His descendants are plundered,
His brethren and his neighbors,
And [t]he is no more.
11 Leave your fatherless children,
I will preserve them alive;
And let your widows trust in Me."

12 For thus says the LORD: "Behold, [u]those whose judgment was not to drink of the cup have assuredly drunk. And are you the one who will altogether go unpunished? You shall not go unpunished, but you shall surely drink of it. 13 For [v]I have sworn by Myself," says the LORD, "that [w]Bozrah shall become a desolation, a reproach, a [5]waste, and a curse. And all its cities shall be perpetual [6]wastes."

14 [x]I have heard a message from the LORD,
And an ambassador has been sent to the nations:
"Gather together, come against her,
And rise up to battle!

15 "For indeed, I will make you small among nations,
Despised among men.
16 Your fierceness has deceived you,
The [y]pride of your heart,
O you who dwell in the clefts of the rock,
Who hold the height of the hill!
[z]Though you make your [a]nest as high as the eagle,
[b]I will bring you down from there," says the LORD.

17 "Edom also shall be an astonishment;
[c]Everyone who goes by it will be astonished
And will hiss at all its plagues.
18 [d]As in the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah
And their neighbors," says the LORD,
"No one shall remain there,
Nor shall a son of man dwell in it.

19 "Behold,[e] he shall come up like a lion from [f]the [7]floodplain of the Jordan
Against the dwelling place of the strong;
But I will suddenly make him run away from her.
And who is a chosen man that I may appoint over her?
For [g]who is like Me?
Who will arraign Me?
And [h]who is that shepherd
Who will withstand Me?"

20 [i]Therefore hear the counsel of the LORD that He has taken against Edom,
And His purposes that He has proposed against the inhabitants of Teman:
Surely the least of the flock shall [8]draw them out;
Surely He shall make their dwelling places desolate with them.
21 [j]The earth shakes at the noise of their fall;
At the cry its noise is heard at the Red Sea.
22 Behold, [k]He shall come up and fly like the eagle,

■ 49:13 Bozrah. The capital of Edom.
■ 49:22 eagle. Probably Nebuchadnezzar (as 48:40), though the Edomites were also conquered decisively by Arabs during the sixth century B.C.

And spread His wings over Bozrah;
The heart of the mighty men of Edom in that day shall be
Like the heart of a woman in birth pangs.

Judgment on Damascus

23 [l]Against Damascus.

[m]"Hamath and Arpad are shamed,
For they have heard bad news.
They are fainthearted;
[n]There is [o]trouble on the sea;
It cannot be quiet.
24 Damascus has grown feeble;
She turns to flee,
And fear has seized her.
[p]Anguish and sorrows have taken her like a woman in [l]labor.
25 Why is [p]the city of praise not deserted, the city of My joy?
26 [q]Therefore her young men shall fall in her streets,
And all the men of war shall be cut off in that day," says the LORD of hosts.
27 "I[r] will kindle a fire in the wall of Damascus,
And it shall consume the palaces of Ben-Hadad."

Judgment on Kedar and Hazor

28 [s]Against Kedar and against the kingdoms of Hazor, which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon shall strike.
Thus says the LORD:

"Arise, go up to Kedar,
And devastate [t]the men of the East!
29 Their [u]tents and their flocks they shall take away.
They shall take for themselves their curtains,
All their vessels and their camels;
And they shall cry out to them,
[v]'Fear is on every side!'

30 "Flee, get far away! Dwell in the depths, O inhabitants of Hazor!" says the LORD.
"For Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon has taken counsel against you,
And has conceived a plan against you.

31 "Arise, go up to [w]the wealthy nation that dwells securely," says the LORD,
"Which has neither gates nor bars,
[x]Dwelling alone.
32 Their camels shall be for booty,
And the multitude of their cattle for plunder.
I will [y]scatter to all winds those [z]in the farthest corners,
And I will bring their calamity from all its sides," says the LORD.

■ 49:23–27 A prophecy against Syria, or Aram. Syria impinged chiefly on the northern kingdom of Israel in the Assyrian period (1 Kin. 20; Amos 1:3–5). The three states named here had fallen to Assyria in the eighth century B.C.

■ 49:23 Damascus . . . Hamath . . . Arpad. These are major Aramean city-states.

■ 49:28–33 A prophecy against Arabian kingdoms. Arab nomadic tribes posed a periodic threat to settled communities (Judg. 6:1–6). The present prophecy may have been occasioned by an Arab uprising against Nebuchadnezzar in 598 B.C.

■ 49:28 Kedar. An Arab tribe well-known in the Old Testament period (Gen. 25:13; Is. 21:16, 17; 42:11).

Hazor. Also in the Arabian desert, and not the well-known Hazor in northern Israel; this name may have designated a number of Arab settlements including Teman, Buz, and Dedan (25:23, 24).

men of the East. Another designation for Arab tribal peoples (Judg. 6:3; 7:12; Job 1:3).

■ 49:31 dwells securely . . . neither gates nor bars. These nomadic peoples typically lived in unwalled towns, not depending on fortified cities. See the description of Laish in Judg. 18:7. They were no match for a well-armed invader.

33 "Hazor [z]shall be a dwelling for jackals, a desolation forever;
No one shall reside there,
Nor son of man dwell in it."

Judgment on Elam

34 The word of the LORD that came to Jeremiah the prophet against [a]Elam, in the [b]beginning of the reign of Zedekiah king of Judah, saying, 35 "Thus says the LORD of hosts:

'Behold, I will break [c]the [3]bow of Elam,
The foremost of their might.
36 Against Elam I will bring the four winds
From the four quarters of heaven,
And scatter them toward all those winds;
There shall be no nations where the outcasts of Elam will not go.
37 For I will cause Elam to be dismayed before their enemies
And before those who seek their life.
[d]I will bring disaster upon them,
My fierce anger,' says the LORD;
'And I will send the sword after them
Until I have consumed them.
38 I will [e]set My throne in Elam,
And will destroy from there the king and the princes,' says the LORD.

39 'But it shall come to pass [f]in the latter days:
I will bring back the captives of Elam,' says the LORD."

Judgment on Babylon and Babylonia

50 The word that the LORD spoke [a]against Babylon and against the land of the Chaldeans by Jeremiah the prophet.

2 "Declare among the nations,
Proclaim, and [1]set up a standard;
Proclaim—do not conceal it—
Say, 'Babylon is [b]taken, [c]Bel is shamed.
[2]Merodach is broken in pieces;
[d]Her idols are humiliated,
Her images are broken in pieces.'
3 [e]For out of the north [f]a nation comes up against her,
Which shall make her land desolate,
And no one shall dwell therein.
They shall [3]move, they shall depart,
Both man and beast.

4 "In those days and in that time," says the LORD,
"The children of Israel shall come,
[g]They and the children of Judah together;
[h]With continual weeping they shall come,
[i]And seek the LORD their God.

■ 49:34–39 A prophecy against Elam, an important power to the east of Babylon, subjugated by Assyria, but resurgent in the Babylonian period. The prophecy possibly relates to a Babylonian containment campaign against Elam in 595 B.C.

■ 50:1—51:64 The prophecy against Babylon (cf. Is. 13:1—14:23; 21:1–9) is the climax of the book. The previous prophecies have served Jeremiah's purpose of showing that Babylon would prevail over "all nations" (27:7) for a period. Babylon has appeared up to this point as the instrument of God's wrath. Finally, however (as in 25:17–26), "the word of the LORD" is uttered against Babylon itself, to show that its own time of judgment must come (25:11, 12). The Hebrew text of Jeremiah has placed the prophecy (actually delivered in 593 B.C.; see 51:59 note) at this point in the book so that the judgment on Babylon may occupy the climactic position. The relative length of the prophecy also shows how important Babylon is in the theology of the book.

■ 50:2 Bel . . . Merodach. Merodach or "Marduk" was the creator and chief deity in Babylonian myth. He was also called Bel, an early form of the word "Baal" ("lord"). See also Is. 46:1.

■ 50:3 out of the north a nation. See 1:14; 6:1. The tables are now turned on Babylon. The nation in question is not specified, but see 51:27, 28.

5 They shall ask the way to Zion,
With their faces toward it, saying,
'Come and let us join ourselves to the LORD
In [j]a perpetual covenant
That will not be forgotten.'

6 "My people have been [k]lost sheep.
Their shepherds have led them [l]astray;
They have turned them away on [m]the mountains.
They have gone from mountain to hill;
They have forgotten their resting place.
7 All who found them have [n]devoured them;
And [o]their adversaries said, [p]'We have not offended,
Because they have sinned against the LORD, [q]the habitation of justice,
The LORD, [r]the hope of their fathers.'

8 "Move[s] from the midst of Babylon,
Go out of the land of the Chaldeans;
And be like the [4]rams before the flocks.
9 [t]For behold, I will raise and cause to come up against Babylon
An assembly of great nations from the north country,
And they shall array themselves against her;
From there she shall be captured.
Their arrows shall be like those of [5]an expert warrior;
[u]None shall return in vain.
10 And Chaldea shall become plunder;
[v]All who plunder her shall be satisfied," says the LORD.

11 "Because[w] you were glad, because you rejoiced,
You destroyers of My heritage,
Because you have grown fat [x]like a heifer threshing grain,
And you [6]bellow like bulls,
12 Your mother shall be deeply ashamed;
She who bore you shall be ashamed.
Behold, the least of the nations shall be a [y]wilderness,
A dry land and a desert.
13 Because of the wrath of the LORD
She shall not be inhabited,
[z]But she shall be wholly desolate.
[a]Everyone who goes by Babylon shall be horrified
And hiss at all her plagues.

14 "Put[b] yourselves in array against Babylon all around,
All you who bend the bow;
Shoot at her, spare no arrows,
For she has sinned against the LORD.
15 Shout against her all around;
She has [c]given her hand,
Her foundations have fallen,
[d]Her walls are thrown down;
For [e]it is the vengeance of the LORD.
Take vengeance on her.
As she has done, so do to her.

And him who handles the sickle at harvest time.

■ 50:5 perpetual covenant. See 31:31–34; 32:40; 33:20, 21.

■ 50:9 I will raise . . . against Babylon . . . from the north country. Cyrus is mentioned in Is. 41:25; 45:1. Members of the alliance are named in 51:27, 28.

■ 50:12 Your mother. The city of Babylon is personified. least of the nations. She had seemed invincible (Is. 14:12–17).

For fear of the oppressing sword
[f]Everyone shall turn to his own people,
And everyone shall flee to his own land.

17 "Israel is like [g]scattered sheep;
[h]The lions have driven him away.
First [i]the king of Assyria devoured him;
Now at last this [j]Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon has broken his bones."

18 Therefore thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel:

"Behold, I will punish the king of Babylon and his land,
As I have punished the king of [k]Assyria.
19 [l]But I will bring back Israel to his home,
And he shall feed on Carmel and Bashan;
His soul shall be satisfied on Mount Ephraim and Gilead.
20 In those days and in that time," says the LORD,
[m]"The iniquity of Israel shall be sought, but there shall be none;
And the sins of Judah, but they shall not be found;
For I will pardon those [n]whom I preserve.

21 "Go up against the land of Merathaim, against it,
And against the inhabitants of [o]Pekod.
[p]Waste and utterly destroy them," says the LORD,
"And do [p]according to all that I have commanded you.
22 [q]A sound of battle is in the land,
And of great destruction.
23 How [r]the hammer of the whole earth has been cut apart and broken!
How Babylon has become a desolation among the nations!
I have laid a snare for you;
24 You have indeed been [s]trapped, O Babylon,
And you were not aware;
You have been found and also caught,
Because you have [t]contended against the LORD.
25 The LORD has opened His armory,
And has brought out [u]the weapons of His indignation;
For this is the work of the Lord GOD of hosts
In the land of the Chaldeans.
26 Come against her from the farthest border;
Open her storehouses;
Cast her up as heaps of ruins,
And destroy her utterly;
Let nothing of her be left.
27 Slay all her [v]bulls,
Let them go down to the slaughter.
Woe to them!
For their day has come, the time of [w]their punishment.
28 The voice of those who flee and escape from the land of Babylon
[x]Declares in Zion the vengeance of the LORD our God,
The vengeance of His temple.

vengeance of His temple. The burning of the temple (52:13) was the definitive destruction of Jerusalem. The Lord ties His vengeance on Babylon specifically to that.

29 "Call together the archers against Babylon.
All you who bend the bow, encamp against it all around;
Let none of them [s]escape.
[y]Repay her according to her work;
According to all she has done, do to her;
[z]For she has been proud against the LORD,
Against the Holy One of Israel.
30 [a]Therefore her young men shall fall in the streets,
And all her men of war shall be cut off in that day," says the LORD.
31 "Behold, I am against you,
O most haughty one!" says the Lord GOD of hosts;
"For your day has come,
[g]The time that I will punish you.
32 The most [b]proud shall stumble and fall,
And no one will raise him up;
[c]I will kindle a fire in his cities,
And it will devour all around him."

33 Thus says the LORD of hosts:

"The children of Israel were oppressed,
Along with the children of Judah;
All who took them captive have held them fast;
They have refused to let them go.
34 [d]Their Redeemer is strong;
[e]The LORD of hosts is His name.
He will thoroughly plead their [f]case,
That He may give rest to the land,
And disquiet the inhabitants of Babylon.

"Against the inhabitants of Babylon,
And [g]against her princes and [h]her wise men.
36 A sword is [i]against the soothsayers, and they will be fools.
A sword is against her mighty men, and they will be dismayed.
37 A sword is against their horses,

They shall ride on horses,
Set in array, like a man for the battle,

And His [z]purposes that He has proposed against the land of the Chaldeans:
[a]Surely the least of the flock shall draw them out;
Surely He will make their dwelling place desolate with them.
46 [b]At the noise of the taking of Babylon
The earth trembles,
And the cry is heard among the nations.

The Utter Destruction of Babylon

51 Thus says the LORD:

"Behold, I will raise up against [a]Babylon,
Against those who dwell in [1]Leb Kamai,
[b]A destroying wind.
2 And I will send [c]winnowers to Babylon,
Who shall winnow her and empty her land.
[d]For in the day of doom
They shall be against her all around.
3 Against her [e]let the archer bend his bow,
And lift himself up against her in his armor.
Do not spare her young men;
[f]Utterly destroy all her army.
4 Thus the slain shall fall in the land of the Chaldeans,
[g]And those thrust through in her streets.
5 For Israel is [h]not forsaken, nor Judah,
By his God, the LORD of hosts,
Though their land was filled with sin against the Holy One of Israel."

6 [i]Flee from the midst of Babylon,
And every one save his life!
Do not be cut off in her iniquity,
For [j]this is the time of the LORD's vengeance;
[k]He shall recompense her.
7 [l]Babylon was a golden cup in the LORD's hand,
That made all the earth drunk.
[m]The nations drank her wine;
Therefore the nations [n]are deranged.
8 Babylon has suddenly [o]fallen and been destroyed.
[p]Wail for her!
[q]Take balm for her pain;
Perhaps she may be healed.

9 We would have healed Babylon,
But she is not healed.
Forsake her, and [r]let us go everyone to his own country;
[s]For her judgment reaches to heaven and is lifted up to the skies.
10 The LORD has [t]revealed our righteousness.
Come and let us [u]declare in Zion the work of the LORD our God.

11 [v]Make[2] the arrows bright!
Gather the shields!
[w]The LORD has raised up the spirit of the kings of the Medes.
[x]For His plan is against Babylon to destroy it,
Because it is [y]the vengeance of the LORD,
The vengeance for His temple.
12 [z]Set up the standard on the walls of Babylon;
Make the guard strong,
Set up the watchmen,
Prepare the ambushes.
For the LORD has both devised and done
What He spoke against the inhabitants of Babylon.
13 [a]O you who dwell by many waters,
Abundant in treasures,
Your end has come,
The measure of your covetousness.
14 [b]The LORD of hosts has sworn by Himself:
"Surely I will fill you with men, [c]as with locusts,
And they shall lift [d]up a shout against you."

15 [e]He has made the earth by His power;
He has established the world by His wisdom,
And [f]stretched out the heaven by His understanding.
16 When He utters His voice—
There is a multitude of waters in the heavens:
[g]"He causes the vapors to ascend from the ends of the earth;
He makes lightnings for the rain;
He brings the wind out of His treasuries."

17 [h]Everyone is dull-hearted, without knowledge;
Every metalsmith is put to shame by the carved image;
[i]For his molded image is falsehood,
And there is no breath in them.
18 They are futile, a work of errors;
In the time of their punishment they shall perish.
19 The Portion of Jacob is not like them,
For He is the Maker of all things;
And Israel is the tribe of His inheritance.
The LORD of hosts is His name.

20 "You[j] are My battle-ax and weapons of war:
For with you I will break the nation in pieces;
With you I will destroy kingdoms;
21 With you I will break in pieces the horse and its rider;
With you I will break in pieces the chariot and its rider;
22 With you also I will break in pieces man and woman;

■ 51:11 Medes. Babylon was conquered by an alliance of Medes and Persians (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes). See also Is. 13:17; 21:2.

■ 51:13 by many waters. Babylon was renowned for its irrigation channels, fed by the Euphrates River.

■ 51:14 sworn by Himself. See Gen. 22:16 and note.

■ 51:20 You are My battle-ax. Apparently addressed to Babylon; vv. 20–23 should be taken together with vv. 24–26. Babylon was God's "hammer" (50:23) against the nations, but later Babylon's own sin would cause it to be judged.

With you I will break in pieces [k]old and young;
With you I will break in pieces the young man and the maiden;
23 With you also I will break in pieces the shepherd and his flock;
With you I will break in pieces the farmer and his yoke of oxen;
And with you I will break in pieces governors and rulers.

24 "And[l] I will repay Babylon
And all the inhabitants of Chaldea
For all the evil they have done
In Zion in your sight," says the LORD.

25 "Behold, I am against you, [m]O destroying mountain,
Who destroys all the earth," says the LORD.
"And I will stretch out My hand against you,
Roll you down from the rocks,
[n]And make you a burnt mountain.
26 They shall not take from you a stone for a corner
Nor a stone for a foundation,
[o]But you shall be desolate forever," says the LORD.

27 [p]Set up a banner in the land,
Blow the trumpet among the nations!
[q]Prepare the nations against her,
Call [r]the kingdoms together against her:
Ararat, Minni, and Ashkenaz.
Appoint a general against her;
Cause the horses to come up like the bristling locusts.
28 Prepare against her the nations,
With the kings of the Medes,
Its governors and all its rulers,
All the land of his dominion.
29 And the land will tremble and sorrow;
For every [s]purpose of the LORD shall be performed against Babylon, [t]To make the land of Babylon a desolation without inhabitant.
30 The mighty men of Babylon have ceased fighting,
They have remained in their strongholds;
Their might has failed,
[u]They became like women;
They have burned her dwelling places,
[v]The bars of her gate are broken.
31 [w]One runner will run to meet another,
And one messenger to meet another,
To show the king of Babylon that his city is taken on all sides;
32 [x]The passages are blocked,
The reeds they have burned with fire,
And the men of war are terrified.

33 For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel:

"The daughter of Babylon is [y]like a threshing floor
When [z]it is time to thresh her;
Yet a little while
[a]And the time of her harvest will come."

■ 51:30 burned her dwelling places. Babylon's sacking of Judah (cf. 21:10) is being revenged by her Median conquerors.

■ 51:33 daughter of Babylon. This figure both personifies Babylon and alludes to its women, made vulnerable by defeat. See 50:42; Lam. 1:6 and note.

34 "Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon
Has [b]devoured me, he has crushed me;
He has made me an [c]empty vessel,
He has swallowed me up like a monster;
He has filled his stomach with my delicacies,
He has spit me out.
35 Let the violence done to me and my flesh be upon Babylon,"
The inhabitant of Zion will say;
"And my blood be upon the inhabitants of Chaldea!"
Jerusalem will say.

36 Therefore thus says the LORD:

"Behold, [d]I will plead your case and take vengeance for you.
[e]I will dry up her sea and make her springs dry.
37 [f]Babylon shall become a heap,
A dwelling place for jackals,
[g]An astonishment and a hissing,
Without an inhabitant.
38 They shall roar together like lions,
They shall growl like lions' whelps.
39 In their excitement I will prepare their feasts;
[h]I will make them drunk,
That they may rejoice,
And sleep a perpetual sleep
And not awake," says the LORD.
40 "I will bring them down
Like lambs to the slaughter,
Like rams with male goats.

41 "Oh, how [i]Sheshach[3] is taken!
Oh, how [j]the praise of the whole earth is seized!
How Babylon has become desolate among the nations!
42 [k]The sea has come up over Babylon;
She is covered with the multitude of its waves.
43 [l]Her cities are a desolation,
A dry land and a wilderness,
A land where [m]no one dwells,
Through which no son of man passes.
44 I will punish [n]Bel[4] in Babylon,
And I will bring out of his mouth what he has swallowed;
And the nations shall not stream to him anymore.
Yes, [o]the wall of Babylon shall fall.

45 "My[p] people, go out of the midst of her!
And let everyone deliver [5]himself from the fierce anger of the LORD.
46 And lest your heart faint,
And you fear [q]for the rumor that will be heard in the land
(A rumor will come one year,
And after that, in another year
A rumor will come,
And violence in the land,
Ruler against ruler),
47 Therefore behold, the days are coming
That I will bring judgment on the carved images of Babylon; wall of Babylon. An enormously wide double wall, further protected by an intervening moat.

Her whole land shall be ashamed,
And all her slain shall fall in her midst.
48 Then [r]the heavens and the earth and all that is in them
Shall sing joyously over Babylon;
[s]For the plunderers shall come to her from the north," says the LORD.

49 As Babylon has caused the slain of Israel to fall,
So at Babylon the slain of all the earth shall fall.
50 [t]You who have escaped the sword,
Get away! Do not stand still!
[u]Remember the LORD afar off,
And let Jerusalem come to your mind.

51 [v]We are ashamed because we have heard reproach.
Shame has covered our faces,
For strangers [w]have come into the [6]sanctuaries of the LORD's house.

52 "Therefore behold, the days are coming," says the LORD,
"That I will bring judgment on her carved images,
And throughout all her land the wounded shall groan.
53 [x]Though Babylon were to [7]mount up to heaven,
And though she were to fortify the height of her strength,
Yet from Me plunderers would come to her," says the LORD.

54 [y]The sound of a cry comes from Babylon,
And great destruction from the land of the Chaldeans,
55 Because the LORD is plundering Babylon
And silencing her loud voice,
Though her waves roar like great waters,
And the noise of their voice is uttered,
56 Because the plunderer comes against her, against Babylon,
And her mighty men are taken.
Every one of their bows is broken;
[z]For the LORD is the God of recompense,
He will surely repay.

57 "And I will make drunk
Her princes and [a]wise men,
Her governors, her deputies, and her mighty men.
And they shall sleep a perpetual sleep
And not awake," says [b]the King,
Whose name is the LORD of hosts.

58 Thus says the LORD of hosts:

"The broad walls of Babylon shall be utterly [c]broken,[8]
And her high gates shall be burned with fire;
[d]The people will labor in vain,
And the nations, because of the fire;
And they shall be weary."

reign. And Seraiah was the quartermaster. 60 So Jeremiah [f]wrote in a book all the evil that would come upon Babylon, all these words that are written against Babylon. 61 And Jeremiah said to Seraiah, "When you arrive in Babylon and see it, and read all these words, 62 then you shall say, 'O LORD, You have spoken against this place to cut it off, so that [g]none shall remain in it, neither man nor beast, but it shall be desolate forever.' 63 Now it shall be, when you have finished reading this book, [h]that you shall tie a stone to it and throw it out into the Euphrates. 64 Then you shall say, 'Thus Babylon shall sink and not rise from the catastrophe that I will bring upon her. And they shall be weary.' "

Thus far are the words of Jeremiah.

The Fall of Jerusalem Reviewed

52 Zedekiah was [a]twenty-one years old when he became king, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Hamutal the daughter of Jeremiah of [b]Libnah. 2 He also did evil in the sight of the LORD, according to all that Jehoiakim had done. 3 For because of the anger of the LORD this happened in Jerusalem and Judah, till He finally cast them out from His presence. Then Zedekiah [c]rebelled against the king of Babylon.

4 Now it came to pass in the [d]ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month, that Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and all his army came against Jerusalem and encamped against it; and they built a siege wall against it all around. 5 So the city was besieged until the eleventh year of King Zedekiah. 6 By the fourth month, on the ninth day of the month, the famine had become so severe in the city that there was no food for the people of the land. 7 Then the city wall was broken through, and all the men of war fled and went out of the city at night by way of the gate between the two walls, which was by the king's garden, even though the Chaldeans were near the city all around. And they went by way of the [i]plain.

8 But the army of the Chaldeans pursued the king, and they overtook Zedekiah in the plains of Jericho. All his army was scattered from him. 9 [e]So they took the king and brought him up to the went with Zedekiah . . . to Babylon in the fourth year of his reign. That is, in 593 B.C. The expedition may have been in response to a summons to explain Zedekiah's part in the uprising against Nebuchadnezzar (27:3 note).

■ 51:60 a book. It may have contained the prophecies in chs. 50 and 51. See 36:2.

■ 51:63, 64 This final symbolic act (13:1–11 note) reinforced the last word of Jeremiah, that Babylon would fall.

■ 52:1–34 The final chapter of Jeremiah is an appendix describing the fall of Jerusalem and reminding the reader that Jeremiah's prophecies were fulfilled. Despite its message of divine judgment for sin, the Book of Jeremiah ends (like 2 Kings) on a hopeful note by calling attention to the mercy shown to King Jehoiachin of Judah while in Babylonian exile (52:31–34; cf. 2 Kin. 25:27–30).

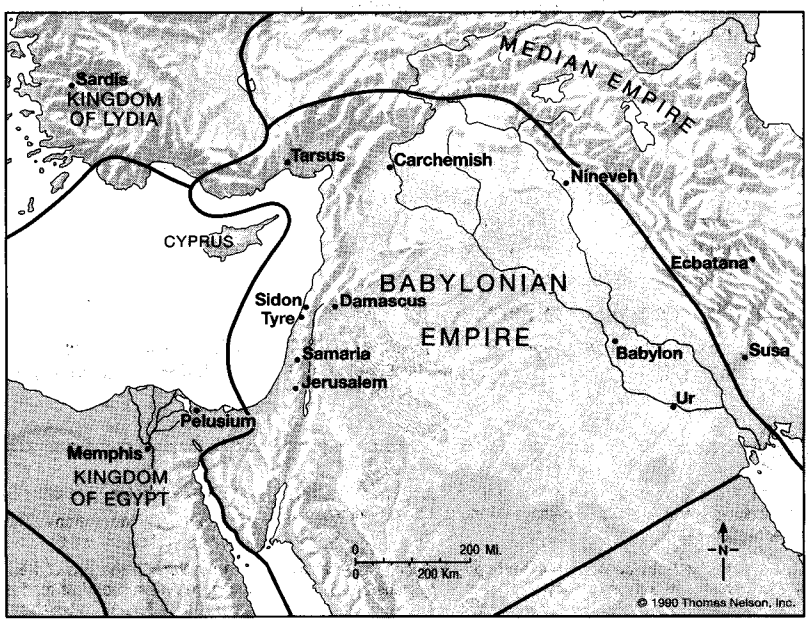
(Medo-) Babylonian Empire (560 B.C.). In 605 B.C. Nebuchadnezzar's two-year siege of Carchemish proved successful, and most of the Assyrian Empire rapidly became the Babylonian Empire. In 587 B.C. Nebuchadnezzar conquered all of Judah, besieging and destroying Jerusalem and the Jewish temple in the process. At its zenith in 560 B.C. Babylon ruled the entire fertile crescent and Arabia, although Egypt regained autonomy.



king of Babylon at Riblah in the land of Hamath, and he pronounced judgment on him. 10 [f]Then the king of Babylon killed the sons of Zedekiah before his eyes. And he killed all the princes of Judah in Riblah. 11 He also [g]put out the eyes of Zedekiah; and the king of Babylon bound him in [2]bronze fetters, took him to Babylon, and put him in prison till the day of his death.

The Temple and City Plundered and Burned

12 [h]Now in the fifth month, on the tenth day of the month ([i]which was the nineteenth year of King Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon), [j]Nebuzaradan, the captain of the guard, who served the king of Babylon, came to Jerusalem. 13 He burned the house of the LORD and the king's house; all the houses of Jerusalem, that is, all the houses of the great, he burned with fire. 14 And all the army of the Chaldeans who were with the captain of the guard broke down all the walls of Jerusalem all around. 15 [k]Then Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard carried away captive some of the poor people, the rest of the people who remained in the city, the defectors who had deserted to the king of Babylon, and the rest of the craftsmen. 16 But Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard left some of the poor of the land as vinedressers and farmers.

17 [l]The [m]bronze pillars that were in the house of the LORD, and the carts and the bronze Sea that were in the house of the LORD, the Chaldeans broke in pieces, and carried all their bronze to Babylon. 18 They also took away [n]the pots, the shovels, the trimmers, the [3]bowls, the spoons, and all the bronze utensils with which the priests ministered. 19 The basins, the firepans, the bowls, the pots, the lampstands, the spoons, and the cups, whatever was solid gold and whatever was solid silver, the captain of the guard took away. 20 The two pillars, one Sea, the twelve bronze bulls which were under it, and the carts, which King Solomon had made for the house of the LORD—[o]the bronze of all these articles was beyond measure. 21 Now concerning the [p]pillars: the height of one pillar was eighteen [4]cubits, a measuring line of twelve cubits could measure its circumference, and its thickness was [5]four fingers; it was hollow. 22 A capital of bronze was on it; and the height of one capital was five cubits, with a network and pomegranates all around the capital, all of bronze. The second pillar, with pomegranates was the same. 23 There were ninety-six pomegranates on the sides; [q]all the pomegranates, all around on the network, were one hundred.

The People Taken Captive to Babylonia

24 [r]The captain of the guard took Seraiah the chief priest, [s]Zephaniah the second priest, and the three doorkeepers. 25 He also took out of the city an [6]officer who had charge of the men of war, seven men of the king's close associates who were found in the city, the principal scribe of the army who mustered the people of the land, and sixty men of the people of the land who were found in the midst of the city. 26 And Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard took these and brought them to the king of Babylon at Riblah. 27 Then the king of Babylon struck them and put them to death at Riblah in the land of Hamath. Thus Judah was carried away captive from its own land.

28 [t]These are the people whom Nebuchadnezzar carried away captive: [u]in the seventh year, [v]three thousand and twenty-three Jews; 29 [w]in the eighteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar he carried away captive from Jerusalem eight hundred and thirty-two persons; 30 in the twenty-third year of Nebuchadnezzar, Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard carried away captive of the Jews seven hundred and forty-five persons. All the persons were four thousand six hundred.

Jehoiachin Released from Prison

31 [x]Now it came to pass in the thirty-seventh year of the captivity of Jehoiachin king of Judah, in the twelfth month, on the twenty-fifth day of the month, that [7]Evil-Merodach king of Babylon, in the first year of his reign, [y]lifted[8] up the head of Jehoiachin king of Judah and brought him out of prison. 32 And he spoke kindly to him and gave him a more prominent seat than those of the kings who were with him in Babylon. 33 So [9]Jehoiachin changed from his prison garments, [z]and he ate bread regularly before the king all the days of his life. 34 And as for his provisions, there was a regular ration given him by the king of Babylon, a portion for each day until the day of his death, all the days of his life.

■ 52:12 the tenth day. 2 Kin. 25:8 has the "seventh day." One or the other text could be a copyist's error.

■ 52:22 five. 2 Kin. 25:17 has "three." See note on v. 12.

■ 52:25 seven. 2 Kin. 25:19 has "five." See note on v. 12.

■ 52:28–30 These verses refer to the two main deportations of Jews to Babylon, in 597 B.C. ("the seventh year") and 586 B.C. (the "eighteenth year"; "nineteenth" v. 12 is due to an alternate way of counting). A third, smaller deportation is also mentioned. The numbers here are smaller than those in 2 Kin. 24:14, 16, and may count only adult males.

■ 52:31 twenty-fifth. 2 Kin. 25:27 has "twenty-seventh." See note on v. 12.

The Book of

LAMENTATIONS

Author The Book of Lamentations is traditionally attributed to the prophet Jeremiah. This has been true at least since the time of the Septuagint, the Greek translation of the Old Testament (c. 250 B.C.), where a note about the prophet's authorship of the book appears as a heading before the first verse. The idea of Jeremiah as the author may have been encouraged by 2 Chr. 35:25, where we are told that the prophet composed laments for King Josiah. There is no direct evidence in the book itself that Jeremiah was its author, although passages in the work distinctly recall his character and language, especially ch. 3 (Lam. 3:48–51; Jer. 14:17). However, since the book consists of five different poems that vary somewhat in style, sometimes seeming to be spoken by an individual (ch. 3) and sometimes by a community (ch. 5), it may be that the poems come from different pens.

Date and Occasion The link between Lamentations and Jeremiah remains plausible, however, not only because of similar expressions, but also because of the setting and theme of the poems. The setting is clearly Judah, particularly Jerusalem, and almost certainly the period after the fall of the kingdom of Judah to the Babylonians in 586 B.C. and before the restoration of exiles in 538 B.C. The lament concerning the loss of Judah's king (2:2, 9), in distinction from other devastations of Jerusalem, fixes this occasion for the laments.

A setting during the period of the Babylonian exile makes Lamentations a fitting sequel to the Book of Jeremiah. As Jeremiah had foretold the fall of Jerusalem, Lamentations expresses the pain of the event itself.

Characteristics and Themes The five chapters of the book are five poems. These poems take the form of laments, such as appear in other books of the Old Testament, principally the Psalms. Laments (both of the community and the individual) have certain typical characteristics, of which the most common are: (a) complaint about adversity, which the Lord either tolerated or even caused; (b) confession of trust; (c) appeal for deliverance, on the grounds of the Lord's character and His covenant; and (d) certainty of a hearing, often with an assurance that the enemies and persecutors will in turn experience the wrath of God (Ps. 74). The Book of Lamentations has these typical marks, though it represents a unique set of variations upon them. It is sometimes compared with a particular kind of lament, the funeral lament (Amos 5:1–3), but it does not quite fit this category, because Jerusalem is not uniformly portrayed as "dead."

The clearest evidence for meter in Hebrew poetry is the Book of Lamentations, which seems to use a line of five beats divided three-two. This meter is called qinah, after the Hebrew name for Lamentations. It is most often found in poetry of this sorrowful kind.

A second poetic form found in Lamentations is the acrostic, in which lines or sets of lines are arranged according to the twenty-two letters of the Hebrew alphabet. Each line or group of lines begins with the succeeding letter. This method may indicate that the poet is giving a complete treatment of the subject matter. The acrostic also provides a form for the literary expression of grief, allowing the writer to deal with themes that are almost too deep for words.

The purpose of Lamentations cannot be stated in a single word. In a sense its production was itself a way of coming to terms with the destruction of Zion. The center of gravity is the wrath of God against His people. God's wrath is taken to be just. Judah had sinned, and the prophets had given God's warning. Amos had spoken long before of a day of the Lord against His people (Amos 5:18), a day that now had come (Lam. 1:12). Lamentations does not express total perplexity, as Job may at times appear to do. Instead, it justifies God's punishment of Judah and offers a vindication of the prophets who had predicted it.

Lamentations is anything but a work of passive resignation. God's wrath is accepted, but not without great emotional resistance. Could God behave like the enemy of His own people, and drive them to terrors that are painful even to describe (2:4, 5, 20–22)? Although the writer understands the justice of God, the agony and bewilderment of the event can be freely expressed. The book retains its power in times of anguish and sorrow.

Yet in his anguish this poet of the Exile is able to affirm that God is still merciful and faithful (3:22–36). This is the covenant God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, whose faithfulness to the patriarchs was a continuing foundation for new appeals to Israel and Judah to put their trust in Him (Mic. 7:20). Lamentations may be counted, perhaps with Abraham himself, as one of the supreme examples in the Old Testament of faith in God. Jeremiah had prophesied that there would be a definite end to the Babylonian exile (Jer. 25:11). Lamentations looks for such an end, and even hopes that Judah's enemies will be judged for their crimes against her. In this hope there is an understanding of the sovereignty of God over all the nations, the sovereignty that embraces all mysteries (3:37–39). In the days before His own cry of abandonment (Matt. 27:46) and the mystery of His redemptive suffering, Jesus made His own lament over Jerusalem (Matt. 23:37–39; Luke 13:34, 35). The solemnity and compassion of His words expresses the goodness and severity of God that undergirds the gospel (Rom. 11:22, 23).

Lamentations points beyond the humiliation of Jerusalem to the humiliation and exaltation of Christ. With this anchor, the world can know that God is good, and He will do good in His time ". . . to those who wait for Him" (3:25). □

Jerusalem in Affliction

CHAPTER 1

HOW lonely sits the city
That was full of people!
[a]How like a widow is she,
Who was great among the nations!
The [b]princess among the provinces
Has become a [1]slave!

2 She [c]weeps bitterly in the [d]night,
Her tears are on her cheeks;
Among all her lovers
She has none to comfort her.
All her friends have dealt treacherously with her;
They have become her enemies.

3 [e]Judah has gone into captivity,
Under affliction and hard servitude;
[f]She dwells among the [2]nations,
She finds no [g]rest;
All her persecutors overtake her in dire straits.

4 The roads to Zion mourn
Because no one comes to the [3]set feasts.

■ 1:1–22 The chosen city of Zion, once exalted, has been humbled.

■ 1:1 How lonely. The first verse sets the theme of the lament: Jerusalem's loss of greatness. The city, once favored, is desolate from the Babylonians' plundering (Is. 1:21–26).

widow. Widowhood and solitude (Jer. 15:17) are typical pictures of abandonment.

slave. Slavery is contrary to God's ultimate design for Israel. They had become a nation when God delivered them from slavery in Egypt so that they could serve him (Deut. 6:20–25; Jer. 2:14; Deut. 15:12–18). The blessings of living in the Promised Land and serving according to the Law were replaced with the punishments of exile and forced labor (Deut. 28:47–50), because the people had often broken the covenant they accepted when they left Egypt (Ex. 24:7, 8).

■ 1:2 lovers. This is a word often used in irony for Judah's idolatrous neighbors with whom she willingly consorted (Jer. 3:1).

none to comfort. See also vv. 7, 9, 16. This should be compared with the comfort promised in Is. 40:1. Here there is no limit to the effects of the Babylonian ravages.

■ 1:3 For the fall of Judah, see 2 Kin. 24:20—25:30; Jer. 39—45, 52.

no rest. The covenant had promised rest from enemies (Deut. 12:9; 2 Sam. 7:1, cf, Deut. 28:65).

■ 1:4 The regular worship life of ancient Israel is pictured here.

roads to Zion. People who lived at a distance would travel these roads in pilgrimage to the temple (Ps. 84:5).

set feasts. The main yearly gatherings for worship were Passover, Pentecost, and Harvest (Ex. 23:14–17; Lev. 23:4–44). Jerusalem would be crowded, and priests presided over the vibrant celebrations.

virgins are afflicted. This is a sign of defeat; contrast Jer. 31:13.

All her gates are [h]desolate;
Her priests sigh,
Her virgins are afflicted,
And she is in bitterness.

5 Her adversaries [i]have become [4]the master,
Her enemies prosper;
For the LORD has afflicted her
[j]Because of the multitude of her transgressions.
Her [k]children have gone into captivity before the enemy.

6 And from the daughter of Zion
All her splendor has departed.
Her princes have become like deer
That find no pasture,
That [5]flee without strength
Before the pursuer.

7 In the days of her affliction and roaming,
Jerusalem [l]remembers all her pleasant things
That she had in the days of old.
When her people fell into the hand of the enemy,
With no one to help her,
The adversaries saw her
And mocked at her [6]downfall.

8 [m]Jerusalem has sinned gravely,
Therefore she has become [7]vile.
All who honored her despise her
Because [n]they have seen her nakedness;
Yes, she sighs and turns away.

9 Her uncleanness is in her skirts;
She [o]did not consider her destiny;
Therefore her collapse was awesome;
She had no comforter.
"O LORD, behold my affliction,
For the enemy is exalted!"

10 The adversary has spread his hand
Over all her [8]pleasant things;
For she has seen [p]the nations enter her [9]sanctuary,
Those whom You commanded
[q]Not to enter Your assembly.

11 All her people sigh,
[r]They [1]seek bread;
They have given their [2]valuables for food to restore life.

11 [r]Jer. 38:9; 52:6 [1]hunt food [2]desirable things

■ 1:5 enemies prosper. See other complaints in Jer. 12:1; Ps. 73. Here the complaint comes with a confession of sin. As the prophets foretold, Judah's unfaithfulness brought her to grief.

■ 1:6 daughter of Zion. This phrase personifies Jerusalem (Jer. 6:2); yet perhaps it also alludes to the women of the city, who feel its anguish most keenly.

■ 1:7 Jerusalem remembers. Again the bitter present contrasts with an earlier, happier time, possibly that of David and Solomon.

■ 1:8 Jerusalem has sinned. The idea of sin as the cause of the Exile is developed, first with images of ritual impurity.

vile. The word probably refers to menstruation (Lev. 15:19–33). The consequence of Judah's sin was similar, if not more severe: being cut off from God's worship, and perhaps also public humiliation (cf. Jer. 13:22, 26).

■ 1:9 uncleanness. This intensifies the image of ritual uncleanness.

O LORD, behold. Zion is personified for the first time, introducing an element of appeal to the Lord, a normal part of the lament form (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes).

■ 1:10 sanctuary. The temple was intended to attract the nations to worship the God of Israel (1 Kin. 8:41–43), but now it has brought invaders who desecrate it.

■ 1:11 All . . . life. The picture of desolation becomes vivid, with its intimation of food shortages.

"See, O LORD, and consider,
For I am scorned."

12 "Is it nothing to you, all you who [3]pass by?
Behold and see
[s]If there is any sorrow like my sorrow,
Which has been brought on me,
Which the LORD has inflicted
In the day of His fierce anger.

13 "From above He has sent fire into my bones,
And it overpowered them;
He has [t]spread a net for my feet
And turned me back;
He has made me desolate
And faint all the day.

14 "The[u] yoke of my transgressions was [4]bound;
They were woven together by His hands,
And thrust upon my neck.
He made my strength fail;
The Lord delivered me into the hands of those whom I am not able to withstand.

15 "The Lord has trampled underfoot all my mighty men in my midst;
He has called an assembly against me
To crush my young men;
[v]The Lord trampled as in a winepress
The virgin daughter of Judah.

16 "For these things I weep;
My eye, [w]my eye overflows with water;
Because the comforter, who should restore my life,
Is far from me.
My children are desolate
Because the enemy prevailed."

17 [x]Zion [5]spreads out her hands,
But no one comforts her;
The LORD has commanded concerning Jacob
That those [y]around him become his adversaries;
Jerusalem has become an unclean thing among them.

18 "The LORD is [z]righteous,
For I [a]rebelled against His [6]commandment.
Hear now, all peoples,
And behold my sorrow;
My virgins and my young men
Have gone into captivity.

12 [s]Dan. 9:12 [3]Lit. pass by this way

■ 1:12 all you who pass by . . . like my sorrow. The sufferer imagines that their suffering is unprecedented. Yet no one seems to sympathize.

the day of His fierce anger. The expression here is a grim confirmation of the prophecy of Amos that on the day of the Lord His anger would be against His own people (Amos 5:18).

■ 1:13 He has sent fire. Zion knows that the Lord Himself has afflicted them (Ps. 88:13–18).

■ 1:15 The Lord has trampled. The Lord, formerly a warrior on Israel's behalf (Deut. 9:1–3), has turned His might against His own people.

■ 1:16 the comforter . . . is far from me. There is no one to help, no one to comfort—a dominant theme in these verses (2, 7, 9, 17).

■ 1:17 Jacob. A historic name for Israel, derived from the name of their ancestor (Gen. 32:38).

those around him become his adversaries. The presence of Judah as an unclean thing among the nations falsifies her intended role as a witness to the holiness of God (Ex. 19:5, 6).

■ 1:18 The LORD is righteous. Zion justifies the Lord's punishment by an admission of sin. Yet the thought shifts quickly again to her slavery.

19 "I called for my lovers,
But they deceived me;
My priests and my elders
Breathed their last in the city,
While they sought food
To restore their life.

20 "See, O LORD, that I am in distress;
My [b]soul[7] is troubled;
My heart is overturned within me,
For I have been very rebellious.
[c]Outside the sword bereaves,
At home it is like death.

21 "They have heard that I sigh,
But no one comforts me.
All my enemies have heard of my trouble;
They are [d]glad that You have done it.
Bring on [e]the day You have [8]announced,
That they may become like me.

22 "Let[f] all their wickedness come before You,
And do to them as You have done to me
For all my transgressions;
For my sighs are many,
And my heart is faint."

God's Anger with Jerusalem

2 How the Lord has covered the daughter of Zion
With a [a]cloud in His anger!
[b]He cast down from heaven to the earth
[c]The beauty of Israel,
And did not remember [d]His footstool
In the day of His anger.

2 The Lord has swallowed up and has [e]not pitied
All the dwelling places of Jacob.
He has thrown down in His wrath
The strongholds of the daughter of Judah;
He has brought them down to the ground;
[f]He has profaned the kingdom and its princes.

3 He has cut off in fierce anger
Every [1]horn of Israel;

3 [1]Strength

■ 1:19 lovers. They fail in time of need.

■ 1:21 my enemies. Zion appeals to the Lord because of the enemies' gloating. Their insults are deeply offensive to Judah's status as God's covenant people—and therefore to God Himself.

day. The day of the Lord now becomes a day of terror for Zion's enemies. Zion's lament follows the prophetic pattern, where the enemies who administer God's judgment finally come to suffer judgment themselves (Jer. 25:15–38).

■ 1:22 Let . . . transgressions. Zion finally asserts that her enemies merit judgment as much as she does.

my sighs. The petition to punish, however, does not diminish Zion's deep distress.

■ 2:1–22 The second lament over Zion's loss of glory begins and the prophet portrays the Lord's anger with her.

■ 2:1 How. Cf. 1:1 and note.

He cast down . . . The beauty. Israel's fall into disfavor is compared to a falling star (Is. 14:12).

And did not remember. Judah is astonished that the promise to David is now apparently void (cf. Ps. 89, especially vv. 38–51). Isaiah had assured the people that God would protect Zion (e.g., Is. 37:35), and the people of Judah had absolutized these promises. They forgot their obligation to keep the terms of God's covenant with them (Ex. 24:1–3).

His footstool. Used normally for the ark of the covenant (1 Chr. 28:2; Ps. 132:7), or the earth (Is. 66:1), it is here applied to Zion (cf. Ps. 99:5).

■ 2:2 strongholds. The strength of the fortified cities of Judah had symbolized God's blessing in response to Judah's covenant faithfulness (2 Chr. 10:4–12).

■ 2:3 horn. A metaphor for strength and prosperity (contrast v. 17). The language used makes vivid the contrasts (a) between Judah and the enemies, as well as (b) between Judah's life as it should be and as it is.

[g] He has drawn back His right hand
From before the enemy.
[h] He has blazed against Jacob like a flaming fire
Devouring all around.

4 [i] Standing like an enemy, He has bent His bow;
With His right hand, like an adversary,
He has slain [j] all who were pleasing to His eye;
On the tent of the daughter of Zion,
He has poured out His fury like fire.

5 [k] The Lord was like an enemy.
He has swallowed up Israel,
He has swallowed up all her palaces;
[l] He has destroyed her strongholds,
And has increased mourning and lamentation
In the daughter of Judah.

6 He has done violence [m] to His [2] tabernacle,
[n] As if it were a garden;
He has destroyed His place of assembly;
The LORD has caused
The appointed feasts and Sabbaths to be forgotten in Zion.
In His burning indignation He has [o] spurned the king and the priest.

7 The Lord has spurned His altar,
He has [p] abandoned His sanctuary;
He has [3] given up the walls of her palaces
Into the hand of the enemy.
[q] They have made a noise in the house of the LORD
As on the day of a set feast.

8 The LORD has [4] purposed to destroy
The [r] wall of the daughter of Zion.
[s] He has stretched out a line;
He has not withdrawn His hand from destroying;
Therefore He has caused the rampart and wall to lament;
They languished together.

9 Her gates have sunk into the ground;
He has destroyed and [t] broken her bars.
[u] Her king and her princes are among the [5] nations;
[v] The Law is no more,
And her [w] prophets find no [6] vision from the LORD.

10 The elders of the daughter of Zion
[x] Sit on the ground and keep silence;

3 [g] Ps. 74:11; Jer. 21:4, 5 [h] Ps. 89:46

4 [i] Is. 63:10 [j] Ezek. 24:25

5 [k] Jer. 30:14 [l] 2 Kin. 25:9; Jer. 52:13; Lam. 2:2

10 [x] Job 2:13; Is. 3:26

■ 2:4 like an enemy. 1:15 note.

poured out His fury. This holy war imagery is classically used of God's judgment on the nations (Ps. 69:24).

bent His bow. Deut. 32:42. The harmful arrows that were meant for God's enemies (Deut. 32:42) are now aimed at His people (Hos. 5:10; Jer. 6:11; 7:20).

■ 2:5 daughter of Judah. See note on 1:6.

■ 2:6 His tabernacle . . . His place of assembly. These are references to the temple.

The LORD has caused . . . Sabbaths to be forgotten. 1:4 note. This can be rendered "The LORD has made appointed feasts and Sabbaths forgotten things in Zion," an ironic justice since the people had first forgotten the Sabbaths themselves (Amos 8:5; Jer. 17:19–27).

■ 2:7 His altar . . . His sanctuary. God's judgment destroys not only the place of His dwelling, but the means of Israel's approach to Him in worship. The shouts of triumphant enemies replace the cry of worshiping assemblies.

■ 2:8 stretched out a line. This was done as if to survey the city for destruction (Is. 34:11; Amos 7:7, 8).

■ 2:9 Law . . . prophets . . . vision. Not only are the religious institutions destroyed, but the Lord withholds revelation. The prophetic vision that accompanies preaching of the law has ceased (Jer. 8:8–10; 18:18; 1 Sam. 3:1).

■ 2:10 The elders . . . dust . . . sackcloth . . . Bow their heads. These are the conventional gestures of mourning (Job 2:12, 13; and Lam. 1:4).

[7] They [y]throw dust on their heads
And [z]gird themselves with sackcloth.
The virgins of Jerusalem
Bow their heads to the ground.

11 [a]My eyes fail with tears,
My [8]heart is troubled;
[b]My [9]bile is poured on the ground
Because of the destruction of the daughter of my people,
Because [c]the children and the infants
Faint in the streets of the city.

12 They say to their mothers,
"Where is grain and wine?"
As they swoon like the wounded
In the streets of the city,
As their life is poured out
In their mothers' bosom.

13 How shall I [d]console[1] you?
To what shall I liken you,
O daughter of Jerusalem?
What shall I compare with you, that I may comfort you,
O virgin daughter of Zion?
For your ruin is spread wide as the sea;
Who can heal you?

14 Your [e]prophets have seen for you
False and deceptive visions;
They have not [f]uncovered your iniquity,

■ 2:11 My eyes fail with tears. Compare the poet's natural suffering because of the agony of his people with the experiences of Jeremiah (Jer. 4:19), and note the pictures of desolation that accompany the prophet's expressions of anguish (Jer. 4:31).

■ 2:11, 12 children and the infants . . . their mothers. The prophet is especially moved by the sight of suffering children.

■ 2:13 How shall I console you. The meaning seems to be, "What can I tell you about suffering, you who have suffered so much?" No ready answers occur to someone who witnesses sorrows like these.

comfort. See note on 1:2.

■ 2:14 deceptive visions. The thought advances from v. 9; prophets are now said to have prophesied falsely. The complex problem of false prophecy is a recurrent theme of the prophets (Jer. 5:12, 13; 23:9–40; 28). Deut. 18:21, 22 furnishes one criterion by which prophets may be judged true or false.

■ 2:15 perfection of beauty . . . joy of the whole earth. The beauty of the chosen place is extravagantly expressed (Ps. 50:2; 48:2), but by scoffers who mock the ruin and agony of Jerusalem.

■ 2:16 swallowed her up. In vv. 2 and 5, God Himself is said to have swallowed up the people. As this verse makes clear, He did this using Judah's enemies for His agents. The verse also shows how the nations proudly attribute their victory over Judah to their own strength.

■ 2:17 fulfilled His word . . . commanded in days of old. God's

And He has caused an enemy to [p]rejoice over you;
He has exalted the [3]horn of your adversaries.

"O wall of the daughter of Zion,
[q]Let tears run down like a river day and night;
Give yourself no relief;
Give [4]your eyes no rest.

19 "Arise, [r]cry out in the night,
At the beginning of the watches;
[s]Pour out your heart like water before the face of the Lord.
Lift your hands toward Him
For the life of your young children,
Who faint from hunger [t]at the head of every street."

20 "See, O LORD, and consider!
To whom have You done this?
[u]Should the women eat their offspring,
The children [5]they have cuddled?
Should the priest and prophet be slain
In the sanctuary of the Lord?

21 "Young[v] and old lie

My virgins and my young men
Have fallen by the [w]sword;
You have slain them in the day of Your anger,
You have slaughtered and not pitied.

There was no refugee or survivor.

■ 2:19 children. See note on v. 12.

■ 2:20 Should the women . . . offspring. The theme of the suffering of innocent children reaches the height of pathos (Jer. 19:9). Its power as an appeal to God is enhanced by the knowledge that God knows motherly affection (Is. 66:13). As extreme in its own way is the outrage of sacrilege: the Lord's anointed ones are killed in His sanctuary.

■ 3:1–66 As an individual expresses the grief of the community, hope and consolation are sustained by a knowledge of God's compassionate love.

■ 3:1 I am the man. This chapter is an acrostic with three verses for each letter of the Hebrew alphabet. On the author's possible identity as Jeremiah, and the acrostic form in Hebrew poetry, see the Introduction, and further below. For portrayals of the Lord Himself as the One who has afflicted the speaker, see Job 19:21; Ps. 88:7, 15; Jer. 15:17, 18. In this poem an individual expresses the grief of his community (vv. 22, 40–47).

CHAPTER 3

In darkness and not in light.
3 Surely He has turned His hand against me
Time and time again throughout the day.

4 He has aged [a]my flesh and my skin,
And [b]broken my bones.
5 He has besieged me
And surrounded me with bitterness and [1]woe.
6 [c]He has set me in dark places
Like the dead of long ago.

7 [d]He has hedged me in so that I cannot get out;
He has made my chain heavy.
8 Even [e]when I cry and shout,
He shuts out my prayer.
9 He has blocked my ways with hewn stone;
He has made my paths crooked.

10 [f]He has been to me a bear lying in wait,
Like a lion in [2]ambush.
11 He has turned aside my ways and [g]torn me in pieces;
He has made me desolate.
12 He has bent His bow
And [h]set me up as a target for the arrow.

13 He has caused [i]the [3]arrows of His quiver
To pierce my [4]loins.
14 I have become the [j]ridicule of all my people—
[k]Their taunting song all the day.
15 [l]He has filled me with bitterness,
He has made me drink wormwood.

16 He has also broken my teeth [m]with gravel,
And [5]covered me with ashes.
17 You have moved my soul far from peace;
I have forgotten [6]prosperity.
18 [n]And I said, "My strength and my hope
Have perished from the LORD."

19 Remember my affliction and roaming,
[o]The wormwood and the [7]gall.

And [8]sinks within me.
21 This I recall to my mind,
Therefore I have [p]hope.

metaphor for the distress experienced as the absence of God; light stands for the opposite: salvation and blessing. The day of the Lord is described in these terms at Amos 5:18.

■ 3:4 skin . . . bones. These are pictures of physical distress, perhaps due to age or illness (Job 13:28; Is. 38:13).

■ 3:5 bitterness and woe. Emotional and physical effects of distress go hand in hand.

■ 3:6 the dead of long ago. The distresses and diseases of life diminish its fullness, culminating in death. In his weakened condition, the prophet considers himself to have little more participation in life than if he were actually dead. From the perspective of the living, the dead exist not at all, or as shadows (Prov. 2:18; 9:18 and notes). For other pictures of death in the Old Testament, see Job 3:11–19; Ps. 6:5; 115:17; Is. 14:18, 19. Against this background the Old Testament is eloquent in its testimony to resurrection beyond the grave (Job 19:25–27; Ps. 16:9–11; 49:15; 73:24).

■ 3:8 shuts out my prayer. For unheard prayer see Ps. 10:1; 13:1; 22:1, 2.

■ 3:10–12 a bear . . . the arrow. Some of the hazards that could actually overtake the traveler are vivid ways of expressing terror and distress.

■ 3:14 the ridicule. See Jer. 20:7.

■ 3:17 peace . . . prosperity. These conditions, the sum of blessing, are totally absent.

■ 3:18 My strength . . . LORD. The expression of hopelessness in the poem reaches its climax here.

■ 3:20 remembers. The poet's experience is a symbol of the people's; see the language in 1:7.

■ 3:21 This I recall to my mind. Memory that once discouraged now encourages (Ps. 77:3–9, 10–15). The memory of God's devotion to His people brings hope out of hopelessness.

22 [q]Through the LORD's mercies we are not consumed, Because His compassions [r]fail not.
23 They are new [s]every morning;
Great is Your faithfulness.
24 "The LORD is my [t]portion," says my soul,
"Therefore I [u]hope in Him!"

25 The LORD is good to those who [v]wait for Him,
To the soul who seeks Him.
26 It is good that one should [w]hope [x]and wait quietly
For the salvation of the LORD.
27 [y]It is good for a man to bear
The yoke in his youth.

28 [z]Let him sit alone and keep silent,
Because God has laid it on him;
29 [a]Let him put his mouth in the dust—
There may yet be hope.
30 [b]Let him give his cheek to the one who strikes him,
And be full of reproach.

31 [c]For the Lord will not cast off forever.
32 Though He causes grief,
Yet He will show compassion
According to the multitude of His mercies.
33 For [d]He does not afflict [g]willingly,
Nor grieve the children of men.

34 To crush under one's feet
All the prisoners of the earth,
35 To turn aside the justice due a man
Before the face of the Most High,
36 Or subvert a man in his cause—
[e]The Lord does not approve.

When the Lord has not commanded it?

■ 3:22–24 The climactic point of the poem and the book is reached here. The lament form often has turning points where the experience of rejection by God turns unexpectedly to confidence, based on a knowledge of His character and of His past mercies. See the confessions of trust and hope in Ps. 22.

■ 3:22, 23 See "God Is Love: Divine Goodness and Faithfulness" at Ps. 136:1.

■ 3:22 mercies. On the Hebrew word (hesed) see Ps. 36:5 note. The plural form, used here, recalls many acts or perhaps the riches of divine love.

compassions. God's covenant devotion is always joined with His compassion, a term of profound emotion. We are not consumed because God's compassion is not consumed. God's wrath toward His people will end because His compassion cannot end (4:22; Hos. 11:8).

■ 3:23 every morning. God's love will bring the morning of salvation (Ps. 90:14; Mal. 4:2; Luke 1:78).

faithfulness. The unqualified reliability of God makes Him worthy of faith (Hab. 2:4).

■ 3:24 my portion. This phrase recalls the territorial allocations to the Israelite tribes. The priests and Levites, who were landless, had the Lord as their portion (Num. 18:20; cf. Ps. 73:26).

■ 3:25 The LORD . . . seeks Him. God is always good to those who seek, hope, and wait for Him (cf. 1 Chr. 28:9). The threefold "good" in this context (cf. vv. 26, 27) focuses on God's goodness.

■ 3:27 in his youth. The reference is apparently to Jeremiah's suffering in early and middle life, possibly signifying a relief from it in old age. Perhaps the community, like an individual, should hope for the yoke to be lifted with the passage of time.

■ 3:28–30 Let him . . . reproach. The prophet exhorts the afflicted to bear present suffering, in the light of the affirmation in the next verses.

sit alone. Cf. 1:1.

■ 3:30 Let him give his cheek. The humiliation of Israel foreshadows Christ's humiliation (Is. 50:6; Matt. 26:67).

■ 3:31–33 Since God is compassionate, the present experience of His wrath must be short-lived (Ps. 30:5; Is. 54:7; Hos. 6:1). Again, compassion is joined to God's unfailing love (Hebrew hesed, 3:22). God does not afflict men "willingly," that is, "cheerfully," or "from His heart" (text note) even in judgment.

■ 3:34–36 The implication of these verses is that God cannot approve such things (Job 8:3). Of course, God has approved these very things, since He has brought them to pass. This is the problem of judgment and affliction that the poet faces.

■ 3:37, 38 All that happens is by God's word (Gen. 1:3), calamity as well as good (Amos 3:6).

38 [g]Is. it not from the mouth of the Most High
That [g]woe and well-being proceed?
39 [h]Why should a living man [1]complain,
[i]A man for the punishment of his sins?

40 Let us search out and examine our ways,
And turn back to the LORD;
41 [j]Let us lift our hearts and hands
To God in heaven.
42 [k]We have transgressed and rebelled;
You have not pardoned.

■ 3:39 Since all things take place by the word of the Lord, no living man can complain when God brings calamity as punishment for sin.

the punishment of his sins. The sin of the people is an important part of the prophet's answer to the problem of judgment and affliction (dreadful though God's judgment is, 2:20–22). The phrase in Hebrew implies that sin and consequent punishment belong inescapably together.

■ 3:40–47 Notice that the speaker is plural throughout this section.

■ 3:40–42 Let us search out . . . transgressed. This is a call to repentance, acknowledging sin. The impulse to confess sins seems to give way soon to renewed lamentation, following the statement, "You have not pardoned" (v. 42). The confession could have been superficial or hypocritical. In any case the penalties were not lifted.

■ 3:43–45 You have covered . . . midst of the peoples. Here the prophet parodies the actions of God at the Exodus. Then God's anger helped Israel; it was their enemies who were slain without pity; and the cloud was a sign of favor. Israel was precious among the nations, not "an offscouring and refuse."

■ 3:48–66 The speech now reverts to the singular again.

rivers of water. There are strong echoes of Jeremiah in this close association between the people's grief and the poet's grief. A link is suggested between the suffering of the people and of the poet.

■ 3:49 My eyes flow. These words reflect familiar lament language (Ps. 6:6; 42:3; Jer. 9:1; 18).

■ 3:52 enemies without cause. Ps. 35:19; John 15:25.

■ 3:53 in the pit. Ps. 28:1; 88:6. The life of Jeremiah may be in view again in these verses (Jer. 38:6).

■ 3:55 I called . . . pit. See Ps. 16:10, 11; 30:1; and the experience of Jonah (Jon. 2:2–7). Christ's suffering as the righteous Servant of the Lord brings this recurring theme of the suffering prophets and their rescue by the Lord to its highest fulfillment.

60 You have seen all their vengeance,
All their [f]schemes against me.

61 You have heard their reproach, O LORD,
All their schemes against me,
62 The lips of my enemies
And their whispering against me all the day.
63 Look at their [g]sitting down and their rising up;
I am their taunting song.

64 [h]Repay them, O LORD,
According to the work of their hands.

■ 3:56 You have heard my voice. The turning point of the lament arrives when the poet is reassured that the Lord has heard his prayer (Ps. 6:8–10).

■ 3:57 Do not fear. This is a common exhortation in Isaiah (e.g., Is. 41:10; cf. Mark 6:50).

■ 3:58–66 This section takes up the biblical theme of innocent, vicarious suffering that reaches its consummation in Christ's death for those who brought it upon Him.

■ 3:58–60 the case . . . redeemed my life . . . my case. In Jer. 50:34 the Lord is the Redeemer of Judah and pleads their case. Here the Lord pleads against them, because they have turned against His prophet.

■ 3:64–66 Repay them. The note of revenge is present in Jer. 12:1, as in Ps. 77:6, 7.

■ 4:1–22 This chapter, containing the most vivid portrayal of Judah's agonies, laments Zion's punishment, but gives assurances that the punishment will cease.

■ 4:1 the gold . . . The stones of the sanctuary. The gold and the rich furnishings of Solomon's temple were laid waste by Nebuchadnezzar (2 Kin. 25:9).

■ 4:2 The precious sons . . . fine gold. The idea of gold is quickly transferred to the people themselves, more valuable than the temple's riches. As God's "special treasure" (Ex. 19:5) they had been exceedingly precious; now they are the most common clay.

■ 4:3 Even the jackals. Is. 1:2, 3.

ostriches. These birds were a proverbial figure for the callousness of parents towards their children (Job 39:16). This indifference is a theme of the chapter (v. 10), developed from 2:20.

[c]The young children ask for bread,
But no one breaks it for them.

5 Those who ate delicacies
Are desolate in the streets;
Those who were brought up in scarlet
[d]Embrace ash heaps.

6 The punishment of the iniquity of the daughter of my people
Is greater than the punishment of the [e]sin of Sodom,
Which was [f]overthrown in a moment,
With no hand to help her!

7 Her [4]Nazirites were [5]brighter than snow
And whiter than milk;
They were more ruddy in body than rubies,
Like sapphire in their [6]appearance.

8 Now their appearance is blacker than soot;
They go unrecognized in the streets;
[g]Their skin clings to their bones,
It has become as dry as wood.

9 Those slain by the sword are better off
Than those who die of hunger;
For these [h]pine away,
Stricken for lack of the fruits of the [i]field.

10 The hands of the [j]compassionate women
Have [7]cooked their [k]own children;
They became [l]food for them
In the destruction of the daughter of my people.

11 The LORD has fulfilled His fury,
[m]He has poured out His fierce anger.
[n]He kindled a fire in Zion,
And it has devoured its foundations.

12 The kings of the earth,
And all inhabitants of the world,
Would not have believed
That the adversary and the enemy
Could [o]enter the gates of Jerusalem—

13 [p]Because of the sins of her prophets
And the iniquities of her priests,

■ 4:5 delicacies. The picture of someone rich and delicately bred falling suddenly into dire want and danger is echoed often in the prophets (Amos 4:1–3; 6:1; Jer. 6:2).

■ 4:6 punishment. The Hebrew word can be translated "punishment" or "iniquity" according to the context, because the two ideas are so intimately linked. The connection is strong in this chapter, where the intense suffering of Judah is linked repeatedly to her unnatural sin.

Sodom. The prophets often use Sodom as an archetype of divine judgment on sin (Deut. 29:23; Is. 1:10; Jer. 23:14; Ezek. 16:46; Hos. 11:8; Amos 4:11; Luke 17:28–30). The comparison with Sodom holds good both for the sins of the city and the dreadful judgment that fell upon it.

■ 4:7 Nazirites. Num. 6:1–21, note.

whiter . . . ruddy. These are colors often associated with the human body.

■ 4:8 Now. Ironically, in the prevailing difficulties, no one is marked out as special; all distinctions have been obliterated.

■ 4:9 Those slain . . . better off. The misery of the people is desperate and wretched. Death by famine is not a summary, instant judgment; in its lingering it exposes the horrors of God's judgment to a dreadful degree (Deut. 28:54–57).

■ 4:10 women . . . children. See v. 3.

■ 4:11 fury. The focus returns to God's wrath; there is an explanation even for these ills in Judah's sin.

■ 4:12 The kings of the earth. Possibly this phrase refers to the assumed impregnability of Zion, reinforced by the dramatic failure of the Assyrians to take the city following Sennacherib's conquest of the rest of Judah in 701 B.C. (2 Kin. 18:13—19:37).

■ 4:13 prophets . . . priests. See note on 2:20 and Jer. 5:30, 31; Mic. 3:9–12.

[q]Who shed in her midst
The blood of the just.

14 They wandered blind in the streets;
[r]They have defiled themselves with blood,
[s]So that no one would touch their garments.

15 They cried out to them,
"Go away, [t]unclean!
Go away, go away,
Do not touch us!"
When they fled and wandered,
Those among the nations said,
"They shall no longer dwell here."

16 The [s]face of the LORD scattered them;
He no longer regards them.
[u]The people do not respect the priests
Nor show favor to the elders.

17 Still [v]our eyes failed us,
Watching vainly for our help;
In our watching we watched
For a nation that could not save us.

18 [w]They [g]tracked our steps
So that we could not walk in our streets.
[x]Our end was near;
Our days were over,
For our end had come.

19 Our pursuers were [y]swifter
Than the eagles of the heavens.
They pursued us on the mountains
And lay in wait for us in the wilderness.

20 The [z]breath of our nostrils, the anointed of the LORD,
[a]Was caught in their pits,
Of whom we said, "Under his shadow
We shall live among the nations."

21 Rejoice and be glad, O daughter of [b]Edom,
You who dwell in the land of Uz!
[c]The cup shall also pass over to you
And you shall become drunk and make yourself naked.

defiled themselves with blood. God, in His wrath, had made Zion's priests and prophets ritually unclean. Elsewhere (Is. 59:3) the phrase refers to blood spilled by the guilty. Ironically, the blood that defiles these blind wanderers is their own.

■ 4:15 unclean. Lev. 13:45.

When they fled. The curse of Deut. 28:65–66 is fulfilled.

■ 4:17 a nation. Israel and Judah characteristically sought help in political alliances rather than in the Lord (Is. 7; 30:1–5; Jer. 24).

■ 4:19 eagles. Jer. 4:13.

■ 4:20 the anointed of the LORD. This is a reference to hope in the Davidic king, especially following Josiah's reform (2 Kin. 22; 23). This reform, though religious, had also asserted Judah's independence and seemed to confirm the ancient promise to David (2 Sam. 7). The last king of Judah, deported by Nebuchadnezzar, was Zedekiah (2 Kin. 25:7). Yet Jeremiah promised final salvation through the righteous Branch of David, the Messiah (Jer. 23:5–8).

■ 4:21, 22 O daughter of Edom. This is one of Israel's historic enemies. Her enmity was the more scandalous because of an ancient affinity of blood; Edom was another name for Jacob's brother, Esau (Gen. 25:30). But the nation of Edom will also fall in its turn (Obad. and Jer. 49:7–22).

The punishment of your iniquity is accomplished. That is, "Your guilt will end." Because of God's mercy and compassion the guilt of His people will be ended, and they, in contrast to Edom, will be delivered. See Is. 40:2 and Jer. 49:7–22.

22 [d]The punishment of your iniquity [f]is accomplished,
O daughter of Zion;
He will no longer send you into captivity.
[e]He will punish your iniquity,
O daughter of Edom;
He will uncover your sins!

A Prayer for Restoration

5 Remember, [a]O LORD, what has come upon us;
Look, and behold [b]our reproach!
2 [c]Our inheritance has been turned over to aliens,
And our houses to foreigners.
3 We have become orphans and waifs,
Our mothers are like [d]widows.

4 We pay for the water we drink,
And our wood comes at a price.
5 [e]They pursue at our [f]heels;
We labor and have no rest.
6 [f]We have given our hand [g]to the Egyptians
And the [h]Assyrians, to be satisfied with bread.

7 [i]Our fathers sinned and are no more,
But we bear their iniquities.
8 Servants rule over us;
There is none to deliver us from their hand.
9 We get our bread at the risk of our lives,
Because of the sword in the wilderness.

10 Our skin is hot as an oven,
Because of the fever of famine.
11 They [j]ravished the women in Zion,
The maidens in the cities of Judah.
12 Princes were hung up by their hands,
And elders were not respected.
13 Young men [k]ground at the millstones;
Boys staggered under loads of wood.

13 [k]Judg. 16:21

■ 5:1–22 Rehearsing the continuing effects of Zion's degradation, the poet makes a final plea for restoration.

■ 5:1 Remember . . . us. This is a typical opening for a communal lament. Zion no longer appears in the immediate throes of siege and plunder (as in ch. 4), but at a later stage of affliction, when the sudden violation of the land has given way to harsh and humiliating oppression.

■ 5:2 Our inheritance. The land as a whole is Israel's inheritance from God (Deut. 4:21; 12:9), while the territory of Judah is given specifically to the tribe of that name (Josh. 15:20–63).

aliens . . . foreigners. God had given the land to Israel, and had even directed them to expel the foreigners. Now this was turned upside down.

■ 5:3 orphans . . . widows. Their position was precarious and dependent. Israel was commanded to show care for them, because their condition denied them normal access to the land's goods (Deut. 14:28, 29).

■ 5:4 We pay for the water. This necessity is an ironic reversal of Deut. 6:10, 11, and especially Josh. 9:21–23.

■ 5:5 no rest. This condition is another reversal of a blessing promised in Deuteronomy (Deut. 12:9; Lam. 1:3).

■ 5:6 Egyptians . . . Assyrians. This kind of submission was not only humiliating but dangerous (2 Kin. 18:14).

■ 5:7 Our fathers sinned . . . we bear their iniquities. A similar description of solidarity between generations is found in Ex. 20:5 and in the books of 1 and 2 Kings, with their records of guilt accumulated over the generations. Passages such as Ezek. 18 (notes; Jer. 31:29, 30) address those who questioned the justice of being judged for sins they did not commit. Ezekiel answers that those who share in their father's judgment have shared in their father's sins: each generation bears the guilt of its own sins, not of those of previous generations only.

■ 5:8 Servants. When Babylonian servants command Israel there has been an ironic distortion of the true relationships between God, Israel, and the nations. Israel is in truth a nation freed from slavery (Deut. 15:12–18); but those who do not serve the true God must be in bondage. See 1:1 and note.

■ 5:9 sword in the wilderness. This possibly speaks of desert robbers who took advantage of the weakened community.

■ 5:11–13 Here are pictures of shame.

maidens. The loss of virginity outside marriage brought shame on a woman and her family, and possibly additional serious consequences (Deut. 22:13–21).

hung up. This was a form of torture or of execution by exposure.

ground at the millstones. This was degrading toil for a young man (Judg. 16:21).

14 The elders have ceased gathering at the gate,
And the young men from their [l]music.

Our dance has turned into [m]mourning.
16 [n]The crown has fallen from our head.
Woe to us, for we have sinned!
17 Because of this our heart is faint;
[o]Because of these things our eyes grow dim;
18 Because of Mount Zion which is [p]desolate,
With foxes walking about on it.

19 You, O LORD, [q]remain forever;
[r]Your throne from generation to generation.
20 [s]Why do You forget us forever,
And forsake us for so long a time?
21 [t]Turn us back to You, O LORD, and we will be [2]restored;
Renew our days as of old,
22 Unless You have utterly rejected us,
And are very angry with us!

20 [s]Ps. 13:1; 44:24
21 [t]Ps. 80:3, 7, 19; Jer. 31:18
[2]returned

■ 5:14 This verse conveys something of the state of normal life in Judah by describing what has ceased. The "gate," which had legal and social functions, is now deserted. The light-hearted pleasures of the "young men" have been replaced by the harsh life depicted in the preceding verses.

■ 5:16 The crown. Some take this to refer to Jerusalem in particular (Lam. 1:1; 2:15; 5:18). Probably it represents the glory of Israel and Judah among the nations (Ex. 19:6).

Woe . . . sinned. See note on v. 7.

■ 5:18 Mount Zion . . . desolate. The poet comes full circle from 1:1, resuming the theme of the scandal of the chosen city of God lying destroyed and abandoned.

■ 5:19 You, O LORD, remain forever. Though the "royalty" of the people (v. 16) is no more, that of the Lord remains forever.

■ 5:20 Why. The note of lament is struck again. There is no easy exit from the pain that has been expressed; but the affirmation of God's sovereignty is made in the midst of that pain (v. 19). The logic of vv. 19, 20 is paralleled in Ps. 89, vv. 1–37 praising God's sovereignty and vv. 38–51 asking "How long" (Ps. 89:46).

■ 5:21 Turn us back . . . restored. These two words are from the same Hebrew verb. Its use is ambiguous, since the restoration could be either a physical return of exiles to the land or a return that is moral and religious (repentance). The ambiguity is necessary, because the prophets never envisage a restoration to the land that is separate from repentance towards God. For an exact parallel of this thought, see Jer. 31:18.

■ 5:22 Unless. The poet declines to finish the lament on a high note. Nevertheless, the final note is not one of despair but of petition. The five poems in the book come to us out of the acute grief of the judgment experienced, but they also point to the compassion of God as grounds for future deliverance.

The Road to Renewal (5:21)

Sin → Suffering (1:8)
Sorrow → Repentance (1:20)
Prayer → Hope (3:19–24)
Faith → Restoration (5:21)

The Book of

EZEKIEL

Author We have no information about the prophet Ezekiel beyond what is known from the book bearing his name. Nebuchadnezzar had captured Jerusalem in 597 B.C. and carried away King Jehoiachin, the royal family, and the leading citizens and craftsmen (2 Kin. 24:14). Ezekiel was among this first group of deportees. His wife died during the captivity shortly before Jerusalem was destroyed by the Babylonians in 586 B.C. (24:15–18). If the prophet was thirty years old when he began his prophetic ministry (1:1), and this date corresponds to the fifth year of the exile of Jehoiachin (1:2, 3), Ezekiel was about twenty-six when he was carried into exile. The last date recorded in the book (April 26, 571 B.C., 29:17) shows that Ezekiel's ministry spanned at least twenty-three years, until he was about fifty. The circumstances of his death are not known.

Ezekiel was a priest (1:3). Priests ordinarily began their temple service at age thirty. However, in the year he would have begun his temple service Ezekiel was living in Babylon, seven hundred miles from Jerusalem. It was at this significant age in his life that God called Ezekiel to be a prophet. His prophetic endowment was recognized by the leaders among the exiles (8:1; 20:1).

"Ezekiel" means "God makes strong, hardens" (see note on 3:8). God addresses Ezekiel many times by the phrase "Son of man," meaning "person, human being." The phrase in this book emphasizes human frailty and insignificance as compared with the transcendence of God (contrast its use as a messianic title in Dan. 7:13; Matt. 26:64; Mark 14:62; Rev. 14:14).

Date and Occasion Ezekiel witnessed much of the decline and fall of the Assyrian Empire. In place of the Assyrians the armies of Babylon under King Nebuchadnezzar were emerging as the dominant power in the ancient Near East. The city of Babylon was located in the region of Chaldea, and so the names "Chaldeans" and "Babylonians" are used interchangeably by biblical writers. The Babylonians and the armies of Pharaoh Necho of Egypt periodically fought over the territory formerly subject to the Assyrians along the coast of Syria and Israel; the kings of Judah in Jerusalem were caught in the middle.

Jehoiakim was placed on the throne of Jerusalem by Pharaoh Necho (2 Kin. 23:34) in 609 B.C. After the Egyptians were defeated by the Babylonians at Carchemish in 605 B.C., Jehoiakim switched his allegiance and became a vassal of Nebuchadnezzar. He remained a Babylonian vassal for three years, and then switched his allegiance back to Egypt (2 Kin. 24:1). Jehoiakim died in the same month Nebuchadnezzar set out on an expedition to punish him. He was succeeded by his son Jehoiachin, who was left to face Nebuchadnezzar's wrath. After a brief siege, Jehoiachin was taken into captivity with much of the population of Jerusalem, including Ezekiel, in 597 B.C. (2 Kin. 24:8–12). Ezekiel settled with a colony of Jewish captives, possibly near Tel Abib, on "the River Chebar" (1:1), a canal flowing into the Euphrates southeast of Babylon.

Nebuchadnezzar installed Zedekiah, Jehoiachin's uncle, as ruler of Judah. He ruled until the destruction of Jerusalem in 586 B.C. Though in this way Zedekiah became the last king of Judah, Jehoiachin was considered the last legitimate ruler from the Davidic line. Dates in the Book of Ezekiel are all in terms of the years of Jehoiachin's exile. The reign of Zedekiah was characterized by a similar vacillation between Egypt and Babylon (17:15–19).

The exiles and many of those remaining in Jerusalem hoped that the Exile would be short, that those who had been deported would soon be returned to the city, and that Jerusalem would be spared further disaster. There were false prophets who wrongly encouraged this belief. Since the Lord had chosen Jerusalem as His dwelling and had Himself defended the city in the past, people believed Jerusalem was inviolable. Ezekiel had to warn the exiles that a worse fate was yet in store for Jerusalem.

No other prophetic book contains as many chronological notices. Ezekiel was conscious of the relevance of his message to the immediate historical situation. The chronology for the latter half of the first millennium B.C. (including the time of Ezekiel) is known from chronological records in the Bible and other documents in a variety of languages from the ancient Near East. Astronomical observations recorded by ancient scribes enable us to correlate the ancient and modern calendars with a high degree of confidence. The Book of Ezekiel contains indications of the date at more than a dozen places (1:1, 2; 8:1; 20:1; 24:1, etc.). These dates fall between 593 and 573 B.C.

Characteristics and Themes The Book of Ezekiel may be divided into three parts. In the first two, Ezekiel announces judgment on Jerusalem (1—24) and foreign nations (25—32). The first years of Ezekiel's ministry were concerned with the immediate prospects of Jerusalem. It is only after a messenger arrived reporting the destruction of Jerusalem (33:21, 22) that Ezekiel's preaching became dominated by the promises of restoration and mercy for the future (33—48). This three-part structure (judgment against Israel, judgment against foreign nations, grace and mercy for Israel) can be found also in Isaiah and Zephaniah.

Ezekiel is the only prophetic book that is entirely autobiographical, written in the first person from the vantage point of the prophet himself. The work also contains a larger number of symbolic actions than any other prophetic book (3:22–26; 4:1–14; 5:1–4; 12:10–20; 21:6, 7, 18–24; 24:15–24; 37:15–28). See note on 4:1–3. Ezekiel identified closely with his own message: he suffered in his body the consequences of representing God before the nation and of representing the nation under God's judgment. Ezekiel also uses many parables (chs. 15; 16; 17; 19; 23) and proverbs (12:21, 22; 16:44; 18:2, 3). The prophecy of Ezekiel had a profound effect on the Book of Revelation; many themes from this prophet recur in that book.

Several themes in Ezekiel's teaching are used with some frequency.

1. The Holiness and Transcendence of God. Revelation to Ezekiel is often mediated by an angelic guide (chs. 8; 40—48). When Ezekiel does see a vision of God, it is "the appearance of the likeness of the glory of the LORD," God Himself remaining transcendent and hidden (1:28 note). God is Judge, all-knowing and all-powerful, surrounded in splendor and ruling over the affairs of nations.

God is holy. Sin is an affront to His holiness and must be judged. Israel is a rebellious nation, but the Exile is designed to produce a purged nation, a remnant ready to live in obedience before God (6:8; 9:8; 11:12, 13; 12:16; 14:22, 23).

2. The Grace and Mercy of God. God's judgment of Judah and Jerusalem does not frustrate His purpose in electing Israel. God will show mercy to a remnant; these will inherit His promises afresh and enjoy restoration to their land. God will again be in their midst (48:35; cf. 11:20; 14:11; 36:23, 27, 28). The nation will again live under a Davidic prince (37:24, 25; 45:7) who will rule righteously (34:23). God will give to His people a new heart and a new spirit (36:24–28).

3. The Sovereignty of God. God rules over the affairs and destiny not only of Israel, but also of all other nations (chs. 25—32). The words God spoke through the prophet will be performed.

4. Individual Responsibility. The Exile had come about in part as a result of the cumulative guilt of generations of Israelites who had lived in rebellion against God and His law. While guilt always has a corporate dimension, Ezekiel, more than any prophet before him, emphasized the individual consequences of disobedience and transgression. See notes on 18:1–32; 33:1–20. □

Ezekiel's Vision of God

NOW it came to pass in the thirtieth year, in the fourth month, on the fifth day of the month, as I was among the captives by [a]the River Chebar, that [b]the heavens were opened and I saw [c]visions[1] of God. 2 On the fifth day of the month, which was in the fifth year of King Jehoiachin's captivity, 3 the word of the LORD came expressly to Ezekiel the priest, the son of Buzi, in the land of the [2]Chaldeans by the River Chebar; and [d]the hand of the LORD was upon him there.

4 Then I looked, and behold, [e]a whirlwind was coming [f]out of the north, a great cloud with raging fire engulfing itself; and brightness was all around it and radiating out of its midst like the color of amber, out of the midst of the fire. 5 [g]Also from within it came the likeness of four living creatures. And [h]this was their appearance: they had [i]the likeness of a man. 6 Each one had four faces, and each one had four wings. 7 Their [3]legs were straight, and the soles of their feet

■ 1:1 thirtieth year. July, 593 B.C. The book appears to have a double superscription, one in the first person (v. 1) and the other in the third (vv. 2–3). The dates in the Book of Ezekiel are normally calculated from the year of the captivity of Jehoiachin (cf. 40:1). But the first date in the book specifies a "thirtieth" year (v. 1) and immediately refers to the "fifth year" (v. 2) of Jehoiachin. Probably the "thirtieth" year is Ezekiel's age at the time of his prophetic call, coinciding with the "fifth" year of Jehoiachin. A candidate for the priesthood ordinarily assumed the full responsibilities of the office at age thirty (Num. 4:3). Instead of achieving this important goal, Ezekiel was living in exile far from the temple in Jerusalem, unable to fulfill his calling as a priest.

River Chebar. The Jews living outside their homeland commonly established places of worship along streams of water (Ps. 137:1; Acts 16:13). Two cuneiform texts from Nippur mention a naru kabari (meaning "Great River") that is probably the Chebar; it was a large irrigation canal that brought water from the Euphrates below Babylon.

■ 1:4—3:15 Ezekiel's inaugural vision should be compared with the call narratives of Moses (Ex. 3), Isaiah (Is. 6), and Jeremiah (Jer. 1). Like Moses, the model prophet (Deut. 18:15, 18), those who followed him would ordinarily begin their prophetic careers by being admitted to the divine presence. In the heavenly council they hear the words of God. The prophets report such experiences not so much as autobiography but because their admission to the divine council was the basis for their claim to prophetic authority. It was a qualification that distinguished the true prophet from the false (1 Kin. 22:19–28; Jer. 23:16–18).

■ 1:4 whirlwind. For the whirlwind or storm as a mode of theophany, see 2 Kin. 2:1, 11; Job 38:1; 40:6; Ps. 77:18; 83:15; 148:8; Is. 29:6; 66:15; Jer. 4:13; 23:19; 30:23; Nah. 1:3; Zech. 9:14.

■ 1:5 When these "living creatures" appear again they are identified as "cherubim" (10:1, 15, 17, 20). There are points of similarity with the seraphim that attend God in Isaiah's call (Is. 6:2, 3), and with John's vision of the divine throne (Rev. 4:6–9). Their wings "touched one another" (v. 9) like the wings of the cherubim over the ark in the Most Holy Place of the temple (1 Kin. 6:27; 2 Chr. 3:11–12). Chronicles describes the ark as the divine chariot (1 Chr. 28:18).

were like the soles of calves' feet. They sparkled [j]like the color of burnished bronze. 8 [k]The hands of a man were under their wings on their four sides; and each of the four had faces and wings. 9 Their wings touched one another. The creatures did not turn when they went, but each one went straight [l]forward.

13 As for the likeness of the living creatures, their appearance was like burning coals of fire, [t]like the appearance of torches going back and forth among the living creatures. The fire was bright, and out of the fire went lightning. 14 And the living creatures ran back and forth, [u]in appearance like a flash of lightning.

15 Now as I looked at the living creatures, behold, [v]a wheel was on the earth beside each living creature with its four faces. 16 [w]The appearance of the wheels and their workings was [x]like the color of beryl, and all four had the same likeness. The appearance of their workings was, as it were, a wheel in the middle of a wheel. 17 When they moved, they went toward any one of four directions; they did not turn aside when they went. 18 As for their rims, they were so high they were awesome; and their rims were [y]full of eyes, all around the four of them. 19 [z]When the living creatures went, the wheels went beside them; and when the living creatures were lifted up from the earth, the wheels were lifted up. 20 Wherever the spirit wanted to go, they went, because there the spirit went; and the wheels were lifted together with them, [a]for the spirit of the [4]living creatures was in the wheels. 21 When those went, these went; when those stood, these stood; and when those were lifted up from the earth, the wheels were lifted up together with them, for the spirit of the [5]living creatures was in the wheels.

22 [b]The likeness of the [6]firmament above the heads of the [7]living creatures was like the color of an awesome [c]crystal, stretched out [d]over their heads. 23 And under the firmament their wings spread out straight, one toward another. Each one had two which covered one side, and each one had two which covered the other side of the body. 24 [e]When they went, I heard the noise of their wings, [f]like the noise of many waters, like [g]the voice of the Almighty, a tumult like the noise of an army; and when they stood still, they let down their wings. 25 A voice came from above the firmament that was over their heads; whenever they stood, they let down their wings.

26 [h]And above the firmament over their heads was the likeness of a throne, [i]in appearance like a sapphire stone; on the likeness of the throne was a likeness with the appearance of a man high above [j]it. 27 Also from the appearance of His waist and upward [k]I saw, as it were, the color of amber with the appearance of fire all around within it; and from the appearance of His waist and downward I saw, as it were, the appearance of fire with brightness all around. 28 [l]Like the appearance of a rainbow in a cloud on a rainy day, so was the appearance of the brightness all around it. [m]This was the appearance of the likeness of the glory of the LORD.

1 [a]Dan. 10:11
2 [b]Ezek. 3:24

■ 1:10 faces. The four faces probably represent the heads of four realms of creation. Man is supreme and faces outward. The ox is the head of domestic animals; the lion of wild animals; and the eagle of birds. The creatures apparently were in a square with the human faces looking outward to the four cardinal directions, making the other faces visible from the sides.

■ 1:13, 14 coals of fire . . . torches . . . lightning. Fire is a regular component of the theophanies (manifestations or appearances of God) in the Old Testament (Gen. 15:17; Ex. 3:2; 13:21, 22; 14:24; 19:18; 24:17; Num. 11:1; Deut. 1:33; 4:11, 12, 24, 33, 36; 5:22–26; 9:3; Ps. 18:8; 78:14, 21).

■ 1:24 noise. A distinctive loud sound accompanies theophanies involving the divine army (2 Sam. 5:24; 2 Kin. 7:6; Is. 13:4; 66:6; Joel 2:5; cf. Gen. 3:8; Ex. 19:19; Is. 6:4). See particularly 3:12, 13; 10:5.

■ 1:27 brightness. The light radiating from the divine presence is overwhelming (Dan. 7:9), for God dwells "in unapproachable light" (1 Tim. 6:16). No one has seen God, and Ezekiel does not dare to describe Him. He can speak only of "the appearance of the likeness of the glory" of the Lord (1:28), a way of speaking essentially three steps removed from a direct description of God.

■ 1:28 rainbow. The rainbow not only reflects the splendor around God but testifies to His dominion over the sea and His promise to Noah (Gen. 9:16, 17). See theological note "The Glory of God."

■ 2:1–8 In other call narratives, after the person comes into the divine presence, God announces the commission, normally with a statement that God is sending that person (2:3; Ex. 3:10; Judg. 6:14; Is. 6:8; Jer. 1:7).

■ 2:1 Son of man. God addresses Ezekiel this way more than ninety to me. 3 And He said to me: "Son of man, I am sending you to the children of Israel, to a rebellious nation that has [c]rebelled against Me; [d]they and their fathers have transgressed against Me to this very day. 4 [e]For they are [f]impudent and stubborn children. I am sending you to them, and you shall say to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD.' 5 [f]As for them, whether they hear or whether they refuse—for they are a [g]rebellious house—yet they [h]will know that a prophet has been among them.

6 "And you, son of man, [i]do not be afraid of them nor be afraid of their words, though [j]briers and thorns are with you and you dwell among scorpions; [k]do not be afraid of their words or dismayed by their looks, [l]though they are a rebellious house. 7 [m]You shall speak My words to them, whether they hear or whether they refuse, for they are rebellious. 8 But you, son of man, hear what I say to you. Do not be rebellious like that rebellious house; open your mouth and [n]eat what I give you."

9 Now when I looked, there was [o]a hand stretched out to me; and behold, [p]a scroll of a book was in it. 10 Then He spread it before me; and there was writing on the inside and on the outside, and written on it were lamentations and mourning and woe.

3 Moreover He said to me, "Son of man, eat what you find; [a]eat this scroll, and go, speak to the house of Israel." 2 So I opened my mouth, and He caused me to eat that scroll.

CHAPTER 3

1 [a]Ezek. 2:8, 9

The Glory of God

God's goal is His glory, but this needs careful explanation, for it is easily misunderstood. It points to a purpose, not of divine egoism, but of divine love. Certainly, God asks to be praised for His praiseworthiness and exalted for His greatness and goodness; He asks to be appreciated for what He is. But the glory that is His goal is a two-sided, two-stage relationship: on the one side He reveals His glory in acts of free generosity, and on the other, His people respond with adoration, giving Him glory with thanksgiving for what they have seen and received. Human beings were made for this reciprocal fellowship of love, and Christ's redemption makes it possible for those who had fallen. Human nature is fulfilled through seeing God's glory and returning praise to Him, just as God has pleasure in revealing His goodness to those who receive it (Zeph. 3:14–17).

"Glory" in the Old Testament is associated with value, riches, splendor, and dignity. When Moses asked to see God's glory, God proclaimed to Moses His name; that is, He revealed to Moses something of His nature, character, and power (Ex. 33:18—34:7; theological note "'This Is My Name': God's Self-disclosure" at Ex. 3:15). Accompanying the proclamation was an awe-inspiring physical manifestation, a bright cloud like a burning fire (Ex. 24:17). This glory of God's presence is often called the "Shekinah" or the "Shekinah glory." It appeared at significant moments as a sign of God's active presence (Ex. 33:22; 34:5; cf. 16:10; 24:17; 40:34; Lev. 9:23–24; 1 Kin. 8:10–11; Ezek. 1:28; 8:4; 9:3; 10:4; 11:22–23; Matt. 17:5; Luke 2:9; cf. Acts 1:9; 1 Thess. 4:17; Rev. 1:7). New Testament writers proclaim that the glory of God is now revealed in Jesus Christ (John 1:14–18; 2 Cor. 4:3–6; Heb. 1:1–3).

God is glorified in the acts of salvation, because they exhibit His incomparable condescension, His inexhaustible love, and His limitless power. "Salvation is of the LORD" (Jon. 2:9), and those He saves have contributed nothing to their salvation except their need (Is. 42:8; 48:11). The praise for salvation belongs to no one except God. This is why Reformation theology was so insistent on the principle, "Glory to God alone" (soli Deo gloria), and why we need to maintain that principle with equal zeal today. □ times in this book. The phrase means "person, human being" and emphasizes the humanity and frailty of the prophet, all the more when it stands in such proximity to a vision of God's glory. This use of the phrase in Ezekiel should be distinguished from its use in the Gospels as the favorite self-designation of Jesus. Jesus uses the phrase to designate Himself as the "Son of Man" known from Dan. 7:13, 14.

■ 2:2 Spirit. In the Old Testament the Spirit of God is preeminently the Spirit of prophecy, the Spirit who makes the prophet a channel of revelation (Num. 11:25, 26, 29; 1 Sam. 10:6; 19:20; Joel 2:28; Zech. 7:12).

■ 2:6 briers . . . thorns . . . scorpions. These metaphors refer to those who are going to persecute Ezekiel for bringing an unpopular message from God (1 Kin. 18:4; Jer. 20:7–18; Matt. 23:29–31, 34, 37).

■ 2:9—3:3 In other accounts of the prophetic call, once the commission is given God often provides a sign to confirm it (Ex. 3:12; Jer. 1:11–14). Moses had said that God would put His word into the mouths of the prophets (Deut. 18:18), and here that is seen in a graphic way. What food is to the body, so the word of God would be for Ezekiel's ministry.

■ 2:10 inside . . . outside. Scrolls were ordinarily written only on one side, but see also Zech. 5:3; Rev. 5:1.

lamentations and mourning and woe. Most of the first half of the Book of Ezekiel is oracles of judgment against Judah (chs. 1—24) and foreign nations (chs. 25—32).

3 And He said to me, "Son of man, feed your belly, and fill your stomach with this scroll that I give you." So I [b]ate, and it was in my mouth [c]like honey in sweetness.

4 Then He said to me: "Son of man, go to the house of Israel and speak with My words to them. 5 For you are not sent to a people of unfamiliar speech and of hard language, but to the house of Israel, 6 not to many people of unfamiliar speech and of hard language, whose words you cannot understand. Surely, [d]had I sent you to them, they would have listened to you. 7 But the house of Israel will not listen to you, [e]because they will not listen to Me; [f]for all the house of Israel are [1]impudent and hard-hearted. 8 Behold, I have made your face strong against their faces, and your forehead strong against their foreheads. 9 [g]Like adamant stone, harder than flint, I have made your forehead; [h]do not be afraid of them, nor be dismayed at their looks, though they are a rebellious house."

10 Moreover He said to me: "Son of man, receive into your heart all My words that I speak to you, and hear with your ears. 11 And go, get to the captives, to the children of your people, and speak to them and tell them, [i]'Thus says the Lord GOD,' whether they hear, or whether they refuse."

12 Then [j]the Spirit lifted me up, and I heard behind me a great thunderous voice: "Blessed is the [k]glory of the LORD from His place!" 13 I also heard the [l]noise of the wings of the living creatures that touched one another, and the noise of the wheels beside them, and a great thunderous noise. 14 So the Spirit lifted me up and took me away, and I went in bitterness, in the [2]heat of my spirit; but [m]the hand of the LORD was strong upon me. 15 Then I came to the captives at Tel Abib, who dwelt by the River Chebar; and [n]I sat where they sat, and remained there astonished among them seven days.

Ezekiel Is a Watchman

16 Now it [o]came to pass at the end of seven days that the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 17 [p]"Son of man, I have made you [q]a watchman for the house of Israel; therefore hear a word from My mouth, and give them [r]warning from Me: 18 When I say to the wicked, 'You shall surely die,' and you give him no warning, nor speak to warn the wicked from his wicked way, to save his life, that same wicked man [s]shall die in his iniquity; but his blood I will require at your hand. 19 Yet, if you warn the wicked, and he does not turn from his wickedness, nor from his wicked way, he shall die in his iniquity; [t]but you have delivered your soul.

20 "Again, when a [u]righteous man turns from his righteousness and commits iniquity, and I lay a stumbling block before him, he shall die; because you did not give him warning, he shall die in his sin, and his righteousness which he has done shall not be remembered; but his blood I will require at your hand. 21 Nevertheless if you warn the righteous man that the righteous should not sin, and he does not sin, he shall surely live because he took warning; also you will have delivered your soul."

22 [v]Then the hand of the LORD was upon me there, and He said to me, "Arise, go out [w]into the plain, and there I shall talk with you."

23 So I arose and went out into the plain, and behold, [x]the glory of the LORD stood there, like the glory which I [y]saw by the River Chebar; [z]and I fell on my face. 24 Then [a]the Spirit entered me and set me on my feet, and spoke with me and said to me: "Go, shut yourself inside your house. 25 And you, O son of man, surely [b]they will put ropes on you and bind you with them, so that you cannot go out among them. 26 [c]I will make your tongue cling to the roof of your mouth,

■ 3:7 to you . . . to Me. The Lord identifies His messengers with Himself (cf. Luke 10:16; John 13:20).

■ 3:8 made your face strong. Ezekiel's name in Hebrew means "God makes strong, hardens."

■ 3:12 Spirit lifted me up. Ezekiel more than once describes his visionary experiences in terms of transport by the Spirit (3:12, 14; 8:3; 11:1, 24; 40:1–3; 43:5). See 2 Kin. 2:11, 16; 2 Cor. 12:1, 2.

■ 3:15 Tel Abib. Precise location not known.

astonished. The Bible records similar periods of silence or incapacity on the part of others (Ezra 9:4; Job 2:13; Jer. 23:9; Dan. 8:27; Acts 9:9).

■ 3:16 word of the LORD. This phrase occurs over fifty times in Ezekiel, more than in any other prophetic book.

■ 3:17 watchman. Ezekiel will elaborate on his role as a watchman in 33:1–9. Being a watchman meant he was responsible for those he ministered to and had to warn them of any impending threat. Failure to issue the warning would make him accountable for any misfortune that resulted. People in a city would not ignore the cry of an ordinary watchman, yet they would not listen to Ezekiel (vv. 6, 7; cf. Is. 22:1–14).

■ 3:22 hand of the LORD. Ezekiel uses this phrase to describe how revelation came to him (v. 14; 8:1; 33:22; 37:1; 40:1).

plain. The word means an open area between mountains and can be translated either "valley" or "plain." The term also occurs in Ezekiel's vision of the "valley" of dry bones (37:1).

■ 3:26 you shall be mute. The length and nature of Ezekiel's speechlessness is one of the most debated issues in the book. Whatever its beginning, it lasted until word reached the exiles that the city of Jerusalem had been destroyed (24:27; 33:22; cf. 29:21). The prophet was not so that you shall be mute and [d]not be [3]one to rebuke them, [e]for they are a rebellious house.

27 [f]But when I speak with you, I will open your mouth, and you shall say to them, [g]'Thus says the Lord GOD.' He who hears, let him hear; and he who refuses, let him refuse; for they are a rebellious house.

The Siege of Jerusalem Portrayed

4 "You also, son of man, take a clay tablet and lay it before you, and portray on it a city, Jerusalem. 2 [a]Lay siege against it, build a [b]siege wall against it, and heap up a mound against it; set camps against it also, and place battering rams against it all around. 3 Moreover take for yourself an iron plate, and set it as an iron wall between you and the city. Set your face against it, and it shall be [c]besieged, and you shall lay siege against it. [d]This will be a sign to the house of Israel.

4 "Lie also on your left side, and lay the iniquity of the house of Israel upon it. According to the number of the days that you lie on it, you shall bear their iniquity. 5 For I have laid on you the years of their iniquity, according to the number of the days, three hundred and ninety days; [e]so you shall bear the iniquity of the house of Israel. 6 And when you have completed them, lie again on your right side; then you shall bear the iniquity of the house of Judah forty days. I have laid on you a day for each year.

7 "Therefore you shall set your face toward the siege of Jerusalem; your arm shall be uncovered, and you shall prophesy against it. 8 [f]And surely I will [1]restrain you so that you cannot turn from one side to another till you have ended the days of your siege.

9 "Also take for yourself wheat, barley, beans, lentils, millet, and spelt; put them into one vessel, and make bread of them for yourself. During the number of days that you lie on your side, three hundred and ninety days, you shall eat it. 10 And your food which you eat shall be by weight, twenty shekels a day; from time to time you shall eat it. 11 You shall also drink water by measure, one-sixth of a hin; from time to time you shall drink. 12 And you shall eat it as barley cakes; and bake it using fuel of human waste in their sight."

13 Then the LORD said, "So [g]shall the children of Israel eat their defiled bread among the Gentiles, where I will drive them."

14 So I said, [h]"Ah, Lord GOD! Indeed I have never defiled myself from my youth till now; I have never eaten [i]what died of itself or was torn by beasts, nor has [j]abominable[2] flesh ever come into my mouth."

15 Then He said to me, "See, I am giving you cow dung instead of human waste, and you shall prepare your bread over it."

16 Moreover He said to me, "Son of man, surely I will cut off the [k]supply of bread in Jerusalem; they shall [l]eat bread by weight and with anxiety, and shall [m]drink water by measure and with dread, 17 that they may lack bread and water, and be dismayed with one another, and [n]waste away because of their iniquity.

completely mute, but spoke only when he received revelation from God. Ezekiel delivered many oracles to the exiles in the six years between his call and the destruction of Jerusalem.

■ 4:1–3 The prophets of Israel used props like the clay tablet as illustrations for their points; these object lessons are usually called "symbolic actions" (1 Kin. 11:30; 22:11; 2 Kin. 13:17; Is. 20:2–4; Jer. 13:1–14; 19:1–10). In several places in Mesopotamia bricks or clay tablets have been found with maps or architectural drawings inscribed on them. The prophet depicts the siege that was laid against Jerusalem in 586 B.C. and ended with its destruction.

■ 4:3 iron plate. The large flat griddle on which bread was baked in an oven. Since the prophet represented God in this miniature drama, the iron plate standing on edge represented the wall between God and Jerusalem. Their prayers would not reach Him, and He would not intervene on their behalf.

■ 4:4 lay the iniquity. The dual nature of the prophetic office—representing God to the people and the people to God—is seen in the second half of the symbolic action. Now the prophet represents the people and bears their sin (cf. Ex. 32:30–32; Rom. 9:3).

■ 4:5, 6 three hundred and ninety. The time period to which the figures 390 and 40 refer are hard to interpret. Each day represented one year (v. 6; cf. Num. 14:34; Dan. 9:24–27). It may be that the 40 days do not follow the 390 days (for a total of 430), but are concurrent with them. Some regard the total of 430 years as a symbolic reference to the length of Israel's sojourn in Egypt (Ex. 12:40–41).

■ 4:8 restrain. Lying on his side while bound (see text note) probably means that Ezekiel was immobile a part of each day. For example, he still had to prepare his meals (vv. 8–13).

■ 4:9–11 Ezekiel must exist on siege rations while he enacts the siege of Jerusalem. These rations reflect the privations during a siege (Deut. 28:52–57; 2 Kin. 6:25; 7:12; Jer. 15:2; 19:9).

■ 4:10 twenty shekels. About eight ounces.

■ 4:11 one-sixth of a hin. This water ration is 0.6 liter or just over a pint. See note on 45:24.

■ 4:12–15 Ceremonial cleanness was all but impossible to observe during a siege, even for a priest like Ezekiel. Human excrement was considered impure (Deut. 23:13), and the prophet is repulsed by God's command to him, protesting that he had never violated the dietary laws restricting the kinds of food Israel was permitted to eat (44:31; Ex. 22:31; Lev. 7:19–24; 11:8, 39, 40; 22:8; Deut. 14:3, 8). God permitted him to substitute cattle manure, still a widely used fuel in parts of the Near East.

A Sword Against Jerusalem

5 "And you, son of man, take a sharp sword, take it as a barber's razor, [a]and pass it over your head and your beard; then take scales to weigh and divide the hair. 2 [b]You shall burn with fire one-third in the midst of [c]the city, when [d]the days of the siege are finished; then you shall take one-third and strike around it with the sword, and one-third you shall scatter in the wind; I will draw out a sword after [e]them. 3 [f]You shall also take a small number of them and bind them in the edge of your garment. 4 Then take some of them again and [g]throw them into the midst of the fire, and burn them in the fire. From there a fire will go out into all the house of Israel.

5 "Thus says the Lord GOD: 'This is Jerusalem; I have set her in the midst of the nations and the countries all around her. 6 She has rebelled against My judgments by doing wickedness more than the nations, and against My statutes more than the countries that are all around her; for they have refused My judgments, and they have not walked in My statutes.' 7 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: 'Because you have [i]multiplied disobedience more than the nations that are all around you, have not walked in My statutes [h]nor kept My judgments, [z]nor even done according to the judgments of the nations that are all around you'— 8 therefore thus says the Lord GOD: 'Indeed I, even I, am against you and will execute judgments in your midst in the sight of the nations. 9 [j]And I will do among you what I have never done, and the like of which I will never do again, because of all your abominations. 10 [k]Therefore fathers [l]shall eat their sons in your midst, and sons shall eat their fathers; and I will execute judgments among you, and all of you who remain I will [m]scatter to all the winds.'

11 'Therefore, as I live,' says the Lord GOD, 'surely, because you have [n]defiled My sanctuary with all your [o]detestable things and with all your abominations, therefore I will also diminish you; [p]My eye will not spare, nor will I have any pity. 12 [q]One-third of you shall die of the pestilence, and be consumed with famine in your midst; and one-third shall fall by the sword all around you; and [r]I will scatter another third to all the winds, and I will draw out a sword after [s]them.

13 'Thus shall My anger [t]be spent, and I will [u]cause My fury to rest upon them, [v]and I will be avenged; [w]and they shall know that I, the LORD, have spoken it in My zeal, when I have spent My fury upon them. 14 Moreover [x]I will make you a waste and a reproach among the nations that are all around you, in the sight of all who pass by.

15 'So [3]it shall be a [y]reproach, a taunt, a [z]lesson, and an astonishment to the nations that are all around you, when I execute judgments among you in anger and in fury and in [a]furious rebukes. I, the LORD, have spoken. 16 When I [b]send against them the terrible arrows of famine which shall be for destruction, which I will send to destroy you, I will increase the famine upon you and cut off your [c]supply of bread. 17 So I will send against you famine and [d]wild beasts, and they will bereave you. [e]Pestilence and blood shall pass through you, and I will bring the sword against you. I, the LORD, have spoken.' "

Judgment on Idolatrous Israel

6 Now the word of the LORD came to me, saying: 2 "Son of man, [a]set your face toward the [b]mountains of Israel, and prophesy against them, 3 and say, 'O mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord GOD! Thus says the Lord GOD to the mountains, to the hills, to the ravines, and to the valleys: "Indeed I, even I, will bring a sword against you, and [c]I will destroy your [1]high places. 4 Then your altars shall be desolate, your incense altars shall be broken, and [d]I will cast

4 [d]Lev. 26:30

■ 5:1 razor. God had prohibited Israelite men from shaving or cutting parts of their beard (Lev. 19:27). This law was reiterated for priests (Lev. 21:5), and Ezekiel was a priest (1:1). Cutting facial hair could be a matter of great personal shame (2 Sam. 10:4–5; Is. 7:20; 50:6) or a sign of mourning (Ezra 9:3; Is. 15:2; Jer. 7:29; 41:5; 48:37).

■ 5:10–13 Ezekiel interprets the symbolism of vv. 1–4: the hairs burned in fire represent those who will die of plague or disease during the siege; the hairs struck with the sword represent those who will die in battle and the aftermath of the siege; the hairs dispersed by the wind represent those who will be carried into exile. It is striking that Ezekiel does not elaborate on the significance of the few hairs retained in the folds of his garment; they symbolize the survivors who will remain in Jerusalem (Jer. 40:7–12).

■ 5:10 eat their sons. Cannibalism could be a consequence of a protracted siege (2 Kin. 6:26–29; Lam. 2:20). Moses had warned that this would happen if the nation did not obey (Deut. 28:53–57).

■ 6:1–3 Ezekiel's address to the mountains and hills of Jerusalem as if they were in sight has prompted some to suggest that for part of his ministry Ezekiel was in Israel instead of with the exiles in Babylon. However, though the hills and mountains of Israel were his metaphorical audience, the real audience was the exiles themselves. Compare Ezekiel's prophecy regarding the people of Edom addressed to Mount Seir (ch. 35).

■ 6:3 high places. The Canaanites normally worshiped their gods on hilltops. God commanded the Israelites to eradicate the high places when they came into the land (Num. 33:52; Deut. 12:1–3; 33:29). However, the high places continued to flourish long after the temple was built (16:16; Jer. 7:31; 19:5; 32:35; 48:35). The people worshiped Canaanite gods there or converted the pagan shrines for use in a combination of Canaanite practices and their own. The continued existence of the high places was a particular offense to the writer of the Book of Kings (1 Kin. 11:7; 12:31, 32; 13:2, 32; 14:23; 2 Kin. 12:3; 14:4; 15:4, 35; 17:29; 23:5, 8, 13, 15, 19, 20).

down your slain men before your idols. 5 And I will lay the corpses of the children of Israel before their idols, and I will scatter your bones all around your altars. 6 In all your dwelling places the cities shall be laid waste, and the [2]high places shall be desolate, so that your altars may be laid waste and made desolate, your idols may be broken and made to cease, your incense altars may be cut down, and your works may be abolished. 7 The slain shall fall in your midst, and [e]you shall know that I am the LORD.

8 [f]"Yet I will leave a remnant, so that you may have some who escape the sword among the nations, when you are [g]scattered through the countries. 9 Then those of you who escape will [h]remember Me among the nations where they are carried captive, because [i]I was crushed by their adulterous heart which has departed from Me, and [j]by their eyes which play the harlot after their idols; [k]they will loathe themselves for the evils which they committed in all their abominations. 10 And they shall know that I am the LORD; I have not said in vain that I would bring this calamity upon them."

11 'Thus says the Lord GOD: [l]"Pound[3] your fists and stamp your feet, and say, 'Alas, for all the evil abominations of the house of Israel! [m]For they shall fall by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence. 12 He who is far off shall die by the pestilence, he who is near shall fall by the sword, and he who remains and is besieged shall die by the famine. [n]Thus will I spend My fury upon them. 13 Then you shall know that I am the LORD, when their slain are among their idols all around their altars, [o]on every high hill, [p]on all the mountaintops, [q]under every green tree, and under every thick oak, wherever they offered sweet incense to all their idols. 14 So I will [r]stretch out My hand against them and make the land desolate, yes, more desolate than the wilderness toward [s]Diblah, in all their dwelling places. Then they shall know that I am the LORD.' " ' "

Judgment on Israel Is Near

7 Moreover the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "And you, son of man, thus says the Lord GOD to the land of Israel:

[a]'An end! The end has come upon the four corners of the land.
3 Now the end has come upon you,
And I will send My anger against you;
I will judge you [b]according to your ways,
And I will repay you for all your abominations.
4 [c]My eye will not spare you,
Nor will I have pity;
But I will repay your ways,
And your abominations will be in your midst;

5 "Thus says the Lord GOD:

■ 6:5 corpses. The shrines would be desecrated by the presence of dead bodies (9:7; Num. 19:16, 18; 1 Kin. 13:2; 2 Kin. 23:14–16; 2 Chr. 23:14, 15; 34:5).

■ 6:7 you shall know that I am the LORD. Ezekiel makes frequent use of this "recognition formula" (cf. 7:4, 9; 11:10, 12; 12:20). The Lord reveals Himself as the Ruler of history by announcing events beforehand.

■ 6:8 escape. Ezekiel introduces the remnant theme (9:8; 11:12, 13; 12:16; 14:22, 23; 20:39–44). The remnant is a group or individual who has experienced some calamity, ordinarily in judgment for sin, and has survived. This group of survivors becomes the nucleus for the continuation of the group: they embody the future hopes of the people, and they inherit the promises of God afresh. The Exile was to be a period of purging and refining so that a pure people would emerge from it.

■ 6:14 Diblah. This locality is otherwise unknown, although the context seems to require a well-known place. The Hebrew letters for "d" and "r" were occasionally confused by scribes, and some manuscripts read "Awaits," a site in northern Lebanon where Pharaoh Necho and Nebuchadnezzar based some of their operations (2 Kin. 23:33; 25:6) in the last years of Judah. Ezekiel's audience would have understood the reference. From the wilderness to Awaits would mean from the southern to the northern boundaries of Judah and Israel.

■ 7:7 A day. The prophets of the Old Testament often speak of "the day" or "the day of the LORD" (30:3–9; Is. 2:12–17; 13:6–10; 34:8–12; 61:1–3; 63:3–6; Joel 2; 3; Amos 5:18–20; Obad. 8, 15; Zeph. 1:1—2:3; Zech. 14; Mal. 4:1–3). This was the day when the Lord would come to judge His enemies and to vindicate His name. Depending on the context

A day of trouble is near,
And not of rejoicing in the mountains.
8 Now upon you I will soon [h]pour out My fury,
And spend My anger upon you;
I will judge you according to your ways,
And I will repay you for all your abominations.

9 'My eye will not spare,
Nor will I have pity;
I will [i]repay you according to your ways,
And your abominations will be in your midst.
Then you shall know that I am the LORD who strikes.

10 'Behold, the day!
Behold, it has come!
[j]Doom has gone out;
The rod has blossomed,
Pride has budded.
11 [k]Violence has risen up into a rod of wickedness;
None of them shall remain,
None of their multitude,
None of [2]them;
[l]Nor shall there be wailing for them.
12 The time has come,
The day draws near.

'Let not the buyer [i]rejoice,
Nor the seller [m]mourn,
For wrath is on their whole multitude.
13 For the seller shall not return to what has been sold,
Though he may still be alive;
For the vision concerns the whole multitude,
And it shall not turn back;
No one will strengthen himself
Who lives in iniquity.

14 'They have blown the trumpet and made everyone ready,
But no one goes to battle;
For My wrath is on all their multitude.
15 [n]The sword is outside,
And the pestilence and famine within.
Whoever is in the field
Will die by the sword;
And whoever is in the city,
Famine and pestilence will devour him.

16 'Those who [o]survive will escape and be on the mountains
Like doves of the valleys,
All of them mourning,
Each for his iniquity.
17 Every [p]hand will be feeble,
And every knee will be as weak as water.
18 They will also [q]be girded with sackcloth;
Horror will cover them;
Shame will be on every face,
Baldness on all their heads.

But the law will perish from the priest,
And counsel from the elders.

I will do to them according to their way,
And according to what they deserve I will judge them;

Abominations in the Temple

8 And it came to pass in the sixth year, in the sixth month, on the fifth day of the month, as I sat in my house with [a]the elders of Judah sitting before me, that [b]the hand of the Lord GOD fell upon me there. 2 [c]Then I looked, and there was a likeness, like the appearance of fire—from the appearance of His waist and downward, fire; and from His waist and upward, like the appearance of brightness, [d]like the color of amber. 3 He [e]stretched out the form of a hand, and took

■ 7:22–27 Because the Lord had chosen Jerusalem as His dwelling and had miraculously fought on behalf of the city in the past (2 Kin. 18; 19; 2 Chr. 32; Is. 36:37), Judah had come to accept the notion that the city was inviolable as a theological truth. Ezekiel's contemporary, Jeremiah, was also warning the inhabitants of the city not to trust in the existence of the temple as a guarantee of their own security (Jer. 7:1–15; 26:1–19).

■ 8:1–18 The prophet sees four different types of idolatry flourishing in the city: (a) worship of the "image of jealousy" (vv. 5, 6); (b) worship of "beasts" (vv. 7–13); (c) the "Tammuz" cult (vv. 14, 15); and (d) worship of the "sun" (v. 16). All segments of society were involved: the elders (vv. 11, 12), the women (v. 14), and the priests (v. 16).

■ 8:3 to Jerusalem. It is not necessary to conclude that Ezekiel went physically to Jerusalem. His visionary experience of transport is not unlike other visionary experiences in the Bible (3:12, 14; 37:1; 40:1; 2 Cor. 12:2).

north gate. This led from the outer to the inner court of the temple.

me by a lock of my hair; and [f]the Spirit lifted me up between earth and heaven, and [g]brought me in visions of God to Jerusalem, to the door of the north gate of the inner court, [h]where the seat of the image of jealousy was, which [i]provokes[1] to jealousy. 4 And behold, the [j]glory of the God of Israel was there, like the vision that I [k]saw in the plain.

5 Then He said to me, "Son of man, lift your eyes now toward the north." So I lifted my eyes toward the north, and there, north of the altar gate, was this image of jealousy in the entrance.

6 Furthermore He said to me, "Son of man, do you see what they are doing, the great [l]abominations that the house of Israel commits here, to make Me go far away from My sanctuary? Now turn again, you will see greater abominations." 7 So He brought me to the door of the court; and when I looked, there was a hole in the wall. 8 Then He said to me, "Son of man, dig into the wall"; and when I dug into the wall, there was a door.

9 And He said to me, "Go in, and see the wicked abominations which they are doing there." 10 So I went in and saw, and there—every [m]sort of [n]creeping thing, abominable beasts, and all the idols of the house of Israel, [2]portrayed all around on the walls. 11 And there stood before them [o]seventy men of the elders of the house of Israel, and in their midst stood Jaazaniah the son of Shaphan. Each man had a censer in his hand, and a thick cloud of incense went up. 12 Then He said to me, "Son of man, have you seen what the elders of the house of Israel do in the dark, every man in the room of his idols? For they say, [p]'The LORD does not see us, the LORD has forsaken the land.' "

13 And He said to me, "Turn again, and you will see greater abominations that they are doing." 14 So He brought me to the door of the north gate of the LORD's house; and to my dismay, women were sitting there weeping for [3]Tammuz.

15 Then He said to me, "Have you seen this, O son of man? Turn again, you will see greater abominations than these." 16 So He brought me into the inner court of the LORD's house; and there, at the door of the temple of the LORD, [q]between the porch and the altar, [r]were about twenty-five men [s]with their backs toward the temple of the LORD and their faces toward the east, and they were worshiping [t]the sun toward the east.

17 And He said to me, "Have you seen this, O son of man? Is it a trivial thing to the house of Judah to commit the abominations which they commit here? For they have [u]filled the land with violence; then they have returned to provoke Me to anger. Indeed they put the branch to their nose. 18 [v]Therefore I also will act in fury. My [w]eye will not spare nor will I have pity; and though they [x]cry in My ears with a loud voice, I will not hear them."

The Wicked Are Slain

9 Then He called out in my hearing with a loud voice, saying, "Let those who have charge over the city draw near, each with a [1]deadly weapon in his hand." 2 And suddenly six men

CHAPTER 9

1 [1]Or destroying

■ 8:5 image of jealousy. The image is defined in v. 3 as something that "provokes to jealousy," that is, provokes the anger of the God who is jealous for His own honor (Ex. 20:5). God's glory belonged there (v. 4); the idol did not. This idol was probably an Asherah, an image of a Canaanite goddess who was possibly viewed as Yahweh's consort. Manasseh put an image of this kind in the temple (2 Kin. 21:7).

■ 8:10 beasts. Worshiping beasts was worshiping the creature rather than the Creator (Rom. 1:25). Animals over which man was to rule and have dominion had become the object of veneration (Gen. 1:28).

■ 8:11 Jaazaniah the son of Shaphan. Shaphan had been instrumental in Josiah's reform (2 Kin. 22:3–14; 2 Chr. 34:8, 15–20). Burning incense in the temple precincts was a rite reserved for the priests (Ex. 30:1–10; Num. 16:40; 18:1–7; 2 Chr. 26:16–21).

■ 8:14 Tammuz. At the time of Ezekiel, Tammuz was worshiped both as a fertility god and the lord of the underworld. Rites used in worship of Tammuz were tied to the annual cycles of death and rebirth of vegetation. When plants withered under the heat of the summer sun, Tammuz was thought to have died and descended to the underworld; mourning rites marked his passing. The reappearance of vegetation was viewed as the return of Tammuz; fertility rites sought to ensure the productivity of the land.

■ 8:16 twenty-five men. These were probably priests since access to the area between the altar and the portico of the temple was ordinarily restricted to priests. The temple faced east. Rather than face the temple to lament and mourn their sins and to intercede for the nation as they should have done (9:4; Joel 2:17), these men literally turned their backs on the house of God and worshiped the rising sun instead (2 Kin. 21:5; 23:11). Astral cults were common in the ancient Near East.

■ 8:17 violence. The sins denounced in this chapter are primarily in reference to corrupt religious practice, but not exclusively. Corrupt religion is inevitably accompanied by corrupt relations between people, so that the entire land is described as full of violence or lawlessness. This theme is further developed in 9:9 and 11:6.

branch to their nose. Some Assyrian reliefs show people holding branches before their faces in a gesture of reverence and worship; this may be a reference to that ritual gesture.

■ 9:1 each with a deadly weapon. The idolatry of the nation would not go unpunished (cf. 2 Chr. 15:12, 13). Though the slayers are described as men (vv. 1, 2), they are probably angelic warriors (Ex. 12:23–30; 1 Chr. 21:15–20) assigned to the execution of the idolaters.

■ 9:2 clothed with linen. Linen garments were worn by priests (Ex. 28:31–42), but angels and those in the presence of God were also so described (Dan. 10:5; 12:6, 7; Rev. 15:6; 19:8, 14).

a writer's inkhorn. This man is a scribe, apparently charged with keeping the heavenly record (Ex. 32:32, 33; Ps. 69:28; 139:16; Dan. 12:1; Phil. 4:3; Rev. 3:5; 13:8; 17:8; 20:12, 15; 21:27). Ezekiel's vision is a reminder that idolaters have no place in the city of God (1 Cor. 5:11; 6:9; Eph. 5:5; Rev. 21:8; 22:15).

came from the direction of the upper gate, which faces north, each with his [2]battle-ax in his hand. [a]One man among them was clothed with linen and had a writer's inkhorn [3]at his side. They went in and stood beside the bronze altar.

[3] Now [b]the glory of the God of Israel had gone up from the cherub, where it had been, to the threshold of the [4]temple. And He called to the man clothed with linen, who had the writer's inkhorn at his side; [4] and the LORD said to him, "Go through the midst of the city, through the midst of Jerusalem, and put [c]a mark on the foreheads of the men [d]who sigh and cry over all the abominations that are done within it."

[5] To the others He said in my [5]hearing, "Go after him through the city and [e]kill;[6] [f]do not let your eye spare, nor have any pity. [6] [g]Utterly[7] slay old and young men, maidens and little children and women; but [h]do not come near anyone on whom is the mark; and [i]begin at My sanctuary." [j]So they began with the elders who were before the [8]temple. [7] Then He said to them, "Defile the [9]temple, and fill the courts with the slain. Go out!" And they went out and killed in the city.

[8] So it was, that while they were killing them, I was left alone; and I [k]fell on my face and cried out, and said, [l]"Ah, Lord GOD! Will You destroy all the remnant of Israel in pouring out Your fury on Jerusalem?"

[9] Then He said to me, "The iniquity of the house of Israel and Judah is exceedingly great, and [m]the land is full of bloodshed, and the city full of perversity; for they say, [n]'The LORD has forsaken the land, and [o]the LORD does not see!' [10] And as for Me also, My [p]eye will neither spare, nor will I have pity, but [q]I will recompense their deeds on their own head."

[11] Just then, the man clothed with linen, who had the inkhorn at his side, reported back and said, "I have done as You commanded me."

The Glory Departs from the Temple

10 And I looked, and there in the [a]firmament[1] that was above the head of the cherubim, there appeared something like a sapphire stone, having the appearance of the likeness of a throne. [2] [b]Then He spoke to the man clothed with linen, and said, "Go in among the wheels, under the cherub, fill your hands with [c]coals of fire from among the cherubim, and [d]scatter them over the city." And he went in as I watched.

[3] Now the cherubim were standing on the [2]south side of the [3]temple when the man went in, and the [e]cloud filled the inner court. [4] [f]Then the glory of the LORD went up from the cherub, and paused over the threshold of the [4]temple; and [g]the house was filled with the cloud, and the court was full of the brightness of the LORD's [h]glory. [5] And the [i]sound of the wings of the cherubim was heard even in the outer court, like [j]the voice of Almighty God when He speaks.

[6] Then it happened, when He commanded the man clothed in linen, saying, "Take fire from among the wheels, from among the cherubim," that he went in and stood beside the wheels. [7] And the cherub stretched out his hand from among the cherubim to the fire that was among the cherubim, and took some of it and put it into the hands of the man clothed with linen, who took it and went out. [8] [k]The cherubim appeared to have the form of a man's hand under their wings.

[9] [l]And when I looked, there were four wheels by the cherubim, one wheel by one cherub and another wheel by each other cherub; the wheels appeared to have the color of a [m]beryl stone. [10] As for their appearance, all four looked alike—as it were, a wheel in the middle of a wheel. [11] [n]When they went, they went toward any of their four directions; they did not turn aside when they went, but followed in the direction the head was facing. They did not turn aside when they went. [12] And their whole body, with their back, their hands, their wings, and the wheels that the four had, were [o]full of eyes all around. [13] As for the wheels, they were called in my [5]hearing, "Wheel."

[14] [p]Each one had four faces: the first face was the face of a cherub, the second face the face of

■ 9:3 the glory. The glory cloud that revealed the divine presence was understood to dwell above the Most Holy Place in the temple; now the cloud has begun a journey visually portraying the way in which God will forsake Jerusalem (10:18, 19; 11:22, 23).

■ 9:4 mark. The mark on the foreheads in this vision may have influenced John in Rev. 7:3; 14:9. The mark placed on the foreheads was the last letter of the Hebrew alphabet, tau. At the time of Ezekiel, tau was written like the English "X." Early Christian interpreters saw in this slanted cross an anticipation of the cross of Christ. Compare also the marking of the doorposts and lintels in the Passover narrative (Ex. 12:21–23).

■ 9:9 bloodshed. The indictments in ch. 8 had concentrated on idolatry and cultic offenses; here the issue is not the relationship between God and people, but relations among people. The prophet is elaborating on the violence and lawlessness mentioned in 8:17.

■ 10:1 cherubim. See 1:5 note.

■ 10:7 stretched out his hand. The cherub reaches inside the pillar of fire to retrieve the flames that will devour the city (v. 2).

■ 10:12 eyes. See Deut. 11:12; 2 Chr. 16:9; Prov. 15:3; Zech. 3:9; 4:10; Rev. 4:8.

■ 10:14 cherub. This face was an ox or bull in the earlier vision (1:10).

a man, the third the face of a lion, and the fourth the face of an eagle. 15 And the cherubim were lifted up. This was [q]the living creature I saw by the River Chebar. 16 [r]When the cherubim went, the wheels went beside them; and when the cherubim lifted their wings to mount up from the earth, the same wheels also did not turn from beside them. 17 [s]When [6]the cherubim stood still, the wheels stood still, and when [7]one was lifted up, [8]the other lifted itself up, for the spirit of the living creature was in them.

18 Then [t]the glory of the LORD [u]departed from the threshold of the [9]temple and stood over the cherubim. 19 And [v]the cherubim lifted their wings and mounted up from the earth in my sight. When they went out, the wheels were beside them; and they stood at the door of the [w]east gate of the LORD's house, and the glory of the God of Israel was above them.

20 [x]This is the living creature I saw under the God of Israel [y]by the River Chebar, and I knew they were cherubim. 21 [z]Each one had four faces and each one four wings, and the likeness of the hands of a man was under their wings. 22 And [a]the likeness of their faces was the same as the faces which I had seen by the River Chebar, their appearance and their persons. [b]They each went straight forward.

Judgment on Wicked Counselors

11 Then [a]the Spirit lifted me up and brought me to [b]the East Gate of the LORD's house, which faces eastward; and there [c]at the door of the gate were twenty-five men, among whom I saw Jaazaniah the son of Azzur, and Pelatiah the son of Benaiah, princes of the people. 2 And He said to me: "Son of man, these are the men who devise iniquity and give wicked [1]counsel in this city, 3 who say, 'The time is not [d]near to build houses; [e]this city is the [2]caldron, and we are the meat.' 4 Therefore prophesy against them, prophesy, O son of man!"

5 Then [f]the Spirit of the LORD fell upon me, and said to me, "Speak! 'Thus says the LORD: "Thus you have said, O house of Israel; for [g]I know the things that come into your mind. 6 [h]You have multiplied your slain in this city, and you have filled its streets with the slain." 7 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: [i]"Your slain whom you have laid in its midst, they are the meat, and this city is the caldron; [j]but I shall bring you out of the midst of it. 8 You have [k]feared the sword; and I will bring a sword upon you," says the Lord GOD. 9 "And I will bring you out of its midst, and deliver you into the hands of strangers, and [l]execute judgments on you. 10 [m]You shall fall by the sword. I will judge you at [n]the border of Israel. [o]Then you shall know that I am the LORD. 11 [p]This city shall not be your [3]caldron, nor shall you be the meat in its midst. I will judge you at the border of Israel. 12 And you shall know that I am the LORD; for you have not walked in My statutes nor executed My judgments, but [q]have done according to the customs of the Gentiles which are all around you.'" "

13 Now it happened, while I was prophesying, that [r]Pelatiah the son of Benaiah died. Then [s]I fell on my face and cried with a loud voice, and said, "Ah, Lord GOD! Will You make a complete end of the remnant of Israel?"

God Will Restore Israel

14 Again the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 15 "Son of man, your brethren, your relatives, your countrymen, and all the house of Israel in its entirety, are those about whom the inhabitants of Jerusalem have said, 'Get far away from the LORD; this land has been given to us as a possession.' 16 Therefore say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "Although I have cast them far off among the Gentiles, and although I have scattered them among the countries, [t]yet I shall be a

■ 11:1 twenty-five men. These men appear to be political leaders, not priests, and so would not be the same as the twenty-five sun worshipers in 8:16.

Jaazaniah the son of Azzur. Not the same person as Jaazaniah the son of Shaphan (8:11).

■ 11:3 caldron . . . meat. The leadership of Jerusalem had already been deported by Nebuchadnezzar in 597 B.C.; this deportation included much of the royal family, the leaders of the military, and the craftsmen, leaving only "the poorest people of the land" (2 Kin. 24:13–16). Those who rose to prominence in the absence of the earlier ruling class appear to have had delusions of grandeur. The analogy they used of a caldron and meat seems to mean that they considered those who had been deported from the city as the waste parts of a butchered animal, while they were the best parts.

■ 11:7 meat. The prophet makes clear that the best part, the "meat" of the city, was the ones who had been killed. The new leaders had considered themselves to be this best part (v. 3 note).

■ 11:13 Pelatiah. This name means "Yahweh provides escape." When this man dies suddenly and unexpectedly during Ezekiel's vision, Ezekiel fears that all hope of escape died with him. The prophet intercedes with the Lord once again on behalf of the remnant. See note on 6:8; cf. 9:8.

■ 11:15 relatives. In case of emergency, such as bankruptcy, a person's close relatives had an obligation to preserve the family and property (Ruth 2:20 note). If these relatives were far away, the property would not be safe.

■ 11:16 sanctuary. Since the exiles were far from the temple in Jerusalem, God Himself would substitute as their sanctuary. Jesus later would take the place of the temple (Matt. 26:61; 27:40; John 2:19), and through the Spirit His followers would become His temple (1 Cor. 3:16, 17; 2 Cor. 6:16; 1 Pet. 2:5).

little [d]sanctuary for them in the countries where they have gone." ' [17]Therefore say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: [u]"I will gather you from the peoples, assemble you from the countries where you have been scattered, and I will give you the land of Israel." ' [18]And they will go there, and they will take away all its [v]detestable things and all its abominations from there. [19]Then [w]I will give them one heart, and I will put [x]a new spirit within [5]them, and take [y]the stony heart out of their flesh, and give them a heart of flesh, [20][z]that they may walk in My statutes and keep My judgments and do them; [a]and they shall be My people, and I will be their God. [24]Then [g]the Spirit took me up and brought me in a vision by the Spirit of God into [6]Chaldea, to those in captivity. And the vision that I had seen went up from me. [25]So I spoke to those in captivity of all the things the LORD had shown me.

Judah's Captivity Portrayed

12 Now the word of the LORD came to me, saying: [2]"Son of man, you dwell in the midst of [a]a rebellious house, which [b]has eyes to see but does not see, and ears to hear but does not hear; [c]for they are a rebellious house.

[3]"Therefore, son of man, prepare your belongings for captivity, and go into captivity by day in their sight. You shall go from your place into captivity to another place in their sight. It may be that they will consider, though they are a rebellious house. [4]By day you shall bring out your belongings in their sight, as though going into captivity; and at evening you shall go in their sight, like those who go into captivity. [5]Dig through the wall in their sight, and carry your belongings out through it. [6]In their sight you shall bear them on your shoulders and carry them out at twilight; you shall cover your face, so that you cannot see the ground, [d]for I have made you a sign to the house of Israel."

[7]So I did as I was commanded. I brought out my belongings by day, as though going into captivity, and at evening I dug through the wall with my hand. I brought them out at twilight, and I bore them on my shoulder in their sight.

[8]And in the morning the word of the LORD came to me, saying, [9]"Son of man, has not the house of Israel, [e]the rebellious house, said to you, [f]'What are you doing?' [10]Say to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "This [g]burden[7] concerns the prince in Jerusalem and all the house of Israel who are among them." ' [11]Say, [h]'I am a sign to you. As I have done, so shall it be done to them; [i]they shall be carried away into captivity.' [12]And [j]the prince who is among them shall bear his belongings on his shoulder at twilight and go out. They shall dig through the wall to carry them out through it. He shall cover his face, so that he cannot see the ground with his eyes. [13]I will also spread My [k]net over him, and he shall be caught in My snare. [l]I will bring him to Babylon, to the land of the Chaldeans; yet he shall not see it, though he shall die there. [14][m]I will scatter to every wind all who are around him to help him, and all his troops; and [n]I will draw out the sword after them.

[15][o]"Then they shall know that I am the LORD, when I scatter them among the nations and disperse them throughout the countries. [16][p]But I will spare a few of their men from the sword, from famine, and from pestilence, that they may declare all their abominations among the Gentiles wherever they go. Then they shall know that I am the LORD."

■ 11:22–24 At the close of his vision Ezekiel sees the glory cloud depart from the city of Jerusalem and move east across the Kidron Valley to the Mount of Olives as it departs from the city. But God had not forsaken the city forever. Ezekiel later describes the glory of God returning to Jerusalem (ch. 43).

■ 12:1–16 This is another symbolic action (4:1–3 note); the prophet enacts the exile of his countrymen in Jerusalem.

■ 12:2 rebellious. See 2:3–8; 3:9, 26, 27.

eyes . . . ears. Compare Deut. 29:4; Prov. 20:12; Is. 6:9–10; 32:3; Jer. 5:21; Matt. 13:15, 16; Mark 8:18; Acts 28:26, 27; Rom. 11:8. The entire section makes frequent allusion to seeing (vv. 4–7, 12, 13).

■ 12:4 evening. Taking place under cover of darkness, this would be a furtive escape, like digging through the wall of a house (v. 5). Ezekiel portrays Zedekiah's abortive effort to escape from Nebuchadnezzar (vv. 10, 11; 2 Kin. 25:3–7).

■ 12:6 cover. Covering the face was a gesture of shame or grief (24:17, 22; Lev. 13:45; 2 Sam. 19:4; Esth. 6:12; 7:8; Ps. 44:15; 69:7). In this context it suggests that the exiles will never see Jerusalem again, and more particularly, that Zedekiah will lose his sight (vv. 12, 13; 2 Kin. 25:7).

■ 12:13 My net. God is described as a hunter or fowler (17:20; 32:3; Job 19:6; Is. 8:14; 24:18; 51:20; Jer. 50:24; Lam. 1:13; Hos. 7:12).

Judgment Not Postponed

17 Moreover the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 18 "Son of man, [q]eat your bread with [2]quaking, and drink your water with trembling and anxiety. 19 And say to the people of the land, 'Thus says the Lord GOD to the inhabitants of Jerusalem and to the land of Israel: "They shall eat their bread with anxiety, and drink their water with dread, so that her land may [r]be emptied of all who are in it, [s]because of the violence of all those who dwell in it. 20 Then the cities that are inhabited shall be laid waste, and the land shall become desolate; and you shall know that I am the LORD." ' "

21 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 22 "Son of man, what is this proverb that you people have about the land of Israel, which says, [t]'The days are prolonged, and every vision fails'? 23 Tell them therefore, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "I will lay this proverb to rest, and they shall no more use it as a proverb in Israel." But say to them, [u]"The days are at hand, and the [3]fulfillment of every vision. 24 For [v]no more shall there be any [w]false[4] vision or flattering divination within the house of Israel. 25 For I am the LORD. I speak, and [x]the word which I speak will come to pass; it will no more be postponed; for in your days, O rebellious house, I will say the word and [y]perform it," says the Lord GOD.' "

26 Again the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 27 [z]"Son of man, look, the house of Israel is saying, 'The vision that he sees is [a]for many days from now, and he prophesies of times far off.' 28 [b]Therefore say to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "None of My words will be postponed any more, but the word which I speak [c]will be done," says the Lord GOD.' "

Woe to Foolish Prophets

13 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Son of man, prophesy [a]against the prophets of Israel who prophesy, and say to [b]those who prophesy out of their own [c]heart,[1] 'Hear the word of the LORD!' "

3 Thus says the Lord GOD: "Woe to the foolish prophets, who follow their own spirit and have seen [2]nothing! 4 O Israel, your prophets are [d]like foxes in the deserts. 5 You [e]have not gone up into the [3]gaps to build a wall for the house of Israel to stand in battle on the day of the LORD. 6 [f]They have envisioned futility and false divination, saying, 'Thus says the LORD!' But the LORD has [g]not sent them; yet they hope that the word may [4]be confirmed. 7 Have you not seen a futile vision, and have you not spoken false divination? You say, 'The LORD says,' but I have not spoken."

8 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: "Because you have spoken nonsense and envisioned lies, therefore I am indeed against you," says the Lord GOD. 9 "My hand will be [h]against the prophets who envision futility and who [i]divine lies; they shall not be in the assembly of My people, [j]nor be written in the record of the house of Israel, [k]nor shall they enter into the land of Israel. [l]Then you shall know that I am the Lord GOD.

10 "Because, indeed, because they have seduced My people, saying, [m]'Peace!' when there is no peace—and one builds a wall, and they [n]plaster[5] it with untempered mortar— 11 say to those

■ 12:17–20 This is another symbolic action (see Introduction). The food and water of Ezekiel are presumably the siege rations he was allotted in 4:9–11. The prophet's physical weakness and trembling represented the lot of those in Jerusalem.

■ 12:21—14:11 These passages are united by a concern with false prophecy. The Old Testament uses a number of criteria for distinguishing true from false prophecy. These criteria focus on what the message was, how it was received, and who received it. (a) The preeminent criterion for true or false prophecy is the fulfillment of the prophet's words (Deut. 18:21, 22). His message must not contradict earlier revelation (Deut. 13:1–5). The message of a true prophet often ran against popular sentiment, and the prophets were persecuted because of their unpopular pronouncements (Jer. 20:7–10; 38:1–13; cf. Matt. 23:34, 35). (b) Certain means of discerning God's will were forbidden (Deut. 18:9–14), such as divination, spiritism, and sorcery. However, prophets could receive revelation through dreams and visions (Num. 12:6–8). (c) The true prophet was admitted to God's confidence (Jer. 23:18). The experience of admission to God's counsel as if to a divine assembly was often reported in a call narrative (1:4—3:15 note). Finally, the prophet's character had to be consistent with the glory of the God he served.

■ 12:27 times far off. The people scoff that the prophecy will not be fulfilled in their lifetimes. In the New Testament, a similar attitude of disbelief does not change the certainty of the return of Christ (2 Pet. 3:3, 4, 10; Rev. 10:6).

■ 13:4 foxes. The prophet uses two images to describe the false prophets. They are like foxes in the desert (v. 4), separate from society and useless to it. In vv. 10, 11, they are compared to flimsy walls covered with whitewash (see v. 10 text note), untrustworthy and impermanent.

■ 13:5 not gone up into the gaps. The focus is on the conduct of the false prophets: the true prophet so identified with God's people as to expose himself to risk on their behalf. When a wall was breached by an attacking army, the assignment of greatest danger was the task of repairing the gap. At such points, the false prophets were nowhere to be found. The Hebrew term for a gap is used to describe Moses, who "stood . . . in the breach" (Ps. 106:23) on behalf of Israel. Ultimately only Jesus Christ can stand in the breach between God and humanity (1 Tim. 2:5).

■ 13:9 record. Probably the census list and civil register of Israel, the earthly counterpart of the heavenly records. See 9:2 note.

■ 13:10–12 The image of the gap in the wall (v. 5) may have prompted this further description of the actions of the false prophets. Their false visions and lying divinations were a wall of shoddy workmanship—when plastered over or whitewashed (v. 10 text note), it may have looked substantial, but it could not withstand the weather, much less the day of the Lord when God Himself would bring judgment on the city.

who plaster it with untempered mortar, that it will fall. [o]There will be flooding rain, and you, O great hailstones, shall fall; and a stormy wind shall tear it down. [12] Surely, when the wall has fallen, will it not be said to you, 'Where is the mortar with which you plastered it?' "

[13] Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: "I will cause a stormy wind to break forth in My fury; and there shall be a flooding rain in My anger, and great hailstones in fury to consume it. [14] So I will break down the wall you have plastered with untempered mortar, and bring it down to the ground, so that its foundation will be uncovered; it will fall, and you shall be consumed in the midst of it. [p]Then you shall know that I am the LORD.

[15] "Thus will I accomplish My wrath on the wall and on those who have plastered it with untempered mortar; and I will say to you, 'The wall is no more, nor those who plastered it, [16] that is, the prophets of Israel who prophesy concerning Jerusalem, and who [q]see visions of peace for her when there is no peace,' " says the Lord GOD.

[17] "Likewise, son of man, [r]set your face against the daughters of your people, [s]who prophesy out of their own [6]heart; prophesy against them, [18] and say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "Woe to the women who sew magic charms [7]on their sleeves and make veils for the heads of people of every height to hunt souls! Will you [t]hunt the souls of My people, and keep yourselves alive? [19] And will you profane Me among My people [u]for handfuls of barley and for pieces of bread, killing people who should not die, and keeping people alive who should not live, by your lying to My people who listen to lies?"

[20] 'Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: "Behold, I am against your magic charms by which you hunt souls there like [8]birds. I will tear them from your arms, and let the souls go, the souls you hunt like birds. [21] I will also tear off your veils and deliver My people out of your hand, and they shall no longer be as prey in your hand. [v]Then you shall know that I am the LORD.

[22] "Because with [w]lies you have made the heart of the righteous sad, whom I have not made sad; and you have [x]strengthened the hands of the wicked, so that he does not turn from his wicked way to save his life. [23] Therefore [y]you shall no longer envision futility nor practice divination; for I will deliver My people out of your hand, and you shall know that I am the LORD." ' "

Idolatry Will Be Punished

14 Now [a]some of the elders of Israel came to me and sat before me. [2] And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, [3] "Son of man, these men have set up their idols in their hearts, and put before them [b]that which causes them to stumble into iniquity. [c]Should I let Myself be inquired of at all by them?

[4] "Therefore speak to them, and say to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "Everyone of the house of Israel who sets up his idols in his heart, and puts before him what causes him to stumble into iniquity, and then comes to the prophet, I the LORD will answer him who comes, according to the multitude of his idols, [5] that I may seize the house of Israel by their heart, because they are all estranged from Me by their idols." '

[6] "Therefore say to the house of Israel, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "Repent, turn away from your idols, and [d]turn your faces away from all your abominations. [7] For anyone of the house of Israel, or of the strangers who dwell in Israel, who separates himself from Me and sets up his idols in his heart and puts before him what causes him to stumble into iniquity, then comes to a prophet to inquire of him concerning Me, I the LORD will answer him by Myself. [8] [e]I will set My face against that man and make him a [f]sign and a proverb, and I will cut him off from the midst of My people. [g]Then you shall know that I am the LORD.

[9] "And if the prophet is induced to speak anything, I the LORD [h]have induced that prophet, and I will stretch out My hand against him and destroy him from among My people Israel. [10] And they shall bear their iniquity; the punishment of the prophet shall be the same as the punishment

■ 13:17–23 The Bible mentions several true prophetesses, like Miriam, Deborah, Huldah, and Anna (Ex. 15:20; Judg. 4:4; 2 Kin. 22:14; 2 Chr. 34:22; Luke 2:36), and some false ones (Neh. 6:14; Rev. 2:20). The women mentioned in these verses are practitioners of magic and sorcery, activities specifically forbidden for Israel (12:21—14:11 note). They made their living by selling amulets and charms.

■ 14:3 causes them to stumble. This is one of the prophet's favorite phrases (vv. 4, 7; 7:19; 44:12 and text note). It may refer to secret idolatry.

■ 14:9 I . . . have induced . . . I will stretch out My hand. Numerous biblical passages integrate the sovereignty of God and the moral responsibility of human beings without allowing the predeterminate will of God to be used as an excuse for moral evil (Esth. 4:13, 14; Joel 2:32; Matt. 26:24, 25; Acts 2:23). In this section, idolaters without any intention of giving up their idolatry come to seek a prophetic word. By God's arrangement they find a prophet as false as they are, and both will come under God's judgment. The prophet who serves them, though induced by God, must bear the responsibility for his wrongdoing. See 1 Kin. 22:19–25.

of the one who inquired, 11 that the house of Israel may [i]no longer stray from Me, nor be profaned anymore with all their transgressions, [j]but that they may be My people and I may be their God," says the Lord GOD.' "

Judgment on Persistent Unfaithfulness

12 The word of the LORD came again to me, saying: 13 "Son of man, when a land sins against Me by persistent unfaithfulness, I will stretch out My hand against it; I will cut off its [k]supply of bread, send famine on it, and cut off man and beast from it. 14 [l]Even if these three men, Noah, Daniel, and Job, were in it, they would deliver only themselves [m]by their righteousness," says the Lord GOD.

15 "If I cause [n]wild beasts to pass through the land, and they [1]empty it, and make it so desolate that no man may pass through because of the beasts, 16 even [o]though these three men were [2]in it, as I live," says the Lord GOD, "they would deliver neither sons nor daughters; only they would be delivered, and the land would be [p]desolate.

17 "Or if [q]I bring a sword on that land, and say, 'Sword, go through the land,' and I [r]cut off man and beast from it, 18 even [s]though these three men were in it, as I live," says the Lord GOD, "they would deliver neither sons nor daughters, but only they themselves would be delivered.

19 "Or if I send [t]a pestilence into that land and [u]pour out My fury on it in blood, and cut off from it man and beast, 20 even [v]though Noah, Daniel, and Job were in it, as I live," says the Lord GOD, "they would deliver neither son nor daughter; they would deliver only themselves by their righteousness."

21 For thus says the Lord GOD: "How much more it shall be when [w]I send My four [3]severe judgments on Jerusalem—the sword and famine and wild beasts and pestilence—to cut off man and beast from it? 22 [x]Yet behold, there shall be left in it a remnant who will be [y]brought out, both sons and daughters; surely they will come out to you, and [z]you will see their ways and their doings. Then you will be comforted concerning the disaster that I have brought upon Jerusalem, all that I have brought upon it. 23 And they will comfort you, when you see their ways and their doings; and you shall know that I have done nothing [a]without cause that I have done in it," says the Lord GOD.

The Outcast Vine

15 Then the word of the LORD came to me, saying: 2 "Son of man, how is the wood of the vine better than any other wood, the vine branch which is among the trees of the forest? 3 Is wood taken from it to make any object? Or can men make a peg from it to hang any vessel on? 4 Instead, [a]it is thrown into the fire for fuel; the fire devours both ends of it, and its middle is burned. Is it useful for any work? 5 Indeed, when it was whole, no object could be made from it. How much less will it be useful for any work when the fire has devoured it, and it is burned?

6 "Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: 'Like the wood of the vine among the trees of the forest, which I have given to the fire for fuel, so I will give up the inhabitants of Jerusalem; 7 and [b]I will set My face against them. [c]They will go out from one fire, but another fire shall devour them. [d]Then you shall know that I am the LORD, when I set My face against them. 8 Thus I will make the land desolate, because they have persisted in unfaithfulness,' says the Lord GOD."

■ 14:14 Even if. The prophet is apparently addressing the view held by some that the presence of a certain number of righteous people in Jerusalem would serve to protect the city (cf. Gen. 18:22–32).

Noah, Daniel, and Job. Though Noah was a righteous man and blameless among those of his generation (Gen. 6:9), the world was not spared because of his presence. Job too was blameless and upright (Job 1:1), but this did not spare his family. The identity of the "Daniel" mentioned is much debated. He is probably not Ezekiel's contemporary known from the Book of Daniel; the Hebrew spelling used here (Dani'el) is different from that used for the name of the prophet (Daniyye'l). More probably this Daniel is a heroic figure mentioned in a text from ancient Ugarit. This story concerns a king named Dan'el known to some extent for his righteousness, wisdom (cf. 28:3), and pity. "Noah, Daniel, and Job" would then designate non-Israelite figures from remote times known for their uprightness. They could not save the world in their own day and even together could not save the city of Jerusalem (cf. v. 20).

■ 15:3 any object. The wood of the vine was not fit for any worthwhile object, not even a lowly peg. God reminds the exiles that His choice of Israel as His people was not because of any intrinsic worth in them, but solely a matter of His grace (Deut. 7:6–8).

■ 15:4 burned. The partial burning of Israel is probably a reference to the partial exile that had already taken place in 597 B.C. with the deportation of Jehoiachin and a large portion of the city's upper class, including Ezekiel. After this partial damage, the city is worth even less. The prophet Zechariah likens the Babylonian exile to a fire when he describes the high priest as "a brand plucked from the fire" (Zech. 3:2).

■ 16:1–63 Ezekiel tells the story of an unwanted child, her marriage,

6 "And when I passed by you and saw you struggling in your own blood, I said to you in your blood, 'Live!' You were exceedingly [m]beautiful, and succeeded to royalty. 14 [n]Your fame went out among the nations because of your beauty, for it was perfect through My splendor which I had bestowed on you," says the Lord GOD.

Jerusalem's Harlotry

15 [o]"But you trusted in your own beauty, [p]played the harlot because of your fame, and poured out your harlotry on everyone passing by who would have it. 16 [q]You took some of your garments and adorned multicolored [7]high places for yourself, and played the harlot on them. Such things should not happen, nor be. 17 You have also taken your beautiful jewelry from My gold and My silver, which I had given you, and made for yourself male images and played the harlot with them. 18 You took your embroidered garments and covered them, and you set My oil and My incense before them. 19 Also [r]My food which I gave you—the pastry of fine flour, oil, and honey which I fed you—you set it before them as [8]sweet incense; and so it was," says the Lord GOD.

20 [s]"Moreover you took your sons and your daughters, whom you bore to Me, and these you sacrificed to them to be devoured. Were your acts of harlotry a small matter, 21 that you have slain My children and offered them up to them by causing them to pass through the [t]fire? 22 And in all your abominations and acts of harlotry you did not remember the days of your [u]youth, [v]when you were naked and bare, struggling in your blood.

23 "Then it was so, after all your wickedness—'Woe, woe to you!' says the Lord GOD— 24 that [w]you also built for yourself a shrine, and [x]made a [9]high place for yourself in every street. 25 You built your high places [y]at the head of every road, and made your beauty to be abhorred.

and infidelity. Hosea used marriage as an analogy of the covenant relationship between God and Israel (Hos. 1—3; see also Eph. 5:22–33; Rev. 19:7; 21:2, 9). Ezekiel's speech appears to have a judicial setting; he recounts God's charge against the nation from its earliest days to his own time.

■ 16:3 nativity. Jerusalem was originally a pagan city; the first inhabitants are variously described as Amorites, Canaanites, Jebusites, and Hittites (v. 45; Gen. 10:15, 16; Josh. 10:5; Judg. 1:21; 19:10; 2 Sam. 5:6). In this respect the city was not unlike the patriarchs, who were of pagan Syrian stock (Deut. 26:5; Josh. 24:14).

■ 16:5 thrown out. Undesired infants were often abandoned and left to die. The baby girl Ezekiel describes was abandoned before even being washed.

■ 16:7 grew. The unwanted child grew to beautiful maturity. The onset of puberty appears with development of breasts (cf. 23:3) and the growth of hair; later the girl reaches the age of lovemaking (v. 8).

■ 16:8 spread My wing over you. See text note. Covering a woman with one's garment is symbolic of entering into marital relations (Ruth 3:9). To "uncover" this relation is to violate it (Deut. 22:30).

I swore an oath. The covenant relationship of God with Israel had been sealed with the oath, "you shall be My people, and I will be your God" (36:28; Lev. 26:12; Jer. 11:4; 30:22; contrast Hos. 1:9). For the divine oath, see Gen. 15:7–21; 26:3; Deut. 1:8.

■ 16:9–14 The foundling has become a queen. She has received all the care she lacked when born and far more. Her life, status, wealth and beauty all derive from the gracious gift of the One who chose her.

■ 16:17 All that the foundling-become-queen had received from her loving husband and king is now turned to wantonness and promiscuity (cf. Deut. 6:10–12). Her actions demonstrate the irrationality of sin: there could be no sound reason for such behavior.

■ 16:20 sacrificed. For the practice of child sacrifice in Israel and among neighboring states, see v. 36; 20:31; Gen. 22:2, 13; Lev. 18:21; 20:2–5; Deut. 12:31; 18:10; 2 Kin. 16:3; 17:17; 21:6; 23:10; Ps. 106:37, 38; Jer. 32:35; Mic. 6:7. In Jerusalem these practices were associated with the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, south of the city.

You offered yourself to everyone who passed by, and multiplied your acts of harlotry. 26 You also committed harlotry with [z]the Egyptians, your very fleshly neighbors, and increased your acts of harlotry to [a]provoke Me to anger.

27 "Behold, therefore, I stretched out My hand against you, diminished your [f]allotment, and gave you up to the will of those who hate you, [b]the daughters of the Philistines, who were ashamed of your lewd behavior. 28 You also played the harlot with the [c]Assyrians, because you were insatiable; indeed you played the harlot with them and still were not satisfied. 29 Moreover you multiplied your acts of harlotry as far as the land of the trader, [d]Chaldea; and even then you were not satisfied.

30 "How degenerate is your heart!" says the Lord GOD, "seeing you do all these things, the deeds of a brazen harlot.

Jerusalem's Adultery

31 [e]"You erected your shrine at the head of every road, and built your [2]high place in every street. Yet you were not like a harlot, because you scorned [f]payment. 32 You are an adulterous wife, who takes strangers instead of her husband. 33 Men make payment to all harlots, but [g]you made your payments to all your lovers, and [3]hired them to come to you from all around for your harlotry. 34 You are the opposite of other women in your harlotry, because no one solicited you to be a harlot. In that you gave payment but no payment was given you, therefore you are the opposite."

Jerusalem's Lovers Will Abuse Her

35 'Now then, O harlot, hear the word of the LORD! 36 Thus says the Lord GOD: "Because your filthiness was poured out and your nakedness uncovered in your harlotry with your lovers, and with all your abominable idols, and because of [h]the blood of your children which you gave to them, 37 surely, therefore, [i]I will gather all your lovers with whom you took pleasure, all those you loved, and all those you hated; I will gather them from all around against you and will uncover your nakedness to them, that they may see all your nakedness. 38 And I will judge you as [j]women who break wedlock or [k]shed blood are judged; I will bring blood upon you in fury and jealousy. 39 I will also give you into their hand, and they shall throw down your shrines and break down [l]your [4]high places. [m]They shall also strip you of your clothes, take your beautiful jewelry, and leave you naked and bare.

40 [n]"They shall also bring up an assembly against you, [o]and they shall stone you with stones and thrust you through with their swords. 41 They shall [p]burn your houses with fire, and [q]execute judgments on you in the sight of many women; and I will make you [r]cease playing the harlot, and you shall no longer hire lovers. 42 So [s]I will lay to rest My fury toward you, and My jealousy shall depart from you. I will be quiet, and be angry no more. 43 Because [t]you did not remember the days of your youth, but [5]agitated Me with all these things, surely [u]I will also recompense your [6]deeds on your own head," says the Lord GOD. "And you shall not commit lewdness in addition to all your abominations.

More Wicked than Samaria and Sodom

44 "Indeed everyone who quotes proverbs will use this proverb against you: 'Like mother, like daughter!' 45 You are your mother's daughter, [7]loathing husband and children; and you are the [v]sister of your sisters, who loathed their husbands and children; [w]your mother was a Hittite and your father an Amorite.

■ 16:26 harlotry. Israel's failure to obey God was not a matter of overt idolatry alone. Foreign alliances were also regarded as evidence of a failure to trust God in the face of political difficulty. Such alliances were a breach of Israel's exclusive allegiance to the Lord (cf. 23:7; 29:16; Is. 7; 8; 30; 31; Jer. 2:36, 37; 22:20–22; Hos. 7:11–13). The writer of Chronicles emphasizes this point particularly (2 Chr. 14:9–15; 16:1–9; 19:1, 2; 20; 25:6–8; 28).

■ 16:37 gather them . . . against you. She sought the loyalty and affection of her lovers; but instead, they become the instruments of her humiliation and punishment. Though the nations were used by God to punish His people, they would bear the guilt of the sins they committed (ch. 25; Is. 10:5, 12; Zech. 1:14, 15); see note on 14:9.

uncover your nakedness. Public degradation by exposing the nakedness of prostitutes or adulteresses is also mentioned in Jer. 13:22, 26; Hos. 2:10; Nah. 3:5.

■ 16:38 I will bring blood. For the wrath of a jealous husband, see Prov. 6:34. The wealth and garments of the woman will be taken, and she will be left as naked as she was when the story began. She would be covered not with the blood of childbirth (v. 6) but the blood from her wounds. Adultery was a capital offense, punishable by stoning (Lev. 20:10; Deut. 22:21–24; cf. John 7:53—8:11).

■ 16:41 burn. See 23:47; cf. Jer. 32:29; 34:22; 37:8; 38:18. A large part of Jerusalem was burned by the Babylonian army (Jer. 39:8).

■ 16:44 proverbs. Ezekiel more than once refers to popular proverbs (12:21–28; 18).

■ 16:45 Hittite . . . Amorite. The moral depravity of the Hittites and Amorites is assumed; cf. v. 3.

46 "Your elder sister is Samaria, who dwells with her daughters to the north of you; and [x]your younger sister, who dwells to the south of you, is Sodom and her daughters. 47 You did not walk in their ways nor act according to their abominations; but, as if that were too little, [y]you became more corrupt than they in all your ways.

48 "As I live," says the Lord GOD, "neither [z]your sister Sodom nor her daughters have done as you and your daughters have done. 49 Look, this was the iniquity of your sister Sodom: She and her daughter had pride, [a]fullness of food, and abundance of idleness; neither did she strengthen the hand of the poor and needy. 50 And they were haughty and [b]committed abomination before Me; therefore [c]I took them away as [g]I saw fit.

51 "Samaria did not commit [d]half of your sins; but you have multiplied your abominations more than they, and [e]have justified your sisters by all the abominations which you have done. 52 You who judged your sisters, bear your own shame also, because the sins which you committed were more abominable than theirs; they are more righteous than you. Yes, be disgraced also, and bear your own shame, because you justified your sisters.

53 [f]"When I bring back their captives, the captives of Sodom and her daughters, and the captives of Samaria and her daughters, then I will also bring back [g]the captives of your captivity among them, 54 that you may bear your own shame and be disgraced by all that you did when [h]you comforted them. 55 When your sisters, Sodom and her daughters, return to their former state, and Samaria and her daughters return to their former state, then you and your daughters will return to your former state. 56 For your sister Sodom was not a byword in your mouth in the days of your pride, 57 before your wickedness was uncovered. It was like the time of the [i]reproach of the daughters of [g]Syria and all those around her, and of [j]the daughters of the Philistines, who despise you everywhere. 58 [k]You have paid for your lewdness and your abominations," says the LORD. 59 For thus says the Lord GOD: "I will deal with you as you have done, who [l]despised [m]the oath by breaking the covenant.

An Everlasting Covenant

60 "Nevertheless I will [n]remember My covenant with you in the days of your youth, and I will establish [o]an everlasting covenant with you. 61 Then [p]you will remember your ways and be ashamed, when you receive your older and your younger sisters; for I will give them to you for [q]daughters, [r]but not because of My covenant with you. 62 [s]And I will establish My covenant with you. Then you shall know that I am the LORD, 63 that you may [t]remember and be ashamed, [u]and never open your mouth anymore because of your shame, when I provide you an atonement for all you have done," says the Lord GOD.' "

The Eagles and the Vine

17 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Son of man, pose a riddle, and speak a [a]parable to the house of Israel, 3 and say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD:

[b]"A great eagle with large wings and long pinions,
Full of feathers of various colors,
Came to Lebanon
And [c]took from the cedar the highest branch.
4 He cropped off its topmost young twig
And carried it to a land of trade;
He set it in a city of merchants.
5 Then he took some of the seed of the land
And planted it in [d]a fertile field;

■ 16:49 Sodom. Readers of the Bible often think of the sins of Sodom as mainly sexual (Gen. 19:5–9), but Ezekiel indicts the city for materialism and neglect of the poor and needy. Jesus made a similar comparison with Capernaum in Matt. 11:23, 24. The sins of Jerusalem exceeded those of her sisters, the nearby cities.

■ 16:60 everlasting covenant. Jerusalem would once again have primacy over her sisters, but not on the basis of the previous covenant relationship between God and the city. There will be a new covenant, a new relationship between God and the city in the future. God Himself would atone for her sins.

■ 17:1–24 This oracle has no date, but probably came between the dates given in 8:1 and 20:1, the sixth and seventh years of the exile of Jehoiachin (592–590 B.C.). Nebuchadnezzar laid siege to Jerusalem in 588 B.C. and removed Zedekiah from the throne in 586 B.C. (v. 20).

■ 17:3 eagle. Ezekiel propounds an allegory. The great eagle is the imperial might of Babylon, represented by Nebuchadnezzar.

cedar. The lofty cedar represents the kingdom of Judah and the dynasty of David, that had endured by this time over three hundred years.

■ 17:4 topmost young twig. The removal of the topmost twig refers to the exile and captivity of Jehoiachin in Babylon. The exiles continued to regard Jehoiachin as the legitimate king of Judah.

He placed it by abundant waters
And set it [e]like a willow tree.
6 And it grew and became a spreading vine [f]of low stature;
Its branches turned toward him,
But its roots were under it.
So it became a vine,
Brought forth branches,
And put forth shoots.

7 "But there was [f]another great eagle with large wings and many feathers;
And behold, [g]this vine bent its roots toward him,
And stretched its branches toward him,
From the garden terrace where it had been planted,
That he might water it.
8 It was planted in [2]good soil by many waters,
To bring forth branches, bear fruit,
And become a majestic vine." '

9 "Say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD:

"Will it thrive?
[h]Will he not pull up its roots,
Cut off its fruit,
And leave it to wither?
All of its spring leaves will wither,
And no great power or many people
Will be needed to pluck it up by its roots.
10 Behold, it is planted,
Will it thrive?
[i]Will it not utterly wither when the east wind touches it?
It will wither in the garden terrace where it grew." ' "

11 Moreover the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 12 "Say now to [j]the rebellious house: 'Do you not know what these things mean?' Tell them, 'Indeed [k]the king of Babylon went to Jerusalem and took its king and princes, and led them with him to Babylon. 13 [l]And he took the king's offspring, made a covenant with him, [m]and put him under oath. He also took away the mighty of the land, 14 that the kingdom might be [n]brought low and not lift itself up, but that by keeping his covenant it might stand. 15 But [o]he rebelled against him by sending his ambassadors to Egypt, [p]that they might give him horses and many people. [q]Will he prosper? Will he who does such things escape? Can he break a covenant and still be delivered?

16 'As I live,' says the Lord GOD, 'surely [r]in the place where the king dwells who made him king, whose oath he despised and whose covenant he broke—with him in the midst of Babylon he shall die. 17 [s]Nor will Pharaoh with his mighty army and great company do anything in the war, [t]when they heap up a siege mound and build a [3]wall to cut off many persons. 18 Since he despised the oath by breaking the covenant, and in fact [u]gave[4] his hand and still did all these things, he shall not escape.' "

19 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: "As I live, surely My oath which he despised, and My covenant which he broke, I will recompense on his own head. 20 I will [v]spread My net over him, and he shall be taken in My snare. I will bring him to Babylon and [w]try him there for the [5]treason which he committed against Me. 21 [x]All his [6]fugitives with all his troops shall fall by the

■ 17:6 vine. Nebuchadnezzar replaced the cedar with the far more humble and lowly vine, a reference to his installation of Zedekiah on the throne in Jerusalem after deporting Jehoiachin (2 Kin. 24:15–17). Nebuchadnezzar had done much for Zedekiah, just as the vine had fertile soil, abundant water, and prospered.

■ 17:7 another great eagle. The turning of the vine toward another great eagle represents Zedekiah's shift in allegiance from Nebuchadnezzar to Egypt (vv. 15–17), with the result that the vine itself would be uprooted and destroyed.

■ 17:10 east wind. See note on 19:12.

■ 17:15 Egypt. Although the Old Testament histories do not mention Zedekiah's appeal to Egypt for help, Jeremiah does mention it (Jer. 37:5–11; 44:30). One of the Lachish letters, written on broken pottery in the last days of the kingdom of Judah, reports that a commander of the army went down to Egypt, perhaps to ask for help. See 16:26; 29:6, 7; 30:20–26.

Israel Exalted at Last

22 Thus says the Lord GOD: "I will take also one of the highest [z]branches of the high cedar and set it out. I will crop off from the topmost of its young twigs [a]a tender one, and will [b]plant it on a high and prominent mountain. 23 [c]On the mountain height of Israel I will plant it; and it will bring forth boughs, and bear fruit, and be a majestic cedar. [d]Under it will dwell birds of every sort; in the shadow of its branches they will dwell. 24 And all the trees of the field shall know that I, the LORD, [e]have brought down the high tree and exalted the low tree, dried up the green tree and made the dry tree flourish; [f]I, the LORD, have spoken and have done it."

A False Proverb Refuted

18 The word of the LORD came to me again, saying, 2 "What do you mean when you use this proverb concerning the land of Israel, saying:

'The [a]fathers have eaten sour grapes,
And the children's teeth are set on edge'?

3 "As I live," says the Lord GOD, "you shall no longer use this proverb in Israel.

4 "Behold, all souls are [b]Mine;
The soul of the father
As well as the soul of the son is Mine;
[c]The soul who sins shall die.
5 But if a man is just
And does what is lawful and right;
6 [d]If he has not eaten [l]on the mountains,
Nor lifted up his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel,
Nor [e]defiled his neighbor's wife,
Nor approached [f]a woman during her impurity;

Nor taken any increase,
But has withdrawn his hand from iniquity
And [l]executed true [3]judgment between man and man;
9 If he has walked in My statutes
And kept My judgments faithfully—
He is just;
He shall surely [m]live!"
Says the Lord GOD.

■ 17:22 twigs. The Bible often uses a branch or tree as a symbol of royalty (Dan. 4:9–12, 19–22), particularly as a figure of the Messiah. The messianic Branch belongs to the house of David (Is. 4:2; 11:1; 53:2; 60:21; Jer. 23:5; 33:15; Zech. 6:12). Ezekiel announces that someday God would take a descendant of Jehoiachin (cf. vv. 3, 4 and 12, 13) and restore him to kingship in Judah.

■ 17:23 birds. Rather than be threatened by other kingdoms (birds like the eagles), this splendid cedar would become a haven for birds of all kinds (cf. Dan. 4:12, 21). The tree would be fruitful (2 Kin. 19:30; Is. 11:1; 37:31; Jer. 17:8; cf. John 15:4, 5, 8, 16).

■ 18:1–32 The Exile was not the result of the sins of a single generation. Rather, the continued disobedience of Israel through many generations, "since the day their fathers came out of Egypt, even to this day" (2 Kin. 21:15), finally brought judgment on Judah. The cumulative guilt of the nation was being judged by God in the events that led up to the destruction of Jerusalem. The response of the exiles was to question the justice of God. The popular proverb (v. 2; cf. Jer. 31:29) in effect said, "It's not our fault—we are being punished for what we did not do. Our fathers sinned, and we are the ones who are paying the price." Ezekiel replies by emphasizing that God responds according to the acts of each individual and generation. The exiles cannot evade their guilt; they were suffering for their own sins as well.

■ 18:6 not eaten. Eating at the mountain shrines would refer to sacrificial meals at the high places (6:13; 20:28; 22:9; cf. Ex. 32:5, 6).

her impurity. The law prohibited sexual intercourse during a woman's period (22:10; Lev. 15:16–33; 18:19).

■ 18:7 pledge. See vv. 12, 16; Ex. 22:26; Deut. 24:10–13, 17; Prov. 20:16; Amos 2:8. An ostracon (a piece of broken pottery with writing on it) of the late seventh century B.C. records the complaint of a field worker to a village official that his employer had taken his garment and kept it.

10 "If he begets a son who is a robber
Or [n]a shedder of blood,
Who does any of these things
11 And does none of those duties,
But has eaten [4]on the mountains
Or defiled his neighbor's wife;
12 If he has oppressed the poor and needy,
Robbed by violence,
Not restored the pledge,
Lifted his eyes to the idols,
Or [o]committed abomination;
13 If he has exacted usury
Or taken increase—
Shall he then live?
He shall not live!
If he has done any of these abominations,
He shall surely die;
[p]His blood shall be upon him.

14 "If, however, he begets a son
Who sees all the sins which his father has done,
And considers but does not do likewise;
15 [q]Who has not eaten [5]on the mountains,
Nor lifted his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel,
Nor defiled his neighbor's wife;
16 Has not oppressed anyone,
Nor withheld a pledge,
Nor robbed by violence,
But has given his bread to the hungry
And covered the naked with clothing;
17 Who has withdrawn his hand from [6]the poor
And not received usury or increase,
But has executed My judgments
And walked in My statutes—
He shall not die for the iniquity of his father;
He shall surely live!

18 "As for his father,
Because he cruelly oppressed,
Robbed his brother by violence,
And did what is not good among his people,
Behold, [r]he shall die for his iniquity.

Turn and Live

19 "Yet you say, 'Why [s]should the son not bear the guilt of the father?' Because the son has done what is lawful and right, and has kept all My statutes and observed them, he shall surely live. 20 [t]The soul who sins shall die. [u]The son shall not bear the guilt of the father, nor the father bear the guilt of the son. [v]The righteousness of the righteous shall be upon himself, [w]and the wickedness of the wicked shall be upon himself.

21 "But [x]if a wicked man turns from all his sins which he has committed, keeps all My statutes, and does what is lawful and right, he shall surely live; he shall not die. 22 [y]None of the transgressions which he has committed shall be remembered against him; because of the righteousness which he has done, he shall [z]live. 23 [a]Do I have any pleasure at all that the wicked should die?" says the Lord GOD, "and not that he should turn from his ways and live?

[c]All the righteousness which he has done shall not be remembered; because of the unfaithfulness of which he is guilty and the sin which he has committed, because of them he shall die.

25 "Yet you say, [d]'The way of the Lord is not fair.' Hear now, O house of Israel, is it not My way which is fair, and your ways which are not fair? 26 [e]When a righteous man turns away from his righteousness, commits iniquity, and dies in it, it is because of the iniquity which he has done that he dies. 27 Again, [f]when a wicked man turns away from the wickedness which he committed, and does what is lawful and right, he preserves himself alive. 28 Because he [g]considers and turns away from all the transgressions which he committed, he shall surely live; he shall not die. 29 [h]Yet the house of Israel says, 'The way of the Lord is not fair.' Israel Degraded

19 "Moreover [a]take up a lamentation for the princes of Israel, 2 and say:

She lay down among the lions;
Among the young lions she nourished her cubs.
3 She brought up one of her cubs,
And [b]he became a young lion;
He learned to catch prey,
And he devoured men.
4 The nations also heard of him;
He was trapped in their pit,
And they brought him with chains to the land of [c]Egypt.

She took [d]another of her cubs and made him a young lion.

And laid waste their cities;
The land with its fullness was desolated
By the noise of his roaring.
8 [g]Then the nations set against him from the provinces on every side,
And spread their net over him;

■ 18:24 commits iniquity. God will not allow Himself to be merely an escape hatch in times of trouble; He cannot be looked to as Savior without also being received as Lord.

■ 18:30–32 This is a summary statement. Sin can never be taken lightly in one's relationship with God. Yet within the solemn warnings about the gravity of sin and the threat it represents, there remains the assurance that God does not desire or delight in the death of the wicked (2 Pet. 3:9). Repentance is the way to life (2 Chr. 6:37–39; Is. 30:15; 59:20; Jer. 18:8; Matt. 4:17; Mark 1:4, 15; Luke 13:3, 5; 15:7, 10; 24:47; Acts 3:19; 17:30; 2 Cor. 7:10).

■ 18:31 get yourselves a new heart and a new spirit. As Ezekiel himself recognized, the new heart and spirit were the gift of God (36:26) and not the product of human effort (cf. Eph. 2:8, 9). Ezekiel exhorts his audience to seek these not through their own merit but by repentance (v. 32).

■ 19:1–14 Ezekiel presents another allegory in the kind of Hebrew poetry ordinarily used for funeral dirges and laments. This kind of poetry in Hebrew has a particular meter that Ezekiel's audience would recognize. The same rhythm is used in 26:17, 18; 27:12–19; 28:12–19; 32:2–8.

■ 19:2 lioness. The lioness represents the nation of Israel or the city of Jerusalem, which produced these cubs, or kings; for the image of Jerusalem as a mother, see Ps. 87:5; Is. 50:1; 54:1; Gal. 4:26, 27. The lion as an image is frequently associated with Davidic kingship (Gen. 49:9; Mic. 5:8). The New Testament looks for "the Lion of the tribe of Judah" to reestablish the kingdom of God (Rev. 5:5).

■ 19:4 Egypt. Jehoahaz reigned for only three months before he was taken to Egypt as a captive of Pharaoh Necho in 609 B.C. (2 Kin. 23:31–34; 2 Chr. 36:2–4).

■ 19:5 another. Ezekiel omits any description of the reign of Jehoiakim and proceeds to his son Jehoiachin. Second Kings does not mention any exile for Jehoiakim (2 Kin. 23:36—24:7; cf. 2 Chr. 36:5–8); he apparently died in Jerusalem.

[h] He was trapped in their pit.
9 [i] They put him in a cage with [2] chains,
And brought him to the king of Babylon;
They brought him in nets,
That his voice should no longer be heard on [j] the mountains of Israel.
10 'Your mother was [k] like a vine in your [3] bloodline,
Planted by the waters,
[l] Fruitful and full of branches
Because of many waters.
11 She had strong branches for scepters of rulers.
[m] She towered in stature above the thick branches,
And was seen in her height amid the [4] dense foliage.
12 But she was [n] plucked up in fury,
She was cast down to the ground,
And the [o] east wind dried her fruit.
Her strong branches were broken and withered;
The fire consumed them.
13 And now she is planted in the wilderness,
In a dry and thirsty land.
14 [p] Fire has come out from a rod of her branches
And devoured her fruit,
So that she has no strong branch— a scepter for ruling.' "

[q] This is a lamentation, and has become a lamentation.

The Rebellions of Israel

20 It came to pass in the seventh year, in the fifth month, on the tenth day of the month, that [a] certain of the elders of Israel came to inquire of the LORD, and sat before me. 2 Then the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 3 "Son of man, speak to the elders of Israel, and say to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "Have you come to inquire of Me? As I live," says the Lord GOD, [b] "I will not be inquired of by you." ' 4 Will you judge them, son of man, will you judge them? Then [c] make known to them the abominations of their fathers.

5 "Say to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "On the day when [d] I chose Israel and raised My hand in an oath to the descendants of the house of Jacob, and made Myself [e] known to them in the land of Egypt, I raised My hand in an oath to them, saying, [f] 'I am the LORD your God.' 6 On that day I raised My hand in an oath to them, [g] to bring them out of the land of Egypt into a land that I had searched out for them, [h] 'flowing with milk and honey,' [i] the glory of all lands. 7 Then I said to them, 'Each of you, [j] throw away [k] the abominations which are before his eyes, and do not defile yourselves with [l] the idols of Egypt. I am the LORD your God.' 8 But they rebelled against Me and would not [l] obey Me. They did not all cast away the abominations which were before their eyes, nor did they forsake the idols of Egypt. Then I said, 'I will [m] pour out My fury on them and fulfill My anger against them in the midst of the land of Egypt.' 9 [n] But I acted for My name's sake, that it should not be profaned before the Gentiles among whom they were, in whose sight I had made Myself [o] known to them, to bring them out of the land of Egypt.

10 "Therefore I [p] made them go out of the land of Egypt and brought them into the wilderness. 11 [q] And I gave them My statutes and [2] showed them My judgments, [r] 'which, if a man does, he

■ 19:9 Babylon. Jehoiakim had rebelled against Nebuchadnezzar, and the wrath of the Babylonian king was directed against his son Jehoiachin. Ezekiel describes his deportation to Babylon in 597 B.C. (2 Kin. 24:8–16; 2 Chr. 36:9, 10). Jehoiachin was imprisoned until the reign of Evil-Merodach (562–560 B.C.; 2 Kin. 25:27–30).

■ 19:12 east wind. This is just as in 17:9, 10. The east wind is an instrument of Yahweh's will (Ex. 10:13; 14:21; Ps. 78:26; Hos. 13:15; Jon. 4:8). The east wind brought the desert heat and would wither the vine.

■ 19:14 no strong branch. The end of the kingdom of Judah is described as a time when the vine was uprooted and no branch was left to make a ruler's scepter. For the use of a branch as a symbol of the messianic king, see note on 17:22.

■ 20:1 year. Once again the elders gather to seek instruction from the prophet, about a year later than the date last mentioned (8:1; cf. 14:1). The date would be the tenth of Ab (August, 591 B.C.), five years to the day before Jerusalem was put to the torch (Jer. 52:12).

■ 20:5 raised My hand in an oath. This phrase is repeated several times in the chapter (vv. 5, 6, 15, 23, 28, 42). God had pledged Himself to Israel and would perform His promises. See Ex. 3:6–10; 6:2–8.

■ 20:8 idols of Egypt. The Pentateuch does not record details about the religious life of the Israelites during their slavery in Egypt, but it is safe to infer that they had assimilated the religion of the culture there as they did later in Canaan. The incident with the golden calf (Ex. 32) should be understood against the background of idolatry in Egypt. See 23:3; Josh. 24:14.

■ 20:11 statutes. The law was God's gracious gift to Israel; it was a way of life (Deut. 4:40; 32:46, 47; Josh. 1:7, 8).

shall live by them.' 12 Moreover I also gave them My [s]Sabbaths, to be a sign between them and Me, that they might know that I am the LORD who sanctifies them. 13 Yet the house of Israel [t]rebelled against Me in the wilderness; they did not walk in My statutes; they [u]despised My judgments, [v]'which, if a man does, he shall live by them'; and they greatly [w]defiled My Sabbaths. Then I said I would pour out My fury on them in the [x]wilderness, to consume them. 14 [y]But I acted for My name's sake, that it should not be profaned before the Gentiles, in whose sight I had brought them out. 15 So [z]I also raised My hand in an oath to them in the wilderness, that I would not bring them into the land which I had given them, [a]'flowing with milk and honey,' [b]the glory of all lands, 16 [c]because they despised My judgments and did not walk in My statutes, but profaned My Sabbaths; for [d]their heart went after their idols. 17 [e]Nevertheless My eye spared them from destruction. I did not make an end of them in the wilderness.

18 "But I said to their children in the wilderness, 'Do not walk in the statutes of your fathers, nor observe their judgments, nor defile yourselves with their idols. 19 I am the LORD your God: [f]Walk in My statutes, keep My judgments, and do them; 20 [g]hallow My Sabbaths, and they will be a sign between Me and you, that you may know that I am the LORD your God.'

21 "Notwithstanding, [h]the children rebelled against Me; they did not walk in My statutes, and were not careful to observe My judgments, [i]'which, if a man does, he shall live by them'; but they profaned My Sabbaths. Then I said I would pour out My fury on them and fulfill My anger against them in the wilderness. 22 Nevertheless I [3]withdrew My hand and acted for My name's sake, that it should not be profaned in the sight of the Gentiles, in whose sight I had brought them out. 23 Also I raised My hand in an oath to those in the wilderness, that [j]I would scatter them among the Gentiles and disperse them throughout the countries, 24 [k]because they had not executed My judgments, but had despised My statutes, profaned My Sabbaths, and [l]their eyes were fixed on their fathers' idols.

25 "Therefore [m]I also gave them up to statutes that were not good, and judgments by which they could not live; 26 and I pronounced them unclean because of their ritual gifts, in that they caused all [4]their firstborn to pass [n]through the fire, that I might make them desolate and that they [o]might know that I am the LORD." '

27 "Therefore, son of man, speak to the house of Israel, and say to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "In this too your fathers have [p]blasphemed Me, by being unfaithful to Me. 28 When I brought them into the land concerning which I had raised My hand in an oath to give them, and [q]they saw all the high hills and all the thick trees, there they offered their sacrifices and provoked Me with their offerings. There they also sent up their [r]sweet aroma and poured out their drink offerings. 29 Then I said to them, 'What is this [5]high place to which you go?' So its name is called [6]Bamah to this day." ' 30 Therefore say to the house of Israel, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "Are you defiling yourselves in the manner of your [s]fathers, and committing harlotry according to their [t]abominations? 31 For when you offer [u]your gifts and make your sons pass through the fire, you defile yourselves with all your idols, even to this day. So shall I be inquired of by you, O house of Israel? As I live," says the Lord GOD, "I will [v]not be inquired of by you. 32 [w]What you have in your mind shall never be, when you say, 'We will be like the Gentiles, like the families in other countries, serving wood and stone.'

God Will Restore Israel

■ 20:12 Sabbaths. The Sabbath (vv. 13, 16, 21, 24) is singled out as a law unique to Israel, one that most clearly distinguished it from the nations. The Sabbath is often cited as an important example that stands for the whole law (22:8, 26; 23:38; 44:24; cf. Neh. 13:18; Is. 56:2, 4, 6; Jer. 17:19–27).

■ 20:13 rebelled. The first generation in the wilderness rebelled against God (Ex. 17:2; Num. 14:18; 16; 17; 20:10, 24; 25; 26:9; 27:14; Deut. 1:26, 43; 9:7; 31:27).

defiled My Sabbaths. See Num. 15:32–36.

■ 20:23 scatter. The threat of exile existed even before the people entered the land (Lev. 26:32–35; Deut. 28:64–67; Ps. 106:26). Moses predicted that they would rebel against the Lord once in the land (Deut. 31:27, 29).

■ 20:26 their firstborn. The law was God's gracious gift (v. 11 note), but when perverted it brought death. Ezekiel appears to regard the practice of child sacrifice in ancient Israel as a perversion of their laws regarding the firstborn (Ex. 13:1, 11–16; 22:29; 34:19, 20; Num. 18:15, 16). Every firstborn belonged to the Lord, but children were not to be sacrificed.

■ 20:29 high place. Second Kings measures almost every ruler of Judah in terms of what he or she did about the high places around Jerusalem.

■ 20:32–38 The desire to be like the surrounding nations (v. 32) reflects 1 Sam. 8:20; the people had rejected God (1 Sam. 8:7, 8). But just as God would not abandon earlier generations of His chosen people, so now He promises a new exodus and a return to the wilderness experience (vv. 33–35). Just as only the faithful and obedient from those in the wilderness generation crossed into the land (Num. 14:30, 38), so too God would again purge the nation to bring a faithful people into the land (vv. 36–38).

out of the countries where you are scattered, with a mighty hand, with an outstretched arm, and with fury poured out. 35 And I will bring you into the wilderness of the peoples, and there [y]I will plead My case with you face to face. 36 [z]Just as I pleaded My case with your fathers in the wilderness of the land of Egypt, so I will plead My case with you," says the Lord GOD.

37 "I will make you [a]pass under the rod, and I will bring you into the bond of the [b]covenant; 38 [c]I will purge the rebels from among you, and those who transgress against Me; I will bring them out of the country where they dwell, but [d]they shall not enter the land of Israel. Then you will know that I am the LORD.

39 "As for you, O house of Israel," thus says the Lord GOD: [e]"Go, serve every one of you his idols—and hereafter—if you will not obey Me; [f]but profane My holy name no more with your gifts and your idols. 40 For [g]on My holy mountain, on the mountain height of Israel," says the Lord GOD, "there [h]all the house of Israel, all of them in the land, shall serve Me; there [i]I will accept them, and there I will require your offerings and the firstfruits of your [7]sacrifices, together with all your holy things. 41 I will accept you as a [j]sweet aroma when I bring you out from the peoples and gather you out of the countries where you have been scattered; and I will be hallowed in you before the Gentiles. 42 [k]Then you shall know that I am the LORD, [l]when I bring you into the land of Israel, into the country for which I raised My hand in an oath to give to your fathers. 43 And [m]there you shall remember your ways and all your doings with which you were defiled; and [n]you shall [8]loathe yourselves in your own sight because of all the evils that you have committed. 44 [o]Then you shall know that I am the LORD, when I have dealt with you [p]for My name's sake, not according to your wicked ways nor according to your corrupt doings, O house of Israel," says the Lord GOD.' "

Fire in the Forest

45 Furthermore the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 46 [q]"Son of man, set your face toward the south; [9]preach against the south and prophesy against the forest land, the [r]South, 47 and say to the forest of the South, 'Hear the word of the LORD! Thus says the Lord GOD: "Behold, [r]I will kindle a fire in you, and it shall devour [s]every green tree and every dry tree in you; the blazing flame shall not be quenched, and all faces [t]from the south to the north shall be scorched by it. 48 All flesh shall see that I, the LORD, have kindled it; it shall not be quenched." ' "

49 Then I said, "Ah, Lord GOD! They say of me, 'Does he not speak [u]parables?' "

Babylon, the Sword of God

21 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 [a]"Son of man, set your face toward Jerusalem, [b]preach[1] against the holy places, and prophesy against the land of Israel; 3 and say to the land of Israel, 'Thus says the LORD: "Behold, I am [c]against you, and I will draw My sword out of its sheath and cut off both [d]righteous and wicked from you. 4 Because I will cut off both righteous and wicked from you, therefore My sword shall go out of its sheath against all flesh [e]from south to north, 5 that all flesh may know that I, the LORD, have drawn My sword out of its sheath; it [f]shall not return anymore." ' 6 [g]Sigh therefore, son of man, with [2]a breaking heart, and sigh with bitterness before their eyes. 7 And it shall be when they say to you, 'Why are you sighing?' that you shall answer, 'Because of the news; when it comes, every heart will melt, [h]all hands will be feeble, every spirit will faint, and all knees will be weak as water. Behold, it is coming and shall be brought to pass,' says the Lord GOD."

7 [h]Ezek. 7:17

■ 20:35 wilderness of the peoples. Possibly this refers to the desolation of exile, which Israel was about to experience. Israel was going to be judged in a "desert" just as the wilderness generation had been.

■ 20:37 pass under the rod. The phrase alludes to the practice of counting off animals for the tithe (Lev. 27:32, 33); it suggests that a tenth would be left (cf. Is. 6:13).

■ 20:38 purge. The goal of the periodic catastrophes that befell Israel was commonly to produce a purified, purged, and faithful remnant (6:8 note).

■ 20:40 holy mountain. Zion. The faithful remnant would worship at God's holy mountain. The glory of the grace of God is that He deals with us in mercy and not as our sins deserve (20:44; Ezra 9:13; Job 33:27; Ps. 103:10; Lam. 3:22, 23, 31–33).

■ 20:45–48 This short prophecy against the South is explained in 21:1–5. Here and in 21:4 disaster comes "from south to north," and the disaster cannot be stopped (v. 48; 21:5). The threat was issued in Babylon, and Israel is described as lying to the south. Disaster is usually portrayed as coming from the north (Is. 14:31; 41:25; Jer. 1:13–15; 4:6; 6:1; 10:22; 25:9; 47:2; 50:9; 51:48; Joel 2:20).

■ 20:49 They say of me. Ridicule and mocking were often a prophet's lot (2 Chr. 36:16; Matt. 20:19; 27:29).

■ 21:1–32 The oracles of this chapter all use the figure of a sword (21:1–7, 8–27, 28–32). The Old Testament frequently describes God as a warrior. His sword was ordinarily wielded against Israel's enemies (Deut. 32:41; Is. 31:8; 34:5–8; 66:16; Jer. 25:31; 50:35–37; Zeph. 2:12). But now the sword was given to the Babylonians and would be wielded against Judah and Jerusalem (vv. 2, 12).

8 Again the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 9 "Son of man, prophesy and say, 'Thus says the LORD!' Say:

[i]'A sword, a sword is sharpened
And also polished!
10 Sharpened to make a dreadful slaughter,
Polished to flash like lightning!
Should we then make mirth?
It despises the scepter of My son,
As it does all wood.
11 And He has given it to be polished,
That it may be handled;
This sword is sharpened, and it is polished
To be given into the hand of [j]the slayer.'

12 "Cry and wail, son of man;
For it will be against My people,
Against all the princes of Israel.
Terrors including the sword will be against My people;
Therefore [k]strike your thigh.

13 "Because it is [l]a testing,
And what if the sword despises even the scepter?
[m]The scepter shall be no more,"

says the Lord GOD.

14 "You therefore, son of man, prophesy,
And [n]strike your hands together.
The third time let the sword do double damage.
It is the sword that slays,
The sword that slays the great men,
That enters their [o]private chambers.
15 I have set the point of the sword against all their gates,
That the heart may melt and many may stumble.
Ah! [p]It is made bright;
It is grasped for slaughter:

16 "Swords[q][3] at the ready!
Thrust right!
Set your blade!
Thrust left—
Wherever your [4]edge is ordered!

17 "I also will [r]beat My fists together,
And [s]I will cause My fury to rest;
I, the LORD, have spoken."

18 The word of the LORD came to me again, saying: 19 "And son of man, appoint for yourself two ways for the sword of the king of Babylon to go; both of them shall go from the same land. Make a sign; put it at the head of the road to the city. 20 Appoint a road for the sword to go to

17 [r]Ezek. 22:13 [s]Ezek. 5:13; 16:42; 24:13

■ 21:9 A sword. Probably Ezekiel is once again using some form of symbolic action (4:1–3 note). The prophet may have been whirling, cutting, and slashing with a sword in a dramatic dance as part of the oracle.

■ 21:10, 13 scepter. These verses along with v. 27 are united in part by their allusions to Judah's scepter (Gen. 49:10). A wooden scepter was nothing against an iron sword, and Judah was no contest for Nebuchadnezzar.

■ 21:18–23 Nebuchadnezzar would be coming from the north, approaching a fork in the road. Ezekiel probably drew a map something like an inverted "Y" scratched in the dirt or on a clay tablet (4:1–3 note). Coming from the north, the left fork in the road would take the Babylonian armies down the "King's Highway," a major highway passing through Jordan. The right fork would take the Babylonians down the "Via Maris," an important international highway on the coastal plain west of Jerusalem. These highways met near Damascus.

[t]Rabbah of the Ammonites, and to Judah, into fortified Jerusalem. 21 For the king of Babylon stands at the parting of the road, at the fork of the two roads, to use divination: he shakes the arrows, he consults the [s]images, he looks at the liver. 22 In his right hand is the divination for Jerusalem: to set up battering rams, to call for a slaughter, to [u]lift the voice with shouting, [v]to set battering rams against the gates, to heap up a siege mound, and to build a wall. 23 And it will be to them like a false divination in the eyes of those who [w]have sworn oaths with them; but he will bring their iniquity to remembrance, that they may be taken.

24 "Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: 'Because you have made your iniquity to be remembered, in that your transgressions are uncovered, so that in all your doings your sins appear—because you have come to remembrance, you shall be taken in hand.

25 'Now to you, O [x]profane, wicked prince of Israel, [y]whose day has come, whose iniquity shall end, 26 thus says the Lord GOD:

"Remove the turban, and take off the crown;
Nothing shall remain the same.
[z]Exalt the humble, and humble the exalted.
27 [6]Overthrown, overthrown,
I will make it overthrown!
[a]It shall be no longer,
Until He comes whose right it is,
And I will give it to [b]Him." '

A Sword Against the Ammonites

28 "And you, son of man, prophesy and say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD [c]concerning the Ammonites and concerning their reproach,' and say:

'A sword, a sword is drawn,
Polished for slaughter,
For consuming, for flashing—
29 While they [d]see false visions for you,
While they divine a lie to you,
To bring you on the necks of the wicked, the slain
[e]Whose day has come,
Whose iniquity shall end.

30 'Return[f] it to its sheath.
[g]I will judge you
In the place where you were created,
[h]In the land of your [7]nativity.
31 I will [i]pour out My indignation on you;
I will [j]blow against you with the fire of My wrath,
And deliver you into the hands of brutal men who are skillful to [k]destroy.
32 You shall be fuel for the fire;
Your blood shall be in the midst of the land.
[l]You shall not be remembered,
For I the LORD have spoken.' "

Sins of Jerusalem

22 Moreover the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Now, son of man, [a]will you judge, will you judge [b]the bloody city? Yes, show her all her abominations! 3 Then say,

CHAPTER 22

2 [a]Ezek. 20:4 [b]Nah. 3:1

■ 21:21 divination. The Babylonian king used several ways to obtain guidance from the gods. (a) The images (Hebrew teraphim) were religious objects used in worship. (b) Divination by examining the contours and markings on the livers of sacrificed birds or sheep (hepatoscopy) was a common practice in ancient times. (c) Arrows were used as a means of casting lots.

■ 21:23 sworn oaths. Nebuchadnezzar laid siege to Jerusalem by January, 588 B.C.

■ 21:25 prince. The profane and wicked prince is Zedekiah, the last king of Judah (17:1–10 note).

■ 21:28 Ammonites. From vv. 18–23 it might seem that the Babylonians would attack Jerusalem but spare Ammon. This third and last sword song explains that Ammon too would taste God's wrath in the fury of the Babylonians (Jer. 49:1–6). Ammon was allied with Jerusalem and Egypt against the Babylonians in 589 B.C. However, when Jerusalem came under attack, Ammon took advantage of her former ally (Jer. 27:3; 40:11, 14; 41:10, 15; cf. 2 Kin. 24:2).

■ 22:2 bloody city. This first of three oracles in ch. 22 revolves around repeated references to blood (vv. 2, 3, 4, 6, 9, 12, 13; cf. v. 27). The city is indicted for both moral and ritual crimes.

'Thus says the Lord GOD: "The city sheds [c]blood in her own midst, that her time may come; and she makes idols within herself to defile herself. [4] You have become guilty by the blood which you have [d]shed, and have defiled yourself with the idols which you have made. You have caused your days to draw near, and have come to the end of your years; [e]therefore I have made you a reproach to the nations, and a mockery to all countries. [5] Those near and those far from you will mock you as [f]infamous and full of tumult.

[6] "Look, [f]the princes of Israel: each one has used his [2]power to shed blood in you. [7] In you they have [g]made light of father and mother; in your midst they have [h]oppressed the stranger; in you they have mistreated the [3]fatherless and the widow. [8] You have despised My holy things and [i]profaned My Sabbaths. [9] In you are [j]men who slander to cause bloodshed; [k]in you are those who eat on the mountains; in your midst they commit lewdness. [10] In you men [l]uncover their fathers' nakedness; in you they violate women who are [m]set apart during their impurity. [11] One commits abomination [n]with his neighbor's wife; [o]another lewdly defiles his daughter-in-law; and another in you violates his sister, his father's [p]daughter. [12] In you [q]they take bribes to shed blood; [r]you take usury and increase; you have made profit from your neighbors by extortion, and [s]have forgotten Me," says the Lord GOD.

[13] "Behold, therefore, I [t]beat My fists at the dishonest profit which you have made, and at the bloodshed which has been in your midst. [14] [u]Can your heart endure, or can your hands remain strong, in the days when I shall deal with you? [v]I, the LORD, have spoken, and will do it. [15] [w]I will scatter you among the nations, disperse you throughout the countries, and [x]remove your filthiness completely from you. [16] You shall defile yourself in the sight of the nations; then [y]you shall know that I am the LORD." ' "

Israel in the Furnace

[17] The word of the LORD came to me, saying, [18] "Son of man, [z]the house of Israel has become dross to Me; they are all bronze, tin, iron, and lead, in the midst of a [a]furnace; they have become dross from silver. [19] Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: 'Because you have all become dross, therefore behold, I will gather you into the midst of Jerusalem. [20] As men gather silver, bronze, iron, lead, and tin into the midst of a furnace, to blow fire on it, to [b]melt it; so I will gather you in My anger and in My fury, and I will leave you there and melt you. [21] Yes, I will gather you and blow on you with the fire of My wrath, and you shall be melted in its midst. [22] As silver is melted in the midst of a furnace, so shall you be melted in its midst; then you shall know that I, the LORD, have [c]poured out My fury on you.' "

Israel's Wicked Leaders

[23] And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, [24] "Son of man, say to her: 'You are a land that is [d]not [4]cleansed or rained on in the day of indignation.' [25] [e]The conspiracy of her [5]prophets in her midst is like a roaring lion tearing the prey; they [f]have devoured [6]people; [g]they have taken treasure and precious things; they have made many widows in her midst. [26] [h]Her priests have [7]violated My law and [i]profaned My holy things; they have not [j]distinguished between the holy and unholy, nor have they made known the difference between the unclean and the clean; and they have hidden their eyes from My Sabbaths, so that I am profaned among them. [27] Her [k]princes in her midst are like wolves tearing the prey, to shed blood, to destroy [8]people, and to get dishonest gain. [28] [l]Her prophets plastered them with untempered mortar, [m]seeing false visions, and divining [n]lies for them, saying, 'Thus says the Lord GOD,' when the LORD had not spoken. [29] The people of the land have used oppressions, committed robbery, and mistreated the poor and needy; and they wrongfully [o]oppress the stranger. [30] [p]So I sought for a man among them who would [q]make a wall, and [r]stand in the gap before Me on behalf of the land, that I should not destroy it; but I found no one. [31] Therefore I have [s]poured out My indignation on

■ 22:11 abomination. For the range of forbidden sexual relations, see Lev. 18:6–23; 20:10–21.

■ 22:18 furnace. The periodic outpouring of divine judgment on Israel was designed to purge her of sin and to produce a pure people (6:8 note). Israel's experience in Egypt was likened to time in a furnace (Deut. 4:20; 1 Kin. 8:51; Jer. 11:4), and the Exile would be a refiner's furnace for Israel. Refining is a common image in the Bible (Ps. 66:10; 119:119; Prov. 17:3; 25:4; Is. 1:25; 48:10; Jer. 9:7; Zech. 13:9; Mal. 3:2, 3; 1 Cor. 3:12–15; 1 Pet. 1:7).

■ 22:30 gap. See 13:5 note.

them; I have consumed them with the fire of My wrath; and I have recompensed [f]their deeds on their own heads," says the Lord GOD.

Two Harlot Sisters

23 The word of the LORD came again to me, saying:

2 "Son of man, there were [a]two women,
The daughters of one mother.
3 [b]They committed harlotry in Egypt,
They committed harlotry in [c]their youth;
Their breasts were there embraced,
Their virgin bosom was there pressed.
4 Their names: [1]Oholah the elder and [2]Oholibah [d]her sister;
[e]They were Mine,
And they bore sons and daughters.
As for their names,
Samaria is Oholah, and Jerusalem is Oholibah.

The Older Sister, Samaria

5 "Oholah played the harlot even though she was Mine;
And she lusted for her lovers, the neighboring [f]Assyrians,
6 Who were clothed in purple,
Captains and rulers,
All of them desirable young men,
Horsemen riding on horses.
7 Thus she committed her harlotry with them,
All of them choice men of Assyria;
And with all for whom she lusted,
With all their idols, she defiled herself.
8 She has never given up her harlotry brought [g]from Egypt,
For in her youth they had lain with her,
Pressed her virgin bosom,
And poured out their immorality upon her.

9 "Therefore I have delivered her
Into the hand of her lovers,
Into the hand of the [h]Assyrians,
For whom she lusted.
10 They uncovered her nakedness,
Took away her sons and daughters,
And slew her with the sword;
She became a byword among women,
For they had executed judgment on her.

The Younger Sister, Jerusalem

11 "Now [i]although her sister Oholibah saw this, [j]she became more corrupt in her lust than she, and in her harlotry more corrupt than her sister's harlotry.

12 "She lusted for the neighboring [k]Assyrians,

■ 23:1–49 Ezekiel propounds another allegory. The two sisters are a tale of two cities: "Oholah" is Samaria, the capital of the northern kingdom, and "Oholibah" is Jerusalem, capital of the southern kingdom.

■ 23:3 harlotry. Though Ezekiel emphasized that each individual and generation would bear responsibility for its own sin (18:1–32 note), he also describes a cumulative guilt and a deferred punishment. The indictment of the two kingdoms begins with their prostitution in Egypt (16:26; 20:5–9).

■ 23:4 Mine. The sisters had a covenant relationship with the Lord.

■ 23:5 lovers. Israel's oath of exclusive allegiance to the Lord would be broken by foreign alliances as well as by idolatry (vv. 5–10; 16:26 note; cf. Hos. 8:9). Prostitution did not secure the admiration or affection of the Assyrian lovers—quite the contrary (vv. 9, 10). Ultimately Assyria destroyed the northern kingdom (2 Kin. 17:5, 6).

Clothed most gorgeously,
Horsemen riding on horses,
All of them desirable young men.
13 Then I saw that she was defiled:
Both took the same way.
14 But she increased her harlotry;
She looked at men portrayed on the wall,
Images of [m]Chaldeans portrayed in vermilion,
15 Girded with belts around their waists,
Flowing turbans on their heads,
All of them looking like captains,
In the manner of the Babylonians of Chaldea,
The land of their nativity.
16 [n]As soon as her eyes saw them,
She lusted for them
And sent [o]messengers to them in Chaldea.

17 "Then the [3]Babylonians came to her, into the bed of love,
And they defiled her with their immorality;
So she was defiled by them, [p]and alienated herself from them.
18 She revealed her harlotry and uncovered her nakedness.
Then [q]I [r]alienated Myself from her,
As I had alienated Myself from her sister.

19 "Yet she multiplied her harlotry
In calling to remembrance the days of her youth,
[s]When she had played the harlot in the land of Egypt.
20 For she lusted for her [4]paramours,
Whose flesh is like the flesh of donkeys,
And whose issue is like the issue of horses.
21 Thus you called to remembrance the lewdness of your youth,
When the [t]Egyptians pressed your bosom
Because of your youthful breasts.

Judgment on Jerusalem

22 "Therefore, Oholibah, thus says the Lord GOD:

[u]'Behold, I will stir up your lovers against you,
From whom you have alienated yourself,
And I will bring them against you from every side:
23 The Babylonians,
All the Chaldeans,
[v]Pekod, Shoa, Koa,
[w]All the Assyrians with them,
All of them desirable young men,
Governors and rulers,
Captains and men of renown,
All of them riding on horses.
24 And they shall come against you
With chariots, wagons, and war-horses,
With a horde of people.
They shall array against you
Buckler, shield, and helmet all around.

■ 23:14 increased. Judah entered alliances of her own with the Babylonians (2 Kin. 20:12–18; 23:29; Is. 39:1). There were also overtures to Egypt (23:19–21).

■ 23:23 Pekod, Shoa, Koa. Probably Aramean tribes east of the Tigris River.

'I will delegate judgment to them,
And they shall judge you according to their judgments.
25 I will set My [x]jealousy against you,
And they shall deal furiously with you;
They shall remove your nose and your ears,
And your remnant shall fall by the sword;
They shall take your sons and your daughters,
And your remnant shall be devoured by fire.
26 [y]They shall also strip you of your clothes
And take away your beautiful jewelry.

27 'Thus [z]I will make you cease your lewdness and your [a]harlotry
Brought from the land of Egypt,
So that you will not lift your eyes to them,
Nor remember Egypt anymore.'

28 "For thus says the Lord GOD: 'Surely I will deliver you into the hand of [b]those you hate, into the hand of those [c]from whom you alienated yourself. 29 [d]They will deal hatefully with you, take away all you have worked for, and [e]leave you naked and bare. The nakedness of your harlotry shall be uncovered, both your lewdness and your harlotry. 30 I will do these things to you because you have [f]gone as a harlot after the Gentiles, because you have become defiled by their idols. 31 You have walked in the way of your sister; therefore I will put her [g]cup in your hand.'

32 "Thus says the Lord GOD:

'You shall drink of your sister's cup,
The deep and wide one;
[h]You shall be laughed to scorn
And held in derision;
It contains much.
33 You will be filled with drunkenness and sorrow,
The cup of horror and desolation,
The cup of your sister Samaria.
34 You shall [i]drink and drain it,
You shall break its [j]shards,
And tear at your own breasts;
For I have spoken,'
Says the Lord GOD.

35 "Therefore thus says the Lord GOD:

'Because you [k]have forgotten Me and [l]cast Me behind your back,
Therefore you shall bear the penalty
Of your lewdness and your harlotry.' "

Both Sisters Judged

36 The LORD also said to me: "Son of man, will you [m]judge Oholah and Oholibah? Then [n]declare to them their abominations. 37 For they have committed adultery, and [o]blood is on their hands. They have committed adultery with their idols, and even sacrificed their sons [p]whom they bore to Me, passing them through the fire, to devour them. 38 Moreover they have done this to Me: They have [q]defiled My sanctuary on the same day and [r]profaned My Sabbaths. 39 For after they had slain their children for their idols, on the same day they came into My sanctuary to profane it; and indeed [s]thus they have done in the midst of My house.

40 "Furthermore you sent for men to come from afar, [t]to whom a messenger was sent; and there they came. And you [u]washed yourself for them, [v]painted your eyes, and adorned yourself with ornaments. 41 You sat on a stately [w]couch, with a table prepared before it, [x]on which you had set My incense and My oil. 42 The sound of a carefree multitude was with her, and [6]Sabeans were brought from the wilderness with men of the common sort, who put bracelets on their [7]wrists and beautiful crowns on their heads. 43 Then I said concerning her who had grown old in adulteries, 'Will they commit harlotry with her now, and she with them?' 44 Yet they went in to her, as men go in to a woman who plays the harlot; thus they went in to Oholah and Oholibah, the lewd women. 45 But righteous men will [x]judge them after the manner of adulteresses, and after the manner of women who shed blood, because they are adulteresses, and [y]blood is on their hands.

■ 23:29 naked and bare. See 16:35–41.
■ 23:31–34 The cup is a common metaphor in the Bible. In many cases it is symbolic of God's blessings (Ps. 16:5; 23:5; 116:13; 1 Cor. 10:16). It can also represent the anger of God (Ps. 75:7, 8; Is. 51:17–20; Jer. 25:15–29; 49:12; 51:7; Lam. 4:21; Hab. 2:16; Zech. 12:2; Rev. 14:9–11). This cup of wrath is mentioned by Jesus in the Garden of Gethsemane (Matt. 26:39, 42) and appears in John's account of Jesus' death (John 18:11; 19:28–30).

46 "For thus says the Lord GOD: [z]'Bring up an assembly against them, give them up to trouble and plunder. 47 [a]The assembly shall stone them with stones and [g]execute them with their swords; [b]they shall slay their sons and their daughters, and burn their houses with fire. 48 Thus [c]I will cause lewdness to cease from the land, [d]that all women may be taught not to practice your lewdness. 49 They shall repay you for your lewdness, and you shall [e]pay for your idolatrous sins. [f]Then you shall know that I am the Lord GOD.' "

Symbol of the Cooking Pot

24 Again, in the ninth year, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Son of man, write down the name of the day, this very day—the king of Babylon started his siege against Jerusalem [a]this very day. 3 [b]And utter a parable to the rebellious house, and say to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD:

[c]"Put on a pot, set it on,
And also pour water into it.
4 Gather pieces of meat in it,
Every good piece,
The thigh and the shoulder.
Fill it with choice [f]cuts;
5 Take the choice of the flock.
Also pile fuel bones under it,
Make it boil well,
And let the cuts simmer in it."

6 'Therefore thus says the Lord GOD:

"Woe to [d]the bloody city,
To the pot whose scum is in it,
And whose scum is not gone from it!
Bring it out piece by piece,
On which no [e]lot has fallen.
7 For her blood is in her midst;
She set it on top of a rock;
[f]She did not pour it on the ground,
To cover it with dust.
8 That it may raise up fury and take vengeance,
[g]I have set her blood on top of a rock,
That it may not be covered."

9 'Therefore thus says the Lord GOD:

8 [g][Matt. 7:2]

■ 24:1–14 Ezekiel provides another allegory. The image is a cooking pot, and two oracles applying it are introduced by the same phrase, "Woe to the bloody city" (vv. 6, 9).

■ 24:1 year. The date is ordinarily identified as January 15, 588 B.C. (see also 2 Kin. 25:1; Jer. 52:4). The beginning of the siege of the city was commemorated with a fast among the exiles (Zech. 8:19). God revealed to the prophet information about events taking place hundreds of miles away in Jerusalem.

■ 24:3 pot. Ezekiel has already used the image of a cooking pot in 11:2–12 (cf. Jer. 1:13, 14; Mic. 3:3). From this initial description it appears that preparations are being made for a festive meal; the best of meats are to be cooked.

■ 24:6 scum. The prophet looks at the corrosion (lit. "rust") in the pot and likens it to the bloodshed and guilt in the city. Though its occupants were removed piece by piece and dispersed to the far corners of the world, the guilt of the city remained like scum in the bottom of the pot. Compare the denunciation of the bloodshed in the city in 22:1–16; 36:18; 2 Kin. 21:16; 24:4; Is. 26:21; 59:7; Lam. 4:13; Hos. 4:2; Joel 3:21; Mic. 3:10.

■ 24:7 cover. Blood, shed and uncovered, cried out to be avenged; note the same concept in Gen. 4:10; Job 16:18.

[h]"Woe to the bloody city!
I too will make the pyre great.
10 Heap on the wood,
Kindle the fire;
Cook the meat well,
Mix in the spices,
And let the [2]cuts be burned up.

11 "Then set the pot empty on the coals,
That it may become hot and its bronze may burn,
That [i]its filthiness may be melted in it,
That its scum may be consumed.
12 She has [3]grown weary with [4]lies,
And her great scum has not gone from her.
Let her scum be in the fire!
13 In your [j]filthiness is lewdness.
Because I have cleansed you, and you were not cleansed,
You will [k]not be cleansed of your filthiness anymore,
[l]Till I have caused My fury to rest upon you.
14 [m]I, the LORD, have spoken it;
[n]It shall come to pass, and I will do it;
I will not hold back,
[o]Nor will I spare,
Nor will I relent;
According to your ways
And according to your deeds
[5]They will judge you,"
Says the Lord GOD.' "

The Prophet's Wife Dies

15 Also the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 16 "Son of man, behold, I take away from you the desire of your eyes with one stroke; yet you shall [p]neither mourn nor weep, nor shall your tears run down. 17 Sigh in silence, [q]make no mourning for the dead; [r]bind your turban on your head, and [s]put your sandals on your feet; [t]do not cover your [6]lips, and do not eat man's bread of sorrow."

18 So I spoke to the people in the morning, and at evening my wife died; and the next morning I did as I was commanded.

19 And the people said to me, [u]"Will you not tell us what these things signify to us, that you behave so?"

20 Then I answered them, "The word of the LORD came to me, saying, 21 'Speak to the house of Israel, "Thus says the Lord GOD: 'Behold, [v]I will profane My sanctuary, [7]your arrogant boast, the desire of your eyes, the [8]delight of your soul; [w]and your sons and daughters whom you left behind shall fall by the sword. 22 And you shall do as I have done; [x]you shall not cover your [9]lips nor eat man's bread of sorrow. 23 Your turbans shall be on your heads and your sandals on your feet; [y]you shall neither mourn nor weep, but [z]you shall pine away in your iniquities and mourn with one another. 24 Thus [a]Ezekiel is a sign to you; according to all that he has done you shall do; [b]and when this comes, [c]you shall know that I am the Lord GOD.' "

25 'And you, son of man—will it not be in the day when I take from them [d]their stronghold, their joy and their glory, the desire of their eyes, and [1]that on which they set their minds, their sons and their daughters: 26 on that day [e]one who escapes will come to you to let you hear it with your ears; 27 [f]on that day your mouth will be opened to him who has escaped; you shall speak and no longer be mute. Thus you will be a sign to them, and they shall know that I am the LORD.' "

■ 24:11 hot. The caldron is emptied in an effort to cleanse it, but the scum is so resistant that even heating the caldron white-hot will not purify it. God will destroy the city.

■ 24:16, 17 Customary mourning included lamenting and crying, removing headgear and covering the head with dust and ashes (Josh. 7:6; 1 Sam. 4:12; Job 2:12), removing sandals (2 Sam. 15:30; Is. 20:2), and covering the head or face (Esth. 6:12; Jer. 14:3, 4). Ezekiel would do none of these things; the ordinary practices associated with mourning were not sufficient to represent the depth of his sorrow.

■ 24:27 no longer be mute. See 3:26 and note. Ezekiel's message would be vindicated when word reached the exiles that Jerusalem has been destroyed, and he would be released from the silence God had imposed on him.

Proclamation Against Ammon

25 The word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Son of man, [a]set your face [b]against the Ammonites, and prophesy against them. 3 Say to the Ammonites, 'Hear the word of the Lord GOD! Thus says the Lord GOD: [c]"Because you said, 'Aha!' against My sanctuary when it was profaned, and against the land of Israel when it was desolate, and against the house of Judah when they went into captivity, 4 indeed, therefore, I will deliver you as a possession to the [1]men of the East, and they shall set their encampments among you and make their dwellings among you; they shall eat your fruit, and they shall drink your milk. 5 And I will make [d]Rabbah [e]a stable for camels and Ammon a resting place for flocks. [f]Then you shall know that I am the LORD."

6 'For thus says the Lord GOD: "Because you [g]clapped your hands, stamped your feet, and [h]rejoiced in heart with all your disdain for the land of Israel, 7 indeed, therefore, I will [i]stretch out My hand against you, and give you as plunder to the nations; I will cut you off from the peoples, and I will cause you to perish from the countries; I will destroy you, and you shall know that I am the LORD."

Proclamation Against Moab

8 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "Because [j]Moab and [k]Seir say, 'Look! The house of Judah is like all the nations,' 9 therefore, behold, I will clear the territory of Moab of cities, of the cities on its frontier, the glory of the country, Beth Jeshimoth, Baal Meon, and [l]Kirjathaim. 10 [m]To the men of the East I will give it as a possession, together with the Ammonites, that the Ammonites [n]may not be remembered among the nations. 11 And I will execute judgments upon Moab, and they shall know that I am the LORD."

Proclamation Against Edom

12 'Thus says the Lord GOD: [o]"Because of what Edom did against the house of Judah by taking vengeance, and has greatly offended by avenging itself on them," 13 therefore thus says the Lord GOD: "I will also stretch out My hand against Edom, cut off man and beast from it, and make it desolate from Teman; [2]Dedan shall fall by the sword. 14 [p]I will lay My vengeance on Edom by the hand of My people Israel, that they may do in Edom according to My anger and according to My fury; and they shall know My vengeance," says the Lord GOD.

Proclamation Against Philistia

15 'Thus says the Lord GOD: [q]"Because [r]the Philistines dealt vengefully and took vengeance with [3]a spiteful heart, to destroy because of the [4]old hatred," 16 therefore thus says the Lord GOD: [s]"I will stretch out My hand against the Philistines, and I will cut off the [t]Cherethites [u]and destroy the remnant of the seacoast. 17 I will [v]execute great vengeance on them with furious rebukes; [w]and they shall know that I am the LORD, when I lay My vengeance upon them." ' "

■ 25:1—32:32 Between warnings of the destruction of Jerusalem (chs. 1—24) and prophecies of hope and restoration (chs. 33—48), Ezekiel includes a section of oracles against foreign nations. Israel's prophets played an important role in the nation's warfare, often providing oracles concerning particular battles (1 Sam. 22:5; 1 Kin. 20:13, 14, 22; 22:5–23; 2 Kin. 3:11; 9:6, 7; 20:14; 2 Chr. 16:7; 20:14–20; 28:9; Jer. 28:8; 38:14). Archaeological evidence from the cultures surrounding Israel shows that they conducted ritual denunciations or rites of symbolic destruction. The nations denounced here by Ezekiel include most of the states of the ancient Near East, with Babylon as a notable exception (38:2 note).

■ 25:1–7 Ezekiel had already spoken against Ammon (21:28–32). Israel's relationship with the Ammonites was long and varied, primarily a record of conflict. Oracles against Ammon are also found in Jer. 49:1–6; Amos 1:13–15; Zeph. 2:8, 9.

■ 25:5 you shall know. See note on 6:7.

■ 25:6, 7 Because . . . therefore. The punishment fits the crime: rejoicing at the harm done to Jerusalem, the Ammonites themselves become prey to a foreign power. Though many of the small states in the area escaped the destruction during the Babylonian invasion of 587–586 B.C., sources outside the Bible indicate that Nebuchadnezzar decimated Ammon and Moab in 582 B.C. The prophet makes the same point in 21:28–32.

■ 25:8 Moab. Israel's relationships with Moab were largely a history of conflict; other prophets include oracles against this nation (Is. 15; 16; Jer. 48; Amos 2:1–3; Zeph. 2:8, 9). Moab would share Ammon's fate.

■ 25:12 Edom. Edom made incursions into Judah at the time of Jerusalem's fall (35:15; 36:5; Ps. 137:7–9; Lam. 4:21, 22). The enmity between Israel and Edom is traced in the Bible to the relationship between Jacob and Esau (Gen. 25:23, 30). Ezekiel includes a second oracle against Edom in ch. 35; other prophets make pronouncements against this state in Is. 34:5–11; Jer. 49:7–22; Amos 1:11, 12; Obad.; Mal. 1:3–5.

■ 25:15 Philistines. The nations mentioned thus far were east of the Jordan River and the Dead Sea. The Philistines occupied the coastal plain west of Judah, controlling a long segment of the vital international coastal highway. Conflicting territorial claims and competing strategic interests made for a history of unfriendly relations with Israel. Ezekiel had already spoken of this enmity (16:27, 57). Other prophets also include oracles against the Philistines (Is. 14:29–31; Jer. 47; Joel 3:4–6; Amos 1:6–8; Zeph. 2:4–7; Zech. 9:5–7). The Philistines were Israel's most prominent enemy in the time of the judges and of Saul, David, and Solomon.

■ 25:16 Cherethites. The Philistines appear to have entered Canaan in the latter half of the second millennium B.C. as part of the large migration of peoples known from Egyptian records as the "sea peoples." One group of Philistines was identified as "Cherethites," probably associating them with Crete. See 1 Sam. 30:14 note.

Proclamation Against Tyre

26 And it came to pass in the eleventh year, on the first day of the month, that the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Son of man, [a]because Tyre has said against Jerusalem, [b]'Aha! She is broken who was the gateway of the peoples; now she is turned over to me; I shall be filled; she is laid waste.'

3 "Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: 'Behold, I am against you, O Tyre, and will cause many nations to come up against you, as the sea causes its waves to come up. 4 And they shall destroy the walls of Tyre and break down her towers; I will also scrape her dust from her, and [c]make her like the top of a rock. 5 It shall be a place for spreading nets [d]in the midst of the sea, for I have spoken,' says the Lord GOD; 'it shall become plunder for the nations. 6 Also her daughter villages which are in the fields shall be slain by the sword. [e]Then they shall know that I am the LORD.'

7 "For thus says the Lord GOD: 'Behold, I will bring against Tyre from the north [f]Nebuchadnezzar[f] king of Babylon, [g]king of kings, with horses, with chariots, and with horsemen, and an army with many people. 8 He will slay with the sword your daughter villages in the fields; he will [h]heap up a siege mound against you, build a wall against you, and raise a [2]defense against you. 9 He will direct his battering rams against your walls, and with his axes he will break down your towers. 10 Because of the abundance of his horses, their dust will cover you; your walls will shake at the noise of the horsemen, the wagons, and the chariots, when he enters your gates, as men enter a city that has been breached. 11 With the hooves of his [i]horses he will trample all your streets; he will slay your people by the sword, and your strong pillars will fall to the ground. 12 They will plunder your riches and pillage your merchandise; they will break down your walls and destroy your pleasant houses; they will lay your stones, your timber, and your soil in the [j]midst of the water. 13 [k]I will put an end to the sound of [l]your songs, and the sound of your harps shall be heard no more. 14 [m]I will make you like the top of a rock; you shall be a place for spreading nets, and you shall never be rebuilt, for I the LORD have spoken,' says the Lord GOD.

15 "Thus says the Lord GOD to Tyre: 'Will the coastlands not [n]shake at the sound of your fall, when the wounded cry, when slaughter is made in the midst of you? 16 Then all the [o]princes of the sea will [p]come down from their thrones, lay aside their robes, and take off their embroidered garments; they will clothe themselves with trembling; [q]they will sit on the ground, [r]tremble every moment, and [s]be astonished at you. 17 And they will take up a [t]lamentation for you, and say to you:

"How you have perished,
O one inhabited by seafaring men,
O renowned city,
Who was [u]strong at sea,
She and her inhabitants,
Who caused their terror to be on all her inhabitants!
18 Now [v]the coastlands tremble on the day of your fall;
Yes, the coastlands by the sea are troubled at your departure." '

19 "For thus says the Lord GOD: 'When I make you a desolate city, like cities that are not inhabited, when I bring the deep upon you, and great waters cover you, 20 then I will bring you down [w]with those who descend into the Pit, to the people of old, and I will make you dwell in

■ 26:1—28:26 Ezek. 26—28 is devoted to oracles against Israel's Phoenician neighbors, primarily Tyre (26:1—28:19), but also Sidon (28:20–26). The chapters are divided into subsections, each introduced with the phrase "the word of the LORD came to me" (26:1; 27:1; 28:1, 11, 20). There was occasional military conflict between Israel and the Phoenicians, but the Bible mentions Tyre and Sidon primarily as the source of pagan cults, especially the Baal worship of Jezebel, a Phoenician princess (Judg. 10:6; 1 Kin. 11:1, 5, 33; 16:31; 2 Kin. 23:13). The Phoenicians provided Israel with trade and expert labor (2 Sam. 5:11; 1 Kin. 5:1, 6; 7:13, 14; 9:11; 2 Chr. 2:3, 13, 14; Ezra 3:7; Neh. 13:16; Acts 12:20). Other prophetic books also include oracles against Tyre and Sidon (Is. 23; Joel 3:4–6; Amos 1:9, 10; Zech. 9:2–4).

■ 26:2 be filled. The kingdom of Judah at times controlled trade routes leading through the coastal plains to Egypt, as well as Arabia and Africa via the port of Ezion Geber. Tyre would profit if Jerusalem lost control of these trade routes.

■ 26:7 Tyre. Shortly after the fall of Jerusalem, Nebuchadnezzar laid siege to Tyre. The part of the city on the mainland fell quickly in 585 B.C., but the island fortress defied the armies of Babylon for thirteen years, until 572 B.C. (29:17, 18).

■ 26:19, 20 waters . . . Pit. Waters and a pit are common biblical metaphors for death or the realm of the dead (waters: Ex. 15:5, 8, 10; Job 26:5; Ps. 32:6; 69:2, 14; Lam. 3:54. Pit: 31:14, 16; 32:18, 23, 24, 30; Job 33:18–30; Ps. 30:3, 9; 55:23; 88:4–6; 103:4; 143:7; Prov. 1:12; Is. 14:15; 38:18). These two images are combined in 28:8; Ps. 69:15; Jon. 2:5, 6. The prophet describes the mythological waters of chaos engulfing the island and its inhabitants (28:2 note).

Lamentation for Tyre

27 The word of the LORD came again to me, saying, 2 "Now, son of man, [a]take up a lamentation for Tyre, 3 and say to Tyre, [b]'You who [1]are situated at the entrance of the sea, [c]merchant of the peoples on many coastlands, thus says the Lord GOD:

"O Tyre, you have said,
[d]'I am perfect in beauty.'
4 Your borders are in the midst of the seas.
Your builders have perfected your beauty.
5 They [2]made all your planks of fir trees from [e]Senir;
They took a cedar from Lebanon to make you a mast.
6 Of [f]oaks from Bashan they made your oars;
The company of Ashurites have inlaid your planks
With ivory from [g]the coasts of [3]Cyprus.
7 Fine embroidered linen from Egypt was what you spread for your sail;
Blue and purple from the coasts of Elishah was what covered you.

8 "Inhabitants of Sidon and Arvad were your oarsmen;
Your wise men, O Tyre, were in you;
They became your pilots.
9 Elders of [h]Gebal and its wise men
Were in you to caulk your seams;
All the ships of the sea
And their oarsmen were in you
To market your merchandise.

10 "Those from Persia, [4]Lydia, and [5]Libya
Were in your army as men of war;
They hung shield and helmet in you;
They gave splendor to you.
11 Men of Arvad with your army were on your walls all around,
And the men of Gammad were in your towers;
They hung their shields on your walls all around;
They made [i]your beauty perfect.

12 [j]"Tarshish was your merchant because of your many luxury goods. They gave you silver, iron, tin, and lead for your goods. 13 [k]Javan, Tubal, and Meshech were your traders. They bartered [l]human lives and vessels of bronze for your merchandise. 14 Those from the house of [m]Togarmah traded for your wares with horses, steeds, and mules. 15 The men of [n]Dedan were your traders; many isles were the market of your hand. They brought you ivory tusks and ebony as payment. 16 Syria was your merchant because of the abundance of goods you made. They gave you for your wares emeralds, purple, embroidery, fine linen, corals, and rubies. 17 Judah and the land of Israel were your traders. They traded for your merchandise wheat of [o]Minnith,

■ 27:3–6 The island city of Tyre is compared to a luxurious ship made of the finest materials and manned by an experienced crew.

■ 27:5 Senir. The Amorite name for Mount Hermon (Deut. 3:9).

■ 27:7 Elishah. Probably in Cyprus.

■ 27:8 Arvad. An island city about two miles off the Mediterranean coast north of Byblos.

■ 27:9 Gebal. Another name for Byblos on the Mediterranean coast north of Tyre.

■ 27:11 Gammad. Probably in northern Syria.

■ 27:13 Tubal, and Meshech. These peoples (32:26; 38:2, 3; 39:1; Gen. 10:2; 1 Chr. 1:5) were in Asia Minor, in the northeast corner of the Mediterranean. They are also known from Assyrian inscriptions.

■ 27:14 Togarmah. A region of northeast Asia Minor (modern Turkey).

■ 27:17 were your traders. Tyre was a maritime power and probably not self-sufficient in agriculture. The Bible several times mentions her trade with Israel for foodstuffs (1 Kin. 5:9–11; 2 Chr. 2:10; Ezra 3:7; Acts 12:20).

Minnith. A town east of the Jordan near Rabbah in Ammon (modern Amman), though the site has not been identified precisely (Judg. 11:33).

millet, honey, oil, and [p]balm. 18 Damascus was your merchant because of the abundance of goods you made, because of your many luxury items, with the wine of Helbon and with white wool. 19 Dan and Javan paid for your wares, [6]traversing back and forth. Wrought iron, cassia, and cane were among your merchandise. 20 [q]Dedan was your merchant in saddlecloths for riding. 21 Arabia and all the princes of [r]Kedar were your regular merchants. They traded with you in lambs, rams, and goats. 22 The merchants of [s]Sheba and Raamah were your merchants. They traded for your wares the choicest spices, all kinds of precious stones, and gold. 23 [t]Haran, Canneh, Eden, the merchants of [u]Sheba, Assyria, and Chilmad were your merchants. 24 These were your merchants in choice items—in purple clothes, in embroidered garments, in chests of multicolored apparel, in sturdy woven cords, which were in your marketplace.

25 "The [v]ships of Tarshish were carriers of your merchandise.
You were filled and very glorious [w]in the midst of the seas.
26 Your oarsmen brought you into many waters,
But [x]the east wind broke you in the midst of the seas.

27 "Your [y]riches, wares, and merchandise,
Your mariners and pilots,
Your caulkers and merchandisers,
All your men of war who are in you,
And the entire company which is in your midst,
Will fall into the midst of the seas on the day of your ruin.
28 The [z]common-land[7] will shake at the sound of the cry of your pilots.

29 "All [a]who handle the oar,
The mariners,
All the pilots of the sea
Will come down from their ships and stand on the [8]shore.
30 They will make their voice heard because of you;
They will cry bitterly and [b]cast dust on their heads;
They [c]will roll about in ashes;
31 They will [d]shave themselves completely bald because of you,
Gird themselves with sackcloth,
And weep for you
With bitterness of heart and bitter wailing.
32 In their wailing for you
They will [e]take up a lamentation,
And lament for you:
[f]'What city is like Tyre,
Destroyed in the midst of the sea?

33 'When[g] your wares went out by sea,
You satisfied many people;
You enriched the kings of the earth
With your many luxury goods and your merchandise.
34 But [h]you are broken by the seas in the depths of the waters;
[i]Your merchandise and the entire company will fall in your midst.
35 [j]All the inhabitants of the isles will be astonished at you;
Their kings will be greatly afraid,
And their countenance will be troubled.

■ 27:18 Helbon. A town northwest of Damascus. Akkadian texts and Greek historians mention the wine from this region.

■ 27:19 Dan and Javan. There is a much debated textual difficulty here and translators differ on how to render these names.

■ 27:22 Raamah. A region in southern Arabia (Gen. 10:7; 1 Chr. 1:9).

■ 27:23 Canneh. Probably a city in northern Syria otherwise spelled "Calneh" (Amos 6:2) or "Calno" (Is. 10:9).

Eden. Beth Eden, a city located between the Euphrates and Balikh rivers (2 Kin. 19:12; Is. 37:12; Amos 1:5).

Chilmad. This name is otherwise unknown and may be a copyist's error for the words "all of Media."

■ 27:25–36 No one thought Tyre could be defeated. But her strength, her wealth, and her skill were no match for seas that obeyed the command of God. Tyre's fate would be a warning to all other nations that watched from the shore.

36 The merchants among the peoples [k]will hiss at you;
[l]You will become a horror, and be no [m]more forever.' " ' "

Proclamation Against the King of Tyre

28 The word of the LORD came to me again, saying, 2 "Son of man, say to the prince of Tyre, 'Thus says the Lord GOD:

"Because your heart is [a]lifted[l] up,
And [b]you say, 'I am a god,
I sit in the seat of gods,
[c]In the midst of the seas,'
[d]Yet you are a man, and not a god,
Though you set your heart as the heart of a god
3 (Behold, [e]you are wiser than Daniel!
There is no secret that can be hidden from you!
4 With your wisdom and your understanding
You have gained [f]riches for yourself,
And gathered gold and silver into your treasuries;
5 [g]By your great wisdom in trade you have increased your riches,
And your heart is lifted up because of your riches),"

6 'Therefore thus says the Lord GOD:

"Because you have set your heart as the heart of a god,
7 Behold, therefore, I will bring [h]strangers against you,
[i]The most terrible of the nations;
And they shall draw their swords against the beauty of your wisdom,
And defile your splendor.
8 They shall throw you down into the [j]Pit,
And you shall die the death of the slain
In the midst of the seas.

9 "Will you still [k]say before him who slays you,
'I am a god'?
But you shall be a man, and not a god,
In the hand of him who slays you.
10 You shall die the death of [l]the uncircumcised
By the hand of aliens;
For I have spoken," says the Lord GOD.' "

Lamentation for the King of Tyre

■ 28:2 a god . . . in the midst of the seas. In the ancient Near East, the watery depths of the primeval ocean are a standard symbol for the powers of chaos and death. Archaeologists have discovered more than one mythical creation account in which "the Sea" appears as a dragon or sea monster to be killed by the gods. The threat of chaos to the created order is subdued and the gods rule the waves. In the Bible the sea is no threat to God; it obeys His commands. Ezekiel describes how the king of Tyre had become proud of the city's wealth and power, and had begun to flatter himself as a god ruling over the sea (cf. Ps. 29:10; Rev. 17:1, 15). But the sea would swallow him (v. 8; 29:3 note).

■ 28:3 Daniel. See 14:14 note.

■ 28:12 a lamentation. See note on 19:1–14.

king of Tyre. Ethbaal ruled Tyre at this time. The prophet describes the way God had favored Ethbaal by portraying the king as a primeval being, a figure like Adam, the crown and epitome of creation, living in the garden paradise that God had made. He remained there until wickedness was found in him (v. 15). Some take the prophet to be comparing the king of Tyre to Satan, a glorious being who fell from grace (1 Tim. 3:6).

■ 28:13, 14 garden . . . mountain. The prophet joins two images for the dwelling place of God, a garden (Gen. 2; 3) and a mountain (20:40; Ex. 19:23; Deut. 33:2; Ps. 43:3; 48:1; 87:1; 99:9; Is. 27:13; 56:7; 57:13; 66:20). The temple was built on a mountain and was decorated with floral motifs (40:16–37; 41:18–20, 25–27; 1 Kin. 6:29, 32, 35; 7:18, 20, 22, 36, 42; 2 Chr. 3:5).

15 You were perfect in your ways from the day you were created,
Till [s]iniquity was found in you.

16 "By the abundance of your trading
You became filled with violence within,
And you sinned;
Therefore I cast you as a profane thing
Out of the mountain of God;
And I destroyed you, [t]O covering cherub,
From the midst of the fiery stones.

17 "Your [u]heart was [z]lifted up because of your beauty;
You corrupted your wisdom for the sake of your splendor;
I cast you to the ground,
I laid you before kings,
That they might gaze at you.

18 "You defiled your sanctuaries

By the iniquity of your trading;

Proclamation Against Sidon

20 Then the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 21 "Son of man, [x]set your face [y]toward Sidon, and prophesy against her, 22 and say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD:

[z]"Behold, I am against you, O Sidon;
I will be glorified in your midst;
And [a]they shall know that I am the LORD,
When I execute judgments in her and am [b]hallowed in her.
23 [c]For I will send pestilence upon her,
And blood in her streets;
The wounded shall be judged in her midst
By the sword against her on every side;
Then they shall know that I am the LORD.

24 "And there shall no longer be a pricking brier or [d]a painful thorn for the house of Israel from among all who are around them, who [e]despise them. Then they shall know that I am the Lord GOD."

Israel's Future Blessing

25 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "When I have [f]gathered the house of Israel from the peoples among whom they are scattered, and am [g]hallowed in them in the sight of the Gentiles, then they will dwell in their own land which I gave to My servant Jacob. 26 And they will [h]dwell [3]safely there, [i]build houses, and [j]plant vineyards; yes, they will dwell securely, when I execute judgments on all those around them who despise them. Then they shall know that I am the LORD their God." ' "

Proclamation Against Egypt

29 In the tenth year, in the tenth month, on the twelfth day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Son of man, [a]set your face against Pharaoh king of Egypt, and prophesy against him, and [b]against all Egypt. 3 Speak, and say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD:

[c]"Behold, I am against you,
O Pharaoh king of Egypt,
O great [d]monster who lies in the midst of his rivers,
[e]Who has said, 'My [1]River is my own;
I have made it for myself.'
4 But [f]I will put hooks in your jaws,
And cause the fish of your rivers to stick to your scales;
I will bring you up out of the midst of your rivers,
And all the fish in your rivers will stick to your scales.
5 I will leave you in the wilderness,
You and all the fish of your rivers;
You shall fall on the [2]open [g]field;
[h]You shall not be picked up or [3]gathered.
[i]I have given you as food
To the beasts of the field
And to the birds of the heavens.

6 "Then all the inhabitants of Egypt
Shall know that I am the LORD,
Because they have been a [j]staff of reed to the house of Israel.
7 [k]When they took hold of you with the hand,
You broke and tore all their [4]shoulders;
When they leaned on you,
You broke and made all their backs quiver."

8 'Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: "Surely I will bring [l]a sword upon you and cut off from you man and beast. 9 And the land of Egypt shall become [m]desolate and waste; then they will know that I am the LORD, because he said, 'The River is mine, and I have made it.' 10 Indeed, therefore, I am against you and against your rivers, [n]and I will make the land of Egypt utterly

■ 28:25 gathered. God would bring His people back to their land. Israel would flourish since the nations that had been her adversaries had been eliminated.

■ 28:26 vineyards. The prophets often describe God's future blessing of Israel in terms of agricultural prosperity (36:29, 30; 1 Kin. 4:25; Is. 65:21, 22; Jer. 32:15; Joel 3:18; Amos 9:13–15; Mic. 4:4; Zech. 3:10).

■ 29:1—32:32 The proclamations against foreign nations in chs. 25—28 were directed largely against lesser states and immediate neighbors of Israel. However, these four chapters are directed against Egypt, one of the great empires of the ancient world. The chapters contain seven prophecies against Egypt; all are dated (29:1, 17; 30:20; 31:1; 32:1, 17) except the oracle beginning in 30:1.

■ 29:1 year. This was in 587 B.C., about a year after Nebuchadnezzar had laid siege to Jerusalem. See note on 24:1.

■ 29:3 monster. Egypt is likened to a sea monster (vv. 3–5). The term used can designate both the abundant crocodiles of the Nile and the sea monster that represented chaos in the mythology of the ancient Near East. The Bible calls this mythological creature "monster," "Leviathan," or "Rahab" (32:2; Job 3:8; 7:12; 9:13 text note; 41:1; Ps. 74:13, 14; 89:10; Is. 27:1; 30:7; 51:9; cf. Rev. 12:15; 20:2). "Rahab" is also used as a poetic designation of Egypt (Ps. 87:4; Is. 30:7). In the mythology of the cultures surrounding Israel this sea monster was a god who rivaled other gods, but in the Bible it was simply another creature living in submission to the command of Yahweh.

■ 29:4 hooks. God would pluck this monster from the sea as easily as anglers haul in fish; He would leave it rotting on the shore. See note on 28:2.

■ 29:5 food To the beasts. The birds and animals had been given to mankind as food (Gen. 1:30; 9:2, 3); the reversal of this relationship is a proverbial curse (32:4; Deut. 28:26; Ps. 79:2; Jer. 7:33; 15:3; 16:4; 19:7; 34:20).

■ 29:6 reed. Ezekiel's description of Egypt as a splintered reed recalls the Assyrian field commander's similar comments to Hezekiah (2 Kin. 18:21).

■ 29:10 Migdol to Syene. That is, from north to south (see also 30:6).

waste and desolate, [o]from [5]Migdol to Syene, as far as the border of Ethiopia. 11 [p]Neither foot of man shall pass through it nor foot of beast pass through it, and it shall be uninhabited forty years. 12 [q]I will make the land of Egypt desolate in the midst of the countries that are desolate; and among the cities that are laid waste, her cities shall be desolate forty years; and I will [r]scatter the Egyptians among the nations and disperse them throughout the countries."

13 'Yet, thus says the Lord GOD: "At the [s]end of forty years I will gather the Egyptians from the peoples among whom they were scattered. 14 I will bring back the captives of Egypt and cause them to return to the land of Pathros, to the land of their origin, and there they shall be a [t]lowly kingdom. 15 It shall be the lowliest of kingdoms; it shall never again exalt itself above the nations, for I will diminish them so that they will not rule over the nations anymore. 16 No longer shall it be [u]the confidence of the house of Israel, but will remind them of their iniquity when they turned to follow them. Then they shall know that I am the Lord GOD." ' "

Babylonia Will Plunder Egypt

17 And it came to pass in the twenty-seventh year, in the first month, on the first day of the month, that the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 18 "Son of man, [v]Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon caused his army to labor strenuously against Tyre; every head was made [w]bald, and every shoulder rubbed raw; yet neither he nor his army received wages from Tyre, for the labor which they expended on it. 19 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: 'Surely I will give the land of Egypt to [x]Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon; he shall take away her wealth, carry off her spoil, and remove her pillage; and that will be the wages for his army. 20 I have given him the land of Egypt for his labor, because they [y]worked for Me,' says the Lord GOD.

21 'In that day [z]I will cause the [6]horn of the house of Israel to spring forth, and I will [a]open your mouth to speak in their midst. Then they shall know that I am the LORD.' "

Egypt and Her Allies Will Fall

30 The word of the LORD came to me again, saying, 2 "Son of man, prophesy and say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD:

[a]"Wail, 'Woe to the day!'
3 For [b]the day is near,
Even the day of the LORD is near;
It will be a day of clouds, the time of the Gentiles.
4 The sword shall come upon Egypt,
And great anguish shall be in [1]Ethiopia,
When the slain fall in Egypt,
And they [c]take away her wealth,
And [d]her foundations are broken down.

5 "Ethiopia, [2]Libya, [3]Lydia, [e]all the mingled people, Chub, and the men of the lands who are allied, shall fall with them by the sword."

6 'Thus says the LORD:

"Those who uphold Egypt shall fall,
And the pride of her power shall come down.
[f]From [4]Migdol to Syene
Those within her shall fall by the sword,"
Says the Lord GOD.

Migdol was in northern Egypt, a site on the route of the Exodus (Ex. 14:2; Num. 33:7; Jer. 44:1; 46:14). Syene was in southern Egypt at the first cataract on the Nile. It was the terminal point for deep water navigation of the Nile and represented Egypt's southern frontier.

■ 29:11 forty years. It is difficult to fix a definite historical period of forty years for an Egyptian exile; the number may have been symbolic rather than intended as a definite period.

■ 29:17 year. This oracle was delivered in April, 571 B.C., sixteen years after the preceding oracle (29:1). It is the latest date mentioned in the book.

■ 29:18 wages from Tyre. Nebuchadnezzar's siege of Tyre had lasted for thirteen years (26:7 note). The siege was long and expensive, and the rewards did not repay the effort.

■ 29:21 horn. A horn is a common symbol for political power in the Bible (Deut. 33:17; 1 Sam. 2:10; 2 Sam. 22:3; Ps. 18:2; 75:4, 5, 10; 89:24; 92:10; 112:9; 132:17; 148:14; Jer. 48:25; Lam. 2:3, 17; Dan. 7:7, 8, 20, 21; Zech. 1:18–21; Rev. 17:12). This oracle against Egypt ends by finding hope for Israel; compare 28:24–26.

8 Then they will know that I am the LORD,
When I have set a fire in Egypt
And all her helpers are destroyed.
9 On that day [h]messengers shall go forth from Me in ships
To make the [5]careless Ethiopians afraid,
And great anguish shall come upon them,
As on the day of Egypt;
For indeed it is coming!"

10 'Thus says the Lord GOD:

[i]"I will also make a multitude of Egypt to cease
By the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon.
11 He and his people with him, [j]the most terrible of the nations,
Shall be brought to destroy the land;
They shall draw their swords against Egypt,

And [l]sell the land into the hand of the wicked;
I will make the land waste, and all that is in it,

And cause the images to cease from [6]Noph;
[n]There shall no longer be princes from the land of Egypt;
[o]I will put fear in the land of Egypt.
14 I will make [p]Pathros desolate,
Set fire to [q]Zoan,

15 I will pour My fury on [8]Sin, the strength of Egypt;
[s]I will cut off the multitude of [9]No,

And these cities shall go into captivity.
18 [u]At [2]Tehaphnehes the day shall also be [3]darkened,

And her daughters shall go into captivity.
19 Thus I will [v]execute judgments on Egypt,
Then they shall know that I am the LORD." ' "

Proclamation Against Pharaoh

■ 30:20 year. April, 587 B.C.

■ 30:21 arm. Pharaoh Hophra had sent an army to the assistance of Pharaoh king of Egypt; and see, [x]it has not been bandaged for healing, nor a [4]splint put on to bind it, to make it strong enough to hold a sword. 22 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: 'Surely I am [y]against Pharaoh king of Egypt, and will [z]break his arms, both the strong one and the one that was broken; and I will make the sword fall out of his hand. 23 [a]I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and disperse them throughout the countries. 24 I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon and put My sword in his hand; but I will break Pharaoh's arms, and he will groan before him with the groanings of a mortally wounded man. 25 Thus I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon, but the arms of Pharaoh shall fall down; [b]they shall know that I am the LORD, when I put My sword into the hand of the king of Babylon and he stretches it out against the land of Egypt. 26 [c]I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations and disperse them throughout the countries. Then they shall know that I am the LORD.' "

Egypt Cut Down Like a Great Tree

31 Now it came to pass in the [a]eleventh year, in the third month, on the first day of the month, that the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Son of man, say to Pharaoh king of Egypt and to his multitude:

[b]'Whom are you like in your greatness?
3 [c]Indeed Assyria was a cedar in Lebanon,
With fine branches that shaded the forest,
And of high stature;
And its top was among the thick boughs.
4 [d]The waters made it grow;
Underground waters gave it height,
With their rivers running around the place where it was planted,
And sent out [f]rivulets to all the trees of the field.

5 'Therefore [e]its height was exalted above all the trees of the field;
Its boughs were multiplied,
And its branches became long because of the abundance of water,
As it sent them out.
6 All the [f]birds of the heavens made their nests in its boughs;
Under its branches all the beasts of the field brought forth their young;
And in its shadow all great nations [2]made their home.

7 'Thus it was beautiful in greatness and in the length of its branches,
Because its roots reached to abundant waters.
8 The cedars in the [g]garden of God could not hide it;
The fir trees were not like its boughs,
And the [3]chestnut trees were not like its branches;
No tree in the garden of God was like it in beauty.
9 I made it beautiful with a multitude of branches,
So that all the trees of Eden envied it,
That were in the garden of God.'

10 "Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: 'Because you have increased in height, and it set its top among the thick boughs, and [h]its heart was [4]lifted up in its height, 11 therefore I will deliver it into the hand of the [i]mighty one of the nations, and he shall surely deal with it; I have driven it

Zedekiah, but it was repulsed (Jer. 37:1–10; cf. Ezek. 17:15–17; 29:6, 7). The "arm" is a figure for military power. The exiles living in Babylon and the people in Jerusalem had hoped that Pharaoh would defeat Babylon, but this prophecy denies them. Instead, Babylon will break the arm of Pharaoh, leaving him unable to handle a sword, and useless as an ally for Israel.

■ 31:1 year. June, 587 B.C., a few months after the preceding oracle (30:20). Jerusalem was besieged and within weeks of being destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar.

■ 31:3 Assyria. The prophet uses the fate of Assyria as a warning to Egypt, for the once powerful Assyrian Empire had collapsed between 640 and 609 B.C. Some scholars think it unlikely that in an oracle against Egypt the primary focus should fall on Assyria (vv. 3–17). They suggest that a copyist's error has altered one of the consonants in the text, and translate "Assyria" as "cypress" or "to what can I compare you," a better parallel with the last clause in v. 2. With this correction, the whole passage is about Egypt.

cedar. Ezekiel has already used a similar symbol (ch. 17). Great trees can tower hundreds of feet and live for thousands of years; they provide an apt metaphor for kingdoms and dynasties (17:22–24). Much of the description of this tree resembles Nebuchadnezzar's dream in Dan. 4:1–12, 19–27. The lavishness of Ezekiel's description of this tree compares with the extravagance of his description of Tyre as a richly appointed merchant ship (27:3–11).

out for its wickedness. 12 And aliens, [j]the most terrible of the nations, have cut it down and left it; its branches have fallen [k]on the mountains and in all the valleys; its boughs lie [l]broken by all the rivers of the land; and all the peoples of the earth have gone from under its shadow and left it.

13 'On [m]its ruin will remain all the birds of the heavens,
And all the beasts of the field will come to its branches—

14 'So that no trees by the waters may ever again exalt themselves for their height, nor set their tops among the thick boughs, that no tree which drinks water may ever be high enough to reach up to them.

'For [n]they have all been delivered to death,
[o]To the depths of the earth,
Among the children of men who go down to the Pit.'

15 "Thus says the Lord GOD: 'In the day when it [p]went down to [5]hell, I caused mourning. I covered the deep because of it. I restrained its rivers, and the great waters were held back. I caused Lebanon to [6]mourn for it, and all the trees of the field wilted because of it. 16 I made the nations [q]shake at the sound of its fall, when I [r]cast it down to [7]hell together with those who descend into the Pit; and [s]all the trees of Eden, the choice and best of Lebanon, all that drink water, [t]were comforted in the depths of the earth. 17 They also went down to hell with it, with those slain by the sword; and those who were its strong arm [u]dwelt in its shadows among the nations.

18 [v]'To which of the trees in Eden will you then be likened in glory and greatness? Yet you shall be brought down with the trees of Eden to the depths of the earth; [w]you shall lie in the midst of the uncircumcised, with those slain by the sword. This is Pharaoh and all his multitude,' says the Lord GOD."

Lamentation for Pharaoh and Egypt

32 And it came to pass in the twelfth year, in the [a]twelfth month, on the first day of the month, that the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Son of man, [b]take up a lamentation for Pharaoh king of Egypt, and say to him:

[c]'You are like a young lion among the nations,
And [d]you are like a monster in the seas,
[e]Bursting forth in your rivers,
Troubling the waters with your feet,
And [f]fouling their rivers.'

3 "Thus says the Lord GOD:

'I will therefore [g]spread My net over you with a company of many people,
And they will draw you up in My net.
4 Then [h]I will leave you on the land;
I will cast you out on the open fields,
[i]And cause to [l]settle on you all the birds of the heavens.
And with you I will fill the beasts of the whole earth.
5 I will lay your flesh [j]on the mountains,
And fill the valleys with your carcass.

6 'I will also water the land with the flow of your blood,
Even to the mountains;

5 [j]Ezek. 31:12

■ 32:1 year. March, 585 B.C., two months after the exiles would have received news of the destruction of Jerusalem (33:21).

■ 32:2 monster. In the pagan mythology of the ancient Near East, the orderly universe emerges from chaos after a titanic battle between a god and a great sea monster or dragon called "Sea." After the battle, parts of the universe are created from the carcass of the dead monster. Ezekiel refers to this myth in several places (28:2 note; 29:3–5). Here Ezekiel compares Egypt to the great sea monster, terrible but destined to be defeated by the Lord.

■ 32:6–8 The language of this section is similar to that used to describe the day of the Lord in Is. 13:10; Joel 2:30, 31; 3:15; Amos 8:9. See note on 7:7. The appearance of God as a divine warrior is accompanied by convulsions in the created order. The universe dissolves into the chaos that existed before creation, when the heavens were dark (38:18–23 note). Here the extravagant imagery is not meant literally but is used in connection with the death of a Pharaoh.

And the riverbeds will be full of you.
7 When I put out your light,
[k]I will cover the heavens, and make its stars dark;
I will cover the sun with a cloud,
And the moon shall not give her light.
8 All the [2]bright lights of the heavens I will make dark over you,
And bring darkness upon your land,'
Says the Lord GOD.

9 'I will also trouble the hearts of many peoples, when I bring your destruction among the nations, into the countries which you have not known. 10 Yes, I will make many peoples astonished at you, and their kings shall be horribly afraid of you when I brandish My sword before them; and [l]they shall tremble every moment, every man for his own life, in the day of your fall.'
11 [m]"For thus says the Lord GOD: 'The sword of the king of Babylon shall come upon you. 12 By the swords of the mighty warriors, all of them [n]the most terrible of the nations, I will cause your multitude to fall.

[o]'They shall plunder the pomp of Egypt,
And all its multitude shall be destroyed.
13 Also I will destroy all its animals
From beside its great waters;
[p]The foot of man shall muddy them no more,
Nor shall the hooves of animals muddy them.
14 Then I will make their waters [3]clear,
And make their rivers run like oil,'
Says the Lord GOD.

15 'When I make the land of Egypt desolate,
And the country is destitute of all that once filled it,
When I strike all who dwell in it,
[q]Then they shall know that I am the LORD.

16 'This is the [r]lamentation
With which they shall lament her;
The daughters of the nations shall lament her;
They shall lament for her, for Egypt,
And for all her multitude,'
Says the Lord GOD."

Egypt and Others Consigned to the Pit

17 It came to pass also in the twelfth year, on the fifteenth day of the month, [s]that the word of the LORD came to me, saying:

18 "Son of man, wail over the multitude of Egypt,
And [t]cast them down to the depths of the earth,
Her and the daughters of the famous nations,
With those who go down to the Pit:
19 'Whom [u]do you surpass in beauty?
[v]Go down, be placed with the uncircumcised.'

20 "They shall fall in the midst of those slain by the sword;
She is delivered to the sword,
[w]Drawing her and all her multitudes.

■ 32:11 sword. God threatens to subdue the sea monster Egypt by bringing the armies of Babylon against her. The "sword of the king of Babylon" was in effect the sword of the Lord (ch. 21; 30:25).

■ 32:17 year. Probably the spring of 585 B.C.

■ 32:18 depths of the earth. The prophet describes the descent of Egypt into the underworld. The proud empire becomes just one more among the many states that preceded her (Assyria, v. 22; Elam, v. 24; Meshech and Tubal, v. 26; Edom, v. 29; Sidon and "the princes of the north," v. 30). The underworld ("Sheol" or "the grave") was commonly portrayed as a vast burial chamber where the dead had a shadowy and joyless existence. See note on Is. 14:9–11; also Gen. 37:35; Job 3:17–19; 7:9; 10:20–22; 17:13–16; Ps. 88:5, 11; 115:17; Prov. 1:12; 9:18; Eccl. 9:10; Is. 5:14; 38:18; Hab. 2:5.

21 [x] The strong among the mighty
Shall speak to him out of the midst of hell
With those who help him:
'They have [y] gone down,
They lie with the uncircumcised, slain by the sword.'

22 "Assyria[z] is there, and all her company,
With their graves all around her,
All of them slain, fallen by the sword.
23 [a] Her graves are set in the recesses of the Pit,
And her company is all around her grave,
All of them slain, fallen by the sword,
Who [b] caused terror in the land of the living.

24 "There is [c] Elam and all her multitude,
All around her grave,
All of them slain, fallen by the sword,
Who have [d] gone down uncircumcised to the lower parts of the earth,
[e] Who caused their terror in the land of the living;
Now they bear their shame with those who go down to the Pit.
25 They have set her [f] bed in the midst of the slain,
With all her multitude,
With her graves all around it,
All of them uncircumcised, slain by the sword;
Though their terror was caused
In the land of the living,
Yet they bear their shame
With those who go down to the Pit;
It was put in the midst of the slain.

26 "There are [g] Meshech and Tubal and all their multitudes,
With all their graves around it,
All of them [h] uncircumcised, slain by the sword,
Though they caused their terror in the land of the living.
27 [i] They do not lie with the mighty
Who are fallen of the uncircumcised,
Who have gone down to hell with their weapons of war;
They have laid their swords under their heads,
But their iniquities will be on their bones,
Because of the terror of the mighty in the land of the living.
28 Yes, you shall be broken in the midst of the uncircumcised,
And lie with those slain by the sword.

29 "There is [j] Edom,
Her kings and all her princes,
Who despite their might
Are laid beside those slain by the sword;
They shall lie with the uncircumcised,
And with those who go down to the Pit.
30 [k] There are the princes of the north,
All of them, and all the [l] Sidonians,
Who have gone down with the slain
In shame at the terror which they caused by their might;
They lie uncircumcised with those slain by the sword,
And bear their shame with those who go down to the Pit.

31 "Pharaoh will see them
And be [m]comforted over all his multitude,
Pharaoh and all his army,
Slain by the sword,"
Says the Lord GOD.

32 "For I have caused My terror in the land of the living;
And he shall be placed in the midst of the uncircumcised
With those slain by the sword,
Pharaoh and all his multitude,"
Says the Lord GOD.

The Watchman and His Message

33 Again the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Son of man, speak to [a]the children of your people, and say to them: [b]'When I bring the sword upon a land, and the people of the land take a man from their territory and make him their [c]watchman, 3 when he sees the sword coming upon the land, if he blows the trumpet and warns the people, 4 then whoever hears the sound of the trumpet and does [d]not take warning, if the sword comes and takes him away, [e]his blood shall be on his own head. 5 He heard the sound of the trumpet, but did not take warning; his blood shall be upon himself. But he who takes warning will [f]save his life. 6 But if the watchman sees the sword coming and does not blow the trumpet, and the people are not warned, and the sword comes and takes any person from among them, [f]he is taken away in his iniquity; but his blood I will require at the watchman's hand.'

7 [g]"So you, son of man: I have made you a watchman for the house of Israel; therefore you shall hear a word from My mouth and warn them for Me. 8 When I say to the wicked, 'O wicked man, you shall surely die!' and you do not speak to warn the wicked from his way, that wicked man shall die in his iniquity; but his blood I will require at your hand. 9 Nevertheless if you warn the wicked to turn from his way, and he does not turn from his way, he shall die in his iniquity; but you have [2]delivered your soul.

10 "Therefore you, O son of man, say to the house of Israel: 'Thus you say, "If our transgressions and our sins lie upon us, and we [h]pine[3] away in them, [i]how can we then live?" ' 11 Say to them: 'As I live,' says the Lord GOD, [j]'I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but that the wicked [k]turn from his way and live. Turn, turn from your evil ways! For [l]why should you die, O house of Israel?'

The Fairness of God's Judgment

12 "Therefore you, O son of man, say to the children of your people: 'The [m]righteousness of the righteous man shall not deliver him in the day of his transgression; as for the wickedness of the wicked, [n]he shall not fall because of it in the day that he turns from his wickedness; nor shall the righteous be able to live because of his righteousness in the day that he sins.' 13 When I say to the righteous that he shall surely live, [o]but he trusts in his own righteousness and commits iniquity, none of his righteous works shall be remembered; but because of the iniquity that he has committed, he shall die. 14 Again, [p]when I say to the wicked, 'You shall surely die,' if he turns from his sin and does [4]what is lawful and [5]right, 15 if the wicked [q]restores the pledge, [r]gives back what he has stolen, and walks in [s]the statutes of life without committing iniquity, he shall surely live; he shall not die. 16 [t]None of his sins which he has committed shall be remembered against him; he has done what is lawful and right; he shall surely live.

17 [u]"Yet the children of your people say, 'The way of the LORD is not [6]fair.' But it is their way which is not fair! 18 [v]When the righteous turns from his righteousness and commits iniquity, he shall die because of it. 19 But when the wicked turns from his wickedness and does what is lawful and right, he shall live because of it. 20 Yet you say, [w]'The way of the LORD is not [7]fair.' O house of Israel, I will judge every one of you according to his own ways."

■ 33:1–20 This chapter marks the beginning of the second part of Ezekiel. The first part of the book is primarily about Jerusalem in the past and present; the second part focuses on the future of the City of God. This part of the book begins by repeating two important themes: first, a reiteration of Ezekiel's call as watchman (vv. 1–9; cf. 3:16–21); and second, the doctrine of individual moral responsibility (vv. 10–20; ch. 18). The exiles hear the news of the destruction of Jerusalem in v. 21; the remainder of Ezekiel's utterances about Jerusalem do not anticipate judgment and destruction, but rather restoration.

The Fall of Jerusalem

21 And it came to pass in the twelfth year [x]of our captivity, in the tenth month, on the fifth day of the month, [y]that one who had escaped from Jerusalem came to me and said, [z]"The city has been [a]captured!"

22 Now [a]the hand of the LORD had been upon me the evening before the man came who had escaped. And He had [b]opened my mouth; so when he came to me in the morning, my mouth was opened, and I was no longer mute.

The Cause of Judah's Ruin

23 Then the word of the LORD came to me, saying: 24 "Son of man, [c]they who inhabit those [d]ruins in the land of Israel are saying, [e]'Abraham was only one, and he inherited the land. [f]But we are many; the land has been given to us as a [g]possession.'

25 "Therefore say to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: [h]"You eat meat with blood, you [i]lift up your eyes toward your idols, and [j]shed blood. Should you then possess the [k]land? 26 You rely on your sword, you commit abominations, and you [l]defile one another's wives. Should you then possess the land?" '

27 "Say thus to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "As I live, surely [m]those who are in the ruins shall fall by the sword, and the one who is in the open field [n]I will give to the beasts to be devoured, and those who are in the strongholds and [o]caves shall die of the pestilence. 28 [p]For I will make the land most desolate, [q]her [r]arrogant strength shall cease, and [r]the mountains of Israel shall be so desolate that no one will pass through. 29 Then they shall know that I am the LORD, when I have made the land most desolate because of all their abominations which they have committed." '

Hearing and Not Doing

30 "As for you, son of man, the children of your people are talking about you beside the walls and in the doors of the houses; and they [s]speak to one another, everyone saying to his brother, 'Please come and hear what the word is that comes from the LORD.' 31 So [t]they come to you as people do, they [u]sit before you as My people, and they [v]hear your words, but they do not do them; [w]for with their mouth they show much love, but [x]their hearts pursue their own gain. 32 Indeed you are to them as a very lovely song of one who has a pleasant voice and can play well on an instrument; for they hear your words, but they do [y]not do them. 33 [z]And when this comes to pass—surely it will come—then [a]they will know that a prophet has been among them."

Irresponsible Shepherds

34 And the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Son of man, prophesy against the shepherds of Israel, prophesy and say to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD to the shepherds: [a]"Woe to the shepherds of Israel who feed themselves! Should not the shepherds feed the flocks? 3 [b]You eat the fat and clothe yourselves with the wool; you [c]slaughter the fatlings, but you do not feed the flock. 4 [d]The weak you have not strengthened, nor have you healed those who were sick, nor bound up the broken, nor brought back what was driven away, nor [e]sought what was lost; but with [f]force and [f]cruelty you have ruled them. 5 [g]So they were [h]scattered because there was no shepherd; [i]and they became food for all the beasts of the field when they were scattered. 6 My sheep [j]wandered through all the mountains, and on every high hill; yes, My flock was scattered over the whole face of the earth, and no one was seeking or searching for them."

■ 33:21 year. Jerusalem was destroyed by fire in the fifth month of the eleventh year of Jehoiachin's rule (2 Kin. 25:8–10; Jer. 52:12–14). If news did not reach the exiles until the twelfth year, tenth month, it took over a year and a half for the news to travel a distance covered by Ezra in four months (Ezra 7:9). A few Hebrew texts and one ancient translation of the Bible read "eleventh" year instead of "twelfth"; the difference is only one letter in Hebrew, and "twelfth" could be the mistake of a copyist.

■ 33:22 opened my mouth. The prophet had been silent for a sustained period; see notes on 3:26 and 24:27. Now that the news of Jerusalem's destruction has reached the exiles, his mouth is opened, and Ezekiel addresses (a) those who remained in Judah after the destruction of the city (vv. 23–29) and (b) his fellow exiles (vv. 30–33).

■ 33:25 eat meat with blood. This practice was forbidden in Gen. 9:4; Lev. 7:26, 27; 17:10; Deut. 12:16, 23.

■ 33:26 wives. See 18:6, 11, 15.

■ 33:30 talking about you. Ezekiel had been ignored and even ridiculed, but now that events had confirmed the truth of his words, he had become popular with the people. But they still were not hearing, still not listening so as to repent and obey (v. 11).

■ 33:32 lovely song. Now the exiles had begun to see Ezekiel as a source of entertainment. Hearing him seemed to be a way of passing an idle evening or afternoon (cf. 20:49 note).

■ 34:2–10 Sheep that are weak, injured, or ill are the special care of a good shepherd, but Israel's kings often ignored this basic rule. See Ps. 9:18 note.

7 Therefore, you shepherds, hear the word of the LORD: 8 "As I live," says the Lord GOD, "surely because My flock became a prey, and My flock [k]became food for every beast of the field, because there was no shepherd, nor did My shepherds search for My flock, [l]but the shepherds fed themselves and did not feed My flock"— 9 therefore, O shepherds, hear the word of the LORD! 10 Thus says the Lord GOD: "Behold, I am [m]against the shepherds, and [n]I will require My flock at their hand; I will cause them to cease feeding the sheep, and the shepherds shall [o]feed themselves no more; for I will [p]deliver My flock from their mouths, that they may no longer be food for them."

God, the True Shepherd

11 'For thus says the Lord GOD: "Indeed I Myself will search for My sheep and seek them out. 12 As a [q]shepherd seeks out his flock on the day he is among his scattered sheep, so will I seek out My sheep and deliver them from all the places where they were scattered on [r]a cloudy and dark day. 13 And [s]I will bring them out from the peoples and gather them from the countries, and will bring them to their own land; I will feed them on the mountains of Israel, [z]in the valleys and in all the inhabited places of the country. 14 [t]I will feed them in good pasture, and their fold shall be on the high mountains of Israel. [u]There they shall lie down in a good fold and feed in rich pasture on the mountains of Israel. 15 I will feed My flock, and I will make them lie down," says the Lord GOD. 16 [v]"I will seek what was lost and bring back what was driven away, bind up the broken and strengthen what was sick; but I will destroy [w]the fat and the strong, and feed them [x]in judgment."

17 'And as for you, O My flock, thus says the Lord GOD: [y]"Behold, I shall judge between sheep and sheep, between rams and goats. 18 Is it too little for you to have eaten up the good pasture, that you must tread down with your feet the [3]residue of your pasture—and to have drunk of the clear waters, that you must foul the residue with your feet? 19 And as for My flock, they eat what you have trampled with your feet, and they drink what you have fouled with your feet."

20 'Therefore thus says the Lord GOD to them: [z]"Behold, I Myself will judge between the fat and the lean sheep. 21 Because you have pushed with side and shoulder, butted all the weak ones with your horns, and scattered them abroad, 22 therefore I will save My flock, and they shall no longer be a prey; and I will judge between sheep and sheep. 23 I will establish one [a]shepherd over them, and he shall feed them—[b]My servant David. He shall feed them and be their shepherd. 24 And [c]I, the LORD, will be their God, and My servant David [d]a prince among them; I, the LORD, have spoken.

25 [e]"I will make a covenant of peace with them, and [f]cause wild beasts to cease from the land; and they [g]will dwell safely in the wilderness and sleep in the woods. 26 I will make them and the places all around [h]My hill [i]a blessing; and I will [j]cause showers to come down in their season; there shall be [k]showers of blessing. 27 Then [l]the trees of the field shall yield their fruit, and the earth shall yield her increase. They shall be safe in their land; and they shall know that I am the LORD, when I have [m]broken the bands of their yoke and delivered them from the hand of those who [n]enslaved them. 28 And they shall no longer be a prey for the nations, nor shall beasts of the land devour them; but [o]they shall dwell safely, and no one shall make them afraid. 29 I will raise up for them a [p]garden[4] of renown, and they shall [q]no longer be consumed with hunger in the land, [r]nor bear the shame of the Gentiles anymore. 30 Thus they shall know that [s]I, the LORD their God, am with them, and they, the house of Israel, are [t]My people," says the Lord GOD.' ■ 34:11 I Myself. Having set aside the unfaithful undershepherds, God Himself takes the role of shepherd (Luke 15:3–7).

■ 34:12 cloudy and dark day. This language is ordinarily associated with the day of the Lord (7:7 note; Joel 2:1, 2; Zeph. 1:15; Is. 60:2; Jer. 13:16; 23:12; Amos 5:18–20).

■ 34:17 rams and goats. God's judgment is not confined to the shepherds, but will include the livestock. Some of the animals in the herd had been bullying others; these probably represent members of the upper classes of Jerusalem society who had oppressed the poor. There was a similar situation in the restoration community (Neh. 5).

■ 34:23 David. This promise of restoration (vv. 6, 10–16) looks forward to a messianic kingdom. God's Servant, One like David, would rule in peace, righteousness, and prosperity exceeding that known during the rule of the historical David. No descendant of David in the restoration period fulfilled Ezekiel's prophetic description of Israel's future. The New Testament identifies Jesus as the Good Shepherd (vv. 2–10 note).

■ 34:24 prince. See note on 37:24.

■ 34:25 covenant of peace. The verses that follow spell out what this covenant entails. It includes safety and agricultural bounty in the land. The imagery is of paradise restored.

safely. Wild animals were a constant danger (Lev. 26:6; Deut. 33:20; Judg. 14:5, 6; 1 Sam. 17:34–37; 1 Kin. 13:24–28; 20:36; 2 Kin. 2:24; 17:25, 26; Ps. 7:2; 10:9; 17:12; Prov. 28:15; Is. 31:4; Jer. 5:6; Lam. 3:10; Hos. 13:8; Amos 3:4, 8, 12; 5:19; Mic. 5:8; cf. Is. 11:6–9; 65:25).

■ 34:26 a blessing. Agricultural prosperity is a common theme in Old Testament portrayals of the blessed future of God's people (vv. 25–29); see note on 28:26.

■ 34:30 Thus they shall know. See note on 6:7.

with them . . . My people. The essence of God's covenant with Israel was that the Lord would be their God, and they would be His people (11:20; 36:28; Ex. 6:7; Lev. 26:12; Deut. 7:6; 14:2; 27:9; 29:13; Ps. 50:7; Is. 51:22; Jer. 7:23; 11:4; 30:22; Joel 2:27).

Judgment on Mount Seir

35 Moreover the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 "Son of man, set your face against [a]Mount Seir and [b]prophesy against it, 3 and say to it, 'Thus says the Lord GOD:

"Behold, O Mount Seir, I am against you;
[c]I will stretch out My hand against you,
And make you [1]most desolate;
4 I shall lay your cities waste,
And you shall be desolate.
Then you shall know that I am the LORD.

5 [d]"Because you have had an [2]ancient hatred, and have shed the blood of the children of Israel by the power of the sword at the time of their calamity, [e]when their iniquity came to an end, 6 therefore, as I live," says the Lord GOD, "I will prepare you for [f]blood, and blood shall pursue you; [g]since you have not hated [3]blood, therefore blood shall pursue you. 7 Thus I will make Mount Seir [4]most desolate, and cut off from it the [h]one who leaves and the one who returns. 8 And I will fill its mountains with the slain; on your hills and in your valleys and in all your ravines those who are slain by the sword shall fall. 9 [i]I will make you [5]perpetually desolate, and your cities shall be uninhabited; [j]then you shall know that I am the LORD.

10 "Because you have said, 'These two nations and these two countries shall be mine, and we will [k]possess them,' although [l]the LORD was there, 11 therefore, as I live," says the Lord GOD, "I will do [m]according to your anger and according to the envy which you showed in your hatred against them; and I will make Myself known among them when I judge you. 12 [n]Then you shall know that I am the LORD. I have [o]heard all your [p]blasphemies which you have spoken against the mountains of Israel, saying, 'They are desolate; they are given to us to consume.' 13 Thus [q]with your mouth you have [6]boasted against Me and multiplied your [r]words against Me; I have heard them."

14 'Thus says the Lord GOD: [s]"The whole earth will rejoice when I make you desolate. 15 [t]As you rejoiced because the inheritance of the house of Israel was desolate, [u]so I will do to you; you shall be desolate, O Mount Seir, as well as all of Edom—all of it! Then they shall know that I am the LORD." '

Blessing on Israel

36 "And you, son of man, prophesy to the [a]mountains of Israel, and say, 'O mountains of Israel, hear the word of the LORD! 2 Thus says the Lord GOD: "Because [b]the enemy has said of you, 'Aha! [c]The [1]ancient heights [d]have become our possession,' " ' 3 therefore prophesy, and say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "Because they made you desolate and swallowed you up on every side, so that you became the possession of the rest of the nations, [e]and you are taken up by the lips of [f]talkers and slandered by the people"— 4 therefore, O mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord GOD! Thus says the Lord GOD to the mountains, the hills, the [2]rivers, the valleys, the desolate wastes, and the cities that have been forsaken, which [g]became plunder and [h]mockery to the rest of the nations all around— 5 therefore thus says the Lord GOD: [i]"Surely I have spoken in My burning jealousy against the rest of the nations and against all Edom, [j]who gave My land to themselves as a possession, with wholehearted joy and [3]spiteful minds, in order to plunder its open country." '

6 "Therefore prophesy concerning the land of Israel, and say to the mountains, the hills, the rivers, and the valleys, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "Behold, I have spoken in My jealousy and My fury, because you have [k]borne the shame of the nations." 7 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: "I

■ 35:2 Mount Seir. Edom was located along the margin of arable land southeast of the Dead Sea; Seir was the chief mountain range in the country. Mount Seir was used as a synonym for Edom (v. 15; Gen. 32:3; 36:8, 9; Deut. 2:8; Judg. 5:4; 2 Chr. 25:14).

■ 35:10 two nations. Israel and Judah.

we will possess them. Contrast Deut. 2:2–6, a passage forbidding Israel to take the territory of Edom because God had given it to the descendants of Esau.

■ 36:1–38 The prophecy of judgment directed against Mount Seir (ch. 35) is followed by a prophecy of restoration directed to the mountains of Israel.

■ 36:2 ancient heights. This phrase refers to the land God promised Israel, or if taken strictly, to the heights of Zion (17:23; 34:14; Deut. 32:13; Ps. 48:2; 78:69; Is. 58:14; Jer. 31:12).

have [l]raised My hand in an oath that surely the nations that are around you shall [m]bear their own shame. 8 But you, O mountains of Israel, you shall shoot forth your branches and yield your fruit to My people Israel, for they are about to come. 9 For indeed I am for you, and I will turn to you, and you shall be tilled and sown. 10 I will multiply men upon you, all the house of Israel, all of it; and the cities shall be inhabited and [n]the ruins rebuilt. 11 [o]I will multiply upon you man and beast; and they shall increase and [4]bear young; I will make you inhabited as in former times, and do [p]better for you than at your beginnings. [q]Then you shall know that I am the LORD. 12 Yes, I will cause men to walk on you, My people Israel; [r]they shall take possession of you, and you shall be their inheritance; no more shall you [s]bereave them of children."

13 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "Because they say to you, [t]"You devour men and bereave your nation of children,' 14 therefore you shall devour men no more, nor bereave your nation anymore," says the Lord GOD. 15 [u]Nor will I let you hear the taunts of the nations anymore, nor bear the reproach of the peoples anymore, nor shall you cause your nation to stumble anymore," says the Lord GOD.' "

The Renewal of Israel

16 Moreover the word of the LORD came to me, saying: 17 "Son of man, when the house of Israel dwelt in their own land, [v]they defiled it by their own ways and deeds; to Me their way was like [w]the uncleanness of a woman in her customary impurity. 18 Therefore I poured out My fury on them [x]for the blood they had shed on the land, and for their idols with which they had defiled it. 19 So I [y]scattered them among the nations, and they were dispersed throughout the countries; I judged them [z]according to their ways and their deeds. 20 When they came to the nations, wherever they went, they [a]profaned My holy name—when they said of them, 'These are the people of the LORD, and yet they have gone out of His land.' 21 But I had concern [b]for My holy name, which the house of Israel had profaned among the nations wherever they went.

22 "Therefore say to the house of Israel, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "I do not do this for your sake, O house of Israel, [c]but for My holy name's sake, which you have profaned among the nations wherever you went. 23 And I will sanctify My great name, which has been profaned among the nations, which you have profaned in their midst; and the nations shall know that I am the LORD," says the Lord GOD, "when I am [d]hallowed in you before their eyes. 24 For [e]I will take you from among the nations, gather you out of all countries, and bring you into your own land. 25 [f]Then I will sprinkle clean water on you, and you shall be clean; I will cleanse you [g]from all your filthiness and from all your idols. 26 I will give you a [h]new heart and put a new spirit within you; I will take the heart of stone out of your flesh and give you a heart of flesh. 27 I will put My [i]Spirit within you and cause you to walk in My statutes, and you will keep My judgments and do them. 28 [j]Then you shall dwell in the land that I gave to your fathers; [k]you shall be My people, and I will be your God. 29 I will [l]deliver you from all your uncleannesses. [m]I will call for the grain and multiply it, and [n]bring no famine upon you. 30 [o]And I will multiply the fruit of your trees and the increase of your fields, so that you need never again bear the reproach of famine among the nations. 31 Then [p]you will remember your evil ways and your deeds that were not good; and you [q]will [5]loathe yourselves in your own sight, for your iniquities and your abominations. 32 [r]Not for your sake do I do this," says the Lord GOD, "let it be known to you. Be ashamed and confounded for your own ways, O house of Israel!"

33 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "On the day that I cleanse you from all your iniquities, I will also enable you to dwell in the cities, [s]and the ruins shall be rebuilt. 34 The desolate land shall be tilled instead of lying desolate in the sight of all who pass by. 35 So they will say, 'This land that

■ 36:12 children. Israel will prosper and be more populous than she had been before the recent disaster (vv. 11, 12; cf. Zech. 2:4). The prophets often describe God's future blessing on the land in terms of a multitude of children (37:25; Is. 49:20; 54:1; 59:21; Jer. 30:20; 31:17; Zech. 8:5).

■ 36:17 Impurity. See 18:6 note.

■ 36:25 sprinkle. The sprinkling or pouring of water refers to the ritual purifications for removing religious defilement (Ex. 30:17–21; Lev. 14:52; Num. 19:17–19). It is also used as a symbol for the gift of God's Spirit, in the anointing of kings and priests and in the prophetic call (Joel 2:28, 29). The outpouring of God's Spirit is a sign of the messianic age (37:14; 39:29; Is. 42:1; 44:3; 59:21). This rich symbolism attaches to baptism in the New Testament. The language of vv. 25–27 is closely paralleled in Ps. 51:7–11.

■ 36:26 new heart . . . new spirit. See 11:19 and note on 18:31. Instead of a heart of stone, unable to respond to God with love and obedience, God will provide a new heart and a new spirit. Note that these come as the result of divine initiative and not human attainment. Jeremiah describes the new covenant in the same way (Jer. 31:33; and Prov. 3:3; 7:3; Rom. 2:15, 29; 2 Cor. 3:3).

■ 36:27 My Spirit. The new spirit would be the Spirit of God transforming those in whom He dwells and enabling them to obey the law of God. Cf. Rom. 7:6; 8:2–17; Gal. 5:16–18, 22; 1 John 3:24.

■ 36:33 ruins shall be rebuilt. See Is. 44:26; 58:12; 61:4.

■ 36:35 Eden. Israel as a nation was God's garden; see notes on 28:13, 14; 40:16; 47:1, 2.

was desolate has become like the garden of [f]Eden; and the wasted, desolate, and ruined cities are now fortified and inhabited.' 36 Then the nations which are left all around you shall know that I, the LORD, have rebuilt the ruined places and planted what was desolate. [u]I, the LORD, have spoken it, and I will do it."

37 'Thus says the Lord GOD: [v]"I will also let the house of Israel inquire of Me to do this for them: I will [w]increase their men like a flock. 38 Like a [6]flock offered as holy sacrifices, like the flock at Jerusalem on its [7]feast days, so shall the ruined cities be filled with flocks of men. Then they shall know that I am the LORD." ' "

The Dry Bones Live

37 The [a]hand of the LORD came upon me and brought me out [b]in the Spirit of the LORD, and set me down in the midst of the valley; and it was full of bones. 2 Then He caused me to pass by them all around, and behold, there were very many in the open valley; and indeed they were very dry. 3 And He said to me, "Son of man, can these bones live?"

So I answered, "O Lord GOD, [c]You know."

4 Again He said to me, "Prophesy to these bones, and say to them, 'O dry bones, hear the word of the LORD! 5 Thus says the Lord GOD to these bones: "Surely I will [d]cause breath to enter into you, and you shall live. 6 I will put sinews on you and bring flesh upon you, cover you with skin and put breath in you; and you shall live. [e]Then you shall know that I am the LORD." ' "

7 So I prophesied as I was commanded; and as I prophesied, there was a noise, and suddenly a rattling; and the bones came together, bone to bone. 8 Indeed, as I looked, the sinews and the flesh came upon them, and the skin covered them over; but there was no breath in them.

9 Also He said to me, "Prophesy to the breath, prophesy, son of man, and say to the [1]breath, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: [f]"Come from the four winds, O breath, and breathe on these slain, that they may live." ' " 10 So I prophesied as He commanded me, [g]and [2]breath came into them, and they lived, and stood upon their feet, an exceedingly great army.

11 Then He said to me, "Son of man, these bones are the [h]whole house of Israel. They indeed say, [i]'Our bones are dry, our hope is lost, and we ourselves are cut off!' 12 Therefore prophesy and say to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "Behold, [j]O My people, I will open your graves and cause you to come up from your graves, and [k]bring you into the land of Israel. 13 Then you shall know that I am the LORD, when I have opened your graves, O My people, and brought you up from your graves. 14 I [l]will put My Spirit in you, and you shall live, and I will place you in your own land. Then you shall know that I, the LORD, have spoken it and performed it," says the LORD.' "

One Kingdom, One King

15 Again the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 16 "As for you, son of man, [m]take a stick for yourself and write on it: 'For Judah and for [n]the children of Israel, his companions.' Then take another stick and write on it, 'For Joseph, the stick of Ephraim, and for all the house of Israel, his companions.' 17 Then [o]join them one to another for yourself into one stick, and they will become one in your hand.

■ 37:1–14 Interpreters have long discussed the relationship between Ezekiel's vision and the general resurrection at the end of time. The Old Testament does not present a complete doctrine of resurrection; this awaited the coming of Christ (Job 14:14; 19:25, 26; Dan. 12:2; see also 1 Kin. 17:17–24; 2 Kin. 4:8–37; 13:21). Ezekiel's vision gave an immediate hope to the exiles longing to be restored to their own country (37:14), and it has a more permanent application to the general resurrection.

■ 37:1 Spirit. The words "breath," "Spirit," and "wind" in this passage represent the same Hebrew word, adjusted by translations to the requirements of context (vv. 1, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 14).

valley. This is the same term used in 3:22; see note there. Since this word is only used in Ezekiel in these two passages, the locale of this vision may have been the same as that for the prophet's call. Some have suggested that the vision was in the environs of Jerusalem, possibly the Kidron Valley east of the city (47:1–6; Joel 3:12; Zech. 14:4).

■ 37:4 Prophesy. The prophetic word was like God's word at creation. God spoke, and new life was created (Gen. 1). Ezekiel's words are similarly efficacious in this vision, for they are also God's words.

■ 37:9 breath. The infusion of the breath of life recalls Gen. 2:7.

■ 37:12 graves. The vision began with exposed and unburied bones (v. 2), but now broadens to include the opening of graves.

■ 37:14 you shall know. Israel's restoration would be God's own testimony to His power and rule.

■ 37:16 a stick. The prophet performs another symbolic action (4:1–3 note). Two sticks, one bearing the name of the southern kingdom Judah and the other bearing the name of the northern kingdom Ephraim, are held end to end in one of the prophet's hands so that they appeared to be joined.

■ 37:18–23 The prophet interprets his symbolic actions (vv. 16, 17). Joseph's two sons were Ephraim and Manasseh; these two tribes were the central part of the northern kingdom, so much so that the northern kingdom (Israel) was sometimes designated simply as "Ephraim" (2 Chr. 25:7, 10; Is. 7:2, 9, 17; 11:13; 17:3; Jer. 31:20; Hos. 4:17; 6:4; 8:9; 9:8; 10:6; Zech. 9:13). It fell to the Assyrians almost a century and a half before the exile of Judah, and was dispersed among other nations and assimilated to them. This passage looks back to the united monarchy under David and Solomon, and forward to a future ideal restoration (33:24; Jer. 3:18; 23:5, 6; Hos. 1:11; Amos 9:11).

Then they shall be My people, and I will be their God.

24 "[y]David My servant shall be king over them, and [z]they shall all have one shepherd; [a]they shall also walk in My judgments and observe My statutes, and do them. 25 [b]Then they shall dwell in the land that I have given to Jacob My servant, where your fathers dwelt; and they shall dwell there, they, their children, and their children's children, [c]forever; and [d]My servant David shall be their prince forever. 26 Moreover I will [3]make [e]a covenant of peace with them, and it shall be an everlasting covenant with them; I will establish them and [f]multiply them, and I will set My [g]sanctuary in their midst forevermore. 27 [h]My tabernacle also shall be with them; indeed I will be [i]their God, and they shall be My people. 28 [j]The nations also will know that I, the LORD, [k]sanctify Israel, when My sanctuary is in their midst forevermore." Gog and Allies Attack Israel

38 Now the word of the LORD came to me, saying, 2 [a]"Son of man, [b]set your face against [c]Gog, of the land of [d]Magog, [1]the prince of Rosh, [e]Meshech, and Tubal, and prophesy against him, 3 and say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "Behold, I am against you, O Gog, the prince of Rosh, Meshech, and Tubal. 4 [f]I will turn you around, put hooks into your jaws, and [g]lead you

2 [a]Ezek. 39:1 [b]Ezek. 35:2, 3 [c]Rev. 20:8 [d]Gen. 10:2 [e]Ezek. 32:26 [1]Tg., Vg., Aquila the chief prince of Meshech, also v. 3

4 [f]2 Kin. 19:28 [g]Is. 43:17

■ 37:24 king. Ezekiel is reluctant to use the word "king" in reference to any of the historical rulers of Jerusalem, preferring instead to call them "prince" (v. 25; 12:10, 12; 19:1; 21:12, 25; 22:6; 34:24). Here, however, he describes the future Davidic ruler as "king" (v. 22, 24), possibly a subtle way of distinguishing this future ruler from the others. The New Testament reveals that this shepherd-king is Jesus (34:2–10, 23 and notes), who reigns over the renewed people of God forever (v. 25; 34:31; John 10:11, 14; Matt. 2:2; Acts 5:31).

■ 37:25–28 forever . . . forevermore. The repetition of "forever" (vv. 25, 26, 28) indicates that the reunification in view is eschatological, that is, an event to occur in the last days.

■ 37:26 covenant of peace. See 34:25 and note.

everlasting covenant. This eternal covenant took effect through the offering of Christ's blood (Heb. 13:20).

■ 37:27 their God . . . My people. See note on 34:30.

■ 37:28 sanctuary is in their midst forevermore. Ezekiel looks for a renewed city of God (chs. 40—48). More than six hundred years later John had a similar vision (Rev. 21), but of a city that needed no temple building (Rev. 21:22).

■ 38:1—39:29 Before his description of the future city of God, the prophet first describes the defeat and removal of its foes. Gog, the prince of Magog (see note on v. 2), sums up the final opposition to the kingdom and people of God. God comes as a divine warrior, fighting for His people and visiting an apocalyptic defeat on His foes, preparing the way for the vision of the renewed city (chs. 40—48).

■ 38:2 Gog. The identity of Gog is uncertain. He is often identified with Gyges, the king of Lydia, a land in Anatolia (modern Turkey). In Akkadian texts from the seventh century Gyges is known as an Assyrian vassal; later legend credited him with the invention of coinage. The name "Gog" is phonetically similar to the Akkadian word for "Gyges," but an identification of the two is by no means certain.

Magog. This land ruled by Gog is also otherwise unknown from extant geographical lists or citations in ancient literature; it may mean no more than "land of Gog."

prince of Rosh, Meshech, and Tubal. Though the identification of Gog and Magog remain uncertain, the identification of Meshech and Tubal is not in doubt (27:13 note). From the ancient historians Herodotus and Josephus, as well as Assyrian documents from the twelfth to the eighth centuries B.C., they are known to be tribes from central and eastern Anatolia (modern Turkey). Considerable misunderstanding has resulted from misguided speculation regarding these geographical terms. Some have identified these locations with other sites known from contemporary geography and have made them part of conjectures about later political events. Meshech and Tubal are said to be Moscow and Tobolsk, two Russian cities far distant from the region Ezekiel mentions. The Hebrew word translated "prince" (v. 2) is ro'sh, and some have said that this means "Russia." Even if this word is a geographical name and not to be translated "prince," it is not "Russia." The name "Russia" was brought into the region north of Kiev by the Vikings in the Middle Ages, and was not in use in Ezekiel's time.

In describing the threats to Israel's existence, the Bible commonly refers to foes coming from the north (Is. 41:25; Jer. 1:13–15; 4:6; 6:22; 10:22; 13:20; 15:12; 25:9, 26; 46:10, 20, 24; 50:3, 9, 41, 49; Ezek. 26:7; 38:6, 15; 39:2; Dan. 11; Zech. 2:6; 6:6–8; cf. Is. 5:26–29; 13:1–13; Heb. 1:5–11; Nah. 2:2–10; 3:1–3). References to these northern foes before the Babylonian exile in the sixth century B.C. usually point to Assyria, Babylon, and Persia, Israel's traditional enemies. During and after the Babylonian exile, the foes from the north take on a more symbolic and apocalyptic coloring. In his description of conflict at the end of time, Ezekiel mentions tribes on the fringes of kingdoms to the north as an embodiment of the foes from the north that already figured in Israel's eschatology (their understanding of the last days). Rather than add to speculation about future history, modern readers should understand that Ezekiel himself uses these nations as symbolic references to all powers arrayed against God's people. Ezekiel contains many oracles against foreign nations (Ezek. 29—32), but there is none specifically against Babylon, where he and the exiles were held in captivity. Some have suggested that Magog, Meshech, and Tubal are veiled references to Babylon, the immediate enemy. Gog and Magog recur in John's apocalyptic description of future conflict between good and evil (Rev. 20:8).

out, with all your army, horses, and horsemen, [h]all splendidly clothed, a great company with bucklers and shields, all of them handling swords. 5 Persia, [2]Ethiopia, and [3]Libya are with them, all of them with shield and helmet; 6 [i]Gomer and all its troops; the house of [j]Togarmah from the far north and all its troops—many people are with you.

7 [k]"Prepare yourself and be ready, you and all your companies that are gathered about you; and be a guard for them. 8 [l]After many days [m]you will be visited. In the latter years you will come into the land of those brought back from the sword [n]and gathered from many people on [o]the mountains of Israel, which had long been desolate; they were brought out of the nations, and now all of them [p]dwell safely. 9 You will ascend, coming [q]like a storm, covering the [r]land like a cloud, you and all your troops and many peoples with you."

10 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "On that day it shall come to pass that thoughts will arise in your mind, and you will make an evil plan: 11 You will say, 'I will go up against a land of [s]unwalled villages; I will [t]go to a peaceful people, [u]who dwell [4]safely, all of them dwelling without walls, and having neither bars nor gates'— 12 to take plunder and to take booty, to stretch out your hand against the waste places that are again inhabited, [v]and against a people gathered from the nations, who have acquired livestock and goods, who dwell in the midst of the land. 13 [w]Sheba, [x]Dedan, the merchants [y]of Tarshish, and all [z]their young lions will say to you, 'Have you come to take plunder? Have you gathered your army to take booty, to carry away silver and gold, to take away livestock and goods, to take great plunder?' " ' 14 "Therefore, son of man, prophesy and say to Gog, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: [a]"On that day when My people Israel [b]dwell safely, will you not know it? 15 [c]Then you will come from your place out of the far north, you and many peoples with you, all of them riding on horses, a great company and a mighty army. 16 You will come up against My people Israel like a cloud, to cover the land. It will be in the latter days that I will bring you against My land, so that the nations may [d]know Me, when I am [e]hallowed in you, O Gog, before their eyes." 17 Thus says the Lord GOD: "Are you he of whom I have spoken in former days by My servants the prophets of Israel, who prophesied for years in those days that I would bring you against them?

Judgment on Gog

18 "And it will come to pass at the same time, when Gog comes against the land of Israel," says the Lord GOD, "that My fury will show in My face. 19 For [f]in My jealousy [g]and in the fire of My wrath I have spoken: [h]'Surely in that day there shall be a great [5]earthquake in the land of Israel, 20 so that [i]the fish of the sea, the birds of the heavens, the beasts of the field, all creeping things that creep on the earth, and all men who are on the face of the earth shall shake at My presence. [j]The mountains shall be thrown down, the steep places shall fall, and every wall shall fall to the ground.' 21 I will [k]call for [l]a sword against Gog throughout all My mountains," says the Lord GOD, [m]"Every man's sword will be against his brother. 22 And I will [n]bring him to judgment with [o]pestilence and bloodshed; [p]I will rain down on him, on his troops, and on the many peoples who are with him, flooding rain, [q]great hailstones, fire, and brimstone. 23 Thus I will magnify Myself and [r]sanctify Myself, [s]and I will be known in the eyes of many nations. Then they shall know that I am the LORD." '

1 [a]Ezek. 38:2, 3 [1]Tg., Vg., Aquila the chief prince of Meshech
2 [b]Ezek. 38:8 [c]Ezek. 38:15

■ 38:5 Ethiopia. See Is. 68:31 note.

■ 38:6 Gomer. This is probably a group from the area north of the Black Sea, known to the Assyrians as the Gimirrai and to the Greeks as the Cimmerians. Gog leads a coalition of nations from the south and the north. The picture is of a total mobilization against the people of God. Compare the divine summons to war in Joel 3:9–11.

house of Togarmah. See 27:14 note.

■ 38:9 like a cloud. An innumerable foe assembles (Jer. 4:13; Joel 2:2).

■ 38:11 peaceful people. Compare the strategy in Judg. 18:7, 8. Though Gog plotted against Israel, in reality God was bringing them to their own destruction (vv. 4, 16).

■ 38:13 Sheba. The southwestern corner of the Arabian peninsula (modern Yemen). The Sabeans were famous for trading (23:42; 27:22; 1 Kin. 10:1, 2; Job 6:19; Joel 3:8).

Dedan. A territory in southern Edom (25:13; 27:20; Jer. 25:23; 49:8).

■ 38:17 he of whom I have spoken. Gog is not specifically mentioned in any other Old Testament prophecy. Ezekiel refers to earlier prophecies describing a foe from the north (v. 2 note).

■ 38:18–23 God Himself will be Israel's defender. In passages describing the appearance of God as a divine warrior, the prophets commonly speak of a corresponding convulsion in the created order; creation dissolves into primeval chaos (32:6–8 note; Is. 13:13; 24:18–20; Jer. 4:23–26; Joel 2:10, 30, 31; Hag. 2:6, 7, 21; 3:16; cf. Judg. 5:4; Ps. 18:8; 46:3; 77:16–19).

mountains of Israel. 3 Then I will knock the bow out of your left hand, and cause the arrows to fall out of your right hand. 4 [d]You shall [2]fall upon the mountains of Israel, you and all your troops and the peoples who are with you; [e]I will give you to birds of prey of every sort and to the beasts of the field to be devoured. 5 You shall [3]fall on [4]the open field; for I have spoken," says the Lord GOD. 6 [f]"And I will send fire on Magog and on those who live [5]in security in [g]the coastlands. Then they shall know that I am the LORD. 7 [h]So I will make My holy name known in the midst of My people Israel, and I will not let them [i]profane My holy name anymore. [j]Then the nations shall know that I am the LORD, the Holy One in Israel. 8 [k]Surely it is coming, and it shall be done," says the Lord GOD. "This is the day [l]of which I have spoken.

9 "Then those who dwell in the cities of Israel will go out and set on fire and burn the weapons, both the shields and bucklers, the bows and arrows, the [6]javelins and spears; and they will make fires with them for seven years. 10 They will not take wood from the field nor cut down any from the forests, because they will make fires with the weapons; [m]and they will plunder those who plundered them, and pillage those who pillaged them," says the Lord GOD.

The Burial of Gog

11 "It will come to pass in that day that I will give Gog a burial place there in Israel, the valley of those who pass by east of the sea; and it will obstruct travelers, because there they will bury Gog and all his multitude. Therefore they will call it the Valley of [7]Hamon Gog. 12 For seven months the house of Israel will be burying them, [n]in order to cleanse the land. 13 Indeed all the people of the land will be burying, and they will gain [o]renown for it on the day that [p]I am glorified," says the Lord GOD. 14 "They will set apart men regularly employed, with the help of [8]a search party, to pass through the land and bury those bodies remaining on the ground, in order [q]to cleanse it. At the end of seven months they will make a search. 15 The search party will pass through the land; and when anyone sees a man's bone, he shall [9]set up a marker by it, till the buriers have buried it in the Valley of Hamon Gog. 16 The name of the city will also be [l]Hamonah. Thus they shall [r]cleanse the land." '

A Triumphant Festival

17 "And as for you, son of man, thus says the Lord GOD, [s]'Speak to every sort of bird and to every beast of the field:

[t]"Assemble yourselves and come;
Gather together from all sides to My [u]sacrificial meal
Which I am sacrificing for you,
A great sacrificial meal [v]on the mountains of Israel,
That you may eat flesh and drink blood.
18 [w]You shall eat the flesh of the mighty,
Drink the blood of the princes of the earth,
Of rams and lambs,
Of goats and bulls,
All of them [x]fatlings of Bashan.
19 You shall eat fat till you are full,
And drink blood till you are drunk,
At My sacrificial meal
Which I am sacrificing for you.
20 [y]You shall be filled at My table

■ 39:9 burn the weapons. The prophet uses a vivid image to describe how large the enemy army will be and how total its defeat: the Israelites will gather the weapons of the vanquished and have sufficient firewood to last for seven years (Ps. 46:9).

■ 39:11 burial place. Gog's hordes will be buried on the borders of Israel, near the Dead Sea. After seven months of work burial details will still be searching for bodies (vv. 14, 15).

■ 39:14 cleanse. Contact with a corpse rendered one ceremonially unclean (Lev. 11:24–28, 39; 22:4), so the land would require cleansing.

■ 39:15 Hamon Gog. The valley will be named "Valley of the Hordes of Gog."

■ 39:17 sacrificial meal. See note on 29:5. Usually sacrifice meant that animals became food. Here the image is reversed: the human enemies are sacrificed, and the animals eat. By such a reversal of the created order (Gen. 1:30; 9:2, 3) the prophet shows the universe dissolving into chaos under God's judgment (38:18–23 note). The same image is used in Rev. 19:17, 18 (Is. 34:6, 7; Jer. 46:10; Zeph. 1:7–9).

■ 39:18 Bashan. A region east of the Sea of Galilee known for its fine cattle (Deut. 32:14; Ps. 22:12; Amos 4:1).

■ 39:19 eat fat . . . drink blood. These parts of a sacrificial animal were ordinarily offered to God (44:15; Lev. 3:17).

Israel Restored to the Land

21 [a]"I will set My glory among the nations; all the nations shall see My judgment which I have executed, and [b]My hand which I have laid on them. 22 [c]So the house of Israel shall know that I am the LORD their God from that day forward. 23 [d]The Gentiles shall know that the house of Israel went into captivity for their iniquity; because they were unfaithful to Me, therefore [e]I hid My face from them. I [f]gave them into the hand of their enemies, and they all fell by the sword. 24 [g]According to their uncleanness and according to their transgressions I have dealt with them, and hidden My face from them." '

25 "Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: [h]'Now I will bring back the captives of Jacob, and have mercy on the [i]whole house of Israel; and I will be jealous for My holy name— 26 [j]after they have borne their shame, and all their unfaithfulness in which they were unfaithful to Me, when they [k]dwelt safely in their own land and no one made them afraid. 27 [l]When I have brought them back from the peoples and gathered them out of their enemies' lands, and I [m]am hallowed in them in the sight of many nations, 28 [n]then they shall know that I am the LORD their God, who sent them into captivity among the nations, but also brought them back to their land, and left none of them [2]captive any longer. 29 [o]And I will not hide My face from them anymore; for I shall have [p]poured out My Spirit on the house of Israel,' says the Lord GOD."

A New City, a New Temple

40 In the twenty-fifth year of our captivity, at the beginning of the year, on the tenth day of the month, in the fourteenth year after [a]the city was [1]captured, on the very same day [b]the hand of the LORD was upon me; and He took me there. 2 [c]In the visions of God He took me into the land of Israel and [d]set me on a very high mountain; on it toward the south was something like the structure of a city. 3 He took me there, and behold, there was a man whose appearance was [e]like the appearance of bronze. [f]He had a line of flax [g]and a measuring rod in his hand, and he stood in the gateway.

4 And the man said to me, [h]"Son of man, look with your eyes and hear with your ears, and [2]fix your mind on everything I show you; for you were brought here so that I might show them to you. [i]Declare to the house of Israel everything you see." 5 Now there was [j]a wall all around the outside of the [3]temple. In the man's hand was a measuring rod six [4]cubits long, each being a cubit and a handbreadth; and he measured the width of the wall structure, one rod; and the height, one rod.

The Eastern Gateway of the Temple

6 Then he went to the gateway which faced [k]east; and he went up its stairs and measured the threshold of the gateway, which was one rod wide, and the other threshold was one rod wide.

■ 39:23 went into captivity. The Babylonian exile did not show that God had failed in His promises—to the contrary, it demonstrated to Israel and to the nations alike that His sovereignty was universal. Though God afflicted His people, He had not abandoned them (vv. 25–29). After describing how God would crush His enemies (chs. 38; 39), the prophet turns to a description of the glorious restoration of the people of God (chs. 40—48).

■ 39:25 bring back . . . Jacob. With the enemy destroyed, the prophet turns to God's purposes for His people, their restoration and blessedness.

■ 39:29 poured out My Spirit. See 36:25 note; 11:19; 18:31; 37:14; Joel 2:28.

■ 40:1—48:35 Ezekiel's vision of the restored city combines many strands of biblical tradition. Ezekiel weaves together the familiar understanding of Jerusalem as the city where God had chosen to dwell with references to Mount Sinai and the Garden of Eden.

An angel leads the prophet on a tour of the city, beginning at the gates to the outer court of the temple (40:6–27) and ending after several chapters with a division of land among the twelve tribes (47:13—48:35). Interpretations of these chapters vary widely. Many have seen in these passages a blueprint and building specifications for a normal city that was to be built (43:10, 11). However, elements of the prophetic vision seem to go beyond a literal understanding (e.g., 47:1–12). Other interpreters understand Ezekiel's temple vision as a largely symbolic description of the way God would bless His people, with the temple preeminently standing for the presence of God in the midst of His people. Through the use of vision and symbol (40:2; Num. 12:6), the prophet describes a point in the future when the presence of God among His people would transcend anything Israel had experienced in history.

■ 40:2 high mountain. Presumably Mount Zion, site of the temple in Jerusalem (17:22–24; 20:40; cf. Ps. 48:1, 2; Is. 2:2; Mic. 4:1). The prophet would tour the holy mountain just as the psalmist had (Ps. 48:12, 13).

■ 40:3 a man. The prophet is conducted on his tour of the city by an angelic guide (cf. Zech. 1:14).

measuring rod. See 2 Kin. 21:13; Amos 7:7, 8; Zech. 2:1, 2; Rev. 21:10, 15.

■ 40:4 Declare . . . everything you see. John received similar instructions (Rev. 1:11).

■ 40:5 cubits. There were at least two standard cubits, the short cubit of about 17.4 inches, and the long cubit used here, of about 20.4 inches (43:13; 2 Chr. 3:3). The rod was about ten feet long.

■ 40:6 went up its stairs. The temple was approached by steps to a raised platform that was the outer court. More steps led to a higher platform that was the inner court (vv. 34, 37). A flight of stairs led from there to the temple building (v. 49; 41:8). The higher the elevation and the closer to the inner sanctuary, the greater the degree of sanctity.

7 Each gate chamber was one rod long and one rod wide; between the gate chambers was a space of five cubits; and the threshold of the gateway by the vestibule of the inside gate was one rod.
8 He also measured the vestibule of the inside gate, one rod. 9 Then he measured the vestibule of the gateway, eight cubits; and the gateposts, two cubits. The vestibule of the gate was on the inside. 10 In the eastern gateway were three gate chambers on one side and three on the other; the three were all the same size; also the gateposts were of the same size on this side and that side.
11 He measured the width of the entrance to the gateway, ten cubits; and the length of the gate, thirteen cubits. 12 There was a [5]space in front of the gate chambers, one cubit on this side and one cubit on that side; the gate chambers were six cubits on this side and six cubits on that side.
13 Then he measured the gateway from the roof of one gate chamber to the roof of the other; the width was twenty-five cubits, as door faces door. 14 He measured the gateposts, sixty cubits high,

■ 40:9 vestibule. These gateways resemble gates of the Solomonic period unearthed in excavations at Hazor, Megiddo, and Gezer (1 Kin. 9:15). The way through the center of the gate was flanked by three guardrooms on each side.

Ezekiel's Temple (40:5)

Ezekiel's restored temple is not a blueprint, but a vision that stresses the purity and spiritual vitality of the ideal place of worship and those who will worship there. It is not intended for an earthly, physical fulfillment, but expresses the truth found in the name of the new city: THE LORD IS THERE (Ezek. 48:35). God will dwell in the new temple and among His people.

And on each gatepost were [m]palm trees.

The Outer Court

17 Then he brought me into [n]the outer court; and there were [o]chambers and a pavement made all around the court; [p]thirty chambers faced the pavement. 18 The pavement was by the side of the gateways, corresponding to the length of the gateways; this was the lower pavement. 19 Then he measured the width from the front of the lower gateway to the front of the inner court exterior, one hundred cubits toward the east and the north.

17 [n]Ezek. 10:5; 42:1; 46:21; Rev. 11:2 [o]1 Kin. 6:5; 2 Chr. 31:11; Ezek. 40:38 [p]Ezek. 45:5

The Northern Gateway

20 On the outer court was also a gateway facing north, and he measured its length and its width. 21 Its gate chambers, three on this side and three on that side, its gateposts and its archways, had the same measurements as the first gate; its length was fifty cubits and its width twenty-five cubits. 22 Its windows and those of its archways, and also its palm trees, had the same measurements as the gateway facing east; it was ascended by seven steps, and its archway was in front of it. 23 A gate of the inner court was opposite the northern gateway, just as the eastern gateway; and he measured from gateway to gateway, one hundred cubits.

30 [q]Ezek. 40:21, 25, 33, 36

The Southern Gateway

24 After that he brought me toward the south, and there a gateway was facing south; and he measured its gateposts and archways according to these same measurements. 25 There were windows in it and in its archways all around like those windows; its length was fifty cubits and its width twenty-five cubits. 26 Seven steps led up to it, and its archway was in front of them; and it had palm trees on its gateposts, one on this side and one on that side. 27 There was also a gateway on the inner court, facing south; and he measured from gateway to gateway toward the south, one hundred cubits.

Gateways of the Inner Court

28 Then he brought me to the inner court through the southern gateway; he measured the southern gateway according to these same measurements. 29 Also its gate chambers, its gateposts, and its archways were according to these same measurements; there were windows in it and in its archways all around; it was fifty cubits long and twenty-five cubits wide. 30 There were archways all around, [q]twenty-five cubits long and five cubits wide. 31 Its archways faced the outer court, palm trees were on its gateposts, and going up to it were eight steps.

32 And he brought me into the inner court facing east; he measured the gateway according to these same measurements. 33 Also its gate chambers, its gateposts, and its archways were according to these same measurements; and there were windows in it and in its archways all around; it was fifty cubits long and twenty-five cubits wide. 34 Its archways faced the outer court, and palm trees were on its gateposts on this side and on that side; and going up to it were eight steps.

35 Then he brought me to the north gateway and measured it according to these same measurements— 36 also its gate chambers, its gateposts, and its archways. It had windows all around; its length was fifty cubits and its width twenty-five cubits. 37 Its gateposts faced the outer court, palm trees were on its gateposts on this side and on that side, and going up to it were eight steps.

Where Sacrifices Were Prepared

38 There was a chamber and its entrance by the gateposts of the gateway, where they [r]washed the burnt offering. 39 In the vestibule of the gateway were two tables on this side and two tables

38 [r]2 Chr. 4:6

■ 40:16 palm trees. See also vv. 22, 31, 34, 37. The decoration in Israel's ancient sanctuaries was mainly botanical; varieties of trees and plants decorated the sacred area (Ex. 25:34; 37:19; 1 Kin. 6:18, 29, 32, 35). In this respect the sanctuaries of Israel suggested the beauty of the Garden of Eden and set before Israel the goal of again dwelling in God's garden (28:13, 14 note).

■ 40:17 outer court. Worshipers were admitted to the outer court, but only priests and Levites could enter the inner court. The text does not specify the use of the thirty rooms on the perimeter of the outer court (cf. Jer. 35:2).

■ 40:20–27 The northern and southern gates were the same as the eastern gate (vv. 5–16).

■ 40:28 inner court. The inner court was separated from the outer court by a wall; it too had three gateways (vv. 28–37).

■ 40:38 washed. Animals offered for sacrifice were slaughtered in the gateways to the inner court (43:13–27). When the animals had been slaughtered, the parts were washed (Lev. 1:9, 13; 2 Chr. 4:6) and hung on hooks (v. 43).

on that side, on which to slay the burnt offering, [s]the sin offering, and [t]the trespass offering. 40 At the outer side of the vestibule, as one goes up to the entrance of the northern gateway, were two tables; and on the other side of the vestibule of the gateway were two tables. 41 Four tables were on this side and four tables on that side, by the side of the gateway, eight tables on which they slaughtered the sacrifices. 42 There were also four tables of hewn stone for the burnt offering, one cubit and a half long, one cubit and a half wide, and one cubit high; on these they laid the instruments with which they slaughtered the burnt offering and the sacrifice. 43 Inside were hooks, a handbreadth wide, fastened all around; and the flesh of the sacrifices was on the tables.

Chambers for Singers and Priests

44 Outside the inner gate were the chambers for [u]the singers in the inner court, one facing south at the side of the northern gateway, and the other facing north at the side of the southern gateway. 45 Then he said to me, "This chamber which faces south is for [v]the priests who have charge of the temple. 46 The chamber which faces north is for the priests [w]who have charge of the altar; these are the sons of [x]Zadok, from the sons of Levi, who come near the LORD to minister to Him."

Dimensions of the Inner Court and Vestibule

47 And he measured the court, one hundred cubits long and one hundred cubits wide, foursquare. The altar was in front of the temple. 48 Then he brought me to the [y]vestibule of the temple and measured the doorposts of the vestibule, five cubits on this side and five cubits on that side; and the width of the gateway was three cubits on this side and three cubits on that side. 49 [z]The length of the vestibule was twenty cubits, and the width eleven cubits; and by the steps which led up to it there were [a]pillars by the doorposts, one on this side and another on that side.

Dimensions of the Sanctuary

41 Then he [a]brought me into the [1]sanctuary and measured the doorposts, six cubits wide on one side and six cubits wide on the other side—the width of the tabernacle. 2 The width of the entryway was ten cubits, and the side walls of the entrance were five cubits on this side and five cubits on the other side; and he measured its length, forty cubits, and its width, twenty cubits.

3 Also he went inside and measured the doorposts, two cubits; and the entrance, six cubits high; and the width of the entrance, seven cubits. 4 [b]He measured the length, twenty cubits; and the width, twenty cubits, beyond the sanctuary; and he said to me, "This is the Most Holy Place."

The Side Chambers on the Wall

5 Next, he measured the wall of the [2]temple, six cubits. The width of each side chamber all around the temple was four cubits on every side. 6 [c]The side chambers were in three stories, one above the other, thirty chambers in each story; they rested on [3]ledges which were for the side chambers all around, that they might be supported, but [d]not fastened to the wall of the temple. 7 As one went up from story to story, the side chambers [e]became wider all around, because their supporting ledges in the wall of the temple ascended like steps; therefore the width of the structure increased as one went up from the lowest story to the highest by way of the middle one. 8 I also saw an elevation all around the temple; it was the foundation of the side chambers, [f]a full rod, that is, six cubits high. 9 The thickness of the outer wall of the side chambers was five cubits, and so also the remaining terrace by the place of the side chambers of the [4]temple. 10 And between it and the wall chambers was a width of twenty cubits all around the temple on every

9 [4]Lit. house

■ 40:46 Zadok. See 44:15 note.

■ 40:48—41:4 Like Solomon's temple before it, the temple of Ezekiel's vision had three rooms: a vestibule or portico (40:48, 49); an outer sanctuary (41:1, 2); and the inner sanctuary or Most Holy Place (41:3, 4). The temple building was higher than the surrounding courtyard and reached by stairways leading to the portico (40:6 note). The increase in height represented increasing sanctity as one approached the inner room.

■ 40:49 pillars. The pillars presumably resembled Jachin and Boaz, the pillars that stood outside Solomon's temple (1 Kin. 7:15–22).

■ 41:3 he went inside. Access to the Most Holy Place was restricted to the high priest on the Day of Atonement (Lev. 16; cf. Heb. 9:11–14); the angel could enter this room, but Ezekiel could not.

■ 41:4 twenty cubits. The Most Holy Place in the tabernacle and in Solomon's temple as well was a cube, equal in length, width, and height (cf. Rev. 21:16).

■ 41:5–12 Rooms were built around the north, west, and south sides of the temple building. Probably they were used to store equipment and the wealth of the temple (cf. 42:13; 1 Kin. 6:5–10). The second and third stories were offset so that each was a cubit wider than the level below.

side. 11 The doors of the side chambers opened on the terrace, one door toward the north and another toward the south; and the width of the terrace was five cubits all around.

The Building at the Western End

12 The building that faced the separating courtyard at its western end was seventy cubits wide; the wall of the building was five cubits thick all around, and its length ninety cubits.

Dimensions and Design of the Temple Area

13 So he measured the temple, one [g]hundred cubits long; and the separating courtyard with the building and its walls was one hundred cubits long; 14 also the width of the eastern face of the temple, including the separating courtyard, was one hundred cubits. 15 He measured the length of the building behind it, facing the separating courtyard, with its [h]galleries on the one side and on the other side, one hundred cubits, as well as the inner [5]temple and the porches of the court, 16 their doorposts and [i]the beveled window frames. And the galleries all around their three stories opposite the threshold were paneled with [j]wood from the ground to the windows—the windows were covered— 17 from the space above the door, even to the inner [6]room, as well as outside, and on every wall all around, inside and outside, by measure.

18 And it was made [k]with cherubim and [l]palm trees, a palm tree between cherub and cherub. Each cherub had two faces, 19 [m]so that the face of a man was toward a palm tree on one side, and the face of a young lion toward a palm tree on the other side; thus it was made throughout the temple all around. 20 From the floor to the space above the door, and on the wall of the sanctuary, cherubim and palm trees were carved.

21 The [n]doorposts of the temple were square, as was the front of the sanctuary; their appearance was similar. 22 [o]The altar was of wood, three cubits high, and its length two cubits. Its corners, its length, and its sides were of wood; and he said to me, "This is [p]the table that is [q]before the LORD."

23 [r]The temple and the sanctuary had two doors. 24 The doors had two [s]panels apiece, two folding panels: two panels for one door and two panels for the other door. 25 Cherubim and palm trees were carved on the doors of the temple just as they were carved on the walls. A wooden canopy was on the front of the vestibule outside. 26 There were [t]beveled window frames and palm trees on one side and on the other, on the sides of the vestibule—also on the side chambers of the temple and on the canopies.

The Chambers for the Priests

42 Then he [a]brought me out into the outer court, by the way toward the [b]north; and he brought me into [c]the chamber which was opposite the separating courtyard, and which was opposite the building toward the north. 2 Facing the length, which was one hundred cubits (the width was fifty cubits), was the north door. 3 Opposite the inner court of twenty cubits, and opposite the [d]pavement of the outer court, was [e]gallery against gallery in three stories. 4 In front of the chambers, toward the inside, was a walk ten cubits wide, at a distance of one cubit; and their doors faced north. 5 Now the upper chambers were shorter, because the galleries took away space from them more than from the lower and middle stories of the building. 6 For they were in three stories and did not have pillars like the pillars of the courts; therefore the upper level was [f]shortened more than the lower and middle levels from the ground up. 7 And a wall which was outside ran parallel to the chambers, at the front of the chambers, toward the outer court; its length was fifty cubits. 8 The length of the chambers toward the outer court was fifty cubits, whereas that facing the temple was one [f]hundred cubits. 9 At the lower chambers was the entrance on the east side, as one goes into them from the outer court.

10 Also there were chambers in the thickness of the wall of the court toward the east, opposite the separating courtyard and opposite the building. 11 [g]There was a walk in front of them also, and their appearance was like the chambers which were toward the north; they were as long and as wide as the others, and all their exits and entrances were according to plan. 12 And corresponding to the doors of the chambers that were facing south, as one enters them, there was a door in front of the walk, the way directly in front of the wall toward the east.

■ 41:22 altar. The table of showbread is described as an altar only here. Ezekiel probably does so because the bread was consumed by priests like part of a sacrificial meal, and because the incense set out with the bread was viewed as a memorial offering (Lev. 24:5–9; 1 Sam. 21:3–6).

■ 42:1–14 These rooms should not be confused with those built on the perimeter of the temple building itself (41:5–12 note). These were along the north and south sides of the wall separating the inner and outer courts.

13 Then he said to me, "The north chambers and the south chambers, which are opposite the separating courtyard, are the holy chambers where the priests who approach the LORD [h]shall eat the most holy offerings. There they shall lay the most holy offerings—[i]the grain offering, the sin offering, and the trespass offering—for the place is holy. 14 [j]When the priests enter them, they shall not go out of the holy chamber into the outer court; but there they shall leave their garments in which they minister, for they are holy. They shall put on other garments; then they may approach that which is for the people."

Outer Dimensions of the Temple

15 Now when he had finished measuring the inner [2]temple, he brought me out through the gateway that faces toward the [k]east, and measured it all around. 16 He measured the east side with the [3]measuring rod, five hundred rods by the measuring rod all around. 17 He measured the north side, five hundred rods by the measuring rod all around. 18 He measured the south side, five hundred rods by the measuring rod. 19 He came around to the west side and measured five hundred rods by the measuring rod all around. 20 He measured it on the four sides; [l]it had a wall all around, [m]five hundred cubits long and five hundred wide, to separate the holy areas from the [4]common.

The Temple, the LORD's Dwelling Place

43 Afterward he brought me to the gate, the gate [a]that faces toward the east. 2 [b]And behold, the glory of the God of Israel came from the way of the east. [c]His voice was like the sound of many waters; [d]and the earth shone with His glory. 3 It was [e]like the appearance of the vision which I saw—like the vision which I saw when [1]I came [f]to destroy the city. The visions were like the vision which I saw [g]by the River Chebar; and I fell on my face. 4 [h]And the glory of the LORD came into the [2]temple by way of the gate which faces toward the east. 5 [i]The Spirit lifted me up and brought me into the inner court; and behold, [j]the glory of the LORD filled the [3]temple.

6 Then I heard Him speaking to me from the temple, while [k]a man stood beside me. 7 And He said to me, "Son of man, this is [l]the place of My throne and [m]the place of the soles of My feet, [n]where I will dwell in the midst of the children of Israel forever. [o]No more shall the house of Israel defile My holy name, they nor their kings, by their [4]harlotry or with [p]the carcasses of their kings on their high places. 8 [q]When they set their threshold by My threshold, and their doorpost by My doorpost, with a wall between them and Me, they defiled My holy name by the abominations which they committed; therefore I have consumed them in My anger. 9 Now let them put their harlotry and the carcasses of their kings far away from Me, and I will dwell in their midst forever.

10 "Son of man, [r]describe the [5]temple to the house of Israel, that they may be ashamed of their iniquities; and let them measure the pattern. 11 And if they are ashamed of all that they have done, make known to them the design of the [6]temple and its arrangement, its exits and its entrances, its entire design and all its [s]ordinances, all its forms and all its laws. Write it down in their sight, so that they may keep its whole design and all its ordinances, and [t]perform them. 12 This is the law of the [7]temple: The whole area surrounding [u]the mountaintop is most holy. Behold, this is the law of the temple.

five hundred cubits. The 500 cubits is the sum of the lengths of the north outer gateway (50), part of the outer court (100), the north inner gateway (50), the inner court (100), the south inner gateway (50), part of the outer court (100), and the south outer gateway (50).

■ 43:1–5 The prophet had an earlier vision of the glory of the Lord departing from the city (10:18–22; 11:22–24); now in his vision he witnesses its return. The glory comes from the east, the direction to which it had departed (11:23). The glory of the Lord had filled the tabernacle and Solomon's temple when they were dedicated (Ex. 40:34, 35; 1 Kin. 8:10, 11; 2 Chr. 5:13, 14; 7:1, 2; cf. Is. 60:1–3). See note on 11:22–24. The temple of the restoration period, built by Zerubbabel, was not built according to Ezekiel's vision; it was smaller than Solomon's temple (Ezra 3:12, 13; Hag. 2:3). Yet Haggai prophesied that the glory of Zerubbabel's temple would exceed that of Solomon's (Hag. 2:7–9), because God's presence would be there.

■ 43:7 throne. The Jerusalem temple was understood as the place where God had His throne; He was enthroned above the ark in the Most Holy Place (1 Sam. 4:4; 2 Sam. 6:2; 2 Kin. 19:15; 1 Chr. 13:6; Ps. 80:1; 99:1; 132:13, 14; Is. 6:1; 37:16).

■ 43:10 pattern. The patterns for Israel's past sanctuaries had come from God; so too the plans for the temple in Ezekiel's vision were of divine origin. See note on 40:1—48:35. Like Moses who gave Israel the laws for the tabernacle, Ezekiel saw the promise only from a distance, in a vision (Num. 27:12, 13; Deut. 32:52; 34:4).

■ 43:12 law of the temple. Ezekiel's temple vision is the only body of ritual law in the Bible not from the mouth of Moses. Like Moses, Ezekiel had received this law on a high mountain (40:2; Ex. 25:9, 40).

Dimensions of the Altar

13 "These are the measurements of the [v]altar in cubits [w](the [g]cubit is one cubit and a handbreadth): the base one cubit high and one cubit wide, with a rim all around its edge of one span. This is the height of the altar: 14 from the base on the ground to the lower ledge, two cubits; the width of the ledge, one cubit; from the smaller ledge to the larger ledge, four cubits; and the width of the ledge, one cubit. 15 The altar hearth is four cubits high, with four [x]horns extending upward from the [y]hearth. 16 The altar hearth is twelve cubits long, twelve wide, [y]square at its four corners; 17 the ledge, fourteen cubits long and fourteen wide on its four sides, with a rim of half a cubit around it; its base, one cubit all around; and [z]its steps face toward the east."

Consecrating the Altar

18 And He said to me, "Son of man, thus says the Lord GOD: 'These are the ordinances for the altar on the day when it is made, for sacrificing [a]burnt offerings on it, and for [b]sprinkling blood on it. 19 You shall give [c]a young bull for a sin offering to [d]the priests, the Levites, who are of the seed of [e]Zadok, who approach Me to minister to Me,' says the Lord GOD. 20 You shall take some of its blood and put it on the four horns of the altar, on the four corners of the ledge, and on the rim around it; thus you shall cleanse it and make atonement for it. 21 Then you shall also take the bull of the sin offering, and [f]burn it in the appointed place of the [f]temple, [g]outside the sanctuary. 22 On the second day you shall offer a kid of the goats without blemish for a sin offering; and they shall cleanse the altar, as they cleansed it with the bull. 23 When you have finished cleansing it, you shall offer a young bull without blemish, and a ram from the flock without blemish. 24 When you offer them before the LORD, [h]the priests shall throw salt on them, and they will offer them up as a burnt offering to the LORD. 25 Every day for [i]seven days you shall prepare a goat for a sin offering; they shall also prepare a young bull and a ram from the flock, both without blemish. 26 Seven days they shall make atonement for the altar and purify it, and so [2]consecrate [3]it. 27 [j]When these days are over it shall be, on the eighth day and thereafter, that the priests shall offer your burnt offerings and your peace offerings on the altar; and I will [k]accept you,' says the Lord GOD."

The East Gate and the Prince

44 Then He brought me back to the outer gate of the sanctuary [a]which faces toward the east, but it was shut. 2 And the LORD said to me, "This gate shall be shut; it shall not be opened, and no man shall enter by it, [b]because the LORD God of Israel has entered by it; therefore it shall be shut. 3 As for the [c]prince, because he is the prince, he may sit in it to [d]eat bread before the LORD; he shall enter by way of the vestibule of the gateway, and go out the same way."

Those Admitted to the Temple

4 Also He brought me by way of the north gate to the front of the [f]temple; so I looked, and [e]behold, the glory of the LORD filled the house of the LORD; [f]and I fell on my face. 5 And the altar. The altar was built as a series of platforms, each smaller than the one below, similar to a step-pyramid or ziggurat. The ancient rabbis had many discussions about this altar since its construction contradicted the command that the altar should not have steps (Ex. 20:24–26).

■ 43:18 sprinkling blood. See Ex. 29:16; Lev. 4:6; 5:9.

■ 43:19 seed of Zadok. See note on 44:15.

■ 43:21 outside. See Ex. 29:14; Lev. 4:12, 21; 8:17; 9:11; 16:27. The writer of Hebrews interprets these instructions as an aspect of Christ's offering of Himself (Heb. 13:11–13).

■ 44:1 shut. The prophet had been in the inner court (43:5), but is now taken to the eastern gate. That gate will remain closed because the glory of the Lord had entered the temple through it (v. 2; 43:4; cf. Ps. 24:7–10). That the gate is closed may also imply that the Lord will never leave the temple again (43:7, 9). The so-called Golden Gate in the eastern wall of the Old City of Jerusalem is walled shut. This gate from the Byzantine period (A.D. 300—650) was restored in the Crusader period (A.D. 1000–1100). It is no doubt positioned above the remains of gates from earlier periods. The gate was walled shut during the Muslim rule of Suleiman the Magnificent in the sixteenth century. Since this part of Ezekiel plays a role in Muslim eschatology, it may have provided a reason for walling up the gate. However, all the gates to the south and east of the temple platform were closed at this time in order to control access to the mosques on the platform above.

■ 44:3 prince. Since the gate is closed, the gateway becomes a room; in this room the prince will be allowed to eat his portion of sacrificial meals. This provision has never been put into effect for any king of Israel. In Ezekiel's vision it represents the special relationship the promised king would maintain with the temple. See note on 37:24.

■ 44:4–9 While some portions of the Old Testament emphasize restrictions on the participation of foreigners in Israel's worship (Ex. 12:43; Lev. 22:25; Neh. 9:2; Jer. 51:51), other passages anticipate the participation of foreigners (47:22, 23; 1 Kin. 8:41, 43; 2 Chr. 6:32, 33; Is. 56:3, 6; cf. Zech. 14:21; Eph. 2:12, 19). Similar restrictions on foreigners characterize other writings from the period after the Babylonian exile (Ezra 4:1–3; 10:10–44; Neh. 13:1–9; Hag. 2:14). In the New Testament period there was a written warning at the entrance to the temple prohibiting Gentiles from entering the temple on pain of death (cf. Acts 21:26–30). In the New Israel of the new covenant, the church, all such distinctions between Jew and Gentile have been removed. Part of Christ's purpose was to destroy these barriers (Matt. 10:18; Luke 2:32; Acts 9:15; 10:28, 45; 11:1, 18; 13:46–48; Rom. 1:5, 16; 2:10; 3:29; 10:12; 15:16; Gal. 3:8, 28; Eph. 2:11–18; 3:6).

LORD said to me, [a]"Son of man, [2]mark well, see with your eyes and hear with your ears, all that I say to you concerning all the [h]ordinances of the house of the LORD and all its laws. Mark well who may enter the house and all who go out from the sanctuary.

6 "Now say to the [i]rebellious, to the house of Israel, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "O house of Israel, [j]let Us have no more of all your abominations. 7 [k]When you brought in [l]foreigners, [m]uncircumcised in heart and uncircumcised in flesh, to be in My sanctuary to defile it—My house—and when you offered [n]My food, [o]the fat and the blood, then they broke My covenant because of all your abominations. 8 And you have not [p]kept charge of My holy things, but you have set others to keep charge of My sanctuary for you." 9 Thus says the Lord GOD: [q]"No foreigner, uncircumcised in heart or uncircumcised in flesh, shall enter My sanctuary, including any foreigner who is among the children of Israel.

Laws Governing Priests

10 [r]"And the Levites who went far from Me, when Israel went astray, who strayed away from Me after their idols, they shall bear their iniquity. 11 Yet they shall be ministers in My sanctuary, [s]as gatekeepers of the house and ministers of the house; [t]they shall slay the burnt offering and the sacrifice for the people, and [u]they shall stand before them to minister to them. 12 Because they ministered to them before their idols and [v]caused[3] the house of Israel to fall into iniquity, therefore I have [w]raised My hand in an oath against them," says the Lord GOD, "that they shall bear their iniquity. 13 [x]And they shall not come near Me to minister to Me as priest, nor come near any of My holy things, nor into the Most Holy Place; but they shall [y]bear their shame and their abominations which they have committed. 14 Nevertheless I will make them [z]keep charge of the temple, for all its work, and for all that has to be done in it.

15 [a]"But the priests, the Levites, [b]the sons of Zadok, who kept charge of My sanctuary [c]when the children of Israel went astray from Me, they shall come near Me to minister to Me; and they [d]shall stand before Me to offer to Me the [e]fat and the blood," says the Lord GOD. 16 "They shall [f]enter My sanctuary, and they shall come near [g]My table to minister to Me, and they shall keep My charge. 17 And it shall be, whenever they enter the gates of the inner court, that [h]they shall put on linen garments; no wool shall come upon them while they minister within the gates of the inner court or within the house. 18 [i]They shall have linen turbans on their heads and linen trousers on their bodies; they shall not clothe themselves with anything that causes sweat. 19 When they go out to the outer court, to the outer court to the people, [j]they shall take off their garments in which they have ministered, leave them in the holy chambers, and put on other garments; and in their holy garments they shall [k]not sanctify the people.

20 [l]"They shall neither shave their heads, nor let their hair grow [m]long, but they shall keep their hair well trimmed. 21 [n]No priest shall drink wine when he enters the inner court. 22 They shall not take as wife a [o]widow or a divorced woman, but take virgins of the descendants of the house of Israel, or widows of priests.

23 "And [p]they shall teach My people the difference between the holy and the unholy, and cause them to [q]discern between the unclean and the clean. 24 [r]In controversy they shall stand as judges, and judge it according to My judgments. They shall keep My laws and My statutes in all My appointed meetings, [s]and they shall hallow My Sabbaths.

25 "They shall not defile themselves by coming near a dead person. Only for father or mother, for son or daughter, for brother or unmarried sister may they defile themselves. 26 [t]After he is cleansed, they shall count seven days for him. 27 And on the day that he goes to the sanctuary to minister in the sanctuary, [u]he must offer his sin offering [v]in the inner court," says the Lord GOD.

28 "It shall be, in regard to their inheritance, that I [w]am their inheritance. You shall give them no [x]possession in Israel, for I am their possession. 29 [y]They shall eat the grain offering, the sin offering, and the trespass offering; [z]every dedicated thing in Israel shall be theirs. 30 The [a]best[4]

■ 44:10–14 Though foreigners had served in the temple in the past (Josh. 9:3, 6, 21), they will no longer be allowed to enter. The tasks they had performed belonged to the Levites (Num. 1:50–53; 3:6, 8, 28–32; 1 Chr. 23:24–32; 2 Chr. 8:14, 15). Priestly families that had engaged in idolatry before the Babylonian exile (8:6) will now join their fellow Levites in the more menial tasks of the temple and as assistants to the priests. The priesthood itself will be restricted to the line of Zadok (v. 15; 40:45, 46).

■ 44:15 Zadok. Zadok had served as high priest alongside Abiathar during the reign of David (2 Sam. 15:24–29; 20:25). Abiathar was dismissed because he had supported Adonijah against Solomon (1 Kin. 1:7; 2:26), but Zadok had supported Solomon and became the only high priest. The priesthood had earlier been restricted among the Levites to the descendants of Aaron (Ex. 28:1; Lev. 8:2–7; 9:1–24; Num. 20:25–28; 1 Chr. 6:48–53), and Ezekiel foresees a further restriction to one family from Aaron.

■ 44:24 judges. For the judicial role of the priests, see 1 Chr. 26:29; 2 Chr. 19:8–11.

■ 44:25 dead person. Contact with death made a person unclean; priests, and especially the high priest, had to avoid such contact (Lev. 21:1–12).

of all firstfruits of any kind, and every sacrifice of any kind from all your sacrifices, shall be the priest's; also you [b]shall give to the priest the first of your ground meal, [c]to cause a blessing to rest on your house. 31 The priests shall not eat anything, bird or beast, that [d]died naturally or was torn by wild beasts.

The Holy District

45 "Moreover, when you [a]divide the land by lot into inheritance, you shall [b]set apart a district for the LORD, a holy section of the land; its length shall be twenty-five thousand cubits, and the width ten thousand. It shall be holy throughout its territory all around. 2 Of this there shall be a square plot for the sanctuary, [c]five hundred by five hundred rods, with fifty cubits around it for an open space. 3 So this is the district you shall measure: twenty-five thousand cubits long and ten thousand wide; [d]in it shall be the sanctuary, the Most Holy Place. 4 It shall be [e]a holy section of the land, belonging to the priests, the ministers of the sanctuary, who come near to minister to the LORD; it shall be a place for their houses and a holy place for the sanctuary. 5 [f]An area twenty-five thousand cubits long and ten thousand wide shall belong to the Levites, the ministers of the [1]temple; they shall have [g]twenty[2] chambers as a possession.

Properties of the City and the Prince

6 [h]"You shall appoint as the property of the city an area five thousand cubits wide and twenty-five thousand long, adjacent to the district of the holy section; it shall belong to the whole house of Israel.

7 [i]"The prince shall have a section on one side and the other of the holy district and the city's property; and bordering on the holy district and the city's property, extending westward on the west side and eastward on the east side, the length shall be side by side with one of the tribal portions, from the west border to the east border. 8 The land shall be his possession in Israel; and [j]My princes shall no more oppress My people, but they shall give the rest of the land to the house of Israel, according to their tribes."

Laws Governing the Prince

9 Thus says the Lord GOD: [k]"Enough, O princes of Israel! [l]Remove violence and plundering, execute justice and righteousness, and stop dispossessing My people," says the Lord GOD. 10 "You shall have [m]honest scales, an honest ephah, and an honest bath. 11 The ephah and the bath shall be of the same measure, so that the bath contains one-tenth of a homer, and the ephah one-tenth of a homer; their measure shall be according to the homer. 12 The [n]shekel shall be twenty gerahs; twenty shekels, twenty-five shekels, and fifteen shekels shall be your mina.

13 "This is the offering which you shall offer: you shall give one-sixth of an ephah from a homer of wheat, and one-sixth of an ephah from a homer of barley. 14 The ordinance concerning oil, the bath of oil, is one-tenth of a bath from a kor. A kor is a homer or ten baths, for ten baths are a homer. 15 And one lamb shall be given from a flock of two hundred, from the rich pastures of Israel. These shall be for grain offerings, burnt offerings, and peace offerings, [o]to make atonement for them," says the Lord GOD. 16 "All the people of the land shall give this offering for the prince in Israel. 17 Then it shall be the [p]prince's part to give burnt offerings, grain offerings, and drink offerings, at the feasts, the New Moons, the Sabbaths, and at all the appointed seasons of the house of Israel. He shall prepare the sin offering, the grain offering, the burnt offering, and the peace offerings to make atonement for the house of Israel."

■ 44:31 eat. The prohibition against eating meat of an animal found dead applied to all Israel (Lev. 11:39, 40; Deut. 14:21).

■ 45:1–8 The allocation of the land will be taken up in greater detail in ch. 47. The concern here is the sacred precincts. Ezekiel describes a sacred area in the middle of the land, a square about 8 miles (25,000 cubits) on a side, further subdivided into three strips of land (cf. Rev. 21:16). The northern zone (about 25 square miles) was set aside for the use of the Levites. The center zone contained the sanctuary and was set apart for the priests. The southern zone, about half the size of the other two, was given to the city itself. The area east and west of the 8-mile square was given to the prince, while the area north and south will be divided among the other tribes. Interestingly, in Ezekiel's vision the temple itself was outside the city proper.

■ 45:10 honest. Apparently the use of false weights and balances was common (Lev. 19:35, 36; Deut. 25:13–16; Prov. 11:1; Amos 8:5; Mic. 6:10–12).

ephah . . . bath. The ephah was a dry measure of about five gallons. The bath was a liquid measure of about six gallons.

■ 45:11 homer. Ten baths or ephahs made a homer, or about fifty gallons.

■ 45:12 shekel . . . mina. A shekel was about two-fifths of an ounce; a mina of sixty shekels would be about a pound and a half. The mina was normally fifty shekels.

■ 45:17 prince's part. Israel's princes were also responsible to make offerings on behalf of the people (vv. 13–17). The people would give offerings in kind to the prince, who in turn provided them to the sanctuary (cf. 2 Chr. 30:24). See notes on 37:24; 44:3.

Keeping the Feasts

18 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "In the first month, on the first day of the month, you shall take a young bull without blemish and [q]cleanse the sanctuary. 19 [r]The priest shall take some of the blood of the sin offering and put it on the doorposts of the [3]temple, on the four corners of the ledge of the altar, and on the gateposts of the gate of the inner court. 20 And so you shall do on the seventh day of the month [s]for everyone who has sinned unintentionally or in ignorance. Thus you shall make atonement for the temple.

21 [t]"In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month, you shall observe the Passover, a feast of seven days; unleavened bread shall be eaten. 22 And on that day the prince shall prepare for himself and for all the people of the land [u]a bull for a sin offering. 23 On the [v]seven days of the feast he shall prepare a burnt offering to the LORD, seven bulls and seven rams without blemish, daily for seven days, [w]and a kid of the goats daily for a sin offering. 24 [x]And he shall prepare a grain offering of one ephah for each bull and one ephah for each ram, together with a hin of oil for each ephah.

25 "In the seventh month, on the fifteenth day of the month, at the [y]feast, he shall do likewise for seven days, according to the sin offering, the burnt offering, the grain offering, and the oil."

The Manner of Worship

46 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "The gateway of the inner court that faces toward the east shall be shut the six [a]working days; but on the Sabbath it shall be opened, and on the day of the New Moon it shall be opened. 2 [b]The prince shall enter by way of the vestibule of the gateway from the outside, and stand by the gatepost. The priests shall prepare his burnt offering and his peace offerings. He shall worship at the threshold of the gate. Then he shall go out, but the gate shall not be shut until evening. 3 Likewise the people of the land shall worship at the entrance to this gateway before the LORD on the Sabbaths and the New Moons. 4 The burnt offering that [c]the prince offers to the LORD on the [d]Sabbath day shall be six lambs without blemish, and a ram without blemish; 5 [e]and the grain offering shall be one ephah for a ram, and the grain offering for the lambs, [1]as much as he wants to give, as well as a hin of oil with every ephah. 6 On the day of the New Moon it shall be a young bull without blemish, six lambs, and a ram; they shall be without blemish. 7 He shall prepare a grain offering of an ephah for a bull, an ephah for a ram, [2]as much as he wants to give for the lambs, and a hin of oil with every ephah. 8 [f]When the prince enters, he shall go in by way of the vestibule of the gateway, and go out the same way.

9 "But when the people of the land [g]come before the LORD on the appointed feast days, whoever enters by way of the north [h]gate to worship shall go out by way of the south gate; and whoever enters by way of the south gate shall go out by way of the north gate. He shall not return by way of the gate through which he came, but shall go out through the opposite gate. 10 The prince shall then be in their midst. When they go in, he shall go in; and when they go out, he shall go out. 11 At the festivals and the appointed feast days [i]the grain offering shall be an ephah for a bull, an ephah for a ram, as much as he wants to give for the lambs, and a hin of oil with every ephah.

12 "Now when the prince makes a voluntary burnt offering or voluntary peace offering to the LORD, the gate that faces toward the east [j]shall then be opened for him; and he shall prepare his burnt offering and his peace offerings as he did on the Sabbath day. Then he shall go out, and after he goes out the gate shall be shut.

13 [k]"You shall daily make a burnt offering to the LORD of a lamb of the first year without blemish; you shall prepare it [3]every morning. 14 And you shall prepare a grain offering with it

■ 45:18–25 These regulations cover aspects of the ceremonial observances in the first month (New Year's Day, vv. 18–20) and seventh month (Passover, vv. 21–24, and Tabernacles, v. 25). This legislation may have represented modifications of earlier liturgical practice. Once again, like Moses, Ezekiel provides religious and ceremonial law to Israel (see notes on 43:10, 12).

■ 45:19 altar. Compare the consecration of the altar in Ex. 29:35–37.

■ 45:24 hin. A liquid measure of about one gallon.

■ 46:2 prince. The prince will be allowed to enter as far as the inner threshold of the eastern gate into the inner courtyard on festival days; on other days he will enter and leave with the ordinary people (vv. 9, 10) unless he is making a freewill offering (v. 12). The prince has special privileges with reference to the eastern gate in the outer courtyard (44:1 note; 44:3 note). From his vantage point at the threshold of the inner gate, the prince will have a full view of the inner courtyard and the great altar; but entry to the inner court is restricted to priests and Levites.

■ 46:4 burnt offering. The specifications for this offering differ from the Sabbath offerings in Num. 28:9, where two lambs and no ram are required.

■ 46:6 day of the New Moon. The first day of the month. The specifications again differ from earlier legislation (Num. 28:11).

■ 46:13 daily. Whereas most of the preceding regulations concerned offerings on particular days of the Old Testament liturgical calendar, God was to be worshiped in Israel every day (vv. 13–15). The provisions for these daily offerings differ from earlier practice (Num. 28:3–8; 2 Kin. 16:15; 1 Chr. 16:40; 2 Chr. 13:11; 31:3).

every morning, a sixth of an ephah, and a third of a hin of oil to moisten the fine flour. This grain offering is a perpetual ordinance, to be made regularly to the LORD. 15 Thus they shall prepare the lamb, the grain offering, and the oil, as a [f]regular burnt offering every morning."

The Prince and Inheritance Laws

16 'Thus says the Lord GOD: "If the prince gives a gift of some of his inheritance to any of his sons, it shall belong to his sons; it is their possession by inheritance. 17 But if he gives a gift of some of his inheritance to one of his servants, it shall be his until [m]the year of liberty, after which it shall return to the prince. But his inheritance shall belong to his sons; it shall become theirs. 18 Moreover [n]the prince shall not take any of the people's inheritance by evicting them from their property; he shall provide an inheritance for his sons from his own property, so that none of My people may be scattered from his property." ' "

How the Offerings Were Prepared

19 Now he brought me through the entrance, which was at the side of the gate, into the holy [o]chambers of the priests which face toward the north; and there a place was situated at their extreme western end. 20 And he said to me, "This is the place where the priests shall [p]boil the trespass offering and the sin offering, and where they shall [q]bake the grain offering, so that they do not bring them out into the outer court [r]to sanctify the people."

21 Then he brought me out into the outer court and caused me to pass by the four corners of the court; and in fact, in every corner of the court there was another court. 22 In the four corners of the court were enclosed courts, forty cubits long and thirty wide; all four corners were the same size. 23 There was a row of building stones all around in them, all around the four of them; and [4]cooking hearths were made under the rows of stones all around. 24 And he said to me, "These are the [5]kitchens where the ministers of the [6]temple shall [s]boil the sacrifices of the people."

The Healing Waters and Trees

47 Then he brought me back to the door of the [f]temple; and there was [a]water, flowing from under the threshold of the temple toward the east, for the front of the temple faced east; the water was flowing from under the right side of the temple, south of the altar. 2 He brought me out by way of the north gate, and led me around on the outside to the outer gateway that faces [b]east; and there was water, running out on the right side.

3 And when [c]the man went out to the east with the line in his hand, he measured one thousand cubits, and he brought me through the waters; the water came up to my ankles. 4 Again he measured one thousand and brought me through the waters; the water came up to my knees. Again he measured one thousand and brought me through; the water came up to my waist. 5 Again he measured one thousand, and it was a river that I could not cross; for the water was too deep, water in which one must swim, a river that could not be crossed. 6 He said to me, "Son of man, have you seen this?" Then he brought me and returned me to the bank of the river.

7 When I returned, there, along the bank of the river, were very many [d]trees on one side and

■ 46:16–18 In redeeming Israel from Egypt and later Babylon, God removed them from the place of bondage, but also secured for them an inheritance in their own land. The land was supposed to be inalienable (Lev. 25:14–17, 23, 24; 1 Kin. 21), representing the permanence of the redemption and inheritance that God had provided (1 Pet. 1:4).

■ 46:16 sons. Ezekiel envisaged the restoration of Davidic rule. See notes on 37:24; 44:3.

■ 46:17 year of liberty. This is most likely a reference to the Year of Jubilee (Lev. 25:8–17; 27:24; Is. 61:1, 2).

■ 46:20 bake. Old Testament worship combined sacrifice and prayer with eating and social activity. These regulations specify the places where the Levites would prepare offerings for the sacrificial meals that are eaten by worshipers.

■ 47:1, 2 The courtyard of the tabernacle had a large basin or laver where the priests washed (Ex. 30:17–21). In Solomon's temple there was a much larger Sea (1 Kin. 7:23–26). This Sea too was used for ritual washing (2 Chr. 4:6), but in addition it symbolized the primeval ocean, no longer as a menacing symbol of chaos (28:2 note), but subjected by God to the service of His temple. In Ezekiel's temple vision, these earlier basins are replaced by a life-giving river (Rev. 21:1; 22:1, 2). The tabernacle laver and the temple Sea stood south of the altar in the sanctuary courtyard; the river too originates from south of the altar. This passage should be compared with others that speak of a river in the city of God (Ps. 46:4), or describe the eruption of a stream in the city (Joel 3:18; Zech. 14:3–8). Since the temple in part symbolized paradise, Ezekiel's river recalls the rivers issuing from the Garden of Eden (Gen. 2:10–14).

■ 47:3–12 The river brings life everywhere it goes, transforming Israel into a paradisal garden. Jerusalem is built on a geological watershed on top of a ridge of hills. Rain falling there flows into the Kidron Valley and makes its way into the Dead Sea. Jesus appealed to the images used in this passage to describe Himself. He told the Samaritan woman that He was the source of life-giving water (John 4:10–14). When the disciples were surprised that Jesus was talking with a Samaritan woman, He spoke to them of an unending harvest that had already begun (John 4:27–38), in effect drawing on Ezekiel's picture of trees bearing twelve crops a year. John also records Jesus' saying that He is the source of streams of living water, adding the comment that Jesus was speaking of God's Spirit (John 7:37–39).

the other. 8 Then he said to me: "This water flows toward the eastern region, goes down into the [2]valley, and enters the sea. When it reaches the sea, its waters are healed. 9 And it shall be that every living thing that moves, wherever [3]the rivers go, will live. There will be a very great multitude of fish, because these waters go there; for they will be healed, and everything will live wherever the river goes. 10 It shall be that fishermen will stand by it from En Gedi to En Eglaim; they will be places for spreading their nets. Their fish will be of the same kinds as the fish [e]of the Great Sea, exceedingly many. 11 But its swamps and marshes will not be healed; they will be given over to salt. 12 [f]Along the bank of the river, on this side and that, will grow all kinds of trees used for food; [g]their leaves will not wither, and their fruit will not fail. They will bear fruit every month, because their water flows from the sanctuary. Their fruit will be for food, and their leaves for [h]medicine."[4]

Borders of the Land

13 Thus says the Lord GOD: "These are the [i]borders by which you shall divide the land as an inheritance among the twelve tribes of Israel. [j]Joseph shall have two portions. 14 You shall inherit it equally with one another; for I [k]raised My hand in an oath to give it to your fathers, and this land shall [l]fall to you as your inheritance.

15 "This shall be the border of the land on the north: from the Great Sea, by [m]the road to Hethlon, as one goes to [n]Zedad, 16 [o]Hamath, [p]Berothah, Sibraim (which is between the border of Damascus and the border of Hamath), to Hazar Hatticon (which is on the border of Hauran). 17 Thus the boundary shall be from the Sea to [q]Hazar Enan, the border of Damascus; and as for the north, northward, it is the border of Hamath. This is the north side.

18 "On the east side you shall mark out the border from between Hauran and Damascus, and between Gilead and the land of Israel, along the Jordan, and along the eastern side of the sea. This is the east side.

19 "The south side, toward the [5]South, shall be from Tamar to [r]the waters of [6]Meribah by Kadesh, along the brook to the Great Sea. This is the south side, toward the South.

20 "The west side shall be the Great Sea, from the southern boundary until one comes to a point opposite Hamath. This is the west side.

21 "Thus you shall [s]divide this land among yourselves according to the tribes of Israel. 22 It shall be that you will divide it by [t]lot as an inheritance for yourselves, [u]and for the strangers who dwell among you and who bear children among you. [v]They shall be to you as native-born among the children of Israel; they shall have an inheritance with you among the tribes of Israel. 23 And it shall be that in whatever tribe the stranger dwells, there you shall give him his inheritance," says the Lord GOD.

CHAPTER 48

1 [a]Ezek. 47:15

■ 47:10 En Gedi. On the western shore of the Dead Sea (Josh. 15:62; 1 Sam. 23:29; 2 Chr. 20:2).

En Eglaim. Near the northwest corner of the Dead Sea.

■ 47:11 swamps and marshes. That the swamps and marshes would be left for salt may show familiarity with the tradition that the shallow southern reaches of the Dead Sea were the sites of the ancient cities of Sodom and Gomorrah (Gen. 19:27–29).

■ 47:13 Joseph shall have two portions. In Ezekiel's vision the land would be divided equally among the twelve tribes. Since the tribe of Levi received its territorial inheritance inside the sacred precincts of Jerusalem (45:1–8 note), the number twelve was maintained by substituting for Joseph the two sons of Joseph, Ephraim and Manasseh (Gen. 48:1–6).

■ 47:14 your inheritance. This is the land God promised to the patriarchs (Gen. 12:7; 15:18–21; 22:17; 28:4), and that was possessed during the reigns of David and Solomon (1 Kin. 8:65; 1 Chr. 13:5; 2 Chr. 9:26).

■ 47:15 border. The boundaries detailed here (vv. 15–20) mention a number of sites that are not known, but they roughly correspond to other such lists (Num. 34:1–12; 1 Kin. 8:65). However, the allocation of the land (ch. 48) is quite different from the historical boundaries of the tribes. The eastern and western boundaries are easy to identify: on the east, the boundary began in the headwaters of the Jordan south of Damascus, down the Jordan River, and along the western shore of the Dead Sea; on the west, the border was the Mediterranean Sea. The northern and southern borders are more difficult to establish: in the north, the line began near Tyre and proceeded east to a point north of the Sea of Galilee; in the south, it ran from a point below the Dead Sea to the Brook of Egypt (the Wadi el-Arish) on the Mediterranean coast.

■ 48:1–29 In Ezekiel's vision the allotment of the land among the tribes is different from what it was historically. Each tribe is allotted a horizontal strip of land connecting with the eastern and western borders. The status of Jacob's wives and of the individual tribes seem to be the determining factors in the arrangement of the tribes; cf. Num. 2; 3. The northernmost tribes (Dan, Asher, and Naphtali) were traditionally located in the north; the southernmost tribe (Gad, v. 27) was historically a northern tribe. These four tribes are the sons of Leah's servant Zilpah and Rachel's servant Bilhah (Gen. 30:3–8, 10–13); as such they are located at the outer extremities of the tribal allotments in Ezekiel's vision.

Judah is the closest tribe north of the sacred area in the center of the land (vv. 8–22; 45:1–8). Judah was historically a southern tribe; by presenting the tribe of David as part of the northern tribes, Ezekiel may be saying in effect that the North will "have a share in David" (2 Sam. 20:1; 1 Kin. 12:16; 2 Chr. 10:16). Judah is in the place of honor that would have belonged to the firstborn Reuben; Reuben is immediately north of Judah. Next are the two tribes of Joseph, Ephraim and Manasseh, descendants of Jacob through the favored wife Rachel.

The nearest tribe south of the sacred area is Benjamin. Its favored place reflects the favored status of Rachel and balances the favored position of the Joseph tribes in the north. The remaining three southern tribes (Simeon, Issachar, and Zebulun) are the descendants of Leah; Issachar, Zebulun, and Benjamin historically held allotments in the north.

■ 48:8–22 This description is an elaboration of 45:1–8.

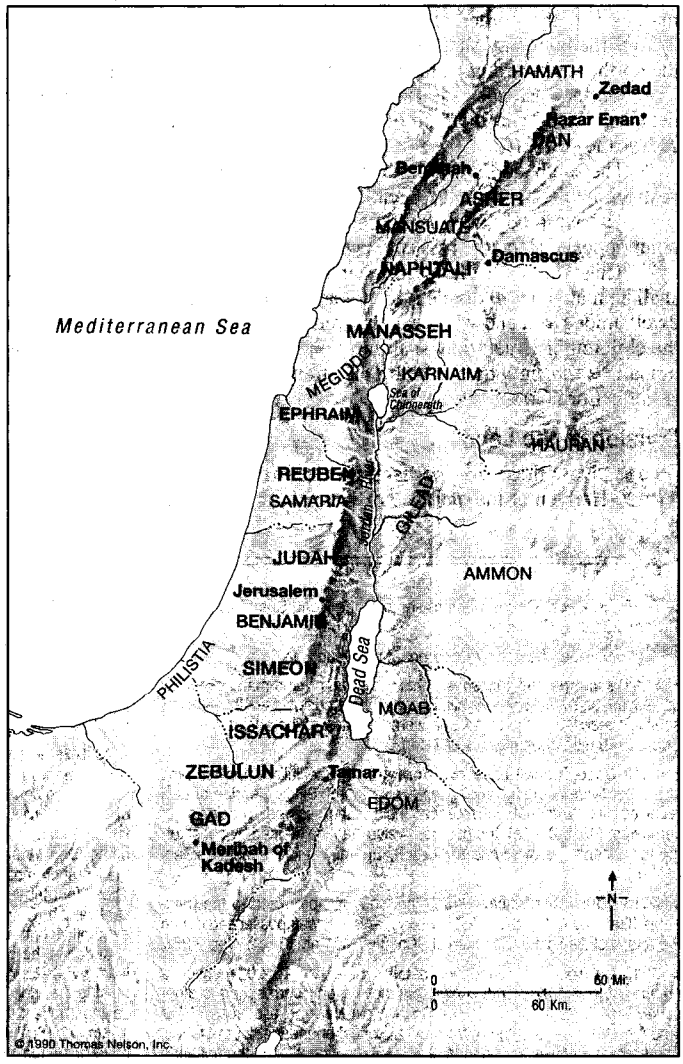
Ezekiel's Vision of the Restoration of the Land. The boundaries of the restored nation of Israel approach the boundaries of the land as it was under David and Solomon. However, the area east of the Jordan—Gilead and Transjordan—will not be a part of this new inheritance. It was not part of the land that had been promised.

The tribes are not arranged as they were historically when the land was divided under Joshua (Josh. 13—19). God will do something new in the restoration.

The central portion of the land around Jerusalem will be set apart for religion and government.

To the north of the central district are seven tribes—Dan, Asher, Naphtali, Manasseh, Ephraim, Reuben, Judah.

To the south are the remaining five tribes—Benjamin, Simeon, Issachar, Zebulun, Gad.



9 "The district that you shall set apart for the LORD shall be twenty-five thousand cubits in length and ten thousand in width. 10 To these—to the priests—the holy district shall belong: on the north twenty-five thousand cubits in length, on the west ten thousand in width, on the east ten thousand in width, and on the south twenty-five thousand in length. The sanctuary of the LORD shall be in the center. 11 [k]It shall be for the priests of the sons of Zadok, who are sanctified, who have kept My charge, who did not go astray when the children of Israel went astray, [l]as the Levites went astray. 12 And this district of land that is set apart shall be to them a thing most [m]holy by the border of the Levites.

13 "Opposite the border of the priests, the [n]Levites shall have an area twenty-five thousand cubits in length and ten thousand in width; its entire length shall be twenty-five thousand and its width ten thousand. 14 [o]And they shall not sell or exchange any of it; they may not alienate this best part of the land, for it is holy to the LORD.

15 [p]"The five thousand cubits in width that remain, along the edge of the twenty-five thousand, shall be [q]for general use by the city, for dwellings and common-land; and the city shall be in the center. 16 These shall be its measurements: the north side four thousand five hundred cubits, the south side four thousand five hundred, the east side four thousand five hundred, and the west side four thousand five hundred. 17 The common-land of the city shall be: to the north two hundred and fifty cubits, to the south two hundred and fifty, to the east two hundred and fifty, and to the west two hundred and fifty. 18 The rest of the length, alongside the district of the holy section, shall be ten thousand cubits to the east and ten thousand to the west. It shall be adjacent to the district of the holy section, and its produce shall be food for the workers of the city. 19 [r]The workers of the city, from all the tribes of Israel, shall cultivate it. 20 The entire district shall be twenty-five thousand cubits by twenty-five thousand cubits, foursquare. You shall set apart the holy district with the property of the city.

21 [s]"The rest shall belong to the prince, on one side and on the other of the holy district and of the city's property, next to the twenty-five thousand cubits of the holy district as far as the eastern border, and westward next to the twenty-five thousand as far as the western border, adjacent to the tribal portions; it shall belong to the prince. It shall be the holy district, [t]and the sanctuary of the [t]temple shall be in the center. 22 Moreover, apart from the possession of the Levites and the possession of the city which are in the midst of what belongs to the prince, the area between the border of Judah and the border of [u]Benjamin shall belong to the prince.

23 "As for the rest of the tribes, from the east side to the west, Benjamin shall have one section; 24 by the border of Benjamin, from the east side to the west, [v]Simeon shall have one section; 25 by the border of Simeon, from the east side to the west, [w]Issachar shall have one section; 26 by the border of Issachar, from the east side to the west, [x]Zebulun shall have one section; 27 by the border of Zebulun, from the east side to the west, [y]Gad shall have one section; 28 by the border of Gad, on the south side, toward the [z]South, the border shall be from Tamar to [z]the waters of [3]Meribah by Kadesh, along the brook to the [a]Great Sea. 29 [b]This is the land which you shall divide by lot as an inheritance among the tribes of Israel, and these are their portions," says the Lord GOD.

The Gates of the City and Its Name

30 "These are the exits of the city. On the north side, measuring four thousand five hundred cubits 31 [c](the gates of the city shall be named after the tribes of Israel), the three gates northward: one gate for Reuben, one gate for Judah, and one gate for Levi; 32 on the east side, four thousand five hundred cubits, three gates: one gate for Joseph, one gate for Benjamin, and one gate for Dan; 33 on the south side, measuring four thousand five hundred cubits, three gates: one gate for Simeon, one gate for Issachar, and one gate for Zebulun; 34 on the west side, four thousand five hundred cubits with their three gates: one gate for Gad, one gate for Asher, and one gate for Naphtali. 35 All the way around shall be eighteen thousand cubits; [d]and the name of the city from that day shall be: [e]THE[4] LORD IS THERE."

■ 48:30–35 The city has twelve gates named for the twelve tribes (cf. Rev. 21:12–14). Since one gate is named after Levi, Ephraim and Manasseh are replaced by their father Joseph.

■ 48:35 THE LORD IS THERE. From the beginning of the Old Testament God had revealed His intention to be with His people. He walked and spoke with them in the Garden of Eden and dwelled in sanctuaries built in their midst. The promise of a child named Immanuel pointed to a day when God would be "with us" (Is. 7:14). The New Testament ends in much the same way as the Book of Ezekiel ends. John too describes the city of God, and a time when God will live with human beings (Rev. 21:3); he ends with the prayer, "Even so, come, Lord Jesus" (Rev. 22:20).

DANIEL

Author The authorship and date of the Book of Daniel have been matters of considerable debate among biblical scholars. The dispute centers on the way Daniel's prophecies and visions look forward to a succession of four ancient empires, beginning with the Babylonian (chs. 2; 7; 11). Daniel describes in great detail the historical relations between the Seleucid and Ptolemaic kingdoms just prior to and during the time of Antiochus IV Epiphanes (ch. 11). To account for this detailed knowledge, many scholars conclude that the book must have been written by an unknown author about 170 B.C., during the lifetime of Antiochus IV Epiphanes and not during the time of Daniel, who was taken to Babylon in 605 B.C. However, representations in the book itself indicate that Daniel was its author (9:2; 10:2) and that it was written shortly after the capture of Babylon by Cyrus in 539 B.C. Also, Jesus quotes the prediction of "the abomination of desolation" found in this book as having been "spoken of by Daniel the prophet" (Matt. 24:15).

Date and Occasion The arguments that have been offered for dating the Book of Daniel during the time of Antiochus IV Epiphanes involve three basic issues: (a) the nature of Old Testament prophecy; (b) historical problems; and (c) the Hebrew and Aramaic language in the book. Each of these topics needs to be considered in turn.

Generally speaking, the prophets of Israel were primarily concerned with the religious and social circumstances confronting their contemporaries, rather than with predicting events in the distant future. When the prophets did predict future events, it was normally of incidents in the near term, such as Jeremiah's prophecies about the imminent fall of Jerusalem to the Babylonians. Daniel's vision concerning the "king of the North" and the "king of the South" parallels exactly the history of relations between the Seleucid and Ptolemaic empires existing at the time of Antiochus IV Epiphanes (11:2–39 and notes), while the description of the circumstances surrounding the death of the king (11:40—12:3) does not correspond to what is otherwise known about Antiochus's death. On this basis some scholars argue that the Book of Daniel was written in Antiochus's time, shortly before his death. However, the idea that Israelite prophets did not predict events in the more distant future depends on the assumption that the prophecies in Daniel are late, as also those of Isaiah concerning Cyrus (Is. 44:28; 45:1). It may also be the result of a rejection of prophecy in general.

Interpreters of the Book of Daniel who favor a late date of writing also propose that there are serious historical problems in the narratives about Daniel's experiences in Babylon, particularly concerning Belshazzar's relationship to Nebuchadnezzar (5:2 note) and the identity of "Darius the Mede" (6:1 note). They identify the four kingdoms foreseen by Daniel (chs. 2; 7) as the Babylonians, the Medes, the Persians, and finally the Greeks (including the Seleucids and Ptolemies). This identification is difficult because there is no evidence for a Median kingdom in an interval between the Babylonian and Persian kingdoms. Cyrus, the Persian king (550–530 B.C.), conquered the Medes in 549 B.C. and the Babylonians in 539 B.C. (5:1, 31 notes).

On the other hand, scholars who date the book in the time of Daniel interpret the sequence of kingdoms as the Babylonian, Medo-Persian, Greek, and finally Roman empires. They point to the reference to "the Medes and Persians" in 5:28 as evidence that Daniel considered them as together constituting one kingdom.

Concerning the date of the language used in Daniel, it first must be noted that a large segment (2:4—7:28) is written in Aramaic rather than Hebrew. The reason for the change of language is not known. Some scholars have argued that the Aramaic is of a late type, pointing to the use of several Greek loanwords for musical instruments (3:5 note) as other evidence of a late date. Neither argument is convincing. There is abundant evidence of contacts between the Greeks and the Near East prior to the time of Alexander the Great. Such contacts are sufficient to explain the appearance of the Greek loanwords. The Aramaic and Hebrew of Daniel can be dated anywhere between the late sixth and early second centuries B.C. In other words, the language does not lend much weight to either the early or the late date proposal.

Interpretive Difficulties The authorship and date of Daniel are not the only interpretive difficulties posed by the book. There are significant variations in overall approach to the book. These variations fall into three main categories. The first approach is taken by those who conclude that the book was written in the time of Antiochus Epiphanes. According to this view all references to events before the time of Antiochus are ordinary history, written after the events described. The only genuine prediction in the book would be of the anticipated death of Antiochus and the expected intervention of God to establish His kingdom. However, Antiochus did not die in the manner depicted (11:36—12:3 note) and the kingdom did not materialize as apparently anticipated. See notes on 2:44; 7:14, 18.

A second, more traditional view finds the primary stress of the predictions of the book to be on the First Advent of Christ. This approach is usually associated with an amillennial or postmillennial eschatological position.

A third view finds one focus of the book to be primarily on Antiochus Epiphanes and the persecution of God's people during his reign. The other focus is on the divine intervention in human affairs at the end of time when God's kingdom is established. Stress does not fall on the First Advent of Christ (chs. 2; 9 notes), but rather on Antiochus and the Second Coming of Christ. This approach is usually associated with a premillennial eschatological position. Within this approach there are many differences in the interpretation of details by various commentators.

Characteristics and Themes

Daniel contains two different types of material. Six historical narratives are found in chs. 1—6, while four visions are found in chs. 7—12. The visions are almost exclusively predictive. Among the six narratives, ch. 2 contains a vision given to Nebuchadnezzar and Daniel's interpretation of it.

Reflection on the content of the historical narratives reveals that they are not a connected historical discourse, but are independent units placed together for a specific purpose. The narratives do not give a history of Israel under Babylonian or Persian rule, nor do they give a biographical history of Daniel or his friends. The common thread is an emphasis on the way the absolute sovereignty of God operates in the affairs of all nations (2:47; 3:17, 18; 4:28–37; 5:18–31; 6:25–28). Jerusalem may be destroyed with its temple in ruins, God's people may be in exile, and wicked rulers may seem triumphant, but God remains supreme. God is greater than all circumstances, and His people should be true to Him in whatever situation they find themselves. Depiction of this truth is the controlling principle of Dan. 1—6.

Nebuchadnezzar's vision in ch. 2 shows that history is not under the control of other gods, nor can its mystery be discovered by human manipulation. History is under the control of the God who is utterly free to direct it and to reveal it as He pleases (Rev. 5:9). According to His sovereign pleasure He will intervene among the kingdoms of this world and establish a universal kingdom that will endure forever.

The visions (chs. 7—12) contain predictions of times in the future when this truth will be of particular importance for God's people. Although the Jews were persecuted during the time of their subjection to Babylonian and Persian rulers, there was no widespread and systematic attempt to abolish their faith. This did not happen until the time of Antiochus IV, who named himself "Epiphanes," meaning "God manifest," and ruled in the Seleucid Empire from 175–164 B.C. Antiochus tried to force the Jews to accept the culture of Hellenism and to abandon their religious practices. Many Jews submitted, but others refused and suffered severe persecution. One of the major reasons for writing the Book of Daniel was to prepare God's people for the time of Antiochus Epiphanes and to give them encouragement for this period of persecution. At the same time the book looks beyond the time of Antiochus Epiphanes to the coming of Christ. It is Christ who will destroy all human kingdoms and establish His eternal kingdom of righteousness and peace.

In addition to these overarching themes of Daniel, certain key concepts are relevant to discussion of the book. One of these is the "time of trouble" (12:1), commonly taken to be the "great tribulation" that is to precede the Second Advent of Christ (Matt. 24:21; Luke 21:23; Rev. 2:22; 7:14). Matthew links this trouble with "the abomination of desolation" (Matt. 24:15) predicted by Daniel (cf. Dan. 9:27; 12:11) and fulfilled by the Antichrist (the "man of sin" in 2 Thess. 2:3, 4).

The "Antichrist" may also be included in Daniel's theology (Dan. 7:8, 20–22, 24–27; 11:36–45). The word does not occur outside the letters of John (1 John 2:18, 22; 4:3; 2 John 7), but references to a person of satanic hatred who appears in the final days of human history before Christ's Second Advent are found in both testaments. The Antichrist sets up the "abomination of desolation" (Dan. 11:31; Matt. 24:15), exalts himself as a god (Dan. 11:36–39; 2 Thess. 2:3, 4) and is ultimately destroyed by Christ upon His return (Dan. 11:45; 2 Thess. 2:8 [cf. Is. 11:4]; Rev. 19:20).

The idea of the millennium also occurs in discussions of Daniel. The term "millennium" is derived from the Latin word for "one thousand" and designates the thousand-year period described in Rev. 20. The nature of the thousand years is understood differently by three general schools of interpretation, classified as follows: (a.) Premillennialists believe that the thousand years is a worldwide kingdom of peace and righteousness on earth to be established on earth after the Second Coming of Christ (Is. 2:1–5; 11:1–10). (b.) Postmillennialists believe that the thousand years is a period of peace and righteousness to be established through the worldwide preaching of the gospel, resulting in the conditions described in passages such as Is. 2:1–5; 11:1–10. (c.) Amillennialists consider the thousand years as a figurative reference to the present age of the gospel. Accordingly, the millennium is not viewed as a future political order, but the spiritual kingdom of Christ's rule in the church.

In the postmillennial and amillennial views, the number "one thousand" is usually taken figuratively to mean a large unit of time rather than precisely 1,000 years. □

Daniel and His Friends Obey God

IN the third year of the reign of [a]Jehoiakim king of Judah, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came to Jerusalem and besieged it. [2] And the Lord gave Jehoiakim king of Judah into his hand, with [b]some of the articles of [f]the house of God, which he carried [c]into the land of Shinar to the house of his god; [d]and he brought the articles into the treasure house of his god.

[3] Then the king instructed Ashpenaz, the master of his eunuchs, to bring [e]some of the children of Israel and some of the king's descendants and some of the nobles, [4] young men [f]in whom there was no blemish, but good-looking, gifted in all wisdom, possessing knowledge and quick to understand, who had ability to serve in the king's palace, and [g]whom they might teach the language and [z]literature of the Chaldeans. [5] And the king appointed for them a daily provision of

■ 1:1 the third year. Jehoiakim's third year was 605 B.C. In that year Nebuchadnezzar defeated a coalition of Assyria and Egypt at Carchemish and initiated Babylon's rise to international power. After the battle of Carchemish, Nebuchadnezzar advanced against Jehoiakim (2 Kin. 24:1, 2; 2 Chr. 36:5–7) and took some Judeans captive, including Daniel. This was the first of three invasions of Judah by Nebuchadnezzar. The second was in 597 B.C. (2 Kin. 24:10–14), and the third in 587 B.C. (2 Kin. 25:1–24). In the Book of Jeremiah, Nebuchadnezzar's attack is dated to Jehoiakim's fourth year instead of the third (Jer. 25:1; 46:2). The difference of one year occurs because in the Babylonian chronology, which Daniel apparently used, the king's reign was officially counted from the first day of the succeeding new year, rather than from the actual date of his accession to the throne.

Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon. Nebuchadnezzar led the Babylonians to victory at Carchemish as crown prince and commander of the army. Shortly after this victory, he assumed the Babylonian throne when his father Nabopolassar died (626–605 B.C.). Nebuchadnezzar's reign (605–562 B.C.) is the historical context for much of Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and Daniel.

■ 1:2 the Lord gave . . . into his hand. Israel's defeat by the Babylonians is not to be explained simply by analysis of military and political factors. God was at work in the affairs of the nations, and He used the Babylonians to judge His own people for their transgressions (2 Kin. 17:15, 18–20; 21:12–15; 24:3, 4).

the treasure house of his god. Marduk was the chief god of the Babylonian pantheon (cf. Jer. 50:2 and text notes).

■ 1:4 literature of the Chaldeans. Babylonian literature was written in wedge-shaped characters impressed with a stylus on soft clay tablets that were later fired to make them permanent. Thousands of these tablets have been discovered by archaeologists. The Babylonians worshiped many gods, and their culture was filled with magic, sorcery, and astrology. The common language of Babylon was Aramaic (2:4 and note).

the king's delicacies and of the wine which he drank, and three years of training for them, so that at the end of that time they might [h]serve before the king. 6 Now from among those of the sons of Judah were Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah. 7 [i]To them the chief of the eunuchs gave names: [j]he gave Daniel the name Belteshazzar; to Hananiah, Shadrach; to Mishael, Meshach; and to Azariah, Abed-Nego.

8 But Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself [k]with the portion of the king's delicacies, nor with the wine which he drank; therefore he requested of the chief of the eunuchs that he might not defile himself. 9 Now [l]God had brought Daniel into the favor and [3]goodwill of the chief of the eunuchs. 10 And the chief of the eunuchs said to Daniel, "I fear my lord the king, who has appointed your food and drink. For why should he see your faces looking worse than the young men who are your age? Then you would endanger my head before the king."

11 So Daniel said to [4]the steward whom the chief of the eunuchs had set over Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, 12 "Please test your servants for ten days, and let them give us vegetables to eat and water to drink. 13 Then let our appearance be examined before you, and the appearance of the young men who eat the portion of the king's delicacies; and as you see fit, so deal with your servants." 14 So he consented with them in this matter, and tested them ten days.

15 And at the end of ten days their features appeared better and fatter in flesh than all the young men who ate the portion of the king's delicacies. 16 Thus [5]the steward took away their portion of delicacies and the wine that they were to drink, and gave them vegetables.

17 As for these four young men, [m]God gave them [n]knowledge and skill in all literature and wisdom; and Daniel had [o]understanding in all visions and dreams.

18 Now at the end of the days, when the king had said that they should be brought in, the chief of the eunuchs brought them in before Nebuchadnezzar. 19 Then the king [6]interviewed them, and among them all none was found like Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah; therefore [p]they served before the king. 20 [q]And in all matters of wisdom and understanding about which the king examined them, he found them ten times better than all the magicians and astrologers who were in all his realm. 21 [r]Thus Daniel continued until the first year of King Cyrus.

Nebuchadnezzar's Dream

2 Now in the second year of Nebuchadnezzar's reign, Nebuchadnezzar had dreams; [a]and his spirit was so troubled that [b]his sleep left him. 2 [c]Then the king gave the command to call the magicians, the astrologers, the sorcerers, and the Chaldeans to tell the king his dreams. So they came and stood before the king. 3 And the king said to them, "I have had a dream, and my spirit is anxious to [1]know the dream."

3 [1]Or understand

■ 1:6 Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah. In these Hebrew names, the component el means "God," and yah is a form of God's name "Yahweh" (Ps. 50:1 note). Hence: Daniel means "my judge is God"; Hananiah, "Yahweh is gracious"; Mishael, "Who is what God is?" and Azariah, "Yahweh has helped."

■ 1:7 Belteshazzar . . . Shadrach . . . Meshach . . . Abed-Nego. Suggestions for the meanings of these names include: Belteshazzar, "May Bel protect his life"; Shadrach, "the command of Aku," (the Sumerian moon god); Meshach, "Who is what Aku is?" and Abed-Nego, "servant of Nebo" (a Babylonian god). Bel is another name for Marduk, the chief Babylonian god (cf. 4:8).

■ 1:8 he would not defile himself. The reason for Daniel's conclusion that he and his friends would be defiled by the king's food is not given. Perhaps it involved violation of the dietary laws of Moses (Lev. 11; 17).

■ 1:15 their features appeared better. The obedience of Daniel and his friends to God, and their refusal to compromise their faith in a heathen environment, were rewarded with God's blessing (cf. Deut. 8:3; Matt. 4:4).

■ 1:17 God gave them knowledge. God's blessing was not limited to physical well-being, but also included outstanding intellectual development during their three years of Babylonian education.

visions and dreams. With a view to what follows in the book (chs. 2; 4; 5), Daniel is distinguished from his companions in his ability to interpret dreams and visions, much as Joseph was in the court of Pharaoh (Gen. 40:8; 41:16).

■ 1:18 at the end of the days. That is, after the three years mentioned in v. 5.

■ 1:20 the magicians and astrologers. The term translated "magicians" is also used in Gen. 41:8, 24 and Ex. 7:11. The word translated "astrologers" occurs only here and in 2:2 and can be rendered "conjurer" or "soothsayer." Whatever means these royal advisers used to gain knowledge, Daniel and his friends were able to demonstrate superior insight on the matters they were questioned about.

■ 1:21 until the first year of King Cyrus. Babylon fell to Cyrus in 539 B.C., or sixty-six years after Daniel had been taken captive to Babylon. Daniel lived through the entire period of the Babylonian captivity. Cyrus issued a decree in the first year of his reign permitting the Israelites to return from captivity, and to take with them the vessels from the temple that had been seized by Nebuchadnezzar (Ezra 1:7–11). The statement does not mean that Daniel died in the first year of Cyrus (10:1).

■ 2:1 in the second year. Since the Babylonian system started counting Nebuchadnezzar's reign officially from the beginning of the year succeeding his actual succession, his "second year" could mean the end of Daniel's three years of training (1:5). Otherwise the events took place during his training.

his sleep left him. It was widely believed in the ancient Near East that the gods spoke to human beings in dreams.

■ 2:2 magicians . . . astrologers. See note on 1:20.

sorcerers . . . Chaldeans. "Sorcerers" practiced divination or witchcraft (Ex. 22:18; Deut. 18:10; Is. 47:9, 12; Jer. 27:9). Here "Chaldeans" probably means a class of soothsayers and astrologers, rather than the name of an ethnic group (as in 1:4; 3:8; 5:30; 9:1).

4 Then the Chaldeans spoke to the king in Aramaic, [d]"O[2] king, live forever! Tell your servants the dream, and we will give the interpretation."

5 The king answered and said to the Chaldeans, "My [3]decision is firm: if you do not make known the dream to me, and its interpretation, you shall be [e]cut in pieces, and your houses shall be made an ash heap. 6 [f]However, if you tell the dream and its interpretation, you shall receive from me gifts, rewards, and great honor. Therefore tell me the dream and its interpretation."

7 They answered again and said, "Let the king tell his servants the dream, and we will give its interpretation."

8 The king answered and said, "I know for certain that you would gain time, because you see that my decision is firm: 9 if you do not make known the dream to me, there is only one decree for you! For you have agreed to speak lying and corrupt words before me till the [4]time has changed. Therefore tell me the dream, and I shall know that you can [5]give me its interpretation."

10 The Chaldeans answered the king, and said, "There is not a man on earth who can tell the king's matter; therefore no king, lord, or ruler has ever asked such things of any magician, astrologer, or Chaldean. 11 It is a [6]difficult thing that the king requests, and there is no other who can tell it to the king [g]except the gods, whose dwelling is not with flesh."

12 For this reason the king was angry and very furious, and gave the command to destroy all the wise men of Babylon. 13 So the decree went out, and they began killing the wise men; and they sought [h]Daniel and his companions, to kill them.

God Reveals Nebuchadnezzar's Dream

14 Then with counsel and wisdom Daniel answered Arioch, the captain of the king's guard, who had gone out to kill the wise men of Babylon; 15 he answered and said to Arioch the king's captain, "Why is the decree from the king so [7]urgent?" Then Arioch made the decision known to Daniel.

16 So Daniel went in and asked the king to give him time, that he might tell the king the interpretation. 17 Then Daniel went to his house, and made the decision known to Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, his companions, 18 [i]that they might seek mercies from the God of heaven concerning this secret, so that Daniel and his companions might not perish with the rest of the wise men of Babylon. 19 Then the secret was revealed to Daniel [j]in a night vision. So Daniel blessed the God of heaven.

20 Daniel answered and said:

[k]"Blessed be the name of God forever and ever, [l]For wisdom and might are His.
21 And He changes [m]the times and the seasons;
[n]He removes kings and raises up kings;
[o]He gives wisdom to the wise
And knowledge to those who have understanding.
22 [p]He reveals deep and secret things;
[q]He knows what is in the darkness,
And [r]light dwells with Him.

23 "I thank You and praise You,
O God of my fathers;
You have given me wisdom and might,
And have now made known to me what we [s]asked of You,
For You have made known to us the king's [8]demand."

■ 2:4 Aramaic. From here until the end of ch. 7 the text is written in Aramaic rather than Hebrew. Ezra 4:8—6:18; 7:12–26 are also written in Aramaic. There has been much speculation about why these verses are in Aramaic, but no generally accepted conclusion has been reached.

■ 2:5 make known the dream. Nebuchadnezzar formulated a test to see whether the advisers to the court had access to hidden knowledge, as they claimed. If they could not tell him the dream, then he would have no confidence in their interpretation (cf. v. 9).

■ 2:11 a difficult thing. The wise men confess that they cannot do what the king asks. Only the gods have such power, but the gods, they protest, do not reveal such things to anyone (cf. Ex. 8:18, 19).

■ 2:18 seek mercies from the God of heaven. Daniel also realized that human wisdom was insufficient to meet the king's demand (v. 11 note). Only divine revelation could provide the answer.

■ 2:20 See theological note "The Wisdom and Will of God."

■ 2:21 He removes kings and raises up kings. Daniel alludes to the content of the dream.

■ 2:22 He reveals deep and secret things. Job 28 is a carefully drawn picture of wisdom as "hidden from the eyes of all" (Job 28:21) and inaccessible without God.

Daniel Explains the Dream

24 Therefore Daniel went to Arioch, whom the king had appointed to destroy the wise men of Babylon. He went and said thus to him: "Do not destroy the wise men of Babylon; take me before the king, and I will tell the king the interpretation."

25 Then Arioch quickly brought Daniel before the king, and said thus to him, "I have found a man of the [g]captives of Judah, who will make known to the king the interpretation."

26 The king answered and said to Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar, "Are you able to make known to me the dream which I have seen, and its interpretation?"

27 Daniel answered in the presence of the king, and said, "The secret which the king has demanded, the wise men, the astrologers, the magicians, and the soothsayers cannot declare to the king. 28 [t]But there is a God in heaven who reveals secrets, and He has made known to King Nebuchadnezzar [u]what will be in the latter days. Your dream, and the visions of your head upon your bed, were these: 29 As for you, O king, thoughts came to your mind while on your bed, about what would come to pass after this; [v]and He who reveals secrets has made known to you

The Wisdom and Will of God

Wisdom in Scripture means choosing the best and noblest end at which to aim, along with the most appropriate and effective means of achieving that end. Old Testament wisdom literature, including Job, Psalms, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, and certain of the Psalms (Ps. 19; 37; 104; 107; 147; 148), dealt not only with the life of worship or religious exercise in the restricted sense, but also with everyday moral behavior in family, social, and business concerns. In the New Testament the letter of James might also be considered "wisdom literature" in its plain-spoken description of practical Christian living. In light of the wisdom literature of Scripture, Christian wisdom means making the "fear of God"—reverent worship and service of Him—the goal of life (Prov. 1:7; 9:10; Eccl. 12:13).

God's wisdom is seen in His works of creation, preservation, and redemption: it is His choice of His own glory as His goal (Ps. 46:10; Is. 42:8; 48:11), and His decision to achieve it first by creating a marvelous variety of things and people (Ps. 104:24; Prov. 3:19, 20), second by kindly providences of all sorts (Ps. 145:13–16; Acts 14:17), and third by the redemptive "wisdom" of "Christ crucified" (1 Cor. 1:18—2:16) and the resulting Christian church in the world (Eph. 3:10).

The outworking of God's wisdom involves the expression of His will in two different senses. In the first sense, God's will is "His eternal purpose, according to the counsel of His will, whereby, for His own glory, He hath foreordained whatsoever comes to pass" (Westminster Shorter Catechism, Q. 7). This "eternal purpose" is God's decreed will, referred to in Eph. 1:11. In the second sense, the will of God is His command, that is, His instruction given in Scripture, concerning how people should believe and behave. This is sometimes called His "preceptive will," and is spoken of in Rom. 12:2; Eph. 5:17; Col. 1:9; 1 Thess. 4:3–6. Some of its requirements are rooted in His holy character, which we are to imitate; such are the principles of the Decalogue, and the two great commandments (Ex. 20:1–17; Matt. 22:37–40; cf. Eph. 4:32—5:2). Some of its requirements spring simply from the divine institution. Such were circumcision and the sacrificial and purity laws of the Old Testament, and such are baptism and the Lord's Supper today. But all, in their respective times, bind the conscience, and God's plan of events (His "eternal purpose") already includes the "good works" of obedience that those who believe will perform (Eph. 2:10).

It is sometimes difficult, even impossible, for mortal humans to understand how obedience, putting us at a disadvantage in the world, is part of a predestined plan of furthering both God's glory and our good (Rom. 8:28). But we glorify God by believing that it is so, because He who cannot lie has said it. One day we will see it to be so, because His wisdom is perfect and never fails. □

■ 2:24 Do not destroy the wise men. Daniel urges the king to be merciful to the wise men even though their inability to know the dream has been exposed.

■ 2:28 a God in heaven who reveals secrets. Just as Joseph had done in Egypt (Gen. 40:8; 41:16), so also Daniel attributes his knowledge of the dream to God. Daniel's God revealed to this young man what astrology, magic, and the occult could not discover.

in the latter days. This expression seems to range in meaning from the "end time," technically called the "eschaton" (Ezek. 38:16), to simply the future in general (Gen. 49:1; Deut. 4:30; 31:29).

what will be. 30 [w]But as for me, this secret has not been revealed to me because I have more wisdom than anyone living, but for our sakes who make known the interpretation to the king, [x]and that you may [1]know the thoughts of your heart.

31 "You, O king, were watching; and behold, a great image! This great image, whose splendor was excellent, stood before you; and its form was awesome. 32 [y]This image's head was of fine gold, its chest and arms of silver, its belly and [2]thighs of bronze, 33 its legs of iron, its feet partly of iron and partly of [3]clay. 34 You watched while a stone was cut out [z]without hands, which struck the image on its feet of iron and clay, and broke them in pieces. 35 [a]Then the iron, the clay, the bronze, the silver, and the gold were crushed together, and became [b]like chaff from the summer threshing floors; the wind carried them away so that [c]no trace of them was found. And the stone that struck the image [d]became a great mountain [e]and filled the whole earth.

36 "This is the dream. Now we will tell the interpretation of it before the king. 37 [f]You, O king, are a king of kings. [g]For the God of heaven has given you a kingdom, power, strength, and glory; 38 [h]and wherever the children of men dwell, or the beasts of the field and the birds of the heaven, He has given them into your hand, and has made you ruler over them all—[i]you are this head of gold. 39 But after you shall arise [j]another kingdom [k]inferior to yours; then another, a third kingdom of bronze, which shall rule over all the earth. 40 And [l]the fourth kingdom shall be as strong as iron, inasmuch as iron breaks in pieces and shatters everything; and like iron that crushes, that kingdom will break in pieces and crush all the others. 41 Whereas you saw the feet and toes, partly of potter's clay and partly of iron, the kingdom shall be divided; yet the strength of the iron shall be in it, just as you saw the iron mixed with ceramic clay. 42 And as the toes of the feet were partly of iron and partly of clay, [m]so the kingdom shall be partly strong and partly [4]fragile. 43 As you saw iron mixed with ceramic clay, they will mingle with the seed of men; but they will not adhere to one another, just as iron does not mix with clay. 44 And in the days of these kings [n]the God of heaven will set up a kingdom [o]which shall never be destroyed; and the kingdom shall not be left to other people; [p]it shall [5]break in pieces and [6]consume all these kingdoms, and it shall stand forever. 45 [q]Inasmuch as you saw that the stone was cut out of the mountain without hands, and that it broke in pieces the iron, the bronze, the clay, the silver, and the gold—the great God has made known to the king what will come to pass after this. The dream is certain, and its interpretation is sure."

Daniel and His Friends Promoted

46 [r]Then King Nebuchadnezzar fell on his face, prostrate before Daniel, and commanded that they should present an offering [s]and incense to him. 47 The king answered Daniel, and said, "Truly [t]your God is the God of [u]gods, the Lord of kings, and a revealer of secrets, since you could reveal this secret." 48 [v]Then the king promoted Daniel [w]and gave him many great gifts; and he made him ruler over the whole province of Babylon, and [x]chief administrator over all the wise men of Babylon. 49 Also Daniel petitioned the king, [y]and he set Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego over the affairs of the province of Babylon; but Daniel [z]sat in [7]the gate of the king.

■ 2:32, 33 gold . . . iron . . . clay. There is a progressive decrease in the value of the materials in the image from the head to the feet.

■ 2:34 its feet of iron and clay. Some interpreters view the mixture of iron and clay in the feet of the image as representing a second phase of the fourth kingdom different from the legs of solid iron (cf. vv. 41–43).

■ 2:37–40 king of kings . . . fourth kingdom. The four kingdoms have been widely understood since Josephus (1st century A.D.) to be the empires of Babylon, Medo-Persia, Greece, and Rome. Others understand them to be Babylon, Media, Persia, and Greece, a sequence in agreement with the critical view that the book was written, after the facts, by a living witness during the period of Greek ascendency in the Middle East. However, the animal symbols in 7:4–7 historically fit the former structure of a combined Medo-Persian Empire, leaving Greece as the third and Rome as the fourth kingdom. Darius's appeal to the single "law of the Medes and Persians" (6:12; cf. 5:28) agrees with the first order of empires.

■ 2:43 they will mingle . . . but . . . not adhere. The elements of the fourth kingdom cannot preserve their union. One possible interpretation of the image is that the iron represents the culture and laws of imperial Rome, while the clay represents the divergent political and social traditions of its many parts. The fourth kingdom, though strong, is temporary.

■ 2:44 these kings. The most natural interpretation is that the kings are the rulers of the four powers making up the image just described. The other possibility is that they are a sequence of several rulers of the fourth kingdom only.

a kingdom which shall never be destroyed. The eternal kingdom is the kingdom of our Lord Jesus Christ (Is. 9:7; Luke 1:33; Heb. 1:8; Rev. 11:15). This kingdom was inaugurated and preached at the First Coming of Christ (Mark 1:15; Matt. 12:28; 24:14), but does not come in its fullness until His Second Advent. See "The Kingdom of God" at Luke 17:20.

■ 2:46 King Nebuchadnezzar fell . . . prostrate before Daniel. In a reversal of roles, Daniel is exalted to a position of honor by the Lord's intervention on his behalf. For the king's reaction, compare Acts 14:11; Rev. 22:8.

■ 2:47 God of gods. Nebuchadnezzar's statement does not necessarily mean that he recognized Israel's God as the only God. His exclamation is that Israel's God is superior to other gods.

Lord of kings. Nebuchadnezzar confesses that Israel's God is supreme over human rulers and kingdoms. This is the unifying theme of Dan. 1—6 (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes).

■ 2:48 the whole province of Babylon. The Babylonian Empire was divided into provinces. Daniel was appointed ruler (cf. 3:2) of the province where the capital city was. Joseph and Mordecai also rose as Jews to political power in a foreign land. See Gen. 41:37–44 (Joseph) and Esth. 8:1, 2 (Mordecai).

The Image of Gold

3 Nebuchadnezzar the king made an image of gold, whose height was [1]sixty cubits and its width six cubits. He set it up in the plain of Dura, in the province of Babylon. 2 And King Nebuchadnezzar sent word to gather together the satraps, the administrators, the governors, the counselors, the treasurers, the judges, the magistrates, and all the officials of the provinces, to come to the dedication of the image which King Nebuchadnezzar had set up. 3 So the satraps, the administrators, the governors, the counselors, the treasurers, the judges, the magistrates, and all the officials of the provinces gathered together for the dedication of the image that King Nebuchadnezzar had set up; and they stood before the image that Nebuchadnezzar had set up. 4 Then a herald cried [2]aloud: "To you it is commanded, [a]O peoples, nations, and languages, 5 that at the time you hear the sound of the horn, flute, harp, lyre, and psaltery, in symphony with all kinds of music, you shall fall down and worship the gold image that King Nebuchadnezzar has set up; 6 and whoever does not fall down and worship shall [b]be cast immediately into the midst of a burning fiery furnace."

7 So at that time, when all the people heard the sound of the horn, flute, harp, and lyre, in symphony with all kinds of music, all the people, nations, and languages fell down and worshiped the gold image which King Nebuchadnezzar had set up.

Daniel's Friends Disobey the King

8 Therefore at that time certain Chaldeans [c]came forward and accused the Jews. 9 They spoke and said to King Nebuchadnezzar, [d]"O king, live forever! 10 You, O king, have made a decree that everyone who hears the sound of the horn, flute, harp, lyre, and psaltery, in symphony with all kinds of music, shall fall down and worship the gold image; 11 and whoever does not fall down and worship shall be cast into the midst of a burning fiery furnace. 12 [e]There are certain Jews whom you have set over the affairs of the province of Babylon: Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego; these men, O king, have [f]not paid due regard to you. They do not serve your gods or worship the gold image which you have set up."

13 Then Nebuchadnezzar, in [g]rage and fury, gave the command to bring Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego. So they brought these men before the king. 14 Nebuchadnezzar spoke, saying to them, "Is it true, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego, that you do not serve my gods or worship the gold image which I have set up? 15 Now if you are ready at the time you hear the sound of the horn, flute, harp, lyre, and psaltery, in symphony with all kinds of music, and you fall down and worship the image which I have made, [h]good! But if you do not worship, you shall be cast immediately into the midst of a burning fiery furnace. [i]And who is the god who will deliver you from my hands?"

16 Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego answered and said to the king, "O Nebuchadnezzar, [j]we have no need to answer you in this matter. 17 If that is the case, our [k]God whom we serve is able to [l]deliver us from the burning fiery furnace, and He will deliver us from your hand, O king. 18 But if not, let it be known to you, O king, that we do not serve your gods, nor will we [m]worship the gold image which you have set up."

■ 3:1 an image of gold. Although the narrow proportions could suggest an obelisk rather than a statue, the monument is called an "image." It was probably a figure standing on a pedestal. The gold was probably plating, the fabrication of the image being much like that described in Is. 40:19; 41:7; Jer. 10:3–9.

the plain of Dura. Probably about six miles south of Babylon.

■ 3:2 satraps . . . officials. The precise responsibilities of these different officials are not known. Five of the seven terms are of Persian origin, perhaps indicating that Daniel did not finish writing the account until after the beginning of Persian rule in 539 B.C.

■ 3:5 horn . . . psaltery. Of the six terms for musical instruments, the three translated "harp," "psaltery," and "symphony" are borrowed from Greek. This is not surprising since the international exchange of musicians and musical instruments at royal courts had a long history. The presence of these three Greek terms in Daniel does not establish that the account was written after the time of Alexander the Great, as is sometimes argued.

■ 3:6 a burning fiery furnace. Furnaces or kilns were used in Babylon for firing bricks (Gen. 11:3). Execution by burning was not unknown (Jer. 29:22; cf. Herodotus 1:86; 4:69; 2 Macc. 7).

■ 3:8 Chaldeans. See 2:2 note; here "Chaldeans" probably indicates nationality. The informers were prejudiced against the Jews (v. 12; cf. Esth. 3:5, 6), possibly because they were jealous of the Jews' privileged position.

■ 3:12 Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego. See note on 1:7. Daniel was either not present or was exempted by his high position from having to demonstrate his loyalty (2:48, 49).

■ 3:15 who is the god. From Nebuchadnezzar's polytheistic perspective there was no god capable of such deliverance. Unwittingly, Nebuchadnezzar challenged the power of the God of Israel.

■ 3:17, 18 He will deliver . . . But if not. These verses express the central theme of the chapter. The idea is not that God will always protect His people from physical harm (Is. 43:1, 2). He may do that and certainly is able to. The central idea is that God's people should be obedient to Him whatever the consequences.

Saved in Fiery Trial

19 Then Nebuchadnezzar was full of fury, and the expression on his face changed toward Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego. He spoke and commanded that they heat the furnace seven times more than it was usually heated. 20 And he commanded certain mighty men of valor who were in his army to bind Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego, and cast them into the burning fiery furnace. 21 Then these men were bound in their coats, their trousers, their turbans, and their other garments, and were cast into the midst of the burning fiery furnace. 22 Therefore, because the king's command was [3]urgent, and the furnace exceedingly hot, the flame of the fire killed those men who took up Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego. 23 And these three men, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego, fell down bound into the midst of the burning fiery furnace.

24 Then King Nebuchadnezzar was astonished; and he rose in haste and spoke, saying to his [4]counselors, "Did we not cast three men bound into the midst of the fire?"

They answered and said to the king, "True, O king."

25 "Look!" he answered, "I see four men loose, [n]walking in the midst of the fire; and they are not hurt, and the form of the fourth is like [o]the[5] Son of God."

Nebuchadnezzar Praises God

26 Then Nebuchadnezzar went near the [6]mouth of the burning fiery furnace and spoke, saying, "Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego, servants of the [p]Most High God, come out, and come here." Then Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego came from the midst of the fire. 27 And the satraps, administrators, governors, and the king's counselors gathered together, and they saw these men [q]on whose bodies the fire had no power; the hair of their head was not singed nor were their garments affected, and the smell of fire was not on them.

28 Nebuchadnezzar spoke, saying, "Blessed be the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego, who sent His [r]Angel[7] and delivered His servants who trusted in Him, and they have frustrated the king's word, and yielded their bodies, that they should not serve nor worship any god except their own God! 29 [s]Therefore I make a decree that any people, nation, or language which speaks anything amiss against the [t]God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego shall be [u]cut in pieces, and their houses shall be made an ash heap; [v]because there is no other God who can deliver like this."

30 Then the king [8]promoted Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego in the province of Babylon.

Nebuchadnezzar's Second Dream

4 Nebuchadnezzar the king,

[a]To all peoples, nations, and languages that dwell in all the earth:

Peace be multiplied to you.

2 I thought it good to declare the signs and wonders [b]that the Most High God has worked for me.

3 [c]How great are His signs,
And how mighty His wonders!

■ 3:25 the Son of God. How Nebuchadnezzar recognized the fourth person in the furnace as a divine being is not explained (v. 28 note). Perhaps the miraculous appearance was itself sufficient reason for the conclusion.

■ 3:26 the Most High God. This is a title expressing God's universal authority. As in v. 29 and 2:47, such a confession on the lips of a pagan is not an acknowledgment that Daniel's Lord is the only God, but only that He is supreme over other gods (4:2, 17, 34). To a Jew it means there is only one God (4:24–32; 5:18, 21; 7:18–27).

■ 3:28 Angel. The "Angel" may be identified with the Angel of the Lord (Gen. 16:7); if so, it is a visible manifestation of God Himself (Ex. 3:2). God promised His presence when Israel walked through fire (Is. 43:1–3).

■ 4:1 Nebuchadnezzar the king. This final incident in the Book of Daniel associated with Nebuchadnezzar must be placed late in the king's 43-year reign when his building projects were completed and his power was at its height (cf. vv. 4, 30). He represents the most powerful kingdom on earth (vv. 10–12 note) as opposed to the rule of the Most High God. Babylonian records of long periods of absence and blasphemous acts by King Nabonidus (ruled 556 to 539 B.C.; 5:1 note) resemble in some ways Daniel's account of Nebuchadnezzar. Another composition called the "Prayer of Nabonidus" was discovered among the Dead Sea Scrolls, documents hidden before A.D. 70 by a Jewish community at Qumran and found in 1947. This "Prayer" is also similar to what Daniel says about Nebuchadnezzar. Nabonidus is separated from society for seven years and restored with the help of a Jewish exile following confession of his sins. However, his affliction is described as a form of skin disease rather than mental illness.

■ 4:2 the Most High God. See notes on 2:47; 3:26.

■ 4:3 How great. Nebuchadnezzar's confession in this verse and in vv.

His kingdom is [d]an everlasting kingdom,
And His dominion is from generation to generation.

4 I, Nebuchadnezzar, was at rest in my house, and flourishing in my palace. 5 I saw a dream which made me afraid, [e]and the thoughts on my bed and the visions of my head [f]troubled me. 6 Therefore I issued a decree to bring in all the wise men of Babylon before me, that they might make known to me the interpretation of the dream. 7 [g]Then the magicians, the astrologers, the Chaldeans, and the soothsayers came in, and I told them the dream; but they did not make known to me its interpretation. 8 But at last Daniel came before me [h](his name is Belteshazzar, according to the name of my god; [i]in him is the Spirit of the Holy God), and I told the dream before him, saying: 9 "Belteshazzar, [j]chief of the

I was looking, and behold,
[k]A tree in the midst of the earth,
And its height was great.
11 The tree grew and became strong;
Its height reached to the heavens,
And it could be seen to the ends of all the earth.
12 Its leaves were lovely,
Its fruit abundant,
And in it was food for all.

The birds of the heavens dwelt in its branches,
And all flesh was fed from it.

Strip off its leaves and scatter its fruit.
[p]Let the beasts get out from under it,
And the birds from its branches.
15 Nevertheless leave the stump and roots in the earth,
Bound with a band of iron and bronze,
In the tender grass of the field.
Let it be wet with the dew of heaven,
And let him graze with the beasts
On the grass of the earth.

Let him be given the heart of a beast,
And let seven [q]times[2] pass over him.

the Spirit of the Holy God. The Holy Spirit was the immediate author of the extraordinary power of Daniel to know and to interpret secrets (2:19 note). Nebuchadnezzar's words agree with this, although he may have been thinking of another god known to him rather than the God of Daniel.

■ 4:10–12 A tree. See Ezek. 31 for an extensive description of Assyria using the imagery of a tree. Similar imagery is used both of righteous and wicked individuals and nations Ps. 1:3; 37:35; 52:8; 92:12; Jer. 11:16, 17; 17:8.

■ 4:11 its height reached to the heavens. The term "heavens" is a key term in this chapter. Although Nebuchadnezzar's kingdom reaches from earth to heaven, the heavens condemn his pride and remind him that his power and even his sanity are gifts from God.

Daniel Explains the Second Dream

19 Then Daniel, [x]whose name was Belteshazzar, was astonished for a time, and his thoughts [y]troubled him. So the king spoke, and said, "Belteshazzar, do not let the dream or its interpretation trouble you."

Belteshazzar answered and said, "My lord, may [z]the dream [3]concern those who hate you, and its interpretation [4]concern your enemies!

20 [a]"The tree that you saw, which grew and became strong, whose height reached to the heavens and which could be seen by all the earth, 21 whose leaves were lovely and its fruit abundant, in which was food for all, under which the beasts of the field dwelt, and in whose branches the birds of the heaven had their home— 22 [b]it is you, O king, who have grown and become strong; for your greatness has grown and reaches to the heavens, [c]and your dominion to the end of the earth.

23 [d]"And inasmuch as the king saw a watcher, a holy one, coming down from heaven and saying, 'Chop down the tree and destroy it, but leave its stump and roots in the earth, bound with a band of iron and bronze in the tender grass of the field; let it be wet with the dew of heaven, [e]and let him graze with the beasts of the field, till seven [5]times pass over him'; 24 this is the interpretation, O king, and this is the decree of the Most High, which has come upon my lord the king: 25 They shall [f]drive you from men, your dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field, and they shall make you [g]eat grass like oxen. They shall wet you with the dew of heaven, and seven [6]times shall pass over you, [h]till you know that the Most High rules in the kingdom of men, and [i]gives it to whomever He chooses.

26 "And inasmuch as they gave the command to leave the stump and roots of the tree, your kingdom shall be assured to you, after you come to know that [j]Heaven[7] rules. 27 Therefore, O king, let my advice be acceptable to you; [k]break off your sins by being righteous, and your iniquities by showing mercy to the poor. [l]Perhaps there may be [m]a [8]lengthening of your prosperity."

Nebuchadnezzar's Humiliation

28 All this came upon King Nebuchadnezzar. 29 At the end of the twelve months he was walking [9]about the royal palace of Babylon. 30 The king [n]spoke, saying, "Is not this great Babylon, that I have built for a royal dwelling by my mighty power and for the honor of my majesty?"

31 [o]While the word was still in the king's mouth, [p]a voice fell from heaven: "King Nebuchadnezzar, to you it is spoken: the kingdom has departed from you! 32 And [q]they shall drive you from men, and your dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field. They shall make you eat grass like oxen; and seven [t]times shall pass over you, until you know that the Most High rules in the kingdom of men, and gives it to whomever He chooses."

■ 4:22 it is you, O king. With this statement, much like Nathan's to David (2 Sam. 12:7), Daniel applies the dream to Nebuchadnezzar.

■ 4:25 your dwelling shall be with the beasts. With graphic detail Daniel explains how Nebuchadnezzar's mind will fail. He will be deprived of his throne, and he will lose his dignity as a human being created to rule animals and not to imitate them.

the Most High rules. The purpose of Nebuchadnezzar's humiliation was to compel him to recognize God's sovereignty.

■ 4:26 your kingdom shall be assured to you. Nebuchadnezzar was promised that in spite of the severity and length of his illness, he would regain his throne when he acknowledged God's sovereignty.

Heaven rules. See text note. This is the first time in the Bible where "Heaven" is used as a substitute for "God" (4:37). Compare Matt. 5:3 with Luke 6:20.

33 That very hour the word was fulfilled concerning Nebuchadnezzar; he was driven from men and ate grass like oxen; his body was wet with the dew of heaven till his hair had grown like eagles' feathers and his nails like birds' claws.

Nebuchadnezzar Praises God

34 And [r]at the end of the [2]time I, Nebuchadnezzar, lifted my eyes to heaven, and my understanding returned to me; and I blessed the Most High and praised and honored Him [s]who lives forever:

For His dominion is [t]an everlasting dominion,
And His kingdom is from generation to generation.
35 [u]All the inhabitants of the earth are reputed as nothing;
[v]He does according to His will in the army of heaven
And among the inhabitants of the earth.
[w]No one can restrain His hand
Or say to Him, [x]"What have You done?"

36 At the same time my reason returned to me, [y]and for the glory of my kingdom, my honor and splendor returned to me. My counselors and nobles resorted to me, I was [z]restored to my kingdom, and excellent majesty was [a]added to me. 37 Now I, Nebuchadnezzar, [b]praise and extol and honor the King of heaven, [c]all of whose works are truth, and His ways justice. [d]And those who walk in pride He is able to put down.

CHAPTER 5

1 [a]Esth. 1:3; Is. 22:12–14

God Reigns: Divine Sovereignty

The assertion of God's absolute sovereignty in creation, providence, and salvation is basic to biblical belief and biblical praise. The vision of God reigning from His throne is recurrent (1 Kin. 22:19; Is. 6:1; Ezek. 1:26; Dan. 7:9; Rev. 4:2; cf. Ps. 11:4; 45:6; 47:8, 9; Heb. 12:2; Rev. 3:21). We are constantly told in explicit terms that the Lord (Yahweh) reigns as king, exercising dominion over great and small alike (Ex. 15:18; Ps. 47; 93; 96:10; 97; 99:1–5; 146:10; Prov. 16:33; 21:1; Is. 24:23; 52:7; Dan. 4:34, 35; 5:21–28; 6:26; Matt. 10:29–31). God's dominion is total: He wills as He chooses, and carries out all that He wills, and none can stay His hand, or thwart His plans. He exercises His rule in the normal course of life, as well as in more remarkable interventions or miracles.

God's rational creatures, angelic and human, have free agency, that is, the power of personal decision as to what they will do. We would not be moral beings, answerable to God the Judge, if it were not so. Nor would it be possible to distinguish, as Scripture does, between the bad purposes of human agents and the good purposes of God, who sovereignly overrules human action as a planned means to His own goals (Gen. 50:20; Acts 2:23; 13:26–39). Yet the fact of free agency confronts us with mystery. God's control over our free actions, actions chosen by ourselves, is as complete as it is over anything else; but how this can be we do not know. Despite this control, God is not, and cannot be, the author of sin. God has conferred responsibility on moral agents for their thoughts, words, and deeds, according to His justice.

Ps. 93 teaches that God's sovereign rule (a) guarantees the stability of the world against all the forces of chaos (vv. 1–4), (b) confirms the trustworthiness of all God's utterances and directives (v. 5), and (c) calls for the worship of His people (v. 5). The whole psalm expresses joy, hope, and confidence in the Almighty. □

■ 4:34, 35, 37 Although Nebuchadnezzar confesses God's sovereignty, he does not confess a belief that the God of Israel is the only God. See theological note "God Reigns: Divine Sovereignty."

■ 4:37 King of heaven. This unique title brings together the theme of the chapter: the rule of God from heaven (vv. 3, 26 and notes).

■ 5:1 Belshazzar the king. The name "Belshazzar" means "Bel, protect the king" (not to be confused with "Belteshazzar," the Babylonian name given to Daniel, 1:7 note). From Babylonian sources we know that the gold and silver vessels [b]which his [1]father Nebuchadnezzar had taken from the temple which had been in Jerusalem, that the king and his lords, his wives, and his concubines might drink from them. [3] Then they brought the gold [c]vessels that had been taken from the temple of the house of God which had been in Jerusalem; and the king and his lords, his wives, and his concubines drank from them. [4] They drank wine, [d]and praised the gods of gold and silver, bronze and iron, wood and stone.

[5] [e]In the same hour the fingers of a man's hand appeared and wrote opposite the lampstand on the plaster of the wall of the king's palace; and the king saw the part of the hand that wrote. [6] Then the king's countenance changed, and his thoughts troubled him, so that the joints of his hips were loosened and his [f]knees knocked against each other. [7] [g]The king cried [2]aloud to bring in [h]the astrologers, the Chaldeans, and the soothsayers. The king spoke, saying to the wise men of Babylon, "Whoever reads this writing, and tells me its interpretation, shall be clothed with purple and have a chain of gold around his neck; [i]and he shall be the third ruler in the kingdom." [8] Now all the king's wise men came, [j]but they could not read the writing, or make known to the king its interpretation. [9] Then King Belshazzar was greatly [k]troubled, his countenance was changed, and his lords were [3]astonished.

[10] The queen, because of the words of the king and his lords, came to the banquet hall. The queen spoke, saying, "O king, live forever! Do not let your thoughts trouble you, nor let your countenance change. [11] [l]There is a man in your kingdom in whom is the Spirit of the Holy God. And in the days of your [4]father, light and understanding and wisdom, like the wisdom of the gods, were found in him; and King Nebuchadnezzar your [4]father—your father the king—made him chief of the magicians, astrologers, Chaldeans, and soothsayers. [12] Inasmuch as an excellent spirit, knowledge, understanding, interpreting dreams, solving riddles, and [5]explaining enigmas were found in this Daniel, [m]whom the king named Belteshazzar, now let Daniel be called, and he will give the interpretation."

The Writing on the Wall Explained

[13] Then Daniel was brought in before the king. The king spoke, and said to Daniel, "Are you that Daniel [6]who is one of the captives from Judah, whom my [7]father the king brought from Judah? [14] I have heard of you, that [n]the [8]Spirit of God is in you, and that light and understanding and excellent wisdom are found in you. [15] Now [o]the wise men, the astrologers, have been brought in before me, that they should read this writing and make known to me its interpretation, but they could not give the interpretation of the thing. [16] And I have heard of you, that you can give interpretations and [9]explain enigmas. [p]Now if you can read the writing and make known to me its interpretation, you shall be clothed with purple and have a chain of gold around your neck, and shall be the third ruler in the kingdom."

[17] Then Daniel answered, and said before the king, "Let your gifts be for yourself, and give Belshazzar was placed in charge of affairs in Babylon while his father, Nabonidus, the last king of Babylon, spent extensive periods of time at Tema in Arabia. The events of this chapter took place in 539 B.C., the year of Babylon's fall to the Persians, forty-two years after the death of Nebuchadnezzar in 563 B.C.

■ 5:2 While he tasted the wine. Under the influence of wine Belshazzar committed a sacrilegious act.

his father. The immediate father of Belshazzar was Nabonidus, not Nebuchadnezzar. It is not unusual for the terms "father" (vv. 11, 13, 18) and "son" (v. 22) to be used as equivalents for "ancestor" (text note) and "descendant."

■ 5:4 praised the gods. The temple vessels were defiled, not only by being put to profane use, but also by being used to honor the false gods of Babylon.

■ 5:7 the astrologers, the Chaldeans, and the soothsayers. See notes on 1:20; 2:2; cf. 2:27; 4:7.

tells me its interpretation. Once again a king requires Daniel's assistance to understand a message from God meant for him (2:5 note).

third ruler. That is, close in power to Nabonidus and Belshazzar (5:1 note). "Third ruler" is an official designation of a high office, but not necessarily the literal third in line to the throne.

■ 5:10 The queen. It is unlikely that this was a wife of Belshazzar, since she was already present at the banquet (vv. 2, 3). Probably she is to be identified as the "queen mother," one of very few women to have significant power in ancient royal courts (cf. 1 Kin. 15:3; 2 Kin. 11:1–3; 24:12; Jer. 13:18).

■ 5:11 the Spirit of the Holy God. See note on 4:8. It is not surprising that the queen mother was more familiar with Daniel's life and prominence than was Belshazzar. Daniel would be in his eighties by 539 B.C. He had been brought to Babylon as a young man sixty-six years before (605 B.C., 1:1 note).

■ 5:12 found in this Daniel. This divine endowment can be understood as the presence of God's Spirit in an individual, or simply as the possession of a remarkable spirit characteristic of that individual.

Belteshazzar. See note on 1:7.

■ 5:16 third ruler in the kingdom. See note on v. 7.

■ 5:17 Let your gifts be for yourself. Daniel may reject Belshazzar's offer of reward because he is conscious that it is only by God's mercy that he is able to respond to the king's request, and he does not want to use his God-given role as a means of personal profit (cf. Gen. 14:23; 1 Sam. 9:7 note). But why then did he accept them earlier (2:48) and later (v. 29)? Some interpreters believe he is here avoiding royal pressure to modify the ominous message (Num. 22:18; Mic. 3:5, 11).

your rewards to another; yet I will read the writing to the king, and make known to him the interpretation. 18 O king, [q]the Most High God gave Nebuchadnezzar your [1]father a kingdom and majesty, glory and honor. 19 And because of the majesty that He gave him, [r]all peoples, nations, and languages trembled and feared before him. Whomever he wished, he [s]executed; whomever he wished, he kept alive; whomever he wished, he set up; and whomever he wished, he put down. 20 [t]But when his heart was lifted up, and his spirit was hardened in pride, he was deposed from his kingly throne, and they took his glory from him. 21 Then he was [u]driven from the sons of men, his heart was made like the beasts, and his dwelling was with the wild donkeys. They fed him with grass like oxen, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven, [v]till he [2]knew that the Most High God rules in the kingdom of men, and appoints over it whomever He chooses.

22 "But you his son, Belshazzar, [w]have not humbled your heart, although you knew all this. 23 [x]And you have [3]lifted yourself up against the Lord of heaven. They have brought the [y]vessels of [4]His house before you, and you and your lords, your wives and your concubines, have drunk wine from them. And you have praised the gods of silver and gold, bronze and iron, wood and stone, [z]which do not see or hear or know; and the God who holds your breath in His hand [a]and owns all your ways, you have not glorified. 24 Then the [5]fingers of the hand were sent from Him, and this writing was written.

25 "And this is the inscription that was written:

[6]MENE, MENE, [7]TEKEL, [8]UPHARSIN.

26 This is the interpretation of each word. MENE: God has numbered your kingdom, and finished it; 27 TEKEL: [b]You have been weighed in the balances, and found wanting; 28 PERES: Your kingdom has been divided, and given to the [c]Medes and [d]Persians."[9] 29 Then Belshazzar gave the command, and they clothed Daniel with purple and put a chain of gold around his neck, and made a proclamation concerning him [e]that he should be the third ruler in the kingdom.

although you knew all this. Because the king is without excuse, even more than his father, the time of mercy is past (contrast a different case at 1 Tim. 1:13).

■ 5:24 Then. The writing on the wall is God's answer to the arrogant challenge presented by Belshazzar's pride and his defiance of the God who had shown His existence and sovereignty in the time of Nebuchadnezzar.

■ 5:25 MENE, MENE, TEKEL, UPHARSIN. Aramaic, like Hebrew, is usually written without vowels, and this very short inscription would have been ambiguous.

■ 5:26 MENE. The Aramaic word could be a verb meaning "numbered" or a noun meaning "mina," a unit of money. Daniel read it as the verb to signify that the length of Belshazzar's reign had been determined by God and was about to end (Jer. 50:18).

■ 5:27 TEKEL. This word is also either a verb or a noun. Daniel read it as a verb meaning "weighed," signifying that Belshazzar failed to measure up to God's standards of righteousness.

■ 5:28 PERES. If those present at the banquet understood the three terms as nouns indicating various units of money (mina, or sixty shekels; tekel, one shekel; peres, a half-shekel), it is not surprising that they could not understand the inscription.

Medes and Persians. See Introduction: Date and Occasion.

■ 5:29 Belshazzar gave the command. Like Nebuchadnezzar, Belshazzar honors Daniel (2:48), but unlike his predecessor, he does not honor Daniel's God (2:46, 47).

■ 5:30 Belshazzar . . . was slain. It is not known just how Belshazzar died. However, the Greek historians Herodotus and Xenophon report that Babylon was taken in a surprise attack by the Persians while the Babylonians were engaged in revelling and dancing.

■ 5:31 Darius the Mede. It has long been alleged that this and other references to Darius the Mede in the Book of Daniel (6:1, 6, 9, 25, 28; 9:1; 11:1) are historical errors. For this discussion see note on 6:1.

sixty-two. The mina probably weighed sixty shekels. This, with the shekel and two half-shekels (v. 25 note) came to sixty-two; since this is Darius's age, he may have been referred to in the prophecy.

■ 6:1 Darius. See note on 5:31. Darius the Mede is not referred to in surviving historical sources outside the Scripture, and there is no interval between Belshazzar and Nabonidus (5:1 note) and the accession of Cyrus of Persia. Commentators have suggested that "Darius the Mede" could be: a throne name for Cyrus, the founder of the Persian Empire (v. 28 note); a title; or a designation for Gobryas, a general who had defected from Nebuchadnezzar to Cyrus and later captured Babylon. Cyrus made Gobryas governor over the territories the Persians took from the Babylonians.

■ 6:3 an excellent spirit was in him. See 1:17; 4:8; 5:12.

distinguished himself above the governors and satraps, [a]because an excellent spirit was in him; and the king gave thought to setting him over the whole realm. 4 [b]So the governors and satraps sought to find some charge against Daniel concerning the kingdom; but they could find no charge or fault, because he was faithful; nor was there any error or fault found in him. 5 Then these men said, "We shall not find any charge against this Daniel unless we find it against him concerning the law of his God."

6 So these governors and satraps thronged before the king, and said thus to him: [c]"King Darius, live forever! 7 All the governors of the kingdom, the administrators and satraps, the counselors and advisors, have [d]consulted together to establish a royal statute and to make a firm decree, that whoever petitions any god or man for thirty days, except you, O king, shall be cast into the den of lions. 8 Now, O king, establish the decree and sign the writing, so that it cannot be changed, according to the [e]law of the Medes and Persians, which [f]does not alter." 9 Therefore King Darius signed the written decree.

Daniel in the Lions' Den

10 Now when Daniel knew that the writing was signed, he went home. And in his upper room, with his windows open [g]toward Jerusalem, he knelt down on his knees [g]three times that day, and prayed and gave thanks before his God, as was his custom since early days.

11 Then these men assembled and found Daniel praying and making supplication before his God. 12 [h]And they went before the king, and spoke concerning the king's decree: "Have you not signed a decree that every man who petitions any god or man within thirty days, except you, O king, shall be cast into the den of lions?"

The king answered and said, "The thing is true, [i]according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which [2]does not alter."

13 So they answered and said before the king, "That Daniel, [j]who is [3]one of the captives from Judah, [k]does not show due regard for you, O king, or for the decree that you have signed, but makes his petition three times a day."

14 And the king, when he heard these words, [l]was greatly displeased with himself, and set his heart on Daniel to deliver him; and he [4]labored till the going down of the sun to deliver him. 15 Then these men [5]approached the king, and said to the king, "Know, O king, that it is [m]the law of the Medes and Persians that no decree or statute which the king establishes may be changed."

16 So the king gave the command, and they brought Daniel and cast him into the den of lions. But the king spoke, saying to Daniel, "Your God, whom you serve continually, He will deliver you." 17 [n]Then a stone was brought and laid on the mouth of the den, [o]and the king sealed it with his own signet ring and with the signets of his lords, that the purpose concerning Daniel might not be changed.

Daniel Saved from the Lions

18 Now the king went to his palace and spent the night fasting; and no [6]musicians were brought before him. [p]Also his sleep [7]went from him. 19 Then the [q]king arose very early in the morning and went in haste to the den of lions. 20 And when he came to the den, he cried out with a [8]lamenting voice to Daniel. The king spoke, saying to Daniel, "Daniel, servant of the living God, [r]has your God, whom you serve continually, been able to deliver you from the lions?"

■ 6:5 the law of his God. Unintentionally, Daniel's adversaries affirm not only his moral integrity but also the visible nature of his piety and commitment to the God of Israel.

■ 6:7 have consulted. The false implication is that Daniel concurred with the proposal. These officials are hypocritical in their seeming devotion to Darius. Their scheme is an attempt to manipulate him for their own designs.

any god or man . . . except you. The proposal would appear to Darius to be more political than religious, and would serve to consolidate his authority over newly conquered territories.

■ 6:8 the law of the Medes and Persians. The unchangeableness of their law is also attested in extrabiblical writings. The effect of the decree was to create a conflict for Daniel between allegiance to God and obedience to human government.

■ 6:10 down on his knees. Standing may have been a regular posture in prayer (1 Chr. 23:30; Neh. 9:2–5), while kneeling, a mark of humility, occurred in circumstances of particular solemnity (1 Kin. 8:54; Ezra 9:5; Ps. 95:6; Luke 22:41; Acts 7:60; 9:40).

as was his custom. Evidently Daniel's prayer habits were public knowledge.

■ 6:13 one of the captives from Judah. This ethnic identification of Daniel is perhaps indicative of prejudice towards the Jews on the part of the other officials (3:8).

■ 6:14 set his heart on Daniel to deliver him. Darius immediately perceived that he had been victimized by the intrigue of his own officials in order to trap Daniel. His loyalty to Daniel remained unshaken.

■ 6:16 Your God . . . will deliver you. Against his own will Darius was forced to comply with the decree. Nevertheless, he is confident that Daniel's God will intervene on behalf of His faithful servant.

■ 6:17 sealed it with his own signet ring. Signet rings and cylinder seals were used by the Assyrians, Babylonians, and Persians. The ring or cylinder was pressed into soft clay to leave the mark of the owner of the seal. Breaking seals was a violation of the law.

21 Then Daniel said to the king, [s]"O king, live forever! 22 [t]My God sent His angel and [u]shut the lions' mouths, so that they have not hurt me, because I was found innocent before Him; and also, O king, I have done no wrong before you."

23 Now the king was exceedingly glad for him, and commanded that they should take Daniel up out of the den. So Daniel was taken up out of the den, and no injury whatever was found on him, [v]because he believed in his God.

Darius Honors God

24 And the king gave the command, [w]and they brought those men who had accused Daniel, and they cast them into the den of lions—them, [x]their children, and their wives; and the lions overpowered them, and broke all their bones in pieces before they ever came to the bottom of the den.

25 [y]Then King Darius wrote:

To all peoples, nations, and languages that dwell in all the earth:

Peace be multiplied to you.

26 [z]I make a decree that in every dominion of my kingdom men must [a]tremble and fear before the God of Daniel.

[b]For He is the living God,
And steadfast forever;
His kingdom is the one which shall not be [c]destroyed,
And His dominion shall endure to the end.
27 He delivers and rescues,
[d]And He works signs and wonders
In heaven and on earth,
Who has delivered Daniel from the [g]power of the lions.

28 So this Daniel prospered in the reign of Darius [e]and in the reign of [f]Cyrus the Persian.

Vision of the Four Beasts

7 In the first year of Belshazzar king of Babylon, [a]Daniel [l]had a dream and [b]visions of his head while on his bed. Then he wrote down the dream, telling [2]the main facts.

2 Daniel spoke, saying, "I saw in my vision by night, and behold, the four winds of heaven were stirring up the Great Sea. 3 And four great beasts [c]came up from the sea, each different from the other. 4 The first was [d]like a lion, and had eagle's wings. I watched till its wings were plucked off; and it was lifted up from the earth and made to stand on two feet like a man, and a [e]man's heart was given to it.

5 [f]"And suddenly another beast, a second, like a bear. It was raised up on one side, and had three ribs in its mouth between its teeth. And they said thus to it: 'Arise, devour much flesh!'

■ 6:22 My God sent His angel. Possibly, although not necessarily in the context, this was the Angel of the Lord. See note on 3:28.

■ 6:23 the king . . . commanded. Darius could rescue Daniel without violating the decree since its demands had been fulfilled.

■ 6:26 a decree. Compare 2:47; 3:28, 29; 4:2, 3, 34–37; 5:18–29. As in the previous narratives, God displays His sovereign control of nature and history, kingdoms and kings. The decree is an eloquent testimony to "the living God" and His indestructible kingdom. It is an official acknowledgment of Daniel's God, although it does not necessarily reflect personal faith on the part of Darius.

■ 6:28 Daniel prospered. Although the government changed hands, God's favor sustained Daniel and continued his authority.

■ 7:1 the first year of Belshazzar. See note on 5:1. Belshazzar's administration under Nabonidus may have begun at the same time as the accession of his father (556 B.C.) or a few years later. In either case the visions of chs. 7 and 8 are chronologically between the events of chs. 4 and 5.

■ 7:2 Great Sea. The sea is a common figure for the restlessness and dangerous turmoil of sinful men and nations (see v. 17; cf. Is. 17:12, 13; 57:20).

■ 7:3 four great beasts. These four "beasts" represent four kingdoms (vv. 17, 23), corresponding closely to the four kingdoms of Nebuchadnezzar's dream in ch. 2. For identification of the four kingdoms, see note on 2:37–40 and Introduction: Date and Occasion.

■ 7:4 like a lion. The "lion" with "eagle's wings" is an appropriate symbol for the Babylonian Empire (cf. Jer. 50:44; Ezek. 17:3, 12). Winged lions with human faces were common in Babylonian art and were placed at the entrances of important public buildings.

wings were plucked off. Perhaps this is a reference to Nebuchadnezzar's humiliation and later restoration after a seven-year period of insanity (ch. 4).

■ 7:5 another beast . . . like a bear. The Medo-Persian kingdom is symbolized as a "beast" with a voracious appetite. The raised side may represent the superior status of Persia, and the "three ribs" likely represent Persia's conquests over Lydia, (546 B.C.), Babylon (539 B.C.), and Egypt (525 B.C.). See note on 8:3.

7 "After this I saw in the night visions, and behold, [h]a fourth beast, dreadful and terrible, exceedingly strong. It had huge iron teeth; it was devouring, breaking in pieces, and trampling the residue with its feet. It was different from all the beasts that were before it, [i]and it had ten horns. 8 I was considering the horns, and [j]there was another horn, a little one, coming up among them, before whom three of the first horns were plucked out by the roots. And there, in this horn, were eyes like the eyes [k]of a man, [l]and a mouth speaking [3]pompous words.

Vision of the Ancient of Days

9 "I[m] watched till thrones were [4]put in place,
And [n]the Ancient of Days was seated;
[o]His garment was white as snow,
And the hair of His head was like pure wool.
His throne was a fiery flame,
[p]Its wheels a burning fire;
10 [q]A fiery stream issued
And came forth from before Him.
[r]A thousand thousands ministered to Him;
Ten thousand times ten thousand stood before Him.
[s]The [5]court was seated,
And the books were opened.

11 "I watched then because of the sound of the [6]pompous words which the horn was speaking; [t]I watched till the beast was slain, and its body destroyed and given to the burning flame. 12 As for the rest of the beasts, they had their dominion taken away, yet their lives were prolonged for a season and a time.

13 "I was watching in the night visions,
And behold, [u]One like the Son of Man,
Coming with the clouds of heaven!
He came to the Ancient of Days,
And they brought Him near before Him.
14 [v]Then to Him was given dominion and glory and a kingdom,
That all [w]peoples, nations, and languages should serve Him.
His dominion is [x]an everlasting dominion,
Which shall not pass away,
And His kingdom the one
Which shall not be destroyed.

■ 7:6 another, like a leopard. The Greek Empire is symbolized by the "leopard," known for its quickness. Alexander the Great (356–323 B.C.) conquered the Persian Empire with great speed. Alexander died suddenly at age thirty-three, and the empire he established was divided into four parts (Macedonia under Cassander, Thrace and Asia Minor under Lysimachus, Syria under Seleucus, and Egypt under Ptolemy).

■ 7:7 a fourth beast. This unidentified "beast" symbolizes Rome, the kingdom that ultimately assimilated the various parts of the divided Greek kingdom.

it had ten horns. The "ten horns" symbolize ten kings or kingdoms associated with the Roman Empire (v. 24). Some interpreters suggest that a second phase of the fourth kingdom, a revived Roman Empire is to be expected, from which the ten horns will come, at once or one after the other (2:44 note; cf. Rev. 13:1–10; 17:3, 12).

■ 7:8 another horn, a little one. The ten horns are prior in time to the "little horn" which uproots three of them, symbolizing another phase of the fourth kingdom. Many interpreters suggest that the little horn represents the Antichrist (2 Thess. 2:3, 4, 8). This would be the first reference in Scripture to the Antichrist.

■ 7:9 the Ancient of Days was seated. The title "Ancient of Days" occurs in the Bible only in this chapter (vv. 13, 22). It is a designation for God on the throne and judgment.

His throne . . . Its wheels. The depiction of God's throne resembles Ezekiel's vision of the throne chariot of God (Ezek. 1:15–28).

■ 7:11, 12 A contrast is drawn between the complete destruction of the fourth kingdom and the measure of continuance granted the preceding kingdoms as their people and customs were absorbed into the succeeding kingdoms.

■ 7:13 One like the Son of Man. The Aramaic for "Son of Man" would otherwise mean "a human being" as opposed to the preceding "beasts." The equivalent is used for Daniel in 8:17 and many times for Daniel's contemporary, Ezekiel (e.g., Ezek. 2:1, 3, 6). But, in contrast to the "beasts" who misruled the earth, this One will rule as God intended before humanity's fall (Gen. 1:26–28; Ps. 8:4–6). The expression "Son of Man" is used sixty-nine times in the synoptic Gospels and twelve times in the Gospel of John to refer to Christ. It is the title Jesus most often used of Himself.

Coming with the clouds of heaven. Elsewhere in the Old Testament it is only God who comes on the clouds (Ps. 104:3; Is. 19:1). Accordingly, the "Son of Man" originates in heaven and comes by divine initiative.

■ 7:14 all peoples . . . should serve Him. The "Son of Man" is Christ, the Messiah. Jesus referred this passage to Himself, and doing so caused the religious leaders of His day to accuse Him of blasphemy (Matt. 26:64, 65; Mark 14:62–64).

an everlasting dominion. He is given God's sovereignty and exercises the rule symbolized by the stone that fell in Nebuchadnezzar's dream (2:34, 35, 44, 45).

Daniel's Visions Interpreted

15 "I, Daniel, was grieved in my spirit [7]within my body, and the visions of my head troubled me. 16 I came near to one of those who stood by, and asked him the truth of all this. So he told me and made known to me the interpretation of these things: 17 'Those great beasts, which are four, are four [8]kings which arise out of the earth. 18 But [y]the saints of the Most High shall receive the kingdom, and possess the kingdom forever, even forever and ever.'
19 "Then I wished to know the truth about the fourth beast, which was different from all the others, exceedingly dreadful, with its teeth of iron and its nails of bronze, which devoured, broke in pieces, and trampled the residue with its feet; 20 and the ten horns that were on its head, and the other horn which came up, before which three fell, namely, that horn which had eyes and a mouth which spoke [9]pompous words, whose appearance was greater than his fellows.
21 "I was watching; [z]and the same horn was making war against the saints, and prevailing against them, 22 until the Ancient of Days came, [a]and a judgment was made in favor of the saints of the Most High, and the time came for the saints to possess the kingdom.
23 "Thus he said:

'The fourth beast shall be
[b]A fourth kingdom on earth,
Which shall be different from all other kingdoms,
And shall devour the whole earth,
Trample it and break it in pieces.
24 [c]The ten horns are ten kings
Who shall arise from this kingdom.
And another shall rise after them;
He shall be different from the first ones,
And shall subdue three kings.
25 [d]He shall speak pompous words against the Most High,
Shall [e]persecute[f] the saints of the Most High,
And shall [f]intend to change times and law.
Then [g]the saints shall be given into his hand
[h]For a time and times and half a time.

26 'But[i] the court shall be seated,
And they shall [j]take away his dominion,
To consume and destroy it forever.
27 Then the [k]kingdom and dominion,
And the greatness of the kingdoms under the whole heaven,
Shall be given to the people, the saints of the Most High.
[l]His kingdom is an everlasting kingdom,
[m]And all dominions shall serve and obey Him.'

28 "This is the end of the [2]account. As for me, Daniel, [n]my thoughts greatly troubled me, and my countenance changed; but I [o]kept the matter in my heart."

CHAPTER 8

1 [a]Dan. 7:1 [1]The Hebrew language resumes in Dan. 8:1.

■ 7:18 the saints of the Most High. See vv. 21, 22, 25, 27. The "saints" are not angels, but believers in God, who will share in Christ's kingdom (Matt. 19:28; 1 Cor. 6:1–3; 2 Tim. 2:12; Rev. 22:5).

■ 7:21 making war against the saints. Daniel gives additional information about the hostility of the little horn, possibly the Antichrist (v. 8), toward the people of God (cf. Rev. 13:7).

■ 7:22 until the Ancient of Days came. Although the Antichrist will prevail for a time against God's people, in the end he will fall under the judgment of God (Zech. 14:1–4; Rev. 13:7–17; 19:20).

■ 7:25 For a time and times and half a time. The word "time" is the same word used in 4:16 and 4:23, and as there may mean one year. Some interpreters take this verse to refer to the last half of the seventieth week of ch. 9 (see 9:27). Others do not assign a specific duration to the expression, but take it to be a period of time that is shortened because God intervenes.

■ 7:27 the saints of the Most High. See note on v. 18.

■ 8:1—12:13 Daniel resumes writing in Hebrew for the last five chapters. He used Aramaic in 2:4 to 7:28 (2:4 note).

■ 8:1 In the third year of the reign of King Belshazzar. That is, two years after Daniel's dream in ch. 7 (7:1 note).

■ 8:2 I saw . . . that I. Daniel had a visionary journey like that of Ezekiel (Ezek. 3:10–15).

in Shushan, the citadel. In Daniel's time Shushan (or Susa) was the capital of Elam, about 230 miles east of Babylon. It is not clear whether Elam was independent, or aligned with Babylon or Media. Later, how-while I was looking, that I was in [b]Shushan,[2] the [3]citadel, which is in the province of Elam; and I saw in the vision that I was by the River Ulai. [3] Then I lifted my eyes and saw, and there, standing beside the river, was a ram which had two horns, and the two horns were high; but one was [c]higher than the other, and the higher one came up last. [4] I saw the ram pushing westward, northward, and southward, so that no animal could [4]withstand him; nor was there any that could deliver from his hand, [d]but he did according to his will and became great.

[5] And as I was considering, suddenly a male goat came from the west, across the surface of the whole earth, without touching the ground; and the goat had a notable [e]horn between his eyes. [6] Then he came to the ram that had two horns, which I had seen standing beside the river, and ran at him with furious power. [7] And I saw him confronting the ram; he was moved with rage against him, [5]attacked the ram, and broke his two horns. There was no power in the ram to withstand him, but he cast him down to the ground and trampled him; and there was no one that could deliver the ram from his hand.

the River Ulai. This canal near Susa connected two rivers that flowed into the Persian Gulf.

■ 8:3 a ram which had two horns. According to v. 20, the ram and its horns represent the kings of the Medo-Persian Empire.

one was higher than the other, and . . . came up last. Medo-Persian history clarifies the symbolism. The Medes became independent of Assyria after 612 B.C. The Persians were under the control of the Medes, but eventually rose to prominence when Cyrus of Anshan defeated his Median overlord in 550 B.C. Cyrus (reigned 559–530 B.C.) called himself "King of the World."

■ 8:4 pushing westward, northward, and southward. That is, his back was toward the east from where he had come (Is. 41:2). Cyrus first took Asia Minor, then northern and southern Mesopotamia. Subsequent rulers extended Medo-Persian control far to the East.

became great. The Persian Empire became larger than any previous empire in ancient Near Eastern history.

■ 8:5 from the west . . . the goat had a notable horn. According to v. 21, the goat represents Greece and the large horn between his eyes is the first king. The symbolism clearly depicts the rise of the Greek Empire under Alexander the Great (356–323 B.C.).

across . . . the whole earth, without touching the ground. These words describe the amazing speed and extent of Alexander's conquests (7:6 note). In only three years he defeated the powerful Persian Empire.

■ 8:8 the male goat grew very great. Alexander's empire quickly exceeded the Persian Empire in size. By 327 B.C. Alexander had moved east into what is today Afghanistan and then on to the Indus River.

the large horn was broken. Alexander died in Babylon at the age of thirty-three.

in place of it four notable ones came up. According to v. 22, these horns are four kingdoms that emerged from Alexander's empire but were inferior to it in strength. After a time of internal struggle, four of Alexander's generals took portions of the Greek Empire as their own kingdoms. See note on 7:6.

■ 8:9 a little horn. According to v. 23, this "little horn" symbolizes a wicked ruler who will arise in one of the four Greek kingdoms after a long interval of time ("in the latter time of their kingdom"). The descriptions of out of one of them came a little horn which grew exceedingly great toward the south, [h]toward the east, and toward the [i]Glorious Land. 10[j]And it grew up to [k]the host of heaven; and [l]it cast down some of the host and some of the stars to the ground, and trampled them. 11[m]He even exalted himself as high as [n]the Prince of the host; [o]and by him [p]the daily sacrifices were taken away, and the place of [q]His sanctuary was cast down. 12 Because of transgression, [q]an army was given over to the horn to oppose the daily sacrifices; and he cast [r]truth down to the ground. He [s]did all this and prospered.

Alexander's Greek Empire (323 B.C.). In 334 B.C. Alexander, son of Philip II of Macedon, began a military quest to destroy the Persian Empire. Moving from west to east, he was victorious in battle at Issus in 333 B.C. against the Persian Darius III. Moving south, Alexander defeated the Phoenicians at Tyre in 332 B.C., swept through Palestine, and conquered Egypt in 331 B.C. Reengaging Darius III near Nineveh, Alexander defeated him again. Alexander's campaign continued east into India, securing vast territory for the Greek Empire. He died in Babylon in 323 B.C.

13 Then I heard [t]a holy one speaking; and another holy one said to that certain one who was speaking, "How long will the vision be, concerning the daily sacrifices and the transgression [7]of desolation, the giving of both the sanctuary and the host to be trampled underfoot?"

14 And he said to me, "For two thousand three hundred [s]days; then the sanctuary shall be cleansed."

Gabriel Interprets the Vision

15 Then it happened, when I, Daniel, had seen the vision and [u]was seeking the meaning, that suddenly there stood before me [v]one having the appearance of a man. 16 And I heard a man's voice [w]between the banks of the Ulai, who called, and said, [x]"Gabriel, make this man understand the vision." 17 So he came near where I stood, and when he came I was afraid and [y]fell on my face; but he said to me, "Understand, son of man, that the vision refers to the time of the end."

18 [z]Now, as he was speaking with me, I was in a deep sleep with my face to the ground; [a]but he touched me, and stood me upright. 19 And he said, "Look, I am making known to you what shall happen in the latter time of the indignation; [b]for at the appointed time the end shall be. 20 The ram which you saw, having the two horns—they are the kings of Media and Persia. 21 And the [9]male goat is the [l]kingdom of Greece. The large horn that is between its eyes [c]is the first king. 22[d]As for the broken horn and the four that stood up in its place, four kingdoms shall arise out of that nation, but not with its power.

the actions of this ruler (vv. 9–14; 23–25) indicate that he is Antiochus IV Epiphanes, ruler of the Seleucid kingdom from 175–164 B.C. This horn must be distinguished from the "little one" of 7:8 if that chapter refers to the Roman period and not the Greek.

toward the Glorious Land. That is, toward Palestine.

■ 8:10 the host of heaven. The "host of heaven" or the "stars" (cf. Jer. 33:22) symbolize the people of God (cf. 12:3; Gen. 15:5) or a heavenly army (Is. 14:13; also see 2 Macc. 9:10). The attack against the people of God amounts to an attack against heaven itself.

cast down some of the host and . . . stars to the ground, and trampled them. This is a symbolic depiction of the severe persecution of God's people under Antiochus IV Epiphanes, who attempted to abolish their traditional worship and way of life and forcibly Hellenize them (see 11:21–35 and 1 Macc. 1:10–64 for additional details; see also Introduction to the Intertestamental Period).

■ 8:11 as high as the Prince of the host. The "Prince" is to be understood as God (see v. 25 where the designation is "Prince of princes"). Antiochus IV took the name Epiphanes ("God manifest") and thought of himself as a manifestation of Zeus.

by him the daily sacrifices were taken away. See vv. 12, 13 and 11:31. Antiochus IV summarily forbade all ceremonies and worship of God in the Jerusalem temple and in the cities of Judah.

the place of His sanctuary was cast down. Antiochus IV entered the Most Holy Place and plundered the silver and gold vessels. He erected an altar to the Olympian Zeus on the altar of God in the temple court and there sacrificed pigs (11:31 note).

■ 8:12 cast truth down to the ground. Among his transgressions, Antiochus IV destroyed copies of Scripture (1 Macc. 1:56, 57).

He did all this and prospered. The vision depicts the apparent success of the wicked acts of Antiochus IV, the little horn.

■ 8:14 For two thousand three hundred days. "Days" is literally "evening-morning"; cf. the "vision of the evenings and mornings" in v. 26. Some interpreters understand it simply as a reference to the evening and morning sacrifices as separate offerings (cf. Ex. 29:38–42). On this basis it would represent 1150 days, but these paired sacrifices were traditionally considered a single offering. Others understand it as simply an expression for 2300 days. Since the persecutions by Antiochus IV could be linked with any one of a number of incidents beginning as early as 171 B.C. and ending with the rededication of the temple in 164 B.C., it is difficult to say which understanding of the phrase is to be preferred. The multiple of the number twenty-three may simply be symbolic for a fixed period as in extrabiblical apocalypses (cf. the "sixty-nine" [23 x 3] weeks in 9:25, 26).

then the sanctuary shall be cleansed. The temple was cleansed and rededicated under the leadership of Judas Maccabeus in December, 164 B.C. (11:34 note; cf. Zech. 9:13–17).

■ 8:16 Gabriel. This angel is mentioned four times in Scripture (9:21; Luke 1:19, 26). The name means "mighty one of God" or "God is mighty."

■ 8:17 son of man. See note on 7:13. The "strong man of God" is speaking to this distinguished "mortal."

the time of the end. See also v. 19 ("at the appointed time the end shall be"). This expression is not necessarily eschatological (referring to the end of history). It occurs in 11:27, 35 in contexts that are clearly not eschatological. Here it may refer to the end of the persecutions of Antiochus IV.

■ 8:19 the indignation. The "time of the indignation" may refer to the period of God's judgment on Israel during their subjection to the Babylonians, Persians, and Greeks.

■ 8:20 ram. See notes on vv. 3, 4.

■ 8:21 goat . . . horn. See notes on vv. 5, 8.

■ 8:22 the four. See note on v. 8.

■ 8:23–25 See notes on vv. 9–14. Some interpreters perceive the Antichrist in the descriptions of the "little horn" of this chapter. Antiochus IV is viewed as a type pointing forward to a later manifestation of satanic power in the person of the Antichrist.

A king shall arise,
[e]Having fierce [2]features,
Who understands sinister schemes.
24 His power shall be mighty, [f]but not by his own power;
He shall destroy [3]fearfully,
[g]And shall prosper and thrive;
[h]He shall destroy the mighty, and also the holy people.

25 "Through[i] his cunning
He shall cause deceit to prosper under his [4]rule;
[j]And he shall exalt himself in his heart.
He shall destroy many in their prosperity.
[k]He shall even rise against the Prince of princes;
But he shall be [l]broken without human [4]means.

26 "And the vision of the evenings and mornings
Which was told is true;
[m]Therefore seal up the vision,
For it refers to many days in the future."

27 [n]And I, Daniel, fainted and was sick for days; afterward I arose and went about the king's business. I was [5]astonished by the vision, but no one understood it.

Daniel's Prayer for the People

9 In the first year [a]of Darius the son of Ahasuerus, of the lineage of the Medes, who was made king over the realm of the Chaldeans— 2 in the first year of his reign I, Daniel, understood by the books the number of the years specified by the word of the LORD through [b]Jeremiah the prophet, that He would accomplish seventy years in the desolations of Jerusalem.

3 [c]Then I set my face toward the Lord God to make request by prayer and supplications, with fasting, sackcloth, and ashes. 4 And I prayed to the LORD my God, and made confession, and said, "O [d]Lord, great and awesome God, who keeps His covenant and mercy with those who love Him, and with those who keep His commandments, 5 [e]we have sinned and committed iniquity, we have done wickedly and rebelled, even by departing from Your precepts and Your judgments. 6 [f]Neither have we heeded Your servants the prophets, who spoke in Your name to our kings and our princes, to our fathers and all the people of the land. 7 O Lord, [g]righteousness belongs to You, but to us shame of face, as it is this day—to the men of Judah, to the inhabitants of Jerusalem and all Israel, those near and those far off in all the countries to which You have driven them, because of the unfaithfulness which they have committed against You.

8 "O Lord, to us belongs shame of face, to our kings, our princes, and our fathers, because we have sinned against You. 9 [h]To the Lord our God belong mercy and forgiveness, though we have rebelled against Him. 10 We have not obeyed the voice of the LORD our God, to walk in His laws, without human means. Antiochus IV died of a physical or nervous disorder in 164 B.C. For accounts of his death, see 1 Macc. 6:1–16 and 2 Macc. 9.

■ 8:26 seal up the vision. The term "seal" can mean to authenticate or certify something, or to close up for confidentiality and safekeeping. The second sense seems best in this context (6:17 note).

it refers to many days in the future. As indicated by the italics, the words "in the future" have been supplied by the translators. The conquests of Alexander (333–323 B.C.) occurred more than two centuries after Daniel's vision (c. 550 B.C.). The activities of Antiochus IV were about a century and a half after Alexander (171–164 B.C.).

■ 9:1–27 Daniel recounts the revelation he received concerning the prophecy of Jeremiah about the seventy years of Jerusalem's desolation (Jer. 25:11, 12; 29:10). Significantly, the revelation follows Daniel's prayer confessing the sinfulness of God's people and the justice of Jerusalem's desolation, and seeking the favor of God for the restoration of the city and the temple.

■ 9:1 the first year of Darius the son of Ahasuerus. See note on 6:1. The word "Ahasuerus" (not the same person mentioned in Esth. 1:1) may be a royal title rather than a personal name. The first year of Darius was 539 B.C.

■ 9:2 seventy years in the desolations of Jerusalem. Interpreters differ on the dates of the beginning and ending of the seventy-year period, and on whether it is to be understood as a round number for a human lifetime or exactly seventy years. Some date the period from 586 B.C. (the destruction of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar) to 516 B.C., when the restoration of the temple was completed under Zerubbabel (Ezra 6:13–18). Others date the beginning of the period to the year of Daniel's own captivity (605 B.C., 1:1 note), which would suggest that Daniel recognized the end of the seventy years was imminent.

■ 9:4–19 Daniel's prayer is rooted in a covenantal understanding of the Lord's relation to His people (blessing for obedience, cursing for disobedience, especially vv. 5, 7, 11, 12, 14; cf. Lev. 26:14–45; Deut. 28:15–68; 30:1–5). For a similar prayer, see Neh. 9. The prayer has four parts: (a) worship (v. 4); (b) a confession of sin (vv. 5–11); (c) recognition of the justice of God in His judgment on sin (vv. 11–14); and (d) a plea for God's mercy based on concern for His name, kingdom, and will (vv. 15–19). The prayer is grounded on God's promises (v. 2) and offered in a spirit of contrition and humility (v. 3). It is a model for the appropriate elements of effective prayer.

which He set before us by His servants the prophets. 11 Yes, [i]all Israel has transgressed Your law, and has departed so as not to obey Your voice; therefore the curse and the oath written in the [j]Law of Moses the servant of God have been poured out on us, because we have sinned against Him. 12 And He has [k]confirmed His words, which He spoke against us and against our judges who judged us, by bringing upon us a great disaster; [l]for under the whole heaven such has never been done as what has been done to Jerusalem.

13 [m]"As it is written in the Law of Moses, all this disaster has come upon us; [n]yet we have not made our prayer before the LORD our God, that we might turn from our iniquities and understand Your truth. 14 Therefore the LORD has [o]kept the disaster in mind, and brought it upon us; for [p]the LORD our God is righteous in all the works which He does, though we have not obeyed His voice. 15 And now, O Lord our God, [q]who brought Your people out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand, and made Yourself [r]a name, as it is this day—we have sinned, we have done wickedly!

16 "O Lord, [s]according to all Your righteousness, I pray, let Your anger and Your fury be turned away from Your city Jerusalem, [t]Your holy mountain; because for our sins, [u]and for the iniquities of our fathers, [v]Jerusalem and Your people [w]are a reproach to all those around us. 17 Now therefore, our God, hear the prayer of Your servant, and his supplications, [x]and [y]for the Lord's sake [1]cause Your face to shine on [2]Your sanctuary, [z]which is desolate. 18 [a]O my God, incline Your ear and hear; open Your eyes [b]and see our desolations, and the city [c]which is called by Your name; for we do not present our supplications before You because of our righteous deeds, but because of Your great mercies. 19 O Lord, hear! O Lord, forgive! O Lord, listen and act! Do not delay for Your own sake, my God, for Your city and Your people are called by Your name."

The Seventy-Weeks Prophecy

20 Now while I was speaking, praying, and confessing my sin and the sin of my people Israel, and presenting my supplication before the LORD my God for the holy mountain of my God, 21 yes, while I was speaking in prayer, the man [d]Gabriel, whom I had seen in the vision at the beginning, [3]being caused to fly swiftly, reached me about the time of the evening offering. 22 And he informed me, and talked with me, and said, "O Daniel, I have now come forth to give you skill to understand. 23 At the beginning of your supplications the [4]command went out, and I have come to tell you, for you are greatly [e]beloved; therefore [f]consider the matter, and understand the vision:

■ 9:21 Gabriel. See note on 8:16.

■ 9:24–27 The interpretation of these verses is disputed at many points. There are two fundamental approaches to the interpretation of the "weeks" (lit. "sevens"): symbolic periods of time or literal periods of time. In the symbolic view the seventy years of punishment (v. 2) are multiplied seven times in accordance with the covenantal curses (Lev. 26:18, 21, 24, 28). Jubilees, a Jewish book from the period between the Testaments, also structures the whole of history into periods of 490 years. Adherents of the literal view fall into three categories. As with other prophecies in Daniel, some commentators interpret the verses with reference to the time of Antiochus IV. Other interpreters may be divided into two groups: (a) those who interpret the passage as having its primary focus on events associated with the First Advent of Christ and shortly thereafter (first-advent view); (b) those who interpret the passage as having reference to events associated with both the first and second advents of Christ with an unstated time interval between the two (second-advent view). Within each of these categories individual interpreters differ on details.

■ 9:24 Seventy weeks. Most interpreters view the units of "seventy weeks" as representing 490 years (9:24–27 note). These so-called seventy weeks of years are then divided into three subunits of 49 years ("seven weeks," v. 25); 434 years ("sixty-two weeks," v. 26); and 7 years ("one week," v. 27). Interpreters differ over whether these subunits are to be viewed as a continuous sequence or as having time intervals between them.

■ 9:25 the going forth of the command. The Hebrew term translated "command" may mean simply "word." This ambiguity has given rise to two primary interpretations for the beginning of the "seventy weeks": (a) some interpreters understand it to be the decree issued by Artaxerxes I in the seventh year of his reign, or 457 B.C. (Ezra 7:12–26). Forty-nine years later (408 B.C.) the streets and wall around Jerusalem had been completed (v. 25). (b) Other commentators understand the "sev-

Vision of the Glorious Man

CHAPTER 10

10 In the third year of Cyrus king of Persia a message was revealed to Daniel, whose [a]name was called Belteshazzar. The message was true, [1]but the appointed time was long; and he understood the message, and had understanding of the vision. 2 In those days I, Daniel, was mourning three full weeks. 3 I ate no [2]pleasant food, no meat or wine came into my mouth, nor did I anoint myself at all, till three whole weeks were fulfilled.

4 Now on the twenty-fourth day of the first month, as I was by the side of the great river, that is, the [3]Tigris, 5 I lifted my eyes and looked, and behold, a certain man clothed in [b]linen, whose waist was [c]girded with gold of Uphaz! 6 His body was like beryl, his face like the appearance of enty weeks" to begin in 587 B.C., the time of Jeremiah's prediction (his "word") that Jerusalem would be rebuilt (Jer. 31:38; 32:15, 37, 44). Forty-nine years later would be 538 B.C., the year that Cyrus permitted the Jews to fulfill Jeremiah's prophecy by returning to Palestine (Ezra 1:1–4).

Until Messiah. Advocates of interpretation (a) above understand "Messiah" to be a reference to Jesus. Linking the "seven weeks" (49 years) and the "sixty-two weeks" (434 years) as a continuous sequence yields 483 years, to run from 457 B.C. to A.D. 27, or approximately the beginning of Christ's three-year public ministry. Others take the 483 years to begin with the "command" of Artaxerxes I in the twentieth year of his reign (Neh. 2:1), 444 B.C., instead of the seventh year of his reign (Ezra 7:12–26) in 457 B.C. Using a 360-day lunar year (as in the Jewish calendar), this approach reaches a date for the crucifixion in A.D. 33. This date for the crucifixion is possible but not certain. Advocates of interpretation (b) above understand "Messiah" to refer to Cyrus (also called the Lord's "anointed," Is. 45:1). This view separates the "seven weeks" and the "sixty-two weeks." The "seven weeks" elapse between the destruction of Jerusalem in 586 B.C. and the decree of Cyrus in 538 B.C. The "sixty-two weeks" (434 years) is the time when the city is to be rebuilt, somewhere between 538 B.C. and A.D. 70 (when Jerusalem was destroyed). With this view, a time interval is required between the two periods of "weeks."

■ 9:26 after the sixty-two weeks Messiah shall be cut off. Many interpreters understand this to refer to the crucifixion of Christ. According to view (b) above, the "Messiah" of v. 26 is Christ, and the "Messiah" of v. 25 is Cyrus.

the people of the prince. Many interpreters agree that the assailants are the armies of Titus who destroyed Jerusalem in A.D. 70. Some adherents of the second-advent view (9:24–27 note), however, argue that while the assailants are the armies of Titus, the "prince" himself is the Antichrist. This identification provides a transition to the second-advent interpretation of v. 27.

■ 9:27 he shall confirm a covenant with many for one week. Advocates of the first-advent view (9:24–27 note) understand that "Messiah" will "confirm a covenant," that is, live out His public ministry. Advocates of the second-advent view posit a time interval between vv. 26 and 27 and understand that the "prince" will "confirm a covenant." The "prince" is identified as Antichrist, who will establish a covenant with Jewish people regathered in the land of Israel during a "tribulation" period (12:1; Matt. 24:21; Rev. 7:14) of seven years (the seventieth "week").

an end to sacrifice. According to advocates of the first-advent view (9:24–27 note) this refers to the termination of the Old Testament sacrificial system brought about by the death of Christ. According to advocates of the second-advent view this is a reference to the Antichrist's prohibition of "sacrifice and offering" (perhaps standing for religious practice in general) by the regathered Jewish people after three-and-a-half years (Rev. 11:2; 12:6, 14) of the tribulation period.

one who makes desolate. According to the first-advent view (9:24–27 note) this describes the destruction of Jerusalem that occurred in A.D. 70. According to the second-advent view it describes a catastrophe that will come upon Jerusalem in connection with the activities of the Antichrist. Phrases similar to "an abomination that makes desolate" occur in Dan. 8:13; 11:31; 12:11 (notes) as well as 1 Macc. 1:54. Dan. 8:13 and 1 Macc. 1:54 are clearly references to the activities of Antiochus IV. Jesus refers to this "abomination" in His prophecy of events yet future (Matt. 24:15; Mark 13:14).

■ 10:1—12:13 The prophet reveals a final vision concerning the future reign of Antiochus IV Epiphanes, but looking beyond his reign to another that culminates at the end of the age.

■ 10:1 the third year of Cyrus. That is, 537 B.C. See note on 1:21. The repatriated exiles returned to the land to rebuild the temple (Ezra 1:1–4; 3:8), but would soon have to cease their efforts temporarily (Ezra 4:24).

■ 10:2 mourning. Daniel probably mourns because of the state of Jerusalem (Neh. 1:4; Is. 61:3–4; 64:8–12; 66:10).

■ 10:5 a certain man clothed in linen. Vv. 5, 6 give a detailed description of an angel, perhaps the one who spoke to Gabriel (8:16), or Gabriel himself (9:21). His appearance is much like that of the glory of the Lord (Ezek. 1:26–28; Rev. 1:12–16). For other references to angels, see Judg. 13:6; Ezek. 9:2, 3; 10:2; Luke 24:4.

7 And I, Daniel, alone saw the vision, for the men who were with me did not see the vision; but a great terror fell upon them, so that they fled to hide themselves. 8 Therefore I was left alone when I saw this great vision, and no strength remained in me; for my [4]vigor was turned to [5]frailty in me, and I retained no strength. 9 Yet I heard the sound of his words; and while I heard the sound of his words I was in a deep sleep on my face, with my face to the ground.

Prophecies Concerning Persia and Greece

10 [e]Suddenly, a hand touched me, which made me tremble on my knees and on the palms of my hands. 11 And he said to me, "O Daniel, [f]man greatly beloved, understand the words that I speak to you, and stand upright, for I have now been sent to you." While he was speaking this word to me, I stood trembling.

12 Then he said to me, [g]"Do not fear, Daniel, for from the first day that you set your heart to understand, and to humble yourself before your God, [h]your words were heard; and I have come because of your words. 13 [i]But the prince of the kingdom of Persia withstood me twenty-one days; and behold, [j]Michael, one of the chief princes, came to help me, for I had been left alone there with the kings of Persia. 14 Now I have come to make you understand what will happen to your people [k]in the latter days, [l]for the vision refers to many days yet to come."

15 When he had spoken such words to me, [m]I [6]turned my face toward the ground and became speechless. 16 And suddenly, [n]one having the likeness of the [7]sons of men [o]touched my lips; then I opened my mouth and spoke, saying to him who stood before me, "My lord, because of the vision [p]my sorrows have [8]overwhelmed me, and I have retained no strength. 17 For how can this servant of my lord talk with you, my lord? As for me, no strength remains in me now, nor is any breath left in me."

18 Then again, the one having the likeness of a man touched me and strengthened me. 19 [q]And he said, "O man greatly beloved, [r]fear not! Peace be to you; be strong, yes, be strong!"

So when he spoke to me I was strengthened, and said, "Let my lord speak, for you have strengthened me."

20 Then he said, "Do you know why I have come to you? And now I must return to fight [s]with the prince of Persia; and when I have gone forth, indeed the prince of Greece will come. 21 But I will tell you what is noted in the Scripture of Truth. (No one upholds me against these, [t]except Michael your prince.

11 "Also [a]in the first year of [b]Darius the Mede, I, even I, stood up to confirm and strengthen him.) 2 And now I will tell you the truth: Behold, three more kings will arise in Persia, and the fourth shall be far richer than them all; by his strength, through his riches, he shall stir up all against the realm of Greece. 3 Then [c]a mighty king shall arise, who shall rule with great dominion, and [d]do according to his will. 4 And when he has arisen, [e]his kingdom shall be broken

■ 10:7 great terror. See Is. 6:5; Luke 5:8.

■ 10:12 I have come because of your words. The vision and revelation that Daniel received came as a direct response to his prayers.

■ 10:13 the prince of the kingdom of Persia withstood me. This "prince" is an evil but powerful spiritual being (cf. Is. 24:21; Luke 11:14–26) affecting Persian rule.

Michael. "Michael" is elsewhere in Scripture depicted as a commander of the holy angels (Jude 9; Rev. 12:7; cf. 2 Kin. 6:15–17). Here is a glimpse of spiritual battles waged in "heavenly places" and affecting events on earth (cf. Eph. 6:12; Rev. 12:7–9). The power of fallen angels is limited by God, as is made clear here and elsewhere in Scripture (Job 1:12; 2:6).

■ 10:20 the prince of Persia. See note on v. 13.

the prince of Greece. This angel affects the affairs of the Greek kingdom (v. 13 note). Although both Persia and Greece would rule over God's people, Daniel must understand that their power is limited by the power of God.

■ 10:21 the Scripture of Truth. This is a metaphor standing for God's knowledge and control of all history.

No one . . . except Michael. Michael's interest to protect Israel (v. 13 note; cf. 12:1) corresponds with the interest of the messenger, who is directly concerned with God's purposes.

■ 11:1 in the first year of Darius the Mede. Two years earlier (10:1 note) the angel who was speaking to Daniel had given assistance to Michael (10:13 note), perhaps in connection with the Persian decree to permit the Jews to return to their homeland.

■ 11:2—12:4 The revelation given to Daniel in 11:2—12:4 is in three parts: 11:2–20 depicts Near Eastern history from the time of Daniel until the time of Antiochus IV Epiphanes; 11:21–35 describes the rule of Antiochus IV; and 11:36—12:4 apparently describes the time of the Antichrist.

■ 11:2 three more kings. They are Cambyses, 529–523 B.C.; Pseudo-Smerdis (Gaumata), 523–522 B.C.; and Darius I, 522–486 B.C.

Warring Kings of North and South

5 "Also the king of the South shall become strong, as well as one of his princes; and he shall gain power over him and have dominion. His dominion shall be a great dominion. 6 And at the end of some years they shall join forces, for the daughter of the king of the South shall go to the king of the North to make an agreement; but she shall not retain the power of her [1] authority, and neither he nor his [1] authority shall stand; but she shall be given up, with those who brought her, and with him who begot her, and with him who strengthened her in those times. 7 But from a branch of her roots one shall arise in his place, who shall come with an army, enter the fortress of the king of the North, and deal with them and prevail. 8 And he shall also carry their gods captive to Egypt, with their [2] princes and their precious articles of silver and gold; and he shall continue more years than the king of the North.

9 "Also the king of the North shall come to the kingdom of the king of the South, but shall return to his own land. 10 However his sons shall stir up strife, and assemble a multitude of great forces; and one shall certainly come [g] and overwhelm and pass through; then he shall return [h] to his fortress and stir up strife.

one of his princes. Seleucus I Nicator, 312–280 B.C. Seleucus broke with Ptolemy, became king of Babylon, and controlled territories from the Indus River in the east to Syria in the west.

■ 11:6–20 These verses contain detailed predictions of relations between the king of the North (the Seleucid kingdom) and the king of the South (the Ptolemaic kingdom). The section concerns events involving Laodice and Berenice (vv. 6–9), the career of Antiochus III (vv. 10–19), and the reign of Seleucus IV (v. 20).

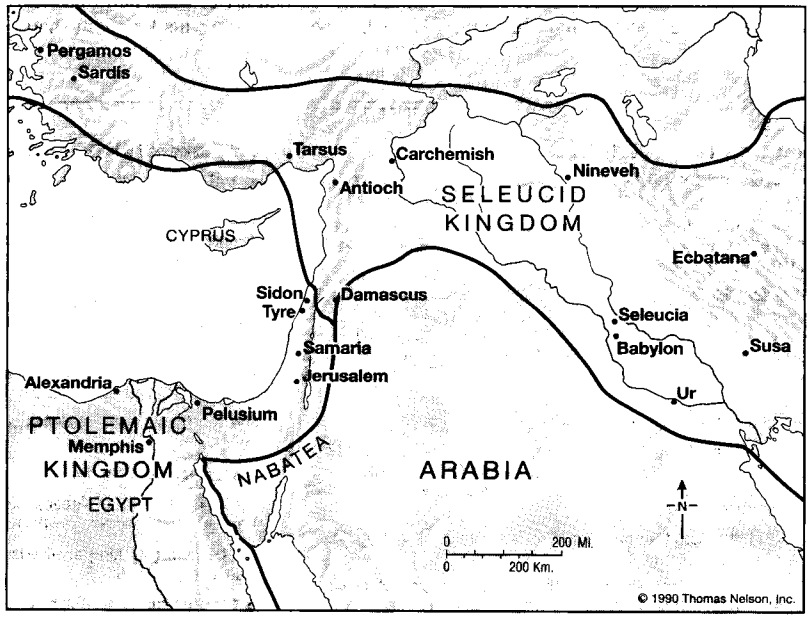
his fortress. This probably refers to Raphia, a Ptolemaic fortress in southern Palestine, where a major battle was fought in 217 B.C.



Ptolemaic Control of Palestine (270 B.C.). Alexander's death resulted in the breakup of his empire into smaller kingdoms ruled by his generals. Two of those generals, Ptolemy and Seleucus, became established in the regions around Palestine. By 275 B.C. the Ptolemies were controlling Egypt, Palestine, Cyrene, Phoenicia, Cyprus, and the coast of Asia Minor. The Seleucids controlled Mesopotamia, Syria, and most of Asia Minor and Iran.

11 "And the king of the South shall be [i]moved with rage, and go out and fight with him, with the king of the North, who shall muster a great multitude; but the [j]multitude shall be given into the hand of his enemy. 12 When he has taken away the multitude, his heart will be [3]lifted up; and he will cast down tens of thousands, but he will not prevail. 13 For the king of the North will return and muster a multitude greater than the former, and shall certainly come at the end of some years with a great army and much equipment.

14 "Now in those times many shall rise up against the king of the South. Also, [4]violent men of your people shall exalt themselves [5]in fulfillment of the vision, but they shall [k]fall. 15 So the king of the North shall come and [l]build a siege mound, and take a fortified city; and the [6]forces of the South shall not withstand him. Even his choice troops shall have no strength to resist. 16 But he who comes against him [m]shall do according to his own will, and [n]no one shall stand against him. He shall stand in the Glorious Land with destruction in his [7]power.

17 "He shall also [o]set his face to enter with the strength of his whole kingdom, and [8]upright ones with him; thus shall he do. And he shall give him the daughter of women to destroy it; but she shall not stand with him, [p]or be for him. 18 After this he shall turn his face to the coastlands, and shall take many. But a ruler shall bring the reproach against them to an end; and with the reproach removed, he shall turn back on him. 19 Then he shall turn his face toward the fortress of his own land; but he shall [q]stumble and fall, [r]and not be found.

20 "There shall arise in his place one who imposes taxes on the glorious kingdom; but within a few days he shall be destroyed, but not in anger or in battle. 21 And in his place [s]shall arise a vile

■ 11:13 the king of the North. In alliance with Philip V of Macedon, Antiochus III raised an even larger army to invade the Ptolemaic kingdom. Ptolemy IV died under mysterious circumstances and was succeeded by Ptolemy V Epiphanes, 203–181 B.C., his four-year-old son.

■ 11:15 take a fortified city. The victory of Antiochus III over the Egyptian general Scopas at Sidon in 198 B.C. marked the end of Ptolemaic rule in Palestine.

■ 11:17 she shall not stand with him, or be for him. After Cleopatra was given in marriage to Ptolemy V by her father Antiochus III, she aligned herself with the Egyptian cause, seeking Roman help against her father's attempt to take coastal cities in Asia Minor that were controlled by Egypt.

■ 11:18 a ruler. The Roman general Lucius Cornelius Scipio, who defeated Antiochus III in several battles and forced him to cede Asia Minor to Roman control (the Peace of Apamea, 188 B.C.). At this time the second son of Antiochus III, who became Antiochus IV Epiphanes, was taken hostage to Rome.

Seleucid Control of Palestine (190 B.C.). Antiochus III, king of Syria, expanded the boundaries of the Seleucid kingdom in numerous battles with the Ptolemies. In 221 B.C. he captured part of Palestine, only to lose most of it in 217 B.C. Returning in 201 B.C., he finally defeated the Ptolemies in 198 B.C. with the aid and support of the Jews. Palestine enjoyed freedom from Egyptian domination until 175 B.C., when a new leader, Antiochus IV, became king of Syria. His oppression of the Jews led to the Maccabean Revolt in 167 B.C. and eventual Jewish autonomy in 164 B.C.

person, to whom they will not give the honor of royalty; but he shall come in peaceably, and seize the kingdom by intrigue. 22 With the [g]force of a [t]flood they shall be swept away from before him and be broken, [u]and also the prince of the covenant. 23 And after the league is made with him [v]he shall act deceitfully, for he shall come up and become strong with a small number of people. 24 He shall enter peaceably, even into the richest places of the province; and he shall do what his fathers have not done, nor his forefathers: he shall disperse among them the plunder, [1]spoil, and riches; and he shall devise his plans against the strongholds, but only for a time.

25 "He shall stir up his power and his courage against the king of the South with a great army. And the king of the South shall be stirred up to battle with a very great and mighty army; but he shall not stand, for they shall devise plans against him. 26 Yes, those who eat of the portion of his delicacies shall destroy him; his army shall [2]be swept away, and many shall fall down slain. 27 Both these kings' hearts shall be bent on evil, and they shall speak lies at the same table; but it shall not prosper, for the end will still be at the [w]appointed time. 28 While returning to his land with great riches, his heart shall be moved against the holy covenant; so he shall do damage and return to his own land.

The Northern King's Blasphemies

29 "At the appointed time he shall return and go toward the south; but it shall not be like the former or the latter. 30 [x]For ships from [3]Cyprus shall come against him; therefore he shall be grieved, and return in rage against the holy covenant, and do damage.

"So he shall return and show regard for those who forsake the holy covenant. 31 And [4]forces shall be mustered by him, [y]and they shall defile the sanctuary fortress; then they shall take away the daily sacrifices, and place there the abomination of desolation. 32 Those who do wickedly against the covenant he shall [5]corrupt with flattery; but the people who know their God shall be strong, and carry out great exploits. 33 And those of the people who understand shall instruct many; yet for many days they shall fall by sword and flame, by captivity and plundering. 34 Now when they fall, they shall be aided with a little help; but many shall join with them by [6]intrigue. 35 And some of those of understanding shall fall, [z]to refine them, purify them, and make them white, until the time of the end; because it is still for the appointed time.

■ 11:22 also the prince of the covenant. Perhaps this is a reference to the assassination in 171 B.C. of the high priest Onias III by supporters of Antiochus IV based in Jerusalem (see 2 Macc. 4:32–43).

■ 11:25 the king of the South. Ptolemy VI Philometor, 181–146 B.C., son of Ptolemy V and Cleopatra, and the nephew of Antiochus (v. 17 note).

he shall not stand. Antiochus IV defeated Ptolemy VI at Pelusium, on the border of Egypt (cf. 1 Macc. 1:16–19).

■ 11:28 While returning . . . his heart shall be moved against the holy covenant. In response to intrigues in Jerusalem against his supporters, Antiochus IV plundered the temple when he returned from Egypt to Syrian Antioch (cf. 1 Macc. 1:20–28).

■ 11:29 toward the south. Antiochus IV invaded Egypt again in 168 B.C.

■ 11:30 ships from Cyprus shall come. Roman armies under Gaius Popilius Laenas forced Antiochus IV to retreat from Egypt.

in rage against the holy covenant. Antiochus IV determined to exterminate Jewish religion. See note on 8:11.

■ 11:31 the abomination of desolation. The desecration of the temple in December, 168 B.C. by Antiochus IV (cf. 1 Macc. 1:54, 59; 2 Macc. 6:2). See notes on 8:11; 9:27; 12:11.

■ 11:32 the people who know their God. Daniel speaks of those who opposed the Hellenizers and were ready to die for their faith (1 Macc. 1:60–63).

■ 11:34 they shall be aided. Possibly this is a reference to Mattathias, an elderly priest, and his five sons (John, Simon, Judas, Eleazar, and Jonathan) who waged a guerrilla war against the forced hellenization of the Jews. Mattathias died in 166 B.C. His sons, known as the Maccabees, carried on the struggle. Victory was achieved under Judas Maccabeus in December, 164 B.C., when the temple was cleansed and daily sacrifices were restored (1 Macc. 4:36–39).

■ 11:35 the end . . . the appointed time. See note on 8:17.

■ 11:36—12:3 Certain details in 11:36—12:3 cannot be harmonized with the events surrounding the death of Antiochus IV. For this reason some interpreters understand these verses to describe the Antichrist, who like Antiochus IV will persecute God's people just prior to the Second Advent of Christ (cf. 12:1–3). These verses describe the character of the Antichrist, his activities, and the destiny of God's people. This understanding requires a time interval between the events depicted in 11:21–35 and those in 11:36—12:3. Consequently, other interpreters have understood vv. 36–39 as a summary of Antiochus's religious policies; vv. 40–45 as a description of how his ambition leads to his defeat; and 12:1–3 as an anticipation of his defeat. The anticipated invasion of the Holy Land may be presented as a parallel to Nebuchadnezzar's earlier invasion, using the names of the nations of that time, sparing Israel's old enemies (v. 41), and climaxing in the anticipated defeat of Egypt itself (vv. 42, 43; cf. Ezek. 29). At his proudest moment Antiochus is destroyed at Mount Zion in the heart of the Holy Land (vv. 44, 45). Antiochus's defeat in 12:1–3 is described in terms of the absolute end of history. Because the prophecies in 11:40—12:3 have not been fulfilled historically, it is difficult to discern how literal or metaphorical they are, and their interpretation must be speculative. The interpretation that the future Antichrist is in view will be followed in the remaining notes.

■ 11:36 till the wrath has been accomplished. Just as with Antiochus IV (8:17 note; 11:35), the time of persecution is subject to God's control.

himself above them all. 38 But in their place he shall honor a god of fortresses; and a god which his fathers did not know he shall honor with gold and silver, with precious stones and pleasant things. 39 Thus he shall act against the strongest fortresses with a foreign god, which he shall acknowledge, and advance its glory; and he shall cause them to rule over many, and divide the land for [g]gain.

The Northern King's Conquests

40 "At the [c]time of the end the king of the South shall attack him; and the king of the North shall come against him [d]like a whirlwind, with chariots, [e]horsemen, and with many ships; and he shall enter the countries, overwhelm them, and pass through. 41 He shall also enter the Glorious Land, and many countries shall be overthrown; but these shall escape from his hand: [f]Edom, Moab, and the [g]prominent people of Ammon. 42 He shall stretch out his hand against the countries, and the land of [g]Egypt shall not escape. 43 He shall have power over the treasures of gold and silver, and over all the precious things of Egypt; also the Libyans and Ethiopians shall follow [h]at his heels. 44 But news from the east and the north shall trouble him; therefore he shall go out with great fury to destroy and annihilate many. 45 And he shall plant the tents of his palace between the seas and [i]the glorious holy mountain; [j]yet he shall come to his end, and no one will help him.

Prophecy of the End Time

12 "At that time Michael shall stand up,
The great prince who stands watch over the sons of your people;
[a]And there shall be a time of trouble,
Such as never was since there was a nation,
Even to that time.
And at that time your people [b]shall be delivered,
Every one who is found [c]written in the book.
2 And many of those who sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake,
[d]Some to everlasting life,
Some to shame [e]and everlasting [f]contempt.
3 Those who are wise shall [f]shine
Like the brightness of the firmament,
[g]And those who turn many to righteousness
[h]Like the stars forever and ever.

4 "But you, Daniel, [i]shut up the words, and seal the book until the time of the end; many shall [j]run to and fro, and knowledge shall increase."

5 Then I, Daniel, looked; and there stood two others, one on this riverbank and the other on that [k]riverbank. 6 And one said to the man clothed in [l]linen, who was above the waters of the river, [m]"How long shall the fulfillment of these wonders be?"

7 Then I heard the man clothed in linen, who was above the waters of the river, when he [n]held up his right hand and his left hand to heaven, and swore by Him [o]who lives forever, [p]that it shall be for a time, times, and half a time; [q]and when the power of [r]the holy people has been completely shattered, all these things shall be finished.

8 Although I heard, I did not understand. Then I said, "My lord, what shall be the end of these things?"

9 And he said, "Go your way, Daniel, for the words are closed up and sealed till the time of the end. 10 [s]Many shall be purified, made white, and refined, [t]but the wicked shall do wickedly; and none of the wicked shall understand, but [u]the wise shall understand.

The Book of

HOSEA

Author Little is known about the background and training of the author of this book, the prophet Hosea, son of Beeri (1:1). Though it is not clearly stated in the book, Hosea's familiarity with the geography (4:15; 5:1, 8; 6:8, 9; 9:15; 10:5; 12:11) and history of the northern kingdom of Israel (5:13; 7:7, 11; 8:4, 9–14) suggests that he was a native of the northern kingdom.

Date and Occasion The Book of Hosea came from his prophetic ministry, which embraced the critical years of religious decline and decay in the northern kingdom, from about 750 B.C. until a few years before the fall of Samaria in 722 B.C. Hosea's preaching focused on Israel's breach of her covenantal relationship with God, mixing the pure worship of the Lord with the idolatry of the surrounding peoples (religious syncretism), and on the impending judgment. However, Hosea's proclamation of the nature of God's love sounds a more positive note in the book. For a discussion of Hosea's marriage and family life, see "Interpretive Difficulties" below.

During her final years, the northern kingdom of Israel was in a state of political and social decline. The economic prosperity and political security that the nation experienced during the reign of Jeroboam II (c. 793–753 B.C.) was followed by a period of political and social chaos and religious decline under the next six kings, who reigned for a combined period of twenty-five years (2 Kin. 15:8—17:41). Four of these kings were assassinated by those who usurped their thrones (Zechariah, Shallum, Pekahiah, and Pekah); one became a political prisoner (Hoshea, 2 Kin. 17:3, 4); and only one was succeeded by his son (Menahem, 2 Kin. 15:23).

Hosea's preaching reflects both the relative calm the kingdom experienced under Jeroboam II (2:5, 8, 13) and the later turmoil in domestic (7:3–7; 13:10, 11) and foreign affairs (7:8–12; 12:1). The Syro-Ephraimite war in particular (735–732 B.C.; 2 Kin. 15:27–30; 16:5–9; Is. 7:1–9) seems to stand behind Hosea's message in 5:8–10. Pekah of Israel had formed an alliance with Rezin of Syria in order to resist the expanding Assyrian empire ruled by Tiglath-Pileser III. Pekah then attacked Judah, which had refused to join the alliance with Syria. Assyria responded to Judah's request for assistance by attacking Syria's capital, Damascus, and systematically subjugating extensive territory in the northern kingdom of Israel.

The northern kingdom's political vacillation between Egypt and Assyria is also reflected in the text (5:13; 7:11; 8:9, 10; 9:3; 11:5; 12:1). This vacillation brought a further attack by the Assyrians, the arrest of King Hoshea, the siege of Samaria, and finally the end of the northern kingdom. Although this end is expected by Hosea, the fall of Samaria in 722 B.C. had not yet occurred at the time of his prophecy (13:16).

The northern kingdom was in a state of spiritual decline during the final phase of its history. The ancient faith of Israel, which Hosea describes so beautifully using analogies of marital and parental love (2:14–23; 11:1–4), had become polluted by elements of the Canaanite fertility religion. Such fertility cults focused especially on the worship of Baal, a god thought to be the giver of rain and fertility. The Israelites incorporated elements of the Canaanite fertility religion into the orthodox faith, notably sexual rites that included ritual prostitution and drunken orgies (4:10–13). The worship of the Lord and the worship of Baal (whose name lit. means "lord" or "master") became intermingled and even identified (2:5–13). Religious corruption evidenced itself not only in this popular, syncretistic form of religion, sometimes called a "baalized" form of Yahweh worship, but also in the lives of the religious leaders. Through corruption, greed, and hardness of heart they not only neglected to instruct the people in the true faith, but also tolerated, and in some cases even sponsored, syncretistic religion (4:4–13; 5:1; 6:9).

Interpretive Difficulties The question of how to interpret the personal events of Hosea's life that symbolically parallel his prophetic message has long perplexed readers of the Book of Hosea. Are the details given in chs. 1 and 3 about Hosea's family life to be understood literally or allegorically? Because of the moral perplexity posed by the holy God's command that Hosea marry a prostitute, throughout the ages there always have been interpreters who have understood the details of Hosea's married life allegorically. Others, arguing that 1:2 refers to the future, reason that Gomer became a prostitute only after the birth of their first child. Still others, advocating a modified literal reading, argue that Gomer was not a common prostitute but rather a woman involved in cultic prostitution related to the fertility religion of Baal. However, the prophet's actual marriage to an unfaithful wife would make the analogy with the Lord's relationship to Israel most vivid, and this seems to be what the text intends.

Similarly, questions have been asked about Hosea's children. Their names, like that of the child born to Isaiah and the prophetess in Is. 8:1–4, are intended to have symbolic significance (cf. Is. 7:3; Ezek. 23). The names given to Hosea's children (Jezreel, Lo-Ruhamah, and Lo-Ammi; 1:4, 6, 9 and notes) purposely illustrate Hosea's message about God's increasing displeasure with wayward Israel, but also convey the message of hope, renewal, love, and restoration (2:21–23 notes).

A related problem centers on the relationship between ch. 1, which presents a third-person account of Hosea's marriage to Gomer and the birth of their children, and ch. 3, which is an account in the first person of God's instructions to Hosea about loving an unfaithful woman. Although these chapters have most often been regarded as a chronologically sequential account of a single marriage, some argue that two different women and marriages are described in these chapters. Still others have suggested that the chapters are not sequential, but rather describe the same episode. Textual and translation difficulties in the Hebrew text stand behind these different views. For example, the word "again" in 3:1 stands between "said" and "go" in the Hebrew, and it could mean either "The LORD said again" or "The LORD said, 'Go again.' " Although these debates continue, the profound meaning of the prophet's marriage(s) as a picture of the Lord's relationship with Israel is clear.

Characteristics and Themes

Hosea's book is not about Hosea, but about God and His relationship to His covenant people, Israel. God emphasizes His uniqueness and sovereignty (12:9; 13:4). Because of His unique holiness (11:9), adoration of Him is the only proper response (3:5), and He tolerates no rival claim. As Sovereign, all is under His rule, whether fertility (2:8), Israel's history (5:14, 15), or the nations (10:10).

A number of themes recur throughout the book, themes that continue to carry religious significance for the community of faith today (14:9 note). The theme of covenantal unfaithfulness, movingly symbolized by Hosea's relationship with his promiscuous wife, permeates the book. Closely related to this theme is that of repentance. Hosea calls wayward Israel to return to the Lord in order to reestablish the intimate relationship she earlier had experienced with Him in the wilderness period (2:7, 14, 19, 20). Promises of restoration, such as those in 1:11 and 2:23, will be fulfilled under the new covenant through Jesus Christ (Rom. 5:8; Eph. 2:4–10). The themes of unfaithfulness and repentance summon those within the covenant community to repent and to renew their love relationship with the Lord.

Another important theme in the book centers around what it means to "know" or "acknowledge" God (2:20; 4:1; 5:4; 6:3, 6; 13:4). This seems to be a technical term for covenant intimacy, loyalty, and obedience. The book teaches that true knowledge of God is not merely the possession of correct information about Him, but includes the intimacy typical of marriage and family life, an intimacy evidenced in worship, lifestyle, and loyalty to the covenant LORD. Hosea also warns that sin can delude people into thinking that they know and understand God, when in fact they are far from Him (8:2).

A polemic against religious syncretism (the mixture of true and false religion) also pervades the book (2:2–13; 4:10–19; 5:4; 9:1, 10). Over and over again Hosea points to the sin of the northern kingdom, which tried to wed the worship of the covenant LORD to Canaanite religion with its deification of sex and nature. The impossibility of such a marriage warns the church to remain loyal in a culture that encourages compromise and acceptance of principles and beliefs incompatible with biblical doctrine. Moreover, Hosea's vivid depictions of sin remind believers about the nature and consequences of human sin: it incurs divine judgment (9:9; 13:12); it causes severe crises in nature and society (4:3); and it corrupts the human personality. People become like the objects of their love (9:10).

Hosea's message is enhanced through his effective use of imagery. The strongest and most extended metaphors derive from the human experience of intimacy. Using the image of human marriage (chs. 1—3) and family life (11:1–4, 10), Hosea depicts God and His relationship with His people. In other figurative images God is compared to moth and rot (5:12), winter and spring rains (6:3), a lion (5:14; 11:10; 13:7–8), a leopard (13:7), a bear (13:8), and a cypress tree (14:8). □

The Family of Hosea

2 When the LORD began to speak by Hosea, the LORD said to Hosea:

[f]"Go, take yourself a wife of harlotry
And children of harlotry,
For [g]the land has committed great [f]harlotry
By departing from the LORD."

3 So he went and took Gomer the daughter of Diblaim, and she conceived and bore him a son.
4 Then the LORD said to him:

"Call his name Jezreel,
For in a little while
[h]I will avenge the bloodshed of Jezreel on the house of Jehu,
[i]And bring an end to the kingdom of the house of Israel.
5 [j]It shall come to pass in that day
That I will break the bow of Israel in the Valley of Jezreel."

■ 1:1 Hosea introduces his prophecy, naming himself as God's messenger. His name probably means "He [God] has saved."

Uzziah . . . Jeroboam. Whereas four kings of Judah are named, Uzziah (also called Azariah, 792–740 B.C.), Jotham (750–735 B.C.), Ahaz (735–715 B.C.), and Hezekiah (715–686 B.C.), the only northern king recorded is Jeroboam II (c. 793–753 B.C.). Perhaps the writer thought that the northern kings who reigned between Jeroboam II and the fall of the north in 722 (four were assassins) were not worthy of mention.

■ 1:2 a wife of harlotry. See Introduction: Interpretive Difficulties. On the theme of marital and covenantal unfaithfulness, see Introduction: Characteristics and Themes.

the land has committed great harlotry. Hosea's wife and children, together with all the inhabitants of the land, are deemed unfaithful.

■ 1:3 Gomer. Her name has no symbolic significance, unlike the names of her children.

him. This pronoun is omitted in vv. 6, 8, but its absence does not necessarily imply that Hosea was not the father there also, since the indirect object may be implied.

■ 1:4 Jezreel. Lit. "God sows" or "plants." This is the name of a beautiful and fertile valley between the mountain ranges of Samaria and Galilee (the site of Gideon's victory over the Midianites, Judg. 6:33), and of a town at the valley's southern end, where Jehu came to power through violence (1 Kin. 21:1; 2 Kin. 9; 10). This valley became the place of judgment in 733 B.C. (2 Kin. 15:29). This punishment through military defeat suggests the theme of covenant breaking since it reflects the curses recorded in Lev. 26:17; Deut. 28:25, 49–57. Yet Jezreel is also a sign of blessing and fertility in Hos. 2:22.

the house of Jehu. Jeroboam II was from the house of Jehu, a dynasty established through the bloodbath at Jezreel (2 Kin. 9:14–37; cf. 1 Kin. 19:16, 17) and ending with the murder of Zechariah (2 Kin. 15:8–10).

■ 1:5 bow of Israel. Israel's military strength, symbolized by the bow (Gen. 49:24; 1 Sam. 2:4; Ezek. 39:3), was broken by the Assyrian army under Tiglath-Pileser III, who conquered the northern territories of Israel.

For [a]she is not My wife, nor am I her Husband!
Let her put away her [b]harlotries from her sight,
And her adulteries from between her breasts;

■ 1:6 Lo-Ruhamah. Lit. "she has received no compassion." The child's name signifies the imminent withdrawal of the compassion God had shown to Israel in spite of her covenant unfaithfulness.

■ 1:7 I will have mercy. A reference to Jerusalem's miraculous deliverance from the Assyrians in 701 B.C. (Is. 37:14, 33–38; 2 Kin. 19:32–37).

■ 1:9 Lo-Ammi. The name of the third child, meaning "not My people," marks the high point of God's judgment, as God cancels the ancient covenantal formula (Ex. 6:7; Lev. 26:12; Deut. 26:17–19) and declares that the covenant is not in effect (v. 10 notes).

I will not be your God. Lit. "I am not 'I AM' to you," a reference to the divine name for God used in Ex. 3:14.

■ 1:10—2:1 The increasingly severe prophecies of judgment symbolized in the names of the three children are now dramatically reversed.

■ 1:10 sand of the sea. A clear reference to the ancient patriarchal promise of innumerable descendants (Gen. 22:17; 32:12; cf. Gen. 13:16; 15:5; 26:24; 28:14).

You are not My people. The promise of restoration to these people was fulfilled at least in part when remnants of the north were joined with the south during the reign of Hezekiah (2 Chr. 30:11, 18) and after the Exile (1 Chr. 9:3; Ezra 8:35). The New Testament applies this promise to the church, the true Israel, composed of both Jews and Gentiles (Rom. 9:24–26; 1 Pet. 2:9, 10). For the apostles, the remnant of ethnic Israel was evidently a model for the remnant of the nations: what applied to the former applied to the latter.

sons of the living God. This unique expression suggests the kind of intimate relationship God desires with Israel, in which God gives life (as opposed to the lifeless relationship Israel had with Baal). In Is. 40:18–20; 44:9–20; 46:5–11, dead idols are contrasted with the living God. The living relationship is now provided in Jesus Christ (Matt. 16:16; Rom. 9:26).

■ 1:11 one head. This reveals the completeness of reconciliation between both kingdoms and the Lord. Ultimately, this reunion takes place under Christ, the son of David (Matt. 1:23; 2:6, 15).

they shall come up out of the land. Israel's restoration began in the return from exile. The phrase may also refer to resurrection from death (Ps. 71:20; Is. 43:6).

the day of Jezreel. See note on 1:4.

■ 2:1 brethren . . . sisters. The hostile siblings, Israel and Judah, will be fully reconciled, and the horrible indictments contained in the names Lo-Ammi and Lo-Ruhamah will be reversed.

■ 2:2 Bring charges. God brings a case against Israel in which the children are to accuse their mother.

Let her put away. Repentance and reconciliation are the final goals of God's judgment (vv. 9–23).

3 Lest [c]I strip her naked
And expose her, as in the day she was [d]born,
And make her like a wilderness,
And set her like a dry land,
And slay her with [e]thirst.

4 "I will not have mercy on her children,
For they are the [f]children of harlotry.
5 For their mother has played the harlot;
She who conceived them has behaved shamefully.
For she said, 'I will go after my lovers,
[g]Who give me my bread and my water,
My wool and my linen,
My oil and my drink.'

6 "Therefore, behold,
[h]I will hedge up your way with thorns,
And [5]wall her in,
So that she cannot find her paths.
7 She will [6]chase her lovers,
But not overtake them;
Yes, she will seek them, but not find them.
Then she will say,
[i]'I will go and return to my [j]first husband,
For then it was better for me than now.'
8 For she did not [k]know
That I gave her grain, new wine, and oil,
And multiplied her silver and gold—
Which they prepared for Baal.

9 "Therefore I will return and take away
My grain in its time
And My new wine in its season,
And will take back My wool and My linen,
Given to cover her nakedness.
10 Now [l]I will uncover her lewdness in the sight of her lovers,
And no one shall deliver her from My hand.
11 [m]I will also cause all her mirth to cease,
Her feast days,
Her New Moons,
Her Sabbaths—
All her appointed feasts.

12 "And I will destroy her vines and her fig trees,
Of which she has said,

■ 2:3 strip her naked. If repentance does not take place, the unfaithful wife (Gomer/Israel) will be publicly exposed (v. 10) and left destitute, punishments traditional for an adulteress (Ezek. 16:37–39; Nah. 3:5–7), though less severe than the death penalty (Deut. 22:22).

■ 2:4 children of harlotry. God's love and mercy (1:6) will also be withdrawn from the children who, like their mother, are charged with promiscuity.

■ 2:5 their mother has played the harlot. The unfaithful mother (Israel) looked to Canaanite fertility religion and not to the Lord (v. 8) to provide the staples of life.

■ 2:7 She will chase . . . seek. The woman's active initiative, representing all Israel, is stressed.

my first husband. The early period of intimacy is remembered fondly (cf. 11:1–4).

■ 2:8 grain, new wine . . . silver and gold. The Lord's agricultural and commercial gifts (Deut. 7:13; 11:14; 28:1–12) were credited to Baal. In texts discovered at the ancient north Syrian city of Ugarit, Baal is seen as the god of the storm and worshiped as the provider of rain and fertility.

■ 2:9–13 Therefore. Though not punished with death (v. 3 note; cf. Ezek. 16:37–40), the unfaithful and forgetful lover is severely chastised through a series of dramatic reversals in which God's gifts are withdrawn: failed harvests, exposure, and the end of festivals.

■ 2:9 take back. The Hebrew indicates a forceful, snatching action.

■ 2:11 Sabbaths. The Hebrew shabbat is derived from the verb meaning "stop" or "cease," making a sarcastic pun.

appointed feasts. The festivals had become occasions for religious syncretism, in which the worship of the Lord and Baal were intermingled. See Introduction: Date and Occasion.

■ 2:12 wages . . . lovers have given. The prostitute's wages, which were in fact gifts from the Lord (v. 8), were to be destroyed.

And the beasts of the field shall eat them.

For the days of the Baals to which she burned incense.
She decked herself with her earrings and jewelry,
And went after her lovers;
But Me she forgot," says the LORD.

God's Mercy on His People

14 "Therefore, behold, I will allure her,
Will bring her into the wilderness,
And speak [z]comfort to her.
15 I will give her her vineyards from there,
And [n]the Valley of Achor as a door of hope;
She shall sing there,

Syncretism and Idolatry

Though there is only one God and only one true faith, that taught in the Bible, the apostate world (Rom. 1:18–25) has always been full of religions. The age-old urge toward syncretism (the assimilation of one religion's beliefs and practices into another) is still with us. Indeed, it has been revived in our time through renewed attempts to unify all religions and through persistent amalgams of Eastern and Western ideas that rise and fall in popularity.

The pressure to compromise is not new. After entering Canaan, Israel was constantly tempted to absorb into the worship of Yahweh the Canaanite worship of fertility gods and goddesses, if not to make images of Yahweh Himself—both practices being forbidden in the law (Ex. 20:3–6). The spiritual issue was whether Israel would remember that the covenant God was all-sufficient for them and that He claimed their exclusive allegiance, making the worship of other gods a spiritual adultery (Jer. 3; Ezek. 16; Hos. 2). This was a test the nation often failed.

Syncretism was widespread in the Roman Empire during the first centuries of Christianity. Polytheism was rife and all manner of mystery cults flourished. Early Christian teachers fought diligently to keep the faith from being assimilated to Gnosticism, a kind of theosophy that had no use for Christ's Incarnation and Atonement, since it saw the root problem of man as ignorance rather than sin. Neoplatonism and Manichaeism also saw the way of salvation mainly as a matter of ascetical detachment and escape from the physical world. Christian resistance to these movements was successful, and the classic formulations of the Trinity and the Incarnation in the creeds are a permanent legacy of these struggles.

Scripture condemns all idolatry as evil. Idols are mocked as delusive non-entities (Ps. 115:4–7; Is. 44:9–20), but they nevertheless enslave their worshipers in blind superstition (Is. 44:20). Paul adds that demons operate through idols, making them a spiritual menace (1 Cor. 8:4–6; 10:19–21). Biblical warnings against idolatry (e.g., 1 Cor. 10:14; 1 John 5:19–21) need to be taken to heart in the post-Christian Western culture, which is prepared to fill the spiritual vacuum that people feel by embracing religious syncretism, witchcraft, and experiments with the occult. □ her lovers. In vv. 7, 10, 12 these are probably synonymous with the Baals. The essence of the charge against Israel was that she had forgotten the Lord, whom she should have loved (cf. 4:6; 13:4–6). See theological note "Syncretism and Idolatry."

■ 2:13 jewelry. On pagan goddesses, jewelry emphasized erotic areas of the anatomy.

■ 2:14 into the wilderness. There Israel is to love God alone (v. 16; cf. Jer. 2:2).

speak comfort to her. Lit. "speak to the heart," an idiom used elsewhere for wooing, speaking kindly, and coaxing (Gen. 34:3; Judg. 19:3; Ruth 2:13).

■ 2:15 Valley of Achor. Lit. "Valley of Trouble," this area was located near Jericho and was the site of the stoning of Achan (Josh. 7:24–26). Though associated with sin and death, this valley was to be transformed into a "door of hope."

sing. Lit. "answer" or "respond."

As in [o]the days of her youth,
[p]As in the day when she came up from the land of Egypt.

16 "And it shall be, in that day,"
Says the LORD,
"That you will call Me [8]'My Husband,'
And no longer call Me [9]'My Master,'
17 For [q]I will take from her mouth the names of the Baals,
And they shall be remembered by their name no more.
18 In that day I will make a [r]covenant for them
With the beasts of the field,
With the birds of the air,
And with the creeping things of the ground.
Bow and sword of battle [s]I will shatter from the earth,
To make them [t]lie down safely.

19 "I will betroth you to Me forever;
Yes, I will betroth you to Me
In righteousness and justice,
In lovingkindness and mercy;
20 I will betroth you to Me in faithfulness,
And [u]you shall know the LORD.

21 "It shall come to pass in that day
That [v]I will answer," says the LORD;
"I will answer the heavens,
And they shall answer the earth.
22 The earth shall answer
With grain,
With new wine,
And with oil;
They shall answer [1]Jezreel.
23 Then [w]I will sow her for Myself in the earth,
[x]And I will have mercy on her who had [2]not obtained mercy;
Then [y]I will say to those who were [3]not My people,
'You are [4]My people!'
And they shall say, 'You are my God!' "

■ 2:16 My Master. The Hebrew word ba'al can mean "master" or "husband," as well as refer to the pagan god Baal. In the future, Israel will be so zealous to stamp out anything associated with Baal worship that the word ba'al itself, in all its senses, will be avoided (v. 17).

■ 2:18 I will make a covenant. Taking up the same theme in a later time, Jeremiah explains the covenant as entailing a new heart (Jer. 31:31–34).

With the beasts. The future kingdom is secure and peaceful, free from the threat of wild animals (Is. 11:6–9) and invasions (Ps. 46:9; Is. 2:4; Mic. 4:3). Wild animals were a threat, particularly after invading armies ravaged the land. The language may be figurative for a transformed humanity, with the resulting peace and security attending the renewal inaugurated by Christ at His First Advent and completed at His return.

■ 2:19 betroth. Betrothal was the final step in the courtship process and involved paying a bride-price to the bride's father. Here the qualities of righteousness, justice, love, mercy, and faithfulness are a sort of bride-price that guarantees the permanence of the relationship.

righteousness. God's righteousness is expressed both in His fairness and in the salvation He bestows on His people (10:12; Amos 5:7).

justice. This term can denote the legal decisions and relationships by which justice and fairness are established and restored (5:11; 6:5; 10:4; Amos 5:15, 24; Mic. 6:8).

lovingkindness. See note on Ex. 15:13.

mercy. The term can refer to compassion, heartfelt sensitivity, and love (1:6; Gen. 43:14; Deut. 13:17; 2 Sam. 24:14).

■ 2:20 faithfulness. This quality includes dependability, truthfulness, and steadfastness in relationships (Ps. 88:11; 89:1, 2, 5, 8, 24; 92:2; 98:3), and is synonymous with "truth" in 4:1. Christ, by His active obedience, provided these covenant virtues for His people. By the Holy Spirit He inscribes His own nature on their hearts (2 Cor. 3:3).

know. The essence of the new covenant relationship involves knowing the Lord intimately (Jer. 31:34). Today Christ mediates this new covenant and renders the old covenant relationship obsolete (Heb. 8:7–13).

■ 2:21 answer. The Lord will graciously answer Israel's cry, as she learns again to answer His appeals (v. 15 note).

the heavens. The Lord will show that He, not the storm-god Baal, commands the cycles of nature whereby the land becomes fertile and produces the crops that were earlier withheld (v. 9). See Introduction: Date and Occasion.

■ 2:22 Jezreel. See note on 1:4.

■ 2:23 The promises of restoration come to a climax as Jezreel is redeemed (v. 22; cf. 1:4, 5), Lo-Ruhamah is shown God's love (1:6), and Lo-Ammi becomes God's people (1:9).

You are my God. See Rom. 9:23–26 and 1 Pet. 2:9, 10 regarding the fulfillment of these promises.

Israel Will Return to God

3 Then the LORD said to me, "Go again, love a woman who is loved by a [a]lover[f] and is committing adultery, just like the love of the LORD for the children of Israel, who look to other gods and love the raisin cakes of the pagans."

2 So I bought her for myself for fifteen shekels of silver, and one and one-half homers of barley. 3 And I said to her, "You shall [b]stay with me many days; you shall not play the harlot, nor shall you have a man—so, too, will I be toward you."

4 For the children of Israel shall abide many days [c]without king or prince, without sacrifice or sacred pillar, without [d]ephod or [e]teraphim. 5 Afterward the children of Israel shall return and [f]seek the LORD their God and [g]David their king. They shall fear the LORD and His goodness in the [h]latter days.

God's Charge Against Israel

4 Hear the word of the LORD,
You children of Israel,
For the LORD brings a [a]charge[f] against the inhabitants of the land:

"There is no truth or mercy
Or [b]knowledge of God in the land.
2 By swearing and lying,
Killing and stealing and committing adultery,
They break all restraint,
With bloodshed [z]upon bloodshed.
3 Therefore [c]the land will mourn;
And [d]everyone who dwells there will waste away

■ 3:1–5 Hosea recounts his reconciliation with his wife Gomer as an anticipation of God's reconciliation with Israel.

■ 3:1 love . . . just like the love. God's apparently unreasonable request is patterned after His own loyal, protective, and bountiful love for undeserving Israel.

raisin cakes. These delicacies, made from raisins pressed together, were associated with special occasions (2 Sam. 6:19), and may have been used in Baal worship as an aphrodisiac (cf. Song 2:5).

■ 3:2 bought. Christ similarly fulfilled this picture of love in action when He redeemed His saints from the slave market of sin.

shekels. The payment, roughly half in silver and half in produce, amounted to about thirty shekels and approximated the price of a slave in Ex. 21:32. The New Testament teaches that the actual cost of redemption was Christ's blood (1 Pet. 1:18).

■ 3:4 many days. The waiting period until the coming of Christ, the great and final King of the Davidic dynasty (v. 5).

without king . . . teraphim. Israel's basic political and religious institutions, both legitimate (sacrifice and ephod, Ex. 28:31) and illegitimate (sacred stones or pillars, Deut. 16:21–22; idols or teraphim, Zech. 10:2), were going to be removed as punishment.

■ 3:5 return and seek. Many Israelites repented with a full desire for intimacy with God at Pentecost (Acts 2:38–41).

David. This reference points to Jesus Christ, Son of David (1:11 note; 2 Sam. 7:12–16; Matt. 1:1; Rom. 1:3).

the latter days. See note on Mic. 4:1.

■ 4:1–19 In this striking example of a prophetic lawsuit against Israel for violating the terms of the covenant, Hosea gives an overview of the Lord's case against Israel and then focuses on the consequences of their rejection of the knowledge of God.

■ 4:1 truth . . . knowledge. See notes on 2:19, 20.

■ 4:2 swearing . . . bloodshed. These sins constituted violations of the foundational covenant document—the Decalogue (Ex. 20:2–17; Deut. 5:6–21).

■ 4:3 the land will mourn. Human sin results in crises within the natural order that endanger all of life (Lev. 18:28; Is. 24:4, 5).

Israel's Apostasy and Hosea's Marriage (3:1)

The stages of Israel's relationship with God are depicted in the prophecies of Jeremiah and Ezekiel, as well as in Hosea's relationship with Gomer.

Stage	Israel's Prophets	Hosea's Marriage
Betrothal	Jeremiah 2:2	Hosea 1:2
Marriage	Ezekiel 16:8–14	Hosea 1:3
Adultery	Jeremiah 5:7; Ezekiel 16:15–34	Hosea 3:1
Estrangement	Jeremiah 3:8–10; Ezekiel 16:35–52	Hosea 3:3, 4
Restoration	Ezekiel 16:53–63	Hosea 3:5

With the beasts of the field
And the birds of the air;
Even the fish of the sea will be taken away.

4 "Now let no man contend, or rebuke another;
For your people are like those [e]who contend with the priest.
5 Therefore you shall stumble [f]in the day;
The prophet also shall stumble with you in the night;
And I will destroy your mother.
6 [g]My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge.
Because you have rejected knowledge,
I also will reject you from being priest for Me;
[h]Because you have forgotten the law of your God,
I also will forget your children.

7 "The more they increased,
The more they sinned against Me;
[i]I[3] will change [4]their glory into shame.
8 They eat up the sin of My people;
They set their [5]heart on their iniquity.
9 And it shall be: [j]like people, like priest.
So I will punish them for their ways,
And [6]reward them for their deeds.
10 For [k]they shall eat, but not have enough;
They shall commit harlotry, but not increase;
Because they have ceased obeying the LORD.

The Idolatry of Israel

11 "Harlotry, wine, and new wine [l]enslave the heart.
12 My people ask counsel from their [m]wooden idols,
And their [7]staff informs them.
For [n]the spirit of harlotry has caused them to stray,
And they have played the harlot against their God.
13 [o]They offer sacrifices on the mountaintops,
And burn incense on the hills,
Under oaks, poplars, and terebinths,
Because their shade is good.
[p]Therefore your daughters commit harlotry,
And your brides commit adultery.

■ 4:4–10 Attention shifts to the sins of the priests, whose failure to instruct the nation in God's law has corrupted Israel (v. 6; Deut. 31:9–13; 33:10).

■ 4:4 let no man contend. Or, "let no man bring a charge." According to the Mosaic law, the priests were entrusted with the task of rendering legal judgments (Deut. 17:9–13). But because of the general lack of knowledge and respect for God's law in Israel of Hosea's time, there was no point in bringing charges against another, because the verdicts would not be honored (the people were "like those who contend with the priest"; i.e., did not respect his decisions and teaching).

■ 4:5 your mother. The nation of Israel (2:2, 5; Is. 50:1).

■ 4:6 My people. The nation will lose her covenant relationship with God through lack of covenant knowledge (vv. 8, 12).

knowledge. Knowledge of God is inseparable from the law of God (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes). The priests, who were responsible for teaching the law—and their descendants—were to be punished for ignoring or forgetting the law (vv. 4–10 note).

■ 4:7 I will change their glory. Or, "they will change their glory" (text note). Ultimately, the Lord is Israel's glory (Is. 60:19; Jer. 2:11). In Rom. 1:23, Paul condemns the sin of exchanging God's glory for something corruptible.

shame. Idols or false gods (Deut. 32:16, 17).

■ 4:8 They eat up the sin of My people. Taken literally, the priests, who ate portions of the animals sacrificed for sin, encouraged the people to sin. Then the priests would have more to eat (Lev. 6:26). Taken figuratively, the priests were gratified by the people's sin.

■ 4:9 like people, like priest. No one is spared from judgment (cf. Is. 24:1–3).

■ 4:10 eat . . . commit harlotry. Food will not satisfy (v. 8), and illicit sex will not produce increase. They have left the Lord, the source of life, to practice harlotry (vv. 12, 18; 2:4; 6:10; 9:1).

■ 4:11 enslave the heart. Lit. "take away the [people's] heart," i.e., their ability to judge and think clearly (cf. Prov. 31:4, 5).

■ 4:12 their wooden idols. Lit. "their wood." This may refer to the Asherah pole beside a Canaanite shrine (Deut. 16:21; Judg. 6:25–32), to some other deity (Hab. 2:18, 19), or to a sacred tree thought to give oracles (Judg. 9:37).

spirit of harlotry. Their spiritual adultery is caused by an intoxicating and seductive power that draws them continuously into sin ("a perverse spirit," Is. 19:14; "spirit of deep sleep," Is. 29:10).

14 "I will not punish your daughters when they commit harlotry,
Nor your brides when they commit adultery;
For the men themselves go apart with harlots,
And offer sacrifices with a [q]ritual harlot.
Therefore people who do not understand will be trampled.

Now the LORD will let them forage

Impending Judgment on Israel and Judah

CHAPTER 5

5 "Hear this, O priests!
Take heed, O house of Israel!
Give ear, O house of the king!
For [1]yours is the judgment,
Because [a]you have been a snare to Mizpah
And a net spread on Tabor.

Toward turning to their God,

1 [a]Hos. 6:9 [1]Or to you

2 [b]Is. 29:15; Hos. 4:2; 6:9

3 [c]Amos 3:2; 5:12 [d]Hos. 4:17

4 [2]Or Their deeds will not allow them to turn

■ 4:14 I will not punish. Not that God refused to punish the harlots and adulteresses at all (since the people as a whole will be judged), but that He would not allow them to be punished while the men who patronized them went free (cf. Gen. 38:24–26).

■ 4:15–19 The theme of prophetic lawsuit against Israel continues as further charges of covenant disobedience are leveled (4:1–19 note).

■ 4:15 Gilgal. This important Israelite sanctuary near Jericho was situated across the Jordan from Baal Peor. From the time of the conquest, Gilgal was an important place of worship (Josh. 4:19—5:12; 1 Sam. 10:8; 11:12–15). Later in Israel's history, Gilgal became associated with wicked and syncretistic religious practices (9:15; 12:11; Amos 4:4).

Beth Aven. See text note. This was a contemptuous nickname for Bethel ("House of God"), the important royal sanctuary (Amos 4:4; 5:5; 7:13; 1 Kin. 12:28–33).

As the LORD lives. This orthodox oath (Judg. 8:19; Ruth 3:13; 1 Sam. 14:39) was forbidden here because they were lying (v. 2), or because it was being misused by associating the Lord with Baal worship.

■ 4:16 stubborn calf. Israel was kicking against all of the Lord's efforts to care for them (cf. Jer. 31:18).

■ 4:17 Ephraim. Because Ephraim was by far the largest of the ten northern tribes, the northern kingdom of Israel was sometimes called Ephraim (Deut. 33:17 note).

Let him alone. The plural verb here may indicate an address to other prophets.

■ 4:19 wind . . . wings. A wordplay on the Hebrew word meaning "wind" or "spirit" is probably intended. Not only was a destructive storm wind of divine judgment about to sweep away the people (Job 1:19), but "the spirit of harlotry" (v. 12; 5:4) was leading them to ruin.

■ 5:1 priests . . . house of Israel . . . house of the king. The fate of the northern kingdom was bound up with that of its leaders. The priests were responsible to teach the law (4:6), and the royal house was responsible for administering justice.

snare. The leaders trapped their foolish subjects.

Mizpah. Probably this is the Mizpah in Benjamin, where Samuel judged (1 Sam. 7:5, 6; 10:17–24), not Mizpah in Gilead (Gen. 31:48, 49).

Tabor. A famous mountain site located on the northeastern edge of the Jezreel Valley (Judg. 4:6). These and other northern sites had become high places of the pagan cult of Baal.

■ 5:3 Ephraim. See note on 4:17.

■ 5:4 spirit of harlotry. See note on 4:12. They "do not know the LORD" truly (4:1, 6), nor can they return or repent (cf. Jer. 13:23).

For [e]the spirit of harlotry is in their midst,
And they do not know the LORD.
5 The [f]pride of Israel testifies to his face;
Therefore Israel and Ephraim stumble in their iniquity;
Judah also stumbles with them.

6 "With their flocks and herds
[g]They shall go to seek the LORD,
But they will not find Him;
He has withdrawn Himself from them.
7 They have [h]dealt treacherously with the LORD,
For they have begotten [3]pagan children.
Now a New Moon shall devour them and their heritage.

8 "Blow[i] the ram's horn in Gibeah,
The trumpet in Ramah!
[j]Cry aloud at [k]Beth Aven,
'Look behind you, O Benjamin!'
9 Ephraim shall be desolate in the day of rebuke;
Among the tribes of Israel I make known what is sure.

10 "The princes of Judah are like those who [l]remove a landmark;
I will pour out My wrath on them like water.
11 Ephraim is [m]oppressed and broken in judgment,
Because he willingly walked by [n]human precept.
12 Therefore I will be to Ephraim like a moth,
And to the house of Judah [o]like rottenness.

13 "When Ephraim saw his sickness,
And Judah saw his [p]wound,
Then Ephraim went [q]to Assyria
And sent to King Jareb;
Yet he cannot cure you,
Nor heal you of your wound.
14 For [r]I will be like a lion to Ephraim,
And like a young lion to the house of Judah.
[s]I, even I, will tear them and go away;
I will take them away, and no one shall rescue.
15 I will return again to My place
Till they [4]acknowledge their offense.

4 [e]Hos. 4:12
5 [f]Hos. 7:10
6 [g]Prov. 1:28; Is. 1:15; Jer. 11:11; Ezek. 8:18; Mic. 3:4; John 7:34
7 [h]Is. 48:8; Jer. 3:20; Hos. 6:7 [3]Lit. strange
8 [i]Hos. 8:1; Joel 2:1 [j]Is. 10:30 [k]Josh. 7:2
10 [l]Deut. 19:14; 27:17
11 [m]Deut. 28:33 [n]Mic. 6:16
12 [o]Prov. 12:4
13 [p]Jer. 30:12–15 [q]2 Kin. 15:19; Hos. 7:11; 10:6
14 [r]Ps. 7:2; Lam. 3:10; Hos. 13:7, 8 [s]Ps. 50:22
15 [4]Lit. become guilty or bear punishment

■ 5:5 testifies. The sins of the people testify against them in the Lord's covenant lawsuit against His people (ch. 4 note).

■ 5:6 With their flocks . . . to seek. The Lord will not be found through the offering of their ritual sacrifices (4:13; 1 Sam. 15:21–23; Is. 1:11–17; Mic. 6:6–8).

■ 5:7 pagan children. Like an unfaithful wife and mother, Israel gives birth to children that were literally and religiously illegitimate (4:6, 13, 14).

New Moon. The festivals brought judgment, instead of the Lord's blessing on their wombs and crops as they had imagined would happen (cf. Is. 1:13, 14).

■ 5:8 Blow . . . Cry aloud. These commands sound the watchman's cry to warn of an approaching enemy (Judah) from the south (cf. 8:1). The Syro-Ephraimite war described in 2 Kin. 16:5–9 and 2 Chr. 28:5–21 seems to stand behind this warning. See Introduction: Date and Occasion.

Gibeah . . . Ramah . . . Beth Aven. These Benjamite towns lie in a straight line running north from Jerusalem: Gibeah, three miles; Ramah, five miles; Beth Aven (Bethel), eleven miles. At various times in their history they were claimed by one or the other kingdom (1 Kin. 15:16–22).

■ 5:10 remove a landmark. The boundary lines dividing the Promised Land were considered sacred to the Lord (Deut. 19:14; 27:17; Job 24:2; Prov. 22:28; 23:10). See note on Num. 27:1–11.

■ 5:12 moth . . . rottenness. Like a moth, or possibly like an infection (some suggest that the Hebrew word translated "moth" means "pus"), God will bring inexorable and unpleasant decay upon sinful Ephraim.

■ 5:13 sickness . . . wound. Instead of turning to the Lord for healing their miseries inflicted by an enemy (cf. Is. 1:5–9; Jer. 30:12, 13), Israel turned to Assyria. Assyrian records speak of the tribute paid by Israel's kings, Menahem and Hoshea (cf. 2 Kin. 15:17–20; 17:3).

■ 5:14 I will be like a lion. Even with Assyrian help, Israel is helpless prey before the powerful lion, the Lord (13:7; Amos 1:2; 3:8).

■ 5:15 I will return . . . My place. In His anger, God removes His saving presence from the people until they truly repent (3:5).

Then they will seek My face;
In their affliction they will earnestly seek Me."

A Call to Repentance

CHAPTER 6

6 Come,[a] and let us return to the LORD;
For [b]He has torn, but [c]He will heal us;
He has stricken, but He will [f]bind us up.
2 [d]After two days He will revive us;
On the third day He will raise us up,
That we may live in His sight.
3 [e]Let us know,
Let us pursue the knowledge of the LORD.
His going forth is established [f]as the morning;
[g]He will come to us [h]like the rain,
Like the latter and former rain to the earth.

Impenitence of Israel and Judah

4 "O Ephraim, what shall I do to you?
O Judah, what shall I do to you?
For your faithfulness is like a morning cloud,
And like the early dew it goes away.
5 Therefore I have hewn them by the prophets,
I have slain them by [i]the words of My mouth;
And [2]your judgments are like light that goes forth.
6 For I desire [j]mercy[3] and [k]not sacrifice,
And the [l]knowledge of God more than burnt offerings.

7 "But like [4]men they transgressed the covenant;
There they dealt treacherously with Me.
8 [m]Gilead is a city of evildoers
And [5]defiled with blood.
9 As bands of robbers lie in wait for a man,
So the company of [n]priests [o]murder on the way to Shechem;
Surely they commit [p]lewdness.
10 I have seen a horrible thing in the house of Israel:

1 [a]Is. 1:18; Acts 10:43 [b]Deut. 32:39; Hos. 5:14 [c]Jer. 30:17; Hos. 14:4 [f]Bandage
2 [d]Luke 24:46; Acts 10:40; [1 Cor. 15:4]
3 [e]Is. 54:13 [f]2 Sam. 23:4 [g]Ps. 72:6; Joel 2:23 [h]Job 29:23
5 [i][Jer. 23:29] [2]Or the judgments on you
6 [j]Matt. 9:13; 12:7 [k]Is. 1:12, 13; [Mic. 6:6–8] [l][John 17:3] [3]Or faithfulness or loyalty
7 [4]Or Adam
8 [m]Hos. 12:11 [5]Lit. foot-tracked
9 [n]Hos. 5:1 [o]Jer. 7:9, 10; Hos. 4:2 [p]Ezek. 22:9; 23:27; Hos. 2:10

■ 6:1–3 This song of repentance responds with the imagery of 5:11–14, but seems superficial in tone (v. 4).

■ 6:1 let us. The priests may be quoted here, much as Israel was quoted in 2:7.

return. The call to return to the Lord is one of the central messages of the book (2:7; 3:5; 5:4, 15). True repentance and conversion bring reconciliation that includes healing of wounds (cf. Deut. 32:39).

■ 6:2 two days . . . the third. This may simply denote a short period of time. Some, who view this as a prediction of Christ's resurrection, understand Paul to allude to this verse in 1 Cor. 15:4.

live in His sight. See Ps. 16:11.

■ 6:3 pursue the knowledge of the LORD. Like the call to return (v. 1), the call to true knowledge of the Lord is central to Hosea's message (2:8, 20; 4:1, 6; 5:4; 6:6). See Introduction: Characteristics and Themes.

as the morning . . . like the rain. These similes compare God's reliability to the recurrent events of nature.

■ 6:4 morning cloud . . . early dew. Continuing the use of images from nature, God laments the temporary, transitory quality of Israel and Judah's covenant love, in contrast with His own faithfulness (v. 3).

■ 6:5 light. Like the light of the sun whose rising dispels the darkness, God's justice consistently and inevitably goes forth (cf. Ps. 37:6), exposing the sins of those who have broken the covenant.

■ 6:6 more than burnt offerings. Covenant faithfulness or loyalty, not mere ritual, were required of the covenant people (Mic. 6:6–8 and notes).

■ 6:7–10 These verses catalogue a number of crimes associated with specific places that were infamous in Hosea's day. Though the details are now lost, the record serves to indict the whole nation (v. 10).

■ 6:7 like men. See text note. Several possible interpretations of this reference have been proposed: (a) the first man, Adam (Gen. 3); (b) a place identified with the ancient site Tell ed-Damiyeh on the Jordan River (Josh. 3:16), parallel to Gilead and Shechem (vv. 8, 9) and suggested by "there" in the second half of the verse; and (c) mankind. Because the elements of a covenant were present in God's relationship with Adam, the doctrine of God's covenant with Adam does not depend upon the interpretation of this text. See note on Gen. 3.

■ 6:8 Gilead. This was a mountainous region in the northern Transjordan, but the word may refer to the city of Ramoth Gilead.

evildoers. The term is used frequently in the Psalms to indicate the enemies of the righteous and of the Lord.

defiled with blood. This may allude to the fifty men of Gilead involved in the assassination of Pekahiah (2 Kin. 15:25).

■ 6:9 Shechem. An important religious and political center, Shechem was located between Mount Gerizim and Mount Ebal (Deut. 27:4, 12–14; Josh. 8:30; 20:7; 24:1; Judg. 9:6; 1 Kin. 12:1).

■ 6:10 horrible thing. The phrase suggests a religious sin, or the involvement of priests or prophets in gross wrongdoing (Jer. 5:30, 31; 18:13–15; 23:14).

harlotry. A common figure here for religious infidelity (text note; 7:4 and note).

There is the [6]harlotry of Ephraim;
Israel is defiled.
11 Also, O Judah, a harvest is appointed for you,
When I return the captives of My people.

7 "When I would have healed Israel,
Then the iniquity of Ephraim was uncovered,
And the wickedness of Samaria.
For [a]they have committed fraud;
A thief comes in;
A band of robbers [1]takes spoil outside.
2 They [2]do not consider in their hearts
That [b]I remember all their wickedness;
Now their own deeds have surrounded them;
They are before My face.
3 They make a [c]king glad with their wickedness,
And princes [d]with their lies.

4 "They[e] are all adulterers.
Like an oven heated by a baker—
He ceases stirring the fire after kneading the dough,
Until it is leavened.
5 In the day of our king
Princes have made him sick, [3]inflamed with [f]wine;
He stretched out his hand with scoffers.
6 They prepare their heart like an oven,
While they lie in wait;
[4]Their baker sleeps all night;
In the morning it burns like a flaming fire.
7 They are all hot, like an oven,
And have devoured their judges;
All their kings have fallen.
[g]None among them calls upon Me.

8 "Ephraim [h]has mixed himself among the peoples;
Ephraim is a cake unturned.
9 [i]Aliens have devoured his strength,
But he does not know it;
Yes, gray hairs are here and there on him,
Yet he does not know it.

■ 6:11 harvest. A metaphor for God's judgment (Jer. 51:33; Joel 3:13; Matt. 13:39–43).

■ 7:1 Ephraim . . . Samaria. Both terms refer to the northern kingdom, of which Samaria was the capital (4:17 note).

■ 7:2 They do not consider. They have deceived even themselves (cf. Gal. 6:7).

■ 7:3 king . . . princes. The royal leaders should have provided moral leadership, but savored instead the evil and treachery of those around them (2 Kin. 15:8–30).

■ 7:4 adulterers. They left the Lord, to whom they were allied in the covenant, and joined themselves with other gods and other foreign allies (2:4; 4:12–14; Jer. 9:2; 23:10–14). See Introduction: Characteristics and Themes.

Like an oven. The figures of an oven, a baker, and fire present a graphic word picture of the self-propagating passion, treachery, and wickedness that infested the political life of Israel during its last days and led to the series of violent assassinations of its kings (2 Kin. 15:8–30). The assassination of Pekah by Hoshea (2 Kin. 15:30) may be the occasion of the remarks in vv. 4–7.

■ 7:5 day of our king. A royal celebration became an occasion for drunkenness, which in turn fueled wickedness (1 Kin. 16:9, 10; Prov. 31:4, 5; Amos 6:6).

■ 7:6 They prepare. Those plotting against the king, perhaps the priests (6:9).

■ 7:7 judges . . . kings. Even amid unrest that saw four kings assassinated within twenty years (2 Kin. 15:8–30), none of the leaders called upon God.

■ 7:8 mixed himself among the peoples. A reference to Israel's shifting alliances with Egypt, Philistia, Aram, and Assyria.

a cake unturned. In this sarcastic figure for foolish national policy, Israel is compared to a useless half-baked cake because she refused to turn to the Lord.

■ 7:9 devoured his strength. They made Ephraim poor by exacting tribute.

he does not know it. This repeated phrase stresses Israel's ignorance of how politically weak and drained she had become. Lack of knowledge of God is here followed by lack of self-knowledge.

10 And the [j]pride of Israel testifies to his face,
But [k]they do not return to the LORD their God,
Nor seek Him for all this.

Futile Reliance on the Nations

11 "Ephraim[l] also is like a silly dove, without [5]sense—
[m]They call to Egypt,
They go to [n]Assyria.
12 Wherever they go, I will [o]spread My net on them;
I will bring them down like birds of the air;
I will chastise them
[p]According to what their congregation has heard.

13 "Woe to them, for they have fled from Me!
Destruction to them,
Because they have transgressed against Me!
Though [q]I redeemed them,
Yet they have spoken lies against Me.
14 [r]They did not cry out to Me with their heart
When they wailed upon their beds.

"They [6]assemble together for grain and new [s]wine,
[7]They rebel against Me;
15 Though I disciplined and strengthened their arms,
Yet they devise evil against Me;
16 They return, but not [8]to the Most High;
[t]They are like a treacherous bow.
Their princes shall fall by the sword
For the [u]cursings of their tongue.
This shall be their derision [v]in the land of Egypt.

The Apostasy of Israel

8 "Set the [1]trumpet to your mouth!
He shall come [a]like an eagle against the house of the LORD,
Because they have transgressed My covenant
And rebelled against My law.
2 [b]Israel will cry to Me,
'My God, [c]we know You!'

2 [b]Ps. 78:34; Hos. 5:15; 7:14 [c]Titus 1:16

■ 7:10 pride. Israel's blindness is attributed to stubborn arrogance that testifies against her (5:5). Turning back to the Lord was Israel's only hope (2:7; 3:5; 5:4; 6:1; Amos 4:6–12).

■ 7:11 silly dove. The dove was reputed to be witless and easy to trap.

Egypt . . . Assyria. Like a dove, Israel fluttered from one nation to another seeking security and protection: Menahem submitted to Assyria and paid a vast tribute (2 Kin. 15:17–20); Pekah formed a coalition with Syria-Damascus against Assyria (2 Kin. 15:29, 37; 16:5); and Hoshea shifted his allegiance from Assyria to Egypt (2 Kin. 17:3, 4).

■ 7:12 My net. The Lord's net of judgment will come down upon flitting Israel.

■ 7:13 redeemed. This term from commercial law meaning "buy back" (Lev. 27:27–31) is used also of Israel's deliverance from bondage (13:14; Ex. 15:13; Deut. 7:8; 9:26; Mic. 6:4).

lies. This may refer to the false ideas about the Lord that had been imported into Israel's religion, to insincere words of repentance (6:1–3), or more generally to the broken promises of the covenant.

■ 7:14 with their heart. A responsible and loyal response, as suggested by a similar expression used in a contemporary Assyrian treaty.

wailed upon their beds. This phrase could mean that they cried out to their gods on the beds of fertility-cult prostitution. If "assemble" is replaced with "slash themselves" (text note), this self-mutilation was yet another appeal to pagan gods (Deut. 14:1; 1 Kin. 18:26–29).

■ 7:16 treacherous bow. See Ps. 78:57.

cursings of their tongue. These were directed against God and His prophets (6:5).

Egypt. The Egyptians would soon mock at the fall of those who only intermittently solicited their help.

■ 8:1 trumpet. The urgent call for alarm (5:8) reports that Assyria, like an eagle (Deut. 28:49, 50; Is. 10:5, 6; Jer. 4:13; 48:40; Lam. 4:19; Hab. 1:8), is rapidly approaching to administer God's judgment.

the house of the LORD. This expression can refer to the land as well as the temple (9:15).

My covenant . . . My law. Rebellion against the terms of the covenant was tantamount to rebellion against God Himself (4:6; 6:6, 7; 7:13; 8:12).

■ 8:2 we know You. As they cry for help, the Israelites claim to know God, but their actions belie their words (6:1). See Introduction: Characteristics and Themes.

3 Israel has rejected the good;
The enemy will pursue him.

4 "They[d] set up kings, but not by Me;
They made princes, but I did not acknowledge them.
From their silver and gold
They made idols for themselves—
That they might be cut off.
5 Your [2]calf [3]is rejected, O Samaria!
My anger is aroused against them—
[e]How long until they attain to innocence?
6 For from Israel is even this:
A [f]workman made it, and it is not God;
But the calf of Samaria shall be broken to pieces.

7 "They[g] sow the wind,
And reap the whirlwind.
The stalk has no bud;
It shall never produce meal.
If it should produce,
[h]Aliens would swallow it up.
8 [i]Israel is swallowed up;
Now they are among the Gentiles
[j]Like a vessel in which is no pleasure.
9 For they have gone up to Assyria,
Like [k]a wild donkey alone by itself;
Ephraim [l]has hired lovers.
10 Yes, though they have hired among the nations,
Now [m]I will gather them;
And they shall [4]sorrow a little,
Because of the [5]burden of [n]the king of princes.

11 "Because Ephraim has made many altars for sin,
They have become for him altars for sinning.
12 I have written for him [o]the great things of My law,
But they were considered a strange thing.
13 For the sacrifices of My offerings [p]they sacrifice flesh and eat it,
[q]But the LORD does not accept them.
[r]Now He will remember their iniquity and punish their sins.
They shall return to Egypt.

14 "For[s] Israel has forgotten [t]his Maker,

■ 8:3 the good. This comprehensive term describes all the blessings under God's covenant; it may even refer to the "Good One," God Himself (Amos 5:14, 15; Mic. 6:8).

■ 8:4 kings . . . princes. Israel's independence from God in the political sphere was apparent in their refusal to consult God in their choice of leaders. This led to a series of conspiracies and violent assassinations (7:3–7; 2 Kin. 15:8–30). See Introduction: Date and Occasion.

idols. In making gods of silver and gold, Israel expressed her defiant rejection of the good (v. 5; Ex. 20:3–6; 34:17; Lev. 19:4).

■ 8:5 calf. A symbol of fertility and strength, the bull was frequently worshiped in the ancient Near East. Yet the golden calf of Samaria was established as an idol representing the Lord by Jeroboam I (1 Kin. 12:26–30; cf. Ex. 32) and is itself here described as the object of worship (10:5 note).

■ 8:7 sow the wind . . . reap the whirlwind. This proverbial saying emphasizes the dire cause-and-effect relationship between sin and punishment (10:13; Job 4:8; Prov. 11:18; 22:8; Gal. 6:7–9).

■ 8:9 gone up to Assyria. Probably a reference to Hoshea's submission to Assyria in his attempt to keep the power that he had seized following his murder of Pekah (7:11; 2 Kin. 15:30; 17:3). See Introduction: Date and Occasion.

wild donkey. Using a wordplay between the Hebrew for "wild donkey" and "Ephraim," Hosea condemns Ephraim (Israel) for stubbornly rejecting the Lord's company.

■ 8:10 I will gather them. This gathering is for judgment, not restoration (Joel 3:2; Zeph. 3:8).

the king of princes. The king of Assyria (Is. 10:8).

■ 8:11 altars for sin. Although built to atone for sin, northern altars instead became places to sin.

■ 8:13 return to Egypt. God threatens them with captivity, here symbolized by the land where Israel earlier had been enslaved (9:3; Ex. 1:8–14; Deut. 28:68).

■ 8:14 temples . . . palaces. Israel's confidence that buildings and fortifications bring spiritual, political, or military security was misguided.

fire. See Amos 1:4, 7, 10, 12, 14.

Judah also has multiplied [u]fortified cities;
But [v]I will send fire upon his cities,
And it shall devour his [7]palaces."

CHAPTER 9

Judgment of Israel's Sin

9 Do[a] not rejoice, O Israel, with joy like other peoples,
For you have played the harlot against your God.
You have made love for [b]hire on every threshing floor.
2 The threshing floor and the winepress
Shall not feed them,
And the new wine shall fail in her.

3 They shall not dwell in [c]the LORD's land,
[d]But Ephraim shall return to Egypt,
And [e]shall eat unclean things in Assyria.
4 They shall not offer wine offerings to the LORD,
Nor [f]shall their [g]sacrifices be pleasing to Him.
It shall be like bread of mourners to them;
All who eat it shall be defiled.
For their bread shall be for their own life;
It shall not come into the house of the LORD.

5 What will you do in the appointed day,
And in the day of the feast of the LORD?
6 For indeed they are gone because of destruction.
Egypt shall gather them up;
Memphis shall bury them.
[h]Nettles shall possess their valuables of silver;
Thorns shall be in their tents.

7 The [i]days of punishment have come;
The days of recompense have come.
Israel knows!
The prophet is a [j]fool,
[k]The spiritual man is insane,
Because of the greatness of your iniquity and great enmity.
8 The [l]watchman of Ephraim is with my God;
But the prophet is a [l]fowler's snare in all his ways—
Enmity in the house of his God.

■ 9:1–9 Because of divine judgment on her covenant disobedience, Israel would not enjoy the fruit of the land (Deut. 28:18), nor celebrate the annual agricultural feasts (Deut. 16:1–17 and notes).

■ 9:1 threshing floor. The flat, open area used for threshing wheat and barley was also a place where Israel prostituted itself by indulging in sensual activities related to the fertility worship of Baal. See Introduction: Date and Occasion.

■ 9:2 winepress. This device was used for both wine and oil.

■ 9:3 the LORD's land. Also called the Lord's "house" (8:1; 9:15), the Promised Land is owned by the Lord and not by Baal—or even by Israel (Lev. 25:23 and note).

return to Egypt. See note on 8:13.

unclean things. Other nations and the food they produced were considered unclean (Ezek. 4:13; Amos 7:17).

■ 9:4 bread of mourners. Food in the house of mourners was unclean because of contact with a dead body (Num. 19:11–22; Deut. 26:14).

house of the LORD. They would not be able to sanctify their food through sacrifice while in exile.

■ 9:5 appointed day . . . feast of the LORD. A probable reference to the annual fall harvest Feast of Booths or Tabernacles (Lev. 23:33–43; Deut. 16:13–15).

■ 9:6 destruction. The Assyrian invasions.

Memphis shall bury them. Here poetically paired with Egypt, this Egyptian city was known for its great cemeteries, tombs, and pyramids.

valuables of silver . . . tents. The abandoned tents and valuables may have been religious shrines and idols, or their personal property in general.

■ 9:7 prophet is a fool. In their sin, the Israelites consider the Lord's prophets to be foolish and idle talkers.

spiritual man. Used in parallel with "prophet," this is probably another expression for "man of God" (1 Sam. 10:6; 1 Kin. 18:12; 22:21–28; 2 Kin. 2:9, 16).

insane. The Hebrew word indicates a nonsensical babbler or madman (1 Sam. 21:13–15; 2 Kin. 9:11; Jer. 29:26).

■ 9:8 watchman . . . fowler's snare. The prophets kept watch over Israel (5:8; Jer. 6:1; Ezek. 3:17; 33:1–7). But the one who sounded the alarm now found himself hunted like an animal and an object of hostility.

the house of his God. The land (8:1 note).

■ 9:9 Gibeah. This town was infamous for the gang rape of the Levite's concubine and the war that followed (Judg. 19—21). The gravity of Is-

Like grapes in the [o]wilderness;
I saw your fathers
As the [p]firstfruits on the fig tree in its first season.
But they went to [q]Baal Peor,
And [z]separated themselves to that shame;
[r]They became an abomination like the thing they loved.
11 As for Ephraim, their glory shall fly away like a bird—
No birth, no pregnancy, and no conception!
12 Though they bring up their children,
Yet I will bereave them to the last man.
Yes, [s]woe to them when I depart from them!
13 Just [t]as I saw Ephraim like Tyre, planted in a pleasant place,
So Ephraim will bring out his children to the murderer."

14 Give them, O LORD—
What will You give?
Give them [u]a miscarrying womb
And dry breasts!

15 "All their wickedness is in [v]Gilgal,
For there I hated them.
Because of the evil of their deeds
I will drive them from My house;
I will love them no more.
[w]All their princes are rebellious.
16 Ephraim is [x]stricken,
Their root is dried up;
They shall bear no fruit.
Yes, were they to bear children,
I would kill the darlings of their womb."

17 My God will [y]cast them away,
Because they did not obey Him;
And they shall be [z]wanderers among the nations.

rael's former sins also shows how deeply they require a complete renewal of their nature.

■ 9:10 grapes in the wilderness. An unusual and delicious find.

firstfruits on the fig tree. The early fig that ripens on the previous year's sprouts is not only very tender but quite uncommon (cf. Is. 28:4). These images stress how exceptional and pleasing was the Lord's initial covenant relationship with Israel.

Baal Peor. A reference to Israel's sexual and spiritual adultery in the wilderness (Num. 25 and notes)—behavior that was paralleled by Hosea's contemporaries.

became an abomination. By joining themselves to Baal, the god of shame, the Israelites themselves became detestable.

■ 9:11 glory. This could be her political and military power. But the context suggests that it is her large population. The blessing on Joseph and Ephraim had made them fruitful (Gen. 48:16; 49:22–26).

No birth. The practice of fertility religion generated a fertility curse, not a blessing (Deut. 28:18).

■ 9:14 Give them. Hosea responds in prayer asking that God's fertility blessings be withdrawn (Gen. 49:25; Ex. 23:26; Deut. 28:4, 11). The prophet can only agree with God's righteous judgment.

■ 9:15 Gilgal. See note on 4:15; cf. 12:11.

drive them from My house. Notice how this parallels God's banishment of the Canaanites (Ex. 23:29, 30; 33:2; Josh. 24:18; Judg. 6:9). See note on 8:1.

■ 9:16 Ephraim . . . fruit. "Ephraim" sounds like "fruit" in Hebrew, and the wordplay ironically underscores the tragedy of Ephraim's fruitlessness (Gen. 41:52). The name of this leading northern tribe is often used for the entire northern kingdom of Israel.

■ 9:17 My God. Unlike the people who have turned away from God, the prophet remains faithful to the covenant.

wanderers. Having wandered from God (7:13), the Israelites, like Cain, are destined to be restless wanderers (Gen. 4:12).

■ 10:1–8 In this section, unlike the preceding and following sections, the Lord does not speak but is spoken about.

According to the multitude of his fruit
[b]He has increased the altars;
According to the bounty of his land
They have embellished his sacred pillars.
2 Their heart is [c]divided;[1]
Now they are held guilty.
He will break down their altars;
He will ruin their sacred pillars.

3 For now they say,
"We have no king,
Because we did not fear the LORD.
And as for a king, what would he do for us?"
4 They have spoken words,
Swearing falsely in making a covenant.
Thus judgment springs up [d]like hemlock in the furrows of the field.

5 The inhabitants of Samaria fear
Because of the [e]calf[2] of Beth Aven.
For its people mourn for it,
And [3]its priests shriek for it—
Because its [f]glory has departed from it.
6 The idol also shall be carried to Assyria
As a present for King [g]Jareb.
Ephraim shall receive shame,
And Israel shall be ashamed of his own counsel.

7 As for Samaria, her king is cut off
Like a twig on the water.
8 Also the [h]high places of [4]Aven, [i]the sin of Israel,
Shall be destroyed.
The thorn and thistle shall grow on their altars;
[j]They shall say to the mountains, "Cover us!"
And to the hills, "Fall on us!"

9 "O Israel, you have sinned from the days of [k]Gibeah;
There they stood.
The [l]battle in Gibeah against the children of [5]iniquity
Did not [6]overtake them.
10 When it is My desire, I will chasten them.

11 [n][Jer. 50:11; Hos. 4:16; Mic. 4:13]

■ 10:1 multitude of his fruit . . . increased the altars. Israel gives the credit for prosperity to their idols, and they devote more resources to the pagan cult whenever their prosperity increases.

■ 10:2 heart is divided. The covenant required single-minded devotion to the Lord (Deut. 6:5); Israel's divided loyalties called forth the judgment predicted in the covenant curses pronounced by Moses (Deut. 29:14–29).

■ 10:3 no king. Whether the king is still on the throne and is about to be deposed, or has already been deposed, without God's blessing he is useless.

■ 10:4 Swearing. The king's commitments could be covenants as a vassal to Assyria, which are deemed false because they were ratified by invoking Assyrian deities (cf. v. 6). More likely, the broken obligations in view are those of the king to his people (2 Sam. 3:21; 5:3), chief of which to maintain justice.

hemlock. Or "gall," as the Hebrew term is translated in Amos 6:12.

■ 10:5 Samaria. The capital city of the northern kingdom.

calf of Beth Aven. The calf and its priests (2 Kin. 23:5; Zeph. 1:4) were probably not representative of a foreign deity. Rather, they exemplified a highly perverse form of worshiping the Lord in Israel (8:5 note; 13:2 note; 1 Kin. 12:31–33).

mourn . . . shriek. Hosea mocks the pious emotions that the people manifest for an idol.

■ 10:8 high places of Aven. See text note and 4:13, 14.

Cover us . . . Fall on us. The words speak of overwhelming devastation from the Lord. The people would rather die than face further judgments from Him. The passage is quoted by Jesus in Luke 23:30 and alluded to in Rev. 6:16.

■ 10:9 Gibeah. See note on 9:9.

■ 10:10 two transgressions. This may refer to the past sin at Gibeah and the present sin of Israel, to Israel's religious sin and political faithlessness, or simply to Israel's repeated and unyielding transgressions.

■ 10:11 Ephraim . . . Judah. Both kingdoms are in view.

That loves to thresh grain;
But I harnessed her fair neck,
I will make Ephraim [8]pull a plow.
Judah shall plow;
Jacob shall break his clods."

12 Sow for yourselves righteousness;
Reap in mercy;
[o]Break up your fallow ground,
For it is time to seek the LORD,
Till He [p]comes and rains righteousness on you.

13 [q]You have plowed wickedness;
You have reaped iniquity.
You have eaten the fruit of lies,
Because you trusted in your own way,
In the multitude of your mighty men.
14 Therefore tumult shall arise among your people,
And all your fortresses shall be plundered
As Shalman plundered Beth Arbel in the day of battle—
A mother dashed in pieces upon her children.
15 Thus it shall be done to you, O Bethel,
Because of your great wickedness.
At dawn the king of Israel
Shall be cut off utterly.

God's Continuing Love for Israel

11 "When Israel was a [1]child, I loved him,
And out of Egypt [a]I called My [b]son.
2 [2]As they called them,
So they [c]went [3]from them;
They sacrificed to the Baals,
And burned incense to carved images.

CHAPTER 11

1 [a]Matt. 2:15 [b]Ex. 4:22, 23 [1]Or youth

2 [c]2 Kin. 17:13–15 [2]So with MT, Vg.; LXX Just as I called them; Tg. interprets as I sent prophets to a thousand of them. [3]So with MT, Tg., Vg.; LXX from My face trained heifer . . . loves to thresh. A positive image of Israel's original calling as a teachable, unmuzzled animal threshing the harvested grain and free to eat as it worked (cf. 11:4; Deut. 25:4; Prov. 12:10; Jer. 50:11). Jesus also offers an easy yoke to His disciples (Matt. 11:28–30).

fair neck. That is, a strong neck capable of arduous work. Israel had not fulfilled the Lord's expectations. The easy yoke of covenant blessings would be replaced by the hard yoke of covenant curses in order to teach them obedience.

■ 10:12 mercy. See note on Ex. 15:13. Sowing that which is right and good brings a harvest of blessing from the Lord.

Break up your fallow ground. When virgin and fallow ground is plowed, it produces a particularly abundant harvest.

rains righteousness. God must give the harvest (1 Cor. 3:6, 7).

■ 10:13 plowed wickedness. Instead of cultivating a fruitful relationship with God, Israel has planted, reaped, and eaten wickedness and dishonesty (8:7; Gal. 6:7–9).

Because you trusted in . . . your mighty men. The punishment God will bring (a military defeat) is directly related to Israel's sin of depending on its own military power and not on the Lord (Jer. 9:23, 24).

■ 10:14 Shalman plundered Beth Arbel. Hosea's audience must have remembered this now unknown event as particularly brutal. Shalman has been identified variously as Shalmaneser III of Assyria (859–824 B.C.), Shalmaneser V (727–722 B.C.), and Salamanu, a contemporary Moabite king. Beth Arbel is usually identified with the site of Irbid in Gilead.

■ 10:15 Bethel. Often ironically called "Beth Aven" by Hosea (4:15 note; 5:8; 10:5).

At dawn. The time for battle to begin.

■ 11:1–11 In language even more tender than the story of the prodigal son (Luke 15:11–32), God, the loving parent, proclaims His compassion for Israel. In spite of rebellion, God's election cannot be defeated. Beyond judgment there is hope.

■ 11:1 loved. The language of love is used to describe both the father-son relationship and the covenantal relationship between a suzerain and vassal in ancient Near-Eastern treaties (Deut. 6:5; 7:8, 13; 10:15; 23:5).

out of Egypt I called My son. Here and in v. 4 reference is made to God's deliverance of Israel from slavery in Egypt (Ex. 4:22). Jesus, as the true Israel, was also brought out of Egypt in accordance with this prophecy (Matt. 2:15).

■ 11:2 they called . . . from them. See text notes. The Hebrew of this verse is difficult to translate. The meaning may be that the pagans or their gods, the Baals, tempted Israel, causing the nation to depart from the Lord. Alternatively, those who called may be the prophets, whose messages were ignored as Israel went after other gods.

■ 11:3 I taught Ephraim to walk. Probably a reference to God's tender leading of Israel through the wilderness to the Promised Land.

I healed them. God spared Israel from harm during the formative wilderness period (Ex. 15:26).

But they did not know that [e]I healed them.
4 I drew them with [5]gentle cords,
With bands of love,
And [f]I was to them as those who take the yoke from their [6]neck.
[g]I stooped and fed them.

5 "He shall not return to the land of Egypt;
But the Assyrian shall be his king,
Because they refused to repent.
6 And the sword shall slash in his cities,
Devour his districts,
And consume them,
Because of their own counsels.
7 My people are bent on [h]backsliding from Me.
Though [7]they call [8]to the Most High,
None at all exalt Him.

8 "How[i] can I give you up, Ephraim?
How can I hand you over, Israel?
How can I make you like[j] Admah?
How can I set you like Zeboiim?
My heart [9]churns within Me;
My sympathy is stirred.
9 I will not execute the fierceness of My anger;
I will not again destroy Ephraim.
[k]For I am God, and not man,
The Holy One in your midst;
And I will not [l]come with terror.

10 "They shall walk after the LORD.
[l]He will roar like a lion.
When He roars,
Then His sons shall come trembling from the west;
11 They shall come trembling like a bird from Egypt,
[m]Like a dove from the land of Assyria.
[n]And I will let them dwell in their houses,"
Says the LORD.

■ 11:4 cords . . . bands . . . yoke . . . fed. The imagery apparently returns to Israel as a work animal (10:11), but here God pampers the creature.

■ 11:5 He shall not . . . Egypt. The Hebrew word for "not" here seems to indicate that Israel will not return to Egypt (symbolic for bondage, 8:13 note), but such a reading appears to conflict with 8:13; 9:3; and 11:11. Some render this phrase as a rhetorical question ("shall he not return?"), while others emend the Hebrew word for "not" to mean "to it." Another reading, however, is indicated by the context of divine mercy in this passage (vv. 4, 8). Israel shall not return to Egypt (i.e., to her status before God called her as His covenant people, Deut. 4:34), but she will be punished for her sins by Assyria.

Egypt . . . Assyrian. See notes on 8:13; 9:3. Though deserved, the effect of this judgment is tempered in v. 11.

■ 11:6 his cities. With fortified cities they were self-reliant (8:14).

districts. Some suggest that this difficult Hebrew word refers to people, specifically to false prophets who supplied the military counsel mentioned later in the verse.

■ 11:8 How can I give you up. God now speaks directly to Israel. The contrast with vv. 5–7 heightens the impact of this deeply personal declaration of relentless compassion.

Admah . . . Zeboiim. These two cities on the plain near the southern end of the Dead Sea (Gen. 10:19; 14:2, 8) were destroyed along with Sodom and Gomorrah (Gen. 19:23–25), thus becoming examples of God's wrath (Deut. 29:23; Jer. 49:18).

■ 11:9 Holy One. Holiness denotes God's difference from humans. Men seek revenge, but God works salvation.

■ 11:10 They shall walk after the LORD. Restoration, not destruction, is the goal of God's judgment of His covenant people.

■ 11:11 God compassionately tempers the effect of the judgment pronounced in v. 5.

from Egypt . . . Assyria. Again Egypt and Assyria are paired to symbolize the judgment of God's people through exile (8:13 note; 9:3; 11:5).

■ 11:12—12:14 This section accuses Israel of betrayal and pronounces judgment. Recurrent themes are the past treachery of Israel (artistically linked with episodes from the life of Jacob) and the rejection of the word of the Lord as spoken by the prophets.

But Judah still walks with God,
Even with the [2]Holy One who is faithful.

12 "Ephraim [a]feeds on the wind,
And pursues the east wind;
He daily increases lies and [1]desolation.
[b]Also they make a [2]covenant with the Assyrians,
And [c]oil is carried to Egypt.

2 "The[d] LORD also brings a [3]charge against Judah,
And will punish Jacob according to his ways;
According to his deeds He will recompense him.
3 He took his brother [e]by the heel in the womb,
And in his strength he [f]struggled with God.
4 Yes, he struggled with the Angel and prevailed;
He wept, and sought favor from Him.
He found Him in [g]Bethel,
And there He spoke to us—
5 That is, the LORD God of hosts.
The LORD is His [h]memorable name.
6 [i]So you, by the help of your God, return;
Observe mercy and justice,
And wait on your God continually.

7 "A cunning [4]Canaanite!
[j]Deceitful scales are in his hand;
He loves to oppress.
8 And Ephraim said,
[k]'Surely I have become rich,
I have found wealth for myself;
In all my labors
They shall find in me no iniquity that is sin.'

■ 11:12 encircled. The northern kingdom has God under siege.

Judah still walks with God. The Hebrew is difficult to translate. As rendered here, Judah is viewed positively and contrasted with Ephraim (i.e., Israel). But some translate the phrase to speak of Judah as "unruly against God," and thus like Ephraim.

■ 12:1 feeds on. See Prov. 15:14; Is. 44:20.

wind . . . east wind. These images of futility (Job 15:2; Eccl. 1:14) and destruction (13:15; Jer. 18:17) are applied to Israel's alliances with Assyria (5:13; 7:11; 8:9; 14:3; 2 Kin. 17:3) and Egypt (7:16 note; 2 Kin. 17:4). Such alliances were not merely poor foreign policy, but expressions of faithlessness against the Lord.

lies. Examples of deception included Israel's vacillation between Assyria and Egypt (7:11), and playing off the latter against the former (2 Kin. 17:3, 4).

oil. Gifts were often given when making covenants.

■ 12:2 charge. See text note. As in 4:1, the Lord acts as plaintiff, judge, and prosecutor in a court scene, bringing a covenant lawsuit against His people. He calls for punishment (v. 2) but also reconciliation (v. 6).

Jacob. That is, Israel (10:11; cf. Gen. 32:28).

■ 12:3 took. The Hebrew here is the root for "Jacob" (Gen. 25:26) and is translated "supplanted" in Gen. 27:36.

■ 12:4 struggled with the Angel. The Hebrew root for "struggled" is given as the source of the name "Israel" in Gen. 32:28. In tenaciously seeking God's blessing, Jacob set a positive example for the nation (v. 6).

Bethel. The place where God made Himself known to Jacob (Gen. 28:12–19; 35:1–15). See note on 4:15.

■ 12:5 LORD God of hosts. A doxology, similar to those in Amos (Amos 4:13; 5:8, 9; 9:5, 6), here reminds Israel that the covenant God of the patriarchs (the LORD) is the God of hosts, the commander of Israel's armies, and sovereign over all creation (Zech. 1:3 note).

■ 12:6 return. Like Jacob, who returned to Bethel to fulfill his vow (Gen. 35:1–15), Israel must return to the Lord.

■ 12:7 Canaanite. This Hebrew word also means "merchant" (text note), so well known were the Canaanites for trading. The merchant Ephraim was not merely dishonest, but pagan.

■ 12:9 I am the LORD your God . . . Egypt. The statement is one of self-presentation; it introduces an expression of the divine will to the covenant people (Ex. 20:2; Deut. 5:6).

tents . . . appointed feast. A reference to the Feast of Tabernacles, when the people lived in booths in memory of Israel's time in the wilderness after leaving Egypt (Lev. 23:43). Just as Israel was judged with forty years of desert wandering (Num. 14:33), so here Israel is threatened with the "wilderness" of exile from the land.

Idols of their silver, according to their skill;
All of it is the work of craftsmen.
They say of them,
"Let [1]the men who sacrifice [2]kiss the calves!"

And like the early dew that passes away,

And like smoke from a chimney.

■ 12:11 Gilead. This region east of the Jordan, bordered by Moab on the south and Bashan on the north, was a place of illegal sacrifices, bloodshed, and idolatry. It was conquered by Assyria in 734–732 B.C. (2 Kin. 15:29; Hos. 6:8).

served . . . tended. Hosea compares Jacob's service to secure a wife from a foreign country with God's rescue of His people from Egypt. The same Hebrew word lies behind "tended" in v. 12 and "preserved" in v. 13.

■ 12:13 prophet . . . prophet. The first prophet is clearly Moses (Deut. 18:15; 34:10–12) and the second probably is as well. The preserving prophet could, however, be a later prophet such as Samuel (Jer. 15:1) or Elijah (1 Kin. 19:9–18).

■ 12:14 Ephraim provoked. Again God's covenant faithfulness (v. 13) is contrasted with Israel's faithlessness. The Lord had been provoked by the worship of pagan gods (Deut. 32:21), but here even more offenses seem involved.

bloodshed. This is a reference either to murder itself (4:2; 5:2; 6:8) or, as in ancient legal texts, to any capital crime. The verse concludes the lawsuit, and is parallel in structure to v. 2, which introduces the section. Covenant election entails covenant responsibility.

■ 13:1 This begins an announcement of judgment for sins past (v. 1) and present (v. 2).

he died. Because of its idolatry, the northern kingdom (Ephraim) could be regarded as dead in trespasses and sins (cf. Eph. 2:1).

■ 13:2 molded images . . . idols . . . calves. The collective picture is of small statues of calves molded of bronze and overlaid with silver (Ex. 32:4, 8; 34:17; Lev. 19:4; Deut. 19:16). The calf idol was Canaanite and linked with Baal worship, but the idolaters probably also associated it in their own minds with the Lord (8:5, 6; 10:5 and notes).

kiss. See text note. This was an act of devotion, adoration, or appeasement (1 Kin. 19:18).

■ 13:3 cloud . . . dew. See 6:4.

■ 13:4 See note on 12:9.

you shall know no God but Me. This stands in contrast with the idolatry of v. 2. The statement, reminding Israel that the covenant relationship is exclusive, is cast in the language of the first commandment (Ex. 20:2, 3; Deut. 5:6, 7), but with the added idea of "knowing" God. Other so-called gods were worshiped, but only the one true God could be "known." See Introduction: Characteristics and Themes. Further linkage to the covenant requirements of the Decalogue is evident in the description of Israel's idolatry (vv. 1, 2), a clear violation of the second commandment (Ex. 20:4–6; Deut. 5:8–10).

wilderness. During the difficult wilderness wanderings God knew and was preparing His people. Similarly, God will use the "wilderness" of exile to reclaim Israel (2:14–16).

forgot. This pitiful climax stands in sharp contrast to the former days of knowledge (vv. 4, 5 and notes; cf. Deut. 8:11–20).

■ 13:7–9 This startling comparison of God to ferocious wild beasts that devour the flock echoes the covenant curses for disobedience (Lev. 26:21, 22; Deut. 32:24; Ezek. 14:21). These images depict the severity of divine judgment (5:14; Prov. 17:12; Jer. 5:6).

■ 13:9 your help. Israel's destruction is explained here in terms of the nation's rebellion against its Helper. There is no help like God (Ex. 18:4; Deut. 33:26–29; Ps. 10:14; 54:4; 115:9–11; 121:2–8; 146:5). To oppose Him is to invite destruction.

■ 13:10 Give me a king. On Israel's request for a monarchy, see 1 Sam. 8. Asking for a king meant that they had rejected God as King (1 Sam. 13:9, 10). Their sense of security in having a king was a delusion.

■ 13:11 gave . . . took. Though describing past action, the Hebrew verb tense suggests an ongoing process of giving and taking. The king is not specified. Perhaps this is a reference to the royal assassinations of Hosea's time (3:4; 7:7; 8:4; 10:3; cf. 2 Kin. 15:8–31; 17:1–6), to an early king such as Saul (who was alive when kingship was first requested), or even to all of the kings of the north (all twenty of whom "did evil in the sight of the LORD").

■ 13:12 Lest they be diminished or forgotten, transgressions are figuratively tied up and then stored in a safe place for future retribution (7:2; 9:9; Deut. 32:34, 35; Job 14:17).

Ephraim. See note on 4:17.

■ 13:13 The predicament of Israel facing certain judgment is vividly compared to that of a mother and child during an unsuccessful birth (cf. 2 Kin. 19:3). This complex word picture compares Israel both to the mother (who faces sorrow and certain death) and to the child (who stubbornly refuses to be safely delivered).

an unwise son. Israel is depicted as a fetus that fails to position itself properly in the womb for delivery. This surprising figure relates to the theme of failure to acknowledge God (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes).

■ 13:14 I will . . . I will. See text notes. For some interpreters, the context of judgment in vv. 12 and 15 indicates that these two lines should be rendered as rhetorical questions ("Shall I ransom . . . Shall I redeem"), with the implied answer "No." On this reading, the following two clauses ("O Death . . . O Grave") then summon the weapons of death to destroy Israel. However, it is better to regard the verse as anticipating the positive spirit of 14:4–7. As such, this verse is one of the great Old Testament affirmations of God's power over the last enemy, death (cf. 1 Cor. 15:55). Whereas the old Israel of Hosea's time did not avail itself of the divine power over death, the true spiritual Israel (Christ with His church) experiences it. Final triumph over God's last enemy is assured by the death of Christ and His resurrection from the grave.

Israel Restored at Last

14 O Israel, [a]return to the LORD your God,
For you have stumbled because of your iniquity;
2 Take words with you,
And return to the LORD.
Say to Him,
"Take away all iniquity;
Receive us graciously,
For we will offer the [b]sacrifices[1] of our lips.
3 Assyria shall [c]not save us,
[d]We will not ride on horses,
Nor will we say anymore to the work of our hands, 'You are our gods.'

I will [g]love them freely,
For My anger has turned away from him.

And [3]lengthen his roots like Lebanon.

Pity is hidden from My eyes. The Hebrew for "pity" can have the sense of "repentance" or "regret." God will not "repent" (i.e., change His mind) of His intention to vanquish death for His people.

■ 13:15 Though he is fruitful. This is Ephraim, whose name is from the same Hebrew root as "fruitful" (9:16 note).

■ 14:2 Take words. Words of confession accompanied by obedience please God, not half-hearted sacrifices (5:6; 6:6; 8:11–13). A precise wording for confession is suggested in vv. 2, 3.

the sacrifices of our lips. Or, "fruit of our lips" (text note). The Hebrew words for "bull calves" (here rendered "sacrifices") and "fruit" are similar. See Prov. 12:14; 13:2; Heb. 13:15.

■ 14:3 Assyria . . . horses . . . gods. Israel was to give up trusting in foreign political powers (5:13; 7:11; 12:1), in her own military strength (10:13; cf. Ps. 33:16, 17), and in idolatrous and syncretistic religion (2:8, 13; 3:1; 4:12; 8:5, 6; 10:5, 6; 13:2).

fatherless finds mercy. This alludes to the earlier theme of loss and restoration of love illustrated by Hosea's marriage and his daughter, Lo-Ruhamah (1:6; 2:2–4, 14–23). See Introduction: Characteristics and Themes.

■ 14:4 I will heal. The promise of healing began to be realized when Israel returned from its sixth-century exile in Babylon. It finds much greater fulfillment in Jesus Christ and His church, and is consummated at His Second Coming.

backsliding. Israel's characteristic unfaithfulness (4:10–12; 5:4; 7:4; 11:7) will be healed by the great Healer, whose anger is now turned away.

love them freely. In this love song, we hear again the deep affection of God for His elect. This undeserved love is what the New Testament calls grace (Rom. 5:15; Eph. 2:5, 8).

■ 14:5–7 In this section, resplendent with the language of love, colorful metaphors drawn from plant life—a blossoming lily (Song 2:1, 16), a deeply rooted, sprouting and fragrant cedar of Lebanon (Ps. 92:12; 104:16), a splendid olive tree (Ps. 52:8; Jer. 11:16), a shade tree (Song 2:3; Ezek. 17:22, 23), flourishing grain (2:8, 22), a flowering vine (10:1; Is. 5:1–7) and the fruit of the vine—depict a vigorous, renowned, stable, and prosperous Israel flourishing under God, who is likened to the life-giving dew (Deut. 33:13).

■ 14:8 green cypress tree. Like a tree renowned as a symbol of life (cf. Gen. 3:22; Rev. 22:2), God will give fruit to fruitless Ephraim (9:16 note).

■ 14:9 Who is wise. This epilogue challenges every generation to consider carefully the ways of the Lord that are presented in the book (cf. Ps. 1; 18:21; Prov. 10:29). The choices that Israel faced are also set before the reader: wisdom or folly; discipleship or rebellion; life or death. The wise will "choose life" (Deut. 30:19, 20).

The Book of

JOEL

Author The prophet Joel is identified only as "Joel the son of Pethuel" (1:1). Joel's keen interest in Jerusalem, particularly in the temple and its functionaries (e.g., 1:9, 13, 14; 2:14–17, 32; 3:1, 6, 16, 17), suggests that he lived in Jerusalem and ministered as a temple prophet. Although he does not appear to have been a priest (1:9, 13; 2:17), Joel prayed on the people's behalf (1:19, 20).

Date and Occasion Since the Book of Joel contains no clear indications of when it was written, it is difficult to date the work. The book's vocabulary, linguistic parallels to other prophetic books, historical allusions, location in the canon, and other clues have been used in effort to date the work. Some scholars date the book in the ninth century B.C., and others to the period just prior to the Jewish exile in Babylon during the sixth century B.C. But most scholars now prefer a date following this exile, some suggesting the early postexilic period (c. 520–500 B.C.), and others proposing a later date in the fifth or even the fourth century B.C. A date after the exile seems most convincing, although there is good reason to conclude with Calvin that the date of the book simply cannot be known with certainty.

Characteristics and Themes The unity of Joel was challenged by biblical critics of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. These critics thought that the section describing events of the author's time (1:1—2:17) and the section dealing with future occurrences (2:18—3:21) were written by different authors. Today, however, most scholars accept the book's essential unity. Such features as the repeated theme of the "day of the LORD" (1:15; 2:1, 2, 11, 31; 3:14) and other identical or closely similar phrases shared by both sections (2:2 and 2:31; 2:10–11 and 3:16; 2:10 and 3:15; 2:11 and 31; 2:17 and 3:2; 2:27 and 3:17) point to the book's unity.

Interpreters throughout the ages have been faced with the question of whether to interpret the locusts in the Book of Joel literally or figuratively. Historically, the majority of interpreters have understood the locusts as symbols of future enemies (e.g., one manuscript of the Septuagint [Greek Old Testament] understood the four kinds of locusts to symbolize the Egyptians, Assyrians, Greeks, and Romans). But present-day interpreters see these creatures, at least in ch. 1, as actual locusts. Joel indeed moves quickly from an accurate description of a real devastation by locusts in ch. 1 to a description of the dreadful locust-like army of the Lord that blends the literal and figurative in ch. 2. It seems then that the destruction by locusts that Joel had seen became the vehicle for his prophecy proclaiming the need to repent in view of the coming day of the Lord.

The central message of the Book of Joel concerns the coming day of the Lord. Joel introduces that day in the context of the then-present destruction of the land's vegetation, a destruction that was a sign of judgment against the covenant community. Only their return to God would avert the imminent day of the Lord that would "come as destruction from the Almighty" (1:15). In this first instance then, Joel, like Amos (Amos 5:18–20; cf. Zeph. 1:7–13), declares that the day of the Lord is a day of judgment against God's own people. Similarly, in ch. 2 the day of the Lord is described as a "great and very terrible" day (2:11), "a day of darkness and gloominess, a day of clouds and darkness" (2:2) in which the Lord leads His army against Israel. However, in the second part of the book, Joel introduces a second prophetic tradition about the day of the Lord, namely, that the day of the Lord is a day of judgment against the enemies of His people, whom He will protect and bless (Ezek. 25—32; Jer. 46—51; Is. 13). On the day of the Lord, the nations will be accountable for their crimes against the Lord's people and will be judged accordingly (3:2–16, 19). But the people of the Lord's inheritance will enjoy His protection and be spiritually and physically blessed (2:28–32; 3:16–18, 20, 21).

Repentance is a key theme in Joel's prophetic message. The call to repentance is given not merely to a select number of the covenant community, but rather to all the Lord's people who are called to return to Him: young and old, men and women, leaders and followers, and even those who might otherwise be exempted from community responsibilities (nursing mothers and newlyweds, 1:13, 14; 2:15–17). The return to God that Joel calls for involves the whole person. Such repentance is to be manifested externally through such actions as mourning, weeping, crying out to the Lord, and fasting (1:13, 14; 2:15–17). But merely external or ritual manifestations of repentance are not adequate, and the Lord calls the people to show the sincerity of their repentance by returning to the Lord their God "with all your heart" (2:12, 13). Joel also reminds God's people that motivation for repentance lies firmly in the nature of God: "He is gracious and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness" (2:13). Joel stresses that the hope of restoration lies ultimately in God, who exercises His sovereign freedom and grace in granting repentance and forgiveness to the people.

The Book of Joel has had an important place in the life of the church. The New Testament indicates that Jesus and His followers were familiar with the writings of Joel. The book's influence is most evident in the New Testament passages that speak of the end times. They use Joel's vivid images to describe the day of the Lord and the plague of locusts (e.g., Mark 13:24; Luke 21:25; Rev. 6:9; 9:2). Also important are the promises in Joel 2:28–32, which Peter quotes at Pentecost, claiming they have reached their fulfillment in the event of Pentecost (Acts 2:16–21). Paul in Rom. 10:13 also refers to the prophecy; he uses Joel 2:32 to show that "there is no distinction between Jew and Greek." Salvation is offered to all peoples. As Joel had said: "whoever calls on the name of the LORD shall be saved" (2:32).

The church has continued to find the teaching in the Book of Joel on the day of the Lord to be an important source of hope and comfort on the one hand, and a word of warning on the other. In times of distress and trouble, Christians have found the promises about the ultimate blessing, protection, and vindication of the Lord's covenant community to be consoling and inspiring. At the same time, Joel's graphic depiction of the dreadful aspects of the day of the Lord has served as a reminder of God's holiness and judgment and as a continuing call to wholehearted repentance and holiness of life. □

    1. Judgment of the Nations (3:1–15)
    2. Blessing on God's People (3:16–21)

THE word of the LORD that came to [a]Joel the son of Pethuel.

CHAPTER 1

1 [a]Acts 2:16

2 [b]Jer. 30:7; Joel 2:2

3 [c]Ex. 10:2; Ps. 78:4; Is. 38:19

The Land Laid Waste

2 Hear this, you elders,
And give ear, all you inhabitants of the land!
[b]Has anything like this happened in your days,
Or even in the days of your fathers?
3 [c]Tell your children about it,
Let your children tell their children,
And their children another generation.

■ 1:1 The word of the LORD. This short and simple title announces that what follows is the Lord's word, and compares most closely with Jon. 1:1. Compare with the more extended titles in Jer. 1:2; Ezek. 1:3; Hos. 1:1; Mic. 1:1; Zeph. 1:1; Hag. 1:1; Zech. 1:1; Mal. 1:1.

Joel. His name means "the LORD is God."

Pethuel. The only occurrence of this name in the Bible.

■ 1:2—2:17 Two crises confront Judah with the consequences of their sins: (a) the recent devastation of the land by locust (1:4–8) and drought (1:10–12, 16–20); and (b) the imminent assault on the land by the army of the Lord (2:1–17). If the people would be delivered from these calamities, they must repent of their sins and return to the Lord.

■ 1:2–20 Joel appeals to elders (v. 2), drunkards (v. 5), farmers (v. 11), and priests (v. 13) to ponder the meaning of the recent locust plague and drought, and to repent.

■ 1:2 Hear . . . give ear. This series of commands calls the people to recognize the personal and spiritual significance of the locust invasion. The repetition of thought in the first and second lines and in the third and fourth lines illustrates the parallelism typical of Hebrew poetry.

elders. This term designates the community and religious leaders. The same term used in 2:28 seems to refer to age, hence the translation "old men."

all you inhabitants of the land. The entire population of Judah and Jerusalem is called to listen.

■ 1:3 Tell . . . children . . . another generation. God's judgments, as well as His mercies, are to be passed on to future generations (cf. Deut. 4:9; 6:7; 32:7; Ps. 78:1–8).

4 [d]Deut. 28:38; Joel 2:25; Amos 4:9 [e]Is. 33:4 [f]Exact identity of these locusts unknown

4 [d]What the chewing [f]locust left, the [e]swarming locust has eaten;
What the swarming locust left, the crawling locust has eaten;
And what the crawling locust left, the consuming locust has eaten.

5 [f]Is. 5:11; 28:1; Hos. 7:5 [g]Is. 32:10

5 Awake, you [f]drunkards, and weep;
And wail, all you drinkers of wine,
Because of the new wine,
[g]For it has been cut off from your mouth.

■ 1:4 locust. The poetic repetitions in every line emphasize the thoroughness of the locusts' destruction. The variety in the names of the locusts may refer to their different stages of development, although color differences or differences in type and regional origin may be reflected here and in 2:25. When locusts were understood as an instrument of divine punishment, repentance was the appropriate response (Deut. 28:38; Amos 7:1; Is. 33:4).

■ 1:5 Awake . . . weep. The first call to respond is given to the drunkards. These represent the attitude of many who are oblivious to things that have spiritual significance. Only the alert are able to respond rightly to God's judgment.

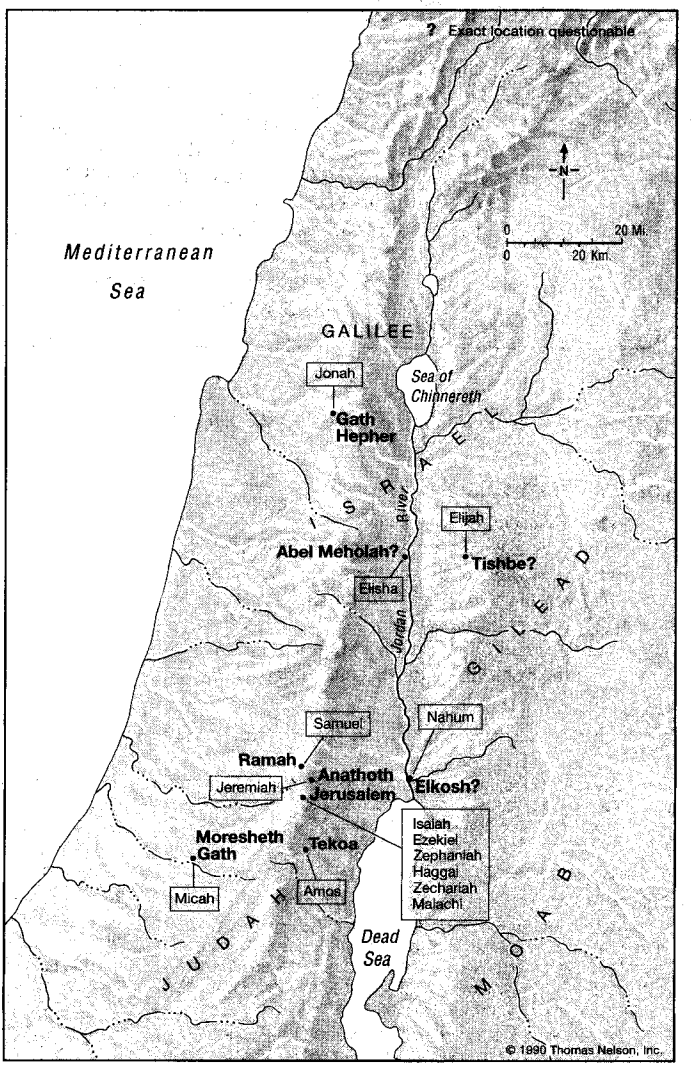
The Prophets of Israel and Judah. During the early monarchy Elijah and Elisha had homes in the northern kingdom. Samuel's hometown of Ramah was the base of his yearly circuit as prophet and judge.

Among the writing prophets, only Hosea and Jonah were from the North. Hosea's home location is unknown. Jonah was from Gath Hepher, but his ministry extended beyond his home to the foreign city Nineveh.

Some prophets had homes in the South but prophesied to the North. Amos from Tekoa preached against the northern kingdom's worship at Bethel. Micah's message addressed Israel as well as Judah.

The messages of Isaiah, Jeremiah, Zephaniah, Ezekiel, Haggai, Zechariah, and Malachi span a long time period, but all concern either Jerusalem's destruction, fall, or later rebuilding.

Geographical information is lacking for Joel, Obadiah, and Habakkuk. All that is known about Nahum is the location of his home in Elkosh.



6 For [h]a nation has come up against My land,
Strong, and without number;
[i]His teeth are the teeth of a lion,
And he has the fangs of a [2]fierce lion.
7 He has [j]laid waste My vine,
And [3]ruined My fig tree;
He has stripped it bare and thrown it away;
Its branches are made white.

8 [k]Lament like a virgin girded with sackcloth
For [l]the husband of her youth.
9 [m]The grain offering and the drink offering
Have been cut off from the house of the LORD;
The priests [n]mourn, who minister to the LORD.
10 The field is wasted,
[o]The land mourns;
For the grain is ruined,
[p]The new wine is dried up,
The oil fails.

11 [q]Be ashamed, you farmers,
Wail, you vinedressers,
For the wheat and the barley;
Because the harvest of the field has perished.
12 [r]The vine has dried up,
And the fig tree has withered;
The pomegranate tree,
The palm tree also,
And the apple tree—
All the trees of the field are withered;
Surely [s]joy has withered away from the sons of men.

Mourning for the Land

13 [t]Gird yourselves and lament, you priests;
Wail, you who minister before the altar;
Come, lie all night in sackcloth,
You who minister to my God;
For the grain offering and the drink offering
Are withheld from the house of your God.
14 [u]Consecrate a fast,
Call [v]a sacred assembly;
Gather the elders

6 [h]Prov. 30:25; Joel 2:2, 11, 25 [i]Rev. 9:8 [2]Or lioness
7 [j]Is. 5:6; Amos 4:9 [3]Or splintered
8 [k]Is. 22:12 [l]Prov. 2:17; Jer. 3:4
9 [m]Hos. 9:4; Joel 1:13; 2:14 [n]Joel 2:17
10 [o]Jer. 12:11; Hos. 3:4 [p]Is. 24:7
11 [q]Jer. 14:3, 4; Amos 5:16
12 [r]Joel 1:10; Hab. 3:17 [s]Is. 16:10; 24:11; Jer. 48:33
13 [t]Jer. 4:8; Ezek. 7:18
14 [u]2 Chr. 20:3; Joel 2:15, 16 [v]Lev. 23:36

■ 1:6 My land. Personal pronouns are used throughout the book and point to the covenant relationship that binds the Lord, not only to the land and its vines and fig trees, but also to His people (1:7; 2:13, 14, 17, 18, 23, 26, 27; 3:2, 3, 17).

Strong . . . lion. The locusts are compared to an invading nation that has the consuming passion of a lion (cf. 2:4–9; Rev. 9:7–9). Locusts and armies were often compared in ancient times. Mythical literature from the ancient city of Ugarit likens a large army to locusts (cf. Judg. 6:5; Prov. 30:27; Jer. 51:14, 27; Nah. 3:15–17).

■ 1:7 vine . . . fig tree. The locusts' teeth effectively stripped the most valuable trees of the Lord's land.

■ 1:8 Lament. The mourning is to be like that of a young woman who has lost her beloved before marriage.

sackcloth. This coarsely woven material was often made of goat's hair and worn during times of mourning. See v. 13; Gen. 37:34; 2 Sam. 3:31; 1 Kin. 21:27; Is. 32:11, 12.

■ 1:9 grain offering . . . drink offering. These offerings, which were to be offered twice daily (Ex. 29:38–42; Lev. 2:1, 2; 23:13), were lacking because the crops were destroyed.

■ 1:10 grain . . . new wine . . . oil. The ingredients needed for the daily offerings traditionally appear in this order (2:19; Hos. 2:8).

dried up. Drought accompanied the locust invasion.

■ 1:12 vine . . . fig . . . pomegranate . . . palm . . . apple. Five kinds of trees are noted, leading up to the climactic statement that all the trees of the field are dried up.

joy has withered. In an agricultural economy, human joy withers along with the vegetation.

■ 1:13 lament . . . sackcloth. The priests are given precise instructions about how to respond personally to God's judgment.

■ 1:14 Consecrate a fast. The priests are also to provide leadership in the community by proclaiming a public fast so that the entire nation could stop all regular activities for a time (probably for a day, Judg. 20:26; 1 Sam. 14:24; Jer. 36:6–9) to acknowledge God's judgment and to repent.

And [w]all the inhabitants of the land
Into the house of the LORD your God,
And cry out to the LORD.

15 [x]Alas for the day!
For [y]the day of the LORD is at hand;
It shall come as destruction from the Almighty.
16 Is not the food [z]cut off before our eyes,
[a]Joy and gladness from the house of our God?
17 The seed shrivels under the clods,
Storehouses are in shambles;
Barns are broken down,
For the grain has withered.
18 How [b]the animals groan!
The herds of cattle are restless,
Because they have no pasture;
Even the flocks of sheep [4]suffer punishment.

19 O LORD, [c]to You I cry out;
For [d]fire has devoured the [5]open pastures,
And a flame has burned all the trees of the field.
20 The beasts of the field also [e]cry out to You,
For [f]the water brooks are dried up,
And fire has devoured the [6]open pastures.

The Day of the LORD

2 Blow [a]the [f]trumpet in Zion,
And [b]sound an alarm in My holy mountain!
Let all the inhabitants of the land tremble;
For [c]the day of the LORD is coming,
For it is at hand:
2 [d]A day of darkness and gloominess,
A day of clouds and thick darkness,
Like the morning clouds spread over the mountains.
[e]A people come, great and strong,
[f]The like of whom has never been;
Nor will there ever be any such after them,
Even for many successive generations.

3 A fire devours before them,
And behind them a flame burns;

CHAPTER 2

1 [a]Jer. 4:5; Joel 2:15; Zeph. 1:16 [b]Num. 10:5 [c]Joel 1:15; 2:11, 31; 3:14; [Obad. 15]; Zeph. 1:14 [f]ram's horn

2 [d]Joel 2:10, 31; Amos 5:18; Zeph. 1:15 [e]Joel 1:6; 2:11, 25 [f]Ex. 10:14; Lam. 1:12; Dan. 9:12; 12:1; Joel 1:2

■ 1:15 the day of the LORD. A thematic phrase in Joel (1:15; 2:1, 11, 31; 3:14) and in other Old Testament prophetic books (Is. 13:6, 9; Ezek. 13:5; Amos 5:18, 20; Obad. 15; Zeph. 1:7, 14; Mal. 4:5). Here (and in 2:1, 11) it refers to a day of the Lord's wrath against Israel, though later in the book it refers to the Lord's wrath against the nations and blessing of the Lord's people (2:31; 3:14). The magnitude of the devastation points to an even more ominous day of judgment.

destruction from the Almighty. This phrase could be translated "might from the Almighty," capturing the sense of the Hebrew wordplay shod ("destruction") from shaddai ("the Almighty"; Is. 13:6).

■ 1:16–18 Joel reinforces his point about the nearness of the day of the Lord by reminding his audience again of God's judgment, the signs of which could be seen in the drought conditions all around them.

■ 1:19 to You I cry out. The prophet himself begins the lamentation. The devastation is from the Lord, and He is the source of restoration.

■ 1:20 beasts of the field. Even the animals join Joel in his cry (Job 38:41; Ps. 104:21; 147:9).

fire has devoured. Divine judgment is often depicted as fire (Deut. 32:22; Ps. 50:3; 97:3). The metaphor describes the effects of drought (cf. 2:3, where the "fire" of locust devastation is depicted).

■ 2:1–17 Joel urges "all the inhabitants of the land" (v. 1) to prepare for an imminent assault by the army of the Lord. A contrite heart among the people may bring God's compassion and blessing (v. 14).

■ 2:1 the trumpet. The ram's horn (Hebrew shophar) was used in warfare and to signal danger. All trembled at the trumpet blast signaling the coming of the day of the Lord (Amos 3:6; Zeph. 1:14–16).

Zion . . . My holy mountain. Jerusalem.

■ 2:2 day of darkness and gloominess. This vivid word picture of the coming day of the Lord (cf. Zeph. 1:15; Amos 5:18, 20) corresponds to descriptions of the Lord's appearances in the past (Deut. 4:11; 5:22, 23; Ps. 97:2).

people . . . great and strong. Complex metaphors of an army and locust invasion combine to depict the judgment and devastation to occur (1:6 note).

■ 2:3 desolate wilderness. The invaders raze the land. The bold contrast between "the Garden of Eden" and this wilderness (Gen. 13:10; Is. 51:3; Ezek. 28:13–19; 31:8, 9, 16–18; 36:35) highlights the horror of the inescapable invasion.

The land is like [g]the Garden of Eden before them,
[h]And behind them a desolate wilderness;
Surely nothing shall escape them.
4 [i]Their appearance is like the appearance of horses;
And like [2]swift steeds, so they run.
5 [j]With a noise like chariots
Over mountaintops they leap,
Like the noise of a flaming fire that devours the stubble,
Like a strong people set in battle array.

6 Before them the people writhe in pain;
[k]All faces [3]are drained of color.
7 They run like mighty men,
They climb the wall like men of war;
Every one marches in formation,
And they do not break [1]ranks.
8 They do not push one another;
Every one marches in his own [4]column.
Though they lunge between the weapons,
They are not [5]cut down.
9 They run to and fro in the city,
They run on the wall;
They climb into the houses,
They [m]enter at the windows [n]like a thief.

10 [o]The earth quakes before them,
The heavens tremble;
[p]The sun and moon grow dark,
And the stars diminish their brightness.
11 [q]The LORD gives voice before His army,
For His camp is very great;
[r]For strong is the One who executes His word.
For the [s]day of the LORD is great and very terrible;
[t]Who can endure it?

A Call to Repentance

12 "Now, therefore," says the LORD,
[u]"Turn to Me with all your heart,
With fasting, with weeping, and with mourning."
13 So [v]rend your heart, and not [w]your garments;
Return to the LORD your God,
For He is [x]gracious and merciful,
Slow to anger, and of great kindness;
And He relents from doing harm.
14 [y]Who knows if He will turn and relent,
And leave [z]a blessing behind Him—
[a]A grain offering and a drink offering
For the LORD your God?

3 [g]Gen. 2:8; Is. 51:3; Ezek. 36:35 [h]Ex. 10:5, 15; Ps. 105:34, 35; Zech. 7:14

11 [q]Jer. 25:30; Joel 3:16; Amos 1:2 [r]Jer. 50:34; Rev. 18:8 [s]Jer. 30:7; Amos 5:18; Zeph. 1:15 [t][Mal. 3:2]

12 [u][Deut. 4:29]; Jer. 4:1; Ezek. 33:11; Hos. 12:6; 14:1

13 [v][Ps. 34:18; 51:17; Is. 57:15] [w]Gen. 37:34; 2 Sam. 1:11; Job 1:20; Jer. 41:5 [x][Ex. 34:6]

14 [y]Josh. 14:12; 2 Sam. 12:22; 2 Kin. 19:4; Jer. 26:3; Jon. 3:9 [z]Hag. 2:19 [a]Joel 1:9, 13

■ 2:5 Again the army of judgment is figuratively depicted as a locust invasion (1:6 note; cf. Rev. 9:1–11).

■ 2:7–9 The army is disciplined, ruthless, and successful. The "city" (v. 9) is finally overrun (cf. the Egyptian plague of locusts in Ex. 10:6).

■ 2:10 earth . . . stars. Such divine judgments are accompanied by a shaking and breakdown of the natural order. All creation is disturbed (v. 31; Jer. 4:23–26; Ezek. 32:7, 8; Nah. 1:5; Hab. 3:6, 10).

■ 2:11 His army. The relentless army is the Lord's. He commands and His forces obey. The day of the Lord is great (2:31; Zeph. 1:14), dreadful (Mal. 4:5), and unbearable (Mal. 3:2, Nah. 1:6).

■ 2:12 Turn to Me. The Lord invites His people to escape by returning to Him with the whole heart.

fasting . . . weeping . . . mourning. The visible signs of repentance (Ezra 10:1–6; Esth. 4:3; Jon. 3:5–9).

■ 2:13 not your garments. See "Legalism" at Matt. 23:4.

gracious . . . great kindness. The call to return to the Lord is based on the Lord's dramatic self-revelation of His character to Moses in Ex. 34:6, 7, a description frequently repeated throughout the Old Testament (e.g., Num. 14:18; Ps. 86:15; 103:8; 145:8; Neh. 9:17; Jon. 4:2).

■ 2:14 Who knows if He will turn and relent. God's sovereignty and freedom in forgiveness are seen in vv. 13, 14 (cf. Ex. 33:19; 2 Sam. 12:22; Lam. 3:29; Jon. 3:9; Zeph. 2:3). See note on Gen. 6:6.

15 [b]Blow the [6]trumpet in Zion.
[c]Consecrate a fast,
Call a sacred assembly;
16 Gather the people,
[d]Sanctify the congregation,
Assemble the elders,
Gather the children and nursing babes;
[e]Let the bridegroom go out from his chamber,
And the bride from her dressing room.
17 Let the priests, who minister to the LORD,
Weep [f]between the porch and the altar;
Let them say, [g]"Spare Your people, O LORD,
And do not give Your heritage to reproach,
That the nations should [7]rule over them.
[h]Why should they say among the peoples,
'Where is their God?' "

The Land Refreshed

18 Then the LORD will [i]be zealous for His land,
And pity His people.
19 The LORD will answer and say to His people,
"Behold, I will send you [j]grain and new wine and oil,
And you will be satisfied by them;
I will no longer make you a reproach among the nations.

20 "But [k]I will remove far from you [l]the northern army,
And will drive him away into a barren and desolate land,
With his face toward the eastern sea
And his back [m]toward the western sea;
His stench will come up,
And his foul odor will rise,
Because he has done [8]monstrous things."

21 Fear not, O land;
Be glad and rejoice,
For the LORD has done [9]marvelous things!
22 Do not be afraid, you beasts of the field;
For [n]the open pastures are springing up,
And the tree bears its fruit;
The fig tree and the vine yield their strength.
23 Be glad then, you children of Zion,
And [o]rejoice in the LORD your God;
For He has given you the [1]former rain faithfully,
And He [p]will cause the rain to come down for you—

■ 2:15, 16 Further instructions for returning to the Lord include a fast and an assembly (v. 15), a gathering and consecration of all the people, including the elders, children, nursing infants, and even those about to marry (v. 16). The staccato quality of the Hebrew poetry in these verses emphasizes the urgency of the situation.

■ 2:17 Specific instructions are also given to the priests who are to weep and offer prayers of intercession.

between the porch and the altar. This site in the temple was the usual place for priestly intercession (1 Kin. 8:22; Ezek. 8:16).

Your heritage. The priestly lament appeals to the Lord's sense of ownership and pride in His covenant people (Deut. 9:26, 29; Ps. 44:11–14; 74:2; 79:10; 115:2; Mic. 7:10).

■ 2:18—3:21 The Lord, the God of the covenant, promises to renew the land and His people, as they respond in repentance to the crises of 1:2—2:17. The redemptive renewal of God's people will someday lead to the final devastation of Zion's enemies and the final exaltation of Zion itself.

■ 2:18–27 Repentance will bring renewed fruitfulness to the land.

■ 2:18 Then. A change in subject, mood, and tense takes place at this point as the Lord promises restoration.

■ 2:19 The prayers of God's people will be answered.

■ 2:20 northern army. Some interpreters have understood this to be a reference to the locusts of ch.1. More likely it refers to a large and mighty army that becomes the Lord's instrument of judgment. Unlike most locust invasions (which came from the east or south), foreign military invasions often came from the north. Cf. the references to the enemy from the north in Jer. 1:14, 15; 4:6; 6:1, 22; Ezek. 38:6, 15; 39:2.

■ 2:21–24 Even the land and the wild animals are urged not to be afraid, and they are exhorted to be glad and rejoice with the people of Zion in the agricultural abundance from the Lord.

The former rain,
And the latter rain in the first month.
24 The threshing floors shall be full of wheat,
And the vats shall overflow with new wine and oil.

25 "So I will restore to you the years [q]that the swarming [2]locust has eaten,
The crawling locust,
The consuming locust,
And the chewing locust,
My great army which I sent among you.
26 You shall [r]eat in plenty and be satisfied,
And praise the name of the LORD your God,
Who has dealt wondrously with you;
And My people shall never be put to [s]shame.
27 Then you shall know that I am [t]in the midst of Israel:
[u]I am the LORD your God
And there is no other.
My people shall never be put to shame.

God's Spirit Poured Out

28 "And[v] it shall come to pass afterward
That [w]I will pour out My Spirit on all flesh;
[x]Your sons and your [y]daughters shall prophesy,
Your old men shall dream dreams,
Your young men shall see visions.
29 And also on My [z]menservants and on My maidservants
I will pour out My Spirit in those days.

30 "And [a]I will show wonders in the heavens and in the earth:
Blood and fire and pillars of smoke.
31 [b]The sun shall be turned into darkness,
And the moon into blood,
[c]Before the coming of the great and awesome day of the LORD.
32 And it shall come to pass
That [d]whoever calls on the name of the LORD
Shall be [3]saved.
For [e]in Mount Zion and in Jerusalem there shall be [4]deliverance,
As the LORD has said,
Among [f]the remnant whom the LORD calls.

CHAPTER 3

1 [a]Jer. 30:3; Ezek. 38:14

■ 2:25 See note on 1:4.

■ 2:26 Abundance should lead to praise (cf. Deut. 8:10; Hos. 13:5, 6).

■ 2:27 Restoration leads to a new realization that the Lord is in Israel, that He is the covenant God and there is no other.

■ 2:28–32 Joel prophesies concerning the unprecedented outpouring of God's Spirit that will occur before the coming of the day of the Lord.

■ 2:28, 29 Moses had earlier prayed that Israel as a whole would be a nation of prophets (Num. 11:29), and Joel also predicted this as part of Israel's glorious future. Peter proclaimed that the vision began to find fulfillment at Pentecost with the coming of the Holy Spirit (Acts 2:16–21), who empowers believers to bear witness to Jesus Christ (Acts 1:8). By introducing this prophecy with "the last days" (Acts 2:17), Peter links it with other prophecies regarding Israel's messianic future and so teaches that Pentecost inaugurates the promised new age (cf. 1 Pet. 1:10–12).

■ 2:28 afterward. Joel gives notice of more distant promises.

pour out. Though the word here refers primarily to the pouring out of liquids (Gen. 9:6; Ex. 4:9), it is also used of the Holy Spirit (Ezek. 39:29; Zech. 12:10) who is given to all who believe without distinction as to sex, age, or social position (1 Cor. 12:13).

prophesy . . . dream dreams . . . see visions. See Num. 12:6; Jer. 31:31–34; Ezek. 36:26–29.

■ 2:30, 31 The universal scope of events heralding "the great and awesome day of the LORD" is emphasized. See also Is. 13:10; Ezek. 32:7, 8; Amos 8:9; Zeph. 1:14–17.

■ 2:32 calls on the name of the LORD. A reference to the worship of the Lord (Gen. 12:8; Ps. 105:1). Salvation is only found in returning to the true and exclusive worship of God.

remnant. These are those called by the Lord who have responded in faith.

■ 3:1–21 Joel prophesies the coming of that day of the Lord in which God will with finality judge Zion's enemies and make Zion a source of everlasting blessing.

2 [b]I will also gather all nations,
And bring them down to the Valley of Jehoshaphat;
And I [c]will enter into judgment with them there
On account of My people, My heritage Israel,
Whom they have scattered among the nations;
They have also divided up My land.
3 They have [d]cast lots for My people,
Have given a boy as payment for a harlot,
And sold a girl for wine, that they may drink.

4 "Indeed, what have you to do with Me,
[e]O Tyre and Sidon, and all the coasts of Philistia?
Will you [1]retaliate against Me?
But if you [2]retaliate against Me,
Swiftly and speedily I will return your [3]retaliation upon your own head;
5 Because you have taken My silver and My gold,
And have carried into your temples My [4]prized possessions.
6 Also the people of Judah and the people of Jerusalem
You have sold to the Greeks,
That you may remove them far from their borders.

7 "Behold, [f]I will raise them
Out of the place to which you have sold them,
And will return your [5]retaliation upon your own head.
8 I will sell your sons and your daughters
Into the hand of the people of Judah,
And they will sell them to the [g]Sabeans,[6]
To a people [h]far off;
For the LORD has spoken."

9 [i]Proclaim this among the nations:
"Prepare for war!
Wake up the mighty men,
Let all the men of war draw near,
Let them come up.
10 [j]Beat your plowshares into swords
And your [7]pruning hooks into spears;
[k]Let the weak say, 'I am strong.' "
11 Assemble and come, all you nations,
And gather together all around.
Cause [l]Your mighty ones to go down there, O LORD.

12 "Let the nations be wakened, and come up to the Valley of Jehoshaphat;
For there I will sit to [m]judge all the surrounding nations.

■ 3:1 in those days. In parallel with "at that time," this announcement marks the beginning of a further series of promises for God's people (Jer. 33:15; 50:4, 20).

■ 3:2 Restoration will include the judgment of Israel's enemies ("all nations") for their injustices against God's people and land.

Valley of Jehoshaphat. This place is identified as the "valley of decision" in v. 14. Its name is symbolic, the location unknown.

scattered . . . divided. Following deportation of the people, the land was redistributed to others. The particular historical event referred to here is not clear. The deportations of 722, 701, 598, and 586 B.C., or even smaller deportations involving border wars (e.g., Amos 1:9, 10) are possibilities.

■ 3:3 Following the casting of lots for prisoners (Obad. 11; Nah. 3:10), defenseless children were traded and sold for purposes of debauchery (Amos 2:6).

■ 3:4 against Me. The legal charge against Tyre and Sidon (coastal Phoenicia) and the regions of Philistia (coastal Palestine, Josh. 13:2, 3) concerns their involvement in capturing and trading Israelites as prisoners of war. Both regions had sold Israelites as slaves to the Greeks (v. 6) and to Edom (Amos 1:6, 9).

■ 3:5 My silver and My gold. The land's silver and gold, as well as its inhabitants, belonged to the Lord (Hag. 2:8).

■ 3:7 them. God's restored people will inflict His punishment on Tyre, Sidon, and Philistia.

■ 3:8 Sabeans. These were merchants from the distant land of Sheba (1 Kin. 10:1–13; Jer. 6:20).

■ 3:9–12 Joel issues a bitterly ironic invitation to battle to those nations who will be defeated by the Lord.

■ 3:10 plowshares . . . pruning hooks. Cf. Is. 2:4; Mic. 4:3.

■ 3:11 there. The Valley of Jehoshaphat (v. 2 note) is the place of the great battle (v. 14 note).

13 [n]Put in the sickle, for [o]the harvest is ripe.
Come, go down;
For the [p]winepress is full,
The vats overflow—
For their wickedness is great."

14 Multitudes, multitudes in the valley of decision!
For [q]the day of the LORD is near in the valley of decision.
15 The sun and moon will grow dark,
And the stars will diminish their brightness.
16 The LORD also will roar from Zion,
And utter His voice from Jerusalem;
The heavens and earth will shake;
[r]But the LORD will be a shelter for His people,
And the strength of the children of Israel.

17 "So you shall know that I am the LORD your God,
Dwelling in Zion My [s]holy mountain.
Then Jerusalem shall be holy,
And no aliens shall ever pass through her again."

God Blesses His People

18 And it will come to pass in that day
That the mountains shall drip with new wine,
The hills shall flow with milk,
And all the brooks of Judah shall be flooded with water;
A [t]fountain shall flow from the house of the LORD
And water the Valley of [s]Acacias.

19 "Egypt shall be a desolation,
And Edom a desolate wilderness,
Because of violence against the people of Judah,
For they have shed innocent blood in their land.
20 But Judah shall abide forever,
And Jerusalem from generation to generation.
21 For I will [u]acquit them of the guilt of bloodshed, whom I had not acquitted;
For the LORD dwells in Zion."

■ 3:13 Like grain ready to be cut down with the sickle (Is. 17:5) and like grapes waiting to be pressed (Is. 63:3), the wicked nations are ripe for a harvest of judgment (cf. Rev. 14:15, 18, 20).

winepress is full . . . vats overflow. The full winepress and overflowing vats emphasize the enormous wickedness of the nations massed in the valley for judgment.

■ 3:14 valley of decision. The Valley of Jehoshaphat is now identified as the "valley of decision" where the Lord's judgment will be passed upon multitudes.

near. The imminence of the day of the Lord as a day of judgment is again underlined (1:15; 2:1, 31).

■ 3:15 sun . . . moon . . . stars. Nature responds to the appearance of the Lord on the day of judgment (2:10, 31; Amos 5:18).

■ 3:16 LORD also will roar. The Lord's voice is so powerful that even the earth and the sky tremble (Ps. 29:3–9; Jer. 25:30; Amos 1:2).

shelter . . . strength. Yet in the midst of the extraordinary manifestations of the Lord's anger against the nations, the Lord protects His covenant people (Is. 25:4; Ps. 46:1).

■ 3:17 Dwelling in Zion. Judah's experience of the Lord's protection in the midst of His wrath deepened her knowledge of the reality of God's presence in her midst (in Zion, the Lord's holy and inviolable hill, Ps. 46:4; Is. 8:18; 52:1, 2; Zech. 2:10; 8:3; Rev. 21:3). Cf. 2:27.

■ 3:18 The final scene of the drama is one of paradisal prosperity and blessing (cf. 2:19–26).

fountain shall flow. The temple itself will be the source of a life-giving stream (Ezek. 47:1–12; Ps. 46:4; Rev. 22:1, 2), which will water even the dry and barren valley where acacia trees grow.

■ 3:19 Egypt . . . Edom. Egypt (1 Kin. 14:25, 26; 2 Kin. 23:29) and Edom (Obad. 9–14), here representing all of Israel's enemies, are in ruins after this judgment.

■ 3:20 abide forever. In contrast to her enemies, Judah and Jerusalem are blessed and promised perpetual habitation of the land (Jer. 17:25; Zech. 12:6) because "the LORD dwells in Zion" (v. 21).

The Book of

AMOS

Author

Tekoa in Judah, a village some five miles south of Bethlehem, was the home of the prophet Amos (1:1). He was a man of several trades: shepherd (1:1), livestock breeder, and dresser of sycamore-fig trees (7:14). Although his background was rural and apparently isolated from centers of learning, Amos clearly knew the surrounding nations and was acquainted with international history (1:3—2:3). He was also familiar with both the history of God's covenant people and the covenant itself, as his numerous references to the Law make clear. Amos had not studied to be a prophet (7:14), but the Lord sovereignly called him to this office. He ministered primarily to the northern kingdom of Israel (7:15), although his prophecies also addressed the sins of Judah (2:4, 5; cf. 9:11).

Date and Occasion

Amos's prophetic ministry took place during the reigns of Uzziah (sometimes called Azariah) of Judah (792–740 B.C.) and Jeroboam II of Israel (793–753 B.C.). During Jeroboam's reign there was peace between Judah and Israel. He had restored the boundaries of Israel in accordance with the prophecy of Jonah son of Amittai (2 Kin. 14:25). The northern kingdom had become wealthy and was enjoying a false sense of security, encouraged by the weakness of Egypt, Babylon, and especially Assyria, which had entered a temporary decline after the death of Adad-nirari III (810–783 B.C.). Israel faced no serious threat from Assyrian arms for about forty years.

Under Tiglath-Pileser III (745–727 B.C.), Assyria gained strength and expanded to the north and west. Judah soon became an Assyrian vassal, and the state of Damascus, which had stood between Israel and Assyria, became part of the Assyrian empire (2 Kin. 16:7–9).

Tiglath-Pileser III was succeeded by his son, Shalmaneser V (727–722 B.C.), who continued his father's policy of westward expansion, and forced Hoshea, king of Israel, to become his vassal. Hoshea rebelled, however, and mistakenly relied on Egypt for help, which never came. Then Shalmaneser besieged Samaria; after three years the Israelite capital fell (722 B.C.) and the northern kingdom of Israel came to an end (2 Kin. 17:3–6).

Characteristics and Themes

Amos may have delivered the prophecies of this book at different places in the northern kingdom, such as Samaria and Bethel. It is certain only that he fulfilled some of his prophetic ministry at Bethel (7:12, 13). Unlike the messages of earlier prophets (with the possible exception of Joel), the words of Amos were preserved in writing, like those of his contemporaries Isaiah and Hosea. It was essential that these great covenant lawsuit messages be preserved, both as reminders of Israel's history, and for the promises of restoration and redemption they contained.

Amos attacks two major areas of sin commonly indicted by the prophets: idolatry and social injustice. Israel's root problem was its false religion—"having a form of godliness but denying its power" (2 Tim. 3:5). Although Israel maintained the ritual formalities of the law, and even exceeded them (4:4, 5), idolatry was commonplace (2 Kin. 17:9–17; Amos 5:26), as were violence and injustice (2:6–8; 4:1).

The God we encounter in Amos is the same Creator who made man in His image. He is God, and there is no other. He does not tolerate idolatry, which in reality is the worship of demons (Deut. 32:16, 17; 1 Cor. 10:20). The Lord is sovereign and is able to raise up one nation against another in judgment (1:3—2:3), a process that will continue until His return. God is also the Judge of His covenant people Israel, willing to raise up another nation against them (6:14). But for all this, He is a loving God who desires the life, not the death, of His people. Above all, He desires that they should "seek Me and live" (5:4; 1 Tim. 2:3, 4).

The Lord sent warnings to Israel in the form of hunger, thirst, blight, locusts, plagues, and military defeat, but the people had refused to see His hand in these (4:6–11). Judgment must follow (4:12—5:20), and this punishment is portrayed in a series of verbal and visionary prophecies predicting wholesale destruction and exile. But the Lord chastises those He loves, and His judgment is really a sign of faithfulness to His covenant people. He promises to restore "the tabernacle of David, which has fallen down" (9:11), and the ultimate future of His people is portrayed in a concluding description that resembles Eden in its fruitfulness and blessedness (9:13–15). □

THE words of Amos, who was among the [a]sheepbreeders of [b]Tekoa, which he saw concerning Israel in the days of [c]Uzziah king of Judah, and in the days of [d]Jeroboam the son of Joash, king of Israel, two years before the [e]earthquake.

2 And he said:

"The LORD [f]roars from Zion,
And utters His voice from Jerusalem;

1 [a]2 Kin. 3:4; Amos 7:14 [b]2 Sam. 14:2 [c]2 Chr. 26:1–23 [d]Amos 7:10 [e]Zech. 14:5

2 [f]Joel 3:16

■ 1:1 Amos introduces himself and his prophecy, specifying the time when God's word came to him.

The words of Amos. The prophet's messages are introduced with this formula (cf. Jer. 1:1). The phrase has a covenant background (Deut. 1:1, "These are the words which Moses spoke."). Specifically, Amos the prophet is God's covenant lawsuit messenger, bringing God's suit against disobedient Israel.

sheepbreeders. The Hebrew term probably refers to keepers of a particular kind of sheep known for its unusually fine wool. The king of Moab is identified as one owning such sheep (2 Kin. 3:4).

Tekoa. This village was five miles south of Bethlehem. Because of its good pastureland it supported many shepherds with their flocks.

the earthquake. Since this was a memorable event in an earthquake-prone region, it would have been remembered as an act of divine judgment, as in Zech. 14:5.

■ 1:2 The LORD. See notes on Ex. 3:15.

roars. Or, "will roar," since the action is future. As a shepherd, Amos could have known well the terrifying roar of a lion on the attack (1 Sam. 17:34–37). The Lord Himself roars from Zion to announce His judgment (Jer. 25:30; Joel 3:16). These opening words of judgment set the tone for what follows.

pastures . . . withers. The Lord's judgment will affect the whole land, from the pastures to the forested top of Carmel, rich in orchards and vineyards (Lev. 26:19; Deut. 28:23, 24).

The pastures of the shepherds mourn,
And the top of [g]Carmel withers."

Judgment on the Nations

3 Thus says the LORD:

"For three transgressions of [h]Damascus, and for four,
I will not turn away its punishment,
Because they have [i]threshed Gilead with implements of iron.
4 [j]But I will send a fire into the house of Hazael,
Which shall devour the palaces of [k]Ben-Hadad.
5 I will also break the gate [l]bar of Damascus,
And cut off the inhabitant from the Valley of Aven,
And the one who [1]holds the scepter from [2]Beth Eden.
The people of Syria shall go captive to Kir,"
Says the LORD.

6 Thus says the LORD:

"For three transgressions of [m]Gaza, and for four,
I will not turn away its punishment,
Because they took captive the whole captivity
To deliver them up to Edom.
7 [n]But I will send a fire upon the wall of Gaza,
Which shall devour its palaces.
8 I will cut off the inhabitant [o]from Ashdod,
And the one who holds the scepter from Ashkelon;

2 [g]1 Sam. 25:2; Is. 33:9
3 [h]Is. 8:4; 17:1–3; Jer. 49:23–27; Zech. 9:1 [i]2 Kin. 10:32, 33
4 [j]Jer. 49:27; 51:30 [k]1 Kin. 20:1; 2 Kin. 6:24
5 [l]2 Kin. 14:28; Is. 8:4; Jer. 51:30; Lam. 2:9 [1]Rules [2]Lit. House of Eden
6 [m]1 Sam. 6:17; Jer. 47:1, 5; Zeph. 2:4
7 [n]Jer. 47:1
8 [o]Jer. 47:5; Zeph. 2:4

■ 1:3—2:16 This series of prophecies begins with six Gentile nations: Syria, Philistia, Phoenicia, Edom, Ammon, and Moab. Then the oracles dramatically turn against Judah (2:4–5) and Israel (2:6–16).

■ 1:3 For three transgressions . . . for four. This refrain, repeated with each prophecy, is an example of parallelism using ascending numbers for emphasis (cf. Ps. 62:11; Mic. 5:5). This standard device in ancient Near Eastern poetry is not intended literally, but means "for many transgressions."

Damascus. David defeated and garrisoned this royal city of Syria (2 Sam. 8:6). During Solomon's reign Damascus broke free, with Rezon as king (1 Kin. 11:23–25).

implements of iron. The threshing sledge was a wooden board with teeth of iron or basalt fixed on the underside. An ox would pull the sledge over the grain while the driver stood on it. The Syrians are accused of having treated Gilead with extreme cruelty (2 Kin. 13:7).

■ 1:4 I will send a fire. This refrain in each of the messages is also found in Hosea (8:14) and Jeremiah (17:27; 21:14; 29:27; 50:32). Fire was widely understood in the ancient Near East to be an instrument of divine judgment. It was often used in warfare, and was considered one way that a god purged a rebellious people. This pagan understanding also reflects a truth revealed in Scripture: the true God will in fact judge by fire (2 Pet. 3:7 note).

Hazael. The king of Syria (c. 841–801 B.C.), whose reign was predicted by the prophet Elisha (2 Kin. 8:13).

palaces. These seem to have been fortified citadel-palaces of the nobility.

Ben-Hadad. This is a throne name, like "Pharaoh" in Egypt. Probably the third king with this name is meant. The first assisted Judah's king Asa against Israel's Baasha (1 Kin. 15:18–20). The second, Ben-Hadad II, was assassinated by the usurper Hazael (2 Kin. 8:14, 15). Hazael's son, Ben-Hadad III, was contemporary with Jehoahaz of Israel (2 Kin. 13:25). It was he who made Israel's army "like the dust at threshing" (2 Kin. 13:7).

■ 1:5 cut off. The verb is often used to indicate annihilation by war (Josh. 23:4; Is. 10:7).

the inhabitant. Lit. "the one who sits," probably the king. The Hebrew word is used of God sitting or enthroned as King in Ps. 2:4; 22:3 ("enthroned"); 29:10.

Valley of Aven. Lit. "Valley of Wickedness." Possibly it refers to ancient Syrian Heliopolis, now called Baalbek, in the Beqaa Valley of Lebanon. It was apparently a center for sun worship.

Beth Eden. This was probably a district about 200 miles northeast of Damascus (not to be confused with the Garden of Eden, Gen. 2:8 note), and ruled by a Syrian vassal king. The point of the parallelism between the Valley of Aven and Beth Eden is to indicate that not only Damascus, but its territories as well, will be undone.

Syria . . . to Kir. The original home of the Syrians (9:7), Kir will become their place of exile.

■ 1:6 Gaza. The southernmost of the five Philistine royal cities, Ashkelon, Ashdod, Ekron, Gath, and Gaza. Located between Egypt and Canaan, Gaza was a natural center for trade.

whole captivity. That is, an entire group of exiles (also v. 9). The Philistine trade included slaves. Prisoners of war usually became slaves, but here a whole population was sold into slavery. The apparent reference is to the capture and sale of Israelites during the reign of Jehoram (2 Chr. 21:16, 17; Joel 3:3, 6).

to Edom. This ancient brother of Israel (Gen. 25:30) received Israelites as slaves from the Philistines. For its role in this unbrotherly sin, Gaza, which stands for Philistia as a whole, is now sentenced.

■ 1:8 Ashdod. A strong and prosperous Philistine city, located eighteen miles northeast of Gaza.

Ashkelon. This third royal city lay halfway between Gaza and Ashdod on the Mediterranean coast.

Ekron. The precise location of this Philistine royal city is uncertain; a number of sites northeast of Ashdod have been suggested. Gath, the fifth royal city, is not mentioned because it had already been defeated by Hazael (2 Kin. 12:17), and again by Sargon II (722–705 B.C.). Assyria was the primary instrument of judgment against all these cities, and all four are subsequently mentioned in Assyrian annals as vassals of Esarhaddon (681–669) and Ashurbanipal (668–627).

I will [p]turn My hand against Ekron,
And [q]the remnant of the Philistines shall perish,"
Says the Lord GOD.

9 Thus says the LORD:

"For three transgressions of [r]Tyre, and for four,
I will not turn away its punishment,
Because they delivered up the whole captivity to Edom,
And did not remember the covenant of brotherhood.
10 But I will send a fire upon the wall of Tyre,
Which shall devour its palaces."

11 Thus says the LORD:

"For three transgressions of [s]Edom, and for four,
I will not turn away its punishment,
Because he pursued his [t]brother with the sword,
And cast off all pity;
His anger tore perpetually,
And he kept his wrath forever.
12 But [u]I will send a fire upon Teman,
Which shall devour the palaces of Bozrah."

13 Thus says the LORD:

"For three transgressions of [v]the people of Ammon, and for four,
I will not turn away its punishment,
Because they ripped open the women with child in Gilead,
That they might enlarge their territory.
14 But I will kindle a fire in the wall of [w]Rabbah,
And it shall devour its palaces,
[x]Amid shouting in the day of battle,
And a tempest in the day of the whirlwind.
15 [y]Their king shall go into captivity,
He and his princes together,"
Says the LORD.

■ 1:9 Tyre. One of two major Phoenician cities (the other is Sidon) mentioned in the Canaanite Amarna letters (14th century B.C.). The name itself means "flint." Tyre was built on a large rock in the sea and was considered virtually impregnable until the fourth century B.C., when Alexander the Great conquered the city by building a causeway out to the city.

delivered up the whole captivity. See notes on v. 6.

did not remember the covenant. This phrase denotes the keeping of covenant obligations and is a standard phrase in ancient international covenants or treaties (cf. Gen. 9:15; Ex. 2:24; Lev. 26:42). Tyre did not keep its treaties with Israel.

of brotherhood. In the ancient Near East, kings entering into treaties styled themselves "brothers." So Hiram of Tyre called Solomon "my brother" (1 Kin. 9:13; cf. 1 Kin. 5:12), against a background of treaty relations with David (2 Sam. 5:11). Later, Ahab continued the close relation with Phoenicia by marrying Jezebel, daughter of Ethbaal, the king of Sidon (1 Kin. 16:31).

■ 1:11 pursued his brother with the sword. See note on v. 6. These events of the reign of Jehoram include Edom's revolt and collusion with the Philistines and Arabs, who attacked Judah and entered Jerusalem, plundering the palace and deporting the royal household (2 Chr. 21:16, 17; Obad. 10–14).

■ 1:12 Teman. Teman was a grandson of Esau (Gen. 36:11, 15). His descendant clan apparently gave its name to a region in the south of Edom, and to a village some fifteen miles from Petra. Here, the region is meant. Teman was famous for wisdom (Job 2:11; Jer. 49:7).

Bozrah. The northernmost Edomite city, some 35 miles north of Petra. By mentioning its northernmost and southernmost regions, Amos consigns all of Edom to destruction.

■ 1:13 the people of Ammon. The Ammonites descended from Ben-Ammi, who was the offspring of the trickery and incest of Lot's younger daughter (Gen. 19:34–38). They lived between Aram and Moab.

ripped open the women with child. This particular atrocity was practiced by others, including Hazael of Syria (2 Kin. 8:12), Menahem of Israel (2 Kin. 15:16), and Assyria (Hos. 13:16). The apparent purpose was to eliminate descendants who might try to reclaim the land.

enlarge their territory. Ancient Near Eastern kings typically boasted that they extended the borders of their land. By doing so they fancied that they carried out the desire of their gods.

■ 1:14 Rabbah. A short form of the fuller reference, "Rabbah of the people of Ammon" (Deut. 3:11; 2 Sam. 12:26). This location is the modern Amman, in Jordan.

tempest . . . whirlwind. In Scripture, the figure of a violent and destructive storm is often used for the tumult of battle, as well as for the anger of God, or indeed for both at once (Ps. 83:15; Is. 5:28; 17:13; 29:6; 66:15; Jer. 4:13; 23:19; 25:32).

■ 1:15 He and his princes together. According to regular Assyrian practice, a conquered king, his household, and his officials would be taken together into exile. Under Shalmaneser III (858–824 B.C.), Assyria conquered Ammon, making it an Assyrian vassal.

Because he [b]burned the bones of the king of Edom to lime.
2 But I will send a fire upon Moab,
And it shall devour the palaces of [c]Kerioth;
Moab shall die with tumult,
With shouting and trumpet sound.
3 And I will cut off [d]the judge from its midst,
And slay all its princes with him,"
Says the LORD.

Judgment on Judah

4 Thus says the LORD:

"For three transgressions of [e]Judah, and for four,
I will not turn away its punishment,
[f]Because they have despised the law of the LORD,
And have not kept His commandments.
[g]Their lies lead them astray,
Lies [h]which their fathers followed.
5 [i]But I will send a fire upon Judah,
And it shall devour the palaces of Jerusalem."

Judgment on Israel

6 Thus says the LORD:

"For three transgressions of [j]Israel, and for four,
I will not turn away its punishment,
Because [k]they sell the righteous for silver,
And the [l]poor for a pair of sandals.
7 They [l]pant after the dust of the earth which is on the head of the poor,
And [m]pervert the way of the humble.
[n]A man and his father go in to the same girl,
[o]To defile My holy name.

■ 2:1 burned the bones of the king of Edom. According to Hebrew tradition, these are the bones of the Moabite king Mesha. Such burning indicated special contempt, and was thought to deprive the dead of peace in the afterlife. Josiah burned the bones of false priests on the altar at Bethel (2 Kin. 23:15, 16).

■ 2:2 Kerioth. Probably the name of a major Moabite city and religious center (Jer. 48:41). The exact site is uncertain. Alternatively, the Hebrew word could be taken to mean "cities," as the Septuagint (Greek Old Testament) translators understood it.

trumpet. This is the ram's horn (Hebrew shophar), the signal horn of ancient warfare.

■ 2:3 I will cut off. See note on 1:5.

■ 2:4 Judah. The five oracles against pagan nations are concluded, and the southern kingdom of Judah is now addressed. Divine judgment moves ever closer to the northern kingdom of Israel, where Amos himself prophesied (v. 6).

despised the law . . . commandments. For rejecting God's revealed covenant law, and so God Himself, they were particularly worthy of judgment (Ex. 15:26; Deut. 4:39, 40). Judah's covenant privileges implied greater responsibility (cf. Luke 12:48).

their fathers followed. Lit. "their fathers walked after." The ancient Near Eastern idiom "to walk after" meant to follow in obedience as a vassal or servant. Judah was following lies, and serving as the vassal of false gods or demons (Deut. 32:17; Rom. 6:16; 1 Cor. 10:20).

■ 2:5 I will send a fire. See note on 1:4.

Jerusalem. The name means "city of peace." The Hebrew word for "peace" (shalom) denotes not only the absence of war, but also prosperity and wholeness. Because Judah had not sought integrity in the Lord, they would see destruction, not peace. This prophecy was fulfilled over 150 years later, when Nebuchadnezzar II conquered Jerusalem and burned every notable building, including the king's house (2 Kin. 25:8–10).

■ 2:6 Israel. The indictment of the northern kingdom begins—Israel is guilty of social injustice, sexual immorality, and religious abuses (vv. 6–8).

sell the righteous for silver. A reference to the corrupt judicial system. Judges were willing to convict the innocent upon payment of a bribe.

the poor. The Lord had a special concern that their rights be protected (Ex. 23:6; Jer. 5:28), but they were being sold into slavery even for insignificant debts (here symbolized by a pair of sandals). Indigent slavery in Israel was legal, but was carefully limited by the law of Moses (Ex. 21:2; Deut. 15:12; 1 Pet. 2:18 and notes).

■ 2:7 go in to the same girl. Amos decries uncontrolled sexual passion. Such behavior was contrary to God's original intention (Gen. 2:21–24; Matt. 19:4–6), and it profaned God's holy name (Lev. 18:24). The Mosaic law prohibited sexual union among persons closely related by blood (Lev. 18:6–18); while the Mosaic law does not mention this specific situation (the sharing of a common prostitute), the basic principle would still apply.

9 "Yet it was I who destroyed the [r]Amorite before them,

Yet I [t]destroyed his fruit above
And his roots beneath.
10 Also it was [u]I who brought you up from the land of Egypt,

To possess the land of the Amorite.
11 I raised up some of your sons as [w]prophets,
And some of your young men as [x]Nazirites.
Is it not so, O you children of Israel?"
Says the LORD.
12 "But you gave the Nazirites wine to drink,
And commanded the prophets [y]saying,
'Do not prophesy!'

13 "Behold,[z] I am [3]weighed down by you,

Says the LORD.

Authority of the Prophet's Message

3 Hear this word that the LORD has spoken against you, O children of Israel, against the whole family which I brought up from the land of Egypt, saying:

■ 2:8 lie down . . . on clothes. They engaged in fertility cult prostitution beside the altars, further profaning the Lord's name. There were many altars in Israel, including those at Bethel (3:14), Dan (8:14), and Gilgal (Hos. 12:11). Their sins of sexual license and idolatry were compounded in that they slept on clothing taken as pledges for loans to the poor. Such garments were not to be kept overnight (Ex. 22:26; Deut. 24:12, 13).

wine of the condemned. Wine taken from the poor as payment for unjustly imposed fines. Perhaps the drinking accompanied the sexual indulgence just mentioned.

■ 2:9 I . . . destroyed the Amorite. Faithful to His covenant promises (Gen. 15:16–21), the Lord had driven out the Canaanites (simply called "Amorites" here) from the Promised Land. See note on Gen. 10:16.

like . . . the cedars. The description recalls the report of the twelve spies (Num. 13:32, 33), but also God's wrath against all that is lofty and proud (Is. 2:12–18).

fruit above . . . roots beneath. A poetic expression for complete destruction.

■ 2:10 from the land of Egypt. By reminding them of His covenant faithfulness (cf. Gen. 50:24; Ex. 3:8), the Lord presses His case against Israel's unfaithfulness.

■ 2:11 I raised up . . . prophets. The Lord sovereignly raised up prophets (Deut. 18:15–22), judges (Judg. 2:18), priests (1 Sam. 2:35), and kings (2 Sam. 7:12). The prophets served as covenant lawsuit messengers, sent to recall the people to obedience.

Nazirites. See note on Num. 6:1–21. The Old Testament mentions Samson by name as a Nazirite (Judg. 13:4, 5). Samuel was probably a Nazirite as well (1 Sam. 1:11 note).

■ 2:12 But you. In contrast with the Lord's faithfulness, Israel sought to defeat God's purposes by commanding His messengers not to prophesy, and by making the Nazirites drink wine (in violation of their vow). They showed contempt for both the Lord and His law.

■ 2:13 I am weighed down by you. Or perhaps, "I will press you down" (the Hebrew is difficult to translate). Just as a cart bogs down from the pressure of its contents and so becomes immovable, so Israel will be unable to flee (v. 14).

■ 2:14 the swift, The strong. A vivid picture of helplessness: the fleet of foot will not escape and the strong will not stand their ground.

■ 2:15 bow . . . foot . . . horse. All units of the army will fail before God's anger.

■ 2:16 Shall flee naked. Even the bravest warriors not only cast away armor and weapons but also every impediment, including clothing, in the panic of their useless flight. Such naked flight is an utter humiliation.

in that day. This phrase often indicates the Lord's day of judgment (Zeph. 1:7 note). Here it refers the approaching day of Assyrian conquest.

■ 3:1–15 God prosecutes a lawsuit against Israel through His servant Amos.

■ 3:1 Hear this word. This solemn command occurs again at 4:1 and 5:1, and echoes commands to hear and obey the Lord in the original covenantal documents (Deut. 4:1; 5:1; 6:3). It occurs regularly in covenant lawsuit material (Jer. 2:4; Hos. 4:1).

CHAPTER 3

2 "You[a] only have I known of all the families of the earth;
[b]Therefore I will punish you for all your iniquities."

3 Can two walk together, unless they are agreed?
4 Will a lion roar in the forest, when he has no prey?
Will a young lion [1]cry out of his den, if he has caught nothing?
5 Will a bird fall into a snare on the earth, where there is no [2]trap for it?
Will a snare spring up from the earth, if it has caught nothing at all?
6 If a [3]trumpet is blown in a city, will not the people be afraid?
[c]If there is calamity in a city, will not the LORD have done it?

7 Surely the Lord GOD does nothing,
Unless [d]He reveals His secret to His servants the prophets.
8 A lion has roared!
Who will not fear?
The Lord GOD has spoken!
[e]Who can but prophesy?

Punishment of Israel's Sins

9 "Proclaim in the palaces at [4]Ashdod,
And in the palaces in the land of Egypt, and say:
'Assemble on the mountains of Samaria;
See great tumults in her midst,
And the [5]oppressed within her.
10 For they [f]do not know to do right,'
Says the LORD,
'Who store up violence and [6]robbery in their palaces.' "

11 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD:

"An adversary shall be all around the land;
He shall sap your strength from you,
And your palaces shall be plundered."

2 [a]Gen. 18:19; Ex. 19:5, 6; Deut. 7:6; Ps. 147:19] [b]Jer. 14:10; Ezek. 20:36; Dan. 9:12; Matt. 11:22; [Rom. 2:9]

9 [4]So with MT; LXX Assyria [5]Or oppression
10 [f]Ps. 14:4; Jer. 4:22; Amos 5:7; 6:12 [6]Or devastation

■ 3:2 you only have I known. In addition to cognition (Gen. 4:9), the Hebrew word for "know" has a wide range of meaning, including sexual relations (Gen. 4:1). Here the term denotes God's sovereign choice, or election, of Israel as the object of His loving concern (Gen. 18:19; cf. Deut. 7:7, 8).

Therefore. The Lord's covenant graces include punishment for sins precisely because He loves His people too much to allow them to sin without discipline (Prov. 3:11, 12).

■ 3:3–6 Amos presents a series of questions, to which the answer in every case is quite clear. Their purpose is to emphasize that the message of Amos comes from the Lord.

■ 3:3 walk. To "walk together" with someone here means to agree with their destination and route. Implicitly, the prophet "walks" with the Lord.

■ 3:4 roar. A silent hunter, the lion roars only after its victim's fate is sealed. Just as there is reason for the lion's roar, so also there must be a cause behind the prophet's utterance.

■ 3:5 trap. See text note. No bird would be caught in an unbaited trap.

■ 3:6 trumpet. See note on 2:2. Siege was a fearful prospect in the ancient world, for it often resulted in starvation of the populace, followed by all the horrors of conquest: rape, pillage, slaughter, and burning.

calamity. Lit. "evil." The Old Testament teaches that the Lord is the Creator of peace and of calamity (Is. 45:7). This does not mean that God is the author of evil, but rather that He sovereignly brings disaster or adversity on individuals and nations as just punishment. The curses pronounced in Gen. 3:14–19 show that the Lord brings such punishment.

■ 3:7 God does nothing, Unless He reveals. The God who acts also reveals Himself and interprets His actions to and through the prophets. God revealed His plans for Sodom and Gomorrah to Abraham, the first "prophet" so designated in Scripture (Gen. 18:17; 20:7).

His servants the prophets. Moses, the supreme Old Testament prophet, was called "the servant of the LORD" (Deut. 34:5). Subsequent prophets were characterized by the similar phrase, "My servants the prophets" (Jer. 7:25; Ezek. 38:17; cf. Dan. 9:10).

■ 3:8 Who can but prophesy. Just as a lion's voice evokes fear, so the voice of the Lord compels the prophets to proclaim His word (Deut. 18:18; cf. 1 Cor. 9:16).

■ 3:9 Proclaim. The command is in the plural, and is apparently directed at the Lord's servants the prophets.

Ashdod . . . Egypt. Amos poetically summons the pagan nobility to look upon the injustice that reigns in Samaria. Israel (the northern kingdom) should have been more righteous, not less, than her pagan neighbors; it is ironic that these pagans should be called as witnesses to Israel's misbehavior.

mountains of Samaria. Samaria was surrounded by mountains, from which the spectators are asked to view her.

tumults. Or, "turmoil," as the word is translated in 2 Chr. 15:5. Such conditions result from sin and are the opposite of "peace" (Hebrew shalom).

■ 3:10 violence and robbery. The ill-gotten gains from their violent and thieving behavior. The rich have plundered and looted the poor.

■ 3:11 adversary. Assyria. The thought of this verse echoes the substance of the covenant curse for disobedience (Deut. 28:52).

12 Thus says the LORD:

"As a shepherd [7]takes from the mouth of a lion
Two legs or a piece of an ear,
So shall the children of Israel be taken out
Who dwell in Samaria—
In the corner of a bed and [8]on the edge of a couch!
13 Hear and testify against the house of Jacob,"
Says the Lord GOD, the God of hosts,
14 "That in the day I punish Israel for their transgressions,
I will also visit destruction on the altars of [g]Bethel;
And the horns of the altar shall be cut off
And fall to the ground.
15 I will [9]destroy [h]the winter house along with [i]the summer house;
The [j]houses of ivory shall perish,
And the great houses shall have an end,"
Says the LORD.

4 Hear this word, you [a]cows of Bashan, who are on the mountain of Samaria,
Who oppress the [b]poor,
Who crush the needy,
Who say to [f]your husbands, "Bring wine, let us [c]drink!"
2 [d]The Lord GOD has sworn by His holiness:
"Behold, the days shall come upon you
When He will take you away [e]with fishhooks,
And your posterity with fishhooks.
3 [f]You will go out through broken walls,
Each one straight ahead of her,
And you will [2]be cast into Harmon,"
Says the LORD.

4 "Come[g] to Bethel and transgress,
At [h]Gilgal multiply transgression;
[i]Bring your sacrifices every morning,
[j]Your tithes every three [3]days.

■ 3:12 a shepherd takes . . . a piece. According to ancient laws, shepherds were to demonstrate their diligence by rescuing a portion of a sheep taken by wild beasts (cf. Gen. 31:39 and note). The sheep of Israel will only be saved in a mutilated condition—in fact, the nation would be destroyed.

on the edge of a couch. The rich reclined idly on couches (as the Romans later did at their banquets), enjoying the luxury they extorted from the poor (6:4).

■ 3:13 Hear and testify. The command here (in the plural) may be to the pagans who have been summoned as witnesses, or to the Lord's messengers, who were commanded to summon the pagan witnesses (v. 9 note).

■ 3:14 in the day . . . for their transgressions. The phrasing here recalls the original covenant documents (Ex. 32:34).

altars of Bethel. Jeroboam I had made a golden calf for Israel to worship at Bethel in the north, as an alternative to worship at Jerusalem in the south, and had installed an altar there (1 Kin. 12:25–33). Both altar and sanctuary were later destroyed by Josiah (2 Kin. 23:15).

horns of the altar. A fugitive could gain asylum by grasping the horns of the altar (1 Kin. 1:49–51), though this privilege was not always observed (1 Kin. 2:28–35). Even this last resort for sinful Israel will be cut off.

■ 3:15 winter house . . . summer house. The possession of both a summer and a winter house was a great luxury, affordable only by kings and the very wealthy. The Lord would destroy these multiple houses and decorated mansions. Assyria, God's instrument of judgment (Is. 10:5, 6), was expert at such destruction and plunder, as the vast wealth of Nineveh amply testified (Nah. 2:9).

■ 4:1–13 Through His servant Amos, God prosecutes a second covenant lawsuit against Israel.

■ 4:1 Hear this word. See 3:1 and note.

cows of Bashan. The wealthy women of Samaria, who had been raised and cared for like the prime cattle of Bashan, a fertile area east of the Jordan River (Deut. 3:1 note).

■ 4:2 sworn by His holiness. The same phrase occurs once elsewhere, in Ps. 89:35. No oath can be greater or more final (Heb. 6:13, 14).

fishhooks. The Assyrians frequently led prisoners by ropes attached to rings or hooks in their noses or lips.

■ 4:3 cast into Harmon. This location is now unknown.

■ 4:4 Bethel . . . Gilgal. These were important sites in the earlier history of Israel; Bethel was a sanctuary during the period of the judges, and Samuel judged both there and at Gilgal (1 Sam. 7:16). They were also centers of syncretistic worship during the period of the divided kingdom (5:5).

every three days. Although the Hebrew word for "day" can stand for a year (text note) or for an unspecified longer period (Gen. 1:5 note), three literal days seem to be meant here. Israel's religious observances go even beyond what the law required. Though enthusiastic about ritual, they had no living relationship with God.

Says the Lord GOD.

Israel Did Not Accept Correction

6 "Also I gave you [4]cleanness of teeth in all your cities.
And lack of bread in all your places;
[m]Yet you have not returned to Me,"
Says the LORD.

7 "I also withheld rain from you,
When there were still three months to the harvest.
I made it rain on one city,
I withheld rain from another city.
One part was rained upon,
And where it did not rain the part withered.
8 So two or three cities wandered to another city to drink water,
But they were not satisfied;
Yet you have not returned to Me,"
Says the LORD.

9 "I[n] blasted you with blight and mildew.
When your gardens increased,
Your vineyards,
Your fig trees,
And your olive trees,
[o]The locust devoured them;
Yet you have not returned to Me,"
Says the LORD.

10 "I sent among you a plague [p]after the manner of Egypt;
Your young men I killed with a sword,
Along with your captive horses;
I made the stench of your camps come up into your nostrils;
Yet you have not returned to Me,"
Says the LORD.

11 "I overthrew some of you,
As God overthrew [q]Sodom and Gomorrah,
And you were like a firebrand plucked from the burning;

■ 4:5 sacrifice . . . with leaven. The covenant law made it clear that they were not to burn leavened bread as a sacrifice (Lev. 2:11; 6:17; 7:12). Amos sarcastically urges them to continue in their disobedience.

For this you love. In the ancient Near East, the term to love had special significance in covenants: the vassal's "love" for the sovereign entailed obedience (Deut. 6:5; cf. John 14:15). The nation's disobedience made it apparent that Israel loved rituals and idolatry rather than the Lord.

■ 4:6–11 This section reviews what the Lord did in punishment to warn His people and draw their attention back to Him. The emphatic phrase "Also I" indicates the change of subject. All the disasters mentioned were threatened in the covenant (Deut. 28). Israel should have understood this and repented. But as the refrain repeats, "you have not returned to Me" (4:6, 8, 9, 10, 11).

■ 4:6 cleanness of teeth. Their teeth were clean because they had nothing to eat. The covenant had threatened hunger and want as a penalty for disobedience (Deut. 28:47, 48).

■ 4:7, 8 rain. The winter rains from October through February were essential for the crops to begin their growth. The spring or "latter" rains of March and April would provide for mature growth (Jer. 5:24). The Lord had promised these rains, if Israel would obey His commands (Lev. 26:3, 4), but also warned that He would withhold them if they disobeyed (Lev. 26:18, 19; Deut. 28:23, 24).

■ 4:9 blight and mildew. The Lord had threatened these in the covenant law (Deut. 28:22; cf. Hag. 2:17).

locust. The Hebrew word for this destructive insect probably derives from the verb meaning "to cut" (cf. Joel 1:4; 2:25). Ironically, the punishment described here is just what the Lord had inflicted on Egypt (Ps. 105:34–35), whose Pharaoh rebelled against God. Rebellious Israel has received the same punishment, and like Pharaoh has not repented.

■ 4:10 plague . . . Egypt. The Lord had threatened a plague in His covenant with Israel (Deut. 28:21), along with all the diseases of Egypt (Deut. 28:21, 60, 61).

killed with a sword. Yet another covenant curse fulfilled (Ex. 22:24).

■ 4:11 overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah. Similar or identical phrases are used in prophecies against Babylon (Is. 13:19; Jer. 50:40) and Edom (Jer. 49:18). The devastation of Sodom and Gomorrah provided a symbol of God's judgment against sin (Gen. 19:24, 25; Deut. 29:23 note); here God promises to overthrow Israel with equal thoroughness.

Yet you have not returned to Me,"
Says the LORD.

12 "Therefore thus will I do to you, O Israel;
Because I will do this to you,
[r]Prepare to meet your God, O Israel!"

13 For behold,
He who forms mountains,
And creates the [5]wind,
[s]Who declares to man what [6]his thought is,
And makes the morning darkness,
[t]Who treads the high places of the earth—
[u]The LORD God of hosts is His name.

A Lament for Israel

5 Hear this word which I [a]take up against you, a lamentation, O house of Israel:

2 The virgin of Israel has fallen;
She will rise no more.
She lies forsaken on her land;
There is no one to raise her up.

3 For thus says the Lord GOD:

"The city that goes out by a thousand
Shall have a hundred left,
And that which goes out by a hundred
Shall have ten left to the house of Israel."

A Call to Repentance

4 For thus says the LORD to the house of Israel:

[b]"Seek Me [c]and live;
5 But do not seek [d]Bethel,
Nor enter Gilgal,
Nor pass over to [e]Beersheba;
For Gilgal shall surely go into captivity,
And [f]Bethel shall come to nothing.

a firebrand plucked from the burning. Despite God's repeated mercy to His people (e.g., 2 Kin. 13:3–5; cf. Zech. 3:2), they remained ungrateful and unrepentant.

■ 4:12 Because I will do this to you. Or, "because this is what I have done to you." The Hebrew is ambiguous. It either warns about the future, or cites the past as a reason to fear.

Prepare . . . God. The phrase comes from Ex. 19:15–17, where, after three days of sanctification, the people met the Lord at Sinai. Then they met a God who was graciously forging a covenant with them. Now they would meet a God who was coming to judge their covenant disobedience.

■ 4:13 who forms . . . declares . . . makes . . . treads. This verse is in the form of an ancient Near Eastern divine or royal title: a series of titles or epithets used to describe the deeds or powers of a god or king. Here they describe the great King, who is abundantly able to carry out the curses He originally threatened in the covenant (cf. Is. 44:24–28).

LORD God of hosts. See note on Zech. 1:3.

■ 5:1 Hear this word. See 3:1 and note.

lamentation. As though in mourning for the dead, Amos pours out a lament for Israel. This literary device is frequently used in Old Testament prophecy (e.g., Jer. 7:29; Ezek. 19:1; 26:17; 27:2; 32:2).

■ 5:2 virgin of Israel. This kind of personification is used of Israel (cf. Jer. 18:13; 2 Kin. 19:21) and of other nations such as Babylon (Is. 47:1) and Egypt (Jer. 46:11).

fallen. This term is used in other laments (e.g., 2 Sam. 1:19, 25, 27; 3:34; Lam. 2:21).

■ 5:3 a thousand . . . ten. The drastic military reversals described here perhaps echo the prophecy of such disasters in the covenant, which the Lord warned would come because of idolatry (Deut. 32:15–18, 28–30).

■ 5:4 Seek Me and live. The Lord had promised to meet those who would seek Him, even in exile (Deut. 4:29; cf. Lam. 3:25). Tragically, the Lord's people often did not seek Him (Is. 9:13; Jer. 10:21).

■ 5:5 Bethel . . . Gilgal. See note on 4:4.

Beersheba. This ancient holy place (Gen. 21:31–33; 26:23–25; 46:1–5) was located 50 miles south-southwest of Jerusalem. People from the north evidently went there on pilgrimage (8:14). In the seventh century B.C., Josiah destroyed the high places "from Geba to Beersheba" during his reform (2 Kin. 23:8).

Gilgal . . . captivity. The words form an alliterative wordplay in Hebrew.

6 [g]Seek the LORD and live,
Lest He break out like fire in the house of Joseph,
And devour it,
With no one to quench it in Bethel—
7 You who [h]turn justice to wormwood,
And lay righteousness to rest in the earth!"

8 He made the [i]Pleiades and Orion;
He turns the shadow of death into morning
[j]And makes the day dark as night;
He [k]calls for the waters of the sea
And pours them out on the face of the earth;
[l]The LORD is His name.

So that fury comes upon the fortress.

And they [n]abhor the one who speaks uprightly.
11 [o]Therefore, because you [2]tread down the poor
And take grain [3]taxes from him,
Though [p]you have built houses of hewn stone,
Yet you shall not dwell in them;
You have planted [4]pleasant vineyards,
But you shall not drink wine from them.
12 For I [q]know your manifold transgressions
And your mighty sins:
[r]Afflicting the just and taking bribes;
[s]Diverting the poor from justice at the gate.
13 Therefore [t]the prudent keep silent at that time,
For it is an evil time.

house of Joseph. Ephraim and Manasseh, the tribes descending from Joseph (Gen. 48:15 note), whose tribal areas contained Bethel (Ephraim) and Gilgal (Manasseh). These northern sanctuaries would be destroyed. Beersheba, in the south, would escape the fire of judgment that swept through the northern kingdom.

no one to quench it. The Lord's judgment fire cannot be extinguished (Is. 1:31; Jer. 4:4; Matt. 3:12).

■ 5:7 justice . . . righteousness. These often occur together in the Old Testament as qualities of life the Lord desires (v. 24; Is. 5:7).

■ 5:8 made . . . turns . . . pours. See note on 4:13. This majestic description of the Lord contrasts starkly with the previous verse.

Pleiades. A star cluster in the constellation Taurus, with six or seven prominent stars visible to the unaided eye.

Orion. In classical mythology, the constellation Orion is "the Hunter." In Job also, the Pleiades and Orion are named together as evidences of God's incomparable power and wisdom (Job 9:9; 38:31).

■ 5:10 They hate . . . they abhor. This verse contrasts with vv. 11, 12, which are in the second person. Such shifts of person are common in ancient Near Eastern writings of all kinds, and no significant difference of tone seems intended here.

who rebukes . . . who speaks uprightly. A reference to those who reprove falsehood in court and bear true witness there. Israel had come to hate such men, presumably because they threatened practices of corruption and dishonest gain (2:6 and note).

in the gate. Much of a city's legal business was transacted in its gate, a large passageway with adjoining rooms.

■ 5:11 houses of hewn stone. These were costly to build, in contrast to the mud brick houses in which most people lived (cf. Is. 9:10).

You shall not dwell . . . you shall not drink. The curse of futility (failure to enjoy the fruit of one's labor) had fallen on the Canaanites as Israel dispossessed them from their cities (Deut. 6:10, 11). Now Israel will suffer the same fate, according to the words of Deut. 25:30 (cf. Is. 65:21–23; 1 Cor. 15:58).

■ 5:12 For I know. Israel must realize that the Lord knows what they perhaps imagine He does not know (cf. Ps. 73:11; Job 22:13, 14).

bribes. The Hebrew term can refer to a common bribe (1 Sam. 12:3) or to a ransom for loss of life (Ex. 21:30). In view here may be the taking of a ransom for the life of a murderer, which was against the law (Num. 35:31).

■ 5:13 an evil time. This phrase explains why the prudent will be silent: the times will be so bad that the truth will not be tolerated.

■ 5:14 Seek good and not evil. For this thought of effective repentance, see Is. 1:16–17. In 5:4 they were commanded to "Seek Me"; only God is good (Matt. 19:17).

That you may live. Obedience to the Lord would bring them security and prosperity (Deut. 28:1–14); but the verse points to a deeper truth, that to know God is life itself (John 17:3).

God . . . with you. This is the deepest need of God's people, expressed prophetically in the name Immanuel ("God with us," Is. 7:14; cf. Matt. 1:23).

As you have spoken. Israel complacently claimed that the Lord was with them, despite their rebelliousness, simply because He had made a covenant with them (cf. Matt. 3:9).

So the LORD God of hosts will be with you,
[u] As you have spoken.
15 [v] Hate evil, love good;
Establish justice in the gate.
[w] It may be that the LORD God of hosts
Will be gracious to the remnant of Joseph.

The Day of the LORD

16 Therefore the LORD God of hosts, the Lord, says this:

"There shall be wailing in all streets,
And they shall say in all the highways,
'Alas! Alas!'
They shall call the farmer to mourning,
[x] And skillful lamenters to wailing.
17 In all vineyards there shall be wailing,
For [y] I will pass through you,"
Says the LORD.

18 [z] Woe to you who desire the day of the LORD!
For what good is [a] the day of the LORD to you?
It will be darkness, and not light.
19 It will be [b] as though a man fled from a lion,
And a bear met him!
Or as though he went into the house,
Leaned his hand on the wall,
And a serpent bit him!
20 Is not the day of the LORD darkness, and not light?
Is it not very dark, with no brightness in it?

21 "I [c] hate, I despise your feast days,
And [d] I do not savor your sacred assemblies.
22 [e] Though you offer Me burnt offerings and your grain offerings,
I will not accept them,
Nor will I regard your fattened peace offerings.
23 Take away from Me the noise of your songs,
For I will not hear the melody of your stringed instruments.
24 [f] But let justice run down like water,
And righteousness like a mighty stream.

remnant of Joseph. The northern kingdom of Israel was dominated by the tribe of Ephraim, descendants of one of Joseph's sons (Deut. 33:17 note). Though Israel was relatively prosperous and strong, the phrase anticipates the future, after God's judgment, when He would graciously restore a remnant of the people.

■ 5:17 all vineyards. The laments over Israel will be taken up in every part of the land, since every part will be punished.

I will pass through. The same verb appears at Ex. 12:12, where the Lord speaks of His impending judgment on Egypt. Ironically, because Israel has become as pagan as Egypt, He must now "pass through" Israel in judgment as well (7:2 note).

■ 5:18–27 This second portion of ch. 5 treats the day of the Lord and His rejection of Israel.

■ 5:18 the day of the LORD. Ultimately, this is the great and terrible "day of the LORD" when He comes in judgment (cf. Is. 2:12; 13:6–13; Obad. 15; Zeph. 1:7, 14). Every Old Testament judgment was also a "day of the LORD," and anticipated that final day. Joel described it as a day of terrible judgment and destruction (Joel 1:15–20; 2:11), although it would also be accompanied by a redemptive outpouring of God's Spirit (Joel 2:28–32).

darkness, and not light. The Lord alone has power to make day as dark as night, both literally and figuratively, in judgment (v. 8).

■ 5:19 lion . . . bear. Amos vividly portrays the futility of trying to escape the Lord's judgment (Is. 24:17, 18).

■ 5:20 brightness. In addition to denoting physical light, the Hebrew word for "brightness" is associated with the Lord (Ps. 18:12; Is. 4:5) and with the righteous (Prov. 4:18, 19; Is. 60:3; 62:1). There will be no light of righteousness in the land, and no brightness from the Lord's favorable countenance. Judgment will be black and total, engulfing the whole land.

■ 5:21–24 For a similar condemnation of empty ritual and sacrifice without repentance, see Mic. 6:6–8 (cf. Matt. 5:23, 24; 1 Cor. 13:3).

■ 5:21 I hate, I despise. Two Hebrew words here combine to express the attitude more forcefully than either could by itself. The result can be translated, "I reject with utter hatred."

I do not savor. The language refers to burnt offerings. In the Mosaic covenant, the Lord declares that if His people were disobedient, He would "not smell the fragrance" of their offerings (Lev. 26:31).

■ 5:24 justice . . . righteousness. See note on v. 7.

Warnings to Zion and Samaria

Notable persons in the [d]chief nation,
To whom the house of Israel comes!
2 [e]Go over to [f]Calneh and see;
And from there go to [g]Hamath the great;
Then go down to Gath of the Philistines.
[h]Are you better than these kingdoms?
Or is their territory greater than your territory?

3 Woe to you who [i]put far off the day of [j]doom, [k]Who cause [l]the seat of violence to come near;
4 Who lie on beds of ivory,
Stretch out on your couches,
Eat lambs from the flock
And calves from the midst of the stall;

And invent for yourselves [n]musical instruments [o]like David;
6 Who [p]drink wine from bowls,
And anoint yourselves with the best ointments,
[q]But are not grieved for the affliction of Joseph.

rainy season, but which are dry at other times. The Lord desires righteousness that is like His own, dependable and strong.

■ 5:25 Did you offer. Offerings had been brought to the Lord during the wilderness wanderings (Ex. 18:12; Lev. 9:8–24). The question emphasizes that such offerings were not of primary importance to the Lord. Rather, He wants worship in spirit and in truth accompanied by true repentance.

■ 5:26 carried Sikkuth . . . Chiun. Sikkuth (or Sakkuth) was an Assyrian deity associated with the planet Saturn. Chiun (or Kaiwan) was a Babylonian term for Saturn. Amos here refers to idols associated with astral deities that were carried in cultic processions. The Septuagint (Greek Old Testament) translated the Hebrew for "Sikkuth your king" as "tabernacle of Moloch" (the Hebrew letters are similar), a reading quoted by Stephen in Acts 7:43.

Which you made for yourselves. Old Testament attacks against idolatry often focus on the merely man-made nature of the idols (Is. 44:9–20; Jer. 10:1–5; Mic. 5:13).

■ 5:27 beyond Damascus. Banishment beyond Damascus in Syria implied exile to Assyria, as the prophet's audience well understood. Exile far from home was one of the original covenant curses (Deut. 28:36, 64).

■ 6:1 Zion . . . Mount Samaria. Zion (Jerusalem) and Samaria were the capitals of Judah and Israel respectively. Like his contemporaries Hosea, Isaiah, and Micah, Amos was given prophecies that addressed both the southern and northern kingdoms (Hos. 6:4–11; Mic. 1:5).

chief nation. The same ironic Hebrew phrase occurs also at Num. 24:20 (referring to Amalek). Israel had become powerful and prosperous under Jeroboam II, and might fancy herself the first among the nations.

■ 6:2 Calneh. The identity of this city is uncertain, but it may be the Calno mentioned in Is. 10:9, which was conquered by Sargon II of Assyria in 710 B.C.

Hamath the great. Located north of Dan on the Orontes River in Syria, it was restored to Israelite control by Jeroboam II (2 Kin. 14:23–25).

Gath. One of the five major Philistine cities (1:6 note), Judah's Uzziah had recaptured Gath from Syrian control (2 Kin. 12:17; 2 Chr. 26:6).

Are you better . . . is their territory greater. The precise historical context and meaning of this verse is debated. Some suggest that Calneh, Hamath, and Gath had been conquered, and that Israel should therefore not expect to escape conquest either. Others contend that Amos mentions other flourishing capitals of the region to show that Israel was as great as they, perhaps implying that Israel's territory is not so small that aggressors will ignore it and attack these other cities instead.

■ 6:3 seat of violence. Israel has enthroned violence, such as extortion and abuse of the poor, as a way of life, while also denying that the day of judgment is coming.

■ 6:4 ivory. A symbol of wealth and luxury (3:15; 1 Kin. 10:22).

calves . . . stall. Choice calves were kept in stalls and fattened for special occasions. Such was the normal fare for the wealthy of Samaria.

■ 6:5 like David. An ironic comparison with David's musical interests. Unlike their frivolous endeavors, David composed many psalms to the glory of the Lord (2 Sam. 23:1).

■ 6:6 from bowls. That is, from large bowls or basins. The same Hebrew word is used for the large bowls before the altar at the temple (Num. 7:13; Zech. 14:20). The prophet's hyperbole vividly portrays the excesses of the city.

Joseph. See note on 5:6.

7 Therefore they shall now go [r]captive as the first of the captives,
And those who recline at banquets shall be removed.

The LORD God of hosts says:
"I abhor [t]the pride of Jacob,
And hate his palaces;
Therefore I will deliver up the city
And all that is in it."

9 Then it shall come to pass, that if ten men remain in one house, they shall die. 10 And when [1]a relative of the dead, with one who will burn the bodies, picks up the [2]bodies to take them out of the house, he will say to one inside the house, "Are there any more with you?"
Then someone will say, "None."
And he will say, [u]"Hold your tongue! [v]For we dare not mention the name of the LORD."

11 For behold, [w]the LORD gives a command:
[x]He will break the great house into bits,
And the little house into pieces.

12 Do horses run on rocks?
Does one plow there with oxen?
Yet [y]you have turned justice into gall,
And the fruit of righteousness into wormwood,
13 You who rejoice over [3]Lo Debar,
Who say, "Have we not taken [4]Karnaim for ourselves
By our own strength?"

14 "But, behold, [z]I will raise up a nation against you,
O house of Israel,"
Says the LORD God of hosts;
"And they will afflict you from the [a]entrance of Hamath
To the Valley of the Arabah."

14 [z]Jer. 5:15 [a]Num. 34:7, 8; 1 Kin. 8:65; 2 Kin. 14:25

■ 6:7 first of the captives. This phrase is a Hebrew wordplay on the earlier phrase, "chief nation" (v. 1). Israel fancied herself the chief of nations, but would find herself leading the exiles.

■ 6:8–14 A series of judgment pronouncements follows the indictments of vv. 1–7.

■ 6:8 sworn by Himself. Similar to oaths in Gen. 22:16; Ex. 32:13; Is. 45:23, here indicating that the judicial sentence is unalterable (Heb. 6:13 note).

pride of Jacob. This refers both to Israel's pride and to that in which they took pride—their military strength. The word translated "palaces" has the sense of "fortified palace" or "citadel."

■ 6:9 ten men . . . one house. The meaning seems to be that small remnants hoping to escape will be found and killed.

■ 6:10 relative . . . one who will burn. Lit. "a man's kinsman and his burner," probably one and the same individual. Fear of epidemics may have required cremation instead of burial. Or the burning mentioned could be a fire in honor of the dead (Jer. 34:5).

dare not mention the name of the LORD. Previously, one might mention or invoke the Lord's name for help, since He was the God of Israel's covenant. But on the day of judgment one may not do this, because the God of the covenant is coming in judgment (cf. Is. 48:1).

■ 6:11 gives a command. The Lord is rousing Assyria, His instrument of judgment, to come against Israel (cf. Is. 10:5, 6).

great house . . . little house. Both the great houses of the wealthy and the small houses of the poor will be shattered by the coming judgment. Here, as often in Hebrew, the word for "house" can also mean "household" or "family."

■ 6:12 Do horses run on rocks. Obviously not; no one runs a horse in such treacherous footing. Neither would one plow on rocks. But Israel's injustice is just as absurd. A suggested reading of the second question, "Does one plow the sea with oxen," requires a different word division in the Hebrew and is attested by no ancient version. It is better to take "rocks" as understood, although not explicitly stated, in the second query.

■ 6:13 Lo Debar . . . Karnaim. Lo Debar was a border town in Gilead; Karnaim a city on the plain of Bashan on the way to Damascus. Both were apparently retaken from Hazael by Jehoash (2 Kin. 10:32, 33; 13:25), but later conquered by Assyria (2 Kin. 15:29). The names respectively mean "nothing" and "a pair of horns." A wordplay is intended, by which Amos says that Israel rejoices in the conquest of nothing (the conquest of Lo Debar, soon to be taken by Assyria, was short-lived), and boasts of having taken "a pair of horns" (symbolic of military strength in the ancient Near East) by their own strength. Their conquests amount to nothing, and their strength will melt away before the Lord's judgment.

■ 6:14 a nation. Assyria.

Hamath . . . Valley of the Arabah. The northern and southern boundaries of the kingdom as restored by Jeroboam II (2 Kin. 14:25).

Vision of the Locusts

7 Thus the Lord GOD showed me: Behold, He formed locust swarms at the [1]beginning of the late crop; indeed it was the late crop after the king's mowings. 2 And so it was, when they had finished eating the grass of the land, that I said:

"O Lord GOD, forgive, I pray!
[a]Oh,[2] that Jacob may stand,
For he is small!"
3 So [b]the LORD relented concerning this.
"It shall not be," said the LORD.

Vision of the Fire

4 Thus the Lord GOD showed me: Behold, the Lord GOD called [3]for conflict by fire, and it consumed the great deep and devoured the [4]territory. 5 Then I said:

"O Lord GOD, cease, I pray!
[c]Oh, that Jacob may stand,
For he is small!"
6 So the LORD relented concerning this.
"This also shall not be," said the Lord GOD.

Vision of the Plumb Line

7 Thus He showed me: Behold, the Lord stood on a wall made with a plumb line, with a plumb line in His hand. 8 And the LORD said to me, "Amos, what do you see?"
And I said, "A plumb line."
Then the Lord said:

"Behold, [d]I am setting a plumb line
In the midst of My people Israel;
[e]I will not pass by them anymore.
9 [f]The [5]high places of Isaac shall be desolate,
And the [6]sanctuaries of Israel shall be laid waste.
[g]I will rise with the sword against the house of Jeroboam."

■ 7:1—8:3 This long section contains four visions (7:1–3; 7:4–6; 7:7–9; 8:1–3) and an autobiographical section related to the third vision (7:10–17). The first two visions have the structure: (a) the Lord gives the vision; (b) Amos intercedes; (c) the Lord relents. Conversation between the Lord and His prophet is an integral part of the visionary experience.

■ 7:1 locust swarms. This Hebrew word, occurring only here and in Nah. 3:17, denotes swarming locusts just hatched.

late crop . . . king's mowings. This verse seems to indicate that the first crop (the "king's mowings") represented the king's share (cf. 5:11; 1 Kin. 12:4), while the farmer and his family depended on the second harvest for survival. Destruction of this second crop by locusts placed the population at risk of starvation.

■ 7:2 eating the grass of the land. The Hebrew word for "grass" is general; all vegetation was destroyed, not just crops. In Hebrew, the whole phrase echoes the description of the locust plague in Ex. 10:12, 15 ("every herb of the land"). The Lord would punish Israel just as He punished Egypt before the Exodus.

■ 7:3 relented. Moved by intercessory appeal, the Lord is willing to change His mind, or relent, concerning an intended punishment (cf. Ex. 32:12, 14; Joel 2:13; Jon. 3:10; Jer. 18:8). See note on Gen. 6:6.

■ 7:4 conflict by fire. See note on 1:4; Is. 66:15–16.

great deep . . . territory. The "great deep" could be the Mediterranean Sea, although the same phrase is also used of the chaotic subterranean waters (Gen. 7:11 note), and of the Red Sea at Israel's crossing (Is. 51:10). The prospect of a fire that will devour sea and land echoes the covenant judgment warning in Deut. 32:22. The language exceeds what happened in the Old Testament, but foreshadows the Last Judgment (cf. 2 Pet. 3:10; Rev. 21:1), of which all previous judgments are but types.

■ 7:7 He showed me. This and the fourth vision (8:1–3) have the same structure: (a) the Lord gives the vision; (b) the Lord questions Amos; (c) Amos replies; (d) the Lord explains and judges. Similarly structured visionary experiences are recorded at Jer. 1:11, 12, 13–16.

a wall made with a plumb line. Most interpret this image to portray Israel being judged to see if they measured up to God's standard. Others, following another analysis of the words (the word translated "plumb" resembles the Accadian word for "tin"), render this "a wall of tin." The same "wall" symbolism in Egyptian literature stands for military capability (cf. "bronze wall," Jer. 15:20; and "iron wall," Ezek. 4:3). The use of an Accadian (Assyrian) word for the metal indicates the source of the military power that the Lord will use to judge Israel.

with a plumb line in His hand. See note above. Many interpret this phrase as a reference to God's covenant law, His standard of judgment. Others render this phrase "with tin in his hand," a probable reference to Assyrian power, anticipating that He will put "tin" (i.e., Assyrian power) in the midst of His people (v. 8).

■ 7:8 not pass by them. No longer will the Lord pass over their transgressions (Mic. 7:18).

■ 7:9 high places . . . sanctuaries. These high places were traditional sites of Canaanite idolatrous worship (Deut. 12:2; 2 Kin. 17:10–12). The sanctuaries were for idolatrous or syncretistic worship.

sword . . . house of Jeroboam. Jeroboam himself might not die by the sword, but his household or family would be affected. Although Jeroboam apparently died a natural death (2 Kin. 14:29), his son Zechariah was murdered (2 Kin. 15:10).

Amaziah's Complaint

10 Then Amaziah the [h]priest of [i]Bethel sent to [j]Jeroboam king of Israel, saying, "Amos has conspired against you in the midst of the house of Israel. The land is not able to [7]bear all his words. 11 For thus Amos has said:

'Jeroboam shall die by the sword,
And Israel shall surely be led away [k]captive
From their own land.'"

12 Then Amaziah said to Amos:

"Go, you seer!
Flee to the land of Judah.
There eat bread,
And there prophesy.
13 But [l]never again prophesy at Bethel,
[m]For it is the king's [8]sanctuary,
And it is the royal [9]residence."

14 Then Amos answered, and said to Amaziah:

"I was no prophet,
Nor was I [n]a son of a prophet,
But I was a [o]sheepbreeder
And a tender of sycamore fruit.
15 Then the LORD took me [l]as I followed the flock,
And the LORD said to me,
'Go, [p]prophesy to My people Israel.'
16 Now therefore, hear the word of the LORD:
You say, 'Do not prophesy against Israel,
And [q]do not [2]spout against the house of Isaac.'

17 "Therefore[r] thus says the LORD:

10 [h]1 Kin. 12:31, 32; 13:33 [i]1 Kin. 13:32; Amos 4:4 [j]2 Kin. 14:23 [7]Or endure

17 [r]Jer. 28:12; 29:21, 32

■ 7:10–17 This autobiographical section apparently relates to the third vision, telling the reaction of Amaziah to the prophecies of Amos.

■ 7:10 the priest of Bethel. Amaziah was probably the chief priest at the shrine of Bethel.

Amos has conspired. The political implications of the prophet's preaching are apparent. Jeremiah too was wrongly considered a traitor because of his prophecies against Judah (Jer. 26:11; 37:11–13; 38:1–6).

■ 7:11 Jeroboam shall die by the sword. Probably an allusion to the prophecy in v. 9. Amaziah misquotes Amos so as to make Jeroboam feel more personally threatened.

■ 7:12 There eat bread . . . prophesy. Probably this means "earn your living by prophesying there in Judah." Although it was appropriate for a prophet to be paid for his work (1 Sam. 9:6–8; but cf. Mic. 3:5, 11), Amaziah accuses Amos of being merely a prophet for hire. Amaziah's commands here are an example of the sin of commanding the prophets not to prophesy (2:12).

■ 7:13 king's sanctuary . . . royal residence. From the time when Jeroboam I established idolatry at Bethel (3:14 note) the kings of Israel had a major influence on the cult. Amaziah is concerned for the sanctuary of his earthly king, rather than for the sanctuary of the great King, the Lord. Ironically, Amaziah is the religious official concerned to protect earthly interests—the very charge which he brought against Amos (v. 12). A future generation of priests would likewise put to death Jesus, the greatest of the prophets, out of a wrong concern to protect their own kingdom and temple (John 11:48).

■ 7:14 no prophet . . . son of a prophet. Amos was not originally a prophet, nor one of the so-called "sons of the prophets" (i.e., disciples of the prophets; 1 Kin. 20:35; 2 Kin. 2:3, 5, 7, 15). He was not a paid professional prophet.

sheepbreeder. See note on 1:1.

tender of sycamore fruit. One who treated the fruit by appropriate cutting to ensure superior sweetness once the fruit was ripe. Amos was skilled in more than one trade (1:1 note).

■ 7:15 the LORD took me . . . My people Israel. Amos flatly rejects Amaziah's accusation (7:12) and stresses his divine call to prophesy. The same phrasing is used for the Lord's choice of David as king (2 Sam. 7:8). The prophet's allusion to David's call indicates that the Lord has the sovereign right to choose both kings and prophets—and that His prophets have every right to prophesy at the "king's royal residence" (v. 13).

■ 7:16 Do not prophesy. See 2:12 and note; 7:12, 13.

■ 7:17 wife shall be a harlot. Either by being ravished at the fall of the city, or out of desperation after the loss of family and wealth (cf. Deut. 28:30).

Your sons and daughters. Sons and daughters were often punished along with parents for covenant transgressions (Deut. 28:32, 53; Jer. 5:17; Ezek. 24:21); violent death was a typical covenant punishment (Is. 3:25; Jer. 39:18).

die in a defiled land. Exile would be especially distasteful for the priest Amaziah: by living in a pagan land he would become ritually unclean. See note on Lev. 11—16.

Israel . . . land. Amos sarcastically quotes Amaziah's own words from v. 11 back at him.

Vision of the Summer Fruit

8 Thus the Lord GOD showed me: Behold, a basket of summer fruit. 2 And He said, "Amos, what do you see?"
So I said, "A basket of summer fruit."
Then the LORD said to me:

[a]"The end has come upon My people Israel;
[b]I will not pass by them anymore.
3 And [c]the songs of the temple
Shall be wailing in that day,"
Says the Lord GOD—
"Many dead bodies everywhere,
[d]They shall be thrown out in silence."

4 Hear this, you who [f]swallow up the needy,
And make the poor of the land fail,

5 Saying:

"When will the New Moon be past,
That we may sell grain?
And [e]the Sabbath,
That we may [2]trade wheat?
[f]Making the ephah small and the shekel large,
Falsifying the scales by [g]deceit,
6 That we may buy the poor for [h]silver,
And the needy for a pair of sandals—
Even sell the bad wheat?"

7 The LORD has sworn by [i]the pride of Jacob:
"Surely [j]I will never forget any of their works.
8 [k]Shall the land not tremble for this,
And everyone mourn who dwells in it?
All of it shall swell like [3]the River,
Heave and subside
[l]Like the River of Egypt.

■ 8:2 summer fruit. The Hebrew words for "summer fruit" and "end" are similar, and are skillfully brought together here for effect. The vision of summer fruit indicates that the "end has come" for Israel.

not pass by them. See note on 7:8.

■ 8:3 that day. See note on 5:18.

songs . . . wailing. The Lord would no longer tolerate the noise of the temple songs (5:23), which would turn to the wailing of bereavement when the Lord came in judgment.

Many dead bodies. An abundance of corpses was typical in defeated cities in the ancient Near East, especially when conquered by the Assyrians (Nah. 3:3).

■ 8:4–14 God charges Israel with social injustice, commercial dishonesty, and indifference to holy days.

■ 8:5 New Moon . . . Sabbath. The New Moon festival was celebrated every fourth week, with various offerings (Num. 28:11–15). The Sabbath, observed every week, was founded on God's acts of creation (Ex. 20:8–11) and redemption (Deut. 5:12 note). Work was forbidden on these days.

ephah small . . . scales. Such dishonest business practices were against the Lord's law, and would result in His judgment (Lev. 19:36; Deut. 25:14).

■ 8:6 silver . . . sandals. See notes on 2:6.

the bad wheat. Lit. "the refuse of the wheat." The estate owners sold even the chaff, which fell to the floor when the wheat was threshed, mixing it with the wheat and cheating the buyer.

■ 8:7 the pride of Jacob. See note on 6:8. Here the phrase may refer to the Lord Himself, or to the land of Israel, which is elsewhere called "our inheritance . . . the excellence of Jacob" (Ps. 47:4).

■ 8:8 Heave and subside. Each year the Nile rose and overflowed its banks, flooding the countryside and leaving rich deposits of silt. The imagery is used here to depict a coming flood of judgment—the upheaval of the Assyrian invasion (cf. Is. 8:7, 8).

9 "And it shall come to pass in that day," says the Lord GOD,
[m]"That I will make the sun go down at noon,
And I will darken the earth in [4]broad daylight;
10 I will turn your feasts into [n]mourning,
[o]And all your songs into lamentation;
[p]I will bring sackcloth on every waist,
And baldness on every head;
I will make it like mourning for an only son,
And its end like a bitter day.

11 "Behold, the days are coming," says the Lord GOD,
"That I will send a famine on the land,
Not a famine of bread,
Nor a thirst for water,
But [q]of hearing the words of the LORD.
12 They shall wander from sea to sea,
And from north to east;
They shall run to and fro, seeking the word of the LORD,
But shall [r]not find it.

13 "In that day the fair virgins
And strong young men
Shall faint from thirst.
14 Those who [s]swear by [t]the [5]sin of Samaria,
Who say,
'As your god lives, O Dan!'
And, 'As the way of [u]Beersheba lives!'
They shall fall and never rise again."

The Destruction of Israel

9 I saw the Lord standing by the altar, and He said:

"Strike the [1]doorposts, that the thresholds may shake,
And [a]break them on the heads of them all.
I will slay the last of them with the sword.
[b]He who flees from them shall not get away,
And he who escapes from them shall not be delivered.

CHAPTER 9

1 [a]Ps. 68:21; Hab. 3:13 [b]Amos 2:14 [1]Capitals of the pillars

■ 8:9 that day. See note on 5:18.

I will make . . . I will darken. Though such idolatry was strictly prohibited by the covenant (Deut. 4:19), Judah and Israel engaged in star and sun worship (5:26 note; 2 Kin. 23:5, 11). The assertions here affirm that He alone is God, and the sun merely one of His creations (Gen. 1:16 and notes).

the earth. Or, "the land," since the land of Israel was to be punished. The phrase directly recalls the plague of darkness that the Lord brought upon the land of Egypt (cf. Ex. 10:21, 22; Ps. 105:28). Here again, the Lord is about to judge Israel with a judgment similar to that of Egypt.

■ 8:10 sackcloth. This coarse material was worn as a sign of mourning to indicate that the pleasures of life no longer mattered to the mourner (Gen. 37:34; 2 Sam. 3:31).

baldness on every head. Shaving the head was a sign of mourning. It was prohibited in the covenant (Lev. 21:5; Deut. 14:1), perhaps because it was a pagan practice of bodily disfigurement that disgraced God's image (Is. 15:2, 3; Ezek. 27:30, 31). Ironically, it was prophesied for Israel and Judah (cf. Is. 3:24; Mic. 1:16).

bitter. A term describing the ultimate consequences of sin (2 Sam. 2:26; Prov. 5:4).

■ 8:11 a famine . . . of hearing the words. This curse stems from the covenant law (Deut. 32:20; Hos. 3:4). So also in the period of the judges, when sin abounded (Judg. 21:25), "the word of the LORD was rare" (1 Sam. 3:1).

■ 8:12 from sea to sea. A standard phrase in the ancient Near East denoting "the ends of the earth," this literally meant "from the Mediterranean to the Persian Gulf."

■ 8:13 fair virgins . . . strong young men. Even the young and robust will be at the end of their strength (cf. Is. 51:20).

thirst. The focus is on physical extremity (cf. 4:7, 8), though spiritual thirst may be in view as well (v. 11).

■ 8:14 swear by the sin. See text note. To swear by a god in the ancient Near East implied the recognition and worship of that god. Israelites were commanded to swear only by the Lord (Deut. 6:13; 10:20; cf. Jer. 5:7; Zeph. 1:5).

■ 9:1–6 In the other four visions, Amos was an intercessor or respondent to the Lord's questions (7:1—8:3 note; 7:7 note). In this vision, however, Amos has no active role, but simply records what he sees.

■ 9:1 Strike . . . of them all. See text note. The command seems to be for an angel (cf. 2 Sam. 24:16; 2 Kin. 19:35) to destroy the temple, bringing it down on the heads of those within (cf. Judg. 16:29, 30).

2 Though[c] they dig into [2]hell,
From there My hand shall take them;
[d]Though they climb up to heaven,
From there I will bring them down;
3 And though they [e]hide themselves on top of Carmel,
From there I will search and take them;
Though they hide from My sight at the bottom of the sea,
From there I will command the serpent, and it shall bite them;
4 Though they go into captivity before their enemies,
From there [f]I will command the sword,
And it shall slay them.
[g]I will set My eyes on them for harm and not for good."

5 The Lord GOD of hosts,
He who touches the earth and it [h]melts,
[i]And all who dwell there mourn;
All of it shall swell like [3]the River,
And subside like the River of Egypt.
6 He who builds His [j]layers[4] in the sky,
And has founded His strata in the earth;
Who [k]calls for the waters of the sea,
And pours them out on the face of the earth—
[l]The LORD is His name.

7 "Are you not like the [5]people of Ethiopia to Me, O children of Israel?" says the LORD.
"Did I not bring up Israel from the land of Egypt,
The [m]Philistines from [n]Caphtor,[6]
And the Syrians from [o]Kir?

8 "Behold, [p]the eyes of the Lord GOD are on the sinful kingdom,
And I [q]will destroy it from the face of the earth;
Yet I will not utterly destroy the house of Jacob,"
Says the LORD.

9 "For surely I will command,
And will [7]sift the house of Israel among all nations,
As grain is sifted in a sieve;
[r]Yet not the smallest [8]grain shall fall to the ground.

serpent. This sea monster is perhaps the Leviathan of Is. 27:1. The Lord's sovereignty over all creation is poetically asserted; none can escape His justice.

■ 9:4 captivity. One of the covenant curses for disobedience (Deut. 28:41).

■ 9:5, 6 This section constitutes a short divine title (4:13 note), identifying the Lord as Judge.

■ 9:5 touches . . . melts. For similar expressions of the Lord's awesome power, see Ps. 46:6; 104:32; Nah. 1:5.

■ 9:6 layers. This can be rendered "palace" or "temple" (cf. Rev. 11:19). The Hebrew word means "steps" or "stairs" (text note), such as those used to enter the temple, particularly the temple of the end time (Ezek. 40:6, 22, 26, 31, 34).

strata. Lit. "vault." Here it perhaps means the arch or vault of heaven (Ex. 24:10 note).

The LORD is His name. An exact repetition of the phrase in 5:8.

■ 9:7 like the people of Ethiopia. Lit. "like the sons of Cushites," the dark-skinned tribes south of Egypt (Gen. 10:6). Sinful Israel has rejected the covenant and is no more privileged than the Ethiopians.

■ 9:9 sift . . . among all the nations. The Lord would scatter His people among the nations, first by means of Assyria, which often resettled conquered peoples in different parts of its empire.

As grain is sifted. Figuratively separating the wheat (the faithful) from the chaff (the sinners), the experience of exile will serve to purify the nation of Israel (v. 10).

10 All the sinners of My people shall die by the sword,
[s]Who say, 'The calamity shall not overtake nor confront us.'

I will raise up its ruins,
And rebuild it as in the days of old;
12 [u]That they may possess the remnant of [v]Edom,[2]
And all the Gentiles who are called by My name,"
Says the LORD who does this thing.

13 "Behold, [w]the days are coming," says the LORD,
"When the plowman shall overtake the reaper,
And the treader of grapes him who sows seed;
[x]The mountains shall drip with sweet wine,
And all the hills shall flow with it.
14 [y]I will bring back the captives of My people Israel;
[z]They shall build the waste cities and inhabit them;
They shall plant vineyards and drink wine from them;
They shall also make gardens and eat fruit from them.
15 I will plant them in their land,
[a]And no longer shall they be pulled up
From the land I have given them,"
Says the LORD your God.

■ 9:10 calamity shall not overtake. Denial of judgment, like denial of guilt, is characteristic of sin.

■ 9:11–15 Amos concludes with an oracle of promised restoration ordered as follows: (a) reconstruction (v. 11); (b) conquest (v. 12); (c) fruitful abundance (v. 13); (d) rebuilding and replanting (v. 14); (e) enduring security (9:15). Amos assures his readers that once the judgment of exile is past, restoration is as certain as was dispersion.

■ 9:11 On that day. The day of the Lord is here depicted as the time of Israel's deliverance (Zeph. 1:7 note).

tabernacle. See text note. The "booth" represents the dynasty of David which, to the eyes of the prophet, was as good as fallen. But the tabernacle of David will be rebuilt. In Jesus, the greater Son of David, the dynasty of David has been reestablished (Acts 15:16, 17).

■ 9:12 Edom. Though subject to divine judgment (1:11, 12), a remnant of Edom will be brought under the redemptive kingship of David's Son. Edom, indeed all the nations, will benefit from coming under the dominion of this future King (Ps. 2:8). In Acts 15:16, 17, James applies this passage to God's taking a people for Himself from among the Gentiles and including them in the church.

And all the Gentiles. The addition of this phrase suggests that "the remnant of Edom" represents the redeemed from all nations.

who are called by My name. This phrase tells us that some, not all, from every Gentile group will come under the dominion of David's Son. Only those who bear God's name among all the nations will be included. The phrase (lit. "upon whom My name is called") indicates subordination to the Name and sometimes is used of Israel's subordination to God's covenant lordship (Deut. 28:10; Jer. 14:9). Amos foresees that the Lord will take possession of the remnant of all nations and will reign over them in a covenantal relationship through His messianic King (Acts 15:13–17).

■ 9:13 A prediction of abundance, indeed more than abundance, follows the prophecies of disaster and desolation. The culmination of the Lord's redemptive work through David's Son is portrayed in terms of endless cycles of fruitfulness, reminiscent of Eden but surpassing it (cf. Joel 3:18).

■ 9:14 bring back the captives. Lit. "turn the captivity of my people," a recurring phrase in the prophetic covenant lawsuits (Jer. 29:14; Ezek. 16:53; Hos. 6:11).

build . . . inhabit . . . plant . . . drink. These blessings reverse the earlier futility curses (5:11 and note).

■ 9:15 I will plant them. The Lord promises lasting safety for His people. God's covenant with David had promised an eternal kingship (v. 11; 2 Sam. 7:10). David's greater Son, Jesus Christ, will guarantee redeemed Israel's permanent blessedness.

the land I have given them. See note on Gen. 13:15. The phrasing harks back to God's covenant with Abraham and his descendants (Gen. 12:1, 7; 13:14–17; 15:18; 17:8). The physical Promised Land is but a type of the New Israel's life in Christ; it points forward to the heavenly Jerusalem (Heb. 11:13–16; 12:22–24). The covenant land promise finds final fulfillment in the new heavens and the new earth (Rev. 21:1—22:6).

The Book of

OBADIAH

Author We know little of the prophet other than his name, which means "servant of the LORD." The name itself is not unusual in the Old Testament. The value and authority of the message rests on the foundation that "the LORD has spoken" (v. 18), and not on the fame or prominence of the messenger.

Date and Occasion Students of this prophecy have long debated the date of its composition. The prophet has in view a military assault on Jerusalem in which the Edomites gleefully took part (vv. 11–14), but he does not provide information that clearly dates the catastrophe. Some date the book in relation to an invasion of Judah by Philistines and Arabs during King Jehoram's reign (848–841 B.C.), in which it is presumed that the Edomites participated (2 Kin. 8:20–22; 2 Chr. 21:8–10, 16, 17).

Others relate the events prompting this prophecy to the invasions of Judah by the Babylonians, which resulted eventually in her collapse in 586 B.C. Both Scripture (Ps. 137; Ezek. 35:1–15) and Jewish tradition explicitly mention the Edomites' involvement in this final catastrophe, and the text of Obadiah seems to refer more naturally to this event.

Although the striking similarities between vv. 1–9 of this prophecy and Jer. 49:7–22 must be more than an impressive coincidence, they do not resolve the problem of dating Obadiah. We know that Jeremiah prophesied from about 626 B.C. until after 586; but whether one prophet quotes the other, or whether both prophets used an earlier source, is uncertain.

Characteristics and Themes The prophecy is "concerning Edom" (v. 1) and is repeatedly addressed to that nation, but it was given to the covenant community as holy Scripture. The purpose, therefore, more than to warn Edom of imminent judgment, is to reassure God's people of His triumphant justice at work for them. Edom prospered, Judah lay defeated, and the moral order of the world appeared to have been overthrown by lawless forces. But the prophet Obadiah was raised up with a message of God's sovereign justice in order to strengthen His people's weakened faith. It is the righteous purpose of God, not the evil will of men, that determines history.

When the church suffers at the hands of God's enemies, she needs to return to the prophecy of Obadiah and renew her faith in the just God revealed there. He cares for His persecuted people, and behind their present circumstances He is always at work for them. □

Outline of Obadiah

  D. Edom's Vulnerability to God's Judgment (vv. 8, 9)
  E. Edom's Cruel Indifference to Judah's Trouble (vv. 10–14)
II. God's Promise of a New Moral Order (vv. 15–21)
  A. Vengeance Against the Nations and Edom (vv. 15, 16)
  B. Deliverance for Jerusalem (vv. 17, 18)
  C. Land Possessed by the Lord's People (vv. 19–21)

The Coming Judgment on Edom

THE vision of Obadiah.

Thus says the Lord GOD [a]concerning Edom
[b](We have heard a report from the LORD,
And a messenger has been sent among the nations, saying,
"Arise, and let us rise up against her for battle"):

2 "Behold, I will make you small among the nations;
You shall be greatly despised.
3 The [c]pride of your heart has deceived you,
You who dwell in the clefts of the rock,
Whose habitation is high;
[d]You who say in your heart, 'Who will bring me down to the ground?'
4 [e]Though you ascend as high as the eagle,
And though you [f]set your nest among the stars,
From there I will bring you down," says the LORD.

5 "If [g]thieves had come to you,
If robbers by night—
Oh, how you will be cut off!—
Would they not have stolen till they had enough?
If grape-gatherers had come to you,
[h]Would they not have left some gleanings?

6 "Oh, how Esau shall be searched out!
How his hidden treasures shall be sought after!
7 All the men in your confederacy
Shall force you to the border;
[i]The men at peace with you
Shall deceive you and prevail against you.
Those who eat your bread shall lay a [1]trap for you.
[j]No[2] one is aware of it.

8 "Will[k] I not in that day," says the LORD,
"Even destroy the wise men from Edom,
And understanding from the mountains of Esau?
9 Then your [l]mighty men, O [m]Teman, shall be dismayed,

■ 1 vision. A supernatural revelation to the prophet's inner sight or hearing. Obadiah introduces the message he received from the Lord about Edom.

Thus says the Lord GOD. God revealed the content of the prophecy (cf. 2 Pet. 1:21). This raises the moral quality of its severity above human vengefulness to the purity of divine justice.

Edom. The bitterness between Edom and Israel began in the patriarchal period. God blessed Isaac and Rebekah with twin sons, Esau and Jacob (Gen. 25:21–26; cf. Mal. 1:2, 3; Rom. 9:10–13). The personal rivalry between Jacob and Esau (Gen. 27), from whom the nations of Israel and Edom descended, developed into longstanding national conflict (Ex. 15:13–15; Num. 20:14–21; 1 Sam. 14:47; 2 Sam. 8:13, 14; 1 Kin. 11:14, 15; 2 Kin. 8:20–22; 14:7). Edom also symbolically represents the enemies of God's people (Is. 63:1–6).

let us rise up against her. Speaking for his people, the prophet sees divine significance in the news of a conspiracy against Edom. Behind the human plot the Sovereign Lord is at work. That such news reached Obadiah's ears in connection with this vision was no coincidence; it was a token of the prophecy's fulfillment.

■ 2–14 God declares war on Edom, resolving to humiliate (vv. 2–4) and loot (vv. 5–7) that nation. No wise statesman or brave warrior in Edom will withstand the divine assault (vv. 8–10). Edom, which had been cruelly indifferent to Judah's woes (vv. 11–14), will fall.

■ 3 clefts of the rock. The Hebrew word for "rock" (sela') was also the name of a fortress city in the rocky heights of Edom. The rugged mountain terrain of Edom deterred invasion from without and encouraged complacency within.

■ 3, 4 Edom's arrogant question ("Who will bring me down?") is answered with God's solemn resolve ("I will bring you down").

■ 4 as high as the eagle . . . among the stars. A hyperbolic depiction of the Edomites' false sense of security. Despite Edom's apparent safety, no one can rise above God. Though Edom seemed invincible, God called Israel to realize that no earthly power can evade His sovereign justice.

■ 7 The conspiring nations of v. 1 turn out to be Edom's own allies. It is a matter of justice that Edom should be betrayed by friends, having stabbed "brother Jacob" (v. 10) in the back.

■ 8–10 Though wise and mighty, Edom will be no match for the Lord.

To the end that everyone from the mountains of Esau
May be cut off by slaughter.

Edom Mistreated His Brother

10 "For [n]violence against your brother Jacob,
Shame shall cover you,
And [o]you shall be cut off forever.
11 In the day that you [p]stood on the other side—
In the day that strangers carried captive his forces,
When foreigners entered his gates
And [q]cast lots for Jerusalem—
Even you were as one of them.
12 "But you should not have [r]gazed[3] on the day of your brother
[4]In the day of his captivity;
Nor should you have [s]rejoiced over the children of Judah
In the day of their destruction;
Nor should you have spoken proudly
In the day of distress.
13 You should not have entered the gate of My people
In the day of their calamity.
Indeed, you should not have [5]gazed on their affliction
In the day of their calamity,
Nor laid hands on their substance
In the day of their calamity.
14 You should not have stood at the crossroads
To cut off those among them who escaped;
Nor should you have [6]delivered up those among them who remained
In the day of distress.

15 "For[t] the day of the LORD upon all the nations is near;
[u]As you have done, it shall be done to you;
Your [7]reprisal shall return upon your own head.
16 [v]For as you drank on My holy mountain,
So shall all the nations drink continually;
Yes, they shall drink, and swallow,
And they shall be as though they had never been.

Israel's Final Triumph

17 "But on Mount Zion there [w]shall be [8]deliverance,
And there shall be holiness;
The house of Jacob shall possess their possessions.
18 The house of Jacob shall be a fire,
And the house of Joseph [x]a flame;

■ 9 Teman. The personal name of a descendant of Esau (Gen. 36:11), which was also used for the Edomite nation.

■ 11, 12 Edom is doomed because they broke the law of brotherly compassion by joining, in malicious merriment, with God's enemies as they destroyed Judah. The interplay between "your brother" in v. 10 and the invading "strangers" and "foreigners" here is powerful. The exploitation of a brother's adversity showed that Edom's true loyalty was toward getting ahead in the world, in disregard of moral and spiritual absolutes. The seeds of Edom's moral character were sown by their ancestor Esau, who showed that he cared more for earthly enjoyment than for God's kingdom by despising his birthright of covenant blessings and marrying Hittite wives (Gen. 25:29–34; 26:34, 35; cf. 27:46—28:1). Translated into New Testament terms, Edom embodies the spirit of "the world" (1 John 2:15–17).

■ 15–18 The day of divine retribution will destroy all God's enemies and vindicate His people, through whom He will execute judgment.

■ 15 day of the LORD upon all the nations. For the day of the Lord, see Is. 2:11, 12. Now the prophet sets the judgment of Edom against the larger backdrop of God's moral reckoning with all nations. This episode with Edom is only a small preview of God's judgment; He will not stop until He has cleansed His world of all His enemies. The connection between Edom and the rest of the nations is their shared rebellion against God.

■ 16 The Edomites' drunken revelry on the sacred temple mount in Jerusalem is answered in kind with the cup of God's wrath forced to the lips of Edom and all the nations that have desecrated the things of God.

■ 17 there shall be holiness. No longer the victim of pillaging armies, Mount Zion will again be holy, pure, cleansed for God.

But the house of Esau shall be stubble;
They shall kindle them and devour them,
And no survivor shall remain of the house of Esau,"
For the LORD has spoken.

19 The [g]South [y]shall possess the mountains of Esau,
[z]And the Lowland shall possess Philistia.
They shall possess the fields of Ephraim
And the fields of Samaria.
Benjamin shall possess Gilead.
20 And the captives of this host of the children of Israel
Shall possess the land of the Canaanites
As [a]far as Zarephath,
The captives of Jerusalem who are in Sepharad
[b]Shall possess the cities of the [f]South.
21 Then [c]saviors[2] shall come to Mount Zion
To judge the mountains of Esau,
And the [d]kingdom shall be the LORD's.

19 [y]Is. 11:14; Amos 9:12 [z]Zeph. 2:7 [g]Heb. Negev

20 [a]1 Kin. 17:9; Luke 4:26 [b]Jer. 32:44 [f]Heb. Negev

■ 18 no survivor. Those "who remained" (v. 14) of Judah will rise up like a blazing fire of divine wrath to consume Edom, leaving her not a single survivor. Although powerful in Obadiah's day, from God's perspective Edom is as good as dead.

the LORD has spoken. Like a signature, this clause emphasizes the finality of God's intentions. He has committed Himself.

■ 19, 20 God's exiled people will return to occupy the land of their inheritance, the boundaries of which will be restored and expanded.

■ 19 God promises His people that the boundaries of the Davidic kingdom will be restored in the south ("the mountains of Esau"), the west ("Philistia"), the north ("the fields of Ephraim and . . . of Samaria"), and the east ("Gilead").

■ 20 The boundaries of the Davidic kingdom will not only be restored (v. 19), but also extend to reach northward to Zarephath, between Tyre and Sidon.

Sepharad. The location is uncertain. Proposals include Sardis in Asia Minor, Spain, and Media. God prompts His exiled people to believe that no earthly deportation can remove them beyond the reach of His love.

■ 21 saviors. God's people, transformed from fugitives (v. 14) into deliverers (text note), will reign over what was once enemy-held territory.

the kingdom shall be the LORD's. While all created reality is the Lord's right now (Ps. 47:2; 145:13), Obadiah is making a different point here—that the kingdom will be the Lord's in that He will judge His enemies and deliver His people with finality. God will be all in all, and His glorious, triumphant people will reign forever with Him. In this promise, Judah found hope for a future without Edomite persecution; here too the church finds hope for the future, when "the kingdoms of this world have become the kingdoms of our Lord and of His Christ" (Rev. 11:15).

The Book of

JONAH

Author This fifth book of the twelve Minor Prophets takes its name from its principal character, Jonah the son of Amittai (1:1). Of Amittai, nothing is known. Outside of this composition Jonah is mentioned only in 2 Kin. 14:25, as "Jonah the son of Amittai, the prophet who was from Gath Hepher," the proclaimer of God's blessing to the northern kingdom of Israel during the reign of Jeroboam II (793–753 B.C.). In accordance with that prophecy, Jeroboam extended the borders of his kingdom beyond the frontier of Syria. The divine message to Nineveh found in this book was spoken through this same Jonah, although the author of the written narrative is unknown.

Date and Occasion Based on 2 Kin. 14:25, the events recorded in the Book of Jonah should be assigned to the eighth century B.C. Determining the chronology of the book's composition is a difficult task, however, and the book has been dated between the eighth and late third centuries B.C. It should be noted that there is no compelling evidence precluding an eighth-century date for the composition of the narrative (3:3 note).

The reign of Jeroboam II provides the setting for the Jonah story. This monarch was one of the strong military leaders of Israel's history. According to 2 Kin. 14:25–28, he imposed his authority on the territories of Damascus and Hamath, thereby restoring Israel's northern frontier to where it had been in the days of Solomon (1 Kin. 8:65). It is clear that Jeroboam's reign, together with that of his Judean contemporary Azariah (also called Uzziah, 792–740 B.C.), ushered in a period of remarkable peace and prosperity. As both Elisha and Jonah had prophesied (2 Kin. 13:19–25; 14:25), the northern kingdom enjoyed territorial expansion at the expense of Syria. By the outward appearances of population growth, territorial expansion, and commercial activity, Israel was indeed blessed by God.

However, this was not the picture that was painted a few years later by the prophets Hosea and Amos, when the kingdom fell into a state of social, moral, and religious decay. Their messages consisted, in part, of indictment and judgment of the nation for mixing the prescribed worship of the Lord with the idolatry of the surrounding peoples (religious syncretism) and for social injustice (Hos. 2:1–13; 4:1—5:14; Amos 2:6–16; 3:9–15).

Despite the narrative's focus on the prophet, the Book of Jonah is a story about the mercy and love of God. The Lord was the God of Israel, and that nation had been the special recipient of His covenant mercy and salvation. But Jonah, along with many of his countrymen, had responded with a national pride and ethnic particularism that blinded him to the grand scope of God's grace. Jonah was to learn, along with the nation, that Israel did not have a monopoly on the redemptive love of God (Acts 10:34, 35; Rom. 3:29). The story affirms the words of Ps. 145:8: "The LORD is gracious and full of compassion, slow to anger and great in mercy."

Interpretive Difficulties Some scholars have challenged the literary unity of the book, suggesting theories of composite authorship or of substantial changes by a later editor. More recently, questions have been raised with regard to the authenticity of Jonah's thanksgiving psalm in 2:2–9. Such arguments for the literary disunity in the composition are not convincing.

As for the interpretation of the Jonah story proper, four distinct approaches have been suggested: allegory, midrash, parable, and historical narrative.

Allegory is a method of teaching truths or principles by means of symbolic fictional narrative. A good example is John Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress, an exciting fictional story that conveys the truth that the Christian life is a spiritual pilgrimage. However, the text of Jonah lacks any compelling indication that would call for such an allegorical understanding.

Midrash is a type of commentary on Scripture classically carried on by Jewish scholars during the first thousand years of the Christian era. Jonah is treated by some as a type of early midrash, or commentary, on passages like Ex. 34:6, 7 (cf. Jon. 4:2), a commentary in which the events depicted are not necessarily historical. Such an approach fails to reckon with credible defenses of the book's historicity, and appears to conflict with Christ's witness regarding Jonah's experiences (Matt. 12:39–42; Luke 11:29–32).

The interpretation of the Book of Jonah as a parable is perhaps the most common. A parable is a brief and usually fictitious story that conveys moral, religious, or spiritual truths. Parables are best illustrated by the teachings of Jesus (e.g., Matt. 13:45, 46; Luke 10:29–37; 15:11–32). Nathan's parable in 2 Sam. 12:1–4 is a good Old Testament example. This view understands the Jonah narrative as a moral story with a teaching aim. There are a number of objections, however, to understanding the Book of Jonah as a parable, such as the unusual complexity and length of the story. This interpretation also deprives the book of its historical foundation.

In spite of its shocking surprises and sensational elements, Jonah should be understood as historical and prophetic narrative. The story centers on a specific figure and was written as a historical composition. Jewish tradition regarded the narrative as history, and Christ's allusions to the story (Matt. 12:38–41; Luke 11:29–32) lend further support to the historicity of the work. Jesus did not understand the Jonah story as a mere parable, but a narrative firmly rooted in historical reality.

Nevertheless, some scholars challenge the historical interpretation on several grounds, including the impossibility of the prophet's healthy survival inside the fish, the unlikelihood of the Ninevites' dramatic repentance, the size of Nineveh at the time, and the plant's fast rate of growth. Although some of these objections raise legitimate questions, most of the criticisms spring from assumptions that deny God's sovereignty in nature and history, including His ability to intervene supernaturally in the created order.

Characteristics and Themes

In addition to teaching the ethnic universality of God's mercy and love, the theme of God's universal sovereignty over man and creation is maintained throughout the book. God is presented as Creator, the Maker of land and sea (1:9). Creation responds obediently to His every command (1:4, 15, 17; 2:10; 4:6–8). Like the Assyrians of Isaiah's day (Is. 10:5–7), creation serves the will of the Creator.

In the New Testament, Jonah's theme of God's mercy on the nations is used by Jesus as a rebuke to unrepentant Israel (Matt. 12:38–41; Luke 11:29–32). If the Ninevites repented at the preaching of the prophet Jonah, who was rescued from confinement in the huge fish, how much more should Israel repent at the preaching of Jesus, the Son of Man, who will be resurrected from the tomb. In a sense, then, Jesus magnifies God's mercy on the Gentiles in order to rouse Israel to envy and repentance; the apostle Paul would do the same by his preaching to the Gentiles (Rom. 11:11–14). □

Jonah's Disobedience

CHAPTER 1

NOW the word of the LORD came to [a]Jonah the son of Amittai, saying, 2 "Arise, go to [b]Nineveh, that [c]great city, and cry out against it; for [d]their wickedness has come up before Me." 3 But Jonah arose to flee to Tarshish from the presence of the LORD. He went down to [e]Joppa, and found a ship going to Tarshish; so he paid the fare, and went down into it, to go with them to [f]Tarshish [g]from the presence of the LORD.

■ 1:1—2:10 The book of the prophet Jonah falls into two main divisions, each introduced by the sentence, "Now the word of the LORD came to Jonah." The first division comprises two sections: the call, flight, and judgment of Jonah (ch. 1), and the thanksgiving psalm (ch. 2).

■ 1:1–17 This passage depicts Jonah's disobedient response to the commission as a prophet to go to Nineveh, but does not tell us Jonah's reason for fleeing from God (which is not revealed until 4:2). Here we witness Jonah's interaction with the Gentile sailors, which involves a theme prominent in the book's second division—the Lord's mercy to Gentiles. Despite Jonah's disobedience and hypocrisy, the sailors do not despise Jonah's God, but see the clear hand of the God of Israel and respond in worship. In contrast with Jonah, the Gentile sailors are careful to avoid personal sin before God (v. 14). The prophet of God is judged, but the Gentiles are spared, an event that foreshadows the response and sparing of the Ninevites in the book's second division.

The Storm at Sea

4 But [h]the LORD [i]sent out a great wind on the sea, and there was a mighty tempest on the sea, so that the ship was about to be broken up.

5 Then the mariners were afraid; and every man cried out to his god, and threw the cargo that was in the ship into the sea, to lighten [2]the load. But Jonah had gone down [j]into the lowest parts of the ship, had lain down, and was fast asleep.

6 So the captain came to him, and said to him, "What do you mean, sleeper? Arise, [j]call on your God; [k]perhaps your God will consider us, so that we may not perish."

7 And they said to one another, "Come, let us [l]cast lots, that we may know for whose cause this trouble has come upon us." So they cast lots, and the lot fell on Jonah. 8 Then they said to him, [m]"Please tell us! For whose cause is this trouble upon us? What is your occupation? And where do you come from? What is your country? And of what people are you?"

9 So he said to them, "I am a Hebrew; and I fear [3]the LORD, the God of heaven, [n]who made the sea and the dry land."

Jonah Thrown into the Sea

10 Then the men were exceedingly afraid, and said to him, "Why have you done this?" For the men knew that he fled from the presence of the LORD, because he had told them. 11 Then they said to him, "What shall we do to you that the sea may be calm for us?"—for the sea was growing more tempestuous.

12 And he said to them, [o]"Pick me up and [4]throw me into the sea; then the sea will become calm for you. For I know that this great tempest is because of me."

13 Nevertheless the men rowed hard to return to land, [p]but they could not, for the sea continued to grow more tempestuous against them. 14 Therefore they cried out to the LORD and said, "We pray, O LORD, please do not let us perish for this man's life, and [q]do not charge us with innocent blood; for You, O LORD, [r]have done as it pleased You." 15 So they picked up Jonah and threw him into the sea, [s]and the sea ceased from its raging. 16 Then the men [t]feared the LORD exceedingly, and offered a sacrifice to the LORD and took vows.

Jonah's Prayer and Deliverance

17 Now the LORD had prepared a great fish to swallow Jonah. And [u]Jonah was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights.

wording like this is used some 112 times in the Old Testament to describe the giving of a divine message to a prophet.

Jonah the son of Amittai. The recipient of the Lord's revelation is Jonah ("dove"), the son of Amittai ("loyal" or "faithful"). This designation identifies the prophet as the historical character of 2 Kin. 14:25, who proclaimed that Jeroboam II (793–753 B.C.) would recover territory from the Syrians to the north. Contrast Jonah's message to Jeroboam's kingdom with the words of Amos and Hosea, who prophesied during the period of Israel's spiritual decline in the latter part of the same century (Introduction: Date and Occasion).

■ 1:2 go to . . . Nineveh. The Lord's sovereignty over all the nations is implicit in the command to Jonah. He is the Judge of all the earth (Gen. 18:25). The last capital of the Assyrian Empire, Nineveh was located on the east side of the Tigris River directly opposite the modern city of Mosul in northern Iraq. The site has been extensively excavated and boasts a long and rich history.

cry out against it. Jonah understood that his pronouncement of the Lord's judgment on the feared and hated Assyrian Empire was reversible (4:2 note). He knew that his message offered the opportunity for repentance.

their wickedness has come up before Me. In the later prophecy of Nahum (seventh century B.C.), the Assyrian capital of Nineveh is the focus of divine wrath and is depicted as the embodiment of evil and cruelty (Nah. 3:1–7). The Assyrian war machine was guilty of horrendous atrocities; in 612 B.C. that empire would itself fall victim to a cruel destroyer.

■ 1:3 Tarshish. Precise identification of this Tarshish is difficult, though it is often identified with the mining port of Tartessus in southern Spain. Sometimes, however, the term designates distant Mediterranean coastlands in general.

from the presence of the LORD. Because God is present even "in the uttermost parts of the sea" (Ps. 139:9), escape was impossible.

■ 1:4 the LORD sent out a great wind on the sea. Jonah's God is the Creator and Lord of the sea (Gen. 1:10, 21; Ex. 14:21; Mark 4:41).

■ 1:7 let us cast lots. The casting of lots was a common form of divination in the ancient world, a device used to discover the will of the gods. This method of discerning the will of the true God was not forbidden in ancient Israel, for the Lord ruled even over lots (Num. 26:55; Josh. 18:6–10; Neh. 10:34; Prov. 16:33; Acts 1:24–26).

■ 1:9 I am a Hebrew. See note on Gen. 14:13. Jonah identifies himself in ethnic terms. The term "Hebrew" was used by Israelites to identify themselves to foreigners (Gen. 40:15; Ex. 1:19; 3:18; 10:3).

I fear the LORD. Jonah also identifies himself in religious terms. The Lord his God is not just a personal, family, or national deity. He is the supreme and sovereign God, the Creator of land and sea.

the God of heaven. An old title (Gen. 24:3, 7) also commonly used in the Persian period after the Exile (2 Chr. 36:23; Ezra 1:2; Neh. 1:4, 5; 2:4).

■ 1:17 the LORD had prepared. Lit. "the LORD appointed." The same Hebrew word also occurs in 4:6–8; each instance indicates a startling example of God's sovereignty over the natural world.

a great fish. The species of whale or fish that swallowed Jonah cannot be identified with certainty. Suggestions have included the sperm whale or a large shark. The fish was God's instrument to rescue Jonah from the depths of the sea ("the belly of Sheol," 2:2).

three days and three nights. Jesus referred to the Book of Jonah in order to communicate truths regarding His own message and mission

2 Then Jonah prayed to the LORD his God from the fish's belly. 2 And he said:

"I [a]cried out to the LORD because of my affliction,
[b]And He answered me.

"Out of the belly of Sheol I cried,
And You heard my voice.
3 [c]For You cast me into the deep,
Into the heart of the seas,
And the floods surrounded me;
[d]All Your billows and Your waves passed over me.
4 [e]Then I said, 'I have been cast out of Your sight;
Yet I will look again [f]toward Your holy temple.'
5 The [g]waters surrounded me, even to my soul;
The deep closed around me;
Weeds were wrapped around my head.

The earth with its bars closed behind me forever;
Yet You have brought up my [h]life from the pit,
O LORD, my God.

7 "When my soul fainted within me,
I remembered the LORD;
[i]And my prayer went up to You,
Into Your holy temple.

8 "Those who regard [j]worthless idols
Forsake their own [2]Mercy.
9 But I will [k]sacrifice to You
With the voice of thanksgiving;
I will pay what I have [l]vowed.
[m]Salvation is of the [n]LORD."

(Matt. 12:38–41; 16:4; Luke 11:29–32). He speaks of the "sign of the prophet Jonah" not only with reference to the three days and three nights that Jonah was in the fish (Matt. 12:39, 40), but also with regard to the efficacy of Jonah's preaching. Without benefit of a miraculous sign, the Ninevites recognized Jonah's message as one with divine authority, and they responded in repentance.

■ 2:1–10 Jonah's response to God's judgment is framed in the form of a thanksgiving psalm (v. 9). The cry of the prophet focuses on the desperate character of his situation by using terms typical in poetic descriptions of death or nearness to death. In his plight he looks to the Lord's holy temple, the physical token of the Lord's saving presence with His people. The psalm is a moving testimony to the heart of Israel's faith and to the heart of the prophet, but he still had much to learn. His vision of God's mercy was still narrow.

■ 2:1 Jonah prayed. Consistent with Old Testament narrative style, the Jonah story is interrupted with a poem (vv. 2–9), a psalm of thanksgiving and celebration for the Lord's deliverance and mercy. The literary structure is typical of a thanksgiving psalm: (a) petition for deliverance (2:2); (b) review of crisis (2:3–6); (c) review of deliverance (2:6, 7); and (d) praise for deliverance (2:8, 9).

■ 2:2 I cried out . . . And He answered me. Using the poetic device of parallelism, Jonah's psalm is introduced in two couplets that tell of the prophet's prayer and the Lord's answer. Jonah acknowledges that he was rescued "out of the belly of Sheol" (a watery grave in the depths of the sea).

■ 2:3–6 These verses contain a vivid recollection of the near-death crisis, its causes, and results. Jonah's plight was the Lord's judgment on his disobedience. The brush with a watery grave is presented with graphic imagery: entanglement in seaweed, the silence of deep water, and waves swelling high above the victim.

■ 2:4 I have been cast out of Your sight. For the prophet, the ultimate horror of death was separation from the presence of the Lord (Ps. 88:4, 5, 10–12).

Yet I will look again toward Your holy temple. The Jerusalem temple was the earthly location of the divine presence. Jonah longed for the communion with God that the temple afforded. The prophet now laments losing the same divine presence that he earlier had sought to escape (1:3, 10).

■ 2:6 I went down. Jonah was at death's door. His slow, silent descent through the depths, like a journey to the underworld, had brought him to "the gates of death" (Ps. 9:13).

You have brought up my life from the pit. Here "pit" is used to describe the realm of death (Job 33:22, 24; Ps. 49:9; Is. 51:14). Despite the hopelessness of the circumstances, the repentant prophet is rescued from the realm of the dead and restored to communion with God.

■ 2:7 I remembered the LORD. The context indicates that this prayer was answered; the importance and effectiveness of prayer are again emphasized, as in v. 2 (cf. Heb. 4:16).

■ 2:8 Those who regard worthless idols. Recalling the ineffectiveness of the sailors' prayers and of their gods (1:5), Jonah condemns those who put their faith in idols.

■ 2:9 Salvation is of the LORD. Like Joshua before him (Josh. 24:14, 15), Jonah declares his loyalty to the Lord and extols Him as the only source of salvation and deliverance. In imparting salvation to Jonah, the Lord moved the prophet from disobedience to repentance; in imparting salvation to the Ninevites, He will move them from idolatry to faith (3:5–10); in imparting salvation to the Gentiles now He sovereignly moves them to faith and repentance (Acts 11:17, 18).

10 So the LORD spoke to the fish, and it vomited Jonah onto dry land.

Jonah Preaches at Nineveh

3 Now the word of the LORD came to Jonah the second time, saying, 2 "Arise, go to Nineveh, that great city, and preach to it the message that I tell you." 3 So Jonah arose and went to Nineveh, according to the word of the LORD. Now Nineveh was an exceedingly great city, [f]a three-day journey in extent. 4 And Jonah began to enter the city on the first day's walk. Then [a]he cried out and said, "Yet forty days, and Nineveh shall be overthrown!"

The People of Nineveh Believe

5 So the [b]people of Nineveh believed God, proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloth, from the greatest to the least of them. 6 Then word came to the king of Nineveh; and he arose from his throne and laid aside his robe, covered himself with sackcloth [c]and sat in ashes. 7 [d]And he caused it to be proclaimed and published throughout Nineveh by the decree of the king and his [2]nobles, saying,

> Let neither man nor beast, herd nor flock, taste anything; do not let them eat, or drink water. 8 But let man and beast be covered with sackcloth, and cry mightily to God; yes, [e]let every one turn from his evil way and from [f]the violence that is in his hands. 9 [g]Who can tell if God will turn and relent, and turn away from His fierce anger, so that we may not perish?

10 [h]Then God saw their works, that they turned from their evil way; and God relented from the disaster that He had said He would bring upon them, and He did not do it.

Jonah's Anger and God's Kindness

4 But it displeased Jonah exceedingly, and he became angry. 2 So he prayed to the LORD, and said, "Ah, LORD, was not this what I said when I was still in my country? Therefore I [a]fled

CHAPTER 4

2 [a]Jon. 1:3

■ 2:10 the LORD spoke . . . it vomited Jonah. Again creation responds obediently to the sovereign commands of the Creator (1:4, 15, 17). The fish, which might have been God's weapon of death, by grace became God's tool of deliverance.

■ 3:1—4:11 In this second division of the book Jonah preaches the message God commanded, and the people of Nineveh respond with genuine repentance (ch. 3). When the Lord turns from threatened judgment, we learn the real reason why Jonah had fled the first time: he feared that God would show mercy to the hated Assyrians (4:2). In the object lessons that follow, the wideness of the Lord's mercy and compassion is revealed (4:5–11).

■ 3:3 Jonah arose and went. Having learned that the call of God is irrevocable (cf. Rom. 11:29), Jonah responded to the Lord's renewed commission. Though he obeyed God this time, Jonah was "displeased" with the prospect of Ninevite repentance (4:1, 2).

Nineveh was. Some have suggested that the use of the past tense ("was") indicates that the city was no longer in existence at the time of writing. Given the city's destruction in 612 B.C. by the Medes and Babylonians, this interpretation would date the narrative sometime after the late seventh century B.C. The past tense does not preclude an eighth-century date, however, for it may simply indicate the status of the city when the prophet arrived.

an exceedingly great city, a three-day journey. The Hebrew is difficult to translate. Many commentators interpret these phrases as a reference to the physical size of Nineveh. Archaeological exploration has shown that the city was between seven and eight miles in circumference with an estimated population of 120,000 people. Others suggest that the first formula should be translated "a very important city," or more lit. as "a city important to God" (emphasizing its significance rather than size). This latter reading fits the context better. The second expression (lit. "journey of three days") could indicate the duration of visit appropriate (in terms of ancient Near Eastern diplomatic protocol) for an emissary to such an important city.

■ 3:5 the people of Nineveh believed. Jonah's worst fears were realized when the people believed, repented, proclaimed a fast, and adorned themselves in sackcloth (the traditional mourning garb of the ancient Near East). The repentance was swift and city-wide.

■ 3:6 the king of Nineveh. Apparently a reference to the mighty king of Assyria. Although it is highly unlikely that Assyrian records would note this unusual occurrence, some scholars have associated this event with the religious reforms of Adad-nirari III (810–783 B.C.). The reign of Assurdan III (772–755 B.C.) has also been suggested.

he arose . . . and sat in ashes. The king's response was as immediate and spontaneous as that of his subjects. Royal authority gave way to penitent humility. He exchanged his robes for sackcloth, his throne for a bed of ashes (cf. Job 42:6; Is. 58:5).

■ 3:7 decree of the king. With the royal edict mandating prayer, mourning rites, and a fast for man and beast, Nineveh's repentance was complete. The inclusion of animals points to the thorough and genuine nature of their repentance. Later, it was customary among the Persians to include domestic animals in the rites of mourning.

■ 3:8 let every one turn from . . . violence. This royal admonition addressed the most prominent of Nineveh's sins. Physical violence and social injustice were hallmarks of the Assyrian Empire (Nah. 3:1).

■ 3:9 The king gives personal and corporate expression to the hope that genuine repentance will avert the divine judgment. The structure of 3:5–9 conforms to the typical Old Testament pattern of reporting corporate repentance (Jer. 36:3; Joel 2): (a) threat of judgment, (b) penitent response, and (c) divine decision to withhold punishment.

■ 3:10 God saw their works. The prophetic warning (v. 4) had an implied condition, namely, that judgment was imminent—if the city did not repent. In turning "from their evil way" the Ninevites met that condition. The Lord's change of mind (i.e., His sovereign choice to make His own action depend upon human response) is fully compatible with God's sovereignty and immutability, since He ordains the means as well as the ends of His sovereign will (Jer. 18:7–10). See note on Gen. 6:6.

■ 4:1–11 The book concludes with angry Jonah receiving a lesson in divine mercy and compassion from God Himself. Strikingly, we are not told how Jonah responded to this instruction. Instead, we are left with the previously to Tarshish; for I know that You are a [b]gracious and merciful God, slow to anger and abundant in lovingkindness, One who relents from doing harm. 3 [c]Therefore now, O LORD, please take my life from me, for [d]it is better for me to die than to live!"

4 Then the LORD said, "Is it right for you to be angry?"

5 So Jonah went out of the city and sat on the east side of the city. There he made himself a shelter and sat under it in the shade, till he might see what would become of the city. 6 And the LORD God prepared a [1]plant and made it come up over Jonah, that it might be shade for his head to deliver him from his misery. So Jonah [2]was very grateful for the plant. 7 But as morning dawned the next day God prepared a worm, and it so damaged the plant that it withered. 8 And it happened, when the sun arose, that God prepared a vehement east wind; and the sun beat on Jonah's head, so that he grew faint. Then he wished death for himself, and said, [e]"It is better for me to die than to live."

9 Then God said to Jonah, "Is it right for you to be angry about the plant?"

And he said, "It is right for me to be angry, even to death!"

10 But the LORD said, "You have had pity on the plant for which you have not labored, nor made it grow, which [3]came up in a night and perished in a night. 11 And should I not pity Nineveh, [f]that great city, in which are more than one hundred and twenty thousand persons [g]who cannot discern between their right hand and their left—and much livestock?"

contrast between Jonah's resentful attitude and God's great mercy to the Ninevites.

■ 4:1 it displeased Jonah exceedingly. The Hebrew is particularly vivid (lit. "it was evil to Jonah as a great wrong"). Jonah's emotion is expressed in the strongest language possible: his greatest fear was that the Lord would bestow forgiveness on Israel's most hated enemy.

■ 4:2 You are a gracious . . . relents from doing harm. The reason for Jonah's initial flight to Tarshish is revealed. Despite his blatant disobedience and narrow-mindedness, Jonah understood the character of God. Here he echoes a liturgical formula describing God's mercy to an undeserving Israel (e.g., Ex. 34:6; Num. 14:18; Neh. 9:17; Ps. 103:8; Joel 2:13). Only here and in Joel 2:13 does the reference to divine repentance ("who relents from doing harm") conclude the formula (3:10 note), an inclusion appropriate to the context of Nineveh's repentance and deliverance.

■ 4:5 Jonah went out . . . made himself a shelter. Grateful for his own deliverance, Jonah still refuses to accept that of the Ninevites. Hoping that the Lord will execute judgment, Jonah leaves the city for a vantage point from which to view the destruction of the city.

■ 4:6 the LORD God prepared a plant. See note on 1:17. Probably because of the shortage of timber in this dry region, Jonah's shelter was not adequate to provide protection from the hot Near Eastern sun. The type of vegetation provided is uncertain; some suggest the castor oil plant, which grows quickly to a height of 15 feet.

■ 4:7, 8 The same divine hand that in mercy had provided the great fish and the shade now brings a worm to kill the plant, and a hot east wind (likely the feared scirocco of the Mediterranean world) to torment the bitter prophet.

■ 4:9–11 The divine intention of the object lessons is now revealed. God's magnificent compassion for the people and animals He created and sustained (v. 11) is contrasted with Jonah's petty concern for the plant (v. 10). The reader recalls the compassion of Jesus as He looked upon the multitudes (Matt. 9:36; Mark 6:34; 8:2), and His statement in Matt. 10:29 that not a sparrow will fall to the ground apart from the will of the Father. In its infancy, the largely Jewish New Testament church would again wrestle with this issue of the wideness of God's mercy, as the Lord opened the hearts of the Gentiles to obey the gospel (Acts 11:18; 15:14; 28:28).

The Book of

MICAH

Author Micah is identified by his hometown of Moresheth (1:1, 14), implying that he was an outsider to Jerusalem. Prophesying in the same period with Isaiah, he helped shape Israel's character and policies. Micah's inspired preaching (3:8) against injustice eventually brought Hezekiah to repentance and so saved Jerusalem (Jer. 26:17–19).

Date and Occasion Micah preached during the reigns of Jotham (750–735 B.C.), Ahaz (735–715 B.C.), and Hezekiah (715–686 B.C.), a time of Assyrian expansion and dominance in the ancient Near East. The northern kingdom of Israel was gradually overrun by the Assyrians, with the capital of Samaria finally falling in 722 B.C. to the Assyrian king Shalmaneser V (727–722 B.C.). Ahaz of Judah allied himself with Assyria and modeled the worship at Jerusalem after Assyrian practices (2 Kin. 16:7–18). Ahaz's son Hezekiah later revolted, and much of Judah was overrun by the Assyrian king Sennacherib, though Jerusalem itself was miraculously spared (2 Kin. 18:17—19:37).

Within Israel and Judah during this time, a shocking contrast between the extremely rich and the oppressed poor developed due to the exploitation of Israel's middle class (2:8, 9) by greedy landholders (2:1–5). The oppressors were supported by Israel's corrupt political and religious leaders (ch. 3). Because of this failed leadership, the whole nation became morally corrupt and ripe for judgment (6:9–16; 7:1–7).

God raised up Assyria as His wrathful rod against His sinful people (Is. 10:5–11). As Micah predicted (1:2–7), Samaria did fall to the invading Assyrians. Judah felt the force of divine judgment when Sennacherib marched through the Shephelah (Judah's western foothills) and up to the gate of Jerusalem, as Micah had also foretold (1:8–16).

Characteristics and Themes Micah arranges his nineteen prophecies into three cycles (Outline), each of which begins with prophecies of judgment and ends with a prophecy or prophecies of salvation, and each of which begins with the same Hebrew word rendered "hear" (1:2; 3:1; 6:1). The middle cycle has three prophecies of judgment (ch. 3) and seven of salvation (chs. 4; 5). The prophet uses word plays to predict judgment (see notes) and achieves vividness and immediacy by quoting his subjects (e.g., the false prophets trying to silence him, 2:6, 7; and the converted Gentiles going up to Jerusalem to worship, 4:2).

Micah primarily is a book of judgment proclaimed. The prophet declares that the holy and righteous God will no longer tolerate the persistent evil of His people (1:3). Many of Israel's sins are mentioned, ranging from idolatry and sorcery (5:12–14) to deceit and fraudulent dealings (6:10, 11). But Micah heaps special condemnation on those who oppressed the poor by seizing lands that God had intended as an inheritance for all His people (2:1–5; Num. 27:1–11 note). Judah's leaders, both political and spiritual, are also condemned for their oppression of the people and for their disregard of justice and truth (ch. 3).

Fundamental to Micah's proclamation of both judgment and restoration are the terms of the covenant relationship between God and His people. While God faithfully fulfilled His responsibilities under the covenant (6:1–5), the people wallowed in disobedience, and now the covenant curses were to be applied (6:13–16).

Despite his prevailing tone of impending punishment, Micah also looks beyond the judgment to future restoration and blessing. This too is rooted in God's covenant relationship with His people (Gen. 17:2 note). Faithful to His covenant promises to the patriarchs (7:20), the Lord will preserve a remnant of His people (2:12; 4:7; 5:3, 7, 8), and will raise up a Ruler out of Bethlehem in Judah—the Messiah Himself (5:1–5). Throughout the prophecies of salvation, Micah recognizes that Israel's restoration depends solely on the Lord's merciful forgiveness and sovereign initiative, not on the works of their hands (7:18, 19). □

THE word of the LORD that came to [a]Micah of Moresheth in the days of [b]Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, which he saw concerning Samaria and Jerusalem.

The Coming Judgment on Israel

2 Hear, all you peoples!
Listen, O earth, and all that is in it!
Let the Lord GOD be a witness against you,
The Lord from [c]His holy temple.

3 For behold, the LORD is coming out of His place;
He will come down
And tread on the high places of the earth.
4 [d]The mountains will melt under Him,
And the valleys will split
Like wax before the fire,
Like waters poured down a steep place.
5 All this is for the transgression of Jacob

1 [a][2 Pet. 1:21]; Jer. 26:18 [b]2 Kin. 15:5, 7, 32–38; 2 Chr. 27:1–9; Is. 1:1; Hos. 1:1
2 [c][Ps. 11:4]
4 [d]Amos 9:5

■ 1:1 Micah of Moresheth. The name Micah is an abbreviated form of Micayahu ("Who is like Yahweh?"). The town of Moresheth was located near Gath in the Shephelah, or foothills, of Judah.

which he saw. The divine message to Micah took the form of a supernatural revelation to the prophet's inner sight or hearing.

■ 1:2–7 This prophecy has four parts: summons of the nations to trial (v. 2); a symbolic vision of God overthrowing creation (vv. 3, 4); an accusation against Israel's capitals (v. 5); and the divine sentence for Samaria to be destroyed (vv. 6, 7).

■ 1:2 all you peoples . . . against you. God's judgment of Samaria (vv. 6, 7) exemplifies and prefigures His judgment against all people who commit idolatry and social crimes.

■ 1:3–5 Behind the march of the Assyrian army the prophet saw the hand of God (cf. Is. 10:5, 6). The depth of divine judgment against Jerusalem and Samaria is vividly portrayed in terms of a destruction of the created order itself.

■ 1:3 high places. Whoever controlled Israel's heights controlled the land.

■ 1:4 fire . . . down a steep place. These words link the symbolic vision with the historical overthrow of Samaria (vv. 6, 7), which was located on a hill (1 Kin. 16:24).

■ 1:5 Jacob . . . Israel. "Jacob" and "Israel" often occur together in Micah, referring to the entire covenant people; sometimes "Jacob" represents the people as a whole (2:12; 3:1, 8, 9). The second occurrence of "Jacob" in this verse points to the northern kingdom (Israel) as distinct from Judah. In this book "Israel" designates Judah as representing the whole nation.

And for the sins of the house of Israel.
What is the transgression of Jacob?
Is it not Samaria?
And what are the [e]high places of Judah?
Are they not Jerusalem?

6 "Therefore I will make Samaria [f]a heap of ruins in the field,
Places for planting a vineyard;
I will pour down her stones into the valley,
And I will [g]uncover her foundations.
7 All her carved images shall be beaten to pieces,
And all her [h]pay as a harlot shall be burned with the fire;
All her idols I will lay desolate,
For she gathered it from the pay of a harlot,
And they shall return to the [i]pay of a harlot."

Mourning for Israel and Judah

8 Therefore I will wail and howl,
I will go stripped and naked;
[j]I will make a wailing like the jackals
And a mourning like the ostriches,
9 For her wounds are incurable.
For [k]it has come to Judah;
It has come to the gate of My people—
To Jerusalem.

10 [l]Tell it not in Gath,
Weep not at all;
In [l]Beth Aphrah
Roll yourself in the dust.
11 Pass by in naked shame, you inhabitant of [2]Shaphir;
The inhabitant of [3]Zaanan does not go out.
Beth Ezel mourns;
Its place to stand is taken away from you.

12 For the inhabitant of [4]Maroth [5]pined for good,
But [m]disaster came down from the LORD
To the gate of Jerusalem.
13 O inhabitant of [n]Lachish,
Harness the chariot to the swift steeds
(She was the beginning of sin to the daughter of Zion),
For the transgressions of Israel were [o]found in you.

13 [n]Josh. 10:3; 2 Kin. 14:19; 18:14; Is. 36:2 [o]Ezek. 23:11

■ 1:7 pay as a harlot. Ancient Near Eastern fertility religions involved ritual prostitution, an activity strictly forbidden to Israel (Deut. 23:17). The wealth paid to them and used to make idols will be taken by the Assyrians and used in the same way.

■ 1:8–16 This lament has three parts: an introduction, stating Micah's resolve to mourn Judah's exile (vv. 8, 9); a main body, with a series of wordplays on the names of Judah's stronghold (text notes) predicting Judah's fall and exile (vv. 10–15); and a conclusion, calling the house of David to join in mourning rites because it will go into exile (v. 16).

■ 1:8 stripped and naked. A symbolic act referring to the threat of captivity (Is. 20:2–4).

■ 1:9 gate. Assyria's King Sennacherib reached Jerusalem's gate but did not take the city (v. 12; Introduction: Date and Occasion).

■ 1:10 Tell it not in Gath. Micah's lament over the fall of David's house recalls David's lament over the fall of Saul's house under similar circumstances (2 Sam. 1:20).

Roll yourself in the dust. A vivid expression of grief over a humiliating defeat (Jer. 6:26).

■ 1:11 Zaanan . . . out. See text note. Despite its name, this town will cower behind its wall and not "go out" into battle.

Beth Ezel. Lit. "adjoining house," the Hebrew word 'Ezel resembles a verb meaning "withdraw" or "withhold." This town will withhold its protection from Judah because it has been annexed by the conqueror.

■ 1:12 Maroth. See text note. Though it longed for good, this town would experience the bitterness of defeat.

■ 1:13 Lachish . . . chariot . . . steeds. A major fortress town of Judah located southwest of Jerusalem, Lachish would have housed a contingent of chariots. Here the reference to "swift steeds" (the Hebrew term resembles "Lachish") perhaps implies that the chariots were to be used for flight rather than for fighting.

the beginning of sin. The precise nature of this sin is not explained. Many suggest that it involved the import of Egyptian horses for use in war (5:10; Deut. 17:16; 1 Kin. 10:28, 29), inducing Israel to rely on her military strength rather than on the Lord.

daughter of Zion. A personification of Jerusalem.

14 Therefore you shall [p]give presents to [6]Moresheth Gath;
The houses of [q]Achzib[7] shall be a lie to the kings of Israel.
15 I will yet bring an heir to you, O inhabitant of [r]Mareshah;[8]
The glory of Israel shall come to [s]Adullam.[9]
16 Make yourself [t]bald and cut off your hair,
Because of your [u]precious children;
Enlarge your baldness like an eagle,
For they shall go from you into [v]captivity.

Woe to Evildoers

2 Woe to those who devise iniquity,
And [1]work out evil on their beds!
At [a]morning light they practice it,
Because it is in the power of their hand.
2 They [b]covet fields and take them by violence,
Also houses, and seize them.
So they oppress a man and his house,
A man and his inheritance.

3 Therefore thus says the LORD:

"Behold, against this [c]family I am devising [d]disaster,
From which you cannot remove your necks;
Nor shall you walk haughtily,
For this is an evil time.
4 In that day one shall take up a proverb against you,
And [e]lament with a bitter lamentation, saying:
'We are utterly destroyed!
He has changed the [2]heritage of my people;
How He has removed it from me!
To [3]a turncoat He has divided our fields.' "

5 Therefore you will have no [4]one to determine boundaries by lot
In the assembly of the LORD.

Lying Prophets

6 "Do not prattle," you say to those who [5]prophesy.
So they shall not prophesy [6]to you;
[7]They shall not return insult for insult.
7 You who are named the house of Jacob:
"Is the Spirit of the LORD restricted?

5 [4]Lit. one casting a surveyor's line
6 [5]Or preach, lit. drip words [6]Lit. to these [7]Vg. He shall not take shame

■ 1:14 presents. The dowry given by a father to his daughter as she departed for her husband's house (1 Kin. 9:16). The inhabitants of Moresheth Gath would depart into exile.

Achzib shall be a lie. See text note. The town's name closely resembles the Hebrew term for "deceitful," a word used for the "unreliable stream" in Jer. 15:18. The town of Achzib will disappoint the king of Judah.

■ 1:15 glory of Israel . . . Adullam. As David had fled to the cave at Adullam (2 Sam. 23:13), so also the leaders ("glory") of Israel will flee. The body of the lament (vv. 10–15) begins and ends with literary references to David's career (v. 10 note).

■ 2:1–5 This prophecy has three parts: (a) the accusation—evil and violent men unethically seize sacred property and destroy its owners (vv. 1, 2); (b) the sentence—the Lord sentences them to exile (v. 3) and loss of their lands to invaders (v. 4); (c) the conclusion—the robbers are cut off from the covenant people (v. 5). The accusation and sentence are linked by a play on words involving "who devise iniquity" (v. 1) and "I am devising disaster" (v. 3), which are virtually identical expressions in Hebrew. As the powerful took fields away from Israel's men (vv. 1, 2), so the Lord will send an enemy army to wrest the Promised Land from them (vv. 4, 5).

■ 2:2 inheritance. A family's property was a permanent, sacred trust from God (Lev. 25:10, 13). See note on Num. 27:1–11.

■ 2:5 assembly. After the Babylonian exile the land would be redistributed (cf. Num. 26:55; Josh. 18:8–10), but neither the oppressors nor their descendants would then be present to claim an inheritance.

■ 2:6–11 In this prophecy Micah defends his message against those who seek to silence him. Micah rebuffs their command to cease (v. 6). Then the Lord accuses the powerful of exploiting the defenseless (vv. 8, 9), and sentences them to exile because they have defiled the land (v. 10). Finally, the people are condemned for desiring false prophets who would tell them what they wish to hear (v. 11).

■ 2:6 The Hebrew of v. 6 is difficult to translate. Some suggest that Micah confronts false prophets who support the land robbers and who have sought to silence him. In support of this interpretation, the Hebrew phrase rendered "you say to those who prophesy" could be translated "they prophesy." Others argue that the greedy and corrupt leaders themselves have tried to silence the prophet.

Are these His doings?
Do not My words do good
To him who walks uprightly?

8 "Lately My people have risen up as an enemy—
You pull off the robe with the garment
From those who trust you, as they pass by,
Like men returned from war.
9 The women of My people you cast out
From their pleasant houses;
From their children
You have taken away My glory forever.

10 "Arise and depart,
For this is not your [f]rest;
Because it is [g]defiled, it shall destroy,
Yes, with utter destruction.
11 If a man should walk in a false spirit
And speak a lie, saying,
'I will [g]prophesy to you [g]of wine and drink,'
Even he would be the [h]prattler of this people.

Israel Restored

12 "I[i] will surely assemble all of you, O Jacob,
I will surely gather the remnant of Israel;
I will put them together [j]like sheep of [l]the fold,
Like a flock in the midst of their pasture;
[k]They shall make a loud noise because of so many people.
13 The one who breaks open will come up before them;
They will break out,
Pass through the gate,
And go out by it;
[l]Their king will pass before them,
[m]With the LORD at their head."

Wicked Rulers and Prophets

3 And I said:

"Hear now, O heads of Jacob,
And you [a]rulers of the house of Israel:
[b]Is it not for you to know justice?
2 You who hate good and love evil;
Who strip the skin from [l]My people,
And the flesh from their bones;
3 Who also [c]eat the flesh of My people,
Flay their skin from them,
Break their bones,
And chop them in pieces

CHAPTER 3

1 [a]Ezek. 22:27 [b]Ps. 82:1–5; Jer. 5:4, 5
2 [l]Lit. them
3 [c]Ps. 14:4; 27:2; Zeph. 3:3

■ 2:8, 9 robe . . . pleasant houses . . . children. The oppressed belong to Israel's middle class (Introduction: Date and Occasion).

■ 2:8 Like men returned from war. Expecting peace in their homeland where they felt most secure, Israel's people were plundered instead.

■ 2:12, 13 This prophecy of a remnant preserved like sheep in a pen recalls the remnant of Judah sheltered within Jerusalem while Sennacherib overran much of the land. The Lord then delivered them by decimating the Assyrian army (2 Kin. 18:17—19:37). Such provisional deliverances of God's chosen remnant anticipate the greater triumph of the Shepherd-King (5:2–5).

■ 2:12 Jacob . . . Israel. A reference to Judah as representing the whole nation (1:5 note).

■ 3:1–12 The three prophecies of this chapter announce the rejection and punishment of Israel's incompetent, corrupt leadership. First, the leaders' treatment of the oppressed people is likened to cannibalism (vv. 1–4). Second, the false prophets who led the people astray are condemned (vv. 5–7) and contrasted with Micah, who prophesies true revelations from God (v. 8). Finally, the corrupt political and religious leaders are condemned and their complacency castigated (vv. 9–12).

■ 3:1 And I said. An editorial addition, indicating that Micah edited his own book (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes).

Jacob . . . Israel. See note on 1:5.

Like meat for the pot,
[d]Like flesh in the caldron."

4 Then [e]they will cry to the LORD,
But He will not hear them;
He will even hide His face from them at that time,
Because they have been evil in their deeds.

5 Thus says the LORD [f]concerning the prophets
Who make my people stray;
Who chant [2]"Peace"
[3]While they [g]chew with their teeth,
But who prepare war against him
[h]Who puts nothing into their mouths:
6 "Therefore[i] you shall have night without [4]vision,
And you shall have darkness without divination;
The sun shall go down on the prophets,
And the day shall be dark for[j] them.
7 So the seers shall be ashamed,
And the diviners abashed;
Indeed they shall all cover their lips;
[k]For there is no answer from God."

8 But truly I am full of power by the Spirit of the LORD,
And of justice and might,
[l]To declare to Jacob his transgression
And to Israel his sin.
9 Now hear this,
You heads of the house of Jacob
And rulers of the house of Israel,
Who abhor justice
And [5]pervert all equity,
10 [m]Who build up Zion with [n]bloodshed
And Jerusalem with iniquity:
11 [o]Her heads judge for a bribe,
[p]Her priests teach for pay,
And her prophets divine for [6]money.
[q]Yet they lean on the LORD, and say,
"Is not the LORD among us?
No harm can come upon us."
12 Therefore because of you
Zion shall be [r]plowed like a field,
[s]Jerusalem shall become heaps of ruins,
And [t]the mountain of the [7]temple
Like the bare hills of the forest.

CHAPTER 4

1 [a]Is. 2:2–4; Ezek. 17:22; Dan. 2:28; 10:14; Hos. 3:5

■ 3:4 not hear. Just as the magistrates refused to hear the cries of the oppressed, so God will refuse to hear their cry in the time of judgment.

■ 3:5 Peace . . . chew with their teeth. See text notes. These false prophets were opportunists, tailoring their pronouncements of peace and security to the desires of those who fed them. See Jer. 28.

■ 3:6, 7 Those who had prophesied falsely will be judged and shamed by God's silence.

■ 3:12 Zion . . . forest. This prophecy was given in the days of Hezekiah (Jer. 26:17–19). Because Hezekiah repented in 701 B.C., the judgment was delayed until 586 B.C.

■ 4:1 the latter days. Micah's prophetic vision shifts from impending judgment in the short term to the "latter days," when the messianic reign of God is established in Zion. The expression points to a new epoch, which, though in the hidden future, decisively alters the course of history. Here it refers to the messianic age, begun at Christ's First Advent (Acts 2:7; Heb. 1:2) and consummated in the new heaven and earth (Rev. 21; 22).

mountain of the LORD's house. Earthly Mount Zion prefigured the heavenly reality to which the church indeed has now come (Heb. 12:22–24). As part of the old covenant, the earthly religious center has been eclipsed by the coming new order (Heb. 8:13).

Shall be established on the top of the mountains,
And shall be exalted above the hills;
And peoples shall flow to it.
2 Many nations shall come and say,
"Come, and let us go up to the mountain of the LORD,
To the house of the God of Jacob;
He will teach us His ways,
And we shall walk in His paths."
For out of Zion the law shall go forth,
And the word of the LORD from Jerusalem.
3 He shall judge between many peoples,
And rebuke strong nations afar off;
They shall beat their swords into [b]plowshares,
And their spears into [1]pruning hooks;
Nation shall not lift up sword against nation,
[c]Neither shall they learn war anymore.

4 [d]But everyone shall sit under his vine and under his fig tree,
And no one shall make them afraid;
For the mouth of the LORD of hosts has spoken.
5 For all people walk each in the name of his god,
But [e]we will walk in the name of the LORD our God
Forever and ever.

Zion's Future Triumph

6 "In that day," says the LORD,
[f]"I will assemble the lame,
[g]I will gather the outcast
And those whom I have afflicted;
7 I will make the lame [h]a remnant,
And the outcast a strong nation;
So the LORD [i]will reign over them in Mount Zion
From now on, even forever.
8 And you, O tower of the flock,
The stronghold of the daughter of Zion,
To you shall it come,
Even the former dominion shall come,
The kingdom of the daughter of Jerusalem."

9 Now why do you cry aloud?
[j]Is there no king in your midst?
Has your counselor perished?
For [k]pangs have seized you like a woman in [2]labor.
10 Be in pain, and labor to bring forth,
O daughter of Zion,
Like a woman in birth pangs.
For now you shall go forth from the city,
You shall dwell in the field, on the top of the mountains. Pagan gods also had sacred mountains with temples. By being raised above them, God's eternal house (here symbolized by the temple on Mount Zion) will be established among the nations as the center of true worship.

■ 4:6 In that day. See note on v. 1.

And. Perhaps better translated "even."

■ 4:7 remnant. Just as God preserved a remnant that survived Sennacherib's invasion (2:12, 13 note), so also a remnant would survive the later Babylonian exile.

strong nation. A prophecy that finds final fulfillment in the church (1 Pet. 2:9, 10).

■ 4:8 tower. Jerusalem (i.e., the heavenly Jerusalem, Heb. 12:22) will become a fortified tower around which the inhabitants will gather for protection.

■ 4:9–13 This prophecy explains that Israel's present distress (the "now" of vv. 9, 11) will bring glorious salvation—liberation from the later Babylonian exile (vv. 9, 10) and release from Sennacherib's siege (vv. 11, 12).

■ 4:10 Like a woman in birth pangs. The pain of judgment (exile, loss of king and land) for the remnant must precede the birth of the messianic age that will follow.

And to [l]Babylon you shall go.
There you shall be delivered;
There the [m]LORD will [n]redeem you
From the hand of your enemies.

11 [o]Now also many nations have gathered against you,
Who say, "Let her be defiled,
And let our eye [p]look upon Zion."
12 But they do not know [q]the thoughts of the LORD,
Nor do they understand His counsel;
For He will gather them [r]like sheaves to the threshing floor.

13 "Arise[s] and [t]thresh, O daughter of Zion;
For I will make your horn iron,
And I will make your hooves bronze;
You shall [u]beat in pieces many peoples;
[v]I will consecrate their gain to the LORD,
And their substance to [w]the Lord of the whole earth."

5 Now gather yourself in troops,
O daughter of troops;
He has laid siege against us;
They will [a]strike the judge of Israel with a rod on the cheek.

The Coming Messiah

2 "But you, [b]Bethlehem [c]Ephrathah,
Though you are little [d]among the [e]thousands of Judah,
Yet out of you shall come forth to Me
The One to be [f]Ruler in Israel,
[g]Whose goings forth are from of old,
From [l]everlasting."

3 Therefore He shall give them up,
Until the time that [h]she who is in labor has given birth;
Then [i]the remnant of His brethren
Shall return to the children of Israel.
4 And He shall stand and [j]feed[2] His flock
In the strength of the LORD,
In the majesty of the name of the LORD His God;
And they shall abide,
For now He [k]shall be great
To the ends of the earth;
5 And this One [l]shall be peace.

Judgment on Israel's Enemies

5 [l][Is. 9:6]; Luke 2:14; [Eph. 2:14; Col. 1:20]

■ 4:11 many nations. The Assyrian imperial army consisted of mercenaries from many nations.

■ 5:1–6 This prophecy also moves from present distress (v. 1) to the Messiah's advent and victory (vv. 2–6).

■ 5:1 cheek. This insult to Israel's leader signifies that Jerusalem will fall to its Babylonian attackers, and all power to resist will be gone (cf. 2 Kin. 25:4–7).

■ 5:2 Bethlehem Ephrathah. The town of David's birth (1 Sam. 16:1–13). Though the Davidic line of kings would temporarily cease (v. 3), God would yet raise up a ruler from David's family who would reign forever—Jesus Christ Himself (2 Sam. 7:12–17).

■ 5:3 He shall give them up. Israel was without a Davidic king from the fall of Jerusalem in 586 B.C. until the Advent of Christ.

she who is in labor. A reference either to Mary, the mother of Jesus, or to the faithful remnant (see 4:10).

remnant of His brethren. Thousands of Israelites were converted after Pentecost (Acts 2:41, 47).

■ 5:5 the Assyrian. Assyria, the besieging nation of v. 1, here represents all enemies opposed to God's kingdom.

Seven . . . eight. Seven is the number of perfection. There will be a more than sufficient supply of leaders to expand Christ's kingdom.

Seven shepherds and eight princely men.
6 They shall [3]waste with the sword the land of Assyria,
And the land of [m]Nimrod at its entrances;
Thus He shall [n]deliver us from the Assyrian,
When he comes into our land
And when he treads within our borders.

7 Then [o]the remnant of Jacob
Shall be in the midst of many peoples,
[p]Like dew from the LORD,
Like showers on the grass,
That [4]tarry for no man
Nor [5]wait for the sons of men.
8 And the remnant of Jacob
Shall be among the Gentiles,
In the midst of many peoples,
Like a [q]lion among the beasts of the forest,
Like a young lion among flocks of sheep,
Who, if he passes through,
Both treads down and tears in pieces,
And none can deliver.
9 Your hand shall be lifted against your adversaries,
And all your enemies shall be [6]cut off.

10 "And it shall be in that day," says the LORD,
"That I will [r]cut[7] off your [s]horses from your midst
And destroy your [t]chariots.
11 I will cut off the cities of your land
And throw down all your strongholds.
12 I will cut off sorceries from your hand,
And you shall have no [u]soothsayers.
13 [v]Your carved images I will also cut off,
And your sacred pillars from your midst;
You shall [w]no more worship the work of your hands;
14 I will pluck your [8]wooden images from your midst;
Thus I will destroy your cities.
15 And I will [x]execute vengeance in anger and fury
On the nations that have not [9]heard."

God Pleads with Israel

And let the hills hear your voice.

13 [v]Zech. 13:2 [w]Is. 2:8

14 [8]Heb. Asherim, Canaanite deities

15 [x][2 Thess. 1:8] [9]obeyed

■ 5:6 Nimrod. A reference to Babylon (Gen. 10:8 note).

■ 5:7–9 This oracle has two parts: a prophecy that the remnant will become God's instrument of life and death (vv. 7, 8), and a petition for God to defeat all His foes (v. 9 and note). These statements find fulfillment in the church (2 Cor. 2:14–16).

■ 5:7 tarry for . . . wait for. As rain proceeds from the divine initiative, so the remnant depends on God to refresh the earth.

■ 5:9 Your hand shall. This verse is perhaps better translated as a petition for divine victory ("Let your hand be lifted against").

■ 5:10–15 God will cleanse His nation (vv. 10–14) and cut off the pagan nations (v. 15). God's salvation cannot come otherwise than by stripping His nation of all vain and false military confidence (vv. 10, 11), sorceries (v. 12), and idolatry (v. 13).

■ 5:15 vengeance. God's vengeance takes place when He secures His sovereignty by delivering His people and punishing their guilty oppressors. Only the sovereign Lord Himself has the ultimate right to use force to protect His kingdom, and the exercise of force by an individual or community without divine authorization springs from unbelief (Deut. 32:35; Rom. 12:19–21).

■ 6:1–8 A classic example of the prophetic covenant lawsuit, in which the Lord pleads the terms of the covenant against His disobedient people. The message opens with a judgment scene in which the Lord is plaintiff, Micah is His envoy, the mountains are witnesses, and Israel is the accused (vv. 1, 2). God's own covenant faithfulness is then attested as He first gives Israel opportunity to voice any complaints (v. 3) and then recounts His mighty acts of deliverance (vv. 4, 5). The demand for covenant righteousness is then proclaimed—a righteousness consisting not merely in empty ritual but in heartfelt obedience (vv. 6–8).

■ 6:1 Arise, plead your case. The Lord commands Micah, as His representative, to prosecute God's case against the people. Micah obeys the command in v. 2.

mountains. The Lord used the enduring mountains as witnesses to the covenant mediated by Moses (Deut. 4:26; 30:19 and note; 31:28; 32:1).

2 [a]Hear, O you mountains, [b]the LORD's complaint,
And you strong foundations of the earth;
For [c]the LORD has a complaint against His people,
And He will [1]contend with Israel.

3 "O My people, what [d]have I done to you?
And how have I [e]wearied you?
Testify against Me.
4 [f]For I brought you up from the land of Egypt,
I redeemed you from the house of bondage;
And I sent before you Moses, Aaron, and Miriam.
5 O My people, remember now
What [g]Balak king of Moab counseled,
And what Balaam the son of Beor answered him,
From [2]Acacia Grove to Gilgal,
That you may know [h]the righteousness of the LORD."

6 With what shall I come before the LORD,
And bow myself before the High God?
Shall I come before Him with burnt offerings,
With calves a year old?
7 [i]Will the LORD be pleased with thousands of rams,
Ten thousand [j]rivers of oil?
[k]Shall I give my firstborn for my transgression,
[3]The fruit of my body for the sin of my soul?

8 He has [l]shown you, O man, what is good;
And what does the LORD require of you
But [m]to do justly,
To love [4]mercy,
And to walk humbly with your God?

Punishment of Israel's Injustice

9 The LORD's voice cries to the city—
Wisdom shall see Your name:

"Hear the rod!
Who has appointed it?
10 Are there yet the treasures of wickedness
In the house of the wicked,
And the short measure that is an abomination?
11 Shall I count pure those with [n]the wicked scales,
And with the bag of deceitful weights?
12 For her rich men are full of [o]violence,
Her inhabitants have spoken lies,
And [p]their tongue is deceitful in their mouth.

11 [n]Lev. 19:36; Hos. 12:7

12 [o]Is. 1:23; 5:7; Amos 6:3, 4; Mic. 2:1, 2 [p]Jer. 9:2–6, 8; Hos. 7:13; Amos 2:4

■ 6:4, 5 These verses are framed by references to Egypt (from which Israel was delivered) and Gilgal (where Israel entered the Promised Land, Josh. 4:19). All God's saving acts during Israel's formative period are included: the Passover and Exodus, guidance by the pillar of fire and cloud, miraculous provision of food and water, the provision of able leaders ("Moses, Aaron, and Miriam"), and victory over enemies. God's wonderful provision for His people during this period foreshadowed the church's experience with Christ (John 6:33; 1 Cor. 5:7; 10:1–4).

■ 6:5 remember. This command means not merely mental recall of past events, but that those events are to be means of actualizing them in the present. By faith such knowledge of the past is applied to present situations.

■ 6:6, 7 Through the rhetorical escalation of sacrifices ("calves . . . thousands of rams . . . rivers of oil . . . my firstborn") Micah displays the absurdity of Israel's dependence on empty ritual and sacrifice to earn divine favor. Such reliance showed a profound misunderstanding of God's grace, for Israel's salvation was free and not earned (vv. 4, 5). Moreover, Israel's covenant obligations entailed social justice and mercy, not mere liturgy (v. 8). See also Amos 5:21–24.

■ 6:8 humbly. Or, "prudently."

■ 6:9–16 This prophecy consists of an address to Jerusalem (v. 9), an accusation of falsity in business dealings and speech (vv. 10–12), and a judicial sentence of disease and ruin (v. 13–15). The covenantal context is apparent as the punishment reflects the covenant curses specified in the Mosaic law (v. 15; Lev. 26:20; Deut. 28:40, 51).

13 "Therefore I will also [q]make you sick by striking you,
By making you desolate because of your sins.
14 [r]You shall eat, but not be satisfied;
[5]Hunger shall be in your midst.
[6]You may carry some away, but shall not save them;
And what you do rescue I will give over to the sword.

15 "You shall [s]sow, but not reap;
You shall tread the olives, but not anoint yourselves with oil;
And make sweet wine, but not drink wine.
16 For the statutes of [t]Omri are [u]kept;
All the works of Ahab's house are done;
And you walk in their counsels,
That I may make you a [7]desolation,
And your inhabitants a hissing.
Therefore you shall bear the [v]reproach of [8]My people."

Sorrow for Israel's Sins

7 Woe is me!
For I am like those who gather summer fruits,
Like those who [a]glean vintage grapes;
There is no cluster to eat
Of the first-ripe fruit which [b]my soul desires.
2 The [c]faithful[1] man has perished from the earth,
And there is no one upright among men.
They all lie in wait for blood;
[d]Every man hunts his brother with a net.

3 That they may successfully do evil with both hands—
The prince asks for gifts,
The judge seeks a [e]bribe,
And the great man utters his evil desire;
So they scheme together.
4 The best of them is [f]like a brier;
The most upright is sharper than a thorn hedge;
The day of your watchman and your punishment comes;
Now shall be their perplexity.

5 [g]Do not trust in a friend;
Do not put your confidence in a companion;
Guard the doors of your mouth
From her who lies in your [h]bosom.
6 For [i]son dishonors father,
Daughter rises against her mother,
Daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law;
A man's enemies are the men of his own household.
7 Therefore I will look to the LORD;
I will [j]wait for the God of my salvation;
My God will hear me.

7 [j]Ps. 130:5; Is. 25:9; Lam. 3:24, 25

■ 7:1–7 Micah laments that no righteous are found (vv. 1–4) and bemoans the resulting social and national confusion that is both the result and punishment of their sin (vv. 4–6). Particularly striking is the description of the breakdown of family order. Micah concludes, however, with the confidence that beyond God's judgment lies salvation (v. 7).

■ 7:1 I . . . gather summer fruits. In his search for the righteous, Micah compares himself to a vinedresser searching for choice fruit after the best of the season is past.

■ 7:2 no one upright. This verse explains the allegory of v. 1.

■ 7:4 watchman. A metaphor for the prophets who announced the coming judgment (Ezek. 3:17; 33:7).

■ 7:5, 6 This passage was later used in Jewish extrabiblical apocalyptic literature to describe the conflict that will accompany the final day of the Lord, and Jesus quoted v. 6 in describing the conflict that results from His coming (Matt. 10:35–39; Luke 12:51–53).

Israel's Confession and Comfort

8 [k]Do not rejoice over me, my enemy;
[l]When I fall, I will arise;
When I sit in darkness,
The LORD will be a light to me.
9 [m]I will bear the indignation of the LORD,
Because I have sinned against Him,
Until He pleads my [n]case
And executes justice for me.
He will bring me forth to the light;
I will see His righteousness.
10 Then she who is my enemy will see,
And [o]shame will cover her who said to me,
[p]"Where is the LORD your God?"
My eyes will see her;
Now she will be trampled down
Like mud in the streets.

11 In the day when your [q]walls are to be built,
In that day [2]the decree shall go far and wide.
12 In that day [r]they[3] shall come to you
From Assyria and the [4]fortified cities,
From the [5]fortress to [6]the River,
From sea to sea,
And mountain to mountain.
13 Yet the land shall be desolate
Because of those who dwell in it,
And [s]for the fruit of their deeds.

God Will Forgive Israel

14 Shepherd Your people with Your staff,
The flock of Your heritage,

15 "As[u] in the days when you came out of the land of Egypt,

16 The nations [w]shall see and be ashamed of all their might;
[x]They shall put their hand over their mouth;
Their ears shall be deaf.
17 They shall lick the [y]dust like a serpent;
[z]They shall crawl from their holes like [9]snakes of the earth.
[a]They shall be afraid of the LORD our God,
And shall fear because of You.

■ 7:8–20 This concluding hymn consists of four stanzas: (a) Lady Jerusalem in her fallen status confesses her sin and her faith in the Lord (vv. 8–10); (b) the prophet promises that she will become a sheepfold offering salvation to the world under judgment (vv. 11–13); (c) Micah prays that the Lord will again miraculously shepherd His people (v. 14), which the Lord promises to do (v. 15), and Micah then prophesies that the unbelieving enemy will be conquered (vv. 16, 17); and (d) the people celebrate God's forgiveness and faithfulness with a hymn of praise (vv. 18–20).

■ 7:8 darkness. A dungeon without light is an apt figure for a city under divine judgment.

■ 7:9 I will see His righteousness. The Lord's righteousness will be manifested in faithful Israel's salvation (vv. 8, 9) and her unbelieving enemy's destruction (v. 10).

■ 7:11 the day. See 4:1, 6; 5:10–15. The last day is symbolically depicted by the restoration of Jerusalem's city walls (v. 11) and the extension of the boundaries of the land to limits prophesied by Moses and enjoyed under David and Solomon (v. 12; Gen. 15:18; Ex. 23:31; Deut. 11:24; 1 Kin. 4:21, 25). See text notes on vv. 11, 12.

■ 7:13 land shall be desolate. Outside the elect's secure borders is universal judgment. The Last Judgment is ultimately in view.

■ 7:16 hand over their mouth . . . be deaf. These are signs of humiliation in the face of overwhelming divine power. They will no longer taunt Israel or listen to the vain boasts of others.

18 [b]Who is a God like You,
[c]Pardoning iniquity
And passing over the transgression of [d]the remnant of His heritage?

[e]He does not retain His anger forever,
Because He delights in [f]mercy.[1]
19 He will again have compassion on us,
And will subdue our iniquities.

You will cast all [2]our sins
Into the depths of the sea.
20 [g]You will give truth to Jacob
And [3]mercy to Abraham,
[h]Which You have sworn to our fathers
From days of old.

18 [b]Ex. 15:11 [c]Ex. 34:6, 7, 9; Is. 43:25; Jer. 50:20 [d]Mic. 4:7 [e]Ps. 103:8, 9, 13; [Is. 57:16] [f][Ezek. 33:11] [1]Or lovingkindness

19 [2]Lit. their

20 [g]Luke 1:72, 73 [h]Ps. 105:9 [3]Or lovingkindness

■ 7:18 Who is a God like You. Micah, whose name means "Who is like the LORD" (1:1 note), perhaps employs a wordplay on his own name to emphasize God's pardoning grace.

■ 7:19 cast . . . sea. As God began Israel's journey by casting the Egyptians into the Red Sea (v. 15; cf. Ex. 15:1–5), He will conclude her history by casting His people's iniquities into the depths.

■ 7:20 give truth. Or, "show faithfulness." God's loving fidelity to the fathers is the basis of the church's hope (Rom. 4:17; Gal. 3:7–9, 29).

The Book of

NAHUM

Author Nahum means "comfort." His name is followed by the designation "the Elkoshite," probably a reference to the location of his birth or where he prophesied. Attempts to provide a closer identification of Elkosh have been unsuccessful. Proposals have included locations near ancient Nineveh, in Galilee (the name "Capernaum" perhaps derives from the Hebrew for "village of Nahum"), and in Judah. The internal witness of the book supports Judah as the general vicinity of Nahum's prophetic activity (1:15).

As is the case in most prophetic books, the person of the prophet recedes behind his message. Nahum has been incorrectly regarded as a narrow nationalist who, inspired by feelings of hatred and vengeance, proclaimed a message of judgment against Nineveh, and at the same time extended the promise of unconditional salvation to his own people, Judah. But this view overlooks that this book reflects the usual literary form of prophecies against foreign nations, and is to be compared with similar proclamations in Is. 13—23; Jer. 46—51; Amos 1; 2; and Obadiah.

As a true prophet of Yahweh, Nahum was profoundly aware that the Lord, the incomparable and all-powerful God, held universal dominion over the kingdoms of this world. Like his predecessor Isaiah, Nahum was also a gifted poet. Using a wealth of imagery and pictorial language, the prophet portrays the total destruction of Nineveh by an anonymous enemy, and so voices the universal relief and joy of all who suffered under the oppressive regime of a merciless tyrant.

Date and Occasion Nahum's prophecy can be dated between the capture of Thebes by the Assyrian ruler Ashurba-nipal in 663 B.C., which Nahum reports as a past event (3:8), and the fall of Nineveh in 612 B.C., which Nahum prophetically foretells (3:5–7).

During this period of the seventh century B.C., two major crises arose in the Assyrian empire. One came from the threat of the Medes and the advancing Scythians (642–638 B.C.). The other, larger crisis was the Babylonian revolt (652–648 B.C.) under the leadership of Ashurbanipal's elder brother who was supported by the Elamites and peoples from the Iranian highlands. Ripple effects of this revolt were experienced as far away as Palestine and Syria. Eventually the revolt was suppressed by bitter warfare that shook the whole empire. A date for Nahum's prophetic activities before or during this period of upheaval is attractive. Because the destruction of Thebes was apparently still fresh in the memory of his audience, a plausible date for Nahum's prophecy therefore falls between 660–650 B.C., in the days of King Manasseh of Judah, a loyal vassal of Assyria.

Characteristics and Themes

The Book of Nahum has a double title (1:1). It is called a "burden against Nineveh" and the "book of the vision of Nahum." "Burden" often indicates a divine message of judgment against a foreign nation (Is. 13:1; Mal. 1:1 note). "Vision" refers to a supernatural revelation to the prophet's inner sight or hearing. At times a prophet was instructed to write down a specific message (Is. 8:1, 2; 30:8) or even "all the words" that the Lord required him to speak (Jer. 36). The written form then provided a strong additional witness to the certainty of the fulfillment of those divine pronouncements. The prophecy's double title is solid confirmation of the authenticity of this oracle of doom against Nineveh and the inescapability of God's imminent judgment on the Assyrian kingdom.

This often neglected and disparaged book provides us with an important key for understanding past, present, and future history. Events do not occur as mere happenstance, but every particular of history is determined by the will, purpose, and power of God. In the opening hymn (1:2–8) and especially in 1:2, 3 (the "text" of Nahum's sermon), we learn that the Lord's government of history is in accordance with His character as the covenant God. He demands undivided submission everywhere and from everyone. Rejection of Him and of His law leads not only to the necessary consequences of chaos in society and in nature, but inevitably evokes His personal displeasure, resulting in just retribution.

God's patience must never be misunderstood as weakness. Corporate or individual sin will not be left unpunished. God ultimately ordains all the events of history. Nahum proclaimed the impending destruction of Nineveh as God's righteous judgment, and he invited his people to a joyful celebration of this event long before it took place.

Nineveh was a wicked, imperialistic, and deceitful metropolis with an arrogant and unscrupulous lust for power and domination manifested in merciless warmongering (3:1–4). In addition to its military exploits, Nineveh was condemned for its ruthless trade practices and insatiable materialism (3:16). Against this evil city Nahum delivered his message of divine vengeance and retribution (1:14; 3:5–7). No earthly power that defied God's law would finally escape His judgment.

Judgment, however, is not the Lord's final word. God's retributive judgment is also redemptive in that it furthers His loving purposes for His people and His covenant promises to them (1:15; 2:2). He destroys the forces of evil with the purpose of creating a new world of freedom (1:13), peace, and lasting comfort. "He knows those who trust in Him" and cares for them (1:7). Those familiar with the message in the "book of the vision of Nahum" will better understand the necessity of the Cross of Jesus Christ, the Son of the jealous and avenging God. They will be able to proclaim from this book the glorified Christ, to whom all authority in heaven and on earth has been given (Matt. 28:18) and who is now guiding history toward that Great Day when He will hand over the kingdom to His Father, after He has destroyed all opposing powers, so "that God may be all in all" (1 Cor. 15:24–28).□

God's Wrath on His Enemies

2 God is [b]jealous, and the LORD avenges;
The LORD avenges and is furious.
The LORD will take vengeance on His adversaries,
And He reserves wrath for His enemies;
3 The LORD is [c]slow to anger and [d]great in power,
And will not at all acquit the wicked.

[e]The LORD has His way
In the whirlwind and in the storm,
And the clouds are the dust of His feet.
4 [f]He rebukes the sea and makes it dry,

■ 1:1 Title of the book. See Introduction: Author; Date and Occasion.

■ 1:2–14 The introductory hymn (vv. 2–8), which in the Hebrew forms an incomplete acrostic poem, movingly describes the Lord as the universal Judge with power to accomplish His will.

■ 1:2, 3 The Lord's character forms the key to what follows.

■ 1:2 jealous. This attribute refers to God's passionate reaction against any infringement on His holiness or any attempt to share His glory. His jealousy demands undivided loyalty and reveals itself as wrath against rejection of Him or His lordship.

avenges . . . avenges . . . take vengeance. True to His nature, the universal Judge leaves no sin unpunished and metes out the just deserts of the wicked. The threefold repetition of the Hebrew word for "avenge" strongly emphasizes an inescapable and appropriate retribution.

adversaries . . . enemies. This terminology is typical of the Psalms and of holy-war imagery.

■ 1:3 slow to anger. A well-known confession of God's patience with sinners (Ex. 34:6, "longsuffering"; Jon. 4:2).

great in power . . . not at all acquit. God's patience never implies that He is weak or that He condones evil (Gen. 18:25).

■ 1:3–6 The prophet offers a poetic portrayal of the power of the Lord as manifested in His control of nature at Creation and on other occasions of intervention on behalf of His people (Ps. 18:7–15; Ex. 14:21, 22; Matt. 8:26). The godly Israelite recognized the Lord's work in nature. But nature is not confused with God or worshiped as God; it is the theater of His revelation.

■ 1:4 He rebukes. These words vividly portray the power of God in subjecting the forces of nature, as during creation or at the crossing of the Red Sea (Ex. 14).

And dries up all the rivers.
[g] Bashan and Carmel wither,
And the flower of Lebanon wilts.
5 The mountains quake before Him,
The hills melt,
And the earth [2] heaves at His presence,
Yes, the world and all who dwell in it.

6 Who can stand before His indignation?
And [h] who can endure the fierceness of His anger?
His fury is poured out like fire,
And the rocks are thrown down by Him.

7 [i] The LORD is good,
A stronghold in the day of trouble;
And [j] He knows those who trust in Him.
8 But with an overflowing flood
He will make an utter end of its place,
And darkness will pursue His enemies.

9 [k] What do you [3] conspire against the LORD?
[l] He will make an utter end of it.
Affliction will not rise up a second time.
10 For while tangled [m] like thorns,
[n] And while drunken like drunkards,
[o] They shall be devoured like stubble fully dried.
11 From you comes forth one
Who plots evil against the LORD,
A [4] wicked counselor.

12 Thus says the LORD:

"Though they are [5] safe, and likewise many,
Yet in this manner they will be [p] cut down
When he passes through.
Though I have afflicted you,
I will afflict you no more;
13 For now I will break off his yoke from you,
And burst your bonds apart."

14 The LORD has given a command concerning you:
[6] "Your name shall be perpetuated no longer.

sea . . . rivers. Used here as poetic parallels (Is. 50:2; Ps. 74:12–15). The abundant vegetation of the fertile "Bashan," "Carmel," and "Lebanon" withers when the hot desert wind, sent by the Lord, blows over it.

■ 1:5 The displeasure of the approaching Lord fills the earth and its creatures with terror. All creation seems threatened by chaos when even the seemingly permanent things ("the mountains . . . the earth") tremble and disappear.

■ 1:6 The rhetorical questions emphasize the irresistibility of God's anger. Divine wrath is compared to fire (Deut. 4:24; Heb. 12:29).

■ 1:7 good. The term denotes the Lord's benevolence as the source of all true human well-being and prosperity, and is particularly a confession of His abundant covenant blessings and kindness (Ps. 73:1). The Lord's people experience His awesome power as holy love. When help is needed He is an impregnable fortress (Ps. 46).

■ 1:8 flood . . . darkness. Striking images of severe judgment.

■ 1:9–14 The downfall of the wicked, represented by Nineveh, culminates in the comfort of God's people, Judah.

■ 1:9 conspire. All Assyrian strategies will be futile. Their struggle and their plans are now against the Lord, who has decided on their destruction, and will bring it about once and for all.

■ 1:11 Who plots evil. Perhaps a reference to Ashurbanipal (Introduction: Date and Occasion).

wicked. See text note. The word suggests something demonic.

■ 1:12–14 A comforting divine message assures God's people that the downfall of Assyria implies the end of their humiliation.

■ 1:12 Thus says the LORD. A well-known prophetic-messenger formula.

■ 1:13 break off his yoke . . . burst your bonds. Vivid poetic images of emancipation (Jer. 2:20; Ps. 2:3).

■ 1:14 command. The word emphasizes authority and certainty.

Your name. Complete extinction and loss of power and prestige await the Assyrians.

house of your gods. The temple and other objects of Assyria's trust and pride will also be destroyed.

Out of the house of your gods
I will cut off the carved image and the molded image.
I will dig your [g]grave,
For you are [r]vile."[7]

15 Behold, on the mountains
The [s]feet of him who brings good tidings,
Who proclaims peace!
O Judah, keep your appointed feasts,
Perform your vows.
For the [8]wicked one shall no more pass through you;
He is [t]utterly cut off.

The Destruction of Nineveh

2 He[1] who scatters has come up before your face.
Man the fort!
Watch the road!
Strengthen your flanks!
Fortify your power mightily.

2 For the LORD will restore the excellence of Jacob
Like the excellence of Israel,
For the emptiers have emptied them out
And ruined their vine branches.

3 The shields of his mighty men are made red,
The valiant men are in scarlet.
The chariots come with flaming torches
In the day of his preparation,
And [2]the spears are brandished.
4 The chariots rage in the streets,
They jostle one another in the broad roads;
They seem like torches,
They run like lightning.

5 He remembers his nobles;
They stumble in their walk;
They make haste to her walls, grave. The term represents the final undoing of Nineveh, its king, and its people in 612 B.C.

■ 1:15—2:13 This section is written in the prophetic present tense. Events still future are pictured as if already present, and events even more distantly future are portrayed as occurring at the same time with those happening much earlier. This vivid prophecy of judgment is a poetic "vision" (1:1; cf. Num. 12:6–8), and is not a precise and detailed historical account of events that took place later, in 612 B.C.

■ 1:15 See Is. 52:7. The approach of a herald of "good tidings," whose feet tread "the mountains" of Judah, initiates a new period of grateful service to the Lord. The good news is summarized in the meaningful word "peace" (Hebrew shalom), signifying not only the end of hostilities but also the return to normal, abundant living conditions and general well-being.

keep . . . vows. Periods of national crisis or foreign oppression often made celebration of the important temple feasts difficult, if not impossible. The "vows" made in the previous period of distress should now be fulfilled (Ps. 116:14, 17–19).

■ 2:1 In sharp contrast to the call for Judah to celebrate is the ironic exhortation of Nineveh to prepare for an attack.

scatters. The Assyrians, who destroyed many nations, including Israel, by scattering them over the face of the earth, will now experience a similar fate. In August, 612 B.C., the combined forces of the Medes and Babylonians destroyed Nineveh, and shortly afterward the Assyrian Empire collapsed.

■ 2:2 excellence of Israel. God will restore the oppressed people to the happiness implied by the name "Israel." Jacob received this new name as a sign of his spiritual maturity and his willing acceptance of the destiny God intended for him from the beginning (Gen. 32:27, 28).

■ 2:3 his mighty men. Probably a reference to the Lord's army (v. 2.). The warriors and chariots of the attackers fulfill His purposes. The armies of Assyria herself had earlier been God's instruments to accomplish His purposes of judgment (Is. 10:5–7).

red . . . scarlet. These terms emphasize the awe-inspiring appearance of the approaching army, whether the color refers to their actual robes or to the blood stains on them.

spears are brandished. See text note. The Hebrew is difficult but conveys the general impression of ready eagerness for war.

■ 2:4 Nineveh is a beehive of frantic soldiers.

streets. Possibly open fields or plains outside the city; if so, the verse speaks of the approaching army and its chariots of war.

■ 2:5 This may refer to the Assyrian king and his nobles, especially the military commanders. Alternatively, this verse may describe the attackers and their frenzied siege of Nineveh (the Hebrew word here rendered "defense" usually refers to a movable structure shielding the besiegers of a city).

And the defense is prepared.
6 The gates of the rivers are opened,
And the palace is dissolved.
7 [3]It is decreed:
She shall be led away captive,
She shall be brought up;
And her maidservants shall lead her as with the voice of doves,
Beating their breasts.

8 Though Nineveh of old was like a pool of water,
Now they flee away.
[4]"Halt! Halt!" they cry;
But no one turns back.
9 [5]Take spoil of silver!
Take spoil of [a]gold!
There is no end of treasure,
Or wealth of every desirable prize.
10 She is empty, desolate, and waste!
The heart melts, and the knees shake;
Much pain is in every side,
And all their faces [6]are drained of color.
11 Where is the dwelling of the [b]lions,
And the feeding place of the young lions,
Where the lion walked, the lioness and lion's cub,
And no one made them afraid?
12 The lion tore in pieces enough for his cubs,
[7]Killed for his lionesses,
[c]Filled his caves with prey,
And his dens with [8]flesh.

13 "Behold, [d]I am against you," says the LORD of hosts, "I will burn [9]your chariots in smoke, and the sword shall devour your young lions; I will cut off your prey from the earth, and the voice of your [e]messengers shall be heard no more."

CHAPTER 3

1 [a]Ezek. 22:2, 3; 24:6–9; Hab. 2:12

■ 2:6 gates of the rivers. The city of Nineveh was located on the bank of the Tigris River, and a smaller river flowed through the city. Conflicting ancient accounts ascribe the fall of Nineveh to flooding when the enemy redirected the dams and sluices of the water system. The description in Nahum is manifestly poetic, however. The term "gates" could simply refer to the five gates opening (cf. 3:13) in the direction of the Tigris River with its tributaries and canals. The location of the palace precluded the possibility of collapse by flooding.

palace. The seat of political and military organization.

■ 2:7 She. Nineveh is personified as a woman, a queen, going into exile. Her "maidservants," the inhabitants of the city, mourn the fate of their mistress.

■ 2:8 pool of water. This striking image is often taken to portray Nineveh's full population and prosperity. Now it drains away.

■ 2:10 heart melts . . . faces are drained. The merciless devastation creates terror and paralysis among the once-mighty Ninevites.

■ 2:11–13 This closing section is a taunt song in which the striking image of a pride of lions that met with destruction is employed to describe the imminent reversal of Nineveh's fortunes. God is the author of Nineveh's humiliation and disappearance.

■ 2:11 Where. This rhetorical question emphasizes how the famous city will be reduced to oblivion.

dwelling of the lions. An apt image for Nineveh as the home of the aggressive and ruthless Assyrians.

■ 2:13 The real secret of Nineveh's full and final downfall is revealed. Confrontation with Israel's almighty covenant God is fatal to the Assyrian Empire.

I am against you. The opposite of the good tidings of salvation, "I am with you" (Ex. 3:12; Josh. 1:5; Is. 43:2, 5).

messengers. The voices of the Assyrian envoys dictating terms and exacting tribute will be permanently silenced from the face of the earth.

■ 3:1–19 The expression of woe that opens this chapter controls its mood until the last verse. The various parts all contribute to its literary unity, and together they emphasize the irreversible doom of Nineveh. The prophet no longer focuses on Israel and Judah alone, but places the fate of Nineveh in a universal perspective.

■ 3:1–7 These vivid scenes of violence, death, and destruction confirm the city's expected doom. The charges against Nineveh (vv. 1–4) and her penalties (vv. 5–7) are set forth in stark detail.

■ 3:1 bloody city. The phrase emphasizes the merciless cruelty openly boasted by the Assyrians in their official records.

lies. Deceitful diplomacy characterized their international dealings (Is. 36:16, 17).

robbery. See 2:12, 13. Friendly negotiations serve as a cover for rapacious behavior. In their insatiable lust for more they constantly move from one victim to another.

Its [1]victim never departs.
2 The noise of a whip
And the noise of rattling wheels,
Of galloping horses,
Of [2]clattering chariots!
3 Horsemen charge with bright sword and glittering spear.
There is a multitude of slain,
A great number of bodies,
Countless corpses—
They stumble over the corpses—
4 Because of the multitude of [3]harlotries of the [4]seductive harlot,
[b]The mistress of sorceries,
Who sells nations through her harlotries,
And families through her sorceries.

5 "Behold, I am [c]against you," says the LORD of hosts;
[d]"I will lift your skirts over your face,
I will show the nations your nakedness,
And the kingdoms your shame.
6 I will cast abominable filth upon you,
Make you [e]vile,[5]
And make you [f]a spectacle.
7 It shall come to pass that all who look upon you
[g]Will flee from you, and say,
[h]'Nineveh is laid waste!
[i]Who will bemoan her?'
Where shall I seek comforters for you?"

8 [j]Are you better than [k]No[6] Amon
That was situated by the [7]River,
That had the waters around her,
Whose rampart was the sea,
Whose wall was the sea?
9 Ethiopia and Egypt were her strength,
And it was boundless;
[l]Put and Lubim were [8]your helpers.
10 Yet she was carried away,
She went into captivity;
[m]Her young children also were dashed to pieces

And all her great men were bound in chains.

■ 3:2, 3 These poetic verses provide one of the most vivid portrayals of a battle scene in the Old Testament. The staccato beat, economy of words, and gruesome detail all contribute to create an image of the Assyrian armies in action, reducing whole populations to "countless corpses" (v. 3).

■ 3:4 With a change of imagery, Nineveh is likened to a beautiful and seductive "harlot" for whose favor "nations" and "families" are sacrificed. Service of the gods, warfare, and commerce were closely intertwined. Seduction by Nineveh's power and pomp implied apostasy from true religion and subjection to her "sorceries," a term probably indicating the totality of pagan religion (Is. 47:12, 13).

■ 3:5 Retribution by the universal Judge is inevitable. See 2:13.

lift your skirts. The public humiliation by which harlots were punished.

■ 3:6 The image of the harlot is continued. She will be made an object of scorn and an example to deter others from doing the same.

■ 3:7 Nineveh . . . laid waste. The sight is so terrible that people will retreat from it in horror. So dreadful and truly deserved will be the disaster that no one will be found to mourn or comfort the nation in its downfall.

■ 3:8 No Amon. See text note. The city of the god Amon, better known as Thebes. This ancient and magnificent metropolis of Upper Egypt fell to the Assyrians in 663 B.C. Located on the Nile some 400 miles upstream from Memphis, it may have had moats and canals as defenses. There is probably a figurative element in Nahum's emphasis on the sea. In Scripture, a river or sea is often an emblem for strength that only God can overcome (Ex. 15; Ps. 114:3–5; Is. 23:3, 4; Matt. 8:27).

■ 3:9 Put. Traditionally identified with Libya.

■ 3:11 drunk. Apparently a figurative reference to the cup of the Lord's anger, from which all who defy Him are forced to drink (Is. 51:17–23). Nineveh in her distress tries to hide and find refuge, but only the Lord provides refuge in times of trouble (1:7). Compared to Him even the most powerful are weak and vulnerable (vv. 12–17).

You will be hidden;
You also will seek refuge from the enemy.

12 All your strongholds are [q]fig trees with ripened figs:
If they are shaken,
They fall into the mouth of the eater.
13 Surely, [r]your people in your midst are women!
The gates of your land are wide open for your enemies;
Fire shall devour the [s]bars of your gates.

14 Draw your water for the siege!
[t]Fortify your strongholds!
Go into the clay and tread the mortar!
Make strong the brick kiln!
15 There the fire will devour you,
The sword will cut you off;
It will eat you up like a [u]locust.

Make yourself many—like the locust!
Make yourself many—like the swarming locusts!
16 You have multiplied your [v]merchants more than the stars of heaven.
The locust plunders and flies away.
17 [w]Your commanders are like swarming locusts,
And your generals like great grasshoppers,
Which camp in the hedges on a cold day;
When the sun rises they flee away,
And the place where they are is not known.

18 [x]Your shepherds slumber, O [y]king of Assyria;
Your nobles rest in the dust.
Your people are [z]scattered on the mountains,
And no one gathers them.
19 Your injury has no healing,
[a]Your wound is severe.

Will clap their hands over you,
For upon whom has not your wickedness passed continually?

■ 3:12 fig trees. This telling image emphasizes that the normally impregnable fortresses are now not only desirable but easy to take.

■ 3:13 In the face of the approaching army all the Assyrian troops are like women (i.e., not trained for warfare). All barriers to slow the enemy's advance, such as gates and bars, have been removed.

■ 3:14 Frantic efforts must be made to "fortify . . . strongholds" and to prepare for a lengthy period of siege. The imperatives are ironic; vv. 14–17 reflect the mood of a derisive taunt song.

■ 3:15 Even the most strenuous efforts to avoid invasion are useless. The city and its people succumb to fire and sword.

■ 3:16 merchants. Assyria's international trade and commerce brought people and wealth to Nineveh. Under pressure from outside, the self-interest of these traders becomes clear. Having gathered like locusts, they seize what they can and disappear.

■ 3:17 commanders . . . generals. These two terms are rare in Hebrew and may be Assyrian loan-words. They probably represent important officials in the government of the vast empire. When things become dangerous they run away. Riches, power, and organization fail miserably as the nation collapses.

sun rises. The appearance of the Lord's judgment will scatter His enemies as dramatically as the heat of day rouses and disperses sleeping locusts (cf. Ps. 84:11; Mal. 4:1–3).

■ 3:18, 19 The finality of divine judgment on the cruel oppressor leads to universal rejoicing. These verses are reminiscent of funeral dirges and taunt songs of the period.

■ 3:18 shepherds. A well-known metaphor for leaders indicates the subordinate rulers of the Assyrian king.

slumber . . . rest. Striking euphemisms for death.

Your people . . . gathers them. The pastoral image is extended to the people (or perhaps the army) as a flock of sheep. In the absence of shepherds, the people are scattered (cf. 1 Kin. 22:17).

■ 3:19 The "news" of Nineveh's incurable "wound" and fatal "injury" is received with general applause. The God of Israel, to whom alone vengeance belongs (Deut. 32:35; Rom. 12:19), has finally put an end to the continual wickedness that had caused such injustice and suffering. The vision of Nahum had its initial fulfillment in 612 B.C. but still awaits its final realization at the Second Coming of our Lord Jesus Christ.

The Book of

HABAKKUK

Author

Our only reliable information about Habakkuk and his prophetic activity comes from this book. The meaning of his name is uncertain. It may be connected with a Hebrew word meaning "to embrace," or with the name of an Assyrian plant, the hambakuku. The former may refer to his closeness to the Lord; the latter may suggest the penetration of Assyrian culture into Judean society. The reference in 1:1 to Habakkuk as "the prophet" may imply that he was well known. His use of the cultic and wisdom traditions of Israel in his preaching have given rise to the doubtful notion that he was a prophet attached to the temple in Jerusalem, though the suggestion that he worked in Jerusalem is attractive. We can be sure, however, that in this book we meet a true prophet with a burning zeal for the glory of the Lord. His "burden" or "oracle" (1:1 and text note) is remarkable in that it is not, in the first place, a word directed to the people, but an answer to his own painful questions.

Date and Occasion

Objective evidence for dating Habakkuk's prophetic activity is provided by 1:6. The reference to the Chaldeans, or Neo-Babylonians, as the threatening new world power indicates a period after the collapse of the Assyrian Empire (612–605 B.C.) but before the Chaldean armies of Nebuchadnezzar II captured Jerusalem and deported the young king Jehoiachin to Babylon in 597 B.C. (2 Kin. 24:8–17). Habakkuk apparently ministered during Jehoiakim's reign (609–598 B.C.) and was a younger contemporary of Jeremiah.

An important event during this period was the battle of Carchemish in 605 B.C., when Pharaoh Necho II and his Egyptian army, who had come to assist the Assyrians against Babylon, were soundly defeated by Nebuchadnezzar II. Soon afterward, Judah also, like the other previously independent kingdoms of Syro-Palestine, became subject to the powerful Neo-Babylonians. Habakkuk's inspired vision therefore may be dated to the period between 605 and 600 B.C. when the Babylonians became the dominant force on the international scene, mercilessly sweeping aside all opposition (1:5–17).

This time of international threat coincided with a period of increasing moral and spiritual deterioration in Judah. The evil reign of Jehoiakim formed a sad contrast to that of his father, the good king Josiah (Jer. 22:13–19; 26:20–23). As they insolently flouted the covenant laws, the people of Judah increasingly lost their unique character (1:2–4).

Characteristics and Themes

Prophets were not only inspired preachers of divine messages to the people of God; they also shared the Lord's burden for His broken world and His deep concern for His wayward people. In this respect, Habakkuk closely resembles Jeremiah. But even more than with Jeremiah, Habakkuk's dialogue with God and his persistent prayers (2:1, 2; 3:2, 16) take the place of prophetic preaching as the heart of the message.

Habakkuk, a man with a burning passion for the honor of God (1:12; 3:3), experienced a profound spiritual crisis because of the Lord's seeming indifference to appalling spiritual conditions among His people (1:2–4). The absence of covenant life and obedience was dangerous to the people of God, but even more it was a rejection of the covenant Lord and an insult to Him. Because only divine intervention could change this deadly situation, Habakkuk was persistent in his appeal to the heavenly Judge, even when it seemed to be in vain (1:2). In response, the Lord revealed that the Chaldeans now appearing on the scene of history (1:6) would be His instruments of judgment. This cure seemed even worse than the disease and only added to the prophet's distress (1:12–17). How could the holy God, who cannot tolerate wrong (1:13), use such wicked people to fulfill His purposes? Does God really distinguish between good and evil in His sovereignty over history?

Convinced that the events of history were not determined by blind fate but by the righteous and holy God of Israel, Habakkuk expectantly waited on the Lord until he received an answer to his painful questions (2:1). The Lord's reply came in the vision introduced in 2:2, 3, which provides a true perspective on history and gives the divine promise about its outcome. This answer does not resolve all the painful questions, but it does teach God's people the way of covenant life in the here and now (2:3, 4). That way is to persevere in hope, waiting with confidence for the fulfillment of the Lord's unfailing promise. Although God's ways may be inscrutable, His purposes are consistent. They culminate in real life for the faithful, but woe and death for the self-sufficient and arrogant (2:4). The Lord's presence in His temple affirms His Lordship over history and assures us that in the end, His legitimate claim to the whole world will be universally acknowledged (2:14, 20; Is. 45:21–25; 1 Cor. 15:24–28).

The revelation of the Lord's sovereignty over history transforms Habakkuk's complaint into a hymn of joy (3:2–20). Instead of passively waiting for divine intervention, he now prayed positively that the Lord would act in accord with the deeds and qualities He displayed in the Exodus and at Sinai. Anticipating the future, Habakkuk in his prayer celebrates the Lord's coming (3:3–7), his judgment against nature and the nations (3:8–12), and His triumph over all opposition (3:13–15). From this perspective of faith, even the threat of severe calamity could not dampen Habakkuk's overwhelming joy in expectation of the coming salvation, a salvation guaranteed by the Lord's faithfulness to Himself and to His revelation (3:17–19).

Paul uses Hab. 2:4 as a foundational text for his proclamation of the gospel (Rom. 1:17; Gal. 3:11; cf. Heb. 10:35–39). Like Habakkuk (ch. 1), Paul knew that sin is incompatible with God's holiness and that the fatal tension between these opposites could only be resolved by divine intervention. The prophetic word to Habakkuk (ch. 2) reveals in principle the way God would deal with the incompatibility of sin and holiness. The Cross of Christ and the final Judgment are fulfillments of this revelation. Like Habakkuk, Paul also affirmed that true life was only possible in a relationship of total dependence on the Lord. Such dependence, based on the faithfulness of our God, transforms our existence in this world, filling our lives with joy in the certainty of God's faithfulness to His promises (2:3; 3:17–19).

For this reason, Habakkuk can be called a forefather of the Reformation. The key concepts of his preaching, as taken over by Paul, deeply influenced Luther and Calvin, and eventually became watchwords of the Reformation. Only the perspective of faith, or persevering and obedient trust in God, provides for meaningful existence in the world during the present period, between the "already" of initial fulfillment of God's promises and the "not yet" of their final realization.□

THE [1]burden which the prophet Habakkuk saw.

1 [1]oracle, prophecy

The Prophet's Question

2 O LORD, how long shall I cry,
[a]And You will not hear?
Even cry out to You, [b]"Violence!"

2 [a]Lam. 3:8 [b]Mic. 2:1, 2; 3:1–3

■ 1:1 burden. Or, "oracle" (text note); it is often a technical term for a prophecy of judgment against a foreign nation (Is. 13:1; 15:1; Nah. 1:1; Mal. 1:1 note).

the prophet Habakkuk. See Introduction: Author.

saw. The divine message took the form of a supernatural revelation to the prophet's inner sight or hearing (Mic. 1:1).

■ 1:2–4 Habakkuk's first complaint: The prophet was grieved and shocked by how God's people continually departed from covenant life. They no longer lived like a chosen and saved people (Ex. 19:4–6). But Habakkuk is even more concerned about the Lord's apparent inactivity. Breach of the covenant was to bring curses and judgment (Deut. 28:15–68). He therefore appealed to the Lord in language reminiscent of the psalms of individual complaint to redress a seemingly hopeless situation. Habakkuk's passionate dialogue and anguished wrestling with the Lord dominate the first part of the book (1:2—2:20).

■ 1:2 how long. The impatient question, characteristic of the psalms of lament (Ps. 13:2; 62:3; Jer. 47:6), indicates both importunity and perseverance in the prophet's appeal to the Lord, the final Judge in matters of covenant disobedience.

shall I cry. This indicates the loud cry of someone in deep distress (Ps. 22:24; 30:2).

Violence. This term summarizes the deliberate, brutal, and insensitive infringement of the rights and privileges of members of the covenant community.

You will not save. Habakkuk painfully observes the Lord's seeming indifference and inactivity in the face of undeserved suffering.

And You will [c]not save.
3 Why do You show me iniquity,
And cause me to see [2]trouble?
For plundering and violence are before me;
There is strife, and contention arises.
4 Therefore the law is powerless,
And justice never goes forth.
For the [d]wicked surround the righteous;
Therefore perverse judgment proceeds.

The LORD's Reply

5 "Look[e] among the nations and watch—
Be utterly astounded!
For I will work a work in your days
Which you would not believe, though it were told you.
6 For indeed I am [f]raising up the Chaldeans,
A bitter and hasty [g]nation
Which marches through the breadth of the earth,
To possess dwelling places that are not theirs.
7 They are terrible and dreadful;
Their judgment and their dignity proceed from themselves.
8 Their horses also are [h]swifter than leopards,
And more fierce than evening wolves.
Their [3]chargers [4]charge ahead;
Their cavalry comes from afar;
They fly as the [i]eagle that hastens to eat.

9 "They all come for violence;
Their faces are set like the east wind.
They gather captives like sand.
10 They scoff at kings,
And princes are scorned by them.
They deride every stronghold,
For they heap up earthen mounds and seize it.
11 Then his [5]mind changes, and he transgresses;
He commits offense,
[j]Ascribing this power to his god."

The Prophet's Second Question

12 Are You not [k]from everlasting,
O LORD my God, my Holy One?

2 [c][Job 21:5–16]
3 [2]Or toil
4 [d]Jer. 12:1
5 [e]Is. 29:14; Ezek. 12:22–28
6 [f]Deut. 28:49, 50; 2 Kin. 24:2; 2 Chr. 36:17; Jer. 4:11–13; Mic. 4:10 [g]Ezek. 7:24; 21:31
8 [h]Jer. 4:13 [i]Job 9:26; 39:29, 30; Lam. 4:19; Ezek. 17:3; Hos. 8:1; Matt. 24:28; Luke 17:37 [3]Lit. horsemen [4]Lit. spring about 11 [j]Dan. 5:4 [5]Lit. spirit or wind
12 [k]Deut. 33:27; Ps. 90:2; 93:2; Mal. 3:6

■ 1:3 Why. The question continues the complaint (cf. Lam. 5:20).

trouble. Lit. "labor" or "toil" (text note) that leads to distress, exhaustion, and despondency.

strife, and contention. Unchecked wickedness results in a divided community riddled with suspicions, accusations, and personal attacks.

■ 1:4 the law is powerless. Lit. "the law is numb." The word for "law" (Hebrew torah) denotes the divinely revealed standard for covenant life. The power and influence of the wicked had rendered the law ineffectual.

the wicked. Those in Israel who spurned the Lord's will and law.

■ 1:5–11 God's first response: The Lord will send the Babylonians to judge His people. He uses strange instruments against His unfaithful people—the terrifying Babylonians (cf. Is. 10:5, 6).

■ 1:5 astounded . . . not believe. God's method—the victory of the wicked over those "more righteous" (v. 13)—would pose a stumbling block to faith among Habakkuk's audience.

■ 1:6 I am raising up. The sovereign God of Israel controls every power in history, including the aggressive Chaldeans.

Chaldeans. Also called Babylonians, or Neo-Babylonians, the Chaldeans rose to power as the Assyrian Empire fell. Nineveh, capital of Assyria, was destroyed in 612 B.C. The Chaldeans ruled until their capital, Babylon, was destroyed by the Persians in 539.

■ 1:7 judgment . . . from themselves. This describes the arrogance of the coming enemy whose standards of action and honor were entirely selfish.

■ 1:8, 9 Vivid images portray the speed and resolution of these fierce and overpowering warriors.

■ 1:10 They scoff at kings. The intimidating Babylonian armies look at obstacles as challenges and treat their opposition with contempt.

heap up earthen mounds. Siege ramps built by attackers to gain access to a fortified city's walls.

■ 1:11 Ascribing this power to his god. Or, "this his power is his god." Pride, especially the deification of one's own power, is offensive to God, the only One who deserves our worship.

■ 1:12–17 Habakkuk's second complaint: The Lord's plan to use the wicked Babylonians to punish Israel seems to be in flagrant opposition to God's own revealed character.

We shall not die.
O LORD, [l]You have appointed them for judgment;
O Rock, You have marked them for [m]correction.
13 You are of purer eyes than to behold evil,
And cannot look on wickedness.
Why do You look on those who deal treacherously,
And hold Your tongue when the wicked devours
A person more righteous than he?
14 Why do You make men like fish of the sea,
Like creeping things that have no ruler over them?

15 They take up all of them with a hook,
They catch them in their net,
And gather them in their dragnet.
Therefore they rejoice and are glad.
16 Therefore [n]they sacrifice to their net,
And burn incense to their dragnet;
Because by them their share is [o]sumptuous
And their food plentiful.
17 Shall they therefore empty their net,
And continue to slay nations without pity?

2 I will [a]stand my watch
And set myself on the rampart,
And watch to see what He will say to me,
And what I will answer when I am corrected.

The Just Live by Faith

2 Then the LORD answered me and said:

[b]"Write the vision
And make it plain on tablets,
That he may run who reads it.
3 For [c]the vision is yet for an appointed time;
But at the end it will speak, and it will [d]not lie.
Though it tarries, [e]wait for it;

12 [l]Is. 10:5–7; Mal. 3:5 [m]Jer. 25:9
16 [n]Deut. 8:17 [o]Lit. fat

CHAPTER 2

1 [a]Is. 21:8, 11
2 [b]Is. 8:1
3 [c]Dan. 8:17, 19; 10:14 [d]Ezek. 12:24, 25 [e][Heb. 10:37, 38]

■ 1:12 from everlasting. As the eternal God of history and Lord of His people, He is free to choose the agents of chastisement.

my God, my Holy One. A personal relationship to the incomparable God, the Holy One, turns confusion into conviction that the present anguish will not be the end.

O Rock. This ancient Mosaic name for God emphasizes divine dependability and protection (Deut. 32:4 note).

■ 1:14 Why do You. A bold accusation by Habakkuk. If the Lord tolerates the evil actions of the Babylonians, He becomes responsible for the fate of their victims.

men like fish. Imagery of Babylon as a fisherman catching helpless fish is developed in vv. 14–17. Fishing was an important activity in Babylonia, which was located in the region of the Tigris and Euphrates rivers and was bordered on the south by the Persian Gulf. Some ancient Near Eastern wall reliefs portray victorious rulers carrying captives in fishnets.

no ruler over them. There was no one to protect them. Kings in the ancient Near East were seen as the protectors of their people (1 Sam. 8:20). An implicit accusation may also be present here, since the Lord was the ultimate King and protector of His people (Deut. 33:5; Is. 63:18, 19).

■ 1:16 sacrifice. The instruments of their success are idolized and worshiped (v. 11 note).

■ 2:1–20 Habakkuk receives an answer to his painful questions of 1:12–17. God will show that He is just and the justifier of those who have faith in Him. The final outcome of history will be worship of the one holy and just King (v. 20). The destiny of nations and individuals alike will be determined by their attitude toward God as it has found expression in persevering and faithful dependence or haughty rejection (Ps. 1; 2:2, 3).

■ 2:1 Habakkuk's anguished questioning drove him to the fount of all wisdom to wait for an answer. His words express his determination to wait for an answer. God is sovereign in word as well as in deed—His revelation cannot be forced.

watch . . . rampart. Military terms figuratively depict the prophet as a watchman on the lookout for a word from God.

■ 2:2 Write . . . make it plain. In order that it might be preserved and transmitted (cf. Jer. 30:2; Nah. 1:1).

vision. See note on 1:1.

That he may run who reads it. Perhaps a figure (though some suggest that Habakkuk actually wrote an oracle on large tablets) indicating that Habakkuk's prophecy was to be publicized. Either the writing was to be so clear that a courier could run with the tablets to read them, or that its clarity should enable passersby to read without difficulty (i.e., "that one may read it swiftly").

■ 2:3 appointed time . . . not tarry. A fixed period must elapse before the prophecy will be fulfilled, but this should not be regarded as failure or deception. Rather, this time can be endured with the Lord's guarantee of approaching fulfillment. Judgment on the Babylonians came (long after Habakkuk's vision) through Cyrus on October 29, 539 B.C.

Because it will [f]surely come,
It will not tarry.

4 "Behold the proud,
His soul is not upright in him;
But the [g]just shall live by his faith.

Woe to the Wicked

5 "Indeed, because he transgresses by wine,
He is a proud man,
And he does not stay at home.
Because he [h]enlarges his desire as [i]hell,
And he is like death, and cannot be satisfied,
He gathers to himself all nations
And heaps up for himself all peoples.

6 "Will not all these [i]take up a proverb against him,
And a taunting riddle against him, and say,
'Woe to him who increases
What is not his—how long?
And to him who loads himself with [2]many pledges'?
7 Will not [3]your creditors rise up suddenly?
Will they not awaken who oppress you?
And you will become their booty.
8 [j]Because you have plundered many nations,

3 [f]Ps. 27:13, 14; [James 5:7, 8; 2 Pet. 3:9]
4 [g][John 3:36]; Rom. 1:17; Heb. 10:38
5 [h]Prov. 27:20; 30:16; Is. 5:11–15 [i]Or Sheol
6 [i]Mic. 2:4 [2]Syr., Vg. thick clay
7 [3]Lit. those who bite you
8 [j]Is. 33:1; Jer. 27:7; Ezek. 39:10; Zech. 2:8

■ 2:4 The Lord now discloses the essential distinction He makes between the wicked, the Babylonians, and the righteous, the remnant of Judah. The wicked take paths that lead to death and defeat; the righteous by faith take a path that leads to life and victory. In brief, this distinction and the promise it contains for the righteous constitute the word of comfort to Habakkuk. It also marks the turning point in his personal struggle over the Lord's use of the wicked Babylonians as a rod of judgment against His people.

the proud. The Babylonian king and kingdom, the embodiment of wickedness in the world. Habakkuk has earlier described their arrogance (1:7, 10, 11).

by his faith. Or, "by his faithfulness." In context here, the Hebrew word denotes steadfast reliance on the Lord, a trust that perseveres. In the midst of a land filled with wickedness (1:2–4) and subject to the wrath of God, the Lord promises that a righteous remnant in Judah will trust in the God who remembers mercy in His wrath (3:2). The Hebrew recalls the words of Gen. 15:6 and applies them to Habakkuk's situation. By faith Abraham waited patiently for the fulfillment of God's promises (Heb. 6:15), and now Habakkuk and the remnant must wait patiently too (v. 3; 3:16). Here Paul found scriptural proof for the doctrine of justification by faith (Rom. 1:17; Gal. 3:11), and Habakkuk's word of comfort has been a key text for Protestant Reformation faith since the sixteenth century.

■ 2:5 transgresses by wine . . . proud man. The arrogance and insatiability of the Babylonians is compared to a drunkard besotted with wine.

hell . . . death. It was proverbial that death was like a devouring mouth always ready for more to die (Prov. 1:12; 27:20; 30:15, 16).

■ 2:6–20 This section of woes forms a distinct literary unit. Prophetic judgments are presented here in a taunt song, a poetic form that mocks the defeated.

■ 2:6–8 The first woe. Those who plunder others will themselves be plundered.

■ 2:6 all these. Judah and all those that suffered under the Babylonian oppressor. The prophecies of woe in vv. 6–20 are depicted in such general and proverbial terms that they acquire a universal applicability to the struggle of the persecuted righteous against the wicked.

Woe. The Hebrew word is apparently an interjection derived from the funeral lament (sometimes rendered "Alas," 1 Kin. 13:30), but is often used in prophecies of judgment.

many pledges. The heavy tribute exacted by the Babylonians is figuratively depicted as articles taken in security for debts.

■ 2:8 blood. The violence and bloodshed through which the Babylonians gained their plunder cries out to be avenged (v. 11; cf. Gen. 4:10).

Living by Faith (2:4)

The prophet's response to the difficult questions put to him: The just shall live by faith.

Question 1:	Why does God not respond to the wrong and injustice in the land (1:2–4)?
Answer:	He is about to respond by using Babylon as a tool of judgment (1:5–11).
Question 2:	Why does God use the wicked Babylonians to punish those more righteous than themselves (1:12, 13)?
Answer:	God has chosen this plan of action (2:2, 3). The just person will live by faith in God (2:4). Woe to the unrighteous (2:6–20).

All the remnant of the people shall plunder you,
Because of men's [4]blood
And the violence of the land and the city,
And of all who dwell in it.

9 "Woe to him who covets evil gain for his house,
That he may [k]set his nest on high,
That he may be delivered from the [5]power of disaster!
10 You give shameful counsel to your house,
Cutting off many peoples,
And sin against your soul.
11 For the stone will cry out from the wall,
And the beam from the timbers will answer it.

12 "Woe to him who builds a town with bloodshed,
Who establishes a city by iniquity!
13 Behold, is it not of the LORD of hosts
That the peoples labor [6]to feed the fire,
And nations weary themselves in vain?
14 For the earth will be filled
With the knowledge of the glory of the LORD,
As the waters cover the sea.

15 "Woe to him who gives drink to his neighbor,
[7]Pressing him to your [l]bottle,
Even to make him drunk,
That you may look on [8]his nakedness!
16 You are filled with shame instead of glory.
You also—drink!
And [9]be exposed as uncircumcised!
The cup of the LORD's right hand will be turned against you,
And utter shame will be on your glory.
17 For the violence done to Lebanon will cover you,
And the plunder of beasts which made them afraid,
Because of men's blood
And the violence of the land and the city,
And of all who dwell in it.

18 "What profit is the image, that its maker should carve it,
The molded image, a teacher of lies,
That the maker of its mold should trust in it,
To make mute idols?
19 Woe to him who says to wood, 'Awake!'

8 [4]Or bloodshed

9 [k]Jer. 49:16; Obad. 4 [5]Lit. hand of evil

13 [6]Lit. for what satisfies fire, for what is of no lasting value

15 [l]Hos. 7:5 [7]Lit. Attaching or Joining [8]Lit. their

16 [9]DSS, LXX reel!; Syr., Vg. fall fast asleep!

■ 2:9–11 The second woe condemns those who sought security and economic gain at the expense of others.

■ 2:9 nest on high. Birds of prey often make their nests in high and inaccessible places. Likewise the Babylonians considered their position in world history to be secure (Is. 14:13, 14; 47:7).

■ 2:11 stone will . . . answer it. A striking personification. This cry against injustice emerges from building materials stolen from others or purchased with unjust gain.

■ 2:12–14 The third woe pronounces judgment on the ruthless but futile efforts of the tyrant to perpetuate his fame.

■ 2:12 builds a town with bloodshed. Babylonian inscriptions confirm the high premium placed on building activities. Nebuchadnezzar, who used subjugated peoples as forced laborers, took special pride in his building of Babylon (Dan. 4:30). Such projects involved loss of life and were paid for with the spoils of war.

■ 2:13 of the LORD . . . in vain. God sovereignly ensures that the efforts of the proud to perpetuate their own glory amount to nothing. Instead, the "earth will be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the LORD" (v. 14).

■ 2:15–17 The fourth woe pronounces judgment on Babylon's sadistic and humiliating treatment of others.

■ 2:16 cup of the LORD's right hand. This biblical metaphor indicates divine retribution (Is. 51:17–23). What the Babylonians did to others will be done to them (vv. 7, 8).

■ 2:17 violence done to Lebanon. Military campaigns usually caused extensive damage to plants and animals. Trees supplied building material and firewood (Deut. 20:19, 20); wild and domestic animals were killed for food. Many cedar trees were lost during the Babylonian campaign against Lebanon (Is. 14:8). God's concern for His creation should be noted.

■ 2:18–20 The fifth woe denounces idolatry, the worship of false gods, as futile and foolish (Is. 44:9–17; 57:12, 13).

To silent stone, 'Arise! It shall teach!'
Behold, it is overlaid with gold and silver,
Yet in it there is no breath at all.

20 "But[m] the LORD is in His holy temple.
Let all the earth keep silence before Him."

The Prophet's Prayer

3 A prayer of Habakkuk the prophet, on [1]Shigionoth.

2 O LORD, I have heard Your speech and was afraid;
O LORD, revive Your work in the midst of the years!
In the midst of the years make it known;
In wrath remember mercy.

3 God came from Teman,
The Holy One from Mount Paran. Selah

His glory covered the heavens,
And the earth was full of His praise.
4 His brightness was like the light;
He had rays flashing from His hand,
And there His power was hidden.
5 Before Him went pestilence,
And fever followed at His feet.

6 He stood and measured the earth;
He looked and startled the nations.
[a]And the everlasting mountains were scattered,
The perpetual hills bowed.
His ways are everlasting.
7 I saw the tents of Cushan in affliction;
The curtains of the land of Midian trembled.

8 O LORD, were You displeased with the rivers,
Was Your anger against the rivers,
Was Your wrath against the sea,
That You rode on Your horses,
Your chariots of salvation?
9 Your bow was made quite ready;

CHAPTER 3

1 [1]Exact meaning unknown

6 [a]Nah. 1:5

■ 2:20 temple. Lit. "palace," the heavenly sanctuary from which the Lord, the Great King, rules His world (Ps. 11:4).

Let all the earth keep silence. A sharp contrast is drawn between the silent idols (v. 19) and the living God, before whom all others must keep silence. The woes of judgment on the proud and wicked culminate in the universal silence of worship in the glorious presence of the incomparable God (v. 14; Ps. 46:10).

■ 3:1–19 This chapter records the persevering prayer of Habakkuk. In moving hymnic style, Habakkuk responds (vv. 16–19) to the Lord's revelation (2:2–5) of His imminent intervention in history on behalf of His people (vv. 3–15). As the Babylonians represented the proud and wicked on their way to ruin, Habakkuk now exemplifies the righteous faithful persevering and already rejoicing in hope of the Lord's promise of life.

■ 3:1 prayer. Here perhaps a synonym for hymn (Ps. 72:20). The musical and liturgical notations in the heading, text, and conclusion of this prayer are like those commonly found in the psalms. See Introduction to Psalms: Characteristics and Themes.

■ 3:2 The invocation or prologue to the hymn.

heard Your speech. Or, "heard the report of Your deeds." Habakkuk's patience in standing before the Lord (2:1 note) was rewarded by a vision based on God's mighty deeds in the past.

revive Your work. Be present and active as You were in the time of Moses.

■ 3:3–15 Habakkuk's prayer portrays a theophany, or visible self-manifestation of God, using imagery that is found in the traditional descriptions of God's appearances at the Exodus from Egypt, at the giving of the covenant law at Sinai, and during the conquest of Canaan (Ex. 15:1–18; Deut. 33:2, 3; Judg. 5:4, 5; Ps. 18:10; 68:7, 8, 24; 77:16–20).

■ 3:3 Teman. The name of Esau's grandson represents the land of Edom (Amos 1:12 note).

Mount Paran. A mountain in the wilderness of the Sinai peninsula (Deut. 33:2).

■ 3:5 pestilence, And fever. Habakkuk pictures ominous dimensions of God's coming in judgment (Deut. 28:21, 22).

■ 3:7 Cushan . . . Midian. These are possibly alternative names for one people or area, perhaps for nomads from the Sinai peninsula.

■ 3:8–11 The prophet now directly addresses God. The approaching Lord is the invincible Divine Warrior who demonstrates His lordship over the cosmos. Similar poetic imagery is known from Canaanite and other mythologies.

Oaths were sworn over Your [2]arrows. Selah

You divided the earth with rivers.
10 The mountains saw You and trembled;
The overflowing of the water passed by.
The deep uttered its voice,
And [b]lifted its hands on high.
11 The [c]sun and moon stood still in their habitation;
At the light of Your arrows they went,
At the shining of Your glittering spear.

12 You marched through the land in indignation;
You [3]trampled the nations in anger.
13 You went forth for the salvation of Your people,
For salvation with Your Anointed.
You struck the head from the house of the wicked,
By laying bare from foundation to neck. Selah

14 You thrust through with his own arrows
The head of his villages.
They came out like a whirlwind to scatter me;
Their rejoicing was like feasting on the poor in secret.
15 [d]You walked through the sea with Your horses,
Through the heap of great waters.

16 When I heard, [e]my body trembled;
My lips quivered at the voice;
Rottenness entered my bones;
And I trembled in myself,
That I might rest in the day of trouble.
When he comes up to the people,
He will invade them with his troops.

A Hymn of Faith

17 Though the fig tree may not blossom,
Nor fruit be on the vines;
Though the labor of the olive may fail,
And the fields yield no food;
Though the flock may be cut off from the fold,
And there be no herd in the stalls—
18 Yet I will [f]rejoice in the LORD,
I will joy in the God of my salvation.

9 [2]Lit. tribes or rods, cf. v. 14
10 [b]Ex. 14:22
11 [c]Josh. 10:12–14
12 [3]Or threshed
15 [d]Ps. 77:19; Hab. 3:8
16 [e]Ps. 119:120
18 [f]Is. 41:16; 61:10

■ 3:11 stood still. See Josh. 10:12, 13.

■ 3:12–15 The Lord of nature also has absolute power over the forces of history. He comes to deliver His people and judge the wicked.

■ 3:12 trampled. Or, "threshed" (text note). An agricultural image derived from the way grain was threshed by violent beating or trampling (Amos 1:3 note).

■ 3:13 You went forth. In the past the Lord came out of His sanctuary for the salvation of His people in distress. This is what Habakkuk expects Him to do again.

For salvation . . . Anointed. Or, "to save Your Anointed." Possibly a synonym for the chosen people of Israel (cf. Ps. 105:15), but more probably a reference to the Davidic kingship as it came to final expression in the Messiah (Ps. 132:10).

■ 3:15 through the sea. Habakkuk refers again to the Exodus history in which God displayed His undisputed dominion over natural and historical forces.

■ 3:16 Together with v. 2, this verse encloses the hymn of vv. 3–15 with autobiographical references at beginning and end.

my body trembled. Habakkuk describes in physical terms the profound effect that the divine self-revelation had on him (cf. Jer. 4:19). The Lord answered his painful questions and will hear his prayer.

That I might . . . of trouble. Or, "I wait quietly for the day of trouble." Awed by the divine majesty, Habakkuk may rest in the assurance that the Lord will judge the wicked.

■ 3:17, 18 Even when crops and herds fail (a horrifying thought in the context of an agricultural economy), and society lives with hunger and poverty, Habakkuk's trusting expectation will not be crushed. Hope and trust transform his fear of the future into the desire to rejoice always in God his Savior (Rom. 8:35–39).

19 [g]2 Sam. 22:34; Ps. 18:33 [h]Deut. 32:13; 33:29 [i]Heb. YHWH Adonai

19 [i]The LORD God is my strength;
He will make my feet like [g]deer's feet,
And He will make me [h]walk on my high hills.

To the Chief Musician. With my stringed instruments.

■ 3:19 The LORD God is my strength. Total dependence on the sovereign covenant Lord is Habakkuk's key to life.

deer's feet . . . walk on my high hills. This striking figure portrays the strength and confidence the Lord imparts to the righteous (Is. 40:29–31).

Chief Musician. See note on v. 1.

The Book of

ZEPHANIAH

Author Zephaniah's lineage is traced back to the fourth generation, which is unique in the prophetic literature. This may indicate that the Hezekiah (715–686 B.C.) mentioned in the fourth generation is the well-known king of Judah by that name. The name Zephaniah, which means "Yahweh [the LORD] hides," is used of a priest who was a contemporary of Jeremiah (21:1; 29:25) and of other persons in the Old Testament (Zech. 6:10, 14). Though the prophet employs priestly vocabulary at several points (1:4–5, 7–9; 3:4, 18), there is no conclusive evidence to indicate he was officially associated with the temple.

Date and Occasion Zephaniah prophesied in the southern kingdom of Judah when Josiah (640–609 B.C.) was king. However, there is some question as to whether the prophet's ministry preceded or followed Josiah's great reform of the nation's worship in 621 B.C. Zephaniah's denunciation of continuing syncretistic worship (mixing the idolatry of the surrounding peoples with the worship of the LORD) and of Baal worship points to a date prior to Josiah's reforms. All that can be said with certainty is that Nineveh had not yet been destroyed (2:13–15); therefore the prophet's message was spoken prior to its destruction in 612 B.C. Zephaniah would have been a contemporary of Jeremiah, whose call came in Josiah's thirteenth year (627 B.C.). If his ministry is dated in the earlier part of Josiah's reign, then he was instrumental in bringing about Josiah's reforms since the sins he attacked (1:4–6) are those abolished by Josiah's reforms (2 Kin. 23:4; 2 Chr. 34:1–7).

Characteristics and Themes The focal point of the prophet's message is the day of the Lord, in which a foreign enemy, the Lord's sword of judgment (2:12; Is. 10:5), would inflict severe destruction upon Jerusalem (1:4, 10, 11; 2:1). This enemy has been variously identified as the Scythians, the Assyrians, or the Babylonians, depending on when the book is dated. Zephaniah's treatment of this subject is extensive. The day is near (1:7) and will be a day in which the wrath and anger of Israel's sovereign Lord will be directed against the wicked (1:15, 18; 2:2, 3). It is a day of darkness and gloom (1:15). So determined is the Lord to root out evil that He conducts a thorough search to ensure that the wicked will be found and destroyed (1:12). In that day pride will be vanquished (3:11), and the humble of the land (the remnant) saved (3:12, 17). The Gentiles also will come to faith in the true and living God and will "call on the name of the LORD" (3:9; Joel 2:32).

A less obvious point, but one that is alluded to throughout Zephaniah, is the prophet's recognition of the importance of the Lord's covenant with His people. Although Zephaniah never uses the word "covenant," some passages echo details of previous covenantal encounters and provisions. Certainly the complaints against Judah reflect the Lord's anger at their neglect of the covenant obligations.

Like many of the other prophets, the book begins with a message of universal judgment (1:2, 3) and ends with an oracle of salvation in which both the nations (3:9) and the revitalized remnant of Israel (3:12, 13) are brought into a saving relationship with the Lord (3:19, 20). Zephaniah sees the judgment as transforming the world by bringing all people's works, both good and evil, under divine scrutiny. The restorative nature of God's wrath is indicated by the change of tone from the warnings of 1:2, 3 ("I will utterly consume everything") to the hope expressed in 3:14–17. Also, the prophet's terminology indicates his awareness of the messages of his predecessors (cf. 1:7 and Hab. 2:20; Zeph. 1:14 and Joel 1:15; Zeph. 1:7 and Is. 34:6). □

The Great Day of the LORD

2 "I will [1]utterly consume everything
From the face of the land,"
Says the LORD;
3 "I[b] will consume man and beast;
I will consume the birds of the heavens,
The fish of the sea,
And the [2]stumbling blocks along with the wicked.
I will cut off man from the face of the [3]land,"
Says the LORD.

4 "I will stretch out My hand against Judah,
And against all the inhabitants of Jerusalem.
[4]I will cut off every trace of Baal from this place,
The names of the [c]idolatrous[5] priests with the pagan priests—
5 Those [d]who worship the host of heaven on the housetops;
Those who worship and swear oaths by the LORD,
But who also swear [e]by [6]Milcom;
6 [f]Those who have turned back from following the LORD,
And [g]have not sought the LORD, nor inquired of Him."

7 [h]Be silent in the presence of the Lord GOD;
[i]For the day of the LORD is at hand,

■ 1:1 Superscription. See Introduction: Author; Date and Occasion.

word of the LORD. The phrase refers to revelation received from the Lord and communicated through a prophet.

■ 1:2–6 The prophet begins with an announcement of universal judgment (vv. 2, 3), and quickly particularizes it against Judah and Jerusalem (v. 4). Three specific sins are denounced: idolatry (v. 4), syncretism (v. 5), and religious indifference (v. 6).

■ 1:3 consume man. See Matt. 13:41, 42. The coming judgment is compared to that of the Genesis flood by use of the phrases "man and beast" and "birds of the heavens" (cf. Gen. 6:7; 7:23). This prophecy will be consummated at the end of history (2 Pet. 3:3–7).

■ 1:4 stretch out My hand. This phrase refers to the power of God unleashed against His antagonists (2:13; Ex. 3:20; Deut. 4:34; Is. 5:25).

trace of Baal. All that remains of Baal worship will be destroyed. This statement may mean that a religious renewal was already underway and that Baal worship was in decline.

■ 1:5 Those who worship the host of heaven. Baal worship and the worship of the stars were sins that had contributed to the demise of the northern kingdom in the eighth century B.C. (2 Kin. 17:16). Altars were apparently erected upon the roofs of the houses (2 Kin. 23:12; Jer. 19:13).

Milcom. Or, "Molech" (text note). Worship of this Ammonite god, which involved the hideous practice of child sacrifice, was strictly forbidden (Lev. 18:21 note; 20:2–5; cf. 1 Kin. 11:5; 2 Kin. 23:10; Jer. 32:35).

■ 1:6 sought the LORD. See 2:3.

■ 1:7 Be silent. See Hab. 2:20; Zech. 2:13; Ps. 46:10. The prophet calls for trustful submission to the sovereign, covenant God. The command to "be silent" is often linked to being in the presence of the holy God (Hab. 2:20; Zech. 2:13).

the day of the LORD. This term occurs frequently in the Old Testament prophets. It can refer to any specific time when the Divine Warrior, the Lord of Hosts, is glorious in victory: against Babylon through the Medes (Is. 13:1—14:27), against Egypt through Babylon (Ezek. 30:2–4), or against Israel through Assyria (Is. 10:5, 6, 20, 24). This day of the Lord's vengeance against the wicked is also depicted as the time of Israel's deliverance (Is. 34:2—35:10), when the Lord decisively defeats all of Israel's opposition (2:2, 9; 3:8–20; Joel 3:14–16). It is also the day of final judgment (Amos 5:18–20). See notes on Ezek. 7:7 and Amos 5:18.

the LORD has prepared a sacrifice. The imminent judgment coming upon Judah is compared to sacrifices. The nation is a sacrificial lamb (Is. 34:6; Jer. 46:10; Ezek. 39:17–19).

invited His guests. Or, "consecrated His guests" (text note). The invited

For [j]the LORD has prepared a sacrifice;
He has [7]invited His guests.

8 "And it shall be,
In the day of the LORD's sacrifice,
That I will punish [k]the princes and the king's children,
And all such as are clothed with foreign apparel.
9 In the same day I will punish
All those who [l]leap over the threshold,
Who fill their masters' houses with violence and deceit.

10 "And there shall be on that day," says the LORD,
"The sound of a mournful cry from [m]the Fish Gate,
A wailing from the Second Quarter,
And a loud crashing from the hills.
11 [n]Wail, you inhabitants of [8]Maktesh!
For all the merchant people are cut down;
All those who handle money are cut off.

12 "And it shall come to pass at that time
That I will search Jerusalem with lamps,
And punish the men
Who are [o]settled[9] in complacency,
[p]Who say in their heart,
'The LORD will not do good,
Nor will He do evil.'
13 Therefore their goods shall become booty,
And their houses a desolation;
They shall build houses, but not inhabit them;
They shall plant vineyards, but [q]not drink their wine."

14 [r]The great day of the LORD is near;
It is near and hastens quickly.
The noise of the day of the LORD is bitter;
There the mighty men shall cry out.
15 [s]That day is a day of wrath,
A day of trouble and distress,
A day of devastation and desolation,
A day of darkness and gloominess,
A day of clouds and thick darkness,
16 A day of [t]trumpet and alarm
Against the fortified cities
And against the high towers.

guests may be the nations who serve as the divine instrument of judgment (Is. 10:5–10; Hab. 1:6). Alternatively, the invited guests (the covenant people) are themselves the sacrificial offerings. The consecration of guests is necessary to maintain the holiness of the Lord (Ex. 19:10; 24:9–11), and recalls elements of the covenant ritual at Mount Sinai (vv. 15, 16 note).

■ 1:8 the princes. The sons of the king and other royal officials. Their lack of commitment to the covenant is evidenced by their adoption of foreign customs and attire, a sign of religious disloyalty.

■ 1:9 threshold. The threshold of a pagan sanctuary. Probably a Philistine religious practice was being imitated (1 Sam. 5:5).

■ 1:11 merchant. Cries of anguish come from all parts of the city, depicting the extent of the evil and the judgment. The wealthier merchant class is singled out for their greed and corrupt business practices (Amos 8:4–6).

■ 1:12 I will search. There is no escape from the divine scrutiny (Ps. 139; Amos 9:1–4).

settled in complacency. See text note. The prophet draws a word picture from the wine-making process. Like the sediment of wine, which settles and thickens if left undisturbed, the citizens of Jerusalem have become settled (confirmed) in their indifference toward God. Because they are thoroughly complacent toward God, they regard Him as morally indifferent toward good or evil.

■ 1:14–18 Zephaniah elaborates further on the day of the Lord, setting the stage for his strong plea for repentance in 2:1–3.

■ 1:15, 16 The day of the Lord is presented in frightful images recalling the theophany that accompanied the establishment of the Mosaic covenant at Mount Sinai (Ex. 19:16), the terms of which Judah has broken. Some suggest that "day of the LORD" here can be regarded as the day of His covenant, when the Lord establishes His covenant or enforces its provisions.

Because they have sinned against the LORD;

But the whole land shall be devoured

Of all those who dwell in the land.

A Call to Repentance

2 Gather[a] yourselves together, yes, gather together,
O [f]undesirable nation,
2 Before the decree is issued,
Or the day passes like chaff,
Before the LORD's fierce anger comes upon you,
Before the day of the LORD's anger comes upon you!
3 [b]Seek the LORD, [c]all you meek of the earth,
Who have upheld His justice.
Seek righteousness, seek humility.
[d]It may be that you will be hidden
In the day of the LORD's anger.

Judgment on Nations

4 For [e]Gaza shall be forsaken,
And Ashkelon desolate;
They shall drive out Ashdod [f]at noonday,
And Ekron shall be uprooted.
5 Woe to the inhabitants of [g]the seacoast,
The nation of the Cherethites!
The word of the LORD is against you,
O [h]Canaan, land of the Philistines:
"I will destroy you;
So there shall be no inhabitant."

6 The seacoast shall be pastures,
With [z]shelters for shepherds [i]and folds for flocks.
7 The coast shall be for [j]the remnant of the house of Judah;
They shall feed their flocks there;

■ 1:17 they shall walk like blind men. One of the covenant curses found in Deut. 28:28, 29.

they have sinned. The reason for the Lord's judgment of Judah is stated in general terms. See note on 3:1–5.

■ 1:18 Neither their silver nor their gold. See Ps. 49:6–9; Prov. 11:4; Matt. 16:26; Luke 12:13–21.

jealousy. See Ex. 20:5; 34:14; Deut. 4:24. God's jealousy presupposes His covenant love. He has redeemed a people to make them His "special treasure" (Ex. 19:5). God's covenant love demands the absolute loyalty of His people.

■ 2:1–3 As the Lord's representatives to enforce the covenant, the prophets often warned God's people (Is. 1:16–20; 55:1–6; Hos. 2:4, 5; 4:15; Amos 4:12; 5:5, 6; Mic. 6:8).

■ 2:1 Gather yourselves together. They are called to assemble in order to hear (cf. Is. 34:1; Jer. 4:5; Joel 2:15, 16; 3:11). The call to hear these severe warnings is itself an act of divine grace, for the warnings are designed to elicit repentance.

■ 2:3 Seek the LORD. See 1:6 and Is. 55:6, 7. Here this seeking of the Lord is further defined as "Seek righteousness, seek humility." A similar pattern is evident in Amos, where the prophet commands, "Seek the LORD" and later "Seek good and not evil" (Amos 5:6, 14).

It may be that you will be hidden. The prophet's tentative words here express both his hope that the "meek" remnant (v. 3) will find refuge from the Lord's wrath (cf. Is. 55:7), and his pessimism that the "undesirable nation" (v. 1) will repent. Cf. Amos 5:15.

■ 2:4–15 This section consists of four prophecies of judgment directed against the foreign nations. Such messages were to assure God's own people that His sovereign purposes extended over their enemies (1:5, 6) and that these nations were also morally accountable for their actions (Amos 1:3—2:3; Mic. 1:2).

■ 2:5 Woe. The same word of doom later pronounced upon Jerusalem (3:1). It often introduces a prophecy of judgment.

■ 2:7 The judgment of the nations will be accompanied by God's preservation of a remnant from His people (Deut. 32:27 note). Other references in Zephaniah to the remnant occur in v. 9 and 3:9–12.

In the houses of Ashkelon they shall lie down at evening.
For the LORD their God will [k]intervene[3] for them,
And [l]return their captives.

8 "I[m] have heard the reproach of Moab,
And [n]the insults of the people of Ammon,
With which they have reproached My people,
And [o]made arrogant threats against their borders.
9 Therefore, as I live,"
Says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel,
"Surely [p]Moab shall be like Sodom,
And [q]the people of Ammon like Gomorrah—
[r]Overrun[4] with weeds and saltpits,
And a [5]perpetual desolation.
The residue of My people shall plunder them,
And the remnant of My people shall possess them."

10 This they shall have [s]for their pride,
Because they have reproached and made arrogant threats
Against the people of the LORD of hosts.
11 The LORD will be awesome to them,
For He will reduce to nothing all the gods of the earth;
[t]People shall worship Him,
Each one from his place,
Indeed all [u]the shores of the nations.

12 "You[v] Ethiopians also,
You shall be slain by [w]My sword."

13 And He will stretch out His hand against the north,
[x]Destroy Assyria,
And make Nineveh a desolation,
As dry as the wilderness.
14 The herds shall lie down in her midst,
[y]Every beast of the nation.
Both the [z]pelican and the bittern
Shall lodge on the capitals of her pillars;
Their voice shall sing in the windows;
Desolation shall be at the threshold;
For He will lay bare the [a]cedar work.
15 This is the rejoicing city
[b]That dwelt securely,
[c]That said in her heart,
"I am it, and there is none besides me."
How has she become a desolation,
A place for beasts to lie down!
Everyone who passes by her [d]Shall hiss and [e]shake his fist.

return their captives. Or, "restore their fortunes." This widely employed phrase refers to Israel's future salvation beyond the judgment (Deut. 30:3; Ps. 14:7; Jer. 30:3, 18; 32:44; Amos 9:14). Sometimes it refers to the physical return of exiles; in other instances a more general restoration of fortunes is indicated (e.g., Job 42:10).

■ 2:9 Sodom . . . Gomorrah. These ancient cities symbolize sin and serve as types of God's final judgment on sinners (Gen. 18:20 note; Is. 1:9; Amos 4:11; Matt. 10:5; 2 Pet. 2:6).

■ 2:11 worship Him . . . all the shores of the nations. See 3:9, 10; Ps. 72:8–11; Is. 56:67.

■ 2:12 My sword. See Is. 10:5.

■ 2:13 Destroy Assyria. Nineveh, the capital of Assyria, fell to the Babylonians and Medes in 612 B.C. This verse suggests that Zephaniah prophesied prior to that date (Introduction: Date and Occasion).

■ 2:15 I am . . . none besides me. This boast is phrased in language similar to what the sovereign Lord alone rightly may use (Deut. 4:39; Is. 45:5, 6; 47:10). Such self-deification meets with ruin, and those who boasted become objects of scorn.

The Wickedness of Jerusalem

3 Woe to her who is rebellious and polluted,
To the oppressing city!
2 She has not obeyed His voice,
She has not received correction;
She has not trusted in the LORD,
She has not drawn near to her God.

3 [a]Her princes in her midst are roaring lions;
Her judges are [b]evening wolves
That leave not a bone till morning.
4 Her [c]prophets are insolent, treacherous people;
Her priests have [1]polluted the sanctuary,
They have done [d]violence to the law.
5 The LORD is righteous in her midst,
He will do no unrighteousness.
[2]Every morning He brings His justice to light;
He never fails,
But [e]the unjust knows no shame.

6 "I have cut off nations,
Their fortresses are devastated;
I have made their streets desolate,
With none passing by.
Their cities are destroyed;
There is no one, no inhabitant.
7 [f]I said, 'Surely you will fear Me,
You will receive instruction'—
So that her dwelling would not be cut off,
Despite everything for which I punished her.
But [3]they rose early and [g]corrupted all their deeds.

A Faithful Remnant

8 "Therefore [h]wait for Me," says the LORD,
"Until the day I rise up [4]for plunder;
My determination is to [i]gather the nations
To My assembly of kingdoms,
To pour on them My indignation,
All My fierce anger;
All the earth [j]shall be devoured
With the fire of My jealousy.

■ 3:1–5 The references here to prophets, priests, the sanctuary, and the law indicate that the prophet is addressing Jerusalem. The general accusation of 1:17 now becomes specific. Jerusalem's sins were particularly heinous because they were committed against the righteous covenant God who had graciously revealed Himself to His people (v. 5; Amos 2:4, 10–12; 3:2).

■ 3:2 She has not obeyed His voice. Lit. "she listens to no voice." The people ignored God's voice revealed in the law (Deut. 31:9–13), through the prophets (Jer. 7:23–28; Hag. 1:12), and through the sages (Prov. 1:8).

She has not received correction. See v. 7. Failure to receive correction leads to death (Prov. 5:23), but openness to it leads to life (Prov. 6:23; Jer. 2:30; 5:3; 7:28; 32:33; 35:13; Ps. 50:17).

drawn near. The Hebrew verb here means "to approach God properly in worship" (cf. Lev. 10:3). Worship must come from the heart, not just the mouth (cf. Is. 29:13; John 4:24).

■ 3:3, 4 See Mic. 3:9, 10.

■ 3:3 princes in her midst. See note on v. 5.

roaring lions. The images of the unclean lion and wolf here describe the predatory and fierce nature of those corrupt government officials, whose proper office was to protect and give stability to society.

■ 3:4 Her prophets . . . Her priests. For similar condemnations of Israel's spiritual leaders, see Hos. 4:5, 6; Is. 28:7; Jer. 5:31; 6:13; Mic. 3:5–8, 11.

■ 3:5 in her midst. Zephaniah contrasts the presence of the righteous Lord within Jerusalem and the presence of corrupt and unrighteous leadership within her (v. 3). The essence of God's covenant commitment is the promise of His presence with His people (Ex. 29:42–46 note; Num. 14:14; Is. 43:2). Here, God's presence threatens judgment (Hos. 11:9), but the same phrase in 3:17 signifies salvation.

■ 3:6–8 Attention shifts from Jerusalem to the nations. The prophet notes God's previous judgment of the nations (v. 6), which should have been a lesson to Jerusalem (v. 7), before turning to the future judgment that awaits (v. 8).

■ 3:7 You will receive instruction. See v. 2.

9 "For then I will restore to the peoples [k]a pure [5]language,
That they all may call on the name of the LORD,
To serve Him with one accord.
10 [l]From beyond the rivers of Ethiopia
My worshipers,
The daughter of My dispersed ones,
Shall bring My offering.
11 In that day you shall not be shamed for any of your deeds
In which you transgress against Me;
For then I will take away from your midst
Those who [m]rejoice in your pride,
And you shall no longer be haughty
In My holy mountain.
12 I will leave in your midst
[n]A meek and humble people,
And they shall trust in the name of the LORD.
13 [o]The remnant of Israel [p]shall do no unrighteousness
[q]And speak no lies,
Nor shall a deceitful tongue be found in their mouth;
For [r]they shall feed their flocks and lie down,
And no one shall make them afraid."

Joy in God's Faithfulness

14 [s]Sing, O daughter of Zion!
Shout, O Israel!
Be glad and rejoice with all your heart,
O daughter of Jerusalem!
15 The LORD has taken away your judgments,
He has cast out your enemy.
[t]The King of Israel, the LORD, [u]is in your midst;
You shall [6]see disaster no more.

16 In that day [v]it shall be said to Jerusalem:
"Do not fear;
Zion, [w]let not your hands be weak.

■ 3:9–20 The dramatic reversal: Judgment is the prelude to restoration and purification both in Israel and among the nations (vv. 9, 12, 13). In a closing hymn of praise (3:14–20) the prophet sings of the future reign of the Lord, His victory over His enemies, and His love for and presence with His people. The church may sing this song now in celebration of Christ's victory on the Cross (Col. 2:15) and in anticipation of His triumph when He returns (2 Thess. 1:5–10).

■ 3:9 restore . . . a pure language. See text note. To purify the lips is either to cleanse from sin in general (Is. 6:5) or to remove the names of foreign gods from the lips of a worshiper (Hos. 2:17).

to the peoples. The Gentiles will also call on His name (Is. 52:15; 65:1; 66:18).

all may call on the name of the LORD. In contrast with the idolaters of 1:5, 6. See Gen. 4:26; 1 Kin. 18:24; Jer. 10:25; Joel 2:32; Acts 2:21; Rom. 10:12, 13.

■ 3:11 rejoice in your pride. See Is. 2:12–18.

■ 3:13 remnant. See note on 2:7.

shall do no unrighteousness. The remnant will be like God. Identical words are used of the Lord in v. 5. A primary goal of salvation is ever-increasing conformity to the image of God (Matt. 5:48; 1 Pet. 1:15, 16).

And speak no lies. In contrast with the deceitful idolaters of 1:9.

feed their flocks and lie down. A common prophetic phrase (Is. 49:9; Mic. 7:14; Jer. 50:19; Ezek. 34:14) portraying the security that comes from trusting God and acknowledging His kingship (v. 15).

no one shall make them afraid. See Mic. 4:4.

■ 3:14 daughter of Zion. This personification of Jerusalem is based on the practice among poets of personifying places and objects in terms of grammatical gender. The word for "city" in Hebrew is feminine, and the prophet speaks of Zion as "daughter."

■ 3:15 your judgments . . . your enemy. The basis for the rejoicing in v. 14 is explained: both the judgments against God's people and the enemies that threaten them are overcome. This prophecy finds final fulfillment in Jesus Christ, who satisfied God's judgment against sin and overcame the enemies of God through His death on the Cross (Rom. 3:23–25; Col. 2:15 note).

The King of Israel . . . in your midst. See John 1:49. The promise of God's dwelling in the midst of His people points forward to Christ, the King of Israel (John 1:49) and incarnate glory of God (Ex. 26 note; John 1:14 note).

■ 3:17 He will rejoice over you with gladness. This delight is grounded in the character of God, who "delights in mercy" (Mic. 7:18).

He will quiet you with His love. The phrase translated "quiet you" may also be rendered "is quiet" or "rests." In the larger context God has been revealed as the Warrior "mighty to save." The former war cry (1:14) is

The Mighty One, will save;
[y] He will rejoice over you with gladness,
He will quiet you with His love,
He will rejoice over you with singing."

18 "I will gather those who [z] sorrow over the appointed assembly,
Who are among you,
To whom its reproach is a burden.
19 Behold, at that time
I will deal with all who afflict you;
I will save the [a] lame,
And gather those who were driven out;
I will appoint them for praise and fame
In every land where they were put to shame.
20 At that time [b] I will bring you back,
Even at the time I gather you;
For I will give you [7] fame and praise
Among all the peoples of the earth,
When I return your captives before your eyes,"
Says the LORD.

now quieted by victory and the loving relationship between God and His people. The Lord's purging and transforming work of grace creates a renewed people who acknowledge His rule and trust in His name (v. 12).

■ 3:19 for praise and fame. See v. 20. The phrase goes back to Deut. 26:18, 19, where Israel as the Lord's special people is privileged to represent Him and be the tangible means whereby praise, honor, and glory are given to the Lord (cf. Is. 43:7; Jer. 13:11; 33:9). Paul sees the church in this role (Titus 2:14), as does Peter (1 Pet. 2:9–12).

The Book of

HAGGAI

Author The name "Haggai" means "festal," perhaps indicating that the prophet was born during a feast, but our knowledge of this prophet comes only from the Book of Haggai itself and from what the Book of Ezra mentions. The prophets Haggai and Zechariah cooperated to encourage the Jews who had returned from their sixth-century B.C. exile in Babylon to rebuild the temple at Jerusalem (Ezra 5:1; 6:14).

Date and Occasion Haggai and Zechariah share a common historical background, both having begun their ministries in "the second year of King Darius" (520 B.C.). The Jews had returned to Palestine under the edict of the Persian king Cyrus in 538 B.C. and had begun to rebuild the temple. Opposition from the outside and discouragement from within caused them to abandon the project for about sixteen or seventeen years (Ezra 4:1–4). When Haggai and Zechariah began their work in 520 B.C., further opposition came from Tattenai, the Persian governor of Trans-Euphrates, which included Palestine (Ezra 5). But Darius I (Hystaspes), who ruled Persia from 522 to 486 B.C., reissued Cyrus' edict so that the temple was rebuilt within four years (Ezra 6:13–15). The second temple was dedicated on March 12, 516 B.C.

As for Haggai's messages themselves, we learn from his book that they were delivered between August and December of 520 B.C.

Characteristics and Themes Haggai consists of four messages headed by the phrase "the word of the LORD came by Haggai the prophet" (1:1; 2:1; 2:10; 2:20). These four alternate between calls to repentance in light of God's curses on their land (1:1–11; 2:10–19) and promises of greater blessings on the temple and of the Messiah through the Davidic line (2:1–9; 2:20–23).

Haggai, Zechariah, and Malachi use the title "LORD of hosts" more than ninety times (fourteen times in Haggai). This title has military connotations (God as the leader of Israel's armies, 1 Sam. 17:45), but also highlights God's glory (Ps. 24:10) and sovereign kingship over all creation (Amos 4:13).

Although Haggai is the second shortest book in the Old Testament, it is rich with profitable teaching for the church. Through Haggai His messenger (1:13), the Lord calls upon the unfaithful remnant of His covenant people to repent and rebuild His temple. God's concern is based upon His own sovereign pleasure and His desire to be honored (1:8). The people's lack of concern to build the temple showed their deeper lack of desire for God's special presence. They were under the curses of the covenant (1:6, 9, 11 and notes) but did not realize it. In response to Haggai's ministry, the Lord stirred up the spirit of the people (1:14), and they obeyed (1:12).

Haggai reaffirms that the Lord is with His people, just as when He brought them out of Egypt (1:13; 2:4, 5). Haggai's ministry was based on the expectation that God would renew His covenant promises to Israel when He brought them back into the land from captivity in Babylon. Haggai's words draw on those of earlier prophets at a number of points (2:7, 8 and notes). The rebuilding of the temple was an important part of that renewal, and Haggai developed that hope by associating the temple with the coming times of the Messiah (2:9, 23 and notes). The Messiah as God's anointed representative on earth would bring His glory, peace, and prosperity to God's people (2:9). Zerubbabel prefigures that Messiah in Haggai's day, but ultimately only Jesus the Messiah would fulfill the promise made to Zerubbabel to be God's royal ruler ("signet ring") on earth (2:23). Today we are the recipients of these promises and look forward to the final visible enthronement of Christ as Ruler, when once again the Lord will shake heaven and earth (Heb. 12:26). □

B. The Results of Their Defilement: Covenant Curses (2:15–17)
C. God's Determination to Bless Them (2:18, 19)
IV. The Fourth Message: God's Victory for His People (2:20–23)
A. God's Overthrow of the Nations (2:20–22)
B. The Enthronement of God's Ruler (2:23)

CHAPTER 1

The Command to Build God's House

1 IN [a]the second year of King Darius, in the sixth month, on the first day of the month, the word of the LORD came by [b]Haggai the prophet to [c]Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and to [d]Joshua the son of [e]Jehozadak, the high priest, saying, 2 "Thus speaks the LORD of hosts, saying: 'This people says, "The time has not come, the time that the LORD's house should be built." ' "

3 Then the word of the LORD [f]came by Haggai the prophet, saying, 4 "Is it [g]time for you yourselves to dwell in your paneled houses, and this [1]temple to lie in ruins?" 5 Now therefore, thus says the LORD of hosts: [h]"Consider your ways!

6 "You have [i]sown much, and bring in little;
You eat, but do not have enough;
You drink, but you are not filled with drink;
You clothe yourselves, but no one is warm;
And [j]he who earns wages,
Earns wages to put into a bag with holes."

7 Thus says the LORD of hosts: "Consider your ways! 8 Go up to the [k]mountains and bring wood and build the [2]temple, that I may take pleasure in it and be glorified," says the LORD. 9 [l]"You looked for much, but indeed it came to little; and when you brought it home, [m]I blew it away. Why?" says the LORD of hosts. "Because of My house that is in ruins, while every one of you runs to his own house. 10 Therefore [n]the heavens above you withhold the dew, and the earth withholds its fruit. 11 For I [o]called for a drought on the land and the mountains, on the grain and

■ 1:1 sixth month . . . first day. Each of Haggai's sermons is carefully dated. This one occurred probably on August 29, 520 B.C. Haggai's message is addressed publicly to the leaders so that the people could respond as well (1:12).

Zerubbabel. He is likely the same person as Sheshbazzar (cf. Ezra 1:8), since both are said to have rebuilt the temple. Sheshbazzar could be an official Persian name. Zerubbabel was the grandson of King Jehoiachin (1 Chr. 3:19) and a descendant of David (2:23 note).

Joshua the son of Jehozadak. See 1 Chr. 6:15. A descendant of Zadok the priest. Under Persian rule, Zerubbabel had responsibility over the daily civil affairs of the region. As high priest, Joshua dealt with religious matters.

■ 1:2 This people. An expression of implied displeasure (2:14). Verses 2–11 indict the spiritual indifference and misplaced priorities of God's people.

The time has not come. Their objection was not to the rebuilding itself, but to the timing of it. The objections may have been economic, because their land was in trouble (cf. vv. 10, 11), or religious, because according to Ezek. 37:24–27 the Messiah would rebuild the temple, or because according to Jer. 25:11–14, the nation must serve a foreign king seventy years. The original temple was destroyed in 586 B.C., and they may have falsely reasoned that they should not start building the new temple until 516 B.C. Such excuses showed that they were not pursuing God's kingdom and righteousness (cf. Matt. 6:33).

the LORD's house. The temple was the dwelling place of God's special presence with His people (1 Kin. 8:27–30). Today God is graciously present in His temple, the church (1 Cor. 3:16, 17).

■ 1:4 paneled houses. Haggai reveals the hypocrisy of their objections by a rhetorical question. The houses probably had elaborate wooden walls and ceilings (1 Kin. 7:3; Jer. 22:14). They were living in comparative luxury while God's house lay in ruins.

■ 1:6 sown much, and bring in little. Their economic and social hardship was the effect of God's covenant curse on their disobedience (Deut. 11:8–15; 28:29, 38–40; Lev. 26:20). God frustrated their efforts because of their lack of concern for His glory.

■ 1:8 take pleasure in it and be glorified. God's purpose in the enterprise was the special joy He would take in this edifice and the appropriate honor He would thereby receive from His people. Their lack of concern for rebuilding indicated their lack of spiritual health.

■ 1:9 runs to his own house. The focus of their lives was on building personal fortunes rather than building God's kingdom.

■ 1:11 a drought. The drought on Judah's crops was God's curse on their agriculture, in keeping with His covenant (1:6 note; Deut. 7:13). The Hebrew word translated "ruins" in v. 9 sounds like the Hebrew word for "drought" here. Haggai's play on words reinforces the point that the drought was God's response to their neglect of His house.

the new wine and the oil, on whatever the ground brings forth, on men and livestock, and on [p]all the labor of your hands."

The People's Obedience

12 [q]Then Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, and Joshua the son of Jehozadak, the high priest, with all the remnant of the people, obeyed the voice of the LORD their God, and the words of Haggai the prophet, as the LORD their God had sent him; and the people feared the presence of the LORD. 13 Then Haggai, the LORD's messenger, spoke the LORD's message to the people, saying, [r]"I am with you, says the LORD." 14 So [s]the LORD stirred up the spirit of Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, [t]governor of Judah, and the spirit of Joshua the son of Jehozadak, the high priest, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people; [u]and they came and worked on the house of the LORD of hosts, their God, 15 on the twenty-fourth day of the sixth month, in the second year of King Darius.

The Coming Glory of God's House

2 In the seventh month, on the twenty-first of the month, the word of the LORD came [1]by Haggai the prophet, saying: 2 "Speak now to Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and to Joshua the son of Jehozadak, the high priest, and to the remnant of the people, saying: 3 [a]'Who is left among you who saw this [2]temple in its former glory? And how do you see it now? In comparison with it, [b]is this not in your eyes as nothing? 4 Yet now [c]be strong, Zerubbabel,' says the LORD; 'and be strong, Joshua, son of Jehozadak, the high priest; and be strong, all you people of the land,' says the LORD, 'and work; for I am with you,' says the LORD of hosts. 5 [d]'According to the word that I covenanted with you when you came out of Egypt, so [e]My Spirit remains among you; do not fear!'

6 "For thus says the LORD of hosts: [f]'Once more (it is a little while) [g]I will shake heaven and earth, the sea and dry land; 7 and I will shake all nations, and they shall come to [h]the [3]Desire of All Nations, and I will fill this [4]temple with [i]glory,' says the LORD of hosts. 8 'The silver is

■ 1:12 remnant. A common term used by the prophets for those of God's people who remain faithful to Him in the midst of unbelief (Is. 10:22; cf. Zech. 13:9). Paul later points to a faithful remnant in Israel—the Jews who embraced Christ (Rom. 11:5).

voice of the LORD . . . words of Haggai. They recognized God's word through the voice of the prophet. God's word accomplishes its intended purpose (Is. 55:1; Heb. 4:12).

■ 1:13 I am with you. As the people repented of their sin they received the greatest assurance possible, the presence of God. God's gracious presence with His people is the heart of the covenant relationship (Zech. 8:8 note).

■ 1:14 stirred up the spirit. God Himself brought about the response of His people by His presence with them. Haggai emphasizes the internal response by the threefold repetition of "spirit." God's Spirit worked efficaciously through His word, in order to achieve His sovereign purpose (cf. Is. 55:11).

■ 1:15 twenty-fourth day of the sixth month. Probably September 21, 520 B.C.

■ 2:1–9 The Lord again spoke to the people, this time encouraging them to continue building. Reports about the magnificence of the now-destroyed temple of Solomon were apparently a source of discouragement (v. 3). The Lord first assured them of His continued presence with them—a promise for the present (vv. 4, 5). Second, He assured them about the future goal of their project (vv. 6–9). Though it appeared humble in comparison, the glory of this temple would finally far outstrip Solomon's temple because it would be graced by the presence of the Messiah Himself (v. 9 note).

■ 2:1 seventh month . . . twenty-first. October 17, 520 B.C. According to Lev. 23:33–43, this was the last day of the Feast of Tabernacles, during which God's people were to rejoice in God's provision for them in the wilderness and the blessings of the harvest. There was not much to rejoice in, however, since their harvest was meager (1:11).

■ 2:2 the remnant of the people. Haggai's first sermon was addressed to the leaders because they had to initiate the work. The people are included here because this message is intended to encourage them about the task at hand.

■ 2:3 this temple in its former glory. Verses 1–3 suggest that the people were discouraged by the new temple's relative lack of splendor (cf. 2 Chr. 3; 4) and by the difficulty of the task ahead of them.

■ 2:4 be strong. Threefold repetition adds emphasis to the command. Similar commands accompanied the building of Solomon's temple (1 Chr. 22:13; 28:20; cf. Gal. 6:9).

I am with you. The Lord's presence and His sustaining strength guarantee the ultimate success of their labors.

■ 2:5 that I covenanted with you. God's covenant promises, made with His people in the Exodus from Egypt, now assure them of His presence (cf. Ex. 33:12–17; Num. 11:16–17). His mighty Spirit is present, just as in the days of the great deliverance from Egypt.

■ 2:6 Once more . . . I will shake. As is common in the prophets, the near and distant future are telescoped, or compressed together. Here references to the glory of the second temple are juxtaposed with a picture of the final universal judgment on the cosmos. While this shaking may be prefigured by political events occurring shortly after the time of Haggai (e.g., the defeat of Persia by the Greeks), the ultimate shaking of the created order is still to come (Heb. 12:26–28).

■ 2:7 Desire of All Nations. See text note. Though the Hebrew term translated "Desire" could refer to a person (i.e., the Messiah), the immediate context here favors a reference to the things desired by all nations (i.e., the things precious to them). Verse 8 speaks of such precious things, and the decree of King Darius, during whose reign Haggai ministered, alludes to precious things being contributed to the temple building project (Ezra 6:3–5, 8–9). Here Haggai probably echoes Isaiah's promise of an Israel made rich by the wealth of the nations (Is. 60:5). In other words, he speaks of the Messianic age.

fill this temple with glory. God's intention is to honor Himself by manifesting His glorious presence before "all nations." As God's presence fills the temple, the nations come to the light (Is. 2:3–5; 60:3).

■ 2:8 The silver . . . the gold. As the sovereign possessor of all things (cf. Ps. 24:1; 50:9–12), God will bring about both His own glorification and His people's inheritance of the nations' wealth (Is. 60:5). See note on v. 7.

Mine, and the gold is Mine,' says the LORD of hosts. 9*j* 'The glory of this latter [5]temple shall be greater than the former,' says the LORD of hosts. 'And in this place I will give *k*peace,' says the LORD of hosts."

The People Are Defiled

10 On the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month, in the second year of Darius, the word of the LORD came by Haggai the prophet, saying, 11 "Thus says the LORD of hosts: 'Now, *l*ask the priests concerning the law, saying, 12 "If one carries holy meat in the fold of his garment, and with the edge he touches bread or stew, wine or oil, or any food, will it become holy?" ' "

Then the priests answered and said, "No."

13 And Haggai said, "If one who is *m*unclean because of a dead body touches any of these, will it be unclean?"

So the priests answered and said, "It shall be unclean."

14 Then Haggai answered and said, n" 'So is this people, and so is this nation before Me,' says the LORD, 'and so is every work of their hands; and what they offer there is unclean.

15 'And now, carefully *o*consider from this day forward: from before stone was laid upon stone in the temple of the LORD— 16 since those days, *p*when one came to a heap of twenty ephahs, there were but ten; when one came to the wine vat to draw out fifty baths from the press, there were but twenty. 17 *q*I struck you with blight and mildew and hail *r*in all the labors of your hands; *s*yet you did not turn to Me,' says the LORD. 18 'Consider now from this day forward, from the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month, from *t*the day that the foundation of the LORD's temple was laid—consider it: 19 *u*Is the seed still in the barn? As yet the vine, the fig tree, the pomegranate, and the olive tree have not yielded fruit. But from this day I will *v*bless you.' "

Zerubbabel Chosen as a Signet

20 And again the word of the LORD came to Haggai on the twenty-fourth day of the month, saying, 21 "Speak to Zerubbabel, *w*governor of Judah, saying:

■ 2:9 glory. This promise of greater glory is realized in Christ, the greatest manifestation of God's presence and glory (Mal. 3:1; John 1:14). Christ gives His glory to His church, the new temple of God (Eph. 2:21; 3:20, 21).

In this place I will give peace. This peace (Hebrew shalom) means more than the absence of conflict. It implies prosperity and a sense of total well-being. Christ gives peace to believers now (John 14:27), but ultimate fulfillment awaits the time when the Lord God Almighty and the Lamb are the temple of the New Jerusalem (Rev. 21:22).

■ 2:10 twenty-fourth day of the ninth month. The sequence of time is important for interpreting the third message, which begins on a note of judgment (vv. 10–14). The people had repented and begun the work on Sept. 21, 520 B.C. (1:15), and Haggai brought a message of encouragement on Oct. 17 of the same year (2:1–9). Here, on Dec. 18, he brings another message of condemnation. The people had not yet seen the deeper issue—their defilement before the holy God. This is consistent with Zechariah's call to return to the Lord, issued after they began working on the temple (Zech. 1:3–6).

■ 2:11–14 This portion of Haggai's third sermon, emphasizing the extensive defilement of the people and their efforts, builds on an object lesson taken from the Mosaic ceremonial law. The questions directed to the priests show that while ceremonial holiness is not transferable (v. 12), ceremonial defilement is (v. 13). Haggai then applies the lesson of the preceding questions to his hearers (v. 14). They defiled the work of the temple and their offerings because their estrangement from God was deeper than they realized. The mere presence of a rebuilt temple would not render them holy as a people (cf. Jer. 7:3–7); God demands genuine change of heart and life, not mere outward conformity.

■ 2:15 now. This word signals a transition from indictment to blessing. In spite of their past defilement, the holy God was determined to bless them (v. 19).

■ 2:17 I struck . . . hail. This verse draws on Amos 4:9. Such natural disasters and lack of agricultural productivity, the bitter fruit of disobedience to the Lord's covenant (1:6 note; Deut. 28:22), were God's way of getting His people's attention.

■ 2:19 I will bless you. God's grace overcomes the sin and defilement of His people. Though He chastises them, in the end mercy triumphs over judgment.

■ 2:20–23 This last of Haggai's sermons, given the same day as the previous address (v. 10), returns to the theme of the latter-day glory of the temple (v. 6 note). Again future events are telescoped as Haggai interweaves mention of the coming Messiah (v. 23) with references to the shaking of the cosmos and the final victory of God over the nations (vv. 21, 22).

■ 2:22 I will overthrow. The military and political powers of the nations finally submit to God's lordship (Dan. 2:44; 7:27).

The horses and their riders shall come down,
Every one by the sword of his brother.

23 'In that day,' says the LORD of hosts, 'I will take you, Zerubbabel My servant, the son of Shealtiel,' says the LORD, [a]'and will make you like a signet ring; for [b]I have chosen you,' says the LORD of hosts."

23 [a]Song 8:6; Jer. 22:24 [b]Is. 42:1; 43:10

■ 2:23 In that day. See note on Zech. 12:3.

My servant. Zerubbabel was God's chosen representative to accomplish His work. Isaiah spoke of a greater Servant who would come, whom Zerubbabel foreshadows (Is. 42:10). Jesus is both the descendant of Zerubbabel (Matt. 1:12) and the Servant of God (Acts 4:27, 30).

signet ring. This was a symbol of authority and power. Jeremiah uses the term to refer to one who is precious to God (Jer. 22:24).

The Book of

ZECHARIAH

Author Scholars differ widely on the authorship of the Zechariah. The author is identified in 1:1 as "Zechariah, the son of Berechiah, the son of Iddo." It has traditionally been held that this man was a sixth-century contemporary of Haggai and that the entire book was written by him. However, critical scholars have for some time argued that there were essentially two books (chs. 1—8 and 9—14). The first part is considered to be from the sixth century prophet himself, while the second part is assigned to a later time, usually the Maccabean era of the second century B.C. Various literary and historical arguments have been used to arrive at these conclusions, but all are tentative at best. There are no compelling reasons to conclude that Zechariah was not indeed the sole author of the book.

Date and Occasion The historical background of Zechariah is the same as that of Haggai (Introduction to Haggai), but their ministries differed in emphasis. Haggai's work centered on the rebuilding of the temple, while Zechariah's was largely designed to encourage God's people about the welfare of Jerusalem and its long-term future.

Characteristics and Themes Zechariah contains a variety of literary forms. The visions of the first part are similar to the visions of Ezekiel and Daniel, in part because later prophecy in Israel employed more visions. The book is often taken to be an example of early apocalyptic literature (Introduction to Daniel: Characteristics and Themes), and certainly methods and themes characteristic of such literature are present in Zechariah. In ch. 14 a description of a final war against Jerusalem is given in which God comes as a victorious warrior to save His people from their enemies. Similarly, the visions of the horsemen (1:7–11), the four chariots (6:1–8), and the woman in the basket (5:5–11) might also be viewed as apocalyptic.

Our understanding of the teaching of Zechariah is greatly helped when we recognize that the prophet gives pictures of the future in snapshot fashion, in which the pictures are not placed in any particular sequence. When we read a passage, we see only what is happening in that snapshot, not how it relates to other snapshots. Further, the prophet portrays even the present blessings that Christians enjoy in terms of the imagery and customs of Old Testament life.

Zechariah's visions combine the present and future in an interwoven fabric that is impossible to tear apart. That is why it is often difficult to ascertain what time period the prophet has in mind. The promises (e.g., 2:5, 11) relate to both the immediate audience in Zechariah's day and also to the distant future. This "telescoping," or compression of the near and distant future, is a common feature of the prophetic writings.

The welfare and future of Jerusalem as the holy city is a pervasive theme in Zechariah. Several of the visions develop this theme (1:7–17; 2:1–13; 5:1–4 and notes). Chapter 8 presents a picture of Jerusalem, with God in her midst, dwelling in beautiful tranquility. The book ends with a chapter developing this theme (ch. 14). Zechariah's focus on Jerusalem reflects the theme of the ideal Zion longed for in the Old Testament (Ps. 46; 48; 132).

Zechariah gives many explicit pictures of the Messiah, the Lord Jesus Christ. A pattern established between the Old Testament and the New Testament is that of Jesus as Messiah fulfilling promises the Lord spoke about Himself in the Old Testament. God's promises of what He will accomplish are realized through His Anointed One. This explains the frequent citations in the New Testament from this book. The Messiah is portrayed as the King who comes riding into Jerusalem in 9:9, 10, a passage quoted by Matthew at Jesus' triumphal entry (Matt. 21:1–11). Christ's betrayal and death are spoken of in 13:7. Zechariah also develops the messianic figure of "the BRANCH," who combines the offices of priest and king (3:8 note; 6:12 note).

The era of the Messiah is touched on in other passages, even where the Messiah is not explicitly mentioned. The promise in 2:5, 10 of God's dwelling in the midst of His people is realized in Christ (John 1:14 and note). Similarly, the Feast of Tabernacles celebrated in 14:16–20 will find its fullest expression in the kingdom of the Messiah when the new Jerusalem comes down from heaven (Rev. 21:1–3). □

CHAPTER 1

IN the eighth month [a]of the second year of Darius, the word of the LORD came [b]to Zechariah the son of Berechiah, the son of [c]Iddo the prophet, saying, 2 "The LORD has been very angry with your fathers. 3 Therefore say to them, 'Thus says the LORD of hosts: "Return [d]to Me," says the LORD of hosts, "and I will return to you," says the LORD of hosts. 4 "Do not be like your

Zechariah the son of Berechiah. See Introduction: Author; Date and Occasion. His name means "the LORD remembers."

■ 1:2 The LORD has been very angry. Verses 2–6 are a preface to the eight night visions of 1:7—6:8. This section shows that although the people had responded to Haggai's call to rebuild the temple, their hearts were still far from God. The Lord is still very angry with them.

■ 1:3 the LORD of hosts. A divine title used extensively by the postexilic prophets Zechariah, Haggai, and Malachi. It has military connotations (God as leader of Israel's armies, 1 Sam. 17:45), but it also highlights God's sovereign kingship over all creation.

Return to Me . . . I will return. Repentance involves a total turning away from sin and a turning to God. God's return would then bless His people with His presence (1:16; 2:11).

fathers, [e]to whom the former prophets preached, saying, 'Thus says the LORD of hosts: [f]"Turn now from your evil ways and your evil deeds." ' But they did not hear nor heed Me," says the LORD.

And the prophets, do they live forever?

Which I commanded My servants the prophets,
Did they not overtake your fathers?

So He has dealt with us.' " ' "

Vision of the Horses

7 On the twenty-fourth day of the eleventh month, which is the month Shebat, in the second year of Darius, the word of the LORD came to Zechariah the son of Berechiah, the son of Iddo the prophet: 8 I saw by night, and behold, [i]a man riding on a red horse, and it stood among the myrtle trees in the hollow; and behind him were [j]horses: red, sorrel, and white. 9 Then I said, [k]"My lord, what are these?" So the angel who talked with me said to me, "I will show you what they are."

10 And the man who stood among the myrtle trees answered and said, [l]"These are the ones whom the LORD has sent to walk to and fro throughout the earth."

they did not hear nor heed Me. Their fathers showed obstinacy and rebellion (2 Kin. 17:13–15). As a consequence, the curses of the covenant (Deut. 28:15–68) came upon them for their disobedience.

they returned. See Neh. 9:1—10:27.

determined to do. The Hebrew word suggests that God's punishment of the preexilic fathers was in accord with a plan.

■ 1:7–17 These verses record the first of eight night visions that Zechariah saw in the course of one night (v. 8). The visions are organized so that the first and last (6:1–8) correspond to one another in the imagery of horses and chariots. This first one emphasizes God's commitment to His covenant people; He is the rebuilder of Jerusalem and its protector against pagan forces in the outside world. The vision calls God's people to look beyond their present circumstances and place their trust in the promises of God.

■ 1:8 red horse . . . red, sorrel, and white. The significance of these colors is uncertain.

■ 1:9 angel who talked with me. This interpreting angel (1:19; 2:3; 3:1; 4:1) should be distinguished from the "Angel of the Lord" (v. 12 note; 3:1). See theological note "Angels."

Zechariah's Visions (1:7)

The visions of Zechariah had historical meaning for his day, but they also have meaning for all time. God will save His people and bring judgment on the wicked.

Vision	Significance
Man and horses among the myrtle trees (1:8)	The Lord will again be merciful to Jerusalem (1:14, 16, 17).
Four horns, four craftsmen (1:18–20)	Those who scattered Judah are cast out (1:21).
Man with measuring line (2:1)	God will be a protective wall of fire around Jerusalem (2:3–5).
Cleansing of Joshua (3:4)	The Servant, the Branch, comes to save (3:8, 9).
Golden lampstand and olive trees (4:2, 3)	The Lord empowers Israel by His Spirit (4:6).
Flying scroll (5:1)	Dishonesty is cursed (5:3).
Woman in the basket (5:6, 7)	Wickedness will be removed (5:8, 9).
Four chariots (6:1)	The spirits of heaven execute judgment on the whole earth (6:5, 7).

11 [m]So they answered the Angel of the LORD, who stood among the myrtle trees, and said, "We have walked to and fro throughout the earth, and behold, all the earth is [l]resting quietly."

The LORD Will Comfort Zion

12 Then the Angel of the LORD answered and said, "O LORD of hosts, [n]how long will You not have mercy on Jerusalem and on the cities of Judah, against which You were angry [o]these seventy years?"

13 And the LORD answered the angel who talked to me, with [p]good and comforting words.

Angels

Angels (the Greek angelos means "messenger") are one of two sorts of personal beings created by God, humanity being the other. Multitudinous in number (Matt. 26:53; Rev. 5:11), angels are intelligent moral agents. They are not embodied nor ordinarily visible, although they are able to manifest themselves in what appears as a physical form (Gen. 18:2—19:22; John 20:12, 13; Acts 12:7–10). They do not marry, and are not subject to death (Matt. 22:30; Luke 20:35, 36). They can move from one point in space to another, and many can be focussed in a tiny area (Luke 8:30, where the reference is to fallen angels).

Like human beings, the angels were originally under probation, and some of them fell into sin. The many who passed the test are now evidently confirmed in a state of holiness and immortal glory. Heaven is their dwelling place (Matt. 18:10; 22:30; Rev. 5:11), where they constantly worship God (Ps. 103:20, 21; 148:2) and from where they go out at God's command to render service to Christians (Heb. 1:14). These are the "holy" and "elect" angels (Matt. 25:31; Mark 8:38; Luke 9:26; Acts 10:22; 1 Tim. 5:21; Rev. 14:10), to whom God's work of grace in Christ continues to display an increasing measure of the divine wisdom and glory (Eph. 3:10; 1 Pet. 1:12).

Holy angels protect believers (Ps. 34:7; 91:11, 12), little ones in particular (Matt. 18:10), and they constantly observe what goes on in the church (1 Cor. 11:10). It is implied that they have a special ministry to believers at the time of their death (Luke 16:22), but we know no details about this. The world may watch Christians in the hopes of seeing them fall, but the angels watch to see the triumph of grace in their lives.

The mysterious "Angel of the LORD" or "Angel of God," who appears often in the early parts of the Old Testament, is sometimes identified with God, and other times distinguished from God (Gen. 16:7–13; 18:1–33; 22:11–18; 24:7, 40; 31:11–13; 32:24–30; 48:15–16; Ex. 3:2–6; 14:19; 23:20–23; 32:34—33:5; Num. 22:22–35; Josh. 5:13–15; Judg. 2:1–5; 6:11–23; 9:13–23). In certain instances at least, this Angel is in some sense God acting as His own messenger, and is commonly seen as a preincarnate appearance of God the Son.

Angelic activity was prominent at the great turning points in the divine plan of salvation (the days of the patriarchs, the time of the Exodus and giving of the law, the period of the Exile and restoration, and the birth, resurrection, and ascension of Jesus Christ). Angels will be prominent again when Christ returns (Matt. 25:31; Mark 8:38).

■ 1:11 all the earth is resting quietly. The self-assured nations stand in contrast to the Jewish state struggling under Persian rule. Yet God assures His people that these proud nations will experience judgment (cf. Obadiah's words about Edom's false security, Obad. 3, 4, 8).

■ 1:12 the Angel of the LORD. See note on Gen. 16:7. Many, though not all, scholars identify this Angel with the "man riding on a red horse" (v. 8).

seventy years. A reference to the prophecy of Jer. 25:11, 12 where the Babylonian exile was announced.

■ 1:13 good and comforting words. Words that reflect God's love for His people and reaffirm God's commitment not to forsake His people (Heb. 13:5).

■ 1:14 I am zealous for Jerusalem. See text note. The first expression of the theme of God's jealousy in the book (8:2). God's zealous love for His chosen people moves Him to act in their behalf. A similar theme is expressed in Zeph. 3:9–20.

16 'Therefore thus says the LORD:

[s]"I am returning to Jerusalem with mercy;
My [t]house [u]shall be built in it," says the LORD of hosts,
"And [v]a surveyor's line shall be stretched out over Jerusalem." '

17 "Again proclaim, saying, 'Thus says the LORD of hosts:

Vision of the Horns

18 Then I raised my eyes and looked, and there were four [y]horns. 19 And I said to the angel who talked with me, "What are these?"

So he answered me, [z]"These are the [6]horns that have scattered Judah, Israel, and Jerusalem."

20 Then the LORD showed me four craftsmen. 21 And I said, "What are these coming to do?"

So he said, "These are the [a]horns that scattered Judah, so that no one could lift up his head; but [7]the craftsmen are coming to terrify them, to cast out the horns of the nations that [b]lifted up their horn against the land of Judah to scatter it."

Vision of the Measuring Line

2 Then I raised my eyes and looked, and behold, [a]a man with a measuring line in his hand. 2 So I said, "Where are you going?"

And he said to me, [b]"To measure Jerusalem, to see what is its width and what is its length."

3 And there was the angel who talked with me, going out; and another angel was coming out to meet him, 4 who said to him, "Run, speak to this young man, saying: [c]'Jerusalem shall be inhabited as towns without walls, because of the multitude of men and livestock in it. 5 For I,' says the LORD, 'will be [d]a wall of fire all around her, [e]and I will be the glory in her midst.' "

Future Joy of Zion and Many Nations

6 "Up, up! Flee [f]from the land of the north," says the LORD; "for I have [g]spread you abroad like the four winds of heaven," says the LORD. 7 "Up, Zion! [h]Escape, you who dwell with the daughter of Babylon."

■ 1:15 I am exceedingly angry with the nations. Notice the contrast with v. 2 where God's past anger with His own people is expressed. Here God's love for His own (v. 14 above) moves Him to protect them by bringing judgment on the nations who have persecuted His people beyond measure.

■ 1:17 The LORD will again . . . choose Jerusalem. A common theme in the visions (2:12; 3:2). God's choice of His people distinguishes them from the pagan nations. The result of His choice is to bring them prosperity ("My cities shall again spread out through prosperity").

■ 1:18–21 The second vision focuses on the four horns. The "horn" was a symbol of power and pride in the ancient Near East (Ps. 75:4, 5). This vision is the counterpart of the first: Zion will be rebuilt and the nations destroyed. The identification of the four horns could be the same as those of Daniel's prophecies (Dan. 2:36–45; 7:17–28), and so correspond either to Babylonia, Medo-Persia, Greece, and Rome, or to Assyria, Babylon, Egypt, and Persia (10:10, 11). The horns could also have a greater significance and refer to "the four corners of the earth" (Rev. 20:8).

■ 1:21 cast out the horns of the nations. The four craftsmen come to overthrow the power of the nations. This is symbolic of God's judgment coming on the nations that have persecuted His people, a fulfillment of God's promise to Abraham that He would curse those who cursed Abraham's descendants (Gen. 12:3).

■ 2:1–5 Zechariah's third vision describes a man with a measuring line. This vision stresses God's protection of His people with His own personal presence (v. 5 notes). Jerusalem's walls were probably not rebuilt yet, and the city was subject to attack from roving bands.

■ 2:1 a measuring line. An implement that became a symbol of rebuilding in Jeremiah's portrayal of a restored Jerusalem (Jer. 31:39).

■ 2:4 without walls. The Old Testament prophets envision a time when Jerusalem will be the center of worship for the nations (v. 11; 8:20–23; Is. 2:1–4), and the city will overflow with people.

multitude of men and livestock. See note on v. 11.

■ 2:5 a wall of fire all around her. The day of full restoration is portrayed by the prophets as a second Exodus with the imagery of the pillar of fire (Is. 4:5, 6). As Israel was once protected from her enemies by God Himself, so He will again guard her from oppressors.

the glory. God's presence is far more than protection; it is the source of all blessing for His people. The essence of the renewed covenant is, "I will be their God, and they shall be My people" (Jer. 31:33).

■ 2:6–13 In this section the prophet speaks to the Jews in Babylon (vv. 6–9) and in Jerusalem (vv. 10–13).

■ 2:6 I have spread you abroad. A reference to God's judgment of Judah in the Exile as punishment for covenant disobedience (Deut. 28:36, 49, 50). The time of judgment is over; the time of restoration has come (v. 7).

8 For thus says the LORD of hosts: "He sent Me after glory, to the nations which plunder you; for he who [i]touches you touches the [l]apple of His eye. 9 For surely I will [j]shake My hand against them, and they shall become [2]spoil for their servants. Then [k]you will know that the LORD of hosts has sent Me.
10 [l]"Sing and rejoice, O daughter of Zion! For behold, I am coming and I [m]will dwell in your midst," says the LORD. 11 [n]"Many nations shall be joined to the LORD [o]in that day, and they shall become [p]My people. And I will dwell in your midst. Then [q]you will know that the LORD of hosts has sent Me to you. 12 And the LORD will [r]take possession of Judah as His inheritance in the Holy Land, and will again choose Jerusalem. 13 [s]Be silent, all flesh, before the LORD, for He is aroused [t]from His holy habitation!"

Vision of the High Priest

3 Then he showed me [a]Joshua the high priest standing before the Angel of the LORD, and [b]Satan[1] standing at his right hand to oppose him. 2 And the LORD said to Satan, [c]"The LORD rebuke you, Satan! The LORD who [d]has chosen Jerusalem rebuke you! [e]Is this not a brand plucked from the fire?"
3 Now Joshua was clothed with [f]filthy garments, and was standing before the Angel.
4 Then He answered and spoke to those who stood before Him, saying, "Take away the filthy garments from him." And to him He said, "See, I have removed your iniquity from you, [g]and I will clothe you with rich robes."
5 And I said, "Let them put a clean [h]turban on his head."
So they put a clean turban on his head, and they put the clothes on him. And the Angel of the LORD stood by.

The Coming Branch

6 Then the Angel of the LORD admonished Joshua, saying, 7 "Thus says the LORD of hosts:

'If you will walk in My ways,
And if you will [i]keep My command,
Then you shall also [j]judge My house,
And likewise have charge of My courts;
I will give you places to walk
Among these who [k]stand here.

8 'Hear, O Joshua, the high priest,
You and your companions who sit before you,

■ 2:8 the apple of His eye. See note on Deut. 32:10.

■ 2:10 I will dwell in your midst. This promise assumes the sanctification of the people and land through the blood of the everlasting covenant (3:9 notes; 8:8 note; Heb. 13:20).

■ 2:11 Many nations. The extent of the vision transcends anything the Jews could accomplish in their day. The vision captures a time when salvation will not be limited to the Jewish nation but will extend God's grace to the world. That day has come in Christ's inauguration of the kingdom of God.

■ 2:12 in the Holy Land. An expression used only here in the Scriptures. Judah will be holy because God will dwell there. Zechariah is envisioning the fullest realization of God's promise to Abraham (Gen. 12:3; 15:5).

■ 2:13 Be silent. All mankind should revere God because of the great salvation declared in this chapter (Hab. 2:20).

He is aroused. For the purpose of judgment. God will both judge the nations that oppressed His people and provide a safe home for His people.

■ 3:1–10 The fourth vision concerns Joshua, the high priest (Ezra 3:2 text note), and deals particularly with the problem of an impure priesthood. It begins by showing God's solution to the problem (vv. 4, 5) and ends by showing how God wipes away the sin of all His people (vv. 8, 9).

■ 3:1 A courtroom scene similar to that in Job (Job 1:6–12). Satan has come to accuse Joshua of his unworthiness for the priesthood. The Hebrew term Satan means "adversary" or "accuser" (text note); here it may be descriptive (i.e., not a proper name).

standing. Joshua assumes the position of the priest who ministers in the presence of God. Accusation is a favorite ploy of Satan against believers. It differs from the conviction of the Holy Spirit. The Spirit convicts of sin in order to move us to repentance and forgiveness. Satan's goal is destruction, not redemption.

■ 3:2 brand plucked from the fire. The fire is a metaphor for the Exile from which the people of God have been snatched. Amos 4:11 also uses the same expression to speak of the danger from which God redeems His people.

■ 3:3 filthy garments. Here we see the basis of Satan's accusations that Joshua is unworthy. If the high priest is unclean, who can make atonement for sin? If he cannot make the atonement, how can the people be forgiven? The answer is given in a twofold manner below.

■ 3:4 Take away the filthy garments. God makes Joshua fit for the priesthood by giving new garments. In this way Joshua is a type of the coming BRANCH (v. 8), who will fulfill a priestly function and provide clothing of righteousness for us from His own merit.

■ 3:5 a clean turban. The turban was part of the high priest's dress. A new clean turban completes the restored garments, indicating that God has taken away the reproach on the priesthood (Ex. 28:36–38).

■ 3:8 they are a wondrous sign. See text note. These men foreshadow the coming Servant because they are priests, and He will act as a priest by making atonement for sin (v. 9 note).

For they are [l]a[2] wondrous sign:
For behold, I am bringing forth [m]My Servant the [n]BRANCH.
9 For behold, the stone
That I have laid before Joshua:
[o]Upon the stone are [p]seven eyes.

Says the LORD of hosts,
'And [q]I will remove the iniquity of that land in one day.

CHAPTER 4

Vision of the Lampstand and Olive Trees

4 Now [a]the angel who talked with me came back and wakened me, [b]as a man who is wakened out of his sleep. 2 And he said to me, "What do you see?"

So I said, "I am looking, and there is [c]a lampstand of solid gold with a bowl on top of it, [d]and on the stand seven lamps with seven pipes to the seven lamps. 3 [e]Two olive trees are by it, one at the right of the bowl and the other at its left." 4 So I answered and spoke to the angel who talked with me, saying, "What are these, my lord?"

5 Then the angel who talked with me answered and said to me, "Do you not know what these are?"

And I said, "No, my lord."

6 So he answered and said to me:

"This is the word of the LORD to [f]Zerubbabel:
[g]'Not by might nor by power, but by My Spirit,'
Says the LORD of hosts.
7 'Who are you, [h]O great mountain?
Before Zerubbabel you shall become a plain!
And he shall bring forth [i]the capstone
[j]With shouts of "Grace, grace to it!" ' "

8 Moreover the word of the LORD came to me, saying:

My Servant. A title of honor initially used for Moses (Num. 12:6–8). The term also was used as a title in Isaiah, sometimes for Israel (Is. 41:8; 44:1, 2) and sometimes (as here) for the Messiah, the Servant who would redeem His people (Is. 42:1–7; 52:13).

the BRANCH. A Messianic title combining the offices of priest and king (6:12 note; Is. 4:2 and note).

■ 3:9 the stone. Possibly a reference to the Messiah. Several Old Testament passages about the stone were interpreted as messianic in the New Testament (Ps. 118:22; Is. 8:14; 28:16; Matt. 21:42; 1 Pet. 2:6–8).

seven eyes. The mixture of images is difficult to interpret but these eyes are symbols of God's omniscient and watchful care (also used in 4:10).

remove the iniquity of that land. God will take away His people's sin through the BRANCH. The priestly system in the Old Testament was not intended actually to cover sin but only to prefigure the One who would truly deal with man's sin (Heb. 10:1–18).

in one day. The Day of Atonement (Lev. 16:30; 23:28) was an annual reminder of sin (Heb. 9:7–10), but Christ on a single day (Good Friday) once for all made atonement for the sins of God's people (Heb. 9:11–14).

■ 3:10 Under his vine . . . fig tree. An expression for peace and prosperity (1 Kin. 4:25; Mic. 4:4). The ultimate state of God's kingdom is in view.

■ 4:1–14 The fifth vision describes a golden lampstand and two olive trees. The main problem addressed in the visions is how the work of rebuilding the temple will be completed. God's answer is that Joshua and Zerubbabel are only finite and limited human beings. The power for completing the task will come from God Himself.

■ 4:2 lampstand of solid gold. The lampstand was probably used to remind the people of the lampstand in the tabernacle and the temple (Ex. 25:31), although its shape was different. The lampstand may also have symbolized the responsibility of the postexilic Jewish community to be a "light to the Gentiles" (Is. 42:6; 49:6).

seven lamps . . . seven pipes. The numbers in this verse are somewhat confusing but they probably mean that there were seven lamps on the stand with one bowl to hold the lamp oil. Seven tubes from the bowl fed the lamps, while the bowl itself was filled from the olive trees (v. 12).

■ 4:3 Two olive trees. See v. 14 and note.

■ 4:4 What are these. Zechariah's focus is on the olive trees, not on the lampstand. Here his question does not receive an immediate reply. It is answered in v. 14.

■ 4:6 The key verse for understanding the vision.

Zerubbabel. Even though the vision includes Joshua as one of the olive trees, the focus is on Zerubbabel, as is evident from the repetition of his name in vv. 6, 7, 9, 10.

Not by might . . . power. That is, military strength or any other form of power (apart from God). God's people were repeatedly told not to depend on military power and foreign alliances to accomplish their calling (Is. 31:1–3; Ps. 20:7–9).

by My Spirit. The Spirit of God is often portrayed in the prophets as the One who enables God's servants to do God's work and overcome obstacles. Even the coming Servant of the Lord, the Messiah, is described in such terms (Is. 11:2; 42:1; 61:1).

■ 4:7 the capstone. The last and most important stone, which presumably would ceremonially be put in place in the completed temple.

Grace, grace to it. The temple is completed amid shouts that ask for God's favor to rest on it. The phrase is repeated for emphasis (Is. 40:1 note).

9 "The hands of Zerubbabel
[k]Have laid the foundation of this [l]temple;
His hands [l]shall also finish it.
Then [m]you will know
That the [n]LORD of hosts has sent Me to you.
10 For who has despised the day of [o]small things?
For these seven rejoice to see
The [2]plumb line in the hand of Zerubbabel.
[p]They are the eyes of the LORD,
Which scan to and fro throughout the whole earth."

11 Then I answered and said to him, "What are these [q]two olive trees—at the right of the lampstand and at its left?" 12 And I further answered and said to him, "What are these two olive branches that drip [3]into the receptacles of the two gold pipes from which the golden oil drains?"

13 Then he answered me and said, "Do you not know what these are?"

And I said, "No, my lord."

14 So he said, [r]"These are the two [4]anointed ones, [s]who stand beside the Lord of the whole earth."

Vision of the Flying Scroll

5 Then I turned and raised my eyes, and saw there a flying [a]scroll.

2 And he said to me, "What do you see?"

So I answered, "I see a flying scroll. Its length is twenty cubits and its width ten cubits."

3 Then he said to me, "This is the [b]curse that goes out over the face of the whole earth: 'Every thief shall be expelled,' according to this side of the scroll; and, 'Every perjurer shall be expelled,' according to that side of it."

4 "I will send out the curse," says the LORD of hosts;
"It shall enter the house of the [c]thief
And the house of [d]the one who swears falsely by My name.
It shall remain in the midst of his house
And consume [e]it, with its timber and stones."

Vision of the Woman in a Basket

5 Then the angel who talked with me came out and said to me, "Lift your eyes now, and see what this is that goes forth."

6 So I asked, "What is it?" And he said, "It is a [1]basket that is going forth."

■ 4:10 the day of small things. It would have been easy to be discouraged with the meager results and progress. We find the people of Judah discouraged at the laying of the foundation of the second temple (Ezra 3:10–12) and also at the rebuilding in Haggai's day (520 B.C.; Hag. 2:3). The question in this verse reminds us not to judge God's work by human standards.

eyes of the LORD. See note on 3:9.

■ 4:14 These . . . anointed ones. See text note. "These" refers to Zerubbabel and Joshua. As God's chosen leaders they would be supplied by the Holy Spirit with the necessary strength to finish the temple. Together they foreshadow the Messiah, in whom the offices of priest and king (as well as prophet) will be joined in one Person (6:12 note). The total vision teaches both that God is the source of strength for doing His work and that He bestows His Spirit upon His chosen people for the work He has called them to do.

Lord of the whole earth. God is sovereign over all the affairs of men (Is. 40:15, 23, 24). Similarly, the title "Lord Almighty" shows that all the powers of the cosmos are at His disposal (1:3 note).

■ 5:1–4 The sixth vision concerns a flying scroll. It teaches that the Lord who loves and restores His people is also righteous and will punish wickedness. This vision and the one to follow are warnings, but also encouragements that God will deal with the problem of sin in the land.

■ 5:2 twenty cubits . . . ten cubits. A large open scroll for all to read its words. As the context implies, the words on it are words of the law. Its large size was appropriate for its task of going out over the whole land to deal with every sin (v. 3).

■ 5:3 curse. The curse contained in the Law (Deut. 28:15–68). As in Hag. 1:1–11, the prophet emphasizes that the obedience of God's people brings blessings, while disobedience brings God's curses.

Every thief . . . Every perjurer. The curse was probably not directed at just two sins, but these are representative of the iniquity of the whole land. False swearing violates the third commandment and the first table of the law (one's duty to God). Theft violates the eighth commandment, found in the second table of the law (one's duty to neighbor). The Ten Commandments summarize the whole moral law and are a revelation of God's own character.

■ 5:4 consume it. God's word will accomplish its intended purpose (Is. 55:11). Those who break God's law will surely suffer the consequences of their sin that this curse brings. Scripture many times emphasizes the certainty of judgment (Rom. 2:3; 1 Thess. 5:1–3; Heb. 2:3).

■ 5:5–11 The seventh vision, of the woman in the measuring basket, stresses God's sovereign removal of wickedness from the land (v. 11 note). God's holy nature cannot tolerate sin in His people.

■ 5:6 a basket. See text note. The ephah was a unit of dry measure equivalent to about 21 quarts (Judg. 6:19; Ruth 2:17). Clearly, such a basket would not contain an adult, but precise realism is not necessarily characteristic of prophetic visions (Num. 12:6–8 and notes).

He also said, "This is their resemblance throughout the earth: [7] Here is a lead disc lifted up, and this is a woman sitting inside the basket"; [8] then he said, "This is Wickedness!" And he thrust her down into the basket, and threw the lead [2]cover over its mouth. [9] Then I raised my eyes and looked, and there were two women, coming with the wind in their wings; for they had wings like the wings of a [f]stork, and they lifted up the basket between earth and heaven.

[10] So I said to the [g]angel who talked with me, "Where are they carrying the basket?"

[11] And he said to me, "To [h]build a house for it in [i]the land of [3]Shinar; when it is ready, the basket will be set there on its base."

6 Then I turned and raised my eyes and looked, and behold, four chariots were coming from between two mountains, and the mountains were mountains of bronze. [2] With the first chariot were [a]red horses, with the second chariot [b]black horses, [3] with the third chariot white horses, and with the fourth chariot dappled horses—strong steeds. [4] Then I answered [c]and said to the angel who talked with me, "What are these, my lord?"

[5] And the angel answered and said to me, [d]"These are four spirits of heaven, who go out from their [e]station before the Lord of all the earth. [6] [1]The one with the black horses is going to [f]the north country, the white are going after them, and the dappled are going toward the south country." [7] Then the strong steeds went out, eager to go, that they might [g]walk to and fro throughout the earth. And He said, "Go, walk to and fro throughout the earth." So they walked to and fro throughout the earth. [8] And He called to me, and spoke to me, saying, "See, those who go toward the north country have given rest to My [h]Spirit in the north country."

The Command to Crown Joshua

[9] Then the word of the LORD came to me, saying: [10] "Receive the gift from the captives—from Heldai, Tobijah, and Jedaiah, who have come from Babylon—and go the same day and enter the house of Josiah the son of Zephaniah. [11] Take the silver and gold, make [i]an[2] elaborate crown, and set it on the head of [j]Joshua the son of Jehozadak, the high priest. [12] Then speak to him, saying, 'Thus says the LORD of hosts, saying:

> "Behold, [k]the Man whose name is the [l]BRANCH!
> From His place He shall [3]branch out,
> [m]And He shall build the temple of the LORD; resemblance. The Septuagint (Greek Old Testament) reads "iniquity" here, a reading that may better fit the context, and has considerable support from ancient versions.

throughout the earth. The wickedness of the people was not limited to specific acts of sin (as one might conclude from the previous vision) but had infected the lives of all God's people.

■ 5:7 a woman. Wickedness is personified by a woman, perhaps because the Hebrew word used for "wickedness" is grammatically feminine, or because Israel's idolatry was often characterized by the prophets as prostitution (Ezek. 16:25; Hos. 2:2).

■ 5:9 two women . . . wind in their wings. These are God's agents for removing wickedness out of the land. God's covenant faithfulness removes the sin of His people far from them (Ps. 103:11, 12; Mic. 7:19).

■ 5:11 Shinar. This older word for Babylon is used possibly to evoke the Tower of Babel as a symbol of opposition to God (Gen. 11:2). Shinar, not Jerusalem, is the appropriate place for iniquity, since Jerusalem is the dwelling place of the Holy One of Israel (2:10–13; 8:3).

■ 6:1–8 The last vision, the four chariots, recalls the four horses of the first vision (v. 1 note; cf. 1:7–17). The four chariots are symbolic of the "four spirits of heaven" (v. 5), but beyond that the order and color of the horses may not have any special significance. The author of Revelation uses similar imagery in his portrayal of the four horsemen (Rev. 6:1–6).

■ 6:1 mountains of bronze. The mountains probably symbolize the gate to heaven, though some suggest that the bronze reflects the bronze pillars of the temple (1 Kin. 7:13–22). In the first vision the riders went from the presence of God (1:10). Here the chariots are God's emissaries of judgment who emerge from between the bronze mountains.

■ 6:5 four spirits of heaven. The Hebrew word for "spirit" can mean "wind." Zechariah may be intentionally drawing on that ambiguity to say that as the winds cover the earth, so the angels of God cover the earth with God's presence (cf. v. 8 note).

the LORD of all the earth. The sovereign God commands His heavenly hosts to do His will (4:14 note).

■ 6:7 eager to go . . . throughout the earth. The eager horses portray the immediacy of God's judgment.

■ 6:8 north country. The north is here representative of Israel's enemies because the geography of Palestine demanded that anyone attacking from the east, including the Persians, had to come by way of the north.

rest to My Spirit. If the north country were judged by God, then all other lands were securely under His judgment, and His protection of His people was complete. His Spirit could therefore rest.

■ 6:9–15 This section is an appendix to the visions, offering additional comments on the fourth and fifth visions. It especially brings together the usually separate offices of priest and ruler in one Person—the Messiah (v. 13).

■ 6:12 the BRANCH. A messianic title, the importance of which explains its occurrence here and in 3:8. Isaiah first used the term to denote the Messiah (Is. 4:2). Jeremiah then developed it as a title for the Davidic descendant who would rule on David's throne (Jer. 23:5, 6; 33:15, 16). Zechariah joins the royal and priestly offices in this title. Early Jewish interpreters saw it as a messianic title. All this shows the preparation in the Old Testament for the truth that Christ is our High Priest (Heb. 4:14; 7:24; 9:11) and our King (Heb. 1:8; Matt. 22:41–46). He is our Savior and our Lord.

13 Yes, He shall build the temple of the LORD.
He [n]shall bear the glory,
And shall sit and rule on His throne;
So [o]He shall be a priest on His throne,
And the counsel of peace shall be between [4]them both." '

14 "Now the [5]elaborate crown shall be [p]for a memorial in the temple of the LORD [6]for Helem, Tobijah, Jedaiah, and Hen the son of Zephaniah. 15 Even [q]those from afar shall come and build the temple of the LORD. Then you shall know that the LORD of hosts has sent Me to you. And this shall come to pass if you diligently obey the voice of the LORD your God."

Obedience Better than Fasting

7 Now in the fourth year of King Darius it came to pass that the word of the LORD came to Zechariah, on the fourth day of the ninth month, Chislev, 2 when [1]the people sent [2]Sherezer, with Regem-Melech and his men, to [3]the house of God, [4]to pray before the LORD, 3 and to [a]ask the priests who were in the house of the LORD of hosts, and the prophets, saying, "Should I weep in [b]the fifth month and [5]fast as I have done for so many years?"

4 Then the word of the LORD of hosts came to me, saying, 5 "Say to all the people of the land, and to the priests: 'When you [c]fasted and mourned in the fifth [d]and seventh months [e]during those seventy years, did you really fast [f]for Me—for Me? 6 [g]When you eat and when you drink, do you not eat and drink for yourselves? 7 Should you not have obeyed the words which the LORD proclaimed through the [h]former prophets when Jerusalem and the cities around it were inhabited and prosperous, and [i]the [6]South and the Lowland were inhabited?' "

Disobedience Resulted in Captivity

8 Then the word of the LORD came to Zechariah, saying, 9 "Thus says the LORD of hosts:

[j]'Execute true justice,
Show [7]mercy and compassion
Everyone to his brother.
10 [k]Do not oppress the widow or the fatherless,
The alien or the poor.
[l]Let none of you plan evil in his heart
Against his brother.'

11 "But they refused to heed, [m]shrugged[8] their shoulders, and [n]stopped[9] their ears so that they could not hear. 12 Yes, they made their [o]hearts like flint, [p]refusing to hear the law and the words which the LORD of hosts had sent by His Spirit through the former prophets. ■ 6:13 He shall build the temple of the LORD. The Messiah in His kingly function will build the temple. This was to encourage the Jews of Zechariah's day, but its fulfillment can be found in Jesus, who promised to build His church as a temple (John 2:19–21; 1 Cor. 3:16, 17; Eph. 2:19–21).

■ 6:15 those from afar. These are the nations who join in the Messiah's task of rebuilding the temple. This reflects Haggai's teaching that the nations will bring their wealth to the temple (Hag. 2:7 note). Since the church of Christ is the temple in this age, Gentiles build the temple by building the church, the living body of Christ on earth (1 Pet. 2:5).

■ 7:1–14 This chapter deals with a question from the residents of the land about continuing to fast. The question shows their lack of understanding of the real issue of obedience. Zechariah answers that obedience is better than sacrifice (cf. 1 Sam. 15:22).

■ 7:1 fourth year . . . fourth day . . . ninth month. December 7, 518 B.C., a little more than two years after the visions in chs. 1–6.

■ 7:2 sent . . . to pray before the LORD. A delegation came from Bethel to inquire whether they should continue to fast in mourning for the destruction of the temple. The temple was destroyed in the fifth month (586 B.C.), according to 2 Kin. 25:8–15. The question is answered by the prophet in 8:18, 19. Chapter 7 shows that the restored community in Jerusalem was outwardly religious but was missing the fruits of true religion. True religion should result in good deeds (James 1:26, 27). See notes on vv. 9, 10.

■ 7:5 seventh. The fast that mourned the assassination of Gedaliah, the governor of Judah appointed by the Babylonians (2 Kin. 25:25 note).

seventy years. It had been sixty-eight years since the destruction of the temple; Zechariah here speaks in round numbers.

did you really fast for Me. Zechariah's emphatic question points out the hypocrisy of their fasting: their fasts were motivated by self-interest rather than a desire to please God.

■ 7:7 the South. See note on Gen. 12:9.

■ 7:9 Execute true justice. Zechariah calls on the people to do what their fathers did not. True justice meant applying God's word to the problems, both personal and social, confronting the restoration community. They must deliver the oppressed and punish the oppressor.

■ 7:10 the widow or the fatherless, The alien or the poor. These groups were easily exploited. God loves them (Ex. 22:21; Deut. 10:18) and ordered provision for their care (Deut. 24:17–22). God also pronounces curses on those who exploit them (Deut. 27:19). Injustices done to these groups are mentioned in Ps. 94:6; and Is. 10:1, 2.

plan evil in his heart. The outward problem of mistreating others springs from inward hatred and disregard for others (Matt. 5:21, 22).

Thus the land became desolate after them, so that no one passed through or returned; for they made the pleasant land desolate."

CHAPTER 8

Jerusalem, Holy City of the Future

8 Again the word of the LORD of hosts came, saying, 2 "Thus says the LORD of hosts:

2 [a]'I am [1]zealous for Zion with great [2]zeal;
With great [3]fervor I am zealous for her.'

3 "Thus says the LORD:

[b]'I will return to Zion,
And [c]dwell in the midst of Jerusalem.
Jerusalem [d]shall be called the City of Truth,
[e]The Mountain of the LORD of hosts,
[f]The Holy Mountain.'

4 "Thus says the LORD of hosts:

[g]'Old men and old women shall again sit
In the streets of Jerusalem,
Each one with his staff in his hand
Because of [4]great age.
5 The streets of the city
Shall be [h]full of boys and girls
Playing in its streets.'

6 "Thus says the LORD of hosts:

'If it is [5]marvelous in the eyes of the remnant of this people in these days,
[i]Will it also be marvelous in My eyes?'
Says the LORD of hosts.

7 "Thus says the LORD of hosts:

'Behold, [j]I will save My people from the land of the [6]east
And from the land of the [7]west;

■ 7:13 I would not listen. God's judgment, the Babylonian exile, was in proportion to their disobedience. The prophets repeatedly emphasize that formal acts of worship are nullified by disobedience. See especially 1 Sam. 15:22 and Is. 1:13–15.

■ 7:14 they made the pleasant land desolate. The disobedience of their forefathers brought about God's judgment. Zechariah wants the people to understand that continued disobedience will be rewarded with judgment.

■ 8:1–23 This chapter is a picture of the ultimate state of the kingdom of God, when God brings His final and fullest blessings on His people. Similar to Isaiah's portrayal of the future (Is. 65:17; 66:5–24), it gave the postexilic Jews hope that the Lord was still determined to bless them. Since the coming of Christ into the world, the beginning of these blessings is seen, but their full realization awaits the new heavens and new earth (Rev. 21:1).

■ 8:2 I am zealous . . . for her. See text notes. God's zeal, or jealousy, for His people (not of them) is born of His covenant love and commitment to them (1:14), which in turn demands their wholehearted loyalty to Him.

■ 8:3 City of Truth. The Hebrew word for "truth" means "faithfulness to God's law." Faithful observance of God's law was rarely true of Israel, even in Zechariah's day. The prophet foresees a time when God's people will reflect His character in their dealings with one another (vv. 16, 17). See also Ex. 34:6, 7.

Holy Mountain. Mount Zion will be holy because God's presence will dwell there in a special way. The prophets repeatedly emphasize the day of salvation as a day of renewal of God's presence (2:5, 11).

■ 8:4, 5 A picture of God's covenant blessings, in which God's blessing of long life (Ex. 20:12) and the joy of children playing reflect a state of shalom, total well-being.

■ 8:6 marvelous. The Hebrew word denotes something beyond human strength and understanding, typically with reference to a divine action. For other examples of this emphasis see Gen. 18:14 ("hard") and Judg. 13:18.

remnant. Those faithful to God in the midst of disobedience. Paul speaks of "a remnant according to the election of grace" in Rom. 11:5. The elect of God are preserved to serve Him faithfully. See notes on Is. 1:9 and Mic. 2:12.

■ 8:7 save My people . . . the west. The covenant renewal of God's people involved restoration from foreign lands. See Deut. 30:1–5; Jer. 30:8–11.

8 I will [k]bring them back,
And they shall dwell in the midst of Jerusalem.
[l]They shall be My people
And I will be their God,
[m]In truth and righteousness.'

9 "Thus says the LORD of hosts:

[n]'Let your hands be strong,
You who have been hearing in these days
These words by the mouth of [o]the prophets,
Who spoke in [p]the day the foundation was laid
For the house of the LORD of hosts,
That the temple might be built.
10 For before these days
There were no [q]wages for man nor any hire for beast;
There was no peace from the enemy for whoever went out or came in;
For I set all men, everyone, against his neighbor.

11 [r]But now I will not treat the remnant of this people as in the former days,' says the LORD of hosts.

12 'For[s] the [g]seed shall be prosperous,
The vine shall give its fruit,
[t]The ground shall give her increase,
And [u]the heavens shall give their dew—
I will cause the remnant of this people
To possess all these.
13 And it shall come to pass
That just as you were [v]a curse among the nations,
O house of Judah and house of Israel,
So I will save you, and [w]you shall be a blessing.
Do not fear,
Let your hands be strong.'

14 "For thus says the LORD of hosts:

[x]'Just as I determined to [g]punish you
When your fathers provoked Me to wrath,'
Says the LORD of hosts,
[y]'And I would not relent,
15 So again in these days
I am determined to do good
To Jerusalem and to the house of Judah.
Do not fear.
16 These are the things you shall [z]do:
[a]Speak each man the truth to his neighbor;
Give judgment in your gates for truth, justice, and peace;
17 [b]Let none of you think evil in [t]your heart against your neighbor;
And do not love a false oath.
For all these are things that I hate,'
Says the LORD."

■ 8:8 They shall be My people . . . their God. This personal relationship is the essence of God's covenant with Abraham and his descendants (Gen. 17:7 and note), and of the new covenant (Jer. 31:33). It is the source of all other covenant blessings.

■ 8:12 seed . . . heavens. The blessings of God's final renewal are expressed in agricultural terms appropriate to the covenant promise of land. Because old Israel's life in the land is a type of New Israel's life in Christ (Gen. 13:15 note), today Christians experience the blessings of God's covenant renewal through Jesus (Matt. 26:28; 1 Cor. 11:25) and look forward to the total renewal of God's covenant blessings in the new heavens and earth (Rev. 21:1—22:5).

■ 8:15 determined. See note on 1:6.

■ 8:16, 17 The people are called on to order their lives in keeping with God's ethical standards. The godly behavior described here contrasts with the ungodliness that characterized much of Israel's history; truth and righteousness will reign in this final era of blessing (Amos 5:24).

18 Then the word of the LORD of hosts came to me, saying, 19 "Thus says the LORD of hosts:

[c]'The fast of the fourth month,
[d]The fast of the fifth,
[e]The fast of the seventh,
[f]And the fast of the tenth,
Shall be [g]joy and gladness and cheerful feasts
For the house of Judah.
[h]Therefore love truth and peace.'

20 "Thus says the LORD of hosts:

'Peoples shall yet come,
Inhabitants of many cities;
21 The inhabitants of one city shall go to another, saying,
[i]"Let us continue to go and pray before the LORD,
And seek the LORD of hosts.
I myself will go also."
22 Yes, [j]many peoples and strong nations
Shall come to seek the LORD of hosts in Jerusalem,
And to pray before the LORD.'

23 "Thus says the LORD of hosts: 'In those days ten men [k]from every language of the nations shall [l]grasp the [2]sleeve of a Jewish man, saying, "Let us go with you, for we have heard [m]that God is with you." ' "

■ 8:19 This verse relates to the question in 7:3 and its reply. The fasts mentioned commemorated various aspects of Jerusalem's destruction.

fourth. The fast commemorating the fall of the walls of Jerusalem, the beginning of the end for the city. (2 Kin. 25:3, 4). See notes on 7:2, 5.

tenth. Nebuchadnezzar began his siege of Jerusalem in the tenth month (2 Kin. 25:1; Jer. 39:1–10).

■ 8:20–23 These verses depict a great pilgrimage by the Gentile nations to Jerusalem, implying the extension of God's salvation beyond the borders of Israel (14:16–20; Is. 2:1–4; Mic. 4:1–3; Mal. 1:5).

■ 8:22 strong nations. See Is. 2:2–4; Mic. 4:3.

■ 8:23 ten men from every language. Emphasis is laid on the great numbers (v. 22, "many peoples") of Gentiles that will come to worship the true God. Revelation 5:9 speaks of the redeemed from "every tribe and tongue and people and nation." Salvation then is worldwide, not in the sense that every human being is redeemed, but that the children of God are chosen from every language and ethnic group of the world.

God is with you. The attraction of worship is the presence of God in the midst of His people (1 Cor. 14:24, 25).

■ 9:1—11:17 The prophet turns his attention to the future of God's kingdom, developing his theme in two lengthy oracles (chs. 9—11; 12—14). The first prophecy of the book's latter half focuses on the coming of God the King in judgment. The opening verses (9:1–8) portray God as an avenging warrior who comes to take possession of His land by destroying all the pagan enemies who lie in His path (cf. Is. 9:6 note). He comes from the north to Jerusalem (cf. 9:14–17, where God is pictured as coming from the south to Jerusalem), an event that leads to the proclamation of 9:9. Some interpret the picture of a northern invasion as describing Alexander the Great's conquest of Palestine in 333 B.C. That may be, but its greater meaning concerns God Himself coming to avenge His people. See Introduction: Characteristics and Themes.

■ 9:1 burden of the word of the LORD. This precise phrase is used three times in the Old Testament (here; 12:1; Mal. 1:1). "Burden" implies that the prophet was under strong compulsion to deliver the message from God.

land of Hadrach. Known as Hatarikka in Assyrian cuneiform inscriptions, this is the northernmost city listed in vv. 1–8. The description here is rather general and a specific fulfillment ought not to be sought.

Damascus. The capital of Syria, Israel's neighbor to the north.

the eyes of men . . . on the LORD. All people, and especially God's people, are looking to this mighty King as He approaches with His justice.

■ 9:2 Hamath. Located on the Orontes River north of Damascus.

Tyre and Sidon. Phoenician cities on the Mediterranean coast. Both were commercial centers throughout the biblical period. Their description as "very wise" may relate to shrewdness in business. Judgment of these cities is a common prophetic theme (Jer. 47:1–7; Ezek. 28:11–23).

And gold like the mire of the streets.
4 Behold, [g]the LORD will cast her out;
He will destroy [h]her power in the sea,
And she will be devoured by fire.

5 Ashkelon shall see it and fear;
Gaza also shall be very sorrowful;
And [i]Ekron, for He dried up her expectation.
The king shall perish from Gaza,
And Ashkelon shall not be inhabited.

6 "A[2] mixed race shall settle [j]in Ashdod,
And I will cut off the pride of the [k]Philistines.
7 I will take away the blood from his mouth,
And the abominations from between his teeth.
But he who remains, even he shall be for our God,
And shall be like a leader in Judah,
And Ekron like a Jebusite.
8 [l]I will camp around My house
Because of the army,
Because of him who passes by and him who returns.
No more shall an oppressor pass through them,
For now I have seen with My eyes.

The Coming King

9 "Rejoice [m]greatly, O daughter of Zion!
Shout, O daughter of Jerusalem!
Behold, [n]your King is coming to you;
He is just and having salvation,
Lowly and riding on a donkey,
A colt, the foal of a donkey.
10 I [o]will cut off the chariot from Ephraim
And the horse from Jerusalem;
The [p]battle bow shall be cut off.
He shall speak peace to the nations;
His dominion shall be [q]'from sea to sea,
And from the River to the ends of the earth.'

God Will Save His People

11 "As for you also,
Because of the blood of your covenant,
I will set your [r]prisoners free from the waterless pit.
12 Return to the stronghold,
[s]You prisoners of hope.
Even today I declare
That I will restore [t]double to you.

12 [s]Is. 49:9; Jer. 17:13; Heb. 6:18–20 [t]Is. 61:7

■ 9:5 Ashkelon . . . Gaza . . . Ekron. Strong cities of Philistia will not be able to withstand the power of the approaching warrior God. These cities are marked out for judgment many times in the Old Testament (Is. 14:28–32; Ezek. 25:15–17; Amos 1:6–8).

■ 9:9, 10 This important Old Testament prophecy finds fulfillment both in Jesus' triumphal entry into Jerusalem (Matt. 21:1–11; John 12:12–16) and in His messianic reign (v. 10 note).

■ 9:9 O daughter of Zion. A common title for God's holy city and people (Is. 1:8 note; 62:11; Zeph. 3:14).

your King. The royal descendant of David promised repeatedly (2 Sam. 7:12–14; Ps. 132:11; Is. 9:7; 11:1–5; Jer. 23:5, 6; 33:15–22; Ezek. 34:23, 24; 37:24, 25).

on a donkey. A sign of His humility. See note on Matt. 21:1–11.

■ 9:10 the chariot . . . the horse. Implements of war will be abolished in the peaceful reign of the righteous King (Is. 2:1–4; 11:6–9). The Old Testament often predicts universal peace in the time of the messianic King (Is. 57:19; Mic. 4:1–5; cf. Eph. 2:12–18).

dominion . . . to the ends of the earth. The universal, sovereign rule of God is foundational to Old Testament religion (Ps. 72:8; 96:3–5; Dan. 2:44–47; 7:13, 14, 27). Christ is the One who brings the Father's universal dominion to earth (Matt. 12:28; Phil. 2:9–11; Rev. 19:11–16).

■ 9:11 blood of your covenant. A reference to the provision in God's covenant for covering sin (Ex. 24:8; Matt. 26:28).

13 For I have bent Judah, My bow,
Fitted the bow with Ephraim,
And raised up your sons, O Zion,
Against your sons, O Greece,
And made you like the sword of a mighty man."

14 Then the LORD will be seen over them,
And [u]His arrow will go forth like lightning.
The Lord GOD will blow the trumpet,
And go [v]with whirlwinds from the south.
15 The LORD of hosts will [w]defend them;
They shall devour and subdue with slingstones.
They shall drink and roar as if with wine;
They shall be filled with blood like [3]basins,
Like the corners of the altar.
16 The LORD their God will [x]save them in that day,
As the flock of His people.
For [y]they shall be like the [4]jewels of a crown,
[z]Lifted like a banner over His land—
17 For [a]how great is [5]its goodness
And how great [5]its [b]beauty!
[c]Grain shall make the young men thrive,
And new wine the young women.

Restoration of Judah and Israel

10 Ask [a]the LORD for [b]rain
In [c]the time of the [1]latter rain.
The LORD will make [2]flashing clouds;
He will give them showers of rain,
Grass in the field for everyone.

2 For the [d]idols[3] speak delusion;
The diviners envision [e]lies,
And tell false dreams;
They [f]comfort in vain.
Therefore the people wend their way like [g]sheep;
They are [4]in trouble [h]because there is no shepherd.

3 "My anger is kindled against the [i]shepherds,
[j]And I will punish the [5]goatherds.
For the LORD of hosts [k]will visit His flock,
The house of Judah,
And [l]will make them as His royal horse in the battle.

4 [m]Is. 28:16

■ 9:13 O Greece. Lit. "O, Javan" (Gen. 10:2). This reference does not necessarily refer to the Maccabean wars (second century B.C.) of the intertestamental period, or indicate that the author lived in that period. Greece may be used as a symbol of the pagan nations that war against God's people.

■ 9:14 whirlwinds from the south. The God of Israel is now portrayed as coming from the southern region of the desert riding on the storm clouds (2 Sam. 22:8–16; Ps. 29). Since Mount Sinai was the place He appeared when He brought the people out of Egypt, the Old Testament sometimes depicts God as coming from that region.

■ 9:15 drink and roar as if with wine. God's people will be exuberant with a holy joy because of God's victory and presence (Acts 2:13–21; Eph. 5:18).

■ 9:16 the flock . . . jewels of a crown. God's people rest secure as sheep under His care (13:7; Ezek. 34:11–24; 37:24), and will become glorious as a result of God's presence (2 Cor. 3:18).

■ 10:1–12 This chapter is a rebuke to the people, and especially the leaders, of Judah for seeking wisdom and advice from idols (v. 2). God's answer to their waywardness is that He Himself will be their shepherd. The Messiah is often portrayed (like David) as a Shepherd-King (Ezek. 34; Jer. 23:1–8).

■ 10:1 Ask the LORD for rain. See note on 8:12.

■ 10:2 idols . . . diviners. The idols are household idols (Gen. 31:19). Occult attempts to tell the future are forbidden for God's people (Deut. 18:9–14), who are to derive their wisdom from the word of God (Prov. 1:7).

there is no shepherd. Israel's and Judah's leaders were often rebuked for their godless leadership of God's people (Ezek. 34:1–10).

■ 10:3 royal horse. Judah will be strong like a horse arrayed for battle because of God's help (v. 6).

■ 10:4 cornerstone . . . tent peg . . . battle bow. Symbolic references to the Messiah. Jesus was from the tribe of Judah (Heb. 7:14) and

From him [n]the tent peg,
From him the battle bow,
From him every [o]ruler together.
5 They shall be like mighty men,
Who [o]tread down their enemies
In the mire of the streets in the battle.
They shall fight because the LORD is with them,
And the riders on horses shall be put to shame.

6 "I will strengthen the house of Judah,
And I will save the house of Joseph.
[p]I will bring them back,
Because I [q]have mercy on them.
They shall be as though I had not cast them aside;
For I am the LORD their God,
And I [r]will hear them.
7 Those of Ephraim shall be like a mighty man,
And their [s]heart shall rejoice as if with wine.
Yes, their children shall see it and be glad;
Their heart shall rejoice in the LORD.
8 I will [t]whistle for them and gather them,
For I will redeem them;
[u]And they shall increase as they once increased.

9 "I[v] will [7]sow them among the peoples,
And they shall [w]remember Me in far countries;
They shall live, together with their children,
And they shall return.
10 [x]I will also bring them back from the land of Egypt,
And gather them from Assyria.
I will bring them into the land of Gilead and Lebanon,
[y]Until no more room is found for them.
11 [z]He shall pass through the sea with affliction,
And strike the waves of the sea:
All the depths of [8]the River shall dry up.
Then [a]the pride of Assyria shall be brought down,
And [b]the scepter of Egypt shall depart.

12 "So I will strengthen them in the LORD,
And [c]they shall walk up and down in His name,"
Says the LORD.

came in fulfillment of the promise of a ruler who would conquer every other ruler. See notes on Gen. 49:10 and Mic. 5:2.

■ 10:6 I am the LORD their God. Another strong reaffirmation of the covenant bond between God and His people. God saves His people because of His eternal commitment to them (8:8 note; Jer. 31:33).

■ 10:8 whistle for them. As the shepherd whistles for his flock (cf. Is. 7:18), so God will recall the exiles from foreign lands (Deut. 30:1–10).

as they once increased. As the Israelites had earlier multiplied (Ex. 1:7), in fulfillment of God's covenant promise to Abraham (Gen. 15:5; 17:6).

■ 10:10–12 God's mighty act in summoning the exiles is depicted in language recalling Israel's Exodus from Egypt (Is. 43:16, 17).

■ 10:12 walk . . . in His name. Following His guidance and wisdom in all that they do (Deut. 6:4–9; Mic. 4:5).

■ 11:1–3 Scholars debate whether this small poetic section belongs with what precedes (chs. 9—10, God's judgment against the nations) or with what follows (11:4–17, God's judgment against Israel for their rejection of the Shepherd). The metaphors of large oaks, dense forests, and ravaging lions are drawn from the plants and animals of the Jordan Valley. The language is consistent with a number of judgments in Israel's history, but the preeminent judgment comes to those nations and individuals who reject the Good Shepherd, Jesus Christ (Acts 4:24–28).

■ 11:2 cedar. Often used as a symbol of Lebanon (1 Kin. 5:6; Ps. 104:16).

Bashan. The fertile area northeast of the Dead Sea (Deut. 3:1 note).

Wail, O oaks of Bashan,
[c] For the thick forest has come down.
3 There is the sound of wailing [d] shepherds!
For their glory is in ruins.
There is the sound of roaring lions!
For the [f] pride of the Jordan is in ruins.

Prophecy of the Shepherds

4 Thus says the LORD my God, "Feed the flock for slaughter, 5 whose owners slaughter them and [e] feel no guilt; those who sell them [f] say, 'Blessed be the LORD, for I am rich'; and their shepherds do [g] not pity them. 6 For I will no longer pity the inhabitants of the land," says the LORD. "But indeed I will give everyone into his neighbor's hand and into the hand of his king. They shall [2] attack the land, and I will not deliver them from their hand."

7 So I fed the flock for slaughter, [3] in particular [h] the poor of the flock. I took for myself two staffs: the one I called [4] Beauty, and the other I called [5] Bonds; and I fed the flock. 8 I [6] dismissed the three shepherds [i] in one month. My soul loathed them, and their soul also abhorred me. 9 Then I said, "I will not feed you. [j] Let what is dying die, and what is perishing perish. Let those that are left eat each other's flesh." 10 And I took my staff, [7] Beauty, and cut it in two, that I might break the covenant which I had made with all the peoples. 11 So it was broken on that day. Thus [k] the [8] poor of the flock, who were watching me, knew that it was the word of the LORD. 12 Then I said to them, "If it is [9] agreeable to you, give me my wages; and if not, refrain." So they [l] weighed out for my wages thirty pieces of silver.

13 And the LORD said to me, "Throw it to the [m] potter"—that princely price they set on me. So I took the thirty pieces of silver and threw them into the house of the LORD for the potter. 14 Then I cut in two my other staff, [l] Bonds, that I might break the brotherhood between Judah and Israel.

15 And the LORD said to me, [n] "Next, take for yourself the implements of a foolish shepherd. 16 For indeed I will raise up a shepherd in the land who will not care for those who are cut off, nor seek the young, nor heal those that are broken, nor feed those that still stand. But he will eat the flesh of the fat and tear their hooves in [o] pieces.

17 "Woe [p] to the worthless shepherd,
Who leaves the flock!
A sword shall be against his arm
And against his right eye;
His arm shall completely wither,
And his right eye shall be totally blinded."

■ 11:4–17 The actors are difficult to identify with certainty in this section, although the general teaching is clear. The prophet is appointed to be a good shepherd, but because he is rejected he forsakes the flock (v. 9). As a good shepherd, the prophet is a type of the coming messianic Shepherd, Jesus Christ, who came as the Good Shepherd and laid down His life for the sheep (John 10:11–18).

■ 11:4 Feed. A command given to Zechariah.

the flock for slaughter. The people of Israel.

■ 11:6 I will no longer pity. These words were appropriate before the Babylonian exile (Jer. 13:14; 15:5; 21:7); they occur here because of the continued rebellion of the people (Matt. 21:33–46).

■ 11:7 Beauty. Or, "grace" (text note). This word is also used of God Himself (Ps. 27:4; 90:17). The staff is symbolic of the grace that God has shown His people in His covenant (v. 10).

Bonds. Or, "unity" (text note). The unity of the divided nation (v. 14) was promised in the new covenant (Jer. 30:3; 31:27, 31; 33:7).

■ 11:8 the three shepherds. These shepherds are difficult to identify. They could be symbolic of all leaders who fail to meet God's standards. In time the Good Shepherd of God's choice will depose all other rulers (Rev. 2:27).

■ 11:9 The prophet as shepherd expresses his disgust with the rebellion and disobedience of the flock.

■ 11:10 covenant . . . with all the peoples. The divinely imposed obligation on the nations not to injure God's people Israel (cf. Ezek. 34:25; Hos. 2:18). With the removal of God's favor toward Israel, the nations could afflict the flock of God.

■ 11:12 thirty pieces of silver. Apparently the price of a slave (Ex. 21:32). Jewish officials paid Judas thirty shekels of silver to betray Jesus (Matt. 26:14–16).

■ 11:13 threw them into the house of the LORD. A prophecy fulfilled when Judas threw down the thirty pieces of silver on the floor of the temple (Matt. 27:1–10; cf. Jer. 19:1–13).

■ 11:14 break the brotherhood between Judah and Israel. The dissolution of the covenant nation because they rejected the Good Shepherd.

■ 11:15–17 With the rejection of the Good Shepherd, worthless leaders take His place (cf. Ezek. 34:1–10). The loss of "arm" and "right eye" indicates the loss of power and insight necessary for leadership (v. 17). Some suggest that this prophecy refers to the Jewish leaders who led the nation into disastrous rebellions against Rome after the death of Christ (A.D. 66–74, 132–35).

The Coming Deliverance of Judah

12 The [1]burden of the word of the LORD against Israel. Thus says the LORD, [a]who stretches out the heavens, lays the foundation of the earth, and [b]forms the spirit of man within him: 2 "Behold, I will make Jerusalem [c]a cup of [2]drunkenness to all the surrounding peoples, when they lay siege against Judah and Jerusalem. 3 [d]And it shall happen in that day that I will make Jerusalem [e]a very heavy stone for all peoples; all who would heave it away will surely be cut in pieces, though all nations of the earth are gathered against it. 4 In that day," says the LORD, [f]"I will strike every horse with confusion, and its rider with madness; I will open My eyes on the house of Judah, and will strike every horse of the peoples with blindness. 5 And the governors of Judah shall say in their heart, 'The inhabitants of Jerusalem are my strength in the LORD of hosts, their God.' 6 In that day I will make the governors of Judah [g]like a firepan in the woodpile, and like a fiery torch in the sheaves; they shall devour all the surrounding peoples on the right hand and on the left, but Jerusalem shall be inhabited again in her own place—Jerusalem.

7 "The LORD will save the tents of Judah first, so that the glory of the house of David and the glory of the inhabitants of Jerusalem shall not become greater than that of Judah. 8 In that day the LORD will defend the inhabitants of Jerusalem; the one who is feeble among them in that day shall be like David, and the house of David shall be like God, like the Angel of the LORD before them. 9 It shall be in that day that I will seek to [h]destroy all the nations that come against Jerusalem.

Mourning for the Pierced One

10 [i]"And I will pour on the house of David and on the inhabitants of Jerusalem the Spirit of grace and supplication; then they will [j]look on Me whom they pierced. Yes, they will mourn for Him [k]as one mourns for his only son, and grieve for Him as one grieves for a firstborn. 11 In that day there shall be a great [l]mourning in Jerusalem, [m]like the mourning at Hadad Rimmon in the plain of [3]Megiddo. 12 [n]And the land shall mourn, every family by itself: the family of the house of David by itself, and their wives by themselves; the family of the house of [o]Nathan by itself, and their wives by themselves; 13 the family of the house of Levi by itself, and their wives by themselves; the family of Shimei by itself, and their wives by themselves; 14 all the families that remain, every family by itself, and their wives by themselves.

Idolatry Cut Off

13 "In that [a]day [b]a fountain shall be opened for the house of David and for the inhabitants of Jerusalem, for sin and for [c]uncleanness.

2 "It shall be in that day," says the LORD of hosts, "that I will [d]cut off the names of the idols from the land, and they shall no longer be remembered. I will also cause [e]the prophets and the unclean spirit to depart from the land. 3 It shall come to pass that if anyone still prophesies, then his father and mother who begot him will say to him, 'You shall [f]not live, because you have spoken lies in the name of the LORD.' And his father and mother who begot him [g]shall thrust him through when he prophesies.

4 "And it shall be in that day that [h]every prophet will be ashamed of his vision when he

■ 12:1—14:21 The second oracle of the book's latter half focuses on God's judgment of the nations, climaxing with the salvation of Jerusalem and the final celebration of the Feast of Tabernacles.

■ 12:1 burden of the word of the LORD. See note on 9:1.

■ 12:2 a cup of drunkenness. A common Old Testament image of God's wrath as a cup from which the nations will drink (Is. 51:17; Jer. 25:15–17, 27–29; Ezek. 23:32–34).

■ 12:3 in that day. The day of the Lord (14:1). This phrase occurs numerous times in chs. 12—14, and indicates the fullness of God's judgment of the world and the final salvation of His people.

Jerusalem a very heavy stone. The earthly Jerusalem of Zechariah's day was a type of the church, the heavenly Jerusalem in which we now live by faith (Heb. 12:22–24).

■ 12:6 firepan . . . fiery torch. More images of Judah's devouring power.

■ 12:10 Spirit of grace and supplication. This describes God's gracious Spirit who produces humility in God's people. The Old Testament prophets emphasize that God's renewal of the covenant (Jer. 31:31–33) entailed renewal through His Spirit (Is. 59:21; Ezek. 36:26, 27; 39:29; Joel 2:28, 29).

look on Me whom they pierced. Probably this means "look to the Messiah as the source of salvation." Many passages in John's Gospel speak of faith as "seeing" (John 6:40). The one looked upon in faith is none other than God Himself, who is pierced in the Person of His incarnate Son, the Messiah (John 1:14 and note; 19:37).

■ 13:1 In that day. See note on 12:3.

fountain . . . for sin and for uncleanness. The picture of a cleansing fountain indicates the abundance of forgiveness (cf. Jer. 2:13). Ultimately we find that abundance of forgiveness in Jesus and the Spirit (John 7:37–39).

■ 13:3 lies in the name of the LORD. False prophecy includes both prophecy in the name of a false god and presumptuous speech in the name of the Lord (Deut. 13; 18:20–22). False prophets were to die by the sword (Deut. 13:12–15).

■ 13:4 a robe of coarse hair. False prophets will deny that they were prophets for fear of punishment, and will refuse to wear the traditional clothing symbolic of the prophet (2 Kin. 1:8; Matt. 3:4).

prophesies; they will not wear [i]a robe of coarse hair to deceive. [5][j]But he will say, 'I am no prophet, I am a farmer; for a man taught me to keep cattle from my youth.' [6] And one will say to him, 'What are these wounds between your [l]arms?' Then he will answer, 'Those with which I was wounded in the house of my friends.'

The Shepherd Savior

7 "Awake, O sword, against [k]My Shepherd, Against the Man [l]who is My Companion,"
Says the LORD of hosts.
[m]"Strike the Shepherd,
And the sheep will be scattered;
Then I will turn My hand against [n]the little ones.
8 And it shall come to pass in all the land,"
Says the LORD,
"That [o]two-thirds in it shall be cut off and die,
[p]But one-third shall be left in it:
9 I will bring the one-third [q]through the fire,
Will [r]refine them as silver is refined,
And test them as gold is tested.
[s]They will call on My name,
And I will answer them.
[t]I will say, 'This is My people';
And each one will say, 'The LORD is my God.' "

The Day of the LORD

14 Behold, [a]the day of the LORD is coming,
And your [l]spoil will be divided in your midst.
2 For [b]I will gather all the nations to battle against Jerusalem;
The city shall be taken,
The houses [2]rifled,
And the women ravished.
Half of the city shall go into captivity,
But the remnant of the people shall not be cut off from the city.

3 Then the LORD will go forth
And fight against those nations,
As He fights in the day of battle.
4 And in that day His feet will stand [c]on the Mount of Olives,
Which faces Jerusalem on the east.
And the Mount of Olives shall be split in two,
From east to west,
[d]Making a very large valley;
Half of the mountain shall move toward the north
And half of it toward the south.

■ 13:6 wounds between your arms. Probably wounds that were self-inflicted during idolatrous worship. Several Old Testament texts suggest that such practices were customary in pagan worship (Lev. 19:28; 21:5; Deut. 14:1; 1 Kin. 18:28). The accused prophet contends that his wounds were inflicted by friends, and were not the result of idolatrous worship.

■ 13:7–9 These verses envision God's chosen Shepherd who suffers at the hand of God (v. 7). Out of this judgment emerges the true people of God (v. 9). No clearer picture of Jesus and His suffering church is given in the Old Testament. See the notes below.

■ 13:7 Strike the Shepherd. Astonishingly, God strikes His own chosen Shepherd. Jesus is the Shepherd who is stricken and afflicted (Matt. 26:31–35; Mark 14:27–31; Luke 22:31–34).

the sheep. God's people suffer along with their Shepherd (2 Cor. 1:5 note).

against the little ones. Possibly an indication of God's judgment against His sheep. The Hebrew word rendered "against" could also be translated "upon," indicating God's protection of the "little ones" in the midst of suffering.

■ 13:8 two-thirds . . . one-third. The judgment sifts the true believers from the untrue. A common prophetic theme is that God's judgment will distinguish between the proud and humble (Zeph. 3:11, 12), between the true and false sheep (Ezek. 34:17–22).

■ 14:1 the day of the LORD is coming. The Old Testament prophets proclaimed a "day of the Lord" for judgment and deliverance, both of which are present in this passage (Introduction to Zephaniah: Characteristics and Themes).

5 Then you shall flee through My mountain valley,
For the mountain valley shall reach to Azal.
Yes, you shall flee
As you fled from the [e]earthquake
In the days of Uzziah king of Judah.

[f]Thus the LORD my God will come,
And [g]all the saints with [3]You.

6 It shall come to pass in that day
That there will be no light;
The [4]lights will diminish.
7 It shall be one day
[h]Which is known to the LORD—
Neither day nor night.
But at [i]evening time it shall happen
That it will be light.

8 And in that day it shall be
That living [j]waters shall flow from Jerusalem,
Half of them toward [5]the eastern sea
And half of them toward [6]the western sea;
In both summer and winter it shall occur.
9 And the LORD shall be [k]King over all the earth.
In that day it shall be—
[l]"The LORD is one,"
And His name one.

10 All the land shall be turned into a plain from Geba to Rimmon south of Jerusalem. [7]Jerusalem shall be raised up and [m]inhabited in her place from Benjamin's Gate to the place of the First Gate and the Corner Gate, [n]and from the Tower of Hananel to the king's winepresses.

11 The people shall dwell in it;
And [o]no longer shall there be utter destruction,
[p]But Jerusalem shall be safely inhabited.

12 And this shall be the plague with which the LORD will strike all the people who fought against Jerusalem:

Their flesh shall [8]dissolve while they stand on their feet,
Their eyes shall dissolve in their sockets,
And their tongues shall dissolve in their mouths.

13 It shall come to pass in that day
That [q]a great panic from the LORD will be among them.
Everyone will seize the hand of his neighbor,

■ 14:5 Azal. Clearly a place close to Jerusalem; its precise location is unknown.

saints. Lit. "holy ones," an expression found also in the New Testament (Jude 14; cf. Matt. 25:31). These are God's chosen servants, the angelic host (perhaps humans as well), coming to Jerusalem to liberate it from pagan aggressors. This day of battle ushers in the eternal bliss of God's special presence among His people.

■ 14:7 one day . . . it will be light. God Himself will be the light of the city (Is. 60:19, 20; Rev. 21:25; 22:5). Natural light from the heavenly bodies will have ceased (v. 6).

■ 14:8 living waters . . . from Jerusalem. As the result of the Lord's presence, a refreshing stream of running water brings healing to those who seek refuge in the Lord. Such water symbolizes the blessings of salvation (Is. 55:1–5; Ezek. 47:1–12; John 4:10–14). Believers in Jesus receive the living water only He can give (John 7:37–39; Rev. 22:1).

■ 14:9 King over all the earth. With the final victory, God's sovereignty over all is manifested.

The LORD is one, And His name one. These words clearly draw on Deut. 6:4, Israel's foundational confession (Mark 12:29 note). Only on this day of victory will the full meaning of this confession be understood.

■ 14:10 This extensive geographical description is designed to stress that the whole land of God's people will be claimed by God Himself.

■ 14:12 plague. This fearful plague recalls the plagues on Egypt (Ex. 7—12), as well as the covenant curses proclaimed by God upon disobedience (Lev. 26:16; Deut. 28:22).

And raise [r]his hand against his neighbor's hand;
14 Judah also will fight at Jerusalem.
[s]And the wealth of all the surrounding nations
Shall be gathered together:
Gold, silver, and apparel in great abundance.

15 [t]Such also shall be the plague
On the horse and the mule,
On the camel and the donkey,
And on all the cattle that will be in those camps.
So shall this plague be.

The Nations Worship the King

16 And it shall come to pass that everyone who is left of all the nations which came against Jerusalem shall [u]go up from year to year to [v]worship the King, the LORD of hosts, and to keep [w]the Feast of Tabernacles. 17 [x]And it shall be that whichever of the families of the earth do not come up to Jerusalem to worship the King, the LORD of hosts, on them there will be no rain. 18 If the family of [y]Egypt will not come up and enter in, [z]they shall have no rain; they shall receive the plague with which the LORD strikes the nations who do not come up to keep the Feast of Tabernacles. 19 This shall be the [g]punishment of Egypt and the punishment of all the nations that do not come up to keep the Feast of Tabernacles.

20 In that day [a]"HOLINESS TO THE LORD" shall be engraved on the bells of the horses. The [b]pots in the LORD's house shall be like the bowls before the altar. 21 Yes, [f]every pot in Jerusalem and Judah shall be holiness to the LORD of hosts. Everyone who sacrifices shall come and take them and cook in them. In that day there shall no longer be a [c]Canaanite [d]in the house of the LORD of hosts.

■ 14:15 shall be the plague The plague will extend even to the animals belonging to the heathen enemies of God. Zechariah is emphasizing that the destruction of God's enemies will be final and complete. Even now Christians enjoy victory in faith (1 John 5:4) and await the final subjugation of God's enemies by Christ (1 Cor. 15:24–28).

■ 14:16–20 The last part of the book pictures the universal blessing that God will bestow in the final state.

■ 14:16 everyone who is left. The people in the pagan nations are not all destroyed. Some are converted and come to worship the true and living God in Jerusalem (6:15; 8:23 and notes).

Feast of Tabernacles. The worship of the Gentiles is expressed in terms of this feast because it was one of joy and thankfulness to God for His blessings (Lev. 23:33–36, 39–43; Num. 29:12–34; Deut. 16:13–15). The feast occurred during the fall harvest season and therefore could symbolize the ingathering of the Gentiles.

■ 14:20 HOLINESS TO THE LORD. Originally inscribed on the high priest's turban (Ex. 28:36–38) to express dedication, the phrase is now applied to everything in Jerusalem, horses' bells and cooking pots, because God's presence sanctifies all around Him.

The Book of

MALACHI

Author The authorship of Malachi is a subject of debate. Scholars are divided as to whether the name "Malachi" is a personal name or a title. Both the Aramaic Targum and the Septuagint (Greek Old Testament translation) suggest something other than a personal name. The former identifies Malachi with Ezra. The latter translates the phrase "by Malachi" as "by the hand of his angel [or 'messenger']." The main arguments against viewing "Malachi" as the personal name of the prophet are the absence of specific data concerning his father and the lack of any mention of his place of birth. In addition, the phrase "burden of the word," which occurs in 1:1; Zech. 9:1; 12:1, is alleged to be an anonymous addition to those texts. Nevertheless, these are not compelling reasons for rejecting Malachi as a personal name. In the case of every other Old Testament prophetic book, a personal name is given. As with many of the prophets, we know little about the prophet's personal circumstances. But Malachi was "God's messenger," and the message he brought was from God (cf. Amos 3:7, 8).

Date and Occasion Malachi is to be dated about the time of Ezra and Nehemiah. The reference to the "governor" (1:8) locates the book in the Persian period, and Malachi's emphasis on the law (Mal. 4:4) would indicate the time of Ezra's ministry of restoring the prominence and authority of the law (Ezra 7:14, 25, 26; Neh. 8:18). Some date the book between the coming of Ezra (458 B.C.) and the coming of Nehemiah (445 B.C.). Others place Malachi in the period between Nehemiah's two visits to Jerusalem, about 433 B.C.

Also important is the recognition that the conditions and problems that confronted Ezra and Nehemiah are also found in the prophecy of Malachi. All three spoke out against marriage to foreign wives (e.g., 2:11–15; Neh. 13:23–27). They condemned neglect of the tithe (e.g., 3:8–10; Neh. 13:10–14). They castigated the evils of a degenerate priesthood (e.g., 1:6—2:9; Neh. 13:7, 8), and criticized social sins (e.g., 3:5; Neh. 5:1–13).

Characteristics and Themes The covenant theme is prominent in Malachi. Explicit references include: the covenant of Levi (2:5–9), the covenant of the fathers (2:10), the marriage covenant (2:14), and the Messenger of the covenant (3:1). In addition to these direct references, the book begins with a rehearsal of God's covenant love (1:2–5). The seriousness of priestly incompetence and unfaithfulness is seen in the resulting erosion of covenant faithfulness among the common people, who broke faith in their marriages (2:10–16) and in their social and economic relationships (3:5), "profaning the covenant" (2:10). Unless they repent (3:7) they are under God's curse (3:9; Lev. 26:14–46; Deut. 28:15–68).

Malachi spoke to a disillusioned, discouraged, and doubting people whose experience did not harmonize with their understanding of the glorious promises found in the earlier prophets. Their vision of the coming messianic age did not materialize. Instead they experienced poverty, drought, and economic adversity, and they became disillusioned with God and their faith. Malachi's word confronts a people skeptical of the promises and therefore indifferent in their commitment to live in the light of those promises and to worship and serve the Lord with all their hearts. The book may serve as a catechism for times of doubt and disappointment, when the professing people of God are tempted to break faith with their covenant God. The prophet's ministry is to light the lamp of faith in a disheartened people by reminding them of God's electing love (1:2) and to set forth the continuing obligations of the covenant to those who truly know God (3:16–18).

One of the distinguishing features of this book is its "disputational" style. This is seen in the accusation by the covenant Lord against His people. The accusation is met by a cynical questioning of the charges. In response to the defiant response of the people, the prophet elaborates and defines the charges initially made. The book should be studied in the light of the structure, evident in the outline below, of six disputational dialogues. The structure reveals the role of this prophet as a covenant lawsuit advocate for God.

The uncommonly frequent use of the first person ("I") by the Lord in addressing the people lends an added sense of urgency and intimacy to the message of the book (1:2, 6, 14; 2:2; 3:5, 6, 10, 17; 4:5). □

THE [1]burden of the word of the LORD to Israel [2]by Malachi.

Israel Beloved of God

2 "I[a] have loved you," says the LORD.
"Yet you say, 'In what way have You loved us?'
Was not Esau Jacob's brother?"
Says the LORD.
"Yet [b]Jacob I have loved;
3 But Esau I have hated,
And [c]laid waste his mountains and his heritage
For the jackals of the wilderness."

4 Even though Edom has said,
"We have been impoverished,
But we will return and build the desolate places,"

■ 1:1–5 Israel is not convinced that God loves them. This section is God's response to that cynical doubt. The Lord reminds Israel that Jacob, their ancestor, was chosen by God while Esau, Edom's forefather, was rejected. Therefore, although Israel has experienced the Lord's wrath for just a little while, Edom is a "people against whom the LORD will have indignation forever" (1:4). Furthermore, while Israel is heir of the everlasting promises of their covenant Lord, Edom will never rise again. The Lord's judgment on Edom will be cause for praise in Israel.

■ 1:1 burden of the word. See text note; Is. 13:1; Nah. 1:1; Hab. 1:1; Zech. 9:1; 12:1. Normally used in prophecies of judgment, "burden" may point to the urgency felt by the prophet in issuing his proclamation. On this urgency, see also Jer. 20:9; Amos 3:8.

■ 1:2 I have loved you. God's electing love is sovereign and unconditional. It is expounded principally in Deuteronomy where the verbs "to choose" and "to love" are parallel (Deut. 7:6–8). God's love is manifested in the covenant He initiates with His people. The nearness of God to Israel was to be the source of awe and amazement (Deut. 4:7, 8). God's love begins in eternity (Jer. 31:3) and is manifested in His covenantal dealings with Abraham, Moses, and David (Gen. 12:1–4; Ex. 19:5, 6; 2 Sam. 7). God's election of Jacob continued to have relevance for His dealings with Israel in the period of Malachi's ministry. Properly understood, God's love does not lead to moral complacency but to moral zeal. However, Israel's complacency and their cynicism about God's love led to the moral crises that Malachi addresses. See theological note "The Purpose of God: Predestination and Foreknowledge."

Jacob. One of the titles for God in the Psalms is "the God of Jacob" (Ps. 20:1; 46:7; 75:9; 76:6; 84:8). God's electing love is unique because He loves sinners, those who by nature were the objects of His displeasure and wrath (Luke 15:2; Rom. 5:6–8; Eph. 2:1–3). The history of Jacob and Esau in Genesis clearly points to God's choice of Jacob despite his lack of merit (Gen. 25:21–34; 27:1–40; Rom. 9:10–13).

■ 1:3 hated. Although there is a usage of the verb "hate" which means "to love less" (Gen. 29:31 text note; Luke 14:26), the context immediately following suggests that here "hate" means active rejection, displeasure, and disfavor manifested in retributive justice. It is not merely that Esau (Edom) suffers the absence or lessening of blessing, but that he receives judgment. For this usage of "hate," see Ps. 5:5; Is. 61:8; Hos. 9:15; Amos 5:21; Mal. 2:16. See "Election and Reprobation" at Rom. 9:18.

laid waste. The reference is most likely to the occupation of Edom by the Nabatean Arabs. In Amos 9:12 Edom is representative of all the nations who come under the saving influence of God's promise.

Thus says the LORD of hosts:

"They may build, but I will [d]throw down;
They shall be called the Territory of Wickedness,
And the people against whom the LORD will have indignation forever.
5 Your eyes shall see,
And you shall say,
[e]'The LORD is magnified beyond the border of Israel.'

The Purpose of God: Predestination and Foreknowledge

"Predestination" is a word often used to signify God's foreordaining of all the events of world history—past, present, and future. This usage is quite appropriate. In Scripture and historic Protestant theology, however, "predestination" refers specifically to God's decision, made in eternity before the world existed, regarding the final destinies of individual persons. In general, the New Testament speaks of the predestination, or election, of particular sinners for salvation and eternal life (Rom. 8:29; Eph. 1:4, 5, 11), although Scripture also on occasion ascribes to God an advance decision about those who are finally not saved (Rom. 9:6–29; 1 Pet. 2:8; Jude 4). For this reason it is usual in Protestant theology to define predestination as including both God's decision to save some from sin (election) and the corresponding decision not to save others (reprobation).

It is sometimes asserted that God's choice of individuals for salvation is based on His foreknowledge that they would choose Christ as their Savior. Foreknowledge in this case means passive foresight by God of what individuals will do apart from His foreordaining their action. But there are weighty objections to the view that election is based on passive foresight.

"Foreknow" in Rom. 8:29; 11:2 (cf. 1 Pet. 1:2; 20) indicates not only an advance recognition, but also an advance choice by God of His people. It does not express the idea of a spectator's passive anticipation of what will happen spontaneously. God's "knowledge" of His people in Scripture implies a special relationship of loving choice (Gen. 18:19).

Since all are naturally dead in sin (cut off from the life of God and unresponsive to Him), no one who hears the gospel will ever come to repentance and faith without the inner renewal that only God can impart (Eph. 2:4–10). Jesus said, "No one can come to Me unless it has been granted to him by My Father" (John 6:65, cf. 6:44; 10:25–28). Sinners choose Christ because God chose them first, and moved them to their choice by graciously renewing their hearts.

Though all human acts are free in the sense of an immediate self-determination, such acts are also the outworking of God's eternal purpose and foreordination. We have difficulty understanding precisely how divine sovereignty and human freedom and responsibility are compatible, but Scripture everywhere assumes that they are so (Acts 2:23; 4:28 and notes).

Christians should thank God for their conversion, look to Him to keep them in His grace, and wait with confidence for His final triumph, according to His plan. See "Election and Reprobation" at Rom. 9:18 and "Effectual Calling and Conversion" at 2 Thess. 2:14.□

■ 1:5 beyond the border of Israel. God is the sovereign Lord of history, whose redemptive purposes are accomplished both inside and outside ancient Israel (v. 11; Gen. 12:3).

■ 1:6—2:9 A major reason for the Lord's anger with Israel is the priesthood's attitude toward God's name at the altar and toward God's law in teaching and judging. At the altar they offered diseased or imperfect animals in sacrifice, thereby reversing the intent of their labors and bringing curse and defilement where they should have brought blessing and cleansing. In their teaching and judging they violated the covenant with Levi (2:8), showing partiality and causing many to stumble.

■ 1:6 honor. God is in Himself infinitely glorious, and He must receive the recognition of His people (Ps. 29:1, 2; 57:5, 11).

despise. The opposite of honoring and fearing the Lord (cf. 2 Sam. 12:9, 10). The word is used often in Proverbs (1:7; 15:20; 23:22).

And if I am a Master,
Where is My reverence?
Says the LORD of hosts
To you priests who despise My name.
[h] Yet you say, 'In what way have we despised Your name?'

7 "You offer [i] defiled food on My altar,
But say,
'In what way have we defiled You?'
By saying,
[j] 'The table of the LORD is [3] contemptible.'
8 And [k] when you offer the blind as a sacrifice,
Is it not evil?
And when you offer the lame and sick,
Is it not evil?
Offer it then to your governor!
Would he be pleased with you?
Would he [l] accept [4] you favorably?"
Says the LORD of hosts.

9 "But now entreat God's favor,
That He may be gracious to us.
[m] While this is being done by your hands,
Will He accept you favorably?"
Says the LORD of hosts.
10 "Who is there even among you who would shut the doors,
[n] So that you would not kindle fire on My altar in vain?
I have no pleasure in you,"
Says the LORD of hosts,
[o] "Nor will I accept an offering from your hands.
11 For [p] from the rising of the sun, even to its going down,
My name shall be great [q] among the Gentiles;
[r] In every place [s] incense shall be offered to My name,
And a pure offering;
[t] For My name shall be great among the nations,"
Says the LORD of hosts.

12 "But you profane it,
In that you say,
[u] 'The table of the [5] LORD is defiled;
And its fruit, its food, is contemptible.'
13 You also say,
'Oh, what a [v] weariness!'
And you sneer at it,"
Says the LORD of hosts.
"And you bring the stolen, the lame, and the sick;
Thus you bring an offering!
[w] Should I accept this from your hand?"
Says the LORD.

■ 1:7 defiled food. The reference is to animal sacrifices (v. 8). "Defiled" means ceremonially unclean and therefore unacceptable. God is not offended merely by ceremonial imperfections but by the attitude of contempt behind such imperfect sacrifices (Gen. 4:3–5 and notes; Heb. 11:4).

The table of the LORD. This phrase, and the similar phrase in v. 12 (text note), occur only here in the Old Testament, both times referring to the altar.

■ 1:8 the lame and sick. The law expressly prohibited such offerings (Lev. 22:22; Deut. 15:21).

■ 1:11 My name shall be great among the Gentiles. God promises the future triumph of His glorious kingdom. "From the rising of the sun even to its going down," and similar phrases, often point to God's future judgment of the world and the restoration of His order (Ps. 50:1; Is. 45:6; 59:19).

In every place. The imperfect sacrifices being offered during the prophet's time (vv. 7, 8) are contrasted with the pure offerings of worship in the future (Is. 2:2–4; 66:19–21; Zech. 14:16–21). The promise of this verse is being fulfilled even now as Christ gathers His kings and priests from among the nations (Rev. 5:9, 10), and it will be consummated in the future as the nations gather to worship God in purity (Rev. 21:27).

14 "But cursed be [x]the deceiver
Who has in his flock a male,
And takes a vow,
But sacrifices to the Lord [y]what is blemished—
For [z]I am a great King,"
Says the LORD of hosts,
"And My name is to be feared among the nations.

Corrupt Priests

2 "And now, O [a]priests, this commandment is for you.
[2b]If you will not hear,
And if you will not take it to heart,
To give glory to My name,"
Says the LORD of hosts,
"I will send a curse upon you,
And I will curse your blessings.
Yes, I have cursed them [c]already,
Because you do not take it to heart.

3 "Behold, I will rebuke your descendants
And spread [d]refuse on your faces,
The refuse of your solemn feasts;
And one will [e]take you away [f]with it.
4 Then you shall know that I have sent this commandment to you,
That My covenant with Levi may continue,"
Says the LORD of hosts.
5 "My[g] covenant was with him, one of life and peace,
And I gave them to him [g]that he might fear Me;
So he feared Me
And was reverent before My name.
6 [h]The[2] law of truth was in his mouth,
And [3]injustice was not found on his lips.
He walked with Me in peace and equity,
And [i]turned many away from iniquity.

7 "For[j] the lips of a priest should keep knowledge,
And people should seek the law from his mouth;
[k]For he is the messenger of the LORD of hosts.
8 But you have departed from the way;
You [l]have caused many to stumble at the law.
[m]You have corrupted the covenant of Levi,"
Says the LORD of hosts.
9 "Therefore [n]I also have made you contemptible and base
Before all the people,

■ 1:14 cursed be the deceiver. Laws regulating voluntary offerings required the giving of a perfect offering. This text implies an attempt to deceive the Lord (cf. Ps. 76:11).

I am a great King. God is not only their Father (1:6; Ex. 4:22) and their Master, but also their King. The idea of God as King arose early in Old Testament religion (Num. 23:21; 24:7; Deut. 33:5). See Ps. 93—100.

■ 2:2 I will send a curse upon you. See Deut. 28:20.

I will curse your blessings. The blessings are either the physical and material blessings promised to the priests who received the peoples' tithes (Num. 18:21), or the pronouncements of blessing uttered by the priests at the time of the sacrifices (Num. 6:24–27), which then would become a curse.

■ 2:5 one of life and peace. The central thrust of Deuteronomy is to show the connection between covenant obedience and life. Commitment to God leads to a full life. Some see in "covenant of . . . peace" an allusion to the covenant with Phinehas mentioned in Num. 25:10–13.

■ 2:7 lips of a priest should keep knowledge. See Ezra 7:10; Hos. 4:6. The connection between the true knowledge of the Lord and priestly instruction in the law is set forth vividly in 2 Chr. 15:3: "For a long time Israel has been without the true God, without a teaching priest, and without law."

■ 2:8 you have departed from the way. See Neh. 13:29. The priests' attitudes and actions set a bad example for the people. They abandoned their true calling, both to teach and practice the truth.

■ 2:9 shown partiality in the law. The basis for this censure is the character of God. God "shows no partiality nor takes a bribe" (Deut. 10:17; cf. Lev. 19:15). Possibly the priests were favoring the rich and powerful of society.

Because you have not kept My ways
But have shown [o]partiality in the law."

Treachery of Infidelity

10 [p]Have we not all one Father?
[q]Has not one God created us?
Why do we deal treacherously with one another
By profaning the covenant of the fathers?
11 Judah has dealt treacherously,
And an abomination has been committed in Israel and in Jerusalem,
For Judah has [r]profaned
The LORD's holy institution which He loves:
He has married the daughter of a foreign god.
12 May the LORD cut off from the tents of Jacob
The man who does this, being [s]awake and aware,
Yet [s]who brings an offering to the LORD of hosts!

13 And this is the second thing you do:
You cover the altar of the LORD with tears,
With weeping and crying;
So He does not regard the offering anymore,
Nor receive it with goodwill from your hands.
14 Yet you say, "For what reason?"
Because the LORD has been witness
Between you and [t]the wife of your youth,
With whom you have dealt treacherously;
[u]Yet she is your companion
And your wife by covenant.
15 But [v]did He not make them one,
Having a remnant of the Spirit?
And why one?
He seeks [w]godly offspring.
Therefore take heed to your spirit,
And let none deal treacherously with the wife of his youth.

16 "For [x]the LORD God of Israel says
That He hates divorce,
For it covers one's garment with violence,"
Says the LORD of hosts.
"Therefore take heed to your spirit,
That you do not deal treacherously."

■ 2:10–16 Lack of faithfulness toward God leads to breakdowns in human relationships. Malachi addresses two problems. Marriage to idolatrous wives (vv. 10–12) and the divorcing of Israelite wives (vv. 13–16) are sternly rebuked.

■ 2:10 one Father. Some interpret this as referring to Abraham (Is. 51:2). More likely it refers to God (1:6; Ex. 4:22, 23; Deut. 32:6; Is. 63:16; 64:8; Jer. 3:4, 19; 31:9).

■ 2:11 dealt treacherously. This verb is used five times in vv. 10–16. It is used in Jer. 3:20 to refer to marital unfaithfulness.

an abomination. The Hebrew word here, prominently employed in Deuteronomy, refers to idolatrous religious practices (Deut. 7:25, 26; 12:31; 13:14; 18:12). It can also refer to sexual transgression (Lev. 18:22, 26, 29, 30; Deut. 24:4).

profaned The LORD's holy institution. The Hebrew word translated "holy institution" can also be understood as referring to the people themselves ("holy seed," Is. 6:13; Ezra 9:2). It is the people who are loved by God and who defile themselves by disobedience in their marriage practices.

married the daughter of a foreign god. This phrase refers to marrying a woman still committed to a foreign god—an idolater outside the covenant (cf. Gen. 24:3, 4; Ex. 34:12–16; Deut. 7:3, 4; Josh. 23:12; 1 Kin. 11:1–10). The prohibition against marriage with unbelievers continues in the New Testament (1 Cor. 7:39; 2 Cor. 6:14).

■ 2:14 wife of your youth. See v. 15; Prov. 5:18.

your wife by covenant. God's covenant faithfulness is to be mirrored in the marriage relationships of His people (Prov. 2:17; Eph. 5:22–33).

■ 2:16 He hates divorce. See Is. 50:1; Deut. 24:1–4; theological note "Marriage and Divorce."

Marriage and Divorce

Marriage is an exclusive relationship in which a man and a woman commit themselves to each other in covenant for life, and on the basis of this solemn vow become "one flesh" (Gen. 2:24; Mal. 2:14; Matt. 19:4–6).

The Westminster Confession (XXIV.2) states: "Marriage was ordained for the mutual help of husband and wife, for the increase of mankind with a legitimate issue, and of the church with an holy seed; and for preventing of uncleanness" (sexual license and immorality; Gen. 1:28; 2:18; 1 Cor. 7:2–9). God's ideal for marriage is that the man and the woman should complete each other (Gen. 2:23) and share in the creative work of making new people. Marriage is for Christians and non-Christians, but it is God's will that His people should marry only fellow believers (1 Cor. 7:39; cf. 2 Cor. 6:14; Ezra 9; 10; Neh. 13:23–27). Intimacy in its deepest dimension is impossible when the partners are not united in faith.

Paul uses Christ's relationship to His church to explain what Christian marriage is, so as to highlight the husband's special responsibility as the wife's leader and protector, and the wife's calling to accept her husband in that role (Eph. 5:21–33). The distinction of roles does not imply that the wife is an inferior person. As God's image-bearers, both man and wife have equal dignity and value, and they must fulfill their roles with a mutual respect grounded in recognition of this fact.

God hates divorce (Mal. 2:16), yet He provided a procedure for it that would protect the divorced wife (Deut. 24:1–4). This provision was made "because of the hardness of your hearts" (Matt. 19:8). The most natural understanding of Jesus' teaching (Matt. 5:31, 32; 19:8, 9) is that adultery, the sin of marital unfaithfulness, destroys the marriage covenant and warrants divorce (though reconciliation would be preferable), and that he who divorces his wife for any lesser reason becomes guilty of adultery when he remarries, and drives the woman into adultery if she remarries. The principle is that all cases of divorce and remarriage involve a disruption of God's ideal for the sexual relationship. When asked when divorce is lawful, Jesus replied that divorce is always deplorable (Matt. 19:3–6), but He did not deny that hearts continue to be hard, and that divorce, though an evil, may sometimes be permitted.

Paul says that a Christian who is deserted by an unbelieving partner is not "under bondage" (1 Cor. 7:15). This evidently means that the Christian may regard the relationship as finished. Whether this confers the right of remarriage has been disputed, and Reformed opinion has long been divided on the matter.

The Westminster Confession (XXIV.5, 6) states with cautious wisdom what Reformed Christians, reflecting on the Scriptures noted above, have down the centuries found themselves agreed on regarding divorce:

> In the case of adultery after marriage, it is lawful for the innocent party to sue out a divorce, and, after the divorce, to marry another, as if the offending party were dead.
> Although the corruption of man be such as is apt to study arguments unduly to put asunder those whom God hath joined together in marriage; yet, nothing but adultery, or such wilful desertion as can no way be remedied by the church, or civil magistrate, is cause sufficient of dissolving the bond of marriage: wherein, a public and orderly course of proceeding is to be observed; and the persons concerned in it not left to their own wills, and discretion, in their own case. □

■ 2:17—3:5 Religious cynics charge the Lord with injustice. God responds with the promise that He will send a messenger to prepare the way before Him and then return to His temple. His presence among a wicked people requires judgment and gracious refinement (3:2, 3). He will change the Levites' hearts and they will then offer sacrifices in righteousness once again. The judgment will be exacting (3:5). The Lord Himself will be the chief witness for the prosecution of His people.

The Coming Messenger

3 "Behold, [a]I send My messenger,
And he will [b]prepare the way before Me.
And the Lord, whom you seek,
Will suddenly come to His temple,
[c]Even the Messenger of the covenant,
In whom you delight.
Behold, [d]He is coming,"
Says the LORD of hosts.

2 "But who can endure [e]the day of His coming?
And [f]who can stand when He appears?
For [g]He is like a refiner's fire
And like launderers' soap.

3 [h]He will sit as a refiner and a purifier of silver;
He will purify the sons of Levi,
And [j]purge them as gold and silver,
That they may [i]offer to the LORD
An offering in righteousness.

■ 2:17 wearied the LORD. See Is. 43:24. In Malachi the offenses revolve around the cynical rejection of God's moral government and the attendant insolent spirit that constantly puts God on trial.

■ 3:1–5 This section rebuts the two cynical statements of 2:17. The allegation that God does not differentiate between good and evil is answered in v. 2 by referring to the refining and purifying ministry of the Messenger of the covenant. The second statement, "Where is the God of justice?" (2:17), is answered in v. 5. The Jews were looking for the Lord to judge the nations, but instead the Lord will come near to them for judgment (v. 5).

■ 3:1 My messenger. See 4:5; also Is. 40:3 (where "prepare the way" also occurs). It was the practice in the Near East to send messengers in advance of a visiting king to announce his coming and to remove all hindrances or obstacles. This messenger (Matt. 11:10) will be the last of his kind to appear before the coming of the Lord, who is "the Messenger of the covenant."

suddenly. This word is almost always associated in Scripture with an unhappy and calamitous circumstance (Num. 12:4; Is. 47:11; cf. 2 Pet. 3:10).

the Messenger of the covenant. A person distinct from "My messenger," He will purify the sacrifices, the priests, and the nation (vv. 2–5). This "Messenger of the covenant" is the Messiah, and this prophecy is fulfilled in Jesus who alone has performed the perfect sacrifice on behalf of His people.

■ 3:3 He will purify the sons of Levi. The priests had been instrumental in leading the people astray. The work of purification will begin with them, and it will spread from them to the whole of the nation. The Levites were the pattern for the nation, which was to be "a kingdom of priests" (Ex. 19:6).

offering in righteousness. See 1:11, "a pure offering." Because of the work of the Messenger of the covenant, proper worship will again be offered, since the hearts and lives of the offerers will be purified (Ps. 4:5; Zeph. 3:9).

The Coming of Christ (3:1)

Malachi's Prophecy	Confirmed in the New Testament
As Messenger of the covenant, Christ comes to His temple (3:1) and purifies His people (3:3).	Christ cleanses the temple (John 2:14–17) and purifies His own people (Titus 2:14).
His coming brings judgment (4:1).	Christ's coming brings judgment as well as salvation (Matt. 3:10–12; Rev. 20:11–15).
As the Sun of Righteousness, Christ heals His people (4:2).	Christ heals the multitudes; ultimately all sickness will pass away (Matt. 12:15; Rev. 21:4).
His forerunner prepares for the coming of the Lord (3:1; 4:5).	John the Baptist announces Christ (Matt. 11:10–14).

4 "Then [j]the offering of Judah and Jerusalem
Will be [2]pleasant to the LORD,
As in the days of old,
As in former years.
5 And I will come near you for judgment;
I will be a swift witness
Against sorcerers,
Against adulterers,
[k]Against perjurers,
Against those who [l]exploit wage earners and [m]widows and orphans,
And against those who turn away an alien—
Because they do not fear Me,"
Says the LORD of hosts.

6 "For I am the LORD, [n]I do not change;
[o]Therefore you are not consumed, O sons of Jacob.
7 Yet from the days of [p]your fathers
You have gone away from My ordinances
And have not kept them.
[q]Return to Me, and I will return to you,"
Says the LORD of hosts.
[r]"But you said,
'In what way shall we return?'

Do Not Rob God

8 "Will a man rob God?
Yet you have robbed Me!
But you say,
'In what way have we robbed You?'
[s]In tithes and offerings.
9 You are cursed with a curse,
For you have robbed Me,
Even this whole nation.
10 [t]Bring all the tithes into the [u]storehouse,
That there may be food in My house,
And try Me now in this,"
Says the LORD of hosts,
"If I will not open for you the [v]windows of heaven
And [w]pour out for you such blessing
That there will not be room enough to receive it.

11 "And I will rebuke [x]the devourer for your sakes,
So that he will not destroy the fruit of your ground,

■ 3:5 And I will come near you for judgment. This section began with the religious cynics accusing the Lord of injustice. It ends with a covenant lawsuit in which the Lord brings charges against His people. The specific sins mentioned in v. 5 are clearly forbidden in the law of God. The root cause of these sins is that "they do not fear Me."

■ 3:6–12 The people were not only bringing defective offerings but also were withholding the tithe, apparently due to the field's meager returns. But withholding the tithe is stealing from the Lord. As a consequence the righteous Lord withheld blessing. Their sin also evidenced a lack of trust in the Lord to provide for their needs if they kept His commands. So the Lord urges them to put Him to the test. If they did so the consequent provision would be so great that the nations would see the difference and pronounce Israel blessed.

■ 3:6 I do not change. The immutability, or unchangeable character, of God is seen in His purpose to bless His elect people. Thus they are not destroyed (Ex. 34:6, 7; Jer. 30:11).

■ 3:7 Return to Me, and I will return to you. The command to repent is connected with a promise (cf. Zech. 1:3; James 4:8). Sin separates man from God and causes God to hide His face (Is. 59:2).

■ 3:8 tithes. The word means a tenth. The practice of tithing is mentioned in the accounts of Abraham (Gen. 14:20) and Jacob (Gen. 28:22), and was codified in the law of Moses (Lev. 27:30; Num. 18:26; Deut. 14:22–29).

offerings. Portions of the animal sacrifices to which the priests were entitled (Ex. 29:27, 28; Lev. 9:22).

■ 3:10 storehouse. This term refers to a room in the temple designated for the storage of gifts (2 Chr. 31:11 text note; Neh. 10:38, 39; 12:44; 13:12).

try Me. This is a reversal of the ordinary biblical pattern, in which God typically tests human beings (Ps. 11:5; 26:2; 66:10; Prov. 17:3; Jer. 11:20; 12:3; 17:10). Only in a few instances are humans invited to test God (i.e., to prove His claims and justify His commands, Is. 7:11, 12; 1 Kin. 18:22–46).

windows of heaven. See Gen. 7:11.

Nor shall the vine fail to bear fruit for you in the field,"
Says the LORD of hosts;
12 And all nations will call you blessed,
For you will be [y]a delightful land,"
Says the LORD of hosts.

The People Complain Harshly

13 "Your[z] words have been [3]harsh against Me,"
Says the LORD,
"Yet you say,
'What have we spoken against You?'
14 [a]You have said,
'It is useless to serve God;
What profit is it that we have kept His ordinance,
And that we have walked as mourners
Before the LORD of hosts?
15 So now [b]we call the proud blessed,
For those who do wickedness are [4]raised up;
They even [c]tempt God and go free.' "

A Book of Remembrance

16 Then those [d]who feared the LORD [e]spoke to one another,
And the LORD listened and heard them;
So [f]a book of remembrance was written before Him
For those who fear the LORD
And who [5]meditate on His name.

17 "They[g] shall be Mine," says the LORD of hosts,
"On the day that I make them My [h]jewels.[6]
And [i]I will spare them
As a man spares his own son who serves him."
18 [j]Then you shall again discern
Between the righteous and the wicked,
Between one who serves God
And one who does not serve Him.

The Great Day of God

4 "For behold, [a]the day is coming,
Burning like an oven,
And all [b]the proud, yes, all who do wickedly will be [c]stubble.
And the day which is coming shall burn them up,"
Says the LORD of hosts,
"That will [d]leave them neither root nor branch.

■ 3:13—4:6 The last section returns to the prophecy in 3:1–5 concerning the forerunner (Matt. 11:10) and the coming of God. In various ways the beginning of the section is reminiscent of a lament psalm. The complaints, however, are interpreted as hard words against the Lord. Yet there were those who sensed the same injustices without concluding that it was futile to serve the Lord. The first group spoke hard words and brought the Lord's response; the latter feared the Lord and caused Him to write words of remembrance concerning them. He promised that they would be His special possession in the great day of the Lord.

A reference to "the day" (v. 17) again introduces the last day of judgment, a day of destruction for the wicked but healing for the righteous. The final verses return to the promised forerunner and exhort the people to keep the law of Moses.

■ 3:14 useless. The word means "empty" or "in vain."

profit. The Hebrew term usually refers to unjust gain. Greed is inconsistent with a desire for God's truth (Ps. 119:36).

■ 3:16 Then. The conversation and conduct of those who feared God is occasioned by the preceding words of murmuring and is placed in contrast to them.

book of remembrance. This exact phrase is found only here, but references to a special book are found elsewhere (Ex. 32:32; Ps. 69:28; Dan. 7:10).

■ 3:17 They shall be Mine. This phrase refers to the remnant described in v. 16.

My jewels. In the early stage of Old Testament revelation the nation of Israel is called God's "special treasure" (Ex. 19:5; Deut. 7:6; 14:2).

■ 4:1 shall burn them up. Two images of fire are used in Malachi to describe the Lord: a refining fire (3:2) and a destroying fire (4:1).

root nor branch. The wicked are compared to a tree (Amos 2:9) that will be consumed down to the roots, totally destroyed.

But to you who [e]fear My name
The [f]Sun of Righteousness shall arise
With healing in His wings;
And you shall go out
And grow fat like stall-fed calves.
3 [g]You shall trample the wicked,
For they shall be ashes under the soles of your feet
On the day that I do this,"
Says the LORD of hosts.

4 "Remember the [h]Law of Moses, My servant,
Which I commanded him in Horeb for all Israel,
With [i]the statutes and judgments.
5 Behold, I will send you [j]Elijah the prophet [k]Before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the LORD.
6 And he will turn
The hearts of the fathers to the children,
And the hearts of the children to their fathers,
Lest I come and [l]strike the earth with [m]a curse."

6 [l]Zech. 14:12 [m]Zech. 5:3

■ 4:2 Sun of Righteousness. An expression unique to Malachi (cf. Ps. 84:12). The Davidic king will reign in righteousness (Is. 32:1) and will be called "a Branch of righteousness" (Jer. 23:5, 6).

healing. The Bible considers physical sickness and spiritual sickness or sin to be analogous. Salvation is often compared to bodily healing (Ex. 15:26; 2 Chr. 7:14; Ps. 103:3; Is. 53:5; Jer. 17:14).

■ 4:5 Behold, I will send you Elijah the prophet. The literary connection of this verse with 3:1 indicates that "Elijah" is the same person as "My messenger." Both verses begin with the word "Behold," and use the same form of the verb "to send." In both cases the mission is to bring repentance in advance of the coming day of the Lord. The New Testament identifies this "Elijah" as John the Baptist (Matt. 11:14; 17:10; Mark 9:11–13; Luke 1:17).

■ 4:6 turn The hearts of the fathers to the children. Repentance and turning to God will be seen in the restoration of family relationships (Luke 1:17).

Lest I come and strike the earth with a curse. Malachi began with the announcement of God's electing love, yet the book ends with the threat of a curse. Malachi's dual thrust of mercy and judgment is echoed by Paul's pronouncement, "Therefore consider the goodness and severity of God" (Rom. 11:22).

roduction to the

INTERTESTAMENTAL PERIOD

As the history of the Old Testament drew to a close, the Hebrew community was chastened, divided, and expectant. It was chastened because the people recognized the grievous sin that led the Lord to judge them. It was divided. Many Jews had returned from exile and were worshiping God in Jerusalem, but many more had stayed in Persia, and still others had settled in Egypt and elsewhere. This scattering of the Jewish population is called the "Diaspora." But most of all, the people had not abandoned faith and hope. They knew the covenant promises of God to Abraham. They remembered the mighty arm of the Lord who redeemed His people from Egypt. And in them was developing an expectation for the Messiah who would accomplish God's saving purposes for His people and bring them the new Exodus they longed for.

Turning the page from the Book of Malachi to the first chapter of the New Testament is a leap of more than four hundred years. The Jews witnessed drastic changes in the surrounding cultures; inevitably, they too underwent serious internal transformation. The Persian Empire had given way to the whirlwind conquests of Alexander the Great. In the last third of the fourth century B.C., Alexander brought Greek culture, or "Hellenism," to the places he conquered, including much of the Middle East. After this, the affairs of the Jewish people were largely determined by confrontation with Greek culture.

The Ptolemies. Alexander the Great died in 323 B.C., and Palestine came under the rule of one of his Greek generals, Ptolemy, who also ruled Egypt. Little is known about life in Judea under the Ptolemies. Apparently, the Jews retained considerable freedom to practice their religion as well as a measure of self-rule under their own high priest. His office originally had a strictly religious purpose, but in the absence of a Jewish king, the office became the Jews' major political symbol. At the same time the community felt increasing pressure to adopt Greek ways of life.

The Jewish colony in Alexandria, Egypt, seems to have flourished under the Ptolemies. Being in the capital city of a pagan culture, however, the colony had a direct need to reckon with the new environment. Some Jewish intellectuals wanted to teach Gentiles the history of the Hebrews. Others attempted to combine biblical religion with Greek philosophy, a process that culminated some time later in the allegorical interpretations of Philo of Alexandria. Among various literary productions, the translation of the Pentateuch from Hebrew into Greek was completed late in the third century B.C. This work, along with the later translations of the other Old Testament books, is called the Septuagint (commonly abbreviated with the Roman numeral "LXX"), named for the seventy scholars who according to tradition participated in the original translation. The New Testament authors wrote in Greek, and they often used the Septuagint when quoting the Old Testament.

The Seleucids. Another of Alexander's generals, Seleucus, became ruler of an empire that eventually extended from the western coast of Asia Minor (modern Turkey) to Babylon and beyond in the east. The Seleucid Empire established its capital in Antioch of Syria, north of Palestine, and presented a continual challenge to the Ptolemaic rulers. Finally, in 198 B.C., the Seleucid ruler Antiochus III was able to occupy Palestine.

No doubt the Jews were affected immediately by this change, but it was with the accession of Antiochus IV in 175 B.C. that Judea entered one of the most difficult periods ever faced by any Hebrew community. Also known as Epiphanes ("God manifest"), Antiochus IV began to feel the threat of the Romans, who were slowly but surely advancing to the east. In an attempt to strengthen and unify his empire, Antiochus stepped up the process of Hellenizing Palestine.

Some Jews welcomed this development and embraced the new culture, in effect rejecting their religious identity. Such apostasy strengthened the resolve of other Jews to resist the policies of Antiochus. He did not understand the character of Judaism, and unleashed the terrors of religious persecution. Copies of the Hebrew Scriptures were burned, observance of the Sabbath was prohibited, circumcision was outlawed—and violators were put to death. In 167 B.C., Antiochus desecrated the Jewish temple by setting up a statue of Zeus and sacrificing pigs to it. Many Jews regarded this blasphemy as the fulfillment of the prophecy foretelling "the abomination of desolation" (Dan. 11:31; 12:11; cf. 9:27).

Shortly after this desecration, the Maccabean Revolt broke out. Under the leadership of Judas Maccabeus, or Judas the "Hammer," small bands of Jewish guerrilla fighters faced and repeatedly defeated large Seleucid armies. The Jews occupied Jerusalem and rededicated the Temple in 164 B.C. This event is still celebrated today in the Jewish feast of Hannukah. The history of these and some subsequent events is related in 1 Maccabees, one of the group of books known as the Apocrypha (or in the Roman Catholic Church, the Deuterocanonicals).

The Hasmoneans. Having tasted victory, the Jews were not happy with simply regaining the right to practice their religion. They fought to regain political freedom as well—something they had not enjoyed since their return from exile in Babylon in the sixth century B.C. After the death of Judas, his brothers Jonathan and Simon continued the war until 142, when Judea became independent and the Hasmonean dynasty was established. The name is derived from Hashmon, an ancestor of the Maccabees.

But the struggle with Hellenization was not over. Even before independence, Jonathan Maccabeus had taken over the office of high priest, despite his not belonging to the proper family (the line of Zadok). According to many scholars, it was this event that led a group of strict Jews to turn away from their nation and establish the Essene community of Qumran, near the Dead Sea. Considering themselves the true Israel, this community developed a monastic lifestyle. They interpreted the Old Testament prophecies as being fulfilled in their midst, and looked forward to a final and imminent war that would destroy God's enemies. An extensive collection of their literature—the Dead Sea Scrolls—was discovered in 1947.

The Hasmonean (Maccabean) rulers dominated the priesthood. They progressively adopted Greek ways of life. In general, they received the support of the Sadducees, an aristocratic group that sought to preserve political stability. This conservative "party" acknowledged only the Pentateuch as fully authoritative (while other books had a lesser authority) and on those grounds resisted the doctrine of the resurrection (cf. Matt. 22:23–33; Acts 23:6–8). The historical origin of the Sadducees, as well as that of the Pharisees, cannot be pinpointed. Both groups are first mentioned by the historian Josephus in connection with the rule of John Hyrcanus I (134–104 B.C.).

The Pharisees, though not primarily a political group, may be regarded as the party of the opposition for much of this period. They protested the inroads of Hellenization in Jewish life, developed an extensive oral tradition, and generally sought to preserve the purity regulations of Judaism. By means of their interpretations of the law, however, they altered many of the biblical requirements. This practice in effect lowered the standards of God's holiness and helped foster the illusion that people could please God by their own efforts (Mark 7:1–13; Luke 18:9–14).

The Romans. In spite of some periods of prosperity, the Hasmonean dynasty, torn by internal strife, was unable to resist the advance of the Romans. In 63 B.C., the Roman general Pompey occupied Jerusalem. Continuing unrest led the Romans to make Herod the king of Judea. He was an Idumean by birth, but also a Jewish proselyte. He ruled from 37 B.C. until his death in 4 B.C.

Herod was obedient to Rome and ruled efficiently. His building projects, such as the construction of an artificial port in Caesarea—an astonishing engineering feat—made him famous in the ancient world. Of particular importance was his rebuilding of the temple in Jerusalem, an ambitious venture that began in 20 B.C. and continued until long after his death (John 2:20). These and other accomplishments earned him his name "Herod the Great." Unfortunately, Herod's vices overshadowed his strengths. Egotistical, jealous, and distrustful, Herod at times was a madman, going so far as to murder some of his own children.

As the New Testament story begins, the Jews are subjected to a foreign power, ruled by an able but despotic figure, and still waiting for a salvation yet unfulfilled. □

THE

NEW TESTAMENT

Introduction to the

GOSPELS AND ACTS

Historical Background. When Jesus was born, Herod the Great was ruler of Judea and Samaria. Herod died in 4 B.C. and his kingdom passed to his son Archelaus (Matt. 2:19–22). Archelaus was guilty of misrule and was banished in A.D. 6. As a result, Judea and Samaria came directly under Roman administration through a series of governors or prefects, later known as procurators. Pontius Pilate was procurator of Judea during the ministry of Jesus.

The province of Galilee, where Jesus lived, had been given by Herod the Great to another of his sons, Herod Antipas (Matt. 14:1–12; Luke 23:6–15). In A.D. 39 Galilee passed to Herod Agrippa, a grandson of Herod the Great. A childhood friend of Agrippa was now the Roman emperor Claudius, and he made Agrippa king of Judea and Samaria as well. Agrippa was popular with the Jews, but his reign was short. He persecuted the apostles, and when he did not refuse to be praised as if he were a god, he was punished with sickness and died (A.D. 44; Acts 12:1–4, 19–23).

Agrippa's territory reverted to Roman governors, though a small portion was given to Agrippa II (Acts 25:13—26:32). Tensions between Judea and Rome increased during this period and led to a revolt in A.D. 66. The ensuing war was disastrous for the Jewish nation. In A.D. 70 Jerusalem was destroyed with terrible suffering.

The Character of New Testament Narrative. Like the historical writings of the Old Testament, the Gospels and Acts do not provide us with every historical detail we might be interested in. The events included were carefully selected to present clearly and powerfully the message of the gospel.

It has long been noticed that the Gospels are not ordinary biographies. Two of them say nothing about Jesus' birth, and only one event from His youth has been recorded (Luke 2:41–52). Unlike what one would expect from a biography, a large proportion of each Gospel is devoted to the last week of Jesus' ministry. In the Book of Acts, only two apostles, Peter and Paul, are prominent. Moreover, the author gives about as much space to two "unproductive" years of imprisonment in Paul's life as he does to the apostle's three missionary journeys, which lasted at least seven years. Clearly, these books were not written to satisfy our curiosity but to proclaim a message.

When reading the New Testament narratives, therefore, we should make a special effort to determine why particular events were included. A detail that may seem insignificant at first sight (e.g., Paul's vow recorded in Acts 18:18) may subsequently prove quite important (Acts 21:20–24). Moreover, it is significant that God has given us four Gospels and not only one. Since many events in Jesus' life are recorded in more than one Gospel, we can discern their significance by reading about them in several books, each of which has its own theological points of emphasis.

The Synoptic Problem. Even a quick reading of the four Gospels reveals that three of them (Matthew, Mark, and Luke) are alike, especially when contrasted with John. With a few important exceptions, the events and teachings included in John (e.g., chs. 3; 9; 11; 14) are not found in the first three Gospels, while these three have much material in common and share a similar perspective. For these reasons, the first three Gospels are called the "Synoptics."

A more detailed comparison, however, reveals a wide variety of differences as well as similarities. Sometimes the material recorded is exactly alike, while at other times there are minor verbal differences. In some cases the order of events is the same, but often it is not. From a literary point of view, these facts raise difficult questions. How did the Gospels originate? Did their authors use each other's work, and did they have other materials available to them?

The prevailing answer to these questions is that Mark was the first Gospel and that Matthew and Luke followed its outline (Mark 2:1–22; cf. Matt. 9:2–17; Luke 5:18–38). But Matthew and Luke have in common some important material not found in Mark (e.g., Matt. 7:24–27; Luke 6:47–49). This is explained by the suggestion that a second document, no longer extant, was used by these two writers. This solution is known as the "Two-Source Theory." In addition, clearly Matthew and Luke each had access to much unique information found only in their Gospels.

This proposal cannot account for all the facts, and alternate theories have been suggested. Some argue for the priority of Matthew rather than Mark; a few suggest that Luke was written first. Some have even argued that John was first. A number of scholars emphasize an oral tradition that must have preceded the writing of these documents, downplaying their literary interdependence. Most New Testament specialists continue to use the Two-Source approach as a working hypothesis but recognize that many questions remain unanswered.

Ultimately, God's guidance through inspiration was the controlling factor. God used historical developments as well as the personal research of the Gospel writers to accomplish His purposes (cf. Luke 1:1–4). Scholarly work on history and literature should therefore not be despised, since it often sheds light on the text. On the other hand, our confidence in the truth of Scripture does not rest on the ability of specialists to sort out literary problems, but on God's power to fulfill His promises (Is. 55:10, 11; 2 Tim. 3:16, 17).□

The Gospel According to

MATTHEW

Author Although this Gospel does not name its author, some early manuscripts have the inscription "according to Matthew," and Eusebius (c. A.D. 260–340) tells us that the early church father Papias (c. A.D. 60–130) spoke of Matthew as having arranged the "oracles" about Jesus. Subsequent tradition is unanimous that the disciple Matthew, also called Levi (9:9–13; Mark 2:13–17), was the author of this Gospel, and not until the eighteenth century was this tradition doubted.

There are some problems with the tradition. First, Papias apparently said that Matthew "arranged the oracles in the Hebrew dialect." This statement seems to indicate that Matthew wrote in Hebrew or Aramaic, and scholars point out that Matthew does not read like a translation from these languages. It is also quite similar to Mark (see "Introduction to the Gospels and Acts"), which was certainly written in Greek. It is possible that Matthew wrote in both Hebrew and Greek, much as Calvin wrote works in both Latin and French.

Secondly, since Papias did not say "gospel" but "oracles," some have identified these "oracles" as one of the sources lying behind our Gospels. But Eusebius appears to have understood "oracles" to mean "gospel," and Irenaeus (writing about A.D. 180) speaks of a "gospel" by Matthew written "for the Hebrews in their own dialect."

Other objections to Matthew's authorship are more speculative. Some suggest that the Gospel may have been the product of a group of writers ("school"). Its alleged dependence on Mark and supposedly late composition (see "Date and Occasion") are given as reasons to doubt Matthew's authorship. But these objections do not disprove the tradition that Matthew was the sole author.

Since the author did not identify himself, he probably thought that it was not essential for his readers to know his name. Working through the human author was the primary Author, the Holy Spirit.

Date and Occasion The earliest reference to the Gospel of Matthew is probably in the Epistle to the Smyrnaeans by Ignatius of Antioch (c. A.D. 110). Almost no one dates the book later than A.D. 100. Some scholars have dated it as early as A.D. 50, but many critics date it after the destruction of Jerusalem, usually between 80 and 100. Their reasons include the assumption that Jesus could not have predicted such future events as the destruction of Jerusalem, the view that the Gospel's trinitarian theology (28:19) and exalted christology (11:27) are late ideas that developed in a Hellenistic environment, and the assertion that the word "Rabbi" (mentioned in 23:5–10) was not used as a title before A.D. 70.

Some of these reasons, such as that Jesus could not have predicted the future or that a high christology is Hellenistic and therefore late, are highly dubious and reflect a rejection of supernatural revelation. Further, there is some evidence in the context of the book that Matthew was written before the destruction of Jerusalem in A.D. 70. The Gospel warns against the Sadducees, a group that rapidly declined from prominence after A.D. 70 and ultimately ceased to exist. The language used to describe the destruction of Jerusalem in ch. 24 reflects Old Testament prophecies of the divine judgment that Jesus foresaw as connected with the coming of His kingdom. There is no need to explain the content of ch. 24 as the author's memory of a historical event.

The writer of this Gospel probably used the Gospel of Mark. Assuming that Mark was composed with the help of the apostle Peter in Rome, an appropriate date for Matthew would be between A.D. 64 and 70.

Antioch in Syria is the most likely location for the writing of the Gospel and for the church for which it was originally composed. Ignatius, the earliest writer to quote Matthew, was bishop of Antioch. The congregation in Antioch was of mixed Jewish and Gentile origin (Acts 15), and this would account for the problems of legalism and antinomianism that Matthew particularly addresses.

Characteristics and Themes Like all the Gospels, Matthew's purpose is to convey authoritative teaching by and about Jesus, whose coming marks the fulfillment of God's promises and the presence of God's kingdom. Matthew makes no division between history and theology. His history is the basis of the theology, and the theology gives its proper meaning to the history.

Matthew makes extensive use of "fulfillment" references to the Old Testament. His citations are not presented as isolated predictions and fulfillments, but as proof of the fulfillment of all the expectations of the Old Testament. This concern affects the way Matthew stresses certain elements in the history. Matthew shows us the illegality of the Sanhedrin's actions in the trial of Jesus (26:57–68), the distortion of the Old Testament by the scribes and Pharisees (15:1–9), and the covenantal nature of God's dealing with His people.

Also distinctive to Matthew is his presentation of the teaching of Jesus in five major discourses: ethics, discipleship and mission, the kingdom of heaven, the church, and the end time. These five divisions may have been patterned after the five books of Moses, to present Jesus as the Prophet like Moses of Deut. 18:18. Most scholars today recognize the five teaching discourses as the key to Matthew's basic design, especially since each discourse ends with an expression such as, "And when Jesus had ended these sayings" (7:28). Further, there seems to be a relationship between each discourse and the narrative preceding it. Also note that the narrative portions deal primarily with the question of the King's identity, while the discourse material tends to focus on the King's people.

Interpretive Difficulties Scholars today are in general agreement that both Matthew and Luke made use of the Gospel of Mark in writing their own Gospels (see "Introduction to the Gospels and Acts"). However, Matthew and Luke do not follow Mark at every point in the order of events of Jesus' life, or the order of His teachings. Matthew and Luke have some material in common not found in Mark, but here too they differ in its placement within Jesus' ministry.

To understand the chronology of the Gospels it is important to note that Mark's own account is not a complete diary. John reports that Jesus visited Jerusalem several times during a period of about three years, while in Mark the events are presented in what appears to be one year ending with a single, climactic visit to Jerusalem. In other words, the Holy Spirit had already led Mark in selecting and presenting the events of Jesus' ministry in a particular way. Matthew and Luke similarly were led by the Spirit in their own selection and presentation of events.

The Gospels do not simply present a schedule of Jesus' activities. Nor are they modern, technical biographies that follow methods unknown in their own day. The three Synoptic Gospels are individual and complementary works; they are not three incomplete attempts to do the same task. They are spiritual books; together with the Gospel of John they offer Jesus Christ, the incarnate Word, to all generations. □

■ 1:1 book of the genealogy. The same phrase is used at Gen. 2:4; 5:1 in the Septuagint, the Greek translation of the Old Testament in common use following 150 B.C. Here it may refer not only to the genealogy immediately following, but to the account of Jesus' birth or the Gospel as a whole also.

Christ. This title comes from the Greek word Christos, meaning "anointed." "Messiah" represents the Hebrew word for "anointed"; see note on 1 Sam. 2:10. In the Old Testament, anointing with oil could be performed for the office of prophet, priest, or king (Ex. 29:7; 1 Sam. 16:13; 1 Kin. 19:16). The Old Testament promises the coming of the righteous Servant of the Lord (Is. 42:1–9), who will be a prophet like Moses (Deut. 18:18, 19), a priest like Melchizedek (Ps. 110:4), and a king like David, the Lord's anointed (Is. 55:3–5; Jer. 30:9; Ezek. 34:24; Hos. 3:5; Zech. 12:8). Matthew reveals that Jesus is the Christ, the promised King and Deliverer.

■ 1:2 The specifics of this genealogy differ from the one found in Luke; see note on Luke 3:23–38.

■ 1:3–16 Women are not usually named in Near Eastern genealogies, but they are intrinsic to God's purpose in sending Christ. The five women named in Jesus' genealogy all remind us that God often does the unexpected and chooses the unlikely. Tamar (v. 3) reminds us of Judah's failures (Gen. 38:6–30); Rahab (v. 5) was a harlot (Josh. 2); Ruth was a Moabite (Ruth 1:4) and thus subject to a special curse (Deut. 23:3–5); Uriah's wife Bathsheba (v. 6) was David's downfall (2 Sam. 11). Mary fulfills Is. 7:14 (v. 23), and the even more important promise of Gen. 3:15 (Gal. 4:4).

[k]David the king begot Solomon by her [2]who had been the wife of Uriah. 7 [l]Solomon begot Rehoboam, Rehoboam begot [m]Abijah, and Abijah begot [3]Asa. 8 Asa begot [n]Jehoshaphat, Jehoshaphat begot Joram, and Joram begot [o]Uzziah. 9 Uzziah begot Jotham, Jotham begot [p]Ahaz, and Ahaz begot Hezekiah. 10 [q]Hezekiah begot Manasseh, Manasseh begot [4]Amon, and Amon begot [r]Josiah. 11 [s]Josiah begot [5]Jeconiah and his brothers about the time they were [t]carried away to Babylon.

12 And after they were brought to Babylon, [u]Jeconiah begot Shealtiel, and Shealtiel begot [v]Zerubbabel. 13 Zerubbabel begot Abiud, Abiud begot Eliakim, and Eliakim begot Azor. 14 Azor begot Zadok, Zadok begot Achim, and Achim begot Eliud. 15 Eliud begot Eleazar, Eleazar begot Matthan, and Matthan begot Jacob. 16 And Jacob begot Joseph the husband of [w]Mary, of whom was born Jesus who is called Christ.

17 So all the generations from Abraham to David are fourteen generations, from David until the captivity in Babylon are fourteen generations, and from the captivity in Babylon until the Christ are fourteen generations.

Christ Born of Mary

18 Now the [x]birth of Jesus Christ was as follows: After His mother Mary was betrothed to Joseph, before they came together, she was found with child [y]of the Holy Spirit. 19 Then Joseph her husband, being [6]a just man, and not wanting [z]to make her a public example, was minded to put her away secretly. 20 But while he thought about these things, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared to him in a dream, saying, "Joseph, son of David, do not be afraid to take to you Mary your wife, [a]for that which is [7]conceived in her is of the Holy Spirit. 21 [b]And she will bring forth a Son, and you shall call His name [8]JESUS, [c]for He will save His people from their sins."

22 So all this was done that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the Lord through the prophet, saying: 23 [d]"Behold,[9] the virgin shall be with child, and bear a Son, and they shall call His name Immanuel," which is translated, "God with us."

24 Then Joseph, being aroused from sleep, did as the angel of the Lord commanded him and took to him his wife, 25 and [l]did not know her till she had brought forth [e]her[2] firstborn Son. And he called His name JESUS.

Wise Men from the East

2 Now after [a]Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea in the days of Herod the king, behold, [l]wise men [b]from the East came to Jerusalem, 2 saying, [c]"Where is He who has been born King of the Jews? For we have seen [d]His star in the East and have come to worship Him."

3 When Herod the king heard this, he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him. 4 And when he had gathered all [e]the chief priests and [f]scribes of the people together, [g]he inquired of them where the Christ was to be born.

5 So they said to him, "In Bethlehem of Judea, for thus it is written by the prophet:

6 [h]Mic. 5:2

■ 1:17 fourteen generations. Matthew organizes the genealogy into three groups of fourteen to show that God has a purpose in history. The early history leading to David, the monarchy leading to the Exile in Babylon, and the history of Israel after the Exile all lead up to, and point to Christ. Jeconiah (Jehoiachin) is included in both the second and third groups of fourteen; this enumeration is in keeping with Matthew's abbreviation of the genealogy (v. 5 cf. Josh. 2; v. 8 cf. 2 Chr. 21:4—26:13).

■ 1:19 Joseph . . . was minded to put her away. Engagement was almost as binding as marriage, and infidelity during betrothal made divorce almost obligatory.

■ 1:21 Jesus. The Greek equivalent of "Joshua," meaning "Yahweh is salvation," or "Yahweh saves." Often in names only the first syllable of God's name is used (e.g., Eli*jah;* Isa*iah;* Jo*shua*).

■ 1:23 virgin. See note on Is. 7:14. Jesus' conception by a virgin is miraculous, announcing that God will soon redeem His people and is present with them. This quotation is the first of a number of Old Testament references Matthew uses to show that Jesus fulfills the Old Testament (2:6, 15, 18, 23 and notes). In the entire Gospel there are twelve such fulfillment formulas, and more than fifty Old Testament quotations. See "The Virgin Birth of Jesus" at Luke 1:27.

■ 2:1 in the days of Herod the king. Herod the Great is known to have died in 4 B.C. Therefore Jesus was actually born in about 5 or 6 B.C. according to the standard dating of the Gregorian calendar.

wise men. The "Magi" were not kings, but priests or court advisers, such as Joseph or Daniel. They were probably from Mesopotamia, the region of ancient Babylon, although other locations east of Palestine have been suggested. There are numerous accounts of ancient astrologers interpreting astronomical phenomena as heralding the birth of kings.

■ 2:2 star. This may have been a planetary conjunction, a supernova, or something purely supernatural. Whatever the case, it alludes to the star of Jacob (Num. 24:17), which was prophesied by another Gentile, Balaam.

■ 2:6 The second line of the quotation in Matthew appears to say the opposite of the second line of Mic. 5:2 ("you are little"), but the sense is that though Bethlehem appears to be insignificant, it is in truth important. The religious experts concluded from the prophets that the Messiah was to be born in Bethlehem, but not one of them bothered to make the short journey with the Magi to see Christ.

For out of you shall come a Ruler
[i] Who will shepherd My people Israel.'"

[7] Then Herod, when he had secretly called the [2]wise men, determined from them what time the [j]star appeared. [8] And he sent them to Bethlehem and said, "Go and search carefully for the young Child, and when you have found Him, bring back word to me, that I may come and worship Him also."

[9] When they heard the king, they departed; and behold, the star which they had seen in the East went before them, till it came and stood over where the young Child was. [10] When they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceedingly great joy. [11] And when they had come into the house, they saw the young Child with Mary His mother, and fell down and worshiped Him. And when they had opened their treasures, [k]they presented gifts to Him: gold, frankincense, and myrrh.

[12] Then, being divinely warned [l]in a dream that they should not return to Herod, they departed for their own country another way.

The Flight into Egypt

[13] Now when they had departed, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared to Joseph in a dream, saying, "Arise, take the young Child and His mother, flee to Egypt, and stay there until I bring you word; for Herod will seek the young Child to destroy Him."

[14] When he arose, he took the young Child and His mother by night and departed for Egypt, [15] and was there until the death of Herod, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the Lord through the prophet, saying, [m]"Out of Egypt I called My Son."

Massacre of the Innocents

[16] Then Herod, when he saw that he was deceived by the wise men, was exceedingly angry; and he sent forth and put to death all the male children who were in Bethlehem and in all its districts, from two years old and under, according to the time which he had determined from the wise men. [17] Then was fulfilled what was spoken by Jeremiah the prophet, saying:

18 "[n]A voice was heard in Ramah,
Lamentation, weeping, and great mourning,
Rachel weeping for her children,

■ 2:11 house. Jesus was no longer in a stable (Luke 2:7). This visit was some time after the birth (v. 1), perhaps a year or more (cf. v. 16). Although the Magi could scarcely have realized the full symbolic value of their gifts, Matthew records them to show the fulfillment of Old Testament passages where the Gentiles bring their wealth to Israel's king (Ps. 72:10; Is. 60:6).

■ 2:15 fulfilled. Hos. 11:1 refers to God's calling His son Israel out of Egypt in the Exodus. Matthew means that the history of God's redemption of Israel points forward to Jesus, the true Son of God.

■ 2:18 Matthew is quoting from Jer. 31:15, from a prophecy about the return of Israel from exile. Rachel, the mother, represents all Israel in her weeping, and the departure of Christ to Egypt is like the departure of Rachel's sons, Joseph and Benjamin, to Egypt (Gen. 37:28; 43:15).

The Journeys of Jesus' Birth. The decree of Caesar Augustus required Mary and Joseph, who were from Nazareth, to register for the census in the Judean city of Bethlehem (Luke 2:1–5). After the wise men from the East had visited to worship the Child, Joseph heeded the warning of the angel of the Lord and took his family to Egypt, where they remained until the death of Herod the Great.

Refusing to be comforted,
Because they are no more."

The Home in Nazareth

19 Now when Herod was dead, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared in a dream to Joseph in Egypt, 20 [o]saying, "Arise, take the young Child and His mother, and go to the land of Israel, for those who [p]sought the young Child's life are dead." 21 Then he arose, took the young Child and His mother, and came into the land of Israel.

22 But when he heard that Archelaus was reigning over Judea instead of his father Herod, he was afraid to go there. And being warned by God in a [q]dream, he turned aside [r]into the region of Galilee. 23 And he came and dwelt in a city called [s]Nazareth, that it might be fulfilled [t]which was spoken by the prophets, "He shall be called a Nazarene."

John the Baptist Prepares the Way

3 In those days [a]John the Baptist came preaching [b]in the wilderness of Judea, 2 and saying,
"Repent, for [c]the kingdom of heaven is at hand!" 3 For this is he who was spoken of by the prophet Isaiah, saying:

[d]"The voice of one crying in the wilderness:
[e]'Prepare the way of the LORD;
Make His paths straight.'"

4 Now [f]John himself was clothed in camel's hair, with a leather belt around his waist; and his food was [g]locusts and [h]wild honey. 5 [i]Then Jerusalem, all Judea, and all the region around the Jordan went out to him 6 [j]and were baptized by him in the Jordan, confessing their sins.

7 But when he saw many of the Pharisees and Sadducees coming to his baptism, he said to them, [k]"Brood of vipers! Who warned you to flee from [l]the wrath to come? 8 Therefore bear fruits worthy of repentance, 9 and do not think to say to yourselves, [m]'We have Abraham as our father.' For I say to you that God is able to raise up children to Abraham from these stones.

good fruit is cut down and thrown into the fire. 11 [o]I indeed baptize you with water unto repen-

■ 2:23 He shall be called a Nazarene. The Old Testament has no verse exactly corresponding to this, but note that Matthew introduces this reference to the prophets in more general terms than his other quotations. Nazareth was Christ's home, but Matthew's point is probably that Jesus would be despised, as people from Nazareth were (John 1:46; 7:42, 52). Is. 11:1 refers to the Messiah as a "Branch" (Hebrew netzer) from the roots of Jesse; this verse may have been in mind.

■ 3:2 Repent. The first command of both John the Baptist and Jesus (4:17). Repentance is not just sorrow for sin but a decisive change, a turning away from sin and to a life of obedience. "Repent" translates the Old Testament call to Israel to "return" to faithfulness to the covenant. It does not mean self-punishment, depression, or remorse. Judas was sorrowful and distressed (27:3) but he did not repent. See "Repentance" at Acts 26:20.

kingdom of heaven. The message of John the Baptist introduces the theme of Jesus' teaching. Mark and Luke call it the "kingdom of God" (4:17; cf. Mark 1:15). The kingdom or the reign of God is what the Old Testament prophets awaited: God's display of His sovereignty in the redemption of His people. John and Jesus proclaimed that the time of waiting was over and the King Himself had come. With the death and resurrection of Jesus and the spread of the good news to all nations, the Old Testament promises of God have been largely fulfilled for us, although we still await their complete realization when Christ returns in judgment (ch. 13 and notes).

is at hand. The beginning of God's work is the basis for the command to repent.

■ 3:3 this is he. John the Baptist proclaims the coming of the Lord, using Is. 40:3. John's ministry pointed forward, like the Old Testament prophets, to a greater One who would follow (11:7–11; Acts 19:4, 5).

■ 3:6 baptized. Christian baptism is not identical with the baptism of John for, although it retains the symbolism of repentance and purification (Acts 22:16; Eph. 5:26), it is performed in the name of the triune God (28:19) and symbolizes our union with Christ in His death and resurrection (Rom. 6:3–6; 1 Cor. 12:13; Gal. 3:27; Col. 2:12). See note on Mark 1:4.

■ 3:7 the wrath to come. The Old Testament promised the coming of the Lord in righteous judgment (Ps. 96:13; Zeph. 2:1, 2; Mal. 3:2). John will not allow the leaders to suppose that the cup of God's wrath is only for Israel's enemies, and that their own nation will escape. John was later puzzled that Jesus did not bring judgment (11:2, 3 and note).

■ 3:8 fruits worthy of repentance. Acts indicating an inner righteousness, not merely outward conformity. Since the Pharisees considered themselves to be the righteous of their day, the words of John must have cut deep.

■ 3:9 Abraham as our father. Although being Jewish includes outward covenant privileges (Rom. 9:4, 5), the true children of God are so only by virtue of God's act. Only God can apply the water that changes hearts of stone (Ezek. 36:25, 26). Neither a Jew by birth nor a Christian by birth can expect to be spared judgment apart from the fruit that gives evidence of repentance and faith.

■ 3:10 is cut down. Just as the kingdom is imminent, so is judgment; the coming of one implies the other. John did not yet know that Jesus' immediate task was not to bring judgment, but to bear it Himself (11:2 note).

■ 3:11 with the Holy Spirit and fire. Cleansing with fire describes God's supernatural baptism, contrasted with the symbol of cleansing with water. The fire of the Spirit renews the people of God and consumes the wicked as chaff (Is. 4:4; Zech. 13:9; Mal. 3:2, 3; 4:1). John's witness to Jesus as the Lord who has come (v. 3) is extended. As Lord, Jesus baptizes with the Spirit and executes the Last Judgment. See "Baptism" at Rom. 6:3.

tance, but He who is coming after me is mightier than I, whose sandals I am not worthy to carry. [p]He will baptize you with the Holy Spirit [l]and fire. 12 [q]His winnowing fan is in His hand, and He will thoroughly clean out His threshing floor, and gather His wheat into the barn; but He will [r]burn up the chaff with unquenchable fire."

John Baptizes Jesus

13 [s]Then Jesus came [t]from Galilee to John at the Jordan to be baptized by him. 14 And John tried to prevent Him, saying, "I need to be baptized by You, and are You coming to me?"

15 But Jesus answered and said to him, "Permit it to be so now, for thus it is fitting for us to fulfill all righteousness." Then he allowed Him.

16 [u]When He had been baptized, Jesus came up immediately from the water; and behold, the heavens were opened to Him, and [z]He saw [v]the Spirit of God descending like a dove and alighting upon Him. 17 [w]And suddenly a voice came from heaven, saying, [x]"This is My beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased."

Satan Tempts Jesus

4 Then [a]Jesus was led up by [b]the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted by the devil. 2 And when He had fasted forty days and forty nights, afterward He was hungry. 3 Now when the tempter came to Him, he said, "If You are the Son of God, command that these stones become bread."

4 But He answered and said, "It is written, [c]'Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceeds from the mouth of God.'"

5 Then the devil took Him up [d]into the holy city, set Him on the pinnacle of the temple, 6 and said to Him, "If You are the Son of God, throw Yourself down. For it is written:

[e]'He shall give His angels charge over you,'

and,

[f]'In their hands they shall bear you up,
Lest you dash your foot against a stone.'"

7 Jesus said to him, "It is written again, [g]'You shall not [l]tempt the LORD your God.'"

8 Again, the devil took Him up on an exceedingly high mountain, and [h]showed Him all the

8 [h][Matt. 16:26; 1 John 2:15–17]

■ 3:13–15 John was reluctant to baptize Jesus because he recognized that Jesus was the one person who had no need for repentance. But in order for "all righteousness" to be fulfilled, Jesus had to be identified with His people as the bearer of their sins (2 Cor. 5:21). Ultimately John's baptism pointed to Jesus, for only Jesus' death on a cross, which He called a "baptism" (Luke 12:50), could take away sins. Jesus' identification with His people included His baptism and death, His anointment with the Spirit, and His victory over temptation. See "The Baptism of Jesus" at Mark 1:9.

■ 3:15 righteousness. God's kingdom (His sovereign rule in salvation and judgment) is defined by His righteousness. Jesus teaches the perfect righteousness that God requires (5:20, 48); He also secures God's righteousness for sinners. His baptism points to His death as "a ransom for many" (20:28) and shows the perfect obedience in which He fulfills all righteousness (Jer. 23:5, 6). Remission of sins and the gift of righteousness are received through faith in Jesus (8:10; 23:23; cf. 21:32). Those who lack God's righteousness, but hunger and thirst for it, will be filled (5:6; 6:33). Jesus calls those burdened with the load of self-righteousness to find their rest in Him (11:28—12:8).

■ 3:16, 17 The testimony from heaven confirms Jesus' identification as the Servant of the Lord (Is. 42:1; cf. Ex. 4:22) and connects this with the messianic kingship (Ps. 2:7).

■ 3:16 like a dove. The Spirit's appearance in the form of a dove reminds us of the Spirit's creative activity in Gen. 1:2 and may point to the beginning of the new creation through the ministry of Jesus (1:1 note).

■ 4:1 tempted. Although God Himself tempts no one (James 1:13), our temptations are included in His sovereign plan for our good. If we overcome, we are strengthened; if we succumb, we recognize more clearly our need for further sanctification and grace.

The temptation of Jesus (vv. 1–11) parallels the testing of Israel in the desert. The forty days correspond to the forty years of wandering (cf. Num. 14:34). This event recalls Deut. 8:1–5, used by Jesus in response to one of the temptations. The experience of Israel in the desert was the type or shadow of Jesus' temptation in the "wilderness" after His baptism.

The temptations appeal to common motivations: physical drives, pride, and the desire for possessions (1 John 2:16). But each is pointed specially at the Messiah. Satan appeals to Jesus in terms of His divine rights: "If You are the Son of God" (vv. 3, 6; cf. 27:40). The third temptation offers Jesus a path to kingship that avoids the Cross. Jesus was tempted in every way just as we are (Heb. 4:15), but He did not sin. He represents us before God as a "merciful and faithful High Priest" (Heb. 2:17) because He knows through His human nature what it is to endure temptation. See "The Sinlessness of Jesus" at Heb. 4:15.

■ 4:3 Son of God. See note on 16:16.

■ 4:4 by every word. In Deut. 8:3 this refers to God's word of direction in the wilderness and His provision of manna. Jesus will not abandon His trust in God to provide. Jesus replied to each of Satan's temptations with a reference to Scripture. The "sword of the Spirit" is God's Word (Eph. 6:17), and Jesus relied on Scripture for victory in His spiritual struggle. See "The Word of God: Scripture as Revelation" at Ex. 32:16.

■ 4:5 pinnacle of the temple. Part of the temple wall was on the edge of the Kidron Valley with an enormous drop from the top to the bottom.

■ 4:6 Satan quotes Scripture, but he uses Ps. 91:11, 12 in a way exactly opposite to the original meaning. Ps. 91 is an exhortation to trust in God; Satan attempts to replace trust with a test, casting doubt on God's faithfulness. Presumption is not too great a faith but no faith at all. See "Satan" at Job 1:6.

kingdoms of the world and their glory. 9 And he said to Him, "All these things I will give You if You will fall down and worship me."

10 Then Jesus said to him, [2]"Away with you, Satan! For it is written, 'You shall worship the LORD your God, and Him only you shall serve.'"

11 Then the devil [j]left Him, and behold, [k]angels came and ministered to Him.

Jesus Begins His Galilean Ministry

12 [l]Now when Jesus heard that John had been put in prison, He departed to Galilee. 13 And leaving Nazareth, He came and dwelt in Capernaum, which is by the sea, in the regions of Zebulun and Naphtali, 14 that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Isaiah the prophet, saying:

15 "The [m]land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali,
By the way of the sea, beyond the Jordan,
Galilee of the Gentiles:
16 [n]The people who sat in darkness have seen a great light,
And upon those who sat in the region and shadow of death
Light has dawned."

17 [o]From that time Jesus began to preach and to say, [p]"Repent, for the kingdom of heaven [3]is at hand."

Four Fishermen Called as Disciples

18 [q]And Jesus, walking by the Sea of Galilee, saw two brothers, Simon [r]called Peter, and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea; for they were fishermen. 19 Then He said to them, "Follow Me, and [s]I will make you fishers of men." 20 [t]They immediately left their nets and followed Him.

21 [u]Going on from there, He saw two other brothers, James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother, in the boat with Zebedee their father, mending their nets. He called them, 22 and immediately they left the boat and their father, and followed Him.

Jesus Heals a Great Multitude

23 And Jesus went about all Galilee, [v]teaching in their synagogues, preaching [w]the gospel of the kingdom, [x]and healing all kinds of sickness and all kinds of disease among the people. 24 Then [4]His fame went throughout all Syria; and they [y]brought to Him all sick people who were afflicted with various diseases and torments, and those who were demon-possessed, epileptics, and paralytics; and He healed them. 25 [z]Great multitudes followed Him—from Galilee, and from [5]Decapolis, Jerusalem, Judea, and beyond the Jordan.

The Beatitudes

5 And seeing the multitudes, [a]He went up on a mountain, and when He was seated His disciples came to Him. 2 Then He opened His mouth and [b]taught them, saying:

CHAPTER 5

1 [a]Mark 3:13
2 [b][Matt. 7:29]

■ 4:10 Jesus rejects idolatry with all the zeal of true worship. He commands Satan to depart, for He has conquered the "strong man" (12:29).

■ 4:15 Galilee of the Gentiles. Matthew stresses Jesus' focus on the nation of Israel during His earthly ministry (10:5, 6). However, his observation that Jesus' ministry fulfills Is. 9:2 shows that the commission to go to the Gentiles in Matt. 28:19 is not an afterthought; the ultimate goal always included the nations.

■ 4:17 From that time. This phrase, which also occurs in 16:21, marks a turning point from the period of preparation to the period of Jesus' public ministry.

Repent. See "Repentance" at Acts 26:20.

■ 4:23 teaching . . . preaching . . . healing. Teaching involved communicating the nature and purpose of God's kingdom, as seen in the Sermon on the Mount (chs. 5—7) and the parables of the kingdom (ch. 13). Preaching was proclaiming the good news that God's kingdom was near, that His sovereign purposes in history were finally being realized. Healing, as well as teaching and preaching, was a sign that this kingdom had come (11:5).

■ 4:24 Syria. In Roman usage, "Syria" applied to virtually the whole of Palestine with the exception of Galilee (cf. Luke 2:2). A Galilean would probably have understood "Syria" to refer to the territory just north of Galilee, from the Mediterranean to Damascus.

epileptics. The only other use of this word in the New Testament is in 17:15, where it is applied to a demon-possessed boy who is exhibiting symptoms of epileptic seizures.

■ 5:1—7:29 The Sermon on the Mount is the first of five great blocks of Jesus' teaching in Matthew (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes). It is the classic statement of the ethics of the kingdom of God. The early church favored a literal interpretation but fully applied the sermon only to special classes of Christians, especially monastics. Others, such as the Anabaptists, have attempted to apply it literally to every Christian. Still others have viewed it as legalistic, as a provisional, temporary code, or as a heightening of the law of Moses with the aim of inducing repentance (Luther). Finally, some have argued that the demands of the sermon are not to be understood literally, but that Jesus was concerned with inward disposition rather than outward conduct, or that the severity of the sermon is intended to compel a decision by the hearers either for or against God's demands on their lives.

We must recognize that the sermon is directed to the disciples and 3 "Blessed[c] are the poor in spirit,

For theirs is the kingdom of heaven.
4 [d]Blessed are those who mourn,
For they shall be comforted.
5 [e]Blessed are the meek,
For [f]they shall inherit the [1]earth.

For theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

Believers Are Salt and Light

13 "You are the salt of the earth; [q]but if the salt loses its flavor, how shall it be seasoned? It is then good for nothing but to be thrown out and trampled underfoot by men.

14 [r]"You are the light of the world. Christ Fulfills the Law through them to the whole church today. The sermon addresses both inward motives and outward conduct (5:21, 22, 27, 28). These legitimate demands are so strict (5:48) that no one can completely obey them, and we are therefore driven to the grace and mercy of God. In some cases Jesus uses obviously intentional exaggeration to illustrate the absolute requirements of God's law (5:29, 30).

■ 5:1 went up on a mountain. The content of this sermon is similar to the sermon on the plain recorded in Luke 6.

was seated. It was customary for teachers to sit while teaching (Luke 4:20).

■ 5:3 Blessed. This means more than the emotional state represented by the word "happy." It includes spiritual well-being, having the approval of God, and thus a happier destiny (Ps. 1).

poor in spirit. Those with the greater spiritual need are more likely to perceive their need and depend on God alone and not their own goodness. Paul notes the same principle in Rom. 9:30, 31. The parallel in Luke 6:20 omits "in spirit." This has led many to suppose Jesus primarily spoke of the materially poor. Material poverty and recognition of spiritual need often go together (Ps. 9:18 note), but the two kinds of poverty are not identical.

■ 5:4 those who mourn. The context indicates that these are mourning over sin and evil, especially their own, and over the failure of mankind to give proper glory to God.

■ 5:5 the meek. This beatitude resembles and is perhaps based on Ps. 37:11. The meekness in view is spiritual meekness, an attitude of humility and submission to God. Our pattern for meekness is Jesus (the same Greek word is translated "gentle" in 11:29), who submits to the will of His Father.

inherit the earth. The ultimate fulfillment of the promise to Abraham, whom Paul calls "heir of the world" (Rom. 4:13; cf. Heb. 11:16).

■ 5:6 hunger . . . for righteousness. Those who seek God's righteousness receive what they desire, not those who are confident of their own righteousness.

■ 5:8 they shall see God. Because God is a spirit, His divine essence is invisible (Col. 1:15; 1 Tim. 1:17; 6:16). Nevertheless, believers will "see" God through the insight of faith, and Jesus assured His disciples that in seeing Him they had "seen the Father" (John 14:9). In the glorified state, God's children will "see Him as He is" (1 John 3:2).

■ 5:9 peacemakers. Spiritual peace, not the cessation of physical violence between nations, is in view. Although the term is usually understood to mean those who help others find peace with God, this peace can also be understood as those who have made their own peace with God and are called His children. The principle is extended in vv. 44, 45—the children of God make peace, even with their enemies.

■ 5:13 salt. The primary value of salt was not as a flavoring but as a preservative. Disciples are to hinder the world's corruption. The salt deposits along the Dead Sea contain not just sodium chloride but a variety of other minerals as well. This salt can become good for nothing when the rain washes out its saltiness over the years. See "Christians in the World" at Col. 2:20.

■ 5:14 See Is. 60:1–3.

■ 5:16 See "The Mission of the Church in the World" at John 20:21.

■ 5:17 Law or the Prophets. A way of referring to the whole Old Testament.

not come to destroy. The correctives of vv. 21–48 should be read in the light of this opening remark. In fulfilling the law, Jesus does not alter, replace, or nullify the former commands; rather, He establishes their true intent and purpose in His teaching and accomplishes them in His obedient life. The Law, as well as the Prophets, points forward to Christ. See "The Law of God" at Ex. 20:1.

■ 5:18 tittle. A tiny extension on certain letters in the Hebrew alphabet.

will by no means pass from the law till all is fulfilled. 19[x]Whoever therefore breaks one of the least of these commandments, and teaches men so, shall be called least in the kingdom of heaven; but whoever does and teaches them, he shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven. 20For I say to you, that unless your righteousness exceeds [y]the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, you will by no means enter the kingdom of heaven.

Murder Begins in the Heart

21"You have heard that it was said to those [4]of old, [z]'You shall not murder, and whoever murders will be in danger of the judgment.' 22But I say to you that [a]whoever is angry with his brother [5]without a cause shall be in danger of the judgment. And whoever says to his brother, [b]'Raca!'[6] shall be in danger of the council. But whoever says, [7]'You fool!' shall be in danger of [8]hell fire. 23Therefore [c]if you bring your gift to the altar, and there remember that your brother has something against you, 24[d]leave your gift there before the altar, and go your way. First be reconciled to your brother, and then come and offer your gift. 25[e]Agree with your adversary quickly, [f]while you are on the way with him, lest your adversary deliver you to the judge, the judge hand you over to the officer, and you be thrown into prison. 26Assuredly, I say to you, you will by no means get out of there till you have paid the last penny.

Adultery in the Heart

27"You have heard that it was said [9]to those of old, [g]'You shall not commit adultery.' 28But I say to you that whoever [h]looks at a woman to lust for her has already committed adultery with her in his heart. 29[i]If your right eye causes you to [1]sin, [j]pluck it out and cast it from you; for it is more profitable for you that one of your members perish, than for your whole body to be cast into hell. 30And if your right hand causes you to [2]sin, cut it off and cast it from you; for it is more profitable for you that one of your members perish, than for your whole body to be cast into hell.

Marriage Is Sacred and Binding

31"Furthermore it has been said, [k]'Whoever divorces his wife, let him give her a certificate of divorce.' 32But I say to you that [l]whoever divorces his wife for any reason except [3]sexual immorality causes her to commit adultery; and whoever marries a woman who is divorced commits adultery.

Jesus Forbids Oaths

33"Again you have heard that [m]it was said to those of [4]old, [n]'You shall not swear falsely, but [o]shall perform your oaths to the Lord.' 34But I say to you, [p]do not swear at all: neither by heaven, for it is [q]God's throne; 35nor by the earth, for it is His footstool; nor by Jerusalem, for it is the city of [r]the great King. 36Nor shall you swear by your head, because you cannot make one till all is fulfilled. The full manifestation of God's kingdom (chs. 24; 25) for which believers are to pray (6:10).

■ 5:20 unless your righteousness exceeds. Jesus did not criticize the Pharisees for their strict observance of the law but for their emphasis on outward conformity to it without a proper inner attitude (ch. 23). By focusing on externals they avoided the real intent of the law and so obscured its real demands. The Qumran texts refer to the Pharisees as "seekers after smooth things" because they accommodated and compromised the law to fit the realities of life. Such accommodation removed awareness of the need for grace and dependence on God. In the following verses, Jesus restores the true nature of God's law as demanding total and radical holiness. Jesus demands a deeper obedience, not disregard of God's commands.

■ 5:21 You have heard that it was said. Not the teaching of God's law itself, with its promises, but the teaching of the law by scribes and Pharisees (see note on v. 43).

■ 5:22 You fool. Apparently Jewish law had sanctions against the specific insult Raca, but Jesus shows that any verbal abuse makes one liable to eternal damnation.

hell. This is Gehenna, the "valley of Hinnom," a trash dump outside Jerusalem where fires burned constantly. It was notorious as the location of human sacrifices by fire during the reigns of Ahaz and Manasseh (2 Chr. 28:3; 33:6). Jeremiah called it the "Valley of Slaughter" a symbol of God's fearful judgment (Jer. 7:32). See "Hell" at Mark 9:43.

■ 5:25 Agree . . . quickly. While vv. 23, 24 deal with the reconciliation of an offended brother, vv. 25, 26 appear to address the problem of conflict in larger society—in this case legal conflict. Christians are to work for reconciliation in all areas of life.

■ 5:29 pluck it out. The severity of the demand illustrates the radical nature of Jesus' ethic and our radical need. Jesus is not advocating self-mutilation; not the eyes or hands cause lust, but the heart and mind. Christians must not only avoid the act of adultery ("hand"), but also those things that would lead to a lustful attitude ("eye").

■ 5:32 See 19:3–10 and notes; "Marriage and Divorce" at Mal. 2:16.

■ 5:34 do not swear. Some have understood Jesus' prohibition of oaths to be universal, but Jesus Himself submitted to oath (26:63), and Paul invoked God as his witness in Rom. 1:9. God Himself takes an oath so that we might be encouraged (Heb. 6:17). Jesus is addressing a narrow and misleading legalism that required a specific oath to make spoken words binding. The implication of such an approach to honesty is that we do not need to be truthful except under oath. Jesus demands an integrity of speech as though everything were under oath. He also prohibited the implicit idolatry of swearing by anything less than God. See "Honest Speech, Oaths, and Vows" at Neh. 5:12.

hair white or black. 37 [s]But let [5]your 'Yes' be 'Yes,' and your 'No,' 'No.' For whatever is more than these is from the evil one.

Go the Second Mile

38 "You have heard that it was said, [t]'An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth.' 39 [u]But I tell you not to resist an evil person. [v]But whoever slaps you on your right cheek, turn the other to him also. 40 If anyone wants to sue you and take away your tunic, let him have your cloak also. 41 And whoever [w]compels you to go one mile, go with him two. 42 Give to him who asks you, and [x]from him who wants to borrow from you do not turn away.

Love Your Enemies

43 "You have heard that it was said, [y]'You shall love your neighbor [z]and hate your enemy.' 44 [6]But I say to you, [a]love your enemies, bless those who curse you, [b]do good to those who hate you, and pray [c]for those who spitefully use you and persecute you, 45 that you may be sons of your Father in heaven; for [d]He makes His sun rise on the evil and on the good, and sends rain on the just and on the unjust. 46 [e]For if you love those who love you, what reward have you? Do not even the tax collectors do the same? 47 And if you greet your [7]brethren only, what do you do more than others? Do not even the [8]tax collectors do so? 48 [f]Therefore you shall be perfect, just [g]as your Father in heaven is perfect.

Do Good to Please God

6 "Take heed that you do not do your charitable deeds before men, to be seen by them. Otherwise you have no reward from your Father in heaven. 2 Therefore, [a]when you do a charitable deed, do not sound a trumpet before you as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and in the streets, that they may have glory from men. Assuredly, I say to you, they have their reward. 3 But when you do a charitable deed, do not let your left hand know what your right hand is doing, 4 that your charitable deed may be in secret; and your Father who sees in secret [b]will Himself reward you [1]openly.

The Model Prayer

5 "And when you pray, you shall not be like the [2]hypocrites. For they love to pray standing in the synagogues and on the corners of the streets, that they may be seen by men. Assuredly, I say to you, they have their reward. 6 But you, when you pray, [c]go into your room, and when you have shut your door, pray to your Father who is in the secret place; and your Father who sees in secret will reward you [3]openly. 7 And when you pray, [d]do not use vain repetitions as the heathen do. [e]For they think that they will be heard for their many words.

8 "Therefore do not be like them. For your Father [f]knows the things you have need of before you ask Him. 9 In this [g]manner, therefore, pray:

■ 5:38 An eye for an eye. The original intent of Ex. 21:24, Lev. 24:20, and Deut. 19:21 is that punishment should be equitable and should fit the crime. These limitations prohibited exacting a greater vengeance (such as Lamech boasted in Gen. 4:23) or having different penalties for different social classes. Jesus contradicted those who saw in this principle grounds for personal vengeance.

■ 5:39 not to resist. In context this means "do not seek restitution in court." The slap on the right cheek is a backhanded one—an insult as well as injury. Jesus' remarks may refer back to the words of the Servant of the Lord in Is. 50:6.

■ 5:41 whoever compels. The possibility of a Roman soldier coercing a person to serve as a guide or burden carrier was real. Even if compelled by force to do something for someone, one can demonstrate freedom by volunteering more than was demanded rather than begrudging the service.

■ 5:43 hate your enemy. This is not in the Old Testament, but was a false conclusion in scribal teaching drawn from the narrow understanding of "neighbor" as simply one's fellow Jew. Jesus shows that the true intent of Lev. 19:18 extends even to one's enemies (Luke 10:29–37).

■ 5:45 See "Providence" at Prov. 16:33.

■ 5:48 be perfect. The standard that God demands of His people is His own perfect character. God's perfection includes the love of benevolent grace (v. 45). Although perfection is not attainable in this life, it is the goal of those who have become children of the Father (Phil. 3:12, 13).

■ 6:1 charitable deeds. Jesus affirms the positive value of such acts, but only when done in submission to God and love for Him, rather than in seeking human personal glory.

■ 6:2 hypocrites. In the New Testament, the hypocrite is one who claims to have a relationship with God and to love righteousness, but is self-seeking and even self-deceived. The hypocrites denounced in ch. 23 were unaware of their hypocrisy.

■ 6:5 pray. See "Prayer" at Luke 11:2.

■ 6:7 do not use vain repetitions. This prohibition does not contradict the principle that one should keep asking God for what is believed to be His will (Luke 18), but corrects the idea that God is impressed with quantity of words.

■ 6:9 This prayer is a model of brevity, asking first for God to be glorified and then for the needs of human life.

Our Father. See "Adoption" at Gal. 4:5.

Hallowed be Your name. Not just that God's creatures may keep it holy, but that God may Himself hallow it by being the holy Judge and Savior.

[h] Our Father in heaven.
Hallowed be Your [i] name.
10 Your kingdom come.
[j] Your will be done
On earth [k] as it is in heaven.
11 Give us this day our [l] daily bread
12 And [m] forgive us our debts.
As we forgive our debtors.
13 [n] And do not lead us into temptation,
But [o] deliver us from the evil one.
[4] For Yours is the kingdom and the power and the glory forever. Amen.

14 [p] "For if you forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you. 15 But [q] if you do not forgive men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses.

Fasting to Be Seen Only by God

16 "Moreover, [r] when you fast, do not be like the [5] hypocrites, with a sad countenance. For they disfigure their faces that they may appear to men to be fasting. Assuredly, I say to you, they have their reward. 17 But you, when you fast [s] anoint your head and wash your face, 18 so that you do not appear to men to be fasting, but to your Father who is in the secret place; and your Father who sees in secret will reward you [6] openly.

Lay Up Treasures in Heaven

19 [t] "Do not lay up for yourselves treasures on earth, where moth and rust destroy and where thieves break in and steal; 20 [u] but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust destroys and where thieves do not break in and steal. 21 For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also.

The Lamp of the Body

22 [v] "The lamp of the body is the eye. If therefore your eye is [7] good, your whole body will be full of light. 23 But if your eye is [8] bad, your whole body will be full of darkness. If therefore the light that is in you is darkness, how great is that darkness!

You Cannot Serve God and Riches

24 [w] "No one can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one and love the other, or else he will be loyal to the one and despise the other. [x] You cannot serve God and [9] mammon.

Do Not Worry

25 "Therefore I say to you, [y] do not worry about your life, what you will eat or what you will drink; nor about your body, what you will put on. Is not life more than food and the body more than clothing? 26 [z] Look at the birds of the air, for they neither sow nor reap nor gather into barns; yet your heavenly Father feeds them. Are you not of more value than they? 27 Which of you by worrying can add one [1] cubit to his [2] stature?

■ 6:11 daily bread. The Greek word translated "daily" is known only from this prayer. It has been understood to mean "daily," "necessary," "future," or "tomorrow's" bread. There are three basic interpretations for it. The sacramental view is that it refers to the bread received in the Lord's Supper. Another view is that it symbolizes life in the coming kingdom, making the petition equivalent to "Your kingdom come" in v. 10. A third view takes it as a request for God's provision for our physical needs. This last view is perhaps the best, and this theme is developed in vv. 19–34 (Prov. 30:8).

■ 6:12 debts. Spiritual debts are in view. Christians forgive others in response to God's forgiveness (18:32, 33); but if they do not forgive others, they cannot claim God's forgiveness for themselves (vv. 14, 15).

■ 6:13 do not lead us into temptation. The forgiven pray this petition because they trust God and they distrust themselves. The Father may test us (4:1; Deut. 8:2), but He will not allow us to be tempted beyond our capacity (1 Cor. 10:13).

■ 6:17 anoint your head. This symbolized rejoicing (Ps. 23:5; 45:7; 104:15; Is. 61:3), but it was also part of daily routine except when fasting (Dan. 10:3). Not to anoint oneself could be an attempt to appear more pious than others.

■ 6:19 "Rust" refers not only to ordinary corrosion but also to mildew, wood rot, and the like. Every material thing is subject to decay or loss.

■ 6:23 light that is in you. The "good eye" looks to God as its "master" (v. 24) and fills the person with the "light" of God's will. The "bad eye" looks to "treasures on earth" (v. 19) and admits only the "darkness" of greed and self-interest. The person's whole life will be determined by the kind of "light" the "eye" lets in.

■ 6:26 they neither sow nor reap. The point is not that birds are idle—an adult bird does not stay in its nest with open beak—but that birds do not worry about what the future holds. Anxious worry shows a lack of trust in God's knowledge and care (vv. 32, 33). See "Providence" at Prov. 16:33.

■ 6:27 stature. The Greek word can also be translated "life span." Since adding eighteen inches to one's height would hardly be a slight

28 "So why do you worry about clothing? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow: they neither toil nor spin; 29 and yet I say to you that even Solomon in all his glory was not [3]arrayed like one of these. 30 Now if God so clothes the grass of the field, which today is, and tomorrow is thrown into the oven, will He not much more clothe you, O you of little faith?

31 "Therefore do not worry, saying, 'What shall we eat?' or 'What shall we drink?' or 'What shall we wear?' 32 For after all these things the Gentiles seek. For your heavenly Father knows that you need all these things. 33 But [a]seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added to you. 34 Therefore do not worry about tomorrow, for tomorrow will worry about its own things. Sufficient for the day is its own trouble.

Do Not Judge

7 "Judge[1] [a]not, that you be not judged. 2 For with what [2]judgment you judge, you will be judged; [b]and with the measure you use, it will be measured back to you. 3 [c]And why do you look at the speck in your brother's eye, but do not consider the plank in your own eye? 4 Or how can you say to your brother, 'Let me remove the speck from your eye'; and look, a plank is in your own eye? 5 Hypocrite! First remove the plank from your own eye, and then you will see clearly to remove the speck from your brother's eye.

6 [d]"Do not give what is holy to the dogs; nor cast your pearls before swine, lest they trample them under their feet, and turn and tear you in pieces.

Keep Asking, Seeking, Knocking

7 [e]"Ask, and it will be given to you; seek, and you will find; knock, and it will be opened to you. 8 For [f]everyone who asks receives, and he who seeks finds, and to him who knocks it will be opened. 9 [g]Or what man is there among you who, if his son asks for bread, will give him a stone? 10 Or if he asks for a fish, will he give him a serpent? 11 If you then, [h]being evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will your Father who is in heaven give good things to those who ask Him! 12 Therefore, [i]whatever you want men to do to you, do also to them, for [j]this is the Law and the Prophets.

The Narrow Way

13 [k]"Enter by the narrow gate; for wide is the gate and broad is the way that leads to destruction, and there are many who go in by it. 14 [3]Because narrow is the gate and [4]difficult is the way which leads to life, and there are few who find it.

You Will Know Them by Their Fruits

15 [l]"Beware of false prophets, [m]who come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravenous wolves. 16 [n]You will know them by their fruits. [o]Do men gather grapes from thornbushes or figs from thistles? 17 Even so, [p]every good tree bears good fruit, but a bad tree bears bad fruit. 18 A good tree cannot bear bad fruit, nor can a bad tree bear good fruit. 19 [q]Every tree achievement (cf. Luke 12:25, 26), it may be better to understand "cubit" as a figure of speech for a short period of time; hence, "can add a moment to your lifetime."

■ 6:33 seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness. We are to make God's sovereign rule, and a right relationship with Him, the highest priority in life (see 3:15 note on "righteousness"). Worry is inconsistent with this priority; it doubts the sovereignty or goodness of God and distracts from the true goals of life. God will meet all the needs of those who risk all for Him.

■ 7:1 Judge not. Jesus prohibits one kind of judging, but approves a different kind. Condemning others for their faults is failure to exercise forgiveness (6:14, 15); only a gentle and humble criticism that first recognizes one's own greater faults can help. There is also a necessary, discerning kind of judgment that does not condemn but distinguishes unbelief from belief (v. 6). The method of discernment is given in v. 16.

■ 7:6 what is holy. A reference to the evidences of the kingdom, such as the healings and the exorcisms, which may explain why Jesus did no miracles for unbelievers. But "what is holy" would also include the preaching of the kingdom; believers should not continue to preach to people who have rejected the gospel with contempt and scorn (10:14; 15:14). The Book of Acts illustrates the principle in practice (Acts 13:44–51; 18:5, 6; 28:17–28).

■ 7:11 being evil. The general sinfulness of humanity is assumed here, since even those who call God "Father" are said to be evil.

good things. These gifts from the Father are the things Jesus has been describing as necessary for disciples: righteousness, sincerity, purity, humility, and wisdom. Those who know their own need will ask God for them. The parallel in Luke 11:13 focuses on the one greatest gift—the Holy Spirit.

■ 7:12 do also to them. Often called the "Golden Rule," this principle was stated by a number of ancient thinkers as, "Do not do to others what you do not want done to you." Jesus made it a positive obligation. Here it appears after the discussion of God's goodness and His willingness to give.

■ 7:14 difficult is the way. Presenting a rosy picture of the Christian life and minimizing that it is filled with trouble does not follow the lead of our Lord (Acts 14:22). It may be that the "false prophets" of v. 15 are especially those who deny that the way is narrow and hard.

■ 7:15 sheep's clothing . . . ravenous wolves. The message of false prophets may be attractive and even seem orthodox. The only way to know for sure is to allow time to see "their fruits" (vv. 16–20). Some of the false prophets' fruits are mentioned in the New Testament: controversies (1 Tim. 1:3), divisions (1 Tim. 6:3, 4), destruction of faith (2 Tim. 2:18), and self-destruction by heresy (2 Pet. 2:1).

that does not bear good fruit is cut down and thrown into the fire. 20 Therefore by their fruits you will know them.

I Never Knew You

21 "Not everyone who says to Me, [r]'Lord, Lord,' shall enter the kingdom of heaven, but he who [s]does the will of My Father in heaven. 22 Many will say to Me in that day, 'Lord, Lord, have we [t]not prophesied in Your name, cast out demons in Your name, and done many wonders in Your name?' 23 And [u]then I will declare to them, 'I never knew you; [v]depart from Me, you who practice lawlessness!'

Build on the Rock

24 "Therefore [w]whoever hears these sayings of Mine, and does them, I will liken him to a wise man who built his house on the rock: 25 and the rain descended, the floods came, and the winds blew and beat on that house; and it did not fall, for it was founded on the rock.

26 "But everyone who hears these sayings of Mine, and does not do them, will be like a foolish man who built his house on the sand: 27 and the rain descended, the floods came, and the winds blew and beat on that house; and it fell. And great was its fall."

28 And so it was, when Jesus had ended these sayings, that [x]the people were astonished at His teaching, 29 [y]for He taught them as one having authority, and not as the scribes.

Jesus Cleanses a Leper

8 When He had come down from the mountain, great multitudes followed Him. 2 [a]And behold, a leper came and [b]worshiped Him, saying, "Lord, if You are willing, You can make me clean."

3 Then Jesus put out His hand and touched him, saying, "I am willing; be cleansed." Immediately his leprosy [c]was cleansed.

4 And Jesus said to him, [d]"See that you tell no one; but go your way, show yourself to the priest, and offer the gift that [e]Moses [f]commanded, as a testimony to them."

Jesus Heals a Centurion's Servant

5 [g]Now when Jesus had entered Capernaum, a [h]centurion came to Him, pleading with Him, 6 saying, "Lord, my servant is lying at home paralyzed, dreadfully tormented."

7 And Jesus said to him, "I will come and heal him."

8 The centurion answered and said, "Lord, [i]I am not worthy that You should come under my roof. But only [j]speak a word, and my servant will be healed. 9 For I also am a man under authority, having soldiers under me. And I say to this one, 'Go,' and he goes; and to another, 'Come,' and he comes; and to my servant, 'Do this,' and he does it."

10 When Jesus heard it, He marveled, and said to those who followed, "Assuredly, I say to you, I have not found such great faith, not even in Israel! 11 And I say to you that [k]many will

■ 7:21 Lord, Lord. The doubling of a name was an address of intimacy (Gen. 22:11; 1 Sam. 3:10; 2 Sam. 18:33; Luke 22:31). It is not claims or feelings of intimacy with Jesus that matter, nor is it simply good works, even miraculous ones; only doing the will of the Father matters. Genuine intimacy with the Father means knowing God and being known by God (1 Cor. 8:2, 3).

■ 7:25 the rain descended. Storms in Palestine are infrequent but can be violent. Although the houses of the foolish and the wise may for a long time appear equally secure, when the storm comes the destruction of the foolish one's house is total (Is. 28:14–18). So it is with the life of those who ignore the words of Jesus.

■ 7:29 not as the scribes. The scribes, like the later rabbis, taught by referring to what previous teachers had said. Their authority was the tradition. Jesus taught directly from Scripture with His own authority. See theological note "The Teaching of Jesus."

■ 8:1—9:38 The order of the miracles and events in these chapters differs from that found in Mark and Luke. Probably Matthew arranged them according to topic rather than chronology.

■ 8:2 leper. A variety of skin diseases are referred to by the Greek word used here, probably not Hansen's disease (modern "leprosy"). Touching a leper made one ceremonially unclean (cf. Lev. 15:7), but in this case the leper is healed and becomes clean rather than Jesus becoming ritually defiled.

■ 8:4 tell no one. The command to the leper to be silent was to prevent miracle seekers from hindering Jesus' main mission (Mark 1:45). By showing himself to the priest, the leper would fulfill the requirements of the Law and be able to rejoin Jewish society (Lev. 14:1–32).

■ 8:5 centurion. A Roman military officer in charge of approximately one hundred men. This centurion had an appreciation for Jesus' authority that surpassed anything in Israel, an awareness of his own unworthiness, and faith that Jesus could overcome the difficulty of his unworthiness. Matthew, who often prefers a condensed style, does not mention the intermediaries that appear in the parallel account in Luke 7:1–10.

■ 8:10–12 The faith of the Gentile centurion provides the occasion for the prediction that Israel will be hardened and the gospel will be extended to the Gentiles.

■ 8:11 sit down with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. A reference to the messianic banquet theme of Is. 25:6–9. Gentiles now appear in place of the natural sons. This theme recurs in the parable of the wicked tenants (21:33–44, especially v. 43) and the banquet parable (22:1–14). Jesus' prediction is an early example of the principle developed by Paul in Rom. 9:30–32: Israel tries to pursue righteousness by works and does not obtain it, but Gentiles who know they deserve only condemnation seek God's mercy and obtain it.

come from east and west, and sit down with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob in the kingdom of heaven. 12 But [l]the sons of the kingdom [m]will be cast out into outer darkness. There will be weeping and gnashing of teeth." 13 Then Jesus said to the centurion, "Go your way; and as you have believed, so let it be done for you." And his servant was healed that same hour.

The Teaching of Jesus

Jesus was Son of God incarnate, and His teaching, given Him by His Father (John 7:16–18; 12:49, 50), will stand forever (Mark 13:31), finally to judge its hearers (Matt. 7:24–27; John 12:48). The importance of paying attention to it cannot be overstressed. Jesus taught as Jewish rabbis generally did, by short sayings rather than in flowing discourses, and many of His most vital utterances are in parables, proverbs, and isolated pronouncements responding to questions and reacting to situations. All His public teaching was marked by an authority that brought amazement (Matt. 7:28, 29; Mark 1:27; John 7:46), but some of the teaching was enigmatical, requiring thought and spiritual insight ("ears to hear," Matt. 11:15; 13:9, 43; Luke 14:35), and baffling the complacent and casual. Jesus' reason for teaching so cryptically about His messianic role, His atonement, resurrection, and future reign, was partly that only events could make these things clear, and partly that He was calling people to be His disciples through His personal impact on them, and then teaching them about Himself within that relationship, rather than offering detailed theological instruction to the uncommitted (Matt. 11:25–27; Mark 4:11, 12). But Jesus' statements often are clear, and many of the fuller presentations in the epistles of the New Testament are best read as expansions and explanations of what Jesus said.

Jesus' teaching had three regular points of reference. The first was His divine Father, who had sent and was directing Him, and to whom His disciples must learn to relate as their Father in heaven. The second was to people, both individuals and groups, the recipients of His constant and many-faceted calls to repentance and a new life. The third was Himself, the Son of Man, and the Messiah of Israel.

Out of Jesus' witness to His Father, to people in their need, and to His own messianic role, three theological themes emerge:

1. The kingdom of God. This "kingdom" is the reality that came with Jesus as the fulfillment of God's plan for history, of which Old Testament prophets had often spoken (Is. 2:1–4; 9:6, 7; 11:1—12:6; 42:1–9; 49:1–7; Jer. 23:5, 6). The kingdom is present with Jesus, His miracles are signs of it (Matt. 11:12; 12:28; Luke 16:16; 17:20, 21). The kingdom takes command of a person's life when he or she submits in faith to the lordship of Christ, a momentous commitment that brings salvation and eternal life (Mark 10:17–27; John 5:24). The kingdom will be preached and grow (Matt. 13:31–33; 24:14) until the Son of Man, now reigning in heaven, reappears to gather His elect from every corner of the world.

2. The saving work of Jesus. Having come down from heaven at the Father's will to bring chosen sinners to glory, Jesus died for them, calls and draws them to Himself, forgives their sins, and keeps them safe until the day of resurrection (Luke 5:20, 23; 7:48; John 6:37–40, 44, 45; 10:14–18, 27–29; 12:32; 17:1–26).

3. The ethics of God's family. The new life comes to sinners as a gift of God's free grace and must be expressed in a new lifestyle. Those who have received grace must be thankful; those who are greatly loved must show great love to others; those who live because they are forgiven must themselves forgive; those who know God as their loving heavenly Father must accept His providence without bitterness, honoring Him at all times by trusting in His protecting care. In a word, God's children must be like their Father and their Savior, and be utterly unlike the world (Matt. 5:43–48; 6:12–15; 18:21–35; 20:26–28; 22:35–40). □

■ 8:12 darkness . . . weeping. These figures of speech represent the grief and despair of those who are excluded from the kingdom.

Many Healed After Sabbath Sunset

16 [p]When evening had come, they brought to Him many who were demon-possessed. And He cast out the spirits with a word, and healed all who were sick, 17 that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Isaiah the prophet, saying:

[q]"He Himself took our infirmities
And bore our sicknesses."

The Cost of Discipleship

18 And when Jesus saw great multitudes about Him, He gave a command to depart to the other side. 19 [r]Then a certain scribe came and said to Him, "Teacher, I will follow You wherever You go."

20 And Jesus said to him, "Foxes have holes and birds of the air have nests, but the Son of Man has nowhere to lay His head."

21 [s]Then another of His disciples said to Him, "Lord, [t]let me first go and bury my father."

22 But Jesus said to him, "Follow Me, and let the dead bury their own dead."

Wind and Wave Obey Jesus

23 Now when He got into a boat, His disciples followed Him. 24 [u]And suddenly a great tempest arose on the sea, so that the boat was covered with the waves. But He was asleep. 25 Then His disciples came to Him and awoke Him, saying, "Lord, save us! We are perishing!"

26 But He said to them, "Why are you fearful, O you of little faith?" Then [v]He arose and rebuked the winds and the sea, and there was a great calm. 27 So the men marveled, saying, [2]"Who can this be, that even the winds and the sea obey Him?"

Two Demon-Possessed Men Healed

28 [w]When He had come to the other side, to the country of the [3]Gergesenes, there met Him two demon-possessed men, coming out of the tombs, exceedingly fierce, so that no one could pass that way. 29 And suddenly they cried out, saying, "What have we to do with You, Jesus, You Son of God? Have You come here to torment us before the time?"

30 Now a good way off from them there was a herd of many swine feeding. 31 So the demons begged Him, saying, "If You cast us out, [4]permit us to go away into the herd of swine."

32 And He said to them, "Go." So when they had come out, they went into the herd of swine. And suddenly the whole herd of swine ran violently down the steep place into the sea, and perished in the water.

33 Then those who kept them fled; and they went away into the city and told everything, in-

■ 8:17 our infirmities. Is. 53:4 uses "sicknesses" (see text note there) to represent the sin for which they are the curse (Is. 53:5). Jesus came to bear the curse as well as the guilt of sin, and in His ministry He demonstrated His power over physical suffering. Yet He has not promised to remove sickness from the world or the church before the Second Coming (8:20–23; 1 Cor. 15:26; Rev. 21:4).

■ 8:18–22 These two events show the radical commitment Jesus demands of disciples. Those who identify with Jesus will be "sojourners and pilgrims" in the world (1 Pet. 2:11). Honoring one's parents by providing a proper burial was a strict obligation in Jewish society, but Jesus demands a greater allegiance to Himself.

■ 8:20 Son of Man. This title occurs only three times in the New Testament outside the Gospels (Acts 7:56; Rev. 1:13; 14:14). All of the many occurrences in the Gospels involve assertions made by Jesus about Himself and may be classified into three categories. "Son of Man" means "a human being," especially in statements about what is typical of humanity generally. This use is similar to God's calling Ezekiel "Son of man" (Ezek. 2:1 note), or Paul's reference to the human race as "the sons of men" (Eph. 3:5). Jesus also refers to Himself by this title when He predicts the suffering, death, and resurrection He accomplished for humanity (17:22, 23 note). Finally, it can refer to the apocalyptic "Son of Man" who appears at the Judgment of the end time (24:30; 26:64 note). This usage stems from Dan. 7:13, 14 where "One like the Son of Man" appears before the Ancient of Days and receives world dominion and worship. Jesus may have used "Son of Man" and avoided using "Messiah" because of popular conceptions that the Messiah would be a political and military leader.

■ 8:27 the winds and the sea obey Him. Only God can still the seas and appear as Lord of the storm (Ps. 29:3, 4; 65:5–7; 89:9; 107:23–30).

■ 8:28 country of the Gergesenes. This region is identified in Mark and Luke as the "country of the Gadarenes" (cf. text note); see note on Mark 5:1.

two demon-possessed men. Probably only one of these two demoniacs was exceedingly violent, and so Mark and Luke mention only that one. Matthew is concerned about the double witness of the testimony.

■ 8:29 Son of God. See note on 16:16.

the time. The demons have an apparently legitimate complaint; it is not yet "the time," the Day of Judgment. But Jesus is present and is already breaking the powers of darkness (12:28).

■ 8:31 demons. The Greek word translated "demons" is a broad term for "gods" (Acts 17:18), and supernatural beings. "Unclean spirits" (10:1) caused havoc with men, sometimes by possession. They are in league with Satan, the prince of demons (9:34; 12:24–28). Jesus throws out Satan's servants as a sign of the arrival of God's kingdom (12:28).

■ 8:32 Jesus permitted the demons to enter the pigs, perhaps because the Day of Judgment had not yet arrived. Subsequent events demonstrated the perverse values of the community, that preferred its pigs to the rescue of two human beings. Luke 8:31 reports the plea of the demons that they not be sent to the abyss.

cluding what had happened to the demon-possessed men. 34 And behold, the whole city came out to meet Jesus. And when they saw Him, [x]they begged Him to depart from their region.

Jesus Forgives and Heals a Paralytic

9 So He got into a boat, crossed over, [a]and came to His own city. 2 [b]Then behold, they brought to Him a paralytic lying on a bed. [c]When Jesus saw their faith, He said to the paralytic, "Son, be of good cheer; your sins are forgiven you."

3 And at once some of the scribes said within themselves, "This Man blasphemes!"

4 But Jesus, [d]knowing their thoughts, said, "Why do you think evil in your hearts? 5 For which is easier, to say, 'Your sins are forgiven you,' or to say, 'Arise and walk'? 6 But that you may know that the Son of Man has power on earth to forgive sins"—then He said to the paralytic, "Arise, take up your bed, and go to your house." 7 And he arose and departed to his house.

8 Now when the multitudes saw it, they [e]marveled[f] and glorified God, who had given such power to men.

Matthew the Tax Collector

9 [f]As Jesus passed on from there, He saw a man named Matthew sitting at the tax office. And He said to him, "Follow Me." So he arose and followed Him.

10 [g]Now it happened, as Jesus sat at the table in the house, that behold, many tax collectors and sinners came and sat down with Him and His disciples. 11 And when the Pharisees saw it, they said to His disciples, "Why does your Teacher eat with [h]tax collectors and [i]sinners?"

12 When Jesus heard that, He said to them, "Those who are well have no need of a physician, but those who are sick. 13 But go and learn what this means: 'I desire mercy and not sacrifice.' For I did not come to call the righteous, [k]but sinners, [2]to repentance."

Jesus Is Questioned About Fasting

14 Then the disciples of John came to Him, saying, [l]"Why do we and the Pharisees fast [3]often, but Your disciples do not fast?"

15 And Jesus said to them, "Can [m]the [4]friends of the bridegroom mourn as long as the bridegroom is with them? But the days will come when the bridegroom will be taken away from them, and [n]then they will fast. 16 No one puts a piece of unshrunk cloth on an old garment; for [5]the patch pulls away from the garment, and the tear is made worse. 17 Nor do they put new wine into old wineskins, or else the wineskins [6]break, the wine is spilled, and the wineskins are ruined. But they put new wine into new wineskins, and both are preserved."

A Girl Restored to Life and a Woman Healed

18 [o]While He spoke these things to them, behold, a ruler came and worshiped Him, saying, "My daughter has just died, but come and lay Your hand on her and she will live." 19 So Jesus arose and followed him, and so did His [p]disciples.

■ 9:2 your sins are forgiven. Forgiveness is the prerogative of the one who has been offended, and for Jesus to forgive sins was to claim divine authority (Is. 43:25).

■ 9:5 which is easier. Ultimately, forgiving sins is more difficult than performing a miracle, as the scribes would know since they recognized that only God can forgive sins. But the forgiveness of sins cannot be seen by observers. Jesus performs the lesser deed to prove the greater.

■ 9:11 Just as Jesus was not defiled by contact with lepers, so He was not defiled by contact with sinners. He is the Physician who heals spiritual as well as physical sickness. Those who thought they were well were puzzled by Jesus' activities and found Him offensive.

■ 9:14 disciples of John. Although Luke notes that Pharisees asked about fasting, Mark includes both John's disciples and Pharisees among those who raised the question.

■ 9:15 then they will fast. Jesus explained that because He was present as the Messiah, His disciples did not need to fast. Jesus recognizes a future time when the bridegroom will not be with them. This points out that, from the earliest stages of His ministry, Jesus anticipated a time between His initial coming in redemption and His final coming in the Judgment.

■ 9:17 new wine into old wineskins. New wine continues to ferment and builds up pressure that would burst a used wineskin. The old patterns of fasting are inappropriate for the fullness of the kingdom that has now arrived.

■ 9:18–25 As usual, Matthew has a more condensed form of this story than Mark and Luke. Both the story of the ruler's daughter and the story of the woman with a hemorrhage illustrate the relation between the work of Jesus and the role of faith in the kingdom. The same point appears in the following accounts of the blind man and the mute demoniac. These works (raising the dead, healing the sick, etc.) are in response to faith, not because faith causes them, but because without faith in the King Himself they are not signs of the kingdom but only unaccountable events with no special meaning.

■ 9:22 your faith has made you well. Her faith made her well because the blessings of the kingdom come to those who look to Jesus for the solution to their problems, not because of any power of faith in itself.

cheer, daughter; [s]your faith has made you well." And the woman was made well from that hour.

23 [t]When Jesus came into the ruler's house, and saw [u]the flute players and the noisy crowd wailing, 24 He said to them, [v]"Make room, for the girl is not dead, but sleeping." And they ridiculed Him. 25 But when the crowd was put outside, He went in and [w]took her by the hand, and the girl arose. 26 And the [x]report of this went out into all that land.

Two Blind Men Healed

27 When Jesus departed from there, [y]two blind men followed Him, crying out and saying, [z]"Son of David, have mercy on us!"

28 And when He had come into the house, the blind men came to Him. And Jesus said to them, "Do you believe that I am able to do this?"

They said to Him, "Yes, Lord."

29 Then He touched their eyes, saying, "According to your faith let it be to you." 30 And their eyes were opened. And Jesus sternly warned them, saying, [a]"See that no one knows it." 31 [b]But when they had departed, they [7]spread the news about Him in all that [8]country.

A Mute Man Speaks

32 [c]As they went out, behold, they brought to Him a man, mute and demon-possessed. 33 And when the demon was cast out, the mute spoke. And the multitudes marveled, saying, "It was never seen like this in Israel!"

34 But the Pharisees said, [d]"He casts out demons by the ruler of the demons."

The Compassion of Jesus

35 Then Jesus went about all the cities and villages, [e]teaching in their synagogues, preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease [9]among the people. 36 [f]But when He saw the multitudes, He was moved with compassion for them, because they were [1]weary and scattered, [g]like sheep having no shepherd. 37 Then He said to His disciples, [h]"The harvest truly is plentiful, but the laborers are few. 38 [i]Therefore pray the Lord of the harvest to send out laborers into His harvest."

The Twelve Apostles

10 And [a]when He had called His twelve disciples to Him, He gave them power over unclean spirits, to cast them out, and to heal all kinds of sickness and all kinds of disease. 2 Now the names of the twelve apostles are these: first, Simon, [b]who is called Peter, and Andrew his brother; James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother; 3 Philip and Bartholomew; Thomas and Matthew the tax collector; James the son of Alphaeus, and [1]Lebbaeus, whose surname was Thaddaeus; 4 [c]Simon the [2]Cananite, and Judas [d]Iscariot, who also betrayed Him.

■ 9:23 flute players and the noisy crowd. Professional mourners and others who helped the bereaved express their grief.

■ 9:24 not dead, but sleeping. Jesus was prophesying that He would raise her up from death (John 11:11–14).

■ 9:27–31 The healing of two blind men related here is similar to the account in 20:29–34, as well as to the healing of Bartimaeus narrated in Mark 10:46–52 (cf. Luke 18:35–43). Both Bartimaeus and the blind men in Matthew 9 and 20 express their faith by calling Jesus "Son of David," a messianic title. The similarities have suggested to some that both accounts in Matthew are based on the healing of Bartimaeus, but there are sufficient differences at least between the two accounts in Matthew as to indicate separate incidents.

■ 9:35–38 This paragraph summarizes the activity of Jesus in chs. 5—9 (teaching, preaching, healing) and introduces the mission discourse of ch. 10. The background is Ezek. 34:5, 6. Jesus is the true Shepherd who is concerned for His sheep (John 10), and He is identified with the "Lord God" of Ezek. 34:11–16.

■ 9:37 harvest. Often a metaphor for the end-time activity of God. That the harvest is "plentiful" indicates that the "harvest" is not the harvest time but the crop (as in Luke 10:2). The emphasis here is on the proclamation of the gospel, the eschatological announcement that precedes judgment and urges people to repent and have faith. The "laborers" are not the angels sent to gather for judgment (13:49) but disciples who imitate Jesus by proclaiming the coming of the kingdom (10:7). Jesus does not yet command His disciples to go into the harvest as laborers, but to pray to God to send workers. No one can do the work of harvest without being called to it and equipped for it by God.

■ 10:2 apostles. The Greek word apostolos designates an authorized representative or emissary whose word has the authority of the sender (see 2 Cor. 8:23 where it is translated "messengers," and 2 Cor. 1:1 note). Here the Twelve receive authority to do exactly what Jesus was doing (vv. 7, 8).

■ 10:3 Lebbaeus, whose surname was Thaddaeus. Or, "Lebbaeus, who was called Thaddaeus" (see text note and Mark 3:18). Probably he is the "Judas the son of James" mentioned in Luke 6:16 and Acts 1:13.

■ 10:4 Simon the Cananite. Other manuscripts read, "Simon the Cananaean" (see text note), that is, a member of a revolutionary movement ("Simon called the Zealot," Luke 6:15). According to Josephus, the Zealots were a political party whose religious enthusiasm led them to advocate armed rebellion against Rome. Simon may have been associated with this movement previously and continued to be called "the Cananite" or "Zealot" to distinguish him from Simon Peter.

Sending Out the Twelve

5 These twelve Jesus sent out and commanded them, saying: [e]"Do not go into the way of the Gentiles, and do not enter a city of [f]the Samaritans. 6 [g]But go rather to the [h]lost sheep of the house of Israel. 7 [i]And as you go, preach, saying, [j]'The kingdom of heaven [3]is at hand.' 8 Heal the sick, [4]cleanse the lepers, [5]raise the dead, cast out demons. [k]Freely you have received, freely give. 9 [l]Provide neither gold nor silver nor [m]copper in your money belts, 10 nor bag for your journey, nor two tunics, nor sandals, nor staffs; [n]for a worker is worthy of his food.

11 [o]"Now whatever city or town you enter, inquire who in it is worthy, and stay there till you go out. 12 And when you go into a household, greet it. 13 [p]If the household is worthy, let your peace come upon it. [q]But if it is not worthy, let your peace return to you. 14 [r]And whoever will not receive you nor hear your words, when you depart from that house or city, [s]shake off the dust from your feet. 15 Assuredly, I say to you, [t]it will be more tolerable for the land of Sodom and Gomorrah in the day of judgment than for that city!

Persecutions Are Coming

16 [u]"Behold, I send you out as sheep in the midst of wolves. [v]Therefore be wise as serpents and [w]harmless[6] as doves. 17 But beware of men, for [x]they will deliver you up to councils and [y]scourge you in their synagogues. 18 [z]You will be brought before governors and kings for My sake, as a testimony to them and to the Gentiles. 19 [a]But when they deliver you up, do not worry about how or what you should speak. For [b]it will be given to you in that hour what you should speak; 20 [c]for it is not you who speak, but the Spirit of your Father who speaks in you.

21 [d]"Now brother will deliver up brother to death, and a father his child; and children will rise up against parents and cause them to be put to death. 22 And [e]you will be hated by all for My name's sake. [f]But he who endures to the end will be saved. 23 [g]When they persecute you in this city, flee to another. For assuredly, I say to you, you will not have [h]gone through the cities of Israel [i]before the Son of Man comes.

■ 10:5—11:1 This section contains several lines of teaching regarding the Christian mission that are found in different places in the other Gospels. This does not mean Matthew invented the occasion. Matthew presents the teaching of Jesus in five major discourses, and he may have brought in relevant material delivered on other occasions. Particularly 10:17–22, which envisions a world mission and being "brought before governors and kings" (v. 18), seems to go beyond v. 5, that restricts the mission to Israel. Nevertheless, the future mission of the disciples to the whole world (28:18–20) is linked to this early experience of preaching to Israel, and Matthew's grouping of the material is appropriate.

■ 10:5 Do not go. Although Jesus has already responded to Gentile faith (8:10), the focus of this first mission of the disciples, like that of Jesus before His passion and resurrection (15:24), was to the natural heirs of the kingdom. Jesus does not prohibit preaching to Gentiles encountered during the mission to Israel, but He did not send the disciples at this point into Gentile areas.

■ 10:7, 8 preach . . . Heal . . . raise. The same signs of the kingdom that Jesus performed in chs. 8 and 9 will be done by His disciples.

■ 10:8 freely give. The kingdom was given to the disciples freely; to peddle the message would insult God and obscure the nature of the gospel as a free gift. Nevertheless they will be sustained; they do not need extra travel money and provisions (vv. 9, 10). This is a model for Christian life in general.

■ 10:14, 15 shake off the dust from your feet. That is, the dust on one's garment kicked up by the feet. Jews sometimes shook the dust off their clothing when returning from Gentile lands as a sign of contempt; Jesus uses it here as a sign of judgment. A town that did not receive the disciples did not receive Jesus, and became spiritually "pagan" and as subject to judgment as Sodom and Gomorrah (Acts 13:51).

■ 10:17–20 These verses anticipate a later, more extensive mission than the immediate occasion of v. 5 (10:5—11:1 note). Persecution will occur at the hands of both Jewish (v. 17) and Gentile (v. 18) authorities. But disciples are not to respond to this as pagans do, by hiring professional orators to defend them in court. The Holy Spirit will provide their defense (Acts 4:8).

■ 10:22 all. Every sort of people. The allusion is to Mic. 7:6, which Jesus later quotes (v. 35).

■ 10:23 before the Son of Man comes. There are several interpretations of the coming of the Son of Man referred to in this verse.

(a) The "coming" is the Second Coming of Christ to judge the earth. This view fits most of the other occurrences of the phrase (24:30; 25:31; 26:64; but see 16:28). The chief difficulty is that the note of urgency in v. 23 seems incompatible with a delay until the Last Judgment.

(b) The "coming" is the resurrection and ascension of Jesus or the sending of the Spirit at Pentecost. However, there is no evidence that the disciples were persecuted with the intensity assumed in vv. 17–22 prior to Jesus' resurrection or Pentecost.

(c) The phrase "before the Son of Man comes" is a way of saying, "before I rejoin you." But again the persecution described in vv. 17–22 did not occur during this time, and the purpose for the coming of the Son of Man elsewhere (to bring judgment) makes this meaning unlikely.

(d) The "coming" refers to the destruction of Jerusalem in A.D. 70 as an act of judgment against the nation of Israel. This understanding retains the note of urgency and fits the experience of the church prior to A.D. 70. The other references to the coming of the Son of Man view it as a great and terrible display of God's judgment. Although these cannot be limited to the destruction of Jerusalem, that event was terrible in intensity and fell on what had been the central visible symbol of God's presence, the temple.

■ 10:25 Beelzebub. Greek beelzeboul, a transliteration of a Hebrew or Aramaic name for the prince of demons (12:24–27). The name probably means "lord of heaven," and appears in the Old Testament in the intentionally distorted form Baal-Zebub ("lord of the flies") as a name for the god of Ekron (2 Kin. 1:2).

disciple that he be like his teacher, and a servant like his master. If [k]they have called the master of the house [7]Beelzebub, how much more will they call those of his household! [26]Therefore do not fear them. [l]For there is nothing covered that will not be revealed, and hidden that will not be known.

Jesus Teaches the Fear of God

[27]"Whatever I tell you in the dark, [m]speak in the light; and what you hear in the ear, preach on the housetops. [28][n]And do not fear those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul. But rather [o]fear Him who is able to destroy both soul and body in [8]hell. [29]Are not two [p]sparrows sold for a [9]copper coin? And not one of them falls to the ground apart from your Father's will. [30][q]But the very hairs of your head are all numbered. [31]Do not fear therefore; you are of more value than many sparrows.

Confess Christ Before Men

[32][r]"Therefore whoever confesses Me before men, [s]him I will also confess before My Father who is in heaven. [33][t]But whoever denies Me before men, him I will also deny before My Father who is in heaven.

Christ Brings Division

[34][u]"Do not think that I came to bring peace on earth. I did not come to bring peace but a sword. [35]For I have come to [v]set[l] a man against his father, a daughter against her mother, and a daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law'; [36]and [w]'a man's enemies will be those of his own household.' [37][x]He who loves father or mother more than Me is not worthy of Me. And he who loves son or daughter more than Me is not worthy of Me. [38][y]And he who does not take his cross and follow after Me is not worthy of Me. [39][z]He who finds his life will lose it, and he who loses his life for My sake will find it.

A Cup of Cold Water

[40][a]"He who receives you receives Me, and he who receives Me receives Him who sent Me. [41][b]He who receives a prophet in the name of a prophet shall receive a prophet's reward. And he who receives a righteous man in the name of a righteous man shall receive a righteous man's reward. [42][c]And whoever gives one of these little ones only a cup of cold water in the name of a disciple, assuredly, I say to you, he shall by no means lose his reward."

John the Baptist Sends Messengers to Jesus

11 Now it came to pass, when Jesus finished commanding His twelve disciples, that He departed from there to [a]teach and to preach in their cities.

[2][b]And when John had heard [c]in prison about the works of Christ, he [l]sent two of his disciples [3]and said to Him, "Are You [d]the Coming One, or do we look for another?"

[4]Jesus answered and said to them, "Go and tell John the things which you hear and see: [5][e]The blind see and the lame walk; the lepers are cleansed and the deaf hear; the dead are raised up and [f]the poor have the gospel preached to them. [6]And blessed is he who is not [g]offended because of Me."

■ 10:26–31 This injunction to fear God and not people is perhaps a development of Is. 8:12, 13. It is supported by three arguments: first, the acts of the wicked will be shown for what they are; second, although people can kill the body, God can punish soul and body; and third, God orders everything, down to the fall of a sparrow and the number of hairs on the head. The Bible consistently teaches that fear and reverence are appropriate responses to God.

■ 10:28 hell. See note on 5:22.

■ 10:35 a man against his father. Mic. 7:6 addresses the rebelliousness and strife characteristic of Israel during the time of Ahaz. Just as Israel's history foreshadows Jesus' history (2:15 note), its turmoil and strife foreshadow the strife that results from the coming of the Messiah, even to the division of families. Although coming to Christ brings peace to the heart (11:29), embracing the gospel also makes life more difficult in some respects, because Jesus demands allegiance that takes priority over the natural ties of life (vv. 37–39).

■ 10:38 take his cross. This is to obey and identify with Jesus even unto death, not simply to bear some particular burden imposed by the Lord.

■ 10:41 prophet . . . righteous man. This verse emphasizes the principle that receiving those who are emissaries of another is equivalent to receiving the person who sent them (v. 40).

■ 10:42 little ones. While not excluding children, this phrase refers to all Jesus' disciples, who are to be like little children (18:1–6, 10, 14). Jesus' remark about reward underscores the importance of accepting and assisting even those believers who seem insignificant (25:40, 45).

■ 11:2 the works of Christ. Since Matthew seldom uses "Christ" as a name for Jesus, this phrase probably means "when John heard in prison about the messianic deeds." John the Baptist had predicted that the Coming One would bring judgment, chopping down the trees of wickedness (3:10, 12). But Jesus allowed His own forerunner to be imprisoned by the wicked Herod.

■ 11:4–6 Jesus makes John's disciples witnesses of His miracles, miracles that directly fulfill Is. 35:5, 6.

7 [h]As they departed, Jesus began to say to the multitudes concerning John: "What did you go out into the wilderness to see? [i]A reed shaken by the wind? 8 But what did you go out to see? A man clothed in soft garments? Indeed, those who wear soft clothing are in kings' houses. 9 But what did you go out to see? A prophet? Yes, I say to you, [j]and more than a prophet. 10 For this is he of whom it is written:

> [k]'Behold, I send My messenger before Your face,
> Who will prepare Your way before You.'

11 "Assuredly, I say to you, among those born of women there has not risen one greater than John the Baptist; but he who is least in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he. 12 [l]And from the days of John the Baptist until now the kingdom of heaven suffers violence, and the violent take it by force. 13 [m]For all the prophets and the law prophesied until John. 14 And if you are willing to receive it, he is [n]Elijah who is to come. 15 [o]He who has ears to hear, let him hear!

16 [p]"But to what shall I liken this generation? It is like children sitting in the marketplaces and calling to their companions, 17 and saying:

> 'We played the flute for you,
> And you did not dance;
> We mourned to you,
> And you did not [2]lament.'

18 For John came neither eating nor drinking, and they say, 'He has a demon.' 19 The Son of Man came eating and drinking, and they say, 'Look, a glutton and a [3]winebibber, [q]a friend of tax collectors and sinners!' [r]But wisdom is justified by her [4]children."

Woe to the Impenitent Cities

20 [s]Then He began to rebuke the cities in which most of His mighty works had been done, because they did not repent: 21 "Woe to you, Chorazin! Woe to you, Bethsaida! For if the mighty works which were done in you had been done in Tyre and Sidon, they would have repented long ago [t]in sackcloth and ashes. 22 But I say to you, [u]it will be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon in the day of judgment than for you. 23 And you, Capernaum, [v]who[5] are exalted to heaven, will be brought down to Hades; for if the mighty works which were done in you had been done in Sodom, it would have remained until this day. 24 But I say to you [w]that it shall be more tolerable for the land of Sodom in the day of judgment than for you."

Jesus Gives True Rest

25 [x]At that time Jesus answered and said, "I thank You, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that [y]You have hidden these things from the wise and prudent [z]and have revealed them to babes. 26 Even so, Father, for so it seemed good in Your sight. 27 [a]All things have been delivered to Me

■ 11:9 more than a prophet. John the Baptist was the immediate forerunner of the One to whom all the prophets pointed, and hence he pointed to Christ more clearly than all of them. As such, he himself was the object of prophecy, the one predicted in Mal. 3:1, the fulfillment of the Elijah prophecy of Mal. 4:5, 6 (v. 14), the herald of the Servant of the Lord (3:3; Is. 40:3).

■ 11:11 greater than he. The least in the kingdom are greater than John because, standing after the Cross and Resurrection and having received the fullness of the Spirit, they participate in what the prophets saw from a distance (1 Pet. 1:10–12).

■ 11:12 suffers violence. The kingdom is pressing ahead with force, although violent men, such as Herod who had imprisoned John the Baptist, are trying to overcome it by force. It is not the strong and forceful who obtain the kingdom but the weak and helpless (vv. 28–30), who know their own weakness and are ready to depend on God (cf. Luke 16:16 note).

■ 11:14 he is Elijah. Jesus identifies John the Baptist as the Elijah prophesied by Malachi to come as the forerunner of the Messiah (Mal. 4:5). This identification required the eyes of faith ("if you are willing to receive it"). There may have been some misunderstanding that Elijah would be reincarnated, but John denied that he was Elijah (John 1:21). Gabriel's announcement was that John would come "in the spirit and power" of Elijah (Luke 1:17).

■ 11:19 Son of Man. See note on 8:20.

wisdom is justified by her children. Jesus uses a proverb to make a point about Himself. The "children" in view are His own messianic deeds (vv. 2–5). The things done by Christ as the "wisdom from God" (1 Cor. 1:30) "justify" Him, or demonstrate that He is right (James 3:17, 18).

■ 11:25 You have hidden . . . and have revealed. God is sovereign in choosing those to whom He will reveal His truth. No one can know God by worldly wisdom and learning (1 Cor. 1:26–31).

■ 11:27 delivered to Me. Jesus here makes extraordinary claims. He claims that God's sovereign disposition of all things has been committed to Him. As in Dan. 7, the Son of Man has received all power and dominion. He claims that He alone knows the Father and the Father alone knows Him. Jesus' knowledge is equal to the Father's, and His sonship is unique. He claims that His sovereignty extends even to deciding who will know the Father. This idea parallels v. 25, but here it is Jesus who reveals the Father.

by My Father, and no one knows the Son except the Father. [b]Nor does anyone know the Father except the Son, and the one to whom the Son wills to reveal Him. [28]Come to [c]Me, all you who labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. [29]Take My yoke upon you [d]and learn from Me, for I am [e]gentle and [e]lowly in heart, [f]and you will find rest for your souls. [30][g]For My yoke is easy and My burden is light."

Jesus Is Lord of the Sabbath

12 At that time [a]Jesus went through the grainfields on the Sabbath. And His disciples were hungry, and began to [b]pluck heads of grain and to eat. [2]And when the Pharisees saw it, they said to Him, "Look, Your disciples are doing what is not lawful to do on the Sabbath!"

[3]But He said to them, "Have you not read [c]what David did when he was hungry, he and those who were with him: [4]how he entered the house of God and ate [d]the showbread which was not lawful for him to eat, nor for those who were with him, [e]but only for the priests? [5]Or have you not read in the [f]law that on the Sabbath the priests in the temple [1]profane the Sabbath, and are blameless? [6]Yet I say to you that in this place there is [g]One greater than the temple. [7]But if you had known what this means, [h]'I desire mercy and not sacrifice,' you would not have condemned the guiltless. [8]For the Son of Man is Lord [2]even of the Sabbath."

Healing on the Sabbath

[9][i]Now when He had departed from there, He went into their synagogue. [10]And behold, there was a man who had a withered hand. And they asked Him, saying, [j]"Is it lawful to heal on the Sabbath?"—that they might accuse Him.

[11]Then He said to them, "What man is there among you who has one sheep, and if it falls into a pit on the Sabbath, will not lay hold of it and lift it out? [12]Of how much more value then is a man than a sheep? Therefore it is lawful to do good on the Sabbath." [13]Then He said to the man, "Stretch out your hand." And he stretched it out, and it was restored as whole as the other. [14]Then [k]the Pharisees went out and plotted against Him, how they might destroy Him.

Behold, My Servant

[15]But when Jesus knew it, [l]He withdrew from there. [m]And great [3]multitudes followed Him, and He healed them all. [16]Yet He [n]warned them not to make Him known, [17]that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Isaiah the prophet, saying:

■ 11:28 Come to Me. Jesus has the authority to invite people to Himself. He does not extend His invitation to the strong but to the weary and burdened. Jesus uses the language of the wisdom tradition, calling the burdened to Himself as the incarnate wisdom of God (v. 19 note).

■ 11:29, 30 Though the law had been given by God as a help to His people, the oral traditions of the scribes and Pharisees went far beyond the demands of God and became a heavy burden (12:2 note; 15:2). When the law was understood as a way of salvation, it became a "yoke of bondage" (Gal. 5:1). By contrast, the yoke of Jesus, while demanding, is "easy" because it is from One who is "gentle and lowly in heart" and can provide true rest for the soul. See "The Humble Obedience of Christ" at John 5:19.

■ 12:2 not lawful. The Old Testament does not prohibit plucking grain on the Sabbath in order to eat—the disciples were not farmers engaged in the work of harvest. The Pharisees' objections were based on an oral tradition that failed to understand the true purpose of the Law. See "Christian Liberty" at Gal. 5:1.

Sabbath. The Sabbath is a symbol of God's sovereignty over the whole created universe (Ex. 20:8). It is a reminder of His redemption of His people (Deut. 5:12), and it is a representation of the hope of eternal rest at the Consummation (Heb. 4:9). Jesus as Lord of the Sabbath fulfills all aspects of the meaning of the Sabbath (Col. 2:16, 17).

■ 12:3–6 In His reply to the accusations of the Pharisees, Jesus uses two arguments from the lesser to the greater, both focusing on His own person and authority. David's transgression of the ceremonial law in an hour of need had been allowed, and now One with much greater authority was present. Similarly, the demands of temple worship excuse priests from certain requirements of the Law and now "One greater than the temple" is here (v. 6).

■ 12:6 One greater than the temple. As the genuine needs of people are more important to God than ceremonial symbols, so the One in whom God dwells is greater than the symbolic dwelling place. Jesus, Immanuel ("God with us"), is the true temple, to whom the symbol pointed (John 1:14; 2:21). The disciples, being in the presence of Jesus, had a far greater service than the priests who served in the Jerusalem temple.

■ 12:7 I desire mercy. Again quoting Hos. 6:6 (cf. 9:13), Jesus condemns the misuse of the law by the Pharisees. The Sabbath was given by God as a help to humanity, but the Pharisees were perverting this purpose by turning the Sabbath against those in need and making it a burden (Mark 2:27).

■ 12:8 Lord even of the Sabbath. The Son of Man has received dominion over creation (8:20 note) and redemption (20:28). So too He has dominion over the Sabbath, the sign of God's sovereignty in creation and redemption (v. 2 note). The claims Jesus makes here doubtless shocked the Pharisees, furthering their resolve to kill Him (v. 14).

■ 12:9–14 Another example of Christ's lordship over the Sabbath. Again, there is no Old Testament prohibition of healing on the Sabbath, and it is always lawful to do good. Jesus does not teach that the Sabbath is abolished by the coming of the kingdom. He came not to destroy the law, but to fulfill it (5:17 note). The problem was not that the Pharisees observed the Sabbath but that they misinterpreted it, and turned what should have been a delight into a burden.

■ 12:16–21 warned them not to make Him known. Is. 42:1–4 is cited as an explanation of why Jesus commanded people not to tell who He was. He came to proclaim and establish justice, but not by a showy display of power, and not by leading a political or military movement. Since the role of the Messiah was so misunderstood among the people, Jesus had to dampen the misguided enthusiasm that was bound to spring up.

18 "Behold![o] My Servant whom I have chosen,
My Beloved[p] in whom My soul is well pleased!
I will put My Spirit upon Him,
And He will declare justice to the Gentiles.
19 He will not quarrel nor cry out,
Nor will anyone hear His voice in the streets.
20 A bruised reed He will not break,
And smoking flax He will not quench,
Till He sends forth justice to victory;
21 And in His name Gentiles will trust."

A House Divided Cannot Stand

22 [q]Then one was brought to Him who was demon-possessed, blind and mute; and He healed him, so that the [4]blind and mute man both spoke and saw. 23 And all the multitudes were amazed and said, "Could this be the [r]Son of David?"

24 [s]Now when the Pharisees heard it they said, "This fellow does not cast out demons except by [5]Beelzebub, the ruler of the demons."

25 But Jesus [t]knew their thoughts, and said to them: "Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation, and every city or house divided against itself will not stand. 26 If Satan casts out Satan, he is divided against himself. How then will his kingdom stand? 27 And if I cast out demons by Beelzebub, by whom do your sons cast them out? Therefore they shall be your judges. 28 But if I cast out demons by the Spirit of God, [u]surely the kingdom of God has come upon you. 29 [v]Or how can one enter a strong man's house and plunder his goods, unless he first binds the strong man? And then he will plunder his house. 30 He who is not with Me is against Me, and he who does not gather with Me scatters abroad.

The Unpardonable Sin

31 "Therefore I say to you, [w]every sin and blasphemy will be forgiven men, [x]but the blasphemy against the Spirit will not be forgiven men. 32 Anyone who [y]speaks a word against the Son of Man, [z]it will be forgiven him; but whoever speaks against the Holy Spirit, it will not be forgiven him, either in this age or in the age to come.

A Tree Known by Its Fruit

33 "Either make the tree good and [a]its fruit good, or else make the tree bad and its fruit bad; for a tree is known by its fruit. 34 [b]Brood[6] of vipers! How can you, being evil, speak good things? [c]For out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaks. 35 A good man out of the good treasure [7]of his heart brings forth good things, and an evil man out of the evil treasure brings forth evil things. 36 But I say to you that for every idle word men may speak, they will give account of it in the day of judgment. 37 For by your words you will be justified, and by your words you will be condemned."

The Scribes and Pharisees Ask for a Sign

38 [d]Then some of the scribes and Pharisees answered, saying, "Teacher, we want to see a sign from You."

39 But He answered and said to them, "An evil and [e]adulterous generation seeks after a sign, and no sign will be given to it except the sign of the prophet Jonah. 40 [f]For as Jonah was three days and three nights in the belly of the great fish, so will the Son of Man be three days and three

■ 12:24 Beelzebub. See note on 10:25.

■ 12:29 binds the strong man. By His victory over Satan in the wilderness (4:10 note) and exorcism of demons, Jesus demonstrated that He had bound the "strong man" and that Satan was powerless to prevent the coming of the kingdom. The binding of Satan was a symbol of the messianic age in Jewish apocalyptic literature (see also Rev. 20:2).

■ 12:31, 32 Speaking against the Spirit, calling the work of the Spirit the work of Satan, involves an explicit, willful, and decisive rejection of the very Power that can bring about repentance. The notion of the "unforgivable sin" has caused needless anxiety. Anyone who has been convicted of sin by the Spirit (John 16:8) and now believes the truth cannot possibly have committed it. See "The Unpardonable Sin" at Mark 3:29.

■ 12:36, 37 Jesus indicates that words, even carelessly spoken words, are eternally important. In the Bible verbal sins such as lies, gossip, or insults are condemned as severely as adultery and murder (5:22, 37; 2 Cor. 12:20; 1 Tim. 1:10; James 3:6; Rev. 21:8).

■ 12:38 sign. That they should ask for a sign is incredible in the light of what they had already seen. Jesus does not do miracles on demand.

■ 12:39 sign of . . . Jonah. Jonah was as good as dead and then restored to life again, and the Son of Man's rising from the dead (v. 40) is the greatest sign of all that the kingdom has come.

■ 12:40 three days and three nights. An emphatic way of saying "three days."

An Unclean Spirit Returns

43 k"When an unclean spirit goes out of a man, lhe goes through dry places, seeking rest, and finds none. 44 Then he says, 'I will return to my house from which I came.' And when he comes, he finds it empty, swept, and put in order. 45 Then he goes and takes with him seven other spirits more wicked than himself, and they enter and dwell there; mand the last state of that man is worse than the first. So shall it also be with this wicked generation."

Jesus' Mother and Brothers Send for Him

46 While He was still talking to the multitudes, nbehold, His mother and obrothers stood outside, seeking to speak with Him. 47 Then one said to Him, "Look, pYour mother and Your brothers are standing outside, seeking to speak with You."

48 But He answered and said to the one who told Him, "Who is My mother and who are My brothers?" 49 And He stretched out His hand toward His disciples and said, "Here are My mother and My qbrothers! 50 For rwhoever does the will of My Father in heaven is My brother and sister and mother."

The Parable of the Sower

13 On the same day Jesus went out of the house aand sat by the sea. 2 bAnd great multitudes were gathered together to Him, so that cHe got into a boat and sat; and the whole multitude stood on the shore.

3 Then He spoke many things to them in parables, saying: d"Behold, a sower went out to sow. 4 And as he sowed, some seed fell by the wayside; and the birds came and devoured them. 5 Some fell on stony places, where they did not have much earth; and they immediately sprang up because they had no depth of earth. 6 But when the sun was up they were scorched, and because they had no root they withered away. 7 And some fell among thorns, and the thorns sprang up and choked them. 8 But others fell on good ground and yielded a crop: some ea hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty. 9 fHe who has ears to hear, let him hear!"

The Purpose of Parables

10 And the disciples came and said to Him, "Why do You speak to them in parables?"

11 He answered and said to them, "Because git has been given to you to know the tmysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it has not been given. 12 hFor whoever has, to him more will be given, and he will have abundance; but whoever does not have, even what he has will be taken away from him. 13 Therefore I speak to them in parables, because seeing they do not see,

■ 12:43–45 Unless the Holy Spirit resides in the heart, unholy spirits may enter (Rom. 8:9). If people will not commit themselves to the King whose power they have experienced, their final state will be worse than if the kingdom had never come (Heb. 6:4–6).

■ 13:1–53 This collection of parables on the nature of the kingdom of heaven is the third great discourse in Matthew (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes).

■ 13:3 parables. Although the term "parable" can have a broad range of meanings, Jesus' "parables" are His distinctive teaching through brief comparisons or narratives. They usually have one central point or idea. Most of Jesus' parables are clear, but they also contain a depth of meaning that only one with a right relationship to Jesus can comprehend. It is only to the disciples that Jesus gives the interpretation of the parable of the sower (vv. 18–23) and the parable of the tares (vv. 36–43). The ungodly miss this deeper meaning because their lack of a proper relationship with God has darkened their thoughts and hearts (Rom. 1:21).

■ 13:10 in parables. See "The Teaching of Jesus" at Matt. 7:28.

■ 13:11–17 It is difficult to escape the note of election here. Even the ability to understand God's message, let alone respond to it, is the gift of God. The ears that hear are blessed by God.

■ 13:11 to you . . . to them. The "mysteries" of the kingdom are the things that were indicated in veiled manner in the Old Testament, but are now made clear to the disciples by the coming of the King. See "Illumination and Conviction" at 1 Cor. 2:10.

■ 13:12 To those who have a relationship with Jesus, parables deepen understanding and foster that relationship, but to those who do not, parables increase the confusion and ignorance. Thus the function of parables is both to enlighten and to conceal.

■ 13:13 because seeing. Mark 4:12 (cf. Luke 8:10) phrases this statement even more strongly, with "so that" rather than "because." For Mark Jesus' purpose in telling parables is to prevent understanding and to cause unbelief (Mark 4:11 note); in Matthew Jesus' parables are in response to people's unbelief and inability to understand. Though some argue that Matthew softens the note of divine sovereignty seen in Mark, the word "lest" in v. 15 indicates that God's sovereign choice lies behind the hardening of their hearts whether it precedes (Matthew) or follows (Mark) an encounter with Jesus' teaching. While in this passage Matthew highlights the moral responsibility of those who reject Christ, his inclusion of the reference to Is. 6:9, 10 illustrates the compatibility of God's sovereignty and human responsibility. The parables served as an instrument of judgment by hardening the impenitent.

and hearing they do not hear, nor do they understand. 14 And in them the prophecy of Isaiah is fulfilled, which says:

i 'Hearing you will hear and shall not understand,
And seeing you will see and not jperceive;
15 For the hearts of this people have grown dull.
Their ears kare hard of hearing,
And their eyes they have lclosed,
Lest they should see with their eyes and hear with their ears,
Lest they should understand with their hearts and turn,
So that I 2should mheal them.'

16 But *n*blessed are your eyes for they see, and your ears for they hear; 17 for assuredly, I say to you *o*that many prophets and righteous men desired to see what you see, and did not see it, and to hear what you hear, and did not hear it.

The Parable of the Sower Explained

18 p"Therefore hear the parable of the sower: 19 When anyone hears the word *q*of the kingdom, and does not understand it, then the wicked one comes and snatches away what was sown in his heart. This is he who received seed by the wayside. 20 But he who received the seed on stony places, this is he who hears the word and immediately *r*receives it with joy; 21 yet he has no root in himself, but endures only for a while. For when *s*tribulation or persecution arises because of the word, immediately *t*he stumbles. 22 Now *u*he who received seed *v*among the thorns is he who hears the word, and the cares of this world and the deceitfulness of riches choke the word, and he becomes unfruitful. 23 But he who received seed on the good ground is he who hears the word and understands it, who indeed bears *w*fruit and produces: some a hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty."

The Parable of the Wheat and the Tares

24 Another parable He put forth to them, saying: "The kingdom of heaven is like a man who sowed good seed in his field; 25 but while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat and went his way. 26 But when the grain had sprouted and produced a crop, then the tares also appeared. 27 So the servants of the owner came and said to him, 'Sir, did you not sow good seed in your field? How then does it have tares?' 28 He said to them, 'An enemy has done this.' The servants said to him, 'Do you want us then to go and gather them up?' 29 But he said, 'No, lest while you gather up the tares you also uproot the wheat with them. 30 Let both grow together until the harvest, and at the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, "First gather together the tares and bind them in bundles to burn them, but *x*gather the wheat into my barn."' "

The Parable of the Mustard Seed

31 Another parable He put forth to them, saying: y"The kingdom of heaven is like a mustard seed, which a man took and sowed in his field, 32 which indeed is the least of all the seeds; but when it is grown it is greater than the herbs and becomes a *z*tree, so that the birds of the air come and nest in its branches."

■ 13:19 of the kingdom. See "The Kingdom of God" at Luke 17:20.

■ 13:22 deceitfulness of riches. Wealth is a blessing from God, but it is a dangerous blessing if it captivates the heart.

■ 13:23 who hears the word and understands it. Only hearing and understanding the word (obedience being implied) results in fruit. There are those who temporarily receive the word but who fall away to avoid earthly discomfort or lose their commitment in pursuit of earthly wealth (v. 22). Likewise there are differing levels of bearing fruit. There are ultimately only two kinds of ground, that which genuinely receives the word to bear fruit and that which does not.

■ 13:24–30 Again, Jesus Himself provides the interpretation (vv. 36–43). The field is the whole world, not just Israel or the church, and God withholds immediate judgment for the sake of the elect who are in the world. The righteous have had to live in the midst of the unrighteous from the beginning.

■ 13:31 like a mustard seed. The mustard scrub can grow to a height of ten feet. The things of God may appear small in the world, yet have great results. Certainly the kingdom of heaven at that point in history appeared to be nothing in comparison with Rome, yet it would prove to be much greater.

■ 13:32 The picture of a tree with birds nesting in the branches recalls Ezek. 17:23, where the birds represent the Gentile nations taking refuge in the Messiah and enjoying the blessings of the covenant.

The Parable of the Leaven

33 [a]Another parable He spoke to them: "The kingdom of heaven is like leaven, which a woman took and hid in three [3]measures of meal till [b]it was all leavened."

Prophecy and the Parables

34 [c]All these things Jesus spoke to the multitude in parables; and without a parable He did not speak to them, 35 that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying:

> [d]"I will open My mouth in parables;
> [e]I will utter things kept secret from the foundation of the world."

The Parable of the Tares Explained

36 Then Jesus sent the multitude away and went into the house. And His disciples came to Him, saying, "Explain to us the parable of the tares of the field."

37 He answered and said to them: "He who sows the good seed is the Son of Man. 38 [f]The field is the world, the good seeds are the sons of the kingdom, but the tares are [g]the sons of the wicked one. 39 The enemy who sowed them is the devil, [h]the harvest is the end of the age, and the reapers are the angels. 40 Therefore as the tares are gathered and burned in the fire, so it will be at the end of this age. 41 The Son of Man will send out His angels, [i]and they will gather out of His kingdom all things that offend, and those who practice lawlessness, 42 [j]and will cast them into the furnace of fire. [k]There will be wailing and gnashing of teeth. 43 [l]Then the righteous will shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father. [m]He who has ears to hear, let him hear!

The Parable of the Hidden Treasure

44 "Again, the kingdom of heaven is like treasure hidden in a field, which a man found and hid; and for joy over it he goes and [n]sells all that he has and [o]buys that field.

The Parable of the Pearl of Great Price

45 "Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a merchant seeking beautiful pearls, 46 who, when he had found [p]one pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had and bought it.

The Parable of the Dragnet

47 "Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a dragnet that was cast into the sea and [q]gathered some of every kind, 48 which, when it was full, they drew to shore; and they sat down and gathered the good into vessels, but threw the bad away. 49 So it will be at the end of the age. The angels will come forth, [r]separate the wicked from among the just, 50 and cast them into the furnace of fire. There will be wailing and gnashing of teeth."

51 [4]Jesus said to them, "Have you understood all these things?"

They said to Him, "Yes, [5]Lord."

52 Then He said to them, "Therefore every [6]scribe instructed [7]concerning the kingdom of heaven is like a householder who brings out of his treasure [s]things new and old."

■ 13:33 like leaven. Although leaven or yeast is often a symbol of evil (16:11), here the point is that the kingdom permeates the world. Jesus' concerns extended beyond Israel to the whole world.

■ 13:34, 35 Parables reveal as well as conceal. Jesus quotes from Ps. 78:2, where the "parables" or "dark sayings" are a recital of the history of God's redemption of His people climaxing in the choice of David to shepherd Israel. The redemptive events themselves were not "secret," but their meaning was not obvious. The psalmist revealed their meaning.

■ 13:37 Son of Man. See note on 8:20.

■ 13:41 gather out. The final Judgment will not only be a separation of the ungodly from the godly, but of ungodliness from the godly. Note that the Son of Man will send His angels—Jesus clearly asserts divine authority.

■ 13:42 furnace of fire. See "Hell" at Mark 9:43.

■ 13:43 shine forth as the sun. An allusion to Dan. 12:3, a promise of the future resurrection.

■ 13:44, 45 Jesus made known the secret things of the kingdom by parables (v. 35), but they remain hidden for most people, who cannot see their value. But like the man who finds treasure or the trader in pearls, those who do perceive the value of the kingdom will sacrifice anything to obtain it (Phil. 3:8).

■ 13:52 every scribe. See text note. These teachers were frequently castigated by Jesus (23:13–32), not because of their positions as teachers, but because of their hypocrisy.

instructed concerning the kingdom. The Greek phrase may also be rendered "has become a disciple of the kingdom." Since this saying immediately follows Jesus' asking the disciples if they understand, the implication is that the disciples will become teachers, and will, like a hospitable host, share with others the "treasures" they have received—an understanding of both the old redemptive history that points to Christ and the new redemptive acts that mark the presence of the kingdom.

Jesus Rejected at Nazareth

53 Now it came to pass, when Jesus had finished these parables, that He departed from there.
54 [t]When He had come to His own country, He taught them in their synagogue, so that they were astonished and said, "Where did this Man get this wisdom and these mighty works? 55 [u]Is this not the carpenter's son? Is not His mother called Mary? And [v]His brothers [w]James, [g]Joses, Simon, and Judas? 56 And His sisters, are they not all with us? Where then did this Man get all these things?" 57 So they [x]were offended at Him.

But Jesus said to them, [y]"A prophet is not without honor except in his own country and in his own house." 58 Now [z]He did not do many mighty works there because of their unbelief.

John the Baptist Beheaded

14 At that time [a]Herod the tetrarch heard the report about Jesus 2 and said to his servants, "This is John the Baptist; he is risen from the dead, and therefore these powers are at work in him." 3 [b]For Herod had laid hold of John and bound him, and put him in prison for the sake of Herodias, his brother Philip's wife. 4 Because John had said to him, [c]"It is not lawful for you to have her." 5 And although he wanted to put him to death, he feared the multitude, [d]because they counted him as a prophet.

6 But when Herod's birthday was celebrated, the daughter of Herodias danced before them and pleased Herod. 7 Therefore he promised with an oath to give her whatever she might ask.

8 So she, having been prompted by her mother, said, "Give me John the Baptist's head here on a platter."

9 And the king was sorry; nevertheless, because of the oaths and because of those who sat with him, he commanded it to be given to her. 10 So he sent and had John beheaded in prison. 11 And his head was brought on a platter and given to the girl, and she brought it to her mother. 12 Then his disciples came and took away the body and buried it, and went and told Jesus.

Feeding the Five Thousand

13 [e]When Jesus heard it, He departed from there by boat to a deserted place by Himself. But when the multitudes heard it, they followed Him on foot from the cities. 14 And when Jesus went out He saw a great multitude; and He [f]was moved with compassion for them, and healed their sick. 15 [g]When it was evening, His disciples came to Him, saying, "This is a deserted place, and the hour is already late. Send the multitudes away, that they may go into the villages and buy themselves food."

16 But Jesus said to them, "They do not need to go away. You give them something to eat."

17 And they said to Him, "We have here only five loaves and two fish."

18 He said, "Bring them here to Me." 19 Then He commanded the multitudes to sit down on the grass. And He took the five loaves and the two fish, and looking up to heaven, [h]He blessed and broke and gave the loaves to the disciples; and the disciples gave to the multitudes. 20 So they all ate and were filled, and they took up twelve baskets full of the fragments that remained. 21 Now those who had eaten were about five thousand men, besides women and children.

Jesus Walks on the Sea

22 Immediately Jesus [i]made His disciples get into the boat and go before Him to the other side, while He sent the multitudes away. 23 [j]And when He had sent the multitudes away, He went up on the mountain by Himself to pray. [k]Now when evening came, He was alone there. 24 But the boat was now [2]in the middle of the sea, tossed by the waves, for the wind was contrary.

25 Now in the fourth watch of the night Jesus went to them, walking on the sea. 26 And when

■ 13:55 carpenter's son. The Greek word translated "carpenter" is also a general term for any craftsman of worker. Joseph could have worked with wood or stone.

■ 13:58 Jesus' refusal to do many miracles in Nazareth was not because He needed the faith of people to empower Him, but because miracles are of little value to those without faith (cf. 1 Cor. 13:2).

■ 14:3 Herod . . . his brother Philip's wife. See notes on Mark 6:14, 17. The genealogy of the Herods is confusing, with multiple marriages, marriages of close relatives, and reuse of similar names.

■ 14:6 the daughter of Herodias. A daughter by an earlier marriage to Herod Philip. According to the Jewish historian Josephus, the daughter's name was Salome and she later married another son of Herod the Great, Philip the tetrarch of Iturea and Trachonitis (Luke 3:1).

■ 14:13 heard it. According to v. 2, enough time had elapsed following the death of John the Baptist for reports of Jesus' miracles to come back to Herod. Jesus heard about Herod's renewed inquiries.

■ 14:15–21 As God provided manna for Israel in the desert, so Jesus provided bread for the people in a remote place. Jesus challenges the disciples to provide for the crowd, then makes them ministers of His provision (vv. 16, 19).

the disciples saw Him [k]walking on the sea, they were troubled, saying, "It is a ghost!" And they cried out for fear.

27 But immediately Jesus spoke to them, saying, [3]"Be of good [l]cheer! [4]It is I; do not be afraid."

28 And Peter answered Him and said, "Lord, if it is You, command me to come to You on the water."

29 So He said, "Come." And when Peter had come down out of the boat, he walked on the water to go to Jesus. 30 But when he saw [5]that the wind was boisterous, he was afraid; and beginning to sink he cried out, saying, "Lord, save me!"

31 And immediately Jesus stretched out His hand and caught him, and said to him, "O you of [m]little faith, why did you doubt?" 32 And when they got into the boat, the wind ceased.

33 Then those who were in the boat [6]came and worshiped Him, saying, "Truly [n]You are the Son of God."

Many Touch Him and Are Made Well

34 [o]When they had crossed over, they came [7]to the land of Gennesaret. 35 And when the men of that place recognized Him, they sent out into all that surrounding region, brought to Him all who were sick, 36 and begged Him that they might only [p]touch the hem of His garment. And [q]as many as touched it were made perfectly well.

Defilement Comes from Within

15 Then [a]the scribes and Pharisees who were from Jerusalem came to Jesus, saying, 2 [b]"Why do Your disciples transgress the tradition of the elders? For they do not wash their hands when they eat bread."

3 He answered and said to them, "Why do you also transgress the commandment of God because of your tradition? 4 For God commanded, saying, [c]'Honor your father and your mother'; and, [d]'He who curses father or mother, let him be put to death.' 5 But you say, 'Whoever says to his father or mother, [e]"Whatever profit you might have received from me is a gift to God"— 6 then he need not honor his father [1]or mother.' Thus you have made the [2]commandment of God of no effect by your tradition. 7 [f]Hypocrites! Well did Isaiah prophesy about you, saying:

8 'These [g] people [3]draw near to Me with their mouth,
And honor Me with their lips,
But their heart is far from Me.
9 And in vain they worship Me,
[h] Teaching as doctrines the commandments of men.'"

10 [i]When He had called the multitude to Himself, He said to them, "Hear and understand: 11 [j]Not what goes into the mouth defiles a man; but what comes out of the mouth, this defiles a man."

12 Then His disciples came and said to Him, "Do You know that the Pharisees were offended when they heard this saying?"

13 But He answered and said, [k]"Every plant which My heavenly Father has not planted will be uprooted. 14 Let them alone. [l]They are blind leaders of the blind. And if the blind leads the blind, both will fall into a ditch."

15 [m]Then Peter answered and said to Him, "Explain this parable to us."

16 So Jesus said, [n]"Are you also still without understanding? 17 Do you not yet understand that [o]whatever enters the mouth goes into the stomach and is eliminated? 18 But [p]those things which proceed out of the mouth come from the heart, and they defile a man. 19 [q]For out of the heart proceed evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witness, blasphemies.

■ 14:30 Cf. Ps. 69:1–3.

■ 14:33 Son of God. This title recognizes the messiahship of Jesus and His display of divine power (16:16 note).

■ 15:2 tradition of the elders. This oral law was regarded by the Pharisees as having equal authority with the written law. It was codified as the Mishnah in the second century. One of its treatises covers details of hand washing, such as how much water is to be used, how many rinsings are necessary, and so on.

■ 15:3–6 Jesus makes a sharp distinction between human traditions and the divine commands of Scripture. Cherished traditional understandings must not supplant or obscure the Bible itself, nor should customs be elevated to the level of divine law. See "Legalism" at Matt. 23:4.

■ 15:11 what comes out of the mouth. What one says is a reflection or product of what is inside (12:36, 37 note).

20 These are the things which defile a man, but to eat with unwashed hands does not defile a man."

A Gentile Shows Her Faith

21 [r]Then Jesus went out from there and departed to the region of Tyre and Sidon. 22 And behold, a woman of Canaan came from that region and cried out to Him, saying, "Have mercy on me, O Lord, [s]Son of David! My daughter is severely demon-possessed."

23 But He answered her not a word.

And His disciples came and urged Him, saying, "Send her away, for she cries out after us."

24 But He answered and said, [t]"I was not sent except to the lost sheep of the house of Israel."

25 Then she came and worshiped Him, saying, "Lord, help me!"

26 But He answered and said, "It is not good to take the children's bread and throw it to the little [u]dogs."

27 And she said, "Yes, Lord, yet even the little dogs eat the crumbs which fall from their masters' table."

28 Then Jesus answered and said to her, "O woman, [v]great is your faith! Let it be to you as you desire." And her daughter was healed from that very hour.

Jesus Heals Great Multitudes

29 [w]Jesus departed from there, [x]skirted the Sea of Galilee, and went up on the mountain and sat down there. 30 [y]Then great multitudes came to Him, having with them the lame, blind, mute, [4]maimed, and many others; and they laid them down at Jesus' [z]feet, and He healed them. 31 So the multitude marveled when they saw the mute speaking, the [5]maimed made whole, the lame walking, and the blind seeing; and they [a]glorified the God of Israel.

Feeding the Four Thousand

32 [b]Now Jesus called His disciples to Himself and said, "I have compassion on the multitude, because they have now continued with Me three days and have nothing to eat. And I do not want to send them away hungry, lest they faint on the way."

33 [c]Then His disciples said to Him, "Where could we get enough bread in the wilderness to fill such a great multitude?"

34 Jesus said to them, "How many loaves do you have?"

And they said, "Seven, and a few little fish."

Jesus' Ministry Beyond Galilee. In the region of Tyre and Sidon, Jesus cast out a demon from the daughter of a Syro-Phoenician woman (Mark 7:24–30). In the region of Caesarea Philippi Peter made his great declaration of faith in Jesus as God's Messiah (Matt. 16:13–19). Jesus returned to Galilee via the Decapolis region, crossing the Jordan River south of the Sea of Galilee.

■ 15:24 except to the lost sheep . . . of Israel. Prior to the resurrection, the "wall of separation" (Eph. 2:14) still stood. Jesus came as the Messiah and heir to the throne of David. Jesus graciously responds only after it was clear that the woman had no presumption of deserving the blessing promised to Israel; rather, she hoped to benefit from the overflow of those blessings.

■ 15:26 throw it to the little dogs. The context indicates that house pets rather than strays are in view. The expression is not equivalent to the common insult "Gentile dog."

■ 15:29–39 Mark indicates that these events took place in the Decapolis (Mark 7:31), a predominantly Gentile area. It follows the story of the Canaanite woman.

The Pharisees and Sadducees Seek a Sign

16 Then the [a]Pharisees and Sadducees came, and testing Him asked that He would show them a sign from heaven. 2 He answered and said to them, "When it is evening you say, 'It will be fair weather, for the sky is red'; 3 and in the morning, 'It will be foul weather today, for the sky is red and threatening.' [1]Hypocrites! You know how to discern the face of the sky, but you cannot discern the signs of the times. 4 [b]A wicked and adulterous generation seeks after a sign, and no sign shall be given to it except the sign of [2]the prophet Jonah." And He left them and departed.

The Leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees

5 Now [c]when His disciples had come to the other side, they had forgotten to take bread. 6 Then Jesus said to them, [d]"Take heed and beware of the [3]leaven of the Pharisees and the Sadducees."

7 And they reasoned among themselves, saying, "It is because we have taken no bread."

8 But Jesus, being aware of it, said to them, "O you of little faith, why do you reason among yourselves because you [4]have brought no bread? 9 [e]Do you not yet understand, or remember the five loaves of the five thousand and how many baskets you took up? 10 [f]Nor the seven loaves of the four thousand and how many large baskets you took up? 11 How is it you do not understand that I did not speak to you concerning bread?—but to beware of the [5]leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees." 12 Then they understood that He did not tell them to beware of the leaven of bread, but of the [6]doctrine of the Pharisees and Sadducees.

Peter Confesses Jesus as the Christ

13 When Jesus came into the region of Caesarea Philippi, He asked His disciples, saying, [g]"Who do men say that I, the Son of Man, am?"

14 So they said, [h]"Some say John the Baptist, some Elijah, and others Jeremiah or [i]one of the prophets."

15 He said to them, "But who do [j]you say that I am?"

16 Simon Peter answered and said, [k]"You are the Christ, the Son of the living God."

17 Jesus answered and said to him, "Blessed are you, Simon Bar-Jonah, [l]for flesh and blood has not revealed this to you, but [m]My Father who is in heaven. 18 And I also say to you that [n]you

■ 16:1 a sign from heaven. Jesus referred the Pharisees to a literal sign from heaven, the sky itself. His analogy shows that the problem was not lack of evidence, but an unwillingness to accept its significance. Jesus had performed many signs already.

■ 16:4 sign of . . . Jonah. See note on 12:39.

■ 16:11 not . . . concerning bread. Jesus frequently spoke in parables, but was misunderstood here by His disciples who thought He was speaking literally (v. 7). They should have realized from His feeding miracles that Jesus could provide food if that was what was needed, and so recognized that He was speaking metaphorically about the "leaven" (the doctrine, v. 12) of the Pharisees and Sadducees (Mark 8:15 note).

■ 16:12 False teaching, like leaven in dough, can quickly permeate the church and corrupt its holiness.

■ 16:13 Caesarea Philippi. A small town at the foot of Mount Hermon, about twenty-five miles north of Galilee.

■ 16:15 who do you say that I am. The "you" is plural; Peter answers on behalf of the Twelve.

■ 16:16 Christ. Peter declares that Jesus is the Messiah and King prophesied in the Old Testament (1:1 note).

the Son of the living God. The meaning of the title "Son of God" is different from that of pagan literature. In the Old Testament, the anointed king was called a "son" of God (2 Sam. 7:14; Ps. 2:7). Israel as a whole is also God's "son" (Ex. 4:22), and Jesus fulfills this status of Israel (2:15 note). As applied to Jesus, the title reflects Jesus' unique relation to the Father (11:27; 21:38). He is acknowledged by the Father as "My beloved Son" (3:17; 17:5). Peter's understanding was given to him from above, going beyond what he could have discerned on his own.

■ 16:17 flesh . . . has not revealed this. Recognition of who Jesus is must come from God.

■ 16:18 Peter . . . rock. The name "Peter" is a play on the Greek word for "rock" (petra). There are four leading interpretations of this play on words: (a) Peter's confession that Jesus is "the Christ" (v. 16) is the rock upon which the church is built; (b) Jesus Himself is the rock, as Peter later testifies (1 Pet. 2:5–8); (c) Peter, as the representative apostle, is a foundation in the church (Eph. 2:20); (d) Peter represents by his confession the type of person on which the true church will be built.

The first and second possibilities are often defended by pointing out that Peter's name is petros and the rock is petra. But this linguistic difference is not significant for this context. The second possibility is unlikely because Jesus describes Himself in this passage as not the foundation but the builder of the church.

If it had not been for the abuse of this passage by the Roman Catholic Church, it is unlikely that any doubt would have arisen that the reference is to Peter. But the foundational rock is Peter as a representative apostle (v. 15 note) whose confession of Christ has been revealed to him by the Father. As Peter himself later declares (1 Pet. 2:4–8), all believers have become "living stones" by virtue of their association with Christ, with the apostles as the foundation (Eph. 2:20, 21; Rev. 21:14). When Peter says are Peter, and [o]on this rock I will build My church, and [p]the gates of Hades shall not [7]prevail against it. 19 [q]And I will give you the keys of the kingdom of heaven, and whatever you bind on earth [8]will be bound in heaven, and whatever you loose on earth will be loosed in heaven."

20 [r]Then He commanded His disciples that they should tell no one that He was Jesus the Christ.

Jesus Predicts His Death and Resurrection

21 From that time Jesus began [s]to show to His disciples that He must go to Jerusalem, and suffer many things from the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be killed, and be raised the third day.

22 Then Peter took Him aside and began to rebuke Him, saying, [9]"Far be it from You, Lord; this shall not happen to You!"

23 But He turned and said to Peter, "Get behind Me, [t]Satan! [u]You are [l]an offense to Me, for you are not mindful of the things of God, but the things of men."

Take Up the Cross and Follow Him

24 [v]Then Jesus said to His disciples, "If anyone desires to come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and [w]follow Me. 25 For [x]whoever desires to save his life will lose it, but whoever loses his life for My sake will find it. 26 For what [y]profit is it to a man if he gains the whole world, and loses his own soul? Or [z]what will a man give in exchange for his soul? 27 For [a]the Son of Man will come in the glory of His Father [b]with His angels, [c]and then He will reward each according to his works.

Jesus Transfigured on the Mount

28 Assuredly, I say to you, [d]there are some standing here who shall not taste death till they see the Son of Man coming in His kingdom."

17 Now [a]after six days Jesus took Peter, James, and John his brother, led them up on a high mountain by themselves; 2 and He was transfigured before them. His face shone like the sun, and His clothes became as white as the light. 3 And behold, Moses and Elijah appeared to them, talking with Him. 4 Then Peter answered and said to Jesus, "Lord, it is good for us to be here; if You wish, [l]let us make here three tabernacles: one for You, one for Moses, and one for Elijah."

5 [b]While he was still speaking, behold, a bright cloud overshadowed them; and suddenly a voice came out of the cloud, saying, [c]"This is My beloved Son, [d]in whom I am well pleased.

gates of Hades. In the Old Testament and other literature the "gates of Sheol" or the "gates of death" are equivalent to "death." Jesus is claiming that death itself will not overcome His people.

■ 16:19 keys of the kingdom. This metaphor specifies how the apostles are foundational to the church; they have been given binding and loosing powers, or "keys," which lock and unlock doors. The apostles open the kingdom to those who share Peter's confession and exclude those who will not receive their testimony to Christ (10:14, 15). Through them Jesus reveals His own word of kingdom authority. The apostolic foundation of the church is laid in the written Word of God, the Scriptures, which are now the keys of Christ's authority in the church (Eph. 2:20; 3:5) through the power of the Spirit (18:18). See "Church Discipline and Excommunication" at Matt. 18:15.

■ 16:20 tell no one. See 8:4. Popular conceptions of the Messiah were far from recognizing His suffering ministry. To allow His disciples to proclaim His messiahship openly might have instigated a political movement that would have hampered His real mission (John 6:15).

■ 16:21 From that time. This phrase marks a new phase of Jesus' ministry (4:17 note). Matthew turns from the public preaching of Jesus in Galilee to His careful instruction of the disciples about His death and resurrection, His role as Messiah and theirs as disciples.

■ 16:24 See note on 10:38. Here Jesus adds the command to deny oneself. The call to discipleship demands that one completely abandon the natural desire to seek comfort, fame, or power.

■ 16:28 shall not taste death till. Although this statement has been interpreted as referring to the Transfiguration (17:1, 2), the language implies a period longer than a week. Another possibility is the destruction of Jerusalem (10:23 note), but the context here is not specifically related to the judgment of Israel. The "coming" of the Son of Man more likely here relates to the entire process by which Jesus receives dominion, especially His resurrection, ascension, and sending of the Spirit. All these things happened during the lifetime of the disciples. The Transfiguration could also be the initial event in this process witnessed by the disciples.

■ 17:1 after six days. Such an exact time reference is rare in the Gospels; it must have been included to make clear the connection between the confession at Caesarea Philippi and the Transfiguration. Now that the disciples have begun to recognize who Jesus is, He is ready to move toward the climax in Jerusalem. The Transfiguration is part of Jesus' preparation for that crisis. See "The Transfiguration of Jesus" at Mark 9:2.

■ 17:3 Moses and Elijah. Since the Law and the Prophets testify to Jesus, Moses the lawgiver, and Elijah, one of the greatest prophets of Israel, are here privileged to appear with Jesus. According to Luke 9:31 they discussed Jesus' coming death.

■ 17:5 This is My beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased. The words from heaven show the disciples how foolish Peter's suggestion was (v. 4), and they begin to realize who Jesus is. "My beloved Son," the designation also given at Jesus' baptism, is the term reserved by the Father for His "only begotten Son" (John 3:16).

Hear Him. The word of God spoken through Moses and the prophets pointed to Jesus. Now the final word is spoken by God's Son (Heb. 1:1–4).

CHAPTER 18

1 [a]Mark 9:33–37; Luke 9:46–48; 22:24–27

[e]Hear Him!" [6][f]And when the disciples heard it, they fell on their faces and were greatly afraid. [7]But Jesus came and [g]touched them and said, "Arise, and do not be afraid." [8]When they had lifted up their eyes, they saw no one but Jesus only.

[9]Now as they came down from the mountain, Jesus commanded them, saying, "Tell the vision to no one until the Son of Man is risen from the dead."

[10]And His disciples asked Him, saying, [h]"Why then do the scribes say that Elijah must come first?"

[11]Jesus answered and said to them, "Indeed, Elijah is coming [2]first and will [i]restore all things. [12][j]But I say to you that Elijah has come already, and they [k]did not know him but did to him whatever they wished. Likewise [l]the Son of Man is also about to suffer at their hands." [13][m]Then the disciples understood that He spoke to them of John the Baptist.

A Boy Is Healed

[14][n]And when they had come to the multitude, a man came to Him, kneeling down to Him and saying, [15]"Lord, have mercy on my son, for he is [3]an epileptic and suffers severely; for he often falls into the fire and often into the water. [16]So I brought him to Your disciples, but they could not cure him."

[17]Then Jesus answered and said, "O [4]faithless and [o]perverse generation, how long shall I be with you? How long shall I bear with you? Bring him here to Me." [18]And Jesus [p]rebuked the demon, and it came out of him; and the child was cured from that very hour.

[19]Then the disciples came to Jesus privately and said, "Why could we not cast it out?"

[20]So Jesus said to them, "Because of your [5]unbelief; for assuredly, I say to you, [q]if you have faith as a mustard seed, you will say to this mountain, 'Move from here to there,' and it will move; and nothing will be impossible for you. [21][6]However, this kind does not go out except by prayer and fasting."

Jesus Again Predicts His Death and Resurrection

[22][r]Now while they were [7]staying in Galilee, Jesus said to them, "The Son of Man is about to be betrayed into the hands of men, [23]and they will kill Him, and the third day He will be raised up." And they were exceedingly [s]sorrowful.

Peter and His Master Pay Their Taxes

[24][t]When they had come to [8]Capernaum, those who received the [9]temple tax came to Peter and said, "Does your Teacher not pay the temple tax?"

[25]He said, "Yes."

And when he had come into the house, Jesus anticipated him, saying, "What do you think, Simon? From whom do the kings of the earth take customs or taxes, from their sons or from [u]strangers?"

[26]Peter said to Him, "From strangers."

Jesus said to him, "Then the sons are free. [27]Nevertheless, lest we offend them, go to the sea, cast in a hook, and take the fish that comes up first. And when you have opened its mouth, you will find a [v]piece of money; take that and give it to them for Me and you."

Who Is the Greatest?

18 At [a]that time the disciples came to Jesus, saying, "Who then is greatest in the kingdom of heaven?"

■ 17:9 Tell . . . no one. See note on 16:20.

■ 17:11 Elijah is coming. See note on 11:14. The scribes were right but failed to recognize both Elijah and the Messiah when they came.

■ 17:17 Jesus, like Moses, came down from the mount of glory to encounter unbelief (Ex. 32:15–21).

■ 17:20 unbelief. The disciples' shortage of faith (see text note) was not that they lacked confidence or did not expect success—they were apparently surprised by their failure—but because their expectation was not properly grounded in relationship to God. A tiny grain of true faith, rooted in submissiveness to God, is effective. Mark 9:29 makes this point even clearer by speaking of prayer as the key.

■ 17:22, 23 This statement is the second prediction of suffering and resurrection in Matthew (16:21–24). Jesus will undertake the suffering He describes as the Servant of the Lord (Is. 53). It appears that no one before Jesus had ever identified the Messiah, the Son of Man, and the Suffering Servant of the Old Testament as three aspects of the one Redeemer and King. The disciples are so overwhelmed by their difficulty in accepting the suffering of the Messiah that they apparently do not even hear the promise of the Resurrection. At least they did not initially believe it (Luke 24:25, 37, 38).

■ 17:24–27 The temple tax was prescribed in Ex. 30:13. The passage is not about paying taxes to the civil authority (22:21). Jesus' point is that the Christ and His disciples enjoy a relationship with God that frees them from the obligations imposed upon "strangers." Yet Jesus is willing to conform to previous requirements in order to avoid giving offense. Paul advised (Rom. 14:13–21) and practiced (Acts 16:3; 21:26) similar continued observance of some ritual requirements of the Old Testament law.

■ 18:1–35 This chapter is the fourth of the five great discourses in Matthew (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes).

2 Then Jesus called a little [b]child to Him, set him in the midst of them, 3 and said, "Assuredly, I say to you, [c]unless you are converted and become as little children, you will by no means enter the kingdom of heaven. 4 [d]Therefore whoever humbles himself as this little child is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven. 5 [e]Whoever receives one little child like this in My name receives Me.

Jesus Warns of Offenses

6 [f]"Whoever causes one of these little ones who believe in Me to sin, it would be better for him if a millstone were hung around his neck, and he were drowned in the depth of the sea. 7 Woe to the world because of [1]offenses! For [g]offenses must come, but [h]woe to that man by whom the offense comes!

8 [i]"If your hand or foot causes you to sin, cut it off and cast it from you. It is better for you to enter into life lame or maimed, rather than having two hands or two feet, to be cast into the everlasting fire. 9 And if your eye causes you to sin, pluck it out and cast it from you. It is better for you to enter into life with one eye, rather than having two eyes, to be cast into [2]hell fire.

The Parable of the Lost Sheep

10 "Take heed that you do not despise one of these little ones, for I say to you that in heaven [j]their angels always [k]see the face of My Father who is in heaven. 11 [l]For[3] the Son of Man has come to save that which was lost.

12 [m]"What do you think? If a man has a hundred sheep, and one of them goes astray, does he not leave the ninety-nine and go to the mountains to seek the one that is straying? 13 And if he should find it, assuredly, I say to you, he rejoices more over that sheep than over the ninety-nine that did not go astray. 14 Even so it is not the [n]will of your Father who is in heaven that one of these little ones should perish.

Dealing with a Sinning Brother

15 "Moreover [o]if your brother sins against you, go and tell him his fault between you and him alone. If he hears you, [p]you have gained your brother. 16 But if he will not hear, take with you one or two more, that [q]'by the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be established.' 17 And if he refuses to hear them, tell it to the church. But if he refuses even to hear the church, let him be to you like a [r]heathen and a tax collector.

18 "Assuredly, I say to you, [s]whatever you bind on earth will be bound in heaven, and whatever you loose on earth will be loosed in heaven.

19 [t]"Again[4] I say to you that if two of you agree on earth concerning anything that they ask, [u]it will be done for them by My Father in heaven. 20 For where two or three are gathered [v]together in My name, I am there in the midst of them."

■ 18:3 as little children. Jesus makes this comparison not because children are supposed to be innocent, but because they are dependent upon others and willingly accept from them what they cannot provide for themselves.

■ 18:5 Whoever receives. Since Jesus' followers must become "as little children," the "little child" represents any disciple. Response to Jesus' disciples is a response to Jesus Himself, and causing a disciple to sin is a grave offense (v. 6).

■ 18:7 Universal human depravity will result in inevitable offenses ("offenses must come"), but individual responsibility ("woe to that man by whom the offense comes") is not diminished by the commonplace occurrence of sin.

■ 18:8, 9 See notes on 5:1—7:29 and 5:29.

■ 18:10 their angels. Scripture teaches that angels guard and minister to God's people (Ps. 91:11; Heb. 1:14) and that these spiritual beings may be assigned specific areas of responsibility (Dan. 12:1). Though this verse is sometimes interpreted to mean that each believer has a personal angelic guardian (Acts 12:15 and note), this popular belief goes beyond the biblical evidence. Nevertheless, God's care of His people through angels should be an encouragement to Christians.

■ 18:12–14 The concern for the one is not at the expense of the ninety-nine, but indicates God's commitment to each disciple, and His special concern for one straying or in danger. God elects, seeks out, and preserves not only His church as a whole, but each individual within the church. Ezek. 34:11–16 probably lies behind this parable.

■ 18:15 if your brother sins. This three-stage procedure for dealing with a Christian in sin is at the heart of all church discipline. The goal is to bring about repentance while keeping general public awareness of the sin to a minimum. At no point is the matter to be broadcast to the world at large. See theological note "Church Discipline and Excommunication."

■ 18:17 church. The use of the word "church" by Jesus may appear premature, but only if the "church" is divorced from its moorings in the Old Testament. In the Greek translation of the Old Testament (the Septuagint), the "assembly" of the people of God is called the ekklesia, or "church." Jesus' use of Deut. 19:15 in v. 16 implies that the church is equivalent to Old Testament Israel.

let him be to you like a heathen and a tax collector. Such individuals are to be cut off from fellowship and suspended from full social relations with other Christians. Paul applies this discipline in 1 Cor. 5 and 1 Tim. 1:20.

■ 18:18 See note on 16:19.

■ 18:19, 20 These verses should be taken in the larger context as still dealing with church discipline. V. 19 is a further application of v. 18, and v. 20 states that Jesus is present to validate the judicial activity of the church.

The Parable of the Unforgiving Servant

21 Then Peter came to Him and said, "Lord, how often shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? *Up to seven times?"

22 Jesus said to him, "I do not say to you, *up to seven times, but up to seventy times seven.
23 Therefore the kingdom of heaven is like a certain king who wanted to settle accounts with his servants. 24 And when he had begun to settle accounts, one was brought to him who owed him ten thousand talents. 25 But as he was not able to pay, his master commanded *that he be sold, with his wife and children and all that he had, and that payment be made. 26 The servant therefore fell down before him, saying, 'Master, have patience with me, and I will pay you all.'

Church Discipline and Excommunication

Making Christian disciples involves a whole range of activities for nurture, instruction, and training. To produce mature disciples, Christian learning, devotion, worship, righteousness, and service, are all to be taught in a context of care and accountability (Matt. 28:20; John 21:15–17; 2 Tim. 2:14–26; Titus 2; Heb. 13:17) among the other believers. Not abstractly, but in this context Reformed theology has emphasized the importance of church discipline as the official procedures of the church permitting it to define its membership and maintain its standards of belief and practice, derived from the Bible.

Since believers are required to be holy, unspotted by the morals of the world, the church itself is separated from the world, and it is necessary to define the boundary between the world and the church. The New Testament clearly shows that in the whole context of church life judicial procedures have a significant place for the health of churches and individuals (1 Cor. 5:1–13; 2 Cor. 2:5–11; 2 Thess. 3:6, 14, 15; Titus 1:10–14; 3:9–11).

Jesus instituted church discipline by authorizing the apostles to prohibit or permit certain kinds of behavior; this is the power of "binding" and "loosing" sins (Matt. 18:18; John 20:23). The "keys of the kingdom," first given to Peter and defined as power to bind and loose (Matt. 16:19), have usually been understood as authority to oversee doctrine and impose discipline. This authority was given by Christ to the church in general and to its ordained leadership in particular.

The Westminster Confession (30.3) explains:

> Church censures are necessary, for the reclaiming and gaining of offending brethren, for deterring of others from the like offenses, for purging out of that leaven which might infect the whole lump, for vindicating the honor of Christ, and the holy profession of the gospel, and for preventing the wrath of God, which might justly fall upon the church, if they should suffer His covenant, and the seals thereof [the sacraments] to be profaned by notorious and obstinate offenders.

Church censures may have to escalate from admonition through exclusion from the Lord's Supper to expulsion from the congregation (excommunication), which is described as handing a person over to Satan, the prince of this world (Matt. 18:15–17; 1 Cor. 5:1–5, 11; 1 Tim. 1:20; Titus 3:10, 11). Public sins (that is, those that are open to the whole church's view) should be publicly corrected in the church's presence (1 Tim. 5:20; cf. Gal. 2:11–14). Jesus teaches a procedure for dealing privately with those who have given personal offence, in hope that it will not be necessary to ask for the church's public censure of them (Matt. 18:15–17).

The purpose of church censure in all its forms is not to punish for punishment's sake, but to call forth repentance and so recover the straying sheep. Ultimately, there is only one sin for which a church member is excommunicated—impenitence. When repentance is apparent, the church is to declare the sin remitted and receive the offender into fellowship once again. □

■ 18:23–35 See 5:7 and 7:2. Those who know God's mercy must operate on the principle of mercy. If they do not show mercy but insist on justice, they will not receive mercy, but justice. An unforgiving heart is an unforgiven heart and is subject to torment "until he should pay all" (v. 34; 6:12 note). A truly forgiving heart is one result of spiritual rebirth (John 3:3).

■ 18:24 talents. A talent was the highest monetary unit of currency, equivalent to six thousand denarii or drachmas (v. 28 note). Such a sum of money was practically uncountable and illustrates the enormous debt of sin that all have incurred before God.

27 Then the master of that servant was moved with compassion, released him, and forgave him the debt.

28 "But that servant went out and found one of his fellow servants who owed him a hundred denarii; and he laid hands on him and took him by the throat, saying, 'Pay me what you owe!' 29 So his fellow servant fell down [5]at his feet and begged him, saying, 'Have patience with me, and I will pay you [6]all.' 30 And he would not, but went and threw him into prison till he should pay the debt. 31 So when his fellow servants saw what had been done, they were very grieved, and came and told their master all that had been done. 32 Then his master, after he had called him, said to him, 'You wicked servant! I forgave you [z]all that debt because you begged me. 33 Should you not also have had compassion on your fellow servant, just as I had pity on you?' 34 And his master was angry, and delivered him to the torturers until he should pay all that was due to him.

35 [a]"So My heavenly Father also will do to you if each of you, from his heart, does not forgive his brother [7]his trespasses."

Marriage and Divorce

19 Now it came to pass, [a]when Jesus had finished these sayings, that He departed from Galilee and came to the region of Judea beyond the Jordan. 2 [b]And great multitudes followed Him, and He healed them there.

3 The Pharisees also came to Him, testing Him, and saying to Him, "Is it lawful for a man to divorce his wife for just any reason?"

4 And He answered and said to them, "Have you not read that He who [f]made them at the beginning [c]'made them male and female,' 5 and said, [d]'For this reason a man shall leave his father and mother and be joined to his wife, and [e]the two shall become one flesh'? 6 So then, they are no longer two but one flesh. Therefore what God has joined together, let not man separate."

7 They said to Him, [f]"Why then did Moses command to give a certificate of divorce, and to put her away?"

8 He said to them, "Moses, because of the [g]hardness of your hearts, permitted you to divorce your [h]wives, but from the beginning it was not so. 9 [i]And I say to you, whoever divorces his wife, except for [2]sexual immorality, and marries another, commits adultery; and whoever marries her who is divorced commits adultery."

10 His disciples said to Him, [j]"If such is the case of the man with his wife, it is better not to marry."

Jesus Teaches on Celibacy

11 But He said to them, [k]"All cannot accept this saying, but only those to whom it has been given: 12 For there are [3]eunuchs who were born thus from their mother's womb, and [l]there are eunuchs who were made eunuchs by men, and there are eunuchs who have made themselves eunuchs for the kingdom of heaven's sake. He who is able to accept it, let him accept it."

Jesus Blesses Little Children

13 [m]Then little children were brought to Him that He might put His hands on them and pray, but the disciples rebuked them. 14 But Jesus said, "Let the little children come to Me, and do not

■ 18:28 a hundred denarii. The Roman denarius was a daily wage for workers (20:2) and was equivalent to the Greek drachma (Acts 19:19). The sum owed by the second servant to the first is nothing compared to the debt of the first servant to the king; it was less than one part in a hundred thousand.

■ 19:3 Is it lawful. The Pharisees' question may reflect the opinion of Hillel, a rabbi who allowed divorce for the slightest reasons on the basis of Deut. 24:1–4. He was opposed by another teacher, Shammai, who regarded only gross indecency as proper grounds. Jesus' answer transcends this debate about Deuteronomy and returns to the order of creation by God. Jesus views divorce as a fundamental denial of God's created order and the nature of marriage.

■ 19:7, 8 Hearing Jesus' view of marriage, the Pharisees thought they could set Him against Moses. But Jesus shows that Moses in Deut. 24:1–4 was not giving a justification for divorce, but making provisions in the event of divorce. Deut. 24:1–4 consists of a long introductory conditional statement ("and it happens"), ending with the prohibition for a man to remarry a woman he had earlier divorced. A hardness of heart with respect to marriage and divorce is specifically restrained by this case law.

■ 19:9 except for sexual immorality. The Greek word for "sexual immorality" is fairly broad, including a number of sexual sins besides adultery. In this clause (present also in 5:32 but omitted in Mark 10:11), Jesus recognizes that marital infidelity potentially destroys the marital tie between spouses and is, therefore, ground for legal divorce. However, divorce is not mandatory and reconciliation (see 18:23–35 note) is preferable. See "Marriage and Divorce" at Mat. 2:16.

■ 19:10 it is better not to marry. The disciples' reaction seems cynical. Jesus accepts their response and indicates that it may be better not to marry, but only for the sake of the kingdom, not because God has an unworkable view of marriage (cf. 1 Cor. 7:7–9).

■ 19:14 Let the little children come. The disciples viewed children as a distraction from the work of Jesus, but He welcomes them as subjects of the kingdom and blesses them. Since entrance into the kingdom is by God's grace and not human achievement, dependent little ones have a

Jesus Counsels the Rich Young Ruler

16 [o]Now behold, one came and said to Him, [p]"Good[q] Teacher, what good thing shall I do that I may have eternal life?"

17 So He said to him, [5]"Why do you call Me good? [6]No one is [q]good but One, that is, God. But if you want to enter into life, [r]keep the commandments."

18 He said to Him, "Which ones?"

Jesus said, [s]"'You shall not murder,' 'You shall not commit adultery,' 'You shall not steal,' 'You shall not bear false witness,' 19 [t]'Honor your father and your mother,' and, [u]'You shall love your neighbor as yourself.'"

20 The young man said to Him, "All these things I have [v]kept [7]from my youth. What do I still lack?"

21 Jesus said to him, "If you want to be perfect, [w]go, sell what you have and give to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; and come, follow Me."

22 But when the young man heard that saying, he went away sorrowful, for he had great possessions.

With God All Things Are Possible

23 Then Jesus said to His disciples, "Assuredly, I say to you that [x]it is hard for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven. 24 And again I say to you, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God."

25 When His disciples heard it, they were greatly astonished, saying, "Who then can be saved?"

26 But Jesus looked at them and said to them, "With men this is impossible, but [y]with God all things are possible."

27 Then Peter answered and said to Him, "See, [z]we have left all and followed You. Therefore what shall we have?"

28 So Jesus said to them, "Assuredly I say to you, that in the regeneration, when the Son of Man sits on the throne of His glory, [a]you who have followed Me will also sit on twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel. 29 [b]And everyone who has left houses or brothers or sisters or father or mother [8]or wife or children or [9]lands, for My name's sake, shall receive a hundredfold, and inherit eternal life. 30 [c]But many who are first will be last, and the last first.

The Parable of the Workers in the Vineyard

20 "For the kingdom of heaven is like a landowner who went out early in the morning to hire laborers for his vineyard. 2 Now when he had agreed with the laborers for a denarius a day, he sent them into his vineyard. 3 And he went out about the third hour and saw others standing idle in the marketplace, 4 and said to them, 'You also go into the vineyard, and whatever is right I will give you.' So they went. 5 Again he went out about the sixth and the ninth hour, and did likewise. 6 And about the eleventh hour he went out and found others standing [f]idle, and said to them, 'Why have you been standing here idle all day?' 7 They said to him, 'Because no one hired us.' He said to them, 'You also go into the vineyard, [z]and whatever is right you will receive.'

8 "So when evening had come, the owner of the vineyard said to his steward, 'Call the labor-special title to covenant blessing (18:1–9). See "Infant Baptism" at Gen. 17:11.

■ 19:16 have eternal life. This expression is equivalent to "enter the kingdom of God" (v. 24) and "be saved" (v. 25).

■ 19:21 sell what you have. Jesus' instruction to the young man to sell all he had demonstrated that what he lacked was the attitude that abandons everything (16:24) for the sake of God's unearned grace (Phil. 3:7–9).

■ 19:23–26 Wealth was considered evidence of God's approval, and the rich would seem to be the likeliest candidates for the kingdom. Jesus turned this idea upside-down, and the result was not lost on the disciples: "Who then can be saved?" (v. 25).

■ 19:28 judging. Governing, not sentencing to punishment.

■ 19:29 shall receive a hundredfold. The blessings of salvation far exceed anything which one must forsake to obtain them (1 Cor. 2:9).

■ 19:30 first will be last. Positions of honor or prestige in this life by no means assure heavenly approval; indeed, often the reverse will be true. Similarly, as the following parable illustrates (20:1–16), length of earthly labor may not correspond to one's heavenly reward.

■ 20:1–15 This parable is only a hard saying for those who fail to recognize their absolute dependence on grace for any good thing from God's hand. There is no room for a Christian to be jealous of the good gifts God has given to another.

■ 20:2 a denarius. See note on 18:28.

ers and give them their wages, beginning with the last to the first.' 9 And when those came who were hired about the eleventh hour, they each received a denarius. 10 But when the first came, they supposed that they would receive more; and they likewise received each a denarius. 11 And when they had received it, they [3]complained against the landowner, 12 saying, 'These last men have worked only one hour, and you made them equal to us who have borne the burden and the heat of the day.' 13 But he answered one of them and said, 'Friend, I am doing you no wrong. Did you not agree with me for a denarius? 14 Take what is yours and go your way. I wish to give to this last man the same as to you. 15 [a]Is it not lawful for me to do what I wish with my own things? Or [b]is your eye evil because I am good?' 16 [c]So the last will be first, and the first last. [d]For[4] many are called, but few chosen."

Jesus a Third Time Predicts His Death and Resurrection

17 [e]Now Jesus, going up to Jerusalem, took the twelve disciples aside on the road and said to them, 18 [f]"Behold, we are going up to Jerusalem, and the Son of Man will be betrayed to the chief priests and to the scribes; and they will condemn Him to death, 19 [g]and deliver Him to the Gentiles to [h]mock and to [i]scourge and to [j]crucify. And the third day He will [k]rise again."

Greatness Is Serving

20 [l]Then the mother of [m]Zebedee's sons came to Him with her sons, kneeling down and asking something from Him.

21 And He said to her, "What do you wish?"

She said to Him, "Grant that these two sons of mine [n]may sit, one on Your right hand and the other on the left, in Your kingdom."

22 But Jesus answered and said, "You do not know what you ask. Are you able to drink [o]the cup that I am about to drink, [5]and be baptized with [p]the baptism that I am baptized with?"

They said to Him, "We are able."

23 So He said to them, [q]"You will indeed drink My cup, [6]and be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with; but to sit on My right hand and on My left is not Mine to give, but it is for those for whom it is prepared by My Father."

24 [r]And when the ten heard it, they were greatly displeased with the two brothers. 25 But Jesus called them to Himself and said, "You know that the rulers of the Gentiles lord it over them, and those who are great exercise authority over them. 26 Yet [s]it shall not be so among you; but [t]whoever desires to become great among you, let him be your servant. 27 [u]And whoever desires to be first among you, let him be your slave— 28 [v]just as the [w]Son of Man did not come to be served, [x]but to serve, and [y]to give His life a ransom [z]for many."

Two Blind Men Receive Their Sight

29 [a]Now as they went out of Jericho, a great multitude followed Him. 30 And behold, [b]two blind men sitting by the road, when they heard that Jesus was passing by, cried out, saying, "Have mercy on us, O Lord, [c]Son of David!"

31 Then the multitude [d]warned them that they should be quiet; but they cried out all the more, saying, "Have mercy on us, O Lord, Son of David!"

32 So Jesus stood still and called them, and said, "What do you want Me to do for you?"

33 They said to Him, "Lord, that our eyes may be opened." 34 So Jesus had [e]compassion and touched their eyes. And immediately their eyes received sight, and they followed Him.

■ 20:16 See note on 19:30.

■ 20:17–19 This is Jesus' third prediction of His passion and resurrection (16:21 note; 17:22, 23 note).

■ 20:23 cup. In the Old Testament the "cup" normally signifies the outpouring of God's wrath (Ps. 75:8; Is. 51:17, 22; Jer. 25:15, 16). That the disciples would drink this cup means they would experience suffering, but note that Jesus calls it "My cup." Because Jesus drank the cup of God's wrath for His own, believers do not drink the wrath they deserve. In and through Christ's suffering they have already undergone judgment. They are now justified in Christ and heirs of His glory (Rom. 8:17). Yet their privilege is to be identified with Christ in His sufferings (1 Pet. 2:21).

■ 20:28 ransom. This term refers to the price paid to deliver someone from slavery or imprisonment. The price of freedom from sin and condemnation is Jesus' life, given for us (1 Pet. 1:18, 19). Since the elect are ransomed from the wrath of God, the ransom was offered to God Himself. Jesus drinks the cup of God's wrath (v. 23), not for His own sins, but as the means of ransoming many.

for many. The Greek preposition translated "for" can also be translated "in the place of." It expresses the substitutionary nature of Jesus' suffering. That Jesus says "many" here (cf. Is. 53:11, 12) rather than "all people" indicates a specific or definite focus to His redemptive activity. Nevertheless, it is "many" and not a "few." See notes on John 17:9; 1 Tim. 2:6.

■ 20:29 went out. Luke says that they were entering Jericho rather than leaving. One possibility is that Matthew and Mark refer to the ruins of Old Testament Jericho, about a mile away from the newer town of Jericho built by Herod (Luke 18:35 note).

■ 20:30 two blind men. Once again Matthew mentions two men where Mark and Luke mention only one (8:28 note).

The Triumphal Entry

21 Now [a]when they drew near Jerusalem, and came to [1]Bethphage, at [b]the Mount of Olives, then Jesus sent two disciples, [2] saying to them, "Go into the village opposite you, and immediately you will find a donkey tied, and a colt with her. Loose them and bring them to Me. [3] And if anyone says anything to you, you shall say, 'The Lord has need of them,' and immediately he will send them."

[4] [2]All this was done that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying:

[5] "Tell[c] the daughter of Zion,
'Behold, your King is coming to you,
Lowly, and sitting on a donkey,
A colt, the foal of a donkey.'"

[6] [d]So the disciples went and did as Jesus commanded them. [7] They brought the donkey and the colt, [e]laid their clothes on them, [3]and set Him on them. [8] And a very great multitude spread their clothes on the road; [f]others cut down branches from the trees and spread them on the road. [9] Then the multitudes who went before and those who followed cried out, saying:

"Hosanna to the Son of David!
[g]'Blessed is He who comes in the name of the LORD!'
Hosanna in the highest!"

[10] [h]And when He had come into Jerusalem, all the city was moved, saying, "Who is this?"
[11] So the multitudes said, "This is Jesus, [i]the prophet from Nazareth of Galilee."

Jesus Cleanses the Temple

[12] [j]Then Jesus went into the temple [4]of God and drove out all those who bought and sold in the temple, and overturned the tables of the [k]money changers and the seats of those who sold doves. [13] And He said to them, "It is written, [l]'My house shall be called a house of prayer,' but you have made it a [m]'den of thieves.'"

[14] Then the blind and the lame came to Him in the temple, and He healed them. [15] But when the chief priests and scribes saw the wonderful things that He did, and the children crying out in the temple and saying, "Hosanna to the [n]Son of David!" they were [5]indignant [16] and said to Him, "Do You hear what these are saying?"

And Jesus said to them, "Yes. Have you never read,

[o] 'Out of the mouth of babes and nursing infants
You have perfected praise'?"

[17] Then He left them and [p]went out of the city to Bethany, and He lodged there.

The Fig Tree Withered

[18] [q]Now in the morning, as He returned to the city, He was hungry. [19] [r]And seeing a fig tree by the road, He came to it and found nothing on it but leaves, and said to it, "Let no fruit grow on you ever again." Immediately the fig tree withered away.

■ 21:1–11 Of the Synoptic Gospels, only Matthew mentions the colt's mother, probably to emphasize that it was a young colt, not yet weaned and therefore not yet ridden (cf. Mark 11:2), and because the quotation from Zech. 9:9 prophesies that the coming king would ride on "a colt, the foal of a donkey." Jesus chooses to make the fulfillment of prophecy unmistakable.

The Triumphal Entry is clearly a symbolic act. Zech. 9:9 was recognized as messianic by Jews, and the shout "Hosanna to the Son of David!" (v. 9) as well as the spreading of cloaks on the ground (cf. 2 Kin. 9:13) indicates that the crowd recognizes Jesus' claim to be the Messiah. Note David's proclamation of Solomon as his designated heir by having him ride into the city on a donkey (1 Kin. 1:33, 38, 44).

■ 21:7 set Him on them. Jesus rode the colt (Mark 11:2). Perhaps "them" refers to the garments.

■ 21:9 Hosanna. A Hebrew expression meaning, "Save, now."

■ 21:12, 13 John 1:13–17 recounts a cleansing of the temple early in Jesus' ministry rather than during the final week. Many scholars, both liberal and conservative, propose that either John or the Synoptic Gospels changed the occasion for theological or other reasons. Others conclude that Jesus drove out money changers on two separate occasions (Mark 11:15 note).

■ 21:13 den of thieves. The phrase is from Jer. 7:11. Through the prophet the Lord denounced the idea that the physical temple guaranteed His blessing in spite of Judah's wickedness. This same superstitious notion prevailed in Jesus' time.

■ 21:16 Jesus' quotation of Ps. 8:2 to justify the children's praises is astounding, for Ps. 8 says that God ordained worship for Himself from the lips of children. Jesus indirectly claims the prerogative of deity.

■ 21:18–20 Matthew condenses an incident that took place on two separate days (cf. Mark 11:12–14, 20–26). The linking of this incident with

The Lesson of the Withered Fig Tree

20 [s]And when the disciples saw it, they marveled, saying, "How did the fig tree wither away so soon?"

21 So Jesus answered and said to them, "Assuredly, I say to you, [t]if you have faith and [u]do not doubt, you will not only do what was done to the fig tree, [v]but also if you say to this mountain, 'Be removed and be cast into the sea,' it will be done. 22 And [w]whatever things you ask in prayer, believing, you will receive."

Jesus' Authority Questioned

23 [x]Now when He came into the temple, the chief priests and the elders of the people confronted Him as He was teaching, and [y]said, "By what authority are You doing these things? And who gave You this authority?"

24 But Jesus answered and said to them, "I also will ask you one thing, which if you tell Me, I likewise will tell you by what authority I do these things: 25 The [z]baptism of [a]John—where was it from? From heaven or from men?"

And they reasoned among themselves, saying, "If we say, 'From heaven,' He will say to us, 'Why then did you not believe him?' 26 But if we say, 'From men,' we [b]fear the multitude, [c]for all count John as a prophet." 27 So they answered Jesus and said, "We do not know."

And He said to them, "Neither will I tell you by what authority I do these things.

The Parable of the Two Sons

28 "But what do you think? A man had two sons, and he came to the first and said, 'Son, go, work today in my [d]vineyard.' 29 He answered and said, 'I will not,' but afterward he regretted it and went. 30 Then he came to the second and said likewise. And he answered and said, 'I go, sir,' but he did not go. 31 Which of the two did the will of his father?"

They said to Him, "The first."

Jesus said to them, [e]"Assuredly, I say to you that tax collectors and harlots enter the kingdom of God before you. 32 For [f]John came to you in the way of righteousness, and you did not believe him; [g]but tax collectors and harlots believed him; and when you saw it, you did not afterward [6]relent and believe him.

The Parable of the Wicked Vinedressers

33 "Hear another parable: There was a certain landowner [h]who planted a vineyard and set a hedge around it, dug a winepress in it and built a tower. And he leased it to vinedressers and [i]went into a far country. 34 Now when vintage-time drew near, he sent his servants to the vinedressers, that they might receive its fruit. 35 [j]And the vinedressers took his servants, beat one, killed one, and stoned another. 36 Again he sent other servants, more than the first, and they did likewise to them. 37 Then last of all he sent his [k]son to them, saying, 'They will respect my son.' 38 But when the vinedressers saw the son, they said among themselves, [l]'This is the heir. [m]Come, let us kill him and seize his inheritance.' 39 [n]So they took him and cast him out of the vineyard and killed him.

40 "Therefore, when the owner of the vineyard comes, what will he do to those vinedressers?"

41 [o]They said to Him, [p]"He will destroy those wicked men miserably, [q]and lease his vineyard to other vinedressers who will [7]render to him the fruits in their seasons."

42 Jesus said to them, "Have you never read in the Scriptures:

> [r]'The stone which the builders rejected
> Has become the chief cornerstone.
> This was the LORD*'s doing,*
> And it is marvelous in our eyes'?

the cleansing of the temple hints at God's imminent punishment of Israel by the destruction of the city and the temple (Jer. 24:1–6).

■ 21:21, 22 This is similar to 17:20, but here the emphasis is on not doubting. Freedom from doubt arises from an awareness that something is truly God's will. True faith receives what it asks for; trust in God is not presumptive arrogance but submission to His will.

■ 21:33–46 This parable is based on Is. 5:1, 2 and possibly also Ps. 80:8–18. The meaning is clear: the landowner is God, the vineyard is the kingdom of God (v. 43), the servants are the prophets, the son is Jesus, the tenants are the Jews who oppose Jesus, the killing of the son is the Crucifixion, and the removal of the tenants is the transferral of the kingdom to a new people of God that includes Gentiles.

■ 21:42 In response to the challenge to His authority (v. 23), Jesus quotes Ps. 118:22, 23 as evidence that His authority is given by God rather than derived from human institutions.

43 [s]"Therefore I say to you, [s]the kingdom of God will be taken from you and given to a nation bearing the fruits of it. 44 And [t]whoever falls on this stone will be broken; but on whomever it falls, [u]it will grind him to powder."

45 Now when the chief priests and Pharisees heard His parables, they [s]perceived that He was speaking of them. 46 But when they sought to lay hands on Him, they [v]feared the multitudes, because [w]they took Him for a prophet.

The Parable of the Wedding Feast

22 And Jesus answered [a]and spoke to them again by parables and said: 2 "The kingdom of heaven is like a certain king who arranged a marriage for his son, 3 and sent out his servants to call those who were invited to the wedding; and they were not willing to come. 4 Again, he sent out other servants, saying, 'Tell those who are invited, "See, I have prepared my dinner; [b]my oxen and fatted cattle are killed, and all things are ready. Come to the wedding."' 5 But they made light of it and went their ways, one to his own farm, another to his business. 6 And the rest seized his servants, treated them [1]spitefully, and killed them. 7 But when the king heard about it, he was furious. And he sent out [c]his armies, destroyed those murderers, and burned up their city. 8 Then he said to his servants, 'The wedding is ready, but those who were invited were not [d]worthy. 9 Therefore go into the highways, and as many as you find, invite to the wedding.' 10 So those servants went out into the highways and [e]gathered together all whom they found, both bad and good. And the wedding hall was filled with guests.

11 "But when the king came in to see the guests, he saw a man there [f]who did not have on a wedding garment. 12 So he said to him, 'Friend, how did you come in here without a wedding garment?' And he was [g]speechless. 13 Then the king said to the servants, 'Bind him hand and foot, [2]take him away, and cast him [h]into outer darkness; there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.'

14 [i]"For many are called, but few are chosen."

The Pharisees: Is It Lawful to Pay Taxes to Caesar?

15 [j]Then the Pharisees went and plotted how they might entangle Him in His talk. 16 And they sent to Him their disciples with the [k]Herodians, saying, "Teacher, we know that You are true, and teach the way of God in truth; nor do You care about anyone, for You do not [3]regard the person of men. 17 Tell us, therefore, what do You think? Is it lawful to pay taxes to Caesar, or not?"

18 But Jesus [4]perceived their wickedness, and said, "Why do you test Me, you hypocrites? 19 Show Me the tax money."

So they brought Him a denarius.

20 And He said to them, "Whose image and inscription is this?"

21 They said to Him, "Caesar's."

And He said to them, [l]"Render[5] therefore to Caesar the things that are [m]Caesar's, and to God the things that are [n]God's." 22 When they had heard these words, they marveled, and left Him and went their way.

■ 21:44 This saying combines the prophecies of Is. 8:14 and Dan. 2:34, 44. Jesus claims to be the destroyer of earthly kingdoms, the founder of God's kingdom on earth, and at the same time points out that the Jewish leaders are, as prophesied, opposed to this kingdom. Jesus' quotation of Ps. 118 and the allusion to Is. 8:14 and Dan. 2 provide the ground for the "stone" as a reference to Christ that appears frequently in the New Testament (Acts 4:11; Rom. 9:33; 1 Pet. 2:6–8).

■ 22:1–14 Although there are similarities between this parable and Luke 14:16–24, there are few verbal parallels and some great differences. They should be understood as different parables given on different occasions. The first part of the parable (vv. 1–10) continues the theme begun in the previous chapter that the heirs of the kingdom have rejected it, and the kingdom has been offered to others. God's servants have the task of offering the gospel to all people (v. 9). The second part (vv. 11–14) affirms that receiving an invitation to God's kingdom does not guarantee inclusion; one must be properly clothed (cf. Zech. 3:3–5; Rev. 3:18; 19:8). Although everyone who hears the gospel has been invited, and although many may claim to be in the kingdom, only those clothed with Christ's righteousness are actually presentable to God. Only those who are chosen will be present at the marriage supper of the Lamb, and this election does not depend on any previous status (8:11, 12).

■ 22:13 outer darkness. A description of eternal punishment. There will be no middle ground between heaven and hell.

■ 22:14 called . . . chosen. See "Effectual Calling and Conversion" at 2 Thess. 2:14.

■ 22:17 taxes. The hated poll tax symbolized submission to Rome. If Jesus simply advocated payment of the tax, He would alienate the people; if He encouraged nonpayment the Herodians would accuse Him of treason. Jesus' answer turns the question to a deeper issue, ultimate allegiance to God. The coin bearing the image of Caesar belongs to him; human beings made in the image of God belong to God.

■ 22:21 to Caesar. See "Christians and Civil Government" at Rom. 13:1.

The Sadducees: What About the Resurrection?

23 [o]The same day the Sadducees, [p]who say there is no resurrection, came to Him and asked Him, 24 saying: "Teacher, [q]Moses said that if a man dies, having no children, his brother shall marry his wife and raise up offspring for his brother. 25 Now there were with us seven brothers. The first died after he had married, and having no offspring, left his wife to his brother. 26 Likewise the second also, and the third, even to the seventh. 27 Last of all the woman died also. 28 Therefore, in the resurrection, whose wife of the seven will she be? For they all had her."

29 Jesus answered and said to them, "You are [6]mistaken, [r]not knowing the Scriptures nor the power of God. 30 For in the resurrection they neither marry nor are given in marriage, but [s]are like angels [7]of God in heaven. 31 But concerning the resurrection of the dead, have you not read what was spoken to you by God, saying, 32 [t]'I am the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob'? God is not the God of the dead, but of the living." 33 And when the multitudes heard this, [u]they were astonished at His teaching.

The Scribes: Which Is the First Commandment of All?

34 [v]But when the Pharisees heard that He had silenced the Sadducees, they gathered together. 35 Then one of them, [w]a lawyer, asked Him a question, testing Him, and saying, 36 "Teacher, which is the great commandment in the law?"

37 Jesus said to him, [x]" 'You shall love the LORD your God with all your heart, with all your soul, and with all your mind.' 38 This is the first and great commandment. 39 And the second is like it: [y]'You shall love your neighbor as yourself.' 40 [z]On these two commandments hang all the Law and the Prophets."

Jesus: How Can David Call His Descendant Lord?

41 [a]While the Pharisees were gathered together, Jesus asked them, 42 saying, "What do you think about the Christ? Whose Son is He?"

They said to Him, "The [b]Son of David."

43 He said to them, "How then does David in the Spirit call Him 'Lord,' saying:

44 'The[c] LORD said to my Lord,
"Sit at My right hand,
Till I make Your enemies Your footstool"'?

45 If David then calls Him 'Lord,' how is He his Son?" 46 [d]And no one was able to answer Him a word, [e]nor from that day on did anyone dare question Him anymore.

Woe to the Scribes and Pharisees

23 Then Jesus spoke to the multitudes and to His disciples, 2 saying: [a]"The scribes and the Pharisees sit in Moses' seat. 3 Therefore whatever they tell you [f]to observe, that observe and do, but do not do according to their works; for [b]they say, and do not do. 4 [c]For they bind heavy burdens, hard to bear, and lay them on men's shoulders; but they themselves will not move them with one of their fingers. 5 But all their works they do to [d]be seen by men. ■ 22:31, 32 have you not read. Jesus quotes from the Pentateuch (Ex. 3:6), a portion of Scripture particularly valued by the Sadducees. That God "is" (not "was") the God of the patriarchs proclaims the resurrection because "God is not the God of the dead, but of the living." The eternal God calls His saints to an eternal relationship with Himself. All this implies that the patriarchs continue to live in the presence of God and will be resurrected in the future.

■ 22:37 shall love. See "Love" at 1 Cor. 13:13.

■ 22:40 all the Law and the Prophets. A way of referring to the entire Old Testament. Love fulfills the law because it sums up God's commandments and motivates obedience to them (Rom. 13:8–10; 1 Cor. 13). It does not dissolve God's norms for conduct, but illumines and deepens them (5:17; Rom. 8:4). See "The Law of God" at Ex. 20:1.

■ 22:42 What do you think. The Pharisees had tested Jesus; now Jesus tests them. He focuses on the crucial issue—the identity of the Messiah (Christ)—and His quotation from Ps. 110 shows that the common view of the Messiah was too limited.

Christ. See note on 1:1.

■ 23:1–39 Some regard this chapter as another discourse (making six discourses rather than five; Introduction: Characteristics and Themes), or as part of the eschatological discourse in chs. 24; 25. However, it is not concluded by the phrase that closes the other discourses ("when Jesus had ended these sayings"). It continues Jesus' prophetic activity of delivering oracles of woe to the unfaithful leaders of Israel (vv. 13–36 note). It is related to the following discourse in that it provides the reason for the doom of Jerusalem, announced in the language of Old Testament prophecy.

■ 23:2 sit in Moses' seat. Though Jesus elsewhere condemns the scribes and Pharisees for adding human tradition to the law and for evading the spirit of the law (vv. 13–32; 15:1–9), here He recognizes the legitimate teaching office that they occupied (Deut. 17:8–13).

Legalism

The New Testament views Christian obedience as the practice of "good works." Christians are to be "rich in good works" (1 Tim. 6:18; cf. Matt. 5:16; Eph. 2:10; 2 Tim. 3:17; Titus 2:7, 14; 3:8, 14). A good deed is one done according to the right standard, God's revealed will; from a right motive, love for God and others; and with a right purpose, the glory of God.

Legalism is a distortion of obedience that can never produce good works in this sense. It skews motive and purpose, seeing good deeds as ways to earn God's favor. It can be arrogant and contemptuous of those who do not labor in the same way. Finally, legalism's self-advancing purpose squeezes humble kindness and compassion out of the heart.

In the New Testament we meet different kinds of legalism. Legalists among the Pharisees thought that because they were descended from Abraham they were guaranteed approval by God, while paradoxically they formalized daily observance of the law, down to minutest details, as the rule of life. In doing so they avoided what the law truly required. Judaizers were legalists who taught Christian believers that they must go on to become Jews by being circumcised and observing the religious calendar and ritual laws, and in this way gain favor with God. Jesus attacked the legalism of the Pharisees; Paul, the Judaizers.

The Pharisees that opposed Jesus thought of themselves as faithful keepers of the Mosaic law. Yet in emphasizing minor details they neglected what matters most (Matt. 23:23, 24). Their elaborate and misguided interpretations of the law denied its true spirit and aim (Matt. 15:3–9; 23:16–24). They substituted human tradition for God's authoritative law, binding consciences where God had left them free (Mark 2:16—3:6; 7:1–8). At heart they were hypocritical, seeking human approval for themselves and condemning others (Luke 20:45–47; Matt. 6:1–8; 23:2–7).

The Judaizers opposed by Paul added to the gospel requirements for salvation that obscured and denied the all-sufficiency of Christ (Gal. 3:1–3; 4:21; 5:2–6). The idea that there must be additional requirements to perfect the gospel was the root of their error. Paul opposed this idea no matter who advanced it (Col. 2:8–23), because it corrupted the way of salvation. Like Jesus, he would not tolerate those who brought new burdens to lay on the sheep. □

■ 23:8–10 In forbidding the use of the titles "Rabbi" (v. 8), "father" (v. 9), and "teachers" (lit. "leaders," v. 10), Jesus does not prohibit organization or the use of all titles in the church (cf. Acts 20:17; 1 Cor. 9:1; 1 Tim. 3:1, 2, 8, 12; Titus 1:5–7). His warning is against the temptation to accord human leaders the authority and prerogatives that belong to God alone—a temptation here exemplified by the use of pretentious forms of address.

■ 23:13–36 Luke 11:37–54 records an earlier proclamation of six woes. This series of seven woes was a prophetic pronouncement; it brought God's lawsuit against His people and announced the imminent realization of the covenant curses (cf. Is. 5:8–23; Hab. 2:6–20). Such warnings express God's concern for His people and His desire that they repent (vv. 37–39).

■ 23:13 hypocrites. See note at 6:2.

shut up the kingdom. The teachers of the law and Pharisees did this by turning people away from Christ and His righteousness. The disciples are to do the opposite, freely proclaiming the gospel.

■ 23:15 hell. See note at 5:22. Those who were legalists made converts like themselves, prejudiced against receiving the righteousness that is by faith.

■ 23:16 Whoever swears. See 5:33–37. This way of taking oaths is like children making promises with their fingers crossed behind their backs. God desires truth in all our words (5:37).

whoever swears by the gold of the temple, he is obliged to perform it.' 17 Fools and blind! For which is greater, the gold [n]or the temple that [g]sanctifies the gold? 18 And, 'Whoever swears by the altar, it is nothing; but whoever swears by the gift that is on it, he is obliged to perform it.' 19 Fools and blind! For which is greater, the gift [o]or the altar that sanctifies the gift? 20 Therefore he who [l]swears by the altar, swears by it and by all things on it. 21 He who swears by the temple, swears by it and by [p]Him who [2]dwells in it. 22 And he who swears by heaven, swears by [q]the throne of God and by Him who sits on it.

23 "Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! [r]For you pay tithe of mint and anise and cummin, and [s]have neglected the weightier matters of the law: justice and mercy and faith. These you ought to have done, without leaving the others undone. 24 Blind guides, who strain out a gnat and swallow a camel!

25 "Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! [t]For you cleanse the outside of the cup and dish, but inside they are full of extortion and [3]self-indulgence. 26 Blind Pharisee, first cleanse the inside of the cup and dish, that the outside of them may be clean also.

How can you escape the condemnation of hell? 34 [z]Therefore, indeed, I send you prophets, wise men, and scribes: [a]some of them you will kill and crucify, and [b]some of them you will scourge in your synagogues and persecute from city to city, 35 [c]that on you may come all the righteous blood shed on the earth, [d]from the blood of righteous Abel to [e]the blood of Zechariah, son of Berechiah, whom you murdered between the temple and the altar. 36 Assuredly, I say to you, all these things will come upon this generation.

Jesus Predicts the Destruction of the Temple

24 Then [a]Jesus went out and departed from the temple, and His disciples came up to show Him the buildings of the temple. 2 And Jesus said to them, "Do you not see all these things? Assuredly, I say to you, [b]not one stone shall be left here upon another, that shall not be thrown down."

2 [b]Luke 19:44

■ 23:24 gnat . . . camel. The gnat was the smallest unclean animal and the camel was the largest. In Aramaic the two words sound similar.

■ 23:35 Abel . . . Zechariah. Abel was the first person to be killed for righteousness' sake (Gen. 4:8). The identity of Zechariah is problematic, and all suggested solutions have difficulties. Zechariah the prophet was the "son of Berechiah," but there is no evidence that he was martyred. There was a Zechariah, son of Baruch, who was killed by Zealots as mentioned by Josephus (Jewish Wars 4:334–44). He was killed in the temple area, but probably not between the sanctuary and the altar. Zechariah, son of Jehoiada, is the last martyr mentioned in the Old Testament in the Hebrew canonical order (2 Chr. 24:20–22). He was killed in the temple courtyard by command of Joash. If not for the words "son of Berechiah," the Zechariah of 2 Chr. 24 would be most likely, since Abel and Zechariah are the first and last martyrs in the Hebrew canon. It is remotely possible that "son of Berechiah" was an insertion by an early copyist (Luke 11:51 does not have it).

whom you murdered. By persecuting Christ, the Pharisees became identified with their murderous ancestors.

■ 23:36 The punishment that "this generation" experienced was the destruction of Jerusalem and the temple in A.D. 70. See note on 24:34.

■ 23:39 you shall see Me no more till. Some interpret this verse as a promise of an end-time conversion of the Jews (Rom. 11:25–32 and note), though the context seems to point more to the judgment of national Israel and the extension of the promises to spiritual Israel, made up of Gentiles as well as Jews (v. 38; cf. 21:43).

■ 24:1—25:46 These two chapters are the last of Jesus' five great discourses in Matthew. Sometimes called the "Olivet discourse" because of its setting, most of the discourse is also recorded in Mark 13. The language is symbolic, and it deals with a number of events, not just a single incident.

There are three basic interpretive approaches to this discourse: first, all or most of ch. 24 (at least through v. 35) is concerned exclusively with the destruction of Jerusalem, and the "coming" of the Son of Man (24:30) is the exaltation of Jesus in heaven. Second, all of the sermon is about the Second Coming of Christ in judgment. Third, the sermon combines the destruction of Jerusalem and the judgment of the world in such a way that it is difficult to separate the references to the events surrounding the fall of Jerusalem and the Second Coming.

■ 24:2 not one stone. This was fulfilled during the Roman conquest of Jerusalem in A.D. 70 (Mark 13:2 note).

The Signs of the Times and the End of the Age

3 Now as He sat on the Mount of Olives, [c]the disciples came to Him privately, saying, [d]"Tell us, when will these things be? And what will be the sign of Your coming, and of the end of the age?"

4 And Jesus answered and said to them: [e]"Take heed that no one deceives you. 5 For [f]many will come in My name, saying, 'I am the Christ,' [g]and will deceive many. 6 And you will hear of [h]wars and rumors of wars. See that you are not troubled; for [i]all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet. 7 For [j]nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom. And there will be [j]famines, [2]pestilences, and earthquakes in various places. 8 All these are the beginning of sorrows.

9 [k]"Then they will deliver you up to tribulation and kill you, and you will be hated by all nations for My name's sake. 10 And then many will be offended, will betray one another, and will hate one another. 11 Then [l]many false prophets will rise up and [m]deceive many. 12 And because lawlessness will abound, the love of many will grow [n]cold. 13 [o]But he who endures to the end shall be saved. 14 And this [p]gospel of the kingdom [q]will be preached in all the world as a witness to all the nations, and then the end will come.

The Great Tribulation

15 [r]"Therefore when you see the [s]'abomination of desolation,' spoken of by Daniel the prophet, standing in the holy place" [t](whoever reads, let him understand), 16 "then let those who are in Judea flee to the mountains. 17 Let him who is on the housetop not go down to take anything out of his house. 18 And let him who is in the field not go back to get his clothes. 19 But [u]woe to those who are pregnant and to those who are nursing babies in those days! 20 And pray that your flight may not be in winter or on the Sabbath. 21 For [v]then there will be great tribulation, such as has not been since the beginning of the world until this time, no, nor ever shall be. 22 And unless those days were shortened, no flesh would be saved; [w]but for the [3]elect's sake those days will be shortened.

23 [x]"Then if anyone says to you, 'Look, here is the Christ!' or 'There!' do not believe it. 24 For [y]false christs and false prophets will rise and show great signs and wonders to deceive, [z]if possible, even the elect. 25 See, I have told you beforehand.

26 "Therefore if they say to you, 'Look, He is in the desert!' do not go out; or 'Look, He is in the inner rooms!' do not believe it. 27 [a]For as the lightning comes from the east and flashes to the west, so also will the coming of the Son of Man be. 28 [b]For wherever the carcass is, there the eagles will be gathered together.

The Coming of the Son of Man

■ 24:4–14 Wars, earthquakes, persecutions, and false prophets are all signs of Jesus' coming, but they indicate only the certainty of judgment, not its time (vv. 6, 8). Such signs characterize the entire period between His resurrection and His coming in judgment. Knowing when Jesus would return would lead His disciples to laziness and laxity in their watchfulness. The "when" (v. 3) that Jesus gives is task oriented: it is after the gospel has been preached to the nations (v. 14).

■ 24:8 sorrows. Lit. "birth pains."

■ 24:14 all the world. See "The Mission of the Church in the World" at John 20:21.

■ 24:15–21 Although some interpreters take this passage to refer exclusively to the Second Coming, there are unmistakable references to the destruction of Jerusalem in A.D. 70, as is clear from the parallel account in Luke 21:20–24. The destruction of Jerusalem was a foretaste of the Last Judgment and so is a sign of the coming wrath. It stands as a unique declaration of the end of the old age, and so is a specific and uniquely important sign.

■ 24:15 abomination of desolation. The phrase is from Daniel; in Dan. 9:27; 11:31 it refers to the desecration of the temple by Antiochus Epiphanes. In 168 B.C. Antiochus erected a pagan altar in the temple. According to Josephus, he also sacrificed swine there. Shortly before A.D. 70 the Zealots were in the temple precincts during the war with Rome, and their presence could have been considered a desecration. In A.D. 70 the Romans entered the temple with military standards, ceremonial insignia that were elements of their religion. They took away the sacred vessels, including the lampstand, and burned the temple. Sculptures of their troops carrying the vessels are visible on the Arch of Titus in Rome.

whoever reads . . . understand. Possibly not a comment by the evangelist but by Jesus. In either case, the sense is not "whoever reads this Gospel," but "whoever reads Daniel."

■ 24:16 flee to the mountains. According to the early church historian Eusebius, the Christians did flee Jerusalem during the Jewish war in obedience to a prophecy.

■ 24:22 those days. Although this verse is usually taken with vv. 15–21, it is also possible to understand it as reverting to the general "beginning of sorrows" of vv. 4–14.

■ 24:24 if possible. Although the false prophets try to deceive the elect, there is no real possibility that they will succeed. God will keep the elect secure in His love (Rom. 8:31–39; cf. John 10:28, 29). See "Perseverance of the Saints" at Rom. 8:30.

■ 24:27 as the lightning. The coming of Christ will be evident, unambiguous, and clear to all.

■ 24:28 wherever the carcass is. The sign of Jesus' coming will be as clear as where carrion is, eagles gather.

■ 24:29–31 Some have understood these verses to represent the defeat shaken. 30e Then the sign of the Son of Man will appear in heaven, f and then all the tribes of the earth will mourn, and they will see the Son of Man coming on the clouds of heaven with power and great glory. 31g And He will send His angels with a great sound of a trumpet, and they will gather together His 4elect from the four winds, from one end of heaven to the other.

The Parable of the Fig Tree

32 "Now learn h this parable from the fig tree: When its branch has already become tender and puts forth leaves, you know that summer is near. 33 So you also, when you see all these things, know i that 5it is near—at the doors! 34 Assuredly, I say to you, j this generation will by no means pass away till all these things take place. 35k Heaven and earth will pass away, but My words will by no means pass away.

No One Knows the Day or Hour

36l "But of that day and hour no one knows, not even the angels of 6heaven, m but My Father only. 37 But as the days of Noah were, so also will the coming of the Son of Man be. 38n For as in the days before the flood, they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noah entered the ark, 39 and did not know until the flood came and took them all away, so also will the coming of the Son of Man be. 40o Then two men will be in the field: one will be taken and the other left. 41 Two women will be grinding at the mill: one will be taken and the other left. 42p Watch therefore, for you do not know what 7hour your Lord is coming. 43q But know this, that if the master of the house had known what 8hour the thief would come, he would have watched and not allowed his house to be broken into. 44r Therefore you also be ready, for the Son of Man is coming at an hour you do not expect.

The Faithful Servant and the Evil Servant

45s "Who then is a faithful and wise servant, whom his master made ruler over his household, to give them food 9in due season? 46t Blessed is that servant whom his master, when he comes, will find so doing. 47 Assuredly, I say to you that u he will make him ruler over all his goods. 48 But if that evil servant says in his heart, 'My master v is delaying l his coming,' 49 and begins to beat his fellow servants, and to eat and drink with the drunkards, 50 the master of that servant will come on a day when he is not looking for him and at an hour that he is w not aware of, 51 and will cut him in two and appoint him his portion with the hypocrites. x There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

The Parable of the Wise and Foolish Virgins

25 "Then the kingdom of heaven shall be likened to ten virgins who took their lamps and went out to meet a the bridegroom. 2b Now five of them were wise, and five were foolish. 3 Those who were foolish took their lamps and took no oil with them, 4 but the wise took oil in their vessels with their lamps. 5 But while the bridegroom was delayed, c they all slumbered and slept.

6 "And at midnight d a cry was heard: 'Behold, the bridegroom l is coming; go out to meet him!' 7 Then all those virgins arose and e trimmed their lamps. 8 And the foolish said to the wise, 'Give us some of your oil, for our lamps are going out.' 9 But the wise answered, saying, 'No, lest there should not be enough for us and you; but go rather to those who sell, and buy for your-

of Satan's forces, the Son of Man's vindication, and the spread of the gospel to all the world, as having occurred symbolically at the destruction of Jerusalem. But the language of v. 31 is parallel to passages like 13:41; 16:27; and 25:31, as well as to passages such as 1 Cor. 15:52 and 1 Thess. 4:14–17. The passage most naturally refers to the Second Coming.

all these things. That is, "all these things" referred to in v. 33, which are distinguished from the consummation itself. They are the "beginning of sorrows" (v. 8) and signs that point to the final coming of Christ, including the siege and fall of Jerusalem. All of the elements of this prophecy, except for the Second Coming itself, had occurred in some form before the disciples died (Luke 21:32 note).

The Parable of the Talents

14 [k]"For the kingdom of heaven is [l]like a man traveling to a far country, who called his own servants and delivered his goods to them. 15 And to one he gave five talents, to another two, and to another one, [m]to each according to his own ability; and immediately he went on a journey. 16 Then he who had received the five talents went and traded with them, and made another five talents. 17 And likewise he who had received two gained two more also. 18 But he who had received one went and dug in the ground, and hid his lord's money. 19 After a long time the lord of those servants came and settled accounts with them.

20 "So he who had received five talents came and brought five other talents, saying, 'Lord, you delivered to me five talents; look, I have gained five more talents besides them.' 21 His lord said to him, 'Well done, good and faithful servant; you were [n]faithful over a few things, [o]I will make you ruler over many things. Enter into [p]the joy of your lord.' 22 He also who had received two talents came and said, 'Lord, you delivered to me two talents; look, I have gained two more talents besides them.' 23 His lord said to him, [q]'Well done, good and faithful servant; you have been faithful over a few things, I will make you ruler over many things. Enter into [r]the joy of your lord.'

24 "Then he who had received the one talent came and said, 'Lord, I knew you to be a hard man, reaping where you have not sown, and gathering where you have not scattered seed. 25 And I was afraid, and went and hid your talent in the ground. Look, there you have what is yours.'

26 "But his lord answered and said to him, 'You [s]wicked and lazy servant, you knew that I reap where I have not sown, and gather where I have not scattered seed. 27 So you ought to have deposited my money with the bankers, and at my coming I would have received back my own with interest. 28 So take the talent from him, and give it to him who has ten talents.

29 [t]'For to everyone who has, more will be given, and he will have abundance; but from him who does not have, even what he has will be taken away. 30 And cast the unprofitable servant [u]into the outer darkness. [v]There will be weeping and [w]gnashing of teeth.'

The Son of Man Will Judge the Nations

31 [x]"When the Son of Man comes in His glory, and all the [3]holy angels with Him, then He will sit on the throne of His glory. 32 [y]All the nations will be gathered before Him, and [z]He will separate them one from another, as a shepherd divides his sheep from the goats. 33 And He will set the [a]sheep on His right hand, but the goats on the left. 34 Then the King will say to those on His right hand, 'Come, you blessed of My Father, [b]inherit the kingdom [c]prepared for you from the foundation of the world: 35 [d]for I was hungry and you gave Me food; I was thirsty and you gave Me drink; [e]I was a stranger and you took Me in; 36 I was [f]naked and you clothed Me; I was sick and you visited Me; [g]I was in prison and you came to Me.'

37 "Then the righteous will answer Him, saying, 'Lord, when did we see You hungry and feed You, or thirsty and give You drink? 38 When did we see You a stranger and take You in, or naked and clothe You? 39 Or when did we see You sick, or in prison, and come to You?' 40 And the King will answer and say to them, 'Assuredly, I say to you, [h]inasmuch as you did it to one of the least of these My brethren, you did it to Me.'

41 "Then He will also say to those on the left hand, [i]'Depart from Me, you cursed, [j]into the

The judgment of the nations depends on how they respond to Christians and to the gospel (10:40–42), not only because it is through the testimony of Christians that the Gentiles can hear and believe (Rom. 10:14), but also because Christ identifies with His people. Their suffering is His suffering, and compassion shown to them is compassion shown to Him.

The Final Judgment

The certainty of final judgment is the background against which the New Testament message of saving grace is set. Paul no less than Jesus stresses this certainty. According to Paul, Jesus Christ saves us from "the wrath to come" (1 Thess. 1:10) on "the day of wrath and revelation of the righteous judgment of God" (Rom. 2:5; cf. John 3:36; Rom. 5:9; Eph. 5:6; Col. 3:6; Rev. 6:17; 19:15). Throughout Scripture, God's "indignation," "anger," and "fury" are judicial; these words point to the holy Creator as the active Judge of sin. The message of coming judgment for all mankind, with Jesus Christ completing the work of His mediatorial kingdom by acting as Judge on His Father's behalf, runs throughout the New Testament (Matt. 13:40–43; 25:41–46; John 5:22–30; Acts 10:42; 2 Cor. 5:10; 2 Tim. 4:1; Heb. 9:27; 10:25–31; 12:23; 2 Pet. 3:7; Jude 6, 7; Rev. 20:11–15). When Christ comes again and history is completed, all people of all times will be raised for the judgment and take their place before Christ's throne. The event surpasses imagination, but the human imagination is not the measure of what God will do.

At the judgment every person will give an individual account to God, and God through Christ "will render to each one according to his deeds" (Rom. 2:6; cf. Ps. 62:12; Matt. 16:27; 2 Cor. 5:10; Rev. 22:12). The regenerate, who as servants of Christ have learned to love righteousness and desire the glory of heaven, will be acknowledged, and on the basis of Christ's merit on their behalf they will be awarded the righteousness they seek. The rest will go to a destiny commensurate with the godless way of life they have chosen, a place assigned to them on the basis of their own demerit (Rom. 2:6–11). How much they knew of the will of God will determine the severity of their condemnation (Matt. 11:20–24; Luke 11:42–48; Rom. 2:12).

The judgment will demonstrate the perfect justice of God. In a world of sinners, where God has "allowed all nations to walk in their own ways" (Acts 14:16), evil is rampant, and doubts arise about how God, if He is sovereign, can be just, or, if He is just, can be sovereign. But God will be glorified in rendering just judgment, and the Last Judgment will answer every suspicion that He has ceased to care about righteousness (Ps. 50:16–21; Rev. 6:10; 16:5–7; 19:1–5).

For those who profess to belong to Christ, a review of their words and works (Matt. 12:36, 37) will show whether their profession is the fruit of an honest and good heart (Matt. 12:33–35), or a deceptive hypocrisy (Matt. 7:21–23). Everything will be exposed on Judgment Day (1 Cor. 4:5), and each person will receive from God what fairly belongs to them. Those whose professed faith did not express itself in a new life, marked by hatred of sin and love of righteousness, will be lost (Matt. 18:23–35; 25:34–46; James 2:14–26). Yet God has announced the day of judgment before the time, commanding everyone to repent and love life rather than death (Deut. 30:19; Luke 13:24).

■ 25:46 everlasting punishment. See "Hell" at Mark 9:43.

■ 26:5 Not during the feast. Although the officials expected to postpone the murder of Jesus until after Passover (Mark 14:1 note), God's purpose (v. 2) was for it to take place on or just before the feast (v. 17 note).

6 And when Jesus was in [e]Bethany at the house of Simon the leper, 7 a woman came to Him having an alabaster flask of very costly fragrant oil, and she poured it on His head as He sat at the table. 8 [f]But when His disciples saw it, they were indignant, saying, "Why this waste? 9 For this fragrant oil might have been sold for much and given to the poor."

For she has done a good work for Me. 11 [g]For you have the poor with you always, but [h]Me you do not have always. 12 For in pouring this fragrant oil on My body, she did it for My [i]burial. 13 Assuredly, I say to you, wherever this gospel is preached in the whole world, what this woman has done will also be told as a memorial to her."

Judas Agrees to Betray Jesus

14 [j]Then one of the twelve, called [k]Judas Iscariot, went to the chief priests 15 and said, [l]"What are you willing to give me if I deliver Him to you?" And they counted out to him thirty pieces of silver. 16 So from that time he sought opportunity to betray Him.

Jesus Celebrates Passover with His Disciples

17 [m]Now on the first day of the Feast of Unleavened Bread the disciples came to Jesus, saying to Him, "Where do You want us to prepare for You to eat the Passover?"

18 And He said, "Go into the city to a certain man, and say to him, 'The Teacher says, [n]"My time is at hand; I will keep the Passover at your house with My disciples." ' "

19 So the disciples did as Jesus had directed them; and they prepared the Passover.

20 [o]When evening had come, He sat down with the twelve. 21 Now as they were eating, He said, "Assuredly, I say to you, one of you will [p]betray Me."

22 And they were exceedingly sorrowful, and each of them began to say to Him, "Lord, is it I?"

23 He answered and said, [q]"He who dipped his hand with Me in the dish will betray Me. 24 The Son of Man indeed goes just [r]as it is written of Him, but [s]woe to that man by whom the Son of Man is betrayed! [t]It would have been good for that man if he had not been born."

25 Then Judas, who was betraying Him, answered and said, "Rabbi, is it I?"

He said to him, "You have said it."

Jesus Institutes the Lord's Supper

26 [u]And as they were eating, [v]Jesus took bread, [3]blessed and broke it, and gave it to the disciples and said, "Take, eat; [w]this is My body."

■ 26:6–13 Mark 14:3–9 agrees with Matthew's account regarding the time (two days before Passover, v. 2) and the method of anointing (on Jesus' head). John 12:1–8 differs chronologically (six days before Passover), but although certain details are different (Mary anoints His feet), none conflict (John 12:3 note). These three accounts probably relate the same incident. Luke 7:36–38, however, bears only superficial similarity to this story.

■ 26:8 they were indignant. John reports the hypocritical objection of Judas (John 12:4–6), and Matthew indicates that the others agreed with him.

■ 26:11 the poor. Care for the poor is commanded by God, but the commandment cannot have a higher priority than Jesus, the One sent by the Author of the commandment. Similarly, God commands honor of father and mother, but not above honor to Jesus (10:37; 15:4–6; 19:29).

■ 26:17 the first day of the Feast. The day of preparation for Passover, presumably 14 Nisan (the first month of the Jewish calendar). Jesus celebrated Passover that evening, 15 Nisan, and was crucified the next afternoon. The Gospel of John seems to present Jesus as crucified on the day before Passover (John 18:28; 19:14, 31), making the Lord's Supper not a Passover meal.

Calvin understood Preparation Day to be the day before Passover, and argued that the Jews according to some traditions combined the Passover with the weekly Sabbath (John 19:14 note). Then Matt. 27:62 would refer to the Preparation Day observed by the Jewish leadership. There is some difficulty, however, in seeing how Jesus' disciples could have had their lamb slaughtered in advance of the official schedule, and Mark 14:12 clearly indicates that Jesus arranged for Passover on the day when the lambs were customarily slaughtered. Whatever the solution, Matthew clearly identifies the meal that Jesus ate with His disciples on the eve of His crucifixion as the Passover meal.

■ 26:18 My time. Again Jesus emphasizes that all the terrible events soon to take place were totally under God's control.

■ 26:24 Son of Man. See 8:20 note.

as it is written of Him. Jesus' atoning death was no mere contrivance of the misguided authorities. The event and its circumstances, including betrayal by His friend (Ps. 41:9; 55:12–14), had been appointed by God since before the world was formed. Nevertheless, those who brought about Jesus' death remain responsible for their actions ("woe to that man;" cf. Acts 2:23).

■ 26:26–29 In the old covenant, the Passover meal was a memorial celebration of Israel's deliverance from Egypt. By transforming His last Passover meal to institute the Lord's Supper, Jesus shows the consistent focus on redemption throughout God's revelation. The Lord's Supper demonstrates the essential continuity between the old and the new covenants by revealing that the true meaning of the Passover lies in the deliverance effected by Jesus' death.

■ 26:26 this is My body. In Roman Catholicism these words are quoted in support of the doctrine of transubstantiation, which teaches that the outward, physical attributes of the bread and wine remain unchanged, while the invisible essence is transformed into the body and blood of Christ. Calvin and the other Reformers recognized that the ele-

27 Then He took the cup, and gave thanks, and gave it to them, saying, [x]"Drink from it, all of you. 28 For [y]this is My blood [z]of the [4]new covenant, which is shed [a]for many for the [5]remission of sins. 29 But [b]I say to you, I will not drink of this fruit of the vine from now on [c]until that day when I drink it new with you in My Father's kingdom."

30 [d]And when they had sung a hymn, they went out to the Mount of Olives.

Jesus Predicts Peter's Denial

31 Then Jesus said to them, [e]"All of you will [f]be [6]made to stumble because of Me this night, for it is written:

> [g]'I will strike the Shepherd,
> And the sheep of the flock will be scattered.'

32 But after I have been raised, [h]I will go before you to Galilee."

33 Peter answered and said to Him, "Even if all are [7]made to stumble because of You, I will never be made to stumble."

34 Jesus said to him, [i]"Assuredly, I say to you that this night, before the rooster crows, you will deny Me three times."

35 Peter said to Him, "Even if I have to die with You, I will not deny You!"

And so said all the disciples.

The Prayer in the Garden

36 [j]Then Jesus came with them to a place called Gethsemane, and said to the disciples, "Sit here while I go and pray over there." 37 And He took with Him Peter and [k]the two sons of Zebedee, and He began to be sorrowful and deeply distressed. 38 Then He said to them, [l]"My soul is exceedingly sorrowful, even to death. Stay here and watch with Me."

39 He went a little farther and fell on His face, and [m]prayed, saying, [n]"O My Father, if it is possible, [o]let this cup pass from Me; nevertheless, [p]not as I will, but as You will."

40 Then He came to the disciples and found them sleeping, and said to Peter, "What! Could you not watch with Me one hour? 41 [q]Watch and pray, lest you enter into temptation. [r]The spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak."

42 Again, a second time, He went away and prayed, saying, "O My Father, [s]if this cup cannot pass away from Me unless I drink it, Your will be done." 43 And He came and found them asleep again, for their eyes were heavy.

44 So He left them, went away again, and prayed the third time, saying the same words. 45 Then He came to His disciples and said to them, "Are you still sleeping and resting? Behold, the hour [9]is at hand, and the Son of Man is being [s]betrayed into the hands of sinners. 46 Rise, let us be going. See, My betrayer is at hand."

Betrayal and Arrest in Gethsemane

47 And [t]while He was still speaking, behold, Judas, one of the twelve, with a great multitude with swords and clubs, came from the chief priests and elders of the people.

48 Now His betrayer had given them a sign, saying, "Whomever I kiss, He is the One; seize Him." 49 Immediately he went up to Jesus and said, "Greetings, Rabbi!" [u]and kissed Him.

50 But Jesus said to him, [v]"Friend, why have you come?"

Then they came and laid hands on Jesus and took Him. 51 And suddenly, [w]one of those who were with Jesus stretched out his hand and drew his sword, struck the servant of the high priest, and cut off his ear.

52 But Jesus said to him, "Put your sword in its place, [x]for all who take the sword will [1]perish ments represent Christ's body and blood. Jesus uttered these words while physically present with His disciples, so a literal identification of the elements with His physical substance would not have occurred to them. The bread and wine are more than conventional symbols, however, for through the Holy Spirit they communicate visibly what is read and heard in the gospel (1 Cor. 10:16). See "The Lord's Supper" at 1 Cor. 11:23.

■ 26:28 My blood of the new covenant. The Mosaic covenant was inaugurated with a sacrifice (Ex. 24:28), and the new covenant prophesied by Jeremiah (Jer. 31:31–34; cf. Luke 22:17–20; 1 Cor. 11:23–25) is inaugurated by the sacrifice of Christ, to which the Lord's Supper points. See "The Sacraments" at 28:19.

■ 26:31 I will strike the Shepherd. In the context of Zech. 13:7, the Lord strikes the Shepherd, the Lord's "Companion," and God's "little ones" are scattered. Subsequently they are renewed and truly become God's people. The disciples' desertion of Jesus is representative of the nation's apostasy, as well as of the remnant that God will save.

■ 26:39 cup. See 20:23 note. Jesus is horrified at the prospect of enduring His Father's wrath. Jesus had to face death knowing that His Father would not be with Him, but against Him in wrath of judgment.

■ 26:52 Put your sword in its place. Jesus did not bring His kingdom with force, like earthly kings.

by the sword. 53 Or do you think that I cannot now pray to My Father, and He will provide Me with [y]more than twelve legions of angels? 54 How then could the Scriptures be fulfilled, [z]that it must happen thus?"

55 In that hour Jesus said to the multitudes, "Have you come out, as against a robber, with swords and clubs to take Me? I sat daily with you, teaching in the temple, and you did not seize Me. 56 But all this was done that the [a]Scriptures of the prophets might be fulfilled."

Then [b]all the disciples forsook Him and fled.

Jesus Faces the Sanhedrin

57 [c]And those who had laid hold of Jesus led Him away to Caiaphas the high priest, where the scribes and the elders were assembled. 58 But [d]Peter followed Him at a distance to the high priest's courtyard. And he went in and sat with the servants to see the end.

59 Now the chief priests, [2]the elders, and all the council sought [e]false testimony against Jesus to put Him to death, 60 [3]but found none. Even though [f]many false witnesses came forward, they found none. But at last [g]two [4]false witnesses came forward 61 and said, "This fellow said, [h]'I am able to destroy the temple of God and to build it in three days.' "

62 [i]And the high priest arose and said to Him, "Do You answer nothing? What is it these men testify against You?" 63 But [j]Jesus kept silent. And the high priest answered and said to Him, [k]"I put You under oath by the living God: Tell us if You are the Christ, the Son of God!"

64 Jesus said to him, "It is as you said. Nevertheless, I say to you, [l]hereafter you will see the Son of Man [m]sitting at the right hand of the Power, and coming on the clouds of heaven."

65 [n]Then the high priest tore his clothes, saying, "He has spoken blasphemy! What further need do we have of witnesses? Look, now you have heard His [o]blasphemy! 66 What do you think?"

They answered and said, [p]"He is deserving of death."

67 [q]Then they spat in His face and beat Him; and [r]others struck Him with [5]the palms of their hands, 68 saying, [s]"Prophesy to us, Christ! Who is the one who struck You?"

Peter Denies Jesus, and Weeps Bitterly

69 [t]Now Peter sat outside in the courtyard. And a servant girl came to him, saying, "You also were with Jesus of Galilee."

70 But he denied it before them all, saying, "I do not know what you are saying."

71 And when he had gone out to the gateway, another girl saw him and said to those who were there, "This fellow also was with Jesus of Nazareth."

72 But again he denied with an oath, "I do not know the Man!"

73 And a little later those who stood by came up and said to Peter, "Surely you also are one of them, for your [u]speech betrays you."

74 Then [v]he began to [6]curse and [7]swear, saying, "I do not know the Man!"

Immediately a rooster crowed. 75 And Peter remembered the word of Jesus who had said to him, [w]"Before the rooster crows, you will deny Me three times." So he went out and wept bitterly.

Jesus Handed Over to Pontius Pilate

27 When morning came, [a]all the chief priests and elders of the people plotted against Jesus to put Him to death. 2 And when they had bound Him, they led Him away and [b]delivered Him to [1]Pontius Pilate the governor.

■ 26:54, 56 be fulfilled. Jesus knows that the Scriptures prophesying salvation through His death must be fulfilled (Luke 22:37). Some commentators suggest that Zech. 13:7 is still in view (v. 31), but more probably that Jesus is referring broadly to His death and resurrection (see Luke 24:44–46).

■ 26:59–61 Apparently the Sanhedrin had difficulty finding false witnesses. Finally they used a charge that was a distortion of something Jesus had said (John 2:19). The numerous irregularities in this trial have often been pointed out. This is not evidence of historical unreliability, but of the extreme actions the Jewish leaders took to rid themselves of Jesus.

■ 26:63 I put You under oath. Jesus did not answer, and Caiaphas comes to the point: does Jesus claim to be the Messiah sent from God?

■ 26:64 It is as you said. Jesus' answer is reluctantly affirmative, probably because the high priest's understanding of the Messiah's role was so different from the role Jesus actually fulfilled. Jesus responds in the same way to a similar question from Pilate in 27:11.

hereafter you will see. Jesus probably speaks of the process of exaltation to the right hand of the Father that in a sense begins with His humiliation and death. The Jewish leaders would soon "see" in the resurrection reports of the soldiers (28:11–15) and Stephen's eyewitness testimony of the majesty of the exalted Christ (Acts 7:56) that the One whom they had killed was the Messiah He had claimed to be.

■ 26:69–75 Peter's three denials are recorded in all four Gospels (Mark 14:66–72; Luke 22:54–62; John 18:15–18, 25–27), although the accounts differ in certain details. Peter's oaths (vv. 72, 74) mean that he appealed to God to witness to something that was not true (see 5:33–37; Ex. 20:7). All the Gospels record this incident, showing how deeply it impressed the mind of the early church. It is a testimony both to human weakness and the greatness of God's mercy.

Judas Hangs Himself

3 [c]Then Judas, His betrayer, seeing that He had been condemned, was remorseful and brought back the thirty [d]pieces of silver to the chief priests and elders, 4 saying, "I have sinned by betraying innocent blood."

And they said, "What is that to us? You see to it!"

5 Then he threw down the pieces of silver in the temple and [e]departed, and went and hanged himself.

6 But the chief priests took the silver pieces and said, "It is not lawful to put them into the treasury, because they are the price of blood." 7 And they consulted together and bought with them the potter's field, to bury strangers in. 8 Therefore that field has been called [f]the Field of Blood to this day.

9 Then was fulfilled what was spoken by Jeremiah the prophet, saying, [g]"And they took the thirty pieces of silver, the value of Him who was priced, whom they of the children of Israel priced, 10 and [h]gave them for the potter's field, as the LORD directed me."

Jesus Faces Pilate

11 Now Jesus stood before the governor. [i]And the governor asked Him, saying, "Are You the King of the Jews?"

Jesus said to him, [j]"It is as you say." 12 And while He was being accused by the chief priests and elders, [k]He answered nothing.

13 Then Pilate said to Him, [l]"Do You not hear how many things they testify against You?" 14 But He answered him not one word, so that the governor marveled greatly.

Taking the Place of Barabbas

15 [m]Now at the feast the governor was accustomed to releasing to the multitude one prisoner whom they wished. 16 And at that time they had a notorious prisoner called [2]Barabbas. 17 Therefore, when they had gathered together, Pilate said to them, "Whom do you want me to release to you? Barabbas, or Jesus who is called Christ?" 18 For he knew that they had handed Him over because of [n]envy.

19 While he was sitting on the judgment seat, his wife sent to him, saying, "Have nothing to do with that just Man, for I have suffered many things today in a dream because of Him."

20 [o]But the chief priests and elders persuaded the multitudes that they should ask for Barabbas and destroy Jesus. 21 The governor answered and said to them, "Which of the two do you want me to release to you?"

They said, [p]"Barabbas!"

22 Pilate said to them, "What then shall I do with Jesus who is called Christ?"

They all said to him, "Let Him be crucified!"

23 Then the governor said, [q]"Why, what evil has He done?"

But they cried out all the more, saying, "Let Him be crucified!"

24 When Pilate saw that he could not prevail at all, but rather that a [3]tumult was rising, he [r]took water and washed his hands before the multitude, saying, "I am innocent of the blood of this [4]just Person. You see to it."

25 And all the people answered and said, [s]"His blood be on us and on our children."

26 Then he released Barabbas to them; and when [t]he had [5]scourged Jesus, he delivered Him to be crucified.

■ 27:3 remorseful. Judas's remorse is not the same as repentance (3:2 note).

■ 27:4 They cannot claim indifference to the question of "innocent blood" for which they paid the price (26:15). This attempt at passing responsibility is no more effective than Pilate's in v. 24.

■ 27:5 hanged himself. See Acts 1:18 note.

■ 27:9 spoken by Jeremiah. Most of the words in the quotation are from Zech. 11:12, 13, but the content is also closely related to Jer. 19:1–13, which is a prophecy of judgment for the shedding of innocent blood (Jer. 19:4). Jeremiah twice speaks of a potter (Jer. 19:1, 11), and Matthew's "Field of Blood" recalls his designation of Tophet as the "Valley of Slaughter" (Jer. 19:6), which also was to become a burial ground (Jer. 19:11). Matthew finds in Judas's and the priests' actions a fulfillment of the judgment prophecies of Zechariah and Jeremiah.

■ 27:14 Jesus' silence fulfills Is. 53:7.

■ 27:25 His blood be on us. When Pilate seemed reluctant to act, the people were not afraid to say they would take the responsibility themselves. Their guilt, Pilate's guilt, and Judas's, is not determined by them but by God (cf. Acts 4:27). According to Ezekiel, descendants do not share the guilt of their parents unless they cooperate in their sins (Ezek. 18:20; cf. Acts 2:23, 39).

■ 27:26 scourged. The Roman scourge was a multi-stranded whip to the ends of which bits of bone were tied. Prisoners often died from this punishment.

The Soldiers Mock Jesus

27 [u]Then the soldiers of the governor took Jesus into the [6]Praetorium and gathered the whole [7]garrison around Him. 28 And they [v]stripped Him and [w]put a scarlet robe on Him. 29 [x]When they had [8]twisted a crown of thorns, they put it on His head, and a reed in His right hand. And they bowed the knee before Him and mocked Him, saying, "Hail, King of the Jews!" 30 Then [y]they spat on Him, and took the reed and struck Him on the head. 31 And when they had mocked Him, they took the robe off Him, put His own clothes on Him, [z]and led Him away to be crucified.

The King on a Cross

32 [a]Now as they came out, [b]they found a man of Cyrene, Simon by name. Him they compelled to bear His cross. 33 [c]And when they had come to a place called Golgotha, that is to say, Place of a Skull, 34 [d]they gave Him [9]sour wine mingled with gall to drink. But when He had tasted it, He would not drink.

35 [e]Then they crucified Him, and divided His garments, casting lots, [f]that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet:

> [f]"They divided My garments among them,
> And for My clothing they cast lots."

36 [g]Sitting down, they kept watch over Him there. 37 And they [h]put up over His head the accusation written against Him:

THIS IS JESUS THE KING OF THE JEWS.

38 [i]Then two robbers were crucified with Him, one on the right and another on the left.

39 And [j]those who passed by blasphemed Him, wagging their heads 40 and saying, [k]"You who destroy the temple and build it in three days, save Yourself! [l]If You are the Son of God, come down from the cross."

41 Likewise the chief priests also, mocking with the [2]scribes and elders, said, 42 "He [m]saved others; Himself He cannot save. [3]If He is the King of Israel, let Him now come down from the cross, and we will believe [4]Him. 43 [n]He trusted in God; let Him deliver Him now if He will have Him; for He said, 'I am the Son of God.' "

44 [o]Even the robbers who were crucified with Him reviled Him with the same thing.

Jesus Dies on the Cross

45 [p]Now from the sixth hour until the ninth hour there was darkness over all the land. 46 And about the ninth hour [q]Jesus cried out with a loud voice, saying, "Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani?" that is, [r]"My God, My God, why have You forsaken Me?"

47 Some of those who stood there, when they heard that, said, "This Man is calling for Elijah!" 48 Immediately one of them ran and took a sponge, [s]filled it with sour wine and put it on a reed, and offered it to Him to drink.

49 The rest said, "Let Him alone; let us see if Elijah will come to save Him."

50 And Jesus [t]cried out again with a loud voice, and [u]yielded up His spirit.

■ 27:28 robe. Lit. "cloak," of a Roman soldier. Matthew calls the robe "scarlet," although Mark and John call it "purple." Matthew's detail emphasizes the indignity and may hint at the popular conception of the Messiah as a military and political deliverer.

■ 27:32–37 Crucifixion was a slow and agonizing death. Nails were probably driven through the wrists rather than the palms. The weight of the suspended body made breathing difficult and painful. Involuntary efforts by the legs to ease the pressure greatly increased pain in the feet. This ordeal continued until the exhausted victim could no longer breathe; this might take several days.

■ 27:34 gall. Any of several bitter herbs; Mark mentions myrrh. Commentators often note that myrrh mixed with wine is a painkiller. But the offer of galled wine was probably not a gesture of compassion but of mockery, as in Ps. 69:21. Jesus' thirst would have been great, but the gall made the wine undrinkable.

■ 27:35 divided His garments. This action fulfilled Ps. 22:18, as is made explicit in John 19:23, 24. The events surrounding the crucifixion of Jesus include numerous fulfillments of Ps. 22.

■ 27:37 THE KING OF THE JEWS. The placard at the head of the cross specified the crime. Pilate was insulting the Jewish leaders, but the irony of its truth was apparent to the early church.

■ 27:38 The term translated "robbers" is the word Josephus uses for rebels. Robbers were not ordinarily crucified. Perhaps these two were cohorts of Barabbas (Mark 15:7).

■ 27:40 Again note the irony. Jesus was going to return after three days, and "rebuild" the temple of His body. Precisely because He was the Son of God, He would not come down from the cross.

■ 27:45 from the sixth hour until the ninth hour. From noon to 3:00 P.M.

■ 27:46 why have You forsaken Me. Jesus' desolate cry is a fulfillment of Ps. 22:1 showing the depth of His distress as He suffers separation from His Father. Later the apostles realized that Jesus was enduring the dreadful wrath of God's judgment on sin. This was all the more agonizing to One whose relationship with the Father was perfect in love. The cry is Aramaic, except the Hebrew "Eli." Mark gives the Aramaic "Eloi."

■ 27:48, 49 The fulfillment of Ps. 69:21 (v. 34 note).

51 Then, behold, [v]the veil of the temple was torn in two from top to bottom; and the earth quaked, and the rocks were split, 52 and the graves were opened; and many bodies of the saints who had fallen asleep were raised; 53 and coming out of the graves after His resurrection, they went into the holy city and appeared to many.

54 [w]So when the centurion and those with him, who were guarding Jesus, saw the earthquake and the things that had happened, they feared greatly, saying, [x]"Truly this was the Son of God!"

55 And many women [y]who followed Jesus from Galilee, ministering to Him, were there looking on from afar, 56 [z]among whom were Mary Magdalene, Mary the mother of James and [5]Joses, and the mother of Zebedee's sons.

Jesus Buried in Joseph's Tomb

57 Now [a]when evening had come, there came a rich man from Arimathea, named Joseph, who himself had also become a disciple of Jesus. 58 This man went to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus. Then Pilate commanded the body to be given to him. 59 When Joseph had taken the body, he wrapped it in a clean linen cloth, 60 and [b]laid it in his new tomb which he had hewn out of the rock; and he rolled a large stone against the door of the tomb, and departed. 61 And Mary Magdalene was there, and the other Mary, sitting [6]opposite the tomb.

Pilate Sets a Guard

62 On the next day, which followed the Day of Preparation, the chief priests and Pharisees gathered together to Pilate, 63 saying, "Sir, we remember, while He was still alive, how that deceiver said, [c]'After three days I will rise.' 64 Therefore command that the tomb be made secure until the third day, lest His disciples come [7]by night and steal Him away, and say to the people, 'He has risen from the dead.' So the last deception will be worse than the first."

65 Pilate said to them, "You have a guard; go your way, make it as secure as you know how." 66 So they went and made the tomb secure, [d]sealing the stone and setting the guard.

He Is Risen

28 Now [a]after the Sabbath, as the first day of the week began to dawn, Mary Magdalene [b]and the other Mary came to see the tomb. 2 And behold, there was a great earthquake; for [c]an angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone [1]from the door, and sat on it. 3 [d]His countenance was like lightning, and his clothing as white as snow. 4 And the guards shook for fear of him, and became like [e]dead men.

5 But the angel answered and said to the women, "Do not be afraid, for I know that you seek Jesus who was crucified. 6 He is not here; for He is risen, [f]as He said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay. 7 And go quickly and tell His disciples that He is risen from the dead, and indeed [g]He is going before you into Galilee; there you will see Him. Behold, I have told you."

8 So they went out quickly from the tomb with fear and great joy, and ran to bring His disciples word.

The Women Worship the Risen Lord

9 And [2]as they went to tell His disciples, behold, [h]Jesus met them, saying, "Rejoice!" So they came and held Him by the feet and worshiped Him. 10 Then Jesus said to them, "Do not be afraid. Go and tell [i]My brethren to go to Galilee, and there they will see Me."

The Soldiers Are Bribed

■ 27:51 veil . . . was torn. The veil of the temple was the curtain separating the Most Holy Place from the rest of the sanctuary. It symbolized the unapproachability of God (Heb. 9:8). Jesus' death was His sacrifice at the heavenly altar (Heb. 9:12, 24, 25), which opened the way to God (Heb. 10:19, 20), removing the veil. Heaven had been opened through the royal priesthood of Christ (1 Pet. 2:9).

■ 27:52 were raised. The resurrection of the "many . . . saints," although mentioned here to show the connection with the rending of the veil, occurred after Jesus' resurrection. This resurrection was a partial, symbolic fulfillment of Dan. 12:2. There is no way of knowing who these people were, or whether they died again or were translated directly to heaven.

■ 27:54 Truly this was the Son of God. Although they may not have understood fully the phrase they used (16:16; Mark 15:39 and notes), the soldiers made an appropriate confession while the natural heirs of the covenant were deriding their Messiah.

■ 27:57 a rich man. Joseph's gift of a tomb completes Jesus' fulfillment of Is. 53:9. See note on Luke 23:50, 51.

■ 27:62–66 Matthew includes this as background for 28:11–15.

and consulted together, they gave a large sum of money to the soldiers, [13] saying, "Tell them, 'His disciples came at night and stole Him away while we slept.' [14] And if this comes to the governor's ears, we will appease him and make you secure." [15] So they took the money and did as they were instructed; and this saying is commonly reported among the Jews until this day.

The Great Commission

[16] Then the eleven disciples went away into Galilee, to the mountain [j]which Jesus had appointed for them. [17] When they saw Him, they worshiped Him; but some [k]doubted.

[18] And Jesus came and spoke to them, saying, [l]"All authority has been given to Me in heaven and on earth. [19] [m]Go [3]therefore and [n]make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, [20] [o]teaching them to observe all things that I have commanded you; and lo, I am [p]with you always, even to the end of the age." [4]Amen.

on those who are committed to unbelief. That the story of the disciples stealing Jesus' body was still circulated in the days of Justin Martyr (c. 160) indicates something of the desperation felt by Jewish leaders in explaining the empty tomb.

■ 28:18 Jesus now has "all authority." The Son of Man has come before the Ancient of Days and received the promised dominion (Dan. 7:13, 14). The last stage of history has begun, but it will not be completed until Christ comes to earth in glory (26:64). See "Jesus' Heavenly Reign" at Acts 7:55.

■ 28:19 Go therefore. The Great Commission is given on Christ's authority. Since Christ's dominion is universal, the gospel must go to the whole world. This commandment is the primary reason for evangelism and missions.

nations. The same Greek word often translated "Gentiles." The great promise that in Abraham all the nations would be blessed (Gen. 12:3) is ready to be fulfilled.

baptizing them. See note on 3:6. Those who become disciples are baptized in (lit. "into") the triune name. There is one name (not "names"), and one baptism; Father, Son, and Spirit are one God. Disciples are baptized "in" this name because they belong to God, having been brought into the new covenant that expresses the will of the triune God. See theological note "The Sacraments."

■ 28:20 teaching them to observe. Disciples are not just taught what to believe, but how to obey. Jesus taught practical holiness.

I am with you always. Jesus was named Immanuel ("God with us") at His birth (1:23), and now He promises to be with His disciples to the end of the age. He is with them specifically in the responsibility of teaching His will to the world. See "The Mission of the Church in the World" at John 20:21.

The Appearances of the Risen Christ (28:7)

Central to Christian faith is the bodily resurrection of Jesus. By recording the resurrection appearances, the New Testament leaves no doubt about this event.

The Sacraments

Christ instituted two rites for His followers to observe: baptism, a once-for-all rite of initiation (Matt. 28:19; Gal. 3:27), and the Lord's Supper, a regular rite of remembrance (1 Cor. 11:23–26). These are called "sacraments" in the Western church, "mysteries" in the Eastern Orthodox church, or "ordinances." Scripture has no technical term for the two rites or the corresponding Old Testament observances, that is, circumcision of males as a rite of initiation (Gen. 17:9–14, 23–27) and the annual passover as a rite of remembrance (Ex. 12:1–27). Biblical teaching, however, warrants classifying them all together as signs and seals of a covenant relationship with God.

"Sacrament" is from a Latin word meaning sacred. Study of the Christian rites themselves leads to a definition of sacrament as a ritual action instituted by Christ in which signs perceived by the senses present to us the grace of God in Christ and the blessings of His covenant. They communicate and confirm these blessings to believers, who in receiving the sacraments respond to God's grace and declare their faith and allegiance to Him. The sacraments "put a visible difference between those that belong unto the Church and the rest of the world." They solemnly "engage [Christians] to the service of God in Christ, according to His Word" (Westminster Confession, XXVII.1).

It was a mistake of the medieval church to classify as sacraments five more rites (confirmation, penance, marriage, ordination, and extreme unction). These five are not seals of a covenant relationship with God. They were not instituted by Christ, and they do not have "any visible sign or ceremony ordained of God" (Thirty-Nine Articles, XXV).

The sacraments are means of grace, for God uses them to strengthen faith's confidence in His promises and to call forth acts of faith for receiving the good gifts signified. The efficacy of the sacraments is not from the faith or virtue of the minister, but from the faithfulness of God, who, having given the signs, is now pleased to use them. Christ and the apostles speak of the sign as if it were the thing signified, and as if receiving the former is the same as receiving the latter (Matt. 26:26–28; 1 Cor. 10:15–21; 1 Pet. 3:21, 22). As the preaching of the Word makes the gospel audible, so the sacraments make it visible.

Sacraments strengthen faith by correlating Christian beliefs with the testimony of our senses. The Heidelberg Catechism illustrates this in its answer to Question 75. The key words are "as sure as."

> Christ has commanded me . . . to eat of this broken bread and to drink of this cup in memory of Him, and therewith has given assurance: first, that His body was broken on the cross for me, and His blood shed for me, as sure as I see with my eyes the bread . . . broken for me and the cup communicated to me; and, further, that with His crucified body and shed blood He Himself feeds and nourishes my soul to eternal life, as sure as I take and taste the bread and cup . . . which are given me as sure tokens of the body and blood of Christ. □

MARK

Author All four Gospels are anonymous, and together they provide the church an authorized, collective witness of Jesus' person and work through the apostles—a theme often emphasized in Mark (3:14; 4:10; 5:37; 8:32 and notes). There is nothing inconsistent about the apostles' using fellow workers such as John Mark, whose name appears above this Gospel, to put this collective and individual witness into writing. For John Mark's relations with the apostles, see Acts 12:12, 25; 13:5, 13; Col. 4:10; 2 Tim. 4:11; Philem. 24.

Mark's authorship is established by certain external considerations. Although the title, "According to Mark," is not original, it appears in all the ancient canonical lists and many ancient manuscripts and is thought to have been added very early in the history of the text. Second, early church fathers such as Papias (A.D. 140), Justin Martyr (A.D. 150), Irenaeus (A.D. 185), and Clement of Alexandria (A.D. 195) all affirm that Mark wrote the second Gospel. Papias refers to Mark as Peter's "interpreter." Another reason to accept the authenticity of Marcan authorship is that in the second and third centuries of the church, books falsely claiming apostolic authorship usually claimed well-known apostles as their authors rather than secondary figures such as John Mark.

Within the text itself a veiled indication of Mark's connection with this Gospel may be seen in an otherwise apparently irrelevant notice of a "certain young man" who fled when Jesus was arrested. Some interpreters have suggested that this is Mark's way of referring to himself on that occasion (14:51 note). Possible evidence of Mark's position as Peter's "interpreter" (above) is the simplified chronological order of events in Mark that mirrors Peter's rehearsal of those events in the Book of Acts (Acts 3:13, 14; 10:36–43).

Date and Occasion If Mark was used by Matthew and Luke, it is the earliest of the Gospels and cannot be dated later than about A.D. 70. It is generally thought that Matthew and Luke were written about A.D. 80–90. However, if Luke and Acts were finished around A.D. 62, when the narrative of Acts ends, Mark would be even earlier. Beyond these considerations, an argument can be made that all the books of the New Testament were written before A.D. 70, the date of the destruction of the temple in Jerusalem, and so come from the first, apostolic generation.

The church fathers held that Mark was addressed to the church in Rome or in Italy generally. This is supported by Mark's association with Peter, who in 1 Pet. 5:13 addresses Christians in "Babylon" (a probable reference to Rome), by the influence of Latin in the Greek text, and by the probable reference to members of the Roman church (15:21; cf. Rom. 16:13). The translation of Semitic terms (3:17; 5:41; 15:22) and careful explanation of Jewish customs (7:2–4; 15:42) suggests that a Gentile readership is anticipated, though not excluding Gentile converts to Judaism.

Characteristics and Themes

1. The Purpose of the Gospel. Mark's prime purpose is to present in writing the witness of the apostles to the facts of the life, death, and resurrection of Jesus. Mark does not intend to write a full biography or even a complete account of Jesus' public ministry. The historical record is simplified, conforming to the basic structure of gospel proclamation: the beginning of Jesus' ministry with John the Baptist; Jesus' public ministry in Galilee and the surrounding regions; and His final journey to Jerusalem for the sacrifice of the cross. According to the Gospel of John, Jesus made at least five visits to Jerusalem (Mark 1:14 note). Matthew and Luke record more of Jesus' teaching than Mark, but Mark's goal is different. Using historical details, he presents an enlarged account of what the apostles preached about the cross of Christ (Acts 1:21, 22; 2:22–24; 1 Cor. 2:2).

2. Jesus as the True Israelite. Mark depicts Jesus as the true Israelite whose whole life demonstrates the necessity of submitting to the written Word of God (1:13 note; 12:35–37). In this, as more generally in service and in suffering (8:34—9:1), Jesus is presented and presents Himself as the model for His disciples.

3. Jesus as the Son of God. Mark presents the divinity of Jesus as Son of God and Son of Man (1:11; 2:10, 28; 3:11; 5:7; 9:7; 14:62; 15:39) shining through the ambiguous state of humiliation necessary for His earthly messianic calling. Mark also calls attention to the desire of Jesus to hide His true identity as Messiah and Son of God (the so-called "messianic secret") from those who would inevitably misinterpret it (1:34, 44; 3:12; 5:43; 7:36, 37; 8:26, 30; 9:9).

4. The Gospel as the Power of God. Mark emphasizes the importance of the preaching and teaching of the gospel message, not just as theological truth but as the "power of God" (12:24; cf. Rom. 1:16) over evil and sickness (1:27; cf. 16:15–18).

5. The Mission to the Gentiles. Mark shows Jesus' interest in the Gentiles and the validity of the church's mission to the Gentiles. This emphasis appears in the basic outline of the book, the care taken to explain Jewish terms and customs, the declaration that the temple was a "house of prayer for all nations" (11:17), and the final confession of Christ from the mouth of a Gentile (15:39).

Interpretive Difficulties The question of the literary type of the Gospel of Mark has occupied scholars continuously, especially in the last two hundred years. The question is important because it determines the context for interpreting individual elements of the Gospel. Some believe that the Gospels are a unique type of literature corresponding to the unique Christian message. Others think the Gospels should be compared to Greek and Roman biographies that combine in one literary work extraordinary deeds and memorable teachings. The Gospels differ from such biographies, most notably in the emphasis they place on the last days and death of Jesus, and their silence about most of His adult life. It has been well said that the Gospels are Passion narratives with long introductions.

Mark himself situates the beginning of his Gospel in the Old Testament (1:1-4 and notes), and its basic point of reference is to be found there, especially in the Book of Exodus. Exodus is a covenant document whose focal point is the account of how the covenant was inaugurated under the leadership of Moses. This focus corresponds in the Gospels to the significance of the death of Jesus, in which He shed the blood of the new covenant (14:24 and note). The rest of Exodus concerns the career of Moses, the covenant mediator; a record of the signs that God performed through him to establish the faith of God's people in the midst of unbelieving Egypt; and a record of the covenant legislation. Jesus likewise has called forth a new people, demonstrating His authority through miracles and signs, and has given His teaching as the "new commandment" (John 13:34) of the new covenant. As a record of Jesus' life and teachings, Mark takes its place in the history of redemption as a canonical document of the New Testament. □

John the Baptist Prepares the Way

THE [a]beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ, [b]the Son of God. 2 As it is written in [1]the Prophets:

[c]"Behold, I send My messenger before Your face,
Who will prepare Your way before You."
3 "The[d] voice of one crying in the wilderness:
'Prepare the way of the LORD;
Make His paths straight.'"

4 [e]John came baptizing in the wilderness and preaching a baptism of repentance [2]for the remission of sins. 5 [f]Then all the land of Judea, and those from Jerusalem, went out to him and were all baptized by him in the Jordan River, confessing their sins.

6 Now John was [g]clothed with camel's hair and with a leather belt around his waist, and he ate locusts and wild honey. 7 And he preached, saying, [h]"There comes One after me who is mightier than I, whose sandal strap I am not worthy to stoop down and loose. 8 [i]I indeed baptized you with water, but He will baptize you [j]with the Holy Spirit."

■ 1:1 The beginning. Unlike Matthew and Luke, Mark does not contain an account of Jesus' birth. The "beginning" (cf. Gen. 1:1; John 1:1) is identified with the ministry of John the Baptist (cf. Acts 1:22) and with the Old Testament prophecies announcing John's coming.

gospel. A term from political or personal reporting and correspondence, meaning "good news." The Greeks used this word for events such as the birth of an emperor or a major military victory.

of Jesus Christ. This phrase can be understood as either "about Jesus Christ" or "from Jesus Christ." The gospel is "about" Jesus, but it is also "from" Him (Rom. 1:9; 1 Cor. 9:12; 2 Cor. 10:14). The Gospel of Mark claims divine authority and offers itself as the word of Christ through His apostles to the church (cf. Rev. 1:1).

Son of God. Mark presents Jesus at the beginning of the Gospel as the divine, eternal Son. See notes on 13:32; 14:36; 15:39; cf. Rom. 1:3.

■ 1:2 it is written. By placing this citation of the Old Testament here, Mark intends to show the organic progress of revelation under the divine Lord of history. If the Old Testament is the Gospel's beginning and source, the Gospel revealed through Jesus Christ is the final and inspired interpretation of the Old Testament message.

in the Prophets. See text note. The citation is a chain of texts (Ex. 23:20; Mal. 3:1; Is. 40:3) concerning messengers that God had sent by way of preparation.

■ 1:4 John. The Old Testament citations locate John the Baptist in the preplanned history of God's covenantal dealings with His people.

in the wilderness. John's preaching in the wilderness symbolically reminds Israel of her covenantal origins in the Exodus (cf. Jer. 2:2). The wilderness is the traditional meeting place between God and His people.

baptism of repentance. The Qumran community, with which John may have had contact in his youth, practiced ritual cleansings and baptisms. Also, converts to Judaism were baptized. John's innovation was to require a one-time baptism of Israelites already within the covenant community. For him to require such a gesture of radical repentance is a sign of the approach of the new covenant. See note on Matt. 3:6.

for the remission of sins. John does not actually bestow forgiveness of sins. Definitive forgiveness of sins belongs to the new covenant (Jer. 31:34), which the Messiah will bring.

■ 1:5 all . . . those. This is literary exaggeration, indicating that the covenant people went out to John in a great crowd, no doubt as entire families (4:1; 6:44 and notes).

■ 1:6 camel's hair. John's clothing and food identify him as a classic type of Old Testament prophet (2 Kin. 1:8; Zech. 13:4).

■ 1:7 he preached. The identity of the One whom John announces and before whom he feels unworthy to kneel is evident from the Old Testament prophecies already cited. It is the "Lord" who "will suddenly come to His temple, even the messenger of the covenant," having been preceded by "My messenger" (Mal. 3:1).

■ 1:8 Holy Spirit. The new covenant brings renewal to the people of God (Jer. 31:33, 34; Ezek. 37:14) through the Son and the Spirit, whom the Son possesses in full measure (Is. 42:1; 61:1).

John Baptizes Jesus

9 [k]It came to pass in those days that Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee, and was baptized by John in the Jordan. 10 [l]And immediately, coming up [3]from the water, He saw the heavens [4]parting and the Spirit [m]descending upon Him like a dove. 11 Then a voice came from heaven, [n]"You are My beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased."

The Baptism of Jesus

There is continuity between John's baptism of repentance (Mark 1:4) and the trinitarian baptism instituted by Jesus (Matt. 28:19). Both were symbols of cleansing, and had remission of sins in view (Mark 1:4; Acts 2:38). But they were not identical. Those baptized by John needed Christian baptism as well (Acts 19:5). Christian baptism is a sign of initiation pointing to a relationship with the Christ who has come; John's baptism was a preparatory rite, signifying readiness for the coming of the Christ and for His judgment (Matt. 3:7–12; Luke 3:7–18; Acts 19:4).

Jesus insisted that John, His cousin, must baptize Him, overriding John's protests (Matt. 3:13–15). In His role as Messiah, "born under the law" (Gal. 4:4), Jesus had to submit to all God's requirements for Israel, and to identify with those whose sins He had come to bear. His baptism proclaimed that He had come to take the sinner's place under God's judgment. It is in this sense that He was baptized "to fulfill all righteousness" (Matt. 3:15; cf. Is. 53:11).

At Christ's baptism there was a manifestation of the Trinity; the Father spoke from heaven, and a dove descended, as a sign of the Spirit's anointing. The significance of the dove descending and abiding was not that Jesus was being filled with the Spirit for the first time but that He was being marked as the bearer of the Spirit who would baptize with the Spirit (John 1:32, 33), and so bring in the age of the Spirit that was to fulfill Israel's hopes (Luke 4:1, 14, 18–21). □

■ 1:9 in those days. According to John 2:20, one of Jesus' earliest acts following His baptism took place when the rebuilding of the temple was in its forty-sixth year. Since Herod began reconstruction in 19 B.C., Jesus was baptized in about A.D. 27.

baptized by John. Jesus knows this to be part of the divine plan "to fulfill all righteousness" (Matt. 3:15), by which, in His humanity, He identifies fully with the human condition, and begins the process of bearing the sins of humanity. See theological note "The Baptism of Jesus."

■ 1:10 immediately. This important word (sometimes translated "straightway") is characteristic of Mark (twelve times in the rest of the New Testament, forty-two times in Mark). It perhaps suggests not speed but rather the sureness and inevitability of God's sovereign plan, recalling the "straight" (same root as "straightway") paths divinely prepared for Jesus' coming and ministry.

Spirit descending. This descent of the Spirit is a sign of Jesus' messiahship (v. 8 note). In Jesus' baptism, as later in Christian baptism (Matt. 28:19), all three Persons of the Trinity are involved. The initiative of the Father, the vicarious work of the Son, and the glorifying, enabling power of the Spirit are all present.

■ 1:11 You are My beloved Son. The mystery of the person of Jesus finds expression in the divine declaration. He, the Second Person of the Godhead, is at the same time the representative believer and the one true and faithful "son" of Israel (Ex. 4:23), who pleases the Father, and whom the Father acknowledges as Son in both a personal and an official sense (Ps. 2:7; Is. 42:1). See note on v. 1.

1:12 the Spirit drove Him. The verb "drove" is strong, giving the idea of divine and scriptural necessity. The Spirit is driving Jesus out into the "wilderness," just as Israel, called "son" (Ex. 4:23) and "baptized into Moses . . . in the sea" (1 Cor. 10:2; cf. Ex. 14:13–31), was led by the Spirit in the pillars of cloud and fire (Ex. 14:19, 20) along the path of desert testing.

■ 1:13 forty days. Possibly a symbolic reference to the forty years of Israel's wilderness experience (Deut. 1:3; cf. v. 12 note).

wild beasts. This detail emphasizes that the wilderness is a place of curse where the devil is master (Matt. 12:43; cf. Eph. 2:2). Jesus enters this domain and binds the strong man (see note on 3:23–27). This is a kind of reenactment of the testing of Adam. Although Adam was in a garden and was not threatened by wild beasts, he fell to Satan's tempting. In the wilderness, Jesus, the second Adam, begins His defeat of the devil and His work of redemption by passing the test of filial obedience.

angels ministered. Angels accompanied Israel in the Exodus (Ex. 14:19; 23:20; 32:34; 33:2). Jesus' experience in the wilderness is a type of that of the Christian in the world, which is experienced as Satan's domain (Eph. 6:12). See note on 10:30.

Jesus Begins His Galilean Ministry

14 [q]Now after John was put in prison, Jesus came to Galilee, [r]preaching the gospel [6]of the kingdom of God, 15 and saying, [s]"The time is fulfilled, and [t]the kingdom of God [7]is at hand. Repent, and believe in the gospel."

Four Fishermen Called as Disciples

16 [u]And as He walked by the Sea of Galilee, He saw Simon and Andrew his brother casting a net into the sea; for they were fishermen. 17 Then Jesus said to them, "Follow Me, and I will make you become [v]fishers of men." 18 [w]They immediately left their nets and followed Him.

19 When He had gone a little farther from there, He saw James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother, who also were in the boat mending their nets. 20 And immediately He called them, and they left their father Zebedee in the boat with the hired servants, and went after Him.

Jesus Casts Out an Unclean Spirit

21 [x]Then they went into Capernaum, and immediately on the Sabbath He entered the [y]synagogue and taught. 22 [z]And they were astonished at His teaching, for He taught them as one having authority, and not as the scribes.

23 Now there was a man in their synagogue with an [a]unclean spirit. And he cried out, 24 saying, "Let us alone! [b]What have we to do with You, Jesus of Nazareth? Did You come to destroy us? I [c]know who You are—the [d]Holy One of God!"

25 But Jesus [e]rebuked him, saying, [8]"Be quiet, and come out of him!" 26 And when the unclean spirit [f]had convulsed him and cried out with a loud voice, he came out of him. 27 Then they were all amazed, so that they questioned among themselves, saying, [9]"What is this? What new [1]doctrine is this? For with authority He commands even the unclean spirits, and they obey Him." 28 And immediately His [g]fame spread throughout all the region around Galilee.

Peter's Mother-in-Law Healed

29 [h]Now as soon as they had come out of the synagogue, they entered the house of Simon and Andrew, with James and John. 30 But Simon's wife's mother lay sick with a fever, and they told Him about her at once. 31 So He came and took her by the hand and lifted her up, and immediately the fever left her. And she served them.

Many Healed After Sabbath Sunset

32 [i]At evening, when the sun had set, they brought to Him all who were sick and those who were demon-possessed. 33 And the whole city was gathered together at the door. 34 Then He

■ 1:14 after John . . . to Galilee. It is often claimed that the chronology of the first three (Synoptic) Gospels is irreconcilable with that of John for three main reasons: (a) the cleansing of the temple is placed in different periods of Jesus' ministry (11:15 note); (b) in the Synoptic Gospels Jesus is in Jerusalem only once, for the last week of His ministry, while in John He is there five times (c) in John Jesus has an early Judean ministry concurrent with that of John the Baptist (John 3:22–24), while in the Synoptic Gospels Jesus begins His ministry in Galilee. However, in saying that a Galilean ministry begins only after John the Baptist's arrest, Mark is not denying that there was an earlier Judean ministry; it is simply not part of his story.

■ 1:15 The time is fulfilled. The past times, especially of God's acts of salvation for His people Israel, reach their climax in this present time of salvation through Jesus.

the kingdom of God is at hand. The kingdom of God is that final state of affairs where God's supreme reign is fully realized over the transformed universe and in the hearts of all His redeemed and glorified people. This kingdom is "at hand" in the sense that the coming of Jesus sets in motion all that will bring about its actualization. God requires repentance and belief in response to this news. See note on v. 4.

■ 1:16 Sea of Galilee. An inland lake thirteen miles long and eight miles wide, otherwise known in the New Testament as the Lake of Gennesaret (Luke 5:1) or the Sea of Tiberias (John 5:1).

■ 1:17 Follow Me . . . fishers of men. Mark immediately shows Jesus calling disciples to follow Him and to call others to Him. This first appointed ministry of the emerging church has as its primary goal seeking the lost. This emphasis on evangelism was not lost on the apostle Paul, who said, "Woe to me if I do not preach the gospel" (1 Cor. 9:16).

■ 1:19 James . . . John. Note that Jesus does not recruit His apostles and "fishers of men" from the religious intelligentsia but from ordinary walks of life.

■ 1:20 hired servants. This detail suggests a small prosperous business.

■ 1:22 as one having authority. Jesus' teaching is unlike that of the scribes because it is tied to His person (2:10) and to His interpretation of Scripture (12:35–40). Its content is new, announcing the coming of the kingdom (v. 15) and the defeat of Satan (v. 27).

■ 1:24 What have we to do with You. This idiom distances the speaker from the person addressed. It occurs one other place in the New Testament (John 2:4).

Nazareth. Lit. "Nazarene." Nazareth, west of the Sea of Galilee, was Jesus' hometown.

Holy One of God. Jesus is described this way only in this incident (Luke 4:34). The demons quake in the presence of divine holiness.

■ 1:25 Be quiet. This strong term emphasizes Jesus' power to establish His kingdom in the face of evil.

■ 1:29 James and John. See v. 19.

■ 1:30 Simon's wife's mother. Peter was married (see also 1 Cor. 9:5), showing that marriage is normal for Christian leaders. At the same time celibacy remains a legitimate possibility (Matt. 19:12; 1 Cor. 7:7, 8, 32).

■ 1:32 when the sun had set. Jesus had already healed on the Sabbath day (v. 25). On this occasion the people waited till sunset, when the Sabbath ended, to carry their sick to Jesus.

healed many who were sick with various diseases, and [j]cast out many demons; and He [k]did not allow the demons to speak, because they knew Him.

Preaching in Galilee

35 Now [l]in the morning, having risen a long while before daylight, He went out and departed to a [2]solitary place; and there He [m]prayed. 36 And Simon and those who were with Him searched for Him. 37 When they found Him, they said to Him, [n]"Everyone [o]is looking for You."

38 But He said to them, [p]"Let us go into the next towns, that I may preach there also, because [q]for this purpose I have come forth."

39 [r]And He was preaching in their synagogues throughout all Galilee, and [s]casting out demons.

Jesus Cleanses a Leper

40 [t]Now a leper came to Him, imploring Him, kneeling down to Him and saying to Him, "If You are willing, You can make me clean."

41 Then Jesus, moved with [u]compassion, stretched out His hand and touched him, and said to him, "I am willing; be cleansed." 42 As soon as He had spoken, [v]immediately the leprosy left him, and he was cleansed. 43 And He strictly warned him and sent him away at once, 44 and said to him, "See that you say nothing to anyone; but go your way, show yourself to the priest, and offer for your cleansing those things [w]which Moses commanded, as a testimony to them."

45 [x]However, he went out and began to proclaim it freely, and to spread the matter, so that Jesus could no longer openly enter the city, but was outside in deserted places; [y]and they came to Him from every direction.

Jesus Forgives and Heals a Paralytic

2 And again [a]He entered Capernaum after some days, and it was heard that He was in the house. 2 [1]Immediately many gathered together, so that there was no longer room to receive them, not even near the door. And He preached the word to them. 3 Then they came to Him, bringing a [b]paralytic who was carried by four men. 4 And when they could not come near Him because of the crowd, they uncovered the roof where He was. So when they had broken through, they let down the bed on which the paralytic was lying.

5 When Jesus saw their faith, He said to the paralytic, "Son, your sins are forgiven you."

6 And some of the scribes were sitting there and reasoning in their hearts, 7 "Why does this Man speak blasphemies like this? [c]Who can forgive sins but God alone?"

8 But immediately, when Jesus perceived in His spirit that they reasoned thus within themselves, He said to them, "Why do you reason about these things in your hearts? 9 [d]Which is eas-

■ 1:34 many demons. The extent of demon possession in Galilee's Jewish population (v. 32 note) is startling, though the Gentile or pagan influence in Galilee must not be forgotten.

He did not allow the demons to speak. This is the first instance of what has been called the "messianic secret" (v. 43; 3:12; 4:10, 11; 5:19; 8:30; 9:9). The revelation of Jesus as the Messiah had to begin discreetly and proceed by stages so that the plan of God for the death of His Servant would not be jeopardized by any excesses of popular enthusiasm.

■ 1:35 solitary place. Lit. "deserted place," the place where Jesus fights His spiritual battle (v. 12; cf. v. 3), and which is also, as with ancient Israel, a type of the present Christian walk (1 Cor. 10:1–11; Heb. 13:12, 13).

■ 1:38 for this purpose I have come. Jesus states His program of evangelistic preaching with compelling clarity. He says in Luke 19:10, "For the Son of Man has come to seek and to save that which was lost." And so He is on the move, touring Galilee several times (v. 39; 6:6; Luke 8:1).

■ 1:40 a leper. Under the Mosaic law, certain skin diseases made a person ceremonially unclean, excluding him from communal life (Lev. 13:46).

■ 1:43 strictly warned. See note on v. 34. The Greek verb expresses deep emotion, as in the case of Jesus before the tomb of Lazarus (John 11:33, 38).

■ 1:44 as a testimony. Jesus respects the Mosaic law as the great high priest of another line (Heb. 7:11—8:13), but He is not bound or limited by it. Although touching the leper was a violation of the laws of ritual purity (Lev. 5:3), Jesus did so as He healed him.

■ 1:45 proclaim it freely. This was not the time for unbridled proclamation (v. 34 note), though there would come a time in the history of redemption (after the Resurrection) when open preaching would be proper (Matt. 10:27; Luke 12:2, 3).

■ 2:1 house. Jesus was from Nazareth, about twenty miles away, and Simon Peter's house (1:29) may have served as His home in Capernaum, a village more centrally located and with direct access to the Sea of Galilee.

■ 2:4 uncovered the roof. Houses had flat roofs made of branches and dried clay supported by wooden beams.

2:5 your sins are forgiven. Jesus' response is extraordinary for two reasons. First, the man had come for physical healing, but Jesus speaks about the more profound illness of sin, of which physical illness generally is a consequence; and about the radical healing of forgiveness, of which this particular physical healing was a sign. Second, Jesus claims for Himself the power to forgive sins, which in all the Bible can be attributed only to God (Ex. 34:7; Is. 1:18). The teachers of the law immediately accuse Jesus of "blasphemies" (v. 7; 3:29 note), a proper conclusion if He were a mere man.

■ 2:9 Which is easier. Jesus asks the scribes to reconsider their judgment in the light of His power to heal (cf. John 5:36; 10:25, 38), which is ultimately a divine power (Ps. 41:1; Jer. 3:22; Hos. 14:4).

ier, to say to the paralytic, 'Your sins are forgiven you,' or to say, 'Arise, take up your bed and walk'? 10 But that you may know that the Son of Man has [2]power on earth to forgive sins"—He said to the paralytic, 11 "I say to you, arise, take up your bed, and go to your house." 12 Immediately he arose, took up the bed, and went out in the presence of them all, so that all were amazed and [e]glorified God, saying, "We never saw anything like this!"

Matthew the Tax Collector

13 [f]Then He went out again by the sea; and all the multitude came to Him, and He taught them. 14 [g]As He passed by, He saw Levi the son of Alphaeus sitting at the tax office. And He said to him, [h]"Follow Me." So he arose and [i]followed Him.

15 [j]Now it happened, as He was dining in Levi's house, that many tax collectors and sinners also sat together with Jesus and His disciples; for there were many, and they followed Him. 16 And when the scribes [3]and Pharisees saw Him eating with the tax collectors and sinners, they said to His disciples, "How is it that He eats and drinks with tax collectors and sinners?"

17 When Jesus heard it, He said to them, [k]"Those who are well have no need of a physician, but those who are sick. I did not come to call the righteous, but sinners, [4]to repentance."

Jesus Is Questioned About Fasting

18 [l]The disciples of John and of the Pharisees were fasting. Then they came and said to Him, "Why do the disciples of John and of the Pharisees fast, but Your disciples do not fast?"

19 And Jesus said to them, "Can the [5]friends of the bridegroom fast while the bridegroom is with them? As long as they have the bridegroom with them they cannot fast. 20 But the days will come when the bridegroom will be [m]taken away from them, and then they will fast in those days. 21 No one sews a piece of unshrunk cloth on an old garment; or else the new piece pulls away from the old, and the tear is made worse. 22 And no one puts new wine into old wineskins; or else the new wine bursts the wineskins, the wine is spilled, and the wineskins are ruined. But new wine must be put into new wineskins."

Jesus Is Lord of the Sabbath

23 [n]Now it happened that He went through the grainfields on the Sabbath; and as they went His disciples began [o]to pluck the heads of grain. 24 And the Pharisees said to Him, "Look, why do they do what is [p]not lawful on the Sabbath?"

■ 2:10 Son of Man. Jesus used this phrase regularly to designate Himself, associating Himself in His ministry with the heavenly "Son of Man" of Dan. 7:13, 14 (v. 28; 8:31; 9:31; 10:33, 45; 13:26). See note on Matt. 8:20.

■ 2:14 Levi the son of Alphaeus. In the parallel account in Matt. 9:9–13 this person is named "Matthew." Since Matthew appears in Mark's list of apostles (3:18) and there is no mention of Levi, it appears that Levi was surnamed "Matthew," and it was by that name that he was best known in the early church.

tax office. Tax booths were set up on highways, bridges, and canals for tolls, and at the lakeside to tax fishing. See note on Luke 3:12.

he arose. The radical demand of Jesus' call and the unconditional obedience of the one who hears are thrown into sharp relief for the reader.

■ 2:15 sinners. A term of disdain used by the Pharisees for all Jews who did not follow their traditions of legal purity.

sat together with. Contact with sinners would make Jesus a sinner, since rabbinic regulations specifically prohibited such table fellowship. On the other hand, the "sinners" would see in this a gesture of friendship and acceptance (14:20 note).

■ 2:16 Pharisees. Theological descendants of the Hasidim, a second-century B.C. movement of piety, learning, and faithfulness to the Mosaic law against Greek pagan influence. At the time of Jesus, strict observance of the law, and especially ritual purity, was regulated by a body of ethical teachings known as "the tradition of the elders" (7:3), developed by the rabbis as an application of the law to specific situations. The difficulty of knowing this tradition and all its many subtle interpretations created a social and religious gap between a sanctimonious elite, "the righteous," and the general population, "the sinners."

■ 2:17 He said . . . I did not come. Note the clear declaration of the priority of His mission (cf. 1:38). There is both truth and biting irony in Jesus' words. Tax collectors, prostitutes, and the like are indeed spiritually "sick," but Jesus does not really intend the Pharisees to think of themselves as "healthy" (cf. Luke 18:9–14). Jesus is breaking down the artificial categories of all legalistic, works-righteousness religion. Like the Old Testament (Ps. 14:1–3), Jesus teaches that all are sinners (7:1–8), and that righteousness is first and foremost a gift of God to repentant sinners (Ps. 51:1–18; Luke 19:9; Rom. 3:22).

■ 2:18 fasting. The Mosaic law required only one fast annually, on the Day of Atonement (Lev. 16:29–31; cf. Acts 27:9, which calls this day "the Fast"). Nevertheless, as a sign of contrition and penitence associated with prayer, fasting was a part of Old Testament piety from the time of the judges (Judg. 20:26; 1 Kin. 21:27), sometimes becoming an empty ritual (Is. 58:3). The Pharisees and their adherents apparently fasted twice a week (Luke 18:12). Since the message of John the Baptist centered on repentance (Matt. 3:11), fasting was appropriate for his disciples. Jesus, whose own message included repentance, did not insist upon fasting.

■ 2:19 Jesus said to them. The reason Jesus gives sets Him off from all that was before, for the "bridegroom" has now come, the "new" (vv. 21, 22) is present. By comparing Himself to the bridegroom, Jesus affirms the presence of the kingdom as a time for celebration, like a wedding. Jesus eats and drinks with publicans and sinners, bringing joy and salvation to them (Luke 19:6, 9).

■ 2:20 will fast. The present celebration (v. 19) is provisional, for Jesus has yet to suffer and die, and "the bridegroom will be taken from them." See Acts 13:2; 14:23.

■ 2:21, 22 The images of new cloth and new wineskins again emphasize the new situation brought about by the coming of the kingdom and of its King, and seek to show through the symbols of unwise action the inappropriateness of fasting in this new situation.

■ 2:23 on the Sabbath. The problem with the legalistic reasoning by

25 But He said to them, "Have you never read [q]what David did when he was in need and hungry, he and those with him: 26 how he went into the house of God in the days of Abiathar the high priest, and ate the showbread, [r]which is not lawful to eat except for the priests, and also gave some to those who were with him?"

27 And He said to them, "The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the [s]Sabbath. 28 Therefore [t]the Son of Man is also Lord of the Sabbath."

Healing on the Sabbath

3 And [a]He entered the synagogue again, and a man was there who had a withered hand. 2 So they [b]watched Him closely, whether He would [c]heal him on the Sabbath, so that they might [1]accuse Him. 3 And He said to the man who had the withered hand, [2]"Step forward." 4 Then He said to them, "Is it lawful on the Sabbath to do good or to do evil, to save life or to kill?" But they kept silent. 5 And when He had looked around at them with anger, being grieved by the [d]hardness of their hearts, He said to the man, "Stretch out your hand." And he stretched it out, and his hand was restored [3]as whole as the other. 6 [e]Then the Pharisees went out and immediately plotted with [f]the Herodians against Him, how they might destroy Him.

A Great Multitude Follows Jesus

7 But Jesus withdrew with His disciples to the sea. And a great multitude from Galilee followed Him, [g]and from Judea 8 and Jerusalem and Idumea and beyond the Jordan; and those from Tyre and Sidon, a great multitude, when they heard how [h]many things He was doing, came to Him. 9 So He told His disciples that a small boat should be kept ready for Him because of the multitude, lest they should crush Him. 10 For He healed [i]many, so that as many as had afflictions pressed about Him to [j]touch Him. 11 [k]And the unclean spirits, whenever they saw Him, fell down before Him and cried out, saying, [l]"You are the Son of God." 12 But [m]He sternly warned them that they should not make Him known.

certain Pharisees is illustrated in this incident. In reality the disciples were not stealing or doing farm work (Deut. 23:25). Their accusers counted even "plucking the heads of grain" as reaping, which was prohibited on the Sabbath (Ex. 34:21).

■ 2:25 He said to them, "Have you never read?" Jesus' question suggests an ironic criticism of their knowledge of Scripture (John 3:10; 5:39, 47). Jesus does not justify Himself by laying Scripture aside. He rather shows His understanding of its depth and its proper application to human need.

David. Executing a divine mission (1 Sam. 21:5) as the Lord's anointed, David ate the consecrated bread normally reserved for the priests. Christ, as the Son of David allows His disciples to fulfill their physical needs so they might continue their mission of redemption, a work that is always lawful to be done.

■ 2:26 Abiathar. According to 1 Sam. 21:1–6, it was Abiathar's father, Ahimelech, who gave David the consecrated bread. However, Abiathar was certainly alive, and perhaps even present, when the incident referred to occurred. So the phrase "in the days of Abiathar" is strictly correct. Probably Jesus referred to Abiathar because he was so well known as one of David's chief supporters.

■ 2:28 Lord of the Sabbath. Again (cf. v. 10) Jesus declares His authority as the Son of Man who brings blessings, this time as the Mediator of the Old Testament Law concerning the Sabbath. This claim is made against traditions that had turned the life-promoting fourth commandment (Ex. 20:8–11) into a burden. Since the Sabbath was instituted at creation and not only under Moses, the Lord of the Sabbath is also Lord of creation.

■ 3:1 withered hand. This was not a life and death illness, whose healing on the Sabbath would be permitted by the rules of the Pharisees (v. 4 note). Jesus' action would appear to be a deliberate provocation as well as an act of mercy.

■ 3:2 they watched Him closely. The Pharisees (v. 6) make Jesus' action a test case, as Jesus evidently wanted them to do.

■ 3:4 Is it lawful. Jesus anticipates their criticism by reiterating the Sabbath teaching He began in 2:25–28. The Pharisees held that only essential aid to the sick was lawful on the Sabbath. Jesus shows that their interpretation was against the spirit of the commandment, which existed for the promotion of "good" (2:27). The good that Jesus does in bringing redemption is required, not forbidden, by the divine law.

3:6 Herodians. A non-religious, political group supporting the dynasty of the Herods. They supported and depended upon the alliance with Rome. In collaborating with the Herodians, the Pharisees had moved far from the Old Testament ideal for the people of God (cf. Deut. 17:15). For more on this conspiracy, see 8:15; 12:13.

■ 3:8 great multitude. The phrase is repeated twice (vv. 8, 9). Jesus' public ministry, in spite of the opposition of the ruling elite (v. 6), is becoming a mass movement. Jesus is so crowded that He must take refuge in a small boat (v. 9). People are coming to Galilee from everywhere to hear Him.

■ 3:11 whenever they saw Him. Although the crowds are Jewish (cf. 7:26–29), Jesus is constantly meeting people possessed with evil spirits. In the presence of Jesus the true nature of the combat (Eph. 6:12) becomes evident. The demons are exposed, and they expose the true identity of Jesus, the Son of God (1:1; 15:39 and notes).

■ 3:12 sternly warned. See 1:34, 43.

■ 3:13 those He Himself wanted. Mark emphasizes that the choice of the apostles has its origin in Jesus' determined purpose.

■ 3:14 He appointed twelve. In such a context, the significance of the number "twelve" could hardly be missed. Jesus was setting up the constitution of the renewed Israel (Matt. 19:28). See "The Apostles" at Acts 1:26.

that they might be with Him. A signal point of the uniqueness of the Twelve is the time they spend with the earthly Jesus, a time of preparation.

preach. Again (1:14, 17) the priority is a preaching mission coupled with exorcism. The time of preparation has a markedly practical emphasis.

send them out to preach, 15 and to have [5]power [6]to heal sicknesses and to cast out demons: 16 [7]Simon, [o]to whom He gave the name Peter; 17 James the son of Zebedee and John the brother of James, to whom He gave the name Boanerges, that is, "Sons of Thunder"; 18 Andrew, Philip, Bartholomew, Matthew, Thomas, James the son of Alphaeus, Thaddaeus, Simon the Cananite; 19 and Judas Iscariot, who also betrayed Him. And they went into a house.

A House Divided Cannot Stand

20 Then the multitude came together again, [p]so that they could not so much as eat bread. 21 But when His [q]own people heard about this, they went out to lay hold of Him, [r]for they said, "He is out of His mind."

22 And the scribes who came down from Jerusalem said, [s]"He has Beelzebub," and, "By the [t]ruler of the demons He casts out demons."

23 [u]So He called them to Himself and said to them in parables: "How can Satan cast out Satan? 24 If a kingdom is divided against itself, that kingdom cannot stand. 25 And if a house is divided against itself, that house cannot stand. 26 And if Satan has risen up against himself, and is divided, he cannot stand, but has an end. 27 [v]No one can enter a strong man's house and plunder his goods, unless he first binds the strong man. And then he will plunder his house.

The Unpardonable Sin

28 [w]"Assuredly, I say to you, all sins will be forgiven the sons of men, and whatever blasphemies they may utter; 29 but he who blasphemes against the Holy Spirit never has forgiveness, but is subject to eternal condemnation"— 30 because they [x]said, "He has an unclean spirit."

Jesus' Mother and Brothers Send for Him

31 [y]Then His brothers and His mother came, and standing outside they sent to Him, calling Him. 32 And a multitude was sitting around Him; and they said to Him, "Look, Your mother and Your brothers [8]are outside seeking You."

33 But He answered them, saying, "Who is My mother, or My brothers?" 34 And He looked around in a circle at those who sat about Him, and said, "Here are My mother and My brothers! 35 For whoever does the [z]will of God is My brother and My sister and mother."

The Parable of the Sower

4 And [a]again He began to teach by the sea. And a great multitude was gathered to Him, so that He got into a boat and sat in it on the sea; and the whole multitude was on the land facing the sea. 2 Then He taught them many things by parables, [b]and said to them in His teaching:

3 "Listen! Behold, a sower went out to sow. 4 And it happened, as he sowed, that some seed fell by the wayside; and the birds [1]of the air came and devoured it. 5 Some fell on stony ground,

■ 3:18 Thaddaeus. Mark and Matt. 10:2–4 list identical names for the Twelve. The parallel list in Luke 6:12–16 (cf. Acts 1:13) had "Judas" instead of "Thaddaeus." A possible explanation of this difference is that Thaddaeus had a second name, Judas.

Cananite. See note on Matt. 10:4.

■ 3:19 Iscariot. Some believe that Judas was a political revolutionary because "Iscariot" may have been derived from the Latin sicarius, "assassin." More likely the word has a semitic origin—ish meaning "man (of)," and Kerioth, a town in Israel close to Hebron (Josh. 15:25).

■ 3:21 His own people. Some interpreters identify these as Jesus' family, others propose associates, or friends. However, the group is possibly identified in v. 31 as "His brothers and His mother."

out of His mind. The phrase expresses an attitude of unbelief toward Jesus by those who humanly were closest to Him.

■ 3:22 Beelzebub. Greek beelzeboul, the god of Ekron (2 Kin. 1:2; Matt. 10:25 note). The Pharisees use it as a name for Satan and accuse Jesus of casting out demons by the power of Satan.

■ 3:23–27 parables. See note on 4:2. This parable illustrates Jesus' claim that the kingdom of God has come (Matt. 12:28), for one stronger than the "strong man" is here, able to bind Satan and to free people from his kingdom.

■ 3:29 blasphemes against the Holy Spirit. For various forms of blasphemy, see 2:7; Ex. 22:28; Lev. 24:10–16; Ezek. 35:12, 13; John 10:33–36; Acts 6:11. The unforgivable blasphemy specified here is the act of deliberately associating the power and the work of Jesus, who is full of the Holy Spirit, with the work of Satan. This is to equate supreme spiritual good with supreme spiritual evil, hardening one's heart in a way that makes repentance, and therefore forgiveness, impossible. See theological note "The Unpardonable Sin."

■ 3:31 brothers . . . mother. See v. 21 and note. Roman Catholic commentators, for whom the eternal virginity of Mary is a dogma, stress that "brother" can refer to wider family relations, pointing to Gen. 13:8; 14:16; Lev. 10:4; 1 Chr. 23:22. However, in Mark the term always seems to mean siblings from the same parents. Matt. 1:25 indicates that Mary and Joseph began normal marital relations after the birth of Jesus, giving added meaning to Luke's designation of Jesus as Mary's "firstborn" (Luke 2:7).

■ 3:35 whoever does the will of God. The arrival of the kingdom of God changes human relationships. Those who oppose its progress, whether mothers or brothers, must be left; those in the kingdom become a person's closest associates, nearer and dearer than any others.

■ 4:2 parables. See Matt. 13:3 note.

■ 4:3–8 a sower . . . to sow. In first-century Palestine, sowing preceded plowing. Paths made by villagers and thorny areas had the seed plowed into them. Rocky places, covered by a thin layer of soil, only became visible after plowing.

6 But when the sun was up it was scorched, and because it had no root it withered away. 7 And some seed fell among thorns; and the thorns grew up and choked it, and it yielded no [2]crop.
8 But other seed fell on good ground and yielded a crop that sprang up, increased and produced: some thirtyfold, some sixty, and some a hundred."

The Purpose of Parables

10 [c]But when He was alone, those around Him with the twelve asked Him about the parable.
11 And He said to them, "To you it has been given to [d]know the [4]mystery of the kingdom of God; but to [e]those who are outside, all things come in parables, 12 so that

The Unpardonable Sin

Jesus' solemn warning about a kind of sin that will not be forgiven, either in this world or the next, is found in three Gospels: Matt. 12:31, 32; Mark 3:28–30; Luke 12:10. It is specifically "blasphemy against the Spirit." This blasphemy is an act performed by speaking, understood as an expression of the thoughts of the heart (Matt. 12:33–37; cf. Rom. 10:9, 10). In the particular context the opponents of Jesus were saying that the Power doing good works among them was not God but the devil. Jesus distinguishes between this blasphemy and other sins, both other sins of speech and other sins in general. As the Bible teaches, God forgave sins of incest, murder, lying, and even Paul's persecution of the church, which Paul did while "breathing threats and murder" against God's people (Acts 9:1).

What makes the unpardonable sin different from others is its relation to the Holy Spirit. It is the Holy Spirit's work to enlighten the mind of sinners (Eph. 1:17, 18); to reveal and teach the gospel (John 14:26), persuading souls to repent and believe the truth (cf. Acts 7:51). The Spirit not only explains the Word of God, but He opens the mind so that it is perceived (2 Cor. 3:16, 17). When His influence is deliberately and knowingly refused, in opposition to the light, then the irreversible sin can be committed as a voluntary, informed act of malice. In response there is a hardening of the heart from God that rules out repentance and faith (Heb. 3:12, 13). God permits the decision of the human will to be permanent in this case. God does not do this lightly or without cause, but in response to an offense against His love.

A person who wants to repent, that is, to reverse the sins they may be guilty of, has not suffered this hardening and has not committed the profound act of hatred that God has determined He will not forgive. Anyone who has been born again will not commit this sin, because the Spirit lives in that person, and God is not divided against Himself (1 John 3:9).

The other verses dealing with the unpardonable sin are Heb. 6:4–6; 10:26–29; and 1 John 5:16, 17. These show that the possibility of this sin depends on there being particular enlightenment and understanding from God and that it is not a common, everyday matter. Jesus said "all sins" and "whatever blasphemies" will be forgiven, excepting only this one sin. □

■ 4:9 He who has ears. See also v. 23; Matt. 11:15; 13:9, 43; Luke 8:8; 14:35; Rev. 2:7; cf. Ps. 115:6. This phrase is a call for close attention.

■ 4:10 when He was alone. Jesus was alone with His disciples, in particular with the Twelve (3:14 note) giving them special instruction. This aspect of Jesus' earthly ministry is in all the Gospels.

■ 4:11 mystery . . . parables. See text note. The "mystery" refers to special divine revelation (Rom. 16:25; Eph. 1:9; 3:3, 9) the Old Testament notion of the prophet who by the Spirit is present in God's deliberative council. What he hears becomes his authoritative, divinely inspired message for the people (Ex. 24:15–18; Deut. 33:2; 1 Kin. 22:19; Is. 6:1–13; Jer. 23:18; Amos 3:7). Such revelation reaches its fulfillment in the gospel, which Paul will later call "the mystery of Christ" (Eph. 3:4; Col. 4:3) or "the mystery of the gospel" (Eph. 6:19). Here, the mystery of the kingdom is that the kingdom comes with Jesus, because He is the King. This "mystery," revealed to the disciples, is contrasted with "parables" told to "those who are outside." To those "outside," the parable is a riddle (contrast John 16:29), veiling their understanding as the Scripture had prophesied (v. 12, citing Is. 6:9, 10). To them Jesus remains a provocative enigma, as He will throughout His ministry.

The Parable of the Sower Explained

13 And He said to them, "Do you not understand this parable? How then will you understand all the parables? 14 [g]The sower sows the word. 15 And these are the ones by the wayside where the word is sown. When they hear, Satan comes immediately and takes away the word that was sown in their hearts. 16 These likewise are the ones sown on stony ground who, when they hear the word, immediately receive it with gladness; 17 and they have no root in themselves, and so endure only for a time. Afterward, when tribulation or persecution arises for the word's sake, immediately they stumble. 18 Now these are the ones sown among thorns; they are the ones who hear the word, 19 and the [h]cares of this world, [i]the deceitfulness of riches, and the desires for other things entering in choke the word, and it becomes unfruitful. 20 But these are the ones sown on good ground, those who hear the word, [5]accept it, and bear [j]fruit: some thirtyfold, some sixty, and some a hundred."

Light Under a Basket

21 [k]Also He said to them, "Is a lamp brought to be put under a basket or under a bed? Is it not to be set on a lampstand? 22 [l]For there is nothing hidden which will not be revealed, nor has anything been kept secret but that it should come to light. 23 [m]If anyone has ears to hear, let him hear."

24 Then He said to them, "Take heed what you hear. [n]With the same measure you use, it will be measured to you; and to you who hear, more will be given. 25 [o]For whoever has, to him more will be given; but whoever does not have, even what he has will be taken away from him."

The Parable of the Growing Seed

26 And He said, [p]"The kingdom of God is as if a man should [6]scatter seed on the ground, 27 and should sleep by night and rise by day, and the seed should sprout and [q]grow, he himself does not know how. 28 For the earth [r]yields crops by itself: first the blade, then the head, after that the full grain in the head. 29 But when the grain ripens, immediately [s]he puts in the sickle, because the harvest has come."

The Parable of the Mustard Seed

30 Then He said, [t]"To what shall we liken the kingdom of God? Or with what parable shall we picture it? 31 It is like a mustard seed which, when it is sown on the ground, is smaller than all the seeds on earth; 32 but when it is sown, it grows up and becomes greater than all herbs, and shoots out large branches, so that the birds of the air may nest under its shade."

Jesus' Use of Parables

33 [u]And with many such parables He spoke the word to them as they were able to hear it. 34 But without a parable He did not speak to them. And when they were alone, [v]He explained all things to His disciples.

Wind and Wave Obey Jesus

35 [w]On the same day, when evening had come, He said to them, "Let us cross over to the other side." 36 Now when they had left the multitude, they took Him along in the boat as He was. And

■ 4:13 all the parables. This explanation of the function of parables applies to all parables. See note on Matt. 13:13.

■ 4:14–20 The "mystery" of the parable is not its moral teaching about the hardness of human hearts. The "mystery" is to be found in the paradox that the coming of God's reign is to be identified with a fragile seed. The Son of Man who exercises all authority on earth (2:11, 27) appears as Jesus of Nazareth. The coming of the kingdom is not equally visible to everyone, although it is a kingdom of power. Those on the outside have unreceptive hearts. For those with ears to hear, the parable unveils the "mystery" of redemption, hidden in the person and work of Christ Himself (1:34 note).

■ 4:19 deceitfulness of riches. Cf. Eph. 4:22.

■ 4:22 there is nothing hidden . . . revealed. During Christ's earthly ministry things are hidden, but the day will come, from the Resurrection on, when all will begin to be revealed (Matt. 10:26, 27; Luke 12:2, 3).

■ 4:24 With the same measure. The future spread of the mystery of the kingdom will be rewarded in direct measure to one's faithfulness to that task.

■ 4:25 more will be given. This principle is illustrated in the parables of the talents (Matt. 25:14–30) and of the minas (Luke 19:11–27).

■ 4:30–32 The parable of the mustard seed is again concerned with the kingdom's present manifestation in the person of Jesus.

■ 4:32 birds of the air. In Dan. 4:21 the same metaphor refers to the world-wide dominion of Nebuchadnezzar.

■ 4:33, 34 See vv. 10–12.

■ 4:35 the other side. According to 3:7, Jesus is in Galilee. The "other side" of the lake is the region of the Gadarenes in the Decapolis (5:1 note).

other little boats were also with Him. 37 And a great windstorm arose, and the waves beat into the boat, so that it was already filling. 38 But He was in the stern, asleep on a pillow. And they awoke Him and said to Him, [x]"Teacher, [y]do You not care that we are perishing?"

39 Then He arose and [z]rebuked the wind, and said to the sea, [a]"Peace,[7] be still!" And the wind ceased and there was a great calm. 40 But He said to them, "Why are you so fearful? [b]How[8] is it that you have no faith?" 41 And they feared exceedingly, and said to one another, "Who can this be, that even the wind and the sea obey Him!"

A Demon-Possessed Man Healed

5 Then [a]they came to the other side of the sea, to the country of the [1]Gadarenes. 2 And when He had come out of the boat, immediately there met Him out of the tombs a man with an [b]unclean spirit, 3 who had his dwelling among the tombs; and no one could bind [2]him, not even with chains, 4 because he had often been bound with shackles and chains. And the chains had been pulled apart by him, and the shackles broken in pieces; neither could anyone tame him. 5 And always, night and day, he was in the mountains and in the tombs, crying out and cutting himself with stones.

6 When he saw Jesus from afar, he ran and worshiped Him. 7 And he cried out with a loud voice and said, "What have I to do with You, Jesus, Son of the Most High God? I [c]implore[3] You by God that You do not torment me."

8 For He said to him, [d]"Come out of the man, unclean spirit!" 9 Then He asked him, "What is your name?"

And he answered, saying, "My name is Legion; for we are many." 10 Also he begged Him earnestly that He would not send them out of the country.

11 Now a large herd of [e]swine was feeding there near the mountains. 12 So all the demons begged Him, saying, "Send us to the swine, that we may enter them." 13 And [4]at once Jesus gave them permission. Then the unclean spirits went out and entered the swine (there were about two thousand); and the herd ran violently down the steep place into the sea, and drowned in the sea.

14 So those who fed the swine fled, and they told it in the city and in the country. And they went out to see what it was that had happened. 15 Then they came to Jesus, and saw the one who had been [f]demon-possessed and had the legion, [g]sitting and [h]clothed and in his right mind. And they were afraid. 16 And those who saw it told them how it happened to him who had been demon-possessed, and about the swine. 17 Then [i]they began to plead with Him to depart from their region.

18 And when He got into the boat, [j]he who had been demon-possessed begged Him that he might be with Him. 19 However, Jesus did not permit him, but said to him, "Go home to your

■ 4:37 great windstorm. The Sea of Galilee is about 700 feet below sea level, thirteen miles long and eight miles wide. At its southern end is a deep, cliff-lined valley. The wind funnelling through the surrounding hills and through this valley can whip the lake into sudden violent storms.

■ 4:38 He was . . . asleep. Jesus had been teaching all day, and was no doubt exhausted. Mark, like John (John 4:6; 11:35, 38), emphasizes the full humanity of Jesus.

■ 4:39 Peace, be still. Lit. "be muzzled." Jesus has authority on earth to forgive sins (2:10), He is Lord of the Sabbath (2:28), He has authority in His teaching (1:22) and over the demons (1:27), and now He demonstrates His authority over nature. This calming of the storm resembles His exorcisms; there is the demonic expression of violence (1:26; 5:4, 13), the command to be "quiet" (1:25 note), and the resultant calm (5:15). Jesus binds "the strong man" (3:23–27) and reclaims from his power the physical creation.

■ 5:1 the country of the Gadarenes. Gadara was six miles south of the lake (Matt. 8:28 note), Gerasa, some thirty miles southeast of the lake, occurs in other Greek manuscripts (see text note). There is also a village named Khersa on the eastern shore with the kind of cliffs and tombs described in the story. Jesus enters the Decapolis, a political association of ten independent Greek city-states, anticipating the future Gentile mission of the church. The Gentile character of the population is apparent since the Jews did not raise pigs, which were unclean under Mosaic law.

■ 5:2 out of the tombs. This demon-possessed man was exiled from normal human contacts, separated from his village and family (v. 19).

■ 5:3 no one could bind him. Violence and unusual physical strength leading to slow self-destruction (v. 5; 9:22) often seem to characterize the demon-possessed (v. 13; 1:26; 9:18, 20, 22, 26), but before the spiritual strength of Jesus the demons cower and flee.

■ 5:7 What have I to do with You. See 1:24.

■ 5:9 What is your name. Naming someone was believed to be a way of gaining power over them. The demons had already identified Jesus (v. 7; cf. 1:24, 34), but by this question Jesus reveals His superior power.

Legion. Jesus forces the demon to unmask himself. He is not one but many. A Roman legion was six thousand men.

■ 5:10 he begged. The demon cowers before Jesus, even invoking God's name as a form of protection (v. 7), recognizing that Jesus has absolute power over him.

■ 5:13 Jesus gave them permission. Jesus permits the demons to enter the pigs, who then hurl themselves over the cliff. This exorcism is a dramatic demonstration of Jesus' power over evil (vv. 14, 16) and of the presence of the kingdom in His ministry (Luke 11:20). See "Demons" at Deut. 32:17.

■ 5:15 sitting. In comparison with his previous violent behavior and the recent destruction of the pigs, the man "sitting and clothed and in his right mind" gives eloquent expression to the peace and life-giving restoration that comes from Jesus' power (4:39; 9:26, 27).

■ 5:19 Go home. This man becomes the first Gentile missionary. Jesus usually demands silence (1:34 note), but in this instance He allows the preparation for the future mission of the church to begin. Jesus will later

A Girl Restored to Life and a Woman Healed

21 [m]Now when Jesus had crossed over again by boat to the other side, a great multitude gathered to Him; and He was by the sea. 22 [n]And behold, one of the rulers of the synagogue came, Jairus by name. And when he saw Him, he fell at His feet 23 and begged Him earnestly, saying, "My little daughter lies at the point of death. Come and [o]lay Your hands on her, that she may be healed, and she will live." 24 So Jesus went with him, and a great multitude followed Him and thronged Him.

25 Now a certain woman [p]had a flow of blood for twelve years, 26 and had suffered many things from many physicians. She had spent all that she had and was no better, but rather grew worse. 27 When she heard about Jesus, she came behind Him in the crowd and [q]touched His garment. 28 For she said, "If only I may touch His clothes, I shall be made well."

29 Immediately the fountain of her blood was dried up, and she felt in her body that she was healed of the [6]affliction. 30 And Jesus, immediately knowing in Himself that [r]power had gone out of Him, turned around in the crowd and said, "Who touched My clothes?"

31 But His disciples said to Him, "You see the multitude thronging You, and You say, 'Who touched Me?' "

32 And He looked around to see her who had done this thing. 33 But the woman, [s]fearing and trembling, knowing what had happened to her, came and fell down before Him and told Him the whole truth. 34 And He said to her, "Daughter, [t]your faith has made you well. [u]Go in peace, and be healed of your affliction."

35 [v]While He was still speaking, some came from the ruler of the synagogue's house who said, "Your daughter is dead. Why trouble the Teacher any further?"

36 As soon as Jesus heard the word that was spoken, He said to the ruler of the synagogue, "Do not be afraid; only [w]believe." 37 And He permitted no one to follow Him except Peter, James, and John the brother of James. 38 Then He came to the house of the ruler of the synagogue, and saw [7]a tumult and those who [x]wept and wailed loudly. 39 When He came in, He said to them, "Why make this commotion and weep? The child is not dead, but [y]sleeping."

40 And they ridiculed Him. [z]But when He had put them all outside, He took the father and the mother of the child, and those who were with Him, and entered where the child was lying. 41 Then He took the child by the hand, and said to her, "Talitha, cumi," which is translated, "Little girl, I say to you, arise." 42 Immediately the girl arose and walked, for she was twelve years of age. And they were [a]overcome with great amazement. 43 But [b]He commanded them strictly that no one should know it, and said that something should be given her to eat.

command silence regarding a healing performed in the Decapolis, but to no avail (7:31–37).

■ 5:22 rulers of the synagogue. Though he was a layman, a ruler's responsibilities were socially and religiously important, including not only the upkeep of the building but also the proper conduct of the service and the choice of Torah readings.

■ 5:25 flow of blood. The woman's condition was not only physically debilitating but disqualified her not only from marriage (Lev. 20:18) but from religious life in general (Lev. 15:25–33).

■ 5:29 Immediately. See 1:10 note.

■ 5:30 Who touched My clothes. The touch of faith is felt by Jesus, even though in such a dense crowd many people were touching Him. The phrase "power had gone out of Him" occurs only here.

■ 5:32 He looked around. For a woman who has been a social outcast for many years, the healing is only complete when Jesus has publicly identified her, commends her faith, and declares to all that she is healed (v. 34) and cleansed.

■ 5:37 Peter, James, and John. Jesus built around Himself a hierarchy of closeness. There are numerous disciples (4:10) from whom twelve are appointed apostles (3:13–19), and within the Twelve some (Peter, James, John, and sometimes Andrew) enjoy Jesus' fullest intimacy, most notably at the Transfiguration (9:2–13) and in Gethsemane (14:32, 33).

■ 5:38 wailed. In the Middle Eastern cultures, wailing is a customary expression of grief, sometimes calling for professional mourners.

■ 5:40 put them all outside. Jesus is not interested in a grand spectacle of healing. Rather, He is concerned for the suffering of the girl, the faith of her parents, and the ultimate goal of His mission (v. 43).

■ 5:41 Talitha, cumi. Aramaic was the popular language spoken in Palestine. Mark gives the translation for other Aramaic terms (3:17; 7:11, 34; 10:46; 14:36) in order to clarify his narrative for those unfamiliar with that language.

■ 5:43 commanded them strictly. See notes on v. 19 and 1:34.

■ 6:1 His own country. Nazareth, some twenty miles southwest from Capernaum and the Sea of Galilee.

His disciples. The Twelve (v. 7).

■ 6:2 Sabbath. Although He is Lord of the Sabbath (2:28), Jesus observes weekly Sabbath worship (1:21; 3:1; Luke 4:16–30).

hearing Him were [b]astonished, saying, [c]"Where did this Man get these things? And what wisdom is this which is given to Him, that such mighty works are performed by His hands! [3] Is this not the carpenter, the Son of Mary, and [d]brother of James, Joses, Judas, and Simon? And are not His sisters here with us?" So they [e]were offended at Him.

[4] But Jesus said to them, [f]"A prophet is not without honor except in his own country, among his own relatives, and in his own house." [5] [g]Now He could do no mighty work there, except that He laid His hands on a few sick people and healed them. [6] And [h]He marveled because of their unbelief. [i]Then He went about the villages in a circuit, teaching.

Sending Out the Twelve

[7] [j]And He called the twelve to Himself, and began to send them out [k]two by two, and gave them power over unclean spirits. [8] He commanded them to take nothing for the journey except a staff—no bag, no bread, no copper in their money belts— [9] but [l]to wear sandals, and not to put on two tunics.

[10] [m]Also He said to them, "In whatever place you enter a house, stay there till you depart from that place. [11] [n]And [l]whoever will not receive you nor hear you, when you depart from there, [o]shake off the dust under your feet as a testimony against them. [2]Assuredly, I say to you, it will be more tolerable for Sodom and Gomorrah in the day of judgment than for that city!"

[12] So they went out and preached that people should repent. [13] And they cast out many demons, [p]and anointed with oil many who were sick, and healed them.

John the Baptist Beheaded

[14] [q]Now King Herod heard of Him, for His name had become well known. And he said, "John the Baptist is risen from the dead, and therefore [r]these powers are at work in him."

[15] [s]Others said, "It is Elijah."

And others said, "It is [3]the Prophet, [t]or like one of the prophets."

[16] [u]But when Herod heard, he said, "This is John, whom I beheaded; he has been raised from the dead!" [17] For Herod himself had sent and laid hold of John, and bound him in prison for the sake of Herodias, his brother Philip's wife; for he had married her. [18] Because John had said to Herod, [v]"It is not lawful for you to have your brother's wife."

[19] Therefore Herodias [4]held it against him and wanted to kill him, but she could not; [20] for Herod [w]feared John, knowing that he was a just and holy man, and he protected him. And when he heard him, he [5]did many things, and heard him gladly.

[21] [x]Then an opportune day came when Herod [y]on his birthday gave a feast for his nobles, the high officers, and the chief men of Galilee. [22] And when Herodias' daughter herself came in and danced, and pleased Herod and those who sat with him, the king said to the girl, "Ask me whatever you want, and I will give it to you." [23] He also swore to her, [z]"Whatever you ask me, I will give you, up to half my kingdom." astonished. See 1:22; 7:37; 10:26; 11:18.

■ 6:3 carpenter. Could also mean "builder." Jesus' work in this occupation prior to His ministry might explain His use of building metaphors, especially in describing of His own essential ministry (14:58; 15:29; Matt. 7:24; 16:18; 21:33; Luke 12:18; 17:28). The remark concerning manual labor is probably not derogatory as such, for all rabbis were expected to have a trade. Paul had been trained as a rabbi and was a maker of tents or awnings (Acts 18:3; 22:3; 26:5; Phil. 3:5, 6). The accusation is that Jesus (who teaches "wisdom" in v. 2) is a common worker without religious or academic credentials.

son of Mary. See 3:31.

■ 6:4 own house. Not only is Jesus rejected by the people of the town and the wider circle of relatives there, but also by His own family (3:31).

■ 6:7 the twelve. Having already been appointed to be with Jesus (3:14 note) and receive special instruction concerning the mystery of His person and role (4:10, 11 notes), the Twelve are now permitted to share His ministry and authority.

send them out. The verb has the same root as the noun apostle, and underlines their link with Jesus as His personal representatives (3:14 note).

two by two. The biblical principle that testimony should be established by at least two witnesses (Num. 35:30; Deut. 17:6; 19:15; Matt. 18:16; John 8:17; 2 Cor. 13:1; 1 Tim. 5:19; Heb. 10:28) was also applied in the missionary activity of the early church in the ministries of Peter and John (Acts 3:1; 4:1), Paul and Barnabas (Acts 13:2), and Paul and Silas (Acts 15:40).

■ 6:8 no bread. Matt. 10:10 gives the reason, "for a worker is worthy of his food."

■ 6:11 shake off the dust. Strict Jews shook the foreign dust from their feet after travel in pagan territories. Refusal of the gospel invites the same reaction.

■ 6:14 King Herod heard. Herod Antipas, son of Herod the Great, was "tetrarch" (ruler of a dependent state) of Galilee and Perea.

■ 6:15 one of the prophets. Speculation about the identity of Jesus will lead to the accounts of the miraculous feedings (vv. 30–44; 8:1–9) and walking on water (vv. 47–52), all of which point to Jesus' personal divinity. But first Mark will relate the circumstances of the death of John the Baptist, with whom Herod and others had identified Jesus.

■ 6:17 his brother Philip's wife. Herodias was a daughter of Aristobulus, one of the sons of Herod the Great. Other sons of Herod the Great included Herod Antipas and Herod Philip (by different wives). After marrying her half-uncle Herod Philip, Herodias left him for an adulterous relationship with his brother, Herod Antipas. Such were the loose morals, typical of the Herodian dynasty, against which John the Baptist preached (cf. Lev. 18:16, 20).

24 So she went out and said to her mother, "What shall I ask?"

And she said, "The head of John the Baptist!"

25 Immediately she came in with haste to the king and asked, saying, "I want you to give me at once the head of John the Baptist on a platter."

26 [a]And the king was exceedingly sorry; yet, because of the oaths and because of those who sat with him, he did not want to refuse her. 27 Immediately the king sent an executioner and commanded his head to be brought. And he went and beheaded him in prison, 28 brought his head on a platter, and gave it to the girl; and the girl gave it to her mother. 29 When his disciples heard of it, they came and [b]took away his corpse and laid it in a tomb.

Feeding the Five Thousand

30 [c]Then the apostles gathered to Jesus and told Him all things, both what they had done and what they had taught. 31 [d]And He said to them, "Come aside by yourselves to a deserted place and rest a while." For [e]there were many coming and going, and they did not even have time to eat. 32 [f]So they departed to a deserted place in the boat by themselves.

33 But [g]the multitudes saw them departing, and many [g]knew Him and ran there on foot from all the cities. They arrived before them and came together to Him. 34 [h]And Jesus, when He came out, saw a great multitude and was moved with compassion for them, because they were like [i]sheep not having a shepherd. So [j]He began to teach them many things. 35 [k]When the day was now far spent, His disciples came to Him and said, "This is a deserted place, and already the hour is late. 36 Send them away, that they may go into the surrounding country and villages and buy themselves [7]bread; for they have nothing to eat."

37 But He answered and said to them, "You give them something to eat."

And they said to Him, [l]"Shall we go and buy two hundred denarii worth of bread and give them something to eat?"

38 But He said to them, "How many loaves do you have? Go and see."

And when they found out they said, [m]"Five, and two fish."

39 Then He [n]commanded them to make them all sit down in groups on the green grass. 40 So they sat down in ranks, in hundreds and in fifties. 41 And when He had taken the five loaves and the two fish, He [o]looked up to heaven, [p]blessed and broke the loaves, and gave them to His disciples to set before them; and the two fish He divided among them all. 42 So they all ate and were filled. 43 And they took up twelve baskets full of fragments and of the fish. 44 Now those who had eaten the loaves were [8]about five thousand men.

Jesus Walks on the Sea

45 [q]Immediately He [9]made His disciples get into the boat and go before Him to the other side, to Bethsaida, while He sent the multitude away. 46 And when He had sent them away, He [r]departed to the mountain to pray. 47 Now when evening came, the boat was in the middle of the sea; and He was alone on the land. 48 Then He saw them straining at rowing, for the wind was against them. Now about the fourth watch of the night He came to them, walking on the sea, and [s]would have passed them by. 49 And when they saw Him walking on the sea, they supposed it was a [t]ghost, and cried out; 50 for they all saw Him and were troubled. But immediately He

■ 6:31 by yourselves. Being alone with Jesus, who then instructs them in the mystery of the kingdom (4:10, 11), is part of their preparation for future ministry (4:34; 9:2, 28; 13:3; cf. John 13:1; 16:29).

■ 6:34 was moved with compassion. Jesus does what God promised to do in Ezek. 34:11, 14: "I Myself will search for My sheep and seek them out. . . . I will feed them in good pasture." Jesus acts as the Shepherd of God's people, like Moses (Num. 27:15–17; Ps. 77:20), David (Ps. 78:70–72), and God Himself (Ps. 23:1; 74:1; 78:52, 53; 80:1; Ezek. 34:15).

sheep not having a shepherd. Ancient Israel, abandoned by unfaithful leaders, was also described in this way (Jer. 50:6; Ezek. 34:1–10).

■ 6:40 in hundreds and in fifties. This detail recalls the ordering of ancient Israel in the desert under Moses (Ex. 18:21).

■ 6:42 all ate and were filled. This feeding story recalls the miraculous provision of manna in the desert under Moses (Ex. 16:1–36, especially v. 16). Jesus is the new Moses bringing the new covenant.

■ 6:43 they took up. A further reference to the provision of manna where nothing was to be left till the morning (Ex. 16:19).

twelve baskets full. The number recalls the twelve tribes of ancient Israel and suggests the important role that the Twelve would play in the constitution of the New Israel (3:14 note).

■ 6:44 five thousand men. Mark does not use the Greek word that means "human being," but a term distinguishing men from women, with perhaps the idea of "head of family" (Matt. 14:21 adds "besides women and children"). The crowd may have numbered between fifteen and twenty thousand.

■ 6:48 fourth watch. Since the Romans divided the night into four periods, the fourth watch would be the three hours ending at dawn.

■ 6:49 a ghost. Lit. "phantasm," used in the New Testament only here and Matt. 14:26. It has the connotation of superstitious imagination.

■ 6:50 It is I. The Greek phrase (lit. "I am") is also the Septuagint (the Greek translation of the Old Testament) rendering of the divine name "I AM" revealed to Moses (Ex. 3:14; Deut. 32:39; Is. 41:4; 43:10, 13, 25; 45:18; 52:6; Hos. 13:4; Joel 2:27). This account has all the usual marks talked with them and said to them, [u]"Be[l] of good cheer! It is I; do not be [v]afraid." [51] Then He went up into the boat to them, and the wind [w]ceased. And they were greatly [x]amazed in themselves beyond measure, and marveled. [52] For [y]they had not understood about the loaves, because their [z]heart was hardened.

Many Touch Him and Are Made Well

[53] [a]When they had crossed over, they came to the land of Gennesaret and anchored there. [54] And when they came out of the boat, immediately [2]the people recognized Him, [55] ran through that whole surrounding region, and began to carry about on beds those who were sick to wherever they heard He was. [56] Wherever He entered, into villages, cities, or the country, they laid the sick in the marketplaces, and begged Him that [b]they might just touch the [c]hem of His garment. And as many as touched Him were made well.

Defilement Comes from Within

7 Then [a]the Pharisees and some of the scribes came together to Him, having come from Jerusalem. [2] Now [1]when they saw some of His disciples eat bread with defiled, that is, with [b]unwashed hands, [2]they found fault. [3] For the Pharisees and all the Jews do not eat unless they wash their hands [3]in a special way, holding the [c]tradition of the elders. [4] When they come from the marketplace, they do not eat unless they wash. And there are many other things which they have received and hold, like the washing of cups, pitchers, copper vessels, and couches.

[5] [d]Then the Pharisees and scribes asked Him, "Why do Your disciples not walk according to the tradition of the elders, but eat bread with unwashed hands?"

[6] He answered and said to them, "Well did Isaiah prophesy of you [e]hypocrites, as it is written:

> [f]'This people honors Me with their lips,
> But their heart is far from Me.
> 7 And in vain they worship Me,
> Teaching as doctrines the commandments of men.'

[8] For laying aside the commandment of God, you hold the tradition of men—[4]the washing of pitchers and cups, and many other such things you do."

[9] He said to them, "All too well [g]you [5]reject the commandment of God, that you may keep your tradition. [10] For Moses said, [h]'Honor your father and your mother'; and, [i]'He who curses father or mother, let him be put to death.' [11] But you say, 'If a man says to his father or mother, [j]"Whatever profit you might have received from me is Corban"—' (that is, a gift to God), [12] then you no longer let him do anything for his father or his mother, [13] making the word of God of no effect through your tradition which you have handed down. And many such things you do."

[14] [k]When He had called all the multitude to Himself, He said to them, "Hear Me, everyone, of biblical theophany narratives (various modes of visible, divine self-revelation), including human dread, divine identification, and words of assurance.

■ 6:52 they had not understood about the loaves. This remark suggests that the miracle of the feeding contains the same mystery concerning Jesus as does His walking on water. Jesus, as to His humanity, is indeed the new Moses. But He is also, and at the same time, the God who provided bread from heaven (Ex. 16:4).

■ 6:53 Gennesaret. A village on the western shore of the Sea of Galilee (Luke 5:1).

■ 6:56 His garment. See note on 5:30.

■ 7:1 Pharisees. See note on 2:16.

scribes. Scribes were teachers of the law, mostly Pharisees.

■ 7:2 defiled. The disciples had not washed in the manner prescribed by "the tradition of the elders" (vv. 3, 4), and so were considered ceremonially unclean. Jesus is critical of these traditional expansions of the ceremonial law by the scribes and Pharisees because they had so extended their traditions as to permit actual transgression of the moral law (vv. 9–13). His cross will finally bring the ceremonial law to an end.

■ 7:3 wash. By their tradition, the Pharisees extended the biblical injunctions for priestly washing at the moment of temple sacrifice (Ex. 30:19; 40:12) to the eating of bread by all Jews.

tradition of the elders. The Pharisees believed that in addition to the written words of the law, Moses received instructions for its interpretation and application. This oral law was passed on by word of mouth from teacher to teacher. In His arguments with them, Jesus consistently appeals to Scripture and always seeks to get back to its true meaning (vv. 6–8).

■ 7:5 Why do your disciples not. The Pharisees and scribes are not genuinely interested in the meal practice of the disciples, but in why Jesus, as their teacher, does not require them to observe "the tradition" generally.

■ 7:6 Isaiah. Jesus' motivation is to bring people back into conformity with Scripture.

■ 7:8 laying aside the commandment of God. The verb "laying aside" can mean "cancel," "abandon," or "neglect." Jesus is not an antinomian. Like the psalmist, He is consumed with longing for the law of God (Ps. 119:20), which He fulfills, protects (Matt. 5:17–20), and defends. He is not even against tradition, but only against that which annuls Scripture.

■ 7:11 Corban. A Hebrew and Aramaic word (which Mark translates for his Gentile readers), designating something as dedicated to a religious purpose. By a simple vow to reserve their possessions as a gift to God, a person could avoid responsibility to support their parents.

and [t]understand: 15 There is nothing that enters a man from outside which can defile him; but the things which come out of him, those are the things that [m]defile a man. 16 [n]If[6] anyone has ears to hear, let him hear!"

17 [o]When He had entered a house away from the crowd, His disciples asked Him concerning the parable. 18 So He said to them, [p]"Are you thus without understanding also? Do you not perceive that whatever enters a man from outside cannot defile him, 19 because it does not enter his heart but his stomach, and is eliminated, [7]thus purifying all foods?" 20 And He said, [q]"What comes out of a man, that defiles a man. 21 [r]For from within, out of the heart of men, [s]proceed evil thoughts, [t]adulteries, [u]fornications, murders, 22 thefts, [v]covetousness, wickedness, [w]deceit, [x]lewdness, an evil eye, [y]blasphemy, [z]pride, foolishness. 23 All these evil things come from within and defile a man."

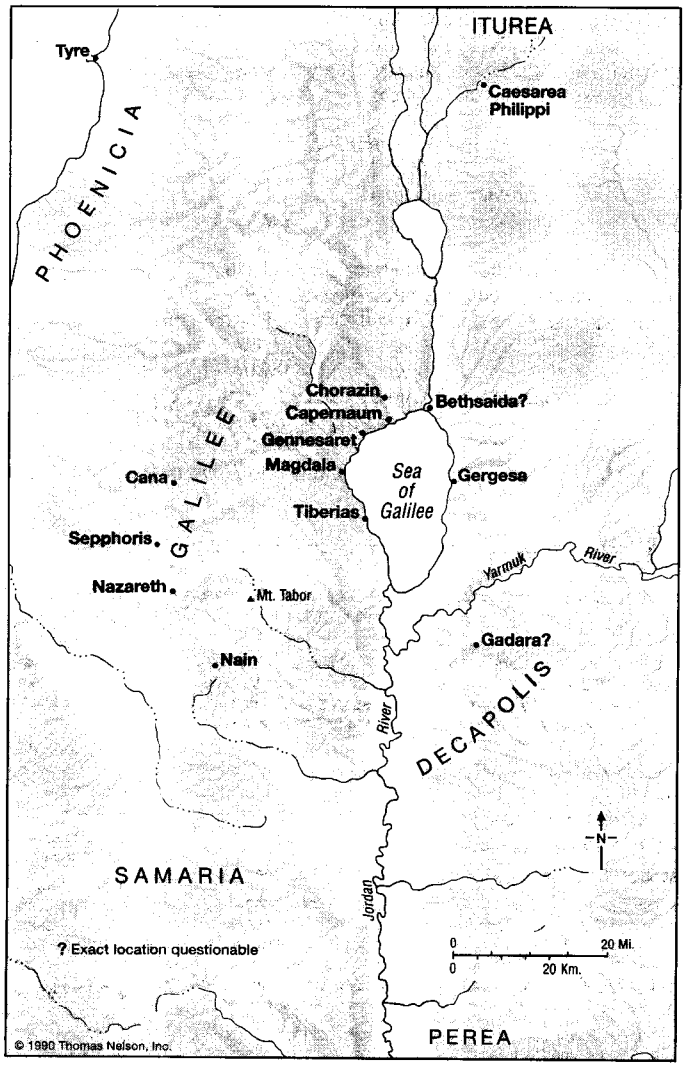
■ 7:20 What comes out of a man. Jesus is generalizing about the natural and constant way in which fallen human nature expresses itself, and His list of vices (vv. 21, 22) is meant to bring horrifying self-knowledge (cf. Rom. 1:24–32; 2:17–24).
defiles. Jesus goes to the essence of the matter—uncleanness of the heart, of which ceremonial uncleanness is really a symbol.

Cities of the Galilean Ministry. Jesus began His public ministry at Cana, where He graced a wedding party with His presence and turned water into wine (John 2:1–11). In the synagogue of Nazareth, Jesus announced that He was the fulfillment of prophecy from the Book of Isaiah (Luke 4:16–22). But His hometown rejected Him, so He went to Capernaum, a prosperous fishing town situated along an international trade route. There He established a base of ministry.

In Capernaum He called Matthew to be His disciple (Mark 2:14) and healed a centurion's paralyzed servant (Matt. 8:5–13), as well as Peter's mother-in-law (Matt. 8:14, 15). The Sea of Galilee, with its fishing industry, was the setting for many miracles. At Nain, Jesus mercifully raised to life the only son of a widow (Luke 7:11–17).

Chorazin and Bethsaida were cities Jesus chastised for their unbelief (Matt. 11:21). The area of Gergesa was possibly where Jesus healed the demoniacs (Matt. 8:28–34).



A Gentile Shows Her Faith

24 [a]From there He arose and went to the region of Tyre [8]and Sidon. And He entered a house and wanted no one to know it, but He could not be [b]hidden. 25 For a woman whose young daughter had an unclean spirit heard about Him, and she came and [c]fell at His feet. 26 The woman was a [9]Greek, a [1]Syro-Phoenician by birth, and she kept [2]asking Him to cast the demon out of her daughter. 27 But Jesus said to her, "Let the children be filled first, for it is not good to take the children's bread and throw it to the little dogs."

28 And she answered and said to Him, "Yes, Lord, yet even the little dogs under the table eat from the children's crumbs."

29 Then He said to her, "For this saying go your way; the demon has gone out of your daughter."

30 And when she had come to her house, she found the demon gone out, and her daughter lying on the bed.

Jesus Heals a Deaf-Mute

31 [d]Again, departing from the region of Tyre and Sidon, He came through the midst of the region of Decapolis to the Sea of Galilee. 32 Then [e]they brought to Him one who was deaf and had an impediment in his speech, and they begged Him to put His hand on him. 33 And He took him aside from the multitude, and put His fingers in his ears, and [f]He spat and touched his tongue. 34 Then, [g]looking up to heaven, [h]He sighed, and said to him, "Ephphatha," that is, "Be opened."

35 [i]Immediately his ears were opened, and the [3]impediment of his tongue was loosed, and he spoke plainly. 36 Then [j]He commanded them that they should tell no one; but the more He commanded them, the more widely they proclaimed it. 37 And they were [k]astonished beyond measure, saying, "He has done all things well. He [l]makes both the deaf to hear and the mute to speak."

Feeding the Four Thousand

8 In those days, [a]the multitude being very great and having nothing to eat, Jesus called His disciples to Him and said to them, 2 "I have [b]compassion on the multitude, because they have now continued with Me three days and have nothing to eat. 3 And if I send them away hungry to their own houses, they will faint on the way; for some of them have come from afar."

4 Then His disciples answered Him, "How can one satisfy these people with bread here in the wilderness?"

5 [c]He asked them, "How many loaves do you have?"

And they said, "Seven."

6 So He commanded the multitude to sit down on the ground. And He took the seven loaves and gave thanks, broke them and gave them to His disciples to set before them; and they set them before the multitude. 7 They also had a few small fish; and [d]having blessed them, He said to set them also before them. 8 So they ate and were filled, and they took up seven large baskets of left-over fragments. 9 Now those who had eaten were about four thousand. And He sent them away, 10 [e]immediately got into the boat with His disciples, and came to the region of Dalmanutha.

■ 7:24 Tyre. Jesus moves north into a markedly Gentile region (cf. Matt. 11:21, 22), to the vicinity of the ancient Phoenician port city of Tyre (in modern Lebanon).

■ 7:26 Greek. She was of Syrian descent but spoke Greek.

■ 7:27 first. Though in Gentile territory, Jesus maintains the temporal priority of Israel ("the children") in the divine plan of salvation, as Paul does later (Rom. 1:16; 2:10; cf. Acts 1:8; 13:46, 47).

dogs. The term is certainly derogatory (Matt. 7:6; Phil. 3:2; Rev. 22:15), though the Greek word includes the nuance "little dogs" or "pets." It should be seen as an example of Jesus' colorful imagery of table fellowship to explain the plan of salvation, namely, that "salvation is of the Jews" (John 4:22). The woman takes it in this sense, as her reply indicates.

■ 7:31 Decapolis. See note on 5:1. Jesus remains in Gentile territory, first going north to Sidon and then southeast to the Decapolis.

■ 7:33 put His fingers in his ears. These physical actions accompany the miracle of healing, but are not its cause.

■ 7:34 Ephphatha. An Aramaic word translated by which Mark again translates for his Greek-speaking readers.

■ 7:35 spoke plainly. For a deaf person, clearly expressed spoken language must usually be learned over a period of time.

■ 7:36 tell no one. Regarding Jesus' command of secrecy, see notes on 1:34 and 5:19.

■ 8:1–10 A second miraculous feeding. Jesus later points to deep theological significance in the two feedings (8:18–21).

■ 8:2 I have compassion. Since this feeding probably took place in the Decapolis (7:31), it is evident that Jesus extends His compassion from the lost sheep of the house of Israel (6:34) to the Gentiles, as His healing of the Syro-Phoenician woman's daughter (7:24–30) and His ministry in Gentile territory (7:31–37) would suggest. By His actions Jesus announces the world-wide mission of the future church.

■ 8:4 in the wilderness. See note on 1:4. The disciples' question, in view of what Jesus had previously done in similar circumstances, justifies Jesus' reproach in vv. 17, 18.

■ 8:10 Dalmanutha. Presumably on the western shore of the Sea of Galilee, though its exact location is not known.

The Pharisees Seek a Sign

11 [f]Then the Pharisees came out and began to dispute with Him, seeking from Him a sign from heaven, testing Him. 12 But He [g]sighed deeply in His spirit, and said, "Why does this generation seek a sign? Assuredly, I say to you, [h]no sign shall be given to this generation."

Beware of the Leaven of the Pharisees and Herod

13 And He left them, and getting into the boat again, departed to the other side. 14 [i]Now [l]the disciples had forgotten to take bread, and they did not have more than one loaf with them in the boat. 15 [j]Then He charged them, saying, "Take heed, beware of the [2]leaven of the Pharisees and the leaven of Herod."

16 And they reasoned among themselves, saying, "It is because we have no bread."

17 But Jesus, being aware of it, said to them, "Why do you reason because you have no bread? [k]Do you not yet perceive nor understand? Is your heart [3]still hardened? 18 Having eyes, do you not see? And having ears, do you not hear? And do you not remember? 19 [l]When I broke the five loaves for the five thousand, how many baskets full of fragments did you take up?"

They said to Him, "Twelve."

20 "Also, [m]when I broke the seven for the four thousand, how many large baskets full of fragments did you take up?"

And they said, "Seven."

21 So He said to them, "How is it [n]you do not understand?"

A Blind Man Healed at Bethsaida

22 Then He came to Bethsaida; and they brought a [o]blind man to Him, and begged Him to [p]touch him. 23 So He took the blind man by the hand and led him out of the town. And when [q]He had spit on his eyes and put His hands on him, He asked him if he saw anything.

24 And he looked up and said, "I see men like trees, walking."

25 Then He put His hands on his eyes again and made him look up. And he was restored and saw everyone clearly. 26 Then He sent him away to his house, saying, [4]"Neither go into the town, [r]nor tell anyone in the town."

Peter Confesses Jesus as the Christ

27 [s]Now Jesus and His disciples went out to the towns of Caesarea Philippi; and on the road He asked His disciples, saying to them, "Who do men say that I am?"

28 So they answered, [t]"John the Baptist; but some say, [u]Elijah; and others, one of the prophets."

29 He said to them, "But who do you say that I am?"

■ 8:11 Pharisees. See note on 2:16.

sign from heaven. Jesus does not perform signs on demand, especially not for those "testing" Him (cf. 1:13; Matt. 4:1–11, where the same Greek verb is translated "tempting"). The Pharisees wanted a sign to confirm that Jesus was the political messiah they were expecting (v. 15 note).

■ 8:14 one loaf. This narrative detail ties this passage and the two feeding miracles together.

■ 8:15 leaven of the Pharisees and . . . Herod. Jesus uses an everyday ingredient of bread as a metaphor (Luke 12:1 note). What seems like an innocent, indeed legitimate request for a sign (on Herod's desire for miracles, see Luke 23:8) is actually a rejection of His ministry and all His previous signs. Jesus is warning His disciples against superficial conceptions of His role and preparing them for His teaching concerning the true meaning of His coming and of His cross (vv. 27, 31). Such teaching remained incomprehensible to many Jews (1 Cor. 1:22, 23).

■ 8:17 no bread. The disciples' thoughts are still dominated by material concerns, leaving them blind to the true vocation of their master and open to being tempted by the "leaven" of the Pharisees.

■ 8:21 you do not understand. Here Jesus' role in teaching and training the Twelve comes into the foreground of the narrative (3:14 note). His question to them is a reproach for failing to realize that the Lord who miraculously provided for five thousand and four thousand men with their families is capable of taking care of twelve men's physical needs. Indeed, they should know that Jesus is worthy of their total faith in all that He will reveal to them in the days to come.

■ 8:22 Bethsaida. A fishing town on the northern shore of the Sea of Galilee and home of Philip, Andrew, and Peter.

■ 8:23 spit on his eyes. See note on 7:33.

■ 8:24 trees, walking. The restoration of sight in this case is gradual.

■ 8:26 Neither go into the town. Jesus had led him out of the town (v. 23), so it is likely that the message of this miracle was intended for His disciples. They must realize that Jesus is gradually healing their spiritual sight. While in v. 21 they still "do not understand" who Jesus is, they too, like the blind man (v. 25), are about to see "clearly" the mystery of His person (vv. 27–30).

■ 8:27 Caesarea Philippi. A town at the foot of Mount Hermon and close to the source of the Jordan river. Herod the Great built a marble temple to Caesar Augustus there, and his son Philip changed the town's name from Paneas to Caesarea. To distinguish it from the other Caesarea, the well-known Mediterranean port, it was known as Philip's Caesarea.

■ 8:29 But who do you say that I am. Again the preeminence of the Twelve in the revelation of the person of Jesus is emphasized (v. 21; 3:14). Jesus dismisses what people say (v. 27), but retains as divinely revealed truth the confession of the Twelve (Matt. 16:16, 17 and notes).

You are the Christ. Lit. "the anointed One" (1 Sam. 2:10; Matt. 1:1 and notes). This is the first time in Mark's narrative that the name "Christ" appears (it does appear in the title at 1:1). Peter's confession (as spokesperson for the Twelve), along with the Transfiguration that follows

Peter answered and said to Him, [v]"You are the Christ."
30 [w]Then He strictly warned them that they should tell no one about Him.

Jesus Predicts His Death and Resurrection

31 And [x]He began to teach them that the Son of Man must suffer many things, and be [y]rejected by the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be [z]killed, and after three days rise again. 32 He spoke this word openly. Then Peter took Him aside and began to rebuke Him. 33 But when He had turned around and looked at His disciples, He [a]rebuked Peter, saying, "Get behind Me, Satan! For you are not [5]mindful of the things of God, but the things of men."

Take Up the Cross and Follow Him

34 When He had called the people to Himself, with His disciples also, He said to them, [b]"Whoever desires to come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow Me. 35 For [c]whoever desires to save his life will lose it, but whoever loses his life for My sake and the gospel's will save it. 36 For what will it profit a man if he gains the whole world, and loses his own soul? 37 Or what will a man give in exchange for his soul? 38 [d]For whoever [e]is ashamed of Me and My words in this adulterous and sinful generation, of him the Son of Man also will be ashamed when He comes in the glory of His Father with the holy angels."

Jesus Transfigured on the Mount

9 And He said to them, [a]"Assuredly, I say to you that there are some standing here who will not taste death till they see [b]the kingdom of God [1]present with power."
2 [c]Now after six days Jesus took Peter, James, and John, and led them up on a high mountain apart by themselves; and He was transfigured before them. 3 His clothes became shining, exceed-

(9:2–13), are a high point in the revelation of Jesus' person and a turning point in His earthly ministry. From now on His teaching will concentrate on His impending death, and He will soon begin to travel to Jerusalem.

■ 8:30 tell no one. See notes on 1:34; 5:19; cf. 9:9. Strangely, at this high point of revelation comes the order to keep it secret. But with hindsight the reason is clear. Jesus will not allow political notions of messiahship to compromise His true calling to be the suffering Messiah whose essentially moral and spiritual work of redemption will be total.

■ 8:31—10:52 This section recounts the turning point of Jesus' earthly ministry (8:29 note). It contains three predictions of Jesus' death and resurrection (8:31; 9:31; 10:33, 34); relates the beginning of His journey to Jerusalem, and gives sustained teaching on true messiahship and discipleship.

■ 8:31 Son of Man. See note on 2:10.

must. Behind this small word is all the weight of scriptural prophecy and divinely ordained necessity (9:31; Luke 22:37; 24:7, 26, 44). Jesus' predictions concerning His death and resurrection come out of His understanding of the Old Testament Scriptures.

suffer many things. The prediction of the suffering Messiah comes particularly from Is. 52:13—53:12. See also Zech. 9:9; 12:10; 13:7; and the Old Testament generally for the theme of the righteous sufferer.

elders. Lay members of the Sanhedrin, the court that governed Jewish affairs. The court was composed of elders, chief priests, and teachers of the law (the scribes).

chief priests. Jesus predicts that the wealthy high-priestly families who were affiliated with the Sadducees will be involved in His death.

after three days. See Hos. 6:2. This is also a conventional expression for a short period.

rise again. See Is. 52:13; 53:10; cf. Ps. 110:1; Dan. 7:13, 14.

■ 8:32 He spoke . . . openly. In contrast to His public teaching in parables (4:10, 11), the Twelve privately receive plain instruction (cf. John 16:25, 29). Jesus' clear, private teaching will become the basis of His disciples' public preaching after Easter (Acts 2:29; 4:13, 29, 31; 28:31).

Peter . . . began to rebuke Him. When even Peter, leader among the Twelve, fails to accept that the Messiah must suffer, one can appreciate the wisdom of Jesus' secrecy regarding His messianic office. Note Paul's remark that for many "the message of cross is foolishness" (1 Cor. 1:18; cf. Gal. 3:13).

■ 8:33 Get behind Me, Satan. Satan is now at work even among Jesus' own disciples, not only in Judas but even in Peter, whose intervention would have annulled the plan of redemption and accomplished Satan's goal.

■ 8:34 take up his cross. Condemned prisoners were generally made to carry the crossbar of their cross to the site of execution (cf. 15:21).

■ 8:37 exchange for his soul. The same Greek word is translated here "soul" and in v. 35 "life." No monetary or material value can be placed on this (Ps. 49:7–9, to which Jesus is perhaps alluding).

■ 8:38 in the glory of His Father. Though in the present time of humiliation "the Son of Man has nowhere to lay His head" (Matt. 8:20), one day He will be revealed with divine splendor as the Son of God (12:6–11; 14:62; cf. Dan. 7:13).

■ 9:1 kingdom of God present with power. See text note. The coming of the kingdom "with power" would seem to be associated with Jesus' resurrection since it will be witnessed by "some standing here," and it is also described as a coming "with power" (Rom. 1:4). The Transfiguration, which follows this utterance, is an intermediate and immediate fulfillment of Jesus' words, since it anticipates the manifestation of resurrection power and divine glory. See note on Matt. 16:28.

■ 9:2 after six days. In Ex. 24:16, "six days" is also the period of preparation for receiving revelation and witnessing a vision of divine glory (a theophany; 6:50 note).

transfigured. Lit. "changed in form." This Greek verb is used by Paul to describe the present work of the Spirit in the inner life of the believer (Rom. 12:2; 2 Cor. 3:18). That work will be completed when this same Spirit gives "life to your mortal bodies" as when He raised Jesus from the dead (Rom. 8:11), and as here in Jesus' momentary glorification. See theological note "The Transfiguration of Jesus."

ingly [d]white, like snow, such as no launderer on earth can whiten them. [4] And Elijah appeared to them with Moses, and they were talking with Jesus. [5] Then Peter answered and said to Jesus, "Rabbi, it is good for us to be here; and let us make three tabernacles: one for You, one for Moses, and one for Elijah"— [6] because he did not know what to say, for they were greatly afraid.

[7] And a [e]cloud came and overshadowed them; and a voice came out of the cloud, saying, "This is [f]My beloved Son. [g]Hear Him!" [8] Suddenly, when they had looked around, they saw no one anymore, but only Jesus with themselves.

[9] [h]Now as they came down from the mountain, He commanded them that they should tell no one the things they had seen, till the Son of Man had risen from the dead. [10] So they kept this word to themselves, questioning [i]what the rising from the dead meant.

[11] And they asked Him, saying, "Why do the scribes say [j]that Elijah must come first?"

[12] Then He answered and told them, "Indeed, Elijah is coming first and restores all things. And [k]how is it written concerning the Son of Man, that He must suffer many things and [l]be treated with contempt? [13] But I say to you that [m]Elijah has also come, and they did to him whatever they wished, as it is written of him."

The Transfiguration of Jesus

Recorded in three of the Gospels (Matt. 17:1–8; Mark 9:2–8; Luke 9:28–36), and testified to by Peter and John (cf. 2 Pet. 1:16–18; John 1:14), the Transfiguration was a revelation of Jesus' deity. The transformation in Jesus' appearance as He prayed (Luke 9:29) was a momentary transition from the concealment of His divine glory that marked His days on earth to the manifestation of glory that will be revealed when He returns.

The bright light that shone from Jesus as His face changed (Luke 9:29) was the glory intrinsic to Him as the divine Son, "the brightness of His glory" (Heb. 1:3). The voice from the cloud confirmed the identification that the vision had already given.

The Transfiguration was also a significant event in the revelation of God's kingdom. Moses and Elijah represented the law and the prophets witnessing to Jesus and being superseded by Him. The "departure" (Greek exodus) of which they and Jesus talked (Luke 9:31 and text note) was Jesus' death, resurrection, and ascension. These events were not just a way of leaving this world, but of redeeming His people, just as the Exodus from Egypt led by Moses was Israel's liberation from slavery. □

■ 9:4 Elijah . . . with Moses. The Transfiguration ties the old covenant to the new, directly linking Moses and Elijah, representatives of the law and the prophets, with Jesus and His apostles, messengers of redemption's completion.

■ 9:5 let us make three tabernacles. Peter perhaps wishes to capture and prolong the glory so as to avoid the suffering of which Jesus had already spoken (8:31–33).

■ 9:7 This is My beloved Son. The heavenly declaration is a high point of divine revelation concerning the identity of Jesus. Just as God had revealed Himself in the theophany on Sinai as "the LORD God, merciful and gracious" (Ex. 34:6), so now He reveals Himself as the one who speaks through His beloved Son (John 1:17; 3:16; Heb. 1:2).

Hear Him. This phrase represents a rebuke to Peter as well as a declaration concerning the authority of the Son as revealer and prophet of the new covenant. These words echo Deut. 18:15, and identify Jesus as the great prophet like Moses.

■ 9:9 commanded them . . . tell no one. See notes on 1:34; 8:30.

till the Son of Man had risen from the dead. Open, public testimony to Jesus' glory is to be withheld until after the full accomplishment of redemption.

■ 9:10 questioning what the rising from the dead meant. The disciples' confusion arises from Jewish expectation of a general resurrection in the last days, but not an individual resurrection in the midst of history.

■ 9:12 Elijah is coming first. Though John the Baptist is not personally Elijah risen from the dead (6:14–16; cf. John 1:21), Jesus teaches that Elijah was indeed the Old Testament type who prefigured the Baptist's ministry (cf. Luke 1:17).

■ 9:13 they did to him. Just as Elijah suffered at the hands of Ahab and Jezebel (1 Kin. 19:1–10), so John suffered at the hands of Herod and Herodias (6:18 note). If John, who restored all things by calling the people of God to repentance and godliness, was put to death, should it be surprising (v. 12) that the Son of Man faces the same lot?

■ 9:17 has a mute spirit. Demon possession is clearly distinguished from normal illness (7:31–37), though in both cases the person cannot speak. Compare 1:24, 25; 5:2–15.

mute spirit. [18] And wherever it seizes him, it throws him down; he foams at the mouth, gnashes his teeth, and becomes rigid. So I spoke to Your disciples, that they should cast it out, but they could not."

[19] He answered him and said, "O [p]faithless[2] generation, how long shall I be with you? How long shall I [3]bear with you? Bring him to Me." [20] Then they brought him to Him. And [q]when he saw Him, immediately the spirit convulsed him, and he fell on the ground and wallowed, foaming at the mouth.

[21] So He asked his father, "How long has this been happening to him?"

And he said, "From childhood. [22] And often he has thrown him both into the fire and into the water to destroy him. But if You can do anything, have compassion on us and help us."

[23] Jesus said to him, [r]"If[4] you can believe, all things are possible to him who believes."

[24] Immediately the father of the child cried out and said with tears, "Lord, I believe; [s]help my unbelief!"

[25] When Jesus saw that the people came running together, He [t]rebuked the unclean spirit, saying to it, "Deaf and dumb spirit, I command you, come out of him and enter him no more!" [26] Then the spirit cried out, convulsed him greatly, and came out of him. And he became as one dead, so that many said, "He is dead." [27] But Jesus took him by the hand and lifted him up, and he arose.

[28] [u]And when He had come into the house, His disciples asked Him privately, "Why could we not cast it out?"

[29] So He said to them, "This kind can come out by nothing but [v]prayer [5]and fasting."

Jesus Again Predicts His Death and Resurrection

[30] Then they departed from there and passed through Galilee, and He did not want anyone to know it. [31] [w]For He taught His disciples and said to them, "The Son of Man is being betrayed into the hands of men, and they will [x]kill Him. And after He is killed, He will [y]rise the third day." [32] But they [z]did not understand this saying, and were afraid to ask Him.

Who Is the Greatest?

[33] [a]Then He came to Capernaum. And when He was in the house He asked them, "What was it you [6]disputed among yourselves on the road?" [34] But they kept silent, for on the road they had [b]disputed among themselves who would be the [c]greatest. [35] And He sat down, called the twelve, and said to them, [d]"If anyone desires to be first, he shall be last of all and servant of all." [36] Then [e]He took a little child and set him in the midst of them. And when He had taken him in His arms, He said to them, [37] "Whoever receives one of these little children in My name receives Me; and [f]whoever receives Me, receives not Me but Him who sent Me."

■ 9:19 O faithless generation. Jesus' impatience with the disciples' lack of faith, and frustration with the general scene of unbelief and impotence as He returns from the mount of Transfiguration, is reminiscent of Moses coming down from Mount Sinai to find unbelief and unfaithfulness in the Israelite camp (Ex. 32).

■ 9:25 the people came running. The situation is still volatile. The blind enthusiasm of the crowd constantly places Jesus in the dilemma of compassionately wanting to minister to people's suffering, while not jeopardizing the overarching plan of redemption.

I command you. The spiritual power of Jesus causes the demon to cry out (v. 26). See "Demons" at Deut. 32:17.

■ 9:28 privately. See note on 8:32.

■ 9:31 taught His disciples. Again and again Jesus gives priority to the training of the Twelve. Jesus repeats, for emphasis and because the lesson was still unlearned, what He had previously taught in 8:31.

■ 9:33 house. See note on 2:1.

■ 9:34 who would be the greatest. Given the importance of honor in that society, such considerations played a significant role in people's minds (cf. 10:35–45). Jesus is bringing about a revolution in this way of thinking, though without destroying the notion of functional hierarchy. See note on 5:37.

■ 9:35 called the twelve. Again the Twelve are singled out (3:14), and their position of leadership is explicitly recognized.

If anyone desires to be first. Jesus is not attacking leadership positions, but showing the way in which such roles should be exercised (i.e., as the "last . . . and servant of all"). This principle is exemplified by Jesus Himself who "did not come to be served, but to serve, and to give His life a ransom for many" (10:45). The self-giving manner in which Jesus fulfills His messianic role, which is the first and foremost role in the kingdom, provides the standard for His disciples in whatever secondary roles they might exercise in the kingdom of God.

■ 9:36 a little child. Lit. "infant." The God-given dignity of every human being is exemplified by the little child. This weakest of human beings must be served in the same way as the greatest (9:35 note).

■ 9:38 does not follow us. This phrase does not deny that the man was not a follower of Jesus; he was casting out demons in Jesus' name. Probably what is meant is that he does not recognize the authority of the Twelve. Without taking away the prerogatives of the Twelve, but sensing their pride and exclusivism (9:35 note; 10:35–45), Jesus refuses to denounce the one they are talking about. Instead He teaches that the support and fellowship of all who support His cause should be gratefully acknowledged.

And the fire is not quenched.'

Hell

The New Testament views hell as the final abode of those condemned to eternal punishment at the Last Judgment (Matt. 25:41–46; Rev. 20:11–15). It is described as a place of fire and darkness (Jude 7, 13), of "weeping and gnashing of teeth" (Matt. 8:12; 13:42, 50; 22:13; 24:51; 25:30), of destruction (2 Thess. 1:7–9; 2 Pet. 3:7; 1 Thess. 5:3) and torment (Rev. 20:10; Luke 16:23). These terms are probably symbolic rather than literal, but, if anything, the reality will be more terrible than the symbol. New Testament teaching about hell is meant to appall us and fill us with horror, persuading us that though heaven will be better than we could dream, so hell will be worse than we can imagine. These are the issues of eternity that must be realistically faced.

Hell is not so much the absence of God, as the consequence of His wrath and displeasure. God is like a consuming fire (Heb. 12:29), and His righteous condemnation for defying Him and clinging to the sins He loathes will be experienced in hell (Rom. 2:6, 8, 9, 12). According to Scripture, hell is unending (Jude 13; Rev. 20:10). There is no biblical warrant for speculations about a "second chance" after death, or an annihilation of the ungodly at some stage.

Those in hell will realize that they have sentenced themselves to be there because they have loved darkness rather than light, refusing to have their Creator as their Lord. They preferred the self-indulgence of sin to self-denying righteousness, rejecting the God that made them (John 3:18–21; Rom. 1:18, 24, 26, 28, 32; 2:8; 2 Thess. 2:9–11). General revelation confronts everyone with a certain evidence of God, and from this standpoint hell has a basis in God's respect for human choice. All receive what they chose, either to be with God forever, or to be without Him. Those who are in hell will know, not only that for their doings they deserve their punishment, but that in their hearts they chose it.

The purpose of the Bible's teaching about hell is to make us turn with gratitude to the grace of Christ that saves us from it (Matt. 5:29, 30; 13:48–50). For this reason God's warning to us is merciful; He has "no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but that the wicked turn from his way and live" (Ezek. 33:11).

■ 9:41 whoever gives . . . in My name. All acts of mercy, care, and healing, done in Jesus' name (that is, with understanding and work and the purpose of serving Him) are eternally acknowledged as evidence of true discipleship.

■ 9:42 whoever causes . . . to stumble. "Little ones" can refer either to the infants (v. 36), or to insignificant believers (v. 39). Derailing the faith of those of little worldly importance, for example, through an inconsiderate, egotistical use of power (v. 35 note), calls for the most severe punishment (v. 43).

■ 9:43 cut it off. This admonition should be understood as a kind of exaggeration used in speech to make a point (cf. vv. 45–47). Jesus is talking about costly renunciations of sinful habits. See theological note "Hell."

■ 9:44–46 See text notes. Verses 44 and 46 do not appear in some early manuscripts, but the phrase is also found in v. 48.

47 And if your eye causes you to sin, pluck it out. It is better for you to enter the kingdom of God with one eye, rather than having two eyes, to be cast into [o]hell fire— 48 where o 'Their worm does not die

And the [p]fire is not quenched.'

Tasteless Salt Is Worthless

49 "For everyone will be [q]seasoned with fire, [r]and[7] every sacrifice will be seasoned with salt.
50 [s]Salt is good, but if the salt loses its flavor, how will you season it? [r]Have salt in yourselves, and [u]have peace with one another."

Marriage and Divorce

10 Then [a]He arose from there and came to the region of Judea by the other side of the Jordan. And multitudes gathered to Him again, and as He was accustomed, He taught them again.

2 [b]The Pharisees came and asked Him, "Is it lawful for a man to divorce his wife?" testing Him.

3 And He answered and said to them, "What did Moses command you?"

4 They said, [c]"Moses permitted a man to write a certificate of divorce, and to dismiss her."

5 And Jesus answered and said to them, "Because of the hardness of your heart he wrote you this [t]precept. 6 But from the beginning of the creation, God [d]'made them male and female.'
7 [e]'For this reason a man shall leave his father and mother and be joined to his wife, 8 and the two shall become one flesh'; so then they are no longer two, but one flesh. 9 Therefore what God has joined together, let not man separate."

10 In the house His disciples also asked Him again about the same matter. 11 So He said to them, [f]"Whoever divorces his wife and marries another commits adultery against her. 12 And if a woman divorces her husband and marries another, she commits adultery."

Jesus Blesses Little Children

13 [g]Then they brought little children to Him, that He might touch them; but the disciples rebuked those who brought them. 14 But when Jesus saw it, He was greatly displeased and said to them, "Let the little children come to Me, and do not forbid them; for [h]of such is the kingdom of God. 15 Assuredly, I say to you, [i]whoever does not receive the kingdom of God as a little child will [j]by no means enter it." 16 And He took them up in His arms, laid His hands on them, and blessed them.

■ 9:49 seasoned with fire. Salt is associated with sacrifice in Lev. 2:13; Ezek. 43:24. The saying may mean that by contrast to the fire of destruction just spoken of, believers will persevere through fire and be purified by it.

■ 9:50 Have salt in yourselves. The image of salt describes true discipleship. Salt is a preservative. Jesus is telling His disciples to use humility and service to preserve the peace of the church, rather than dividing it through a desire to be great (v. 34).

■ 10:1 region of Judea. The Roman province of Judea included most of central Palestine, with Jerusalem at its center. This journey into Judea begins the process that will lead Jesus to His death (Luke 9:51).

■ 10:2 Is it lawful . . . to divorce. The question is vague, because Deut. 24:1–4 already indicates that the answer depends on the circumstances. Perhaps the Pharisees wanted to draw Jesus into the debate about Herod Antipas and his unlawful wife (6:17 note).

■ 10:6 from the beginning. As usual, Jesus does not argue from "tradition" (7:3–12 notes) but seeks the intention of Scripture and its real requirements (see Matt. 5:20–22, 27, 28, 31, 32). Regarding marriage, Jesus shows that in the time of the new covenant, despite the continuing presence of sin, the conditions of life prior to the Fall will again be realized in an appropriate way (see Eph. 5:22–33).

■ 10:8 one flesh. The creation order is to be maintained. Monogamous marriage is to be received and cherished.

■ 10:11 Whoever divorces. This is a basic commandment about the inviolability of marriage. However, Jesus specifies one valid ground for divorce—marital infidelity (Matt. 5:32; 19:9). Paul seems to add another (1 Cor. 7:12–16).

■ 10:13 little children. Lit. "infants" (9:36 note). They were young enough to be brought by their parents and taken by Jesus in His arms.

■ 10:14 do not forbid them. Jesus is expressing the typical Old Testament notion of covenant solidarity. These small children belong in the kingdom, initially because of the faith of their parents, though they must exercise faith personally as soon as they can. Small children model true believers who know they have nothing to bring and everything to receive (v. 15).

■ 10:16 blessed them. To receive God's blessing means to be called by God's name (Gen. 48:16; Num. 6:22–27) and to be included in the blessings of the covenant (Gen. 22:16–18; Deut. 7:13).

■ 10:17 one. This man had great wealth (v. 22), was a ruler (Luke 18:18), and was young (Matt. 19:22). He had everything and yet lacked the most important thing—eternal life.

18 So Jesus said to him, "Why do you call Me good? No one is good but One, that is, [m]God.
19 You know the commandments: [n]'Do not commit adultery,' 'Do not murder,' 'Do not steal,' 'Do not bear false witness,' 'Do not defraud,' 'Honor your father and your mother.'"
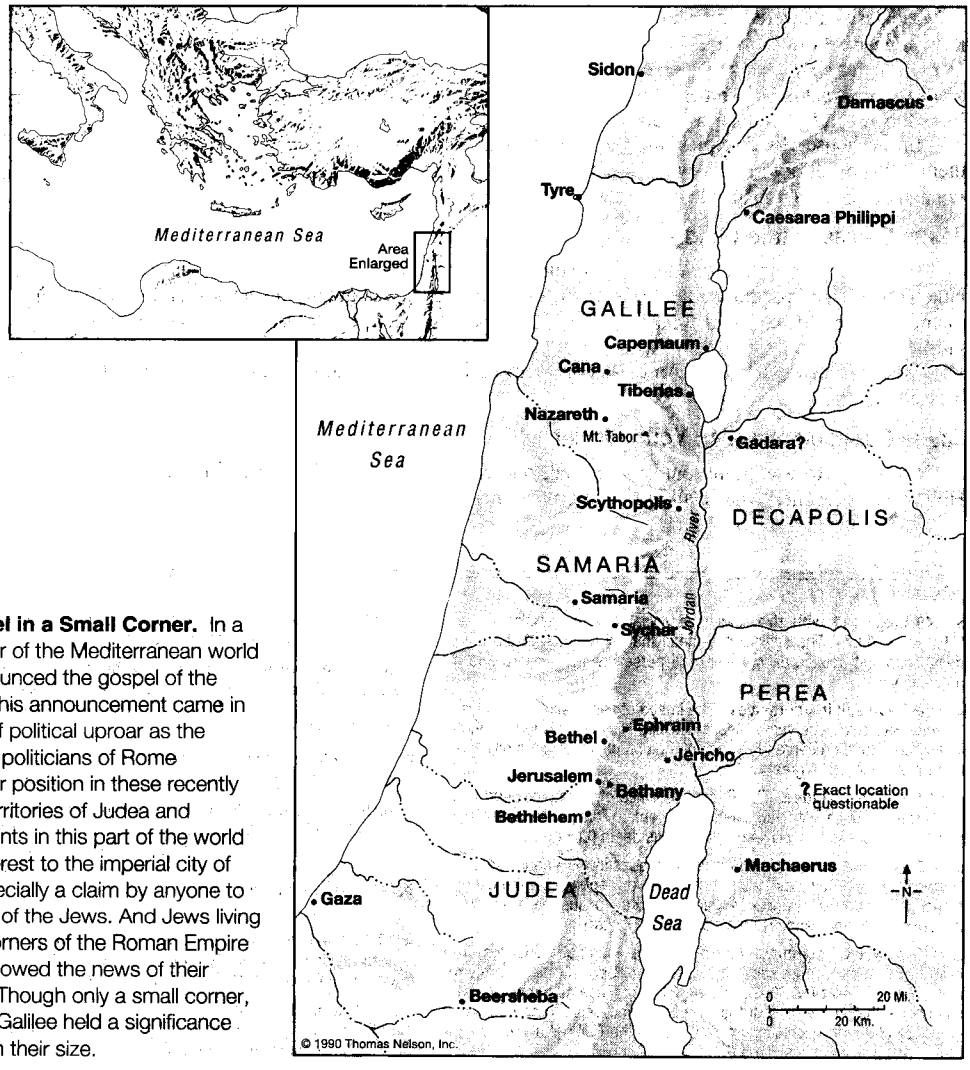
20 And he answered and said to Him, "Teacher, all these things I have [o]kept from my youth."
21 Then Jesus, looking at him, loved him, and said to him, "One thing you lack: Go your way, [p]sell whatever you have and give to the poor, and you will have [q]treasure in heaven; and come, [r]take up the cross, and follow Me."
22 But he was sad at this word, and went away sorrowful, for he had great possessions.

what shall I do that I may inherit. The two verbs "do" and "inherit" placed together, the list of moral achievements, and the young man's understanding of goodness (v. 18 note) indicate a religious outlook based on works righteousness.

■ 10:18 Why do you call Me good. Jesus' reply does not mean that He does not consider Himself good. He rather wants to show the man that "No one is good but One, that is, God," so that the man may realize that all his works do not make him good, and that he is not capable of earning eternal life.

■ 10:21 One thing you lack. The young man's love of riches (v. 22) and refusal to give them up to follow Jesus shows that he has broken the greatest commandment of all: "Love the LORD your God with all your heart, with all your soul, and with all your strength" (Deut. 6:5; cf. Matt. 22:37). Lacking the total righteousness that God requires, he stands condemned.



The Gospel in a Small Corner. In a small corner of the Mediterranean world Jesus announced the gospel of the kingdom. This announcement came in the midst of political uproar as the armies and politicians of Rome jockeyed for position in these recently annexed territories of Judea and Galilee. Events in this part of the world were of interest to the imperial city of Rome, especially a claim by anyone to be the king of the Jews. And Jews living in the far corners of the Roman Empire certainly followed the news of their homeland. Though only a small corner, Judea and Galilee held a significance greater than their size.

With God All Things Are Possible

23 [s]Then Jesus looked around and said to His disciples, "How hard it is for those who have riches to enter the kingdom of God!" 24 And the disciples were astonished at His words. But Jesus answered again and said to them, "Children, how hard it is [2]for those [t]who trust in riches to enter the kingdom of God! 25 It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a [u]rich man to enter the kingdom of God."

26 And they were greatly astonished, saying among themselves, "Who then can be saved?"

27 But Jesus looked at them and said, "With men it is impossible, but not [v]with God; for with God all things are possible."

28 [w]Then Peter began to say to Him, "See, we have left all and followed You."

29 So Jesus answered and said, "Assuredly, I say to you, there is no one who has left house or brothers or sisters or father or mother [3]or wife or children or [4]lands, for My sake and the gospel's, 30 [x]who shall not receive a hundredfold now in this time—houses and brothers and sisters and mothers and children and lands, with [y]persecutions—and in the age to come, eternal life. 31 [z]But many who are first will be last, and the last first."

Jesus a Third Time Predicts His Death and Resurrection

32 [a]Now they were on the road, going up to Jerusalem, and Jesus was going before them; and they were amazed. And as they followed they were afraid. [b]Then He took the twelve aside again and began to tell them the things that would happen to Him: 33 "Behold, we are going up to Jerusalem, and the Son of Man will be betrayed to the chief priests and to the scribes; and they will condemn Him to death and deliver Him to the Gentiles; 34 and they will mock Him, and [5]scourge Him, and spit on Him, and kill Him. And the third day He will rise again."

Greatness Is Serving

35 [c]Then James and John, the sons of Zebedee, came to Him, saying, "Teacher, we want You to do for us whatever we ask."

36 And He said to them, "What do you want Me to do for you?"

37 They said to Him, "Grant us that we may sit, one on Your right hand and the other on Your left, in Your glory."

38 But Jesus said to them, "You do not know what you ask. Are you able to drink the [d]cup that I drink, and be baptized with the [e]baptism that I am baptized with?"

39 They said to Him, "We are able."

So Jesus said to them, [f]"You will indeed drink the cup that I drink, and with the baptism I am baptized with you will be baptized; 40 but to sit on My right hand and on My left is not Mine to give, but it is for those [g]for whom it is prepared."

41 [h]And when the ten heard it, they began to be greatly displeased with James and John. 42 But

41 [h]Matt. 20:24

■ 10:23 How hard it is for those who have riches. The difficulty is not because riches in themselves are evil and disqualify those who possess them, but because the rich are tempted to depend upon their riches and may be unable to admit their need of God.

■ 10:25 camel . . . eye of a needle. An excellent example of Jesus' colorful, proverbial language, here expressing the idea of impossibility (v. 27). The suggestion that there was a small gate, called "the needle's eye," through which camels could barely pass is unsupported and trivializes Jesus' image.

■ 10:26 Who then can be saved. The disciples understood Jesus' meaning. No one can be saved by good works.

■ 10:27 With men it is impossible. Salvation is from the Lord, through sovereign divine initiative (Ps. 3:8; 68:19, 20), not by human effort.

■ 10:28 we have left all. While salvation cannot be earned, it imposes this radical condition.

■ 10:30 a hundredfold. The phrase "this time" with its counterpart "the age to come" reflects the teaching of the rabbis about the two-tiered present evil age and the future age of the Messiah. The resurrection of Jesus significantly altered that view. In the period between the resurrection of Jesus and that of all believers the "two ages" exist side by side. The old is passing away, and the new is present, but not in its fullness. Hence there can be both a "hundredfold" blessing and persecution.

■ 10:33 Son of Man will be betrayed. See note on 8:31.

Gentiles. The new element in this third prediction of the Passion is the mention of the Gentiles (that is, the Romans). The scourging and mockery He predicted are details of His death prophesied in the Scriptures (Ps. 22), and were normal Roman practice.

■ 10:35 James and John. See 1:19 and 3:17. In Matt. 20:20 it is their mother who makes the request, so apparently the whole family was involved.

■ 10:37 sit . . . on Your right. Jesus' teaching on greatness (9:34, 35 and notes) clearly had yet to change their attitudes.

■ 10:38 drink the cup. An Old Testament symbol for suffering and wrath (Ps. 75:8; Is. 51:17–22; Jer. 25:15; Ezek. 23:31–34.

baptism. Here the word is a metaphor for experience of death-threatening judgment, with the hope of ultimate deliverance (Rom. 6:3–7; 1 Cor. 10:2; Col. 2:11–13).

■ 10:40 not Mine to give. Jesus recognizes areas where only the Father has authority (13:32). Such places are decided in accordance with the principle that Jesus gives concerning service (9:35).

■ 10:41 displeased. Perhaps the others were indignant, not because John and James failed to put Jesus' teaching into practice (9:35 note), but because they wanted the same high places. Jesus desires to eliminate in the Twelve, and by extension in all His disciples, such notions of power and authority.

Jesus called them to Himself and said to them, "You know that those who are considered rulers over the Gentiles lord it over them, and their great ones exercise authority over them. [43] [j]Yet it shall not be so among you; but whoever desires to become great among you shall be your servant. [44] And whoever of you desires to be first shall be slave of all. [45] For even [k]the Son of Man did not come to be served, but to serve, and [l]to give His life a ransom for many."

Jesus Heals Blind Bartimaeus

[46] [m]Now they came to Jericho. As He went out of Jericho with His disciples and a great multitude, blind Bartimaeus, the son of Timaeus, sat by the road begging. [47] And when he heard that it was Jesus of Nazareth, he began to cry out and say, "Jesus, [n]Son of David, [o]have mercy on me!"

[48] Then many warned him to be quiet; but he cried out all the more, "Son of David, have mercy on me!"

[49] So Jesus stood still and commanded him to be called.

Then they called the blind man, saying to him, "Be of good cheer. Rise, He is calling you."

[50] And throwing aside his garment, he rose and came to Jesus.

[51] So Jesus answered and said to him, "What do you want Me to do for you?"

The blind man said to Him, [6]"Rabboni, that I may receive my sight."

[52] Then Jesus said to him, "Go your way; [p]your faith has [7]made you well." And immediately he received his sight and followed Jesus on the road.

The Triumphal Entry

11 Now [a]when they drew near Jerusalem, to [1]Bethphage and Bethany, at the Mount of Olives, He sent two of His disciples; [2] and He said to them, "Go into the village opposite you; and as soon as you have entered it you will find a colt tied, on which no one has sat. Loose it and bring it. [3] And if anyone says to you, 'Why are you doing this?' say, 'The Lord has need of it,' and immediately he will send it here."

[4] So they went their way, and found [2]the colt tied by the door outside on the street, and they loosed it. [5] But some of those who stood there said to them, "What are you doing, loosing the colt?"

[6] And they spoke to them just as Jesus had commanded. So they let them go. [7] Then they brought the colt to Jesus and threw their clothes on it, and He sat on it. [8] [b]And many spread their clothes on the road, and others cut down leafy branches from the trees and spread them on the road. [9] Then those who went before and those who followed cried out, saying:

"Hosanna!
[c] 'Blessed is He who comes in the name of the LORD!'

■ 10:45 the Son of Man did not come to be served. What finally breaks the stony hearts of Jesus' disciples is the example that He Himself gives. Jesus, the Son of Man who will inherit "dominion and glory and a kingdom" (Dan. 7:14), has come as a servant, fulfilling the prophecy of Is. 52:13—53:12.

ransom. A price paid to free the guilty from a sentence (Ex. 21:30), or debtors from their debt (Ex. 30:12; cf. Is. 53:10).

many. See Is. 53:12. In the Qumran writings (the Dead Sea Scrolls) this is a term for all the members of the community.

■ 10:46 Jericho. Fifteen miles northeast of Jerusalem and 800 feet below sea level. See note on Luke 18:35.

son of Timaeus. The translation shows that Mark was writing for an audience unfamiliar with Semitic languages (5:31 note).

■ 10:47 Son of David. A popular messianic title (11:10; 12:35) drawn from the Old Testament (Is. 11:1–3; Jer. 23:5, 6; Ezek. 34:23, 24).

■ 10:49 commanded him to be called. One of the marks of Jesus' public ministry is the time He gives to suffering individuals in the midst of crowds (5:30–34).

■ 10:51 Rabboni. Hebrew for "my master" (see text note; a heightened form of the usual title for teachers, "rabbi"), a recognition of and submission to Jesus' authority.

■ 11:1 when they drew near Jerusalem. The journey (10:1 note) reaches its destination, and what is called Passion Week begins. Jesus' decision to come up to Jerusalem is clearly determined by His understanding of the Old Testament and His prophecies concerning His own death (8:31 note).

Bethphage. Hebrew for "house of unripe figs," a small village east of Jerusalem.

Bethany. Hebrew for "house of sadness," two or three miles east of Jerusalem.

Mount of Olives. East of Jerusalem and rising about two hundred feet higher than the temple mount, this high hill commands a spectacular view of Jerusalem and especially of the temple. In Jesus' time it was covered with olive trees, but was stripped of them by the Romans during the siege of Jerusalem in A.D. 70.

■ 11:2 you will find. This text witnesses to the supernatural knowledge of Jesus (cf. John 1:48–50).

colt. A young donkey (Matt. 21:2; John 12:15). The Old Testament prophesied Jesus' actions (Zech. 9:9), which in this case identify Him clearly as the Messiah. Zechariah prophesied the coming of a righteous and gentle King to bring salvation.

■ 11:8 clothes on the road. A recognition of Jesus' royal dignity.

branches. See Ps. 118:27. This psalm celebrates the procession of the royal Messiah.

■ 11:9 Hosanna. A Greek transliteration of the Aramaic words for "Save now . . . O LORD" (Ps. 118:25). The crowd is shouting phrases from that psalm.

10 Blessed is the kingdom of our father David
That comes [3]in the name of the Lord!
[d]Hosanna in the highest!"

11 [e]And Jesus went into Jerusalem and into the temple. So when He had looked around at all things, as the hour was already late, He went out to Bethany with the twelve.

The Fig Tree Withered

12 [f]Now the next day, when they had come out from Bethany, He was hungry. 13 [g]And seeing from afar a fig tree having leaves, He went to see if perhaps He would find something on it. When He came to it, He found nothing but leaves, for it was not the season for figs. 14 In response Jesus said to it, "Let no one eat fruit from you ever again."

And His disciples heard it.

Jesus Cleanses the Temple

15 [h]So they came to Jerusalem. Then Jesus went into the temple and began to drive out those who bought and sold in the temple, and overturned the tables of the money changers and the seats of those who sold [i]doves. 16 And He would not allow anyone to carry wares through the temple. 17 Then He taught, saying to them, "Is it not written, [j]'My house shall be called a house of prayer for all nations'? But you have made it a [k]'den of thieves.'"

18 And [l]the scribes and chief priests heard it and sought how they might destroy Him; for they feared Him, because [m]all the people were astonished at His teaching. 19 When evening had come, He went out of the city.

The Lesson of the Withered Fig Tree

20 [n]Now in the morning, as they passed by, they saw the fig tree dried up from the roots. 21 And Peter, remembering, said to Him, "Rabbi, look! The fig tree which You cursed has withered away."

22 So Jesus answered and said to them, "Have faith in God. 23 For [o]assuredly, I say to you, whoever says to this mountain, 'Be removed and be cast into the sea,' and does not doubt in his heart, but believes that those things he says will be done, he will have whatever he says. 24 Therefore I say to you, [p]whatever things you ask when you pray, believe that you receive them, and you will have them.

Forgiveness and Prayer

25 "And whenever you stand praying, [q]if you have anything against anyone, forgive him, that your Father in heaven may also forgive you your trespasses. 26 [4]But [r]if you do not forgive, neither will your Father in heaven forgive your trespasses."

26 [r]Matt. 6:15; 18:35 [4]NU omits v. 26.

■ 11:11 He went out to Bethany. In Matt. 21:12–22, Jesus proceeds to cleanse the temple upon His arrival and curses the fig tree the next day. In Mark, Jesus returns to Bethany for the night; in the morning He curses the fig tree and then cleanses the temple. Probably Matthew treats the material topically (no specific time reference for the cleansing is given in Matt. 21:12), while Mark, who places stories within stories (5:21–43; 6:7–30), treats it chronologically.

■ 11:13 not the season for figs. See note on Matt. 21:18–20.

■ 11:14 Let no one eat fruit from you ever again. Jesus curses this tree for making a display but having no fruit, just as He will judge the temple (vv. 15–17) and predict its destruction (13:2). This would indicate that the rebuilding of the temple in Jerusalem will no longer be a goal of redemptive history. Jeremiah used figs as a symbol of judgment on Jerusalem (Jer. 24).

■ 11:15 temple. That is, the Gentile court, the outermost court in the complex of structures surrounding the temple proper. It was the only area where Gentiles were allowed (cf. v. 17).

began to drive out. John 2:12–22 describes the temple cleansing at the beginning of Jesus' ministry, while all three Synoptic Gospels report one occurring at the end. It is likely that Jesus cleansed the temple twice. John's account is carefully dated (John 2:20; Mark 1:9 note), and the accounts are by no means identical. In John, Jesus comes with His disciples, and His actions recall to their minds Ps. 69:9. In the Synoptic accounts, Jesus comes in triumphal messianic glory and justifies His actions by quoting Is. 56:7 and Jer. 7:11. Jesus was no doubt aware that the prophet Jeremiah twice cursed the temple (Jer. 7:1–14; 26:2–6).

money changers. This service was necessary because the temple tax and offerings had to be paid in the local currency, but it had become so corrupt that Jesus described the scene as "a den of thieves" (v. 17; Luke 19:45, 46 note). Jesus is also judging the Sadducean high-priestly families who were not attuned to the character of the Father whose house it was (cf. 12:18–27).

■ 11:16 not allow anyone to carry wares. Not only had the court become a market, but it was being used as a shortcut by merchants of all kinds. Mark sees in Jesus' gesture a defense of Gentile rights and perhaps an indication of the future mission to the Gentiles.

■ 11:18 scribes and chief priests. Jesus acted under the eyes of those He knew would kill Him (8:31).

astonished at His teaching. See note on 1:22.

■ 11:20 dried up from the roots. This phrase indicates complete destruction (v. 14 note).

■ 11:25 anything against anyone. See Matt. 5:23, 24.

■ 11:26 This verse is lacking in certain ancient manuscripts (see text note). A similar saying is found in Matt. 6:14, 15.

Jesus' Authority Questioned

27 Then they came again to Jerusalem. [s]And as He was walking in the temple, the chief priests, the scribes, and the elders came to Him. 28 And they said to Him, "By what [t]authority are You doing these things? And who gave You this authority to do these things?"

29 But Jesus answered and said to them, "I also will ask you one question; then answer Me, and I will tell you by what authority I do these things: 30 The [u]baptism of John—was it from heaven or from men? Answer Me."

31 And they reasoned among themselves, saying, "If we say, 'From heaven,' He will say, 'Why then did you not believe him?' 32 But if we say, 'From men' "—they feared the people, for [v]all counted John to have been a prophet indeed. 33 So they answered and said to Jesus, "We do not know."

And Jesus answered and said to them, "Neither will I tell you by what authority I do these things."

The Parable of the Wicked Vinedressers

12 Then [a]He began to speak to them in parables: "A man planted a vineyard and set a hedge around it, dug a place for the wine vat and built a tower. And he leased it to [1]vinedressers and went into a far country. 2 Now at vintage-time he sent a servant to the vinedressers, that he might receive some of the fruit of the vineyard from the vinedressers. 3 And they took him and beat him and sent him away empty-handed. 4 Again he sent them another servant, [2]and at him they threw stones, wounded him in the head, and sent him away shamefully treated. 5 And again he sent another, and him they killed; and many others, [b]beating some and killing some. 6 Therefore still having one son, his beloved, he also sent him to them last, saying, 'They will respect my son.' 7 But those [3]vinedressers said among themselves, 'This is the heir. Come, let us kill him, and the inheritance will be ours.' 8 So they took him and [c]killed him and cast him out of the vineyard.

9 "Therefore what will the owner of the vineyard do? He will come and destroy the vinedressers, and give the vineyard to others. 10 Have you not even read this Scripture:

> [d]'The stone which the builders rejected
> Has become the chief cornerstone.
> 11 This was the LORD*'s doing,*
> And it is marvelous in our eyes'? "

12 [e]And they sought to lay hands on Him, but feared the multitude, for they knew He had spoken the parable against them. So they left Him and went away.

The Pharisees: Is It Lawful to Pay Taxes to Caesar?

13 [f]Then they sent to Him some of the Pharisees and the Herodians, to catch Him in His words. 14 When they had come, they said to Him, "Teacher, we know that You are true, and

■ 11:27 chief priests. See note on 11:18.

■ 11:28 By what authority. The Jerusalem "authorities" seek to expose Jesus as an upstart, with no official status to act within the temple.

■ 11:30 was it from heaven. Jesus' answer silences the officeholders and professional theologians, for it undercuts the claims of such "official" authority to be absolute. Prophetic authority cannot, by definition, have a human source (Gal. 1:11, 12). It is attested by God and demands submission. With Jesus' answer is an unspoken and ultimate question: "Do you recognize and submit to My authority?"

■ 12:1 them. This pronoun apparently refers to the chief priests and scribes since it agrees with "they" in v. 12 (those who look for a way to arrest Him). This parable was also a provocation (11:18 note).

parables. See notes on 4:2, 11. Although it is incorrect to seek a special, symbolic meaning for every detail of the parable, the essential point is clear.

vineyard. The parable is based on the "Song of the Vineyard" (Is. 5:1–5), which pictures Israel and her unfaithfulness.

■ 12:2 servant. Often a term for the prophets (Ex. 14:31; 2 Chr. 1:3; Is. 20:3; Amos 3:7), whom Jesus sees as those whom God had sent to call Israel to faithfulness and who often suffered death (Matt. 23:37).

vinedressers. Those with "official" authority over the people of God, in particular those for whom the parable is told.

■ 12:6 son, his beloved. In the three Synoptic Gospels, the theme of Jesus as God's beloved son is rare (Mark 1:11; 9:7; cf. Matt. 16:16), but it is unmistakably present.

■ 12:9 give the vineyard to others. Matt. 21:43 reads, "will be . . . given to a nation bearing the fruits of it," suggesting both the community of disciples forming around Jesus (Luke 22:29, 30) and the mission to the Gentiles (Matt. 8:11, 12; Rom. 9:22–26).

■ 12:10 The stone which the builders rejected. Jesus cites Ps. 118:22, 23; that psalm celebrates the victory that God gives to His Messiah, establishing Him on His throne. Such is the faith of Jesus in His Father and in the Scripture, that in face of the death He has just predicted for Himself ("they took him and killed him," v. 8), He can rejoice in the promised victory.

■ 12:13 Pharisees and the Herodians. The alliance between the Pharisees and the Herodians re-emerges (3:6). This alliance was possible because both parties accepted the Roman occupation, the former as divine punishment, the latter for political advantage.

■ 12:14 taxes to Caesar. In addition to numerous customs taxes, tolls, and other charges (2:14 note), each Roman province was obliged to pay

[4]care about no one; for You do not [5]regard the person of men, but teach the [g]way of God in truth. Is it lawful to pay taxes to Caesar, or not? [15] Shall we pay, or shall we not pay?"

But He, knowing their [h]hypocrisy, said to them, "Why do you test Me? Bring Me a denarius that I may see it." [16] So they brought it.

And He said to them, "Whose image and inscription is this?" They said to Him, "Caesar's."

[17] And Jesus answered and said to them, [6]"Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to [i]God the things that are God's."

And they marveled at Him.

The Sadducees: What About the Resurrection?

[18] [j]Then some Sadducees, [k]who say there is no resurrection, came to Him; and they asked Him, saying: [19] "Teacher, [l]Moses wrote to us that if a man's brother dies, and leaves his wife behind, and leaves no children, his brother should take his wife and raise up offspring for his brother. [20] Now there were seven brothers. The first took a wife; and dying, he left no offspring. [21] And the second took her, and he died; nor did he leave any offspring. And the third likewise. [22] So the seven had her and left no offspring. Last of all the woman died also. [23] Therefore, in the resurrection, when they rise, whose wife will she be? For all seven had her as wife."

[24] Jesus answered and said to them, "Are you not therefore [7]mistaken, because you do not know the Scriptures nor the power of God? [25] For when they rise from the dead, they neither marry nor are given in marriage, but [m]are like angels in heaven. [26] But concerning the dead, that they [n]rise, have you not read in the book of Moses, in the burning bush passage, how God spoke to him, saying, [o]'I am the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob'? [27] He is not the God of the dead, but the God of the living. You are therefore greatly [8]mistaken."

The Scribes: Which Is the First Commandment of All?

[28] [p]Then one of the scribes came, and having heard them reasoning together, [9]perceiving that He had answered them well, asked Him, "Which is the [1]first commandment of all?"

[29] Jesus answered him, "The [2]first of all the commandments is: [q]'Hear, O Israel, the LORD our God, the LORD is one. [30] And you shall [r]love the LORD your God with all your heart, with all your soul, with all your mind, and with all your strength.' [3]This is the first commandment. [31] And the second, like it, is this: [s]'You shall love your neighbor as yourself.' There is no other commandment greater than [t]these."

[32] So the scribe said to Him, "Well said, Teacher. You have spoken the truth, for there is one God, [u]and there is no other but He. [33] And to love Him with all the heart, with all the understanding, [4]with all the soul, and with all the strength, and to love one's neighbor as oneself, [v]is more than all the whole burnt offerings and sacrifices."

the imperial tribute. The same sum was exacted from all, rich and poor alike. This tax was very unpopular with the people.

■ 12:15 Why do you test Me. His opponents' question was apparently an attempt to brand Jesus as a political revolutionary.

denarius. Numerous currencies were in circulation in Palestine. Jesus asks for the Roman denarius, about a day's wage, bearing on one side a picture of Caesar and on the other a scene glorifying his reign.

■ 12:17 Render to Caesar. Jesus takes the occasion to affirm that Rome's political power is legitimate, as at His trial He declares that it is from God (John 19:11). The early church followed this teaching of Jesus (Rom. 13:1–7; Col. 1:16; 1 Tim. 2:1–6; Titus 3:1, 2; 1 Pet. 2:13–17).

■ 12:18 Sadducees. The high-priestly families at the time of Jesus were members of this group. The Sadducees denied the resurrection, the existence of angels, and rejected the oral tradition of the Pharisees. Their name probably derives from Zadok, David's high priest (2 Sam. 8:17; 1 Chr. 15:11; 29:22) and appointed officer over the Aaronic priestly line (1 Chr. 27:17), who was given the exclusive right to be high priest (Ezek. 40:46; 43:19).

■ 12:19 Moses wrote. The story they tell to Jesus (vv. 19–23) is based on the "kinsman-redeemer" law of Deut. 25:5–10, which provides for a family line to be perpetuated by the nearest of kin in the event of a premature death (Ruth 2:20 note).

■ 12:24 the power of God. Probably refers to the ongoing work of God and His powerful manifestations in the future (including the resurrection) through His Messiah (Luke 22:69; Rom. 1:16; 1 Cor. 1:18, 24).

■ 12:25 neither marry. The final resurrection is the transformation of the physical universe (Rom. 8:21; 1 Cor. 15:52, 53), and the creation mandate of marriage and reproduction (Gen. 1:27, 28; 2:24) will no longer be appropriate.

■ 12:26 the burning bush passage. See Ex. 3:1–6. The God who appears with miraculous power in the theophany of the burning bush is the Lord not of "the dead," but of the "living," those united to Him in an eternal covenant of grace. The teaching about resurrection, Jesus implies, is not limited to certain Old Testament proof texts (e.g., Job 19:25–27; Ps. 16:9–11; 17:15; 73:24–26; Is. 26:19; 53:11; Ezek. 37:1–14; Dan. 12:2; Hos. 6:2; 13:14), but is grounded in the Person of the living and life-giving God.

■ 12:27 You are . . . greatly mistaken. This strong phrase recalls Jesus' damning indictment of those whose father is not God but the devil (John 8:42–47).

■ 12:29 Hear, O Israel. Again the debate is about Scripture. Jesus cites Deut. 6:4, known as the "Shema" (from the Hebrew for "hear"), the central confession of Israel's monotheistic faith.

■ 12:31 the second. Jesus joins Lev. 19:18 to Deut. 6:4, 5, a text that James calls "the royal law" (James 2:8).

■ 12:33 burnt offerings. The scribe approves Jesus' answer and adds a scriptural proof of his own (1 Sam. 15:22; Hos. 6:6).

CHAPTER 13

1 [a]Matt. 24:1; Luke 21:5–36

2 [b]Luke 19:44

34 Now when Jesus saw that he answered wisely, He said to him, "You are not far from the kingdom of God."
[w]But after that no one dared question Him.

Jesus: How Can David Call His Descendant Lord?

35 [x]Then Jesus answered and said, while He taught in the temple, "How is it that the scribes say that the Christ is the Son of David? 36 For David himself said [y]by the Holy Spirit:

[z] 'The LORD said to my Lord,
"Sit at My right hand,
Till I make Your enemies Your footstool."'

37 Therefore David himself calls Him 'Lord'; how is He then his [a]Son?"
And the common people heard Him gladly.

Beware of the Scribes

38 Then [b]He said to them in His teaching, [c]"Beware of the scribes, who desire to go around in long robes, [d]love greetings in the marketplaces, 39 the [e]best seats in the synagogues, and the best places at feasts, 40 [f]who devour widows' houses, and [5]for a pretense make long prayers. These will receive greater condemnation."

The Widow's Two Mites

41 [g]Now Jesus sat opposite the treasury and saw how the people put money [h]into the treasury. And many who were rich put in much. 42 Then one poor widow came and threw in two [6]mites, which make a [7]quadrans. 43 So He called His disciples to Himself and said to them, "Assuredly, I say to you that [i]this poor widow has put in more than all those who have given to the treasury; 44 for they all put in out of their abundance, but she out of her poverty put in all that she had, [j]her whole livelihood."

Jesus Predicts the Destruction of the Temple

13 Then [a]as He went out of the temple, one of His disciples said to Him, "Teacher, see what manner of stones and what buildings are here!"
2 And Jesus answered and said to him, "Do you see these great buildings? [b]Not one stone shall be left upon another, that shall not be thrown down."

■ 12:34 not far from the kingdom. Compare the rich young ruler of 10:21 ("One thing you lack") and Nicodemus (John 3:1–21). In each case there is a need for new birth into eternal life (which is entering into the kingdom of God), something made possible by the death and resurrection of the Son of Man (John 3:3, 14, 15).

■ 12:35 temple. See note on 11:15. In addition to the Gentile court, there was also the women's court, and the court of Israel that was reserved for Jewish men.

■ 12:36 David himself. Jesus' interpretation hangs on the Davidic authorship of this psalm.

said by the Holy Spirit. Jesus ascribes to David's psalm full divine inspiration, as do His disciples later (Acts 1:16; 4:25).

■ 12:37 David himself calls Him "Lord." Jesus argues that, while the Messiah is descended from David, His royal dignity and power far surpass those of David, for David addresses this King as "my Lord" (Ps. 110:1). This king is uniquely associated with the LORD (Ps. 110:2). Such clear and faithful interpretation of Scripture is heard "gladly" (cf. Luke 24:32).

■ 12:38 Beware of the scribes. The superficiality of the scribes' messianic doctrine and exegesis brings Jesus to criticize their superficial lifestyle in general. A similar warning is found in 8:15.

■ 12:40 devour widows' houses. It was considered improper for anyone to receive a salary for interpreting the Scriptures. Consequently, they relied upon and sometimes took advantage of the hospitality of the people, among whom widows were especially vulnerable.

long prayers. See Matt. 6:5, 6 for a similar judgment of ostentatious and hypocritical spirituality.

■ 12:41 treasury. The offering boxes were situated in the women's court of the temple, which gave access to all.

■ 12:42 two mites. This coin, the lepton, was the lowest denomination in circulation.

a quadrans. A Roman coin worth one sixty-fourth of a denarius (the denarius was one day's wage). Mark translates into Greek for Gentile readers (5:41 note).

■ 13:1–37 This chapter is known as the "Little Apocalypse" or the Olivet Discourse. It makes predictions in three areas: the coming destruction of the temple (vv. 1–4); future persecutions (vv. 5–25); and the coming of the Son of Man (vv. 26–37).

■ 13:1 what manner of stones and what buildings. Herod the Great began rebuilding the temple in 19 B.C., using marble and gold as decorative materials. The outer court measured five hundred by three hundred yards. It was bordered by walls of massive white stones, some of which were sixteen feet long and three to four feet high. On top of these were magnificent, covered cloisters or walkways with richly carved wooden ceilings.

■ 13:2 Not one stone. Jerusalem was sacked and the temple burned and destroyed in A.D. 70 by Titus, the Roman general (later emperor). The Arch of Titus commemorating his victory still stands in Rome.

The Signs of the Times and the End of the Age

3 Now as He sat on the Mount of Olives opposite the temple, [c]Peter, [d]James, [e]John, and [f]Andrew asked Him privately, 4 [g]"Tell us, when will these things be? And what will be the sign when all these things will be fulfilled?"

5 And Jesus, answering them, began to say: [h]"Take heed that no one deceives you. 6 For many will come in My name, saying, 'I am He,' and will deceive many. 7 But when you hear of wars and rumors of wars, do not be troubled; for such things must happen, but the end is not yet. 8 For nation will rise against nation, and [i]kingdom against kingdom. And there will be earthquakes in various places, and there will be famines [j]and troubles. These are the beginnings of [2]sorrows.

9 "But [k]watch out for yourselves, for they will deliver you up to councils, and you will be beaten in the synagogues. You will [3]be brought before rulers and kings for My sake, for a testimony to them. 10 And [l]the gospel must first be preached to all the nations. 11 [m]But when they arrest you and deliver you up, do not worry beforehand, [4]or premeditate what you will speak. But whatever is given you in that hour, speak that; for it is not you who speak, [n]but the Holy Spirit. 12 Now [o]brother will betray brother to death, and a father his child; and children will rise up against parents and cause them to be put to death. 13 [p]And you will be hated by all for My name's sake. But [q]he who [5]endures to the end shall be saved.

The Great Tribulation

14 [r]"So when you see the [s]'abomination of desolation,' [6]spoken of by Daniel the prophet, standing where it ought not" (let the reader understand), "then [t]let those who are in Judea flee to the mountains. 15 Let him who is on the housetop not go down into the house, nor enter to take anything out of his house. 16 And let him who is in the field not go back to get his clothes. 17 [u]But woe to those who are pregnant and to those who are nursing babies in those days! 18 And pray that your flight may not be in winter. 19 [v]For in those days there will be tribulation, such as has not been since the beginning of the creation which God created until this time, nor ever shall be. 20 And unless the Lord had shortened those days, no flesh would be saved; but for the elect's sake, whom He chose, He shortened the days.

21 [w]"Then if anyone says to you, 'Look, here is the Christ!' or, 'Look, He is there!' do not

■ 13:3 Peter, James, John, and Andrew asked Him privately. Mark informs us that this teaching is part of the special instruction given to the Twelve (4:10, 11; 8:29).

■ 13:4 when will these things be. The disciples' question has in view the predicted destruction of the temple. Jesus' reply seems to include both this particular event and the time leading to the coming of the Son of Man (v. 26; cf. Matt. 24:3). The events surrounding the destruction of the temple seem to anticipate and typify those associated with the Second Coming.

■ 13:6 many will come. In A.D. 130, Bar Kokhba, the leader of a Jewish rebellion against the Romans, claimed to be and was accepted by his followers as the messiah, and the list has gone on since then.

I am He. This phrase is also the name of God (Ex. 3:14) and the title chosen by Jesus (John 8:28, 58).

■ 13:7 the end. According to the parallel text (Matt. 24:3), "the end" is "the end of the age."

■ 13:8 sorrows. See text note. The Jews expected a time of suffering before the coming of the Messiah and described it in this way, as does Paul in Rom. 8:22.

■ 13:9 councils. Synagogue councils had the right to order floggings, limited to forty strokes (Deut. 25:1–3). The apostles suffered imprisonments and floggings (Acts 4:21; 5:18, 40; 2 Cor. 6:9; 11:23, 24).

■ 13:10 preached to all nations. The time between the resurrection of Christ and His Second Coming is not simply a time of suffering and persecution, but a time of grace and of evangelism throughout the earth in fulfillment of the prophecy of Is. 49:6.

■ 13:11 what you will speak. This is a promise of special assistance in time of need, rather than a reference to the ministry of the Spirit among the Twelve in establishing their proclamation of Jesus (John 14:25, 26; 15:26, 27; 16:12–15).

■ 13:13 endures to the end. See note on v. 7. This statement may also mean the end of each person's life. Such perseverance is often associated with suffering (Rom. 8:18–25; 12:12; Heb. 10:32; 12:2; 1 Pet. 2:20).

shall be saved. Such steadfastness does not merit salvation but is the proof that true salvation, in one sense, has already taken place (Rom. 8:24).

■ 13:14 the abomination of desolation. Dan. 11:31 predicts the coming of the king of the North who will desecrate the temple. That prediction was first fulfilled in 168 B.C. when Antiochus Epiphanes set up a pagan altar and sacrificed a pig in the Most Holy Place. In A.D. 70 the Old Testament text was definitively fulfilled when Titus, the Roman general (later emperor), sacked the temple.

let the reader understand. This phrase could either be an aside by Mark (indicating that he knew the destruction of the temple had already occurred), or Jesus' own wish that His hearers, as readers of the Old Testament, would realize that He was citing Dan. 9:25–27 and 11:31 (cf. 2:25; 12:10, 26).

flee to the mountains. When the Romans on their way to Jerusalem in A.D. 69 sacked Qumran, the members of their community hid their manuscripts in caves high up in the mountains overlooking the Dead Sea. Eusebius, the fourth-century church historian, states that the Christians left Jerusalem at that time and founded the church at Pella, east of the Jordan and forty to fifty miles north of Jerusalem.

■ 13:19 tribulation, such as has not been. The Roman historian Tacitus and the Jewish historian Josephus describe the destruction of the temple as a catastrophe of supernatural dimensions, with armies appearing in the sky and a supernatural voice. According to Josephus the suffering was unparalleled.

■ 13:20 shortened. This may refer to the limited period surrounding the destruction of the temple, or to a similar period before the Second Coming, or to both (v. 4 note).

the elect's sake. The people of God (vv. 22, 27).

■ 13:21 Look, here is the Christ. See note on v. 6.

The Coming of the Son of Man

24 [z]"But in those days, after that tribulation, the sun will be darkened, and the moon will not give its light; 25 the stars of heaven will fall, and the powers in the heavens will be [a]shaken.
26 [b]Then they will see the Son of Man coming in the clouds with great power and glory. 27 And then He will send His angels, and gather together His [8]elect from the four winds, from the farthest part of earth to the farthest part of heaven.

The Parable of the Fig Tree

28 [c]"Now learn this parable from the fig tree: When its branch has already become tender, and puts forth leaves, you know that summer is near. 29 So you also, when you see these things happening, know that [9]it is near—at the doors! 30 Assuredly, I say to you, this generation will by no means pass away till all these things take place. 31 Heaven and earth will pass away, but [d]My words will by no means pass away.

No One Knows the Day or Hour

only the [f]Father. 33 [g]Take heed, watch and pray; for you do not know when the time is. 34 [h]It is know when the master of the house is coming—in the evening, at midnight, at the crowing of the rooster, or in the morning— 36 lest, coming suddenly, he find you sleeping. 37 And what I say to you, I say to all: Watch!"

The Plot to Kill Jesus

CHAPTER 14

1 [a]Luke 22:1, 2
[b]Ex. 12:1–27
[1]deception

14 After [a]two days it was the Passover and [b]the Feast of Unleavened Bread. And the chief priests and the scribes sought how they might take Him by [1]trickery and put Him to death. 2 But they said, "Not during the feast, lest there be an uproar of the people."

■ 13:22 signs and wonders. Jesus associates these with messianic manifestations, even though He recognizes such manifestations to be fraudulent.

■ 13:24 in those days. Since this is a technical Old Testament term for the last days (Jer. 3:16; Joel 3:1; Zech. 8:23), Jesus may be starting to speak of the end (cf. v. 7). According to some interpreters, in v. 26 the Second Coming is in view.

the sun will be darkened. Although these phrases often refer to the time of God's cosmic and final judgment (Is. 13:10; 34:4; Joel 2:10, 31), here they may signify another event so momentous that after it the world will never be the same again. Peter interprets Joel 2:31 in Acts 2:16–21 as a prophecy of the outpouring of the Spirit at Pentecost.

■ 13:26 coming in the clouds. Clouds sometimes signify divine presence (Ex. 19:9; 24:15–18). If the first coming of the Son of Man is characterized by suffering and humiliation (8:31 note), His future coming at the end will be an open declaration of His divine glory. Such a coming recalls the visible manifestations of God (theophanies) in the Old Testament (Ex. 19:16; 34:5; Ezek. 1:4; 10:3, 4), with the difference that this one will be universal. But vv. 24–27 may point, not to Christ's appearance in universal judgment, but to human realization that Jesus is reigning in the kingdom of God (Dan. 7:13), a realization triggered by the fall of Jerusalem (God's final judgment on the city). Then v. 27 would refer to the worldwide spread of the gospel that followed that event. The "angels" there would be the messengers of the gospel (angelos is the Greek word for "messenger," either human or angelic). On this view, Jesus' first reference to the end (His Second Coming) is not until v. 32 ("that day").

■ 13:27 from the four winds. A poetic way of affirming the universality of the new people of God.

■ 13:28 fig tree. There does not seem to be any specific symbolic sense to this "fig tree" (such as the re-emergence of the nation of Israel), especially since the parallel passage (Luke 21:29) adds "and all the trees." Jesus is simply saying that just as there are signs of what is to come in the natural realm, so it is in the spiritual.

■ 13:30 this generation. For the event of the destruction of the temple, the phrase refers to Jesus' own generation.

■ 13:31 Heaven and earth will pass away. Jesus makes His words equal to the words of Scripture, with eternal value (cf. Matt. 5:18). See "The Teaching of Jesus" at Matt. 7:28.

■ 13:32 nor the Son. Jesus was conscious of His unique relationship to the Father as the eternal Son, yet there was a limitation of His knowledge during His incarnation. What the Father had not revealed to Him about the future He did not know. In that sense the man Jesus (the Son with regard to His human nature) was not omniscient.

■ 13:35 in the evening. See 6:48 note.

■ 14:1 After two days. That is, "on the second (or 'next') day"; compare 8:31. Mark appears to place the plotting of the chief priests and scribes on Wednesday of Passion Week.

the Passover. The Passover was one of the most important of the Jewish feasts, since it celebrated the deliverance from Egypt when the angel of death "passed over" the homes of the people of Israel (Ex. 12:1–30). At the time of Jesus, the Passover was celebrated on the fifteenth day of the first month of the Jewish calendar (Nisan, which corresponds to the end of March and beginning of April). It was observed the last day before the first full moon after the spring equinox. From that day when the paschal lambs were killed and eaten, all leaven (symbolizing sin) was to be removed from the house, and only unleavened bread was to be eaten for seven days. This observance was known as the "Feast of Unleavened Bread" (14:12; Ex. 12:15–20), and was closely associated with Passover.

The Anointing at Bethany

3 [c]And being in Bethany at the house of Simon the leper, as He sat at the table, a woman came having an alabaster flask of very costly [2]oil of spikenard. Then she broke the flask and poured it on His head. 4 But there were some who were indignant among themselves, and said, "Why was this fragrant oil wasted? 5 For it might have been sold for more than three hundred [d]denarii and given to the poor." And they [e]criticized[3] her sharply.

6 But Jesus said, "Let her alone. Why do you trouble her? She has done a good work for Me. 7 [f]For you have the poor with you always, and whenever you wish you may do them good; [g]but Me you do not have always. 8 She has done what she could. She has come beforehand to anoint My body for burial. 9 Assuredly, I say to you, wherever this gospel is [h]preached in the whole world, what this woman has done will also be told as a memorial to her."

Judas Agrees to Betray Jesus

10 [i]Then Judas Iscariot, one of the twelve, went to the chief priests to betray Him to them. 11 And when they heard it, they were glad, and promised to give him money. So he sought how he might conveniently betray Him.

Jesus Celebrates the Passover with His Disciples

12 [j]Now on the first day of Unleavened Bread, when they [4]killed the Passover lamb, His disciples said to Him, "Where do You want us to go and prepare, that You may eat the Passover?"

13 And He sent out two of His disciples and said to them, "Go into the city, and a man will meet you carrying a pitcher of water; follow him. 14 Wherever he goes in, say to the master of the house, 'The Teacher says, "Where is the guest room in which I may eat the Passover with My disciples?" ' 15 Then he will show you a large upper room, furnished and prepared; there make ready for us."

16 So His disciples went out, and came into the city, and found it just as He had said to them; and they prepared the Passover.

17 [k]In the evening He came with the twelve. 18 Now as they sat and ate, Jesus said, "Assuredly, I say to you, [l]one of you who eats with Me will betray Me."

19 And they began to be sorrowful, and to say to Him one by one, "Is it I?" [5]And another said, "Is it I?"

feasts, the Passover drew enormous numbers of people to Jerusalem. Josephus estimated that the population of 50,000 increased to 3,000,000. Though his figures are generally considered greatly exaggerated (250,000 is more likely), there was a reason for the authorities' fears.

■ 14:3 Bethany. See note on 11:1.

Simon the leper. No doubt no longer a leper, he may have been healed by Jesus. He was clearly an important member of the wider circle of disciples since Jesus chose to visit his house at this time.

sat. People reclined rather than sat at the table (Luke 22:14 note).

a woman. According to John 12:3, this woman was Mary, the sister of Lazarus and Martha. John also indicates that the meal occurred "six days before the Passover" (John 12:1), before Jesus had entered Jerusalem. Mark may have placed the account here to more closely associate this pre-anointing for burial (v. 8 note) with the plot to kill Jesus (v. 1), and was subsequently followed by Matthew (Matt. 26:3–13).

alabaster flask. Alabaster is a type of gypsum, in its pure form white or translucent, found in limestone deposits in caves and at the exit of springs. It was often used for making ointment jars, and was considered a luxury item.

spikenard. A rare perfume made from the root of a plant grown in the Himalayas. Its value of "three hundred denarii" (v. 5) was roughly equivalent to a year's wages.

broke the flask. To prevent loss, amounts suitable for a single application were sealed into flasks that were then broken at the neck at the time of use. According to John 12:3, the flask contained twelve ounces of perfume.

■ 14:6 a good work. Jesus approves of what others see as a waste, for by this gesture she shows the inestimable worth of Jesus, of His death (v. 8), and of the profound communion that His sacrifice on the cross will establish. This gesture recalls the precious ointment poured over Aaron the high priest, which the psalmist compares to the priceless blessing of the fellowship of believers (Ps. 133).

■ 14:8 anoint My body for burial. Jesus alludes to the anointing of dead bodies with spices and perfume that was widely practiced in Palestine at that time.

■ 14:10 Judas Iscariot. Judas was to receive thirty silver coins (not even half the value of the perfume) for his betrayal of Jesus (v. 11).

the twelve. See note on 3:14.

■ 14:12 Unleavened Bread. This feast symbolized the removal of sin in the life of Israelite believers (Ex. 12:14–20). The Passover meal fell on the first day of this feast (v. 1 note; Ex. 12:14, 15), the fourteenth day after the beginning of the Jewish year (Ex. 12:6).

killed the Passover lamb. Jesus died at Passover, the feast that celebrates how the blood of a lamb protected the Israelites in Egypt from God's wrath. Jesus' death shows the profound continuity in the divine plan of redemption (cf. 1 Cor. 5:7). In the order of these feasts is affirmed the priority of God's act of salvation (Passover and redemption) over against all our works of righteousness (Feast of Unleavened Bread and the believer's putting away of sin).

■ 14:13 man . . . carrying a pitcher of water. Women usually carried water jars. For Jesus' knowledge of future and distant events, see 11:1, 2 and John 1:48. Jesus could and did exercise on earth divine powers of knowledge (13:32 note).

■ 14:17 with the twelve. The Gospels record that those present at this high point in the ministry of Jesus were the Twelve He had chosen at the beginning (cf. 3:14). According to Luke 22:30, at this time Jesus announced their future ministry as judges of the new people of God. They were witnesses at the inauguration of the new covenant.

20 He answered and said to them, "It is one of the twelve, who dips with Me in the dish.
21 [m]The Son of Man indeed goes just as it is written of Him, but woe to that man by whom the Son of Man is betrayed! It would have been good for that man if he had never been born."

Jesus Institutes the Lord's Supper

22 [n]And as they were eating, Jesus took bread, blessed and broke it, and gave it to them and said, "Take, [6]eat; this is My [o]body."
23 Then He took the cup, and when He had given thanks He gave it to them, and they all drank from it. 24 And He said to them, "This is My blood of the [7]new covenant, which is shed for many. 25 Assuredly, I say to you, I will no longer drink of the fruit of the vine until that day when I drink it new in the kingdom of God."
26 [p]And when they had sung [8]a hymn, they went out to the Mount of Olives.

Jesus Predicts Peter's Denial

27 [q]Then Jesus said to them, "All of you will be made to stumble [9]because of Me this night, for it is written:

> [r]'I will strike the Shepherd,
> And the sheep will be scattered.'

28 "But [s]after I have been raised, I will go before you to Galilee."
29 [t]Peter said to Him, "Even if all are made to [1]stumble, yet I will not be."
30 Jesus said to him, "Assuredly, I say to you that today, even this night, before the rooster crows twice, you will deny Me three times."
31 But he spoke more vehemently, "If I have to die with You, I will not deny You!"
And they all said likewise.

The Prayer in the Garden

32 [u]Then they came to a place which was named Gethsemane; and He said to His disciples, "Sit here while I pray." 33 And He [v]took Peter, James, and John with Him, and He began to be troubled and deeply distressed. 34 Then He said to them, [w]"My soul is exceedingly sorrowful, even to death. Stay here and watch."
35 He went a little farther, and fell on the ground, and prayed that if it were possible, the hour might pass from Him. 36 And He said, [x]"Abba, Father, [y]all things are possible for You. Take this cup away from Me; [z]nevertheless, not what I will, but what You will."
37 Then He came and found them sleeping, and said to Peter, "Simon, are you sleeping? Could you not watch one hour? 38 [a]Watch and pray, lest you enter into temptation. [b]The spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak."

■ 14:20 one of the twelve. Jesus' prediction of the betrayal comes from His intimate knowledge of Judas, and also from His understanding of the Scriptures (v. 21; Ps. 41:9).

dips with Me in the dish. Bread or meat was dipped into a central bowl of sauce. The detail emphasizes the deep personal betrayal, since table fellowship was a token of genuine friendship (cf. 2:16).

■ 14:21 as it is written. See 8:31 note.

■ 14:22 as they were eating. The sacramental meal of the new covenant is intrinsically related to and grows out of that of the old (note the parallelism with Ex. 24:9–11). Jesus takes two elements of the Passover meal, unleavened bread and wine, to express His new work of redemption. See "The Lord's Supper" at 1 Cor. 11:23.

■ 14:24 My blood. In the original Passover the blood of the lamb protected the Israelites from death (Ex. 12:23, 30). The phrase "blood of the covenant" comes from Ex. 24:8, and recalls that biblical covenants are sealed in blood (Gen. 15:9–21; 17:9–14; Ex. 24:4–8).

shed for many. Jesus is alluding to Is. 53:12 where the Servant of the Lord "poured out His soul unto death" and "bore the sin of many."

■ 14:25 I will no longer drink. Jesus is hereby predicting the imminence of His death.

drink it new. Jesus expresses His faith in God who will not abandon Him in death.

■ 14:26 sung a hymn. This mention of singing is a reference to the Passover liturgy. Jesus and His disciples sing Ps. 115—118, the traditional close of the meal.

■ 14:28 to Galilee. The angel at the tomb remembers this promise and alludes to Peter's denial (16:7).

■ 14:30 before the rooster crows twice. For other examples of Jesus' knowledge of future events, see note on v. 13. The seemingly specific reference could also be a poetic way of saying "before dawn."

■ 14:33 Peter, James and John. See note on 5:37.

troubled. This verb is unique to Mark, and each time expresses deep emotional distress (9:15; 16:5, 6).

■ 14:36 Abba. A colloquial Aramaic word for "father," which expresses Jesus' close relation with God the Father. Mark records the Semitic word (5:41; 7:34; 11:9; 14:45; 15:22, 34).

cup. See note on 10:38.

■ 14:37 one hour. In spite of noble intentions (14:29, 31), Peter is incapable of one hour of true discipleship.

■ 14:38 Watch. This exhortation recalls the warning of 13:32–37 to watch and not fall asleep before the coming of the Son of Man. "Temptation" is the trap of Satan to cause God's people (in this case the Twelve) to fall and, if possible, to bring to nothing the plan of redemption.

39 Again He went away and prayed, and spoke the same words. 40 And when He returned, He found them asleep again, for their eyes were heavy; and they did not know what to answer Him.

41 Then He came the third time and said to them, "Are you still sleeping and resting? It is enough! [c]The hour has come; behold, the Son of Man is being betrayed into the hands of sinners. 42 [d]Rise, let us be going. See, My betrayer is at hand."

Betrayal and Arrest in Gethsemane

43 [e]And immediately, while He was still speaking, Judas, one of the twelve, with a great multitude with swords and clubs, came from the chief priests and the scribes and the elders. 44 Now His betrayer had given them a signal, saying, "Whomever I [f]kiss, He is the One; seize Him and lead Him away safely."

45 As soon as he had come, immediately he went up to Him and said to Him, "Rabbi, Rabbi!" and kissed Him.

46 Then they laid their hands on Him and took Him. 47 And one of those who stood by drew his sword and struck the servant of the high priest, and cut off his ear.

48 [g]Then Jesus answered and said to them, "Have you come out, as against a robber, with swords and clubs to take Me? 49 I was daily with you in the temple [h]teaching, and you did not seize Me. But [i]the Scriptures must be fulfilled."

50 [j]Then they all forsook Him and fled.

A Young Man Flees Naked

51 Now a certain young man followed Him, having a linen cloth thrown around his naked body. And the young men laid hold of him, 52 and he left the linen cloth and fled from them naked.

Jesus Faces the Sanhedrin

53 [k]And they led Jesus away to the high priest; and with him were [l]assembled all the [m]chief priests, the elders, and the scribes. 54 But [n]Peter followed Him at a distance, right into the courtyard of the high priest. And he sat with the servants and warmed himself at the fire.

55 [o]Now the chief priests and all the council sought testimony against Jesus to put Him to death, but found none. 56 For many bore [p]false witness against Him, but their testimonies [2]did not agree.

57 Then some rose up and bore false witness against Him, saying, 58 "We heard Him say, [q]'I will destroy this temple made with hands, and within three days I will build another made without hands.' " 59 But not even then did their testimony agree.

60 [r]And the high priest stood up in the midst and asked Jesus, saying, "Do You answer nothing? What is it these men testify against You?" 61 But [s]He kept silent and answered nothing.

■ 14:43 multitude. Probably a force sent by the Sanhedrin since the three categories of members of that body are mentioned (v. 53; 8:31 note).

■ 14:44 kiss. A sign of respect that disciples showed to teachers. After eating from the same dish (v. 20 note) Judas now feigns submission and respect.

■ 14:48 as against a robber. The Greek can mean either "robber" or "insurrectionist," but in view of the charges brought against Jesus at His trial (Luke 23:2), "insurrectionist" is better.

■ 14:49 the Scriptures must be fulfilled. See note on 8:31. In view of v. 50, the passage Jesus had in mind may be Zech. 13:7 (see v. 27).

■ 14:51 young man. Some interpreters have suggested that in this cryptic detail, as in the mention of the linen garment (a sign of wealth), there might be a veiled reference to Mark himself, since he was from a well-to-do family in Jerusalem (Acts 12:12).

■ 14:53—15:15 This section of the narrative concerns Jesus' trials before the Jews and the Romans. These trials were full of errors and irregularities, with the principles of justice subordinated to expediency and politics. The Jewish trial had three parts: a hearing before Annas (reported only in John 18:12–14, 19–23); a trial before the Sanhedrin, led by Caiaphas in his house (14:53–65); and an early morning session of the Sanhedrin (15:1). The Roman trial was likewise in three parts: before Pilate (15:2–5); before Herod Antipas, (reported only in Luke 23:6–12); and before Pilate again (15:6–15).

■ 14:54 courtyard of the high priest. Normally the Sanhedrin held its sessions in the market area near the temple. This trial took place in the high priest's residence. The trial was irregular in time (at night) and place, and in its unusual haste.

■ 14:57 false witness. Deut. 19:15–21 requires that for guilt to be established there must be two or three corroborating witnesses. False witnesses would receive the same punishment that the accused was threatened with. These regulations were not applied in the case of Jesus.

■ 14:58 I will destroy this temple made with hands. The first three (Synoptic) Gospels do not record Jesus saying this. However, it is found in John's account of the temple cleansing (John 2:19). This would support the probability that Christ cleansed the temple twice, since the lapse of three years would help explain the false witnesses' garbled version.

■ 14:61 Christ. From the Greek word meaning "anointed one." "Messiah" represents the Hebrew word of the same meaning (1 Sam. 2:10 note).

Son of the Blessed. "The Blessed" is an indirect substitute for "God," used by the Jews to avoid the risk of taking God's name in vain. The whole title means "Son of God," and in the context indicates royal messiahship rather than absolute divinity.

[t]Again the high priest asked Him, saying to Him, "Are You the Christ, the Son of the Blessed?"

62 Jesus said, "I am. [u]And you will see the Son of Man sitting at the right hand of the Power, and coming with the clouds of heaven."

63 Then the high priest tore his clothes and said, "What further need do we have of witnesses? 64 You have heard the [v]blasphemy! What do you think?"

And they all condemned Him to be deserving of [w]death.

65 Then some began to [x]spit on Him, and to blindfold Him, and to beat Him, and to say to Him, "Prophesy!" And the officers [3]struck Him with the palms of their hands.

Peter Denies Jesus, and Weeps

66 [y]Now as Peter was below in the courtyard, one of the servant girls of the high priest came. 67 And when she saw Peter warming himself, she looked at him and said, "You also were with [z]Jesus of Nazareth."

68 But he denied it, saying, "I neither know nor understand what you are saying." And he went out on the porch, and a rooster crowed.

69 [a]And the servant girl saw him again, and began to say to those who stood by, "This is one of them." 70 But he denied it again.

[b]And a little later those who stood by said to Peter again, "Surely you are one of them; [c]for you are a Galilean, [4]and your [5]speech shows it."

71 Then he began to curse and swear, "I do not know this Man of whom you speak!"

72 [d]A second time the rooster crowed. Then Peter called to mind the word that Jesus had said to him, "Before the rooster crows twice, you will deny Me three times." And when he thought about it, he wept.

Jesus Faces Pilate

15 Immediately, [a]in the morning, the chief priests held a consultation with the elders and scribes and the whole council; and they bound Jesus, led Him away, and [b]delivered Him to Pilate. 2 [c]Then Pilate asked Him, "Are You the King of the Jews?"

He answered and said to him, "It is as you say."

3 And the chief priests accused Him of many things, but He [d]answered nothing. 4 [e]Then Pilate asked Him again, saying, "Do You answer nothing? See how many things [f]they testify against You!" 5 [f]But Jesus still answered nothing, so that Pilate marveled.

Taking the Place of Barabbas

6 Now [g]at the feast he was accustomed to releasing one prisoner to them, whomever they requested. 7 And there was one named Barabbas, who was chained with his fellow rebels; they had committed murder in the rebellion. 8 Then the multitude, [2]crying aloud, began to ask him to do

■ 14:62 I am. See notes on 6:50; 13:6.

Son of Man. See note on 2:10. Jesus modifies the title "Messiah" in terms of the divine figure of Dan. 7.

clouds. See note on 13:26.

■ 14:63 tore his clothes. A symbolic gesture expressing great sorrow or horror (Gen. 37:29; 2 Kin. 18:37; 19:1; Ezra 9:3; Jer. 36:24; Joel 2:13).

further need . . . of witnesses. The high priest makes the whole Sanhedrin witness to Jesus' blasphemy.

■ 14:64 blasphemy. Jesus is condemned, not for insurrection, but for His claim to deity, the essence of His message. The prescribed punishment for blasphemy (insulting the honor of God's name) was death by stoning (Lev. 24:16), but at this time only Roman courts could order capital punishment. Jesus would die by a Roman punishment (John 18:31, 32 and notes).

■ 14:65 spit on Him. In their agreement with the accusation of the high priest, all the members of the Sanhedrin "condemned Him" (v. 64), and some expressing their agreement with physical and personal violence. Spitting in the face indicated exclusion from the group (Num. 12:14, 15), as if by ritual defilement. At this point, the Sanhedrin broke decisively with the Messiah.

■ 14:67 of Nazareth. See note on 1:24.

■ 14:70 Galilean. The Jews of Judea held the Galilean Jews in contempt as culturally and religiously inferior. Peter's manner and accent gave him away, especially in the courtyard of a Sadducean aristocrat.

■ 15:1 Immediately, in the morning. Probably at dawn. The purpose of the new meeting was apparently to draw up a civil charge (cf. Luke 23:2).

Pilate. The Apostles' Creed mentions Pilate as the representative of Rome who faced Jesus in this trial. Pilate was Roman governor of Judea from A.D. 26 to 36. As magistrate, only he had the legal right to pronounce capital sentences (14:64 note).

■ 15:2 King of the Jews. This title is ambiguous. In a political sense, the Herods were kings and Jesus was not. Nevertheless Jesus was King of the Jews, offered to them as the fulfillment of their messianic hopes.

■ 15:4 Do You answer nothing. Pilate apparently wanted to make Jesus realize that, before the law, silence meant consent.

■ 15:7 Barabbas. Apparently he was an insurrectionist seeking the military overthrow of Rome. Matt. 27:16 (in some manuscripts) gives his first name as "Jesus," a common name of the period. The choice Pilate proposes to the crowd (v. 9) is unwittingly ironic: Jesus Barabbas, the would-be political savior of Israel, or Jesus of Nazareth, the true Savior of the world.

just as he had always done for them. 9 But Pilate answered them, saying, "Do you want me to release to you the King of the Jews?" 10 For he knew that the chief priests had handed Him over because of envy.

11 But [h]the chief priests stirred up the crowd, so that he should rather release Barabbas to them. 12 Pilate answered and said to them again, "What then do you want me to do with Him whom you call the [i]King of the Jews?"

13 So they cried out again, "Crucify Him!"

14 Then Pilate said to them, "Why, [j]what evil has He done?"

But they cried out all the more, "Crucify Him!"

15 [k]So Pilate, wanting to gratify the crowd, released Barabbas to them; and he delivered Jesus, after he had scourged Him, to be [l]crucified.

The Soldiers Mock Jesus

16 [m]Then the soldiers led Him away into the hall called [3]Praetorium, and they called together the whole garrison. 17 And they clothed Him with purple; and they twisted a crown of thorns, put it on His head, 18 and began to salute Him, "Hail, King of the Jews!" 19 Then they [n]struck Him on the head with a reed and spat on Him; and bowing the knee, they worshiped Him. 20 And when they had [o]mocked Him, they took the purple off Him, put His own clothes on Him, and led Him out to crucify Him.

The King on a Cross

21 [p]Then they compelled a certain man, Simon a Cyrenian, the father of Alexander and Rufus, as he was coming out of the country and passing by, to bear His cross. 22 [q]And they brought Him to the place Golgotha, which is translated, Place of a Skull. 23 [r]Then they gave Him wine mingled with myrrh to drink, but He did not take it. 24 And when they crucified Him, [s]they divided His garments, casting lots for them to determine what every man should take.

25 Now [t]it was the third hour, and they crucified Him. 26 And [u]the inscription of His [4]accusation was written above:

THE KING OF THE JEWS.

27 [v]With Him they also crucified two robbers, one on His right and the other on His left. 28 [5]So the Scripture was fulfilled which says, [w]"And He was numbered with the transgressors."

■ 15:13 Crucify. Of Persian origin and adopted by the Romans, this cruel and shameful form of capital punishment was used mainly against rebellious slaves and insurrectionists. Metal spikes were driven through the wrists or hands (John 20:25) and heels of the victim who suffered terrible pain. Death usually resulted over the course of days from the effects of the injuries, hunger, dehydration, and exposure. Breaking the condemned's legs (John 19:33) caused rapid death by asphyxiation, since the legs could no longer lift the body to help the person breathe. As Paul notes, the crucifixion of Jesus brought Him publicly under the curse of God (Gal. 3:13; cf. Deut. 21:23).

■ 15:15 scourged. In Roman custom flogging preceded crucifixion.

■ 15:16 Praetorium. Originally the word for a military headquarters or barracks generally. In the Gospels it refers to an official residence (cf. Acts 23:35).

whole garrison. Lit. "cohort" or tenth part of a Roman legion of nominally six hundred men.

■ 15:17 clothed Him with purple. Purple was expensive and hard to produce, and for this reason was a mark of high rank (Esth. 1:6; Prov. 31:22; Luke 16:19; Rev. 17:4), especially of royalty (2 Chr. 2:7, 14; 3:14; Song 3:10).

crown of thorns. Jesus bore the divine curse (v. 13 note) on the ground, which produced thorns after Adam sinned (Gen. 3:17, 18). The soldiers used the crown to ridicule the idea that Jesus was a king.

■ 15:18 Hail. This salutation and the homage paid (v. 19) are mockeries of the respect due to royalty.

■ 15:21 Cyrenian. Cyrene was an important city in what is today Libya. There was a large Jewish settlement in Cyrene going back several hundred years (Acts 6:9).

Alexander and Rufus. Simon's sons may have been members of the Christian community to which Mark wrote, probably at Rome (cf. Rom. 16:13).

bear His cross. Usually the condemned man would carry the crossbeam, weighing thirty to forty pounds. Simon, in taking up the cross of Jesus, became a visual image of the true discipleship that Jesus demands (8:34).

■ 15:22 Place of a Skull. An ominous name, possibly referring to the shape of the hill where executions were carried out.

■ 15:23 wine mingled with myrrh. A primitive form of painkiller. Myrrh was an expensive spice used as a cosmetic. It was offered to Jesus at His birth as a gift for a king (Matt. 2:11), and used in His burial by Nicodemus (John 19:39, 40).

■ 15:24 divided His garments. These were the spoils reserved for the execution squad. This seemingly unimportant detail is a fulfillment of Ps. 22:18, a psalm that describes the agony of a violent and undeserved death (Ps. 22:16).

■ 15:25 third hour. About 9:00 A.M.

■ 15:26 His accusation. Called the titulus in Latin, this was a sign carried before the prisoner on the way to execution, and affixed to the cross over his head.

■ 15:27 two robbers. Though the Greek word often means "robber," it can also mean "insurrectionist" (14:48 note) or more generally "criminal." Since robbery was not punishable by crucifixion (v. 13 note), one of the latter two meanings is more probable here.

■ 15:28 This verse is lacking in the most ancient manuscripts, although it is present in the vast majority of existing manuscripts. It is possible that early copyists inserted the citation of Is. 53:12, relying on the parallel passage of Luke 22:37.

31 Likewise the chief priests also, [a]mocking among themselves with the scribes, said, "He saved [b]others; Himself He cannot save. 32 Let the Christ, the King of Israel, descend now from the cross, that we may see and [6]believe."

Even [c]those who were crucified with Him reviled Him.

Jesus Dies on the Cross

33 Now [d]when the sixth hour had come, there was darkness over the whole land until the ninth hour. 34 And at the ninth hour Jesus cried out with a loud voice, saying, "Eloi, Eloi, lama sabachthani?" which is translated, [e]"My God, My God, why have You forsaken Me?"

35 Some of those who stood by, when they heard that, said, "Look, He is calling for Elijah!" 36 Then [f]someone ran and filled a sponge full of sour wine, put it on a reed, and [g]offered it to Him to drink, saying, "Let Him alone; let us see if Elijah will come to take Him down."

37 [h]And Jesus cried out with a loud voice, and breathed His last.

38 Then [i]the veil of the temple was torn in two from top to bottom. 39 So [j]when the centurion, who stood opposite Him, saw that [7]He cried out like this and breathed His last, he said, "Truly this Man was the Son of God!"

40 [k]There were also women looking on [l]from afar, among whom were Mary Magdalene, Mary the mother of James the Less and of Joses, and Salome, 41 who also [m]followed Him and ministered to Him when He was in Galilee, and many other women who came up with Him to Jerusalem.

■ 15:29 See note on 14:58.

■ 15:30 come down. This is both an insult and a diabolical temptation similar to those proposed to Jesus at the beginning of His ministry (Matt. 4:2–6). The devil is still seeking to subvert the work of redemption at the very moment of its accomplishment, when Jesus is at His greatest physical weakness (14:38).

darkness. This recalls the darkness in Egypt, which lasted three days before the death of the firstborn sons (Ex. 10:22). See also the prophecy of Amos 8:9, 10 where the Lord promises to "darken the earth in broad daylight," in a time "like mourning for an only son."

ninth hour. About 3:00 P.M.

■ 15:34 Eloi . . . sabachthani. This is the first verse of Ps. 22 in Aramaic. Even in the jaws of death, Jesus' life is determined by what is written in Scripture.

■ 15:35 Elijah. Some mistook the word "Eloi" for "Elijah," perhaps because in some circles it was believed that Elijah would return (6:15; 8:28).

■ 15:36 sour wine. A cheap wine that has almost become vinegar. Unlike the offer of wine and myrrh (v. 23), there is no humanitarian desire to relieve the suffering here, but rather a cruel intention to prolong it by reviving Jesus, in order to see if "Elijah" would come at His call.

■ 15:37 cried out with a loud voice. Jesus had been hanging on the cross for six hours (vv. 25, 34). Crucifixion could last two or three days (v. 13 note).

■ 15:38 the veil of the temple was torn in two. The death of Jesus is the final and definitive sacrifice for sin (Heb. 7:27). The old dispensation of the covenant of grace is brought to a decisive end. No longer would the high priest need to enter into the Most Holy Place behind the veil to atone for the sins of the people (Ex. 26:31–33; cf. Heb. 9:1–10). Jesus is the new and eternal High Priest (Heb. 8:1), and also the perfect sacrificial victim (Heb. 9:14) who obtains for His people "eternal redemption" (Heb. 9:12).

■ 15:39 centurion. A Roman officer responsible for one hundred men. This centurion was apparently responsible for the detachment that put Jesus to death. He was well placed to observe the death of Jesus.

Son of God. The Greek could be translated "a son of God." A Roman would not see in this term the Old Testament Messiah nor the eternal Son of the Trinity, but rather the Hellenistic idea of a human being favored by the gods. Nevertheless, the confession stands as the goal and climax of Mark's Gospel, filled with the content of the Christian message (cf. 1:1).

■ 15:40 Mary Magdalene. That is, from Magdala on the southwestern shore of the Sea of Galilee (cf. 16:9; Luke 8:2).

Mary the mother of James the Less and of Joses. Known only from this incident (cf. Matt. 27:56).

Salome. Mother of James and John (Matt. 27:56; cf. 20:20, 21).

■ 15:41 many other women. All the men had fled, except the beloved disciple (John 19:26, 35).

■ 15:42 Preparation Day. The day before the Sabbath (Friday; John 19:14 note). Food was prepared before sunset, when the Sabbath began. Joseph would have to buy the linen, make arrangements for Jesus' burial, and ready the tomb (vv. 43–46) in the three hours remaining between Jesus' death and sunset.

■ 15:43 Joseph of Arimathea. Perhaps from Ramah in Judea, twenty miles northwest of Jerusalem, the city of the prophet Samuel (1 Sam. 1:1). See note on Luke 23:50, 51.

council. The Sanhedrin (8:31 note).

coming and taking courage. This is apparently Joseph's first act of faith, but it comes at a time when all Jesus' own disciples had fled. Joseph puts himself in conflict with the decision of the Sanhedrin, and jeopardizes his entire future.

Jesus. 44 Pilate marveled that He was already dead; and summoning the centurion, he asked him if He had been dead for some time. 45 So when he found out from the centurion, he granted the body to Joseph. 46[p] Then he bought fine linen, took Him down, and wrapped Him in the linen. And he laid Him in a tomb which had been hewn out of the rock, and rolled a stone against the door of the tomb. 47 And Mary Magdalene and Mary the mother of Joses observed where He was laid.

He Is Risen

16 Now [a] when the Sabbath was past, Mary Magdalene, Mary the mother of James, and Salome [b] bought spices, that they might come and anoint Him. 2 [c] Very early in the morning, on the first day of the week, they came to the tomb when the sun had risen. 3 And they said among themselves, "Who will roll away the stone from the door of the tomb for us?" 4 But when they looked up, they saw that the stone had been rolled away—for it was very large. 5 [d] And entering the tomb, they saw a young man clothed in a long white robe sitting on the right side; and they were alarmed.

6 [e] But he said to them, "Do not be alarmed. You seek Jesus of Nazareth, who was crucified. He is risen! He is not here. See the place where they laid Him. 7 But go, tell His disciples—and Peter—that He is going [1] before you into Galilee; there you will see Him, [f] as He said to you."

8 So they went out [2] quickly and fled from the tomb, for they trembled and were amazed. [g] And they said nothing to anyone, for they were afraid.

Mary Magdalene Sees the Risen Lord

9 [3] Now when He rose early on the first day of the week, He appeared first to Mary Magdalene, [h] out of whom He had cast seven demons. 10 [i] She went and told those who had been with Him, as they mourned and wept. 11 [j] And when they heard that He was alive and had been seen by her, they did not believe.

Jesus Appears to Two Disciples

12 After that, He appeared in another form [k] to two of them as they walked and went into the country. 13 And they went and told it to the rest, but they did not believe them either.

The Great Commission

14 [l] Later He appeared to the eleven as they sat at the table; and He rebuked their unbelief and hardness of heart, because they did not believe those who had seen Him after He had risen.

■ 15:44 Pilate marveled. Pilate's surprise again confirms the unusual character of Jesus' death (v. 37 note).

■ 15:46 tomb . . . hewn out of the rock. According to Matt. 27:60, the tomb belonged to Joseph and his family. Such a family burial site would consist of an ornately painted vestibule from which a passageway would lead to individual benches or shelves cut into the rock where the bodies were laid. The tomb would be sealed by a heavy stone that was rolled along a groove cut into the rock at the entrance.

■ 16:1 Sabbath was past. At sunset (6:00 P.M.) on Saturday evening, a time appropriate for buying spices but not for visiting tombs.

anoint. Anointing was a way of showing affection (14:8 note), as in the West today one sends flowers.

■ 16:3 Who will roll away the stone. They had seen the "very large" (v. 4) stone put in its place (15:46 note).

■ 16:5 entering the tomb. They entered the vestibule of the burial chamber, at the far end of which was the individual niche (a bench or shelf) where Jesus' body had been laid (15:46 note).

young man. Matt. 28:2 says the women met an angel at the tomb.

■ 16:6 of Nazareth. See note on 1:24.

He is risen. If the Gospel of Mark reaches its climax in the confession that Jesus is the Son of God (15:39 note), a second climax is reached with the declaration of His resurrection, which attests that His preaching concerning the coming of the kingdom in power is true. See notes on 1:15 and 9:1; "The Resurrection of Jesus" at Luke 24:2.

■ 16:7 and Peter. These two words make all the difference in the enormous role that Peter would play in the subsequent history of redemption. By them Mark indicates, as he brings his Gospel to an end (16:9–20 note), that Jesus' work of preparation of the Twelve will not be lost.

He is going before. See note on 14:28.

■ 16:8 afraid. If vv. 9–20 are not original (see below), then the Gospel of Mark ends with this sentence. This would be a surprising conclusion for a document that purports to be a "gospel," a proclamation of "good news." An opposing consideration is that the word translated "afraid" also means "reverential fear," and the same state of mind is produced in the disciples at the sight of Jesus' transfiguration (9:6), a type of the future resurrection. But the women's initial silence was really disobedience (v. 7).

■ 16:9–20 Scholars differ regarding whether these verses were originally part of this Gospel. Some important early Greek manuscripts lack these verses, other manuscripts have vv. 9–20 (known as the "Longer Ending"), and still others have a "Shorter Ending" (roughly one verse long). A few manuscripts have both the "Shorter Ending" and the "Longer Ending." Because of these differences, some scholars believe that vv. 9–20 were added later and not written by Mark. On the other hand, the verses are cited by writers from the late second century and are found in the overwhelming majority of existing Greek manuscripts of the Gospel of Mark. For other scholars, these facts establish the authenticity of the passage.

■ 16:9 Mary Magdalene. See note on 15:40.

■ 16:12 two of them. Compare Luke 24:13–35.

Stories about some of the apostles surviving being forced to drink poison are found in early Christian literature outside the Bible.

The Gospel According to

LUKE

Author It is commonly accepted that Luke and Acts have a single author; the style and vocabulary are similar and both books are addressed to Theophilus. Although the author never names himself, several passages using the pronoun "we" suggest that the author was a companion of Paul on some of his travels (Acts 16:10–17; 20:5–16; 21:1–18; 27:1—28:16). Among the persons named in the letters Paul wrote from Rome (where the "we" sections end), the most likely candidate is Luke. In agreement with this, tradition unanimously ascribes the book to Luke (see "Introduction to Acts").

The preface to Luke shows that the writer was not an eyewitness of the events recorded in the Gospel. All of Luke and Acts shows that Luke was a man of culture who had searched out the information he needed, but was not one of the original followers of Jesus. It is sometimes urged against Luke's authorship that his theology, especially in Acts, does not agree with Paul. But there is no reason why Luke should repeat what Paul said, and no evidence that he had read Paul's letters. Nor is it likely that Luke was one of Paul's converts. The writer does not contradict Paul, and we must allow for a certain independence. The objection reduces to the notion that Luke writes in his own way.

Nothing is certainly known about Luke other than what we can glean from his two books. According to tradition he came from Antioch and was a physician (Col. 4:14). An argument has been made that Luke uses medical language. However, it seems that physicians in New Testament times did not have a technical language of their own, and Luke's vocabulary does not go beyond what was used by lay people. But there is nothing inconsistent with the tradition that he was a physician, and the author certainly shows an interest in the sick.

Date and Occasion Luke and Acts may have been written about A.D. 63. Acts ends with Paul still under house arrest in Rome, and it is reasonable to think that if Luke knew of Paul's release or death he would have mentioned it. Luke notes that the prophecy of Agabus was fulfilled (Acts 11:28); he would surely have done the same with Jesus' prophecy of the destruction of Jerusalem (Luke 21:20) if he was writing after A.D. 70. Acts mentions nothing that must be dated after A.D. 62 and shows no knowledge of Paul's letters. All these factors argue for an early date.

Some interpreters argue for a date of A.D. 75–85, saying that some of Luke's wording presupposes the destruction of Jerusalem, which occurred in A.D. 70 (e.g., 19:43; 21:20, 24). But these passages speak of what was customary in sieges of the time, and not much can be made of them if no more is said than that Jesus predicted that current policies meant disaster in due course. A few critics have argued for a date in the second century, but there seems to be no good reason for this. With the information at our disposal a date in the early 60s is reasonable.

Luke tells us in the preface that his purpose is to provide an accurate, well-ordered account of the basic Christian message, to enable his reader to "know the certainty" of the things he has learned (1:4). Both the Gospel and Acts are dedicated to the "most excellent Theophilus." Such a dedication is common in books intended for a wider audience.

Characteristics and Themes

Luke was clearly a cultured person, able to write in a variety of styles. His opening paragraph is classical in style, while in other places his language resembles the Septuagint (the Greek translation of the Old Testament). Clearly he saw this as a suitable style for the religious writing in which he was engaged.

His main interest is salvation history, the story of what God has done in Jesus to bring salvation to sinners. Luke makes it clear that this salvation is available for sinful people. He has a strong concern for the disreputable, who were neglected in contemporary religion but could find peace in God's salvation. Luke records a number of predictions of the suffering and death of Christ and devotes much space to it. He is sometimes said to have little interest in eschatology (the last things). This is scarcely fair to Luke, for the thought that the kingdom of God will come in power at the end time is certainly present (12:35–48; 17:22–37; 21:25–36).

Luke concerns himself with many people who would be neglected by most writers of his day—children, women, and the poor. Though these were commonly regarded as having no great significance, Luke demonstrates Jesus' special concern for them.

Prominent in the literary structure of the Gospel is Luke's description of Jesus' journey toward Jerusalem and the sacrifice of the Cross (9:51—19:44). The sovereignty of God in Jesus' ministry and death is highlighted as Jesus moves toward the city where He must die for sinners (9:22; 17:25; 18:31–33; cf. Acts 4:28).

The importance of prayer is stressed. Luke records that Jesus prayed before crucial occasions of His ministry. Nine of Jesus' prayers are included in the Gospel (seven of them found only in Luke), along with parables on prayer found only in Luke.

Expressions of joy often accompany the good news of the Messiah in Luke. Only this Gospel includes the magnificent songs of joy that accompanied the birth of the Messiah (1:46–55, 68–79; 2:14, 29–32). □

Dedication to Theophilus

INASMUCH as many have taken in hand to set in order a narrative of those [a]things which [1]have been fulfilled among us, [2]just as those who [b]from the beginning were [c]eyewitnesses and ministers of the word [d]delivered them to us, [3]it seemed good to me also, having [2]had perfect understanding of all things from the very first, to write to you an orderly account, [e]most excellent Theophilus, [4][f]that you may know the certainty of those things in which you were instructed.

John's Birth Announced to Zacharias

[5]There was [g]in the days of Herod, the king of Judea, a certain priest named Zacharias, [h]of the division of [i]Abijah. His [j]wife was of the daughters of Aaron, and her name was Elizabeth. [6]And they were both righteous before God, walking in all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord blameless. [7]But they had no child, because Elizabeth was barren, and they were both well advanced in years.

[8]So it was, that while he was serving as priest before God in the order of his division, [9]according to the custom of the priesthood, [3]his lot fell [k]to burn incense when he went into the temple of the Lord. [10][l]And the whole multitude of the people was praying outside at the hour of incense. [11]Then an angel of the Lord appeared to him, standing on the right side of [m]the altar of incense. [12]And when Zacharias saw him, [n]he was troubled, and fear fell upon him.

[13]But the angel said to him, "Do not be afraid, Zacharias, for your prayer is heard; and your wife Elizabeth will bear you a son, and [o]you shall call his name John. ■ 1:1–4 The opening paragraph is written in Greek reminiscent of the classical style, the kind of opening expected in a literary book written for a wide circulation. Luke addresses Theophilus and explains why he has written.

■ 1:1 many. Many writings of the early church have been lost.

fulfilled. The purpose of God had been worked out in the things about which they wrote.

■ 1:2 eyewitnesses. There was reliable evidence for what was written, although Luke distinguishes himself from those who were eyewitnesses.

■ 1:3 having had perfect understanding. Or, "having followed with great care." His investigation had been thorough.

from the very first. He had gone back to the start of the Christian movement, the events surrounding the birth of Jesus Himself.

most excellent. An address for a person of rank (Acts 23:26; 24:3).

■ 1:4 the certainty. The Christian faith is well grounded.

instructed. The Greek word is the source of the English word "catechism."

■ 1:5 Herod. Herod the Great, who reigned 37–4 B.C.

the division. There was only one temple, and priests served it on a rotating roster. The division of Abijah was the eighth of the twenty-four divisions (1 Chr. 24:10); each ministered for a week twice a year.

■ 1:6 blameless. The expression does not mean that they never sinned but that they were godly and upright people. It must have been a serious disappointment to have no children, for children were regarded as God's reward for faithful service (Ps. 127:3–5).

■ 1:7 well advanced in years. Priests had no retirement age.

■ 1:9 The large number of priests serving the one temple meant that a priest's opportunities for taking part in the ritual were few. He might not offer incense more than once in his life (some priests never had the privilege). This was the high point in Zacharias's career. He would go into the Holy Place with other priests, but they would withdraw leaving him alone to perform the offering.

■ 1:11 the right side. Probably the south side; the angel would have been between the incense altar and the golden lampstand.

■ 1:13 your prayer. This may have been a prayer for a son, but more probably at such a moment it was prayer for the redemption of Israel. Either way, the answer to the prayer would be seen in the birth of a son.

John. The name means "the Lord is gracious."

■ 1:15 wine. That he would not drink alcoholic beverages leads many to think he would be a Nazirite, but Luke does not say this, and there is no reference to the hair being left uncut. More probably John had a unique position, neither priest nor Nazirite. He is the only person in the New Testament said to have been filled with the Holy Spirit from birth.

and [r]shall drink neither wine nor strong drink. He will also be filled with the Holy Spirit, [s]even from his mother's womb. 16 And he will turn many of the children of Israel to the Lord their God. 17 [t]He will also go before Him in the spirit and power of Elijah, 'to turn the hearts of the fathers to the children,' and the disobedient to the wisdom of the just, to make ready a people prepared for the Lord."

18 And Zacharias said to the angel, [u]"How shall I know this? For I am an old man, and my wife is well advanced in years."

19 And the angel answered and said to him, "I am [v]Gabriel, who stands in the presence of God, and was sent to speak to you and bring you [4]these glad [w]tidings. 20 But behold, [x]you will be mute and not able to speak until the day these things take place, because you did not believe my words which will be fulfilled in their own time."

21 And the people waited for Zacharias, and marveled that he lingered so long in the temple. 22 But when he came out, he could not speak to them; and they perceived that he had seen a vision in the temple, for he beckoned to them and remained speechless.

23 So it was, as soon as [y]the days of his service were completed, that he departed to his own house. 24 Now after those days his wife Elizabeth conceived; and she hid herself five months, saying, 25 "Thus the Lord has dealt with me, in the days when He looked on me, to [z]take away my reproach among people."

Christ's Birth Announced to Mary

26 Now in the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent by God to a city of Galilee named Nazareth, 27 to a virgin [a]betrothed to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David. The virgin's name was Mary. 28 And having come in, the angel said to her, [b]"Rejoice, highly favored one, [c]the Lord is with you; [5]blessed are you among women!"

29 But [6]when she saw him, [d]she was troubled at his saying, and considered what manner of greeting this was. 30 Then the angel said to her, "Do not be afraid, Mary, for you have found [e]favor with God. 31 [f]And behold, you will conceive in your womb and bring forth a Son, and [g]shall turn the hearts of the fathers to the children. He will restore unity to broken families, undoing the effects of sin (Ex. 34:7).

make ready. The climax is that John would prepare the way for the Lord. This is the reason he is especially remembered.

■ 1:19 Gabriel. Gabriel and Michael are the only two angels named in the Bible. That Gabriel stands in God's presence shows his greatness—such a one should be believed. The Greek verb translated "bring glad tidings" is the usual term for "preaching the gospel." Zacharias receives a sign: he will be silent until the boy is born.

■ 1:21 temple. The holy place. The people were in the temple court, waiting for Zacharias to come out and pronounce the blessing. Offering incense did not take long, so the delay was puzzling. When Zacharias did not speak but made gestures (v. 22), the people concluded that he had seen a vision.

■ 1:24 As the angel had promised, Elizabeth became pregnant. Childlessness was considered a divine punishment, but Elizabeth would bear this reproach no more (cf. Gen. 30:23).

■ 1:27 betrothed. More binding than a modern engagement, this was virtually a form of marriage. The couple did not live together, but a divorce was needed to break the relationship. See theological note "The Virgin Birth of Jesus."

■ 1:28, 29 Mary was humbled and puzzled that the angel should say she was "highly favored" (a correct translation of the word sometimes rendered "full of grace"). The word indicates that Mary received grace, not that she was the source of grace to others.

■ 1:31 JESUS. The name means "Yahweh is salvation."

Herod's Kingdom at Jesus' Birth. At the death of Herod the Great, his kingdom was divided among his three sons. Philip ruled in the northeast areas of Gaulanitis, Iturea, Trachonitis, Batanea, and Auranitis. Herod Antipas ruled in Galilee and Perea. Archelaus ruled Judea, Samaria, and Idumea, but only until A.D. 6. After that, Roman procurators, appointed by Caesar, ruled these regions.

34 Then Mary said to the angel, "How can this be, since I [7]do not know a man?"

35 And the angel answered and said to her, [m]"The Holy Spirit will come upon you, and the power of the Highest will overshadow you; therefore, also, that Holy One who is to be born will be called [n]the Son of God. 36 Now indeed, Elizabeth your relative has also conceived a son in her old age; and this is now the sixth month for her who was called barren. 37 For [o]with God nothing will be impossible."

38 Then Mary said, "Behold the maidservant of the Lord! Let it be to me according to your word." And the angel departed from her.

Mary Visits Elizabeth

39 Now Mary arose in those days and went into the hill country with haste, [p]to a city of Judah, 40 and entered the house of Zacharias and greeted Elizabeth. 41 And it happened, when Elizabeth heard the greeting of Mary, that the babe leaped in her womb; and Elizabeth was [q]filled with the Holy Spirit. 42 Then she spoke out with a loud voice and said, [r]"Blessed are you among women, and blessed is the fruit of your womb! 43 But why is this granted to me, that the mother of my Lord should come to me? 44 For indeed, as soon as the voice of your greeting sounded in my ears, the babe leaped in my womb for joy. 45 [s]Blessed is she who [8]believed, for there will be a fulfillment of those things which were told her from the Lord."

The Virgin Birth of Jesus

Matt. 1:18–25 and Luke 1:26–56; 2:4–7, two complementary but independent stories, agree in their record of Jesus' birth as the result of a miraculous conception. His mother Mary became pregnant by the Holy Spirit's creative action before she had any relationship with a man (Matt. 1:20; Luke 1:35).

Most Christians accepted the virgin birth without hesitation until the nineteenth century. Then it became a pivotal issue in the debate about Christian supernaturalism and the divinity of Jesus. Modernism, hoping to reinterpret Jesus as no more than a uniquely godly and insightful teacher, surrounded the virgin birth with a spirit of unnecessary skepticism.

In reality, the virgin birth belongs with the rest of the New Testament message about Jesus. The eternal dignity and glory that Jesus had before the world began (John 1:1–9) made it natural that He should enter into incarnate life in a way that proclaimed the glorious role He was coming to fulfill (Matt. 1:21–23; Luke 1:31–35).

Matthew and Luke are interested in how through this unique birth as a human being Jesus came to fulfill God's purposes of redemption, especially in tasting human sorrow and dying for sinners. They are less concerned with the virginal conception as a physical wonder or an apologetic weapon.

It is impossible to say whether the virgin birth was the only way Jesus could have come to earth and identified with His people. As it is, it testifies to Jesus' deity, setting Him apart from all others. It is appropriate that He should be born in this unusual way, since He was not implicated in sin, like all others since the Fall. Mary was not an exception in this respect, any more than David or Peter, though her sins are not recorded as theirs were. Through His death, Jesus became her Savior and the Savior of the rest of the church with her. □

■ 1:32 great. There is a fuller meaning here than when the term was applied to John (v. 15). Jesus will be "the Son of the Highest."

the throne of His father. Luke points to the Messiah as a descendant of David (2 Sam. 7:12–16; Ps. 89:29).

■ 1:33 The kingdom having no end is the kingdom of God.

■ 1:34 Mary perceived that the angel was not talking about the children she would have in the course of her marriage to Joseph. She understood the angel to mean something miraculous—birth without a human father. The virgin conception is a distinctively Christian idea. Greek parallels sometimes cited relate stories of gods having sexual intercourse with women.

■ 1:36 your relative. Elizabeth, and therefore Mary, was a descendant of Aaron (v. 5). The reference to "His father David" (v. 32) shows that Mary was also of Davidic descent. One of her parents was evidently descended from Aaron and the other from David.

■ 1:39 with haste. Mary must have left right away. Elizabeth was six months pregnant (v. 36); Mary stayed for three months and apparently went home before John's birth (vv. 56, 57).

■ 1:41 *filled with the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit enabled Elizabeth to pay tribute to the faith of Mary (v. 45).

The Song of Mary

46 And Mary said:

"My soul magnifies the Lord,
47 And my spirit has rejoiced in God my Savior.
48 For He has regarded the lowly state of His maidservant;
For behold, henceforth all generations will call me blessed.
49 For He who is mighty has done great things for me,
And holy is His name.
50 And His mercy is on those who fear Him
From generation to generation.
51 He has shown strength with His arm;
He has scattered the proud in the imagination of their hearts.
52 He has put down the mighty from their thrones,
And exalted the lowly.
53 He has filled the hungry with good things,
And the rich He has sent away empty.
54 He has helped His servant Israel,
In remembrance of His mercy,
55 As He spoke to our fathers,
To Abraham and to his seed forever."

56 And Mary remained with her about three months, and returned to her house.

Birth of John the Baptist

57 Now Elizabeth's full time came for her to be delivered, and she brought forth a son. 58 When her neighbors and relatives heard how the Lord had shown great mercy to her, they rejoiced with her.

Circumcision of John the Baptist

59 So it was, on the eighth day, that they came to circumcise the child; and they would have called him by the name of his father, Zacharias. 60 His mother answered and said, "No; he shall be called John."

61 But they said to her, "There is no one among your relatives who is called by this name." 62 So they made signs to his father—what he would have him called.

63 And he asked for a writing tablet, and wrote, saying, "His name is John." So they all marveled. 64 Immediately his mouth was opened and his tongue loosed, and he spoke, praising God. 65 Then fear came on all who dwelt around them; and all these sayings were discussed throughout all the hill country of Judea. 66 And all those who heard them kept them in their hearts, saying, "What kind of child will this be?" And the hand of the Lord was with him.

Zacharias' Prophecy

67 Now his father Zacharias was filled with the Holy Spirit, and prophesied, saying:

■ 1:46–55 This song of praise, called the Magnificat from its opening word in Latin, is revolutionary in its concern for the poor and despised of this world, and its rejection of the rich and proud.

■ 1:48 maidservant. The word means "a slave" and expresses humility. Mary emphasizes God's mercy to the poor and His holiness and power.

■ 1:51–53 The acts of God referred to are not necessarily in the past. Mary rejects accepted ideas of privilege for the rich as she speaks of what God will do for the poor (Ps. 9:18 note).

■ 1:54 helped. God's help through the Messiah is probably in mind.

In the house of His servant David,
70 [t]As He spoke by the mouth of His holy prophets,
Who have been [u]since the world began,

And from the hand of all who hate us,
72 [v]To perform the mercy promised to our fathers
And to remember His holy covenant,

74 To grant us that we,
Being delivered from the hand of our enemies,

76 "And you, child, will be called the [z]prophet of the Highest;
For [a]you will go before the face of the Lord to prepare His ways,

By the remission of their sins,

With which the [1]Dayspring from on high [2]has visited us;

Christ Born of Mary

2 And it came to pass in those days that a decree went out from Caesar Augustus that all the world should be registered. 2 [a]This census first took place while Quirinius was governing Syria. 3 So all went to be registered, everyone to his own city.

4 Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judea, to [b]the city of David, which is called Bethlehem, [c]because he was of the house and lineage of David, 5 to be registered with Mary, [d]his betrothed [1]wife, who was with child. 6 So it was, that while they were there, the days were completed for her to be delivered. 7 And [e]she brought forth her firstborn Son, and wrapped Him in swaddling cloths, and laid Him in a [2]manger, because there was no room for them in the inn.

His servant David. This phrase shows that Zacharias is talking about Jesus, not John.

■ 1:72 His holy covenant. There are several covenants in the Old Testament, but that with Abraham was always seen as specially significant (Gen. 17).

■ 1:76 you, child. Zacharias turns his attention to John and says he will be the forerunner of the Lord.

■ 1:78 the Dayspring. This refers to the Messiah (Mal. 4:2). The Greek means simply "rising," and some think of a shoot from Jesse (Is. 11:1). But the word is commonly used of the "rising" of the sun, and so a reference to the dawn is more likely.

■ 1:80 in the deserts. John grew up in the wilderness and may have had contact with religious communities like that at Qumran, an ascetic community whose writings, the Dead Sea Scrolls, were discovered in 1946.

■ 2:1–3 Luke dates the birth of Jesus by the common method of referring to the political rulers (3:1). There is no other record of a worldwide census under Augustus, but he did reorganize the administration of the empire and conducted censuses for taxation purposes. Quirinius was governor of Syria when a census was carried out in A.D. 6 and may have been there earlier (10–7 B.C.). It seems to have been the custom to conduct a census at intervals of fourteen years. Luke may be referring to a census preceding the well-known and unpopular census taken by Quirinius in A.D. 6.

■ 2:3 to be registered. People went to their ancestral homes for registration. This would have made it easier to list families.

■ 2:5 his betrothed wife. See note on 1:27.

■ 2:7 The birth of the baby is described simply. "Swaddling cloths" were strips of cloth used to wrap a baby. That the Child was put in a manger may mean that the birth was in a stable. There is a tradition that Jesus was born in a cave, which could have been used as a stable. Mangers were often outdoors, so it is possible that Jesus was born in the open air. Another possibility is that the place was the home of a poor family, where the animals would be under the same roof.

there was no room for them in the inn. This may mean that the innkeeper did not want to have them there.

■ 2:8 shepherds living out in the fields. Animals to be used for the temple sacrifices were kept in the open, even in winter. The presence of shepherds outdoors does not prove that Jesus was born in a warm time of year. Shepherds were a despised class because their work prevented them from keeping the ceremonial law, and as they moved about the country it was common for them to be regarded as thieves. They were considered unreliable and were not allowed to give evidence in the courts.

■ 2:9 angel. An angel is a messenger. In the New Testament, an "angel" is usually a supernatural messenger from God.

Lord shone around them, [j]and they were greatly afraid. 10 Then the angel said to them, [g]"Do not be afraid, for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy [h]which will be to all people. 11 [i]For there is born to you this day in the city of David [j]a Savior, [k]who is Christ the Lord. 12 And this will be the sign to you: You will find a Babe wrapped in swaddling cloths, lying in a [4]manger."

13 [l]And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying:

14 "Glory[m] to God in the highest,
And on earth [n]peace, [o]goodwill[5] toward men!"

15 So it was, when the angels had gone away from them into heaven, that the shepherds said to one another, "Let us now go to Bethlehem and see this thing that has come to pass, which the Lord has made known to us." 16 And they came with haste and found Mary and Joseph, and the Babe lying in a manger. 17 Now when they had seen Him, they made [6]widely known the saying which was told them concerning this Child. 18 And all those who heard it marveled at those things which were told them by the shepherds. 19 [p]But Mary kept all these things and pondered them in her heart. 20 Then the shepherds returned, glorifying and [q]praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, as it was told them.

Circumcision of Jesus

21 [r]And when eight days were completed [7]for the circumcision of the Child, His name was called [s]JESUS, the name given by the angel [t]before He was conceived in the womb.

Jesus Presented in the Temple

22 Now when [u]the days of her purification according to the law of Moses were completed, they brought Him to Jerusalem to present Him to the Lord 23 [v](as it is written in the law of the Lord, [w]"Every male who opens the womb shall be called holy to the LORD"), 24 and to offer a sacrifice according to what is said in the law of the Lord, [x]"A pair of turtledoves or two young pigeons."

Simeon Sees God's Salvation

25 And behold, there was a man in Jerusalem whose name was Simeon, and this man was just and devout, [y]waiting for the Consolation of Israel, and the Holy Spirit was upon him. 26 And it had been revealed to him by the Holy Spirit that he would not [z]see death before he had seen the Lord's Christ. 27 So he came [a]by the Spirit into the temple. And when the parents brought in the Child Jesus, to do for Him according to the custom of the law, 28 he took Him up in his arms and blessed God and said:

to all people. The Greek phrase normally refers to the whole people of Israel.

■ 2:11 Jesus is called "Savior" only twice in the four Gospels (cf. John 4:42). "Christ" means "Messiah," while "Lord" is regularly used in the Septuagint (the Greek translation of the Old Testament) for God's own name, conventionally translated with small capitals ("LORD"). The most outstanding terms are used for the new Baby.

■ 2:12 The sign would enable them to find the Baby and it would prove to them the truth of what the angel said.

■ 2:13 the heavenly host. "Host" is a military term, and it is remarkable that an army should announce peace (v. 14). The "peace" is peace with God, a peace that Christ would bring.

■ 2:14 goodwill toward men. Several ancient manuscripts read "among men of His pleasure," emphasizing the divine initiative.

■ 2:20 Luke often mentions praise to God (5:25, 26; 7:16; 13:13).

■ 2:21–24 Jesus was circumcised on the eighth day as the law prescribed (Gen. 17:12; cf. Gal. 4:4, 5). The need for purification arose from the mother's being ceremonially unclean for seven days after the birth of a son. For another thirty-three days she was to keep away from holy things (these times were doubled for a daughter, Lev. 12:1–5). The mother was then to offer a lamb plus a dove or pigeon. If she was poor her offering was two doves or pigeons (Lev. 12:6–8). Mary gave the offering of the poor. The first male child of every mother was presented to the Lord (Ex. 13:2).

■ 2:25 the Consolation of Israel. This title for the Messiah refers to the comfort that He would bring.

■ 2:28–32 blessed God. Simeon's blessing is often called the "Nunc Dimittis" from its opening words in Latin.

■ 2:30 Your salvation. This phrase signifies the Child who would bring God's salvation to humanity.

■ 2:31 all peoples. This phrase is plural and refers to the Gentiles as well as Israel (v. 10 note).

32 [d]A light to bring revelation to the Gentiles,
And the glory of Your people Israel."

33 [g]And Joseph and His mother marveled at those things which were spoken of Him. 34 Then Simeon blessed them, and said to Mary His mother, "Behold, this Child is destined for the [e]fall and rising of many in Israel, and for [f]a sign which will be spoken against 35 (yes, [g]a sword will pierce through your own soul also), that the thoughts of many hearts may be revealed."

Anna Bears Witness to the Redeemer

36 Now there was one, Anna, a prophetess, the daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of [h]Asher. She was of a great age, and had lived with a husband seven years from her virginity; 37 and this woman was a widow [9]of about eighty-four years, who did not depart from the temple, but served God with fastings and prayers [i]night and day. 38 And coming in that instant she gave thanks to [j]the Lord, and spoke of Him to all those who [j]looked for redemption in Jerusalem.

The Family Returns to Nazareth

39 So when they had performed all things according to the law of the Lord, they returned to Galilee, to their own city, Nazareth. 40 [k]And the Child grew and became strong [2]in spirit, filled with wisdom; and the grace of God was upon Him.

The Boy Jesus Amazes the Scholars

41 His parents went to [l]Jerusalem [m]every year at the Feast of the Passover. 42 And when He was twelve years old, they went up to Jerusalem according to the [n]custom of the feast. 43 When they had finished the [o]days, as they returned, the Boy Jesus lingered behind in Jerusalem. And [3]Joseph and His mother did not know it; 44 but supposing Him to have been in the company, they went a day's journey, and sought Him among their relatives and acquaintances. 45 So when they did not find Him, they returned to Jerusalem, seeking Him. 46 Now so it was that after three days they found Him in the temple, sitting in the midst of the teachers, both listening to them and asking them questions. 47 And [p]all who heard Him were astonished at His understanding and answers. 48 So when they saw Him, they were amazed; and His mother said to Him, "Son, why have You done this to us? Look, Your father and I have sought You anxiously."

49 And He said to them, "Why did you seek Me? Did you not know that I must be [q]about [r]My Father's business?" 50 But [s]they did not understand the statement which He spoke to them.

Jesus Advances in Wisdom and Favor

51 Then He went down with them and came to Nazareth, and was [4]subject to them, but His mother [t]kept all these things in her heart. 52 And Jesus [u]increased in wisdom and stature, [v]and in favor with God and men.

■ 2:34 fall and rising. If the "fall and rising" applies to one group, then it means they must be humbled in repentance before they can rise into salvation. If it describes two groups, then it indicates that those who reject Jesus will fall eternally, but those who accept Him will rise to be with God.

■ 2:35 sword. The sword imagery means that all this will not be without cost to Mary as she sees her Son rejected and crucified.

■ 2:36 Anna. Prophets were rare in Israel in those days, but the aged Anna was a prophetess.

■ 2:41 The Passover was one of three feasts that had to be observed in Jerusalem (Ex. 23:14–17; 34:23).

■ 2:42 twelve years old. Jesus may have gone up with His parents every year, but Jewish custom specified that a boy should be taken to the feast a year or two before he was thirteen, when he would be made a "son of the commandment" and become an adult member of the Jewish religious community.

■ 2:43–45 Luke does not say why Jesus stayed behind or how Joseph and Mary came to leave Him behind, but in a large caravan it would be easy to assume that a boy was with friends. If later custom was followed, the women and small children went ahead and the men followed. Each parent might think a twelve-year-old boy was with the other.

■ 2:46–48 The temple courts were commonly used for teaching. Jesus both listened and asked questions, showing a determination to learn. In Jewish education there was an emphasis on discussion of problems, which is perhaps behind the reference to "His understanding and answers" (v. 47). But Joseph and Mary did not understand (v. 50); there is reproach in Mary's words.

■ 2:49 My Father's business. Already at twelve years of age, Jesus was conscious of a special relationship to the heavenly Father. The Jews did not speak in this way, but said "our Father" or added "in heaven" or the like.

■ 2:51 was subject. Despite His understanding of His relationship to the heavenly Father, Jesus was a dutiful Son on earth and was obedient (text note) to Joseph and Mary as He grew. Mary did not understand it all, but she did not forget.

■ 2:52 increased. Luke notes Jesus' well-rounded personal development: intellectual, social, and spiritual.

John the Baptist Prepares the Way

3 Now in the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius Caesar, [a]Pontius Pilate being governor of Judea, Herod being tetrarch of Galilee, his brother Philip tetrarch of Iturea and the region of Trachonitis, and Lysanias tetrarch of Abilene, 2 [f]while [b]Annas and Caiaphas were high priests, the word of God came to [c]John the son of Zacharias in the wilderness. 3 [d]And he went into all the region around the Jordan, preaching a baptism of repentance [e]for the remission of sins, 4 as it is written in the book of the words of Isaiah the prophet, saying:

[f]"The voice of one crying in the wilderness:
'Prepare the way of the LORD;
Make His paths straight.
5 Every valley shall be filled
And every mountain and hill brought low;
The crooked places shall be made straight
And the rough ways smooth;
6 And [g]all flesh shall see the salvation of God.'"

John Preaches to the People

7 Then he said to the multitudes that came out to be baptized by him, [h]"Brood[2] of vipers! Who warned you to flee from the wrath to come? 8 Therefore bear fruits [i]worthy of repentance, and do not begin to say to yourselves, 'We have Abraham as our father.' For I say to you that God is able to raise up children to Abraham from these stones. 9 And even now the ax is laid to the root of the trees. Therefore [j]every tree which does not bear good fruit is cut down and thrown into the fire."

10 So the people asked him, saying, [k]"What shall we do then?"

11 He answered and said to them, [l]"He who has two tunics, let him give to him who has none; and he who has food, [m]let him do likewise."

12 Then [n]tax collectors also came to be baptized, and said to him, "Teacher, what shall we do?"

13 And he said to them, [o]"Collect no more than what is appointed for you."

14 Likewise the soldiers asked him, saying, "And what shall we do?"

So he said to them, "Do not [3]intimidate anyone [p]or accuse falsely, and be content with your wages."

15 Now as the people were in expectation, and all reasoned in their hearts about John, whether he was the Christ or not, 16 John answered, saying to all, [q]"I indeed baptize you with water; but

■ 3:1 Luke's lengthy chronological reference comes at the beginning of John's ministry, probably about A.D. 27–29.

Pontius Pilate. In his will, Herod the Great left Judea to his son Archelaus, and other territories to his sons Philip and Antipas. But Archelaus ruled so badly that the Romans removed him in A.D. 6 and appointed their own governor. Pontius Pilate was the fifth governor of Judea, serving there from A.D. 26–36.

tetrarch. A tetrarch was a kind of petty prince. "Herod" here is Herod Antipas. Philip's region was northeast of the Sea of Galilee. Nothing more is known of Lysanias, but Abilene was north of the other regions.

■ 3:2 The Jews had only one high priest at a time. Annas had been deposed by the Romans who appointed instead Caiaphas, his son-in-law. The Romans saw to it that Caiaphas exercised the official functions, but many Jews still considered Annas the true high priest.

the word of God came. John's message was not his own but the dynamic word of God Himself.

■ 3:3 baptism of repentance. The Jews baptized Gentiles if they wished to become part of the people of God. The sting in John's practice was his call on Jews to undergo a rite they saw as fit only for Gentiles. John looked for a change of heart in Jews. See notes on Matt. 3:6; Mark 1:4.

■ 3:4–6 All four Gospels apply Is. 40:3 to John and agree that John saw himself as only a herald. But only Luke adds Is. 40:4, 5, emphasizing the thought of God's salvation.

■ 3:7, 8 A strong warning is directed at those who claimed Abraham as father. Being a Jew would not deliver one from the coming wrath.

■ 3:9 ax is laid to the root. This phrase points to certain and speedy judgment.

fire. A symbol of judgment.

■ 3:11 The tunic was an undergarment; normally only one was worn. John suggests that the man who owns two should give the spare to someone without one, and so also with food.

■ 3:12 tax collectors. Roman taxes were collected by agents who bid for the rights to collect taxes in a city. They would pay the Romans what they bid and collect more for their own salaries. There was a strong temptation for them to enrich themselves by collecting much more than what was reasonable. Jewish tax collectors were despised as collaborators with the occupying Roman forces. They were excluded from the religious life of the synagogue and the temple.

■ 3:14 Like tax collectors, soldiers were tempted to use their position to enrich themselves. John enjoins honesty on all. All four Gospels have an account of the ministry of John the Baptist as he called people to repent in preparation for the coming of Jesus. Luke alone tells us what John said to questioners who were unclear about what it would mean for them.

■ 3:15 Messianic speculations were in the air, but John said clearly he was no messiah. A greater One was coming.

■ 3:16 not worthy to loose. In the rabbinic schools a student did not pay his teacher. He was required to perform services, but not the loosing of the sandal, which was considered too menial. John took a lowly place.

One mightier than I is coming, whose sandal strap I am not worthy to loose. He will [r]baptize you with the Holy Spirit and fire. [17] His winnowing fan is in His hand, and He will thoroughly clean out His threshing floor, and [s]gather the wheat into His barn; but the chaff He will burn with unquenchable fire."

[18] And with many other exhortations he preached to the people. [19] [t]But Herod the tetrarch, being rebuked by him concerning Herodias, his [4]brother Philip's wife, and for all the evils which Herod had done, [20] also added this, above all, that he shut John up in prison.

John Baptizes Jesus

[21] When all the people were baptized, [u]it came to pass that Jesus also was baptized; and while He prayed, the heaven was opened. [22] And the Holy Spirit descended in bodily form like a dove upon Him, and a voice came from heaven which said, "You are My beloved Son; in You I am [v]well pleased."

Satan Tempts Jesus

4 Then [a]Jesus, being filled with the Holy Spirit, returned from the Jordan and [b]was led by the Spirit [1]into the wilderness, [2] being [2]tempted for forty days by the devil. And [c]in those days He ate nothing, and afterward, when they had ended, He was hungry.

[3] And the devil said to Him, "If You are [d]the Son of God, command this stone to become bread."

[4] But Jesus answered him, saying, "It is written, [e]'Man shall not live by bread alone, [3]but by every word of God.'"

[5] [4]Then the devil, taking Him up on a high mountain, showed Him all the kingdoms of the fire. The baptism with fire points to judgment (v. 9 note). The winnowing fan (v. 17) is another symbol for judgment. Workers used the fan to throw harvested grain into the wind, letting the grains fall directly to the ground and the chaff blow away. When the threshing floor was cleared, the chaff would be burned.

■ 3:19, 20 Herod Antipas divorced his wife and married his niece Herodias who was married to his own brother (Mark 6:17 note). John denounced this scandalous deed, and Herod imprisoned him in the fortress of Machaerus, east of the Dead Sea.

■ 3:21 Jesus identified Himself with sinners by undergoing their baptism. See "The Baptism of Jesus" at Mark 1:9.

■ 3:22 All four Gospels tell us that the Holy Spirit came upon Jesus at this time. Doves were important in the Old Testament sacrificial system. Within that culture, they were regarded as affectionate and gentle. In the Scripture the dove is used often in imagery and comparisons, not always with the same meaning. See also Gen. 1:2; 8:8–12.

■ 3:23–38 Luke's genealogy differs from that in Matthew (Matt. 1:2–17) in going all the way back to Adam rather than just to Abraham. Some of the names differ and the order is different. Some suggest that Matthew has Joseph's line and Luke Mary's, but Luke specifically starts with "Joseph." It may be that Matthew is giving not direct ancestors but those who would have been legally in line for the throne of David. Both evangelists emphasize that Jesus was of Davidic descent.

■ 4:1 Jesus was "filled with the Holy Spirit . . . and was led by the Spirit," showing that the temptation was in the plan of God. Right at the beginning, Jesus faced the question of what sort of Messiah He was to be.

■ 4:3–13 The devil seeks to deflect Jesus from His divinely appointed mission. In His victory over Satan, Jesus binds the strong man and proceeds to plunder his possessions (11:21, 22). Luke's account highlights the parallel between Jesus' temptation and the trials of Israel in the wilderness. Jesus was tempted for forty days in the desert, and Israel wandered for forty years in the wilderness (Num. 14:34). Israel failed the test of obedience, while Jesus was fully obedient to the Father.

■ 4:5–8 This temptation comes third in Matthew. The reason for the different order is not known. The temptation is for Jesus to set up a mighty world empire, but at the cost of worshiping Satan. Again Jesus rejects the temptation by citing Scripture (Deut. 6:13).

world in a moment of time. 6 And the devil said to Him, "All this authority I will give You, and their glory; for [f]this has been delivered to me, and I give it to whomever I wish. 7 Therefore, if You will worship before me, all will be Yours."

8 And Jesus answered and said to him, [5]"Get behind Me, Satan! [6]For it is written, [g]'You shall worship the LORD your God, and Him only you shall serve.'"

9 [h]Then he brought Him to Jerusalem, set Him on the pinnacle of the temple, and said to Him, "If You are the Son of God, throw Yourself down from here. 10 For it is written:

[i]'He shall give His angels charge over you,
To keep you,'

11 and,

[j]'In their hands they shall bear you up,
Lest you dash your foot against a stone.'"

12 And Jesus answered and said to him, "It has been said, [k]'You shall not [7]tempt the LORD your God.'"

13 Now when the devil had ended every [8]temptation, he departed from Him [l]until an opportune time.

Jesus Begins His Galilean Ministry

14 [m]Then Jesus returned [n]in the power of the Spirit to [o]Galilee, and [p]news of Him went out through all the surrounding region. 15 And He [q]taught in their synagogues, [r]being glorified by all.

Jesus Rejected at Nazareth

16 So He came to [s]Nazareth, where He had been brought up. And as His custom was, [t]He went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day, and stood up to read. 17 And He was handed the book of the prophet Isaiah. And when He had opened the book, He found the place where it was written:

18 "The[u] Spirit of the LORD is upon Me,
Because He has anointed Me
To preach the gospel to the poor;
He has sent Me [9]to heal the brokenhearted,
To proclaim liberty to the captives
And recovery of sight to the blind,
To [v]set at liberty those who are [l]oppressed;
19 To proclaim the acceptable year of the LORD."

20 Then He closed the book, and gave it back to the attendant and sat down. And the eyes of all who were in the synagogue were fixed on Him. 21 And He began to say to them, "Today this Scripture is [w]fulfilled in your hearing." 22 So all bore witness to Him, and [x]marveled at the gracious words which proceeded out of His mouth. And they said, [y]"Is this not Joseph's son?"

23 He said to them, "You will surely say this proverb to Me, 'Physician, heal yourself! Whatever we have heard done in [z]Capernaum,[2] do also here in [a]Your country.'" 24 Then He said, "Assuredly, I say to you, no [b]prophet is accepted in his own country. 25 But I tell you truly, [c]many widows were in Israel in the days of Elijah, when the heaven was shut up three years and six months, and there was a great famine throughout all the land; 26 but to none of them was Eli-

25 [c]1 Kin. 17:9; James 5:17

■ 4:9 the pinnacle. This may have been the top of the temple wall overlooking the Kidron Valley or perhaps the highest point of the temple itself. Jesus was tempted to make a public display of miraculous power, but He responds by quoting Scripture (v. 12). The passage quoted (Deut. 6:16) again recalls Israel's experience in the wilderness.

■ 4:14 Jesus carried out an extensive ministry before going back to Nazareth.

■ 4:16–20 This account is the oldest known report of the order of worship in a synagogue service. The service included a reading from the Law and one from the Prophets. Jesus or the ruler of the synagogue may have chosen Is. 61:1, 2 and 58:6. It was customary to stand for the reading as a mark of respect for God's Word, and to sit for the sermon. The reading chosen shows a strong concern for the poor (1:51–53 note; Ps. 9:18 note).

■ 4:21–27 By presenting the rejection at Nazareth at the beginning of Jesus' ministry, Luke highlights certain main characteristics of that ministry: (a) the response of wonder at His teachings coupled with persistent unbelief and rejection (vv. 22, 28); (b) His ministry as the fulfillment of Scripture (v. 21); (c) His concern for the poor and oppressed (vv. 18, 19); and (d) His ultimate aim of including Gentiles among the people of God (vv. 26, 27).

jah sent except to [3]Zarephath, in the region of Sidon, to a woman who was a widow. 27 [d]And many lepers were in Israel in the time of Elisha the prophet, and none of them was cleansed except Naaman the Syrian."

28 So all those in the synagogue, when they heard these things, were [e]filled with [4]wrath, 29 [f]and rose up and thrust Him out of the city; and they led Him to the brow of the hill on which their city was built, that they might throw Him down over the cliff. 30 Then [g]passing through the midst of them, He went His way.

Jesus Casts Out an Unclean Spirit

31 Then [h]He went down to Capernaum, a city of Galilee, and was teaching them on the Sabbaths. 32 And they were [i]astonished at His teaching, [j]for His word was with authority. 33 [k]Now in the synagogue there was a man who had a spirit of an unclean demon. And he cried out with a loud voice, 34 saying, "Let us alone! What have we to do with You, Jesus of Nazareth? Did You come to destroy us? [l]I know who You are—[m]the Holy One of God!"

35 But Jesus rebuked him, saying, [5]"Be quiet, and come out of him!" And when the demon had thrown him in their midst, it came out of him and did not hurt him. 36 Then they were all amazed and spoke among themselves, saying, "What a word this is! For with authority and power He commands the unclean spirits, and they come out." 37 And the report about Him went out into every place in the surrounding region.

Peter's Mother-in-Law Healed

38 [n]Now He arose from the synagogue and entered Simon's house. But Simon's wife's mother was [6]sick with a high fever, and they [o]made request of Him concerning her. 39 So He stood over her and [p]rebuked the fever, and it left her. And immediately she arose and served them.

Many Healed After Sabbath Sunset

40 [q]When the sun was setting, all those who had any that were sick with various diseases brought them to Him; and He laid His hands on every one of them and healed them. 41 [r]And demons also came out of many, crying out and saying, [s]"You are [7]the Christ, the Son of God!"

And He, [t]rebuking them, did not allow them to [8]speak, for they knew that He was the Christ.

Jesus Preaches in Galilee

42 [u]Now when it was day, He departed and went into a deserted place. And the crowd sought Him and came to Him, and tried to keep Him from leaving them; 43 but He said to them, "I must [v]preach the kingdom of God to the other cities also, because for this purpose I have been sent." 44 [w]And He was preaching in the synagogues of [9]Galilee.

Four Fishermen Called as Disciples

5 So[a] it was, as the multitude pressed about Him to [b]hear the word of God, that He stood by the Lake of Gennesaret, 2 and saw two boats standing by the lake; but the fishermen had gone from them and were washing their nets. 3 Then He got into one of the boats, which was Simon's, and asked him to put out a little from the land. And He [c]sat down and taught the multitudes from the boat.

3 [c]John 8:2

■ 4:32 astonished. In contrast to the Pharisees and teachers of the law, who appealed to tradition and previous teachers, Jesus astonished people because He did not cite authorities.

■ 4:33 There are few examples of demon possession in the Old Testament or in the New Testament outside the Gospels. In Scripture such possession is primarily part of the opposition of evil to the coming of God's Son.

■ 4:33–35 This demon was cast out on the Sabbath. Luke tells of four other cures Jesus did on the Sabbath (v. 38; 6:6; 13:14; 14:1), and there are two in John (John 5:8, 9; 9:14).

■ 4:34 The demon recognized Jesus as the "Holy One of God"—a term that denotes Jesus' special relationship to God and His empowerment by the Spirit (John 6:69). Luke makes it clear that part of the mission of Jesus was to defeat the powers of evil.

■ 4:38, 39 Matthew and Mark both report this miracle, but only Luke mentions a high fever, which may indicate his medical interest. That Jesus "rebuked the fever" may mean that He saw Satan behind it in some way.

■ 4:41 You are the Christ, the Son of God. Again it is the demons who discern that Jesus is the Son of God. People might see in Him no more than another man, but the forces of evil recognized Him. "The Christ" means "the anointed One," the Messiah (see 1 Sam. 2:10 note).

■ 4:43 I must. This phrase points to the divine compulsion in the mission of Jesus. The kingdom was central.

kingdom of God. This is Luke's first mention of the kingdom of God, Jesus' most frequent topic for preaching.

■ 5:1 Lake of Gennesaret. The Sea of Galilee; see Mark 1:16 note.

■ 5:2 washing their nets. After each fishing trip the nets were checked, mended, and cleaned for the next trip. The boats were not in use, so Jesus could sit in Simon's boat and escape the crowd.

■ 5:3 He sat. The normal posture for teaching (4:16–20 note).

4 When He had stopped speaking, He said to Simon, [d]"Launch out into the deep and let down your nets for a catch."

5 But Simon answered and said to Him, "Master, we have toiled all night and caught [e]nothing; nevertheless [f]at Your word I will let down the net." 6 And when they had done this, they caught a great number of fish, and their net was breaking. 7 So they signaled to their partners in the other boat to come and help them. And they came and filled both the boats, so that they began to sink. 8 When Simon Peter saw it, he fell down at Jesus' knees, saying, [g]"Depart from me, for I am a sinful man, O Lord!"

9 For he and all who were with him were [h]astonished at the catch of fish which they had taken; 10 and so also were James and John, the sons of Zebedee, who were partners with Simon. And Jesus said to Simon, "Do not be afraid. [i]From now on you will catch men." 11 So when they had brought their boats to land, [j]they [1]forsook all and followed Him.

Jesus Cleanses a Leper

12 [k]And it happened when He was in a certain city, that behold, a man who was full of [l]leprosy saw Jesus; and he fell on his face and [2]implored Him, saying, "Lord, if You are willing, You can make me clean."

13 Then He put out His hand and touched him, saying, "I am willing; be cleansed." [m]Immediately the leprosy left him. 14 [n]And He charged him to tell no one, "But go and show yourself to the priest, and make an offering for your cleansing, as a testimony to them, [o]just as Moses commanded."

15 However, [p]the report went around concerning Him all the more; and [q]great multitudes came together to hear, and to be healed by Him of their infirmities. 16 [r]So He Himself often withdrew into the wilderness and [s]prayed.

Jesus Forgives and Heals a Paralytic

17 Now it happened on a certain day, as He was teaching, that there were Pharisees and teachers of the law sitting by, who had come out of every town of Galilee, Judea, and Jerusalem. And the power of the Lord was present [3]to heal them. 18 [t]Then behold, men brought on a bed a man who was paralyzed, whom they sought to bring in and lay before Him. 19 And when they could not find how they might bring him in, because of the crowd, they went up on the housetop and let him down with his bed through the tiling into the midst [u]before Jesus.

20 When He saw their faith, He said to him, "Man, your sins are forgiven you."

21 [v]And the scribes and the Pharisees began to reason, saying, "Who is this who speaks blasphemies? [w]Who can forgive sins but God alone?"

22 But when Jesus [x]perceived their thoughts, He answered and said to them, "Why are you reasoning in your hearts? 23 Which is easier, to say, 'Your sins are forgiven you,' or to say, 'Rise up and walk'? 24 But that you may know that the Son of Man has power on earth to forgive sins"—He said to the man who was paralyzed, [y]"I say to you, arise, take up your bed, and go to your house."

25 Immediately he rose up before them, took up what he had been lying on, and departed to his own house, [z]glorifying God. 26 And they were all amazed, and they [a]glorified God and were filled with fear, saying, "We have seen strange things today!"

■ 5:5 all night. Night was the preferred time for fishing.

■ 5:6 great number. This catch was the reward of obedience, not the result of skill or technique.

■ 5:8 sinful man. Suddenly aware that he was in the presence of One who exercised the power of God, Peter was conscious of his sinfulness (cf. Gen. 18:27; Job 42:6; Is. 6:5).

■ 5:12 Several skin diseases were called leprosy. They made a person ceremonially unclean, and could be disfiguring or fatal. Quarantine was the only defense against spread of the disease.

■ 5:14 The priest was a kind of health inspector who could certify that the leper was cured. The priest would also offer the appropriate sacrifices to end the ritual defilement (Lev. 14).

■ 5:17 Pharisees. Josephus indicates that there were more than six thousand Pharisees. They saw themselves as God's "separated ones" and sought to serve Him well. Many were godly, but their emphasis on outward acts and ritual taboos made others hard and formal. Such men opposed Jesus vigorously.

teachers of the law. Scribes whose work centered on interpreting the law of God. Many were Pharisees.

■ 5:19 up on the housetop. Houses often had flat roofs and outside stairs.

■ 5:20 their faith. This includes the friends as well as the paralyzed man. Jesus begins with forgiveness, not healing.

■ 5:21 Who is this. See note on Mark 2:5.

■ 5:24 that you may know. Jesus links the power to forgive with the power to heal (Mark 2:9 note).

the Son of Man. Jesus' favorite self-designation, used many times in the Gospels and in them only by Jesus Himself. It refers to His heavenly origin and vocation (Dan. 7:13, 14). See note on Matt. 8:20.

Matthew the Tax Collector

27 [b]After these things He went out and saw a tax collector named Levi, sitting at the tax office. And He said to him, [c]"Follow Me." 28 So he left all, rose up, and [d]followed Him.

29 [e]Then Levi gave Him a great feast in his own house. And [f]there were a great number of tax collectors and others who sat down with them. 30 [4]And their scribes and the Pharisees [5]complained against His disciples, saying, [g]"Why do You eat and drink with tax collectors and sinners?"

31 Jesus answered and said to them, "Those who are well have no need of a physician, but those who are sick. 32 [h]I have not come to call the righteous, but sinners, to repentance."

Jesus Is Questioned About Fasting

33 Then they said to Him, [i]"Why[6] do the disciples of John fast often and make prayers, and likewise those of the Pharisees, but Yours eat and drink?"

34 And He said to them, "Can you make the friends of the bridegroom fast while the [j]bridegroom is with them? 35 But the days will come when the bridegroom will be taken away from them; then they will fast in those days."

36 [k]Then He spoke a parable to them: "No one [7]puts a piece from a new garment on an old one; otherwise the new makes a tear, and also the piece that was taken out of the new does not match the old. 37 And no one puts new wine into old wineskins; or else the new wine will burst the wineskins and be spilled, and the wineskins will be ruined. 38 But new wine must be put into new wineskins, [8]and both are preserved. 39 And no one, having drunk old wine, [9]immediately desires new; for he says, 'The old is [l]better.' "

Jesus Is Lord of the Sabbath

6 Now [a]it happened [l]on the second Sabbath after the first that He went through the grainfields. And His disciples plucked the heads of grain and ate them, rubbing them in their hands. 2 And some of the Pharisees said to them, "Why are you doing [b]what is not lawful to do on the Sabbath?"

3 But Jesus answering them said, "Have you not even read this, [c]what David did when he was hungry, he and those who were with him: 4 how he went into the house of God, took and ate the showbread, and also gave some to those with him, [d]which is not lawful for any but the priests to eat?" 5 And He said to them, "The Son of Man is also Lord of the Sabbath."

Healing on the Sabbath

6 [e]Now it happened on another Sabbath, also, that He entered the synagogue and taught. And a man was there whose right hand was withered. 7 So the scribes and Pharisees watched Him closely, whether He would [f]heal on the Sabbath, that they might find an [g]accusation against Him. 8 But He [h]knew their thoughts, and said to the man who had the withered hand, "Arise and stand here." And he arose and stood. 9 Then Jesus said to them, "I will ask you one thing: [i]Is it lawful on the Sabbath to do good or to do evil, to save life or [2]to destroy?" 10 And when He had looked around at them all, He said to [3]the man, "Stretch out your hand." And he did so, and his hand was restored [4]as whole as the other. 11 But they were filled with rage, and discussed with one another what they might do to Jesus.

■ 5:27 tax collector. See note on 3:12.

■ 5:28 left all. Levi would never be able to go back to tax collecting; his action was final.

■ 5:30 The Pharisees would have been outside. They regarded table fellowship with sinners as especially defiling.

■ 5:33 The only fast prescribed in the law was on the Day of Atonement (Lev. 23:27), but religious people fasted on other days (e.g., Zech. 7:3, 5). Jesus did not command fasts, though He Himself fasted (4:2) and permitted it among His followers (Matt. 6:16–18).

■ 5:36–38 Making a patch from a new garment for an old one spoils both—the new by having the patch torn from it, the old because the patch does not match. New wine in old wineskins ferments and bursts the skins; both wine and skins are lost.

■ 6:1 Sabbath. A principal source of controversy between Jesus and the Pharisees was the right use of the Sabbath. They hedged it with repressive regulations so as to avoid the possibility of breaking the Sabbath. Jesus did not so much argue that the regulations should be relaxed as that they had misunderstood the Sabbath—it was a day on which good deeds should be done.

plucked the heads of grain. This was permitted in the law (Deut. 23:25); that it was done on the Sabbath was seen by the Pharisees as unlawful.

■ 6:4 the showbread. Prepared in a special way for use in temple service, this bread was to be eaten only by priests (Lev. 24:5–9). In a time of need David used it for his companions (1 Sam. 21:3–6).

■ 6:5 Lord of the Sabbath. The Sabbath was instituted by God (Gen. 2:3; Ex. 20:8–11), but Jesus is Lord over it. Jesus claims divine authority to interpret the law.

■ 6:9 is it lawful. Jesus presents a choice between doing good and doing evil on the Sabbath, not between doing good and doing nothing. He saw the failure to do good as in itself evil.

The Twelve Apostles

12 Now it came to pass in those days that He went out to the mountain to pray, and continued all night in *j*prayer to God. 13 And when it was day, He called His disciples to Himself; *k*and from them He chose *l*twelve whom He also named apostles: 14 Simon, *m*whom He also named Peter, and Andrew his brother; James and John; Philip and Bartholomew; 15 Matthew and Thomas; James the son of Alphaeus, and Simon called the Zealot; 16 Judas *n*the son of James, and *o*Judas Iscariot who also became a traitor.

Jesus Heals a Great Multitude

17 And He came down with them and stood on a level place with a crowd of His disciples
*p*and a great multitude of people from all Judea and Jerusalem, and from the seacoast of Tyre and Sidon, who came to hear Him and be healed of their diseases, 18 as well as those who were tormented with unclean spirits. And they were healed. 19 And the whole multitude *q*sought to *r*touch Him, for *s*power went out from Him and healed them all.

The Beatitudes

20 Then He lifted up His eyes toward His disciples, and said:

t"Blessed are you poor,
For yours is the kingdom of God.
21 *u*Blessed are you who hunger now,
For you shall be *v*filled.5
*w*Blessed are you who weep now,
For you shall *x*laugh.
22 *y*Blessed are you when men hate you,
And when they *z*exclude you,
And revile you, and cast out your name as evil,
For the Son of Man's sake.
23 *a*Rejoice in that day and leap for joy!
For indeed your reward is great in heaven,
For *b*in like manner their fathers did to the prophets.

Jesus Pronounces Woes

24 "But*c* woe to you *d*who are rich,
For *e*you have received your consolation.
25 *f*Woe to you who are full,
For you shall hunger.
*g*Woe to you who laugh now,
For you shall mourn and *h*weep.
26 *i*Woe *6*to you when *7*all men speak well of you,
For so did their fathers to the false prophets.

those who curse you, and *l*pray for those who spitefully use you. 29 *m*To him who strikes you on

■ 6:12 continued all night in prayer. Prolonged prayer preceded the important choice of the Twelve.

■ 6:13 apostles. The word means a "messenger," someone sent (see 2 Cor. 1:1 note). It is not often used in the Gospels ("the twelve" is more common) but is frequent in Acts and the Epistles. Until now Luke has spoken of "Simon," but from this point on he usually calls him "Peter."

■ 6:17 a level place. This phrase accounts for the sermon being called "The Sermon on the Plain." Luke describes a ministry of teaching and healing that had wide appeal.

■ 6:20–49 There are many similarities to the Sermon on the Mount (Matt. 5—7), and some see this as a variant account of the same sermon. But this sermon is much shorter, and Luke has parallels to other parts of Matt. 5—7 elsewhere. It is more likely that Jesus used much the same material on a number of occasions, a practice common among preachers.

■ 6:20 Blessed. This term implies more than "fortunate" or "happy;" it is a religious term and means those who enjoy the favor of God.

are you poor. Luke is especially concerned with the blessings that the gospel brings to the poor (see notes on 1:46–55, 51–53; Ps. 9:18 note). Poverty can be a curse (Prov. 30:8, 9), and disciples know that they must rely on God for all things. They have no resources of their own and are "poor," but God blesses them with "the kingdom."

■ 6:21 The hungry realize their need and look to God for satisfaction.

■ 6:22, 23 A blessing for the persecuted is most unexpected. It is not suffering in general that is pronounced blessed, but suffering "for the Son of Man's sake."

■ 6:24–26 The "woes" correspond to the blessings of the previous verses. Those who do not realize their spiritual poverty but rely on their own achievement will reap disaster in the end. The term "woe" often introduces a prophetic oracle of doom (e.g., Ezek. 34:2).

the one cheek, offer the other also. [n] And from him who takes away your cloak, do not withhold your tunic either. 30 [o] Give to everyone who asks of you. And from him who takes away your goods do not ask them back. 31 [p] And just as you want men to do to you, you also do to them likewise.

32 [q] "But if you love those who love you, what credit is that to you? For even sinners love those who love them. 33 And if you do good to those who do good to you, what credit is that to you? For even sinners do the same. 34 [r] And if you lend to those from whom you hope to receive back, what credit is that to you? For even sinners lend to sinners to receive as much back. 35 But [s] love your enemies, [t] do good, and [u] lend, [s] hoping for nothing in return; and your reward will be great, and [v] you will be sons of the Most High. For He is kind to the unthankful and evil. 36 [w] Therefore be merciful, just as your Father also is merciful.

Do Not Judge

37 [x] "Judge not, and you shall not be judged. Condemn not, and you shall not be condemned. [y] Forgive, and you will be forgiven. 38 [z] Give, and it will be given to you: good measure, pressed down, shaken together, and running over will be put into your [a] bosom. For [b] with the same measure that you use, it will be measured back to you."

39 And He spoke a parable to them: [c] "Can the blind lead the blind? Will they not both fall into the ditch? 40 [d] A disciple is not above his teacher, but everyone who is perfectly trained will be like his teacher. 41 [e] And why do you look at the speck in your brother's eye, but do not perceive the plank in your own eye? 42 Or how can you say to your brother, 'Brother, let me remove the speck that is in your eye,' when you yourself do not see the plank that is in your own eye? Hypocrite! First remove the plank from your own eye, and then you will see clearly to remove the speck that is in your brother's eye.

A Tree Is Known by Its Fruit

43 [f] "For a good tree does not bear bad fruit, nor does a bad tree bear good fruit. 44 For [g] every tree is known by its own fruit. For men do not gather figs from thorns, nor do they gather grapes from a bramble bush. 45 [h] A good man out of the good treasure of his heart brings forth good; and an evil man out of the evil [9] treasure of his heart brings forth evil. For out [i] of the abundance of the heart his mouth speaks.

Build on the Rock

46 [j] "But why do you call Me 'Lord, Lord,' and not do the things which I say? 47 [k] Whoever comes to Me, and hears My sayings and does them, I will show you whom he is like: 48 He is like a man building a house, who dug deep and laid the foundation on the rock. And when the flood arose, the stream beat vehemently against that house, and could not shake it, for it was [1] founded on the rock. 49 But he who heard and did nothing is like a man who built a house on the earth without a foundation, against which the stream beat vehemently; and immediately it [2] fell. And the ruin of that house was great."

Jesus Heals a Centurion's Servant

7 Now when He concluded all His sayings in the hearing of the people, He [a] entered Capernaum. 2 And a certain centurion's servant, who was dear to him, was sick and ready to die. 3 So when he heard about Jesus, he sent elders of the Jews to Him, pleading with Him to come and heal his servant. 4 And when they came to Jesus, they begged Him earnestly, saying that the

CHAPTER 7

1 [a] Matt. 8:5–13

■ 6:30 A disciple must be free from the love of possessions.

■ 6:31 Jesus is the first to give the "Golden Rule" in this positive form; see note on Matt. 7:12.

■ 6:32–34 The world's standards are not to guide the followers of Jesus.

■ 6:35 sons of the Most High. God's people are to be like God, as merciful as He is.

■ 6:37 Judge not, and you shall not be judged. Jesus elsewhere teaches that His disciples must sometimes judge what others do (Matt. 18:15–17), and that the character of a person's heart can be recognized from the actions that flow from it (vv. 43–45; Matt. 7:15, 16). What He warns against here is the hypocrisy of those who condemn others for what they themselves are guilty of (vv. 41, 42), and the failure to show mercy (v. 36).

you will be forgiven. Such forgiveness is not a reward, but unless we forgive others we do not have genuine repentance and faith, and so exclude ourselves from forgiveness.

■ 6:46–49 To call Jesus "Lord" is to say that He should be obeyed.

■ 7:2 centurion's. Nominally in command of a hundred men, though the actual number varied. The centurions in the New Testament are all men of good character (7:4; 23:47; Acts 10:2; 27:43).

servant. The Greek word means "slave." This centurion was a humane person, concerned for his slaves.

■ 7:3 elders of the Jews. That leading men among the Jews would plead for him shows the regard in which the centurion was held.

one for whom He should do this was deserving, 5 "for he loves our nation, and has built us a synagogue."

6 Then Jesus went with them. And when He was already not far from the house, the centurion sent friends to Him, saying to Him, "Lord, do not trouble Yourself, for I am not worthy that You should enter under my roof. 7 Therefore I did not even think myself worthy to come to You. But [b]say the word, and my servant will be healed. 8 For I also am a man placed under [c]authority, having soldiers under me. And I say to one, 'Go,' and he goes; and to another, 'Come,' and he comes; and to my servant, 'Do this,' and he does it."

9 When Jesus heard these things, He marveled at him, and turned around and said to the crowd that followed Him, "I say to you, I have not found such great faith, not even in Israel!" 10 And those who were sent, returning to the house, found the servant well [f]who had been sick.

Jesus Raises the Son of the Widow of Nain

11 Now it happened, the day after, that He went into a city called Nain; and many of His disciples went with Him, and a large crowd. 12 And when He came near the gate of the city, behold, a dead man was being carried out, the only son of his mother; and she was a widow. And a large crowd from the city was with her. 13 When the Lord saw her, He had [d]compassion on her and said to her, [e]"Do not weep." 14 Then He came and touched the open coffin, and those who carried him stood still. And He said, "Young man, I say to you, [f]arise." 15 So he who was dead [g]sat up and began to speak. And He [h]presented him to his mother.

16 [i]Then fear [2]came upon all, and they [j]glorified God, saying, [k]"A great prophet has risen up among us"; and, [l]"God has visited His people." 17 And this report about Him went throughout all Judea and all the surrounding region.

John the Baptist Sends Messengers to Jesus

18 [m]Then the disciples of John reported to him concerning all these things. 19 And John, calling two of his disciples to him, sent them to [3]Jesus, saying, "Are You [n]the Coming One, or [4]do we look for another?"

20 When the men had come to Him, they said, "John the Baptist has sent us to You, saying, 'Are You the Coming One, or do we look for another?' " 21 And that very hour He cured many of [5]infirmities, afflictions, and evil spirits; and to many blind He gave sight.

22 [o]Jesus answered and said to them, "Go and tell John the things you have seen and heard: [p]that the blind [q]see, the lame [r]walk, the lepers are [s]cleansed, the deaf [t]hear, the dead are raised, [u]the poor have the gospel preached to them. 23 And blessed is he who is not [6]offended because of Me."

24 [v]When the messengers of John had departed, He began to speak to the multitudes concerning John: "What did you go out into the wilderness to see? A reed shaken by the wind? 25 But what did you go out to see? A man clothed in soft garments? Indeed those who are gorgeously appareled and live in luxury are in kings' courts. 26 But what did you go out to see? A prophet? Yes, I say to you, and more than a prophet. 27 This is he of whom it is written:

built us a synagogue. The centurion was interested in Jewish worship. He may even have been a "God-fearer," a Gentile who attached himself to the synagogue and worshiped God, but without being circumcised and becoming a Jewish proselyte.

■ 7:6–8 In Matt. 6:8, the man comes in person. Matthew appears to mean that what a man does through agents he does himself. For Luke, the messengers were important in that they show the man's humility (vv. 6, 7).

■ 7:8 under authority. The centurion was familiar with authority exercised at a distance.

■ 7:9 marveled. Only twice is Jesus said to have marveled: here at the faith of a foreigner (cf. Matt. 8:10), and in Mark 6:6 at unbelief in Nazareth.

■ 7:13 saw her. The mother would have been walking in front of the bier, so Jesus would have met her first. Nobody asked Him to help, but out of compassion He took action.

■ 7:15 The first of Jesus' three miracles of raising the dead (8:40–56; John 11:1–44). Such miracles were powerful messianic signs (v. 22). These "resurrections" differ from the resurrection of Christ, however, for these three were reunited with their mortal bodies only to die once more. As the first to be clothed with an imperishable, spiritual body (1 Cor. 15:42–44), Jesus is indeed the "firstborn from the dead" (Col. 1:18; cf. 1 Cor. 15:20).

■ 7:16 A great prophet. Inadequate, but probably the highest title they knew. They recognized the presence of God's power among them.

■ 7:18, 19 John had borne witness to Jesus (3:16–17), so questions like these are unexpected. Some think his faith had failed in the harsh conditions of Herod's prison, others that his patience had given out and he was suggesting that Jesus should actively bring in the kingdom. More probably he looked for Jesus to bring judgment, a note that John had stressed in his own ministry. He could not understand why Jesus did not punish sinners, but constantly performed deeds of mercy. Would somebody else come to carry out the threats of judgment?

■ 7:21–23 See Is. 35:5, 6; 61:1.

■ 7:24–28 Jesus praises John as the greatest of men, cast in the mold of the prophets of Israel and unmoved by expediency or luxury. Yet as a prophet he belonged to an era that was being withdrawn as the kingdom of God was introduced. In this sense he was less than those who were in the kingdom.

[w] 'Behold, I send My messenger before Your face,
Who will prepare Your way before You.'

28 For I say to you, among those born of women there is [7] not a [x] greater prophet than John the Baptist; but he who is least in the kingdom of God is greater than he."

29 And when all the people heard Him, even the tax collectors [8] justified God, [y] having been baptized with the baptism of John. 30 But the Pharisees and [9] lawyers rejected [z] the will of God for themselves, not having been baptized by him.

31 [1] And the Lord said, [a] "To what then shall I liken the men of this generation, and what are they like? 32 They are like children sitting in the marketplace and calling to one another, saying:

'We played the flute for you,
And you did not dance;
We mourned to you,
And you did not weep.'

33 For [b] John the Baptist came [c] neither eating bread nor drinking wine, and you say, 'He has a demon.' 34 The Son of Man has come [d] eating and drinking, and you say, 'Look, a glutton and a [2] winebibber, a friend of tax collectors and sinners!' 35 [e] But wisdom is justified by all her children."

A Sinful Woman Forgiven

36 [f] Then one of the Pharisees asked Him to eat with him. And He went to the Pharisee's house, and sat down to eat. 37 And behold, a woman in the city who was a sinner, when she knew that Jesus sat at the table in the Pharisee's house, brought an alabaster flask of fragrant oil, 38 and stood at His feet behind Him weeping; and she began to wash His feet with her tears, and wiped them with the hair of her head; and she kissed His feet and anointed them with the fragrant oil. 39 Now when the Pharisee who had invited Him saw this, he spoke to himself, saying, [g] "This Man, if He were a prophet, would know who and what manner of woman this is who is touching Him, for she is a sinner."

40 And Jesus answered and said to him, "Simon, I have something to say to you."

So he said, "Teacher, say it."

41 "There was a certain creditor who had two debtors. One owed five hundred [h] denarii, and the other fifty. 42 And when they had nothing with which to repay, he freely forgave them both. Tell Me, therefore, which of them will love him more?"

43 Simon answered and said, "I suppose the one whom he forgave more."

And He said to him, "You have rightly judged." 44 Then He turned to the woman and said to Simon, "Do you see this woman? I entered your house; you gave Me no [i] water for My feet, but she has washed My feet with her tears and wiped them with the hair of her head. 45 You gave Me no [j] kiss, but this woman has not ceased to kiss My feet since the time I came in. 46 [k] You did not anoint My head with oil, but this woman has anointed My feet with fragrant oil. 47 [l] Therefore I say to you, her sins, which are many, are forgiven, for she loved much. But to whom little is forgiven, the same loves little."

48 Then He said to her, [m] "Your sins are forgiven."

49 And those who sat at the table with Him began to say to themselves, [n] "Who is this who even forgives sins?"

50 Then He said to the woman, [o] "Your faith has saved you. Go in peace."

■ 7:32 like children. Jesus compares that generation with children at play, who sometimes reject whatever games anyone might suggest.

■ 7:37, 38 At a dinner like this the house would be open and people could come in and watch. A sinful woman (perhaps a prostitute) would not have been welcome; it took courage for her to come. Guests at dinner reclined on couches. Leaning on the left side, they took the food with their right hands.

■ 7:37 alabaster. A translucent stone used to make containers for costly perfumes.

■ 7:38 weeping. The woman's tears and her anointing of Jesus' feet demonstrated penitence and humility.

■ 7:39 This Man . . . would know. A Pharisee would have no contact with sinful people, and was sure that no prophet would have such contact either. As Jesus did not dismiss the woman, Simon thought that He either did not know that she was sinful or did not care. In either case, in Simon's view Jesus could not be a prophet.

■ 7:44–46 Simon had omitted the courtesies normally given to guests. But the woman made up for this.

■ 7:47 for. The woman was forgiven because of faith (v. 50). Her love showed that she understood what God's forgiveness meant for her.

■ 7:48–50 Again Jesus authoritatively declares sins to be forgiven, an act that arouses comment (cf. 5:20, 21). But His concern is for the woman.

Many Women Minister to Jesus

8 Now it came to pass, afterward, that He went through every city and village, preaching and [1]bringing the glad tidings of the kingdom of God. And the twelve were with Him, [2]and [a]certain women who had been healed of evil spirits and [2]infirmities—Mary called Magdalene, [b]out of whom had come seven demons, [3]and Joanna the wife of Chuza, Herod's steward, and Susanna, and many others who provided for [3]Him from their [4]substance.

The Parable of the Sower

[4][c]And when a great multitude had gathered, and they had come to Him from every city, He spoke by a parable: [5]"A sower went out to sow his seed. And as he sowed, some fell by the wayside; and it was trampled down, and the birds of the air devoured it. [6]Some fell on rock; and as soon as it sprang up, it withered away because it lacked moisture. [7]And some fell among thorns, and the thorns sprang up with it and choked it. [8]But others fell on good ground, sprang up, and yielded [5]a crop a hundredfold." When He had said these things He cried, [d]"He who has ears to hear, let him hear!"

The Purpose of Parables

[9][e]Then His disciples asked Him, saying, "What does this parable mean?"

[10]And He said, "To you it has been given to know the [6]mysteries of the kingdom of God, but to the rest it is given in parables, that

[f]'Seeing they may not see,
And hearing they may not understand.'

The Parable of the Sower Explained

[11][g]"Now the parable is this: The seed is the [h]word of God. [12]Those by the wayside are the ones who hear; then the devil comes and takes away the word out of their hearts, lest they should believe and be saved. [13]But the ones on the rock are those who, when they hear, receive the word with joy; and these have no root, who believe for a while and in time of [7]temptation fall away. [14]Now the ones that fell among thorns are those who, when they have heard, go out and are choked with cares, [i]riches, and pleasures of life, and bring no fruit to maturity. [15]But the ones that fell on the good ground are those who, having heard the word with a noble and good heart, keep it and bear fruit with [j]patience.[8]

The Parable of the Revealed Light

[16][k]"No one, when he has lit a lamp, covers it with a vessel or puts it under a bed, but sets it on a lampstand, that those who enter may see the [l]light. [17][m]For nothing is secret that will not be [n]revealed, nor anything hidden that will not be known and come to light. [18]Therefore take heed how you hear. [o]For whoever has, to him more will be given; and whoever does not have, even what he [9]seems to [p]have will be taken from him."

■ 8:2 Rabbis refused to teach women, so Jesus' acceptance of them into His group of followers was unusual.

Magdalene. From the town of Magdala.

■ 8:3 from their substance. This provides a glimpse of the way Jesus and His band were supported throughout His ministry.

■ 8:4 parable. From this point, parables feature more prominently. Crowds were coming to Jesus but He looked for more than casual contact. Parables required people to think carefully about what He was saying.

■ 8:5 Seed was sown first, then plowed into the soil. Pathways through the fields would not be plowed, and seed that fell there was wasted; it could not sink into the ground.

■ 8:6 on rock. That is, rock covered with a layer of soil too shallow to hold sufficient moisture.

■ 8:7 thorns. That is, hardy, fast-growing weeds.

■ 8:8 a hundredfold. Matthew and Mark speak of thirtyfold and sixtyfold, but Luke emphasizes abundance far beyond what any crop could be expected to produce.

■ 8:10 mysteries. The kingdom of God involves truths that are beyond human insights and wisdom but that God has now made known.

the rest. These are the people to whom Isaiah's prophecy refers—they do not respond to Jesus' teaching. They hear the story but do not understand the meaning.

that. Jesus teaching in parables has a twofold purpose—to reveal the mysteries of the kingdom to those who have "ears to hear" (v. 8) and to conceal the truth of the kingdom from those who do not. See notes on Matt. 13:13; Mark 4:11.

■ 8:13 who believe for a while. One test of a true and living faith is perseverance. Those who finally depart from the way of truth reveal that they were never actually part of God's family (1 John 2:19).

■ 8:16–18 The whole purpose of lighting a lamp is that it may give light. The teaching Jesus gives is to be made known and in the end, on Judgment Day, nothing can be kept hidden. Therefore it is important to hear the teaching in the right way. All those who do this will find that their stock of truth keeps growing. To neglect what we have is to lose it.

Jesus' Mother and Brothers Come to Him

19 [q]Then His mother and brothers came to Him, and could not approach Him because of the crowd. 20 And it was told Him by some, who said, "Your mother and Your brothers are standing outside, desiring to see You."

21 But He answered and said to them, "My mother and My brothers are these who hear the word of God and do it."

Wind and Wave Obey Jesus

22 [r]Now it happened, on a certain day, that He got into a boat with His disciples. And He said to them, "Let us cross over to the other side of the lake." And they launched out. 23 But as they sailed He fell asleep. And a windstorm came down on the lake, and they were filling with water, and were in [1]jeopardy. 24 And they came to Him and awoke Him, saying, "Master, Master, we are perishing!"

Then He arose and rebuked the wind and the raging of the water. And they ceased, and there was a calm. 25 But He said to them, [s]"Where is your faith?"

And they were afraid, and marveled, saying to one another, [t]"Who can this be? For He commands even the winds and water, and they obey Him!"

A Demon-Possessed Man Healed

26 [u]Then they sailed to the country of the [2]Gadarenes, which is opposite Galilee. 27 And when He stepped out on the land, there met Him a certain man from the city who had demons [3]for a long time. And he wore no clothes, nor did he live in a house but in the tombs. 28 When he saw Jesus, he [v]cried out, fell down before Him, and with a loud voice said, [w]"What have I to do with [x]You, Jesus, Son of the Most High God? I beg You, do not torment me!" 29 For He had commanded the unclean spirit to come out of the man. For it had often seized him, and he was kept under guard, bound with chains and shackles; and he broke the bonds and was driven by the demon into the wilderness.

30 Jesus asked him, saying, "What is your name?"

And he said, "Legion," because many demons had entered him. 31 And they begged Him that He would not command them to go out [y]into the abyss.

32 Now a herd of many [z]swine was feeding there on the mountain. So they begged Him that He would permit them to enter them. And He permitted them. 33 Then the demons went out of the man and entered the swine, and the herd ran violently down the steep place into the lake and drowned.

34 When those who fed them saw what had happened, they fled and told it in the city and in the country. 35 Then they went out to see what had happened, and came to Jesus, and found the man from whom the demons had departed, [a]sitting at the [b]feet of Jesus, clothed and in his [c]right mind. And they were afraid. 36 They also who had seen it told them by what means he who had been demon-possessed was [4]healed. 37 [d]Then the whole multitude of the surrounding region of the [5]Gadarenes [e]asked Him to [f]depart from them, for they were seized with great [g]fear. And He got into the boat and returned.

38 Now [h]the man from whom the demons had departed begged Him that he might be with Him. But Jesus sent him away, saying, 39 "Return to your own house, and tell what great things

■ 8:19 brothers. Those who believe that Mary remained a virgin all her life regard these as cousins, or as children of Joseph by an earlier marriage. But there is little evidence for this view.

■ 8:21 Jesus' words are not a repudiation of His earthly family; He took care of Mary even as He hung on the cross (John 19:26, 27). His point is that the service of God, and His work as Messiah, is more important than any natural relation.

■ 8:22, 23 The Sea of Galilee is seven hundred feet below sea level and bounded by mountains. Cool air can sweep down and whip up sudden storms. Jesus' sleep followed the labors of a busy day.

■ 8:26 Gadarenes. It is not clear what place name should be read here (see text note; Matt. 8:28; Mark 5:1 note). Both Gadara and Gerasa were towns situated some miles from the lake.

■ 8:27 Demon possession took many forms. This man was deranged.

■ 8:28 Like the demoniac of 4:34, this one knew who Jesus was (contrast the disciples in v. 25).

■ 8:30 Legion. There may have been a great number of demons in the man (a Roman legion had about six thousand soldiers).

■ 8:31 the abyss. The place of confinement for evil spirits (Rev. 20:1–3).

■ 8:32, 33 Jesus permitted but did not order the demons to enter the swine.

■ 8:37 Fear caused these people to reject the most wonderful opportunity of their lives. They may have been afraid of the power they saw in the healing or upset by the loss of a herd of swine.

■ 8:38, 39 With Jesus gone it was important that the man work for God in that region. Notice that what "God has done" is identified with what Jesus had done.

God has done for you." And he went his way and proclaimed throughout the whole city what great things Jesus had done for him.

A Girl Restored to Life and a Woman Healed

40 So it was, when Jesus returned, that the multitude welcomed Him, for they were all waiting for Him. 41 [i]And behold, there came a man named Jairus, and he was a ruler of the synagogue. And he fell down at Jesus' feet and begged Him to come to his house, 42 for he had an only daughter about twelve years of age, and she [j]was dying.

But as He went, the multitudes thronged Him. 43 [k]Now a woman, having a [l]flow of blood for twelve years, who had spent all her livelihood on physicians and could not be healed by any, 44 came from behind and [m]touched the border of His garment. And immediately her flow of blood stopped.

45 And Jesus said, "Who touched Me?"

When all denied it, Peter [6]and those with him said, "Master, the multitudes throng and press You, [7]and You say, 'Who touched Me?' "

46 But Jesus said, "Somebody touched Me, for I perceived [n]power going out from Me." 47 Now when the woman saw that she was not hidden, she came trembling; and falling down before Him, she declared to Him in the presence of all the people the reason she had touched Him and how she was healed immediately.

48 And He said to her, "Daughter, [8]be of good cheer; [o]your faith has made you well. [p]Go in peace."

49 [q]While He was still speaking, someone came from the ruler of the synagogue's house, saying to him, "Your daughter is dead. Do not trouble the [9]Teacher."

50 But when Jesus heard it, He answered him, saying, "Do not be afraid; [r]only believe, and she will be made well." 51 When He came into the house, He permitted no one to go [1]in except [2]Peter, James, and John, and the father and mother of the girl. 52 Now all wept and mourned for her; but He said, [s]"Do not weep; she is not dead, [t]but sleeping." 53 And they ridiculed Him, knowing that she was dead.

54 But He [3]put them all outside, took her by the hand and called, saying, "Little girl, [u]arise." 55 Then her spirit returned, and she arose immediately. And He commanded that she be given something to eat. 56 And her parents were astonished, but [v]He charged them to tell no one what had happened.

Sending Out the Twelve

9 Then [a]He called His twelve disciples together and [b]gave them power and authority over all demons, and to cure diseases. 2 [c]He sent them to preach the kingdom of God and to heal the sick. 3 [d]And He said to them, "Take nothing for the journey, neither staffs nor bag nor bread nor money; and do not have two tunics apiece.

4 [e]"Whatever house you enter, stay there, and from there depart. 5 [f]And whoever will not re-

■ 8:41 a ruler of the synagogue. The man who would arrange the service, choosing those who would read Scripture or lead in prayer.

■ 8:43 having a flow of blood. The woman's condition would make her ceremonially unclean (Lev. 15:25), cutting her off from many social relationships.

■ 8:44 the border of His garment. Perhaps the tassel prescribed in Num. 15:37–40.

■ 8:45 The woman's cure needed to be known publicly in order for her to be taken back into normal social life. Jesus was careful to arrange this.

■ 8:48 Daughter. She is the only woman Jesus calls "Daughter," a tender statement.

■ 8:52 Luke does not explain who "all" these people were. They would certainly include relatives and friends, probably people from the neighborhood and professional mourners (including flute players, Matt. 9:23). Mourning was normally demonstrative, and there would have been much wailing. Jesus forbade it all and said that the girl was "sleeping." This does not mean that she had not died, but that Jesus was prepared to waken her from death.

■ 8:54 arise. Luke describes the miracle simply (Mark 5:41 retains the Aramaic words Jesus used, but Luke translates them).

■ 8:56 The effect of the miracle was astonishment. This time Jesus forbade publicity; He often did not want news of His miracles to spread (Mark 1:34 note).

■ 9:1, 2 The Twelve were evidently not together all the time (some had homes and families). But for this important mission Jesus gathered them all. He equipped them with power over demons (see "Demons" at Deut. 32:17) and sickness, and commissioned them to continue His work of preaching and healing.

■ 9:3 They were to take the barest minimum, relying on God's provision.

neither staffs. No complete explanation has been given as to why Mark 6:8 allows a staff; perhaps both are ways of saying "Go as you are; make no special preparation."

bag. The bag a traveler would take to carry belongings and provisions for his journey.

■ 9:4 They would rely on hospitality, but staying in one house limited the time they spent in any one place.

■ 9:5 shake off the very dust from your feet. Strict Jews removed defiling dust from their feet when they returned from Gentile lands. The disciples' action symbolically said that those who rejected the preachers did not belong to God's people.

ceive you, when you go out of that city, [g]shake off the very dust from your feet as a testimony against them."

6 [h]So they departed and went through the towns, preaching the gospel and healing everywhere.

Herod Seeks to See Jesus

7 [i]Now Herod the tetrarch heard of all that was done by Him; and he was perplexed, because it was said by some that John had risen from the dead, 8 and by some that Elijah had appeared, and by others that one of the old prophets had risen again. 9 Herod said, "John I have beheaded, but who is this of whom I hear such things?" [j]So he sought to see Him.

Feeding the Five Thousand

10 [k]And the apostles, when they had returned, told Him all that they had done. [l]Then He took them and went aside privately into a deserted place belonging to the city called Bethsaida. 11 But when the multitudes knew it, they followed Him; and He received them and spoke to them about the kingdom of God, and healed those who had need of healing. 12 [m]When the day began to wear away, the twelve came and said to Him, "Send the multitude away, that they may go into the surrounding towns and country, and lodge and get provisions; for we are in a deserted place here."

13 But He said to them, "You give them something to eat."

And they said, "We have no more than five loaves and two fish, unless we go and buy food for all these people." 14 For there were about five thousand men.

Then He said to His disciples, "Make them sit down in groups of fifty." 15 And they did so, and made them all sit down.

16 Then He took the five loaves and the two fish, and looking up to heaven, He [n]blessed and broke them, and gave them to the disciples to set before the multitude. 17 So they all ate and were [l]filled, and twelve baskets of the leftover fragments were taken up by them.

Peter Confesses Jesus as the Christ

18 [o]And it happened, as He was alone praying, that His disciples joined Him, and He asked them, saying, "Who do the crowds say that I am?"

19 So they answered and said, [p]"John the Baptist, but some say Elijah; and others say that one of the old prophets has risen again."

20 He said to them, "But who do you say that I am?"

[q]Peter answered and said, "The Christ of God."

Jesus Predicts His Death and Resurrection

21 [r]And He strictly warned and commanded them to tell this to no one, 22 saying, [s]"The Son of Man must suffer many things, and be rejected by the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be killed, and be raised the third day."

Take Up the Cross and Follow Him

23 [t]Then He said to them all, "If anyone desires to come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross [2]daily, and follow Me. 24 [u]For whoever desires to save his life will lose it, but whoever loses his life for My sake will save it. 25 [v]For what profit is it to a man if he gains the whole world, and is himself destroyed or lost? 26 [w]For whoever is ashamed of Me and My

■ 9:7 Herod. Herod Antipas, who ruled Galilee.

John had risen from the dead. This became Herod's view (Mark 6:16), but at this time he simply believed that John was dead; Herod himself had ordered him beheaded.

■ 9:8 Elijah. See the prophecy of Mal. 4:5.

■ 9:10–17 The one miracle, apart from the Resurrection, found in all four Gospels.

■ 9:10 took them . . . aside. They retired to a private place, evidently to report to Jesus and relax after the preaching tour.

Bethsaida. This must mean in the vicinity of Bethsaida, for it was "a deserted place" (v. 12).

■ 9:11 received them. This was a gracious act when Jesus was looking for time to rest.

■ 9:20 who do you say. This question distinguishes the disciples from the crowds; the word "you" is emphatic.

Christ. This word means "anointed" (1 Sam. 2:10; Matt. 1:1 and notes); Christ is the One God has chosen above all others, the One who will bring salvation. Peter's answer is more than a penetrating assessment; it is not a human discovery but a revelation from God (Matt. 16:17).

■ 9:21 strictly warned. The disciples would almost certainly have been misunderstood if they had told anyone; people would have thought they were proclaiming a political deliverer. Jesus went on to explain the Messiah must suffer, be rejected, die, and be raised on the third day (v. 22).

■ 9:23–25 To take up the cross means to renounce selfish ambition; it is a death to a whole way of life.

words, of him the Son of Man will be [x]ashamed when He comes in His own glory, and in His Father's, and of the holy angels.

Jesus Transfigured on the Mount

[27][y]But I tell you truly, there are some standing here who shall not taste death till they see the kingdom of God."

[28][z]Now it came to pass, about eight days after these sayings, that He took Peter, John, and James and went up on the mountain to pray. [29]As He prayed, the appearance of His face was altered, and His robe became white and glistening. [30]And behold, two men talked with Him, who were [a]Moses and [b]Elijah, [31]who appeared in glory and spoke of His [3]decease which He was about to accomplish at Jerusalem. [32]But Peter and those with him [c]were heavy with sleep; and when they were fully awake, they saw His glory and the two men who stood with Him. [33]Then it happened, as they were parting from Him, that Peter said to Jesus, "Master, it is good for us to be here; and let us make three [4]tabernacles: one for You, one for Moses, and one for Elijah"—not knowing what he said.

[34]While he was saying this, a cloud came and overshadowed them; and they were fearful as they entered the [d]cloud. [35]And a voice came out of the cloud, saying, [e]"This is [5]My beloved Son. [f]Hear Him!" [36]When the voice had ceased, Jesus was found alone. [g]But they kept quiet, and told no one in those days any of the things they had seen.

A Boy Is Healed

[37][h]Now it happened on the next day, when they had come down from the mountain, that a great multitude met Him. [38]Suddenly a man from the multitude cried out, saying, "Teacher, I implore You, look on my son, for he is my only child. [39]And behold, a spirit seizes him, and he suddenly cries out; it convulses him so that he foams at the mouth; and it departs from him with great difficulty, bruising him. [40]So I implored Your disciples to cast it out, but they could not."

[41]Then Jesus answered and said, "O [6]faithless and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you and [7]bear with you? Bring your son here." [42]And as he was still coming, the demon threw him down and convulsed him. Then Jesus rebuked the unclean spirit, healed the child, and gave him back to his father.

Jesus Again Predicts His Death

[43]And they were all amazed at the majesty of God.

But while everyone marveled at all the things which Jesus did, He said to His disciples, [44][i]"Let these words sink down into your ears, for the Son of Man is about to be betrayed into the hands of men." [45][j]But they did not understand this saying, and it was hidden from them so that they did not perceive it; and they were afraid to ask Him about this saying.

■ 9:27 see the kingdom of God. Suggestions as to the meaning of this phrase include the Transfiguration, Jesus' resurrection and ascension, Pentecost, the spread of the gospel, the destruction of Jerusalem, and the Second Advent. See note on Matt. 16:28.

■ 9:28 the mountain. The location of the Transfiguration is not known. Mount Tabor is the traditional site, but it is a long way from Caesarea Philippi and a military post was located there at that time. Mount Hermon is a more likely suggestion. See "The Transfiguration of Jesus" at Mark 9:2.

■ 9:30 two men. Moses was the giver of the law, and Elijah represents the prophets.

■ 9:31 His decease. Lit. His "exodus" (2 Pet. 1:15 has the same Greek word). Only Luke reports the subject of this conversation. That Jesus' death was discussed during this revelation of glory shows its centrality for His mission. It was by His death that glory would come to sinners.

■ 9:32 heavy with sleep. The Transfiguration may have taken place at night, since v. 37 refers to "the next day" and Jesus sometimes prayed all night (6:12).

■ 9:33 three tabernacles. Peter suggests building structures of some kind, perhaps to enable the experience to be prolonged.

■ 9:34 the cloud. As in the Old Testament, the cloud is associated with the presence of God.

■ 9:35 My beloved Son. This designation emphasizes the divine relationship, and the command "Hear Him" His divine authority. Both set Jesus apart as different from and superior to Moses and Elijah.

■ 9:37–40 The contrast between the glory on the mountaintop and the disciples' inability to defeat the forces of evil on the plain is striking. They had cast out demons previously (vv. 1–6; cf. Mark 9:29).

■ 9:41 faithless and perverse generation. These words are apparently addressed to the crowds that had come without faith, evidently expecting Jesus to be able to do nothing. In contrast, the boy's father had faith even though it was imperfect (Mark 9:24).

■ 9:44 The word "your" is emphatic. Over against the general unbelief, the disciples are to be different. Jesus then predicts His betrayal and death in general terms, but they did not understand.

■ 9:45 it was hidden. This may mean that they were actively prevented from understanding, or simply that before the Resurrection it seemed contradictory to the disciples that salvation could come by way of Jesus' death.

Who Is the Greatest?

46 [k]Then a dispute arose among them as to which of them would be greatest. 47 And Jesus, [l]perceiving the thought of their heart, took a [m]little child and set him by Him, 48 and said to them, [n]"Whoever receives this little child in My name receives Me; and [o]whoever receives Me [p]receives Him who sent Me. [q]For he who is least among you all will be great."

Jesus Forbids Sectarianism

49 [r]Now John answered and said, "Master, we saw someone casting out demons in Your name, and we forbade him because he does not follow with us."

50 But Jesus said to him, "Do not forbid him, for [s]he who is not against [8]us is on [9]our side."

A Samaritan Village Rejects the Savior

51 Now it came to pass, when the time had come for [t]Him to be received up, that He steadfastly set His face to go to Jerusalem, 52 and sent messengers before His face. And as they went, they entered a village of the Samaritans, to prepare for Him. 53 But [u]they did not receive Him, because His face was set for the journey to Jerusalem. 54 And when His disciples [v]James and John saw this, they said, "Lord, do You want us to command fire to come down from heaven and consume them, [1]just as [w]Elijah did?"

55 But He turned and rebuked them, [2]and said, "You do not know what manner of [x]spirit you are of. 56 [3]For [y]the Son of Man did not come to destroy men's lives but to save them." And they went to another village.

The Cost of Discipleship

57 [z]Now it happened as they journeyed on the road, that someone said to Him, "Lord, I will follow You wherever You go."

58 And Jesus said to him, "Foxes have holes and birds of the air have nests, but the Son of Man [a]has nowhere to lay His head."

59 [b]Then He said to another, "Follow Me."

57 [z]Matt. 8:19–22

58 [a]Luke 2:7; 8:23

59 [b]Matt. 8:21, 22

■ 9:46 be greatest. Luke contrasts the disciples' wish to have the best place for themselves with Jesus' concern for others.

■ 9:47 little child. Children were typically considered unimportant. To be concerned with them and to take the lowest place is to be truly great.

■ 9:49, 50 For John, it was not enough to do miracles in Jesus' name; it was necessary to "follow with us." Jesus is saying that there is no neutrality in the struggle against evil. Those not against us are for us, a test we should apply to others. In 11:23 we find a test we should apply to ourselves.

■ 9:51 From this point to 19:44, Luke gives an account of Jesus' journey to Jerusalem. There is no parallel to this unit as a whole in the other Gospels, though there are parallels to some of the individual sections. Luke presents the solemn progress to the capital city where Jesus would die for sinners in accordance with the will of God. On the way He gives the disciples teaching that would be important for them when they were left to carry on as Christian leaders without His physical presence.

■ 9:52, 53 Jesus and His disciples would be enough to strain the resources of a small village if they dropped in unexpectedly. Jesus gave due notice but was met with the traditional hostility of the Samaritans for the Jews.

■ 9:54 The disciples had zeal for their task but did not understand the mercy of God.

■ 9:59 bury my father. The father may have been alive. The words would then indicate that the potential disciple wanted to continue to care for his father until his death. If the father was dead, Jesus' words are all the more shocking, since filial piety demanded that a son should look after the burial arrangements for his father. Either way, Jesus is saying that the demands of the kingdom override all earthly loyalties.

Jewish Pilgrimage from Galilee to Jerusalem. Galilean Jews often traveled to the temple in Jerusalem. The most direct route from Capernaum was to Ginae on through Samaria, Sychar, Lebonah, and Bethel. Some Jews, however, in order to avoid any travel in Samaria at all, went south from Scythopolis along the west bank of the Jordan River to Jericho.

But he said, "Lord, let me first go and bury my father."

60 Jesus said to him, "Let the dead bury their own dead, but you go and preach the kingdom of God."

61 And another also said, "Lord, [c]I will follow You, but let me first go and bid them farewell who are at my house."

62 But Jesus said to him, "No one, having put his hand to the plow, and looking back, is [d]fit for the kingdom of God."

The Seventy Sent Out

10 After these things the Lord appointed [1]seventy others also, and [a]sent them two by two before His face into every city and place where He Himself was about to go. 2 Then He said to them, [b]"The harvest truly is great, but the laborers are few; therefore [c]pray the Lord of the harvest to send out laborers into His harvest. 3 Go your way; [d]behold, I send you out as lambs among wolves. 4 [e]Carry neither money bag, knapsack, nor sandals; and [f]greet no one along the road. 5 [g]But whatever house you enter, first say, 'Peace to this house.' 6 And if a son of peace is there, your peace will rest on it; if not, it will return to you. 7 [h]And remain in the same house, [i]eating and drinking such things as they give, for [j]the laborer is worthy of his wages. Do not go from house to house. 8 Whatever city you enter, and they receive you, eat such things as are set before you. 9 [k]And heal the sick there, and say to them, [l]'The kingdom of God has come near to you.' 10 But whatever city you enter, and they do not receive you, go out into its streets and say, 11 [m]'The very dust of your city which clings to [2]us we wipe off against you. Nevertheless know this, that the kingdom of God has come near you.' 12 [3]But I say to you that [n]it will be more tolerable in that Day for Sodom than for that city.

Woe to the Impenitent Cities

13 [o]"Woe to you, Chorazin! Woe to you, Bethsaida! [p]For if the mighty works which were done in you had been done in Tyre and Sidon, they would have repented long ago, sitting in sackcloth and ashes. 14 But it will be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon at the judgment than for you. 15 [q]And you, Capernaum, [4]who are [r]exalted to heaven, [s]will be brought down to Hades. 16 [t]He who hears you hears Me, [u]he who rejects you rejects Me, and [v]he who rejects Me rejects Him who sent Me."

The Seventy Return with Joy

17 Then [w]the [5]seventy returned with joy, saying, "Lord, even the demons are subject to us in Your name."

18 And He said to them, [x]"I saw Satan fall like lightning from heaven. 19 Behold, [y]I give you the authority to trample on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy, and nothing shall by any means hurt you. 20 Nevertheless do not rejoice in this, that the spirits are subject to you, but [6]rather rejoice because [z]your names are written in heaven."

Jesus Rejoices in the Spirit

21 [a]In that hour Jesus rejoiced in the Spirit and said, "I thank You, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that You have hidden these things from the wise and prudent and revealed them to babes.

■ 10:1 seventy others. This mission is found only in Luke, but the instructions are similar to some of those given earlier to the Twelve (9:1–6; Matt. 10:5–15; Mark 6:7–13). The Greek manuscripts are divided between 70 and 72 as the number sent out (see text note), and there is no way of being sure which is original. Both represent the number of the nations of the world in Gen. 10 (the Hebrew text has 70 names, the Greek has 72).

■ 10:12 Sodom's wickedness was proverbial, but rejecting the preachers of God's kingdom is worse even than Sodom's deeds.

that Day. Judgment Day.

■ 10:13 Chorazin . . . Bethsaida. Having heard and rejected Jesus, these towns were more guilty than Tyre and Sidon, which were infamous for their evil.

■ 10:15 Capernaum. Capernaum was a town where Jesus did much of His work.

■ 10:16 To reject God's messengers is to reject God also.

■ 10:18 In its context the saying seems to mean that the ministry of the preachers had inflicted a defeat upon Satan.

■ 10:19 authority. When they are sent by God, they are safe from snakes and scorpions (cf. Acts 28:3–5). God's messengers are protected as they do what God calls them to do.

■ 10:21 revealed them to babes. See "Illumination and Conviction" at 1 Cor. 2:10.

Even so, Father, for so it seemed good in Your sight. 22 [b]All[7] things have been delivered to Me by My Father, and [c]no one knows who the Son is except the Father, and who the Father is except the Son, and the one to whom the Son wills to reveal Him."

23 Then He turned to His disciples and said privately, [d]"Blessed are the eyes which see the things you see; 24 for I tell you [e]that many prophets and kings have desired to see what you see, and have not seen it, and to hear what you hear, and have not heard it."

The Parable of the Good Samaritan

25 And behold, a certain [8]lawyer stood up and tested Him, saying, [f]"Teacher, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?"

26 He said to him, "What is written in the law? What is your reading of it?"

27 So he answered and said, [g]"'You shall love the LORD your God with all your heart, with all your soul, with all your strength, and with all your mind,' and [h]'your neighbor as yourself.'"

28 And He said to him, "You have answered rightly; do this and [i]you will live."

29 But he, wanting to [j]justify himself, said to Jesus, "And who is my neighbor?"

30 Then Jesus answered and said: "A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among [9]thieves, who stripped him of his clothing, wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead. 31 Now by chance a certain priest came down that road. And when he saw him, [k]he passed by on the other side. 32 Likewise a Levite, when he arrived at the place, came and looked, and passed by on the other side. 33 But a certain [l]Samaritan, as he journeyed, came where he was. And when he saw him, he had [m]compassion. 34 So he went to him and bandaged his wounds, pouring on oil and wine; and he set him on his own animal, brought him to an inn, and took care of him. 35 On the next day, [n]when he departed, he took out two [n]denarii, gave them to the innkeeper, and said to him, 'Take care of him; and whatever more you spend, when I come again, I will repay you.' 36 So which of these three do you think was neighbor to him who fell among the thieves?"

37 And he said, "He who showed mercy on him."

Then Jesus said to him, [o]"Go and do likewise."

Mary and Martha Worship and Serve

38 Now it happened as they went that He entered a certain village; and a certain woman named [p]Martha welcomed Him into her house. 39 And she had a sister called Mary, [q]who also [r]sat at [2]Jesus' feet and heard His word. 40 But Martha was distracted with much serving, and she approached Him and said, "Lord, do You not care that my sister has left me to serve alone? Therefore tell her to help me."

41 And [3]Jesus answered and said to her, "Martha, Martha, you are worried and troubled about many things. 42 But [s]one thing is needed, and Mary has chosen that good part, which will not be taken away from her."

The Model Prayer

11 Now it came to pass, as He was praying in a certain place, when He ceased, that one of His disciples said to Him, "Lord, teach us to pray, as John also taught his disciples."

2 So He said to them, "When you pray, say:

■ 10:22 The relationship of Jesus and the Father is unique. Knowledge of it does not come to the world by natural means.

■ 10:23, 24 The greatest of prophets and kings in earlier days had not seen the Messiah, as these disciples had (cf. 7:24–28 note).

■ 10:25 lawyer. An expert in the law of God (see text note), and so a religious man. Yet he was not genuinely looking for information but for something that would enable him to accuse Jesus.

■ 10:27 The lawyer showed insight; Jesus summed up the law in much the same way (Matt. 22:37–40).

■ 10:28 do this. God's will is the way of life.

■ 10:29–37 The parable answers the question "Who is my neighbor," not the question concerning what one must do to be saved. The Jews had various ideas about the "neighbor," but they confined it to Israel.

■ 10:33, 34 Listeners would expect a priest and a Levite to be followed by a lay Israelite in an anti-clerical story. The Samaritan is totally unexpected, as is his kindness. Oil and wine were common remedies of that time and expressed the Samaritan's compassion.

■ 10:35 two denarii. See Matt. 18:28 note. The coins would have paid for the man's board for several days.

■ 10:38 a certain village. Bethany, about two miles from Jerusalem (John 11:1).

■ 10:40, 41 Martha's preparations may have been unnecessarily elaborate. Mary knew that listening to Jesus was an extraordinary opportunity, to be given preference over other concerns (see Mark 19:7).

■ 11:1 Lord, teach us to pray. Religious teachers were expected to teach their disciples how to pray.

■ 11:2–4 This form of the "Lord's Prayer" differs slightly from that in Matt. 6:9–13. In Matthew, the prayer is given in a sermon; here it is given in answer to a question.

■ 11:2 Father. This corresponds to the Aramaic Abba, the usual word for addressing a father in the family.

name. Names are representative of the person. The petition is that people will reverence God.

A Friend Comes at Midnight

5 And He said to them, "Which of you shall have a friend, and go to him at midnight and say to him, 'Friend, lend me three loaves; 6 for a friend of mine has come to me on his journey, and I have nothing to set before him'; 7 and he will answer from within and say, 'Do not trouble me; the door is now shut, and my children are with me in bed; I cannot rise and give to you'? 8 I say

Prayer

God made us and redeemed us for fellowship with Himself, and prayer is an important part of that relationship. God speaks to us in and through the contents of the Bible, which the Holy Spirit opens up and applies to us and enables us to understand. We then speak to God about Himself, ourselves, and people in His world, shaping what we say as response to what He has said. This unique form of two-way conversation continues as long as life lasts.

The Bible teaches us how to pray both privately (Matt. 6:5–8) and in company with each other (Acts 1:14; 4:24). In prayer, God's people express adoration and praise; confess their sins and ask for forgiveness; give thanks for God's goodness; and make petitions for themselves and others. The Lord's Prayer (Matt. 6:9–13; Luke 11:2–4) includes adoration, petition, and confession; the Psalter provides models of these three and of petition and intercession as well.

In petition the persons praying make their requests known to God, expressing their faith and dependence on Him for all things. Petition is the dimension of prayer most often highlighted through the Bible. As with the other aspects of prayer, petitions should ordinarily be directed to the Father, as the Lord's Prayer shows; but prayer may be directed to Christ, as in the days of His incarnation (Rom. 10:8–13; 2 Cor. 12:7–9), and to the Holy Spirit (Rev. 1:4).

Jesus teaches that petition to the Father is to be made in His name (John 14:13, 14; 15:16; 16:23, 24). This means invoking His mediation, as the One who secures our access to the Father, and looking to Him for support, as our intercessor in the Father's presence.

We may pray to God with fervent persistence when we bring our needs to Him (Luke 11:5–13; 18:1–8), and know that He will answer our prayers. But God knows what is best in a way that we do not, and He may deny our specific requests. If He denies us, it is because He has something better for us, as when Christ refused to heal Paul's thorn in the flesh (2 Cor. 12:7–9). To say, "Your will be done," surrendering our own preference to the Father's wisdom, as Jesus did in Gethsemane (Matt. 26:39–44), is an explicit way of expressing faith in the goodness of what God has planned.

In intercession, we represent to God the needs and concerns of others. In doing this we exercise God-given love for them. Moses is a model for such a prayer in the Old Testament. In the New Testament it is at the center of what Jesus came to do, as John 17 reveals. The same prayer shows that the glory of God gives the ultimate purpose of intercession. In the same way, the Lord's Prayer puts God's glory first, making God's name the guide for our petitions and confessions as well. □ kingdom come. Jesus taught often about God's kingdom, and the prayer asks for it to be established. See theological note "Prayer."

■ 11:4 forgive us . . . For we also forgive. Sinners need the forgiveness of sins each day. If people do not forgive others they are not in a condition to receive forgiveness themselves.

■ 11:7 In a one-room house the whole family would sleep on a raised platform, and for one person to get up would disturb them all.

■ 11:8 Friendship is not enough to make him get up, but persistence is.

to you, [c]though he will not rise and give to him because he is his friend, yet because of his persistence he will rise and give him as many as he needs.

Keep Asking, Seeking, Knocking

9 [d]"So I say to you, ask, and it will be given to you; [e]seek, and you will find; knock, and it will be opened to you. 10 For everyone who asks receives, and he who seeks finds, and to him who knocks it will be opened. 11 If a son asks for [5]bread from any father among you, will he give him a stone? Or if he asks for a fish, will he give him a serpent instead of a fish? 12 Or if he asks for an egg, will he offer him a scorpion? 13 If you then, being evil, know how to give [g]good gifts to your children, how much more will your heavenly Father give the Holy Spirit to those who ask Him!"

A House Divided Cannot Stand

14 [h]And He was casting out a demon, and it was mute. So it was, when the demon had gone out, that the mute spoke; and the multitudes marveled. 15 But some of them said, [i]"He casts out demons by [6]Beelzebub, the ruler of the demons."

16 Others, testing Him, [j]sought from Him a sign from heaven. 17 [k]But [l]He, knowing their thoughts, said to them: "Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation, and a house divided against a house falls. 18 If Satan also is divided against himself, how will his kingdom stand? Because you say I cast out demons by Beelzebub. 19 And if I cast out demons by Beelzebub, by whom do your sons cast them out? Therefore they will be your judges. 20 But if I cast out demons [m]with the finger of God, surely the kingdom of God has come upon you. 21 [n]When a strong man, fully armed, guards his own palace, his goods are in peace. 22 But [o]when a stronger than he comes upon him and overcomes him, he takes from him all his armor in which he trusted, and divides his [7]spoils. 23 [p]He who is not with Me is against Me, and he who does not gather with Me scatters.

An Unclean Spirit Returns

24 [q]"When an unclean spirit goes out of a man, he goes through dry places, seeking rest; and finding none, he says, 'I will return to my house from which I came.' 25 And when he comes, he finds it swept and put in order. 26 Then he goes and takes with him seven other spirits more wicked than himself, and they enter and dwell there; and [r]the last state of that man is worse than the first."

Keeping the Word

27 And it happened, as He spoke these things, that a certain woman from the crowd raised her voice and said to Him, [s]"Blessed is the womb that bore You, and the breasts which nursed You!"

28 But He said, [t]"More than that, blessed are those who hear the word of God and keep it!"

Seeking a Sign

29 [u]And while the crowds were thickly gathered together, He began to say, "This is an evil generation. It seeks a [v]sign, and no sign will be given to it except the sign of Jonah [8]the prophet.

29 [u]Matt. 12:38–42 [v]1 Cor. 1:22 [8]NU omits the prophet

- 11:13 you . . . being evil. Universal sinfulness is presupposed.
- 11:14, 15 Jesus' enemies did not deny that He expelled demons, but ascribed His power to Beelzebub, the name of a heathen god (2 Kin. 1:2; Matt. 10:25 note).
- 11:17, 18 Unity is strength; Satan is not casting out his own workers.
- 11:20 the finger of God. As in Ex. 8:19, this figure describes the work of God Himself; Matt. 12:28 reads "the Spirit of God." Both statements bring out the truth that Jesus did not cast out demons by Beelzebub. The power of God was at work in Him. This points to a further truth: in the coming of Jesus the kingdom of God has come. The miracles He performs are evidence for those who have eyes to see that God is at work.
- 11:21, 22 Satan is like a strong man in complete control of his house, the people under his power. But Jesus is stronger than Satan and overthrows him. This parable teaches that the kingdom of God is not simply a matter of helpful teaching; it comes with power to overcome Satan.
- 11:23 There can be no neutrality. The message of the kingdom brings the possibility of overcoming evil, and anyone who rejects this message accepts the ways of evil. There is no middle course.
- 11:24 house from which I came. The demon talks about the place he left as if he still owned it.
- 11:25 swept and put in order. The man has cleaned up his life, but nothing more. His life is empty, and therefore open to any evil influence.
- 11:28 More than that. Jesus does not deny that Mary was blessed; He is saying that hearing and obeying God's word is more important.
- 11:29 a sign. Here Jesus responds to the demand for a "sign from heaven" (v. 16). Such a request could only have been motivated by unbelief, especially in view of the many demonstrations of messianic power already performed by Jesus (7:20–23). For Luke, Jesus' own presence is a "sign" of God's redemptive activity (2:34; 11:30).

The Lamp of the Body

33 [a]"No one, when he has lit a lamp, puts it in a secret place or under a [b]basket, but on a lampstand, that those who come in may see the light. 34 [c]The lamp of the body is the eye. Therefore, when your eye is [g]good, your whole body also is full of light. But when your eye is [f]bad, your body also is full of darkness. 35 Therefore take heed that the light which is in you is not darkness. 36 If then your whole body is full of light, having no part dark, the whole body will be full of light, as when the bright shining of a lamp gives you light."

Woe to the Pharisees and Lawyers

37 And as He spoke, a certain Pharisee asked Him to dine with him. So He went in and sat down to eat. 38 [d]When the Pharisee saw it, he marveled that He had not first washed before dinner.

39 [e]Then the Lord said to him, "Now you Pharisees make the outside of the cup and dish clean, but [f]your inward part is full of [2]greed and wickedness. 40 Foolish ones! Did not [g]He who made the outside make the inside also? 41 [h]But rather give alms of [3]such things as you have; then indeed all things are clean to you.

42 [i]"But woe to you Pharisees! For you tithe mint and rue and all manner of herbs, and [j]pass by justice and the [k]love of God. These you ought to have done, without leaving the others undone. 43 [l]Woe to you Pharisees! For you love the [4]best seats in the synagogues and greetings in the marketplaces. 44 [m]Woe to you, [5]scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! [n]For you are like graves which are not seen, and the men who walk over them are not aware of them."

45 Then one of the lawyers answered and said to Him, "Teacher, by saying these things You reproach us also."

46 And He said, "Woe to you also, lawyers! [o]For you load men with burdens hard to bear, and you yourselves do not touch the burdens with one of your fingers. 47 [p]Woe to you! For you build the tombs of the prophets, and your fathers killed them. 48 In fact, you bear witness that you approve the deeds of your fathers; for they indeed killed them, and you build their tombs. 49 Therefore the wisdom of God also said, [q]'I will send them prophets and apostles, and some of them they will kill and persecute,' 50 that the blood of all the prophets which was shed from the foun-

■ 11:30 Just as Jonah's three days inside the fish was a sign to the people of Nineveh, so Jesus' resurrection after three days in the tomb would be a sign to the Jews of His day.

■ 11:31 The queen of the South. That is, the Queen of Sheba (in southern Arabia) who made a long and difficult journey to hear Solomon (1 Kin. 10).

■ 11:32 men of Nineveh. The Ninevites who repented when Jonah preached (Jon. 3:6–10). In both cases the argument is from the lesser to the greater. People responded to Solomon and to Jonah; much more should they respond to the Son of God.

■ 11:34 The lamp of the body. When the eye is functioning correctly the body receives the benefit of light ("is full of light"; cf. Ps. 18:28). The people seeking a sign did not need more light, but better receptiveness to the light they already had. What God was doing in Jesus was plain enough.

■ 11:38 washed before dinner. Such washing was not for reasons of hygiene, but ceremonial purity. The hands made contact with all sorts of things, some of which may have been ritually defiling. Scrupulous Jews purified themselves by washing their hands before eating so that defiled hands would not contaminate their food.

■ 11:39, 40 Pharisees were scrupulous about the rules for outward ceremonial cleanness. Yet people could keep them all and still be defiled inwardly.

■ 11:41 give alms. Lit. "Give the inner things as alms" (see text note). Jesus is saying that there must be a right inner attitude when one gives to the poor and, when the inside is right, all is clean.

■ 11:42 woe. See note on 6:24–26.

tithe. Tithing was intended as a joyful and thankful offering expressing love for God, but the Pharisees, by counting up stalks of mint and the like, had turned it into a burdensome duty.

■ 11:43 greetings. Elaborate salutations that showed the recipients to be important people.

■ 11:44 graves which are not seen. Touching a grave made a person ceremonially defiled (Num. 19:16), so graves were whitewashed to warn people. An unmarked grave was a hidden source of ritual impurity.

■ 11:45 lawyers. See note on 10:25.

■ 11:46 burdens hard to bear. The legal experts added to the law many regulations meant to ensure that the law itself would not be broken, but which imposed a heavy burden.

■ 11:47 tombs of the prophets. They saw themselves as honoring those great men of God, but building tombs could not hide their complicity with those who killed them (v. 48).

■ 11:49 I will send . . . persecute. The source of the quotation has not been discovered. Jesus Himself may be saying that this is the way God's wisdom works out.

■ 11:50, 51 Jesus' own generation was guilty, for in rejecting Jesus it rejected the prophets who had spoken of Him. Thus, these people shared dation of the world may be required of this generation, 51 [r]from the blood of Abel to [s]the blood of Zechariah who perished between the altar and the temple. Yes, I say to you, it shall be required of this generation.

52 [t]"Woe to you lawyers! For you have taken away the key of knowledge. You did not enter in yourselves, and those who were entering in you hindered."

53 [6]And as He said these things to them, the scribes and the Pharisees began to assail Him vehemently, and to cross-examine Him about many things, 54 lying in wait for Him, [7]and [u]seeking to catch Him in something He might say, [8]that they might accuse Him.

Beware of Hypocrisy

12 In [a]the meantime, when an innumerable multitude of people had gathered together, so that they trampled one another, He began to say to His disciples first of all, [b]"Beware of the [1]leaven of the Pharisees, which is hypocrisy. 2 [c]For there is nothing covered that will not be revealed, nor hidden that will not be known. 3 Therefore whatever you have spoken in the dark will be heard in the light, and what you have spoken in the ear in inner rooms will be proclaimed on the housetops.

Jesus Teaches the Fear of God

4 [d]"And I say to you, [e]My friends, do not be afraid of those who kill the body, and after that have no more that they can do. 5 But I will show you whom you should fear: Fear Him who, after He has killed, has power to cast into hell; yes, I say to you, [f]fear Him!

6 "Are not five sparrows sold for two [2]copper coins? And [g]not one of them is forgotten before God. 7 But the very hairs of your head are all numbered. Do not fear therefore; you are of more value than many sparrows.

Confess Christ Before Men

8 [h]"Also I say to you, whoever confesses Me [i]before men, him the Son of Man also will confess before the angels of God. 9 But he who [j]denies Me before men will be denied before the angels of God.

10 "And [k]anyone who speaks a word against the Son of Man, it will be forgiven him; but to him who blasphemes against the Holy Spirit, it will not be forgiven.

11 [l]"Now when they bring you to the synagogues and magistrates and authorities, do not worry about how or what you should answer, or what you should say. 12 For the Holy Spirit will [m]teach you in that very hour what you ought to say."

The Parable of the Rich Fool

13 Then one from the crowd said to Him, "Teacher, tell my brother to divide the inheritance with me."

14 But He said to him, [n]"Man, who made Me a judge or an arbitrator over you?" 15 And He said to them, [o]"Take heed and beware of [3]covetousness, for one's life does not consist in the abundance of the things he possesses."

■ 11:52 taken away the key of knowledge. Through their traditional interpretation of the law, the "lawyers" had made it impossible for ordinary people to understand the true meaning of the law. The Pharisees and lawyers themselves also used their traditions to evade the demands of the law (cf. Mark 7:5–13).

■ 12:1 innumerable. The word strictly means "ten thousands" but was used generally of any large number. Jesus' teaching was addressed primarily to His disciples, though the crowds would also have heard and profited.

leaven. People were familiar with the way a little leaven slowly permeates and transforms a large mass of dough. Jesus elsewhere uses the figure of leaven to illustrate the hidden working of God's kingdom (13:21), but here it describes the negative influence of the Pharisees (Mark 8:15 note).

■ 12:2, 3 On Judgment Day everything will be brought into the open; all hypocrisy will be unmasked.

■ 12:3 inner rooms. Mud brick walls could be dug through, so storerooms where valuables could be kept were well away from outside walls (and therefore secret).

■ 12:5 power to cast into hell. Only God has this power. The word translated "hell" here is Gehenna, the place of final punishment (not Hades, a general word for the place of all the dead). Gehenna derives from Hebrew words meaning "valley of Hinnom," located outside Jerusalem (Matt. 5:22 note).

■ 12:6 five sparrows sold for two copper coins. The "copper coins" are the assarion, equal to one-sixteenth of a denarius (a typical day's wage). Five sparrows sold for roughly an hour's pay, but God remembers them all.

■ 12:10 Blasphemy against the Holy Spirit attributes to Satan the work of the Holy Spirit through Christ in the face of overwhelming moral evidence to the contrary. Such deliberate rejection of the truth is a decisive rejection of the One (the Holy Spirit) who can bring a person to repentance and faith; such sin makes forgiveness impossible. See "The Unpardonable Sin" at Mark 3:29.

■ 12:13 The rule for inheritance was given in Deut. 21:17, and cases in dispute were often settled by rabbis. This man clearly wanted only a decision in his favor; he was not seeking a just arbitration.

16 Then He spoke a parable to them, saying: "The ground of a certain rich man yielded plentifully. 17 And he thought within himself, saying, 'What shall I do, since I have no room to store my crops?' 18 So he said, 'I will do this: I will pull down my barns and build greater, and there I will store all my crops and my goods. 19 And I will say to my soul, [p]"Soul, you have many goods laid up for many years; take your ease; [q]eat, drink, and be merry." ' 20 But God said to him, 'Fool! This night [r]your soul will be required of you; [s]then whose will those things be which you have provided?'

21 "So is he who lays up treasure for himself, [t]and is not rich toward God."

Do Not Worry

22 Then He said to His disciples, "Therefore I say to you, [u]do not worry about your life, what you will eat; nor about the body, what you will put on. 23 Life is more than food, and the body is more than clothing. 24 Consider the ravens, for they neither sow nor reap, which have neither storehouse nor barn; and [v]God feeds them. Of how much more value are you than the birds? 25 And which of you by worrying can add one cubit to his stature? 26 If you then are not able to do the least, why [4]are you anxious for the rest? 27 Consider the lilies, how they grow: they neither toil nor spin; and yet I say to you, even [w]Solomon in all his glory was not [5]arrayed like one of these. 28 If then God so clothes the grass, which today is in the field and tomorrow is thrown into the oven, how much more will He clothe you, O you of [x]little faith?

29 "And do not seek what you should eat or what you should drink, nor have an anxious mind. 30 For all these things the nations of the world seek after, and your Father [y]knows that you need these things. 31 [z]But seek [6]the kingdom of God, and all these things shall be added to you.

32 "Do not fear, little flock, for [a]it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom. 33 [b]Sell what you have and give [c]alms; [d]provide yourselves money bags which do not grow old, a treasure in the heavens that does not fail, where no thief approaches nor moth destroys. 34 For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also.

The Faithful Servant and the Evil Servant

35 [e]"Let your waist be girded and [f]your lamps burning; 36 and you yourselves be like men who wait for their master, when he will return from the wedding, that when he comes and knocks they may open to him immediately. 37 [g]Blessed are those servants whom the master, when he comes, will find watching. Assuredly, I say to you that he will gird himself and have them sit down to eat, and will come and serve them. 38 And if he should come in the second watch, or come in the third watch, and find them so, blessed are those servants. 39 [h]But know this, that if the master of the house had known what hour the thief would come, he would [7]have watched and not allowed his house to be broken into. 40 [i]Therefore you also be ready, for the Son of Man is coming at an hour you do not expect.'

41 Then Peter said to Him, "Lord, do You speak this parable only to us, or to all people?"

42 And the Lord said, [j]"Who then is that faithful and wise steward, whom his master will make ruler over his household, to give them their portion of food [8]in due season? 43 Blessed is that servant whom his master will find so doing when he comes. 44 [k]Truly, I say to you that he

■ 12:22–34 Jesus provides four weighty arguments against anxiety. First, concern for worldly goods is foolish because life itself is more important (v. 23). Second, God will take care of His own, just as He cares for the birds of the air (v. 24). Third, anxiety accomplishes nothing (vv. 25, 26). Finally, as heirs of the inexhaustible riches of the kingdom of God, believers should not worry about earthly details (vv. 32, 33). Jesus calls His followers to order their priorities correctly by focusing their hearts on the kingdom (v. 34).

■ 12:25 one cubit to his stature. Or, "make his life any longer."

■ 12:27 lilies. It is not certain what precise flower is meant.

Solomon. Solomon was proverbial for his wealth and splendor.

■ 12:31 seek the kingdom. The disciples were already in the kingdom. Therefore they should concentrate their energies on the interests of that kingdom.

■ 12:33 Sell what you have and give alms. Central to this verse is the contrast between earthly goods that are perishable and a source of anxiety, and the treasures of the kingdom of God that are a lasting source of peace. Some of Jesus' followers had at least moderate wealth (10:38; John 19:27), and He is not demanding that all His disciples be poor. But they must be generous and not set their hearts on earthly possessions (v. 34).

■ 12:35 girded. That is, to be ready for service. Long robes hindered free movement and were kept above the knees with a belt when necessary.

■ 12:37 gird himself. This is a reversal of roles, the master taking the place of the servant (cf. 22:27).

■ 12:38 second watch, or . . . third. The Jews divided the night into three watches (Judg. 7:19), and the Romans into four. Jesus uses the Jewish division here. These servants watch for their master throughout the night.

■ 12:42 faithful and wise steward. The steward was a slave put in charge of the whole estate by the owner. The owner was free from the burden of administration and the steward had considerable authority.

■ 12:44 all that he has. The reward of faithful service is the opportunity to perform higher service.

will make him ruler over all that he has. 45[l]But if that servant says in his heart, 'My master is delaying his coming,' and begins to beat the male and female servants, and to eat and drink and be drunk, 46the master of that servant will come on a [m]day when he is not looking for him, and at an hour when he is not aware, and will cut him in two and appoint him his portion with the unbelievers. 47And [n]that servant who [o]knew his master's will, and did not prepare himself or do according to his will, shall be beaten with many stripes. 48[p]But he who did not know, yet committed things deserving of stripes, shall be beaten with few. For everyone to whom much is given, from him much will be required; and to whom much has been committed, of him they will ask the more.

Christ Brings Division

49[q]"I came to send fire on the earth, and how I wish it were already kindled! 50But [r]I have a baptism to be baptized with, and how distressed I am till it is [s]accomplished! 51[t]Do you suppose that I came to give peace on earth? I tell you, not at all, [u]but rather division. 52[v]For from now on five in one house will be divided: three against two, and two against three. 53[w]Father will be divided against son and son against father, mother against daughter and daughter against mother, mother-in-law against her daughter-in-law and daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law."

Discern the Time

54Then He also said to the multitudes, [x]"Whenever you see a cloud rising out of the west, immediately you say, 'A shower is coming'; and so it is. 55And when you see the [y]south wind blow, you say, 'There will be hot weather'; and there is. 56Hypocrites! You can discern the face of the sky and of the earth, but how is it you do not discern [z]this time?

Make Peace with Your Adversary

57"Yes, and why, even of yourselves, do you not judge what is right? 58[a]When you go with your adversary to the magistrate, make every effort [b]along the way to settle with him, lest he drag you to the judge, the judge deliver you to the officer, and the officer throw you into prison. 59I tell you, you shall not depart from there till you have paid the very last mite."

Repent or Perish

13 There were present at that season some who told Him about the Galileans whose blood Pilate had [l]mingled with their sacrifices. 2And Jesus answered and said to them, "Do you suppose that these Galileans were worse sinners than all other Galileans, because they suffered such things? 3I tell you, no; but unless you repent you will all likewise perish. 4Or those eighteen on whom the tower in Siloam fell and killed them, do you think that they were worse sinners than all other men who dwelt in Jerusalem? 5I tell you, no; but unless you repent you will all likewise perish."

The Parable of the Barren Fig Tree

6He also spoke this parable: [a]"A certain man had a fig tree planted in his vineyard, and he came seeking fruit on it and found none. 7Then he said to the keeper of his vineyard, 'Look, for

■ 12:45, 46 The punishment for failure to make proper use of opportunities for service is severe.

■ 12:47, 48 People are punished for failing to do right as well as for doing wrong. Ignorance can be blameworthy when there is the opportunity to know what is required. God makes His people's duty plain (Rom. 1:20; 2:14, 15).

■ 12:49 fire. The fire of judgment.

■ 12:50 baptism. Jesus' death is also a "baptism," another image that points to death (to "baptize" a city was to subject it to near total destruction). Liturgically, baptism came to symbolize death to an old way of life and rising to a new way. Jesus accepted His own death as the divine plan for bringing salvation to sinners.

accomplished. On the cross, Jesus spoke of the completion of His work (John 19:30).

■ 12:54–56 The people could discern that a west wind (from the Mediterranean) meant rain and a south wind (from the desert) meant heat. But they did not discern what God was doing in their midst.

■ 12:57–59 In legal matters, anyone with a bad case does well to secure an out-of-court settlement before the case comes to trial. Sinners should be reconciled to God now; they will perish if they wait until Judgment Day.

■ 13:1 Pilate. To kill people in the act of worship is a grave offense. This incident, not recorded elsewhere, no doubt contributed to Pilate's reputation for cruelty.

■ 13:2 Disaster was commonly held to be the result of sin (John 9:1, 2), but Jesus denies that these Galileans were especially sinful.

■ 13:3 all likewise perish. All are sinners, so Jesus calls on His hearers to repent—otherwise they will perish. The Galileans had had no time to repent at the time of their deaths, and Jesus' unrepentant hearers might also face deaths that would give them no time to prepare. See "Repentance" at Acts 26:20.

■ 13:4 This incident is unknown to us apart from this passage.

■ 13:6–9 A vineyard was fertile soil for a fig tree and "three years" points to an established tree. It was unlikely that it would ever bear fruit, but it was given one more chance. That God does not punish sinners immediately does not mean that He approves of their sin. Rather, His patience shows He is merciful and they should repent while there is time.

three years I have come seeking fruit on this fig tree and find none. Cut it down; why does it [2]use up the ground?' [8] But he answered and said to him, 'Sir, let it alone this year also, until I dig around it and fertilize it. [9] [3]And if it bears fruit, well. But if not, after that you can [b]cut it down.' "

A Spirit of Infirmity

[10] Now He was teaching in one of the synagogues on the Sabbath. [11] And behold, there was a woman who had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bent over and could in no way [4]raise herself up. [12] But when Jesus saw her, He called her to Him and said to her, "Woman, you are loosed from your [c]infirmity." [13] [d]And He laid His hands on her, and immediately she was made straight, and glorified God.

[14] But the ruler of the synagogue answered with indignation, because Jesus had [e]healed on the Sabbath; and he said to the crowd, [f]"There are six days on which men ought to work; therefore come and be healed on them, and [g]not on the Sabbath day."

[15] The Lord then answered him and said, [5]"Hypocrite! [h]Does not each one of you on the Sabbath loose his ox or donkey from the stall, and lead it away to water it? [16] So ought not this woman, [i]being a daughter of Abraham, whom Satan has bound—think of it—for eighteen years, be loosed from this bond on the Sabbath?" [17] And when He said these things, all His adversaries were put to shame; and all the multitude rejoiced for all the glorious things that were [j]done by Him.

The Parable of the Mustard Seed

[18] [k]Then He said, "What is the kingdom of God like? And to what shall I compare it? [19] It is like a mustard seed, which a man took and put in his garden; and it grew and became a [6]large tree, and the birds of the air nested in its branches."

The Parable of the Leaven

[20] And again He said, "To what shall I liken the kingdom of God? [21] It is like [7]leaven, which a woman took and hid in three [l]measures[8] of meal till it was all leavened."

The Narrow Way

[22] [m]And He went through the cities and villages, teaching, and journeying toward Jerusalem. [23] Then one said to Him, "Lord, are there [n]few who are saved?"

And He said to them, [24] [o]"Strive to enter through the narrow gate, for [p]many, I say to you, will seek to enter and will not be able. [25] [q]When once the Master of the house has risen up and [r]shut the door, and you begin to stand outside and knock at the door, saying, [s]'Lord, Lord, open for us,' and He will answer and say to you, [t]'I do not know you, where you are from,' [26] then you will begin to say, 'We ate and drank in Your presence, and You taught in our streets.' [27] [u]But He will say, 'I tell you I do not know you, where you are from. [v]Depart from Me, all you workers of iniquity.' [28] [w]There will be weeping and gnashing of teeth, [x]when you see Abraham and Isaac and Jacob and all the prophets in the kingdom of God, and yourselves thrust out. ■ 13:14 ruler of the synagogue. See note on 8:41.

■ 13:15 Hypocrite. The Jews cared for their animals and looked after them on the Sabbath as on other days, but this ruler of the synagogue objects to Jesus' act of compassion for this woman.

■ 13:21 three measures. A large amount; Luke says "three sata" (see text note), the amount used by Sarah (Gen. 18:6).

■ 13:22 See note on 9:51. Luke presents Jesus making unhurried progress toward Jerusalem where the climax would be reached. On the way He continued to serve the people.

■ 13:23 few. The Jews generally agreed that all Israel (except for a few especially sinful people) would be in the number of the saved.

■ 13:24 Strive. This does not mean that salvation is by works; it is a strong way of saying that people must be in earnest about salvation.

narrow gate. Jesus does not say what the narrow gate is, but clearly He is speaking of the way into salvation.

■ 13:25 shut the door. There is a limit to the offer of salvation; it must be accepted while the offer is present.

I do not know you. See Matt. 7:23; 25:12.

■ 13:26, 27 To have had social fellowship with Jesus and to have heard His teaching were not enough.

■ 13:28 weeping . . . gnashing. There will be weeping in grief and gnashing of teeth in anger as they see the great ones with whom they had always classed themselves in bliss, while they themselves are thrown out.

■ 13:29 east . . . south. The saved will be people from all over the world.

sit down. This imagery of the messianic banquet describes the great joy there will be in the kingdom (14:15; Rev. 19:9). There will be a complete reversal of many ideas strongly held among humankind (v. 30).

kingdom of God. 30[y]And indeed there are last who will be first, and there are first who will be last."

31[9]On that very day some Pharisees came, saying to Him, "Get out and depart from here, for Herod wants to kill You."

32 And He said to them, "Go, tell that fox, 'Behold, I cast out demons and perform cures today and tomorrow, and the third day [z]I shall be [1]perfected.' 33 Nevertheless I must journey today, tomorrow, and the day following; for it cannot be that a prophet should perish outside of Jerusalem.

Jesus Laments over Jerusalem

34[a]"O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, the one who kills the prophets and stones those who are sent to her! How often I wanted to gather your children together, as a hen gathers her brood under her wings, but you were not willing! 35 See! [b]Your house is left to you desolate; and [2]assuredly, I say to you, you shall not see Me until the time comes when you say, [c]'Blessed is He who comes in the name of the LORD!'"

A Man with Dropsy Healed on the Sabbath

14 Now it happened, as He went into the house of one of the rulers of the Pharisees to eat bread on the Sabbath, that they watched Him closely. 2 And behold, there was a certain man before Him who had dropsy. 3 And Jesus, answering, spoke to the lawyers and Pharisees, saying, [a]"Is it lawful to heal on the [1]Sabbath?"

4 But they kept silent. And He took him and healed him, and let him go. 5 Then He answered them, saying, [b]"Which of you, having a [2]donkey or an ox that has fallen into a pit, will not immediately pull him out on the Sabbath day?" 6 And they could not answer Him regarding these things.

Take the Lowly Place

7 So He told a parable to those who were invited, when He noted how they chose the best places, saying to them: 8 "When you are invited by anyone to a wedding feast, do not sit down in the best place, lest one more honorable than you be invited by him; 9 and he who invited you and him come and say to you, 'Give place to this man,' and then you begin with shame to take the lowest place. 10[c]But when you are invited, go and sit down in the lowest place, so that when he who invited you comes he may say to you, 'Friend, go up higher.' Then you will have glory in the presence of those who sit at the table with you. 11[d]For whoever exalts himself will be [3]humbled, and he who humbles himself will be exalted."

12 Then He also said to him who invited Him, "When you give a dinner or a supper, do not ask your friends, your brothers, your relatives, nor rich neighbors, lest they also invite you back, and you be repaid. 13 But when you give a feast, invite [e]the poor, the [4]maimed, the lame, the blind. 14 And you will be [f]blessed, because they cannot repay you; for you shall be repaid at the resurrection of the just."

■ 13:31 depart from here. Jesus may have been in Perea where Herod ruled. The Pharisees preferred to see Him in Judea where they had more influence.

■ 13:32 that fox. The Jews used the metaphor of a "fox" to mean worthless and sly. Jesus is unmoved by Herod's threats and says He will continue with His ministry. There is a limit to His time as the reference to the third day shows.

■ 13:33 must. There was a compelling divine necessity to what Jesus was doing. Notice also the further reference to the certainty that Jerusalem was the place where He would die (cf. 9:31).

■ 13:34, 35 This lament over the city was probably uttered as Jesus reached the city (Matt. 23:37, 38), and is included here by Luke because of its relevance to what Jesus has just said.

■ 13:34 How often. Jesus must have been in Jerusalem more often than the Synoptic Gospels explicitly report; the Gospel of John records several visits.

■ 13:35 Your house. This may mean the temple or the city as a whole. desolate. The inevitable result of faithlessness.

■ 14:1 watched Him closely. Evidently to detect any violation of Sabbath observance.

■ 14:2 dropsy. A disease in which fluid collected in the cavities of the body (mentioned only here in the New Testament).

■ 14:3 Is it lawful. The law of Moses did not forbid healing on the Sabbath, but the "traditions of the elders" (Mark 2:16 note) did prohibit medical treatment unless the condition was life threatening.

■ 14:5 a donkey or an ox. See text note. The Jews would pull a child or an animal out of a well on the Sabbath, though technically this was work. Their acts in an emergency showed that deeds of mercy were lawful on the Sabbath, and Jesus had performed a deed of mercy.

■ 14:10 Jesus is not giving worldly advice but advocating genuine humility, as v. 11 shows (cf. 18:14; Matt. 23:12).

The Parable of the Great Supper

15 Now when one of those who sat at the table with Him heard these things, he said to Him, [g]"Blessed is he who shall eat [5]bread in the kingdom of God!"

16 [h]Then He said to him, "A certain man gave a great supper and invited many, 17 and [i]sent his servant at supper time to say to those who were invited, 'Come, for all things are now ready.' 18 But they all with one accord began to make excuses. The first said to him, 'I have bought a piece of ground, and I must go and see it. I ask you to have me excused.' 19 And another said, 'I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I am going to test them. I ask you to have me excused.' 20 Still another said, 'I have married a wife, and therefore I cannot come.' 21 So that servant came and reported these things to his master. Then the master of the house, being angry, said to his servant, 'Go out quickly into the streets and lanes of the city, and bring in here the poor and the [6]maimed and the lame and the blind.' 22 And the servant said, 'Master, it is done as you commanded, and still there is room.' 23 Then the master said to the servant, 'Go out into the highways and hedges, and compel them to come in, that my house may be filled. 24 For I say to you [j]that none of those men who were invited shall taste my supper.' "

Leaving All to Follow Christ

25 Now great multitudes went with Him. And He turned and said to them, 26 [k]"If anyone comes to Me [l]and does not hate his father and mother, wife and children, brothers and sisters, [m]yes, and his own life also, he cannot be My disciple. 27 And [n]whoever does not bear his cross and come after Me cannot be My disciple. 28 For [o]which of you, intending to build a tower, does not sit down first and count the cost, whether he has enough to finish it— 29 lest, after he has laid the foundation, and is not able to finish, all who see it begin to mock him, 30 saying, 'This man began to build and was not able to finish.' 31 Or what king, going to make war against another king, does not sit down first and consider whether he is able with ten thousand to meet him who comes against him with twenty thousand? 32 Or else, while the other is still a great way off, he sends a delegation and asks conditions of peace. 33 So likewise, whoever of you [p]does not forsake all that he has cannot be My disciple.

Tasteless Salt Is Worthless

34 [q]"Salt is good; but if the salt has lost its flavor, how shall it be seasoned? 35 It is neither fit for the land nor for the [7]dunghill, but men throw it out. He who has ears to hear, let him hear!"

The Parable of the Lost Sheep

15 Then [a]all the tax collectors and the sinners drew near to Him to hear Him. 2 And the Pharisees and scribes complained, saying, "This Man [1]receives sinners [b]and eats with them." 3 So He spoke this parable to them, saying:

4 [c]"What man of you, having a hundred sheep, if he loses one of them, does not leave the ninety-nine in the wilderness, and go after the one which is lost until he finds it? 5 And when he has found it, he lays it on his shoulders, rejoicing. 6 And when he comes home, he calls together his friends and neighbors, saying to them, [d]'Rejoice with me, for I have found my sheep [e]which

■ 14:15 Blessed is he. A pious and conventional utterance, perhaps meant to change the subject.

■ 14:16, 17 Evidently those invited accepted the invitation; none is said to have declined. A second invitation when all was ready was customary (cf. Esth. 5:8; 6:14).

■ 14:18–20 The excuses are transparently dishonest. No one buys a field or oxen without prior inspection, and if anyone did there was no hurry—the field and the oxen would be there tomorrow. The man who had married might cite Deut. 24:5, but that freed a man from military service, not social contacts.

■ 14:21–24 This parable is a prophecy of the extension of the gospel to those the Pharisees thought unworthy. The "poor and the maimed and the lame and the blind" (v. 21) represent the despised Jews who were not able to observe the traditional laws of ritual purity (sometimes called "the people of the land"), while those outside the city along the "highways and hedges" (v. 23) represent the Gentiles. The parable concludes with a warning to the elite of Israel who reject the Messiah that they will not be given a second chance.

■ 14:26 hate. This means to love less (cf. Gen. 29:31, 33; Deut. 21:15–17, where "unloved" translates a word meaning "hated"). Discipleship means loving the Master so much that all other loves are hatred by comparison.

■ 14:27 bear his cross. See note on 9:23–25.

■ 14:28 Calculating the cost is important before undertaking any serious project. The "tower" could be a watch tower or a farm building. That one must "sit down" points to a careful and unhurried process.

■ 14:34 salt. Salt was a flavoring agent and a preservative. The salt in use at that time was far from pure and it was possible for the sodium chloride to leach out of it, leaving a residue that was useless.

■ 15:1 tax collectors. See note on 3:12.

sinners. People who were immoral or who followed occupations that the scribes held to be incompatible with keeping God's law. A rabbinic rule stated that "one must not associate with an ungodly man," and the rabbis would not even teach such a person. Notice that ch. 14 ends with "let him hear" and ch. 15 begins with these "sinners" gathering around to hear Jesus.

■ 15:3 The rabbis taught that God would welcome a penitent sinner, but these parables teach that God seeks out the sinner.

The Parable of the Lost Coin

[8] "Or what woman, having ten silver *3*coins, if she loses one coin, does not light a lamp, sweep the house, and search carefully until she finds it? [9] And when she has found it, she calls her friends and neighbors together, saying, 'Rejoice with me, for I have found the piece which I lost!' [10] Likewise, I say to you, there is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner who repents."

The Parable of the Lost Son

[11] Then He said: "A certain man had two sons. [12] And the younger of them said to his father, 'Father, give me the portion of goods that falls to me.' So he divided to them *h*his livelihood. [13] And not many days after, the younger son gathered all together, journeyed to a far country, and there wasted his possessions with *4*prodigal living. [14] But when he had spent all, there arose a severe famine in that land, and he began to be in want. [15] Then he went and joined himself to a citizen of that country, and he sent him into his fields to feed swine. [16] And he would gladly have filled his stomach with the *5*pods that the swine ate, and no one gave him anything.

[17] "But when he came to himself, he said, 'How many of my father's hired servants have bread enough and to spare, and I perish with hunger! [18] I will arise and go to my father, and will say to him, "Father, *i*I have sinned against heaven and before you, [19] and I am no longer worthy to be called your son. Make me like one of your hired servants." '

[20] "And he arose and came to his father. But *j*when he was still a great way off, his father saw him and had compassion, and ran and fell on his neck and kissed him. [21] And the son said to him, 'Father, I have sinned against heaven *k*and in your sight, and am no longer worthy to be called your son.'

[22] "But the father said to his servants, 6'Bring out the best robe and put it on him, and put a ring on his hand and sandals on his feet. [23] And bring the fatted calf here and kill it, and let us eat and be merry; [24] *l*for this my son was dead and is alive again; he was lost and is found.' And they began to be merry.

[25] "Now his older son was in the field. And as he came and drew near to the house, he heard music and dancing. [26] So he called one of the servants and asked what these things meant. [27] And he said to him, 'Your brother has come, and because he has received him safe and sound, your father has killed the fatted calf.'

[28] "But he was angry and would not go in. Therefore his father came out and pleaded with him. [29] So he answered and said to his father, 'Lo, these many years I have been serving you; I never transgressed your commandment at any time; and yet you never gave me a young goat, that I might make merry with my friends. [30] But as soon as this son of yours came, who has devoured your livelihood with harlots, you killed the fatted calf for him.'

[31] "And he said to him, 'Son, you are always with me, and all that I have is yours. [32] It was

■ 15:8 silver coins. The drachma (occurs only here in the New Testament) was the Greek equivalent of the Roman denarius, about a day's wage for a laborer. The ten coins may have been the woman's life savings, or they may have been strung together as a headdress (see text note).

light a lamp. Houses had no windows or perhaps small ones, so a lamp was needed even in the daytime.

■ 15:11–32 The parable of the prodigal son could be called the "parable of the waiting father." While the repentance of the son is important to the parable, the father's willingness to forgive and his unexpected actions (v. 20 note, 22–23) are a striking illustration of the fatherly love of God for wayward human beings.

■ 15:11, 12 The firstborn son was entitled to two-thirds of his father's property (Deut. 21:17). Sometimes the father would give the capital (which meant that he could not dispose of it himself, though the son could sell it) and retain the income (if the son sold the capital, the buyer could not take possession until the father's death). But to give the capital to one of the sons as in this parable was unusual.

■ 15:15 Swine were unclean (Lev. 11:7); no Jew would take this job willingly.

■ 15:20 The father was apparently watching intently for his son's return. It was undignified for an older man to lift up his robes and run.

■ 15:22, 23 The father's actions indicate complete forgiveness and restoration of relationship. The "best robe" is a mark of distinction and the ring signifies authority (Gen. 41:42; Esth. 3:10; 8:2). Because slaves did not wear shoes, the sandals point to the status of a free man. The fatted calf was reserved for special occasions.

■ 15:25 The older son's attitude illustrates the judgmental spirit of the Pharisees who were annoyed at the presence of "sinners" (vv. 1–3).

■ 15:28 As with the younger son (v. 20), the father takes the initiative in restoring the relationship. The parable as a whole points to the sovereign love of God who actively seeks out unworthy sinners, those who do not seek Him (19:10).

■ 15:29 serving you. This statement indicates that the older brother viewed his relationship with the father as the reward for meritorious behavior. Like the father's loving response to the undeserving younger son, salvation is not a reward for good works but entirely the gracious gift of God (Eph. 2:8, 9).

■ 15:31 all that I have is yours. The property settlement remains unchanged. The attitude of the older son (v. 29 note) has caused him to lose sight of the relationship he does have with his father.

right that we should make merry and be glad, [m]for your brother was dead and is alive again, and was lost and is found.' "

The Parable of the Unjust Steward

16 He also said to His disciples: "There was a certain rich man who had a steward, and an accusation was brought to him that this man was [1]wasting his goods. [2]So he called him and said to him, 'What is this I hear about you? Give an [a]account of your stewardship, for you can no longer be steward.'

[3]"Then the steward said within himself, 'What shall I do? For my master is taking the stewardship away from me. I cannot dig; I am ashamed to beg. [4]I have resolved what to do, that when I am put out of the stewardship, they may receive me into their houses.'

[5]"So he called every one of his master's debtors to him, and said to the first, 'How much do you owe my master?' [6]And he said, 'A hundred [2]measures of oil.' So he said to him, 'Take your bill, and sit down quickly and write fifty.' [7]Then he said to another, 'And how much do you owe?' So he said, 'A hundred [3]measures of wheat.' And he said to him, 'Take your bill, and write eighty.' [8]So the master commended the unjust steward because he had dealt shrewdly. For the sons of this world are more shrewd in their generation than [b]the sons of light.

[9]"And I say to you, [c]make friends for yourselves by unrighteous [4]mammon, that when [5]you fail, they may receive you into an everlasting home. [10][d]He who is faithful in what is least is faithful also in much; and he who is unjust in what is least is unjust also in much. [11]Therefore if you have not been faithful in the unrighteous mammon, who will commit to your trust the true riches? [12]And if you have not been faithful in what is another man's, who will give you what is your [e]own?

[13][f]"No servant can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one and love the other, or else he will be loyal to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon."

The Law, the Prophets, and the Kingdom

[14]Now the Pharisees, [g]who were lovers of money, also heard all these things, and they [6]derided Him. [15]And He said to them, "You are those who [h]justify yourselves [i]before men, but [j]God knows your hearts. For [k]what is highly esteemed among men is an abomination in the sight of God.

[16][l]"The law and the prophets were until John. Since that time the kingdom of God has been preached, and everyone is pressing into it. [17][m]And it is easier for heaven and earth to pass away than for one [7]tittle of the law to fail.

[18][n]"Whoever divorces his wife and marries another commits adultery; and whoever marries her who is divorced from her husband commits adultery.

■ 16:1 steward. The man who ran the estate, freeing the owner from being involved in every detail. Because he was not closely supervised it was easy for him to be dishonest or lazy.

■ 16:6 The steward may simply have been dishonest, but Jews were forbidden to take usury and one way around the regulation was to overcharge. The man might have borrowed four hundred gallons of oil and had the bill made out for eight hundred (see text note), the extra being the equivalent of a high rate of interest. By significantly reducing the amount of interest the debtor owed, the steward would have obliged the debtor to assist him personally (v. 4), at least for a time, without diminishing the principal owed to his own master.

■ 16:8 With the original bills destroyed, the owner was in an awkward position. It would be difficult to establish his claim to the full amount, which included the interest. His praise of the shrewdness of his steward was a recognition that he had been outwitted. Jesus uses the parable to illustrate that worldly people often use what they have to further their own worldly ends more wisely than the people of the light do to further the quite different aims of God's kingdom.

■ 16:9 Jesus' disciples are to use what wealth they have, not for selfish purposes, but to "make friends" (alms for the poor are probably in view here).

receive you. The text does not explicitly specify who is doing the receiving. Possibilities include the poor who have been helped in this life, or perhaps God Himself. In either case, salvation by works is not being taught (15:29 note). The loving help given to others in this life is a sign of genuine discipleship and salvation already enjoyed rather than a meritorious ground of salvation.

■ 16:11 true riches. Heavenly treasures.

■ 16:12 If "what is your own" is the "true riches" mentioned in v. 11, then Jesus is saying that faithfulness as a steward in this life determines one's reward in the heavenly kingdom (Matt. 25:34).

■ 16:13 servant. A household slave.

■ 16:16 The law and the prophets. A reference to the entire Old Testament.

were until John. Luke here indicates that the ministry of John the Baptist signaled the great turning point of redemptive history (Matt. 11:11 note).

everyone is pressing into it. A difficult statement to translate and interpret. Some suggest that Jesus is exhorting His followers by describing the zeal necessary for entering the kingdom (13:24). Others suggest that "pressing" is meant in a negative sense, depicting hostile powers fighting against the kingdom (Matt. 11:12 note).

■ 16:17 tittle. A tiny projection on some Hebrew letters; it was the smallest part of a letter. The entire law comes from God, and it is as sure as its Author.

■ 16:18 Jewish men at that time could divorce their wives easily and for slight cause. Jesus had a higher view of marriage; the law's provision for divorce (Deut. 24:1–4) was because of hardness of heart (Mark 10:5). He sees such casual divorce as causing adultery (Matt. 5:31, 32; 19:9). See "Marriage and Divorce" at Mal. 2:16.

The Rich Man and Lazarus

19 "There was a certain rich man who was clothed in purple and fine linen and [s]fared sumptuously every day. 20 But there was a certain beggar named Lazarus, full of sores, who was laid at his gate, 21 desiring to be fed with [g]the crumbs which fell from the rich man's table. Moreover the dogs came and licked his sores. 22 So it was that the beggar died, and was carried by the angels to [o]Abraham's bosom. The rich man also died and was buried. 23 And being in torments in Hades, he lifted up his eyes and saw Abraham afar off, and Lazarus in his bosom.

24 "Then he cried and said, 'Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and send Lazarus that he may dip the tip of his finger in water and [p]cool my tongue; for I [q]am tormented in this flame.' 25 But Abraham said, 'Son, [r]remember that in your lifetime you received your good things, and likewise Lazarus evil things; but now he is comforted and you are tormented. 26 And besides all this, between us and you there is a great gulf fixed, so that those who want to pass from here to you cannot, nor can those from there pass to us.'

27 "Then he said, 'I beg you therefore, father, that you would send him to my father's house, 28 for I have five brothers, that he may testify to them, lest they also come to this place of torment.' 29 Abraham said to him, [s]'They have Moses and the prophets; let them hear them.' 30 And he said, 'No, father Abraham; but if one goes to them from the dead, they will repent.' 31 But he said to him, [t]'If they do not hear Moses and the prophets, [u]neither will they be persuaded though one rise from the dead.' "

Jesus Warns of Offenses

17 Then He said to the disciples, [a]"It is impossible that no [1]offenses should come, but [b]woe to him through whom they do come! 2 It would be better for him if a millstone were hung around his neck, and he were thrown into the sea, than that he should [2]offend one of these little ones. 3 Take heed to yourselves. [c]If your brother sins [3]against you, [d]rebuke him; and if he repents, forgive him. 4 And if he sins against you seven times in a day, and seven times in a day returns [4]to you, saying, 'I repent,' you shall forgive him."

Faith and Duty

5 And the apostles said to the Lord, "Increase our faith."

6 [e]So the Lord said, "If you have faith as a mustard seed, you can say to this mulberry tree, 'Be pulled up by the roots and be planted in the sea,' and it would obey you. 7 And which of you, having a servant plowing or tending sheep, will say to him when he has come in from the field, 'Come at once and sit down to eat'? 8 But will he not rather say to him, 'Prepare something for my supper, and gird yourself [f]and serve me till I have eaten and drunk, and afterward you will eat and drink'? 9 Does he thank that servant because he did the things that were commanded [5]him? I think not. 10 So likewise you, when you have done all those things which you are commanded, say, 'We are [g]unprofitable servants. We have done what was our duty to do.' " purple and fine linen. The expensive clothing of the rich. Purple would be used for the outer garment and linen for the undergarment.

■ 16:20 Lazarus. The only character given a name in Jesus' parables.

■ 16:22 Jesus says nothing about the religious condition of either, but it is implied that Lazarus was right with God whereas the rich man was not.

Abraham's bosom. The image of "bosom" relates to being the guest of honor at a banquet (see John 13:23).

■ 16:23 in Hades. The usual Greek name for the place of the dead. In the New Testament it is not used with reference to the righteous. Here it is clearly a place of torment. See "Hell" at Mark 9:43.

■ 16:24 Even in Hades the rich man is arrogant, thinking that he can have Lazarus sent to do his bidding.

■ 16:25 The address "Son" is tender, but it cannot alter the facts. A great chasm separates them, and there is a whole new order with a complete reversal of earthly values.

your good things. The rich man had received what he saw as good things. He could have chosen the things of God, but he preferred physical pleasures.

■ 16:27, 28 For the first time the rich man thinks of someone else, though he still remains within his own family. And he still assumes that Lazarus may be sent to do his bidding.

■ 16:29 Moses and the prophets. A reference to the Old Testament as a whole. The rich man assumed that the appearance of Lazarus would be effective. Jesus is saying that they have the witness of the Word of God; having rejected it, they will not accept another.

■ 17:1 offenses. The Greek word originally designated the bait stick of a trap; it came to mean anything that trips people up and traps them.

■ 17:2 little ones. Children or humble believers (cf. 10:21), who are helpless apart from God's aid.

■ 17:5, 6 Apparently the apostles thought great faith would be needed to be so forgiving. Jesus points to what even small faith can bring about. More important than the quantity of faith is the object of faith—a great and powerful God.

Ten Lepers Cleansed

11 Now it happened *h*as He went to Jerusalem that He passed through the midst of Samaria and Galilee. 12 Then as He entered a certain village, there met Him ten men who were lepers, *i*who stood afar off. 13 And they lifted up their voices and said, "Jesus, Master, have mercy on us!"

14 So when He saw them, He said to them, j"Go, show yourselves to the priests." And so it was that as they went, they were cleansed.

15 And one of them, when he saw that he was healed, returned, and with a loud voice *k*glorified God, 16 and fell down on his face at His feet, giving Him thanks. And he was a *l*Samaritan.

17 So Jesus answered and said, "Were there not ten cleansed? But where are the nine? 18 Were there not any found who returned to give glory to God except this foreigner?" 19 *m*And He said to him, "Arise, go your way. Your faith has made you well."

The Coming of the Kingdom

20 Now when He was asked by the Pharisees when the kingdom of God would come, He answered them and said, "The kingdom of God does not come with observation; 21 *n*nor will they say, p'See here!' or 'See there!' For indeed, *o*the kingdom of God is *q*within you."

The Kingdom of God

The theme of the kingdom of God runs through both Testaments, focusing God's purpose for world history. In the Old Testament God declared that He would exercise His kingship (His sovereignty, Dan. 4:34, 35) by ruling over people's lives and circumstances through His chosen King, the Davidic Messiah (Is. 9:6, 7) in a golden age of blessing. This kingdom came with Jesus and is known wherever the lordship of Jesus is acknowledged. Jesus is enthroned in heaven as ruler over all things (Matt. 28:18; Col. 1:13), King of kings and Lord of lords (Rev. 17:14; 19:16). The golden age of blessing is an era of salvation from sin and fellowship with God leading to a future state of complete joy in a reconstructed universe. The kingdom is present in its beginnings but future in its fullness; in one sense here already, but in the richest sense still to come (Luke 11:20; 16:16; 17:21; 22:16, 18, 29, 30).

The kingdom came bringing mercy but also judgment, just as John the Baptist, its forerunner, had said (Matt. 3:1–12). Those who received Jesus' word and put their destiny in His hands found mercy, while those who would not were judged.

The task of the church is to make the invisible kingdom visible through faithful Christian living and witness. The gospel of Christ is still the gospel of the kingdom (Matt. 4:23; 24:14; Acts 20:25; 28:23, 31), the good news of righteousness, peace, and joy in the Holy Spirit. The church makes its message credible by manifesting the reality of kingdom life.

The coming of the kingdom meant a new stage in God's redemptive program. All that was typical, temporary, and imperfect in the arrangements God made for Israel's communion with Him became things of the past. God's Israel, the seed of Abraham, was revealed as the company of believers in Jesus (Gal. 3:16, 26–29). The Spirit was poured out, and a new way of life became a reality for this world. A new internationalism of global church fellowship and global evangelism was born (Matt. 28:19, 20; Eph. 2:11–18; 3:6, 14, 15; Col. 1:28, 29; Rev. 5:9, 10; 7:9). □

■ 17:12 lepers. People with leprosy were required by law to keep away from healthy people (Lev. 13:46); these came as close as they dared and called out loudly.

■ 17:14 See note on 5:14.

as they went. Jesus' command, when nothing had yet happened to the men, was a test of faith. They were healed as they went in obedience to Jesus' word.

■ 17:15, 16 Gratitude brought one man straight back, praising God for what had happened. That he was a Samaritan made this all the more interesting, for he would not be expected to show much gratitude to a Jewish healer.

■ 17:20–37 Jesus' answer to questions regarding the coming of the kingdom of God points to the dynamic character of that kingdom. In this passage, Jesus presents the kingdom both as present reality (v. 21) and as yet to be fully revealed (vv. 22–37). Jesus often presented the kingdom as a hidden and growing reality (Matt. 13:31–33), which is both present and future. In the earthly ministry of Jesus, the kingdom is already present (11:20), but the full reality of the kingdom is yet to be manifested (cf. 19:11). Christians are to pray for the full realization of God's kingdom (11:2). See theological note "The Kingdom of God."

■ 17:21 the kingdom of God is within you. That is, the kingdom is present as an inner reality, something hidden in people's hearts (cf. Rom. 14:17). Translating "in your midst" (text note) would point to the presence of the kingdom in the person of Jesus.

22 Then He said to the disciples, [p]"The days will come when you will desire to see one of the days of the Son of Man, and you will not see it. 23 [q]And they will say to you, [8]'Look here!' or 'Look there!' Do not go after them or follow them. 24 [r]For as the lightning that flashes out of one part under heaven shines to the other part under heaven, so also the Son of Man will be in His day. 25 [s]But first He must suffer many things and be [t]rejected by this generation. 26 [u]And as it [v]was in the [w]days of [x]Noah, so it will be also in the days of the Son of Man: 27 They ate, they drank, they married wives, they were given in marriage, until the [y]day that Noah entered the ark, and the flood came and [z]destroyed them all. 28 [a]Likewise as it was also in the days of Lot: They ate, they drank, they bought, they sold, they planted, they built; 29 but on [b]the day that Lot went out of Sodom it rained fire and brimstone from heaven and destroyed them all. 30 Even so will it be in the day when the Son of Man [c]is revealed.

31 "In that day, he [d]who is on the housetop, and his [9]goods are in the house, let him not come down to take them away. And likewise the one who is in the field, let him not turn back. 32 [e]Remember Lot's wife. 33 [f]Whoever seeks to save his life will lose it, and whoever loses his life will preserve it. 34 [g]I tell you, in that night there will be two [1]men in one bed: the one will be taken and the other will be left. 35 [h]Two women will be grinding together: the one will be taken and the other left. 36 [2]Two men will be in the field: the one will be taken and the other left."

37 And they answered and said to Him, [i]"Where, Lord?"

So He said to them, "Wherever the body is, there the eagles will be gathered together."

The Parable of the Persistent Widow

18 Then He spoke a parable to them, that men [a]always ought to pray and not lose heart, 2 saying: "There was in a certain city a judge who did not fear God nor [1]regard man. 3 Now there was a widow in that city; and she came to him, saying, [2]'Get justice for me from my adversary.' 4 And he would not for a while; but afterward he said within himself, 'Though I do not fear God nor regard man, 5 [b]yet because this widow troubles me I will [3]avenge her, lest by her continual coming she weary me.' "

6 Then the Lord said, "Hear what the unjust judge said. 7 And [c]shall God not avenge His own elect who cry out day and night to Him, though He bears long with them? 8 I tell you [d]that He will avenge them speedily. Nevertheless, when the Son of Man comes, will He really find faith on the earth?"

The Parable of the Pharisee and the Tax Collector

9 Also He spoke this parable to some [e]who trusted in themselves that they were righteous, and despised others: 10 "Two men went up to the temple to pray, one a Pharisee and the other a tax collector. 11 The Pharisee [f]stood and prayed thus with himself, [g]'God, I thank You that I am not

9 [e]Luke 10:29; 16:15 11 [f]Ps. 135:2 [g]Is. 1:15; 58:2

■ 17:22 one of the days of the Son of Man. A probable reference to the full manifestation of the kingdom at the Second Coming of Christ (vv. 26, 30). Christians long for the coming of Christ and for the peace and justice that the Second Coming will bring.

■ 17:23–25 Though some will seek after false messiahs (21:8, 9), the final coming of Christ will be so public that everybody will know.

■ 17:25 must suffer many things. The word "must" is important; it indicates the sovereign purpose of God (Acts 4:27, 28).

■ 17:26–29 People in the times of Noah and Lot carried on with the normal life of this world (Jesus does not speak of their sins) and neglected their opportunity. Noah and Lot were sinners, but they heeded God's warning and were saved. They were not wholly taken up with the things of this life.

■ 17:32 Lot's wife came close to deliverance, but her backward look doomed her (Gen. 19:26).

■ 17:33 Jesus repeats the teaching of 9:24 that the selfish and self-affirming life means spiritual death.

■ 17:34, 35 Close proximity to some saved person will not help in the day of Christ's coming.

■ 17:37 Wherever the body is. Jesus apparently uses a popular proverb to teach that just as dead bodies attract vultures, so the spiritually dead invite judgment.

■ 18:1–8 The preceding verses (17:22–37) and the reference to the Second Coming in v. 8 indicate that persistence in prayer for the coming of Christ and His final triumph over evil, even when that coming is seemingly delayed, is particularly in view (1 Cor. 16:22; Rev. 22:20). On the general principle concerning the importance of continued prayer in all matters, see 11:5–8 and notes.

■ 18:3 The widow was a helpless person with nothing but right on her side. She wanted justice, not revenge.

■ 18:5 weary me. A picturesque expression, lit. "give me a black eye." The judge may be afraid that the woman will ruin his reputation by making him seem unable to help his clients, and compelling them to beg at his door.

■ 18:7 If even an "unjust" judge (v. 6) will do what is right, how much more God?

bears long. God will not keep putting them off like the judge in this parable; any delay will have a reason.

■ 18:8 speedily. This is in God's time (2 Pet. 3:8), not ours.

will He really find faith. This does not mean that there will be no believers, but that faith will not be characteristic of all.

■ 18:10 Private prayer could be offered in the temple at any time of day, not only in formal services.

■ 18:11 stood. A common posture for prayer.

like other men—extortioners, unjust, adulterers, or even as this tax collector. 12 I fast twice a week; I give tithes of all that I possess.' 13 And the tax collector, standing afar off, would not so much as raise his eyes to heaven, but beat his breast, saying, 'God, be merciful to me a sinner!' 14 I tell you, this man went down to his house justified rather than the other; [h]for everyone who exalts himself will be [4]humbled, and he who humbles himself will be exalted."

Jesus Blesses Little Children

15 [i]Then they also brought infants to Him that He might touch them; but when the disciples saw it, they rebuked them. 16 But Jesus called them to Him and said, "Let the little children come to Me, and do not forbid them; for [j]of such is the kingdom of God. 17 [k]Assuredly, I say to you, whoever does not receive the kingdom of God as a little child will by no means enter it."

Jesus Counsels the Rich Young Ruler

18 [l]Now a certain ruler asked Him, saying, "Good Teacher, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?"

19 So Jesus said to him, "Why do you call Me good? No one is good but [m]One, that is, God. 20 You know the commandments: [n]'Do not commit adultery,' 'Do not murder,' 'Do not steal,' 'Do not bear false witness,' [o]'Honor your father and your mother.'"

21 And he said, "All [p]these things I have kept from my youth."

22 So when Jesus heard these things, He said to him, "You still lack one thing. [q]Sell all that you have and distribute to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; and come, follow Me."

23 But when he heard this, he became very sorrowful, for he was very rich.

With God All Things Are Possible

24 And when Jesus saw that he became very sorrowful, He said, [r]"How hard it is for those who have riches to enter the kingdom of God! 25 For it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God."

26 And those who heard it said, "Who then can be saved?"

27 But He said, [s]"The things which are impossible with men are possible with God."

28 [t]Then Peter said, "See, we have left [5]all and followed You."

29 So He said to them, "Assuredly, I say to you, [u]there is no one who has left house or parents or brothers or wife or children, for the sake of the kingdom of God, 30 [v]who shall not receive many times more in this present time, and in the age to come eternal life."

Jesus a Third Time Predicts His Death and Resurrection

31 [w]Then He took the twelve aside and said to them, "Behold, we are going up to Jerusalem, and all things [x]that are written by the prophets concerning the Son of Man will be [6]accomplished. 32 For [y]He will be delivered to the Gentiles and will be mocked and insulted and spit upon. 33 They will scourge Him and kill Him. And the third day He will rise again."

■ 18:12 fast twice a week. The only fast prescribed in the law of Moses was on the Day of Atonement (Lev. 16:29–31; 23:27), though voluntary fasting could accompany prayer (Ps. 35:13), penitence (1 Kin. 21:27), and mourning (2 Sam. 1:12). By the time of Christ, Jewish oral tradition had increased the number of fasts expected of the pious. Fasting can be a useful religious exercise (5:33–35; Acts 13:2, 3), but Jesus roundly condemned the practice when it was seen as a way of meriting God's favor (vv. 11, 12) or when it became an ostentatious display (Matt. 6:16–18; cf. Is. 58:1–6).

■ 18:13 raise his eyes to heaven. Looking upward was usual while praying, but this man was too conscious of unworthiness to do this. He simply asked for mercy as he acknowledged his sin.

■ 18:14 justified. The Pharisee relied on his own merits, not having discovered that no human righteousness is sufficient before a God who demands perfection (Matt. 5:48). The tax collector relied on God's mercy and found it.

■ 18:18 ruler. A general term meaning someone from the upper classes.

Good Teacher. This was not a usual form of address in Judaism; it was mere flattery. The man assumed that his deeds would bring him to eternal life.

■ 18:19 Why do you call Me good. Jesus challenges the ruler's flattery by reminding him that true goodness is an attribute of God alone. That his flattery was indeed insincere is shown by his failure to do what the "Good Teacher" taught him (v. 23).

■ 18:22 Sell all. This challenge revealed that the young man had not really understood the commandments. When he was faced with the choice, it became clear that his possessions came before God.

■ 18:23–25 See note on Mark 10:25. The wealthy are tempted to rely on earthly things, together with those whose wealth is achievement in intellectual, artistic, or other fields. Great achievers often find it difficult to rely wholly on the mercy of God.

■ 18:26, 27 If the rich with all their advantages cannot easily be saved, who can be? The answer is that salvation, for rich or poor, is always the gift of God.

■ 18:28–30 Jesus' answer to Peter means that God's gifts surpass anything we can give up for Him. It does not mean that we can make sacrifices as a means of getting a better reward.

■ 18:31–34 In His predictions of the Passion (cf. 5:35; 9:22, 43–45; 12:50; 13:32, 33; 17:25), this is the first time Jesus speaks of being handed over to the Gentiles.

[z]But they understood none of these things; this saying was hidden from them, and they did not know the things which were spoken.

A Blind Man Receives His Sight

35 [a]Then it happened, as He was coming near Jericho, that a certain blind man sat by the road begging. 36 And hearing a multitude passing by, he asked what it meant. 37 So they told him that Jesus of Nazareth was passing by. 38 And he cried out, saying, "Jesus, [b]Son of David, have mercy on me!"

39 Then those who went before warned him that he should be quiet; but he cried out all the more, "Son of David, have mercy on me!"

40 So Jesus stood still and commanded him to be brought to Him. And when he had come near, He asked him, 41 saying, "What do you want Me to do for you?"

He said, "Lord, that I may receive my sight."

42 Then Jesus said to him, "Receive your sight; [c]your faith has made you well." 43 And immediately he received his sight, and followed Him, [d]glorifying God. And all the people, when they saw it, gave praise to God.

Jesus Comes to Zacchaeus' House

19 Then Jesus entered and passed through [a]Jericho. 2 Now behold, there was a man named Zacchaeus who was a chief tax collector, and he was rich. 3 And he sought to [b]see who Jesus was, but could not because of the crowd, for he was of short stature. 4 So he ran ahead and climbed up into a sycamore tree to see Him, for He was going to pass that way. 5 And when Jesus came to the place, He looked up [1]and saw him, and said to him, "Zacchaeus, [2]make haste and come down, for today I must stay at your house." 6 So he [3]made haste and came down, and received Him joyfully. 7 But when they saw it, they all [4]complained, saying, [c]"He has gone to be a guest with a man who is a sinner."

8 Then Zacchaeus stood and said to the Lord, "Look, Lord, I give half of my goods to the [d]poor; and if I have taken anything from anyone by [e]false accusation, [f]I restore fourfold."
