

5 [c]I remember the days of old;
I meditate on all Your works;
I [2]muse on the work of Your hands.

6 I spread out my hands to You;
[d]My soul longs for You like a thirsty land. Selah

7 Answer me speedily, O LORD;
My spirit fails!
Do not hide Your face from me,
[e]Lest I [3]be like those who [4]go down into the pit.

8 Cause me to hear Your lovingkindness [f]in the morning,
For in You do I trust;
[g]Cause me to know the way in which I should walk,
For [h]I lift up my soul to You.

9 Deliver me, O LORD, from my enemies;
[5]In You I take shelter.

10 [i]Teach me to do Your will,
For You are my God;
[j]Your Spirit is good.
Lead me in [k]the land of uprightness.

11 [l]Revive me, O LORD, for Your name's sake!
For Your righteousness' sake bring my soul out of trouble.

12 In Your mercy [m]cut[6] off my enemies,
And destroy all those who afflict my soul;
For I am Your servant.

PSALM 144

1 [a]2 Sam. 22:35; Ps. 18:34

■ 143:2 no one living is righteous. David has measured his own heart in the sight of God and has learned that no one can pretend to be righteous at the bar of God's judgment.

■ 143:4 my spirit is overwhelmed within me. See note on Ps. 142:3.

■ 143:5 I remember. See note on Ps. 44:1; cf. Ps. 77:3, 11; 111:4.

■ 143:7 who go down into the pit. He will die (Ezek. 26:20).

■ 143:8 Cause me. The psalmist not only desires deliverance—he wants God's guidance. He knows that it is only as he walks in the way of the Lord that he will live safely.

lovingkindness. The love of God's covenant devotion to His people.

the morning. The psalmist utters his prayer at night or in the very early morning, hoping that God's answer will greet him at dawn.

■ 143:11 Your name's sake. See Ps. 8:1.

■ Ps. 144 This psalm is set in the midst of conflict (v. 11), but the speaker does not panic as he calls upon the Lord to appear. The language of God's appearance is similar to Ps. 18, also by David. The language of battle applies figuratively to the spiritual warfare that Christians wage against the "spiritual hosts of wickedness" (Eph. 6:10–20).

■ 144:1 my Rock. See notes on Ps. 62:2; cf. Ps. 28:7; Deut. 32:18; Ex. 17:6.

Who trains my hands for war. The association of God with warfare can be a stumbling block in appreciating the Old Testament. There is no conflict between the Old and New Testaments on this point. The warfare of God's people has been heightened and intensified for Christians, whose war is against unseen spiritual enemies arrayed against God and themselves for His sake (Eph. 6:10–20).

2 My lovingkindness and my fortress,
My high tower and my deliverer,
My shield and the One in whom I take refuge,
Who subdues [1]my people under me.

3 [b]LORD, what is man, that You take knowledge of him?
Or the son of man, that You are mindful of him?
4 [c]Man is like a breath;
[d]His days are like a passing shadow.

5 [e]Bow down Your heavens, O LORD, and come down;
[f]Touch the mountains, and they shall smoke.
6 [g]Flash forth lightning and scatter them;
Shoot out Your arrows and destroy them.
7 Stretch out Your hand from above;
Rescue me and deliver me out of great waters,
From the hand of foreigners,
8 Whose mouth [h]speaks [2]lying words,
And whose right hand is a right hand of falsehood.

9 I will [i]sing a new song to You, O God;
On a harp of ten strings I will sing praises to You,
10 The One who gives [3]salvation to kings,
[j]Who delivers David His servant
From the deadly sword.

11 Rescue me and deliver me from the hand of foreigners,
Whose mouth speaks lying words,
And whose right hand is a right hand of falsehood—
12 That our sons may be [k]as plants grown up in their youth;
That our daughters may be as [4]pillars,
Sculptured in palace style;
13 That our barns may be full,
Supplying all kinds of produce;
That our sheep may bring forth thousands
And ten thousands in our fields;
14 That our oxen may be well laden;
That there be no [5]breaking in or going out;
That there be no outcry in our streets.
15 [l]Happy are the people who are in such a state;
Happy are the people whose God is the LORD!

PSALM 145

A Song of God's Majesty and Love

title [a]Ps. 100:title

1 [1]praise

■ 144:2 lovingkindness . . . fortress. The Bible presents no conflict between God's love and His warfare.

under me. David and later faithful kings.

■ 144:3 what is man. See Ps. 8:4.

■ 144:4 like a breath. Ephemeral and short-lived. The word is translated "vanity" in Eccl. 1:2. The poet is amazed that God cares for him.

■ 144:5 they shall smoke. When God appears, nature trembles before Him (Ex. 19:16–19).

■ 144:7 great waters. The enemies are compared to the Near Eastern popular conception of the cosmic waters of chaos (18:4, 14 and notes).

■ 144:9 a new song. See note on Ps. 33:3.

■ 144:11 from the hand of foreigners. The threat is from outside Israel.

■ 144:12 our sons . . . our daughters. When the oppressive foreigners have been thrown back, the next generation will flourish.

■ 144:14 no breaking in. The poet envisions complete security from outside military threats.

■ Ps. 145 The psalmist leads Israel in praise of the Lord. This poem is the first of six hymns that close the Psalter like a display of fireworks. The psalm is an acrostic, each parallel line beginning with a consecutive letter of the alphabet. One letter (nun) is missing, here, possibly a copyist's error.

Every day I will bless You,
And I will praise Your name forever and ever.
3 [b]Great is the LORD, and greatly to be praised;
And [c]His greatness is [2]unsearchable.

4 [d]One generation shall praise Your works to another,
And shall declare Your mighty acts.
5 [3]I will meditate on the glorious splendor of Your majesty,
And [4]on Your wondrous works.
6 Men shall speak of the might of Your awesome acts,
And I will declare Your greatness.
7 They shall [5]utter the memory of Your great goodness,
And shall sing of Your righteousness.

8 [e]The LORD is gracious and full of compassion,
Slow to anger and great in mercy.
9 [f]The LORD is good to all,
And His tender mercies are over all His works.

10 [g]All Your works shall praise You, O LORD,
And Your saints shall bless You.
11 They shall speak of the glory of Your kingdom,
And talk of Your power,
12 To make known to the sons of men His mighty acts,
And the glorious majesty of His kingdom.
13 [h]Your kingdom is an everlasting kingdom,
And Your dominion endures throughout all [6]generations.

14 The LORD upholds all who fall,
And [i]raises up all who are bowed down.
15 [j]The eyes of all look expectantly to You,
And [k]You give them their food in due season.
16 You open Your hand
[l]And satisfy the desire of every living thing.

17 The LORD is righteous in all His ways,
Gracious in all His works.
18 [m]The LORD is near to all who call upon Him,
To all who call upon Him [n]in truth.
19 He will fulfill the desire of those who fear Him;
He also will hear their cry and save them.
20 [o]The LORD preserves all who love Him,
But all the wicked He will destroy.
21 My mouth shall speak the praise of the LORD,

16 [l]Ps. 104:21, 28
18 [m][Deut. 4:7] [n][John 4:24]
20 [o][Ps. 31:23]

■ 145:1 my God, O King. See note on Ps. 93:1.

■ 145:3 unsearchable. God's power and might are so great that finite human minds are unable to comprehend them fully. This verse teaches the doctrine of the incomprehensibility of God. People can have a true understanding of God, but never a complete or exhaustive one.

■ 145:4 One generation . . . to another. See Ps. 78:4. Parents had the duty of instructing their children in the ways of the Lord (Deut. 6:20–25).

■ 145:5 Your majesty . . . Your wondrous works. God is great in what He is and what He does.

■ 145:8 The LORD is gracious. The wording of this verse occurs a number of times throughout Scripture, beginning at Ex. 34:6.

full of compassion. That God allows people to live in spite of their deep sin is a sign of His mercy.

great in mercy. The love of God's covenant devotion to His people.

■ 145:10 All Your works. See "General Revelation" at 19:1.

■ 145:11 Your kingdom. The revelation of God as the King who rules His kingdom emphasizes His sovereign power and control over His creation.

■ 145:13 an everlasting kingdom. God is eternal, and His kingdom will never be destroyed. See Nebuchadnezzar's confession in Dan. 4:34.

■ 145:14 upholds all who fall. God is compassionate toward the weak and restores the erring (9:18 note; 72:4).

■ 145:16 of every living thing. God gives gifts to all His creatures, people and animals, saints and sinners.

■ 145:18 To all who call upon Him. While God is kind to all creation, the psalm goes on to specify those who love Him and turn to Him.

■ 145:19 those who fear Him. See notes on Ps. 34:7; 36:1.

And all flesh shall bless His holy name
Forever and ever.

PSALM 146

The Happiness of Those Whose Help Is the LORD

Praise[1] the LORD!

[a]Praise the LORD, O my soul!
2 [b]While I live I will praise the LORD;
I will sing praises to my God while I have my being.

3 [c]Do not put your trust in princes,
Nor in [2]a son of man, in whom there is no [3]help.
4 [d]His spirit departs, he returns to his earth;
In that very day [e]his plans perish.

5 [f]Happy is he who has the God of Jacob for his help,
Whose hope is in the LORD his God,
6 [g]Who made heaven and earth,
The sea, and all that is in them;
Who keeps truth forever,
7 [h]Who executes justice for the oppressed,
[i]Who gives food to the hungry.
[j]The LORD gives freedom to the prisoners.

8 [k]The LORD opens the eyes of the blind;
[l]The LORD raises those who are bowed down;
The LORD loves the righteous.
9 [m]The LORD watches over the strangers;
He relieves the fatherless and widow;
[n]But the way of the wicked He [4]turns upside down.

10 [o]The LORD shall reign forever—
Your God, O Zion, to all generations.

Praise the LORD!

PSALM 147

Praise to God for His Word and Providence

Praise[1] the LORD!
For [a]it is good to sing praises to our God;
[b]For it is pleasant, and [c]praise is beautiful.

PSALM 147

1 [a]Ps. 92:1 [b]Ps. 135:3 [c]Ps. 33:1 [1]Heb. Hallelujah

■ Ps. 146 The last five psalms are hymns marked by opening and closing cries of "Praise the LORD," characterizing their pervasive mood.

■ 146:1 O my soul. See note on Ps. 103:1.

■ 146:3 in princes. Some believe that this reference is to foreign kings who rule over Judah after the nation's Babylonian exile of the sixth century B.C. However, there were earlier times when the children of Israel misplaced their trust in native rulers (1 Sam. 8).

■ 146:5 Happy. See Ps. 1:1.

his help. God is the only One capable of helping those in distress. This verse provides the theme of the psalm, and the following verses describe His power and compassion.

■ 146:6 Who made. God's role as Creator is highlighted to emphasize His power.

The sea. See Ps. 24:2.

■ 146:7 the oppressed . . . the hungry. See 9:18 note; 72:4.

■ 146:9 the wicked He turns upside down. While God promotes the cause of the weak, He resists the proud and abusive.

■ 146:10 reign forever. See Ps. 93:1.

O Zion. See 2:6 note; 50:2; 74:2; 84:7; 128:5; 129:5; 137:6.

Praise the LORD. See v. 1.

■ Ps. 147 This is part of the great doxology that concludes the Psalter. It praises the Lord for rebuilding Jerusalem and was probably composed during the period of Judah's restoration following its Babylonian captivity in the sixth century B.C. (Neh. 12:27–47). As in Ps. 146, God's power is radically contrasted with human might.

■ 147:1 it is good. In this way the poet encourages the congregation to praise the Lord.

2 The LORD [d]builds up Jerusalem:
[e]He gathers together the outcasts of Israel.
3 [f]He heals the brokenhearted
And binds up their [2]wounds.
4 [g]He counts the number of the stars;
He calls them all by name.
5 [h]Great is our Lord, and [i]mighty in power;
[j]His understanding is infinite.
6 [k]The LORD lifts up the humble;
He casts the wicked down to the ground.

7 Sing to the LORD with thanksgiving;
Sing praises on the harp to our God,
8 [l]Who covers the heavens with clouds,
Who prepares rain for the earth,
Who makes grass to grow on the mountains.
9 [m]He gives to the beast its food,
And [n]to the young ravens that cry.

10 [o]He does not delight in the strength of the horse;
He takes no pleasure in the legs of a man.
11 The LORD takes pleasure in those who fear Him,
In those who hope in His mercy.

12 Praise the LORD, O Jerusalem!
Praise your God, O Zion!
13 For He has strengthened the bars of your gates;
He has blessed your children within you.
14 [p]He makes peace in your borders.
And [q]fills you with [3]the finest wheat.

15 [r]He sends out His command to the earth;
His word runs very swiftly.
16 [s]He gives snow like wool;
He scatters the frost like ashes;
17 He casts out His hail like [4]morsels;
Who can stand before His cold?
18 [t]He sends out His word and melts them;
He causes His wind to blow, and the waters flow.

19 [u]He declares His word to Jacob,
[v]His statutes and His judgments to Israel.
20 [w]He has not dealt thus with any nation;
And as for His judgments, they have not known them.

[5]Praise the LORD!

■ 147:2 gathers . . . the outcasts. See introduction to this psalm. This verse probably refers to the return of Judeans to the Promised Land following Cyrus's decree (2 Chr. 36:22, 23) that ended the Babylonian exile.

■ 147:4 the number of the stars. The number of stars seems infinite. Cf. Gen. 15:5.

■ 147:5 His understanding is infinite. God is above and beyond human intelligence. There is no scale that can measure infinity.

■ 147:8, 9 clouds . . . rain . . . grass . . . food. God regulates all the processes that provide food for His creatures.

■ 147:10 the legs of a man. God does not judge people by their physical strength or appearance, but according to their heart's attitude toward Him (1 Sam. 16:7). Strong legs, like good horses, were important for soldiers.

■ 147:11 who fear Him. See notes on Ps. 34:7 and 36:1.

mercy. God's covenant love for His people.

■ 147:13 the bars of your gates. The gates provide security for the city; note what happens when they are weak (Nah. 3:13).

■ 147:14 the finest wheat. Representative of fertility and provision.

■ 147:15 His word runs very swiftly. It accomplishes its purpose quickly.

■ 147:19 His statutes . . . judgments. He guides Israel in the proper way of corporate behavior.

■ 147:20 Praise the LORD. See v. 1.

PSALM 148

Praise to the LORD from Creation

Praise[1] the LORD!

Praise the LORD from the heavens;
Praise Him in the heights!
2 Praise Him, all His angels;
Praise Him, all His hosts!
3 Praise Him, sun and moon;
Praise Him, all you stars of light!
4 Praise Him, [a]you heavens of heavens,
And [b]you waters above the heavens!

5 Let them praise the name of the LORD,
For [c]He commanded and they were created.
6 [d]He also established them forever and ever;
He made a decree which shall not pass away.

7 Praise the LORD from the earth,
[e]You great sea creatures and all the depths;

7 [e]Is. 43:20

God the Creator

"In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth" (Gen. 1:1). There was no preexisting material; God created from nothing, by fiat. He decided that things should exist and called them into being with His word ("Let there be . . ."). God gave the creation an existence dependent on His own existence yet distinct from it. In the work of creation, Father, Son, and Holy Spirit acted together (Gen. 1:2; Ps. 33:6, 9; 148:5; John 1:1–3; Col. 1:15, 16; Heb. 1:2; 11:3).

The act of creation is mystery to us; there is more in it than we can understand. We cannot create by a mere act of the will, and we do not know how God could. To say that He created "out of nothing" is to confess the mystery, not explain it. In particular, we cannot conceive how a dependent existence can be distinct, or how angels and people in their dependent existence can make free decisions and be morally accountable to their Maker. Yet Scripture everywhere teaches us this truth.

As the world-order is not self-created, so also it is not self-sustaining, as God is. The universe is constantly upheld by God; without this activity of the divine Son (Col. 1:17; Heb. 1:3), every creature of every kind, including ourselves, would cease to be. As Paul told the Athenians, "He gives to all life, breath, and all things . . . in Him we live and move and have our being" (Acts 17:25, 28).

God is not "in" space or time; space and time are dimensions of the created order, and God is not bound by them as we are. He is able to act in the created order in ways that are not accessible to our understanding.

Knowing that God created us and the world around us is basic to true religion. God is to be praised as the Creator, known from the marvelous order and beauty of His works (see, for example, Ps. 104). God is a sovereign Lord, whose eternal plan covers all events and destinies without exception. He has power to redeem, recreate, and renew. Realizing that we depend on God for our moment-by-moment existence calls us to live lives of devotion, gratitude, and loyalty towards Him. □

■ Ps. 148 The summons to praise takes prominence over the reasons for praise in this psalm. The initial exhortation is toward heaven (vv. 1–6), the second to the earth (vv. 7–12), and the last to the chosen people of God (vv. 13, 14).

■ 148:1 the heavens. The heavens are normally described as containing different levels, though the details are never spelled out in the Bible (cf. 2 Cor. 12:2). The highest heavens cannot contain God (1 Kin. 8:27), showing that His transcendence cannot be measured.

■ 148:4 waters above the heavens. See Gen. 1:7.

■ 148:5 they were created. See the six days of creation in Gen. 1; theological note "God the Creator."

■ 148:7 from the earth. This idea is elaborated in the following verses as different parts of creation are called to praise God.

sea creatures. The sea was a source of special fascination and fear to the Israelites. Often, the sea represents everything opposed to God and His created order (18:4, 15 notes). God's greatness is demonstrated as He requires their praise.

Praise to God for His Salvation and Judgment

Praise[1] the LORD!

[a]Sing to the LORD a new song,
And His praise in the assembly of saints.

2 Let Israel rejoice in their Maker;
Let the children of Zion be joyful in their [b]King.
3 [c]Let them praise His name with the dance;
Let them sing praises to Him with the timbrel and harp.
4 For [d]the LORD takes pleasure in His people;
[e]He will beautify the [2]humble with salvation.

5 Let the saints be joyful in glory;
Let them [f]sing aloud on their beds.
6 Let the high praises of God be in their mouth,
And [g]a two-edged sword in their hand,
7 To execute vengeance on the nations,
And punishments on the peoples;
8 To bind their kings with chains,
And their nobles with fetters of iron;

■ 148:11 Kings of the earth. The psalm proclaims that universal praise is due to the Lord (138:4 note).

■ 148:13 the name of the LORD. See Ps. 8:1.

■ 148:14 the horn. The horn symbolizes the strength and vigor of the nation as a whole or the king in particular. See 92:10 note.

■ 149:2 their Maker . . . their King. God brought Israel into being as a nation in the Exodus and at Sinai, and now He rules over them. These events provide ample reasons to worship Him.

children of Zion. See note on Ps. 2:6.

■ 149:3 with the dance . . . with the timbrel and harp. The psalmist calls on Israel to celebrate the Lord actively, with enthusiasm and joy.

■ 149:5 on their beds. They may worship God at all times, in public and private.

■ 149:7 execute vengeance on the nations. God uses His people to bring judgment on the nations. The most notable example from biblical history is the judgment brought upon the Canaanites in the time of Joshua.

9 [h]To execute on them the written judgment—
[i]This honor have all His saints.

[3]Praise the LORD!

PSALM 150

Let All Things Praise the LORD

[a1]Praise the LORD!

Praise God in His sanctuary;
Praise Him in His mighty [2]firmament!

2 Praise Him for His mighty acts;
Praise Him according to His excellent [b]greatness!

3 Praise Him with the sound of the [3]trumpet;
Praise Him with the lute and harp!
4 Praise Him with the timbrel and dance;
Praise Him with stringed instruments and flutes!
5 Praise Him with loud cymbals;
Praise Him with clashing cymbals!

6 Let everything that has breath praise the LORD.

Praise the LORD. See v. 1.

Introduction to the

WISDOM LITERATURE

Job, Proverbs, and Ecclesiastes make up the wisdom literature of the Bible. Wisdom literature has a recognizable approach as well as a distinctive range of subject matter that makes it a separate department of study. In these books the term "wisdom" and its synonyms, such as "understanding," are used noticeably more often than in other parts of the Bible. These books can be distinguished from the Prophets and the histories of the Old Testament by the way truth is revealed in them. Like the historians, the wisdom writers rely on observation and study. But they make greater use of introspection and meditation than the historians. Unlike the historians, the sages do not discuss Israel's history. They say little or nothing about Moses, the Law, the kings, geography, or politics. Instead, the wisdom writers speak of the human condition as such, in its enduring aspects. They bring to it the perspective of the divine majesty and superintending providence, pondering the question of how the creature should think about the Creator. They give special attention to the problem of human suffering.

Wisdom literature resembles prophecy in the use of poetry and the expression of profound truths. But, in their role as messengers of God, the prophets transmit divine messages directed to specific situations. They also predict the future. The sages observed the world around them, and under the guidance of the Spirit drew conclusions about human nature and living a life that is pleasing to God.

Other poetic sections of the Bible, like the Psalms (Ps. 8:3, 4), may deal with themes similar to those found in wisdom literature, and such sections are commonly regarded as showing the presence or influence of the wisdom tradition. Indeed, wisdom is a kind of human tradition or culture. It is found not only in Israel but in other civilizations as well. A constituent part of all wisdom, in addition to its philosophy, is practical advice and teaching on how to live. Yet the wisdom of the Bible is distinctive, because in all its ways through the heights and depths of human experience it relies on the God of Abraham, the Father of Jesus Christ. Wisdom has its source and beginning in "the fear of the LORD" (Prov. 9:10), both in its ideas and equally in its methods and morals.

In His revelation through the sages, the Spirit of God ranges from direct and homely proverbs, to the puzzling, often difficult words of Ecclesiastes, and to the mysterious and sublime words of Job. It is often said that the parables of Jesus are allied to the wisdom tradition. This association shows that the proverbial, humble, and seemingly human origin of much wisdom literature is not an obstacle to perceiving its divine inspiration. On the contrary, it is the many-sided wisdom of God that is revealed in wisdom literature. □

PROVERBS

Author Proverbs is a collection of wise sayings from a number of authors. Solomon's name appears in 1:1; 10:1; 25:1. Chapter 30 is attributed to Agur, and ch. 31 to Lemuel. That Solomon was a key figure in the wisdom movement and wrote many proverbs is clear from 1 Kin. 4:29–34. Solomon's general influence upon the Book of Proverbs is considerable, and his direct authorship of much of the material need not be doubted. The statement in 1:1 ("The proverbs of Solomon") need not be taken, however, to assert more than the leading role of the king in the compilation. The Solomonic title may refer as much to the stamp of Solomon's character on the wisdom literature as to its direct authorship. While it is obvious that he did not write the whole book as we have it, 1:1–7 indicates that this is no haphazard collection, but a purposeful construction with certain aims.

Date and Occasion Nothing in the literary forms or content of Proverbs demands a dating later than the fall of Jerusalem and the Babylonian exile of the sixth century B.C. The whole work is consonant with that period, although when the book reached its present form is impossible to say. Parts of it are from the time of King Hezekiah (25:1).

Characteristics and Themes The Book of Proverbs displays two major forms of wisdom writing. In chs. 1—9 there are a number of longer constructions that are similar to the "instruction" of some early Egyptian literature. Some dependence in form and content should not surprise us, given the common concerns of wisdom in all cultures. Whether the form developed in schools for the elite (as in Egypt) or in the home (as was probably the case in Israel), the content is wisdom for life as it was taught to the youth by an elder. The instruction generally begins with an address ("My son"), followed by exhortations and commands with supporting explanations and encouragements.

The other major form in Proverbs is a one-sentence proverbial saying, found mainly in 10:1—22:16 and 25:1—29:27. These sayings are frequently given in a parallel form, in which the second line makes a direct contrast with the first, or in which the second line carries forward the idea contained in the first. The contrasting parallel is typically used to compare wisdom with folly and righteousness with wickedness.

Another prominent form is the numerical saying (6:16–19; 30:15, 16, 18, 19), which, particularly with the one-sentence sayings, appears to promote the perception of order in the complex issues and experiences of life. By groupings and comparisons of these the task of gaining and assessing knowledge proceeds so that we learn what the good life is and how to pursue it.

For additional discussion of the characteristics, themes, and poetic forms of Proverbs, see introductions to the Wisdom Literature and to Hebrew Poetry. Proverbs, like the Law of Moses, bears witness to Christ by portraying His person and work. The Law presents the righteousness and holiness of Christ, the great descendant of Abraham who would inherit God's covenant blessings and mediate them to all nations (Gal. 3:14). Proverbs and the other wisdom books display the wisdom and discernment of Christ. According to the New Testament, Jesus Christ is the wisdom of God incarnate (1 Cor. 1:24, 30; Col. 2:2, 3).

The Book of Proverbs does not touch on several of the more prominent religious themes in the Old Testament. But through dealing with what are often considered the more mundane areas of life, Proverbs teaches us that all of life is to be lived to the glory of the sovereign Creator. There is a moral order to all of creation, and violations of that order only lead to adverse consequences. □

The Beginning of Knowledge

THE [a]proverbs of Solomon the son of David, king of Israel:

2 To know wisdom and instruction,
To [1]perceive the words of understanding,
3 To receive the instruction of wisdom,
Justice, judgment, and equity;
4 To give prudence to the [b]simple,
To the young man knowledge and discretion—
5 [c]A wise man will hear and increase learning,
And a man of understanding will [2]attain wise counsel,
6 To understand a proverb and an enigma,
The words of the wise and their [d]riddles.

■ 1:1 proverbs. The Hebrew word has a range of meanings, but is usually applied to an aphorism or maxim in a wisdom context. The prologue (1:1–7) applies to the whole book and the variety of wisdom sayings it contains, all broadly classified as "proverbs."

Solomon. Although Solomon wrote many proverbs (1 Kin. 4:32), the words of sages other than Solomon are apparently included under this heading (e.g., Agur, 30:1; and Lemuel, 31:1). Even in the materials attributed to Solomon, something other than direct authorship may be involved. The roots of proverbial traditions in folk experience make it unlikely that Solomon was the exclusive originator of all the proverbs that he wrote down (Introduction: Author).

■ 1:2–4 Explicit reference to the purpose behind this collection suggests that some kind of formal educational use was being made of such material, although evidence for wisdom schools in Israel is not strong.

■ 1:2 wisdom. The purpose of Proverbs is to guide the reader into wisdom, a word with many nuances. It is related to the intellect and the control of human behavior. It is a way of thinking about reality that enables one to pursue what is good in life. Through wisdom, God reveals what the values of life are and how they may be achieved.

instruction. The word suggests moral and intellectual discipline. It often means the learning of wisdom.

understanding. Or discernment, the ability to read between the lines and make correct distinctions.

■ 1:3 Justice, judgment, and equity. These words can be used in religious and ethical contexts as well as in temporal affairs. At times, biblical wisdom seems to concern itself with worldly matters, but it always does so within the framework of divine design in the created order.

■ 1:4 prudence. That is, shrewdness.

simple. The word is paralleled in this verse by "young man"; it refers to the untutored and inexperienced, not those lacking intellectual powers. Wisdom is a matter of practical godliness.

discretion. The word suggests making right decisions with understanding.

■ 1:5 increase. Wisdom was institutionalized in the ancient culture in that the wise called upon people to improve their wisdom. Succeeding generations were to learn from those who went before (v. 8). Note the typical parallel structure of this verse in which almost synonymous phrases are joined.

counsel. This Hebrew word, used only in Proverbs and Job, means to guide, steer, or direct. It highlights the importance of right thinking and experience in decision making.

■ 1:6 These different words may be used synonymously, as in Hab. 2:6, but probably here they are distinct forms of wisdom sayings, having as a common characteristic an enigma that challenges the intellect (1:1 note).

enigma. Sometimes rendered "parable." Actually the parables of Jesus are somewhat different from what is found in Proverbs, although they show the influence of wisdom literature.

7 [e]The fear of the LORD is the beginning of knowledge,
But fools despise wisdom and instruction.

Shun Evil Counsel

8 [f]My son, hear the instruction of your father,
And do not forsake the law of your mother;
9 For they will be a [g]graceful ornament on your head,
And chains about your neck.

10 My son, if sinners entice you,
[h]Do not consent.
11 If they say, "Come with us,
Let us [i]lie in wait to shed blood;
Let us lurk secretly for the innocent without cause;
12 Let us swallow them alive like [3]Sheol,
And whole, [j]like those who go down to the Pit;
13 We shall find all kinds of precious [4]possessions,
We shall fill our houses with [5]spoil;
14 Cast in your lot among us,
Let us all have one purse"—
15 My son, [k]do not walk in the way with them,
[l]Keep your foot from their path;
16 [m]For their feet run to evil,
And they make haste to shed blood.
17 Surely, in [6]vain the net is spread
In the sight of any [7]bird;
18 But they lie in wait for their own blood,
They lurk secretly for their own lives.
19 [n]So are the ways of everyone who is greedy for gain;
It takes away the life of its owners.

7 [e]Job 28:28; Ps. 111:10; Prov. 9:10; 15:33; [Eccl. 12:13]
8 [f]Prov. 4:1
9 [g]Prov. 3:22
10 [h]Gen. 39:7–10; Deut. 13:8; Ps. 50:18; [Eph. 5:11]
11 [i]Prov. 12:6; Jer. 5:26
12 [j]Ps. 28:1 [3]Or the grave
13 [4]Lit. wealth [5]plunder
15 [k]Ps. 1:1; Prov. 4:14 [l]Ps. 119:101
16 [m]Prov. 6:17, 18; [Is. 59:7]; Rom. 3:15
17 [6]futility [7]Lit. lord of the wing
19 [n]Prov. 15:27; [1 Tim. 6:10]

riddles. These are probably a broad but identifiable type of wisdom literature. The word is used of Samson's riddle (Judg. 14:12–19), of an allegory (Ezek. 17:2), and of the sayings used to test Solomon (1 Kin. 10:1).

■ 1:7 The fear of the LORD. This idea is the controlling principle of Proverbs, and is ancient Israel's decisive contribution to the human quest for knowledge and understanding. The fear of the Lord is the only basis of true knowledge. This "fear" is not distrustful terror of God, but rather the reverent awe and worshipful response of faith to the God who reveals Himself as Creator, Savior, and Judge.

Although Israel's covenant relationship with God receives little overt attention in Proverbs, the use of the divine name most closely associated with the covenant, the LORD (Hebrew Yahweh, Ex. 3:15; 6:3 and notes) is significant. It indicates that God's redemptive covenant with His people and the special revelation that accompany it are foundational for true wisdom. In Deuteronomy, "fear of the LORD" means living by the stipulations of the covenant in grateful response to God's redemptive grace (Deut. 6:2, 24). The temple built by Solomon later became the visible expression of Israel's covenant relationship with the Lord, which again is described as the "fear of the LORD" (1 Kin. 8:40, 43). There is an important link through Solomon and the temple between biblical wisdom and the covenant theology found elsewhere in the Old Testament.

is the beginning of knowledge. See also 2:4–6; 9:10; 15:33; Job 28:28; Ps. 111:10. The Hebrew means either the starting point of knowledge, or its basic, ruling principle. The latter is in view here. While in His common grace God enables unbelievers to know much about the world, only the fear of the Lord enables one to know what anything means ultimately. Relying on this light, wisdom pursues the task of reflecting on human experience. See "The Wisdom and Will of God" at Dan. 2:20.

■ 1:8, 9 The instruction form of ancient Near Eastern wisdom literature typically begins with a call for attentiveness. Father and mother were both involved in home instruction.

■ 1:8 instruction. See note on 3:1.

■ 1:9 graceful ornament . . . chains. These metaphors portray the effect of wisdom in beautifying one's life.

■ 1:10–19 These verses make up another unit in the instruction form. Possibly this form was a teaching tool in more formal education outside the home as wise men taught their pupils. The conditional or "if" clauses (vv. 10, 11) indicate the situations to which this wisdom applies. The command in v. 15 is supported by the reasons for it in vv. 16–19.

■ 1:12 Sheol. The realm of death is here depicted as ready to swallow its victims. Elsewhere this poetic term denotes a realm where corruption is father and the worm is mother (Job 17:13, 14), a domain with gates (Is. 38:10). It is a land of no return (Job 7:9), silence (Ps. 94:17), darkness (Ps. 143:3), and forgetfulness (Ps. 88:11, 12). See 9:18 note; Is. 14:9–11 note.

■ 1:13 precious possessions. Proverbs does not forbid or discourage wealth—only the use of evil to get it. However, the ultimate wealth is wisdom itself (2:4; 3:13–16; Job 28:12–19).

■ 1:15 My son. After the extended conditional clause (vv. 10–14) the address is repeated to reinforce the command to avoid evil people.

■ 1:16 This verse is almost identical with Is. 59:7 and is partly quoted in Rom. 3:15.

■ 1:17 in vain . . . bird. This saying is introduced to strengthen the reasons for the author's counsel. The apparent meaning is that even a bird will avoid a trap once it has knowledge of it. Those who are tempted should do the same.

■ 1:19 Such folly is contrary to the true order of the world which, though fallen, is still under God's sovereign rule. This expression of inevitable retribution is based on the observable order of causes and consequence. Apparent interruptions in this pattern prompted other biblical writers to address the problem of the prosperous wicked and the suffering righteous (Job; Ps. 73).

The Call of Wisdom

20 [o]Wisdom calls aloud [8]outside;
She raises her voice in the open squares.
21 She cries out in the [9]chief concourses,
At the openings of the gates in the city
She speaks her words:
22 "How long, you [1]simple ones, will you love [2]simplicity?
For scorners delight in their scorning,
And fools hate knowledge.
23 Turn at my rebuke;
Surely [p]I will pour out my spirit on you;
I will make my words known to you.
24 [q]Because I have called and you refused,
I have stretched out my hand and no one regarded,
25 Because you [r]disdained all my counsel,
And would have none of my rebuke,
26 [s]I also will laugh at your calamity;
I will mock when your terror comes,
27 When [t]your terror comes like a storm,
And your destruction comes like a whirlwind,
When distress and anguish come upon you.

28 "Then[u] they will call on me, but I will not answer;
They will seek me diligently, but they will not find me.
29 Because they [v]hated knowledge
And did not [w]choose the fear of the LORD,
30 [x]They would have none of my counsel
And despised my every rebuke.
31 Therefore [y]they shall eat the fruit of their own way,
And be filled to the full with their own fancies.
32 For the [3]turning away of the simple will slay them,
And the complacency of fools will destroy them;
33 But whoever listens to me will dwell [z]safely,
And [a]will be [4]secure, without fear of evil."

CHAPTER 2

1 [a][Prov. 4:21]

■ 1:20 Wisdom is portrayed as an open-air preacher similar to the caller in Is. 55. Personified as a woman, she calls on the simple to repent of folly and to seek wisdom before it is too late. Personification of wisdom is found also in 3:14–18; 8:1–36; 9:1–12.

■ 1:21 gates. The town gate was the public forum for counsel and judgment (Deut. 22:15; 25:7; Ruth 4:1, 11; 2 Sam. 19:8). This is the fitting location for the figure of wisdom to call people to heed her counsel.

■ 1:22 simple ones. See text note; also v. 4 and note. There has been a development of thought. At issue is not merely gaining more insight, but a deliberate choice between two ways. Wisdom and folly, righteousness and wickedness, are constantly opposed in Proverbs as the only two options for life (cf. Matt. 7:24–27).

scorners. The precise meaning of this word, used mostly in Proverbs, is difficult to determine. The mocker, or scoffer, is a person who resists the discipline of the wise (9:7, 8; 13:1; 14:6; 21:11).

fools. Thick, unteachable people.

knowledge. See 1:7. In wisdom literature, "knowledge" is often a synonym for wisdom.

■ 1:23 my spirit. Proverbs recognizes wisdom as both a divine gift and a human task. The former is seen in 1:7, where the fear of the Lord grows from the grace of God in redemption. Redemption involves renewal of the mind as well as regeneration of the soul (Rom. 12:1, 2; 1 Cor. 1:18—2:6).

■ 1:24 you refused. The rejection of wisdom's evangel has its parallels in the rejection of God's grace by Israel.

■ 1:25 counsel. Here wisdom speaks with full authority. As God's counsel, her counsel and advice is not open to debate (2:6; 8:14).

■ 1:28 I will not answer. True wisdom is an aspect of God's saving grace, and there comes a point of no return for those who reject it. This truth reinforces the urgency of the message. No one can expect God's favor and at the same time scorn the gifts He offers (Deut. 1:45; 1 Sam. 28:6; Ps. 18:41).

■ 1:29 knowledge. This word is a synonym for wisdom, and is explained here by the phrase parallel with it, "the fear of the LORD." Wisdom comes from above (James 3:17), as God's gift in redemptive revelation. This is true even when it must be desired and strived for (2:4–6; Heb. 5:7, 8; James 1:5).

■ 1:31 fruit. The relationship between deed and outcome is observable in natural cause and effect. Here the image is not one of pleasure after a full meal, but disgust at being glutted.

■ 1:32 turning away. Indifference or willful neglect.

complacency of fools. The ignorant self-satisfaction of the willfully unteachable, who see no need to learn anything from anyone.

■ 1:33 This verse stands in direct contrast with v. 32. Wisdom brings life and security. To reject wisdom is to reject all that promotes life.

■ 2:1–22 Although this instruction lacks the usual imperatives, the em-

2 So that you incline your ear to wisdom,
And apply your heart to understanding;
3 Yes, if you cry out for discernment,
And lift up your voice for understanding,

And search for her as for hidden treasures;
5 [c]Then you will understand the fear of the LORD,
And find the knowledge of God.

phatic force is indicated by the subject matter—wisdom that delivers from death. The consequences of accepting wisdom are knowing God and the blessings of life (vv. 5, 9, 21). The two aspects of wisdom—divine gift and human task—are clearly seen (e.g., vv. 4, 6).

■ 2:2 heart. The seat of reason and the will. Today's popular distinction between heart knowledge and head knowledge does not apply here. The usual Old Testament contrast is between a formal or outward compliance lacking true assent of will, and willing, whole-hearted compliance.

■ 2:3 cry out . . . lift up your voice. In contrast with the lack of response to wisdom's call in 1:20–23.

■ 2:4 hidden treasures. Note the similar image used by Jesus in Matt. 13:44.

■ 2:5 you will understand . . . LORD. In 1:7 the fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge, and here it is the goal. There is no discrepancy, since wisdom is both a gift and a task. God gives knowledge of Himself in redemptive revelation. Starting here, the wise person takes up the task of learning more wisdom and of knowing God, always moving toward the goal of knowing Him more perfectly and being conformed to the image of His Son.

■ 2:6 the LORD gives wisdom. No matter how much we are engaged in the task of searching for knowledge through our human experience in the world, the source of all truth is God. He must provide the wisdom necessary for the proper interpretation of reality (3:5).

From His mouth. Although their emphasis is different, both Deuteronomy and Proverbs recognize that the underlying foundation of knowledge is the Word of God (Deut. 8:3). Even before sin had entered the world, Adam and Eve needed God's Word in order to know themselves and their relationship to creation (Gen. 1:28–30).

■ 2:7 The character of God, which the wise come to know (v. 5), is the basis of morality. Standards of integrity and righteousness are expressions of wisdom.

■ 2:8 His saints. These are people who show that they possess the fear of the Lord by imitating His covenant love.

■ 2:9 every good path. The wisdom literature is important to our understanding of God's guidance of our lives. It points to the task of gaining wisdom so that we can make decisions that are responsible and consistent with our covenant status as God's people (1 Pet. 2:9).

■ 2:11 Discretion. Or, "resourcefulness."

■ 2:12 Right moral discernment will save us from those who scorn wisdom.

perverse things. Words of rebellion that overturn truth.

■ 2:16 immoral woman. Adultery is a radical departure from God's order for human relationships (5:1–23; 6:20–29; 7:1–27). The Hebrew term is "foreign" or "strange" woman. In this context it means a woman who is foreign to the proper marital relationship, a harlot or adulteress.

■ 2:17 companion. That is, her husband.

covenant of her God. If the "immoral woman" is a non-Israelite (v. 16 note), "covenant" may refer to a marriage witnessed to by some foreign god. More likely, the woman is an Israelite who transgresses the requirements of the covenant given at Sinai, particularly the commandment against adultery (Ex. 20:14).

■ 2:18 death. In wisdom literature, "life" is not mere existence, but a

Guidance for the Young

3 My son, do not forget my law,
[a]But let your heart keep my commands;
2 For length of days and long life
And [b]peace they will add to you.

3 Let not mercy and truth forsake you;
[c]Bind them around your neck,
[d]Write them on the tablet of your heart,
4 [e]And so find favor and [f]high esteem
In the sight of God and man.

5 [f]Trust in the LORD with all your heart,
[g]And lean not on your own understanding;
6 [h]In all your ways acknowledge Him,
And He shall [2]direct your paths.

7 Do not be wise in your own [i]eyes;
Fear the LORD and depart from evil.
8 It will be health to your [3]flesh,
And [j]strength[4] to your bones.

way characterized by true relationships that conform to God's design. "Death" is not only the end of physical life, but an irreversible descent into the disorder of moral perversity (cf. 5:23, where to "die" is parallel with "go astray").

■ 2:19 None . . . return. This note of finality highlights the seriousness of breaching standards that are not merely social customs, but creation ordinances of God.

■ 2:20–22 The promise of land was a basic part of the covenant God made with Abraham, Moses, and the people (Gen. 13:15 and note; Ex. 20:12; Deut. 1:8; 26:1–9). These promises foreshadow the promise of eternal life (Heb. 11:16). The conditional aspect of the covenant is reflected here (Gen. 17:2 note)—the upright and the wise inherit the land, but the wicked are removed (Deut. 28).

■ 3:1–12 These verses are probably a single unit of instruction, with the typical "my son" address repeated in v. 11. The unit contains the usual imperatives (vv. 1, 3, 5–7, 9, 11) and motivating clauses (vv. 2, 4, 8, 10). Verse 12 explains the purpose of the Lord's discipline, encouraging the wise to follow the precept of v. 11.

■ 3:1 law. The Hebrew word for "law," torah, has the basic meaning of "instruction" and in Jewish tradition designates the Pentateuch. Wisdom's instruction, while not to be confused with the precepts of the Law of Moses, is likewise authoritative.

commands. This word is also found in the law. As is typical of the parallel phrases of Hebrew poetry, the second half of the verse repeats the idea of the first half, clarifying it or expanding on it. Essentially, this verse means to memorize the commands and then put them into practice.

■ 3:2 length of days. The normal expectation is that wisdom will lead to a long, prosperous life, which is the blessing of God (Ex. 20:12).

peace. Hebrew shalom. The term denotes general well-being, a harmony of relationships, wholeness, and health (v. 8). In the Old Testament, the blessings of God are seen primarily in terms of this present life. It was not easy to reconcile this perspective with the suffering of the righteous or the prosperity of the wicked. The revelation that was to come with Christ and especially His resurrection from the dead was still far in the future.

■ 3:3 mercy and truth. The Hebrew phrase indicates clearly that wisdom is being advanced in a covenantal framework. The instruction (v. 1) is practical teaching for life based on the character of God revealed in His Word.

Bind . . . neck. This metaphor indicates that wisdom will beautify one's life.

Write . . . heart. The sense is the same as v. 1. Make them part of you by committing them to memory and then conforming your will to them.

■ 3:5 Trust in the LORD. Rely entirely upon the Lord's Word and promises as revealed through the sage (2:6; 16:20). See note on 1:7.

lean . . . understanding. The contrast is between the perception of reality that submits to God's revealed Word as the authority for all truth, and a perception that assumes human conjecture to have that authority.

■ 3:6 acknowledge Him. This is the practical expression of the mind that submits to God and knows Him.

He shall direct your paths. The Lord will guide you to the final goal of life. God gives wisdom and with it the task of making wise decisions; these are the two aspects of guidance in wisdom teaching. There is no hint of guidance that bypasses the duty of making decisions. But human decisions do not overrule the protection of God's providence (Gen. 50:20, 21; Ps. 103:14).

■ 3:7 wise in your own eyes. The phrase summarizes the idea that the human mind with its intellect and reason is independently capable of reaching a true understanding of reality, without any dependence upon God's revelation.

■ 3:8 True wisdom is life-affirming in the most practical ways.

9 [k]Honor the LORD with your possessions,
And with the firstfruits of all your increase;
10 [l]So your barns will be filled with plenty,
And your vats will overflow with new wine.

11 [m]My son, do not despise the chastening of the LORD,
Nor detest His correction;
12 For whom the LORD loves He corrects,
[n]Just as a father the son in whom he delights.

13 [o]Happy is the man who finds wisdom,
And the man who gains understanding;
14 [p]For her proceeds are better than the profits of silver,
And her gain than fine gold.
15 She is more precious than rubies,
And [q]all the things you may desire cannot compare with her.
16 [r]Length of days is in her right hand,
In her left hand riches and honor.
17 [s]Her ways are ways of pleasantness,
And all her paths are peace.
18 She is [t]a tree of life to those who take hold of her,
And happy are all who [5]retain her.

19 [u]The LORD by wisdom founded the earth;
By understanding He established the heavens;
20 By His knowledge the depths were [v]broken up,
And clouds drop down the dew.

21 My son, let them not depart from your eyes—
Keep sound wisdom and discretion;
22 So they will be life to your soul
And grace to your neck.
23 [w]Then you will walk safely in your way,
And your foot will not stumble.
24 When you lie down, you will not be afraid;
Yes, you will lie down and your sleep will be sweet.
25 [x]Do not be afraid of sudden terror,
Nor of trouble from the wicked when it comes;
26 For the LORD will be your confidence,
And will keep your foot from being caught.

■ 3:9, 10 Honoring God with the right use of material things expresses gratitude for His favor and recognizes that He controls the natural order and its processes.

■ 3:9 firstfruits. This first part of the annual harvest was given to the priests (Lev. 23:10; Num. 18:12, 13).

■ 3:11 chastening. Although the instruction of God will require chastisement, this correction is not calculated to harm or anger His children. But because chastisement is suffering, specific encouragement not to rebel against it is necessary.

■ 3:12 Heb. 12:3–11 explains that God's correction is better than that of an earthly father; for the comparison, see Luke 11:11–13. Chastisement is not the main content of God's fatherly teaching; the instruction of Proverbs is designed for people who want to hear it (2:3–5; 4:5–9; 8:11, 17).

■ 3:13–20 This section is formed more as a hymn in praise of wisdom than as a piece of instruction (cf. Ps. 1). But see 8:32–36 for a practical conclusion.

■ 3:13 Happy. The word does not mean merely a subjective feeling. It is found almost exclusively in the Psalms and the wisdom literature, describing the life that enjoys God's grace and favor.

■ 3:14, 15 Job 28 describes wisdom as a treasure. Psalm 19:10 refers specifically to the revealed law.

■ 3:16, 17 See v. 2 and notes.

■ 3:18 tree of life. This is probably not a specific allusion to the tree of life in Gen. 2:9, though the author would have known of it. The flourishing tree was a common figure in the literature of the time for continuing blessings. The metaphor is used again in 11:30; 13:12; 15:4. More important is the theme of "life" in Proverbs. "Life" in the Bible is essentially linked to our relationship with God. Disruption of the proper relationship with God, the source of life, leads to death (Gen. 2:17). Wisdom is concerned with proper relationships with God, other people, and with nature.

■ 3:19, 20 Wisdom, understanding, and knowledge belong to God and find expression in the act of creation (8:22–31). The writer points to the purposefulness and design of creation. The order of creation is not totally destroyed by sin, and the theology of creation is an important part of wisdom literature.

■ 3:21–26 This collection of sayings centers on the theme of guidance in life's way.

■ 3:21 See note on 1:4.

■ 3:22 See notes on vv. 2, 3.

■ 3:23 Again guidance is seen in terms of making wise decisions.

■ 3:24 Part of wisdom is the avoidance of life-threatening situations, not by refusing to face danger when necessary, but by pursuing right relationships and an orderly existence.

27 [y]Do not withhold good from [6]those to whom it is due,
When it is in the power of your hand to do so.
28 [z]Do not say to your neighbor,
"Go, and come back,
And tomorrow I will give it,"
When you have it with you.
29 Do not devise evil against your neighbor,
For he dwells by you for safety's sake.
30 [a]Do not strive with a man without cause,
If he has done you no harm.

31 [b]Do not envy the oppressor,
And choose none of his ways;
32 For the perverse person is an abomination to the LORD,
[c]But His secret counsel is with the upright.
33 [d]The curse of the LORD is on the house of the wicked,
But [e]He blesses the home of the just.
34 [f]Surely He scorns the scornful,
But gives grace to the humble.
35 The wise shall inherit glory,
But shame shall be the legacy of fools.

Security in Wisdom

4 Hear, [a]my children, the instruction of a father,

4 [c]He also taught me, and said to me:
"Let your heart retain my words;

Do not forget, nor turn away from the words of my mouth.
6 Do not forsake her, and she will preserve you;
[f]Love her, and she will keep you.
7 [g]Wisdom is the principal thing;
Therefore get wisdom.
And in all your getting, get understanding.

■ 3:27–35 The section begins with a series of commandments about certain abuses in human relationships (vv. 27–31). These are followed by clauses explaining the Lord's direct interest in the morality of these precepts (vv. 32–35).

■ 3:32 Devious persons are alienated from God, but those who are righteous enjoy intimacy with the Lord.

■ 3:33 Here the typical proverbial contrast between the righteous and the wicked (cf. 10:2, 3, 6, 7, 11, 16) is related to God's blessings and curses. This parallels the covenant theology of Deuteronomy, in which faithfulness is rewarded by the blessings of God (Deut. 11:26–29; 28:1–19).

■ 4:1–27 This chapter most naturally divides into three instructional sayings, each beginning with the usual address of father to son (vv. 1, 10, 20). The first saying sees wisdom as a most precious acquisition (vv. 1–9), the second as the path to true life (vv. 10–19), and the third as the way of uprightness (vv. 20–27). There is no direct reference to religion.

Wisdom traditions are shared by peoples of different cultures and religions. See notes on 22:17—24:22. Solomon discussed wisdom with people from other nations (1 Kin. 4:29–34; 10:1–7), showing how certain features of wisdom were shared across national and religious boundaries. In Israel, the insights of empirical wisdom were used in the framework of the covenant relationship and cannot be separated from special revelation (1:7 and notes).

■ 4:2 doctrine. Or "teaching." The Hebrew term emphasizes the receptive activity of the learner.

■ 4:3, 4 The wise continue the tradition of wisdom by passing on to succeeding generations the wisdom they learned from their parents. Age and experience are not absolute authorities, but they are important and must be highly regarded (Lev. 19:32).

■ 4:4 live. See notes on 2:18 and 3:2.

■ 4:6 Note the parallel structure in this verse, where the second line says almost the same as the first, yet with some development of thought. "Do not forsake" becomes the positive injunction to "love." Wisdom is far more than an accumulation of facts. It involves trust and commitment.

■ 4:7 Wisdom is the principal thing. As translated the verse means, "Wisdom is of the first importance, do not neglect it." Another possible sense is that "Wisdom is first in line" for the learner. Wisdom is ready, and the one who wishes to learn may begin immediately.

in all your getting. Jesus used a similar saying about how one should seek the kingdom of God (Matt. 13:45, 46).

She will bring you honor, when you embrace her.
9 She will place on your head [f]an ornament of grace;
A crown of glory she will deliver to you."

10 Hear, my son, and receive my sayings,
[j]And the years of your life will be many.
11 I have [k]taught you in the way of wisdom;
I have led you in right paths.
12 When you walk, [l]your steps will not be hindered,
[m]And when you run, you will not stumble.
13 Take firm hold of instruction, do not let go;
Keep her, for she is your life.

14 [n]Do not enter the path of the wicked,
And do not walk in the way of evil.
15 Avoid it, do not travel on it;
Turn away from it and pass on.
16 [o]For they do not sleep unless they have done evil;
And their sleep is [1]taken away unless they make someone fall.
17 For they eat the bread of wickedness,
And drink the wine of violence.

18 [p]But the path of the just [q]is like the shining [2]sun,
That shines ever brighter unto the perfect day.
19 [r]The way of the wicked is like darkness;
They do not know what makes them stumble.

20 My son, give attention to my words;
Incline your ear to my sayings.
21 Do not let them depart from your eyes;
Keep them in the midst of your heart;
22 For they are life to those who find them,
And health to all their flesh.
23 Keep your heart with all diligence,
For out of it spring the issues of [s]life.
24 Put away from you a [3]deceitful mouth,
And put perverse lips far from you.
25 Let your eyes look straight ahead,
And your eyelids look right before you.
26 Ponder the path of your [t]feet,
And let all your ways be established.
27 Do not turn to the right or the left;
Remove your foot from evil.

■ 4:9 See note on 1:9.

■ 4:10 See note on 3:2.

■ 4:11 The metaphor of life as a way or path is common in Israelite wisdom.

■ 4:13 she is your life. Life cannot exist without wisdom. In the New Testament, Christ is called our wisdom (1 Cor. 1:30) and our life (Col. 3:4).

■ 4:14 path of the wicked. Wisdom typically contrasts opposing ways and ideas (especially in the concise proverbs of chs. 10—22). This teaching device accentuates the path of wisdom by opposing various aspects of it to the path of folly and evil. Here vv. 11–13 contrast with vv. 14–17, and v. 18 with v. 19.

■ 4:16 do not sleep. Evil is like an addictive drug. Those who embrace it find that without their daily dose they are unable to sleep.

■ 4:17 eat . . . drink. Wickedness and violence become their staple food.

■ 4:18, 19 These verses use imagery of an ever-increasing light to characterize righteousness, and an impenetrable gloom for wickedness (John 8:12; Eph. 5:8–13).

■ 4:20–27 This instruction contrasts the two ways of wisdom and folly without using those terms. The emphasis is on concentration of mind and attention to the wisdom teaching, which leads to life.

■ 4:21 heart. Or, the mind (2:2 note).

■ 4:22 health. Wholeness and soundness that includes the body (3:8).

■ 4:23 out of it . . . life. Our thoughts in turn shape the way we speak and live. See Matt. 12:35; Mark 7:21; Rom. 2:29.

■ 4:25–27 Wisdom enables one to keep to life's path without swerving into the mire.

The Peril of Adultery

5 My son, pay attention to my wisdom;
[1]Lend your ear to my understanding,
2 That you may [2]preserve discretion,
And your lips [a]may keep knowledge.
3 [b]For the lips of [3]an immoral woman drip honey,
And her mouth is [c]smoother than oil;
4 But in the end she is bitter as wormwood,
Sharp as a two-edged sword.
5 Her feet go down to death,
[d]Her steps lay hold of [4]hell.
6 Lest you ponder her path of life—
Her ways are unstable;
You do not know them.

7 Therefore hear me now, my children,
And do not depart from the words of my mouth.
8 Remove your way far from her,
And do not go near the door of her house,
9 Lest you give your [5]honor to others,
And your years to the cruel one;
10 Lest aliens be filled with your [6]wealth,
And your labors go to the house of a foreigner;
11 And you mourn at last,
When your flesh and your body are consumed,
12 And say:
"How I have hated instruction,
And my heart despised correction!
13 I have not obeyed the voice of my teachers,
Nor inclined my ear to those who instructed me!
14 I was on the verge of total ruin,
In the midst of the assembly and congregation."

15 Drink water from your own cistern,
And running water from your own well.

■ 5:1–23 This passage is best taken as a single unit. While vv. 15–23 are conceivably a distinct composition, the theme is a logical development of what goes before. Wisdom urges us to avoid the life-destroying adulteress and to find sexual and emotional satisfaction in faithfulness to the marriage bond.

■ 5:1–6 These verses describe the character of the seducing adulteress. On the surface she is all sweetness and light, but underneath is the stench of death.

■ 5:2 lips may keep knowledge. The sense may be that one should learn to maintain discreet silence when necessary, or possibly, that one should have something of substance to say (Mal. 2:7).

■ 5:3 In contrast with v. 2, the seducer begins with deceptive words of charm. Cf. the sweetness of true love in Song 4:11.

■ 5:4 in the end. The phrase speaks of the end result for the victim of seduction.

bitter as wormwood. A plant especially bitter to the taste, wormwood is used as a metaphor for the experience of affliction (Deut. 29:18).

two-edged sword. The smoothness of her words is deceptive (v. 3), and the liaison leads only to injury.

■ 5:5 death. Not merely a matter of an early demise brought about by dissolute living, "death" in this context is all that does not promote "life" as defined by God.

hell. The place of the dead (Hebrew sheol). Disorderly life leads to physical death. On "Sheol" see Is. 14:9–11 note.

■ 5:6 Her ways are unstable. The moral censure here is inseparable from the wisdom idea that folly and wickedness involve a rejection of God's order and plan for things.

■ 5:7–14 These verses provide a more detailed description of the fruit of immorality and the price it exacts.

■ 5:8 Remove . . . far from her. The wise will make a conscious choice to avoid any contact with immorality and keep out of the way of temptation.

■ 5:9–11 Those who foolishly engage in immorality pay a high price for it.

■ 5:9 the cruel one. Perhaps the outraged husband of the adulteress (6:34, 35).

■ 5:10 This verse may refer literally to the high cost of keeping a mistress (a "foreigner"). Or the warning may be that immorality takes away wealth and strength (see text note).

■ 5:11 Such dissipation leads to regret as one reflects on the waste and futility of the life that has been lived.

■ 5:12, 13 Sexual immorality epitomizes the way of folly that rejects the discipline of wise instruction.

■ 5:14 assembly. In view here is either public disgrace or punishment by the covenant community.

■ 5:15 Drink water . . . cistern. The context suggests that this is a metaphor for marital relations with one's wife.

16 Should your fountains be dispersed abroad,
[7]Streams of water in the streets?
17 Let them be only your own,
And not for strangers with you.
18 Let your fountain be blessed,
And rejoice with [e]the wife of your youth.
19 [f]As a loving deer and a graceful doe,
Let her breasts satisfy you at all times;
And always be [8]enraptured with her love.
20 For why should you, my son, be enraptured by [g]an immoral woman,
And be embraced in the arms of a seductress?

21 [h]For the ways of man are before the eyes of the LORD,
And He [9]ponders all his paths.
22 [i]His own iniquities entrap the wicked man,
And he is caught in the cords of his sin.
23 [j]He shall die for lack of instruction,
And in the greatness of his folly he shall go astray.

Dangerous Promises

6 My son, [a]if you become [1]surety for your friend,
If you have [2]shaken hands in pledge for a stranger,
2 You are snared by the words of your mouth;
You are taken by the words of your mouth.
3 So do this, my son, and deliver yourself;
For you have come into the hand of your friend:
Go and humble yourself;
Plead with your friend.
4 [b]Give no sleep to your eyes,
Nor slumber to your eyelids.
5 Deliver yourself like a gazelle from the hand of the hunter,
And like a bird from the hand of the [3]fowler.

The Folly of Indolence

6 [c]Go to the ant, you sluggard!
Consider her ways and be wise,
7 Which, having no [4]captain,
Overseer or ruler,
8 Provides her [5]supplies in the summer,
And gathers her food in the harvest.

7 [4]Lit. leader

8 [5]Lit. bread

■ 5:16 fountains . . . Streams. The imagery suggests the wastefulness of a promiscuous life.

■ 5:18 fountain. Another metaphor for the wife, perhaps indicating the bearing of many children.

wife of your youth. The wife taken when you were young.

■ 5:19 The poetic language of this verse is like that of the Song of Solomon. The imagery of a graceful animal of rare beauty emphasizes physical pleasure as integral to marital relations. See Song 1:2, 3; 4:1–7.

■ 5:21–23 Up to this point, the warnings against adultery have not been referred to God's law. Similar warnings can be found in other wisdom traditions. Now the writer explains that the natural consequences of folly, and especially sexual folly, are punishments ordained by God.

■ 5:21 ponders. Or "takes note of." Our behavior is under constant scrutiny. The text does not say that every sin is visited with an immediate penalty. Rather, God oversees the created order so that sinners are captured by their own folly (vv. 22, 23).

■ 5:23 die. See notes on v.5 and 2:18.

■ 6:1 pledge for a stranger. Such an agreement to guarantee another's debt is unwise because it involves matters quite beyond the guarantor's control (11:15; 17:18; 22:26).

■ 6:2 snared. Borrowing money is one thing, but to provide security for another is to walk into a trap of one's own making.

■ 6:3 into the hand. By accepting responsibility for another's debts you allow another to take control of your life.

humble yourself. This is not the time for pride.

■ 6:4 Give no sleep. There must be an unremitting effort to have the contract annulled.

■ 6:5 The imagery of creatures hunted and trapped heightens the sense of urgency.

■ 6:6–11 These verses are an object lesson based on the industry of the ant. The underlying assumption is not only that the universe is orderly, but that there are points of analogy between even the lowly insect world and humans. Solomon's nature proverbs may have drawn other such analogies (1 Kin. 4:33).

■ 6:6 ant. See 30:25. The ant's industry gives the appearance of prudent activity.

sluggard. The word suggests a lazy person whose inactivity expresses an attitude of folly (10:26; 13:4; 15:19; 19:24; 20:4; 26:16).

9 [d]How long will you [6]slumber, O sluggard?
When will you rise from your sleep?
10 A little sleep, a little slumber,
A little folding of the hands to sleep—
11 [e]So shall your poverty come on you like a prowler,
And your need like an armed man.

The Wicked Man

12 A worthless person, a wicked man,
Walks with a perverse mouth;
13 [f]He winks with his eyes,
He [7]shuffles his feet,
He points with his fingers;
14 Perversity is in his heart,
[g]He devises evil continually,
[h]He sows discord.
15 Therefore his calamity shall come [i]suddenly;
Suddenly he shall [j]be broken [k]without remedy.

16 These six things the LORD hates,
Yes, seven are an abomination to [8]Him:
17 [l]A[9] proud look,
[m]A lying tongue,
[n]Hands that shed innocent blood,
18 [o]A heart that devises wicked plans,
[p]Feet that are swift in running to evil,
19 [q]A false witness who speaks lies,
And one who [r]sows discord among brethren.

Beware of Adultery

20 [s]My son, keep your father's command,
And do not forsake the law of your mother.
21 [t]Bind them continually upon your heart;
Tie them around your neck.

20 [s]Eph. 6:1
21 [t]Prov. 3:3

■ 6:10, 11 This proverbial saying has been linked with the previous saying (vv. 6–9) to provide an application of it. The same saying is later linked with a different object lesson (24:33, 34).

■ 6:11 poverty. Proverbs warns against attitudes and behavior that produce poverty. Laziness is one of these (10:4, 5; 19:15; 20:13). While diligence and industry are normally associated with prosperity (12:11; 13:4; 14:23), it must not be said that all poverty is the result of folly (14:31; 17:5; 19:1, 17, 22; 21:12; 22:22; 28:3, 11).

like a prowler . . . an armed man. The comparison is not so much to a sneak thief who comes at the night, as to a robber who overpowers his victim.

■ 6:12–15 The form suggests a proverbial saying that has been expanded to apply to a specific situation. A string of descriptive clauses is added to the main thought, that the worthless person stirs up discord.

■ 6:12 worthless person. Lit. "man of Belial," a phrase of uncertain origin and meaning. It probably indicates a base and worthless person, with an element of active malevolence.

■ 6:13 winks . . . shuffles . . . points. The wicked will not speak plainly and openly, but make veiled suggestions and signs that sow seeds of distrust and dissension.

■ 6:15 Such people, in time, bring destruction upon themselves. The Old Testament reveals that ultimately God will punish the wicked (24:19, 20) and reward the righteous (23:17, 18; 24:15, 16), but it does not present a fully developed doctrine of punishment in the afterlife. The prosperity of the wicked was a continuing problem (Ps. 37:7; 73:3–14). The New Testament clearly indicates that the righteous judgment of God falls on the wicked, whether in this life or the next (Luke 16:23, 24; Rev. 14:10–12; 20:15).

■ 6:16–19 These verses are the first of the numerical sayings in Proverbs (cf. 30:15–31). The form of these sayings suggests a kind of riddle with an answer provided, not to dispose of the question, but to invite further appropriate answers. Wisdom literature often lists things together that are perceived to have something in common. Relationships are established in surprising ways, and the process of discerning orderly relationships in the universe increases wisdom. This unit is quite distinct from the previous one (vv. 12–15), but is probably placed next to it for development of the theme. Whereas v. 15 expresses the perspective of an unspecified natural retribution, this saying implies that the Lord renders judgment (5:21–23 note).

■ 6:16 six . . . seven. The use of successive numbers is a common device in Hebrew poetry (Job 5:19; Amos 1:3).

■ 6:20–35 Another warning against adultery (chs. 5; 7; 30:20). The form of this section is essentially that of the instruction, but with considerable variation. Some quite elaborate word-pictures are used to heighten the urgency of the warnings (vv. 23, 26, 27, 28, 30, 31). Verses 21 and 23 depend on Deut. 6:8 and Ps. 119:105, which refer to the Law. The Law provides a clear framework for revelation, showing Israel the proper response to God's covenant relationship with her. Wisdom works within that framework to describe the bounds of human responsibility. The Law condemns adultery and prescribes a penalty for it (Ex. 20:14; Lev. 20:10). Wisdom shares this opposition to adultery—the sages were all men of the covenant—and it adds its warnings about the inevitable disaster that such folly brings.

■ 6:20 See 1:8.

command. See note on 3:1.

■ 6:21 See 3:3 and Deut. 6:6, 8.

22 [u]When you roam, [1]they will lead you;
When you sleep, [v]they will keep you;
And when you awake, they will speak with you.
23 [w]For the commandment is a lamp,
And the law a light;
Reproofs of instruction are the way of life,
24 [x]To keep you from the evil woman,
From the flattering tongue of a seductress.
25 [y]Do not lust after her beauty in your heart,
Nor let her allure you with her eyelids.
26 For [z]by means of a harlot
A man is reduced to a crust of bread;
[a]And [2]an adulteress will [b]prey upon his precious life.
27 Can a man take fire to his bosom,
And his clothes not be burned?
28 Can one walk on hot coals,
And his feet not be seared?
29 So is he who goes in to his neighbor's wife;
Whoever touches her shall not be innocent.

30 People do not despise a thief
If he steals to satisfy himself when he is starving.
31 Yet when he is found, [c]he must restore sevenfold;
He may have to give up all the substance of his house.
32 Whoever commits adultery with a woman [d]lacks understanding;
He who does so destroys his own soul.
33 Wounds and dishonor he will get,
And his reproach will not be wiped away.
34 For [e]jealousy is a husband's fury;
Therefore he will not spare in the day of vengeance.
35 He will [3]accept no recompense,
Nor will he be appeased though you give many gifts.

7 My son, keep my words,
And [a]treasure my commands within you.

CHAPTER 7

1 [a]Prov. 2:1
2 [b]Lev. 18:5; Prov. 4:4; [Is. 55:3] [c]Deut. 32:10; Ps. 17:8; Zech. 2:8
3 [d]Deut. 6:8; Prov. 6:21

■ 6:22 See notes on 3:23, 24; cf. Deut. 6:7. Wisdom is comprehensive in its effects on one's life.

they will lead you. See notes on 1:5; 2:9; 3:6.

■ 6:23 In Ps. 119:105 the same metaphor is applied to the law as such. The wise person accepts the revealed law, and depending on it, examines nature and the experiences of life. In this way, wisdom supplements the law from its own perspective.

■ 6:24 See notes on 2:16 and 5:3.

■ 6:25 Do not lust. The lustful desire of the heart is the start of the progression of folly. The connection between the desire and the act is not as starkly put as in Matt. 5:28, but it is present.

■ 6:26 crust of bread. Although consorting with prostitutes is self-destructive, adultery is worse. It is not only a violation of marriage, but a direct attack on it.

■ 6:27–29 The vivid and transparent metaphors emphasize the folly of adultery.

■ 6:29 not be innocent. Wisdom in Proverbs emphasizes the expected results of folly, but also, from time to time, goes behind the natural cause-and-effect chain to the overarching purpose and judgment of God.

■ 6:30–33 The person driven by hunger to steal is still subject to the law, but people can understand such need. By contrast, adultery has no such extenuating factor and brings utter disgrace. The law required restoration of four times the theft; "sevenfold" exaggerates this for emphasis (Ex. 22:1).

■ 6:34, 35 The offended husband's jealousy leads to fury and to a merciless revenge that no offer of compensation can avert. The forces that drive human relationships are often at the center of wisdom thinking.

■ 7:1–27 This chapter is made up of three, possibly independent, parts, linked by the common theme of adultery. The first (vv. 1–5) and third (vv. 24–27) are in the form of instructions, and both warn about involvement with the adulteress. The middle section (vv. 6–23) appears as a dramatic narrative that functions as an imaginative reinforcement of the instruction.

■ 7:1 commands. See note on 3:1.

■ 7:2 live. See notes on 2:18 and 3:2.

apple of your eye. Lit. "the little man of your eye," a reference to the pupil, in which the image of the observer is reflected. The pupil admits light to the eye and must be protected from all harm (cf. Deut. 32:10; Ps. 17:8; Zech. 2:8).

■ 7:3 See 3:3 and notes. The procedures outlined in vv. 1–3 are an aspect of wisdom's method. The traditions are handed down in order to mold life and character.

4 Say to wisdom, "You are my sister,"
And call understanding your nearest kin,
5 [e]That they may keep you from the immoral woman,
From the seductress who flatters with her words.

The Crafty Harlot

6 For at the window of my house
I looked through my lattice,
7 And saw among the simple,
I perceived among the [f]youths,
A young man [f]devoid[2] of understanding,
8 Passing along the street near her corner;
And he took the path to her house
9 [g]In the twilight, in the evening,
In the black and dark night.

10 And there a woman met him,
With the attire of a harlot, and a crafty heart.
11 [h]She was loud and rebellious,
[i]Her feet would not stay at home.
12 At times she was outside, at times in the open square,
Lurking at every corner.
13 So she caught him and kissed him;
With an [3]impudent face she said to him:
14 "I have peace offerings with me;
Today I have paid my vows.
15 So I came out to meet you,
Diligently to seek your face,
And I have found you.
16 I have spread my bed with tapestry,
Colored coverings of [j]Egyptian linen.
17 I have perfumed my bed
With myrrh, aloes, and cinnamon.
18 Come, let us take our fill of love until morning;
Let us delight ourselves with love.
19 For [4]my husband is not at home;
He has gone on a long journey;
20 He has taken a bag of money [5]with him,
And will come home [6]on the appointed day."

21 [7]With [k]her enticing speech she caused him to yield,
[l]With her flattering lips she [8]seduced him.
22 Immediately he went after her, as an ox goes to the slaughter,

■ 7:4 sister . . . nearest kin. One should think of wisdom and understanding as one's close relatives. This is probably intended to depict the desired intimacy with wisdom, rather than to contrast with the adulteress of v. 5.

■ 7:7 simple . . . devoid of understanding. See note on 1:4. The lad is naive and unskilled in the art of living. The teaching of wisdom is aimed at such an impressionable type (1:2–4).

■ 7:10 Seduction involves a deceitful show that attracts the victim while at the same time concealing the real intent.

■ 7:14 peace offerings. The food from these religious offerings provided opportunity for gluttony (Lev. 7:12–18). See 17:1; 21:27.

■ 7:19, 20 The woman is aware that this illicit relationship involves them in deceit. They vainly hope to avoid the jealous husband's rage (6:33–35).

■ 7:21 The seductive power of words is a constant theme (2:16; 5:3; 6:24; 9:16, 17). Over against this is contrasted the healing power of wisdom's words (2:1–6; 3:1, 2; 5:1, 2; 7:24, 25).

■ 7:22 as an ox goes to the slaughter. The dumb animal is unaware of its fate and allows itself to be led.

The Excellence of Wisdom

8 Does not [a] wisdom cry out,
And understanding lift up her voice?
2 She takes her stand on the top of the [1] high hill,
Beside the way, where the paths meet.
3 She cries out by the gates, at the entry of the city,
At the entrance of the doors:
4 "To you, O men, I call,
And my voice is to the sons of men.
5 O you [2] simple ones, understand prudence,
And you fools, be of an understanding heart.

CHAPTER 8

2 [1]Lit. heights
5 [2]naive

■ 7:23 arrow struck his liver. A mortal wound.

■ 7:25 heart. See note on 2:2.

Do not stray into her paths. The wise man's prescription is to keep one's thoughts (heart) from adultery, and to stay away from places where there is temptation.

■ 7:26, 27 A motive for prudence is to avoid the carnage that results from folly.

■ 7:27 hell . . . death. See 1:12; 2:18; 5:5 and notes.

■ 8:1–36 In chs. 1—7, the mouthpiece of wisdom is a teacher or sage. In this majestic poem, wisdom is personified as the supreme teacher who teaches on her own authority. The personification is most probably a poetic device to express more vividly the authority of wisdom. Although it is premature to see personified wisdom (especially in vv. 22–31) as a direct portrayal of a divine being, there is no doubt that the revelation of Jesus Christ as the wisdom of God shows us the significance of a wisdom that is its own absolute authority (1 Cor. 1:24, 30; Heb. 1:1–4; Col. 1:15, 16; John 1:1–18). The poem progresses from a consideration of the human task of learning wisdom (vv. 1–11) to the powerful effects of wisdom in the world (vv. 12–21)—and then to the divine origin of wisdom and its place in the totality of creation (vv. 22–31). A final appeal equates wisdom with life (vv. 32–36). Behind human wisdom is the original, uncreated wisdom of God, by which He established all created things in their proper relationships to God and to one another. This means that human wisdom is valid and life-affirming insofar as it proceeds within the context provided by divine special revelation (ch. 4 note).

■ 8:1–3 See notes on 1:20–33.

■ 8:4 men. The Hebrew word usually applies to males, but may extend to all humanity. Wisdom, in the role of the instructor, addresses not sons or pupils, but all people. There is no elite class in the matter of learning wisdom; it is for all.

■ 8:5 See notes on 1:4, 22.

Wisdom Cries Out (8:1)

Wisdom is personified in Proverbs as being with God before creation. She offers instruction in the ways of God. Her benefits are the basis of life itself.

Origin of Wisdom	Teaching of Wisdom	Value of Wisdom
In God (v. 22) From everlasting (v. 23) Before all things (vv. 23–30)	Prudence (vv. 5, 12) Understanding (v. 5) Excellent things (v. 6) Truth (v. 7) Hatred of wickedness (v. 7) Righteousness (v. 8) Knowledge (v. 12) Discretion (v. 12) Fear of the Lord (v. 13)	Yields riches and honor (v. 18) Greater than gold and silver (v. 19) The wise are blessed (vv. 32, 34) The wise find life (v. 35) The wise obtain God's favor (v. 35)

6 Listen, for I will speak of [b]excellent things,
And from the opening of my lips will come right things;
7 For my mouth will speak truth;
Wickedness is an abomination to my lips.
8 All the words of my mouth are with righteousness;
Nothing crooked or perverse is in them.
9 They are all plain to him who understands,
And right to those who find knowledge.

And [j]those who seek me diligently will find me.
18 [k]Riches and honor are with me,
Enduring riches and righteousness.
19 My fruit is better than gold, yes, than fine gold,
And my revenue than choice silver.
20 I [4]traverse the way of righteousness,
In the midst of the paths of justice,
21 That I may cause those who love me to inherit wealth,
That I may fill their treasuries.

■ 8:6 excellent things. Princely or valuable things.

right things. The moral element is implied.

■ 8:7 truth. The word denotes what is utterly reliable. It is the opposite of wickedness. Proverbs relates truth to wisdom in several places, and here the word of wisdom is described in a way suggestive of divine origin.

■ 8:8 righteousness. See note on v. 18.

■ 8:9 Wisdom is a self-consistent reality. One must be attuned to it in order to learn it. This is another way of saying that all truth is God's truth and without the knowledge of God we cannot know the absolute truth. Cf. the wisdom of Jesus in Matt. 13:10–16; Luke 11:52.

■ 8:10, 11 The comparison of wisdom to the most desirable emblems of wealth is a way of emphasizing its value (2:4; 3:14, 15; 8:19–21; Job 28:17). The warning against crass materialism is obvious.

■ 8:12 See 1:4 and note.

■ 8:13 The fear of the LORD. See 1:7; 2:5; 3:7; 9:10 and notes. Wisdom reminds us that the search for an ethic based solely on experience is futile. Education and experience must build on the basis of the faithfulness and hope provided by God's covenant promises. Ethical systems without the absolute standard of right, goodness, and truth revealed in the Scriptures cannot survive (Ps. 36:9).

Pride . . . I hate. Wisdom echoes the hatred that God has for evil (6:16; Deut. 12:31; 16:22; Ps. 5:5; Is. 61:8; Jer. 44:4).

■ 8:14 Counsel. The word means advice derived from wisdom and experience, and also, plans made by joint deliberation on a course of action. The same word is used for the mind of God concerning His own plans and purposes (Is. 5:19; 19:17; 25:1; 28:29). Wisdom has access to this counsel.

■ 8:15, 16 The proper function of human rulers is defined by the order of God's creation as revealed in the Word of God (Gen. 1:26–28). Wise rulership begins with the fear of the Lord (Deut. 17:18–20; 1 Kin. 3:6–9; 4:29–34). The Messiah will rule by perfect wisdom (Is. 11:1–3). See "Christians and Civil Government" at Rom. 13:1.

■ 8:17 I love those who love me. The statements contrast with wisdom being hidden from fools (1:28, 29). Wisdom cares for her own (4:6, 8, 9).

those who seek me . . . find me. See 2:4, 5; 3:13–15. This suggests a relationship between wisdom and the grace of God that causes Him to draw near to us (Is. 55:6). Jesus, Himself the final revelation of divine wisdom (1 Cor. 1:24, 30; Col. 2:2, 3), possibly alludes to this verse in Matt. 7:7.

■ 8:18 Riches and honor. See 3:2, 16. Solomon's early reign was an example of the material and social benefits of wisdom (1 Kin. 10:1–9).

righteousness. This means obedience to God's law, extending to the cultivation of right relationships between God, people, and creation. See Rom. 12:18; 1 Tim. 2:1–4.

8:19 See note on vv. 10, 11.

■ 8:22–31 This hymn-like section presents wisdom as the basis of de-

23 [m]I have been established from everlasting,
From the beginning, before there was ever an earth.
24 When there were no depths I was brought forth,
When there were no fountains abounding with water.
25 [n]Before the mountains were settled,
Before the hills, I was brought forth;
26 While as yet He had not made the earth or the [5]fields,
Or the [6]primal dust of the world.
27 When He prepared the heavens, I was there,
When He drew a circle on the face of the deep,
28 When He established the clouds above,
When He strengthened the fountains of the deep,
29 [o]When He assigned to the sea its limit,
So that the waters would not transgress His command,
When [p]He marked out the foundations of the earth,
30 [q]Then I was beside Him as [7]a master craftsman;
[r]And I was daily His delight,
Rejoicing always before Him,
31 Rejoicing in His inhabited world,
And [s]my delight was with the sons of men.

32 "Now therefore, listen to me, my children,
For [t]blessed are those who keep my ways.
33 Hear instruction and be wise,
And do not disdain it.
34 [u]Blessed is the man who listens to me,
Watching daily at my gates,
Waiting at the posts of my doors.
35 For whoever finds me finds life,
And [v]obtains favor from the LORD;
36 But he who sins against me [w]wrongs his own soul;
All those who hate me love death."

sign in the universe. The focus is unusual, but this view of wisdom does not go against the theology of the covenant and God's saving acts in Israel. The sages were also men of the covenant (1:7; 2:20–22 and notes). The method of wisdom is to emphasize the biblical theology of creation as the basis for understanding our lives as redeemed people of God.

■ 8:22 The LORD. The proper name of God as the Redeemer and the Author of the covenant (Ex. 3:15 and notes). God's redemptive covenant with Israel underscores His commitment to creation, for the covenant promises culminate in Jesus Christ—the great Seed of Abraham (Gen. 12:7; cf. Gal. 3:16) and Son of David (2 Sam. 7:16; cf. Luke 1:32)—through whom the broken and fallen creation is redeemed (Rom. 8:20–22; 2 Cor. 5:17 note; Col. 1:15–20; Rev. 21:1).

possessed me. Wisdom is not a fourth divine person, but an attribute of God that is given expression in creation as well as redemption. In this chapter, wisdom is personified for poetic effect. The attributes of God are eternal, so the figure of wisdom is said to be from "the beginning."

at the beginning of His way. Wisdom is the prior counsel of God's will (Eph. 1:11), the eternal decree that establishes all things in their relationships and determines the course of history.

Before His works of old. Wisdom existed prior to God's self-revelation in His covenant and saving acts.

■ 8:23 Wisdom was also prior to the creation of the universe.

■ 8:24–31 Job reminds us that creation wisdom ultimately belongs to God alone (Job 38; 39). The "cultural mandate," assigning to humans the task of understanding creation and exercising dominion over it (Gen. 1:26–28), is the basis for wisdom's interest in knowing the world of nature (1 Kin. 4:29, 33). This is pursued within the framework established by special revelation (the Scripture) and in the fear of the Lord (1:7 note; 8:1–36 note; 9:10).

■ 8:24 I was brought forth. The wise plan of God precedes His action. Reference to being "brought forth" suggests that wisdom is uniquely the child of God, but this is still a poetic device and does not refer to a new divine being.

■ 8:27 I was there. Wisdom was prior to creation and a participant in it. Creation is the first great demonstration of the wisdom of God.

■ 8:28 fountains of the deep. See Gen. 7:11; 8:2.

■ 8:30 a master craftsman. Wisdom is now described as the agent of creation. Skilled craftsmanship is an aspect of wisdom (cf. Ex. 31:3), which points to the practical nature of wisdom. See 1:2 and note.

■ 8:31 Rejoicing . . . delight. Wisdom reflects the satisfaction expressed in the divine declaration that creation is very good (Gen. 1:31).

■ 8:32 blessed. See note on 3:13. The blessings of God on obedience are a feature of covenant theology (Deut. 28:1–14; see "God's Covenant of Grace" at Gen. 12:1). Here the word describes the rewards of wisdom (3:13–18).

■ 8:34 Watching daily at my gates. The pupil attends at the house of the teacher, eager to learn whatever wisdom will impart.

■ 8:35 The benefits of wisdom are equated with life itself. To be truly alive is to be rightly related to God, other people, and the created order. See notes on 3:2, 18.

favor from the LORD. That is, acceptance and goodwill. The sage is not describing an alternative way of gaining acceptance other than that provided in the covenant community and sacrifices. Rather, he describes the richness of the believers' fellowship with the Lord as their lives are molded by true wisdom (12:2).

■ 8:36 hate. To hate wisdom is to hate life, and therefore to love death.

The Way of Wisdom

9 Wisdom has [a]built her house,
She has hewn out her seven pillars;
2 [b]She has slaughtered her meat,
[c]She has mixed her wine,
She has also [1]furnished her table.
3 She has sent out her maidens,
She cries out from the highest places of the city,
4 "Whoever[d] is simple, let him turn in here!"
As for him who lacks understanding, she says to him,
5 "Come,[e] eat of my bread
And drink of the wine I have mixed.
6 Forsake foolishness and live,
And go in the way of understanding.

7 "He who corrects a scoffer gets shame for himself,
And he who rebukes a wicked man only harms himself.
8 [f]Do not correct a scoffer, lest he hate you;
[g]Rebuke a wise man, and he will love you.
9 Give instruction to a wise man, and he will be still wiser;
Teach a just man, [h]and he will increase in learning.

10 "The[i] fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom,
And the knowledge of the Holy One is understanding.
11 [j]For by me your days will be multiplied,
And years of life will be added to you.
12 [k]If you are wise, you are wise for yourself,
And if you scoff, you will bear it alone."

The Way of Folly

13 [l]A foolish woman is [2]clamorous;
She is simple, and knows nothing.
14 For she sits at the door of her house,

■ 9:1–18 This section consists of two competing invitations, one from wisdom and the other from folly. Both are portrayed as women calling people to enter their houses. Wisdom invites the simple to eat of her life-giving food (vv. 1–12). Folly offers food that leads to death (vv. 13–18).

■ 9:1 her seven pillars. The significance of "seven pillars" is not clear. It may simply indicate the architectural splendor of the house. However, "seven" often symbolizes perfection or completeness, and so may here represent the perfection of divine wisdom.

■ 9:2 mixed her wine. The mixture was probably of wine and spices (Song 8:2).

■ 9:3 her maidens. Wisdom's servants are sent out to summon any who will hear her invitation to life.

from the highest places. The invitation is open and universal (Is. 52:7).

■ 9:4 simple. See 1:4 and note. Note the competing call of folly in v. 16.

lacks understanding. Lit. "lacks heart," the will to think and act rightly.

■ 9:5 Come, eat. A banquet is the right setting for the food distributed by wisdom. The banquet motif is later used to portray the blessings of the redeemed (Is. 55:1, 2; Matt. 22:1–13; 26:29; Rev. 19).

■ 9:6 Forsake foolishness and live. See 1:4, 22; 2:19; 3:2, 18; 8:35 and notes.

■ 9:7–12 These verses contrast the wise and the fool, not only at the point of decision to enter the houses of wisdom or folly, but in the kind of lives that result from those decisions.

■ 9:7 scoffer. The scoffer has gone beyond a simple lack of judgment, and has made a conscious decision for evil.

gets shame for himself. The effort to correct such a person will fail and may backfire.

he who rebukes. This parallel phrase is synonymous in meaning to the first part of the verse.

■ 9:8 Here the parallel structure is antithetic (i.e., the two parts are contrasted opposites).

Rebuke a wise man. While a fool shuts out wisdom, a wise person is glad for the opportunity to shut out folly. Wisdom perceives the positive side of correction; wisdom is not defensive and easily offended, but humble and responsive.

■ 9:9 Wisdom recognizes an important principle of human nature: there is no standing still; we progress in the direction of our choice. Wisdom accumulates more wisdom (cf. Matt. 13:12).

■ 9:10 The fear of the LORD. See 1:7 and note; "The Wisdom and Will of God" at Dan. 2:20.

Holy One. Lit. "holy ones" or "saints." The translation here is based on the parallel with "the LORD" in the previous line (cf. 30:3, where the same plural form is used).

■ 9:11 See 3:2 and note.

■ 9:12 you are wise for yourself. That is, you will benefit (3:13–18; 4:9–13; 8:34, 35).

■ 9:13–18 The description of folly is directly opposed to that of wisdom in vv. 1–6.

■ 9:13 clamorous. See 7:11, 12.

simple, and knows nothing. The sensuous appeal of folly contrasts with wisdom as the teacher.

■ 9:14 by the highest places of the city. Folly counterfeits the actions of wisdom so as to appear wise (cf. v. 3).

On a seat [m]by the highest places of the city,
15 To call to those who pass by,
Who go straight on their way:
16 "Whoever[n] is [3]simple, let him turn in here";
And as for him who lacks understanding, she says to him,
17 "Stolen[o] water is sweet,
And bread eaten in secret is pleasant."
18 But he does not know that [p]the dead are there,
That her guests are in the depths of [4]hell.

Wise Sayings of Solomon

10 The proverbs of [a]Solomon:

[b]A wise son makes a glad father,
But a foolish son is the grief of his mother.

2 [c]Treasures of wickedness profit nothing,
[d]But righteousness delivers from death.
3 [e]The LORD will not allow the righteous soul to famish,
But He casts away the desire of the wicked.

4 [f]He who has a slack hand becomes poor,
But [g]the hand of the diligent makes rich.
5 He who gathers in [h]summer is a wise son;
He who sleeps in harvest is [i]a son who causes shame.

6 Blessings are on the head of the righteous,
But violence covers the mouth of the wicked.
7 [j]The memory of the righteous is blessed,
But the name of the wicked will rot.

8 The wise in heart will receive commands,
[k]But [l]a prating fool will [2]fall.

■ 9:18 the dead. Hebrew rephaim, of uncertain derivation. The word is used eight times in the Bible, all in Hebrew poetry, referring to the spirits of the departed.

hell. Hebrew sheol, lit. "the grave." See 1:12; 5:5; 7:27 and notes. In Proverbs, Sheol is the fitting destination of fools not because it is a place of torment, as Hell is later described (Rev. 14:9–11), but simply because those who go there have lost the possibility of relationship with the living God. See also 2:18 and note.

■ 10:1—22:16 This section consists mainly of single-sentence proverbs. There is no evidence that these are a form of wisdom writing from a different time than the longer instructions of chs. 1—9. They are simply different forms, and function in different ways. Aphorisms are often stated categorically, without the qualifications that might allow them to cover every conceivable situation.

The wisdom of Proverbs presupposes and builds upon the special revelation of God in the Law (1:7 and notes). The Hebrew sages assumed that, given human intelligence and the gift of God's wisdom in His self-revelation, God's people learn to discern the order and relationships that make for a meaningful and productive life. The wisdom of Proverbs gives the fruit of experience and reflection, stressing the need to think through and to apply human knowledge and the Word of God to all the affairs of life in a responsible way.

■ 10:1–32 As is often the case in the Bible, the chapter divisions are rather arbitrary and do not aid the analysis of the text. The individual sentences can be classified according to their literary structures and their themes. Chapters 10—15 consist mainly of contrasts between opposites, as indicated by the conjunction "but" introducing the second line of most of these proverbs. This common literary device uses contrasting pairs such as "righteous" versus "wicked" and "wise" versus "fool." Occasional grouping of sentences according to theme and form is evident in the book, a method that aids memorization but does not assist the interpretation of the mostly independent sayings. Each sentence has its own social setting and special aim. Much like folk sayings in our Western societies, some of the sayings have been separated from their contexts in order to provide concise, practical guidelines for living.

■ 10:1 The proverbs of Solomon. See Introduction: Author.

■ 10:2 righteousness. See note on 8:18. In this chapter, about half the verses contain a contrast between the righteous and the wicked.

delivers from death. See 2:18; 3:18 and notes.

■ 10:3 will not allow . . . to famish. There is a correlation between righteousness and life both in the covenant promises of God and in general life experience. The suffering of the righteous is not in view, however (cf. 1:19 note).

■ 10:4, 5 See 6:6–11; 13:4; 15:19; 24:30–34. A frequently used wisdom theme, poverty itself is no shame, but poverty due to laziness is.

■ 10:5 wise son. Family relationships and obligations are primary concerns in wisdom literature.

■ 10:6 Blessings. The unspecified blessings leave the application open to a range of situations, but, as in v. 22, the goodness of the Lord is experienced.

■ 10:7 memory. How the righteous person is remembered after death.

■ 10:8 receive commands. The wise person is teachable and receives the commands of wisdom (2:1; 3:1 note).

9 [l]He who walks with integrity walks securely,
But he who perverts his ways will become known.

10 He who winks with the eye causes trouble,
But a prating fool will fall.

11 The mouth of the righteous is a well of life,
But violence covers the mouth of the wicked.

12 Hatred stirs up strife,
But [m]love covers all sins.

13 Wisdom is found on the lips of him who has understanding,
But [n]a rod is for the back of him who [3]is devoid of understanding.

14 Wise people store up knowledge,
But [o]the mouth of the foolish is near destruction.

15 The [p]rich man's wealth is his strong city;
The destruction of the poor is their poverty.

16 The labor of the righteous leads to [q]life,
The wages of the wicked to sin.

17 He who keeps instruction is in the way of life,
But he who refuses correction [4]goes astray.

18 Whoever [r]hides hatred has lying lips,
And [s]whoever spreads slander is a fool.

19 [t]In the multitude of words sin is not lacking,
But [u]he who restrains his lips is wise.

20 The tongue of the righteous is choice silver;
The heart of the wicked is worth little.

21 The lips of the righteous feed many,
But fools die for lack of [5]wisdom.

prating fool. Fools do not know when to be silent and listen. They lack the discipline of wisdom and promote their own downfall (v. 14 note).

■ 10:9 will become known. The one who attempts to pervert the truth will be exposed and disciplined by God.

■ 10:10 winks with the eye. See 6:13 and note.

prating fool. See v. 8 and note. This phrase does not seem to correspond to the first line, either as a parallel or a contrast. The Septuagint (Greek Old Testament) reads, "but the one who boldly reproves makes peace."

■ 10:11 well of life. The image is similar to "tree of life" (3:18 note). The words of the wise, like a well, are a source of life (Ezek. 47:1–12; Rev. 22:1–3).

■ 10:12 Hatred. The word suggests the rejection of the good order, indeed the dissolution (cf. 1 John 3:15) of human relationships. Such hatred causes the fragmentation of society.

love. The word suggests seeking the best for others. Love is the greatest expression of ordered relationships.

covers. In order to promote harmony of relationships, love covers over those matters that cause friction. This verse is alluded to in James 5:20 and 1 Pet. 4:8.

■ 10:13 Those who are perceptive reveal their character in the wisdom of their words. Those who lack sense simply involve themselves in strife. The parallel suggests that foolish talk is the cause of their problems.

■ 10:14 store up knowledge. The wise person, though no longer the pupil, will continue to learn. Only a fool claims to know everything.

mouth of the foolish. Note how often the fool is portrayed as a babbler (vv. 6, 8, 13, 18, 19, 31, 32). The Book of James, the "Proverbs" of the New Testament, also explores this theme (James 1:26; 3:1–12). Knowing when to speak and when to keep silent is a prominent wisdom theme (11:12 note; 26:4–5; Job 38:2; 42:1–6).

■ 10:15 strong city. The image is that of security against the uncertainties of life.

destruction of the poor. The poor do not have much defense against the unexpected. This circumstance is observed without comment on its rightness or wrongness (cf. Matt. 26:11). In the final analysis, however, the rich, whose confidence is in themselves (28:11), will find that their monetary security is illusory (11:4, 28; 18:10, 11; 23:4, 5). Only the Lord is a sure defense (3:5, 6).

■ 10:16 wages. The outcome or reward of righteousness is life (3:2, 18 and notes; cf. Rom. 6:23).

sin. "Sin," or its consequence, punishment, is opposed to life.

■ 10:18 The form of this verse differs from the parallel of opposites (antithetic parallelism) found in much of this chapter. Again the subject is foolish speech (lying or slander), and the one who engages in such action is either malicious or foolish (v. 14 note). Such foolishness is not lightly regarded, because this folly is actually sin (Ex. 20:16).

■ 10:20 heart. Here the word is parallel with tongue. The mind, will, and inner character of the wicked are the source of futile words (Matt. 15:18, 19).

■ 10:21 See vv. 11 and 17. The wisdom of the righteous has good effects upon others, but fools cannot even sustain themselves.

22 [v]The blessing of the LORD makes one rich,
And He adds no sorrow with it.

23 [w]To do evil is like sport to a fool,
But a man of understanding has wisdom.
24 [x]The fear of the wicked will come upon him,
And [y]the desire of the righteous will be granted.
25 When the whirlwind passes by, [z]the wicked is no more,
But [a]the righteous has an everlasting foundation.

26 As vinegar to the teeth and smoke to the eyes,
So is the lazy man to those who send him.

27 [b]The fear of the LORD prolongs days,
But [c]the years of the wicked will be shortened.
28 The hope of the righteous will be gladness,
But the [d]expectation of the wicked will perish.
29 The way of the LORD is strength for the upright,
But [e]destruction will come to the workers of iniquity.

30 [f]The righteous will never be removed,
But the wicked will not inhabit the [6]earth.
31 [g]The mouth of the righteous brings forth wisdom,
But the perverse tongue will be cut out.
32 The lips of the righteous know what is acceptable,
But the mouth of the wicked what is perverse.

11 [a]Dishonest[1] scales are an abomination to the LORD,
But a [2]just weight is His delight.

2 When pride comes, then comes [b]shame;
But with the humble is wisdom.

3 The integrity of the upright will guide [c]them,
But the perversity of the unfaithful will destroy them.
4 [d]Riches do not profit in the day of wrath,

CHAPTER 11

1 [a]Lev. 19:35, 36; Deut. 25:13–16; Prov. 20:10, 23; Mic. 6:11 [1]deceptive [2]Lit. perfect stone

3 [c]Prov. 13:6

4 [d]Prov. 10:2; Ezek. 7:19; Zeph. 1:18

■ 10:22 rich. In the Old Testament context this would be material wealth, a result of Solomon's wisdom (1 Kin. 4:22–28; 10:4–13). Wealth is not wisdom's goal, but is often wisdom's reward (v. 2).

■ 10:24 fear of the wicked. The wicked's fear of punishment. The meaning seems to be that God's righteous judgment is inevitable.

■ 10:26 The form of this proverb differs from the parallel of opposites (antithetic parallelism) usual in this chapter. The comparison turns on what is common to the three pairs (synonymous parallelism; see "Introduction to Hebrew Poetry"). The lazy person is a distasteful irritant to his employer.

■ 10:27 The fear of the LORD. See 1:7; 9:10 and notes. Harmony with God, here recognized as coming through the provisions of the covenant, means harmony with life. As in the fifth commandment, the blessings of God are seen in terms of a lengthy and fruitful life in the Promised Land (Ex. 20:12; Deut. 5:16 note). See 2:20–22; 3:2 and note.

■ 10:29 This proverb states a basic principle of covenant theology rather than an observation on human life. The wisdom writers remind us that the source of all true knowledge and wisdom is the self-revelation of God in His creative, providential, and saving works, and especially in the Scriptures.

■ 10:30 See v. 27. Here is another proverb grounded in God's covenant with Israel. The "land" (see text note) is that promised to Israel, and its possession is basic to life. Possession of the land was conditional upon the response of faith to the covenant promises.

■ 10:31, 32 See note on v. 14.

■ 10:31 perverse. The word suggests that which speaks dishonestly and seeks to prevent sound judgment in others.

■ 11:1–31 As in ch. 10, many sayings in this chapter contrast the ways of righteousness and wickedness. Other sentences not explicitly naming these two opposites nevertheless compare specific examples of them.

■ 11:1 Dishonest scales. Honesty and fair dealing are basic to covenant ethics. Reference to the Lord indicates that covenant relationships are in view.

■ 11:2 pride . . . shame. Wisdom recognizes the importance of self-control. Arrogance and pride are easily recognized by others who will then withhold honor.

with the humble is wisdom. Because humility involves the realistic appraisal of one's place in relationship to others, it promotes a wise sense of the true order of things.

■ 11:3 integrity. From a Hebrew root meaning "complete," this word indicates ethical straightness and perfection. Guidance in living is put in its ethical framework. A right relationship to the Lord leads to a right course in life.

perversity. The word means "crookedness" or "twistedness." This lifestyle destroys a person because God's order cannot ultimately be resisted.

■ 11:4 day of wrath. The saying anticipates not merely natural and impersonal retribution in life, but a personal Judge and His wrath. Wealth cannot secure anyone from God's wrath (Luke 12:13–21).

righteousness. See note on 8:18.

But [e]righteousness delivers from death.
5 The righteousness of the blameless will [3]direct his way aright,
But the wicked will fall by his own [f]wickedness.
6 The righteousness of the upright will deliver them,
But the unfaithful will be caught by their lust.

7 When a wicked man dies, his expectation will [g]perish,
And the hope of the unjust perishes.
8 [h]The righteous is delivered from trouble,
And it comes to the wicked instead.
9 The hypocrite with his mouth destroys his neighbor,
But through knowledge the righteous will be delivered.
10 [i]When it goes well with the righteous, the city rejoices;
And when the wicked perish, there is jubilation.
11 By the blessing of the upright the city is [j]exalted,
But it is overthrown by the mouth of the wicked.

12 He who [4]is devoid of wisdom despises his neighbor,
But a man of understanding holds his peace.

13 [k]A talebearer reveals secrets,
But he who is of a faithful spirit [l]conceals a matter.

14 [m]Where there is no counsel, the people fall;
But in the multitude of counselors there is safety.

15 He who is [n]surety[5] for a stranger will suffer,
But one who hates [6]being surety is secure.

16 A gracious woman retains honor,
But ruthless men retain riches.
17 [o]The merciful man does good for his own soul,
But he who is cruel troubles his own flesh.
18 The wicked man does deceptive work,
But [p]he who sows righteousness will have a sure reward.
19 As righteousness leads to [q]life,
So he who pursues evil pursues it to his own [r]death.

■ 11:5, 6 The sense is almost identical with v. 3.

■ 11:8 delivered. An apparent reference to God's providential intervention. Proverbial sayings often state what is generally true, but not without exceptions. The suffering of the righteous (e.g., Job) shows that while a degree of order is perceptible in human experience, such order is not invariable since God is sovereign and pursues His own eternal purposes. Only trust in God's goodness, even when His goodness is not immediately seen, addresses the problem of the righteous sufferer. See note on 10:1—22:16; and "Introduction to Hebrew Poetry."

■ 11:9 with his mouth. See 10:13, 14, 18 and notes.

knowledge. Wisdom and knowledge as the way to life enable one to escape the ways of the godless (vv. 4, 6, 8).

■ 11:10 A viable society must have some recognition of right and wrong and of reward and retribution. Without descending to vindictive revenge, there is a proper rejoicing when the perpetrators of evil, corruption, and human misery are destroyed.

■ 11:11 The corporate implications of behavior are apparent: righteous lives strengthen the community, while the wicked corrupt and overthrow it.

■ 11:12 See note on 10:14. Gossip and derision easily destroy another's reputation, but they do not advance the reputation of the gossiper. The wise know when to keep silent (v. 13; 12:23; 13:3; 17:28; 18:2, 6–8; Eccl. 3:7).

■ 11:13 A variation on v. 12, this verse notes that maintaining confidences strengthens relationships, while a fool's gossip destroys them (10:14 and note).

■ 11:14 counsel . . . counselors. See 15:22; 20:18; 24:6. Counsel or advice was a feature of the emergence of wisdom in political life during the reign of David (2 Sam. 15:30—17:23).

■ 11:15 See 6:1 and note.

■ 11:16 These opposed parallel thoughts (antithetic parallelism) perhaps teach the desirability of respect over mere wealth (22:1; cf. Eccl. 7:1). Alternatively, the sense may be that the gracious woman retains honor as surely as the ruthless acquire riches.

■ 11:17 merciful. The word describes one who behaves rightly toward others. There is a legitimate self-interest expressed in "love your neighbor as yourself" (Lev. 19:18). What is best for others is best for us.

■ 11:18 See 10:2, 16; cf. 1 Cor. 9:6–11. The reward may be material or spiritual. The principle is the lasting value of the rewards of righteousness.

■ 11:19 The ways of righteousness and evil, worked out in specific detail in many sayings in the chapter, are here stated in the broadest terms. The underlying principle is explained in Deut. 30:15–20. In this verse, "righteousness" and "evil" are used broadly, to include the God-given order in existence that experience discerns (8:18 note).

20 Those who are of a perverse heart are an abomination to the LORD,
But the blameless in their ways are His delight.
21 [s]Though they join [7]forces, the wicked will not go unpunished;
But [t]the posterity of the righteous will be delivered.

22 As a ring of gold in a swine's snout,
So is a lovely woman who lacks [8]discretion.

23 The desire of the righteous is only good,
But the expectation of the wicked [u]is wrath.

24 There is one who [v]scatters, yet increases more;
And there is one who withholds more than is right,
But it leads to poverty.
25 [w]The generous soul will be made rich,
[x]And he who waters will also be watered himself.
26 The people will curse [y]him who withholds grain,
But [z]blessing will be on the head of him who sells it.

27 He who earnestly seeks good [9]finds favor,
[a]But trouble will come to him who seeks evil.

28 [b]He who trusts in his riches will fall,
But [c]the righteous will flourish like foliage.

29 He who troubles his own house [d]will inherit the wind,
And the fool will be [e]servant to the wise of heart.

30 The fruit of the righteous is a tree of life,
And [f]he who [1]wins souls is wise.

31 [g]If the righteous will be [2]recompensed on the earth,
How much more the ungodly and the sinner.

12 Whoever loves instruction loves knowledge,
But he who hates correction is stupid.

2 A good man obtains favor from the LORD,
But a man of wicked intentions He will condemn.

31 [g]Jer. 25:29 [2]rewarded

■ 11:20 perverse. Or, "crooked," "twisted" (8:8).

■ 11:21 will not go unpunished. The legal terminology indicates that the judgment of God, and not merely natural retribution, is involved. In the same way, there is a judicial act of God involved in the escape of the righteous from judgment.

■ 11:23 See 10:24, 25, 28–30. The contrast of the righteous and the wicked is seen in their destinies.

■ 11:24–26 These verses make the general point that the generous person is blessed, while miserliness leads to ruin (v. 17 note).

■ 11:26 The generosity of v. 25 is illustrated by the community-minded merchant who puts the needs of others ahead of his own interests.

■ 11:27 See v. 17 and note. The one who "seeks good" is either the benefactor of society who receives community approval in return, or the seeker of righteousness who receives the approval of God (cf. Matt. 5:6).

■ 11:28 He who trusts in his riches will fall. See v. 4 and note. When possessions are seen to ensure life, God is excluded, as are right relations with others. The result is a life of diminished quality.

■ 11:29 The parallel thoughts of this verse are not obvious unless we understand the first line to mean a reckless use of the family wealth that brings ruin on the household. The fool inherits nothing (wind) and must be the servant of the one who has managed his finances well.

■ 11:30 fruit . . . tree of life. The metaphor is curiously mixed. The result of righteousness is life. See 3:18 and note, 13:12; 15:4.

wins souls. Lit. "takes souls" or "takes lives." The usual meaning of the phrase is to kill, or take away life. To accommodate this, the Septuagint (Greek Old Testament) renders the clause, "But the souls of the lawless are taken away before their time." The translation is uncertain (cf. text note).

■ 11:31 The form of this proverb, using intensification ("how much more") is typical of wisdom (15:11; 17:7; 19:7, 10; 21:27).

the righteous will be recompensed. Not even the righteous escape the scrutiny of judgment. The Septuagint (Greek Old Testament) translation reads, "If the righteous one is scarcely saved" (as quoted in 1 Pet. 4:18).

on the earth. Or, "in the land" (2:20–22 note).

How much more the ungodly. If the sins of the righteous are judged, obviously those of the ungodly are judged as well. The principle of human responsibility is clear: even the righteous must accept responsibility for their folly.

■ 12:1 Whoever loves instruction loves knowledge. Lit. "loving discipline, loving knowledge." The form of this proverb, like 13:3 and 14:2, groups things that belong together without explicitly stating the relationship. These are then contrasted with their opposites. The wise person accepts correction and consequently grows wiser, but the one who cannot accept criticism goes nowhere.

■ 12:2 favor. See note on 8:35.

LORD. See note on 1:7.

12 The wicked covet the catch of evil men,
But the root of the righteous yields fruit.

13 [m]The wicked is ensnared by the transgression of his lips,
[n]But the righteous will come through trouble.

14 [o]A man will be satisfied with good by the fruit of his mouth,
[p]And the recompense of a man's hands will be rendered to him.

15 [q]The way of a fool is right in his own eyes,
But he who heeds counsel is wise.

16 [r]A fool's wrath is known at once,
But a prudent man covers shame.

■ 12:4 See the extended appraisal of the virtuous wife at 31:10–31.

■ 12:5 The character of a person establishes principles for action. There is an implicit warning against trusting people on the basis of appearances.

■ 12:6 See 1:11. This verse stresses the power of words for good or evil.

will deliver them. That is, they will rescue the victims of the wicked.

■ 12:7 See 10:25 and note.

■ 12:8 wisdom. Practical good sense. The display of mastery in life wins praise.

perverse heart. The phrase suggests an inability to think straight; more muddled than evil.

■ 12:9 A number of proverbs have this form of direct comparison using the "better . . . than" formula (15:16, 17; 16:8, 19, 32; 17:1, 12; 19:1).

one who is slighted. A person of no social standing or reputation.

but has a servant. The Septuagint (Greek Old Testament) renders this phrase, "who works for himself." The meaning is either, "Better humble prosperity than poverty concealed by pretense," or, "Better to work without esteem than to go hungry while dreaming of affluence."

■ 12:10 God takes account of our treatment of animals (1 Kin. 4:33). This is consistent with concern for the right order of things in the world.

righteous. See note on 8:18.

tender mercies . . . are cruel. The wicked person is incapable of kindness even towards his livestock.

■ 12:11 A variation of v. 9, this verse contrasts the benefits of honest hard work with fantasies that produce nothing. See 6:6–11; 20:4; 24:30–34; 28:19.

■ 12:12 Although the Hebrew of this verse is difficult, the basic contrast—the benefits of righteousness against the effects of wickedness—is plain.

■ 12:13 See 10:11, 14, 31.

■ 12:14 The principle of rewards, expressed for example in v. 21, is focused on wise speech. Such speech creates good relationships and shows care for the life-enhancing order of things. Its rewards are as tangible as those of physical labor.

■ 12:15 The fool thinks he knows better than others. The wise person is humble enough to learn from the experience of others and has the ability to discern what is good counsel (v. 1).

■ 12:16 Self-control is characteristic of the wise. The fool reacts too strongly and too soon, destroying relationships. The wise person leaves the way open for reconciliation.

17 [s]He who speaks truth declares righteousness,
But a false witness, deceit.
18 [t]There is one who speaks like the piercings of a sword,
But the tongue of the wise promotes health.
19 The truthful lip shall be established forever,
[u]But a lying tongue is but for a moment.
20 Deceit is in the heart of those who devise evil,
But counselors of peace have joy.
21 [v]No grave [6]trouble will overtake the righteous,
But the wicked shall be filled with evil.
22 [w]Lying lips are an abomination to the LORD,
But those who deal truthfully are His delight.

23 [x]A prudent man conceals knowledge,
But the heart of fools proclaims foolishness.

24 [y]The hand of the diligent will rule,
But the lazy man will be put to forced labor.

25 [z]Anxiety in the heart of man causes depression,
But [a]a good word makes it glad.

26 The righteous should choose his friends carefully,
For the way of the wicked leads them astray.

27 The lazy man does not roast what he took in hunting,
But diligence is man's precious possession.

28 In the way of righteousness is life,
And in its pathway there is no death.

13 A wise son heeds his father's instruction,
[a]But a scoffer does not listen to rebuke.

2 [b]A man shall eat well by the fruit of his mouth,
But the soul of the unfaithful feeds on violence.
3 [c]He who guards his mouth preserves his life,
But he who opens wide his lips shall have destruction.

2 [b]Prov. 12:14

3 [c]Ps. 39:1; Prov. 21:23; [James 3:2]

■ 12:17 On first sight this proverb expresses what should be self-evident, but it effectively illustrates the inevitable relationship between character and deeds (v. 5 note).

■ 12:18, 19 These two proverbs may have been placed with v. 17 because they enlarge on the same theme. Verse 18 considers the effects of words on our relationships with others, while v. 19 considers the strength of truth compared with the weakness of lies that inevitably give themselves away (cf. v. 13).

■ 12:20 Deceit. The contrast with "joy" seems to require that this means deceiving oneself.

peace. This word (Hebrew shalom) refers to wholeness; it is a term addressing relationships rather than a reference to the private experience of tranquility.

■ 12:21 No grave trouble. This basic condition of the righteous refers both to natural calamity and the judgment of God. See note on 11:8.

■ 12:22 The Lord's self-revealed character and attitudes provide a strong motive for truth.

■ 12:23 conceals knowledge. Not out of selfishness but so that he does not parade his knowledge. Wisdom knows when it is right to keep silent and when to speak (26:4, 5; Eccl. 3:7; James 3:17, 18).

proclaims foolishness. The fool not only has an inflated assessment of his own cleverness (v. 15), but cannot resist showing it off. Such posturing betrays his real foolishness.

■ 12:25 The ministry of encouragement is more than a superficial word (James 2:15, 16), but the spoken word is still an important aspect of caring for one another. God acts towards us with deeds interpreted by His Word.

■ 12:27 roast. It is difficult to tell whether the translation should be that the man is too lazy to roast his prey, or too lazy to catch it in the first place. The second line praises diligence without continuing the metaphor of the hunt.

■ 12:28 life. See 3:2, 18 and notes.

no death. Hebrew "not death." See 2:18 and note, also 3:2. The Hebrew consonants translated as "no" can also mean "to:" in contrast to the "way of righteousness" leading to life, "there is a path that leads to death."

■ 13:1 The teachability of the child or pupil contrasts with the fool's propensity to scoff and to refuse correction (1:8, 22 and notes).

■ 13:2 fruit of his mouth. The power of words is a frequent wisdom theme. See 10:11, 13, 19; 12:14 and notes. Wise words are constructive, and the speaker personally benefits from them.

unfaithful. The word suggests treacherous deceivers whose social conscience is warped.

■ 13:3 guards his mouth. Having control over one's speech so that what is said is carefully considered for its possible effects.

opens wide his lips. Blurts out words, either hastily or maliciously, without concern for the consequences.

4 [d]The soul of a lazy man desires, and has nothing;
But the soul of the diligent shall be made rich.

5 A righteous man hates lying,
But a wicked man is loathsome and comes to shame.
6 [e]Righteousness guards him whose way is blameless,
But wickedness overthrows the sinner.

7 [f]There is one who makes himself rich, yet has nothing;
And one who makes himself poor, yet has great riches.

8 The ransom of a man's life is his riches,
But the poor does not hear rebuke.

9 The light of the righteous rejoices,
[g]But the lamp of the wicked will be put out.

10 By pride comes nothing but [h]strife,
But with the well-advised is wisdom.

11 [i]Wealth gained by dishonesty will be diminished,
But he who gathers by labor will increase.

12 Hope deferred makes the heart sick,
But [j]when the desire comes, it is a tree of life.

13 He who [k]despises the word will be destroyed,
But he who fears the commandment will be rewarded.
14 [l]The law of the wise is a fountain of life,
To turn one away from [m]the snares of death.

15 Good understanding [l]gains [n]favor,
But the way of the unfaithful is hard.
16 [o]Every prudent man acts with knowledge,
But a fool lays open his folly.

17 A wicked messenger falls into trouble,
But [p]a faithful ambassador brings health.

18 Poverty and shame will come to him who [2]disdains correction,
But [q]he who regards a rebuke will be honored.

■ 13:4 lazy man. See 6:6–11 and notes. Human responsibility cannot be avoided. Neither the world nor God owes us a living.

diligent. Rightly understanding the rewards of honest labor, the industrious person is sustained.

■ 13:5 righteous. See note on 8:18.

■ 13:6 See 10:9; 11:3–9.

■ 13:7 makes himself. Or, "pretends to be." Though the disparity of possessions is noted, the point of the proverb seems to be the similarity of pretense. Each misrepresents the facts about himself.

■ 13:8 The rich may be kidnapped for ransom, but such threats do not concern the poor. Behind each situation is the principle that the security of riches can be illusory while the insecurity of poverty has its advantages.

■ 13:9 rejoices. The metaphor presents two kinds of houses: one brightly lit and happy, the other dark and deserted. These houses symbolize human lives: one person prospers and lives long while another is cut short (10:27 note).

■ 13:11 The wisdom of honest hard work is contrasted with the folly of dishonest gain.

■ 13:12 A common human experience: frustrated expectations cause a loss of morale and a sense of hopelessness. This does not imply that instant gratification is good, but rather that we should honestly strive for desirable goals in life.

tree of life. See 3:18 and note.

■ 13:13 word. The word of wise instruction.

commandment. See 3:1 and note. The opposite effects of obedience and disobedience are constant themes.

■ 13:14 fountain of life. The same Hebrew term is rendered "well of life" at 10:11 (10:11 note).

■ 13:15 unfaithful. See v. 2 and note.

■ 13:16 The truth of this proverb seems to be self-evident, but see 12:17 and note.

■ 13:17 wicked messenger. One who brings a deceitful message.

trouble. Or, "misfortune." Such a messenger was the Amalekite who, hoping to win favor from David, falsely claimed to have killed Saul, but was executed for his trouble (2 Sam. 1:1–16). The parallel statements of this proverb suggest that the faithful messenger, perhaps an envoy, promotes the welfare of others.

19 A desire accomplished is sweet to the soul,
But it is an abomination to fools to depart from evil.

20 He who walks with wise men will be wise,
But the companion of fools will be destroyed.

21 [r]Evil pursues sinners,
But to the righteous, good shall be repaid.

22 A good man leaves an inheritance to his children's children,
But [s]the wealth of the sinner is stored up for the righteous.

23 [t]Much food is in the [3]fallow ground of the poor,
And for lack of justice there is [4]waste.

24 [u]He who spares his rod hates his son,
But he who loves him disciplines him [5]promptly.

25 [v]The righteous eats to the satisfying of his soul,
But the stomach of the wicked shall be in want.

14 The wise woman builds her house,
But the foolish pulls it down with her hands.

2 He who walks in his uprightness fears the LORD,
[a]But he who is perverse in his ways despises Him.

3 In the mouth of a fool is a rod of pride,
[b]But the lips of the wise will preserve them.

4 Where no oxen are, the [1]trough is clean;
But much increase comes by the strength of an ox.

5 A [c]faithful witness does not lie,
But a false witness will utter [d]lies.

6 A scoffer seeks wisdom and does not find it,

7 [f]Prov. 23:9

■ 13:19 See v. 12 and note. The achievement of a worthwhile goal has benefits for one's life. Fools will not turn from evil to pursue such goals.

■ 13:20 The simple lesson is that we become like those whose company we keep.

■ 13:21 Hebrew wisdom, with its focus on the lessons from human experience (ch. 4 note), stresses the general cause-and-effect relation between lifestyles and their outcome. While this can be thought of as natural retribution because of the observed patterns of human experience, there is an underlying assumption that the order in the world is a consequence of God's rule.

■ 13:22 leaves an inheritance. Wisdom in life has lasting effects, especially in one's own family.

stored up for the righteous. The wealth of the wicked may be taken away and given to those more deserving (28:8; Job 27:13–19). This verse may point to the irresponsible dissipation of wealth due to folly, or to divine retribution on the wicked wealthy for other sins (cf. James 5:1–3).

■ 13:23 The natural relationship between diligence and sufficiency (vv. 4, 11 notes) is broken by oppression and injustice.

■ 13:24 rod. Although the word may symbolize any kind of disciplinary correction, there is little doubt that corporal punishment was approved in some situations (10:13; 22:15; 23:13, 14; 29:15). Discipline with love prevents the rod from being destructive (3:11, 12 and notes).

■ 13:25 See vv. 13, 18, 21 and notes.

■ 14:1 wise woman builds her house. Note the verbal parallels with the personification of wisdom as a woman who builds her house in 9:1.

■ 14:2 uprightness. A contrast with "perverse," the word means "straight," "honest."

fears the LORD. See 1:7 and note.

■ 14:3 See 10:13 and note.

■ 14:4 clean. It is unclear whether the Hebrew means that the trough is "clean," or full of "grain," as a result of being unused. In either case, the minor benefit of the unused trough must be weighed against the nothing that is produced when no oxen are working. Expenses must be accepted if anything is to be accomplished.

■ 14:5 A fact and a warning that emphasize the consistency of character with action (12:5, 17 and notes).

■ 14:6 scoffer. See 1:22 and note.

seeks wisdom. This kind of person may recognize the value of wisdom, but does not have the teachability to succeed.

8 The wisdom of the prudent is to understand his way,
But the folly of fools is deceit.

9 [g]Fools mock at [2]sin,
But among the upright there is favor.

10 The heart knows its own bitterness,
And a stranger does not share its joy.

11 [h]The house of the wicked will be overthrown,
But the tent of the upright will flourish.

12 [i]There is a way that seems right to a man,
But [j]its end is the way of [k]death.

13 Even in laughter the heart may sorrow,
And [l]the end of mirth may be grief.

14 The backslider in heart will be [m]filled with his own ways,
But a good man will be satisfied [3]from [n]above.

15 The simple believes every word,
But the prudent considers well his steps.

16 [o]A wise man fears and departs from evil,
But a fool rages and is self-confident.

17 A quick-tempered man acts foolishly,
And a man of wicked intentions is hated.

18 The simple inherit folly,
But the prudent are crowned with knowledge.

19 The evil will bow before the good,
And the wicked at the gates of the righteous.

20 [p]The poor man is hated even by his own neighbor,
But [4]the rich has many [q]friends.

21 He who despises his neighbor sins;
[r]But he who has mercy on the poor, happy is he.

■ 14:8 prudent. In the context of wisdom, the term indicates one who is shrewd, who acts with real discernment in a way that promotes life. See 12:16, 23; 13:16 and notes.

deceit. Perhaps self-deception (cf. 12:20 and note), although the deception of others may be involved.

■ 14:9 mock at sin. This may mean that they mock at the suggestion of presenting the sacrificial trespass offering to God, or of making restitution to the person wronged (Lev. 6:1–7).

favor. The second line of the verse contrasts with the first, and the sense of the word is either acceptance with God or restored fellowship with others.

■ 14:10 While much biblical wisdom literature reflects on interpersonal relationships, there is also a concern for those aspects of life that are personal and private. Some things cannot be communicated and one must learn to know what they are.

■ 14:12 See 2:18, 20–22; 3:18 and notes.

seems right. The saying implies that the way is not right and that the person in question is rash, undiscerning, or ignorant.

■ 14:13 Cf. v. 10 and note. Outward joy and hidden grief may coexist, but grief may be the truth to be faced in the end.

■ 14:14 The Hebrew in the second line of this verse is difficult, but the basic contrast between the rewards for good and evil behavior is apparent.

■ 14:15 simple. See note on 1:4. The "simple" person is unskilled in the use of critical judgment.

prudent. See note on v. 8.

■ 14:17 quick-tempered. See v. 29; 16:32; 19:11 and notes.

of wicked intentions. The Hebrew word usually signifies "discretion," a positive virtue (1:4; 2:11; 3:21; 5:2; 8:12). A following line of opposite meaning (antithetic parallelism), as found in most of the proverbs in this chapter, would suggest the opposite of quick-tempered.

■ 14:18 knowledge. See 1:7 and note.

■ 14:19 Even in this life, evil people are sometimes compelled to give grudging respect to the good. But the justice of God may be intended, in which the righteous are finally vindicated and the wicked made to bow before them at the last judgment.

■ 14:20 Although originally an independent saying regarding friends who can assist in times of trouble (cf. Luke 16:9), its placement immediately before the proverb of v. 21 gives it an additional application. Even with the best of intentions, people grow tired of a friendship that always makes demands. Friendship is easy when it makes no demands or brings gains.

■ 14:21 God's law commands kindness and care for one's neighbor as a reflection of the Lord's own character (Lev. 19:10–18). This principle has even greater clarity in the New Testament, which requires that we treat each other in a way that reflects God's gracious treatment of us through Christ (1 John 4:7–11).

22 Do they not go astray who devise evil?
But mercy and truth belong to those who devise good.

23 In all labor there is profit,
But [5]idle chatter leads only to poverty.

24 The crown of the wise is their riches,
But the foolishness of fools is folly.

25 A true witness [6]delivers [s]souls,
But a deceitful witness speaks lies.

26 In the fear of the LORD there is strong confidence,
And His children will have a place of refuge.
27 [t]The fear of the LORD is a fountain of life,
To turn one away from the snares of death.

28 In a multitude of people is a king's honor,
But in the lack of people is the downfall of a prince.

29 [u]He who is slow to wrath has great understanding,
But he who is [7]impulsive exalts folly.

30 A sound heart is life to the body,
But [v]envy is [w]rottenness to the bones.

31 [x]He who oppresses the poor reproaches [y]his Maker,
But he who honors Him has mercy on the needy.

32 The wicked is banished in his wickedness,
But [z]the righteous has a refuge in his death.

33 Wisdom rests in the heart of him who has understanding,
But [a]what is in the heart of fools is made known.

34 Righteousness exalts a [b]nation,
But sin is a [8]reproach to any people.

35 [c]The king's favor is toward a wise servant,
But his wrath is against him who causes shame.

15 A [a]soft answer turns away wrath,
But [b]a harsh word stirs up anger.

[c]But the mouth of fools pours forth foolishness.

CHAPTER 15

1 [a]Prov. 25:15 [b]1 Sam. 25:10

2 [c]Prov. 12:23

■ 14:22 mercy and truth. This phrase, used of God's loving compassion for His covenant people (Ps. 86:15), is here applied to the highest human love and loyalty.

■ 14:23 See 10:4; 12:11; 13:4 and notes.

■ 14:24 As it stands, this verse is similar to v. 23. The self-evident truth in the second line emphasizes the futility of folly.

■ 14:25 See v. 5. The first line expresses the results of truthful witness in a legal dispute (see text note). The second line does not express the opposite of the thought in the first line (as is usually the case in antithetic parallelism), but simply indicates the nature of false witness as it obscures the truth.

■ 14:26 fear of the LORD. See 1:7 and note.

■ 14:27 fountain of life. See 3:18; 10:11; 11:30; 13:14 and notes.

■ 14:29 See v. 17.

■ 14:30 heart. See note on 2:2. The ancients recognized the link between mental and spiritual tranquility and physical health (3:7, 8).

■ 14:32 death. The Septuagint (Greek Old Testament) reads "piety," making a more direct contrast with "wickedness." The Hebrew text does not speak explicitly of resurrection from death, but it does suggest confidence that God vindicates the righteous (23:18 and note).

■ 14:33 is made known. The meaning of this line is uncertain. Either the fool readily flaunts what he imagines to be his wisdom, or even the fool manifests an occasional bit of wisdom.

■ 14:34 exalts. Either morally, or as a consequence of divine material blessings (Deut. 28:1–14; 1 Kin. 4:20–28).

■ 14:35 The wisdom of the royal court provides this warning against the incompetent fool.

■ 15:1 The power of words to build up or to destroy relationships is stressed here and in vv. 2, 4, 7, 14, and 23.

■ 15:2 See 6:17, 24; 10:20, 31; 12:17–19.

3 [d]The eyes of the LORD are in every place,
Keeping watch on the evil and the good.

4 A [f]wholesome tongue is a tree of life,
But perverseness in it breaks the spirit.

5 [e]A fool despises his father's instruction,
[f]But he who [2]receives correction is prudent.

6 In the house of the righteous there is much treasure,
But in the revenue of the wicked is trouble.

7 The lips of the wise [3]disperse knowledge,
But the heart of the fool does not do so.

8 [g]The sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination to the LORD,
But the prayer of the upright is His delight.
9 The way of the wicked is an abomination to the LORD,
But He loves him who [h]follows righteousness.

10 [i]Harsh discipline is for him who forsakes the way,
And [j]he who hates correction will die.

God Sees and Knows: Divine Omniscience

"Omniscient" means "knowing everything." God's eyes run everywhere (Job 24:23; Ps. 33:13–15; 139:13–16; Prov. 15:3; Jer. 16:17; Heb. 4:13), and He searches all hearts, as well as observing everyone's ways (1 Sam. 16:7; 1 Kin. 8:39; 1 Chr. 28:9; Ps. 139:1–6, 23; Jer. 17:10; Luke 16:15; Rom. 8:27; Rev. 2:23)—in other words, He knows everything about everything and everybody all the time. He knows the future no less than the past and present, and possible events that never happen no less than the actual events that do (1 Sam. 23:9–13; 2 Kin. 13:19; Ps. 81:14, 15; Is. 48:18). Nor does He have to search for information about things, as a computer might retrieve a file; all His knowledge is immediately and directly before Him. Bible writers stand in awe of the capacity of God's mind in this regard (Ps. 139:1–6; 147:5; Is. 40:13, 14, 28; cf. Rom. 11:33–36).

God's knowledge is linked with His sovereignty; He knows each thing because He created it, sustains it, and now makes it function every moment according to His plan (Eph. 1:11). The idea that God could know, and foreknow, everything without controlling everything is not only unscriptural but illogical.

Believers are encouraged by God's omniscience because it assures them that everything about them is known to One who loves them, and who will overlook nothing at all that concerns them (Is. 40:27–31; Matt. 6:8). To the unbeliever, the truth of God's universal knowledge must bring dread, for it comes as a reminder that one cannot hide either oneself or one's sins from God (Ps. 139:7–12; 94:1–11; Jon. 1:1–12). □

■ 15:3 eyes of the LORD. See 2 Chr. 16:9; Ps. 33:13–15. The sages sometimes looked beyond the observable events and natural retribution to remind themselves of the reality of divine justice. See theological note "God Sees and Knows: Divine Omniscience."

■ 15:4 wholesome. See text note. A conciliatory tongue mends relationships (v. 2; 12:18).

tree of life. See 3:18 and note.

perverseness. See note on 11:3.

breaks the spirit. Destroys morale and self-esteem (Is. 65:14 text note).

■ 15:5 See 1:8; 6:20; 12:15; 13:1, 13, 18. Humble teachability is the mark of the wise.

■ 15:6 treasure. Either material riches, or perhaps a metaphor for wisdom itself (cf. 8:18–21).

is trouble. Or, "will be destroyed," as in the Septuagint (Greek Old Testament translation).

■ 15:7 See v. 2 and note.

■ 15:8 See Is. 1:12–15; Amos 5:21–24. The sage here draws on Israel's religious life, illustrating the covenantal framework within which biblical wisdom operates.

■ 15:10 the way. The way of divine wisdom (2:12–20). Discipline will be needed to bring this one back to God's path (v. 5; 12:1).

hates correction will die. See 2:18 and note.

11 [k]Hell[4] and [5]Destruction are before the LORD;
So how much more [l]the hearts of the sons of men.

12 [m]A scoffer does not love one who corrects him,
Nor will he go to the wise.

13 [n]A merry heart makes a cheerful [6]countenance,
But [o]by sorrow of the heart the spirit is broken.

14 The heart of him who has understanding seeks knowledge,
But the mouth of fools feeds on foolishness.

15 All the days of the afflicted are evil,
[p]But he who is of a merry heart has a continual feast.

16 [q]Better is a little with the fear of the LORD,
Than great treasure with trouble.

17 [r]Better is a dinner of [7]herbs where love is,
Than a fatted calf with hatred.

18 [s]A wrathful man stirs up strife,
But he who is slow to anger allays contention.

19 [t]The way of the lazy man is like a hedge of thorns,
But the way of the upright is a highway.

20 [u]A wise son makes a father glad,
But a foolish man despises his mother.

21 [v]Folly is joy to him who is destitute of [8]discernment,
[w]But a man of understanding walks uprightly.

22 [x]Without counsel, plans go awry,
But in the multitude of counselors they are established.

23 A man has joy by the answer of his mouth,
And [y]a word spoken [9]in due season, how good it is!

24 [z]The way of life winds upward for the wise,
That he may [a]turn away from [l]hell below.

25 [b]The LORD will destroy the house of the proud,
But [c]He will establish the boundary of the widow.

■ 15:11 Hell. Hebrew sheol (1:12 note).

Destruction. See text note. Death is here portrayed as a kind of destruction from the Lord. The Lord penetrates the secrets of the grave; how much easier is it for Him to know our minds (Ps. 139:23, 24).

■ 15:12 scoffer. See note on 1:22.

■ 15:13 See note on 14:30.

■ 15:15 feast. A metaphor for joy.

■ 15:16 For examples of the "better . . . than" comparison form, see note on 12:9. The fear of the Lord brings its own riches (v. 6 note).

treasure with trouble. See 10:2. Riches that do not accrue from a wise life carry their own seeds of destruction (Mark 10:25).

■ 15:17 The contrast is indicative of poverty and wealth. The quality of family relationships is not tied to wealth; the quality of hospitality is based on relationships, not on the food provided.

■ 15:18 See 14:17, 29; 15:1. The disposition of people calms or inflames a quarrel. We can disagree without being disagreeable.

■ 15:19 See 6:6–11; 10:4; 13:4.

upright. The word is used here as the opposite of "lazy." There is an implied link between sloth and unrighteousness, diligence and virtue.

26 [d]The thoughts of the wicked are an abomination to the LORD,
[e]But the words of the pure are pleasant.

27 [f]He who is greedy for gain troubles his own house,
But he who hates bribes will live.

28 The heart of the righteous [g]studies how to answer,
But the mouth of the wicked pours forth evil.

29 [h]The LORD is far from the wicked,
But [i]He hears the prayer of the righteous.

30 The light of the eyes rejoices the heart,
And a good report makes the bones [2]healthy.

31 The ear that hears the rebukes of life
Will abide among the wise.

32 He who disdains instruction despises his own soul,
But he who heeds rebuke gets understanding.

33 [j]The fear of the LORD is the instruction of wisdom,
And [k]before honor is humility.

16 The [a]preparations[1] of the heart belong to man,
[b]But the answer of the tongue is from the LORD.

2 All the ways of a man are pure in his own [c]eyes,
But the LORD weighs the spirits.

3 [d]Commit[2] your works to the LORD,
And your thoughts will be established.

4 The [e]LORD has made all for Himself,
[f]Yes, even the wicked for the day of [3]doom.

5 [g]Everyone proud in heart is an abomination to the LORD;
Though they join [4]forces, none will go unpunished.

6 [h]In mercy and truth
Atonement is provided for iniquity;
And [i]by the fear of the LORD one departs from evil.

7 When a man's ways please the LORD,
He makes even his enemies to be at peace with him.

■ 15:26 As with vv. 8, 9, to maintain a right relationship with the Lord is the ultimate wisdom.

■ 15:27 greedy . . . bribes. These parallel lines suggest one whose riches are ill-gotten. Our folly usually has repercussions on those closest to us (1:19).

will live. See 2:20–22 and notes.

■ 15:28 The wise and righteous recognize the need to weigh matters carefully before giving advice.

■ 15:29 See note on v. 8.

■ 15:30 The light of the eyes. The idea seems to be that a cheerful, radiant person, or a beautiful scene, affects one's mind in the same way that good news promotes our general well-being. See note on 14:30.

■ 15:32 despises his own soul. Folly is self-destructive.

■ 15:33 See 1:7; 11:2 and notes.

■ 16:1 The sages occasionally remind us that human responsibility to reason and act does not contradict God's sovereignty (vv. 2, 9).

answer . . . from the LORD. The phrase means either that God enables us to give that apt answer and carry through plans, or that God's answer (His word of decision) is the real power that shapes events (19:21; cf. Phil. 2:12, 13).

■ 16:2 spirits. People are able to rationalize almost any kind of behavior as they strive to justify themselves (12:15; 30:12). God's knowledge is a warning against such self-deception (Heb. 4:12; cf. 1 Cor. 4:3–5).

■ 16:3 Commit. Hebrew "roll." The expression is unusual. It may mean that our plans should be entrusted to the Lord (Ps. 37:5), or devised with conscious application of the principles of God's Word.

■ 16:4 for Himself. Lit. "for His answer" or "for its answer." All of creation, even the wicked and their actions, stand under God's sovereignty and serve His purposes (cf. Rom. 9:17–23).

■ 16:5 See 11:20, 21.

■ 16:6 mercy and truth. The phrase summarizes the attitude of the wise to the Lord (3:3; 14:22; 20:28). The saying is a rebuke to formal religion without true faith.

■ 16:7 please the LORD. Following God's way has reconciling and healing effects on personal relationships.

8 [j]Better is a little with righteousness,
Than vast revenues without justice.

9 [k]A man's heart plans his way,
[l]But the LORD directs his steps.

10 Divination is on the lips of the king;
His mouth must not transgress in judgment.
11 [m]Honest weights and scales are the LORD's;
All the weights in the bag are His [5]work.
12 It is an abomination for kings to commit wickedness,
For [n]a throne is established by righteousness.
13 [o]Righteous lips are the delight of kings,
And they love him who speaks what is right.
14 As messengers of death is the king's wrath,
But a wise man will [p]appease it.
15 In the light of the king's face is life,
And his favor is like a [q]cloud of the latter rain.

16 [r]How much better to get wisdom than gold!
And to get understanding is to be chosen rather than silver.

17 The highway of the upright is to depart from evil;
He who keeps his way preserves his soul.

18 Pride goes before destruction,
And a haughty spirit before [6]a fall.
19 Better to be of a humble spirit with the lowly,
Than to divide the [7]spoil with the proud.

20 He who heeds the word wisely will find good,
And whoever [s]trusts in the LORD, happy is he.

21 The wise in heart will be called prudent,
And sweetness of the lips increases learning.

22 Understanding is a wellspring of life to him who has it.
But the correction of fools is folly.

23 The heart of the wise teaches his mouth,
And adds learning to his lips.

24 Pleasant words are like a honeycomb,
Sweetness to the soul and health to the bones.

■ 16:8 See 15:16, 17 and notes.

■ 16:9 See vv. 1, 2 and notes.

■ 16:10 Divination. The king's word was law, and he was entitled to seek divine guidance for his judgments. David spoke as a messenger of God (2 Sam. 14:17, 20) and Solomon desired a discerning heart (1 Kin. 3:9). The gift of God's wisdom to the king did not relieve him of the responsibility to seek wisdom and to act according to justice.

■ 16:11 See 11:1; 20:10, 23; Amos 8:5. Behind this statement is wisdom's view of God as the One who establishes and maintains the righteous order that makes life meaningful. For the law against false weights, see Lev. 19:35, 36; Deut. 25:13–16.

■ 16:12–15 Wisdom concerning kingship not only reflects the ideal of Solomon and his wise rule, but also expresses the power of the king to establish righteous order in his realm.

■ 16:15 cloud of the latter rain. See note on Amos 4:7, 8. The king's favor can cause one's life to flourish like crops in spring.

■ 16:16 The "better . . . than" comparisons unambiguously state the superiority of the one thing over another, but without saying why (12:9 note). That wisdom is better than material riches is a common wisdom theme (3:13–15; 8:10, 11, 19). This does not mean that riches are in themselves undesirable (3:9, 10; 1 Kin. 3:10–13; 10:7–9), but only that they must be acquired as the fruit of wisdom.

■ 16:18 See 11:2 and note. The proud are unteachable and, therefore, headed for destruction.

■ 16:19 See v. 16; 15:16 and notes.

■ 16:21 sweetness of the lips. "Honeyed words"; words that reflect an aptitude for communication.

■ 16:22 wellspring of life. See 10:11 and note.

the correction of fools is folly. That is, it is senseless to correct fools because they will not listen. The Hebrew could also mean that their own foolishness becomes an adequate punishment for fools.

■ 16:23 heart. See note on 2:2. The wise person speaks out of a mind informed by the truth.

■ 16:24 Pleasant words. See note on v. 21. Such words have healing value for human relationships and for personal well-being.

25 There is a way that seems right to a man,
But its end is the way of [t]death.

26 The person who labors, labors for himself,
For his hungry mouth drives [u]him on.

27 [s]An ungodly man digs up evil,
And it is on his lips like a burning [v]fire.

28 A perverse man sows strife,
And [w]a whisperer separates the best of friends.

29 A violent man entices his neighbor,
And leads him in a way that is not good.

30 He winks his eye to devise perverse things;
He [g]purses his lips and brings about evil.

31 [x]The silver-haired head is a crown of glory,
If it is found in the way of righteousness.

32 [y]He who is slow to anger is better than the mighty,
And he who rules his spirit than he who takes a city.

33 The lot is cast into the lap,
But its every decision is from the LORD.

17 Better is [a]a dry morsel with quietness,
Than a house full of [f]feasting with strife.

2 A wise servant will rule over [b]a son who causes shame,
And will share an inheritance among the brothers.

3 The refining pot is for silver and the furnace for gold,
[c]But the LORD tests the hearts.

4 An evildoer gives heed to false lips;
A liar listens eagerly to a [z]spiteful tongue.

5 [d]He who mocks the poor reproaches his Maker;
[e]He who is glad at calamity will not go unpunished.

■ 17:2 Inherited privilege can easily be forfeited to those who by diligence show themselves worthy to enjoy it (11:29).

■ 17:3 the LORD tests the hearts. The comparisons indicate that the Lord uses our experiences to improve us. The fiery test is not to destroy, but to refine.

■ 17:4 The sin is not simply in the listening, but in the implied perverse desire to use for evil what is heard (cf. 16:27).

Providence

"God's works of providence are, His most holy, wise, and powerful preserving and governing all His creatures, and all their actions" (Westminster Shorter Catechism, Q. 11). If creation was a unique exercise of divine energy causing the world to be, providence is a continued exercise of the same energy. By it the Creator, according to His own will, keeps all creatures in being, involves Himself in all events, and directs all things to their appointed end. God is completely in charge of His world. His hand may be hidden, but His perfect rule extends to all things.

It is sometimes supposed that God knows the future but does not control it; that He upholds the world, but does not intervene in it; or that He gives general direction, but is not concerned with details. The Bible emphatically rules out all such limitations of His providence.

The Bible clearly teaches God's providential control (1) over the universe at large, Ps. 103:19; Dan. 4:35; Eph. 1:11; (2) over the physical world, Job 37; Ps. 104:14; 135:6; Mt. 5:45; (3) over the brute creation, Ps. 104:21, 28; Mt. 6:26; 10:29; (4) over the affairs of nations, Job 12:23; Ps. 22:28; 66:7; Acts 17:26; (5) over man's birth and lot in life, 1 Sam. 16:1; Ps. 139:16; Is. 45:5; Gal. 1:15, 16; (6) over the outward successes and failures of men's lives, Ps. 75:6, 7; Lk. 1:52; (7) over things seemingly accidental or insignificant, Pr. 16:33; Mt. 10:30; (8) in the protection of the righteous, Ps. 4:8; 5:12; 63:8; 121:3; Rom. 8:28; (9) in supplying the wants of God's people, Gn. 22:8, 14; Dt. 8:3; Phil. 4:19; (10) in giving answers to prayer, 1 Sam. 1:19; Is. 20:5, 6; 2 Chr. 33:13; Ps. 65:2; Mt. 7:7; Lk. 18:7, 8; and (11) in the exposure and punishment of the wicked, Ps. 7:12, 13; 11:6.

Describing God's involvement in the world and in the acts of rational creatures requires complementary statements. For example, a person wills an action, an event is triggered by natural causes, or Satan shows his hand—yet God overrules. Again, people may go against God's will of command—yet they fulfill His will of events. People's motives may be evil—yet God uses their actions for good (Gen. 50:20; Acts 2:23). Although human sin is under God's decree, God is not the author of sin (James 1:13–17).

God's "concurrent" or "confluent" involvement in all that occurs does not violate the natural order, ongoing causal processes, or the free, responsible agency of human beings. God's sovereign control does not take away the responsibility and power of second causes; on the contrary, they are created and have their roles by His appointment.

Of the evils that infect God's world (spiritual, moral, and physical) the Bible says: God permits evil (Acts 14:16); He uses evil as a punishment (Ps. 81:11–12; Rom. 1:26–32); He brings good out of evil (Gen. 50:20; Acts 2:23; 4:27–28; 13:27; 1 Cor. 2:7–8); He uses evil to test and discipline those He loves (Matt. 4:1–11; Heb. 12:4–14); but one day He will redeem His people from the power and presence of evil altogether (Rev. 21:27; 22:14–15).

The doctrine of providence teaches Christians that they are never in the grip of blind fortune, chance, luck, or fate. All that happens to them is divinely planned, and each event comes as a new summons to trust, obey, and rejoice, knowing that all is for one's spiritual and eternal good (Rom. 8:28). □

■ 17:8 present. Or, "bribe." Bribery is often effective. This observation of corrupt human behavior is made without passing moral judgment (cf. the unjust steward in Luke 16:1–9). Bribery is condemned in 15:27. Wisdom rejects pragmatism in favor of obedience to God's law.

■ 17:10 A frequent wisdom theme: wise people are teachable. By contrast, the fool will not learn at all (9:7–9).

11 An evil man seeks only rebellion;
Therefore a cruel messenger will be sent against him.

12 Let a man meet [j]a bear robbed of her cubs,
Rather than a fool in his folly.

13 Whoever [k]rewards evil for good,
Evil will not depart from his house.

14 The beginning of strife is like releasing water;
Therefore [l]stop contention before a quarrel starts.

15 [m]He who justifies the wicked, and he who condemns the just,
Both of them alike are an abomination to the LORD.

16 Why is there in the hand of a fool the purchase price of wisdom,
Since he has no heart for it?

17 [n]A friend loves at all times,
And a brother is born for adversity.

18 [o]A man devoid of [3]understanding [4]shakes hands in a pledge,
And becomes [5]surety for his friend.

19 He who loves transgression loves strife,
And [p]he who exalts his gate seeks destruction.

20 He who has a [6]deceitful heart finds no good,
And he who has [q]a perverse tongue falls into evil.

21 He who begets a scoffer does so to his sorrow,
And the father of a fool has no joy.

22 A [r]merry heart [7]does good, like medicine,
But a broken spirit dries the bones.

23 A wicked man accepts a bribe [8]behind the back
To pervert the ways of justice.

24 [s]Wisdom is in the sight of him who has understanding,
But the eyes of a fool are on the ends of the earth.

25 A [t]foolish son is a grief to his father,
And bitterness to her who bore him.

26 Also, to punish the righteous is not good,
Nor to strike princes for their uprightness.

27 [u]He who has knowledge spares his words,
And a man of understanding is of a calm spirit.

25 [t]Prov. 10:1; 15:20; 19:13

■ 17:11 Government is given by God for the preservation of order in society (Rom. 13:1–5). Rebellion invites official retribution against the attempt to destroy social order.

■ 17:16 purchase price of wisdom. The fool cannot overcome lack of wisdom by buying an education.

■ 17:18 See 6:1–3 and notes.

■ 17:19 The parallel lines of this proverb relate pride and wrongdoing with fighting and destruction, giving the reader material for reflection.

■ 17:21 See 10:1; 15:20; 17:25.

■ 17:22 See 14:30; 15:13, 30 and notes.

■ 17:23 See v. 8 and note.

■ 17:24 The contrast is between concentration on the task of learning wisdom and day dreaming (12:11 note).

■ 17:25 See v. 21 and note.

■ 17:27 spares. That is, restrains his speech. This proverb contrasts with 16:27, 28. The wise know how to control their tongues.

28 [v]Even a fool is counted wise when he holds his peace;
When he shuts his lips, he is considered perceptive.

18 A man who isolates himself seeks his own desire;
He rages against all [1]wise judgment.

2 A fool has no delight in understanding,
But in expressing his [a]own heart.

3 When the wicked comes, contempt comes also;
And with dishonor comes reproach.

4 [b]The words of a man's mouth are deep waters;
[c]The wellspring of wisdom is a flowing brook.

5 It is not good to show partiality to the wicked,
Or to overthrow the righteous in [d]judgment.

6 A fool's lips enter into contention,
And his mouth calls for blows.

7 [e]A fool's mouth is his destruction,
And his lips are the snare of his [f]soul.

8 [g]The words of a [2]talebearer are like [3]tasty trifles,
And they go down into the [4]inmost body.

9 He who is slothful in his work
Is a brother to him who is a great destroyer.

10 The name of the LORD is a strong [h]tower;
The righteous run to it and are [5]safe.

11 The rich man's wealth is his strong city,
And like a high wall in his own esteem.

12 [i]Before destruction the heart of a man is haughty,
And before honor is humility.

13 He who answers a matter before he hears it,
It is folly and shame to him.

14 The spirit of a man will sustain him in sickness,
But who can bear a broken spirit?

15 The heart of the prudent acquires knowledge,
And the ear of the wise seeks knowledge.

16 [j]A man's gift makes room for him,
And brings him before great men.

16 [j]Gen. 32:20, 21; 1 Sam. 25:27; Prov. 17:8; 21:14

■ 17:28 The proverb is a hypothetical extension of v. 27. Ironically, the fool who has the wit to keep silent shows at least some potential for wisdom.

■ 18:1 The Hebrew is difficult. The first line suggests that the unfriendly person (Hebrew "estranged") is self-seeking.

■ 18:3 The social consequences of folly and wickedness are loss of honor and esteem.

■ 18:4 The words of a man's mouth are deep waters. The sense of the clause is either that a common person's words are obscure, or a wise person's words are profound. If the former meaning is taken, then line two contrasts such obscurity with the clarity of wisdom. If the wise are in view, line two develops the theme. The ambiguity may be deliberate, leaving the application open.

■ 18:6, 7 See 6:2; 10:11, 14; 13:3; 14:3 and notes.

■ 18:7 of his soul. Or, "of his life."

■ 18:8 It is part of our sinful human nature to have an appetite for gossip.

■ 18:9 See 6:9–11.

■ 18:10 The name of the LORD. In Hebrew culture, a name was not a mere label, but usually an expression of the character of a person. God's covenant name, "LORD," is associated with His character as Savior of His people (Ex. 3:13–15; 15:1–3 and notes).

a strong tower. The security of the righteous is based on God's character as a faithful Savior.

■ 18:11 This verse is a clear contrast with v. 10 (cf. 10:15). The implicit warning is against trusting only wealth (Luke 12:13–21).

■ 18:13 Fools blurt out opinions on matters that they have not taken the trouble to hear carefully. One should listen well before speaking.

■ 18:14 See 14:30 and note.

■ 18:16 Here the gift is not necessarily a bribe, but the practical effects of a gift are noted (17:8 note).

17 The first one to plead his cause seems right,
Until his neighbor comes and examines him.

18 [k]Casting lots causes contentions to cease,
And keeps the mighty apart.

19 A brother offended is harder to win than a strong city,
And contentions are like the bars of a castle.

20 [l]A man's stomach shall be satisfied from the fruit of his mouth;
From the produce of his lips he shall be filled.

21 [m]Death and life are in the power of the tongue,
And those who love it will eat its fruit.

22 [n]He who finds a wife finds a good thing,
And obtains favor from the LORD.

23 The poor man uses entreaties,
But the rich answers [o]roughly.

24 A man who has friends [6]must himself be friendly,
[p]But there is a friend who sticks closer than a brother.

19 Better [a]is the poor who walks in his integrity
Than one who is perverse in his lips, and is a fool.

2 Also it is not good for a soul to be without knowledge,
And he sins who hastens with his feet.

3 The foolishness of a man twists his way,
And his heart frets against the LORD.

4 [b]Wealth makes many friends,
But the poor is separated from his friend.

5 A [c]false witness will not go unpunished,
And he who speaks lies will not escape.

6 Many entreat the favor of the nobility,
And every man is a friend to one who gives gifts.

7 [d]All the brothers of the poor hate him;
How much more do his friends go [e]far from him!
He may pursue them with words, yet they [f]abandon him.

■ 18:17 An argument in a dispute may be persuasive until it is challenged by the other side. This piece of practical wisdom stresses the importance of getting to the truth.

■ 18:18 Casting lots. If the decision comes from without, the contending parties can both rest.

■ 18:19 A brother offended. The precise meaning of this verse is uncertain. The apparent intent is that reconciliation is difficult.

■ 18:20 the produce of his lips. See 12:14; 13:2 and notes.

he shall be filled. Probably a metaphor for the constructive results of wise speech that promotes life-giving relationships.

■ 18:21 Speech can do good or harm. The person who is fond of talk should note which way its effects go.

■ 18:22 a wife. The assumption is that she is a good wife, such as the one described in 31:10–31 (12:4; 19:14 and notes).

favor from the LORD. See note on 8:35.

■ 18:23 The proverb is a matter-of-fact observation of the harsh reality of life's inequalities due to the effects of sin.

■ 18:24 A man . . . be friendly. Or, "A man with friends may come to ruin" (see text note). The contrast seems to be between two kinds of companions: those whose friendship is superficial and who cause trouble, and the rare friend who is as loyal as a brother (17:17).

■ 19:2 soul . . . without knowledge . . . who hastens. That is, one who rushes on without proper planning. Sincerity and energy by themselves miss the mark (Rom. 10:2).

■ 19:3 Sinners bring their own misfortune, but they blame God for it.

■ 19:4 A common fact of life, stated without moral judgment (vv. 6, 7; 18:23), although the sinful partiality is obvious (James 2:1–4).

■ 19:5 See v. 9. In an ordered society, perjury is a serious crime severely punished (cf. Ex. 20:16). Divine retribution is not in view here, but rather the demands of normal social order.

■ 19:6, 7 See v. 4 and note.

8 He who gets [2]wisdom loves his own soul;
He who keeps understanding [f]will find good.

9 A false witness will not go unpunished,
And he who speaks lies shall perish.

10 Luxury is not fitting for a fool,
Much less [g]for a servant to rule over princes.

11 [h]The discretion of a man makes him slow to anger,
[i]And his glory is to overlook a transgression.

12 [j]The king's wrath is like the roaring of a lion,
But his favor is [k]like dew on the grass.

13 [l]A foolish son is the ruin of his father,
[m]And the contentions of a wife are a continual [3]dripping.

14 [n]Houses and riches are an inheritance from fathers,
But [o]a prudent wife is from the LORD.

15 [p]Laziness casts one into a deep sleep,
And an idle person will [q]suffer hunger.

16 [r]He who keeps the commandment keeps his soul,
But he who [4]is careless of his ways will die.

17 [s]He who has pity on the poor lends to the LORD,
And He will pay back what he has given.

18 [t]Chasten your son while there is hope,
And do not set your heart [5]on his destruction.

19 A man of great wrath will suffer punishment;
For if you rescue him, you will have to do it again.

20 Listen to counsel and receive instruction,
That you may be wise [u]in your latter days.

21 There are many plans in a man's heart,
[v]Nevertheless the LORD's counsel—that will stand.

22 What is desired in a man is [6]kindness,
And a poor man is better than a liar.

■ 19:8 loves his own soul. Or, "loves life." Wisdom promotes relationships that are essential for the good life.

■ 19:9 See v. 5 and note.

■ 19:10 Luxury . . . for a fool. A fool cannot handle the responsibility of riches. Possibly the verse refers to a fool in a position of administrative power rather than of wealth.

a servant to rule over princes. The situation is unfitting, not so much because the oppressed become the new oppressors, but because it is incongruous for those not socially and intellectually prepared to govern society. But compare 2 Sam. 7:8 for the exception.

■ 19:11 slow to anger. See 14:17, 29; 16:32 and notes. Discipline is a mark of the wise man. A proper self-evaluation prevents him from taking offense at every little insult.

■ 19:13 See 10:1; 17:21.

continual dripping. Like the leaking roof that makes a house uninhabitable during rain (27:15).

■ 19:14 This proverb does not imply that the Lord is not ultimately in control of the inheritance of wealth. It emphasizes rather that the outcome of one's choice of spouse is not so easy to predict or control. A happy marriage is indeed cause to thank God.

■ 19:15 See 6:10, 11; 10:4 and notes.

■ 19:22 kindness. Or, "loyalty."

23 [w]The fear of the LORD leads to life,
And he who has it will abide in satisfaction;
He will not be visited with evil.

24 [x]A lazy man buries his hand in the [7]bowl,
And will not so much as bring it to his mouth again.

25 Strike a scoffer, and the simple [y]will become wary;
[z]Rebuke one who has understanding, and he will discern knowledge.

26 He who mistreats his father and chases away his mother
Is [a]a son who causes shame and brings reproach.

27 Cease listening to instruction, my son,
And you will stray from the words of knowledge.

28 A [8]disreputable witness scorns justice,
And [b]the mouth of the wicked devours iniquity.

29 Judgments are prepared for scoffers,
[c]And beatings for the backs of fools.

20 Wine [a]is a mocker,
Strong drink is a brawler,
And whoever is led astray by it is not wise.

2 The [1]wrath of a king is like the roaring of a lion;

3 [b]It is honorable for a man to stop striving,
Since any fool can start a quarrel.

4 [c]The lazy man will not plow because of winter;
[d]He will beg during harvest and have nothing.

5 Counsel in the heart of man is like deep water,
But a man of understanding will draw it out.

■ 19:23 The fear of the LORD. See 1:7; 2:5 and notes. "The fear of the LORD" here is probably a synonym for the wisdom of which the Lord is the wise Author (James 3:17).

leads to life. See 3:18 and note.

abide in satisfaction. Or, "sleep secure" in the care of the Lord.

■ 19:24 The proverb is a humorous comment on the sluggard (6:6 note). The picture of a person too lazy to feed himself reflects the situation of 6:10, 11. Such a one does not have the will for self-preservation.

■ 19:25 scoffer. See note on 9:7.

simple will become wary. See 1:4 and note. The mocker deserves the punishment, and the teachable mind of the untutored observes it and learns, and so is deterred from similar folly.

■ 19:26 The meaning is clear, especially viewed against the background of God's purposes for family relationship (17:6; Ex. 20:12).

■ 19:28 disreputable. See text note; note on 6:12.

■ 19:29 See v. 25; 10:13; 14:3. Even if the punishment will not deter them, it is deserved.

■ 20:1 mocker. Wine mocks the person who comes under its spell, or, more likely, it makes one become a mocker (9:7 note).

■ 20:4 See 6:6–11.

■ 20:5 will draw it out. If "deep water" refers to truth deeply hidden in "the heart," the wise person is seen as one who can draw such wisdom to the surface and bring it to expression (18:4 and note).

■ 20:6 Many profess such mercy (text note), but few practice it in their relationships with others.

■ 20:8 See v. 26. The wise king can discriminate between the wheat and the chaff, between good and evil.

■ 20:9 See 16:2 and note. The answer to this question must be simply, "No one" (1 John 1:8).

■ 20:10 See 11:1 and note.

■ 20:11 child. The Hebrew word covers a wide age range, from infancy to early adulthood.

■ 20:12 Two of the principal means of gaining knowledge are God-given and therefore reliable. There may be an implied warning against the wrong use of them.

■ 20:13 See 6:6–11; 10:4; 19:15 and notes.

■ 20:14 A humorous comment on customs of the marketplace where bargaining is a well-established social ritual.

■ 20:15 See 3:13–15; 8:10, 11; 16:16. Wealth is not condemned, but wisdom is more desirable.

■ 20:16 Take the garment. The garment is security taken for a loan (Deut. 24:6 note). The verse is probably a warning to be careful with money in dealing with people who take risks or who are unreliable.

■ 20:17 Bread. This is a metaphor for wealth, which, when pursued dishonestly does not satisfy.

■ 20:18 Count the cost and leave nothing to chance (1:5; 15:22; cf. Luke 14:28–32).

■ 20:20 His lamp will be put out. See 13:9 and note. Death will come, either by society executing the law, by divine retribution, or by indirect consequences of such enormous sin.

■ 20:21 gained hastily at the beginning. That is, prematurely, before gaining the wisdom to handle it, or by the wrong means.

■ 20:22 This directive parallels the principle in Deut. 32:35 and Rom. 12:19, warning against taking the law into one's own hands and undermining the order of society. The deliverance is not national (Deut. 32:35,

23 Diverse weights are an abomination to the LORD,

Like the [1] rivers of water; He turns it wherever He wishes.

But those of everyone who is hasty, surely to poverty.

36) but individual, possibly by means of due legal process, but ultimately with the Lord Himself as its source.

■ 20:23 See v. 10 and note.

■ 20:24 See 16:1, 9 and notes; 19:21. Such passages point to the limitations of knowledge obtained from observation. God's sovereign purposes alone are certain.

■ 20:25 devote. Lit. "say it is holy," thus dedicating it to God. A rash vow that cannot be honored is worse than no vow at all (Ecc. 5:4–7).

■ 20:26 See v. 8 and note. The wise king has the ability to discern.

■ 20:27 the lamp of the LORD. A metaphor for the searching eye of God that knows our inmost thoughts (cf. v. 24).

■ 20:28 Mercy and truth. This may refer to the king's attitude toward his people, which establishes a stable society and a secure throne (3:3; 14:22 and notes). However, it is probable that the phrase is used here of God's covenant with the dynasty of David (2 Sam. 7:11–15).

■ 20:29 See 16:31 and note. While physical strength decreases with age, wisdom should increase.

■ 20:30 Corporal punishment has a place in prodding the conscience, but it takes wisdom to know when and how to apply it.

■ 21:1 The king's heart . . . LORD. Possibly a reference to the sovereignty of God even over pagan kings who unwittingly do His will (e.g., Cyrus in Is. 45:1), or to the king of Israel, who, like Solomon, received a special endowment of the wisdom of God (16:10 and note). See "God Reigns: Divine Sovereignty" at Dan. 4:34.

■ 21:3 See v. 27. Prophetic themes such as this (1 Sam. 15:22; Is. 1:11–17) are rarely found in wisdom literature (15:8 note).

■ 21:4 A haughty look. See 6:17. This expression describes pride and arrogance, similar to "a proud heart."

the plowing of the wicked. The meaning of this metaphor is uncertain. The Septuagint (Greek Old Testament) reads, "the lamp of the wicked" (13:9 and note).

■ 21:5 In v. 25 and 19:15 poverty is brought on by laziness. Here it results from rash and unwise action.

■ 21:6 The Hebrew is difficult (see text note). The meaning of the proverb is probably similar to that of 20:17 (note).

■ 21:7 will destroy them. Or, "snare them." See 1:17, 19 and notes; 12:13.

But as for the pure, his work is right.

Than in a house shared with [g]a contentious woman.

10 [h]The soul of the wicked desires evil;
His neighbor finds no favor in his eyes.

11 When the scoffer is punished, the simple is made wise;
But when the [i]wise is instructed, he receives knowledge.

12 The righteous God wisely considers the house of the wicked,
Overthrowing the wicked for their wickedness.

Will also cry himself and not be heard.

14 A gift in secret pacifies anger,
And a bribe [6]behind the back, strong wrath.

15 It is a joy for the just to do justice,
But destruction will come to the workers of iniquity.

16 A man who wanders from the way of understanding
Will rest in the assembly of the [k]dead.

17 He who loves pleasure will be a poor man;
He who loves wine and oil will not be rich.

18 The wicked shall be a ransom for the righteous,
And the unfaithful for the upright.

19 Better to dwell [7]in the wilderness,
Than with a contentious and angry woman.

■ 21:9 corner of a housetop. The reference is probably to a small attic room built on the customarily flat housetop.

contentious woman. See v. 19; 19:13 and note. This wife is the opposite of the prudent wife in 19:14.

■ 21:10 evil. That which is destructive of human relationships.

■ 21:12 The righteous God. The Hebrew can be translated "righteous person," but it makes more sense as a reference to God. The divine retribution is then affirmed on the basis of divine righteousness rather than human observation.

■ 21:14 See 17:8; 18:16 and notes.

■ 21:15 Maintaining true order (justice) establishes the well-being of those who live according to it. Those who transgress it will be undone. The wise discern this divine, providential order which, though marred by sin, is to some degree maintained in the world. God preserves such an order, and it is our task to perceive His order and live in harmony with it. At its center are God's Word and our faithful obedience to it. Such obedience is what is meant by "the fear of the LORD."

■ 21:16 This proverb contrasts the ways of life and death (2:18; 3:18 and notes). To forsake wisdom is to forsake life itself and to end up with the dead.

■ 21:17 wine and oil. The words suggest extravagance, especially in feasting.

■ 21:18 See 11:8 and note. A ransom is a sum paid to release someone. However, this proverb does not depend on this precise sense, but points in general terms to the Last Judgment, when the righteous will be vindicated and the wicked defeated.

■ 21:19 See 19:13; 21:9 and notes.

■ 21:21 Those who cultivate right relationships and loyalty find lasting benefits in life (v. 16 and note).

22 [n] A wise man [8] scales the city of the mighty,
And brings down the trusted stronghold.

Keeps his soul from troubles.

He acts with arrogant pride.

For his hands refuse to labor.

How much more when he brings it with wicked intent!

28 A false witness shall perish,
But the man who hears him will speak endlessly.

29 A wicked man hardens his face,
But as for the upright, he [9] establishes his way.

30 [s] There is no wisdom or understanding
Or counsel against the LORD.

31 The horse is prepared for the day of battle,
But [t] deliverance is of the LORD.

22 A [a] good name is to be chosen rather than great riches,
Loving favor rather than silver and gold.

2 The [b] rich and the poor have this in common,
The [c] LORD is the maker of them all.

3 A prudent man foresees evil and hides himself,
But the simple pass on and are [d] punished.

4 By humility and the fear of the LORD
Are riches and honor and life.

5 Thorns and snares are in the way of the perverse;
He who guards his soul will be far from them.

■ 21:22 See 16:32 and note. Force is no match for wisdom. A similar image is applied to spiritual warfare in 2 Cor. 10:4.

■ 21:23 See 13:3; 15:23; 18:13 and notes.

■ 21:24 Scoffer. See 9:7 and note; 19:25.

■ 21:25 desire. This desire does not connect him to the real world where work would bring its rewards (13:4; 19:24 and notes).

■ 21:26 The proverb seems to be a continuation of v. 25. If not, it is a contrast between greed and self-giving.

■ 21:27 See v. 3; 15:8 and notes.

■ 21:28 See 14:25; 19:5, 9 and notes.

■ 21:29 hardens his face. The wicked man resorts to arrogant bluffing in his dealings with others.

establishes his way. The Septuagint (Greek Old Testament) renders this "considers his ways," indicating that the righteous person is concerned to live by truth and its consequences.

■ 21:30 The limits of human understanding must be acknowledged in the light of God's wisdom and sovereignty. The fear of the Lord (1:7 note) puts us in touch with the revealed wisdom of God. But God is wise beyond what He reveals, and this unrevealed wisdom is not comprehended by us.

■ 21:31 The verse takes for granted that people will make suitable preparations to reach their goals, while recognizing that the result depends on God.

■ 22:1 A good name. A choice reputation is one of the social consequences of wisdom.

rather than great riches. Riches are not discouraged but put into right perspective (16:16 note).

■ 22:2 have this in common. Lit. "meet together." Despite the inequalities of this life, both rich and poor stand under God as their Creator and Judge.

■ 22:3 prudent . . . simple. See 1:4 and note.

■ 22:4 humility and the fear of the LORD. See 1:7; 15:33 and notes.

riches and honor and life. A life governed by wisdom tends to prosperity. Israel's sages emphasized that a right relationship with the Lord is the ultimate wisdom that enhances life (3:2, 18; 8:18 and notes).

■ 22:5 Thorns and snares. These are metaphors for the misfortunes of life that stem from a breakdown of the true life-giving order (cf. 15:19).

Sayings of the Wise

17 Incline your ear and hear the words of the wise,
And apply your heart to my knowledge;

Let them all be fixed upon your lips,

■ 22:6 Train up a child. The Hebrew expression includes the idea of inauguration, or starting a child's life along a particular way. That way is the way of wisdom (1:22 note). True wisdom maintains itself because it has the humility to continue learning in the way. See "The Christian Family" at Eph. 5:22.

■ 22:7 A simple observation of present reality: in this world, wealth is power (10:15 and note).

■ 22:8 Folly transgresses the divine order, inviting the punishments of sorrow and dissolution (Hos. 8:7; Gal. 6:7–9).

■ 22:9 who has a generous eye. One who is willingly disposed to the needy. Our own well-being is bound up with that of others, so that what we do for their good benefits ourselves as well (19:17).

■ 22:10 scoffer. See 9:7 and note. Social harmony cannot exist with such a person stirring up strife.

■ 22:11 king. See 8:15, 16; 14:35; 16:12, 13; 20:26 and notes.

■ 22:12 The eyes of the LORD. See 15:3; 20:8, 27 and notes. The Lord is the guardian of truth.

■ 22:13 lazy man. See 6:6 and note. With humor and irony the proverb mocks the sluggard's excuses for avoiding work.

■ 22:14 See 5:3–5; 6:24; 7:5, 14–21. Here the fool's downfall is seen as due to the wrath of God.

■ 22:15 Foolishness is bound up in the heart of a child. The inborn propensity of fallen human nature is toward folly.

The rod of correction. The rod may apply to a wide range of disciplinary choices, including corporal punishment (13:24; 29:15). Discipline is an educational task of wisdom, and is necessary until the child learns self-discipline.

■ 22:16 The Hebrew is difficult to translate. As rendered here, both oppression of the poor and currying favor with the rich lead one into poverty.

■ 22:17—24:22 This section is a collection of wisdom sayings mainly in the form of instructions (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes). There is evidence that the first part (22:17—23:11) has drawn upon the Egyptian wisdom of Amenemope (cf. 4:1–27 note). If so, these insights have been consciously appropriated as admonitions that assist one in meeting covenant obligations to "trust . . . in the LORD" (22:19). The author of Proverbs, like the historians of the Bible, was not prevented in principle from using existing materials in the course of writing what God inspired.

■ 22:17–21 This introductory section exhorts the hearer to pay attention and listen, and also indicates some of the benefits of such learning.

■ 22:17 apply your heart. Think carefully (2:2 and note).

■ 22:18 upon your lips. The internalized sayings are ready for use.

19 So that your trust may be in the LORD;
I have instructed you today, even you.
20 Have I not written to you excellent things
Of counsels and knowledge,
21 [p]That I may make you know the certainty of the words of truth,
[q]That you may answer words of truth
To those who [4]send to you?

22 Do not rob the [r]poor because he is poor,
Nor oppress the afflicted at the gate;
23 [s]For the LORD will plead their cause,
And plunder the soul of those who plunder them.

24 Make no friendship with an angry man,
And with a [t]furious man do not go,
25 Lest you learn his ways
And set a snare for your soul.

26 [u]Do not be one of those who [5]shakes hands in a pledge,
One of those who is [6]surety for debts;
27 If you have nothing with which to pay,
Why should he take away your bed from under you?

28 [v]Do not remove the ancient [7]landmark
Which your fathers have set.

29 Do you see a man who [8]excels in his work?
He will stand before kings;
He will not stand before [9]unknown men.

23 When you sit down to eat with a ruler,
Consider carefully what is before you;
2 And put a knife to your throat
If you are a man given to appetite.
3 Do not desire his delicacies,
For they are deceptive food.

4 [a]Do not overwork to be rich;
[b]Because of your own understanding, cease!
5 [1]Will you set your eyes on that which is not?
For riches certainly make themselves wings;
They fly away like an eagle toward heaven.

■ 22:19 This saying expresses the biblical view of wisdom (3:5 note).

■ 22:20 excellent things. Or, "thirty sayings." The latter is preferable since the section 22:17—24:22 divides into roughly thirty parts, which is formally similar to Amenemope's thirty-chapter arrangement (22:17—24:22 note).

■ 22:22, 23 A short instruction highlighting the threat of divine retribution. The Lord is pictured as the legal advocate of the poor (Ps. 9:18 note).

■ 22:24, 25 The danger of unwise friendships is expounded in 1:10–19; 12:26.

■ 22:24 angry man. The person is quick to lose self-control (14:17; 15:18 and notes).

■ 22:26, 27 See 6:1–5 and notes.

■ 22:28 See 15:25 and notes. In 23:10, 11 the command is given against the background of God's determination to defend the oppressed.

■ 22:29 a man who excels. Hebrew "who is quick." Such speed in work comes from well-learned skills rather than from taking shortcuts.

He will stand before kings. The words are an indirect exhortation to excellence, which, as in the Egyptian schools of the wise, was the way of promotion to higher service (22:17—24:22 note).

■ 23:1–3 The verses are a warning, possibly to a diplomat, against overindulgence in the pleasures of the table with a ruler.

■ 23:1 what is before you. Or, "who is before you." The sense is either, "Do not allow the feast to excite you with greed," or, "Be attentive to the great ruler, and not to the food."

■ 23:3 deceptive food. Gluttony may undermine human relationships and their advantages.

■ 23:4, 5 It is not worth ruining one's health for riches that have the habit of elusively disappearing.

■ 23:6 miser. The meaning is uncertain, but the context suggests a person whose hospitality is insincere, presumably with hidden motives.

7 For as he thinks in his heart, so is he.
"Eat and drink!" [d]he says to you,
But his heart is not with you.
8 The morsel you have eaten, you will vomit up,
And waste your pleasant words.

9 [e]Do not speak in the hearing of a fool,
For he will despise the wisdom of your words.

10 Do not remove the ancient [3]landmark,

11 [f]For their Redeemer is mighty;
He will plead their cause against you.

12 Apply your heart to instruction,

14 You shall beat him with a rod,
And deliver his soul from [4]hell.

15 My son, if your heart is wise,
My heart will rejoice—indeed, I myself;
16 Yes, my [5]inmost being will rejoice

And your hope will not be cut off.

19 Hear, my son, and be wise;
And guide your heart in the way.
20 [k]Do not mix with winebibbers,
Or with gluttonous eaters of meat;
21 For the drunkard and the glutton will come to poverty,
And drowsiness will clothe a man with rags.

■ 23:8 vomit. A metaphor for the spoiled relationship and the feeling of disgust at the host's insincerity.

■ 23:9 This short instruction repeats the meaning of proverbs such as 9:7 that indicate that the fool is unteachable (cf. Matt. 7:6).

■ 23:10, 11 See 22:28 and note.

■ 23:11 Redeemer. In ancient Israelite society, the redeemer (Hebrew goel) helped another family member in great need (Ruth 2:20 note). The term is frequently applied to God in His saving action for His people (e.g., Job 19:25; Ps. 19:14; Is. 41:14; 43:14; 44:24), as it is here.

■ 23:13, 14 See 13:24; 19:18; 22:6, 15 and notes.

■ 23:13 he will not die. The meaning is either that such corporal punishment will not unduly hurt him, or that by the discipline he will avoid death (the meaning of v. 14).

■ 23:14 hell. See 9:18 note.

■ 23:17, 18 This instruction reflects Israel's covenant relationship and the promises of God (1:7 note). It goes beyond the practical and immediate concerns of wisdom to the revelation that sustains the suffering righteous. See notes on 1:19; 11:8.

■ 23:17 the fear of the LORD. See 1:7 and note.

■ 23:18 a hereafter . . . your hope. The word "hereafter" (lit. "future") may be a reference to a hope for life and vindication after death. More likely, however, it refers to a long and full life.

■ 23:19–21 Poor company, drunkenness, and gluttony are examples of the foolish life that easily overtakes one.

■ 23:22–25 Instructions to children on right family relationships. These principles are derived from the fifth commandment (Ex. 20:12) and testified to by the sages' discerning observation of harmonious and joyful human relationships.

CHAPTER 24

1 [a]Ps. 1:1; 37:1; Prov. 23:17

24 [n]The father of the righteous will greatly rejoice,
And he who begets a wise child will delight in him.
25 Let your father and your mother be glad,
And let her who bore you rejoice.

26 My son, give me your heart,
And let your eyes observe my ways.
27 [o]For a harlot is a deep pit,
And a seductress is a narrow well.
28 [p]She also lies in wait as for a victim,
And increases the unfaithful among men.

29 [q]Who has woe?
Who has sorrow?
Who has contentions?
Who has complaints?
Who has wounds without cause?
Who [r]has redness of eyes?
30 [s]Those who linger long at the wine,
Those who go in search of [t]mixed wine.
31 Do not look on the wine when it is red,
When it sparkles in the cup,
When it [7]swirls around smoothly;
32 At the last it bites like a serpent,
And stings like a viper.
33 Your eyes will see strange things,
And your heart will utter perverse things.
34 Yes, you will be like one who lies down in the [8]midst of the sea,
Or like one who lies at the top of the mast, saying:
35 "They[u] have struck me, but I was not hurt;
They have beaten me, but I did not feel it.
When shall [v]I awake, that I may seek another drink?"

24 Do not be [a]envious of evil men,
Nor desire to be with them;
2 For their heart devises violence,
And their lips talk of troublemaking.

3 Through wisdom a house is built,
And by understanding it is established;
4 By knowledge the rooms are filled
With all precious and pleasant riches.

- 23:26–28 A warning against immoral women (2:16–19; 5:1–20).
- 23:26 give me your heart. That is, pay attention (2:2 note). The wisdom teachers call for undivided attention and trust in their teaching.
- 23:27 deep pit. The image is of a pit for trapping wild animals.

seductress. Lit. "a foreign woman," a term used for immoral or adulterous persons (2:16 note).

narrow well. Impossible to escape from (Jer. 38:6).

- 23:28 unfaithful. Lit. "treacherous," here signifying unfaithfulness in marriage.
- 23:29–35 The perils of drunkenness are put in the form of a riddle. The effects are seen objectively (v. 29) and subjectively (vv. 33–35). The values of biblical wisdom are opposite: self-control, clear perception of reality, and positive relationships.
- 23:30 mixed wine. See 9:2 and note.
- 23:31 look on the wine when it is red. The occasions when wine seems especially desirable call for deliberate caution in its use.
- 23:32 bites like a serpent. The hangover, which is the natural consequence of drunkenness, is like a snakebite.
- 23:33 strange things . . . perverse things. The words suggest hallucinations and confused thinking.
- 23:34 midst of the sea . . . top of the mast. Two nautical metaphors express the feeling of dizziness that drunkenness produces.
- 23:35 I was not hurt. Numbed by drink, the drunk does not notice injuries.

another drink. The alcoholic craves more despite the pain it brings.

- 24:1, 2 See v. 19.
- 24:2 their heart devises violence. These are deliberately evil people who use all their intellect and determination to harm others.
- 24:3, 4 wisdom . . . understanding . . . knowledge. These words are used synonymously of the perception and harnessing of right relationships. True wisdom applies to the craftsman's skill in construction (as in Ex. 36:1), to human relationships, and to the legitimate achievement of prosperity.
- 24:3 a house is built. "House" refers either literally to a building to live in, or is a metaphor for a family, or even a dynasty (2 Sam. 7:11, 12).
- 24:4 riches. Either material wealth (e.g., Solomon's wealth), or metaphorically, the beauty of good family relationships.

5 [b]A wise man is strong,
Yes, a man of knowledge increases strength;
6 [c]For by wise counsel you will wage your own war,
And in a multitude of counselors there is safety.

7 [d]Wisdom is too lofty for a fool;
He does not open his mouth in the gate.

8 He who [e]plots to do evil
Will be called a [f]schemer.
9 The devising of foolishness is sin,
And the scoffer is an abomination to men.

10 If you [f]faint in the day of adversity,
Your strength is small.

11 [g]Deliver those who are drawn toward death,
And hold back those stumbling to the slaughter.
12 If you say, "Surely we did not know this,"
Does not [h]He who weighs the hearts consider it?
He who keeps your soul, does He not know it?
And will He not render to each man [i]according to his deeds?

13 My son, [j]eat honey because it is good,
And the honeycomb which is sweet to your taste;
14 [k]So shall the knowledge of wisdom be to your soul;
If you have found it, there is a [2]prospect,
And your hope will not be cut off.

15 Do not lie in wait, O wicked man, against the dwelling of the righteous;
Do not plunder his resting place;
16 [l]For a righteous man may fall seven times
And rise again,
[m]But the wicked shall fall by calamity.

17 [n]Do not rejoice when your enemy falls,
And do not let your heart be glad when he stumbles;
18 Lest the LORD see it, and [3]it displease Him,
And He turn away His wrath from him.

19 [o]Do not fret because of evildoers,
Nor be envious of the wicked;

■ 24:7 too lofty. Fools are out of their depth since they are unteachable.

the gate. The traditional meeting place for counsel and judgment was the town gate.

■ 24:8 Will be called a schemer. In a well-ordered society, social values act beneficially to suppress evil. Here the one who schemes is shamed.

■ 24:9 The devising of foolishness is sin. See v. 2 and note. Folly is not lack of intellect, but active rebellion against truth and the order derived from it.

an abomination to men. See v. 8 and note.

■ 24:10 A person's moral strength is only seen when it is truly tested.

■ 24:11, 12 These two verses are best taken together. One cannot use the excuse of ignorance to avoid the responsibility to help another in need.

■ 24:12 He who weighs the hearts. One's accountability to God is stressed. Here the eternal rather than the merely social consequences of failing to help others are considered.

■ 24:13 eat honey. This mention of honey is not merely a metaphor. Good food, a part of the prosperous life, is a concern of wisdom (25:16; Eccl. 9:7, 8; Song 5:1).

■ 24:14 So shall . . . wisdom be. Wisdom sustains our inner life as honey sustains the body.

prospect. That is, hope for the future (see text note; also 23:18 and note).

■ 24:15, 16 The assumption is that God does not allow the unrighteous to prosper permanently. On the other hand, the righteous may suffer many adversities, yet God finally vindicates them.

■ 24:17 Do not rejoice. On its own, this verse would make perfect sense as implying that compassion should not be entirely withdrawn from any other human being. While the motive cited in v. 18 may initially appear vindictive, it seems to teach that when we are devoid of kindness to our enemy, we deserve God's wrath more than the enemy does.

■ 24:19 fret. Lit. "become hot," i.e., become agitated or vexed.

be envious. See v. 1.

1 [a]1 Kin. 4:32
2 [b]Deut. 29:29; Rom. 11:33

20 For there will be no prospect for the evil man;
The lamp of the wicked will be put out.

21 My son, [p]fear the LORD and the king;
Do not associate with those given to change;
22 For their calamity will rise suddenly,
And who knows the ruin those two can bring?

Further Sayings of the Wise

23 These things also belong to the wise:

[q]It is not good to [4]show partiality in judgment.
24 [r]He who says to the wicked, "You are righteous,"
Him the people will curse;
Nations will abhor him.
25 But those who rebuke the wicked will have [s]delight,
And a good blessing will come upon them.
26 He who gives a right answer kisses the lips.
27 [t]Prepare your outside work,
Make it fit for yourself in the field;
And afterward build your house.

28 [u]Do not be a witness against your neighbor without cause,
[5]For would you deceive with your lips?
29 [v]Do not say, "I will do to him just as he has done to me;
I will render to the man according to his work."

30 I went by the field of the lazy man,
And by the vineyard of the man devoid of understanding;
31 And there it was, [w]all overgrown with thorns;
Its surface was covered with nettles;
Its stone wall was broken down.
32 When I saw it, I considered it well;
I looked on it and received instruction:
33 [x]A little sleep, a little slumber,
A little folding of the hands to rest;
34 [y]So shall your poverty come like [6]a prowler,
And your need like [7]an armed man.

Further Wise Sayings of Solomon

25 These[a] also are proverbs of Solomon which the men of Hezekiah king of Judah copied:

2 [b]It is the glory of God to conceal a matter,
But the glory of kings is to search out a matter.

■ 24:20 prospect. Or, "future hope" (v. 14; 23:18 and note).

■ 24:21 fear the LORD. See 1:7 and note.

the king. In Israel's covenant-based society, the king became the exemplar of wisdom and the agent of God's rule (cf. Deut. 17:14–20 and notes).

■ 24:22 the ruin those two can bring. That is, righteous retribution from God and the king.

■ 24:23–25 Justice is essential. A well-ordered society is one in which justice is done and is seen to be done. This complements the directive given in vv. 21, 22.

■ 24:26 kisses the lips. This comparison to the most intimate expression of friendship highlights the value of a just and right answer (cf. 27:6).

■ 24:27 build your house. Either the physical structure, or the family (v. 3 note). Both need a firm economic basis, such as is provided by the proceeds of one's crops, before they can be built.

■ 24:28, 29 If, as seems likely, these two verses belong together, there is even more at stake than the need to avoid giving false witness (6:16, 19). Revenge is born out of anger and the heat of passion. The loss of control depicted in v. 29 is the opposite of the self-restraint called for by biblical wisdom.

■ 24:30–34 See 6:6–11 and notes.

■ 25:1 proverbs of Solomon. See Introduction: Author; note on 1:1.

Hezekiah. He was king of Judah at the time of the destruction of the northern kingdom of Israel. Hezekiah vigorously carried out reforms of Judah's corrupt religious practices. This introduction to a new section of the Book of Proverbs shows that Hezekiah not only promoted a return to the Law of Moses, but also encouraged the wisdom movement by literary activity.

copied. The development of a scribal class in Israel was dictated by the religious and administrative needs of the nation. The Hebrew word used here indicates transmission and may mean committing oral tradition to writing, or transcribing something already written.

■ 25:2 It can already be seen from creation that the wisdom of God is

3 As the heavens for height and the earth for depth,
So the heart of kings is unsearchable.

4 [c]Take away the dross from silver,
And it will go to the silversmith for jewelry.
5 Take away the wicked from before the king,
And his throne will be established in [d]righteousness.

6 Do not exalt yourself in the presence of the king,
And do not stand in the place of the great;
7 [e]For it is better that he say to you,
"Come up here,"
Than that you should be put lower in the presence of the prince,
Whom your eyes have seen.

8 [f]Do not go hastily to [1]court;
For what will you do in the end,
When your neighbor has put you to shame?
9 [g]Debate your case with your neighbor,
And do not disclose the secret to another;
10 Lest he who hears it expose your shame,
And [2]your reputation be ruined.

11 A word fitly [h]spoken is like apples of gold
In settings of silver.
12 Like an earring of gold and an ornament of fine gold
Is a wise rebuker to an obedient ear.

13 [i]Like the cold of snow in time of harvest
Is a faithful messenger to those who send him,
For he refreshes the soul of his masters.

14 [j]Whoever falsely boasts of giving
Is like [k]clouds and wind without rain.

15 [l]By long forbearance a ruler is persuaded, beyond all human knowing (Ps. 92:5; 147:5; Is. 40:12–17; Rom. 1:20). The king as God's servant makes probing inquiry into the questions that concern his rule, and he is to be admired for his success in uncovering what he has to know (16:12–15; 20:8, 26; 25:3, 5 and notes).
And a gentle tongue breaks a bone.

■ 25:3 unsearchable. The same verb as in v. 2 is used here in the negative. The knowledge that the king has acquired through effort and the royal decisions based on it are reflections of God's rule based on His wisdom. The king is understood to rule through God's appointment (cf. Rom. 13:4).

■ 25:4, 5 No matter how skilled the craftsman, he must have good materials to work with. In the same way, the king needs a society purged of evil elements if he is to establish a righteous rule. Good order in society cannot simply be commanded from the throne.

■ 25:6, 7 Wisdom of the royal court observes an unspoken protocol. It rebukes conceit and self-seeking that overreaches itself and leads to humiliation. It is better to start out with humility and then be exalted. Jesus adapted this instruction to speak of our place in the kingdom of God (Luke 14:7–11).

■ 25:8 court. See text note. The principle can apply more widely to the need for prudence in speech that reflects on the character of others.

■ 25:9 do not disclose the secret to another. Do not involve others in a dispute.

■ 25:10 your reputation be ruined. Betrayal of confidences will lead to a reputation for disloyalty.

■ 25:11 Lit. "Apples of gold in settings of silver, a word fitly spoken." This kind of proverbial comparison simply places two or more things side by side (cf. v. 18), leaving the reader to work out the nature of the comparison. The importance of well-chosen words, a common wisdom theme, is highlighted by their comparison with objects of fine craftsmanship.

■ 25:12 A similar comparison of ideas is found in v. 11. Two pieces of jewelry are set alongside a good relationship between the wise teacher's rebuke and the receptive pupil. The implied comparison says either that a rebuke is as valuable as fine gold jewelry, or that a wise rebuke and a receptive ear go together like matched jewelry.

■ 25:13 Like the cold of snow. The imagery is not of an unseasonable snowfall, which would be disastrous for the harvest, but of refreshment (cf. v. 25).

■ 25:14 Inhabitants of Palestine often experienced clouds that promised rain but proved to be dry (Jude 12). Such a proverb today might be applied to those who seek power and influence, whether political or personal, by promises that are not fulfilled.

■ 25:15 By long forbearance. That is, by being slow to anger and resisting provocation.

breaks a bone. By gentle diplomacy strong resistance is broken.

16 Have you found honey?

Is like a club, a sword, and a sharp arrow.

19 Confidence in an unfaithful man in time of trouble
Is like a bad tooth and a foot out of joint.

20 Like one who takes away a garment in cold weather,
And like vinegar on soda,
Is one who [n]sings songs to a heavy heart.

21 [o]If your enemy is hungry, give him bread to eat;
And if he is thirsty, give him water to drink;

26 A righteous man who falters before the wicked

So [t]to seek one's own glory is not glory.

28 [u]Whoever has no rule over his own spirit

CHAPTER 26

1 [a]1 Sam. 12:17
2 [b]Num. 23:8; Deut. 23:5; 2 Sam. 16:12

■ 25:16, 17 What were probably separate sayings are here joined to reinforce the message they have in common: Know when to stop; honey is good for you, but too much makes you sick; neighborly friendship is good, but excessive familiarity can abuse another's privacy. Relationships need to be wisely defined.

■ 25:18 False testimony belongs to the same group as weapons of war because they all are lethal instruments used to assault another's well-being.

■ 25:20 vinegar on soda. The application of vinegar to "soda" (a cleansing agent such as baking soda) renders the latter useless. Another possible translation is, "like vinegar on a wound." Just as taking away someone's coat or pouring vinegar on wounds causes pain, so also does frivolity in the presence of sorrow (Ps. 137:3, 4; Rom. 12:15).

■ 25:22 you will heap coals of fire on his head. The meaning of this metaphor must be determined from its context (see v. 21). The apostle Paul (Rom. 12:2) uses it, as here, as an image of overcoming evil with good. Ps. 140:10 uses the phrase as a description of punishment. The most likely meaning is penitence through a burning sense of shame. Some associate the image with an Egyptian penitential rite in which coals were carried on the head to show contrition. But the proverb comments on divine recompense: "the LORD will reward you." See note on 1:7.

Apart from Ex. 23:4, 5, Israel was rarely ordered to show kindness to enemies. This is probably because of the significance of the enemies as those who not only oppose God's kingdom but also threaten Israel's survival as the messianic people. Jesus developed the implications of the gospel for the treatment of personal enemies in Matt. 5:43–48.

■ 25:23 Note the inevitable cause and effect relationship expressed in both lines.

■ 25:24 See 21:9 and note.

■ 25:25 For the form of this proverb, see note on v. 11.

■ 25:26 righteous man. See note on 8:18.

■ 25:28 This comparison (see v. 11 note) illustrates the vulnerability of the person who lacks self-control.

■ 26:1 The comparison is explicit ("As . . . So"). The perceptible orderliness of nature should be paralleled in society's estimation of human character.

■ 26:2 The form is the same as in v. 1. Curses have no power to afflict

3 [c]A whip for the horse,
A bridle for the donkey,
And a rod for the fool's back.
4 Do not answer a fool according to his folly,
Lest you also be like him.
5 [d]Answer a fool according to his folly,
Lest he be wise in his own eyes.
6 He who sends a message by the hand of a fool
Cuts off his own feet and drinks violence.
7 Like the legs of the lame that hang limp
Is a proverb in the mouth of fools.
8 Like one who binds a stone in a sling
Is he who gives honor to a fool.
9 Like a thorn that goes into the hand of a drunkard
Is a proverb in the mouth of fools.

11 [e]As a dog returns to his own vomit,
[f]So a fool repeats his folly.

There is more hope for a fool than for him.

So does the lazy man on his bed.
15 The [h]lazy man buries his hand in the [3]bowl;
It wearies him to bring it back to his mouth.
16 The lazy man is wiser in his own eyes
Than seven men who can answer sensibly.

17 He who passes by and meddles in a quarrel not his own
Is like one who takes a dog by the ears.

18 Like a madman who throws firebrands, arrows, and death,
19 Is the man who deceives his neighbor,
And says, [i]"I was only joking!"

20 Where there is no wood, the fire goes out;
And where there is no [4]talebearer, strife ceases.

20 [4]gossip or slanderer, lit. whisperer

someone who is innocent. Such a curse has meaning only as an expression of divine retribution.

■ 26:4, 5 Taken together these verses illustrate the point that no proverb is intended to cover every possible situation. The apparent contradiction in the two proverbs indicates that proverbs must be appropriately applied. One situation demands that we avoid playing the fool's game by giving an answer, while another demands that we expose the folly so that the fool is not considered wise.

■ 26:6 drinks violence. Or, "suffers violence." Sending a fool on an errand is asking for trouble.

■ 26:7 A wisdom saying uttered by a fool is so incongruous with his character that it loses power.

■ 26:8 The absurdity of preventing a stone from leaving the sling illustrates the absurdity of honoring the fool.

■ 26:9 Like a thorn . . . a proverb. This saying apparently refers to a thorn piercing the hand of a person too drunk to sense it. Either the fool is too simple to perceive the significance of the proverb, or, as the thorn injures the drunkard's hand, so fools will use the proverb to their own hurt.

■ 26:11 Fools will not learn from their mistakes but rather return, like a dog to its vomit, to repeat them.

■ 26:12 There are degrees of folly, and the highest is found in fools who think they are wise. An extreme example is seen in the worldly wisdom that regards God's wisdom as folly (1 Cor. 1:18—2:5).

■ 26:13–16 Four proverbs reflect on laziness that works against well-ordered human existence and against life itself. See 6:6–11; 24:30–34 and notes.

■ 26:13 See 22:13 and note.

■ 26:14 Just like a door on its hinges, so lazy persons turn restlessly on their beds.

■ 26:16 seven men. The precise number, although often symbolizing completeness, is not important in this instance; it serves only to highlight the self-delusion of the fool.

■ 26:17 Wisdom includes knowing when not to interfere in others' disputes.

■ 26:18, 19 The common element is the potential for destruction: to property and persons (v. 18), and to personal relationships (v. 19).

■ 26:20 talebearer. A gossip, a purveyor of malicious murmuring with little concern for the truth.

21 [j]As charcoal is to burning coals, and wood to fire,
So is a contentious man to kindle strife.
22 The words of a [5]talebearer are like [6]tasty trifles,
And they go down into the [7]inmost body.

23 Fervent lips with a wicked heart
Are like earthenware covered with silver dross.

24 He who hates, disguises it with his lips,
And lays up deceit within himself;
25 [k]When [8]he speaks kindly, do not believe him,
For there are seven abominations in his heart;
26 Though his hatred is covered by deceit,
His wickedness will be revealed before the assembly.

27 [l]Whoever digs a pit will fall into it,
And he who rolls a stone will have it roll back on him.

28 A lying tongue hates those who are crushed by it,
And a flattering mouth works [m]ruin.

27 Do[a] not boast about tomorrow,
For you do not know what a day may bring forth.

2 [b]Let another man praise you, and not your own mouth;
A stranger, and not your own lips.

3 A stone is heavy and sand is weighty,
But a fool's wrath is heavier than both of them.

4 Wrath is cruel and anger a torrent,
But [c]who is able to stand before jealousy?

5 [d]Open rebuke is better
Than love carefully concealed.

6 Faithful are the wounds of a friend,
But the kisses of an enemy are [e]deceitful.

7 A satisfied soul [1]loathes the honeycomb,
But to a hungry soul every bitter thing is sweet.

8 Like a bird that wanders from its nest
Is a man who wanders from his place.

9 Ointment and perfume delight the heart,
And the sweetness of a man's friend gives delight by [2]hearty counsel.

■ 26:21 contentious man. Such people are not happy unless they are actively undermining personal relationships.

■ 26:22 See 18:8 and note.

■ 26:23 Although the Hebrew text is difficult, the apparent meaning is like that of vv. 24–26: a pleasing veneer can hide an opposite nature beneath.

■ 26:25, 26 The person of v. 24 must be avoided. In time, people will see through such deceptions (5:14 and note).

■ 26:27 Troublemakers often make trouble for themselves (cf. Gal. 6:7). The theme of retribution is probably intended to be linked with vv. 23–26. Here the emphasis is not on direct divine judgment, but on the providentially self-destructive nature of folly aimed at destroying others.

■ 26:28 Hatred is the ultimate breakdown in human relationships (1 John 3:15). Human speech has enormous potential for evil, and its misuse cannot be lightly excused (James 3:5–10).

■ 27:1 Though wisdom is concerned with taking hold on life, people do not have complete control over their future. Fools think they have, but they do not reckon with the sovereign will of God (21:30 note; Luke 12:19, 20).

■ 27:2 Wisdom is humble (cf. 1 Cor. 13:4, 5).

■ 27:3, 4 Two comparisons emphasize the destructiveness of folly.

■ 27:5 Open rebuke. A salutary word aimed at correction for one's good.

love carefully concealed. This love, though genuine, lacks the moral strength to risk giving a rebuke.

■ 27:6 wounds of a friend. The meaning is similar to "open rebuke" in v. 5.

■ 27:7 See 25:16, 17, 27 and notes. The meaning of the proverb is not limited to food, but applies to anything for which we have an appetite.

■ 27:8 Rootlessness hurts both the wanderer and those with whom he should be relating. Human beings need personal relationships.

10 Do not forsake your own friend or your father's friend,
Nor go to your brother's house in the day of your calamity;
[f]Better is a neighbor nearby than a brother far away.

11 My son, be wise, and make my heart glad,
[g]That I may answer him who reproaches me.

12 A prudent man foresees evil and hides himself;
The simple pass on and are [h]punished.

13 Take the garment of him who is surety for a stranger,
And hold it in pledge when he is surety for a seductress.

14 He who blesses his friend with a loud voice, rising early in the morning,
It will be counted a curse to him.

15 A [i]continual dripping on a very rainy day
And a contentious woman are alike;
16 Whoever [3]restrains her restrains the wind,
And grasps oil with his right hand.

17 As iron sharpens iron,
So a man sharpens the countenance of his friend.

18 [j]Whoever [4]keeps the fig tree will eat its fruit;
So he who waits on his master will be honored.

19 As in water face reflects face,
So a man's heart reveals the man.

20 [k]Hell[5] and [6]Destruction are never full;
So [l]the eyes of man are never satisfied.

21 [m]The refining pot is for silver and the furnace for gold,
And a man is valued by what others say of him.

22 [n]Though you grind a fool in a mortar with a pestle along with crushed grain,
Yet his foolishness will not depart from him.

23 Be diligent to know the state of your [o]flocks,
And attend to your herds;
24 For riches are not forever,
Nor does a crown endure to all generations.
25 [p]When the hay is removed, and the tender grass shows itself,

25 [p]Ps. 104:14

■ 27:10 The point of this instruction seems to be that one should develop relationships beyond the immediate family, for relatives are sometimes unwilling or unable to come to our aid.

■ 27:11 Parents are vindicated before others by their success in passing wisdom on to their children (10:1).

■ 27:12 prudent . . . simple. See 1:4; 12:16 and notes.

■ 27:13 See 20:16 and note.

■ 27:14 The reference is probably to false and inappropriately timed protestations of friendship that cloak an evil intent (26:18, 19, 24–26).

■ 27:17 This saying probably refers to the positive effect of interaction with others on one's character.

■ 27:18 Diligent work and honest service are rewarded (22:29).

■ 27:19 Just as water reflects our outward appearance, so the thoughts of our "hearts" reveal our inner nature and character.

■ 27:20 Hell and Destruction. See notes on 15:11. The parallel with destruction implies that the insatiability of the eyes involves endless desires that become destructive.

■ 27:21 The sense is either that public praise tests character (here one's resistance to the temptation of pride), or that public esteem is generally a reliable indication of one's character (but cf. Matt. 5:11).

■ 27:22 mortar . . . pestle. A bowl and a rod used to grind things in it. The fool is unteachable even when the most drastic measures are taken.

■ 27:23–27 Economic resources of a renewable sort (flocks, crops) are preferable to riches that cannot be replaced. Careful attention to the providential order of nature generally ensures lasting provision for our needs. The ecological implications of this passage are even more obvious in the modern context.

26 The lambs will provide your clothing,
And the goats the price of a field;
27 You shall have enough goats' milk for your food,
For the food of your household,
And the nourishment of your maidservants.

CHAPTER 28

28 The [a]wicked flee when no one pursues,
But the righteous are bold as a lion.

2 Because of the transgression of a land, many are its princes;
But by a man of understanding and knowledge
Right will be prolonged.

3 [b]A poor man who oppresses the poor
Is like a driving rain [f]which leaves no food.

4 [c]Those who forsake the law praise the wicked,
[d]But such as keep the law contend with them.

5 [e]Evil men do not understand justice,
But [f]those who seek the LORD understand all.

6 Better is the poor who walks in his integrity
Than one perverse in his ways, though he be rich.

7 Whoever keeps the law is a discerning son,
But a companion of gluttons shames his father.

8 One who increases his possessions by usury and extortion
Gathers it for him who will pity the poor.

9 One who turns away his ear from hearing the law,
[g]Even his prayer is an abomination.

10 [h]Whoever causes the upright to go astray in an evil way,
He himself will fall into his own pit;
[i]But the blameless will inherit good.

11 The rich man is wise in his own eyes,
But the poor who has understanding searches him out.

10 [h]Ps. 7:15; Prov. 26:27 [i]Matt. 6:33; Heb. 6:12; 1 Pet. 3:9]

■ 28:1–28 This chapter contains a heavier concentration of theological reflection than earlier chapters of proverbial sentences. Sometimes this is explicit, with references to God or to the law and righteousness. In other sentences it is more implicit, as in the contrast of the righteous and the wicked, which seems to assume the underlying providential order and judgment of God.

■ 28:2 Although the Hebrew is difficult, the meaning seems to be that unrighteousness and political instability (as occurred in the northern kingdom of Israel) go hand in hand, while a wise or righteous person helps maintain social order.

■ 28:3 A poor man . . . the poor. The change of a Hebrew vowel produces the reading, "A ruler who oppresses the poor." Both excessive rainfall and a wicked ruler can do great harm.

■ 28:4 the law. Probably the Law of Moses, although wisdom instruction may be in view (3:1 note). Although wisdom literature often seems to reflect more on human experience in the created order than on God's revelation in Scripture, the Hebrew sages were men of God who knew the law and its demands (1:7 note).

■ 28:5 justice. The word refers either to God's moral rule of the universe, or to the good order of things, of which God's rule is the basis.

those who seek the LORD. Those whose faith recognizes that the purpose of life is to serve God.

understand all. The phrase does not imply total knowledge or infallibility, but a renewed mind that knows things truly because it knows them as they are interpreted by God's revelation in Scripture (1:7 note).

■ 28:6 in his integrity. Integrity in one's relationships with God and others is more important than riches.

■ 28:7 law. See v. 4 and note.

companion of gluttons shames. See 23:19–25 and notes.

■ 28:8 usury and extortion. In Lev. 25:35–38, the grace of God establishes the principle of helping others freely and not for gain (Deut. 23:19, 20).

Gathers it for him who will pity. The justice of God will not allow the greedy rich to retain their wealth (13:22; 22:16; Job 27:13–19), but will instead give it to those who generously aid others (19:17).

■ 28:9 See 15:8, 29.

■ 28:10 causes the upright to go astray. The justice of God seems to be implied here; there is a special judgment on those who seek to seduce God's people (Matt. 5:19; 18:6).

■ 28:11 While riches do not necessarily correlate with unrighteousness, nor poverty with wisdom and righteousness, there is that tendency nevertheless (vv. 6, 8, 20, 22, 25, 27).

wise in his own eyes. See 26:5, 16. There are no greater fools than those who see their folly as wisdom (cf. 1 Cor. 1:18–25).

12 When the righteous rejoice, there is great [j]glory;
But when the wicked arise, men [2]hide themselves.

13 [k]He who covers his sins will not prosper,
But whoever confesses and forsakes them will have mercy.

14 Happy is the man who is always reverent,
But he who hardens his heart will fall into calamity.

15 [l]Like a roaring lion and a charging bear
[m]Is a wicked ruler over poor people.

16 A ruler who lacks understanding is a great [n]oppressor,
But he who hates covetousness will prolong his days.

17 [o]A man burdened with bloodshed will flee into a pit;
Let no one help him.

18 Whoever walks blamelessly will be [3]saved,
But he who is perverse in his ways will suddenly fall.

19 [p]He who tills his land will have plenty of bread,
But he who follows frivolity will have poverty enough!

20 A faithful man will abound with blessings,
[q]But he who hastens to be rich will not go unpunished.

21 [r]To [4]show partiality is not good,
[s]Because for a piece of bread a man will transgress.

22 A man with an evil eye hastens after riches,
And does not consider that [t]poverty will come upon him.

23 [u]He who rebukes a man will find more favor afterward
Than he who flatters with the tongue.

24 Whoever robs his father or his mother,
And says, "It is no transgression,"
The same [v]is companion to a destroyer.

25 [w]He who is of a proud heart stirs up strife,
[x]But he who trusts in the LORD will be prospered.

26 He who [y]trusts in his own heart is a fool,
But whoever walks wisely will be delivered.

26 [y]Prov. 3:5

■ 28:12 Righteousness leads to social order and happiness, while unrighteousness destroys and alienates (v. 28 and 29:2).

■ 28:13 The orderliness and well-being in one's life is linked to an intensely personal relationship with God. Unconfessed sin is the ultimate disorder in life. Confession and repentance lead to a restoration of a right relationship with God, based on mercy (Ps. 32:1–4; 1 John 1:6–9). All other relationships depend on this.

■ 28:14 Happy. See 3:13 and note.

he who hardens his heart. One who sets his will against the Lord (Ex. 7:3, 13).

■ 28:15 See vv. 3, 16.

■ 28:16 Tyranny is so contrary to wisdom that it demonstrates a lack of discernment. The second line implies that the greedy tyrant brings about his own destruction.

■ 28:18 Whoever . . . will be saved. See notes on 1:19; 10:3; 11:8.

■ 28:20 Faith and wisdom may lead to riches, but to give priority to riches is serious error.

■ 28:21 See 18:5; 24:23, 24. Even a small bribe can have disastrous results in the maintenance of order and justice in society.

■ 28:22 man with an evil eye. A miser (23:6 note and text note).

poverty will come. The meaning is either that the miser lacks the wisdom to gain and keep wealth, or that God's justice will not allow such a one to be rich (v. 20).

■ 28:23 A needed rebuke ultimately has a positive effect on personal relationships (27:5), while flattery only undermines them.

■ 28:24 See 19:26 and note.

It is no transgression. Family relationships are at the hub of all human ties. To plunder one's parents without shame shows moral depravity that undermines all relationships.

■ 28:25 trusts in the LORD. Reliance and faith are included in the fear of the Lord (1:7 note).

■ 28:26 trusts in his own heart. See 3:5, 6 and notes. Trust in self is the destructive opposite of trusting the Lord.

27 [z]He who gives to the poor will not lack,
But he who hides his eyes will have many curses.

28 When the wicked arise, [a]men hide themselves;
But when they perish, the righteous increase.

29 He[a] who is often rebuked, and hardens his neck,
Will suddenly be destroyed, and that without remedy.

2 When the righteous [1]are in authority, the [b]people rejoice;
But when a wicked man rules, [c]the people groan.

3 Whoever loves wisdom makes his father rejoice,
But a companion of harlots wastes his wealth.

4 The king establishes the land by justice,
But he who receives bribes overthrows it.

5 A man who [d]flatters his neighbor
Spreads a net for his feet.

6 By transgression an evil man is snared,
But the righteous sings and rejoices.

7 The righteous [e]considers the cause of the poor,
But the wicked does not understand such knowledge.

8 Scoffers [f]set a city aflame,
But wise men turn away wrath.

9 If a wise man contends with a foolish man,
[g]Whether the fool rages or laughs, there is no peace.

10 [h]The bloodthirsty hate the blameless,
But the upright seek his [2]well-being.

11 A fool vents all his [i]feelings,[3]
But a wise man holds them back.

12 If a ruler pays attention to lies,
All his servants become wicked.

13 The poor man and the oppressor have this in common:
[j]The LORD gives light to the eyes of both.

14 The king who judges the [k]poor with truth,
His throne will be established forever.

- 29:8 Scoffers. See 1:22 and note.

set a city aflame. The unwise, by nature, tend to undermine harmony in society.

- 29:9 If at all possible, the wise should avoid disputing with fools. Fools are incapable of rational argument, and even when right judgment is given they cannot be reconciled. See note on 26:4, 5.
- 29:12 Corruption in society tends to start at the top. The dishonest ruler not only attracts evil officials, but encourages subordinates to become corrupt.
- 29:13 gives light to the eyes of both. God has created both rich and poor (22:2 and note).
- 29:14 See v. 4; 16:12–15 and notes.

15 The rod and rebuke give [l]wisdom,
But a child left to himself brings shame to his mother.

16 When the wicked are multiplied, transgression increases;
But the righteous will see their [m]fall.

17 Correct your son, and he will give you rest;
Yes, he will give delight to your soul.

18 [n]Where there is no [4]revelation, the people cast off restraint;
But [o]happy is he who keeps the law.

19 A servant will not be corrected by mere words;
For though he understands, he will not respond.

20 Do you see a man hasty in his words?
[p]There is more hope for a fool than for him.

21 He who pampers his servant from childhood
Will have him as a son in the end.

22 [q]An angry man stirs up strife,

But the humble in spirit will retain honor.

24 Whoever is a partner with a thief hates his own life;
[s]He [5]swears to tell the truth, but reveals nothing.

25 [t]The fear of man brings a snare,
But whoever trusts in the LORD shall be [6]safe.

26 [u]Many seek the ruler's [7]favor,
But justice for man comes from the LORD.

27 An unjust man is an abomination to the righteous,
And he who is upright in the way is an abomination to the wicked.

The Wisdom of Agur

30 The words of Agur the son of Jakeh, his utterance. This man declared to Ithiel—to Ithiel and Ucal:

■ 29:15 See 13:24; 22:15; 23:13, 14 and notes.

■ 29:16 This proverb implicitly expresses confidence in the ultimate establishment of a just order under the rule of God.

■ 29:17 Correct. Not only chastening (v. 15) is in view, but also active and positive instruction in wisdom. In the covenantal context of Israel's faith, discipline and instruction come from the revelation of God in His word and acts.

■ 29:18 revelation. Either there is no word (1 Sam. 3:1), or there is an inability to hear the word (Amos 8:11, 12).

■ 29:19 An observation of conditions in Hebrew society rather than a constant attitude of all workers (cf. 18:23 and note). The educational applications of wisdom are in view here, with the recognition that not all dispositions can be changed by words or reason alone.

■ 29:21 Will have him . . . end. In what is perhaps a better reading, the Septuagint (Greek Old Testament) translates this, "in the end he will come to grief." Servants who are not corrected and disciplined will be a source of grief (v. 19).

■ 29:22 stirs up strife. See 15:18 and note.

■ 29:23 See 15:33; also 16:18, 19 and notes. The sin of pride does not allow the fool to benefit from another's wisdom.

■ 29:24 This verse depicts the predicament of accomplices to a crime. They are obliged to be witnesses (Lev. 5:1), but if they do testify they incriminate themselves.

■ 29:26 Wisdom recognizes the special function of rulers to maintain godly order, and thus to be agents of God's rule (21:1 note). It also recognizes the weakness of human rulers. Here the supplicant seeks special treatment that would involve injustice. The only sure way to justice is to seek it from the Lord.

■ 30:1 Agur the son of Jakeh. His identity is unknown, but many consider him to be a foreigner. See note on 22:17—24:22; and Introduction: Author.

his utterance. It is possible that the Hebrew word is a place-name, "Massa" (also in 31:1), and that both Agur and Lemuel were Ishmaelites from Massa, thought to be in Arabia (Gen. 25:14).

to Ithiel and Ucal. The words are possibly names of persons addressed. Alternatively, the Hebrew can be read, "I am weary, O God, and tired."

2 [a]Surely I am more stupid than any man,
And do not have the understanding of a man.
3 I neither learned wisdom
Nor have [b]knowledge of the Holy One.

4 [c]Who has ascended into heaven, or descended?
[d]Who has gathered the wind in His fists?
Who has bound the waters in a garment?
Who has established all the ends of the earth?
What is His name, and what is His Son's name,
If you know?

5 [e]Every word of God is [f]pure;
[f]He is a shield to those who put their trust in Him.
6 [g]Do not add to His words,
Lest He rebuke you, and you be found a liar.

7 Two things I request of You
(Deprive me not before I die):
8 Remove falsehood and lies far from me;
Give me neither poverty nor riches—
[h]Feed me with the food allotted to me;
9 [i]Lest I be full and deny You,
And say, "Who is the LORD?"
Or lest I be poor and steal,
And profane the name of my God.

10 Do not malign a servant to his master,
Lest he curse you, and you be found guilty.

11 There is a generation that curses its [j]father,
And does not bless its mother.
12 There is a generation [k]that is pure in its own eyes,
Yet is not washed from its filthiness.
13 There is a generation—oh, how [l]lofty are their eyes!
And their eyelids are [2]lifted up.
14 [m]There is a generation whose teeth are like swords,
And whose fangs are like knives,
[n]To devour the poor from off the earth,
And the needy from among men.

15 The leech has two daughters—
Give and Give!

■ 30:2, 3 This statement is not mere modesty or humility, but a recognition of the mystery of the being and ways of God such as is found in Job and Ecclesiastes. The writer is acutely conscious of the bounds of human knowledge and wisdom. God is not an object for our investigation or speculation, but the infinite and personal Creator in whom we must trust. There may be a note of irony in the profession of ignorance here, but v. 4 indicates the meaning.

■ 30:4 These questions express the conviction that knowledge based solely on observation of creation can never fully comprehend God. In Job 38, the same point is made in the course of God's answer to Job.

■ 30:5, 6 With these words Agur gives an assessment of God's Word within the framework of Israel's law and prophetic writings. He quotes Ps. 18:30 and echoes Deut. 4:2. The full knowledge of God comes through special revelation and is received by faith (1:7 note).

■ 30:5 pure. That is, tried and found to be utterly reliable.

■ 30:6 Do not add to His words. To add to God's words is to sit in judgment on them and to find them wanting by human standards. This shifts the basis of knowledge and truth from God to ourselves. This pride of the creature is a mainspring of sin (Gen. 2:9 note).

■ 30:7–9 This prayer reflects a desire to learn from the kind of wisdom that is in Proverbs.

■ 30:8 the food allotted to me. The request is for a sufficiency that avoids both extremes of poverty and unnecessary riches.

■ 30:9 Who is the LORD. People who have an excess of material possessions soon forget their dependence on the Lord (Deut. 8:10–18; Luke 12:16–21).

■ 30:10 This saying is only superficially connected with what precedes or follows. The point is that interference in another's domestic affairs may backfire.

■ 30:12 pure in its own eyes. See 16:2; 21:2.

■ 30:15–31 On the form of these numerical sayings, see notes on 6:16–19.

■ 30:15 The leech . . . Give and Give. The two ends of the leech look the same, and the animal seems to have no function except to devour. The following numerical sayings share the theme of greed.

There are three things that are never satisfied,
Four never say, "Enough!":
16 [o]The [3]grave,
The barren womb,
The earth that is not satisfied with water—
And the fire never says, "Enough!"

17 [p]The eye that mocks his father,
And scorns obedience to his mother,
The ravens of the valley will pick it out,
And the young eagles will eat it.

18 There are three things which are too wonderful for me,
Yes, four which I do not understand:
19 The way of an eagle in the air,
The way of a serpent on a rock,
The way of a ship in the [4]midst of the sea,
And the way of a man with a virgin.

20 This is the way of an adulterous woman:
She eats and wipes her mouth,
And says, "I have done no wickedness."

21 For three things the earth is perturbed,
Yes, for four it cannot bear up:
22 [q]For a servant when he reigns,
A fool when he is filled with food,
23 A [5]hateful woman when she is married,
And a maidservant who succeeds her mistress.

24 There are four things which are little on the earth,
But they are exceedingly wise:
25 [r]The ants are a people not strong,
Yet they prepare their food in the summer;
26 [s]The [6]rock badgers are a feeble folk,
Yet they make their homes in the crags;
27 The locusts have no king,
Yet they all advance in ranks;
28 The [7]spider skillfully grasps with its hands,
And it is in kings' palaces.

29 There are three things which are majestic in pace,
Yes, four which are stately in walk:
30 A lion, which is mighty among beasts
And does not turn away from any;
31 A [8]greyhound,
A male goat also,
And [9]a king whose troops are with him.

■ 30:17 The eye that mocks. The contemptuous look can be as poisonous as words. Dishonor toward parents, evidence of breakdown in the most basic human relationship, deserves the ultimate curse.

ravens . . . will pick. The words portray the fate of the corpse that lies unburied, with special attention to the offending eye.

■ 30:18, 19 The four ways cannot be understood, either because they leave no traces or because they are so easily, yet mysteriously, mastered. Some suggest that the emphasis is on the fourth way, human sexual relations, of which the other three may be metaphors.

■ 30:20 eats and wipes her mouth. The expression is a metaphor for sexual intercourse (7:18; 9:17)—her adultery has become as natural to her as eating. This verse is not part of the previous saying.

■ 30:21 the earth is perturbed. The four items in vv. 22, 23 hardly seem able to produce such dire consequences in the natural order. This is likely a figure of speech for an intolerable state of affairs.

■ 30:24–28 If this saying went no farther than natural history, it would still fulfill a purpose of wisdom: the perception of order and of how things work together. Many proverbs show an interest in nature as a parable on human life (e.g., 6:6–11). The fact that wisdom is ascribed to these creatures implies some unity with human existence. The creatures are wise because they are able to surmount some serious inherent weakness, and so to survive well. These gifts of wisdom, to each according to its kind, are given by the Creator of all.

■ 30:29–31 The inclusion of a king with the animals suggests a human parallel with nature and the underlying coherence of all creation. The observation of rule and order in both animal and human society indicates that both are products of the same Creator's genius.

32 If you have been foolish in exalting yourself,
Or if you have devised evil, [t]put your hand on your mouth.
33 For as the churning of milk produces butter,
And wringing the nose produces blood,
So the forcing of wrath produces strife.

The Words of King Lemuel's Mother

31 The words of King Lemuel, the utterance which his mother taught him:

2 What, my son?
And what, son of my womb?
And what, [a]son of my vows?
3 [b]Do not give your strength to women,
Nor your ways [c]to that which destroys kings.

4 [d]It is not for kings, O Lemuel,
It is not for kings to drink wine,
Nor for princes intoxicating drink;
5 [e]Lest they drink and forget the law,
And pervert the justice of all [f]the afflicted.
6 [f]Give strong drink to him who is perishing,
And wine to those who are bitter of heart.
7 Let him drink and forget his poverty,
And remember his misery no more.

8 [g]Open your mouth for the speechless,
In the cause of all who are [2]appointed to die.
9 Open your mouth, [h]judge righteously,
And [i]plead the cause of the poor and needy.

The Virtuous Wife

10 [j]Who[3] can find a [4]virtuous wife?
For her worth is far above rubies.
11 The heart of her husband safely trusts her;
So he will have no lack of gain.
12 She does him good and not evil
All the days of her life.
13 She seeks wool and flax,
And willingly works with her hands.
14 She is like the merchant ships,

■ 30:32 put your hand on your mouth. That is, stop talking; cease your scheming and provocation.

■ 30:33 churning . . . wringing . . . forcing. Lit. "pressing . . . pressing . . . pressing." The repetition emphasizes the parallel in each situation. In this proverb we have a warning that provocation leads to strife.

■ 31:1 The words of King Lemuel, the utterance. See note on 30:1. Lemuel was not an Israelite king. The nature of this section (vv. 1–9) suggests an Egyptian or perhaps a Babylonian origin. Its intention is apparently vocational, the equipping of the ruler for his task. The form is similar to the instructions of chs. 1—9 (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes). In this case, the teaching is given by the mother (1:8; 4:1, 3). While the father may have been the principal teacher of the children, godly women also took that role (cf. 14:1 note), and there were in Israel noteworthy wise women (2 Sam. 14:2; 20:16).

■ 31:2 son of my vows. The expression may refer to a vow made in anticipation of the birth (cf. 1 Sam. 1:11).

■ 31:3 that which destroys kings. The parallel indicates that fornication is perhaps in view.

■ 31:4 not for kings to drink wine. The king's responsibilities give him no leisure to be confused by wine.

■ 31:6 Give strong drink . . . wine. While the king must avoid using strong drink as a means of escape from the concerns of high office, it may be given to those whose suffering is too much to bear.

■ 31:8, 9 The king's task is to uphold righteousness in society. In Israel, this task was viewed in the context of the covenant with the Lord (Deut. 17:14–20).

■ 31:10–31 This section is an acrostic poem extolling the virtues of a wife who exemplifies the principles of wisdom, both practically and spiritually. The sequence of virtues is governed more by the demands of the acrostic (the first word in each verse beginning with successive letters of the alphabet) than by logic. Yet the overall effect is of a coherent description of a woman beautified by her virtues of practical wisdom and charity. That the household described is well-to-do does not detract from the universal applicability of the principles of wifely wisdom.

■ 31:10 Who can find. Such a wife is not an impossible dream, but may be hard to find.

■ 31:11 no lack of gain. This state of affairs results from the wife's astuteness in household affairs.

■ 31:12 See 18:22 and notes.

■ 31:14 like the merchant ships. As vv. 16, 18 indicate, she engages in commerce.

She brings her food from afar.
15 [k]She also rises while it is yet night,
And [l]provides food for her household,
And a portion for her maidservants.
16 She considers a field and buys it;
From [5]her profits she plants a vineyard.
17 She girds herself with strength,
And strengthens her arms.
18 She perceives that her merchandise is good,
And her lamp does not go out by night.
19 She stretches out her hands to the distaff,
And her hand holds the spindle.
20 [m]She extends her hand to the poor,
Yes, she reaches out her hands to the needy.
21 She is not afraid of snow for her household,
For all her household is clothed with scarlet.
22 She makes tapestry for herself;
Her clothing is fine linen and purple.
23 [n]Her husband is known in the gates,
When he sits among the elders of the land.
24 She makes linen garments and sells them,
And supplies sashes for the merchants.
25 Strength and honor are her clothing;
She shall rejoice in time to come.
26 She opens her mouth with wisdom,
And on her tongue is the law of kindness.
27 She watches over the ways of her household,
And does not eat the bread of idleness.
28 Her children rise up and call her blessed;
Her husband also, and he praises her:
29 "Many daughters have done well,
But you excel them all."
30 Charm is deceitful and beauty is passing,
But a woman who fears the LORD, she shall be praised.
31 Give her of the fruit of her hands,
And let her own works praise her in the gates.

15 [k]Prov. 20:13; Rom. 12:11 [l]Luke 12:42
16 [5]Lit. the fruit of her hands
20 [m]Deut. 15:11; Job 31:16–20; Prov. 22:9; Rom. 12:13; Eph. 4:28; Heb. 13:16
23 [n]Prov. 12:4

■ 31:15 a portion. Either food or duties.

■ 31:16 She is able in business and reinvests her earnings.

■ 31:18 her lamp does not go out. This is either a metaphor for prosperity (13:9), or a reference to her diligence in using the hours of dark for work.

■ 31:19 distaff. The meaning is uncertain. The context indicates ability to make her own thread.

■ 31:21 scarlet. If "scarlet" is the correct reading, it probably indicates high quality cloth that is very warm.

■ 31:22 fine linen and purple. As in v. 21, high quality articles are in view.

■ 31:23 The implication is that the wife's skill and diligence in home affairs remove all concerns about them from her husband. He is free to pursue his place as a respected elder in public life. in the gates. See 1:21 and note.

■ 31:25 Strength and honor are her clothing. The words refer either to her character, or, as is more likely in view of the second fine, to the esteem earned by her economic prowess. She has no worry about the future. Both interpretations are consistent with wisdom.

■ 31:28, 29 The result of her skill and wisdom is the cementing of family relationships. The praise of husband and children is her great reward.

■ 31:30, 31 who fears the LORD. Up to this point the poem concentrates on practical wisdom. Now the basis of all true wisdom is emphasized. The Book of Proverbs ends as it begins: observation of the created order can provide some wisdom and knowledge of God (Rom. 1:20–23), but only the self-revelation of the Creator enables us to know and appreciate the God-centered meaning of reality. True wisdom is seen as the life lived in wholehearted obedience to God's revelation in His Word, which is "the fear of the LORD" (1:7 and note). This trust is the foundation and continuing path of wisdom as it brings us to final perfection in Christ.

The Book of

ECCLESIASTES

Author

To many interpreters of Ecclesiastes, the lineage (1:1), kingship in Jerusalem (1:12), unsurpassed wisdom (1:16), and unrivaled wealth (2:4–9) of the author indicate that Solomon (1 Kin. 3; 4:21–34; 10), calling himself "the Preacher" (1:12), is the author of Ecclesiastes. There is a concluding tribute to the book (12:9–14), praising Solomon's wisdom and summarizing with the central admonition to "fear God and keep His commandments" (12:13).

Some interpreters, however, believe that the type of Hebrew language used in the book, as well as the negative view of rulers suggested in it (4:13; 7:19; 8:2–4; 10:4–7), indicate that the work was written after Solomon's time and presented as a legitimate voice of the wisdom tradition that has Solomon as its most famous exponent, therefore going by his name.

It is notable that Ecclesiastes is not a summary of other wisdom teaching, but a particular statement of wisdom teaching that deepens it while adding to its broad appeal.

Date and Occasion

Those who see the book as coming from a writer later than Solomon generally date Ecclesiastes after the Jewish exile in Babylon, which occurred in the sixth century B.C. If it is assumed that Solomon was the author, the book is to be dated from the tenth century B.C.

Ecclesiastes has been understood as an apologetic work, that is, an attempt to recommend faith in God by way of answering negative arguments. As such an attempt, the book often seems to express a secular point of view, arguing that life is meaningless. In the face of such arguments the writer comes to the conclusion that faith in God is the only avenue to satisfaction in life. While the book's teaching may be used in evangelism, most Jewish and Christian interpreters have understood Ecclesiastes to be addressed to God's people, rather than to those who are ignorant of God or in rebellion against Him. The book is God's wise counsel to those who know His ways but have found them perplexing and troubling.

Characteristics and Themes

Ecclesiastes searches for an answer to the question, What is the advantage of humanity's work and wisdom? Work and wisdom comprise two main themes of the book. The word "profit" and its related words such as "more" (6:8) occurs eighteen times. Another important word, "vanity," which conveys the notion of uselessness, occurs 38 times. This key term is used in the motto that frames the book (1:2; 12:8), which in each case is accompanied by a poem related to the motto (1:3–11; 1:7—12:7). Apart from these obvious literary structures, no consensus has been reached about the book's structure. Its cross-currents of optimism and pessimism make the overall intention of the book difficult to discern. Nevertheless, the blocks of material that comprise the book mostly relate to these two themes. A helpful outline arranges these blocks into three cycles (1:3—3:8; 3:9—6:7; 6:8—12:7), each, though formulated differently, beginning with the crucial question "what is the profit?" The question is raised also at the end of both 5:16 and 6:11.

The first cycle contains three pairs of sections about work and wisdom (1:12–15 and 1:16–18; 2:1–11 and 2:12–17; 2:18–26 and 3:1–8) presenting the conclusion that although the employment of human labor and understanding provides satisfaction of accomplishment, the profit achieved by a person is canceled by death.

The second cycle (3:9—6:7) treats the theme of humanity's labor, contrasting it with God's perfect enduring works and counselling enjoyment of the simple blessings God provides in this life, even in the face of human oppression. The third cycle (6:8—12:7) elaborates the theme of human wisdom, contrasting it with the inscrutability of God's ways.

Solomon's conclusion that death makes vain all human labor and wisdom on earth ("under the sun"; 1:14, 17: 2:11, 17) does not mean that people should abandon society and culture to lead an ascetic life. Neither does the Christian priority of proclaiming the gospel for the conversion of sinners (a "labor . . . not in vain," 1 Cor. 15:58) mean Christians should abdicate their cultural responsibilities. On the contrary, Solomon commands (9:7–10) God's people to enjoy life, despite its futility, harsh realities, and uncertainties, and to work with full vigor. This practical approach to life is neither a version of Greek stoicism nor a product of human effort: it is a gift of God (3:13; 5:19) for those who fear Him and keep His commands (5:1–7; 12:13, 14). Ecclesiastes teaches both the human responsibility to obey God joyfully, and God's sovereign provision of the ability to obey.

Ecclesiastes grapples with the question of how people should live (6:12) in a world where the good Creator (3:11, 14) and just Judge (3:17) sovereignly ordains that "bad" things happen to the righteous (7:13, 14) as well as to the wicked, and not according to what they deserve (8:14; 9:1). The gift of contentment is to be exercised not only in the face of human oppression (3:22—4:3) but under the futility and death (9:7–10) that God imposed upon the human race because of sin.

Relating the book to Christ and the New Testament, we would make the following points. If the divine verdict of righteous or unrighteous is not rendered in this life, it will be given after death, at the Judgment (3:17; 12:14). Ecclesiastes teaches existence after death (9:10; 12:7), but the resurrection of the body is not mentioned; the resurrection of Christ, which guarantees the resurrection of believers to eternal life (1 Cor. 15), was still in the future.

The sphere of creation discussed in Ecclesiastes is indicated by the synonymous phrases "under the sun," "under heaven," and "on earth." Solomon's determination that everything is futile is not applied to transcendent heavenly reality; there is no contradiction between Solomon and Paul. Whatever earthly treasures are gathered by Adam's descendants will be taken away, but heavenly labors performed through the Second Adam who conquered death are never in vain (1 Cor. 15:58).

In summary, Ecclesiastes teaches how God's elect, pilgrims in this world "under the sun" (1 Pet. 1:1), but also citizens of heaven (Phil. 3:20), should live amid the profound frustrations and tensions of the present evil age (Rom. 8:18–23).

Title "Ecclesiastes" is a translation of the Hebrew word qoheleth, meaning "assembler of the covenant community" and conventionally translated "preacher." The term "Ecclesiastes" was used by the Septuagint (Greek) translation of the Bible and by the Vulgate (Latin) translation. □

The Vanity of Life

THE words of the Preacher, the son of David, [a]king in Jerusalem.

2 "Vanity[b][1] of vanities," says the Preacher;
"Vanity of vanities, [c]all is vanity."

3 [d]What profit has a man from all his labor
In which he [2]toils under the sun?
4 One generation passes away, and another generation comes;
[e]But the earth abides forever.
5 [f]The sun also rises, and the sun goes down,
And [3]hastens to the place where it arose.
6 [g]The wind goes toward the south,
And turns around to the north;
The wind whirls about continually,
And comes again on its circuit.
7 [h]All the rivers run into the sea,
Yet the sea is not full;
To the place from which the rivers come,
There they return again.
8 All things are [4]full of labor;
Man cannot express it.
[i]The eye is not satisfied with seeing,
Nor the ear filled with hearing.

9 [j]That which has been is what will be,
That which is done is what will be done,
And there is nothing new under the sun.
10 Is there anything of which it may be said,
"See, this is new"?
It has already been in ancient times before us.
11 There is [k]no remembrance of former things,
Nor will there be any remembrance of things that are to come
By those who will come after.

The Grief of Wisdom

12 I, the Preacher, was king over Israel in Jerusalem. 13 And I set my heart to seek and [l]search out by wisdom concerning all that is done under heaven; [m]this burdensome task God has given son of David. See Introduction: Author.

■ 1:1 Preacher. The Hebrew emphasizes Solomon's function as convener of the covenant community to witness and to celebrate the glory of the King of heaven that fills His earthly temple (1 Kin. 8). Solomon's words are directed to God's people, not to agnostics.

■ 1:2 Vanity. The Hebrew word means "breath" or "mist," and hence what is "insubstantial," "useless," or "futile." Human death makes the deeds and desires of people who build earthly culture ("under the sun") useless.

all. This word is qualified by the phrase "under the sun" (v. 3) and means everything people experience with their senses (v. 8).

■ 1:3–11 The phrase, "What profit has a man," provides the theme of this opening poem, focusing the reader's attention on the apparent futility of work and study. Although these offer some satisfaction in accomplishment, death seems to make them meaningless.

■ 1:3–8 Because of death, people must continuously begin cultural labors again. They are never completely satisfied with the results and are driven to repeat previous efforts.

■ 1:3 profit. The idea that life's labor is unprofitable, presented here as a rhetorical question, is stated directly in 2:11.

under the sun. This phrase is synonymous with "under heaven" and "on earth." Paul's equivalent is "this present evil age" (Gal. 1:4). The energies poured into earthly kingdoms are often of no value to the kingdom of heaven (Mark 8:36). By contrast, the work of the Lord is not in vain (John 6:27–29; 1 Cor. 15:58).

■ 1:4 passes away . . . comes. People are constantly starting over (like the sun in v. 5), while by contrast the earth (to which every person returns) abides.

■ 1:6 whirls about continually. This phrase is the focal point of the poem in 1:4–8, an image for Solomon's recurrent refrain "grasping for the wind."

■ 1:7 is not full. People's experiences commonly never fill or satisfy them, just as waters never fill the sea.

■ 1:9–11 Cultural endeavors cannot reverse the futile process of repeating what has already been done, for all die and their works are forgotten.

■ 1:12–15 Solomon's personal investigation concludes that human culture is misdirected and incomplete.

■ 1:12 king . . . in Jerusalem. See Introduction: Author.

■ 1:13 by wisdom. The endeavors of this world performed under the curse of God (Gen. 3:16–19) are futile and frustrating.

burdensome task. Human existence includes divinely imposed burdens (Gen. 3:16–19; Rom. 8:22, 23). Jesus makes them bearable (Matt. 11:28–30).

to the sons of man, by which they may be [5]exercised. [14] I have seen all the works that are done under the sun; and indeed, all is vanity and grasping for the wind.

15 [n] What is crooked cannot be made straight,
And what is lacking cannot be numbered.

[16] I communed with my heart, saying, "Look, I have attained greatness, and have gained [o]more wisdom than all who were before me in Jerusalem. My heart has [6]understood great wisdom and knowledge." [17] [p] And I set my heart to know wisdom and to know madness and folly. I perceived that this also is grasping for the wind.

18 For [q] in much wisdom is much grief,
And he who increases knowledge increases sorrow.

The Vanity of Pleasure

2 I said [a] in my heart, "Come now, I will test you with [b] mirth; [1] therefore enjoy pleasure"; but surely, [c] this also was vanity. [2] I said of laughter—"Madness!"; and of mirth, "What does it accomplish?" [3] [d] I searched in my heart how [2]to gratify my flesh with wine, while guiding my heart with wisdom, and how to lay hold on folly, till I might see what was [e] good for the sons of men to do under heaven all the days of their lives.

[4] I made my works great, I built myself [f] houses, and planted myself vineyards. [5] I made myself gardens and orchards, and I planted all kinds of fruit trees in them. [6] I made myself water pools from which to [3]water the growing trees of the grove. [7] I acquired male and female servants, and had [4]servants born in my house. Yes, I had greater possessions of herds and flocks than all who were in Jerusalem before me. [8] [g] I also gathered for myself silver and gold and the special treasures of kings and of the provinces. I acquired male and female singers, the delights of the sons of men, and [5]musical instruments of all kinds.

[9] [h] So I became great and [6]excelled [i] more than all who were before me in Jerusalem. Also my wisdom remained with me.

10 Whatever my eyes desired I did not keep from them.
I did not withhold my heart from any pleasure,
For my heart rejoiced in all my labor;
And [j] this was my [7]reward from all my labor.
11 Then I looked on all the works that my hands had done
And on the labor in which I had toiled;
And indeed all was [k] vanity and grasping for the wind.
There was no profit under the sun.

The End of the Wise and the Fool

12 Then I turned myself to consider wisdom [l] and madness and folly;
For what can the man do who succeeds the king?—
Only what he has already [m] done.
13 Then I saw that wisdom [n] excels folly
As light excels darkness.

■ 1:13, 14 under heaven . . . under the sun. See 1:3 note.

■ 1:14 I have seen all. Solomon had an accurate perspective on the present, because of God's gift (1 Kin. 3), as well as on the past, because he meditated on God's revealed Word.

■ 1:15 crooked . . . lacking. This is the result not only of human evil, but also of the divine curse (7:13; Gen. 3:16–19).

■ 1:16 wisdom. An increase in true wisdom heightens one's sensitivity to the unhappy effects of sin, not all of which are immediately visible.

all who were before me in Jerusalem. From Solomon's perspective these would refer to ancient pre-Israelite kings (Gen. 14:18; Josh. 10:1).

■ 2:1–11 The joys of earthly accomplishments are unsatisfying, for Solomon in particular (1 Kin. 4—11).

■ 2:1 pleasure. A reference to self-indulgence.

■ 2:3 while guiding my heart with wisdom. See v. 9. To determine what was good for people to do, Solomon investigated life without forgetting the protective guidance of God's word.

■ 2:4–9 great . . . excelled. The world's wealth flowed into Jerusalem for Solomon's disposition.

■ 2:10, 11 rejoiced . . . reward . . . no profit under the sun. Solomon experienced joy in doing work, but failed to achieve the satisfaction of producing anything of final heavenly value.

■ 2:12–17 The earthly advantage of wisdom over folly is canceled by death.

■ 2:12, 13 wisdom. Not secular wisdom or shrewdness, but unmatched, God-given wisdom.

1 [a]Eccl. 3:17; 8:6

2 [b]Job 14:5; Heb. 9:27 [l]Lit. to bear

4 [c]Rom. 12:15

14 [o]The wise man's eyes are in his head,
But the fool walks in darkness.
Yet I myself perceived
That [p]the same event happens to them all.

15 So I said in my heart,
"As it happens to the fool,
It also happens to me,
And why was I then more wise?"
Then I said in my heart,
"This also is vanity."

16 For there is [q]no more remembrance of the wise than of the fool forever,
Since all that now is will be forgotten in the days to come.
And how does a wise man die?
As the fool!

17 Therefore I hated life because the work that was done under the sun was distressing to me, for all is vanity and grasping for the wind.

18 Then I hated all my labor in which I had toiled under the sun, because [r]I must leave it to the man who will come after me. 19 And who knows whether he will be wise or a fool? Yet he will rule over all my labor in which I toiled and in which I have shown myself wise under the sun. This also is vanity. 20 Therefore I turned my heart and despaired of all the labor in which I had toiled under the sun. 21 For there is a man whose labor is with wisdom, knowledge, and skill; yet he must leave his [s]heritage to a man who has not labored for it. This also is vanity and a great evil. 22 [s]For what has man for all his labor, and for the striving of his heart with which he has toiled under the sun? 23 For all his days are [t]sorrowful, and his work burdensome; even in the night his heart takes no rest. This also is vanity.

24 [u]Nothing is better for a man than that he should eat and drink, and that his soul should enjoy good in his labor. This also, I saw, was from the hand of God. 25 For who can eat, or who can have enjoyment, [g]more than I? 26 For God gives [v]wisdom and knowledge and joy to a man who is good in His sight; but to the sinner He gives the work of gathering and collecting, that [w]he may give to him who is good before God. This also is vanity and grasping for the wind.

Everything Has Its Time

3 To everything there is a season,
A [a]time for every purpose under heaven:

2 A time [l]to be born,
And [b]a time to die;
A time to plant,
And a time to pluck what is planted;
3 A time to kill,
And a time to heal;
A time to break down,
And a time to build up;
4 A time to [c]weep,
And a time to laugh;
A time to mourn,
And a time to dance;

■ 2:15 more wise. Wisdom's value appears to be compromised because it cannot keep the wise any more than the fool from the abyss of death.

■ 2:17 hated. Concluding that the curse of death erases the profit of wise labor, Solomon comes to hate life in this present evil age.

■ 2:18–26 Solomon reflects on the frustrations associated with work. Death takes labor's profit from its producer. The situation is made harder to bear by not knowing whether in the future the property will be dissipated by a fool (vv. 18, 19) or given to an heir who will not appreciate it (vv. 20, 21).

■ 2:23 no rest. The ever-present, painful burdens of life undermine even the legitimate pleasures of work (v. 10) and can deprive the laborer of sleep.

■ 2:24 better. In his conclusion about what is good (v. 3) Solomon observes that the common pleasures of life and work are also from God.

■ 2:26 to a man who is good . . . sinner. However great the temporary prosperity of the wicked, it is the righteous "before God" who are at last the beneficiaries of God's blessings.

vanity. The point seems be the futility of the work of one person being transferred to another, as in vv. 20, 21.

■ 3:1 time. The truly wise know that all their "times" are in God's hand (Ps. 31:15) and that there is an appropriate time for every human activity.

5 A time to cast away stones,
And a time to gather stones;
[d]A time to embrace,
And a time to refrain from embracing;
6 A time to gain,
And a time to lose;
A time to keep,
And a time to throw away;
7 A time to tear,
And a time to sew;
[e]A time to keep silence,
And a time to [f]speak;
8 A time to love,
And a time to [g]hate;
A time of war,
And a time of peace.

The God-Given Task

9 [h]What profit has the worker from that in which he labors? 10 [i]I have seen the God-given task with which the sons of men are to be occupied. 11 He has made everything beautiful in its time. Also He has put eternity in their hearts, except that [j]no one can find out the work that God does from beginning to end.

12 I know that nothing is [k]better for them than to rejoice, and to do good in their lives, 13 and also that [l]every man should eat and drink and enjoy the good of all his labor—it is the gift of God.

14 I know that whatever God does,
It shall be forever.
[m]Nothing can be added to it,
And nothing taken from it.
God does it, that men should fear before Him.
15 [n]That which is has already been,
And what is to be has already been;
And God [2]requires an account of [3]what is past.

Injustice Seems to Prevail

16 Moreover [o]I saw under the sun:

In the place of [4]judgment,
Wickedness was there;
And in the place of righteousness,
[5]Iniquity was there.

17 I said in my heart,

[p]"God shall judge the righteous and the wicked,
For there is a time there for every [6]purpose and for every work."

18 I said in my heart, "Concerning the condition of the sons of men, God tests them, that they may see that they themselves are like animals." 19 [q]For what happens to the sons of men also happens to animals; one thing befalls them: as one dies, so dies the other. Surely, they all have one breath; man has no advantage over animals, for all is vanity. 20 All go to one place: [r]all are

19 [q]Ps. 49:12, 20; 73:22; [Eccl. 2:16]
20 [r]Gen. 3:19; Ps. 103:14

■ 3:11 eternity. This is the Hebrew term translated "forever" in v. 14 and explained in v. 11 as "from beginning to end." The heart knows that history is not meaningless, but is frustrated in its efforts to discern the pattern of events.

■ 3:12 nothing is better. The author's major application is his repeated advice (2:24–26; 3:12, 22; 5:18–20; 8:15) and command (9:7–10) to be content with what God has ordained for one's life (1 Cor. 7:20; 1 Tim. 6:8).

■ 3:14 fear. The term means to give God the honor corresponding to what He is (Ex. 34:8; Is. 6:5; Luke 5:8; Rev. 1:17).

■ 3:15–21 God the Judge is in view.

■ 3:17 the righteous and the wicked. As punishment for sin, people like animals (vv. 18–20) must die (Gen. 3:19). Nevertheless the distinction between the righteous and the wicked is not removed by death, but will be revealed at God's judgment.

time. God ordains whatever occurs on earth (vv. 1–8). He has also appointed a day for judging the deeds of all (the "day of the Lord"; Joel 3).

from the dust, and all return to dust. 21 [s]Who[7] knows the spirit of the sons of men, which goes upward, and the spirit of the animal, which goes down to the earth? 22 [t]So I perceived that nothing is better than that a man should rejoice in his own works, for [u]that is his [8]heritage. [v]For who can bring him to see what will happen after him?

4 Then I returned and considered all the [a]oppression that is done under the sun:

And look! The tears of the oppressed,
But they have no comforter—
[1]On the side of their oppressors there is power,
But they have no comforter.
2 [b]Therefore I praised the dead who were already dead,
More than the living who are still alive.
3 [c]Yet, better than both is he who has never existed,
Who has not seen the evil work that is done under the sun.

The Vanity of Selfish Toil

4 [4]Again, I saw that for all toil and every skillful work a man is envied by his neighbor. This also is vanity and grasping for the wind.

5 [d]The fool folds his hands
And consumes his own flesh.
6 [e]Better a handful with quietness
Than both hands full, together with toil and grasping for the wind.

7 Then I returned, and I saw vanity under the sun:

8 There is one alone, without [2]companion:
He has neither son nor brother.
Yet there is no end to all his labors,
Nor is his [f]eye satisfied with riches.
But [g]he never asks,
"For whom do I toil and deprive myself of [h]good?"
This also is vanity and a [3]grave misfortune.

The Value of a Friend

9 Two are better than one,
Because they have a good reward for their labor.
10 For if they fall, one will lift up his companion.
But woe to him who is alone when he falls,
For he has no one to help him up.
11 Again, if two lie down together, they will keep warm;
But how can one be warm alone?
12 Though one may be overpowered by another, two can withstand him.
And a threefold cord is not quickly broken.

Popularity Passes Away

13 Better a poor and wise youth
Than an old and foolish king who will be admonished no more.
14 For he comes out of prison to be king,
Although [4]he was born poor in his kingdom.

14 [4]The youth

■ 3:21 Who knows the spirit of the sons of men. Elsewhere Solomon observes that though the physical body returns to dust, the spirit returns to God (12:7).

■ 4:1–3 the oppressed . . . I praised the dead. Viewing the plight of the oppressed, Solomon speculates that the dead and unborn are better off.

■ 4:4–16 Envy and lack of contentment fuel the futile drive for earthly satisfaction.

■ 4:5, 6 quietness. Notwithstanding his previous dark thoughts, Solomon does conclude that sufficiency with contentment is better than need resulting from laziness (v. 5) or excess accompanied by restless toil (vv. 6, 8).

■ 4:9–12 Two. Cooperation, rather than strife rooted in envy, produces success and provides protection from the covetous.

■ 4:13–16 A characteristically discontented people does not appreciate good leaders, a thought that brings Solomon back to his theme of the apparent futility of life.

15 I saw all the living who walk under the sun;
They were with the second youth who stands in his place.
16 There was no end of all the people [5]over whom he was made king;
Yet those who come afterward will not rejoice in him.
Surely this also is vanity and grasping for the wind.

Fear God, Keep Your Vows

5 Walk [a]prudently when you go to the house of God; and draw near to hear rather [b]than to give the sacrifice of fools, for they do not know that they do evil.

2 Do not be [c]rash with your mouth,
And let not your heart utter anything hastily before God.
For God is in heaven, and you on earth;
Therefore let your words [d]be few.
3 For a dream comes through much activity,
And [e]a fool's voice is known by his many words.

4 [f]When you make a vow to God, do not delay to [g]pay it;
For He has no pleasure in fools.
Pay what you have vowed—
5 [h]Better not to vow than to vow and not pay.

6 Do not let your [i]mouth cause your flesh to sin, [j]nor say before the messenger of God that it was an error. Why should God be angry at your [l]excuse and destroy the work of your hands? 7 For in the multitude of dreams and many words there is also vanity. But [k]fear God.

The Vanity of Gain and Honor

8 If you [l]see the oppression of the poor, and the violent [2]perversion of justice and righteousness in a province, do not marvel at the matter; for [m]high official watches over high official, and higher officials are over them.
9 Moreover the profit of the land is for all; even the king is served from the field.

10 He who loves silver will not be satisfied with silver;
Nor he who loves abundance, with increase.
This also is vanity.

11 When goods increase,
They increase who eat them;
So what profit have the owners
Except to see them with their eyes?

12 The sleep of a laboring man is sweet,
Whether he eats little or much;
But the abundance of the rich will not permit him to sleep.

13 [n]There is a severe evil which I have seen under the sun:
Riches kept for their owner to his hurt.
14 But those riches perish through [3]misfortune;
When he begets a son, there is nothing in his hand.

16 [5]Lit. to all before whom he was to be

■ 5:1–7 The summary of the book (12:13) enlarges on the exhortation to fear God (v. 7), the principle here emphasized by Solomon.

■ 5:2 mouth. The thoughts of the heart are expressed in the words of the mouth. God will judge them (Matt. 12:34–37).

■ 5:4, 5 vow. A particular promise made to God (Deut. 23:21–23). See "Honest Speech, Oaths, and Vows" at Neh. 5:12.

■ 5:6 mouth. See note on v. 2.

messenger. This Hebrew word can also be translated "angel." It could refer to a priest serving in the temple (Mal. 2:7).

■ 5:8–17 Greed is responsible for many of the detrimental aspects of wealth.

■ 5:8 do not marvel. Oppression and injustice are inevitable (4:1–3).

■ 5:10–12 loves silver. Greed is insatiable and robs one of sleep; contentment provides rest (1 Tim. 6:6–10).

■ 5:13–17 Solomon ponders the tragedies of unused and lost wealth. Whatever is not lost "through misfortune" must be left behind at death. Earthly labor appears to be in vain.

15 [o]As he came from his mother's womb, naked shall he return,
To go as he came;
And he shall take nothing from his labor
Which he may carry away in his hand.

16 And this also is a severe evil—
Just exactly as he came, so shall he go.
And [p]what profit has he [q]who has labored for the wind?
17 All his days [r]he also eats in darkness,
And he has much sorrow and sickness and anger.

18 Here is what I have seen: [s]It is good and fitting for one to eat and drink, and to enjoy the good of all his labor in which he toils under the sun all the days of his life which God gives him; [t]for it is his [4]heritage. 19 As for [u]every man to whom God has given riches and wealth, and given him power to eat of it, to receive his [5]heritage and rejoice in his labor—this is the [v]gift of God. 20 For he will not dwell unduly on the days of his life, because God keeps him busy with the joy of his heart.

6 There[a] is an evil which I have seen under the sun, and it is common among men: 2 A man to whom God has given riches and wealth and honor, [b]so that he lacks nothing for himself of all he desires; [c]yet God does not give him power to eat of it, but a foreigner consumes it. This is vanity, and it is an evil [1]affliction.

3 If a man begets a hundred children and lives many years, so that the days of his years are many, but his soul is not satisfied with goodness, or [d]indeed he has no burial, I say that [e]a [2]stillborn child is better than he— 4 for it comes in vanity and departs in darkness, and its name is covered with darkness. 5 Though it has not seen the sun or known anything, this has more rest than that man, 6 even if he lives a thousand years twice—but has not seen goodness. Do not all go to one [f]place?

7 [g]All the labor of man is for his mouth,
And yet the soul is not satisfied.
8 For what more has the wise man than the fool?
What does the poor man have,
Who knows how to walk before the living?
9 Better is [3]the [h]sight of the eyes than the wandering of [4]desire.
This also is vanity and grasping for the wind.

10 Whatever one is, he has been named [i]already,
For it is known that he is man;
[j]And he cannot contend with Him who is mightier than he.
11 Since there are many things that increase vanity,
How is man the better?

12 For who knows what is good for man in life, [5]all the days of his [6]vain life which he passes like [k]a shadow? [l]Who can tell a man what will happen after him under the sun?

The Value of Practical Wisdom

7 A [a]good name is better than precious ointment,

CHAPTER 7

1 [a]Prov. 22:1 [b]Eccl. 4:2

■ 5:18—6:7 God sovereignly distributes wealth.

■ 5:18 good. God intends that people should enjoy the benefits of their work as a due reward of their labor.

■ 5:19 gift of God. The ability to enjoy earthly labor comes not from stoic human strength, but from God-given grace, granted to rich and poor (v. 12) alike.

■ 6:2 God. Riches and poverty, as well as the ability or inability to enjoy one's resources, are decreed by God.

power to eat. This involves control over the management of wealth, not merely pleasure derived from spending it.

■ 6:3 his soul is not satisfied with goodness. To be discontented with God's abundant provision is a great tragedy.

■ 6:6 one place. The case of those who live long in discontent is more pathetic than that of a stillborn child. The stillborn, at least, does not spend long years in the self-inflicted misery of ingratitude.

■ 6:7 soul is not satisfied. Again, earthly labor by itself does not fill the emptiness of the soul (1:8).

■ 6:8 What does the poor man have. Those, though poor, who know how to live effectively in the world avoid the discontentment of wandering, unsatisfied desires.

■ 6:10 named . . . known. God identifies every person as a sinner (7:20).

contend. No one, apart from Christ, has a defense against God.

■ 7:1 day of death. For the godly, death is "far better" (Phil. 1:23) because they are with Christ.

2 Better to go to the house of mourning
Than to go to the house of feasting,
For that is the end of all men;
And the living will take it to [c]heart.
3 [1]Sorrow is better than laughter,
[d]For by a sad countenance the heart is made [2]better.
4 The heart of the wise is in the house of mourning,
But the heart of fools is in the house of mirth.

5 [e]It is better to [3]hear the rebuke of the wise
Than for a man to hear the song of fools.
6 [f]For like the [4]crackling of thorns under a pot,
So is the laughter of the fool.
This also is vanity.
7 Surely oppression destroys a wise man's reason,
[g]And a bribe [5]debases the heart.

8 The end of a thing is better than its beginning;
[h]The patient in spirit is better than the proud in spirit.
9 [i]Do not hasten in your spirit to be angry,
For anger rests in the bosom of fools.
10 Do not say,
"Why were the former days better than these?"
For you do not inquire wisely concerning this.

11 Wisdom is good with an inheritance,
And profitable [j]to those who see the sun.
12 For wisdom is [6]a [k]defense as money is a defense,
But the [7]excellence of knowledge is that wisdom gives [l]life to those who have it.

13 Consider the work of God;
For [m]who can make straight what He has made crooked?
14 [n]In the day of prosperity be joyful,
But in the day of adversity consider:
Surely God has appointed the one [8]as well as the other,
So that man can find out nothing that will come after him.

15 I have seen everything in my days of vanity:

[o]There is a just man who perishes in his righteousness,
And there is a wicked man who prolongs life in his wickedness.

16 [p]Do not be overly righteous,
[q]Nor be overly wise:
Why should you destroy yourself?
17 Do not be overly wicked,
Nor be foolish:
[r]Why should you die before your time?

■ 7:2, 4 house of mourning. A funeral provides an indispensable perspective on the universally terminal condition.

■ 7:7 oppression . . . a bribe. These common experiences may threaten to destabilize an otherwise good spiritual condition (4:1–3).

■ 7:9 anger rests. If unquenched, the anger ignited by life's frustrations leads to folly.

■ 7:11, 12 Wisdom . . . gives life. True wisdom gives benefits in this life (contrast 8:8) and that to come. Christ is the redemptive wisdom of God (1 Cor. 1:30), making wisdom accessible to sinners.

■ 7:13–18 Both human illusions of perfection in this life and the abandonment of oneself to wickedness have God for an adversary.

■ 7:13 who can make straight. God's decrees cannot be reversed. The curse of Gen. 3 will not be annulled until the consummation.

■ 7:14 prosperity . . . adversity. God decrees the one as the other.

man can find out nothing. The future is unknown.

■ 7:15 just . . . wicked. The question implied by this observation is formulated in Jer. 12:1 ("Why does the way of the wicked prosper?") and handled at more length in Ps. 37 and 73.

■ 7:16, 17 Do not be overly righteous . . . overly wicked. Pride can masquerade as righteousness, even in small things; on the other hand, there is an impulse to lawlessness that goes beyond everyday standards of life.

4 [e]1 Sam. 13:11, 13; Job 34:18

18 It is good that you grasp this,
And also not remove your hand from the other;
For he who [s]fears God will [g]escape them all.

19 [f]Wisdom strengthens the wise
More than ten rulers of the city.

20 [u]For there is not a just man on earth who does good
And does not sin.

21 Also do not take to heart everything people say,
Lest you hear your servant cursing you.
22 For many times, also, your own heart has known
That even you have cursed others.

23 All this I have [l]proved by wisdom.
[v]I said, "I will be wise";
But it was far from me.
24 [w]As for that which is far off and [x]exceedingly deep,
Who can find it out?
25 [y]I applied my heart to know,
To search and seek out wisdom and the reason of things,
To know the wickedness of folly,
Even of foolishness and madness.
26 [z]And I find more bitter than death
The woman whose heart is snares and nets,
Whose hands are fetters.
[2]He who pleases God shall escape from her,
But the sinner shall be trapped by her.

27 "Here is what I have found," says [a]the Preacher,
"Adding one thing to the other to find out the reason,
28 Which my soul still seeks but I cannot find:
[b]One man among a thousand I have found,
But a woman among all these I have not found.
29 Truly, this only I have found:
[c]That God made man upright,
But [d]they have sought out many schemes."

8 Who is like a wise man?
And who knows the interpretation of a thing?
[a]A man's wisdom makes his face shine,
And [b]the [l]sternness of his face is changed.

Obey Authorities for God's Sake

[2]I say, "Keep the king's commandment [c]for the sake of your oath to God. [3][d]Do not be hasty to go from his presence. Do not take your stand for an evil thing, for he does whatever pleases him."

4 Where the word of a king is, there is power;
And [e]who may say to him, "What are you doing?"
5 He who keeps his command will experience nothing harmful;

- 7:18 this . . . the other. Right knowledge of God delivers those who possess it from destructive excesses of self-righteousness and wickedness.
- 7:19 strengthens the wise. Wisdom is powerful and encouraging.
- 7:20 not a just man. All are guilty before God (Ps. 14:3; 53:3).
- 7:22 many times. We are all multiple offenders in God's sight.
- 7:24 Who can find it out. No one can fully comprehend God's understanding; it is qualitatively different from human knowledge (8:16, 17; 1 Cor. 2:11).
- 7:29 made man upright. God created Adam morally good (Gen. 1:31), but all sin (Rom. 3:23; 5:12). See "The Fall" at Gen. 3:6.
- 8:5, 6 time and judgment. The truly wise seek and commonly find the proper time for every action (3:1–8).

And a wise man's heart [2]discerns both time and judgment,
6 Because [f]for every matter there is a time and judgment,
Though the misery of man [3]increases greatly.
7 [g]For he does not know what will happen;
So who can tell him when it will occur?
8 [h]No one has power over the spirit to retain the spirit,
And no one has power in the day of death.
There is [i]no release from that war,
And wickedness will not deliver those who are given to it.

9 All this I have seen, and applied my heart to every work that is done under the sun: There is a time in which one man rules over another to his own hurt.

Death Comes to All

10 Then I saw the wicked buried, who had come and gone from the place of holiness, and they were [j]forgotten[4] in the city where they had so done. This also is vanity. 11 [k]Because the sentence against an evil work is not executed speedily, therefore the heart of the sons of men is fully set in them to do evil. 12 [l]Though a sinner does evil a hundred times, and his days are prolonged, yet I surely know that [m]it will be well with those who fear God, who fear before Him. 13 But it will not be well with the wicked; nor will he prolong his days, which are as a shadow, because he does not fear before God.

14 There is a vanity which occurs on earth, that there are just men to whom it [n]happens according to the work of the wicked; again, there are wicked men to whom it happens according to the work of the [o]righteous. I said that this also is vanity.

15 [p]So I commended enjoyment, because a man has nothing better under the sun than to eat, drink, and be merry; for this will remain with him in his labor all the days of his life which God gives him under the sun.

16 When I applied my heart to know wisdom and to see the business that is done on earth, even though one sees no sleep day or night, 17 then I saw all the work of God, that [q]a man cannot find out the work that is done under the sun. For though a man labors to discover it, yet he will not find it; moreover, though a wise man attempts to know it, he will not be able to find it.

9 For I [1]considered all this in my heart, so that I could declare it all: [a]that the righteous and the wise and their works are in the hand of God. People know neither love nor hatred by anything they see before them. 2 [b]All things come alike to all:

One event happens to the righteous and the wicked;
To the [2]good, the clean, and the unclean;
To him who sacrifices and him who does not sacrifice.
As is the good, so is the sinner;
He who takes an oath as he who fears an oath.

3 This is an evil in all that is done under the sun: that one thing happens to all. Truly the hearts of the sons of men are full of evil; madness is in their hearts while they live, and after that they go to the dead. 4 But for him who is joined to all the living there is hope, for a living dog is better than a dead lion.

5 For the living know that they will die;
But [c]the dead know nothing,
And they have no more reward,

■ 8:8 power. We cannot control death or evil, but Christ has this power (John 10:18; Rev. 1:18).

■ 8:9 to his own hurt. Probably this means to hurt the one ruled. Solomon has seen how the irresponsible use of God-given authority injures people (Rom. 13:3, 4).

■ 8:10–13 Though inequities abound in human societies, as experienced in civil disorders of our own time, God will nevertheless settle all accounts justly.

■ 8:14 on earth. In this life the righteous and wicked do not necessarily get what they deserve.

■ 8:15 commended. In the face of injustice, people are nevertheless to rejoice in this life. Solomon's mode of expression is pessimistic, but in the immediate context he mentions that life is the gift of God.

■ 8:17 all the work of God. See 7:13; 11:5.

1 [1]Lit. Flies of death [2]Tg., Vg. omit putrefy
3 [q]Prov. 13:16; 18:2

For [d]the memory of them is forgotten.
6 Also their love, their hatred, and their envy have now perished;
Nevermore will they have a share
In anything done under the sun.

7 Go, [e]eat your bread with joy,
And drink your wine with a merry heart;
For God has already accepted your works.
8 Let your garments always be white,
And let your head lack no oil.

9 [3]Live joyfully with the wife whom you love all the days of your vain life which He has given you under the sun, all your days of vanity; [f]for that is your portion in life, and in the labor which you perform under the sun.
10 [g]Whatever your hand finds to do, do it with your [h]might; for there is no work or device or knowledge or wisdom in the grave where you are going.
11 I returned [i]and saw under the sun that—

The race is not to the swift,
Nor the battle to the strong,
Nor bread to the wise,
Nor riches to men of understanding,
Nor favor to men of skill;
But time and [j]chance happen to them all.
12 For [k]man also does not know his time:
Like fish taken in a cruel net,
Like birds caught in a snare,
So the sons of men are [l]snared in an evil time,
When it falls suddenly upon them.

Wisdom Superior to Folly

13 This wisdom I have also seen under the sun, and it seemed great to me: 14 [m]There was a little city with few men in it; and a great king came against it, besieged it, and built great [4]snares around it. 15 Now there was found in it a poor wise man, and he by his wisdom delivered the city. Yet no one remembered that same poor man.
16 Then I said:

"Wisdom is better than [n]strength.
Nevertheless [o]the poor man's wisdom is despised,
And his words are not heard.
17 Words of the wise, spoken quietly, should be heard
Rather than the shout of a ruler of fools.
18 Wisdom is better than weapons of war;
But [p]one sinner destroys much good."

10 Dead [1]flies [2]putrefy the perfumer's ointment,
And cause it to give off a foul odor;
So does a little folly to one respected for wisdom and honor.
2 A wise man's heart is at his right hand,
But a fool's heart at his left.
3 Even when a fool walks along the way,
He lacks wisdom,
[a]And he shows everyone that he is a fool.

■ 9:10 with your might. Like v. 4, this verse emphasizes the necessity of dealing with life as we find it.

■ 9:11, 12 chance. Solomon describes people as victims of inscrutable or even "cruel" chance. Nevertheless, the believer understands that God orders events in unexpected ways.

■ 9:16 despised. Solomon sees that wisdom is indeed better than might—but that the wise are not appreciated.

■ 10:2 right . . . left. These had the conventional meanings of good and bad, or blessing and cursing, in the ancient world.

4 If the spirit of the ruler rises against you,
[b]Do not leave your post;
For [c]conciliation[3] pacifies great offenses.

5 There is an evil I have seen under the sun,
As an error proceeding from the ruler:
6 [d]Folly is set in [4]great dignity,
While the rich sit in a lowly place.
7 I have seen servants [e]on horses,
While princes walk on the ground like servants.

8 [f]He who digs a pit will fall into it,
And whoever breaks through a wall will be bitten by a serpent.
9 He who quarries stones may be hurt by them,
And he who splits wood may be endangered by it.
10 If the ax is dull,
And one does not sharpen the edge,
Then he must use more strength;
But wisdom [5]brings success.

11 A serpent may bite [g]when it is not charmed;
The [6]babbler is no different.
12 [h]The words of a wise man's mouth are gracious,
But [i]the lips of a fool shall swallow him up;
13 The words of his mouth begin with foolishness,
And the end of his talk is raving madness.
14 [j]A fool also multiplies words.
No man knows what is to be;
Who can tell him [k]what will be after him?
15 The labor of fools wearies them,
For they do not even know how to go to the city!

16 [l]Woe to you, O land, when your king is a child,
And your princes feast in the morning!
17 Blessed are you, O land, when your king is the son of nobles,
And your [m]princes feast at the proper time—
For strength and not for drunkenness!
18 Because of laziness the [7]building decays,
And [n]through idleness of hands the house leaks.
19 A feast is made for laughter,
And [o]wine makes merry;
But money answers everything.

20 [p]Do not curse the king, even in your thought;
Do not curse the rich, even in your bedroom;
For a bird of the air may carry your voice,
And a bird in flight may tell the matter.

■ 10:5 error. Rulers often govern inappropriately.

■ 10:10 sharpen the edge. Overcome the obstacles to effective work by being properly prepared with the wisdom or skill needed for the task.

■ 10:12–14 words. Words reveal a person's heart, and what is spoken can have serious consequences (Matt. 12:34–37).

■ 10:19 everything. This can mean that money is needed for both food and wine, or that money provides life's needs (compare 7:12).

■ 10:20 bird. A figure of speech meaning a spy or an informer.

■ 11:1 bread upon the waters. Possibly a reference to Solomon's grain trade by sea.

■ 11:2 seven . . . eight. An admonition to spread the risks you take (v. 6).

They empty themselves upon the earth;
And if a tree falls to the south or the north,
In the place where the tree falls, there it shall lie.

CHAPTER 12

1 [a]2 Chr. 34:3; Prov. 22:6; Lam. 3:27 [b]2 Sam. 19:35 [1]Lit. evil

■ 11:3, 4 clouds. Do not use uncertainty as an excuse for laziness.

■ 11:5 works of God. Here again is an affirmation of God's incomprehensible, secret counsel (8:17 note).

■ 11:6 do not know. See note on v. 2.

■ 11:7—12:7 Natural, youthful life is to be governed with discretion, because this present life will be followed by a certain meeting with God (12:8).

■ 11:8 rejoices . . . remember. The joys of present life should be held loosely, in the awareness that such joy is temporary.

■ 11:9 judgment. Solomon does not encourage mindless self-indulgence, but gives a sober warning that God will bring everything into judgment (Matt. 12:36).

■ 12:1 difficult days. If pleasure is unrestrained in youth, both pleasure and the Creator will be unknown in later years.

■ 12:2–7 Solomon comments on aging and death, using the extended metaphor of a house that is falling down. He contrasts the deterioration of the house with the permanence of nature. It is best to take the metaphors here for their overall effect, rather than speculate on the meaning of each individual figure. As the following notes indicate, some associations are clearer than others.

■ 12:3 keepers of the house. The phrases here probably refer to parts of the body as members of a household.

And the sound of grinding is low;
When one rises up at the sound of a bird,
And all [c]the daughters of music are brought low.
5 Also they are afraid of height,
And of terrors in the way;
When the almond tree blossoms,
The grasshopper is a burden,
And desire fails.
For man goes to [d]his eternal home,
And [e]the mourners go about the streets.

6 Remember your Creator before the silver cord is [2]loosed,
Or the golden bowl is broken,
Or the pitcher shattered at the fountain,
Or the wheel broken at the well.
7 [f]Then the dust will return to the earth as it was,
[g]And the spirit will return to God [h]who gave it.

The Whole Duty of Man

9 And moreover, because the Preacher was wise, he still taught the people knowledge; yes, he pondered and sought out and [j]set[3] in order many proverbs. 10 The Preacher sought to find [4]acceptable words; and what was written was upright—words of truth. 11 The words of the wise are like goads, and the words of [5]scholars are like well-driven nails, given by one Shepherd. 12 And further, my son, be admonished by these. Of making many books there is no end, and [k]much study is wearisome to the flesh.

13 Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter:

■ 12:5 the almond tree blossoms. Their white color is associated with the hair of the aged.

eternal home. The words refer not just to the grave, but to the presence of one's Creator and Judge (v. 7).

■ 12:6 golden bowl. These words describe a lamp broken in the fall caused by a break in a silver chain. Broken vessels and severed cords suggest the frailty that comes with aging.

■ 12:7 spirit will return. Human existence continues beyond death.

■ 12:8 Vanity. A final reiteration of the Preacher's refrain.

■ 12:9–14 The book concludes with a tribute to Solomon's wisdom, providing the keys to interpreting the book.

■ 12:11 given by one Shepherd. The words of Ecclesiastes are God-breathed (2 Tim. 3:16).

■ 12:13 conclusion. Loyal submission to the rule of God is the central and summary admonition of wisdom literature (5:7; Job 28:28; Prov. 1:7; 9:10).

The Way of Wisdom (12:14)

Without reverence for God "all is vanity":

Godless learning →	cynicism (1:7, 8)
Godless greatness →	sorrow (1:16–18)
Godless pleasure →	disappointment (2:1, 2)
Godless labor →	hatred of life (2:17)
Godless philosophy →	emptiness (3:1–9)
Godless eternity →	unfulfillment (3:11)
Godless life →	depression (4:2, 3)
Godless religion →	dread (5:4–7)
Godless wealth →	trouble (5:12)
Godless existence →	frustration (6:12)
Godless wisdom →	despair (11:1–8)

The beginning of wisdom is the fear of God, a deeply serious attitude toward the commands of God.

GODLY FEAR → FULFILLMENT (12:13, 14)

13 [l][Deut. 6:2; 10:12]
14 [m]Matt. 12:36

[l]Fear God and keep His commandments,
For this is man's all.
14 For [m]God will bring every work into judgment,
Including every secret thing,
Whether good or evil.

■ 12:14 judgment. God's judgment of thoughts and deeds is a dominant theme that emerges throughout the book (3:17; 8:12, 13; 11:9; 2 Cor. 5:10).

The SONG OF SOLOMON

Author

According to the title, the Song belongs to Solomon. The Hebrew phrase "which is Solomon's" (1:1) can be translated "by" Solomon (as its author), or "for" Solomon (as the person to whom it is dedicated). The traditional view among Jews and Christians is that Solomon was the author (cf. 1 Kin. 4:32).

Date and Occasion

If the Song was written by Solomon, it would have been composed in the mid-tenth century B.C. Dedication of the Song to Solomon might also favor this date, as do certain other features of the book (cf. 6:4 note).

Many interpreters, both Jewish and Christian, have regarded the Song as an allegory of God's love for Israel or the Church. The association of the book with Solomon, however, points us in the direction of the wisdom literature of the Old Testament. Wisdom literature is distinguished, among other things, by its focus on the common sphere of human relationships. The Book of Proverbs uses language similar to that of the Song of Solomon in talking about marital love (Prov. 5:15–19), the subject of the Song. This love must finally be seen in the context of the even greater love of God that the Bible as a whole reveals. The beauty and worth of sexual love is affirmed at the beginning of the Bible, where the difference and relationship of the sexes is associated with the creation of humanity in God's image (Gen. 1:27; cf. 2:19–25). If sexual love were evil in itself, it would be inappropriate as an allegory of Christ's love for His church.

The Song of Solomon reveals three qualities of love between a man and a woman: self-giving, desire, and commitment. In all these ways love reflects the greater love of God our Creator. God delights in us and gives Himself to us. God desires us wholly for Himself. God feels deeply both the pain and pleasure of His relationship with us. Although it is not proper to attribute sexuality to God, there is an analogy between the love we experience in marriage and the love that God has for us. The Old Testament prophets compare the love of God for His people to the love of a bridegroom for the bride (e.g., Jer. 2:2; Hos. 2:14–20). Christian marriage, according to Paul, should be modeled on the most perfect expression of such love, the self-giving love of Christ for His church and its willing response (Eph. 5:22, 33). The climax of the Song of Solomon is the praise of vehement and faithful love (8:6, 7).

The Song of Solomon shows us love outside Eden, not free from sorrow, but still beautiful and a reflection of God's own love for us. It looks back to the gift of love in creation, and forward to the perfection of love in One greater than Solomon, the Lord Jesus Christ.

Characteristics and Themes

The Song is written in verse, as love poetry. The lines are short and rhythmical, the language rich in imagery and highly sensual. The poem deals more with emotions than with rational ideas, requiring a special sensitivity in the reader. It is irrelevant, for example, whether the woman who is described in 6:9 is really "perfect" in any way that could be proven. The word is an expression of her beloved's deep affection for her, and that is all that the images are intended to be. The Song is a rhapsody of love: an outpouring of the words and feelings of people who are experiencing human, sexual love with all its pains and pleasures. It is a book for those who want to know, or to remember, what it is like to be in love.

Although not a formal drama, there are nevertheless exchanges between the characters within the poem. It is possible to identify the characters who speak certain lines based on clues provided by the gender, number, and person of the Hebrew verbs and pronouns, even though interpreters do not always agree on the precise divisions and identifications. The speakers have been identified by capitalized headings inserted in the translation (no such headings appear in the Hebrew text). The most important characters are "the Shulamite" (6:13), a young country girl; "the beloved," her shepherd lover (1:7; 6:3); and "the daughters of Jerusalem," who function much like the chorus in a drama (2:7). There are numerous minor figures—Solomon himself is mentioned (1:5; 3:7, 9, 11; 8:11, 12), as are the mothers of the young lovers (6:9; 8:5), her brothers (cf. 8:8, 9), their friends (5:1), and the city watchmen (3:3; 5:7).

The presence of these characters has led many commentators to propose that the book is about a relationship between the girl and the shepherd, with Solomon as an intruder. But it is hard to see how Solomon could appear so unfavorably in a book that was either written by him or dedicated to him. It has proved difficult to identify a clear story line of the interactions between these three characters, or even to decide which words are Solomon's and which the shepherd's. Because of such problems, many writers have argued that the book is an anthology of love poems with common themes rather than a unified work. But such a division of the book into separate poems is unhelpful and unnecessary.

The poem is perhaps best understood as expressing the depth of love between the Shulamite girl and her beloved shepherd in the language of romantic fantasy. She envisions him as a dashing king, the prince of her dreams. In this interpretation Solomon is the archetypal lover, not an intruder. Yet he is not presented as one who must be envied. The Song shows us a world in which a country girl and a shepherd can be as happy and fulfilled as a king on his throne (8:11, 12).

A refrain is found at three points in the Song (2:7; 3:5; 8:4), addressed to the "daughters of Jerusalem." Its essence is: "Do not try to force the situation. Let love take its natural course and its own time." This refrain creates movement and suspense. The lovers experience separation, hostility, and interference, but the refrain anticipates that the relationship is nevertheless moving forward. There is a sense of fulfillment at the end of the book, when the lovers, together at last and at ease in public, walk arm-in-arm to the home of the parents, the place where their relationship began (8:5). The following two verses praise the excellence of love (8:6, 7). This is the climax of the Song, but not quite the end. It concludes by quietly echoing some of the key elements of the work (8:8–14).

Between the expressions of longing at the beginning and the consummation at the end, there is what seems to be a dream sequence in chs. 3—6 (3:1; 5:2). In this section the girl dreams about her wedding and the lovemaking that will follow. There is everything that we might expect here: erotic reveries, nightmares, fears of losing her lover, and romantic experiences that transform him into a prince. In her dreams, the girl's wedding becomes a splendid, royal occasion, and the lover is identified with Solomon himself.

Despite the romantic images and fantasies in this book, there is realism in it. The author knows about erotic desire, meddling relatives, and the struggle to establish a relationship in the face of separation and hostility. He understands that we no longer live in the Garden of Eden, but in a fallen world, where love, too, has its pain. But there remains also idealism. The overwhelming impression that the book leaves with the reader is that love is beautiful, and can provide deep satisfaction and contentment.

Title The title has been translated "The Song of Solomon," "Song of Songs," and "Canticles" (from the Latin word for "song"). The word "song" in the title is the common Hebrew word for a happy song, with no special religious connotation. The whole phrase "song of songs" is a superlative expression meaning "the greatest song," announcing that the book is a single song of outstanding quality. □

THE [a]song of songs, which is Solomon's.

The Banquet

THE [1]SHULAMITE

2 Let him kiss me with the kisses of his mouth—
[b]For [2]your love is better than wine.
3 Because of the fragrance of your good ointments,
Your name is ointment poured forth;
Therefore the virgins love you.
4 [c]Draw me away!

THE DAUGHTERS OF JERUSALEM

[d]We will run after [3]you.

THE SHULAMITE

The king [e]has brought me into his chambers.

THE DAUGHTERS OF JERUSALEM

We will be glad and rejoice in [4]you.

We will remember [3]your love more than wine.

THE SHULAMITE

Rightly do they love [3]you.

5 I am dark, but lovely,
O daughters of Jerusalem,

CHAPTER 1

1 [a]1 Kin. 4:32

2 [b]Song 4:10 [1]A Palestinian young woman, Song 6:13. The speaker and audience are identified according to the number, gender, and person of the Hebrew words. Occasionally the identity is not certain. [2]Masc. sing.: the Beloved

4 [c]Hos. 11:4; John 6:44; 12:32 [d]Phil. 3:12–14 [e]Ps. 45:14, 15; John 14:2; Eph. 2:6 [3]Masc. sing.: the Beloved [4]Fem. sing.: the Shulamite

■ 1:1 See Introduction: Author; Title.

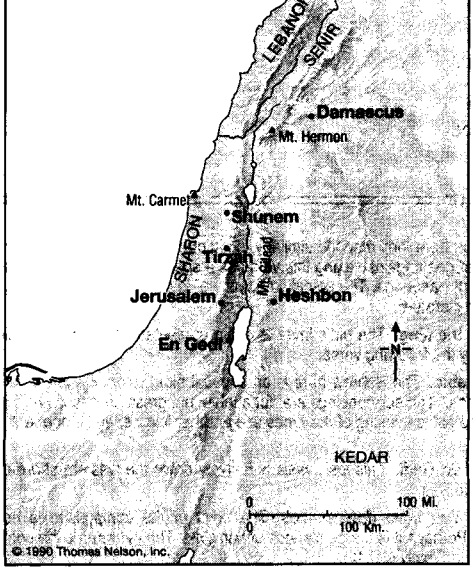
■ 1:2–4 Third person expressions in 1:2 and 1:4 ("Let him kiss me . . . The king has brought me") open and close the paragraph, which is otherwise in the second person ("your love . . . Your name"). The girl oscillates between thinking about her absent lover and addressing him as though he were present.

■ 1:4 The king has brought me. This is the first of five occurrences of the word "king" (1:4, 12; 3:9, 11; 7:5). Here in v. 4 there are two possibilities: either the king is Solomon, who has tried unsuccessfully to win the girl's affections, or he is her lover, whom she romantically fantasizes as her king. The latter interpretation is to be preferred (see Introduction: Characteristics and Themes). The paragraph ends, as it began, with the girl referring to her absent lover in the third person (vv. 2–4 note).

We will be glad and rejoice in you. The "daughters of Jerusalem" (v. 5) agree with the girl that the love of her lover is better than wine (v. 2).

■ 1:5, 6 The girl responds to criticism of her complexion (v. 5, "I am dark") by the daughters of Jerusalem (5:10–16 note). She is deeply tanned because her brothers have made her work in the vineyards, and consequently she has not been able to care properly for her "own vineyard" (her body, v. 6).

tents of Kedar. The Bedouin tribes living on the edge of the deserts east of Israel made their tents of dark goat hair.



Places Named in Song of Solomon. From the peaks of Lebanon to the streets of Jerusalem (Song 4:8; 6:4), the love story in the Song of Solomon takes place in a variety of settings. The lovers speak of, and to, each other with several word pictures, including "the rose of Sharon" (Song 2:1), "the lily of the valleys" (Song 2:1), and "the vineyards of En Gedi" (Song 1:14).

Like the tents of Kedar,
Like the curtains of Solomon.

6 Do not look upon me, because I am dark,
Because the sun has [5]tanned me.
My mother's sons were angry with me;
They made me the keeper of the vineyards,
But my own [f]vineyard I have not kept.

(TO HER BELOVED)

7 Tell me, O you whom I love,
Where you feed your flock,
Where you make it rest at noon.
For why should I be as one who [6]veils herself
By the flocks of your companions?

THE BELOVED

8 If you do not know, [g]O fairest among women,
[7]Follow in the footsteps of the flock,
And feed your little goats
Beside the shepherds' tents.

9 I have compared you, [h]my love,
[i]To my filly among Pharaoh's chariots.

10 [j]Your cheeks are lovely with ornaments,
Your neck with chains of gold.

THE DAUGHTERS OF JERUSALEM

11 We will make [8]you ornaments of gold
With studs of silver.

THE SHULAMITE

12 While the king is at his table,
My [9]spikenard sends forth its fragrance.

13 A bundle of myrrh is my beloved to me,
That lies all night between my breasts.

14 My beloved is to me a cluster of henna blooms
In the vineyards of En Gedi.

THE BELOVED

15 [k]Behold, you are fair, [l]my love!
Behold, you are fair!
You have dove's eyes.

THE SHULAMITE

16 Behold, you are [l]handsome, my beloved!
Yes, pleasant!

12 [9]perfume

15 [k]Song 4:1; 5:12 [l]my companion, friend

16 [l]Song 5:10–16

■ 1:7 as one who veils herself. The word "veils" has the same negative connotations here as it does in Gen. 38:14, 15. The girl does not want to be mistaken for a prostitute.

■ 1:8 fairest among women. Elsewhere in the Song this form of address is used only by the "daughters of Jerusalem" (5:9; 6:1) If the speakers here are the same "daughters of Jerusalem" whose critical stares were referred to in v. 6, their attitude seems to have changed. More likely, however, their words here are sarcastic (5:8, 9).

■ 1:9 my filly among Pharaoh's chariots. Solomon began his reign by making a marriage alliance with Pharaoh (1 Kin. 3:1). He also traded in horses from Egypt (1 Kin. 10:28), and Pharaoh's chariots with their twin stallions would be well-known and much admired in Israel. What is envisaged here would have been exceptional: a bejewelled mare among the stallions, causing wonder and excitement.

■ 1:11 We. In v. 4 the "daughters of Jerusalem" echo the girl's praise of her lover; here they respond similarly to his praise of her. The plural subject "we" goes against taking this verse as a speech of the girl's lover using courtly language. The so-called "royal we" is not used in ancient Near Eastern literature.

■ 1:12 the king. The girl's lover is again presented as a king, as indicated by the following verse.

at his table. The Hebrew here is an unusual expression, lit. "in his surroundings." The surroundings are not a table, but grass and trees (vv. 16, 17). The girl is thinking of the times she and her lover spend alone in the woods.

■ 1:14 En Gedi. This lush oasis is halfway down the western shore of the Dead Sea.

■ 1:15 You have dove's eyes. The point of the comparison is not stated. Perhaps it is the gentleness of her gaze. The girl returns the compliment indirectly in 5:12.

Also our [2]bed is green.
17 The beams of our houses are cedar,
And our rafters of fir.

2 I am the rose of Sharon,
And the lily of the valleys.

THE BELOVED

2 Like a lily among thorns,
So is my love among the daughters.

THE SHULAMITE

3 Like an apple tree among the trees of the woods,
So is my beloved among the sons.
I sat down in his shade with great delight,
And [a]his fruit was sweet to my taste.

THE SHULAMITE TO THE DAUGHTERS OF JERUSALEM

4 He brought me to the [1]banqueting house,
And his banner over me was love.
5 Sustain me with cakes of raisins,
Refresh me with apples,
For I am lovesick.

6 [b]His left hand is under my head,
And his right hand embraces me.
7 [c]I [2]charge you, O daughters of Jerusalem,
By the gazelles or by the does of the field,
Do not stir up nor awaken love
Until it pleases.

The Beloved's Request

THE SHULAMITE

8 The voice of my beloved!
Behold, he comes
Leaping upon the mountains,
Skipping upon the hills.
9 [d]My beloved is like a gazelle or a young stag.
Behold, he stands behind our wall;
He is looking through the windows,
Gazing through the lattice.

10 My beloved spoke, and said to me:
"Rise up, my love, my fair one,
And come away.

6 [b]Song 8:3

7 [c]Song 3:5; 8:4 [2]adjure

9 [d]Prov. 6:5; Song 2:17

■ 2:1 rose. The Hebrew indicates a plant of the bulb family, like a crocus or daffodil.

Sharon. This plain extends south from Mount Carmel along the Mediterranean coast. In this verse the girl modestly compares herself to some familiar wildflowers.

■ 2:4 banqueting house. Lit. "house of wine." The setting is outdoors (1:12 note). The lovers' "house" to this point has been the forest (1:16, 17). Now they move to a different "house," namely, the young man's vineyard, his "house" of wine. The expression continues the royal imagery of 1:4, 12 (the shepherd is a king), and the comparison of love and wine in 1:2.

his banner. Banners commonly adorned royal banquet halls, but this banquet hall, or "house of wine," is different. It has only one banner, love, and that is also the only "wine" that will be consumed at the banquet.

■ 2:5 raisins . . . apples. Raisins or "raisin cakes" are associated elsewhere in the Old Testament with religious rites, sometimes even in a pagan context (2 Sam. 6:19; Hos. 3:1). This has led some commentators to suppose that the Song of Solomon originated as the script of a pagan fertility rite involving ritual sex (cf. Hos. 4:11–14). But the lovemaking in the Song has no obvious religious dimension. The raisins here, like the apples, are simple aphrodisiacs. The girl calls for raisins and apples to renew her strength.

■ 2:7 For comments on this refrain, which occurs also at 3:5 and 8:4, see Introduction: Characteristics and Themes. Here the refrain is a reminder that the lovemaking so far has been imagined rather than actual, despite the vivid language.

■ 2:8–17 The image of the shepherd-lover as a gazelle or a young stag on the hills introduces and concludes this section, another imagined rendezvous between the two lovers. After her brief address to the daughters of Jerusalem in v. 7, the girl has returned to her musings.

11 For lo, the winter is past,
The rain is over and gone.
12 The flowers appear on the earth;
The time of singing has come,
And the voice of the turtledove
Is heard in our land.
13 The fig tree puts forth her green figs,
And the vines with the tender grapes
Give a good smell.
Rise up, my love, my fair one,
And come away!

14 "O my [e]dove, in the clefts of the rock,
In the secret places of the cliff,
Let me see your [3]face,
[f]Let me hear your voice;
For your voice is sweet,
And your face is lovely."

HER BROTHERS

The little foxes that spoil the vines,
For our vines have tender grapes.

Turn, my beloved,
And be [j]like a gazelle
Or a young stag
Upon the mountains of [4]Bether.

CHAPTER 3

1 [a]Is. 26:9

■ 2:14 Let me see your face. The switch to the feminine form of the possessive pronoun "your" suggests that this verse and the following one should be assigned to the shepherd, "the beloved."

■ 2:15 The little foxes that spoil the vines. The foxes are the one negative element in the otherwise ideal spring setting of vv. 10–15. The imperative with no specific subject is like a passive ("May the foxes be caught"), and the whole verse is a wish by the lovers that nothing should be allowed to interfere with their lovemaking.

■ 2:16 He feeds his flock among the lilies. In view of the context, this is most likely a metaphor for lovemaking. See note on v. 15 and 6:2.

■ 2:17 Until the day breaks And the shadows flee away. Traditionally, these lines have been taken with what follows, but they may make better sense if read with v. 16. The lovers have been together through the night, and when day breaks they must part. The young man's return to the hills marks the end of the unit that opened in v. 8 (see 2:8–17 note).

■ 3:1 By night on my bed. The girl is not yet with her lover, but alone on her bed, imagining various encounters with him. A more explicit indication that she is dreaming is given in 5:2. It is not clear where the dream begins or ends, but it is certainly a major feature of the book (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes).

■ 3:2–4 This search for her lover either follows the girl's night of dreaming, or is itself one of her dreams. The presence of watchmen patrolling the city streets indicates that it is night, and that this is probably a dream. The parallel in 5:2–8 is a dream (5:2). Both dreams have a nightmarish quality, the one in ch. 5 more obviously than this one (see especially 5:7).

3 [b]The watchmen who go about the city found me;
I said,
"Have you seen the one I love?"

4 Scarcely had I passed by them,
When I found the one I love.
I held him and would not let him go,
Until I had brought him to the [c]house of my mother,
And into the [1]chamber of her who conceived me.

5 [d]I [2]charge you, O daughters of Jerusalem,
By the gazelles or by the does of the field,
Do not stir up nor awaken love
Until it pleases.

The Coming of Solomon

THE SHULAMITE

6 [e]Who is this coming out of the wilderness
Like pillars of smoke,
Perfumed with myrrh and frankincense,
With all the merchant's fragrant powders?
7 Behold, it is Solomon's couch,
With sixty valiant men around it,
Of the valiant of Israel.
8 They all hold swords,
Being expert in war.
Every man has his sword on his thigh
Because of fear in the night.

9 Of the wood of Lebanon
Solomon the King
Made himself a [3]palanquin:
10 He made its pillars of silver,
Its support of gold,
Its seat of purple,
Its interior paved with love
By the daughters of Jerusalem.
11 Go forth, O daughters of Zion,
And see King Solomon with the crown
With which his mother crowned him
On the day of his wedding,
The day of the gladness of his heart.

4 [c]Song 8:2 [1]room
5 [d]Song 2:7; 8:4 [2]adjure
6 [e]Song 8:5
9 [3]A portable enclosed chair

■ 3:4 house of my mother. This is presumably where the unmarried girl lies sleeping (v. 1). In her dream she brings her beloved home.

■ 3:5 This second occurrence of the refrain confirms that the lovemaking at this stage is imagined rather than real. The consummation remains future (2:7 note).

■ 3:6–11 Placed as it is between the two indications that the girl is at home in bed (3:1; 5:2), this wedding scene is best taken as part of her dreaming. Nightmare gives way to fantasy. She dreams of her wedding day, transformed into a royal occasion, with her lover as a king, the magnificent Solomon. It is not the first time she has pictured her lover as a king (1:4, 12; 2:4).

■ 3:8 Because of fear in the night. Solomon's men would form a bodyguard for protection from marauders, especially as weddings were celebrated at nightfall. But the verse has a double reference. There is also the "night" introduced in 3:1, which was spoiled by the girl's own "fear in the night." These fears are banished, at least for a time, by the splendid vision of Solomon with his fighting men (vv. 2–4 note).

■ 3:11 Zion. An alternative name for Jerusalem (e.g., Is. 40:9).

the crown. This is not the king's crown, but the sort of crown worn by brides and grooms at Jewish weddings. The custom was abandoned by the Jews in their sorrow caused by the tragic war with Rome and the loss of Jerusalem (A.D. 70). A rabbinic proverb states that "a bridegroom resembles a king."

his mother. The family structure reflected in the Song appears to be matriarchal (1:6; 3:4; 6:9; 8:1, 2, 5). There is no reference to a father, and within the relationship between the lovers there appears to be mutuality. But there are nonetheless elements of male dominance in the Song, notably the roles played by the girl's brothers (1:6; 8:8, 9) and the watchmen (5:7).

the day of his wedding. The real Solomon had many weddings (1 Kin. 11:3). The one day in view here is a romantic ideal (vv. 6–11 note).

THE BELOVED

4 Behold, [a]you are fair, my love!
Behold, you are fair!
You have dove's eyes behind your veil.
Your hair is like a [b]flock of goats,
Going down from Mount Gilead.
2 [c]Your teeth are like a flock of shorn sheep
Which have come up from the washing,
Every one of which bears twins,
And none is [1]barren among them.
3 Your lips are like a strand of scarlet,
And your mouth is lovely.
[d]Your temples behind your veil
Are like a piece of pomegranate.
4 [e]Your neck is like the tower of David,
Built [f]for an armory,
On which hang a thousand [2]bucklers,
All shields of mighty men.
5 [g]Your two breasts are like two fawns,
Twins of a gazelle,
Which feed among the lilies.

6 [h]Until the day breaks
And the shadows flee away,
I will go my way to the mountain of myrrh
And to the hill of frankincense.

7 [i]You are all fair, my love,
And there is no spot in you.
8 Come with me from Lebanon, my spouse,
With me from Lebanon.
Look from the top of Amana,
From the top of Senir [j]and Hermon,
From the lions' dens,
From the mountains of the leopards.

9 You have ravished my heart,
My sister, my spouse;
You have ravished my heart
With one look of your eyes,
With one link of your necklace.
10 How fair is your love,
My sister, my spouse!
[k]How much better than wine is your love,
And the [3]scent of your perfumes
Than all spices!
11 Your lips, O my spouse,
Drip as the honeycomb;

■ 4:1—5:1 In this single unit the man praises the Shulamite (4:1–15); she responds with an invitation (4:16); and he accepts (5:1).

■ 4:1 Mount Gilead. A high plateau east of the Jordan River.

■ 4:4 the tower of David. The location of this tower is unknown. It is not the present-day tower of David just inside the Jaffa gate of Jerusalem, since that tower is no older than the time of Herod the Great. The girl's neck is adorned with jewelry as the famous tower was adorned with shields.

■ 4:6 Until the day breaks. The time when the lovers must part is approaching (2:17 note).

the mountain of myrrh . . . the hill of frankincense. Frankincense, like myrrh, was an imported aromatic spice (cf. Matt. 2:11). Despite the exotic language, the reference is probably to the local hill country, fragrant with spring blossoms (cf. 1:13–17).

■ 4:8 Lebanon . . . Amana . . . Senir . . . Hermon. All these sites are in the remote north of Palestine. We are not meant to think of the girl as living on the summit of Mount Hermon. Rather, the place names are symbols of the inaccessibility that the wooing is meant to overcome.

my spouse. The word is not used literally, but as a term of affection, in anticipation of marriage.

■ 4:9 My sister. In ancient Near Eastern languages "sister" is commonly used by lovers as a term of endearment. It expresses a closeness between persons who are not members of the same family.

■ 4:10 better than wine. The compliment of 1:2 is returned.

[l]Honey and milk are under your tongue;
And the fragrance of your garments
Is [m]like the fragrance of Lebanon.

12 A garden [k]enclosed
Is my sister, my spouse,
A spring shut up,
A fountain sealed.
13 Your plants are an orchard of pomegranates
With pleasant fruits,
Fragrant henna with spikenard,
14 Spikenard and saffron,
Calamus and cinnamon,
With all trees of frankincense,
Myrrh and aloes,
With all the chief spices—
15 A fountain of gardens,
A well of [n]living waters,
And streams from Lebanon.

spring . . . fountain. Her beloved longs for her as a thirsty traveller longs for refreshing water (Prov. 5:15–20).

■ 4:13, 14 Your plants. The image of the enclosed garden is further developed (v. 12 note). "Plants" alludes to the anticipated delights of lovemaking.

■ 4:15 A well of living waters. This image expresses how the young man would like his lover to be: no longer a sealed fountain (v. 12 and note). There is an implicit invitation to sexual surrender.

■ 4:16 Let my beloved come to his garden. The girl unlocks the "garden" of her virginity to her beloved (v. 12 note).

■ 5:1 I have come to my garden. The lover accepts his beloved's invitation.

my sister, my spouse. The girl's inaccessibility has finally been overcome (4:8 note).

Eat . . . Drink . . . O beloved ones. The speakers are not specified, but they echo the language used by the shepherd in the previous two lines ("I have eaten . . . I have drunk"). Eating and drinking are often figurative for lovemaking. The girl dreams of the time when her relationship with her beloved will not only be consummated, but have the approval of family and friends.

8 I charge you, O daughters of Jerusalem,

THE DAUGHTERS OF JERUSALEM

9 What is your beloved
More than another beloved,
[h]O fairest among women?
What is your beloved
More than another beloved,
That you so [6]charge us?

THE SHULAMITE

10 My beloved is white and ruddy,
[7]Chief among ten thousand.
11 His head is like the finest gold;
His locks are wavy,
And black as a raven.
12 [i]His eyes are like doves
By the rivers of waters,
Washed with milk,
And [8]fitly set.
13 His cheeks are like a bed of spices,
Banks of scented herbs.
His lips are lilies,
Dripping liquid myrrh.

■ 5:5 liquid myrrh. Myrrh in its virgin, liquid state, exactly as it flows from the tree, was a rare and precious substance (cf. Ex. 30:23). It is not clear from the Hebrew whether the girl has applied it liberally to herself before going to the door, or whether her disappointed lover has left it on the door latch as a token of his love. The repetition of the exact expression in v. 13 marginally favors the latter.

■ 5:6 my beloved had turned away. At this point the dream becomes a nightmare as the girl's fears rise up to confront her. First is the fear of losing her lover.

■ 5:7 struck me . . . wounded me . . . Took my veil away. The nightmare continues, as the girl now dreams of being attacked (v. 6 note). The bride-to-be both longs for and fears love, and the dream combines these longings and fears.

■ 5:10–16 In response to an implied devaluation of her beloved by the daughters of Jerusalem (v. 9), the girl praises him in elaborate terms. The situation parallels 1:5, 6, where the girl responds to an implied criticism of her own complexion by the same group of women.

■ 5:12 His eyes are like doves. The compliment of 1:15 and 4:1 is returned (1:15 note). The contrast with "locks . . . black as a raven" in the previous line is striking. Her description suggests that her beloved displays both strength and gentleness.

Washed with milk. This image probably refers to the whites of the eyes. The description of the eyes in this verse is an example of mixed metaphor.

■ 5:13 Dripping liquid myrrh. Lit. "dripping flowing myrrh." See note on v. 5.

14 His hands are rods of gold
Set with beryl.
His body is carved ivory
Inlaid with sapphires.
15 His legs are pillars of marble

Excellent as the cedars.
16 His mouth is most sweet,
Yes, he is altogether lovely.
This is my beloved,
And this is my friend,
O daughters of Jerusalem!

THE DAUGHTERS OF JERUSALEM

Where has your beloved turned aside,
That we may seek him with you?

■ 5:14 beryl. The exact stone referred to cannot be determined. In Ex. 28:20 the same type of stone is set in gold on the breast piece worn by the high priest.

■ 5:16 my beloved . . . my friend. The relationship between man and woman in the Song is broader than lovemaking, although that is central to it. It involves companionship as well.

■ 6:1 seek him. The girl's spirited praise of her lover seems to have convinced the daughters of Jerusalem that he is worth looking for (cf. 5:9). But whether they want to find him for their friend's sake or for their own is not clear.

■ 6:2, 3 The language of these two verses is taken from two earlier passages dealing with imagined encounters between the girl and her beloved, 5:1 and 2:16. Most likely because she suspects their motives (v. 1 note), the girl has in effect rejected the offer of the daughters of Jerusalem to help her search for her beloved, and has returned to musing about her times of intimacy with him.

■ 6:4 Tirzah. This city six miles northeast of Shechem in central Palestine is in a setting of great natural beauty. It was the capital of the breakaway northern kingdom for approximately fifty years following Solomon's death. It continued to be a place of political intrigue until it was destroyed in the seventh century B.C. (1 Kin. 14:17; 15:21; 16:8–18; 2 Kin. 15:14–16). The positive reference to Tirzah here, particularly in parallel with Jerusalem, supports the traditional view that the Song originated in the time of Solomon, before hostility between the northern and southern tribes led to the division into two separate kingdoms.

Expressions of Praise

THE BELOVED

7 How beautiful are your feet in sandals,
[a]O prince's daughter!
The curves of your thighs are like jewels,

■ 6:8, 9 The two references to queens and concubines indicate that vv. 8 and 9 belong together. In her beloved's eyes the girl is more beautiful than all the women of Solomon's harem (8:11, 12 and notes).

■ 6:8 sixty . . . eighty. At its peak Solomon's harem contained many more wives and concubines than this (1 Kin. 11:13), and there is already a suggestion of its future growth in the expression "virgins without number."

concubines. A concubine was not an illicit or casual partner, but a wife of secondary status (Gen. 25:6; 36:12; Judg. 20:4).

■ 6:9 My dove, my perfect one. In her dreams the girl's mind returns again and again to her beloved's terms of endearment (5:2).

The only one of her mother. The close relationship between the daughter and her mother is apparent throughout the book (3:11 note), but there is no sign of possessiveness on the mother's part.

■ 6:10 Who is she. It is the girl who is praised here, probably by the queens and concubines (v. 9).

morning . . . moon . . . sun. The girl is described almost as a goddess.

Awesome as an army with banners. The phrase is an exact repetition of the last line of v. 4. The praise given here echoes that of the girl's beloved, and rounds off the unit (vv. 4–10).

■ 6:12 The Hebrew of this verse is difficult. At the least the verse indicates that the girl is still dreaming or daydreaming that she is a princess and her beloved is a prince or king. See note on 3:6–11.

■ 6:13 Return. The speakers are male, as indicated by the response of the girl here: "what would you (masculine plural) see . . . ?" They are possibly the watchmen of 5:7 from whom she has presumably fled. This identification would explain the suggestions of lust in their call. If so, she is still dreaming. A nightmarish quality returns briefly in this verse, only to be dispelled by the timely appearance of the girl's beloved.

Shulamite. The designation probably refers to the girl's hometown, as a variant spelling of "Shunammite" (1 Kin. 1:3, 15; 2:17–22).

two camps. See text note. Mahanaim is the name of a town east of the Jordan River (Gen. 32:2). The nature of the "dance of the two camps" is unknown, but the words "look" and "see" suggest that the girl's honor would have been compromised by performing it, causing her beloved to intervene as he does.

■ 7:1 prince's daughter. "Prince" here is the same word translated as "noble" in 6:12. There the girl imagined herself to be a princess; here she imagines her beloved addressing her as such. In everyday life she is a country maiden (1:5, 6).

And the hair of your head is like purple;
A king is held captive by your tresses.

6 How fair and how pleasant you are,
O love, with your delights!
7 This stature of yours is like a palm tree,
And your breasts like its clusters.
8 I said, "I will go up to the palm tree,
I will take hold of its branches."
Let now your breasts be like clusters of the vine,
The fragrance of your [2]breath like apples,
9 And the roof of your mouth like the best wine.

THE SHULAMITE

The wine goes down smoothly for my beloved,
[3]Moving gently the [4]lips of sleepers.
10 [d]I am my beloved's,
And [e]his desire is toward me.

11 Come, my beloved,
Let us go forth to the field;
Let us lodge in the villages.
12 Let us get up early to the vineyards;
Let us [f]see if the vine has budded,
Whether the grape blossoms are open,
And the pomegranates are in bloom.
There I will give you my love.
13 The [g]mandrakes give off a fragrance,
And at our gates [h]are pleasant fruits,
All manner, new and old,
Which I have laid up for you, my beloved.

gate of Bath Rabbim. Bath Rabbim ("daughter of many") is probably the name of the gate, possibly one of the gates of Heshbon.

tower of Lebanon. The identity of this tower is not known. The great height suggested by "looks toward" or over Damascus has led some to take it as referring to the Lebanon mountains (cf. v. 5).

■ 7:5 like Mount Carmel. Lit. "like Carmel." There are two places with this name in the Old Testament. One is in the relatively arid south, in the hills west of the Dead Sea (1 Sam. 15:12). The other is the famous mountain where Elijah confronted the prophets of Baal (1 Kin. 18), in the lush north. This is probably the one used here as a favorable comparison. Mount Carmel is on the Mediterranean coast, due west of the Sea of Chinnereth (Galilee).

A king. The man fancies himself a king, enchanted by the beauty of his princess (v. 1; cf. 1:4, 12; 6:12).

■ 7:8 I will go up . . . take hold. These are images of lovemaking (v. 7; cf. 5:1).

■ 7:9–13 Here as in 4:16 the woman responds to her beloved's wooing with happy surrender.

■ 7:13 mandrakes. This plant has purple flowers and an orange, tomato-like fruit, and was believed to be an aphrodisiac (Gen. 30:14–16).

our gates. The imagined meeting place of the lovers is outdoors (v. 12); "at our gates" simply means "ready at hand." Note the figurative use of "house" in 1:17.

Love Renewed in Lebanon

A RELATIVE

5 [e]Who is this coming up from the wilderness,
Leaning upon her beloved?

I awakened you under the apple tree.
There your mother brought you forth;
There she who bore you brought you forth.

THE SHULAMITE TO HER BELOVED

6 [f]Set me as a seal upon your heart,
As a seal upon your arm;
For love is as strong as death,
[g]Jealousy as [1]cruel as [2]the grave;
Its flames are flames of fire,
[3]A most vehement flame.

7 Many waters cannot quench love,
Nor can the floods drown it.
[h]If a man would give for love
All the wealth of his house,
It would be utterly despised.

■ 8:1 like my brother. The key word here is "like." She does not, of course, wish that her lover were actually her brother, but only that she had the freedom to kiss him in public and to go with him anywhere without attracting comment.

■ 8:2 house of my mother. See note on 3:4.

She who used to instruct me. The Hebrew can also mean "you (the man) would teach me," and the context seems to require this translation. The man would lead the woman in the art of lovemaking.

■ 8:3 This verse is identical to 2:6. In both cases the girl is dreaming of being in her beloved's embrace.

■ 8:4 Occurring for the third and last time, the refrain points to the consummation that is yet to be (2:7; 3:5; Introduction: Characteristics and Themes).

■ 8:5 Who is this coming up from the wilderness. This clause is an exact repetition of 3:6, where it introduces the wedding segment of the girl's dream (3:6–11 note). Now the dream has given way to reality. The happy pair, married at last, no longer have to conceal their relationship, but can walk in public arm in arm (contrast v. 1 and note).

Leaning upon her beloved. This simple statement captures an intimate and typical pose of man and woman.

I awakened you. That is, "began to woo you." The Hebrew text itself does not make clear whether it is the girl or her beloved who speaks here and in the next three lines. Tradition, as indicated by the vowel marks added later, makes the girl the speaker. The content of the lines suggests that it is the man who is speaking, at least to the end of v. 5. Either way, the passage indicates that the consummation has been reached, and the lovers reminisce about how it all began.

There. Presumably this does not refer to "apple tree" but to her parent's home that they are now approaching. The girl had dreamed about bringing her beloved home (3:4; 8:2); now she does so.

■ 8:6 seal. This "seal" is a signet made of metal or stone and worn on a necklace over the heart or on an arm band (Gen. 38:18).

strong as death. Love is as strong as the most powerful, negative human experience. This phrase marks the beginning of a short "hymn to love" spoken by the bride.

Jealousy. In parallel with "love" here, "jealousy" is positive zeal, like the jealousy of God (Ex. 20:5; John 2:17). Like God's love, the love being celebrated tolerates no rivals.

vehement flame. Lit. "the flame of Yah," where "Yah" is a shortened form of the divine name Yahweh. The use of the expression confirms that there is an implicit comparison with divine love.

THE SHULAMITE'S BROTHERS

8 [i]We have a little sister,
And she has no breasts.
What shall we do for our sister
In the day when she is spoken for?
9 If she is a wall,
We will build upon her
A battlement of silver;
And if she is a door,
We will enclose her
With boards of cedar.

THE SHULAMITE

10 I am a wall,
And my breasts like towers;
Then I became in his eyes
As one who found peace.
11 Solomon had a vineyard at Baal Hamon;
[j]He leased the vineyard to keepers;
Everyone was to bring for its fruit
A thousand silver coins.

(TO SOLOMON)

12 My own vineyard is before me.
You, O Solomon, may have a thousand,
And those who tend its fruit two hundred.

THE BELOVED

13 You who dwell in the gardens,
The companions listen for your voice—
[k]Let me hear it!

And [m]be like a gazelle
Or a young stag
On the mountains of spices.

■ 8:8–10 The climax of the Song has been reached and passed (see Introduction: Characteristics and Themes), but there is still room for a few memories. In this unit, the woman remembers how possessive and protective her brothers were when she was too young to marry (1:6).

■ 8:8 spoken for. That is, asked for as a prospective bride.

■ 8:9 If she is a wall. That is, if she is firm in her refusal of the marriage proposal. The brothers' response to this answer will be to "build upon her a battlement of silver"; that is, they will confirm her refusal and honor her for it.

if she is a door. That is, if she accepts the proposal. Then the brothers will "enclose her with boards of cedar"; that is, they will refuse her permission to marry.

■ 8:10 I am a wall, And my breasts like towers. The girl affirms the strength of her moral integrity, but also her sexual maturity (contrast v. 8).

peace. Complete well-being, the Hebrew shalom. By implication, the Song points to the marriage relationship as the place where such fulfillment is to be found.

■ 8:11 a vineyard at Baal Hamon. Some interpreters have regarded this "vineyard" as a metaphor for Solomon's harem, but the designation of a specific place suggests otherwise. The location of Baal Hamon is unknown.

for its fruit. The keepers would bring what came in from selling the fruit.

■ 8:12 The expression "My own vineyard" suggests that this verse is spoken by the woman. Here as in 1:8 the literal use of "vineyard" is followed by a metaphorical use. The girl's "vineyard" is her body, with its natural, rustic beauty. She is content with this treasure to share with the one she loves. Solomon can keep his wealth.

■ 8:13 companions. Probably these are wedding guests.

Let me hear it. The bridegroom is eager to be alone with his bride.

■ 8:14 Make haste, my beloved. The desire is mutual. She invites him to come with her in language reminiscent of the lovemaking of her dreams (2:8, 9; 4:6).

Introduction to the

PROPHETS

The idea of prophecy is introduced in the Old Testament by the relationship between Moses and Aaron. Since Moses declined to speak on his own, Aaron was appointed by God to serve as Moses' "spokesman" (Ex. 4:12–16); Aaron would act as Moses' "mouth" to speak for him. Aaron's role is later described as being Moses' "prophet" (Ex. 7:1, 2). Likewise, the prophet of God is one who transmits the words of God. While God is not unable to speak—as the burning bush, the bringing of the Law, and the still small voice heard by Elijah show—His choice is to speak His words to His people through the voice of human beings, who are His agents of revelation.

According to Heb. 1:1, the revelation of the Old Testament period was given in "various ways." The phenomena of Old Testament prophecy illustrate this point. There are visions, trances, enigmatic actions, inner compulsion, signs, and wonders. It is difficult to summarize these aspects of an institution that covered many times and situations, although it should be observed that the message of prophecy is in the words of the prophets, and their actions can hardly be interpreted on their own. Old Testament prophecy is not dark or chaotic, and does not lead people into selfish, occult, and self-destructive paths. As God's voice, the prophets exhorted, threatened, and encouraged the public. To the continual sin of the human heart they opposed the contrary word of God.

The history of Old Testament prophecy is generally divided into three main periods. The prophets who ministered during the early years of the monarchy in Israel and Judah are known to us only from what is recorded about them in the historical books. Such important prophets in Israel's history as Samuel, Nathan, Elijah, and Elisha belong to this "preclassical" period of Israelite prophecy. Since they did not write down their prophecies in separate books, these prophets are often better remembered for what they did than for what they said. The "classical" period of Israelite prophecy in the eighth and seventh centuries B.C. saw the first collections of written oracles. The prophets during this period appear to cluster around two great crises: the fall of Israel to the Assyrians (Amos and Hosea in Israel, Isaiah and Micah in Judah), and the fall of Judah to the Babylonians (Zephaniah, Nahum, Habakkuk, and Jeremiah). Finally, the "exilic and postexilic" prophets spoke God's word to the people during the dark years of the Babylonian exile (Ezekiel and Daniel) and the period of Judah's restoration in Palestine (Haggai, Zechariah, and Malachi).

The content of the Protestant canon of Scripture indicates that the prophetic ministry as the precursor of the kingdom of God fell into silence between Malachi and John the Baptist. Malachi predicted that the Messiah would be preceded by a reappearance of Elijah (Mal. 4:5, 6). Elijah was not reincarnated, but his authority was heard again in John the Baptist. The character and message of John the Baptist form a kind of summary description of his prophetic predecessors. John was a person separated from society, but whose message could compel them to listen. He appeared before kings and suffered persecution from them. His message called people to change their ways and return to God. He predicted the coming and the greatness of Jesus Christ. In all these ways he resembles the Old Testament prophets.

Just as John the Baptist had disciples (Luke 7:19; John 1:35–37; cf. Acts 19:1–5), so the Old Testament prophets were assisted by servants (1 Kin. 19:19–21; 2 Kin. 5:20) and accompanied by prophetic guilds known as "the sons of the prophets" (2 Kin. 2:3–7, 15; 4:38; 6:1–3; cf. 1 Sam. 10:10–12). Based on the evidence of Baruch's relationship with Jeremiah (Jer. 36:4, 14–18, 32), it seems that these prophetic guilds played an important part in writing down the oracles delivered by the prophets and preserving the books that bear their names. A noticeable feature of the prophetic books is that they often bring short passages together whose only connection is that they came from the same prophet. There is little narrative or connective writing, and the original historical reference may be impossible to recover.

The prophetic books were originally written on separate scrolls, long before the production of long books in one physical unit was possible. Not surprisingly, then, the order of the prophetic books in the finished canon of Scripture shows some variation. The Old Testament received by the Protestant churches is identical in content with the Hebrew Bible, despite the differences in the order of the books. In general, like the New Testament books, the order of the prophetic books is a compromise of overlapping considerations of length, date, and authorship. Isaiah, Jeremiah, and Ezekiel, self-evidently "major prophets," are arranged chronologically at the head of the collection. The relatively short books of the twelve "minor prophets" (counted together as one book in the Hebrew Bible) then follow in roughly chronological order. In the Hebrew Bible, Lamentations and Daniel (the last of the "major prophets" in the Protestant canon) are included in "the Writings," with Job, Psalms, and other books, notably Ezra and Nehemiah, which deal with the same period of history.

The words of the prophets are the message of God to the people of God. Although they contain a wide range of subjects and styles, there are some recurrent themes that are useful to review.

1. The figure of marriage often occurs, as the Lord impresses on His people the closeness of His relationship with them and its foundation in His solemn commitment to them (Ezek. 16:8–14; Hos. 2:14–20).

2. The covenant lawsuit (Hebrew rib) is a form in which God brings against the people the complaint that they have broken their covenant with Him (Hos. 12:3; Mic. 6:1–3). The features of a courtroom, such as witnesses and a formal accusation, identify this form. Often the prophets indicted the rich, the powerful, and the religious elite for oppressing the poor. The prophets criticized the nation as a whole with the charge that there was no "knowledge of God in the land" (Hos. 4:1). The people knew about God, but they had not maintained a faithful and trusting relationship with Him.

3. The oracles against the nations are speeches denouncing the enemies of God's people and condemning anyone who commits the sins described (Jer. 46—51; Ezek. 25—32). Israel is not always held up as more righteous than its neighbors.

4. The moral teaching of the prophets includes decisive pronouncements that defy the will of sinners. The prophets condemn dishonesty, cruelty, pride, and sensuality. They denounce false religion, but also the distortion of true religion, especially any ritual that conceals an empty heart.

5. The tension between true and false prophecy can emerge in conflicts between God's prophets and either the prophets of false gods (the prophets of Baal, 1 Kin. 18:22) or prophets who claim falsely to speak in God's name (Hananiah, Jer. 28). The proof that a prophet comes from God and is not an impostor follows from the prophetic commission to transmit the divine word (Deut. 18:20–22). The prophecies must be true, including prophecies that foretell future events. The life of a prophet must be agreeable to God's word. Finally, the prophet's message must be consistent with the character and teaching of God.

6. Many prophecies refer to the Messiah. In the course of His life on earth, Jesus fulfilled numerous predictions. Together these prophecies are a persuasive witness to the unique status of Jesus, the focus of the prophetic word. The New Testament says that "the testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy" (Rev. 19:10), and that "all the promises of God" are "Yes" and "Amen" in Him (2 Cor. 1:20).

The prophets often write in poetry. This, together with their reference to historical situations long past, can make translating and interpreting their words extremely difficult. Consequently, it is necessary to give particular attention to the original context of the prophecy to provide the right foundation for hearing its enduring message. The prophets brought instruction and rebuke to people at all levels of society, denouncing every kind of sin. Religiously, they are "ethical monotheists"; socially, they are the unquenchable conscience of the just; spiritually, they are the precursors of the kingdom of God, announcing Jesus Christ to the world.

The distinctive ministry of the Old Testament prophets ended with the coming of Jesus as the last and greatest Prophet, as He Himself suggests (Luke 7:24–28). All the prophets before Him pointed to Him; when He was present, the future orientation of prophecy had to undergo a permanent change. At the Day of Pentecost, all the Lord's people received the Spirit (Acts 2:17; cf. Num. 11:29), and the gift of prophecy continued with the "prophets" of the early church (Acts 21:10, 11; Rom. 12:6; 1 Tim. 4:14; Rev. 1:3). Their new authority and inspiration should be distinguished from that of the Old Testament prophets.

The ministry of the Word was committed to the apostles, and then to the church founded on their testimony. The gospel is no longer proclaimed in the "various ways" that characterized the Old Testament prophets (Heb. 1:1). Yet the prophets of ancient Israel are the common property of the church of all ages, and after the passing of centuries, continue to be God's voice to His people. □

ISAIAH

Author Isaiah was an aristocrat by birth, well-educated, and by calling a preacher of God's oracles. He was God's appointed instrument in Jerusalem.

Isaiah was married, and two of his children are named in the book: Shear-Jashub and Maher-Shalal-Hash-Baz (7:3; 8:3). According to tradition, Isaiah was martyred by being sawn in two (cf. Heb. 11:37).

Date and Occasion Isaiah ministered for a period of more than forty years, from 740 until after 701 B.C. The opening sentence of Isaiah names the kings who ruled in Judah during that time: Uzziah (died 740 B.C.), Jotham (750–731 B.C.), Ahaz (735–715 B.C.), and Hezekiah (729–686 B.C.). It was an era of great political turmoil due to Assyrian imperialism.

In Jotham's reign there was a war between Judah and the united kingdoms of Israel and Syria (the Syro-Ephraimite crisis of 734–732 B.C.; Isaiah 7—9). In this war Ahaz, the King of Judah, was opposed by a coalition of forces from Pekah, King of Israel, and Rezin, King of Aram or Syria. Ahaz responded with fear and unbelief. He refused God's sign (7:10) and tried to find a political solution.

During the reign of Hezekiah, Judah and several other nations fought against Assyria under Sennacherib (705–681 B.C.). Sennacherib's response was to devastate the countryside of Judah and lay siege to Jerusalem itself. But unlike Ahaz, Hezekiah trusted in the Lord. He poured out his burden before God in prayer and trusted God's word through Isaiah (37:14–35).

During the second half of the eighth century the prophet railed against the leaders for their hypocrisy (1:10–15), greed (5:8), self-indulgence (5:11), and cynicism (5:19). With these sins they were bringing the nation to moral ruin. God raised up Isaiah to announce their fate (6:11–13). As Isaiah predicted, Israel was exiled in 722 B.C., and Hezekiah barely escaped the Assyrian destruction (36:1—37:37).

The exile of Israel in Babylon is the context of Isaiah's ministry of encouragement to the afflicted. In a brilliant series of wide-ranging, yet specific prophecies, Isaiah predicts the fall of pagan Babylon (46:1—47:15) and the salvation of Israel's remnant. He names Cyrus, the Persian, as God's anointed agent to restore the remnant to the land more than a century before he came to power (44:24—45:13). He urges the remnant to flee from Babylon (48:20, 21). He challenges the people to renew their loyalty to the Lord when they return to the land (56:1–8) and to avoid falling back into acts of treachery (57:3–13).

Beyond this immediate salvation Isaiah predicted the coming of a Servant and Savior much greater than Cyrus. This anonymous Servant would bring justice to the nations (42:1–4), establish Israel in a new covenant with the Lord (42:5–7), become a light to the Gentiles (49:1–7), and take away the sins of His people (52:13—53:12). The Servant would suffer willingly to achieve these victories, and God would reward and vindicate Him (50:4–11). The New Testament identifies the Servant as Jesus Christ, the incarnate Lord.

Interpretive Difficulties For over two centuries scholars have disputed the unity of Isaiah. They have raised historical, philosophical, and linguistic issues to argue that the book is the result of a complex transmission through many hands. Briefly, they divide the book into three sections, assigning these to Isaiah of Jerusalem (chs. 1—39); to a prophet of the time of the Exile (second, or "Deutero-Isaiah," chs. 40—55); and to a post-exilic prophet (the "Third Isaiah," chs. 56—66).

Variations in language between the proposed divisions of the book may be due to differences in subject matter, changed perspectives, or the prophet's personal growth. The similarities among the three sections have led many critics to conclude that a final hand unified the work. These unifying features include the repetition of theological themes (Zion, the advent of God, the Davidic representative, and the outworking of the Lord's sovereign plan), the names for God ("the Holy One of Israel," 1:4 and note), and the unified message of judgment and salvation. Conservative scholars defend the traditional understanding that the book is all the work of one prophet, Isaiah. The book was published under his name (1:1), and he is frequently mentioned in it (2:1; 7:3; 13:1; etc.).

Other books of the Old Testament that have multiple authors, such as Psalms and Proverbs, name them. Nothing in what this book says about its own authorship indicates more than one writer. In the New Testament, the apostle John attributes prophecies from Is. 6:10 and 53:10, allegedly from "Proto-Isaiah" and "Deutero-Isaiah," simply to Isaiah (John 12:38–41).

Modern critics assume that a prophet addresses only his contemporaries. They argue that since chs. 1—39 are addressed to the nation during the Assyrian invasions (ca. 740–700 B.C.), and chs. 40—55 to the exiles in Babylon (600–539 B.C.), and chs. 56—66 to the community after its return to the land (c. 539–500 B.C.), more than one prophet must have spoken. But prophets often ask one generation to participate by faith in a salvation that lies in the distant future. For example, even though

Israel's prosperity still lay in a remote future, Isaiah commanded the dispirited people to "Enlarge the place of your tent" (54:2).

The Old Testament views the covenant community as a historical unity. Every part of Israel participates in its past and future history. Moses addressed the generation born after their ancestors had entered into covenant with the Lord at Sinai as though they had been there (Deut. 5:3).

The critics assume that miraculous prophecy, such as naming Cyrus more than a century beforehand and predicting the birth of Jesus from the Virgin Mary, is impossible. But the Bible reproves philosophical naturalism. In fact, Isaiah reproaches Ahaz for this kind of unbelief (7:10–13). In chs. 40—55 the Lord validates His sovereign rule over the nations precisely by the powers of His prophets. Pagan prophets were deceived by their idols. They could not meet the Lord's challenge of showing that their past prophecies had been fulfilled, nor could they give any reliable prophecies of what was to come (41:21–29). By contrast, Israel's God fulfilled Isaiah's former prophecies about Assyria. He also predicted the future, mentioning Cyrus by name. Isaiah delivered these supernatural prophecies (41:21–29; 44:24—45:8) to leave unbelievers without excuse (48:3–5). Isaiah's remarkable prophecies about Christ's suffering and death put the case for supernatural prophecy beyond reasonable doubt.

Characteristics and Themes

Isaiah served God in the role of covenant prosecutor. His message consists of charges, condemnation, and judgments, as he declares God's curse on Israel, Judah, and the nations (1:2–31; 13—23; 56; 57; 65). Isaiah's autobiographical account of his call to become a messenger from the Lord's heavenly court is recounted in ch. 6. When Isaiah was summoned to represent the heavenly court in Jerusalem's earthly court, he discovered to his dismay that God was not sending him to save Israel but to harden their impenitent hearts (6:9, 10). Isaiah was to present to the people the Lord's complaint that they were faithless and rebellious (1:2, 3; 31:1–3; 57:3–10). God's people had become like the nations in their pride, sarcasm, and selfishness. They had lost the vision of God's kingdom of righteousness, love, and peace and had tried to establish their own kingdom. The prophet also serves as an advocate. He calls on the godly to seek the Lord, to hope for God's kingdom, to experience God's peace within, and to respond with faith to God's new acts of redemption. The Lord's covenant ends with blessings on Israel, not curses (Deut. 30:1–10). In the end, a godly remnant will survive the judgment.

The first part of the book, chs. 1—35, focuses on God's judgment on Israel by Assyria; the second, chs. 40—66, on the remnant's return from Babylon and their ultimate deliverance in the remote future (see the note on 36:1—39:8 for a bridge between these sections). The second part like the first begins with a vision of the heavenly court. Isaiah overhears God sending messengers to announce that Israel's punishment has been paid for and will come to an end (40:1–8). Isaiah's vision of God's kingdom is great, because it includes the history of redemption from his day until the fullness of redemption. It embraces the exile, the return of the Jews from exile, the mission, ministry, and kingdom of Jesus Christ, the mission and hope of the church, Jesus' present rule over this world, and the restoration of all things in holiness and righteousness.

Isaiah was a master of his language, using a rich vocabulary and imagery. Many of his words and expressions are used nowhere else in the Old Testament. His imagery reveals that he knew the tragedies of war (63:1–6), the injustices of high society (3:1–17), and the disappointments of agriculture (5:1–7).

Isaiah was a gifted preacher. Through his poetic imagination and rhetorical style he exposed the folly of relying on human structures as over against the wisdom of trusting in God's kingdom. Although the ungodly harden themselves against the Lord (6:10), Isaiah's prophetic oracles move the godly to respond with awe and worship of God. □

1 [a]Num. 12:6 [b]2 Chr. 26—32

2 [c]Jer. 2:12

THE [a]vision of Isaiah the son of Amoz, which he saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem in the [b]days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah.

The Wickedness of Judah

2 [c]Hear, O heavens, and give ear, O earth!
For the LORD has spoken:

■ 1:1 vision . . . Isaiah. The superscription refers to the entire Book of Isaiah. "Vision" means that the book is a revelation from God.

Isaiah. "The Lord saves" (8:18).

kings of Judah. See Introduction: Date and Occasion.

■ 1:2 heavens . . . earth. The whole of creation will bear witness against Israel that the Lord had warned them they would be judged if they broke their covenant with Him (Deut. 30:19; 32:1).

LORD. This name signifies the personal revelation of God to Israel and His solemn promise to be their God (Ex. 3:15).

children. They were children by creation, by election, and by covenant (45:11; 49:7; 64:8; Deut. 32:6, 18; Mal. 2:10).

rebelled. Rebellion is willful transgression against the Lord's sovereign and gracious rule (1:28; 43:27; 48:8; 59:13).

"I have nourished and brought up children,
And they have rebelled against Me;
3 [d]The ox knows its owner
And the donkey its master's [1]crib;
But Israel [e]does not know,
My people do not [2]consider."

4 Alas, sinful nation,
A people [3]laden with iniquity,
[f]A [4]brood of evildoers,
Children who are corrupters!
They have forsaken the LORD,
They have provoked to anger
The Holy One of Israel,
They have turned away backward.

5 [g]Why should you be stricken again?
You will revolt more and more.
The whole head is sick,
And the whole heart faints.
6 From the sole of the foot even to the head,
There is no soundness in it,
But wounds and bruises and putrefying sores;
They have not been closed or bound up,
Or soothed with ointment.

7 [h]Your country is desolate,
Your cities are burned with fire;
Strangers devour your land in your presence;
And it is desolate, as overthrown by strangers.
8 So the daughter of Zion is left [i]as a [5]booth in a vineyard,
As a hut in a garden of cucumbers,
[j]As a besieged city.
9 [k]Unless the LORD of hosts
Had left to us a very small remnant,
We would have become like [l]Sodom,
We would have been made like Gomorrah.

10 Hear the word of the LORD,
You rulers [m]of Sodom;
Give ear to the law of our God,
You people of Gomorrah:

3 [d]Jer. 8:7 [e]Jer. 9:3, 6 [1]manger or feed trough [2]understand
4 [f]Is. 57:3, 4; Matt. 3:7 [3]Lit. heavy, weighed down [4]offspring, seed
5 [g]Jer. 5:3
7 [h]Deut. 28:51, 52; 2 Chr. 36:19
8 [i]Job 27:18 [j]Jer. 4:17 [5]shelter
9 [k]2 Kin. 25:11, 22; Lam. 3:22 [l]Gen. 19:24; Rom. 9:29
10 [m]Deut. 32:32

■ 1:4 Alas. This is an emphatic particle used in contexts of lament (1:4), but more often in threats ("woe," 3:9, 11; 5:11, 18, 20, 21). The staccato lament decries the folly and evil of God's children.

The Holy One of Israel. With his special designation for the Lord, Isaiah calls attention to the unique and awe-inspiring splendor of the Lord. The phrase occurs twenty-six times in Isaiah (e.g., 5:19, 24; 41:14, 16, 20; 60:9, 14). See also "the Holy One of Jacob" (29:23), "Holy One" (10:17; 40:25), and "your Holy One" (43:15).

■ 1:5 Why. Further preaching only hardens impenitent sinners.

■ 1:5, 6 stricken . . . sores. The people were unable to recover from God's chastisement. The imagery of the suffering nation has its counterpart in the suffering of God's Servant (53:4, 5), who endured the judgment of God in His own body vicariously (that is, as a substitute for others).

■ 1:8 daughter of Zion. This Hebrew idiom is a personification of Jerusalem. Zion was the hill captured by David (2 Sam. 5:7), but the term often stands for all of Jerusalem or even all of Judah and Israel.

booth. A temporary shelter (text note) used by watchmen during harvest. See 4:6 note.

■ 1:9 LORD of hosts. This designation of God presents Him as a divine warrior (13:4; 30:27; 40:10; 42:13, 25; 59:17; 66:15, 16), the commander over all troops whether in heaven or on earth. Israel's survival ultimately is not due to the enemy's weakness, but to God's sovereign power.

remnant. The Lord will not overturn His promise. Even in the midst of judgment He will preserve a remnant. Paul quotes this verse in Rom. 9:29, presenting the idea of a remnant taken out of a larger group as an expression of the electing grace of God. In Rom. 9:27 he quotes from Isaiah's teaching about the remnant at 10:20–23. See also Is. 4:3; 7:3 and note; 11:11, 12, 16; 28:5; 37:31, 32; 46:3.

Sodom . . . Gomorrah. God's people have become like the wicked inhabitants of Canaan, whose cities were destroyed (1:10; Gen. 18:20, 21; 19:24, 25). The fate of Sodom and Gomorrah typifies the terrible judgment of God on the kingdoms of this world (3:9; 13:19; Luke 17:28, 29; 2 Pet. 2:6–10; Jude 7; Rev. 11:8).

11 "To what purpose is the multitude of your [n]sacrifices to Me?"
Says the LORD.
"I have had enough of burnt offerings of rams
And the fat of fed cattle.
I do not delight in the blood of bulls,
Or of lambs or goats.

12 "When you come [o]to appear before Me,
Who has required this from your hand,
To trample My courts?
13 Bring no more [p]futile[6] sacrifices;
Incense is an abomination to Me.
The New Moons, the Sabbaths, and [q]the calling of assemblies—
I cannot endure iniquity and the sacred meeting.
14 Your [r]New Moons and your [s]appointed feasts
My soul hates;
They are a trouble to Me,
I am weary of bearing them.
15 [t]When you [7]spread out your hands,
I will hide My eyes from you;
[u]Even though you make many prayers,
I will not hear.
Your hands are full of [8]blood.

16 "Wash[v] yourselves, make yourselves clean;
Put away the evil of your doings from before My eyes.
[w]Cease to do evil,
17 Learn to do good;
Seek justice,
Rebuke [9]the oppressor;
[1]Defend the fatherless,
Plead for the widow.

18 "Come now, and let us [x]reason together,"
Says the LORD,
"Though your sins are like scarlet,
[y]They shall be as white as snow;
Though they are red like crimson,
They shall be as wool.
19 If you are willing and obedient,
You shall eat the good of the land;
20 But if you refuse and rebel,
You shall be devoured by the sword";
[z]For the mouth of the LORD has spoken.

The Degenerate City

21 [a]How the faithful city has become a [2]harlot!
It was full of justice;

■ 1:11 sacrifices. These were the central visible observances of Old Testament religion. Although God had ordered them to be performed, they were of no value without obedience from the heart (vv. 16, 17; 1 Sam. 15:22, 23; Ps. 51:16, 17; Mic. 6:6–8; Matt. 23:23).

do not delight. The Lord's distaste for sacrifices offered by those who do evil (v. 16) is expressed with increasing sharpness: "I cannot endure" (v. 13); "My soul hates" (v. 14).

■ 1:16–18 the fatherless . . . the widow. Concern for the needy is a practical demonstration of true godliness (v. 23; 58:7; Ps. 9:18 note; Jer. 22:16; James 1:27).

■ 1:18 scarlet. The color depicts hands "full of blood" (v. 15).

white as snow. God can take away the stain of sin without compromising His righteousness because Jesus Christ bore God's punishment for sinners (53:4–6; Rom. 3:21–26).

■ 1:19, 20 The gospel is a two-edged sword: eternal life (v. 19) or eternal death (v. 20; 66:24).

■ 1:21 faithful. Godliness is demonstrated by perseverance, stability, and consistency in doing God's will. Through the purifying process, the Lord will renew a remnant who will again constitute a "faithful city" (v. 26), because He is faithful (49:7; 55:3).

harlot. A "harlot" in religion is an idolater, someone who has forsaken God to serve idols (Jer. 2:20; 3:1; Hos. 2:2; 3:1; Ezek. 16:23–30). The Righteousness lodged in it,

But now [b]murderers.
22 [c]Your silver has become dross,
Your wine mixed with water.
23 [d]Your princes are rebellious,
And [e]companions of thieves;
[f]Everyone loves bribes,
And follows after rewards.
They [g]do not defend the fatherless,
Nor does the cause of the widow come before them.
24 Therefore the Lord says,
The LORD of hosts, the Mighty One of Israel,
"Ah, [h]I will [3]rid Myself of My adversaries,
And [4]take vengeance on My enemies.
25 I will turn My hand against you,
And [i]thoroughly[5] purge away your dross,
And take away all your alloy.
26 I will restore your judges [j]as at the first,
And your counselors as at the beginning.
Afterward [k]you shall be called the city of righteousness, the faithful city."
27 Zion shall be redeemed with justice,
And her [6]penitents with righteousness.
28 The [l]destruction of transgressors and of sinners shall be together,
And those who forsake the LORD shall be consumed.
29 For [7]they shall be ashamed of the [8]terebinth trees
Which you have desired;
And you shall be embarrassed because of the gardens
Which you have chosen.
30 For you shall be as a terebinth whose leaf fades,
And as a garden that has no water.
31 [m]The strong shall be as tinder,
And the work of it as a spark;
Both will burn together,
And no one shall [n]quench them.

sins listed (vv. 21–23) are all evidence that God's people had forsaken Him.

justice . . . Righteousness. Justice means right relations between people. It is violated by murder, rebellion, stealing, and bribery (vv. 21–23). True justice will defend the cause of orphans and widows as much as the cause of those who can pay bribes and give rewards. The enemies of justice may even pass laws that facilitate their wrongdoing (10:1). Despite all such obstacles, God promises to restore righteousness to the earth (v. 26; 32:1; 33:5, 6; 42:1–4).

■ 1:22 silver . . . wine. These are figures for Jerusalem's unjust rulers (v. 23).

■ 1:23 bribes. The practice of bribery is strongly condemned in God's law, since it fosters injustice and discrimination (cf. Is. 5:23; Ex. 23:8; Deut. 16:19).

■ 1:24 the Lord. That is, the Master, God, the Sovereign, will restore justice by removing His enemies, the unrighteous leaders of Jerusalem.

■ 1:26 as at the first. The new age will be a restoration, bringing miraculous continuation and renewal to the covenant community. Leadership and people will live in harmony with God's will (24:23; 32:1).

city of righteousness. The new community is composed of men and women who practice righteousness and demonstrate a commitment to God and to other human beings (1:21 note).

■ 1:27 redeemed. The term means "ransomed," transferred or freed from ownership by another through the payment of a price. The penitent, who turn their backs on idolatry and injustice, find freedom from Satan, sin, and death through the righteousness of Christ imputed to them and applied to their hearts by the Holy Spirit.

■ 1:29 ashamed . . . embarrassed. What people hold in honor will be exposed as worthless. Sinners will see how wrong they have been when they come to ruin (26:11; 44:9, 11; 65:13; 66:5).

terebinth trees . . . gardens. See text note. These were places of fertility rites and pagan worship that the people had chosen in preference to serving God (65:3 and note; 66:17).

■ 1:30 that has no water. Drought and fire are metaphors for judgment. Water in Isaiah signifies free, gracious, and bountiful salvation (11:9; 32:2; 41:18; 55:1; 58:11). The absence of water signifies separation from God's blessings (3:1; 50:2).

■ 1:31 burn. See note on 4:4.

■ 2:2 in the latter days. This reference to "the latter days" is indefinite and may include a lengthy process of fulfillment, including the reigns of

Shall be established on the top of the mountains,
And shall be exalted above the hills;
And all nations shall flow to it.
3 Many people shall come and say,
[d]"Come, and let us go up to the mountain of the LORD,
To the house of the God of Jacob;
He will teach us His ways,
And we shall walk in His paths."
[e]For out of Zion shall go forth the law,
And the word of the LORD from Jerusalem.
4 He shall judge between the nations,
And rebuke many people;
They shall beat their swords into plowshares,
And their spears into pruning [1]hooks;
Nation shall not lift up sword against nation,
Neither shall they learn war anymore.

The Day of the LORD

5 O house of Jacob, come and let us [f]walk
In the light of the LORD.

6 For You have forsaken Your people, the house of Jacob,
Because they are filled [g]with eastern ways;
They are [h]soothsayers like the Philistines,
[i]And they [2]are pleased with the children of foreigners.
7 [j]Their land is also full of silver and gold,
And there is no end to their treasures;
Their land is also full of horses,
And there is no end to their chariots.
8 [k]Their land is also full of idols;
They worship the work of their own hands,
That which their own fingers have made.
9 People bow down,
And each man humbles himself;
Therefore do not forgive them.

10 [l]Enter into the rock, and hide in the dust,
From the terror of the LORD
And the glory of His majesty.
11 The [3]lofty looks of man shall be [m]humbled,

Hezekiah and Josiah, the period of restoration after the Exile, the First Advent of our Lord, the present age, and the glorious consummation (Jer. 23:20; 30:24; Ezek. 38:8, 16; Hos. 3:5). The term designates a new epoch that for the prophet lies in the hidden future. The new epoch alters history in every dimension and is the goal toward which events are striving. The apostle Peter relates this time to the new age begun at Pentecost by using the phrase for an introduction to his citation of Joel 2:28–32 (Acts 2:17).

mountain. The prophet spoke of the temple mount as a metaphor for the Lord's kingdom that will be exalted above all other kingdoms (cf. 11:9; 65:25; 66:20). Mount Zion and the temple on it were symbols of heaven and the heavenly sanctuary (Heb. 9:24). These earthly representations have passed away (Heb. 8:13); through the priesthood of the ascended Lord, the church comes directly to the heavenly reality (Heb. 12:22–24).

on the top of the mountains. Pagans worshiped their gods at mountain shrines. Israel's God, who is worshiped on Mount Zion, will establish Himself in the eyes of all races and nations as the only true and living God, even as He is worshiped today.

■ 2:3 let us go. They encourage one another to worship God from regenerate hearts (John 3:3–8).

out of Zion. The prophet proclaims the new era in which Jews and Gentiles will serve one King (11:10–12; 27:13; 56:3–8; 66:19–23). Zion, or Jerusalem, stands for God's throne (1:8 note).

■ 2:4 swords into plowshares. Compare Joel 3:10.

■ 2:5 light. Light stands for God's blessings, presence, and revelation (9:2; 30:26; 42:6, 16; 60:1–3). The Lord is the light in blessing and in judgment (10:17; 60:19, 20; cf. John 1:4; 8:12). People who exchange His light for the darkness of their corrupt minds (5:20; 8:20), will experience His judgment and live in the darkness of separation from God (5:30; 13:10; 59:9; cf. John 3:19, 20).

■ 2:6–9 Isaiah condemns syncretism, the mixture of religions. These verses contrast the light with all the things the people adopted from the nations: magic, greed, warfare, and idolatry.

■ 2:6 eastern ways . . . Philistines. This refers to the pagan cultures on either side of Judah; Philistia was to the west. The law condemns all forms of magic and divination (Lev. 19:26; Deut. 18:10, 11).

■ 2:7 horses . . . chariots. They relied on their own strength (30:16; 31:1, 3), rather than on the Lord (Ps. 20:7).

■ 2:10 rock. At God's judgment people may seek shelter, but no one can hide from Him (Rev. 6:16).

■ 2:11 in that day. The day of the Lord brings judgment on the godless, but blessing and salvation to the godly (Joel 2:31; Zeph. 1:7;

The haughtiness of men shall be bowed down,
And the LORD alone shall be exalted [n]in that day.

12 For the day of the LORD of hosts
Shall come upon everything proud and lofty,
Upon everything lifted up—
And it shall be brought low—
13 Upon all [o]the cedars of Lebanon that are high and lifted up,
And upon all the oaks of Bashan;
14 [p]Upon all the high mountains,
And upon all the hills that are lifted up;
15 Upon every high tower,
And upon every fortified wall;
16 [q]Upon all the ships of Tarshish,
And upon all the beautiful sloops.
17 The [4]loftiness of man shall be bowed down,
And the haughtiness of men shall be brought low;
The LORD alone will be exalted in that day,
18 But the idols [5]He shall utterly abolish.

19 They shall go into the [r]holes of the rocks,
And into the caves of the [6]earth,
[s]From the terror of the LORD
And the glory of His majesty,
When He arises [t]to shake the earth mightily.

20 In that day a man will cast away his idols of silver
And his idols of gold,
Which they made, each for himself to worship,
To the moles and bats,
21 To go into the clefts of the rocks,
And into the crags of the rugged rocks,
From the terror of the LORD
And the glory of His majesty,
When He arises to shake the earth mightily.

Whose [v]breath is in his nostrils;
For [8]of what account is he?

2:13–18). Isaiah's reference encompasses historical events (the fall of Israel, Assyria, Judah) and the coming judgment and salvation (3:7; 7:18–25; 11:10, 11; 24:21; 27:1).

■ 2:13 cedars of Lebanon . . . oaks of Bashan. These were large, impressive trees with valuable wood (Ezek. 27:5, 6). Like the forests of the American Northwest, they symbolized the permanence and splendor of nature. But even they were subject to God's judgment.

■ 2:16 ships . . . sloops. These symbolize pride at being first in trade and commerce (23:1, 8).

■ 2:17 in that day. See 2:11 note.

■ 2:22 man . . . breath. One must trust God, who gives breath, not those who are dependent on Him.

■ 3:1 bread . . . water. The chaotic conditions result in lack of food and water. See note on 1:30.

■ 3:2, 3 mighty man . . . enchanter. The Lord will remove every kind of leader that the people were trusting to secure their society: warriors, sages, magicians, and other prominent people. See 11:2 note.

4 "I will give [d]children[3] to be their princes,
And [4]babes shall rule over them.
5 The people will be oppressed,
Every one by another and every one by his neighbor;
The child will be insolent toward the [5]elder,
And the [6]base toward the honorable."

6 When a man takes hold of his brother
In the house of his father, saying,
"You have clothing;
You be our ruler,
And let these ruins be under your [7]power,"
7 In that day he will protest, saying,
"I cannot cure your ills,
For in my house is neither food nor clothing;
Do not make me a ruler of the people."

8 For [e]Jerusalem stumbled,
And Judah is fallen,
Because their tongue and their doings
Are against the LORD,
To provoke the eyes of His glory.
9 The look on their countenance witnesses against them,
And they declare their sin as [f]Sodom;
They do not hide it.
Woe to their soul!
For they have brought evil upon themselves.

10 "Say to the righteous [g]that it shall be well with them,
[h]For they shall eat the fruit of their doings.
11 Woe to the wicked! [i]It shall be ill with him,
For the reward of his hands shall be [8]given him.
12 As for My people, children are their oppressors,
And women rule over them.
O My people! [j]Those who lead you [9]cause you to err,
And destroy the way of your paths."

Oppression and Luxury Condemned

13 The LORD stands up [k]to [l]plead,
And stands to judge the people.
14 The LORD will enter into judgment
With the elders of His people
And His princes:
"For you have [2]eaten up [l]the vineyard;
The plunder of the poor is in your houses.
15 What do you mean by [m]crushing My people
And grinding the faces of the poor?"
Says the Lord GOD of hosts.

16 Moreover the LORD says:

■ 3:4 children . . . babes. The nation will be ruled by people without experience and unable to govern wisely.

■ 3:5 every one by his neighbor. The collapse of civilization comes with social strife: rich against poor, young against old.

■ 3:6 clothing. In a collapsing society, someone who has as little as a decent suit of clothes will seem prosperous enough to be made a ruler. But when the people try to draft such a person, he will reply that his wealth is only an illusion; he has no better answers than they have.

■ 3:8 Jerusalem . . . Judah. The fall of Jerusalem (586 B.C.) was a partial fulfillment of this prophecy, as was the devastation caused by Sennacherib's siege of the city in 701 B.C.

■ 3:9 Sodom. Israel has no sense of shame, defying God and acting as if the covenant did not exist. See 1:9, 10.

■ 3:12 O My people. See note on 40:1. On the lack of leadership and its consequences, see 3:4–7 and notes.

■ 3:15 crushing My people. Compare the actions of these rulers with those of the ideal Davidic king in 11:3–5.

■ 3:16 daughters of Zion. They live to the fullest at the expense of others. The ornaments are meant to impress others, to provide cash in case of an emergency, and to supply magical protection from sudden disaster. This outward adornment reflects an inner attitude of pride (1 Pet. 3:3, 4).

"Because the daughters of Zion are haughty,
And walk with [3]outstretched necks
And [4]wanton eyes,
Walking and [5]mincing as they go,
Making a jingling with their feet,
17 Therefore the Lord will strike with [n]a scab
The crown of the head of the daughters of Zion,
And the LORD will [o]uncover their secret parts."

18 In that day the Lord will take away the finery:
The jingling anklets, the [6]scarves, and the [p]crescents;
19 The pendants, the bracelets, and the veils;
20 The headdresses, the leg ornaments, and the headbands;
The perfume boxes, the charms,
21 and the rings;
The nose jewels,
22 the festal apparel, and the mantles;
The outer garments, the purses,
23 and the mirrors;
The fine linen, the turbans, and the robes.

24 And so it shall be:

Instead of a sweet smell there will be a stench;
Instead of a sash, a rope;
Instead of well-set hair, [q]baldness;
Instead of a rich robe, a girding of sackcloth;
And [7]branding instead of beauty.
25 Your men shall fall by the sword,
And your [8]mighty in the war.

26 [r]Her gates shall lament and mourn,
And she being desolate [s]shall sit on the ground.

4 And [a]in that day seven women shall take hold of one man, saying,
"We will [b]eat our own food and wear our own apparel;
Only let us be called by your name,
To take away [c]our reproach."

The Renewal of Zion

2 In that day [d]the Branch of the LORD shall be beautiful and glorious;
And the fruit of the earth shall be excellent and appealing
For those of Israel who have escaped.

3 And it shall come to pass that he who is left in Zion and remains in Jerusalem [e]will be called holy—everyone who is [f]recorded among the living in Jerusalem. 4 When [g]the Lord has washed away the filth of the daughters of Zion, and purged the [I]blood of Jerusalem from her midst, by

■ 3:24—4:1 stench . . . reproach. The destitution threatened by the day of the Lord is expressed with words associated with bloodshed, war, and captivity.

■ 3:26 gates. Jerusalem is personified and joins in the lament.

■ 4:1 in that day. See note on 2:11.

■ 4:2 Branch. The term has two possible senses: one is literal, corresponding to the parallel phrase "fruit of the earth," and the other is as a messianic title for Jesus Christ, who yields spiritual fruit (11:1–5; Jer. 23:5; Zech. 3:8; John 15:1–8). The remnant find life in Him (6:13). Because Jesus humbled Himself, He is crowned with glory (52:13; 53:12; Phil. 2:9–11).

glorious. This means displaying the splendor and brightness of God. The glory of God is revealed in all His works, but especially in the Messiah (Ps. 19:1; John 1:18).

those . . . who have escaped. That is, a remnant (1:9 note).

■ 4:3 Zion. See note on 1:8.

holy. Consecrated to God, the Holy One of Israel (1:4 note; 62:12).

recorded. Their names are written in the "book" of life (Ex. 32:32, 33; Ps. 69:28; Dan. 12:1; Rev. 20:12).

■ 4:4 spirit. Possibly this is the Holy Spirit, but more likely it refers to the process of purification (cf. 28:6).

burning. This metaphor signifies judgment (1:31; 10:17; 30:27; 42:25). Through the process of refining fire, consuming the faithless and purifying the faithful, God will produce a holy Zion.

the spirit of judgment and by the spirit of burning, 5 then the LORD will create above every dwelling place of Mount Zion, and above her assemblies, [h]a cloud and smoke by day and [i]the shining of a flaming fire by night. For over all the glory there will be a [2]covering. 6 And there will be a tabernacle for shade in the daytime from the heat, [j]for a place of refuge, and for a shelter from storm and rain.

God's Disappointing Vineyard

5 Now let me sing to my Well-beloved
A song of my Beloved [a]regarding His vineyard:

My Well-beloved has a vineyard
[1]On a very fruitful hill.
2 He dug it up and cleared out its stones,
And planted it with the choicest vine.
He built a tower in its midst,
And also [2]made a winepress in it;
[b]So He expected it to bring forth good grapes,
But it brought forth wild grapes.

3 "And now, O inhabitants of Jerusalem and men of Judah,
[c]Judge, please, between Me and My vineyard.
4 What more could have been done to My vineyard
That I have not done in [d]it?
Why then, when I expected it to bring forth good grapes,
Did it bring forth wild grapes?
5 And now, please let Me tell you what I will do to My vineyard:
[e]I will take away its hedge, and it shall be burned;
And break down its wall, and it shall be trampled down.
6 I will lay it [f]waste;
It shall not be pruned or [3]dug,
But there shall come up briers and [g]thorns.
I will also command the clouds
That they rain no rain on it."

7 For the vineyard of the LORD of hosts is the house of Israel,
And the men of Judah are His pleasant plant.
He looked for justice, but behold, oppression;
For righteousness, but behold, [4]a cry for help.

Impending Judgment on Excesses

■ 4:5 create. In the new act of redemption, the Creator of heaven and earth (40:26; 42:5; 45:12, 18) will renew everything for the sake of His people. The glory of the messianic age is given by God, and does not come from human effort or skill (Jon. 2:9; Eph. 2:4–10).

cloud and smoke . . . shining of a flaming fire. Unlike the burning of the fire of judgment in v. 4, this cloud and fire signals God's protective presence, as at the Red Sea (Ex. 13:20–22), over the tabernacle (Ex. 40:34–38), and in the wilderness (Num. 9:15–23). Here His presence covers a restored and sanctified Mount Zion (2:2 note).

■ 4:6 shade. See note on 30:2.

refuge. In contrast to human deceptions (28:15, 17), the Lord provides effective shelter from the storm (25:4; cf. Ps. 14:6; 46:1; 62:7; 94:22).

■ 5:1–7 The owner and the vineyard stand for God and His people. The song is fulfilled in Jesus Christ, who replaces sour grapes with new fruit (Matt. 21:33–44; John 15:1–6).

■ 5:2 tower . . . good grapes. These images reinforce the expectation of an abundant harvest.

wild grapes. The Hebrew means "stinking things."

■ 5:5, 6 burned . . . trampled. God decrees desolation.

briers and thorns. The weeds represent God's curse (7:23–25; 32:13), that is, the anarchy following war (3:4, 5). God can also turn curse into blessing, replacing the briers and thorns with the pine tree and myrtle (55:13).

■ 5:7 LORD of hosts. See note on 1:9.

■ 5:8 This is the first of six exclamations of woe, proclaiming God's displeasure on greed, drunkenness, and other sins. The first woe condemns greed.

add field to field. The land belonged to God (Lev. 25:23), had been allotted to specific families by patrimony (Num. 33:54), and was the basis of livelihood. Deprived of their land, small farmers in Israel became day laborers or slaves.

9 [i]In my hearing the LORD of hosts said,
"Truly, many houses shall be desolate,
Great and beautiful ones, without inhabitant.
10 For ten acres of vineyard shall yield one [j]bath,[6]
And a homer of seed shall yield one [7]ephah."

11 [k]Woe to those who rise early in the morning,
That they may [8]follow intoxicating drink;
Who continue until night, till wine inflames them!
12 [l]The harp and the strings,
The tambourine and flute,
And wine are in their feasts;
But [m]they do not regard the work of the LORD,
Nor consider the operation of His hands.

13 [n]Therefore my people have gone into captivity,
Because they have no [o]knowledge;
Their honorable men are famished,
And their multitude dried up with thirst.
14 Therefore Sheol has enlarged itself
And opened its mouth beyond measure;
Their glory and their multitude and their pomp,
And he who is jubilant, shall descend into it.
15 People shall be brought down,
[p]Each man shall be humbled,
And the eyes of the lofty shall be humbled.
16 But the LORD of hosts shall be [q]exalted in judgment,
And God who is holy shall be hallowed in righteousness.
17 Then the lambs shall feed in their pasture,
And in the waste places of [r]the [9]fat ones strangers shall eat.

18 Woe to those who [t]draw iniquity with cords of [2]vanity,
And sin as if with a cart rope;
19 [s]That say, "Let Him make speed and hasten His work,
That we may see it;
And let the counsel of the Holy One of Israel draw near and come,
That we may know it."

20 Woe to those who call evil good, and good evil;
Who put darkness for light, and light for darkness;
Who put bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter!

21 Woe to those who are [t]wise in their own eyes,
And prudent in their own sight!

21 [t]Prov. 3:7; Rom. 1:22; 12:16; [1 Cor. 3:18–20]

■ 5:9 houses. God's judgment targets the rich in their self-indulgence. Mansions provide no protection from his eye (24:10 note).

■ 5:10 bath . . . homer . . . ephah. The bath was a liquid measure of about six gallons. For its size, the vineyard would produce practically nothing. Likewise, a homer of seed planted would yield only an ephah of produce. Six bushels of seed would yield about a half bushel at harvest. The land would be cursed (Deut. 28:38, 39).

■ 5:11 wine. The second woe condemns drunkenness. See note on 24:11. Overindulgence in drink is a characteristic of social corruption and moral laxity (chs. 22, 28; Amos 4:1–3; 6:6, 7).

■ 5:13 my people. See note on 40:1.

captivity. The exile with all its miseries is threatened as a judgment on the people, who have shown no knowledge of the right way to behave.

■ 5:14 Sheol. This is the Hebrew word for "the grave," used almost exclusively in poetry. See Prov. 9:18 and notes. Isaiah portrays death as a terrible beast that devours anyone without regard to social class, both the "honorable" and the "multitude" (v. 13).

■ 5:16 righteousness. See 1:21 note.

■ 5:18 The third woe condemns those who mock God as they sin.

■ 5:19 the Holy One of Israel. See 1:4 note.

■ 5:20 The fourth woe condemns moral corruption.

darkness . . . light. See notes on 2:5 and 5:30.

■ 5:21 The fifth woe condemns pride and self-righteousness.

wise in their own eyes. This is an expression for irrational, arrogant autonomy. A revelation from God, who alone knows all things, is the only firm foundation for knowledge.

22 Woe to men mighty at drinking wine,
Woe to men valiant for mixing intoxicating drink,
23 Who [u]justify the wicked for a bribe,
And take away justice from the righteous man!

24 Therefore, [v]as the [3]fire devours the stubble,
And the flame consumes the chaff,
So [w]their root will be as rottenness,
And their blossom will ascend like dust;
Because they have rejected the law of the LORD of hosts,
And despised the word of the Holy One of Israel.
25 [x]Therefore the anger of the LORD is aroused against His people;
He has stretched out His hand against them
And stricken them,
And [y]the hills trembled.
Their carcasses were as refuse in the midst of the streets.

[z]For all this His anger is not turned away,
But His hand is stretched out still.

26 [a]He will lift up a banner to the nations from afar,
And will [b]whistle to them from [c]the end of the earth;
Surely [d]they shall come with speed, swiftly.
27 No one will be weary or stumble among them,
No one will slumber or sleep;
Nor [e]will the belt on their loins be loosed,
Nor the strap of their sandals be broken;
28 [f]Whose arrows are sharp,
And all their bows bent;
Their horses' hooves will [4]seem like flint,
And their wheels like a whirlwind.
29 Their roaring will be like a lion,
They will roar like young lions;
Yes, they will roar
And lay hold of the prey;
They will carry it away safely,
And no one will deliver.
30 In that day they will roar against them
Like the roaring of the sea.
And if one [g]looks to the land,
Behold, darkness and [5]sorrow;
And the light is darkened by the clouds.

■ 5:22 The sixth woe condemns those who pervert justice.

mixing intoxicating drink. This refers to wine and beer with spices added. Once again, as in 5:11, Isaiah speaks of overindulgence.

■ 5:23 bribe. See note on 1:23. Bribery involves injustice and greed, as in 5:8.

■ 5:24 fire. See note on "burning" at 4:4.

■ 5:25 the hills trembled. At the revelation of God's anger, nature quakes (2:19; 13:13; 24:18, 19; Ezek. 32:6–8 note). For a contrasting image of redemption, see 54:10.

streets. See note on 24:11.

His anger is not turned away. God is not reconciled, and His wrath hangs over the disobedient (9:12, 17, 21; 10:4; 31:3).

■ 5:26–30 This description of the Assyrian army closely matches its portrayal on ancient Assyrian reliefs; perhaps the poet had seen such troops with his own eyes.

■ 5:26 banner. This is a signal flag (11:10, 12; 18:3; 49:22; 62:10). Like a commander in battle, the Lord summons the nations to execute His judgment (10:5).

nations from afar. These would be Syria, Assyria, Babylon, etc. The imperial Assyrian army was composed of mercenaries hired from all over the Assyrian Empire.

■ 5:30 In that day. See note on 2:11.

darkness. This metaphor for depression, alienation, and judgment (8:22; 42:7; 47:5; 60:2) teaches that all who twist justice by living in darkness (5:20; 29:15) will suffer the darkness of God's judgment. By contrast, the light of God will dawn on the needy (9:2; 29:18; 42:7; 49:9; 58:10; 60:1, 2). The Lord is sovereign over darkness and light (45:7).

sorrow. The Hebrew word means "distress," "narrowness." God delivers His own from such confinement (25:4; 63:9).

Isaiah Called to Be a Prophet

CHAPTER 6

6 In the year that [a]King Uzziah died, I [b]saw the Lord sitting on a throne, high and lifted up, and the train of His robe filled the temple. 2 Above it stood seraphim; each one had six wings: with two he covered his face, [c]with two he covered his feet, and with two he flew. 3 And one cried to another and said:

[d]"Holy, holy, holy is the LORD of hosts;
[e]The whole earth is full of His glory!"

4 And the posts of the door were shaken by the voice of him who cried out, and the house was filled with smoke.

5 So I said:

"Woe is me, for I am [f]undone!
Because I am a man of [f]unclean lips,
And I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips;
For my eyes have seen the King,
The LORD of hosts."

6 Then one of the seraphim flew to me, having in his hand a live coal which he had taken with the tongs from [g]the altar. 7 And he [h]touched my mouth with it, and said:

"Behold, this has touched your lips;
Your iniquity is taken away,
And your sin [2]purged."

8 Also I heard the voice of the Lord, saying:

"Whom shall I send,
And who will go for [i]Us?"

Then I said, "Here am I! Send me."

9 And He said, "Go, and [j]tell this people:

'Keep on hearing, but do not understand;
Keep on seeing, but do not perceive.'

■ 6:1 Uzziah. He died in 740 B.C., having suffered from leprosy (2 Chr. 26:16–21).

I saw. Isaiah describes a "theophany," a visible manifestation of God. God's coming is often attended by such phenomena as earthquakes, smoke, fire, and lightning (13:3 note; 29:6; 30:27–31; Ex. 19:18, 19; Ps. 18:7–15; 50:3; 97:2; Mic. 1:3, 4; Nah. 1:3–8; Hab. 3:3–15).

the Lord. Adonai in Hebrew, meaning "Sovereign."

throne. The Lord rules heaven and earth from His throne. The choir of seraphim (6:2 note) and the splendor of God's holiness inspired the prophet throughout his ministry.

the temple. In his vision he saw not the temple in Jerusalem, but the heavenly temple (cf. Rev. 4:1–8).

■ 6:2 seraphim. This is a Hebrew word probably meaning "burning ones" (cf. the fiery serpents in Num. 21:6). Representations of angelic creatures with six wings have been discovered in the Near East by archaeologists.

covered his face. The seraphim have no glory to compare with God's and they cannot look on Him directly.

covered his feet. This may be an indication of modesty.

flew. The seraph does the Sovereign's will. Here it is to praise Him.

■ 6:3 Holy, holy, holy. A three-fold repetition is the strongest sort of superlative. Nothing is as holy as God. See note on 1:4.

LORD of hosts. See note on 1:9.

whole earth. This announcement explains the cosmic perspective of the prophet. God is King of the world, and His salvation and judgment extend to all nations (11:4, 9, 12; 42:1, 4, 5; 65:17; 66:1; cf. Luke 2:14).

glory. See note on 4:2, "glorious."

■ 6:5 Woe is me. Isaiah was astonished by the glory of God; like Peter he became afraid (Luke 5:8). He pronounces an oracular curse upon himself.

■ 6:6 altar. The altar from which the live coal was taken is not described. The stress is on the purification necessary for approaching God. The altar symbolizes purification by blood, and the fire, purification by the Spirit. The blood of Christ and the ministry of the Holy Spirit sanctify believers today.

■ 6:7 my mouth . . . your lips. The purification makes the prophet acceptable as a minister of God's words (Jer. 1:9).

■ 6:8 who will go for Us. The Lord invited Isaiah to listen in on the sessions of the royal, heavenly court. From this moment on Isaiah is a servant of God's court and proclaims God's message to kings and people alike (cf. 1 Kin. 22:19, 20; Jer. 23:18, 22).

■ 6:9 Go. Isaiah's mission is paradoxical in its effect, as is the proclamation of the word of God (Matt. 13:13–15; Rom. 11:7–10, 25). The prophetic word closes the way of God to those who are rebellious, proud and hypocritical (29:13–16; 65:1–7), but opens it to the deaf, the blind, the humble, and the poor (29:18, 19).

11 Then I said, "Lord, how long?"

Isaiah Sent to King Ahaz

7 Now it came to pass in the days of [a]Ahaz the son of Jotham, the son of Uzziah, king of Judah, that Rezin king of Syria and Pekah the son of Remaliah, king of Israel, went up to Jerusalem to make war against [b]it, but could not [1]prevail against it. 2 And it was told to the house of David, saying, "Syria's forces are [2]deployed in Ephraim." So his heart and the heart of his people were moved as the trees of the woods are moved with the wind.

3 Then the LORD said to Isaiah, "Go out now to meet Ahaz, you and [3]Shear-Jashub your son, at the end of the aqueduct from the upper pool, on the highway to the Fuller's Field, 4 and say to him: [4]"Take heed, and [5]be [c]quiet; do not fear or be fainthearted for these two stubs of smoking firebrands, for the fierce anger of Rezin and Syria, and the son of Remaliah. 5 Because Syria, Ephraim, and the son of Remaliah have plotted evil against you, saying, 6 "Let us go up against Judah and [6]trouble it, and let us make a gap in its wall for ourselves, and set a king over them, the son of Tabel"— 7 thus says the Lord GOD:

[d]"It shall not stand,
Nor shall it come to pass.
8 [e]For the head of Syria is Damascus,
And the head of Damascus is Rezin.
Within sixty-five years Ephraim will be [7]broken,
So that it will not be a people.
9 The head of Ephraim is Samaria,
And the head of Samaria is Remaliah's son.

■ 6:13 a tenth. The land will be laid waste, but a remnant will be saved and purified (1:9 note).

stump. The Middle Eastern terebinth and oak trees can produce new shoots even when they appear to have been cut or damaged beyond all hope.

■ 7:1—11:16 These oracles of judgment and hope are associated with the war between Judah and a coalition of Israel and Syria (734–732 B.C.). Ahaz, king of Judah, was seriously threatened by the alliance of Pekah, king of Israel, with Rezin, king of Syria (2 Kin. 16:5–18; 2 Chr. 28:16–21). They threatened to invade Judah if Ahaz would not help them against Assyria.

■ 7:2 the house of David. This expression means the current head of the house, Ahaz. It recalls the Lord's covenant with David, granting him an eternal offspring and kingdom (2 Sam. 7:12–16). The attempt to replace his dynasty with another ("the son of Tabel," v. 6) cannot succeed because God's promises are at stake.

moved. Ahaz, the proud king, was unable to calm his people. The response of the leader created panic among the people (22:3 note).

■ 7:3 Shear-Jashub. The name means "a remnant will return" (10:20–22). It is a promise of salvation and life for the faithful beyond the imminent doom of the unfaithful. Judah may suffer, but a remnant will remain.

■ 7:4 two stubs. Two kingdoms were about to be destroyed: Damascus in 732 B.C. by Tiglath-Pileser III, and Samaria in 722 B.C. by Sargon II.

■ 7:7 Lord GOD. See note on 25:8. The Lord voids the counsel of kings (8:9, 10; 40:23; Ps. 33:10, 11).

■ 7:8 sixty-five years. God will fulfill His promises after Ahaz's death (2 Kin. 17:24–41).

■ 7:9 believe . . . be established. This is a play on different meanings of the same Hebrew word. Faith means knowing God's promise, assenting to it intellectually, and trusting Him to keep it.

[f]If you will not believe,
Surely you shall not be established." ' "

The Immanuel Prophecy

10 Moreover the LORD spoke again to Ahaz, saying, 11 [g]"Ask a sign for yourself from the LORD your God; [g]ask it either in the depth or in the height above."

12 But Ahaz said, "I will not ask, nor will I test the LORD!"

13 Then he said, "Hear now, O house of David! Is it a small thing for you to weary men, but will you weary my God also? 14 Therefore the Lord Himself will give you a sign: [h]Behold, the virgin shall conceive and bear [i]a Son, and shall call His name [j]Immanuel.[g] 15 Curds and honey He shall eat, that He may know to refuse the evil and choose the good. 16 [k]For before the Child shall know to refuse the evil and choose the good, the land that you dread will be forsaken by [l]both her kings. 17 [m]The LORD will bring the king of Assyria upon you and your people and your father's house—days that have not come since the day that [n]Ephraim departed from Judah."

18 And it shall come to pass in that day
That the LORD [o]will whistle for the fly
That is in the farthest part of the rivers of Egypt,
And for the bee that is in the land of Assyria.
19 They will come, and all of them will rest
In the desolate valleys and in [p]the clefts of the rocks,
And on all thorns and in all pastures.

20 In the same day the Lord will shave with a [q]hired [r]razor,
With those from beyond [l]the River, with the king of Assyria,
The head and the hair of the legs,
And will also remove the beard.

21 It shall be in that day
That a man will keep alive a young cow and two sheep;
22 So it shall be, from the abundance of milk they give,
That he will eat curds;
For curds and honey everyone will eat who is left in the land.

depth . . . height. Nothing is outside Yahweh's sovereignty (Deut. 10:14; Ps. 139:8; Rom. 8:39).

■ 7:13 house of David. See note on 7:2.

■ 7:14 virgin. The Hebrew word occurs seven times in the Old Testament. It means a young woman of marriageable age, normally a virgin (Gen. 24:43). The Septuagint (the Greek translation of the Old Testament made about 150 B.C.) translated with a word more specifically meaning "virgin." The New Testament understands Isaiah to be designating the Virgin Mary (Matt. 1:23). See "The Virgin Birth of Jesus" at Luke 1:27.

Immanuel. "God with us." The name conveys God's promise to save, bless, and protect His children. The identity of the virgin and the child has been the subject of considerable discussion. Three major views have been proposed. First, some, especially Jews of the second century A.D., understood the prophecy to mean Ahaz's wife and her child, Hezekiah (2 Kin. 18:2). But as Jerome (c. 400 A.D.) pointed out, Hezekiah was already born. Second, others identify the woman as Isaiah's wife or a woman betrothed to him (8:3). The child is then Isaiah's son, Maher-Shalal-Hash-Baz. This interpretation is questionable. The Hebrew term translated "virgin" would not normally be used for a woman who was already a mother (of Shear-Jashub, 7:3). If someone engaged to the prophet is meant, it becomes necessary to assume that his first wife had died. Also, the interpretation requires that the child have contradictory names: "God Is With Us" (Immanuel) and "Speed the Spoil, Hasten the Booty" (Maher-Shalal-Hash-Baz). Though not impossible, it seems unlikely. Finally, the child's diet of "curds and honey" suggests that He would grow up after Judah's destruction (v. 15 note). Tradition suggests a third interpretation, identifying the child as the Messiah, a divine personage whose birth is above nature. It equates the Child named "Immanuel" with the Child possessing God's titles in 9:6, and with the "Branch" of ch. 11. According to Matthew, the virgin is Mary and the Child is Jesus Christ (Matt. 1:22, 23). In v. 16, the birth seems nevertheless to be imminent. Perhaps the prophecy has a partial fulfillment in the birth of Isaiah's son Maher-Shalal-Hash-Baz (8:1–3), while the definitive fulfillment waits for the birth of Jesus Christ, who secures God's throne forever.

■ 7:15 Curds and honey. This is not a typical food for infants, but points to a time when people will have to live off unworked fields (v. 22). The Child is identified with the remnant.

that He may know to refuse the evil. Self-indulgence made the failed leadership of Israel insensitive to social and spiritual values (5:11–23), but this diet will sensitize Christ to the work of the Lord (42:1–4).

■ 7:16 For before. The verse seems to mean that before the time required for a child to become accountable—twelve years—Pekah and Remaliah will both be defeated. In this understanding, "Child" will point primarily to Isaiah's son, and secondarily to Christ.

■ 7:18 in that day. See note on 2:11. The fall of Damascus, of Samaria, and the devastation of Judah are foretastes of the events of the Last Judgment.

fly . . . bee. These insects swarm in great numbers, like the hordes of invaders.

■ 7:19 desolate valleys . . . clefts. Traditional hiding places will provide no escape (2:19).

■ 7:20 hired razor. Shaving the head is a sign of mourning (15:2) and a way of humiliating conquered enemies (2 Sam. 10:4, 5). Ahaz had hired Assyria to help him against Syria and Samaria, but the Lord would use Assyria to humiliate Israel instead (v. 17).

24 With arrows and bows men will come there,

Assyria Will Invade the Land

8 Moreover the LORD said to me, "Take a large scroll, and [a]write on it with a man's pen concerning [1]Maher-Shalal-Hash-Baz. 2 And I will take for Myself faithful witnesses to record, [b]Uriah the priest and Zechariah the son of Jeberechiah."

3 Then I went to the prophetess, and she conceived and bore a son. Then the LORD said to me, "Call his name Maher-Shalal-Hash-Baz; 4 [c]for before the child [2]shall have knowledge to cry 'My father' and 'My mother,' [d]the riches of Damascus and the [3]spoil of Samaria will be taken away before the king of Assyria."

5 The LORD also spoke to me again, saying:

6 "Inasmuch as these people refused
The waters of [e]Shiloah that flow softly,
And rejoice [f]in Rezin and in Remaliah's son;
7 Now therefore, behold, the Lord brings up over them
The waters of [4]the River, strong and mighty—
The king of Assyria and all his glory;
He will [5]go up over all his channels
And go over all his banks.
8 He will pass through Judah,
He will overflow and pass over,
[g]He will reach up to the neck;
And the stretching out of his wings
Will [6]fill the breadth of Your land, O [h]Immanuel.[7]

9 "Be[i] shattered, O you peoples, and be broken in pieces!
Give ear, all you from far countries.
Gird yourselves, but be broken in pieces;
Gird yourselves, but be broken in pieces.
10 [j]Take counsel together, but it will come to nothing;

■ 7:22 abundance. The land will be so depopulated that this limited food will seem abundant.

curds and honey. See note on v. 15. The remnant will have something to eat.

■ 7:23–25 in that day. The cultivated land will return to weeds, barely fit for grazing.

■ 8:1 scroll. Probably a polished piece of wood like a signboard, rather than a scroll. The meaning of the name is given in the text note and explained in v. 4.

■ 8:2 witnesses. The apostate king, Ahaz, was forced to take part in the sign of Immanuel's birth (7:10–14). Now an apostate priest, Uriah (2 Kin. 16:10, 11), and a presumably false prophet, Zechariah, are forced to become parties to this prophecy.

■ 8:3 prophetess. Isaiah refers to his wife in this way, perhaps because of her association with him as a prophet, or perhaps because she was a prophet in her own right (Judg. 4:4; 2 Kin. 22:14).

Maher-Shalal-Hash-Baz. See text note on v. 1. The name signifies the rapid devastation of Syria, Israel, and Judah, but also the presence of God with the remnant and the impending fulfillment of God's word.

■ 8:6 these people. That is, Judah.

waters of Shiloah. Perhaps this refers to a stream flowing from the Gihon spring (2 Chr. 32:30). It is a symbol of the Lord's provision, which the people despised (cf. 1:30 note; Jer. 2:13; Zech. 4:10).

rejoice. The people may have looked forward to the fall of Rezin, king of Syria, without considering that the word of judgment applied to Judah as well.

■ 8:7 the River. The River Euphrates, standing for the Assyrian invaders. The Euphrates contrasts with the soft waters of Shiloah (v. 6).

■ 8:8 the neck. The implication is that Assyria will almost, but not quite, annihilate Judah. At the height of the Assyrian invasion in 701 B.C., Jerusalem did escape.

O Immanuel. See v. 10; 7:14 note. Isaiah bestows the name of the virgin's Child on Judah as the object of God's care.

■ 8:9 you peoples. Syria and Israel.

■ 8:10 Take counsel together. See note on 11:2.

God is with us. In Hebrew, "Immanuel." God is with the remnant of Judah, which will not be destroyed (v. 8, notes; 7:14 note).

Speak the word, [k]but it will not stand,
[l]For [8]God is with us."

Fear God, Heed His Word

11 For the LORD spoke thus to me with [9]a strong hand, and instructed me that I should not walk in the way of this people, saying:

12 "Do not say, 'A conspiracy,'
Concerning all that this people call a conspiracy,
Nor be afraid of their [1]threats, nor be [2]troubled.
13 The LORD of hosts, Him you shall hallow;
Let Him be your fear,
And let Him be your dread.
14 [m]He will be as a [3]sanctuary,
But [n]a stone of stumbling and a rock of [4]offense
To both the houses of Israel,
As a trap and a snare to the inhabitants of Jerusalem.
15 And many among them shall [o]stumble;
They shall fall and be broken,
Be snared and [5]taken."

16 Bind up the testimony,
Seal the law among my disciples.
17 And I will wait on the LORD,
Who [p]hides His face from the house of Jacob;
And I [q]will hope in Him.
18 [r]Here am I and the children whom the LORD has given me!

■ 8:11 with a strong hand. Isaiah had an experience of inner compulsion from the Spirit of God (Ezek. 1:3; 3:14).

■ 8:12 conspiracy. The people considered Isaiah a traitor because he said that Ahab and his administration were wrong to rely on Assyria.

■ 8:13 fear . . . dread. It is not people (v. 12), but the Lord who is the object of fear. He is the ultimate authority to whom all must submit, in whom all may trust, and to whom everyone must render an account (12:2; 33:6; 50:10; 59:19; Ps. 25:12–15; 34:11–14).

The Punishment of Samaria

8 The Lord sent a word against [p]Jacob,
And it has fallen on Israel.

9 All the people will know—
Ephraim and the inhabitant of Samaria—
Who say in pride and arrogance of heart:

■ 9:2 light. See note on 2:5.

shadow of death. The Assyrians cast their terrible shadow over the land and the people (cf. Ps. 23:4; 44:19; 107:10). Yet there is hope.

■ 9:3 joy. God opens up a new future for the humble (29:19) where gloom had previously existed (35:10; 51:3; 61:7). This new joy finds expression in the metaphors of harvest and of victory. Contrast 5:10; 8:4.

■ 9:4 yoke . . . staff. These are figures of oppression (10:27; 14:25; 47:6; contrast at Matt. 11:29, 30).

■ 9:5 The debris left from battle can be removed and burned when the fighting stops. God will bring an end to war (2:4; Ps. 46:9, 10; 2 Cor. 10:4).

■ 9:6 Child . . . Son. The good news is the birth of Jesus Christ. The four royal names express His divine and human qualities, giving assurance that He is indeed "Immanuel" (7:14).

born . . . given. The verbs are consistent with His humanity and deity respectively.

Wonderful, Counselor. Since the other titles each consist of two words, it is probably best to combine these two words in a single title, "Wonderful Counselor."

Mighty God. As a warrior, God protects His people (10:21; Deut. 10:17; Jer. 32:18).

Everlasting Father. The Father and King cares for His subjects (40:9–11; 65:17–25; Matt. 18:12–14; 23:9–12; Rom. 8:15–17).

Prince of Peace. His government brings peace (2:4; 11:6–9; Ps. 72:7; Zech. 9:10; Luke 2:14).

■ 9:7 throne of David. He is a descendant of David (11:1 note), who will establish the kingdom of God in "judgment and justice" (1:21 note).

zeal. God guarantees that this will be fulfilled (37:32; 42:13; Zech. 1:14).

■ 9:8—10:4 The Lord will judge Israel (the northern kingdom) and its capital Samaria. The northern kingdom is also sometimes called Ephraim. (Judah is the southern kingdom, with Jerusalem as its capital.)

■ 9:9 pride and arrogance. Their motivation was to preserve and glorify themselves. Compare also their words "we will . . . we will" in v. 10 (Gen. 11:3, 4; Is. 5:21).

10 "The bricks have fallen down,
But we will rebuild with hewn stones;
The sycamores are cut down,
But we will replace them with cedars."
11 Therefore the LORD shall set up
The adversaries of Rezin against him,
And spur his enemies on,
12 The Syrians before and the Philistines behind;
And they shall devour Israel with an open mouth.

For all this His anger is not turned away,
But His hand is [4]stretched out still.

13 For the people do not turn to Him who strikes them,
Nor do they seek the LORD of hosts.
14 Therefore the LORD will cut off head and tail from Israel,
Palm branch and bulrush [q]in one day.
15 The elder and honorable, he is the head;
The prophet who teaches lies, he is the tail.
16 For [r]the leaders of this people cause them to err,
And those who are led by them are destroyed.
17 Therefore the Lord [s]will have no joy in their young men,
Nor have mercy on their fatherless and widows;
For everyone is a hypocrite and an evildoer,
And every mouth speaks [5]folly.

[t]For all this His anger is not turned away,
But His hand is stretched out still.

18 For wickedness [u]burns as the fire;
It shall devour the briers and thorns,
And kindle in the thickets of the forest;
They shall mount up like rising smoke.
19 Through the wrath of the LORD of hosts
[v]The land is burned up,
And the people shall be as fuel for the fire;
[w]No man shall spare his brother.
20 And he shall [6]snatch on the right hand
And be hungry;
He shall devour on the left hand
[x]And not be satisfied;
[y]Every man shall eat the flesh of his own arm.
21 Manasseh shall devour Ephraim, and Ephraim Manasseh;
Together they shall be [z]against Judah.

[a]For all this His anger is not turned away,
But His hand is stretched out still.

21 [z]2 Chr. 28:6, 8; Is. 11:13 [a]Is. 9:12, 17

■ 9:10 hewn stones . . . cedars. The people thought they were going to start rebuilding with the best materials, when in reality there was destruction ahead.

■ 9:11, 12 adversaries of Rezin. Foes. The Assyrians (7:1 note; 7:20 note; 8:7 note) will attack from the north and the Philistines from the south. The Lord will raise up many enemies.

His anger is not turned away. This refrain is also found in 9:17, 21; 10:4 (cf. 31:3). See note on 5:25.

■ 9:13 do not turn. They were unresponsive to divine discipline (Amos 4:6, 8–11). They did not depend wholly on the Lord or seek Him with diligence (8:19; 11:10; 31:1; 55:6; 58:2; 65:10).

■ 9:14 head . . . tail. These figures represent the civil and religious leadership, as explained in v. 15 (cf. 3:1–3; 30:10 note). The same figures, including the "palm branch and bulrush," are used of Egyptian leaders in 19:15.

■ 9:17 fatherless and widows. See note on 1:16–18. The gravity of God's anger is vividly expressed when it is said that He will have no mercy on the fatherless.

everyone is a hypocrite and an evildoer. Sin is found in every person, even the fatherless and widow, and it corrupts both their thoughts and their deeds (Gen. 6:5; 8:21).

■ 9:20, 21 devour . . . eat. Pride, narcissism, and greed destroy the fiber of society, especially the covenant relationship among the tribes. Historically, Manasseh had fought Ephraim (Judg. 12:4), and together they battled Judah during the war with Israel and Syria.

13 [q][2 Kin. 19:22–24]; Is. 37:24–27; Ezek. 28:4; Dan. 4:30

10 "Woe to those who [a]decree unrighteous decrees,
Who write misfortune,
Which they have prescribed
2 To rob the needy of justice,
And to take what is right from the poor of My people,
That widows may be their prey,
And that they may rob the fatherless.
3 [b]What will you do in [c]the day of punishment,
And in the desolation which will come from [d]afar?
To whom will you flee for help?
And where will you leave your glory?
4 Without Me they shall bow down among the [e]prisoners,
And they shall fall [1]among the slain."

[f]For all this His anger is not turned away,
But His hand is stretched out still.

Arrogant Assyria Also Judged

5 "Woe to Assyria, [g]the rod of My anger
And the staff in whose hand is My indignation.
6 I will send him against [h]an ungodly nation,
And against the people of My wrath
I will [i]give him charge,
To seize the spoil, to take the prey,
And to tread them down like the mire of the streets.
7 [j]Yet he does not mean so,
Nor does his heart think so;
But it is in his heart to destroy,
And cut off not a few nations.
8 [k]For he says,
'Are not my princes altogether kings?
9 Is not [l]Calno [m]like Carchemish?
Is not Hamath like Arpad?
Is not Samaria [n]like Damascus?
10 As my hand has found the kingdoms of the idols,
Whose carved images excelled those of Jerusalem and Samaria,
11 As I have done to Samaria and her idols,
Shall I not do also to Jerusalem and her idols?' "

12 Therefore it shall come to pass, when the Lord has [2]performed all His work [o]on Mount Zion and on Jerusalem, that He will say, [p]"I will punish the fruit of the arrogant heart of the king of Assyria, and the glory of his haughty looks."

13 [q]For he says:

"By the strength of my hand I have done it,
And by my wisdom, for I am prudent;
Also I have removed the boundaries of the people,
And have robbed their treasuries;

■ 10:1–4 The principle of retribution is an important biblical teaching. People reap what they sow, whether to destruction or benefit (Gal. 6:7, 8).

■ 10:2 justice. See note on 1:21. On social injustice, see 1:23.

poor . . . fatherless. See 1:16–18; 11:4; Ps. 9:18 and notes.

My people. See note on 40:1.

■ 10:3 day of punishment. The day of the Lord (2:11 note).

from afar. The desolation brought by the Assyrians.

■ 10:5 rod of My anger. God makes the nations serve Him as instruments of His will, but they continue to be responsible for their acts (5:25; 7:20 and notes). God's anger is against those who administer His kingdom on earth corruptly, both rulers and people (9:12, 17, 21; 10:4, 25).

■ 10:6 ungodly nation. This includes Israel and Judah (v. 11).

■ 10:9 Calno . . . Damascus. These cities were conquered by Assyria: Calno (Calneh, Amos 6:2) in 738 B.C.; Carchemish in 717 B.C.; Hamath in 738 and 720 B.C.; Arpad in 740 B.C.; Samaria in 722 B.C.; and Damascus in 732 B.C. See also 36:19; 37:12, 13.

■ 10:10 my hand. Assyria boasts of its power (cf. Dan. 4:30; Luke 12:18–20).

kingdoms. See note on 13:4.

■ 10:12 Zion. See note on 1:8.

■ 10:13, 14 These verses are a restatement of vv. 5–11. For similar expressions of pride, see 14:13, 14; Ezek. 28:2–5.

So I have put down the inhabitants like a [3]valiant man.
14 [r]My hand has found like a nest the riches of the people,
And as one gathers eggs that are left,
I have gathered all the earth;
And there was no one who moved his wing,
Nor opened his mouth with even a peep."

15 Shall [s]the ax boast itself against him who chops with it?
Or shall the saw exalt itself against him who saws with it?
As if a rod could wield itself against those who lift it up,
Or as if a staff could lift up, as if it were not wood!
16 Therefore the Lord, the [4]Lord of hosts,
Will send leanness among his fat ones;
And under his glory
He will kindle a burning
Like the burning of a fire.
17 So the Light of Israel will be for a fire,
And his Holy One for a flame;
[t]It will burn and devour
His thorns and his briers in one day.
18 And it will consume the glory of his forest and of [u]his fruitful field,
Both soul and body;
And they will be as when a sick man wastes away.
19 Then the rest of the trees of his forest
Will be so few in number
That a child may write them.

The Returning Remnant of Israel

20 And it shall come to pass in that day
That the remnant of Israel,
And such as have escaped of the house of Jacob,
[v]Will never again depend on him who [5]defeated them,
But will depend on the LORD, the Holy One of Israel, in truth.
21 The remnant will return, the remnant of Jacob,
To the [w]Mighty God.
22 [x]For though your people, O Israel, be as the sand of the sea,
[y]A remnant of them will return;
The destruction decreed shall overflow with righteousness.
23 [z]For the Lord GOD of hosts
Will make a determined end
In the midst of all the land.

24 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD of hosts: "O My people, who dwell in Zion, [a]do not be afraid of the Assyrian. He shall strike you with a rod and lift up his staff against you, in the manner of [b]Egypt. 25 For yet a very little while [c]and the indignation will cease, as will My anger in their destruction." 26 And the LORD of hosts will [6]stir up [d]a scourge for him like the slaughter of [e]Midian at the rock of Oreb; [f]as His rod was on the sea, so will He lift it up in the manner of Egypt.

■ 10:22 sand of the sea. This phrase recalls God's promise to Abraham (Gen. 22:17; cf. 1 Kin. 4:20).

■ 10:23 the Lord God of hosts. See notes on 1:9, 24.

■ 10:24 do not be afraid. A word of encouragement for the remnant in Judah (37:6; 41:10, 13; 43:1). See note on 35:4.

■ 10:25 destruction. The instruments of destruction will themselves be destroyed.

■ 10:26 Midian . . . Oreb . . . Egypt. Two examples are taken from the history of redemption: the defeat of Midian at the rock of Oreb (a Midianite leader; Judg. 7:25), and the victory over Egypt at the Red Sea (Ex. 14:26–28).

27 It shall come to pass in that day

And his yoke from your neck,
And the yoke will be destroyed because of [g]the anointing oil.

[9]O poor Anathoth!
31 [l]Madmenah has fled,
The inhabitants of Gebim seek refuge.
32 As yet he will remain [m]at Nob that day;
He will [n]shake his fist at the mount of [o]the daughter of Zion,
The hill of Jerusalem.

33 Behold, the Lord,
The LORD of hosts,
Will lop off the bough with terror;
[p]Those of high stature will be hewn down,
And the haughty will be humbled.
34 He will cut down the thickets of the forest with iron,
And Lebanon will fall by the Mighty One.

■ 10:28–32 Aiath . . . Zion. These verses describe a march to Judah from north to south through the cities mentioned. The last, Nob, is within sight of Zion. For a similar portrayal of Assyria's invasion, but from the southwest, see Mic. 1:10–16.

■ 10:33 The Assyrians may inspire Judah with terror, but the Lord will intervene.

■ 10:34 cut down . . . the forest. The Assyrians are portrayed as a forest that the Lord is going to cut down (v. 18 note).

Mighty One. See 33:21.

■ 11:1 stem. All that is left of the Davidic dynasty is a stump. The privileged sons of David no less than Assyria are like trees that have been chopped down (10:33, 34). But in spite of this judgment on Judah, the Lord will raise up new leadership from the dynasty of David (Matt. 1:1).

Jesse. The father of David (1 Sam. 16:10–13). David inaugurated a great kingdom, but the greater David (Ezek. 34:23–25; Zech. 12:7–10), now only a tender plant (53:2), will rule an incomparably greater kingdom.

Branch. See note on 4:2.

The Messiah and His Kingdom (11:1)

Isaiah described the qualifications of the ideal King whose rule would contrast with the dark reign of King Ahaz. The role remained unfulfilled until the coming of Jesus the Messiah. "The kingdom of God is within you" was His message.

The Messiah		His Kingdom
The Branch, a descendant of David, the stem of Jesse	11:1, 10	The Gentiles will seek Him	11:10
God's Spirit will rest upon Him	11:2	The remnant of Israel will be gathered	11:11–16
He will fear the Lord	11:3	There will be joy in God's salvation	12:1–6
He will judge the earth with righteousness	11:4, 5

2 [d]The Spirit of the LORD shall rest upon Him,
The Spirit of wisdom and understanding,
The Spirit of counsel and might,
The Spirit of knowledge and of the fear of the LORD.

3 His delight is in the fear of the LORD,
And He shall not judge by the sight of His eyes,
Nor decide by the hearing of His ears;
4 But [e]with righteousness He shall judge the poor,
And decide with equity for the meek of the earth;
He shall [f]strike the earth with the rod of His mouth,
And with the breath of His lips He shall slay the wicked.
5 Righteousness shall be the belt of His loins,
And faithfulness the belt of His waist.

6 "The[g] wolf also shall dwell with the lamb,
The leopard shall lie down with the young goat,
The calf and the young lion and the fatling together;
And a little child shall lead them.
7 The cow and the bear shall graze;
Their young ones shall lie down together;
And the lion shall eat straw like the ox.
8 The nursing child shall play by the cobra's hole,
And the weaned child shall put his hand in the viper's den.
9 [h]They shall not hurt nor destroy in all My holy mountain,
For [i]the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the LORD
As the waters cover the sea.

10 "And[j] in that day [k]there shall be a Root of Jesse,
Who shall stand as a [l]banner to the people;
For the [m]Gentiles shall seek Him,
And His resting place shall be glorious."

11 It shall come to pass in that day
That the Lord shall set His hand again the second time

10 [j]Is. 2:11 [k]Is. 11:1; Rom. 15:12 [l]Is. 27:12, 13 [m]Rom. 15:10

■ 11:2 Spirit of the LORD. As the fourfold repetition emphasizes, the same God-given endowment of the Spirit that brought David his successes (1 Sam. 16:13; Ps. 51:11) will empower the Messiah (42:1; Luke 3:22). The Spirit is the creative agent for establishing God's kingdom (Gen. 1:2; Judg. 3:10; 6:34; 1 Sam. 10:6 and notes).

rest upon Him. The Spirit came in a powerful way on saints in the Old Testament: Moses (Num. 11:17); certain elders (Num. 11:25, 26); Joshua (Deut. 34:9); the judges (Judg. 3:10; 11:29; 13:25); kings (1 Sam. 11:6); and prophets (1 Sam. 10:10; 2 Sam. 23:2; 1 Kin. 22:24; 2 Kin. 2:15; Mic. 3:8). The Spirit is the divine agent of restoration (32:15; Joel 2:28–32).

wisdom. Solomon prayed for wisdom and understanding (1 Kin. 3:9), the administrative skill to govern the people in righteousness and justice. See Introduction to the Wisdom Literature.

counsel. Authoritative plans and decisions are in view here. Human counsel may or may not be in accord with God's plan (30:1), but the Messiah's counsel is by the Spirit.

knowledge. This refers to wise and submissive living in accordance with the will of God (33:6; 53:11). It is a perfection of God (40:14).

fear of the LORD. Fearing God includes obeying His commandments because of faith that the Lord will keep His threats against transgressors (Prov. 1:7 note).

■ 11:3 judge. See note on 2:4.

■ 11:4 righteousness. See note on 1:21.

poor . . . meek. That is, those who long for divine righteousness and justice (25:4) because of oppression by the rulers of this earth (3:15; 10:2; 32:7; 61:1). They are the afflicted, oppressed, and humble, whom Jesus also blessed (Matt. 5:3–10; Ps. 19:8 note).

equity. The Hebrew word also means "level" or "straight" (40:4). God's judgment is balanced and fair.

rod . . . breath. With great power and authority (Ps. 2:9; 82:8; Rev. 6:15–17; 20:11–12) the Messiah will conquer by His word (49:2; 61:1; Heb. 4:12; Rev. 19:15).

■ 11:5 faithfulness. See note on 1:21; cf. 25:1; 33:6.

■ 11:6–9 Carnivorous animals, now remade with natures that protect what they formerly devoured, effectively portray the wonderful peace on earth in the new age ruled by the Messiah. The vision corresponds to reconciling love in the church (Eph. 2:14–18) and will be consummated in the new heavens and new earth (Rev. 21:4, 24–27).

■ 11:10 in that day. See note on 2:11.

Root of Jesse. See note on v. 1 (Rev. 22:16).

banner. Here the banner is a sign of hope (cf. John 12:32), in contrast to 5:26 (see note).

glorious. See note on 4:2.

■ 11:11 the second time. The first time God reclaimed a people was from Egypt through the Exodus; the second time is from the Exile (51:9–11).

remnant. See note on 1:8. The Lord will lead His children from wherever they are distressed.

To recover the remnant of His people who are left,
[n] From Assyria and Egypt,
From Pathros and Cush,
From Elam and Shinar,
From Hamath and the [4]islands of the sea.

12 He will set up a banner for the nations,
And will [5]assemble the outcasts of Israel,
And gather together [o]the dispersed of Judah
From the four [6]corners of the earth.
13 Also [p]the envy of Ephraim shall depart,
And the adversaries of Judah shall be cut off;
Ephraim shall not envy Judah,
And Judah shall not harass Ephraim.
14 But they shall fly down upon the shoulder of the Philistines toward the west;
Together they shall plunder the [7]people of the East;
[q] They shall lay their hand on Edom and Moab;
And the people of Ammon shall obey them.
15 The LORD [r]will utterly [8]destroy the tongue of the Sea of Egypt;
With His mighty wind He will shake His fist over [9]the River,
And strike it in the seven streams,
And make men cross over [t]dryshod.
16 [s] There will be a highway for the remnant of His people
Who will be left from Assyria,
[t] As it was for Israel
In the day that he came up from the land of Egypt.

A Hymn of Praise

12 And [a]in that day you will say:

"O LORD, I will praise You;
Though You were angry with me,
Your anger is turned away, and You comfort me.
2 Behold, God is my salvation,
I will trust and not be afraid;
[b] 'For [c]YAH, the LORD, is my strength and song;
He also has become my salvation.' "

3 Therefore with joy you will draw [d]water
From the wells of salvation.

4 And in that day you will say:

3 [d][John 4:10, 14; 7:37, 38]

■ 11:12 four corners. The remnant will come from all the known world, described as the four corners of the earth (24:15; 42:4, 10; 51:5; 59:18, 19; cf. Matt. 24:31).

■ 11:13 Ephraim . . . Judah. The era of restoration will witness a reconciliation of the disunited tribes. When the remnant returned to the land after the Exile, they offered sacrifices on behalf of all twelve tribes (Ezra 6:17; 8:35).

■ 11:14 Philistines . . . Ammon. This is a figure for freedom from the oppression, subjugation, and harassment that had characterized Israel's experience in the land (cf. 54:3; Mic. 5:6 note for a similar use of Assyria).

■ 11:15 destroy . . . the River. The second Exodus will come by another miracle similar to the parting of the Red Sea (vv. 11, 12).

mighty wind. See Ex. 14:24–27.

■ 11:16 highway. A level way is prepared by the Lord, a figure for the certainty of His salvation (35:8, 9; 40:3–5; 57:14; 62:10).

■ 12:1–6 Isaiah's new hymn at the second Exodus corresponds to that of Moses at the first (Ex. 15).

■ 12:1 in that day. See note on 2:11.

I will praise. The prophet speaks as a representative of the people of God. The reason for praise is God Himself.

■ 12:2 God is my salvation. See Ex. 15:2. He is the source and the initiator of salvation (49:6, 8; 51:6, 8; 56:1; 62:1).

YAH, the LORD. The double reference to the name of the LORD is a poetic emphasis on the certainty of salvation provided by Yahweh, the covenant God (Ex. 3:15).

■ 12:3 joy . . . salvation. The salvation of the Lord always brings joy (35:10; 51:3, 11; 61:3), as God removes the causes for sorrow and anxiety.

water . . . wells. Salvation is compared to an abundance of water (Ps. 1:3; 65:9; 104:10–13; 107:35) coming "from the wells of salvation" (41:18; cf. John 4:14).

■ 12:4 exalted. See 2:11, 17; 33:5.

[e]"Praise the LORD, call upon His name;
[f]Declare His deeds among the peoples,
Make mention that His [g]name is exalted.
5 [h]Sing to the LORD,
For He has done excellent things;
This is known in all the earth.
6 [i]Cry out and shout, O inhabitant of Zion,
For great is [j]the Holy One of Israel in your midst!"

Proclamation Against Babylon

13 The [a]burden[1] against Babylon which Isaiah the son of Amoz saw.

2 "Lift[b] up a banner [c]on the high mountain,
Raise your voice to them;
[d]Wave your hand, that they may enter the gates of the nobles.
3 I have commanded My [2]sanctified ones;
I have also called [e]My mighty ones for My anger—
Those who [f]rejoice in My exaltation."

4 The [g]noise of a multitude in the mountains,
Like that of many people!
A tumultuous noise of the kingdoms of nations gathered together!
The LORD of hosts musters
The army for battle.
5 They come from a far country,
From the end of heaven—
The [h]LORD and His [3]weapons of indignation,
To destroy the whole [i]land.

6 Wail, [j]for the day of the LORD is at hand!
[k]It will come as destruction from the Almighty.
7 Therefore all hands will be limp,
Every man's heart will melt,
8 And they will be afraid.
[l]Pangs[4] and sorrows will take hold of them;
They will be in pain as a woman in childbirth;
They will be amazed at one another;
Their faces will be like flames.

9 Behold, [m]the day of the LORD comes,
Cruel, with both wrath and fierce anger,
To lay the land desolate;
And He will destroy [n]its sinners from it.

8 [l]Ps. 48:6 [4]Sharp pains

9 [m]Mal. 4:1 [n]Ps. 104:35; Prov. 2:22

■ 12:5 excellent things. This is an allusion to "triumphed gloriously" (Ex. 15:1) and a synonym for "exalted" (v. 4).

■ 13:1—23:18 Isaiah prophesies concerning the day of the Lord and what it means for the nations. Babylon and Assyria are treated together in the first oracle (13:1–14:27) because Babylon became the crown jewel of the Assyrian Empire. Assyrian kings had themselves crowned as kings of this renowned city. Babylon was regarded as an epitome of religion and culture, and as such Babylon represents the kingdoms of this world. Peter and John continue to use Babylon as a symbol for ungodly nations (1 Pet. 5:13; Rev. 14:8; 16:19; 17:1—18:24).

■ 13:1 burden. The Hebrew word can mean a literal weight, corresponding to the idea that the prophetic word is a heavy responsibility for the prophet who must deliver it. On the other hand, the word can mean simply a message or oracle, without the suggestion of weight.

■ 13:2 banner. See 5:26 note.

gates of the nobles. It is implied that the city is proud.

■ 13:3 sanctified ones . . . mighty ones. These are the armies used by God as instruments of judgment.

■ 13:4 noise. The great noise indicates the exercise of God's power (30:30, 31; 33:3; Ps. 29:5–9).

kingdoms of nations. The Lord is the commander of human kingdoms. Babylon thought of herself as "the glory of the kingdoms" (13:19) or the "Lady of the Kingdoms" (47:5) and ruled over others with great force (14:16).

■ 13:5 far country . . . end of heaven. Yahweh's kingdom is universal.

weapons of indignation. See note on 10:5.

■ 13:6–22 The terror of the day of the Lord is described.

■ 13:6 the day of the LORD. This is also called "the day" (vv. 9, 13); see note on 2:11.

■ 13:7 limp . . . melt. The people will be utterly helpless (Jer. 6:24; Ezek. 7:17).

■ 13:8 woman in childbirth. This comparison is used often in the Bible for intense pain and suffering (21:3; 49:24; 50:43; Ps. 48:6; Mic. 4:9; cf. Rom. 8:22).

10 For the stars of heaven and their constellations
Will not give their light;
The sun will be [o]darkened in its going forth,
And the moon will not cause its light to shine.

11 "I will [p]punish the world for its evil,
And the wicked for their iniquity;
[q]I will halt the arrogance of the proud,
And will lay low the haughtiness of the [5]terrible.
12 I will make a mortal more rare than fine gold,
A man more than the golden wedge of Ophir.
13 [r]Therefore I will shake the heavens,
And the earth will move out of her place,
In the wrath of the LORD of hosts
And in [s]the day of His fierce anger.
14 It shall be as the hunted gazelle,
And as a sheep that no man [6]takes up;
[t]Every man will turn to his own people,
And everyone will flee to his own land.
15 Everyone who is found will be thrust through,
And everyone who is captured will fall by the sword.
16 Their children also will be [u]dashed to pieces before their eyes;
Their houses will be plundered
And their wives [v]ravished.

17 "Behold,[w] I will stir up the Medes against them,
Who will not [7]regard silver;
And as for gold, they will not delight in it.
18 Also their bows will dash the young men to pieces,
And they will have no pity on the fruit of the womb;
Their eye will not spare children.
19 [x]And Babylon, the glory of kingdoms,
The beauty of the Chaldeans' pride,
Will be as when God overthrew [y]Sodom and Gomorrah.
20 [z]It will never be inhabited,
Nor will it be settled from generation to generation;
Nor will the Arabian pitch tents there,
Nor will the shepherds make their sheepfolds there.
21 [a]But wild beasts of the desert will lie there,
And their houses will be full of [8]owls;
Ostriches will dwell there,
And wild goats will caper there.
22 The hyenas will howl in their citadels,
And jackals in their pleasant palaces.

■ 13:10 stars . . . moon. These are figures for God's cosmic judgment (24:23; Joel 2:10, 31; Rev. 6:12–14).

light. See note on 2:5. The ancients worshiped the heavenly bodies, but Scripture teaches that God is the Creator of them all (Deut. 4:19). Darkness symbolizes judgment. The imagery is also used for the final destruction of the world (34:3).

■ 13:11 terrible. See note on 29:20.

■ 13:13 shake the heavens . . . the earth will move. These expressions depict the coming of God in judgment against His creation. The shaking of the world symbolizes the overthrow of all that unbelievers exalt as rivals to God (2:12–18). The king of Babylon is described as one "who made the earth tremble" (14:16).

■ 13:14 turn . . . flee. The attractiveness of Babylon will become a phantom when people realize how short-lived human kingdoms are.

■ 13:15, 16 thrust through . . . ravished. These are the terrors brought by war.

■ 13:16 houses. See note on 24:10.

■ 13:17 Medes. These were inhabitants of the Zagros Mountains, east of Babylon and Assyria. They were never subjugated by Assyria and joined Babylon in the conquest of Assyria (612–609 B.C.). For the dating of this prophecy it is significant that Persia, which conquered Media in 549 B.C., is not mentioned.

■ 13:19 kingdoms. See note on v. 4.

Sodom and Gomorrah. See note on 1:9.

■ 13:20 never be inhabited. This is the measure of God's judgment on human pride. Babylon was finally laid waste as described.

■ 13:21, 22 wild beasts . . . jackals. Babylon becomes unfit for human habitation; only wild animals haunt the site (34:11–15; Jer. 50:39; 51:37; Zeph. 2:14, 15).

[b] Her time is near to come,
And her days will not be prolonged."

Mercy on Jacob

14 For the LORD [a] will have mercy on Jacob, and [b] will still choose Israel, and settle them in their own land. [c] The strangers will be joined with them, and they will cling to the house of Jacob. 2 Then people will take them [d] and bring them to their place, and the house of Israel will possess them for servants and maids in the land of the LORD; they will take them captive whose captives they were, [e] and rule over their oppressors.

Fall of the King of Babylon

3 It shall come to pass in the day the LORD gives you rest from your sorrow, and from your fear and the hard bondage in which you were made to serve, 4 that you [f] will take up this proverb against the king of Babylon, and say:

"How the oppressor has ceased,
The [g] golden [1] city ceased!
5 The LORD has broken [h] the staff of the wicked,
The scepter of the rulers;
6 He who struck the people in wrath with a continual stroke,
He who ruled the nations in anger,
Is persecuted and no one hinders.
7 The whole earth is at rest and quiet;
They break forth into singing.
8 [i] Indeed the cypress trees rejoice over you,
And the cedars of Lebanon,
Saying, 'Since you [2] were cut down,
No woodsman has come up against us.'

9 "Hell [j 3] from beneath is excited about you,
To meet you at your coming;
It stirs up the dead for you,
All the chief ones of the earth;
It has raised up from their thrones
All the kings of the nations.
10 They all shall [k] speak and say to you:
'Have you also become as weak as we?
Have you become like us?
11 Your pomp is brought down to Sheol,
And the sound of your stringed instruments;
The maggot is spread under you,
And worms cover you.'

The Fall of Lucifer

12 [l] Is. 34:4; Luke 10:18; [Rev. 12:7–9] [4] Lit. Day Star

■ 14:1 choose. Election is God's choice, and He is free to set Israel aside, or to choose Israel again for a new future (41:8, 9; 44:1, 2; 45:4; 65:9; Ex. 19:6; Deut. 7:6; cf. Rom. 9—11).

■ 14:2 people. These are instruments of God's plan of redemption (55:5; 60:1–18; 61:5–7; 66:19, 20; cf. Ezra 1:1–8).

■ 14:3–21 A taunt against the king of Babylon. Victors frequently sang taunt songs against their victims (v. 7; 12:1; Ex. 15:1).

■ 14:3 rest. As in the first Exodus, God will liberate the people from oppression.

■ 14:4 proverb. The Hebrew term has a range of meanings including brief sayings like those in the Book of Proverbs, and a figurative poem like the one here.

king of Babylon. This king is a chief representative of oppressive human power.

■ 14:7 singing. Instead of "the song of the terrible ones" (25:5), a new song will be heard in response to God's judgment and deliverance (24:14, 16; 26:1, 19; 44:23; 49:13). See note on 12:1–6.

■ 14:8 cypress . . . cedars. Nature responds to God's acts of judgment and restoration (55:13; 60:13; contrast 37:24).

No woodsman. Assyrian kings boast in their annals of the magnificent trees they carted off from pillaged lands to build their splendid palaces.

■ 14:9–11 Hell . . . Sheol. Isaiah uses the popular conception of the realm of the dead with its shadowy figures welcoming newcomers in an ironic description of Babylon's fall and her descent into the lower regions. The use of these conventional ideas is poetic, and is not intended as a theology of the afterlife. See 5:14 and note; Prov. 1:12; 9:18 and notes.

■ 14:9 thrones. The defeated kings had thrones in their royal graves. By contrast the king of Babylon is given a bed of maggots (v. 11).

■ 14:12 fallen from heaven. This figure represents in an exaggerated

How you are cut down to the ground,
You who weakened the nations!
13 For you have said in your heart:
[m]'I will ascend into heaven,
[n]I will exalt my throne above the stars of God;
I will also sit on the [o]mount of the congregation
[p]On the farthest sides of the north;
14 I will ascend above the heights of the clouds,
[q]I will be like the Most High.'
15 Yet you [r]shall be brought down to Sheol,
To the [5]lowest depths of the Pit.

16 "Those who see you will gaze at you,
And consider you, saying:
'Is this the man who made the earth tremble,
Who shook kingdoms,
17 Who made the world as a wilderness
And destroyed its cities,
Who [6]did not open the house of his prisoners?'

18 "All the kings of the nations,
All of them, sleep in glory,
Everyone in his own house;
19 But you are cast out of your grave
Like an [7]abominable branch,
Like the garment of those who are slain,
[8]Thrust through with a sword,
Who go down to the stones of the pit,
Like a corpse trodden underfoot.
20 You will not be joined with them in burial,
Because you have destroyed your land
And slain your people.
[s]The brood of evildoers shall never be named.
21 Prepare slaughter for his children
[t]Because of the iniquity of their fathers,
Lest they rise up and possess the land,
And fill the face of the world with cities."

Babylon Destroyed

22 "For I will rise up against them," says the LORD of hosts,
"And cut off from Babylon [u]the name and [v]remnant,
[w]And offspring and posterity," says the LORD.
23 "I will also make it a possession for the [x]porcupine,
And marshes of muddy water;
I will sweep it with the broom of destruction," says the LORD of hosts.

way the fall of Babylon, with all its imperial ambitions, into destruction (cf. Lam. 2:1; Luke 4:6; 10:15).

Lucifer, son of the morning. Lit. "shining one, son of dawn." Probably this refers to the planet Venus, rising in the morning and climbing toward the top of the sky, only to be overtaken by the sun. In the ancient world observations of this astronomical cycle gave rise to several myths. Babylon seems to have thought of itself as fulfilling such a heavenly destiny, and becoming an eternal and universal empire. But with the appearance of God (v. 22), Babylon's light would be extinguished.

■ 14:13 on the mount of the congregation. According to Canaanite myths, the god El presided over an assembly of gods on a mountain in Syria. Babylon was ready to claim this honor for itself.

sides of the north. A traditional rendering of Hebrew zaphon. Psalm 48:1, 2 mentions these "sides of the north" as belonging to the Lord alone.

■ 14:14 Most High. See Gen. 14:19, 20. This is a restatement of v. 13. People may claim rule over every realm of God's kingdom, but God is still sovereign.

■ 14:15 Sheol . . . Pit. See vv. 9–11 and notes.

■ 14:16 kingdoms. See note on 13:4.

■ 14:17 wilderness . . . prisoners. Babylon used the power of which it was so proud for destruction and cruelty.

■ 14:18 the kings . . . sleep. The satirical contrast introduced in v. 9 is taken up again. The conquered kings are pictured in honored rest, while proud Babylon is thrown out like unhealthy refuse. To be deprived of a proper burial was regarded as a great misfortune.

■ 14:22 remnant. Unlike Israel, Assyria has no remnant (v. 30; cf. 15:9; 17:3 and 1:9 note).

■ 14:23 porcupine. See note on 13:21, 22. It is possible that a certain type of bird is meant, rather than a porcupine.

Assyria Destroyed

24 The LORD of hosts has sworn, saying,
"Surely, as I have thought, so it shall come to pass,
And as I have purposed, so it shall [y]stand:
25 That I will break the [z]Assyrian in My land,
And on My mountains tread him underfoot.
Then [a]his yoke shall be removed from them,
And his burden removed from their shoulders.
26 This is the [b]purpose that is purposed against the whole earth,
And this is the hand that is stretched out over all the nations.
27 For the LORD of hosts has [c]purposed,
And who will annul it?
His hand is stretched out,
And who will turn it back?"

Philistia Destroyed

28 This is the [g]burden which came in the year that [d]King Ahaz died.

29 "Do not rejoice, all you of Philistia,
[e]Because the rod that struck you is broken;
For out of the serpent's roots will come forth a viper,
[f]And its offspring will be a fiery flying serpent.
30 The firstborn of the poor will feed,
And the needy will lie down in safety;
I will kill your roots with famine,
And it will slay your remnant.
31 Wail, O gate! Cry, O city!
All you of Philistia are dissolved;
For smoke will come from the north,
And no one will be alone in his [l]appointed times."

32 What will they answer the messengers of the nation?
That [g]the LORD has founded Zion,
And [h]the poor of His people shall take refuge in it.

■ 14:25 yoke. See note on 9:3, 4.

■ 14:26, 27 the purpose . . . who will annul. These verses concluding the section that began at 13:1 are an eloquent statement of God's irresistible judgment over the whole earth (43:13).

■ 14:28 burden. See note on 13:1. This oracle could date from as early as 727 B.C., four years before Shalmaneser's attack on Samaria, or as late as 715 B.C., fourteen years before the fall of Samaria (2 Kin. 18:13). The later date is preferable since it corresponds to a time of Philistine revolt against Assyria.

■ 14:29 rod. See note on 10:5. This is an Assyrian king—either Tiglath-Pileser III (d. 727 B.C.) or Sargon (d. 705 B.C.). broken. This weakness in Assyria's hegemony is temporary.

viper . . . fiery flying serpent. There is no need to identify the snakes with particular kings, like Sennacherib, Esarhaddon, or Ashurbanipal. The idea is that Assyrian strength will go on for more than one generation despite successions of kings.

■ 14:30 poor . . . needy. See 11:4; Ps. 19:8 and notes.

remnant. See note on v. 22.

■ 14:31 smoke . . . from the north. This reference is to the Assyrian invasion.

■ 14:32 messengers. The Philistines sought to create a coalition with Judah and other nations, but God's response through Isaiah is clear. God will protect His own, in spite of the political and military turmoil.

■ 15:1—16:14 This oracle of judgment against Moab was probably delivered around the time of Sargon's defeat of Moab in 715 B.C. See also 11:14; 25:10; Jer. 48; Ezek. 25:8–11; Amos 2:1–3; Zeph. 2:8–11. The oracle concerns Moab's distress (ch. 15) and the response to Moab's distress (ch. 16).

■ 15:1 burden. See note on 13:1.

Moab. Moab was a nation east of the Dead Sea, between the Ammonites and the Edomites. Her relations with Judah were often tense.

Ar . . . Kir. The city of Ar was on the Arnon River, and Kir was the capital of Moab.

2 He has gone up to the [2]temple and Dibon,
To the high places to weep.
Moab will wail over Nebo and over Medeba;
[d]On all their heads will be baldness,
And every beard cut off.
3 In their streets they will clothe themselves with sackcloth;
On the tops of their houses
And in their streets
Everyone will wail, [e]weeping bitterly.
4 Heshbon and Elealeh will cry out,
Their voice shall be heard as far as [f]Jahaz;
Therefore the [3]armed soldiers of Moab will cry out;
His life will be burdensome to him.
5 "My[g] heart will cry out for Moab;
His fugitives shall flee to Zoar,
Like [4]a three-year-old heifer.
For [h]by the Ascent of Luhith
They will go up with weeping;
For in the way of Horonaim
They will raise up a cry of destruction,
6 For the waters [i]of Nimrim will be desolate,
For the green grass has withered away;
The grass fails, there is nothing green.
7 Therefore the abundance they have gained,
And what they have laid up,
They will carry away to the Brook of the Willows.
8 For the cry has gone all around the borders of Moab,
Its wailing to Eglaim
And its wailing to Beer Elim.
9 For the waters of [5]Dimon will be full of blood;
Because I will bring more upon [5]Dimon,
[j]Lions upon him who escapes from Moab,
And on the remnant of the land."

Moab Destroyed

16 Send [a]the lamb to the ruler of the land,
[b]From [1]Sela to the wilderness,
To the mount of the daughter of Zion.
2 For it shall be as a [c]wandering bird thrown out of the nest;
So shall be the daughters of Moab at the fords of the [d]Arnon.

2 [c]Prov. 27:8 [d]Num. 21:13

■ 15:2 Dibon . . . high places. Dibon was a site north of the Arnon River devoted to the worship of the Moabite god Chemosh.

Nebo . . . Medeba. Nebo was a village north of the Arnon River, not far from the mountain where Moses went to look at the Promised Land (Deut. 34:1). Medeba was five miles to the southeast.

baldness. The customs of mourning included cutting the hair and shaving.

■ 15:3 streets. See note on 24:11.

sackcloth . . . weeping. These were customs of mourning (v. 2; 22:12; Jer. 4:8; 41:5; 48:20, 34; Lam. 2:10).

■ 15:4 Heshbon and Elealeh. These two towns were close together, about six miles north of Medeba (v. 2). Heshbon was captured by Israel under Moses (Num. 21:23–26).

Jahaz. Located on the Arnon River, about twenty miles south of Heshbon (Num. 21:23; Jer. 48:34).

■ 15:5 My heart will cry. Isaiah has noticeably more sympathy for Moab, Ruth's homeland (16:11), than for the other nations.

Zoar. The Moabites flee to Zoar, as their forefather Lot had done (Gen. 19:23–30).

Luhith . . . Horonaim. Unidentified cities probably close to Zoar (Jer. 48:3, 5, 34).

■ 15:6 waters of Nimrim. Possibly a seasonal stream southeast of the Dead Sea (Jer. 48:34).

■ 15:7 Brook of the Willows. This may be the Zered River on the border between Moab and Edom (v. 8).

■ 15:9 Dimon . . . blood. Dimon may be another spelling of Dibon, a city on the Arnon River.

Lions. The fugitives go from trouble to trouble (cf. Amos 5:19) in their flight southward. They finally turn to Judah in the west for asylum (16:1–5).

■ 16:1 Send the lamb. The Moabites were shepherds (Num. 32:3, 4), and could send lambs as tokens of their submission (cf. 2 Kin. 3:4).

From Sela. The fugitives were either at Sela, a naturally fortified site in Edom or at a mountain stronghold (Hebrew sela' means "rock," or "cliff"). The tribute is sent from their outpost to Judah.

Zion. See note on 1:8.

■ 16:2 bird . . . at the fords. The fugitives became refugees fleeing to the south (15:8, 9).

3 "Take counsel, execute judgment;
Make your shadow like the night in the middle of the day;
Hide the outcasts,
Do not betray him who escapes.
4 Let My outcasts dwell with you, O Moab;
Be a shelter to them from the face of the [2]spoiler.
For the extortioner is at an end,
Devastation ceases,
The oppressors are consumed out of the land.
5 In mercy [e]the throne will be established;
And One will sit on it in truth, in the tabernacle of David,
[f]Judging and seeking justice and hastening [g]righteousness."

6 We have heard of the [h]pride of Moab—
He is very proud—
Of his haughtiness and his pride and his wrath;
[i]But his [3]lies shall not be so.
7 Therefore Moab shall [j]wail for Moab;
Everyone shall wail.
For the foundations [k]of Kir Hareseth you shall mourn;
Surely they are stricken.

8 For [l]the fields of Heshbon languish,
And [m]the vine of Sibmah;
The lords of the nations have broken down its choice plants,
Which have reached to Jazer
And wandered through the wilderness.
Her branches are stretched out,
They are gone over the [n]sea.
9 Therefore I will bewail the vine of Sibmah,
With the weeping of Jazer;
I will drench you with my tears,
[o]O Heshbon and Elealeh;
For [4]battle cries have fallen
Over your summer fruits and your harvest.

10 [p]Gladness is taken away,
And joy from the plentiful field;
In the vineyards there will be no singing,
Nor will there be shouting;
No treaders will tread out wine in the presses;
I have made their shouting cease.
11 Therefore [q]my [5]heart shall resound like a harp for Moab,
And my inner being for [6]Kir Heres.

12 And it shall come to pass,
When it is seen that Moab is weary on [r]the high place,
That he will come to his sanctuary to pray;
But he will not prevail.

12 [r]Is. 15:2

■ 16:3 shadow. The verse requests protection from the heat of the day.

■ 16:4 extortioner . . . oppressors. Assyria.

■ 16:5 In mercy. God had made a covenant with David (55:3; 2 Sam. 22:51; Ps. 89:28; see note on 54:8). In Jesus, the Son of David, the nations find shelter (Acts 15:16, 17).

throne . . . tabernacle of David. Hope lies in Yahweh and in His promises to David (9:2–7; 11:1–9; Amos 9:11, 12).

■ 16:7 See "God Sees and Knows: Divine Omniscience" at Prov. 15:3.

foundations. The text should probably be translated as "raisin cakes."

■ 16:8 Heshbon . . . Sibmah. These places were not far apart (15:4; Jer. 48:32).

vine. The imagery of the vineyard (5:1–7) is applied here to Moab.

Jazer . . . the sea. Jazer was the extreme north of Moabite territory.

■ 16:9 I will bewail . . . I will drench. Isaiah is moved by the desolation of the fine vineyards.

Elealeh. See 15:4.

■ 16:11 my heart shall resound . . . my inner being. This describes deeply felt sorrow (v. 9; 21:3, 4; cf. Jer. 48:36). See note on 15:5.

■ 16:12 high place . . . sanctuary. See note on 15:2.

13 This is the word which the LORD has spoken concerning Moab since that time. 14 But now the LORD has spoken, saying, "Within three years, [s]as the years of a hired man, the glory of Moab will be despised with all that great multitude, and the remnant will be very small and feeble."

Proclamation Against Syria and Israel

17 The [a]burden[1] against Damascus.

"Behold, Damascus will cease from being a city,
And it will be a ruinous heap.
2 [2]The cities of [b]Aroer are forsaken;
They will be for flocks
Which lie down, and [c]no one will make them afraid.
3 [d]The fortress also will cease from Ephraim,
The kingdom from Damascus,
And the remnant of Syria;
They will be as the glory of the children of Israel,"
Says the LORD of hosts.

4 "In that day it shall come to pass
That the glory of Jacob will [3]wane,
And [e]the fatness of his flesh grow lean.
5 [f]It shall be as when the harvester gathers the grain,
And reaps the heads with his arm;
It shall be as he who gathers heads of grain
In the Valley of Rephaim.
6 [g]Yet gleaning grapes will be left in it,
Like the shaking of an olive tree.
Two or three olives at the top of the uppermost bough,
Four or five in its most fruitful branches,"
Says the LORD God of Israel.

7 In that day a man will [h]look to his Maker,
And his eyes will have respect for the Holy One of Israel.
8 He will not look to the altars,
The work of his hands;
He will not respect what his [i]fingers have made,
Nor the [4]wooden images nor the incense altars.

9 In that day his strong cities will be as a forsaken [5]bough
And [6]an uppermost branch,
Which they left because of the children of Israel;
And there will be desolation.

■ 16:13 the LORD has spoken. This summary regarding Moab's distress is in prose form. Either it is a revelation in the past or a reference to the oracles in 15:1–9 or 15:1—16:12.

■ 16:14 Within three years. The desolation of Moab is at hand. Perhaps this is a reference to the quelling of the rebellion against Sargon, king of Assyria, in 715 B.C.

glory. The prophetic word applies to all who exalt themselves and trouble the people of God. Salvation is in the Messiah (v. 5), but those who seek refuge for political or economic reasons will not find shelter in Zion.

■ 17:1–14 This oracle of judgment concerning Damascus may be dated to the Syro-Ephraimite crisis of 734–732 B.C.

■ 17:1 burden. See 13:1.

Damascus. Besides being the capital of Syria, it was also the commercial hub along the trade routes between Mesopotamia, Egypt and Arabia. Damascus was captured by Tiglath-Pileser III in 732 B.C.

■ 17:2 Aroer. This city was located on the Arnon River (2 Kin. 10:32, 33). Syria's political control extended at times to the Arnon.

■ 17:3 fortress . . . Ephraim. The "strong cities" (v. 9) of Israel were already weakened by 732 B.C. (9:1 note) and ceased to exist in 722 B.C. remnant. Unlike Israel, Syria has no remnant.

■ 17:5 Valley of Rephaim. A lush valley southwest of Jerusalem, it was the gateway to the western plains (Josh. 15:8; 18:16; 2 Sam. 5:18, 22; 1 Chr. 14:9).

■ 17:7 man. The faithful remnant look to their Creator.

Maker. The prophet contrasts the works of God with those of His creatures. See note on 2:8.

■ 17:8 wooden images. See text note. The Canaanite goddess Asherah was a fertility goddess, symbolized by sacred groves and poles (27:9; Ex. 34:13; Deut. 16:21; Judg. 2:13).

10 Because you have forgotten [j]the God of your salvation,
And have not been mindful of the Rock of your [7]stronghold,
Therefore you will plant pleasant plants
And set out foreign seedlings;
11 In the day you will make your plant to grow,
And in the morning you will make your seed to flourish;
But the harvest will be a heap of ruins
In the day of grief and desperate sorrow.

12 Woe to the multitude of many people
Who make a noise [k]like the roar of the seas,
And to the rushing of nations
That make a rushing like the rushing of mighty waters!
13 The nations will rush like the rushing of many waters;
But God will [l]rebuke them and they will flee far away,
And [m]be chased like the chaff of the mountains before the wind,
Like a rolling thing before the whirlwind.
14 Then behold, at eventide, trouble!
And before the morning, he is no more.
This is the portion of those who plunder us,
And the lot of those who rob us.

Proclamation Against Ethiopia

18 Woe [a]to the land shadowed with buzzing wings,
Which is beyond the rivers of [1]Ethiopia,
2 Which sends ambassadors by sea,
Even in vessels of reed on the waters, saying,
"Go, swift messengers, to a nation tall and smooth of skin,

A nation powerful and treading down,
Whose land the rivers divide."

stronghold. The Lord alone is the strength of His people (25:4; 27:5), in contrast to military and political solutions (v. 9; 23: 11, 14; 30:2).

pleasant plants . . . foreign seedlings. This reference probably points to Canaanite fertility rituals. Israel had cultivated relations with her neighbors and had adapted their ways.

■ 17:11 make your plant to grow. Perhaps this alludes to a pagan practice in which potted plants were forced to sprout in order to secure fertile crops.

harvest. The end will bring nothing but disaster.

■ 17:12 roar of the seas . . . mighty waters. The destructive power of the nations appears to be like that of the "seas" and "mighty waters" (8:7 note). In ancient Near Eastern myths the sea represents chaos and death (Ezek. 28:2; 32:2 and notes).

■ 17:13 chaff . . . rolling thing. To be driven away as chaff (cf. 29:5; 41:15, 16; Ps. 83:13) reveals a lack of life, value, and stability.

mountains. Grain is winnowed on windy hilltops.

■ 17:14 trouble. An unforeseen series of troubles (24:17, 18), appear on the day of the Lord's wrath (22:5). The Lord still protects His people. He is Immanuel (7:14 note; 8:8 note; 8:10 note), who repays the nations for the evil done to His people.

■ 18:1 Woe. See note on 1:4.

land . . . buzzing wings. This may mean either a land of "many insects" or "many ships" (so ancient translations).

Ethiopia. The biblical Ethiopia or "Cush" is the remote region of southern Egypt and beyond, including Nubia, south of the fourth cataract of the Nile. The Nubian Shabako ruled over lower Egypt from 715 B.C. (twenty-fifth Dynasty). His administration tried to extend his influence northward into the delta region.

■ 18:2 vessels of reed. These are papyrus boats that the Nubians could use to send messengers to incite the nations to rebel against Assyria.

tall and smooth of skin. The phrase possibly refers to the impressive appearance of the nation or nations that the remote Nubians were trying to stir up.

■ 18:3 inhabitants of the world. Those addressed in this oracle will observe what the Lord is doing.

banner. See note on 5:26. Trumpets were also commonly used as signals in war.

■ 18:4 I will take My rest . . . My dwelling place. Yahweh patiently observes the rebellion of the nations (Ps. 2:1–4).

Proclamation Against Egypt

19 The [a]burden[1] against Egypt.

Behold, the LORD [b]rides on a swift cloud,
And will come into Egypt;
[c]The idols of Egypt will [2]totter at His presence,
And the heart of Egypt will melt in its midst.

2 "I will [d]set Egyptians against Egyptians;
Everyone will fight against his brother,
And everyone against his neighbor,
City against city, kingdom against kingdom.
3 The spirit of Egypt will fail in its midst;
I will destroy their counsel,
And they will [e]consult the idols and the charmers,
The mediums and the sorcerers.
4 And the Egyptians I will give
[f]Into the hand of a cruel master,
And a fierce king will rule over them,"
Says the Lord, the LORD of hosts.

5 [g]The waters will fail from the sea,
And the river will be wasted and dried up.
6 The rivers will turn foul;
The brooks [h]of defense will be emptied and dried up;
The reeds and rushes will wither.

■ 18:5, 6 These verses contain two images of God's judgment. First, there is the pruning of the vines before harvest to encourage the development of the grapes, "sprigs" and "branches." Second, there is the carcass on which the "mountain birds of prey" and the wild animals feed. Contrast 31:5.

summer . . . winter. The length of time implied emphasizes how extensive the carnage will be.

■ 18:7 a present. The nations offer tokens of submission (13:4 note; 16:1 note).

tall and smooth of skin. See v. 2.

the place. The temple was the Old Testament token of God's kingdom (Deut. 12:5, 11).

■ 19:1—20:6 An oracle of judgment concerning Egypt. In contrast to ch. 20, the language of ch. 19 is symbolic, not historically specific.

■ 19:1 burden. Prophetic message (13:1 note).

■ 19:3 the idols . . . and the sorcerers. On idolatry and divination, see 2:6, 8; 8:19.

■ 19:4 cruel master . . . fierce king. Egypt, too, will be subjugated; perhaps this is an allusion to Pharaoh's cruelty before the Exodus (Ex. 6:9).

LORD of hosts. See note on 1:9.

■ 19:5 river . . . dried. This spells economic disaster for a country whose life depends on the Nile. God can easily dry up Egypt's many waters.

■ 19:6 reeds and rushes. Contrast 35:6, 7.

7 The papyrus reeds by [3]the River, by the mouth of the River,
And everything sown by the River,
Will wither, be driven away, and be no more.
8 The fishermen also will mourn;
All those will lament who cast hooks into the River,
And they will languish who spread nets on the waters.
9 Moreover those who work in [i]fine flax
And those who weave fine fabric will be ashamed;
10 And its foundations will be broken.
All who make wages will be troubled of soul.

11 Surely the princes of [j]Zoan are fools;
Pharaoh's wise counselors give foolish counsel.
[k]How do you say to Pharaoh, "I am the son of the wise,
The son of ancient kings?"
12 [l]Where are they?
Where are your wise men?
Let them tell you now,
And let them know what the LORD of hosts has [m]purposed against Egypt.
13 The princes of Zoan have become fools;
[n]The princes of [4]Noph are deceived;
They have also [5]deluded Egypt,
Those who are the [6]mainstay of its tribes.
14 The LORD has mingled [o]a perverse spirit in her midst;
And they have caused Egypt to err in all her work,
As a drunken man staggers in his vomit.
15 Neither will there be any work for Egypt,
Which [p]the head or tail,
Palm branch or bulrush, may do.

16 In that day Egypt will [q]be like women, and will be afraid and fear because of the waving of the hand of the LORD of hosts, [r]which He waves over it. 17 And the land of Judah will be a terror to Egypt; everyone who makes mention of it will be afraid in himself, because of the counsel of the LORD of hosts which He has [s]determined against it.

Egypt, Assyria, and Israel Blessed

18 In that day five cities in the land of Egypt will [t]speak the language of Canaan and [u]swear by the LORD of hosts; one will be called the City of [7]Destruction.

19 In that day [v]there will be an altar to the LORD in the midst of the land of Egypt, and a pillar to the [w]LORD at its border. 20 And [x]it will be for a sign and for a witness to the LORD of hosts in the land of Egypt; for they will cry to the LORD because of the oppressors, and He will send them a [y]Savior and a Mighty One, and He will deliver them. 21 Then the LORD will be known to

■ 19:7 sown by the River. Egypt was the bread-basket of many countries because of the regular flooding of the Nile (Gen. 41:57).

■ 19:9 flax . . . fine fabric. God's judgment against Egypt fell on the important industries of fishing (v. 8) and flax products, for which Egypt was famous.

■ 19:10 foundations. The meaning of this Hebrew word is uncertain. Some believe it is a metaphor for the nobles as the "foundation" of the society in contrast to those "who make wages." Others suggest "weavers" of cloth. The point is that all aspects of the society will suffer greatly.

■ 19:11 Zoan. Also known as Tanis, this was a city in the Nile Delta (Num. 13:22; Ps. 78:12, 43) and Egypt's capital at the time.

fools. God turns the wisdom of the wise into folly.

counselors . . . foolish counsel. See note on 11:2.

son of the wise, The son of ancient kings. This sarcastic remark taunts Egypt's claim to wisdom (cf. 1 Kin. 4:29–31).

■ 19:12 Where are your wise men. These words addressed to Pharaoh continue to stand as a polemic against human pride (1 Cor. 1:20).

■ 19:13 princes . . . mainstay. These include political, economic, and religious leaders.

Noph. That is, Memphis. This city in Lower Egypt was its ancient capital.

■ 19:16 waving of the hand. See note on 14:26, 27.

■ 19:18 five cities. Not just one but five cities will turn to the Lord.

language of Canaan. This shows how great a change is in view, because anything Canaanite was an abomination to the Egyptians (Gen. 43:32; 46:34).

swear by the LORD. That is, submit completely to God.

City of Destruction. This probably refers to Heliopolis ("City of the Sun," see text note). Jewish scribes parodied the name by changing the Hebrew word for "sun" to the almost identical Hebrew word for "destruction."

■ 19:20 sign . . . witness. The altar (v. 19) signifies their commitment to the Lord (cf. Gen. 12:8; 28:22; Josh. 22:26–29).

Egypt, and the Egyptians will [z]know the LORD in that day, and [a]will make sacrifice and offering; yes, they will make a vow to the LORD and perform it. 22 And the LORD will strike Egypt, He will strike and [b]heal it; they will return to the LORD, and He will be entreated by them and heal them.

23 In that day [c]there will be a highway from Egypt to Assyria, and the Assyrian will come into Egypt and the Egyptian into Assyria, and the Egyptians will [d]serve with the Assyrians.

24 In that day Israel will be one of three with Egypt and Assyria—a blessing in the midst of the land, 25 whom the LORD of hosts shall bless, saying, "Blessed is Egypt My people, and Assyria [e]the work of My hands, and Israel My inheritance."

The Sign Against Egypt and Ethiopia

20 In the year that [a]Tartan[1] came to Ashdod, when Sargon the king of Assyria sent him, and he fought against Ashdod and took it, 2 at the same time the LORD spoke by Isaiah the son of Amoz, saying, "Go, and remove [b]the sackcloth from your [2]body, and take your sandals off your feet." And he did so, [c]walking naked and barefoot.

3 Then the LORD said, "Just as My servant Isaiah has walked naked and barefoot three years [d]for a sign and a wonder against Egypt and Ethiopia, 4 so shall the [e]king of Assyria lead away the Egyptians as prisoners and the Ethiopians as captives, young and old, naked and barefoot, [f]with their buttocks uncovered, to the shame of Egypt. 5 [g]Then they shall be afraid and ashamed of Ethiopia their expectation and Egypt their glory. 6 And the inhabitant of this territory will say in that day, 'Surely such is our expectation, wherever we flee for [h]help to be delivered from the king of Assyria; and how shall we escape?' "

So it comes from the desert, from a terrible land.

And the plunderer plunders.

Besiege, O Media!
All its sighing I have made to cease.

Savior and a Mighty One. God will fill these roles to deliver them from oppressors, as He did for Israel in the days of the judges (Judg. 2:18; 3:9, 15).

■ 19:22 strike . . . heal. Divine discipline will draw the Egyptians to the Lord (30:26; Hos. 6:1; 14:1, 2, 4).

■ 19:23 highway. Building this link between Egypt and Assyria symbolizes the removal of the alienation between them (cf. 11:16 note).

Egypt to Assyria. These two great cultures find unity in a common commitment to the Lord.

■ 19:24 blessing in the midst of the land. Israel, Egypt, and Assyria will join in the patriarchal promises (Gen. 12:2, 3).

■ 19:25 people . . . work of My hands . . . inheritance. Each will share in full covenant membership, signified by three designations: "people" (cf. 10:24; 40:1 note; Ps. 100:3; Jer. 11:4; Hos. 2:23); "work of My hands" (60:21; Ps. 119:73; 138:8); "inheritance" (Deut. 32:9).

■ 20:1 Tartan. Probably not a name but a title designating a high officer in the Assyrian army (see text note).

Ashdod. This Philistine city rebelled against Assyria at the encouragement of Shabako, the Nubian king (18:1 note) in 713 B.C. It fell in 711. An inscription mentioning Sargon by name has been unearthed at Ashdod.

Sargon. This is Sargon II, king of Assyria from 721 to 705 B.C.

■ 20:2 sackcloth . . . barefoot. The Lord ordered Isaiah to be partially clad like a captive going into exile. Sackcloth was a garment for times of mourning (15:3; 22:12; 37:1, 2; 58:5), or else the distinctive prophetic garment (2 Kin. 1:8; Zech. 13:4).

■ 20:3 My servant. The phrase refers to a position of trust and honor before God. Moses was God's friend and servant (Ex. 14:31; Num. 12:7, 8; Deut. 34:5). Also included among God's servants were Abraham (Ps. 105:42); Jacob (Ezek. 28:25); Joshua (Josh. 24:29); David (37:35; 2 Sam. 3:18; Ps. 132:10); the Suffering Servant (52:13—53:12); and groups of people, such as the prophets (44:26) and restored Israel (41:8, 9; 43:10; 44:1, 2, 21; 45:4; 48:20). God's servants may suffer, but they are promised a great heritage as "servants of the LORD" (54:17; 65:8, 9, 13–15; 66:14).

three years. It could designate the time that Isaiah walked about as a sign or the duration before the sign would be realized.

sign and a wonder. The prophetic style of life (8:18; cf. Deut. 13:1, 2; Jer. 32:20) pointed out the folly of relying on Egypt, because Egypt, like any nation, was vulnerable.

■ 20:4 king of Assyria. Esarhaddon fulfilled this prophecy in 671 B.C.

■ 20:6 in that day. See note on 2:11.

expectation. Egypt's fate will persuade the people that no ally can help them escape.

■ 21:1 burden. See note on 13:1.

Wilderness of the Sea. This is probably a sarcastic parody. Babylon's southern region on the Persian Gulf, known as "Land of the Sea," will become a wilderness or as good as a wilderness to anyone looking for salvation from there.

■ 21:2 distressing vision. The prophet is overwhelmed by what he sees.

deals treacherously . . . plunders. In the course of waging war.

Elam . . . Media. Elam was a major region of Persia. It was allied with Media in 700 B.C. Perhaps as a part of Assyria's army (5:26 note) Elam helped to conquer Babylon in 689 B.C., as they certainly did in 539 B.C. (11:11; 13:17 and notes).

its. The indefinite subject could refer to the groan of Babylon under Assyrian domination or to the groan of the nations under Babylonian control. The former is more likely, because Babylon rose to power in 605 B.C.

3 Therefore [d]my loins are filled with pain;
[e]Pangs have taken hold of me, like the pangs of a woman in labor.
I was [2]distressed when I heard it;
I was dismayed when I saw it.
4 My heart wavered, fearfulness frightened me;
[f]The night for which I longed He turned into fear for me.
5 [g]Prepare the table,
Set a watchman in the tower,
Eat and drink.
Arise, you princes,
Anoint the shield!

6 For thus has the Lord said to me:
"Go, set a watchman,
Let him declare what he sees."
7 And he saw a chariot with a pair of horsemen,
A chariot of donkeys, and a chariot of camels,
And he listened earnestly with great care.
8 [3]Then he cried, "A lion, my Lord!
I stand continually on the [h]watchtower in the daytime;
I have sat at my post every night.
9 And look, here comes a chariot of men with a pair of horsemen!"
Then he answered and said,
[i]"Babylon is fallen, is fallen!
And [j]all the carved images of her gods
He has broken to the ground."

10 [k]Oh, my threshing and the grain of my floor!

The God of Israel,
I have declared to you.

■ 21:3, 4 The expressions in these verses convey great psychological suffering on the prophet's part (16:9–11; 22:4; cf. Dan. 8:27; 10:16–17). The report of Babylon's fall may have distressed Isaiah because now no one could rescue Judah from Assyria.

■ 21:5 Anoint the shield. Prepare for battle.

■ 21:6 watchman. Isaiah is God's watchman in Judah.

■ 21:7 chariot . . . camels. Probably signs of an approaching army.

■ 21:9 Babylon is fallen. Finally, the seductive power of Babylon, her religion (17:7–9; 27:9; 46:1–13), and her culture have come to an end (13:19).

■ 21:10 my threshing and the grain of my floor. Judah is portrayed as an oppressed people, much like the grain under the threshing sledge (28:27, 28; 41:15, 16; Amos 1:3). See note on 40:1.

■ 21:11 burden. See note on 13:1.

Dumah. An oasis in Edom at the intersection of the roads from the Red Sea to Palmyra and from the Persian Gulf to Petra.

Seir. Edom. The Edomites ask the prophet what the future will hold.

■ 21:12 morning . . . night. The future holds both hope and judgment, specifically, relief from Assyrian domination followed by oppression from Babylon.

■ 21:13 burden. See note on 13:1.

Dedanites. Dedan was an oasis 200 miles south of Dumah (Ezek. 27:20; 38:13).

14 O inhabitants of the land of Tema,
Bring water to him who is thirsty;
With their bread they met him who fled.
15 For they fled from the swords, from the drawn sword,
From the bent bow, and from the distress of war.

16 For thus the LORD has said to me: "Within a year, [p]according to the year of a hired man, all the glory of [q]Kedar will fail; 17 and the remainder of the number of archers, the mighty men of the people of Kedar, will be diminished; for the LORD God of Israel has spoken it."

Proclamation Against Jerusalem

22 The [1]burden against the Valley of Vision.

What ails you now, that you have all gone up to the housetops,
2 You who are full of noise,
A [2]tumultuous city, [a]a joyous city?
Your slain men are not slain with the sword,
Nor dead in battle.
3 All your rulers have fled together;
They are captured by the archers.
All who are found in you are bound together;
They have fled from afar.
4 Therefore I said, "Look away from me,
[b]I will weep bitterly;
Do not labor to comfort me
Because of the plundering of the daughter of my people."

5 [c]For it is a day of trouble and treading down and perplexity
[d]By the Lord GOD of hosts
In the Valley of Vision—
Breaking down the walls
And of crying to the mountain.
6 [e]Elam bore the quiver
With chariots of men and horsemen,
And [f]Kir uncovered the shield.
7 It shall come to pass that your choicest valleys
Shall be full of chariots,
And the horsemen shall set themselves in array at the gate.

8 [g]He removed the [3]protection of Judah.
You looked in that day to the armor [h]of the House of the Forest;

■ 21:14 Tema. This also was an oasis, located 90 miles north of Dedan (Jer. 25:23). The desert peoples provide food and water for the fugitives from the battle.

■ 21:16 Within a year. Arabia's glory will be directly affected by what happens in Babylon.

Kedar. Arabia, including Syria; the area inhabited by Bedouin tribes (Jer. 49:28, 29).

■ 22:1–25 An oracle of judgment concerning the Valley of Vision, Jerusalem. The placement of an oracle concerning Jerusalem in the midst of oracles against foreign nations may be explained by the historical association of Jerusalem with Babylon. Jerusalem had trusted in Babylon during the Assyrian hegemony, but ultimately was taken into captivity by her former ally. The occasion may be Ashdod's rebellion and the Assyrian campaign in 711 B.C., or the lifting of the siege on Jerusalem after the devastation of Judah in 701 B.C.

■ 22:1 burden. See note on 13:1.

Valley of Vision. This may be intended as an insult, to the effect that the city built on a hill (2:1) is now a valley.

gone up to the housetops. The Assyrians having left, the people gathered on the housetops for purposes of socializing and celebrating (v. 13).

■ 22:2 full of noise . . . tumultuous . . . joyous. The noisy and excited citizenry has not seen what the prophet has seen. Rather they have become complacent (32:13; Zeph. 2:15; 3:11).

not slain with the sword. They had run away (v.3).

■ 22:3 your rulers have fled. The people were governed by unreliable and selfish leaders who abandoned them to save their own lives (2 Kin. 25:4–6). The prophet is critical of human leadership and of people who have no understanding of what is happening around them (1:23–26; 3:13–15; 9:14–17; 19:13–15; 28:7–13; 29:15).

■ 22:4 Do not labor to comfort me. His sorrow was too deep for consolation. See note on 21:3–4.

■ 22:5 day. The day of the Lord. See note on 2:11.

trouble and treading down and perplexity. These images are a vivid description of desolation and destruction (18:2, 7; Deut. 28:20; Ezek. 7:7; Amos 3:9; Zech. 14:13).

Breaking down . . . crying. There is frenzied anxiety and screams of anguish.

■ 22:6 Elam . . . Kir. See notes on 11:11; 21:2. These nations to the east of Babylon joined Assyria in the siege of Jerusalem (5:26 note).

■ 22:8 the House of the Forest. This was apparently a storeroom for weapons next to the temple (1 Kin. 7:2–5).

9 [i]You also saw the [j]damage to the city of David,
That it was great;
And you gathered together the waters of the lower pool.
10 You numbered the houses of Jerusalem,
And the houses you broke down
To fortify the wall.
11 [i]You also made a reservoir between the two walls
For the water of the old [k]pool.
But you did not look to its Maker,
Nor did you have respect for Him who fashioned it long ago.

12 And in that day the Lord GOD of hosts
[l]Called for weeping and for mourning,
[m]For baldness and for girding with sackcloth.
13 But instead, joy and gladness,
Slaying oxen and killing sheep,
Eating meat and [n]drinking wine:
[o]"Let us eat and drink, for tomorrow we die!"

14 [p]Then it was revealed in my hearing by the LORD of hosts,
"Surely for this iniquity there [q]will be no atonement for you,
Even to your death," says the Lord GOD of hosts.

The Judgment on Shebna

15 Thus says the Lord GOD of hosts:

"Go, proceed to this steward,
To [r]Shebna, who is over the house, and say:
16 'What have you here, and whom have you here,
That you have hewn a sepulcher here,
As he [s]who hews himself a sepulcher on high,
Who carves a tomb for himself in a rock?
17 Indeed, the LORD will throw you away violently,
O mighty man,
[t]And will surely seize you.
18 He will surely turn violently and toss you like a ball
Into a large country;
There you shall die, and there [u]your glorious chariots
Shall be the shame of your master's house.
19 So I will drive you out of your office,
And from your position [5]he will pull you down.

20 'Then it shall be in that day,
That I will call My servant [v]Eliakim the son of Hilkiah;

■ 22:11 old pool. Probably the Gihon Spring, also known as the "upper pool" (7:3; 36:2).

fashioned it long ago. God had planned the future of Jerusalem when He determined long before to create it (37:26). No one could change His plan or avert His judgment.

■ 22:13 joy and gladness . . . drinking. This is the spirit of revelry (v. 2). It should be contrasted with the joy of God's people (35:10; 51:11).

wine. See note on 24:11.

Let us eat and drink, for tomorrow we die. This is a proverbial expression of contempt and disregard for God's purposes in history (1 Cor. 15:32; cf. Luke 12:19, 20).

■ 22:14 for this iniquity there will be no atonement. God's judgment stands (Amos 7:1–9).

■ 22:16 sepulcher . . . tomb for himself in a rock. Isaiah questions Shebna's preparation of a royal tomb in the hillside. Shebna should be providing leadership, not working on luxuries for himself. A tomb that may be Shebna's, cut in the rock, has been excavated in the Kidron Valley.

■ 22:17 mighty man. This ironic expression challenges Shebna's presumption.

■ 22:18 toss you like a ball. Shebna is insignificant and is readily overthrown (cf. Jer. 22:26).

chariots. This emphasizes Shebna's luxurious way of life.

■ 22:19 I will drive you out. By 701 B.C. Shebna had been demoted to serve as secretary, and Eliakim had assumed Shebna's office (36:3, 22).

■ 22:20 My servant. See note on 20:3. God regarded Eliakim (36:3, 11, 22; 37:2) as His servant, a special designation for one close to God.

21 I will clothe him with your robe
And strengthen him with your belt;
I will commit your responsibility into his hand.
He shall be a father to the inhabitants of Jerusalem
And to the house of Judah.
22 The key of the house of David
I will lay on his [w]shoulder;
So he shall [x]open, and no one shall shut;
And he shall shut, and no one shall open.
23 I will fasten him as [y]a peg in a secure place,
And he will become a glorious throne to his father's house.

24 'They will hang on him all the glory of his father's house, the offspring and the posterity, all vessels of small quantity, from the cups to all the pitchers. 25 In that day,' says the LORD of hosts, 'the peg that is fastened in the secure place will be removed and be cut down and fall, and the burden that was on it will be cut off; for the LORD has spoken.' "

Proclamation Against Tyre

23 The [a]burden[1] against Tyre.

Wail, you ships of Tarshish!
For it is laid waste,
So that there is no house, no harbor;
From the land of [2]Cyprus it is revealed to them.

2 Be still, you inhabitants of the coastland,
You merchants of Sidon,
[3]Whom those who cross the sea have filled.
3 And on great waters the grain of Shihor,
The harvest of [4]the River, is her revenue;
And [b]she is a marketplace for the nations.

4 Be ashamed, O Sidon;
For the sea has spoken,
The strength of the sea, saying,
"I do not labor, nor bring forth children;
Neither do I rear young men,
Nor bring up virgins."

■ 22:25 In that day. Though Eliakim was faithful, he could not avert God's judgment on Judah.

■ 23:1–18 An oracle of judgment concerning Tyre, concerning commercial systems that do not take God into consideration. The language is general and symbolic, not historically specific.

■ 23:1 burden. See note on 13:1.

Tyre. A prominent Phoenician port on the Mediterranean, west of Mt. Hermon and Damascus. Judah had a longstanding relationship with Tyre, for Solomon had traded with Hiram of Tyre (1 Kin. 5:1, 8–11) and Phoenician sailors had manned Solomon's fleet (1 Kin. 9:27).

Cyprus. This would be a port of call on the return voyage.

■ 23:2 Sidon. Tyre and Sidon were the two most important Phoenician cities, both Mediterranean ports. The fall of one would affect the other.

■ 23:3 Shihor. Egypt (cf. 19:7).

■ 23:4 the sea has spoken. The sea laments the loss or destruction of its children. Hearing this, Sidon should not be overconfident.

■ 23:6 Tarshish. Tartessus in Spain (Jon. 1:3). The nations join in the lament.

Is this your [d]joyous city,
Whose antiquity is from ancient days,
Whose feet carried her far off to dwell?
8 Who has taken this counsel against Tyre, [e]the crowning city,
Whose merchants are princes,
Whose traders are the honorable of the earth?
9 The LORD of hosts has [f]purposed it,
To [5]bring to dishonor the [g]pride of all glory,
To bring into contempt all the honorable of the earth.

10 Overflow through your land like [6]the River,
O daughter of Tarshish;
There is no more [7]strength.
11 He stretched out His hand over the sea,
He shook the kingdoms;
The LORD has given a commandment [h]against Canaan
To destroy its strongholds.
12 And He said, "You will rejoice no more,
O you oppressed virgin daughter of Sidon.
Arise, [i]cross over to Cyprus;
There also you will have no rest."

13 Behold, the land of the [j]Chaldeans,
This people which was not;
Assyria founded it for [k]wild beasts of the desert.
They set up its towers,
They raised up its palaces,
And brought it to ruin.

14 [l]Wail, you ships of Tarshish!
For your strength is laid waste.

15 Now it shall come to pass in that day that Tyre will be forgotten seventy years, according to the days of one king. At the end of seventy years it will happen to Tyre as in the song of the harlot:

16 "Take a harp, go about the city,
You forgotten harlot;
Make sweet melody, sing many songs,
That you may be remembered."

17 And it shall be, at the end of seventy years, that the LORD will deal with Tyre. She will return to her hire, and [m]commit fornication with all the kingdoms of the world on the face of the earth. 18 Her gain and her pay [n]will be set apart for the LORD; it will not be treasured nor laid up, for her gain will be for those who dwell before the LORD, to eat sufficiently, and for [8]fine clothing.

■ 23:9 LORD of hosts. See note on 1:9.

purposed. Throughout his prophecy Isaiah seeks to bring to light something of God's counsel (11:2 note).

■ 23:11 sea . . . kingdoms. God is Lord of land and sea.

Canaan. Canaan includes Tyre and Sidon.

■ 23:12 virgin daughter. The inhabitants of Sidon (cf. 37:22; 47:1).

■ 23:13 Chaldeans . . . beasts of the desert. "Chaldeans" is another name for the Assyrians; they defeated Babylon in 689 B.C. Isaiah refers to the defeat as an example for Tyre.

■ 23:15 seventy years. A period of time ordained by God; "seventy" signifies fullness. It is not possible to determine the specific time referred to.

song of the harlot. A street song concerning a prostitute.

■ 23:17 to her hire. Like a harlot, Tyre formed economic alliances with anyone who enriched her, regardless of ethics.

■ 23:18 for the LORD. Tyre, too, will acknowledge the sovereignty of the Lord by paying tribute (Deut. 2:3–35; Josh. 6:17, 19).

eat sufficiently, and for fine clothing. The wealth of the nations builds up the kingdom of God (45:14; 60:5, 11; 61:6; 66:12; Hag. 2:7, 8).

Impending Judgment on the Earth

24 Behold, the LORD makes the earth empty and makes it waste,
Distorts its surface
And scatters abroad its inhabitants.
2 And it shall be:
As with the people, so with the [a]priest;
As with the servant, so with his master;
As with the maid, so with her mistress;
[b]As with the buyer, so with the seller;
As with the lender, so with the borrower;
As with the creditor, so with the debtor.
3 The land shall be entirely emptied and utterly plundered,
For the LORD has spoken this word.

4 The earth mourns and fades away,
The world languishes and fades away;
The [c]haughty[1] people of the earth languish.
5 [d]The earth is also defiled under its inhabitants,
Because they have [e]transgressed the laws,
Changed the ordinance,
Broken the [f]everlasting covenant.
6 Therefore [g]the curse has devoured the earth,
And those who dwell in it are [2]desolate.
Therefore the inhabitants of the earth are [h]burned,
And few men are left.

7 [i]The new wine fails, the vine languishes,
All the merry-hearted sigh.
8 The mirth [j]of the tambourine ceases,
The noise of the jubilant ends,
The joy of the harp ceases.
9 They shall not drink wine with a song;
Strong drink is bitter to those who drink it.
10 The city of confusion is broken down;
Every house is shut up, so that none may go in.
11 There is a cry for wine in the streets,
All joy is darkened,
The mirth of the land is gone.
12 In the city desolation is left,
And the gate is stricken with destruction.

■ 24:1—27:13 This section of Isaiah is often called an "apocalypse." The prophet holds before sinner and godly the clear teaching that the day of the Lord brings judgment on creation and the fullness of salvation for the saints. God's plan of redemption includes restoration from exile, the blessings of Christ in the church, and the establishment of God's kingdom in all nations. Ch. 24 focuses on God's overthrow of the corrupted earth; ch. 25, on the praise that comes to Him in response; and chs. 26 and 27 on God's interaction with His people. Brilliant assonances, incapable of translation, enhance the prophetic message.

■ 24:1 the LORD makes the earth empty. This is not annihilation, but a situation in which human structures can no longer operate (v. 3).

waste. All human resources are removed (Nah. 2:10).

Distorts its surface. The world is filled with disturbances and distresses (Lam. 3:9).

scatters. God will judge the people more severely than He did at Babel, when He scattered them by confounding their languages (Gen. 11:8, 9).

■ 24:2 people . . . priest. God will judge everyone, without making social distinctions.

■ 24:3 spoken. See note on 1:19, 20.

■ 24:4 haughty. People in their pride elevate themselves against God (2:11, 12, 17).

■ 24:5 earth is also defiled . . . Broken. The days of Noah will have returned to the earth (Gen. 6:5, 11–13). The earth itself is considered to be in danger of judgment due to the sins of those who live on it (Jer. 44:22; Rom. 8:20–22).

■ 24:6 left. This Hebrew word is also translated "remnant" (1:9; 10:20, 21). As in the days of Noah (Gen. 6:8, 18), "few" will remain.

■ 24:7–13 The prophet explains what the universal day of the Lord will be like. There will be sorrow instead of laughter (vv. 8–11; see notes on 22:2, 13). The makers of music and song stop in the middle of their act (cf. 5:12).

■ 24:10 city of confusion. That is, the city of desolation or desolate city; possibly Jerusalem, possibly meaning civilization in general.

house. What used to be a place of private security and enjoyment of life (5:9; 6:11; 13:16, 21; 32:13) is closed.

13 When it shall be thus in the midst of the land among the people,
[k]It shall be like the shaking of an olive tree,
Like the gleaning of grapes when the vintage is done.

14 They shall lift up their voice, they shall sing;
For the majesty of the LORD
They shall cry aloud from the sea.
15 Therefore [l]glorify the LORD in the dawning light,
[m]The name of the LORD God of Israel in the coastlands of the sea.
16 From the ends of the earth we have heard songs:
"Glory to the righteous!"
But I said, [3]"I am ruined, ruined!
Woe to me!
[n]The treacherous dealers have dealt treacherously,
Indeed, the treacherous dealers have dealt very treacherously."

17 [o]Fear and the pit and the snare
Are upon you, O inhabitant of the earth.
18 And it shall be
That he who flees from the noise of the fear
Shall fall into the pit,
And he who comes up from the midst of the pit
Shall be [4]caught in the snare;
For [p]the windows from on high are open,
And [q]the foundations of the earth are shaken.

19 [r]The earth is violently broken,
The earth is split open,
The earth is shaken exceedingly.
20 The earth shall [s]reel[5] to and fro like a drunkard,
And shall totter like a hut;
Its transgression shall be heavy upon it,
And it will fall, and not rise again.

21 It shall come to pass in that day
That the LORD will punish on high the host of exalted ones,
And on the earth [t]the kings of the earth.
22 They will be gathered together,
As prisoners are gathered in the [6]pit,
And will be shut up in the prison;
After many days they will be punished.
23 Then the [u]moon will be disgraced
And the sun ashamed;
For the LORD of hosts will [v]reign
On [w]Mount Zion and in Jerusalem
And before His elders, gloriously.

■ 24:13 olive tree . . . gleaning. See note on 17:4.

■ 24:14 lift up their voice. The new song is in response to God's act of salvation (cf. ch. 12; 35:6; 42:10–13; 44:23; 49:13; 52:8, 9; 65:14). See v. 16; 14:7 note.

majesty. They sing of the greatness of Yahweh as over against human pride.

■ 24:15 glorify the LORD. This is a call to give God the recognition worthy of His name (25:3; 43:20; Ps. 22:23; Rev. 4:8—5:14). See note on 37:16.

■ 24:16 the ends of the earth. The nations will also join in.

But I. Isaiah, filled with tension as he looks forward to God's salvation, sees the corruption around him and is unable to join the hymn of praise.

treacherous. The Hebrew evokes a sense of widespread corruption. Deception is everywhere.

■ 24:18 windows . . . are open. The judgment is like the Flood (cf. Gen. 7:11; 8:2).

foundations . . . shaken. The image of an earthquake is expanded in vv. 19, 20 and is an expression of a theophany (6:1 note; 13:13 note; Ps. 99:1 note).

■ 24:21 host of exalted ones . . . kings. These include the gods of the nations, Satan's hosts, and human powers (cf. Eph. 6:11, 12). They are reserved for punishment and will be cast out from God's presence (2 Pet. 2:4; Rev. 17:8; 20:10).

■ 24:23 moon . . . sun. See note on 13:10.

Praise to God

25 O LORD, You are my God.
[a]I will exalt You,
I will praise Your name,
[b]For You have done wonderful things;
[c]Your counsels of old are faithfulness and truth.
2 For You have made [d]a city a ruin,
A fortified city a ruin,
A palace of foreigners to be a city no more;
It will never be rebuilt.
3 Therefore the strong people will [e]glorify You;
The city of the [f]terrible nations will fear You.
4 For You have been a strength to the poor,
A strength to the needy in his distress,
[f]A refuge from the storm,
A shade from the heat;
For the blast of the terrible ones is as a storm against the wall.
5 You will reduce the noise of aliens,
As heat in a dry place;
As heat in the shadow of a cloud,
The song of the terrible ones will be [2]diminished.

6 And in [g]this mountain
[h]The LORD of hosts will make for [i]all people
A feast of [3]choice pieces,
A feast of [4]wines on the lees,
Of fat things full of marrow,
Of well-refined wines on the lees.
7 And He will destroy on this mountain
The surface of the covering cast over all people,
And [j]the veil that is spread over all nations.
8 He will [k]swallow up death forever,
And the Lord GOD will [l]wipe away tears from all faces;
The rebuke of His people
He will take away from all the earth;
For the LORD has spoken.

9 And it will be said in that day:
"Behold, this is our God;
[m]We have waited for Him, and He will save us.

■ 25:1 my God. A personal affirmation of confidence in God (7:13; 49:4, 5).

■ 25:6 mountain. Zion, the mountain of the Lord (vv. 7, 10). See note on 2:2.

choice pieces . . . wines. Ps. 23:5; Matt. 8:11; Luke 13:29; Rev. 19:9.

■ 25:7 covering . . . veil. Perhaps these words refer to the grave as the covering for the dead.

■ 25:8 swallow up death. Paradoxically, the devouring "mouth," from which no one can escape, will itself be swallowed up (5:14; Prov. 1:12 note).

Lord GOD. This title combines the Hebrew word for "lord, sovereign" with the covenant name of God (see 28:16; 40:10; 52:4; 65:13).

tears . . . rebuke. All mourning (30:19; 35:10; 61:2–5; Rev. 7:17; 21:4), even death and the sting of death (1 Cor. 15:54), will be removed.

■ 25:9 our God. The prophet identifies himself with the people of God (26:13; 40:3; 61:6).

waited. See 8:17 note.

be glad . . . salvation. See 12:1–3 and notes.

This is the LORD;
We have waited for Him;
[n]We will be glad and rejoice in His salvation."

10 For on this mountain the hand of the LORD will rest,
And [o]Moab shall be trampled down under Him,
As straw is trampled down for the refuse heap.
11 And He will spread out His hands in their midst
As a swimmer reaches out to swim,
And He will bring down their [p]pride
Together with the trickery of their hands.
12 The [q]fortress of the high fort of your walls
He will bring down, lay low,
And bring to the ground, down to the dust.

A Song of Salvation

26 In [a]that day this song will be sung in the land of Judah:

"We have a strong city;
[b]God will appoint salvation for walls and bulwarks.
2 [c]Open the gates,
That the righteous nation which [1]keeps the truth may enter in.
3 You will keep him in perfect [d]peace,
Whose mind is stayed on You,
Because he trusts in You.
4 Trust in the LORD forever,
[e]For in YAH, the LORD, is [2]everlasting strength.
5 For He brings [3]down those who dwell on high,
[f]The lofty city;
He lays it low,
He lays it low to the ground,
He brings it down to the dust.
6 The foot shall [4]tread it down—
The feet of the poor
And the steps of the needy."

7 The way of the just is uprightness;
[g]O Most Upright,
You [5]weigh the path of the just.
8 Yes, [h]in the way of Your judgments,
O LORD, we have [i]waited for You;
The desire of our soul is for Your name
And for the remembrance of You.
9 [j]With my soul I have desired You in the night,
Yes, by my spirit within me I will seek You early;
For when Your judgments are in the earth,
The inhabitants of the world will learn righteousness.

■ 26:2 Open the gates. The gates open for the entrance of the glorious King and His people (Ps. 15; 24:7, 9; 118:19, 20).

■ 26:3 perfect peace. The "peace" of God that the righteous receive and promote (v. 12; 32:17, 18; 55:12; 66:12) will not be extended to the wicked (48:22; 59:8). This "peace" is found in Immanuel (9:6; 11:6–9; 14:7 and notes).

■ 26:4 everlasting strength. See text note; 8:14, 15; cf. 1 Sam. 2:2.

■ 26:5 brings down. As Nebuchadnezzar discovered (Dan. 4:37).

■ 26:8 waited for You. This statement is a magnificent expression of what God desires: children who do His will, love Him, and wait trustingly for His full salvation.

10 [k]Let grace be shown to the wicked,
Yet he will not learn righteousness;
In [l]the land of uprightness he will deal unjustly,
And will not behold the majesty of the LORD.
11 LORD, when Your hand is lifted up, [m]they will not see.
But they will see and be ashamed
For [6]their envy of people;
Yes, the fire of Your enemies shall devour them.

12 LORD, You will establish peace for us,
For You have also done all our works [7]in us.
13 O LORD our God, [n]masters besides You
Have had dominion over us;
But by You only we make mention of Your name.
14 They are dead, they will not live;
They are deceased, they will not rise.
Therefore You have punished and destroyed them,
And made all their memory to [o]perish.
15 You have increased the nation, O LORD,
You have [p]increased the nation;
You are glorified;
You have expanded all the [8]borders of the land.

16 LORD, [q]in trouble they have visited You,
They poured out a prayer when Your chastening was upon them.
17 As [r]a woman with child
Is in pain and cries out in her [9]pangs,
When she draws near the time of her delivery,
So have we been in Your sight, O LORD.
18 We have been with child, we have been in pain;
We have, as it were, [t]brought forth wind;
We have not accomplished any deliverance in the earth,
Nor have [s]the inhabitants of the world fallen.

19 [t]Your dead shall live;
Together with [2]my dead body they shall arise.
[u]Awake and sing, you who dwell in dust;
For your dew is like the dew of herbs,
And the earth shall cast out the dead.

memory. Their names, dynasty, and memorials are forgotten.

■ 26:15 increased . . . expanded. This verse describes the experience of restoration in earthly terms, fostering hope in the final restoration (9:3; 54:2).

■ 26:18 brought forth wind. This expression of futility is due to the failure of the godly to establish God's kingdom (49:4). They suffered, but without apparent success.

deliverance in the earth. The hope of God's people both before and after the coming of Christ was the renewal of the earth and its transformation into a kingdom of peace and righteousness (cf. 42:4; 2 Pet. 3:13; cf. note on 12:2).

■ 26:19 dead . . . body. This message of hope for the future, is in contrast to v. 14 (cf. Ezek. 37:11, 12). The Old Testament expresses faith in the resurrection of the body since death is an invasion of God's created order (25:8 note; Job 19:26; Ps. 49:15; 73:24–26; Dan. 12:2; Hos. 13:14).

■ 26:20 my people. That is, the remnant (vv. 7–9; 40:1 note).

enter . . . Hide. As He protected Noah behind doors of safety (Gen. 7:16), so here God protects His own, as they await His salvation.

a little moment. This "moment" is as long as God's judgment lasts. The present suffering is not worthy to be compared to the eternal glory that follows (v. 19; 54:7; Ps. 30:5; 2 Cor. 4:17; 2 Pet. 3:9).

indignation. See 10:5 and note.

Hide yourself, as it were, [w]for a little moment,
Until the indignation is past.
21 For behold, the LORD [x]comes out of His place
To punish the inhabitants of the earth for their iniquity;
The earth will also disclose her [3]blood,
And will no more cover her slain.

27 In that day the LORD with His severe sword, great and strong,
Will punish Leviathan the fleeing serpent,
[a]Leviathan that twisted serpent;
And He will slay [b]the reptile that is in the sea.

The Restoration of Israel

2 In that day [c]sing to her,
[d]"A vineyard of [1]red wine!
3 [e]I, the LORD, keep it,
I water it every moment;
Lest any hurt it,
I keep it night and day.
4 Fury is not in Me.
Who would set [f]briers and thorns
Against Me in battle?
I would go through them,
I would burn them together.
5 Or let him take hold [g]of My strength,
That he may [h]make peace with Me;
And he shall make peace with Me."

6 Those who come He shall cause [i]to take root in Jacob;
Israel shall blossom and bud,
And fill the face of the world with fruit.

7 [j]Has He struck [2]Israel as He struck those who struck him?
Or has He been slain according to the slaughter of those who were slain by Him?
8 [k]In measure, by sending it away,
You contended with it.
[l]He removes it by His rough wind
In the day of the east wind.
9 Therefore by this the iniquity of Jacob will be covered;
And this is all the fruit of taking away his sin:
When he makes all the stones of the altar
Like chalkstones that are beaten to dust,
[3]Wooden images and incense altars shall not stand.

■ 26:21 blood. See Gen. 4:10; 37:26; Ps. 9:12.

■ 27:1 In that day. See note on 2:11.

Leviathan . . . reptile. The Old Testament employs this image to denote evil, autocratic powers (30:7 note; 51:9; Ezek. 28:2; 32:2 and notes) and to assure the godly that the Lord will punish all such human expressions of power and resistance to His kingdom. Behind earth's tyrants is Satan, and behind the elect is Christ (Gen. 3:15; Rom. 16:20; Rev. 12:1–6).

■ 27:2–13 The coming transformation is again portrayed.

■ 27:2–6 This song of the vineyard is in sharp contrast to the parable of 5:1–7. For the vine and vineyard, see 3:14; 61:5; 65:21.

■ 27:3 water . . . night and day. He provides for all the needs by His blessing and steadfast protection of His people (cf. Ps. 121:4, 5).

■ 27:4 Fury is not in Me. The Lord is ready to forgive and to reconcile people to Himself.

burn. See note on 4:4.

■ 27:5 make peace. God welcomes all who are reconciled to Him (26:3).

■ 27:6 take root . . . with fruit. These are indicators of a good and productive vine (John 15:1–8).

the face of the world. The people of God (Jew and Gentile) make up the kingdom of God (1 Pet. 2:9–12).

■ 27:7 struck . . . slain. The Lord has dealt more graciously with His people than with their oppressors. God fatally struck the nations, not Israel (10:5–23; 13:19—14:2; 47:4, 5).

■ 27:8 removes . . . wind. The east wind brought dust and scorching heat from the desert, destroying vegetation. Here it is a figure for God's wrath.

■ 27:9 iniquity . . . sin. By undergoing God's discipline (v. 7), Jacob, that is to say Israel, will pay their debt to divine justice for their idolatry. The proof that the discipline has been effective will be the destruction of the places where they worshiped idols. This atonement and new obedience illustrates on a national level what Christ would accomplish in a perfect way on behalf of a greater number (John 11:52).

10 Yet the fortified city will be [m]desolate,
The habitation forsaken and left like a wilderness;
There the calf will feed, and there it will lie down
And consume its branches.
11 When its boughs are withered, they will be broken off;
The women come and set them on fire.
For [n]it is a people of no understanding;
Therefore He who made them will [o]not have mercy on them,
And [p]He who formed them will show them no favor.
12 And it shall come to pass in that day
That the LORD will thresh,
From the channel of [4]the River to the Brook of Egypt;
And you will be [q]gathered one by one,
O you children of Israel.
13 [r]So it shall be in that day:
[s]The great trumpet will be blown;
They will come, who are about to perish in the land of Assyria,
And they who are outcasts in the land of [t]Egypt,
And shall [u]worship the LORD in the holy mount at Jerusalem.

CHAPTER 28

1 [1]Lit. valleys of fatness

2 [a]Is. 30:30; Ezek. 13:11

4 [2]Lit. valley of fatness

Woe to Ephraim and Jerusalem

28 Woe to the crown of pride, to the drunkards of Ephraim,
Whose glorious beauty is a fading flower
Which is at the head of the [1]verdant valleys,
To those who are overcome with wine!
2 Behold, the Lord has a mighty and strong one,
[a]Like a tempest of hail and a destroying storm,
Like a flood of mighty waters overflowing,
Who will bring them down to the earth with His hand.
3 The crown of pride, the drunkards of Ephraim,
Will be trampled underfoot;
4 And the glorious beauty is a fading flower
Which is at the head of the [2]verdant valley,
Like the first fruit before the summer,
Which an observer sees;
He eats it up while it is still in his hand.

■ 27:10 fortified city. That is, the city of man (26:1–6 note).

■ 27:11 boughs. The mighty city will become brittle like dried out branches.

people of no understanding. The city is inhabited by foolish idolaters (2:8 note; Rom. 1:20–23).

He who made. See 22:11 note.

He who formed. A frequent designation of God as Creator, Ruler, and Redeemer of His people. The verb denotes planning ("purposed," 46:11); authority, as of an artisan over his materials (41:25); creation and providence (45:18); and the formation of a new people (43:1, 21; 44:2, 21; 49:5; 64:8).

favor. This is the undeserved grace of God (26:10; 30:18, 19; 33:2).

■ 27:12 thresh. This verb can refer to separating grain (by flailing the stalks, Ruth 2:17) or olives (by beating the branches, Deut. 24:20). It is frequently used as a metaphor for separating and gathering God's people from the world.

River . . . Brook. That is, the Euphrates River and the Wadi el-Arish, defining the boundaries of the territory of Canaan, given by promise to Abraham (Gen. 15:18). Assyria and Egypt will be connected by a highway (11:16; 35:8, 9) that leads from both to Jerusalem. People from different origins will be united in worship of the one God.

■ 27:13 trumpet. Like the banner (11:10), the trumpet is used for summoning troops (Ex. 19:16, 19; 1 Sam. 13:3; 2 Sam. 6:15; Matt. 24:31; 1 Thess. 4:16).

perish. This could refer to the oppressed and scattered remnant (Jer. 50:6; Ezek. 34:4–6), to the dead (25:8; 26:14, 19), or to both.

mount. That is, Zion (2:2 note). It is the place of both God's throne (14:13) and His blessed presence (25:6, 7). These promises are both already realized (e.g., Heb. 12:22) and still to come (e.g., Rev. 21:2, 3).

■ 28:1–13 An oracle of woe on the occasion of Ephraim's fall (722 B.C.). This is the first section of woes (1:4 note) in chs. 28—33 (28:1; 29:1, 15; 30:1; 31:1; 33:1).

■ 28:1 crown. A symbol of royalty (Ezek. 21:31) or deity (2 Sam. 12:30), or if translated "wreath," a sign of social status or celebration (Song 3:11, of a garland worn at a wedding). The reference is to Samaria and its debauched leadership.

pride. Human arrogance stands in opposition to the "majesty" (same word in Hebrew) of the Lord (26:10).

drunkards . . . wine. See note on 24:11.

■ 28:2 mighty and strong one. Assyria.

hail . . . mighty waters. Assyria is likened to a powerful storm (7:2; 17:13; 28:17; 29:6; 30:30; 32:19). For God's protection, see 4:6.

■ 28:4 first fruit before the summer. The June figs were delightful because they foreshadowed the September harvest (Hos. 9:10; Mic. 7:1; Nah. 3:12). Ephraim with all her possibilities of achievement would be exiled, and the fruit of her labors would be enjoyed by the Assyrians.

5 In that day the LORD of hosts will be
For a crown of glory and a diadem of beauty
To the remnant of His people,
6 For a spirit of justice to him who sits in judgment,
And for strength to those who turn back the battle at the gate.

7 But they also [b]have erred through wine,
And through intoxicating drink are out of the way;
[c]The priest and the prophet have erred through intoxicating drink,
They are swallowed up by wine,
They are out of the way through intoxicating drink;
They err in vision, they stumble in judgment.
8 For all tables are full of vomit and filth;
No place is clean.

9 "Whom[d] will he teach knowledge?
And whom will he make to understand the message?
Those just weaned from milk?
Those just drawn from the breasts?
10 [e]For precept must be upon precept, precept upon precept,
Line upon line, line upon line,
Here a little, there a little."

11 For with [f]stammering lips and another tongue
He will speak to this people,
12 To whom He said, "This is the [g]rest with which
You may cause the weary to rest,"
And, "This is the refreshing";
Yet they would not hear.
13 But the word of the LORD was to them,
"Precept upon precept, precept upon precept,
Line upon line, line upon line,
Here a little, there a little,"
That they might go and fall backward, and be broken
And snared and caught.

14 Therefore hear the word of the LORD, you scornful men,
Who rule this people who are in Jerusalem,
15 Because you have said, "We have made a covenant with death,
And with Sheol we are in agreement.
When the overflowing scourge passes through,
It will not come to us,
[h]For we have made lies our refuge,
And under falsehood we have hidden ourselves."

remnant. See note on 1:9; cf. 10:19–23.

■ 28:6 spirit of justice. As such, He will be the Spirit of transformation (32:15; 44:3–5; 59:21; 61:1). See notes at 4:4; 11:2. Paul also contrasted being drunk with wine to the work of the Spirit (Eph. 5:18). The "spirit of justice" prevails in the messianic age (11:1–5; 42:1–4).

justice. See note on 1:21.

■ 28:7 wine . . . intoxicating drink. See v. 1; 24:11 note.

priest and the prophet. The leaders of God's people had become sensual, hard of heart, and sarcastic (29:9–14; cf. Zeph. 3:4).

■ 28:9 Whom will he teach. See note on 27:7. The hardened, insulting leaders speak against Isaiah.

■ 28:11 stammering lips. That is, the foreign language of the oppressors (33:19; Jer. 5:15). The Assyrians will become Israel's teachers due to its own failed leadership. For Paul's application of this verse to "speaking in tongues," see 1 Cor. 14:21, 22.

■ 28:12 rest. Israel could not enter the full rest in Canaan (Deut. 12:9) because of unbelief (Ps. 95:11). The hope for rest lay in the promises to Moses (1 Kin. 8:56) and to David (Ps. 132:8, 14, 17). Instead of enjoying the rest that comes by faith, Israel will be punished by her enemies.

■ 28:13 word of the LORD. This revelation will come to Israel through the discipline of foreigners who teach Israel morals.

Precept upon precept. Isaiah throws the taunts of the religious leaders (v. 10) back at them.

fall backward. God's word will have a hardening effect on its hearers.

■ 28:14 scornful men . . . rule. These are foolish and wicked rulers (Prov. 1:22; 29:8).

■ 28:15 covenant . . . agreement. They had chosen to ally themselves with Egypt for the purpose of remaining independent (30:2), but the choice was deadly.

lies . . . hidden ourselves. Their confidence was false (4:6 note).

A Cornerstone in Zion

16 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD:

"Behold, I lay in Zion [i]a stone for a foundation,
A tried stone, a precious cornerstone, a sure foundation;
Whoever believes will not act hastily.
17 Also I will make justice the measuring line,
And righteousness the plummet;
The hail will sweep away the refuge of lies,
And the waters will overflow the hiding place.
18 Your covenant with death will be annulled,
And your agreement with Sheol will not stand;
When the overflowing scourge passes through,
Then you will be trampled down by it.
19 As often as it goes out it will take you;
For morning by morning it will pass over,
And by day and by night;
It will be a terror just to understand the report."

20 For the bed is too short to stretch out on,
And the covering so narrow that one cannot wrap himself in it.
21 For the LORD will rise up as at Mount [j]Perazim,
He will be angry as in the Valley of [k]Gibeon—
That He may do His work, [l]His awesome work,
And bring to pass His act, His [3]unusual act.
22 Now therefore, do not be mockers,
Lest your bonds be made strong;
For I have heard from the Lord GOD of hosts,
[m]A [4]destruction determined even upon the whole earth.

Listen to the Teaching of God

23 Give ear and hear my voice,
Listen and hear my speech.
24 Does the plowman keep plowing all day to sow?
Does he keep turning his soil and breaking the clods?
25 When he has leveled its surface,
Does he not sow the black cummin
And scatter the cummin,
Plant the wheat in rows,
The barley in the appointed place,
And the [5]spelt in its place?
26 For He instructs him in right judgment,
His God teaches him.

■ 28:16 Lord GOD. See note on 25:7.

stone . . . sure foundation. See note on 8:14–15. The sure foundation is Jesus Christ (cf. Ps. 118:22; Rom. 9:33; 10:11; 1 Cor. 3:11; Eph. 2:20; 1 Pet. 2:4–8).

■ 28:17 justice . . . righteousness. See note on 1:21.

hail . . . waters. See note on v. 2.

refuge. See note on 4:6.

■ 28:19 As often as. The Assyrian army marched through Israel many times.

terror. Divine judgment in human history brings people face-to-face with God's power.

■ 28:20 short . . . narrow. The things people depend on for safety are neither adequate nor comfortable.

■ 28:21 Perazim . . . Gibeon. In the past the Lord struck the Philistines (2 Sam. 5:19, 20) and the Canaanites (Josh. 10:10) at these places.

work . . . unusual act. The Lord will turn against His own people.

■ 28:22 mockers. They are responsible for any increased discipline.

determined. God ordains the events of history. See 10:22, 23.

■ 28:23–29 As timing is important for success in farming, so God has times for grace and for judgment.

■ 28:23 Give ear . . . hear. The prophet issues the call of divine wisdom (1:2; Prov. 1:8; 4:1; 5:1).

■ 28:25 spelt. Probably rye (Ex. 9:32). The comparison follows the natural order of plowing, breaking up the clods, harrowing, and sowing (vv. 24, 25).

27 For the black cummin is not threshed with a threshing sledge,
Nor is a cartwheel rolled over the cummin;
But the black cummin is beaten out with a stick,
And the cummin with a rod.
28 Bread flour must be ground;
Therefore he does not thresh it forever,
Break it with his cartwheel,
Or crush it with his horsemen.
29 This also comes from the LORD of hosts,
[n] Who is wonderful in counsel and excellent in [6] guidance.

Woe to Jerusalem

29 "Woe [a] to [1] Ariel, to Ariel, the city [b] where David dwelt!
Add year to year;
Let feasts come around.
2 Yet I will distress Ariel;
There shall be heaviness and sorrow,
And it shall be to Me as Ariel.
3 I will encamp against you all around,
I will lay siege against you with a mound,
And I will raise siegeworks against you.
4 You shall be brought down,
You shall speak out of the ground;
Your speech shall be low, out of the dust;
Your voice shall be like a medium's, [c] out of the ground;
And your speech shall whisper out of the dust.

5 "Moreover the multitude of your [d] foes
Shall be like fine dust,
And the multitude of the terrible ones
Like [e] chaff that passes away;
Yes, it shall be [f] in an instant, suddenly.
6 [g] You will be punished by the LORD of hosts
With thunder and [h] earthquake and great noise,
With storm and tempest
And the flame of devouring fire.
7 [i] The multitude of all the nations who fight against [2] Ariel,
Even all who fight against her and her fortress,
And distress her,
Shall be [j] as a dream of a night vision.
8 [k] It shall even be as when a hungry man dreams,
And look—he eats;
But he awakes, and his soul is still empty;
Or as when a thirsty man dreams,
And look—he drinks;
But he awakes, and indeed he is faint,
And his soul still craves:
So the multitude of all the nations shall be,
Who fight against Mount Zion."

■ 28:27 not . . . a threshing sledge. The different grains require different treatment; the Lord adjusts His judgment to circumstances and does not "keep plowing all day" (v. 24).

The Blindness of Disobedience

9 Pause and wonder!
Blind yourselves and be blind!
[l]They are drunk, [m]but not with wine;
They stagger, but not with intoxicating drink.
10 For [n]the LORD has poured out on you
The spirit of deep sleep,
And has [o]closed your eyes, namely, the prophets;
And He has covered your heads, namely, [p]the seers.

11 The whole vision has become to you like the words of a [3]book [q]that is sealed, which men deliver to one who is literate, saying, "Read this, please."
[r]And he says, "I cannot, for it is sealed."
12 Then the book is delivered to one who [4]is illiterate, saying, "Read this, please."
And he says, "I am not literate."
13 Therefore the Lord said:

[s]"Inasmuch as these people draw near with their mouths
And honor Me [t]with their lips,
But have removed their hearts far from Me,
And their fear toward Me is taught by the commandment of men,
14 [u]Therefore, behold, I will again do a marvelous work
Among this people,
A marvelous work and a wonder;
[v]For the wisdom of their wise men shall perish,
And the understanding of their prudent men shall be hidden."

15 [w]Woe to those who seek deep to hide their counsel far from the LORD,
And their works are in the dark;
[x]They say, "Who sees us?" and, "Who knows us?"
16 Surely you have things turned around!
Shall the potter be esteemed as the clay;
For shall the [y]thing made say of him who made it,
"He did not make me"?
Or shall the thing formed say of him who formed it,
"He has no understanding"?

Future Recovery of Wisdom

17 Is it not yet a very little while
Till [z]Lebanon shall be turned into a fruitful field,
And the fruitful field be esteemed as a forest?
18 [a]In that day the deaf shall hear the words of the book,
And the eyes of the blind shall see out of obscurity and out of darkness.
19 [b]The humble also shall increase their joy in the LORD,
And [c]the poor among men shall rejoice
In the Holy One of Israel.

■ 29:10 seers. See note on 30:10.

■ 29:13 draw near . . . far from Me. God desires expressions of devotion from the heart and hates empty ritual (1 Cor. 1:19; Col. 2:20–23).

■ 29:14 wisdom . . . hidden. God will shatter human wisdom and planning (30:1–5; 31:1–3).

■ 29:15, 16 This oracle of woe against Jerusalem's sages begins the third section of woes in chs. 28—33 (28:1–13 note).

■ 29:15 counsel . . . works. They oppose the plans and works of God (11:2 note; Ps. 10:11; 64:5, 6). They try to manipulate God rather than submit to Him.

■ 29:16 potter . . . clay. They overturned God's order by their independent and haughty spirit (27:11 note; cf. Rom. 9:20).

■ 29:17 Lebanon. The forests of Lebanon will become fields, and fields will become forests. Judgment brings about such reversals; "the last will be first, and the first last" (Matt. 20:16; Luke 1:52, 53).

■ 29:18 In that day. See note on 2:11.

deaf . . . blind. These words are used here as figures for the people's former spiritual conditions. The "deaf" are those formerly deaf to the message of God (42:18, 19; 43:8; cf. 6:10; 29:9). The "blind" formerly wandered from and did not discern the ways of God (42:7, 16; 56:10; 59:10; Lam. 4:14). The restoration of the spiritually "deaf" and "blind" is fulfilled today in Christ (61:1).

■ 29:19 humble . . . poor. See Ps. 9:18 note.

the Holy One of Israel. See note on 1:4.

20 For the [5]terrible one is brought to nothing,
[d]The scornful one is consumed,
And all who [e]watch for iniquity are cut off—
21 Who make a man an offender by a word,
And [f]lay a snare for him who reproves in the gate,
And turn aside the just [g]by empty words.

22 Therefore thus says the LORD, [h]who redeemed Abraham, concerning the house of Jacob:

"Jacob shall not now be [i]ashamed,
Nor shall his face now grow pale;
23 But when he sees his children,
[j]The work of My hands, in his midst,
They will hallow My name,
And hallow the Holy One of Jacob,
And fear the God of Israel.
24 These also [k]who erred in spirit will come to understanding,
And those who complained will learn doctrine."

Futile Confidence in Egypt

30 "Woe to the rebellious children," says the LORD,
[a]"Who take counsel, but not of Me,
And who [l]devise plans, but not of My Spirit,
[b]That they may add sin to sin;
2 [c]Who walk to go down to Egypt,
And [d]have not asked My advice,
To strengthen themselves in the strength of Pharaoh,
And to trust in the shadow of Egypt!
3 [e]Therefore the strength of Pharaoh
Shall be your shame,
And trust in the shadow of Egypt
Shall be your humiliation.
4 For his princes were at [f]Zoan,
And his ambassadors came to Hanes.
5 [g]They were all ashamed of a people who could not benefit them,
Or be help or benefit,
But a shame and also a reproach."

6 [h]Is. 57:9; Hos. 8:9; 12:1 [i]Deut. 8:15; Is. 14:29 [2]oracle, prophecy

■ 29:20 terrible. These people are the powerful and tyrannical oppressors of this world (13:11; 25:3–5; 29:5; 49:25; cf. Ps. 37:35; 86:14; Ezek. 28:7; 30:11; 32:12).

scornful one. This designation common in wisdom literature means a hardened and cynical person (28:14; Ps. 1:1; Prov. 1:22; 3:34; 9:7, 8; 21:24).

watch for iniquity. Such a person is identified in v. 21.

■ 29:22 redeemed Abraham. God accomplished redemption for Abraham by election and by covenant, promising him and his descendants the hope of the divine presence (cf. Josh. 24:14; Acts 7:2–4).

ashamed. Humiliated in defeat.

■ 29:23 children. Jacob's hope lies in God's gracious dealing with his offspring from generation to generation (49:20–22; 54:1, 13; 65:23).

■ 30:1 Woe. See note on 1:4.

rebellious children. These are Hezekiah's counselors (cf. 1:2 note).

devise plans. See text note. The Hebrew could be translated "weaving a web" or "pouring out libations." Either refers to making political alliances.

not of My Spirit. Human plans (v. 2) are opposed to the plans of the Spirit of God.

add sin to sin. Here we see stubbornness increasing (1:2–4) from the plan to act independently of God to the sin of injustice (v. 12; 10:1–4 notes).

■ 30:2 Egypt. In 701 B.C. Judah counted on Egyptian troops for help against Sennacherib (20:5, 6; 2 Kin. 8:21).

shadow. God alone provides His people with protection from danger (4:6; 16:3; 25:4, 5; 51:16; cf. Ps. 17:8; 36:7; 91:1; 121:5).

■ 30:3 shame. From this experience of utter failure, the Lord promises to deliver those who trust in Him (54:4; 61:7).

■ 30:4 princes. Perhaps these were Judah's ambassadors who went to Zoan (19:11 note) and to Hanes (fifty miles south of Cairo).

■ 30:6 burden. See note on 13:1.

They will carry their riches on the backs of young donkeys,
And their treasures on the humps of camels,
To a people who shall not profit:
7 [j]For the Egyptians shall help in vain and to no purpose.
Therefore I have called her
[3]Rahab-Hem-Shebeth.

A Rebellious People

8 Now go, [k]write it before them on a tablet,
And note it on a scroll,
That it may be for time to come.
Forever and ever:
9 That [l]this is a rebellious people,
Lying children,
Children who will not hear the law of the LORD;
10 [m]Who say to the seers, "Do not see,"
And to the prophets, "Do not prophesy to us right things;
[n]Speak to us smooth things, prophesy deceits.
11 Get out of the way,
Turn aside from the path,
Cause the Holy One of Israel
To cease from before us."

12 Therefore thus says the Holy One of Israel:

"Because you [o]despise this word,
And trust in oppression and perversity,
And rely on them,
13 Therefore this iniquity shall be to you
[p]Like a breach ready to fall,
A bulge in a high wall,
Whose breaking [q]comes suddenly, in an instant.
14 And [r]He shall break it like the breaking of the potter's vessel,
Which is broken in pieces;
He shall not spare.
So there shall not be found among its fragments
[4]A shard to take fire from the hearth,
Or to take water from the cistern."

15 For thus says the Lord GOD, the Holy One of Israel:

[s]"In returning and rest you shall be saved;
In quietness and confidence shall be your strength."
[t]But you would not,

■ 30:7 Rahab-Hem-Shebeth. The name Rahab alludes to a chaos monster defeated by the gods in Canaanite creation mythology (Ezek. 28:2 and note). The prophet mocks both the mythical monster and Egypt with a title meaning roughly "Rahab, who does nothing."

■ 30:8 tablet . . . scroll. The oracles concerning the folly of dependence on Egypt were to be written down as a witness to future generations.

■ 30:9 children. See note on 1:2.

law. The law that they are rejecting is the godly wisdom taught by Isaiah (cf. Prov. 2:1–5).

■ 30:10 seers . . . prophets. The preaching of many prophets conformed to the expectations of the people (9:15; 28:7; 29:10; 44:25; 1 Kin. 22:8; Jer. 6:14; 14:13–16; 20:9, 10; 28:8, 9; Ezek. 13; Hos. 9:7–9; Amos 2:12; 7:12, 16; Mic. 2:6–11; 3:5, 11). Others, like Isaiah, spoke by inspiration of the Spirit and under compulsion of a divine vision.

■ 30:11 the Holy One of Israel. See note on 1:4.

■ 30:12 Therefore. Since they would not listen to God's prophets, they will hear from Him in judgment.

word. That is, the word of God through Isaiah (vv. 8, 9).

oppression and perversity. Jerusalem's leaders were unprincipled, and their diplomacy resulted in oppression.

■ 30:13 iniquity. Their stubborn resistance to the Lord and dependence on Egypt will bring about their downfall.

■ 30:15 Lord GOD. See note on 25:7.

rest . . . quietness. The Lord can give His people what they searched for in Egypt.

be saved . . . strength. The Lord is the strength of His people and He will be victorious (12:2 note).

16 And you said, "No, for we will flee on horses"—
Therefore you shall flee!
And, "We will ride on swift horses"—
Therefore those who pursue you shall be swift!

17 [u]One thousand shall flee at the threat of one,
At the threat of five you shall flee,
Till you are left as a [5]pole on top of a mountain
And as a banner on a hill.

God Will Be Gracious

18 Therefore the LORD will wait, that He may be [v]gracious to you;
And therefore He will be exalted, that He may have mercy on you.
For the LORD is a God of justice;
[w]Blessed are all those who [x]wait for Him.

19 For the people [y]shall dwell in Zion at Jerusalem;
You shall [z]weep no more.
He will be very gracious to you at the sound of your cry;
When He hears it, He will [a]answer you.
20 And though the Lord gives you
[b]The bread of adversity and the water of [6]affliction,
Yet [c]your teachers will not be moved into a corner anymore,
But your eyes shall see your teachers.
21 Your ears shall hear a word behind you, saying,
"This is the way, walk in it,"
Whenever you [d]turn to the right hand
Or whenever you turn to the left.
22 [e]You will also defile the covering of your images of silver,
And the ornament of your molded images of gold.
You will throw them away as an unclean thing;
[f]You will say to them, "Get away!"

23 [g]Then He will give the rain for your seed
With which you sow the ground,
And bread of the increase of the earth;
It will be [7]fat and plentiful.
In that day your cattle will feed
In large pastures.
24 Likewise the oxen and the young donkeys that work the ground
Will eat cured fodder,
Which has been winnowed with the shovel and fan.
25 There will be [h]on every high mountain
And on every high hill
Rivers and streams of waters,
In the day of the [i]great slaughter,
When the towers fall.

■ 30:16 horses. They depended on military strength and stratagems (2:7 note; 31:1, 3).

■ 30:17 thousand . . . one. This is a reversal of God's promise to give His people victory (Lev. 26:7, 8; Deut. 32:30; Josh. 23:10).

■ 30:18 justice. God upholds His kingdom in His patience (1:21 note).

■ 30:19 weep. See note on 25:7, 8; cf. Rev. 7:17; 21:4.

■ 30:20 teachers. "Prophets"; or possibly the word refers to God, since it could be understood as a singular, "Teacher." For God's instruction, see 28:11–13; 29:11, 12. After His judgment they will see His salvation (29:24).

26 Moreover [j]the light of the moon will be as the light of the sun,
And the light of the sun will be sevenfold,
As the light of seven days,
In the day that the LORD binds up the bruise of His people
And heals the stroke of their wound.

Judgment on Assyria

27 Behold, the name of the LORD comes from afar,
Burning with His anger,
And His burden is heavy;
His lips are full of indignation,
And His tongue like a devouring fire.
28 [k]His breath is like an overflowing stream,
[l]Which reaches up to the neck,
To sift the nations with the sieve of futility;
And there shall be [m]a bridle in the jaws of the people,
Causing them to err.

29 You shall have a song
As in the night when a holy festival is kept,
And gladness of heart as when one goes with a flute,
To come into [n]the mountain of the LORD,
To [s]the Mighty One of Israel.
30 [o]The LORD will cause His glorious voice to be heard,
And show the descent of His arm,
With the indignation of His anger
And the flame of a devouring fire,
With scattering, tempest, [p]and hailstones.
31 For [q]through the voice of the LORD
Assyria will be [r]beaten down,
As He strikes with the [r]rod.
32 And in every place where the staff of punishment passes,
Which the LORD lays on him,
It will be with tambourines and harps;
And in battles of [s]brandishing He will fight with it.
33 [t]For Tophet was established of old,
Yes, for the king it is prepared.
He has made it deep and large;
Its pyre is fire with much wood;
The breath of the LORD, like a stream of brimstone,
Kindles it.

The Folly of Not Trusting God

31 Woe to those [a]who go down to Egypt for help,
And [b]rely on horses,
Who trust in chariots because they are many,
And in horsemen because they are very strong,
But who do not look to the Holy One of Israel,

■ 30:26 sevenfold. Here the exaggerated figure indicates that God is with His people (2:5 note; 42:16; 60:19; Rev. 21:22, 23).

binds up . . . heals. God disciplines, but He remembers and heals the wounds of His people (19:22; 57:18; 61:1; Ps. 147:3; Jer. 3:22; 30:17; but cf. Is. 6:10).

■ 30:27 name of the LORD. The covenant name represents God (12:2 note; cf. Ex. 3:14).

lips . . . tongue. Isaiah uses the resources of poetry to depict the angry power of God.

■ 30:29 song . . . flute. This celebration is like that of a pilgrimage feast.

mountain. See note on 2:2.

■ 30:33 Tophet. Tophet was a pit on the south side of Jerusalem where children had been sacrificed and a continual fire burned to consume the refuse that was thrown there (57:5; 2 Kin. 23:10; Jer. 7:31, 32; 19:6, 11–13).

■ 31:1 Egypt . . . horsemen. Judah thought they could be delivered by Egyptian horses and chariots (30:2).

look to. One way of seeking the Lord is to consult His prophets (29:9, 10; 30:1).

the Holy One of Israel. See note on 1:4.

[c]Nor seek the LORD!
2 Yet He also is wise and will bring disaster,
And [d]will not [l]call back His words,
But will arise against the house of evildoers,
And against the help of those who work iniquity.
3 Now the Egyptians are men, and not God;
And their horses are flesh, and not spirit.
When the LORD stretches out His hand,
Both he who helps will fall,
And he who is helped will fall down;
They all will perish [e]together.

God Will Deliver Jerusalem

4 For thus the LORD has spoken to me:

[f]"As a lion roars,
And a young lion over his prey
(When a multitude of shepherds is summoned against him,
He will not be afraid of their voice
Nor be disturbed by their noise),
So the LORD of hosts will come down
To fight for Mount Zion and for its hill.
5 [g]Like birds flying about,
So will the LORD of hosts defend Jerusalem.
Defending, He will also deliver it;
Passing over, He will preserve it."

6 Return to Him against whom the children of Israel have [h]deeply revolted. 7 For in that day every man shall [i]throw away his idols of silver and his idols of gold—[j]sin, which your own hands have made for yourselves.

8 "Then Assyria shall [k]fall by a sword not of man,
And a sword not of mankind shall [l]devour him.
But he shall flee from the sword,
And his young men shall become forced labor.
9 [m]He shall cross over to his stronghold for fear,
And his princes shall be afraid of the banner,"
Says the LORD,
Whose fire is in Zion
And whose furnace is in Jerusalem.

A Reign of Righteousness

32 Behold, [a]a king will reign in righteousness,
And princes will rule with justice.
2 A man will be as a hiding place from the wind,
And [b]a [l]cover from the tempest,
As rivers of water in a dry place,
As the shadow of a great rock in a weary land.

■ 32:2 cover . . . great rock. The protective role of the king and his cohorts results from their dependence on the Lord (4:6 note); in contrast to any reliance on Egypt (30:1, 2, 12; 31:1, 3).

3 [c]The eyes of those who see will not be dim,
And the ears of those who hear will listen.
4 Also the heart of the [2]rash will [d]understand knowledge,
And the tongue of the stammerers will be ready to speak plainly.
5 The foolish person will no longer be called [3]generous,
Nor the miser said to be bountiful;
6 For the foolish person will speak foolishness,
And his heart will work [e]iniquity:
To practice ungodliness,
To utter error against the LORD,
To keep the hungry unsatisfied,
And he will cause the drink of the thirsty to fail.
7 Also the schemes of the schemer are evil;
He devises wicked plans
To destroy the poor with [f]lying words,
Even when the needy speaks justice.
8 But a [4]generous man devises generous things,
And by generosity he shall stand.

Consequences of Complacency

9 Rise up, you women [g]who are at ease,
Hear my voice;
You complacent daughters,
Give ear to my speech.
10 In a year and some days
You will be troubled, you complacent women;
For the vintage will fail,
The gathering will not come.
11 Tremble, you women who are at ease;
Be troubled, you complacent ones;
Strip yourselves, make yourselves bare,
And gird sackcloth on your waists.
12 People shall mourn upon their breasts
For the pleasant fields, for the fruitful vine.
13 [h]On the land of my people will come up thorns and briers,
Yes, on all the happy homes in [i]the joyous city;
14 [j]Because the palaces will be forsaken,
The bustling city will be deserted.
The forts and towers will become lairs forever,
A joy of wild donkeys, a pasture of flocks—
15 Until [k]the Spirit is poured upon us from on high,
And [l]the wilderness becomes a fruitful field,
And the fruitful field is counted as a forest.

The Peace of God's Reign

16 Then justice will dwell in the wilderness,
And righteousness remain in the fruitful field.

■ 32:3 eyes . . . ears. This is in contrast to 6:9, 10; 29:9, 10; 30:1, 2; 31:1. See note on 29:18.

■ 32:4 heart . . . tongue. This is all in fulfillment of 29:24.

■ 32:7 poor . . . needy. See Ps. 9:18 note.

■ 32:8 generous man. He stands in contrast to the fool, who is willing to oppress the needy (vv. 5–7).

■ 32:9 women . . . at ease. The people were confident of succeeding in their schemes (vv. 5–7; cf. 3:16–24; Amos 6:1; Zech. 1:15).

complacent. This is the same word rendered "assurance" in v. 17 and "secure" in v. 18. The false security based on confidence in Egypt contrasts with the true security based on trust in God.

■ 32:10 vintage . . . gathering. Poor harvest is an indication of God's judgment.

■ 32:13 land . . . city. Everything will become a wasteland (cf. 5:5, 6; 16:8–10; 24:7–13; 34:13–15).

joyous city. See notes on 22:2, 13.

■ 32:15 Spirit. The Holy Spirit transforms everything according to God's order. He is the Spirit of restoration. See 11:2; 28:6; 42:1; 61:1; Ezek. 36:27; Joel 2:28, 29.

from on high. The Spirit is above all earthly powers (Ps. 93:4; Luke 24:49; Eph. 4:8).

wilderness . . . forest. See note on 29:17.

17 [m]The work of righteousness will be peace,
And the effect of righteousness, quietness and assurance forever.
18 My people will dwell in a peaceful habitation,
In secure dwellings, and in quiet [n]resting places,
19 [o]Though hail comes down [p]on the forest,
And the city is brought low in humiliation.

20 Blessed are you who sow beside all waters,
Who send out freely the feet of [q]the ox and the donkey.

A Prayer in Deep Distress

33 Woe to you [a]who plunder, though you have not been plundered;
And you who deal treacherously, though they have not dealt treacherously with you!
[b]When you cease plundering,
You will be [c]plundered;
When you make an end of dealing treacherously,
They will deal treacherously with you.

2 O LORD, be gracious to us;
[d]We have waited for You.
Be [1]their arm every morning,
Our salvation also in the time of trouble.
3 At the noise of the tumult the people [e]shall flee;
When You lift Yourself up, the nations shall be scattered;
4 And Your plunder shall be gathered
Like the gathering of the caterpillar;
As the running to and fro of locusts,
He shall run upon them.

5 [f]The LORD is exalted, for He dwells on high;
He has filled Zion with justice and righteousness.
6 Wisdom and knowledge will be the stability of your times,
And the strength of salvation;
The fear of the LORD is His treasure.

7 Surely their valiant ones shall cry outside,
[g]The ambassadors of peace shall weep bitterly.
8 [h]The highways lie waste,
The traveling man ceases.
[i]He has broken the covenant,
[2]He has despised the [3]cities,
He regards no man.
9 [j]The earth mourns and languishes,
Lebanon is shamed and shriveled;

9 [j]Is. 24:4

■ 32:18 My people. See note on 40:1.

■ 32:19 hail. See note on 28:2.

■ 33:1–24 This sixth and final oracle of woe in chs. 28—33 is against Assyria. By focusing on Assyria's defeat and Judah's exaltation, the Lord, the King of Judah, is exalted.

■ 33:1 plunder . . . deal treacherously. Though Assyria is the reference in the historical context (cf. 10:5, 12, 24; 14:25; 30:31; 31:8; 2 Kin. 18:13–16; 19:32–37), it represents any power opposed to God.

■ 33:2 This verse begins a prayer for mercy during the hour of judgment.

■ 33:3 scattered. See Num. 10:35.

■ 33:4 Your plunder. The spoils go to the Lord, victor over the nations (23:18).

■ 33:5 dwells on high. See note on 32:15.

■ 33:6 salvation. See note on 12:2.

His treasure. Probably the meaning is that the best gift a person can receive from God is the pure faith that is formed in response to the revelation of God's grace (Ps. 130:4; Prov. 9:10; Luke 5:10).

■ 33:7–12 With all Judah's false hopes gone (vv. 7–9), the Lord acts to destroy Assyria.

■ 33:7 valiant ones. Perhaps this sarcasm is directed at the three officials who conversed with Assyria (36:3, 22).

cry . . . weep. Human ploys have failed. International trade, diplomacy, and military expeditions have come to an end. The Assyrians accepted gifts and tribute from Judah but treacherously continued their siege.

■ 33:9 earth . . . Carmel. Areas famous for their fertility have become like deserts (2:13; 29:17; 32:13 and notes). For the transformation, see 35:1, 2.

Sharon is like a wilderness,
And Bashan and Carmel shake off their fruits.

Impending Judgment on Zion

10 "Now[k] I will rise," says the LORD;
"Now I will be exalted,
Now I will lift Myself up.
11 [l]You shall conceive chaff,
You shall bring forth stubble;
Your breath, as fire, shall devour you.
12 And the people shall be like the burnings of lime;
[m]Like thorns cut up they shall be burned in the fire.
13 Hear, [n]you who are afar off, what I have done;
And you who are near, acknowledge My might."

14 The sinners in Zion are afraid;
Fearfulness has seized the hypocrites:
"Who among us shall dwell with the devouring [o]fire?
Who among us shall dwell with everlasting burnings?"
15 He who [p]walks righteously and speaks uprightly,
He who despises the gain of oppressions,
Who gestures with his hands, refusing bribes,
Who stops his ears from hearing of bloodshed,
And [q]shuts his eyes from seeing evil:
16 He will dwell on [4]high;
His place of defense will be the fortress of rocks;
Bread will be given him,
His water will be sure.

The Land of the Majestic King

17 Your eyes will see the King in His [r]beauty;
They will see the land that is very far off.
18 Your heart will meditate on terror:
[s]"Where is the scribe?
Where is he who weighs?
Where is he who counts the towers?"
19 [t]You will not see a fierce people,
[u]A people of obscure speech, beyond perception,
Of a [5]stammering tongue that you cannot understand.

20 [v]Look upon Zion, the city of our appointed feasts;
Your eyes will see [w]Jerusalem, a quiet home,
A tabernacle that will not be taken down;
[x]Not one of [y]its stakes will ever be removed,
Nor will any of its cords be broken.
21 But there the majestic LORD will be for us

■ 33:10 Now. The time for divine intervention and the glorious establishment of His kingdom has arrived.

■ 33:12 lime . . . thorns. These similes explain how completely Assyria will be destroyed (cf. 27:4; Amos 2:1).

■ 33:13 Hear . . . acknowledge. People will confess that God's judgments in history are wise and powerful and submit to His sovereignty.

afar off . . . near. See 57:19; these statements include every person, from whatever nation or tribe.

■ 33:14 Who among us shall dwell. This realization by sinners challenges them to repent and live in harmony with God's holy presence (Ps. 15:1; 24:3).

■ 33:15 walks . . . shuts his eyes. These phrases describe conduct of the godly (Ps. 1:1, 2; 15:2–5; 24:4; Gal. 5:22–25; Eph. 5:1; James 3:13–18).

fortress . . . water. He enjoys divine protection (cf. Ps. 18:1–3) and provision (49:10; 55:1, 2; 62:9; 65:13; contrast 30:20).

■ 33:17 King. The arrival of God's kingdom and Messiah is of greater splendor than any previous manifestation (32:1 note).

■ 33:18, 19 terror . . . stammering tongue. Isaiah describes the misery of exile from home and oppression by foreigners.

■ 33:20 tabernacle . . . cords. The exile has ended. Jerusalem enjoys stability and prosperity (54:2; cf. Rev. 21:1–3).

■ 33:21 broad rivers and streams. God provides all the needs of the citizens of His kingdom (41:18; 48:18).

A place of broad rivers and streams,
In which no [6]galley with oars will sail,
Nor majestic ships pass by 22 (For the LORD is our [z]Judge,
The LORD is our [a]Lawgiver,
[b]The LORD is our King;
He will save us);
23 Your tackle is loosed,
They could not strengthen their mast,
They could not spread the sail.

Then the prey of great plunder is divided;
The lame take the prey.
24 And the inhabitant will not say, "I am sick";
[c]The people who dwell in it will be forgiven their iniquity.

Judgment on the Nations

34 Come [a]near, you nations, to hear;
And heed, you people!
[b]Let the earth hear, and all that is in it,
The world and all things that come forth from it.
2 For the indignation of the LORD is against all nations,
And His fury against all their armies;
He has utterly destroyed them,
He has given them over to the [c]slaughter.
3 Also their slain shall be thrown out;
[d]Their stench shall rise from their corpses,
And the mountains shall be melted with their blood.
4 [e]All the host of heaven shall be dissolved,
And the heavens shall be rolled up like a scroll;
[f]All their host shall fall down
As the leaf falls from the vine,
And as [g]fruit falling from a fig tree.

5 "For [h]My sword shall be bathed in heaven;
Indeed it [i]shall come down on Edom,
And on the people of My curse, for judgment.
6 The [j]sword of the LORD is filled with blood,
It is made [l]overflowing with fatness,
With the blood of lambs and goats,
With the fat of the kidneys of rams.
For [k]the LORD has a sacrifice in Bozrah,
And a great slaughter in the land of Edom.
7 The wild oxen shall come down with them,
And the young bulls with the mighty bulls;
Their land shall be soaked with blood,
And their dust [2]saturated with fatness."

galley . . . majestic ships. The kingdoms of this world can no longer intimidate and harass God's people.

■ 33:22 See notes on 2:4; 12:2; cf. 44:6; 51:4; Ps. 46; 48; 96—99; Zeph. 3:15, 17.

■ 33:23 Your tackle . . . sail. The people of the Lord are compared to a drifting ship.

■ 33:24 inhabitant . . . people who dwell. See note on v. 14.

■ 34:2 indignation . . . fury. See notes on 5:25; 10:5.

utterly destroyed . . . slaughter. They are consigned to destruction, as the Canaanites were (Josh. 6:17).

■ 34:3 blood. The blood of the slain will be so great it will create mud slides (v. 7). This is imagery of the day of the Lord on earth.

■ 34:4 rolled up. See Heb. 1:10–12; 2 Pet. 3:12. As the Lord stretched out the heavens at creation (42:25), in the end He will roll them up (Mark 13:24, 25; Rev. 6:13).

■ 34:5 come down. The Lord's avenging sword moves from demolishing the pantheon of heaven to Edom in particular.

Edom. Here representing the nations (63:1–6; Ezek. 35; Obad. 10–14; cf. Rev. 18:2).

■ 34:6 sword of the LORD. See Rev. 19:15.

Bozrah. An important city in Edom 30 miles southeast of the Dead Sea.

■ 34:7 wild oxen . . . mighty bulls. These terms refer to the Edomite leaders.

8 For it is the day of the LORD's [f]vengeance,
The year of recompense for the cause of Zion.
9 [m]Its streams shall be turned into pitch,
And its dust into brimstone;
Its land shall become burning pitch.
10 It shall not be quenched night or day;
[n]Its smoke shall ascend forever.
[o]From generation to generation it shall lie waste;
No one shall pass through it forever and ever.
11 [p]But the [3]pelican and the [4]porcupine shall possess it,
Also the owl and the raven shall dwell in it.
And [q]He shall stretch out over it
The line of confusion and the stones of emptiness.
12 They shall call its nobles to the kingdom,
But none shall be there, and all its princes shall be nothing.

13 And [r]thorns shall come up in its palaces,
Nettles and brambles in its fortresses;
[s]It shall be a habitation of jackals,
A courtyard for ostriches.
14 The wild beasts of the desert shall also meet with the [5]jackals,
And the wild goat shall bleat to its companion;
Also [6]the night creature shall rest there,
And find for herself a place of rest.
15 There the arrow snake shall make her nest and lay eggs
And hatch, and gather them under her shadow;
There also shall the hawks be gathered,
Every one with her mate.

16 "Search from [t]the book of the LORD, and read:
Not one of these shall fail;
Not one shall lack her mate.
For My mouth has commanded it, and His Spirit has gathered them.
17 He has cast the lot for them,
And His hand has divided it among them with a measuring line.
They shall possess it forever;
From generation to generation they shall dwell in it."

The Future Glory of Zion

35 The [a]wilderness and the [1]wasteland shall be glad for them,
And the [b]desert[2] shall rejoice and blossom as the rose;
2 [c]It shall blossom abundantly and rejoice,
Even with joy and singing.
The glory of Lebanon shall be given to it,
The excellence of Carmel and Sharon.
They shall see the [d]glory of the LORD,
The excellency of our God.

2 [c]Is. 32:15 [d]Is. 40:5

■ 34:8 day of . . . vengeance. The day of the Lord is the time when the Lord establishes His kingdom on earth by delivering and glorifying His saints and by punishing the wicked and the oppressors of His children (2:11 note; 35:4; 59:17, 18; 61:2; 63:4).

■ 34:9 pitch . . . burning pitch. Alluding to the fall of Sodom and Gomorrah (Gen. 19:24–28; Ps. 11:6; Jer. 49:17, 18; Rev. 14:10, 11).

■ 34:10 night or day . . . generation to generation. God's judgment is everlasting (66:24; Matt. 18:8, 9; 25:41, 46; Mark 9:43, 48).

■ 34:11 confusion . . . emptiness. The same Hebrew words are rendered "without form, and void" in Gen. 1:2. God has decreed the desolation of powers that oppose His order. He brings disorder on those who have wreaked havoc with His order.

■ 34:16 book of the LORD. Probably the prophecy of vv. 1–15. The Spirit will see to it that what the Word announces is fulfilled.

■ 34:17 cast the lot. As God distributed the Promised Land by lot (Josh. 18:10), so He has divided Edom among the unclean animals (v. 11).

■ 35:1 wilderness. See note on 40:3. The presence of God's Spirit of restoration transforms nature and people, even when affected by this sinful world (32:15 note).

■ 35:2 our God. For the revelation of God's kingdom, see notes on 6:3; 33:17, 21.

3 [e]Strengthen the [3]weak hands,
And make firm the [4]feeble knees.
4 Say to those who are fearful-hearted,
"Be strong, do not fear!
Behold, your God will come with [f]vengeance,
With the recompense of God;
He will come and [g]save you."

5 Then the [h]eyes of the blind shall be opened,
And [i]the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped.
6 Then the [j]lame shall leap like a deer,
And the [k]tongue of the dumb sing.
For [l]waters shall burst forth in the wilderness,
And streams in the desert.
7 The parched ground shall become a pool,
And the thirsty land springs of water;
In [m]the habitation of jackals, where each lay,
There shall be grass with reeds and rushes.

8 A [n]highway shall be there, and a road,
And it shall be called the Highway of Holiness.
[o]The unclean shall not pass over it,
But it shall be for others.
Whoever walks the road, although a fool,
Shall not go astray.
9 [p]No lion shall be there,
Nor shall any ravenous beast go up on it;
It shall not be found there.
But the redeemed shall walk there,
10 And the [q]ransomed of the LORD shall return,
And come to Zion with singing,
With everlasting joy on their heads.
They shall obtain joy and gladness,
And [r]sorrow and sighing shall flee away.

1 [a]2 Kin. 18:13, 17; 2 Chr. 32:1

■ 35:4 do not fear. This admonition often occurs as an assurance of deliverance from oppressors (7:4; 8:12 note; 10:24; 37:6; 41:10, 13; 43:5; 51:7).

vengeance . . . save. God will bring complete deliverance to the oppressed and establish justice on earth (34:8 note).

■ 35:5, 6 blind . . . dumb. These transformations are evidences of a supernatural restoration and are associated with the ministry of Jesus (Matt. 11:2–6; 12:22; Mark 7:37; Luke 7:21, 22).

waters. See note on 1:30.

■ 35:7 reeds and rushes. This is in contrast to 19:5, 6.

■ 35:8 highway. See note on 11:16; 40:3; contrast 33:8.

Highway of Holiness. Only those who have been cleansed and consecrated are privileged to walk on the road of salvation that leads to Zion (4:3 note).

■ 35:9 lion . . . ravenous beast. Contrast 13:21, 22; 34:11–15.

■ 35:9, 10 redeemed . . . ransomed. These two Hebrew words often appear as parallels (Jer. 31:11; Hos. 13:14), and are almost synonymous. Both words are used to describe God's deliverance of Israel from Egypt (Ex. 6:6; 15:15, where the word "redeemed" translates the word for "ransomed" here). They play an important role in Isaiah's description of the future deliverance from the Exile as a new exodus (51:10, 11). The Lord is the "Redeemer" (41:14 and note; 49:26) who has forgiven Israel's sins (44:22; Ps. 103:3, 4).

■ 35:10 sorrow and sighing. See note on 25:8. Cf. 51:11.

■ 36:1—39:8 This historical bridge between chs. 1—35 and 40—66 directly parallels 2 Kin. 18:13—20:19. It records the fulfillment of Isaiah's predictions that the Lord would judge Judah by bringing the Assyrian army to the gates of Jerusalem and would then judge that proud army by destroying it there, preserving a faithful remnant in the city. Hezekiah's faith contrasts with that of his father, Ahaz. Hezekiah by faith accepted a sign when confronted with illness (30:7, 8); Ahaz refused to ask for a sign (7:12).

■ 36:1 fourteenth year. About 701 B.C. Hezekiah ruled with his father Ahaz as co-regent from 729–715 B.C. and was sole king from 715–686 B.C. Some explain the "fourteenth" year as a copyist's error for "twenty-fourth," while others suggest that Isaiah is referring to the beginning of Hezekiah's independent rule in 715 B.C.

Sennacherib. He was the king of Assyria from 705–681 B.C.

fortified cities. Sennacherib states in his annals that forty-six such cities were conquered during this campaign (2 Kin. 18:13 note).

■ 36:2 the Rabshakeh. He was the royal counsellor for military affairs. According to 2 Kin. 18:17 the king also sent his "Tartan" ("commander in chief"; cf. Is. 20:1) and his "Rabsaris" ("chief officer").

Assyria sent the [1]Rabshakeh with a great army from Lachish to King Hezekiah at Jerusalem. And he stood by the aqueduct from the upper pool, on the highway to the Fuller's Field. [3] And [b]Eliakim the son of Hilkiah, who was over the household, [c]Shebna the scribe, and Joah the son of Asaph, the recorder, came out to him.

[4] [d]Then the Rabshakeh said to them, "Say now to Hezekiah, 'Thus says the great king, the king of Assyria: "What confidence is this in which you trust? [5] I say you speak of having plans and power for war; but they are [2]mere words. Now in whom do you trust, that you rebel against me? [6] Look! You are trusting in the [e]staff of this broken reed, Egypt, on which if a man leans, it will go into his hand and pierce it. So is Pharaoh king of Egypt to all who [f]trust in him.

[7] "But if you say to me, 'We trust in the LORD our God,' is it not He whose high places and whose altars Hezekiah has taken away, and said to Judah and Jerusalem, 'You shall worship before this altar'?" ' [8] Now therefore, I urge you, give a pledge to my master the king of Assyria, and I will give you two thousand horses—if you are able on your part to put riders on them! [9] How then will you repel one captain of the least of my master's servants, and put your trust in Egypt for chariots and horsemen? [10] Have I now come up without the LORD against this land to destroy it? The LORD said to me, 'Go up against this land, and destroy it.' "

[11] Then Eliakim, Shebna, and Joah said to the Rabshakeh, "Please speak to your servants in Aramaic, for we understand it; and do not speak to us in [3]Hebrew in the hearing of the people who are on the wall."

■ 36:4 great king. An official title of Assyrian kings equivalent to "emperor." By contrast, Hezekiah is named without a title (vv. 13, 14).

■ 36:5 whom do you trust. The challenge of loyalty to Assyria, other political powers, or to the Lord is the essential message of Isaiah (12:2 note).

■ 36:6 Egypt. Hezekiah had depended on Egypt for support (30:2, 6, 7, 13; 31:1, 3 and notes). But as Isaiah had said Egypt could never deliver Judah because she too was under divine judgment (19:1–15; 20:3–6).

Assyrian Empire (650 B.C.). By 650 B.C. the Assyrian Empire, with its capital in Nineveh, stretched from the Persian Gulf in the east throughout the fertile crescent into Palestine and beyond, embracing for a short time all of Egypt in the southwest. Judah, while a free zone, still paid tribute to Assyria during the reign of Manasseh.

words, and not to the men who sit on the wall, who will eat and drink their own waste with you?"

13 Then the Rabshakeh stood and called out with a loud voice in Hebrew, and said, "Hear the words of the great king, the king of Assyria! 14 Thus says the king: 'Do not let Hezekiah deceive you, for he will not be able to deliver you; 15 nor let Hezekiah make you trust in the LORD, saying, "The LORD will surely deliver us; this city will not be given into the hand of the king of Assyria." ' 16 Do not listen to Hezekiah; for thus says the king of Assyria: 'Make peace with me by a present and come out to me; [g]and every one of you eat from his own vine and every one from his own fig tree, and every one of you drink the waters of his own cistern; 17 until I come and take you away to a land like your own land, a land of grain and new wine, a land of bread and vineyards. 18 Beware lest Hezekiah persuade you, saying, "The LORD will deliver us." Has any one of the [h]gods of the nations delivered its land from the hand of the king of Assyria? 19 Where are the gods of Hamath and Arpad? Where are the gods of Sepharvaim? Indeed, have they delivered [i]Samaria from my hand? 20 Who among all the gods of these lands have delivered their countries from my hand, that the LORD should deliver Jerusalem from my hand?' "

21 But they [j]held their peace and answered him not a word; for the king's commandment was, "Do not answer him." 22 Then Eliakim the son of Hilkiah, who was over the household, Shebna the scribe, and Joah the son of Asaph, the recorder, came to Hezekiah with their clothes torn, and told him the words of the Rabshakeh.

Isaiah Assures Deliverance

37 And [a]so it was, when King Hezekiah heard it, that he tore his clothes, covered himself with sackcloth, and went into the house of the LORD. 2 Then he sent Eliakim, who was over the household, Shebna the scribe, and the elders of the priests, covered with sackcloth, to Isaiah the prophet, the son of Amoz. 3 And they said to him, "Thus says Hezekiah: 'This day is a day of [b]trouble and rebuke and [l]blasphemy; for the children have come to birth, but there is no strength to bring them forth. 4 It may be that the LORD your God will hear the words of the Rabshakeh, whom his master the king of Assyria has sent to [c]reproach the living God, and will rebuke the words which the LORD your God has heard. Therefore lift up your prayer for the remnant that is left.' "

5 So the servants of King Hezekiah came to Isaiah. 6 And Isaiah said to them, "Thus you shall say to your master, 'Thus says the LORD: "Do not be afraid of the words which you have heard, with which the servants of the king of Assyria have blasphemed Me. 7 Surely I will send a spirit upon him, and he shall hear a rumor and return to his own land; and I will cause him to fall by the sword in his own land." ' "

Sennacherib's Threat and Hezekiah's Prayer

8 Then the Rabshakeh returned, and found the king of Assyria warring against Libnah, for he heard that he had departed from Lachish. 9 And the king heard concerning Tirhakah king of Ethiopia, "He has come out to make war with you." So when he heard it, he sent messengers to Hezekiah, saying, 10 "Thus you shall speak to Hezekiah king of Judah, saying: 'Do not let your

■ 37:8 Libnah. A city in the western hill country of Judah a few miles north of Lachish (36:2 note).

■ 37:9 king of Ethiopia. Egypt was ruled by an Ethiopian dynasty at this time. Tirhakah commanded the Egyptian troops in 701 B.C. He became sole king about 689 B.C. For "Ethiopia" see 18:1 note.

14 And Hezekiah received the letter from the hand of the messengers, and read it; and Hezekiah went up to the house of the LORD, and spread it before the LORD. 15 Then Hezekiah prayed to the LORD, saying: 16 "O LORD of hosts, God of Israel, the One who dwells between the cherubim, You are God, You [f]alone, of all the kingdoms of the earth. You have made heaven and earth. 17 [g]Incline Your ear, O LORD, and hear; open Your eyes, O LORD, and see; and [h]hear all the words of Sennacherib, which he has sent to reproach the living God. 18 Truly, LORD, the kings of Assyria have laid waste all the nations and their [i]lands, 19 and have cast their gods into the fire; for they were [j]not gods, but the work of men's hands—wood and stone. Therefore they destroyed them. 20 Now therefore, O LORD our God, [k]save us from his hand, that all the kingdoms of the earth may [l]know that You are the LORD, You alone."

The Word of the LORD Concerning Sennacherib

21 Then Isaiah the son of Amoz sent to Hezekiah, saying, "Thus says the LORD God of Israel, 'Because you have prayed to Me against Sennacherib king of Assyria, 22 this is the word which the LORD has spoken concerning him:

"The virgin, the daughter of Zion,
Has despised you, laughed you to scorn;
The daughter of Jerusalem
Has shaken her head behind your back!

23 "Whom have you reproached and blasphemed?
Against whom have you raised your voice,
And lifted up your eyes on high?
Against the Holy One of Israel.
24 By your servants you have reproached the Lord,
And said, 'By the multitude of my chariots
I have come up to the height of the mountains,
To the limits of Lebanon;
I will cut down its tall cedars
And its choice cypress trees;
I will enter its farthest height,
To its fruitful forest.
25 I have dug and drunk water,
And with the soles of my feet I have dried up
All the brooks of [2]defense.'

Gozan . . . Eden. Cities in Mesopotamia.

■ 37:13 Hamath . . . Ivah. Cities in Aram (Syria).

■ 37:14–20 Hezekiah did not respond to Sennacherib's boast; instead, he turned to the Lord in prayer (38:2). Unlike Ahaz, Hezekiah confessed his complete trust in the Lord as King, Creator, and Redeemer. The theology of this prayer summarizes Isaiah's vision of God.

■ 37:16 dwells between the cherubim. God is with His people and rules over them (1 Sam. 4:4; 2 Sam. 6:2; Ps. 80:1; 99:1), truths represented by His presence in the Most Holy Place of the temple, which contained the ark of the covenant with the wings of two cherubim above it.

■ 37:23 reproached . . . on high. Assyria had exalted herself against the Lord.

■ 37:24 come up to the height. This poetic expression, emphasizing superiority and pride (14:13, 14), is usually reserved for deity.

They were dismayed and confounded;
They were as the grass of the field
And the green herb,
As the grass on the housetops
And grain blighted before it is grown.

28 "But I know your dwelling place,
Your going out and your coming in,
And your rage against Me.
29 Because your rage against Me and your tumult
Have come up to My ears,
Therefore [n]I will put My hook in your nose
And My bridle in your lips,
And I will [o]turn you back
By the way which you came." '

You shall eat this year such as grows of itself,
And the second year what springs from the same;
Also in the third year sow and reap,
Plant vineyards and eat the fruit of them.
31 And the remnant who have escaped of the house of Judah
Shall again take root downward,
And bear fruit upward.
32 For out of Jerusalem shall go a remnant,
And those who escape from Mount Zion.
The [p]zeal of the LORD of hosts will do this.

33 "Therefore thus says the LORD concerning the king of Assyria:

'He shall not come into this city,
Nor shoot an arrow there,
Nor come before it with shield,
Nor build a siege mound against it.
34 By the way that he came,
By the same shall he return;
And he shall not come into this city,'
Says the LORD.

Sennacherib's Defeat and Death

36 Then the [s]angel[3] of the LORD went out, and [4]killed in the camp of the Assyrians one hundred and eighty-five thousand; and when people arose early in the morning, there were the corpses—all dead. 37 So Sennacherib king of Assyria departed and went away, returned home, and remained at Nineveh. 38 Now it came to pass, as he was worshiping in the house of Nisroch his god, that his sons Adrammelech and Sharezer struck him down with the sword; and they escaped into the land of Ararat. Then [t]Esarhaddon his son reigned in his place.

Hezekiah's Life Extended

38 In [a]those days Hezekiah was sick and near death. And Isaiah the prophet, the son of Amoz, went to him and said to him, "Thus says the LORD: [b]'Set your house in order, for you shall die and not live.' "

2 Then Hezekiah turned his face toward the wall, and prayed to the LORD, 3 and said, [c]"Remember now, O LORD, I pray, how I have walked before You in truth and with a [1]loyal heart, and have done what is good in Your [d]sight." And Hezekiah wept bitterly.

4 And the word of the LORD came to Isaiah, saying, 5 "Go and tell Hezekiah, 'Thus says the LORD, the God of David your father: "I have heard your prayer, I have seen your tears; surely I will add to your days fifteen years. 6 I will deliver you and this city from the hand of the king of Assyria, and [e]I will defend this city." ' 7 And this is [f]the sign to you from the LORD, that the LORD will do this thing which He has spoken: 8 Behold, I will bring the shadow on the sundial, which has gone down with the sun on the sundial of Ahaz, ten degrees backward." So the sun returned ten degrees on the dial by which it had gone down.

9 This is the writing of Hezekiah king of Judah, when he had been sick and had recovered from his sickness:

10 I said,
"In the prime of my life
I shall go to the gates of Sheol;
I am deprived of the remainder of my years."
11 I said,
"I shall not see [2]YAH,
The LORD [g]in the land of the living;
I shall observe man no more [3]among the inhabitants of [4]the world.
12 [h]My life span is gone,
Taken from me like a shepherd's tent;
I have cut off my life like a weaver.
He cuts me off from the loom;
From day until night You make an end of me.
13 I have considered until morning—
Like a lion,
So He breaks all my bones;
From day until night You make an end of me.

That I had great bitterness;
But You have lovingly delivered my soul from the pit of corruption,
For You have cast all my sins behind Your back.
18 For [k]Sheol cannot thank You,
Death cannot praise You;
Those who go down to the pit cannot hope for Your truth.
19 The living, the living man, he shall praise You,
As I do this day;
[l]The father shall make known Your truth to the children.

20 "The LORD was ready to save me;
Therefore we will sing my songs with stringed instruments
All the days of our life, in the house of the LORD."

21 Now [m]Isaiah had said, "Let them take a lump of figs, and apply it as a poultice on the boil, and he shall recover."

22 And [n]Hezekiah had said, "What is the sign that I shall go up to the house of the LORD?"

The Babylonian Envoys

39 At [a]that time [1]Merodach-Baladan the son of Baladan, king of Babylon, sent letters and a present to Hezekiah, for he heard that he had been sick and had recovered. 2 [b]And Hezekiah was pleased with them, and showed them the house of his treasures—the silver and gold, the spices and precious ointment, and all his armory—all that was found among his treasures. There was nothing in his house or in all his dominion that Hezekiah did not show them.

3 Then Isaiah the prophet went to King Hezekiah, and said to him, "What did these men say, and from where did they come to you?"

So Hezekiah said, "They came to me from a [c]far country, from Babylon."

4 And he said, "What have they seen in your house?"

So Hezekiah answered, "They have seen all that is in my house; there is nothing among my treasures that I have not shown them."

■ 38:14, 15 I am oppressed . . . bitterness. He is determined to remain faithful and to abandon himself to the Lord's mysterious will, painful though it is.

■ 38:17 pit of corruption. Hebrew sheol; see 14:6–11 note.

■ 38:18 thank . . . praise. Hezekiah's emphasis is on communal and personal praise in response to God's acts of salvation in this life. Praise is offered only in the land of the living.

■ 38:19 father . . . to the children. The story of God's acts of redemption were to be told from generation to generation (cf. Ex. 12:25–27).

■ 38:20 save me . . . All the days of our life. Hope is alive (cf. Ps. 6:9; 22:22–24), as Hezekiah expects to join in the communal praise (vv. 18, 19).

stringed instruments. Musical accompaniment assisted the singing of psalms (cf. Ps. 33:1–3; 150).

house of the LORD. This was the place specially designed by God for worship from the time of Solomon until the time of the church.

■ 38:21 poultice. All healing is of God. He may mediate it through medicine.

■ 39:1 At that time. That is, some time after Hezekiah's illness (38:1 note).

■ 39:2 silver . . . treasures. These arms and wealth evidence Hezekiah's ability to support Babylon in its rebellion against Assyria.

■ 39:3 Isaiah . . . Hezekiah. Isaiah came to speak for God and questioned Hezekiah.

■ 39:4 my treasures. His action suggests he was trusting his might and political alliance with Babylon, not the Lord.

4 [e]Is. 45:2 [3]Or a plain

5 [f]Is. 35:2

5 Then Isaiah said to Hezekiah, "Hear the word of the LORD of hosts: 6 'Behold, the days are coming [d]when all that is in your house, and what your fathers have accumulated until this day, shall be carried to Babylon; nothing shall be left,' says the LORD. 7 'And they shall take away some of your [e]sons who will descend from you, whom you will beget; and they shall be eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon.' "

8 So Hezekiah said to Isaiah, [f]"The word of the LORD which you have spoken is good!" For he said, "At least there will be peace and truth in my days."

God's People Are Comforted

40 "Comfort, yes, comfort My people!"
Says your God.
2 "Speak [1]comfort to Jerusalem, and cry out to her,
That her warfare is ended,
That her iniquity is pardoned;
[a]For she has received from the LORD's hand
Double for all her sins."

3 [b]The voice of one crying in the wilderness:
[c]"Prepare the way of the LORD;
[d]Make straight [2]in the desert
A highway for our God.
4 Every valley shall be exalted
And every mountain and hill brought low;
[e]The crooked places shall be made [3]straight
And the rough places smooth;
5 The [f]glory of the LORD shall be revealed,
And all flesh shall see it together;
For the mouth of the LORD has spoken."

■ 39:5 Hear the word. This phrase introduces the prophetic charge and judgment.

LORD of hosts. See note on 1:9.

■ 39:6 carried to Babylon. Isaiah predicts the Babylonian exile.

■ 39:7 your sons See 2 Kin. 24:15.

eunuchs. See Dan. 1:3–6.

■ 39:8 word. See note on v. 5.

good . . . in my days. This response has a negative note, as the king shows little concern for his own descendants or for his people. Though an end did come to the Babylonian exile, the prophetic word is clear that "there is no peace . . . for the wicked" (48:22; 57:21). God's peace will extend to the children of Zion (66:12, 13).

■ 40:1—55:13 Isaiah originally addressed these words to the future exiles in Babylon to encourage them to flee from there and return by faith to the promised land (e.g., 48:20, 21). The encouragement partially arises from their supernatural character (e.g., 41:21–27). These prophecies, delivered more than a century and a half beforehand (Introduction: Interpretive Difficulties), astonish their audience by predicting Israel's (i.e., Judah's) immediate deliverance from Babylon by Cyrus (e.g., 44:24—45:13), the coming of the suffering Christ to save them from their sins after they return to the land (42:1–7; 49:1–13; 50:4–11; 52:13—53:12), and Israel's final salvation in the last days (51:6). The near, more remote, and most remote prophecies merge together on the canvas. From Isaiah's perspective, the restoration after the Exile inaugurates the new age, and this first taste of salvation through God's servant, Cyrus, coalesces with the greater salvation that the Christ, God's servant, will bring His people. Today, the elect have even more confidence in words of prophecy because these have been fulfilled in Christ and are being fulfilled in His Church (2 Pet. 1:19).

■ 40:1 Comfort . . . comfort. The verbs are plural in form. God is addressing His heavenly court and the prophetic messengers who participate in it (v. 6; 44:26). Other heralds will be encouraged to spread the good news (vv. 9–11; 52:7). The repetition is for emphasis and occurs in 51:9, 17; 52:1, 11; 57:14; 62:10.

My people. Though they have rebelled, they are still treated as the people of God. The phrase occurs frequently in Isaiah (1:3; 3:12, 15; 43:20; 51:4, 16; 53:8; 58:1; 65:10, 22). See 43:1 note.

■ 40:2 warfare . . . iniquity. Isaiah refers to the exile of Israel and Judah of which he has spoken repeatedly. The suffering came on account of sin. See note on 27:9.

Double for all her sins. God has judged the punishment to be sufficient and is ready to forgive (43:25; 44:22; 48:9).

■ 40:3 voice. Though the voice may have included earlier prophets, such as Isaiah, it finds fulfillment in the ministry of John the Baptist (Matt. 3:3; Mark 1:3, 4; Luke 1:76; 3:4, 5; John 1:23).

wilderness . . . desert. These are metaphors for alienation and anguish (14:17; 27:10; 64:10). God alone can transform the desert into a blooming and fruitful oasis, a figure for the fullness and joy of His salvation (32:15, 16; 35:1, 6; 41:18, 19; 43:19, 20; 48:21; 51:3).

Prepare . . . Make straight. "Prepare" means to "clear away obstacles" (57:14). God will remove all obstacles at His coming, but He expects His people to prepare for the kingdom (62:10) and requires the nations to assist the progress of His salvation.

way . . . A highway. See note on 11:16. Here these are figures for human hearts that must be prepared through repentance (35:8–10; Luke 3:3–9). When that happens, God's glory appears on earth.

■ 40:4 valley . . . rough places. At the Lord's appearance (6:4 note), nature submits to His will. He removes all obstacles and prepares a road by which the royal procession advances in the establishment of the kingdom.

■ 40:5 revealed. God's kingdom is "revealed" in acts of salvation and judgment, especially in Jesus Christ (Luke 2:30, 31; John 1:14). The restoration from exile was a manifestation of God's glory.

all flesh . . . together. The revelation of His kingdom is public and visible in creation, in Christ, in the church, and in the new earth (Gen. 9:17; Matt. 2:1–11; 16:27; 24:30; Acts 28:28; 2 Cor. 3:18).

mouth. See note on 1:20. This affirmation is expanded in vv. 6–8.

6 The voice said, "Cry out!"
And [f]he said, "What shall I cry?"

[g]"All flesh is grass,
And all its loveliness is like the flower of the field.
7 The grass withers, the flower fades,
Because the breath of the LORD blows upon it;
Surely the people are grass.
8 The grass withers, the flower fades,
But [h]the word of our God stands forever."

9 O Zion,
You who bring good tidings,
Get up into the high mountain;
O Jerusalem,
You who bring good tidings,
Lift up your voice with strength,
Lift it up, be not afraid;
Say to the cities of Judah, "Behold your God!"

10 Behold, the Lord GOD shall come [5]with a strong hand,
And [i]His arm shall rule for Him;
Behold, [j]His reward is with Him,
And His [6]work before Him.
11 He will [k]feed His flock like a shepherd;
He will gather the lambs with His arm,
And carry them in His bosom,
And gently lead those who are with young.

12 [l]Who has measured the [7]waters in the hollow of His hand,
Measured heaven with a [8]span
And calculated the dust of the earth in a measure?
Weighed the mountains in scales
And the hills in a balance?
13 [m]Who has directed the Spirit of the LORD,
Or as His counselor has taught Him?
14 With whom did He take counsel, and who instructed Him,
And [n]taught Him in the path of justice?
Who taught Him knowledge,
And showed Him the way of understanding?

15 Behold, the nations are as a drop in a bucket,
And are counted as the small dust on the scales;
Look, He lifts up the isles as a very little thing.
16 And Lebanon is not sufficient to burn,
Nor its beasts sufficient for a burnt offering.
17 All nations before Him are as [o]nothing,
And [p]they are counted by Him less than nothing and worthless.

17 [o]Dan. 4:35 [p]Ps. 62:9

■ 40:6 voice. An angelic voice addresses Isaiah (6:6–9).

■ 40:7 breath. His wrath is likened to the destructive east wind (Ps. 103:16; Jer. 4:11; Ezek. 17:10).

■ 40:9 Zion. See note on 1:8.

good tidings. That is, the gospel. God has come to rescue His enslaved people.

■ 40:10 shall come. He arrives to inaugurate His kingdom on earth (35:4 note; 43:15; 44:6; 52:7–10).

arm. This metaphor describes the power of God as manifested in acts of deliverance and vengeance (v. 11; 48:14; 51:5, 9; 53:1; 59:16; 63:5, 12; Ex. 15:16; Ps. 44:3; 89:13; 98:1; 136:12).

reward. The spoils of victory here are the delivered people themselves. The rescued exiles both foreshadow and merge into the messianic community.

■ 40:11 flock . . . lead. These are the expressions of the tender, shepherding care of the divine King (Ps. 23:1–4; 78:52; 80:1; Jer. 31:10; Ezek. 34:11–16; Mic. 2:12; John 10:11).

■ 40:15 nations . . . isles. The Creator is sovereign over all human powers—which are as nothing (2:22).

■ 40:16 Lebanon. Famous for its dense cedar forests (2:13 note).

18 To whom then will you [q]liken God?
Or what likeness will you compare to Him?
19 [r]The workman molds an image,
The goldsmith overspreads it with gold,
And the silversmith casts silver chains.
20 Whoever is too impoverished for such [9]a contribution
Chooses a tree that will not rot;
He seeks for himself a skillful workman
[s]To prepare a carved image that will not totter.

21 [t]Have you not known?

■ 40:18 compare. The Lord is incomparable (v. 25; 46:5). See "The Spiritual Nature of God" at 66:1.

■ 40:19 silver chains. Possibly chains that kept the idol from toppling over. On Isaiah's polemic against idolatry, see 2:8.

■ 40:21 not known . . . not understood. This charge is directed at rejection of God's revelation (52:6 note).

beginning . . . foundations. God's glory and power are revealed in nature (Rom. 1:20).

■ 40:22 circle. This is either the horizon, or the hemisphere of the sky over the earth.

tent. God's creation is compared to a tent He has pitched (42:5; 44:24; 51:13; Ps. 18:11; 19:4).

■ 40:24 planted . . . whirlwind. This verse develops the imagery introduced in vv. 6, 7.

[a] His understanding is unsearchable.
29 He gives power to the weak,
And to those who have no might He increases strength.
30 Even the youths shall faint and be weary,
And the young men shall utterly fall,
31 But those who [b] wait on the LORD

They shall run and not be weary,
They shall walk and not faint.

And let the people renew their strength!
Let them come near, then let them speak;
Let us [b] come near together for judgment.

2 "Who raised up one [c] from the east?
Who in righteousness called him to His feet?
Who [d] gave the nations before him,
And made him rule over kings?
Who gave them as the dust to his sword,

■ 41:2 one from the east. Namely, Cyrus the Great of Persia (reigned 550–530 B.C.; v. 25; 44:28; 45:1 and notes).

righteousness. Cyrus was victorious in establishing a new order (1:21 note; 44:24—45:5, 13; 46:11).

gave . . . made. The victories of Cyrus were the Lord's doing on behalf of Israel (43:3).

nations . . . kings. The nations are under the Lord's authority and they must acknowledge His name to participate in His plan of redemption (45:1; 49:22, 23; 60:3, 16).

■ 41:3 pursued . . . passed. Cyrus's conquests were rapid (cf. 46:11).

■ 41:4 beginning. God has ordered human history.

I, the LORD . . . I am He. This is a most significant formula of divine self-identification (41:13; 42:8; 43:3, 10, 13, 15; 44:24; 45:3, 5, 6; 46:4; 48:17; 49:23; 51:15; 60:22; note the use of "I am" in John 6:35; 8:12, 58; 9:5; 10:7, 9; 11, 14; 11:25; 14:6; 15:1, 5).

first . . . last. These words give assurance that everything is always under the Lord's control (44:6; 48:12; cf. Heb. 13:8; Rev. 1:8, 17; 2:8; 21:6; 22:13).

I am with you. The Lord is Immanuel (8:8, 10; 43:2, 5; cf. Acts 18:9, 10).

I am your God. The basic promise for the covenant (vv. 13, 14; 43:1, 5; 44:2, 8; 51:12; Gen. 17:7; 21:17; 26:24; Deut. 20:1; 31:6, 8; Lev. 26:12; Jer. 32:38; Ezek. 37:27; 2 Cor. 6:16).

strengthen . . . uphold. The Lord is present in graciously delivering, exalting, and vindicating His children (v. 13; 42:1; 44:2; 49:8; 50:7). See note on 40:31.

righteous right hand. He establishes order on earth by His power, as He did at the Exodus (63:12; Ex. 15:6).

■ 41:11 ashamed. See note on 1:29.

■ 41:14 worm. The same word occurs at Job 25:6 and Ps. 22:6.

Redeemer. The Hebrew term designates the family protector. For a distressed family member, among other things, he avenges a murder (Num. 35:19) and redeems family property and those who have become slaves (Lev. 25:23–49; Ruth 2:20 note). See also 35:9, 10 and note.

the Holy One of Israel. See note on 1:4. The Lord, the Holy God, stoops to deliver His own people (43:14, 15; 45:11; 47:4; 48:17; 49:7; 54:5; 57:15).

■ 41:15 mountains . . . hills. These represent the many enemies of Israel (vv. 11, 12; cf. 42:15).

■ 41:17 poor . . . needy. These are the returning exiles and all who seek God's favor (11:4 note; Ps. 9:18 note).

■ 41:18, 19 An abundance of water ("rivers . . . springs") and vegetation ("cedar . . . cypress") pictures a transformation of creation (12:3; 35:1 and note; 43:18–20; 49:9–11; 55:13).

The myrtle and the oil tree;
I will set in the [x]desert the cypress tree and the pine
And the box tree together,
20 [y]That they may see and know,
And consider and understand together,
That the hand of the LORD has done this,
And the Holy One of Israel has created it.

The Futility of Idols

21 "Present your case," says the LORD.
"Bring forth your strong reasons," says the [z]King of Jacob.
22 "Let[a] them bring forth and show us what will happen;
Let them show the [b]former things, what they were,
That we may [c]consider them,
And know the latter end of them;
Or declare to us things to come.
23 [c]Show the things that are to come hereafter,
That we may know that you are gods;
Yes, [d]do good or do evil,
That we may be dismayed and see it together.
24 Indeed [e]you are nothing,
And your work is nothing;
He who chooses you is an abomination.

25 "I have raised up one from the north,
And he shall come;
From the [7]rising of the sun [f]he shall call on My name;
[g]And he shall come against princes as though mortar,
As the potter treads clay.
26 [h]Who has declared from the beginning, that we may know?
And former times, that we may say, 'He is righteous'?
Surely there is no one who shows,
Surely there is no one who declares,
Surely there is no one who hears your words.
27 [i]The first time [j]I said to Zion,
'Look, there they are!'
And I will give to Jerusalem one who brings good tidings.
28 [k]For I looked, and there was no man;
I looked among them, but there was no counselor,
Who, when I asked of them, could answer a word.
29 [l]Indeed they are all [8]worthless;
Their works are nothing;
Their molded images are wind and confusion.

■ 41:20 created. See note on 4:5.

■ 41:21 case . . . reasons. God renews the challenge issued in v. 1.

■ 41:22 will happen . . . latter end. The Lord alone plans, declares, and executes. See note at 11:2.

former things. See 42:9; 43:9; 46:9; 48:3. These include past prophecies of events, especially God's abandonment of Israel and Judah as recorded in chs. 1—35.

things to come. See 42:23; 44:7; 45:11; 46:10. These are prophecies of the Lord's favor and the full establishment of His kingdom, as in chs. 40—66.

■ 41:23 do good or do evil. God taunts the pagan gods for their inability to act in any direction.

■ 41:24 nothing . . . abomination. God condemns those who turn away from Him.

■ 41:25 raised up . . . he shall come. The Lord shows His sovereignty over the nations.

north . . . rising of the sun. Cyrus came from Persia in the east and conquered Media in 549 B.C., becoming master of territories north of Babylon. He executed the Lord's will (45:4, 5; 2 Chr. 36:23; Ezra 1:1–4).

potter. See note on 27:11.

■ 41:27 one who brings. This probably refers to Isaiah (40:1 note).

good tidings. The gospel of God's grace (40:9 note).

■ 41:28 no man . . . no counselor. The nations and their idols are impotent.

■ 41:29 worthless . . . wind and confusion. The Lord's assessment of idols is that they are empty, worthless (40:18–20; 41:7, 21–24; 44:9).

The Servant of the LORD

42 "Behold! [a]My Servant whom I uphold,
My [1]Elect One in whom My soul [b]delights!
[c]I have put My Spirit upon Him;
He will bring forth justice to the Gentiles.
2 He will not cry out, nor raise His voice,
Nor cause His voice to be heard in the street.
3 A bruised reed He will not break,
And [2]smoking flax He will not [3]quench;
He will bring forth justice for truth.
4 He will not fail nor be discouraged,
Till He has established justice in the earth;
[d]And the coastlands shall wait for His law."

5 Thus says God the LORD,
[e]Who created the heavens and stretched them out,
Who spread forth the earth and that which comes from it,
[f]Who gives breath to the people on it,
And spirit to those who walk on it:
6 "I,[g] the LORD, have called You in righteousness,
And will hold Your hand;
I will keep You [h]and give You as a covenant to the people,
As [i]a light to the Gentiles,
7 [j]To open blind eyes,
To [k]bring out prisoners from the prison,
Those who sit in [l]darkness from the prison house.
8 I am the LORD, that is My name;
And My [m]glory I will not give to another,
Nor My praise to carved images.
9 Behold, the former things have come to pass,
And new things I declare;
Before they spring forth I tell you of them."

■ 42:1–9 This is the first of four "Servant Songs" in chs. 40—55 celebrating the Servant of the Lord (49:1–7; 50:4–11; 52:13—53:12; cf. ch. 61).

■ 42:1 Servant. See note on 20:3. The servant imagery is fulfilled in Jesus (Matt. 12:15–21) and is also applicable to Israel (41:8 note) before His coming, and to the church later (1 Pet. 2:21–25). Israel as "Servant" includes only the faithful, not the unfaithful Israel (vv. 18–22).

uphold. See note on 41:10.

Elect. See note on 14:1.

delights. The Servant pleases God and is an object of His love and favor (60:10; 62:4; Matt. 3:17; Mark 1:11; Luke 9:35).

justice to the Gentiles. God institutes His universal kingdom of justice and righteousness. "Justice" is emphatically repeated three times in vv. 1–4.

■ 42:2 not cry out . . . raise. The Servant does not clamor for attention, but speaks in a spirit of gentleness and patience.

■ 42:3 bruised reed. This metaphor would be appropriate for the poor and needy (Ps. 9:18 note). Rather than break the weak, the Servant will heal them.

smoking flax. This represents people who are close to losing faith and hope.

■ 42:4 justice . . . law. The Servant will practice godliness on earth (cf. 2:2–4). He will be greater than Moses (Deut. 18:15–18; Acts 3:22–26), mediating a new covenant that enables people to keep His law (v. 6; 2 Cor. 3:3; Heb. 8:7–13).

wait. See 8:17 note.

■ 42:5 created the heavens . . . earth. God is above all creation as the Creator of everything (4:5 note).

breath . . . spirit. The Creator and Sustainer of life (Ps. 104:30; Acts 17:24, 25) will enable the Servant to transform the earth with new, spiritual life.

■ 42:6 called . . . keep. These are expressions parallel to v. 1.

covenant to the people. Jesus Christ, as God's Servant, brought the new covenant to His people (see 53:4–6; Jer. 31:31–34; Heb. 8:6–13; 9:15). The covenant is also called the "covenant of peace" (54:10), the "everlasting covenant" (55:3; 61:8), and the "new covenant" (Jer. 31:31).

light to the Gentiles. The recipients of God's light are a new community of light-bearers in a dark world (9:2; 49:6; 51:4; 60:1–3; Luke 2:30–32; Acts 26:17, 18, 23).

■ 42:7 To open . . . darkness. The Babylonian exile is described as a kind of dark prison. Israel's salvation from exile prefigures a spiritual deliverance through Christ from the blindness, bondage, and darkness of sin (5:30; 29:18; 51:14 and notes).

■ 42:8 glory. See "The Glory of God" at Ezek. 1:28.

■ 42:9 former things. These "former things" include the judgments prophesied against Damascus, Samaria, Nineveh, and Judah (41:22 note).

new things. These "new things" include renewal of the covenant, restoration to the land, the messianic kingdom, inclusion of the Gentiles, and the new heaven and earth (41:22 note).

declare . . . tell. God plans, proclaims, and executes. His word will come to pass (11:2 note; 40:8).

Praise to the LORD

10 [n]Sing to the LORD a new song,
And His praise from the ends of the earth,
[o]You who go down to the sea, and [4]all that is in it,
You coastlands and you inhabitants of them!
11 Let the wilderness and its cities lift up their voice,
The villages that Kedar inhabits.
Let the inhabitants of Sela sing,
Let them shout from the top of the mountains.
12 Let them give glory to the LORD,
And declare His praise in the coastlands.
13 The LORD shall go forth like a mighty man;
He shall stir up His zeal like a man of war.
He shall cry out, [p]yes, shout aloud;
He shall prevail against His enemies.

Promise of the LORD's Help

14 "I have held My peace a long time,
I have been still and restrained Myself.
Now I will cry like a woman in [5]labor,
I will pant and gasp at once.
15 I will lay waste the mountains and hills,
And dry up all their vegetation;
I will make the rivers coastlands,
And I will dry up the pools.
16 I will bring the blind by a way they did not know;
I will lead them in paths they have not known.
I will make darkness light before them,
And crooked places straight.
These things I will do for them,
And not forsake them.
17 They shall be [q]turned back,
They shall be greatly ashamed,
Who trust in carved images,
Who say to the molded images,
'You are our gods.'

18 "Hear, you deaf;
And look, you blind, that you may see.
19 [r]Who is blind but My servant,
Or deaf as My messenger whom I send?
Who is blind as he who is perfect,
And blind as the LORD's servant?
20 Seeing many things, [s]but you do not observe;
Opening the ears, but he does not hear."

■ 42:10 new song. The redeemed will sing a new song as Moses and Miriam did when they had witnessed God's acts of salvation (Ex. 15:1, 21; cf. 12:1–6 and notes; Ps. 149:1; Rev. 5:9; 14:3).

■ 42:11 Kedar. See note on 21:16 (60:7; Ps. 120:5; Jer. 2:10; 49:28, 29).

Sela. See note on 16:1.

■ 42:12 glory. The Lord receives acclamation from His subjects (v. 8; 24:14–16 note; 1 Pet. 2:9).

■ 42:13 zeal. Assurance comes from knowing that when the Lord's zeal is stirred, He will accomplish His plan (9:7 note).

mighty man . . . man of war. Isaiah describes the Lord as a Divine Warrior in whom hope lies (1:9; 5:26 and notes).

cry out. The Hebrew word here is different from the one in v. 2. This is a battle cry or call to arms, not a cry of distress.

■ 42:16 bring . . . not forsake. God promises to be with His people and lead them, as He did Israel in the wilderness (Ex. 13:21, 22).

■ 42:18 deaf . . . blind. They are "deaf" because they did not listen (v. 23), and "blind" because they refused to see the hand of God in their history (v. 20; 48:3–6).

■ 42:19 My servant. The Lord exclaims at the blindness and deafness of Israel, who unaccountably were as weak spiritually as their neighbors.

Israel's Obstinate Disobedience

21 The LORD is well pleased for His righteousness' sake;
He will exalt the law and make it honorable.
22 But this is a people robbed and plundered;
All of them are [6]snared in holes,
And they are hidden in prison houses;
They are for prey, and no one delivers;
For plunder, and no one says, "Restore!"

23 Who among you will give ear to this?
Who will listen and hear for the time to come?
24 Who gave Jacob for plunder, and Israel to the robbers?
Was it not the LORD,
He against whom we have sinned?
[f]For they would not walk in His ways,
Nor were they obedient to His law.
25 Therefore He has poured on him the fury of His anger
And the strength of battle;
[u]It has set him on fire all around,
[v]Yet he did not know;
And it burned him,
Yet he did not take it to [w]heart.

The Redeemer of Israel

43 But now, thus says the LORD, who created you, O Jacob,
And He who formed you, O Israel:
"Fear not, [a]for I have redeemed you;
[b]I have called you by your name;
You are Mine.
2 [c]When you pass through the waters, [d]I will be with you;
And through the rivers, they shall not overflow you.
When you [e]walk through the fire, you shall not be burned,
Nor shall the flame scorch you.
3 For I am the LORD your God,
The Holy One of Israel, your Savior;
[f]I gave Egypt for your ransom,
Ethiopia and Seba in your place.
4 Since you were precious in My sight,
You have been honored,
And I have [g]loved you;
Therefore I will give men for you,
And people for your life.
5 [h]Fear not, for I am with you;
I will bring your descendants from the east,
And [i]gather you from the west;
6 I will say to the [j]north, 'Give them up!'

■ 42:21 exalt the law. High regard for God's law will extend His righteous kingdom on earth (v. 4 note).

■ 42:22 robbed and plundered . . . in prison houses. These conditions came about because they rebelled against the Lord (v. 24).

■ 42:24 Jacob . . . Israel. See note on 41:8.

■ 42:25 battle. God in effect fought against His own people through the Assyrian and Babylonian devastation of Samaria and Judah.

■ 43:1–7 God will establish a new community.

■ 43:1 created. See note on 4:5.

formed. See note on 27:10–11.

Fear not. See note at 10:24; 35:4.

redeemed. See note on 35:8, 9.

called . . . name. The Lord called them to be His people and He knows them by name (v. 3 note; 45:3; 49:1; 62:2; John 10:3; Rev. 2:17). The basic blessing of God's covenant is expressed in Jer. 30:22, "You shall be My people, and I will be your God." See also Ex. 6:7; Lev. 11:45; Jer. 11:4.

■ 43:2 waters . . . flame. These words describe the affliction through which God will bring His people to safety (Ps. 66:6, 12).

■ 43:3 Egypt . . . Ethiopia . . . Seba. Seba is probably South Arabia, or Eritrea. For Ethiopia, see Ps. 68:31 note. The Lord chose Israel above these nations (Ps. 147:20; Amos 3:1, 2) and transferred their land to His people (Deut. 4:20, 37, 38; Josh. 24:13; Ps. 78:55).

■ 43:4 precious . . . honored. God's people are exalted by election (49:5; Ex. 19:5; Deut. 7:6–8).

And to the south, 'Do not keep them back!'
Bring My sons from afar,
And My daughters from the ends of the earth—
7 Everyone who is [k]called by My name,
Whom [l]I have created for My glory;
I have formed him, yes, I have made him."

8 [m]Bring out the blind people who have eyes,
And the [n]deaf who have ears.
9 Let all the nations be gathered together,
And let the people be assembled.
[o]Who among them can declare this,
And show us former things?
Let them bring out their witnesses, that they may be justified;
Or let them hear and say, "It is truth."
10 "You[p] are My witnesses," says the LORD,
[q]"And My servant whom I have chosen,
That you may know and [r]believe Me,
And understand that I am He.
Before Me there was no God formed,
Nor shall there be after Me.
11 I, even I, [s]am the LORD,
And besides Me there is no savior.
12 I have declared and saved,
I have proclaimed,
And there was no [t]foreign god among you;
[u]Therefore you are My witnesses,"
Says the LORD, "that I am God.
13 [v]Indeed before the day was, I am He;
And there is no one who can deliver out of My hand;
I work, and who will [w]reverse it?"

14 Thus says the LORD, your Redeemer,
The Holy One of Israel:
"For your sake I will send to Babylon,
And bring them all down as fugitives—
The Chaldeans, who rejoice in their ships.
15 I am the LORD, your Holy One,
The Creator of Israel, your [x]King."

16 Thus says the LORD, who [y]makes a way in the sea
And a [z]path through the mighty waters,
17 Who [a]brings forth the chariot and horse,
The army and the power
(They shall lie down together, they shall not rise;
They are extinguished, they are quenched like a wick):
18 "Do[b] not remember the former things,
Nor consider the things of old.
19 Behold, I will do a [c]new thing,

■ 43:19 new thing. The exodus from Egypt is less important than the new era of redemption (42:9 note).

wilderness . . . desert. See note on 40:3.

Now it shall spring forth;
Shall you not know it?
[d]I will even make a road in the wilderness
And rivers in the desert.

The jackals and the ostriches,
Because [e]I give waters in the wilderness
And rivers in the desert,
To give drink to My people, My chosen.
21 [f]This people I have formed for Myself;
They shall declare My [g]praise.

Pleading with Unfaithful Israel

22 "But you have not called upon Me, O Jacob;
And you [h]have been weary of Me, O Israel.
23 [i]You have not brought Me the sheep for your burnt offerings,
Nor have you honored Me with your sacrifices.
I have not caused you to serve with grain offerings,
Nor wearied you with incense.
24 You have bought Me no sweet cane with money,
Nor have you satisfied Me with the fat of your sacrifices;
But you have burdened Me with your sins,
You have [j]wearied Me with your iniquities.

25 "I, even I, am He who [k]blots out your transgressions [l]for My own sake;
[m]And I will not remember your sins.
26 Put Me in remembrance;
Let us contend together;
State your case, that you may be [l]acquitted.
27 Your first father sinned,
And your [2]mediators have transgressed against Me.
28 Therefore I will profane the princes of the sanctuary;
[n]I will give Jacob to the curse,
And Israel to reproaches.

God's Blessing on Israel

44 "Yet hear me now, O Jacob My servant,
And Israel whom I have chosen.
2 Thus says the LORD who made you
And formed you from the womb, who will help you:
'Fear not, O Jacob My servant;
And you, Jeshurun, whom I have chosen.

6 "Thus says the LORD, the King of Israel,
And his Redeemer, the LORD of hosts:
[a]'I am the First and I am the Last;
Besides Me there is no God.
7 And [b]who can proclaim as I do?
Then let him declare it and set it in order for Me,
Since I appointed the ancient people.
And the things that are coming and shall come,
Let them show these to them.

According to the beauty of a man, that it may remain in the house.

One and Three: The Trinity

The Old Testament constantly insists that there is only one God, the self-revealed Creator, who must be worshiped and loved exclusively (Deut. 6:4–5; Is. 44:6—45:25). The New Testament agrees (Mark 12:29–30; 1 Cor. 8:4; Eph. 4:6; 1 Tim. 2:5), but speaks of three personal agents, Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, working together to bring about salvation (Rom. 8; Eph. 1:3–14; 2 Thess. 2:13–14; 1 Pet. 1:2). The historic formulation of the Trinity (from the Latin word trinitas, meaning "threeness") is not an attempt to explain it; that would be beyond us. It does provide a boundary and safeguard for our thoughts about this mystery, which confronts us with perhaps the most difficult thought that the human mind can know. It is not easy; but it is true.

The doctrine springs from the historical facts of redemption recorded and explained in the New Testament. Jesus prayed to His Father and taught His disciples to do the same. Yet He convinced them that He was personally divine. Belief in His divinity and in the rightness of offering Him worship and prayer is basic to New Testament faith (John 20:28–31, cf. 1:1–18; Acts 7:59; Rom. 9:5; 10:9–13; 2 Cor. 12:7–9; Phil. 2:5–6; Col. 1:15–17; 2:9; Heb. 1:1–12; 1 Pet. 3:15). Jesus promised to send "another Helper" or "Paraclete" (from the Greek; see text note at John 14:16) to carry on His work as the first Helper (John 14:16,17). A "Paraclete" is an advocate, helper, ally, and supporter (John 14:26; 15:26–27; 16:7–15). The promised Helper was the Holy Spirit, who came at Pentecost to fulfill His ministry. From the start He was recognized as the third divine Person: to lie to Him, said Peter not long after Pentecost, is to lie to God (Acts 5:3–4).

Christ prescribed baptism "in the name (singular: one God, one name) of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit"—three Persons who are the one God to whom Christians commit themselves (Matt. 28:19). So we meet the three Persons in the account of Jesus' own baptism: the Father acknowledged the Son, and the Spirit showed His presence in the Son's life and ministry (Mark 1:9–11). The blessing of 2 Cor. 13:14 is trinitarian, as is the prayer for grace and peace from the Father, the Spirit, and Jesus Christ in Rev. 1:4–5. John includes the Spirit between the Father and the Son only because he teaches that the Spirit is divine in the very same sense as are the Father and the Son. These are some of the more striking examples of trinitarian teaching in the New Testament. Though the technical language of later theology is not found there, trinitarian faith and thinking are present in all its pages. In this sense the Trinity is a biblical doctrine.

Basically the doctrine is that the unity of the one God is complex. The three personal "subsistences" (as they are called) are coequal and coeternal centers of self-awareness, each being "I" in relation to two who are "You," and each having the full divine essence of God, the specific existence that belongs to God alone. God is not one person who plays three separate roles; this is the error called "modalism." Nor are there three gods who only seem to be one because they always act together; this is "tritheism." The theologian B. B. Warfield put it simply: "when we have said these three things, then—that there is but one God, that the Father and the Son and the Spirit is each God, that the Father and the Son and the Spirit is each a distinct person—we have enunciated the doctrine of the Trinity in its completeness." This summarizes what was revealed through the words and works of Jesus, and is the reality underlying the salvation of the New Testament.

Practically speaking, the doctrine of the Trinity requires us to give equal honor to each of the three Persons in the unity of the one God. Moreover, knowing the doctrine establishes personal faith no less than it enriches a healthy sense of unity with other Christians. □

■ 44:13 like the figure of a man. The carpenter makes his god in his own image (Deut. 4:16; Rom. 1:22, 23).

14 He cuts down cedars for himself,
And takes the cypress and the oak;
He [l]secures it for himself among the trees of the forest.
He plants a pine, and the rain nourishes it.

15 Then it shall be for a man to burn,
For he will take some of it and warm himself;
Yes, he kindles it and bakes bread;
Indeed he makes a god and worships it;
He makes it a carved image, and falls down to it.
16 He burns half of it in the fire;
With this half he eats meat;
He roasts a roast, and is satisfied.
He even warms himself and says,
"Ah! I am warm,
I have seen the fire."
17 And the rest of it he makes into a god,
His carved image.
He falls down before it and worships it,
Prays to it and says,
"Deliver me, for you are my god!"

18 [k]They do not know nor understand;
For [l]He has [2]shut their eyes, so that they cannot see,
And their hearts, so that they cannot [m]understand.
19 And no one [n]considers in his heart,
Nor is there knowledge nor understanding to say,
"I have burned half of it in the fire,
Yes, I have also baked bread on its coals;
I have roasted meat and eaten it;
And shall I make the rest of it an abomination?
Shall I fall down before a block of wood?"
20 He feeds on ashes;
[o]A deceived heart has turned him aside;
And he cannot deliver his soul,
Nor say, "Is there not a [p]lie in my right hand?"

Israel Is Not Forgotten

21 "Remember these, O Jacob,
And Israel, for you are My servant;
I have formed you, you are My servant;
O Israel, you will not be [q]forgotten by Me!
22 [r]I have blotted out, like a thick cloud, your transgressions,
And like a cloud, your sins.
Return to Me, for [s]I have redeemed you."

23 [t]Sing, O heavens, for the LORD has done it!
Shout, you lower parts of the earth;
Break forth into singing, you mountains,
O forest, and every tree in it!
For the LORD has redeemed Jacob,
And [u]glorified Himself in Israel.

Judah Will Be Restored

24 Thus says the LORD, [v]your Redeemer,
And [w]He who formed you from the womb:
"I am the LORD, who makes all things,
[x]Who stretches out the heavens [3]all alone,
Who spreads abroad the earth by Myself;
25 Who [y]frustrates the signs [z]of the babblers,
And drives diviners mad;
Who turns wise men backward,
[a]And makes their knowledge foolishness;
26 [b]Who confirms the word of His servant,
And performs the counsel of His messengers;
Who says to Jerusalem, 'You shall be inhabited,'
To the cities of Judah, 'You shall be built,'
And I will raise up her waste places;
27 [c]Who says to the deep, 'Be dry!
And I will dry up your rivers';
28 Who says of [d]Cyrus, 'He is My shepherd,
And he shall perform all My pleasure,
Saying to Jerusalem, [e]"You shall be built,"
And to the temple, "Your foundation shall be laid." '

Cyrus, God's Instrument

45 "Thus says the LORD to His anointed,
To [a]Cyrus, whose [b]right hand I have [1]held—
[c]To subdue nations before him
And [d]loose the armor of kings,
To open before him the double doors,
So that the gates will not be shut:
2 'I will go before you
[e]And[2] make the [3]crooked places straight;
[f]I will break in pieces the gates of bronze
And cut the bars of iron.
3 I will give you the treasures of darkness
And hidden riches of secret places,
[g]That you may know that I, the LORD,
Who [h]call you by your name,
Am the God of Israel.
4 For [i]Jacob My servant's sake,

■ 44:27 deep . . . rivers. Possibly a reference to the crossing of the Red Sea (43:16, 19 and notes). The prophecy may have found a literal fulfillment when Cyrus diverted the water of the Euphrates River and marched his army through the gates that allowed it to flow through the city of Babylon (45:2 note).

■ 44:28 My shepherd. Kings were often called shepherds (2 Sam. 5:2; Jer. 3:15; cf. Mic. 5:4). Cyrus ruled by God's decree.

There is no God besides Me.
I will gird you, though you have not known Me,
6 That they may know from the rising of the sun to its setting
That there is none besides Me.
I am the LORD, and there is no other;
7 I form the light and create darkness,
I make peace and create calamity;
I, the LORD, do all these things.'

8 "Rain down, you heavens, from above,
And let the skies pour down righteousness;
Let the earth open, let them bring forth salvation,
And let righteousness spring up together.
I, the LORD, have created it.

9 "Woe to him who strives with his Maker!
Let the potsherd strive with the potsherds of the earth!
Shall the clay say to him who forms it, 'What are you making?'
Or shall your handiwork say, 'He has no hands'?
10 Woe to him who says to his father, 'What are you begetting?'
Or to the woman, 'What have you brought forth?' "

11 Thus says the LORD,
The Holy One of Israel, and his Maker:
"Ask Me of things to come concerning My sons;
And concerning the work of My hands, you command Me.
12 I have made the earth,
And created man on it.
I—My hands—stretched out the heavens,
And all their host I have commanded.
13 I have raised him up in righteousness,
And I will direct all his ways;
He shall build My city
And let My exiles go free,
Not for price nor reward,"
Says the LORD of hosts.

The LORD, the Only Savior

14 Thus says the LORD:

"The labor of Egypt and merchandise of Cush
And of the Sabeans, men of stature,
Shall come over to you, and they shall be yours;
They shall walk behind you,
They shall come over in chains;
And they shall bow down to you.
They will make supplication to you, saying, 'Surely God is in you,
And there is no other;
There is no other God.' "

[k]Who created the heavens,
Who is God,
Who formed the earth and made it,
Who has established it,
Who did not create it [5]in vain,
Who formed it to be [l]inhabited:
[m]"I am the LORD, and there is no other.

In a dark place of the earth;
I did not say to the seed of Jacob,
'Seek Me [6]in vain';
[o]I, the LORD, speak righteousness,
I declare things that are right.

20 "Assemble yourselves and come;

You who have escaped from the nations.
[p]They have no knowledge,

21 Tell and bring forth your case;
Yes, let them take counsel together.
[q]Who has declared this from ancient time?
Who has told it from that time?
Have not I, the LORD?
[r]And there is no other God besides Me,
A just God and a Savior;
There is none besides Me.

22 "Look to Me, and be saved,
[s]All you ends of the earth!
For I am God, and there is no other.
23 [t]I have sworn by Myself;
The word has gone out of My mouth in righteousness,
And shall not return,
That to Me every [u]knee shall bow,

■ 45:15 God, who hide Yourself. God is said to hide Himself when He seems not to be present to help His people (8:17; 54:8). He is also "hidden" in the sense that He is unaccountable to anyone, and His ways are often mysterious (55:8, 9; Ps. 77:19 note; Rom. 9:20; 11:33, 34).

■ 45:17 everlasting salvation . . . Forever and ever. God is unlike people and idols, who can never secure the future for themselves or for others (cf. Heb. 5:9).

■ 45:18 in vain. This word is translated "without form" in Gen. 1:2. This was the beginning, not the end of creation. In the same way God does not invite people to seek Him to no purpose. He will carry through with what He has begun (55:11; 66:9) and answer those who seek Him (55:3; Matt. 11:28; Heb. 11:6).

■ 45:19 in secret, In a dark place. The Lord's revelation is unlike pagan oracles that were obscure and ambiguous. The Lord's revelation is clear and public, though the outworking of His promises may not conform to human expectations (48:16).

■ 45:22 ends of the earth. See v. 14 and note.

■ 45:23 I have sworn by Myself. God's promises are guaranteed by His name (14:24; 62:8; Gen. 22:16; Ex. 32:13; Heb. 6:13–18).

every knee . . . Every tongue. This is the goal of redemptive history (v. 14 and note; Rom. 14:11; 1 Cor. 15:25; Phil. 2:10, 11).

[r]Every tongue shall take an oath.
24 He shall say,
[7][s]'Surely in the LORD I have [w]righteousness and strength.
To Him men shall come,
And [x]all shall be ashamed
Who are incensed against Him.
25 [y]In the LORD all the descendants of Israel
Shall be justified, and [z]shall glory.' "

Dead Idols and the Living God

46 Bel [a]bows down, Nebo stoops;
Their idols were on the beasts and on the cattle.
Your carriages were heavily loaded,
[b]A burden to the weary beast.
2 They stoop, they bow down together;
They could not deliver the burden,
[c]But have themselves gone into captivity.

3 "Listen to Me, O house of Jacob,
And all the remnant of the house of Israel,
[d]Who have been upheld by Me from [1]birth,
Who have been carried from the womb:
4 Even to your old age, [e]I am He,
And even to gray hairs [f]I will carry you!
I have made, and I will bear;
Even I will carry, and will deliver you.

5 "To[g] whom will you liken Me, and make Me equal
And compare Me, that we should be alike?
6 [h]They lavish gold out of the bag,
And weigh silver on the scales;
They hire a [i]goldsmith, and he makes it a god;
They prostrate themselves, yes, they worship.
7 [j]They bear it on the shoulder, they carry it
And set it in its place, and it stands;
From its place it shall not move.
Though [k]one cries out to it, yet it cannot answer
Nor save him out of his trouble.

8 "Remember this, and [2]show yourselves men;
[l]Recall to mind, O you transgressors.
9 [m]Remember the former things of old,
For I am God, and [n]there is no other;
I am God, and there is none like Me,
10 [o]Declaring the end from the beginning,
And from ancient times things that are not yet done,
Saying, [p]'My counsel shall stand,
And I will do all My pleasure,'
11 Calling a bird of prey [q]from the east,
The man [r]who executes My counsel, from a far country.

I will also bring it to pass.

[u]Who are far from righteousness:
13 [v]I bring My righteousness near, it shall not be far off;
My salvation [w]shall not [3]linger.
And I will place [x]salvation in Zion,
For Israel My glory.

The Humiliation of Babylon

47 "Come [a]down and [b]sit in the dust,
O virgin daughter of [c]Babylon;
Sit on the ground without a throne,
O daughter of the Chaldeans!
For you shall no more be called
Tender and [1]delicate.
2 [d]Take the millstones and grind meal.
Remove your veil,
Take off the skirt,
Uncover the thigh,
Pass through the rivers.
3 [e]Your nakedness shall be uncovered,
Yes, your shame will be seen;
[f]I will take vengeance,
And I will not arbitrate with a man."

4 As for [g]our Redeemer, the LORD of hosts is His name,
The Holy One of Israel.

5 "Sit in [h]silence, and go into darkness,
O daughter of the Chaldeans;
[i]For you shall no longer be called
The Lady of Kingdoms.
6 [j]I was angry with My people;
[k]I have profaned My inheritance,
And given them into your hand.
You showed them no mercy;
[l]On the elderly you laid your yoke very heavily.
7 And you said, 'I shall be [m]a lady forever,'
So that you did not [n]take these things to heart,
[o]Nor remember the latter end of them.

8 "Therefore hear this now, you who are given to pleasures,
Who dwell securely,
Who say in your heart, 'I am, and there is no one else besides me;
I shall not sit as a widow,
Nor shall I know the loss of children';
9 But these two things shall come to you

7 [m]Rev. 18:7 [n]Is. 42:25; 46:8 [o]Deut. 32:29; Jer. 5:31; Ezek. 7:2, 3

■ 46:12 stubborn-hearted. These are the transgressors of v. 8. As some in the first exodus looked back to Egypt (Num. 14:3), so also some in the second exodus longed for Babylon.

■ 46:13 Zion. See note on 1:8.

■ 47:1–15 An oracle regarding the fall of Babylon, never to rise again.

■ 47:1–3 Babylon, the queen of nations, is commanded to descend from her throne and become a menial slave girl. By contrast, Zion, a captive slave girl, will be commanded to ascend her throne (52:1, 2).

■ 47:1 virgin daughter of Babylon. The city of Babylon and its inhabitants.

■ 47:2 Remove . . . Pass through. All Babylon's privileges and status will be removed. She will be humiliated.

■ 47:4 Redeemer. See notes on 35:9; 41:14.

■ 47:7 a lady forever. Her boast was based on her contempt for the truths that God ruled history and that He would judge her for her cruelties (v. 6; Rev. 18:7). Her society and politics had no regard for God.

■ 47:9 moment, in one day. Babylon's losses will occur suddenly.

loss of children, and widowhood. Bereft of husband and children, she has no hope for the future and is consigned to slavery and extinction. Contrast 49:21–23; 54:1–6.

[p]In a moment, in one day:
The loss of children, and widowhood.
They shall come upon you in their fullness
Because of the multitude of your sorceries,
For the great abundance of your enchantments.

10 "For you have trusted in your wickedness;
You have said, 'No one [q]sees me';
Your wisdom and your knowledge have [2]warped you;
And you have said in your heart,
'I am, and there is no one else besides me.'
11 Therefore evil shall come upon you;
You shall not know from where it arises.
And trouble shall fall upon you;
You will not be able [3]to put it off.
And [r]desolation shall come upon you [s]suddenly,
Which you shall not know.

12 "Stand now with your enchantments
And the multitude of your sorceries,
In which you have labored from your youth—
Perhaps you will be able to profit,
Perhaps you will prevail.
13 [t]You are wearied in the multitude of your counsels;
Let now [u]the[4] astrologers, the stargazers,
And [5]the monthly prognosticators
Stand up and save you
From what shall come upon you.
14 Behold, they shall be [v]as stubble,
The fire shall [w]burn them;
They shall not deliver themselves
From the power of the flame;
It shall not be a coal to be warmed by,
Nor a fire to sit before!
15 Thus shall they be to you
With whom you have labored,
[x]Your merchants from your youth;
They shall wander each one to his [6]quarter.
No one shall save you.

Israel Refined for God's Glory

48 "Hear this, O house of Jacob,
Who are called by the name of Israel,
And have come forth from the wellsprings of Judah;
Who swear by the name of the LORD,
And make mention of the God of Israel,
But [a]not in truth or in righteousness;
2 For they call themselves [b]after the holy city,
And [c]lean on the God of Israel;
The LORD of hosts is His name:

3 "I have [d]declared the former things from the beginning;
They went forth from My mouth, and I caused them to hear it.

2 [b]Is. 52:1; 64:10 [c]Is. 10:20; Jer. 7:4; 21:2; Mic. 3:11; Rom. 2:17

3 [d]Is. 44:7, 8; 46:10

■ 47:10 wisdom . . . knowledge. These are Babylon's traditions of religion, magic, and divination. See note on 44:25.

I am. In brazen self-deification, Babylon usurps the name of God (45:5, 6, 18, 21, 22; 46:9).

■ 47:13 counsels . . . stargazers. Babylon depended on omens from the heavenly bodies for her decisions (Dan. 2:2).

■ 47:14 stubble . . . flame. See Rev. 18:17–19. Babylon's astrologers (v. 13) practiced their craft to save Babylon from these prophecies, but they cannot even save themselves (Dan. 2:10–13).

■ 48:1 Hear. This final and urgent appeal was designed to lead deaf and blind Israel (vv. 6, 8; cf. 42:18–20; 46:3–12; 51:1) to recognize God's ways in creation and in history (v. 12, 16).

■ 48:3 former things. See notes on 41:22; 42:9.

Suddenly I did them, [e]and they came to pass.
4 Because I knew that you were [f]obstinate,
And [f]your neck was an iron sinew,
And your brow bronze,
5 Even from the beginning I have declared it to you;
Before it came to pass I proclaimed it to you,
Lest you should say, 'My idol has done them,
And my carved image and my molded image
Have commanded them.'

6 "You have heard;
See all this.
And will you not declare it?
I have made you hear new things from this time,
Even hidden things, and you did not know them.
7 They are created now and not from the beginning;
And before this day you have not heard them,
Lest you should say, 'Of course I knew them.'
8 Surely you did not hear,
Surely you did not know;
Surely from long ago your ear was not opened.
For I knew that you would deal very treacherously,
And were called [g]a transgressor from the womb.

9 "For[h] My name's sake [i]I will [2]defer My anger,
And for My praise I will restrain it from you,
So that I do not cut you off.
10 Behold, [j]I have refined you, but not as silver;
I have tested you in the [k]furnace of affliction.
11 For My own sake, for My own sake, I will do it;
For [l]how should My name be profaned?
And [m]I will not give My glory to another.

God's Ancient Plan to Redeem Israel

12 "Listen to Me, O Jacob,
And Israel, My called:
I am He, [n]I am the [o]First,
I am also the Last.
13 Indeed [p]My hand has laid the foundation of the earth,
And My right hand has stretched out the heavens;
When [q]I call to them,
They stand up together.

14 "All of you, assemble yourselves, and hear!
Who among them has declared these things?
[r]The LORD loves him;
[s]He shall do His pleasure on Babylon,
And His arm shall be against the Chaldeans.
15 I, even I, have spoken;
Yes, [t]I have called him,
I have brought him, and his way will prosper.

15 [t]Is. 45:1, 2

■ 48:5 from the beginning . . . Before it came to pass. The Lord alone decrees and executes His will according to His word.

■ 48:6 heard; See. The evidence speaks for itself, if only they would believe God's word.

new things . . . hidden things. An era of salvation and kingdom righteousness began with the restoration from exile, but these prophecies look forward to Christ's coming and the growth of His kingdom in its fullness (45:15; Rev. 1:19).

■ 48:10 refined . . . tested. The Exile was a period of refining (1:22, 25; compare Ezek. 22:18–22; 1 Pet. 1:7).

■ 48:12 I am He. Contrast Babylon's boast in 47:8, 10.

■ 48:14 The LORD loves him. That is, Cyrus (41:2, 25; 45:4; 46:11 and notes).

■ 48:15 called . . . prosper. The status and special success of Cyrus is given by the Lord.

16 "Come near to Me, hear this:
[u]I have not spoken in secret from the beginning;
From the time that it was, I was there.
And now [v]the Lord GOD and His Spirit
[3]Have sent Me."

17 Thus says [w]the LORD, your Redeemer,
The Holy One of Israel:
"I am the LORD your God,
Who teaches you to profit,
[x]Who leads you by the way you should go.
18 [y]Oh, that you had heeded My commandments!
[z]Then your peace would have been like a river,
And your righteousness like the waves of the sea.
19 [a]Your descendants also would have been like the sand,
And the offspring of your body like the grains of sand;
His name would not have been cut off
Nor destroyed from before Me."

20 [b]Go forth from Babylon!
Flee from the Chaldeans!
With a voice of singing,
Declare, proclaim this,
Utter it to the end of the earth;
Say, "The LORD has [c]redeemed
His servant Jacob!"
21 And they [d]did not thirst
When He led them through the deserts;
He [e]caused the waters to flow from the rock for them;
He also split the rock, and the waters gushed out.

22 "There[f] is no peace," says the LORD, "for the wicked."

The Servant, the Light to the Gentiles

49 "Listen, [a]O coastlands, to Me,
And take heed, you peoples from afar!
[b]The LORD has called Me from the womb;
From the [1]matrix of My mother He has made mention of My name.
2 And He has made [c]My mouth like a sharp sword;
[d]In the shadow of His hand He has hidden Me,
And made Me [e]a polished shaft;
In His quiver He has hidden Me."

3 "And He said to me,
[f]'You are My servant, O Israel,
[g]In whom I will be glorified.'

■ 48:16 I was there. Christ appears to be speaking in this verse. As commonly translated, He reveals that His Spirit inspired the prophets (Rev. 19:10), and that He came into the world sent by the Father and the Spirit. Salvation is the work of the triune God.

■ 48:17 Redeemer. See note on 35:9; 41:14.

■ 48:18 Oh, that you had heeded. God reveals a compassionate longing for His people to find their peace in living for Him. As Dante said, "In His will is our peace."

river . . . waves of the sea. These similes represent abundant life (66:12; Amos 5:24).

righteousness. See note on 1:21. Peace and righteousness go together (v. 22; 26:3 note; 32:17; 54:13, 14; 60:17; Ps. 85:10; Heb. 7:2).

■ 48:19 descendants . . . sand. This is the promise first made to Abraham (Gen. 12:2; 22:17).

■ 48:21 thirst . . . gushed out. The prophet remembers the exodus from Egypt and how God provided for His people then (41:17–20; 43:19–21; 44:3; cf. Ex. 17:6; Ps. 105:41).

■ 48:22 no peace. See v. 18 note.

■ 49:1–7 This is the second of the four "Servant Songs" (42:1–9; 49:1–7; 50:4–11; 52:13—53:12).

■ 49:1 called . . . name. The faithful servant is called "Israel" (v. 3; 43:1; 44:2, 24; 45:3 and notes). He is distinct from unfaithful Israel (vv. 5, 6; 42:18; 46:12; 48:1 and notes).

■ 49:2 mouth. The servant conquers through preaching (11:4 note; 51:16 note; 61:1). God's words are effective (40:8; 45:19; 55:10, 11).

sharp sword . . . polished shaft. These metaphors portray the effectiveness of the word (Eph. 6:17; Heb. 4:12; Rev. 1:16; 2:12, 16; 19:15).

■ 49:3 servant. See notes on 20:3; 41:8; 42:1.

4 [h]Then I said, 'I have labored in vain,
I have spent my strength for nothing and in vain;
Yet surely my [2]just reward is with the LORD,
And my [3]work with my God.' "

5 "And now the LORD says,
Who formed Me from the womb to be His Servant,
To bring Jacob back to Him,
So that Israel [i]is [4]gathered to Him
(For I shall be glorious in the eyes of the LORD,
And My God shall be My strength),
6 Indeed He says,
'It is too small a thing that You should be My Servant
To raise up the tribes of Jacob,
And to restore the preserved ones of Israel;
I will also give You as a [j]light to the Gentiles,
That You should be My salvation to the ends of the earth.' "

7 Thus says the LORD,
The Redeemer of Israel, [5]their Holy One,
[k]To Him [6]whom man despises,
To Him whom the nation abhors,
To the Servant of rulers:
[l]"Kings shall see and arise,
Princes also shall worship,
Because of the LORD who is faithful,
The Holy One of Israel;
And He has chosen You."

8 Thus says the LORD:

"In an [m]acceptable[7] time I have heard You,
And in the day of salvation I have helped You;
I will [8]preserve You [n]and give You
As a covenant to the people,
To restore the earth,
To cause them to inherit the desolate [9]heritages;
9 That You may say [o]to the prisoners, 'Go forth,'
To those who are in darkness, 'Show yourselves.'

"They shall feed along the roads,
And their pastures shall be on all desolate heights.
10 They shall neither [p]hunger nor thirst,
[q]Neither heat nor sun shall strike them;
For He who has mercy on them [r]will lead them, reward. See 40:10; Gen. 15:1. The servant will be vindicated (50:8) and rewarded after His death and resurrection (53:8–10).

■ 49:5 formed. See note on 27:11.

bring . . . gathered. One purpose of the Servant is to reconcile the Jews with God.

■ 49:6 light to the Gentiles. A second purpose of the Servant is to bring the gospel to the nations (Luke 2:32; Acts 13:47; 26:23). He fulfills the call of Abraham (Gen. 12:3; 22:18) and of Israel (Ex. 19:5, 6). Today the ascended Christ brings the gospel to the nations through His body, the church (Matt. 28:18–20; 1 Pet. 2:9, 10).

■ 49:7 Redeemer. See note on 41:14.

Servant of rulers. Paradoxically, the king who humbles himself to become the Servant of rulers will Himself receive their homage (4:2; 45:24; 52:15).

■ 49:8 an acceptable time. This time stands in contrast to the day of vengeance (12:2; 34:8 and notes; cf. 35:4; 59:17, 18; 61:2; 63:4; 2 Cor. 6:2).

feed . . . pastures. The servant is the Shepherd and King of Israel (40:11).

■ 49:10 guide. Isaiah alludes to the exodus from Egypt (42:16; 48:21; Ex. 15:13).

Even by the springs of water He will guide them.
11 [s]I will make each of My mountains a road,
And My highways shall be elevated.
12 Surely [t]these shall come from afar;
Look! Those from the north and the west,
And these from the land of Sinim."

13 [u]Sing, O heavens!
Be joyful, O earth!
And break out in singing, O mountains!
For the LORD has comforted His people,
And will have mercy on His afflicted.

God Will Remember Zion

14 [v]But Zion said, "The LORD has forsaken me,
And my Lord has forgotten me."

15 "Can[w] a woman forget her nursing child,
[l]And not have compassion on the son of her womb?
Surely they may forget,
[x]Yet I will not forget you.
16 See, [y]I have inscribed you on the palms of My hands;
Your walls are continually before Me.
17 Your [2]sons shall make haste;
Your destroyers and those who laid you waste
Shall go away from you.
18 [z]Lift up your eyes, look around and see;
All these gather together and come to you.
As I live," says the LORD,
"You shall surely clothe yourselves with them all [a]as an ornament,
And bind them on you as a bride does.

19 "For your waste and desolate places,
And the land of your destruction,
[b]Will even now be too small for the inhabitants;
And those who swallowed you up will be far away.
20 [c]The children you will have,
[d]After you have lost the others,
Will say again in your ears,
'The place is too small for me;
Give me a place where I may dwell.'
21 Then you will say in your heart,
'Who has begotten these for me,
Since I have lost my children and am desolate,
A captive, and wandering to and fro?
And who has brought these up?
There I was, left alone;
But these, where were they?' "

22 [e]Thus says the Lord GOD:

"Behold, I will lift My hand in an oath to the nations,
And set up My [3]standard for the peoples;

■ 49:22 nations. These "nations" are not just Babylon; as had been the case at the time of Cyrus (v. 19 note; cf. Rom. 11:26).

They shall bring your sons in their [d]arms,
And your daughters shall be carried on their shoulders;
23 [f]Kings shall be your foster fathers,
And their queens your nursing mothers;
They shall bow down to you with their faces to the earth,
And [g]lick up the dust of your feet.
Then you will know that I am the LORD,
[h]For they shall not be ashamed who wait for Me."

24 [i]Shall the prey be taken from the mighty,
Or the captives [5]of the righteous be delivered?

25 But thus says the LORD:

"Even the captives of the mighty shall be taken away,
And the prey of the terrible be delivered;
For I will contend with him who contends with you,
And I will save your children.
26 I will [j]feed those who oppress you with their own flesh,
And they shall be drunk with their own [k]blood as with sweet wine.

The Servant, Israel's Hope

50 Thus says the LORD:

"Where is [a]the certificate of your mother's divorce,
Whom I have put away?
Or which of My [b]creditors is it to whom I have sold you?
For your iniquities [c]you have sold yourselves,
And for your transgressions your mother has been put away.
2 Why, when I came, was there no man?
Why, when I called, was there none to answer?
Is My hand shortened at all that it cannot redeem?
Or have I no power to deliver?
Indeed with My [d]rebuke I dry up the sea,
I make the rivers a wilderness;
Their fish stink because there is no water,
And die of thirst.
3 [e]I clothe the heavens with blackness,
[f]And I make sackcloth their covering."

■ 49:25 contend . . . save. The Lord takes up the case of the needy and is just in His retribution (v. 26; Rev. 16:6; 18:20).

■ 49:26 know. See note on 52:6.

Mighty One. Isaiah reveals the vindication of the people of God. God Himself will fight for His people and redeem them from all adversity.

■ 50:1 certificate of . . . divorce. Had the Lord issued such a divorce, He could not have taken Israel back (Deut. 24:1–4; Jer. 3:1, 8).

mother's. The inhabitants of Jerusalem who were taken into the Babylonian exile are here figuratively described as God's wife.

creditors. Had the Lord sold Israel to creditors, He would have lost authority over their destiny (cf. 2 Kin. 4:1; Neh. 5:5).

For your iniquities. Since Israel was sold in payment for the debt of her sins, the Redeemer had the responsibility to buy them back (41:14; 52:3).

■ 50:4–11 This is the third of four "Servant Songs" (42:1–9; 49:1–7; 50:4–11; 52:13—53:12 notes). The reproach against believing Israel in the Exile (51:7) anticipates the rejection of Jesus Christ.

■ 50:4 word. See notes on 45:23; 49:2.

weary. See Jer. 31:25.

A word in season to him who is [h]weary.
He awakens Me morning by morning,
He awakens My ear
To hear as the learned.
5 The Lord GOD [i]has opened My ear;
And I was not [j]rebellious,
Nor did I turn away.
6 [k]I gave My back to those who struck Me,
And [l]My cheeks to those who plucked out the beard;
I did not hide My face from shame and [m]spitting.

7 "For the Lord GOD will help Me;
Therefore I will not be disgraced;
Therefore [n]I have set My face like a flint,
And I know that I will not be ashamed.
8 [o]He is near who justifies Me;
Who will contend with Me?
Let us stand together.
Who is [l]My adversary?
Let him come near Me.
9 Surely the Lord GOD will help Me;
Who is he who will condemn Me?
[p]Indeed they will all grow old like a garment;
[q]The moth will eat them up.

10 "Who among you fears the LORD?
Who obeys the voice of His Servant?
Who [r]walks in darkness
And has no light?
[s]Let him trust in the name of the LORD
And rely upon his God.
11 Look, all you who kindle a fire,
Who encircle yourselves with sparks:
Walk in the light of your fire and in the sparks you have kindled—
[t]This you shall have from My hand:
You shall lie down [u]in torment.

The LORD Comforts Zion

51 "Listen to Me, [a]you who [l]follow after righteousness,
You who seek the LORD:
Look to the rock from which you were hewn,
And to the hole of the pit from which you were dug.
2 [b]Look to Abraham your father,
And to Sarah who bore you;
[c]For I called him alone,
And [d]blessed him and increased him."

He will comfort all her waste places;
He will make her wilderness like Eden,

■ 51:4 law . . . a light. The servant establishes justice in the last days (2:2–4; 42:1–4, 6; 49:6). See "God Is Light: Divine Holiness and Justice" at Lev. 11:44.

■ 51:5 near. The day of the Lord is always imminent (46:13; Zeph. 1:14; 1 Thess. 5:4–11; James 5:8).

■ 51:6 like smoke . . . like a garment. The present creation is destined to be replaced (50:9; Ps. 68:2; 102:3, 26; Hos. 13:3; see also Is. 24:4; 34:4; Heb. 1:10–12; 2 Pet. 3:10).

■ 51:7 in whose heart is My law. Notice the spiritual reality of the covenant (Jer. 31:31–34; Ezek. 36:27) in contrast to the state of the people in 29:13.

■ 51:9 Awake, awake. The command implies that the Lord has appeared to be asleep (40:27, 28; Ps. 44:23).

Rahab. See note on 30:7. The spiritual enemies of God's salvation are portrayed as the forces of chaos and evil. Such forces are overcome by God, not Israel or any other human power.

■ 51:12 I, even I. This is emphatic as in v. 15. The double pronoun corresponds to the double command, "Awake, awake" (v. 9).

grass. See 37:27; Ps. 129:6 note.

[c] Of a man who will die,
And of the son of a man who will be made [d] like grass?
13 And [e] you forget the LORD your Maker,
[f] Who stretched out the heavens
And laid the foundations of the earth;
You have feared continually every day
Because of the fury of the oppressor,
When he has prepared to destroy.
[g] And where is the fury of the oppressor?
14 The captive exile hastens, that he may be loosed,
[h] That he should not die in the pit,
And that his bread should not fail.
15 But I am the LORD your God,
Who [i] divided the sea whose waves roared—
The LORD of hosts is His name.
16 And [j] I have put My words in your mouth;
[k] I have covered you with the shadow of My hand,
[l] That I may [3] plant the heavens,
Lay the foundations of the earth,
And say to Zion, 'You are My people.' "

God's Fury Removed

17 [m] Awake, awake!
Stand up, O Jerusalem,
You who [n] have drunk at the hand of the LORD
The cup of His fury;
You have drunk the dregs of the cup of trembling,
And drained it out.
18 There is no one to guide her
Among all the sons she has brought forth;
Nor is there any who takes her by the hand
Among all the sons she has brought up.
19 [o] These two things have come to you;
Who will be sorry for you?—
Desolation and destruction, famine and sword—
[p] By whom will I comfort you?
20 [q] Your sons have fainted,
They lie at the head of all the streets,
Like an antelope in a net;
They are full of the fury of the LORD,
The rebuke of your God.

21 Therefore please hear this, you afflicted,
And drunk [r] but not with wine.
22 Thus says your Lord,
The LORD and your God,
Who [s] pleads the cause of His people:
"See, I have taken out of your hand
The cup of trembling,
The dregs of the cup of My fury;
You shall no longer drink it.
23 [t] But I will put it into the hand of those who afflict you,

■ 51:16 My words in your mouth. The remnant prefigures the Servant, Jesus Christ (49:2 note).

■ 51:17 Awake, awake. Double imperatives are also found in vv.1, 9; 52:1, 11 (cf. Eph. 5:14). See note on v. 9.

■ 51:20 antelope in a net. The graceful animal depicts Jerusalem, surrounded by the enemy and in danger of dying.

■ 51:23 those who afflict you. Preeminently the Babylonians (Lam. 1:4, 5).

Who have said to [4]you,
'Lie down, that we may walk over you.'
And you have laid your body like the ground,
And as the street, for those who walk over."

God Redeems Jerusalem

52 Awake, awake!
Put on your strength, O Zion;
Put on your beautiful garments,
O Jerusalem, the holy city!
For the uncircumcised [a]and the unclean
Shall no longer come to you.
2 [b]Shake yourself from the dust, arise;
Sit down, O Jerusalem!
[c]Loose yourself from the bonds of your neck,
O captive daughter of Zion!

3 For thus says the LORD:

[d]"You have sold yourselves for nothing,
And you shall be redeemed [e]without money."

4 For thus says the Lord GOD:

"My people went down at first
Into [f]Egypt to [1]dwell there;
Then the Assyrian oppressed them without cause.
5 Now therefore, what have I here," says the LORD,
"That My people are taken away for nothing?
Those who rule over them
[2]Make them wail," says the LORD,
"And My name is [g]blasphemed continually every day.
6 Therefore My people shall know My name;
Therefore they shall know in that day
That I am He who speaks:
'Behold, it is I.' "

7 [h]How beautiful upon the mountains
Are the feet of him who brings good news,
Who proclaims peace,
Who brings glad tidings of good things,
Who proclaims salvation,
Who says to Zion,
[i]"Your God reigns!"
8 Your watchmen shall lift up their voices,
With their voices they shall sing together;
For they shall see eye to eye
When the LORD brings back Zion.
9 Break forth into joy, sing together,

■ 52:1 beautiful garments. Jerusalem is magnificently dressed as a royal wife (61:10; Rev. 3:4, 5, 18; 4:4; compare 47:1–3).

the uncircumcised and the unclean. The wicked will have no share in the city of God (48:22; Nah. 1:15; Rev. 21:27; 22:14, 15).

■ 52:3 sold yourselves for nothing. The idols gave Israel nothing.

without money. Salvation is free (45:13; 55:1).

■ 52:4 dwell. Israel was dependent on Egypt's promised hospitality, but Egypt betrayed that trust.

■ 52:6 know My name. The phrase alludes to Ex. 3:13, 14; 6:2. The Lord glorifies His name through inspiring Isaiah's prophecies and bringing them to pass.

■ 52:7 feet. Messengers run from the scene of battle across the hills to Zion with the good news that God reigns. They prefigure the evangelists will who announce the gospel of Jesus Christ (Rom. 10:15; Eph. 6:15).

■ 52:9 waste places of Jerusalem. Restoration, after the Babylonian exile of the sixth century B.C. began with the rebuilding of Jerusalem's ruins (Ezra 3:8–13; Neh. 6:15—7:3). In the same sense, Christ is rebuilding His people who were being destroyed by sin (1 Pet. 2:5).

You waste places of Jerusalem!
For the LORD has comforted His people,
He has redeemed Jerusalem.
10 [j]The LORD has [3]made bare His holy arm
In the eyes of [k]all the nations;
And all the ends of the earth shall see
The salvation of our God.

11 [l]Depart! Depart! Go out from there,
Touch no unclean thing;
Go out from the midst of her,
[m]Be clean,
You who bear the vessels of the LORD.
12 For [n]you shall not go out with haste,
Nor go by flight;
[o]For the LORD will go before you,
[p]And the God of Israel will be your rear guard.

The Sin-Bearing Servant

13 Behold, [q]My Servant shall [4]deal prudently;
[r]He shall be exalted and [5]extolled and be very high.
14 Just as many were astonished at you,
So His [s]visage[6] was marred more than any man,
And His form more than the sons of men;
15 [t]So shall He [7]sprinkle many nations.

■ 52:11 who bear the vessels. These people represent all of Zion and serve God as priests. They must be consecrated for holy service and remain undefiled (2 Cor. 6:17; Heb. 12:14; 1 Pet. 2:1–12; Rev. 18:4).

■ 52:12 not . . . with haste. The contrast is with the exodus from Egypt. Ex. 12:11 and Deut. 16:3 are the only other passages where this phrase occurs.

before you . . . rear guard. An allusion to the pillar of cloud and fire that protected Israel in their flight from Egypt (42:16; 58:8; Ex. 13:21, 22; 14:19, 20). God's presence guides His people into the fullness and brilliance of His everlasting kingdom (4:5, 6; 49:10).

■ 52:13—53:12 This is the last of the four "Servant Songs" (42:1–9; 49:1–7; 50:4–11; 52:13—53:12). The "Suffering Servant" is Jesus Christ. This passage is quoted or referred to many times in the New Testament. Christ's suffering in the place of His sheep gives them eternal life.

■ 52:13–15 The Lord vindicates and glorifies His servant.

■ 52:13 deal prudently. The Servant will discern and perform God's will, and as a result achieve His glorious purpose (Luke 24:26; 1 Pet. 5:10).

■ 52:14 astonished . . . marred. Christ was disfigured by the abuse He suffered from Roman soldiers.

■ 52:15 sprinkle. Participation in the benefits of a sacrifice is indicated by the sprinkling of blood. See Ex. 24:8 and note; Lev. 4:1–5:13 note; and Heb. 9:19 note.

The Suffering Servant (53:12)

Jesus fulfills Isaiah's prophecy of the Suffering Servant.

The Prophecy	The Fulfillment
He will be exalted (52:13)	Philippians 2:9
He will be disfigured by suffering (52:14; 53:2)	Mark 15:17, 19
He will be widely rejected (53:1, 3)	John 12:37–38
He will bear our sins and sorrows (53:4)	Romans 4:25; 1 Peter 2:24, 25
He will make a blood atonement (53:5)	Romans 3:25
He will be our substitute (53:6, 8)	2 Corinthians 5:21
He will voluntarily accept our guilt and punishment (53:7)	John 10:11
He will be buried in a rich man's tomb (53:9)	John 19:38–42
He will justify many from their sin (53:10, 11)	Romans 5:15–19
He will die with transgressors (53:12)	Mark 15:27, 28; Luke 22:37

Kings shall shut their mouths at Him;
For [a]what had not been told them they shall see,
And what they had not heard they shall consider.

53 Who [a]has believed our report?
And to whom has the arm of the LORD been revealed?
2 For He shall grow up before Him as a tender plant,
And as a root out of dry ground.
He has no [1]form or [2]comeliness;
And when we see Him,
There is no [3]beauty that we should desire Him.
3 [b]He is despised and [4]rejected by men,
A Man of [5]sorrows and [c]acquainted with [6]grief.
And we hid, as it were, our faces from Him;
He was despised, and [d]we did not esteem Him.

4 Surely [e]He has borne our [7]griefs
And carried our [8]sorrows;
Yet we [9]esteemed Him stricken,
[1]Smitten by God, and afflicted.
5 But He was [f]wounded[2] for our transgressions,
He was [3]bruised for our iniquities;
The chastisement for our peace was upon Him,
And by His [g]stripes[4] we are healed.
6 All we like sheep have gone astray;
We have turned, every one, to his own way;
And the LORD [5]has laid on Him the iniquity of us all.

7 He was oppressed and He was afflicted,
Yet [h]He opened not His mouth;
[i]He was led as a lamb to the slaughter,
And as a sheep before its shearers is silent,
So He opened not His mouth.
8 He was [j]taken from [6]prison and from judgment,
And who will declare His generation?
For [k]He was cut off from the land of the living;
For the transgressions of My people He was stricken.
9 [l]And [7]they made His grave with the wicked—
But with the rich at His death,
Because He had done no violence,
Nor was any [m]deceit in His mouth.

10 Yet it pleased the LORD to [8]bruise Him;
He has put Him to grief.

■ 53:1 our report. The gospel proclaimed by the believing remnant.

■ 53:2 root out of dry ground. His origins were not promising (Zech. 4:10; John 1:46).

■ 53:3 despised and rejected. See 49:7; Ps. 22:6; Lam. 1:1–3; 2:15, 16.

■ 53:4 Smitten by God. They believed this about the Servant because the Law said, "he who is hanged is accursed of God" (Deut. 21:23; Gal. 3:13). The onlookers thought Christ was suffering only what He deserved, but His experience of pain and anguish was for His people (1 Pet. 2:24). The extremity of His suffering shows that His compassion is real and not theoretical (Heb. 2:17, 18).

■ 53:5 we are healed. The sufferings of Christ remove the penalty that His people would otherwise owe, and as a result He will undo the effects of sin in them. Death itself will be undone at last (1 Cor. 15:26).

■ 53:6 All we. Even as we all sinned, so He died for all of us (2 Cor. 5:14, 15). See "Definite Redemption" at John 10:15.

sheep . . . astray. See 1 Pet. 2:25. See "Original Sin and Total Depravity" at Ps. 51:5.

laid. The guilt of our sins was transferred to Jesus, and He offered Himself as a sacrifice in our place. As Paul wrote, God "made Him who knew no sin to be sin for us" (2 Cor. 5:21).

■ 53:7 lamb . . . sheep. Christ is the Lamb of God (John 1:29; 1 Cor. 5:7; Rev. 5:6) in obedience and submission to God (cf. Matt. 26:63; 27:12, 14; 1 Pet. 2:23).

■ 53:8 from prison and from judgment. He was put to death as a result of injustice. See "The Atonement" at Rom. 3:25.

■ 53:9 wicked . . . rich. Although people supposed that Jesus was dying as a common criminal, through the intervention of Joseph of Arimathea Jesus was buried in honor. His suffering for sinners had been successfully completed.

violence . . . deceit. He was wise and righteous (1 Pet. 2:22), but died a criminal's death (Luke 23:33).

■ 53:10 it pleased the LORD. This amazing statement is true because Christ was delivered up "by the determined purpose and foreknowledge of God" (Acts 2:23).

When You make His soul [n]an offering for sin,
He shall see His seed, He shall prolong His days,
And the pleasure of the LORD shall prosper in His hand.
11 [o]He shall see the labor of His soul, and be satisfied.
By His knowledge [p]My righteous [p]Servant shall [q]justify many,
For He shall bear their iniquities.
12 [r]Therefore I will divide Him a portion with the great,
[s]And He shall divide the [t]spoil with the strong,
Because He [t]poured out His soul unto death,
And He was [u]numbered with the transgressors,
And He bore the sin of many,
And [v]made intercession for the transgressors.

A Perpetual Covenant of Peace

54 "Sing, O [a]barren,
You who have not borne!
Break forth into singing, and cry aloud,
You who have not labored with child!
For more are the children of the desolate
Than the children of the married woman," says the LORD.
2 "Enlarge[b] the place of your tent,
And let them stretch out the curtains of your dwellings;
Do not spare;
Lengthen your cords,
And strengthen your stakes.
3 For you shall expand to the right and to the left,
And your descendants will [c]inherit the nations,
And make the desolate cities inhabited.

4 "Do[d] not fear, for you will not be ashamed;
Neither be disgraced, for you will not be put to shame;
For you will forget the shame of your youth,
And will not remember the reproach of your widowhood anymore.
5 [e]For your Maker is your husband,
The LORD of hosts is His name;
And your Redeemer is the Holy One of Israel;
He is called [f]the God of the whole earth.
6 For the LORD [g]has called you
Like a woman forsaken and grieved in spirit,
Like a youthful wife when you were refused,"
Says your God.
7 "For[h] a mere moment I have forsaken you,
But with great mercies [i]I will gather you.

*t*And their righteousness is from Me,"
Says the LORD.

An Invitation to Abundant Life

55 "Ho! *a*Everyone who thirsts,
Come to the waters;
And you who have no money,
*b*Come, buy and eat.
Yes, come, buy wine and milk
Without money and without price.

■ 54:9 waters of Noah. At the time of the Flood the Lord made a covenant with creation, symbolized by the rainbow (Gen. 9:1–17).

■ 54:10 mountains . . . hills. In our experience the mountains and hills seem permanent and unchanging, but the commitment of God to His people will remain when they are gone (51:6; Ps. 46:2, 3; Matt. 24:35; Heb. 1:10–12).

■ 54:11 tempest. This metaphor represents the day of the Lord's wrath.

lay . . . sapphires. These metaphors describe the beauty and glory of Zion, the city of God (Rev. 21:19).

■ 54:17 heritage. This heritage is the covenant and its promises, especially the promise of God's protection and righteousness (1:21 note).

■ 55:1 Everyone. This address follows logically on the previous section (vv. 13, 17) and expresses the worldwide applicability of the gospel.

thirsts . . . no money. The thirst is for spiritual things that money cannot buy (52:3; Deut. 8:3; Ps. 42:2; 63:1; Prov. 9:5, 6; Matt. 5:6; John 7:37, 38; Rev. 21:6; 22:17).

waters. Isaiah frequently describes the new era of salvation, God's kingdom and its divine blessings in terms of an abundance of water (1:30, 31 note).

buy . . . Without money. This paradox signifies that salvation is a free gift for anyone who desires it (Matt. 11:28; Rom. 10:13; Titus 3:5).

wine and milk. These are symbols of complete satisfaction.

2 Why do you [1]spend money for what is not bread,
And your wages for what does not satisfy?
Listen carefully to Me, and eat what is good,
And let your soul delight itself in abundance.
3 Incline your ear, and [c]come to Me.
Hear, and your soul shall live;
[d]And I will make an everlasting covenant with you—
The [e]sure mercies of David.
4 Indeed I have given him as [f]a witness to the people,
[g]A leader and commander for the people.
5 [h]Surely you shall call a nation you do not know,
[i]And nations who do not know you shall run to you,
Because of the LORD your God,
And the Holy One of Israel;
[j]For He has glorified you."

6 [k]Seek the LORD while He may be [l]found,
Call upon Him while He is near.
7 [m]Let the [2]wicked forsake his way,
And the unrighteous man [n]his thoughts;
Let him return to the LORD,
[o]And He will have mercy on him;
And to our God,
For He will abundantly pardon.

8 "For[p] My thoughts are not your thoughts,
Nor are your ways My ways," says the LORD.
9 "For[q] as the heavens are higher than the earth,
So are My ways higher than your ways,
And My thoughts than your thoughts.

10 "For [r]as the rain comes down, and the snow from heaven,
And do not return there,
But water the earth,
And make it bring forth and bud,
That it may give seed to the sower
And bread to the eater,
11 [s]So shall My word be that goes forth from My mouth;
It shall not return to Me [3]void,
But it shall accomplish what I please,
And it shall [t]prosper in the thing for which I sent it.

12 "For[u] you shall go out with joy,
And be led out with peace;

Shall [v]break forth into singing before you,

12 [u]Is. 35:10 [v]Ps. 98:8

■ 55:3 everlasting covenant. In the covenant as given to David God promised him a permanent throne and lasting dynasty (2 Sam. 7:12–16; 1 Kin. 8:23–26; Ps. 89:27–37). David's royal house will rule over the nations. These elements are fulfilled in Christ and His church (4:2; 7:14; 9:6; 11:1, 2 and notes).

you. The promises of the Davidic covenant are now extended to all who come to God.

■ 55:4 given him as a witness. This was accomplished especially by raising Jesus Christ of the house of David from the dead (Acts 13:34).

■ 55:7 wicked . . . unrighteous. God requires living faith, as indicated in repentance and change of behavior (James 2:18; 1 John 1:3–5).

mercy . . . abundantly pardon. The prophet repeats the invitation of 1:18 with great boldness and directness.

■ 55:8 My thoughts are not your thoughts. Specifically, God's thoughts concerning grace exceed human imagination (64:4; 1 Cor. 2:9; Eph. 3:20; Rom. 11:33). See "God Sees and Knows: Divine Omniscience" at Prov. 15:3.

■ 55:10, 11 rain. The rain falls abundantly and of its own accord, and in a familiar but mysterious way produces plants and useful crops, evidently for the purpose of supplying people's needs—the divine purpose in this is applied figuratively to the Word of God, to distinguish it from fallible human thoughts and plans.

■ 55:12 go out. The exodus from Babylon, like the exodus from Egypt, is a picture of how God delivers His people from their sins (48:20, 21; 52:11, 12; John 10:3; Col. 1:13).

And [w]all the trees of the field shall clap their hands.

13 [x]Instead of [y]the thorn shall come up the cypress tree,
And instead of the brier shall come up the myrtle tree;
And it shall be to the LORD [z]for a name,
For an everlasting sign that shall not be cut off."

Salvation for the Gentiles

56 Thus says the LORD:

"Keep justice, and do righteousness,
[a]For My salvation is about to come,
And My righteousness to be revealed.

2 Blessed is the man who does this,
And the son of man who lays hold on it;
[b]Who keeps from defiling the Sabbath,
And keeps his hand from doing any evil."

3 Do not let [c]the son of the foreigner
Who has joined himself to the LORD
Speak, saying,
"The LORD has utterly separated me from His people";
Nor let the [d]eunuch say,
"Here I am, a dry tree."

4 For thus says the LORD:
"To the eunuchs who keep My Sabbaths,
And choose what pleases Me,
And hold fast My covenant,

5 Even to them I will give in [e]My house
And within My walls a place [f]and a name
Better than that of sons and daughters;
I will give [f]them an everlasting name
That shall not be cut off.

6 "Also the sons of the foreigner
Who join themselves to the LORD, to serve Him,
And to love the name of the LORD, to be His servants—
Everyone who keeps from defiling the Sabbath,
And holds fast My covenant—

7 Even them I will [g]bring to My holy mountain,
And make them joyful in My [h]house of prayer.
[i]Their burnt offerings and their sacrifices
Will be [j]accepted on My altar;
For [k]My house shall be called a house of prayer [l]for all nations."

8 The Lord GOD, [m]who gathers the outcasts of Israel, says,
[n]"Yet I will gather to him
Others besides those who are gathered to him."

■ 55:13 Instead of the thorn . . . tree. Judgment is replaced by salvation (5:6; 32:13; 41:19).

everlasting sign. Compare the rainbow in Gen. 9:8–17.

■ 56:1—66:24 These prophecies are addressed to the exiles returned from Babylon before the rebuilding of the temple in 520 B.C. (64:8–12). They still suffer from idolatry, hypocrisy and indifference. Isaiah prophesies concerning their responsibilities toward the coming glorious kingdom and the certainty of its arrival.

■ 56:1 about to come. See 50:8; 51:5; Phil. 4:5.

■ 56:2 Sabbath. Keeping this day holy (Ex. 31:13–17) signifies loyalty to the Lord and to His covenant (58:13; Ezek. 20:20).

■ 56:3 eunuch. Eunuchs were normally excluded from the covenant community (Deut. 23:1). The Ethiopian eunuch of Acts 8:26–39 fulfilled this promise through faith in Jesus, the Servant of Is. 53.

■ 56:5 everlasting name. That is, everlasting life in God's temple (v. 7; 2:2; Ps. 23:6; Acts 8:27, 36–38).

■ 56:7 house of prayer. Being here means being included in the covenant and enjoying the life of communion with God (2:2–4; Ps. 15:1; cf. 1 Kin. 8:41–43; Mark 11:17).

■ 56:8 gathers the outcasts . . . Others. The Lord gathers Jews and non-Jews into one community (John 10:16).

Israel's Irresponsible Leaders

9 [o]All you beasts of the field, come to devour,
All you beasts in the forest.
10 His watchmen are [p]blind,
They are all ignorant;
[q]They are all dumb dogs,
They cannot bark;
[2]Sleeping, lying down, loving to slumber.
11 Yes, they are [r]greedy[3] dogs
Which [s]never[4] have enough.
And they are shepherds
Who cannot understand;
They all look to their own way,
Every one for his own gain,
From his own territory.
12 "Come," one says, "I will bring wine,
And we will fill ourselves with intoxicating [t]drink;
[u]Tomorrow will be [v]as today,
And much more abundant."

Israel's Futile Idolatry

57 The righteous perishes,
And no man takes it to heart;
[a]Merciful men are taken away,
[b]While no one considers
That the righteous is taken away from [1]evil.
2 He shall enter into peace;
They shall rest in [c]their beds,
Each one walking in his uprightness.

3 "But come here,
[d]You sons of the sorceress,
You offspring of the adulterer and the harlot!
4 Whom do you ridicule?
Against whom do you make a wide mouth
And stick out the tongue?
Are you not children of transgression,
Offspring of falsehood,
5 Inflaming yourselves with gods [e]under every green tree,
[f]Slaying the children in the valleys,
Under the clefts of the rocks?
6 Among the smooth [g]stones of the stream
Is your portion;
They, they, are your lot!
Even to them you have poured a drink offering,
You have offered a grain offering.
Should I receive comfort in [h]these?

■ 56:9 beasts of the field. A metaphor for hostile nations (18:6; Ezek. 34:5, 8, 25).

■ 56:10 watchmen. They warn the city of approaching danger. The prophets were called to be spiritual watchmen (21:6; Jer. 6:17; Ezek. 3:17; 33:2–7).

blind. See note on 29:18.

dogs. In the Near East, dogs are considered to be unclean, undesirable scavengers. Here they are a figure for those with insatiable greed.

■ 56:11 shepherds. That is, rulers (v. 10 note; Ezek. 34:1–6; contrast 40:11 note).

■ 56:12 come . . . Tomorrow. See 22:13 and note; Luke 12:19; James 4:13.

■ 57:3 sorceress. See 2:6 note; Deut. 18:10.

■ 57:4 ridicule . . . tongue. The ungodly are filled with sarcasm and criticism (cf. 5:18, 19; 28:9, 10; 37:3).

■ 57:5 children. Child sacrifice was practiced in the worship of the Ammonite god Molech (v. 9 note; cf. 2 Kin. 23:10; Ps. 106:37, 38; Jer. 7:31; Ezek. 20:28, 31).

You have set[j] your bed;
Even there you went up
To offer sacrifice.
8 Also behind the doors and their posts
You have set up your remembrance;
For you have uncovered yourself to those other than Me,
And have gone up to them;
You have enlarged your bed
And [2]made a covenant with them;
[k]You have loved their bed,
Where you saw their [3]nudity.
9 [l]You went to the king with ointment,
And increased your perfumes;
You sent your [m]messengers far off,
And even descended to Sheol.

You have found the life of your hand;
Therefore you were not grieved.

That you have lied
And not remembered Me,
Nor taken it to your heart?
Is it not because [p]I have [4]held My peace from of old
That you do not fear Me?

And your works,
For they will not profit you.

Let your collection of idols deliver you.

Healing for the Backslider

14 And one shall say,
[q]"Heap it up! Heap it up!
Prepare the way,
Take the stumbling block out of the way of My people."

15 For thus says the High and Lofty One
Who inhabits eternity, [r]whose name is Holy:
[s]"I dwell in the high and holy place,

■ 57:7, 8 lofty and high mountain . . . nudity. The people were involved in immoral and idolatrous practices at the hilltop shrines (Hos. 4:13). Their relation with these false gods is compared to sexual union.

■ 57:9 the king. The name of their god, "Molech," is similar to the Hebrew word for "king" and is probably what is meant here.

sent . . . descended. Isaiah describes the energy they spent in willing service of their idols.

Sheol. This charge of visiting the realm of the dead (5:14 note) is either a figure of speech to express the depths to which they sank, or a reference to necromancy (communicating with the dead).

■ 57:10 the life of your hand. They found a deceptive liveliness in immorality and idolatry that lead to death.

■ 57:12 righteousness. This is sarcasm; the threat is to declare their sins (cf. 58:2, 3; 64:6).

■ 57:13 possess the land. This promise is the blessing Jesus proclaimed to the meek (v. 15; Matt. 5:5).

■ 57:14 Prepare the way. See notes on 11:16; 40:3.

stumbling block. Specifically, the idolatry and immorality described in vv. 3–13.

My people. See note on 40:1.

■ 57:15 High . . . Lofty One. An epithet for the Lord (6:1).

high and holy place. The Lord is transcendent over creation.

contrite and humble spirit. Those who submit to God's law and repent under His judgment (Ps. 34:17, 18; 51:17; 1 Pet. 5:6).

[u] To revive the spirit of the humble,
And to revive the heart of the contrite ones.
16 [v] For I will not contend forever,
Nor will I always be angry;
For the spirit would fail before Me,
And the souls [w] which I have made.
17 For the iniquity of [x] his covetousness
I was angry and struck him;
[y] I hid and was angry,
[z] And he went on [5] backsliding in the way of his heart.
18 I have seen his ways, and [a] will heal him;
I will also lead him,
And restore comforts to him
And to [b] his mourners.

19 "I create [c] the fruit of the lips:
Peace, peace [d] to him who is far off and to him who is near,"
Says the LORD,
"And I will heal him."
20 [e] But the wicked are like the troubled sea,
When it cannot rest,
Whose waters cast up mire and dirt.

21 "There[f] is no peace,"
Says my God, "for the wicked."

Fasting that Pleases God

58 "Cry aloud, [1] spare not;
Lift up your voice like a trumpet;
[a] Tell My people their transgression,
And the house of Jacob their sins.
2 Yet they seek Me daily,
And delight to know My ways,
As a nation that did righteousness,
And did not forsake the ordinance of their God.
They ask of Me the ordinances of justice;
They take delight in approaching God.
3 'Why[b] have we fasted,' they say, 'and You have not seen?
Why have we [c] afflicted our souls, and You take no notice?'

"In fact, in the day of your fast you find pleasure,
And [2] exploit all your laborers.
4 [d] Indeed you fast for strife and debate,
And to strike with the fist of wickedness.
You will not fast as you do this day,
To make your voice heard on high.

■ 57:18 heal . . . restore comforts. The Lord is physician (30:26 note), guide (49:10 note), and evangelist (40:1 note).

mourners. Those who lament Jerusalem's destruction (64:10–12; 25:8 note).

■ 57:20 troubled sea. The wicked are constantly in motion, restless, and causing problems (Jude 13).

■ 58:3 fasted . . . exploit. Despite their religiosity they were not concerned with justice for others (cf. 1:15–17; 59:2; Hos. 6:4–6; Amos 5:23, 24; Zech. 7:8–12). Instead of setting the day aside so that all can fast and pray, they wanted to rest while others worked.

■ 58:4 strife . . . strike. These actions are expressions of their pride and hatred.

heard on high. God does not hear prayer when it is not in the spirit of love.

■ 58:5 fast that I have chosen. See 1:10–15; Amos 5:21–23; Mic. 6:7, 8.

bow down . . . sackcloth and ashes. Conventional acts of mourning ceremonies that accompany fasting (Joel 1:13, 14). God looks for expressions of inner humility and brokenness before Him, rather than devotion to rituals (Matt. 6:16).

Is it to bow down his head like a bulrush,
And [g]to spread out sackcloth and ashes?
Would you call this a fast,
And an acceptable day to the LORD?

6 "Is this not the fast that I have chosen:
To [h]loose the bonds of wickedness,
[i]To undo the [3]heavy burdens,
[j]To let the oppressed go free,
And that you break every yoke?
7 Is it not [k]to share your bread with the hungry,
And that you bring to your house the poor who are [4]cast out;
[l]When you see the naked, that you cover him,
And not hide yourself from [m]your own flesh?
8 [n]Then your light shall break forth like the morning,
Your healing shall spring forth speedily,
And your righteousness shall go before you;
[o]The glory of the LORD shall be your rear guard.
9 Then you shall call, and the LORD will answer;
You shall cry, and He will say, 'Here I am.'

"If you take away the yoke from your midst,
The [5]pointing of the finger, and [p]speaking wickedness,
10 If you extend your soul to the hungry
And satisfy the afflicted soul,
Then your light shall dawn in the darkness,
And your [6]darkness shall be as the noonday.
11 The LORD will guide you continually,
And satisfy your soul in drought.
And strengthen your bones;
You shall be like a watered garden,
And like a spring of water, whose waters do not fail.
12 Those from among you
[q]Shall build the old waste places;
You shall raise up the foundations of many generations;
And you shall be called the Repairer of the Breach,
The Restorer of [7]Streets to Dwell In.

13 "If [r]you turn away your foot from the Sabbath,
From doing your pleasure on My holy day,
And call the Sabbath a delight,
The holy day of the LORD honorable,
And shall honor Him, not doing your own ways,

■ 58:6 fast that I have chosen. This verse presents a different idea of fasting: to rescue the oppressed and provide for the needy (Matt. 25:34–40).

■ 58:7 own flesh. Relatives, and secondarily people from the same tribe or area (1 Tim. 5:8).

■ 58:8 Then. This word connects human responsibility and the coming of God's kingdom.

light . . . glory. The glorious kingdom of God (9:2; 60:1–3; Luke 1:78, 79) will dawn with God's blessing and protection (2:5 note), and with His healing (30:26 note). It is the establishment of a new order (1:21 note), with the presence of the God of glory (4:2 note).

glory . . . rear guard. Like the pillar of cloud and fire in the desert (4:5, 6; Ex. 13:21; 14:20).

■ 58:9 call . . . cry. Then God will answer prayer (30:19; 65:24); in contrast see v. 4 note.

Here I am. Typically this is a courteous answer given by a person who is ready to hear a message or follow instructions (e.g., Gen. 22:1, 7; Ex. 3:4; 1 Sam. 3:4).

yoke . . . speaking wickedness. These expressions represent oppression, contempt, and improper speech (Prov. 6:13).

■ 58:10 Then. See v. 8 note. The dawning of the new age brings ever greater brightness (2:5; 5:30 and notes).

■ 58:11 watered garden . . . spring. They will be greatly blessed and productive (1:30, 31 note; cf. John 7:38).

■ 58:12 build the old waste places. The restored exiles were in need of the spiritual and economic resources to rebuild Judah (44:26, 28; 61:4; Ezek. 36:10; Amos 9:14, 15; Hag. 1:2–9; Acts 15:15–17).

■ 58:13 Sabbath . . . holy day. The Lord does not reject ritual as such. This day is the sign of the covenant (56:2 note).

own ways . . . own words. Their goals were social prestige, financial gain, and political importance (contrast 33:15 and note).

Nor finding your own pleasure,
Nor speaking your own words,
14 [s]Then you shall delight yourself in the LORD;
And I will cause you to [t]ride on the high hills of the earth,
And feed you with the heritage of Jacob your father.
[u]The mouth of the LORD has spoken."

Separated from God

59 Behold, the LORD's hand is not [a]shortened,
That it cannot save;
Nor His ear heavy,
That it cannot hear.
2 But your iniquities have separated you from your God;
And your sins have hidden His face from you,
So that He will [b]not hear.
3 For [c]your hands are defiled with [1]blood,
And your fingers with iniquity;
Your lips have spoken lies,
Your tongue has muttered perversity.

4 No one calls for justice,
Nor does any plead for truth.
They trust in [d]empty words and speak lies;
[e]They conceive [2]evil and bring forth iniquity.
5 They hatch vipers' eggs and weave the spider's web;
He who eats of their eggs dies,
And from that which is crushed a viper breaks out.

6 [f]Their webs will not become garments,
Nor will they cover themselves with their works;
Their works are works of iniquity,
And the act of violence is in their hands.
7 [g]Their feet run to evil,
And they make haste to shed [h]innocent blood;
[i]Their thoughts are thoughts of iniquity;
Wasting and [j]destruction are in their paths.
8 The way of [k]peace they have not known,
And there is no justice in their ways;
[l]They have made themselves crooked paths;
Whoever takes that way shall not know peace.

Sin Confessed

9 Therefore justice is far from us,
Nor does righteousness overtake us;
[m]We look for light, but there is darkness!
For brightness, but we walk in blackness!
10 [n]We grope for the wall like the blind,
And we grope as if we had no eyes;
We stumble at noonday as at twilight;
We are as dead men in desolate places.
11 We all growl like bears,
And [o]moan sadly like doves;
We look for justice, but there is none;
For salvation, but it is far from us.

■ 59:5 vipers' eggs . . . spider's web. The comparison indicates wickedness that wants to grow and to ensnare others.

■ 59:7 run . . . make haste. They no longer hesitate to break God's laws (Prov. 1:16); their actions result in discord and chaos (Rom. 3:15–17).

■ 59:8 not know peace. Those who deny others peace will themselves be kept from it (48:22; 57:21).

■ 59:10 grope . . . stumble. These words describe the experience of one cursed (Deut. 28:29; Job 5:14).

CHAPTER 60

1 [a] Eph. 5:14

12 For our [p] transgressions are multiplied before You,
And our sins testify against us;
For our transgressions are with us,
And as for our iniquities, we know them:
13 In transgressing and lying against the LORD,
And departing from our God,
Speaking oppression and revolt,
Conceiving and uttering [q] from the heart words of falsehood.
14 Justice is turned back,
And righteousness stands afar off;
For truth is fallen in the street,
And equity cannot enter.
15 So truth fails,
And he who departs from evil makes himself a [r] prey.

The Redeemer of Zion

Then the LORD saw it, and [3] it displeased Him
That there was no justice.
16 [s] He saw that there was no man,
And [t] wondered that there was no intercessor;
[u] Therefore His own arm brought salvation for Him;
And His own righteousness, it sustained Him.
17 [v] For He put on righteousness as a breastplate,
And a helmet of salvation on His head;
He put on the garments of vengeance for clothing,
And was clad with zeal as a cloak.
18 [w] According to their deeds, accordingly He will repay,
Fury to His adversaries,
Recompense to His enemies;
The coastlands He will fully repay.
19 [x] So shall they fear
The name of the LORD from the west,
And His glory from the rising of the sun;
When the enemy comes in [y] like a flood,
The Spirit of the LORD will lift up a standard against him.

20 "The [z] Redeemer will come to Zion,
And to those who turn from transgression in Jacob,"
Says the LORD.

21 "As [a] for Me," says the LORD, "this is My covenant with them: My Spirit who is upon you, and My words which I have put in your mouth, shall not depart from your mouth, nor from the mouth of your descendants, nor from the mouth of your descendants' descendants," says the LORD, "from this time and forevermore."

The Gentiles Bless Zion

60 Arise, [a] shine;
For your light has come!

■ 59:16 no intercessor. No one was available to help, except the Messiah (53:12; Rom. 5:7).

righteousness. This "righteousness" is His victorious salvation (46:13; 51:6, 8; 56:1).

■ 59:17 put on . . . clad. The Lord of Hosts will accomplish what no one else could do (42:13; 49:25; 52:10; Ex. 15:3).

breastplate . . . helmet. Today, Christians put on this armor of God (Eph. 6:13–17).

■ 59:20 Redeemer. He will come in the person of Jesus Christ. This promise is quoted by Paul (Rom. 11:26, 27). See note on 35:9, 10.

■ 59:21 covenant. The Lord's covenant of grace is renewed (42:6 note).

Spirit. The role of the Spirit of God is mentioned several times in the Old Testament (32:15; 44:3; Jer. 31:31–34; Ezek. 37:14; Zech. 12:10). The Spirit works "by and with the Word in our hearts" (Westminster Confession 1.5). His continuing presence with His people was secured with the revelation of the New Testament (John 16:7, 13; 2 Cor. 5:5; Gal. 3:14; 4:6).

■ 60:1 Arise. The imperative (feminine singular) is addressed to Zion (v. 14).

shine. Zion receives and reflects God's light (Luke 1:78, 79; Eph. 5:14; Rev. 21:23, 24).

And [b]the glory of the LORD is risen upon you.
2 For behold, the darkness shall cover the earth,
And deep darkness the people;
But the LORD will arise over you,
And His glory will be seen upon you.
3 The [c]Gentiles shall come to your light,
And kings to the brightness of your rising.

4 "Lift[d] up your eyes all around, and see:
They all gather together, [e]they come to you;
Your sons shall come from afar,
And your daughters shall be nursed at your side.
5 Then you shall see and become radiant,
And your heart shall swell with joy;
Because [f]the abundance of the sea shall be turned to you,
The wealth of the Gentiles shall come to you.
6 The multitude of camels shall cover your land,
The dromedaries of Midian and [g]Ephah;
All those from [h]Sheba shall come;
They shall bring [i]gold and incense,
And they shall proclaim the praises of the LORD.
7 All the flocks of [j]Kedar shall be gathered together to you,
The rams of Nebaioth shall minister to you;
They shall ascend with [k]acceptance on My altar,
And [l]I will glorify the house of My glory.

8 "Who are these who fly like a cloud,
And like doves to their roosts?
9 [m]Surely the coastlands shall wait for Me;
And the ships of Tarshish will come first,
[n]To bring your sons from afar,
[o]Their silver and their gold with them,
To the name of the LORD your God,
And to the Holy One of Israel,
[p]Because He has glorified you.

10 "The[q] sons of foreigners shall build up your walls,
[r]And their kings shall minister to you;
For [s]in My wrath I struck you,
[t]But in My favor I have had mercy on you.
11 Therefore your gates [u]shall be open continually;
They shall not be shut day or night,

11 [u]Is. 26:2; 60:18; 62:10; Rev. 21:25, 26

■ 60:2 darkness shall cover . . . LORD will arise. Although the world is in darkness, God's light shines on His people (John 1:15; Col. 1:13; 1 Pet. 2:9).

His glory. See 4:5; 40:5; John 1:14; Rev. 21:11.

■ 60:3 Gentiles shall come. See 11:1; 42:16; 49:6. The prophecy has been fulfilled day by day since the coming of the gospel (Acts 9:15; 11:18).

kings to the brightness. They come to Christ (42:6; 49:6). The wise men who came to see Jesus were Gentiles if not "kings" in some sense.

■ 60:5 wealth . . . shall come. The prophecy began to be fulfilled with Darius's contribution to the temple (Ezra 6:8, 9). It has a much greater fulfillment through the ascended Christ, who rules in the hearts of His people.

■ 60:6 Midian. A desert tribe famous for caravans and trade (Gen. 37:28, 36; Judg. 6;5, 6).

Ephah. A tribe related to Midian (Gen. 25:4).

Sheba. This country was renowned for its wealth (1 Kin. 10:1, 2).

■ 60:7 Kedar. See note on 21:16.

Nebaioth. Related to the Ishmaelites (Gen. 25:13), and later known as Nabateans. Their capital was at Petra, 50 miles south of the Dead Sea.

■ 60:9 coastlands shall wait for Me. So also in 43:5–7, 14; 49:18; 51:5.

ships of Tarshish. See note on 23:5. The resumption of maritime trade is another way the glory of the new age is described in terms of Solomon's splendor (1 Kin. 10:22).

silver and gold. See Hag. 2:7–9.

■ 60:10 foreigners. As Hiram, king of Tyre, helped build the first temple (1 Kin. 5), and Cyrus and Darius, kings of Persia, the second (Ezra 6), so also today people of many nations are building up the church, the temple of the Lord (Eph. 2:11–22).

kings shall minister. The exiles were promised that foreign kings would depart (49:17); now it is asserted that foreign kings will serve Mount Zion and worship God. In His wrath against kings, God will remember mercy and save some of them.

■ 60:11 gates . . . day or night. Instead of attacking, the nations will bring tribute (Rev. 21:25–26).

That men may bring to you the wealth of the Gentiles,
And their kings in procession.
12 [v]For the nation and kingdom which will not serve you shall perish,
And those nations shall be utterly ruined.

13 "The[w] glory of Lebanon shall come to you,
The cypress, the pine, and the box tree together,
To beautify the place of My sanctuary;
And I will make [x]the place of My feet glorious.
14 Also the sons of those who afflicted you
Shall come [y]bowing to you,
And all those who despised you shall [z]fall prostrate at the soles of your feet;
And they shall call you The City of the LORD,
[a]Zion of the Holy One of Israel.

15 "Whereas you have been forsaken and hated,
So that no one went through you,
I will make you an eternal excellence,
A joy of many generations.
16 You shall drink the milk of the Gentiles,
[b]And milk the breast of kings;
You shall know that [c]I, the LORD, am your Savior
And your Redeemer, the Mighty One of Jacob.

17 "Instead of bronze I will bring gold,
Instead of iron I will bring silver,
Instead of wood, bronze,
And instead of stones, iron.
I will also make your officers peace,
And your magistrates righteousness.
18 Violence shall no longer be heard in your land,
Neither [l]wasting nor destruction within your borders;
But you shall call [d]your walls Salvation,
And your gates Praise.

God the Glory of His People

19 "The [e]sun shall no longer be your light by day,
Nor for brightness shall the moon give light to you;
But the LORD will be to you an everlasting light,
And [f]your God your glory.
20 [g]Your sun shall no longer go down,
Nor shall your moon withdraw itself;
For the LORD will be your everlasting light,
And the days of your mourning shall be ended.
21 [h]Also your people shall all be righteous;
[i]They shall inherit the land forever,
[j]The branch of My planting,
[k]The work of My hands,
That I may be glorified.

13 [w]Is. 35:2 [x]1 Chr. 28:2; Ps. 132:7
14 [y]Is. 45:14 [z]Is. 49:23; Rev. 3:9 [a][Heb. 12:22; Rev. 14:1]

■ 60:12 perish. See Gen. 12:3; Heb. 2:3.

■ 60:13 sanctuary. Precious wood glorified Solomon's temple as well (1 Kin. 6:15–18). This provides another connection between the former and latter glory (vv. 6, 9 and notes).

place of My feet. At first this expression referred to the ark of the covenant (Ps. 132:7; 1 Chr. 28:2); later, to the temple (Ezek. 43:7); and, finally, to the whole world (66:1).

■ 60:16 milk the breasts of kings. This is figurative language for the wealth brought by kings to Zion.

■ 60:17 gold . . . silver . . . bronze . . . iron. Bronze and iron were important alloys used for making tools and weapons. Each material is replaced by one stronger and more valuable. By analogy, the cultural and social life of the country will be raised beyond what Solomon knew. Whatever the interim fulfillments of this prophecy, it looks ultimately to the splendor of the New Jerusalem (Rev. 21:9–27; see also Ps. 48).

■ 60:18 walls. God's salvation and Israel's praise constitute the defense of the spiritual temple, Christ and His church (26:1 note; cf. Zech. 2:4, 5).

■ 60:19 everlasting light. This is God's presence with His people (v. 1 note; Rev. 21:11, 23; 22:5).

22 [f]A little one shall become a thousand,
And a small one a strong nation.
I, the LORD, will hasten it in its time."

The Good News of Salvation

61 "The [a]Spirit of the Lord GOD is upon Me,
Because the LORD [b]has anointed Me
To preach good tidings to the poor;
He has sent Me [c]to [f]heal the brokenhearted,
To proclaim [d]liberty to the captives,
And the opening of the prison to those who are bound;
2 [e]To proclaim the acceptable year of the LORD,
And [f]the day of vengeance of our God;
[g]To comfort all who mourn,
3 To [2]console those who mourn in Zion,
[h]To give them beauty for ashes,
The oil of joy for mourning,
The garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness;
That they may be called trees of righteousness,
[i]The planting of the LORD, [j]that He may be glorified."

4 And they shall [k]rebuild the old ruins,
They shall raise up the former desolations,
And they shall repair the ruined cities,
The desolations of many generations.
5 [l]Strangers shall stand and feed your flocks,
And the sons of the foreigner
Shall be your plowmen and your vinedressers.
6 [m]But you shall be named the priests of the LORD,
They shall call you the servants of our God.
[n]You shall eat the riches of the Gentiles,
And in their glory you shall boast.
7 [o]Instead of your shame you shall have double honor,
And instead of confusion they shall rejoice in their portion.
Therefore in their land they shall possess double;
Everlasting joy shall be theirs.

8 "For [p]I, the LORD, love justice;
[q]I hate robbery [3]for burnt offering;
I will direct their work in truth,
[r]And will make with them an everlasting covenant.
9 Their descendants shall be known among the Gentiles,
And their offspring among the people.
All who see them shall acknowledge them,
[s]That they are the posterity whom the LORD has blessed."

10 [t]I will greatly rejoice in the LORD,
My soul shall be joyful in my God;

■ 61:1 Spirit. See 11:2; 42:1; 48:16 and notes; Luke 3:22; 4:18, 19. The prophecy was fulfilled in the ministry of Christ. Isaiah is included (62:1) as a shadow or forerunner of Jesus.

poor. See Ps. 9:18 note; Luke 7:22.

proclaim liberty. This phrase may be an allusion to the liberation of slaves in the Year of Jubilee (Lev. 25:10).

■ 61:2 the acceptable year. Through His death and resurrection, Jesus inaugurated the "day of salvation" (2 Cor. 6:2) in which the gospel is preached all over the world, and those who were estranged can find peace in Him (Eph. 2:12, 13; 3:5; 2 Tim. 1:10).

day of vengeance. Jesus closed the book before reading this portion of Isaiah's oracle (Luke 4:18–20). The time of healing belongs to His first coming; the time of judgment to the second (1 Thess. 1:10). See note on 34:8.

■ 61:6 riches of the Gentiles. See note on 60:5.

■ 61:7 shame . . . confusion. These words describe the experience of the Babylonian exile of the sixth century B.C. (30:3; 50:4–6).

■ 61:8 everlasting covenant. See notes on 42:6; 55:3.

■ 61:9 descendants. The blessings of the covenant are extended to the children (59:21).

All who see . . . blessed. This alludes to the promise to Abraham (41:8; 51:2; Gen. 12:2, 3).

■ 61:10 I. Zion is represented here as having received the blessings

For [u]He has clothed me with the garments of salvation,
He has covered me with the robe of righteousness,
[v]As a bridegroom decks himself with ornaments,
And as a bride adorns herself with her jewels.
11 For as the earth brings forth its bud,
As the garden causes the things that are sown in it to spring forth,
So the Lord GOD will cause [w]righteousness and [x]praise to spring forth before all the nations.

Assurance of Zion's Salvation

62 For Zion's sake I will not [1]hold My peace,
And for Jerusalem's sake I will not rest,
Until her righteousness goes forth as brightness,
And her salvation as a lamp that burns.
2 [a]The Gentiles shall see your righteousness,
And all [b]kings your glory.
[c]You shall be called by a new name,
Which the mouth of the LORD will name.
3 You shall also be [d]a crown of glory
In the hand of the LORD,
And a royal diadem
In the hand of your God.
4 [e]You shall no longer be termed [f]Forsaken,[2]
Nor shall your land any more be termed [g]Desolate;[3]
But you shall be called [4]Hephzibah, and your land [5]Beulah;
For the LORD delights in you,
And your land shall be married.
5 For as a young man marries a virgin,
So shall your sons marry you;
And as the bridegroom rejoices over the bride,
[h]So shall your God rejoice over you.

6 [i]I have set watchmen on your walls, O Jerusalem;
They shall [6]never hold their peace day or night.
You who [7]make mention of the LORD, do not keep silent,
7 And give Him no rest till He establishes
And till He makes Jerusalem [j]a praise in the earth.

8 The LORD has sworn by His right hand
And by the arm of His strength:
"Surely I will no longer [k]give your grain
As food for your enemies;
And the sons of the foreigner shall not drink your new wine,
For which you have labored.
9 But those who have gathered it shall eat it,
And praise the LORD;
Those who have brought it together shall drink it [l]in My holy courts."

described in v. 3, for example, joy and the garments of praise. To be "clothed" with something is a common figure for a change in status or condition (52:1; Zech. 3:3–5; Matt. 22:11).

■ 62:1 lamp that burns. This picture of salvation as a welcoming light is developed in 58:8; 60:1–3.

■ 62:2 Gentiles . . . kings. They witness the confirmation of the promises (2:2–4; 41:2 note; 52:10; 60:3; 61:11).

■ 62:10 Go through, Go through . . . Build up, Build up. These imperatives emphatically encourage the people to worship.

[m] Prepare the way for the people;
Build up,
Build up the highway!
Take out the stones,
[n] Lift up a banner for the peoples!

11 Indeed the LORD has proclaimed
To the end of the world:
[o] "Say to the daughter of Zion,
'Surely your salvation is coming;
Behold, His [p] reward is with Him,
And His [q] work before Him.' "

The LORD in Judgment and Salvation

63 Who is this who comes from Edom,
With dyed garments from Bozrah,
This One who is [r] glorious in His apparel,
Traveling in the greatness of His strength?—

"I who speak in righteousness, mighty to save."

2 Why [a] is Your apparel red,
And Your garments like one who treads in the winepress?

3 "I have [b] trodden the winepress alone,
And from the peoples no one was with Me.
For I have trodden them in My anger,
And trampled them in My fury;
Their blood is sprinkled upon My garments,
And I have stained all My robes.
4 For the [c] day of vengeance is in My heart,
And the year of My redeemed has come.
5 [d] I looked, but [e] there was no one to help,
And I wondered
That there was no one to uphold;
Therefore My own [f] arm brought salvation for Me;
And My own fury, it sustained Me.
6 I have trodden down the peoples in My anger,
Made them drunk in My fury,
And brought down their strength to the earth."

God's Mercy Remembered

7 I will mention the lovingkindnesses of the LORD
And the praises of the LORD,
According to all that the LORD has bestowed on us, gates. These lead into the court of the sanctuary (v. 9).

■ 62:12 Holy People. See 4:3; Ex. 19:6; 1 Pet. 2:9, 10.

Redeemed. See note on 35:9.

■ 63:1 Edom. This nation is representative of the ungodly and proud nations (34:1–17, especially v. 5; Obad. 14, 15; Lam. 4:21, 22; Joel 3:19; Mal. 1:2–5).

Bozrah. An important city in Edom 30 miles southeast of the Dead Sea.

■ 63:3 winepress . . . stained. This verse presents an extended metaphor for the day of the Lord (Lam. 1:15; Joel 3:13; Rev. 14:17–20; 19:15). The winepress represents the battle, and the juice pressed out represents the casualties of war.

■ 63:4 the year of My redeemed. This phrase alludes to the laws concerning slaves and property in the Jubilee year (Lev. 25). This idea of redemption is developed throughout Isaiah, but especially in 61:1—63:6 (34:8; 35:9 and notes).

has come. The future is already seen through faith.

■ 63:7 I will mention. Isaiah will proclaim aloud (Ps. 51:13–15; 89:1; 145:7) the Lord's mighty acts of the past, described as His "lovingkindnesses."

And the great goodness toward the house of Israel.
Which He has bestowed on them according to His mercies,
According to the multitude of His lovingkindnesses.
8 For He said, "Surely they are My people,
Children who will not lie."
So He became their Savior.
9 [g] In all their affliction He was [2] afflicted,
[h] And the Angel of His Presence saved them;
[i] In His love and in His pity He redeemed them;
And [j] He bore them and carried them
All the days of old.
10 But they [k] rebelled and [l] grieved His Holy Spirit;
[m] So He turned Himself against them as an enemy,
And He fought against them.

11 Then he [n] remembered the days of old,
Moses and his people, saying:
"Where is He who [o] brought them up out of the sea
With the [3] shepherd of His flock?
[p] Where is He who put His Holy Spirit within them,
12 Who led them by the right hand of Moses,
[q] With His glorious arm,
[r] Dividing the water before them
To make for Himself an everlasting name,
13 [s] Who led them through the deep,
As a horse in the wilderness,
That they might not stumble?"

14 As a beast goes down into the valley,
And the Spirit of the LORD causes him to rest,
So You lead Your people,
[t] To make Yourself a glorious name.

A Prayer of Penitence

15 [u] Look down from heaven,
And see [v] from Your habitation, holy and glorious.
Where are Your zeal and Your strength,
The yearning [w] of Your heart and Your mercies toward me?
Are they restrained?
16 [x] Doubtless You are our Father,
Though Abraham [y] was ignorant of us,
And Israel does not acknowledge us.
You, O LORD, are our Father;
Our Redeemer from Everlasting is Your name.
17 O LORD, why have You [z] made us stray from Your ways,
And hardened our heart from Your fear?
Return for Your servants' sake,
The tribes of Your inheritance.

■ 63:8 Children who will not lie. These are faithful children of God (Ex. 4:22; Deut. 14:1), unlike the rebellious children described in 1:2–4.

■ 63:9 affliction. Israel's sufferings in Egypt (Ex. 2:23–25).

Angel of His Presence. See Ex. 14:19; 23:20–23.

carried. Cf. Ex. 19:4; Deut. 1:31; 32:10–12.

■ 63:10 grieved His Holy Spirit. Rebellion against God's word brought the patience of God's Spirit to an end (cf. Ps. 106:33; Acts 7:51; Eph. 4:30). Divine patience is long suffering, but it will not restrain God's judgment forever.

■ 63:11 days of old. That is, the period of the Exodus and wilderness wanderings.

shepherd of His flock. Moses was this shepherd. Jesus is our shepherd (Heb. 3:1–6; 13:20).

■ 63:16 our Father. God has always been the Father of His people (64:8; Ex. 4:22, 23; Jer. 3:4, 19); they are His children by adoption (Deut. 32:6; Rom. 8:15).

Abraham. See 51:2.

■ 63:17 made us stray. God makes those who reject Him stray (Rom. 1:20–25; 2 Thess. 2:10–12), and may confirm them in their sin (6:10; Ex. 4:21; Ps. 95:8).

18 [a]Your holy people have possessed it but a little while;
[b]Our adversaries have trodden down Your sanctuary.
19 We have become like those of old, over whom You never ruled,
Those who were never called by Your name.

64 Oh, that You would [f]rend the heavens!
That You would come down!
That the mountains might shake at Your [a]presence—
2 As fire burns brushwood,
As fire causes water to boil—
To make Your name known to Your adversaries,
That the nations may tremble at Your presence!
3 When [b]You did awesome things for which we did not look,
You came down,
The mountains shook at Your presence.
4 For since the beginning of the world
[c]Men have not heard nor perceived by the ear,
Nor has the eye seen any God besides You,
Who acts for the one who waits for Him.
5 You meet him who rejoices and does righteousness,
Who remembers You in Your ways.
You are indeed angry, for we have sinned—
[d]In these ways we continue;
And we need to be saved.

6 But we are all like an unclean thing,
And all [e]our righteousnesses are like [2]filthy rags;
We all [f]fade as a leaf,
And our iniquities, like the wind,
Have taken us away.
7 And there is no one who calls on Your name,
Who stirs himself up to take hold of You;
For You have hidden Your face from us,
And have [3]consumed us because of our iniquities.

8 But now, O LORD,
You are our Father;
We are the clay, and You our [g]potter;
And all we are the work of Your hand.
9 Do not be furious, O LORD,
Nor remember iniquity forever;
Indeed, please look—we all are Your people!
10 Your holy cities are a wilderness,
Zion is a wilderness,
Jerusalem a desolation.
11 Our holy and beautiful [4]temple,
Where our fathers praised You,
Is burned up with fire;
And all [h]our pleasant things [5]are laid waste.

■ 63:19 called by Your name. To signify ownership (Deut. 28:10; Jer. 14:9).

■ 64:1 That You would come. With eloquence Isaiah pleads with God to make His presence unmistakably clear, especially in the fires of judgment (4:4, 5 and notes; Ex. 19:18; Heb. 12:18).

■ 64:3 awesome things. An allusion to God's appearance on Mount Sinai after the Exodus (Ex. 19:16–18; Deut. 10:21; Ps. 66:3–6; 106:22; see Ezek. 32:6–8 note).

■ 64:6 unclean. Unfit to be in God's presence (Lev. 13:45, 46; Hag. 2:13, 14).

filthy rags. Garments stained by menstruation (Lev. 15:19; Ezek. 36:17; cf. Phil. 4:7, 8). No one is sinless in God's sight (6:5; Job 15:14–16).

The Righteousness of God's Judgment

65 "I was [a]sought by those who did not ask for Me;
I was found by those who did not seek Me.
I said, 'Here I am, here I am,'
To a nation that [b]was not called by My name.
2 [c]I have stretched out My hands all day long to a [d]rebellious people,
Who [e]walk in a way that is not good,
According to their own thoughts;
3 A people [f]who provoke Me to anger continually to My face;
[g]Who sacrifice in gardens,
And burn incense on altars of brick;
4 [h]Who sit among the graves,
And spend the night in the tombs;
[i]Who eat swine's flesh,
And the broth of [l]abominable things is in their vessels;
5 [j]Who say, 'Keep to yourself,
Do not come near me,
For I am holier than you!'
These [2]are smoke in My nostrils,
A fire that burns all the day.

6 "Behold, [k]it is written before Me:
[l]I will not keep silence, [m]but will repay—
Even repay into their bosom—
7 Your iniquities and [n]the iniquities of your fathers together,"
Says the LORD,
[o]"Who have burned incense on the mountains
[p]And blasphemed Me on the hills;
Therefore I will measure their former work into their bosom."

8 Thus says the LORD:

"As the new wine is found in the cluster,
And one says, 'Do not destroy it,
For [q]a blessing is in it,'
So will I do for My servants' sake,
That I may not destroy them [r]all.
9 I will bring forth descendants from Jacob,
And from Judah an heir of My mountains;
My [s]elect shall inherit it,
And My servants shall dwell there.
10 [t]Sharon shall be a fold of flocks,

■ 65:1 Here I am. This is repeated for emphasis. God's presence is salvation.

a nation that was not called by My name. That is, Gentiles (42:1; 49:6). Paul quotes this prophecy in Rom. 10:20. God's salvation does not conform to human expectations; it originates in His free decision. See Rom. 9:11, 12, 25, 26; 10:30, 31; 11:6, 17 on this important principle.

■ 65:2 stretched out My hands. Unlike the people whose "hands are full of blood" (1:15), the Lord reached out with love.

■ 65:3 to My face. They did not hide their offensive, idolatrous acts.

sacrifices in gardens. These sacrifices were associated with fertility religions (1:29 note).

■ 65:4 sit among the graves. They go there to consult the spirits of the dead (8:19; 29:4).

swine's flesh. Eating pork was prohibited (66:3, 17; Lev. 11:7, 8; Deut. 14:8).

■ 65:5 smoke . . . fire. They are a constant annoyance to God.

■ 65:6 repay. The principle of retribution applies in God's judgment (Obad. 15; Gal. 6:7; 1 Pet. 1:17; Rev. 20:12, 13; 22:12).

■ 65:8 new wine. The new wine in the cluster is the remnant for whose sake the whole is preserved (Matt. 13:29). The remnant is among both Israel (1:9 note) and the nations (56:6; cf. Gen. 18:22–33).

■ 65:9 elect . . . inherit. The kingdom will be theirs (14:1 note; 57:13; cf. Obad. 19–21).

■ 65:10 Sharon. This fertile plain south of Mt. Carmel, on the Mediterranean coast. It is a picture of how the Lord will transform creation (33:9; 35:1, 2 and notes).

And [u]the Valley of Achor a place for herds to lie down,
For My people who have [v]sought Me.

11 "But you are those who forsake the LORD,
Who forget [w]My holy mountain,
Who prepare [x]a table for [3]Gad,
And who furnish a drink offering for [4]Meni.
12 Therefore I will number you for the sword,
And you shall all bow down to the slaughter;
[y]Because, when I called, you did not answer;
When I spoke, you did not hear,
But did evil before My eyes,
And chose that in which I do not delight."

13 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD:

"Behold, My servants shall eat,
But you shall be hungry;
Behold, My servants shall drink,
But you shall be thirsty;
Behold, My servants shall rejoice,
But you shall be ashamed;
14 Behold, My servants shall sing for joy of heart,
But you shall cry for sorrow of heart,
And [z]wail for [5]grief of spirit.
15 You shall leave your name [a]as a curse to [b]My chosen;
For the Lord GOD will slay you,
And [c]call His servants by another name;
16 [d]So that he who blesses himself in the earth
Shall bless himself in the God of truth;
And [e]he who swears in the earth
Shall swear by the God of truth;
Because the former troubles are forgotten,
And because they are hidden from My eyes.

The Glorious New Creation

17 "For behold, I create [f]new heavens and a new earth;
And the former shall not be remembered or [6]come to mind.
18 But be glad and rejoice forever in what I create;
For behold, I create Jerusalem as a rejoicing,
And her people a joy.
19 [g]I will rejoice in Jerusalem,
And joy in My people;
The [h]voice of weeping shall no longer be heard in her,
Nor the voice of crying.

20 "No more shall an infant from there live but a few days,
Nor an old man who has not fulfilled his days;
For the child shall die one hundred years old,

■ 65:18 create Jerusalem. It will be altogether new with no remembrance of the old (Rev. 21:1, 2).

■ 65:20 infant . . . old man. Premature death of infants or persons in mid-career can provoke the thought that life is meaningless. Such early death, as also the transfer of one person's reward to another person who did not earn it (v. 22), is part of God's judgment on sin. God promises to remove this curse from His people (Amos 5:11 note).

They shall plant vineyards and eat their fruit.
22 They shall not build and another inhabit;
They shall not plant and [k]another eat;
For [l]as the days of a tree, so shall be the days of My people,
And [m]My elect shall long enjoy the work of their hands.
23 They shall not labor in vain,
[n]Nor bring forth children for trouble;

The lion shall eat straw like the ox,
[s]And dust shall be the serpent's food.
They shall not hurt nor destroy in all My holy mountain,"
Says the LORD.

True Worship and False

66 Thus says the LORD:
[a]"Heaven is My throne,
And earth is My footstool.
Where is the house that you will build Me?
And where is the place of My rest?
2 For all those things My hand has made,
And all those things exist,"
Says the LORD.
[b]"But on this one will I look:
[c]On him who is poor and of a contrite spirit,
And who trembles at My word.
3 "He[d] who kills a bull is as if he slays a man;
He who sacrifices a lamb, as if he [e]breaks a dog's neck;
He who offers a grain offering, as if he offers swine's blood;
He who burns incense, as if he blesses an idol.
Just as they have chosen their own ways,
And their soul delights in their abominations,
4 So will I choose their delusions,
And bring their fears on them;
[f]Because, when I called, no one answered,
When I spoke they did not hear;
But they did evil before My eyes,
And chose that in which I do not delight."

The LORD Vindicates Zion

5 Hear the word of the LORD,
You who tremble at His word:

■ 65:25 dust shall be the serpent's food. This alludes to Gen. 3:14. The curse on Satan is carried out.

■ 66:1 See theological note "The Spiritual Nature of God."

■ 66:3–4 The Lord hates empty religious expressions as much as paganism (Jer. 7:21–23 note).

■ 66:3 slays a man. This may be an allusion to child sacrifice (cf. Jer. 7:31; Ezek. 23:39).

breaks a dog's neck. Only certain animals were prescribed for sacrifice. The dog was not even permitted for food (56:10 note; Lev. 11:26).

swine's blood. See 65:4.

■ 66:5 who hated you. The opposition reflected in ch. 65 between God's servants and nominal Israel has intensified.

Let . . . joy. Such an expression of praise by rebellious people is hypocritical righteousness.

shall be ashamed. Humiliation is the fate of the persecutors. See v. 10 for the fate of the persecuted.

Who cast you out for My name's sake, said,
[h]'Let the LORD be glorified,
That [i]we may see your joy.'
But they shall be ashamed."

5 [g]Ps. 38:20; Is. 60:15; [Luke 6:22, 23] [h]Is. 5:19 [i][2 Thess. 1:10; Titus 2:13]

The Spiritual Nature of God

"God is Spirit," said Jesus to the Samaritan woman at the well (John 4:24). Though fully personal, God does not live in and through a body as we do, and so is not subject to the limits of space and time. Although nothing created can be omnipresent, God is everywhere in His fullness continually. All created things are limited by time; but for God there is no "present moment" into which He is locked as we are.

Theologians refer to God's freedom from limits and bounds as His infinity and His immensity (1 Kin. 8:27; Is. 40:12–26; 66:1). God upholds everything in being, and He has everything everywhere always before His mind, in its own relation to His all-inclusive plan and purpose for every thing and every person in His world (Dan. 4:34–35; Eph. 1:11).

God is immutable, or unchangeable. Nothing can increase or diminish God's perfection, and He does not change for the better or the worse. Because He is not in time He is not subject to change as creatures are (2 Pet. 3:8). Yet He is active in His world all the time, constantly making new things spring forth (Is. 42:9; 2 Cor. 5:17; Rev. 21:5). In all His works He expresses His perfect character with perfect consistency. True to His unchangeable character, He will fulfill every word He has spoken and the plans He has made (Num. 23:19; Ps. 33:11; Mal. 3:6; James 1:16–18). His immutability explains why, when people change their attitude to Him, He changes His attitude to them (Gen. 6:5–7; Ex. 32:9–14; 1 Sam. 15:11; Jon. 3:10).

God's unchangeable perfection does not mean He is impassive and unfeeling, but what He feels is a matter of His own choice, and is included in the unity of His infinite being. God is not driven by His reaction to events or the presence of feelings that arise within Him. But many scriptures represent God as having emotions, such as joy, sorrow, anger, and delight. It is a great mistake to forget that God feels—though of necessity in a way that transcends a finite being's experience of emotion.

All God's thoughts and actions involve the whole of Him; He is undivided in Himself, not composed of parts. This attribute is called His simplicity. God is not distracted, divided by competing interests, or obliged to ration His attention. He simultaneously gives total and undivided attention, not just to one thing at a time, but to everything and everyone anywhere in space or time (cf. Matt. 10:29–30).

The God who is Spirit must be worshiped in spirit and in truth (John 4:24). Worship "in spirit" means worship from a heart renewed by the Holy Spirit. No rituals, ceremony, or devotional formality is true worship without a willing heart, which the Holy Spirit alone can prepare. "In truth" means on the basis of God's revelation culminating in the incarnate Word, Jesus Christ, who is the truth (John 14:6). In the Spirit, "the LORD is near to all who call upon Him, to all who call upon Him in truth," wherever they may be (Ps. 145:18; cf. Heb. 4:14–16). Through the revelation of Christ, God invites limited, sinful creatures to claim Him who is the eternal, unchangeable God, as their own God. God is committed to His people through a covenant of divine promises as sure as His own faithfulness (Heb. 6:17, 18).

■ 66:7 Before . . . birth. The birth of the new community will be sudden, and no human effort will contribute to it. Christ laid the foundation of the church in His lifetime, especially in the week of His death and resurrection (John 2:19).

She delivered a male child.
8 Who has heard such a thing?
Who has seen such things?
Shall the earth be made to give birth in one day?
Or shall a nation be born at once?
For as soon as Zion was in labor,
She gave birth to her children.
9 Shall I bring to the time of birth, and not cause delivery?" says the LORD.
"Shall I who cause delivery shut up the womb?" says your God.
10 "Rejoice with Jerusalem,
And be glad with her, all you who love her;
Rejoice for joy with her, all you who mourn for her;
11 That you may feed and be satisfied
With the consolation of her bosom,
That you may drink deeply and be delighted
With the abundance of her glory."

12 For thus says the LORD:

"Behold, [j]I will extend peace to her like a river,
And the glory of the Gentiles like a flowing stream.
Then you shall [k]feed;
On her sides shall you be [l]carried,
And be dandled on her knees.
13 As one whom his mother comforts,
So I will [m]comfort you;
And you shall be comforted in Jerusalem."

The Reign and Indignation of God

14 When you see this, your heart shall rejoice,
And [n]your bones shall flourish like grass;
The hand of the LORD shall be known to His servants,
And His indignation to His enemies.
15 [o]For behold, the LORD will come with fire
And with His chariots, like a whirlwind,
To render His anger with fury,
And His rebuke with flames of fire.
16 For by fire and by [p]His sword
The LORD will judge all flesh;
And the slain of the LORD shall be [q]many.

17 "Those [r]who sanctify themselves and purify themselves,
To go to the gardens
[1]After an idol in the midst,
Eating swine's flesh and the abomination and the mouse,
Shall [2]be consumed together," says the LORD.

18 "For I know their works and their [s]thoughts. It shall be that I will [t]gather all nations and tongues; and they shall come and see My glory. 19 [u]I will set a sign among them; and those

■ 66:15 fire . . . whirlwind. These depict lightning and storm clouds respectively (Deut. 33:26; Ps. 18:10; Jer. 4:13), common accompaniments of God's appearance (10:17, 18; 29:6; Ezek. 32:6–8 note). Isaiah prayed for God to come in this way to bring judgment (64:1–3).

■ 66:16 sword. The Lord appears as a warrior (27:1; 34:5; Rev. 19:11–18). See notes on 9:6; 13:4; 40:10; 42:13.

[v]And they shall declare My glory among the Gentiles. 20 Then they shall [w]bring all your brethren [x]for an offering to the LORD out of all nations, on horses and in chariots and in litters, on mules and on camels, to My holy mountain Jerusalem," says the LORD, "as the children of Israel bring an offering in a clean vessel into the house of the LORD. 21 And I will also take some of them for [y]priests and Levites," says the LORD.

22 "For as [z]the new heavens and the new earth
Which I will make shall remain before Me," says the LORD,
"So shall your descendants and your name remain.
23 And [a]it shall come to pass
That from one New Moon to another,
And from one Sabbath to another,
[b]All flesh shall come to worship before Me," says the LORD.

24 "And they shall go forth and look
Upon the corpses of the men
Who have transgressed against Me.
For their [c]worm does not die,
And their fire is not quenched.
They shall be an abhorrence to all flesh."

The Book of

JEREMIAH

Author Jeremiah prophesied during the reigns of the last kings of Judah: Josiah (640–609 B.C.), Jehoahaz (609), Jehoiakim (609–598), Jehoiachin (598–597) and Zedekiah (597–586). The kingdom of Judah ended in the exile of most of its people to Babylon, chiefly as a result of two invasions by King Nebuchadnezzar (597 and 586 B.C.), though the first deportations occurred as early as 605 (Dan. 1:1 note). The northern kingdom, Israel, had been conquered by the Assyrians a century before Jeremiah began his ministry. Assyria itself fell to Babylon in 612 B.C., and the northern kingdom was never restored. Jeremiah announced the coming judgment of God on His people and lived to see his prophecy fulfilled.

This prophet was also a priest, from the priestly town of Anathoth in the territory of Benjamin (1:1 note). A lonely figure because of his unpopular message (15:17), he was divinely forbidden to marry as a sign of the imminent cessation of normal life (16:2). He also found himself opposed to the authorities in the land and to all classes of people (26:8). As a result, his life was in serious danger more than once (11:18–23; 18:18; 26:8; 36:19; 38:6). His message placed him in the thick of political events. He was sought out especially by King Zedekiah for his comments on the likely outcome of the final onslaught of the approaching Babylonian armies (37:3, 17). Politically, it was a turbulent time as Egypt and Babylon contested the region. Jeremiah repeatedly prophesied a Babylonian victory, proclaiming that the Lord was using Nebuchadnezzar as His scourge. When Jerusalem fell, the Babylonian commander had a special commission from Nebuchadnezzar himself for the care of the prophet, whose fame had spread to the heart of the empire (39:11–14).

Date and Occasion The background to the prophecy is the long struggle in Judah between the idolatrous worship of foreign gods, deeply embedded since the reign of Manasseh (696–642 B.C.), and the worship of the Lord, which Josiah attempted to restore in his reform (see 2 Kin. 22; 23). The reform began in 628 B.C. (see 2 Chr. 34:3 note) and was given fresh impetus by the discovery of the Book of the Law in 621 B.C. (2 Kin. 22:8). Jeremiah's call came in 626 B.C. (1:2 note). His early ministry coincides with Josiah's reform. Jeremiah testifies, however, to the reform's failure to make significant impact on the people's lives, as the religious abuses of Manasseh reemerged under Josiah's successors.

Characteristics and Themes Jeremiah's message moved through phases that do not correspond exactly to the structure of the book: (a) He called Judah to repent and avoid judgment that would otherwise come (e.g., 7:1–15). (b) He announced that the time for repentance was past, since judgment was now determined against the people (19:10, 11 notes). Judgment is the dominant note in the book, and is understood as the invocation of the final curse of the covenant, namely, loss of the Promised Land (Lev. 26:31–33; Deut. 28:49–68). (c) The Lord would save His people, or a remnant of them, through the exile (24:4–7 notes). Though the Babylonians would prevail over Judah at the Lord's command, this would be for a limited time only—Babylon, in its turn, would also fall (25:9, 11, 12). This prophecy was fulfilled in 539 B.C., when Babylon was defeated by an alliance of Persians and Medes under Cyrus, paving the way for the exiles of Judah to return (50:3; 51:1, 27, 28; 2 Chr. 36:20–23). This promise of eventual deliverance was Jeremiah's answer to the false prophets who had constantly challenged his message of judgment (28:1–4).

Jeremiah also had a message of salvation, but only on the other side of judgment (29:11–14). That message is crystallized in the prophecy of the new covenant (central text: 31:31–34). The new covenant prophecy is built around the main ingredients of the Mosaic covenant at Sinai: it spoke of God's desire to have a relationship with His chosen people, and of the requirement upon them to return His love with obedience (Ex. 19:3–6; Deut. 7:6–11). The new covenant speaks of the empowerment of God's people to obey Him (31:33 note, 32:40 note). Although it is promised in national terms (31:31 and note), it is something new, which the New Testament shows to be fulfilled in the greater "Israel of God" (Gal. 6:16) through Christ (22:30 note; 23:5 note; 30:9; 31:33 note; 33:18 note).

Jeremiah reveals his personal involvement with his message more fully than the other prophets (but cf. Is. 22:4; Mic. 1:8, 9), and he feels the agony of the people at the approach of the Babylonian armies, even before they feel it themselves (4:19–21; 10:19–22; 14:19–22). He also feels the passion of the Lord concerning the sin he witnesses (8:21—9:3 notes). His role is mediatorial in nature. This role is most poignant in the series of passages often referred to as the prophet's "Confessions" (11:18–20; 12:1–4; 15:10–18; 17:14–18; 18:19–23; 20:7–18). In these he expresses his anguish at the great burden of his prophetic calling, prays for vengeance on his personal enemies, and even accuses the Lord of having forced or deceived him (15:18; 20:7). Some of these prayers elicit answers from the Lord containing rebuke and reassurance (11:21–23; 12:5, 6; 15:19–21). The reassurance to Jeremiah in 15:19–21 is later echoed in a prayer of Ephraim, which receives its own answer (31:18–20). The Lord's good intention toward Jeremiah, therefore, becomes an earnest of His intended faithfulness to the whole people, through and beyond the imminent judgment.

The book contains various materials that make reading it as a continually unfolding narrative difficult. Much of Jeremiah comprises poetic oracles spoken by the prophet (e.g., chs. 2—6). At other times an argument is developed in a style that is sermonic or prosaic (e.g., 7:1–15). There is also third-person narrative about the prophet himself, presumably penned by someone else (e.g., 37—45), and ch. 52 happens to be an editorial appendix (see the last sentence of 51:64). The composition is therefore complicated, as might be expected from the length of Jeremiah's ministry alone (25:3), and conveys the full breadth and force of Jeremiah's ministry from the perspective of the fulfillment of his repeated warnings of coming punishment.

If the work was completed during the Exile, the latest historical point reached in the book, the purpose would be to chasten the exiles by encouraging them to ponder the meaning of their exile. At the same time it seeks to engender hope, since the prophet who had pronounced judgment, and had been proven right, had also preached a message of Judah's eventual restoration to the land and the nation's privileged relationship with God. Jeremiah evidently was assisted by Baruch in compiling the book, and Baruch may also have recorded the third-person narratives.

A clue to the procedure by which the various prophesies and sermons might have become a book is found in 36:4–6, where Baruch writes down all the words "from Jeremiah's mouth" (text note, v. 4). When the scroll is destroyed by Jehoiakim, the Lord commands Jeremiah to rewrite the scroll, with more words added. Reference is also made in 51:60 to Jeremiah recording his prophesies in a book.

The contents of the book are not arranged in chronological order, but rather thematically. Chapters 21—24 are framed by prophecies concerning each of Josiah's successors up to (but excluding) Zedekiah. Similarly chs. 35; 36 refer back to the reign of Jehoiakim, after scenes which involved Zedekiah. □

The Prophet Is Called

4 Then the word of the LORD came to me, saying:

5 "Before I [h]formed you in the womb [i]I knew you;
Before you were born I [j]sanctified[1] you;
I [2]ordained you a prophet to the nations."

6 Then said I:

[k]"Ah, Lord GOD!
Behold, I cannot speak, for I am a youth."

7 But the LORD said to me:

"Do not say, 'I am a youth,'
For you shall go to all to whom I send you,
And [l]whatever I command you, you shall speak.
8 [m]Do not be afraid of their faces,
For [n]I am with you to deliver you," says the LORD.

9 Then the LORD put forth His hand and [o]touched my mouth, and the LORD said to me:

■ 1:1–19 God calls Jeremiah to his prophetic ministry of announcing divine judgment on Judah for idolatry.

■ 1:1–3 Jeremiah prophesied over a forty-year period up to the Babylonian exile of the people of Judah. During this time the word of the Lord came to him repeatedly (25:3).

■ 1:1 priests who were in Anathoth. Anathoth was a priestly city from early times (Josh. 21:17, 18); cf. 11:21–23. Jeremiah was both a prophet and a priest.

■ 1:2 to whom the word of the LORD came. This phrase often opens prophetic books (cf. Hos. 1:1; Joel 1:1; Mic. 1:1). Jeremiah's recorded words, therefore, are God's words.

Josiah. He was a godly king who undertook a major religious reform beginning in 628 B.C. (2 Kin. 22; 23; 2 Chr. 34; 35); Jeremiah approves of him (22:15, 16), though he makes few specific references to the reform.

thirteenth year. That is, 626 B.C.

■ 1:5 I formed you . . . knew you. God's creation and election of Jeremiah belong together (for the verb "know" in the sense of "choose," see Gen. 18:19; Amos 3:2). This setting apart before birth is the ground of Jeremiah's prophetic standing. Compare also Moses, whose birth narrative (Ex. 2) has the same meaning, and Paul (Gal. 1:15).

to the nations. Jeremiah's message is chiefly for Judah, but he has words of judgment for other nations as well (25:8–37; 46—51).

■ 1:6 I cannot speak. Moses made a similar protest (Ex. 4:10).

youth. This denotes a disqualifying immaturity (1 Kin. 3:7).

■ 1:8 Do not be afraid. The reassurance necessarily recurs (10:5; 30:10; cf. Is. 43:1; Luke 12:32).

I am with you. These words are the Lord's essential promise to His people (Ex. 3:12; Is. 7:14; Matt. 1:23; 28:20).

■ 1:9 touched my mouth. This indicates that Jeremiah was consecrated to speak the Lord's words (Is. 6:7).

"Behold, I have [p]put My words in your mouth.
10 [q]See, I have this day set you over the nations and over the kingdoms,
To [r]root out and to pull down,
To destroy and to throw down,
To build and to plant."

11 Moreover the word of the LORD came to me, saying, "Jeremiah, what do you see?"
And I said, "I see a [3]branch of an almond tree."
12 Then the LORD said to me, "You have seen well, for I am [4]ready to perform My word."
13 And the word of the LORD came to me the second time, saying, "What do you see?"
And I said, "I see [s]a boiling pot, and it is facing away from the north."
14 Then the LORD said to me:

"Out of the [t]north calamity shall break forth
On all the inhabitants of the land.
15 For behold, I am [u]calling
All the families of the kingdoms of the north," says the LORD;
"They shall come and [v]each one set his throne
At the entrance of the gates of Jerusalem,
Against all its walls all around,
And against all the cities of Judah.
16 I will utter My judgments
Against them concerning all their wickedness,
Because [w]they have forsaken Me,
Burned [x]incense to other gods,
And worshiped the works of their own [y]hands.

17 "Therefore [z]prepare yourself and arise,
And speak to them all that I command you.

■ 1:10 root out . . . plant. The images stress Jeremiah's message of destruction, while also foreshadowing the Lord's reconstruction. The narrative of his call prepares for the prophet's ministry in all its variety. God's word accomplishes God's purposes (Is. 55:11).

■ 1:11 word. The term can also designate revelatory visions (Amos 7:8).

■ 1:13, 14 boiling . . . break forth. The second vision, like the first, affirms the inevitability of the imminent judgment on Judah. Jeremiah must himself believe the message in order to proclaim it.

■ 1:14 north. Though Babylon lay to the east, their route of march would bring them from the north.

■ 1:16 judgments. Judgment is a work of God, in relation to His covenant people (11:2), in which He implements the curses of the covenant (Deut. 28:15–68).

The Call of Jeremiah (1:9, 10)

Who?	The son of Hilkiah (1:1)
Where?	Anathoth in Benjamin (1:1)
When?	The reign of Josiah, 626 B.C. (1:2)
Why?	Ordained a prophet to the nations (1:5)
Origin?	Decided before his birth (1:5)
Jeremiah's response	"I am a youth" (1:6)
God corrects him	"I am with you" (1:7, 8)
God enables him	Given words of power (1:9, 10)

The dramatic character of Jeremiah's call highlights the principle that when God calls a person to a task, He also equips that person for the task. Like Jeremiah, we list our weaknesses and limitations. But God promises His enabling presence. Like Jeremiah, we anticipate fearful situations. But God promises His deliverance. God does not call us to a task He cannot help us to fulfill.

[a] Do not be dismayed before their faces,
Lest I dismay you before them.
18 For behold, I have made you this day
[b] A fortified city and an iron pillar,
And bronze walls against the whole land—
Against the kings of Judah,
Against its princes,
Against its priests,
And against the people of the land.
19 They will fight against you,
But they shall not prevail against you.
For I am with you," says the LORD, "to deliver you."

God's Case Against Israel

2 Moreover the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Go and cry in the hearing of Jerusalem, saying, 'Thus says the LORD:

"I remember you,
The kindness of your [a] youth,
The love of your betrothal,
[b] When you [1] went after Me in the wilderness,
In a land not sown.
3 [c] Israel was holiness to the LORD,
[d] The firstfruits of His increase.
[e] All that devour him will offend;
Disaster will [f] come upon them," says the LORD.' "

4 Hear the word of the LORD, O house of Jacob and all the families of the house of Israel.
5 Thus says the LORD:

[g] "What injustice have your fathers found in Me,
That they have gone far from Me,
[h] Have followed [2] idols,
And have become idolaters?
6 Neither did they say, 'Where is the LORD,
Who [i] brought us up out of the land of Egypt,
Who led us through [j] the wilderness,
Through a land of deserts and pits,
Through a land of drought and the shadow of death,
Through a land that no one crossed
And where no one dwelt?'
7 I brought you into [k] a bountiful country,
To eat its fruit and its goodness.
But when you entered, you [l] defiled My land
And made My heritage an abomination.
8 The priests did not say, 'Where is the LORD?'

■ 1:18 kings . . . land. Jeremiah's accusation will embrace the whole society of Judah, from greatest to least.

■ 2:1—6:30 Jeremiah uses a number of vivid images (such as comparing Judah to a wild donkey and a prostitute) to indict Judah for unfaithfulness to God (2:1—3:5) and to warn of certain judgment if the nation will not repent and return to God (3:6—6:30).

■ 2:2 Jerusalem. In Hebrew cities are personified as feminine (7:29 note).

kindness. On the Hebrew word (hesed), see Ps. 36:5 note.

youth . . . betrothal. Israel's early relationship with the Lord in the desert after the exodus from Egypt is remembered as pure and devoted, like a bride's with her groom. See Hos. 2:14–16 for a similar image.

■ 2:3 holiness . . . firstfruits. These terms are drawn from the life of worship. As holy, Israel was dedicated to the Lord (Ezek. 22:26); a "first-fruit" is something belonging specifically to the Lord (Deut. 26:2; Hos. 9:10).

will offend. The offense resulted from unauthorized handling of holy things.

■ 2:7 defiled My land . . . My heritage. See Deut. 21:23. God's holy people (Deut. 7:6) dwell in the land He gave them for a heritage. The land can be defiled, or in religious terms be made "unclean," by sin, because it remains God's possession. See Lev. 25:23.

■ 2:8 priests. These may also be "those who handle the law," (18:18; Deut. 31:9), or the latter may be a scribal group (8:8).

rulers. Lit. "shepherds," a figure often used for rulers (23:1–4).

prophets. These prophets were an official group that Jeremiah frequently opposes for their apostasy (23:9–40; 28).

And those who handle the [m]law did not know Me;
The rulers also transgressed against Me;
[n]The prophets prophesied by Baal,
And walked after things that do not profit.

9 "Therefore [o]I will yet [3]bring charges against you," says the LORD,
"And against your children's children I will bring charges.
10 For pass beyond the coasts of [4]Cyprus and see,
Send to [5]Kedar and consider diligently,
And see if there has been such a [p]thing.
11 [q]Has a nation changed its gods,
Which are [r]not gods?
[s]But My people have changed their Glory
For what does not profit.
12 Be astonished, O heavens, at this,
And be horribly afraid;
Be very desolate," says the LORD.
13 "For My people have committed two evils:
They have forsaken Me, the [t]fountain of living waters,
And hewn themselves cisterns—broken cisterns that can hold no water.

14 "Is Israel [u]a servant?
Is he a homeborn slave?
Why is he plundered?
15 [v]The young lions roared at him, and growled;
They made his land waste;
His cities are burned, without inhabitant.
16 Also the people of [6]Noph and [w]Tahpanhes
Have [7]broken the crown of your head.
17 [x]Have you not brought this on yourself,
In that you have forsaken the LORD your God
When [y]He led you in the way?
18 And now why take [z]the road to Egypt,
To drink the waters of [a]Sihor?
Or why take the road to [b]Assyria,
To drink the waters of [8]the River?
19 Your own wickedness will [c]correct you,
And your backslidings will rebuke you.
Know therefore and see that it is an evil and bitter thing
That you have forsaken the LORD your God,
And the [9]fear of Me is not in you,"
Says the Lord GOD of hosts.

20 "For of old I have [d]broken your yoke and burst your bonds;
And [e]you said, 'I will not [f]transgress,'

■ 2:9 I will yet bring charges. The courtroom metaphor is resumed (v. 5; Hos. 4:1; Mic. 6:1, 2).

■ 2:10 Cyprus . . . Kedar. These locations represent west and east respectively. The appeal takes its meaning from the special position of Israel, namely their covenant with the Lord, and Jeremiah's assertion that the nation's gods are impotent.

■ 2:12 O heavens. See also Is. 1:2. Heaven and earth serve as witnesses of the covenant (Deut. 30:19; 31:28; 32:1).

■ 2:13 two evils. Jeremiah stresses the seriousness of Judah's sin.

waters. God alone provides life-giving water (Is. 55:1; John 4:10, 7:37–39).

broken cisterns. The gods they took for themselves were useless, empty.

■ 2:15 young lions. These are Israel's enemies (4:7), announcing desolation.

■ 2:16 Noph . . . Tahpanhes. Egyptian cities. Egypt and Babylon fought over who would own Israel, 609 to 605 B.C.

crown. Possibly, a reference to Josiah, who was killed by Pharaoh Necho at the battle of Megiddo in 609 B.C. (2 Kin. 23:29).

■ 2:18 Egypt . . . Assyria. One of Israel's and Judah's besetting sins was to seek help from political alliances, rather than the Lord (Hos. 12:1).

waters. Note the boasts of the Assyrian field commander to be a more reliable provider of basic needs than the Lord (2 Kin. 18:31).

■ 2:20 high hill . . . green tree. See Deut. 12:2; 1 Kin. 14:23. These were typical sites of shrines to the gods of Canaan.

harlot. Judah is portrayed as a harlot, unfaithful to the Lord (Ezek. 23:1–8; Hos. 3:1–5; 4:10–14).

When [f]on every high hill and under every green tree
You lay down, [g]playing the harlot.
21 Yet I had [h]planted you a noble vine, a seed of highest quality.
How then have you turned before Me
Into [i]the degenerate plant of an alien vine?
22 For though you wash yourself with lye, and use much soap,
Yet your iniquity is [j]marked[2] before Me," says the Lord GOD.

23 "How[k] can you say, 'I am not [3]polluted,
I have not gone after the Baals'?
See your way in the valley;
Know what you have done:
You are a swift dromedary breaking loose in her ways,
24 A wild donkey used to the wilderness,
That sniffs at the wind in her desire;
In her time of mating, who can turn her away?
All those who seek her will not weary themselves;
In her month they will find her.
25 Withhold your foot from being unshod, and your throat from thirst.
But you said, [l]'There is no hope.
No! For I have loved [m]aliens, and after them I will go.'

26 "As the thief is ashamed when he is found out,
So is the house of Israel ashamed;
They and their kings and their princes, and their priests and their [n]prophets,
27 Saying to a tree, 'You are my father,'
And to a [o]stone, 'You gave birth to me.'
For they have turned their back to Me, and not their face.
But in the time of their [p]trouble
They will say, 'Arise and save us.'
28 But [q]where are your gods that you have made for yourselves?
Let them arise,
If they [r]can save you in the time of your [4]trouble;
For [s]according to the number of your cities
Are your gods, O Judah.

29 "Why will you plead with Me?
You all have transgressed against Me," says the LORD.
30 "In vain I have [t]chastened your children;
They [u]received no correction.
Your sword has [v]devoured your prophets
Like a destroying lion.

31 "O generation, see the word of the LORD!
Have I been a wilderness to Israel,
Or a land of darkness?
Why do My people say, 'We [5]are lords;
[w]We will come no more to You'?
32 Can a virgin forget her ornaments,

■ 2:21 noble vine . . . alien vine. The "vine" metaphor is frequently used for Israel (12:10; Ps. 80:8–16; Is. 5:1–7; Ezek. 17:1–10). Jesus Christ is the true vine, and those who abide in Him are the branches (John 15:1–8).

alien. Lit. "foreign." Foreignness here connotes pagan religious practices.

■ 2:22 wash. Sin is only effectively washed away when there is repentance toward the Lord Himself as the One who cleanses, through the blood of the everlasting covenant (Is. 53:4–6; Heb. 9:11–15; 13:20).

■ 2:23 the valley. Probably this refers to the Hinnom Valley, immediately south of Jerusalem, where abominable worship practices occurred (7:31).

dromedary. A young camel, characteristically irresolute, ready to follow any fresh impulse.

■ 2:24 wild donkey . . . desire. This metaphor is a picture of lust.

■ 2:28 your gods that . . . number of your cities. The association of gods with particular localities is a distinguishing feature of pagan religion.

■ 2:32 virgin . . . bride. Such forgetfulness is so unlikely as to be virtually impossible.

My people have forgotten Me. See Is. 1:2, 3.

Or a bride her attire?
Yet My people [x]have forgotten Me days without number.

33 "Why do you beautify your way to seek love?
Therefore you have also taught
The wicked women your ways.
34 Also on your skirts is found
[y]The blood of the lives of the poor innocents.
I have not found it by [6]secret search,
But plainly on all these things.
35 [z]Yet you say, 'Because I am innocent,
Surely His anger shall turn from me.'
Behold, [a]I will plead My case against you,
[b]Because you say, 'I have not sinned.'
36 [c]Why do you gad about so much to change your way?
Also [d]you shall be ashamed of Egypt [e]as you were ashamed of Assyria.
37 Indeed you will go forth from him
With your hands on [f]your head;
For the LORD has rejected your trusted allies,
And you will [g]not prosper by them.

Israel Is Shameless

3 "They say, 'If a man divorces his wife,
And she goes from him
And becomes another man's,
[a]May he return to her again?'
Would not that [b]land be greatly polluted?
But you have [c]played the harlot with many lovers;
[d]Yet return to Me," says the LORD.

2 "Lift up your eyes to [e]the desolate heights and see:
Where have you not [1]lain with men?
[f]By the road you have sat for them
Like an Arabian in the wilderness;
[g]And you have polluted the land
With your harlotries and your wickedness.
3 Therefore the [h]showers have been withheld,
And there has been no latter rain.
You have had a [i]harlot's forehead;
You refuse to be ashamed.
4 Will you not from this time cry to Me,
'My Father, You are [j]the guide of [k]my youth?
5 [l]Will He remain angry forever?
Will He keep it to the end?'
Behold, you have spoken and done evil things,
As you were able."

A Call to Repentance

6 The LORD said also to me in the days of Josiah the king: "Have you seen what [m]backsliding Israel has done? She has [n]gone up on every high mountain and under every green tree, and there played the harlot. 7 [o]And I said, after she had done all these things, 'Return to Me.' But she did not return. And her treacherous [p]sister Judah saw it. 8 Then I saw that [q]for all the causes for

■ 2:34 blood . . . poor. This refers to the persecution of the weak by the strong (a great theme of Amos; Amos 2:6–8; 4:1).

■ 2:37 hands on your head. A posture for captives of war.

■ 3:1 divorces his wife. The bridal metaphor (2:2) now becomes one of divorce. The underlying law is Deut. 24:1–4; the finality of divorce is the background of the argument here.

■ 3:6 Josiah the king. See Introduction: Author; Date and Occasion and note on 1:2.

Israel. The northern kingdom was destroyed in 722 B.C.

played the harlot. See "Syncretism and Idolatry" at Hos. 2:13.

■ 3:8 certificate of divorce. See note on v. 1. Israel was "divorced" by being deported by Assyria (722 B.C.), an exile from which she did not return.

which backsliding Israel had committed adultery, I had [r]put her away and given her a certificate of divorce; [s]yet her treacherous sister Judah did not fear, but went and played the harlot also. 9 So it came to pass, through her casual harlotry, that she [t]defiled the land and committed adultery with [u]stones and trees. 10 And yet for all this her treacherous sister Judah has not turned to Me [v]with her whole heart, but in pretense," says the LORD.

11 Then the LORD said to me, [w]"Backsliding Israel has shown herself more righteous than treacherous Judah. 12 Go and proclaim these words toward [x]the north, and say:

'Return, backsliding Israel,' says the LORD;
'I will not cause My anger to fall on you.
For I am [y]merciful,' says the LORD;
'I will not remain angry forever.
13 [z]Only acknowledge your iniquity.
That you have transgressed against the LORD your God,
And have [a]scattered your [2]charms
To [b]alien deities [c]under every green tree,
And you have not obeyed My voice,' says the LORD.

14 "Return, O backsliding children," says the LORD; [d]"for I am married to you. I will take you, [e]one from a city and two from a family, and I will bring you to [f]Zion. 15 And I will give you [g]shepherds according to My heart, who will [h]feed you with knowledge and understanding.

16 "Then it shall come to pass, when you are multiplied and [i]increased in the land in those days," says the LORD, "that they will say no more, 'The ark of the covenant of the LORD.' [j]It shall not come to mind, nor shall they remember it, nor shall they visit it, nor shall it be made anymore.

17 "At that time Jerusalem shall be called The Throne of the LORD, and all the nations shall be gathered to it, [k]to the name of the LORD, to Jerusalem. No more shall they [l]follow[3] the dictates of their evil hearts.

18 "In those days [m]the house of Judah shall walk with the house of Israel, and they shall come together out of the land of [n]the north to [o]the land that I have given as an inheritance to your fathers.

19 "But I said:

'How can I put you among the children
And give you [p]a pleasant land,
A beautiful heritage of the hosts of nations?'

"And I said:

'You shall call Me, [q]"My Father,"
And not turn away from Me.'
20 Surely, as a wife treacherously departs from her [4]husband,
So [r]have you dealt treacherously with Me,
O house of Israel," says the LORD.

21 A voice was heard on [s]the desolate heights,
Weeping and supplications of the children of Israel.

■ 3:9 stones and trees. This is a reference to idols. See "Syncretism and Idolatry" at Hos. 2:13.

■ 3:12 toward the north. To those already deported by Assyria.

Return, backsliding Israel. This call implies both repentance and a physical return to their territory; these two aspects go together in Jeremiah's message of salvation. See note on 29:14.

I will not remain angry forever. This statement answers the question of v. 5; cf. 31:20.

■ 3:13 scattered your charms. Another use of the prostitution metaphor; see 2:20.

■ 3:14 married to you. Lit. "I am your husband." Although Israel was bound to be faithful to God as her true "husband," Jeremiah exposes her sin of spiritual adultery, her attachment to the gods of the nations. See Hos. 2:16, 17.

take . . . one . . . two. God will save a remnant from among the exiles (23:3 note; Is. 10:20–22 note).

■ 3:16 multiplied and increased. These same words appear in reverse order in Gen. 1:28 ("Be fruitful and multiply"). God will make a new beginning with His people.

in those days. A future messianic age is now in view (cf. Is. 2:1–5).

The ark . . . shall not come to mind. The importance of the ark will be diminished because the Lord will be present in a new way.

■ 3:17 Throne. No longer is the ark the Lord's throne (Ex. 25:22; 1 Sam. 4:4), but Jerusalem itself: the Lord rules the whole earth from the midst of His people (Zech. 2:10–12).

■ 3:20 wife treacherously departs. See 3:1; Hos. 1—3.

For they have perverted their way;
They have forgotten the LORD their God.

22 "Return, you backsliding children,
And I will [t]heal your backslidings."

"Indeed we do come to You,
For You are the LORD our God.
23 [u]Truly, in vain is salvation hoped for from the hills,
And from the multitude of mountains;
[v]Truly, in the LORD our God
Is the salvation of Israel.
24 [w]For shame has devoured
The labor of our fathers from our youth—
Their flocks and their herds,
Their sons and their daughters.
25 We lie down in our shame,
And our [5]reproach covers us.
[x]For we have sinned against the LORD our God,
We and our fathers,
From our youth even to this day,
And [y]have not obeyed the voice of the LORD our God."

4 [a]"If you will return, O Israel," says the LORD,
"Return to Me;
And if you will put away your abominations out of My sight,
Then you shall not be moved.
2 [b]And you shall swear, 'The LORD lives,'
[c]In truth, in [1]judgment, and in righteousness;
[d]The nations shall bless themselves in Him,
And in Him they shall [e]glory."

3 For thus says the LORD to the men of Judah and Jerusalem:

[f]"Break up your [2]fallow ground,
And [g]do not sow among thorns.
4 [h]Circumcise yourselves to the LORD,
And take away the foreskins of your hearts,
You men of Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem,
Lest My fury come forth like fire,
And burn so that no one can quench it,
Because of the evil of your doings."

An Imminent Invasion

5 Declare in Judah and proclaim in Jerusalem, and say:

[i]"Blow the trumpet in the land;
Cry, 'Gather together,'
And say, [j]'Assemble yourselves,
And let us go into the fortified cities.'
6 Set up the [3]standard toward Zion.
Take refuge! Do not delay!
For I will bring disaster from the [k]north,
And great destruction."

6 [k]Jer. 1:13–15; 6:1, 22; 50:17 [3]banner

■ 3:22 Return . . . backsliding. This summons parallels Hos. 14:4. The call to repentance goes further: the Lord Himself will enable the people to return (Deut. 30:6).

■ 3:24 devoured . . . daughters. This loss of possessions and family is the antithesis of blessing (Deut. 7:13). Children were often sacrificed to pagan gods (7:31).

■ 4:4 Circumcise . . . hearts. The outward signs of ownership by the Lord are nothing unless they correspond to an inner reality. Only God can circumcise the heart (31:31–34; Deut. 10:16; 30:6).

■ 4:5 Blow the trumpet. A traditional method of warning (cf. Joel 2:1; Amos 3:6). Jeremiah begins to announce destruction at the hand of a foe from the north. Fear will drive country-dwellers to the cities for safety.

7 [l] The lion has come up from his thicket,
And [m] the destroyer of nations is on his way.
He has gone forth from his place
[n] To make your land desolate.
Your cities will be laid waste,
Without inhabitant.
8 For this, [o] clothe yourself with sackcloth,
Lament and wail.
For the fierce anger of the LORD
Has not turned back from us.

9 "And it shall come to pass in that day," says the LORD,
"That the heart of the king shall perish,
And the heart of the princes;
The priests shall be astonished,
And the prophets shall wonder."

10 Then I said, "Ah, Lord GOD!
[p] Surely You have greatly deceived this people and Jerusalem,
[q] Saying, 'You shall have peace,'
Whereas the sword reaches to the [4] heart."

11 At that time it will be said
To this people and to Jerusalem,
[r] "A dry wind of the desolate heights blows in the wilderness
Toward the daughter of My people—
Not to fan or to cleanse—
12 A wind too strong for these will come for Me;
Now [s] I will also speak judgment against them."

13 "Behold, he shall come up like clouds,
And [t] his chariots like a whirlwind.
[u] His horses are swifter than eagles.
Woe to us, for we are plundered!"

14 O Jerusalem, [v] wash your heart from wickedness,
That you may be saved.
How long shall your evil thoughts lodge within you?
15 For a voice declares [w] from Dan
And proclaims [5] affliction from Mount Ephraim:
16 "Make mention to the nations,
Yes, proclaim against Jerusalem,
That watchers come from a [x] far country
And raise their voice against the cities of Judah.
17 [y] Like keepers of a field they are against her all around,
Because she has been rebellious against Me," says the LORD.
18 "Your [z] ways and your doings
Have procured these things for you.
This is your wickedness,
Because it is bitter,
Because it reaches to your heart."

■ 4:8 sackcloth . . . wail. Traditional actions of indicating grief; cf. Jon. 3:5.

■ 4:9 in that day. A day of reckoning, when the things prophesied will come to pass (cf. Is. 2:11, 12).

■ 4:11 dry wind. The sirocco winds blew from across the desert and caused tremendous damage to crops.

■ 4:13 clouds . . . whirlwind . . . eagles. These comparisons drawn from nature indicate the strength and speed of the enemy.

■ 4:17 Like keepers of a field. It is as if Judah's enemies already own the land.

Sorrow for the Doomed Nation

19 O my [a]soul, my soul!
I am pained in my very heart!
My heart makes a noise in me;
I cannot hold my peace,
Because you have heard, O my soul,
The sound of the trumpet,
The alarm of war.
20 [b]Destruction upon destruction is cried,
For the whole land is plundered.
Suddenly [c]my tents are plundered,
And my curtains in a moment.
21 How long will I see the [6]standard,
And hear the sound of the trumpet?

22 "For My people are foolish,
They have not known Me.
They are [7]silly children,
And they have no understanding.
[d]They are wise to do evil,
But to do good they have no knowledge."

23 [e]I beheld the earth, and indeed it was [f]without form, and void;
And the heavens, they had no light.
24 [g]I beheld the mountains, and indeed they trembled,
And all the hills moved back and forth.
25 I beheld, and indeed there was no man,
And [h]all the birds of the heavens had fled.
26 I beheld, and indeed the fruitful land was a [i]wilderness,
And all its cities were broken down
At the presence of the LORD,
By His fierce anger.

27 For thus says the LORD:

"The whole land shall be desolate;
[j]Yet I will not make a full end.
28 For this [k]shall the earth mourn,
And [l]the heavens above be black,
Because I have spoken.
I have [m]purposed and [n]will not relent,
Nor will I turn back from it.
29 The whole city shall flee from the noise of the horsemen and bowmen.
They shall go into thickets and climb up on the rocks.
Every city shall be forsaken,
And not a man shall dwell in it.

30 "And when you are plundered,
What will you do?
Though you clothe yourself with crimson,
Though you adorn yourself with ornaments of gold,

■ 4:21 How long. This cry is common in psalms of lament (e.g., Ps. 13:1).

■ 4:22 wise. Original wickedness is strengthened by habit and practice (9:5).

■ 4:23 without form, and void . . . heavens . . . had no light. Compare Gen. 1:2, 14, 15. Creation itself is undone by His judgment.

■ 4:25 no man. The same phrase is used in Gen. 2:5. Again creation is returned to its original chaos.

■ 4:26 fruitful land . . . a wilderness. Covenant blessings are now reversed (Deut. 8:7–16).

■ 4:30 adorn yourself . . . paint. A vivid repetition of the harlot metaphor.

In vain you will make yourself fair;

They will seek your life.

31 "For I have heard a voice as of a woman in [s]labor,
The anguish as of her who brings forth her first child,
The voice of the daughter of Zion bewailing herself;
She [q]spreads her hands, saying,
'Woe is me now, for my soul is [g]weary
Because of murderers!'

The Justice of God's Judgment

5 "Run to and fro through the streets of Jerusalem;
See now and know;
And seek in her open places
[a]If you can find a man,
[b]If there is anyone who executes [l]judgment,
Who seeks the truth,
[c]And I will pardon her.
2 [d]Though they say, 'As [e]the LORD lives,' Surely they [f]swear falsely."

3 O LORD, are not [g]Your eyes on the truth?
You have [h]stricken them,
But they have not grieved;
You have consumed them,
But [i]they have refused to receive correction.
They have made their faces harder than rock;
They have refused to return.

4 Therefore I said, "Surely these are poor.
They are foolish;
For [j]they do not know the way of the LORD,
The judgment of their God.
5 I will go to the great men and speak to them,
For [k]they have known the way of the LORD,
The judgment of their God."

But these have altogether [l]broken the yoke
And burst the bonds.
6 Therefore [m]a lion from the forest shall slay them,
[n]A wolf of the deserts shall destroy them;
[o]A leopard will watch over their cities.
Everyone who goes out from there shall be torn in pieces,
Because their transgressions are many;
Their backslidings have increased.

7 "How shall I pardon you for this?
Your children have forsaken Me
And [p]sworn by those [q]that are not gods.

■ 4:31 daughter of Zion. Jerusalem is personified (Lam. 1:6 note).

Woe . . . murderers. We hear her pathetic dying breath.

■ 5:1 If you can find . . . pardon her. This search is an allusion to Abraham's prayer for Sodom (Gen. 18:22–32) and an implicit answer to Jeremiah's prayer for the city (later forbidden; 7:16). But the city is totally corrupt.

■ 5:3 made their faces harder than rock. The people's determination not to repent is the chief frustration of the prophet (cf. Ezek. 3:7–9).

■ 5:6 lion . . . wolf . . . leopard. Such breach of God's covenant brings the covenant curses on the people (Lev. 26:22).

■ 5:7 I had fed them . . . adultery. The motive for following false gods was the delusion that the gods of the land of Canaan had the power to make it fertile. The Lord claims the land's fertility as His own sphere (Hos. 2:8, 9 notes).

[r]When I had fed them to the full,
Then they committed adultery
And assembled themselves by troops in the harlots' houses.
8 [s]They were like well-fed lusty stallions;
Every one neighed after his neighbor's wife.
9 Shall I not punish them for these things?" says the LORD.
"And shall I not [t]avenge Myself on such a nation as this?

10 "Go up on her walls and destroy,
But do not [2]make a [u]complete end.
Take away her branches,
For they are not the LORD's.
11 For [v]the house of Israel and the house of Judah
Have dealt very treacherously with Me," says the LORD.

12 [w]They have lied about the LORD,
And said, [x]"It is not He.
[y]Neither will [3]evil come upon us,
Nor shall we see sword or famine.
13 And the prophets become wind,
For the word is not in them.
Thus shall it be done to them."

14 Therefore thus says the LORD God of hosts:

"Because you speak this word,
[z]Behold, I will make My words in your mouth fire,
And this people wood,
And it shall devour them.
15 Behold, I will bring a [a]nation against you [b]from afar,
O house of Israel," says the LORD.
"It is a mighty nation,
It is an ancient nation,
A nation whose language you do not know,
Nor can you understand what they say.
16 Their quiver is like an open tomb;
They are all mighty men.
17 And they shall eat up your [c]harvest and your bread,
Which your sons and daughters should eat.
They shall eat up your flocks and your herds;
They shall eat up your vines and your fig trees;
They shall destroy your fortified cities,
In which you trust, with the sword.

18 "Nevertheless in those days," says the LORD, "I [d]will not [4]make a complete end of you.
19 And it will be when you say, [e]'Why does the LORD our God do all these things to us?' then you shall answer them, 'Just as you have [f]forsaken Me and served foreign gods in your land, so [g]you shall serve aliens in a land that is not yours.'

■ 5:8 lusty stallions . . . neighed. Religious prostitution slips over into actual adultery. See a similar description in 2:23, 24.

■ 5:9 Shall I not. Again the courtroom metaphor is used; an appeal to witnesses is implied. The Lord's justice must be accomplished.

■ 5:10 not . . . complete end. This hint that punishment will not be final is one of several such clues in the early part of the book (12:14–17; 16:14, 15; and 23:3 note).

are not the LORD's. In the same breath Judah's covenant status is annulled (Hos. 1:9 note). The apparently irreconcilable needs of judgment and salvation are both evident here.

■ 5:12 They have lied. Wrong belief about God is related to every kind of untruth (9:3–6).

It is not He . . . famine. These words summarize the message of the false prophets. See 28:2–4.

■ 5:13 wind. Jeremiah counters that those false prophets who claim to have the Spirit (Hebrew ruah) are but wind (also ruah).

■ 5:17 eat . . . eat . . . eat. That Judah's enemies will consume the bounty of the land is a reversal of covenant blessing. See Deut. 7:13 for the promise of the very things now to be lost.

20 "Declare this in the house of Jacob
And proclaim it in Judah, saying,
21 'Hear this now, O [h]foolish people,
Without [5]understanding,
Who have eyes and see not,
And who have ears and hear not:
22 [i]Do you not fear Me?' says the LORD.
'Will you not tremble at My presence,
Who have placed the sand as the [j]bound of the sea,
By a perpetual decree, that it cannot pass beyond it?
And though its waves toss to and fro,
Yet they cannot prevail;
Though they roar, yet they cannot pass over it.
23 But this people has a defiant and rebellious heart;
They have revolted and departed.
24 They do not say in their heart,
"Let us now fear the LORD our God,
[k]Who gives rain, both the [l]former and the latter, in its season.
[m]He reserves for us the appointed weeks of the harvest."
25 [n]Your iniquities have turned these things away,
And your sins have withheld good from you.

26 'For among My people are found wicked men;
They [o]lie in wait as one who sets snares;
They set a trap;
They catch men.
27 As a cage is full of birds,
So their houses are full of deceit.
Therefore they have become great and grown rich.
28 They have grown [p]fat, they are sleek;
Yes, they [6]surpass the deeds of the wicked;
They do not plead [q]the cause,
The cause of the fatherless;
[r]Yet they prosper,
And the right of the needy they do not defend.
29 [s]Shall I not punish them for these things?' says the LORD.
'Shall I not avenge Myself on such a nation as this?'

30 "An astonishing and [t]horrible thing
Has been committed in the land:
31 The prophets prophesy [u]falsely,
And the priests rule by their own power;
And My people [v]love to have it so.
But what will you do in the end?

■ 5:21 foolish. See Prov. 1:7.

Who have eyes . . . hear not. See note on Is. 6:10.

■ 5:22 Do you not fear. Jeremiah argues from God's power in creation (Job 38—41; Rom. 1:18–20).

■ 5:26 wicked men . . . catch men. The nature of wickedness is to entice even the innocent into it. Prov. 2:12–19 describes its blandishments.

■ 5:27, 28 become great and grown rich. Jeremiah moves from specifically religious sins to social evils, for the two are closely related.

fat . . . sleek. This description symbolizes self-centered wealth, cf. Ps. 73:7.

fatherless . . . needy. Ps. 9:18 note.

■ 6:1 Benjamin. This territory bordering Jerusalem to the north was part of the southern kingdom of Judah.

Tekoa. A city in Judah, the home of Amos (Amos 1:1).

Beth Haccerem. An unknown location in Judah.

north. See note on 1:14.

And set up a signal-fire in [a]Beth Haccerem;
[b]For disaster appears out of the north,
And great destruction.
2 I have likened the daughter of Zion
To a lovely and delicate woman.
3 The [c]shepherds with their flocks shall come to her.
They shall pitch their tents against her all around.
Each one shall pasture in his own place."

4 "Prepare[d] war against her;
Arise, and let us go up [e]at noon.
Woe to us, for the day goes away,
For the shadows of the evening are lengthening.
5 Arise, and let us go by night,
And let us destroy her palaces."

6 For thus has the LORD of hosts said:

"Cut down trees,
And build a mound against Jerusalem.
This is the city to be punished.
She is full of oppression in her midst.
7 [f]As a fountain [1]wells up with water,
So she wells up with her wickedness.
[g]Violence and plundering are heard in her.
Before Me continually are [2]grief and wounds.
8 Be instructed, O Jerusalem,
Lest [h]My soul depart from you;
Lest I make you desolate,
A land not inhabited."

9 Thus says the LORD of hosts:

"They shall thoroughly glean as a vine the remnant of Israel;
As a grape-gatherer, put your hand back into the branches."

10 To whom shall I speak and give warning,
That they may hear?
Indeed their [i]ear is uncircumcised,
And they cannot give heed.
Behold, [j]the word of the LORD is a reproach to them;
They have no delight in it.
11 Therefore I am full of the fury of the LORD.
[k]I am weary of holding it in.
"I will pour it out [l]on the children outside,
And on the assembly of young men together;
For even the husband shall be taken with the wife,
The aged with him who is full of days.

■ 6:2 daughter of Zion . . . lovely and delicate. See note on 2:2. Though a personification of Jerusalem (4:31 note), the simile has in mind the city's refined women (Is. 3:16–26).

■ 6:3 shepherds with their flocks. These "shepherds" are enemy officers with their troops, taking possession of the land (cf. 4:15).

■ 6:4, 5 at noon . . . by night. These are unusual times to attack: the enemy's strength is such that he is free to attack whenever he likes.

■ 6:6 A new oracle is addressed to the Babylonians, the Lord's instrument of judgment.

oppression. The rich and powerful of Jerusalem have oppressed their own people.

■ 6:7 wells up . . . wickedness. Judah cannot help pouring out her wickedness, because that is her true nature (cf. Matt. 7:16).

■ 6:9 thoroughly glean . . . the remnant. Farmers were not supposed to glean everything, but to leave something behind for the poor (Deut. 24:19–22); Babylon, however, may "glean" Judah completely (contrast 5:10). The Lord has deeper purposes behind the permission He gives (23:3 note). The curse was not absolute, for God did spare a remnant to fulfill His covenant of redemption (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes). See note on 11:23.

12 And [m]their houses shall be turned over to others,
Fields and wives together;
For I will stretch out My hand
Against the inhabitants of the land," says the LORD.
13 "Because from the least of them even to the greatest of them,
Everyone is given to [n]covetousness;
And from the prophet even to the [o]priest,
Everyone deals falsely.
14 They have also [p]healed the [3]hurt of My people [4]slightly,
[q]Saying, 'Peace, peace!'
When there is no peace.
15 Were they [r]ashamed when they had committed abomination?
No! They were not at all ashamed;
Nor did they know how to blush.
Therefore they shall fall among those who fall;
At the time I punish them,
They shall be cast down," says the LORD.

16 Thus says the LORD:

"Stand in the ways and see,
And ask for the [s]old paths, where the good way is,
And walk in it;
Then you will find [t]rest for your souls.
But they said, 'We will not walk in it.'
17 Also, I set [u]watchmen over you, saying,
[v]'Listen to the sound of the trumpet!'
But they said, 'We will not listen.'
18 Therefore hear, you nations,
And know, O congregation, what is among them.
19 [w]Hear, O earth!
Behold, I will certainly bring [x]calamity on this people—
[y]The fruit of their thoughts,
Because they have not heeded My words
Nor My law, but rejected it.
20 [z]For what purpose to Me
Comes frankincense [a]from Sheba,
And [b]sweet cane from a far country?
[c]Your burnt offerings are not acceptable,
Nor your sacrifices sweet to Me."

21 Therefore thus says the LORD:

"Behold, I will lay stumbling blocks before this people,
And the fathers and the sons together shall fall on them.
The neighbor and his friend shall perish."

22 Thus says the LORD:

"Behold, a people comes from the [d]north country,
And a great nation will be raised from the farthest parts of the earth.

■ 6:14 Peace. More than absence of war, it is individual and social well-being that is the consequence of covenant-keeping.

Peace, peace. The easily welcomed message of false prophets cannot bring true peace (Mic. 2:6), whose counterpart is righteousness.

■ 6:16 old paths. This figure describes the traditional religious life of the Israelites from the time of Moses.

■ 6:20 frankincense . . . sweet cane. These were expensive ingredients used in religious rituals (Ex. 30:23–38).

burnt offerings are not acceptable. This indictment is important in the psalms and prophets (Ps. 40:6–8; Is. 1:11–15; Mic. 6:6–8). See Matt. 23:23.

Our hands grow feeble.

Trusting in Lying Words

7 The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD, saying, 2 [a]"Stand in the gate of the LORD's house, and proclaim there this word, and say, 'Hear the word of the LORD, all you of Judah who enter in at these gates to worship the LORD!' " 3 Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: [b]"Amend your ways and your doings, and I will cause you to dwell in this place. 4 [c]Do not trust in these lying words, saying, 'The temple of the LORD, the temple of the LORD, the temple of the LORD are these.'

5 "For if you thoroughly amend your ways and your doings, if you thoroughly [d]execute [1]judgment between a man and his neighbor, 6 if you do not oppress the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow, and do not shed innocent blood in this place, [e]or walk after other gods to your hurt, 7 [f]then I will cause you to dwell in this place, in [g]the land that I gave to your fathers forever and ever.

8 "Behold, you trust in [h]lying words that cannot profit. 9 [i]Will you steal, murder, commit adultery, swear falsely, burn incense to Baal, and [j]walk after other gods whom you do not know,

■ 6:23 lay hold on bow and spear . . . on horses. See the description of Babylon in Hab. 1:6–11. Though the Babylonians are God's instrument, He does not approve their cruelty.

■ 6:27 assayer. Elsewhere in the book, the Lord Himself is the One who tests both the people (9:7; 17:10; 20:12) and Jeremiah (11:20; 12:3). The prophet acts as God's agent here.

■ 6:29, 30 lead . . . silver. Lead was used in the process of refining silver. The process of refining Judah has yielded nothing of value.

■ 7:2 gate. Probably this is the gate leading to the inner court of the temple. Jeremiah stands in the central place of Judah's worship to proclaim its falsehood. The power of this action is heightened by his being himself a priest.

all you of Judah . . . to worship the LORD. Possibly this prophecy was delivered on one of the great annual feasts (Ex. 23:14–18), when all Israel was required to be present.

■ 7:3 this place. The Promised Land. The force of Jeremiah's appeal here, perhaps a shock to complacent Judah, was that they could not take the land for granted.

■ 7:4 lying words . . . The temple of the LORD. The repetition gives emphasis. The hypocrisy of their professed trust in the Lord and His temple is exposed at its lowest ebb.

■ 7:5, 6 if you . . . to your hurt. The conditional language echoes the Mosaic covenant (Deut. 14:28, 29; Deut. 13:1–3).

shed innocent blood. This plea is not an exaggeration (19:4).

■ 7:9 Will you steal. Notice the allusion to five of the Ten Commandments (compare Hos. 4:2), with a climactic stress on the first (Ex. 20:3).

10 [k]and then come and stand before Me in this house [l]which is called by My name, and say, 'We are delivered to do all these abominations'? 11 Has [m]this house, which is called by My name, become a [n]den of thieves in your eyes? Behold, I, even I, have seen it," says the LORD.

12 "But go now to [o]My place which was in Shiloh, [p]where I set My name at the first, and see [q]what I did to it because of the wickedness of My people Israel. 13 And now, because you have done all these works," says the LORD, "and I spoke to you, [r]rising up early and speaking, but you did not hear, and I [s]called you, but you did not answer, 14 therefore I will do to the house which is called by My name, in which you trust, and to this place which I gave to you and your fathers, as I have done to [t]Shiloh. 15 And I will cast you out of My sight, [u]as I have cast out all your brethren—[v]the whole posterity of Ephraim.

16 "Therefore [w]do not pray for this people, nor lift up a cry or prayer for them, nor make intercession to Me; [x]for I will not hear you. 17 Do you not see what they do in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem? 18 [y]The children gather wood, the fathers kindle the fire, and the women knead dough, to make cakes for the queen of heaven; and they [z]pour out drink offerings to other gods, that they may provoke Me to anger. 19 [a]Do they provoke Me to anger?" says the LORD. "Do they not provoke themselves, to the shame of their own faces?"

20 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: "Behold, My anger and My fury will be poured out on this place—on man and on beast, on the trees of the field and on the fruit of the ground. And it will burn and not be quenched."

21 Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: [b]"Add your burnt offerings to your sacrifices and eat meat. 22 [c]For I did not speak to your fathers, or command them in the day that I brought them out of the land of Egypt, concerning burnt offerings or sacrifices. 23 But this is what I commanded them, saying, [d]'Obey My voice, and [e]I will be your God, and you shall be My people. And walk in all the ways that I have commanded you, that it may be well with you.' 24 [f]Yet they did not obey or incline their ear, but [g]followed[2] the counsels and the [3]dictates of their evil hearts, and [h]went[4] backward and not forward. 25 Since the day that your fathers came out of the land of Egypt until this day, I have even [i]sent to you all My servants the prophets, daily rising up early and sending them. 26 [j]Yet they did not obey Me or incline their ear, but [k]stiffened their neck. [l]They did worse than their fathers.

27 "Therefore [m]you shall speak all these words to them, but they will not obey you. You shall also call to them, but they will not answer you.

Judgment on Obscene Religion

28 "So you shall say to them, 'This is a nation that does not obey the voice of the LORD their God [n]nor receive correction. [o]Truth has perished and has been cut off from their mouth. 29 [p]Cut off your hair and cast it away, and take up a lamentation on the desolate heights; for the LORD has rejected and forsaken the generation of His wrath.' 30 For the children of Judah have done evil in My sight," says the LORD. [q]"They have set their abominations in the house which is called by My name, to [5]pollute it. 31 And they have built the [r]high places of Tophet, which is in

■ 7:10 this house which is called by My name. See Deut. 12:5; 1 Kin. 8:43, where the "place" is identified as the Jerusalem temple.

delivered. False worship yields false security.

■ 7:12 Shiloh . . . My name. Shiloh was a central place of worship for all Israel before David made Jerusalem the capital (Josh. 18:1; 1 Sam. 1:9). Now that Shiloh was no more (probably destroyed by the Philistines), it was a good proof of Jeremiah's point that even a place where the Lord had made His name to dwell was not immune to His judgment.

■ 7:13 you did not hear. This is an important theme in the book (6:17; 11:7, 8; 25:3; cf. 2 Kin. 17:13, 14).

■ 7:16 Therefore do not pray. Such prohibition is ominous because one of the prophetic roles was to intercede (Abraham served as an intercessor, Gen. 20:7; and Moses, Ex. 32:11–14). The prohibition is repeated at 11:14 (compare 15:1; 1 John 5:16).

■ 7:18 children . . . fathers . . . women. A picture of the universal hold idolatry had on the people.

queen of heaven. A Babylonian name for the goddess Ishtar (44:19, 25).

■ 7:20 on man and on beast . . . fruit of the ground. Breakdown in the relationship between God and His people affects all creation (see Hos. 2:18).

■ 7:21–23 burnt offerings . . . sacrifices. Sacrifices without the inner worship of the heart were of no interest to God; the people might as well eat the sacrifices themselves if they offered them that way. This prophetic condemnation of empty ritual is all the more remarkable because the sacrificial system revealed to Moses was still in force. Jeremiah is not alone in speaking this way; see 1 Sam. 15:23; Is. 1:11–15; Hos. 6:6; Amos 5:21–25; Mic. 6:6–8.

■ 7:24 followed . . . their evil hearts. This portrayal of Judah strongly suggests a native disposition towards evil in the human heart.

■ 7:29 Cut off your hair. This command is in the grammatical feminine, and personifies Jerusalem as a woman (2:1); the shaving of her head is a sign of mourning or humility.

■ 7:30 in the house. This verse is evidence of the presence of a foreign cult in the temple itself, as under Manasseh (2 Kin. 21:7). Josiah had removed the abomination, but it had returned, possibly in the time of Jehoiakim (Introduction: Author; Date and Occasion). Ezekiel also knows of such defilement (Ezek. 8:3–12). Such practices explain Jeremiah's reference to Judah's persistent rebelliousness.

■ 7:31 high places. The usual name for pagan cult centers (2 Kin. 23:8, 9).

the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, to [s]burn their sons and their daughters in the fire, [t]which I did not command, nor did it come into My heart.

32 "Therefore behold, [u]the days are coming," says the LORD, "when it will no more be called Tophet, or the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, but the Valley of Slaughter; [v]for they will bury in Tophet until there is no room. 33 The [w]corpses of this people will be food for the birds of the heaven and for the beasts of the earth. And no one will frighten them away. 34 Then I will cause to [x]cease from the cities of Judah and from the streets of Jerusalem the voice of mirth and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride. For [y]the land shall be desolate.

8 "At that time," says the LORD, "they shall bring out the bones of the kings of Judah, and the bones of its princes, and the bones of the priests, and the bones of the prophets, and the bones of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, out of their graves. 2 They shall spread them before the sun and the moon and all the host of heaven, which they have loved and which they have served and after which they have walked, which they have sought and [a]which they have worshiped. They shall not be gathered [b]nor buried; they shall be like refuse on the face of the earth. 3 Then [c]death shall be chosen rather than life by all the [l]residue of those who remain of this evil family, who remain in all the places where I have driven them," says the LORD of hosts.

The Peril of False Teaching

4 "Moreover you shall say to them, 'Thus says the LORD:

"Will they fall and not rise?
Will one turn away and not return?
5 Why has this people [d]slidden back,
Jerusalem, in a perpetual backsliding?
[e]They hold fast to deceit,
[f]They refuse to return.
6 [g]I listened and heard,
But they do not speak aright.
[h]No man repented of his wickedness,
Saying, 'What have I done?'
Everyone turned to his own course,
As the horse rushes into the battle.

7 "Even [i]the stork in the heavens
Knows her appointed times;
And the turtledove, the swift, and the swallow
Observe the time of their coming.
But [j]My people do not know the judgment of the LORD.

8 "How can you say, 'We are wise,
[k]And the law of the LORD is with us'?
Look, the false pen of the scribe certainly works falsehood.
9 [l]The wise men are ashamed,
They are dismayed and taken.
Behold, they have rejected the word of the LORD;
So [m]what wisdom do they have?
10 Therefore [n]I will give their wives to others,

Tophet. Lit. "place of fire." This was in the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, where children were sacrificed to the foreign god Molech. Offering the firstborn child was practiced in the ancient world, but in Israel the firstborn child was to be "redeemed" by substituting an animal for sacrifice (Ex. 13:2; 34:19, 20). Child sacrifice was expressly forbidden (Lev. 18:21; 20:2–5). See also 2 Kin. 23:10 and note.

Valley of the Son of Hinnom. Southwest of Jerusalem; its equivalent name in Greek is Gehenna, or "hell" (Matt. 5:22 note).

■ 7:33 corpses. See 1 Kin. 14:11 and note. Exhuming remains (8:1) inflicted an even greater dishonor (2 Kin. 23:16, 18) than leaving a corpse exposed to scavengers.

■ 8:2 spread them before the sun . . . moon . . . host of heaven. The irony in this curse is that they worshiped these heavenly bodies (2 Kin. 21:3–5). Is. 40:25, 26 declares the Creator to be greater than these created things.

■ 8:6 turned. Instead of turning away from their sins, they turned toward them in a headlong rush.

■ 8:8 wise . . . scribe. The wise are a group, perhaps the same group as the "scribes." See 2 Sam. 8:17; Ezra 7:6 and notes.

■ 8:9 The wise . . . what wisdom. Unlike the wisdom expounded in Proverbs, the wisdom of these scribes is empty, having no real knowledge of the Lord's word. See Deut. 4:6.

Because we have sinned against the LORD.

The city and those who dwell in it."

17 "For behold, I will send serpents among you,
Vipers which cannot be [a]charmed,
And they shall bite you," says the LORD.

The Prophet Mourns for the People

My heart is faint in me.
19 Listen! The voice,
The cry of the daughter of my people
From [b]a far country:
"Is not the LORD in Zion?
Is not her King in her?"

"Why have they provoked Me to anger
With their carved images—
With foreign idols?"

■ 8:13 No grapes . . . on the vine. The vine symbolizes Judah (2:21). However, the language also suggests a loss of fertility, a blessing of God that the people had attributed to other gods (Hos. 2:8, 9).

■ 8:14 Assemble yourselves. The word is the same as for "consuming" the harvest in v. 13 (see text note). Ironically, what they intend as a gathering for safety will be a gathering for judgment.

■ 8:17 serpents . . . Vipers. This may be taken literally, as a kind of plague (compare the "water of gall," v. 14; Num. 21:6), or as a figure of speech for the enemy.

■ 8:18 I would comfort myself in sorrow. The Hebrew in this phrase is problematic. Possibly it means "my grief has overwhelmed me."

20 "The harvest is past,
The summer is ended,
And we are not saved!"

21 [c]For the hurt of the daughter of my people I am hurt.
I am [d]mourning;
Astonishment has taken hold of me.
22 Is there no [e]balm in Gilead,
Is there no physician there?
Why then is there no recovery
For the health of the daughter of my people?

9 Oh, [a]that my head were waters,
And my eyes a fountain of tears,
That I might weep day and night
For the slain of the daughter of my people!
2 Oh, that I had in the wilderness
A lodging place for travelers;
That I might leave my people,
And go from them!
For [b]they are all adulterers,
An assembly of treacherous men.

3 "And like their bow [c]they have bent their tongues for lies.
They are not valiant for the truth on the earth.
For they proceed from [d]evil to evil,
And they [e]do not know Me," says the LORD.
4 "Everyone[f] take heed to his [1]neighbor,
And do not trust any brother;
For every brother will utterly supplant,
And every neighbor will [g]walk with slanderers.
5 Everyone will [h]deceive his neighbor,
And will not speak the truth;
They have taught their tongue to speak lies;
They weary themselves to commit iniquity.
6 Your dwelling place is in the midst of deceit;
Through deceit they refuse to know Me," says the LORD.

7 Therefore thus says the LORD of hosts:

"Behold, [i]I will refine them and [2]try them;
[j]For how shall I deal with the daughter of My people?
8 Their tongue is an arrow shot out;
It speaks [k]deceit;
One speaks [l]peaceably to his neighbor with his mouth,
But [3]in his heart he [4]lies in wait.
9 [m]Shall I not punish them for these things?" says the LORD.
"Shall I not avenge Myself on such a nation as this?"

■ 8:22 no balm in Gilead. Gilead was known for its medicinal products (46:11).

no physician . . . no recovery. For the healing metaphor, and false healers, see 8:11. The desire for a physician is an appeal to God as such; He will come at the right time in the Person of Christ, the Great Physician (30:17; cf. Luke 4:18, 19).

■ 9:1 That I might weep. Jeremiah's sympathy for the people will be shared later by Jesus (Luke 19:41).

■ 9:3 like their bow . . . their tongues. This is a military simile; their bow is falsehood, and they go out wielding it, as if to battle.

says the LORD. God concurs in Jeremiah's estimation of the moral condition of the people (vv. 1, 2). The Lord's attitude is expressed through the prophet.

■ 9:8 peaceably. Such peace (Hebrew shalom) would be a true basis for society, and a product of covenant faithfulness; its opposite is falsehood, unfortunately the actual basis of the society.

10 I will take up a weeping and wailing for the mountains,
And [n]for the [5]dwelling places of the wilderness a lamentation,
Because they are burned up,
So that no one can pass through;
Nor can men hear the voice of the cattle.
[o]Both the birds of the heavens and the beasts have fled;
They are gone.

11 "I will make Jerusalem [p]a heap of ruins, [q]a den of jackals.
I will make the cities of Judah desolate, without an inhabitant."

12 [r]Who is the wise man who may understand this? And who is he to whom the mouth of the LORD has spoken, that he may declare it? Why does the land perish and burn up like a wilderness, so that no one can pass through?

13 And the LORD said, "Because they have forsaken My law which I set before them, and have [s]not obeyed My voice, nor walked according to it, 14 but they have [t]walked according to the [6]dictates of their own hearts and after the Baals, [u]which their fathers taught them," 15 therefore thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: "Behold, I will [v]feed them, this people, [w]with wormwood, and give them [7]water of gall to drink. 16 I will [x]scatter them also among the Gentiles, whom neither they nor their fathers have known. [y]And I will send a sword after them until I have consumed them."

The People Mourn in Judgment

17 Thus says the LORD of hosts:

"Consider and call for [z]the mourning women,
That they may come;
And send for skillful wailing women,
That they may come.
18 Let them make haste
And take up a wailing for us,
That [a]our eyes may run with tears,
And our eyelids gush with water.
19 For a voice of wailing is heard from Zion:
'How we are plundered!
We are greatly ashamed,
Because we have forsaken the land,
Because we have been cast out of [b]our dwellings.' "

20 Yet hear the word of the LORD, O women,
And let your ear receive the word of His mouth;
Teach your daughters wailing,
And everyone her neighbor a lamentation.
21 For death has come through our windows,
Has entered our palaces,
To kill off [c]the children—[8]no longer to be outside!
And the young men—[9]no longer on the streets!

22 Speak, "Thus says the LORD:

'Even the carcasses of men shall fall [d]as refuse on the open field,
Like cuttings after the harvester,
And no one shall gather them.' "

■ 9:10 I will take up a weeping. Jeremiah weeps particularly for the desolation of the land God had given His people to be rich and populated, but which is desolate. See Mic. 1:8.

■ 9:11 a den of jackals. The lack of inhabitants marks the curse on the land in this common theme (Ps. 44:19; Is. 13:21, 22).

■ 9:12 wise . . . understand. This language is reminiscent of the concept of wisdom as God-given knowledge (Prov. 1:2–5). The idea of wisdom as a recommendation of Israel among the nations (Deut. 4:6) has now been overturned.

■ 9:13 which I set before them. See Deut. 4:8.

■ 9:17 mourning women. The weeping theme is taken up again (vv. 1, 10), with the Old Testament's clearest allusion to professional wailing women, employed to lead in mourning for the dead (Amos 5:16).

■ 9:21 death. The actions of death are poetically personified.

Idols and the True God

10 Hear the word which the LORD speaks to you, O house of Israel.
2 Thus says the LORD:

True Knowledge of God

In 1 Tim. 6:20–21 Paul warns Timothy against "what is falsely called knowledge—by professing it some have strayed concerning the faith." Paul's attack is against religious tendencies that developed into Gnosticism in the second century A.D. Teachers of such ideas told believers to see their Christian commitment as only a first step along the road to "knowledge" (gnosis in Greek), and urged them to take more steps along that road. These teachers viewed the material order as worthless and considered the body to be a prison for the soul. Their answer to human spiritual need was illumination, that is, to attain a certain "knowledge" reserved for the few. They denied that sin was part of the problem, and the "knowledge" they offered made use of celestial passwords and disciplines of mysticism and detachment. To them, Jesus was a supernatural teacher, but a human being only in appearance; they denied the Incarnation and the Atonement. They replaced Christ's call to a life of holy love with asceticism or licentiousness. Paul's letters to Timothy (1 Tim. 1:3–4; 4:1–7; 6:20–21; 2 Tim. 3:1–9); Jude 4, 8–19; 2 Pet. 2, and the first two letters of John (1 John 1:5–10; 2:9–11, 18–29; 3:7–10; 4:1–6; 5:1–12; 2 John 7–11) explicitly oppose beliefs and practices that would later be recognized as Gnosticism.

By contrast, Scripture speaks of "knowing" God as the spiritual person's ideal: namely, the fullness of a faith relationship that brings salvation and eternal life, generating love, hope, obedience, and joy (Ex. 33:13; Jer. 31:34; 8:8–12); Dan. 11:32; John 17:3; Gal. 4:8, 9; Phil. 3:8–11; 2 Tim. 1:12; Heb. 8:8–12). The dimensions of this knowledge are intellectual (knowing the truth about God; Deut. 7:9; Ps. 100:3); volitional (trusting, obeying, and worshiping God); and moral (practicing justice and love; Jer. 22:16; 1 John 4:7–8). Faith's knowledge focuses on Jesus Christ, the incarnate God and the mediator between God and man. Faith seeks specifically to know Christ and His power (Phil. 3:8–14). The knowledge fostered by God's covenant agreement with us is reciprocal, with affection on both sides: we know God as ours because He knows us as His (John 10:14; Gal. 4:9; 2 Tim. 2:19). □

■ 9:24 See theological note "True Knowledge of God."

understands and knows Me. See v. 12, which introduced the idea of wisdom into this chapter. In the end wisdom is knowing God, not abstractly, but personally.

lovingkindness, judgment, and righteousness. These three characteristic qualities of the Lord are revealed and exercised in the covenant.

■ 9:25, 26 circumcised with the uncircumcised. See 4:4. Israel is outwardly circumcised, but inwardly uncircumcised. The surrounding nations practiced circumcision, but not as a covenant sign of belonging to the Lord. Because Israel and Judah are uncircumcised in their hearts, they are effectively in the same condition as the nations. See Rom. 2:25–29; 4:9–12; 9:8; Gal. 5:6; 6:15.

■ 10:2 dismayed. Terror characterizes the worship of false gods.

[a]"Do not learn the way of the Gentiles;
Do not be dismayed at the signs of heaven,
For the Gentiles are dismayed at them.
3 For the customs of the peoples are [1]futile;
For [b]one cuts a tree from the forest,
The work of the hands of the workman, with the ax.
4 They decorate it with silver and gold;
They [c]fasten it with nails and hammers
So that it will not topple.
5 They are upright, like a palm tree,
And [d]they cannot speak;
They must be [e]carried,
Because they cannot go by themselves.
Do not be afraid of them,
For [f]they cannot do evil,
Nor can they do any good."

6 Inasmuch as there is none [g]like You, O LORD
(You are great, and Your name is great in might),
7 [h]Who would not fear You, O King of the nations?
For this is Your rightful due.
For [i]among all the wise men of the nations,
And in all their kingdoms,
There is none like You.
8 But they are altogether [j]dull-hearted and foolish;
A wooden idol is a [2]worthless doctrine.
9 Silver is beaten into plates;
It is brought from Tarshish,
And [k]gold from Uphaz,
The work of the craftsman
And of the hands of the metalsmith;
Blue and purple are their clothing;
They are all [l]the work of skillful men.
10 But the LORD is the true God;
He is [m]the living God and the [n]everlasting King.
At His wrath the earth will tremble,
And the nations will not be able to endure His indignation.

11 Thus you shall say to them: [o]"The gods that have not made the heavens and the earth [p]shall perish from the earth and from under these heavens."

12 He [q]has made the earth by His power,
He has [r]established the world by His wisdom,
And [s]has stretched out the heavens at His discretion.

Worship of heavenly bodies (8:2 and note) carries with it special fears because of unusual phenomena. A biblical understanding of creation takes away these fears, accepting such phenomena as God's created order (Gen. 1; Is. 40:26).

■ 10:3 futile. This word, used elsewhere by Jeremiah for idols (cf. v. 8), conveys their emptiness (2:5).

■ 10:4 silver and gold. Although some idols were cast in precious metals (Ex. 32:4; Neh. 9:18), more often they were carved out of wood and decorated with gold or silver as described here (Is. 40:18–20). The most common household idols were molded from clay and fired like pottery (Judg. 18:17; Is. 30:22; 42:17).

■ 10:7 fear. The biblical fear of God involves more than the dread of God's judgment. It includes awe, reverence, and adoration in response to God's majesty and holiness (Ps. 2:11, 12).

O King. This appellation counters claims to kingship by false deities, such as Bel Marduk in Babylon (cf. Is. 46:1; 43:15).

wise men. Their wisdom is contrasted with the Lord's (v. 12).

■ 10:8 dull-hearted . . . foolish . . . worthless doctrine. The language is like that of wisdom literature.

■ 10:9 Tarshish . . . Uphaz. The former is in Spain; Uphaz has not been identified.

■ 10:10 true . . . living God. See Deut. 5:26.

everlasting King. See note on v. 7; also Ex. 15:18; 2 Sam. 7:13. The eternity of God's kingdom is affirmed, even though the house of David is about to come to its historical end.

wrath . . . indignation. Cf. Ps. 97:5.

■ 10:12 power . . . wisdom . . . discretion. The power of the true God in creation is appealed to again in the argument against foreign gods. For creation by God's wisdom, see Prov. 8:22–31, a passage that foreshadows Christ as the pre-existent wisdom of God (Col. 1:15; 2:3).

13 [t]When He utters His voice,
There is a [3]multitude of waters in the heavens:
[u]"And He causes the vapors to ascend from the ends of the earth.
He makes lightning for the rain,
He brings the wind out of His treasuries."

14 [v]Everyone is [w]dull-hearted, without knowledge;
[x]Every metalsmith is put to shame by an image;
[y]For his molded image is falsehood,
And there is no breath in them.
15 They are futile, a work of errors;
In the time of their punishment they shall perish.
16 [z]The Portion of Jacob is not like them,
For He is the Maker of all things,
And [a]Israel is the tribe of His inheritance;
[b]The LORD of hosts is His name.

The Coming Captivity of Judah

17 [c]Gather up your wares from the land,
O [4]inhabitant of the fortress!

18 For thus says the LORD:

"Behold, I will [d]throw out at this time
The inhabitants of the land,
And will distress them,
[e]That they may find it so."

19 [f]Woe is me for my hurt!
My wound is severe.
But I say, [g]"Truly this is an infirmity,
And [h]I must bear it."
20 [i]My tent is plundered,
And all my cords are broken;
My children have gone from me,
And they are [j]no more.
There is no one to pitch my tent anymore,
Or set up my curtains.

21 For the shepherds have become dull-hearted,
And have not sought the LORD;
Therefore they shall not prosper,
And all their flocks shall be [k]scattered.
22 Behold, the noise of the report has come,
And a great commotion out of the [l]north country,
To make the cities of Judah desolate, a [m]den of jackals.

23 O LORD, I know the [n]way of man is not in himself;
It is not in man who walks to direct his own steps.
24 O LORD, [o]correct me, but with justice;
Not in Your anger, lest You bring me to nothing.

■ 10:13 When He utters . . . out of His treasuries. See Ps. 29:3, 4; 135:5–7. The Lord's control of the rain directly counters claims made for the Canaanite god Baal (see 1 Kin. 17:1).

■ 10:16 Portion of Jacob . . . His inheritance. For the Lord as one's portion or inheritance see Num. 18:20; Ps. 16:5. Originally this referred specifically to the Levites, but later it is used more broadly to describe what God promised Israel in His covenant with them.

■ 10:19 Woe is me . . . severe. See Jeremiah's cry in 4:19–21. The medical metaphor is a favorite in Jeremiah (6:7; 14:17; 30:12, 13, 15, 17).

■ 10:20 My children have gone. The sorrows of losing children fill in the picture of the desolation of exile (16:3–5).

■ 10:23 I know . . . his own steps. This thought is found also in the wisdom literature (Prov. 16:9).

The Broken Covenant

11 The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD, saying, 2 "Hear the words of this covenant, and speak to the men of Judah and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem; 3 and say to them, 'Thus says the LORD God of Israel: [a]"Cursed is the man who does not obey the words of this covenant 4 which I commanded your fathers in the day I brought them out of the land of Egypt, [b]from the iron furnace, saying, [c]'Obey My voice, and do according to all that I command you; so shall you be My people, and I will be your God,' 5 that I may establish the [d]oath which I have sworn to your fathers, to give them [e]'a land flowing with milk and honey,' as it is this day." ' "

And I answered and said, [f]"So be it, LORD."

6 Then the LORD said to me, "Proclaim all these words in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem, saying: 'Hear the words of this covenant [g]and do them. 7 For I earnestly exhorted your fathers in the day I brought them up out of the land of Egypt, until this day, [g]rising early and exhorting, saying, "Obey My voice." 8 [h]Yet they did not obey or incline their ear, but [i]everyone [2]followed the dictates of his evil heart; therefore I will bring upon them all the words of this covenant, which I commanded them to do, but which they have not done.' "

9 And the LORD said to me, [j]"A conspiracy has been found among the men of Judah and among the inhabitants of Jerusalem. 10 They have turned back to [k]the iniquities of their forefathers who refused to hear My words, and they have gone after other gods to serve them; the house of Israel and the house of Judah have broken My covenant which I made with their fathers."

11 Therefore thus says the LORD: "Behold, I will surely bring calamity on them which they will not be able to [3]escape; and [l]though they cry out to Me, I will not listen to them. 12 Then the cities of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem will go and [m]cry out to the gods to whom they offer incense, but they will not save them at all in the time of their trouble. 13 For according to the number of your [n]cities were your gods, O Judah; and according to the number of the streets of Jerusalem you have set up altars to that shameful thing, altars to burn incense to Baal.

14 "So [o]do not pray for this people, or lift up a cry or prayer for them; for I will not hear them in the time that they cry out to Me because of their trouble.

15 "What[p] has My beloved to do in My house,
Having [q]done lewd deeds with many?
And [r]the holy flesh has passed from you.

■ 10:25 This verse closely resembles Ps. 79:6, 7 and may be a citation of it. Yet in its new context it may not be as well motivated as in the psalm. The chapter ends with a plea for the Lord to punish the Gentiles, even though its main burden has been to show that Judah deserves as severe a judgment.

■ 11:1—13:27 Judah's idolatry is a violation of the covenant and will result in captivity as part of the curses of the covenant.

■ 11:2 words. The commands of God in the Mosaic covenant (Deut. 1:1). The Mosaic covenant, unlike the covenant of Noah and the new covenant, depended on Israel's faithfulness rather than the Lord's (Heb. 8:6; Introduction: Characteristics and Themes).

covenant. A covenant is a solemn agreement between two or more parties. It is the kind of relationship into which God freely entered first with all mankind (Gen. 9:1–17), then with Abraham, as the father of Israel (Gen. 17:1–21), then with Israel at Sinai (Ex. 19—24), then with David (2 Sam. 7:12–16; Ps. 89:3), and finally with the whole people of God in the new covenant (31:31–34 notes).

■ 11:3 Cursed is the man. See Deut. 27:15–26.

■ 11:5 establish the oath which I have sworn. The covenant with Abraham was in the form of a divine promise (Gen. 15:17–21; cf. Deut. 4:31). Under the terms of the Mosaic covenant, the temporal blessings of the Abrahamic covenant were administered on the basis of Israel's obedience (Ex. 19—24). Under the terms of the new covenant, the eternal blessings of the Abrahamic covenant are administered on the basis of Christ's obedience, while the believer's obedience proves the vitality of their professed faith (James 2:14–26).

a land flowing with milk and honey. See Ex. 3:8; Deut. 6:3.

So be it. The "So be it" (Hebrew amen) indicates acceptance of the terms laid down. See Deut. 27:15–26.

■ 11:9 conspiracy. This could be resistance to Jeremiah's words, or to Josiah's reform.

■ 11:10 house . . . with their fathers. Again, the covenant is traced back to the promise to the patriarchs (v. 5 and note). Judah's present breach of it is consistent with the pattern of Israel's history (see especially Judges).

■ 11:13 burn incense. Incense was used in pagan worship and also in worship of the Lord (1:16; 7:9; 18:15; Ex. 30:7–9).

■ 11:15 My beloved. Judah, also in 12:7. The term of endearment is in line with the courtship and bridal imagery of 2:2; 3:1.

in My house. See 7:10, 11; Ezek. 8:6–13.

holy flesh . . . rejoice. The Hebrew is difficult; the criticism, however, is of unacceptable worship that produces a falsely based joy in God's salvation.

When you do evil, then you [s]rejoice.
16 The LORD called your name,
[t]Green Olive Tree, Lovely and of Good Fruit.
With the noise of a great tumult
He has kindled fire on it,
And its branches are broken.

17 "For the LORD of hosts, [u]who planted you, has pronounced doom against you for the evil of the house of Israel and of the house of Judah, which they have done against themselves to provoke Me to anger in offering incense to Baal."

Jeremiah's Life Threatened

18 Now the LORD gave me knowledge of it, and I know it; for You showed me their doings.
19 But I was like a docile lamb brought to the slaughter; and I did not know that they had devised schemes against me, saying, "Let us destroy the tree with its fruit, [v]and let us cut him off from [w]the land of the living, that his name may be remembered no more."

20 But, O LORD of hosts,
You who judge righteously,
[x]Testing the [4]mind and the heart,
Let me see Your [y]vengeance on them,
For to You I have revealed my cause.

21 "Therefore thus says the LORD concerning the men of [z]Anathoth who seek your life, saying, [a]'Do not prophesy in the name of the LORD, lest you die by our hand'— 22 therefore thus says the LORD of hosts: 'Behold, I will punish them. The young men shall die by the sword, their sons and their daughters shall [b]die by famine; 23 and there shall be no remnant of them, for I will bring catastrophe on the men of Anathoth, even [c]the year of their punishment.' "

Jeremiah's Question

12 Righteous [a]are You, O LORD, when I plead with You;
Yet let me talk with You about Your judgments.
[b]Why does the way of the wicked prosper?
Why are those happy who deal so treacherously?
2 You have planted them, yes, they have taken root;
They grow, yes, they bear fruit.
[c]You are near in their mouth
But far from their [1]mind.

3 But You, O LORD, [d]know me;
You have seen me,
And You have [e]tested my heart toward You.
Pull them out like sheep for the slaughter,
And prepare them for [f]the day of slaughter.
4 How long will [g]the land mourn,
And the herbs of every field wither?
[h]The beasts and birds are consumed,
[i]For the wickedness of those who dwell there,
Because they said, "He will not see our final end."

■ 11:19 like a docile lamb brought to the slaughter. A simile drawing on the practice of sacrifice (see Ps. 44:11). Jeremiah often uses the language of the "lament" psalms (see Introduction to Psalms). As a type of Christ, the sufferings of Christ are prefigured in Jeremiah's life (Is. 53:7).

■ 11:21 the men of Anathoth. They are from Jeremiah's own town (1:1). The details of the plot reveal that his worst opposition comes from those closest to him (Ps. 69:7–9; Matt. 10:36, citing Mic. 7:6). In this respect also Jeremiah resembles Christ (John 7:2–5; Acts 1:15–20).

■ 11:23 no remnant. This threat of total extinction contrasts the fate of Jeremiah's personal enemies with that of Judah in general (see 4:27; 5:10; 6:9, and notes).

The LORD Answers Jeremiah

5 "If you have run with the footmen, and they have wearied you,
Then how can you contend with horses?
And if in the land of peace,
In which you trusted, they wearied you,
Then how will you do in *i*the *2*floodplain of the Jordan?
6 For even *k*your brothers, the house of your father,
Even they have dealt treacherously with you;
Yes, they have called *3*a multitude after you.
*l*Do not believe them,
Even though they speak *4*smooth words to you.

7 "I have forsaken My house, I have left My heritage;
I have given the dearly beloved of My soul into the hand of her enemies.
8 My heritage is to Me like a lion in the forest;
It cries out against Me;
Therefore I have *m*hated it.
9 My *5*heritage is to Me like a speckled vulture;
The vultures all around are against her.
Come, assemble all the beasts of the field,
*n*Bring them to devour!

10 "Many *o*rulers*6* have destroyed *p*My vineyard,
They have *q*trodden My portion underfoot;
They have made My *7*pleasant portion a desolate wilderness.
11 They have made it *r*desolate;
Desolate, it mourns to Me;
The whole land is made desolate,
Because *s*no one takes it to heart.
12 The plunderers have come
On all the desolate heights in the wilderness,
For the sword of the LORD shall devour
From one end of the land to the other end of the land;
No flesh shall have peace.
13 *t*They have sown wheat but reaped thorns;
They have *8*put themselves to pain but do not profit.
But be ashamed of your harvest
Because of the fierce anger of the LORD."

14 Thus says the LORD: "Against all My evil neighbors who *u*touch the inheritance which I have caused My people Israel to inherit—behold, I will *v*pluck them out of their land and pluck out the house of Judah from among them. 15 *w*Then it shall be, after I have plucked them out, that I will return and have compassion on them *x*and bring them back, everyone to his heritage and everyone to his land. 16 And it shall be, if they will learn carefully the ways of My people, *y*to swear by My name, 'As the LORD lives,' as they taught My people to swear by Baal, then they

■ 12:6 your brothers, the house of your father. See 11:21–23.

■ 12:8 like a lion. This first of a series of similes (cf. vv. 9, 10) shows how Judah's nature has been changed.

■ 12:12 No flesh shall have peace. The verse exposes the lie of false proclamations of peace (6:14).

■ 12:14 evil neighbors. Though Judah's enemies are used by the Lord to punish her, they themselves will be judged.

pluck out. When God judges Judah's enemies by removing them from their own lands, He also will deliver and restore Judah, the theme to be developed in Jer. 30—33.

■ 12:15 after I have plucked them out . . . his land. This prophecy is an astonishing turn in the thought, anticipating a restoration and salvation of all peoples. Jeremiah looks forward to the inclusion of the Gentiles in God's salvation (46:26; 48:47; 49:6) as do other prophets (e.g., Is. 42:6).

■ 12:16 they shall be established . . . My people. See Is. 19:25 for an equally surprising use of "My people"—for Egypt.

shall be [z]established in the midst of My people. 17 But if they do not [a]obey, I will utterly pluck up and destroy that nation," says the LORD.

Symbol of the Linen Sash

13 Thus the LORD said to me: "Go and get yourself a linen sash, and put it [1]around your waist, but do not put it in water." 2 So I got a [2]sash according to the word of the LORD, and put it around my waist.

3 And the word of the LORD came to me the second time, saying, 4 "Take the [3]sash that you acquired, which is [4]around your waist, and arise, go to the [5]Euphrates, and hide it there in a hole in the rock." 5 So I went and hid it by the Euphrates, as the LORD commanded me.

6 Now it came to pass after many days that the LORD said to me, "Arise, go to the Euphrates, and take from there the sash which I commanded you to hide there." 7 Then I went to the Euphrates and dug, and I took the [6]sash from the place where I had hidden it; and there was the sash, ruined. It was profitable for nothing.

8 Then the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 9 "Thus says the LORD: 'In this manner [a]I will ruin the pride of Judah and the great [b]pride of Jerusalem. 10 This evil people, who [c]refuse to hear My words, who [d]follow[7] the dictates of their hearts, and walk after other gods to serve them and worship them, shall be just like this sash which is profitable for nothing. 11 For as the sash clings to the waist of a man, so I have caused the whole house of Israel and the whole house of Judah to cling to Me,' says the LORD, 'that [e]they may become My people, [f]for renown, for praise, and for [g]glory; but they would [h]not hear.'

Symbol of the Wine Bottles

12 "Therefore you shall speak to them this word: 'Thus says the LORD God of Israel: "Every bottle shall be filled with wine." '

"And they will say to you, 'Do we not certainly know that every bottle will be filled with wine?'

13 "Then you shall say to them, 'Thus says the LORD: "Behold, I will fill all the inhabitants of this land—even the kings who sit on David's throne, the priests, the prophets, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem—[i]with drunkenness! 14 And [j]I will dash them [8]one against another, even the fathers and the sons together," says the LORD. "I will not pity nor spare nor have mercy, but will destroy them." ' "

Pride Precedes Captivity

15 Hear and give ear:
Do not be proud,
For the LORD has spoken.
16 [k]Give glory to the LORD your God
Before He causes [l]darkness,
And before your feet stumble
On the dark mountains,
And while you are [m]looking for light,
He turns it into [n]the shadow of death
And makes it dense darkness.
17 But if you will not hear it,
My soul will [o]weep in secret for your pride;
My eyes will weep bitterly
And run down with tears,
Because the LORD's flock has been taken captive.

■ 13:1 linen sash. The "sash" symbolizes the close relationship between God and His people.

■ 13:4 Euphrates. A nearer location may actually be intended (possibly Parah, Josh. 18:23, close to Anathoth), whose similarity of name nevertheless suggested the Euphrates and therefore the Babylonian exile.

■ 13:7 ruined . . . profitable for nothing. Its ruin depicts the corruption of the people, no longer fit for a relationship with the Lord.

■ 13:11 caused the whole house . . . to cling to Me. The Lord spells out the meaning of the symbolic act as an illustration of His covenant with all Israel.

■ 13:12 filled with wine. Wine is here used as a symbol of God's wrath (25:15–29).

■ 13:18 to the king and to the queen mother. Probably Jehoiachin and his mother Nehushta (2 Kin. 24:8). This prophecy is thus close to your rule shall collapse. See 22:24–26. This judgment spells the end of the historical Davidic dynasty, and seems in conflict with the promise to David (2 Sam. 7). However, see 33:14–26 for the future fulfillment of the Davidic covenant.

■ 13:19 The cities of the South. These cities along the southern border were important defense against allies of Babylon (like Moab; 2 Kin. 24:2), but were unable to prevent the sack of Judah. They symbolize Judah's pride (v. 17), shown to be hollow.

■ 13:20 the north. See 4:6. Judah is vulnerable from both north and south (v. 19).

■ 13:22 Your skirts . . . made bare. A picture of public shame, as of a prostitute.

■ 13:23 Can the Ethiopian . . . its spots. A rhetorical question. It is typical of Jeremiah to assert Judah's inability to repent and obey the Lord—hence his new covenant theology (31:31–34 and notes). See "The Freedom and Bondage of the Will" at 17:9.

■ 13:25 lot. The word "lot" recalls the lot cast for the division of the land (Josh. 14:2). Now it signifies expulsion from the same land.

■ 14:1—15:21 The people are so hardened in their sin that God will not answer even Jeremiah's prayer for deliverance from the punishment of drought. In answer to Jeremiah's question whether God has rejected Judah completely (14:19), God replies that the coming judgment is inevitable because of Judah's sin, but He assures Jeremiah of personal deliverance from his enemies.

■ 14:3 covered their heads. A sign of mourning.

They went to the cisterns and found no water.
They returned with their vessels empty;
They were [d]ashamed and confounded
[e]And covered their heads.
4 Because the ground is parched,
For there was [f]no rain in the land,
The plowmen were ashamed;
They covered their heads.
5 Yes, the deer also gave birth in the field,
But [g]left because there was no grass.
6 And [h]the wild donkeys stood in the desolate heights;
They sniffed at the wind like jackals;
Their eyes failed because there was no grass."

7 O LORD, though our iniquities testify against us,
Do it [i]for Your name's sake;
For our backslidings are many,
We have sinned against You.
8 [j]O the Hope of Israel, his Savior in time of trouble,
Why should You be like a stranger in the land,
And like a traveler who turns aside to tarry for a night?
9 Why should You be like a man astonished,
Like a mighty one [k]who cannot save?
Yet You, O LORD, [l]are in our midst,
And we are called by Your name;
Do not leave us!

10 Thus says the LORD to this people:

[m]"Thus they have loved to wander;
They have not restrained their feet.
Therefore the LORD does not accept them;
[n]He will remember their iniquity now,
And punish their sins."

11 Then the LORD said to me, [o]"Do not pray for this people, for their good. 12 [p]When they fast, I will not hear their cry; and [q]when they offer burnt offering and grain offering, I will not accept them. But [r]I will consume them by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence."

13 [s]Then I said, "Ah, Lord GOD! Behold, the prophets say to them, 'You shall not see the sword, nor shall you have famine, but I will give you [2]assured [t]peace in this place.' "

14 And the LORD said to me, [u]"The prophets prophesy lies in My name. [v]I have not sent them, commanded them, nor spoken to them; they prophesy to you a false vision, [3]divination, a worthless thing, and the [w]deceit of their heart. 15 Therefore thus says the LORD concerning the prophets who prophesy in My name, whom I did not send, [x]and who say, 'Sword and famine shall not be in this land'—'By sword and famine those prophets shall be consumed! 16 And the people to whom they prophesy shall be cast out in the streets of Jerusalem because of the famine and the sword . . . famine . . . pestilence. The first of fifteen appearances of this combination in Jeremiah (e.g., 15:2). This is a typical summation of the horrors that judgment can bring (Deut. 32:24, 25).

■ 14:11 Do not pray. See 7:16 and note. Here the prohibition follows the intercession in vv. 7–9.

■ 14:13 the prophets. That is, those who falsely prophesy peace (6:1–4; 8:11). Jeremiah pleads on behalf of the people—that they have been misled.

■ 14:16 And the people. The prophet's plea (v. 13) misses its mark: the people should have tested the prophets by their prophecies (Deut. 13:2, 3; 18:21, 22).

19 [c]Have You utterly rejected Judah?
Has Your soul loathed Zion?
Why have You stricken us so that [d]there is no healing for us?
[e]We looked for peace, but there was no good;
And for the time of healing, and there was trouble.
20 We acknowledge, O LORD, our wickedness
And the iniquity of our [f]fathers,
For [g]we have sinned against You.
21 Do not abhor us, for Your name's sake;
Do not disgrace the throne of Your glory.
[h]Remember, do not break Your covenant with us.
22 [i]Are there any among [j]the idols of the nations that can cause [k]rain?
Or can the heavens give showers?
[l]Are You not He, O LORD our God?
Therefore we will wait for You,
Since You have made all these.

The LORD Will Not Relent

15 Then the LORD said to me, [a]"Even if [b]Moses and [c]Samuel stood before Me, My [l]mind would not be favorable toward this people. Cast them out of My sight, and let them go forth. 2 And it shall be, if they say to you, 'Where should we go?' then you shall tell them, 'Thus says the LORD:

[d]"Such as are for death, to death;
And such as are for the sword, to the sword;
And such as are for the famine, to the famine;
And such as are for the [e]captivity, to the captivity." '

3 "And I will [f]appoint over them four forms of destruction," says the LORD: "the sword to slay, the dogs to drag, [g]the birds of the heavens and the beasts of the earth to devour and destroy. 4 I will hand them over to [h]trouble, to all kingdoms of the earth, because of [i]Manasseh the son of Hezekiah, king of Judah, for what he did in Jerusalem.

5 "For who will have pity on you, O Jerusalem?
Or who will bemoan you?
Or who will turn aside to ask how you are doing?

■ 14:19 We looked for peace. Because of the false prophets' teaching (v. 13 and note).

■ 14:21 the throne of Your glory. The temple is in view (see 2 Kin. 19:15; but cf. 1 Kin. 8:27).

Your covenant. Jeremiah recalls the covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (Gen. 15:12–21; 26:3–5; 28:13–15; Lev. 26:42–45).

■ 15:1 Moses and Samuel. God calls to mind two great intercessors for Israel (Ex. 32:11–14; 1 Sam. 12:23). Note also Elijah in 1 Kin. 17:1. Prayer for the people is again prohibited (7:16; 11:14), and the prayer just offered (vv. 19–22) is specifically rejected.

■ 15:3 sword . . . dogs . . . birds . . . beasts. See 7:33 note; 1 Kin. 21:23.

■ 15:4 Manasseh. A son of the reformer King Hezekiah (2 Kin. 20:21) and one of the most wicked kings. Even after the reforms of his grandson Josiah, Judah's punishment and exile continues to be linked to him (2 Kin. 23:26). See Introduction: Author; Date and Occasion.

6 [j]You have forsaken Me," says the LORD,
"You have [k]gone backward.
Therefore I will stretch out My hand against you and destroy you;
[l]I am [2]weary of relenting!
7 And I will winnow them with a winnowing fan in the gates of the land;
I will [m]bereave them of children;
I will destroy My people,
Since they [n]do not return from their ways.
8 Their widows will be increased to Me more than the sand of the seas;
I will bring against them,
Against the mother of the young men,
A plunderer at noonday;
I will cause anguish and terror to fall on them [o]suddenly.

9 "She[p] languishes who has borne seven;
She has breathed her last;
[q]Her sun has gone down
While it was yet day;
She has been ashamed and confounded.
And the remnant of them I will deliver to the sword
Before their enemies," says the LORD.

Jeremiah's Dejection

10 [r]Woe is me, my mother,
That you have borne me,
A man of strife and a man of contention to the whole [3]earth!
I have neither lent for interest,
Nor have men lent to me for interest.
Every one of them curses me.

11 The LORD said:

"Surely it will be well with your remnant;
Surely I will cause [s]the enemy to intercede with you
In the time of adversity and in the time of affliction.
12 Can anyone break iron,
The northern iron and the bronze?
13 Your wealth and your treasures
I will give as [t]plunder without price,
Because of all your sins,
Throughout your territories.
14 And I will [4]make you cross over with your enemies
[u]Into a land which you do not know;
For a [v]fire is kindled in My anger,
Which shall burn upon you."

15 O LORD, [w]You know;
Remember me and [5]visit me,
And [x]take vengeance for me on my persecutors.
In Your enduring patience, do not take me away.
Know that [y]for Your sake I have suffered rebuke.

16 Your words were found, and I [z]ate them,

For I am called by Your name,
O LORD God of hosts.
17 [b]I did not sit in the assembly of the mockers,
Nor did I rejoice;
I sat alone because of Your hand,
For You have filled me with indignation.
18 Why is my [c]pain perpetual
And my wound incurable,
Which refuses to be healed?
Will You surely be to me [d]like an unreliable stream,
As waters that [6]fail?

The LORD Reassures Jeremiah

19 Therefore thus says the LORD:

[e]"If you return,
Then I will bring you back;
You shall [f]stand before Me;
If you [g]take out the precious from the vile,
You shall be as My mouth.
Let them return to you,
But you must not return to them.
20 And I will make you to this people a fortified bronze [h]wall;
And they will fight against you,
But [i]they shall not prevail against you;
For I am with you to save you
And deliver you," says the LORD.
21 "I will deliver you from the hand of the wicked,
And I will redeem you from the grip of the terrible."

Jeremiah's Life-Style and Message

16 The word of the LORD also came to me, saying, 2 "You shall not take a wife, nor shall you have sons or daughters in this place." 3 For thus says the LORD concerning the sons and daughters who are born in this place, and concerning their mothers who bore them and their fathers who begot them in this land: 4 "They shall die [a]gruesome deaths; they shall not be [b]lamented nor shall they be [c]buried, but they shall be [d]like refuse on the face of the earth. They shall be consumed by the sword and by famine, and their [e]corpses shall be meat for the birds of heaven and for the beasts of the earth."

5 For thus says the LORD: [f]"Do not enter the house of mourning, nor go to lament or bemoan them; for I have taken away My peace from this people," says the LORD, "lovingkindness and mercies. 6 Both the great and the small shall die in this land. They shall not be buried; [g]neither shall men lament for them, [h]cut themselves, nor [i]make themselves bald for them. 7 Nor shall men break bread in mourning for them, to comfort them for the dead; nor shall men give them the cup of consolation to [j]drink for their father or their mother. 8 Also you shall not go into the house of feasting to sit with them, to eat and drink."

■ 15:16 Your words . . . I ate them. This verse recalls the sweet side of the bittersweet task of receiving God's words (Ezek. 3:1–3).

I am called by Your name. This phrase is applied to the people in 14:9.

■ 15:17 I sat alone. No doubt this is literally true, partly due to celibacy (16:2). But there can also be a profound sense of loneliness for the unwelcome prophet; note Elijah in 1 Kin. 19:10 and our Lord Jesus in Matt. 26:37, 38.

■ 15:18 wound incurable. The wound is Judah's in 14:17. The whole phrase is applied to Judah in 30:12, together with a promise of healing (30:16, 17). See also 10:19, where it is used of Jeremiah.

an unreliable stream. Contrast 2:13; and cf. 20:7.

■ 16:1—17:18 Jeremiah is prohibited from marrying and taking part in other normal activities as a sign of coming judgment (ch. 16). A sharp contrast is drawn between the destinies of those who trust in man and in God (17:1–18).

■ 16:2 You shall not take a wife. The prohibition is related exclusively to Jeremiah's role as a prophet of Judah's fate (1 Cor. 7:26). Jeremiah will be childless, a sign that there is no immediate future for Judah.

■ 16:4 sword and by famine. See note on 14:12.

■ 16:8 shall not go into . . . feasting. After v. 2 and v. 5, there is yet a third symbolic prohibition.

9 For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: "Behold, [k]I will cause to cease from this place, before your eyes and in your days, the voice of [l]mirth and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride.
10 "And it shall be, when you show this people all these words, and they say to you, [l]'Why has the LORD pronounced all this great disaster against us? Or what is our iniquity? Or what is our sin that we have committed against the LORD our God?' 11 then you shall say to them, [m]'Because your fathers have forsaken Me,' says the LORD; 'they have walked after other gods and have served them and worshiped them, and have forsaken Me and not kept My law. 12 And you have done [n]worse than your fathers, for behold, [o]each one [2]follows the dictates of his own evil heart, so that no one listens to Me. 13 [p]Therefore I will cast you out of this land [q]into a land that you do not know, neither you nor your fathers; and there you shall serve other gods day and night, where I will not show you favor.'

God Will Restore Israel

14 "Therefore behold, the [r]days are coming," says the LORD, "that it shall no more be said,
'The LORD lives who brought up the children of Israel from the land of Egypt,' 15 but, 'The LORD lives who brought up the children of Israel from the land of the [s]north and from all the lands where He had driven them.' For [t]I will bring them back into their land which I gave to their fathers.
16 "Behold, I will send for many [u]fishermen," says the LORD, "and they shall fish them; and afterward I will send for many hunters, and they shall hunt them from every mountain and every hill, and out of the holes of the rocks. 17 For My [v]eyes are on all their ways; they are not hidden from My face, nor is their iniquity hidden from My eyes. 18 And first I will repay [w]double for their iniquity and their sin, because [x]they have defiled My land; they have filled My inheritance with the carcasses of their detestable and abominable idols."

19 O LORD, [y]my strength and my fortress,
[z]My refuge in the day of affliction,
The Gentiles shall come to You
From the ends of the earth and say,
"Surely our fathers have inherited lies,
Worthlessness and [a]unprofitable things."
20 Will a man make gods for himself,
[b]Which are not gods?

21 "Therefore behold, I will this once cause them to know,
I will cause them to know
My hand and My might;
And they shall know that [c]My name is the LORD.

1 [a]Jer. 2:22 [b]Job 19:24 [c]Prov. 3:3; 7:3; Is. 49:16; 2 Cor. 3:3

■ 16:9 cause to cease . . . bridegroom and . . . bride. See also 7:34. Such sounds are typical of times of peace and hope (Matt. 24:38, 39; contrast 33:10, 11).

■ 16:12 done worse than your fathers. Though the present generation shares guilt with its forefathers (14:20), it is responsible for its own sin (31:29, 30; Ezek. 18:2–4).

■ 16:13 cast you out of this land. That is, God will send them into exile (see Deut. 28:36, 64).

serve other gods. With a punishment to fit the crime, they would finally discover that these gods can provide no benefit.

■ 16:16 fishermen . . . hunters. Judah is pictured as the prey of the Lord.

every mountain and every hill . . . holes of the rocks. There will be no escape (23:24; Is. 2:19).

■ 16:17 My eyes are on all. See "God Sees and Knows: Divine Omniscience" at Prov. 15:3.

■ 16:21 know that My name is the LORD. Knowing the Lord's name here means recognizing His authority and power through His acts of judgment.

■ 17:1 On the tablet of their heart. This metaphor recalls tablets for writing laws. See 31:33, where the law will be written on the heart, and Prov. 3:3; 7:3. In the new covenant, Christ writes the law on His people's hearts by His Spirit (2 Cor. 3:3).

on the horns of your altars. These altars should commemorate atonement for sin, but where the sin is unforgiven they continue to remind God of the sin itself.

■ 17:2 Their altars and their wooden images. See 2:20 note; Ex. 34:13; Deut. 7:5.

Their altars and their [d]wooden[f] images
By the green trees on the high hills.
3 O My mountain in the field,
I will give as plunder your wealth, all your treasures,
And your high places of sin within all your borders.

Shall let go of your heritage which I gave you;
And I will cause you to serve your enemies
In [e]the land which you do not know;
For [f]you have kindled a fire in My anger which shall burn forever."

5 Thus says the LORD:

[g]"Cursed is the man who trusts in man
And makes [h]flesh his [2]strength,
Whose heart departs from the LORD.
6 For he shall be [i]like a shrub in the desert,
And [j]shall not see when good comes,
But shall inhabit the parched places in the wilderness,
[k]In a salt land which is not inhabited.

7 "Blessed[l] is the man who trusts in the LORD,
And whose hope is the LORD.
8 For he shall be [m]like a tree planted by the waters,
Which spreads out its roots by the river,
And will not [3]fear when heat comes;
But its leaf will be green,
And will not be anxious in the year of drought,
Nor will cease from yielding fruit.

9 "The [n]heart is deceitful above all things,
And [4]desperately wicked;
Who can know it?
10 I, the LORD, [o]search the heart,
I test the [5]mind,
[p]Even to give every man according to his ways,
According to the fruit of his doings.

11 "As a partridge that [6]broods but does not hatch,
So is he who gets riches, but not by right;
It [q]will leave him in the midst of his days,
And at his end he will be [r]a fool."

■ 17:3 My mountain. Mount Zion, where the temple was, was plundered by Nebuchadnezzar (52:17–23).

■ 17:4 heritage which I gave you. The Promised Land (2:7).

■ 17:7 trusts . . . hope. The Lord repays trust because He is by nature trustworthy (Is. 7:9). The close similarity between vv. 7, 8 and Ps. 1:1–3 suggests that trust in the Lord entails obedience to His law.

■ 17:8 a tree planted by the waters. This image is a potent symbol of strength in a dry country (Is. 44:4).

■ 17:9 The heart. In the Old Testament, the "heart" is more than the seat of emotion. It represents the basis of character, including the mind and the will (4:19; Prov. 4:23; 16:23). See theological note "The Freedom and Bondage of the Will."

■ 17:10 mind. Lit. "kidneys." In ancient Hebrew idiom, these organs represented the seat of the emotions.

■ 17:11 As a partridge . . . by right. It was commonly believed that partridges would steal the eggs of other birds, but the hatchlings would return to their natural parent. In the same way a person will not be able to retain riches unjustly gained.

And at his end . . . fool. On the transience of riches, see Prov. 23:4, 5.

■ 17:12 A glorious high throne. See note on 14:21; Ps. 99:1.

from the beginning. This implies that Zion was chosen as God's throne even before the temple was built (Ex. 15:17).

■ 17:13 written in the earth. They will soon be forgotten. Contrast the thought of Ex. 32:32.

"Those who depart from Me
Shall be [u]written in the earth,
Because they have forsaken the LORD,
The [v]fountain of living waters."

The Freedom and Bondage of the Will

Proper understanding of the freedom of the will in the fallen human condition is assisted by distinguishing free agency from free will.

Free agency is a mark of humanity as such. All humans are free agents in the sense that they make their own decisions about what they will do, choosing as they please in the light of their conscience, inclinations, and thoughts. They are answerable to God and to the rest of humanity for their choices. Adam was a free agent before the Fall, and afterwards. He continued to have desires and thoughts and to put them into action through his will. Similarly, we are free agents now; we will continue to be so after the resurrection. The glorified saints exercise their wills, but they are confirmed in grace, so that they cannot sin. Their choices are the product of human free agency, made in accordance with their nature, but now these choices are good and right. The transformation of their hearts is complete and they desire to do what is right.

Free will has been defined by Christian teachers from the second century on as the ability to choose any at all of the moral options offered in a given situation. Augustine taught that this possibility was lost through the Fall. The loss is part of the burden of original sin. After the Fall, our natural hearts are not inclined toward God; they are in bondage to sin and cannot be freed from this slavery except by the grace of regeneration. Such an understanding of the fallen will is taught by Paul in Rom. 6:16–23.

Only a will that has been set free is able to choose righteousness freely and heartily. A permanent love of righteousness, that is, an inclination of the heart to the way of living that pleases God, is one aspect of the freedom that Christ gives (John 8:34–36; Gal. 5:1, 13). □

■ 17:15 Where is the word of the LORD. With this taunt Jeremiah is accused of being a false prophet (Deut. 18:21, 22). See Mic. 7:10; 2 Pet. 3:2–4.

■ 17:18 dismayed . . . dismayed. Prayer for judgment upon his enemies is common in Jeremiah (11:20; 12:3; 15:15). The words are reminiscent of his call (1:17).

■ 17:20 who enter by these gates. The message is given at the gates because of their role in commerce (see Neh. 13:15, 19).

say to them, [d]'Hear the word of the LORD, you kings of Judah, and all Judah, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, who enter by these gates. 21 Thus says the LORD: [e]"Take heed to yourselves, and bear no burden on the Sabbath day, nor bring it in by the gates of Jerusalem; 22 nor carry a burden out of your houses on the Sabbath day, nor do any work, but hallow the Sabbath day, as I [f]commanded your fathers. 23 [g]But they did not obey nor incline their ear, but [8]made their neck stiff, that they might not hear nor receive instruction.

24 "And it shall be, [h]if you heed Me carefully," says the LORD, "to bring no burden through the gates of this city on the [i]Sabbath day, but hallow the Sabbath day, to do no work in it, 25 [j]then shall enter the gates of this city kings and princes sitting on the throne of David, riding in chariots and on horses, they and their princes, accompanied by the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem; and this city shall remain forever. 26 And they shall come from the cities of Judah and from [k]the places around Jerusalem, from the land of Benjamin and from [l]the [9]lowland, from the mountains and from [m]the [l]South, bringing burnt offerings and sacrifices, grain offerings and incense, bringing [n]sacrifices of praise to the house of the LORD.

27 "But if you will not heed Me to hallow the Sabbath day, such as not carrying a burden when entering the gates of Jerusalem on the Sabbath day, then [o]I will kindle a fire in its gates, [p]and it shall devour the palaces of Jerusalem, and it shall not be [q]quenched." ' "

The Potter and the Clay

18 The word which came to Jeremiah from the LORD, saying: 2 "Arise and go down to the potter's house, and there I will cause you to hear My words." 3 Then I went down to the potter's house, and there he was, making something at the [1]wheel. 4 And the vessel that he [2]made of clay was [3]marred in the hand of the potter; so he made it again into another vessel, as it seemed good to the potter to make.

5 Then the word of the LORD came to me, saying: 6 "O house of Israel, [a]can I not do with you as this potter?" says the LORD. "Look, [b]as the clay is in the potter's hand, so are you in My hand, O house of Israel! 7 The instant I speak concerning a nation and concerning a kingdom, to [c]pluck up, to pull down, and to destroy it, 8 [d]if that nation against whom I have spoken turns from its evil, [e]I will relent of the disaster that I thought to bring upon it. 9 And the instant I speak concerning a nation and concerning a kingdom, to build and to plant it, 10 if it does evil in My sight so that it does not obey My voice, then I will relent concerning the good with which I said I would benefit it.

11 "Now therefore, speak to the men of Judah and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, saying, 'Thus says the LORD: "Behold, I am fashioning a disaster and devising a plan against you. [f]Return now every one from his evil way, and make your ways and your doings [g]good." ' "

God's Warning Rejected

12 And they said, [h]"That is hopeless! So we will walk according to our own plans, and we will every one [4]obey the [i]dictates[5] of his evil heart."

13 Therefore thus says the LORD:

[j]"Ask now among the Gentiles,
Who has heard such things?
The virgin of Israel has done [k]a very horrible thing.
14 Will a man [6]leave the snow water of Lebanon,
Which comes from the rock of the field?
Will the cold flowing waters be forsaken for strange waters?

■ 17:22 hallow the Sabbath . . . fathers. Specific appeal is made to the Sabbath commandment (Ex. 20:8–11; Deut. 5:12–15; Neh. 10:31; Is. 56:2).

■ 17:25, 26 This prophecy presents a picture (partly repeated in 22:4) of the restoration of the Davidic dynasty, the social structure, and the worship, that all centered on the temple. See also 23:5, 6; 30:9; 33:14–26. All that is threatened for Judah, therefore, can be reversed.

■ 18:1—20:18 Just as a potter remolds a marred pot, God will remold His people by disciplining them in exile (18:1–17). Jeremiah portrays God's judgment by breaking a clay jar (ch. 19), and is mistreated because of his unpopular message (18:18–23; ch. 20).

■ 18:2 the potter's house. Apparently in the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, near the Potsherd Gate (19:2); hence the command to "go down." See also 7:31.

■ 18:4 made it again into another vessel. The potter has freedom with respect to his plans. The spoiling of his first intention is not final.

■ 18:6 O house of Israel. The analogy with Israel follows. The use of the term "Israel" recalls God's historic purposes of election for the whole people, to which Judah was now heir.

■ 18:7, 8 The potter illustration (vv. 2–4) shows that the Lord's purposed judgment may be revoked by that nation's repentance.

■ 18:13 very horrible thing. One of the strong terms used for idolatry (v. 15; cf. 5:30).

■ 18:14 Will a man leave. As it would be against nature to turn from cold, running water to polluted, standing water, so it is hard to understand why anyone would turn from God to idolatry.

15 "Because My people have forgotten [l]Me,
They have burned incense to worthless idols.
And they have caused themselves to stumble in their ways,
From the [m]ancient paths,
To walk in pathways and not on a highway,
16 To make their land [n]desolate and a perpetual [o]hissing;
Everyone who passes by it will be astonished
And shake his head.
17 [p]I will scatter them [q]as with an east wind before the enemy;
[r]I will [7]show them the back and not the face
In the day of their calamity."

Jeremiah Persecuted

18 Then they said, [s]"Come and let us devise plans against Jeremiah; [t]for the law shall not perish from the priest, nor counsel from the wise, nor the word from the prophet. Come and let us attack him with the tongue, and let us not give heed to any of his words."

19 Give heed to me, O LORD,
And listen to the voice of those who contend with me!
20 [u]Shall evil be repaid for good?
For they have [v]dug a pit for my life.
Remember that I [w]stood before You
To speak good [8]for them,
To turn away Your wrath from them.
21 Therefore [x]deliver up their children to the famine,
And pour out their blood
By the force of the sword;
Let their wives become widows
And [y]bereaved of their children.
Let their men be put to death,
Their young men be slain
By the sword in battle.
22 Let a cry be heard from their houses,
When You bring a troop suddenly upon them;
For they have dug a pit to take me,
And hidden snares for my feet.
23 Yet, LORD, You know all their counsel
Which is against me, to slay me.
[z]Provide no atonement for their iniquity,
Nor blot out their sin from Your sight;
But let them be overthrown before You.
Deal thus with them
In the time of Your [a]anger.

The Sign of the Broken Flask

19 Thus says the LORD: "Go and get a potter's earthen flask, and take some of the elders of the people and some of the elders of the priests. 2 And go out to [a]the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, which is by the entry of the Potsherd Gate; and proclaim there the words that I will tell you, 3 [b]and say, 'Hear the word of the LORD, O kings of Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem.

Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: "Behold, I will bring such a catastrophe on this place, that whoever hears of it, his ears will [c]tingle.

4 "Because they [d]have forsaken Me and made this an alien place, because they have burned incense in it to other gods whom neither they, their fathers, nor the kings of Judah have known, and have filled this place with [e]the blood of the innocents 5[f](they have also built the high places of Baal, to burn their sons with fire for burnt offerings to Baal, [g]which I did not command or speak, nor did it come into My mind), 6 therefore behold, the days are coming," says the LORD, "that this place shall no more be called Tophet or [h]the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, but the Valley of Slaughter. 7 And I will make void the counsel of Judah and Jerusalem in this place, [i]and I will cause them to fall by the sword before their enemies and by the hands of those who seek their lives; their [j]corpses I will give as meat for the birds of the heaven and for the beasts of the earth. 8 I will make this city [k]desolate and a hissing; everyone who passes by it will be astonished and hiss because of all its plagues. 9 And I will cause them to eat the [l]flesh of their sons and the flesh of their daughters, and everyone shall eat the flesh of his friend in the siege and in the desperation with which their enemies and those who seek their lives shall drive them to despair."'

10 [m]"Then you shall break the flask in the sight of the men who go with you, 11 and say to them, 'Thus says the LORD of hosts: [n]"Even so I will break this people and this city, as one breaks a potter's vessel, which cannot be [p]made whole again; and they shall [o]bury them in Tophet till there is no place to bury. 12 Thus I will do to this place," says the LORD, "and to its inhabitants, and make this city like Tophet. 13 And the houses of Jerusalem and the houses of the kings of Judah shall be defiled [q]like the place of Tophet, because of all the houses on whose [r]roofs they have burned incense to all the host of heaven, and [s]poured out drink offerings to other gods."' "

14 Then Jeremiah came from Tophet, where the LORD had sent him to prophesy; and he stood in [s]the court of the Lord's house and said to all the people, 15 "Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: 'Behold, I will bring on this city and on all her towns all the doom that I have pronounced against it, because [t]they have stiffened their necks that they might not hear My words.' "

The Word of God to Pashhur

20 Now [a]Pashhur the son of [b]Immer, the priest who was also chief governor in the house of the LORD, heard that Jeremiah prophesied these things. 2 Then Pashhur struck Jeremiah the prophet, and put him in the stocks that were in the high [c]gate of Benjamin, which was by the house of the LORD.

3 And it happened on the next day that Pashhur brought Jeremiah out of the stocks. Then Jeremiah said to him, "The LORD has not called your name Pashhur, but [1]Magor-Missabib. 4 For thus says the LORD: 'Behold, I will make you a terror to yourself and to all your friends; and they shall fall by the sword of their enemies, and your eyes shall see it. I will [d]give all Judah into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall carry them captive to Babylon and slay them with the sword. 5 Moreover I [e]will deliver all the wealth of this city, all its produce, and all its precious things; all the treasures of the kings of Judah I will give into the hand of their enemies, who will plunder them, seize them, and [f]carry them to Babylon. 6 And you, Pashhur, and all who dwell in your house, shall go into captivity. You shall go to Babylon, and there you shall die, and be buried there, you and all your friends, to whom you have [g]prophesied lies.' "

■ 19:9 eat the flesh . . . of his friend. Such a horror had occurred during the siege of 586 B.C. (Lam. 2:20 and note).

■ 19:10 Then you shall break the flask. The climax of the scene is another symbolic prophetic action (see 13:1–11 and notes). The earthenware flask shatters on impact (Ps. 2:9). The metaphor was familiar in the ancient world.

■ 19:11 cannot be made whole again. Judah, hardened in sin, cannot be reshaped, but only destroyed.

they shall bury . . . no place to bury. See 7:32.

■ 19:13 defiled like the place. Josiah had defiled Tophet (2 Kin. 23:10).

host of heaven. See 8:2 and note; also 2 Kin. 23:4, 5.

■ 20:1 Pashhur. The name was apparently common (see 21:1; 38:1—each text possibly referring to a different man). Note that senior priests had been among Jeremiah's audience in the valley (19:1), and Pashhur was perhaps among them.

■ 20:2 struck Jeremiah. Pashhur's duties as governor of the temple included restraining those whose actions disrupted temple worship (29:26; Deut. 25:2, 3). Jeremiah's prayer in 15:18 shows that faithful prophetic preaching was dangerous.

the prophet. This title affirms Jeremiah's status as a true prophet, despite the legal action against him.

■ 20:3 Magor-Missabib. See text note and 6:25. The people should be afraid to be associated with Pashhur, because he is a highly visible example of why the Lord's anger was falling on them. He had openly abused God's prophet.

Jeremiah's Unpopular Ministry

7 O LORD, You [2]induced me, and I was persuaded;
[h]You are stronger than I, and have prevailed.
[i]I am [3]in derision daily;
Everyone mocks me.
8 For when I spoke, I cried out;
[j]I shouted, "Violence and plunder!"
Because the word of the LORD was made to me
A reproach and a derision daily.
9 Then I said, "I will not make mention of Him,
Nor speak anymore in His name."
But His word was in my heart like a [k]burning fire
Shut up in my bones;
I was weary of holding it back,
And [l]I could not.
10 [m]For I heard many [4]mocking:
"Fear on every side!"
"Report," they say, "and we will report it!"
[n]All my acquaintances watched for my stumbling, saying,
"Perhaps he can be induced;
Then we will prevail against him,
And we will take our revenge on him."

11 But the LORD is [o]with me as a mighty, awesome One.
Therefore my persecutors will stumble, and will not [p]prevail.
They will be greatly ashamed, for they will not prosper.
Their [q]everlasting confusion will never be forgotten.
12 But, O LORD of hosts,
You who [r]test the righteous,
And see the [5]mind and heart,
[s]Let me see Your vengeance on them;
For I have pleaded my cause before You.

13 Sing to the LORD! Praise the LORD!
For [t]He has delivered the life of the poor
From the hand of evildoers.

14 [u]Cursed be the day in which I was born!
Let the day not be blessed in which my mother bore me!
15 Let the man be cursed
Who brought news to my father, saying,
"A male child has been born to you!"
Making him very glad.
16 And let that man be like the cities
Which the LORD [v]overthrew, and did not relent;
Let him [w]hear the cry in the morning
And the shouting at noon,
17 [x]Because he did not kill me from the womb,
That my mother might have been my grave,
And her womb always enlarged with me.

■ 20:7 induced me . . . was persuaded. Jeremiah had not foreseen the trials that his task would bring, and he receives his call (especially perhaps 1:7, 8) as an overpowering compulsion (4:10).

■ 20:8 For when I spoke . . . plunder. A compulsion he cannot control makes him utter his message of coming wrath.

■ 20:9 a burning fire. Jeremiah's reluctance was profound, but God's word in him exerted a pressure he could not resist (see Amos 3:8; 1 Cor. 9:16; 2 Cor. 5:14).

CHAPTER 22

2 [a]Jer. 17:20

Jerusalem's Doom Is Sealed

21 The word which came to Jeremiah from the LORD when [a]King Zedekiah sent to him [b]Pashhur the son of Melchiah, and [c]Zephaniah the son of Maaseiah, the priest, saying,
2 [d]"Please inquire of the LORD for us, for [f]Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon makes war against us. Perhaps the LORD will deal with us according to all His wonderful works, that the king may go away from us."

3 Then Jeremiah said to them, "Thus you shall say to Zedekiah, 4 'Thus says the LORD God of Israel: "Behold, I will turn back the weapons of war that are in your hands, with which you fight against the king of Babylon and the [2]Chaldeans who besiege you outside the walls; and [e]I will assemble them in the midst of this city. 5 I [f]Myself will fight against you with an [g]outstretched hand and with a strong arm, even in anger and fury and great wrath. 6 I will strike the inhabitants of this city, both man and beast; they shall die of a great pestilence. 7 And afterward," says the LORD, [h]"I will deliver Zedekiah king of Judah, his servants and the people, and such as are left in this city from the pestilence and the sword and the famine, into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of those who seek their life; and he shall strike them with the edge of the sword. [i]He shall not spare them, or have pity or mercy." '

8 "Now you shall say to this people, 'Thus says the LORD: "Behold, [j]I set before you the way of life and the way of death. 9 He who [k]remains in this city shall die by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence; but he who goes out and [3]defects to the Chaldeans who besiege you, he shall [l]live, and his life shall be as a prize to him. 10 For I have [m]set My face against this city for adversity and not for good," says the LORD. [n]"It shall be given into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall [o]burn it with fire." '

Message to the House of David

11 "And concerning the house of the king of Judah, say, 'Hear the word of the LORD, 12 O house of David! Thus says the LORD:

[p]"Execute[4] judgment [q]in the morning;
And deliver him who is plundered
Out of the hand of the oppressor,
Lest My fury go forth like fire
And burn so that no one can quench it,
Because of the evil of your doings.

13 "Behold, [r]I am against you, O [5]inhabitant of the valley,
And rock of the plain," says the LORD,
"Who say, [s]'Who shall come down against us?
Or who shall enter our dwellings?'
14 But I will punish you according to the [t]fruit of your [6]doings," says the LORD;
"I will kindle a fire in its forest,
And [u]it shall devour all things around it." ' "

22 Thus says the LORD: "Go down to the house of the king of Judah, and there speak this word, 2 and say, [a]'Hear the word of the LORD, O king of Judah, you who sit on the

■ 21:1—24:10 These chapters narrate the end of the Davidic dynasty, making it clear that disaster and exile are God's judgment on the sins of Judah's kings and people. Jeremiah denounces false prophets who lead the people astray (ch. 23), but also sounds a note of hope as God promises to gather a remnant of His people from captivity under the leadership of "a Branch of righteousness" from David's house (23:3–8). The twin messages of judgment and future restoration are repeated in Jeremiah's vision of two baskets of figs (ch. 24).

■ 21:1 Zedekiah. The name means "the LORD is my righteousness."

sent to him. Zedekiah maintains a vacillating dependence on Jeremiah without the moral courage to obey his warnings (37:3, 21; 38:5, 14, 19, 24–26).

Pashhur. Not necessarily the same Pashhur as in 20:1 (see note) or 38:1.

Zephaniah. A priest and the son of Maaseiah (29:25, 29; 37:3; 52:24), not the same as the prophet Zephaniah (Zeph. 1:1).

■ 21:2 inquire. A request for guidance.

Nebuchadnezzar. King of Babylon, 605–562 B.C. His name is formed with "Nabu" (or "Nebo"), a Babylonian god (Is. 46:1; Dan. 1:1).

makes war against us. Zedekiah was a vassal of Nebuchadnezzar (37:1), and rebelled against him in 589 B.C. Nebuchadnezzar laid siege to Jerusalem in 588.

■ 21:5 I Myself will fight against you . . . outstretched hand . . . strong arm. The language depicts the Lord's power in war, horrifyingly turned against His people (Deut. 4:34; 5:15; 7:19; Amos 5:18).

anger . . . fury . . . great wrath. See Deut. 29:23.

■ 21:12 Execute judgment. See 9:24. This requirement of justice (see text note) was expected both of the king and the messianic King (23:5; 2 Sam. 8:15; 1 Kin. 3:28; Ps. 72:1, 2).

■ 22:2 O king of Judah. A word for any of the kings, serving as the prelude to a demonstration of their virtually unbroken failure.

throne of David, you and your servants and your people who enter these gates! 3 Thus says the LORD: [b]"Execute[1] judgment and righteousness, and deliver the plundered out of the hand of the oppressor. Do no wrong and do no violence to the stranger, the [c]fatherless, or the widow, nor shed innocent blood in this place. 4 For if you indeed do this thing, [d]then shall enter the gates of this house, riding on horses and in chariots, accompanied by servants and people, kings who sit on the throne of David. 5 But if you will not [2]hear these words, [e]I swear by Myself," says the LORD, "that this house shall become a desolation." ' "

6 For thus says the LORD to the house of the king of Judah:

"You are [f]Gilead to Me,
The head of Lebanon;
Yet I surely will make you a wilderness,
Cities which are not inhabited.
7 I will prepare destroyers against you,
Everyone with his weapons;
They shall cut down [g]your choice cedars
[h]And cast them into the fire.

8 And many nations will pass by this city; and everyone will say to his neighbor, [i]'Why has the LORD done so to this great city?' 9 Then they will answer, [j]'Because they have forsaken the covenant of the LORD their God, and worshiped other gods and served them.' "

10 Weep not for [k]the dead, nor bemoan him;
Weep bitterly for him [l]who goes away,
For he shall return no more,
Nor see his native country.

Message to the Sons of Josiah

11 For thus says the LORD concerning [m]Shallum[3] the son of Josiah, king of Judah, who reigned instead of Josiah his father, [n]who went from this place: "He shall not return here anymore, 12 but he shall die in the place where they have led him captive, and shall see this land no more.

13 "Woe[o] to him who builds his house by unrighteousness
And his [4]chambers by injustice,
[p]Who uses his neighbor's service without wages
And gives him nothing for his work,
14 Who says, 'I will build myself a wide house with spacious [5]chambers,
And cut out windows for it,
Paneling it with cedar
And painting it with vermilion.'

15 "Shall you reign because you enclose yourself in cedar?
Did not your father eat and drink,
And do justice and righteousness?
Then [q]it was well with him.
16 He [6]judged the cause of the poor and needy;
Then it was well.

■ 22:6 Gilead . . . Lebanon. These were fertile regions (cf. 8:22 and note). Lebanon was well-watered and rich in forests, especially cedar, which was used for the Jerusalem temple (1 Kin. 5:6–10).

■ 22:7 prepare. Lit. "consecrate." Language normally used of war undertaken by God for His people is used, shockingly, of a foreign army arrayed against God's people (6:4, 5; 21:4, 5).

■ 22:10 the dead . . . him who goes away. That is, Josiah and his son Shallum (v. 11; also called Jehoahaz, 1 Chr. 3:15 text note). Shallum reigned briefly and was exiled to Egypt in 609 B.C. (2 Kin. 23:30–34). This saying probably dates from that year.

■ 22:15 Shall you reign . . . well with him. The contrast is between kingship seen as the exercise of justice (Josiah) and kingship as an opportunity for getting wealth (Jehoiakim).

■ 22:16 Was not this knowing Me. See Ps. 9:18 note. Knowing the Lord requires being faithful to His commands (Mic. 6:6–8; John 14:15, 17).

And practicing oppression and violence."

18 Therefore thus says the LORD concerning Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah:

s"They shall not lament for him,
Saying, t'Alas, my brother!' or 'Alas, my sister!'
They shall not lament for him,
Saying, 'Alas, master!' or 'Alas, his glory!'
19 u He shall be buried with the burial of a donkey,
Dragged and cast out beyond the gates of Jerusalem.

20 "Go up to Lebanon, and cry out,
And lift up your voice in Bashan;

But you said, 'I will not hear.'

Surely then you will be ashamed and humiliated
For all your wickedness.

■ 22:20 Lebanon . . . Bashan . . . Abarim. These mountainous regions lie to the north, northeast, and southeast respectively. Jerusalem is pictured as wailing for help to former allies, themselves now powerless before Babylon, leaving Jerusalem to cry alone.

■ 22:23 inhabitant of Lebanon. In the present context this phrase is a figure for Jerusalem, related to the close trade connections between Jerusalem and Lebanon. The temple and palace were built with cedar from Lebanon (v. 6 note). The name connotes the pride and false sense of security of Judah.

■ 22:24–30 This oracle is against Jehoiachin (here called "Coniah"; see text note on v. 24), in whose reign the first major deportations to Babylon occurred.

■ 22:24 signet. This represents the identity of the owner, and to reject it is shocking. Later, the same language is used to promise a renewal of the Davidic kingdom (Hag. 2:23).

■ 22:26 you . . . and your mother. See 13:18 and note.

into another country. This reference to exile in Babylon is fulfilled in 597 B.C. (29:2; 2 Kin. 24:15).

■ 22:29 O earth, earth, earth. In this address to the land we hear the Lord's grief over His inheritance, defiled by Judah's sin (2:7 and note; 12:4).

■ 22:30 Write this man down as childless. Though Jehoiachin had children (1 Chr. 3:17, 18), none of them would reign as king over Judah. Promises of future Davidic kingship (e.g., 23:5, 6) were fulfilled beyond the scope of the historical Israelite and Judean kingdoms—in Christ the Son of Man (Dan. 7:13 and note), and the greater son of David (Matt. 22:41–46). Even the promise to Zerubbabel (Hag. 2:23), Jehoiachin's grandson (1 Chr. 3:19), finds fulfillment in Christ, since Zerubbabel never reigned as king. Israel was abandoned until Christ came (Mic. 5:3).

'Write this man down as [e]childless,
A man who shall not prosper in his days;
For [f]none of his descendants shall prosper,
Sitting on the throne of David,
And ruling anymore in Judah.' "

The Branch of Righteousness

23 "Woe [a]to the shepherds who destroy and scatter the sheep of My pasture!" says the LORD. 2 Therefore thus says the LORD God of Israel against the shepherds who feed My people: "You have scattered My flock, driven them away, and not attended to them. [b]Behold, I will attend to you for the evil of your doings," says the LORD. 3 "But [c]I will gather the remnant of My flock out of all countries where I have driven them, and bring them back to their folds; and they shall be fruitful and increase. 4 I will set up [d]shepherds over them who will feed them; and they shall fear no more, nor be dismayed, nor shall they be lacking," says the LORD.

5 "Behold, [e]the days are coming," says the LORD,
"That I will raise to David a Branch of righteousness;
A King shall reign and [1]prosper,
[f]And execute [2]judgment and righteousness in the [3]earth.
6 [g]In His days Judah will be saved,
And Israel [h]will dwell safely;
Now [i]this is His name by which He will be called:

[4]THE LORD OUR RIGHTEOUSNESS.

7 "Therefore, behold, [j]the days are coming," says the LORD, "that they shall no longer say, 'As the LORD lives who brought up the children of Israel from the land of Egypt,' 8 but, 'As the LORD lives who brought up and led the descendants of the house of Israel from the north country [k]and from all the countries where I had driven them.' And they shall dwell in their own [l]land."

False Prophets and Empty Oracles

[m]All my bones shake.
I am like a drunken man,

Omnipresence and Omnipotence

God is present in all places; however, we should not think of Him as filling space, for He has no physical dimensions. It is as spirit that He is everywhere. Although it surpasses the understanding of body-bound creatures like ourselves, God Himself is present everywhere in His majesty and power. Needy souls praying to Him anywhere in the world are in His sight and receive His personal attention. Belief in God's omnipresence is apparent in Ps. 139:7–10; Jer. 23:23, 24; Acts 17:24–28. When Paul speaks of the ascended Christ as filling all things (Eph. 4:8), Christ's availability everywhere in the fullness of His power is certainly part of the meaning. Father, Son, and Holy Spirit are omnipresent, though the personal presence of the glorified Son is not physical (in the body).

"I know that You can do everything, and that no purpose of Yours can be withheld" (Job 42:2). Job testifies that God is omnipotent. He is all-powerful, almighty. God has power to do everything that in His perfect wisdom and goodness He wills to do. Omnipotence does not mean that God can do literally everything: God cannot sin, lie, change His nature or deny the demands of His holy character (Num. 23:19; 1 Sam. 15:29; 2 Tim. 2:13; Heb. 6:18; James 1:13, 17). He cannot make a square circle, for the notion of a square circle is self-contradictory; He cannot cease to be God. But all that He wills and promises He can and will do.

Was it excessive for David to say, "I will love You, O LORD, my strength. The LORD is my rock and my fortress and my deliverer; my God, my strength, in whom I will trust; my shield and the horn of my salvation, my stronghold" (Ps. 18:1, 2)? Was it excessive for another psalmist to declare, "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble" (Ps. 46:1)? It would have been a fault to say such things if God were less than omnipresent and omnipotent. But the knowledge of God's greatness, including His omnipresence and omnipotence, produces great faith and high praise.

■ 23:23 at hand . . . afar. The point is that nothing, near or far, can escape God's knowledge (Ps. 139:2; Amos 9:2, 3).

■ 23:24 See theological note "Omnipresence and Omnipotence."

■ 23:25 dreamed . . . dreamed. The dream was one way in which a revelation might come to a prophet (Num. 12:6; cf. Joel 2:28); yet such claims should always be treated with due suspicion and tested against the rest of God's revelation (Deut. 13:1–3).

■ 23:28 dream . . . word . . . chaff . . . wheat. The false dream is to the true prophetic word as chaff is to wheat; only the wheat has any value.

■ 23:29 fire . . . hammer. There can be no mistaking the true word, because of its inevitable effects (Amos 3:8).

■ 23:30 who steal My words. For a case of prophetic jealousy, see 1 Kin. 22:24.

■ 23:31 says the LORD . . . and say, 'He says.' The false prophets disguise their own words as words from God by using the prophetic formula.

tongues and say, 'He says.' 32 Behold, I am against those who prophesy false dreams," says the LORD, "and tell them, and cause My people to err by their [q]lies and by [r]their recklessness. Yet I did not send them or command them; therefore they shall not [s]profit this people at all," says the LORD.

33 "So when these people or the prophet or the priest ask you, saying, 'What is [t]the [8]oracle of the LORD?' you shall then say to them, [9]'What oracle?' I will even forsake you," says the LORD. 34 "And as for the prophet and the priest and the people who say, 'The [1]oracle of the LORD!' I will even punish that man and his house. 35 Thus every one of you shall say to his neighbor, and every one to his brother, 'What has the LORD answered?' and, 'What has the LORD spoken?' 36 And the [2]oracle of the LORD you shall mention no more. For every man's word will be his oracle, for you have [u]perverted the words of the living God, the LORD of hosts, our God. 37 Thus you shall say to the prophet, 'What has the LORD answered you?' and, 'What has the LORD spoken?' 38 But since you say, 'The [3]oracle of the LORD!' therefore thus says the LORD: 'Because you say this word, "The oracle of the LORD!" and I have sent to you, saying, "Do not say, 'The oracle of the LORD!' " 39 therefore behold, I, even I, [v]will utterly forget you and forsake you, and the city that I gave you and your fathers, and will cast you out of My presence. 40 And I will bring [w]an everlasting reproach upon you, and a perpetual [x]shame, which shall not be forgotten.' "

The Sign of Two Baskets of Figs

24 The [a]LORD showed me, and there were two baskets of figs set before the temple of the LORD, after Nebuchadnezzar [b]king of Babylon had carried away captive [c]Jeconiah the son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, and the princes of Judah with the craftsmen and smiths, from Jerusalem, and had brought them to Babylon. 2 One basket had very good figs, like the figs that are first ripe; and the other basket had very bad figs which could not be eaten, they were so [d]bad.

3 Then the LORD said to me, "What do you see, Jeremiah?"

And I said, "Figs, the good figs, very good; and the bad, very bad, which cannot be eaten, they are so bad."

4 Again the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 5 "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: 'Like these good figs, so will I [f]acknowledge those who are carried away captive from Judah, whom I have sent out of this place for their own good, into the land of the Chaldeans. 6 For I will set My eyes on them for good, and [e]I will bring them back to this land; [f]I will build them and not pull them down, and I will plant them and not pluck them up. 7 Then I will give them [g]a heart to know Me, that I am the LORD; and they shall be [h]My people, and I will be their God, for they shall return to Me [i]with their whole heart.

8 'And as the bad [j]figs which cannot be eaten, they are so bad'—surely thus says the LORD—'so will I give up Zedekiah the king of Judah, his princes, the [k]residue of Jerusalem who remain in this land, and [l]those who dwell in the land of Egypt. 9 I will deliver them to [m]trouble into all the kingdoms of the earth, for their harm, [n]to be a reproach and a byword, a taunt and a curse, in all places where I shall drive them. 10 And I will send the sword, the famine, and the pestilence among them, till they are [2]consumed from the land that I gave to them and their fathers.' "

1 [a]Jer. 36:1 [b]2 Kin. 24:1, 2

■ 23:39 forget . . . forsake. Some Hebrew manuscripts and ancient versions read, "I will surely lift you up and cast you away," a difference of only the location of a dot above a letter. That reading makes a play on words, since in the Hebrew, "oracle" and "lift up" sound almost the same. They talk without authority about God's "oracle," and God's response will be to "lift them up."

■ 24:1–10 A vision of two baskets of figs, one representing those exiled to Babylon, and the other those who would resist exile and with it the Lord's purpose of judgment and salvation. This prophecy reveals that it is too late to avert the exile by repentance (21:9).

■ 24:1 Jeconiah . . . to Babylon. The first large deportation was in 597 B.C. (2 Kin. 24:14–16).

■ 24:2 very good figs . . . very bad figs. There is in Judah a remnant who will be preserved for God's purposes ("good figs"), but their leaders are so corrupt that they are beyond redemption and can only be destroyed by judgment ("bad figs," vv. 8–10).

■ 24:5–7 The "good figs" symbolize the exiles, those whom God preserves through the due punishment for Judah's sin, and in whom henceforth His purposes will be accomplished.

■ 24:7 I will give them a heart to know Me. The Lord's answer to His people's inability to maintain the covenant relationship is for He Himself to intervene and create in them a new capacity for knowing Him.

they shall be My people, and I will be their God. Use of the basic covenant formula (32:38; Lev. 26:12) shows that this answer is nothing less than a new covenant. The theology introduced here is developed at 31:31–34.

■ 25:1—29:32 Jeremiah predicts seventy years of Babylonian captivity for Judah as judgment for persistent sin, and warns the neighboring na-nezzar king of Babylon), [2] which Jeremiah the prophet spoke to all the people of Judah and to all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, saying: [3] [c]"From the thirteenth year of Josiah the son of Amon, king of Judah, even to this day, this is the twenty-third year in which the word of the LORD has come to me; and I have spoken to you, rising early and speaking, [d]but you have not listened. [4] And the LORD has sent to you all His servants the prophets, [e]rising early and sending them, but you have not listened nor inclined your ear to hear. [5] They said, [f]'Repent now everyone of his evil way and his evil doings, and dwell in the land that the LORD has given to you and your fathers forever and ever. [6] Do not go after other gods to serve them and worship them, and do not provoke Me to anger with the works of your hands; and I will not harm you.' [7] Yet you have not listened to Me," says the LORD, "that you might [g]provoke Me to anger with the works of your hands to your own hurt.

[8] "Therefore thus says the LORD of hosts: 'Because you have not heard My words, [9] behold, I will send and take [h]all the families of the north,' says the LORD, 'and Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, [i]My servant, and will bring them against this land, against its inhabitants, and against these nations all around, and will utterly destroy them, and [j]make them an astonishment, a hissing, and perpetual desolations. [10] Moreover I will [l]take from them the [k]voice of mirth and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, [l]the sound of the millstones and the light of the lamp. [11] And this whole land shall be a desolation and an astonishment, and these nations shall serve the king of Babylon seventy [m]years.

[12] 'Then it will come to pass, [n]when [2]seventy years are completed, that I will punish the king of Babylon and that nation, the land of the Chaldeans, for their iniquity,' says the LORD; [o]'and I will make it a perpetual desolation. [13] So I will bring on that land all My words which I have pronounced against it, all that is written in this book, which Jeremiah has prophesied concerning all the nations. [14] [p](For many nations [q]and great kings shall [r]be served by them also; [s]and I will repay them according to their deeds and according to the works of their own hands.)' "

Judgment on the Nations

[15] For thus says the LORD God of Israel to me: "Take this [t]wine cup of [3]fury from My hand, and cause all the nations, to whom I send you, to drink it. [16] And [u]they will drink and stagger and go mad because of the sword that I will send among them."

[17] Then I took the cup from the LORD's hand, and made all the nations drink, to whom the LORD had sent me: [18] Jerusalem and the cities of Judah, its kings and its princes, to make them [v]a desolation, an astonishment, a hissing, and [w]a curse, as it is this day; [19] Pharaoh king of Egypt, his servants, his princes, and all his people; [20] all the mixed multitude, all the kings of [x]the land of Uz, all the kings of the land of the [y]Philistines (namely, Ashkelon, Gaza, Ekron, and [z]the remnant of Ashdod); [21] [a]Edom, Moab, and the people of Ammon; [22] all the kings of [b]Tyre, all the kings of Sidon, and the kings of the coastlands which are across the [c]sea; [23] [d]Dedan, Tema, Buz, and all who are in the farthest corners; [24] all the kings of Arabia and all the kings of the [e]mixed tions as well of judgment at the hands of Babylon (ch. 25). His message meets opposition from false prophets, priests, and the people (chs. 26—29).

■ 25:1 fourth year of Jehoiakim. Babylon began its attacks in Palestine and Judah became a Babylonian vassal state in 605 B.C.

■ 25:3 thirteenth year of Josiah. See 1:2 and notes.

■ 25:4 rising early. Jeremiah's persistence was part of a long prophetic mission to Israel. Like his predecessors, his ministry failed to obtain the desired response (7:13 and note).

■ 25:9 families of the north. Babylon and her allies (1:15; 6:1).

Nebuchadnezzar . . . My servant. See also 27:6. He is God's "servant" in the sense of being appointed as an agent of His judgment. In the same way Cyrus is called God's "anointed" for the purpose of releasing the exiles to return to their land (Is. 45:1).

nations all around. See vv. 19–26. The judgment on Judah is only the beginning of a general judgment.

■ 25:11, 12 seventy years. See 29:10. This period may be counted in round figures from 605 B.C. (v. 1; Dan. 1:1) to 538 B.C., when the exiles began to return home following Cyrus's decree (2 Chr. 36:20–23). The seventy years allow the Lord's word of judgment to have full effect before new salvation can be experienced.

punish the king of Babylon. This prophecy is developed further in chs. 50; 51. The agent of punishment is in turn punished for her own sins (50:18; cf. Is. 10:5–7, 12).

■ 25:13 in this book. In the Septuagint (the ancient Greek translation of the Old Testament) the "oracles against the nations" from chs. 46—51 occur after this phrase. Those oracles appear in different orders in the Hebrew and Greek versions.

■ 25:14 many nations and great kings. Possibly Persia and its allies, but more likely a general statement of the principle that agents of God's judgment are themselves subject to judgment (vv. 11, 12 note).

■ 25:18 Jerusalem and . . . Judah. God's judgment is first visited upon His chosen people, as befits those who are most privileged (25:29; Amos 3:2).

■ 25:20 Ashkelon . . . remnant of Ashdod. This list of Philistine cities omits Gath, apparently already destroyed (Amos 1:6–8). Ashdod had been partially destroyed by the Egyptians during the seventh century. See also 47:1–7.

■ 25:21 Edom, Moab, and . . . Ammon. See 49:7–22; 48:1—49:6.

■ 25:22 Tyre . . . Sidon. The principal cities of Phoenicia, both ports on the Mediterranean coast. See Ezek. 28:1–23.

■ 25:23 Dedan, Tema. Tribes living in northern Arabia (Is. 21:13, 14). Buz was probably also an Arabian tribal group.

■ 25:24 Arabia. See 49:28–33.

multitude who dwell in the desert; [25] all the kings of Zimri, all the kings of [f]Elam, and all the kings of the [g]Medes; [26] [h]all the kings of the north, far and near, one with another; and all the kingdoms of the world which are on the face of the earth. Also the king of [4]Sheshach shall drink after them.

[27] "Therefore you shall say to them, 'Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: [i]"Drink, [j]be drunk, and vomit! Fall and rise no more, because of the sword which I will send among you." ' [28] And it shall be, if they refuse to take the cup from your hand to drink, then you shall say to them, 'Thus says the LORD of hosts: "You shall certainly drink! [29] For behold, [k]I begin to bring calamity on the city [l]which is called by My name, and should you be utterly unpunished? You shall not be unpunished, for [m]I will call for a sword on all the inhabitants of the earth," says the LORD of hosts.'

[30] "Therefore prophesy against them all these words, and say to them:

'The LORD will [n]roar from on high,
And utter His voice from [o]His holy habitation;
He will roar mightily against [p]His fold.
He will give [q]a shout, as those who tread the grapes,
Against all the inhabitants of the earth.
[31] A noise will come to the ends of the earth—
For the LORD has [r]a controversy with the nations;
[s]He will plead His case with all flesh.
He will give those who are wicked to the sword,' says the LORD."

[32] Thus says the LORD of hosts:

"Behold, disaster shall go forth
From nation to nation,
And [t]a great whirlwind shall be raised up
From the farthest parts of the earth.

[33] [u]"And at that day the slain of the LORD shall be from one end of the earth even to the other end of the earth. They shall not be [v]lamented, [w]or gathered, or buried; they shall become refuse on the ground.

[34] "Wail,[x] shepherds, and cry!
Roll about in the ashes,
You leaders of the flock!
For the days of your slaughter and your dispersions are fulfilled;
You shall fall like a precious vessel.
[35] And the shepherds will have no [5]way to flee,
Nor the leaders of the flock to escape.
[36] A voice of the cry of the shepherds,
And a wailing of the leaders to the flock will be heard.
For the LORD has plundered their pasture,
[37] And the peaceful dwellings are cut down
Because of the fierce anger of the LORD.
[38] He has left His lair like the lion;
For their land is desolate
Because of the fierceness of the Oppressor,
And because of His fierce anger."

■ 25:25 Zimri. Unknown.

Medes. Having themselves been defeated by Cyrus, the Medes participated with the Persians in the conquest.

■ 25:26 Sheshach. This word is an allusion to Babylon based on the word "Babel," using a familiar code that substitutes for each consonant the corresponding one from the alphabet written in reverse. In English, ABC would become ZYX.

■ 25:29 city which is called by My name. That is, Jerusalem; see notes on 7:10–15. The Lord would not punish His own people while ignoring the wickedness of other nations. An important factor in the theology of judgment against the nations is that the honor of God's own name is at stake in the fate of His people.

■ 25:31 a controversy. A legal action in which the Lord claims His right to punish the guilty (2:9 note).

■ 25:37 peaceful dwellings. "Dwellings" is the same Hebrew word as "fold" in v. 30.

■ 25:38 like the lion. See note on 2:15. Here Jeremiah refers to the Lord (Amos 3:8).

Jeremiah Saved from Death

CHAPTER 26

26 In the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah, this word came from the LORD, saying, 2 "Thus says the LORD: 'Stand in [a]the court of the LORD's house, and speak to all the cities of Judah, which come to worship in the LORD's house, [b]all the words that I command you to speak to them. [c]Do not diminish a word. 3 [d]Perhaps everyone will listen and turn from his evil way, that I may [e]relent concerning the calamity which I purpose to bring on them because of the evil of their doings.' 4 And you shall say to them, 'Thus says the LORD: [f]"If you will not listen to Me, to walk in My law which I have set before you, 5 to heed the words of My servants the prophets [g]whom I sent to you, both rising up early and sending them (but you have not heeded), 6 then I will make this house like [h]Shiloh, and will make this city [i]a curse to all the nations of the earth." ' "

7 So the priests and the prophets and all the people heard Jeremiah speaking these words in the house of the LORD. 8 Now it happened, when Jeremiah had made an end of speaking all that the LORD had commanded him to speak to all the people, that the priests and the prophets and all the people seized him, saying, "You will surely die! 9 Why have you prophesied in the name of the LORD, saying, 'This house shall be like Shiloh, and this city shall be [j]desolate, without an inhabitant'?" And all the people were gathered against Jeremiah in the house of the LORD.

10 When the princes of Judah heard these things, they came up from the king's house to the house of the LORD and sat down in the entry of the New Gate of the LORD's house. 11 And the priests and the prophets spoke to the princes and all the people, saying, [l]"This man deserves to [k]die! For he has prophesied against this city, as you have heard with your ears."

12 Then Jeremiah spoke to all the princes and all the people, saying: "The LORD sent me to prophesy against this house and against this city with all the words that you have heard. 13 Now therefore, [l]amend your ways and your doings, and obey the voice of the LORD your God; then the LORD will relent concerning the doom that He has pronounced against you. 14 As for me, here [m]I am, in your hand; do with me as seems good and [2]proper to you. 15 But know for certain that if you put me to death, you will surely bring innocent blood on yourselves, on this city, and on its inhabitants; for truly the LORD has sent me to you to speak all these words in your hearing."

16 So the princes and all the people said to the priests and the prophets, "This man does not deserve to die. For he has spoken to us in the name of the LORD our God."

17 [n]Then certain of the elders of the land rose up and spoke to all the assembly of the people, saying: 18 [o]"Micah of Moresheth prophesied in the days of Hezekiah king of Judah, and spoke to all the people of Judah, saying, 'Thus says the LORD of hosts:

> [p]"Zion shall be plowed like a field,
> Jerusalem shall become [q]heaps of ruins,
> And the mountain of the [3]temple
> Like the [4]bare hills of the forest." '

19 Did Hezekiah king of Judah and all Judah ever put him to death? [r]Did he not fear the LORD and [s]seek the LORD's favor? And the LORD [t]relented concerning the doom which He had pronounced against them. [u]But we are doing great evil against ourselves."

20 Now there was also a man who prophesied in the name of the LORD, Urijah the son of Shemaiah of Kirjath Jearim, who prophesied against this city and against this land according to all the words of Jeremiah. 21 And when Jehoiakim the king, with all his mighty men and all the

■ 26:1 In the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim. Possibly his first year (609–608 B.C.). The fuller account of the temple sermon (7:1–15) is not dated. This date formula brings Jehoiakim into the foreground as one who rejects Jeremiah's words (ch. 36).

■ 26:2 the court. Probably the inner courtyard.

■ 26:8 You will surely die. This phrase was used in handing down the sentence for capital crimes (Ex. 21:15–17; Deut. 18:20). Jeremiah is evidently held to be a false prophet because of the people's belief that God's temple could never be destroyed.

■ 26:10 the princes of Judah. These persons had legal duties in the royal administration; their arrival indicates that a formal proceeding against Jeremiah is about to begin.

New Gate. The gates were the normal place for court hearings (Ruth 4:1; Prov. 31:23).

■ 26:16 This man does not deserve to die. Contrast v. 11. This verdict is a remarkable vindication of Jeremiah's authenticity as a prophet.

■ 26:18, 19 Micah of Moresheth. His precedent is cited in support of the judgment just given, because as a result of his prophecy that Jerusalem would fall (Mic. 3:12), the people repented of their sin. King Hezekiah prayed for Jerusalem and avoided defeat by the Assyrians in 701 B.C. (cf. Is. 37:14–38).

■ 26:20–23 The story of Urijah shows that Jeremiah was not alone in his preaching; it also stresses that Jeremiah's escape is not the most important point of this chapter, but rather the opposition in Judah to the word of God. Urijah died; Jeremiah lived, to complete his God-ordained ministry. Compare the various fates of the heroes of faith in Heb. 11:32–38.

princes, heard his words, the king sought to put him to death; but when Urijah heard it, he was afraid and fled, and went to Egypt. 22 Then Jehoiakim the king sent men to Egypt: Elnathan the son of Achbor, and other men who went with him to Egypt. 23 And they brought Urijah from Egypt and brought him to Jehoiakim the king, who killed him with the sword and cast his dead body into the graves of the [5]common people.

24 Nevertheless [v]the hand of Ahikam the son of Shaphan was with Jeremiah, so that they should not give him into the hand of the people to put him to death.

Symbol of the Bonds and Yokes

27 In[1] the beginning of the reign of [2]Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, [a]king of Judah, this word came to Jeremiah from the LORD, saying, 2 "Thus says the LORD to me: 'Make for yourselves bonds and yokes, [b]and put them on your neck, 3 and send them to the king of Edom, the king of Moab, the king of the Ammonites, the king of Tyre, and the king of Sidon, by the hand of the messengers who come to Jerusalem to Zedekiah king of Judah. 4 And command them to say to their masters, "Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel—thus you shall say to your masters: 5 [c]'I have made the earth, the man and the beast that are on the ground, by My great power and by My outstretched arm, and [d]have given it to whom it seemed proper to Me. 6 [e]And now I have given all these lands into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, [f]My servant; and [g]the beasts of the field I have also given him to serve him. 7 [h]So all nations shall serve him and his son and his son's son, [i]until the time of his land comes; [j]and then many nations and great kings shall make him serve them. 8 And it shall be, that the nation and kingdom which will not serve Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, and which will not put its neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon, that nation I will punish,' says the LORD, 'with the sword, the famine, and the pestilence, until I have consumed them by his hand. 9 Therefore do not listen to your prophets, your diviners, your [3]dreamers, your soothsayers, or your sorcerers, who speak to you, saying, "You shall not serve the king of Babylon." 10 For they prophesy a [k]lie to you, to remove you far from your land; and I will drive you out, and you will perish. 11 But the nations that bring their necks under the yoke of the king of Babylon and serve him, I will let them remain in their own land,' says the LORD, 'and they shall till it and dwell in it.' " ' "

12 I also spoke to [l]Zedekiah king of Judah according to all these words, saying, "Bring your necks under the yoke of the king of Babylon, and serve him and his people, and live! 13 [m]Why will you die, you and your people, by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence, as the LORD has spoken against the nation that will not serve the king of Babylon? 14 Therefore [n]do not listen to the words of the prophets who speak to you, saying, 'You shall not serve the king of Babylon,' for they prophesy [o]a lie to you; 15 for I have [p]not sent them," says the LORD, "yet they prophesy a lie in My name, that I may drive you out, and that you may perish, you and the prophets who prophesy to you."

16 Also I spoke to the priests and to all this people, saying, "Thus says the LORD: 'Do not listen to the words of your prophets who prophesy to you, saying, "Behold, [q]the vessels of the LORD's house will now shortly be brought back from Babylon"; for they prophesy a lie to you. 17 Do not listen to them; serve the king of Babylon, and live! Why should this city be laid waste?

■ 26:22 Elnathan the son of Achbor. Contrast his action on Jeremiah's behalf in 36:12, 25—an evidence of shifting roles, which must have made Jeremiah's safety seem precarious.

■ 26:23 graves of the common people. The cemetery was located in the Kidron Valley, east of Jerusalem (2 Kin. 23:6).

■ 26:24 Ahikam the son of Shaphan was with Jeremiah. An official under Josiah (2 Kin. 22:12, 14), his support may have been decisive in Jeremiah's deliverance.

■ 27:1 In the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim. The name "Jehoiakim" in the traditional Hebrew Masoretic Text is apparently a copyist's error influenced by 26:1. Other Hebrew manuscripts and some ancient versions read "Zedekiah," who is the king named elsewhere in this chapter (vv. 3, 12). Zedekiah was a son of Josiah (1 Chr. 3:15). These events occurred in the fourth year of Zedekiah's reign, 593 B.C. (28:1 note).

■ 27:3 Edom . . . Sidon. See 25:21, 22; these nations too are under the Lord's judgment.

great power and . . . My outstretched arm. See 21:5.

■ 27:9 prophets . . . sorcerers. All these serve merely to bolster the political system, in this case with an exhortation not to submit to Babylon. These false prophets and other classes are forbidden in Israel (14:14; Lev. 19:26; Deut. 18:10, 11).

■ 27:11 I will let them remain in their own land. Judah and its neighbors could still avoid total exile by accepting God's judgment of submission to Babylon.

■ 27:12 serve him . . . and live. Jeremiah pleads with Judah to accept dominion by Babylon and the exile of some of its leaders (Jehoiachin and those taken in 597 B.C., 2 Kin. 24:15, 16) as part of God's plan for her ultimate salvation (24:5).

■ 27:16 Behold. This false message was proclaimed by Hananiah (28:1–3).

vessels of the LORD's house. These vessels were carried off, some in 605 B.C. (Dan. 1:1, 2), some in 597 B.C. (2 Kin. 24:13).

18 But if they are prophets, and if the word of the LORD is with them, let them now make intercession to the LORD of hosts, that the vessels which are left in the house of the LORD, in the house of the king of Judah, and at Jerusalem, do not go to Babylon.'

19 "For thus says the LORD of hosts [r]concerning the pillars, concerning the Sea, concerning the carts, and concerning the remainder of the vessels that remain in this city, 20 which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon did not take, when he carried away [s]captive Jeconiah the son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, from Jerusalem to Babylon, and all the nobles of Judah and Jerusalem— 21 yes, thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, concerning the [t]vessels that remain in the house of the LORD, and in the house of the king of Judah and of Jerusalem: 22 'They shall be [u]carried to Babylon, and there they shall be until the day that I [v]visit them,' says the LORD. 'Then [w]I will bring them up and restore them to this place.' "

Hananiah's Falsehood and Doom

28 And [a]it happened in the same year, at the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the [b]fourth year and in the fifth month, that Hananiah the son of [c]Azur the prophet, who was from Gibeon, spoke to me in the house of the LORD in the presence of the priests and of all the people, saying, 2 "Thus speaks the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, saying: 'I have broken [d]the yoke of the king of Babylon. 3 [e]Within two full years I will bring back to this place all the vessels of the LORD's house, that Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon [f]took away from this place and carried to Babylon. 4 And I will bring back to this place [l]Jeconiah the son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, with all the captives of Judah who went to Babylon,' says the LORD, 'for I will break the yoke of the king of Babylon.' "

5 Then the prophet Jeremiah spoke to the prophet Hananiah in the presence of the priests and in the presence of all the people who stood in the house of the LORD, 6 and the prophet Jeremiah said, [g]"Amen! The LORD do so; the LORD perform your words which you have prophesied, to bring back the vessels of the LORD's house and all who were carried away captive, from Babylon to this place. 7 Nevertheless hear now this word that I speak in your hearing and in the hearing of all the people: 8 The prophets who have been before me and before you of old prophesied against many countries and great kingdoms—of war and disaster and pestilence. 9 As for [h]the prophet who prophesies of [i]peace, when the word of the prophet comes to pass, the prophet will be known as one whom the LORD has truly sent."

10 Then Hananiah the prophet took the [j]yoke off the prophet Jeremiah's neck and broke it. 11 And Hananiah spoke in the presence of all the people, saying, "Thus says the LORD: 'Even so I will break the yoke of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon [k]from the neck of all nations within the space of two full years.' " And the prophet Jeremiah went his way.

12 Now the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah, after Hananiah the prophet had broken the yoke from the neck of the prophet Jeremiah, saying, 13 "Go and tell Hananiah, saying, 'Thus says the LORD: "You have broken the yokes of wood, but you have made in their place yokes of iron." 14 For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: [l]"I have put a yoke of iron on the neck of all these nations, that they may serve Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon; and they shall serve him. [m]I have given him the beasts of the field also." ' "

15 Then the prophet Jeremiah said to Hananiah the prophet, "Hear now, Hananiah, the LORD has not sent you, but [n]you make this people trust in a [o]lie. 16 Therefore thus says the LORD: 'Behold, I will cast you from the face of the earth. This year you shall [p]die, because you have taught [q]rebellion against the LORD.' "

17 So Hananiah the prophet died the same year in the seventh month.

■ 28:8 before me and before you. Jeremiah includes Hananiah with himself among the prophets and reminds him that the Lord's message has been principally judgment.

■ 28:13 yokes of wood . . . yokes of iron. The Lord's will could not be frustrated by Hananiah's symbolic act. Hananiah dramatizes Judah's resistance, that can only make the inevitable servitude harsher.

■ 28:16 cast. The same Hebrew word as "sent" (v. 15), an ironic play on words since this "sending" is to his death.

rebellion. The rebellion was ostensibly against Babylon, but really against God (Deut. 13:5).

CHAPTER 29

Jeremiah's Letter to the Captives

29 Now these are the words of the letter that Jeremiah the prophet sent from Jerusalem to the remainder of the elders who were [a]carried away captive—to the priests, the prophets, and all the people whom Nebuchadnezzar had carried away captive from Jerusalem to Babylon. 2 (This happened after [b]Jeconiah[1] the king, the [c]queen mother, the [2]eunuchs, the princes of Judah and Jerusalem, the craftsmen, and the smiths had departed from Jerusalem.) 3 The letter was sent by the hand of Elasah the son of [d]Shaphan, and Gemariah the son of Hilkiah, whom Zedekiah king of Judah sent to Babylon, to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, saying,

4 Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, to all who were carried away captive, whom I have caused to be carried away from Jerusalem to Babylon:

5 Build houses and dwell in them; plant gardens and eat their fruit. 6 Take wives and beget sons and daughters; and take wives for your sons and give your daughters to husbands, so that they may bear sons and daughters—that you may be increased there, and not diminished. 7 And seek the peace of the city where I have caused you to be carried away captive, [e]and pray to the LORD for it; for in its peace you will have peace. 8 For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Do not let your prophets and your diviners who are in your midst [f]deceive you, nor listen to your dreams which you cause to be dreamed. 9 For they prophesy [g]falsely to you in My name; I have not sent them, says the LORD.

10 For thus says the LORD: After [h]seventy years are completed at Babylon, I will visit you and perform My good word toward you, and cause you to [i]return to this place. 11 For I know the thoughts that I think toward you, says the LORD, thoughts of peace and not of evil, to give you a future and a hope. 12 Then you will [j]call upon Me and go and pray to Me, and I will [k]listen to you. 13 And [l]you will seek Me and find Me, when you search for Me [m]with all your heart. 14 [n]I will be found by you, says the LORD, and I will bring you back from your captivity; [o]I will gather you from all the nations and from all the places where I have driven you, says the LORD, and I will bring you to the place from which I cause you to be carried away captive.

15 Because you have said, "The LORD has raised up prophets for us in Babylon"—
16 [p]therefore thus says the LORD concerning the king who sits on the throne of David, concerning all the people who dwell in this city, and concerning your brethren who have not gone out with you into captivity— 17 thus says the LORD of hosts: Behold, I will send on them the sword, the famine, and the pestilence, and will make them like [q]rotten figs that cannot be eaten, they are so bad. 18 And I will pursue them with the sword, with famine, and with pestilence; and I [r]will deliver them to trouble among all the kingdoms of the earth—to be [s]a curse, an astonishment, a hissing, and a reproach among all the nations where I have driven them, 19 because they have not heeded My words, says the LORD, which [t]I sent to them by My servants the prophets, rising up early and sending them; neither would you heed, says the LORD. 20 Therefore hear the word of the LORD, all you of the captivity, whom I have sent from Jerusalem to Babylon.

21 Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, concerning Ahab the son of Kolaiah, and Zedekiah the son of Maaseiah, who prophesy a [u]lie to you in My name: Behold, I will deliver them into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and he shall slay them before your eyes. 22 [v]And because of them a curse shall be taken up by all the captivity of Judah who are in Babylon, saying, "The LORD make you like Zedekiah and Ahab, [w]whom the king of Babylon roasted in the fire"; 23 because [x]they have done disgraceful things in Israel, have committed adultery with their neighbors' wives, and have spoken lying words in My name, which I have not commanded them. Indeed I [y]know, and am a witness, says the LORD.

■ 29:3 Elasah the son of Shaphan. Possibly he was from the same family that had defended Jeremiah (26:24).

■ 29:5 Build houses and dwell in them. An act of commitment to their new lives, showing acceptance of the Lord's judgment (cf. Ezek. 8:1).

■ 29:7 peace. Peace (6:14 and note) is the chief covenantal blessing. The peace lightly promised by the false prophets (8:11) gives way to a true peace (see also John 14:27).

pray . . . for it. The Lord's blessing can come on any nation through the prayer and action of His people; compare Abraham (Gen. 20:17), Joseph (Gen. 37—50), and Daniel (Dan. 1—6).

■ 29:14 This verse echoes Deut. 30:3–5 (similar in turn to Deut. 4:29, 30).

bring you back from your captivity. The phrase implies a restoration of the relationship between the Lord and His people. See 30:3, 18; 31:23; 32:44; 33:7, 11, 26; 48:47; 49:6, 39.

■ 29:16 the king. That is, Zedekiah. That Zedekiah still ruled in Jerusalem, albeit as a Babylonian vassal, may have been a focus of false hope for the exiles.

■ 29:22 in the fire. A method of execution particularly associated in the Old Testament with the rule of Nebuchadnezzar (Dan. 3:6).

24 You shall also speak to Shemaiah the Nehelamite, saying, 25 Thus speaks the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, saying: You have sent letters in your name to all the people who are at Jerusalem, [z]to Zephaniah the son of Maaseiah the priest, and to all the priests, saying, 26 "The LORD has made you priest instead of Jehoiada the priest, so that there should be [a]officers in the house of the LORD over every man who is [b]demented and considers himself a prophet, that you should [c]put him in prison and in the stocks. 27 Now therefore, why have you not rebuked Jeremiah of Anathoth who makes himself a prophet to you? 28 For he has sent to us in Babylon, saying, 'This captivity is long; build houses and dwell in them, and plant gardens and eat their fruit.' "

29 Now Zephaniah the priest read this letter in the hearing of Jeremiah the prophet. 30 Then the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah, saying: 31 Send to all those in captivity, saying, Thus says the LORD concerning Shemaiah the Nehelamite: Because Shemaiah has prophesied to you, [d]and I have not sent him, and he has caused you to trust in a [e]lie— 32 therefore thus says the LORD: Behold, I will punish Shemaiah the Nehelamite and his [3]family: he shall not have anyone to dwell among this people, nor shall he see the good that I will do for My people, says the LORD, [f]because he has taught rebellion against the LORD.

Restoration of Israel and Judah

30 The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD, saying, 2 "Thus speaks the LORD God of Israel, saying: 'Write in a book for yourself all the words that I have spoken to you. 3 For behold, the days are coming,' says the LORD, 'that [a]I will bring back from captivity My people Israel and Judah,' says the LORD. [b]'And I will cause them to return to the land that I gave to their fathers, and they shall possess it.' "

4 Now these are the words that the LORD spoke concerning Israel and Judah.

5 "For thus says the LORD:

'We have heard a voice of trembling,
Of [1]fear, and not of peace.
6 Ask now, and see,
Whether a [2]man is ever in [3]labor with child?
So why do I see every man with his hands on his loins
[c]Like a woman in labor,
And all faces turned pale?
7 [d]Alas! For that day is great,
[e]So that none is like it;
And it is the time of Jacob's trouble,
But he shall be saved out of it.

8 'For it shall come to pass in that day,'
Says the LORD of hosts,
'That I will break his yoke from your neck,
And will burst your bonds;
Foreigners shall no more enslave them.
9 But they shall serve the LORD their God,
And [f]David their king,
Whom I will [g]raise up for them.

10 'Therefore [h]do not fear, O My servant Jacob,' says the LORD,
'Nor be dismayed, O Israel;
For behold, I will save you from afar,

■ 30:1—33:26 These chapters contain promises of restoration and of the new covenant (31:31–34). The certainty of restoration is portrayed in Jeremiah's purchase of a field (ch. 32).

■ 30:6 Whether a man . . . woman in labor. The anguish of childbirth is a picture of the suffering under the Babylonian armies (4:19, 31).

■ 30:7 that day. The day of the Lord; see Amos 5:18; 8:9. Amos's generation expected it as a day of deliverance, but had to learn that it would bring judgment.

■ 30:10 do not fear, O My servant Jacob. See Is. 41:8, 10; 43:1; 44:1, 2.

no one shall make him afraid. Contrast v. 5. This promise is a fulfillment of covenant blessing (Lev. 26:6).

And your seed [i]from the land of their captivity.
Jacob shall return, have rest and be quiet,
And no one shall make him afraid.
11 For I am with [j]you,' says the LORD, 'to save you;
[k]Though I make a full end of all nations where I have scattered you,
[l]Yet I will not make a complete end of you.
But I will correct you [m]in justice,
And will not let you go altogether unpunished.'

12 "For thus says the LORD:

[n]'Your affliction is incurable,
Your wound is severe.
13 There is no one to plead your cause,
That you may be bound up;
[o]You have no healing medicines.
14 [p]All your lovers have forgotten you;
They do not seek you;
For I have wounded you with the wound [q]of an enemy,
With the chastisement [r]of a cruel one,
For the multitude of your iniquities,
[s]Because your sins have increased.
15 Why [t]do you cry about your affliction?
Your sorrow is incurable.
Because of the multitude of your iniquities,
Because your sins have increased,
I have done these things to you.

16 'Therefore all those who devour you [u]shall be devoured;
And all your adversaries, every one of them, shall go into [v]captivity;
Those who plunder you shall become [w]plunder,
And all who prey upon you I will make a [x]prey.
17 [y]For I will restore health to you
And heal you of your wounds,' says the LORD,
'Because they called you an outcast saying:
"This is Zion;
No one seeks her." '

18 "Thus says the LORD:

'Behold, I will bring back the captivity of Jacob's tents,
And [z]have mercy on his dwelling places;
The city shall be built upon its own [4]mound,
And the palace shall remain according to its own plan.
19 Then [a]out of them shall proceed thanksgiving
And the voice of those who make merry;
[b]I will multiply them, and they shall not diminish;
I will also glorify them, and they shall not be small.
20 Their children also shall be [c]as before,
And their congregation shall be established before Me;
And I will punish all who oppress them.
21 Their nobles shall be from among them,
[d]And their governor shall come from their midst;
Then I will [e]cause him to draw near, congregation. A technical term denoting the political or religious assembly of the covenant people.

■ 30:21 Their nobles . . . governor . . . from their midst. Whereas Judah is being ruled by a foreign power during its exile, Jeremiah looks forward to the restoration of its political independence and special relationship with the Lord (v. 22).

And he shall approach Me;
For who is this who pledged his heart to approach Me?' says the LORD.
22 'You shall be [f]My people,
And I will be your God.' "

23 Behold, the [g]whirlwind of the LORD
Goes forth with fury,
A [5]continuing whirlwind;
It will fall violently on the head of the wicked.
24 The fierce anger of the LORD will not return until He has done it,
And until He has performed the intents of His heart.

[h]In the latter days you will consider it.

The Remnant of Israel Saved

31 "At [a]the same time," says the LORD, [b]"I will be the God of all the families of Israel, and they shall be My people."
2 Thus says the LORD:

"The people who survived the sword
Found grace in the wilderness—
Israel, when [c]I went to give him rest."

3 The LORD has appeared [1]of old to me, saying:
"Yes, [d]I have loved you with [e]an everlasting love;
Therefore with lovingkindness I have [f]drawn you.
4 Again [g]I will build you, and you shall be rebuilt,
O virgin of Israel!
You shall again be adorned with your [h]tambourines,
And shall go forth in the dances of those who rejoice.
5 [i]You shall yet plant vines on the mountains of Samaria;
The planters shall plant and [2]eat them as ordinary food.
6 For there shall be a day
When the watchmen will cry on Mount Ephraim,
[j]'Arise, and let us go up to Zion,
To the LORD our God.' "

7 For thus says the LORD:

[k]"Sing with gladness for Jacob,
And shout among the chief of the nations;
Proclaim, give praise, and say,
'O LORD, save Your people,
The remnant of Israel!'
8 Behold, I will bring them [l]from the north country,
And [m]gather them from the ends of the earth, wilderness. Judah's exile in Babylon and subsequent restoration are sometimes compared with Israel's wanderings in the wilderness prior to entering the Promised Land (see Is. 40:3, 4; 43:19, 20). Like the first exodus, this restoration will be a demonstration of the Lord's power to save.

■ 31:3 of old. This phrase probably carries forward the allusion to Sinai from the preceding verse (Ex. 19—24).

loved . . . everlasting love. The Lord's love for Israel was the ground of His election of them (Deut. 7:6, 7). The everlasting character of the covenant is affirmed in Gen. 17:7.

lovingkindness. See note on 9:24; contrast 16:5. This verse provides another sign of the reestablishment of the broken covenant.

■ 31:4 virgin of Israel. Contrast 18:13–15, where Israel's "virginity" has been squandered. See also 2:20, 22. In the new covenant the stain of defilement is finally cleansed.

dances. Such dances are acts of religious celebration (Judg. 21:19, 20).

■ 31:5 plant vines . . . and eat them. This promise signifies the covenant blessing of fertility (Deut. 7:13; 28:4; contrast Deut. 28:30).

Samaria. The capital of the northern kingdom of Israel, or the northern kingdom as a whole. Its people were deported by Assyria in 722 B.C.

■ 31:6 watchmen. Perhaps they were responsible for knowing the times of annual feasts, by observing the moon.

Mount Ephraim . . . let us go up to Zion. Not as previously, to the apostate northern shrines of Jeroboam at Bethel and Dan (1 Kin. 12:26–33), but in renewed relationship with the Lord.

Among them the blind and the lame,
The woman with child
And the one who labors with child, together;
A great throng shall return there.
9 [n]They shall come with weeping,
And with supplications I will lead them.
I will cause them to walk [o]by the rivers of waters,
In a straight way in which they shall not stumble;
For I am a Father to Israel,
And Ephraim is My [p]firstborn.

10 "Hear the word of the LORD, O nations,
And declare it in the [3]isles afar off, and say,
'He who scattered Israel [q]will gather him,
And keep him as a shepherd does his flock.'
11 For [r]the LORD has redeemed Jacob,
And ransomed him [s]from the hand of one stronger than he.
12 Therefore they shall come and sing in [t]the height of Zion,
Streaming to [u]the goodness of the LORD—
For wheat and new wine and oil,
For the young of the flock and the herd;
Their souls shall be like a [v]well-watered garden,
[w]And they shall sorrow no more at all.

13 "Then shall the virgin rejoice in the dance,
And the young men and the old, together;
For I will turn their mourning to joy,
Will comfort them,
And make them rejoice rather than sorrow.
14 I will [4]satiate the soul of the priests with abundance,
And My people shall be satisfied with My goodness, says the LORD."

Mercy on Ephraim

15 Thus says the LORD:

[x]"A voice was heard in [y]Ramah,
Lamentation and bitter [z]weeping,
Rachel weeping for her children,
Refusing to be comforted for her children,
Because [a]they are no more."

16 Thus says the LORD:

"Refrain your voice from [b]weeping,
And your eyes from tears;
For your work shall be rewarded, says the LORD,
And they shall come back from the land of the enemy.
17 There is [c]hope in your future, says the LORD,
That your children shall come back to their own border.

'You have [d]chastised me, and I was chastised,

Father . . . firstborn. See 3:4; 31:20; Ex. 4:22; Hos. 11:1–4.

■ 31:11 redeemed . . . ransomed. These verbs are closely related synonyms in Hebrew. The word translated "redeemed" means "to set free by paying a ransom," and it is used of the Lord's act of liberating Israel from Egypt (Deut. 7:8; 9:26). The second verb ("ransomed") is a technical term related to the responsibility of a "close relative" to purchase or "redeem" property which would otherwise be alienated from a family (32:8; Ruth 2:20 note). It is also used of God's deliverance of Israel from Egypt (Ex. 6:6, 7). The way that God has redeemed us to Himself through the ransom of Christ (cf. 1 Tim. 2:5, 6) is explained in the New Testament (see "The Atonement" at Rom. 3:25).

■ 31:15 A voice . . . in Ramah . . . Rachel weeping. Ramah was in the region assigned to the tribe of Benjamin. Rachel weeps over the destruction of the north in 722 B.C. The words are quoted in Matt. 2:18 concerning Herod's slaughter of the innocents.

[e]Restore me, and I will return,
For You are the LORD my God.
19 Surely, [f]after my turning, I repented;
And after I was instructed, I struck myself on the thigh;
I was [g]ashamed, yes, even humiliated,
Because I bore the reproach of my youth.'
20 Is Ephraim My dear son?
Is he a pleasant child?
For though I spoke against him,
I earnestly remember him still;
[h]Therefore My [5]heart yearns for him;
[i]I will surely have mercy on him, says the LORD.

21 "Set up signposts,
Make landmarks;
[j]Set your heart toward the highway,
The way in which you went.
[6]Turn back, O virgin of Israel,
Turn back to these your cities.
22 How long will you [k]gad about,
O you [l]backsliding daughter?
For the LORD has created a new thing in the earth—
A woman shall encompass a man."

Future Prosperity of Judah

23 Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: "They shall again use this speech in the land of Judah and in its cities, when I bring back their captivity: [m]'The LORD bless you, O home of justice, and [n]mountain of holiness!' 24 And there shall dwell in Judah itself, and [o]in all its cities together, farmers and those going out with flocks. 25 For I have [7]satiated the weary soul, and I have replenished every sorrowful soul."

26 After this I awoke and looked around, and my sleep was [p]sweet to me.

27 "Behold, the days are coming, says the LORD, that [q]I will sow the house of Israel and the house of Judah with the seed of man and the seed of beast. 28 And it shall come to pass, that as I have [r]watched over them [s]to pluck up, to break down, to throw down, to destroy, and to afflict, so I will watch over them [t]to build and to plant, says the LORD. 29 [u]In those days they shall say no more:

'The fathers have eaten sour grapes,
And the children's teeth are set on edge.'

30 [v]But every one shall die for his own iniquity; every man who eats the sour grapes, his teeth shall be set on edge.

■ 31:21 Set up signposts. Israel must remind itself to return not only to its land, but more importantly to God.

■ 31:22 new thing. See Is. 42:9.

A woman . . . a man. The saying is obscure, but possibly the picture is of a mother protecting her son, that is, of security.

■ 31:27 sow . . . seed. Both words are from the same Hebrew root. This makes an allusion to the promise of Gen. 15:18, where the Hebrew for "seed" is translated "descendants."

■ 31:29 The fathers . . . set on edge. This proverb was used by the exiles to blame previous generations for the disaster of the Exile (Ezek. 18:2), possibly based on a misunderstanding of Ex. 20:5; Num. 14:18.

■ 31:30 every one shall die for his own iniquity. The principle that each person is judged individually is elaborated at length in Ezek. 18:4–32 (cf. Deut. 24:16). The point is that this generation fully deserves the punishment, even though the nation's guilt has been continuous (7:13; 11:7, 8).

■ 31:31–34 Picking up themes first expounded by Moses in Deut. 30:1–10, Jeremiah prophesies that God will make a new covenant with His people. As the making of the old covenant (Ex. 19—24) followed the redemption from Egypt (Ex. 12—15), so the making of the new covenant will follow the redemption from sins (v. 34).

■ 31:31, 32 The new covenant will stand in contrast to the old covenant, in that the new cannot be broken as the old was (v. 32; Heb. 8:7, 8). The guarantee that it will not be broken is the grace mediated by Christ through His death and resurrection (Heb. 9:12–15; 10:1–4, 10–18).

■ 31:31 new covenant. See "God's Covenant of Grace" at Gen. 12:1. See also 1 Cor. 11:25; 2 Cor. 3:6; Heb. 9:15; 12:24.

with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah. Using both names stresses the unity of God's covenant people.

■ 31:32 not . . . My covenant which they broke. The new covenant their fathers in the day that [x]I took them by the hand to lead them out of the land of Egypt, My covenant which they broke, [8]though I was a husband to them, says the LORD. 33 [y]But this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, says the LORD: [z]I will put My law in their minds, and write it on their [9]hearts; [a]and I will be their God, and they shall be My people. 34 No more shall every man teach his neighbor, and every man his brother, saying, 'Know the LORD,' for [b]they all shall know Me, from the least of them to the greatest of them, says the LORD. For [c]I will forgive their iniquity, and their sin I will remember no more."

35 Thus says the LORD,
[d]Who gives the sun for a light by day,
The ordinances of the moon and the stars for a light by night,
Who disturbs [e]the sea,
And its waves roar
[f](The LORD of hosts is His name):

36 "If [g]those ordinances depart
From before Me, says the LORD,
Then the seed of Israel shall also cease
From being a nation before Me forever."

37 Thus says the LORD:

[h]"If heaven above can be measured,
And the foundations of the earth searched out beneath,
I will also [i]cast off all the seed of Israel
For all that they have done, says the LORD.

38 "Behold, the days are coming, says the LORD, that the city shall be built for the LORD [j]from the Tower of Hananel to the Corner Gate. 39 [k]The surveyor's line shall again extend straight forward over the hill Gareb; then it shall turn toward Goath. 40 And the whole valley of the dead bodies and of the ashes, and all the fields as far as the Brook Kidron, [l]to the corner of the Horse Gate toward the east, [m]shall be holy to the LORD. It shall not be plucked up or thrown down anymore forever."

a husband to them. See 2:2; 3:14 note. Cf. Christ's relationship to the church (Eph. 5:25–27; Rev. 19:7; 21:2, 9).

■ 31:33 Under the old covenant, the law of God was engraved on tablets of stone and placed in the Most Holy Place; under the new covenant God will write His law on the hearts of His people. The people then are like the temple in that the law of God is within them, but with the difference that they are a living temple, made of living stones (2 Cor. 3:3; 1 Pet. 2:5). See "God's Covenant of Grace" at Gen. 12:1.

after those days. The prophet speaks of a time after exile, without being specific. The New Testament shows that the time arrived with Christ, the Messiah.

I will. God will take the initiative to renew His people.

My law. The law of Moses required obedience from the heart (Deut. 6:6) but provided no enablement for that obedience (Deut. 5:29; 29:4). It did mediate forgiveness and hope, especially through the sacrifices. The law was a system of "types and shadows," that is, of significant elements foreshadowing Christ and inviting trust in God through Him.

I will be their God, and they . . . My people. This declaration is the summary of God's blessings promised in His covenant (Lev. 26:12; cf. 7:23).

■ 31:34 Know the LORD. See "True Knowledge of God" at 9:24.

For I will forgive. The basis of the promises in vv. 32, 33 will be a new work of redemption that secures the forgiveness of sins (see Heb. 10:1–17).

remember no more. The continuing cycle of sacrifices under the old covenant provided a constant reminder of sins (Heb. 10:3, 4, 11). The words "no more" underscore that the satisfaction made for sins in the redemption to come will be perfect, making any further sacrifices unnecessary.

■ 31:35, 36 gives the sun . . . moon and the stars. The enduring order of the heavenly bodies is made the measure of God's commitment to His people (33:20, 21, 25, 26).

■ 31:38 the city. Jerusalem.

Tower of Hananel . . . Corner Gate. Opposite ends of the city, signifying its entirety (see 2 Chr. 26:9; Zech. 14:10, 11). The restoration of Jerusalem will be the first sign of the fulfillment of the new covenant promise.

■ 31:39 Gareb . . . Goath. Unidentified locations in Jerusalem.

■ 31:40 valley. That is, the Valley of the Son of Hinnom (7:31 note).

■ 32:1 tenth year of Zedekiah. That is, 587 B.C. This chapter recounts the first of several exchanges between Jeremiah and Zedekiah in this period. See 21:3–7; 34:1–7; 37:3–8, 17–20; 38:14–28.

Babylon's army besieged Jerusalem, and Jeremiah the prophet was shut up [b]in the court of the prison, which was in the king of Judah's house. 3 For Zedekiah king of Judah had shut him up, saying, "Why do you [c]prophesy and say, 'Thus says the LORD: [d]"Behold, I will give this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall take it; 4 and Zedekiah king of Judah [e]shall not escape from the hand of the Chaldeans, but shall surely be delivered into the hand of the king of Babylon, and shall speak with him [f]face to face, and see him [f]eye to eye; 5 then he shall [g]lead Zedekiah to Babylon, and there he shall be [h]until I visit him," says the LORD; [i]"though you fight with the Chaldeans, you shall not succeed" '?"

6 And Jeremiah said, "The word of the LORD came to me, saying, 7 'Behold, Hanamel the son of Shallum your uncle will come to you, saying, "Buy my field which is in Anathoth, for the [j]right of redemption is yours to buy it." ' 8 Then Hanamel my uncle's son came to me in the court of the prison according to the word of the LORD, and said to me, 'Please buy my field that is in Anathoth, which is in the country of Benjamin; for the right of inheritance is yours, and the redemption yours; buy it for yourself.' Then I knew that this was the word of the LORD. 9 So I bought the field from Hanamel, the son of my uncle who was in Anathoth, and [k]weighed out to him the money—seventeen shekels of silver. 10 And I signed the [2]deed and sealed it, took witnesses, and weighed the money on the scales. 11 So I took the purchase deed, both that which was sealed according to the law and custom, and that which was open; 12 and I gave the purchase deed to [l]Baruch the son of Neriah, son of Mahseiah, in the presence of Hanamel my uncle's son, and in the presence of the [m]witnesses who signed the purchase deed, before all the Jews who sat in the court of the prison.

13 "Then I charged [n]Baruch before them, saying, 14 'Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: "Take these deeds, both this purchase deed which is sealed and this deed which is open, and put them in an earthen vessel, that they may last many days." 15 For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: "Houses and fields and vineyards shall be [o]possessed again in this land." '

Jeremiah Prays for Understanding

16 "Now when I had delivered the purchase deed to Baruch the son of Neriah, I prayed to the LORD, saying: 17 'Ah, Lord GOD! Behold, [p]You have made the heavens and the earth by Your great power and outstretched arm. [q]There is nothing too [3]hard for You. 18 You show [r]lovingkindness to thousands, and repay the iniquity of the fathers into the bosom of their children after them—the Great, [s]the Mighty God, whose name is [t]the LORD of hosts. 19 You are [u]great in counsel and mighty in [4]work, for Your [v]eyes are open to all the ways of the sons of men, [w]to give everyone according to his ways and according to the fruit of his doings. 20 You have set signs and wonders in the land of Egypt, to this day, and in Israel and among other men; and You have made Yourself [x]a name, as it is this day. 21 You [y]have brought Your people Israel out of the land of Egypt with signs and wonders, with a strong hand and an outstretched arm, and with great terror; 22 You have given them this land, of which You swore to their fathers to give them—[z]"a land flowing with milk and honey." 23 And they came in and took possession of it, but [a]they have not obeyed Your voice or walked in Your law. They have done nothing of all that You commanded them to do; therefore You have caused all this calamity to come upon them.

24 'Look, the siege mounds! They have come to the city to take it; and the city has been given into the hand of the Chaldeans who fight against it, because of [b]the sword and famine and pestilence. What You have spoken has happened; there You see it! 25 And You have said to me, O Lord GOD, "Buy the field for money, and take witnesses"!—yet the city has been given into the hand of the Chaldeans.' "

God's Assurance of the People's Return

26 Then the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah, saying, 27 "Behold, I am the LORD, the [c]God of all flesh. Is there anything too hard for Me? 28 Therefore thus says the LORD: 'Behold, I will right of redemption is yours to buy it. Hanamel may be selling because of debt, and asking Jeremiah to be the "close relative" who redeems (31:11 note). By normal standards, it is absurd to buy a field when the whole land is about to be lost.

■ 32:9 seventeen shekels of silver. This amount is probably a normal price, though under the circumstances the field was worthless.

give this city into the hand of the Chaldeans, into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and he shall take it. 29 And the Chaldeans who fight against this city shall come and [d]set fire to this city and burn it, with the houses [e]on whose roofs they have offered incense to Baal and poured out drink offerings to other gods, to provoke Me to anger; 30 because the children of Israel and the children of Judah [f]have done only evil before Me from their youth. For the children of Israel have provoked Me only to anger with the work of their hands,' says the LORD. 31 'For this city has been to Me a provocation of My anger and My fury from the day that they built it, even to this day; [g]so I will remove it from before My face 32 because of all the evil of the children of Israel and the children of Judah, which they have done to provoke Me to anger—[h]they, their kings, their princes, their priests, [i]their prophets, the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. 33 And they have turned to Me the [j]back, and not the face; though I taught them, [k]rising up early and teaching them, yet they have not listened to receive instruction. 34 But they [l]set their abominations in [5]the house which is called by My name, to defile it. 35 And they built the high places of Baal which are in the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, to [m]cause their sons and their daughters to pass through the fire to [n]Molech, [o]which I did not command them, nor did it come into My mind that they should do this abomination, to cause Judah to sin.'

36 "Now therefore, thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, concerning this city of which you say, 'It shall be delivered into the hand of the king of Babylon by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence: 37 Behold, I will [p]gather them out of all countries where I have driven them in My anger, in My fury, and in great wrath; I will bring them back to this place, and I will cause them [q]to dwell safely. 38 They shall be [r]My people, and I will be their God; 39 then I will [s]give them one heart and one way, that they may fear Me forever, for the good of them and their children after them. 40 And [t]I will make an everlasting covenant with them, that I will not turn away from doing them good; but [u]I will put My fear in their hearts so that they will not depart from Me. 41 Yes, [v]I will rejoice over them to do them good, and [w]I will [6]assuredly plant them in this land, with all My heart and with all My soul.'

42 "For thus says the LORD: [x]'Just as I have brought all this great calamity on this people, so I will bring on them all the good that I have promised them. 43 And fields will be bought in this land [y]of which you say, "It is desolate, without man or beast; it has been given into the hand of the Chaldeans." 44 Men will buy fields for money, sign deeds and seal them, and take witnesses, in [z]the land of Benjamin, in the places around Jerusalem, in the cities of Judah, in the cities of the mountains, in the cities of the [7]lowland, and in the cities of the [8]South; for [a]I will cause their captives to return,' says the LORD."

Excellence of the Restored Nation

33 Moreover the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah a second time, while he was still [a]shut up in the court of the prison, saying, 2 "Thus says the LORD [b]who made it, the LORD who formed it to establish it [c](the [1]LORD is His name): 3 [d]'Call to Me, and I will answer you, and show you great and [2]mighty things, which you do not know.'

4 "For thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, concerning the houses of this city and the houses of the kings of Judah, which have been pulled down to fortify against [e]the siege mounds and the sword: 5 'They come to fight with the Chaldeans, but only to [f]fill their places with the dead bodies of men whom I will slay in My anger and My fury, all for whose wickedness I have hidden My face from this city. 6 Behold, [g]I will bring it health and healing; I will heal them and reveal to them the abundance of peace and truth. 7 And [h]I will cause the captives of Judah and the captives of Israel to return, and will rebuild those places [i]as at the first. 8 I will [j]cleanse them from all their iniquity by which they have sinned against Me, and I will pardon all their iniquities by which they have sinned and by which they have transgressed against Me. 9 [k]Then it shall be to

■ 32:29 offered incense to Baal. Typical elements in Jeremiah's accusation against Judah (1:16; 7:18; 19:13; cf. Deut. 31:29).

■ 32:33 have not listened. See 2:30; 5:3; 7:24; 11:8.

■ 32:35 Molech. "Molech" is probably the title of a god (rather than a proper name) who was worshiped by the Phoenicians, Moabites, Ammonites, and others in a ritual involving child sacrifice (Lev. 18:21; 20:2–5; 2 Kin. 23:10).

■ 32:37 Jeremiah reaffirms Moses' promise of restoration from exile (Deut. 30:3–5). The suddenness and improbability of this promise, following the tirade of vv. 26–35, is explained by the rhetorical question "Is there anything too hard for Me?" (v. 27; cf. v. 17).

■ 32:40 everlasting covenant. See 31:31–36 and notes.

■ 32:44 Benjamin . . . South. These regions represent the territorial extent of Judah at the time of the Exile (17:26; 33:13).

■ 33:2 who made it. See note on 10:12. God's creation is here the ground of His power both to judge and to save (32:17).

■ 33:3 great and mighty things. A similar phrase in Is. 48:6 also speaks of salvation as new creation. See Dan. 2:47.

■ 33:6 Behold. The change in the Lord's purpose is not motivated by any change in Judah, but by His decision. See 30:8, 16; 32:36, for similar transitions.

Me a name of joy, a praise, and an honor before all nations of the earth, who shall hear all the good that I do to them; they shall [l]fear and tremble for all the goodness and all the prosperity that I provide for it.'

10 "Thus says the LORD: 'Again there shall be heard in this place—[m]of which you say, "It is desolate, without man and without beast"—in the cities of Judah, in the streets of Jerusalem that are desolate, without man and without inhabitant and without beast, 11 the [n]voice of joy and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, the voice of those who will say:

> [o]"Praise the LORD of hosts,
> For the LORD is good,
> For His mercy endures forever"—

and of those who will bring [p]the sacrifice of praise into the house of the LORD. For I will cause the captives of the land to return as at the first,' says the LORD.

12 "Thus says the LORD of hosts: [q]'In this place which is desolate, without man and without beast, and in all its cities, there shall again be a dwelling place of shepherds causing their flocks to lie down. 13 [r]In the cities of the mountains, in the cities of the lowland, in the cities of the South, in the land of Benjamin, in the places around Jerusalem, and in the cities of Judah, the flocks shall again [s]pass under the hands of him who counts them,' says the LORD.

14 [t]'Behold, the days are coming,' says the LORD, 'that [u]I will perform that good thing which I have promised to the house of Israel and to the house of Judah:

15 'In those days and at that time
I will cause to grow up to David
A [v]Branch of righteousness;
He shall execute judgment and righteousness in the earth.
16 In those days Judah will be saved,
And Jerusalem will dwell safely.
And this is the name by which she will be called:

[3]THE LORD OUR RIGHTEOUSNESS.'

17 "For thus says the LORD: 'David shall never [w]lack a man to sit on the throne of the house of Israel; 18 nor shall the [x]priests, the Levites, lack a man to [y]offer burnt offerings before Me, to [4]kindle grain offerings, and to sacrifice continually.' "

The Permanence of God's Covenant

19 And the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah, saying, 20 "Thus says the LORD: 'If you can break My covenant with the day and My covenant with the night, so that there will not be day and night in their season, 21 then [z]My covenant may also be broken with David My servant, so that he shall not have a son to reign on his throne, and with the Levites, the priests, My ministers. 22 As [a]the host of heaven cannot be numbered, nor the sand of the sea measured, so will I [b]multiply the descendants of David My servant and the [c]Levites who minister to Me.' "

23 Moreover the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah, saying, 24 "Have you not considered what these people have spoken, saying, 'The two families which the LORD has chosen, He has also cast them off'? Thus they have [d]despised My people, as if they should no more be a nation before them.

25 "Thus says the LORD: 'If [e]My covenant is not with day and night, and if I have not

■ 33:18 the priests, the Levites. The priest's role was essential to the administration of the covenant (Ex. 28; 29; Deut. 10:8; 18:1). They also had a covenant of their own with the Lord (Num. 25:12, 13; 1 Sam. 2:30, 35). The promise of a perpetual priestly ministry is fulfilled by Christ Himself (Heb. 5:6–10; 7:11–25).

■ 33:20, 21 covenant with the day and . . . night. The permanence of the institutions now envisaged is in stark contrast with 7:1–15. Such permanence is only comprehensible in the framework of the new covenant—though the need for faithfulness is never set aside (32:40 and note).

■ 33:22 cannot be numbered . . . sand of the sea. In these promises concerning the messianic kingdom, the promises to Abraham are also fulfilled (Gen. 22:17; contrast 15:8).

■ 33:24 two families. The reference to these "families" is ambiguous. It could refer to the kingdoms of Israel and Judah (v. 14) or to the royal family of David and the priestly family of Levi (vv. 17, 18).

Zedekiah Warned by God

34 The word which came to Jeremiah from the LORD, [a]when Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and all his army, [b]all the kingdoms of the earth under his dominion, and all the people, fought against Jerusalem and all its cities, saying, [2] "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: 'Go and [c]speak to Zedekiah king of Judah and tell him, "Thus says the LORD: 'Behold, [d]I will give this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall burn it with fire. [3] And [e]you shall not escape from his hand, but shall surely be taken and delivered into his hand; your eyes shall see the eyes of the king of Babylon, he shall speak with you [f]face[f] to face, and you shall go to Babylon.' " ' [4] Yet hear the word of the LORD, O Zedekiah king of Judah! Thus says the LORD concerning you: 'You shall not die by the sword. [5] You shall die in peace; as in [g]the ceremonies of your fathers, the former kings who were before you, [h]so they shall burn incense for you and [i]lament for you, saying, "Alas, lord!" For I have pronounced the word, says the LORD.' "

[6] Then Jeremiah the prophet spoke all these words to Zedekiah king of Judah in Jerusalem, [7] when the king of Babylon's army fought against Jerusalem and all the cities of Judah that were left, against Lachish and Azekah; for only [j]these fortified cities remained of the cities of Judah.

Treacherous Treatment of Slaves

[8] This is the word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD, after King Zedekiah had made a covenant with all the people who were at Jerusalem to proclaim [k]liberty to them: [9] [l]that every man should set free his male and female slave—a Hebrew man or woman—[m]that no one should keep a Jewish brother in bondage. [10] Now when all the princes and all the people, who had entered into the covenant, heard that everyone should set free his male and female slaves, that no one should keep them in bondage anymore, they obeyed and let them go. [11] But afterward they changed their minds and made the male and female slaves return, whom they had set free, and brought them into subjection as male and female slaves.

[12] Therefore the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah from the LORD, saying, [13] "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: 'I made a [n]covenant with your fathers in the day that I brought them out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage, saying, [14] "At the end of [o]seven years let every man set free his Hebrew brother, who [z]has been sold to him; and when he has served you six years, you shall let him go free from you." But your fathers did not obey Me nor incline their ear. [15] Then you [s]recently turned and did what was right in My sight—every man proclaiming liberty to his neighbor; and you [p]made a covenant before Me [q]in the house which is called by My name. [16] Then you turned around and [r]profaned My name, and every one of you brought back his male and female slaves, whom you had set at liberty, at their pleasure, and brought them back into subjection, to be your male and female slaves.'

[17] "Therefore thus says the LORD: 'You have not obeyed Me in proclaiming liberty, every one to his brother and every one to his neighbor. [s]Behold, I proclaim liberty to you,' says the LORD—[t]'to the sword, to pestilence, and to famine! And I will deliver you to [u]trouble among all the kingdoms of the earth. [18] And I will give the men who have transgressed My covenant, who

■ 33:26 Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. The new covenant is a fulfillment of the covenant with Abraham that embraced all peoples (Gen. 12:3). See note on v. 22.

■ 34:1—36:32 These chapters narrate scenes of rejection of the word of the Lord that led to final judgment on Judah. King Zedekiah is condemned for going back on his promise to free slaves (ch. 34), and the people of Judah are reproved for failing to learn a lesson from the example of the faithful Rechabites (ch. 35). King Jehoiakim rejects Jeremiah's message and burns the prophet's scroll (ch. 36).

■ 34:1 all the kingdoms . . . fought against Jerusalem. It was required that vassal nations join in battle with their overlord.

■ 34:4, 5 not die by the sword . . . die in peace. Zedekiah's precise fate was left obscure in 21:4–7; 32:3–5; but see 52:11. The point here is that he will not die in battle.

■ 34:7 Lachish and Azekah. These were fortified cities of Judah (2 Chr. 11:5, 9). The verse gives a glimpse of the last days of Judah. Jerusalem knew the enemy was closing in as the outlying cities fell one by one. A pottery fragment dating from 588 B.C. carried this message to the commander at Lachish: "we are watching for the signals of Lachish . . . we cannot see Azekah."

■ 34:8 proclaim liberty to them. According to Ex. 21:2–11; Lev. 25:39–55; Deut. 15:12–18, slaves were to be released in the last year of a seven-year cycle. Zedekiah's "covenant" (or solemn undertaking) reflects his ambivalence between listening to Jeremiah and his own political advisers.

■ 34:18 cut the calf . . . between the parts of it. See Gen. 15:18 and note. This sort of action accompanied making a covenant. It illustrated the penalty that would fall on a person who broke the covenant.

have not performed the words of the covenant which they made before Me, when [v]they cut the calf in two and passed between the parts of it— [19] the princes of Judah, the princes of Jerusalem, the [4]eunuchs, the priests, and all the people of the land who passed between the parts of the calf— [20] I will [w]give them into the hand of their enemies and into the hand of those who seek their life. Their [x]dead bodies shall be for meat for the birds of the heaven and the beasts of the earth. [21] And I will give Zedekiah king of Judah and his princes into the hand of their enemies, into the hand of those who seek their life, and into the hand of the king of Babylon's army [y]which has gone back from you. [22] [z]Behold, I will command,' says the LORD, 'and cause them to return to this city. They will fight against it [a]and take it and burn it with fire; and [b]I will make the cities of Judah a desolation without inhabitant.' "

The Obedient Rechabites

35 The word which came to Jeremiah from the LORD in the days of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah, saying, [2] "Go to the house of the [a]Rechabites, speak to them, and bring them into the house of the LORD, into one of [b]the chambers, and give them wine to drink."

[3] Then I took Jaazaniah the son of Jeremiah, the son of Habazziniah, his brothers and all his sons, and the whole house of the Rechabites, [4] and I brought them into the house of the LORD, into the chamber of the sons of Hanan the son of Igdaliah, a man of God, which was by the chamber of the princes, above the chamber of Maaseiah the son of Shallum, [c]the keeper of the [1]door. [5] Then I set before the sons of the house of the Rechabites bowls full of wine, and cups; and I said to them, "Drink wine."

[6] But they said, "We will drink no wine, for [d]Jonadab the son of Rechab, our father, commanded us, saying, 'You shall drink [e]no wine, you nor your sons, forever. [7] You shall not build a house, sow seed, plant a vineyard, nor have any of these; but all your days you shall dwell in tents, [f]that you may live many days in the land where you are sojourners.' [8] Thus we have [g]obeyed the voice of Jonadab the son of Rechab, our father, in all that he charged us, to drink no wine all our days, we, our wives, our sons, or our daughters, [9] nor to build ourselves houses to dwell in; nor do we have vineyard, field, or seed. [10] But we have dwelt in tents, and have obeyed and done according to all that Jonadab our father commanded us. [11] But it came to pass, when Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came up into the land, that we said, 'Come, let us [h]go to Jerusalem for fear of the army of the Chaldeans and for fear of the army of the Syrians.' So we dwell at Jerusalem."

[12] Then came the word of the LORD to Jeremiah, saying, [13] "Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: 'Go and tell the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, "Will you not [i]receive instruction to [2]obey My words?" says the LORD. [14] "The words of Jonadab the son of Rechab, which he commanded his sons, not to drink wine, are performed; for to this day they drink none, and obey their father's commandment. [j]But although I have spoken to you, [k]rising early and speaking, you did not [3]obey Me. [15] I have also sent to you all My [l]servants the prophets, rising up early and sending them, saying, [m]'Turn now everyone from his evil way, amend your doings, and do not go after other gods to serve them; then you will [n]dwell in the land which I have given you and your fathers.' But you have not inclined your ear, nor obeyed Me. [16] Surely the sons of Jonadab the son of Rechab have performed the commandment of their [o]father, which he commanded them, but this people has not obeyed Me." '

[17] "Therefore thus says the LORD God of hosts, the God of Israel: 'Behold, I will bring on Judah and on all the inhabitants of Jerusalem all the doom that I have pronounced against them; [p]because I have spoken to them but they have not heard, and I have called to them but they have not answered.' "

[18] And Jeremiah said to the house of the Rechabites, "Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: 'Because you have obeyed the commandment of Jonadab your father, and kept all his precepts and done according to all that he commanded you, [19] therefore thus says the LORD of hosts,

The Scroll Read in the Temple

36 Now it came to pass in the [a]fourth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah, that this word came to Jeremiah from the LORD, saying: 2 "Take a [b]scroll of a book and [c]write on it all the words that I have spoken to you against Israel, against Judah, and against [d]all the nations, from the day I spoke to you, from the days of [e]Josiah even to this day. 3 It [f]may be that the house of Judah will hear all the adversities which I purpose to bring upon them, that everyone may [g]turn from his evil way, that I may forgive their iniquity and their sin."

4 Then Jeremiah [h]called Baruch the son of Neriah; and [i]Baruch wrote on a scroll of a book, [1]at the instruction of Jeremiah, all the words of the LORD which He had spoken to him. 5 And Jeremiah commanded Baruch, saying, "I am confined, I cannot go into the house of the LORD. 6 You go, therefore, and read from the scroll which you have written [2]at my instruction, the words of the LORD, in the hearing of the people in the LORD's house on [j]the day of fasting. And you shall also read them in the hearing of all Judah who come from their cities. 7 It may be that they will present their supplication before the LORD, and everyone will turn from his evil way. For great is the anger and the fury that the LORD has pronounced against this people." 8 And Baruch the son of Neriah did according to all that Jeremiah the prophet commanded him, reading from the book the words of the LORD in the LORD's house.

9 Now it came to pass in the fifth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah, in the ninth month, that they proclaimed a fast before the LORD to all the people in Jerusalem, and to all the people who came from the cities of Judah to Jerusalem. 10 Then Baruch read from the book the words of Jeremiah in the house of the LORD, in the chamber of Gemariah the son of Shaphan the scribe, in the upper court at the [k]entry of the New Gate of the LORD's house, in the [3]hearing of all the people.

The Scroll Read in the Palace

11 When Michaiah the son of Gemariah, the son of Shaphan, heard all the words of the LORD from the book, 12 he then went down to the king's house, into the scribe's chamber; and there all the princes were sitting—[l]Elishama the scribe, Delaiah the son of Shemaiah, [m]Elnathan the son of Achbor, Gemariah the son of Shaphan, Zedekiah the son of Hananiah, and all the princes. 13 Then Michaiah declared to them all the words that he had heard when Baruch read the book in the hearing of the people. 14 Therefore all the princes sent Jehudi the son of Nethaniah, the son of Shelemiah, the son of Cushi, to Baruch, saying, "Take in your hand the scroll from which you have read in the hearing of the people, and come." So Baruch the son of Neriah took the scroll in his hand and came to them. 15 And they said to him, "Sit down now, and read it in our hearing." So Baruch read it in their hearing.

16 Now it happened, when they had heard all the words, that they looked in fear from one to another, and said to Baruch, "We will surely tell the king of all these words." 17 And they asked Baruch, saying, "Tell us now, how did you write all these words—[4]at his instruction?"

18 So Baruch answered them, "He proclaimed with his mouth all these words to me, and I wrote them with ink in the book."

19 Then the princes said to Baruch, "Go and hide, you and Jeremiah; and let no one know where you are."

The King Destroys Jeremiah's Scroll

20 And they went to the king, into the court; but they stored the scroll in the chamber of Elishama the scribe, and told all the words in the hearing of the king. 21 So the king sent Jehudi to bring the scroll, and he took it from Elishama the scribe's chamber. And Jehudi read it in the

■ 36:1 fourth year of Jehoiakim. That is, 605 B.C., the year of Nebuchadnezzar's first move against Jerusalem (25:1 note).

■ 36:2 Take a scroll . . . and write on it. The present account is an important guide to understanding how prophetic books were written. Jeremiah's oracles were spoken over a long period (25:3), and are here gathered into a collection (Is. 8:16 and note).

■ 36:4 Baruch. This is the second mention of Jeremiah's scribe (32:12). His activity suggests that he had a role in compiling the Book of Jeremiah.

■ 36:5 I am confined. This statement probably means he was banned from the temple area because of his unpopularity with the authorities (26:2–11).

hearing of the king and in the hearing of all the princes who stood beside the king. 22 Now the king was sitting in [n]the winter house in the ninth month, with a fire burning on the hearth before him. 23 And it happened, when Jehudi had read three or four columns, that the king cut it with the scribe's knife and cast it into the fire that was on the hearth, until all the scroll was consumed in the fire that was on the hearth. 24 Yet they were [o]not afraid, nor did they [p]tear their garments, the king nor any of his servants who heard all these words. 25 Nevertheless Elnathan, Delaiah, and Gemariah implored the king not to burn the scroll; but he would not listen to them. 26 And the king commanded Jerahmeel [5]the king's son, Seraiah the son of Azriel, and Shelemiah the son of Abdeel, to seize Baruch the scribe and Jeremiah the prophet, but the LORD hid them.

Jeremiah Rewrites the Scroll

27 Now after the king had burned the scroll with the words which Baruch had written [6]at the instruction of Jeremiah, the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah, saying: 28 "Take yet another scroll, and write on it all the former words that were in the first scroll which Jehoiakim the king of Judah has burned. 29 And you shall say to Jehoiakim king of Judah, 'Thus says the LORD: "You have burned this scroll, saying, [q]'Why have you written in it that the king of Babylon will certainly come and destroy this land, and cause man and beast to [r]cease from here?' " 30 Therefore thus says the LORD concerning Jehoiakim king of Judah: [s]"He shall have no one to sit on the throne of David, and his dead body shall be [t]cast out to the heat of the day and the frost of the night. 31 I will punish him, his [7]family, and his servants for their iniquity; and I will bring on them, on the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and on the men of Judah all the doom that I have pronounced against them; but they did not heed." ' "

32 Then Jeremiah took another scroll and gave it to Baruch the scribe, the son of Neriah, who wrote on it [8]at the instruction of Jeremiah all the words of the book which Jehoiakim king of Judah had burned in the fire. And besides, there were added to them many similar words.

Zedekiah's Vain Hope

37 Now King [a]Zedekiah the son of Josiah reigned instead of Coniah the son of Jehoiakim, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon made king in the land of Judah. 2 [b]But neither he nor his servants nor the people of the land gave heed to the words of the LORD which He spoke by the prophet Jeremiah.

3 And Zedekiah the king sent Jehucal the son of Shelemiah, and [c]Zephaniah the son of Maaseiah, the priest, to the prophet Jeremiah, saying, [d]"Pray now to the LORD our God for us." 4 Now Jeremiah was coming and going among the people, for they had not yet put him in prison. 5 Then [e]Pharaoh's army came up from Egypt; and when the Chaldeans who were besieging Jerusalem heard news of them, they departed from Jerusalem.

6 Then the word of the LORD came to the prophet Jeremiah, saying, 7 "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, 'Thus you shall say to the king of Judah, [f]who sent you to Me to inquire of Me: "Behold, Pharaoh's army which has come up to help you will return to Egypt, to their own land. 8 [g]And the Chaldeans shall come back and fight against this city, and take it and burn it with fire." ' 9 Thus says the LORD: 'Do not deceive yourselves, saying, "The Chaldeans will surely depart from us," for they will not depart. 10 [h]For though you had defeated the whole army of the Chaldeans who fight against you, and there remained only wounded men among them, they would rise up, every man in his tent, and burn the city with fire.' "

Jeremiah Imprisoned

11 And it happened, when the army of the Chaldeans left the siege of Jerusalem for fear of Pharaoh's army, 12 that Jeremiah went out of Jerusalem to go into the land of Benjamin to claim his property there among the people. 13 And when he was in the Gate of Benjamin, a captain of the guard was there whose name was Irijah the son of Shelemiah, the son of Hananiah; and he seized Jeremiah the prophet, saying, "You are defecting to the Chaldeans!"

14 Then Jeremiah said, [l]"False! I am not defecting to the Chaldeans." But he did not listen to him.

So Irijah seized Jeremiah and brought him to the princes. 15 Therefore the princes were angry with Jeremiah, and they struck him [i]and put him in prison in the [j]house of Jonathan the scribe. For they had made that the prison.

16 When Jeremiah entered [k]the dungeon and the cells, and Jeremiah had remained there many days, 17 then Zedekiah the king sent and took him out. The king asked him secretly in his house, and said, "Is there any word from the LORD?"

And Jeremiah said, "There is." Then he said, "You shall be [l]delivered into the hand of the king of Babylon!"

18 Moreover Jeremiah said to King Zedekiah, "What offense have I committed against you, against your servants, or against this people, that you have put me in prison? 19 Where now are your prophets who prophesied to you, saying, 'The king of Babylon will not come against you or against this land'? 20 Therefore please hear now, O my lord the king. Please, let my petition be accepted before you, and do not make me return to the house of Jonathan the scribe, lest I die there."

21 Then Zedekiah the king commanded that they should commit Jeremiah [m]to the court of the prison, and that they should give him daily a piece of bread from the bakers' street, [n]until all the bread in the city was gone. Thus Jeremiah remained in the court of the prison.

Jeremiah in the Dungeon

38 Now Shephatiah the son of Mattan, Gedaliah the son of Pashhur, [a]Jucal[1] the son of Shelemiah, and [b]Pashhur the son of Malchiah [c]heard the words that Jeremiah had spoken to all the people, saying, 2 "Thus says the LORD: [d]'He who remains in this city shall die by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence; but he who goes over to the Chaldeans shall live; his life shall be as a prize to him, and he shall live.' 3 Thus says the LORD: [e]'This city shall surely be [f]given into the hand of the king of Babylon's army, which shall take it.' "

4 Therefore the princes said to the king, "Please, [g]let this man be put to death, for thus he [2]weakens the hands of the men of war who remain in this city, and the hands of all the people, by speaking such words to them. For this man does not seek the [3]welfare of this people, but their harm."

5 Then Zedekiah the king said, "Look, he is in your hand. For the king can do nothing against you." 6 [h]So they took Jeremiah and cast him into the dungeon of Malchiah [4]the king's son, which was in the court of the prison, and they let Jeremiah down with ropes. And in the dungeon there was no water, but mire. So Jeremiah sank in the mire.

7 [i]Now Ebed-Melech the Ethiopian, one of the [5]eunuchs, who was in the king's house, heard that they had put Jeremiah in the dungeon. When the king was sitting at the Gate of Benjamin, 8 Ebed-Melech went out of the king's house and spoke to the king, saying: 9 "My lord the king, these men have done evil in all that they have done to Jeremiah the prophet, whom they have cast into the dungeon, and he is likely to die from hunger in the place where he is. For there is [j]no more bread in the city." 10 Then the king commanded Ebed-Melech the Ethiopian, saying, "Take from here thirty men with you, and lift Jeremiah the prophet out of the dungeon before he dies." 11 So Ebed-Melech took the men with him and went into the house of the king under the treasury, and took from there old clothes and old rags, and let them down by ropes into the dungeon to Jeremiah. 12 Then Ebed-Melech the Ethiopian said to Jeremiah, "Please put these old clothes and rags under your armpits, under the ropes." And Jeremiah did so. 13 So they pulled Jeremiah up with ropes and lifted him out of the dungeon. And Jeremiah remained [k]in the court of the prison.

■ 37:15 they struck him. This is the second mention of such punishment (20:2).

■ 37:21 the court of the prison. The court was less severe than the "dungeon" (v. 16; see 32:2). Zedekiah here shows a measure of respect for God's prophet.

Zedekiah's Fears and Jeremiah's Advice

14 Then Zedekiah the king sent and had Jeremiah the prophet brought to him at the third entrance of the house of the LORD. And the king said to Jeremiah, "I will [l]ask you something. Hide nothing from me."

15 Jeremiah said to Zedekiah, "If I declare it to you, will you not surely put me to death? And if I give you advice, you will not listen to me."

16 So Zedekiah the king swore secretly to Jeremiah, saying, "As the LORD lives, [m]who made our very souls, I will not put you to death, nor will I give you into the hand of these men who seek your life."

17 Then Jeremiah said to Zedekiah, "Thus says the LORD, the God of hosts, the God of Israel: 'If you surely [n]surrender[6] [o]to the king of Babylon's princes, then your soul shall live; this city shall not be burned with fire, and you and your house shall live. 18 But if you do not [7]surrender to the king of Babylon's princes, then this city shall be given into the hand of the Chaldeans; they shall burn it with fire, and [p]you shall not escape from their hand.' "

19 And Zedekiah the king said to Jeremiah, "I am afraid of the Jews who have [q]defected to the Chaldeans, lest they deliver me into their hand, and they [r]abuse me."

20 But Jeremiah said, "They shall not deliver you. Please, obey the voice of the LORD which I speak to you. So it shall be [s]well with you, and your soul shall live. 21 But if you refuse to [8]surrender, this is the word that the LORD has shown me: 22 'Now behold, all the [t]women who are left in the king of Judah's house shall be surrendered to the king of Babylon's princes, and those women shall say:

"Your close friends have [9]set upon you
And prevailed against you;
Your feet have sunk in the mire,
And they have [t]turned away again."

23 'So they shall surrender all your wives and [u]children to the Chaldeans. [v]You shall not escape from their hand, but shall be taken by the hand of the king of Babylon. And you shall cause this city to be burned with fire.' "

24 Then Zedekiah said to Jeremiah, "Let no one know of these words, and you shall not die. 25 But if the princes hear that I have talked with you, and they come to you and say to you, 'Declare to us now what you have said to the king, and also what the king said to you; do not hide it from us, and we will not put you to death,' 26 then you shall say to them, [w]'I presented my request before the king, that he would not make me return [x]to Jonathan's house to die there.' "

27 Then all the princes came to Jeremiah and asked him. And he told them according to all these words that the king had commanded. So they stopped speaking with him, for the conversation had not been heard. 28 Now [y]Jeremiah remained in the court of the prison until the day that Jerusalem was taken. And he was there when Jerusalem was taken.

The Fall of Jerusalem

39 In the [a]ninth year of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the tenth month, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and all his army came against Jerusalem, and besieged it. 2 In the [b]eleventh year of Zedekiah, in the fourth month, on the ninth day of the month, the [1]city was penetrated.

3 [c]Then all the princes of the king of Babylon came in and sat in the Middle Gate: Nergal-Shrezer, Samgar-Nebo, Sarsechim, [2]Rabsaris, Nergal-Sarezer, [3]Rabmag, with the rest of the princes of the king of Babylon.

4 [d]So it was, when Zedekiah the king of Judah and all the men of war saw them, that they fled and went out of the city by night, by way of the king's garden, by the gate between the two walls. And he went out by way of the [4]plain. 5 But the Chaldean army pursued them and [e]overtook Zedekiah in the plains of Jericho. And when they had captured him, they brought him up to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, to [f]Riblah in the land of Hamath, where he pronounced judgment on him. 6 Then the king of Babylon killed the sons of Zedekiah before his [g]eyes in Riblah; the king of Babylon also killed all the [h]nobles of Judah. 7 Moreover [i]he put out Zedekiah's eyes, and bound him with bronze [5]fetters to carry him off to Babylon. 8 [j]And the Chaldeans burned the king's house and the houses of the people with [k]fire, and broke down the [l]walls of Jerusalem. 9 [m]Then Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard carried away captive to Babylon the remnant of the people who remained in the city and those who [n]defected to him, with the rest of the people who remained. 10 But Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard left in the land of Judah the [o]poor people, who had nothing, and gave them vineyards and fields [6]at the same time.

Jeremiah Goes Free

11 Now Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon gave charge concerning Jeremiah to Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard, saying, 12 "Take him and look after him, and do him no [p]harm; but do to him just as he says to you." 13 So Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard sent Nebushasban, Rabsaris, Nergal-Sharezer, Rabmag, and all the king of Babylon's chief officers; 14 then they sent someone [q]to take Jeremiah from the court of the prison, and committed him [r]to Gedaliah the son of [s]Ahikam, the son of Shaphan, that he should take him home. So he dwelt among the people.

15 Meanwhile the word of the LORD had come to Jeremiah while he was shut up in the court of the prison, saying, 16 "Go and speak to [t]Ebed-Melech the Ethiopian, saying, 'Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: "Behold, [u]I will bring My words upon this city for adversity and not for good, and they shall be performed in that day before you. 17 But I will deliver you in that day," says the LORD, "and you shall not be given into the hand of the men of whom you are afraid. 18 For I will surely deliver you, and you shall not fall by the sword; but [v]your life shall be as a prize to you, [w]because you have put your trust in Me," says the LORD.' "

Jeremiah with Gedaliah the Governor

40 The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD [a]after Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard had let him go from Ramah, when he had taken him bound in chains among all who were carried away captive from Jerusalem and Judah, who were carried away captive to Babylon.

2 And the captain of the guard took Jeremiah and [b]said to him: "The LORD your God has pronounced this doom on this place. 3 Now the LORD has brought it, and has done just as He said. [c]Because you people have sinned against the LORD, and not obeyed His voice, therefore this thing has come upon you. 4 And now look, I free you this day from the chains that [1]were on your hand. [d]If it seems good to you to come with me to Babylon, come, and I will look after you. But if it seems wrong for you to come with me to Babylon, remain here. See, [e]all the land is before you; wherever it seems good and convenient for you to go, go there."

5 Now while Jeremiah had not yet gone back, Nebuzaradan said, "Go back to [f]Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, the son of Shaphan, [g]whom the king of Babylon has made governor over the cities of Judah, and dwell with him among the people. Or go wherever it seems convenient for you to go." So the captain of the guard gave him rations and a gift and let him go. 6 [h]Then Jeremiah went to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, to [i]Mizpah, and dwelt with him among the people who were left in the land.

7 [j]And when all the captains of the armies who were in the fields, they and their men, heard that the king of Babylon had made Gedaliah the son of Ahikam governor in the land, and had committed to him men, women, children, and [k]the poorest of the land who had not been carried away captive to Babylon, 8 then they came to Gedaliah at Mizpah—[l]Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, [m]Johanan and Jonathan the sons of Kareah, Seraiah the son of Tanhumeth, the sons of Ephai the Netophathite, and [n]Jezaniah[2] the son of a [o]Maachathite, they and their men. 9 And Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, the son of Shaphan, took an oath before them and their men, saying, "Do not be afraid to serve the Chaldeans. Dwell in the land and serve the king of Babylon, and it shall be [p]well with you. 10 As for me, I will indeed dwell at Mizpah and serve the Chaldeans who come to us. But you, gather wine and summer fruit and oil, put them in your vessels, and dwell in your cities that you have taken." 11 Likewise, when all the Jews who were in Moab, among the Ammonites, in Edom, and who were in all the countries, heard that the king of Babylon had left a remnant of Judah, and that he had set over them Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, the son of Shaphan, 12 then all the Jews [q]returned out of all places where they had been driven, and came to the land of Judah, to Gedaliah at Mizpah, and gathered wine and summer fruit in abundance.

13 Moreover Johanan the son of Kareah and all the captains of the forces that were in the fields came to Gedaliah at Mizpah, 14 and said to him, [3]"Do you certainly know that [r]Baalis the king of the Ammonites has sent Ishmael the son of Nethaniah to murder you?" But Gedaliah the son of Ahikam did not believe them.

15 Then Johanan the son of Kareah spoke secretly to Gedaliah in Mizpah, saying, "Let me go, please, and I will kill Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, and no one will know it. Why should he murder you, so that all the Jews who are gathered to you would be scattered, and the [s]remnant in Judah perish?"

16 But Gedaliah the son of Ahikam said to Johanan the son of Kareah, "You shall not do this thing, for you speak falsely concerning Ishmael."

Insurrection Against Gedaliah

41 Now it came to pass in the seventh month [a]that Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, the son of Elishama, of the royal [1]family and of the officers of the king, came with ten men to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, at [b]Mizpah. And there they ate bread together in Mizpah. 2 Then Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, and the ten men who were with him, arose and [c]struck Gedaliah the son of [d]Ahikam, the son of Shaphan, with the sword, and killed him whom the king of Babylon had made [e]governor over the land. 3 Ishmael also struck down all the Jews who were with him, that is, with Gedaliah at Mizpah, and the Chaldeans who were found there, the men of war.

4 And it happened, on the second day after he had killed Gedaliah, when as yet no one knew it, 5 that certain men came from Shechem, from Shiloh, and from Samaria, eighty men [f]with their beards shaved and their clothes torn, having cut themselves, with offerings and incense in their hand, to bring them to [g]the house of the LORD. 6 Now Ishmael the son of Nethaniah went out from Mizpah to meet them, weeping as he went along; and it happened as he met them that he said to them, "Come to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam!" 7 So it was, when they came into the midst of the city, that Ishmael the son of Nethaniah [h]killed them and cast them into the midst of a [2]pit, he and the men who were with him. 8 But ten men were found among them who said to Ishmael, "Do not kill us, for we have treasures of wheat, barley, oil, and honey in the field." So he desisted and did not kill them among their brethren. 9 Now the [3]pit into which Ishmael had cast all the dead bodies of the men whom he had slain, because of Gedaliah, was [i]the same one Asa the king had made for fear of Baasha king of Israel. Ishmael the son of Nethaniah filled it with the slain. 10 Then Ishmael carried away captive all the [j]rest of the people who were in Mizpah, [k]the king's daughters and all the people who remained in Mizpah, [l]whom Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard had committed to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam. And Ishmael the son of Nethaniah carried them away captive and departed to go over to [m]the Ammonites.

11 But when [n]Johanan the son of Kareah and all the captains of the forces that were with him heard of all the evil that Ishmael the son of Nethaniah had done, 12 they took all the men and went to fight with Ishmael the son of Nethaniah; and they found him by [o]the great pool that is in Gibeon. 13 So it was, when all the people who were with Ishmael saw Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces who were with him, that they were glad. 14 Then all the people whom Ishmael had carried away captive from Mizpah turned around and came back, and went to Johanan the son of Kareah. 15 But Ishmael the son of Nethaniah escaped from Johanan with eight men and went to the Ammonites.

16 Then Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the captains of the forces that were with him, took from Mizpah all the [p]rest of the people whom he had recovered from Ishmael the son of Nethaniah after he had murdered Gedaliah the son of Ahikam—the mighty men of war and the women and the children and the eunuchs, whom he had brought back from Gibeon. 17 And they departed and dwelt in the habitation of [q]Chimham, which is near Bethlehem, as they went on their way to [r]Egypt, 18 because of the Chaldeans; for they were afraid of them, because Ishmael the son of Nethaniah had murdered Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, [s]whom the king of Babylon had made governor in the land.

The Flight to Egypt Forbidden

42 Now all the captains of the forces, [a]Johanan the son of Kareah, Jezaniah the son of Hoshaiah, and all the people, from the least to the greatest, came near 2 and said to Jeremiah the prophet, [b]"Please, let our petition be acceptable to you, and [c]pray for us to the LORD your God, for all this remnant (since we are left but [d]a few of many, as you can see), 3 that the LORD your God may show us [e]the way in which we should walk and the thing we should do."

4 Then Jeremiah the prophet said to them, "I have heard. Indeed, I will pray to the LORD your God according to your words, and it shall be, that [f]whatever the LORD answers you, I will declare it to you. I will [g]keep nothing back from you."

5 So they said to Jeremiah, [h]"Let the LORD be a true and faithful witness between us, if we do not do according to everything which the LORD your God sends us by you. 6 Whether it is [1]pleasing or [2]displeasing, we will [i]obey the voice of the LORD our God to whom we send you, [j]that it may be well with us when we obey the voice of the LORD our God."

7 And it happened after ten days that the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah. 8 Then he called Johanan the son of Kareah, all the captains of the forces which were with him, and all the people from the least even to the greatest, 9 and said to them, "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, to whom you sent me to present your petition before Him: 10 'If you will still remain in this land, then [k]I will build you and not pull you down, and I will plant you and not pluck you up. For I [l]relent concerning the disaster that I have brought upon you. 11 Do not be afraid of the king of Babylon, of whom you are afraid; do not be afraid of him,' says the LORD, [m]'for I am with you, to save you and deliver you from his hand. 12 And [n]I will show you mercy, that he may have mercy on you and cause you to return to your own land.'

13 "But if [o]you say, 'We will not dwell in this land,' disobeying the voice of the LORD your God, 14 saying, 'No, but we will go to the land of [p]Egypt where we shall see no war, nor hear the sound of the trumpet, nor be hungry for bread, and there we will dwell'— 15 Then hear now the word of the LORD, O remnant of Judah! Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: 'If you [q]wholly[3] set [r]your faces to enter Egypt, and go to dwell there, 16 then it shall be that the [s]sword which you feared shall overtake you there in the land of Egypt; the famine of which you were afraid shall follow close after you there in Egypt; and there you shall die. 17 So shall it be with all the men who set their faces to go to Egypt to dwell there. They shall die by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence. And [t]none of them shall remain or escape from the disaster that I will bring upon them.'

18 "For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: 'As My anger and My fury have been [u]poured out on the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so will My fury be poured out on you when you enter Egypt. And [v]you shall be an oath, an astonishment, a curse, and a reproach; and you shall see this place no more.'

19 "The LORD has said concerning you, O remnant of Judah, [w]'Do not go to Egypt!' Know certainly that I have [4]admonished you this day. 20 For you [5]were hypocrites in your hearts when you sent me to the LORD your God, saying, 'Pray for us to the LORD our God, and according to all that the LORD your God says, so declare to us and we will do it.' 21 And I have this day declared it to you, but you have [x]not obeyed the voice of the LORD your God, or anything which He has sent you by me. 22 Now therefore, know certainly that you [y]shall die by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence in the place where you desire to go to dwell."

■ 42:10 If you will still remain in this land. This promise of blessing for the remnant left behind during the Exile was a new theme in Jeremiah's message (24:8; 40:6).

■ 42:13–16 The Lord's word is still against seeking refuge in Egypt (Deut. 17:16). The issue, as ever, is false trust and the delusion of safety in human power and calculation (22:20, 22; 30:14).

Jeremiah Taken to Egypt

43 Now it happened, when Jeremiah had stopped speaking to all the people all the [a]words of the LORD their God, for which the LORD their God had sent him to them, all these words, [2] [b]that Azariah the son of Hoshaiah, Johanan the son of Kareah, and all the proud men spoke, saying to Jeremiah, "You speak falsely! The LORD our God has not sent you to say, 'Do not go to Egypt to dwell there.' [3] But [c]Baruch the son of Neriah has [1]set you against us, to deliver us into the hand of the Chaldeans, that they may put us to death or carry us away captive to Babylon." [4] So Johanan the son of Kareah, all the captains of the forces, and all the people would [d]not obey the voice of the LORD, to remain in the land of Judah. [5] But Johanan the son of Kareah and all the captains of the forces took [e]all the remnant of Judah who had returned to dwell in the land of Judah, from all nations where they had been driven— [6] men, women, children, [f]the king's daughters, [g]and every person whom Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard had left with Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, the son of Shaphan, and Jeremiah the prophet and Baruch the son of Neriah. [7] [h]So they went to the land of Egypt, for they did not obey the voice of the LORD. And they went as far as [i]Tahpanhes.

[8] Then the [j]word of the LORD came to Jeremiah in Tahpanhes, saying, [9] "Take large stones in your hand, and hide them in the sight of the men of Judah, in the [2]clay in the brick courtyard which is at the entrance to Pharaoh's house in Tahpanhes; [10] and say to them, 'Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: "Behold, I will send and bring Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, [k]My servant, and will set his throne above these stones that I have hidden. And he will spread his royal pavilion over them. [11] [l]When he comes, he shall strike the land of Egypt and deliver to death [m]those appointed for death, and to captivity those appointed for captivity, and to the sword those appointed for the sword. [12] [3]I will kindle a fire in the houses of [n]the gods of Egypt, and he shall burn them and carry them away captive. And he shall array himself with the land of Egypt, as a shepherd puts on his garment, and he shall go out from there in peace. [13] He shall also break the sacred pillars of [4]Beth Shemesh that are in the land of Egypt; and the houses of the gods of the Egyptians he shall burn with fire." ' "

Jeremiah's Journey to Egypt. With the fall of Jerusalem to Nebuchadnezzar, Jeremiah was taken in chains to Ramah and released. He went on to Mizpah to support the people left in the land. When the governor was killed, he prophesied against leaving the land but was taken with the remnant to Tahpanhes in Egypt. His further prophecies to Jews living in Migdol, Noph, and Tahpanhes may have contributed to Jewish settlements being established deeper in Egypt, as far as Yeb (Elephantine).

Israelites Will Be Punished in Egypt

44 The word that came to Jeremiah concerning all the Jews who dwell in the land of Egypt, who dwell at [a]Migdol, at [b]Tahpanhes, at [c]Noph,[1] and in the country of [d]Pathros, saying, 2 "Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: 'You have seen all the calamity that I have brought on Jerusalem and on all the cities of Judah; and behold, this day they are [e]a desolation, and no one dwells in them, 3 because of their wickedness which they have committed to provoke Me to anger, in that they went [f]to burn incense and to [g]serve other gods whom they did not know, they nor you nor your fathers. 4 However [h]I have sent to you all My servants the prophets, rising early and sending them, saying, "Oh, do not do this abominable thing that I hate!" 5 But they did not listen or incline their ear to turn from their wickedness, to burn no incense to other gods. 6 So My fury and My anger were poured out and kindled in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem; and they [2]are wasted and desolate, as it is this day.'

7 "Now therefore, thus says the LORD, the God of hosts, the God of Israel: 'Why do you commit this great evil [i]against yourselves, to cut off from you man and woman, child and infant, out of Judah, leaving none to remain, 8 in that you [j]provoke Me to wrath with the works of your hands, burning incense to other gods in the land of Egypt where you have gone to dwell, that you may cut yourselves off and be [k]a curse and a reproach among all the nations of the earth? 9 Have you forgotten the wickedness of your fathers, the wickedness of the kings of Judah, the wickedness of their wives, your own wickedness, and the wickedness of your wives, which they committed in the land of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem? 10 They have not been [l]humbled,[3] to this day, nor have they [m]feared; they have not walked in My law or in My statutes that I set before you and your fathers.'

11 "Therefore thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: 'Behold, [n]I will set My face against you for catastrophe and for [4]cutting off all Judah. 12 And I will take the remnant of Judah who have set their faces to go into the land of Egypt to dwell there, and [o]they shall all be consumed and fall in the land of Egypt. They shall be consumed by the sword and by famine. They shall die, from the least to the greatest, by the sword and by famine; and [p]they shall be an oath, an astonishment, a curse and a reproach! 13 [q]For I will punish those who dwell in the land of Egypt, as I have punished Jerusalem, by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence, 14 so that none of the remnant of Judah who have gone into the land of Egypt to dwell there shall escape or survive, lest they return to the land of Judah, to which they [r]desire[5] to return and dwell. For [s]none shall return except those who escape.' "

15 Then all the men who knew that their wives had burned incense to other gods, with all the women who stood by, a great multitude, and all the people who dwelt in the land of Egypt, in Pathros, answered Jeremiah, saying: 16 "As for the word that you have spoken to us in the name of the LORD, [t]we will not listen to you! 17 But we will certainly do [u]whatever has gone out of our own mouth, to burn incense to the [v]queen of heaven and pour out drink offerings to her, as we have done, we and our fathers, our kings and our princes, in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem. For then we had plenty of [6]food, were well-off, and saw no trouble. 18 But since we stopped burning incense to the queen of heaven and pouring out drink offerings to her, we have lacked everything and have been consumed by the sword and by famine."

19 The women also said, [w]"And when we burned incense to the queen of heaven and poured out drink offerings to her, did we make cakes for her, to worship her, and pour out drink offerings to her without our husbands' permission?"

20 Then Jeremiah spoke to all the people—the men, the women, and all the people who had given him that answer—saying: 21 "The incense that you burned in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem, you and your fathers, your kings and your princes, and the people of the land, did not the LORD remember them, and did it not come into His mind? 22 So the LORD could no longer bear it, because of the evil of your doings and because of the abominations which you committed. Therefore your land is a desolation, an astonishment, a curse, and without an inhabitant, [x]as it is this day. 23 Because you have burned incense and because you have sinned against

- 44:4 this abominable thing. Idolatrous worship of other gods.
- 44:7 none to remain. Possibly this oracle threatens that the restoration promised in 5:10 and 23:3 may not be carried out.
- 44:9 Have you forgotten the wickedness. And by implication the judgment that resulted. Similarly, 2 Kin. 17:18–20 uses the judgment of the northern kingdom as a warning to Judah before her fall.
- 44:19 without our husbands' permission. See Num. 30:6–15. The women evidently took the lead in worshiping the queen of heaven (7:18).
- 44:23 law . . . statutes . . . testimonies. The requirements of the Mosaic covenant (Deut. 11:1, 32; 12:1).

the LORD, and have not obeyed the voice of the LORD or walked in His law, in His statutes or in His testimonies, [y]therefore this calamity has happened to you, as at this day."

24 Moreover Jeremiah said to all the people and to all the women, "Hear the word of the LORD, all Judah who are in the land of Egypt! 25 Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, saying: 'You and your wives have spoken with your mouths and fulfilled with your hands, saying, "We will surely keep our vows that we have made, to burn incense to the queen of heaven and pour out drink offerings to her." You will surely keep your vows and perform your vows!' 26 Therefore hear the word of the LORD, all Judah who dwell in the land of Egypt: 'Behold, [z]I have sworn by My [a]great name,' says the LORD, 'that [b]My name shall no more be named in the mouth of any man of Judah in all the land of Egypt, saying, "The Lord GOD lives." 27 Behold, I will watch over them for adversity and not for good. And all the men of Judah who are in the land of Egypt [c]shall be consumed by the sword and by famine, until there is an end to them. 28 Yet [d]a small number who escape the sword shall return from the land of Egypt to the land of Judah; and all the remnant of Judah, who have gone to the land of Egypt to dwell there, shall know whose words will stand, Mine or theirs. 29 And this shall be a sign to you,' says the LORD, 'that I will punish you in this place, that you may know that My words will surely [e]stand against you for adversity.'

30 "Thus says the LORD: 'Behold, [f]I will give Pharaoh Hophra king of Egypt into the hand of his enemies and into the hand of those who seek his life, as I gave [g]Zedekiah king of Judah into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, his enemy who sought his life.' "

Assurance to Baruch

45 The [a]word that Jeremiah the prophet spoke to [b]Baruch the son of Neriah, when he had written these words in a book [1]at the instruction of Jeremiah, in the [c]fourth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah, saying, 2 "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, to you, O Baruch: 3 'You said, "Woe is me now! For the LORD has added grief to my sorrow. I [d]fainted in my sighing, and I find no rest." '

4 "Thus you shall say to him, 'Thus says the LORD: "Behold, [e]what I have built I will break down, and what I have planted I will pluck up, that is, this whole land. 5 And do you seek great things for yourself? Do not seek them; for behold, [f]I will bring adversity on all flesh," says the LORD. "But I will give your [g]life to you as a prize in all places, wherever you go." ' "

Judgment on Egypt

5 Why have I seen them dismayed and turned back?
Their mighty ones are beaten down;

They have speedily fled,
And did not look back,
For [g]fear was all around," says the LORD.
6 "Do not let the swift flee away,
Nor the mighty man escape;
They will [h]stumble and fall
Toward the north, by the River Euphrates.

7 "Who is this coming up [i]like a flood,
Whose waters move like the rivers?
8 Egypt rises up like a flood,
And its waters move like the rivers;
And he says, 'I will go up and cover the earth,
I will destroy the city and its inhabitants.'

And let the mighty men come forth:
[3]The Ethiopians and [4]the Libyans who handle the shield,
And the Lydians [j]who handle and bend the bow.
10 For this is [k]the day of the Lord GOD of hosts,
A day of vengeance,
That He may avenge Himself on His adversaries.
[l]The sword shall devour;
It shall be [5]satiated and made drunk with their blood;
For the Lord GOD of hosts [m]has a sacrifice
In the north country by the River Euphrates.

[o]O virgin, the daughter of Egypt;
In vain you will use many medicines;
[p]You shall not be cured.
12 The nations have heard of your [q]shame,
And your cry has filled the land;
For the mighty man has stumbled against the mighty;
They both have fallen together."

Babylonia Will Strike Egypt

13 The word that the LORD spoke to Jeremiah the prophet, how Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon would come and [r]strike the land of Egypt.

14 "Declare in Egypt, and proclaim in [s]Migdol;
Proclaim in [6]Noph and in [t]Tahpanhes;
Say, 'Stand fast and prepare yourselves,
For the sword devours all around you.'
15 Why are your valiant men swept away?
They did not stand
Because the LORD drove them away.
16 He made many fall;
Yes, [u]one fell upon another.
And they said, 'Arise!
[v]Let us go back to our own people
And to the land of our nativity
From the oppressing sword.'

■ 46:15 Why are your valiant men swept away. The Septuagint (Greek) reading is preferred by many interpreters: "Why has Apis run away?" Apis was the sacred bull of ancient Egypt, worshiped as an incarnation of the god Ptah, especially at Noph (Memphis, v. 14).

17 They cried there,
'Pharaoh, king of Egypt, is but a noise.
He has passed by the appointed time!'

18 "As I live," says the King,
[w]Whose name is the LORD of hosts,
"Surely as Tabor is among the mountains
And as Carmel by the sea, so he shall come.
19 O [x]you daughter dwelling in Egypt,
Prepare yourself [y]to go into captivity!
For [z]Noph shall be waste and desolate, without inhabitant.

20 "Egypt is a very pretty [z]heifer,
But destruction comes, it comes [a]from the north.
21 Also her mercenaries are in her midst like [g]fat bulls,
For they also are turned back,
They have fled away together.
They did not stand,
For [b]the day of their calamity had come upon them,
The time of their punishment.
22 [c]Her noise shall go like a serpent,
For they shall march with an army
And come against her with axes,
Like those who chop wood.

23 "They shall [d]cut down her forest," says the LORD,
"Though it cannot be searched,
Because they are innumerable,
And more numerous than [e]grasshoppers.
24 The daughter of Egypt shall be ashamed;
She shall be delivered into the hand
Of [f]the people of the north."

25 The LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, says: "Behold, I will bring punishment on [g]Amon of [g]No,[f] and Pharaoh and Egypt, [h]with their gods and their kings—Pharaoh and those who [i]trust in him. 26[j]And I will deliver them into the hand of those who seek their lives, into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and the hand of his servants. [k]Afterward it shall be inhabited as in the days of old," says the LORD.

God Will Preserve Israel

27 "But[l] do not fear, O My servant Jacob,
And do not be dismayed, O Israel!
For behold, I will [m]save you from afar,
And your offspring from the land of their captivity;
Jacob shall return, have rest and be at ease;
No one shall make him afraid.
28 Do not fear, O Jacob My servant," says the LORD,
"For I am with you;
For I will make a complete end of all the nations
To which I have driven you,
But I will not make [n]a complete end of you.

Judgment on Philistia

47 The word of the LORD that came to Jeremiah the prophet [a]against the Philistines, [b]before Pharaoh attacked Gaza.

2 Thus says the LORD:

"Behold, [c]waters rise [d]out of the north,
And shall be an overflowing flood;
They shall overflow the land and all that is in it,
The city and those who dwell within;
Then the men shall cry,
And all the inhabitants of the land shall wail.
3 At the [e]noise of the stamping hooves of his strong horses,
At the rushing of his chariots,
At the rumbling of his wheels,
The fathers will not look back for their children,
[f]Lacking courage,
4 Because of the day that comes to plunder all the [f]Philistines,
To cut off from [g]Tyre and Sidon every helper who remains;
For the LORD shall plunder the Philistines,
[h]The remnant of the country of [i]Caphtor.[2]
5 [j]Baldness has come upon Gaza,
[k]Ashkelon is cut off
With the remnant of their valley.
How long will you cut yourself?

6 "O you [l]sword of the LORD,
How long until you are quiet?
Put yourself up into your scabbard,
Rest and be still!
7 How can [3]it be quiet,
Seeing the LORD has [m]given it a charge
Against Ashkelon and against the seashore?
There He has [n]appointed it."

Judgment on Moab

48 Against [a]Moab.
Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel:

"Woe to [b]Nebo!
For it is plundered,
[c]Kirjathaim is shamed and taken;
[l]The high stronghold is shamed and dismayed—
2 [d]No more praise of Moab.
In [e]Heshbon they have devised evil against her:
'Come, and let us cut her off as a nation.'
You also shall be cut down, O [f]Madmen![2]
The sword shall pursue you;
3 A voice of crying shall be from [g]Horonaim:
'Plundering and great destruction!'

CHAPTER 48

1 [a]Is. 15:1—16:14; 25:10; Ezek. 25:8–11; Amos 2:1–3; Zeph. 2:8–11 [b]Is. 15:2 [c]Num. 32:37; Jer. 48:23; Ezek. 25:9 [l]Heb. Misgab

3 [g]Is. 15:5; Jer. 48:5, 34

■ 47:4 Tyre and Sidon. These Phoenician cities afforded natural protection to the Philistines farther down the Mediterranean coast, though it is not known whether alliances ever existed between them.

Caphtor. The Philistines' place of origin, usually identified as Crete.

■ 48:1–47 This chapter records the oracle against Moab; cf. Is. 15; 16; Ezek. 25:8–11; Amos 2:1–3. Moab was an enemy of Israel (Judg. 3:12–14; 2 Kin. 3:4–27). It was an ally of Judah against Babylon (27:3), but supplied troops for Nebuchadnezzar against Jehoiakim (2 Kin. 24:2). Its defeat by Nebuchadnezzar may have come in 582 B.C. following a rebellion.

■ 48:1 Nebo . . . Kirjathaim. Originally these towns were allocated to the tribe of Reuben (Num. 32:3, 37, 38; Josh. 13:15, 19).

■ 48:2 Heshbon. This village was also assigned to Reuben (Num. 32:37; Josh. 13:17).

4 "Moab is destroyed;
[3]Her little ones have caused a cry to be heard;
5 [h]For in the Ascent of Luhith they ascend with continual weeping;
For in the descent of Horonaim the enemies have heard a cry of destruction.

6 "Flee, save your lives!
And be like [4]the [i]juniper in the wilderness.
7 For because you have trusted in your works and your [j]treasures,
You also shall be taken.
And [k]Chemosh shall go forth into captivity,
His [l]priests and his princes together.
8 And [m]the plunderer shall come against every city;
No one shall escape.
The valley also shall perish,
And the plain shall be destroyed,
As the LORD has spoken.

9 "Give[n] wings to Moab,
That she may flee and get away;
For her cities shall be desolate,
Without any to dwell in them.
10 [o]Cursed is he who does the work of the LORD deceitfully,
And cursed is he who keeps back his sword from blood.

11 "Moab has been at ease from [5]his youth;
He [p]has settled on his dregs,
And has not been emptied from vessel to vessel,
Nor has he gone into captivity.
Therefore his taste remained in him,
And his scent has not changed.

12 "Therefore behold, the days are coming," says the LORD,
"That I shall send him [6]wine-workers
Who will tip him over
And empty his vessels
And break the bottles.
13 Moab shall be ashamed of [q]Chemosh,
As the house of Israel [r]was ashamed of [s]Bethel, their confidence.

14 "How can you say, [t]'We are mighty
And strong men for the war'?
15 Moab is plundered and gone up from her cities;
Her chosen young men have [u]gone down to the slaughter," says [v]the King,
Whose name is the LORD of hosts.

16 "The calamity of Moab is near at hand,
And his affliction comes quickly.
17 Bemoan him, all you who are around him;
And all you who know his name,
Say, [w]'How the strong staff is broken,
The beautiful rod!'

18 "O [x]daughter inhabiting [y]Dibon,

■ 48:7 Chemosh. A god of Moab worshiped by Solomon (1 Kin. 11:7, 33; 2 Kin. 23:13). Images of "defeated" gods were often carried off into exile.

■ 48:8 the plunderer. Probably Nebuchadnezzar.

■ 48:11, 12 The wine left to age represents Moab's complacency. Their ease and security will vanish as quickly as a bottle empties when overturned.

■ 48:13 Bethel. Possibly a reference to the name El Bethel used for the Lord in Jeroboam's apostate worship at Bethel (1 Kin. 12:28–30). That cult had not prevented the Assyrians from plundering the land in 722 B.C. (2 Kin. 18:9–12).

And sit in thirst;
For the plunderer of Moab has come against you,
He has destroyed your strongholds.
19 O inhabitant of [z]Aroer,
[a]Stand by the way and watch;
Ask him who flees
And her who escapes;
Say, 'What has happened?'
20 Moab is shamed, for he is broken down.
[b]Wail and cry!
Tell it in [c]Arnon, that Moab is plundered.

21 "And judgment has come on the plain country:
On Holon and Jahzah and Mephaath,
22 On Dibon and Nebo and Beth Diblathaim,
23 On Kirjathaim and Beth Gamul and Beth Meon,
24 On [d]Kerioth and Bozrah,
On all the cities of the land of Moab,
Far or near.
25 [e]The [7]horn of Moab is cut off,
And his [f]arm is broken," says the LORD.

26 "Make[g] him drunk,
Because he exalted himself against the LORD.
Moab shall wallow in his vomit,
And he shall also be in derision.
27 For [h]was not Israel a derision to you?
[i]Was he found among thieves?
For whenever you speak of him,
You shake your head in [j]scorn.
28 You who dwell in Moab,
Leave the cities and [k]dwell in the rock,
And be like [l]the dove which makes her nest
In the sides of the cave's mouth.

29 "We have heard the [m]pride of Moab
(He is exceedingly proud),
Of his loftiness and arrogance and [n]pride,
And of the haughtiness of his heart."

30 "I know his wrath," says the LORD,
"But it is not right;
[o]His [8]lies have made nothing right.
31 Therefore [p]I will wail for Moab,
And I will cry out for all Moab;
[9]I will mourn for the men of Kir Heres.
32 [q]O vine of Sibmah! I will weep for you with the weeping of [r]Jazer.
Your plants have gone over the sea,
They reach to the sea of Jazer.
The plunderer has fallen on your summer fruit and your vintage.
33 [s]Joy and gladness are taken
From the plentiful field
And from the land of Moab;
I have caused wine to [t]fail from the winepresses;
No one will tread with joyous shouting—
Not joyous shouting!

■ 48:19 Aroer. Southeast of Dibon, this border fortress on the Arnon River (v. 20) is here pictured anxiously watching the flight of the refugees.

■ 48:20 Arnon. That is, in the region along the Arnon. It was the most important river in Moab.

■ 48:28 dwell in the rock. See Is. 2:10.

■ 48:32 Sibmah . . . Jazer . . . the sea. See Is. 16:8.

34 "From[t] the cry of Heshbon to [u]Elealeh and to Jahaz
They have uttered their voice,
[v]From Zoar to Horonaim,
Like [2]a three-year-old heifer;
For the waters of Nimrim also shall be desolate.

35 "Moreover," says the LORD,
"I will cause to cease in Moab
[w]The one who offers sacrifices in the [3]high places
And burns incense to his gods.
36 Therefore [x]My heart shall wail like flutes for Moab,
And like flutes My heart shall wail
For the men of Kir Heres.
Therefore [y]the riches they have acquired have perished.

37 "For [z]every head shall be bald, and every beard clipped;
On all the hands shall be cuts, and [a]on the loins sackcloth—
38 A general lamentation
On all the [b]housetops of Moab,
And in its streets;
For I have [c]broken Moab like a vessel in which is no pleasure," says the LORD.
39 "They shall wail:
'How she is broken down!
How Moab has turned her back with shame!'
So Moab shall be a derision
And a dismay to all those about her."

40 For thus says the LORD:

"Behold, [d]one shall fly like an eagle,
And [e]spread his wings over Moab.
41 Kerioth is taken,
And the strongholds are surprised;
[f]The mighty men's hearts in Moab on that day shall be
Like the heart of a woman in birth pangs.
42 And Moab shall be destroyed [g]as a people,
Because he exalted himself against the LORD.
43 [h]Fear and the pit and the snare shall be upon you,
O inhabitant of Moab," says the LORD.
44 "He who flees from the fear shall fall into the pit,
And he who gets out of the pit shall be caught in the [i]snare.
For upon Moab, upon it [j]I will bring
The year of their punishment," says the LORD.

45 "Those who fled stood under the shadow of Heshbon
Because of exhaustion.
But [k]a fire shall come out of Heshbon,
A flame from the midst of [l]Sihon,
And [m]shall devour the brow of Moab,
The crown of the head of the sons of tumult.
46 [n]Woe to you, O Moab!
The people of Chemosh perish;
For your sons have been taken captive,
And your daughters captive.

47 "Yet I will bring back the captives of Moab
[o]In the latter days," says the LORD.

Thus far is the judgment of Moab.

Judgment on Ammon

49 Against the [a]Ammonites.
Thus says the LORD:

"Has Israel no sons?
Has he no heir?
Why then does [1]Milcom inherit [b]Gad,
And his people dwell in its cities?
2 [c]Therefore behold, the days are coming," says the LORD,
"That I will cause to be heard an alarm of war
In [d]Rabbah of the Ammonites;
It shall be a desolate mound,
And her [2]villages shall be burned with fire.
Then Israel shall take possession of his inheritance," says the LORD.

3 "Wail, O [e]Heshbon, for Ai is plundered!
Cry, you daughters of Rabbah,
[f]Gird yourselves with sackcloth!
Lament and run to and fro by the walls;
For [3]Milcom shall go into captivity
With his [g]priests and his princes together.
4 Why [h]do you boast in the valleys,
[4]Your flowing valley, O [i]backsliding daughter?
Who trusted in her [j]treasures, [k]saying,
'Who will come against me?'
5 Behold, I will bring fear upon you,"
Says the Lord GOD of hosts,
"From all those who are around you;
You shall be driven out, everyone headlong,
And no one will gather those who wander off.
6 But [l]afterward I will bring back
The captives of the people of Ammon," says the LORD.

Judgment on Edom

7 [m]Against Edom.
Thus says the LORD of hosts:

[n]"Is wisdom no more in Teman?
[o]Has counsel perished from the prudent?
Has their wisdom [p]vanished?
8 Flee, turn back, dwell in the depths, O inhabitants of [q]Dedan!
For I will bring the calamity of Esau upon him,
The time that I will punish him.

■ 49:1–6 A prophecy against the Ammonites. See Ezek. 25:1–7; Amos 1:13–15. Ammon, an old enemy of Israel (Judg. 11:4–33; 1 Sam. 11:1–11; 2 Sam. 10; 1 Kin. 4:13–19), was located in Trans-Jordan just north of Moab. Like Moab, it was part of an alliance against Babylon (27:3), and like Moab it supplied troops to Nebuchadnezzar against Judah (2 Kin. 24:2). Its hostility to Gedaliah (40:13—41:3) suggests a rebellion against Babylon, probably leading to an attack that virtually ended its existence as an autonomous nation.

■ 49:1 Milcom. The chief god of the Ammonites (32:35 note; 1 Kin. 11:5).

■ 49:2 Rabbah. This city is identified with modern Amman in Jordan.

■ 49:3 Heshbon. As a border town, it may have belonged to Ammon at some time also (Judg. 11:26).

Ai. Not the city of Ai familiar from the events of Josh. 8. Its location is not known.

■ 49:7–22 A prophecy against Edom. See also 27:3; Is. 21:11, 12; Ezek. 25:12–14; Amos 1:11, 12; Obad. 1–16. Edom was an old enemy of Israel (2 Sam. 8:13, 14) and had caused special bitterness by assisting Babylon against Judah.

■ 49:7 Teman. A region of Edom representing the whole.

■ 49:8 Esau. The brother of Jacob, whose name was another designation for Edom (Gen. 25:29, 30). See also Obad. 10.

9 [r]If grape-gatherers came to you,
Would they not leave some gleaning grapes?
If thieves by night,
Would they not destroy until they have enough?
10 [s]But I have made Esau bare;
I have uncovered his secret places,
And he shall not be able to hide himself.
