Introduction

New Geneva Study Bible

R. C. Sproul

The Bible is a book. It may be called a collection of books compiled together into one majestic volume. As a book it is designed to be read. In this respect it is like all other books. But the Bible is not like any other book. It is the Book of Books. We customarily call this book the Holy Bible. Its holiness is found in its "otherness." It is a sacred book because it transcends and stands apart from, above, every other book. It is holy because its ultimate Author is holy. It is holy because its message is holy. It is holy because its content is designed to make us holy.

The Bible is an inspired book, that is, "breathed out" by God. Inspiration reaches far beyond the scope of the inspiration of human artists as commonly understood. The Bible offers more than brilliant insight, more than human sagacity. It is called "inspired" not because of its supernatural mode of transmission via human authors, but because of its origin. It is not merely a book about God; it is a book from God. Therefore the church confesses its trust and confidence that the Bible is the vox Dei, the veritable "voice of God."

The Bible is a normative book. The church has declared that the Bible is the "Norm of norms, and without norm." A norm is a standard, a measuring rod by which things are judged. We may use many lesser standards to regulate our lives, but all such regulations must be subordinate to Scripture. To be the "Norm of norms" is to be the superlative norm, the standard by which all other norms are measured. The Bible is not simply "first among equals"—it has no parity with other standards. As Jesus is exalted to be Lord of lords and King of kings, so we submit to His Word as the Norm of norms, the standard of truth and the one rule for the people of God.

God is the Lord of heaven and earth, and He alone is able to impose absolute obligation upon His creatures. He does this through the written word. The reformers of the sixteenth century recognized this unique authority of the Bible, expressing it in the watchword Sola Scriptura, "the Scripture alone." The reformers did not despise other authorities, or deny the value of tradition and the creeds, but they distinguished the singular authority of the Bible, "the only infallible rule of faith and practice."

God calls every Christian to pursue righteousness. Our trust is to be childlike, but our understanding must be mature. Such trust and understanding require study of God's word. The authentic disciple meditates on it day and night, continuing and remaining in it. Our goal is more than knowledge; it is wisdom and the fruit of inward and outward obedience.

The New Geneva Study Bible is so called because it stands in the tradition of the original Geneva Bible. In modern Geneva, Switzerland, a memorial wall has been built and dedicated to the sixteenth century Reformation. This Reformation Monument is adorned with statues of the great leaders, Calvin, Beza, Farel, and Knox. Surrounding these figures is the phrase, Post Tenebras Lux—"After darkness, light."

The light of the Reformation was the light of the Bible. Luther translated the Latin Bible that could be read only by professionals into everyday German that could be read by the people. In England, Wycliffe and then William Tyndale had translated the Bible into English. Yet there was substantial opposition to these efforts. Tyndale was burned at the stake in 1536. During the reign of Mary Tudor (1553–1558) the Reformation was suppressed. The Roman Catholic mass had to be celebrated, services could not be conducted in English, and priests were forbidden to marry. Two hundred eighty-eight persons were burned, including the Archbishop of Canterbury, Thomas Cranmer.

These persecutions drove exiles from Britain to Europe. The most capable scholars among them came to Geneva, Switzerland. There they undertook the task of preparing a new translation of the Bible in English. The Geneva Bible was published in 1560, carefully designed to be accurate and understandable. It was the first English Bible to use verse divisions, as "most profitable for memory" and for finding and comparing other passages. It was provided with marginal notes based on Reformed principles.

The Geneva Bible dominated the English-speaking world for a hundred years. It was the Bible used by Shakespeare. The King James Bible was published in 1611 but did not supplant the Geneva Bible until fifty years later. The Pilgrims and Puritans carried the Geneva Bible to the shores of the New World. American colonists were reared on the Geneva Bible. They read it, studied it, and sought to live by its light.

Since that time a multitude of English translations and study Bibles have appeared. None of these study Bibles has incorporated a summary of Reformed theology. The New Geneva Study Bible contains a modern restatement of Reformation truth in its comments and theological notes. Its purpose is to present the light of the Reformation afresh.

The Reformed accept the Christian faith as expressed in the ecumenical creeds and believed by Christians everywhere. The distinctive ideas of the Reformed are the result of accepting the Bible as the supreme authority for faith and practice. The words of the Bible are true and its message is powerful. It conveys the infallible promise of God, its Author, that it will not return to Him empty, but will certainly accomplish His intended purpose. □

Contributors

The production of the New Geneva Study Bible has involved the joint efforts of the contributors and editors. The process has been similar to that of Bible translation in which each person has a creative function.

The Old and New Testament contributors wrote introductions, outlines, and annotations for specific books of the Bible. The annotations in particular were edited and revised at length by the editorial staff. The contributors then responded concerning all editorial changes and revisions. Thus, the final form of the study material represents the combined work of contributors and editors. The result is the most comprehensive set of helps in study Bible format for Christians interested in the Reformed tradition.

The Side Reference Column

The unequaled accuracy, beauty, and completeness of the New King James Version makes it a most suitable translation for Bible study. The text of the New Geneva Study Bible is separated into paragraphs, as well as verses, allowing the reader to quickly group scriptures according to content. Subject headings further organize the Bible text, summarizing the essential content and religious significance of major sections of the Bible.

sion on you." [20] And he departed and began to [k]proclaim in [5]Decapolis all that Jesus had done for him; and all [l]marveled.

A Girl Restored to Life and a Woman Healed

[21] [m]Now when Jesus had crossed over again by boat to the other side, a great multitude gathered to Him; and He was by the sea. [22] [n]And behold, one of the rulers of the synagogue came, Jairus by name. And when he saw Him, he fell at His feet [23] and begged Him earnestly, saying, "My little daughter lies at the point of death. Come and [o]lay Your hands on her, that she may be healed, and she will live." [24] So Jesus went with him, and a great multitude followed Him and thronged Him.

Study of the Bible text is enhanced by information in the side reference column that is keyed to specific words and phrases:

A superior letter (usually preceding the referenced word or phrase in the text) indicates a cross-reference. Square brackets around a cross-reference mark it as a conceptual cross-reference, which identifies a passage similar in concept to the referenced passage in the text.

A superior numeral indicates an alternate translation, equivalent translation, literal translation, explanatory note, language note, or textual note.

An Alternate Translation is different in meaning from the words in the text, but is justified by the original languages. That is, the translators could have understood the original word or phrase this way, although they felt their choice was more appropriate.

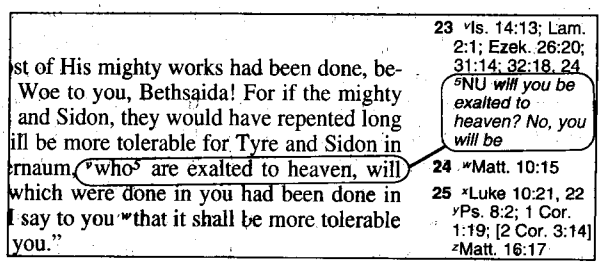
An Equivalent Translation is similar in meaning to the translation in the text. It helps you understand the text by showing you a synonym.

A Literal Translation gives the literal meaning of the word or phrase.

An Explanatory Note explains the word or phrase in the text. Words set in roman type in translation notes are explanatory only and are not translated from the original languages.

A Language Note gives the Hebrew, Greek, or Aramaic word or phrase that underlies the English translation.

A Textual Note points out one or more significant textual variants. The sources of the variant readings are identified by abbreviations listed on page xiv. (See also Preface, "Side-Column Notes.")



PREFACE

Purpose

In the preface to the 1611 edition, the translators of the Authorized Version, known popularly as the King James Bible, state that it was not their purpose "to make a new translation . . . but to make a good one better." Indebted to the earlier work of William Tyndale and others, they saw their best contribution to consist in revising and enhancing the excellence of the English versions which had sprung from the Reformation of the sixteenth century. In harmony with the purpose of the King James scholars, the translators and editors of the present work have not pursued a goal of innovation. They have perceived the Holy Bible, New King James Version, as a continuation of the labors of the earlier translators, thus unlocking for today's readers the spiritual treasures found especially in the Authorized Version of the Holy Scriptures.

A Living Legacy

For nearly four hundred years, and throughout several revisions of its English form, the King James Bible has been deeply revered among the English-speaking peoples of the world. The precision of translation for which it is historically renowned, and its majesty of style, have enabled that monumental version of the Word of God to become the mainspring of the religion, language, and legal foundations of our civilization.

Although the Elizabethan period and our own era share in zeal for technical advance, the former period was more aggressively devoted to classical learning. Along with this awakened concern for the classics came a flourishing companion interest in the Scriptures, an interest that was enlivened by the conviction that the manuscripts were providentially handed down and were a trustworthy record of the inspired Word of God. The King James translators were committed to producing an English Bible that would be a precise translation, and by no means a paraphrase or a broadly approximate rendering. On the one hand, the scholars were almost as familiar with the original languages of the Bible as with their native English. On the other hand, their reverence for the divine Author and His Word assured a translation of the Scriptures in which only a principle of utmost accuracy could be accepted. Therefore, while seeking to unveil the excellent form of the traditional English Bible, special care has also been taken in the present edition to preserve the work of precision which is the legacy of the 1611 translators.

Complete Equivalence in Translation

Where new translation has been necessary in the New King James Version, the most complete representation of the original has been rendered by considering the history of usage and etymology of words in their contexts. This principle of complete equivalence seeks to preserve all of the information in the text, while presenting it in good literary form. Dynamic equivalence, a recent procedure in Bible translation, commonly results in paraphrasing where a more literal rendering is needed to reflect a specific and vital sense. For example, complete equivalence truly renders the original text in expressions such as "lifted her voice and wept" (Gen. 21:16); "I gave you cleanness of teeth" (Amos 4:6); "Jesus met them, saying, 'Rejoice!' " (Matt. 28:9); and " 'Woman, what does your concern have to do with Me?' " (John 2:4). Complete equivalence translates fully, in order to provide an English text that is both accurate and readable.

In keeping with the principle of complete equivalence, it is the policy to translate interjections which are commonly omitted in modern language renderings of the Bible. As an example, the interjection behold, in the older King James editions, continues to have a place in English usage, especially in dramatically calling attention to a spectacular scene, or an event of profound importance such as the Immanuel prophecy of Isaiah 7:14. Consequently, behold is retained for these occasions in the present edition. However, the Hebrew and Greek originals for this word can be translated variously, depending on the circumstances in the passage. Therefore, in addition to behold, words such as indeed, look, see, and surely are also rendered to convey the appropriate sense suggested by the context in each case.

In faithfulness to God and to our readers, it was deemed appropriate that all participating scholars sign a statement affirming their belief in the verbal and plenary inspiration of Scripture, and in the inerrancy of the original autographs.

The Style

Students of the Bible applaud the timeless devotional character of our historic Bible. Yet it is also universally understood that our language, like all living languages, has undergone profound change since 1611. Subsequent revisions of the King James Bible have sought to keep abreast of changes in English speech. The present work is a further step toward this objective. Where obsolescence and other reading difficulties exist, present-day vocabulary, punctuation, and grammar have been carefully integrated. Words representing ancient objects, such as chariot and phylactery, have no modern substitutes and are therefore retained.

In the discipline of translating biblical and other ancient languages, a standard method of transliteration, that is, the English spelling of untranslated words, such as names of persons and places, has never been commonly adopted. In keeping with the design of the present work, the King James spelling of untranslated words is retained, although made uniform throughout. For example, instead of the spellings Isaiah and Elijah in the Old Testament, and Esaias and Elias in the New Testament, Isaiah and Elijah now appear in both Testaments.

King James doctrinal and theological terms, for example, propitiation, justification, and sanctification, are generally familiar to English-speaking peoples. Such terms have been retained except where the original language indicates need for a more precise translation.

Readers of the Authorized Version will immediately be struck by the absence of several pronouns: thee, thou, and ye are replaced by the simple you, while your and yours are substituted for thy and thine as applicable. Thee, thou, thy, and thine were once forms of address to express a special relationship to human as well as divine persons. These pronouns are no longer part of our language. However, reverence for God in the present work is preserved by capitalizing pronouns, including You, Your, and Yours, which refer to Him. Additionally, capitalization of these pronouns benefits the reader by clearly distinguishing divine and human persons referred to in a passage. Without such capitalization the distinction is often obscure, because the antecedent of a pronoun is not always clear in the English translation.

In addition to the pronoun usages of the seventeenth century, the -eth and -est verb endings are now obsolete. Contemporary English usage has been substituted for the previous verb endings.

The real character of the Authorized Version does not reside in its archaic pronouns or verbs or other grammatical forms of the seventeenth century, but rather in the care taken by its scholars to impart the letter and spirit of the original text in a majestic and reverent style.

The Format

The format of the New King James Version is designed to enhance the vividness and devotional quality of the Holy Scriptures:

- Subject headings assist the reader to identify topics and transitions in the biblical content.
- Words or phrases in italics indicate expressions in the original language which require clarification by additional English words, as also done throughout the history of the King James Bible.
- Verse numbers within a paragraph are easily distinguishable.
- Oblique type in the New Testament indicates a quotation from the Old Testament.
- Prose is divided into paragraphs to indicate the structure of thought.
- Poetry is structured as contemporary verse to reflect the poetic form and beauty of the passage in the original language.
- The covenant name of God was usually translated from the Hebrew as "LORD" or "GOD" (using capital letters as shown) in the King James Old Testament. This tradition is maintained. In the present edition the name is so capitalized whenever the covenant name is quoted in the New Testament from a passage in the Old Testament.

The Old Testament Text

The Hebrew Bible has come down to us through the scrupulous care of ancient scribes who copied the original text in successive generations. By the sixth century A.D. the scribes were succeeded by a group known as the Masoretes, who continued to preserve the sacred Scriptures for another five hundred years in a form known as the Masoretic Text. Babylonia, Palestine, and Tiberias were the main centers of Masoretic activity; but by the tenth century A.D. the Masoretes of Tiberias, led by the family of ben Asher, gained the ascendancy. Through subsequent editions, the ben Asher text became in the twelfth century the only recognized form of the Hebrew Scriptures.

Daniel Bomberg printed the first Rabbinic Bible in 1516–17; that work was followed in 1524–25 by a second edition prepared by Jacob ben Chayyim and also published by Bomberg. The text of ben Chayyim was adopted in most subsequent Hebrew Bibles, including those used by the King James translators. The ben Chayyim text was also used for the first two editions of Rudolph Kittel's Biblia Hebraica of 1906 and 1912. In 1937 Paul Kahle published a third edition of Biblia Hebraica. This edition was based on the oldest dated manuscript of the ben Asher text, the Leningrad Manuscript B19a (A.D. 1008), which Kahle regarded as superior to that used by ben Chayyim.

For the New King James Version the text used was the 1967/1977 Stuttgart edition of the Biblia Hebraica, with frequent comparisons being made with the Bomberg edition of 1524–25. The Septuagint (Greek) Version of the Old Testament and the Latin Vulgate also were consulted. In addition to referring to a variety of ancient versions of the Hebrew Scriptures, the New King James Version draws on the resources of relevant manuscripts from the Dea Sea caves. In the few places where the Hebrew was so obscure that the 1611 King James was compelled to follow one of the versions, but where information is now available to resolve the problems, the New King James Version follows the Hebrew text. Significant variations are recorded in the side reference column.

The New Testament Text

There is more manuscript support for the New Testament than for any other body of ancient literature. Over five thousand Greek, eight thousand Latin, and many more manuscripts in other languages attest the integrity of the New Testament. There is only one basic New Testament used by Protestants, Roman Catholics, and Orthodox, by conservatives and liberals. Minor variations in hand copying have appeared through the centuries, before mechanical printing began about A.D. 1450.

Some variations exist in the spelling of Greek words, in word order, and in similar details. These ordinarily do not show up in translation and do not affect the sense of the text in any way.

Other manuscript differences such as omission or inclusion of a word or a clause, and two paragraphs in the Gospels, should not overshadow the overwhelming degree of agreement which exists among the ancient records. Bible readers may be assured that the most important differences in English New Testaments of today are due, not to manuscript divergence, but to the way in which translators view the task of translation: How literally should the text be rendered? How does the translator view the matter of biblical inspiration? Does the translator adopt a paraphrase when a literal rendering would be quite clear and more to the point? The New King James Version follows the historic precedent of the Authorized Version in maintaining a literal approach to translation, except where the idiom of the original language cannot be translated directly into our tongue.

The King James New Testament was based on the traditional text of the Greek-speaking churches, first published in 1516, and later called the Textus Receptus or Received Text. Although based on the relatively few available manuscripts, these were representative of many more which existed at the time but only became known later. In the late nineteenth century, B. Westcott and F. Hort taught that this text had been officially edited by the fourth-century church, but a total lack of historical evidence for this event has forced a revision of the theory. It is now widely held that the Byzantine Text that largely supports the Textus Receptus has as much right as the Alexandrian or any other tradition to be weighed in determining the text of the New Testament. Those readings in the Textus Receptus which have weak support are indicated in the side reference column as being opposed by both Critical and Majority Texts (see "Side-Column Notes").

Since the 1880s most contemporary translations of the New Testament have relied upon a relatively few manuscripts discovered chiefly in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. Such translations depend primarily on two manuscripts, Codex Vaticanus and Codex Sinaiticus, because of their greater age. The Greek text obtained by using these sources and the related papyri (our most ancient manuscripts) is known as the Alexandrian Text. However, some scholars have grounds for doubting the faithfulness of Vaticanus and Sinaiticus, since they often disagree with one another, and Sinaiticus exhibits excessive omission.

A third viewpoint of New Testament scholarship holds that the best text is based on the consensus of the majority of existing Greek manuscripts. This text is called the Majority Text. Most of these manuscripts are in substantial agreement. Even though many are late, and none is earlier than the fifth century, usually their readings are verified by papyri, ancient versions, quotations from the early church fathers, or a combination of these. The Majority Text is similar to the Textus Receptus, but it corrects those readings which have little or no support in the Greek manuscript tradition.

Today, scholars agree that the science of New Testament textual criticism is in a state of flux. Very few scholars still favor the Textus Receptus as such, and then often for its historical prestige as the text of Luther, Calvin, Tyndale, and the King James Version. For about a century most have followed a Critical Text (so called because it is edited according to specific principles of textual criticism) which depends heavily upon the Alexandrian type of text. More recently many have abandoned this Critical Text (which is quite similar to the one edited by Westcott and Hort) for one that is more eclectic. Finally, a small but growing number of scholars prefer the Majority Text, which is close to the traditional text except in the Revelation.

In light of these facts, and also because the New King James Version is the fifth revision of a historic document translated from specific Greek texts, the editors decided to retain the traditional text in the body of the New Testament and to indicate major Critical and Majority Text variant readings in the side reference column. Although these variations are duly indicated in the side-column notes of the present edition, it is most important to emphasize that fully eighty-five percent of the New Testament text is the same in the Textus Receptus, the Alexandrian Text, and the Majority Text.

Side-Column Notes

Significant explanatory notes, alternate translations, and cross-references, as well as New Testament citations of Old Testament passages, are supplied in the side reference column.

Important textual variants in the Old Testament are identified in a standard form.

The textual notes in the present edition of the New Testament make no evaluation of readings, but do clearly indicate the manuscript sources of readings. They objectively present the facts without such tendentious remarks as "the best manuscripts omit" or "the most reliable manuscripts read." Such notes are value judgments that differ according to varying viewpoints on the text. By giving a clearly defined set of variants the New King James Version benefits readers of all textual persuasions.

1. NU-Text
   These variations from the traditional text generally represent the Alexandrian or Egyptian type of text described previously in "The New Testament Text." They are found in the Critical Text published in the twenty-seventh edition of the Nestle-Aland Greek New Testament (N) and in the United Bible Societies' fourth edition (U), hence the acronym, "NU-Text."

2. M-Text
   This symbol indicates points of variation in the Majority Text from the traditional text, as also previously discussed in "The New Testament Text." It should be noted that M stands for whatever reading is printed in the published Greek New Testament According to the Majority Text, whether supported by overwhelming, strong, or only a divided majority textual tradition.

The textual notes reflect the scholarship of the past 150 years and will assist the reader to observe the variations between the different manuscript traditions of the New Testament. Such information is generally not available in English translations of the New Testament. □

Introduction to the

PENTATEUCH

The first five books of the Bible (Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, Deuteronomy), commonly called "the Law" or "the Pentateuch" (Greek pentateuchos, "five volume [book]"), are the first and most important section of the Old Testament in both Jewish and Christian Bibles. The threefold division of the Hebrew Bible into Law, Prophets, and Writings can be traced as far back as the New Testament (Luke 24:44) and the prologue to Sirach (c. 180 B.C.). The arrangement of the Old Testament in Christian Bibles, based on the Greek Old Testament (the Septuagint; c. 150 B.C.), also gives the Pentateuch such primacy.

Author and Date. References to the Pentateuch by such terms as "the Book of Moses" (Neh. 13:1; 2 Chr. 25:4), "the Book of the Law of Moses" (Neh. 8:1), "the Law of the LORD" (1 Chr. 16:40; Ezra 7:10), and "the Book of the Law of God" (Neh. 8:18) are largely restricted to writings following the Babylonian exile of the Jews in the sixth century B.C. It is uncertain whether references to "the law" in earlier books refer to the Pentateuch or to parts of it (e.g., Josh. 1:8; 8:34; 2 Kin. 14:6; 22:8). The New Testament uses similar designations for the Pentateuch (Matt. 12:5; Mark 12:26; Luke 16:16; John 7:19; Gal. 3:10). These various headings underscore the Mosaic authorship of the Pentateuch and its binding authority. That is, Israel's divine King caused His commands to be written down through Moses (c. 1400 B.C.).

Besides these titles indicating Moses' authorship, Jesus said, "Moses . . . wrote about Me" (John 5:46), and He explained to His disciples on the road to Emmaus what the Scriptures said about Him "beginning at Moses" (Luke 24:27). The Pentateuch itself tells of Moses' decisive contribution to it: he wrote the great legal code, the Book of the Covenant (Ex. 24:3–7), and the exposition of the law recorded in Deuteronomy (Deut. 31:24–26).

During the past two centuries, however, most scholars who do not accept the Bible's own witness about its authorship have held that it was composed by editors in the period following the Babylonian exile of the sixth century B.C. Such scholars maintain that the editors creatively pieced together at least four earlier literary documents. The theory is based on the following observations: the distribution of divine names, especially "Elohim" and "Yahweh"; variations of vocabulary, such as the different Hebrew words for "maidservant"; similar stories (e.g., Gen. 12:10–20; 20:1–19; 26:1–11); the repetition of laws, such as those for the Passover (Ex. 12:1–20, 21–23; Deut. 16:1–8); and supposedly varying theologies. They regard the Pentateuch as a composite of works by the "Yahwist," the "Elohist," the "Deuteronomist," and the "Priestly" writer. The corresponding documents, conventionally abbreviated "J," "E," "P," and "D," are assigned approximate dates of 950, 850, 600, and 500 B.C.

More recently the consensus of the scholars following this view has been significantly modified. On the basis of literary forms and archaeological evidence it has become clear that the alleged documents contain older material, some of which might even go back to Moses. Today it is thought that the writers of "J," "E," "P," and "D" were themselves editors who collected and arranged earlier materials. The goals and methods that led to the original specification of diverse sources for the Pentateuch have been subject to continuing discussion. At the same time, there is increasing admiration for the unified structure of the Pentateuch.

In conformity with known practices in the ancient Near East, Moses probably used literary sources. Sometimes these are clearly identified (e.g., Gen. 5:1; Num. 21:14); in other places they may be inferred by distinctive literary styles (cf. Gen. 1:1—2:3 and Gen. 2:4–25). Then too, prophets of later times who succeeded Moses in mediating God's authoritative word (cf. Deut. 18:15–20) kept the text up-to-date linguistically and historically, adding some material such as 36:31 and Moses' obituary (Deut. 34:1–12).

Unity. The Pentateuch is both a composite document of individual books and also a seamless narrative of a complete story from creation to the death of Moses. Both aspects are important.

In the first place, each of the books has its own interest and unity. Genesis reveals its literary structure by repeating ten times the formula, "this is the history" or "this is the genealogy" of what follows. Exodus reveals itself to be a unity in a number of ways. For example, the law promulgated in chs. 19—40 is based on the narrative of Israel's exodus from Egypt (chs. 1—18; Ex. 19:3–6). Without the narrative, the law has no historical foundation. God confirmed His call to Moses by leading the nation out of Egypt back to Mount Horeb, the mountain where Moses was commissioned in the first place (Ex. 3:1, 12). Leviticus is a liturgical manual for priests. Numbers recounts Israel's march from the wilderness of Sinai to Canaan. As the Exodus from Egypt memorialized by the Passover prefigures the salvation of the new Israel from sin through the sacrifice of Christ, so the history in Numbers dramatizes the spiritual march of all God's children through a wilderness on their way to the Promised Land, warning them not to lose faith. Finally, Deuteronomy records Moses' exposition of the law he received at Mount Sinai.

At the same time, the five books of the Pentateuch are linked together as a continuous narrative. Exodus continues the story begun in Genesis of the Israelites who had gone to Egypt (Gen. 46:26, 27; Ex. 1:1). Moses fulfills Joseph's deathbed oath to carry up his bones out of Egypt (Gen. 50:25; Ex. 13:19). Leviticus 1—9 explains the rituals of the tabernacle, as a kind of supplement to the instructions for building it found in Ex. 25—40. Leviticus also shows how the service for ordaining priests, outlined in Exodus 29, was carried out. Numbers shares many connections with Exodus and Leviticus; large portions of all three books take place in the wilderness of Sinai and share similar ceremonial regulations and concerns. In his first address in Deuteronomy, Moses summarizes Israel's history from Sinai to Moab as recorded in Numbers. In his second address he makes frequent allusions to Exodus, repeating with slight modification the Ten Commandments and Israel's response to them (Ex. 20 and Deut. 5).

Theme. The Pentateuch is a mixture of history and law. These are not unrelated: the narrative history explains the laws. For example, the law about circumcision is given in the narrative about God's covenant with Abraham and Sarah (Gen. 17:9–14), and breaking the Sabbath is made a capital offense in the story about gathering sticks on the Sabbath (Num. 15:32–36). But as noted above, the Pentateuch's main interest is God's covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, His deliverance of their descendants from Egypt, and their obligation to keep the laws of God given to them in the Sinai desert.

God's purpose in bringing Israel out of Egypt is that they would worship Him, and become a holy nation for Him. Through them, His blessing would reach all the nations of the world. According to Galatians, this gracious promise announced to Abraham is the same gospel preached by Jesus Christ and realized through His death and resurrection (Gal. 3:8, 14). The enduring power of the Pentateuch is not a mystery, but a consequence of its inspiration by the Spirit of God. □

The First Book of Moses Called

GENESIS

Author Because this anonymous book is part of the unified Pentateuch, establishing its authorship and date cannot be separated from the composition of that "Five-Volumed Book" ("Introduction to the Pentateuch"). Evidence relating to Genesis itself, however, suggests that, like the remainder of the Pentateuch, Moses gave the book its essential substance and later editors supplemented it, all by the Holy Spirit's inspiration.

It would be arbitrary to exclude Genesis from the New Testament testimony that Moses (fifteenth century B.C.) authored the Pentateuch. More specifically, our Lord said that "Moses therefore gave you circumcision" (John 7:22; Acts 15:1), which is uniquely given in Gen. 17. It is not surprising that the founder of Israel's theocracy gave this masterful foundation to the Law. Its historical narrative furnished the theological and ethical underpinnings of the Torah: Israel's unique covenantal relationship with God (Deut. 9:5) and its singular laws (e.g., the Sabbath, 7:2 note). Moreover, since creation myths are basic to pagan religions, it is natural that Moses would have included a creation account opposing the pagan myths. This account is, in addition, foundational to the Law Moses mediated (1:1—2:3 notes).

This Bible's own witness to Moses' authorship is supported by extrabiblical data. The first eleven chapters of Genesis share many parallels and conscious dissimilarities with ancient Near Eastern myths that preceded the time of Moses and were known to him (Mesopotamian creation accounts such as the Enuma Elish, and flood accounts such as those included in the Atrahasis Epic and the eleventh tablet of the Gilgamesh Epic). Names and customs in the narratives about the patriarchs (chs. 12—50) accurately reflect their era, suggesting an early author with reliable documents. The Ebla texts (twenty-fourth century B.C.) mention Ebrium, possibly the Eber of Gen. 10:21, and the Mari texts (eighteenth century B.C.) attest to names such as "Abraham," "Jacob," and "Amorite." The practice of granting a birthright (i.e., additional privileges to the eldest son, 25:5–6, 32–34; 39:3–4; 43:33; 49:3) was widespread in the ancient Near East, and the sale of an inheritance (25:29–34) is documented at different periods in this area. The adoption of one's own slave (15:1–3) is found in a Larsa letter from Old Babylonia, and the adoption of Ephraim and Manasseh by their grandfather (48:5) may be compared with a similar adoption of a grandson at Ugarit (fourteenth century B.C.). The gift of a female slave as part of a dowry and her presentation to her husband by an infertile wife (16:1–6; 30:1–3 and notes) are attested in the laws of Hammurabi (c. 1750 B.C.). These and similar facts corroborate the historical reliability of the narrative.

Date and Occasion Given the biblical and extrabiblical evidence linking Genesis and its contents to Moses and his era, we may reasonably conclude that the book dates from the fifteenth century B.C. Certainly, for example, since David (c. 1000 B.C.) set the creation account of Gen. 1 to music (Ps. 8), a date of composition in the second millennium is indicated for Gen. 1. Readers should be aware, however, that, although occasionally words known only from the middle of the second millennium appear in the text, the grammar of the Pentateuch was updated at some point, as were some place-names (14:14 note). Also, the list of kings in 36:31–43 was apparently added after the time of Saul.

Like its authorship and date, the purpose of Genesis cannot be considered apart from its place within the Pentateuch as a whole ("Introduction to the Pentateuch"). The Pentateuch is a unique combination of history and law, a history that explains the origins of its laws. For example, the narratives in Genesis explain the rite of circumcision (17:9–14), the prohibition against eating the sciatic tendon (32:32), and Sabbath observance (2:2, 3). More importantly, its narrative recounts God's election of Israel to a unique covenant relationship with Him, in order to bless a fallen world. That covenant relationship consists of God's commitment to the patriarchs to make of their elect offspring a great nation and the chosen nation's commitment to obey Him and so to become a light to the Gentiles. Genesis recounts the origins of this redemptive nation, reaching back to the beginnings of mankind and the world and of the conflict between the kingdom of God and the kingdom of Satan in which the nation was to play a crucial role.

The Hebrew title, following the ancient custom of naming books by their first word(s), is bereshith, "in the beginning." The Greek title, based on the book's content, is genesis, "origin." Both titles are appropriate since the book is about the origin of history.

Interpretive Difficulties The tension between Genesis and modern science about the origins of the universe and of living species is largely resolved when it is recognized that they are speaking from different perspectives. Genesis is concerned about who created and why, not about how and when. Science cannot answer the former questions, and Genesis is largely mute about the latter (1:2, 5, 6, 11 and notes).

For the past century scholars holding to the "documentary hypothesis" have contended that Genesis is composed of conflicting documents: J (for Jahweh/Yahweh, "the LORD"), E (for Elohim, "God"), D (for Deuteronomist), and P (for priestly writer). While this scheme is still widely accepted, few believe any longer that these documents can be used to reconstruct a history of Israel's religion because all the alleged documents contain what are thought to be "early" and "late" materials. In other words, the alleged four documents actually share elements and characteristics that were supposed to belong in only one of these hypothetical sources (e.g., J contains material that would be expected to occur only in E). To be sure, documents were composed in the ancient Near East by combining earlier written sources, but Moses himself probably used them (5:1 note). Moreover, many scholars today question the criteria used for identifying these alleged sources and emphasize instead the unity of the text as we have it. For example, the Flood story, once thought to be a classic example of the documentary hypothesis, is now conceded to have remarkable integrity (6:9—9:29 note). See "Introduction to the Pentateuch."

Characteristics and Themes

A study of the literary structure of Genesis discloses the following highlights. After the prologue Genesis is divided into ten parts marked out by the formula: "This is the genealogy [or 'history'] of." This heading is followed by a genealogy of the person named or by stories involving his notable descendants. The first three accounts pertain to the pre-Flood world and the last seven to the post-Flood period. Accounts one through three and four through six parallel one another: (a) stories about the developments of mankind universally at the creation and at the recreation after the Flood (accounts one and four respectively); (b) the genealogy of the redemptive lines through Seth and Shem (accounts two and five); and (c) the stories of the epochal covenant transactions with Noah and Abraham (accounts three and six). The final two pairs of accounts expand the Abrahamic line, contrasting his rejected offspring, Ishmael and Esau (accounts seven and nine), with stories about the elect, Isaac and Jacob respectively (accounts eight and ten).

The key to the stories is often given in an opening revelation: e.g., the promise to Abraham (12:1–3), the prenatal sign of the rivalry between Jacob and Esau (25:22, 23), and Joseph's dreams (37:1–11). A transitional section is found at the end of the accounts (e.g., 4:25, 26; 6:1–8; 9:18–29; 11:10–26; Outline).

The closing section of the last account contains strong links with Exodus, concluding with an oath Joseph elicited from his brothers to take his embalmed body with them when God came to their aid and returned them to Canaan (50:24, 25; Ex. 13:19).

The book's focus on the origins of Israel unfolds against a backdrop of matters affecting the world. Moses tells us that prior to God's election of the patriarchs, the fathers of Israel (chs. 12—50), mankind asserted its independence from God by striving to know good and evil apart from God and in defiance of His command (chs. 2; 3). Humans proved their depravity by token religion, fratricide, and unrestrained vengeance (Cain, ch. 4); by tyranny, harems, and thinking evil continually (the pre-Flood kings, 6:1–8); and by erecting an anti-kingdom against God (Nimrod and the infamous tower, 10:8–12; 11:1–9 note). God's verdict about mankind stands: "the imagination of man's heart is evil from his youth" (8:21).

Just as miraculously and surely as God sovereignly transformed the dark, empty void at earth's origin (1:2) into a glorious habitat for mankind and brought it to rest (1:3—2:3), so also God sovereignly elected His covenant people in Christ to conquer Satan (3:15) and to bless the depraved world (12:1–3). Unconditionally He elected the patriarchs, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, promising to make of their elect descendants the nation destined to bless the earth, a promise entailing an eternal seed, land, and king (12:1–3, 7; 13:14–17; 17:1–8; 26:2–6; 28:10–15). Before Jacob was born and had done either good or evil, God chose Jacob, not Esau, his older twin brother (25:21–23). He chose Jacob, even though he cheated his brother, deceived his father, and blasphemed God (ch. 27). God even used Judah's scandalous wrongs against Tamar, and her daring ruse as well, to advance the messianic line (ch. 38). The heavenly King displayed His glorious rule by miraculously preserving the matriarchs in pagan harems (12:10–20; ch. 20) and opening their barren wombs (17:15–22; 18:1–15; 21:1–7; 25:21; 29:31; 30:22). He overrode man's ways and customs by time and again choosing the younger, not the older, to inherit the blessing (25:23 note). Blatant prophecies and subtle types are sterling witnesses that God directs history. For example, Noah prophesied Shem's subjugation of Canaan (9:24–26), and the greater Exodus led by Moses was prefigured when God delivered Abraham and Sarah from the oppression of Egypt with wealth (12:10–20 note).

God inclined the heart of His elect to trust His promises and to obey His commands. Against all hope, Abraham counted on God to give him an innumerable offspring, and the lawgiver says that God credited that as righteousness (15:6). Confident of God's sure promises, Abraham gave up his rights to the land (ch. 13); and Jacob, renamed "Israel" and clinging only to God (ch. 22), symbolically gave back the birthright to Esau (ch. 33). At the beginning of the Joseph story, Judah sold Joseph as a slave (37:26, 27), but at its end the former slave trader was willing to become a slave in the place of his brother (44:33, 34). Secure in the truth that God's gracious design had brought good out of sins as heinous as murder and slave trading, Joseph forgave his brothers without recrimination (45:4–8; 50:24).

What was begun in Genesis is fulfilled in Christ. The genealogy begun in ch. 5, and advanced in ch. 11, is completed with the birth of Jesus Christ (Matt. 1; Luke 3:23–27). He is the ultimate offspring promised to Abraham (12:1–3; Gal. 3:16). The elect are blessed in Him because He alone, by His active and passive obedience, satisfied the law's demands and died in their stead. All who are baptized into Christ and united with Him by faith are Abraham's descendants (Gal. 3:26–29). The bold prophecies and subtle types in Genesis show that God is writing a history leading to a rest in Christ. On the threshold of biblical prophecy Noah predicted that the Japhethites would find salvation through the Semites, a prophecy fulfilled in the New Testament (9:27 and note), and God Himself proclaimed that the woman's Seed would destroy Satan (3:15). That Seed is Christ and His church (Rom. 16:20). The gift of the bride to Adam prefigures the gift of the church to Christ (2:18–25; Eph. 5:22–32); Melchizedek's priesthood is like the Son of God's (14:18–20; Heb. 7); and as Israel redeemed out of bondage in Egypt found rest, resources, and refuge in the Promised Land, the church redeemed out of the cursed world finds that life in Christ (13:15 note). The paradise lost by the first Adam is restored by the Last Adam. This marvelously unified sacred history certifies that the focus of Genesis is Christ. □

The History of Creation

1 [a]In the [b]beginning God created the heavens and the earth. 2 The earth was [c]without form, and void; and darkness [1]was on the face of the deep. [d]And the Spirit of God was hovering over the face of the waters.

[b] Acts 17:24
[d] Is. 40:13, 14

[1] Words in italic type have been added for clarity. They are not found in the original Hebrew or Aramaic.

■ 1:1—2:25 See "God the Creator" at Ps. 148:5.

■ 1:1—2:3 This account of creation lays the foundation of Israel's world view about God, human beings, creation, and the laws that pertain to mankind (e.g., to worship no other gods, to keep the Sabbath, and to take no innocent life).

■ 1:1 In the beginning God. The Hebrew word for "God," the first subject of Genesis and the Bible, is plural to denote His majesty. There is no other god (Deut. 4:39; Is. 40:21, 28; 43:10; John 1:1; Col. 1:17). He is truth, the basis for all sound knowledge (John 14:6). God is personal; He speaks and acts.

created. This translates a Hebrew word reserved for God's creative activity alone. Linguistically possible, though less likely, is the translation "When God began to create the heavens and the earth, the earth was without form and void." God's creative activity was not merely the ordering of preexistent matter (like an artisan fashioning a product), however, for other passages clearly teach that the universe was created ex nihilo (i.e., out of nothing, John 1:3; Heb. 11:3; 2 Pet. 3:5) and that only God is eternal and transcendent (e.g., Ps. 102:25–27; Prov. 8:22–31). Not even the darkness exists apart from God's creative word (Is. 45:7). While the narrative here is fully consistent with the doctrine of creation ex nihilo, the emphasis falls on God's progressive ordering of a formless and empty world (v. 2 note).

the heavens and the earth. This compound of opposites signifies the organized universe.

■ 1:2 The earth . . . deep. The primordial earth is lightless and landless. Neither the origins of darkness and the abyss nor the origin of Satan (3:1–6) is explained in Genesis. Their beginnings are a mystery, but only God is eternal (Ps. 90:2; Prov. 8:22–31). In the new heaven and new earth there will be no sea or darkness (Rev. 21:1, 25).

earth was without form, and void. This description signifies the as yet unordered or unfilled creation. Some view it as a negative threat of chaos that is overcome by God's creative power.

Some suggest that vv. 1 and 2 refer to two separate creative acts separated by a span of time. They argue that the initial creation fell into a desolate condition (perhaps because of the fall of Satan), and that the Hebrew word here translated "was" should be rendered "became." This view is very doubtful, however, because the proposed translation "became" is unlikely in this context, and because the description "without form, and void" refers more naturally to a creation yet to be formed and filled, rather than to one that had fallen into disrepair.

Spirit of God. God's Spirit gives life to all; when He withdraws His Spirit, life ceases. He continues to give life and to withdraw life (Job 33:4; Ps. 104:30; Eccl. 12:7; Luke 23:46). The Spirit also builds "temples": the cosmos (Ps. 104:1–4); the tabernacle (Ex. 28:3; 35:31); Christ (Luke 1:35;

3 [e]Then God said, [f]"Let there be [g]light"; and there was light. 4 And God saw the light, that it was good; and God divided the light from the darkness. 5 God called the light Day, and the [h]darkness He called Night. [2]So the evening and the morning were the first day.

6 Then God said, [i]"Let there be a [3]firmament in the midst of the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters." 7 Thus God made the firmament, [j]and divided the waters which were under the firmament from the waters which were [k]above the firmament; and it was so. 8 And God called the firmament Heaven. So the evening and the morning were the second day.

9 Then God said, [l]"Let the waters under the heavens be gathered together into one place, and [m]let the dry land appear"; and it was so. 10 And God called the dry land Earth, and the gathering together of the waters He called Seas. And God saw that it was good.

11 Then God said, "Let the earth [n]bring forth grass, the herb that yields seed, and the [o]fruit tree that yields fruit according to its kind, whose seed is in itself, on the earth"; and it was so. 12 And the earth brought forth grass, the herb that yields seed according to its kind, and the tree that yields fruit, whose seed is in itself according to its kind. And God saw that it was good. 13 So the evening and the morning were the third day.

14 Then God said, "Let there be [p]lights in the firmament of the heavens to divide the day from the night; and let them be for signs and [q]seasons, and for days and years; 15 and let them be for lights in the firmament of the heavens to give light on the earth"; and it was so. 16 Then God hovering over the . . . waters. Hovering eagle-like over the primordial abyss, the almighty Spirit makes the earth into a habitation for human beings.

■ 1:3–31 The creation progresses over two triads of days looking back respectively to "without form, and void" of v. 2:

Day 1—Light (v. 3)
Day 4—Luminaries (v. 14)
Day 2—Sky/water (v. 6)
Day 5—Fish/fowl (v. 21)
Day 3—Land, vegetation (vv. 9–11)
Day 6—Animals and humans (vv. 24–30)

In the first triad God gives the earth form by separating the light of day from the darkness of night, the sea below from the clouds above, and the dry land with vegetation from the sea; in the second He fills these realms. Each triad, moving from sky to earth, progresses from a single creative act (vv. 3–5, 14–19) to one creative act with two aspects (vv. 6–8, 20–23), to two separate creative acts, each culminating in the earth bringing forth (vv. 9–13, 24–31). The pattern of each day is similar: an announcement ("God said"); a command ("let there be"); a report ("and it was so"); an evaluation ("it was good"); and a chronological framework (e.g., "the first day").

■ 1:3 God said. God's free act of creation through the divine Word (Ps. 33:6, 9; cf. John 1:1, 3) signifies that the universe is not an emanation or part of the divine being, thus ruling out all forms of pantheism. Though creation is not part of God's being, all creation is utterly dependent on God for its existence, for He creates and sustains all that is by the power of His own being.

Let there be. God's will is irresistible. It is carried out by divine imperative.

■ 1:4 light. God is the ultimate source of the daylight that alternates with darkness; the sun is later introduced as the immediate cause (vv. 14–18; v. 5 and note). Light symbolizes life and blessing (Ps. 4:7; 56:13; Is. 9:2; John 1:4, 5).

good. Brought within God's constraints, even the darkness and watery deep (vv. 2, 10) are now "good," serving God's benevolent purposes (Ps. 104:19–26). The creation bears witness to God's handiwork (Ps. 19:1–6).

divided. The Hebrew here is also translated "set apart." Separation is fundamental both to creation and to Israel's existence (3:15; 4:1–17; 12:1; Lev. 20:24, 25; Num. 8:14).

■ 1:5 called. God shows He is ruler of the cosmos by naming its spheres (17:5; cf. Num. 32:38; 2 Kin. 23:34; 24:17). By His creative commands and designations, God gave existence and meaning to everything according to His eternal counsel. For God Himself there are no mysteries, and all creation has coherence and meaning within His will. For man, the beginning of wisdom is the fear of the all-wise God (Prov. 1:7).

first day. This presentation of the creation week enables God's covenant people to imitate the Creator in their weekly pattern of work and rest (Ex. 20:11; 31:13, 17).

Reformed scholars have proposed several interpretations of the creative "day." Some view these as literal, sequential, 24-hour days. This interpretation usually entails the view that the earth is relatively "young" (c. 10,000 years old or less). Other scholars, noting that the Hebrew word for "day" (yom) can refer to periods of time (e.g., 2:4), have proposed the "day-age theory," that the creative "days" refer to extended ages or epochs of time. Still others suggest that literal, 24-hour days are intended, but that these days were separated by extended periods of time. Finally, some scholars argue that the "days" of creation constitute a literary framework (vv. 3–31 note) designed to teach that God alone is the creator of an orderly universe, and to call upon human beings made in the image of the creator God to reflect God's creative activity in their own pattern of labor (2:2; Ex. 31:17). This "framework hypothesis" views the days of creation as God's gracious accommodation to the limitations of human knowledge—an expression of the infinite Creator's work in terms understandable to finite and frail human beings. This last group of scholars observes that the universe gives the appearance of great antiquity, that the phrase "morning and evening" seems inconsistent with the "day-age" theory, and that the notion of intervening ages between isolated 24-hour days is not apparent from the text.

■ 1:6–8 During the second and third creative days, the watery deep is structured into a benevolent system of rain clouds, springs, and rivers.

■ 1:6 firmament. Describing the sky in terms of how it appears from the earth, the Hebrew suggests something flat and hard (Job 37:18; Is. 40:22). In vv. 6–8 it refers ambiguously to the atmosphere or sky (or both). Here it separates rain clouds from rivers and seas.

■ 1:10 Earth. The word connotes that which is benevolently ordered by God's sovereignty in the interests of human life and security (Ps. 24:1, 2; cf. Prov. 2:21, 22).

■ 1:11 according to its kind. There are no species of life apart from God's design and creative acts. He intended the vegetation to serve as food for higher forms of life (vv. 29, 30).

■ 1:14 in . . . the heavens. The description is phenomenological (i.e., as things appear to the eye).

■ 1:16 two great lights. The sun and moon, principal deities in ancient Near Eastern pagan pantheons, are not even named, effectively demoting them and emphasizing that they serve mankind according to God's design.

rule. The moving forms of the second triad of days seem to rule over the spheres that house and shelter them (1:3–31 note): the luminaries over the day and night (Ps. 136:7–9), the birds and fish over the sky and sea respectively, and animals over the land and its vegetation with man over both.

made two great [4]lights: the [r]greater light to rule the day, and the [s]lesser light to rule the night. He made [t]the stars also. [17] God set them in the firmament of the [u]heavens to give light on the earth, [18] and to [v]rule over the day and over the night, and to divide the light from the darkness. And God saw that it was good. [19] So the evening and the morning were the fourth day.

[20] Then God said, "Let the waters abound with an abundance of living [5]creatures, and let birds fly above the earth across the face of the [6]firmament of the heavens." [21] So [w]God created great sea creatures and every living thing that moves, with which the waters abounded, according to their kind, and every winged bird according to its kind. And God saw that it was good. [22] And God blessed them, saying, [x]"Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the waters in the seas, and let birds multiply on the earth." [23] So the evening and the morning were the fifth day.

[24] Then God said, "Let the earth bring forth the living creature according to its kind: cattle and creeping thing and beast of the earth, each according to its kind"; and it was so. [25] And God made the beast of the earth according to its kind, cattle according to its kind, and everything that creeps on the earth according to its kind. And God saw that it was good.

[26] Then God said, [y]"Let Us make man in Our image, according to Our likeness; [z]let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, over the birds of the air, and over the cattle, over [7]all the earth and over every creeping thing that creeps on the earth." [27] So God created man [a]in His own image; in the image of God He created him; [b]male and female He created them. [28] Then God blessed them, and God said to them, [c]"Be fruitful and multiply; fill the earth and [d]subdue it; have dominion over the fish of the sea, over the birds of the air, and over every living thing that [8]moves on the earth."

[29] And God said, "See, I have given you every herb that yields seed which is on the face of all the earth, and every tree whose fruit yields seed; [e]to you it shall be for food. [30] Also, to [f]every beast of the earth, to every [g]bird of the air, and to everything that creeps on the earth, in which there is [9]life, I have given every green herb for food"; and it was so. [31] Then [h]God saw everything that He had made, and indeed it was very good. So the evening and the morning were the sixth day.

great sea creatures. In Old Testament poetry these are the dreaded sea-dragons associated with ancient mythology, thought by pagans to rival the creating gods (Ps. 74:13; Is. 27:1; 51:9; Jer. 51:34). By adapting and modifying this pagan imagery, the Hebrew writers subverted the pagan theology—the goodness of creation and the subservience of the aquatic animals is stressed.

■ 1:22 Be fruitful and multiply. This entails the notion of multiplication so as to rule (cf. v. 28). The birds and fish rule their realms through multiplication. The Lord Jesus blessed His disciples to multiply spiritually (Matt. 28:18–20; Luke 24:50, 51).

■ 1:24 cattle . . . beast of the earth. The contrast between wild and domesticated animals differentiates carnivores from cattle (the Hebrew here for "beast of the earth" is the same as that in Job 5:22; Ps. 79:2; Ezek. 29:5; 32:4; 34:28).

■ 1:26 Let Us . . . Our . . . The use of the plural here is variously interpreted. Some view this as an indication of plurality within the divine unity, hinting at the later New Testament revelation of the one God as Father, Son, and Spirit. Others explain this usage grammatically—either as a plural of majesty (cf. v. 1 note) or as a deliberative plural (in which God directs the statement to Himself). Finally, some argue that God and His heavenly angelic court are in view (Is. 6:8 note).

image . . . likeness. Humans in their whole being—body and soul—adequately and faithfully represent God (Ps. 94:10), possess life from Him and therefore potential intimacy with Him (2:7 and note), and serve on earth as His administrators (Ps. 8). The image is passed on to every human, giving each person dignity (5:3; 9:6; Prov. 22:2 and notes).

Medieval theologians strongly distinguished "image" and "likeness," with "image" viewed as a reference to natural reason, and "likeness" as a reference to the original righteousness lost in the Fall. More recent scholarship notes that the two Hebrew terms are used synonymously in Scripture (v. 27; 5:1, 3; 9:6).

have dominion. God gave humans the cultural mandate to rule the creation as benevolent kings (9:2; Ps. 8:5–8; Heb. 2:5–9). Natural man can rule the animal (v. 28) and plant (v. 29) kingdoms, but he cannot rule the heavenly powers, especially Satan (ch. 3; Eph. 6:10–12). Only the Last Adam, the very image of God's Person (Col. 1:15; Heb. 1:3) and those united with Him can do that (3:15; Matt. 4:1–11; Col. 3:10).

created. See note on v. 1. These apparently poetic lines (the verb "create" is used three times) celebrate the creation of man.

■ 1:28 blessed. See v. 22; 9:1 and notes. The genealogies of chs. 5; 9; 11; 25; 36; and 46 bear witness to the fulfillment of this blessing.

have dominion . . . earth. Under divine blessing, humans accomplish the cultural mandate (v. 26 and note) by naming the creation (v. 5; 2:19, 20). This activity expresses their bearing the image of the Creator-King. Fallen man, however, distorts this activity into self-deification and abuse of the creation.

■ 1:29 herb . . . tree. In Mesopotamian myths man was created to provide the gods with food; here God creates food for man. The human and animal (v. 30) diets were originally vegetarian, a situation altered after the Flood (9:3 note).

■ 2:1 The concluding summary statement underscores that the Creator perfectly executed His will (v. 31).

■ 2:2 God ended . . . He rested. The creation cycle was completed on the sixth day and God rested on the seventh, providing man with a model for the cycle of labor and rest. No mention is made of "evening and morning," perhaps because the Sabbath ordinance continues and man is exhorted to participate in it (Ex. 31:17), and to look forward to the eternal redemptive sabbath rest (Heb. 4:3–10).

The Image of God

Scripture teaches (Gen. 1:26, 27, echoed in 5:1; 9:6; 1 Cor. 11:7; James 3:9) that God made man and woman in His own image, so that human beings are like God as no other earthly creatures are. The special dignity of being human is that as men and women we may reflect and reproduce at our own creaturely level the holy ways of God. Human beings were made for this purpose, and in one sense we are truly human to the extent that we fulfill it.

The scope of God's image in humanity is not specified in Gen. 1:26, 27, but the context of the passage helps to define it. Genesis 1:1–25 sets forth God as personal, rational (having intelligence and will), creative, ruling over the world He has made, and morally admirable (in that all He creates is good). Plainly, God's image will reflect these qualities. Verses 26–30 show God blessing the newly created humans and setting them to rule creation as His representatives and deputies. The human capacity for communication and relationship with both God and other humans appears as a further facet of the image.

God's image in humanity at creation, then, consisted in: (a) existence as a "soul" or "spirit" (Gen. 2:7), that is, as personal and self-conscious, with a God-like capacity for knowledge, thought, and action; (b) being morally upright, a quality lost at the Fall but now being progressively restored in Christ (Eph. 4:24; Col. 3:10); (c) dominion over the environment; (d) the human body as the means through which we experience reality, express ourselves, and exercise dominion; and (e) the God-given capacity for eternal life.

The Fall diminished God's image, not only in Adam and Eve, but in all their descendants, the whole human race. We retain the image structurally, in the sense that we remain human beings, but not functionally, for we are now slaves to sin, unable to use our powers to mirror God's holiness. Regeneration begins the process of restoring God's moral image in our lives. But not until we are fully sanctified and glorified shall we reflect God perfectly in thought and action as we were made to do and as the incarnate Son of God in His humanity actually did (John 4:34; 5:30; 6:38; 8:29, 46). □

■ 2:3 sanctified it. The seventh day is the first thing in the Torah to which God imparts His holiness and so sets apart to Himself (Ex. 20:11). It summons mankind to imitate the pattern of the King and so to confess God's lordship and their consecration to Him. This sign of a covenant with God (Ex. 31:13, 17) and type of Christ (Col. 2:16, 17) gives promise of divine rest both now and forever (Matt. 11:28).

■ 2:4—4:26 Moses' narration moves from the prologue concerning the creation of heaven and earth to the account (2:4 note and text note) of heaven and earth. Moses treats the creation and probation of Adam and Eve in Paradise (2:4–25), their fall into sin and its consequences (ch. 3), the escalation of sin in the ungodly line of Cain (4:1–24), and the preservation of a godly remnant in the line of Seth (4:25, 26).

■ 2:4—3:24 This story presents the fall of Adam and Eve from innocence into sin. Though historical persons (1 Chr. 1:1; Matt. 19:5; Luke 3:23–38; Rom. 5:12–14; 1 Cor. 15:45), Adam and Eve also represent every man and woman (2:24; 3:16–19; Matt. 19:4–6). The chief actor throughout is God: He forms the man (v. 7; Job 10:8–12), plants the garden (Ps. 87:1; Matt. 16:18), sovereignly places man in it (v. 15; Eph. 1:3–14), orders his life (vv. 16, 17; Ps. 31:15), gives him his wife (vv. 18–25; Matt. 19:6), judges the first parents for their sin, and restores them (ch. 3; Heb. 9:27, 28).

■ 2:4 the history of. This Hebrew word (toledoth), sometimes rendered "the generations of" or "the genealogy of," introduces major new developments in the Genesis narrative (5:1; 6:9; 10:1; 11:10, 27; 25:12, 19; 36:1, 9; 37:2). This "history of the heavens and the earth" pertains to what follows—to what the universe generated—rather than to the preceding account of the generation or creation of the earth.

LORD God. Normally these names for God are isolated: "God" to represent Him as sovereign Creator of all, and "LORD" to signify His unique covenant commitment to Israel (Ex. 3:14, 15). Here they are combined to stress that the Creator is also Israel's covenant God.

■ 2:5 any plant . . . any herb of the field. Inedible growth, such as thorns (3:18) and cultivated grains (3:17), respectively. Because of the crucial role played by the garden, trees, and the cursed ground, this introduction to the Fall narrative focuses on plants, not animals.

man . . . of the ground. The wordplay in Hebrew, "man" (Hebrew 'adam) and "ground" (Hebrew 'adamah), shows man's close connection with the ground (2:5, 15; 3:19), and underlies Paul's later teaching that

Body and Soul, Male and Female

Each human being in this world consists of a material body animated by an immaterial personal self. Scripture calls this self a "soul" or "spirit." "Soul" emphasizes the distinctness of a person's conscious selfhood; "spirit" carries the nuances of the self's derivation from God, dependence on Him, and distinctness from the body as such.

Biblical usage leads us to say that we have and are both souls and spirits, but it is a mistake to think that soul and spirit are two different things; a "trichotomous" view of man as body, soul, and spirit is incorrect. The common idea that the soul is an organ of this-worldly awareness only, while the spirit is a distinct organ of communion with God, brought to life in regeneration, is out of step with biblical teaching. Moreover, such a view leads to a crippling anti-intellectualism whereby spiritual insight and theological reflection are separated to the impoverishment of both—theology being regarded as "soulish" and unspiritual, while spiritual perception is viewed as unrelated to the work of teaching and learning God's revealed truth.

The embodiment of the soul is integral to God's design for humanity. Through the body we experience our environment, enjoy and control things around us, and relate to other people. There was nothing evil or corruptible about the body as God first made it. If sin had not occurred, the physical aging and decline that leads to death as we know it would have been no part of human experience (Gen. 2:17; 3:19, 22; Rom. 5:12). Now, however, all people are corrupt throughout their psychophysical being, as the disordered desires of mind and body, warring against each other as well as against the rules of wisdom and righteousness, clearly show.

At death the soul leaves the body behind, but this is not the happy release that Greek philosophers and some cults have imagined. The Christian hope is not redemption from the body but redemption of the body. We look forward to having a part of Christ's resurrection in and through the resurrection of our bodies. Though the exact composition of our future glorified bodies is presently unknown, we know that there will be a continuity with our present bodies (1 Cor. 15:35–49; Phil. 3:20, 21; Col. 3:4).

The two genders, male and female, belong to the creation pattern. Men and women are equally image-bearers of God (Gen. 1:27), and their dignity is equal in consequence. The complementary nature of the genders is meant to lead to enriching cooperation (see Gen. 2:18–23), not only in marriage, procreation, and family life, but in life's wider activities also. Perception of the difference between a person of the other gender and oneself is meant to be a school for learning the practice and joy of appreciation, openness, honor, service, and fidelity. □ the first Adam was fashioned in a natural body for an earthly existence. The heavenly Son of Man (Dan. 7:13) shared in this earthly state in order to secure for fallen man a spiritual body of imperishable glory in the resurrection of the redeemed (1 Cor. 15:42–49).

living being. The Hebrew here is translated "living creature" in 2:19. Note that it does not say "a living being became man"—man is not formed from preexistent life. Man is differentiated from the animals by bearing the image of God (1:26 and notes), and he shows his authority over the animals by naming them (vv. 19, 20).

■ 2:8–17 The account of man's probation begins with his creation (v. 7). The stage for this drama was the paradisal Garden of Eden (vv. 8–14), while the plot consisted of the events during that probation that tested man's obedience to the covenant obligation (vv. 15–17). In this covenant arrangement God graciously offers life to humankind, but He demands obedience to His command. The first Adam, representing all mankind, failed to obey and brought death upon all. The active obedience of the Last Adam, Christ, representing the elect, satisfies God's demands and earns for them eternal life (Rom. 5:12–19; 1 Cor. 15:45–49).

■ 2:8–14 The Creator, by providing man with every blessing, pressed upon him the claims of God's love and made his rebellion inexcusable (Rom. 1:20). Mankind was meant for fellowship with God in the garden; his expulsion from that paradise is unnatural.

■ 2:8 garden. A sanctuary where God invites humanity to enjoy fellowship and peace with Him. Cherubim protect the garden's sanctity (3:24 and note; Ex. 26:1; 2 Chr. 3:7) so that sin and death will be excluded (3:23; Rev. 21:8). Faith and obedience are prerequisites for living in this place of special communion with God.

eastward. In biblical times the east, where the sun rises, represented life and light (3:24 note).

Eden. The origin of the term "Eden" is disputed; it may derive from an Accadian term meaning "plain" or "prairie," or from the Hebrew term meaning "pleasure" or "delight" (from which the association of Eden with the term "paradise" derives). Eden was apparently the region in which the garden was located (v. 10). The mention of Assyria and the Tigris and Euphrates rivers (v. 14 and text note) indicates a location east of Palestine in Mesopotamia.

■ 2:9 every tree . . . food. Life in the garden is represented as a banquet table.

sight and good for food. [p]The tree of life was also in the midst of the garden, and the tree of the knowledge of good and [q]evil.

10 Now a river went out of Eden to water the garden, and from there it parted and became four riverheads. 11 The name of the first is Pishon; it is the one which skirts [r]the whole land of Havilah, where there is gold. 12 And the gold of that land is good. [s]Bdellium and the onyx stone are there. 13 The name of the second river is Gihon; it is the one which goes around the whole land of Cush. 14 The name of the third river is [t]Hiddekel;[2] it is the one which goes toward the east of [3]Assyria. The fourth river is the Euphrates.

15 Then the LORD God took [4]the man and put him in the garden of Eden to [5]tend and keep it. 16 And the LORD God commanded the man, saying, "Of every tree of the garden you may freely eat; 17 but of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil [u]you shall not eat, for in the day that you eat of it [v]you[6] shall surely [w]die."

18 And the LORD God said, "It is not good that man should be alone; [x]I will make him a helper comparable to him." 19 [y]Out of the ground the LORD God formed every beast of the field and every bird of the air, and [z]brought them to [7]Adam to see what he would call them. And whatever Adam called each living creature, that was its name. 20 So Adam gave names to all cattle, to the birds of the air, and to every beast of the field. But for Adam there was not found a helper comparable to him.

21 And the LORD God caused a [a]deep sleep to fall on Adam, and he slept; and He took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh in its place. 22 Then the rib which the LORD God had taken from man He [8]made into a woman, [b]and He [c]brought her to the man.

23 And Adam said:

"This is now [d]bone of my bones
And flesh of my flesh;
She shall be called [9]Woman,
Because she was [e]taken out of [1]Man."

tree of life. This tree represents life in its highest potency—eternal life. It is available only to those who reenter the garden through the Second Adam (3:22; Rev. 22:14). The New Testament counterpart of this tree's life-giving fruit is found in partaking of the life-giving Christ (John 6:53–56).

tree of the knowledge of good and evil. Good and evil, a compound of opposites like heaven and earth (1:1), is a figure for potentially unlimited knowledge. It is a good tree (3:22), but man must not seize it. The illicit taking of this fruit involved the assertion of human autonomy, the attempt to know all apart from God. Man must live by faith in God's word and not by a professed self-sufficiency of knowledge (Deut. 8:3; Ezek. 28:6, 15–17). The law makes wise the simple (Ps. 19:7–9).

■ 2:10 a river. The location of this river is now unknown. The Tigris and Euphrates do not have a single source, but some translate this verse as indicating a river formed by the confluence of four rivers (rather than branching into four).

This river reminds us of the spring of living water, the spiritual source of life, that issues from the throne of the living God (Ps. 36:8; Jer. 17:13; Ezek. 47:1–12; Rev. 22:1). Jesus also used the symbol of "living water" in describing the blessings of salvation (John 4:14; 7:37–39).

■ 2:11–13 The identity of the Pishon and Gihon rivers is uncertain.

■ 2:11 Havilah. Probably located in Arabia (10:7, 29; 25:18; 1 Sam. 15:7).

■ 2:15 tend and keep it. Man was to find fulfillment, not in idleness, but in a life of rewarding labor in obedience to God's command. The Hebrew behind the latter term (translated "guard" in 3:24) also entails the notion of protecting it against enemies.

■ 2:16 commanded. God's first words to man assume his ability to choose and his moral capacity and responsibility.

■ 2:17 you shall not eat. This unique exclusion, an exception to man's dominion over the creation (1:29), confronted him with the Creator's rule over him.

■ 2:18–25 The gift of the first bride presents marriage before the Fall, and so provides the foundation for the laws against adultery (Ex. 20:14; Heb. 13:4), a model for marriage, the basis for government in the home and church (1 Cor. 11:3–12; 1 Tim. 2:12, 13), as well as a type of Christ's relationship to His church (Eph. 5:22–32). The focus in 1:26, 27 is on their sexuality as male and female; here, their social relationship as husband and wife. See "Body and Soul, Male and Female" at 2:7.

■ 2:18 not good. See 1:4 and note. Man needs companionship on earth. In the Old Testament the most holy person, the high priest, marries (Lev. 21:13), and the Nazirite, uniquely set apart to God, is not celibate (Num. 6:1–4). Abstention from lawful marriage is never commanded in Scripture (cf. 1 Tim. 4:3), although some are given the gift of celibacy for service (1 Cor. 7:7).

helper. Man was first formed, giving him social priority, and the woman was later given to him as a helper (1 Cor. 11:3–12; 1 Tim. 2:10). The word "helper" entails his inadequacy, not her inferiority, for elsewhere it is often used of God.

comparable to him. The expression assumes a complementary relationship; what he lacked she supplied and vice versa. Both share the image of God (1:26, 27).

■ 2:19, 20 Adam is being prepared for God's gift of Eve by becoming aware of his loneliness and lack of companionship.

■ 2:19 called. See 1:5 and note. The image-bearer now carries out the cultural mandate (1:26 and note). The place of humans is a little lower than heavenly beings and higher than the animals (Ps. 8:5).

■ 2:20–25 See "Marriage and Divorce" at Mal. 2:16.

■ 2:21 one of his ribs. Or, "from his side." The woman derives from the man, giving him priority within the institution of marriage (1 Cor. 11:3, 8) and pointing to the harmony and intimacy that should characterize the marriage relationship (v. 22; Eph. 5:28).

■ 2:23 This . . . Man. Man's first poem, his only recorded statement prior to the Fall, celebrates his wife's kinship and companionship with him.

called. His twofold naming of her entails his authority in the home (3:20; cf. Num. 30:6–8). In ancient times the authority to name implied authority to govern (v. 19; 1:5 and notes).

The Temptation and Fall of Man

3 Now [a]the serpent was [b]more cunning than any beast of the field which the LORD God had made. And he said to the woman, "Has God indeed said, 'You shall not eat of every tree of the garden'?"

[2] And the woman said to the serpent, "We may eat the [c]fruit of the trees of the garden; [3] but of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden, God has said, 'You shall not eat it, nor shall you [d]touch it, lest you die.' "

[4] [e]Then the serpent said to the woman, "You will not surely die. [5] For God knows that in the day you eat of it your eyes will be opened, and you will be like God, knowing good and evil."

[6] So when the woman [f]saw that the tree was good for food, that it was [1]pleasant to the eyes, and a tree desirable to make one wise, she took of its fruit [g]and ate. She also gave to her husband with her, and he ate. [7] Then the eyes of both of them were opened, [h]and they knew that they were naked; and they sewed fig leaves together and made themselves [2]coverings.

[8] And they heard [i]the [3]sound of the LORD God walking in the garden in the [4]cool of the day, and Adam and his wife [j]hid themselves from the presence of the LORD God among the trees of the garden.

[9] Then the LORD God called to Adam and said to him, "Where are you?"

[10] So he said, "I heard Your voice in the garden, [k]and I was afraid because I was naked; and I hid myself."

[11] And He said, "Who told you that you were naked? Have you eaten from the tree of which I commanded you that you should not eat?"

■ 2:24 leave. At marriage a man's priorities change. Obligations to his wife take precedence.

be joined to. This is the language of covenant commitment. Humans are never more like the covenant-keeping God than when they pledge themselves in covenant to one another. Marriage pictures God's relationship to His people (Hos. 2:14–23; Eph. 5:22–32).

one flesh. A phrase pointing to the profound solidarity of the marriage relationship. The singular and total commitment involved implies that God intended marriage to be monogamous.

■ 2:25 not ashamed. This statement does not idealize nudity, but shows why humans must wear clothes. With the Fall came a tragic loss of innocence (together with the resulting shame). When people's minds are enlightened by the gospel, they understand their moral frailty and practice customs of dress that shield them against sexual temptation.

■ 3:1–24 The guardians of the sanctuary (2:15 note) are now tested for fidelity to their King. The test is administered under a covenant of works: obedience entitles them to life with God; disobedience brings death. Their failure points to their need for justification and sanctification through Christ's fulfillment of the covenant of grace.

■ 3:1 the serpent. In the biblical world snakes were variously symbolic of life, wisdom, and chaos; the god of chaos is sometimes likened to one (Job 26:12, 13; Is. 27:1). This serpent is an incarnation of Satan, the Adversary. See v. 15 note; "Satan" at Job 1:6.

more cunning. Satan's choice of embodiment was a fitting instrument for his own malevolent brilliance (cf. 2 Cor. 11:13–15). His words must be carefully scrutinized. He can only be withstood with the help of God's splendid armor (Matt. 4:1–11; Eph. 6:10–20).

woman. Satan subverts the marriage institution by bypassing the man, tempting the woman to usurp his authority (1 Tim. 2:12, 14). Nevertheless, the husband is held accountable for obeying her (vv. 9, 17).

■ 3:2–5 The serpent tempts Eve by: emphasizing God's prohibition, not His provision; reducing God's command to a question; casting doubt upon God's sincerity and defaming His motives; and denying the truthfulness of His threat. The woman gradually yields to Satan's denials and half-truths by disparaging her privileges in adding to the prohibition ("nor shall you touch it," v. 3), and minimizing the threat (v. 6).

■ 3:5 good and evil. See 2:9 and note.

■ 3:6 Sin is essentially man's failure to trust in God, an act or state of unbelief, an assertion of autonomy (2:9 note). True religion consists of communion with God based on trust and issuing into obedience (John 14:15). See theological note "The Fall."

took of its fruit. By this act she sealed an alliance with the prince of death and darkness. God's loving election and plan of redemption are her only hope (v. 15 and notes).

he ate. Man becomes a rebel: surrounded with sufficient motives to trust and obey God, he chooses disobedience against God (6:5; 8:21). Salvation depends entirely upon the Lord, not the rebel. By God's appointment Adam represented the race as its federal head and brought death upon all (Rom. 5:12–19). He also represents, as a model and prototype, mankind's hostility against God (2:4—3:24 note).

■ 3:7–11 Their spiritual death (2:17 and note) is shown by their alienation from one another, symbolized by the sewing of fig leaves together for clothing, and separation from God, signified by their hiding among the trees.

■ 3:7 naked. Nakedness in the Old Testament suggests weakness, need, and humiliation (Deut. 28:48; Job 1:21; Is. 58:7). The Hebrew word for "naked" sounds like the Hebrew for "cunning" in 3:1. The intimacy of marriage is shattered (cf. 2:21, 24 and notes); trust is replaced by distrust. The first experience of guilt was expressed in terms of an awareness of nakedness. Redemption is linked to God's providing a covering for human sin (v. 21 and notes; cf. Ex. 25:17 note).

■ 3:8 hid themselves. Their consciences condemning them, they shrank from the intimacy with God they formerly enjoyed in the garden (Rom. 2:12–16). Their expulsion from it matches their attitudes and actions.

■ 3:9 Where. Though omniscient, God accommodates His speech to human limitations. Here the question induces them to come to Him (cf. 4:9; 11:5).

■ 3:10 I heard Your voice. Ironically, the word translated "heard" is also a Hebrew idiom for "obeyed"—precisely what Adam did not do.

■ 3:11 Who. See note on 11:5. The questions (v. 13) prod them to confess their guilt. God asks Satan no questions, simply consigning him to judgment (v. 14).

[12] Then the man said, [l]"The woman whom You gave to be with me, she gave me of the tree, and I ate."
[13] And the LORD God said to the woman, "What is this you have done?"
The woman said, [m]"The serpent deceived me, and I ate."
[14] So the LORD God said to the serpent:

"Because you have done this,
You are cursed more than all cattle,

The Fall

In Romans, Paul affirms that all mankind is naturally under the guilt and power of sin, the reign of death, and the inescapable wrath of God (Rom. 1:18, 19; 3:9, 19; 5:17, 21). He traces this back to the sin of the one man Adam, whom he describes as our common ancestor (Acts 17:26; Rom. 5:12–14; cf. 1 Cor. 15:22). Paul as an apostle has given this authoritative interpretation of the history recorded in Gen. 3, where we find the account of the Fall, the original human lapse from God and godliness into sin and lostness. The main points in that history, as seen through the lens of Paul's interpretation, are:

1. God made the first man the representative for all his posterity, just as He was to make Jesus Christ the representative for all God's elect (Rom. 5:15–19; cf. 8:29, 30; 9:22–26). In each case the representative involved those whom he represented in the fruits of his personal action, whether it was for their wealth or their woe. This divinely chosen arrangement, whereby Adam determined the destiny of his descendants, has been called the "covenant of works," though this precise phrase does not occur in Scripture.

2. God placed Adam in a state of happiness and promised permanently to establish him and his posterity in it if he showed fidelity by obeying God's command not to eat from a tree described as "the tree of the knowledge of good and evil" (Gen. 2:17). Apparently the issue was whether Adam would let God determine what was good and bad, or would seek to decide that for himself, in disregard of what God had said.

3. Adam, led by Eve who was herself led by the serpent (Satan in disguise; 2 Cor. 11:3, 14; Rev. 12:9), defied God by eating the forbidden fruit. As a result, first of all, the anti-God, self-aggrandizing mindset expressed in Adam's sin became part of him, and of the moral nature that he passed on to his descendants (Gen. 6:5; Rom. 3:9–20). Second, Adam and Eve were gripped by a sense of pollution and guilt that made them ashamed and fearful before God—with good reason. Third, they were cursed with expectations of pain and death, and expelled from Eden. At the same time, however, God began to show them saving mercy. He made them garments to cover their nakedness, and He promised that the woman's Seed would one day break the serpent's head. This promise foreshadowed Christ.

Though the story is recounted in a somewhat figurative style, Genesis asks us to read it as history. In Genesis, Adam is linked to the patriarchs and through them to the rest of the human race by genealogy (chs. 5; 10; 11), making him as much a part of history as Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. All the book's main characters after Adam, except Joseph, are clearly shown to be sinners in one way or another, and the death of Joseph, like the death of almost everyone else in the story, is carefully recorded (Gen. 50:22–26). Paul's statement, "in Adam all die" (1 Cor. 15:22), only makes explicit what Genesis already clearly implies.

It may fairly be claimed that the Fall narrative alone gives any convincing explanation of the perversity of human nature. Pascal said that the doctrine of original sin seems an offense to reason, but once accepted it makes total sense of the human condition. He was right; and the same thing may and should be said of the Fall narrative itself. □

■ 3:12, 13 They show their allegiance to Satan by distorting the truth, accusing one another, and ultimately accusing God (cf. James 1:13). Their efforts to conceal their sin only expose it.

■ 3:13 deceived. This word underlies Paul's teaching in 1 Tim. 2:12, 14.

■ 3:14–20 God's weighty judgments against Satan (vv. 14–15), the woman (v. 16), and the man (vv. 17–19) nevertheless include the promise of salvation for God's people (v. 15).

■ 3:14, 15 The language has a double reference, referring both to the serpent and Satan.

■ 3:14 cursed. Cursed, the opposite of blessed (1:22 and note), denotes a breaking of the serpent's powers.

eat dust All the days. Dust is the symbol of abject humiliation (Ps. 44:25; 72:9), an indignity lasting forever. Satan's final defeat under the heel of the Messiah (v. 15) is delayed so that God's program of redemption through the promised Seed of the woman may be accomplished.

And more than every beast of the field;
On your belly you shall go,
And [n]you shall eat dust
All the days of your life.
15 And I will put enmity
Between you and the woman,
And between [o]your seed and [p]her Seed;

And you shall bruise His heel."

16 To the woman He said:

"I will greatly multiply your sorrow and your conception;
[r]In pain you shall bring forth children;
[s]Your desire shall be [5]for your husband,
And he shall [t]rule over you."

17 Then to Adam He said, [u]"Because you have heeded the voice of your wife, and have eaten from the tree [v]of which I commanded you, saying, 'You shall not eat of it':

[w]"Cursed is the ground for your sake;
[x]In toil you shall eat of it
All the days of your life.
18 Both thorns and thistles it shall [6]bring forth for you,
And [y]you shall eat the herb of the field.
19 [z]In the sweat of your face you shall eat bread
Till you return to the ground,
For out of it you were taken;
[a]For dust you are,
And [b]to dust you shall return."

20 And Adam called his wife's name [c]Eve,[7] because she was the mother of all living.

your seed and her Seed. Humanity is now divided into two communities: the redeemed, who love God, and the reprobate, who love self (John 8:33, 44; 1 John 3:8). The division finds immediate expression in the hostility of Cain against Abel (ch. 4). This prophecy finds ultimate fulfillment in the triumph of the Second Adam, and the community united with Him, over the forces of sin, death, and the devil (Dan. 7:13, 14; Rom. 5:12–19; 16:20; 1 Cor. 15:45–49; Heb. 2:14, 15).

bruise . . . bruise. Before His glorious victory, the woman's Seed must suffer to win the new community from the serpent's dominion (Is. 53:12; Luke 24:26, 46; 2 Cor. 1:5–7; Col. 1:24; 1 Pet. 1:11).

head . . . heel. The suffering Christ is victorious. He has already won the victory at the Cross by providing an atonement for the saints (Col. 2:13–15) and will consummate it at His Second Coming (2 Thess. 1:5–10).

■ 3:16–19 The woman is frustrated in her natural relationships within the home: painful labor in bearing children and subordination toward her husband. The man is frustrated in his activity to provide food. Each experiences pain by these reversals.

■ 3:16 pain . . . bring forth children. Pain is experienced even at a point of great fulfillment for the woman. Nevertheless, in her role of bearing and raising children of promise in Jesus Christ, the woman is privileged to participate in God's plan to create a people for Himself (v. 15; cf. 1 Tim. 2:15).

desire. The phrase "he shall rule over you" and the parallel wording in 4:7 suggests that her desire is to dominate. The marriage ordinance continues, but is frustrated by the battle of the sexes.

rule over you. The harmony, intimacy, and complementarity of the pre-Fall marriage relationship (2:21–24 and notes) are corrupted by sin, and marred by domination and enforced submission. The restoration of these relationships takes place through new life in Christ (Eph. 5:22–33).

■ 3:17 ground. Man's natural relationship to the ground, to rule over it, is reversed; instead of submitting to him, it resists and eventually swallows him (2:7 and note). The earth, frustrated by the Creator's assignment to disharmony, longs for restoration (Rom. 8:20–22).

In toil. Labor itself is a blessing because man's work reflects the activity of the working God (2:2 note). But the object of man's labor, the ground, is cursed and becomes a source of frustration.

■ 3:19 dust you are. Man's earthly body makes physical death possible.

to dust you shall return. Physical death is both a judgment and a blessing. It renders all activity vain, but delivers the redeemed from earthly frustration and opens the way to an eternal salvation that outlasts the grave (Ps. 73:24; Prov. 14:32).

■ 3:20 called. See 1:5; 2:23 and notes.

mother of all living. Adam's choice of the name Eve demonstrates his faith in God's promise that the woman would bear children, including the Seed who would defeat Satan.

■ 3:21 tunics of skin. The fig-leaf "coverings" of v. 7 were loincloths. God's durable "tunics" contrast with the inadequate attempt by Adam and Eve to cover their shame. His provision also entailed killing an animal, perhaps suggesting a sacrifice for sin (3:7 note; Lev. 17:11).

■ 3:22 Us. See note on 1:26.

live forever. Adam and Eve are protected from an eternal bondage to sin and misery that would result if they ate of the tree of life (v. 19 note).

evil. And now, lest he put out his hand and take also of the tree of life, and eat, and live forever"— 23 therefore the LORD God sent him out of the garden of Eden [d]to till the ground from which he was taken. 24 So [e]He drove out the man; and He placed [f]cherubim [g]at the east of the garden of Eden, and a flaming sword which turned every way, to guard the way to the tree of [h]life.

Cain Murders Abel

4 Now Adam knew Eve his wife, and she conceived and bore [1]Cain, and said, "I have acquired a man from the LORD." 2 Then she bore again, this time his brother [2]Abel. Now [a]Abel was a keeper of sheep, but Cain was a tiller of the ground. 3 And [3]in the process of time it came to pass that Cain brought an offering of the fruit [b]of the ground to the LORD. 4 Abel also brought of [c]the firstborn of his flock and of [d]their fat. And the LORD [e]respected Abel and his offering, 5 but He did not respect Cain and his offering. And Cain was very angry, and his countenance fell.

6 So the LORD said to Cain, "Why are you angry? And why has your countenance fallen? 7 If you do well, will you not be accepted? And if you do not do well, sin lies at the door. And its desire is [4]for you, but you should rule over it."

8 Now Cain [5]talked with Abel his [6]brother; and it came to pass, when they were in the field, that Cain rose up against Abel his brother and [f]killed him.

9 Then the LORD said to Cain, "Where is Abel your brother?"

He said, [g]"I do not know. Am I [h]my brother's keeper?"

10 And He said, "What have you done? The voice of your brother's blood [i]cries out to Me from the ground. 11 So now [j]you are cursed from the earth, which has opened its mouth to to guard. The coming heavenly Adam, who bears the curse of toil, sweat, thorns, conflict, death on a tree, and descent into dust, will regain the garden, tearing apart the veil of the temple on which the cherubim were sewn (2:8 and note; Ex. 26:1; Matt. 27:51; Heb. 6:19; 9:3; Rev. 22:1–3, 14). The flaming sword is the first weapon of government or law-enforcement.

■ 4:1–26 The prophesied hostility between the seed of the serpent and the Seed of the woman (cf. 3:15) takes shape immediately in the hostility of ungodly Cain against godly Abel (vv. 1–16), and in the contrast of Cain's ungodly offspring versus the godly line of Seth (4:17—5:32). There is a horrendous escalation of sin from Cain to Lamech.

■ 4:1–16 The focus is on Cain, the archetype of Satan's followers. Cain displays his kinship with the devil by his hostility against God and his murder of a good man (v. 8; Matt. 23:35; Heb. 11:4), together with his lies (v. 9; John 8:44; 1 John 3:12).

■ 4:1 Adam knew Eve. The Hebrew word for "know" is used to denote the sexual intimacy of the marriage relationship.

a man from the LORD. Humans, both originally (1:26, 27) and presently, owe their existence to God. Woman originally came from the man, now man comes forth from the woman. The sexes are dependent on one another, and both are dependent on God (1 Cor. 11:8–12).

■ 4:2 Abel. The name means "breath," "vapor," or "nothing" (text note) with the connotation of "perishable," a somber prophecy of what follows.

sheep . . . ground. In spite of Adam's Fall, humans still carry out the cultural mandate to manage the earth's resources (1:26, 28).

■ 4:4, 5 offering. The Hebrew here is the common word for "tribute," the gift of an inferior to a superior (1 Sam. 10:27; 1 Kin. 4:21). Each brother brought a gift appropriate to his vocation (cf. Gen. 32:13–21).

■ 4:4 firstborn. As the Author and Owner of life, God was entitled to the first share produced by plants (firstfruits, Deut. 26:1–11) and by animals and man (firstborn, Ex. 13:2, 12; 34:19), and to the best of what a worshiper had to offer (fat, Lev. 3:14–16). Abel brought both the first and the best; Cain brought neither. Many also point out that Abel brought a blood sacrifice, while Cain did not.

the LORD respected. God sees the heart (cf. 1 Sam. 16:7).

Abel and his offering. The worshiper and his offering are inseparable: by faith Abel was commended as a righteous man when God spoke well of his offerings; without faith neither Cain nor his offerings were pleasing to God (Heb. 11:4, 6).

■ 4:5 Cain was very angry. Cain's failure in worship, and his subsequent angry response, were basic to his unethical behavior. The elect and non-elect are differentiated by their basic attitudes toward God.

■ 4:6 Why. God's question introduces the admonition in v. 7 (3:9 note).

■ 4:7 lies at the door. The Hebrew suggests a threatening demon crouching outside the door of a house. Perhaps there is also an allusion to the serpent lying in wait to strike the heel (3:15; cf. 1 Pet. 5:8).

desire. See note on 3:16.

rule over it. Knowing Cain's heart, God warns him not to submit to the murderous temptation of the devil (cf. 1 John 3:12). Although unregenerate humans can rule over the ground and flocks, they cannot finally master sin (1:26 note; Ps. 53:3; Rom. 8:7).

■ 4:8 talked with Abel. Ignoring God and His warning, Cain's subsequent actions reveal his answer. Abel is mentioned only for his birth, offering, and death.

killed him. The fracturing of family ties by sin, begun in ch. 3, quickly reaches the extreme of murder. Seeking autonomy from God like his parents (3:6 note), Cain usurps divine sovereignty over life.

■ 4:9 Where is Abel. See note on 11:5.

Am I my brother's keeper. The sarcastic hypocrite had already killed his brother.

■ 4:10–14 Cain the murderer, alienated both from the ground and from society, has no rest.

■ 4:10 What have you done. The question registers God's outrage.

cries out. Whereas Abel's blood cried out for vengeance (Is. 26:21; Matt. 23:35; Rev. 6:10), Christ's blood cries out for forgiveness (Heb. 12:24).

■ 4:11 cursed. God's curse now links Cain with Satan (3:14; 1 John 3:12). His time of grace ended, he is consigned to judgment (Heb. 9:27; 10:27). Whereas in 3:17–19 the ground is cursed so as not to yield its produce without frustrating labor, now Cain is cursed to become a fugitive without a permanent place and security.

receive your brother's blood from your hand. 12 When you till the ground, it shall no longer yield its strength to you. A fugitive and a vagabond you shall be on the earth."

13 And Cain said to the LORD, "My [7]punishment is greater than I can bear! 14 Surely You have driven me out this day from the face of the ground; [k]I shall be [l]hidden from Your face; I shall be a fugitive and a vagabond on the earth, and it will happen that [m]anyone who finds me will kill me."

15 And the LORD said to him, [8]"Therefore, whoever kills Cain, vengeance shall be taken on him [n]sevenfold." And the LORD set a [o]mark on Cain, lest anyone finding him should kill him.

The Family of Cain

16 Then Cain [p]went out from the [q]presence of the LORD and dwelt in the land of [9]Nod on the east of Eden. 17 And Cain knew his wife, and she conceived and bore Enoch. And he built a city, [r]and called the name of the city after the name of his son—Enoch. 18 To Enoch was born Irad; and Irad begot Mehujael, and Mehujael begot Methushael, and Methushael begot Lamech.

19 Then Lamech took for himself [s]two wives: the name of one was Adah, and the name of the second was Zillah. 20 And Adah bore Jabal. He was the father of those who dwell in tents and have livestock. 21 His brother's name was Jubal. He was the father of all those who play the harp and [t]flute. 22 And as for Zillah, she also bore Tubal-Cain, an instructor of every craftsman in bronze and iron. And the sister of Tubal-Cain was Naamah.

23 Then Lamech said to his wives:

"Adah and Zillah, hear my voice;
Wives of Lamech, listen to my speech!
For I have [2]killed a man for wounding me,
Even a young man [3]for hurting me.
24 [u]If Cain shall be avenged sevenfold,
Then Lamech seventy-sevenfold."

A New Son

25 And Adam knew his wife again, and she bore a son and [v]named him [4]Seth, "For God has appointed another seed for me instead of Abel, whom Cain killed." 26 And as for Seth, [w]to him also a son was born; and he named him [5]Enosh. Then men began [x]to call on the name of the LORD.

■ 4:13 greater than I can bear. Cain responds with self-pity instead of repenting for his sin against God and man. He fears physical and social exposure but not the God who made him.

■ 4:14 anyone who finds me. The story up to now has focused on Cain, not on Adam's other descendants (v. 17; 5:4). Ironically, after murdering his brother, Cain now fears vengeance from his own family (cf. Num. 35:19).

kill me. Cain anticipates the violent behavior of his descendants (6:5, 11).

■ 4:15 mark. This may have been a protective tattoo identifying Cain as one under God's protection.

■ 4:17–24 The ambivalence of godless human culture is portrayed by advances in civilization, including the first city, with a parallel increase in violence.

■ 4:17, 18 Cain . . . Enoch . . . Irad . . . Mehujael . . . Methushael . . . Lamech. The names are similar to those in ch. 5, not because they represent variations of the same source, but to parallel and contrast the two offspring of Adam. The seventh from Adam through Cain and Seth, respectively the ungodly Lamech (vv. 19–24) and the godly Enoch (5:24), stand in sharp contrast to one another. The former inflicted death; the latter did not die.

■ 4:17 knew his wife . . . bore Enoch. See note on v. 1. In God's common grace, family life is enjoyed by unbelievers as well as by believers.

he built a city. In seeking the security of a city, it appears that sinful Cain both defied the divine judgment that he should be a vagabond (v. 12) and showed his lack of faith in the protection provided by God's mark (v. 15). The earthly city provides both civilization and protection, but culminates in the building of a city that challenges God's supremacy (11:4). The faithful by contrast look for a heavenly city (Phil. 3:20; Col. 3:1–4; Heb. 11:10, 16; 12:22; 13:14).

■ 4:19–24 Lamech. Lamech represents both a progressive hardening in sin—polygamy (cf. 2:24; Matt. 19:5, 6) and a grossly unjust vendetta—and the extension of the cultural mandate from animal husbandry (v. 20) to the arts (v. 21) and sciences (v. 22). Lamech expresses, indeed celebrates, his deepening depravity by his song (vv. 23, 24).

■ 4:19 two wives. Bigamy is an abuse of the marriage institution that God intended to be monogamous (2:24 note).

■ 4:24 seventy-sevenfold. Cain's violence and vindictiveness are greatly magnified in his descendant. The depth of Lamech's depravity is evident in his arrogant assurance and self-reliance (in contrast to Cain's fear, v. 14).

■ 4:25, 26 This episode provides a transition between the two accounts begun in 2:4 and 5:1 (cf. 6:1–8; 9:18–29).

■ 4:25 knew his wife. See note on v. 1. The comparison and contrast with vv. 1, 17 signal the transition to the line of the godly offspring predicted in 3:15.

Seth. His name, derived from the Hebrew verb translated "appointed" (text note), expresses Eve's faith that God would continue the covenant family in spite of death (3:15; cf. 3:20 note).

■ 4:26 call on the name of the LORD. The covenant family, making its petition and praise in the name of the Lord, glorifies God, not man (cf. vv. 23, 24).

The Family of Adam

5 This is the book of the [a]genealogy of Adam. In the day that God created man, He made him in [b]the likeness of God. [2] He created them [c]male and female, and [d]blessed them and called them Mankind in the day they were created. [3] And Adam lived one hundred and thirty years, and begot a son [e]in his own likeness, after his image, and [f]named him Seth. CHAPTER 5

1 [a]Gen. 2:4; 6:9 [b]Gen. 1:26; 9:6
2 [c]Mark 10:6 [d]Gen. 1:28; 9:1
3 [e]1 Cor. 15:48, 49 [f]Gen. 4:25

■ 5:1—6:8 In this account of Adam's genealogy, Moses focuses on the covenant line of Seth (ch. 5) and then summarizes the escalation of sin on the earth before the Flood (6:1–8).

■ 5:1–3 The godly line of Seth, in contrast with that of Cain (4:17–24), is begun by linking it with the original creation: vv. 1–2 summarize 1:1—2:3, especially 1:27, 28. Verse 3b echoes both 1:27, 26 and 4:25 (11:10–26). God's intention for creation will be realized through Seth, not Cain.

■ 5:1 This is the book of the genealogy. A new section of the Book of Genesis begins (2:4 note). The mention of a "book" or "document" indicates that the author used sources (11:10–26).

■ 5:2 blessed. The creation blessing is reiterated (1:28; 9:1 note).

called. See 1:5 and note.

■ 5:3–32 These verses contain ten paragraphs, each written in the same form, with one paragraph for each generation in Adam's line through Seth. There are some similarities, as well as significant differences, between this material and the Sumerian King List (written c. 2000 B.C.), which mentions eight antediluvian (pre-Flood) kings who reigned for exceptionally long periods (up to 72,000 years). Following the Sumerian flood account (cf. chs. 6—9), there is another list of shorter-lived postdiluvians (cf. ch. 11).

More significant are the formal similarities and material differences between this Sethite genealogy and the Cainite genealogy in ch. 4. Both are initially linear, focusing on one individual in each generation, and both conclude by dividing the line among three sons (4:20–22; 5:32; the same is true in 11:10–26). But the central themes of these genealogies contrast sharply. Cain's line dies in the Flood; Seth's lives through it. Whereas the former presents the curse-laden line of Cain that concludes with murderer begetting murderer (4:17–24), the latter links the founder of humanity, Adam, with its re-founder, Noah (4:25, 26 note). The Enoch and Lamech in Seth's line cannot be confused with the first and last descendants bearing these names in Cain's line. Enoch, the seventh in the line of Seth, "walked with God" and "God took him" (v. 24); and the Sethite Lamech names his son Noah, hoping the Lord will "comfort us" (cf. v. 29).

Because the Hebrew word translated "begot" often means "became the ancestor of," and because some of the numbers appear to be symbolic, many scholars argue that there are gaps in these genealogies, and that they therefore cannot be used to compute a precise chronology. The significant seventh generation of each genealogy marks a high point—the height of wickedness in the Cainite Lamech (4:18–24), and the height of godliness in the Sethite Enoch (vv. 18–24; cf. vv. 21–24 note). The figure of ten generations from Seth to Noah (vv. 3–32) matches the ten generations from Shem to Abram in 11:10–26 (this latter genealogy appears to contain gaps, 11:10–26 note; cf. Matt. 1:17 note). Also, the ages of some antediluvians may be symbolic, and are perhaps related to astronomical periods known to the ancient Near Eastern peoples (e.g., the three hundred sixty-five years of Enoch's life, vv. 21–24 note).

■ 5:5 he died. See 3:19 and notes. Through Adam's transgression death had come upon all (Rom. 5:12–14). On the other hand, in spite of this judgment God's grace preserves the messianic line (3:15 and note) even while sin abounds in the earth (4:17–24).

Ages of the Patriarchs (5:5)

In the genealogy of Gen. 5 the patriarchs who lived before the Flood had an average life span of about 900 years. This contrasts with the genealogy of Gen. 11:10–26 where the ages of post-Flood patriarchs dropped rapidly and gradually leveled off.

6 Seth lived one hundred and five years, and begot [j]Enosh. 7 After he begot Enosh, Seth lived eight hundred and seven years, and had sons and daughters. 8 So all the days of Seth were nine hundred and twelve years; and he died.

9 Enosh lived ninety years, and begot [l]Cainan. 10 After he begot Cainan, Enosh lived eight hundred and fifteen years, and had sons and daughters. 11 So all the days of Enosh were nine hundred and five years; and he died.

12 Cainan lived seventy years, and begot Mahalalel. 13 After he begot Mahalalel, Cainan lived eight hundred and forty years, and had sons and daughters. 14 So all the days of Cainan were nine hundred and ten years; and he died.

15 Mahalalel lived sixty-five years, and begot Jared. 16 After he begot Jared, Mahalalel lived eight hundred and thirty years, and had sons and daughters. 17 So all the days of Mahalalel were eight hundred and ninety-five years; and he died.

18 Jared lived one hundred and sixty-two years, and begot [k]Enoch. 19 After he begot Enoch, Jared lived eight hundred years, and had sons and daughters. 20 So all the days of Jared were nine hundred and sixty-two years; and he died.

21 Enoch lived sixty-five years, and begot Methuselah. 22 After he begot Methuselah, Enoch [l]walked with God three hundred years, and had sons and daughters. 23 So all the days of Enoch were three hundred and sixty-five years. 24 And [m]Enoch walked with God; and he was not, for God [n]took him.

25 Methuselah lived one hundred and eighty-seven years, and begot Lamech. 26 After he begot Lamech, Methuselah lived seven hundred and eighty-two years, and had sons and daughters. 27 So all the days of Methuselah were nine hundred and sixty-nine years; and he died.

28 Lamech lived one hundred and eighty-two years, and had a son. 29 And he called his name [o]Noah,[2] saying, "This one will comfort us concerning our work and the toil of our hands, because of the ground [p]which the LORD has cursed." 30 After he begot Noah, Lamech lived five hundred and ninety-five years, and had sons and daughters. 31 So all the days of Lamech were seven hundred and seventy-seven years; and he died.

32 And Noah was five hundred years old, and Noah begot [q]Shem, Ham, [r]and Japheth.

The Wickedness and Judgment of Man

6 Now it came to pass, [a]when men began to multiply on the face of the earth, and daughters were born to them, 2 that the sons of God saw the daughters of men, that they were beautiful; and they [b]took wives for themselves of all whom they chose.

3 And the LORD said, [c]"My Spirit shall not [d]strive[f] with man forever, [e]for he is indeed flesh; yet his days shall be one hundred and twenty years." 4 There were [2]giants on the earth in those

■ 5:21–24 The number seven (or multiples of it) is often significant in biblical genealogies (5:3–32 note; Matt. 1:17 note; Jude 14).

■ 5:22 walked with God. The expression, repeated twice (here and v. 24), signifies intimate fellowship (3:8; 6:9), including special revelation.

■ 5:23 three hundred and sixty-five years. Perhaps a symbolic number corresponding to the days of the solar year and signifying a life of special privilege. Although longevity is often a sign of divine blessing and favor (Ps. 91:16), the blessed Enoch's relatively short life span, especially compared to his son Methuselah, shows that being in God's presence is an even greater privilege (John 17:24).

■ 5:24 was not, for God took him. Of all recorded Old Testament saints, only Enoch and Elijah did not experience physical death (2 Kin. 2:1–12; Heb. 11:5).

■ 5:29 This one will comfort us. Whereas the Cainite Lamech sought to redress wrong through revenge (4:24), the Sethite Lamech looked in hope to the Lord to provide the seed through whom would come deliverance from the curse.

■ 5:32 five hundred. See 6:3 and note.

Shem, Ham, and Japheth. See 9:18 where their story is resumed.

■ 6:1–8 This section, by the mention of Noah (5:32; 6:8, 9), signals the transition from the godly line of Seth to the flood story (6:9—9:17) and recalls the ominous situation at the end of the Cainite lineage (4:17–24).

■ 6:2 sons of God. These have been identified as Sethites (the traditional Christian interpretation), as angels (the earliest Jewish interpretation; cf. Job 1:6), and as royal tyrannical successors to Lamech who gathered harems (proposed by rabbis of the second-century A.D.). All three interpretations can be defended linguistically. On the surface, the first interpretation best fits the immediate preceding context (a contrast of the curse-laden line of Cain with the godly line of Seth), but it fails to explain adequately how "daughters of men" refers specifically to Cainite women. The second view has ancient support, but seems to contradict Jesus' statement that angels do not marry (Mark 12:25) and does not explain why the focus is on mortals (v. 3) and the judgment on them (vv. 5–7). The third interpretation best explains the phrase "of all whom they chose" (12:10–20; 20:1; 1 Sam. 11) but lacks as much ancient support. The best solution is probably a combination of the last two. These human offspring are also the spiritual offspring of Satan (3:15), empowered by demons (cf. Deut. 32:17).

saw . . . beautiful . . . took. The Hebrew term here translated "beautiful" is often rendered "good." Their sin repeats the pattern ("saw . . . good . . . took") of the original sin in 3:6.

■ 6:3 My Spirit. See note on 1:2.

strive. The Hebrew word is difficult to translate. Some scholars relate it to a term meaning "rule" or "judge," while ancient translators understood it to mean "remain" or "abide" (text note). Either way, the sentence points to the withdrawal of God's life-giving Spirit (1:2 note).

one hundred and twenty years. Probably the span of time between this proclamation and the Flood (5:32; 7:6). It may refer to an individual's life span, but that interpretation seems contradicted by the age of the postdiluvians who at first lived much longer (Gen. 11) and then much less (Ps. 90:10).

■ 6:4 giants. See text note. These giant-like "mighty men," the offspring of the demonic tyrants (v. 2 note), filled the earth with violence (v. 11; Num. 13:32). The Hebrew root means "to fall," and may suggest their fate (Ezek. 32:20–28).

[j]days, and also afterward, when the sons of God came in to the daughters of men and they bore children to them. Those were the mighty men who were of old, men of renown.

5 Then [3]the LORD saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every [g]intent[4] of the thoughts of his heart was only evil [5]continually. 6 And [h]the LORD was sorry that He had made man on the earth, and [i]He was grieved in His [j]heart. 7 So the LORD said, "I will [k]destroy man whom I have created from the face of the earth, both man and beast, creeping thing and birds of the air, for I am sorry that I have made them." 8 But Noah [l]found grace in the eyes of the LORD.

Noah Pleases God

9 This is the genealogy of Noah. [m]Noah was a just man, [6]perfect in his generations. Noah [n]walked with God. 10 And Noah begot three sons: [o]Shem, Ham, and Japheth.

11 The earth also was corrupt [p]before God, and the earth was [q]filled with violence. 12 So God [r]looked upon the earth, and indeed it was corrupt; for [s]all flesh had corrupted their way on the earth.

The Ark Prepared

13 And God said to Noah, [t]"The end of all flesh has come before Me, for the earth is filled with violence through them; [u]and behold, [v]I will destroy them with the earth. 14 Make yourself an ark of gopherwood; make [7]rooms in the ark, and cover it inside and outside with pitch. 15 And this is how you shall make it: The length of the ark shall be three hundred [8]cubits, its width fifty cubits, and its height thirty cubits. 16 You shall make a window for the ark, and you shall finish it to a cubit from above; and set the door of the ark in its side. You shall make it with lower, second, and third decks. 17 [w]And behold, I Myself am bringing [x]floodwaters on the earth, to destroy and also afterward. This parenthetical remark reminds the book's original audience that the same kind of horrible people existed after the Flood (Num. 13:32).

mighty men. The Hebrew here is also used for Nimrod and his bestial kingdom (10:8–11).

■ 6:5 every intent . . . of his heart. A vivid portrayal of the depth and comprehensiveness of human depravity (cf. 8:21).

■ 6:6 was sorry. Here a reference to a change of attitudes and actions. There is no contradiction between this verse and passages teaching the changelessness (immutability) of God (Mal. 3:6; James 1:17) and that God does not change His mind (Num. 23:19; 1 Sam. 15:29; Ps. 33:11; Is. 46:10). Remembering that this description is anthropopathic (God is depicted in terms of the human experience of knowledge and emotion), we must also recognize that the immutable and sovereign God deals appropriately with changes in human behavior. When they sin or repent of sin, He "changes His mind" with regard to the blessing or punishment appropriate to the situation (Ex. 32:12, 14; 1 Sam. 15:11; 2 Sam. 24:16; Jer. 18:11; Amos 7:3, 6)—all in accordance with His sovereign and eternal purposes. Because God is changeless in His being, and eternally loyal to His covenant promises, we can have firm confidence in Him who is "the same yesterday, today, and forever" (Heb. 13:8 and note).

grieved in His heart. The Hebrew here means "indignant rage" (cf. 34:7). Christ's sacrifice pacifies God's bitter indignation against sin (8:21).

■ 6:7 I will destroy. In this story the first created order is destroyed by a flood and the second inaugurated, a scenario constituting a prophetic model of the present order to be destroyed by fire and replaced by the third and perfect one (2 Pet. 3:3–13). Jesus also uses this model as a type of the Day of the Lord (Matt. 24:37–39).

beast . . . air. As the ground endured the consequences of its rulers' sin, so also must the animals.

■ 6:8 But Noah. See Rom. 11:3–6.

found grace. See text note on v. 9. God's "grace" is always His unmerited favor, and Noah's integrity could not earn God's acceptance (Rom. 3:10–12). God saved Noah, as He saves us, as an unconditional gift, which Christ would later purchase with His own blood. Even so, Noah seems to be a type of Christ: just as Noah represented his family, so Christ represents the whole family of God.

■ 6:9—9:29 Although stories of a great flood are found in many cultures all over the world, none are so strikingly similar to this account as those of ancient Mesopotamia (e.g., the Gilgamesh Epic and the Atrahasis Epic). There are crucial differences, however. In the Mesopotamian tales, the petty pagan gods bring about a flood to control overpopulation or to quiet the annoying noise of people, and once it comes they are frightened by it. In contrast, the true God sovereignly brings the Flood because of man's wickedness, and in response to Noah's sacrifices He pledges never again to destroy the earth. See note on 6:22.

■ 6:9–22 This section depicts the covenant relationship: Noah was righteous (v. 9), obeying God's commands, and God confirmed the covenant with him to preserve creation (v. 18). Corresponding to the creation account of ch. 1, God's commands (vv. 13–21) are followed by obedience (v. 22).

■ 6:9 This is the genealogy of. See note on 2:4.

just. The word presupposes a covenant in which those who are joined to the Lord by faith (15:6) follow His moral standards. These standards were revealed to Noah in conscience (3:8 and note) and special revelation (5:22 note).

perfect. Not that Noah never sinned (text note; cf. 9:20–23), but that his devotion to God and His commandments was unchallenged (cf. 2 Sam. 22:24).

walked with God. See note on 5:22.

■ 6:13 destroy. The same Hebrew word lies behind "corrupt" and "corrupted" in vv. 11, 12. The punishment matches the crime: as man ruined the good earth, so God will ruin the earth against man.

■ 6:14 ark . . . pitch. The same Hebrew terms are used in Ex. 2:3 for the ark (of bulrushes) that protected Moses, whom God also used to bring forth a new humanity from a world under judgment.

■ 6:15 this is how. The Lord uniquely specified the design for the building of the ark, the Exodus tabernacle, and Solomon's temple. The ark preserved Noah's covenant family through chaotic water; the latter structures would sustain the later covenant people among the chaotic nations.

three hundred cubits . . . thirty cubits. See text note. The dimensions (450 by 75 by 45 feet) indicate a stable and seaworthy vessel similar in size to a modern battleship. By contrast the ark in the Babylonian Gilgamesh Epic, though pitched within and without, is an unstable 180-foot cube, about four times larger in volume than Noah's ark (7:4 and note).

■ 6:17 I Myself . . . floodwaters. God sovereignly rules over the Flood (Ps. 29:10).

from under heaven all flesh in which is the breath of life; everything that is on the earth shall [y]die. 18 But I will establish My [z]covenant with you; and [a]you shall go into the ark—you, your sons, your wife, and your sons' wives with you. 19 And of every living thing of all flesh you shall bring [b]two of every sort into the ark, to keep them alive with you; they shall be male and female. 20 Of the birds after their kind, of animals after their kind, and of every creeping thing of the earth after its kind, two of every kind [c]will come to you to keep them alive. 21 And you shall take for yourself of all food that is eaten, and you shall gather it to yourself; and it shall be food for you and for them."

22 [d]Thus Noah did; [e]according to all that [f]God commanded him, so he did.

The Great Flood

7 Then the [a]LORD said to Noah, [b]"Come into the ark, you and all your household, because I have seen that [c]you are righteous before Me in this generation. 2 You shall take with you seven each of every [d]clean animal, a male and his female; [e]two each of animals that are unclean, a male and his female; 3 also seven each of birds of the air, male and female, to keep [f]the species alive on the face of all the earth. 4 For after [g]seven more days I will cause it to rain on the earth [g]forty days and forty nights, and I will [z]destroy from the face of the earth all living things that I have made." 5 [h]And Noah did according to all that the LORD commanded him. 6 Noah was [i]six hundred years old when the floodwaters were on the earth.

7 [j]So Noah, with his sons, his wife, and his sons' wives, went into the ark because of the waters of the flood. 8 Of clean animals, of animals that are unclean, of birds, and of everything that creeps on the earth, 9 two by two they went into the ark to Noah, male and female, as God had commanded Noah. 10 And it came to pass after seven days that the waters of the flood were on the earth. 11 In the six hundredth year of Noah's life, in the second month, the seventeenth day of the month, on [k]that day all [l]the fountains of the great deep were broken up, and the [m]windows of heaven were opened. 12 [n]And the rain was on the earth forty days and forty nights.

earth . . . all flesh. A worldwide flood seems to be in view (7:19–23; 8:21; 9:11,15; 2 Pet. 3:5–7). But comprehensive language can also be used for limited situations (Dan. 2:38; 4:22; 5:19).

■ 6:18–20 God preserved His creation in miniature: humans (v. 18), animals (v. 19), vegetables (v. 20). In that some of every sort were preserved, God's work here was a type of Christ's work of definite redemption (e.g., Rev. 5:9, where Christ is said to have purchased not all, but some from "every tribe and tongue and people and nation").

■ 6:18 establish My covenant. The first occurrence in Genesis of the Hebrew term for "covenant" (berith), though the concept itself and related terms are present earlier. See notes on 2:4; 2:8–17; 2:24; 3:1–24. The Hebrew here denotes not the initiation of a completely new covenant, but the confirmation to Noah of a covenant already in existence. Noah's salvation from the waters of the Flood is an example of God's covenant grace and mercy. See "God's Covenant of Grace" at 12:1.

your sons . . . with you. This refrain (7:7, 13; 8:16, 18; cf. 7:1) emphasizes that God preserves humanity in its basic family structure and that God often deals savingly with the entire family unit, including the children. Here physical salvation is secured in the midst of floodwater, a type of Christian baptism (1 Pet. 3:20, 21).

■ 6:20 will come to you. God's power can be discerned in the animals' coming to Noah.

■ 6:22 The ancient Mesopotamian flood stories focused on human heroes or mighty men such as Utnapishtim, the only survivor of the flood in the Gilgamesh Epic (6:9—9:29 note). By contrast, the Genesis account focuses on God and mentions only Noah's obedience (7:5, 9, 16).

■ 7:1–10 See note on 6:9—9:29. The gathering and preservation of this remnant is a prototype of God's salvation of His elect in the Day of the Lord (Matt. 3:12; 24:31; 2 Thess. 2:1). This remnant from the Flood, however, will prove itself a mixture of elect and non-elect (9:20–27 and notes).

■ 7:1 all your household. See note on 6:18.

righteous. See notes on 6:9.

■ 7:2, 3 These precise directives clarify, rather than contradict, those of 6:19, 20.

■ 7:2 seven. Probably seven pairs. The additional clean animals were needed for sacrificial purposes (8:20) and for food (9:3).

every . . . animal. See 6:19, 20 and note.

clean. Noah would have known of the distinction between clean and unclean through special revelation (5:22 note). Fundamental institutions of the Law—the Sabbath (2:1–3), the ideal sanctuary (2:8 note), and sacrifice (3:21; 4:3–5)—reach back to the pre-Flood creation order; others, such as tithing (14:20) and circumcision (17:9–14), to at least the time of the patriarchs. Earth's future depended on these sacrificial animals (8:20–22 and notes; Lev. 11:1–47 note).

■ 7:4 seven more days. A hundred and twenty years were needed to build the ark (6:3 and note) and one week to fill it. A Babylonian flood account imagines seven days to build a ship much bigger than Noah's and a flood lasting seven days (6:15 note).

forty. Forty is a conventional number for a long time and signals the introduction of a new age: by Noah, Moses (Ex. 24:18); Elijah (1 Kin. 19:8); Christ (Acts 1:3). The forty days are part of the 150 total days (8:4).

■ 7:5 commanded. See note on 6:22.

■ 7:6 six hundred. See 6:3 and note. The precise day is given in v. 11.

■ 7:7 sons. See 6:18 and note.

■ 7:9 went. See note on 6:20.

■ 7:10 waters . . . were on the earth. See note on 6:17.

■ 7:11 fountains . . . windows. Poetic expressions for the unrestrained release of water (Ps. 78:23; Is. 24:18; Amos 8:4; Mal. 3:10). The earth is being returned to its primordial condition by the release of the bounded waters above and by the upsurge of the subterranean waters (1:2, 6–9; 8:2–5 note).

deep. See note on 1:2.

■ 7:13–16 See note on 6:18–20. The full roll call, with the phrase "after its kind," echoes the creation account (e.g., 1:21, 24, 25).

and the three wives of his sons with them, entered the ark— 14 [o]they and every beast after its kind, all cattle after their kind, every creeping thing that creeps on the earth after its kind, and every bird after its kind, every bird of every [p]sort. 15 And they [q]went into the ark to Noah, two by two, of all flesh in which is the breath of life. 16 So those that entered, male and female of all flesh, went in [r]as God had commanded him; and the LORD shut him in.

17 [s]Now the flood was on the earth forty days. The waters increased and lifted up the ark, and it rose high above the earth. 18 The waters prevailed and greatly increased on the earth, [t]and the ark moved about on the surface of the waters. 19 And the waters prevailed exceedingly on the earth, and all the high hills under the whole heaven were covered. 20 The waters prevailed fifteen cubits upward, and the mountains were covered. 21 [u]And all flesh died that moved on [3]the earth: birds and cattle and beasts and every creeping thing that creeps on the earth, and every man. 22 All in [v]whose nostrils was the breath [4]of the spirit of life, all that was on the dry land, died. 23 So He destroyed all living things which were on the face of the ground: both man and cattle, creeping thing and bird of the air. They were destroyed from the earth. Only [w]Noah and those who were with him in the ark remained alive. 24 [x]And the waters prevailed on the earth one hundred and fifty days.

Noah's Deliverance

8 Then God [a]remembered Noah, and every living thing, and all the animals that were with him in the ark. [b]And God made a wind to pass over the earth, and the waters subsided. 2 [c]The fountains of the deep and the windows of heaven were also [d]stopped, and [e]the rain from heaven was restrained. 3 And the waters receded continually from the earth. At the end [f]of the hundred and fifty days the waters decreased. 4 Then the ark rested in the seventh month, the seventeenth day of the month, on the mountains of Ararat. 5 And the waters decreased continually until the tenth month. In the tenth month, on the first day of the month, the tops of the mountains were seen.

6 So it came to pass, at the end of forty days, that Noah opened [g]the window of the ark which he had made. 7 Then he sent out a raven, which kept going to and fro until the waters had dried up from the earth. 8 He also sent out from himself a dove, to see if the waters had receded from the face of the ground. 9 But the dove found no resting place for the sole of her foot, and she returned into the ark to him, for the waters were on the face of the whole earth. So he put out his hand and took her, and drew her into the ark to himself. 10 And he waited yet another seven days, and again he sent the dove out from the ark. 11 Then the dove came to him in the evening, and behold, a freshly plucked olive leaf was in her mouth; and Noah knew that the waters had

■ 7:13 On the very same day. This phrase suggests a memorable occasion (17:23, 26; Ex. 12:41, 51; Deut. 32:48).

■ 7:16 the LORD shut. God's works of grace are both sovereign and particular. In a Babylonian flood account the hero shuts the door; God is the chief actor throughout the biblical account. In shutting the door, God also distinguishes between the righteous and the wicked (6:18–20 note). Elsewhere in Scripture doors provide safety for God's people in times of judgment. Behind closed doors while God rained judgment on the wicked, Lot (19:10), Israel (Ex. 12:23), and Rahab (Josh. 2:19) found safety. Jesus uses this symbol of separation in describing the safety of the righteous in the day of the Lord's coming (Matt. 25:10–13).

■ 7:17–24 In this climactic section the churning waters multiply and triumph, destroying the creation. Contrast this scene with the blessing of 1:22.

■ 7:17 forty. See note on v. 4.

■ 7:18 prevailed. The Hebrew word, repeated in vv. 19, 20, is a military term for triumph in battle.

■ 7:20 fifteen cubits upward. The mountains were submerged to a depth of fifteen cubits (22.5 feet), a depth sufficient to keep the ark from grounding.

■ 7:21 The creatures are listed in the order of their creation (1:20–25).

all flesh died. See note on 6:17.

■ 7:23 Only Noah . . . remained alive. See note on 6:18. The Flood was God's means for punishing the old world and purifying humanity for the new one.

■ 8:1—12:9 The account of post-Flood history mirrors the pre-Flood period: the creation out of dark waters (1:1—2:3; cf. 8:1—9:16), the depraved condition of the human founders, Adam and Noah (3:1–14; cf. 9:18–23); the division of the founder's sons into elect and reprobate lines (ch. 4; cf. 9:24–27); the tyrannical non-elect building a city and making a name for themselves, Cain and Nimrod (4:17–24; cf. 10:8–12; 11:1–9); the preservation of a godly line (5:1–32; cf. 11:10–26) and of a faithful agent of blessing in the fallen world (6:1–9; cf. 11:27—12:9). The parallel judgment on the reprobate (6:9—7:24) will come with the fiery judgment and the introduction of the new heavens and the new earth (2 Pet. 3:13–17; Rev. 21:1).

■ 8:1 God remembered Noah. The Hebrew expression indicates action based on a previous commitment (9:15; 19:29; 30:22; Ex. 2:24; 6:5; Luke 1:72,73), not merely mental recall.

wind. The Hebrew word here is the same one for "Spirit" in 1:2, recalling the original creation account and introducing God's first re-creative act renewing the earth out of the waters (8:1—12:9 note). Successive re-creative acts mirroring the original creation follow: the gathering of the waters (vv. 2–5; cf. 1:6–9), the placing of birds in the heavens (vv. 6–12; cf. 1:20–23), the establishment of dry ground (v. 13; cf. 1:9–12), the emergence of animals and humans upon the earth to multiply (vv. 16–19; cf. 1:24–27), and the divine blessing (9:1–3; cf. 1:28–30).

■ 8:4 mountains of Ararat. In the area of ancient Urartu (2 Kin. 19:37), now part of northeastern Turkey and Armenia.

■ 8:6 forty. See note on 7:4.

receded from the earth. 12 So he waited yet another seven days and sent out the dove, which did not return again to him anymore.

13 And it came to pass in the six hundred and first year, in the first month, the first day of the month, that the waters were dried up from the earth; and Noah removed the covering of the ark and looked, and indeed the surface of the ground was dry. 14 And in the second month, on the twenty-seventh day of the month, the earth was dried.

15 Then God spoke to Noah, saying, 16 "Go out of the ark, [h]you and your wife, and your sons and your sons' wives with you. 17 Bring out with you every living thing of all flesh that is with you: birds and cattle and every creeping thing that creeps on the earth, so that they may abound on the earth, and [i]be fruitful and multiply on the earth." 18 So Noah went out, and his sons and his wife and his sons' wives with him. 19 Every animal, every creeping thing, every bird, and whatever creeps on the earth, according to their families, went out of the ark.

God's Covenant with Creation

20 Then Noah built an [j]altar to the LORD, and took of [k]every clean animal and of every clean bird, and offered [l]burnt offerings on the altar. 21 And the LORD smelled [m]a soothing aroma. Then the LORD said in His heart, "I will never again [n]curse the ground for man's sake, although the [o]imagination[1] of man's heart is evil from his youth; [p]nor will I again destroy every living thing as I have done.

22 "While the earth [q]remains,
Seedtime and harvest,
Cold and heat,
Winter and summer,
And [r]day and night
Shall not cease."

9 So God blessed Noah and his sons, and said to them: [a]"Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the earth. 2 [b]And the fear of you and the dread of you shall be on every beast of the earth, on every bird of the air, on all that move on the earth, and on all the fish of the sea. They are given into your hand. 3 [c]Every moving thing that lives shall be food for you. I have given you [d]all things, even as the [e]green herbs. 4 [f]But you shall not eat flesh with its life, that is, its blood.

■ 8:16 Go out. Since the Flood was a type of Christian baptism (1 Pet. 3:20, 21), the coming of Noah and his family out of the ark may be thought of as their emerging out of the waters of death into a new life (cf. John 5:28, 29; 11:43; Rom. 6:3–6). They prefigure the new humanity who prevail over evil (Rev. 21:7).

your sons. See 6:18 and note.

■ 8:18 So Noah went out. See note on 6:22.

■ 8:20—9:17 The Noahic covenant is established. Although Noah was already in covenant relationship with God (6:18 note), the Lord graciously promises with a solemn covenant oath never again to destroy the earth by flood. As with other biblical covenants, the covenant promise (8:21, 22; 9:11) is accompanied by covenant mandates or stipulations (9:1–7) and the giving of a covenant sign (9:12–17).

■ 8:20 altar . . . burnt offerings. Significantly, Noah's first act after emerging from the ark was to worship God. Though mentioned here for the first time, these aspects of the sacrificial system are presupposed (7:2 note). The burnt offering signified dedication to God and propitiation for sin (v. 21 note; Lev. 1:4; 6:8–13).

clean. See note on 7:2.

■ 8:21 soothing. A play on words results from the similarity between this Hebrew word and Noah's name. This reference to the divine sense of smell anthropomorphically portrays the pleasure God takes in the worship of His people (Ezek. 20:41; Eph. 5:2; cf. 2 Cor. 2:15, 16). As a propitiatory sacrifice, Noah's burnt offering soothed God's indignation against sin (6:6) and prefigured the death of Christ (Is. 53:10). Pleased with the sacrifice of His servant Noah (cf. 4:4), God resolves never again to send a flood (cf. 6:6 note).

curse the ground. God is not lifting the curse of 3:17 but promising not to destroy the earth again by flood (9:11).

although. The gracious character of the Noahic covenant is underscored by the divine promise, despite the continuing presence of human sin deserving judgment, never again to send a deluge. Such grace also underlies God's preservation of Israel (Ex. 33:3; 34:9).

nor will I again destroy. God's grace toward Noah is extended to mankind in general (6:8; 9:12).

■ 8:22 While the earth remains. This qualifies "nor will I again" in v. 21. God will preserve the earth until the final judgment (2 Pet. 3:7,13); the earthly order will not end prematurely.

■ 9:1 blessed. The third time God blessed humans (1:28; 5:2) and commanded them to be fruitful (1:28; 8:17). God's blessing on Noah, to be fruitful and have dominion, constitutes the climactic act in God's renewal of creation (8:1 note).

■ 9:2 fear of you. The reference to "fear" underscores the changes from the pre-Fall situation, where man was vegetarian (v. 3 note). Now human dominion over creation includes the exploitation of the animal kingdom for food.

■ 9:3 Every moving thing . . . all. The human diet is expanded to include meat (1:29 note), though the consumption of carrion (Lev. 11:40; Deut. 14:21) and blood (v. 4; Lev. 17:10) is forbidden. Rather than initiating the practice of meat-eating, this divine injunction may simply permit what sinful humanity had earlier practiced. No distinction is made between clean and unclean, a situation restored under the new covenant (Mark 7:19; Acts 10:9–16; 1 Tim. 4:3–5).

■ 9:4 not eat . . . blood. This law points to the symbolic connection between blood and life, a concept also basic to the sacrificial system (Lev. 17:11) and the atoning work of Christ (Heb. 9:14, 22). See Lev. 3:17; 7:27; 19:26; Deut. 12:16; 1 Sam. 14:32–34.

5 Surely for your lifeblood I will demand a reckoning; [g]from the hand of every beast I will require it, and [h]from the hand of man. From the hand of every [i]man's brother I will require the life of man.

6 "Whoever [j]sheds man's blood,
By man his blood shall be shed;
[k]For in the image of God
He made man.
7 And as for you, [l]be fruitful and multiply;
Bring forth abundantly in the earth
And multiply in it."

8 Then God spoke to Noah and to his sons with him, saying: 9 "And as for Me, [m]behold, I establish [n]My covenant with you and with your [l]descendants after you, 10 [o]and with every living creature that is with you: the birds, the cattle, and every beast of the earth with you, of all that go out of the ark, every beast of the earth. 11 Thus [p]I establish My covenant with you: Never again shall all flesh be cut off by the waters of the flood; never again shall there be a flood to destroy the earth."

12 And God said: [q]"This is the sign of the covenant which I make between Me and you, and every living creature that is with you, for perpetual generations: 13 I set [r]My rainbow in the cloud, and it shall be for the sign of the covenant between Me and the earth. 14 It shall be, when I bring a cloud over the earth, that the rainbow shall be seen in the cloud; 15 and [s]I will remember My covenant which is between Me and you and every living creature of all flesh; the waters shall never again become a flood to destroy all flesh. 16 The rainbow shall be in the cloud, and I will look on it to remember [t]the everlasting covenant between God and every living creature of all flesh that is on the earth." 17 And God said to Noah, "This is the sign of the covenant which I have established between Me and all flesh that is on the earth."

■ 9:5 I will demand . . . require . . . require. This threefold usage of the same Hebrew verb underscores the principle—human life in the image of God (v. 6) is so valuable that God demands as compensation nothing less than the life of the murderer. Ultimately, the Lord is the Vindicator of life (Ps. 9:12; 2 Kin. 9:26). Murder burdens the guilty with its pollution (Num. 35:33; Ps. 106:38) and is expiated by the death of the murderer (v. 6; 1 Kin. 2:31, 32) or through atonement when the murderer is unknown (Deut. 21:7–9). If these measures were not used, it brought the Lord's judgment on the land (2 Sam. 21; Deut. 19:13; 1 Kin. 2:9, 31–33).

of every beast. See Ex. 21:28, 29.

■ 9:6 By man. See v. 5; 4:16 and notes. God's endowment of humans with this judicial authority shows they stand in God's stead as rulers (1:26), and lays the foundation for government by the state (Rom. 13:1–7).

Image. Though distorted by sin, the image of God continues in man (1:26 and note; 8:21). This explains why homicidal blood, in contrast to animal blood, must be compensated for. See "The Image of God" at 1:27.

■ 9:9 I establish My covenant. See notes on 6:9–22; 8:20—9:17. God's promise to preserve the earth (8:20–22) is now confirmed by a covenant (cf. 12:1–3; ch. 15). In 6:18 the covenant relationship was exclusively with Noah (6:18 note); now it is extended to his descendants and to all creation (v. 12). See "God's Covenant of Grace" at 12:1.

In a sense, God mediated His mercy through Noah for the created order, and later through Moses for Israel. So Noah and Moses were subordinate types of the true Mediator to come, Jesus Christ (Heb. 3:1–6).

■ 9:12 sign. Biblical covenants are usually certified by visual symbols; these include circumcision for the Abrahamic covenant (17:11), the Sabbath for the Mosaic (Ex. 31:13, 17), and the Lord's Supper for the new covenant (Luke 22:20). The Davidic covenant required none since David's offspring were its visible token (2 Sam. 7:11–16). Often these signs were already in existence (e.g., the Sabbath and circumcision), but were given new significance.

■ 9:15 remember. See 8:1 and note.

■ 9:16 everlasting. See note on 8:22.

■ 9:18–29 This transitional section links the Noahic covenant with the Table of Nations in ch. 10 by focusing on Noah's three sons (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes).

■ 9:21 drank of the wine. Scripture both looks favorably on wine (Num. 15:5–10; Deut. 14:26; Ps. 104:15; John 2:1–11) and soberly warns of its dangers (Is. 5:22; Prov. 21:17; 23:20, 21, 29–35; Is. 28:7), particularly the moral laxity exemplified by self-exposure (Lam. 4:21; Hab. 2:15). Nazirites (Num. 6:3, 4), officiating priests (Lev. 10:9), and rulers making decisions (Prov. 31:4, 5) were to abstain from it.

was drunk. Just as Adam, the original head of the human race, sinned through eating (3:6), so Noah, the head of the human race after the Flood, sinned through drinking. The striking parallels between Adam and Noah (8:1 note), and the contrast between saintly Noah before the Flood (6:8, 9) and the drunken sinner after it, direct the reader to God, not man, for salvation.

became uncovered. Self-exposure is both publicly demeaning (2 Sam. 6:16) and incompatible with living in God's presence (Ex. 20:26; cf. Deut. 23:12–14).

[y]and was drunk, and became uncovered in his tent. 22 And Ham, the father of Canaan, saw the nakedness of his father, and told his two brothers outside. 23 [z]But Shem and Japheth took a garment, laid it on both their shoulders, and went backward and covered the nakedness of their father. Their faces were [2]turned away, and they did not see their father's nakedness.

24 So Noah awoke from his wine, and knew what his younger son had done to him. 25 Then he said:

[a]"Cursed be Canaan;
A [b]servant of servants
He shall be to his brethren."

26 And he said:

[c]"Blessed be the LORD,
The God of Shem,
And may Canaan be his servant.
27 May God [d]enlarge Japheth,
[e]And may he dwell in the tents of Shem;
And may Canaan be his servant."

28 And Noah lived after the flood three hundred and fifty years. 29 So all the days of Noah were nine hundred and fifty years; and he died.

Nations Descended from Noah

10 Now this is the genealogy of the sons of Noah: Shem, Ham, and Japheth. [a]And sons were born to them after the flood.

2 [b]The sons of Japheth were Gomer, Magog, Madai, Javan, Tubal, Meshech, and Tiras. 3 The

■ 9:22 saw the nakedness of his father. Gazing at another's nakedness, either in lust or scorn, is morally wrong. See notes on 2:25; 3:7. Ham's scornful leering at the father whom he should have revered was particularly reprehensible (Ex. 21:15, 17; Deut. 21:18–21; Mark 7:10).

told. If it is wrong to publicize another's sin (Prov. 10:12b; 17:9), how much more a father's. The story further condemns the failure to respect one's parents.

■ 9:24–27 This division of humanity parallels ch. 4 (8:1—12:9 note).

■ 9:25 Cursed. The Canaanites succeed the Cainites as the curse-laden people (4:11 and note).

Canaan. Since the curses and blessings on the three sons had their descendants in view, it is not strange that the curse was on his son, not on Ham himself (vv. 18, 22), especially since God had already blessed Ham (9:1). As Ham, the youngest son of Noah, wronged his father, so the curse will fall on Ham's youngest son (v. 24), who shares his moral decadence (Lev. 18:3; Deut. 9:3). Nevertheless, Ham's descendants include, in addition to the Canaanites, the names of Israel's most dreaded enemies: Egypt, Philistia, Assyria, and Babylon (10:6–13).

servant of servants. Noah prophetically alludes to the coming subjugation of Canaan's offspring by the offspring of Shem (e.g., Israel) and Japheth (the Sea Peoples, 10:2–5) on the other. Because this curse of servitude falls upon Canaan, a Caucasian, there is no basis for the racist view that African peoples are cursed.

■ 9:26 Blessed . . . God of Shem. With this doxological blessing Noah acknowledges God as the Author of life and extends the blessing to Shem (1:22 and note; 14:19). The line of messianic promise is now narrowed to Shem's offspring (cf. 3:15; 4:26 and notes), and it will be further specified in Genesis as through Abraham (12:1–3), Isaac (21:8–12), Jacob (25:23; 27:28, 29), and Judah (49:10). With the coming of the Messiah and the new covenant, the covenant promise is extended to all who believe (Acts 10:34, 35; Gal. 3:29).

■ 9:27 dwell in the tents. Perhaps a reference to tribal conquests or to the future victories of Greece and Rome. Alternatively, Japheth may be a guest, drawn to Shem and to God—a promise finding final fulfillment in the New Testament (10:5 note; Acts 14:27; Eph. 2:11–22; 3:6).

■ 9:28, 29 The genealogy begun in 5:32 is now completed according to the pattern of ch. 5.

■ 10:1—11:9 The "account" or "genealogy" of Noah's family (2:4 note) consists of the Table of Nations (ch. 10) and the Tower of Babel narrative (11:1–9). Chronologically, the Tower of Babel precedes the Table of Nations, for the table presupposes the confusion of languages (10:5, 17, 20, 31). Two different yet complementary perspectives are present within this account: the Table of Nations presents the nations as of one blood, multiplying under God's blessing (9:1), while the Tower of Babel narrative presents the nations as confused due to divine judgment (11:1–9).

■ 10:1–32 The tripartite arrangement of the Table of Nations (vv. 2–5, 6–20, 21–31) reflects the threefold division of humanity. Seventy (representing a large and complete number, cf. Judg. 8:30; 2 Kin. 10:1) nations are given: fourteen from Japheth, thirty from Ham, and twenty-six from Shem. The Japhethites migrated westward, the Hamites, south by southwest, and the Semites, south by southeast.

This selective list is not always racial; "sons of" or "begot" may refer to political, geographical, social, or linguistic relationships (4:20, 21; 10:31). Some names are personal (e.g., Japheth, Nimrod); others are place-names (e.g., Sidon, Sheba) or names of peoples (e.g., Ludim, Caphtorim). Some belong to more than one family because of early mixtures.

■ 10:1 this is the genealogy. See note on 2:4.

■ 10:2 Gomer. The Cimmerians, a nomadic people to the north of the Black Sea. They later migrated into Asia Minor. See Ezek. 38:6.

Magog. See Ezek. 38:2; 39:6; its identity is disputed.

Madai. The Medes. See 2 Kin. 17:6; Jer. 51:11; Dan. 5:28.

Javan. The Greeks.

Tubal, Meshech. Located in central and eastern Asia Minor.

Tiras. One of the Sea Peoples from the region of the Aegean Sea. Perhaps to be identified as the Etruscans, who eventually settled in Italy.

■ 10:3 Ashkenaz. Probably the Scythians, later derided by the Greeks as uncivilized (Col. 3:11 note).

Riphath. See text note. Located in Asia Minor.

Togarmah. Possibly the area west of the upper Euphrates.

sons of Gomer were Ashkenaz, [f]Riphath, and Togarmah. [4] The sons of Javan were Elishah, Tarshish, Kittim, and [2]Dodanim. [6] [d]The sons of Ham were Cush, Mizraim, [3]Put, and Canaan. [7] The sons of Cush were Seba, Havilah, Sabtah, Raamah, and Sabtechah; and the sons of Raamah were Sheba and Dedan.

■ 10:4 Elishah. Often identified as part of Cyprus (cf. Ezek. 27:7).

Tarshish. Usually identified with Tartessus in southern Spain.

Kittim. Inhabitants of Cyprus.

Dodanim. Possibly north of Tyre. If "Rodanim" (text note) is preferred, the reference is probably to the Greek island of Rhodes.

■ 10:5 coastland peoples. The Hebrew here is rendered "coastlands" in Is. 41:5; 42:4. Isaiah, perhaps reaching back to Gen. 9:27 and 10:2, presents them as coming to salvation in the messianic age (9:27 note).

separated . . . language. An anticipation of 11:1–9.

■ 10:6–20 The Egyptians, Babylonians, and Canaanites, Israel's most bitter and influential neighbors, are mentioned in this list (9:25 note).

■ 10:6 Cush. The area south of Egypt.

Mizraim. Egypt.

Put. Traditionally identified as Libya.

■ 10:7 sons of Cush. These nations were probably all located in Arabia.

Havilah. Probably in Arabia. Its relation to the locations mentioned in v. 29 and 2:11 is uncertain.

■ 10:8–12 This break in the genealogy is of prime importance to Israel's history: it explains the racial and spiritual origins of Assyria and Babylon who later conquered them.

■ 10:8 Nimrod. His name means "we shall rebel"; later Jewish tradition identifies him as the builder of the Tower of Babel (11:1–9). This hunter and warrior is an archetype of Mesopotamian ideals of kingship.

mighty one. This title may link him with the tyrants in 6:4.

■ 10:10 beginning of his kingdom. See note on 8:1—12:9. Nimrod, the prototypical city and kingdom builder, marks the beginning of man's post-Flood quest for domination and autonomy over against God (4:17 note; 11:4–6).

Babel. The Babylonians, infamous destroyers of Judah.

Erech. One of the oldest known cities, Erech (or Uruk; modern Warka) was an important city on the Euphrates River. Inhabitants of this area were later deported to Samaria by the Assyrians (Ezra 4:9, 10).

Accad. Though the home of the famous King Sargon of Accad (c. 2350–2295 B.C.), it has not been located.

Calneh. Not the Calneh of Amos 6:2; this site has not been identified.

Shinar. The region of Babylonia.

15 Canaan begot Sidon his firstborn, and lHeth; 16 mthe Jebusite, the Amorite, and the Girgashite; 17 the Hivite, the Arkite, and the Sinite; 18 the Arvadite, the Zemarite, and the Hamathite. ■ 10:11 Assyria. One of the cruelest nations of ancient history, Assyria was the infamous destroyer of Israel's northern kingdom (cf. Mic. 5:5, 6).

■ 10:12 Resen. The location is uncertain.

the principal city. Probably Nineveh (Jon. 3:2, 3).

■ 10:13 Mizraim. Egypt, the infamous place of Israel's slavery.

Ludim. The Ludim probably lived near Egypt. See v. 22.

Anamim. These descendants of Egypt have not been precisely identified.

Lehabim. Generally regarded as variant of "Lubim," the Libyans.

Naphtuhim. Probably inhabitants of the Nile Delta region of Lower Egypt.

■ 10:14 Pathrusim. Inhabitants of Pathros in Upper or southern Egypt.

Casluhim. Their identification is uncertain.

Philistines. Not one of the seventy nations, but mentioned parenthetically as another bitter foe of Israel. The Philistines, one of the Sea Peoples, came to Egypt by way of Crete (Caphtor, Amos 9:7), before settling in Palestine. The connection here with Egypt is apparently geographical rather than genealogical (ch. 10 note).

Caphtorim. Inhabitants of Crete.

■ 10:15–19 The area of Canaan, the curse-laden people (9:25 and note), extends from modern southwest Syria to Gaza (Num. 34).

■ 10:15 Heth. His descendants are sometimes called "Hittites." As is evident here, these Hittites were reckoned as among the Canaanites, and the relationship between the Hittites mentioned in the Old Testament (e.g., 23:3–20; 26:34; 27:46; 1 Sam. 26:6; 2 Sam. 11:3), whose names appear to be Semitic rather than Hittite, and the great Hittite Empire of Asia Minor is debated.

■ 10:16 Jebusite. One of the Canaanite nations dispossessed by Israel. Their city was Jerusalem, which was finally conquered by David (2 Sam. 5:6–9).

Amorite. The Old Testament uses the term loosely, sometimes referring to the pagan inhabitants of Palestine in general (15:16; Josh. 10:5) and sometimes to the people of the Palestinian hill country (Num. 13:29). Some of the most famous dynasties of Babylon, including that of Hammurabi, came from this Western Semitic group.

Girgashite. See 15:21; Deut. 7:1 note; Josh. 3:10.

■ 10:17 Hivite. The Hivites lived in Lebanon and Syria (Josh. 11:3; Judg. 3:3), as well as in the area of Shechem and Gibeon (Gen. 34:2; Josh. 9:1, 7).

Arkite. Inhabitants of Arqat, identified as the modern Tell Arqah, located twelve miles northeast of Tripoli.

Sinite. Inhabitants of a Phoenician coastal town near Arqa.

■ 10:18 Arvadite. This group lived on an island now called Ruad, fifty miles north of Byblos (Gebal).

Zemarite. This group has not been identified.

Hamathite. Inhabitants of the city of Hamath (modern Hama), located on the Orontes River (Num. 34:8; Josh. 13:5; 2 Sam. 8:9, 10).

dispersed. See note on 10:1—11:9.

■ 10:19 Gerar. Modern Tell Abu Hureira, eleven miles southeast of Gaza. See chs. 20; 21; 26.

Sodom . . . Zeboiim. See chs. 13; 14; 18; 19.

Lasha. Its identity is uncertain.

■ 10:21–31 The elect line of Shem is presented last (9:26 note) and overlaps with the more specific lineage of the elect Eber (v. 21) in 11:10–26.

■ 10:21 father of all. Or, "ancestor of all" (cf. 5:3–32 note). The Hebrew term for "father" was used for more remote ancestors (28:13). Shem was Eber's great-great-grandfather (10:24; 11:10–14).

Eber. The word for "Hebrew" probably comes from this name (cf. 14:13 note). He is the heir of God's blessing on Shem, just as Canaan, son of Ham, was the target of Noah's curse. Some scholars identify Eber with Ebrum, an ancient king of Ebla (c. 2300 B.C.).

the brother of Japheth. See text note. Because of the translation difficulty, it is uncertain whether Shem or Japheth was the oldest. Ham was likely the youngest (9:24). Assuming the text note reading, Moses here stresses the firstborn status of Shem, despite the fact that his genealogy is presented last.

■ 10:22 Elam. See 14:1, 9; Is. 11:11; Ezra 4:9.

Asshur. An ancestor of the Assyrians. Though a mixed people (cf. v. 11), the Assyrians were predominantly Semitic.

Arphaxad. The third son of Shem and the first born after the Flood (11:10), he was the ancestor of many Semitic tribes, including the Hebrews (cf. Luke 3:36).

Lud. Cf. v. 13. Perhaps the Lydians of Asia Minor (Is. 66:19; Ezek. 27:10).

Aram. The patriarchs had close relations with the Arameans (see 25:20; 31:20; Deut. 26:5).

■ 10:23 sons of Aram. Little is known of this group.

■ 10:24, 25a These verses are expanded in 11:12–17.

■ 10:24 Arphaxad begot Salah. The Septuagint (Greek Old Testament) adds Cainan between Arphaxad and Salah; this additional name is found in the lineage of Jesus Christ (Luke 3:36).

■ 10:25 Peleg. See text note. This name, from the Hebrew term for "split" or "divide," probably prophesied the dispersal of the nations at Babel. See Ps. 55:9, where the same Hebrew term is employed in the phrase "divide their tongues."

divided; and his brother's name was Joktan. 26 Joktan begot Almodad, Sheleph, Hazarmaveth, Jerah, 27 Hadoram, Uzal, Diklah, 28 [8]Obal, Abimael, Sheba, 29 Ophir, Havilah, and Jobab. All these were the sons of Joktan. 30 And their dwelling place was from Mesha as you go toward Sephar, the mountain of the east. 31 These were the sons of Shem, according to their families, according to their languages, in their lands, according to their nations.

32 [s]These were the families of the sons of Noah, according to their generations, in their nations; [t]and from these the nations were divided on the earth after the flood.

The Tower of Babel

11 Now the whole earth had one language and one [1]speech. 2 And it came to pass, as they journeyed from the east, that they found a plain in the land [a]of Shinar, and they dwelt there. 3 Then they said to one another, "Come, let us make bricks and [2]bake them thoroughly." They had brick for stone, and they had asphalt for mortar. 4 And they said, "Come, let us build ourselves a city, and a tower [b]whose top is in the heavens; let us make a [c]name for ourselves, lest we [d]be scattered abroad over the face of the whole earth."

5 [e]But the LORD came down to see the city and the tower which the sons of men had built. 6 And the LORD said, "Indeed [f]the people are one and they all have [g]one language, and this is what they begin to do; now nothing that they [h]propose to do will be withheld from them. 7 Come, [i]let Us go down and there [j]confuse their language, that they may not understand one another's speech." 8 So [k]the LORD scattered them abroad from there [l]over the face of all the earth, and they ceased building the city. 9 Therefore its name is called [3]Babel, [m]because there the LORD confused the language of all the earth; and from there the LORD scattered them abroad over the face of all the earth.

Shem's Descendants

10 [n]This is the genealogy of Shem: Shem was one hundred years old, and begot Arphaxad two years after the flood. 11 After he begot Arphaxad, Shem lived five hundred years, and begot sons and daughters.

12 Arphaxad lived thirty-five years, [o]and begot Salah. 13 After he begot Salah, Arphaxad lived four hundred and three years, and begot sons and daughters.

14 Salah lived thirty years, and begot Eber. 15 After he begot Eber, Salah lived four hundred and three years, and begot sons and daughters.

Havilah. See note on v. 7.

■ 10:30 from Mesha . . . toward Sephar. Though these locations are unidentified, the names of the sons of Joktan point to a location in southern Arabia.

■ 11:1–9 See note on 10:1—11:9. Some scholars identify the tower in this narrative as the three-hundred-foot high temple ziggurat of Marduk at Babylon. The same arrogant pride that inspired rebellious Eve and Adam to rival God's knowledge (3:5) and the ungodly Cain to build his city (4:17), now inspired "the whole earth" (v. 4). The mention of "Shinar" (v. 2; cf. 10:10) and "Babel" (v. 9; cf. 10:10) recall Nimrod's rebellious kingdom (10:8–12 and notes).

■ 11:1 whole earth. See note on 10:1—11:9.

■ 11:4 city. See notes on 4:17; 8:1—12:9; and 10:10.

tower . . . in the heavens. This description suggests a monumental effort motivated by pride (cf. Is. 2:15–17). Human beings—this time in a titanic attempt at corporate self-assertion—again sacrilegiously challenge God (3:6 note).

make a name for ourselves. Since "name" connotes fame and progeny, these city builders were attempting to find significance and immortality in their own achievements. But only God gives an everlasting name (12:2) to those who magnify His name (4:26; 12:8; Is. 63:12,14).

lest we be scattered. Like Cain in their isolation from God, these proud sinners feared dislocation, and perhaps one another as well (4:14). Also like Cain, they found their solution in an abiding city rivaling God—a strategy that involved disobeying God's command to "fill the earth" (9:1).

■ 11:5 the LORD came down to see. Divine investigation prior to judgment is frequently depicted in Genesis (3:11–13; 4:9, 10; 18:21). Rather than conflict with the doctrine of divine omniscience (cf. 6:6 note), this anthropomorphic description of God's activity serves to emphasize that divine judgment is always according to truth. The Mesopotamian ziggurat towers were built as descending stairways for the gods. But God comes down in judgment on this tower of human pride.

■ 11:6 they begin to do. See note on 10:8.

■ 11:7 let Us go down. See note on 1:26.

■ 11:8 scattered. Ironically, instead of attaining significance and immortality they achieved alienation and dispersal. Expulsion was the earlier fates of Adam and Eve (3:23) and of Cain (4:12). This judgment was also an act of grace; in isolation the peoples were more likely to turn to God (12:3; Acts 17:26, 27).

■ 11:9 Babel. An ironic etymology derived from the Hebrew word meaning "confuse." To the Babylonians, Babel meant "gate of god."

■ 11:10–26 See note on 5:3–32. This genealogy of the elect, like 5:3–32, is first linear and at the end segmented into three sons (8:1 note). It overlaps with 10:21–31 and forms a transition from primeval history to the account of Abraham (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes).

As is common in ancient genealogies, it is apparent that this genealogy contains gaps. If it were precisely sequential, the events of chs. 9—11 would cover less than three centuries, all of Abraham's ancestors would have been still living when he was born, and Shem would outlive Abraham by fourteen years. The purpose of this genealogy is to record the advances of the messianic line (Introduction: Date and Occasion).

■ 11:10 This is the genealogy of. See note on 2:4.

20 Reu lived thirty-two years, and begot [r]Serug. 21 After he begot Serug, Reu lived two hundred and seven years, and begot sons and daughters.

22 Serug lived thirty years, and begot Nahor. 23 After he begot Nahor, Serug lived two hundred years, and begot sons and daughters.

24 Nahor lived twenty-nine years, and begot [s]Terah. 25 After he begot Terah, Nahor lived one hundred and nineteen years, and begot sons and daughters.

26 Now Terah lived seventy years, and [t]begot [4]Abram, Nahor, and Haran.

Terah's Descendants

27 This is the genealogy of Terah: Terah begot [u]Abram, Nahor, and Haran. Haran begot Lot. 28 And Haran died before his father Terah in his native land, in Ur of the Chaldeans. 29 Then Abram and Nahor took wives: the name of Abram's wife was [v]Sarai,[5] and the name of Nahor's wife, [w]Milcah, the daughter of Haran the father of Milcah and the father of Iscah. 30 But [x]Sarai was barren; she had no child.

31 And Terah [y]took his son Abram and his grandson Lot, the son of Haran, and his daughter-in-law Sarai, his son Abram's wife, and they went out with them from [z]Ur of the Chaldeans to go to [a]the land of Canaan; and they came to Haran and dwelt there. 32 So the days of Terah were two hundred and five years, and Terah died in Haran.

■ 11:16 Peleg. See note on 10:25.

■ 11:26 Abram. See notes on 17:5.

■ 11:27–32 This introduction to the Abraham story identifies the main characters in Abraham's life: father, brother, wife, sister-in-law, and nephew.

■ 11:27 This is the genealogy of Terah. See note on 2:4. Terah, the father of the principal figure, Abraham, gives his name to the family history, since the family involved in this story descends from him (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes). After this introduction he is not mentioned again, probably because he did not share Abraham's faith. The family may have been involved in moon worship, since Ur and Haran were important centers for worship of the Mesopotamian moon gods Nanna and Sin.

Nahor. See 22:20–24.

■ 11:28 Haran died. Haran's premature death explains the fate of his children in this closely knit family. Abraham adopted Lot, Haran's son (v. 31; 12:4), and Nahor married Milcah, Haran's daughter.

Ur of the Chaldeans. Probably the important city in southern Mesopotamia on the Euphrates River (flourished c. 3000–1900 B.C.), though some scholars suggest that Urfa (Edessa) in northern Mesopotamia may be intended. Because the Chaldeans did not reach southern Mesopotamia until after the time of Moses (and almost a millennium after Abraham), this description of Ur may represent an updating of the text after the time of Moses (Introduction: Date and Occasion).

■ 11:29 Sarai. She was the daughter of Terah by a different mother than Abraham's (20:2). The prohibition against such a marriage was unknown in patriarchal times (cf. Lev. 18:9; 20:17; Deut. 27:22).

Nahor's wife . . . daughter of Haran. The later Mosaic law did not prohibit marriage to one's niece.

■ 11:30 barren. This mention of childlessness anticipates the miraculous provision of offspring to continue the covenant line of promise (18:1–15; 21:1–12).

■ 11:32 two hundred and five years. If Abram was born when Terah was seventy years old (v. 26) and if Abram departed Haran when he was seventy-five years old (12:4) after the death of his father Terah (Acts 7:4), Terah would have been only 145 years old at his death. Several possible solutions to this apparent difficulty have been advanced. Some suggest that Stephen in Acts 7:4 relies on a different Hebrew textual tradition (the Samaritan Pentateuch text of this passage reads "145 years"). Others propose that the Hebrew word rendered "begot" in v. 26 means "began to beget" and that Abram was not the firstborn.

3 [f]Gen. 24:35; 27:29; Ex. 23:22; Num. 24:9

■ 12:1—22:19 God's division of the world into nations (11:1–9) provided a backdrop against which Moses now begins to display God's distinguishing grace in election. With Abram commences the story of God's creation of Israel, a story in which He will reveal His freedom in being merciful to Israel, His holiness in judging them, His faithfulness in restoring them, and His absolute sovereignty over human history. Abram's story begins with his departure from a city of man (Ur) in search of the city "whose builder and maker is God" (Heb. 11:10).

■ 12:1–9 Abraham's call as an agent of redemptive grace parallels Noah's as the mediator of a covenant to all creation (8:1—12:9 note). The form of God's call to Abraham also resembles His pattern in creation (1:3–31 note): announcement, command (v. 1), and report (vv. 4–9), but the pattern is broken by the divine promise (vv. 2–3), highlighting Abraham's faith and believing obedience (vv. 4–9; cf. 22:1–19; Rom. 4:3; Heb. 11:8–12).

■ 12:1–3 The covenant structure is apparent (17:2 note). God sovereignly obligated Himself to Abraham (vv. 2, 3) while assigning him a task (v. 1). God's commands were fulfilled through Abraham's obedient faith in God's promise (6:9–22 note).

These verses mark a pivotal point in Genesis and in the history of redemption as God begins to establish a covenant people for Himself. The progress of God's redemptive plan is evident in His setting Abraham apart (v. 1) and making Israel into a great nation (v. 2; 46:3). It climaxes in Jesus Christ, the true Seed of Abraham (Gal. 3:16), who brings salvation to the world (v. 3). The call to Abraham is passed on to the next two patriarchs, Isaac (26:2–4) and Jacob (28:14). The nation will be formed from Jacob's twelve sons (ch. 49). See theological note "God's Covenant of Grace."

■ 12:1 had said. The call came to Abraham in Ur before his father died, not in Haran (15:7).

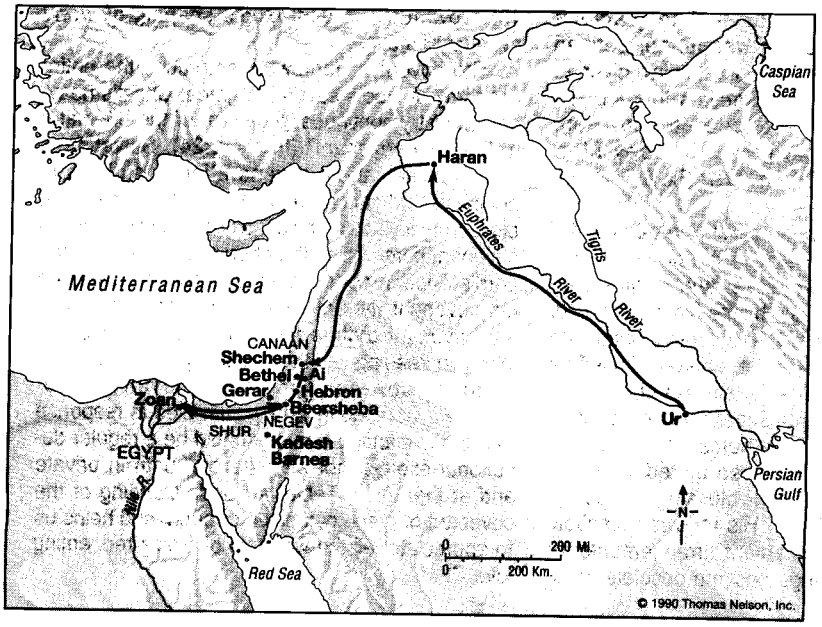
a land. The scope of this land grant will be progressively defined (12:7; 13:14–17; 15:18–21).

■ 12:2 bless. Crucial elements of divine blessing and promise in Genesis—fruitfulness and dominion—are evident here and are further spelled out in 22:17 (9:1 note).

make your name great. What the city builders at Babel sought in their own strength (11:4 note), God gave in sovereign grace. Subsequent history confirmed God's promise—the great names of Abraham and David (2 Sam. 7:9) prefigured that of Jesus Christ (Phil. 2:9–11).

you shall be a blessing. This last occurrence of the verb "to bless" is an imperative. Abraham will not only be blessed, but is to be a blessing to others (v. 3).

■ 12:3 bless those . . . curse him. The extent of God's merciful and gracious intention is indicated in the Hebrew by a switch from the plural object of blessing to the singular object of cursing. Many are to receive God's blessing through the Seed of Abraham (18:18; Gal. 3:8; Rev. 7:9, 10).



Abraham's Journey of Faith. Abraham's 1,500-mile journey was fueled by faith. "And he went out, not knowing where he was going. By faith he dwelt in the land of promise as in a foreign country, . . . for he waited for the city which has foundations, whose builder and maker is God" (Heb. 11:8–10).

God's Covenant of Grace

Covenants in Scripture are solemn agreements, negotiated or unilaterally imposed, that bind the parties to each other in permanent defined relationships, with specific promises, claims, and obligations on both sides (e.g., the marriage covenant, Mal. 2:14).

When God makes a covenant with His creatures, He alone establishes its terms, as His covenant with Noah and every living creature shows (Gen. 9:9). When Adam and Eve failed to obey the terms of the covenant of works (see Gen. 3:6 and theological note "The Fall"), God did not destroy them, but revealed His covenant of grace by promising a Savior (Gen. 3:15). God's covenant rests on His promise, as is clear from His covenant with Abraham. He called Abraham to go to the land that He would give him, and promised to bless him and all the families of the earth through him (Gen. 12:1–3). Abraham heeded God's call because he believed God's promise; it was his faith in the promise that was credited to him for righteousness (Gen. 15:6; Rom. 4:18–22). God's covenant with Israel at Sinai is in the form of the ancient Near Eastern suzerainty treaties. These are covenants imposed unilaterally by a powerful king on a vassal king and a servant people.

Although the covenant at Sinai required obedience to God's laws under the threat of His curse, it was a continuation of the covenant of grace (Ex. 3:15; Deut. 7:7, 8; 9:5, 6). God gave the commandments to a people He had already redeemed and claimed (Ex. 19:4; 20:2). The gracious promise of God's covenant was further defined through the types and shadows of the law given to Moses. The failure of the Israelites to keep His covenant showed the need for a new covenant that would bestow the power to obey (Jer. 31:31–34; 32:38–40; cf. Gen. 17:7; Ex. 6:7; 29:45, 46; Lev. 11:44, 45; 26:12).

God's covenant with Israel was preparation for the coming of God Himself, in the person of His Son, to fulfill all His promises, and to give substance to the shadows cast by the types (Is. 40:10; Mal. 3:1; John 1:14; Heb. 7—10). Jesus Christ, the Mediator of the new covenant, offered Himself as the true and final sacrifice for sin. He obeyed the law perfectly, and as the Second Adam (second representative head of the human race) He became the inheritor, with those united with Him by faith, of all the covenant blessings of peace and fellowship with God in His renewed creation. The temporary Old Testament arrangements for imparting those blessings became obsolete when what they anticipated was realized.

As Heb. 7—10 explains, through Christ God inaugurated a better version of His one eternal covenant with sinners (Heb. 13:20)—a better covenant with better promises (Heb. 8:6), based on a better sacrifice (Heb. 9:23) offered by a better high priest in a better sanctuary (Heb. 7:26—8:6, 11, 13, 14). This better covenant guarantees a better hope than had ever been made explicit by the former version of the covenant—glory with God in "a better, that is, a heavenly country" (Heb. 11:16; cf. v. 40).

The fulfillment of the old covenant in Christ opens the door of faith to the Gentiles. The "seed of Abraham," the community with which the covenant was made, was redefined in Christ—the final and definitive Seed of Abraham (Gal. 3:16). Gentiles and Jews who are united to Christ by faith become Abraham's seed in Him (Gal. 3:26–29), while no one outside of Christ can be in a saving covenant relationship with God (Rom. 4:9–17; 11:13–24).

The goal of God's covenantal dealings is, as it has always been, the gathering and sanctifying of the covenant people "of all nations, tribes, peoples, and tongues" (Rev. 7:9), who will one day inhabit the New Jerusalem in a renewed world order (Rev. 21:1, 2). Here the covenant relationship will find its fullest expression—"they shall be His people. God Himself will be with them and be their God" (Rev. 21:3; cf. Gen. 17:7 note; Ex. 29:45, 46). Towards this goal God's shaping of world events still moves.

The covenant framework embraces the entire economy of God's sovereign grace. Christ's heavenly ministry continues to be that of the "Mediator of the new covenant" (Heb. 12:24). Salvation is covenant salvation: regeneration, justification, adoption, and sanctification are covenant mercies; election was God's choice of the members of His covenant community, the church. Baptism and the Lord's Supper, corresponding to and replacing the old covenant rites of circumcision and Passover, are covenant ordinances. God's law is covenant law, and keeping it is the truest expression of gratitude for covenant grace and loyalty to our covenant God. Covenanting with God in response to His covenanting with us should be a regular devotional exercise for all believers, both in private and at the Lord's Table. An understanding of the covenant of grace guides us through, and helps us to appreciate, all the wonders of God's redeeming love. □

I will curse him who curses you;
And in [g]you all the families of the earth shall be [h]blessed."

4 So Abram departed as the LORD had spoken to him, and Lot went with him. And Abram was seventy-five years old when he departed from Haran. 5 Then Abram took Sarai his wife and Lot his brother's son, and all their possessions that they had gathered, and [i]the [j]people whom they had acquired in Haran, and they [k]departed to go to the land of Canaan. So they came to the land of Canaan. 6 Abram [l]passed through the land to the place of Shechem, [m]as far as [2]the terebinth tree of Moreh. [n]And the Canaanites were then in the land.

7 [o]Then the LORD appeared to Abram and said, [p]"To your [3]descendants I will give this land." And there he built an [q]altar to the LORD, who had appeared to him. 8 And he moved from there to the mountain east of Bethel, and he pitched his tent with Bethel on the west and Ai on the east; there he built an altar to the LORD and called on the name of the LORD. 9 So Abram journeyed, [s]going on still toward the [4]South.

Abram in Egypt

10 Now there was [t]a famine in the land, and Abram [u]went down to Egypt to dwell there, for the famine was [v]severe in the land. 11 And it came to pass, when he was close to entering Egypt, that he said to Sarai his wife, "Indeed I know that you are [w]a woman of beautiful countenance. 12 Therefore it will happen, when the Egyptians see you, that they will say, 'This is his wife'; and they [x]will kill me, but they will let you live. 13 [y]Please say you are my [z]sister, that it may be well with me for your sake, and that [5]I may live because of you."

14 So it was, when Abram came into Egypt, that the Egyptians saw the woman, that she was very beautiful. 15 The princes of Pharaoh also saw her and commended her to Pharaoh. And the woman was taken to Pharaoh's house. 16 He [a]treated Abram well for her sake. He [b]had sheep, oxen, male donkeys, male and female servants, female donkeys, and camels.

17 But the LORD [c]plagued Pharaoh and his house with great plagues because of Sarai, Abram's wife. 18 And Pharaoh called Abram and said, [d]"What is this you have done to me? Why did you not tell me that she was your wife? 19 Why did you say, 'She is my sister'? I might have taken her as my wife. Now therefore, here is your wife; take her and go your way." 20 [e]So Pharaoh commanded his men concerning him; and they sent him away, with his wife and all that he had.

those who bless. Those who acknowledge Abraham and his offspring as God's agent of blessing.

curse him who curses you. The Hebrew words here translated "curse(s)" differ: the second means "to disdain"; the first often has the sense of "to weaken" (3:14). God will be an effective adversary of those who curse Abraham and his seed.

in you. In Jesus Christ, the Seed of Abraham (Gal. 3:16), and in the spiritual Israel of all ages united with Him (Gal. 3:29; Phil. 3:3 note), rather than in unbelieving ethnic Israel (John 8:39; Rom. 9:6–8).

shall be blessed. Some have argued that the Hebrew verb should be translated reflexively: "shall bless themselves" (i.e., will desire the blessing of Abraham). While grammatically possible, this proposed reading hardly does justice to the context of this divine promise, and the passive translation here ("be blessed") presents no real linguistic difficulties. In addition, the Septuagint (Greek Old Testament) rendered it as passive. We are fully justified in viewing this promise as a reference to God's plan for the salvation of the world.

■ 12:6 Shechem. See 33:18—34:31; 48:22; 50:25 and notes.

terebinth tree of Moreh. Probably an oak tree, whose greater height made it a preferred place of worship (13:18; 18:1; 21:33). Although pagans worshiped fertility deities under such trees, Abraham, who looked for a heavenly city (Heb. 11:10), worshiped only the true God (v. 8). The name "Moreh" means "teacher." This was probably a pagan site for oracles; the Lord sanctified it by appearing to Abraham (v. 7).

the Canaanites . . . in the land. Two obstacles stood in the way of God's promise: Sarah's barrenness (11:30) and the Canaanites who prevented him from settling in the land.

■ 12:7 appeared. The sojourning patriarchs were prophets (15:1, 4; 17:1; 18:1; 20:7; 26:2, 24; 28:10–15; 31:3; 35:9; 48:3; cf. Ps. 105:12–15).

descendants. Grammatically, the Hebrew for "descendants" is a collective singular noun. Paul declares that it pertains uniquely to Jesus Christ (Gal. 3:16) and to all those who share Abraham's faith in God (Rom. 4:16, 23–24; Gal. 3:26–29).

built an altar. By this act the father of the new nation consecrates the Promised Land to God (Ex. 20:24; Josh. 22:19). See v. 8; 13:18; 22:9; 26:25; 35:7.

■ 12:8 called on the name of the LORD. See 4:26 and note.

■ 12:9 the South. See text note. The desert region southwest of the Dead Sea. Covering an area of about 4,500 square miles, its rainfall is too low to sustain cultivated grain.

■ 12:10–20 The matriarch Sarah is also endangered in chs. 20 and 26. Abraham's exodus from Egypt typifies the nation's later exodus: God sent a famine (v. 10; 47:4), the Egyptians afflicted them (vv. 12–15; Ex. 1:11–14); God plagued the Egyptians (v. 17; Ex. 8—11); the Egyptians let them go with great wealth (vv. 16, 20; Ex. 12:33–36); they return to the land by stages through the wilderness (13:3; Ex. 17:1); and finally arrive back in the land where they worship the Lord (13:3; Ex. 15:17). See Ps. 105:14, 15; 1 Cor. 10:1–4.

■ 12:12 Egyptians . . . will kill me. Although hospitality to strangers was a duty in the ancient Near East (18:2–5; Deut. 10:18, 19), strangers were vulnerable (cf. 19:3–11). Abraham was not necessarily selling Sarah's honor to save himself, for this ruse had been planned long before (20:13), perhaps to stall for time in dangerous circumstances (cf. 24:55; 34:13–17).

■ 12:13 sister. See note on 11:29.

■ 12:15 was taken. The Hebrew here does not necessarily imply sexual intercourse (cf. 20:2, 4, 6); the text does not add "and violated her" (34:2) or "and went in to her" (38:2).

Abram Inherits Canaan

13 Then Abram went up from Egypt, he and his wife and all that he had, and [a]Lot with him, [b]to the [1]South. 2 [c]Abram was very rich in livestock, in silver, and in gold. 3 And he went on his journey [d]from the South as far as Bethel, to the place where his tent had been at the beginning, between Bethel and Ai, 4 to the [e]place of the altar which he had made there at first. And there Abram [f]called on the name of the LORD.

5 Lot also, who went with Abram, had flocks and herds and tents. 6 Now [g]the land was not able to [2]support them, that they might dwell together, for their possessions were so great that they could not dwell together. 7 And there was [h]strife between the herdsmen of Abram's livestock and the herdsmen of Lot's livestock. [i]The Canaanites and the Perizzites then dwelt in the land.

8 So Abram said to Lot, [j]"Please let there be no strife between you and me, and between my herdsmen and your herdsmen; for we are brethren. 9 [k]Is not the whole land before you? Please [l]separate from me. [m]If you take the left, then I will go to the right; or, if you go to the right, then I will go to the left."

10 And Lot lifted his eyes and saw all [n]the plain of Jordan, that it was well watered everywhere (before the LORD [o]destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah) [p]like the garden of the LORD, like the land of Egypt as you go toward [q]Zoar. 11 Then Lot chose for himself all the plain of Jordan, and Lot journeyed east. And they separated from each other. 12 Abram dwelt in the land of Canaan, and Lot [r]dwelt in the cities of the plain and [s]pitched his tent even as far as Sodom. 13 But the men of Sodom [t]were exceedingly wicked and [u]sinful against the LORD.

14 And the LORD said to Abram, after Lot [v]had separated from him: "Lift your eyes now and look from the place where you are—[w]northward, southward, eastward, and westward; 15 for all the land which you see [x]I give to you and [y]your [3]descendants forever. 16 And [z]I will make your descendants as the dust of the earth; so that if a man could number the dust of the earth, then your descendants also could be numbered. 17 Arise, walk in the land through its length and its width, for I give it to you."

■ 13:1–18 Lot's separation from Abraham alienated him from blessing. He turned his back on his uncle and ignored the dangers of Sodom. But "even as he thought he was living in heaven, he had already sunk almost into hell" (Calvin, Commentary on Gen. 13:10). In contrast to Lot, Abraham trusted God and by faith inherited "all the land . . . forever" (v. 15) and "descendants as the dust" (v. 16).

■ 13:2 rich. The Hebrew word here is translated "severe" in 12:10, inviting a contrast in Abraham's situation before and after he went to Egypt (12:10–20 note).

■ 13:6 possessions were so great. Paradoxically, God's blessing, not famine, provoked the problem (v. 10 note).

■ 13:8–17 Lot and Abraham are compared and contrasted: both looked around (vv. 10, 14), were offered land (vv. 9, 15–17), and traveled to their allotted portion (vv. 11–12, 18). But Lot, who chose by sight, will escape twice by the skin of his teeth (14:12, 16; 19:1–29), while by faith Abraham will be enriched forever.

■ 13:9 If you . . . then I. Faith in God's sovereignty gave Abraham the freedom to be generous (cf. 14:19, 20). His generosity typified that of Israel to Moab and Ammon, Lot's descendants (Deut. 2:8–19). God applauds generosity and peacemakers (Lev. 19:18; Ps. 133; Matt. 5:43–48; James 3:17, 18).

■ 13:10 plain of Jordan. The edge of the Promised Land or just beyond it (Num. 34:2–12); this area is contrasted with Canaan in v. 12.

like the garden of the LORD. Man's environment is not the cause of sin—human depravity is. In the ideal environment of Eden sin originated, and sin now abounded in this rich territory (v. 13; 18:16—19:29).

■ 13:12 pitched his tent. See note on 14:12.

■ 13:14 look . . . westward. The Lord invited Moses to a similar panoramic overview of the land (Deut. 34:1–4). In each case, the invitation was given to confirm the promise to one who himself would not participate in dispossessing the Canaanites.

■ 13:15 land . . . forever. See 12:1 and note. The promises of land were fulfilled several times but never consummated. God fulfilled the promise through Joshua (Josh. 21:43–45), but not completely (Josh. 13:1–7); even more so through David and Solomon (1 Kin. 4:20–25; Neh. 9:8), but still not completely (Ps. 95:11; Heb. 4:6–8; 11:39, 40). As Israel's Exodus from Egypt through the Passover (Ex. 12:1) is a type of the church's exodus from the condemned world through Christ (1 Cor. 5:7; 10:1–4), so also old Israel's life in the land is a type of New Israel's life in Christ. Both are a gift (15:7, 18; Deut. 1:8; Rom. 6:23), are received by faith (Num. 14:26–44; Josh. 7 and John 3:16). Both uniquely possess the blessed presence, life, and rest of God (Ex. 23:20–31; Deut. 11:12; 12:9,10; 28:1–14; John 1:51; 14:9; Matt. 11:28), and demand persevering faith (Deut. 28:15–19; Heb. 6). The land promises are consummated forever in the new heaven and new earth (Heb. 11:39, 40; Rev. 21:1—22:6).

■ 13:16 as the dust. See 32:12. The promise of offspring also finds fulfillment in old Israel (Num. 23:10; 1 Kin. 4:20; 2 Chr. 1:9) and consummation in the New Israel, composed of Jew and Gentile (12:3 and note; Rom. 4:16–18; Gal. 3:29; Rev. 7:9).

■ 13:17 Arise, walk. According to ancient custom, a property transfer was finalized by the new owner's visit to the tract. God commands Abraham to lay symbolic claim to the Promised Land (12:7 and note; Josh. 1:3; 18:4; 24:3).

18 [a]Then Abram moved his tent, and went and [b]dwelt by [4]the terebinth trees of Mamre, [c]which are in Hebron, and built an [d]altar there to the LORD.

Lot's Captivity and Rescue

14 And it came to pass in the days of Amraphel king [a]of Shinar, Arioch king of Ellasar, Chedorlaomer king of [b]Elam, and Tidal king of [1]nations, 2 that they made war with Bera king of Sodom, Birsha king of Gomorrah, Shinab king of [c]Admah, Shemeber king of Zeboiim, and the king of Bela (that is, [d]Zoar). 3 All these joined together in the Valley of Siddim [e](that is, the Salt Sea). 4 Twelve years [f]they served Chedorlaomer, and in the thirteenth year they rebelled.

5 In the fourteenth year Chedorlaomer and the kings that were with him came and attacked [g]the Rephaim in Ashteroth Karnaim, [h]the Zuzim in Ham, [i]the Emim in Shaveh Kiriathaim, 6 [j]and the Horites in their mountain of Seir, as far as El Paran, which is by the wilderness. 7 Then they turned back and came to En Mishpat (that is, Kadesh), and attacked all the country of the Amalekites, and also the Amorites who dwelt [k]in Hazezon Tamar.

8 And the king of Sodom, the king of Gomorrah, the king of Admah, the king of Zeboiim, and the king of Bela (that is, Zoar) went out and joined together in battle in the Valley of Siddim 9 against Chedorlaomer king of Elam, Tidal king of [2]nations, Amraphel king of Shinar, and Arioch king of Ellasar—four kings against five. 10 Now the Valley of Siddim was full of [l]asphalt pits; and the kings of Sodom and Gomorrah fled; some fell there, and the remainder fled [m]to the mountains. 11 Then they took [n]all the goods of Sodom and Gomorrah, and all their provisions, and went their way. 12 They also took Lot, Abram's [o]brother's son [p]who dwelt in Sodom, and his goods, and departed.

13 Then one who had escaped came and told Abram the [q]Hebrew, for [r]he dwelt by [3]the terebinth trees of Mamre the Amorite, brother of Eshcol and brother of Aner; [s]and they were allies with Abram. 14 Now [t]when Abram heard that [u]his brother was taken captive, he armed his three hundred and eighteen trained servants who were [v]born in his own house, and went in pursuit [w]as far as Dan. 15 He divided his forces against them by night, and he and his servants [x]attacked them and pursued them as far as Hobah, which is [4]north of Damascus. 16 So he [y]brought back all the goods, and also brought back his brother Lot and his goods, as well as the women and the people.

17 And the king of Sodom [z]went out to meet him at the Valley of Shaveh (that is, the [a]King's Valley), [b]after his return from [5]the defeat of Chedorlaomer and the kings who were with him.

Mamre. An Amorite who sought security in an alliance with Abraham (14:13). He will be blessed through Abraham (14:24).

built an altar. See 12:7 and note.

■ 14:1–24 Abraham displayed obedient faith by risking war to deliver his nephew, Lot. His victory is astonishing since the plundering confederacy of five kings had just conquered many Canaanites and a confederacy of five Dead Sea kings. See note on v. 4.

■ 14:1, 2 None of these kings has been definitely identified in extra-biblical sources. One comes from Elam (part of modern Iran); one from Babylon (part of modern Iraq), and two probably from the region of modern Turkey.

■ 14:1 Shinar. See note on 10:10.

■ 14:4 they served. They were subject as vassals to the king of Elam with the obligation to pay tribute.

■ 14:5 Rephaim ... Zuzim ... Emim. See note on Deut. 2:10–12. Zuzim is probably an alternate term for the Zamzummim (Deut. 2:20). The mention of these defeated giants further emphasizes the impressiveness of Abraham's victory.

■ 14:6 Horites. See note on Deut. 2:10–12.

■ 14:12 dwelt in Sodom. Note the progressive identification of Lot with Sodom: camping near it (13:12), living in it, and residing as a respected citizen in it (19:1, 6; cf. Ps. 1:1).

■ 14:13 the Hebrew. Probably an ethnic identification designating Abraham as a descendant of Eber (10:21 note). However, some contend that the term derives from habiru, a disparaging word used to designate a widely dispersed social class of semi-nomads in the ancient Near East of the second millennium B.C.

terebinth trees of Mamre. See note on 12:6.

Amorite. Sometimes a blanket term for the earlier inhabitants of Palestine (48:22; Deut. 1:44; Josh. 2:10). Mamre the Amorite, an ally of Abraham who accompanied him in battle, found blessing through his identification with Abraham (v. 24; 12:3).

■ 14:14 brother. The term explains the character of Abraham's action: the godly display loving loyalty toward their brethren.

Abram and Melchizedek

18 Then [c]Melchizedek king of Salem brought out [d]bread and wine; he was [e]the priest of [f]God Most High. 19 And he blessed him and said:

[g]"Blessed be Abram of God Most High,
[h]Possessor of heaven and earth;
20 And [i]blessed be God Most High,
Who has delivered your enemies into your hand."

And he [j]gave him [6]a tithe of all.

21 Now the king of Sodom said to Abram, "Give me the [7]persons, and take the goods for yourself."

22 But Abram [k]said to the king of Sodom, "I [l]have raised my hand to the LORD, God Most High, [m]the Possessor of heaven and earth, 23 that [n]I will take nothing, from a thread to a sandal strap, and that I will not take anything that is yours, lest you should say, 'I have made Abram rich'— 24 except only what the young men have eaten, and the portion of the men who went with me: Aner, Eshcol, and Mamre; let them take their portion."

God's Covenant with Abram

15 After these things the word of the LORD came to Abram [a]in a vision, saying, [b]"Do not be afraid, Abram. I am your [c]shield, [l]your exceedingly [d]great reward."

2 [e]But Abram said, "Lord GOD, what will You give me, [f]seeing I [2]go childless, and the heir of my house is Eliezer of Damascus?" 3 Then Abram said, "Look, You have given me no offspring; indeed [g]one[3] born in my house is my heir!"

4 And behold, the word of the LORD came to him, saying, "This one shall not be your heir, but one who [h]will come from your own body shall be your heir." 5 Then He brought him outside and said, "Look now toward heaven, and [i]count the [j]stars if you are able to number them." And He said to him, [k]"So shall your [l]descendants be."

6 And he [m]believed in the LORD, and He [n]accounted it to him for righteousness.

■ 14:18 Melchizedek. Lit. "king of righteousness." The Hebrew word melech means "king," and zedek means "righteousness." See Introduction: Characteristics and Themes; Heb. 7:1–3 and notes.

king of Salem . . . priest of God. The introduction of Melchizedek emphasizes that he was a king as well as a priest. As such he is a type of Christ, who is our Prophet, Priest, and King. Salem was apparently an ancient name for Jerusalem (Ps. 76:2).

bread and wine. The combination means a full dinner, a banquet.

■ 14:19 blessed him. That Melchizedek blessed Abraham is understood by the author of Hebrews to indicate that Melchizedek was greater than Abraham (Heb. 7:7).

God Most High. Hebrew El Elyon. El, the supreme god in the Canaanite pantheon at the time of Abraham, had similar titles (e.g., El Olam, "Everlasting God"). The patriarchs used these titles for the LORD, the true God, Creator of heaven and earth. Abraham interpreted Melchizedek's praise in this way, repeating the same titles but adding the covenantal divine name LORD (Yahweh) in v. 22. Though a Canaanite, Melchizedek had come to know the true God—a pagan priest could not meaningfully have "blessed" Abraham, nor would Abraham, who was consecrating the land to the LORD (12:7 note), have given "a tithe" to the priest of the depraved Canaanite god El.

■ 14:20 tithe. A tenth. The practice of paying a tenth to a king or to a god was widespread in the ancient Near East, and predates the Mosaic law (28:22; Lev. 27:30–33; Num. 18:21–32). Abraham's gift to Melchizedek was probably not the payment of the "king's tithe" (cf. 1 Sam. 8:15, 17), but rather was an offering that reflected Abraham's regard for Melchizedek as a priest of the true God.

all. The booty.

■ 14:22 LORD. See note on v. 19.

■ 14:23 I will take nothing. In contrast to his dealings with Melchizedek, from whom he accepted bread and wine (v. 18) and to whom he gave a tithe (v. 20), Abraham wanted nothing to do with the wicked king of Sodom.

■ 14:24 of the men . . . with me. The spoil was their rightful share. This disposition of the goods emphasizes Abraham's fairness and generosity.

■ 15:1–19 After Abraham's expression of faith in God's reward (14:22, 23), God certified His promise of offspring (vv. 1–6) and land (12:7 and note) by making a covenant (Neh. 9:8). The two night scenes (vv. 5, 17) parallel each other: the Lord promises a reward (vv. 1, 7); Abraham questions the sovereign Lord about the inheritance (vv. 2–3, 8); and the Lord responds with a visual act (vv. 4–5, 9–21). Abraham's faith was accounted to him as righteousness (v. 6).

■ 15:1 word of the LORD came. This phrase typically introduces a revelation to a prophet (12:7 note; 20:7; Jer. 18:1; Ezek. 6:1; Hos. 1:1).

vision. Visions were an ancient mode of revelation (Num. 12:6), and often occurred at night (v. 5; 1 Sam. 3:1–3; Job 33:14–16).

reward. See note on 14:23.

■ 15:2, 3 God's people would not come by natural generation. As Adam and Noah were founders of the fallen race, Abraham was the father of the new race, symbolically raised from the dead (17:5).

■ 15:2 go childless. This Hebrew metaphor may mean either "to live childless" or "to die childless." Abraham was perplexed, perhaps in part because childlessness was seen as a sign of divine judgment (Lev. 20:20, 21; 1 Sam. 1:11; Jer. 22:30).

■ 15:3 one . . . is my heir. The practice of a childless couple adopting a slave as heir is attested in the Nuzi texts (c. 1500 B.C.), a collection of over four thousand clay tablets found near Kirkuk in modern Iraq.

■ 15:5 descendants. See 12:7; 13:16 and notes.

■ 15:6 This verse provides the early core doctrine of justification by faith, not by works (Gal. 3:6–14). Abraham believed the promise of the 7 Then He said to him, "I am the LORD, who [o]brought you out of [p]Ur of the Chaldeans, [q]to give you this land to inherit it."

8 And he said, "Lord GOD, [r]how shall I know that I will inherit it?"

9 So He said to him, "Bring Me a three-year-old heifer, a three-year-old female goat, a three-year-old ram, a turtledove, and a young pigeon." 10 Then he brought all these to Him and [s]cut them in two, down the middle, and placed each piece opposite the other; but he did not cut [t]the birds in two. 11 And when the vultures came down on the carcasses, Abram drove them away.

12 Now when the sun was going down, [u]a deep sleep fell upon Abram; and behold, horror and great darkness fell upon him. 13 Then He said to Abram: "Know certainly [v]that your descendants will be strangers in a land that is not theirs, and will serve them, and [w]they will afflict them four hundred years. 14 And also the nation whom they serve [x]I will judge; afterward [y]they shall come out with great possessions. 15 Now as for you, [z]you shall [a]go [a]to your fathers in peace; [b]you shall be buried at a good old age. 16 But [c]in the fourth generation they shall return here, for the iniquity [d]of the Amorites [e]is not yet complete."

17 And it came to pass, when the sun went down and it was dark, that behold, there appeared a smoking oven and a burning torch that [f]passed between those pieces. 18 On the same day the LORD [g]made a covenant with Abram, saying:

[h]"To your descendants I have given this land, from the river of Egypt to the great river, the River Euphrates— 19 the Kenites, the Kenezzites, the Kadmonites, 20 the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Rephaim, 21 the Amorites, the Canaanites, the Girgashites, and the Jebusites."

And Abram [g]heeded the voice of Sarai. 3 Then Sarai, Abram's wife, took Hagar her maid, the Egyptian, and gave her to her husband Abram to be his wife, after Abram [h]had birth of an heir from the dead (Rom. 4:17–21; Heb. 11:11, 12), and God counted Abraham to be righteous, to be meeting His covenant demand. drove them away. Abraham symbolically defends his promised inheritance against foreign attackers.

■ 15:12–14 Israel must inherit Canaan through God's supernatural act of redemption from slavery.

■ 15:13 four hundred years. A round number for the period spent in Egypt (cf. Ex. 12:40, 41).

■ 15:16 Amorites. See note on 14:13.

passed between those pieces. As other ancient Near Eastern texts and Jer. 34:18 indicate, by passing between the torn animals (signifying the punishment due those who break the covenant) God invokes a self-maledictory oath or curse upon Himself should He fail to keep His covenant. Because He can swear by no higher authority, God swears by Himself to keep the covenantal terms. See 22:16, 17; Heb. 6:13 note.

■ 15:18 covenant. God's covenant with Abraham closely parallels ancient Near Eastern royal land grants made by kings to loyal servants and their descendants in perpetuity.

river of Egypt. It is debated whether the brook of Egypt, the Wadi el Arish in northeastern Sinai (Num. 34:5), or the eastern branch of the Nile delta is in view. See 1 Kin. 4:21.

■ 15:19–21 In addition to its geographical boundaries the land is defined by its occupants. See 10:15–18.

■ 16:1–15 In her impatience, Sarah tried to fulfill the divine promise through her own initiative by means of her maidservant, Hagar. The immediate result is strife in the home, and its long-term consequence is the mixed blessing of numerous progeny who will inherit Hagar's defiant spirit (v. 12). This natural generation did not bring peace; only the greater Seed of Abraham (Gal. 3:16), the Son of the God of peace, can do that.

■ 16:1 maidservant. The Hebrew term denotes a personal servant of the wife, not a slave girl (cf. 21:10 note). Her relationship to Sarah resembled Eliezer's to Abraham (15:2).

■ 16:2 obtain children by her. In this custom, attested so far in the Code of Hammurabi and in texts from Nuzi and Nimrud, the authority over the children resulting from this union belonged to the chief wife, not the slave-wife (Introduction: Author).

■ 16:3 ten years. See 12:4.

dwelt ten years in the land of Canaan. [4] So he went in to Hagar, and she conceived. And when she saw that she had conceived, her mistress became [i]despised in her [2]eyes.

[5] Then Sarai said to Abram, [3]"My wrong be upon you! I gave my maid into your embrace; and when she saw that she had conceived, I became despised in her eyes. [j]The LORD judge between you and me."

[6] [k]So Abram said to Sarai, "Indeed your maid is in your hand; do to her as you please." And when Sarai dealt harshly with her, [l]she fled from her presence.

[7] Now the [m]Angel of the LORD found her by a spring of water in the wilderness, [n]by the spring on the way to [o]Shur. [8] And He said, "Hagar, Sarai's maid, where have you come from, and where are you going?"

She said, "I am fleeing from the presence of my mistress Sarai."

[9] The Angel of the LORD said to her, "Return to your mistress, and [p]submit yourself under her hand." [10] Then the Angel of the LORD said to her, [q]"I will multiply your descendants exceedingly, so that they shall not be counted for multitude." [11] And the Angel of the LORD said to her:

"Behold, you are with child,
[r]And you shall bear a son.
You shall call his name [4]Ishmael,
Because the LORD has heard your affliction.
12 [s]He shall be a wild man;
His hand shall be against every man,
And every man's hand against him.
[t]And he shall dwell in the presence of all his brethren."

[13] Then she called the name of the LORD who spoke to her, You-Are-[5]the-God-Who-Sees; for she said, "Have I also here [6]seen Him [u]who sees me?" [14] Therefore the well was called [v]Beer Lahai Roi;[7] observe, it is [w]between Kadesh and Bered.

[15] So [x]Hagar bore Abram a son; and Abram named his son, whom Hagar bore, Ishmael. [16] Abram was eighty-six years old when Hagar bore Ishmael to Abram.

The Sign of the Covenant

17 When Abram was ninety-nine years old, the LORD [a]appeared to Abram and said to him, [b]"I am [1]Almighty God; [c]walk before Me and be [d]blameless. [2] And I will make My [e]covenant between Me and you, and [f]will multiply you exceedingly." [3] Then Abram fell on his

■ 16:4 despised. The Hebrew word here is translated "curse" in 12:3 (12:3 note; cf. Prov. 30:23). Because she treated Sarah with disdain, Hagar was alienated from the family of blessing.

■ 16:5 My wrong be upon you. Sarah lays responsibility for the situation upon Abraham. Only he has the judicial authority to effect a change and up to now has not acted to protect their marriage.

The LORD judge. She appeals to a still higher court (31:53; Ex. 5:21; 1 Sam. 24:12, 15).

■ 16:6 as you please. According to the Code of Hammurabi, the despised mistress in this situation could not sell her maidservant, but she could mark her with the slave mark and count her among the slaves.

dealt harshly ... fled. The intractable Ishmael is the unruly son of a mother who chose the freedom of the wilderness over submitting to the yoke of her mistress (v. 9).

■ 16:7 Angel of the LORD. The identity of the angel of the Lord is debated. According to some, although the "angel of the Lord" sometimes may be distinguished from God (e.g., 21:17; 2 Sam. 24:16; 2 Kin. 19:35), in other instances the angel of the Lord appears to be a theophany, a visual manifestation of God Himself (e.g., 18:1–33; 22:11–18; 32:24–30; Ex. 3:2–6). Others, however, note that "angel" means "messenger." They argue that as secular messengers are fully equated with their senders (Judg. 11:13; 2 Sam. 3:12, 13; 1 Kin. 20:2–4), so God's angel is identified with Him (see also Gen. 21:17; 31:11; Ex. 14:9; 23:20; 32:34).

Shur. The name means "wall," a reference to the Egyptian border forts. Hagar apparently fled toward her home in Egypt (cf. v. 1).

■ 16:8 where. See notes on 3:9 and 11:5.

■ 16:10 multiply your descendants. Abraham fathers many descendants, both elect (13:16 note) and non-elect. It is not the mere natural children who finally inherit the promise (Rom. 9:8). Even the physical offspring of Abraham may persecute the sons of promise (21:9; Gal. 4:29, 30).

■ 16:12 against every man. The fierce, aggressive ways of the Ishmaelites will leave a legacy of conflict.

■ 16:13 You-Are-the-God-Who-Sees. This divine name is not attested elsewhere. It expresses the deep significance to Hagar of God's gracious revelation to her. Even while she was lost in the wilderness, God had seen her and revealed Himself to her.

■ 16:14 observe, it is ... Bered. Today the site is uncertain.

■ 16:15 a son. The genealogy is given in 25:12–18.

■ 17:1 Almighty God. See text note. This divine name may signify God's universal dominion. It occurs frequently in Job, and in the patriarchal narratives, often when the covenant promise of progeny is stressed (28:3; 35:11; 43:14; 48:3; 49:25).

walk before Me and be blameless. These phrases denote the service due a king. Even Israel's kings were commanded to "walk before" their greater Sovereign, the Lord Himself (1 Kin. 9:4; 2 Kin. 20:3). The covenantal arrangement again surfaces: God's gracious promises call for the obedient response of Abraham.

■ 17:2 My covenant. The covenant relationship between God and Abraham includes both promises obligating God to Abraham ("As for Me," vv. 4–8, 16), and commands obligating Abraham and Sarah to God ("As for you," vv. 9–15). This pattern of mutual obligation is not a relationship of equal parties (as in a human contract), however, for God sover-face, and God talked with him, saying: 4 "As for Me, behold, My covenant is with you, and you shall be [g]a father of [2]many nations. 5 No longer shall [h]your name be called [3]Abram, but your name shall be [4]Abraham; [i]for I have made you a father of [5]many nations. 6 I will make you exceedingly fruitful; and I will make [j]nations of you, and [k]kings shall come from you. 7 And I will [l]establish My covenant between Me and you and your descendants after you in their generations, for an everlasting covenant, [m]to be God to you and [n]your descendants after you. 8 Also [o]I give to you and your descendants after you the land [p]in[6] which you are a stranger, all the land of Canaan, as an everlasting possession; and [q]I will be their God."

9 And God said to Abraham: "As for you, [r]you shall keep My covenant, you and your descendants after you throughout their generations. 10 This is My covenant which you shall keep, between Me and you and your descendants after you: [s]Every male child among you shall be circumcised; 11 and you shall be circumcised in the flesh of your foreskins, and it shall be [t]a sign of the covenant between Me and you. 12 He who is eight days old among you [u]shall be circumcised, every male child in your generations, he who is born in your house or bought with money from any foreigner who is not your descendant. 13 He who is born in your house and he who is bought with your money must be circumcised, and My covenant shall be in your flesh for an everlasting covenant. 14 And the uncircumcised male child, who is not circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin, that person [v]shall be cut off from his people; he has broken My covenant."

15 Then God said to Abraham, "As for Sarai your wife, you shall not call her name Sarai, but [7]Sarah shall be her name. 16 And I will bless her [w]and also give you a son by her; then I will bless her, and she shall be a mother [x]of nations; [y]kings of peoples shall be from her."

17 Then Abraham fell on his face [z]and laughed, and said in his heart, "Shall a child be born to a man who is one hundred years old? And shall Sarah, who is ninety years old, bear a child?" 18 And Abraham [a]said to God, "Oh, that Ishmael might live before You!"

eignly bestows the covenant, gives the grace of faith and obedience to man, and graciously provides the remedy for human disobedience (28:20 note). The history of the covenant in the Old Testament is largely one of human failure fully to obey the covenantal requirements. Nevertheless, the gracious covenant God remains faithful to His promises, even when human beings are faithless (v. 7 note; Lev. 26:44, 45; Deut. 4:30, 31; 2 Tim. 2:13 and note).

■ 17:5 Abram . . . Abraham. Abram, an ancient West Semitic name, means "exalted father," perhaps originally a reference to Abraham's father Terah. "Abraham" sounds like a Hebrew expression meaning "father of a multitude of nations." His old name spoke of his aristocratic ancestry; the new speaks of his many offspring.

your name shall be. The name changes of the patriarch and matriarch show they are under God's rule (1:5 note) and are called to a new destiny and mission.

father of many nations. Abraham was the physical father of many nations—ethnic Israel through the promised son Isaac, Ishmaelites (v. 20; 21:13; 25:12–18), Edomites (25:23; 36:1–43), and his descendants through Keturah (25:1–4). But this promise finds final fulfillment in the multitude from every tribe, language, and nation who share the faith of Abraham and are baptized into Jesus Christ (Rom. 4:16, 17; 15:8–12; Gal. 3:29; Rev. 7:9).

■ 17:7 your descendants. The descendants of Abraham through the child of promise, Isaac (Rom. 4:19; 9:6–9). Gentile believers participate in this covenant promise through spiritual incorporation into Israel (Eph. 2:11–13; 1 Pet. 2:10 note) by union with Christ, the great Seed of Abraham (Gal. 3:16, 26–29).

everlasting. The unilateral and gracious nature of God's covenant with Abraham is underscored by its eternal character (v. 2 note). God's covenant endures forever because He does not change and Jesus Christ fulfills every condition (2 Cor. 1:20; Eph. 2:12, 13).

to be God to you. Although there is a legal dimension to the covenant (v. 2 note), God's covenant relationship with His people is first and foremost one of divine-human communion and fellowship (Ex. 6:7; Deut. 29:13). God graciously dwells with His people, and they gratefully respond in faith, love, and obedience.

■ 17:8 land of Canaan . . . everlasting possession. See 13:15 and note.

■ 17:10 circumcised. By this ritual the organ of procreation was consecrated to God (cf. Lev. 19:23). More important, God wanted the heart and ear consecrated to Him (Deut. 10:16; 30:6; Jer. 4:4; 6:10; Ezek. 44:7, 9). Mere circumcision in the flesh is inadequate to please God (17:11–14 notes; Jer. 9:25, 26).

■ 17:11 sign of the covenant. See note on 9:12.

■ 17:12 eight days old. See Luke 1:59; 2:21; Phil. 3:5. Some ancient Near Eastern cultures circumcised their children at puberty as a rite of passage from childhood to manhood. God employed the sign for infants to show that the children of believing parents are "holy" (they are separated from the profane world and belong to the covenant community, Rom. 11:16; 1 Cor. 7:14). God continues to use the family institution (Acts 16:31). The initiation rite into the covenant community today is baptism. In Christ there is no longer male or female, Jew or Gentile, so all may come (Gal. 3:26–29; Col. 2:11, 12). See theological note "Infant Baptism."

■ 17:13 born . . . bought. The covenant promises were extended to all within the household of faith. Even in the Old Testament, the scope of the covenant community was not exclusively determined by ancestry—a foreshadowing of the expansion of the covenant to a multitude from every tribe and nation. See notes on vv. 6, 7.

in your flesh for an everlasting covenant. See note on v. 7. The covenant of grace between God and His people is indeed an eternal covenant, although the mode of administration changes with the transition from Israel to the church (e.g., circumcision is replaced by baptism, v. 12 note). See "The Sacraments" at Matt. 28:19.

■ 17:15 Sarai . . . Sarah. See text note. Both names seem to be variants meaning "princess." Her birth name probably looked back on her noble descent, whereas her covenant name looks ahead to her noble descendants (v. 5 and note).

■ 17:16 bless. See note on 12:2.

Infant Baptism

Baptizing the infant children of believers (sometimes called "paedobaptism"), in the belief that this accords with God's revealed will, has been the historic practice of most churches. However, the worldwide Baptist community, which includes distinguished Reformed thinkers, disputes this practice.

Baptists insist that membership in local congregations is only for those who have publicly professed a personal faith. The argument often includes the claim that Christ instituted baptism primarily as a public profession of faith, and that this profession is part of the definition of baptism, with the result that infant baptism is not really baptism at all. On this ground Baptist churches rebaptize persons baptized in infancy who have come to faith—from the Baptist standpoint they have never been baptized. Historic Reformed theology contests the view that only adult, believer's baptism is true baptism, and it rejects the exclusion of believers' children from the visible community of faith. These differences regarding the nature of the visible church form the background for all discussions of infant baptism.

The practice of infant baptism is neither prescribed nor forbidden in the New Testament, nor is it explicitly illustrated (though some argue that the New Testament practice of household baptisms probably included infants and small children). Rather, the scriptural case for baptizing believers' infants rests on the parallel between Old Testament circumcision and New Testament baptism as signs and seals of the covenant of grace (Gen. 17:11; Rom. 4:11; Col. 2:11, 12), and on the claim that the principle of family solidarity in the covenant community (the church, as it is now called) was not affected by the transition from the "old" to the "new" form of God's covenant brought about by the coming of Christ. Infant children of believers have the status of covenant children and therefore should be baptized, just as Jewish male infants had previously been circumcised. The Old Testament precedent requires it and there are no divine instructions explicitly revoking this principle.

Further evidence that the principle of family solidarity continues in the New Testament period is found in 1 Cor. 7:14, where Paul notes that even the children of but one Christian parent are relationally and covenantally "holy" (that is, set apart to God together with the one Christian parent). So the principle of parent-child solidarity still stands, as Peter also indicated in his Pentecost sermon (Acts 2:39). And if infants are deemed members of the visible covenant community with their parent, it is fitting to give them the sign of covenant status and of their place in the covenant community; in fact, it would be unfitting for the church to withhold it. This fitness is demonstrated in that when circumcision was the sign of covenant status and community inclusion, God commanded it to be done (Gen. 17:9–14).

Against these arguments, Baptists allege that first, circumcision was primarily a sign of Jewish ethnic identity, so the parallel between it and Christian baptism is mistaken; second, that under the new covenant the requirement of personal faith before baptism is absolute; and third, that practices not explicitly recognized and approved in Scripture must not be brought into church life.

Certainly, all adult church members must profess faith personally before the church. Communions that baptize infants provide for this in confirmation or the equivalent. The Christian nurture of Baptist and paedobaptist children will be similar: They will be dedicated to God in infancy, either by baptism or by a rite of dedication; they will be brought up to live for the Lord and led to the point of publicly professing faith, in confirmation or baptism. After this they will enjoy full communicant status. The ongoing debate is not about nurture, but about God's way of defining the church.

It is sometimes said that infant baptism leads to a false presumption that the rite by itself guarantees the child's salvation. In the absence of biblical instruction on its meaning, this unfortunate misconception is possible. But it should be remembered that such a misunderstanding is equally possible in the case of adult, believer's baptism. See the warning in "Baptism" at Rom. 6:3. □ make him fruitful, and [d]will multiply him exceedingly. He shall beget [e]twelve princes, [f]and I will make him a great nation. 21 But My [g]covenant I will establish with Isaac, [h]whom Sarah shall bear to you at this [i]set time next year." 22 Then He finished talking with him, and God went up from Abraham.

23 So Abraham took Ishmael his son, all who were born in his house and all who were bought with his money, every male among the men of Abraham's house, and circumcised the flesh of their foreskins that very same day, as God had said to him. 24 Abraham was ninety-nine years old when he was circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin. 25 And Ishmael his son was thirteen years old when he was circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin. 26 That very same day Abraham was circumcised, and his son Ishmael; 27 and [j]all the men of his house, born in the house or bought with money from a foreigner, were circumcised with him.

The Son of Promise

18 Then the LORD appeared to him by [l]the [a]terebinth trees of Mamre, as he was sitting in the tent door in the heat of the day. 2 [b]So he lifted his eyes and looked, and behold, three men were standing by him; [c]and when he saw them, he ran from the tent door to meet them, and bowed himself to the ground, 3 and said, "My Lord, if I have now found favor in Your sight, do not pass on by Your servant. 4 Please let [d]a little water be brought, and wash your feet, and rest yourselves under the tree. 5 And [e]I will bring a morsel of bread, that [f]you may refresh your hearts. After that you may pass by, [g]inasmuch as you have come to your servant."

They said, "Do as you have said."

6 So Abraham hurried into the tent to Sarah and said, "Quickly, make ready three measures of fine meal; knead it and make cakes." 7 And Abraham ran to the herd, took a tender and good calf, gave it to a young man, and he hastened to prepare it. 8 So [h]he took butter and milk and the calf which he had prepared, and set it before them; and he stood by them under the tree as they ate.

9 Then they said to him, "Where is Sarah your wife?"

So he said, "Here, [i]in the tent."

10 And He said, "I will certainly return to you [j]according to the time of life, and behold, [k]Sarah your wife shall have a son."

(Sarah was listening in the tent door which was behind him.) 11 Now [l]Abraham and Sarah were old, well advanced in age; and [2]Sarah [m]had passed the age of childbearing. 12 Therefore Sarah [n]laughed within herself, saying, [o]"After I have grown old, shall I have pleasure, my [p]lord being old also?"

13 And the LORD said to Abraham, "Why did Sarah laugh, saying, 'Shall I surely bear a child, since I am old?' 14 [q]Is anything too hard for the LORD? [r]At the appointed time I will return to you, according to the time of life, and Sarah shall have a son."

15 But Sarah denied it, saying, "I did not laugh," for she was afraid.

And He said, "No, but you did laugh!"

■ 17:21 with Isaac. By His own sovereign counsel the Lord elected Isaac, not Ishmael (Introduction: Date and Occasion). Isaac's miraculous birth signifies that the people of God result, not from mere natural generation, but from the promise and the supernatural grace of the Holy Spirit (Rom. 4:17; Gal. 4:21–31).

■ 18:15 you did laugh. See note on 21:3.

■ 18:16–33 The Lord's promise of a miraculous offspring anticipated that Abraham would become a great and powerful nation to bless the earth. Such a nation had to learn justice, beginning with its father, Abraham (vv. 17–19). The Lord demonstrated His justice to Abraham in the judgment upon the wicked cities of Sodom and Gomorrah (vv. 20–33). God investigated the accusations thoroughly (vv. 20–21; 11:5 note); even if there had been ten righteous people He would have spared the cities (v. 32).

18 since Abraham shall surely become a great and mighty nation, and all the nations of the earth shall be [u]blessed in him? 19 For I have known him, in order [v]that he may command his children and his household after him, that they keep the way of the LORD, to do righteousness and justice, that the LORD may bring to Abraham what He has spoken to him." 20 And the LORD said, "Because [w]the outcry against Sodom and Gomorrah is great, and because their [x]sin is very grave, 21 [y]I will go down now and see whether they have done altogether according to the outcry against it that has come to Me; and if not, [z]I will know."

22 Then the men turned away from there [a]and went toward Sodom, but Abraham still stood before the LORD. 23 And Abraham [b]came near and said, [c]"Would You also [d]destroy the [e]righteous with the wicked? 24 Suppose there were fifty righteous within the city; would You also destroy the place and not spare it for the fifty righteous that were in it? 25 Far be it from You to do such a thing as this, to slay the righteous with the wicked, so [f]that the righteous should be as the wicked; far be it from You! [g]Shall not the Judge of all the earth do right?"

26 So the LORD said, [h]"If I find in Sodom fifty righteous within the city, then I will spare all the place for their sakes."

27 Then Abraham answered and said, "Indeed now, I who am [i]but dust and ashes have taken it upon myself to speak to the Lord: 28 Suppose there were five less than the fifty righteous; would You destroy all of the city for lack of five?"

So He said, "If I find there forty-five, I will not destroy it."

29 And he spoke to Him yet again and said, "Suppose there should be forty found there?"

So He said, "I will not do it for the sake of forty."

30 Then he said, "Let not the Lord be angry, and I will speak: Suppose thirty should be found there?"

So He said, "I will not do it if I find thirty there."

31 And he said, "Indeed now, I have taken it upon myself to speak to the Lord: Suppose twenty should be found there?"

So He said, "I will not destroy it for the sake of twenty."

32 Then he said, [j]"Let not the Lord be angry, and I will speak but once more: Suppose ten should be found there?"

[k]And He said, "I will not destroy it for the sake of ten." 33 So the LORD went His way as soon as He had finished speaking with Abraham; and Abraham returned to his place.

Sodom's Depravity

19 Now [a]the two angels came to Sodom in the evening, and [b]Lot was sitting in the gate of Sodom. When Lot saw them, he rose to meet them, and he bowed himself with his face toward the ground. 2 And he said, "Here now, my lords, please [c]turn in to your servant's house and spend the night, and [d]wash your feet; then you may rise early and go on your way."

the prophets, that He revealed His plans to them (20:7; Amos 3:7; cf. John 15:15). As a prophet, Abraham also interceded (cf. Jer. 15:1; 27:18).

■ 18:19 I have known him, in order that. The Hebrew word translated "known" here means "chosen in love." The purpose of God's sovereign and gracious election is that His people might be holy and righteous in His sight (Eph. 1:4).

that the LORD . . . what He has spoken. Those promises claimed by Abraham in faith must be claimed by his descendants as well. Their hope in God's covenant will be demonstrated by their covenant obedience. God's plan will be realized through the covenant faithfulness of His people (22:18; 26:4, 5). See note on 17:2.

■ 18:20 outcry. All cries of wrongdoing come to the attention of the "Judge of all the earth" (v. 25; cf. 4:10). Despite the mercy shown to Sodom through Abraham (ch. 14), Sodom had not repented of its sin.

their sin. The sinfulness of Sodom was both proverbial and extensive (13:13; Jer. 23:14). It involved extreme displays of sexual depravity (particularly homosexuality, 19:5; Jude 7), arrogance and abuse of the poor (Ezek. 16:49, 50), and a failure to show hospitality (19:8).

■ 18:21 go down . . . and see. See note on 11:5.

■ 18:23 Would You also destroy the righteous. Clearly, no one would escape the massive destruction intended for the cities, so Abraham petitions God on behalf of the righteous who might reside there. The series of questions and answers that follow serve to establish beyond doubt the justice of God's judgment.

■ 18:32 ten. God's mercy is evident in His willingness to spare the sinful majority for the sake of even ten righteous. Fewer than ten could be saved individually, as happens in ch. 19. In cases of special punishment inflicted upon cities and nations, righteous individuals were sometimes singled out for preservation (Josh. 6:25; cf. Ezek. 14:14, 16, 18, 20). See "The Spiritual Nature of God" at Is. 66:1.

■ 19:1–29 Just as God had rescued righteous Noah from the sinful pre-Flood world (chs. 6—8), so also He rescues Lot from Sodom. Ultimately, Lot was saved because of God's mercy to him (v. 16) and because of God's covenantal commitment to Abraham (v. 29). The destruction of Sodom becomes a paradigm of God's judgment on sin (Is. 1:9, 10; Ezek. 16:46–49; Amos 4:11; Rom. 9:29; 2 Pet. 2:5, 6).

■ 19:1–11 See the similar episode recorded in Judg. 19:15–25.

■ 19:1 two angels. See note on 18:2 and "Angels" at Zech. 1:9. The two angels continue on to Sodom, but the Lord Himself does not appear after 18:33; He will rain down the judgment from heaven (v. 24).

sitting in the gate. See 14:12 and note. That Lot was sitting in the city gate indicates his status as a respected member of the community. Legal matters were decided at the city gate by community elders such as Lot (Deut. 21:18–21; Amos 5:15).

bowed himself. Throughout the story Lot demonstrated his righteousness by his hospitality to strangers (18:2 and notes; cf. 2 Pet. 2:6, 7).

And they said, [e]"No, but we will spend the night in the open square."

3 But he insisted strongly; so they turned in to him and entered his house. [f]Then he made them a feast, and baked [g]unleavened bread, and they ate.

4 Now before they lay down, the men of the city, the men of Sodom, both old and young, all the people from every quarter, surrounded the house. 5 [h]And they called to Lot and said to him, "Where are the men who came to you tonight? [i]Bring them out to us that we [j]may know them carnally."

6 So [k]Lot went out to them through the doorway, shut the door behind him, 7 and said, "Please, my brethren, do not do so wickedly! 8 [l]See now, I have two daughters who have not known a man; please, let me bring them out to you, and you may do to them as you wish; only do nothing to these men, [m]since this is the reason they have come under the shadow of my roof."

9 And they said, "Stand back!" Then they said, "This one [n]came in to [l]stay here, [o]and he keeps acting as a judge; now we will deal worse with you than with them." So they pressed hard against the man Lot, and came near to break down the door. 10 But the men reached out their hands and pulled Lot into the house with them, and shut the door. 11 And they [p]struck the men who were at the doorway of the house with blindness, both small and great, so that they became weary trying to find the door.

Sodom and Gomorrah Destroyed

12 Then the men said to Lot, "Have you anyone else here? Son-in-law, your sons, your daughters, and whomever you have in the city—[q]take them out of this place! 13 For we will destroy this place, because the [r]outcry against them has grown great before the face of the LORD, and [s]the LORD has sent us to destroy it."

14 So Lot went out and spoke to his sons-in-law, [t]who had married his daughters, and said, [u]"Get up, get out of this place; for the LORD will destroy this city!" [v]But to his sons-in-law he seemed to be joking.

15 When the morning dawned, the angels urged Lot to hurry, saying, [w]"Arise, take your wife and your two daughters who are here, lest you be consumed in the punishment of the city." 16 And while he lingered, the men [x]took hold of his hand, his wife's hand, and the hands of his two daughters, the [y]LORD being merciful to him, [z]and they brought him out and set him outside the city. 17 So it came to pass, when they had brought them outside, that [2]he said, [a]"Escape for your life! [b]Do not look behind you nor stay anywhere in the plain. Escape [c]to the mountains, lest you be [3]destroyed."

18 Then Lot said to them, "Please, [d]no, my lords! 19 Indeed now, your servant has found favor in your sight, and you have increased your mercy which you have shown me by saving my life; but I cannot escape to the mountains, lest some evil overtake me and I die. 20 See now, this city is near enough to flee to, and it is a little one; please let me escape there (is it not a little one?) and my soul shall live."

21 And he said to him, "See, [e]I have favored you concerning this thing also, in that I will not overthrow this city for which you have spoken. 22 Hurry, escape there. For [f]I cannot do anything until you arrive there."

Therefore [g]the name of the city was called [4]Zoar.

23 The sun had risen upon the earth when Lot entered Zoar. 24 Then the LORD rained [h]brimstone and [i]fire on Sodom and Gomorrah, from the LORD out of the heavens. 25 So He [5]overthrew those cities, all the plain, all the inhabitants of the cities, and [j]what grew on the ground.

■ 19:4 old and young . . . every quarter. These details are necessary to show that everyone destroyed was wicked (18:23 note). See also 6:5; 8:21; Rom. 1:26–32.

■ 19:7 so wickedly. The character of Lot's appeal demonstrates his righteousness (2 Pet. 2:6, 7).

■ 19:8 See notes on 18:2 and 19:1. As one bound by the ancient Near Eastern code of hospitality, which required the protection of guests, Lot was willing to risk danger to his own family rather than allow harm to come to his guests.

■ 19:10 shut the door. See note on 7:16.

■ 19:15 wife . . . daughters. The family is saved from the city's destruction as a unit, but this family, like Noah's, will prove to be a mixture of those who persevere (Lot) and those who do not (Lot's wife and daughters, vv. 26, 30–38).

■ 19:16 he lingered. Lot's status in the city was probably due to his great wealth (13:6) and to his uncle Abraham's rescue of the city (ch. 14). Now, having to flee with virtually nothing from the comforts of the city (vv. 18–21), Lot hesitates.

■ 19:24 the LORD rained brimstone. A detailed explanation of the inferno that engulfed the cities remains difficult; the Bible is concerned with the final divine Cause, rather than secondary causes. The term "brimstone" refers to combustible sulfur, deposits of which are found near the Dead Sea. Some suggest that an earthquake caused a mixture of brimstone, asphalt (also abundant in this area, 14:10), and gasses from the earth to ignite (cf. Is. 34:9, 10).

26 But his wife looked back behind him, and she became [k]a pillar of salt.

27 And Abraham went early in the morning to the place where [l]he had stood before the LORD. 28 Then he looked toward Sodom and Gomorrah, and toward all the land of the plain; and he saw, and behold, [m]the smoke of the land which went up like the smoke of a furnace. 29 And it came to pass, when God destroyed the cities of the plain, that God [n]remembered Abraham, and sent Lot out of the midst of the overthrow, when He overthrew the cities in which Lot had dwelt.

The Descendants of Lot

30 Then Lot went up out of Zoar and [o]dwelt in the mountains, and his two daughters were with him; for he was afraid to dwell in Zoar. And he and his two daughters dwelt in a cave. 31 Now the firstborn said to the younger, "Our father is old, and there is no man on the earth [p]to come in to us as is the custom of all the earth. 32 Come, let us make our father drink wine, and we will lie with him, that we [q]may preserve the [6]lineage of our father." 33 So they made their father drink wine that night. And the firstborn went in and lay with her father, and he did not know when she lay down or when she arose.

34 It happened on the next day that the firstborn said to the younger, "Indeed I lay with my father last night; let us make him drink wine tonight also, and you go in and lie with him, that we may preserve the [7]lineage of our father." 35 Then they made their father drink wine that night also. And the younger arose and lay with him, and he did not know when she lay down or when she arose.

36 Thus both the daughters of Lot were with child by their father. 37 The firstborn bore a son and called his name Moab; [r]he is the father of the Moabites to this day. 38 And the younger, she also bore a son and called his name Ben-Ammi; [s]he is the father of the people of Ammon to this day.

Abraham and Abimelech

20 And Abraham journeyed from [a]there to the South, and dwelt between [b]Kadesh and Shur, and [c]stayed in Gerar. 2 Now Abraham said of Sarah his wife, [d]"She is my sister." And Abimelech king of Gerar sent and [e]took Sarah.

3 But [f]God came to Abimelech [g]in a dream by night, and said to him, [h]"Indeed you are a dead man because of the woman whom you have taken, for she is [i]a man's wife."

4 But Abimelech had not come near her; and he said, "Lord, [j]will You slay a righteous nation also? 5 Did he not say to me, 'She is my sister'? And she, even she herself said, 'He is my brother.' [k]In the [2]integrity of my heart and innocence of my hands I have done this."

6 And God said to him in a dream, "Yes, I know that you did this in the integrity of your heart.

■ 19:26 his wife looked back. Lot's wife is a sobering lesson against vacillation when God's judgment is at hand (Luke 17:28–37).

■ 19:29 remembered. See note on 8:1. Twice Lot was saved because of faithful Abraham (14:1–16; 19:1–29).

■ 19:30–38 The desperate act by Lot's daughters to preserve seed from their drunken father brings to a conclusion the tragic account of Lot that began with his separation from Abraham in 13:11. In spite of Lot's affiliation with Sodom and the unbelief of his family, the Lord protected his lineage and land because of his faith and his relationship to Abraham (Deut. 2:16–19).

■ 19:30 afraid to dwell in Zoar. See note on v. 16. Ironically, while Lot had sought to live in Zoar because of his fear of the mountains (v. 19), he now lives in the mountains for fear of Zoar. Note the contrast with Lot's prosperity and prospect in 13:1–13.

■ 19:31 old. He was too old to remarry and unlikely to father further descendants.

■ 19:32 drink wine . . . lie with him. See note on 9:21. The daughters' initiative contrasts with Lot, who apparently had made no effort to find spouses for his daughters. Their sexual immorality anticipates their descendants' seduction of Israel's men (Num. 25).

■ 19:37, 38 This genealogical conclusion (vv. 37, 38) begins the story of the bitter animosity of Moab and Ammon against Israel (Num. 23—25; 2 Kin. 3). The Moabites and Ammonites were rejected by God, not because of their questionable lineage, but because they mistreated Israel (Deut. 23:3–6; Neh. 13:1, 2). Ruth, an ancestor of Jesus Christ, was a Moabite (Ruth 4:18–22; Matt. 1:5), but through her faith she was eventually counted in the tribe of Judah.

■ 20:1–18 Again Abraham fails to trust God for protection, and resorts instead to deception (cf. 12:10–20). Despite Abraham's failure, God preserves the covenant line of promise, just as He had in Egypt.

■ 20:1 the South. See note on 12:9.

■ 20:2 my sister. See v. 11 and note on 11:29.

Abimelech. Lit. "my father is king" or "father of a king." This Abimelech was probably the father or grandfather of the Abimelech encountered by Isaac (26:1). A ruler of Tyre (c. 1375 B.C.) had this name, which may have been a royal title (Ps. 34; cf. 1 Sam. 27:2).

sent and took Sarah. See 12:15 and note. On the brink of Isaac's conception (18:10–14; 21:1, 2), the program of redemption through the seed of Abraham was placed in jeopardy. Salvation finally depends on the faithful Lord, not on unfaithful humans, and here God protected the purity of Sarah (vv. 4, 6).

■ 20:3 in a dream. God often communicated with His people through dreams in the Old Testament (28:12; 37:5–9; Num. 12:6). Sometimes such dreams were given to those outside the covenant community (31:24; 40:5; 41:1; Num. 22:9, 20; Dan. 2:1–45).

■ 20:4 will You slay a righteous nation. See 18:23, 32 and notes.

■ 20:5 integrity of my heart. God judges people without the written law by their consciences (3:8; 6:9; Rom. 2:14 and notes).

For [k]I also withheld you from sinning [l]against Me; therefore I did not let you touch her. 7 Now therefore, restore the man's wife; [m]for he is a prophet, and he will pray for you and you shall live. But if you do not restore her, [n]know that you shall surely die, you [o]and all who are yours."

8 So Abimelech rose early in the morning, called all his servants, and told all these things in their hearing; and the men were very much afraid. 9 And Abimelech called Abraham and said to him, "What have you done to us? How have I [3]offended you, [p]that you have brought on me and on my kingdom a great sin? You have done deeds to me [q]that ought not to be done." 10 Then Abimelech said to Abraham, "What did you have in view, that you have done this thing?"

11 And Abraham said, "Because I thought, surely [r]the fear of God is not in this place; and [s]they will kill me on account of my wife. 12 But indeed [t]she is truly my sister. She is the daughter of my father, but not the daughter of my mother; and she became my wife. 13 And it came to pass, when [u]God caused me to wander from my father's house, that I said to her, 'This is your kindness that you should do for me: in every place, wherever we go, [v]say of me, "He is my brother." ' "

14 Then Abimelech [w]took sheep, oxen, and male and female servants, and gave them to Abraham; and he restored Sarah his wife to him. 15 And Abimelech said, "See, [x]my land is before you; dwell where it pleases you." 16 Then to Sarah he said, "Behold, I have given your brother a thousand pieces of silver; [y]indeed this [4]vindicates you [z]before all who are with you and before everybody." Thus she was [5]rebuked.

17 So Abraham [a]prayed to God; and God [b]healed Abimelech, his wife, and his female servants. Then they bore children; 18 for the LORD [c]had closed up all the wombs of the house of Abimelech because of Sarah, Abraham's wife.

Isaac Is Born

21 And the LORD [a]visited Sarah as He had said, and the LORD did for Sarah [b]as He had spoken. 2 For Sarah [c]conceived and bore Abraham a son in his old age, [d]at the set time of which God had spoken to him. 3 And Abraham called the name of his son who was born to him—whom Sarah bore to him—[e]Isaac.[1] 4 Then Abraham [f]circumcised his son Isaac when he was eight days old, [g]as God had commanded him. 5 Now [h]Abraham was one hundred years old when his son Isaac was born to him. 6 And Sarah said, [i]"God has [2]made me laugh, and all who hear [j]will laugh with me." 7 She also said, "Who would have said to Abraham that Sarah would nurse children? [k]For I have borne him a son in his old age."

Hagar and Ishmael Depart

8 So the child grew and was weaned. And Abraham made a great feast on the same day that Isaac was weaned.

■ 20:7 prophet. The first use of this term in the Bible. Abraham was a man of God who received revelations and interceded for others (12:7; 15:1; 18:17 and notes).

■ 20:9 great sin. Adultery was considered a great sin by the peoples of the ancient Near East. Many ancient law codes, including that of Hammurabi, contained provisions for dealing with adultery (cf. 26:10; 39:9). See note on Ex. 20:14.

■ 20:11 the fear of God. Though this term often denotes the proper worship, reverence, and obedience of the true God (e.g., 22:12), here (and in 42:18) the expression probably means adherence (out of fear of divine judgment) to moral standards known through conscience.

■ 20:12 my sister. See notes on 11:29 and 12:12.

■ 20:14–16 Abimelech gave gifts to Abraham (vv. 14, 15) and Sarah (v. 16) to honor God and their special relationship to Him, not to compensate for his guilt (v. 16 note; cf. 12:19, 20). God not only delivered His chosen servants out of dreadful peril but rewarded them with unexpected riches.

■ 20:16 given your brother. Social convention demanded that the gift to Sarah be given through the male head of the family.

a thousand pieces of silver. A very large amount.

this vindicates you before all. Abimelech was guiltless and under no obligation to Abraham and Sarah (v. 6). Out of regard for the God of Abraham, however, Abimelech seeks to restore the honor that Sarah may have lost in the eyes of others.

rebuked. The text note reading (meaning "vindicated") better fits the context.

■ 20:17 Abraham prayed to God. See note on v. 7.

■ 21:1–7 The report of Isaac's birth concludes the story of Sarah's barrenness begun in 11:27–32. The covenantal arrangement is underscored: God keeps His promise to give Abraham a son by Sarah (vv. 1–2; 17:1–6, 15–16; 18:1–15), and Abraham responds in obedience by naming him Isaac (v. 3; 17:19) and circumcising him (vv. 4, 5; 17:9–14), while Sarah responds with praise (vv. 6, 7).

■ 21:1 visited. See 50:24 and note for this same expression of God's gracious intervention.

■ 21:2 in his old age, at the set time. See 17:17, 24; 18:11–14. Abraham's greater Offspring also came at the appointed time (Gal. 4:4).

■ 21:3 Isaac. See text note. Both Abraham and Sarah at first laughed in disbelief (17:17; 18:12), but when Isaac was born Sarah laughed for joy at the supernatural work of grace (v. 6).

■ 21:4 circumcised. See note on 17:12.

■ 21:6 will laugh. See note on v. 3.

■ 21:8–11 The expulsion of Hagar and Ishmael removed any threat to Isaac's inheritance. The accounts of the birth of Isaac and the removal of Ishmael are linked by another reference to laughter, Ishmael's "scoffing" at Isaac (v. 9 text note).

■ 21:8 weaned. This rite of passage from the dangerous stage of infancy to childhood occurred at about three years of age. Here the occasion is celebrated by a feast.

9 And Sarah saw the son of Hagar [l]the Egyptian, whom she had borne to Abraham, [m]scoffing.[3] 10 Therefore she said to Abraham. [n]"Cast out this bondwoman and her son; for the son of this bondwoman shall not be heir with my son, namely with Isaac." 11 And the matter was very [4]displeasing in Abraham's sight [o]because of his son.

12 But God said to Abraham, "Do not let it be displeasing in your sight because of the lad or because of your bondwoman. Whatever Sarah has said to you, listen to her voice; for [p]in Isaac your seed shall be called. 13 Yet I will also make [q]a nation of the son of the bondwoman, because he is your [5]seed."

14 So Abraham rose early in the morning, and took bread and [6]a skin of water; and putting it on her shoulder, he gave it and the boy to Hagar, and [r]sent her away. Then she departed and wandered in the Wilderness of Beersheba. 15 And the water in the skin was used up, and she placed the boy under one of the shrubs. 16 Then she went and sat down across from him at a distance of about a bowshot; for she said to herself, "Let me not see the death of the boy." So she sat opposite him, and lifted her voice and wept.

17 And [s]God heard the voice of the lad. Then the [t]angel of God called to Hagar out of heaven, and said to her, "What ails you, Hagar? Fear not, for God has heard the voice of the lad where he is. 18 Arise, lift up the lad and hold him with your hand, for [u]I will make him a great nation."

19 Then [v]God opened her eyes, and she saw a well of water. And she went and filled the skin with water, and gave the lad a drink. 20 So God [w]was with the lad; and he grew and dwelt in the wilderness, [x]and became an archer. 21 He dwelt in the Wilderness of Paran; and his mother [y]took a wife for him from the land of Egypt.

A Covenant with Abimelech

22 And it came to pass at that time that [z]Abimelech and Phichol, the commander of his army, spoke to Abraham, saying, [a]"God is with you in all that you do. 23 Now therefore, [b]swear[7] to me by God that you will not deal falsely with me, with my offspring, or with my posterity; but that according to the kindness that I have done to you, you will do to me and to the land in which you have dwelt."

24 And Abraham said, "I will swear."

25 Then Abraham rebuked Abimelech because of a well of water which Abimelech's servants [c]had seized. 26 And Abimelech said, "I do not know who has done this thing; you did not tell me, nor had I heard of it until today." 27 So Abraham took sheep and oxen and gave them to Abimelech, and the two of them [d]made a [8]covenant. 28 And Abraham set seven ewe lambs of the flock by themselves.

29 Then Abimelech asked Abraham, [e]"What is the meaning of these seven ewe lambs which you have set by themselves?"

30 And he said, "You will take these seven ewe lambs from my hand, that [f]they may be my witness that I have dug this well." 31 Therefore he [g]called that place [9]Beersheba, because the two of them swore an oath there.

■ 21:9 Sarah saw. From her experience with Hagar (ch. 16) Sarah perceived the significance of Ishmael's disdain for Isaac and his threat to her son's inheritance.

scoffing. The Hebrew root means "to laugh," but the form here signifies "to laugh at" or "make sport of" (text note). The son of the slave woman persecuted the son of the free (Gal. 4:29).

■ 21:10 Cast out. So as to disinherit (cf. 25:5, 6).

bondwoman. The Hebrew word here differs from the one translated "maidservant" in 16:1 (16:1 note). In her anger Sarah stresses Hagar's servile status—an indication of the animosity between these two rivals.

■ 21:11 displeasing. As a father, Abraham felt genuine love and affection for Ishmael (17:18). In addition, there may have been customs prohibiting the expulsion of Hagar and her son (16:6 note).

■ 21:12 your seed shall be called. God's promises will reach their fulfillment through the miraculous offspring, Isaac, not through the natural (Rom. 9:7, 8). See note on 17:7.

■ 21:13 nation. See v. 18. Because of God's great love for Abraham, even his natural children were blessed on earth, though they were not part of the line of covenant promise (17:6 and note).

■ 21:21 Wilderness of Paran. A region in the east-central portion of the Sinai peninsula. Ishmael's departure from the covenant family seals his destiny; he will not inherit the divine promises of offspring and land.

Egypt. See 16:1.

■ 21:22–34 Through divine blessing, Abraham and his household had become a formidable presence in the land (14:13; 23:6). That a Philistine king and his commander would seek a permanent non-aggression pact with Abraham and his descendants provides concrete evidence of God's rich covenant blessing on Abraham.

■ 21:22 Abimelech. See note on 20:2. Abraham's first encounter with Abimelech pertained to seed (ch. 20); this one, to land.

Phichol. Probably a title, rather than a personal name, for the Philistine army commander (26:26).

■ 21:23 by God. The oaths were in God's name (vv. 31, 33; Deut. 6:13 note).

my posterity. While this treaty was intended to endure, tensions surfaced as early as the next generation (26:23–31).

■ 21:30 take . . . seven ewe lambs. By accepting the gift, Abimelech was obliged to acknowledge Abraham's right to the well. The covenant had to be ratified by witnesses and oaths (v. 31).

■ 21:31 swore. A verbal agreement to the covenant terms was not enough (v. 23). It had to be ratified by an oath (v. 31).

32 Thus they made a covenant at Beersheba. So Abimelech rose with Phichol, the commander of his army, and they returned to the land of the Philistines. 33 Then Abraham planted a tamarisk tree in Beersheba, and [h]there called on the name of the LORD, [i]the Everlasting God. 34 And Abraham stayed in the land of the Philistines many days.

Abraham's Faith Confirmed

22 Now it came to pass after these things that [a]God tested Abraham, and said to him, "Abraham!"

And he said, "Here I am."

2 Then He said, "Take now your son, [b]your only son Isaac, whom you [c]love, and go [d]to the land of Moriah, and offer him there as a [e]burnt offering on one of the mountains of which I shall tell you."

3 So Abraham rose early in the morning and saddled his donkey, and took two of his young men with him, and Isaac his son; and he split the wood for the burnt offering, and arose and went to the place of which God had told him. 4 Then on the third day Abraham lifted his eyes and saw the place afar off. 5 And Abraham said to his young men, "Stay here with the donkey; the [f]lad and I will go yonder and worship, and we will [f]come back to you."

6 So Abraham took the wood of the burnt offering and [g]laid it on Isaac his son; and he took the fire in his hand, and a knife, and the two of them went together. 7 But Isaac spoke to Abraham his father and said, "My father!"

And he said, "Here I am, my son."

Then he said, "Look, the fire and the wood, but where is the [2]lamb for a burnt offering?"

8 And Abraham said, "My son, God will provide for Himself the [h]lamb for a [i]burnt offering." So the two of them went together.

9 Then they came to the place of which God had told him. And Abraham built an altar there and placed the wood in order; and he bound Isaac his son and [j]laid him on the altar, upon the wood. 10 And Abraham stretched out his hand and took the knife to slay his son.

11 But the [k]Angel of the LORD called to him from heaven and said, "Abraham, Abraham!"

So he said, "Here I am."

12 And He said, [l]"Do not lay your hand on the lad, or do anything to him; for [m]now I know that you fear God, since you have not [n]withheld your son, your only son, from Me."

13 Then Abraham lifted his eyes and looked, and there behind him was a ram caught in a thicket by its horns. So Abraham went and took the ram, and offered it up for a burnt offering

■ 21:33 tamarisk tree. The planting of this small tree in the Negev probably served as a landmark of God's grace, a pledge that Abraham would stay in the land, and perhaps as a symbol of God's shading presence.

Everlasting God. Hebrew El Olam. See note on 14:19.

■ 21:34 stayed. The Hebrew term here may be translated "sojourn" or "stay for a while." It denotes a resident alien (Ex. 6:4 text note; Heb. 11:9, 13).

■ 22:1–19 Having already graciously committed Himself to Abraham, God tested Abraham's obedience. In his obedience, Abraham displayed his full commitment to the Lord, symbolically receiving Isaac, the child of promise, back from death (vv. 1–12). God's provision of the ram typifies the sacrifice of Jesus Christ, who died instead of the elect so that they would live (vv. 13–14). In taking an oath to bless Abraham and all nations through him, God guaranteed the promise to Abraham's offspring (vv. 15–19). See note on Heb. 11:17–19.

■ 22:1 tested. God tests His saints to prove the quality of their faith and obedience, often through adversity or hardship (Ex. 20:20; Deut. 8:2; 2 Chr. 32:31). The Hebrew here does not mean "enticed to do wrong." People, however, must not put God to the test (Ex. 17:2, 7; Deut. 6:16).

Here I am. So also Moses (Ex. 3:4), Samuel (1 Sam. 3:4), and Isaiah (Is. 6:8). See also Christ's own words to the same effect (Heb. 10:7; cf. Ps. 40:7, 8).

■ 22:2 your only son . . . whom you love. Isaac is the beloved son, the only son of the promise (25:1–18 note). Ishmael had been disinherited and sent away (21:10, 14), leaving Isaac as Abraham's only son. These terms are applied to Christ in the New Testament (Matt. 3:17; 17:5; John 3:16; Eph. 1:6; 2 Pet. 1:17).

land of Moriah. Later the site of Israel's temple in Jerusalem (2 Chr. 3:1).

offer him. This command is perplexing at first. Without knowing what God really had in mind (cf. Ex. 13:11–13; 22:29; 34:19, 20), the command seems to contradict the sixth commandment (Ex. 20:13). As the narrative unfolds, however, it is evident that the test was whether Abraham would proceed with the preparations for sacrifice while holding steadfastly to the promise of 21:12, "In Isaac your seed shall be called." Abraham knew that God was obliged to keep His promise, and he knew that a dead Isaac could not continue the covenant line. Heb. 11:19 unveils Abraham's secret: he concluded "that God was able to raise [Isaac] up, even from the dead."

burnt offering. See note on 8:20.

■ 22:3 early in the morning. Another example of Abraham's prompt obedience (17:23 and note).

■ 22:8 provide . . . the lamb. A type of Jesus Christ (John 1:29, 36).

■ 22:11 Angel of the LORD. See note on 16:7.

■ 22:12 you have not withheld. Abraham's faith was confirmed by his obedience (Gal. 5:6; Heb. 11:17; James 2:21 note).

■ 22:13 instead of his son. The substitutionary purpose of the sacrifice is evident, and points forward to the sacrifice of Christ who died in our stead (Mark 10:45; Rom. 8:32; 2 Cor. 5:21; Titus 2:14).

instead of his son. [14] And Abraham called the name of the place, [3]The-LORD-Will-Provide; as it is said to this day, "In the Mount of the LORD it shall be provided."

[15] Then the Angel of the LORD called to Abraham a second time out of heaven, [16] and said: [o]"By Myself I have sworn, says the LORD, because you have done this thing, and have not withheld your son, your only son— [17] blessing I will [p]bless you, and multiplying I will multiply your descendants [q]as the stars of the heaven [r]and as the sand which is on the seashore; and [s]your descendants shall possess the gate of their enemies. [18] [t]In your seed all the nations of the earth shall be blessed, [u]because you have obeyed My voice." [19] So Abraham returned to his young men, and they rose and went together to [v]Beersheba; and Abraham dwelt at Beersheba.

The Family of Nahor

[20] Now it came to pass after these things that it was told Abraham, saying, "Indeed [w]Milcah also has borne children to your brother Nahor: [21] [x]Huz his firstborn, Buz his brother, Kemuel the father [y]of Aram, [22] Chesed, Hazo, Pildash, Jidlaph, and Bethuel." [23] And [z]Bethuel begot [4]Rebekah. These eight Milcah bore to Nahor, Abraham's brother. [24] His concubine, whose name was Reumah, also bore Tebah, Gaham, Thahash, and Maachah.

■ 22:14 The-LORD-Will-Provide. The Hebrew word here translated "provide" means "see," or "see to it" (used in vv. 4, 8, 13, 14). The name by which Abraham commemorates the event shows that he perceives God's revelation of His saving purpose.

■ 22:16 By Myself I have sworn. God reinforces the surety of His infallible promise by an oath (15:8–21; 22:17; cf. Heb. 6:13–18). While sinful and fallible human beings swear by an authority higher than themselves, God, the supreme Being and Authority, swears by Himself (Heb. 6:13 note).

not withheld . . . your only son. Abraham's action points forward to God's provision of "His only begotten Son" as the final sacrifice for sin (John 3:16; Rom. 8:32).

■ 22:18 because you have obeyed My voice. See notes on 17:2 and 18:19.

■ 22:20—25:11 This final section of the account of Terah provides a transition from the patriarchal headship of Abraham to that of Isaac (2:4 note; Introduction: Outline). It narrates Sarah's death (ch. 23), Isaac's marriage to Rebekah (ch. 24), the dismissal of Abraham's other children, leaving Isaac as the sole heir (25:1–6), and Abraham's death (25:7–11).

■ 22:20–24 The twelve children of Nahor (eight by the wife and four from the concubine) parallel the twelve tribes of Israel (30:1–24; 35:16–18; 49:28).

■ 22:23 Rebekah. Isaac's future wife is introduced (ch. 24). Her father Bethuel was the son of Milcah, the daughter of Haran and wife of Nahor, Abraham's brothers (11:28 note).

The Abrahamic Covenant (22:15–18)

Genesis 12:1–3	God initiated His covenant with Abram when he was living in Ur of the Chaldeans, promising a land, descendants and blessing.
Genesis 12:4, 5	Abram went with his family to Haran, lived there for a time, and left at the age of 75.
Genesis 13:14–17	After Lot separated from Abram, God again promised the land to him and his descendants.
Genesis 15:1–21	This covenant was ratified when God passed between the sacrificial animals Abram laid before God.
Genesis 17:1–27	When Abram was 99, God renewed His covenant, changing Abram's name to Abraham ("Father of a Multitude"). Sign of the covenant: circumcision.
Genesis 22:15–18	Confirmation of the covenant because of Abraham's obedience.

The Abrahamic covenant was foundational to other covenants:
- The promise of land in the Palestinian covenant (Deut. 30:1–10)
- The promise of kingly descendants in the Davidic covenant (2 Sam. 7:12–16)
- The promise of blessing in the "old" and "new" covenants (Ex. 19:3–6; Jer. 31:31–40)

Sarah's Death and Burial

23 Sarah lived one hundred and twenty-seven years; these were the years of the life of Sarah. 2 So Sarah died in [a]Kirjath Arba (that is, [b]Hebron) in the land of Canaan, and Abraham came to mourn for Sarah and to weep for her.

3 Then Abraham stood up from before his dead, and spoke to the sons of [c]Heth, saying, 4 [d]"I am a foreigner and a visitor among you. [e]Give me property for a burial place among you, that I may bury my dead out of my sight."

5 And the sons of Heth answered Abraham, saying to him, 6 "Hear us, my lord: You are [f]a [g]mighty prince among us; bury your dead in the choicest of our burial places. None of us will withhold from you his burial place, that you may bury your dead."

7 Then Abraham stood up and bowed himself to the people of the land, the sons of Heth. 8 And he spoke with them, saying, "If it is your wish that I bury my dead out of my sight, hear me, and [z]meet with Ephron the son of Zohar for me, 9 that he may give me the cave of [g]Machpelah which he has, which is at the end of his field. Let him give it to me at the full price, as property for a burial place among you."

10 Now Ephron dwelt among the sons of Heth; and Ephron the Hittite answered Abraham in the presence of the sons of Heth, all who [h]entered at the gate of his city, saying, 11 [i]"No, my lord, hear me: I give you the field and the cave that is in it; I give it to you in the presence of the sons of my people. I give it to you. Bury your dead!"

12 Then Abraham bowed himself down before the people of the land; 13 and he spoke to Ephron in the hearing of the people of the land, saying, "If you will give it, please hear me. I will give you money for the field; take it from me and I will bury my dead there."

14 And Ephron answered Abraham, saying to him, 15 "My lord, listen to me; the land is worth four hundred [j]shekels of silver. What is that between you and me? So bury your dead." 16 And Abraham listened to Ephron; and Abraham [k]weighed out the silver for Ephron which he had named in the hearing of the sons of Heth, four hundred shekels of silver, currency of the merchants.

17 So [l]the field of Ephron which was in Machpelah, which was before Mamre, the field and the cave which was in it, and all the trees that were in the field, which were within all the surrounding borders, were deeded 18 to Abraham as a possession in the presence of the sons of Heth, before all who went in at the gate of his city.

19 And after this, Abraham buried Sarah his wife in the cave of the field of Machpelah, before Mamre (that is, Hebron) in the land of Canaan. 20 So the field and the cave that is in it [m]were deeded to Abraham by the sons of Heth as property for a burial place.

A Bride for Isaac

24 Now Abraham [a]was old, well advanced in age; and the LORD [b]had blessed Abraham in all things. 2 So Abraham said [c]to the oldest servant of his house, who [d]ruled over all that he had, "Please, [e]put your hand under my thigh, 3 and I will make you [f]swear[l] by the LORD, the

■ 23:3–18 The extensive description of the negotiation and sale of the cave demonstrates that Abraham secured an impeccable legal claim to the field in Machpelah. Anticipating the greater fulfillment of the land grant promise (13:15 note), Abraham now became legal heir to a small plot in the Promised Land.

■ 23:3 sons of Heth. The Hittites (10:15 note).

■ 23:4 a foreigner and a visitor. Though Abraham lived in the Promised Land as a sojourner (21:34 note; Heb. 11:9, 13), he demonstrated his faith in the covenant promises by buying his first piece of property in the Promised Land—a cave to serve as a burial site.

■ 23:6 mighty prince. Or, "a prince of God" (text note). Though some suggest that this was merely respectful flattery, it is likely that the citizens of Hebron had discerned God's blessing on Abraham (cf. 21:22).

■ 23:10 gate. Legal transactions took place at the gates of ancient Near Eastern cities (19:1 note; Ruth 4:1, 2).

■ 23:11 I give. As the excessive price requested (v. 15 note) and Abraham's offer of money (v. 13) indicate, Ephron's offer to give the cave and field was part of the Near Eastern bargaining ritual. The seeming generosity of the offer was probably intended either to obligate Abraham to respond with a gift of even greater value (if accepted) or to discourage Abraham from lengthy negotiation over the price.

■ 23:15 four hundred shekels. A high price, especially when compared with the field that Jeremiah bought for seventeen shekels (Jer. 32:9) and with the hill of Samaria that Omri purchased for two talents of silver (six thousand shekels, 1 Kin. 16:24).

■ 23:16 Abraham weighed out. Abraham was willing to pay an excessive price in return for an unimpeachable sale.

■ 23:19 buried . . . in the cave. In faithful expectation that God would fulfill the covenant promise of land (13:15 and note), Abraham sought to anchor his descendants in the Promised Land (24:6–9; 25:9; 49:30; 50:13).

■ 24:1–9 See "Honest Speech, Oaths, and Vows" at Neh. 5:12.

■ 24:2 oldest servant. Abraham assigned this important mission only to his most trusted manager, perhaps Eliezer of Damascus (15:2, 3).

put your hand under my thigh. The loins were viewed as the source of vital and procreative power (Deut. 33:11; Job 40:16; Heb. 7:10). Such an oath was inviolable, even after the death of the one to whom it was sworn (47:29–31).

■ 24:3 the LORD . . . of the earth. See 14:22.

not . . . from the daughters of the Canaanites. Abraham sets an example for his descendants to secure wives from the blessed Semites, not the cursed Canaanites (9:24–27; Deut. 7:1–4).

God of heaven and the God of the earth, that [g]you will not take a wife for my son from the daughters of the Canaanites, among whom I dwell; 4 [h]but you shall go [i]to my country and to my family, and take a wife for my son Isaac."

5 And the servant said to him, "Perhaps the woman will not be willing to follow me to this land. Must I take your son back to the land from which you came?"

6 But Abraham said to him, "Beware that you do not take my son back there. 7 The LORD God of heaven, who [j]took me from my father's house and from the land of my family, and who spoke to me and swore to me, saying, [k]'To your [2]descendants I give this land,' [l]He will send His angel before you, and you shall take a wife for my son from there. 8 And if the woman is not willing to follow you, then [m]you will be released from this oath; only do not take my son back there." 9 So the servant put his hand under the thigh of Abraham his master, and swore to him concerning this matter.

10 Then the servant took ten of his master's camels and departed, [n]for all his master's goods were in his hand. And he arose and went to Mesopotamia, to [o]the city of Nahor. 11 And he made his camels kneel down outside the city by a well of water at evening time, the time [p]when women go out to draw water. 12 Then he [q]said, "O LORD God of my master Abraham, please [r]give me success this day, and show kindness to my master Abraham. 13 Behold, here [s]I stand by the well of water, and [t]the daughters of the men of the city are coming out to draw water. 14 Now let it be that the young woman to whom I say, 'Please let down your pitcher that I may drink,' and she says, 'Drink, and I will also give your camels a drink'—let her be the one You have appointed for Your servant Isaac. And [u]by this I will know that You have shown kindness to my master."

15 And it happened, [v]before he had finished speaking, that behold, [w]Rebekah,[3] who was born to Bethuel, son of [x]Milcah, the wife of Nahor, Abraham's brother, came out with her pitcher on her shoulder. 16 Now the young woman [y]was very beautiful to behold, a virgin; no man had known her. And she went down to the well, filled her pitcher, and came up. 17 And the servant ran to meet her and said, "Please let me drink a little water from your pitcher."

18 [z]So she said, "Drink, my lord." Then she quickly let her pitcher down to her hand, and gave him a drink. 19 And when she had finished giving him a drink, she said, "I will draw water for your camels also, until they have finished drinking." 20 Then she quickly emptied her pitcher into the trough, ran back to the well to draw water, and drew for all his camels. 21 And the man, wondering at her, remained silent so as to know whether [a]the LORD had made his journey prosperous or not.

22 So it was, when the camels had finished drinking, that the man took a golden [b]nose ring weighing half a shekel, and two bracelets for her wrists weighing ten shekels of gold, 23 and said, "Whose daughter are you? Tell me, please, is there room in your father's house for us [4]to lodge?"

24 So she said to him, [c]"I am the daughter of Bethuel, Milcah's son, whom she bore to Nahor." 25 Moreover she said to him, "We have both straw and feed enough, and room to lodge."

26 Then the man [d]bowed down his head and worshiped the LORD. 27 And he said, [e]"Blessed be the LORD God of my master Abraham, who has not forsaken [f]His mercy and His truth toward my master. As for me, being on the way, the LORD [g]led me to the house of my master's brethren." 28 So the young woman ran and told her mother's household these things.

29 Now Rebekah had a brother whose name was [h]Laban, and Laban ran out to the man by the well. 30 So it came to pass, when he saw the nose ring, and the bracelets on his sister's wrists, and when he heard the words of his sister Rebekah, saying, "Thus the man spoke to me," that he went to the man. And there he stood by the camels at the well. 31 And he said, "Come in, [i]O

■ 24:6 do not take my son back there. See note on 23:19.

■ 24:7 I give . . . He will send. Claiming God's covenant promise (12:7), Abraham looks forward to God's continuing guidance and provision. Abraham had learned from his experience with Hagar not to trust the flesh to secure the promise but to rely on God's supernatural provision (ch. 16).

■ 24:12 O LORD God. The meeting of Abraham's servant and Rebekah was framed in prayer (vv. 26, 27).

kindness. The Hebrew word (hesed) means loyalty to a covenant relationship (Ex. 15:13 note).

■ 24:14 by this I will know. A request for a sign was appropriate in connection with the servant's mission to advance the messianic line (cf. Is. 7:10–14).

■ 24:15 Rebekah. See note on 22:23.

■ 24:16 a virgin. Her virginity was important to ensure that the offspring would be Isaac's.

■ 24:27 the LORD led me. God guides His saints through providential acts (cf. 50:20). Later in the Pentateuch the expression is used for God's special guidance of His people through the wilderness to the Promised Land (Ex. 13:17, 21; 15:13).

■ 24:29 Laban. Laban took responsibility for the family, probably because Bethuel was incapacitated (v. 50 and note).

blessed of the LORD! Why do you stand outside? For I have prepared the house, and a place for the camels."

32 Then the man came to the house. And he unloaded the camels, and [j]provided straw and feed for the camels, and water to [k]wash his feet and the feet of the men who were with him. 33 Food was set before him to eat, but he said, [l]"I will not eat until I have told about my errand."

And he said, "Speak on."

34 So he said, "I am Abraham's servant. 35 The LORD [m]has blessed my master greatly, and he has become great; and He has given him flocks and herds, silver and gold, male and female servants, and camels and donkeys. 36 And Sarah my master's wife [n]bore a son to my master when she was old; and [o]to him he has given all that he has. 37 Now my master [p]made me swear, saying, 'You shall not take a wife for my son from the daughters of the Canaanites, in whose land I dwell; 38 [q]but you shall go to my father's house and to my family, and take a wife for my son.' 39 [r]And I said to my master, 'Perhaps the woman will not follow me.' 40 [s]But he said to me, 'The LORD, [t]before whom I walk, will send His angel with you and [5]prosper your way; and you shall take a wife for my son from my family and from my father's house. 41 [u]You will be clear from this oath when you arrive among my family; for if they will not give her to you, then you will be released from my oath.'

42 "And this day I came to the well and said, [v]'O LORD God of my master Abraham, if You will now prosper the way in which I go, 43 [w]behold, I stand by the well of water; and it shall come to pass that when the virgin comes out to draw water, and I say to her, "Please give me a little water from your pitcher to drink," 44 and she says to me, "Drink, and I will draw for your camels also,"—let her be the woman whom the LORD has appointed for my master's son.'

45 [x]"But before I had finished [y]speaking in my heart, there was Rebekah, coming out with her pitcher on her shoulder; and she went down to the well and drew water. And I said to her, 'Please let me drink.' 46 And she made haste and let her pitcher down from her shoulder, and said, 'Drink, and I will give your camels a drink also.' So I drank, and she gave the camels a drink also. 47 Then I asked her, and said, 'Whose daughter are you?' And she said, 'The daughter of Bethuel, Nahor's son, whom Milcah bore to him.' So I put the nose ring on her nose and the bracelets on her wrists. 48 [z]And I bowed my head and worshiped the LORD, and blessed the LORD God of my master Abraham, who had led me in the way of truth to [a]take the daughter of my master's brother for his son. 49 Now if you will [b]deal kindly and truly with my master, tell me. And if not, tell me, that I may turn to the right hand or to the left."

50 Then Laban and Bethuel answered and said, [c]"The thing comes from the LORD; we cannot [d]speak to you either bad or good. 51 [e]Here is Rebekah before you; take her and go, and let her be your master's son's wife, as the LORD has spoken."

52 And it came to pass, when Abraham's servant heard their words, that [f]he worshiped the LORD, bowing himself to the earth. 53 Then the servant brought out [g]jewelry of silver, jewelry of gold, and clothing, and gave them to Rebekah. He also gave [h]precious things to her brother and to her mother.

54 And he and the men who were with him ate and drank and stayed all night. Then they arose in the morning, and he said, [i]"Send me away to my master."

55 But her brother and her mother said, "Let the young woman stay with us a few days, at least ten; after that she may go."

56 And he said to them, "Do not [6]hinder me, since the LORD has prospered my way; send me away so that I may go to my master."

57 So they said, "We will call the young woman and ask her personally." 58 Then they called Rebekah and said to her, "Will you go with this man?"

And she said, "I will go."

59 So they sent away Rebekah their sister [j]and her nurse, and Abraham's servant and his men. 60 And they blessed Rebekah and said to her:

■ 24:33 not eat until I have told. The servant recounts the story (vv. 34–48) in detail so that Rebekah and her family will acknowledge the hand of the Lord (v. 50).

■ 24:36 he has given all that he has. An important detail, considering Abraham's considerable wealth (cf. 25:5, 6).

■ 24:50 Laban and Bethuel. The irregular sequence of mentioning the son before the father suggests that Bethuel was incapacitated. In v. 55 only the brother and mother are mentioned (cf. v. 28).

The thing comes from the LORD. They acknowledged God's providence in the matter.

[l]And may your descendants possess
The gates of those who hate them."

61 Then Rebekah and her maids arose, and they rode on the camels and followed the man. So the servant took Rebekah and departed.

62 Now Isaac came from the way of [m]Beer Lahai Roi, for he dwelt in the South. 63 And Isaac went out [n]to meditate in the field in the evening; and he lifted his eyes and looked, and there, the camels were coming. 64 Then Rebekah lifted her eyes, and when she saw Isaac [o]she dismounted from her camel; 65 for she had said to the servant, "Who is this man walking in the field to meet us?"

The servant said, "It is my master." So she took a veil and covered herself.

66 And the servant told Isaac all the things that he had done. 67 Then Isaac brought her into his mother Sarah's tent; and he [p]took Rebekah and she became his wife, and he loved her. So Isaac [q]was comforted after his mother's death.

Abraham and Keturah

25 Abraham again took a wife, and her name was [a]Keturah. 2 And [b]she bore him Zimran, Jokshan, Medan, Midian, Ishbak, and Shuah. 3 Jokshan begot Sheba and Dedan. And the sons of Dedan were Asshurim, Letushim, and Leummim. 4 And the sons of Midian were Ephah, Epher, Hanoch, Abidah, and Eldaah. All these were the children of Keturah.

5 And [c]Abraham gave all that he had to Isaac. 6 But Abraham gave gifts to the sons of the concubines which Abraham had; and while he was still living he [d]sent them eastward, away from Isaac his son, to [e]the country of the east.

Abraham's Death and Burial

7 This is the sum of the years of Abraham's life which he lived: one hundred and seventy-five years. 8 Then Abraham breathed his last and [f]died in a good old age, an old man and full of years, and [g]was gathered to his people. 9 And [h]his sons Isaac and Ishmael buried him in the cave of [i]Machpelah, which is before Mamre, in the field of Ephron the son of Zohar the Hittite, 10 [j]the field which Abraham purchased from the sons of Heth. [k]There Abraham was buried, and Sarah his wife. 11 And it came to pass, after the death of Abraham, that God blessed his son Isaac. And Isaac dwelt at [l]Beer Lahai Roi.

The Families of Ishmael and Isaac

12 Now this is the [m]genealogy of Ishmael, Abraham's son, whom Hagar the Egyptian, Sarah's maidservant, bore to Abraham. 13 And [n]these were the names of the sons of Ishmael, by their names, according to their generations: The firstborn of Ishmael, Nebajoth; then Kedar, Adbeel, Mibsam, 14 Mishma, Dumah, Massa, 15 [1]Hadar, Tema, Jetur, Naphish, and Kedemah. 16 These were the sons of Ishmael and these were their names, by their towns and their [2]settlements, ■ 24:64, 65 Rebekah dismounted as a sign of respect for her new husband (cf. 1 Sam. 25:23). The customary bridal veil shielded the bride's face from the husband until the consummation of the marriage (cf. Song 4:1).

■ 24:66 told Isaac. Abraham lived another 35 years after Isaac's marriage (21:5; 25:7, 9, 20). As the attention shifts to Isaac, the narrative omits the servant's report to Abraham and goes directly to the future patriarch.

■ 24:67 brought . . . took . . . loved her. God granted complete success to the journey. In obedience to God both Isaac and Rebekah found fulfillment.

his mother Sarah's tent. Rebekah replaced Sarah as matriarch of the family.

■ 25:1–18 The genealogies that precede (vv. 1–4) and follow (vv. 12–18) the account of Abraham's death (vv. 7–11) are of Abraham's natural sons. They highlight that the offspring through Sarah is miraculous, that Abraham's many natural offspring in no way disadvantage Isaac's inheritance in the land (vv. 5–6), and that the elect one has a blood relation, but not a spiritual bond, with the natural offspring. Isaac was Abraham's "only son" of promise (22:2 and note).

■ 25:1 again took a wife. Keturah was a concubine (v. 6; 1 Chr. 1:32). No attempt is made to date this secondary offspring of Abraham.

■ 25:2–4 Some of these names are associated with Syria and Arabia.

■ 25:5 gave all that he had to Isaac. See 24:36. Abraham dispossessed his children by Keturah as he had dispossessed Ishmael, the son of Hagar (21:10 and note).

■ 25:6 while he was still living. Abraham himself legally secured Isaac's inheritance in the land.

■ 25:8 died. Abraham died in faith, seeing the promises afar off (Heb. 11:13–16).

was gathered to his people. A Hebrew idiom meaning that the deceased had entered the realm of death to join his ancestors (v. 17; 35:29 and text note; 49:29, 33; Deut. 32:50).

■ 25:9 in the cave. See ch. 23; 35:27–29; 49:29–32.

■ 25:12–18 The genealogy of Ishmael demonstrates God's faithfulness in keeping His promise to Abraham (17:20).

■ 25:12 this is the genealogy. See note on 2:4.

■ 25:13–15 Some of these names are Arabic, and others are attested in extrabiblical texts as northwest Arabian tribes.

■ 25:16 twelve princes. See 17:20.

[o]twelve princes according to their nations. [17] These were the years of the life of Ishmael: one hundred and thirty-seven years; and [p]he breathed his last and died, and was gathered to his people. [18] [q](They dwelt from Havilah as far as Shur, which is east of Egypt as you go toward Assyria.) He [3]died [r]in the presence of all his brethren.

[19] This is the [s]genealogy of Isaac, Abraham's son. [t]Abraham begot Isaac. [20] Isaac was forty years old when he took Rebekah as wife, [u]the daughter of Bethuel the Syrian of Padan Aram, [v]the sister of Laban the Syrian. [21] Now Isaac pleaded with the LORD for his wife, because she was barren; [w]and the LORD granted his plea, [x]and Rebekah his wife conceived. [22] But the children struggled together within her; and she said, "If all is well, why am I like this?" [y]So she went to inquire of the LORD.

[23] And the LORD said to her:

[z]"Two nations are in your womb,
Two peoples shall be separated from your body;
One people shall be stronger than [a]the other,
[b]And the older shall serve the younger."

[24] So when her days were fulfilled for her to give birth, indeed there were twins in her womb. [25] And the first came out red. He was [c]like a hairy garment all over; so they called his name [4]Esau. [26] Afterward his brother came out, and [d]his hand took hold of Esau's heel; so [e]his name was called [5]Jacob. Isaac was sixty years old when she bore them.

[27] So the boys grew. And Esau was [f]a skillful hunter, a man of the field; but Jacob was [g]a [6]mild man, [h]dwelling in tents. [28] And Isaac loved Esau because he [i]ate of his game, [j]but Rebekah loved Jacob.

Esau Sells His Birthright

[29] Now Jacob cooked a stew; and Esau came in from the field, and he was weary. [30] And Esau said to Jacob, "Please feed me with that same red stew, for I am weary." Therefore his name was called [7]Edom.

■ 25:18 died in the presence of all his brethren. The Hebrew of this phrase is difficult to render. It could also mean that he settled down in the presence of his brethren, or that he lived in hostility against his brethren (cf. 16:20).

■ 25:19—35:29 The account of Isaac is one of conflict between Isaac and Rebekah (v. 28; ch. 27), Jacob and Esau (25:19–34; chs. 27; 32; 33), Jacob and Laban (chs. 29—31), Leah and Rachel (29:31—30:24), and finally and decisively between Jacob and the Angel of the Lord (32:22–32; cf. 16:7 note). At the story's core is the promise to Abraham (24:7), passed on to Isaac and Jacob (28:3, 4, 13–15; 35:11–12). The promise is elaborated to include God's protective presence (28:15; 31:42; 32:9, 12; 35:3). Overarching the entire story is God's sovereign good pleasure (Rom. 9:10–12). He opened Rebekah's barren womb, established the supremacy of Jacob over Esau, contravened human customs regarding firstborn rights, and overrode Isaac's patriarchal authority, Laban's social position, and Esau's military might.

■ 25:19–26 The struggle for supremacy between Jacob and Esau in the womb and the Lord's sovereign choice of Jacob form a fitting introduction to this account and sets its tone (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes).

■ 25:19 the genealogy of Isaac. Or, "the account of Isaac" (2:4 note). This account (25:19—35:29) covers the period from Isaac's marriage to his death. Much of the story, however, features Jacob (Introduction: Outline). After Isaac tries to thwart God's blessing on Jacob (ch. 27), he is not heard from again until his death (35:27–29).

■ 25:20 Padan Aram. The region surrounding the city of Haran in northern Mesopotamia (24:10; 28:2).

■ 25:21 pleaded . . . barren. The next generation also had to learn that the seed of promise is a gift of God's grace (11:30; 17:15, 16; 18:1–15; 21:1–7), and sovereignly chosen by Him (v. 23). Both Isaac's wife and offspring were secured through prayer (24:12).

■ 25:23 the LORD said. God often displayed His sovereign control through prophecies given on the threshold of new historical eras: Adam and Eve (3:15); Noah's descendants (9:25–27); Abraham (12:1–3); Jacob and Esau (27:27–29, 39, 40); and Joseph and his brothers (37:1–11). See Introduction: Characteristics and Themes.

older shall serve the younger. Jacob owed his supremacy to sovereign election, not natural rights (cf. Deut. 21:15–17). The prophecy found fulfillment as Esau's descendants, the Edomites, were often subjugated by Israel, and at last were included in the Jewish state during the intertestamental period (1 Sam. 14:47; 2 Sam. 8:13, 14; 2 Kin. 14:7).

God's choice of Jacob (the younger) over Esau (the older) is a paradigmatic example of divine sovereign election (Rom. 9:9–13, 18–23). God deals justly with all, but He has mercy on some (Matt. 20:1–16).

■ 25:25 hairy. The Hebrew word sounds like "Seir," where Esau later lived (36:8).

■ 25:26 Jacob. See text note. Though destined to supplant his brother, Jacob tarnished his name to mean "deceitful" through cunning efforts to gain his brother's privilege (25:29–34; 27:1–40).

■ 25:27–34 Esau was a profane, rough-and-ready man of the field who shortsightedly gratified his appetite and despised the family's future inheritance. Despite his dishonesty, Jacob had farsightedness to value the inheritance.

■ 25:28 Isaac loved . . . Rebekah loved. Parental favoritism further set the family at loggerheads. God's sovereign choice had to prevail over Isaac's appetite (27:18–27), for Isaac had the legal authority to pass on the family's inheritance and blessing (24:36; 25:5).

■ 25:30 Please feed me. The Hebrew indicates the impulsive and hurried request of one who lived for the moment. Esau's impulsiveness is further revealed in v. 32.

that same red stew. Lit. "the red stuff, that red stuff." Esau's clumsy repetition of the Hebrew word for "red" ('adom) recalls v. 25, and explains the name by which his descendants were known (Hebrew 'edom).

31 But Jacob said, "Sell me your birthright as of this day."
32 And Esau said, "Look, I am about to die; so [k]what is this birthright to me?"
33 Then Jacob said, [s]"Swear to me as of this day."
So he swore to him, and [t]sold his birthright to Jacob. 34 And Jacob gave Esau bread and stew of lentils; then [m]he ate and drank, arose, and went his way. Thus Esau [n]despised his birthright.

Isaac and Abimelech

26 There was a famine in the land, besides [a]the first famine that was in the days of Abraham. And Isaac went to [b]Abimelech king of the Philistines, in Gerar.
2 Then the LORD appeared to him and said: [c]"Do not go down to Egypt; live in [d]the land of which I shall tell you. 3 [e]Dwell in this land, and [f]I will be with you and [g]bless you; for to you and your descendants [h]I give all these lands, and I will perform [i]the oath which I swore to Abraham your father. 4 And [j]I will make your descendants multiply as the stars of heaven; I will give to your descendants all these lands; [k]and in your seed all the nations of the earth shall be blessed; 5 [l]because Abraham obeyed My voice and kept My charge, My commandments, My statutes, and My laws."
6 So Isaac dwelt in Gerar. 7 And the men of the place asked about his wife. And [m]he said, "She is my sister"; for [n]he was afraid to say, "She is my wife," because he thought, "lest the men of the place kill me for Rebekah, because she is [o]beautiful to behold." 8 Now it came to pass, when he had been there a long time, that Abimelech king of the Philistines looked through a window, and saw, and there was Isaac, [t]showing endearment to Rebekah his wife. 9 Then Abimelech called Isaac and said, "Quite obviously she is your wife; so how could you say, 'She is my sister'?"
Isaac said to him, "Because I said, 'Lest I die on account of her.' "
10 And Abimelech said, "What is this you have done to us? One of the people might soon have lain with your wife, and [p]you would have brought guilt on us." 11 So Abimelech charged all his people, saying, "He who [q]touches this man or his wife shall surely be put to death."
12 Then Isaac sowed in that land, and reaped in the same year [r]a hundredfold; and the LORD [s]blessed him. 13 The man [t]began to prosper, and continued prospering until he became very prosperous; 14 for he had possessions of flocks and possessions of herds and a great number of ser-birthright. The firstborn had the right to be the principal heir of the family's fortunes (27:33; Deut. 21:17; 1 Chr. 5:1, 2). In the covenant family, this fortune included the substance of the Abrahamic blessing of offspring and land (12:2, 3, 7).

■ 25:34 ate and drank, arose, and went his way. The staccato style of the Hebrew narrative implies that Esau himself was as crude and unreflective as his speech.

despised his birthright. By despising his birthright, Esau held God's promises in contempt (Heb. 12:16, 17).

■ 26:1–33 After the introduction to the account of Isaac (25:19–34), Isaac is linked with the covenant promises (ch. 26). There are two revelations of covenantal promises (vv. 2–6, 24). Also, the extensive parallels between Isaac's experience in ch. 26 and Abraham's in chs. 12; 13; 20; 21—famine (v. 1; cf. 12:10), deception involving the marital status of the matriarch (v. 7; cf. 12:13; 20:2), material prosperity (vv. 13, 14; cf. 12:16; 13:6), conflict over land (vv. 20, 21; cf. 13:7), and the covenant with the Philistines at Beersheba (vv. 26–33; cf. 21:22–34)—are included to show that Isaac was indeed the recipient of the covenant promises made to Abraham. Although they remained sojourners (v. 3 note), the patriarchs had a foretaste of life in the land.

■ 26:2–6 The form and content of the Lord's command and promise to Isaac, and Isaac's obedience, are linked with Abraham (12:1–4 and notes).

■ 26:3 Dwell in this land. The Hebrew word translated "dwell" indicates a "sojourner" or resident alien (21:34 note; Heb. 11:9, 13). Isaac is to remain there as a "stranger" who does not yet have the land in possession.

My charge, My commandments, My statutes . . . laws. Abraham's obedience is described in terms that recall Israel's requirement to keep the law of Moses (cf. Deut. 11:1). Abraham is a type of Christ, who by His obedience fulfilled the righteous requirements of the law and secured its blessings for His seed (Matt. 5:17, 18).

■ 26:6 So Isaac dwelt. Like his father Abraham, Isaac responds obediently to God's promise (12:4; 17:23; 22:3 and notes).

■ 26:7–11 This narrative of deception and peril to Rebekah closely parallels those involving Sarah (12:10–20; ch. 20), but the significant differences in the accounts indicate that they are not merely the same event retold. Though father and son made the same mistake, they are protected.

■ 26:7 sister. See 12:13; 20:2.

■ 26:8 looked through a window. Whereas Abraham was spared by a special revelation to Abimelech (20:3), Isaac is spared by providence.

showing endearment. The Hebrew here means "play" and is from the same Hebrew root as the name Isaac.

■ 26:9 Abimelech. See note on 20:2.

■ 26:12 sowed. Isaac became more stationary than his nomadic father. His success depended on rain from heaven.

hundredfold. His obedience during the famine was rewarded (vv. 2–6). God's blessing is as evident upon Isaac, the chosen successor to God's promises, as upon his father Abraham (21:22).

vants. So the Philistines [u]envied him. 15 Now the Philistines had stopped up all the wells [v]which his father's servants had dug in the days of Abraham his father, and they had filled them with earth. 16 And Abimelech said to Isaac, "Go away from us, for [w]you are much mightier than we."

17 Then Isaac departed from there and [2]pitched his tent in the Valley of Gerar, and dwelt there. 18 And Isaac dug again the wells of water which they had dug in the days of Abraham his father, for the Philistines had stopped them up after the death of Abraham. [x]He called them by the names which his father had called them.

19 Also Isaac's servants dug in the valley, and found a well of running water there. 20 But the herdsmen of Gerar [y]quarreled with Isaac's herdsmen, saying, "The water is ours." So he called the name of the well [3]Esek, because they quarreled with him. 21 Then they dug another well, and they quarreled over that one also. So he called its name [4]Sitnah. 22 And he moved from there and dug another well, and they did not quarrel over it. So he called its name [5]Rehoboth, because he said, "For now the LORD has made room for us, and we shall [z]be fruitful in the land."

23 Then he went up from there to Beersheba. 24 And the LORD [a]appeared to him the same night and said, [b]"I am the God of your father Abraham; [c]do not fear, for [d]I am with you. I will bless you and multiply your descendants for My servant Abraham's sake." 25 So he [e]built an altar there and [f]called on the name of the LORD, and he pitched his tent there; and there Isaac's servants dug a well.

26 Then Abimelech came to him from Gerar with Ahuzzath, one of his friends, [g]and Phichol the commander of his army. 27 And Isaac said to them, "Why have you come to me, [h]since you hate me and have [i]sent me away from you?"

28 But they said, "We have certainly seen that the LORD [j]is with you. So we said, 'Let there now be an oath between us, between you and us; and let us make a [6]covenant with you, 29 that you will do us no harm, since we have not touched you, and since we have done nothing to you but good and have sent you away in peace. [k]You are now the blessed of the LORD.' "

30 [l]So he made them a feast, and they ate and drank. 31 Then they arose early in the morning and [m]swore an oath with one another; and Isaac sent them away, and they departed from him in peace.

32 It came to pass the same day that Isaac's servants came and told him about the well which they had dug, and said to him, "We have found water." 33 So he called it [7]Shebah. [n]Therefore the name of the city is [8]Beersheba to this day.

34 [o]When Esau was forty years old, he took as wives Judith the daughter of Beeri the Hittite, and Basemath the daughter of Elon the Hittite. 35 And [p]they were a grief of mind to Isaac and Rebekah.

■ 26:15 Philistines had stopped . . . wells. With Abraham gone, the Philistines effectively negated their non-aggression pact (21:22–34 note). They had no genuine faith in Abraham's God.

■ 26:16 much mightier than we. See 21:22, 23; Ex. 1:9.

■ 26:17–22 The wealthy Isaac retreated from the fertile land into the Valley of Gerar, depending on wells originally dug by Abraham (v. 18). None of the patriarchs rashly risked war for the Promised Land. They trusted God to give their descendants the land at the right time (15:13, 14). The names of the wells commemorate God's provision and protection.

■ 26:21 Sitnah. See text note. This word is from the same Hebrew root as the name "Satan."

■ 26:22 the LORD has made room for us. God's protection of Isaac during this rivalry over wells recalls His reward to Abraham during the controversy with Lot (13:6–18).

■ 26:23 Beersheba. The site of the original non-aggression pact with the Philistines (21:32).

■ 26:24 The form and content of God's blessing to Isaac again underscores the theme of continuity with the Abrahamic covenant promises (vv. 2–5; 15:1; 17:7).

■ 26:25 built an altar. Like his father, Isaac built an altar in response to God's revelation (12:7, 8).

■ 26:26 Abimelech. See note on 20:2.

Phichol. See note on 21:22.

■ 26:28 We have certainly seen . . . LORD is with you. Their statement bore unintended witness to the Lord's promise in vv. 3–4 (21:22; cf. 1 Kin. 10:9).

an oath . . . a covenant. See 21:23 and notes.

■ 26:33 name of the city is Beersheba. See text note. The Lord's protection of Abraham at Beersheba is now extended to Isaac (21:32).

■ 26:34—27:46 The theme of family conflict, between the parents and between the twins, now becomes full-blown in pursuit of the patriarch's blessing. Isaac depended on his fallible senses rather than divine guidance (27:4; cf. 25:23), and Rebekah used deception (27:6–17). Esau broke his oath (27:5 note) and Jacob blasphemously lied (27:19, 20). Though the blessing is passed on according to God's good pleasure, the divine verdict on their actions is pronounced in the disastrous consequences: Esau resolved to murder Jacob (27:41; cf. 4:8) and Jacob fled the land. Rebekah died without memorial (35:8 and note), and Isaac lived on without significance (35:28 and note).

Implicit here is a contrast between Abraham, who in faith provided for Isaac's future according to God's elective purposes (ch. 24), and Isaac, who seems to have made no attempt to find suitable wives for his sons (cf. 24:2–4), and who tried to thwart the divine election (27:1–4; cf. 25:23).

■ 26:34, 35 The story of the stolen blessing is framed by references to Esau's marriage to Hittite women, and his parents' resulting displeasure (27:46). Profane Esau showed his disregard for the covenant blessings by marrying daughters of the land (24:3–4; 31:50 and notes). By intermarrying with the Canaanites, and so vexing his parents (27:46), he effectively sealed himself off from the sacred inheritance (21:21; 25:6).

■ 26:34 Hittite. See note on 10:15.

Isaac Blesses Jacob

27 Now it came to pass, when Isaac was [a]old and [b]his eyes were so dim that he could not see, that he called Esau his older son and said to him, "My son."

And he answered him, "Here I am."

2 Then he said, "Behold now, I am old. I [c]do not know the day of my death. 3 [d]Now therefore, please take your weapons, your quiver and your bow, and go out to the field and hunt game for me. 4 And make me [1]savory food, such as I love, and bring it to me that I may eat, that my soul [e]may bless you before I die."

5 Now Rebekah was listening when Isaac spoke to Esau his son. And Esau went to the field to hunt game and to bring it. 6 So Rebekah spoke to Jacob her son, saying, "Indeed I heard your father speak to Esau your brother, saying, 7 'Bring me game and make [2]savory food for me, that I may eat it and bless you in the presence of the LORD before my death.' 8 Now therefore, my son, [f]obey my voice according to what I command you. 9 Go now to the flock and bring me from there two choice kids of the goats, and I will make [g]savory food from them for your father, such as he loves. 10 Then you shall take it to your father, that he may eat it, and that he [h]may bless you before his death."

11 And Jacob said to Rebekah his mother, "Look, [i]Esau my brother is a hairy man, and I am a smooth-skinned man. 12 Perhaps my father will [j]feel me, and I shall seem to be a deceiver to him; and I shall bring [k]a curse on myself and not a blessing."

13 But his mother said to him, [l]"Let your curse be on me, my son; only obey my voice, and go, get them for me." 14 And he went and got them and brought them to his mother, and his mother [m]made [3]savory food, such as his father loved. 15 Then Rebekah took [n]the choice clothes of her elder son Esau, which were with her in the house, and put them on Jacob her younger son. 16 And she put the skins of the kids of the goats on his hands and on the smooth part of his neck. 17 Then she gave the savory food and the bread, which she had prepared, into the hand of her son Jacob.

18 So he went to his father and said, "My father."

And he said, "Here I am. Who are you, my son?"

19 Jacob said to his father, "I am Esau your firstborn; I have done just as you told me; please arise, sit and eat of my game, [o]that your soul may bless me."

20 But Isaac said to his son, "How is it that you have found it so quickly, my son?"

And he said, "Because the LORD your God brought it to me."

21 Isaac said to Jacob, "Please come near, that I [p]may feel you, my son, whether you are really my son Esau or not." 22 So Jacob went near to Isaac his father, and he felt him and said, "The voice is Jacob's voice, but the hands are the hands of Esau." 23 And he did not recognize him, because [q]his hands were hairy like his brother Esau's hands; so he blessed him.

24 Then he said, "Are you really my son Esau?"

He said, "I am."

25 He said, "Bring it near to me, and I will eat of my son's game, so [r]that my soul may bless you." So he brought it near to him, and he ate; and he brought him wine, and he drank. 26 Then his father Isaac said to him, "Come near now and kiss me, my son." 27 And he came near and [s]kissed him; and he smelled the smell of his clothing, and blessed him and said:

■ 27:4 savory food, such as I love. Isaac's sensuality was at the root of this conflict (vv. 18–27 note; 25:27, 28).

■ 27:5–17 Rebekah is the chief figure here. Though her method was deplorable (cf. 2 Cor. 4:2), her spiritual values were sound (25:23; 26:35; 27:46).

■ 27:5 Rebekah was listening. Isaac neither provided spiritual leadership in the home nor listened to his wife's counsel—factors that strongly contributed to his family difficulties. Isaac's behavior contrasts with that of Abraham (21:8–14).

Esau went. Though birthright and blessing were not identical, they were related because both pertained to the inheritance. Esau reneged on the oath he had made with Jacob (24:33), but the original act of unbelief in selling his inheritance was decisive (Heb. 12:16, 17).

■ 27:7 bless you. In patriarchal times, a solemn family blessing was given at departures (24:60; 28:1–5) or when death was imminent. It could be given to only one person and could not be altered. The patriarchal blessings of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob had spiritual significance because the Lord used the social customs of those times to communicate His sovereign purposes. While God initially mediated His covenant blessing through the patriarchs, after the Mosaic law was given, God's blessing was mediated to all His people through the priest (Num. 6:22–27).

■ 27:11, 12 Jacob had no qualms about the morality of the plan, only about its feasibility.

■ 27:15 clothes. Jacob too was later deceived by clothing (37:31–33).

■ 27:18–27 Isaac failed because he depended on his fallible senses—touch (v. 22), taste (v. 25), and smell (v. 27)—rather than upon spiritual understanding (v. 4 note; cf. 13:8–17 note).

■ 27:20 the LORD your God. Jacob compounded his guilt by taking the Lord's name in vain (Ex. 20:7 note). Here Jacob regards the Lord as the God of his father. Later the Lord will reveal Himself as the God of Jacob (28:13–15, 20–22; 33:20 text note).

■ 27:26 kiss. This physical contact was part of the blessing ritual (48:1 note).

"Surely, [t]the smell of my son
Is like the smell of a field
Which the LORD has blessed.
28 Therefore may [u]God give you
Of [v]the dew of heaven,
Of [w]the fatness of the earth,
And [x]plenty of grain and wine.
29 [y]Let peoples serve you,
And nations bow down to you.
Be master over your brethren,
And [z]let your mother's sons bow down to you.
[a]Cursed be everyone who curses you,
And blessed be those who bless you!"

Esau's Lost Hope

30 Now it happened, as soon as Isaac had finished blessing Jacob, and Jacob had scarcely gone out from the presence of Isaac his father, that Esau his brother came in from his hunting. 31 He also had made [4]savory food, and brought it to his father, and said to his father, "Let my father arise and [b]eat of his son's game, that your soul may bless me."

32 And his father Isaac said to him, "Who are you?"

So he said, "I am your son, your firstborn, Esau."

33 Then Isaac trembled exceedingly, and said, "Who? Where is the one who hunted game and brought it to me? I ate all of it before you came, and I have blessed him—[c]and indeed he shall be blessed."

34 When Esau heard the words of his father, [d]he cried with an exceedingly great and bitter cry, and said to his father, "Bless me—me also, O my father!"

35 But he said, "Your brother came with deceit and has taken away your blessing."

36 And Esau said, [e]"Is he not rightly named [5]Jacob? For he has supplanted me these two times. He took away my birthright, and now look, he has taken away my blessing!" And he said, "Have you not reserved a blessing for me?"

37 Then Isaac answered and said to Esau, [f]"Indeed I have made him your master, and all his brethren I have given to him as servants; with [g]grain and wine I have [6]sustained him. What shall I do now for you, my son?"

38 And Esau said to his father, "Have you only one blessing, my father? Bless me—me also, O my father!" And Esau lifted up his voice [h]and wept.

39 Then Isaac his father answered and said to him:

"Behold, [i]your dwelling shall be of the [7]fatness of the earth,
And of the dew of heaven from above.
40 By your sword you shall live,
And [j]you shall serve your brother;
And [k]it shall come to pass, when you become restless,
That you shall break his yoke from your neck."

Jacob Escapes from Esau

41 So Esau [l]hated Jacob because of the blessing with which his father blessed him, and Esau said in his heart, [m]"The days of mourning for my father [8]are at hand; [n]then I will kill my brother Jacob."

■ 27:28, 29 What Isaac perceived through the sense of smell (v. 27) gave form to the blessing, which pertained to the land's fertility (v. 28), and to dominion (v. 29). The blessing's similarity to the prenatal oracle (25:23) points to the Lord's sovereign rule of history.

■ 27:28 dew . . . fatness . . . plenty. These terms anticipate the blessing on the nation of Israel when settled in the Promised Land (Deut. 7:13; 33:28).

■ 27:29 Cursed be everyone who curses. See 12:3.

■ 27:34 great and bitter cry. See Heb. 12:16, 17 and notes.

■ 27:36 Jacob. See text note; note on 25:26.

■ 27:37 What shall I do now for you. Though Isaac knew God had elected Jacob, he had intended to give everything to Esau (26:34—27:46 note).

■ 27:39 of the fatness . . . of the dew. The Hebrew wording is similar to Jacob's blessing, but with a very different meaning. While God was to give to Jacob "of the dew" and "of the fatness" (v. 28), Esau was to dwell "of" (lit. "from" or "away from") "the fatness of the earth" and away from "the dew of heaven." This blessing found fulfillment as Esau's descendants, the Edomites, settled in the arid region south of the Dead Sea. Esau inherited an anti-blessing: he was denied the earth's fertility and dominion over his brother (cf. vv. 28, 29).

■ 27:40 break his yoke. See note on 25:23. From time to time Edom was able to break free of Israelite domination (2 Kin. 8:20–22). In addition, Herod the Great was a descendant of Esau.

12 [q]Gen. 31:10; 41:1; Num. 12:6

42 And the words of Esau her older son were told to Rebekah. So she sent and called Jacob her younger son, and said to him, "Surely your brother Esau [o]comforts himself concerning you by intending to kill you. 43 Now therefore, my son, obey my voice: arise, flee to my brother Laban [p]in Haran. 44 And stay with him a [q]few days, until your brother's fury turns away, 45 until your brother's anger turns away from you, and he forgets what you have done to him; then I will send and bring you from there. Why should I be bereaved also of you both in one day?"

46 And Rebekah said to Isaac, [r]"I am weary of my life because of the daughters of Heth; [s]if Jacob takes a wife of the daughters of Heth, like these who are the daughters of the land, what good will my life be to me?"

28 Then Isaac called Jacob and [a]blessed him, and [1]charged him, and said to him: [b]"You shall not take a wife from the daughters of Canaan. 2 [c]Arise, go to [d]Padan Aram, to the house of [e]Bethuel your mother's father; and take yourself a wife from there of the daughters of [f]Laban your mother's brother.

3 "May [g]God Almighty bless you,
And make you [h]fruitful and multiply you,
That you may be an assembly of peoples;
4 And give you [i]the blessing of Abraham,
To you and your descendants with you,
That you may inherit the land
[j]In[2] which you are a stranger,
Which God gave to Abraham."

5 So Isaac sent Jacob away, and he went to Padan Aram, to Laban the son of Bethuel the Syrian, the brother of Rebekah, the mother of Jacob and Esau.

Esau Marries Mahalath

6 Esau saw that Isaac had blessed Jacob and sent him away to Padan Aram to take himself a wife from there, and that as he blessed him he gave him a charge, saying, "You shall not take a wife from the daughters of Canaan," 7 and that Jacob had obeyed his father and his mother and had gone to Padan Aram. 8 Also Esau saw [k]that the daughters of Canaan did not please his father Isaac. 9 So Esau went to Ishmael and [l]took [m]Mahalath the daughter of Ishmael, Abraham's son, [n]the sister of Nebajoth, to be his wife in addition to the wives he had.

Jacob's Vow at Bethel

10 Now Jacob [o]went out from Beersheba and went toward [p]Haran. 11 So he came to a certain place and stayed there all night, because the sun had set. And he took one of the stones of that place and put it at his head, and he lay down in that place to sleep. 12 Then he [q]dreamed, and be-bereaved . . . of you both in one day. Both would be lost if Jacob was killed by his brother Esau, and Esau then by an avenger of blood (9:6; Num. 35:19–21).

■ 28:1, 2 The negative and positive commands correspond to those of Abraham (24:3–4).

■ 28:1 blessed. See note on 27:7. The first blessing (27:27–29) determined the patriarchal succession; this one explicitly linked Jacob with the blessings of the Abrahamic covenant (17:1–8).

■ 28:2 Padan Aram. See note on 25:20.

■ 28:3 God Almighty. See note on 17:1.

an assembly of peoples. See 17:5 and note; 35:11.

■ 28:4 inherit. The Hebrew verb here can mean "taking possession by force," perhaps anticipating the concept of holy war against the Canaanites (15:16; Ex. 23:22–33).

■ 28:6–9 Acting out of rivalry with his brother (v. 6) and a desire to please his father (v. 8), Esau sought another wife from among his relatives, the family of Ishmael (v. 9). Even in this effort Esau lacked spiritual perception, for Ishmael was the rejected natural offspring of Abraham (17:18–21; 21:12, 13).

■ 28:10–22 The Lord appeared to Jacob and gave him promises at critical points in his life: during his flight to Padan Aram (28:10–22), on his return to confront Esau (32:1, 2, 22–32), and when Jacob faced threats from Laban's sons (31:1–3) and the Canaanites (35:1–15).

■ 28:11 at his head. The Hebrew term here is translated "by his head" in 1 Sam. 26:7. Instead of serving as a pillow, the rock may have protected his head.

■ 28:12 a ladder. Probably a vast stone ramp with steps. The phrase "top reached to heaven" recalls the description of the tower of Babel (11:4). Jacob may have seen a ziggurat. See notes on 11:1–9 and 11:5.

earth . . . heaven . . . ascending and descending. Jacob's dream of a meeting place between heaven and earth points forward to Jesus Christ, the God-Man who reunites heaven and earth (John 1:51 and note). Through Christ, the only "Mediator between God and men" (1 Tim. 2:5), we have access to the Father (Eph. 2:18).

angels of God. See "Angels" at Zech. 1:9.

hold, a ladder was set up on the earth, and its top reached to heaven; and there [r]the angels of God were ascending and descending on it.

13 [s]And behold, the LORD stood above it and said: [t]"I am the LORD God of Abraham your father and the God of Isaac; [u]the land on which you lie I will give to you and your descendants. 14 Also your [v]descendants shall be as the dust of the earth; you shall spread abroad [w]to the west and the east, to the north and the south; and in you and [x]in your seed all the families of the earth shall be blessed. 15 Behold, [y]I am with you and will [z]keep[3] you wherever you go, and will [a]bring you back to this land; for [b]I will not leave you [c]until I have done what I have spoken to you."

16 Then Jacob awoke from his sleep and said, "Surely the LORD is in [d]this place, and I did not know it." 17 And he was afraid and said, "How awesome is this place! This is none other than the house of God, and this is the gate of heaven!"

18 Then Jacob rose early in the morning, and took the stone that he had put at his head, [e]set it up as a pillar, [f]and poured oil on top of it. 19 And he called the name of [g]that place [4]Bethel; but the name of that city had been Luz previously. 20 [h]Then Jacob made a vow, saying, "If [i]God will be with me, and keep me in this way that I am going, and give me [j]bread to eat and clothing to put on, 21 so that [k]I come back to my father's house in peace, [l]then the LORD shall be my God. 22 And this stone which I have set as a pillar [m]shall be God's house, [n]and of all that You give me I will surely give a [5]tenth to You."

Jacob Meets Rachel

29 So Jacob went on his journey [a]and came to the land of the people of the East. 2 And he looked, and saw a [b]well in the field; and behold, there were three flocks of sheep lying by it; for out of that well they watered the flocks. A large stone was on the well's mouth. 3 Now all the flocks would be gathered there; and they would roll the stone from the well's mouth, water the sheep, and put the stone back in its place on the well's mouth.

4 And Jacob said to them, "My brethren, where are you from?"

And they said, "We are from [c]Haran."

5 Then he said to them, "Do you know [d]Laban the son of Nahor?"

And they said, "We know him."

6 So he said to them, [e]"Is he well?"

And they said, "He is well. And look, his daughter Rachel [f]is coming with the sheep."

7 Then he said, "Look, it is still [7]high day; it is not time for the cattle to be gathered together. Water the sheep, and go and feed them."

8 But they said, "We cannot until all the flocks are gathered together, and they have rolled the stone from the well's mouth; then we water the sheep."

9 Now while he was still speaking with them, [g]Rachel came with her father's sheep, for she was a shepherdess. 10 And it came to pass, when Jacob saw Rachel the daughter of Laban his

■ 28:13 the LORD stood above it. Or, "the LORD stood beside him." If this second reading is preferred (note Jacob's response in v. 16: "Surely the LORD is in this place"), then God came down the stairway. He did not stand above the stairway, but over a sleeping Jacob.

I am the LORD. See note on 27:20.

land on which you lie. God's promise was adapted to the immediate situation.

descendants. The Hebrew term here may be translated "seed" or "offspring" (12:7 note and text note; 13:15 text note). The language of vv. 13–15 vividly recalls God's promises to Abraham (cf. 12:3; 13:14–16).

■ 28:14 shall be blessed. See note on 12:3; 18:18; 22:18.

■ 28:15 I am with you. See 26:3; Ex. 3:12; Ps. 23; 46; Heb. 13:5. The promises of this verse pertained to Jacob's own lifetime.

wherever you go. In contrast to pagan deities, whose powers were thought to be tied to particular localities.

until I have done. The Hebrew here signifies only that the promise will be completed, not that it will be changed after its fulfillment.

■ 28:17 he was afraid. Worshipful fear in God's presence is appropriate (Ex. 3:6; 19:16; Ps. 2:11).

■ 28:18 a pillar. A witness and monument drawing attention to the importance of the place (cf. 31:45–59).

poured oil. An act of consecration (35:14; Ex. 40:9; 2 Sam. 1:21).

■ 28:20–22 The longest vow recorded in the Old Testament.

■ 28:20 If God will be with me. Jacob's reaction contrasts strikingly Abraham's (15:6). Though Jacob's journey of faith had begun, he still had far to go. Note that God's unconditional promises of vv. 13–15 are here transformed into a conditional bargain: if God does His part then Jacob will acknowledge Him as God (v. 21). God had sovereignly chosen Jacob in the womb (25:23 and note), and now He graciously bestows the patriarchal promise quite apart from Jacob's faith; that too must be the gift of God (17:2 note).

■ 28:22 give a tenth. See note on 14:20.

■ 29:1–30 Jacob experienced the blessings of divine providence in meeting Rachel (vv. 1–14), and in a bitter irony the deceiver became the deceived (vv. 15–29). Behind the two scenes the gracious and just hand of the sovereign God, who works all things according to His own purpose and who promised to be with Jacob (28:15), can be discerned.

■ 29:2 well. The similarity of this meeting at the well with the meeting in 24:11–33 suggests the benevolence of divine providence, but also highlights the contrast between the prayerful servant and the prayerless patriarch.

■ 29:4 My brethren. The greeting was a gesture of goodwill.

■ 29:10 rolled the stone. The stone was large (v. 2). Earlier the gold jewelry of Abraham's servant had attracted Laban's attention (24:30); now Jacob's feat of strength impressed him with the kind of service Jacob could render.

mother's brother, and the sheep of Laban his mother's brother, that Jacob went near and [h]rolled the stone from the well's mouth, and watered the flock of Laban his mother's brother. 11 Then Jacob [i]kissed Rachel, and lifted up his voice and wept. 12 And Jacob told Rachel that he was [j]her father's relative and that he was Rebekah's son. [k]So she ran and told her father.

13 Then it came to pass, when Laban heard the report about Jacob his sister's son, that [l]he ran to meet him, and embraced him and kissed him, and brought him to his house. So he told Laban all these things. 14 And Laban said to him, [m]"Surely you are my bone and my flesh." And he stayed with him for a month.

Jacob Marries Leah and Rachel

15 Then Laban said to Jacob, "Because you are my relative, should you therefore serve me for nothing? Tell me, [n]what should your wages be?" 16 Now Laban had two daughters: the name of the elder was Leah, and the name of the younger was Rachel. 17 Leah's eyes were [2]delicate, but Rachel was [o]beautiful of form and appearance.

18 Now Jacob loved Rachel; so he said, [p]"I will serve you seven years for Rachel your younger daughter."

19 And Laban said, "It is better that I give her to you than that I should give her to another man. Stay with me." 20 So Jacob [q]served seven years for Rachel, and they seemed only a few days to him because of the love he had for her.

21 Then Jacob said to Laban, "Give me my wife, for my days are fulfilled, that I may [r]go in to her." 22 And Laban gathered together all the men of the place and [s]made a feast. 23 Now it came to pass in the evening, that he took Leah his daughter and brought her to Jacob; and he went in to her. 24 And Laban gave his maid [t]Zilpah to his daughter Leah as a maid. 25 So it came to pass in the morning, that behold, it was Leah. And he said to Laban, "What is this you have done to me? Was it not for Rachel that I served you? Why then have you [u]deceived me?"

26 And Laban said, "It must not be done so in our [3]country, to give the younger before the firstborn. 27 [v]Fulfill her week, and we will give you this one also for the service which you will serve with me still another seven years."

28 Then Jacob did so and fulfilled her week. So he gave him his daughter Rachel as wife also. 29 And Laban gave his maid [w]Bilhah to his daughter Rachel as a maid. 30 Then Jacob also went in to Rachel, and he also [x]loved Rachel more than Leah. And he served with Laban [y]still another seven years.

The Children of Jacob

31 When the LORD [z]saw that Leah was [4]unloved, He [a]opened her womb; but Rachel was barren. 32 So Leah conceived and bore a son, and she called his name [5]Reuben; for she said, "The LORD has surely [b]looked on my affliction. Now therefore, my husband will love me." 33 Then she conceived again and bore a son, and said, "Because the LORD has heard that I am [6]unloved, He has therefore given me this son also." And she called his name [7]Simeon. 34 She conceived again and bore a son, and said, "Now this time my husband will become attached to me, because I have borne him three sons." Therefore his name was called [8]Levi. 35 And she conceived again

■ 29:11 kissed. A customary greeting among relatives (v. 14; 31:55).

■ 29:16 Leah . . . Rachel. The name Rachel means "ewe," while Leah perhaps means "wild cow" or "wild ox."

■ 29:23 evening. As Jacob took advantage of his father's blindness to deceive him, so Laban used the cover of night to outwit Jacob.

he took Leah his daughter. The custom of veiling the bride (24:64, 65 note) and of marrying off the elder daughter first (v. 26) served Laban's selfish intentions. He shamelessly used his unloved daughter and introduced a source of continuing discord into Jacob's family (30:1, 2; 31:15). Laban's daughters were not deceived by his unscrupulous behavior (31:14–16).

■ 29:25 deceived me. See 27:35.

■ 29:26 the younger before the firstborn. This statement underscores the irony of Jacob's situation. Jacob had stolen the blessing customarily reserved for the firstborn (ch. 27), and here Laban deceives Jacob in order to uphold a similar custom.

■ 29:27 Fulfill her week. The week of bridal feasting. The extended feast (v. 22) celebrated Laban's cleverness and Jacob's humiliation, turning what should have been a joyous occasion into a bad joke.

■ 29:31—30:24 God blessed Jacob with twelve sons in spite of his prayerlessness and the rivalry of Rachel and Leah, who competed for his affections by bearing him sons (25:19—35:29 note). The names the mother's gave these children reflect this struggle and also their recognition of God's assistance to them in their unloved or childless states. God graciously built up Israel by championing the needy (e.g., Hannah in 1 Sam. 1), but the spiritual failures of Jacob's family later resulted in rivalries among Israelite tribes.

■ 29:31–35 God graciously gave Leah, the unloved wife, half of Jacob's sons, including the priestly line of Levi (v. 34) and the messianic line of Judah (v. 35; 49:10). The first and last of the children born in Padan Aram are given by the Lord to compensate disgraced wives, first Leah (v. 32), and then Rachel (30:23, 24).

■ 29:31 opened. See 16:2; 20:17, 18.

barren. See 25:21.

■ 29:35 Judah. The name means "praised," here of the Lord, and in 49:8 of Judah himself.

and bore a son, and said, "Now I will praise the LORD." Therefore she called his name [c]Judah.[g] Then she stopped bearing.

30 Now when Rachel saw that [a]she bore Jacob no children, Rachel [b]envied her sister, and said to Jacob, "Give me children, [c]or else I die!"

2 And Jacob's anger was aroused against Rachel, and he said, [d]"Am I in the place of God, who has withheld from you the fruit of the womb?"

3 So she said, "Here is [e]my maid Bilhah; go in to her, [f]and she will bear a child on my knees, [g]that I also may [f]have children by her." 4 Then she gave him Bilhah her maid [h]as wife, and Jacob went in to her. 5 And Bilhah conceived and bore Jacob a son. 6 Then Rachel said, "God has [i]judged my case; and He has also heard my voice and given me a son." Therefore she called his name [z]Dan. 7 And Rachel's maid Bilhah conceived again and bore Jacob a second son. 8 Then Rachel said, "With [3]great wrestlings I have wrestled with my sister, and indeed I have prevailed." So she called his name [4]Naphtali.

9 When Leah saw that she had stopped bearing, she took Zilpah her maid and [j]gave her to Jacob as wife. 10 And Leah's maid Zilpah bore Jacob a son. 11 Then Leah said, [5]"A troop comes!" So she called his name [6]Gad. 12 And Leah's maid Zilpah bore Jacob a second son. 13 Then Leah said, "I am happy, for the daughters [k]will call me blessed." So she called his name [7]Asher.

14 Now Reuben went in the days of wheat harvest and found mandrakes in the field, and brought them to his mother Leah. Then Rachel said to Leah, [l]"Please give me some of your son's mandrakes."

15 But she said to her, [m]"Is it a small matter that you have taken away my husband? Would you take away my son's mandrakes also?"

And Rachel said, "Therefore he will lie with you tonight for your son's mandrakes."

16 When Jacob came out of the field in the evening, Leah went out to meet him and said, "You must come in to me, for I have surely hired you with my son's mandrakes." And he lay with her that night.

17 And God listened to Leah, and she conceived and bore Jacob a fifth son. 18 Leah said, "God has given me my wages, because I have given my maid to my husband." So she called his name [8]Issachar. 19 Then Leah conceived again and bore Jacob a sixth son. 20 And Leah said, "God has endowed me with a good endowment; now my husband will dwell with me, because I have borne him six sons." So she called his name [9]Zebulun. 21 Afterward she bore a [n]daughter, and called her name [t]Dinah.

22 Then God [o]remembered Rachel, and God listened to her and [p]opened her womb. 23 And she conceived and bore a son, and said, "God has taken away [q]my reproach." 24 So she called his name [2]Joseph, and said, [r]"The LORD shall add to me another son."

Jacob's Agreement with Laban

25 And it came to pass, when Rachel had borne Joseph, that Jacob said to Laban, [s]"Send me away, that I may go to [t]my own place and to my country. 26 Give me my wives and my children [u]for whom I have served you, and let me go; for you know my service which I have done for you."

27 And Laban said to him, "Please stay, if I have found favor in your eyes, for [v]I have learned

■ 30:1 else I die. A hyperbolic expression of her extreme distress (25:32; 27:46). Ironically, she later died in childbirth (35:16–18).

■ 30:2 Am I in the place of God. Jacob's angry retort contrasts sharply with the fervent prayer of Isaac for his childless wife (25:21).

■ 30:3 Here is . . . Bilhah. See 16:1, 2 and notes.

on my knees. The knee was symbolic of parental care (50:23; Job 3:12). According to ancient Near Eastern custom, the delivery of the concubine's child upon the knees of the wife symbolized the adoption of the child by the wife.

■ 30:14 mandrakes. Sometimes called "love apples," the roots of the mandrake plant were considered an aphrodisiac by the ancients, and used to promote sexual activity and conception (cf. Song 7:13).

■ 30:20 endowment. A dowry.

■ 30:21 Dinah. Dinah is the only daughter of Jacob whose name is given (cf. 46:7) because she figures prominently in ch. 34.

■ 30:22 Then God remembered. See note on 8:1. This verse is the climax of 29:31—30:24. Rachel credited the birth of Joseph, not to the aphrodisiac (v. 14 note), but to God (v. 23).

■ 30:25–43 God sovereignly blessed Jacob's flocks at Laban's expense in spite of the inexcusable cunning of both men. Jacob appears to outwit Laban, repaying Laban's trickery, but he obtained his family and wealth entirely by God's grace (29:31—30:24; 31:9).

■ 30:27 if I have found favor. A formula of courtesy in negotiations.

learned by experience. Or, "learned by divination." Many ancient extrabiblical texts from Mesopotamia pertain to the practice of occult divination, something forbidden in Israel (Deut. 18:10, 14). Noting Jacob's good fortune, the pagan Laban had attempted to discover the reason through divination (31:19 and note).

blessed me for your sake. Once again, those outside the covenant are blessed through their association with the patriarchs (12:2, 3; 13:5, 6; 14:13 and note).

by experience that the LORD has blessed me for your sake." 28 Then he said, [w]"Name me your wages, and I will give it."

29 So Jacob said to him, [x]"You know how I have served you and how your livestock has been with me. 30 For what you had before I came was little, and it has increased to a great amount; the LORD has blessed you [3]since my coming. And now, when shall I also [y]provide for my own house?"

31 So he said, "What shall I give you?"

And Jacob said, "You shall not give me anything. If you will do this thing for me, I will again feed and keep your flocks: 32 Let me pass through all your flock today, removing from there all the speckled and spotted sheep, and all the brown ones among the lambs, and the spotted and speckled among the goats; and [z]these shall be my wages. 33 So my [a]righteousness will answer for me in time to come, when the subject of my wages comes before you: every one that is not speckled and spotted among the goats, and brown among the lambs, will be considered stolen, if it is with me."

34 And Laban said, "Oh, that it were according to your word!" 35 So he removed that day the male goats that were [b]speckled and spotted, all the female goats that were speckled and spotted, every one that had some white in it, and all the brown ones among the lambs, and gave them into the hand of his sons. 36 Then he put three days' journey between himself and Jacob, and Jacob fed the rest of Laban's flocks.

37 Now [c]Jacob took for himself rods of green poplar and of the almond and chestnut trees, peeled white strips in them, and exposed the white which was in the rods. 38 And the rods which he had peeled, he set before the flocks in the gutters, in the watering troughs where the flocks came to drink, so that they should conceive when they came to drink. 39 So the flocks conceived before the rods, and the flocks brought forth streaked, speckled, and spotted. 40 Then Jacob separated the lambs, and made the flocks face toward the streaked and all the brown in the flock of Laban; but he put his own flocks by themselves and did not put them with Laban's flock.

41 And it came to pass, whenever the stronger livestock conceived, that Jacob placed the rods before the eyes of the livestock in the gutters, that they might conceive among the rods. 42 But when the flocks were feeble, he did not put them in; so the feebler were Laban's and the stronger Jacob's. 43 Thus the man [d]became exceedingly prosperous, and [e]had large flocks, female and male servants, and camels and donkeys.

Jacob Flees from Laban

31 Now Jacob heard the words of Laban's sons, saying, "Jacob has taken away all that was our father's, and from what was our father's he has acquired all this [a]wealth." 2 And Jacob saw the [b]countenance of Laban, and indeed it was not [c]favorable toward him as before. 3 Then the LORD said to Jacob, [d]"Return to the land of your fathers and to your family, and I will [e]be with you."

4 So Jacob sent and called Rachel and Leah to the field, to his flock, 5 and said to them, [f]"I see your father's [1]countenance, that it is not favorable toward me as before; but the God of my father [g]has been with me. 6 And [h]you know that with all my might I have served your father.

■ 30:28 Name me your wages. The opportunistic Laban wanted to manipulate the Lord through Jacob to serve his own greed. Thus he hoped to receive God's blessing.

■ 30:31–34 In the ancient Near East, most lambs were white and most goats black or dark brown. Thinking the agreement posed little risk to himself, Laban eagerly granted Jacob's request for the unusually colored animals (v. 34). Jacob's proposal depended upon the faulty notion that vivid visual impressions during the act of reproduction determined the traits of the offspring. He thought that placing alternating colors in front of mating animals would result in unusually colored offspring (vv. 37, 38, 41, 42). Even though Jacob's scheming would deny God His rightful praise, God's intention to bless Jacob was not thwarted (31:11, 12).

■ 30:35 he removed that day. The unscrupulous Laban immediately cheated. According to the agreement the unusually colored animals should have been Jacob's starting flock (v. 32). Jacob began with none of these, a fact highlighting the supernatural blessing on him.

■ 30:39 flocks brought forth. Jacob's success was due to God's grace (31:9–12), not to his ill-founded theory of animal husbandry.

■ 30:43 became exceedingly prosperous. God did abundantly more than Jacob had asked (28:20).

■ 31:1–55 In fulfillment of His promise in 28:15, the Lord led a chastened Jacob back to the Promised Land with great wealth at Laban's expense, and over Laban's opposition (v. 42). God remained faithful to His promises despite Jacob's scheming and the pagan idolatry in his household (v. 19 and note; 28:20 note).

■ 31:3 Return to the land. Jacob's departure with his sons from Padan Aram foreshadows the later Exodus of the twelve tribes of Israel from Egypt: they go in response to God's call to worship in the land of Canaan (vv. 3, 13; cf. Ex. 3:13–18); they spoil the enemy of his wealth (v. 9; cf. Ex. 12:35, 36); they are pursued by superior forces and delivered by divine intervention (vv. 21–42; cf. Ex. 14:5–31). These Old Testament examples in turn point forward to the pilgrimage of the New Israel, the church (1 Cor. 10:1–4).

I will be with you. See 28:15 and notes.

■ 31:4 So Jacob sent and called. Jacob finally began to respond to God in prompt obedience (cf. 12:4; 17:23; 22:3).

■ 31:5 God of my father has been with me. Acknowledging the Lord's faithfulness, Jacob was ready to pay his vow (v. 13; 28:20–22 and notes).

■ 31:6 with all my might. See note on 29:10.

7 Yet your father has deceived me and [i]changed my wages [j]ten times, but God [k]did not allow him to hurt me. 8 If he said thus: [l]'The speckled shall be your wages,' then all the flocks bore speckled. And if he said thus: 'The streaked shall be your wages,' then all the flocks bore streaked. 9 So God has [m]taken away the livestock of your father and given them to me.

10 "And it happened, at the time when the flocks conceived, that I lifted my eyes and saw in a dream, and behold, the rams which leaped upon the flocks were streaked, speckled, and gray-spotted. 11 Then [n]the Angel of God spoke to me in a dream, saying, 'Jacob.' And I said, 'Here I am.' 12 And He said, 'Lift your eyes now and see, all the rams which leap on the flocks are streaked, speckled, and gray-spotted; for [o]I have seen all that Laban is doing to you. 13 I am the God of Bethel, [p]where you anointed the pillar and where you made a vow to Me. Now [q]arise, get out of this land, and return to the land of your family.' "

14 Then Rachel and Leah answered and said to him, [r]"Is there still any portion or inheritance for us in our father's house? 15 Are we not considered strangers by him? For [s]he has sold us, and also completely consumed our money. 16 For all these riches which God has taken from our father are really ours and our children's; now then, whatever God has said to you, do it."

17 Then Jacob rose and set his sons and his wives on camels. 18 And he carried away all his livestock and all his possessions which he had gained, his acquired livestock which he had gained in Padan Aram, to go to his father Isaac in the land of [t]Canaan. 19 Now Laban had gone to shear his sheep, and Rachel had stolen the [u]household[2] idols that were her father's. 20 And Jacob stole away, unknown to Laban the Syrian, in that he did not tell him that he intended to flee. 21 So he fled with all that he had. He arose and crossed the river, and [v]headed[3] toward the mountains of Gilead.

Laban Pursues Jacob

22 And Laban was told on the third day that Jacob had fled. 23 Then he took [w]his brethren with him and pursued him for seven days' journey, and he overtook him in the mountains of Gilead. 24 But God [x]had come to Laban the Syrian in a dream by night, and said to him, "Be careful that you [y]speak to Jacob neither good nor bad."

25 So Laban overtook Jacob. Now Jacob had pitched his tent in the mountains, and Laban with his brethren pitched in the mountains of Gilead.

26 And Laban said to Jacob: "What have you done, that you have stolen away unknown to me, and [z]carried away my daughters like captives taken with the sword? 27 Why did you flee away secretly, and steal away from me, and not tell me; for I might have sent you away with joy and songs, with timbrel and harp? 28 And you did not allow me [a]to kiss my sons and my daughters. Now [b]you have done foolishly in so doing. 29 It is in my power to do you harm, but the [c]God of your father spoke to me [d]last night, saying, 'Be careful that you speak to Jacob neither good nor bad.' 30 And now you have surely gone because you greatly long for your father's house, but why did you [e]steal my gods?"

31 Then Jacob answered and said to Laban, "Because I was [f]afraid, for I said, 'Perhaps you would take your daughters from me by force.' 32 With whomever you find your gods, [g]do not let him live. In the presence of our brethren, identify what I have of yours and take it with you." For Jacob did not know that Rachel had stolen them.

33 And Laban went into Jacob's tent, into Leah's tent, and into the two maids' tents, but he did

■ 31:7 ten times. The number ten signified completeness; Jacob here is perhaps deploring the magnitude of Laban's dishonesty.

God did not allow him. In spite of his own schemes, Jacob recognized that the Lord had blessed him.

■ 31:8 speckled . . . streaked. See note on 30:31–34.

■ 31:9 So God has taken away. Through his dishonest behavior toward Jacob, Laban subjected himself to covenantal curses (12:3; 27:29).

■ 31:11 Angel of God. See note on 16:7.

■ 31:14–16 In bitterness against their dishonest father (vv. 14–15) and in recognition of God's providence (v. 16), Leah and Rachel decided to follow Jacob.

■ 31:15 he has sold us. They resented their "bought marriages." The price paid was Jacob's labor (29:18, 27).

completely consumed our money. This phrase occurs in similar social contexts in Mesopotamian texts from Nuzi (c. 1500 B.C.). Legally, at least part of the compensation received by a father in return for giving his daughter in marriage was to be given to the daughter.

■ 31:18 Padan Aram. See note on 25:20.

■ 31:19 the household idols. Small household gods, or teraphim, were thought to provide protection and were used in divination (30:27 note; Ezek. 21:21; Zech. 10:2). Unlike Sarah and Rebekah, Rachel had not given up her pagan idols or ethics (vv. 34, 35; 35:2).

■ 31:23 his brethren. Laban had military superiority (v. 29).

■ 31:24 God had come. God sovereignly protected Jacob as He had Abraham (12:17; 20:3) and Isaac (26:8 and note).

■ 31:27 joy . . . harp. Again Laban appealed to custom (cf. 29:26), this time complaining that the conventional departure ritual had not been followed (cf. 24:60).

■ 31:29 It is in my power to . . . harm. See v. 23 and note.

not find them. Then he went out of Leah's tent and entered Rachel's tent. 34 Now Rachel had taken the [4]household idols, put them in the camel's saddle, and sat on them. And Laban [5]searched all about the tent but did not find them. 35 And she said to her father, "Let it not displease my lord that I cannot [h]rise before you, for the manner of women is with me." And he searched but did not find the [6]household idols.

36 Then Jacob was angry and rebuked Laban, and Jacob answered and said to Laban: "What is my [7]trespass? What is my sin, that you have so hotly pursued me? 37 Although you have searched all my things, what part of your household things have you found? Set it here before my brethren and your brethren, that they may judge between us both! 38 These twenty years I have been with you; your ewes and your female goats have not miscarried their young, and I have not eaten the rams of your flock. 39 [i]That which was torn by beasts I did not bring to you; I bore the loss of it. [j]You required it from my hand, whether stolen by day or stolen by night. 40 There I was! In the day the drought consumed me, and the frost by night, and my sleep departed from my eyes. 41 Thus I have been in your house twenty years; I [k]served you fourteen years for your two daughters, and six years for your flock, and [l]you have changed my wages ten times. 42 [m]Unless the God of my father, the God of Abraham and [n]the Fear of Isaac, had been with me, surely now you would have sent me away empty-handed. [o]God has seen my affliction and the labor of my hands, and [p]rebuked you last night."

Laban's Covenant with Jacob

43 And Laban answered and said to Jacob, "These daughters are my daughters, and these children are my children, and this flock is my flock; all that you see is mine. But what can I do this day to these my daughters or to their children whom they have borne? 44 Now therefore, come, [q]let us make a [8]covenant, [r]you and I, and let it be a witness between you and me."

45 So Jacob [s]took a stone and set it up as a pillar. 46 Then Jacob said to his brethren, "Gather stones." And they took stones and made a heap, and they ate there on the heap. 47 Laban called it [9]Jegar Sahadutha, but Jacob called it [t]Galeed. 48 And Laban said, [t]"This heap is a witness between you and me this day." Therefore its name was called Galeed, 49 also [u]Mizpah,[2] because he said, "May the LORD watch between you and me when we are absent one from another. 50 If you afflict my daughters, or if you take other wives besides my daughters, although no man is with us—see, God is witness between you and me!"

51 Then Laban said to Jacob, "Here is this heap and here is this pillar, which I have placed between you and me. 52 This heap is a witness, and this pillar is a witness, that I will not pass beyond this heap to you, and you will not pass beyond this heap and this pillar to me, for harm. 53 The God of Abraham, the God of Nahor, and the God of their father [v]judge between us." And Jacob [w]swore by [x]the [3]Fear of his father Isaac. 54 Then Jacob offered a sacrifice on the mountain, and called his brethren to eat bread. And they ate bread and stayed all night on the mountain. 55 And early in the morning Laban arose, and [y]kissed his sons and daughters and [z]blessed them. Then Laban departed and [a]returned to his place.

searched. See text note. The same Hebrew word (also in v. 37) is translated "felt" in 27:22. Trusting in their senses, neither Isaac nor Laban discovered the truth (27:18–27 note).

■ 31:35 the manner of women. The time of her menstrual period. The Mosaic law later specified that women were ceremonially unclean at this time (Lev. 15:19–24). As in ch. 27, the younger child deceived the father.

■ 31:39 I bore the loss. According to ancient laws specifying the responsibilities of shepherds, such as those in the Code of Hammurabi (c. 1750 B.C.), Jacob should not have been liable for the loss.

the Fear of Isaac. Or, "the Awesome One of Isaac." See v. 53 and note.

sent me away empty-handed. An allusion to one of Laban's more conspicuous faults—his failure to pay workers their just wages (29:25; 31:7, 41).

■ 31:43 all that you see is mine. Laban's claim shows that Jacob's fears had been justified (v. 31).

■ 31:44 make a covenant. This covenant, or "treaty" (text note), was like the nonaggression treaties Abraham and Isaac made with the Philistines (21:27; 26:28), but unlike the covenant God made with Abraham (15:8).

■ 31:50 other wives besides my daughters. Terah's family valued the family structure, in contrast to the Canaanites (24:3, 4; 26:34, 35; 27:46; 28:9 and notes). This prohibition was found commonly in marriage contracts from the ancient Near East.

■ 31:52 a witness. It was assumed that the terms of the treaty would be passed on faithfully through generations.

■ 31:53 The God of Abraham . . . Nahor . . . father. The pagan Laban apparently regarded the God of Abraham as one of the gods of his family. Terah, the father of Abraham and Nahor, had probably been a moon-worshiper in Ur (11:27 note; Josh. 24:14).

Fear of his father Isaac. Not equating the God of Abraham with the God of Nahor, Jacob swore by the "Fear of his father Isaac" (v. 42 note), another name for the God of Abraham.

■ 31:55 blessed. See 24:60; 27:7; 28:1 and notes.

Esau Comes to Meet Jacob

32 So Jacob went on his way, and [a]the angels of God met him. 2 When Jacob saw them, he said, "This is God's [b]camp." And he called the name of that place [1]Mahanaim.

3 Then Jacob sent messengers before him to Esau his brother [c]in the land of Seir, [d]the [2]country of Edom. 4 And he commanded them, saying, [e]"Speak thus to my lord Esau, 'Thus your servant Jacob says: "I have dwelt with Laban and stayed there until now. 5 [f]I have oxen, donkeys, flocks, and male and female servants; and I have sent to tell my lord, that [g]I may find favor in your sight." ' "

6 Then the messengers returned to Jacob, saying, "We came to your brother Esau, and [h]he also is coming to meet you, and four hundred men are with him." 7 So Jacob was greatly afraid and [i]distressed; and he divided the people that were with him, and the flocks and herds and camels, into two companies. 8 And he said, "If Esau comes to the one company and [3]attacks it, then the other company which is left will escape."

9 [j]Then Jacob said, [k]"O God of my father Abraham and God of my father Isaac, the LORD [l]who said to me, 'Return to your country and to your family, and I will deal well with you': 10 I am not worthy of the least of all the [m]mercies and of all the truth which You have shown Your servant; for I crossed over this Jordan with [n]my staff, and now I have become two companies. 11 [o]Deliver me, I pray, from the hand of my brother, from the hand of Esau; for I fear him, lest he come and [4]attack me and [p]the mother with the children. 12 For [q]You said, 'I will surely treat you well, and make your descendants as the [r]sand of the sea, which cannot be numbered for multitude.' "

13 So he lodged there that same night, and took what [5]came to his hand as [s]a present for Esau his brother: 14 two hundred female goats and twenty male goats, two hundred ewes and twenty rams, 15 thirty milk camels with their colts, forty cows and ten bulls, twenty female donkeys and ten foals. 16 Then he delivered them to the hand of his servants, every drove by itself, and said to his servants, "Pass over before me, and put some distance between successive droves." 17 And he commanded the first one, saying, "When Esau my brother meets you and asks you, saying, 'To whom do you belong, and where are you going? Whose are these in front of you?' 18 then you shall say, 'They are your servant Jacob's. It is a present sent to my lord Esau; and behold, he also is behind us.' " 19 So he commanded the second, the third, and all who followed the droves, saying, "In this manner you shall speak to Esau when you find him; 20 and also say, 'Behold, your servant Jacob is behind us.' " For he said, "I will [t]appease him with the present that goes before me, and afterward I will see his face; perhaps he will accept me." 21 So the present went on over before him, but he himself lodged that night in the camp.

Wrestling with God

22 And he arose that night and took his two wives, his two female servants, and his eleven sons, [u]and crossed over the ford of Jabbok. 23 He took them, sent them [6]over the brook, and sent

■ 32:1 angels of God. Jacob again encountered the angels of God whom he met at Bethel (28:12). These angelic encounters upon leaving and returning to the Promised Land frame Jacob's experiences with Laban (28:10–22 note) and attest to God's promise to be with and protect Jacob wherever he went (28:15).

Faithful to His promise, God had been with Jacob—not only protecting him, but also remaking his character. The formerly prayerless and ambitiously deceptive Jacob was now a humble man of prayer (vv. 9–12).

■ 32:2 Mahanaim. See text note. Jacob may have had in mind both his camp and God's camp, a heavenly shield and escort. As Bethel was the house of God and the gate of heaven (28:17), Mahanaim was God's camp on earth. Mahanaim later served as a capital for Saul's son Ishbosheth (2 Sam. 2:8) and as a refuge for David during Absalom's rebellion (2 Sam. 17:24). Mahanaim was situated east of the Jordan River near the River Jabbok, but its precise location is uncertain.

■ 32:3 Seir. See 25:25 and note.

■ 32:4, 5 Jacob's humble manner of address toward his brother and former rival suggests that his character change was real (v. 1 note). Like Abraham with Lot (13:8, 9), Jacob did not insist on his covenantal privileges but left the matter in God's hands.

■ 32:6 four hundred men. Jacob had reason to fear (14:14; 27:40, 41), yet he had survived Laban's stronger forces with God's help (31:29 and note).

■ 32:9 Jacob said. Jacob's first recorded prayer (vv. 9–12) stands between the two presents to Esau (vv. 3–8, 13–21). This structure suggests that he trusted God to prosper his two gifts.

■ 32:10 I am not worthy. A spiritual transformation had taken place in Jacob: he submitted to Esau and recognized his unworthiness before God.

mercies . . . truth. Words often used to describe God's loyalty and faithfulness to His covenant promises (24:27; Ex. 15:13 note; Ps. 40:11; 61:7). Jacob now identified himself fully with God's covenant to Abraham and Isaac, and his faith rested firmly on God's covenant promises.

■ 32:12 make your descendants as the sand. In faith Jacob applied to himself the language of the covenantal promise to Abraham (22:17; cf. 28:14).

■ 32:13 a present. The Hebrew here connotes tribute, a gift expressing loyalty to a superior. See notes on 33:3, 4 and 33:11.

■ 32:14, 15 Five hundred fifty animals was an extravagant gift.

■ 32:20 appease him. Lit. "cover his face," an expression meaning the covering over of guilt. Jacob was painfully aware that he had sinned against his brother.

■ 32:22–32 In wrestling with Jacob, God appeared in human form and deprived Jacob of his natural strength, but Jacob emerged the victor by clinging to God for blessing.

over what he had. 24 Then Jacob was left alone; and [v]a Man wrestled with him until the [7]breaking of day. 25 Now when He saw that He did not prevail against him, He [8]touched the socket of his hip; and [w]the socket of Jacob's hip was out of joint as He wrestled with him. 26 And [x]He said, "Let Me go, for the day breaks."

But he said, [y]"I will not let You go unless You bless me!"

27 So He said to him, "What is your name?"

He said, "Jacob."

28 And He said, [z]"Your name shall no longer be called Jacob, but [9]Israel; for you have [a]struggled with God and [b]with men, and have prevailed."

29 Then Jacob asked, saying, "Tell me Your name, I pray."

And He said, [c]"Why is it that you ask about My name?" And He [d]blessed him there.

30 So Jacob called the name of the place [1]Peniel: "For [e]I have seen God face to face, and my life is preserved." 31 Just as he crossed over [2]Penuel the sun rose on him, and he limped on his hip. 32 Therefore to this day the children of Israel do not eat the muscle that shrank, which is on the hip socket, because He [3]touched the socket of Jacob's hip in the muscle that shrank.

Jacob and Esau Meet

33 Now Jacob lifted his eyes and looked, and there, [a]Esau was coming, and with him were four hundred men. So he divided the children among Leah, Rachel, and the two maidservants. 2 And he put the maidservants and their children in front, Leah and her children behind, and Rachel and Joseph last. 3 Then he crossed over before them and [b]bowed himself to the ground seven times, until he came near to his brother.

4 [c]But Esau ran to meet him, and embraced him, [d]and fell on his neck and kissed him, and

■ 32:24 a Man wrestled with him. This mysterious Man was a theophany, a visible (and in this case tangible) manifestation of the God who is intrinsically invisible, the Angel of the Lord (16:7 note; Hos. 12:4). The Lord unexpectedly initiated the match.

■ 32:25 He did not prevail. Though Jacob was apparently a man of considerable strength (29:2, 10), the Angel of the Lord accommodated His strength to Jacob's.

touched. See text note. God dislocated Jacob's hip, the wrestler's pivot of strength (v. 31). Having previously depended upon his wits and strength, Jacob's natural powers were now crippled. Every step he would take in the future would remind him of his dependence upon divine grace.

■ 32:27 What is your name. See note on 3:9.

■ 32:28 Your name. See note on 17:6.

Israel. See text note. The new name indicates that the elect patriarch had matured in his faith.

struggled with God. The "Man" is implicitly identified as God Himself (v. 30).

■ 32:29 Why is it that you ask. In ancient times, a name was thought to express essential nature as well as identity. The divine name partakes of the sacredness of God's being (Judg. 13:18), and was to be reverenced (Ex. 20:7). The pagans believed that knowing the name of a god imparted ability to invoke that deity's power. Here, however, the divine name is withheld (cf. 28:13; Hos. 12:5), showing that the Lord's revelation of His name is a gracious act of divine initiative, not a response to human effort to invoke and control God.

■ 32:30 Peniel. See text notes on vv. 30, 31. Penuel was located on the River Jabbok near the modern Tulul edh-Dhahab. The town was destroyed by Gideon (Judg. 8:8) and later fortified by Jeroboam I (1 Kin. 12:25).

preserved. Jacob's preservation during his "face-to-face" meeting with the almighty God confirmed his preservation during his imminent encounter with Esau, a mere human being (cf. v. 11).

■ 32:32 to this day. The restriction against eating the sciatic tendon, mentioned elsewhere only in extrabiblical Jewish literature, commemorated this foundational event in the nation's history.

■ 33:1 four hundred men. See note on 32:6.

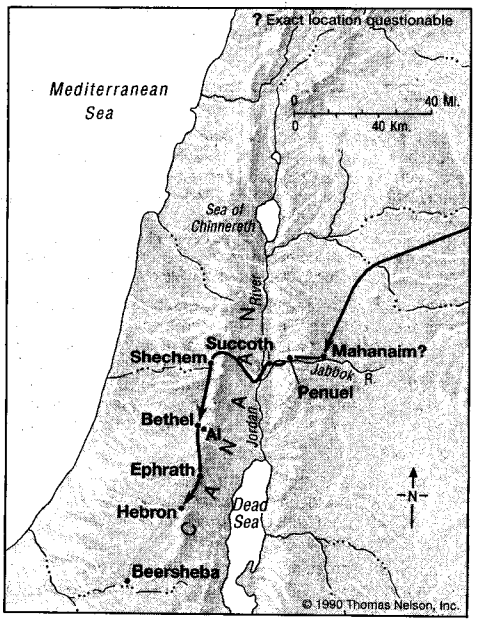
■ 33:3, 4 Jacob greeted Esau as a vassal greets his patron in the ceremony of a royal court, with the deference appropriate to a superior—note the sevenfold obeisance (common practice in ancient Near Eastern court protocol, v. 3), the submissive address of a "servant" (v. 5) to his "lord" (vv. 8, 13), and the presentation of gifts of homage (vv. 10, 11). In contrast, Esau greeted Jacob as one brother greets another after a long separation (vv. 4, 9).



Jacob Returns to Canaan. After 20 years in Padan Aram, located in Northern Mesopotamia, Jacob returned to Canaan. He met the angels of God at Mahanaim. At Penuel he wrestled with a messenger of the Lord and prevailed.

they wept. 5 And he lifted his eyes and saw the women and children, and said, "Who are these with you?"

So he said, "The children [e]whom God has graciously given your servant." 6 Then the maidservants came near, they and their children, and bowed down. 7 And Leah also came near with her children, and they bowed down. Afterward Joseph and Rachel came near, and they bowed down.

8 Then Esau said, "What do you mean by [f]all this company which I met?"

And he said, "These are [g]to find favor in the sight of my lord."

9 But Esau said, "I have enough, my brother; keep what you have for yourself."

10 And Jacob said, "No, please, if I have now found favor in your sight, then receive my present from my hand, inasmuch as I [h]have seen your face as though I had seen the face of God, and you were pleased with me. 11 Please, take [i]my blessing that is brought to you, because God has dealt [j]graciously with me, and because I have [l]enough." [k]So he urged him, and he took it.

12 Then Esau said, "Let us take our journey; let us go, and I will go before you."

13 But Jacob said to him, "My lord knows that the children are weak, and the flocks and herds which are nursing are with me. And if the men should drive them hard one day, all the flock will die. 14 Please let my lord go on ahead before his servant. I will lead on slowly at a pace which the livestock that go before me, and the children, [2]are able to endure, until I come to my lord [l]in Seir."

15 And Esau said, "Now let me leave with you some of the people who are with me."

But he said, "What need is there? [m]Let me find favor in the sight of my lord." 16 So Esau returned that day on his way to Seir. 17 And Jacob journeyed to [n]Succoth, built himself a house, and made [3]booths for his livestock. Therefore the name of the place is called [4]Succoth.

Jacob Comes to Canaan

18 Then Jacob came [5]safely to [o]the city of [p]Shechem, which is in the land of Canaan, when he came from Padan Aram; and he pitched his tent before the city. 19 And [q]he bought the parcel of [6]land, where he had pitched his tent, from the children of Hamor, Shechem's father, for one hundred pieces of money. 20 Then he erected an altar there and called it [r]El[7] Elohe Israel.

The Dinah Incident

34 Now [a]Dinah the daughter of Leah, whom she had borne to Jacob, went out to see the daughters of the land. 2 And when Shechem the son of Hamor the Hivite, prince of the country, saw her, he [b]took her and lay with her, and violated her. 3 His soul [1]was strongly attracted to Dinah the daughter of Jacob, and he loved the young woman and spoke [2]kindly to the young woman. 4 So Shechem [c]spoke to his father Hamor, saying, "Get me this young woman as a wife."

5 And Jacob heard that he had defiled Dinah his daughter. Now his sons were with his livestock in the field; so Jacob [d]held[3] his peace until they came. 6 Then Hamor the father of Shechem went out to Jacob to speak with him. 7 And the sons of Jacob came in from the field when they heard it; and the men were grieved and very angry, because he [e]had done a disgraceful

■ 33:5 graciously given. As Jacob remembered his troubled history, he confessed God's unmerited kindness in giving him children (29:31—30:24) and prosperity (30:25—31:55).

■ 33:10 present. See 32:13 and note.

as though . . . the face of God. As at Peniel, when Jacob saw God's face by theophany and his life was graciously spared (32:30), so also now he saw the dreaded face of Esau and was graciously received.

■ 33:11 my blessing. Jacob's statement recalls his earlier theft of the paternal blessing in ch. 27. Jacob here offered recompense out of the many blessings God had given him.

urged . . . took. The reconciliation was sealed by accepting the gift.

■ 33:14 until I come to . . . Seir. Given his intention to travel to Succoth (v. 17), Jacob may have been speaking deceptively, but more probably Esau knew that this was Jacob's polite way of not contradicting him (cf. 23:11 note). Though reconciled, the brothers would live apart.

■ 33:18—35:29 This final section of "the account of Isaac" (Introduction: Outline), like the closing section in "the account of Abraham" (22:20—25:11), records the transition of patriarchies. It is structured according to Jacob's itinerary back in the land, featuring deaths at various sites (which mark the passage of Isaac's generation), and important episodes in the "account" such as the sins of Reuben, Simeon, and Levi.

■ 33:20 he erected an altar there. Jacob built his altar at Shechem where Abraham built his first altar in the Promised Land (see 12:6, 7). See also 28:20–22.

■ 34:1–31 The threat to the covenant community at Shechem was severe. Hamor's proposal would have meant the assimilation of Jacob's family into the surrounding peoples (vv. 8–10; Num. 25:1–3 note).

The transition from Jacob's act of worship (33:20) to the depraved behavior of ch. 34 is striking. Instead of residing at Shechem (33:18, 19), perhaps Jacob should have fulfilled his vow at Bethel (28:22; 31:13; 35:1). There is no mention of God in this chapter and no separation from idolatry (35:1–5), a sad commentary on Jacob's spiritual leadership (35:4 note).

■ 34:2 Hivite. See 9:25; 10:15, 17 and notes.

saw . . . took . . . violated. This was forcible rape; Dinah did not consent. The Hebrew word translated "violated" is rendered "force" in 2 Sam. 13:12, 14, 22, 32. The sequence "saw . . . took" recalls 3:6 and 6:2.

■ 34:7 in Israel. The nation of Israel. This description assumes the later development of the nation from the sons of Israel (cf. 49:28).

thing in Israel by lying with Jacob's daughter, [f]a thing which ought not to be done. 8 But Hamor spoke with them, saying, "The soul of my son Shechem longs for your daughter. Please give her to him as a wife. 9 And make marriages with us; give your daughters to us, and take our daughters to yourselves. 10 So you shall dwell with us, and the land shall be before you. Dwell and trade in it, and acquire possessions for yourselves in it."

11 Then Shechem said to her father and her brothers, "Let me find favor in your eyes, and whatever you say to me I will give. 12 Ask me ever so much [g]dowry[4] and gift, and I will give according to what you say to me; but give me the young woman as a wife."

13 But the sons of Jacob answered Shechem and Hamor his father, and spoke [h]deceitfully, because he had defiled Dinah their sister. 14 And they said to them, "We cannot do this thing, to give our sister to one who is [i]uncircumcised, for [j]that would be a reproach to us. 15 But on this condition we will consent to you: If you will become as we are, if every male of you is circumcised, 16 then we will give our daughters to you, and we will take your daughters to us; and we will dwell with you, and we will become one people. 17 But if you will not heed us and be circumcised, then we will take our daughter and be gone."

18 And their words pleased Hamor and Shechem, Hamor's son. 19 So the young man did not delay to do the thing, because he delighted in Jacob's daughter. He was [k]more honorable than all the household of his father.

20 And Hamor and Shechem his son came to the [l]gate of their city, and spoke with the men of their city, saying: 21 "These men are at peace with us. Therefore let them dwell in the land and trade in it. For indeed the land is large enough for them. Let us take their daughters to us as wives, and let us give them our daughters. 22 Only on this condition will the men consent to dwell with us, to be one people: if every male among us is circumcised as they are circumcised. 23 Will not their livestock, their property, and every animal of theirs be ours? Only let us consent to them, and they will dwell with us." 24 And all who went out of the gate of his city heeded Hamor and Shechem his son; every male was circumcised, all who [m]went out of the gate of his city.

25 Now it came to pass on the third day, when they were in pain, that two of the sons of Jacob, [n]Simeon and Levi, Dinah's brothers, each took his sword and came boldly upon the city and killed all the males. 26 And they [o]killed Hamor and Shechem his son with the edge of the sword, and took Dinah from Shechem's house, and went out. 27 The sons of Jacob came upon the slain, and plundered the city, because their sister had been defiled. 28 They took their sheep, their oxen, and their donkeys, what was in the city and what was in the field, 29 and all their wealth. All their little ones and their wives they took captive; and they plundered even all that was in the houses.

30 Then Jacob said to Simeon and Levi, [p]"You have [q]troubled me [r]by making me obnoxious among the inhabitants of the land, among the Canaanites and the Perizzites; [s]and since I am few in number, they will gather themselves together against me and kill me. I shall be destroyed, my household and I."

31 But they said, "Should he treat our sister like a harlot?"

Jacob's Return to Bethel

35 Then God said to Jacob, "Arise, go up to [a]Bethel and dwell there; and make an altar there to God, [b]who appeared to you [c]when you fled from the face of Esau your brother."

CHAPTER 35

1 [a]Gen. 28:19; 31:13 [b]Gen. 28:13 [c]Gen. 27:43

■ 34:9 make marriages. See note on ch. 34.

■ 34:12 dowry. This was not the dowry given by the bride's family to the groom, but rather the "bride-price" (text note), a reciprocal gift given by the groom to the bride's father (24:53; 1 Sam. 18:25).

■ 34:13 sons of Jacob . . . spoke deceitfully. Jacob reaped the whirlwind; his sons copied his deception (27:35, 36), but killing was their goal.

■ 34:15 every male . . . circumcised. Jacob's sons sacrilegiously emptied the holy covenant sign of its religious significance (17:10, 11 and notes) and abused it for the purpose of inflicting vengeance.

■ 34:20 gate. See note on 23:10.

■ 34:24 all . . . heeded Hamor. The Shechemites probably neither knew nor cared about the religious significance of the rite; they agreed only to advance their own interests (v. 23).

■ 34:25 killed all the males. Under the Mosaic law, Shechem's sin against Dinah would not have earned such excessive punishment (Deut. 22:28, 29). The action of Simeon and Levi prematurely (and illegitimately) anticipated the holy war that Israel was to wage against the inhabitants of the land (15:16; Ex. 23:27–31; Deut. 20:16–20).

■ 34:27 plundered. By their unbridled, faithless, and rash revenge Simeon and Levi lost leadership and land in Israel (49:5–7).

■ 34:30 I shall be destroyed. Jacob here displayed fear, not obedient faith (cf. 35:5).

■ 35:1–29 Jacob's journey through time, as indicated by births (vv. 16–18), deaths (vv. 8, 19, 20), and genealogies (vv. 23–26), and through space, as indicated by itineraries (vv. 6, 16, 21, 27), is brought to completion because God was with him (v. 3). He returns to pay his vow at Bethel (vv. 1–8), is confirmed as the successor to God's Abrahamic promises (vv. 9–15), sees the twelve tribes of Israel safely settled in the Promised Land (vv. 16–26), and is reunited with his father and brother (vv. 27–29).

■ 35:1 go up to Bethel. Jacob had a vow to fulfill (28:20–22; 34:1–31 note). God's revelation at Bethel (vv. 9–13) reiterates the covenant promises to Abraham, who himself had earlier worshiped at Bethel (12:8; 13:3, 4).

2 And Jacob said to his [d]household and to all who were with him, "Put away [e]the foreign gods that are among you, [f]purify yourselves, and change your garments. 3 Then let us arise and go up to Bethel; and I will make an altar there to God, [g]who answered me in the day of my distress [h]and has been with me in the way which I have gone." 4 So they gave Jacob all the foreign [i]gods which were in their hands, and the [j]earrings which were in their ears; and Jacob hid them under [j]the terebinth tree which was by Shechem.

5 And they journeyed, and [k]the terror of God was upon the cities that were all around them, and they did not pursue the sons of Jacob. 6 So Jacob came to [l]Luz (that is, Bethel), which is in the land of Canaan, he and all the people who were with him. 7 And he [m]built an altar there and called the place [2]El Bethel, because [n]there God appeared to him when he fled from the face of his brother.

8 Now [o]Deborah, Rebekah's nurse, died, and she was buried below Bethel under the terebinth tree. So the name of it was called [3]Allon Bachuth.

9 Then [p]God appeared to Jacob again, when he came from Padan Aram, and [q]blessed him. 10 And God said to him, "Your name is Jacob; [r]your name shall not be called Jacob anymore, [s]but Israel shall be your name." So He called his name Israel. 11 Also God said to him: [t]"I am God Almighty. [u]Be fruitful and multiply; [v]a nation and a company of nations shall proceed from you, and kings shall come from your body. 12 The [w]land which I gave Abraham and Isaac I give to you; and to your descendants after you I give this land." 13 Then God [x]went[4] up from him in the place where He talked with him. 14 So Jacob [y]set up a pillar in the place where He talked with him, a pillar of stone; and he poured a drink offering on it, and he poured oil on it. 15 And Jacob called the name of the place where God spoke with him, [z]Bethel.

Death of Rachel

16 Then they journeyed from Bethel. And when there was but a little distance to go to Ephrath, Rachel labored in childbirth, and she had hard labor. 17 Now it came to pass, when she was in hard labor, that the midwife said to her, "Do not fear; [a]you will have this son also." 18 And so it was, as her soul was departing (for she died), that she called his name [5]Ben-Oni; but his father called him [6]Benjamin. 19 So [b]Rachel died and was buried on the way to [c]Ephrath (that is, Bethlehem). 20 And Jacob set a pillar on her grave, which is the pillar of Rachel's grave [d]to this day.

21 Then Israel journeyed and pitched his tent beyond [e]the tower of Eder. 22 And it happened, when Israel dwelt in that land, that Reuben went and [f]lay with Bilhah his father's concubine; and Israel heard about it.

■ 35:2 Put away. Repentance involves renouncing whatever hinders or tarnishes the worship and service of God. The covenant's primary requirement is exclusive allegiance to the Lord (Ex. 20:3–5; Josh. 24:14; Judg. 10:16).

■ 35:4 they gave Jacob. Jacob recovered his spiritual leadership of the family (30:2 note; 34:1–31 note).

terebinth tree . . . by Shechem. Probably the sacred tree associated with Abraham (12:6 and note).

■ 35:5 terror of God. God's protection of Jacob's family by divinely induced panic (cf. Ex. 23:27; Josh. 2:9) was necessary because their reputation had changed from that of peaceful shepherds (34:21) to rapacious warriors (34:30).

■ 35:7 built an altar. Jacob finally fulfilled his vow to the Lord (28:20–22). By such altar building, the patriarchal family acknowledged the covenant promises and consecrated the Promised Land. Regular worship was crucial if they were to maintain their religious separation from the surrounding Canaanites (ch. 34; Num. 25:1–3 and notes). See 12:7 and note; 13:18; 22:9; 33:20.

■ 35:8 Rebekah's nurse. Scripture memorializes the death of the aged, faithful nurse of Rebekah, rather than the matriarch herself, probably because of Rebekah's deception (ch. 27).

■ 35:9–15 God's revelation to Jacob after his return from Padan Aram to Bethel confirmed the earlier promises of 28:13, 14. Using language that closely parallels the Abrahamic promises of nations, royalty, and land (17:5–8), God confirms His promises to Israel, the transformed Jacob (32:28), and indirectly to his twelve sons.

■ 35:9 Padan Aram. See note on 25:20.

■ 35:11 Be fruitful. God's gracious blessing on all mankind (1:28; 9:1, 7) was focused particularly on the covenant community (28:3; cf. 47:27; Ex. 1:7).

■ 35:12 land . . . descendants. See notes on 12:7; 13:15.

■ 35:13 God went up from him. This recalls Jacob's first meeting with the Lord at Bethel (28:13 note).

■ 35:16–20 Near Ephrath, Rachel died giving birth to Jacob's twelfth son (30:1 note). The birth of Benjamin completed the patriarchal roster of the twelve tribes of Israel.

■ 35:17 this son also. Rachel's prayer was answered (30:24).

■ 35:18 Ben-Oni. See text note. Rachel's weeping for her child portended an anguished future for the nation (Jer. 31:15–17; Matt. 2:17, 18).

Benjamin. See text note. The Hebrew word yamin can refer both to the right hand and to the south (the Hebrews often described directions in terms of a person facing the east—the right hand thus pointed to the south). Jacob's other sons were born in Padan Aram, northeast of Canaan.

■ 35:22 Reuben . . . lay with Bilhah. To gratify his lusts and perhaps to certify his leadership as firstborn over the next generation (cf. 2 Sam. 16:15–23; 1 Kin. 2:22). For his sin Reuben was deprived of his status as firstborn (48:1 note) and of his leadership (49:3, 4; Deut. 22:30), which Judah, Leah's fourth son, would assume instead (49:8–10).

Jacob's Twelve Sons

Now the sons of Jacob were twelve: [23] the sons of Leah were [g]Reuben, Jacob's firstborn, and Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, and Zebulun; [24] the sons of Rachel were Joseph and Benjamin; [25] the sons of Bilhah, Rachel's maidservant, were Dan and Naphtali; [26] and the sons of Zilpah, Leah's maidservant, were Gad and Asher. These were the sons of Jacob who were born to him in Padan Aram.

Death of Isaac

[27] Then Jacob came to his father Isaac at [h]Mamre, or [i]Kirjath Arba[7] (that is, Hebron), where Abraham and Isaac had dwelt. [28] Now the days of Isaac were one hundred and eighty years. [29] So Isaac breathed his last and died, and [j]was [8]gathered to his people, being old and full of days. And [k]his sons Esau and Jacob buried him.

The Family of Esau

36 Now this is the genealogy of Esau, [a]who is Edom. [2] [b]Esau took his wives from the daughters of Canaan: Adah the daughter of Elon the [c]Hittite; [d]Aholibamah[1] the daughter of Anah, the daughter of Zibeon the Hivite; [3] and [e]Basemath, Ishmael's daughter, sister of Nebajoth. [4] Now [f]Adah bore Eliphaz to Esau, and Basemath bore Reuel. [5] And [2]Aholibamah bore Jeush, Jaalam, and Korah. These were the sons of Esau who were born to him in the land of Canaan.

[6] Then Esau took his wives, his sons, his daughters, and all the persons of his household, his cattle and all his animals, and all his goods which he had gained in the land of Canaan, and went to a country away from the presence of his brother Jacob. [7] [g]For their possessions were too great for them to dwell together, and [h]the land where they were strangers could not support them because of their livestock. [8] So Esau dwelt in [i]Mount Seir. [j]Esau is Edom.

[9] And this is the genealogy of Esau the father of the Edomites in Mount Seir. [10] These were the names of Esau's sons: [k]Eliphaz the son of Adah the wife of Esau, and Reuel the son of Basemath the wife of Esau. [11] And the sons of Eliphaz were Teman, Omar, [3]Zepho, Gatam, and Kenaz.

[12] Now Timna was the concubine of Eliphaz, Esau's son, and she bore [l]Amalek to Eliphaz. These were the sons of Adah, Esau's wife.

[13] These were the sons of Reuel: Nahath, Zerah, Shammah, and Mizzah. These were the sons of Basemath, Esau's wife.

[14] These were the sons of [4]Aholibamah, Esau's wife, the daughter of Anah, the daughter of Zibeon. And she bore to Esau: Jeush, Jaalam, and Korah.

The Chiefs of Edom

[15] These were the chiefs of the sons of Esau. The sons of Eliphaz, the firstborn son of Esau, were Chief Teman, Chief Omar, Chief Zepho, Chief Kenaz, [16] [5]Chief Korah, Chief Gatam, and Chief Amalek. These were the chiefs of Eliphaz in the land of Edom. They were the sons of Adah.

[17] These were the sons of Reuel, Esau's son: Chief Nahath, Chief Zerah, Chief Shammah, and

■ 35:26 sons . . . born . . . in Padan Aram. Benjamin was not actually born in Padan Aram, but after the return to Canaan (vv. 16–18). The statement must be taken as an informal review of the sons born to Jacob during this general period of his sojourn in Padan Aram and the immediate aftermath (46:8–27 note). This association of the twelve sons with Padan Aram perhaps underscores the similarities of Jacob's "exodus" from Padan Aram and the Exodus of the twelve tribes from Egypt (31:3 note).

■ 35:27–29 Isaac again appears in the narrative (28:5). His journey ended with a full length of years, but God passed him by after he tried to thwart God's purpose in the blessing (25:19 note).

■ 36:1 genealogy. With this genealogy, or account, of Esau, a new section of Genesis begins (2:4 note).

Esau, who is Edom. "Edom," derived from the Hebrew word for "red," was another name for Esau (25:25; 25:30 and note). The term was also appropriate for the land of Edom, with its red sandstone formations and soil.

■ 36:2–8 This genealogy focuses on Esau's Canaanite wives and the children born in Canaan prior to his migration to Mount Seir.

■ 36:2 took his wives. See 26:34; 27:46 and notes.

Canaan. See 9:25; 10:15–19. The word broadly covers the tribes in the land.

Adah. The names of Esau's wives here differ from those in 26:34; 28:9. The use of alternate names may account for some of the variation.

■ 36:6 went to a country. Jacob's return to Mamre clinched Esau's decision to move permanently to Edom. Separated in spirit, Jacob and Esau were to be separated by geography as well (cf. 33:14 note).

■ 36:9–14 This genealogy focuses on Esau's twelve sons (vv. 2–8), not counting Amalek, the son of Eliphaz's concubine, Timna (v. 12).

■ 36:15–19 This list shows the transition of Esau's descendants from a family to a tribal structure.

Chief Mizzah. These were the chiefs of Reuel in the land of Edom. These were the sons of Basemath, Esau's wife.

18 And these were the sons of [6]Aholibamah, Esau's wife: Chief Jeush, Chief Jaalam, and Chief Korah. These were the chiefs who descended from Aholibamah, Esau's wife, the daughter of Anah. 19 These were the sons of Esau, who is Edom, and these were their chiefs.

The Sons of Seir

20 [m]These were the sons of Seir [n]the Horite who inhabited the land: Lotan, Shobal, Zibeon, Anah, 21 Dishon, Ezer, and Dishan. These were the chiefs of the Horites, the sons of Seir, in the land of Edom.

22 And the sons of Lotan were Hori and [7]Hemam. Lotan's sister was Timna.

23 These were the sons of Shobal: [8]Alvan, Manahath, Ebal, [9]Shepho, and Onam.

24 These were the sons of Zibeon: both Ajah and Anah. This was the Anah who found the [l]water in the wilderness as he pastured [o]the donkeys of his father Zibeon. 25 These were the children of Anah: Dishon and [2]Aholibamah the daughter of Anah.

26 These were the sons of [3]Dishon: [4]Hemdan, Eshban, Ithran, and Cheran. 27 These were the sons of Ezer: Bilhan, Zaavan, and [5]Akan. 28 These were the sons of Dishan: [p]Uz and Aran.

29 These were the chiefs of the Horites: Chief Lotan, Chief Shobal, Chief Zibeon, Chief Anah, 30 Chief Dishon, Chief Ezer, and Chief Dishan. These were the chiefs of the Horites, according to their chiefs in the land of Seir.

The Kings of Edom

31 [q]Now these were the kings who reigned in the land of Edom before any king reigned over the children of Israel: 32 Bela the son of Beor reigned in Edom, and the name of his city was Dinhabah. 33 And when Bela died, Jobab the son of Zerah of Bozrah reigned in his place. 34 When Jobab died, Husham of the land of the Temanites reigned in his place. 35 And when Husham died, Hadad the son of Bedad, who attacked Midian in the field of Moab, reigned in his place. And the name of his city was Avith. 36 When Hadad died, Samlah of Masrekah reigned in his place. 37 And when Samlah died, Saul of [r]Rehoboth-by-the-River reigned in his place. 38 When Saul died, Baal-Hanan the son of Achbor reigned in his place. 39 And when Baal-Hanan the son of Achbor died, [6]Hadar reigned in his place; and the name of his city was [7]Pau. His wife's name was Mehetabel, the daughter of Matred, the daughter of Mezahab.

The Chiefs of Esau

40 And these were the names of the chiefs of Esau, according to their families and their places, by their names: Chief Timnah, Chief [8]Alvah, Chief Jetheth, 41 Chief [9]Aholibamah, Chief Elah, Chief Pinon, 42 Chief Kenaz, Chief Teman, Chief Mibzar, 43 Chief Magdiel, and Chief Iram. These were the chiefs of Edom, according to their dwelling places in the land of their possession. Esau was the father of [l]the Edomites.

Joseph Dreams of Greatness

37 Now Jacob dwelt in the land [a]where his father was a [l]stranger, in the land of Canaan.
2 This is the history of Jacob.

Joseph, being seventeen years old, was feeding the flock with his brothers. And the lad was with the sons of Bilhah and the sons of Zilpah, his father's wives; and Joseph brought [b]a bad report of them to his father.

■ 36:20–30 This genealogy presents the aboriginal inhabitants of Mount Seir whom the sons of Esau destroyed (Deut. 2:22) and, in other cases, married (vv. 22, 25).

■ 36:31–39 The list shows Edom's transition from tribal structure to designated kingship.

■ 36:31 before any king reigned over . . . Israel. See Introduction: Date and Occasion.

■ 37:2—50:26 The final section of Genesis, "the history of Jacob," begins. It starts on a negative note with the shattering of the covenant family's peace (ch. 37) and their intermarriage with the Canaanites (ch. 38), but concludes with the family's reconciliation and preservation in Egypt.

Just as Jacob figured prominently in the "account of Isaac," so also does Joseph in this "history of Jacob." God used Joseph, the rejected, godly brother, to save and reconcile the covenant family (45:5–8; 50:24). Though the striking parallels are not developed in the New Testament, the Christian church has traditionally viewed Joseph as a type of Christ. Godly Joseph, beloved by his father (37:3; cf. Mark 1:11), was sent to his brothers, but was then sold for twenty pieces of silver (37:28; cf. Matt. 26:15). After suffering persecution and temptation (37:18–36; 39:7–20; cf. Matt. 4:1–11), righteous Joseph was exalted as lord over his brothers (37:5–11; 41:37–45; 42:6; cf. Phil. 2:9, 10).

3 Now Israel loved Joseph more than all his children, because he was [c]the son of his old age. Also he [d]made him a tunic of many colors. 4 But when his brothers saw that their father loved him more than all his brothers, they [e]hated him and could not speak peaceably to him.

5 Now Joseph had a dream, and he told it to his brothers; and they hated him even more. 6 So he said to them, "Please hear this dream which I have dreamed: 7 [f]There we were, binding sheaves in the field. Then behold, my sheaf arose and also stood upright; and indeed your sheaves stood all around and bowed down to my sheaf."

8 And his brothers said to him, "Shall you indeed reign over us? Or shall you indeed have dominion over us?" So they hated him even more for his dreams and for his words.

9 Then he dreamed still another dream and told it to his brothers, and said, "Look, I have dreamed another dream. And this time, [g]the sun, the moon, and the eleven stars bowed down to me."

10 So he told it to his father and his brothers; and his father rebuked him and said to him, "What is this dream that you have dreamed? Shall your mother and I and [h]your brothers indeed come to bow down to the earth before you?" 11 And [i]his brothers envied him, but his father [j]kept the matter in mind.

Joseph Sold by His Brothers

12 Then his brothers went to feed their father's flock in [k]Shechem. 13 And Israel said to Joseph, "Are not your brothers feeding the flock in Shechem? Come, I will send you to them."

So he said to him, "Here I am."

14 Then he said to him, "Please go and see if it is well with your brothers and well with the flocks, and bring back word to me." So he sent him out of the Valley of [l]Hebron, and he went to Shechem.

15 Now a certain man found him, and there he was, wandering in the field. And the man asked him, saying, "What are you seeking?"

16 So he said, "I am seeking my brothers. [m]Please tell me where they are feeding their flocks."

17 And the man said, "They have departed from here, for I heard them say, 'Let us go to Dothan.' " So Joseph went after his brothers and found them in [n]Dothan.

■ 37:3 loved. Parental favoritism again promoted family discord, deception, and the disappearance of the preferred son, but God graciously used it to achieve His good purpose (cf. 25:28).

old age. See 30:22–24.

tunic of many colors. A sign of Joseph's preferential status (cf. 2 Sam. 13:18), and a galling reminder to Joseph's brothers of their father's favoritism. The exact nature of the coat is uncertain. The rendering "of many colors" reflects the Septuagint (Greek Old Testament) translation. Some suggest that the Hebrew means a "long coat with sleeves."

■ 37:4 could not speak peaceably to him. Or, "could not greet him with peace." The greeting, or salutation, was a crucial element of ancient etiquette (cf. 1 Sam. 25:6). Such a failure to extend the greeting indicated the depth of their animosity.

■ 37:5 dream. As in certain other Genesis narratives, the key to the Joseph story is given in an opening revelation (cf. 12:1–3; 25:22, 23). This prophetic dream shows that God's sovereign purpose lay behind all the events of the narrative (45:5–8). See note on 20:3.

■ 37:7 bowed down. See 42:6; 43:26; 44:14.

■ 37:8 reign. Their rhetorical question was later answered when Joseph came to rule "over all the land of Egypt" (41:43) and then over the covenant family living in Egypt. Joseph's status as head of the covenant family was confirmed when he received "the birthright" from his father Jacob (1 Chr. 5:2; cf. Deut. 33:16).

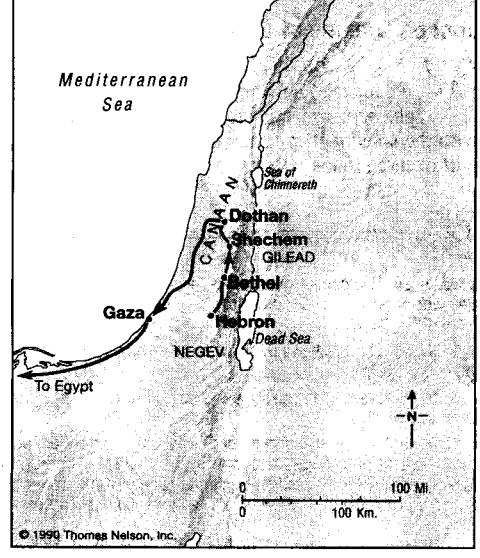
■ 37:9 another dream. The reiteration of the theme in Joseph's second dream, like the similar repetition in Pharaoh's dreams (41:1–7), shows that the matter was determined by God and would quickly come to pass (41:32).

■ 37:10 mother. Probably a reference to Joseph's stepmother Leah; his mother Rachel had earlier died in childbirth (35:16–20).

Joseph Becomes a Slave in Egypt. Joseph followed his shepherd brothers from Hebron to Dothan, where they sold him to a caravan of Ishmaelites en route to Egypt.

■ 37:11 kept the matter in mind. This statement perhaps anticipates Jacob's later decision to give Joseph the birthright and double portion (v. 8 note; 48:5, 6).

■ 37:15 wandering in the field. Because of this divinely ordained delay the Ishmaelites arrived at just the right time (vv. 21–28).



18 Now when they saw him afar off, even before he came near them, [o]they conspired against him to kill him. 19 Then they said to one another, "Look, this [2]dreamer is coming! 20 [p]Come therefore, let us now kill him and cast him into some pit; and we shall say, 'Some wild beast has devoured him.' We shall see what will become of his dreams!"
21 But [q]Reuben heard it, and he delivered him out of their hands, and said, "Let us not kill him." 22 And Reuben said to them, "Shed no blood, but cast him into this pit which is in the wilderness, and do not lay a hand on him"—that he might deliver him out of their hands, and bring him back to his father.
23 So it came to pass, when Joseph had come to his brothers, that they [r]stripped Joseph of his tunic, the tunic of many colors that was on him. 24 Then they took him and cast him into a pit.
And the pit was empty; there was no water in it.
25 [s]And they sat down to eat a meal. Then they lifted their eyes and looked, and there was a company of [t]Ishmaelites, coming from Gilead with their camels, bearing spices, [u]balm, and myrrh, on their way to carry them down to Egypt. 26 So Judah said to his brothers, "What profit is there if we kill our brother and [v]conceal his blood? 27 Come and let us sell him to the Ishmael-ites, and [w]let not our hand be upon him, for he is [x]our brother and [y]our flesh." And his brothers listened. 28 Then [z]Midianite traders passed by; so the brothers pulled Joseph up and lifted him out of the pit, [a]and sold him to the Ishmaelites for [b]twenty shekels of silver. And they took Joseph to Egypt.
29 Then Reuben returned to the pit, and indeed Joseph was not in the pit; and he [c]tore his clothes. 30 And he returned to his brothers and said, "The lad [d]is no more; and I, where shall I go?"
31 So they took [e]Joseph's tunic, killed a kid of the goats, and dipped the tunic in the blood.
32 Then they sent the tunic of many colors, and they brought it to their father and said, "We have found this. Do you know whether it is your son's tunic or not?"
33 And he recognized it and said, "It is my son's tunic. A [f]wild beast has devoured him. Without doubt Joseph is torn to pieces." 34 Then Jacob [g]tore his clothes, put sackcloth on his waist, and [h]mourned for his son many days. 35 And all his sons and all his daughters [i]arose to comfort him; but he refused to be comforted, and he said, "For [j]I shall go down into the grave to my son in mourning." Thus his father wept for him.
36 Now [k]the [3]Midianites had sold him in Egypt to Potiphar, an officer of Pharaoh and captain of the guard.

Judah and Tamar

38 It came to pass at that time that Judah departed from his brothers, and [a]visited a certain Adullamite whose name was Hirah. 2 And Judah [b]saw there a daughter of a certain Canaanite whose name was [c]Shua, and he married her and went in to her. 3 So she conceived and bore a son, and he called his name [d]Er. 4 She conceived again and bore a son, and she called his name [e]Onan. 5 And she conceived yet again and bore a son, and called his name [f]Shelah. He was at Chezib when she bore him.
6 Then Judah [g]took a wife for Er his firstborn, and her name was [h]Tamar. 7 But [i]Er, Judah's

■ 37:21 Reuben . . . delivered him. As the eldest brother (29:32), Reuben assumed leadership in Jacob's absence and was responsible for the safety of his brothers (vv. 29, 30).

■ 37:25 they sat down to eat a meal. The brothers later acknowledged the heartlessness of their behavior (42:21).

Ishmaelites. These traders are also identified as Midianites (v. 28) and Medanites (v. 36 text note). All three groups were descended from Abraham and had no doubt intermarried (25:2, 12).

■ 37:27 sell him. Note the later prohibition in the Mosaic law against kidnapping (Ex. 21:16; Deut. 24:7).

■ 37:28 twenty shekels. See Lev. 27:5.

■ 37:30 where shall I go. Under such circumstances, Reuben dreaded returning to his father, to whom he must give an account (v. 21 note).

■ 37:31–33 Note the irony of these verses. Having deceived his father Isaac with goat skins (27:9) and with Esau's clothing (27:27), Jacob here is deceived by goat's blood on his son's clothes.

■ 37:36 Potiphar. This Egyptian name means, "he whom [the sun god] Ra has given."

■ 38:1–30 The shattered covenant family began to intermarry with the cursed Canaanites and risked the loss of their distinctive identity (34:1–31 note). God met this threat by sending Joseph ahead of them into Egypt where they were to be segregated (43:32; 46:34). There He preserved them until they had become a great nation and the iniquity of the Amorite was full (15:13–16). That the bizarre episode of Judah and Tamar should contribute to the genealogy of Jesus Christ is a vivid demonstration of God's grace (Matt. 1:3–16 note).

■ 38:1 Judah departed. Lit. "Judah went down" (i.e., from Hebron in the hill country to the lowlands, 35:27). The family further degenerates by disloyalty.

married. See 24:3; 26:34, 35 and notes.

■ 38:5 Chezib. A town near Adullam (v. 1 note). The mention of this Canaanite town, the name of which means "deceptive," underscores the theme of deception in the story of Jacob and his family.

firstborn, was wicked in the sight of the LORD, [j]and the LORD killed him. 8 And Judah said to Onan, "Go in to [k]your brother's wife and marry her, and raise up an heir to your brother." 9 But Onan knew that the heir would not be [l]his; and it came to pass, when he went in to his brother's wife, that he emitted on the ground, lest he should give an heir to his brother. 10 And the thing which he did [l]displeased the LORD; therefore He killed [m]him also.

11 Then Judah said to Tamar his daughter-in-law, [n]"Remain a widow in your father's house till my son Shelah is grown." For he said, "Lest he also die like his brothers." And Tamar went and dwelt [o]in her father's house.

12 Now in the process of time the daughter of Shua, Judah's wife, died; and Judah [p]was comforted, and went up to his sheepshearers at Timnah, he and his friend Hirah the Adullamite. 13 And it was told Tamar, saying, "Look, your father-in-law is going up [q]to Timnah to shear his sheep." 14 So she took off her widow's garments, covered herself with a veil and wrapped herself, and [r]sat in an open place which was on the way to Timnah; for she saw [s]that Shelah was grown, and she was not given to him as a wife. 15 When Judah saw her, he thought she was a harlot, because she had covered her face. 16 Then he turned to her by the way, and said, "Please let me come in to you"; for he did not know that she was his daughter-in-law.

So she said, "What will you give me, that you may come in to me?"

17 And he said, [t]"I will send a young goat from the flock."

So she said, [u]"Will you give me a pledge till you send it?"

18 Then he said, "What pledge shall I give you?"

So she said, [v]"Your signet and cord, and your staff that is in your hand." Then he gave them to her, and went in to her, and she conceived by him. 19 So she arose and went away, and [w]laid aside her veil and put on the garments of her widowhood.

20 And Judah sent the young goat by the hand of his friend the Adullamite, to receive his pledge from the woman's hand, but he did not find her. 21 Then he asked the men of that place, saying, "Where is the harlot who was [2]openly by the roadside?"

And they said, "There was no harlot in this place."

22 So he returned to Judah and said, "I cannot find her. Also, the men of the place said there was no harlot in this place."

23 Then Judah said, "Let her take them for herself, lest we be shamed; for I sent this young goat and you have not found her."

24 And it came to pass, about three months after, that Judah was told, saying, "Tamar your daughter-in-law has [x]played the harlot; furthermore she is [3]with child by harlotry."

So Judah said, "Bring her out [y]and let her be burned!"

25 When she was brought out, she sent to her father-in-law, saying, "By the man to whom these belong, I am with child." And she said, [z]"Please determine whose these are—the signet and cord, and staff."

26 So Judah [a]acknowledged them and said, [b]"She has been more righteous than I, because [c]I did not give her to Shelah my son." And he [d]never knew her again.

27 Now it came to pass, at the time for giving birth, that behold, twins were in her womb.

■ 38:8 raise up an heir to your brother. The first reference in Scripture to the widespread ancient custom of levirate marriage, whereby the brother of a deceased man (who lacked a heir) was expected to marry the widow. The offspring were considered children and heirs of the deceased. See note on Deut. 25:5.

■ 38:9 lest he should give an heir to his brother. Because the deceased Er was the firstborn, his heir would have inherited his position of family leadership and double portion (37:11 note). Desiring the place of firstborn for himself, second-born Onan (v. 4) had intercourse with Tamar but prevented conception of a child. In so doing he was unfair to both his deceased brother and Tamar.

■ 38:11 For he said. Failing to perceive God's judgment on his folly and on his wicked sons, Judah superstitiously regarded Tamar as a wife who brings misfortune. Because Judah was not about to risk the life of his third son, Tamar's future (which depended on having offspring) was bleak.

■ 38:13 to shear his sheep. Judah departed with his Canaanite friend Hirah (v. 1) to attend the sheep-shearing, an event marked by a great feast. This provided Tamar with an opportunity to effect her plan.

■ 38:14 garments. Once again clothing plays a part in deception (37:31–33 note).

■ 38:18 Your signet and cord. A cylinder seal, worn on a cord around the neck, was the insignia of a prominent man. He signed contracts by rolling the seal over the clay on which the contract was etched.

■ 38:21 harlot. Out of deference to Judah, his friend here used a more respectable term meaning "shrine prostitute" (a different Hebrew word is translated "harlot" in v. 15). Cultic prostitution was integral to the Canaanite fertility religions, and was later a persistent snare to Israel (Deut. 23:17; 1 Kin. 14:24 text note; 2 Kin. 23:7 text note).

■ 38:24 burned. A punishment later codified in the Mosaic law for a priest's daughter who prostituted herself (Lev. 21:9; cf. Deut. 22:21).

■ 38:26 more righteous than I. Though she played on Judah's vice, Tamar was commended for her daring ruse to redress Judah's wrong and build up her family. Thus she became a heroine in Israel (Ruth 4:12).

never knew her again. To do so would have made him guilty of incest.

■ 38:27–30 Another notable birth of twins where the identity of the firstborn is crucial to the story (cf. 25:21–34). Having identified one child as the firstborn with a thread, the midwife is surprised when the other twin is born first.

28 And so it was, when she was giving birth, that the one put out his hand; and the midwife took a scarlet thread and bound it on his hand, saying, "This one came out first." 29 Then it happened, as he drew back his hand, that his brother came out unexpectedly; and she said, "How did you break through? This breach be upon you!" Therefore his name was called [e]Perez.[4] 30 Afterward his brother came out who had the scarlet thread on his hand. And his name was called [f]Zerah.

Joseph a Slave in Egypt

39 Now Joseph had been taken [a]down to Egypt. And [b]Potiphar, an officer of Pharaoh, captain of the guard, an Egyptian, [c]bought him from the Ishmaelites who had taken him down there. 2 [d]The LORD was with Joseph, and he was a successful man; and he was in the house of his master the Egyptian. 3 And his master saw that the LORD was with him and that the LORD [e]made all he did [1]to prosper in his hand. 4 So Joseph [f]found favor in his sight, and served him. Then he made him [g]overseer of his house, and all that he had he put [2]under his authority. 5 So it was, from the time that he had made him overseer of his house and all that he had, that [h]the LORD blessed the Egyptian's house for Joseph's sake; and the blessing of the LORD was on all that he had in the house and in the field. 6 Thus he left all that he had in Joseph's [3]hand, and he did not know what he had except for the [4]bread which he ate.

Now Joseph [i]was handsome in form and appearance.

7 And it came to pass after these things that his master's wife [5]cast longing eyes on Joseph, and she said, [j]"Lie with me."

8 But he refused and said to his master's wife, "Look, my master does not know what is with me in the house, and he has committed all that he has to my hand. 9 There is no one greater in this house than I, nor has he kept back anything from me but you, because you are his wife. [k]How then can I do this great wickedness, and [l]sin against God?"

10 So it was, as she spoke to Joseph day by day, that he [m]did not heed her, to lie with her or to be with her.

11 But it happened about this time, when Joseph went into the house to do his work, and none of the men of the house was inside, 12 that she [n]caught him by his garment, saying, "Lie with me." But he left his garment in her hand, and fled and ran outside. 13 And so it was, when she saw that he had left his garment in her hand and fled outside, 14 that she called to the men of her house and spoke to them, saying, "See, he has brought in to us a [o]Hebrew to [6]mock us. He came in to me to lie with me, and I cried out with a loud voice. 15 And it happened, when he heard that I lifted my voice and cried out, that he left his garment with me, and fled and went outside."

16 So she kept his garment with her until his master came home. 17 Then she [p]spoke to him with words like these, saying, "The Hebrew servant whom you brought to us came in to me to mock me; 18 so it happened, as I lifted my voice and cried out, that he left his garment with me and fled outside."

19 So it was, when his master heard the words which his wife spoke to him, saying, "Your servant did to me after this manner," that his [q]anger was aroused. 20 Then Joseph's master took him and [r]put him into the [s]prison, a place where the king's prisoners were confined. And he was there in the prison. 21 But the LORD was with Joseph and showed him mercy, and He [t]gave[7] him favor in the sight of the keeper of the prison. 22 And the keeper of the prison [u]committed to Joseph's hand all the prisoners who were in the prison; whatever they did there, it was his doing.

■ 39:1–23 The narrative returns to Joseph in Egypt, where he survives a succession of injustices and is advanced because "the LORD was with him" (vv. 2, 23). God orchestrates an astonishing chain of events that move unerringly to save His people (Ps. 105:16–22). Joseph's initial privilege in Potiphar's house (vv. 2–6; cf. 47:6), his affliction and imprisonment (v. 20; cf. Ex. 1:8–14), and his deliverance (v. 21; 41:37–45; cf. Ex. 3:21; 12:31–42) prefigure the later experience of Israel as a whole in Egypt. See note on 37:2—50:26.

■ 39:1 Potiphar. See note on 37:36.

Ishmaelites. See note on 37:25.

■ 39:2 The LORD was with Joseph. This repeated formula provides the theological theme of the story (vv. 3, 21, 23), and the link between Joseph and the patriarchs (28:15; cf. Acts 7:9). God's beneficent presence was experienced even in slavery, outside the land of blessing.

■ 39:5 the LORD blessed the Egyptian's house. Once again the elect line is a means of blessing to those outside the covenant (12:3 note; 14:13, 24 and notes).

■ 39:6 the bread which he ate. Probably a figure of speech for his private affairs.

■ 39:9 sin against God. Adultery was considered a great sin in the ancient Near East (20:9 and note), but Joseph was particularly conscious that he lived in the presence of God (cf. 2 Sam. 12:13; Ps. 51:4).

■ 39:14 a Hebrew. See note on 14:13; 41:12; 43:32.

■ 39:19, 20 Though Potiphar's anger may have initially been directed at Joseph, his subsequent action indicates that he doubted his wife's accusation. Attempted rape of the master's wife by a slave would probably have earned a death sentence, but Joseph's punishment (confinement with the king's prisoners) was relatively mild.

■ 39:21 gave him favor. See text note. God similarly commended the Israelites to the Egyptians before the Exodus (Ex. 3:21; 11:3; 12:36).

1 [a]Gen. 40:5

23 The keeper of the prison did not look into anything that was under [8]Joseph's authority, because [v]the LORD was with him; and whatever he did, the LORD made it prosper.

The Prisoners' Dreams

40 It came to pass after these things that the [a]butler and the baker of the king of Egypt offended their lord, the king of Egypt. 2 And Pharaoh was [b]angry with his two officers, the chief butler and the chief baker. 3 [c]So he put them in custody in the house of the captain of the guard, in the prison, the place where Joseph was confined. 4 And the captain of the guard charged Joseph with them, and he served them; so they were in custody for a while.

5 Then the butler and the baker of the king of Egypt, who were confined in the prison, [d]had a dream, both of them, each man's dream in one night and each man's dream with its own interpretation. 6 And Joseph came in to them in the morning and looked at them, and saw that they were [1]sad. 7 So he asked Pharaoh's officers who were with him in the custody of his lord's house, saying, [e]"Why do you look so sad today?"

8 And they said to him, [f]"We each have had a dream, and there is no interpreter of it."

So Joseph said to them, [g]"Do not interpretations belong to God? Tell them to me, please."

9 Then the chief butler told his dream to Joseph, and said to him, "Behold, in my dream a vine was before me, 10 and in the vine were three branches; it was as though it budded, its blossoms shot forth, and its clusters brought forth ripe grapes. 11 Then Pharaoh's cup was in my hand; and I took the grapes and pressed them into Pharaoh's cup, and placed the cup in Pharaoh's hand."

12 And Joseph said to him, [h]"This is the interpretation of it: The three branches [i]are three days. 13 Now within three days Pharaoh will [j]lift up your head and restore you to your [2]place, and you will put Pharaoh's cup in his hand according to the former manner, when you were his butler. 14 But [k]remember me when it is well with you, and [l]please show kindness to me; make mention of me to Pharaoh, and get me out of this house. 15 For indeed I was [m]stolen away from the land of the Hebrews; [n]and also I have done nothing here that they should put me into the dungeon."

16 When the chief baker saw that the interpretation was good, he said to Joseph, "I also was in my dream, and there were three [3]white baskets on my head. 17 In the uppermost basket were all kinds of baked goods for Pharaoh, and the birds ate them out of the basket on my head."

18 So Joseph answered and said, [o]"This is the interpretation of it: The three baskets are three days. 19 [p]Within three days Pharaoh will lift [4]off your head from you and [q]hang you on a tree; and the birds will eat your flesh from you."

20 Now it came to pass on the third day, which was Pharaoh's [r]birthday, that he [s]made a feast for all his servants; and he [t]lifted up the head of the chief butler and of the chief baker among his servants. 21 Then he [u]restored the chief butler to his butlership again, and [v]he placed the cup in Pharaoh's hand. 22 But he [w]hanged the chief baker, as Joseph had interpreted to them. 23 Yet the chief butler did not remember Joseph, but [x]forgot him.

Pharaoh's Dreams

41 Then it came to pass, at the end of two full years, that [a]Pharaoh had a dream; and behold, he stood by the river. 2 Suddenly there came up out of the river seven cows, fine

■ 40:3 custody. They were awaiting Pharaoh's sentence.

■ 40:8 dream. See notes on 20:3 and 37:9. The three sets of dreams, to Joseph (37:5–11), to the cupbearer and baker (ch. 40), and to Pharaoh (ch. 41), show God's sovereign control (41:28).

no interpreter. Dreams were valued in the ancient Near East as a means of discerning the future; professional dream interpreters were often employed by royal courts.

interpretations belong to God. Joseph corrects the pagan beliefs of the Egyptian prisoners by acknowledging that God alone is the source of reliable interpretation, and that He bestows the gift of interpretation as He pleases (41:16; Dan. 2:24–49).

Tell them to me. Joseph recognized himself as a prophet (37:5–11).

■ 40:13 lift up your head. A Hebrew idiom often meaning "restore to honor" or "release" (2 Kin. 25:27; Ps. 24:7). Here it may refer more particularly to a ritual audience with Pharaoh in which the servant is singled out for special attention (v. 20). Note the pun in v. 19, where a slight variation in the Hebrew gives the meaning "lift off your head" (perhaps a reference to execution by decapitation).

■ 40:15 the dungeon. An exaggerated description reflecting the frustrated prisoner's point of view—the same Hebrew word is translated "pit" in 37:24. Joseph's place of confinement with the king's prisoners was not excessively miserable (39:19–23 and notes).

■ 40:16 on my head. Ancient Egyptian art portrayed a baker carrying a basket on his head.

■ 40:20 lifted up the head. See note on v. 13.

■ 41:1–57 God exalted faithful Joseph over all Egypt by giving him supernatural wisdom: the ability to interpret dreams (v. 16) and skill in political economy and statesmanship (vv. 33, 38). Joseph prefigured Moses at the founding of Israel, and Daniel at the end of Israel's monarchy. All three were oppressed captives who came to power in a hostile land by pitting God's wisdom against the wise of this world, displaying the superiority of God's wisdom and His rule over the nations. They prefigure Jesus looking and fat; and they fed in the meadow. 3 Then behold, seven other cows came up after them out of the river, ugly and gaunt, and stood by the other cows on the bank of the river. 4 And the ugly and gaunt cows ate up the seven fine looking and fat cows. So Pharaoh awoke. 5 He slept and dreamed a second time; and suddenly seven heads of grain came up on one stalk, plump and good. 6 Then behold, seven thin heads, blighted by the [b]east wind, sprang up after them. 7 And the seven thin heads devoured the seven plump and full heads. So Pharaoh awoke, and indeed, it was a dream. 8 Now it came to pass in the morning [c]that his spirit was troubled, and he sent and called for all [d]the magicians of Egypt and all its [e]wise men. And Pharaoh told them his dreams, but there was no one who could interpret them for Pharaoh.

9 Then the [f]chief butler spoke to Pharaoh, saying: "I remember my faults this day. 10 When Pharaoh was [g]angry with his servants, [h]and put me in custody in the house of the captain of the guard, both me and the chief baker, 11 [i]we each had a dream in one night, he and I, Each of us dreamed according to the interpretation of his own dream. 12 Now there was a young [j]Hebrew man with us there, a [k]servant of the captain of the guard. And we told him, and he [l]interpreted our dreams for us; to each man he interpreted according to his own dream. 13 And it came to pass, just [m]as he interpreted for us, so it happened. He restored me to my office, and he hanged him."

14 [n]Then Pharaoh sent and called Joseph, and they [o]brought him quickly [p]out of the dungeon; and he shaved, [q]changed his clothing, and came to Pharaoh. 15 And Pharaoh said to Joseph, "I have had a dream, and there is no one who can interpret it. [r]But I have heard it said of you that you can understand a dream, to interpret it."

16 So Joseph answered Pharaoh, saying, [s]"It is not in me; [t]God will give Pharaoh an answer of peace."

17 Then Pharaoh said to Joseph: "Behold, [u]in my dream I stood on the bank of the river. 18 Suddenly seven cows came up out of the river, fine looking and fat; and they fed in the meadow. 19 Then behold, seven other cows came up after them, poor and very ugly and gaunt, such ugliness as I have never seen in all the land of Egypt. 20 And the gaunt and ugly cows ate up the first seven, the fat cows. 21 When they had eaten them up, no one would have known that they had eaten them, for they were just as ugly as at the beginning. So I awoke. 22 Also I saw in my dream, and suddenly seven [l]heads came up on one stalk, full and good. 23 Then behold, seven heads, withered, thin, and blighted by the east wind, sprang up after them. 24 And the thin heads devoured the seven good heads. So [v]I told this to the magicians, but there was no one who could explain it to me."

25 Then Joseph said to Pharaoh, "The dreams of Pharaoh are one; [w]God has shown Pharaoh what He is about to do: 26 The seven good cows are seven years, and the seven good [z]heads are seven years; the dreams are one. 27 And the seven thin and ugly cows which came up after them are seven years, and the seven empty heads blighted by the east wind are [x]seven years of famine. 28 [y]This is the thing which I have spoken to Pharaoh. God has shown Pharaoh what He is about to do. 29 Indeed [z]seven years of great plenty will come throughout all the land of Egypt; 30 but after them seven years of famine will [a]arise, and all the plenty will be forgotten in the land of Egypt; and the famine [b]will deplete the land. 31 So the plenty will not be known in the land because of the famine following, for it will be very severe. 32 And the dream was repeated to Pharaoh twice because the [c]thing is established by God, and God will shortly bring it to pass.

33 "Now therefore, let Pharaoh select a discerning and wise man, and set him over the land of Egypt. 34 Let Pharaoh do this, and let him appoint [3]officers over the land, [d]to collect one-fifth of the produce of the land of Egypt in the seven plentiful years. 35 And [e]let them gather all the food of those good years that are coming, and store up grain under the [4]authority of Pharaoh, and let them keep food in the cities. 36 Then that food shall be as a [5]reserve for the land for the seven years of famine which shall be in the land of Egypt, that the land [j]may not [6]perish during the famine."

■ 41:16 It is not in me; God will give. See note on 40:8; cf. 2 Cor. 3:5.

■ 41:25 God has shown Pharaoh. Both the dream and its interpretation were from God (40:8 and note). Joseph was inspired by God; he did not act as a magician. Neither Pharaoh nor his officials were in control; God and His servant were in charge, as they would be centuries later in the time of Moses (Ex. 7:1–5).

Joseph's Rise to Power

37 So [g]the advice was good in the eyes of Pharaoh and in the eyes of all his servants. 38 And Pharaoh said to his servants, "Can we find such a one as this, a man [h]in whom is the Spirit of God?"

39 Then Pharaoh said to Joseph, "Inasmuch as God has shown you all this, there is no one as discerning and wise as you. 40 [i]You shall be [7]over my house, and all my people shall be ruled according to your word; only in regard to the throne will I be greater than you." 41 And Pharaoh said to Joseph, "See, I have [j]set you over all the land of Egypt."

42 Then Pharaoh [k]took his signet ring off his hand and put it on Joseph's hand; and he [l]clothed him in garments of fine linen [m]and put a gold chain around his neck. 43 And he had him ride in the second [n]chariot which he had; [o]and they cried out before him, "Bow the knee!" So he set him [p]over all the land of Egypt. 44 Pharaoh also said to Joseph, "I am Pharaoh, and without your consent no man may lift his hand or foot in all the land of Egypt." 45 And Pharaoh called Joseph's name [8]Zaphnath-Paaneah. And he gave him as a wife [q]Asenath, the daughter of Poti-Pherah priest of On. So Joseph went out over all the land of Egypt.

46 Joseph was thirty years old when he [r]stood before Pharaoh king of Egypt. And Joseph went out from the presence of Pharaoh, and went throughout all the land of Egypt. 47 Now in the seven plentiful years the ground brought forth [9]abundantly. 48 So he gathered up all the food of the seven years which were in the land of Egypt, and laid up the food in the cities; he laid up in every city the food of the fields which surrounded them. 49 Joseph gathered very much grain, [s]as the sand of the sea, until he stopped counting, for it was immeasurable.

50 [t]And to Joseph were born two sons before the years of famine came, whom Asenath, the daughter of Poti-Pherah priest of On, bore to him. 51 Joseph called the name of the firstborn [1]Manasseh: "For God has made me forget all my toil and all my [u]father's house." 52 And the name of the second he called [2]Ephraim: "For God has caused me to be [v]fruitful in the land of my affliction."

53 Then the seven years of plenty which were in the land of Egypt ended, 54 [w]and the seven years of famine began to come, [x]as Joseph had said. The famine was in all lands, but in all the land of Egypt there was bread. 55 So when all the land of Egypt was famished, the people cried to Pharaoh for bread. Then Pharaoh said to all the Egyptians, "Go to Joseph; [y]whatever he says to you, do." 56 The famine was over all the face of the earth, and Joseph opened [3]all the storehouses and [z]sold to the Egyptians. And the famine became severe in the land of Egypt. 57 [a]So all countries came to Joseph in Egypt to [b]buy grain, because the famine was severe in all lands.

Joseph's Brothers Go to Egypt

42 When [a]Jacob saw that there was grain in Egypt, Jacob said to his sons, "Why do you look at one another?" 2 And he said, "Indeed I have heard that there is grain in Egypt; go down to that place and buy for us there, that we may [b]live and not die."

CHAPTER 42

1 [a]Acts 7:12
2 [b]Gen. 43:8

■ 41:38 Spirit of God. Joseph pointed to God's action in giving the dream (v. 16), and Pharaoh acknowledged God's power at work in Joseph (41:1–57 note).

■ 41:39 no one as discerning and wise as you. Joseph had just defeated Egypt's best wise men (cf. Ex. 8:18; Dan. 2:10, 27, 28).

■ 41:41–46 Joseph's installation as viceroy over Egypt consisted of a public act of installation (vv. 41–44), the conferring of a new name (v. 45), and the elevation to nobility by marriage (v. 46).

■ 41:41 set you over all the land. Joseph, who had been faithful in little (39:4, 22), was put in charge of much (cf. Luke 16:10; 19:17).

■ 41:45 Zaphnath-Paaneah. See text note. Joseph's role in Egypt was like that of Daniel in Babylon: both accepted pagan names without embracing pagan religion (Dan. 1:7).

Asenath. Her name means "belongs to [the goddess] Neit."

Poti-Phera. Probably a variant spelling of Potiphar (37:36 note).

On. Called Heliopolis in Greek, this city was a center for the worship of the sun god Ra (Jer. 43:13 text note); its high priest was one of the most prominent in ancient Egypt.

■ 41:46 thirty years. Joseph had risen from slavery to become the king's second-in-command in a mere thirteen years (37:2).

■ 41:51, 52 See text notes. As the names of his sons indicate, Joseph was ever mindful of God's hand upon him. The first commemorates God's preservation through great hardship (v. 51), the second memorializes the divine favor with echoes of the Abrahamic blessing (v. 52; cf. 17:6, 20; 28:3; 48:4; cf. Ps. 105:23, 24).

■ 41:57 all countries. The temporal salvation (from starvation) of the known world depended on one descendant of the patriarchs (12:3; 39:5 and notes). In mediating this blessing, Joseph prefigures the work of Christ (1 John 2:2). See note on 37:2—50:26.

■ 42:1–38 Joseph used the providential famine and his authority to help reconcile the shattered family. By confronting them with life and death (vv. 18, 20) he awakened their consciences to confess their guilt (vv. 21–24) and to protect Benjamin from harm (v. 37; 43:8, 9; 44:18–34). See note on chs. 43—45.

■ 42:1 grain in Egypt. See 12:10; 26:1, 2.

3 So Joseph's ten brothers went down to buy grain in Egypt. 4 But Jacob did not send Joseph's brother Benjamin with his brothers, for he said, [c]"Lest some calamity befall him." 5 And the sons of Israel went to buy grain among those who journeyed, for the famine was [d]in the land of Canaan.

6 Now Joseph was governor [e]over the land; and it was he who sold to all the people of the land. And Joseph's brothers came and [f]bowed down before him with their faces to the earth. 7 Joseph saw his brothers and recognized them, but he acted as [g]a stranger to them and spoke [1]roughly to them. Then he said to them, "Where do you come from?"

And they said, "From the land of Canaan to buy food."

8 So Joseph recognized his brothers, but they did not recognize him. 9 Then Joseph [h]remembered the dreams which he had dreamed about them, and said to them, "You are spies! You have come to see the [2]nakedness of the land!"

10 And they said to him, "No, my lord, but your servants have come to buy food. 11 We are all one man's sons; we are honest men; your servants are not spies."

12 But he said to them, "No, but you have come to see the nakedness of the land."

13 And they said, "Your servants are twelve brothers, the sons of one man in the land of Canaan; and in fact, the youngest is with our father today, and one [i]is no more."

14 But Joseph said to them, "It is as I spoke to you, saying, 'You are spies!' 15 In this manner you shall be tested: [j]By the life of Pharaoh, you shall not leave this place unless your youngest brother comes here. 16 Send one of you, and let him bring your brother; and you shall be [3]kept in prison, that your words may be tested to see whether there is any truth in you; or else, by the life of Pharaoh, surely you are spies!" 17 So he [4]put them all together in prison [k]three days.

18 Then Joseph said to them the third day, "Do this and live, [l]for I fear God: 19 If you are honest men, let one of your brothers be confined to your prison house; but you, go and carry grain for the famine of your houses. 20 And [m]bring your youngest brother to me; so your words will be verified, and you shall not die."

And they did so. 21 Then they said to one another, [n]"We are truly guilty concerning our brother, for we saw the anguish of his soul when he pleaded with us, and we would not hear; [o]therefore this distress has come upon us."

22 And Reuben answered them, saying, [p]"Did I not speak to you, saying, 'Do not sin against the boy'; and you would not listen? Therefore behold, his blood is now [q]required of us." 23 But they did not know that Joseph understood them, for he spoke to them through an interpreter. 24 And he turned himself away from them and [r]wept. Then he returned to them again, and talked with them. And he took [s]Simeon from them and bound him before their eyes.

The Brothers Return to Canaan

25 Then Joseph [t]gave a command to fill their sacks with grain, to [u]restore every man's money to his sack, and to give them provisions for the journey. [v]Thus he did for them. 26 So they loaded their donkeys with the grain and departed from there. 27 But as [w]one of them opened his sack to give his donkey feed at the encampment, he saw his money; and there it was, in the mouth of his sack. 28 So he said to his brothers, "My money has been restored, and there it is, in my sack!"

- 42:4 did not send . . . Benjamin. Joseph's full brother had taken his place in his father's affections (37:3 and notes). The brothers' treatment of him and of their father would indicate whether there had been a spiritual change in them.
- 42:6 bowed down. To preserve their lives they unwittingly fulfilled Joseph's dream (37:5 and note).
- 42:7 acted as a stranger . . . spoke roughly. As the rest of the narrative shows, Joseph was acting to ascertain his brothers' attitudes and to heal the breach between him and his brothers. A quick pardon would not have led to true repentance and spiritual healing within the family.
- 42:8 they did not recognize him. Joseph had grown from a boy of seventeen to a man of almost forty (41:46, 47, 54; 45:6 note). He had the appearance of an august Egyptian official (41:14, 41–43) and used an interpreter (v. 23).
- 42:11 one man's sons. They were a family unit, not spies of a nation bent on war (cf. Num. 13:2).
- 42:12 you have come to see. This interrogation, with its repeated accusations (cf. v. 9), was necessary for the ruse and to extract information out of them so that Joseph could take his next step (43:7).
- 42:13 they said. The brothers no doubt thought the added details strengthened their credibility.
- 42:15 By the life of Pharaoh. The ancients swore solemn oaths by the life of the king or name of a deity (2 Sam. 15:21; Deut. 6:13 note).
- 42:18–20 Joseph's presentation of a choice—life or death—had the desired effect (v. 21).
- 42:18 I fear God. Joseph assured the brothers that he would deal honestly with them (20:11 note).
- 42:21 We are truly guilty. Though falsely accused of spying, they saw the Egyptian as the tool of God's higher justice, matching their punishment with their real crime against Joseph.

we would not hear. Their consciences awakened, the brothers' heartless behavior came back to haunt them (37:25 and note).

- 42:24 he . . . wept. With their confession of guilt, reconciliation was possible.
- 42:28 God has done. The first explicit mention of God by the brothers; they saw the hand of God at work behind their frightful circumstances (vv. 21, 22).

Then their hearts [5]failed them and they were afraid, saying to one another, "What is this that God has done to us?"

29 Then they went to Jacob their father in the land of Canaan and told him all that had happened to them, saying: 30 "The man who is lord of the land [x]spoke [6]roughly to us, and took us for spies of the country. 31 But we said to him, 'We are honest men; we are not spies. 32 We are twelve brothers, sons of our father; one is no more, and the youngest is with our father this day in the land of Canaan.' 33 Then the man, the lord of the country, said to us, [y]'By this I will know that you are honest men: Leave one of your brothers here with me, take food for the famine of your households, and be gone. 34 And bring your [z]youngest brother to me; so I shall know that you are not spies, but that you are honest men. I will grant your brother to you, and you may [a]trade in the land.' "

35 Then it happened as they emptied their sacks, that surprisingly [b]each man's bundle of money was in his sack; and when they and their father saw the bundles of money, they were afraid. 36 And Jacob their father said to them, "You have [c]bereaved me: Joseph is no more, Simeon is no more, and you want to take [d]Benjamin. All these things are against me."

37 Then Reuben spoke to his father, saying, "Kill my two sons if I do not bring him back to you; put him in my hands, and I will bring him back to you."

38 But he said, "My son shall not go down with you, for [e]his brother is dead, and he is left alone. [f]If any calamity should befall him along the way in which you go, then you would [g]bring down my gray hair with sorrow to the grave."

Joseph's Brothers Return with Benjamin

43 Now the famine was [a]severe in the land. 2 And it came to pass, when they had eaten up the grain which they had brought from Egypt, that their father said to them, "Go [b]back, buy us a little food."

3 But Judah spoke to him, saying, "The man solemnly warned us, saying, 'You shall not see my face unless your [c]brother is with you.' 4 If you send our brother with us, we will go down and buy you food. 5 But if you will not send him, we will not go down; for the man said to us, 'You shall not see my face unless your brother is with you.' "

6 And Israel said, "Why did you deal so [f]wrongfully with me as to tell the man whether you had still another brother?"

7 But they said, "The man asked us pointedly about ourselves and our family, saying, 'Is your father still alive? Have you another brother?' And we told him according to these words. Could we possibly have known that he would say, 'Bring your brother down'?"

8 Then Judah said to Israel his father, "Send the lad with me, and we will arise and go, that we may [d]live and not die, both we and you and also our little ones. 9 I myself will be surety for him; from my hand you shall require him. [e]If I do not bring him back to you and set him before you, then let me bear the blame forever. 10 For if we had not lingered, surely by now we would have returned this second time."

11 And their father Israel said to them, "If it must be so, then do this: Take some of the best fruits of the land in your vessels and [f]carry down a present for the man—a little [g]balm and a little honey, spices and myrrh, pistachio nuts and almonds. 12 Take double money in your hand, and take back in your hand the money [h]that was returned in the mouth of your sacks; perhaps it was an oversight. 13 Take your brother also, and arise, go back to the man. 14 And may God [i]Almighty [j]give you mercy before the man, that he may release your other brother and Benjamin. [k]If I am bereaved, I am bereaved!"

15 So the men took that present and Benjamin, and they took double money in their hand, and

■ 42:34 you may trade in the land. In order not to distress their aged father further, they changed Joseph's threat of death (vv. 18, 20) to a promise of economic opportunity.

■ 42:37 Kill my two sons. Jacob did not accept Reuben's ill-considered proposal. Only the threat of starvation coupled with Judah's assurances would change his mind (43:1–14).

■ 43:1—45:28 Joseph's ruse had already begun to move his brothers from indifference to integrity and loyalty toward one another (42:21, 22). This change is further manifested in Judah's offer of himself as surety (43:9) and in his offer to sacrifice himself in Benjamin's stead (44:33). Finally, Joseph makes himself known to his brothers and, seeing their sins in the light of God's purpose, he forgives them (ch. 45).

■ 43:1–34 Through Joseph, the merciful (v. 14), providing (v. 23), and gracious (v. 29) God of the fathers begins to bring peace to the shattered family (vv. 23, 26–28). See note on ch. 42.

■ 43:3 Judah. Another brother had to step forward after Jacob's definitive refusal to Reuben (42:37, 38; cf. 49:3, 4). With his leadership rebuffed, Reuben is henceforth eclipsed by Joseph (who assumes the firstborn's privileges, 37:8 note) and by Judah (who here takes Reuben's place of responsibility for the eleven brothers and whose royal tribe was to produce the Messiah, vv. 8, 9; 49:10).

■ 43:8 live and not die. A reference to the severe famine (v. 1) that also recalls Joseph's threat (42:18–20, 34 and note).

■ 43:11 a present. See note on 32:13.

arose and went [l]down to Egypt; and they stood before Joseph. 16 When Joseph saw Benjamin with them, he said to the [m]steward of his house, "Take these men to my home, and slaughter [2]an animal and make ready; for these men will dine with me at noon." 17 Then the man did as Joseph ordered, and the man brought the men into Joseph's house.

18 Now the men were [n]afraid because they were brought into Joseph's house; and they said, "It is because of the money, which was returned in our sacks the first time, that we are brought in, so that he may [3]make a case against us and seize us, to take us as slaves with our donkeys."

19 When they drew near to the steward of Joseph's house, they talked with him at the door of the house, 20 and said, "O sir, [o]we indeed came down the first time to buy food; 21 but [p]it happened, when we came to the encampment, that we opened our sacks, and there, each man's money was in the mouth of his sack, our money in full weight; so we have brought it back in our hand. 22 And we have brought down other money in our hands to buy food. We do not know who put our money in our sacks."

23 But he said, "Peace be with you, do not be afraid. Your God and the God of your father has given you treasure in your sacks; I had your money." Then he brought [q]Simeon out to them.

24 So the man brought the men into Joseph's house and [r]gave them water, and they washed their feet; and he gave their donkeys feed. 25 Then they made the present ready for Joseph's coming at noon, for they heard that they would eat bread there.

26 And when Joseph came home, they brought him the present which was in their hand into the house, and [s]bowed down before him to the earth. 27 Then he asked them about their well-being, and said, "Is your father well, the old man [t]of whom you spoke? Is he still alive?"

28 And they answered, "Your servant our father is in good health; he is still alive." [u]And they bowed their heads down and prostrated themselves.

29 Then he lifted his eyes and saw his brother Benjamin, [v]his mother's son, and said, "Is this your younger brother [w]of whom you spoke to me?" And he said, "God be gracious to you, my son." 30 Now [x]his heart yearned for his brother; so Joseph made haste and sought somewhere to weep. And he went into his chamber and [y]wept there. 31 Then he washed his face and came out; and he restrained himself, and said, "Serve the [z]bread."

32 So they set him a place by himself, and them by themselves, and the Egyptians who ate with him by themselves; because the Egyptians could not eat food with the [a]Hebrews; for that is [b]an abomination to the Egyptians. 33 And they sat before him, the firstborn according to his [c]birthright and the youngest according to his youth; and the men looked in astonishment at one another. 34 Then he took servings to them from before him, but Benjamin's serving was [d]five times as much as any of theirs. So they drank and were merry with him.

Joseph's Cup

44 And he commanded [l]the [a]steward of his house, saying, [b]"Fill the men's sacks with food, as much as they can carry, and put each man's money in the mouth of his sack. 2 Also put my cup, the silver cup, in the mouth of the sack of the youngest, and his grain money." So he did according to the word that Joseph had spoken. 3 As soon as the morning dawned, the men were sent away, they and their donkeys. 4 When they had gone out of the city, and were not yet far off, Joseph said to his steward, "Get up, follow the men; and when you overtake them, say to them, 'Why have you [c]repaid evil for good? 5 Is not this the one from which my lord drinks, and with which he indeed practices divination? You have done evil in so doing.' "

4 [c]1 Sam. 25:21

■ 43:26 bowed down. See 37:5–11. At their first meeting they bowed in submission (42:6); here they bowed in homage with tribute in hand (v. 28; cf. Matt. 2:11).

■ 43:29 God be gracious. Joseph reserved a special greeting for his beloved full-brother Benjamin (cf. Num. 6:25; Rom. 1:7).

■ 43:32 Hebrews. See 14:13 and note; 39:14; 41:12.

an abomination to the Egyptians. As Palestinian shepherds, the Hebrews followed different dietary practices and slaughtered for food animals that were sacred to the Egyptians (46:34 and note). Such customs served the divine purpose by isolating the Israelites in the land of Goshen and preventing their assimilation into the pagan Egyptian culture (38:1–30 note).

■ 43:33 astonishment. The assigned seating of the brothers (in order of their birth) understandably amazed them.

■ 43:34 Benjamin's . . . five times as much. This display of favoritism toward Benjamin (v. 29 note; cf. 37:3–11) was designed to test the brothers for jealousy. Their behavior ("they drank and were merry") indicated that their change of heart was real.

■ 44:2 put my cup. Joseph was putting the brothers to the final test of family fidelity.

sack of the youngest. The original crime pertained to Joseph, Rachel's son and Jacob's favorite, and the brothers selling him into slavery in Egypt. To test the brothers, Joseph brilliantly created a situation where Rachel's other son (and Jacob's favorite), Benjamin, was also threatened with slavery in Egypt.

■ 44:5 practices divination. Hydromancy, a form of ancient Near Eastern divination, made use of vessels of water. Objects or liquids put in the water generated patterns that were thought to reveal the future. This description and Joseph's statement in v. 15 do not indicate that he actually practiced pagan divination; this description was necessary to the ruse and identified the silver cup as a treasured possession (cf. 42:7, 12). Joseph received revelation from God alone (40:8 and note; 41:16).

6 So he overtook them, and he spoke to them these same words. 7 And they said to him, "Why does my lord say these words? Far be it from us that your servants should do such a thing. 8 Look, we brought back to you from the land of Canaan [d]the money which we found in the mouth of our sacks. How then could we steal silver or gold from your lord's house? 9 With whomever of your servants it is found, [e]let him die, and we also will be my lord's slaves."

10 And he said, "Now also let it be according to your words; he with whom it is found shall be my slave, and you shall be blameless." 11 Then each man speedily let down his sack to the ground, and each opened his sack. 12 So he searched. He began with the oldest and [2]left off with the youngest; and the cup was found in Benjamin's sack. 13 Then they [f]tore their clothes, and each man loaded his donkey and returned to the city.

14 So Judah and his brothers came to Joseph's house, and he was still there; and they [g]fell before him on the ground. 15 And Joseph said to them, "What deed is this you have done? Did you not know that such a man as I can certainly practice divination?"

16 Then Judah said, "What shall we say to my lord? What shall we speak? Or how shall we clear ourselves? God has [h]found out the iniquity of your servants; here [i]we are, my lord's slaves, both we and he also with whom the cup was found."

17 But he said, [j]"Far be it from me that I should do so; the man in whose hand the cup was found, he shall be my slave. And as for you, go up in peace to your father."

Judah Intercedes for Benjamin

18 Then Judah came near to him and said: "O my lord, please let your servant speak a word in my lord's hearing, and [k]do not let your anger burn against your servant; for you are even like Pharaoh. 19 My lord asked his servants, saying, 'Have you a father or a brother?' 20 And we said to my lord, 'We have a father, an old man, and [l]a child of his old age, who is young; his brother is [m]dead, and he [n]alone is left of his mother's children, and his [o]father loves him.' 21 Then you said to your servants, [p]'Bring him down to me, that I may set my eyes on him.' 22 And we said to my lord, 'The lad cannot leave his father, for if he should leave his father, his father would die.' 23 But you said to your servants, [q]'Unless your youngest brother comes down with you, you shall see my face no more.'

24 "So it was, when we went up to your servant my father, that we told him the words of my lord. 25 And [r]our father said, 'Go back and buy us a little food.' 26 But we said, 'We cannot go down; if our youngest brother is with us, then we will go down; for we may not see the man's face unless our youngest brother is with us.' 27 Then your servant my father said to us, [s]'You know that [s]my wife bore me two sons; 28 and the one went out from me, and I said, [t]"Surely he is torn to pieces"; and I have not seen him since. 29 But if you [u]take this one also from me, and calamity befalls him, you shall bring down my gray hair with sorrow to the grave.'

30 "Now therefore, when I come to your servant my father, and the lad is not with us, since [v]his life is bound up in the lad's life, 31 it will happen, when he sees that the lad is not with us, that he will die. So your servants will bring down the gray hair of your servant our father with sorrow to the grave. 32 For your servant became surety for the lad to my father, saying, [w]'If I do not bring him back to you, then I shall bear the blame before my father forever.' 33 Now therefore, please [x]let your servant remain instead of the lad as a slave to my lord, and let the lad go up with his brothers. 34 For how shall I go up to my father if the lad is not with me, lest perhaps I see the evil that would [3]come upon my father?"

Joseph Revealed to His Brothers

45 Then Joseph could not restrain himself before all those who stood by him, and he cried out, "Make everyone go out from me!" So no one stood with him [a]while Joseph made

■ 44:10 shall be my slave. Joseph's modification of the brothers' offer (v. 9) was necessary: he was testing their attitude toward making Benjamin a slave (v. 17 and note).

■ 44:13 they tore their clothes. This display of extreme distress demonstrated their affection for both father and brother.

■ 44:14 fell before him. Now they bowed before Joseph asking for mercy (43:26 note).

■ 44:15 divination. See note on v. 5.

■ 44:16 found out the iniquity of your servants. Judah saw the impending penalty as punishment for their treatment of Joseph (42:21 and note).

■ 44:17 man . . . shall be my slave. The stage for the great test was set (v. 2 note). Would they show compassion on their father and loyalty to Joseph's brother?

■ 44:18 Judah. Representing the brothers (43:3 note).

■ 44:33 instead of the lad. Here is a Judah very different from the one who sold his brother into slavery (37:26, 27). Judah's self-sacrificing love prefigures the vicarious atonement of Christ who by His voluntary suffering healed the breach between God and humans.

■ 44:34 see the evil. See 37:34, 35.

■ 45:1–28 In this narrative of forgiveness and reconciliation, Joseph presents a model of submission to God's eternal and benevolent purpose himself known to his brothers. 2 And he [b]wept aloud, and the Egyptians and the house of Pharaoh heard it.

3 Then Joseph said to his brothers, [c]"I am Joseph; does my father still live?" But his brothers could not answer him, for they were dismayed in his presence. 4 And Joseph said to his brothers, "Please come near to me." So they came near. Then he said: "I am Joseph your brother, [d]whom you sold into Egypt. 5 But now, do not therefore be grieved or angry with yourselves because you sold me here; [e]for God sent me before you to preserve life. 6 For these two years the [f]famine has been in the land, and there are still five years in which there will be neither plowing nor harvesting. 7 And God [g]sent me before you to preserve a [1]posterity for you in the earth, and to save your lives by a great deliverance. 8 So now it was not you who sent me here, but [h]God; and He has made me [i]a father to Pharaoh, and lord of all his house, and a [j]ruler throughout all the land of Egypt.

9 "Hurry and go up to my father, and say to him, 'Thus says your son Joseph: "God has made me lord of all Egypt; come down to me, do not [2]tarry. 10 [k]You shall dwell in the land of Goshen, and you shall be near to me, you and your children, your children's children, your flocks and your herds, and all that you have. 11 There I will [l]provide for you, lest you and your household, and all that you have, come to poverty; for there are still five years of famine."'

12 "And behold, your eyes and the eyes of my brother Benjamin see that it is [m]my mouth that speaks to you. 13 So you shall tell my father of all my glory in Egypt, and of all that you have seen; and you shall hurry and [n]bring my father down here."

14 Then he fell on his brother Benjamin's neck and wept, and Benjamin wept on his neck. 15 Moreover he [o]kissed all his brothers and wept over them, and after that his brothers talked with him.

16 Now the report of it was heard in Pharaoh's house, saying, "Joseph's brothers have come." So it pleased Pharaoh and his servants well. 17 And Pharaoh said to Joseph, "Say to your brothers, 'Do this: Load your animals and depart; go to the land of Canaan. 18 Bring your father and your households and come to me; I will give you the best of the land of Egypt, and you will eat [p]the [3]fat of the land. 19 Now you are commanded—do this: Take carts out of the land of Egypt for your little ones and your wives; bring your father and come. 20 Also do not be concerned about your goods, for the best of all the land of Egypt is yours.' "

21 Then the sons of Israel did so; and Joseph gave them [q]carts,[4] according to the command of Pharaoh, and he gave them provisions for the journey. 22 He gave to all of them, to each man, [r]changes of garments; but to Benjamin he gave three hundred pieces of silver and [s]five changes of garments. 23 And he sent to his father these things: ten donkeys loaded with the good things of Egypt, and ten female donkeys loaded with grain, bread, and food for his father for the journey. 24 So he sent his brothers away, and they departed; and he said to them, "See that you do not become troubled along the way."

25 Then they went up out of Egypt, and came to the land of Canaan to Jacob their father. 26 And they told him, saying, "Joseph is still alive, and he is governor over all the land of Egypt." [t]And Jacob's heart stood still, because he did not believe them. 27 But when they told him all the words which Joseph had said to them, and when he saw the carts which Joseph had sent to carry him, the spirit [u]of Jacob their father revived. 28 Then Israel said, "It is enough. Joseph my son is still alive. I will go and see him before I die."

(vv. 5–8). All the evil done to him by his brothers was only part of God's secret plan designed for the good, not only of Joseph, but of his wicked brothers as well. We learn that "all things work together" to accomplish God's excellent purpose (Rom. 8:28), not only for us who presently "love God," but for the "great multitude" that will comprise the everlasting city (Rev. 7:9).

■ 45:5–8 These verses, with Joseph's repeated affirmation "God sent me" (vv. 5, 7, 8), form the theological heart of the Joseph narrative (cf. 50:19–21; Acts 7:9–14). God oversees the course of human action to achieve His good and set purpose (Acts 2:23; 4:28).

■ 45:5 do not . . . angry with yourselves. Joseph directed their gaze away from their sins to God's grace (50:19).

■ 45:6 For these two years. Joseph was thirty-nine years old at this time (41:46; 42:8 note).

■ 45:7 posterity. Or, "remnant" (text note). Joseph's use of this term indicates his strong faith, tested by hard experience, in the faithfulness of God to His covenant promises. Out of this small endangered group a great nation would be built (12:1–3; 17:7). The prophets would later use this term in affirming that even in trying circumstances God would always preserve a people for Himself (Is. 10:20; 37:30–32; Mic. 2:12, 13).

■ 45:8 it was not you . . . but God. Without excusing their sin, for which repentance was necessary (42:4 note), Joseph encourages the now contrite sinners to rejoice in God's sovereign and gracious overruling of their evil intentions.

■ 45:10 land of Goshen. A region in northeastern Egypt near the Wadi Tumilat in the Nile Delta. This fertile region provided ample grazing for their flocks (v. 18; 47:4, 6).

■ 45:22 changes of garments. In striking contrast to when the brothers stripped Joseph of his tunic (37:23).

■ 45:24 do not become troubled. The brothers were not to quarrel among one another, particularly over responsibility for their crime against Joseph, and how to explain it to their father.

Jacob's Journey to Egypt

46 So Israel took his journey with all that he had, and came to [a]Beersheba, and offered sacrifices [b]to the God of his father Isaac. 2 Then God spoke to Israel [c]in the visions of the night, and said, "Jacob, Jacob!"

And he said, "Here I am."

3 So He said, "I am God, [d]the God of your father; do not fear to go down to Egypt, for I will [e]make of you a great nation there. 4 [f]I will go down with you to Egypt, and I will also surely [g]bring you up again; and [h]Joseph [i]will put his hand on your eyes."

5 Then [j]Jacob arose from Beersheba; and the sons of Israel carried their father Jacob, their little ones, and their wives, in the [2]carts [k]which Pharaoh had sent to carry him. 6 So they took their livestock and their goods, which they had acquired in the land of Canaan, and went to Egypt, [k]Jacob and all his descendants with him. 7 His sons and his sons' sons, his daughters and his sons' daughters, and all his descendants he brought with him to Egypt.

8 Now [l]these were the names of the children of Israel, Jacob and his sons, who went to Egypt: [m]Reuben was Jacob's firstborn. 9 The [n]sons of Reuben were Hanoch, Pallu, Hezron, and Carmi. 10 [o]The sons of Simeon were [3]Jemuel, Jamin, Ohad, [4]Jachin, [5]Zohar, and Shaul, the son of a Canaanite woman. 11 The sons of [p]Levi were Gershon, Kohath, and Merari. 12 The sons of [q]Judah were [r]Er, Onan, Shelah, Perez, and Zerah (but Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan). [s]The sons of Perez were Hezron and Hamul. 13 The sons of Issachar were Tola, [6]Puvah, [7]Job, and Shimron. 14 The [t]sons of Zebulun were Sered, Elon, and Jahleel. 15 These were the [u]sons of Leah, whom she bore to Jacob in Padan Aram, with his daughter Dinah. All the persons, his sons and his daughters, were thirty-three.

16 The sons of Gad were [8]Ziphion, Haggi, Shuni, [9]Ezbon, Eri, [1]Arodi, and Areli. 17 [v]The sons of Asher were Jimnah, Ishuah, Isui, Beriah, and Serah, their sister. And the sons of Beriah were Heber and Malchiel. 18 [w]These were the sons of Zilpah, [x]whom Laban gave to Leah his daughter; and these she bore to Jacob: sixteen persons.

19 The [y]sons of Rachel, [z]Jacob's wife, were Joseph and Benjamin. 20 [a]And to Joseph in the land of Egypt were born Manasseh and Ephraim, whom Asenath, the daughter of Poti-Pherah priest of On, bore to him. 21 [b]The sons of Benjamin were Belah, Becher, Ashbel, Gera, Naaman, [c]Ehi, Rosh, [d]Muppim, [2]Huppim, and Ard. 22 These were the sons of Rachel, who were born to Jacob: fourteen persons in all.

23 The son of Dan was [3]Hushim. 24 [e]The sons of Naphtali were [4]Jahzeel, Guni, Jezer, and [5]Shillem. 25 [f]These were the sons of Bilhah, [g]whom Laban gave to Rachel his daughter, and she bore these to Jacob: seven persons in all.

■ 46:1—50:26 This closing section of the "history of Jacob" (37:2) provides a transition to the Book of Exodus (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes).

■ 46:1 offered sacrifices. Beersheba was the place of worship for Abraham (21:32, 33), Isaac (26:23–25), and Jacob (28:10–15).

■ 46:2 God spoke. Once again, upon Jacob's departure from the Promised Land, God repeated His promise to be with him and to bring the people back (28:15).

visions of the night. The patriarchs functioned from time to time as prophets (12:7; 15:1; 18:17; 20:7 and notes). No visions to Jacob's twelve sons regarding the covenant promises of seed and land are recorded.

■ 46:3 I am . . . the God. God repeated His assuring promises to Isaac (26:24) and Jacob (28:13–15).

I will make of you a great nation there. An elaboration of the covenant promise to Abraham (12:2; 15:13, 14; 18:18; cf. Ex. 1:7).

■ 46:4 put his hand on your eyes. See text note. A word of comfort for the aged Jacob; he would die peacefully in Joseph's presence (50:1; cf. 15:15).

■ 46:8–27 This catalog of sons closes the patriarchal period in Canaan and forms a transition to the Exodus from Egypt (Ex. 1:1–7). The list includes the sons and grandsons of Jacob (some of whom were born in Egypt) through his various wives and concubines, although his daughters, except for Dinah (v. 15) and Serah (v. 17), are omitted. Thus the list is designed to culminate in the significant number seventy (v. 27 note) to show both God's blessing on the family and to anticipate their further expansion into a great nation.

■ 46:8 who went to Egypt. This list includes the sons of Benjamin, who were probably born in Egypt (vv. 21, 27), just as the catalog of those born in Padan Aram (35:23–26) included Benjamin, who was obviously born in Canaan (35:26 note). The offspring were viewed as present in their parents (cf. Heb. 7:9, 10).

■ 46:10 Ohad. Perhaps an inadvertent scribal addition, this name is omitted in Num. 26:12 and 1 Chr. 4:24.

■ 46:15 Padan Aram. See note on 25:20.

thirty-three. The total of Jacob and his offspring through Leah—six sons, twenty-five grandsons, two great-grandsons, and daughter Dinah—comes to thirty-five. The figure thirty-three may reflect the omission of Er and Onan (v. 12), or perhaps of Ohad (v. 10 note) and Jacob.

26 [h]All the persons who went with Jacob to Egypt, who came from his body, [i]besides Jacob's sons' wives, were sixty-six persons in all. 27 And the sons of Joseph who were born to him in Egypt were two persons. [j]All the persons of the house of Jacob who went to Egypt were seventy.

Jacob Settles in Goshen

28 Then he sent Judah before him to Joseph, [k]to point out before him the way to Goshen. And they came [l]to the land of Goshen. 29 So Joseph made ready his [m]chariot and went up to Goshen to meet his father Israel; and he presented himself to him, and [n]fell on his neck and wept on his neck a good while.

30 And Israel said to Joseph, [o]"Now let me die, since I have seen your face, because you are still alive."

31 Then Joseph said to his brothers and to his father's household, [p]"I will go up and tell Pharaoh, and say to him, 'My brothers and those of my father's house, who were in the land of Canaan, have come to me. 32 And the men are [q]shepherds, for their occupation has been to feed livestock; and they have brought their flocks, their herds, and all that they have.' 33 So it shall be, when Pharaoh calls you and says, [r]'What is your occupation?' 34 that you shall say, [s]'Your servants' [s]occupation has been with livestock [t]from our youth even till now, both we and also our fathers,' that you may dwell in the land of Goshen; for every shepherd is [u]an[6] abomination to the Egyptians."

47 Then Joseph [a]went and told Pharaoh, and said, "My father and my brothers, their flocks and their herds and all that they possess, have come from the land of Canaan; and indeed they are in [b]the land of Goshen." 2 And he took five men from among his brothers and [c]presented them to Pharaoh. 3 Then Pharaoh said to his brothers, [d]"What is your occupation?"

And they said to Pharaoh, [e]"Your servants are shepherds, both we and also our fathers." 4 And they said to Pharaoh, [f]"We have come to dwell in the land, because your servants have no pasture for their flocks, [g]for the famine is severe in the land of Canaan. Now therefore, please let your servants [h]dwell in the land of Goshen."

5 Then Pharaoh spoke to Joseph, saying, "Your father and your brothers have come to you. 6 [i]The land of Egypt is before you. Have your father and brothers dwell in the best of the land; let them dwell [j]in the land of Goshen. And if you know any competent men among them, then make them chief herdsmen over my livestock."

7 Then Joseph brought in his father Jacob and set him before Pharaoh; and Jacob [k]blessed Pharaoh. 8 Pharaoh said to Jacob, "How old are you?"

9 And Jacob said to Pharaoh, [l]"The days of the years of my [j]pilgrimage are [m]one hundred and thirty years; [n]few and evil have been the days of the years of my life, and [o]they have not attained to the days of the years of the life of my fathers in the days of their pilgrimage." 10 So Jacob [p]blessed Pharaoh, and went out from before Pharaoh.

11 And Joseph situated his father and his brothers, and gave them a possession in the land of

■ 46:26 sixty-six. The total of thirty-three (v. 15 and note), sixteen (v. 18), fourteen (v. 22), and seven (v. 25) comes to seventy. The figure of sixty-six persons probably reflects the omission of Er and Onan (v. 12) and Ephraim and Manasseh (vv. 20, 27).

■ 46:27 seventy. The covenant family is represented by the symbolic number seventy (vv. 8–27 note), signifying a large and complete number (cf. ch. 10 note; Ex. 24:1; Ps. 90:10). In this group of seventy, the emerging nation of Israel was comprehended.

The Septuagint (Greek Old Testament) adds five sons and grandsons of Manasseh and Ephraim at v. 20 and gives a total of seventy-five, a reading followed by Stephen in Acts 7:14. Such variations occasionally occur in the Greek Old Testament, and we don't always have the information necessary to explain them.

■ 46:28—47:31 Through Joseph's wisdom God preserved Israel in Goshen, both physically, by providing food and land (45:10 note), and spiritually, by providing for their isolation from the pagan Egyptians until the Exodus (43:32; Num. 25:1–3 and notes). Under Jacob's blessing on Pharaoh (47:7, 10; cf. 12:2) and Pharaoh's honoring of Israel (45:17–20; 47:6; cf. 12:3) everyone prospered. Pharaoh gained control of all the property and people in Egypt (47:19–21), the Egyptians hailed Joseph as a savior (47:25), and Israel prospered even more than the Egyptians (47:27; Ex. 1:7). This mutual blessing and prosperity contrasts with the situation four hundred years later when another pharaoh cursed Israel and was cursed (Ex. 1:8–14).

■ 46:32 shepherds. Their identity as shepherds would assure Pharaoh that they entertained no social or political ambitions under their brother's auspices, and would help insulate them from intermarriage with the pagan Egyptians (v. 34; 43:32 and notes). The latter threat increased when they possessed property in Egypt (v. 11).

■ 46:34 every shepherd is an abomination. The Egyptians too kept animals (47:6; Ex. 9:3, 4); this probably refers to foreign shepherds (43:32 note).

■ 47:7–10 In this remarkable audience with mighty Pharaoh—the greater typically blesses the lesser (14:19 and note)—the aged shepherd patriarch demonstrated his dignity. His blessing was fulfilled in vv. 13–25.

■ 47:9 pilgrimage. See text note. The Hebrew term denotes a temporary abode, the condition of a resident alien. Jacob described his own life, and that of his fathers, as a sojourn (21:34; 24:3; 26:3 and notes). Though awaiting the fulfillment of the divine covenant promise of land, their hope extended beyond Canaan to a heavenly and eternal country, to a "city . . . whose builder and maker is God" (Heb. 11:10). See notes on 13:15 and Heb. 11:8–10.

few and evil. Jacob did not glory in the number of his years. Though blessed by God and a blessing to others, he had his share of human failings and afflictions.

■ 47:11 land of Rameses. Assuming an early date for the Exodus from Egypt (Introduction to Exodus: Interpretive Difficulties), this designation of Egypt, in the best of the land, in the land of [q]Rameses, [r]as Pharaoh had commanded. 12 Then Joseph provided [s]his father, his brothers, and all his father's household with bread, according to the number in their families.

Joseph Deals with the Famine

13 Now there was no bread in all the land; for the famine was very severe, [t]so that the land of Egypt and the land of Canaan languished because of the famine. 14 [u]And Joseph gathered up all the money that was found in the land of Egypt and in the land of Canaan, for the grain which they bought; and Joseph brought the money into Pharaoh's house.

15 So when the money failed in the land of Egypt and in the land of Canaan, all the Egyptians came to Joseph and said, "Give us bread, for [v]why should we die in your presence? For the money has failed."

16 Then Joseph said, "Give your livestock, and I will give you bread for your livestock, if the money is gone." 17 So they brought their livestock to Joseph, and Joseph gave them bread in exchange for the horses, the flocks, the cattle of the herds, and for the donkeys. Thus he [2]fed them with bread in exchange for all their livestock that year.

18 When that year had ended, they came to him the next year and said to him, "We will not hide from my lord that our money is gone; my lord also has our herds of livestock. There is nothing left in the sight of my lord but our bodies and our lands. 19 Why should we die before your eyes, both we and our land? Buy us and our land for bread, and we and our land will be servants of Pharaoh; give us seed, that we may [w]live and not die, that the land may not be desolate."

20 Then Joseph [x]bought all the land of Egypt for Pharaoh; for every man of the Egyptians sold his field, because the famine was severe upon them. So the land became Pharaoh's. 21 And as for the people, he [3]moved them into the cities, from one end of the borders of Egypt to the other end. 22 [y]Only the land of the [z]priests he did not buy; for the priests had rations allotted to them by Pharaoh, and they ate their rations which Pharaoh gave them; therefore they did not sell their lands.

23 Then Joseph said to the people, "Indeed I have bought you and your land this day for Pharaoh. Look, here is seed for you, and you shall sow the land. 24 And it shall come to pass in the harvest that you shall give one-fifth to Pharaoh. Four-fifths shall be your own, as seed for the field and for your food, for those of your households and as food for your little ones."

25 So they said, "You have saved [a]our lives; let us find favor in the sight of my lord, and we will be Pharaoh's servants." 26 And Joseph made it a law over the land of Egypt to this day, that Pharaoh should have one-fifth, [b]except for the land of the priests only, which did not become Pharaoh's.

Joseph's Vow to Jacob

27 So Israel [c]dwelt in the land of Egypt, in the country of Goshen; and they had possessions there and [d]grew and multiplied exceedingly. 28 And Jacob lived in the land of Egypt seventeen years. So the length of Jacob's life was one hundred and forty-seven years. 29 When the time [e]drew near that Israel must die, he called his son Joseph and said to him, "Now if I have found favor in your sight, please [f]put your hand under my thigh, and [g]deal kindly and truly with me. [h]Please do not bury me in Egypt, 30 but [i]let me lie with my fathers; you shall carry me out of Egypt and [j]bury me in their burial place."

And he said, "I will do as you have said."

the land of Goshen, after Pharaoh Rameses II (c. 1304–1236 B.C.), indicates that the place-name was updated after the time of Moses (14:14 note; Introduction: Date and Occasion).

■ 47:13–26 Joseph brought all the money, land, and people under Pharaoh in exchange for food, and preserved the Egyptians.

■ 47:21 moved them into the cities. The Hebrew is uncertain. This reading indicates that the starving farmers were moved to the cities, probably to be nearer the grain stores. Alternatively, the text note reading describes the result of Joseph's policies—servitude for the people. The people, however, viewed Joseph not as a tyrant but as a savior (v. 25; cf. 45:7).

■ 47:27–31 Having witnessed God's faithfulness, by faith Jacob looked beyond his death in Egypt to his burial in the Promised Land.

■ 47:27 had possessions . . . grew and multiplied. In fulfillment of the divine promise (46:3 and notes). The independence and prosperity of the Israelites contrasts with the fate of the Egyptians (vv. 13–26 note). This description also provides a link with Ex. 1:7.

■ 47:29 Joseph. Jacob later repeated the command to all his sons in 49:29–32, but Joseph was in charge (48:1 note).

put your hand under my thigh. See note on 24:2.

■ 47:30 in their burial place. By faith Israel saw his destiny in the Promised Land, not in an embalmed body in the best land of Egypt (v. 11; 50:2).

31 Then he said, "Swear to me." And he swore to him. So [k]Israel bowed himself on the head of the bed.

Jacob Blesses Joseph's Sons

48 Now it came to pass after these things that Joseph was told, "Indeed your father is sick"; and he took with him his two sons, [a]Manasseh and Ephraim. 2 And Jacob was told, "Look, your son Joseph is coming to you"; and Israel [l]strengthened himself and sat up on the bed. 3 Then Jacob said to Joseph: "God [b]Almighty appeared to me at [c]Luz in the land of Canaan and blessed me, 4 and said to me, 'Behold, I will [d]make you fruitful and multiply you, and I will make of you a multitude of people, and [e]give this land to your descendants after you [f]as an everlasting possession.' 5 And now your [g]two sons, Ephraim and Manasseh, who were born to you in the land of Egypt before I came to you in Egypt, are mine; as Reuben and Simeon, they shall be mine. 6 Your [2]offspring [3]whom you beget after them shall be yours; they will be called by the name of their brothers in their inheritance. 7 But as for me, when I came from Padan, [h]Rachel died beside me in the land of Canaan on the way, when there was but a little distance to go to Ephrath; and I buried her there on the way to Ephrath (that is, Bethlehem)."

8 Then Israel saw Joseph's sons, and said, "Who are these?"

9 Joseph said to his father, "They are my sons, whom God has given me in this place."

And he said, "Please bring them to me, and [i]I will bless them." 10 Now [j]the eyes of Israel were dim with age, so that he could not see. Then Joseph brought them near him, and he [k]kissed them and embraced them. 11 And Israel said to Joseph, [l]"I had not thought to see your face; but in fact, God has also shown me your offspring!"

12 So Joseph brought them from beside his knees, and he bowed down with his face to the earth. 13 And Joseph took them both, Ephraim with his right hand toward Israel's left hand, and Manasseh with his left hand toward Israel's right hand, and brought them near him. 14 Then Israel stretched out his right hand and [m]laid it on Ephraim's head, who was the younger, and his left hand on Manasseh's head, [n]guiding his hands knowingly, for Manasseh was the [o]firstborn. 15 And [p]he blessed Joseph, and said:

■ 47:31 Swear to me. Jacob asked that Joseph confirm his promise (v. 30) with a solemn oath. Likewise, God underscores the surety of His gracious covenant promise with an oath (15:8–21; 22:17; Heb. 6:13, 14 note). For Joseph's fulfillment of his oath see 50:1–14.

bowed himself. An expression of reverent thanksgiving to God that his last wish would be fulfilled (cf. 1 Kin. 1:47, 48).

■ 48:1 Manasseh and Ephraim. Joseph received the rights of firstborn and the double portion through Jacob's adoption and elevation of his two sons to the status of founding fathers among Israel's twelve tribes (37:8; 43:3; 1 Chr. 5:2 and notes). The adoption ritual included Jacob's statements of authority (vv. 3, 4) and intent to adopt Ephraim and Manasseh (vv. 5–7), legal gestures (vv. 8–12), and words of blessing (vv. 15–16). An ancient text from the city of Ugarit (Ras Shamra) describes a similar adoption of a grandson (c. 1500 B.C.).

■ 48:3 God Almighty. See note on 17:1.

appeared . . . blessed me. God's direct revelation of the covenant blessing to Jacob empowered him to legitimate Joseph's two sons as numbered among the twelve (v. 5) and to bless the twelve tribes (48:5—49:28). This preference for Joseph, giving him the double portion, reasserted God's sovereign prerogative to do as He pleased with Israel (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes).

at Luz. See 28:19.

■ 48:4 fruitful . . . multitude . . . land. Jacob briefly summarizes the content of the covenant promises to the patriarchs (12:1–3, 7; 13:14–17; 15:12–21; 17:4–8; 22:15–18; 28:3, 4, 13–15).

■ 48:5 Ephraim and Manasseh. The younger (Ephraim) is again preferred before the older (vv. 17–20; 25:23 and note).

Reuben and Simeon. The first two sons of Leah are mentioned because they are bypassed to give the double portion to Joseph, Rachel's firstborn. Reuben lost his rights as firstborn because he defiled his father's marriage bed (35:22; 43:3 note; 49:3, 4).

■ 48:6 shall be yours . . . name of their brothers. Joseph's other sons were not adopted by Jacob, but would be embraced within the clans of Ephraim and Manasseh. These younger sons of Joseph are probably included in Num. 26:28–37; 1 Chr. 7:14–29.

■ 48:7 Padan. See note on 25:20.

Rachel. Though Leah was buried in the family grave (49:31; cf. 35:16–20), Rachel is honored and memorialized in the double portion given her firstborn.

■ 48:8 Who are these. Identification of the beneficiaries was part of the blessing ritual (v. 1 note). The nearly sightless Jacob (cf. 27:1) carefully identified the recipients of the irrevocable blessing (27:7 note).

■ 48:9 whom God has given. Joseph, who shared his father's faith, gave the same answer as Jacob gave Esau to a similar question (33:5; cf. 41:51, 52 and note).

■ 48:10 kissed them and embraced them. Part of the blessing ritual (27:26 and note).

■ 48:11–16 In the blessing, Jacob's perspective shifts from thanksgiving for God's covenant faithfulness and miraculous provision (v. 15) to anticipation of God's faithfulness and blessing on future generations (v. 16).

■ 48:12 Joseph . . . bowed down. The one second only to Pharaoh (41:40) humbled himself before the patriarch who mediated God's promises.

from beside his knees. In the ancient Near East, the knee was symbolic of parental care and, by extension, of adoption (30:3 note).

■ 48:14 right hand. In the ancient Near East oral statements were accompanied by the correct placement of the right hand, an action that functioned as a legal safeguard. This is also the first instance in Scripture where a blessing is accompanied by the laying on of hands (cf. Ps. 139:5; Matt. 19:13–15).

■ 48:15 he blessed Joseph. Joseph was represented in his two sons. Joseph was later blessed without distinguishing his two sons (49:22–26). See note on 27:7.

Bless the lads;

And the name of my fathers Abraham and Isaac;
And let them [t]grow into a multitude in the midst of the earth."

17 Now when Joseph saw that his father [u]laid his right hand on the head of Ephraim, it displeased him; so he took hold of his father's hand to remove it from Ephraim's head to Manasseh's head. 18 And Joseph said to his father, "Not so, my father, for this one is the firstborn; put your right hand on his head."

19 But his father refused and said, [v]"I know, my son, I know. He also shall become a people, and he also shall be great; but truly [w]his younger brother shall be greater than he, and his descendants shall become a multitude of nations."

20 So he blessed them that day, saying, [x]"By you Israel will bless, saying, 'May God make you as Ephraim and as Manasseh!' " And thus he set Ephraim before Manasseh.

21 Then Israel said to Joseph, "Behold, I am dying, but [y]God will be with you and bring you back to the land of your fathers. 22 Moreover [z]I have given to you one [4]portion above your brothers, which I took from the hand [a]of the Amorite with my sword and my bow."

49 And Jacob called his sons and said, "Gather together, that I may [a]tell you what shall befall you [b]in the last days:

2 "Gather together and hear, you sons of Jacob,
And listen to Israel your father.

3 "Reuben, you are [c]my firstborn,
My might and the beginning of my strength,
The excellency of dignity and the excellency of power.
4 Unstable as water, you shall not excel,
Because you [d]went up to your father's bed;
Then you defiled it—
He went up to my couch.

5 "Simeon and Levi are brothers;
Instruments of [1]cruelty are in their dwelling place.

■ 48:16 The Angel. See note on 16:7; 28:12; 31:11; 32:1, 22–32.

■ 48:17–20 An explanatory notice appended here to the ritual so as not to interrupt the narrative (v. 1 note).

younger brother shall be greater. Against social convention, the younger is blessed, as in the divine choices of Isaac over Ishmael (17:18, 19), Jacob over Esau (25:23), and Joseph over Reuben (v. 1 note). God's sovereign choice overrode the natural ways of men (cf. Is. 55:8, 9).

■ 48:20 Ephraim before Manasseh. Jacob's prophetic blessing was fulfilled after the Exodus as Ephraim became the dominant Israelite tribe in the northern part of the Promised Land (Deut. 33:17 note).

■ 48:22 one portion above your brothers. The Hebrew word translated "portion" (shechem) often means "shoulder" or "ridge" (text note), and is identical to the place-name "Shechem" (33:19). Some see here a reference to the double portion in the Promised Land that Joseph received through Ephraim and Manasseh (v. 1 note). Others infer that Jacob bequeathed the area of Shechem, where Jacob purchased a tract of land (33:18, 19) and which his sons later conquered (34:25–31), to Joseph's descendants (Josh. 24:32).

■ 49:1–28 The blessings of the inspired patriarch prophesied the fate of the twelve tribes descended from his sons, mostly by means of wordplays on their names or comparisons to animals. The names and actions (good or bad) of the twelve sons portended the destiny of the tribe. These prophetic blessings at the end of the patriarchal era are arranged according to the mothers—Leah's six sons (vv. 3–15), the handmaids' four (vv. 16–21); and Rachel's two (vv. 22–27)—and exhibit God's sovereignty over the nation. They will be expanded in the parallel "Blessings of Moses" (Deut. 33), given on the threshold of Israel's conquest of the land.

■ 49:1 the last days. Jacob's prophecies embrace the entire history of Israel from the conquest and distribution of the land to the reign of the Messiah, Jesus Christ (v. 10 and note). See Num. 24:14; Deut. 31:28, 29; Is. 2:2.

■ 49:3–7 The prophecies about Leah's first three sons, Reuben, Simeon and Levi, pronounce punishment for crimes and do not use animal comparisons. The sins of the fathers are visited upon the children (Ex. 20:5).

■ 49:3 Reuben. See 29:32; 35:22 and note. A son's inheritance in the ancient Near East could not be altered by a father's arbitrary decision, but such changes could be made after serious sexual offenses by the son against the family.

■ 49:4 Unstable. Reuben's behavior was reckless and destructive. The Hebrew here connotes pride and presumption (cf. Judg. 9:4; 1 Chr. 5:1, 2).

■ 49:5 Simeon and Levi. See 29:33, 34; 34:25 and note.

■ 49:7 divide . . . scatter. Sharing an inclination toward destructive anger and cruelty, Simeon and Levi posed a threat to peace (34:25–31). After the Exodus from Egypt, the tribe of Simeon declined in importance and was not mentioned in Moses' blessing (Deut. 33). Simeon received no separate inheritance in the Promised Land, but was allotted cities within the inheritance of Judah (Josh. 19:1–9). Similarly, the priestly tribe of Levi was allotted cities throughout the land (Josh. 21:1–42).

■ 49:8 Judah. See 29:35; 43:3 and notes.

Your father's children shall bow. The tribes bowed down to Judah's descendant David because of his heroic deeds (2 Sam. 5:1–3).

■ 49:9 lion's whelp. Signifying strength, courage, and boldness (Judg. 14:18; Prov. 28:1), the lion was an apt symbol of the warrior kings of Judah's Davidic line—a royal line culminating in the conquering Messiah, Jesus Christ (Rev. 5:5).

■ 49:10 scepter shall not depart. A prophecy further elaborated and confirmed by the Davidic covenant (2 Sam. 7:16).

Until Shiloh comes. The precise meaning of this phrase is debated. Some understand "Shiloh" as a place-name ("until Judah's leadership comes to Shiloh," cf. Josh. 18:1) or as a reference to tribute ("until tribute is brought to Judah"). More plausibly (and consistent with the ancient translations), others see this as a reference to a coming Judahite ruler: "until he comes to whom it belongs" (cf. Ezek. 21:27) or "until Shiloh [possibly a messianic term] comes." The subsequent mention of dominion over "people" (or "peoples," the Hebrew noun is plural) points to the final realization of this prophecy in the universal messianic reign of Christ (1 Cor. 15:24–28; Rev. 5:5). God's plan for mankind to rule and have dominion (1:26–28) is concentrated in Him.

■ 49:11, 12 The blessedness of the messianic ruler is represented by wine (a symbol of prosperity, 27:28) and by his beauty (Ps. 45:2–9).

■ 49:11 donkey's colt. See Zech. 9:9; Matt. 21:7.

■ 49:13 Zebulun. See 30:20; Deut. 33:19, 20; Josh. 19:10–16.

■ 49:14 Issachar. See 30:18.

burdens. Some translate this Hebrew term "sheepfolds" (cf. Judg. 5:16).

■ 49:15 band of slaves. Failing to drive the Canaanites out of its territory, the tribe of Issachar was apparently willing to trade its liberty for forced labor (cf. Judg. 1:28, 30). Issachar threw off the Canaanite yoke under the leadership of Deborah and Barak (Judg. 5:15).

■ 49:16 judge his people. Or, provide justice for them. See 30:6.

bless. The Hebrew root for "bless" is used six times in this verse. These blessings were fertility of land fed by water from heaven above and earth below (1:6–8 and note) and fertility of body ("breasts and . . . womb"; 1:22; cf. Num. 24:5–7). Blessings given mankind at creation were concentrated on Joseph.

■ 49:27 Benjamin . . . wolf. See 35:18. This tribe was later to have a fierce reputation (Judg. 20:14–25).

■ 49:29—50:26 Believing in God's promises to Abraham and Isaac about the Promised Land (13:15 and note), Jacob arranged for his burial with them in Canaan (49:29–32; cf. 47:29–31). Joseph also instructed his family to bury him in the Promised Land after the Exodus (50:24–26; cf. Josh. 24:32). The burial of Jacob in the ancestral cave and Joseph's deof Machpelah, which is before Mamre in the land of Canaan, [r]which Abraham bought with the field of Ephron the Hittite as a possession for a burial place. 31 [s]There they buried Abraham and Sarah his wife, [t]there they buried Isaac and Rebekah his wife, and there I buried Leah. 32 The field and the cave that is there were purchased from the sons of Heth." 33 And when Jacob had finished commanding his sons, he drew his feet up into the bed and breathed his last, and was gathered to his people.

50 Then Joseph [a]fell on his father's face and [b]wept over him, and kissed him. 2 And Joseph commanded his servants the physicians to [c]embalm his father. So the physicians embalmed Israel. 3 Forty days were required for him, for such are the days required for those who are embalmed; and the Egyptians [d]mourned[1] for him seventy days.

4 Now when the days of his mourning were past, Joseph spoke to [e]the household of Pharaoh, saying, "If now I have found favor in your eyes, please speak in the hearing of Pharaoh, saying, 5 [f]'My father made me swear, saying, "Behold, I am dying; in my grave [g]which I dug for myself in the land of Canaan, there you shall bury me." Now therefore, please let me go up and bury my father, and I will come back.' "

6 And Pharaoh said, "Go up and bury your father, as he made you swear."

7 So Joseph went up to bury his father; and with him went up all the servants of Pharaoh, the elders of his house, and all the elders of the land of Egypt, 8 as well as all the house of Joseph, his brothers, and his father's house. Only their little ones, their flocks, and their herds they left in the land of Goshen. 9 And there went up with him both chariots and horsemen, and it was a very great gathering.

10 Then they came to the threshing floor of Atad, which is beyond the Jordan, and they [h]mourned there with a great and very solemn lamentation. [i]He observed seven days of mourning for his father. 11 And when the inhabitants of the land, the Canaanites, saw the mourning at the threshing floor of Atad, they said, "This is a deep mourning of the Egyptians." Therefore its name was called [2]Abel Mizraim, which is beyond the Jordan.

12 So his sons did for him just as he had commanded them. 13 For [j]his sons carried him to the land of Canaan, and buried him in the cave of the field of Machpelah, before Mamre, which Abraham [k]bought with the field from Ephron the Hittite as property for a burial place. 14 And after he had buried his father, Joseph returned to Egypt, he and his brothers and all who went up with him to bury his father.

Joseph Reassures His Brothers

15 When Joseph's brothers saw that their father was dead, [l]they said, "Perhaps Joseph will hate us, and may [3]actually repay us for all the evil which we did to him." 16 So they sent messengers to Joseph, saying, "Before your father died he commanded, saying, 17 'Thus you shall say to Joseph: "I beg you, please forgive the trespass of your brothers and their sin; [m]for they did evil to you." ' Now, please, forgive the trespass of the servants of [n]the God of your father." And Joseph wept when they spoke to him.

18 Then his brothers also went and [o]fell down before his face, and they said, "Behold, we are your servants."

19 Joseph said to them, [p]"Do not be afraid, [q]for am I in the place of God? 20 [r]But as for you, you meant evil against me; but [s]God meant it for good, in order to bring it about as it is this day, to save many people alive. 21 Now therefore, do not be afraid; [t]I will provide for you and your little ones." And he comforted them and spoke [4]kindly to them.

termination to be buried in Canaan underscore the covenant family's solidarity and point forward to the Exodus from Egypt. The unity of the family is further emphasized by Joseph's kind words and provisions for his offending brothers (50:15–21).

- 49:29 in the cave. See ch. 23; 25:9 and notes.
- 50:2 to embalm. An Egyptian practice designed to preserve the body after death and so to maintain personal identity in the afterlife; embalming was not practiced in Israel. Here the embalming preserved the body for transport back to Canaan.

- 50:5 I dug for myself. The Hebrew verb translated "dug" can also mean "purchased" (cf. ch. 23). If the text reading is followed, Joseph simply expressed Jacob's instructions in words Pharaoh understood.
- 50:9 chariots and horsemen. The protection given the burial party by Egyptian arms contrasts with the threat of Egyptian chariots during the Mosaic exodus (Ex. 14:9; 15:4, 5).
- 50:16 he commanded. It is unclear whether Jacob had actually said this or the fearful brothers simply invented it. In any case, they based their plea for forgiveness on their worship of the same God (v. 17).

Death of Joseph

22 So Joseph dwelt in Egypt, he and his father's household. And Joseph lived one hundred and ten years. 23 Joseph saw Ephraim's children [u]to the third generation. [v]The children of Machir, the son of Manasseh, [w]were also brought up on Joseph's knees.

24 And Joseph said to his brethren, "I am dying; but [x]God will surely visit you, and bring you out of this land to the land [y]of which He swore to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob." 25 Then [z]Joseph took an oath from the children of Israel, saying, "God will surely [5]visit you, and [a]you shall carry up my [b]bones from here." 26 So Joseph died, being one hundred and ten years old; and they embalmed him, and he was put in a coffin in Egypt.

■ 50:23 on Joseph's knees. See notes on 30:3 and 48:12. Joseph apparently adopted these great-grandchildren.

■ 50:24 God will surely visit you. Like his father Jacob on his deathbed (48:21), Joseph expressed firm confidence in God's covenant promises and His gracious visitation. The Hebrew verb translated "visit" denotes a divine encounter that will change one's fortunes for good or ill. For other instances of God's gracious "visitation" see 21:1 (Abraham and Sarah); Ex. 3:16 and 4:31 (the Exodus); Luke 1:68, 78 (the birth of Jesus); and Acts 15:14 (the extension of the gospel to the Gentiles).

Abraham . . . Isaac . . . Jacob. For the first time the three patriarchs are mentioned together; that era passed, but not its hope (Ex. 3:6; Deut. 30:20; 1 Kin. 18:36; 2 Chr. 30:6).

■ 50:25 carry up my bones. Joseph's bones were taken from Egypt by Moses (Ex. 13:19), and later buried at Shechem (Josh. 24:32).

The Second Book of Moses Called

EXODUS

Author In the New Testament Jesus calls Exodus "the book of Moses" (Mark 12:26; cf. 7:10), and there are no compelling reasons to deny the Mosaic authorship of the book (Introduction to the Pentateuch: Author and Date).

The title of the book, "Exodus," is derived from the Greek word exodos (Luke 9:31), which means "exit" or "departure." The book takes its name from the central event of Israel's departure from Egypt, recorded in the book's first fifteen chapters.

Date and Occasion Given Moses' authorship of Exodus, we should date the book after the exodus event (c. 1450–1440 B.C.) and before his death about 1406 B.C. According to the dating below, Moses' birth would have just fallen within the reign of Thutmose I. Hatshepsut, the widowed queen of Thutmose II, assumed male titles and even a beard as she reigned from 1504–1483 B.C. Perhaps she was the Pharaoh upon whose death Moses returned to Egypt from Midian.

Exodus carries forward the story of God's fulfillment of His promise to Abraham to bless him and make of him a great nation (Gen. 12:2). It begins by referring to the descent of Israel into Egypt (1:1–7); this connects through Gen. 46:8–27 with the Genesis narratives. The book concludes with Israel at Sinai where the tabernacle is completed. The events covered in the book may be placed against their historical background as follows.

Joseph's rise to power (1:5) is best set in the favorable conditions for Jacob's family created by the rule over Egypt of the Semitic Hyksos (c. 1700–1550 B.C.). The reference at 1:8 to a new king "who did not know Joseph" likely refers to the expulsion of the Hyksos by the eighteenth dynasty founder Ahmosis I (1570–1546 B.C.). If the Exodus is dated c. 1450–1440 B.C. (Interpretive Difficulties below), the Pharaoh of the oppression was probably Thutmose I (1526–1512 B.C.), while the Pharaoh of the Exodus was Thutmose III (1504–1450 B.C.) or Amenhotep II (1450–1425 B.C.). This dating would allow a possible identification of the incoming Israelites with the Habiru, a group mentioned in the Tell el-Amarna letters (correspondence between Egypt and its Syro-Palestinian vassals during the fourteenth century B.C.). The Habiru were a social or occupational class commonly attested in texts from 2000 B.C. onwards. They were political outcasts in Palestine (Gen. 14:13 note).

The written preservation of the words of God's covenant has central importance for the theology of the Book of Exodus. God not only speaks His words to His assembled people at Sinai, He also gives them His Ten Commandments in writing, "written with the finger of God" on tablets of stone (31:18; cf. 32:15, 16; 34:1, 28). The terms of the covenant were further specified by the so-called "Book of the Covenant" (20:22—23:19), the words of God written down by Moses, the mediator of God's covenant (24:4, 7; 34:27).

The Sinai covenant (19:1—20:21; ch. 24) resembles in both form and content the state treaty form of the second millennium B.C., particularly the Hittite state treaties. These treaties included a preamble (20:2), stipulations (20:3–17), ratification (24:1–11), and blessings and curses. A copy of the treaty was often preserved at the sanctuaries of the parties (e.g., the two tablets of 31:18). Also, the similarity of the content of the case laws of chs. 21—23 to ancient Near Eastern codes (particularly the Code of Hammurabi of Babylon, c. 1750 B.C.) has often been noted.

Interpretive Difficulties The date and route of the Exodus have been subjects of considerable debate. Biblical chronology dates the exodus event at 480 years before the reign of Solomon (1 Kin. 6:1). This would place the event at about 1440 B.C. This early date is consistent with Judg. 11:26, which declares that three hundred years had elapsed since Israel entered Canaan. The c. 1440 B.C. date is also supported by 12:40, 41, where 430 years is the duration of Israel's stay in Egypt. The Pharaoh of the Exodus would then be Thutmose III or Amenhotep II.

Advocates of a much later date appeal to the name "Raamses" (or "Rameses," Gen. 47:11) as one of the store cities built with Israelite labor (1:11). Rameses II (1304–1236 B.C.) is taken to be the Pharaoh of the Exodus, and the approximate date set at 1270 B.C. This is held to be more consistent with the archaeology of cities destroyed in Palestine and with the lack of earlier settlement in Transjordan (the region east of the Jordan River and the Dead Sea). However, more recent discoveries in Transjordan and a new evaluation of the destruction of Jericho have weakened the case for the late date.

The route of the Exodus began at Rameses. Its exact location is the subject of considerable debate, though modern Qantir is the site most favored (Tell el-Daba). From there the Hebrews journeyed south to Succoth (13:20). Here, apparently unable to move on, the Hebrews turned northward (14:2). Three sites are mentioned, Baal Zephon, Migdol, and Pi Hahiroth. Baal Zephon is associated with Tahpanhes, bordering Lake Menzaleh, one of the salt lakes between the Mediterranean and Gulf of Suez. There were three possible routes of Israelite escape. The "way of the land of the Philistines" (13:17) connected Egypt with Canaan by the heavily fortified coastal route. A second route, the way of Shur, began near the Wadi Tumilat in the Delta area, crossed to Kadesh Barnea, and branched off to Canaan. The Egyptian boundary wall of Shur may have been a major obstacle to this route. In leading the people south to southern Sinai, the Lord not only brought them to the mountain He had designated to Moses, but distanced them from further contact with the Egyptians. The deliverance through the sea may have been on a southern extension of Lake Menzaleh.

The Sinai peninsula is a triangle of land measuring approximately 150 miles across at the top and 260 miles along the sides. Two arms of the Red Sea, the Gulf of Suez and the Gulf of Aqaba, flank it. The Hebrews proceeded south along the west coast of the Sinai. The bitter waters of Marah (15:22–25) are usually identified with Ain Hawarah (some forty-five to fifty miles south of the tip of the Gulf of Suez), but Ain Musa may be the correct location. Elim with its many springs and trees has been identified as Wadi Gharandel, the encampment by the Red Sea (Num. 33:10), about seven miles south of Ain Hawarah. The wilderness of Sin would best be identified with Debbet er-Ramleh, a sandy plain along the edge of the Sinai Plateau. If the traditional location of Mount Sinai as Jebel Musa is correct, Israel would have then turned inland by a series of valleys to Jebel Musa, traveling through the desert of Rephidim, where they fought against the Amalekites (17:8–16). Rephidim was the last encampment in the wilderness of Sinai before the sacred mountain. Then they proceeded to Mount Sinai (ch. 19) where they received the law.

Characteristics and Themes

Several major themes are evident in the Book of Exodus. First, it tells how the Lord liberated Israel from Egypt to fulfill His covenant with the fathers. A second major element of the book is the covenant revelation at Sinai, which specified the terms of relationship between the holy God and His people. The third theme issues from the first two and is their consummation: the reestablishment of God's dwelling with man. Each of these themes involves a triumph of divine grace: God's mighty rescue of His people from slavery in Egypt, His thunderous self-revelation at Sinai, and His gracious condescension to dwell with His erring people in the tabernacle. The unfolding of these themes also reveals the Lord's holiness and grace in His covenant law and in the ceremonial symbolism of Israel's life and worship.

Crucial to the narrative is Moses' role as mediator between God and man. As God's chosen servant, Moses is the mediator of judgment against Egypt, and is the one through whom God delivers Israel. Through Moses God gives His revelation at Sinai. Moses also shepherds the people through the wilderness to the Promised Land. He pleads for the people, and he is the one through whom the Lord provides food and water. But Moses' role in the history of redemption prepares pointedly for Christ, the Mediator of the new covenant (Deut. 18:15). The revelation that Moses receives of God's name "abounding in goodness and truth" (34:6) justifies the building of the tabernacle, but that description of the Lord points forward to the coming of the true tabernacle, the incarnate Christ, the greater Servant of the Lord (John 1:14, 17; Heb. 3:1–6).

God's law reveals His holy nature and requires holiness of the people among whom God will dwell. The ceremonial regulations for Israel's life and worship (chs. 25—31; 35—40) mark out the separation of Israel as the people among whom God lives and rules, demonstrating His kingdom before the nations.

In addition to its description of the historical events by which Israel was delivered to become God's people, Exodus also presents a major illustration of God's saving work throughout history. The savior God redeems His chosen people from the powers of evil, judges those powers, and claims His people as His firstborn son, a holy nation of priests among whom He dwells by His Spirit. The pattern of divine victory over enemies, followed by the establishment of the divine dwelling place, is repeated in Christ's first and second advents (e.g., Eph. 2:14–22; Rev. 20:11—22:5).

The symbolism found in Exodus becomes reality in the new covenant (Jer. 31:31–34; Col. 2:17; Heb. 10:1). The sprinkled blood of animal sacrifice is now replaced by the blood of Christ (24:8; Matt. 26:27, 28; Heb. 12:24; 1 Pet. 1:2). The symbolic substitution of the Passover lamb is fulfilled in Christ, the Lamb of God, our Passover sacrifice (John 1:29; 1 Cor. 5:7). His "exodus" at Jerusalem (Luke 9:31) accomplishes the salvation of the true people of God. God's new covenant people are joined to Jesus Christ, in whom the Gentiles become the people of God, members of the commonwealth of Israel and fellow citizens with the Old Testament saints (19:5, 6; Eph. 2:11–19). The full meaning of the description of Israel in Exodus may now therefore be applied to the churches of the Gentiles (1 Pet. 2:9, 10). □

Israel's Suffering in Egypt

NOW [a]these are the names of the children of Israel who came to Egypt; each man and his household came with Jacob: [2] Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah; [3] Issachar, Zebulun, and Benjamin; [4] Dan, Naphtali, Gad, and Asher. [5] All those [1]who were descendants of Jacob were [b]seventy[2] persons (for Joseph was in Egypt already). [6] And [c]Joseph died, all his brothers, and all that generation. [7] [d]But the children of Israel were fruitful and increased abundantly, multiplied and [3]grew exceedingly mighty; and the land was filled with them.

[8] Now there arose a new king over Egypt, [e]who did not know Joseph. [9] And he said to his people, "Look, the people of the children of Israel are more and [f]mightier than we; [10] [g]come, let us [h]deal shrewdly with them, lest they multiply, and it happen, in the event of war, that they also join our enemies and fight against us, and so go up out of the land." [11] Therefore they set taskmasters over them [i]to afflict them with their [j]burdens. And they built for Pharaoh [k]supply cities, Pithom [l]and Raamses. [12] But the more they afflicted them, the more they multiplied and grew. And they were in dread of the children of Israel. [13] So the Egyptians made the children of Israel [m]serve with [4]rigor. [14] And they [n]made their lives bitter with hard bondage—[o]in mortar, in brick, and in all manner of service in the field. All their service in which they made them serve was with rigor.

[15] Then the king of Egypt spoke to the [p]Hebrew midwives, of whom the name of one was Shiphrah and the name of the other Puah; [16] and he said, "When you do the duties of a midwife for the Hebrew women, and see them on the birthstools, if it is a [q]son, then you shall kill him; but if it is a daughter, then she shall live." [17] But the midwives [r]feared God, and did not do [s]as the king of Egypt commanded them, but saved the male children alive. [18] So the king of Egypt called for the midwives and said to them, "Why have you done this thing, and saved the male children alive?"

[19] And [t]the midwives said to Pharaoh, "Because the Hebrew women are not like the Egyptian women; for they [5]are lively and give birth before the midwives come to them."

[20] [u]Therefore God dealt well with the midwives, and the people multiplied and [6]grew very mighty. [21] And so it was, because the midwives feared God, [v]that He [7]provided households for them.

[22] So Pharaoh commanded all his people, saying, [w]"Every son who is [8]born you shall cast into the river, and every daughter you shall save alive."

Moses Is Born

2 And [a]a man of the house of Levi went and took as wife a daughter of Levi. [2] So the woman conceived and bore a son. And [b]when she saw that he was a beautiful child, she hid him

CHAPTER 2 1 [a]Ex. 6:16–20 2 [b]Acts 7:20

■ 1:1–4 Exodus and Genesis are linked by this introduction (Gen. 46:8–27). God's promise to Abraham is fulfilled by Israel's fruitfulness (Gen. 12:2).

■ 1:5 seventy. See notes on Gen. 46:15–27. The number going into Egypt is sometimes given as seventy-five (text note; Acts 7:14), with the difference due to who is counted. The Septuagint text (the Greek Old Testament) adds five of Joseph's further male descendants, yielding a total of seventy-five. With women and children the total number was over 150.

■ 1:7 multiplied . . . exceedingly. The terms "fruitful," "multiplied," and "the land was filled" remind us of Gen. 1:26–28. Israel fulfills the mandate given to humankind in Gen. 1. The land was probably the land of Goshen in northeastern Egypt, in the Wadi Tumilat in the Delta, a valley 30 to 40 miles long (cf. Gen. 47:4).

■ 1:8–22 God's multiplication of Israel leads to their oppression by the Egyptians.

■ 1:8 a new king. The beginning of a new era is marked off by the advent of a new Pharaoh. This Pharaoh may have been Ahmosis I (1570–1546 B.C.) of the eighteenth dynasty, who expelled the Hyksos, the Semitic rulers of Egypt from about 1700–1550 B.C. (Introduction: Date and Occasion; Acts 7:18 note).

■ 1:11 Pithom and Raamses. These cities for storing agricultural provisions and military supplies were located in the strategic Nile Delta region. Pithom was probably located at modern Tell er-Ratabah or Tell el Maskhutah, and Raamses is identified as modern Qantir. This item comes too early in the oppression cycle to be identified as the work of Rameses II (1304–1236 B.C.) who is often identified as the Pharaoh of the Exodus (Introduction: Interpretive Difficulties; Gen. 47:11 note). The only other Pharaoh with the necessary forty years' reign was Thutmose III (1504–1450 B.C.). By the nineteenth dynasty the term "Pharaoh" (Egyptian for "great house") became a royal title. Earlier it was a synonym for governmental authority.

■ 1:14 bitter. The bitter oppression of Egypt was later commemorated by the bitter herbs of the Passover meal (12:8).

■ 1:15 Hebrew. See note on Gen. 14:13.

midwives. Two midwives to serve such a large population seem far too few; they may have been guild leaders. Their names are Semitic and v. 15 identifies them as Israelite.

■ 1:16 birthstools. These consisted of two stones upon which women in labor squatted.

■ 2:1 a man. The fate of Israel hangs on one family member. Moses has an older sister (v. 4) and brother (7:7). His parents, Amram and Jochebed, were nephew and aunt (6:20).

■ 2:2 beautiful child. Moses was a healthy child and likely to survive. Jesus Christ, antitype of Moses and founder of the new Israel, was also three months. 3 But when she could no longer hide him, she took an ark of [c]bulrushes for him, daubed it with [d]asphalt and [e]pitch, put the child in it, and laid it in the reeds [f]by the river's bank. 4 [g]And his sister stood afar off, to know what would be done to him.

5 Then the [h]daughter of Pharaoh came down to bathe at the river. And her maidens walked along the riverside; and when she saw the ark among the reeds, she sent her maid to get it. 6 And when she opened it, she saw the child, and behold, the baby wept. So she had compassion on him, and said, "This is one of the Hebrews' children."

7 Then his sister said to Pharaoh's daughter, "Shall I go and call a nurse for you from the Hebrew women, that she may nurse the child for you?"

8 And Pharaoh's daughter said to her, "Go." So the maiden went and called the child's mother. 9 Then Pharaoh's daughter said to her, "Take this child away and nurse him for me, and I will give you your wages." So the woman took the child and nursed him. 10 And the child grew, and she brought him to Pharaoh's daughter, and he became [i]her son. So she called his name [j]Moses, saying, "Because I drew him out of the water."

Moses Flees to Midian

11 Now it came to pass in those days, [k]when Moses was grown, that he went out to his brethren and looked at their burdens. And he saw an Egyptian beating a Hebrew, one of his brethren. 12 So he looked this way and that way, and when he saw no one, he [l]killed the Egyptian and hid him in the sand. 13 And [k]when he went out the second day, behold, two Hebrew men [m]were fighting, and he said to the one who did the wrong, "Why are you striking your companion?"

14 Then he said, [n]"Who made you a prince and a judge over us? Do you intend to kill me as you killed the Egyptian?"

So Moses [o]feared and said, "Surely this thing is known!" 15 When Pharaoh heard of this matter, he sought to kill Moses. But [p]Moses fled from [z]the face of Pharaoh and dwelt in the land of [q]Midian; and he sat down by [r]a well.

16 [s]Now the priest of Midian had seven daughters. [t]And they came and drew water, and they filled the [u]troughs to water their father's flock. 17 Then the [v]shepherds came and [w]drove them away; but Moses stood up and helped them, and [x]watered their flock.

18 When they came to [y]Reuel[3] their father, [z]he said, "How is it that you have come so soon today?"

19 And they said, "An Egyptian delivered us from the hand of the shepherds, and he also drew enough water for us and watered the flock."

20 So he said to his daughters, "And where is he? Why is it that you have left the man? Call him, that he may [a]eat bread."

21 Then Moses was content to live with the man, and he gave [b]Zipporah his daughter to Moses. 22 And she bore him a son. He called his name [c]Gershom,[4] for he said, "I have been [d]a [5]stranger in a foreign land."

23 Now it happened [e]in the process of time that the king of Egypt died. Then the children of Israel [f]groaned because of the bondage, and they cried out; and [g]their cry came up to God born under an edict of death and miraculously spared in Egypt (Matt. 2:13–23).

■ 2:3 ark of bulrushes. A box of woven papyrus reeds, daubed with tar to make it watertight (cf. Job 9:26 text note; Is. 18:2). Moses is perhaps depicted as a second Noah—the Hebrew term translated ark is used for Noah's craft in Gen. 7—9. Sargon of Accad (c. 2350 B.C.) was said to have been exposed in a similar chest and left to float in the Euphrates.

■ 2:5 daughter of Pharaoh. Some suppose that this princess became the famous Hatshepsut, the queen of Thutmose II who ruled Egypt after his death (1504–1483 B.C.).

■ 2:10 Moses. This name is Semitic (text note), though perhaps it was compatible with Egyptian Mose meaning "is born" (e.g., Thutmose, meaning "Thut is born"). There is evidence that Semitic names were not uncommon in the royal court, and it is possible that the child was given a Semitic name by the princess. He was educated in the Egyptian court as a promising young noble (Acts 7:22).

■ 2:11–15 Now forty years old (Acts 7:23), Moses identifies himself with God's people (Heb. 11:24–27). His effort to deliver an Israelite from oppression proves vain when he seeks to be a judge of Israel (v. 14).

■ 2:15 Midian. Probably the name of an early tribal confederacy operating in the Arabian desert. The nomadic Midianites were descendants of Abraham and Keturah (Gen. 25:1–6; Num. 10:29–32; Judg. 6).

■ 2:16 drew water. The women did the difficult task and then were driven off.

■ 2:17 helped them. This was Moses' third intervention in defense of the weak. Nomadic strife over water rights was common.

■ 2:18 Reuel. The name means "Friend of God." Moses' father-in-law was known by two names: Reuel and Jethro (3:1; 4:18). Jethro and Reuel may be variant names, or Reuel a clan name.

■ 2:22 Gershom. See text note. Moses had not forgotten his Egyptian home. Yet he will lead Israel from Egypt to the homeland of the people of God.

■ 2:23 groaned . . . cried out . . . came up. Israel's anguished cry is balanced by a fourfold description of God's response. God "heard . . . remembered . . . looked upon . . . acknowledged" (vv. 24, 25). This summary prepares for the call of Moses and underscores the book's theme of divine faithfulness to the covenant promises.

because of the bondage. 24 So God [h]heard their groaning, and God [i]remembered His [j]covenant with Abraham, with Isaac, and with Jacob. 25 And God [k]looked upon the children of Israel, and God [l]acknowledged them.

3 Now Moses was tending the flock of [a]Jethro his father-in-law, [b]the priest of Midian. And he led the flock to the back of the desert, and came to [c]Horeb, [d]the mountain of God. 2 And [e]the Angel of the LORD appeared to him in a flame of fire from the midst of a bush. So he looked, and behold, the bush was burning with fire, but the bush was not consumed. 3 Then Moses said, "I will now turn aside and see this [f]great sight, why the bush does not burn."

4 So when the LORD saw that he turned aside to look, God called [g]to him from the midst of the bush and said, "Moses, Moses!"

And he said, "Here I am."

5 Then He said, "Do not draw near this place. [h]Take your sandals off your feet, for the place where you stand is holy ground." 6 Moreover He said, "[i]I am the God of your father—the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob." And Moses hid his face, for [j]he was afraid to look upon God.

7 And the LORD said: [k]"I have surely seen the oppression of My people who are in Egypt, and have heard their cry [l]because of their taskmasters, [m]for I know their [l]sorrows. 8 So [n]I have come mountain of God. This term describes the mountain as a sanctuary, a designation that anticipates ch. 19. Moses is now eighty years old (7:7) and has been in Midian forty years.

■ 3:1 desert. An uncultivated area but capable of sustaining grazing. According to 34:3 and Num. 10:11, the desert of Sinai sustained Israel's flocks for a year. Horeb and Sinai are terms that possibly distinguish Horeb as an entire range from Mt. Sinai (19:18, 20; cf. Deut. 4:15).

■ 3:2 Angel of the LORD. This was a theophany, a visible manifestation of God (v. 4). See note on Gen. 16:7.

fire. A frequent biblical symbol for God's presence (13:21; 19:18; Gen. 3:24; 1 Kin. 18:24, 38); it particularly expresses His all-consuming holiness (Heb. 12:29).

■ 3:3 bush. A real bush was illumined with supernatural fire. God is transcendent, but reveals Himself in the bush to call Moses.

■ 3:5 holy. The spot was made sacred by God's presence. See 19:23; 24:2. The question of how to approach the holy God is central for Exodus. It is resolved in the symbolism of the tabernacle.

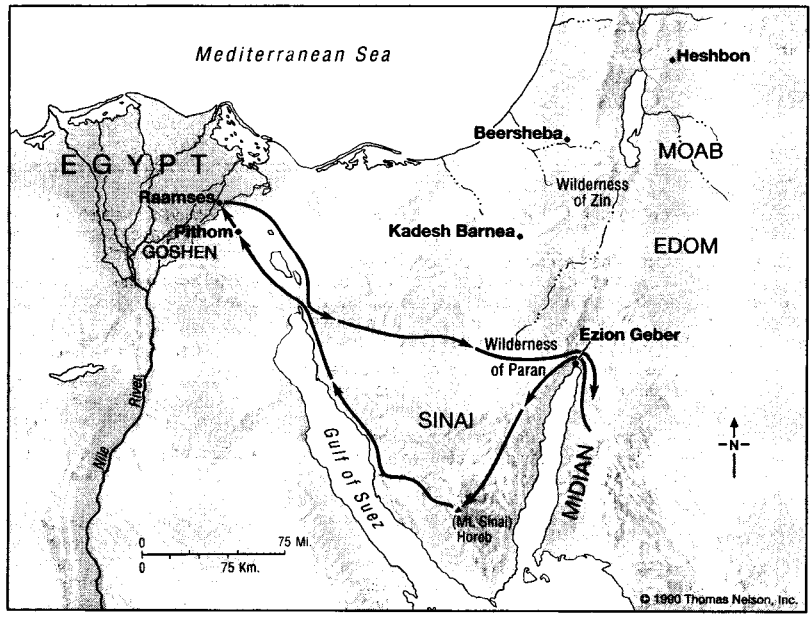
■ 3:6 God of your father. God remembers His covenant promises to the patriarchs and identifies Himself as their God. See Gen. 26:24; 28:13; 31:42; 32:9.

■ 3:8 Canaanites. The inhabitants of the Syro-Palestinian coastland.

Hittites. See note on Gen. 10:15.

Amorites. See note on Gen. 10:16.

Moses' Flight and Return to Egypt. Being sought by Pharaoh for the slaying of an Egyptian, Moses fled through the Sinai desert and settled in the land of Midian. In the vicinity of Horeb, located by tradition in the Sinaitic Peninsula, Moses was tending the flocks of Jethro, his father-in-law. Here God revealed Himself in the burning bush and called Moses to go back to Egypt. Returning to Jethro in Midian, Moses gathered his family and began the journey to Egypt. He met Aaron at Horeb, and together they returned to Pharaoh's court in Raamses.



down to [o]deliver them out of the hand of the Egyptians, and to bring them up from that land [p]to a good and large land, to a land [q]flowing with milk and honey, to the place of [r]the Canaanites and the Hittites and the Amorites and the Perizzites and the Hivites and the Jebusites. [9] Now therefore, behold, [s]the cry of the children of Israel has come to Me, and I have also seen the [t]oppression with which the Egyptians oppress them. [10] [u]Come now, therefore, and I will send you to Pharaoh that you may bring My people, the children of Israel, out of Egypt."

[11] But Moses said to God, [v]"Who am I that I should go to Pharaoh, and that I should bring the children of Israel out of Egypt?"

[12] So He said, [w]"I will certainly be with you. And this shall be a [x]sign to you that I have sent you: When you have brought the people out of Egypt, you shall serve God on this mountain."

[13] Then Moses said to God, "Indeed, when I come to the children of Israel and say to them, 'The God of your fathers has sent me to you,' and they say to me, 'What is His name?' what shall I say to them?"

[14] And God said to Moses, "I AM WHO I AM." And He said, "Thus you shall say to the children of Israel, [y]'I AM has sent me to you.' " [15] Moreover God said to Moses, "Thus you shall say to the children of Israel: 'The LORD God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, has sent me to you. This is [z]My name forever, and this is My memorial to all generations.' [16] Go and [a]gather the elders of Israel together, and say to them, 'The LORD God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, of Isaac, and of Jacob, appeared to me, saying, [b]"I have surely visited you and seen what is done to you in Egypt; [17] and I have said [c]I will bring you up out of the affliction of Egypt to the land of the Canaanites and the Hittites and the Amorites and the Perizzites and the Hivites and the Jebusites, to a land flowing with milk and honey." ' [18] Then [d]they will heed your voice; and [e]you shall come, you and the elders of Israel, to the king of Egypt; and you shall say to him, 'The LORD God of the Hebrews has [f]met with us; and now, please, let us go three days' journey into the wilderness, that we may sacrifice to the LORD our God.' [19] But I am sure that the king of Egypt [g]will not let you go, no, not even by a mighty hand. [20] So I will [h]stretch out My hand and strike Egypt with [i]all My wonders which I will do in its midst; and [j]after that he will let you go. [21] And [k]I will give this people favor in the sight of the Egyptians; and it shall be, when you go, that you shall not go empty-handed. [22] [l]But every woman shall ask of her neighbor, namely, of her who dwells near her house, [m]articles of silver, articles of gold, and clothing; and you shall put them on your sons and on your daughters. So [n]you shall plunder the Egyptians."

Miraculous Signs for Pharaoh

4 Then Moses answered and said, "But suppose they will not believe me or listen to my voice; suppose they say, 'The LORD has not appeared to you.' "

Perizzites. Possibly the peasantry located in central Palestine (Josh. 17:15).

Hivites. See note on Gen. 10:17.

Jebusites. The original occupants of Jerusalem, later dispossessed by David (Gen. 10:16 note; 2 Sam. 5:6–9).

■ 3:10 Pharaoh. Probably Thutmose III (1504–1450 B.C.). See Introduction: Date and Occasion.

■ 3:11 Who am I. Moses felt inadequate for the task, as did Gideon (Judg. 6:15) and Jeremiah (Jer. 1:6). This is the first of his four objections (v. 14; 4:1, 10).

■ 3:12 sign. God's call will be confirmed by His future action. God will be with Moses to bring him back to worship ("serve God") on this same mountain. Having served the Egyptians, Israel will become God's servants in covenant worship.

■ 3:13 What is His name. Moses anticipates a question from the people that is also his own. Already Moses seeks God's revelation of Himself. If God's deliverance was to be fully appreciated and assured, He who would be worshiped at this mountain must be known (33:12 and note). A personal name was not merely a form of address but a description of character and personality (Ps. 9:10; cf. 1 Sam. 25:25).

■ 3:14 I AM WHO I AM. The Lord is not defined or determined by any other than Himself. As the self-existent One, His promise is sure; He will reveal Himself in His saving deeds.

■ 3:15 The LORD. The Hebrew is Yahweh, probably derived from the Hebrew verb for "to be" (thus meaning "he is" or "he will be"). The corresponding first person is 'ehyeh, "I am." Note the parallels: "I Am has sent me" (v. 14) and "The LORD [Yahweh] . . . has sent me" (v. 15). See theological note " 'This Is My Name': God's Self-disclosure."

My memorial to all generations. Yahweh, the divine name particularly associated with God's covenant relationship with Israel, was henceforth to be used in worship. English versions of the Old Testament usually render this Hebrew name as "the LORD," following the practice of the New Testament, and of the Jews in the intertestamental period. The Jews thought the name too holy to pronounce, and when reading the text substituted 'adonay ("my Lord"). The vowel signs for 'adonay were later added to the Hebrew consonants of Yahweh as a pronunciation reminder, and this hybrid form was rendered "Jehovah" by William Tyndale's English translation (A.D. 1530). In the New Testament, LORD (Yahweh) is applied to Jesus (Rom. 10:13, citing Joel 2:32).

■ 3:16 elders. Lit. "bearded ones." These are family heads who would represent Israel. They will be assembled to hear of God's faithfulness (4:30, 31).

■ 3:17 milk and honey. The usual biblical description of Canaan.

■ 3:18 three days' journey. Possibly an expression for a short period of time.

■ 3:20 wonders. This mention of extraordinary deeds anticipates the plagues (7:14—12:30).

■ 3:21 not go empty-handed. As He promised (Gen. 15:14), God would see that their years of bondage were recompensed.

■ 4:1–9 See "Miracles" at 1 Kin. 17:22.

He said, "A rod."
3 And He said, "Cast it on the ground." So he cast it on the ground, and it became a serpent; and Moses fled from it. 4 Then the LORD said to Moses, "Reach out your hand and take it by the tail" (and he reached out his hand and caught it, and it became a rod in his hand), 5 "that they may [a]believe that the [b]LORD God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, has appeared to you."

And he put his hand in his bosom, and when he took it out, behold, his hand was leprous, [c]like snow. 7 And He said, "Put your hand in your bosom again." So he put his hand in his bosom again, and drew it out of his bosom, and behold, [d]it was restored like his other flesh. 8 "Then it will be, if they do

"This Is My Name": God's Self-disclosure

In the modern world, a person's name can be merely an identifying label; it does not reveal anything about the person. Biblical names, however, have their background in the widespread tradition that the personal name gives significant information about the one who bears it. The Old Testament constantly celebrates God's making His name known to Israel, and the psalms again and again direct praise to God's name (Ps. 8:1; 113:1–3; 145:1, 2; 148:5, 13). "Name" here means God Himself as He has revealed Himself by word and deed. At the heart of this self-revelation is the name by which He authorized Israel to invoke him—commonly rendered "the LORD" (for the Hebrew Yahweh, as modern scholars pronounce it; or "Jehovah," as it is sometimes written).

God declared this name to Moses when He spoke to him out of the bush that burned steadily without being burned up. God first identified Himself as the God who had committed Himself in covenant to the patriarchs (Gen. 17:1–14); then, when Moses asked Him what he could tell the people who asked what God's name was (the ancients assumed that prayer would only be heard if its addressee was named correctly), God answered first "I AM WHO I AM," then shortened it to "I AM." The name "Yahweh" ("the LORD") sounds like "I am" in Hebrew, and God finally called Himself "the LORD God of your fathers" (Ex. 3:15, 16). The name in all its forms proclaims His eternal, self-sustaining, self-determining, sovereign reality—the supernatural mode of existence that the sign of the burning bush had signified (Ex. 3:2). The bush that was not consumed was God's illustration of His own inexhaustible life. In designating "Yahweh" as "My name forever" (Ex. 3:15), God indicated that His people should always think of Him as the living, reigning, powerful King that the burning bush showed Him to be.

Later Moses asked to see God's "glory." In reply, God proclaimed "the name": "The LORD, the LORD God, merciful and gracious, longsuffering, and abounding in goodness and truth, keeping mercy for thousands, forgiving iniquity and transgression and sin, by no means clearing the guilty" (Ex. 34:6, 7). At the burning bush, God had addressed the question of the manner of His existence. Here, He answered the question, How can we describe His actions? This foundational announcement of His moral character is often echoed in later passages of Scripture (Neh. 9:17; Ps. 86:15; Joel 2:13; Jon. 4:2). These revelations are all part of His "name," His disclosure of His nature, for which He is to be revered and glorified forever.

In the New Testament, the words and acts of Jesus, the incarnate Son of God, are a full revelation of the mind, character, and purposes of God the Father (John 14:9–11; cf. 1:18). "Hallowed be Your name" in the Lord's Prayer (Matt. 6:9) expresses the desire that God will be revered and praised as the splendor of His entire self-disclosure deserves. □

■ 4:1 But suppose. Moses' third objection (3:11 note). Israel must be persuaded. This would be the difficult task, but God had purposed to see that Israel would believe (3:18). Nothing is said about convincing Pharaoh (cf. 6:12).

■ 4:2 hand. The Hebrew word for "hand" often connotes power. Against the oppressing hand of Egypt (3:8; 14:30; 18:10), the mighty hand of God will be stretched out (3:19–20). God will use the hand of Moses to show His power. Moses' staff will become the staff of God (v. 20).

■ 4:6 leprous. Not what is today called Hansen's Disease, but a common skin disease of the time. God shows His power to judge and to heal.

not believe you, nor heed the message of the [e]first sign, that they may believe the message of the latter sign. [9] And it shall be, if they do not believe even these two signs, or listen to your voice, that you shall take water from [1]the river and pour it on the dry land. [f]The water which you take from the river will become blood on the dry land."

[10] Then Moses said to the LORD, "O my Lord, I am not eloquent, neither before nor since You have spoken to Your servant; but [g]I am slow of speech and [2]slow of tongue."

[11] So the LORD said to him, [h]"Who has made man's mouth? Or who makes the mute, the deaf, the seeing, or the blind? Have not I, the LORD? [12] Now therefore, go, and I will be [i]with your mouth and teach you what you shall say."

[13] But he said, "O my Lord, [j]please send by the hand of whomever else You may send."

[14] So [k]the anger of the LORD was kindled against Moses, and He said: "Is not Aaron the Levite your [l]brother? I know that he can speak well. And look, [m]he is also coming out to meet you. When he sees you, he will be glad in his heart. [15] Now [n]you shall speak to him and [o]put the words in his mouth. And I will be with your mouth and with his mouth, and [p]I will teach you what you shall do. [16] So he shall be your spokesman to the people. And he himself shall be as a mouth for you, and [q]you shall be to him as God. [17] And you shall take this rod in your hand, with which you shall do the signs."

Moses Goes to Egypt

[18] So Moses went and returned to [r]Jethro his father-in-law, and said to him, "Please let me go and return to my brethren who are in Egypt, and see whether they are still alive."

And Jethro said to Moses, [s]"Go in peace."

[19] Now the LORD said to Moses in [t]Midian, "Go, return to [u]Egypt; for [v]all the men who sought your life are dead." [20] Then Moses [w]took his wife and his sons and set them on a donkey, and he returned to the land of Egypt. And Moses took [x]the rod of God in his hand.

[21] And the LORD said to Moses, "When you go back to Egypt, see that you do all those [y]wonders before Pharaoh which I have put in your hand. But [z]I will harden his heart, so that he will not let the people go. [22] Then you shall [a]say to Pharaoh, 'Thus says the LORD: [b]"Israel is My son, [c]My firstborn. [23] So I say to you, let My son go that he may serve Me. But if you refuse to let him go, indeed [d]I will kill your son, your firstborn." ' "

[24] And it came to pass on the way, at the [e]encampment, that the LORD [f]met him and sought to [g]kill him. [25] Then [h]Zipporah took [i]a sharp stone and cut off the foreskin of her son and [3]cast it at [4]Moses' feet, and said, "Surely you are a husband of blood to me!" [26] So He let him go. Then she said, "You are a [5]husband of blood!"—because of the circumcision.

[27] And the LORD said to Aaron, "Go into the wilderness [j]to meet Moses." So he went and met him on [k]the mountain of God, and kissed him. [28] So Moses [l]told Aaron all the words of the LORD

■ 4:9 the river. See text note. This specific sign was not needed by Moses and was not used, though its force appears in the first plague (7:20). The Nile was revered as a god and was the source of Egypt's life. This sign would have meant the potential death of the Nile and thus of Egypt.

■ 4:10 slow of speech. The fourth objection. Moses is not fluent, but God equips whom He calls (Jer. 1:9). God was teaching Moses and his successors to depend on Him for their gifts. If God made the mouth (v. 11), He can enable man to use it.

■ 4:13–16 Left without excuse, Moses still tries to decline his commission. But the Lord has already summoned his brother Aaron. The relation of Moses to Aaron sheds light on the nature of prophecy: Aaron will be a mouthpiece for Moses just as a prophet is for God (v. 16). See also 6:30; 7:1.

■ 4:17 signs. The plagues are again anticipated (3:20 note). These miraculous deeds will be performed with this same staff.

■ 4:19 all the men . . . dead. Including the Egyptian Pharaoh (Introduction: Date and Occasion).

■ 4:20 sons. Gershom (2:22) and Eliezer (18:4).

■ 4:21 I will harden his heart. The Lord's hardening of Pharaoh's heart is a sovereign divine judgment on Pharaoh, who is also said to harden his own heart (8:15; Rom. 9:17, 18). God purposes to display His power over the stubborn hostility of the king so that His people might know that He is the Lord their deliverer (6:6–8).

■ 4:22 Israel is My son, My firstborn. The Lord puts His claim upon Israel as His firstborn son, His beloved, a title ultimately realized in Jesus Christ (Mark 1:11). God's claim is the reason for God's deliverance and the covenant to be sealed at Sinai ("that he may serve Me," v. 23). This claim issues in God's threat against Pharaoh's firstborn (i.e., the firstborn of Egypt).

■ 4:24 kill him. The Hebrew is unclear. These words echo v. 23 and may refer to Moses' firstborn, Gershom, not to Moses. Alternatively, the attack may have been directed against Moses himself, perhaps because of his failure to circumcise his son.

■ 4:25 sharp stone. Presumably, a ceremonial instrument. Zipporah intervenes to circumcise her son.

Moses' feet. Lit. "his feet"; the word "Moses' " is supplied (cf. 24 note). The connection of Zipporah's action with the "husband of blood" is uncertain. Circumcision, no less than the Passover, requires the shedding of blood for cleansing and protection. The Lord, the God of the fathers, requires the sign He gave to Abraham (Gen. 17:10). Other examples of divine confrontation at the beginning of a mission include Gen. 32:24 and Josh. 5:13.

■ 4:27 to meet Moses. In Hebrew narrative style, this statement takes the reader back in time to explain Aaron's meeting with Moses before Moses left Sinai.

who had sent him, and all the [m]signs which He had commanded him. 29 Then Moses and Aaron [n]went and gathered together all the elders of the children of Israel. 30 [o]And Aaron spoke all the words which the LORD had spoken to Moses. Then he did the signs in the sight of the people. 31 So the people [p]believed; and when they heard that the LORD had [q]visited the children of Israel and that He [r]had looked on their affliction, then [s]they bowed their heads and worshiped.

First Encounter with Pharaoh

5 Afterward Moses and Aaron went in and told Pharaoh, "Thus says the LORD God of Israel: 'Let My people go, that they may [1]hold [a]a feast to Me in the wilderness.' "

2 And Pharaoh said, [b]"Who is the LORD, that I should obey His voice to let Israel go? I do not know the LORD, [c]nor will I let Israel go."

3 So they said, [d]"The God of the Hebrews has [e]met with us. Please, let us go three days' journey into the desert and sacrifice to the LORD our God, lest He fall upon us with [f]pestilence or with the sword."

4 Then the king of Egypt said to them, "Moses and Aaron, why do you take the people from their work? Get back to your [g]labor." 5 And Pharaoh said, "Look, the people of the land are [h]many now, and you make them rest from their labor!"

6 So the same day Pharaoh commanded the [i]taskmasters of the people and their officers, saying, 7 "You shall no longer give the people straw to make [j]brick as before. Let them go and gather straw for themselves. 8 And you shall lay on them the quota of bricks which they made before. You shall not reduce it. For they are idle; therefore they cry out, saying, 'Let us go and sacrifice to our God.' 9 Let more work be laid on the men, that they may labor in it, and let them not regard false words."

10 And the taskmasters of the people and their officers went out and spoke to the people, saying, "Thus says Pharaoh: 'I will not give you straw. 11 Go, get yourselves straw where you can find it; yet none of your work will be reduced.' " 12 So the people were scattered abroad throughout all the land of Egypt to gather stubble instead of straw. 13 And the taskmasters forced them to hurry, saying, "Fulfill your work, your daily quota, as when there was straw." 14 Also the [k]officers of the children of Israel, whom Pharaoh's taskmasters had set over them, were [l]beaten and were asked, "Why have you not fulfilled your task in making brick both yesterday and today, as before?"

15 Then the officers of the children of Israel came and cried out to Pharaoh, saying, "Why are you dealing thus with your servants? 16 There is no straw given to your servants, and they say to us, 'Make brick!' And indeed your servants are beaten, but the fault is in your own people."

17 But he said, "You are idle! Idle! Therefore you say, 'Let us go and sacrifice to the LORD.' 18 Therefore go now and work; for no straw shall be given you, yet you shall deliver the quota of bricks." 19 And the officers of the children of Israel saw that they were in trouble after it was said, "You shall not reduce any bricks from your daily quota."

20 Then, as they came out from Pharaoh, they met Moses and Aaron who stood there to meet them. 21 [m]And they said to them, "Let the LORD look on you and judge, because you have made [2]us abhorrent in the sight of Pharaoh and in the sight of his servants, to put a sword in their hand to kill us."

■ 4:30 Aaron. Aaron will now function as Moses' spokesman (vv. 13–16 note).

■ 4:31 believed. Israel now believes as God had said that they would (3:18). They worship, praising God for His care.

■ 5:1 Let My people go. The confrontation with Pharaoh begins with God's demand. The people are His, not Pharaoh's.

hold a feast. See text note. This was a pilgrimage to a shrine where a festival would be held (3:18).

■ 5:2 Who is the LORD. Pharaoh's question will be answered by the plagues.

■ 5:3 After presenting God's demand, Moses and Aaron seek to reason with Pharaoh. The Lord is the God of the Hebrews; the distance would be only a three-day journey; disobedience to God's command could seriously reduce Pharaoh's work force.

■ 5:5 people of the land. Later this term came to mean the responsible landowners in Israel (2 Kin. 11:18–20; Jer. 34:19), but here it means peasant workers attached to the land.

■ 5:7 straw. The bricks of the time were much larger than modern bricks; they were molded of Nile mud with straw to increase their strength.

■ 5:10 taskmasters. The slave masters and section leaders pass the order down through the ranks. During the events of vv. 6–19 Moses and Aaron do not intervene. This crushing reply of Pharaoh shows his human supremacy.

■ 5:15–21 Israel appeals to Pharaoh for relief and complains to Moses and Aaron about their plight.

■ 5:21 the LORD . . . judge. Not for the last time, leaders of Israel would curse Moses for obeying the command of the Lord.

Israel's Deliverance Assured

22 So Moses returned to the LORD and said, "Lord, why have You brought trouble on this people? Why is it You have sent me? 23 For since I came to Pharaoh to speak in Your name, he has done evil to this people; neither have You delivered Your people at all."

6 Then the LORD said to Moses, "Now you shall see what I will do to Pharaoh. For [a]with a strong hand he will let them go, and with a strong hand [b]he will drive them out of his land."

2 And God spoke to Moses and said to him: "I am [1]the LORD. 3 [c]I appeared to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, as [d]God Almighty, but by My name [e]LORD[2] I was not known to them. 4 [f]I have also [3]established My covenant with them, [g]to give them the land of Canaan, the land of their [4]pilgrimage, [h]in which they were [5]strangers. 5 And [i]I have also heard the groaning of the children of Israel whom the Egyptians keep in bondage, and I have remembered My covenant. 6 Therefore say to the children of Israel: [j]'I am the LORD; [k]I will bring you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians, I will [l]rescue you from their bondage, and I will redeem you with [6]an outstretched arm and with great judgments. 7 I will [m]take you as My people, and [n]I will be your God. Then you shall know that I am the LORD your God who brings you out [o]from under the burdens of the Egyptians. 8 And I will bring you into the land which I [p]swore[7] to give to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; and I will give it to you as a heritage: I am the LORD.' " 9 So Moses spoke thus to the children of Israel; [q]but they did not heed Moses, because of [r]anguish[8] of spirit and cruel bondage.

10 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 11 "Go in, tell Pharaoh king of Egypt to let the children of Israel go out of his land."

12 And Moses spoke before the LORD, saying, "The children of Israel have not heeded me. How then shall Pharaoh heed me, for [s]I am [9]of uncircumcised lips?"

13 Then the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, and gave them a [t]command[1] for the children of Israel and for Pharaoh king of Egypt, to bring the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt.

12 [s]Jer. 1:6 [9]One who does not speak well

■ 5:22 Moses . . . said. As a mediator, Moses speaks God's Word to the people, and pleads the plight of the people to God. This pattern is repeated throughout Exodus. God's reply (ch. 6) gives assurance that the hopeless situation will be the occasion for His mighty action.

■ 6:1 drive. The Lord's power will more than prevail. Pharaoh will not only let them go, he will drive Israel out.

■ 6:2–8 Note the repeated use of the revelation (authority) formula, "I am the LORD," in these verses (vv. 2, 6–8). The use of God's covenant name underscores the surety of His covenant promises and faithfulness (3:15 and notes).

■ 6:3 God Almighty. God had revealed Himself to the patriarchs as God Almighty (Hebrew El-Shaddai, Gen. 17:1; 28:3; 35:11). In Genesis, however, the name Yahweh is much more commonly used, perhaps only to identify the God of the fathers as Yahweh, the LORD. Nevertheless, while some passages seem to imply the use of Yahweh from the earliest time (Gen. 4:26; 9:26; 12:8; 24:12), it is not found as an element in personal names (Ja- or Jo-) before the time of Moses, with the possible exception of Jochebed (6:20). In any case, God identifies Himself as El Shaddai, the God of the patriarchs, but reveals Himself afresh as Yahweh, the covenant God who claims and redeems Israel according to His gracious purpose.

■ 6:4 My covenant. Yahweh is also El Shaddai, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. His covenant promise to these earlier patriarchs is His purpose for Israel. The continuity of the covenant is affirmed in vv. 4, 5.

■ 6:5 remembered My covenant. When used of God, "remembered" means that He is prepared to act on His promises, not simply recall them. This narrative affirms the inclusion in the Abrahamic covenant of all Israel.

■ 6:6 bring you out . . . redeem. God's reply to Moses' complaint of 5:22–23. This is the central core of the section, a solemn assurance of redemption and of covenant reaffirmation.

redeem. This term normally refers to the restoration of rights to a disadvantaged family member by the payment of a price or a ransom; such redemption was normally effected by the next of kin (Lev. 25:25; cf. Ruth 4). Israel, as Yahweh's son (4:22), was redeemed from Egypt to be God's own people. Rescue, redemption, and covenant relation are the keys to the passage. The heart of the covenant is God's claim on His people and the reciprocal claim that He allows them to make on Him.

■ 6:7 My people. This anticipates 19:5–6.

■ 6:9–13 God renews His demand for Israel's release. The discouragement of Israel and Moses shows that the deliverance must be God's work completely. In spite of God's renewed promise, the people will not hear, and even Moses has difficulty believing that his mission will be effective.

■ 6:14–27 In this transitional section, Moses and Aaron are formally identified, and the story of their work is reviewed and resumed in preparation for the description of the ten plagues. The formal identification is accomplished through a genealogy that begins with Reuben, Israel's oldest son, then proceeds to Simeon, the second son, and finally to Levi. Levi's genealogy establishes the link to Moses and Aaron. Among the Levites Amram is singled out, then Aaron and Moses. The subsequent names constitute the priestly line for Israel (Num. 25:10–13; 26:57–62). For Korah, see Num. 16:1–35.

and thirty-seven. 17 [x]The sons of Gershon were Libni and Shimi according to their families. 18 And [y]the sons of Kohath were Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel. And the years of the life of Kohath were one hundred and thirty-three. 19 [z]The sons of Merari were Mahli and Mushi. These are the families of Levi according to their generations.

20 Now [a]Amram took for himself [b]Jochebed, his father's sister, as wife; and she bore him [c]Aaron and Moses. And the years of the life of Amram were one hundred and thirty-seven. 21 [d]The sons of Izhar were Korah, Nepheg, and Zichri. 22 And [e]the sons of Uzziel were Mishael, Elzaphan, and Zithri. 23 Aaron took to himself Elisheba, daughter of [f]Amminadab, sister of Nahshon, as wife; and she bore him [g]Nadab, Abihu, [h]Eleazar, and Ithamar. 24 And [i]the sons of Korah were Assir, Elkanah, and Abiasaph. These are the families of the Korahites. 25 Eleazar, Aaron's son, took for himself one of the daughters of Putiel as wife; and [j]she bore him Phinehas. These are the heads of the fathers' houses of the Levites according to their families.

26 These are the same Aaron and Moses to whom the LORD said, "Bring out the children of Israel from the land of Egypt according to their [k]armies."[3] 27 These are the ones who spoke to Pharaoh king of Egypt, [l]to bring out the children of Israel from Egypt. These are the same Moses and Aaron.

Aaron Is Moses' Spokesman

28 And it came to pass, on the day the LORD spoke to Moses in the land of Egypt, 29 that the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, "I am the LORD. [m]Speak to Pharaoh king of Egypt all that I say to you."

30 But Moses said before the LORD, "Behold, [n]I am [4]of uncircumcised lips, and how shall Pharaoh heed me?"

7 So the LORD said to Moses: "See, I have made you [a]as God to Pharaoh, and Aaron your brother shall be [b]your prophet. 2 You [c]shall speak all that I command you. And Aaron your brother shall tell Pharaoh to send the children of Israel out of his land. 3 And [d]I will harden Pharaoh's heart, and [e]multiply My [f]signs and My wonders in the land of Egypt. 4 But [g]Pharaoh will not heed you, so [h]that I may lay My hand on Egypt and bring My [i]armies and My people, the children of Israel, out of the land of Egypt [j]by great judgments. 5 And the Egyptians [j]shall know that I am the LORD, when I [k]stretch out My hand on Egypt and [l]bring out the children of Israel from among them."

6 Then Moses and Aaron [m]did so; just as the LORD commanded them, so they did. 7 And Moses was [n]eighty years old and [o]Aaron eighty-three years old when they spoke to Pharaoh.

Aaron's Miraculous Rod

8 Then the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying, 9 "When Pharaoh speaks to you, saying, [p]'Show a miracle for yourselves,' then you shall say to Aaron, [q]'Take your rod and cast it before Pharaoh, and let it become a serpent.' " 10 So Moses and Aaron went in to Pharaoh, and they did so, just [r]as the LORD commanded. And Aaron cast down his rod before Pharaoh and before his servants, and it [s]became a serpent.

■ 6:20 The record of the marriage of Amram to his paternal aunt would be most unlikely in a fictitious genealogy. Such a marriage was later forbidden in the Mosaic Law (Lev. 18:12). Three women are mentioned in tracing the line: Jochebed, Elisheba, and a daughter of Putiel.

■ 6:23 bore him. No descendant of Moses is named, but those of Aaron continue for the next two generations to establish priestly succession from Aaron through his successor Eleazar. The genealogy spans only four generations for the sojourn in Egypt and is clearly selective (Gen. 5:3–32 note).

■ 6:25 Putiel . . . Phinehas. Like "Merari" in v. 16, these are probably Egyptian names, which occurred frequently among Levites.

■ 6:28—7:7 This section reviews and restates Moses' commission after his hesitation (6:12, 30). The real demand now appears: not a temporary absence, but a definitive exodus from Egypt.

■ 7:1 prophet. The origin of the Hebrew term for "prophet" is disputed, but perhaps it means "one who is called." The function of Aaron in relation to Moses demonstrates the function of a true prophet in relation to God (4:13–16 note).

■ 7:2–5 The theological explanation of the plagues is given in the first five plagues. Pharaoh's obstinacy is self-motivated (7:22; 8:15, 32; 9:7). God is said to have hardened Pharaoh's heart in plagues seven, eight, and nine (10:1, 20, 27). In the sixth plague, the obstinacy stems from Pharaoh himself (9:35), but God also claims to have hardened Pharaoh (10:1). God's purpose is not simply judgment on Pharaoh, but manifesting His power to save His people so that His name might be proclaimed in all the earth (9:16; Rom. 9:17, 18).

■ 7:3 heart. The Hebrew is a broad term describing the center of feeling, thinking, and willing. The Lord causes Pharaoh's heart to become hard (lit. "difficult"), not by implanting evil in it, but by giving it over to its evil direction without restraint (Rom. 1:24, 26, 28). Paul contrasts hardening with showing mercy (Rom. 9:18). God's judgment on Pharaoh issued in mercy to Israel, Egypt, and the nations as they saw His power to save.

will . . . multiply. Or, "in order that I might multiply."

My signs and My wonders. These are the nine plagues and ten miracles of 7:9—11:10, culminating in the death plague of 12:29–30.

■ 7:9 serpent. The Hebrew word here (different from the word for "serpent" in 4:3) often refers to a sea reptile or river monster (Gen. 1:21; Ezek. 29:3; 32:2), but can refer to any large reptile. A large snake is probably in view.

11 But Pharaoh also [t]called the wise men and [u]the [2]sorcerers; so the magicians of Egypt, they also [v]did in like manner with their [3]enchantments. 12 For every man threw down his rod, and they became serpents. But Aaron's rod swallowed up their rods. 13 And Pharaoh's heart grew hard, and he did not heed them, as the LORD had said.

The First Plague: Waters Become Blood

14 So the LORD said to Moses: [w]"Pharaoh's heart is hard; he refuses to let the people go. 15 Go to Pharaoh in the morning, when he goes out to the [x]water, and you shall stand by the river's bank to meet him; and [y]the rod which was turned to a serpent you shall take in your hand. 16 And you shall say to him, [z]'The LORD God of the Hebrews has sent me to you, saying, "Let My people go, [a]that they may [4]serve Me in the wilderness"; but indeed, until now you would not hear! 17 Thus says the LORD: "By this [b]you shall know that I am the LORD. Behold, I will strike the waters which are in the river with the rod that is in my hand, and [c]they shall be turned [d]to blood. 18 And the fish that are in the river shall die, the river shall stink, and the Egyptians will [e]loathe[5] to drink the water of the river." ' "

19 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, "Say to Aaron, 'Take your rod and [f]stretch out your hand

■ 7:11 magicians. The Hebrew term indicates an engraver or writer, a learned person. The Egyptian magicians relied on the familiar tricks of magic, Aaron on divine power. See note on 9:11.

■ 7:13 as the LORD had said. See 4:21; 7:3, 22; 8:15, 19.

■ 7:14—10:29 A theory of natural causes for the plagues does not do justice to the clear statements of the text (7:17; 9:5 notes). A particular order would be essential for an explanation of the plagues as normal events associated with the overflow of the Nile, but neither the narrative here, nor the plague lists in Ps. 78:44–51; 105:28–36, suggest such an order.

The plagues are arranged in three groups of three (7:14—8:19; 8:20—9:12; 9:13—10:29); the tenth is climactic. The first two plagues in each sequence are preceded by a divine warning, but the third comes unheralded. In the first plague of each series Moses contacts Pharaoh in the morning; no time indication is given for the other two. The plagues are the answer to Pharaoh's challenge (5:2; cf. 7:5), and the description of the first plague of each triplet announces the theme of the triplet and gives its purpose. In plagues one through three the theme is the absolute superiority of the Lord (and His agents) over Pharaoh and the Egyptian gods (7:16, 17).

■ 7:14 hard. Pharaoh's hardening was the necessary prerequisite for the display of divine power (4:21 note).

■ 7:17 The use of the rod with the first three and the last three plagues shows that Yahweh is the real author.

I will strike. Aaron will strike (vv. 19, 20), but the Lord will perform the miracle. The striking is by God's hand, by His rod. The deed of Aaron is owned by God no less than the word that God gave him through Moses.

blood. In Hebrew the word never denotes its red color, but always blood as a substance. The red clay that comes down at the time of flooding from the Ethiopian highlands (coloring the Nile water) is not in view.

■ 7:19 waters. All the natural waters of Egypt were involved, including the natural arms of the Nile, the irrigation canals, and the pools formed by river flooding. The Nile River, the source of Egypt's agricultural life, was revered as a god. Beginning with this plague the Lord's superiority over the Egyptian pantheon of gods is demonstrated.

The Ten Plagues on Egypt (7:3, 5)

The Plague	The Effect
1. Blood (7:20)	Pharaoh hardened (7:22)
2. Frogs (8:6)	Pharaoh begs relief, promises freedom (8:8), but is hardened (8:15)
3. Lice (8:17)	Pharaoh hardened (8:19)
4. Flies (8:24)	Pharaoh bargains (8:28), but is hardened (8:32)
5. Livestock diseased (9:6)	Pharaoh hardened (9:7)
6. Boils (9:10)	Pharaoh hardened (9:12)
7. Hail (9:23)	Pharaoh begs relief (9:27), promises freedom (9:28), but is hardened (9:35)
8. Locusts (10:13)	Pharaoh bargains (10:11), begs relief (10:17), but is hardened (10:20)
9. Darkness (10:22)	Pharaoh bargains (10:24), but is hardened (10:27)
10. Death of firstborn (12:29)	Pharaoh and Egyptians beg Israel to leave Egypt (12:31–33)

God multiplied His signs and wonders in the land of Egypt that the Egyptians might know that He is the LORD.

over the waters of Egypt, over their streams, over their rivers, over their ponds, and over all their pools of water, that they may become blood. And there shall be blood throughout all the land of Egypt, both in buckets of wood and pitchers of stone.' " 20 And Moses and Aaron did so, just as the LORD commanded. So he [g]lifted up the rod and struck the waters that were in the river, in the sight of Pharaoh and in the sight of his servants. And all the [h]waters that were in the river were turned to blood. 21 The fish that were in the river died, the river stank, and the Egyptians [i]could not drink the water of the river. So there was blood throughout all the land of Egypt.

22 [j]Then the magicians of Egypt did [k]so with their [6]enchantments; and Pharaoh's heart grew hard, and he did not heed them, [l]as the LORD had said. 23 And Pharaoh turned and went into his house. Neither was his heart moved by this. 24 So all the Egyptians dug all around the river for water to drink, because they could not drink the water of the river. 25 And seven days passed after the LORD had struck the river.

The Second Plague: Frogs

8 And the LORD spoke to Moses, "Go to Pharaoh and say to him, 'Thus says the LORD: "Let My people go, [a]that they may serve Me. 2 But if you [b]refuse to let them go, behold, I will smite all your territory with [c]frogs. 3 So the river shall bring forth frogs abundantly, which shall go up and come into your house, into your [d]bedroom, on your bed, into the houses of your servants, on your people, into your ovens, and into your kneading bowls. 4 And the frogs shall come up on you, on your people, and on all your servants." ' "

5 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, "Say to Aaron, [e]'Stretch out your hand with your rod over the streams, over the rivers, and over the ponds, and cause frogs to come up on the land of Egypt.' " 6 So Aaron stretched out his hand over the waters of Egypt, and [f]the frogs came up and covered the land of Egypt. 7 [g]And the magicians did so with their [l]enchantments, and brought up frogs on the land of Egypt.

8 Then Pharaoh called for Moses and Aaron, and said, [h]"Entreat[2] the LORD that He may take away the frogs from me and from my people; and I will let the people [i]go, that they may sacrifice to the LORD."

9 And Moses said to Pharaoh, "Accept the honor of saying when I shall intercede for you, for your servants, and for your people, to destroy the frogs from you and your houses, that they may remain in the river only."

10 So he said, "Tomorrow." And he said, "Let it be according to your word, that you may know that [j]there is no one like the LORD our God. 11 And the frogs shall depart from you, from your houses, from your servants, and from your people. They shall remain in the river only."

12 Then Moses and Aaron went out from Pharaoh. And Moses [k]cried out to the LORD concerning the frogs which He had brought against Pharaoh. 13 So the LORD did according to the word of Moses. And the frogs died out of the houses, out of the courtyards, and out of the fields. 14 They gathered them together in heaps, and the land stank. 15 But when Pharaoh saw that there was [l]relief, [m]he hardened his heart and did not heed them, as the LORD had said.

The Third Plague: Lice

16 So the LORD said to Moses, "Say to Aaron, 'Stretch out your rod, and strike the dust of the land, so that it may become [3]lice throughout all the land of Egypt.' " 17 And they did so. For Aaron stretched out his hand with his rod and struck the dust of the earth, and [n]it became lice on man and beast. All the dust of the land became lice throughout all the land of Egypt.

18 Now [o]the magicians so worked with their [4]enchantments to bring forth lice, but they [p]could not. So there were lice on man and beast. 19 Then the magicians said to Pharaoh, "This is [q]the[5] finger of God." But Pharaoh's [r]heart grew hard, and he did not heed them, just as the LORD had said.

- 7:22 magicians. See notes on 7:11; 9:11.
- 8:3 river shall bring forth frogs. Frogs represented the primordial goddess Heket in Egyptian religious life. Here the allegedly divine river and frogs bring misery on the Egyptians—another demonstration of the Lord's supremacy.
- 8:7 brought up frogs. The magicians can only add to the distress (9:11 note).
- 8:8 I will let the people go. Pharaoh, personally affected, made his first concession. The plagues were not intended, however, to soften his resistance (7:3), but to magnify Yahweh's power and cause Israel to believe. Pharaoh was tough and shrewd (vv. 15, 25).
- 8:16–19 God raises His rod against the dust, turning it into a plague of gnats (v. 16 text note).
- 8:19 finger of God. The magicians now admit that a divine intervention was directly involved (cf. 31:18; Ps. 8:3), but Pharaoh was not persuaded.

The Fourth Plague: Flies

20 And the LORD said to Moses, [s]"Rise early in the morning and stand before Pharaoh as he comes out to the water. Then say to him, 'Thus says the LORD: [t]"Let My people go, that they may serve Me. 21 Or else, if you will not let My people go, behold, I will send swarms of flies on you and your servants, on your people and into your houses. The houses of the Egyptians shall be full of swarms of flies, and also the ground on which they stand. 22 And in that day [u]I will set apart the land of [v]Goshen, in which My people dwell, that no swarms of flies shall be there, in order that you may [w]know that I am the LORD in the midst of the [x]land. 23 I will [6]make a difference between My people and your people. Tomorrow this [y]sign shall be."' " 24 And the LORD did so. [z]Thick swarms of flies came into the house of Pharaoh and his servants' houses, and into all the land of Egypt. The land was corrupted because of the swarms of flies.

25 Then Pharaoh called for Moses and Aaron, and said, "Go, sacrifice to your God in the land."

26 And Moses said, "It is not right to do so, for we would be sacrificing [a]the abomination of the Egyptians to the LORD our God. If we sacrifice the abomination of the Egyptians before their eyes, then will they not [7]stone us? 27 We will go [three days'] journey into the wilderness and sacrifice to the LORD our God as [b]He will command us."

28 So Pharaoh said, "I will let you go, that you may sacrifice to the LORD your God in the wilderness; only you shall not go very far away. [c]Intercede for me."

29 Then Moses said, "Indeed I am going out from you, and I will entreat the LORD, that the swarms of flies may depart tomorrow from Pharaoh, from his servants, and from his people. But let Pharaoh not [d]deal deceitfully anymore in not letting the people go to sacrifice to the LORD."

30 So Moses went out from Pharaoh and [e]entreated the LORD. 31 And the LORD did according to the word of Moses; He removed the swarms of flies from Pharaoh, from his servants, and from his people. Not one remained. 32 But Pharaoh [f]hardened his heart at this time also, neither would he let the people go.

The Fifth Plague: Livestock Diseased

9 Then the LORD said to Moses, [a]"Go in to Pharaoh and tell him, 'Thus says the LORD God of the Hebrews: "Let My people go, that they may [b]serve Me. 2 For if you [c]refuse to let them go, and still hold them, 3 behold, the [d]hand of the LORD will be on your cattle in the field, on the horses, on the donkeys, on the camels, on the oxen, and on the sheep—a very severe [e]pestilence. 4 And the LORD will make a difference between the livestock of Israel and the livestock of Egypt. So nothing shall die of all that belongs to the children of Israel." ' " 5 Then the LORD appointed a set time, saying, 'Tomorrow the LORD will do this thing in the land.' "

6 So the LORD did this thing on the next day, and [f]all the livestock of Egypt died; but of the livestock of the children of Israel, not one died. 7 Then Pharaoh sent, and indeed, not even one of the livestock of the Israelites was dead. But the heart of Pharaoh became hard, and he did not let the people go.

7 [g]Ex. 7:14; 8:32

■ 8:20 water. This first plague of the second sequence again finds Pharaoh at the Nile (cf. 7:15).

■ 8:21 swarms. The Hebrew word occurs only here and at Ps. 78:45; 105:31.

■ 8:23 make a difference. See text note. In the second set of three plagues God distinguishes between Goshen and the rest of Egypt. He shows His favor toward His own people. Pharaoh later investigates this (9:7).

■ 8:25 During the swarms of flies, Pharaoh offers to negotiate by agreeing to less than the Lord demands. Moses regularly refuses to compromise: he will neither worship in the land nor go less than a three days' journey (v. 28); neither will he leave behind the women and children (10:9–11) nor leave the flocks and herds (10:24). At last after Pharaoh repeatedly broke faith, God's liberation is total. Israel not only goes out to worship at Sinai but leaves Egypt for Canaan.

■ 8:26 abomination. Egyptians deified the animals customarily sacrificed by the Israelites.

■ 9:3 horses. The horse was brought into Egypt by the Hyksos [illegible] sporadically used during this period (cf. Gen. 12:16), widespread use of the camel in Egypt only came much later. Perhaps camels [illegible] from Arabia and elsewhere are referred to here.

■ 9:5 at a set time. The plague has [illegible] coincidence. The biblical account gives no room for naturalistic explanation (such as an epidemic [illegible] from dead frogs).

Tomorrow. The day [illegible] that God provided time for [illegible] repentance [illegible] all the Egyptian livestock in a place of shelter (cf. vv. 18–19). For all the Egyptian livestock [illegible] succumbed to this plague (vv. 9, 19).

■ 9:6 all the livestock. Since the next plague [illegible] affects livestock also, this phrase must designate either [illegible] kinds of livestock or all the livestock in the field (v. 3 note; cf. vv. 18–19).

■ 9:7 See 8:23 and note.

The Sixth Plague: Boils

8 So the LORD said to Moses and Aaron, "Take for yourselves handfuls of ashes from a furnace, and let Moses scatter it toward the heavens in the sight of Pharaoh. 9 And it will become fine dust in all the land of Egypt, and it will cause [h]boils that break out in sores on man and beast throughout all the land of Egypt." 10 Then they took ashes from the furnace and stood before Pharaoh, and Moses scattered them toward heaven. And they caused [i]boils that break out in sores on man and beast. 11 And the [j]magicians could not stand before Moses because of the [k]boils, for the boils were on the magicians and on all the Egyptians. 12 But the LORD hardened the heart of Pharaoh; and he [l]did not heed them, just [m]as the LORD had spoken to Moses.

The Seventh Plague: Hail

13 Then the LORD said to Moses, [n]"Rise early in the morning and stand before Pharaoh, and say to him, 'Thus says the LORD God of the Hebrews: "Let My people go, that they may [o]serve Me, 14 for at this time I will send all My plagues to your very heart, and on your servants and on your people, [p]that you may know that there is none like Me in all the earth. 15 Now if I had [q]stretched out My hand and struck you and your people with pestilence, then you would have been cut off from the earth. 16 But indeed for [r]this purpose I have raised you up, that I may [s]show My power in you, and that My [t]name may be declared in all the earth. 17 As yet you exalt yourself against My people in that you will not let them go. 18 Behold, tomorrow about this time I will cause very heavy hail to rain down, such as has not been in Egypt since its founding until now. 19 Therefore send now and gather your livestock and all that you have in the field, for the hail shall come down on every man and every animal which is found in the field and is not brought home; and they shall die."' "

20 He who [v]feared the word of the LORD among the [w]servants of Pharaoh made his servants and his livestock flee to the houses. 21 But he who did not regard the word of the LORD left his servants and his livestock in the field.

22 Then the LORD said to Moses, "Stretch out your hand toward heaven, that there may be [x]hail in all the land of Egypt—on man, on beast, and on every herb of the field, throughout the land of Egypt." 23 And Moses stretched out his rod toward heaven; and [y]the LORD sent thunder and hail, and fire darted to the ground. And the LORD rained hail on the land of Egypt. 24 So there was hail, and fire mingled with the hail, so very heavy that there was none like it in all the land of Egypt since it became a nation. 25 And the [z]hail struck throughout the whole land of Egypt, all that was in the field, both man and beast; and the hail struck every herb of the field and broke every tree of the field. 26 [a]Only in the land of Goshen, where the children of Israel were, there was no hail.

27 And Pharaoh sent and [b]called for Moses and Aaron, and said to them, [c]"I have sinned this time. [d]The LORD is righteous, and my people and I are wicked. 28 [e]Entreat[g] the LORD, that there may be no more [h]mighty thundering and hail, for it is enough. I will let you [f]go, and you shall stay no longer."

29 So Moses said to him, "As soon as I have gone out of the city, I will [i]spread out my hands to the LORD; the thunder will cease, and there will be no more hail, that you may know that the [j]earth is the LORD's. 30 But as for you and your servants, [k]I know that you will not yet fear the LORD God."

■ 9:8 handfuls. This was done before Pharaoh to underscore that the event was supernatural.

■ 9:11 magicians. The defeat of the magicians was clear from the start, when Aaron's staff became serpent swallowed up the magicians' they produced (7:12). They were able to imitate turning water to blood and producing frogs, but they could only add to, and not reverse, these plagues (7:22; 8:7). When they could not imitate the production of lice, they told Pharaoh the plagues were divine judgments, not magic (8:18, 19). Finally, the magicians are struck with boils and retreat in discomfort and disgrace (9:11).

■ 9:14 These plagues (lit. "blows" or "strokes") show the power of God's hand in smiting Egypt (3:20; 7:25; 12:13). The last three plagues fall when the staff of the Lord is stretched out toward heaven, earth, and heaven (9:22; 10:13, 21).

■ 9:15, 16 God's judgments are tempered by mercy. He withholds total destruction so that the Egyptians might know His power and repent (v. 15). Further, God's judgments against Pharaoh will cause God's name to be proclaimed to the nations.

■ 9:20, 21 Some Egyptians learned to fear God's word (10:7).

■ 9:23 thunder. Lit. "voices." This was no earthly hailstorm as the thunderous "voice" of God (signifying His sovereignty over all creation) spoke in judgment (Ps. 29:3–9).

■ 9:23 broke every tree. See Ps. 29:5.

■ 9:27 I have sinned. Pharaoh confesses his guilt for the first time, but the phrase "this time" points to the superficiality of his confession. Though not believing him, Moses nevertheless shows God's power over the earth by stopping the hail.

31 Now the flax and the barley were struck, [j]for the barley was in the head and the flax was in bud, 32 But the wheat and the spelt were not struck, for they are [3]late crops.

33 So Moses went out of the city from Pharaoh and [k]spread out his hands to the LORD; then the thunder and the hail ceased, and the rain was not poured on the earth. 34 And when Pharaoh saw that the rain, the hail, and the thunder had ceased, he sinned yet more; and he hardened his heart, he and his servants. 35 So [l]the heart of Pharaoh was hard; neither would he let the children of Israel go, as the LORD had spoken by Moses.

The Eighth Plague: Locusts

10 Now the LORD said to Moses, "Go in to Pharaoh; [a]for I have hardened his heart and the hearts of his servants, [b]that I may show these signs of Mine before him, 2 and that [c]you may tell in the hearing of your son and your son's son the mighty things I have done in Egypt, and My signs which I have done among them, that you may [d]know that I am the LORD."

3 So Moses and Aaron came in to Pharaoh and said to him, "Thus says the LORD God of the Hebrews: 'How long will you refuse to [e]humble yourself before Me? Let My people go, that they may [f]serve Me. 4 Or else, if you refuse to let My people go, behold, tomorrow I will bring [g]locusts into your territory. 5 And they shall cover the face of the earth, so that no one will be able to see the earth; and [h]they shall eat the residue of what is left, which remains to you from the hail, and they shall eat every tree which grows up for you out of the field. 6 They shall [i]fill your houses, the houses of all your servants, and the houses of all the Egyptians—which neither your fathers nor your fathers' fathers have seen, since the day that they were on the earth to this day.'" And he turned and went out from Pharaoh.

7 Then Pharaoh's [j]servants said to him, "How long shall this man be [k]a snare to us? Let the men go, that they may serve the LORD their God. Do you not yet know that Egypt is destroyed?"

8 So Moses and Aaron were brought again to Pharaoh, and he said to them, "Go, serve the LORD your God. Who are the ones that are going?"

9 And Moses said, "We will go with our young and our old; with our sons and our daughters, with our flocks and our herds we will go, for [l]we must hold a feast to the LORD."

10 Then he said to them, "The LORD had better be with you when I let you and your little ones go! Beware, for evil is ahead of you. 11 Not so! Go now, you who are men, and serve the LORD, for that is what you desired." And they were driven [m]out from Pharaoh's presence.

12 Then the LORD said to Moses, [n]"Stretch out your hand over the land of Egypt for the locusts, that they may come upon the land of Egypt, and [o]eat every herb of the land—all that the hail has left." 13 So Moses stretched out his rod over the land of Egypt, and the LORD brought an east wind on the land all that day and all that night. When it was morning, the east wind brought the locusts. 14 And [p]the locusts went up over all the land of Egypt and rested on all the territory of Egypt. They were very severe; [q]previously there had been no such locusts as they, nor shall there be such after them. 15 For they [r]covered the face of the whole earth, so that the land was darkened; and they [s]ate every herb of the land and all the fruit of the trees which the hail had left. So there remained nothing green on the trees or on the plants of the field throughout all the land of Egypt.

16 Then Pharaoh called [t]for Moses and Aaron in haste, and said, [u]"I have sinned against the LORD your God and against you. 17 Now therefore, please forgive my sin only this once, and [v]entreat[t] the LORD your God, that He may take away from me this death only." 18 So he [w]went out from Pharaoh and entreated the LORD. 19 And the LORD turned a very strong west wind, which took the locusts away and blew them [x]into the Red Sea. There remained not one locust in all the territory of Egypt. 20 But the LORD [y]hardened Pharaoh's heart, and he did not let the children of Israel go.

■ 9:31, 32 in bud . . . late crops. See text note on v. 32. This information seems to set the time in January-February, a time when hailstorms are frequent in Egypt. Flax was in the bud in January, and barley was in the ear at that time; it would have been harvested in February.

■ 10:1 hardened his heart. Pharaoh's will is reversed four times in this one narrative: vv. 8, 10–11, 16–17, 20.

■ 10:2 tell . . . the mighty things. A clear statement of the divine plan involving Pharaoh. The plagues were to teach Israel and to leave an indelible impression on their posterity (Deut. 6:20–25).

■ 10:9 feast. Moses demands that Israel's permission to worship be unqualified and total. See note on 8:25.

■ 10:11 you who are men. Adult males only were necessary at Israel's later festivals (23:17; 34:23). Note the sarcasm of v. 10.

■ 10:12–15 Goshen was presumably exempt.

■ 10:16 in haste. The speed of Pharaoh's action and his confession of sin underscore Egypt's peril. Severe famine threatened ("there remained nothing green," v. 15).

The Ninth Plague: Darkness

21 Then the LORD said to Moses, [z]"Stretch out your hand toward heaven, that there may be darkness over the land of Egypt, [2]darkness which may even be felt." 22 So Moses stretched out his hand toward heaven, and there was [a]thick darkness in all the land of Egypt [b]three days. 23 They did not see one another; nor did anyone rise from his place for three days. [c]But all the children of Israel had light in their dwellings.

24 Then Pharaoh called to Moses and [d]said, "Go, serve the LORD; only let your flocks and your herds be kept back. Let your [e]little ones also go with you."

25 But Moses said, "You must also give [3]us sacrifices and burnt offerings, that we may sacrifice to the LORD our God. 26 Our [f]livestock also shall go with us; not a hoof shall be left behind. For we must take some of them to serve the LORD our God, and even we do not know with what we must serve the LORD until we arrive there."

27 But the LORD [g]hardened Pharaoh's heart, and he would not let them go. 28 Then Pharaoh said to him, [h]"Get away from me! Take heed to yourself and see my face no more! For in the day you see my face you shall die!"

29 So Moses said, "You have spoken well. [i]I will never see your face again."

Death of the Firstborn Announced

11 And the LORD said to Moses, "I will bring one more plague on Pharaoh and on Egypt. [a]Afterward he will let you go from here. [b]When he lets you go, he will surely drive you out of here altogether. 2 Speak now in the hearing of the people, and let every man ask from his neighbor and every woman from her neighbor, [c]articles of silver and articles of gold." 3 [d]And the LORD gave the people favor in the sight of the Egyptians. Moreover the man [e]Moses was very great in the land of Egypt, in the sight of Pharaoh's servants and in the sight of the people.

4 Then Moses said, "Thus says the LORD: [f]'About midnight I will go out into the midst of Egypt; 5 and [g]all the firstborn in the land of Egypt shall die, from the firstborn of Pharaoh who sits on his throne, even to the firstborn of the female servant who is behind the handmill, and all the firstborn of the animals. 6 [h]Then there shall be a great cry throughout all the land of Egypt, [i]such as was not like it before, nor shall be like it again. 7 [j]But against none of the children of Israel [k]shall a dog [l]move its tongue, against man or beast, that you may know that the LORD does make a difference between the Egyptians and Israel.' 8 And [l]all these your servants shall come down to me and bow down to me, saying, 'Get out, and all the people who follow you!' After that I will go out." [m]Then he went out from Pharaoh in great anger.

9 But the LORD said to Moses, [n]"Pharaoh will not heed you, so that [o]My wonders may be multiplied in the land of Egypt." 10 So Moses and Aaron did all these wonders before Pharaoh; [p]and the LORD hardened Pharaoh's heart, and he did not let the children of Israel go out of his land.

The Passover Instituted

12 Now the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron in the land of Egypt, saying, 2 [a]"This month shall be your beginning of months; it shall be the first month of the year to you. 3 Speak to all the congregation of Israel, saying: 'On the [b]tenth of this month every man shall take for himself a lamb, according to the house of his father, a lamb for a household. 4 And if the household is too small for the lamb, let him and his neighbor next to his house take it according to the number of the persons; according to each man's need you shall make your count for the lamb. 5 Your lamb shall be [c]without [1]blemish, a male [2]of the first year. You may take it from the sheep

■ 10:22 thick darkness. This darkness was clearly more than a blinding sandstorm or an eclipse of the sun. It was an unnatural darkness, like that associated with the day of the Lord (Is. 8:22; 58:10; Joel 2:2; Amos 5:20; Zeph. 1:15; cf. Deut. 28:29). The Egyptians typically celebrated the morning light when the sun god Ra was thought to overcome the dreaded serpent of hostile chaos and darkness. This supernatural darkness was further demonstration of the Lord's superiority over the Egyptian pantheon (7:19; 8:3 notes).

■ 11:1 plague. A different Hebrew word for "plague" (cf. 9:14 note) is used to emphasize the climactic act of divine judgment—the death of the firstborn.

■ 11:3 gave . . . favor. All four references to this event (3:21–22; 11:2–3; 12:35–36; Ps. 105:36–38) emphasize that Egypt gave gladly because of the Lord's intervention.

■ 11:5 handmill. The grinding of corn was menial work done by slaves and prisoners of war.

■ 12:2 The first month of the Hebrew year was Abib (March/April). This verse appears to report the institution of this new religious calendar, in commemoration of the Exodus. An autumn calendar is attested at 23:16; 34:22, though these passages may reflect an unofficial agricultural calendar. In the later Babylonian (spring) calendar the month of Abib is called Nisan (Neh. 2:1; Esth. 3:7).

■ 12:5 without blemish. See text note. Like the sacrifices of Israel (e.g., Lev. 1:3), the Passover lamb was to be without flaw. The idea of substitution is evident—the lamb died in place of the firstborn. Jesus, whose death was prefigured by the Passover sacrifice, is called the Lamb of God (John 1:29, 36; 1 Pet. 1:19; Rev. 5:6).

or from the goats. 6 Now you shall keep it until the [d]fourteenth day of the same month. Then the whole assembly of the congregation of Israel shall kill it at twilight. 7 And they shall take some of the blood and put it on the two doorposts and on the lintel of the houses where they eat it. 8 Then they shall eat the flesh on that [e]night; [f]roasted in fire, with [g]unleavened bread and with bitter herbs they shall eat it. 9 [h]Do not eat it raw, nor boiled at all with water, but [h]roasted in fire—its head with its legs and its entrails. 10 [i]You shall let none of it remain until morning, and what remains of it until morning you shall burn with fire. 11 And thus you shall eat it: [j]with a belt on your waist, your sandals on your feet, and your staff in your hand. So you shall eat it in haste. It is the LORD'S Passover.

12 'For I [k]will pass through the land of Egypt on that night, and will strike all the firstborn in the land of Egypt, both man and beast; and [l]against all the gods of Egypt I will execute judgment: [m]I am the LORD. 13 Now the blood shall be a sign for you on the houses where you are. And when I see the blood, I will pass over you; and the plague shall not be on you to destroy you when I strike the land of Egypt.

14 'So this day shall be to you [n]a memorial; and you shall keep it as a [o]feast to the LORD throughout your generations. You shall keep it as a feast [p]by an everlasting ordinance. 15 [q]Seven days you shall eat unleavened bread. On the first day you shall remove leaven from your houses. For whoever eats leavened bread from the first day until the seventh day, [r]that [s]person shall be [t]cut off from Israel. 16 On the first day there shall be [u]a holy convocation, and on the seventh day there shall be a holy convocation for you. No manner of work shall be done on them; but that which everyone must eat—that only may be prepared by you. 17 So you shall observe the Feast of Unleavened Bread, for [v]on this same day I will have brought your [w]armies [x]out of the land of Egypt. Therefore you shall observe this day throughout your generations as an everlasting ordinance. 18 [y]In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month at evening, you shall eat unleavened bread, until the twenty-first day of the month at evening. 19 For [w]seven days no leaven shall be found in your houses, since whoever eats what is leavened, that same person shall be cut off from the congregation of Israel, whether he is a stranger or a native of the land. 20 You shall eat nothing leavened; in all your dwellings you shall eat unleavened bread.' "

21 Then [x]Moses called for all the [y]elders of Israel and said to them, [z]"Pick out and take lambs for yourselves according to your families, and kill the Passover lamb. 22 [a]And you shall take a bunch of hyssop, dip it in the blood that is in the basin, and [b]strike the lintel and the two doorposts with the blood that is in the basin. And none of you shall go out of the door of his house until morning. 23 [c]For the LORD will pass through to strike the Egyptians; and when He sees the [d]blood on the [7]lintel and on the two doorposts, the LORD will pass over the door and [e]not allow [f]the destroyer to come into your houses to strike you. 24 And you shall [g]observe this thing as an ordinance for you and your sons forever. 25 It will come to pass when you come to the land which the LORD will give you, [h]just as He promised, that you shall keep this service. 26 [i]And it

■ 12:6 The slaughter occurred at sunset (Deut. 16:6). The act marked the beginning of the Passover.

■ 12:7 blood. Blood symbolizes the life of a victim (Lev. 17:11).

■ 12:8, 9 The Passover meal was to be eaten as if in haste—the lamb roasted whole and accompanied by unleavened bread. The bitter herbs recalled the bitter suffering of slavery in Egypt (1:14).

■ 12:11 LORD'S Passover. The Hebrew word for "Passover" is of uncertain etymology. The meaning "pass over" is attested here and probably in Is. 31:5. Some suggest a connection with the verb meaning "to limp, hobble," and others propose a derivation from an Accadian word meaning "appease."

The Passover observance is the oldest of the Jewish festivals and was celebrated at twilight on the fourteenth day of the first month (12:6) and for the seven succeeding days (fifteenth through twenty-first). Later participants were garbed for travel to celebrate the exit of Israel from Egypt in haste and anxiety. The practice of ritual questions posed by the children during the Passover celebration is a later development rooted in vv. 26, 27.

Provision was later made for a second or minor Passover one month later for members of the community who missed the initial feast (Num. 9:1–14). The New Testament establishes a direct redemptive connection between the Passover and the death of Jesus, the supreme Passover Lamb, who was sacrificed for us (1 Cor. 5:7).

■ 12:12 firstborn. The firstborn, in whom the hopes of each family were invested, had the right of inheritance. No epidemic or accident could have been so selective.

against all the gods of Egypt . . . judgment. The death of firstborn humans and animals also constituted judgment on the Egyptian pantheon in that many of the sacred animals (which symbolized the gods) were killed. Furthermore, the impotence of Egypt's deities to protect the land's inhabitants was vividly demonstrated to all.

■ 12:15 leaven. Yeast (or leaven) as a product of the previous year's harvest was regarded as a symbol of corruption. No Israelite sacrifice contained leaven.

■ 12:19 cut off from the congregation of Israel. See note on Lev. 7:20. Resident aliens and native-born non-Israelites were expected to observe this law.

■ 12:22 hyssop. Hyssop was a species of marjoram used for purification (Lev. 14:4–6; Num. 19:6,18; Ps. 51:7). The richly textured branches and leaves held enough blood to perform the required act.

■ 12:24 See "The Sacraments" at Matt. 28:19.

■ 12:26 your children say to you. See note on v. 11. In Jewish Passover celebrations today, the youngest child asks the ritual question and the father then recites the story of the Exodus (cf. 13:8).

shall be, when your children say to you, 'What do you mean by this service?' [27] that you shall say, [j]'It is the Passover sacrifice of the LORD, who passed over the houses of the children of Israel in Egypt when He struck the Egyptians and delivered our households.' " So the people [k]bowed their heads and worshiped. [28] Then the children of Israel went away and [l]did so; just as the LORD had commanded Moses and Aaron, so they did.

The Tenth Plague: Death of the Firstborn

[29] [m]And it came to pass at midnight that [n]the LORD struck all the firstborn in the land of Egypt, from the firstborn of Pharaoh who sat on his throne to the firstborn of the captive who was [s]in the dungeon, and all the firstborn of [o]livestock. [30] So Pharaoh rose in the night, he, all his servants, and all the Egyptians; and there was a great cry in Egypt, for there was not a house where there was not one dead.

The Exodus

[31] Then he [p]called for Moses and Aaron by night, and said, "Rise, go out from among my people, [q]both you and the children of Israel. And go, serve the LORD as you have [r]said. [32] [s]Also take your flocks and your herds, as you have said, and be gone; and bless me also."

[33] [t]And the Egyptians [u]urged the people, that they might send them out of the land in haste. For they said, "We shall all be dead." [34] So the people took their dough before it was leavened, having their kneading bowls bound up in their clothes on their shoulders. [35] Now the children of Israel had done according to the word of Moses, and they had asked from the Egyptians [v]articles of silver, articles of gold, and clothing. [36] [w]And the LORD had given the people favor in the sight of the Egyptians, so that they granted them what they requested. Thus [x]they plundered the Egyptians.

[37] Then [y]the children of Israel journeyed from [z]Rameses to Succoth, about [a]six hundred thousand men on foot, besides children. [38] A [b]mixed multitude went up with them also, and flocks and herds—a great deal of [c]livestock. [39] And they baked unleavened cakes of the dough which they had brought out of Egypt; for it was not leavened, because [d]they were driven out of Egypt and could not wait, nor had they prepared provisions for themselves.

[40] Now the [g]sojourn of the children of Israel who lived in [f]Egypt was [e]four hundred and thirty years. [41] And it came to pass at the end of the four hundred and thirty years—on that very same day—it came to pass that [f]all the armies of the LORD went out from the land of Egypt. [42] It is [g]a [z]night of solemn observance to the LORD for bringing them out of the land of Egypt. This is that night of the LORD, a solemn observance for all the children of Israel throughout their generations.

Passover Regulations

[43] And the LORD said to Moses and Aaron, "This is [h]the ordinance of the Passover: No foreigner shall eat it. [44] But every man's servant who is bought for money, when you have [i]circumcised him, then he may eat it. [45] [j]A sojourner and a hired servant shall not eat it. [46] In one house it shall be eaten; you shall not carry any of the flesh outside the house, [k]nor shall you break one of its bones. [47] [l]All the congregation of Israel shall keep it. [48] And [m]when a stranger [3]dwells with you and wants to keep the Passover to the LORD, let all his males be circumcised, and then let him come near and keep it; and he shall be as a native of the land. ■ 12:31 Rise, go out . . . serve. The threefold command underscores Pharaoh's urgency. He admits defeat.

■ 12:32 bless me also. The blessing sought is presumably to countermand the dreadful curse that had gone through the land.

■ 12:36 given . . . favor. These actions confirm the statement in 11:3.

■ 12:37 Rameses to Succoth: See note on 1:11. Succoth cannot be precisely located but must have been in the eastern Delta, possibly at Tell El Maskhutah in the Wadi Tumilat. The coastal routes to Canaan (13:17) were shorter but well-guarded.

six hundred thousand men on foot. Males of military age (v. 41 note; cf. Num. 11:21; 26:51). This number has been thought too large, but four centuries could well produce such numbers (1:7). As is often suggested, the Hebrew word for "thousand" could also be taken as meaning "family" or some subsection of a tribe.

■ 12:38 mixed multitude. Perhaps persecuted minorities or other slaves came with them, as well as other Semites. Egyptians who had intermarried with the Hebrews, and even God-fearing Egyptians, were doubtless also included (cf. 9:19; 12:48; Is. 56:3).

■ 12:40 four hundred and thirty years. See Gen. 15:13; Acts 7:6 note.

■ 12:41 armies. The Hebrew term denotes military organization (v. 37 note).

■ 12:43–49 This added explanation of the Passover regulations, focusing on the restriction of the ceremony to the covenant community, was occasioned by the mention of non-Israelites leaving Egypt with Israel (v. 38). Only circumcised covenant members were eligible to participate.

■ 12:46 In one house. None of the meat was to be taken outside of the house where non-covenant members could have access to it.

bones. No bones of the animals were to be broken, perhaps as a symbol of covenant unity. As with the Passover lamb, and contrary to Roman custom, no bones of Jesus were broken at His crucifixion (John 19:36; cf. 1 Cor. 5:7).

shall eat it. 49 [n]One law shall be for the native-born and for the stranger who dwells among you."
50 Thus all the children of Israel did; as the LORD commanded Moses and Aaron, so they did.
51 [o]And it came to pass, on that very same day, that the LORD brought the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt [p]according to their armies.

The Firstborn Consecrated

13 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 2 [a]"Consecrate[1] to Me all the firstborn, whatever opens the womb among the children of Israel, both of man and beast; it is Mine."

The Feast of Unleavened Bread

3 And Moses said to the people: [b]"Remember this day in which you went out of Egypt, out of the house of [2]bondage; for [c]by strength of hand the LORD brought you out of this place. [d]No leavened bread shall be eaten. 4 [e]On this day you are going out, in the month Abib. 5 And it shall be, when the LORD [f]brings you into the [g]land of the Canaanites and the Hittites and the Amorites and the Hivites and the Jebusites, which He [h]swore to your fathers to give you, a land flowing with milk and honey, [i]that you shall keep this service in this month. 6 [j]Seven days you shall eat unleavened bread, and on the seventh day there shall be a feast to the LORD. 7 Unleavened bread shall be eaten seven days. And [k]no leavened bread shall be seen among you, nor shall leaven be seen among you in all your quarters. 8 And you shall [l]tell your son in that day, saying, 'This is done because of what the LORD did for me when I came up from Egypt.' 9 It shall be as [m]a sign to you on your hand and as a memorial between your eyes, that the LORD's law may be in your mouth; for with a strong hand the LORD has brought you out of Egypt. 10 [n]You shall therefore keep this [3]ordinance in its season from year to year.

The Law of the Firstborn

11 "And it shall be, when the LORD [o]brings you into the land of the [p]Canaanites, as He swore to you and your fathers, and gives it to you, 12 [q]that you shall [4]set apart to the LORD all that open the womb, that is, every firstborn that comes from an animal which you have; the males shall be the LORD's. 13 But [r]every firstborn of a donkey you shall redeem with a lamb; and if you will not redeem it, then you shall break its neck. And all the firstborn of man among your sons [s]you shall redeem. 14 [t]So it shall be, when your son asks you in time to come, saying, 'What is this?' that you shall say to him, [u]'By strength of hand the LORD brought us out of Egypt, out of the house of bondage. 15 And it came to pass, when Pharaoh was stubborn about letting us go, that [v]the LORD killed all the firstborn in the land of Egypt, both the firstborn of man and the firstborn of beast. Therefore I sacrifice to the LORD all males that open the womb, but all the firstborn of my sons I redeem.' 16 It shall be as [w]a sign on your hand and as frontlets between your eyes, for by strength of hand the LORD brought us out of Egypt."

The Wilderness Way

17 Then it came to pass, when Pharaoh had let the people go, that God did not lead them by way of the land of the Philistines, although that was near; for God said, "Lest perhaps the people

■ 13:2 all the firstborn. Firstborn of humans and cattle were sacred to the Lord. Like the firstfruits of the harvest, the firstborn from the womb represented God's claim on all. The principle is enunciated here and the details are given at 13:12–16; 22:29, 30; 34:19, 20. Jesus was so presented as Mary's firstborn (Luke 2:22–23).

■ 13:8 tell your son. See note on 12:26.

■ 13:9 sign . . . memorial. Interpreting this figurative expression literally, Jews later put brief passages of the Law (13:1–10, 11–16; Deut. 6:4–9; 11:13–21) in small boxes and attached them to the left arm and forehead. These are the tephillim, the phylacteries (protections) of later Judaism, to which Jesus referred in criticizing the Pharisees' ostentatious displays of piety (Matt. 23:5).

■ 13:12 set apart. See text note. An animal from the herd or flock could be given to the Lord as a whole burnt offering. The firstborn son was always to be redeemed (v. 13; cf. the pagan use of the firstborn as an offering at 2 Kin. 16:3).

firstborn . . . males. See note on v. 2.

■ 13:13 break its neck. This did not involve the shedding of blood and was not a sacrifice.

■ 13:14 What is this. Like the Passover ritual (12:26, 27; 13:8), the redemption of the firstborn was to remind Israel of her redemption from Egypt.

■ 13:15 The Lord's judgment on the firstborn in Egypt is the explanation for His claim on the firstborn in Israel, a claim made both as Creator and as Judge. Israel was not exempted from the death sentence on the firstborn in Egypt. The firstborn were spared only through the blood of the Passover lamb. Subsequent generations must also be redeemed, either through the life consecration of the Levites, chosen by God in place of the firstborn (Num. 3:11–13), or through the redemption price of five shekels (Num. 3:46–51).

■ 13:17 way of the Philistines. The strongly fortified caravan route that ran parallel to the Mediterranean coast (Introduction: Interpretive Difficulties). The Philistines were not in Palestine in considerable numbers until the twelfth century, but undoubtedly there were coastal pockets of Philistine (Minoan) trading colonies there earlier.

19 And Moses took the [a]bones of [b]Joseph with him, for he had placed the children of Israel under solemn oath, saying, [c]"God will surely [5]visit you, and you shall carry up my bones from here with you."

20 So [d]they took their journey from [e]Succoth and camped in Etham at the edge of the wilderness. 21 And [f]the LORD went before them by day in a pillar of cloud to lead the way, and by night in a pillar of fire to give them light, so as to go by day and night. 22 He did not take away the pillar of cloud by day or the pillar of fire by night from before the people.

The Red Sea Crossing

14 Now the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 2 "Speak to the children of Israel, [a]that they turn and camp before [b]Pi Hahiroth, between [c]Migdol and the sea, opposite Baal Zephon; you shall camp before it by the sea. 3 For Pharaoh will say of the children of Israel, [d]'They are bewil-

■ 13:18 Red Sea. The Hebrew term (yam suf) is used to designate the Gulf of Aqaba (23:31), the Gulf of Suez (10:19; Num. 33:10), as well as the body of water crossed in the Exodus. Scholars suggest that the term may mean "sea of reeds" or "sea of the end." The "Red Sea" of the Exodus was probably one of the Bitter Lakes north of the Gulf of Suez. Perhaps it was the southern extension of the present Lake Menzaleh. Archeological evidence suggests that the Bitter Lakes were at one time joined to the Gulf of Suez, and that shallows existed in them.

in orderly ranks. Israel went out in military formation, disciplined and prepared (12:37 note).

■ 13:19 bones of Joseph. See Gen. 50:25; Josh. 24:32.

■ 13:20 Etham. Israel camped on the edge of the wilderness near what may have been an Egyptian fortress at Etham (since the name seems Egyptian) where they understandably turned back (14:2).

■ 13:21 cloud . . . fire. Customary symbols of the immediate presence of God (3:2 note; 33:9–10; 40:34–38; Num. 9:15–22; 11:25; Ps. 99:7; 105:39). God is not only present; He guides Israel day and night by His presence.

■ 14:2 Pi Hahiroth. By divine command, Israel turned back and camped at Pi Hahiroth, reputedly in the vicinity of Rameses (Qantir). This invited Pharaoh's pursuit (v. 4 note).

Migdol. A general word for "fortification"; its location is presently unknown.

Baal Zephon. This site ("Baal of the North") was reputed to be in the vicinity of Tahpanhes, near Lake Menzaleh, about twenty miles east of Rameses.

dered by the land; the wilderness has closed them in.' [4] Then [e]I will harden Pharaoh's heart, so that he will pursue them; and I [f]will gain honor over Pharaoh and over all his army, [g]that the Egyptians may know that I am the LORD." And they did so.

[5] Now it was told the king of Egypt that the people had fled, and [h]the heart of Pharaoh and his servants was turned against the people; and they said, "Why have we done this, that we have let Israel go from serving us?" [6] So he [i]made ready his chariot and took his people with him. [7] Also, he took [j]six hundred choice chariots, and all the chariots of Egypt with captains over every one of them. [8] And the LORD [l]hardened the heart of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and he pursued the children of Israel; and [k]the children of Israel went out with boldness. [9] So the [l]Egyptians pursued them, all the horses and chariots of Pharaoh, his horsemen and his army, and overtook them camping by the sea beside Pi Hahiroth, before Baal Zephon.

[10] And when Pharaoh drew near, the children of Israel lifted their eyes, and behold, the Egyptians marched after them. So they were very afraid, and the children of Israel [m]cried out to the LORD. [11] [n]Then they said to Moses, "Because there were no graves in Egypt, have you taken us away to die in the wilderness? Why have you so dealt with us, to bring us up out of Egypt? [12] [o]Is this not the word that we told you in Egypt, saying, 'Let us alone that we may serve the Egyptians'? For it would have been better for us to serve the Egyptians than that we should die in the wilderness."

[13] And Moses said to the people, [p]"Do not be afraid. [q]Stand still, and see the [r]salvation[2] of the LORD, which He will accomplish for you today. For the Egyptians whom you see today, you shall [s]see again no more forever. [14] [t]The LORD will fight for you, and you shall [u]hold[3] your peace."

[15] And the LORD said to Moses, "Why do you cry to Me? Tell the children of Israel to go forward. [16] But [v]lift up your rod, and stretch out your hand over the sea and divide it. And the children of Israel shall go on dry ground through the midst of the sea. [17] And I indeed will [w]harden the hearts of the Egyptians, and they shall follow them. So I will [x]gain honor over Pharaoh and over all his army, his chariots, and his horsemen. [18] Then the Egyptians shall know that I am the LORD, when I have gained honor for Myself over Pharaoh, his chariots, and his horsemen."

[19] And the Angel of God, [y]who went before the camp of Israel, moved and went behind them; and the pillar of cloud went from before them and stood behind them. [20] So it came between the camp of the Egyptians and the camp of Israel. Thus it was a cloud and darkness to the one, and it gave light by night to the other, so that the one did not come near the other all that night.

[21] Then Moses stretched out his hand over the sea; and the LORD caused the sea to go back by a strong east wind all that night, and [z]made the sea into dry land, and the waters were [a]divided. [22] So [b]the children of Israel went into the midst of the sea on the dry ground, and the waters were [c]a wall to them on their right hand and on their left. [23] And the Egyptians pursued and went after them into the midst of the sea, all Pharaoh's horses, his chariots, and his horsemen.

[24] Now it came to pass, in the morning [d]watch, that [e]the LORD looked down upon the army of the Egyptians through the pillar of fire and cloud, and He [f]troubled the army of the Egyptians. [25] And He [5]took off their chariot wheels, so that they drove them with difficulty; and the ■ 14:4 Pharaoh's pursuit of his escaping slaves takes place under God's sovereign direction.

■ 14:6 made ready his chariot. Pharaoh was in earnest since his elite chariot force was deployed. The horse and chariot seem to have been introduced into Egypt by the Hyksos (c. 1700 B.C.). The Egyptian chariot carried three men.

■ 14:11 they said to Moses. Israel's rebellious complaints against God's leading are a continuing theme in Exodus (5:21; 15:24; 16:3; 17:2; 32:1).

■ 14:13 Do not be afraid. At the crucial point of Israel's deliverance they must see that their salvation is entirely God's work. His judgments on Egypt, His hardening of Pharaoh's heart, His leading Israel to this hopeless impasse, pinned between Pharaoh's chariots and the sea—all prepare for the climactic display of His saving power. The Lord will fight for them; they need only be still. He will gain the glory (14:18).

■ 14:14 The LORD will fight. This phrase indicates the origin of the theme of the Lord as "divine Warrior," celebrated in ch. 15. War in the ancient world was viewed as a sacred undertaking in which the honor of the deity was at stake. In Israel, God was the "God of the armies of Israel" (1 Sam. 17:45), but also the "Lord of Hosts" (i.e., the Lord of the armies of heaven, the architect of Israel's victories and the inflicter of Israel's defeats). An early account of Israel's conquests under the Lord's leadership was called "the Book of the Wars of the LORD" (Num. 21:14). The theology of Holy War, which arose as a result, finds expression throughout both the Old and New Testament.

■ 14:15 cry. A prayer of Moses is to be understood.

■ 14:16 lift up your rod. The rod of Moses, used in bringing God's judgments on Egypt, will now bring salvation to His people.

■ 14:19 Angel . . . cloud. The Angel of the Lord is identified with God's own presence in the cloud (23:20–22). See note on Gen. 16:7.

■ 14:21 east wind. God sends the wind to accomplish His purpose, but further supernatural power was needed to maintain the water on either side of the escape route, then return it with sufficient force to destroy Pharaoh's army.

■ 14:24 morning watch. The night was divided into three watches of four hours, the last of which (the morning watch) was from 2:00 to 6:00 A.M., often the time for surprise attack (1 Sam. 11:11). The Lord Himself threw the Egyptian army into confusion.

■ 14:25 The LORD fights. Egypt recognized the victory as God's (cf. v. 14).

Egyptians said, "Let us flee from the face of Israel, for the LORD [f]fights for them against the Egyptians."

26 Then the LORD said to Moses, "Stretch out your hand over the sea, that the waters may come back upon the Egyptians, on their chariots, and on their horsemen." 27 And Moses stretched out his hand over the sea; and when the morning appeared, the sea [g]returned to its full depth, while the Egyptians were fleeing into it. So the LORD [h]overthrew[6] the Egyptians in the midst of the sea. 28 Then [i]the waters returned and covered the chariots, the horsemen, and all the army of Pharaoh that came into the sea after them. Not so much as one of them remained. 29 But [j]the children of Israel had walked on dry land in the midst of the sea, and the waters were a wall to them on their right hand and on their left.

30 So the LORD [k]saved[7] Israel that day out of the hand of the Egyptians, and Israel [l]saw the Egyptians dead on the seashore. 31 Thus Israel saw the great [g]work which the LORD had done in Egypt; so the people feared the LORD, and [m]believed the LORD and His servant Moses.

The Song of Moses

15 Then [a]Moses and the children of Israel sang this song to the LORD, and spoke, saying:

"I will [b]sing to the LORD,
For He has triumphed gloriously!
The horse and its rider
He has thrown into the sea!

■ 14:27 The outstretched hand and staff of Moses are the instruments of destruction for the pursuing army, and bring about Israel's deliverance.

■ 14:30 the LORD saved Israel. Verses 30, 31 summarize God's saving deed and its effect on Israel.

■ 14:31 feared . . . believed the LORD and His servant Moses. At this point, Israel is a community that professes faith. Later, in the wilderness, they will apostatize and come under God's wrath (Num. 14; Ps. 95). The church, as a professing community, should avoid this example (Heb. 3; 4).

■ 15:1–21 Moses and Israel sing of deliverance and hope. The poem of vv. 1–18, unique in the Old Testament, is a victory song expressed in the first person singular as a song of Moses. It celebrates the Lord's majestic power in saving Israel at the sea (vv. 1–12) and claims His power in planting Israel in the land (vv. 13–18). The song's many archaic expressions point to its origin in the Mosaic period.

■ 15:1 I will sing. The Lord has shown His glory as He promised, and it is the privilege of His people, led by His servant Moses, to praise the God of their salvation. This Song of Moses becomes Israel's song as well. It is echoed elsewhere in the Old Testament (Ps. 118:14; Is. 12:2), and is sung by the saints in Rev. 15:3.

■ 15:3 The theme of Yahweh as the Divine Warrior is emphasized. See Is. 59:16–18.

■ 15:5 depths. The chaotic waters of the deep, ordered by God at creation (Gen. 1:2), are unleashed by God on the enemy.

■ 15:6 Your right hand. A symbol of power. In Canaanite art the god Baal was sometimes depicted with mace upheld in the right hand. Here, the symbol of divine power was the outstretched hand of Moses holding the rod of the Lord.

■ 15:8 floods stood upright. Through the threatening waters of death God brought His people to Himself. The waters were an instrument of judgment for Egypt, and a means of deliverance for Israel. Paul, with some support from Jewish tradition, understood the Red Sea crossing as Israel's "baptism" (1 Cor. 10:2; cf. 1 Pet. 3:21 note).

■ 15:9 I . . . I . . . I . . . I. The staccato repetition of these first person claims reveals an arrogance that is soon silenced.

I will overtake,
I will [f]divide the spoil;
My desire shall be satisfied on them.
I will draw my sword,
My hand shall destroy them.'
10 You blew with Your wind,
The sea covered them;
They sank like lead in the mighty waters.

11 "Who[u] is like You, O LORD, among the [2]gods?
Who is like You, [v]glorious in holiness,
Fearful in [w]praises, [x]doing wonders?
12 You stretched out Your right hand;
The earth swallowed them.
13 You in Your mercy have [y]led forth
The people whom You have redeemed;
You have guided them in Your strength
To [z]Your holy habitation.

14 "The [a]people will hear and be afraid;
[b]Sorrow[3] will take hold of the inhabitants of Philistia.
15 [c]Then [d]the chiefs of Edom will be dismayed;
[e]The mighty men of Moab,
Trembling will take hold of them;
[f]All the inhabitants of Canaan will [g]melt away.
16 [h]Fear and dread will fall on them;
By the greatness of Your arm
They will be [i]as still as a stone,
Till Your people pass over, O LORD,
Till the people pass over
[j]Whom You have purchased.
17 You will bring them in and [k]plant them
In the [l]mountain of Your inheritance,
In the place, O LORD, which You have made
For Your own dwelling,
The [m]sanctuary, O LORD, which Your hands have established.

18 "The[n] LORD shall reign forever and ever."

19 For the [o]horses of Pharaoh went with his chariots and his horsemen into the sea, and [p]the LORD brought back the waters of the sea upon them. But the children of Israel went on dry land in the midst of the sea.

■ 15:11 Who is like You. The comparison is rhetorical in this threefold presentation of God's nature and power.

■ 15:12 earth swallowed them. An expression for their reception into the underworld, thought to be the abode of the dead (Ps. 63:9; 71:20).

■ 15:13 mercy. This translates the Hebrew word hesed, the precise sense of which is difficult to render in English. Here it refers to God's loyalty and devotion to His people, a loyalty created by the bond of God's covenant with His people. Though we might expect it to be used for the devotion of God's people to Him, its overwhelming use is as a description of God's devotion to His people. Since God reveals Himself in devotion to His own, there is no stronger term to express the free and faithful grace of His love (34:6, "abounding in love"; Ps. 136, "His mercy endures forever"). God's abiding covenant love and mercy find particular illustration in the Book of Hosea (Hos. 2:19).

■ 15:14 be afraid. The extraordinary, divinely induced fear of the inhabitants of Canaan is here depicted (Deut. 2:25 note). The peoples are mentioned in the approximate order they were encountered by Israel during the journey to the Promised Land.

■ 15:17 A brief summary of the aims of the Exodus. The purpose was the settlement of Israel as God's special people in the Promised Land, the sanctuary of God's dwelling.

the mountain of Your inheritance. The point of contact between heaven and earth will be here. Deities in the ancient world were thought to inhabit mountains, and Israel took over this concept poetically. Here the whole of Palestine is viewed as the place of revelation (Deut. 3:25; Ps. 78:54; Is. 11:9).

sanctuary. The land would become such by God's indwelling presence, reminding readers that the goal of the Exodus was the worship of God in the land. Apart from God's gracious presence, there was no point in going to the land (33:15).

■ 15:18 The LORD shall reign. There are at least two other references to God's kingship in the Pentateuch (Num. 23:21; Deut. 33:5). The concept of divine covenant with Israel involved a recognition of God's kingship (1 Sam. 8:6–9).

The Song of Miriam

20 Then Miriam [q]the prophetess, [r]the sister of Aaron, [s]took the timbrel in her hand; and all the women went out after her [t]with timbrels and with dances. 21 And Miriam [u]answered them:

[v]"Sing to the LORD,
For He has triumphed gloriously!
The horse and its rider
He has thrown into the sea!"

Bitter Waters Made Sweet

22 So Moses brought Israel from the Red Sea; then they went out into the Wilderness of [w]Shur. And they went three days in the wilderness and found no [x]water. 23 Now when they came to [y]Marah, they could not drink the waters of Marah, for they were bitter. Therefore the name of it was called [4]Marah. 24 And the people [z]complained against Moses, saying, "What shall we drink?" 25 So he cried out to the LORD, and the LORD showed him a tree. [a]When he cast it into the waters, the waters were made sweet.

There He [b]made a statute and an [5]ordinance for them, and there [c]He tested them, 26 and said, [d]"If you diligently heed the voice of the LORD your God and do what is right in His sight, give ear to His commandments and keep all His statutes, I will put none of the [e]diseases on you which I have brought on the Egyptians. For I am the LORD [f]who heals you."

27 [g]Then they came to Elim, where there were twelve wells of water and seventy palm trees; so they camped there by the waters.

Bread from Heaven

16 And they [a]journeyed from Elim, and all the congregation of the children of Israel came to the Wilderness of Sin, which is between Elim and [b]Sinai, on the fifteenth day of the second month after they departed from the land of Egypt. 2 Then the whole congregation of the children of Israel [c]complained against Moses and Aaron in the wilderness. 3 And the children of Israel said to them, [d]"Oh, that we had died by the hand of the LORD in the land of Egypt, [e]when we sat by the pots of meat and when we ate bread to the full! For you have brought us out into this wilderness to kill this whole assembly with hunger."

4 Then the LORD said to Moses, "Behold, I will rain [f]bread from heaven for you. And the people shall go out and gather [i]a certain quota every day, that I may [g]test them, whether they will [h]walk in My law or not. 5 And it shall be on the sixth day that they shall prepare what they bring in, and [j]it shall be twice as much as they gather daily."

■ 15:22—17:16 As the Lord leads His people into the desert, He tests and delivers them in ways that reveal His purposes. He heals bitter water to show Himself as the Healer (15:22–27), gives manna and quail to show Himself as Provider and the One who establishes rest (Sabbath) for His people (16:1–26), and gives the water of life (17:1–7). Finally, in military victory, it is the Lord Himself who is the ensign of His people (17:15).

■ 15:22 Wilderness of Shur. Israel travels in the Sinai peninsula (about 260 miles long and 150 miles wide). The word "wilderness" refers here to grazing land as opposed to cultivated land. Shur was located northeast of the Sinai Peninsula, between Egypt and Palestine (Gen. 16:7; 20:1; 25:18).

■ 15:23 Marah. The word means "bitterness." The location is suggested to be modern Ain Hawarah, inland and 50 miles south of the northern end of Suez. Apparently Israel went down the west coast of Sinai until they turned east toward Sinai.

■ 15:24 complained. The first instance of Israel's wilderness complaint—behavior that typifies Israel's unbelief in the wilderness. The situation was critical. After nine days the water skins were empty, and death from dehydration was an immediate threat. Further, their hopes were dashed—they had located water, but found it undrinkable (v. 23).

■ 15:25 he cried out. The complaint of the people directed to Moses was really against God. Since Moses led at God's command (17:1), he appealed to the Lord.

showed. God instructs Moses by showing him a tree. The general term for God's law (Hebrew torah) is a form of the verb "showed." God's revelation in this event is a "statute and an ordinance," preparing for the statutes and ordinances to be given at Sinai. God's Word instructs Israel as He leads and proves them (cf. Jesus' use of Deut. 8:3 in Matt. 4:4). The tree is a sign of healing and sweetness (Judg. 9:11; Jer. 8:22; Gen. 2:9; Ezek. 47:7, 8).

■ 15:26 diseases . . . I have brought. See Deut. 28:26, 60–62; 7:15. Diseases mark the effects of divine curse.

I am the LORD who heals you. God has the power (Deut. 32:39) and the mercy to heal (Ps. 103:3). He alone can heal in the peace of His salvation (2 Chr. 16:12; Is. 38:17). To the prayer of anguish (Jer. 17:14), God responds (Jer. 30:17; 33:6). Healing from the damage inflicted by sin and death will come through the Lord's Anointed, by whose wounds we are healed (Is. 53:5; 61:1,2; Matt. 8:17).

■ 15:27 Elim. The site is probably the Wadi Gharandel seven miles south of Ain Hawarah. The Lord, who healed the water of Marah (v. 23), leads His people to a place of rest and refreshment.

■ 16:1–36 Israel arrives in time to observe the Sabbath and a theophany occurs in response to the people's complaints (16:9–13). The chapter draws to a close with a rest on the following Sabbath (16:27–30). Israel's keeping of the Sabbath prior to the revelation at Sinai is highlighted, as is God's continued testing of Israel (v. 4; cf. 15:25; 17:2).

■ 16:1 Wilderness of Sin. Situated in the southwest of Sinai, this is perhaps the modern region Debbet er-Ramleh.

■ 16:4 bread. The people cried for bread and meat (v. 3), and God will give both (v. 8). Manna is called the "angels' food" (Ps. 78:25). In John 6:26–58, Jesus calls Himself the true manna ("bread of life") of which this provision in the desert was a symbol and type.

6 Then Moses and Aaron said to all the children of Israel, [j]"At evening you shall know that the LORD has brought you out of the land of Egypt. 7 And in the morning you shall see [k]the glory of the LORD; for He [l]hears your complaints against the LORD. But [m]what are we, that you complain against us?" 8 Also Moses said, "This shall be seen when the LORD gives you meat to eat in the evening, and in the morning bread to the full; for the LORD hears your complaints which you make against Him. And what are we? Your complaints are not against us but [n]against the

9 Then Moses spoke to Aaron, "Say to all the congregation of the children of Israel, [o]'Come near before the LORD, for He has heard your complaints.' " 10 Now it came to pass, as Aaron spoke to the whole congregation of the children of Israel, that they looked toward the wilderness, and behold, the glory of the LORD [p]appeared in the cloud.

11 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 12[q]"I have heard the complaints of the children of Israel. Speak to them, saying, [r]'At twilight you shall eat meat, and [s]in the morning you shall be filled with bread. And you shall know that I am the LORD your God.' "

13 So it was that [t]quails came up at evening and covered the camp, and in the morning [u]the dew lay all around the camp. 14 And when the layer of dew lifted, there, on the surface of the wilderness, was [v]a small round [w]substance, as fine as frost on the ground. 15 So when the children of Israel saw it, they said to one another, "What is it?" For they did not know what it was.

And Moses said to them, [x]"This is the bread which the LORD has given you to eat. 16 This is the thing which the LORD has commanded: 'Let every man gather it [y]according to each one's need, one [z]omer for each person, according to the number of persons; let every man take for those who are in his tent.' "

17 Then the children of Israel did so and gathered, some more, some less. 18 So when they measured it by omers, [a]he who gathered much had nothing left over, and he who gathered little had no lack. Every man had gathered according to each one's need. 19 And Moses said, "Let no one [b]leave any of it till morning." 20 Notwithstanding they did not [z]heed Moses. But some of them left part of it until morning, and it bred worms and stank. And Moses was angry with them.
21 So they gathered it every morning, every man according to his need. And when the sun became hot, it melted.

22 And so it was, on the sixth day, that they gathered twice as much bread, two omers for each one. And all the rulers of the congregation came and told Moses. 23 Then he said to them, "This is what the LORD has said: 'Tomorrow is [c]a Sabbath rest, a holy Sabbath to the LORD. Bake what you will bake today, and boil what you will boil; and lay up for yourselves all that remains, to be kept until morning.' " 24 So they laid it up till morning, as Moses commanded; and it did not [d]stink, nor were there any worms in it. 25 Then Moses said, "Eat that today, for today is a Sabbath to the LORD; today you will not find it in the field. 26 [e]Six days you shall gather it, but on the seventh day, the Sabbath, there will be none."

27 Now it happened that some of the people went out on the seventh day to gather, but they found none. 28 And the LORD said to Moses, "How long [f]do you refuse to keep My commandments and My laws? 29 See! For the LORD has given you the Sabbath; therefore He gives you on the sixth day bread for two days. Let every man remain in his place; let no man go out of his place on the seventh day." 30 So the people rested on the seventh day.

31 And the house of Israel called its name [3]Manna. And [g]it was like white coriander seed, and the taste of it was like wafers made with honey.

32 Then Moses said, "This is the thing which the LORD has commanded: 'Fill an omer with it, to be kept for your generations, that they may see the bread with which I fed you in the wilderness, when I brought you out of the land of Egypt.' " 33 And Moses said to Aaron, [h]"Take a pot and put an omer of manna in it, and lay it up before the LORD, to be kept for your generations."

■ 16:7 glory. The word normally refers to the manifested presence of God. Here, the Lord's gracious provision of the manna is in view.

■ 16:13 quails. These small migratory game birds of the partridge family come from their winter habitat in Africa in the spring. They sometimes rest on the ground exhausted by flight. On a second occasion they are brought by a strong east wind (Num. 11).

■ 16:14 small round substance. The manna seems to have been similar to a honey-like secretion of insects that infested the tamarisk plants of the area (called "manna" by the Arabs). It solidifies in the cold desert nights, but must be gathered early. If this is the manna, the miracle would be God's control of the amount. The amount gathered is an omer per man, about two quarts, though a related Arabic word means a cupful, and perhaps this is the meaning here.

■ 16:23 holy Sabbath. An elevated term normally reserved for holy festivals. The implication is that the weekly Sabbath was normally kept by Israel before Sinai. The Sabbath ordinance in the Ten Commandments was a codification of Sabbath observance, not its inauguration.

■ 16:31 coriander. This seed is small, globular, grayish, and aromatic, tasting like honey cakes.

■ 16:33 pot. The manna is set aside in what is called "the golden urn" in Heb. 9:4.

34 As the LORD commanded Moses, so Aaron laid it up [i]before the Testimony, to be kept. 35 And the children of Israel [j]ate manna [k]forty years, [l]until they came to an inhabited land; they ate manna until they came to the border of the land of Canaan. 36 Now an omer is one-tenth of an ephah.

Water from the Rock

17 Then [a]all the congregation of the children of Israel set out on their journey from the Wilderness of [b]Sin, according to the commandment of the LORD, and camped in Rephidim; but there was no water for the people to [c]drink. 2 [d]Therefore the people contended with Moses, and said, "Give us water, that we may drink."

So Moses said to them, "Why do you contend with me? Why do you [e]tempt the LORD?"

3 And the people thirsted there for water, and the people [f]complained against Moses, and said, "Why is it you have brought us up out of Egypt, to kill us and our children and our [g]livestock with thirst?"

4 So Moses [h]cried out to the LORD, saying, "What shall I do with this people? They are almost ready to [i]stone[j] me!"

5 And the LORD said to Moses, [j]"Go on before the people, and take with you some of the elders of Israel. Also take in your hand your rod with which [k]you struck the river, and go. 6 [l]Behold, I will stand before you there on the rock in Horeb; and you shall strike the rock, and water will come out of it, that the people may drink."

And Moses did so in the sight of the elders of Israel. 7 So he called the name of the place [m]Massah[2] and [3]Meribah, because of the contention of the children of Israel, and because they [4]tempted the LORD, saying, "Is the LORD among us or not?"

Victory over the Amalekites

8 [n]Now Amalek came and fought with Israel in Rephidim. 9 And Moses said to Joshua, "Choose us some men and go out, fight with Amalek. Tomorrow I will stand on the top of the hill with [o]the rod of God in my hand." 10 So Joshua did as Moses said to him, and fought with Amalek. And Moses, Aaron, and Hur went up to the top of the hill. 11 And so it was, when Moses [p]held up his hand, that Israel prevailed; and when he let down his hand, Amalek prevailed. 12 But Moses' hands became [5]heavy; so they took a stone and put it under him, and he sat on it. And Aaron and Hur supported his hands, one on one side, and the other on the other side; and tempt the LORD. It is not Moses who is being put on trial, but God. Tempting, or testing (v. 7 text note), in this setting takes on a judicial meaning. God is being accused of abandoning Israel to die of thirst in the desert.

■ 16:35 forty years. The manna continued until they came to Canaan (Josh. 5:10–12). When they reached the Transjordanian country they had fields, vineyards, and wells of water (Num. 21:22), but the manna seems to have continued.

■ 17:1 Rephidim. This region, generally identified with the modern Wadi Refayid, about eight miles south of Jebel Musa, was the last stop before Sinai.

■ 17:2 contended. This translates the Hebrew word rib, which appears in the name "Meribah" (v. 7). Rib is often used in legal contexts with the meaning "to bring suit" (e.g., "plead your case," Mic. 6:1). The move to stone Moses (v. 4) is the execution of judicial sentence for treason. The verdict is threatened if Moses does not provide water.

■ 17:5 Go on before the people. The people want a trial. God, the just Judge, will give them one. Moses is to pass on before the people, taking in his hand his rod, and accompanied by elders of Israel. The rod of God is identified by the sentence of judgment meted out on Egypt: "with which you struck the river," turning it to blood (cf. Is. 30:31, 32). The elders are summoned as representative witnesses (cf. v. 6).

■ 17:6 I will stand before you. An astonishing statement. Man stands before God, not God before man (Deut. 19:17; 25:1–3; 17:8–13). In this trial God takes the place of the accused, standing in the dock.

on the rock. God stands on the rock and is identified with it. God is called the "Rock" in the song of Moses (Deut. 32:4, 15, 18, 31) and in the psalms that speak of this event (Ps. 78:35; 95:1).

strike the rock. Moses lifts the rod of judgment and strikes the rock on which God stands and with which He is symbolically identified. God is not guilty, but He bears the judgment. The fearful solemnity of Moses' blow appears when he later strikes the rock in disobedience, thereby dishonoring the holiness of God (Num. 20:9–12). The rock at Massah, struck for God's people, is a type of Christ, the incarnate and blameless Son of God, who endured the punishment for sin (1 Cor. 10:4).

water. The ultimate reference is to the water of life that flows from the throne of God (Zech. 13:1; 14:8; Ezek. 47:1–12). Jesus offers this water where it was symbolically poured out in the temple at the feast (John 7:37), and John notes the water that flowed from His pierced side on the Cross (John 19:34; cf. 7:38).

■ 17:8 Amalek. The Amalekites, a nomadic group based in southern Palestine, were descendants of Esau (Gen. 36:12–16), indicating the origin of the enmity. The Amalekites attacked from the rear (Deut. 25:18). God had provided mannah from heaven and water from the rock; now He provides deliverance from enemies.

■ 17:9 Joshua. Joshua, an Ephraimite previously known as Hoshea ("salvation"), was called Joshua ("Yahweh saves") at Kadesh, possibly as a result of this victory (Num. 13:8, 16).

I will stand . . . with the rod. Joshua will choose men to fight, but they will do so under the uplifted staff, the sign of the Lord's victory.

■ 17:10 Joshua . . . fought. Joshua prevailed in this holy war only when Moses held up to heaven the staff symbolizing the Lord's presence that had brought the plagues on Egypt (4:2; 9:23) and had dried up the sea (14:16).

Hur. Hur, attested in later tradition as the husband of Miriam, Moses' sister, was possibly the grandfather of the famous artisan of the tabernacle, Bezalel (1 Chr. 2:19–20).

his hands were steady until the going down of the sun. 13 So Joshua defeated Amalek and his people with the edge of the sword.

14 Then the LORD said to Moses, [q]"Write this for a memorial in the book and recount it in the hearing of Joshua, that [r]I will utterly blot out the remembrance of Amalek from under heaven." 15 And Moses built an altar and called its name, [6]The-LORD-Is-My-Banner; 16 for he said, "Because [7]the LORD has [s]sworn: the LORD will have war with Amalek from generation to generation."

Jethro's Advice

18 And [a]Jethro, the priest of Midian, Moses' father-in-law, heard of all that [b]God had done for Moses and for Israel His people—that the LORD had brought Israel out of Egypt. 2 Then Jethro, Moses' father-in-law, took [c]Zipporah, Moses' wife, after he had sent her back, 3 with her [d]two sons, of whom the name of one was [1]Gershom (for he said, [e]"I have been a [2]stranger in a foreign land") 4 and the name of the other was [3]Eliezer (for he said, "The God of my father was my [f]help, and delivered me from the sword of Pharaoh"); 5 and Jethro, Moses' father-in-law, came with his sons and his wife to Moses in the wilderness, where he was encamped at [g]the mountain of God. 6 Now he had said to Moses, "I, your father-in-law Jethro, am coming to you with your wife and her two sons with her."

7 So Moses [h]went out to meet his father-in-law, bowed down, and [i]kissed him. And they asked each other about their well-being, and they went into the tent. 8 And Moses told his father-in-law all that the LORD had done to Pharaoh and to the Egyptians for Israel's sake, all the hardship that had come upon them on the way, and how the LORD had [j]delivered them. 9 Then Jethro rejoiced for all the [k]good which the LORD had done for Israel, whom He had delivered out of the hand of the Egyptians. 10 And Jethro said, [l]"Blessed be the LORD, who has delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians and out of the hand of Pharaoh, and who has delivered the people from under the hand of the Egyptians. 11 Now I know that the LORD is [m]greater than all the gods; [n]for in the very thing in which they [4]behaved [o]proudly, He was above them." 12 Then Jethro, Moses' father-in-law, [5]took a burnt [p]offering and other sacrifices to offer to God. And Aaron came with all the elders of Israel [q]to eat bread with Moses' father-in-law before God.

13 And so it was, on the next day, that Moses [r]sat to judge the people; and the people stood before Moses from morning until evening. 14 So when Moses' father-in-law saw all that he did for the people, he said, "What is this thing that you are doing for the people? Why do you alone [6]sit, and all the people stand before you from morning until evening?"

15 And Moses said to his father-in-law, "Because [s]the people come to me to inquire of God.

■ 17:14 Write this. One of the few references to writing in the Old Testament, though it was widespread at the time. It is linked with oral recitation here. The account was perhaps written in the Book of the Wars of the LORD, mentioned in Num. 21:14.

■ 17:15 The-LORD-Is-My-Banner. See text note. The Hebrew word translated "banner" underlies "staff" in v. 9 and is used for the "pole" on which the bronze serpent was later placed (Num. 21:8). Since "banner" suggests cloth to us, this connection is lost. A spear could serve as a standard in battle, with or without bits of cloth tied to it. Later, a staff might have a device on it to mark the rallying point for troops. In the ancient world, these were sometimes images or signs of the gods. Moses' staff is the ensign to which Joshua's army could look and that symbolized God's saving power. Moses declares that God Himself is the Standard, the Ensign of His people.

■ 17:16 the LORD has sworn. The Hebrew is difficult to translate and interpret (cf. text note). The central message is nevertheless clear: God gives Israel the victory, and the continuing warfare between Israel and Amalek is the Lord's. On the historic enmity between Israel and Amalek, see Num. 24:20; Deut. 25:17; 1 Sam. 15:2–33; 27:8, 9; 30:1–20; 2 Sam. 8:11, 12; 1 Chr. 4:42, 43; Esth. 3:1 note.

■ 18:1—24:18 The Lord liberated His people from Egypt to bring them to Himself, to make them His special possession among all peoples. In order to enjoy this blessing, however, they were to obey Him and keep His covenant. The revelation at Sinai manifested the holy character of the covenant God and defined the character and behavior appropriate for God's covenant people.

The Sinai covenant also underscores the special role of the mediator. The Lord declared His intention to descend and speak directly to Moses so the people might hear and trust Moses forever (19:9). However, the face-to-face revelation so terrified the people that they pleaded with Moses to go up to God and receive the commands, then return and report to them (20:18–21). Moses was to represent the people before God (19:8), and represent the Lord to the people (19:7).

Another crucial lesson of the theophany and revelation at Sinai is the importance of separation in preparation for the coming of God. Even Moses objected to the stringent preparations (19:23). The ceremonial law given at Sinai was the Lord's gracious training of the people, a protective measure for a people unaccustomed to the holy presence of God (Gen. 34 note).

■ 18:1–27 Before he narrates the events at Sinai, Moses pauses to report on his visit with Jethro, the priest of Midian and his father-in-law. The focus of Jethro's counsel was Israel's governmental organization.

■ 18:2 sent her back. Moses apparently sent Zipporah and his family back to Jethro some time after the incident of 4:24–26. It may have been after the Exodus from Egypt.

■ 18:11 Now I know. This formula could indicate either the beginning of Jethro's faith (2 Kin. 5:15) or its strengthening (1 Kin. 17:24). In any event, Jethro offered sacrifices and shared the communion meal as a leader, not as a supplicant.

■ 18:12 burnt offering. The whole burnt offering as a dedication sacrifice came first. Fellowship sacrifices, shared by the worshipers, followed. Provisions in Leviticus for sin and guilt offerings would later complete the sacrificial system.

16 When they have [f]a [7]difficulty, they come to me, and I judge between one and another; and I make known the statutes of God and His laws."

17 So Moses' father-in-law said to him, "The thing that you do is not good. 18 Both you and these people who are with you will surely wear yourselves out. For this thing is too much for you; [u]you are not able to perform it by yourself. 19 Listen now to my voice; I will give you [8]counsel, and God will be with you: Stand [v]before God for the people, so that you may [w]bring the difficulties to God. 20 And you shall [x]teach them the statutes and the laws, and show them the way in which they must walk and [y]the work they must do. 21 Moreover you shall select from all the people [z]able men, such as [a]fear God, [b]men of truth, [c]hating covetousness; and place such over them to be rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens. 22 And let them judge the people at all times. [d]Then it will be that every great matter they shall bring to you, but every small matter they themselves shall judge. So it will be easier for you, for [e]they will bear the burden with you. 23 If you do this thing, and God so commands you, then you will be able to endure, and all this people will also go to their [f]place in peace."

24 So Moses heeded the voice of his father-in-law and did all that he had said. 25 And [g]Moses chose able men out of all Israel, and made them heads over the people: rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens. 26 So they judged the people at all times; the [h]hard[9] cases they brought to Moses, but they judged every small case themselves.

27 Then Moses let his father-in-law depart, and [i]he went his way to his own land.

Israel at Mount Sinai

19 In the third month after the children of Israel had gone out of the land of Egypt, on the same day, [a]they came to the Wilderness of Sinai. 2 For they had departed from [b]Rephidim, had come to the Wilderness of Sinai, and camped in the wilderness. So Israel camped there before [c]the mountain.

3 And [d]Moses went up to God, and the LORD [e]called to him from the mountain, saying, "Thus you shall say to the house of Jacob, and tell the children of Israel: 4 [f]'You have seen what I did to the Egyptians, and how [g]I [t]bore you on eagles' wings and brought you to Myself. 5 Now [h]therefore, if you will indeed obey My voice and [i]keep My covenant, then [j]you shall be a special treasure to Me above all people; for all the earth is [k]Mine. 6 And you shall be to Me a [l]kingdom of priests and a [m]holy nation.' These are the words which you shall speak to the children of Israel."

7 So Moses came and called for the [n]elders of the people, and [2]laid before them all these words which the LORD commanded him. 8 Then [o]all the people answered together and said, "All that the LORD has spoken we will do." So Moses brought back the words of the people to the LORD. 9 And the LORD said to Moses, "Behold, I come to you [p]in the thick cloud, [q]that the people may hear when I speak with you, and believe you forever."

So Moses told the words of the people to the LORD.

10 Then the LORD said to Moses, "Go to the people and [r]consecrate them today and tomorrow,

■ 18:16 statutes . . . laws. "Statutes" perhaps suggests standing regulations and "laws" case decisions. They will be codified later.

■ 18:21 select . . . able men. Delegation is often difficult for an able leader. Men were chosen here on moral rather than intellectual grounds to deal with simple matters. Difficult cases, perhaps those without precedent, were brought to Moses. This is how Israel's legal system would later function. No difference is made between the sacred and the secular. The entire law was God's gift, and obedience to it amounted to obedience to God.

■ 19:1 came to . . . Sinai. The desert of Sinai lay in the southeast region of the Sinai peninsula. Mount Sinai is traditionally identified as Jebel Musa, a mountain with a broad plain at its base that seems to fit the biblical evidence (v. 2; cf. Deut. 9:21 note). Israel would remain at Sinai for eleven months (Num. 10:11).

■ 19:3–6 God's words begin (v. 3) and end (v. 6) with an instruction of God to Moses. What lies in between is a summary of God's covenant faithfulness and Israel's covenant responsibilities.

■ 19:4 brought you to Myself. God's deliverance from slavery was not just liberation, but adoption. He brought them out and carried them through the wilderness to bring them to Himself, to make them His (Gen. 17:7 note).

■ 19:5 obey My voice and keep My covenant. Terms summarizing the proper human response to God's gracious covenant (Gen. 17:2 note). The latter phrase (Gen. 17:9, 10; 1 Kin. 11:11; Ps. 78:10; 103:18; 132:12; Ezek. 17:14) always refers to fidelity to a previously revealed covenant. Since 6:4 has referred to the Exodus as the fulfillment of the patriarchal covenant, the revelation at Sinai must also be seen as an extension of the Abrahamic covenant.

special treasure. As the following clause shows, God means that Israel will be His personal treasure within what is more generally owned (1 Chr. 29:3). Israel is separated by God's election from the world that belongs to Him.

■ 19:6 kingdom of priests and a holy nation. Israel is to be a priestly royalty, a holy nation set apart from the world as a priest was set apart in ancient society. The emphasis here falls on Israel's relation to God rather than on any priestly ministry to the nations, yet Israel's relation to the Lord also bears witness to the world. Verses 4–6a reflect the Abrahamic covenant of Gen. 12:1–3. What this passage prescribes for Israel, the new covenant makes a reality for believers (1 Pet. 2:9–10; Rev. 1:6; 5:10; 20:6).

and let them wash their clothes. 11 And let them be ready for the third day. For on the third day the LORD will come down upon Mount Sinai in the sight of all the people. 12 You shall set bounds for the people all around, saying, 'Take heed to yourselves that you do not go up to the mountain or touch its base. [s]Whoever touches the mountain shall surely be put to death. 13 Not a hand shall touch him, but he shall surely be stoned or shot with an arrow; whether man or beast, he shall not live.' When the trumpet sounds long, they shall come near the mountain."

14 So Moses went down from the mountain to the people and sanctified the people, and they washed their clothes. 15 And he said to the people, "Be ready for the third day; [t]do not come near your wives."

16 Then it came to pass on the third day, in the morning, that there were [u]thunderings and lightnings, and a thick cloud on the mountain; and the sound of the trumpet was very loud, so that all the people who were in the camp [v]trembled. 17 And [w]Moses brought the people out of the camp to meet with God, and they stood at the foot of the mountain. 18 Now [x]Mount Sinai was completely in smoke, because the LORD descended upon [y]it in fire. [z]Its smoke ascended like the smoke of a furnace, and [3]the [a]whole mountain quaked greatly. 19 And when the blast of the trumpet sounded long and became louder and louder, [b]Moses spoke, and [c]God answered him by voice. 20 Then the LORD came down upon Mount Sinai, on the top of the mountain. And the LORD called Moses to the top of the mountain, and Moses went up.

21 And the LORD said to Moses, "Go down and warn the people, lest they break through [d]to gaze at the LORD, and many of them perish. 22 Also let the [e]priests who come near the LORD [f]consecrate themselves, lest the LORD [g]break out against them."

23 But Moses said to the LORD, "The people cannot come up to Mount Sinai; for You warned us, saying, [h]'Set bounds around the mountain and consecrate it.' "

24 Then the LORD said to him, "Away! Get down and then come up, you and Aaron with you. But do not let the priests and the people break through to come up to the LORD, lest He break out against them." 25 So Moses went down to the people and spoke to them.

■ 19:16 on the third day, in the morning. God comes as promised on the morning of the third day. No natural explanation of vv. 16–19a (e.g., a volcanic eruption) is sufficient. This was a divine manifestation by storm and fire.

sound of the trumpet was very loud. Later, special occasions of worship were signaled by the blast of the horn (Num. 10:10).

■ 19:24 priests. This may refer to those who discharged the duties of priesthood prior to the establishment of the Levitical priesthood.

■ 20:1–17 The Ten Commandments, or "Ten Words" of the covenant. These are expressions of the eternal law of God that transcend the Old and New Testaments. As God had created order in the heavens and earth with ten words (Gen. 1:3–29), so He creates order in society with ten words. The first four commandments describe how the people are to relate to God, while the remainder describe how God's people are to relate to each other (Deut. 4:13 note). See "The Three Purposes of the Law" at Deut. 13:10.

■ 20:1 See theological note "The Law of God."

God spoke all these words. God spoke only these commandments directly to the people (vv. 18–20 and notes; 19:9; Deut. 4:10–14; 5:22–27; 9:10; Neh. 9:13). What are called "words" here are elsewhere called "commandments" (34:28; Deut. 4:13; 10:4). The Hebrew for "word" (dabar) was the term for stipulations in the political treaties of the time.

The Decalogue (from the Greek term meaning "ten words") itself reflects the ancient treaty framework (Introduction: Date and Occasion). First comes the treaty preamble ("I am the LORD your God," v. 2), then the historical prologue ("who brought you out of the land of Egypt"). The commandments themselves are the treaty stipulations. God is Israel's Suzerain-King, to whom the people owe complete allegiance. The absence of penalties indicates that Decalogue is not a legal code but rather a foundational covenant document. These covenant principles are then applied in the "Covenant Code," a set of laws with penalties attached, which follows (20:22—23:19).

■ 20:2 your God. God's claim comes first. Israel is His by right of creation and redemption. The Lord's covenant commands are given to those whom He has already brought to Himself from enslavement to Egypt (19:4), though not from enslavement to sin (chs. 32—34).

■ 20:3 before Me. Lit. "before My face" or "in My presence." The Lord is a jealous God who already claims Israel as His (v. 5 note).

■ 20:4 carved image. The term means something hewn from wood or stone. The prohibited image may be that of the Lord, since other deities have been excluded by v. 2, though the qualifying words "any likeness of anything" suggest that pagan idols are in view. Israel was to be distinguished from the nations by her imageless worship. Images are forbidden, not because there could be none, since God made mankind in His own image (Gen. 1:26, 27), but because God must reveal Himself, not be subject to human imagination. In His own time, God did provide His own image—Jesus Christ is the true image of the Godhead in bodily form (Col. 1:15; 2:19). See "Syncretism and Idolatry" at Hos. 2:13.

The Law of God

Human beings were not created autonomous (that is, free to be a law to themselves) but theonomous—subject to the law of God. This was not a hardship, because God had created man in such a way that grateful obedience would bring him the highest happiness. Duty and delight would have coincided, as they did in Jesus (John 4:34; cf. Ps. 112:1; 119:14, 16, 47, 48, 97–113, 127, 128, 163–167). The fallen human heart hates God's law, both because it is a law and because it comes from God. Those who know Christ, however, find not only that they love the law and want to keep it, both to please God and out of gratitude for grace (Rom. 7:18–22; 12:1, 2), but also that the Holy Spirit leads them into a degree of obedience that was never theirs before (Rom. 7:6; 8:4–6; Heb. 10:16).

God's moral law is abundantly set forth in Scripture, in the Decalogue (the Ten Commandments), other statutes of Moses, sermons by the prophets, the teaching of Jesus, and the New Testament letters. The law reflects God's holy character and His purposes for created human beings. God commands the behavior that pleases Him and forbids what offends Him. Jesus summarizes the moral law in the two great commandments, to love God and to love your neighbor (Matt. 22:37–40). He says that on these two depend all the Old Testament moral instructions. The moral teaching of Christ and His apostles is the old law deepened and reapplied to new circumstances—life in the kingdom of God, where the Savior reigns, and in the post-Pentecost era of the Spirit, when God's people are called to live sanctified lives in the midst of a hostile world (John 17:6–19).

Biblical law is of various sorts. Moral laws command the personal and community behavior that is always our duty. The political laws of the Old Testament applied principles of the moral law to Israel's national situation when Israel was a theocracy, God's people on earth. The Old Testament laws about ceremonial purity, diet, and sacrifice were temporary enactments for purposes of instruction. They were canceled by the New Testament because their symbolic meaning had been fulfilled (Matt. 15:20; Mark 7:15–19; Acts 10:9–16; Heb. 10:1–14, 13:9, 10).

The mingling of moral, judicial, and ritual law in the Mosaic books carried the message that life under God is to be seen and lived, not compartmentally, but as a many-sided unity, and also that God's authority as legislator gave equal force to the entire code. However, the laws were of different kinds, with different purposes. The political and ceremonial laws were of limited application, while it seems clear both from the immediate context and from the rest of His teaching that Jesus' affirmation of the unchanging universal force of God's law relates to the moral law as such (Matt. 5:17–19; cf. Luke 16:16, 17).

God requires the total obedience of each person to all the implications of His law. As the Westminster Larger Catechism, Q. 99, says, the law binds "the whole man . . . unto obedience forever"; "it is spiritual, and so reacheth the understanding, will, affections, and all other powers of the soul as well as the words, works, and gestures." In other words, desires as well as actions must be right; Jesus condemns the hypocrisy that tries to hide inner corruption with an outward show (Matt. 15:7, 8, 23:25–28). Furthermore, the corollaries of the law are part of its content: "where a duty is commanded, the contrary sin is forbidden; and, where a sin is forbidden, the contrary duty is commanded." □ third and fourth generations. The longest span of generations represented in a given household at any one time. The severity of God's judgment on subsequent generations warns those who love their children's children of the terrible consequences of their sin.

■ 20:6 showing mercy. God's covenant mercy, or lovingkindness (Hebrew hesed) is His devotion to His people (15:13 note).

7 j"You shall not take the name of the LORD your God in vain, for the LORD *k*will not hold him guiltless who takes His name in vain.

8 l"Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy. 9 *m*Six days you shall labor and do all your work, 10 but the *n*seventh day is the Sabbath of the LORD your God. In it you shall do no work: you, nor your son, nor your daughter, nor your male servant, nor your female servant, nor your cattle, *o*nor your stranger who is within your gates. 11 For *p*in six days the LORD made the heavens and the earth, the sea, and all that is in them, and rested the seventh day. Therefore the LORD blessed the Sabbath day and hallowed it.

The People Afraid of God's Presence

18 Now *z*all the people *a*witnessed the thunderings, the lightning flashes, the sound of the trumpet, and the mountain *b*smoking; and when the people saw it, they trembled and stood afar off. 19 Then they said to Moses, c"You speak with us, and we will hear; but *d*let not God speak with us, lest we die."

20 And Moses said to the people, e"Do not fear; *f*for God has come to test you, and *g*that His fear may be before you, so that you may not sin." 21 So the people stood afar off, but Moses drew near *h*the thick darkness where God was.

The Law of the Altar

22 Then the LORD said to Moses, "Thus you shall say to the children of Israel: 'You have seen that I have talked with you *i*from heaven. 23 You shall not make *anything to be j*with Me—gods of silver or gods of gold you shall not make for yourselves. 24 An altar of *k*earth you shall make for Me, and you shall sacrifice on it your burnt offerings and your peace offerings, *l*your sheep and your oxen. 25 *o*Deut. 27:5

■ 20:7 takes His name in vain. God's name was a gift of grace to Israel. Not through an idol, but in the name, Israel had access to God in worship. God's name is therefore to be revered. This command forbids the use of God's name in false worship, for incantations or divination, as well as for attesting falsehood or speaking blasphemy (Deut. 28:58). Jesus taught His disciples to pray that God would hallow His name, and Jesus hallowed the Father's name on the Cross (Matt. 6:9; John 12:27, 28).

■ 20:8 Sabbath. The Hebrew word (shabbat) apparently derives from the verb meaning "to cease"—the Sabbath being the day that regular labor ceased. Exodus cites God's work of creation as the basis for the command (v. 11), while Deuteronomy bases the Sabbath ordinance on the deliverance from Egypt (Deut. 5:12 and note). The Sabbath ordinance is rooted in both the orders of creation and of redemption—it looks backward to God's good creation (Gen. 2:2, 3) and forward to the final redemptive Sabbath rest for God's people (Heb. 4:1–11). Just as circumcision was the sign of the Abrahamic covenant (Gen. 17), so the Sabbath becomes the sign of the Sinai covenant (31:13), reminding God's people of their place within God's purposes for creation and of their salvation from physical bondage in Egypt. Ultimately, the Sabbath points to Christ, our Creator and Redeemer, who brings rest to the people of God (Matt. 11:28; Col. 2:16, 17).

■ 20:10 do no work. The Sabbath is not designed as a burden, but as a blessed release from hard labor (Mark 2:27). The holiness of the day separates it to the Lord so that it is enjoyed by sharing His rest, celebrating His work of creation and redemption (Deut. 5:15).

■ 20:12 your father and your mother. With this fifth commandment, the Decalogue turns to human relations, beginning with the family. Honor toward parents anchors society, and binds children to parents in the community of faith. The promise and implied warning of this commandment are unique in this series. Disrespect for parents was a serious matter, for it also dishonored the Lord.

■ 20:13 murder. The law distinguishes between manslaughter and premeditated murder. The verb here is never applied to Israel at war, and capital punishment was already authorized (Gen. 9:6; cf. Lev. 24:17; Num. 35:30–34). Human life is sacred because man bears God's image (Gen. 9:5, 6 and notes).

■ 20:14 adultery. See "Marriage and Divorce" at Mal. 2:16.

■ 20:16 See "Honest Speech, Oaths, and Vows" at Neh. 5:12.

■ 20:18 they trembled. The awe that recognizes God's power and glory deters sin (v. 20).

■ 20:19 You speak with us. Moses' authority as God's mediator is acknowledged. That God actually did speak distinguishes Him from the false gods who could not (vv. 22, 23).

■ 20:24 burnt offerings . . . peace offerings. See notes on Lev. 1:3–17 and 3:1. Only two types of sacrifices are briefly mentioned here; the list of sacrifices will be expanded in Lev. 1—7.

■ 20:25 tool . . . profaned. The reasons for this prohibition are no longer clear. Some suggest that this provision was designed to prevent the Israelites from using the altars of Canaanite holy places, which typically were constructed of cut stones. The altar of burnt offering for the tabernacle was of wood, covered with bronze, but was hollow and filled with earth or uncut stones (27:8). See note on Deut. 27:5.

The Law Concerning Servants

21 "Now these are the [1]judgments which you shall [a]set before them: 2 [b]If you buy a Hebrew servant, he shall serve six years; and in the seventh he shall go out free and pay nothing. 3 If he comes in by himself, he shall go out by himself; if he comes in married, then his wife shall go out with him. 4 If his master has given him a wife, and she has borne him sons or daughters, the wife and her children shall be her master's, and he shall go out by himself. 5 [c]But if the servant plainly says, 'I love my master, my wife, and my children; I will not go out free,' 6 then his master shall bring him to the [d]judges. He shall also bring him to the door, or to the doorpost, and his master shall pierce his ear with an awl; and he shall serve him forever.

7 "And if a man [e]sells his daughter to be a female slave, she shall not go out as the male slaves do. 8 If she [2]does not please her master, who has betrothed her to himself, then he shall let her be redeemed. He shall have no right to sell her to a foreign people, since he has dealt deceitfully with her. 9 And if he has betrothed her to his son, he shall deal with her according to the custom of daughters. 10 If he takes another wife, he shall not diminish her food, her clothing, [f]and her marriage rights. 11 And if he does not do these three for her, then she shall go out free, without paying money.

The Law Concerning Violence

12 [g]"He who strikes a man so that he dies shall surely be put to death. 13 However, [h]if he did not lie in wait, but God [i]delivered him into his hand, then [j]I will appoint for you a place where he may flee.

14 "But if a man acts with [k]premeditation against his neighbor, to kill him by treachery, [l]you shall take him from My altar, that he may die.

15 "And he who strikes his father or his mother shall surely be put to death.

16 [m]"He who kidnaps a man and [n]sells him, or if he is [o]found in his hand, shall surely be put to death.

17 "And [p]he who curses his father or his mother shall surely be put to death.

18 "If men contend with each other, and one strikes the other with a stone or with his fist, and he does not die but is confined to his bed, 19 if he rises again and walks about outside [q]with his staff, then he who struck him shall be [3]acquitted. He shall only pay for the loss of his time, and shall provide for him to be thoroughly healed.

20 "And if a man beats his male or female servant with a rod, so that he dies under his hand, he shall surely be punished. 21 Notwithstanding, if he remains alive a day or two, he shall not be punished; for he is his [r]property.

22 "If men [4]fight, and hurt a woman with child, so that [5]she gives birth prematurely, yet no

■ 20:26 See note on 28:42.

■ 21:1—23:33 The Lord sets forth the ordinances of His covenant. Civil and penal laws are presented at 21:1—22:15; laws controlling morality at 22:16–27; 23:1–9; laws of worship at 20:22–26; 22:28–30; 23:10–19. Through 22:17 the statutes are in the form of case law ("If . . . then," with appropriate penalties); afterwards laws of the unconditionally imperative type ("you shall not") predominate. The purpose of these social codes was to regulate Israelite life in the Promised Land.

■ 21:1 judgments. The Hebrew word here means "precedents," or guiding principles determined by case decisions. These laws apply the foundational Decalogue (20:1–17) to society.

■ 21:2 buy a Hebrew servant. The case law appropriately commences with laws regulating slavery, for that had been Israel's position in Egypt. A person could sell himself or his wife into slavery because of poverty or debt (2 Kin. 4:1; Neh. 5:1–5; Amos 2:6), and an Israelite could also be sold by his father into slavery (v. 7). Though the Mosaic law allowed the practice of indentured servitude, abuses were carefully limited (Deut. 15:12 note)—such servitude was limited to six years (v. 2) and the rights of slaves were underscored. See note on 1 Pet. 2:18.

■ 21:6 to the judges. The judges probably held court at God's sanctuary. Whether the door or doorpost is at the sanctuary or the home is not specified here, but Deut. 15:17 favors the latter. The piercing of the ear was a public indication of permanent slavery.

■ 21:7–11 The sale of a woman as a slave-wife seems intended, hence the protection.

■ 21:13 not lie in wait. An instance of unintentional manslaughter is in view. See note on Deut. 19:4.

■ 21:15 strikes his father. Such actions transgress the fifth commandment (20:12).

■ 21:16 kidnaps. See note on 24:7.

■ 21:17 curses. A further transgression of the fifth commandment. The Hebrew word for "curses" may denote other forms of overt dishonor to parents in addition to spoken curses.

■ 21:19 walks about outside with his staff. Evidence that he is recovering from his injury.

■ 21:20 servant. That the servant did not die immediately was taken as evidence the master did not intend to kill.

■ 21:21 his property. While indentured slavery was accepted in the Old Testament, the clear implications of the Christian gospel led to its removal (1 Pet. 2:18 note). The laws governing Israel's life should be interpreted in light of their cultural and social setting. They restrained exploitation and oppression in recognition of man's "hardness of heart" (cf. Matt. 19:8).

■ 21:22 she gives birth prematurely. Lit. "her children come out." The usual Hebrew word for "child" is used (as in v. 4 and 1:17, 18). The harm follows, he shall surely be punished accordingly as the woman's husband imposes on him; and he shall [s]pay as the judges determine. 23 But if any harm follows, then you shall give life for life, 24 [t]eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot, 25 burn for burn, wound for wound, stripe for stripe.

26 "If a man strikes the eye of his male or female servant, and destroys it, he shall let him go free for the sake of his eye. 27 And if he knocks out the tooth of his male or female servant, he shall let him go free for the sake of his tooth.

Animal Control Laws

28 "If an ox gores a man or a woman to death, then [u]the ox shall surely be stoned, and its flesh shall not be eaten; but the owner of the ox shall be [6]acquitted. 29 But if the ox [7]tended to thrust with its horn in times past, and it has been made known to his owner, and he has not kept it confined, so that it has killed a man or a woman, the ox shall be stoned and its owner also shall be put to death. 30 If there is imposed on him a sum of money, then he shall pay [v]to redeem his life, whatever is imposed on him. 31 Whether it has gored a son or gored a daughter, according to this judgment it shall be done to him. 32 If the ox gores a male or female servant, he shall give to their master [w]thirty shekels of silver, and the [x]ox shall be stoned.

33 "And if a man opens a pit, or if a man digs a pit and does not cover it, and an ox or a donkey falls in it, 34 the owner of the pit shall make it good; he shall give money to their owner, but the dead animal shall be his.

35 "If one man's ox hurts another's, so that it dies, then they shall sell the live ox and divide the money from it; and the dead ox they shall also divide. 36 Or if it was known that the ox tended to thrust in time past, and its owner has not kept it confined, he shall surely pay ox for ox, and the dead animal shall be his own.

Responsibility for Property

22 "If a man steals an ox or a sheep, and slaughters it or sells it, he shall [a]restore five oxen for an ox and four sheep for a sheep. 2 If the thief is found [b]breaking in, and he is struck so that he dies, there shall be [c]no guilt for his bloodshed. 3 If the sun has risen on him, there shall be guilt for his bloodshed. He should make full restitution; if he has nothing, then he shall be [d]sold[1] for his theft. 4 If the theft is certainly [e]found alive in his hand, whether it is an ox or donkey or sheep, he shall [f]restore double.

5 "If a man causes a field or vineyard to be grazed, and lets loose his animal, and it feeds in another man's field, he shall make restitution from the best of his own field and the best of his own vineyard.

6 "If fire breaks out and catches in thorns, so that stacked grain, standing grain, or the field is consumed, he who kindled the fire shall surely make restitution.

7 "If a man [g]delivers to his neighbor money or articles to keep, and it is stolen out of the man's house, [h]if the thief is found, he shall pay double. 8 If the thief is not found, then the master of the house shall be brought to the [i]judges to see whether he has put his hand into his neighbor's goods.

9 "For any kind of trespass, whether it concerns an ox, a donkey, a sheep, or clothing, or for any kind of lost thing which another claims to be his, the [j]cause of both parties shall come

Hebrew verb describes the emergence of a child in Gen. 25:26; 38:28–30. There is no reason to limit the "harm" spoken of to the mother. If there is no lasting harm either to the mother or the child, compensation for the hurt inflicted is to be paid to the husband, fixed by a third party. Otherwise, the penalty is proportionate to the injury to the mother or child, even to "life for life." Although the harm to the woman or child was not intentional, there was culpable negligence in disregarding the welfare of the pregnant woman.

■ 21:24 eye for eye. The fundamental principle is that punishment should fit the crime (Lev. 24:19, 20; Deut. 19:21). Similar statements are found in the laws of Hammurabi (c. 1750 B.C.). It seems that "eye for eye" was idiomatic for the principle of proportional justice, and that such penalties were not literally imposed (Deut. 19:21 note).

■ 21:28 If an ox gores. Harm done by animals is the responsibility of the careless owner, and appropriate compensation must be paid. Since the ox had been involved in blood guilt, its flesh was not to be eaten.

■ 21:32 thirty shekels of silver. The value of a slave's life was less than that of a freeman and was the betrayal value of Jesus (Matt. 26:15; cf. Zech. 11:12).

■ 22:1 restore. Thieves who compounded their guilt by profiting from and disposing the stolen animals were to restore four or fivefold (cf. v. 4). More compensation was required in the case of oxen, which took longer to raise.

■ 22:3 If the sun has risen. The killing of an unknown nighttime burglar did not incur bloodguilt, since confronting the burglar could endanger the homeowner's life. The daytime thief was readily identifiable and killing was not justified.

■ 22:4 double. See note on v. 1.

■ 22:6 in thorns. Thorns were used as hedges to keep animals out of fields (Mic. 7:4); they were also flammable and used for fuel (Ps. 58:9).

■ 22:8 to the judges. If the thief was not found, the entrustee was brought to the sanctuary (21:6 note), where an oath of innocence was presumably sworn.

before the judges; and whomever the judges condemn shall pay double to his neighbor. [10] If a man delivers to his neighbor a donkey, an ox, a sheep, or any animal to keep, and it dies, is hurt, or driven away, no one seeing it, [11] then an [k]oath of the LORD shall be between them both, that he has not put his hand into his neighbor's goods; and the owner of it shall accept that, and he shall not make it good. [12] But [l]if, in fact, it is stolen from him, he shall make restitution to the owner of it. [13] If it is [m]torn to pieces by a beast, then he shall bring it as evidence, and he shall not make good what was torn.

4 [f][Rom. 12:20]

■ 22:12 is stolen. The entrustee was presumed to have been negligent.

■ 22:14 make it good. In the owner's absence, the onus of proof fell on the borrower.

■ 22:15 came for its hire. The cost of renting the animal was to cover the possibility of loss.

■ 22:16 If a man entices. Laws on premarital intercourse required full responsibility from the male for consequences. The exploited person must be protected. See note on Deut. 22:22–29.

■ 22:18 sorceress. Sorcery, the attempt to determine and influence the future through occult means, was strongly condemned (Deut. 18:9–13; 2 Kin. 21:6; Jer. 27:9–10; Mic. 5:12; Nah. 3:4). The future lay in God's hands alone (Deut. 18:9 note).

■ 22:20 destroyed. Lit. "devoted to sacred use" or "put to the ban" (Deut. 20:17 note). If a sacred use was impossible the item was destroyed, as here. In Israel's holy war—by which God's judgment was executed against the Canaanites—the spoils were under the ban, devoted to God (Num. 21:2, 3; Josh. 7:11).

■ 22:21 stranger. These individuals were temporary dwellers without family support, much as Israel had been in Egypt. Note that the laws in vv. 21–27 are absolutely stated, in contrast to case law (21:1 note).

■ 22:22 You shall not afflict. Widows and orphans, who might lack family defenders, are God's special concern. He will hear their cry and avenge them.

■ 22:25 not charge him interest. See note on Deut. 23:19.

■ 22:26 pledge. See note on Deut. 24:6. A pledge was to be returned before hardship was caused by its absence (Deut. 24:10, 11; Amos 2:8).

■ 22:28 revile God. This text is cited by Paul at Acts 23:5. To question duly appointed authority amounted to questioning God's authority (Rom. 13:1, 2). Neither God nor the ruler whose authority comes from Him were to be reviled.

■ 22:29 You shall not delay. Because the firstfruits were symbolic of God's claim on all, Israelites were not to hold back this offering (13:2 note).

■ 22:31 torn by beasts. Since the blood would not have been properly drained (Lev. 3:17; 7:22–27).

■ 23:4 your enemy's ox. The covenant member is not to take advantage of an enemy's misfortune (perhaps a legal opponent here). See Matt. 5:43–48; Rom. 12:20, 21.

him again. 5 [g]If you see the donkey of one who hates you lying under its burden, and you would refrain from helping it, you shall surely help him with it.

6 [h]"You shall not pervert the judgment of your poor in his dispute. 7 [i]Keep yourself far from a false matter; [j]do not kill the innocent and righteous. For [k]I will not justify the wicked. 8 And [l]you shall take no bribe, for a bribe blinds the discerning and perverts the words of the righteous.

9 "Also [m]you shall not oppress a [1]stranger, for you know the heart of a stranger, because you were strangers in the land of Egypt.

The Law of Sabbaths

10 [n]"Six years you shall sow your land and gather in its produce, 11 but the seventh year you shall let it rest and lie fallow, that the poor of your people may eat; and what they leave, the beasts of the field may eat. In like manner you shall do with your vineyard and your [2]olive grove. 12 [o]Six days you shall do your work, and on the seventh day you shall rest, that your ox and your donkey may rest, and the son of your female servant and the stranger may be refreshed.

13 "And in all that I have said to you, [p]be circumspect and [q]make no mention of the name of other gods, nor let it be heard from your mouth.

Three Annual Feasts

14 [r]"Three times you shall keep a feast to Me in the year: 15 [s]You shall keep the Feast of Unleavened Bread (you shall eat unleavened bread seven days, as I commanded you, at the time appointed in the month of Abib; for in it you came out of Egypt; [t]none shall appear before Me empty); 16 [u]and the Feast of Harvest, the firstfruits of your labors which you have sown in the field; and [v]the Feast of Ingathering at the end of the year, when you have gathered in the fruit of your labors from the field.

17 [w]"Three times in the year all your males shall appear before the Lord [3]GOD.

18 [x]"You shall not offer the blood of My sacrifice with leavened [y]bread; nor shall the fat of My [4]sacrifice remain until morning. 19 [z]The first of the firstfruits of your land you shall bring into the house of the LORD your God. [a]You shall not boil a young goat in its mother's milk.

The Angel and the Promises

20 [b]"Behold, I send an Angel before you to keep you in the way and to bring you into the place which I have prepared. 21 Beware of Him and obey His voice; [c]do not provoke Him, for He will [d]not pardon your transgressions; for [e]My name is in Him. 22 But if you indeed obey His voice and do all that I speak, then [f]I will be an enemy to your enemies and an adversary to your adversaries. 23 [g]For My Angel will go before you and [h]bring you in to the Amorites and the Hittites and the Perizzites and the Canaanites and the Hivites and the Jebusites; and I will [5]cut them

■ 23:9 stranger. The substance of 22:21 is repeated; the legal context here (vv. 6–8) indicates that the stranger was not to be judicially victimized.

■ 23:11 seventh year. Like the weekly Sabbath, on which it was patterned, the sabbatical year was intended for the good of man and of creation (20:8–11 and notes). It reminded Israel that God, the true owner of the land, had entrusted it to them (Lev. 25:2). The land was to lie fallow, and what grew of itself was reserved for the poor, who would not have been able to save sufficient food resources. Leviticus 26:34–35 suggests that the sabbatical year was not always observed, but it is clearly in place at Neh. 10:31.

■ 23:14 Three times . . . in the year. Israel's three religious festivals were connected with the nation's agricultural cycle. The Feast of Unleavened Bread occurred in April or May in celebration of the early barley harvest. Seven weeks later came the Feast of Weeks, celebrating the harvest of other cereal crops such as wheat. Finally, the Feast of Tabernacles celebrated the final harvest and end of the agricultural season in the autumn (September).

■ 23:15 Feast of Unleavened Bread. Passover and the Feast of Unleavened Bread were closely associated—the Feast began the day after Passover. Some have argued that the Feast of Unleavened Bread was simply an agricultural festival, but its commemoration of the Exodus is clear here. See note on Deut. 16:9–12.

■ 23:16 The Feast of Harvest. See v. 14; Deut. 16:9–12 and notes. Also known as the Feast of Weeks or Pentecost, by New Testament times this feast was associated with the giving of the law at Sinai. The new covenant counterpart is the gift of the Spirit at Pentecost (Acts 2:1–39; cf. Rom. 8:23).

Feast of Ingathering. Also called the Feast of Tabernacles. See v. 14; Deut. 16:13–17 and notes.

end of the year. See note on 12:2.

■ 23:18 You shall not offer. Though some argue that the details of this verse applied only to the Passover celebration (cf. 12:10), it is better understood as applying to all offerings. Fat portions kept overnight would not be fresh and were unworthy for offering. Leaven, representing the old harvest, was considered an impurity.

■ 23:19 firstfruits. See notes on 13:2; 1 Cor. 15:20.

You shall not boil. See note on Deut. 14:21.

■ 23:20 an Angel. The Angel of God's presence is mysteriously distinguished from God and yet identified with Him (v. 21; Gen. 16:7 note). The cloud that symbolized God's presence also marked the presence of the Angel (14:19).

■ 23:21 See "'This Is My Name': God's Self-disclosure" at 3:15.

■ 23:22 if you indeed obey. The assurances of this verse resemble the protection clauses in the ancient Near Eastern suzerainty treaties (Introduction: Date and Occasion). See note on 20:1.

off. 24 You shall not [i]bow down to their gods, nor serve them, [j]nor do according to their works; [k]but you shall utterly overthrow them and completely break down their sacred pillars.

25 "So you shall [l]serve the LORD your God, and [m]He will bless your bread and your water. And [n]I will take sickness away from the midst of you. 26 [o]No one shall suffer miscarriage or be barren in your land; I will [p]fulfill the number of your days.

27 "I will send [q]My fear before you, I will [r]cause confusion among all the people to whom you come, and will make all your enemies turn their backs to you. 28 And [s]I will send hornets before you, which shall drive out the Hivite, the Canaanite, and the Hittite from before you. 29 [t]I will not drive them out from before you in one year, lest the land become desolate and the beasts of the field become too numerous for you. 30 Little by little I will drive them out from before you, until you have increased, and you inherit the land. 31 And [u]I will set your [6]bounds from the Red Sea to the sea, Philistia, and from the desert to the [7]River. For I will [v]deliver the inhabitants of the land into your hand, and you shall drive them out before you. 32 [w]You shall make no [8]covenant with them, nor with their gods. 33 They shall not dwell in your land, lest they make you sin against Me. For if you serve their gods, [x]it will surely be a snare to you."

Israel Affirms the Covenant

24 Now He said to Moses, "Come up to the LORD, you and Aaron, [a]Nadab and Abihu, [b]and seventy of the elders of Israel, and worship from afar. 2 And Moses alone shall come near the LORD, but they shall not come near; nor shall the people go up with him."

3 So Moses came and told the people all the words of the LORD and all the [1]judgments. And all the people answered with one voice and said, [c]"All the words which the LORD has said we will do." 4 And Moses [d]wrote all the words of the LORD. And he rose early in the morning, and built an altar at the foot of the mountain, and twelve [e]pillars according to the twelve tribes of Israel. 5 Then he sent young men of the children of Israel, who offered [f]burnt offerings and sacrificed peace offerings of oxen to the LORD. 6 And Moses [g]took half the blood and put it in basins, and half the blood he sprinkled on the altar. 7 Then he [h]took the Book of the Covenant and read in the hearing of the people. And they said, "All that the LORD has said we will do, and be obedient." 8 And Moses took the blood, sprinkled it on the people, and said, "This is [i]the blood of the covenant which the LORD has made with you according to all these words."

On the Mountain with God

9 Then Moses went up, also Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel, 10 and they [j]saw the God of Israel. And there was under His feet as it were a paved work of [k]sap-

■ 23:24 sacred pillars. These were stone pillars connected with Canaanite shrines. Though such monuments were earlier used in the worship of the Lord (Gen. 28:18), they were now forbidden.

■ 23:25 He will bless. For a longer list of blessings, see Deut. 28:1–14.

■ 23:27 My fear. See note on 15:14.

■ 23:28 hornets. See note on Deut. 7:20.

■ 23:29 I will not drive them out. The coming conquest would be gradual. The Israelites would not assume responsibility for the whole land until they were able to defend and care for it.

■ 23:31 bounds. See note on Gen. 13:15.

Red Sea. Apparently a reference to the gulf of Aqaba on the southeast (13:18 note).

■ 23:32 make no covenant. Israel was quick to disobey this command (Josh. 9). The collection of covenant laws ends as it had begun—with an emphasis upon the keeping of the first two commandments (20:1–4, 22).

■ 24:1–18 The terms of the covenant having been stipulated, the people ratified the covenant by agreeing to abide by its conditions (v. 3, 7; cf. 19:8).

■ 24:1 Now He said to Moses. The Sinai narrative, which left off at 20:21, is resumed here. The mention of Aaron and his two sons speaks for the authenticity of the narrative, for the sons were later killed for an offence against God (Lev. 10:1–2).

■ 24:3 the words. The Ten Commandments (20:1 note).

judgments. Presumably the Covenant Code (20:22—23:19). This may mark Moses' delivery of the Covenant Code, since all Israel had heard the Decalogue (20:1 note).

■ 24:4 Moses wrote. See note on Deut. 31:9.

■ 24:5 young men. There was no appointed priesthood as yet. The offerings sealed the covenant, indicating that God's acceptance of Israel was on the basis of blood atonement for sin.

■ 24:7 Book of the Covenant. Usually this phrase is applied to the Covenant Code of 20:22—23:19 (20:1 note). Here it must also include the Ten Commandments (20:2–17) and perhaps other passages such as 19:5, 6.

■ 24:8 sprinkled it on the people. The people are sprinkled with "the blood of the covenant," the blood that puts the covenant into effect (Heb. 9:16–22 and notes). The blood signified cleansing from sin so that the people might enter the covenant relation, and it underscored that the ultimate penalty for breaking the covenant was death. Jesus proclaimed the fulfillment of the symbolism at the Last Supper when He offered the cup: "This is My blood of the new covenant, which is shed for many for the remission of sins" (Matt. 26:28).

■ 24:10 they saw the God of Israel. They saw a visible manifestation of the Lord, but not the fullness of His glory and power. Moses was later privileged to view the "goodness" and the "back" of God (33:19–23 and notes), though the limited character of the manifestation is emphasized.

feet. The description concentrates only on God's feet, an indication of the partial character of the divine manifestation.

paved work. Perhaps the vault of the sky under the throne (cf. Ezek. 1:26).

sapphire. The area beneath God's feet is compared to a pavement of blue lapis lazuli. This semiprecious stone was available in a natural form from Cyprus and Scythia, and in artificial form from Egypt.

phire stone, and it was like the [1]very[2] heavens in its clarity. [11] But on the nobles of the children of Israel He [m]did not [3]lay His hand. So [n]they saw God, and they [o]ate and drank.

[12] Then the LORD said to Moses, [p]"Come up to Me on the mountain and be there; and I will give you [q]tablets of stone, and the law and commandments which I have written, that you may teach them."

[13] So Moses arose with [r]his assistant Joshua, and Moses went up to the mountain of God. [14] And he said to the elders, "Wait here for us until we come back to you. Indeed, Aaron and [s]Hur are with you. If any man has a difficulty, let him go to them." [15] Then Moses went up into the mountain, and [t]a cloud covered the mountain.

[16] Now [u]the glory of the LORD rested on Mount Sinai, and the cloud covered it six days. And on the seventh day He called to Moses out of the midst of the cloud. [17] The sight of the glory of the LORD was like [v]a consuming fire on the top of the mountain in the eyes of the children of Israel. [18] So Moses went into the midst of the cloud and went up into the mountain. And [w]Moses was on the mountain forty days and forty nights.

Offerings for the Sanctuary

25 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: [2] "Speak to the children of Israel, that they bring Me an [1]offering. [a]From everyone who gives it willingly with his heart you shall take My offering. [3] And this is the offering which you shall take from them: gold, silver, and bronze; [4] blue, purple, and scarlet thread, fine linen, and goats' hair; [5] ram skins dyed red, [2]badger skins, and acacia wood; [6] [b]oil for the light, and [c]spices for the anointing oil and for the sweet incense; [7] onyx stones, and stones to be set in the [d]ephod and in the breastplate. [8] And let them make Me a [e]sanctuary,[3] that [f]I may dwell among them. [9] According to all that I show you, that is, the pattern of the tabernacle and the pattern of all its furnishings, just so you shall make it.

The Ark of the Testimony

[10] [g]"And they shall make an ark of acacia wood; two and a half cubits shall be its length, a cubit and a half its width, and a cubit and a half its height. [11] And you shall overlay it with pure gold, inside and out you shall overlay it, and shall make on it a molding of [h]gold all around. ■ 24:11 His hand. His power (4:2 note). Not only did they see God, they ate and drank before Him. Similar meals in celebration of the conclusion of a covenant are recorded at Gen. 31:46; Ex. 18:12; Matt. 26:28.

■ 24:12–18 Moses ascends Mount Sinai to receive the covenant tablets and further instructions regarding Israel's worship and the tabernacle.

■ 24:14 Wait here for us. This sets the scene for the golden calf incident in ch. 32.

■ 24:16 glory. The term is used for a manifestation of the divine presence. The remainder of Exodus deals with the terms and conditions of God's dwelling with His people.

■ 25:1—31:8 This section goes into great detail regarding the divine pattern for the place where the Lord Himself would dwell among His people. The tabernacle and its ministry are the two central features—details of the tabernacle construction, and the precise elements, manner, and persons to be employed in God's service are carefully specified. The inauguration of the covenant had established God's kingship over Israel. That kingship was now to be appropriately recognized by the building of a residence for God as a symbol of His royal authority over Israel.

■ 25:1 The materials were to be gathered as freewill offerings from the treasures of the people (12:35; 36). Ironically, while these instructions were being given, the people were contributing gold for an idol at the foot of the mountain (32:1–4).

■ 25:3 gold, silver, and bronze. The nearer the divine presence, the finer the material required. Metals and colored yarns are listed in descending order of value.

■ 25:4 blue. Or, violet. Violet and purple dyes were obtained from shellfish; scarlet from an insect of the cochineal type. These colors were precious because of the cost of the dye. The blue of the tabernacle came to be particularly associated with the Lord (Num. 15:38).

fine linen. The fine linen was probably Egyptian.

goats' hair. The goat hair was undyed. It was to be used as a first covering for the tabernacle, and over it other skins would be placed (26:14).

■ 25:5 ram skins. The ram skin leather was tanned or dyed, perhaps both.

badger. The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain. Dolphin (text note) and sea cow skin are also possible. Such leather may have been cured only, in which case there may be a descending order of value in the skins selected.

acacia wood. A hard, long-lasting wood suitable for carving and overlay.

■ 25:6 spices. See 30:23–25, 34–38.

■ 25:7 onyx stones. The stones set in the two shoulder pieces of the ephod were of an engravable substance such as carnelian, onyx, or lapis lazuli (24:10 note; 28:9–12; 39:6–7).

■ 25:8 sanctuary. See text note. This is a broader term than "tabernacle" and refers to any place of God's visible self-revelation, or theophany (15:17; Josh. 24:26; Ezek. 11:16).

■ 25:9 tabernacle. The term means "dwelling place," designating a divine palace or temple. This tabernacle foreshadowed the dwelling of God with man in the Person of Jesus Christ (John 1:14 note).

pattern. The pattern shown to Moses was a model or plan of the tabernacle to be built (cf. the plan of the temple revealed to David in 1 Chr. 28:19). At the same time, it reflected the heavenly reality (Heb. 9:24). See Ezek. 43:10, 11.

■ 25:10 ark. The revelation of the pattern for the earthly sanctuary begins with the plans for the ark of the covenant, the most holy object in the tabernacle. This ornate chest contained the Ten Commandments, the pot of manna, and Aaron's rod (16:33; 25:16; Num. 17:10; Deut. 10:1–5; Heb. 9:4). The cover of the ark was perhaps viewed as a footstool or throne for the Lord (vv. 18, 22 and notes).

cubit. A cubit was roughly the distance from the tip of the middle finger to the elbow—about eighteen inches.

one side, and two rings on the other side. 13 And you shall make poles of acacia wood, and overlay them with gold. 14 You shall put the poles into the rings on the sides of the ark, that the ark may be carried by them. 15 [i]The poles shall be in the rings of the ark; they shall not be taken from it. 16 And you shall put into the ark [j]the Testimony which I will give you.

17 [k]"You shall make a mercy seat of pure gold; two and a half cubits shall be its length and a cubit and a half its width. 18 And you shall make two cherubim of gold; of hammered work you shall make them at the two ends of the mercy seat. 19 Make one cherub at one end, and the other cherub at the other end; you shall make the cherubim at the two ends of it of one piece with the mercy seat. 20 And [l]the cherubim shall stretch out their wings above, covering the mercy seat with their wings, and they shall face one another; the faces of the cherubim shall be toward the mercy seat. 21 [m]You shall put the mercy seat on top of the ark, and [n]in the ark you shall put the Testimony that I will give you. 22 And [o]there I will meet with you, and I will speak with you from above the mercy seat, from [p]between the two cherubim which are on the ark of the Testimony, about everything which I will give you in commandment to the children of Israel.

The Table for the Showbread

23 [q]"You shall also make a table of acacia wood; two cubits shall be its length, a cubit its width, and a cubit and a half its height. 24 And you shall overlay it with pure gold, and make a molding of gold all around. 25 You shall make for it a frame of a handbreadth all around, and you shall make a gold molding for the frame all around. 26 And you shall make for it four rings of gold, and put the rings on the four corners that are at its four legs. 27 The rings shall be close to the frame, as holders for the poles to bear the table. 28 And you shall make the poles of acacia wood, and overlay them with gold, that the table may be carried with them. 29 You shall make [r]its dishes, its pans, its pitchers, and its bowls for pouring. You shall make them of pure gold. 30 And you shall set the [s]showbread on the table before Me always.

The Gold Lampstand

31 [t]"You shall also make a lampstand of pure gold; the lampstand shall be of hammered work. Its shaft, its branches, its bowls, its ornamental knobs, and flowers shall be of one piece. 32 And six branches shall come out of its sides: three branches of the lampstand out of one side, and three branches of the lampstand out of the other side. 33 [u]Three bowls shall be made like almond blossoms on one branch, with an ornamental knob and a flower, and three bowls made like almond blossoms on the other branch, with an ornamental knob and a flower—and so for the six

■ 25:13 make poles. So that the ark could be moved without being touched (cf. 2 Sam. 6:6, 7). Its holiness and portability are stressed.

■ 25:16 Testimony. The stone tablets of the Sinai covenant. God's written word is His witness to the terms of His covenant. Scripture is not a fallible human witness to God, but God's infallible witness to man.

■ 25:17 mercy seat. Lit. the "atonement covering," a place at which estranged parties were reconciled. "Atonement" is the normal English translation for the Hebrew root that means "to wipe away" or perhaps "to cover" the guilt of sin from God's eyes so that believers may be reconciled with God. Propitiation (i.e., turning away divine wrath and satisfying the claims of divine justice) is effected by blood sacrifice in the Old Testament (Lev. 17:11). This shedding of blood dramatizes the cost of forgiveness, and points forward to the sacrificial death of Christ on the Cross, where the symbolism of the Day of Atonement was fulfilled. Paul declares that Jesus has been made the propitiation for our sins (Rom. 3:25; cf. 1 John 2:2).

The "mercy seat" was the ark cover, which is sometimes mentioned in distinction from the ark as the place where God was propitiated. In the Septuagint (the Greek Old Testament), the Greek term for "mercy seat" (hilasterion) lit. means "place of propitiation" (also in Heb. 9:5).

■ 25:18 cherubim. The cherubs were usually associated with the throne of the Lord as guardians or bearers of the throne (1 Sam. 4:4; Is. 37:16). In the pagan world cherubs were minor deities protective of palaces and temples; here they symbolize angelic guardians (Gen. 3:24). They were perhaps depicted as winged sphinxes (winged lions with human heads).

■ 25:22 I will meet. The Lord is "the One who dwells between the cherubim" (1 Sam. 4:4; 2 Sam. 6:2; 2 Kin. 19:15; Ps. 80:1; 99:1; Is. 37:16). The mercy seat becomes the focal point for God's meeting with His people. The purpose of the Exodus was this meeting of God with man (29:45, 46).

■ 25:23–40 The revelation of the earthly sanctuary pattern continues with the plans for objects to be housed in the holy place—the table of showbread, its dishes, and the golden lampstand. Instructions for the altar of incense, also housed in the holy place, are given in 30:1–10.

■ 25:23 make a table. Called "table of showbread" (Num. 4:7) and the "pure gold table" (Lev. 24:6, 2 Chr. 13:11), on which the showbread was arranged (1 Kin. 7:48). It stood on the north side of the holy place (40:22).

■ 25:29 make its dishes. These dishes, all of pure gold, included a plate on which the showbread was placed, a small pan for the frankincense, a pitcher for the wine libation or drink offering, and a bowl into which this was poured (37:16; Lev. 24:7; Num. 4:7).

■ 25:30 showbread. Lit. "bread of the presence," this bread could only be eaten by the priests (Lev. 24:8, 9). The careful placement of the twelve loaves (probably symbolizing the twelve tribes of Israel) before the Lord, and the eating of the loaves by the people's religious representatives (the priests) reminded Israel of its constant dependence on God's life-giving presence.

■ 25:31 lampstand. The lampstand, which stood opposite the table in the holy place, was constructed of a talent (about seventy-five pounds) of hammered gold and patterned to suggest a growing almond tree. Perhaps symbolic of new life, the almond tree blossomed in late January, before other trees.

■ 25:32 six branches. The pedestal and main upright represented the trunk of the tree, out of which grew three branches on either side. The six branches probably rose to the height of the central shaft, with seven lamps (the number signifying completeness) resting on the topmost ornaments of the shaft and branches (v. 37).

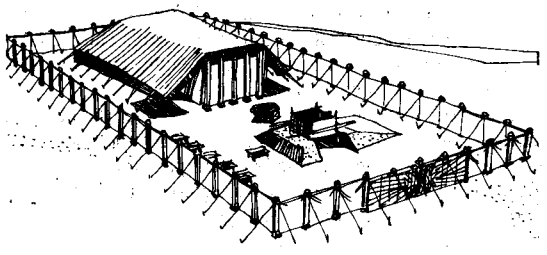
1 [a]Ex. 36:8–19

■ 26:1–37 God reveals the pattern for the tabernacle proper. The tabernacle, God's holy dwelling in the midst of His sinful people, served a double function. On the one hand, it protected the people from the dangers of unauthorized intrusion—the curtains of the Most Holy Place, of the holy place, and even of the courtyard stood between the people and the threat of God's consuming holy presence. On the other hand, the tabernacle provided a way of approach to the Lord. Worshipers entered the outer court to pray and offer sacrifices; the priests carried the people's petitions into the holy place; and once a year on the Day of Atonement the high priest entered the Most Holy Place, the very throne-room of the Almighty, with a blood atonement to meet the Lord at the mercy seat.

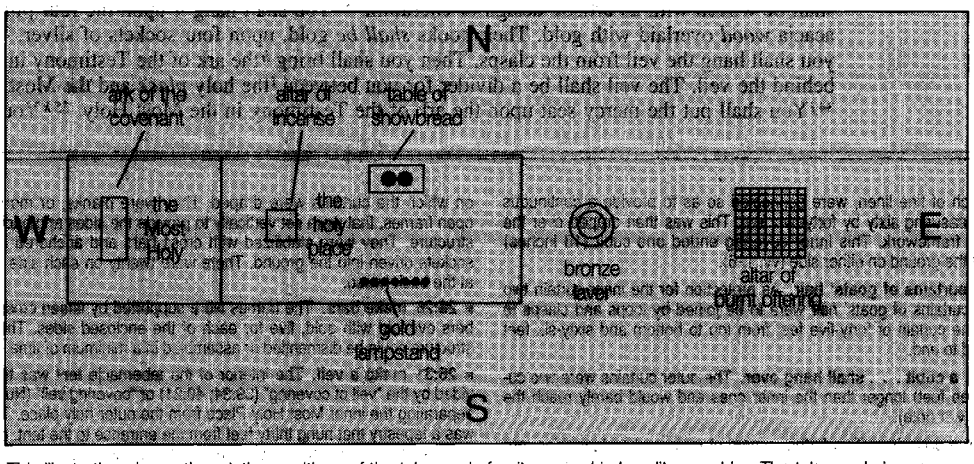
Nevertheless, the tabernacle was a provisional symbol, rather than the full reality, of God's dwelling with man. It symbolized the heavenly temple of God (Heb. 8:1–6; 9:1–15), and pointed forward to the dwelling of God with man in Jesus Christ, God incarnate in human flesh (John 1:14 note). As the author of Hebrews makes clear, the tabernacle and its ministry were insufficient in themselves (Heb. 10:1–4). Rather, they foreshadowed the final and completely sufficient priestly work of Christ (Heb. 10:11–18).

■ 26:1 tabernacle. The tabernacle itself, which housed the holy and Most Holy places, was forty-five feet long, fifteen feet wide, and fifteen feet high. It was covered with ten curtains woven of expensive fabrics adorned with cherubim. Two sets of five curtains, forty-two feet by six

The Plan of the Tabernacle (26:1)



The tabernacle was to provide a place where God might dwell among His people. The term tabernacle sometimes refers to the tent, including the holy place and the Most Holy, which was covered with embroidered curtains. But in other places it refers to the entire complex, including the curtained court in which the tent stood.



This illustration shows the relative positions of the tabernacle furniture used in Israelite worship. The tabernacle is enlarged for clarity.

length of each curtain shall be twenty-eight cubits, and the width of each curtain four cubits. And every one of the curtains shall have [1]the same measurements. 3 Five curtains shall be coupled to one another, and the other five curtains shall be coupled to one another. 4 And you shall make loops of blue yarn on the edge of the curtain on the selvedge of one set, and likewise you shall do on the outer edge of the other curtain of the second set. 5 Fifty loops you shall make in the one curtain, and fifty loops you shall make on the edge of the curtain that is on the end of the second set, that the loops may be clasped to one another. 6 And you shall make fifty clasps of gold, and couple the curtains together with the clasps, so that it may be one tabernacle.

7 [b]"You shall also make curtains of goats' hair, to be a tent over the tabernacle. You shall make eleven curtains. 8 The length of each curtain shall be thirty cubits, and the width of each curtain four cubits; and the eleven curtains shall all have the same measurements. 9 And you shall couple five curtains by themselves and six curtains by themselves, and you shall double over the sixth curtain at the forefront of the tent. 10 You shall make fifty loops on the edge of the curtain that is outermost in one set, and fifty loops on the edge of the curtain of the second set. 11 And you shall make fifty bronze clasps, put the clasps into the loops, and couple the tent together, that it may be one. 12 The remnant that remains of the curtains of the tent, the half curtain that remains, shall hang over the back of the tabernacle. 13 And a cubit on one side and a cubit on the other side, of what remains of the length of the curtains of the tent, shall hang over the sides of the tabernacle, on this side and on that side, to cover it.

14 [c]"You shall also make a covering of ram skins dyed red for the tent, and a covering of badger skins above that.

15 "And for the tabernacle you shall [d]make the boards of acacia wood, standing upright. 16 Ten cubits shall be the length of a board, and a cubit and a half shall be the width of each board. 17 Two [2]tenons shall be in each board for binding one to another. Thus you shall make for all the boards of the tabernacle. 18 And you shall make the boards for the tabernacle, twenty boards for the south side. 19 You shall make forty sockets of silver under the twenty boards: two sockets under each of the boards for its two tenons. 20 And for the second side of the tabernacle, the north side, there shall be twenty boards 21 and their forty sockets of silver: two sockets under each of the boards. 22 For the far side of the tabernacle, westward, you shall make six boards. 23 And you shall also make two boards for the two back corners of the tabernacle. 24 They shall be [3]coupled together at the bottom and they shall be coupled together at the top by one ring. Thus it shall be for both of them. They shall be for the two corners. 25 So there shall be eight boards with their sockets of silver—sixteen sockets—two sockets under each of the boards.

26 "And you shall make bars of acacia wood: five for the boards on one side of the tabernacle, 27 five bars for the boards on the other side of the tabernacle, and five bars for the boards of the side of the tabernacle, for the far side westward. 28 The [e]middle bar shall pass through the midst of the boards from end to end. 29 You shall overlay the boards with gold, make their rings of gold as holders for the bars, and overlay the bars with gold. 30 And you shall raise up the tabernacle [f]according to its pattern which you were shown on the mountain.

31 [g]"You shall make a veil woven of blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine woven linen. It shall be woven with an artistic design of cherubim. 32 You shall hang it upon the four pillars of acacia wood overlaid with gold. Their hooks shall be gold, upon four sockets of silver. 33 And you shall hang the veil from the clasps. Then you shall bring [h]the ark of the Testimony in there, behind the veil. The veil shall be a divider for you between [i]the holy place and the Most Holy. 34 [j]You shall put the mercy seat upon the ark of the Testimony in the Most Holy. 35 [k]You shall feet, each of fine linen, were connected so as to provide a continuous piece measuring sixty by forty-two feet. This was then draped over the wooden framework. This inner covering ended one cubit (18 inches) short of the ground on either side (vv. 1–6).

■ 26:7 curtains of goats' hair. As protection for the inner curtain two sets of curtains of goats' hair were to be joined by loops and clasps to make one curtain of forty-five feet from top to bottom and sixty-six feet from end to end.

■ 26:13 a cubit . . . shall hang over. The outer curtains were two cubits (three feet) longer than the inner ones and would barely reach the ground (v. 1 note).

■ 26:14 a covering. Two further covers of rams and badger skins, apparently arranged in that sequence, were made to protect the two inner sets.

■ 26:15 boards . . . standing upright. These provided the framework on which the curtains were draped. They were planks, or more likely open frames, that were set vertically to provide the sides and back of the structure. They were stabilized with cross bars and anchored in silver sockets driven into the ground. There were twenty on each side and six at the back (west).

■ 26:26 make bars. The frames were supported by fifteen cross members overlaid with gold, five for each of the enclosed sides. The entire structure could be dismantled or assembled in a minimum of time.

■ 26:31 make a veil. The interior of the tabernacle tent was to be divided by the "veil of covering" (39:34; 40:21) or "covering veil" (Num. 4:5), separating the inner Most Holy Place from the outer holy place. This veil was a tapestry that hung thirty feet from the entrance to the tent, creating an inner cube fifteen feet square where the ark was kept. This was the Most Holy Place, the throne room where the Lord would meet with Israel's high priest on the Day of Atonement. The holy place, a royal antechamber, extended thirty feet from the veil to the tent entrance.

set the table outside the veil, and [l]the lampstand across from the table on the side of the tabernacle toward the south; and you shall put the table on the north side.

36 [m]"You shall make a screen for the door of the tabernacle, woven of blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine woven linen, made by a weaver. 37 And you shall make for the screen [n]five pillars of acacia wood, and overlay them with gold; their hooks shall be gold, and you shall cast five sockets of bronze for them.

The Altar of Burnt Offering

27 "You shall make [a]an altar of acacia wood, five cubits long and five cubits wide—the altar shall be square—and its height shall be three cubits. 2 You shall make its horns on its four corners; its horns shall be of one piece with it. And you shall overlay it with bronze. 3 Also you shall make its pans to receive its ashes, and its shovels and its basins and its forks and its firepans; you shall make all its utensils of bronze. 4 You shall make a grate for it, a network of bronze; and on the network you shall make four bronze rings at its four corners. 5 You shall put it under the rim of the altar beneath, that the network may be midway up the altar. 6 And you shall make poles for the altar, poles of acacia wood, and overlay them with bronze. 7 The poles shall be put in the rings, and the poles shall be on the two sides of the altar to bear it. 8 You shall make it hollow with boards; [b]as it was shown you on the mountain, so shall they make it.

The Court of the Tabernacle

9 [c]"You shall also make the court of the tabernacle. For the south side there shall be hangings for the court made of fine woven linen, one hundred cubits long for one side. 10 And its twenty pillars and their twenty sockets shall be bronze. The hooks of the pillars and their bands shall be silver. 11 Likewise along the length of the north side there shall be hangings one hundred cubits long, with its twenty pillars and their twenty sockets of bronze, and the hooks of the pillars and their bands of silver.

12 "And along the width of the court on the west side shall be hangings of fifty cubits, with their ten pillars and their ten sockets. 13 The width of the court on the east side shall be fifty cubits. 14 The hangings on one side of the gate shall be fifteen cubits, with their three pillars and their three sockets. 15 And on the other side shall be hangings of fifteen cubits, with their three pillars and their three sockets.

16 "For the gate of the court there shall be a screen twenty cubits long, woven of blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine woven linen, made by a weaver. It shall have four pillars and four sockets. 17 All the pillars around the court shall have bands of silver; their [d]hooks shall be of silver and their sockets of bronze. 18 The length of the court shall be one hundred cubits, the width fifty throughout, and the height five cubits, made of fine woven linen, and its sockets of bronze. 19 All the utensils of the tabernacle for all its service, all its pegs, and all the pegs of the court, shall be of bronze.

The Care of the Lampstand

20 "And [e]you shall command the children of Israel that they bring you pure oil of pressed olives for the light, to cause the lamp to [f]burn continually. 21 In the tabernacle of meeting,

■ 26:36 for the door. The gate at the east end was covered by a screen supported by acacia pillars set in bronze sockets. The screen was made of the same material as the inner curtains and the veil, but was of embroidery rather than tapestry since it was further from the Most Holy Place.

■ 27:1 altar. The altar of burnt offering was made of acacia wood overlaid with bronze. The horns at the four corners were important in the ritual and were smeared with blood at the consecration of priests (29:12), in the sin offering (Lev. 4:25, 30), and on the Day of the Atonement (Lev. 16:18). They gave sanctuary to anyone who laid hold of them (1 Kin. 1:50). The altar was hollow and was filled with earth or uncut stones (20:24).

■ 27:3 its utensils. Accessories, being outside of the tabernacle proper, were all of bronze.

■ 27:4 make a grate. The grate details and its function are obscure. It was placed halfway down the altar running from below the ledge of the altar to the ground. Perhaps it was for ventilation of the altar fire. The "rim" of v. 5 was apparently for priests to stand on when offering sacrifice.

■ 27:9 make the court. The court was a rectangle of 150 by 75 feet enclosed by white linen hangings seven and one-half feet high separating it from the surrounding camp of Israel (v. 18).

■ 27:16 For the gate. A thirty-foot opening on the east side was covered by a screen (v. 16). Fifty-six pillars (twenty on the north and south sides, ten on the west, and three on either side of the entrance on the east) in bronze sockets held up the linen hangings. Another four pillars supported the screen. Their arrangement is not specified; neither is the placement of the tabernacle within the courtyard. The pillars may have been held in place by pegs and guy ropes (35:18).

■ 27:18 length of the court. The court apparently consisted of two equal seventy-five foot squares containing the tabernacle proper and the open space before it. The ark and the altar of burnt offering were the respective central objects. The eastern, open half of the court provided public space for sacrifices and the gathering of worshipers.

■ 27:20 pure oil . . . for the light. Pure olive oil, which provided a virtually smoke-free light. The lamp was the golden lampstand that stood on the south side of the holy place (Lev. 24:1–4).

■ 27:21 tabernacle of meeting. The tabernacle was so named because God and Israel's priestly representatives met there as determined

Garments for the Priesthood

28 "Now take [a]Aaron your brother, and his sons with him, from among the children of Israel, that he may minister to Me as [b]priest, Aaron and Aaron's sons: [c]Nadab, Abihu, [d]Eleazar, and Ithamar. 2 And [e]you shall make [l]holy garments for Aaron your brother, for glory and for beauty. 3 So [f]you shall speak to all who are gifted artisans, [g]whom I have filled with the spirit of wisdom, that they may make Aaron's garments, to consecrate him, that he may minister to Me as priest. 4 And these are the garments which they shall make: [h]a breastplate, [i]an [2]ephod, [j]a robe, [k]a skillfully woven tunic, a turban, and [l]a sash. So they shall make holy garments for Aaron your brother and his sons, that he may minister to Me as priest.

The Ephod

5 "They shall take the gold, blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and the fine linen, 6 [m]and they shall make the ephod of gold, blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine woven linen, artistically worked. 7 It shall have two shoulder straps joined at its two edges, and so it shall be joined together. 8 And the [3]intricately woven band of the ephod, which is on it, shall be of the same workmanship, made of gold, blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine woven linen.

9 "Then you shall take two onyx [n]stones and engrave on them the names of the sons of Israel: 10 six of their names on one stone and six names on the other stone, in order of their [o]birth. 11 With the work of an [p]engraver in stone, like the engravings of a signet, you shall engrave the two stones with the names of the sons of Israel. You shall set them in settings of gold. 12 And you shall put the two stones on the shoulders of the ephod as memorial stones for the sons of Israel. So [q]Aaron shall bear their names before the LORD on his two shoulders [r]as a memorial. 13 You shall also make settings of gold, 14 and you shall make two chains of pure gold like braided cords, and fasten the braided chains to the settings.

The Breastplate

15 [s]"You shall make the breastplate of judgment. Artistically woven according to the workmanship of the ephod you shall make it: of gold, blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine woven linen, you shall make it. 16 It shall be doubled into a square: a span shall be its length, and a span shall be its width. 17 [t]And you shall put settings of stones in it, four rows of stones: The first row shall be a [4]sardius, a topaz, and an emerald; this shall be the first row; 18 the second row shall be a turquoise, a sapphire, and a diamond; 19 the third row, a [5]jacinth, an agate, and an amethyst; 20 and the fourth row, a [6]beryl, an [7]onyx, and a jasper. They shall be set in gold settings. 21 And the stones shall have the names of the sons of Israel, twelve according to their names, like the engravings of a signet, each one with its own name; they shall be according to the twelve tribes.

22 "You shall make chains for the breastplate at the end, like braided cords of pure gold. 23 And you shall make two rings of gold for the breastplate, and put the two rings on the two ends of the breastplate. 24 Then you shall put the two braided chains of gold in the two rings which are on the ends of the breastplate; 25 and the other two ends of the two braided chains you shall fasten to the two settings, and put them on the shoulder straps of the ephod in the front.

by liturgical regulation. It is not identical with the tabernacle of meeting outside the camp where God met Moses (33:7 note; Num. 12:4).

■ 28:1—30:3 Having revealed the pattern of the earthly sanctuary (25:1—27:21), God now reveals the regulations for the priestly ministry of the sanctuary.

■ 28:1 minister to Me as priest. First and foremost, the priests were to serve as mediators between God and man. As priests and representatives of a holy God, Aaron and his sons participated in the holiness of the tabernacle and were held to strict standards of ritual purity (Lev. 21:1—22:16). In addition to their ceremonial duties, such as offering sacrifices and caring for the place of worship, they acted as judges (Deut. 17:8–13), dispensed blessings (Num. 6:22–27), gave oracles (Num. 27:21), and taught God's law to the people (Deut. 33:10).

Nadab, Abihu. These two sons of Aaron were killed for unlawful activity (Lev. 10:1–2). Aaron was succeeded by Eleazar (Deut. 10:6).

■ 28:2 make holy garments. The vestments of God's holy high priest were of paramount importance. They were designed for beauty and made of the same expensive materials as the tabernacle.

■ 28:6 the ephod. This sleeveless linen garment decorated with colored thread was made from costly materials and reached from the breast down to the hips. It had shoulder straps with two onyx stones engraved with the names of the tribes, and a waistband (39:2–7). The breastplate that contained the Urim and Thummim was fastened to the ephod (v. 27; 1 Sam. 23:9–10).

■ 28:15 the breastplate. This was a single piece of fabric, folded double to form a square pouch with gemstones bearing the names of the twelve tribes on its front (v. 21) and the Urim and Thummim inside (v. 30).

■ 28:22 chains. Ropes of twisted gold thread connected the breast piece to the shoulder straps of the ephod.

26 "You shall make two rings of gold, and put them on the two ends of the breastplate, on the edge of it, which is on the inner side of the ephod. 27 And two other rings of gold you shall make, and put them on the two shoulder straps, underneath the ephod toward its front, right at the seam above the [s]intricately woven band of the ephod. 28 They shall bind the breastplate by means of its rings to the rings of the ephod, using a blue cord, so that it is above the intricately woven band of the ephod, and so that the breastplate does not come loose from the ephod.

29 "So Aaron shall [u]bear the names of the sons of Israel on the breastplate of judgment over his heart, when he goes into the holy place, as a memorial before the LORD continually. 30 And [v]you shall put in the breastplate of judgment the [g]Urim and the Thummim, and they shall be over Aaron's heart when he goes in before the LORD. So Aaron shall bear the judgment of the children of Israel over his heart before the LORD continually.

Other Priestly Garments

31 [w]"You shall make the robe of the ephod all of blue. 32 There shall be an opening for his head in the middle of it; it shall have a woven binding all around its opening, like the opening in a coat of mail, so that it does not tear. 33 And upon its hem you shall make pomegranates of blue, purple, and scarlet, all around its hem, and bells of gold between them all around: 34 a golden bell and a pomegranate, a golden bell and a pomegranate, upon the hem of the robe all around. 35 And it shall be upon Aaron when he ministers, and its sound will be heard when he goes into the holy place before the LORD and when he comes out, that he may not die.

36 [x]"You shall also make a plate of pure gold and engrave on it, like the engraving of a signet:

HOLINESS TO THE LORD.

37 And you shall put it on a blue cord, that it may be on the turban; it shall be on the front of the turban. 38 So it shall be on Aaron's forehead, that Aaron may [y]bear the iniquity of the holy things which the children of Israel hallow in all their [i]holy gifts; and it shall always be on his forehead, that they may be [z]accepted before the LORD.

39 "You shall [a]skillfully weave the tunic of fine linen thread, you shall make the turban of fine linen, and you shall make the sash of woven work.

40 [b]"For Aaron's sons you shall make tunics, and you shall make sashes for them. And you shall make [2]hats for them, for glory and [c]beauty. 41 So you shall put them on Aaron your brother and on his sons with him. You shall [d]anoint them, [e]consecrate them, and [3]sanctify them, that they may minister to Me as priests. 42 And you shall make [f]for them linen trousers to cover their [4]nakedness; they shall [5]reach from the waist to the thighs. 43 They shall be on Aaron and on his sons when they come into the tabernacle of meeting, or when they come near [g]the altar to minister in the holy place, that they [h]do not incur [6]iniquity and die. [i]It shall be a statute forever to him and his descendants after him.

Aaron and His Sons Consecrated

29 "And this is what you shall do to them to hallow them for ministering to Me as priests: [a]Take one young bull and two rams without blemish, 2 and [b]unleavened bread, unleavened cakes mixed with oil, and unleavened wafers anointed with oil (you shall make them of wheat flour). 3 You shall put them in one basket and bring them in the basket, with the bull and the two rams.

CHAPTER 29

1 [a]Lev. 8; [Heb. 7:26–28]

2 [b]Lev. 2:4; 6:19–23

■ 28:29 names of the sons of Israel. Aaron carried this reminder of the nation he represented when he entered the holy place.

■ 28:30 the Urim and the Thummim. Lit. "lights and perfections." These two Hebrew words begin with the first and last letters of the alphabet (cf. the "Alpha and Omega" of Rev. 1:18). There is no hint of how they functioned or what they were—perhaps stones of different colors, or two small objects engraved with symbols or letters of the alphabet. Whatever the Urim and Thummim were, they were used to receive oracles from God (Num. 27:21; Deut. 33:8; 1 Sam. 23:6–13; 28:6; Ezra 2:63).

■ 28:31 robe of the ephod. This blue robe with bells was worn under the breast piece and ephod to identify and protect the priest when he entered an area of special sanctity.

■ 28:36 HOLINESS TO THE LORD. On the turban of Aaron was fastened a plate or diadem. The same object is called a crown (29:6; 39:30; Lev. 8:9) and worn by kings (2 Sam. 1:10; 2 Kin. 11:12; Ps. 89:39). The engraved plate was of pure gold, and identified Aaron as set apart to the Lord and as Israel's representative.

■ 28:40 make tunics . . . sashes . . . hats. The other priestly garments are only briefly described. The tunic seems to have been a long shift-like garment worn under the robe. These priestly garments were to be worn in God's presence (v. 43). Ordinary priests wore plain tunics, a less ornate sash, and a headdress different from the high priest's.

■ 28:42 linen trousers. The undergarment was worn so as not to violate the command of 20:26. Ritual nakedness, so common in other ancient religions, was forbidden in Israel.

■ 29:1 hallow. Or, "make them holy," set them apart from their fellow Israelites for God's service.

■ 29:2 bread . . . cakes . . . wafers. Three kinds of grain offering were to be presented (cf. Lev. 2:4–10).

4 "And Aaron and his sons you shall bring to the door of the tabernacle of meeting, [c]and you shall wash them with water. 5 [d]Then you shall take the garments, put the tunic on Aaron, and the robe of the ephod, the ephod, and the breastplate, and gird him with [e]the intricately woven band of the ephod. 6 [f]You shall put the turban on his head, and put the holy crown on the turban. 7 And you shall take the anointing [g]oil, pour it on his head, and anoint him. 8 Then [h]you shall bring his sons and put tunics on them. 9 And you shall gird them with sashes, Aaron and his sons, and put the hats on them. [i]The priesthood shall be theirs for a perpetual statute. So you shall [j]consecrate Aaron and his sons.

10 "You shall also have the bull brought before the tabernacle of meeting, and [k]Aaron and his sons shall put their hands on the head of the bull. 11 Then you shall kill the bull before the LORD, by the door of the tabernacle of meeting. 12 You shall take some of the blood of the bull and put it on [l]the horns of the altar with your finger, and [m]pour all the blood beside the base of the altar. 13 And [n]you shall take all the fat that covers the entrails, the fatty lobe attached to the liver, and the two kidneys and the fat that is on them, and burn them on the altar. 14 But [o]the flesh of the bull, with its skin and its offal, you shall burn with fire outside the camp. It is a sin offering.

15 [p]"You shall also take one ram, and Aaron and his sons shall [q]put their hands on the head of the ram; 16 and you shall kill the ram, and you shall take its blood and [r]sprinkle it all around on the altar. 17 Then you shall cut the ram in pieces, wash its entrails and its legs, and put them with its pieces and with its head. 18 And you shall burn the whole ram on the altar. It is a [s]burnt offering to the LORD; it is a sweet aroma, an offering made by fire to the LORD.

19 [t]"You shall also take the other ram, and Aaron and his sons shall put their hands on the head of the ram. 20 Then you shall kill the ram, and take some of its blood and put it on the tip of the right ear of Aaron and on the tip of the right ear of his sons, on the thumb of their right hand and on the big toe of their right foot, and sprinkle the blood all around on the altar. 21 And you shall take some of the blood that is on the altar, and some of [u]the anointing oil, and sprinkle it on Aaron and on his garments, on his sons and on the garments of his sons with him; and [v]he and his garments shall be hallowed, and his sons and his sons' garments with him.

22 "Also you shall take the fat of the ram, the fat tail, the fat that covers the entrails, the fatty lobe attached to the liver, the two kidneys and the fat on them, the right thigh (for it is a ram of consecration), 23 [w]one loaf of bread, one cake made with oil, and one wafer from the basket of the unleavened bread that is before the LORD; 24 and you shall put all these in the hands of Aaron and in the hands of his sons, and you shall [x]wave them as a wave offering before the LORD. 25 [y]You shall receive them back from their hands and burn them on the altar as a burnt offering, as a sweet aroma before the LORD. It is an offering made by fire to the LORD.

26 "Then you shall take [z]the breast of the ram of Aaron's consecration and wave it as a wave offering before the LORD; and it shall be your portion. 27 And from the ram of the consecration you shall consecrate [a]the breast of the wave offering which is waved, and the thigh of the heave offering which is raised, of that which is for Aaron and of that which is for his sons. 28 It shall be from the children of Israel for Aaron and his sons [b]by a statute forever. For it is a heave offering; [c]it shall be a heave offering from the children of Israel from the sacrifices of their peace offerings, that is, their heave offering to the LORD.

29 "And the [d]holy garments of Aaron [e]shall be his sons' after him, [f]to be anointed in them and to be consecrated in them. 30 [g]That son who becomes priest in his place shall put them on for [h]seven days, when he enters the tabernacle of meeting to minister in the [i]holy place.

31 "And you shall take the ram of the consecration and [j]boil its flesh in the holy place. 32 Then

■ 29:4 wash them with water. Aaron and his sons could not enter the tabernacle until they had been ceremonially cleansed by washing and sacrifice had been made for them (cf. Heb. 7:26–28).

■ 29:5 take the garments. Aaron and his sons were to be clothed with sacred garments symbolic of their office. Only Aaron is anointed (and thereby authorized to act as chief priest).

■ 29:9 consecrate. Lit. "fill the hand," a Hebrew idiom for induction into office.

■ 29:10 have the bull brought. Priests laid their hands on the bull calf to symbolize personal identification and substitution in this sin offering. Blood was smeared on the horns of the altar of burnt offering as for laymen, since Aaron and his sons were still unconsecrated (Lev. 4:25, 30; cf. Lev. 4:7). The remainder of the blood was poured at the bottom of the altar as for a sin offering. Certain parts were to be burned on the altar (v. 13), but the remainder was to be burned outside the camp as unclean (v. 14).

■ 29:15 one ram. This ram was offered as a dedicatory burnt offering (Lev. 1:3–17 note).

■ 29:19 take the other ram. The other ram was offered as a peace offering (Lev. 3:1 note).

■ 29:20 put it on the tip. The ear, hands, and feet of the priests (extremities as parts for the whole) were cleansed from impurities to consecrate for service.

■ 29:22 the right thigh. Normally part of the priest's portion (Lev. 7:32), this was also burned in this sacrifice for the priests.

■ 29:24 wave them. The ceremonial waving symbolized their dedication as gifts to God.

■ 29:26 your portion. Moses, since he was acting as priest, received the breast and the thigh of the ram as his portion; thereafter the priests were to receive these (Lev. 7:31–32).

Aaron and his sons shall eat the flesh of the ram, and the [j]bread that is in the basket, by the door of the tabernacle of meeting. 33 [k]They shall eat those things with which the atonement was made, to consecrate and to sanctify them; [l]but an outsider shall not eat them, because they are holy. 34 And if any of the flesh of the consecration offerings, or of the bread, remains until the morning, then [m]you shall burn the remainder with fire. It shall not be eaten, because it is holy.

35 "Thus you shall do to Aaron and his sons, according to all that I have commanded you. [n]Seven days you shall consecrate them. 36 And you [o]shall offer a bull every day as a sin offering for atonement. [p]You shall cleanse the altar when you make atonement for it, and you shall anoint it to sanctify it. 37 Seven days you shall make atonement for the altar and sanctify it. And the altar shall be most holy. [q]Whatever touches the altar must be holy.

The Daily Offerings

38 "Now this is what you shall offer on the altar: [r]two lambs of the first year, [s]day by day continually. 39 One lamb you shall offer [t]in the morning, and the other lamb you shall offer [2]at twilight. 40 With the one lamb shall be one-tenth of an ephah of flour mixed with one-fourth of a hin of pressed oil, and one-fourth of a hin of wine as a drink offering. 41 And the other lamb you shall [u]offer [3]at twilight; and you shall offer with it the grain offering and the drink offering, as in the morning, for a sweet aroma, an offering made by fire to the LORD. 42 This shall be [v]a continual burnt offering throughout your generations at the door of the tabernacle of meeting before the LORD, [w]where I will meet you to speak with you. 43 And there I will meet with the children of Israel, and the tabernacle [x]shall be sanctified by My glory. 44 So I will consecrate the tabernacle of meeting and the altar. I will also [y]consecrate both Aaron and his sons to minister to Me as priests. 45 [z]I will dwell among the children of Israel and will [a]be their God. 46 And they shall know that [b]I am the LORD their God, who [c]brought them up out of the land of Egypt, that I may dwell among them. I am the LORD their God.

The Altar of Incense

30 "You shall make [a]an altar to burn incense on; you shall make it of acacia wood. 2 A cubit shall be its length and a cubit its width—it shall be square—and two cubits shall be its height. Its horns shall be of one piece with it. 3 And you shall overlay its top, its sides all around, and its horns with pure gold; and you shall make for it a [1]molding of gold all around. 4 Two gold rings you shall make for it, under the molding on both its sides. You shall place them on its two sides, and they will be holders for the poles with which to bear it. 5 You shall make the poles of acacia wood, and overlay them with gold. 6 And you shall put it before the [b]veil that is before the ark of the Testimony, before the [c]mercy seat that is over the Testimony, where I will meet with you.

7 "Aaron shall burn on it [d]sweet incense every morning; when [e]he tends the lamps, he shall burn incense on it. 8 And when Aaron lights the lamps [2]at twilight, he shall burn incense on it, a perpetual incense before the LORD throughout your generations. 9 You shall not offer [f]strange incense on it, or a burnt offering, or a grain offering; nor shall you pour a drink offering on it. 10 And [g]Aaron shall make atonement upon its horns once a year with the blood of the sin offering of atonement; once a year he shall make atonement upon it throughout your generations. It is most holy to the LORD."

The Ransom Money

11 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 12 [h]"When you take the census of the children of Israel for their number, then every man shall give [i]a[3] ransom for himself to the LORD, when you number them, that there may be no [j]plague among them when you number them. 13 [k]This is what

13 [k]Matt. 17:24

■ 29:38 day by day continually. The requirements for the daily priestly offerings are reviewed (vv. 38–46). The author of Hebrews contrasts these daily sacrifices for sin (whose repetition pointed to their insufficiency) with the once-for-all sacrifice of Christ (Heb. 10:11–14).

■ 29:42–46 This passage states the goal of the Exodus (and of the book). God "brought them up out of the land of Egypt" that He might "dwell among them" (v. 46). The covenant relationship between God and His people is fundamentally one of communion between God and man (Gen. 17:7; Ex. 6:7).

■ 30:1 an altar to burn incense. The altar was in front of the veil at the entrance to the Most Holy Place (v. 6). It was lit by the high priest morning and evening. The smoke that then covered the mercy seat protected the high priest from the divine presence (Lev. 16:13).

■ 30:12 take the census. The half-shekel atonement money that accompanied each census witnessed to Israel's dependence on the Lord's mercy. Their lives were forfeit because of sin, and must be redeemed. The lesson of the Passover and the redemption of the firstborn is applied to all Israel (13:15; 22:29; Num. 3:40–51).

ransom. Lit. "atonement." The payment served as an act of individual atonement and was an assertion of God's rights over Israel.

■ 30:13 half a shekel. In difficult times the amount was apparently reduced (Neh. 10:32).

everyone among those who are numbered shall give: half a shekel according to the shekel of the sanctuary [l](a shekel is twenty gerahs). [m]The half-shekel shall be an offering to the LORD. 14 Everyone included among those who are numbered, from twenty years old and above, shall give an [4]offering to the LORD. 15 The [n]rich shall not give more and the poor shall not give less than half a shekel, when you give an offering to the LORD, to make atonement for yourselves. 16 And you shall take the atonement money of the children of Israel, and [o]shall [5]appoint it for the service of the tabernacle of meeting, that it may be [p]a memorial for the children of Israel before the LORD, to make atonement for yourselves."

The Bronze Laver

17 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 18 [q]"You shall also make a [6]laver of bronze, with its base also of bronze, for washing. You shall [r]put it between the tabernacle of meeting and the altar. And you shall put water in it, 19 for Aaron and his sons [s]shall wash their hands and their feet in water from it. 20 When they go into the tabernacle of meeting, or when they come near the altar to minister, to burn an offering made by fire to the LORD, they shall wash with water, lest they die. 21 So they shall wash their hands and their feet, lest they die. And [t]it shall be a [7]statute forever to them—to him and his descendants throughout their generations."

The Holy Anointing Oil

22 Moreover the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 23 "Also take for yourself [u]quality spices—five hundred shekels of liquid [v]myrrh, half as much sweet-smelling cinnamon (two hundred and fifty shekels), two hundred and fifty shekels of sweet-smelling [w]cane, 24 five hundred shekels of [x]cassia, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, and a [y]hin of olive oil. 25 And you shall make from these a holy anointing oil, an ointment compounded according to the art of the perfumer. It shall be [z]a holy anointing oil. 26 [a]With it you shall anoint the tabernacle of meeting and the ark of the Testimony; 27 the table and all its utensils, the lampstand and its utensils, and the altar of incense; 28 the altar of burnt offering with all its utensils, and the laver and its base. 29 You shall consecrate them, that they may be most holy; [b]whatever touches them must be holy. 30 [c]And you shall anoint Aaron and his sons, and consecrate them, that they may minister to Me as priests.

31 "And you shall speak to the children of Israel, saying: 'This shall be a holy anointing oil to Me throughout your generations. 32 It shall not be poured on man's flesh; nor shall you make any other like it, according to its composition. [d]It is holy, and it shall be holy to you. 33 [e]Whoever [8]compounds any like it, or whoever puts any of it on an outsider, [f]shall be [9]cut off from his people.' "

The Incense

34 And the LORD said to Moses: [g]"Take sweet spices, stacte and onycha and galbanum, and pure frankincense with these sweet spices; there shall be equal amounts of each. 35 You shall make of these an incense, a compound [h]according to the art of the perfumer, salted, pure, and holy. 36 And you shall beat some of it very fine, and put some of it before the Testimony in the tabernacle of meeting [i]where I will meet with you. [j]It shall be most holy to you. 37 But as for the incense which you shall make, [k]you shall not make any for yourselves, according to its [l]composition. It shall be to you holy for the LORD. 38 [l]Whoever makes any like it, to smell it, he shall be cut off from his people."

Artisans for Building the Tabernacle

31 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 2 [a]"See, I have called by name Bezalel the [b]son of Uri, the son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah. 3 And I have [c]filled him with the Spirit of God, in wisdom, in understanding, in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanship, 4 to design artistic works, to work in gold, in silver, in bronze, 5 in cutting jewels for setting, in carving wood, and to work in all manner of workmanship.

3 [c]Ex. 28:3; 35:31; 1 Kin. 7:14; Eph. 1:17

6 [d]Ex. 35:34

■ 30:17–21 The priests washed their hands and feet when they approached the altar or entered the tabernacle for ministry. No dimensions are given for the basin, though Solomon's temple basins were massive (1 Kin. 7:38). Neglecting to wash might cause death—the holy God was not to be approached casually (vv. 20, 21).

■ 31:1–11 The tabernacle was to be constructed according to the divine design by gifted men who were supernaturally enabled by the Holy Spirit to do all the tasks required (vv. 3–6, 11). All the work was described to Moses by God and little room was left for creative variation (25:9).

■ 31:2 Bezalel. The name is archaic and means "in El's [God's] shadow" (cf. 17:10 note).

■ 31:6 Aholiab. Bezalel's assistant. His name means "the father is my tent."

Dan; and I have put wisdom in the hearts of all the [e]gifted artisans, that they may make all that I have commanded you: 7 [f]the tabernacle of meeting, [g]the ark of the Testimony and [h]the mercy seat that is on it, and all the furniture of the tabernacle— 8 [i]the table and its utensils, [j]the pure gold lampstand with all its utensils, the altar of incense, 9 [k]the altar of burnt offering with all its utensils, and [l]the laver and its base— 10 [m]the [l]garments of ministry, the holy garments for Aaron the priest and the garments of his sons, to minister as priests, 11 [n]and the anointing oil and [o]sweet incense for the holy place. According to all that I have commanded you they shall do."

The Sabbath Law

12 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 13 "Speak also to the children of Israel, saying: [p]'Surely My Sabbaths you shall keep, for it is a sign between Me and you throughout your generations, that you may know that I am the LORD who [q]sanctifies[2] you. 14 [r]You shall keep the Sabbath, therefore, for it is holy to you. Everyone who [3]profanes it shall surely be put to death; for [s]whoever does any work on it, that person shall be cut off from among his people. 15 Work shall be done for [t]six days, but the [u]seventh is the Sabbath of rest, holy to the LORD. Whoever does any work on the Sabbath day, he shall surely be put to death. 16 Therefore the children of Israel shall keep the Sabbath, to observe the Sabbath throughout their generations as a perpetual covenant. 17 It is [v]a sign between Me and the children of Israel forever; for [w]in six days the LORD made the heavens and the earth, and on the seventh day He rested and was refreshed.' "

18 And when He had made an end of speaking with him on Mount Sinai, He gave Moses [x]two tablets of the Testimony, tablets of stone, written with the finger of God.

The Gold Calf

32 Now when the people saw that Moses [a]delayed coming down from the mountain, the people [b]gathered together to Aaron, and said to him, [c]"Come, make us [l]gods that shall [d]go before us; for as for this Moses, the man who [e]brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we do not know what has become of him."

2 And Aaron said to them, "Break off the [f]golden earrings which are in the ears of your wives, your sons, and your daughters, and bring them to me." 3 So all the people broke off the golden earrings which were in their ears, and brought them to Aaron. 4 [g]And he received the gold from their hand, and he fashioned it with an engraving tool, and made a molded calf.

Then they said, "This is your god, O Israel, that [h]brought you out of the land of Egypt!"

5 So when Aaron saw it, he built an altar before it. And Aaron made a [i]proclamation and said, "Tomorrow is a feast to the LORD." 6 Then they rose early on the next day, offered burnt offerings, and brought peace offerings; and the people [j]sat down to eat and drink, and rose up to play.

■ 31:12–17 The Sabbath commandment is reiterated and designated as the covenant sign of the Mosaic covenant (Gen. 9:12 note). To keep God's Sabbath is to keep the covenant since the Sabbath is a sign of the special relationship between God and Israel. To disregard God's Sabbath was to disregard God's purposes for creation through His redemption of Israel.

■ 31:18 two tablets of the Testimony. See note on Deut. 5:22. Some suggest that these were two identical copies. Consistent with ancient Near Eastern suzerainty treaties, one copy belonged to each treaty partner and the copies were housed in the respective sanctuaries. The ark was both the focal point of Israel's sanctuary and the special dwelling place of God. Hence, both copies were placed in the ark.

finger of God. See 8:19.

■ 32:1—34:35 God's continued mercy shown to the people of Israel in these chapters is striking indeed. Even after His mighty Exodus deliverance and miraculous provisions for them in the desert, they responded with complaints, recriminations, and the idolatrous worship of the golden calf (16:2, 3; 17:1–3; 32:1–6). We should note, however, that this section displays not only the treachery of Israel and the kindness of their God, but also the central role of Moses the mediator. Because the Lord was pleased with the mediator, He did not cast off the people and start anew to make a great nation out of Moses (32:10–14).

We should not conclude that Israel's continuing in God's favor was due solely to the merit of Moses as God's mediator. Rather, the ground of Moses' plea for mercy was his concern for God's glory and his appeal to the gracious covenant promises God had made to the patriarchs (32:11–14). The crisis of Israel's disloyalty, and the Lord's threat to destroy them, is resolved in the faithfulness of God revealed through the successful appeal of the man Moses, who knew and reached the heart of God.

■ 32:1 gathered together. The phrase is ominous (used of the rebellion of Korah at Num. 16:3; 20:2). The problem is not with Moses' past leadership, but with his absence.

■ 32:4 calf. The bull as a symbol of deity was common in the ancient world. Perhaps a symbol of Apis, the Egyptian fertility bull-god, was meant. Aaron himself may have presented the calf as a symbol of the true God, and he apparently attempted to blunt the apostasy by building an altar and announcing a festival to the Lord (v. 5). Noting that the Hebrew term translated "gods" and "god" in vv. 1 and 4 ('elohim) can be rendered as singular or plural (v. 1 text note), some have argued that the people were worshiping the calf as a symbol of the Lord (they would still have been guilty of idolatry, 20:4 note). But the shout of the people is reported here using the plural verb ("brought . . . out") with 'elohim. The singular form is always used with this noun when it refers to the true God. The people were turning to the bull-god to lead them, in gross violation of 20:2 (cf. Acts 7:39–41).

■ 32:5 feast. The first, second, third, and probably the seventh commandments were violated in this festival (v. 6 note; 20:2–7, 14).

■ 32:6 rose up to play. They rose from their meal to engage in what was probably a fertility cult orgy (the bull-god Apis was the Egyptian god of fertility). That this festival involved sexual immorality is further indicated by the later reference to shameful lack of restraint (v. 25).

7 And the LORD said to Moses, [k]"Go, get down! For your people whom you brought out of the land of Egypt [l]have corrupted themselves. 8 They have turned aside quickly out of the way which [m]I commanded them. They have made themselves a molded calf, and worshiped it and sacrificed to it, and said, [n]'This is your god, O Israel, that brought you out of the land of Egypt!' " 9 And the LORD said to Moses, [o]"I have seen this people, and indeed it is a [2]stiff-necked people! 10 Now therefore, [p]let Me alone, that [q]My wrath may burn hot against them and I may [3]consume them. And [r]I will make of you a great nation."

11 [s]Then Moses pleaded with [4]the LORD his God, and said: "LORD, why does Your wrath burn hot against Your people whom You have brought out of the land of Egypt with great power and with a mighty hand? 12 [t]Why should the Egyptians speak, and say, 'He brought them out to harm them, to kill them in the mountains, and to consume them from the face of the earth'? Turn from Your fierce wrath, and [u]relent from this harm to Your people. 13 Remember Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, Your servants, to whom You [v]swore by Your own self, and said to them, [w]'I will multiply your descendants as the stars of heaven; and all this land that I have spoken of I give to your descendants, and they shall inherit it forever.' " 14 So the LORD [x]relented from the harm which He said He would do to His people.

15 And [y]Moses turned and went down from the mountain, and the two tablets of the Testimony were in his hand. The tablets were written on both sides; on the one side and on the other they were written. 16 Now the [z]tablets were the work of God, and the writing was the writing of God engraved on the tablets.

17 And when Joshua heard the noise of the people as they shouted, he said to Moses, "There is a noise of war in the camp."

18 But he said:

"It is not the noise of the shout of victory,
Nor the noise of the cry of defeat,
But the sound of singing I hear."

19 So it was, as soon as he came near the camp, that [a]he saw the calf and the dancing. So Moses' anger became hot, and he cast the tablets out of his hands and broke them at the foot of the mountain. 20 [b]Then he took the calf which they had made, burned it in the fire, and ground it to powder; and he scattered it on the water and made the children of Israel drink it. 21 And Moses said to Aaron, [c]"What did this people do to you that you have brought so great a sin upon them?"

22 So Aaron said, "Do not let the anger of my lord become hot. [d]You know the people, that they are set on evil. 23 For they said to me, 'Make us gods that shall go before us; as for this Moses, the man who brought us out of the land of Egypt, we do not know what has become of him.' 24 And I said to them, 'Whoever has any gold, let them break it off.' So they gave it to me, and I cast it into the fire, and this calf came out."

25 Now when Moses saw that the people were [e]unrestrained (for Aaron [f]had not restrained

■ 32:7 your people. In righteous anger against their idolatry, God does not acknowledge the people as His own. Instead, He designates them to Moses as "your people."

■ 32:10 let Me alone. Anticipating the intercession of Moses, God proposes to destroy the stiff-necked apostates and to make a new nation of Moses. If He were to do so, God would be setting aside His promises to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (Gen. 12:2; 26:4; 28:14).

■ 32:11 Moses rejects God's offer of v. 10. Instead, arguing on the basis of the honor of God's name (v. 12) and appealing to God's faithfulness to the covenant promises made to the patriarchs (v. 13), Moses pleads that God would continue to acknowledge Israel as His people.

■ 32:13 Israel. The normal sequence would require "Jacob" (cf. 2:24; 3:6; Deut. 1:8), but the substitution is made by Moses to suit the occasion.

■ 32:14 the LORD relented. See note on Gen. 6:6. Moses' intercessory prayer itself was also part of God's will and purpose to show His grace. But the effectiveness of Moses' intercession can only be described by characterizing the Lord in human terms: He relents and withholds the total judgment He had threatened. See "The Spiritual Nature of God" at Is. 66:1.

■ 32:16 work of God . . . writing of God. Attention is emphatically drawn to the divine origin of the tablets to be smashed. See theological note "The Word of God: Scripture as Revelation."

■ 32:18 singing. Moses replies in a short graphic poem with a threefold use of the word for "singing," which lit. reads: "Not the sound of singing victory, not the sound of singing defeat, but the sound of singing I hear."

■ 32:19 broke them. The broken tablets of the covenant law powerfully picture the broken covenant (20:1 note).

■ 32:20 burned it. Perhaps the calf was wooden with a golden overlay. Israel was forced to drink this symbol of their sin to demonstrate that they would bear the responsibility for it (cf. the water of bitterness that later was to be drunk by an adulteress, Num. 5:18–22).

■ 32:21–24 In Aaron's pathetic defense he blames the people for his own unfaithfulness, and even suggests a miraculous origin for the calf (v. 24). Aaron's conduct throughout this episode suggests that the Levitical priesthood was destined for failure from its inception (Heb. 5:2, 3; 9:7). Divine judgment upon Aaron was averted only by Moses' intercession (Deut. 9:20; 10:6–9 and note on 10:6).

them, to their shame among their enemies), [26] then Moses stood in the entrance of the camp, and said, "Whoever is on the LORD's side—come to me!" And all the sons of Levi gathered themselves together to him. [27] And he said to them, "Thus says the LORD God of Israel: 'Let every man put his sword on his side, and go in and out from entrance to entrance throughout the camp, and [g]let every man kill his brother, every man his companion, and every man his neighbor.' " [28] So the sons of Levi did according to the word of Moses. And about three thousand men of the people fell that day. [29] [h]Then Moses said, [5]"Consecrate yourselves today to the LORD, that He may bestow on you a blessing this day, for every man has opposed his son and his brother."

The Word of God: Scripture as Revelation

Christianity is the true worship and service of the true God, mankind's Creator and Redeemer. It is a religion that rests on revelation: nobody would know the truth about God, nor be able to relate to Him in a personal way, had God not first acted to make Himself known. But God has so acted, and the sixty-six books of the Bible, thirty-nine written before Christ came and twenty-seven after, are together the record, interpretation, and expression of His self-disclosure. God and godliness are the Bible's uniting themes.

From one standpoint, the Scriptures ("scripture" means "writing") are the faithful testimony of the godly to the God whom they loved and served; from another standpoint, because they were composed through a unique exercise of divine superintendence, called "inspiration," they are God's own testimony and teaching in human language. The church calls these writings the Word of God because their authorship and contents are both of divine origin.

Decisive assurance that Scripture is from God and consists entirely of His wisdom and truth comes from Jesus Christ and His apostles, who taught in His name. Jesus, God incarnate, viewed His Bible (our Old Testament) as His heavenly Father's written instruction, which He no less than others must obey (Matt. 4:4, 7, 10; 5:17–20; 19:4–6; 26:31, 52–54; Luke 4:16–21; 16:17; 18:31–33; 22:37; 24:25–27, 45–47; John 10:35), and which He came to fulfill (Matt. 26:24; John 5:46). Paul described the Old Testament as entirely inspired or "God-breathed"—a product of God's Spirit, as is the whole creation also (Ps. 33:6; Gen. 1:2)—and written for our instruction (Rom. 15:4; 1 Cor. 10:11; 2 Tim. 3:15–17). Peter affirms the divine origin of biblical teaching in 2 Pet. 1:21 and 1 Pet. 1:10–12, and so also by his manner of quoting does the writer to the Hebrews (Heb. 1:5–13; 3:7; 4:3; 10:5–7, 15–17; cf. Acts 4:25; 28:25–27).

Since the apostles' teaching about Christ is itself revealed truth in God-taught words (1 Cor. 2:12, 13), the church regards the New Testament, which records the apostolic witness, as completing the Scriptures. During the New Testament period itself Peter refers to Paul's letters as Scripture (2 Pet. 3:15, 16), and Paul apparently calls Luke's Gospel Scripture in 1 Tim. 5:18 (cf. Luke 10:7).

The idea of written directives from God Himself as a basis for godly living goes back to God's inscribing the Ten Commandments on stone tablets and prompting Moses to write His laws and the history of His dealings with His people (Ex. 32:15, 16; 34:1, 27, 28; Num. 33:2; Deut. 31:9). Digesting and living by this material was always central to true devotion for both leaders and others in Israel (Josh. 1:7, 8; 2 Kin. 17:13; 22:8–13; 1 Chr. 22:12, 13; Neh. 8; Ps. 119), and the principle that all must be governed by the Scriptures has passed into Christianity.

What Scripture says, God says; for, in a manner comparable only to the deeper mystery of the Incarnation, the Bible is both fully human and fully divine. So all its manifold contents—histories, prophecies, poems, songs, wisdom writings, sermons, statistics, letters, and whatever else—should be received as from God, and all that biblical writers teach should be revered as God's authoritative instruction. Christians should be grateful to God for the gift of His written Word, and conscientious in basing their faith and life entirely and exclusively upon it. □

■ 32:26 Whoever is on the LORD's side. Only the Levites, Moses' own tribe, answered his call to arms to put down the rebellion. They were prepared to use God's sword of judgment against neighbors or even family members (v. 29; cf. Num. 25:1–9).

■ 32:29 Consecrate. See note on 29:9.

30 Now it came to pass on the next day that Moses said to the people, [i]"You have committed a great sin. So now I will go up to the LORD; [j]perhaps I can [k]make atonement for your sin." 31 Then Moses [l]returned to the LORD and said, "Oh, these people have committed a great sin, and have [m]made for themselves a god of gold! 32 Yet now, if You will forgive their sin—but if not, I pray, [n]blot me [o]out of Your book which You have written."

33 And the LORD said to Moses, [p]"Whoever has sinned against Me, I will [q]blot him out of My book. 34 Now therefore, go, lead the people to the place of which I have [r]spoken to you. [s]Behold, My Angel shall go before you. Nevertheless, [t]in the day when I [u]visit for punishment, I will visit punishment upon them for their sin."

35 So the LORD plagued the people because of [v]what they did with the calf which Aaron made.

The Command to Leave Sinai

33 Then the LORD said to Moses, "Depart and go up from here, you [a]and the people whom you have brought out of the land of Egypt, to the land of which I swore to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, saying, [b]'To your descendants I will give it.' 2 [c]And I will send My Angel before you, [d]and I will drive out the Canaanite and the Amorite and the Hittite and the Perizzite and the Hivite and the Jebusite. 3 Go up [e]to a land flowing with milk and honey; for I will not go up in your midst, lest [f]I [1]consume you on the way, for you are a [g]stiff-necked[2] people."

4 And when the people heard this bad news, [h]they mourned, [i]and no one put on his ornaments. 5 For the LORD had said to Moses, "Say to the children of Israel, 'You are a stiff-necked people. I could come up into your midst in one moment and consume you. Now therefore, take off your [3]ornaments, that I may [j]know what to do to you.' " 6 So the children of Israel stripped themselves of their ornaments by Mount Horeb.

Moses Meets with the LORD

7 Moses took his tent and pitched it outside the camp, far from the camp, and [k]called it the tabernacle of meeting. And it came to pass that everyone who [l]sought the LORD went out to the tabernacle of meeting which was outside the camp. 8 So it was, whenever Moses went out to the tabernacle, that all the people rose, and each man stood [m]at his tent door and watched Moses until he had gone into the tabernacle. 9 And it came to pass, when Moses entered the tabernacle, that the pillar of cloud descended and stood at the door of the tabernacle, and the LORD [n]talked with Moses. 10 All the people saw the pillar of cloud standing at the tabernacle door, and all the people rose and [o]worshiped, each man in his tent door. 11 So [p]the LORD spoke to Moses face to face, as a man speaks to his friend. And he would return to the camp, but [q]his servant Joshua the son of Nun, a young man, did not depart from the tabernacle.

■ 32:30 I will go up to the LORD. Although the rebellion had been put down, Israel's guilt before God still loomed. Moses again had to leave Israel and climb the mountain to meet the Lord.

■ 32:32 blot me out of Your book. As there was a register of Israel (cf. Num. 1—4), so God Himself has a register of His people (Ps. 56:8; Is. 4:3; Mal. 3:16). If God did not forgive His people, Moses asked to be disinherited with them (cf. vv. 10, 11). Note the similar attitude of Paul in Rom. 9:3.

■ 32:33 Whoever has sinned. Moses' intercession is partially successful: God does not finally reject His people, but the sinful individuals will be judged. The limitations of Moses' mediatorial office and ministry point to the need for a greater Mediator who will present a full and efficacious atonement for sin (Heb. 3:1–6; 10:11–18). See "Christ the Mediator" at 1 Tim. 2:5.

■ 32:34 I will visit punishment. Israel's punishment is presented as certain but undefined. Apparently, a plague was soon added as a temporary punishment (v. 35). Finally, that whole generation, except for a small remnant, died in the wilderness (Num. 14:27–34).

■ 33:1 you have brought out. "You" suggests that God absolves Himself of responsibility for Israel since the covenant was broken (32:7 note).

■ 33:2 I will send My Angel before you. There is no real contrast between the Lord and the Angel here, for the Angel who was to go before Israel had already been identified with the Lord (23:20–23; Gen. 16:7 and notes). The key to understanding God's proposal is found in v. 3 ("I will not go up in your midst"). At issue was God's gracious dwelling in the midst of the people (29:44–46). If God did not dwell in Israel's midst, then there would be no point in building the tabernacle; indeed, Israel could "depart" immediately without constructing it (v. 1). Instead, another arrangement, already in operation (described in vv. 7–11), would be continued. God would meet with Moses and with inquiring Israelites at a tent "outside the camp, far from the camp" (v. 7). This new "tabernacle of meeting" was not God's dwelling; Joshua lived there (v. 11). God only came from time to time to the entrance of the tent in the pillar of cloud to speak with Moses (vv. 9, 10).

■ 33:4 they mourned. One might think that Israel would rejoice at the prospect of receiving their inheritance in the land without the threat of God's immediate presence. Instead, they mourned, for no longer would Israel be a nation of priests, enjoying immediate fellowship with God (19:3–6; 29:45, 46). This episode is one of the great crises of the Exodus story.

■ 33:5 take off your ornaments. They stripped off the festive dress associated with idolatry (cf. Gen. 35:4) and assumed the posture of mourners. But this was remorse, not true repentance. They were and would continue to be a stiff-necked people. Still, there was a note of hope in God's words, "that I may know what to do to you."

■ 33:7 took . . . pitched. The Hebrew verbal forms used here indicate this was the customary practice during the period at Sinai. This "tabernacle of meeting" was a temporary structure that served as a meeting place for God and Moses until the tabernacle proper could be built (v. 2 note).

outside . . . far from. The absence of God's presence from the camp is emphasized.

The Promise of God's Presence

12 Then Moses said to the LORD, "See, [r]You say to me, 'Bring up this people.' But You have not let me know whom You will send with me. Yet You have said, [s]'I know you by name, and you have also found grace in My sight.' 13 Now therefore, I pray, [t]if I have found grace in Your sight, [u]show me now Your way, that I may know You and that I may find grace in Your sight. And consider that this nation is [v]Your people."

14 And He said, [w]"My Presence will go with you, and I will give you [x]rest."

15 Then he said to Him, [y]"If Your Presence does not go with us, do not bring us up from here. 16 For how then will it be known that Your people and I have found grace in Your sight, [z]except You go with us? So we [a]shall be separate, Your people and I, from all the people who are upon the face of the earth."

17 So the LORD said to Moses, [b]"I will also do this thing that you have spoken; for you have found grace in My sight, and I know you by name."

18 And he said, "Please, show me [c]Your glory."

19 Then He said, "I will make all My [d]goodness pass before you, and I will proclaim the name of the LORD before you. [e]I will be gracious to whom I will be [f]gracious, and I will have compassion on whom I will have compassion." 20 But He said, "You cannot see My face; for [g]no man shall see Me, and live." 21 And the LORD said, "Here is a place by Me, and you shall stand on the rock. 22 So it shall be, while My glory passes by, that I will put you [h]in the cleft of the rock, and will [i]cover you with My hand while I pass by. 23 Then I will take away My hand, and you shall see My back; but My face shall [j]not be seen."

Moses Makes New Tablets

34 And the LORD said to Moses, [a]"Cut two tablets of stone like the first ones, and [b]I will write on these tablets the words that were on the first tablets which you broke. 2 So be ready in the morning, and come up in the morning to Mount Sinai, and present yourself to Me there [c]on the top of the mountain. 3 And no man shall [d]come up with you, and let no man be seen throughout all the mountain; let neither flocks nor herds feed before that mountain."

4 So he cut two tablets of stone like the first ones. Then Moses rose early in the morning and went up Mount Sinai, as the LORD had commanded him; and he took in his hand the two tablets of stone.

■ 33:12 Moses said to the LORD. Moses responds to the dismaying threat of vv. 1–3. He could not argue that Israel was not stiff-necked, or that the golden calf was an uncharacteristic aberration. He could only plead God's grace and covenant mercy. He did so by repeatedly asking for precisely what the Lord was threatening to withdraw: the revelation of His own Presence (vv. 13–18). Moses' faithful persistence in intercession was grounded in God's covenant promise of divine-human communion (6:7; 19:5, 6; Gen. 17:7 note), and reminds us of Jacob's persistent struggle with God in quest of divine blessing (Gen. 32:24–30).

whom You will send with me. Moses expresses his objection to the occasional presence of the Angel of the Lord (a mysterious and temporary form of divine manifestation, Gen. 16:7 note; 32:29; Judg. 13:17, 18) acting as a substitute for the immediate presence of God's glory in the midst of the camp (v. 2 note), a relationship epitomized by God's revelation of His covenant Name (3:15 note).

I know you by name. God had declared His electing knowledge of Moses (32:10; 33:11) and would repeat that assurance expressly (v. 17). Because the Lord knew Moses by name personally and intimately, Moses would know the Lord (Num. 12:6–8).

■ 33:13 Your way. Moses would know the Lord Himself and His purposes for Israel.

■ 33:14 Presence. Lit. "face." God Himself would go with Moses.

give you rest. Use of the singular pronoun "you" means that the promise of 3:13–15 for all Israel is now repeated for Moses alone.

■ 33:15 with us. Moses prays for the Presence to go with "us," linking Israel with himself. If God chose not to go with His people by dwelling among them, it would be useless to go to the Promised Land. The goal was not just milk and honey in Canaan, but a holy land where God would dwell with His people.

■ 33:16 separate. Israel's distinctness was grounded in the gracious presence of God Himself.

■ 33:17 found grace in My sight. God includes Israel for Moses' sake; Israel was dependent upon Moses as mediator. Moses' intercession is a type of Christ's work as the new covenant Mediator (cf. Heb. 3; 9:16–22).

■ 33:18 show me Your glory. The Lord had sealed His covenant with Israel by revealing Himself (24:9–11), and Moses now seeks a further revelation of God in His glory. His only hope for God's continuing mercy to Israel lay in God Himself. Tasting God's mercy, Moses yearned for a full disclosure. See "The Transfiguration of Jesus" at Mark 9:2.

■ 33:19 My goodness . . . proclaim the name. Though the visible magnificence of this theophany is apparent from the text, the emphasis falls on a revelation to Moses of God's sovereign, gracious, and compassionate nature (cf. 34:5–7). In Jesus Christ, the glory of the gracious and compassionate God that was withheld even from Moses is displayed to believers through the Spirit (John 1:14; 2 Cor. 3:18).

on whom . . . to whom. The Lord is sovereign in His purposes of mercy (Rom. 9:14–16). See "The Purpose of God: Predestination and Foreknowledge" at Mal. 1:2.

■ 33:22 See "The Glory of God" at Ezek. 1:28.

■ 33:23 My back. The Lord's goodness withheld what Moses could not bear and revealed all that he could bear.

■ 34:1 two tablets of stone. The replacement of the tablets signals the renewal of the covenant (20:1 note).

■ 34:2, 3 The uniqueness of Moses' mediatorial office is emphasized. The encounter of ch. 19 is to be repeated, but this time with Moses only (cf. 19:24; 24:9).

25 [p]Ex. 12:10

5 Now the LORD descended in the [e]cloud and stood with him there, and [f]proclaimed the name of the LORD. 6 And the LORD passed before him and proclaimed, "The LORD, the LORD [g]God, merciful and gracious, longsuffering, and abounding in [h]goodness and [i]truth, 7 [j]keeping mercy for thousands, [k]forgiving iniquity and transgression and sin, [l]by no means clearing the guilty, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children and the children's children to the third and the fourth generation."

8 So Moses made haste and [m]bowed his head toward the earth, and worshiped. 9 Then he said, "If now I have found grace in Your sight, O Lord, [n]let my Lord, I pray, go among us, even though we are a [o]stiff-necked[1] people; and pardon our iniquity and our sin, and take us as [p]Your inheritance."

The Covenant Renewed

10 And He said: "Behold, [q]I make a covenant. Before all your people I will [r]do [2]marvels such as have not been done in all the earth, nor in any nation; and all the people among whom you are shall see the work of the LORD. For it is [s]an awesome thing that I will do with you. 11 [t]Observe what I command you this day. Behold, [u]I am driving out from before you the Amorite and the Canaanite and the Hittite and the Perizzite and the Hivite and the Jebusite. 12 [v]Take heed to yourself, lest you make a covenant with the inhabitants of the land where you are going, lest it be a snare in your midst. 13 But you shall [w]destroy their altars, break their sacred pillars, and [x]cut down their wooden images 14 (for you shall worship [y]no other god, for the LORD, whose [z]name is Jealous, is a [a]jealous God), 15 lest you make a covenant with the inhabitants of the land, and they [b]play the harlot with their gods and make sacrifice to their gods, and one of them [c]invites you and you [d]eat of his sacrifice, 16 and you take of [e]his daughters for your sons, and his daughters [f]play the harlot with their gods and make your sons play the harlot with their gods.

17 [g]"You shall make no molded gods for yourselves.

18 "The Feast of [h]Unleavened Bread you shall keep. Seven days you shall eat unleavened bread, as I commanded you, in the appointed time of the month of Abib; for in the [i]month of Abib you came out from Egypt.

19 [j]"All [3]that open the womb are Mine, and every male firstborn among your livestock, whether ox or sheep. 20 But [k]the firstborn of a donkey you shall redeem with a lamb. And if you will not redeem him, then you shall break his neck. All the firstborn of your sons you shall redeem.

"And none shall appear before Me [l]empty-handed.

21 [m]"Six days you shall work, but on the seventh day you shall rest; in plowing time and in harvest you shall rest.

22 "And you shall observe the Feast of Weeks, of the firstfruits of wheat harvest, and the Feast of Ingathering at the year's end.

23 [n]"Three times in the year all your men shall appear before the Lord, the LORD God of Israel. 24 For I will [o]cast out the nations before you and enlarge your borders; neither will any man covet your land when you go up to appear before the LORD your God three times in the year.

25 "You shall not offer the blood of My sacrifice with leaven, [p]nor shall the sacrifice of the Feast of the Passover be left until morning.

■ 34:5–7 See " 'This Is My Name': God's Self-disclosure" at 3:15.

■ 34:5 the LORD descended. The revelation promised in 33:19–23: Yahweh passed by and proclaimed His name. Moses received an overwhelming answer to his prayer (33:19 note).

■ 34:6, 7 This description of God is foundational for later Israelite piety (Num. 14:18; Neh. 9:17; Ps. 86:15; 103:8; 145:8; Joel 2:13; Jon. 4:2; Nah. 1:3). God's mercy is still proclaimed toward Israel despite her dismal failure (Hos. 11:8).

■ 34:6 abounding in goodness and truth. "Goodness" here translates the Hebrew term (hesed) denoting God's covenant faithfulness and devotion to His people (15:13 note). Because of God's love and faithfulness, He will not abandon His people, but dwell among them in His tabernacle.

■ 34:9 go among us. This is what the Lord said He would not do, because the people were too sinful, too "stiff-necked" (33:3, 5). Now Moses cites their sin as the very reason for the Presence of God. In effect, he is asking that the compassionate and merciful Lord of grace would dwell in His tabernacle among His people, and forgive their sin. Then comes the amazing request: "take us as Your inheritance." Moses does not say "give us our inheritance in the land" (cf. 33:2, 3), but "take us as Your special treasure in Your faithful love" (the thought contained in 19:5).

■ 34:11–16 God warns against apostate practices. The selection of cultic laws points to the area where Israel has sinned or is weak. Singular pronouns are used almost totally throughout, for God is making His covenant with Moses and with Israel through him (v. 27).

■ 34:13 wooden images. Lit. "Asherah poles." These were cultic objects that represented the Canaanite goddess of fertility (Asherah), sacred trees or poles that stood beside the Baal altars (cf. Judg. 6:25). Israel must not be compromised by adopting the pagan practices of peoples in the land.

■ 34:14–16 no other god. The theme continues with allusions to the first (vv. 14–16) and second commandments (v. 17). God has begun at the point of Israel's sin and with the Decalogue that was violated.

■ 34:18–26 This section parallels the laws in the Book of the Covenant (23:14–19).

26 [q]"The first of the firstfruits of your land you shall bring to the house of the LORD your God. You shall not boil a young goat in its mother's milk."

27 Then the LORD said to Moses, "Write [r]these words, for according to the tenor of these words I have made a covenant with you and with Israel." 28 [s]So he was there with the LORD forty days and forty nights; he neither ate bread nor drank water. And [t]He wrote on the tablets the words of the covenant, the [4]Ten Commandments.

The Shining Face of Moses

29 Now it was so, when Moses came down from Mount Sinai (and the [u]two tablets of the Testimony were in Moses' hand when he came down from the mountain), that Moses did not know that [v]the skin of his face shone while he talked with Him. 30 So when Aaron and all the children of Israel saw Moses, behold, the skin of his face shone, and they were afraid to come near him. 31 Then Moses called to them, and Aaron and all the rulers of the congregation returned to him; and Moses talked with them. 32 Afterward all the children of Israel came near, [w]and he gave them as commandments all that the LORD had spoken with him on Mount Sinai. 33 And when Moses had finished speaking with them, he put [x]a veil on his face. 34 But [y]whenever Moses went in before the LORD to speak with Him, he would take the veil off until he came out; and he would come out and speak to the children of Israel whatever he had been commanded. 35 And whenever the children of Israel saw the face of Moses, that the skin of Moses' face shone, then Moses would put the veil on his face again, until he went in to speak with Him.

Sabbath Regulations

35 Then Moses gathered all the congregation of the children of Israel together, and said to them, [a]"These are the words which the LORD has commanded you to do: 2 Work shall be done for [b]six days, but the seventh day shall be a holy day for you, a Sabbath of rest to the LORD. Whoever does any work on it shall be put to [c]death. 3 [d]You shall kindle no fire throughout your dwellings on the Sabbath day."

Offerings for the Tabernacle

4 And Moses spoke to all the congregation of the children of Israel, saying, [e]"This is the thing which the LORD commanded, saying: 5 'Take from among you an offering to the LORD. [f]Whoever is of a willing heart, let him bring it as an offering to the LORD: [g]gold, silver, and bronze; 6 [h]blue, purple, and scarlet thread, fine linen, and [i]goats' hair; 7 ram skins dyed red, badger skins, and acacia wood; 8 oil for the light, [j]and spices for the anointing oil and for the sweet incense; 9 onyx stones, and stones to be set in the ephod and in the breastplate.

■ 34:28 He wrote . . . the words of the covenant. The Lord Himself wrote the Ten Commandments on the tablets (v. 1; 20:1 note).

■ 34:29 shone. Lit. "sent out horns." Although the Hebrew root usually refers to horns, it would seem that rays of light are in view here (cf. Hab. 3:4). Moses' leadership was confirmed by the reflected light of God's glory.

■ 34:30 they were afraid to come near him. The reaction of fear suggests the events of chs. 19; 20. Only when they drew near and conversed without harm were they reassured.

■ 34:33 put a veil on his face. The purpose of the veil was not to calm the anxiety of the people, for Moses put on the veil only after the people had come near and after he had finished declaring the law to the people (vv. 31, 32). Rather, as Paul in 2 Cor. 3:13 makes clear, the veil was to keep the Israelites from seeing that the glory was fading away. According to Paul, this fading glory shows the temporary and inadequate character of the old Mosaic covenant and points to the need for a greater covenant Mediator—Jesus Christ (2 Cor. 3:12—4:6).

■ 35:1–3 The work on the tabernacle starts with an admonition to keep the Sabbath, just as the instructions for the work had concluded with such a reminder (31:12–18).

■ 35:4—39:43 This entire section is based on chs. 25—31 but follows a different order. While chs. 25—31 gave the instructions for the tabernacle, this section describes its construction. Beginning with the reiteration of instructions for the gathering of offerings and artisans (35:4–19), the narrative then moves logically to the gathering of materials and the recognition of artisans (35:20—36:7), the construction of the tabernacle parts and contents (36:8—38:31), the preparation of sacred vestments (39:1–31), the erection of the tabernacle (39:32—40:33), and finally to the climactic arrival of the glory of the Lord in the tabernacle (40:34–38).

The Tabernacle Offerings Presented

20 And all the congregation of the children of Israel departed from the presence of Moses. 21 Then everyone came [w]whose heart [2]was stirred, and everyone whose spirit was willing, and they [x]brought the LORD's offering for the work of the tabernacle of meeting, for all its service, and for the holy garments. 22 They came, both men and women, as many as had a willing heart, and brought [y]earrings and nose rings, rings and necklaces, all [z]jewelry of gold, that is, every man who made an offering of gold to the LORD. 23 And [a]every man, with whom was found blue, purple, and scarlet thread, fine linen, goats' hair, red skins of rams, and [3]badger skins, brought them. 24 Everyone who offered an offering of silver or bronze brought the LORD's offering. And everyone with whom was found acacia wood for any work of the service, brought it. 25 All the women who were [b]gifted artisans spun yarn with their hands, and brought what they had spun, of blue, purple, and scarlet, and fine linen. 26 And all the women whose hearts [4]stirred with wisdom spun yarn of goats' hair. 27 [c]The rulers brought onyx stones, and the stones to be set in the ephod and in the breastplate, 28 and [d]spices and oil for the light, for the anointing oil, and for the sweet incense. 29 The children of Israel brought a [e]freewill offering to the LORD, all the men and women whose hearts were willing to bring material for all kinds of work which the LORD, by the hand of Moses, had commanded to be done.

The Artisans Called by God

30 And Moses said to the children of Israel, "See, [f]the LORD has called by name Bezalel the son of Uri, the son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah; 31 and He has filled him with the Spirit of God, in wisdom and understanding, in knowledge and all manner of workmanship, 32 to design artistic works, to work in gold and silver and bronze, 33 in cutting jewels for setting, in carving wood, and to work in all manner of artistic workmanship.

34 "And He has put in his heart the ability to teach, in him and [g]Aholiab the son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan. 35 He has [h]filled them with skill to do all manner of work of the engraver and the designer and the tapestry maker, in blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine linen, and of the weaver—those who do every work and those who design artistic works.

36 "And Bezalel and Aholiab, and every [a]gifted artisan in whom the LORD has put wisdom and understanding, to know how to do all manner of work for the service of the [b]sanctuary,[1] shall do according to all that the LORD has commanded."

The People Give More than Enough

2 Then Moses called Bezalel and Aholiab, and every gifted artisan in whose heart the LORD had put wisdom, everyone [c]whose heart [2]was stirred, to come and do the work. 3 And they received from Moses all the [d]offering which the children of Israel [e]had brought for the work of the service of making the sanctuary. So they continued bringing to him freewill offerings every morning. 4 Then all the craftsmen who were doing all the work of the sanctuary came, each from the work he was doing, 5 and they spoke to Moses, saying, [f]"The people bring much more than enough for the service of the work which the LORD commanded us to do."

6 So Moses gave a commandment, and they caused it to be proclaimed throughout the camp, saying, "Let neither man nor woman do any more work for the offering of the sanctuary." And the people were restrained from bringing, 7 for the material they had was sufficient for all the work to be done—indeed too [g]much.

Building the Tabernacle

8 [h]Then all the gifted artisans among them who worked on the tabernacle made ten curtains woven of fine linen, and of blue, purple, and scarlet thread; with artistic designs of cherubim they made them. 9 The length of each curtain was twenty-eight cubits, and the width of each curtain four cubits; the curtains were all the same size. 10 And he coupled five curtains to one an-

8 [h]Ex. 26:1–14

■ 35:22 women. Women are mentioned for the first time. Their involvement both in the donation and preparation of the materials was significant (vv. 25, 26, 29).

other, and the other five curtains he coupled to one another. 11 He made loops of blue yarn on the edge of the curtain on the selvedge of one set; likewise he did on the outer edge of the other curtain of the second set. 12 [i]Fifty loops he made on one curtain, and fifty loops he made on the edge of the curtain on the end of the second set; the loops held one curtain to another. 13 And he made fifty clasps of gold, and coupled the curtains to one another with the clasps, that it might be one tabernacle.

14 [j]He made curtains of goats' hair for the tent over the tabernacle; he made eleven curtains. 15 The length of each curtain was thirty cubits, and the width of each curtain four cubits; the eleven curtains were the same size. 16 He coupled five curtains by themselves and six curtains by themselves. 17 And he made fifty loops on the edge of the curtain that is outermost in one set, and fifty loops he made on the edge of the curtain of the second set. 18 He also made fifty bronze clasps to couple the tent together, that it might be one. 19 [k]Then he made a covering for the tent of ram skins dyed red, and a covering of [3]badger skins above that.

20 For the tabernacle [l]he made boards of acacia wood, standing upright. 21 The length of each board was ten cubits, and the width of each board a cubit and a half. 22 Each board had two [4]tenons [m]for binding one to another. Thus he made for all the boards of the tabernacle. 23 And he made boards for the tabernacle, twenty boards for the south side. 24 Forty sockets of silver he made to go under the twenty boards: two sockets under each of the boards for its two tenons. 25 And for the other side of the tabernacle, the north side, he made twenty boards 26 and their forty sockets of silver: two sockets under each of the boards. 27 For the west side of the tabernacle he made six boards. 28 He also made two boards for the two back corners of the tabernacle. 29 And they were coupled at the bottom and [5]coupled together at the top by one ring. Thus he made both of them for the two corners. 30 So there were eight boards and their sockets—sixteen sockets of silver—two sockets under each of the boards.

31 And he made [n]bars of acacia wood: five for the boards on one side of the tabernacle, 32 five bars for the boards on the other side of the tabernacle, and five bars for the boards of the tabernacle on the far side westward. 33 And he made the middle bar to pass through the boards from one end to the other. 34 He overlaid the boards with gold, made their rings of gold to be holders for the bars, and overlaid the bars with gold.

35 And he made [o]a veil of blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine woven linen; it was worked with an artistic design of cherubim. 36 He made for it four pillars of acacia wood, and overlaid them with gold, with their hooks of gold; and he cast four sockets of silver for them.

37 He also made a [p]screen for the tabernacle door, of blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine woven linen, made by a [6]weaver, 38 and its five pillars with their hooks. And he overlaid their capitals and their rings with gold, but their five sockets were bronze.

Making the Ark of the Testimony

37 Then [a]Bezalel made [b]the ark of acacia wood; two and a half cubits was its length, a cubit and a half its width, and a cubit and a half its height. 2 He overlaid it with pure gold inside and outside, and made a molding of gold all around it. 3 And he cast for it four rings of gold to be set in its four corners: two rings on one side, and two rings on the other side of it. 4 He made poles of acacia wood, and overlaid them with gold. 5 And he put the poles into the rings at the sides of the ark, to bear the ark. 6 He also made the [c]mercy seat of pure gold; two and a half cubits was its length and a cubit and a half its width. 7 He made two cherubim of beaten gold; he made them of one piece at the two ends of the mercy seat: 8 one cherub at one end on this side, and the other cherub at the other end on that side. He made the cherubim at the two ends of one piece with the mercy seat. 9 The cherubim spread out their wings above, and covered the [d]mercy seat with their wings. They faced one another; the faces of the cherubim were toward the mercy seat.

Making the Table for the Showbread

10 He made [e]the table of acacia wood; two cubits was its length, a cubit its width, and a cubit and a half its height. 11 And he overlaid it with pure gold, and made a molding of gold all around it. 12 Also he made a frame of a handbreadth all around it, and made a molding of gold for the frame all around it. 13 And he cast for it four rings of gold, and put the rings on the four corners that were at its four legs. 14 The rings were close to the frame, as holders for the poles to bear the table. 15 And he made the poles of acacia wood to bear the table, and overlaid them with gold. 16 He made of pure gold the utensils which were on the table: its [f]dishes, its cups, its bowls, and its pitchers for pouring.

Making the Gold Lampstand

17 He also made the [g]lampstand of pure gold; of hammered work he made the lampstand. Its shaft, its branches, its bowls, its ornamental knobs, and its flowers were of the same piece.
18 And six branches came out of its sides: three branches of the lampstand out of one side, and three branches of the lampstand out of the other side. 19 There were three bowls made like almond blossoms on one branch, with an ornamental knob and a flower, and three bowls made like almond blossoms on the other branch, with an ornamental knob and a flower—and so for the six branches coming out of the lampstand. 20 And on the lampstand itself were four bowls made like almond blossoms, each with its ornamental knob and flower. 21 There was a knob under the first two branches of the same, a knob under the second two branches of the same, and a knob under the third two branches of the same, according to the six branches extending from it.
22 Their knobs and their branches were of one piece; all of it was one hammered piece of pure gold. 23 And he made its seven lamps, its [h]wick-trimmers, and its trays of pure gold. 24 Of a talent of pure gold he made it, with all its utensils.

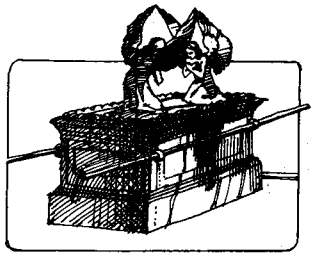
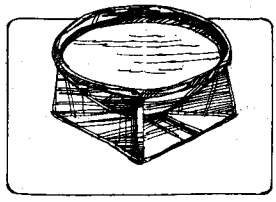
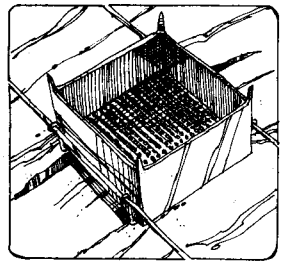
The Furniture of the Tabernacle (37:1)



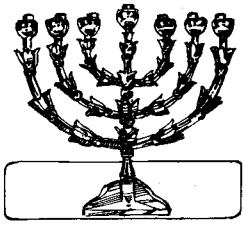
Ark of the Covenant
(Ex. 25:10–22)
The ark was most sacred of all the furniture in the tabernacle. Here the Hebrews kept a copy of the Ten Commandments which summarized the whole covenant.



Bronze Laver
(Ex. 30:17–21)
It was to the laver of bronze that the priests would come for cleansing. They must be pure to enter the presence of God.



Altar of Burnt Offering
(Ex. 27:1–8)
Animal sacrifices were offered on this altar, located in the court in front of the tabernacle. The blood of the sacrifice was sprinkled on the four horns of the altar.



Gold Lampstand
(Ex. 25:31–40)
The gold lampstand stood in the holy place, opposite the table of showbread. It held seven lamps, flat bowls in which a wick lay with one end in the oil of the bowl and the lighted end hanging out.

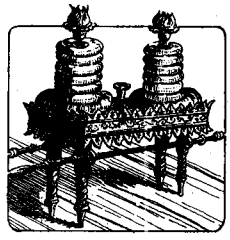


Table of Showbread
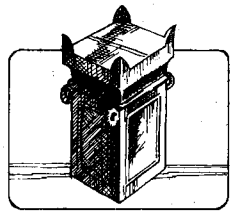
(Ex. 25:23–30)
The table of showbread was a stand on which the offerings were placed. Always in God's presence on the table were the 12 loaves of bread representing the 12 tribes.



Altar of Incense
(Ex. 30:1–10)
The altar of incense inside the tabernacle was much smaller than the altar of burnt offering outside. The incense burned on the altar was a perfume of a sweet-smelling aroma.

...ng the Altar of Incense

25 [i]He made the incense altar of acacia wood. Its length was a cubit and its width a cubit—it was square—and two cubits was its height. Its horns were of one piece with it. 26 And he overlaid it with pure gold: its top, its sides all around, and its horns. He also made for it a molding of gold all around it. 27 He made two rings of gold for it under its molding, by its two corners on both sides, as holders for the poles with which to bear it. 28 And he [j]made the poles of acacia wood, and overlaid them with gold.

Making the Anointing Oil and the Incense

29 He also made [k]the holy anointing oil and the pure incense of sweet spices, according to the work of the perfumer.

Making the Altar of Burnt Offering

38 He made [a]the altar of burnt offering of acacia wood; five cubits was its length and five cubits its width—it was square—and its height was three cubits. 2 He made its horns on its four corners; the horns were of one piece with it. And he overlaid it with bronze. 3 He made all the utensils for the altar: the pans, the shovels, the basins, the forks, and the firepans; all its utensils he made of bronze. 4 And he made a grate of bronze network for the altar, under its rim, midway from the bottom. 5 He cast four rings for the four corners of the bronze grating, as holders for the poles. 6 And he made the poles of acacia wood, and overlaid them with bronze. 7 Then he put the poles into the rings on the sides of the altar, with which to bear it. He made the altar hollow with boards.

Making the Bronze Laver

8 He made [b]the laver of bronze and its base of bronze, from the bronze mirrors of the serving women who assembled at the door of the tabernacle of meeting.

Making the Court of the Tabernacle

9 Then he made [c]the court on the south side; the hangings of the court were of fine woven linen, one hundred cubits long. 10 There were twenty pillars for them, with twenty bronze sockets. The hooks of the pillars and their bands were silver. 11 On the north side the hangings were one hundred cubits long, with twenty pillars and their twenty bronze sockets. The hooks of the pillars and their bands were silver. 12 And on the west side there were hangings of fifty cubits, with ten pillars and their ten sockets. The hooks of the pillars and their bands were silver. 13 For the east side the hangings were fifty cubits. 14 The hangings of one side of the gate were fifteen cubits long, with their three pillars and their three sockets, 15 and the same for the other side of the court gate; on this side and that were hangings of fifteen cubits, with their three pillars and their three sockets. 16 All the hangings of the court all around were of fine woven linen. 17 The sockets for the pillars were bronze, the hooks of the pillars and their bands were silver, and the overlay of their capitals was silver; and all the pillars of the court had bands of silver. 18 The screen for the gate of the court was woven of blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and of fine woven linen. The length was twenty cubits, and the height along its width was five cubits, corresponding to the hangings of the court. 19 And there were four pillars with their four sockets of bronze; their hooks were silver, and the overlay of their capitals and their bands was silver. 20 All the [d]pegs of the tabernacle, and of the court all around, were bronze.

Materials of the Tabernacle

21 [l]This is the inventory of the tabernacle, [e]the tabernacle of the Testimony, which was counted according to the commandment of Moses, for the service of the Levites, [f]by the hand of [g]Ithamar, son of Aaron the priest.

22 [h]Bezalel the son of Uri, the son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah, made all that the LORD had commanded Moses. 23 And with him was [i]Aholiab the son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan, an engraver and [2]designer, a weaver of blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and of fine linen.

24 All the gold that was used in all the work of the holy place, that is, the gold of the [j]offering, was twenty-nine talents and seven hundred and thirty shekels, according to [k]the shekel of the sanctuary. 25 And the silver from those who were [l]numbered of the congregation was one hundred talents and one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary: 26 [m]a bekah for [3]each man (that is, half a shekel, according to the shekel of the sanctuary), for everyone included in the numbering from twenty years old and above, for [n]six hundred and three thousand, five hundred and fifty men. 27 And from the hundred talents of silver were cast [o]the sockets of the sanctuary and the bases of the veil: one hundred sockets from the hundred talents, one talent for each socket. 28 Then from the one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five shekels he made hooks for the pillars, overlaid their capitals, and [p]made bands for them.

29 The offering of bronze was seventy talents and two thousand four hundred shekels. 30 And with it he made the sockets for the door of the tabernacle of meeting, the bronze altar, the bronze grating for it, and all the utensils for the altar, 31 the sockets for the court all around, the bases for the court gate, all the pegs for the tabernacle, and all the pegs for the court all around.

Making the Garments of the Priesthood

39 Of the [a]blue, purple, and scarlet thread they made [b]garments[1] of ministry, for ministering in the [2]holy place, and made the holy garments for Aaron, [c]as the LORD had commanded Moses.

Making the Ephod

2 [d]He made the [e]ephod of gold, blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and of fine woven linen. 3 And they beat the gold into thin sheets and cut it into threads, to work it in with the blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and the fine linen, into artistic designs. 4 They made shoulder straps for it to couple it together; it was coupled together at its two edges. 5 And the intricately woven band of his ephod that was on it was of the same workmanship, woven of gold, blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and of fine woven linen, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

6 [f]And they set onyx stones, enclosed in [3]settings of gold; they were engraved, as signets are engraved, with the names of the sons of Israel. 7 He put them on the shoulders of the ephod as [g]memorial stones for the sons of Israel, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

Making the Breastplate

8 [h]And he made the breastplate, artistically woven like the workmanship of the ephod, of gold, blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and of fine woven linen. 9 They made the breastplate square by doubling it; a span was its length and a span its width when doubled. 10 [i]And they set in it four rows of stones: a row with a sardius, a topaz, and an emerald was the first row; 11 the second row, a turquoise, a sapphire, and a diamond; 12 the third row, a jacinth, an agate, and an amethyst; 13 the fourth row, a beryl, an onyx, and a jasper. They were enclosed in settings of gold in their mountings. 14 There were [j]twelve stones according to the names of the sons of Israel: according to their names, engraved like a signet, each one with its own name according to the twelve tribes. 15 And they made chains for the breastplate at the ends, like braided cords of pure gold. 16 They also made two settings of gold and two gold rings, and put the two rings on the two ends of the breastplate. 17 And they put the two braided chains of gold in the two rings on the ends of the breastplate. 18 The two ends of the two braided chains they fastened in the two settings, and put them on the shoulder straps of the ephod in the front. 19 And they made two rings of gold and put them on the two ends of the breastplate, on the edge of it, which was on the inward side of the ephod. 20 They made two other gold rings and put them on the two shoulder straps, underneath the ephod toward its front, right at the seam above the intricately woven band of the ephod. 21 And they bound the breastplate by means of its rings to the rings of the ephod with a blue cord, so that it would be above the intricately woven band of the ephod, and that the breastplate would not come loose from the ephod, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

Making the Other Priestly Garments

22 [k]He made the [l]robe of the ephod of woven work, all of blue. 23 And there was an opening in the middle of the robe, like the opening in a coat of mail, with a woven binding all around the opening, so that it would not tear. 24 They made on the hem of the robe pomegranates of blue, purple, and scarlet, and of fine woven linen. 25 And they made [m]bells of pure gold, and put the bells between the pomegranates on the hem of the robe all around between the pomegranates: 26 a bell and a pomegranate, a bell and a pomegranate, all around the hem of the robe to [4]minister in, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

27 [n]They made tunics, artistically woven of fine linen, for Aaron and his sons, 28 [o]a turban of fine linen, exquisite hats of fine linen, [p]short trousers of fine woven linen, 29 [q]and a sash of fine woven linen with blue, purple, and scarlet thread, made by a weaver, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

30 [r]Then they made the plate of the holy crown of pure gold, and wrote on it an inscription like the engraving of a signet:

[s]HOLINESS TO THE LORD.

31 And they tied to it a blue cord, to fasten it above on the turban, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

The Work Completed

32 Thus all the work of the tabernacle of the tent of meeting was [t]finished. And the children of Israel did [u]according to all that the LORD had commanded Moses; so they did. 33 And they brought the tabernacle to Moses, the tent and all its furnishings: its clasps, its boards, its bars, its pillars, and its sockets; 34 the covering of ram skins dyed red, the covering of badger skins, and the veil of the covering; 35 the ark of the Testimony with its poles, and the mercy seat; 36 the table, all its utensils, and the [v]showbread; 37 the pure gold lampstand with its lamps (the lamps set in order), all its utensils, and the oil for light; 38 the gold altar, the anointing oil, and the sweet incense; the screen for the tabernacle door; 39 the bronze altar, its grate of bronze, its poles, and all its utensils; the laver with its base; 40 the hangings of the court, its pillars and its sockets, the screen for the court gate, its cords, and its pegs; all the utensils for the service of the tabernacle, for the tent of meeting; 41 and the [5]garments of ministry, to [6]minister in the holy place: the holy garments for Aaron the priest, and his sons' garments, to minister as priests.

42 According to all that the LORD had commanded Moses, so the children of Israel [w]did all the work. 43 Then Moses looked over all the work, and indeed they had done it; as the LORD had commanded, just so they had done it. And Moses [x]blessed them.

The Tabernacle Erected and Arranged

40 Then the LORD [a]spoke to Moses, saying: 2 "On the first day of the [b]first month you shall set up [c]the tabernacle of the tent of meeting. 3 [d]You shall put in it the ark of the Testimony, and [1]partition off the ark with the veil. 4 [e]You shall bring in the table and [f]arrange the things that are to be set in order on it; [g]and you shall bring in the lampstand and [2]light its lamps. 5 [h]You shall also set the altar of gold for the incense before the ark of the Testimony, and put up the screen for the door of the tabernacle. 6 Then you shall set the [i]altar of the burnt offering before the door of the tabernacle of the tent of meeting. 7 And [j]you shall set the laver between the tabernacle of meeting and the altar, and put water in it. 8 You shall set up the court all around, and hang up the screen at the court gate.

9 "And you shall take the anointing oil, and [k]anoint the tabernacle and all that is in it; and you shall hallow it and all its utensils, and it shall be holy. 10 You shall [l]anoint the altar of the burnt offering and all its utensils, and consecrate the altar. [m]The altar shall be most holy. 11 And you shall anoint the laver and its base, and consecrate it.

12 [n]"Then you shall bring Aaron and his sons to the door of the tabernacle of meeting and wash them with water. 13 You shall put the holy [o]garments on Aaron, [p]and anoint him and consecrate him, that he may minister to Me as priest. 14 And you shall bring his sons and clothe them with tunics. 15 You shall anoint them, as you anointed their father, that they may minister to Me as priests; for their anointing shall surely be [q]an everlasting priesthood throughout their generations."

16 Thus Moses did; according to all that the LORD had commanded him, so he did.

17 And it came to pass in the first month of the second year, on the first day of the month, that the [r]tabernacle was [3]raised up. 18 So Moses raised up the tabernacle, fastened its sockets, set up its boards, put in its bars, and raised up its pillars. 19 And he spread out the tent over the tabernacle and put the covering of the tent on top of it, as the LORD had commanded Moses. 20 He took [s]the Testimony and put it into the ark, inserted the poles through the rings of the ark, and put the

■ 39:33 they brought . . . to Moses. The finished components were brought to Moses for inspection. Moses had received the instructions from the Lord (chs. 25—31), and only Moses could determine the fitness of what had been made.

■ 40:1–33 The Lord's detailed instructions to Moses regarding the erection of the tabernacle and the consecration of tabernacle and priests (vv. 1–15) and the subsequent narrative of Moses' obedience (vv. 16–33) emphasize that the tabernacle was completed and its ministry inaugurated in precise obedience to the divine commands.

■ 40:2 set up the tabernacle. The tabernacle is set up about nine months (v. 17; 12:2, 6) after the arrival at Sinai.

22 [u]He put the table in the tabernacle of meeting, on the north side of the tabernacle, outside the veil; 23 [v]and he set the bread in order upon it before the LORD, as the LORD had commanded Moses. 24 [w]He put the lampstand in the tabernacle of meeting, across from the table, on the south side of the tabernacle; 25 and [x]he lit the lamps before the LORD, as the LORD had commanded Moses. 26 [y]He put the gold altar in the tabernacle of meeting in front of the veil; 27 [z]and he burned sweet incense on it, as the LORD had commanded Moses. 28 [a]He hung up the screen at the door of the tabernacle. 29 [b]And he put the altar of burnt offering before the door of the tabernacle of the tent of meeting, and [c]offered upon it the burnt offering and the grain offering, as the LORD had commanded Moses. 30 [d]He set the laver between the tabernacle of meeting and the altar, and put water there for washing; 31 and Moses, Aaron, and his sons would [e]wash their hands and their feet with water from it. 32 Whenever they went into the tabernacle of meeting, and when they came near the altar, they washed, [f]as the LORD had commanded Moses. 33 [g]And he raised up the court all around the tabernacle and the altar, and hung up the screen of the court gate. So Moses [h]finished the work.

■ 40:31 wash their hands and their feet. Following the placement of the laver, Moses and Aaron complied with the law of priestly washing (30:19–21).

■ 40:34–38 The glory of the Lord filling the tabernacle brings the Book of Exodus to a climax. God, who had brought Israel out of Egypt, has made and renewed His covenant with them and made His dwelling in their midst. A careful recapitulation of the primary theme of the book—the reestablishment of God's dwelling with man—is given in vv. 34–38. This passage also indicates that Israel has begun corporate worship. The history of God's guidance to the Promised Land will follow in the remainder of the Pentateuch.

■ 40:36 in all their journeys. Israel's journeys are linked to the guiding Presence. The covenant God dwells among His people at last and will lead the nation to the land He promised them.

The Third Book of Moses Called

LEVITICUS

Author The conclusion that Moses wrote Leviticus derives from the internal character of Leviticus itself and of the Pentateuch as a whole, as well as from Old and New Testament references to Moses as the author of the Pentateuch. For a more complete discussion of issues relating to Mosaic authorship, see "Introduction to the Pentateuch."

Date and Occasion Leviticus everywhere reports the words of God to Moses and his brother Aaron, but it never states when and how these words were written down. The precise date Leviticus was committed to writing remains somewhat uncertain, though it doubtless occurred during the wilderness wandering prior to Moses' death (c. 1406 B.C.). The majority of critical scholars place the writing of Leviticus in the postexilic era (c. the sixth century B.C.), many centuries after Moses. This view is improbable, however, because the content of Leviticus does not fit such a late period: the worship of the second temple differed significantly from that enjoined in Leviticus, and Leviticus is presupposed or quoted by earlier books such as Deuteronomy, Amos, and, most obviously, Ezekiel. Other arguments against the origin of Leviticus in Moses' time are also unconvincing. The book reflects the ideals of worship and holiness that were accepted in Israel from the time of Moses to the fall of Jerusalem in 587/86 B.C.

Characteristics and Themes No book in the Old Testament presents a greater challenge to the modern reader than Leviticus, and imagination is required to picture the ceremonies and rites that form the bulk of the book. However, it is important to try to understand the rituals in Leviticus for two reasons. First, rituals enshrine, express, and teach those values and ideas that a society holds most dear. By analyzing the ceremonies described in Leviticus, we can learn about what was most important to the Old Testament Israelites. Second, these same ideas are foundational for the New Testament writers. Particularly the concepts of sin, sacrifice, and atonement found in Leviticus are used in the New Testament to interpret the death of Christ.

Precisely because the rituals of Leviticus are so central to Old Testament thinking, they are often obscure to us, because the writers did not need to explain them to their contemporaries. Every Israelite knew why a particular sacrifice was offered on a specific occasion and what a certain gesture meant. For ourselves, every hint in the text must be grasped to understand these things, and a judicious reading between the lines is sometimes required.

Leviticus is part of the covenant law given at Sinai. The ideas that inform the whole Sinaitic covenant, including God's sovereign grace in choosing Israel and His moral demands, are also presupposed here. Certain themes are especially prominent in Leviticus. First, God is present with His people. Second, because God is holy, His people must also be holy (11:45). Since man is sinful, he cannot dwell with the holy God. Contact between the sinner and the divine holiness may result in death. Hence, atonement for sin through the offering of sacrifice is of paramount importance. These themes may be elaborated as follows.

1. The Divine Presence. Every act of worship is performed "to the LORD" (e.g., 1:2), who dwells with His people in the tabernacle of meeting. Because God is present in the Most Holy Place, entry is barred to all but the high priest once a year on the Day of Atonement (16:17). Though God's presence is usually invisible, He may manifest His glory on special occasions such as the ordination of the priests (9:23, 24). The greatest of God's gifts is that He deigns to dwell with His people (26:12).

2. Holiness. The aims of Leviticus are summarized in 11:45: "You shall therefore be holy; for I am holy." Man is meant to be like God in his character. That involves imitating God in daily life. The holiness of God involves His being the source of perfect life in its physical, spiritual, and moral dimensions. Animals offered to Him in sacrifice must be free of blemish (1:3), and priests who represent God to man and man to God must be free of physical handicaps (21:17–23). Those who suffer discharges, particularly of blood, or who have disfiguring skin diseases are barred from worship until they are cured (chs. 12—15). Physical health is seen to symbolize the perfection of divine life. But holiness is also an inward matter of attitudes issuing in moral behavior. The theme of holiness is especially emphasized in chs. 17—25, which are chiefly concerned with personal ethical conduct, summed up in 19:18 as "you shall love your neighbor as yourself."

3. Atonement Through Sacrifice. Since man failed to live up to God's righteous requirements, a means of atonement was essential so that both his moral lapses and his physical failings could be pardoned. To this end Leviticus gives the most extensive descriptions of the sacrificial system (chs. 1—7), the role of the priests (chs. 8—10, 21—22), and the great national festivals (chs. 16; 23; 25) found in the Old Testament. These great ceremonies were designed to make possible the coexistence of the holy God with His sinful people.

Through the symbols and rites it describes, Leviticus paints a picture of God's character that is presupposed and deepened in the New Testament. Leviticus teaches that God is the source of perfect life, that He loves His people, and that He desires to dwell among them. In this we see a foreshadowing of the Incarnation, when "the Word became flesh and dwelt among us" (John 1:14). Leviticus also shows clearly man's sinfulness: no sooner are Aaron's sons ordained than they profane their office and die in a fearful display of divine judgment (ch. 10). Those suffering from skin disease or bodily discharge, as well as those guilty of grave moral sins, are barred from worship because their imperfections are incompatible with a holy and perfect God (chs. 12—15). The symbols of Leviticus teach the universality of human sin, a doctrine endorsed by Jesus (Mark 7:21–23) and Paul (Rom. 3:23). Caught between divine holiness and human sinfulness, man's paramount need is for atonement. It is here that Leviticus has the most to teach the Christian, for its ideas are taken up and developed by the New Testament in describing the atoning work of Christ. He is the perfect sacrificial Lamb, who takes away the sin of the world (John 1:29). His death is the ransom for many (Mark 10:45). His blood cleanses us from all sin (1 John 1:7). Above all, Jesus is the perfect High Priest who enters not the earthly tabernacle once a year on the Day of Atonement (ch. 16), but has ascended to the heavenly tabernacle forever, because He has not offered merely a goat for the sins of His people, but His own life (Heb. 9; 10). The rending of the temple veil when Jesus was crucified was a visible demonstration that His death opened up the way to God for all believers (Matt. 27:51; Heb. 10:19, 20). Furthermore, Leviticus restricts salvation to the old covenant community of Israel. The food laws (ch. 11) and the prohibitions on mixtures (19:19) reminded Jews of their unique status. But the New Testament opens the kingdom to all nations and abrogates the food laws (Mark 7:14–23; Acts 10), while at the same time insisting on the separation of the church from the world (John 17:16; 2 Cor. 6:14—7:1). And while the Old Testament sufferer had to wait for God to heal him (ch. 14), in the Gospels God in Christ drew near and healed both lepers and those with discharges (Luke 8:43–48; 17:12–19). The God of Leviticus, whose essential character is shown to be holy life, is shown in the Gospels to be present in Christ and His redemptive work.

Leviticus, the Latin form of the Greek title of the book, means "about Levites." The Levites were the tribe of Israel from which the priests were drawn; they were responsible for maintaining Israel's worship facilities and practices. The title is apt, because the book is primarily about worship and fitness for worship. However it is not addressed solely to priests or Levites, but also to lay Israelites, telling them how to offer sacrifices and to enter the presence of God in worship. Leviticus speaks to humanity in every age, reminding us of the depth of our sin, but also pointing us to the sacrifice of Him whose blood is far more effective than the blood of bulls and goats. □

The Burnt Offering

CHAPTER 1

NOW the LORD [a]called to Moses, and spoke to him [b]from the tabernacle of meeting, saying,
2 "Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: [c]'When any one of you brings an offering to the LORD, you shall bring your offering of the livestock—of the herd and of the flock.
3 'If his offering is a burnt sacrifice of the herd, let him offer a male [d]without blemish; he shall offer it of his own free will at the door of the tabernacle of meeting before the LORD. 4 [e]Then he shall put his hand on the head of the burnt offering, and it will be [f]accepted on his behalf [g]to make atonement for him. 5 He shall kill the [h]bull before the LORD; [i]and the priests, Aaron's sons, shall bring the blood [j]and sprinkle the blood all around on the altar that is by the door of the tabernacle of meeting. 6 And he shall [k]skin the burnt offering and cut it into its pieces. 7 The sons

■ 1:1–2 Moses begins this manual on worship at the tabernacle by recording the laws of sacrifice. The laws are subdivided into sections addressed to the laity (1:1—6:7) and to the priests (6:8—7:38). Sacrifice in Israel involved the offering of selected domestic animals, grain, oil, and wine. All these products symbolized the worshiping Israelite, who, through the act of sacrifice, was giving himself back to God in some way. In every animal offering the worshiper placed his hand on the victim's head, thereby identifying himself with the animal, saying in effect, "This animal represents me." The animal sacrifices involved the animal's death, and so the sacrifices had atoning symbolism: the animal dying in the sinful worshiper's place represented redemption from the death he deserved. There is then a common core of meaning and significance shared by all the sacrifices. But each sacrifice also had its own distinctive ritual features and religious emphases. This is indicated by the different names of the sacrifices, which sometimes highlight the ritual distinctiveness ("burnt offering,") and sometimes the theologically distinctive feature ("peace offering, trespass offering").

Although the Lord, in response to Moses' intercession (Ex. 32), had rescinded His verdict to judge the people for their idolatrous worship of the golden calf, the removal of their sin remained an unresolved problem. These sacrifices provided an atonement for them and for Aaron, their priest, who led them into that sin (ch. 9). In contrast to Aaron, Jesus Christ, the High Priest of the new Israel, is without sin and never tempts His people to sin (Heb. 9:6–15).

■ 1:1 tabernacle of meeting. The tent shrine or tabernacle described in Ex. 26.

■ 1:2 you shall bring. Israel must obey this manual of instruction on how to be fit to live in the presence of God. God, not humans, prescribes the way His people must live with Him.

of the livestock. Only unblemished (v. 3) domesticated animals could be offered. Wild animals, which cost nothing, could not be offered.

■ 1:3–17 The burnt offering begins the list of sacrifices because it was the sacrifice offered most frequently. Its distinctive feature was that the whole animal, except for the skin, was burned on the altar. This symbolized the total consecration of the worshiper to God's service, and served to cover the sins of the worshiper (v. 4 and note). The regulations begin by specifying the most expensive kind of animal that could be offered, the bull (vv. 2–9), and end with the cheapest, the young pigeon (vv. 14–17).

■ 1:3 he shall offer it. The layman offering the sacrifice (vv. 4–6, 9) was to kill, skin, cut up, and wash the animal, whereas the priest brings it to God by putting the blood and flesh on the altar.

door of the tabernacle. The screened-off courtyard surrounding the tabernacle of meeting. The great altar and a laver for washing the sacrifices stood in the courtyard (v. 9).

■ 1:4 make atonement. Lit. "to cover over." The death of the animal in place of the sinner "covers over" or shields the worshiper from the holy wrath of God.

of Aaron the priest shall put [l]fire on the altar, and [m]lay the wood in order on the fire. 8 Then the priests, Aaron's sons, shall lay the parts, the head, and the fat in order on the wood that is on the fire upon the altar; 9 but he shall wash its entrails and its legs with water. And the priest shall burn all on the altar as a burnt sacrifice, an offering made by fire, a [n]sweet[1] aroma to the LORD.

10 'If his offering is of the flocks—of the sheep or of the goats—as a burnt sacrifice, he shall bring a male [o]without blemish. 11 [p]He shall kill it on the north side of the altar before the LORD; and the priests, Aaron's sons, shall sprinkle its blood all around on the altar. 12 And he shall cut it into its pieces, with its head and its fat; and the priest shall lay them in order on the wood that is on the fire upon the altar; 13 but he shall wash the entrails and the legs with water. Then the priest shall bring it all and burn it on the altar; it is a burnt sacrifice, an [q]offering made by fire, a sweet aroma to the LORD.

14 'And if the burnt sacrifice of his offering to the LORD is of birds, then he shall bring his offering of [r]turtledoves or young pigeons. 15 The priest shall bring it to the altar, [2]wring off its head, and burn it on the altar; its blood shall be drained out at the side of the altar. 16 And he shall remove its crop with its feathers and cast it [s]beside the altar on the east side, into the place for ashes. 17 Then he shall split it at its wings, but [t]shall not divide it completely; and the priest shall burn it on the altar, on the wood that is on the fire. [u]It is a burnt sacrifice, an offering made by fire, a [3]sweet aroma to the LORD.

The Grain Offering

2 'When anyone offers [a]a grain offering to the LORD, his offering shall be of fine flour. And he shall pour oil on it, and put [b]frankincense on it. 2 He shall bring it to Aaron's sons, the priests, one of whom shall take from it his handful of fine flour and oil with all the frankincense. And the priest shall burn [c]it as a memorial on the altar, an offering made by fire, a sweet aroma to the LORD. 3 [d]The rest of the grain offering shall be Aaron's and his [e]sons'. [f]It is most holy of the offerings to the LORD made by fire.

4 'And if you bring as an offering a grain offering baked in the oven, it shall be unleavened cakes of fine flour mixed with oil, or unleavened wafers [g]anointed[1] with oil. 5 But if your offering is a grain offering baked in a [2]pan, it shall be of fine flour, unleavened, mixed with oil. 6 You shall break it in pieces and pour oil on it; it is a grain offering.

7 'If your offering is a grain offering baked in a [h]covered pan, it shall be made of fine flour with oil. 8 You shall bring the grain offering that is made of these things to the LORD. And when it is presented to the priest, he shall bring it to the altar. 9 Then the priest shall take from the grain offering [i]a memorial portion, and burn it on the altar. It is an [j]offering made by fire, a sweet aroma to the LORD. 10 And [k]what is left of the grain offering shall be Aaron's and his sons'. It is most holy of the offerings to the LORD made by fire.

11 'No grain offering which you bring to the LORD shall be made with [l]leaven, for you shall burn no leaven nor any honey in any offering to the LORD made by fire. 12 [m]As for the offering of the firstfruits, you shall offer them to the LORD, but they shall not be burned on the altar for a sweet aroma. 13 And every offering of your grain offering [n]you shall season with salt; you shall not allow [o]the salt of the covenant of your God to be lacking from your grain offering. [p]With all your offerings you shall offer salt.

14 'If you offer a grain offering of your firstfruits to the LORD, [q]you shall offer for the grain offering of your firstfruits green heads of grain roasted on the fire, grain beaten from [r]full heads. 15 And [s]you shall put oil on it, and lay frankincense on it. It is a grain offering. 16 Then the priest shall burn [t]the memorial portion: part of its beaten grain and part of its oil, with all the frankincense, as an offering made by fire to the LORD.

■ 1:9 sweet aroma to the LORD. The meaning of this phrase is seen most clearly in Gen. 8:21. Sacrifices averted God's anger, causing Him to look benevolently on the worshiper. The New Testament speaks of the death of Christ in similar language (Eph. 5:2).

■ 1:10–13 Sheep and goats were sacrificed in the same way as bulls vv. 3–9.

■ 1:14–17 A simpler procedure was prescribed for doves or pigeons, the offering of the poor. The priest carried out the whole ceremony.

■ 2:1 grain offering. Usually offered in conjunction with an animal sacrifice, it consisted of wheat flour mixed with olive oil, incense, and salt. The mixture was baked, fried, or cooked. Like the other sacrifices, the grain offering symbolized the worshiper's dedication of himself to God.

■ 2:2 memorial. Only a handful of the grain offering was burned; the rest went to the priest (v. 3). Such offerings constituted an important part of a priest's income.

■ 2:11 leaven nor any honey. Possibly omitted because they cause fermentation, which suggests corruption.

■ 2:13 salt. Probably because it is indestructible by fire, salt symbolizes the enduring covenant between God and Israel (Num. 18:19 note).

■ 2:14 firstfruits. See 23:9–14; Deut. 26:1–11. The Israelite was expected to give the first of his harvest to God, and on this occasion the grain offering was prepared differently.

The Peace Offering

3 'When his offering is a [a]sacrifice of a peace offering, if he offers it of the herd, whether male or female, he shall offer it [b]without [f]blemish before the LORD. 2 And [c]he shall lay his hand on the head of his offering, and kill it at the door of the tabernacle of meeting; and Aaron's sons, the priests, shall [d]sprinkle the blood all around on the altar. 3 Then he shall offer from the sacrifice of the peace offering an offering made by fire to the LORD. [e]The fat that covers the entrails and all the fat that is on the entrails, 4 the two kidneys and the fat that is on them by the flanks, and the fatty lobe attached to the liver above the kidneys, he shall remove; 5 and Aaron's sons [f]shall burn it on the altar upon the [g]burnt sacrifice, which is on the wood that is on the fire, as an [h]offering made by fire, a [i]sweet aroma to the LORD.

6 'If his offering as a sacrifice of a peace offering to the LORD is of the flock, whether male or female, [j]he shall offer it without blemish. 7 If he offers a [k]lamb as his offering, then he shall [l]offer it [m]before the LORD. 8 And he shall lay his hand on the head of his offering, and kill it before the tabernacle of meeting; and Aaron's sons shall sprinkle its blood all around on the altar.

9 'Then he shall offer from the sacrifice of the peace offering, as an offering made by fire to the LORD, its fat and the whole fat tail which he shall remove close to the backbone. And the fat that covers the entrails and all the fat that is on the entrails, 10 the two kidneys and the fat that is on them by the flanks, and the fatty lobe attached to the liver above the kidneys, he shall remove; 11 and the priest shall burn them on the altar as [n]food, an offering made by fire to the LORD.

12 'And if his [o]offering is a goat, then [p]he shall offer it before the LORD. 13 He shall lay his hand on its head and kill it before the tabernacle of meeting; and the sons of Aaron shall sprinkle its blood all around on the altar. 14 Then he shall offer from it his offering, as an offering made by fire to the LORD. The fat that covers the entrails and all the fat that is on the entrails, 15 the two kidneys and the fat that is on them by the flanks, and the fatty lobe attached to the liver above the kidneys, he shall remove; 16 and the priest shall burn them on the altar as food, an offering made by fire for a sweet aroma; [q]all the fat is the LORD's.

17 'This shall be a [r]perpetual[2] statute throughout your generations in all your dwellings: you shall eat neither fat nor [s]blood.' "

The Sin Offering

4 Now the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 2 "Speak to the children of Israel, saying: [a]'If a person sins [t]unintentionally against any of the commandments of the LORD in anything which ought not to be done, and does any of them, 3 [b]if the anointed priest sins, bringing guilt on the people, then let him offer to the LORD for his sin which he has sinned [c]a young bull without blemish as a [d]sin offering. 4 He shall bring the bull [e]to the door of the tabernacle of meeting

■ 3:1 peace offering. Also called the "fellowship" or "covenant" offering. The Hebrew term used is related to the word shalom, meaning "peace, well-being." This sacrifice was unique in that the worshiper and his family could eat much of the meat, only a part being given to the priests or burned on the altar. It was a sacrifice brought when someone was seeking God's blessing or celebrating blessings received. It was offered to underline a solemn prayer (such as a vow), or when such a prayer was answered, or out of simple gratitude (7:16). Eating meat was a rare luxury in ancient times and was usually something of a celebration. Moses prescribed that every animal killed for food must be offered in sacrifice first (17:3 note), so at least during the wilderness period every meal involving meat was preceded by a peace offering.

■ 3:3, 4 The choicest parts of the carcass were symbolically given to God by being burned. The kidneys symbolized the seat of the emotions (Jer. 17:10 text note).

■ 3:11 as food. The Old Testament insists that God supplies man with food, not vice versa (Gen. 1:29; Ps. 50:12–14). Therefore this comment must be understood figuratively, that God is pleased with the sacrifice offered in faith (cf. Heb. 11:4), just as human beings enjoy food.

■ 3:17 neither fat nor blood. Fat from sacrificial animals belonged to God (v. 3). Eating blood means eating meat from which the blood has not been drained (1 Sam. 14:33). The theological reason for this ban is given in 17:11 (Gen. 9:4 and note).

■ 4:1—5:13 With the words "If a person sins" (4:2), Moses introduces his instruction to the laity regarding the sin offering. While all sacrifices make atonement for sin to some extent, atonement is the dominant concern of the sin offering. Sin and uncleanness make a person unfit to be in God's presence and also pollute the sanctuary, making it impossible for God to dwell there. The sin offering is designed to cope with this aspect of sin by purifying both the sinner and the sanctuary. The distinctive feature of the sin offering is the use to which the sacrificial blood is put. In other sacrifices the animal's blood is splashed over the side of the altar, but in the case of the sin offering it could be applied to the horned corners of the altar, or sprinkled inside the tabernacle tent (on the incense altar or veil), or even inside the Most Holy Place. Because the tabernacle and its furniture were closely associated with the people who met God there (Heb. 9:22 note), the people's sin defiled the tabernacle as well as themselves. Such pollution required cleansing.

■ 4:2–35 These verses deal with four cases where persons of various ranks do something sinful "unintentionally" (v. 2 text note): the high priest (vv. 3–12), the congregation (vv. 13–21), a ruler (vv. 22–26), a common person (vv. 27–35).

■ 4:3 anointed priest. The high priest. His sin has the direct consequence of "bringing guilt on the people" and requires the most expensive atonement, a bull.

let him offer. The sin and guilt offerings were compulsory after committing certain sins, whereas the other offerings could sometimes be offered voluntarily when the worshiper felt so inclined.

before the LORD, lay his hand on the bull's head, and kill the bull before the LORD. 5 Then the anointed priest [f]shall take some of the bull's blood and bring it to the tabernacle of meeting. 6 The priest shall dip his finger in the blood and sprinkle some of the blood seven times before the LORD, in front of the [g]veil of the sanctuary. 7 And the priest shall [h]put some of the blood on the horns of the altar of sweet incense before the LORD, which is in the tabernacle of meeting; and he shall pour [i]the remaining blood of the bull at the base of the altar of the burnt offering, which is at the door of the tabernacle of meeting. 8 He shall take from it all the fat of the bull as the sin offering. The fat that covers the entrails and all the fat which is on the entrails, 9 the two kidneys and the fat that is on them by the flanks, and the fatty lobe attached to the liver above the kidneys, he shall remove, 10 [j]as it was taken from the bull of the sacrifice of the peace offering; and the priest shall burn them on the altar of the burnt offering. 11 [k]But the bull's hide and all its flesh, with its head and legs, its entrails and offal— 12 the whole bull he shall carry outside the camp to a clean place, [l]where the ashes are poured out, and [m]burn it on wood with fire; where the ashes are poured out it shall be burned.

13 'Now [n]if the whole congregation of Israel sins unintentionally, [o]and the thing is hidden from the eyes of the assembly, and they have done something against any of the commandments of the LORD in anything which should not be done, and are guilty; 14 when the sin which they have committed becomes known, then the assembly shall offer a young bull for the sin, and bring it before the tabernacle of meeting. 15 And the elders of the congregation [p]shall lay their hands on the head of the bull before the LORD. Then the bull shall be killed before the LORD. 16 [q]The anointed priest shall bring some of the bull's blood to the tabernacle of meeting. 17 Then the priest shall dip his finger in the blood and sprinkle it seven times before the LORD, in front of the veil. 18 And he shall put some of the blood on the horns of the altar which is before the LORD, which is in the tabernacle of meeting; and he shall pour the remaining blood at the base of the altar of burnt offering, which is at the door of the tabernacle of meeting. 19 He shall take all the fat from it and burn it on the altar. 20 And he shall do [r]with the bull as he did with the bull as a sin offering; thus he shall do with it. [s]So the priest shall make [2]atonement for them, and it shall be forgiven them. 21 Then he shall carry the bull outside the camp, and burn it as he burned the first bull. It is a sin offering for the assembly.

22 'When a [3]ruler has sinned, and [t]done something unintentionally against any of the commandments of the LORD his God in anything which should not be done, and is guilty, 23 or [u]if his sin which he has committed [4]comes to his knowledge, he shall bring as his offering a kid of the goats, a male without blemish. 24 And [v]he shall lay his hand on the head of the goat, and kill it at the place where they kill the burnt offering before the LORD. It is a sin offering. 25 [w]The priest shall take some of the blood of the sin offering with his finger, put it on the horns of the altar of burnt offering, and pour its blood at the base of the altar of burnt offering. 26 And he shall burn all its fat on the altar, like [x]the fat of the sacrifice of the peace offering. [y]So the priest shall make [5]atonement for him concerning his sin, and it shall be forgiven him.

27 [z]'If [6]anyone of the [7]common people sins unintentionally by doing something against any of the commandments of the LORD in anything which ought not to be done, and is guilty, 28 or [a]if his sin which he has committed comes to his knowledge, then he shall bring as his offering a kid of the goats, a female without blemish, for his sin which he has committed. 29 [b]And he shall lay his hand on the head of the sin offering, and kill the sin offering at the place of the burnt offering. 30 Then the priest shall take some of its blood with his finger, put it on the horns of the altar of burnt offering, and pour all the remaining blood at the base of the altar. 31 [c]He shall remove all its fat, [d]as fat is removed from the sacrifice of the peace offering; and the priest shall burn it on the altar for a [e]sweet aroma to the LORD. [f]So the priest shall make atonement for him, and it shall be forgiven him.

■ 4:6 The serious effects of high priestly sin are shown by the need to purify "the veil of the sanctuary" (the veil separating the Most Holy Place from the Holy Place, Ex. 26:31–35).

■ 4:7 the altar of sweet incense. This piece of sacred furniture stood in front of the curtain leading into the Most Holy Place. It was cleansed by sprinkling with blood, the holy cleansing agent, making it possible for God to dwell in the tent. At the same time the high priest, who personified the nation, was cleansed.

■ 4:12 outside the camp. See Heb. 13:11–13 and notes.

a clean place. Many places outside the camp contained impurity that would make the priest unfit to officiate in worship. He was to avoid these, and put the ashes left from the burnt offering in a designated clean place, where the remainder of the sacrificial bull was burned.

■ 4:13–21 For sin involving the congregation as a whole, a procedure like that in vv. 3–12 is prescribed, with the community elders representing the people at the altar (v. 15).

■ 4:22–26 A sin by a leader of a tribe or clan was not as serious a threat to the nation's holiness as the first two cases (vv. 3–21). This is reflected in that he was required to offer only a male goat (v. 23), whose blood was applied, not within the tent but outside, to the altar of burnt offering (v. 25).

■ 4:27–35 Unintentional sins by ordinary Israelites were treated similarly to those of leaders. However they could offer a female goat instead of a male goat, and if they were poor, birds or grain (5:7–13).

32 'If he brings a lamb as his sin offering, [g]he shall bring a female without blemish. 33 Then he shall [h]lay his hand on the head of the sin offering, and kill it as a sin offering at the place where they kill the burnt offering. 34 The priest shall take some of the blood of the sin offering with his finger, put it on the horns of the altar of burnt offering, and pour all the remaining blood at the base of the altar. 35 He shall remove all its fat, as the fat of the lamb is removed from the sacrifice of the peace offering. Then the priest shall burn it on the altar, [i]according to the offerings made by fire to the LORD. [j]So the priest shall make atonement for his sin that he has committed, and it shall be forgiven him.

The Trespass Offering

5 'If a person sins in [a]hearing the utterance of an oath, and is a witness, whether he has seen or known of the matter—if he does not tell it, he [b]bears [1]guilt.

2 'Or [c]if a person touches any unclean thing, whether it is the carcass of an unclean beast, or the carcass of unclean livestock, or the carcass of unclean creeping things, and he is unaware of it, he also shall be unclean and [d]guilty. 3 Or if he touches [e]human uncleanness—whatever uncleanness with which a man may be defiled, and he is unaware of it—when he realizes it, then he shall be guilty.

4 'Or if a person [2]swears, speaking thoughtlessly with his lips [f]to do evil or [g]to do good, whatever it is that a man may pronounce by an oath, and he is unaware of it—when he realizes it, then he shall be guilty in any of these matters.

5 'And it shall be, when he is guilty in any of these matters, that he shall [h]confess that he has sinned in that thing; 6 and he shall bring his trespass offering to the LORD for his sin which he has committed, a female from the flock, a lamb or a kid of the goats as a sin offering. So the priest shall make atonement for him concerning his sin.

7 [i]'If he is not able to bring a lamb, then he shall bring to the LORD, for his trespass which he has committed, two [j]turtledoves or two young pigeons: one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering. 8 And he shall bring them to the priest, who shall offer that which is for the sin offering first, and [k]wring off its head from its neck, but shall not divide it [3]completely. 9 Then he shall sprinkle some of the blood of the sin offering on the side of the altar, and the [l]rest of the blood shall be drained out at the base of the altar. It is a sin offering. 10 And he shall offer the second as a burnt offering according to the [m]prescribed manner. So [n]the priest shall make atonement on his behalf for his sin which he has committed, and it shall be forgiven him.

11 'But if he is [o]not able to bring two turtledoves or two young pigeons, then he who sinned shall bring for his offering one-tenth of an ephah of fine flour as a sin offering. [p]He shall put no oil on it, nor shall he put frankincense on it, for it is a sin offering. 12 Then he shall bring it to the priest, and the priest shall take his handful of it [q]as a memorial portion, and burn it on the altar [r]according to the offerings made by fire to the LORD. It is a sin offering. 13 [s]The priest shall make atonement for him, [4]for his sin that he has committed in any of these matters; and it shall be forgiven him. [t]The rest shall be the priest's as a grain offering.' "

Offerings with Restitution

14 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 15 [u]"If a person commits a trespass, and sins unintentionally in regard to the holy things of the LORD, then [v]he shall bring to the LORD as his trespass offering a ram without blemish from the flocks, with your valuation in shekels of silver according to [w]the shekel of the sanctuary, as a trespass offering. 16 And he shall make restitution

■ 5:1–13 It is debated whether this section belongs with what precedes (the sin offering, ch. 4) or with what follows (the trespass offering, 5:14—6:7). Because of the similarity of 4:1 and 5:14, and the occurrence of the Hebrew term for "sin offering" throughout 4:1—5:13, many argue that the description of the trespass offering begins at 5:14. Alternatively, the occurrence of the Hebrew word 'asham (meaning "trespass," or "trespass offering") in 5:6, 7 has led some to conclude that the discussion of the trespass offering begins in 5:1.

■ 5:1–6 These verses treat sins of omission, inadvertence, or rashness. The cases in view are (a) the sin of withholding evidence (v. 1); (b) the sin of contact with anything unclean (vv. 2, 3); and (c) the sin of careless oath-taking (v. 4).

■ 5:2 unclean. See note on chs. 11—16.

■ 5:5 These sins require confession to God in the presence of a priest and a sin offering for the forgiveness of the sinner (cf. 1 John 1:7, 9).

■ 5:7–10 The poor man's sin offering is like the humblest burnt offering (1:14–17), except for the sprinkling of the blood (5:9; cf. 1:15).

■ 5:10 See "The Atonement" at Rom. 3:25.

■ 5:11–13 The items brought here as sin offerings resemble those of the grain offering of ch. 2, but no oil or incense is included.

■ 5:14—6:7 Moses gives instructions to the laity regarding the trespass offering. While the focus of the sin offering was upon the purification of the sinner, the trespass offering was concerned with restitution or reparation. Three types of sins requiring trespass offerings are mentioned: misuse of "the holy things of the LORD" (5:15, 16), supposed sin involving things "forbidden" (5:17–19), and trespass against a neighbor's rights and property (6:2–7).

■ 5:16 holy thing. A reference to tithes and offerings, as well as property dedicated to God (22:7, 10, 14; 27:28).

add one-fifth. In cases where a trespass offering was required, misappropriated property also had to be restored plus a fifth (cf. 6:5).

for the harm that he has done in regard to the holy thing, [x]and shall add one-fifth to it and give it to the priest. [y]So the priest shall make atonement for him with the ram of the trespass offering, and it shall be forgiven him.

17 "If a person sins, and commits any of these things which are forbidden to be done by the commandments of the LORD, [z]though he does not know it, yet he is [a]guilty and shall bear his [5]iniquity. 18 [b]And he shall bring to the priest a ram without blemish from the flock, with your valuation, as a trespass offering. So the priest shall make atonement for him regarding his ignorance in which he erred and did not know it, and it shall be forgiven him. 19 It is a trespass offering; [c]he has certainly trespassed against the LORD."

6 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 2 "If a person sins and [a]commits a trespass against the LORD by [b]lying[1] to his neighbor about [c]what was delivered to him for safekeeping, or about [2]a pledge, or about a robbery, or if he has [d]extorted from his neighbor, 3 or if he [e]has found what was lost and lies concerning it, and [f]swears falsely—in any one of these things that a man may do in which he sins: 4 then it shall be, because he has sinned and is guilty, that he shall [3]restore [g]what he has stolen, or the thing which he has extorted, or what was delivered to him for safekeeping, or the lost thing which he found, 5 or all that about which he has sworn falsely. He shall [h]restore its full value, add one-fifth more to it, and give it to whomever it belongs, on the day of his trespass offering. 6 And he shall bring his trespass offering to the LORD, [i]a ram without blemish from the flock, with your [4]valuation, as a trespass offering, to the priest. 7 [j]So the priest shall make atonement for him before the LORD, and he shall be forgiven for any one of these things that he may have done in which he trespasses."

The Law of the Burnt Offering

8 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 9 "Command Aaron and his sons, saying, 'This is the [k]law of the burnt offering: The burnt offering shall be on the hearth upon the altar all night until morning, and the fire of the altar shall be kept burning on it. 10 [l]And the priest shall put on his linen garment, and his linen trousers he shall put on his body, and take up the ashes of the burnt offering which the fire has consumed on the altar, and he shall put them [m]beside the altar. 11 Then [n]he shall take off his garments, put on other garments, and carry the ashes outside the camp [o]to a clean place. 12 And the fire on the altar shall be kept burning on it; it shall not be put out. And the priest shall burn wood on it every morning, and lay the burnt offering in order on it; and he shall burn on it [p]the fat of the peace offerings. 13 A fire shall always be burning on the [q]altar; it shall never go out.

The Law of the Grain Offering

14 'This is the law of the grain offering: The sons of Aaron shall offer it on the altar before the LORD. 15 He shall take from it his handful of the fine flour of the grain offering, with its oil, and all the frankincense which is on the grain offering, and shall burn it on the altar for a sweet aroma, as a memorial to the LORD. 16 And the remainder of it Aaron and his sons shall eat; with unleavened bread it shall be eaten in a holy place; in the court of the tabernacle of meeting they shall eat it. 17 It shall not be baked with leaven. I have given it as their [5]portion of My offerings made by fire; it is most holy, like the sin offering and the [r]trespass offering. 18 [s]All the males among the children of Aaron may eat it. [t]It shall be a statute forever in your generations concerning the offerings made by fire to the LORD. [u]Everyone who touches them must be holy.' "

19 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 20 [v]"This is the offering of Aaron and his sons, which they shall offer to the LORD, beginning on the day when he is anointed: one-tenth of an

20 [v]Ex. 29:2

■ 5:17–19 As the phrase "though he does not know it" (v. 17) indicates, these verses concern the person who suspects he has transgressed against divine law or another person but is not sure. Sacrificial remedy is provided for those with an uneasy conscience. In this instance, there is no demand for reparation because the nature of the offense is uncertain.

■ 6:1–7 Trespasses against a neighbor require restoration of the loss plus "one-fifth more" (v. 5), and the offering of sacrifice to God (cf. Matt. 5:24).

■ 6:8—7:36 Having addressed the laity concerning the laws of sacrifice, Moses now addresses the priests, especially about their entitlement to a share in the sacrifices.

■ 6:9 burnt offering. See note on 1:3–17. Christ, the High Priest of the new covenant, offered the final burnt offering in His body: He was wholly consecrated to God, suffering death for sin and bringing about the believer's death to sin (Rom. 6:2–7).

■ 6:10 linen garment. Being white, this apparel probably symbolized purity. These garments were to cover their private parts (Ex. 20:26; 28:42 note; cf. Gen. 3:7, 21).

■ 6:12 fire . . . shall be kept burning. This action was perhaps prescribed as a reminder of God's continual presence and the people's need for continual atonement. The first burnt offering at the tabernacle was consumed by fire from God Himself (9:24).

■ 6:14 grain offering. See ch. 2. As the grain offering represented the fruits of obedience, it foreshadowed Christ's life of perfect obedience and thanksgiving to God.

■ 6:18 must be holy. Or, "shall become holy." This is a warning to laity not to touch food consecrated to God in sacrifice. Contact with the sacred food would render a person ritually holy (v. 27 text note; Ex. 29:37). Those who incurred such holiness probably were temporarily placed under restrictions like those governing the activity of priests (21:1–8).

[w]ephah of fine flour as a daily grain offering, half of it in the morning and half of it at night. 21 It shall be made in a [x]pan with oil. When it is mixed, you shall bring it in. The baked pieces of the grain offering you shall offer for a [6]sweet aroma to the LORD. 22 The priest from among his sons, [y]who is anointed in his place, shall offer it. It is a statute forever to the LORD. [z]It shall be [7]wholly burned. 23 For every grain offering for the priest shall be wholly burned. It shall not be eaten."

The Law of the Sin Offering

24 Also the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 25 "Speak to Aaron and to his sons, saying, 'This is the law of the sin offering: [a]In the place where the burnt offering is killed, the sin offering shall be killed before the LORD. It is most holy. 26 [b]The priest who offers it for sin shall eat it. In a holy place it shall be eaten, in the court of the tabernacle of meeting. 27 [c]Everyone who touches its flesh [8]must be holy. And when its blood is sprinkled on any garment, you shall wash that on which it was sprinkled, in a holy place. 28 But the earthen vessel in which it is boiled [d]shall be broken. And if it is boiled in a bronze pot, it shall be both scoured and rinsed in water. 29 All the males among the priests may eat it. It is most holy. 30 [e]But no sin offering from which any of the blood is brought into the tabernacle of meeting, to make atonement in [9]the holy [f]place, shall be [g]eaten. It shall be [h]burned in the fire.

The Law of the Trespass Offering

7 'Likewise [a]this is the law of the trespass offering (it is most holy): 2 In the place where they kill the burnt offering they shall kill the trespass offering. And its blood he shall sprinkle all around on the altar. 3 And he shall offer from it all its fat. The fat tail and the fat that covers the entrails, 4 the two kidneys and the fat that is on them by the flanks, and the fatty lobe attached to the liver above the kidneys, he shall remove; 5 and the priest shall burn them on the altar as an offering made by fire to the LORD. It is a trespass offering. 6 [b]Every male among the priests may eat it. It shall be eaten in a holy place. [c]It is most holy. 7 [d]The trespass offering is like the sin offering; there is one law for them both: the priest who makes atonement with it shall have it. 8 And the priest who offers anyone's burnt offering, that priest shall have for himself the skin of the burnt offering which he has offered. 9 Also [e]every grain offering that is baked in the oven and all that is prepared in the covered pan, or [f]in a pan, shall be the priest's who offers it. 10 Every grain offering, whether mixed with oil or dry, shall belong to all the sons of Aaron, to one as much as the other.

The Law of Peace Offerings

11 [f]'This is the law of the sacrifice of peace offerings which he shall offer to the LORD: 12 If he offers it for a thanksgiving, then he shall offer, with the sacrifice of thanksgiving, unleavened cakes mixed with oil, unleavened wafers [g]anointed with oil, or cakes of blended flour mixed with oil. 13 Besides the cakes, as his offering he shall offer [h]leavened bread with the sacrifice of thanksgiving of his peace offering. 14 And from it he shall offer one cake from each offering as a heave offering to the LORD. [i]It shall belong to the priest who sprinkles the blood of the peace offering.

15 [j]'The flesh of the sacrifice of his peace offering for thanksgiving shall be eaten the same day it is offered. He shall not leave any of it until morning. 16 But [k]if the sacrifice of his offering is a vow or a voluntary offering, it shall be eaten the same day that he offers his sacrifice; but on the next day the remainder of it also may be eaten; 17 the remainder of the flesh of the sacrifice on the third day must be burned with fire. 18 And if any of the flesh of the sacrifice of his peace

16 [k]Lev. 19:5–8

■ 6:19–23 The priest's grain offering, mentioned here for the first time, had to be offered daily (6:20). Unlike these daily sacrifices, Christ our great High Priest offered Himself "once for all" (Heb. 7:27).

■ 6:22 priest . . . who is anointed. The high priest.

■ 6:24–30 sin offering. See 4:1—5:13. Christ, the new covenant High Priest, offered the final sin offering, as He bore the punishment for the believer's sins (1 Pet. 2:24; Is. 53:5).

■ 7:1–10 trespass offering. See 5:14—6:7.

■ 7:11–36 peace offering. See note on 3:1. Here rules are given about the grain offerings that must accompany peace offerings, and how the meat must be eaten (vv. 15, 16). Christ now spiritually offers believers His flesh to eat (John 6:54–58). In His flesh and blood believers find eternal life and have communion with the Father. Through that communion, believers are transformed more and more into Christ's image (2 Cor. 3:18).

■ 7:12 sacrifice of thanksgiving. The Hebrew word here translated "thanksgiving" can also mean "confession" (of sin or of faith in response to God's goodness and mercy). The sacrifice served to underline prayers for forgiveness and healing or as an expression of gratitude for prayers answered.

■ 7:16 vow. People in dire straits might make vows promising something to God if He would answer their prayers (Gen. 28:20–22; 1 Sam. 1:11; 2:21). Such vows were usually accompanied by a peace offering when first made and then again when fulfilled.

voluntary offering. This spontaneous offering showed gratitude to God.

offering is eaten at all on the third day, it shall not be accepted, nor shall it be [l]imputed to him; it shall be an [m]abomination to him who offers it, and the person who eats of it shall bear [2]guilt.

19 'The flesh that touches any unclean thing shall not be eaten. It shall be burned with fire. And as for the clean flesh, all who are [3]clean may eat of it. 20 But the person who eats the flesh of the sacrifice of the peace offering that belongs to the [n]LORD, [o]while he is unclean, that person [p]shall be cut off from his people. 21 Moreover the person who touches any unclean thing, such as [q]human uncleanness, an [r]unclean animal, or any [s]abominable[4] unclean thing, and who eats the flesh of the sacrifice of the peace offering that belongs to the LORD, that person [t]shall be cut off from his people.' "

Fat and Blood May Not Be Eaten

22 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 23 "Speak to the children of Israel, saying: [u]'You shall not eat any fat, of ox or sheep or goat. 24 And the fat of an animal that dies naturally, and the fat of what is torn by wild beasts, may be used in any other way; but you shall by no means eat it. 25 For whoever eats the fat of the animal of which men offer an offering made by fire to the LORD, the person who eats it shall be cut off from his people. 26 [v]Moreover you shall not eat any blood in any of your dwellings, whether of bird or beast. 27 Whoever eats any blood, that person shall be cut off from his people.' "

The Portion of Aaron and His Sons

28 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 29 "Speak to the children of Israel, saying: [w]'He who offers the sacrifice of his peace offering to the LORD shall bring his offering to the LORD from the sacrifice of his peace offering. 30 [x]His own hands shall bring the offerings made by fire to the LORD. The fat with the breast he shall bring, that the [y]breast may be waved as a wave offering before the LORD. 31 [z]And the priest shall burn the fat on the altar, but the [a]breast shall be Aaron's and his sons'. 32 [b]Also the right thigh you shall give to the priest as a heave offering from the sacrifices of your peace offerings. 33 He among the sons of Aaron, who offers the blood of the peace offering and the fat, shall have the right thigh for his part. 34 For [c]the breast of the wave offering and the thigh of the heave offering I have taken from the children of Israel, from the sacrifices of their peace offerings, and I have given them to Aaron the priest and to his sons from the children of Israel by a statute forever.' "

35 This is the consecrated portion for Aaron and his sons, from the offerings made by fire to the LORD, on the day when Moses presented them to [5]minister to the LORD as priests. 36 The LORD commanded this to be given to them by the children of Israel, [d]on the day that He anointed them, by a statute forever throughout their generations.

37 This is the law [e]of the burnt offering, [f]the grain offering, [g]the sin offering, [h]the trespass offering, [i]the consecrations, and [j]the sacrifice of the peace offering, 38 which the LORD commanded Moses on Mount Sinai, on the day when He commanded the children of Israel [k]to offer their offerings to the LORD in the Wilderness of Sinai.

Aaron and His Sons Consecrated

8 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 2 [a]"Take Aaron and his sons with him, and [b]the garments, [c]the anointing oil, a [d]bull as the sin offering, two [e]rams, and a basket of unleavened bread; 3 and gather all the congregation together at the door of the tabernacle of meeting."

4 So Moses did as the LORD commanded him. And the congregation was gathered together at the door of the tabernacle of meeting. 5 And Moses said to the congregation, "This is what the LORD commanded to be done."

6 Then Moses brought Aaron and his sons and [f]washed them with water. 7 And he [g]put the tunic on him, girded him with the sash, clothed him with the robe, and put the ephod on him; and he girded him with the intricately woven band of the ephod, and with it tied the ephod on him.

be cut off. This language is a general expression for coming under God's curse, the exact meaning of which is determined by the context of Scripture. It may mean the penalty of execution (e.g., Ex. 31:14–15) or of death without children (18:14, 29; cf. 20:20). In any event, God put the offender to death, with or without human agency.

■ 7:25 fat. See 3:3, 17.

■ 7:26 eat any blood. This phrase refers to eating meat from which the blood has not been drained (1 Sam. 14:33). The reason for this ban is given in 17:11 and Gen. 9:4.

■ 8:1—10:20 The Lord instructs Moses regarding the institution of the priesthood. The narrative moves from their installation (ch. 8), through their first sacrifices (ch. 9), to God's judgment of two priests (ch. 10).

■ 8:1–36 The instructions for the Levites' consecration (Ex. 29) are carried out. The repetition and elaborateness of the sacrifices (Ex. 29:35–37), and the splendor of Aaron's apparel (vv. 7–9) all point to the importance of the high priesthood. He represented Israel before God.

■ 8:3 at the door of the tabernacle. See note on 1:3.

■ 8:7 ephod. See note on Ex. 28:6.

8 Then he put the breastplate on him, and he [h]put the [1]Urim and the Thummim in the breastplate.
9 [i]And he put the turban on his head. Also on the turban, on its front, he put the golden plate, the holy crown, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

10 [j]Also Moses took the anointing oil, and anointed the tabernacle and all that was in it, and consecrated them. 11 He sprinkled some of it on the altar seven times, anointed the altar and all its utensils, and the laver and its base, to [2]consecrate them. 12 And he [k]poured some of the anointing oil on Aaron's head and anointed him, to consecrate him.

13 [l]Then Moses brought Aaron's sons and put tunics on them, girded them with sashes, and put [3]hats on them, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

14 [m]And he brought the bull for the sin offering. Then Aaron and his sons [n]laid their hands on the head of the bull for the sin offering, 15 and Moses killed it. [o]Then he took the blood, and put some on the horns of the altar all around with his finger, and purified the altar. And he poured the blood at the base of the altar, and consecrated it, to make [4]atonement for it. 16 [p]Then he took all the fat that was on the entrails, the fatty lobe attached to the liver, and the two kidneys with their fat, and Moses burned them on the altar. 17 But the bull, its hide, its flesh, and its offal, he burned with fire outside the camp, as the LORD [q]had commanded Moses.

18 [r]Then he brought the ram as the burnt offering. And Aaron and his sons laid their hands on the head of the ram, 19 and Moses killed it. Then he sprinkled the blood all around on the altar. 20 And he cut the ram into pieces; and Moses [s]burned the head, the pieces, and the fat. 21 Then he washed the entrails and the legs in water. And Moses burned the whole ram on the altar. It was a burnt sacrifice for a [5]sweet aroma, an offering made by fire to the LORD, [t]as the LORD had commanded Moses.

22 And [u]he brought the second ram, the ram of consecration. Then Aaron and his sons laid their hands on the head of the ram, 23 and Moses killed it. Also he took some of [v]its blood and put it on the tip of Aaron's right ear, on the thumb of his right hand, and on the big toe of his right foot. 24 Then he brought Aaron's sons. And Moses put some of the [w]blood on the tips of their right ears, on the thumbs of their right hands, and on the big toes of their right feet. And Moses sprinkled the blood all around on the altar. 25 [x]Then he took the fat and the fat tail, all the fat that was on the entrails, the fatty lobe attached to the liver, the two kidneys and their fat, and the right thigh; 26 [y]and from the basket of unleavened bread that was before the LORD he took one unleavened cake, a cake of bread anointed with oil, and one wafer, and put them on the fat and on the right thigh; 27 and he put all these [z]in Aaron's hands and in his sons' hands, and waved them as a wave offering before the LORD. 28 [a]Then Moses took them from their hands and burned them on the altar, on the burnt offering. They were consecration offerings for a sweet aroma. That was an offering made by fire to the LORD. 29 And [b]Moses took the [c]breast and waved it as a wave offering before the LORD. It was Moses' [d]part of the ram of consecration, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

30 Then [e]Moses took some of the anointing oil and some of the blood which was on the altar, and sprinkled it on Aaron, on his garments, on his sons, and on the garments of his sons with him; and he consecrated Aaron, his garments, his sons, and the garments of his sons with him.

31 And Moses said to Aaron and his sons, [f]"Boil the flesh at the door of the tabernacle of meeting, and eat it there with the bread that is in the basket of consecration offerings, as I commanded, saying, 'Aaron and his sons shall eat it.' 32 [g]What remains of the flesh and of the bread you shall burn with fire. 33 And you shall not go outside the door of the tabernacle of meeting for seven days, until the days of your consecration are ended. For [h]seven days he shall consecrate you. 34 [i]As he has done this day, so the LORD has commanded to do, to make atonement for you. 35 Therefore you shall stay at the door of the tabernacle of meeting day and night for seven days, and [j]keep the [6]charge of the LORD, so that you may not die; for so I have been commanded." 36 So Aaron and his sons did all the things that the LORD had commanded by the hand of Moses.

The Priestly Ministry Begins

9 It came to pass on the [a]eighth day that Moses called Aaron and his sons and the elders of Israel. 2 And he said to Aaron, "Take for yourself a young [b]bull as a sin offering and a ram as a burnt offering, without blemish, and offer them before the LORD. 3 And to the children of Israel you shall speak, saying, [c]'Take a kid of the goats as a sin offering, and a calf and a lamb, both of

■ 8:8 Urim and the Thummim. See note on Ex. 28:30.
■ 8:23 Applying the blood to the different parts of Aaron's body symbolized his entire consecration to God (Ex. 29:20 note).
■ 9:1–24 The consecration of Aaron and his sons took eight days and culminated in the offering of his first sacrifices and the appearance of God's glory (9:23–24).

the first year, without blemish, as a burnt offering, 4 also a bull and a ram as peace offerings, to sacrifice before the LORD, and [d]a grain offering mixed with oil; for [e]today the LORD will appear to you.' "

5 So they brought what Moses commanded before the tabernacle of meeting. And all the congregation drew near and stood [f]before the LORD. 6 Then Moses said, "This is the thing which the LORD commanded you to do, and the glory of the LORD will appear to you." 7 And Moses said to Aaron, "Go to the altar, [f]offer your sin offering and your burnt offering, and make atonement for yourself and for the people. [g]Offer the offering of the people, and make atonement for them, as the LORD commanded."

8 Aaron therefore went to the altar and killed the calf of the sin offering, which was for himself. 9 Then the sons of Aaron brought the blood to him. And he dipped his finger in the blood, put it on the horns of the altar, and poured the blood at the base of the altar. 10 [h]But the fat, the kidneys, and the fatty lobe from the liver of the sin offering he burned on the altar, as the LORD had commanded Moses. 11 [i]The flesh and the hide he burned with fire outside the camp.

12 And he killed the burnt offering; and Aaron's sons presented to him the blood, [j]which he sprinkled all around on the altar. 13 [k]Then they presented the burnt offering to him, with its pieces and head, and he burned them on the altar. 14 [l]And he washed the entrails and the legs, and burned them with the burnt offering on the altar.

15 [m]Then he brought the people's offering, and took the goat, which was the sin offering for the people, and killed it and offered it for sin, like the first one. 16 And he brought the burnt offering and offered it [n]according to the [2]prescribed manner. 17 Then he brought the grain offering, took a handful of it, and burned it on the altar, [o]besides the burnt sacrifice of the morning.

18 He also killed the bull and the ram as [p]sacrifices of peace offerings, which were for the people. And Aaron's sons presented to him the blood, which he sprinkled all around on the altar, 19 and the fat from the bull and the ram—the fatty tail, what covers the entrails and the kidneys, and the fatty lobe attached to the liver; 20 and they put the fat on the breasts. [q]Then he burned the fat on the altar; 21 but the breasts and the right thigh Aaron waved [r]as a wave offering before the LORD, as Moses had commanded.

22 Then Aaron lifted his hand toward the people, [s]blessed them, and came down from offering the sin offering, the burnt offering, and peace offerings. 23 And Moses and Aaron went into the tabernacle of meeting, and came out and blessed the people. Then the glory of the LORD appeared to all the people, 24 and [t]fire came out from before the LORD and consumed the burnt offering and the fat on the altar. When all the people saw it, they [u]shouted and fell on their [v]faces.

The Profane Fire of Nadab and Abihu

10 Then [a]Nadab and Abihu, the sons of Aaron, [b]each took his censer and put fire in it, put incense on it, and offered [c]profane fire before the LORD, which He had not commanded them. 2 So [d]fire went out from the LORD and devoured them, and they died before the LORD. 3 And Moses said to Aaron, "This is what the LORD spoke, saying:

'By those [e]who come near Me
I must be regarded as holy;
And before all the people
I must be glorified.' "

■ 9:7 Note that Aaron had to make atonement for himself first and then for the people (cf. Heb. 5:3).

■ 9:22 blessed. The traditional priestly blessing is found in Num. 6:23–26.

■ 9:23 the glory of the LORD. God's appearance signaled His approval of the first sacrifices offered by the newly consecrated priests. The fire that then consumed the offering (v. 24) confirmed God's acceptance of Aaron's ministry (cf. 1 Kin. 18:38; Heb. 12:28–29).

■ 10:1–20 The Lord, who accepted Aaron's sacrifice (9:23, 24), now rejects the ministry of his sons Nadab and Abihu. His sons Eleazar and Ithamar, though sincere, fail in their first ministrations as well (vv. 16–20). These first halting steps of the Levites would characterize their history and lead to Malachi's prophecy of a purified priesthood (Mal. 3:1–5).

■ 10:1 censer. A vessel for burning incense.

profane fire. Lit. "strange fire." Apparently the instructions for offering incense were not properly followed, perhaps by using coals from elsewhere than the altar (Lev. 16:12; cf. Ex. 30:1–9). Some interpreters suggest that the two men were also drunk (cf. v. 9).

■ 10:2 fire went out from the LORD. The Old Testament frequently warned against approaching God in an unfit state (Ex. 19:12, 21); this principle is also evident in the New Testament (Acts 5:1–10; 1 Cor. 11:29, 30). Eating sacrificial food while unclean (7:21) or entering the Most Holy Place without divine approval might lead to death (16:2). The same divine fire that ignited the inaugural sacrifice, providing atonement for the people (9:24), now engulfed those who encroached upon His altar in an unauthorized fashion. So also the same divine wrath against sin that fell upon Christ in His vicarious sacrifice for His people will blaze against those who reject that sacrifice and yet attempt to approach God in their sin (Heb. 10:26–31).

So Aaron held his peace.

4 Then Moses called Mishael and Elzaphan, the sons of Uzziel the uncle of Aaron, and said to them, "Come near, [f]carry your brethren from [1]before the sanctuary out of the camp." 5 So they went near and carried them by their tunics out of the camp, as Moses had said.

6 And Moses said to Aaron, and to Eleazar and Ithamar, his sons, "Do not [2]uncover your heads nor tear your clothes, lest you die, and [g]wrath come upon all the people. But let your brethren, the whole house of Israel, [3]bewail the burning which the LORD has kindled. 7 [h]You shall not go out from the door of the tabernacle of meeting, lest you die, [i]for the anointing oil of the LORD is upon you." And they did according to the word of Moses.

Conduct Prescribed for Priests

8 Then the LORD spoke to Aaron, saying: 9 [j]"Do not drink wine or intoxicating drink, you, nor your sons with you, when you go into the tabernacle of meeting, lest you die. It shall be a statute forever throughout your generations, 10 that you may [k]distinguish between holy and unholy, and between unclean and clean, 11 [l]and that you may teach the children of Israel all the statutes which the LORD has spoken to them by the hand of Moses."

12 And Moses spoke to Aaron, and to Eleazar and Ithamar, his sons who were left: [m]"Take the grain offering that remains of the offerings made by fire to the LORD, and eat it without leaven beside the altar; [n]for it is most holy. 13 You shall eat it in a [o]holy place, because it is your [4]due and your sons' due, of the sacrifices made by fire to the LORD; for [p]so I have been commanded. 14 [q]The breast of the wave offering and the thigh of the heave offering you shall eat in a clean place, you, your sons, and your [r]daughters with you; for they are your due and your sons' [s]due, which are given from the sacrifices of peace offerings of the children of Israel. 15 [t]The thigh of the heave offering and the breast of the wave offering they shall bring with the offerings of fat made by fire, to offer as a wave offering before the LORD. And it shall be yours and your sons' with you, by a statute forever, as the LORD has commanded."

16 Then Moses made careful inquiry about [u]the goat of the sin offering, and there it was—burned up. And he was angry with Eleazar and Ithamar, the sons of Aaron who were left, saying, 17 [v]"Why have you not eaten the sin offering in a holy place, since it is most holy, and God has given it to you to bear [w]the guilt of the congregation, to make atonement for them before the LORD? 18 See! [x]Its blood was not brought inside [5]the holy place; indeed you should have eaten it in a holy place, [y]as I commanded."

19 And Aaron said to Moses, "Look, [z]this day they have offered their sin offering and their burnt offering before the LORD, and such things have befallen me! If I had eaten the sin offering today, [a]would it have been accepted in the sight of the LORD?" 20 So when Moses heard that, he was content.

CHAPTER 11

2 [a]Deut. 14:4

■ 10:6 uncover . . . tear. These were signs of mourning (13:45). The high priests were forbidden to mourn even their closest relatives (21:10–12), since total consecration to God meant complete separation from death.

■ 10:10 distinguish between holy and unholy. The priest's job was to teach the people these basic religious distinctions. "Holy" applies to what belongs to God, "clean" to what is fit for Him. Things "unholy" and "unclean" are unfit for God's presence. See note on chs. 11—16.

■ 10:17–20 Aaron and his sons had offered two sin offerings (v. 19; cf. 9:8–17): one for Aaron, the blood of which was sprinkled in the holy place and the remainder burned (4:6, 12), and one for the people, the blood of which was sprinkled on the altar of burnt offering in the courtyard and which was then to be eaten by the priests (6:25, 26). Normally he and his sons should have eaten the meat of the people's sin offering to complete the atonement process, but they had not.

■ 10:19 such things have befallen me. Probably a reference to the terrifying events of vv. 1–7. After the display of God's consuming judgment, Aaron was apparently frightened to eat the sacrificial meat, which was holy (6:26–29).

■ 10:20 Moses . . . was content. He realized that the mistake of Aaron and his sons was not motivated by rebellion or by a disregard for the holiness of God.

■ 11:1—16:34 In these chapters, Moses explains the difference between the ceremonially clean and unclean. "Clean" means "fit for God's presence"; "unclean" means "unfit for God's presence." Anyone who was unclean or who had come in contact with uncleanness was to abstain from public worship until he was cleansed. The basic idea is that God is perfect life, while the essence of uncleanness is death. Normal, healthy creatures were clean, but abnormal or unhealthy creatures, and particularly corpses, were unclean. Abnormalities that suggested or that could lead to death were marks of uncleanness. Life and death were not to be mixed, so the unclean was never to enter God's presence. Ultimately, it is Christ, the great Mediator and High Priest, who triumphs over death and corruption on behalf of those who trust in Him (1 Cor. 15:20–28, 50–57).

■ 11:1–47 Moses instructs the Israelites regarding the principles of cleanness, showing them that, though all corpses are unclean (vv. 24, 27, 31–40), some perfectly healthy creatures are also stated to be unclean in a milder sense and therefore must not be eaten. Although some of the forbidden animals posed a possible health threat (e.g., pigs as carriers of trichinosis), this classification is not based simply on health on the earth: 3 Among the animals, whatever divides the hoof, having cloven hooves and chewing the cud—that you may eat. 4 Nevertheless these you shall [b]not eat among those that chew the cud or those that have cloven hooves: the camel, because it chews the cud but does not have cloven hooves, is [1]unclean to you; 5 the [2]rock hyrax, because it chews the cud but does not have cloven hooves, is [3]unclean to you; 6 the hare, because it chews the cud but does not have cloven hooves, is unclean to you; 7 and the swine, though it divides the hoof, having cloven hooves, yet does not chew the cud, [c]is unclean to you. 8 Their flesh you shall not eat, and their carcasses you shall not touch. [d]They are unclean to you.

9 [e]'These you may eat of all that are in the water: whatever in the water has fins and scales, whether in the seas or in the rivers—that you may eat. 10 But all in the seas or in the rivers that do not have fins and scales, all that move in the water or any living thing which is in the water, they are [4]an [f]abomination to you. 11 They shall be an abomination to you; you shall not eat their flesh, but you shall regard their carcasses as an abomination. 12 Whatever in the water does not have fins or scales—that shall be an abomination to you.

13 [g]'And these you shall regard as an abomination among the birds; they shall not be eaten, they are an abomination: the eagle, the vulture, the buzzard, 14 the kite, and the falcon after its kind; 15 every raven after its kind, 16 the ostrich, the short-eared owl, the sea gull, and the hawk after its kind; 17 the little owl, the fisher owl, and the screech owl; 18 the white owl, the jackdaw, and the carrion vulture; 19 the stork, the heron after its kind, the hoopoe, and the bat.

20 'All flying insects that creep on all fours shall be an abomination to you. 21 Yet these you may eat of every flying insect that creeps on all fours: those which have jointed legs above their feet with which to leap on the earth. 22 These you may eat: [h]the locust after its kind, the destroying locust after its kind, the cricket after its kind, and the grasshopper after its kind. 23 But all other flying insects which have four feet shall be an abomination to you.

Unclean Animals

24 'By these you shall become [5]unclean; whoever touches the carcass of any of them shall be unclean until evening; 25 whoever carries part of the carcass of any of them [i]shall wash his clothes and be unclean until evening: 26 The carcass of any animal which divides the foot, but is not cloven-hoofed or does not chew the cud, is unclean to you. Everyone who touches it shall be unclean. 27 And whatever goes on its paws, among all kinds of animals that go on all fours, those are unclean to you. Whoever touches any such carcass shall be unclean until evening. 28 Whoever carries any such carcass shall wash his clothes and be unclean until evening. It is unclean to you.

29 'These also shall be unclean to you among the creeping things that creep on the earth: the mole, [j]the mouse, and the large lizard after its kind; 30 the gecko, the monitor lizard, the sand reptile, the sand lizard, and the chameleon. 31 These are unclean to you among all that creep. Whoever [k]touches them when they are dead shall be unclean until evening. 32 Anything on which any of them falls, when they are dead shall be [6]unclean, whether it is any item of wood or clothing or skin or sack, whatever item it is, in which any work is done, [l]it must be put in water. And it shall be unclean until evening; then it shall be clean. 33 Any [m]earthen vessel into which any of them falls [n]you shall break; and whatever is in it shall be unclean: 34 in such a vessel, any edible food upon which water falls becomes unclean, and any drink that may be drunk from it becomes unclean. 35 And everything on which a part of any such carcass falls shall be unclean; whether it is an oven or cooking stove, it shall be broken down; for they are unclean, and shall be unclean to you. 36 Nevertheless a spring or a cistern, in which there is plenty of water, shall be clean, but whatever touches any such carcass becomes unclean. 37 And if a part of any such carcass falls on any planting seed which is to be sown, it remains clean. 38 But if water is put on the seed, and if a part of any such carcass falls on it, it becomes [7]unclean to you.

39 'And if any animal which you may eat dies, he who touches its carcass shall be [o]unclean grounds. Rather, the principle teaches basic moral and spiritual truths. Carnivorous animals and birds of prey eat flesh with blood in it, something forbidden to human beings (7:26). Such animals also contact corpses, which are unclean. The clean creatures here symbolize Israelites, while unclean animals symbolize Gentiles. Only domesticated clean animals may be offered in sacrifice, for the sacrificial animal represents the offerer. In restricting his diet to clean animals, the Israelite was reminded that God had chosen Israel alone among the nations. Only when the new covenant admitted Gentiles to the community of God were the food laws abrogated (Mark 7:19; Acts 10:15).

- 11:2–8 Cud-chewing, cloven-hoofed land animals were clean and so could be eaten. Other animals were unclean.
- 11:9–12 Only ordinary fish with fins and scales were clean. Other water creatures were unclean and therefore inedible.
- 11:13–19 Birds of prey were unclean, but others were clean.
- 11:20–23 Insects that hop might be eaten (v. 21), but not others.

41 'And every creeping thing that creeps on the earth shall be [s]an abomination. Neither shall you defile yourselves with any creeping thing that creeps on the earth. 45 [t]For I am the LORD who brings you up out of the land of Egypt, to be your God. [u]You shall therefore be holy, for I am holy.

46 'This is the law [v]of the animals and the birds and every living creature that moves in the waters, and of every creature that creeps on the earth, 47 [w]to distinguish between the unclean and the clean, and between the animal that may be eaten and the animal that may not be eaten.' "

God Is Light: Divine Holiness and Justice

When Scripture calls God, or individual Persons of the Godhead, "holy" (as it often does: Lev. 11:44, 45; Josh. 24:19; 1 Sam. 2:2; Ps. 99:9; Is. 1:4; 6:3; 41:14, 16, 20; 57:15; Ezek. 39:7; Amos 4:2; John 17:11; Acts 5:3, 4, 32; Rev. 15:4), the word signifies everything about God that sets Him apart from us and makes Him an object of awe, adoration, and dread to us. It covers all aspects of His transcendent greatness and moral perfection, and is characteristic of all His attributes, pointing to the "God-ness" of God at every point. The core of this truth, however, is God's purity that cannot tolerate any form of sin (Hab. 1:13), and calls sinners to constant self-abasement in His presence (Is. 6:5).

Justice, which means doing in all circumstances things that are right, is one expression of God's holiness. God displays His justice as Lawgiver and Judge, and also as Promise-keeper and Pardoner of sin. His moral law, requiring behavior that matches His own, is "holy and just and good" (Rom. 7:12). He judges justly, according to actual desert (Gen. 18:25; Ps. 7:11; 96:13; Acts 17:31). His wrath, His active judicial hostility to sin, is wholly just in its manifestations (Rom. 2:5–16), and His particular judgments (retributive punishments) are glorious and praiseworthy (Rev. 16:5, 7; 19:1–4). Whenever God fulfills His covenant commitment by acting to save His people, it is an act of His righteousness, or justice (Is. 51:5, 6; 56:1; 63:1; 1 John 1:9). When God justifies sinners through faith in Christ, He does so on the basis of justice done—the punishment of our sins in the Person of Christ our substitute. The form taken by His justifying mercy shows Him to be utterly and totally just (Rom. 3:25, 26), and our justification itself is shown to be judicially justified.

When John says that God is "light," with no darkness in Him at all, the imagery affirms God's holy purity, which makes fellowship between Him and the willfully unholy impossible, and requires that the pursuit of holiness and righteousness of life be a central concern for Christian people (1 John 1:5—2:1; 2 Cor. 6:14—7:1; Heb. 12:10–17). The summons to believers, regenerate and forgiven as they are, to practice a holiness that will match God's own, and so please Him, is constant in the New Testament, as indeed it was in the Old (Deut. 30:1–10; Eph. 4:17—5:14; 1 Pet. 1:13–22). □

■ 11:44 See theological note "God Is Light: Divine Holiness and Justice."

■ 11:45 be holy. The word "holy" means "separate" or "set apart." Only God is intrinsically holy. He is by nature majestic, awesome, and pure. He demonstrated His transcendent holiness by His creation of the world (Gen. 1:1, 3 and notes), by His great acts in history such as redeeming His people from Egypt, and by His perfect laws. Israel's holiness derived from her unique covenant relationship with the only true and living God. His covenant provided, among other things, moral and judicial laws that reflected God's own righteous standards, and the sacrificial system to cleanse them from sin. The immediate background for this designation of Israel as a "holy nation" is the Lord's appearance on Mount Sinai: they washed their clothes, avoided contact with the mountain, and abstained from sexual intercourse in preparation for that unique event (Ex. 19:10–15, 21–24; Heb. 12:18–21).

Jesus Christ, the Mediator of the new covenant (Heb. 8:6; 9:15; 12:24), also demands perfection (Matt. 5:48). But He provides the new Israel with holiness by His perfect sacrifice, which removed the sins of His people forever (Heb. 9; 10), and by His Holy Spirit, who inscribes God's moral law on their hearts (2 Cor. 3:3; cf. Jer. 31:31–34). Without that holiness no one will see God (Heb. 12:14).

The Ritual After Childbirth

12 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 2 "Speak to the children of Israel, saying: 'If a [a]woman has conceived, and borne a male child, then [b]she shall be [1]unclean seven days; [c]as in the days of her customary impurity she shall be unclean. 3 And on the [d]eighth day the flesh of his foreskin shall be circumcised. 4 She shall then continue in the blood of her purification thirty-three days. She shall not touch any [2]hallowed thing, nor come into the sanctuary until the days of her purification are fulfilled.

5 'But if she bears a female child, then she shall be unclean two weeks, as in her customary impurity, and she shall continue in the blood of her purification sixty-six days.

6 [e]'When the days of her purification are fulfilled, whether for a son or a daughter, she shall bring to the priest a [f]lamb [3]of the first year as a burnt offering, and a young pigeon or a turtledove as a [g]sin offering, to the door of the tabernacle of meeting. 7 Then he shall offer it before the LORD, and make [4]atonement for her. And she shall be clean from the flow of her blood. This is the law for her who has borne a male or a female.

8 [h]'And if she is not able to bring a lamb, then she may bring two turtledoves or two young pigeons—one as a burnt offering and the other as a sin offering. [i]So the priest shall make atonement for her, and she will be [5]clean.' "

The Law Concerning Leprosy

13 And the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: 2 "When a man has on the skin of his body a swelling, [a]a scab, or a bright spot, and it becomes on the skin of his body like a [1]leprous sore, [b]then he shall be brought to Aaron the priest or to one of his sons the priests. 3 The priest shall examine the sore on the skin of the body; and if the hair on the sore has turned white, and the sore appears to be deeper than the skin of his body, it is a leprous sore. Then the priest shall examine him, and pronounce him [2]unclean. 4 But if the bright spot is white on the skin of his body, and does not appear to be deeper than the skin, and its hair has not turned white, then the priest shall isolate the one who has the sore [c]seven days. 5 And the priest shall examine him on the seventh day; and indeed if the sore appears to be as it was, and the sore has not spread on the skin, then the priest shall isolate him another seven days. 6 Then the priest shall examine him again on the seventh day; and indeed if the sore has faded, and the sore has not spread on the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him clean; it is only a scab, and he [d]shall wash his clothes and be clean. 7 But if the scab should at all spread over the skin, after he has been seen by the priest for his cleansing, he shall be seen by the priest again. 8 And if the priest sees that the scab has indeed spread on the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him [3]unclean. It is leprosy.

9 "When the leprous sore is on a person, then he shall be brought to the priest. 10 [e]And the priest shall examine him; and indeed if the swelling on the skin is white, and it has turned the hair white, and there is a spot of raw flesh in the swelling, 11 it is an old leprosy on the skin of his body. The priest shall pronounce him [4]unclean, and shall not isolate him, for he is unclean.

12 "And if leprosy breaks out all over the skin, and the leprosy covers all the skin of the one who has the sore, from his head to his foot, wherever the priest looks, 13 then the priest shall consider; and indeed if the leprosy has covered all his body, he shall pronounce him clean who has the sore. It has all turned [f]white. He is clean. 14 But when raw flesh appears on him, he shall be unclean. 15 And the priest shall examine the raw flesh and pronounce him to be unclean; for the raw flesh is unclean. It is leprosy. 16 Or if the raw flesh changes and turns white again, he shall come to the priest. 17 And the priest shall examine him; and indeed if the sore has turned white, then the priest shall pronounce him clean who has the sore. He is clean.

■ 12:2 unclean. The flow of blood after childbirth made a mother unclean (vv. 4, 5, 7). Loss of blood could lead to death, thus illustrating the equation of uncleanness with death or the threat thereof (chs. 11—16 note).

■ 12:5 sixty-six days. The text does not explain why the birth of a daughter made a mother unclean for twice as long as the birth of a son. Perhaps a daughter, as a potential mother, was subject to uncleanness in a way a son was not.

■ 12:8 burnt offering . . . sin offering. These sacrifices for purification were offered after the birth of Jesus (Luke 2:24).

■ 13:1—14:57 These chapters contain God's laws concerning unclean skin diseases referred to as "like a leprous sore" (13:2) or "leprosy" (13:8). Modern physicians recognize here the symptoms of various modern complaints, but we should remember that the biblical classification is based primarily on spiritual rather than hygienic or medical considerations. The key principle in identifying a skin disease as "unclean" was whether the skin seemed to be rotting away, suggesting the spiritual principle of death. Patchy complaints amounted to uncleanness (vv. 9, 10), but a complaint affecting the whole body did not (vv. 12, 13). Stable conditions were clean, but deteriorating ones were unclean (vv. 5–8, 18–37). Similar principles applied to the diagnosis of uncleanness in clothing: progressive mildews were unclean (vv. 47–52), but stable ones were clean (vv. 53–58). The close association of uncleanness with death is shown in 13:45. The person afflicted with a serious skin disease behaved as a mourner (21:10). He was excluded from the camp, not to protect the health of Israel, but because God was in the camp and uncleanness (death) had to be separated from the presence of God (life). See Num. 5:1–4; 12:14–15.

18 "If the body develops a [g]boil in the skin, and it is healed, 19 and in the place of the boil there comes a white swelling or a bright spot, reddish-white, then it shall be shown to the priest; 20 and if, when the priest sees it, it indeed appears deeper than the skin, and its hair has turned white, the priest shall pronounce him unclean. It is a leprous sore which has broken out of the boil. 21 But if the priest examines it, and indeed there are no white hairs in it, and it is not deeper than the skin, but has faded, then the priest shall isolate him seven days; 22 and if it should at all spread over the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean. It is a [5]leprous sore. 23 But if the bright spot stays in one place, and has not spread, it is the scar of the boil; and the priest shall pronounce him clean.

24 "Or if the body receives a [h]burn on its skin by fire, and the raw flesh of the burn becomes a bright spot, reddish-white or white, 25 then the priest shall examine it; and indeed if the hair of the bright spot has turned white, and it appears deeper than the skin, it is leprosy broken out in the burn. Therefore the priest shall pronounce him unclean. It is a leprous sore. 26 But if the priest examines it, and indeed there are no white hairs in the bright spot, and it is not deeper than the skin, but has faded, then the priest shall isolate him seven days. 27 And the priest shall examine him on the seventh day. If it has at all spread over the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean. It is a leprous sore. 28 But if the bright spot stays in one place, and has not spread on the skin, but has faded, it is a swelling from the burn. The priest shall pronounce him clean, for it is the scar from the burn.

29 "If a man or woman has a sore on the head or the beard, 30 then the priest shall examine the sore; and indeed if it appears deeper than the skin, and there is in it thin yellow hair, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean. It is a scaly leprosy of the head or beard. 31 But if the priest examines the scaly sore, and indeed it does not appear deeper than the skin, and there is no black hair in it, then the priest shall isolate the one who has the scale seven days. 32 And on the seventh day the priest shall examine the sore; and indeed if the scale has not spread, and there is no yellow hair in it, and the scale does not appear deeper than the skin, 33 he shall shave himself, but the scale he shall not shave. And the priest shall isolate the one who has the scale another seven days. 34 On the seventh day the priest shall examine the scale; and indeed if the scale has not spread over the skin, and does not appear deeper than the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him clean. He shall wash his clothes and be clean. 35 But if the scale should at all spread over the skin after his cleansing, 36 then the priest shall examine him; and indeed if the scale has spread over the skin, the priest need not seek for yellow hair. He is unclean. 37 But if the scale appears to be at a standstill, and there is black hair grown up in it, the scale has healed. He is clean, and the priest shall pronounce him clean.

38 "If a man or a woman has bright spots on the skin of the body, specifically white bright spots, 39 then the priest shall look; and indeed if the bright spots on the skin of the body are dull white, it is a white spot that grows on the skin. He is clean.

40 "As for the man whose hair has fallen from his head, he is bald, but he is clean. 41 He whose hair has fallen from his forehead, he is bald on the forehead, but he is clean. 42 And if there is on the bald head or bald [i]forehead a reddish-white sore, it is leprosy breaking out on his bald head or his bald forehead. 43 Then the priest shall examine it; and indeed if the swelling of the sore is reddish-white on his bald head or on his bald forehead, as the appearance of leprosy on the skin of the body, 44 he is a leprous man. He is unclean. The priest shall surely pronounce him [6]unclean; his sore is on his [j]head.

45 "Now the leper on whom the sore is, his clothes shall be torn and his head [k]bare; and he shall [l]cover his mustache, and cry, [m]'Unclean! Unclean!' 46 He shall be unclean. All the days he has the sore he shall be unclean. He is unclean, and he shall [7]dwell alone; his dwelling shall be [n]outside the camp.

The Law Concerning Leprous Garments

47 "Also, if a garment has a [8]leprous plague in it, whether it is a woolen garment or a linen garment, 48 whether it is in the warp or woof of linen or wool, whether in leather or in anything made of leather, 49 and if the plague is greenish or reddish in the garment or in the leather, whether in the warp or in the woof, or in anything made of leather, it is a leprous [9]plague and shall be shown to the priest. 50 The priest shall examine the plague and isolate that which has the plague seven days. 51 And he shall examine the plague on the seventh day. If the plague has spread in the garment, either in the warp or in the woof, in the leather or in anything made of leather, the plague is [o]an active leprosy. It is unclean. 52 He shall therefore burn that garment in which is the plague, whether warp or woof, in wool or in linen, or anything of leather, for it is an active leprosy; the garment shall be burned in the fire.

53 "But if the priest examines it, and indeed the plague has not spread in the garment, either in the warp or in the woof, or in anything made of leather, [54] then the priest shall command that they wash the thing in which is the plague; and he shall isolate it another seven days. [55] Then the priest shall examine the plague after it has been washed; and indeed if the plague has not changed its color, though the plague has not spread, it is unclean, and you shall burn it in the fire; it continues eating away, whether the damage is outside or inside. [56] If the priest examines it, and indeed the plague has faded after washing it, then he shall tear it out of the garment, whether out of the warp or out of the woof, or out of the leather. [57] But if it appears again in the garment, either in the warp or in the woof, or in anything made of leather, it is a spreading plague; you shall burn with fire that in which is the plague. [58] And if you wash the garment, either warp or woof, or whatever is made of leather, if the plague has disappeared from it, then it shall be washed a second time, and shall be clean.

[59] "This is the law of the leprous plague in a garment of wool or linen, either in the warp or woof, or in anything made of leather, to pronounce it clean or to pronounce it unclean."

The Ritual for Cleansing Healed Lepers

14 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "This shall be the law of the [1]leper for the day of his cleansing: He [a]shall be brought to the priest. [3] And the priest shall go out of the camp, and the priest shall examine him; and indeed, if the [2]leprosy is healed in the leper, [4] then the priest shall command to take for him who is to be cleansed two living and clean birds, [b]cedar wood, [c]scarlet, and [d]hyssop. [5] And the priest shall command that one of the birds be killed in an earthen vessel over running water. [6] As for the living bird, he shall take it, the cedar wood and the scarlet and the hyssop, and dip them and the living bird in the blood of the bird that was killed over the running water. [7] And he shall [e]sprinkle it [f]seven times on him who is to be cleansed from the leprosy, and shall pronounce him clean, and shall let the living bird loose in the open field. [8] He who is to be cleansed [g]shall wash his clothes, shave off all his hair, and [h]wash himself in water, that he may be clean. After that he shall come into the camp, and [i]shall stay outside his tent seven days. [9] But on the [j]seventh day he shall shave all the hair off his head and his beard and his eyebrows—all his hair he shall shave off. He shall wash his clothes and wash his body in water, and he shall be clean.

[10] "And on the eighth day [k]he shall take two male lambs without blemish, one ewe lamb of the first year without blemish, three-tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with oil as [l]a grain offering, and one log of oil. [11] Then the priest who makes him clean shall present the man who is to be made clean, and those things, before the LORD, at the door of the tabernacle of meeting. [12] And the priest shall take one male lamb and [m]offer it as a trespass offering, and the log of oil, and [n]wave them as a wave offering before the LORD. [13] Then he shall kill the lamb [o]in the place where he kills the sin offering and the burnt offering, in a holy place; for [p]as the sin offering is the priest's, so is the trespass offering. [q]It is most holy. [14] The priest shall take some of the blood of the trespass offering, and the priest shall put it [r]on the tip of the right ear of him who is to be cleansed, on the thumb of his right hand, and on the big toe of his right foot. [15] And the priest shall take some of the log of oil, and pour it into the palm of his own left hand. [16] Then the priest shall dip his right finger in the oil that is in his left hand, and shall [s]sprinkle some of the oil with his finger seven times before the LORD. [17] And of the rest of the oil in his hand, the priest shall put some on the tip of the right ear of him who is to be cleansed, on the thumb of his right hand, and on the big toe of his right foot, on the blood of the trespass offering. [18] The rest of the oil that is in the priest's hand he shall put on the head of him who is to be cleansed. [t]So the priest shall make [3]atonement for him before the LORD.

[19] "Then the priest shall offer [u]the sin offering, and make atonement for him who is to be cleansed from his uncleanness. Afterward he shall kill the burnt offering. [20] And the priest shall offer the burnt offering and the grain offering on the altar. So the priest shall make atonement for him, and he shall be [v]clean.

■ 14:2 cleansing. These ceremonies conducted by the priest did not cure skin disease. A diseased person came to the priest after he had been healed (Luke 5:14). The task of the priest was to make the person who had been excluded from the camp, from his people, and from God, ceremonially clean. Through these ceremonial cleansings, which took place in two stages a week apart, the diseased individual was restored to fellowship with God and with His people.

■ 14:3–8 The first stage of cleansing took place outside the camp. The man washed himself and his clothes, and shaved. Two birds were taken. The blood of one was used to purify the man. The death of that bird portrayed the end of the man's old life outside the camp, and the flight to freedom of the other pictured his liberation from the effects of the disease. Then the man might enter the camp again.

■ 14:9–20 In the second cleansing stage, the Israelite was brought back into full communion with God. The ceremonies here resemble the consecration of the priest (ch. 8). The Israelite was daubed with blood and anointed with oil, being linked to the altar, the symbol of God's presence. A variation on this restoration procedure is prescribed for the poor in vv. 21–31.

21 "But [w]if he is poor and cannot afford it, then he shall take one male lamb as a trespass offering to be waved, to make atonement for him, [q]one-tenth of an ephah of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering, a log of oil, 22 [x]and two turtledoves or two young pigeons, such as he is able to afford: one shall be a sin offering and the other a burnt offering. 23 [y]He shall bring them to the priest on the eighth day for his cleansing, to the door of the tabernacle of meeting, before the LORD. 24 [z]And the priest shall take the lamb of the trespass offering and the log of oil, and the priest shall wave them as a wave offering before the LORD. 25 Then he shall kill the lamb of the trespass offering, [a]and the priest shall take some of the blood of the trespass offering and put it on the tip of the right ear of him who is to be cleansed, on the thumb of his right hand, and on the big toe of his right foot. 26 And the priest shall pour some of the oil into the palm of his own left hand. 27 Then the priest shall sprinkle with his right finger some of the oil that is in his left hand seven times before the LORD. 28 And the priest shall put some of the oil that is in his hand on the tip of the right ear of him who is to be cleansed, on the thumb of the right hand, and on the big toe of his right foot, on the place of the blood of the trespass offering. 29 The rest of the oil that is in the priest's hand he shall put on the head of him who is to be cleansed, to make atonement for him before the LORD. 30 And he shall offer one of [b]the turtledoves or young pigeons, such as he can afford— 31 such as he is able to afford, the one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering, with the grain offering. So the priest shall make atonement for him who is to be cleansed before the LORD. 32 This is the law for one who had a leprous sore, who cannot afford [c]the usual cleansing."

The Law Concerning Leprous Houses

33 And the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: 34 [d]"When you have come into the land of Canaan, which I give you as a possession, and [e]I put the [5]leprous plague in a house in the land of your possession, 35 and he who owns the house comes and tells the priest, saying, 'It seems to me that there is [f]some plague in the house,' 36 then the priest shall command that they empty the house, before the priest goes into it to examine the plague, that all that is in the house may not be made unclean; and afterward the priest shall go in to examine the house. 37 And he shall examine the plague; and indeed if the plague is on the walls of the house with ingrained streaks, greenish or reddish, which appear to be [6]deep in the wall, 38 then the priest shall go out of the house, to the door of the house, and [7]shut up the house seven days. 39 And the priest shall come again on the seventh day and look; and indeed if the plague has spread on the walls of the house, 40 then the priest shall command that they take away the stones in which is the plague, and they shall cast them into an unclean place outside the city. 41 And he shall cause the house to be scraped inside, all around, and the dust that they scrape off they shall pour out in an unclean place outside the city. 42 Then they shall take other stones and put them in the place of those stones, and he shall take other mortar and plaster the house.

43 "Now if the plague comes back and breaks out in the house, after he has taken away the stones, after he has scraped the house, and after it is plastered, 44 then the priest shall come and look; and indeed if the plague has spread in the house, it is [g]an active leprosy in the house. It is unclean. 45 And he shall break down the house, its stones, its timber, and all the plaster of the house, and he shall carry them outside the city to an unclean place. 46 Moreover he who goes into the house at all while it is shut up shall be [8]unclean [h]until evening. 47 And he who lies down in the house shall [i]wash his clothes, and he who eats in the house shall wash his clothes.

48 "But if the priest comes in and examines it, and indeed the plague has not spread in the house after the house was plastered, then the priest shall pronounce the house clean, because the plague is healed. 49 And [j]he shall take, to cleanse the house, two birds, cedar wood, scarlet, and hyssop. 50 Then he shall kill one of the birds in an earthen vessel over running water; 51 and he shall take the cedar wood, the hyssop, the scarlet, and the living bird, and dip them in the blood of the slain bird and in the running water, and sprinkle the house seven times. 52 And he shall [9]cleanse the house with the blood of the bird and the running water and the living bird, with the cedar wood, the hyssop, and the scarlet. 53 Then he shall let the living bird loose outside the city in the open field, and [k]make atonement for the house, and it shall be clean.

54 "This is the law for any [l]leprous sore and scale, 55 for the [m]leprosy of a garment [n]and of a house, 56 [o]for a swelling and a scab and a bright spot, 57 to [p]teach when it is unclean and when it is clean. This is the law of leprosy."

The Law Concerning Bodily Discharges

15 And the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying, 2 "Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: [a]'When any man has a discharge from his body, his discharge is unclean. 3 And this shall be his uncleanness in regard to his discharge—whether his body runs with his discharge, or his body is stopped up by his discharge, it is his uncleanness. 4 Every bed is [1]unclean on which he who has the discharge lies, and everything on which he sits shall be unclean. 5 And whoever [b]touches his bed shall [c]wash his clothes and [d]bathe in water, and be unclean until evening. 6 He who sits on anything on which he who has the [e]discharge sat shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening. 7 And he who touches the body of him who has the discharge shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening. 8 If he who has the discharge [f]spits on him who is clean, then he shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening. 9 Any saddle on which he who has the discharge rides shall be unclean. 10 Whoever touches anything that was under him shall be unclean until evening. He who carries any of those things shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening. 11 And whomever the one who has the discharge touches, and has not rinsed his hands in water, he shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening. 12 The [g]vessel of earth that he who has the discharge touches shall be broken, and every vessel of wood shall be rinsed in water.

13 'And when he who has a discharge is cleansed of his discharge, then [h]he shall count for himself seven days for his cleansing, wash his clothes, and bathe his body in running water; then he shall be clean. 14 On the eighth day he shall take for himself [i]two turtledoves or two young pigeons, and come before the LORD, to the door of the tabernacle of meeting, and give them to the priest. 15 Then the priest shall offer them, [j]the one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering. [k]So the priest shall make [2]atonement for him before the LORD because of his discharge.

16 [l]'If any man has an emission of semen, then he shall wash all his body in water, and be unclean until evening. 17 And any garment and any leather on which there is semen, it shall be washed with water, and be unclean until evening. 18 Also, when a woman lies with a man, and there is an emission of semen, they shall bathe in water, and [m]be unclean until evening.

19 [n]'If a woman has a discharge, and the discharge from her body is blood, she shall be [3]set apart seven days; and whoever touches her shall be unclean until evening. 20 Everything that she lies on during her impurity shall be unclean; also everything that she sits on shall be unclean. 21 Whoever touches her bed shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening. 22 And whoever touches anything that she sat on shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening. 23 If anything is on her bed or on anything on which she sits, when he touches it, he shall be unclean until evening. 24 And [o]if any man lies with her at all, so that her impurity is on him, he shall be [4]unclean seven days; and every bed on which he lies shall be unclean.

25 'If [p]a woman has a discharge of blood for many days, other than at the time of her customary impurity, or if it runs beyond her usual time of impurity, all the days of her unclean discharge shall be as the days of her customary impurity. She shall be unclean. 26 Every bed on which she lies all the days of her discharge shall be to her as the bed of her impurity; and whatever she sits on shall be unclean, as the uncleanness of her impurity. 27 Whoever touches those things shall be unclean; he shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening.

28 'But [q]if she is cleansed of her discharge, then she shall count for herself seven days, and after that she shall be clean. 29 And on the eighth day she shall take for herself two turtledoves or two young pigeons, and bring them to the priest, to the door of the tabernacle of meeting. 30 Then the priest shall offer the one as a sin offering and the other as a [r]burnt offering, and the priest shall make atonement for her before the LORD for the discharge of her uncleanness.

31 'Thus you shall [s]separate the children of Israel from their uncleanness, lest they die in their uncleanness when they [t]defile My tabernacle that is among them. 32 [u]This is the law for one who has a discharge, [v]and for him who emits semen and is unclean thereby, 33 [w]and for her who is indisposed because of her customary impurity, and for one who has a discharge, either man [x]or woman, [y]and for him who lies with her who is unclean.' "

■ 15:1–33 This chapter deals with the uncleanness caused by discharges from the sexual organs: (a) long-term male discharge (e.g., gonorrhea; vv. 2–15); (b) short-term male discharges (vv. 16–18); (c) short-term female discharge (menstruation, vv. 19–24); and (d) long-term female discharges (vv. 25–30). That perfectly natural processes like sexual intercourse (v. 18) or menstruation should make someone unclean (i.e., unfit to worship) is surprising. But all these cases involve the loss of bodily fluids (blood or semen), and any loss of a "life fluid" suggested death and was incompatible with the presence of God, who is perfect life.

The New Testament shows God, the giver of perfect life, incarnate in Jesus Christ, healing those who suffered exclusion from His presence under these Old Testament rules (Matt. 9:20–22). The divine program of redemption was historically progressive. The old covenant arrangements that seem so strange to us were early object lessons, a "tutor" pointing forward to the full redemption accomplished in Jesus Christ (Gal. 3:24, 25).

The Day of Atonement

16 Now the LORD spoke to Moses after [a]the death of the two sons of Aaron, when they offered profane fire before the LORD, and died; 2 and the LORD said to Moses: "Tell Aaron your brother [b]not to come at just any time into the Holy Place inside the veil, before the mercy seat which is on the ark, lest he die; for [c]I will appear in the cloud above the mercy seat.

3 I "Thus Aaron shall [d]come into the Holy Place: [e]with the blood of a young bull as a sin offering, and of a ram as a burnt offering. 4 He shall put the [f]holy linen tunic and the linen trousers on his body; he shall be girded with a linen sash, and with the linen turban he shall be attired. These are holy garments. Therefore [g]he shall wash his body in water, and put them on. 5 And he shall take from [h]the congregation of the children of Israel two kids of the goats as a sin offering, and one ram as a burnt offering.

6 "Aaron shall offer the bull as a sin offering, which is for himself, and [i]make atonement for himself and for his house. 7 He shall take the two goats and present them before the LORD at the door of the tabernacle of meeting. 8 Then Aaron shall cast lots for the two goats: one lot for the LORD and the other lot for the scapegoat. 9 And Aaron shall bring the goat on which the LORD's lot fell, and offer it as a sin offering. 10 But the goat on which the lot fell to be the scapegoat shall be presented alive before the LORD, to make [j]atonement upon it, and to let it go as the scapegoat into the wilderness.

11 "And Aaron shall bring the bull of the sin offering, which is for [k]himself, and make atonement for himself and for his house, and shall kill the bull as the sin offering which is for himself. 12 Then he shall take [l]a censer full of burning coals of fire from the altar before the LORD, with his hands full of [m]sweet incense beaten fine, and bring it inside the veil. 13 [n]And he shall put the incense on the fire before the LORD, that the cloud of incense may cover the [o]mercy seat that is on the Testimony, lest he [p]die. 14 [q]He shall take some of the blood of the bull and [r]sprinkle it

■ 16:1–34 The Day of Atonement, when annual atonement was made for the sins of the nation, was the holiest day in the Old Testament calendar. It fell in the Hebrew seventh month (October) and involved the offering of various sacrifices, the entry of the high priest into the Most Holy Place (in this chapter referred to simply as the "Holy Place" or "Holy Sanctuary"), and the dispatch of a goat into the wilderness carrying the people's sins. For a summary of the sacrifices see notes on chs. 1; 4; and 5. A summary of the rites is given in vv. 6–10 and fuller details in vv. 11–28. The Day of Atonement proceeded according to the following steps: (a) The high priest washed and dressed (v. 4); (b) he sacrificed a bull as a sin offering for himself (v. 6; cf. v. 11); (c) he entered the Most Holy Place and sprinkled the ark with blood (vv. 12–14); (d) he took two goats and by lot chose one to be the scapegoat, the other to be a sin offering (vv. 7–8); (e) he sacrificed one goat as a sin offering (vv. 9, 15); (f) he entered the Most Holy Place and sprinkled the ark with blood (v. 15); (g) he went out to the outer part of the tabernacle of meeting and sprinkled the blood (v. 16); (h) he went out into the courtyard of the tabernacle and sprinkled the main altar with blood (vv. 18–19); (i) he confessed the sins of the Israelites as he laid his hands on the scapegoat's head (v. 21); (j) he sent the scapegoat into the desert (vv. 21–22); (k) the scapegoat gone, the high priest changed into his regular garments and washed (vv. 23–24); and (l) finally, he offered burnt offerings for himself and for the people (vv. 24–25).

For the high priest, the most important aspects of the ceremony were his entry into the Most Holy Place with the blood of the sin offerings and the dispatch of the scapegoat into the desert. These actions atoned for the sins of repentant Israelites (vv. 16, 19, 21–22). All sin offerings served to cleanse both the earthly sanctuary and the worshipers, but on other occasions the high priest did not enter the (inner) Most Holy Place, but only the anteroom before the separating veil (usually called the "holy place"), the chamber containing the altar of incense, the gold lampstand, and the table of showbread. Because the ark of the covenant, the focal point of God's presence in the tabernacle (v. 2 note; Ex. 25:17–22 and notes), was housed in the Most Holy Place, entry to the Most Holy Place was rare and dangerous (v. 2). That the high priest entered the inner chamber only on this one day of the year indicated the depth of atonement being made.

The scapegoat ceremony was also unique to this day. By placing his hands on the goat's head and confessing the nation's sins, the high priest transferred those sins to the goat. The goat then symbolically carried the people's sins away into the desert. Christians have long regarded the scapegoat as a type of Christ. The New Testament makes many comparisons between the Day of Atonement and the death of Christ (Heb. 9:6–28; 13:11–13). That Christ was delivered to the Gentiles and killed outside the walls of Jerusalem indicated that He was sent "outside the camp" like the scapegoat of old.

■ 16:1 death of the two sons of Aaron. See 10:1–3.

■ 16:2 mercy seat. Lit. "atonement covering" or "place of atonement" (Ex. 25:17 note). This slab of pure gold served as a lid for the ark and as a base for the two golden cherubim. The divine presence appeared above the lid of the ark (Ex. 25:22; Ps. 99:1), and Aaron sprinkled the mercy seat with blood on the Day of Atonement. God symbolically revealed the gospel through this cover on the ark. The ark contained the two stone tablets of the law inscribed by the finger of God Himself, representing the eternal moral law of God (Deut. 10:1–5). Since all humans have violated this law, the righteousness of God demands death (Ezek. 18:20; Rom. 6:23). God provided the only means of atonement for His chosen people and for their reconciliation to Him—the atoning blood on the ark's cover. That blood-drenched cover was the meeting point of the holy God with His unholy people. It symbolized the heavenly sanctuary where Christ has entered with His own blood (Heb. 9:12), blood that is efficacious for all the sins of His people, past, present, and future (Rom. 3:21–26; Heb. 9:15).

■ 16:3 Aaron was to offer a bull as a sin-offering and a ram as a burnt offering for himself and his family, before offering a goat for the people (v. 5). By contrast, Jesus Christ, the Mediator of the eternal new covenant, was without sin and therefore offered sacrifice for His people only (Heb. 7:26, 27).

■ 16:8 one lot for the LORD. One to be sacrificed.

■ 16:12 take a censer. The smoke from the incense served as a screen between the mercy seat and the high priest, probably to prevent the high priest from seeing the divine presence (v. 13; cf. Ex. 33:20). It also may have served to avert God's wrath (Num. 16:46–50).

with his finger on the mercy seat on the east side; and before the mercy seat he shall sprinkle some of the blood with his finger seven times.

15 [s]"Then he shall kill the goat of the sin offering, which is for the people, bring its blood [t]inside the veil, do with that blood as he did with the blood of the bull, and sprinkle it on the mercy seat and before the mercy seat. 16 So he shall [u]make atonement for the Holy Place, because of the uncleanness of the children of Israel, and because of their transgressions, for all their sins; and so he shall do for the tabernacle of meeting which remains among them in the midst of their uncleanness. 17 There shall be [v]no man in the tabernacle of meeting when he goes in to make atonement in the Holy Place, until he comes out, that he may make atonement for himself, for his household, and for all the assembly of Israel. 18 And he shall go out to the altar that is before the LORD, and make atonement for [w]it, and shall take some of the blood of the bull and some of the blood of the goat, and put it on the horns of the altar all around. 19 Then he shall sprinkle some of the blood on it with his finger seven times, cleanse it, and [x]consecrate[2] it from the [3]uncleanness of the children of Israel.

20 "And when he has made an end of atoning for the Holy Place, the tabernacle of meeting, and the altar, he shall bring the live goat. 21 Aaron shall lay both his hands on the head of the live goat, [y]confess over it all the iniquities of the children of Israel, and all their transgressions, concerning all their sins, [z]putting them on the head of the goat, and shall send it away into the wilderness by the hand of a suitable man. 22 The goat [4]shall [a]bear on itself all their iniquities to an [5]uninhabited land; and he shall [b]release the goat in the wilderness.

23 "Then Aaron shall come into the tabernacle of meeting, [c]shall take off the linen garments which he put on when he went into the Holy Place, and shall leave them there. 24 And he shall wash his body with water in a holy place, put on his garments, come out and offer his burnt offering and the burnt offering of the people, and make [6]atonement for himself and for the people. 25 [d]The fat of the sin offering he shall burn on the altar. 26 And he who released the goat as the scapegoat shall wash his clothes [e]and bathe his body in water, and afterward he may come into the camp. 27 [f]The bull for the sin offering and the goat for the sin offering, whose blood was brought in to make atonement in the Holy Place, shall be carried outside the camp. And they shall burn in the fire their skins, their flesh, and their offal. 28 Then he who burns them shall wash his clothes and bathe his body in water, and afterward he may come into the camp.

29 "This shall be a statute forever for you: [g]In the seventh month, on the tenth day of the month, you shall [7]afflict your souls, and do no work at all, whether a native of your own country or a stranger who [8]dwells among you. 30 For on that day the priest shall make [9]atonement for you, to [h]cleanse you, that you may be clean from all your sins before the LORD. 31 [i]It is a sabbath of solemn rest for you, and you shall afflict your souls. It is a statute forever. 32 [j]And the priest, who is anointed and [k]consecrated to minister as priest in his father's place, shall make atonement, and put on the linen clothes, the holy garments; 33 then he shall make [l]atonement for [2]the Holy Sanctuary, and he shall make atonement for the tabernacle of meeting and for the altar, and he shall make atonement for the priests and for all the people of the assembly. 34 [l]This shall be an everlasting statute for you, to make atonement for the children of Israel, for all their sins, [m]once a year." And he did as the LORD commanded Moses.

■ 16:16 the Holy Place. Here the term denotes the Most Holy Place, or inner sanctuary. The object of the sacrificial ritual was not only the people but the sanctuary itself, which was defiled by their sins. The earthly sanctuary was a representation of the heavenly sanctuary that the blood of Christ also cleansed (Heb. 9:23, 24).

which remains among them. Lit. "which camps among them." The verb connotes impermanence. God's presence is not finalized in this arrangement. His tent dwelling foreshadowed His dwelling among His people through Christ's Incarnation (John 1:14). Today He has sent His Spirit upon His new covenant people, the church (Acts 2), and His Spirit indwells believers, making them the temples of God (1 Cor. 3:16; 6:19). His final dwelling with His people will occur in the new heavens and the new earth (Rev. 21:1–4).

■ 16:29 afflict your souls. See text note. The ordinary Israelites were to show penitence for their sins by not working, by fasting, and possibly by wearing sackcloth (Ps. 69:10, 11). Failing to observe the Day of Atonement could entail death (23:28–30). This is the only holy day to which this threat is attached.

■ 16:34 once a year. By contrast, Jesus Christ offered the final and complete sacrifice for sin (Heb. 9:23–28).

■ 17:1—27:34 In these chapters, the Lord's demands for holiness clearly reach into every aspect of Israel's life. In a discussion on topics as diverse as sexual behavior and the Year of Jubilee, capital crimes and the tabernacle loaves, the Lord teaches that Israel must reflect His holiness in their behavior.

■ 17:3–8 In the wilderness period animals could be killed only at the tabernacle, even for ordinary meals. This was to prevent secret sacrifices kills it outside the camp, 4 and does not bring it to the door of the tabernacle of meeting to offer an offering to the LORD before the tabernacle of the LORD, the guilt of bloodshed shall be [b]imputed to that man. He has shed blood; and that man shall be [1]cut off from among his people, 5 to the end that the children of Israel may bring their sacrifices [c]which they offer in the open field, that they may bring them to the LORD at the door of the tabernacle of meeting, to the priest, and offer them as peace offerings to the LORD. 6 And the priest [d]shall sprinkle the blood on the altar of the LORD at the door of the tabernacle of meeting, and [e]burn the fat for a sweet aroma to the LORD. 7 They shall no more offer their sacrifices [f]to [2]demons, after whom they [g]have played the harlot. This shall be a statute forever for them throughout their generations." '

8 "Also you shall say to them: 'Whatever man of the house of Israel, or of the strangers who dwell among you, [h]who offers a burnt offering or sacrifice, 9 and does not [i]bring it to the door of the tabernacle of meeting, to offer it to the LORD, that man shall be [3]cut off from among his people.

10 [j]'And whatever man of the house of Israel, or of the strangers who dwell among you, who eats any blood, [k]I will set My face against that person who eats blood, and will cut him off from among his people. 11 For the [l]life of the flesh is in the blood, and I have given it to you upon the altar [m]to make atonement for your souls; for [n]it is the blood that makes atonement for the soul.' 12 Therefore I said to the children of Israel, 'No one among you shall eat blood, nor shall any stranger who dwells among you eat blood.'

13 "Whatever man of the children of Israel, or of the strangers who dwell among you, who [o]hunts and catches any animal or bird that may be eaten, he shall [p]pour out its blood and [q]cover it with dust; 14 [r]for it is the life of all flesh. Its blood sustains its life. Therefore I said to the children of Israel, 'You shall not eat the blood of any flesh, for the life of all flesh is its blood. Whoever eats it shall be cut off.'

15 [s]"And every person who eats what died naturally or what was torn by beasts, whether he is a native of your own country or a stranger, [t]he shall both wash his clothes and [u]bathe in water, and be unclean until evening. Then he shall be clean. 16 But if he does not wash them or bathe his body, then [v]he shall bear his [4]guilt."

Laws of Sexual Morality

18 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 2 "Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: [a]'I am the LORD your God. 3 [b]According to [1]the doings of the land of Egypt, where you dwelt, you shall not do; and [c]according to the doings of the land of Canaan, where I am bringing you, you shall not do; nor shall you walk in their [2]ordinances. 4 [d]You shall observe My judgments and keep My ordinances, to walk in them: I am the LORD your God. 5 You shall therefore keep My statutes and My judgments, which if a man does, he shall live by them: I am the LORD.

6 'None of you shall approach anyone who is near of kin to him, to uncover his nakedness: I am the LORD. 7 The nakedness of your father or the nakedness of your mother you shall not uncover. ■ 17:4 has shed blood. Or, has committed a transgression as grievous as any involving bloodshed.

cut off. See note on 7:20.

■ 17:11 One of the most important theological statements in Leviticus. Life is sacred because it belongs to God. As a mark of respect for life and for its Creator, no Israelite could eat meat with blood in it "for the life of the flesh is in the blood" (cf. Gen. 9:4–6). A second reason is that "it is the blood that makes atonement for the soul." The blood of animals shed in sacrifice took the place of, and symbolically redeemed, the life of the worshiper. Because animal blood was the sign of salvation, man must not consume it. These ideas are both assumed and transformed in the New Testament. Christ's shed blood actually atoned for sin (Heb. 9:14, 22; 1 John 1:7), and those who spiritually drink that blood have eternal life (John 6:54).

have given it to you. The sacrificial system of the Old Testament was God's gracious gift to His people. In anticipation of the final and perfect blood sacrifice offered by Christ, God Himself ordained the procedures whereby His righteous wrath might be averted and His people reconciled to Him.

■ 18:1–30 Moses instructs Israel concerning unlawful practices linked to sex and family, including incest (vv. 6–20), child sacrifice (v. 21), homosexuality (v. 22), and bestiality (v. 23). Israel's neighbors were much less restrained in their sexual attitudes and behavior (v. 3). They permitted closer intermarriage than allowed here; they allowed homosexuality (cf. v. 22), and even some types of bestiality (cf. v. 23). The laws in this chapter presuppose that an Israelite would normally marry another Israelite. However, unions between blood relatives of the first degree (brother-sister, father-daughter) and the second degree (father-granddaughter, nephew-aunt) were prohibited. Marriage between close relatives by marriage was also banned.

■ 18:8 your father's wife. Not one's own mother (cf. v. 7), but the father's second wife (cf. 1 Cor. 5:1). The phrase "it is your father's nakedness" recalls the teaching in Gen. 2:24 that the married couple "become one flesh."

■ 18:9 your sister. A full sister or half sister.

the daughter of your father, or the daughter of your mother, whether born at home or elsewhere, their nakedness you shall not uncover. 10 The nakedness of your son's daughter or your daughter's daughter, their nakedness you shall not uncover; for theirs is your own nakedness. 11 The nakedness of your father's wife's daughter, begotten by your father—she is your sister—you shall not uncover her nakedness. 12 [g]You shall not uncover the nakedness of your father's sister; she is near of kin to your father. 13 You shall not uncover the nakedness of your mother's sister, for she is near of kin to your mother. 14 [h]You shall not uncover the nakedness of your father's brother. You shall not approach his wife; she is your aunt. 15 You shall not uncover the nakedness of your daughter-in-law—she is your son's wife—you shall not uncover her nakedness. 16 You shall not uncover the nakedness of your brother's wife; it is your brother's nakedness. 17 You shall not uncover the nakedness of a woman and her [i]daughter, nor shall you take her son's daughter or her daughter's daughter, to uncover her nakedness. They are near of kin to her. It is wickedness. 18 Nor shall you take a woman [j]as a rival to her sister, to uncover her nakedness while the other is alive.

19 'Also you shall not approach a woman to uncover her nakedness as [k]long as she is in her [l]customary impurity. 20 [m]Moreover you shall not lie carnally with your [n]neighbor's wife, to defile yourself with her. 21 And you shall not let any of your descendants [o]pass through [p]the fire to [q]Molech, nor shall you profane the name of your God: I am the LORD. 22 You shall not lie with [r]a male as with a woman. 24 [t]'Do not defile yourselves with any of these things; [u]for by all these the nations are defiled, which I am casting out before you. 25 For [v]the land is defiled; therefore I [w]visit[3] the punishment of its iniquity upon it, and the land [x]vomits out its inhabitants. 26 [y]You shall therefore [4]keep My statutes and My judgments, and shall not commit any of these abominations, either any of your own nation or any stranger who dwells among you 27 (for all these abominations the men of the land have done, who were before you, and thus the land is defiled), 28 lest [z]the land vomit you out also when you defile it, as it vomited out the nations that were before you. 29 For whoever commits any of these abominations, the persons who commit them shall be [5]cut off from among their people.

30 'Therefore you shall keep My [6]ordinance, so [a]that you do not commit any of these abominable customs which were committed before you, and that you do not defile yourselves by them: [b]I am the LORD your God.' "

Moral and Ceremonial Laws

19 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 2 "Speak to all the congregation of the children of Israel, and say to them: [a]'You shall be holy, for I the LORD your God am holy.

3 [b]'Every one of you shall revere his mother and his father, and [c]keep My Sabbaths: I am the LORD your God.

4 [d]'Do not turn to idols, [e]nor make for yourselves [f]molded gods: I am the LORD your God.

5 'And [f]if you offer a sacrifice of a peace offering to the LORD, you shall offer it of your own free will. 6 It shall be eaten the same day you offer it, and on the next day. And if any remains until the third day, it shall be burned in the fire. 7 And if it is eaten at all on the third day, it is an abomination. It shall not be accepted. 8 Therefore everyone who eats it shall bear his iniquity, because he has profaned the hallowed offering of the LORD; and that person shall be cut off from his people.

■ 18:11 your sister. A stepsister.

■ 18:16 The law of levirate marriage (Deut. 25:5 note) encouraged a man to marry his widowed sister-in-law if her first marriage was childless. This provision shows the importance of preserving the family inheritance by perpetuating the family line in Old Testament society (Num. 27:1–11 note).

■ 18:17 her daughter. The daughter of the woman would be the man's step-daughter or step-granddaughter.

■ 18:18 The sad example of Jacob's marriage to Leah and Rachel illustrates the compassionate wisdom of this law (Gen. 29:23—30:24).

■ 18:19 See note on ch. 15.

■ 18:21 through the fire to Molech. The custom of sacrificing children was practiced among the ancient Phoenicians and pagan inhabitants of Canaan (Deut. 12:31 note). The cult of Molech, a god of the Ammonites, was a temptation to the Israelites (1 Kin. 11:7; 2 Kin. 23:10).

■ 18:25 the land is defiled. Uncleanness and sin were contagious: all and everything that came in contact with it was infected, including the sanctuary (16:16 note) and the land.

vomits. This personification of the land underscores the poisonous contagion of uncleanness and sin.

■ 18:29 cut off. See note on 7:20.

■ 19:1–37 The theme of holiness is elaborated as God instructs the people on principles of good neighborliness. The chapter illustrates what holiness meant in daily life. See Introduction: Characteristics and Themes (cf. Matt. 5:48; 1 Cor. 11:1; 1 Pet. 1:16).

■ 19:5 peace offering. See note on 3:1; cf. 7:16–18.

9 [g]'When you reap the harvest of your land, you shall not wholly reap the corners of your field, nor shall you gather the gleanings of your harvest. 10 And you shall not glean your vineyard, nor shall you gather every grape of your vineyard; you shall leave them for the poor and the stranger: I am the LORD your God.

11 [h]'You shall not steal, nor deal falsely, [i]nor lie to one another. 12 And you shall not [j]swear by My name falsely, [k]nor shall you profane the name of your God: I am the LORD.

13 [l]'You shall not cheat your neighbor, nor rob him. [m]The wages of him who is hired shall not remain with you all night until morning. 14 You shall not curse the deaf, [n]nor put a stumbling block before the blind, but shall fear your God: I am the LORD.

15 'You shall do no injustice in [o]judgment. You shall not [p]be partial to the poor, nor honor the person of the mighty. In righteousness you shall judge your neighbor. 16 You shall not go about as a [q]talebearer among your people; nor shall you [r]take a stand against the life of your neighbor: I am the LORD.

17 [s]'You shall not hate your brother in your heart. [t]You shall surely [2]rebuke your neighbor, and not bear sin because of him. 18 [u]You shall not take vengeance, nor bear any grudge against the children of your people, [v]but you shall love your neighbor as yourself: I am the LORD.

19 'You shall keep My statutes. You shall not let your livestock breed with another kind. You shall not sow your field with mixed seed. Nor shall a garment of mixed linen and wool come upon you.

20 'Whoever lies carnally with a woman who is [w]betrothed to a man as a concubine, and who has not at all been redeemed nor given her freedom, for this there shall be [3]scourging; but they shall not be put to death, because she was not free. 21 And he shall bring his trespass offering to the LORD, to the door of the tabernacle of meeting, a ram as a trespass offering. 22 The priest shall make [4]atonement for him with the ram of the trespass offering before the LORD for his sin which he has committed. And the sin which he has committed shall be forgiven him.

23 'When you come into the land, and have planted all kinds of trees for food, then you shall count their fruit as [5]uncircumcised. Three years it shall be as uncircumcised to you. It shall not be eaten. 24 But in the fourth year all its fruit shall be holy, a praise to the LORD. 25 And in the fifth year you may eat its fruit, that it may yield to you its increase: I am the LORD your God.

26 'You shall not eat anything with the blood, nor shall you practice divination or soothsaying. 27 You shall not shave around the sides of your head, nor shall you disfigure the edges of your beard. 28 You shall not [x]make any cuttings in your flesh for the dead, nor tattoo any marks on you: I am the LORD.

29 [y]'Do not prostitute your daughter, to cause her to be a harlot, lest the land fall into harlotry, and the land become full of wickedness.

30 'You shall [6]keep My Sabbaths and [z]reverence My sanctuary: I am the LORD.

31 'Give no regard to mediums and familiar spirits; do not seek after [a]them, to be defiled by them: I am the LORD your God.

32 [b]'You shall [7]rise before the gray headed and honor the presence of an old man, and [c]fear your God: I am the LORD.

33 'And [d]if a stranger dwells with you in your land, you shall not mistreat him. 34 [e]The stranger who dwells among you shall be to you as [8]one born among you, and [f]you shall love him as yourself; for you were strangers in the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God.

35 'You shall do no injustice in judgment, in measurement of length, weight, or volume. 36 You shall have [g]honest scales, honest weights, an honest ephah, and an honest hin: I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt.

37 [h]'Therefore you shall observe all My statutes and all My judgments, and perform them: I am the LORD.' "

■ 19:13 wages of him who is hired. See Deut. 24:14, 15.

■ 19:17 surely rebuke . . . because of him. A candid yet tactful reproof of the wrongdoer is better than storing up destructive hatred against that neighbor and so causing oneself to sin as well (Prov. 27:5; Matt. 18:15; Gal. 6:1).

■ 19:18 love your neighbor. A "neighbor" was anyone with whom there was contact, whether Israelite (v. 17) or alien (v. 34; cf. Matt. 22:39, 40; Rom. 13:9).

■ 19:19 Respecting boundaries and distinctions was an aspect of holiness.

■ 19:21 trespass offering. See note on 5:14—6:7.

■ 19:24 Firstfruits, like first-born livestock and children, were to be given to God (Ex. 22:29, 30; 23:19), for Israel was God's firstborn and so was consecrated to Him (Ex. 4:22).

■ 19:28 Mutilation of the body created by God was incompatible with holiness, for the holy God is perfect life (Deut. 14:1 note).

Penalties for Breaking the Law

20 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 2 [a]"Again, you shall say to the children of Israel: [b]'Whoever of the children of Israel, or of the strangers who [1]dwell in Israel, who gives any of his descendants to Molech, he shall surely be put to death. The people of the land shall [c]stone him with stones. 3 [d]I will set My face against that man, and will [2]cut him off from his people, because he has given some of his descendants to Molech, to defile My sanctuary and profane My holy name. 4 And if the people of the land should in any way [3]hide their eyes from the man, when he gives some of his descendants to Molech, and they do not kill him, 5 then I will set My face against that man and against his family; and I will cut him off from his people, and all who prostitute themselves with him to commit harlotry with Molech.

6 'And [e]the person who turns to mediums and familiar spirits, to prostitute himself with them, I will set My face against that person and cut him off from his people. 7 [f]Consecrate[4] yourselves therefore, and be holy, for I am the LORD your God. 8 And you shall keep [g]My statutes, and perform them: [h]I am the LORD who [5]sanctifies you.

9 'For [i]everyone who curses his father or his mother shall surely be put to death. He has cursed his father or his mother. [j]His blood shall be upon him.

10 [k]'The man who commits adultery with another man's wife, he who commits adultery with his neighbor's wife, the adulterer and the adulteress, shall surely be put to death. 11 The man who lies with his [l]father's wife has uncovered his father's nakedness; both of them shall surely be put to death. Their blood shall be upon them. 12 If a man lies with his [m]daughter-in-law, both of them shall surely be put to death. They have committed perversion. Their blood shall be upon them. 13 [n]If a man lies with a male as he lies with a woman, both of them have committed an abomination. They shall surely be put to death. Their blood shall be upon them. 14 If a man marries a woman and her [o]mother, it is wickedness. They shall be burned with fire, both he and they, that there may be no wickedness among you. 15 If a man mates with an [p]animal, he shall surely be put to death, and you shall kill the animal. 16 If a woman approaches any animal and mates with it, you shall kill the woman and the animal. They shall surely be put to death. Their blood is upon them.

17 'If a man takes his [q]sister, his father's daughter or his mother's daughter, and sees her nakedness and she sees his nakedness, it is a wicked thing. And they shall be [6]cut off in the sight of their people. He has uncovered his sister's nakedness. He shall bear his [7]guilt. 18 [r]If a man lies with a woman during her [8]sickness and uncovers her nakedness, he has [9]exposed her flow, and she has uncovered the flow of her blood. Both of them shall be [t]cut off from their people.

19 'You shall not uncover the nakedness of your [s]mother's sister nor of your [t]father's sister, for that would uncover his near of kin. They shall bear their guilt. 20 If a man lies with his [u]uncle's wife, he has uncovered his uncle's nakedness. They shall bear their sin; they shall die childless. 21 If a man takes his [v]brother's wife, it is an [z]unclean thing. He has uncovered his brother's nakedness. They shall be childless.

22 'You shall therefore keep all My [w]statutes and all My judgments, and perform them, that the land where I am bringing you to dwell [x]may not vomit you out. 23 [y]And you shall not walk in the statutes of the nation which I am casting out before you; for they commit all these things, and [z]therefore I abhor them. 24 But [a]I have said to you, "You shall inherit their land, and I will give it to you to possess, a land flowing with milk and honey." I am the LORD your God, [b]who has separated you from the peoples. 25 [c]You shall therefore distinguish between clean animals and unclean, between unclean birds and clean, [d]and you shall not make yourselves [3]abominable by beast or by bird, or by any kind of living thing that creeps on the ground, which I have separated from you as [4]unclean. 26 And you shall be holy to Me, [e]for I the LORD am holy, and have separated you from the peoples, that you should be Mine.

27 [f]'A man or a woman who is a medium, or who has familiar spirits, shall surely be put to death; they shall stone them with stones. Their blood shall be upon them.' "

■ 20:1–27 The instruction here repeats many of the same points of chs. 18; 19 (for parallel verses, consult the cross-references), but with the addition of prescribed penalties. The death penalty is indicated for many offenses, pointing to the horror with which God viewed them (cf. Rom. 1:18–32). In other cases divine penalties, such as cutting off (7:20 note), are mentioned; these cover situations where detection might be difficult (v. 18) or family solidarity might make the head of the family reluctant to punish (v. 17).

Regulations for Conduct of Priests

21 And the LORD said to Moses, "Speak to the priests, the sons of Aaron, and say to them: [a]'None shall defile himself for the dead among his people, [2] except for his relatives who are nearest to him: his mother, his father, his son, his daughter, and his brother; [3] also his virgin sister who is near to him, who has had no husband, for her he may defile himself. [4] Otherwise he shall not defile himself, being a [1]chief man among his people, to profane himself.

[5] [b]'They shall not make any bald place on their heads, nor shall they shave the edges of their beards nor make any cuttings in their flesh. [6] They shall be [c]holy to their God and not profane the name of their God, for they offer the offerings of the LORD made by fire, and the [d]bread of their God; [e]therefore they shall be holy. [7] [f]They shall not take a wife who is a harlot or a defiled woman, nor shall they take a woman [g]divorced from her husband; for [2]the priest is holy to his God. [8] Therefore you shall [3]consecrate him, for he offers the bread of your God. He shall be holy to you, for [h]I the LORD, who [i]sanctify you, am holy. [9] The daughter of any priest, if she profanes herself by playing the harlot, she profanes her father. She shall be [j]burned with fire.

[10] 'He who is the high priest among his brethren, on whose head the anointing oil was [k]poured and who is consecrated to wear the garments, shall not [l]uncover[4] his head nor tear his clothes; [11] nor shall he go [m]near any dead body, nor defile himself for his father or his mother; [12] [n]nor shall he go out of the sanctuary, nor profane the sanctuary of his God; for the [o]consecration of the anointing oil of his God is upon him: I am the LORD. [13] And he shall take a wife in her virginity. [14] A widow or a divorced woman or a defiled woman or a harlot—these he shall not marry; but he shall take a virgin of his own people as wife. [15] Nor shall he profane his posterity among his people, for I the LORD sanctify him.' "

[16] And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [17] "Speak to Aaron, saying: 'No man of your descendants in succeeding generations, who has any defect, may approach to offer the bread of his God. [18] For any man who has a [p]defect shall not approach: a man blind or lame, who has a marred face or any limb [q]too long, [19] a man who has a broken foot or broken hand, [20] or is a hunchback or a dwarf, or a man who has a defect in his eye, or eczema or scab, or is a eunuch. [21] No man of the descendants of Aaron the priest, who has a defect, shall come near to offer the offerings made by fire to the LORD. He has a defect; he shall not come near to offer the bread of his God. [22] He may eat the bread of his God, both the most holy and the holy; [23] only he shall not go near the [r]veil or approach the altar, because he has a defect, lest [s]he profane My sanctuaries; for I the LORD sanctify them.' "

[24] And Moses told it to Aaron and his sons, and to all the children of Israel.

22 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "Speak to Aaron and his sons, that they [a]separate[1] themselves from the holy things of the children of Israel, and that they [b]do not profane My holy name by what they [c]dedicate to Me: I am the LORD. [3] Say to them: 'Whoever of all your descendants throughout your generations, who goes near the holy things which the children of Israel dedicate to the LORD, [d]while he has [2]uncleanness upon him, that person shall be cut off from My presence: I am the LORD.

[4] 'Whatever man of the descendants of Aaron, who is a [e]leper or has [f]a discharge, shall not eat the holy offerings [g]until he is clean. And [h]whoever touches anything made unclean by a corpse, or [i]a man who has had an emission of semen, [5] or [j]whoever touches any creeping thing by which he would be made unclean, or [k]any person by whom he would become unclean, whatever his uncleanness may be— [6] the person who has touched any such thing shall be unclean until evening, and shall not eat the holy offerings unless he [l]washes his body with water. [7] And when the sun goes down he shall be clean; and afterward he may eat the holy offerings, because [m]it is his food. [8] [n]Whatever dies naturally or is torn by beasts he shall not eat, to defile himself with it: I am the LORD.

■ 21:1–24 Ceremonial cleanliness regulations specific to the priests are recorded. These deal with priests in general (vv. 1–9), the high priest (vv. 10–15), and priests suffering from defects (vv. 16–24). All priests represented man as restored to the image of God and therefore had to show God's holiness in their character and in their bodies. Holiness in restored man ultimately involves his perfection and health (fullness of life; freedom from mortality, perishableness, decay), so priests with certain handicaps were forbidden to offer sacrifice (vv. 17–21). But handicapped priests still enjoyed a full share of priestly dues (v. 22).

■ 21:1 Holiness (life) and death are incompatible; therefore priests could not mourn for any save their closest relatives (vv. 2–3).

■ 21:5 Mourning customs involving disfigurement of the body were also banned, for priests as holy men had to have whole bodies (Deut. 14:1 note).

■ 21:10–12 The high priest, representing man restored to fellowship with God, was obliged to avoid all contact with death (cf. 10:6, 7).

■ 22:3 For any unclean person to eat holy food from a sacrifice was to risk death (7:20–21). Uncleanness (death) and holiness (life) were not to mix.

14 'And if a man eats the holy offering unintentionally, then he shall restore a holy offering to the priest, and add one-fifth to it. 15 They shall not profane the [s]holy offerings of the children of Israel, which they offer to the LORD, 16 or allow them to bear the guilt of trespass when they eat their holy offerings; for I the LORD sanctify them.' "

Offerings Accepted and Not Accepted

17 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 18 "Speak to Aaron and his sons, and to all the children of Israel, and say to them: [t]'Whatever man of the house of Israel, or of the strangers in Israel, who [5]offers his sacrifice for any of his vows or for any of his freewill offerings, which they offer to the LORD as a burnt offering— 19 [u]you shall offer of your own free will a male without blemish from the cattle, from the sheep, or from the goats. 20 [v]Whatever has a defect, you shall not offer, for it shall not be acceptable on your behalf. 21 And [w]whoever offers a sacrifice of a peace offering to the LORD, [x]to fulfill his vow, or a freewill offering from the cattle or the sheep, it must be perfect to be accepted; there shall be no defect in it. 22 [y]Those that are blind or broken or maimed, or have an [6]ulcer or eczema or scabs, you shall not offer to the LORD, nor make [z]an offering by fire of them on the altar to the LORD. 23 Either a bull or a lamb that has any limb [a]too long or too short you may offer as a freewill offering, but for a vow it shall not be accepted.

24 'You shall not offer to the LORD what is bruised or crushed, or torn or cut; nor shall you make any offering of them in your land. 25 Nor [b]from a foreigner's hand shall you offer any of these as [c]the bread of your God, because their [d]corruption is in them, and defects are in them. They shall not be accepted on your behalf.' "

26 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 27 [e]"When a bull or a sheep or a goat is born, it shall be seven days with its mother; and from the eighth day and thereafter it shall be accepted as an offering made by fire to the LORD. 28 Whether it is a cow or ewe, do not kill both her [f]and her young on the same day. 29 And when you [g]offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving to the LORD, offer it of your own free will. 30 On the same day it shall be eaten; you shall leave [h]none of it until morning: I am the LORD.

31 [i]"Therefore you shall keep My commandments, and perform them: I am the LORD. 32 [j]You shall not profane My holy name, but [k]I will be [7]hallowed among the children of Israel. I am the LORD who [l]sanctifies you, 33 [m]who brought you out of the land of Egypt, to be your God: I am the LORD."

Feasts of the LORD

23 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 2 "Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: 'The feasts of the LORD, which you shall proclaim to be [a]holy convocations, these are My feasts.

The Sabbath

3 [b]'Six days shall work be done, but the seventh day is a Sabbath of solemn rest, a holy convocation. You shall do no work on it; it is the Sabbath of the LORD in all your dwellings.

■ 22:10–13 These verses define which dependents of the priests were allowed to eat sacrificial food.

■ 22:14 A penalty of restitution was prescribed for non-priests who ate the priestly portions of the sacrifices (cf. 5:14–16).

■ 22:17–25 Only blemish-free animals were to be sacrificed. This was partly because God was not to be given anything but the best (Mal. 1:8), and partly because the holiness of sacrifices was symbolized by a perfect physical body (cf. 21:17–21).

■ 22:23 In the case of the optional freewill offering, a kind of peace offering (ch. 3), minor blemishes could be tolerated.

■ 22:27, 28 Killing an animal soon after birth showed little respect for life and therefore was incompatible with holiness. So, too, did killing an animal and its young on the same day (cf. Deut. 14:21; 22:6, 7).

■ 23:1–44 Attention turns to the calendar of holy days, with specific instructions for the laity (cf. Num. 28, 29, where instructions are given to the priests specifying sacrifices on the different days).

The Passover and Unleavened Bread

4 [c]"These are the feasts of the LORD, holy convocations which you shall proclaim at their appointed times. 5 [d]On the fourteenth day of the first month at twilight is the LORD's Passover. 6 And on the fifteenth day of the same month is the Feast of Unleavened Bread to the LORD; seven days you must eat unleavened bread. 7 [e]On the first day you shall have a holy convocation; you shall do no [f]customary work on it. 8 But you shall offer an offering made by fire to the LORD for seven days. The seventh day shall be a holy convocation; you shall do no customary work on it.' "

The Feast of Firstfruits

9 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 10 "Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: [f]'When you come into the land which I give to you, and reap its harvest, then you shall bring a sheaf of [g]the firstfruits of your harvest to the priest. 11 He shall [h]wave the sheaf before the LORD, to be accepted on your behalf; on the day after the Sabbath the priest shall wave it. 12 And you shall offer on that day, when you wave the sheaf, a male lamb of the first year, without blemish, as a burnt offering to the LORD. 13 Its grain offering shall be two-tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with oil, an offering made by fire to the LORD, for a [2]sweet aroma; and its drink offering shall be of wine, one-fourth of a hin. 14 You shall eat neither bread nor parched grain nor fresh grain until the same day that you have brought an offering to your God; it shall be a statute forever throughout your generations in all your dwellings.

The Feast of Weeks

15 'And you shall count for yourselves from the day after the Sabbath, from the day that you brought the sheaf of the wave offering: seven Sabbaths shall be completed. 16 Count [i]fifty days to the day after the seventh Sabbath; then you shall offer [j]a new grain offering to the LORD. 17 You shall bring from your dwellings two wave loaves of two-tenths of an ephah. They shall be of fine flour; they shall be baked with leaven. They are [k]the firstfruits to the LORD. 18 And you shall offer with the bread seven lambs of the first year, without blemish, one young bull, and two rams. They shall be as a burnt offering to the LORD, with their grain offering and their drink offerings, an offering made by fire for a sweet aroma to the LORD. 19 Then you shall sacrifice [l]one kid of the goats as a sin offering, and two male lambs of the first year as a sacrifice of a [m]peace offering. 20 The priest shall wave them with the bread of the firstfruits as a wave offering before the LORD, with the two lambs. [n]They shall be holy to the LORD for the priest. 21 And you shall proclaim on the same day that it is a holy convocation to you. You shall do no customary work on it. It shall be a statute forever in all your dwellings throughout your generations.

22 [o]'When you reap the harvest of your land, you shall not wholly reap the corners of your field when you reap, nor shall you gather any gleaning from your harvest. You shall leave them for the poor and for the stranger: I am the LORD your God.' "

The Feast of Trumpets

23 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 24 "Speak to the children of Israel, saying: 'In the [p]seventh month, on the first day of the month, you shall have a sabbath-rest, [q]a memorial of blowing of trumpets, a holy convocation. 25 You shall do no customary work on it; and you shall offer an offering made by fire to the LORD.' "

The Day of Atonement

26 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 27 [r]"Also the tenth day of this seventh month shall be the Day of Atonement. It shall be a holy convocation for you; you shall afflict your souls, and offer an offering made by fire to the LORD. 28 And you shall do no work on that same day, for it is the Day of Atonement, [s]to make atonement for you before the LORD your God. 29 For any person who is not [t]afflicted in soul on that same day [u]shall be cut off from his people. 30 And any person who does any work on that same day, [v]that person I will destroy from among his people. 31 You shall do no manner of work; it shall be a statute forever throughout your generations in all your dwellings. 32 It shall be to you a sabbath of solemn rest, and you shall [3]afflict your souls; on the ninth day of the month at evening, from evening to evening, you shall [4]celebrate your sabbath."

The Feast of Tabernacles

33 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 34 "Speak to the children of Israel, saying: [w] 'The fifteenth day of this seventh month shall be the Feast of Tabernacles for seven days to the LORD. 35 On the first day there shall be a holy convocation. You shall do no customary work on it. 36 For seven days you shall offer an [x]offering made by fire to the LORD. [y]On the eighth day you shall have a holy convocation, and you shall offer an offering made by fire to the LORD. It is a [z]sacred[5] assembly, and you shall do no customary work on it.

37 [a] 'These are the feasts of the LORD which you shall proclaim to be holy convocations, to offer an offering made by fire to the LORD, a burnt offering and a grain offering, a sacrifice and drink offerings, everything on its day— 38 [b]besides the Sabbaths of the LORD, besides your gifts, besides all your vows, and besides all your freewill offerings which you give to the LORD.

39 'Also on the fifteenth day of the seventh month, when you have [c]gathered in the fruit of the land, you shall keep the feast of the LORD for seven days; on the first day there shall be a sabbath-rest, and on the eighth day a sabbath-rest. 40 And [d]you shall take for yourselves on the first day the [6]fruit of beautiful trees, branches of palm trees, the boughs of leafy trees, and willows of the brook; [e]and you shall rejoice before the LORD your God for seven days. 41 [f]You shall keep it as a feast to the LORD for seven days in the year. It shall be a statute forever in your generations. You shall celebrate it in the seventh month. 42 [g]You shall dwell in [7]booths for seven days. [h]All who are native Israelites shall dwell in booths, 43 [i]that your generations may [j]know that I made the children of Israel dwell in booths when [k]I brought them out of the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God.' "

44 So Moses [l]declared to the children of Israel the feasts of the LORD.

*The three major feasts for which all males of Israel were required to travel to the temple in Jerusalem (Ex. 23:14–19).

Care of the Tabernacle Lamps

24 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 2 [a]"Command the children of Israel that they bring to you pure oil of pressed olives for the light, to make the lamps burn continually. 3 Outside the veil of the Testimony, in the tabernacle of meeting, Aaron shall be in charge of it from evening until morning before the LORD continually; it shall be a statute forever in your generations. 4 He shall [1][b]be in charge of the lamps on [b]the pure gold lampstand before the LORD continually.

The Bread of the Tabernacle

5 "And you shall take fine flour and bake twelve [c]cakes with it. Two-tenths of an ephah shall be in each cake. 6 You shall set them in two rows, six in a row, [d]on the pure gold table before the LORD. 7 And you shall put pure frankincense on each row, that it may be on the bread for a [e]memorial, an offering made by fire to the LORD. 8 [f]Every Sabbath he shall set it in order before the LORD continually, being taken from the children of Israel by an everlasting covenant. 9 And [g]it shall be for Aaron and his sons, [h]and they shall eat it in a holy place; for it is most holy to him from the offerings of the LORD made by fire, by a perpetual statute."

The Penalty for Blasphemy

10 Now the son of an Israelite woman, whose father was an Egyptian, went out among the children of Israel; and this Israelite woman's son and a man of Israel fought each other in the camp. 11 And the Israelite woman's son [i]blasphemed the name of the LORD and [j]cursed; and so they [k]brought him to Moses. (His mother's name was Shelomith the daughter of Dibri, of the tribe of Dan.) 12 Then they [l]put him [2]in custody, [m]that [3]the mind of the LORD might be shown to them.

13 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 14 "Take outside the camp him who has cursed; then let all who heard him [n]lay their hands on his head, and let all the congregation stone him.

15 "Then you shall speak to the children of Israel, saying: 'Whoever curses his God [o]shall [4]bear his sin. 16 And whoever [p]blasphemes the name of the LORD shall surely be put to death. All the congregation shall certainly stone him, the stranger as well as him who is born in the land. When he blasphemes the name of the LORD, he shall be put to death.

17 [q]'Whoever kills any man shall surely be put to death. 18 [r]Whoever kills an animal shall make it good, animal for animal.

19 'If a man causes disfigurement of his neighbor, as [s]he has done, so shall it be done to him— 20 fracture for [t]fracture, [u]eye for eye, tooth for tooth; as he has caused disfigurement of a man, so shall it be done to him. 21 And whoever kills an animal shall restore it; but whoever kills a man shall be put to death. 22 You shall have [v]the[5] same law for the stranger and for one from your own country; for I am the LORD your God.' "

23 Then Moses spoke to the children of Israel; and they took outside the camp him who had cursed, and stoned him with stones. So the children of Israel did as the LORD commanded Moses.

The Sabbath of the Seventh Year

25 And the LORD spoke to Moses on Mount [a]Sinai, saying, 2 "Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: 'When you come into the land which I give you, then the land shall [b]keep a sabbath to the LORD. 3 Six years you shall sow your field, and six years you shall prune your vineyard, and gather its fruit; 4 but in the [c]seventh year there shall be a sabbath of

2 [b]Lev. 26:34, 35

■ 24:2 the lamps. See Ex. 25:31–40 and notes. These formed part of the lampstand that stood in the holy place. Shaped to resemble an almond tree in bloom, the lampstand symbolized the life-giving and light-giving power of God.

■ 24:5 See Ex. 25:23–30 and notes.

■ 24:10 father was an Egyptian. After many years of slavery in Egypt cases of intermarriage were no doubt common. See note on Ex. 12:38.

■ 24:11 blasphemed. See Ex. 20:7; 22:28.

■ 24:14 lay their hands on his head. This action was taken to rid themselves of the guilt they had contracted by hearing his blasphemy.

■ 24:20 eye for eye, tooth for tooth. Designed to curb exaggerated revenge (cf. Gen. 4:24), this formula vividly expressed the principle that punishment should be proportionate to the offense. It seems not to have been enforced literally (Ex. 21:26, 27; Deut. 19:21 note). Jesus' opposition to the misuse of this phrase (Matt. 5:38) involved, not an abrogation of this principle of equivalence, but a call to temper its application in light of the love commandment (19:18; cf. Matt. 7:12), in the interests of the kingdom (Matt. 5:10–12), and in the knowledge of God's coming wrath (Rom. 12:17–21; cf. Deut. 32:35).

■ 25:1–55 The Lord demonstrates His ownership of the Promised Land through laws preventing the exploitation of the land and its tenants (v. 23 note).

■ 25:1–7 Just as man needed a day of rest, land without fertilizers needed to lie fallow for a time. See the similar regulations in Ex. 23:10, 11.

solemn [d]rest for the land, a sabbath to the LORD. You shall neither sow your field nor prune your vineyard. 5 [e]What grows of its own accord of your harvest you shall not reap, nor gather the grapes of your untended vine, for it is a year of rest for the land. 6 And the sabbath produce of the land shall be food for you: for you, your male and female servants, your hired man, and the stranger who dwells with you, 7 for your livestock and the beasts that are in your land—all its produce shall be for food.

The Year of Jubilee

8 'And you shall count seven sabbaths of years for yourself, seven times seven years; and the time of the seven sabbaths of years shall be to you forty-nine years. 9 Then you shall cause the trumpet of the Jubilee to sound on the tenth day of the seventh month; [f]on the Day of Atonement you shall make the trumpet to sound throughout all your land. 10 And you shall consecrate the fiftieth year, and [g]proclaim liberty throughout all the land to all its inhabitants. It shall be a Jubilee for you; [h]and each of you shall return to his possession, and each of you shall return to his family. 11 That fiftieth year shall be a Jubilee to you; in it [i]you shall neither sow nor reap what grows of its own accord, nor gather the grapes of your untended vine. 12 For it is the Jubilee; it shall be holy to you; [j]you shall eat its produce from the field.

13 [k]'In this Year of Jubilee, each of you shall return to his possession. 14 And if you sell anything to your neighbor or buy from your neighbor's hand, you shall not [l]oppress one another. 15 [m]According to the number of years after the Jubilee you shall buy from your neighbor, and according to the number of years of crops he shall sell to you. 16 According to the multitude of years you shall increase its price, and according to the fewer number of years you shall diminish its price; for he sells to you according to the number of the years of the crops. 17 Therefore [n]you shall not [l]oppress one another, [o]but you shall fear your God; for I am the LORD your God.

■ 25:10 Jubilee. More than a fallow year, it was a year in which all the poor who had fallen into debt were given a fresh start. Loans were written off. Land that had been sold was returned to its original owner, and slaves were released (v. 40).

■ 25:13 return to his possession. God protected His gift to each family within the covenant community. In this way He protected the family structure, provided life in perpetuity for them, and prevented commercial exploitation of His gift.

Israel's Other Sacred Times (25:1)
Sabbath Ex. 20:8–11; 31:12–17; Lev. 23:3; Deut. 5:12–15	Every seventh day was a solemn rest from all work.
Sabbath Year Ex. 23:10, 11; Lev. 25:1–7	Every seventh year was designated a "year of release" to allow the land to lie fallow.
Year of Jubilee Lev. 25:8–55; 27:17–24; Ezek. 46:17	The 50th year, which followed seven Sabbath years, was to proclaim liberty to those who were servants because of debt, and to return lands to their former owners.
The New Moon Num. 28:11–15; Ps. 81:3	The first day of the Hebrew 29- or 30-day month was a day of rest, special sacrifices, and the blowing of trumpets.
Dedication (Lights or Hanukkah) John 10:22	An eight-day feast in the ninth month (Chislev) commemorating the cleansing of the temple from defilement by Syria, and its rededication.
Purim (Lots) Esth. 9:18–32	A feast on the 14th and 15th of the 12th month (Adar). The name comes from Babylonian Pur, meaning "lot."

Provisions for the Seventh Year

18 [p]'So you shall observe My statutes and keep My judgments, and perform them; [q]and you will dwell in the land in safety. 19 Then the land will yield its fruit, and [r]you will eat your fill, and dwell there in safety.

20 'And if you say, [s]"What shall we eat in the seventh year, since [t]we shall not sow nor gather in our produce?" 21 Then I will [u]command My blessing on you in the [v]sixth year, and it will bring forth produce enough for three years. 22 [w]And you shall sow in the eighth year, and eat [x]old produce until the ninth year; until its produce comes in, you shall eat of the old harvest.

Redemption of Property

23 'The land shall not be sold permanently, for [y]the land is Mine; for you are [z]strangers and sojourners with Me. 24 And in all the land of your possession you shall grant redemption of the land.

25 [a]'If one of your brethren becomes poor, and has sold some of his possession, and if [b]his redeeming relative comes to redeem it, then he may redeem what his brother sold. 26 Or if the man has no one to redeem it, but he himself becomes able to redeem it, 27 then [c]let him count the years since its sale, and restore the remainder to the man to whom he sold it, that he may return to his possession. 28 But if he is not able to have it restored to himself, then what was sold shall remain in the hand of him who bought it until the Year of Jubilee; [d]and in the Jubilee it shall be released, and he shall return to his possession.

29 'If a man sells a house in a walled city, then he may redeem it within a whole year after it is sold; within a full year he may redeem it. 30 But if it is not redeemed within the space of a full year, then the house in the walled city shall belong permanently to him who bought it, throughout his generations. It shall not be released in the Jubilee. 31 However the houses of villages which have no wall around them shall be counted as the fields of the country. They may be redeemed, and they shall be released in the Jubilee. 32 Nevertheless [e]the cities of the Levites, and the houses in the cities of their possession, the Levites may redeem at any time. 33 And if a man purchases a house from the Levites, then the house that was sold in the city of his possession shall be released in the Jubilee; for the houses in the cities of the Levites are their possession among the children of Israel. 34 But [f]the field of the common-land of their cities may not be [g]sold, for it is their perpetual possession.

Lending to the Poor

35 'If one of your brethren becomes poor, and [z]falls into poverty among you, then you shall [h]help him, like a stranger or a sojourner, that he may live with you. 36 [i]Take no usury or interest from him; but [j]fear your God, that your brother may live with you. 37 You shall not lend him your money for usury, nor lend him your food at a profit. 38 [k]I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, to give you the land of Canaan and to be your God.

The Law Concerning Slavery

39 'And if one of your brethren who dwells by you becomes poor, and sells himself to you, you shall not compel him to serve as a slave. 40 As a hired servant and a sojourner he shall be with you, and shall serve you until the Year of Jubilee. 41 And then he shall depart from you—he and his children [l]with him—and shall return to his own family. He shall return to the possession of his fathers. 42 For they are [m]My servants, whom I brought out of the land of Egypt; they shall not be sold as slaves. 43 [n]You shall not rule over him [o]with [3]rigor, but you [p]shall fear your God. 44 And as for your male and female slaves whom you may have—from the nations that are around you, from them you may buy male and female slaves. 45 Moreover you may buy [q]the

■ 25:23 land is Mine. Although God gave Israel the land as one of His good gifts to them to be enjoyed (Deut. 6:10–12; 8:10–13), He still retained final ownership and so might terminate the lease should the people prove undesirable tenants. They did not possess the land as an inalienable right but within the structures of a covenantal relationship with God. The land was not private property to be bought and sold. It symbolized life with God.

■ 25:25 All the sales described here took place because of hardship. Land was not to be permanently sold from one family to another.

■ 25:26 It was hoped that a relative would buy a poor man's land and return it to him. In any event, he or his family would receive it back in the Year of Jubilee.

■ 25:29, 30 In contrast to agricultural land, houses within cities had to be redeemed within a year or the sale was permanent.

■ 25:36 See note on Deut. 23:19 (Ps. 15:5).

■ 25:39 If a man sold a son or a daughter into slavery because of debt, the servant was released after seven years (Ex. 21:2–11; Deut. 15:12–18). This text deals with an even worse debt where, presumably having sold his land, a man and his whole family were sold as slaves (v. 41). In this case they were released in the Year of Jubilee.

46 [r]Is. 14:2
50 [s]Job 7:1; Is. 16:14

children of the strangers who dwell among you, and their families who are with you, which they beget in your land; and they shall become your property. 46 And [r]you may take them as an inheritance for your children after you, to inherit them as a possession; they shall be your permanent slaves. But regarding your brethren, the children of Israel, you shall not rule over one another with rigor.

47 'Now if a sojourner or stranger close to you becomes rich, and one of your brethren who dwells by him becomes poor, and sells himself to the stranger or sojourner close to you, or to a member of the stranger's family, 48 after he is sold he may be redeemed again. One of his brothers may redeem him; 49 or his uncle or his uncle's son may redeem him; or anyone who is near of kin to him in his family may redeem him; or if he is able he may redeem himself. 50 Thus he shall reckon with him who bought him: The price of his release shall be according to the number of years, from the year that he was sold to him until the Year of Jubilee; it shall be [s]according to the time of a hired servant for him. 51 If there are still many years remaining, according to them he shall repay the price of his redemption from the money with which he was bought. 52 And if there remain but a few years until the Year of Jubilee, then he shall reckon with him, and according to his years he shall repay him the price of his redemption. 53 He shall be with him as a yearly hired servant, and he shall not rule with rigor over him in your sight. 54 And if he is not redeemed in these years, then he shall be released in the Year of Jubilee—he and his children with him. 55 For the children of Israel are servants to Me; they are My servants whom I brought out of the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God.

Promise of Blessing and Retribution

26 'You shall [a]not make idols for yourselves; neither a carved image nor a sacred pillar shall you rear up for yourselves;
nor shall you set up an engraved stone in your land, to bow down to it;
for I am the LORD your God.
2 [b]You shall [1]keep My Sabbaths and reverence My sanctuary:
I am the LORD.

3 [c]'If you walk in My statutes and keep My commandments, and perform them,
4 [d]then I will give you rain in its season, [e]the land shall yield its produce, and the trees of the field shall yield their fruit.
5 [f]Your threshing shall last till the time of vintage, and the vintage shall last till the time of sowing;
you shall eat your bread to the full, and [g]dwell in your land safely.
6 [h]I will give peace in the land, and [i]you shall lie down, and none will make you afraid;
I will rid the land of [j]evil[2] beasts, and [k]the sword will not go through your land.
7 You will chase your enemies, and they shall fall by the sword before you.
8 [l]Five of you shall chase a hundred, and a hundred of you shall put ten thousand to flight; your enemies shall fall by the sword before you.

9 'For I will [m]look on you favorably and [n]make you fruitful, multiply you and confirm My [o]covenant with you.
10 You shall eat the [p]old harvest, and clear out the old because of the new.
11 [q]I will set My [3]tabernacle among you, and My soul shall not abhor you.
12 [r]I will walk among you and be your God, and you shall be My people.
13 I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, that you should not be their slaves;
I have broken the bands of your [s]yoke and made you walk [4]upright.

14 'But if you do not obey Me, and do not observe all these commandments,
15 and if you despise My statutes, or if your soul abhors My judgments, so that you do not perform all My commandments, but break My covenant,

■ 26:1–46 The Lord's instruction to the Israelites culminates in promises of blessings for obedience (vv. 3–13) and of curses for disobedience (vv. 14–39).

■ 26:11 Israel's obedience to the covenant requirements would be rewarded with blessing (Ex. 20:12; Deut. 28:1–14; cf. Matt. 6:4), culminating in the greatest of all blessings—the presence of God with His people (Ex. 29:42–46 and note).

■ 26:14–39 Disobedience to God brings suffering (Ex. 20:7; Deut. 28:15–68). Many prophetic passages echo Lev. 26 and Deut. 28, as the prophets argued that the people were suffering, or were about to suffer, God's anger for their sins.

16 I also will do this to you:
I will even appoint terror over you, [t]wasting disease and fever which shall [u]consume the eyes and [v]cause sorrow of heart.
And [w]you shall sow your seed [5]in vain, for your enemies shall eat it.
17 I will [6]set [x]My face against you, and [y]you shall be defeated by your enemies.
[z]Those who hate you shall reign over you, and you shall [a]flee when no one pursues you.
18 'And after all this, if you do not obey Me, then I will punish you [b]seven times more for your sins.
19 I will [c]break the pride of your power;
I [d]will make your heavens like iron and your earth like bronze.
20 And your [e]strength shall be spent in vain;
for your [f]land shall not yield its produce, nor shall the trees of the land yield their fruit.
21 'Then, if you walk contrary to Me, and are not willing to obey Me, I will bring on you seven times more plagues, according to your sins.
22 [g]I will also send wild beasts among you, which shall rob you of your children, destroy your livestock, and make you few in number;
and [h]your highways shall be desolate.
23 'And if [i]by these things you are not reformed by Me, but walk contrary to Me,
24 [j]then I also will walk contrary to you, and I will punish you yet seven times for your sins.
25 And [k]I will bring a sword against you that will execute the vengeance of the covenant;
when you are gathered together within your cities [l]I will send pestilence among you; and you shall be delivered into the hand of the enemy.
26 [m]When I have cut off your supply of bread, ten women shall bake your bread in one oven, and they shall bring back your bread by weight, [n]and you shall eat and not be satisfied.
27 'And after all this, if you do not obey Me, but walk contrary to Me, 28 then I also will walk contrary to you in fury;
and I, even I, will chastise you seven times for your sins.
29 [o]You[7] shall eat the flesh of your sons, and you shall eat the flesh of your daughters.
30 [p]I will destroy your high places, cut down your incense altars, and cast your carcasses on the lifeless forms of your idols;
and My soul shall abhor you.
31 I will lay your [q]cities waste and [r]bring your sanctuaries to desolation, and I will not [s]smell the fragrance of your [8]sweet aromas.
32 [t]I will bring the land to desolation, and your enemies who dwell in it shall be astonished at it.
33 [u]I will scatter you among the nations and draw out a sword after you; your land shall be desolate and your cities waste.
34 [v]Then the land shall enjoy its sabbaths as long as it lies desolate and you are in your enemies' land;
then the land shall rest and enjoy its sabbaths.
35 As long as it lies desolate it shall rest—for the time it did not rest on your [w]sabbaths when you dwelt in it.
36 'And as for those of you who are left, I will send [x]faintness[9] into their hearts in the lands of their enemies;
the sound of a shaken leaf shall cause them to flee;
they shall flee as though fleeing from a sword, and they shall fall when no one pursues.
37 [y]They shall stumble over one another, as it were before a sword, when no one pursues; and [z]you shall have no power to stand before your enemies.
38 You shall [a]perish among the nations, and the land of your enemies shall eat you up.
39 And those of you who are left [b]shall [l]waste away in their iniquity in your enemies' lands; also in their [c]fathers' iniquities, which are with them, they shall waste away.
40 'But [d]if they confess their iniquity and the iniquity of their fathers, with their unfaithfulness in which they were unfaithful to Me, and that they also have walked contrary to Me,

■ 26:40 Even in judgment there was always hope (Deut. 30:1–10). Punishment did not mean an end to the covenant (vv. 44, 45; Gen. 17:2 note; Rom. 11:1–29). God's judgments on His people proved He still cared about them (Heb. 12:5, 6).

41 and that I also have walked contrary to them and have brought them into the land of their enemies; if their [e]uncircumcised hearts are [f]humbled, and they [g]accept their guilt—
42 then I will [h]remember My covenant with Jacob, and My covenant with Isaac and My covenant with Abraham I will remember;
I will [i]remember the land.
43 [j]The land also shall be left empty by them, and will enjoy its sabbaths while it lies desolate without them;
they will accept their guilt, because they [k]despised My judgments and because their soul abhorred My statutes.
44 Yet for all that, when they are in the land of their enemies, [l]I will not cast them away, nor shall I abhor them, to utterly destroy them and break My covenant with them;
for I am the LORD their God.
45 But [m]for their sake I will remember the covenant of their ancestors, [n]whom I brought out of the land of Egypt [o]in the sight of the nations, that I might be their God:
I am the LORD.' "

Redeeming Persons and Property Dedicated to God

CHAPTER 27

27 Now the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 2 "Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: [a]'When a man [1]consecrates by a vow certain persons to the LORD, according to your [2]valuation, 3 if your valuation is of a male from twenty years old up to sixty years old, then your valuation shall be fifty shekels of silver, [b]according to the shekel of the sanctuary. 4 If it is a female, then your valuation shall be thirty shekels; 5 and if from five years old up to twenty years old, then your valuation for a male shall be twenty shekels, and for a female ten shekels; 6 and if from a month old up to five years old, then your valuation for a male shall be five shekels of silver, and for a female your valuation shall be three shekels of silver; 7 and if from sixty years old and above, if it is a male, then your valuation shall be fifteen shekels, and for a female ten shekels.

8 'But if he is too poor to pay your valuation, then he shall present himself before the priest, and the priest shall set a value for [c]him; according to the ability of him who vowed, the priest shall value him.

9 'If it is an animal that men may bring as an offering to the LORD, all that anyone gives to the LORD shall be holy. 10 He shall not substitute it or exchange it, good for bad or bad for good; and if he at all exchanges animal for animal, then both it and the one exchanged for it shall be [d]holy. 11 If it is an unclean animal which they do not offer as a sacrifice to the LORD, then he shall present the animal before the priest; 12 and the priest shall set a value for it, whether it is good or bad; as you, the priest, value it, so it shall be. 13 [e]But if he wants at all to redeem it, then he must add one-fifth to your valuation.

14 'And when a man [3]dedicates his house to be holy to the LORD, then the priest shall set a value for it, whether it is good or bad; as the priest values it, so it shall stand. 15 If he who dedicated it wants to [4]redeem his house, then he must add one-fifth of the money of your valuation to it, and it shall be his.

16 'If a man [5]dedicates to the LORD part of a field of his possession, then your valuation shall be according to the seed for it. A homer of barley seed shall be valued at fifty shekels of silver. 17 If he dedicates his field from the Year of Jubilee, according to your valuation it shall stand. 18 But if he dedicates his field after the Jubilee, then the priest shall [f]reckon to him the money due according to the years that remain till the Year of Jubilee, and it shall be deducted from your valuation. 19 And if he who dedicates the field ever wishes to redeem it, then he must add one-fifth of the money of your valuation to it, and it shall belong to him. 20 But if he does not want to

■ 26:46 A summary conclusion to the legal material in chs. 1—26.

■ 27:1–34 The final chapter of divine instruction to Israel deals with gifts promised to God, probably by Israelites in dire distress when they made a vow. Later, they might wish to take back the property vowed. The provisions of this chapter showed when and how this could be done.

■ 27:2 persons. It was possible to offer oneself or a member of one's family to the full-time service of God in the temple (1 Sam. 1:11). But only Levites could serve God in this way; other vowed persons had to be redeemed according to the tariff described in vv. 3–8.

■ 27:9–10 Sacrificial animals could not be withdrawn once vowed.

■ 27:11–13 Non-sacrificial animals had to be redeemed.

redeem the field, or if he has sold the field to another man, it shall not be redeemed anymore; 21 but the field, [g]when it is released in the Jubilee, shall be holy to the LORD, as a [h]devoted field; it shall be [i]the possession of the priest.

22 'And if a man dedicates to the LORD a field which he has bought, which is not the field of [j]his possession, 23 then the priest shall reckon to him the worth of your valuation, up to the Year of Jubilee, and he shall give your valuation on that day as a holy offering to the LORD. 24 [k]In the Year of Jubilee the field shall return to him from whom it was bought, to the one who owned the land as a possession. 25 And all your valuations shall be according to the shekel of the sanctuary: [l]twenty gerahs to the shekel.

26 'But the [m]firstborn of the animals, which should be the LORD's firstborn, no man shall dedicate; whether it is an ox or sheep, it is the LORD's. 27 And if it is an unclean animal, then he shall redeem it according to your valuation, and [n]shall add one-fifth to it; or if it is not redeemed, then it shall be sold according to your valuation.

28 [o]'Nevertheless no [6]devoted offering that a man may devote to the LORD of all that he has, both man and beast, or the field of his possession, shall be sold or redeemed; every devoted offering is most holy to the LORD. 29 [p]No person under the ban, who may become doomed to destruction among men, shall be redeemed, but shall surely be put to death. 30 And [q]all the tithe of the land, whether of the seed of the land or of the fruit of the tree, is the LORD's. It is holy to the LORD. 31 [r]If a man wants at all to redeem any of his tithes, he shall add one-fifth to it. 32 And concerning the tithe of the herd or the flock, of whatever [s]passes under the rod, the tenth one shall be holy to the LORD. 33 He shall not inquire whether it is good or bad, [t]nor shall he exchange it; and if he exchanges it at all, then both it and the one exchanged for it shall be holy; it shall not be redeemed.' "

■ 27:28 devoted. See text note. Property and persons devoted to God (i.e., placed under the ban) were irrevocably to be placed in the service of God (v. 28), or utterly destroyed (v. 29). This solemn vow was probably pronounced by national leaders, often in time of war (Num. 21:2; 1 Sam. 15) or against those practicing idolatry (Deut. 13:16; 20:17 note).

■ 27:30 tithe. A tenth of all agricultural produce was given to God (i.e., to the priestly tribe of Levi, Num. 18:21–29; Deut. 12:6–18; 14:22–29 and notes).

The Fourth Book of Moses Called

NUMBERS

Author Together with the rest of the Pentateuch, Numbers has traditionally been ascribed to Moses. This conclusion is based upon the unitary character of the Pentateuch and upon the clear witness of both the Old and New Testaments ascribing these books to Moses (Introduction to the Pentateuch: Author and Date). It is further supported by the obvious antiquity of the materials contained in the Pentateuch. The Book of Numbers itself refers to Moses' activity chronicling the events described in the book (33:2). That much of the book comes from Moses' hand does not rule out the possibility of later editorial activity and the likelihood that some portions were added after Moses' death (e.g., 12:3; and Moses' obituary in Deut. 34).

Date and Occasion We may reasonably date the composition of the book to the period after the wilderness wandering (which followed the Exodus) and before the death of Moses in about 1406 B.C. The book begins with the preparations for the march across the desert, tells of experiences along the way, describes the failure of faith that led the exodus generation of Israelites to refuse to undertake the conquest of the Promised Land, tells of the forty years of waiting until a whole generation would die, and ends with the preparation for entering Canaan. Given its content, Numbers was evidently written as a warning to the generation of Israelites born in the desert, that they should persevere in faith and obedience where their parents had not. For future generations of God's people, the book would speak a similar message.

In the Hebrew Bible it was customary to designate each of the five books of Moses by the word with which it began. For Numbers, this practice was modified by using the fifth Hebrew word as a title. This word, translated "in the desert," is an apt description of the book's content, since it describes the nation's experience during forty years in the desert.

When the Bible was translated into Greek, its books were given Greek names. In the case of Numbers, the Greek translation abandoned the excellent Hebrew name, and used a Greek word meaning "numbers" (arithmoi) that actually describes only a few of its chapters. This somewhat inappropriate Greek title was carried over by translation into the English Bible tradition.

Characteristics and Themes

Two themes—the gracious faithfulness and the sovereign power of Israel's covenant God—are vital to the message of Numbers. The events of Numbers vividly portray the faithfulness of the covenant God despite the failures of an erring humanity. God directs His people as they prepare for their journey through the wilderness, comforts them in difficulties, deals with their fears and failures, and rebukes or punishes them when necessary.

This portrayal of God's covenant faithfulness is in sharp contrast with the book's repeated depiction of human faithlessness, the utter failure of humanity to meet God's standards by its own strength. Human failures are clearly portrayed and contrasted with the wise measures of the ever-faithful covenant God. Even Moses, the greatest leader of all, sinned and was not permitted to enter the Promised Land, although he saw it from a distance (20:9–11 note; 27:12–14). This shows that even the best of persons are still sinners and are saved only through the merits of Christ—salvation comes only through the grace of God.

A second major theme of Numbers is the sovereign power of God in history. Despite imposing obstacles, great dangers, and the failures of His people, God brings them safely through the wilderness. His sovereign power is sufficient for every eventuality.

Throughout the narrative, Numbers pictures the progress of God's people in redemption, pointing forward to Christ who is the true Water that makes life possible and the true Rock that provides safety. The work of Christ is foreshadowed by the typology of the red heifer (19:2–10; Heb. 9:13), the rock that provided water (20:11; 1 Cor. 10:4), and the raised serpent that brought life out of death (21:4–9; John 3:14, 15). The specific prophecy of the conquests of David, the coming one who would defeat Israel's enemies (24:15–19), foreshadows the time when Christ, who is the consummate fulfillment of the Davidic covenant, will universally be recognized as the greatest King of all. □

The First Census of Israel

NOW the LORD spoke to Moses [a]in the Wilderness of Sinai, [b]in the tabernacle of meeting, on the [c]first day of the second month, in the second year after they had come out of the land of Egypt, saying: [2] [d]"Take a census of all the congregation of the children of Israel, by their families, by their fathers' houses, according to the number of names, every male [e]individually, [3] from [f]twenty years old and above—all who are able to go to war in Israel. You and Aaron shall number them by their armies. [4] And with you there shall be a man from every tribe, each one the head of his father's house.

[5] "These are the names of the men who shall stand with you: from Reuben, Elizur the son of Shedeur; [6] from Simeon, Shelumiel the son of Zurishaddai; [7] from Judah, Nahshon the son of Amminadab; [8] from Issachar, Nethanel the son of Zuar; [9] from Zebulun, Eliab the son of Helon; [10] from the sons of Joseph: from Ephraim, Elishama the son of Ammihud; from Manasseh, Gamaliel the son of Pedahzur; [11] from Benjamin, Abidan the son of Gideoni; [12] from Dan, Ahiezer the son of Ammishaddai; [13] from Asher, Pagiel the son of Ocran; [14] from Gad, Eliasaph the son of [g]Deuel;[1] [15] from Naphtali, Ahira the son of Enan." [16] [h]These were [i]chosen[2] from the congregation, leaders of their fathers' tribes, [j]heads of the divisions in Israel.

[17] Then Moses and Aaron took these men who had been [3]mentioned [k]by name, [18] and they assembled all the congregation together on the first day of the second month; and they recited their [l]ancestry by families, by their fathers' houses, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, each one individually. [19] As the LORD commanded Moses, so he numbered them in the Wilderness of Sinai.

[20] Now the [m]children of Reuben, Israel's oldest son, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, every male individually, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: [21] those who were numbered of the tribe of Reuben were forty-six thousand five hundred.

[22] From the [n]children of Simeon, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, of those who were numbered, according to the number of names, every male individually, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: [23] those who were numbered of the tribe of Simeon were fifty-nine thousand three hundred.

[24] From the [o]children of Gad, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: [25] those who were numbered of the tribe of Gad were forty-five thousand six hundred and fifty.

[26] From the [p]children of Judah, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: [27] those who were numbered of the tribe of Judah were [q]seventy-four thousand six hundred.

[28] From the [r]children of Issachar, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: [29] those who were numbered of the tribe of Issachar were fifty-four thousand four hundred.

[30] From the [s]children of Zebulun, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: [31] those who were numbered of the tribe of Zebulun were fifty-seven thousand four hundred.

[32] From the sons of Joseph, the [t]children of Ephraim, their genealogies by their families, by

■ 1:1—10:10 With the completion of the tabernacle (Ex. 35:4—40:38) the Lord continues to prepare His people to occupy the Promised Land. A census of fighting men is taken (ch. 1). Then measures to ensure the order and purity of the camp are related—the organization of the camp, the commissioning of the Levites and their ministry, and various provisions for ceremonial purity and religious observance. Finally, provisions are made for direction and guidance of the community (9:15—10:10).

■ 1:1–46 In preparation for the conquest of the land, God commands that a census of the fighting men of Israel be taken. At the end of the book, another census will be taken to establish military strength (26:2). In the ancient Near East, a census could be taken for military, forced labor, or taxation purposes.

■ 1:1 the LORD spoke to Moses. Such statements occur dozens of times in Numbers. Moses was the preeminent prophet. God spoke to the prophets in visions and dreams, but with Moses he spoke face to face (12:8), giving him greater authority. Of all who have lived on earth, only Christ has greater authority than Moses.

in the second year. Numbers begins thirteen months after the Exodus and relates events that occurred during the next 39 years.

■ 1:5–16 The heads of all the tribes, except the Levites (who had been set apart for the service of the tabernacle), are listed here and also in chs. 2; 7; and 10. The two tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh are listed under Joseph (v. 10), preserving the number of twelve tribes without counting the Levites.

■ 1:20–43 These verses list the number of fighting men in each tribe. Except for the differences in the numbers, these verses follow a strict formula. The tribes are listed in the same order as in vv. 1–15, except that the tribe of Gad is now mentioned third instead of eleventh (vv. 24, 25).

their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: 33 those who were numbered of the tribe of Ephraim were forty thousand five hundred.

34 From the [u]children of Manasseh, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: 35 those who were numbered of the tribe of Manasseh were thirty-two thousand two hundred.

36 From the [v]children of Benjamin, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: 37 those who were numbered of the tribe of Benjamin were thirty-five thousand four hundred.

38 From the [w]children of Dan, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: 39 those who were numbered of the tribe of Dan were sixty-two thousand seven hundred.

40 From the [x]children of Asher, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: 41 those who were numbered of the tribe of Asher were forty-one thousand five hundred.

42 From the children of Naphtali, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: 43 those who were numbered of the tribe of Naphtali were fifty-three thousand four hundred.

44 [y]These are the ones who were numbered, whom Moses and Aaron numbered, with the leaders of Israel, twelve men, each one representing his father's house. 45 So all who were numbered of the children of Israel, by their fathers' houses, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war in Israel— 46 all who were numbered were [z]six hundred and three thousand five hundred and fifty.

47 But [a]the Levites were not numbered among them by their fathers' tribe; 48 for the LORD had spoken to Moses, saying: 49 [b]"Only the tribe of Levi you shall not number, nor take a census of them among the children of Israel; 50 [c]but you shall appoint the Levites over the tabernacle of the Testimony, over all its furnishings, and over all things that belong to it; they shall carry the tabernacle and all its furnishings; they shall attend to it [d]and camp around the tabernacle. 51 [e]And when the tabernacle is to go forward, the Levites shall take it down; and when the tabernacle is to be set up, the Levites shall set it [f]up. [g]The outsider who comes near shall be put to death. 52 The children of Israel shall pitch their tents, [h]everyone by his own camp, everyone by his own standard, according to their armies; 53 [i]but the Levites shall camp around the tabernacle of the Testimony, that there may be no [j]wrath on the congregation of the children of Israel; and the Levites shall [k]keep [d]charge of the tabernacle of the Testimony."

54 Thus the children of Israel did; according to all that the LORD commanded Moses, so they did.

The Tribes and Leaders by Armies

2 And the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: 2 [a]"Everyone of the children of Israel shall camp by his own [f]standard, beside the emblems of his father's house; they shall camp [b]some distance from the tabernacle of meeting. 3 On the [c]east side, toward the rising of the sun, those of the standard of the forces with Judah shall camp according to their armies; and [d]Nahshon the son of Amminadab shall be the leader of the children of Judah." 4 And his army was numbered at seventy-four thousand six hundred.

5 "Those who camp next to him shall be the tribe of Issachar, and Nethanel the son of Zuar shall be the leader of the children of Issachar." 6 And his army was numbered at fifty-four thousand four hundred.

7 "Then comes the tribe of Zebulun, and Eliab the son of Helon shall be the leader of the children of Zebulun." 8 And his army was numbered at fifty-seven thousand four hundred. 9 "All

■ 1:45, 46 These two verses give a total for the census.

■ 1:47–54 The Levites were not counted with the others, since they were set apart to care for the tabernacle and were exempt from military service. Their inheritance was also set apart among the Israelites (ch. 3).

■ 2:1–34 Regulations for the placing of the various tribes in the camp and for their order on the march are given. The people were divided into four camps, of three tribes each, located some distance from the tabernacle on the north, south, east, and west. The Levites camped around the tabernacle (1:53). On the march, the tribes are to follow one another in the same order in which they were mentioned. Compare this arrangement with the four-square city of Rev. 21:16, the final dwelling place of God with man.

29 "Then comes the tribe of Naphtali, and the leader of the children of Naphtali shall be Ahira the son of Enan." 30 And his army was numbered at fifty-three thousand four hundred. 31 "All who were numbered of the forces with Dan, one hundred and fifty-seven thousand six hundred—[k]they shall [l]break camp last, with their [2]standards."

32 These are the ones who were numbered of the children of Israel by their fathers' houses. [l]All who were numbered according to their armies of the forces were six hundred and three thousand five hundred and fifty. 33 But [m]the Levites were not numbered among the children of Israel, just as the LORD commanded Moses.

34 Thus the children of Israel [n]did according to all that the LORD commanded Moses; [o]so they camped by their [3]standards and so they broke camp, each one by his family, according to their fathers' houses.

The Sons of Aaron

3 Now these are the [a]records[l] of Aaron and Moses when the LORD spoke with Moses on Mount Sinai. 2 And these are the names of the sons of Aaron: Nadab, the [b]firstborn, and [c]Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. 3 These are the names of the sons of Aaron, [d]the anointed priests, [2]whom he consecrated to minister as priests. 4 [e]Nadab and Abihu had died before the LORD when they offered profane fire before the LORD in the Wilderness of Sinai; and they had no children. So Eleazar and Ithamar ministered as priests in the presence of Aaron their father.

The Levites Serve in the Tabernacle

5 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 6 [f]"Bring the tribe of Levi near, and present them before Aaron the priest, that they may serve him. 7 And they shall attend to his needs and the needs of the whole congregation before the tabernacle of meeting, to do [g]the work of the tabernacle. 8 Also they shall attend to all the furnishings of the tabernacle of meeting, and to the needs of the children of Israel, to do the work of the tabernacle. 9 And [h]you shall give the Levites to Aaron and his sons; they are given entirely to [3]him from among the children of Israel. 10 So you shall appoint Aaron and his sons, [i]and they shall attend to their priesthood; [j]but the outsider who comes near shall be put to death."

11 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 12 "Now behold, [k]I Myself have taken the Levites from among the children of Israel instead of every firstborn who opens the womb among the children of Israel. Therefore the Levites shall be [l]Mine, 13 because [m]all the firstborn are Mine. [n]On the day that I struck all the firstborn in the land of Egypt, I sanctified to Myself all the firstborn in Israel, both man and beast. They shall be Mine: I am the LORD."

Census of the Levites Commanded

14 Then the LORD spoke to Moses in the Wilderness of Sinai, saying: 15 "Number the children of Levi by their fathers' houses, by their families; you shall number [o]every male from a month old and above."

16 So Moses numbered them according to the [4]word of the LORD, as he was commanded. 17 [p]These were the sons of Levi by their names: Gershon, Kohath, and Merari. 18 And these are

17 [p]Gen. 46:11; Ex. 6:16–22; Num. 26:57; 1 Chr. 6:1, 16; 23:6

■ 3:1 Aaron and Moses. Aaron is mentioned first because his family is the subject of the chapter.

■ 3:3 anointed priests. The anointing of Aaron and his sons as priests of the Lord is described in Ex. 29.

■ 3:4 Nadab and Abihu. The serious misdeed and resulting death of Aaron's older sons was described in Lev. 10:1–3. Similar divine judgments occurred at other important points in salvation history (Josh. 7:13–26; 2 Sam. 6:7; 2 Chr. 26:16–21; Acts 5:1–11).

■ 3:11–13 The Levites were taken by God in place of the firstborn Israelite males (vv. 40–51; Ex. 13:15 note).

■ 3:14–37 The Levite clans are identified and their various duties prescribed: the Gershonites were to care for the large structures of the tabernacle (vv. 21–26), the Kohathites for its interior furnishings (vv. 27–32), and the Merarites for the smaller parts of the structure (vv. 33–37).

the names of the sons of [q]Gershon by their families: [r]Libni and Shimei. 19 And the sons of [s]Kohath by their families: [t]Amram, Izehar, Hebron, and Uzziel. 20 [u]And the sons of Merari by their families: Mahli and Mushi. These are the families of the Levites by their fathers' houses.

21 From Gershon came the family of the Libnites and the family of the Shimites; these were the families of the Gershonites. 22 Those who were numbered, according to the number of all the males from a month old and above—of those who were numbered there were seven thousand five hundred. 23 [v]The families of the Gershonites were to camp behind the tabernacle westward. 24 And the leader of the father's house of the Gershonites was Eliasaph the son of Lael. 25 [w]The duties of the children of Gershon in the tabernacle of meeting included [x]the tabernacle, [y]the tent with [z]its covering, [a]the screen for the door of the tabernacle of meeting, 26 [b]the screen for the door of the court, [c]the hangings of the court which are around the tabernacle and the altar, and [d]their cords, according to all the work relating to them.

27 [e]From Kohath came the family of the Amramites, the family of the Izharites, the family of the Hebronites, and the family of the Uzzielites; these were the families of the Kohathites. 28 According to the number of all the males, from a month old and above, there were eight thousand [5]six hundred [6]keeping charge of the sanctuary. 29 [f]The families of the children of Kohath were to camp on the south side of the tabernacle. 30 And the leader of the fathers' house of the families of the Kohathites was Elizaphan the son of [g]Uzziel. 31 [h]Their duty included [i]the ark, [j]the table, [k]the lampstand, [l]the altars, the utensils of the sanctuary with which they ministered, [m]the screen, and all the work relating to them.

32 And Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest was to be chief over the leaders of the Levites, with oversight of those who kept charge of the sanctuary.

33 From Merari came the family of the Mahlites and the family of the Mushites; these were the families of Merari. 34 And those who were numbered, according to the number of all the males from a month old and above, were six thousand two hundred. 35 The leader of the fathers' house of the families of Merari was Zuriel the son of Abihail. [n]These were to camp on the north side of the tabernacle. 36 And [o]the appointed duty of the children of Merari included the boards of the tabernacle, its bars, its pillars, its sockets, its utensils, all the work relating to them, 37 and the pillars of the court all around, with their sockets, their pegs, and their cords.

38 [p]Moreover those who were to camp before the tabernacle on the east, before the tabernacle of meeting, were Moses, Aaron, and his sons, [q]keeping charge of the sanctuary, [r]to meet the needs of the children of Israel; but [s]the outsider who came near was to be put to death. 39 [t]All who were numbered of the Levites, whom Moses and Aaron numbered at the commandment of the LORD, by their families, all the males from a month old and above, were twenty-two thousand.

Levites Dedicated Instead of the Firstborn

40 Then the LORD said to Moses: [u]"Number[7] all the firstborn males of the children of Israel from a month old and above, and take the number of their names. 41 [v]And you shall take the Levites for Me—I am the LORD—instead of all the firstborn among the children of Israel, and the livestock of the Levites instead of all the firstborn among the livestock of the children of Israel." 42 So Moses numbered all the firstborn among the children of Israel, as the LORD commanded him. 43 And all the firstborn males, according to the number of names from a month old and above, of those who were numbered of them, were twenty-two thousand two hundred and seventy-three.

44 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 45 [w]"Take the Levites instead of all the firstborn among the children of Israel, and the livestock of the Levites instead of their livestock. The Levites shall be Mine: I am the LORD. 46 And for [x]the redemption of the two hundred and seventy-three of the firstborn of the children of Israel, [y]who are more than the number of the Levites, 47 you shall take [z]five shekels for each one [a]individually; you shall take them in the currency of the shekel of the sanctuary, [b]the shekel of twenty gerahs. 48 And you shall give the money, with which the excess number of them is redeemed, to Aaron and his sons."

49 So Moses took the redemption money from those who were over and above those who were redeemed by the Levites. 50 From the firstborn of the children of Israel he took the money, [c]one

Duties of the Sons of Kohath

4 Then the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: 2 "Take a census of the sons of [a]Kohath from among the children of Levi, by their families, by their fathers' house, 3 [b]from thirty years old and above, even to fifty years old, all who enter the service to do the work in the tabernacle of meeting.

4 [c]"This is the service of the sons of Kohath in the tabernacle of meeting, relating to [d]the most holy things: 5 When the camp prepares to journey, Aaron and his sons shall come, and they shall take down [e]the covering veil and cover the [f]ark of the Testimony with it. 6 Then they shall put on it a covering of badger skins, and spread over that a cloth entirely of [g]blue; and they shall insert [h]its poles.

7 "On the [i]table of showbread they shall spread a blue cloth, and put on it the dishes, the pans, the bowls, and the [j]pitchers for pouring; and the [j]showbread[2] shall be on it. 8 They shall spread over them a scarlet cloth, and cover the same with a covering of badger skins; and they shall insert its poles. 9 And they shall take a blue cloth and cover the [k]lampstand of the light, [l]with its lamps, its wick-trimmers, its trays, and all its oil vessels, with which they service it. 10 Then they shall put it with all its utensils in a covering of badger skins, and put it on a carrying beam.

11 "Over [m]the golden altar they shall spread a blue cloth, and cover it with a covering of badger skins; and they shall insert its poles. 12 Then they shall take all the [n]utensils of service with which they minister in the sanctuary, put them in a blue cloth, cover them with a covering of badger skins, and put them on a carrying beam. 13 Also they shall take away the ashes from the altar, and spread a purple cloth over it. 14 They shall put on it all its implements with which they minister there—the firepans, the forks, the shovels, the [3]basins, and all the utensils of the altar—and they shall spread on it a covering of badger skins, and insert its poles. 15 And when Aaron and his sons have finished covering the sanctuary and all the furnishings of the sanctuary, when the camp is set to go, then [o]the sons of Kohath shall come to carry them; [p]but they shall not touch any holy thing, lest they die.

[q]"These are the things in the tabernacle of meeting which the sons of Kohath are to carry.

16 "The appointed duty of Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest is [r]the oil for the light, the [s]sweet incense, [t]the daily grain offering, the [u]anointing oil, the oversight of all the tabernacle, of all that is in it, with the sanctuary and its furnishings."

17 Then the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: 18 "Do not cut off the tribe of the families of the Kohathites from among the Levites; 19 but do this in regard to them, that they may live and not die when they approach [v]the most holy things: Aaron and his sons shall go in and [4]appoint each of them to his service and his task. 20 [w]But they shall not go in to watch while the holy things are being covered, lest they die."

Duties of the Sons of Gershon

21 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 22 "Also take a census of the sons of [x]Gershon, by their fathers' house, by their families. 23 [y]From thirty years old and above, even to fifty years old, you shall number them, all who enter to perform the service, to do the work in the tabernacle of meeting. 24 This is the [z]service of the families of the Gershonites, in serving and carrying: 25 [a]They shall carry the [b]curtains of the tabernacle and the tabernacle of meeting with its covering, the covering of [c]badger skins that is on it, the screen for the door of the tabernacle of meeting, 26 the screen for the door of the gate of the court, the hangings of the court which are around the tabernacle and altar, and their cords, all the furnishings for their service and all that is made for these things: so shall they serve.

27 "Aaron and his sons shall [5]assign all the service of the sons of the Gershonites, all their tasks and all their service. And you shall [6]appoint to them all their tasks as their duty. 28 This is the service of the families of the sons of Gershon in the tabernacle of meeting. And their duties shall be [d]under the [7]authority of Ithamar the son of Aaron the priest.

Duties of the Sons of Merari

Census of the Levites

34 [k]And Moses, Aaron, and the leaders of the congregation numbered the sons of the Kohathites by their families and by their fathers' house, 35 from thirty [l]years old and above, even to fifty years old, everyone who entered the service for work in the tabernacle of meeting; 36 and those who were numbered by their families were two thousand seven hundred and fifty. 37 These were the ones who were numbered of the families of the Kohathites, all who might serve in the tabernacle of meeting, whom Moses and Aaron numbered according to the commandment of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

38 And those who were numbered of the sons of Gershon, by their families and by their fathers' house, 39 from thirty years old and above, even to fifty years old, everyone who entered the service for work in the tabernacle of meeting— 40 those who were numbered by their families, by their fathers' house, were two thousand six hundred and thirty. 41 [m]These are the ones who were numbered of the families of the sons of Gershon, of all who might serve in the tabernacle of meeting, whom Moses and Aaron numbered according to the commandment of the LORD.

42 Those of the families of the sons of Merari who were numbered, by their families, by their fathers' [g]house, 43 from thirty years old and above, even to fifty years old, everyone who entered the service for work in the tabernacle of meeting— 44 those who were numbered by their families were three thousand two hundred. 45 These are the ones who were numbered of the families of the sons of Merari, whom Moses and Aaron numbered [n]according to the word of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

46 All who were [o]numbered of the Levites, whom Moses, Aaron, and the leaders of Israel numbered, by their families and by their fathers' houses, 47 [p]from thirty years old and above, even to fifty years old, everyone who came to do the work of service and the work of bearing burdens in the tabernacle of meeting— 48 those who were numbered were eight thousand five hundred and eighty.

49 According to the commandment of the LORD they were numbered by the hand of Moses, [q]each according to his service and according to his task; thus were they numbered by him, [r]as the LORD commanded Moses.

Ceremonially Unclean Persons Isolated

5 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 2 "Command the children of Israel that they put out of the camp every [a]leper, everyone who has a [b]discharge, and whoever becomes [c]defiled [t]by a corpse. 3 You shall put out both male and female; you shall put them outside the camp, that they may not defile their camps [d]in the midst of which I dwell." 4 And the children of Israel did so, and put them outside the camp; as the LORD spoke to Moses, so the children of Israel did.

Confession and Restitution

5 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 6 "Speak to the children of Israel: [e]'When a man or woman commits any sin that men commit in unfaithfulness against the LORD, and that person is guilty, 7 [f]then he shall confess the sin which he has committed. He shall make restitution for his trespass [g]in full, plus one-fifth of it, and give it to the one he has wronged. 8 But if the man has no [z]relative to whom restitution may be made for the wrong, the restitution for the wrong must go to the LORD for the priest, in addition to [h]the ram of the atonement with which atonement is made for him. 9 Every [i]offering[j] of all the holy things of the children of Israel, which they bring to the priest, shall be [j]his. 10 And every man's [k]holy things shall be his; whatever any man gives the priest shall be [k]his.' "

■ 5:1–4 Persons physically or ceremonially unclean were sent outside the camp. This action was taken because, as a nation of priests, the Israelites were to represent man restored in the image of God. See note on Lev. 13; 14.

■ 5:5–10 When someone wronged another, restitution had to be made, plus an additional fifth (Lev. 5:14—6:7). If the wronged person was not available, and had no relative to whom restitution could be made, it was to be given to the priest, as representing the Lord.

Concerning Unfaithful Wives

11 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 12 "Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: 'If any man's wife goes astray and behaves unfaithfully toward him, 13 and a man [l]lies with her carnally, and it is hidden from the eyes of her husband, and it is concealed that she has defiled herself, and there was no witness against her, nor was she [m]caught— 14 if the spirit of jealousy comes upon him and he becomes [n]jealous of his wife, who has defiled herself; or if the spirit of jealousy comes upon him and he becomes jealous of his wife, although she has not defiled herself— 15 then the man shall bring his wife to the priest. He shall [o]bring the offering required for her, one-tenth of an ephah of barley meal; he shall pour no oil on it and put no frankincense on it, because it is a grain offering of jealousy, an offering for remembering, for [p]bringing iniquity to remembrance.

16 'And the priest shall bring her near, and set her before the LORD. 17 The priest shall take holy water in an earthen vessel, and take some of the dust that is on the floor of the tabernacle and put it into the water. 18 Then the priest shall stand the woman before the [q]LORD, uncover the woman's head, and put the offering for remembering in her hands, which is the grain offering of jealousy. And the priest shall have in his hand the bitter water that brings a curse. 19 And the priest shall put her under oath, and say to the woman, "If no man has lain with you, and if you have not gone astray to uncleanness while under your husband's authority, be free from this bitter water that brings a curse. 20 But if you have gone astray while under your husband's authority, and if you have defiled yourself and some man other than your husband has lain with you"— 21 then the priest shall [r]put the woman under the oath of the curse, and he shall say to the woman—[s]"the LORD make you a curse and an oath among your people, when the LORD makes your thigh [s]rot and your belly swell; 22 and may this water that causes the curse [t]go into your stomach, and make your belly swell and your thigh rot."

[u]"Then the woman shall say, "Amen, so be it."

23 'Then the priest shall write these curses in a book, and he shall scrape them off into the bitter water. 24 And he shall make the woman drink the bitter water that brings a curse, and the water that brings the curse shall enter her to become bitter. 25 [v]Then the priest shall take the grain offering of jealousy from the woman's hand, shall [w]wave the offering before the LORD, and bring it to the altar; 26 and the priest shall take a handful of the offering, [x]as its memorial portion, burn it on the altar, and afterward make the woman drink the water. 27 When he has made her drink the water, then it shall be, if she has defiled herself and behaved unfaithfully toward her husband, that the water that brings a [y]curse will enter her and become bitter, and her belly will swell, her thigh will rot, and the woman [z]will become a curse among her people. 28 But if the woman has not defiled herself, and is clean, then she shall be free and may conceive children.

29 'This is the law of jealousy, when a wife, while under her husband's authority, [a]goes astray and defiles herself, 30 or when the spirit of jealousy comes upon a man, and he becomes jealous of his wife; then he shall stand the woman before the LORD, and the priest shall execute all this law upon her. 31 Then the man shall be free from [6]iniquity, but that woman [b]shall bear her [7]guilt.' "

The Law of the Nazirite

6 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 2 "Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: 'When either a man or woman [l]consecrates an offering to take the vow of a Nazirite, [a]to separate himself to the LORD, 3 [b]he shall separate himself from wine and similar drink; he shall drink neither vinegar made from wine nor vinegar made from similar drink; neither shall he

3 [b]Lev. 10:9; Amos 2:12; Luke 1:15

■ 5:11–31 A procedure is described by which the priest could determine whether a woman accused of unfaithfulness by her husband was guilty or innocent. If she was guilty, God would make her sick and unable to bear children (v. 27); if innocent, she would be able to bear children (v. 28).

■ 6:1–21 The Nazirite vow was a special type of voluntary devotion. A person could take a special vow of separation for a limited period of time, during which they were not to eat or drink anything that came from the grapevine, and were not to cut their hair or beard. The grapevine was a source of physical pleasure, and abstention from it represented a life given over to God. Allowing the hair to grow signified abstention from human adornment.

During the period for which the vow was taken, the Nazirite was to be careful to avoid becoming ceremonially unclean for any reason (v. 7). If someone should die suddenly in the presence of one who had taken a Nazirite vow, it would be necessary to make certain prescribed offerings (vv. 9–12), shave one's head, and start the period of separation all over again (v. 12). A special ceremony ending the period of Nazirite separation is described (vv. 13–21).

drink any grape juice, nor eat fresh grapes or raisins. 4 All the days of his [2]separation he shall eat nothing that is produced by the grapevine, from seed to skin.

5 'All the days of the vow of his separation no [c]razor shall come upon his head; until the days are fulfilled for which he separated himself to the LORD, he shall be holy. Then he shall let the locks of the hair of his head grow. 6 All the days that he separates himself to the LORD [d]he shall not go near a dead body. 7 [e]He shall not [3]make himself unclean even for his father or his mother, for his brother or his sister, when they die, because his separation to God is on his head. 8 [f]All the days of his separation he shall be holy to the LORD.

9 'And if anyone dies very suddenly beside him, and he defiles his consecrated head, then he shall [g]shave his head on the day of his cleansing; on the seventh day he shall shave it. 10 Then [h]on the eighth day he shall bring two turtledoves or two young pigeons to the priest, to the door of the tabernacle of meeting; 11 and the priest shall offer one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering, and make atonement for him, because he sinned in regard to the corpse; and he shall sanctify his head that same day. 12 He shall consecrate to the LORD the days of his separation, and bring a male lamb in its first year [i]as a trespass offering; but the former days shall be [4]lost, because his separation was defiled.

13 'Now this is the law of the Nazirite: [j]When the days of his separation are fulfilled, he shall be brought to the door of the tabernacle of meeting. 14 And he shall present his offering to the LORD: one male lamb in its first year without blemish as a burnt offering, one ewe lamb in its first year without blemish [k]as a sin offering, one ram without blemish [l]as a peace offering, 15 a basket of unleavened bread, [m]cakes of fine flour mixed with oil, unleavened wafers [n]anointed with oil, and their grain offering with their [o]drink offerings.

16 'Then the priest shall bring them before the LORD and offer his sin offering and his burnt offering; 17 and he shall offer the ram as a sacrifice of a peace offering to the LORD, with the basket of unleavened bread; the priest shall also offer its grain offering and its drink offering. 18 [p]Then the Nazirite shall shave his consecrated head at the door of the tabernacle of meeting, and shall take the hair from his consecrated head and put it on the fire which is under the sacrifice of the peace offering.

19 'And the priest shall take the [q]boiled shoulder of the ram, one [r]unleavened cake from the basket, and one unleavened wafer, and [s]put them upon the hands of the Nazirite after he has shaved his consecrated hair, 20 and the priest shall wave them as a wave offering before the LORD; [t]they are holy for the priest, together with the breast of the wave offering and the thigh of the heave offering. After that the Nazirite may drink wine.'

21 "This is the law of the Nazirite who vows to the LORD the offering for his separation, and besides that, whatever else his hand is able to provide; according to the vow which he takes, so he must do according to the law of his separation."

The Priestly Blessing

22 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 23 "Speak to Aaron and his sons, saying, 'This is the way you shall bless the children of Israel. Say to them:

24 "The LORD [u]bless you and [v]keep you;
25 The LORD [w]make His face shine upon you,
And [x]be gracious to you;
26 [y]The LORD [5]lift up His countenance upon you,
And [z]give you peace." '

27 [a]"So they shall [6]put My name on the children of Israel, and [b]I will bless them."

Offerings of the Leaders

7 Now it came to pass, when Moses had finished [a]setting up the tabernacle, that he [b]anointed it and consecrated it and all its furnishings, and the altar and all its utensils; so he anointed them and consecrated them. 2 Then [c]the leaders of Israel, the heads of their fathers' houses, who

CHAPTER 7

1 [a]Ex. 40:17–33 [b]Lev. 8:10, 11
2 [c]Num. 1:4

■ 6:24–26 This threefold, divinely inspired blessing was pronounced by the priest with uplifted hands (Lev. 9:22). It moves from a general blessing (v. 24), to an invocation of God's favor and presence (v. 25), and finally to a climactic mention of the peace that comes only with God's gracious presence (v. 26). The pronouncement of this blessing placed God's covenant name LORD (Yahweh) on the people (v. 27).

■ 6:25 make His face shine upon you. Here is a vivid figure for God looking favorably upon His worshipers. The closer one's access to the face of God, the greater the blessing.

■ 7:1–88 Offerings made at the dedication of the tabernacle are listed. Each of the twelve tribal leaders had a day in which he brought a number of expensive gifts and specified offerings. These gifts and offerings are were the leaders of the tribes [1]and over those who were numbered, made an offering. [3] And they brought their offering before the LORD, six covered carts and twelve oxen, a cart for every two of the leaders, and for each one an ox; and they presented them before the tabernacle.

[4] Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [5] "Accept these from them, that they may be used in doing the work of the tabernacle of meeting; and you shall give them to the Levites, to every man according to his service." [6] So Moses took the carts and the oxen, and gave them to the Levites. [7] Two carts and four oxen [d]he gave to the sons of Gershon, according to their service; [8] [e]and four carts and eight oxen he gave to the sons of Merari, according to their service, under the [2]authority of Ithamar the son of Aaron the priest. [9] But to the sons of Kohath he gave none, because theirs was [f]the service of the holy things, [g]which they carried on their shoulders.

[10] Now the leaders offered [h]the dedication offering for the altar when it was anointed; so the leaders offered their offering before the altar. [11] For the LORD said to Moses, "They shall offer their offering, one leader each day, for the dedication of the altar."

[12] And the one who offered his offering on the first day was [i]Nahshon the son of Amminadab, from the tribe of Judah. [13] His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to [j]the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a [k]grain offering; [14] one gold pan of ten shekels, full of [l]incense; [15] [m]one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb [n]in its first year, as a burnt offering; [16] one kid of the goats as a [o]sin offering; [17] and for [p]the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Nahshon the son of Amminadab.

[18] On the second day Nethanel the son of Zuar, leader of Issachar, presented an offering. [19] For his offering he offered one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; [20] one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; [21] one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; [22] one kid of the goats as a sin offering; [23] and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Nethanel the son of Zuar.

[24] On the third day Eliab the son of Helon, leader of the children of Zebulun, presented an offering. [25] His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; [26] one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; [27] one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; [28] one kid of the goats as a sin offering; [29] and for the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Eliab the son of Helon.

[30] On the fourth day [q]Elizur the son of Shedeur, leader of the children of Reuben, presented an offering. [31] His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; [32] one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; [33] one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; [34] one kid of the goats as a sin offering; [35] and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Elizur the son of Shedeur.

[36] On the fifth day [r]Shelumiel the son of Zurishaddai, leader of the children of Simeon, presented an offering. [37] His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; [38] one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; [39] one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; [40] one kid of the goats as a sin offering; [41] and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Shelumiel the son of Zurishaddai.

[42] On the sixth day [s]Eliasaph the son of [3]Deuel, leader of the children of Gad, presented an

■ 7:1–9 The carts and the oxen were presented. The tribal leaders joined together to provide carts, and oxen to pull them, for the use of two of the Levitical clans in carrying the parts of the tabernacle that had been assigned to them (3:21–26, 33–37; 4:21–33). No cart was given to the Kohathites; they were expected to carry the holy things on their shoulders (v. 9).

This was the offering of Eliasaph the son of Deuel.

48 On the seventh day [u]Elishama the son of Ammihud, leader of the children of Ephraim, presented an offering. 49 His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; 50 one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; 51 one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; 52 one kid of the goats as a sin offering; 53 and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Elishama the son of Ammihud.

54 On the eighth day [v]Gamaliel the son of Pedahzur, leader of the children of Manasseh, presented an offering. 55 His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; 56 one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; 57 one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; 58 one kid of the goats as a sin offering; 59 and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Gamaliel the son of Pedahzur.

60 On the ninth day [w]Abidan the son of Gideoni, leader of the children of Benjamin, presented an offering. 61 His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; 62 one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; 63 one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; 64 one kid of the goats as a sin offering; 65 and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Abidan the son of Gideoni.

66 On the tenth day [x]Ahiezer the son of Ammishaddai, leader of the children of Dan, presented an offering. 67 His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; 68 one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; 69 one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; 70 one kid of the goats as a sin offering; 71 and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Ahiezer the son of Ammishaddai.

72 On the eleventh day [y]Pagiel the son of Ocran, leader of the children of Asher, presented an offering. 73 His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; 74 one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; 75 one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; 76 one kid of the goats as a sin offering; 77 and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Pagiel the son of Ocran.

78 On the twelfth day [z]Ahira the son of Enan, leader of the children of Naphtali, presented an offering. 79 His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; 80 one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; 81 one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; 82 one kid of the goats as a sin offering; 83 and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Ahira the son of Enan.

84 This was [a]the dedication offering for the altar from the leaders of Israel, when it was anointed: twelve silver platters, twelve silver bowls, and twelve gold pans. 85 Each silver platter weighed one hundred and thirty shekels and each bowl seventy shekels. All the silver of the vessels weighed two thousand four hundred shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary. 86 The twelve gold pans full of incense weighed ten shekels apiece, according to the shekel of the sanctuary; all the gold of the pans weighed one hundred and twenty shekels. 87 All the oxen for the burnt offering were twelve young bulls, the rams twelve, the male lambs in their first year twelve, with their grain offering, and the kids of the goats as a sin offering twelve. 88 And all the oxen for the sacrifice of peace offerings were twenty-four bulls, the rams sixty, the male goats sixty, and the lambs in their first year sixty. This was the dedication offering for the altar after it was [b]anointed.

89 Now when Moses went into the tabernacle of meeting [c]to speak with Him, he heard [d]the voice of One speaking to him from above the mercy seat that was on the ark of the Testimony, from [e]between the two cherubim; thus He spoke to him.

Arrangement of the Lamps

8 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 2 "Speak to Aaron, and say to him, 'When you [a]arrange the lamps, the seven [b]lamps shall give light in front of the lampstand.' " 3 And Aaron did so; he arranged the lamps to face toward the front of the lampstand, as the LORD commanded Moses. 4 [c]Now this workmanship of the lampstand was hammered gold; from its shaft to its flowers it was [d]hammered work. [e]According to the pattern which the LORD had shown Moses, so he made the lampstand.

Cleansing and Dedication of the Levites

5 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 6 "Take the Levites from among the children of Israel and cleanse them ceremonially. 7 Thus you shall do to them to cleanse them: Sprinkle [f]water of purification on them, and [g]let[1] them shave all their body, and let them wash their clothes, and so make themselves clean. 8 Then let them take a young bull with [h]its grain offering of fine flour mixed with oil, and you shall take another young bull as a sin offering. 9 [i]And you shall bring the Levites before the tabernacle of meeting, [j]and you shall gather together the whole congregation of the children of Israel. 10 So you shall bring the Levites before the LORD, and the children of Israel [k]shall lay their hands on the Levites; 11 and Aaron shall [2]offer the Levites before the LORD like a [l]wave offering from the children of Israel, that they may perform the work of the LORD. 12 [m]Then the Levites shall lay their hands on the heads of the young bulls, and you shall offer one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering to the LORD, to make atonement for the Levites.

13 "And you shall stand the Levites before Aaron and his sons, and then offer them like a wave offering to the LORD. 14 Thus you shall [n]separate the Levites from among the children of Israel, and the Levites shall be [o]Mine. 15 After that the Levites shall go in to service the tabernacle of meeting. So you shall cleanse them and [p]offer them like a wave offering. 16 For they are [q]wholly given to Me from among the children of Israel; I have taken them for Myself [r]instead of all who open the womb, the firstborn of all the children of Israel. 17 [s]For all the firstborn among the children of Israel are Mine, both man and beast; on the day that I struck all the firstborn in the land of Egypt I [3]sanctified them to Myself. 18 I have taken the Levites instead of all the firstborn of the children of Israel. 19 And [t]I have given the Levites as a gift to Aaron and his sons from among the children of Israel, to do the work for the children of Israel in the tabernacle of meeting, and to make atonement for the children of Israel, [u]that there be no plague among the children of Israel when the children of Israel come near the sanctuary."

20 Thus Moses and Aaron and all the congregation of the children of Israel did to the Levites; according to all that the LORD commanded Moses concerning the Levites, so the children of Israel did to them. 21 [v]And the Levites purified themselves and washed their clothes; then Aaron presented them like a wave offering before the LORD, and Aaron made atonement for them to cleanse them. 22 [w]After that the Levites went in to do their work in the tabernacle of meeting before Aaron and his sons; [x]as the LORD commanded Moses concerning the Levites, so they did to them.

23 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 24 "This is what pertains to the Levites: [y]From

■ 7:89 the mercy seat. This designation of the ornate cover of the ark represents one Hebrew word (lit. "atonement covering" or "place of atonement"). The mercy seat is mentioned twenty-five times in the Pentateuch, but only once in later books (1 Chr. 28:11). See notes on Ex. 25:17 and Lev. 16:2.

■ 8:5–22 This ceremony, which set apart the Levites for service to the Lord, differs significantly from the consecration ceremony of the priests (Ex. 29:1–37; Lev. 8). Key terms in the ordination of Aaron and his sons as priests are "hallow" and "consecrate" (Ex. 29:1, 9 and notes); the Levites were "cleansed" (vv. 6, 15, 21). The priests received new garments; the Levites shaved the hair on their bodies and washed their clothes (Ex. 29:5–9).

■ 8:18 instead of all the firstborn. See note on 3:11–13.

■ 8:24 twenty-five years old. In 4:3, the term of service is listed as from 30 to 50 years old. Rabbinic sources suggest that a five-year ap-twenty-five years old and above one may enter to perform service in the work of the tabernacle of meeting; [25] and at the age of fifty years they must cease performing this work, and shall work no more. [26] They may minister with their brethren in the tabernacle of meeting, [z]to attend to needs, but they themselves shall do no work. Thus you shall do to the Levites regarding their duties."

The Second Passover

9 Now the LORD spoke to Moses in the Wilderness of Sinai, in the first month of the second year after they had come out of the land of Egypt, saying: [2] "Let the children of Israel keep [a]the Passover at its appointed [b]time. [3] On the fourteenth day of this month, [f]at twilight, you shall [2]keep it at its appointed time. According to all its [3]rites and ceremonies you shall keep it." [4] So Moses told the children of Israel that they should keep the Passover. [5] And [c]they kept the Passover on the fourteenth day of the first month, at twilight, in the Wilderness of Sinai; according to all that the LORD commanded Moses, so the children of Israel did.

[6] Now there were certain men who were [d]defiled by a human corpse, so that they could not keep the Passover on that day; [e]and they came before Moses and Aaron that day. [7] And those men said to him, "We became defiled by a human corpse. Why are we kept from presenting the offering of the LORD at its appointed time among the children of Israel?"

[8] And Moses said to them, "Stand still, that I may hear what the LORD will command concerning you."

[9] Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [10] "Speak to the children of Israel, saying: 'If anyone of you or your [4]posterity is unclean because of a corpse, or is far away on a journey, he may still keep the LORD's Passover. [11] On [g]the fourteenth day of the second month, at twilight, they may keep it. They shall [h]eat it with unleavened bread and bitter herbs. [12] [i]They shall leave none of it until morning, [j]nor break one of its bones. [k]According to all the [5]ordinances of the Passover they shall keep it. [13] But the man who is clean and is not on a journey, and ceases to keep the Passover, that same person [l]shall be cut off from among his people, because he [m]did not bring the offering of the LORD at its appointed time; that man shall [n]bear his sin.

[14] 'And if a stranger [6]dwells among you, and would keep the LORD's Passover, he must do so according to the rite of the Passover and according to its ceremony; [o]you shall have one [7]ordinance, both for the stranger and the native of the land.' "

The Cloud and the Fire

[15] Now [p]on the day that the tabernacle was raised up, the cloud [q]covered the tabernacle, the tent of the Testimony; [r]from evening until morning it was above the tabernacle like the appearance of fire. [16] So it was always: the cloud covered it by day, and the appearance of fire by night. [17] Whenever the cloud [s]was [8]taken up from above the tabernacle, after that the children of Israel would journey; and in the place where the cloud settled, there the children of Israel would pitch their tents. [18] At the [9]command of the LORD the children of Israel would journey, and at the command of the LORD they would camp; [t]as long as the cloud stayed above the tabernacle they remained encamped. [19] Even when the cloud continued long, many days above the tabernacle, the children of Israel [u]kept the charge of the LORD and did not journey. [20] So it was, when the cloud was above the tabernacle a few days: according to the command of the LORD they would remain encamped, and according to the command of the LORD they would journey. [21] So it was, when the cloud remained only from evening until morning: when the cloud was taken up in the morning, then they would journey; whether by day or by night, whenever the cloud was taken up, they would journey. [22] Whether it was two days, a month, or a year that the cloud remained above the tabernacle, the children of Israel [v]would remain encamped and not journey; but when it was taken up, they would journey. [23] At the command of the LORD they remained encamped, prenticeship was served prior to full service. Alternatively, 4:3 may designate the time when complete responsibility for transporting the tabernacle was undertaken, with lighter duties being assumed at age 25. In 1 Chr. 23:24–26 David lowered the age of Levitical service to 20 because transportation of the tabernacle was no longer necessary.

■ 9:6–13 A special problem is identified and God's answer is given: a person who is unclean or on a journey at the regular time may celebrate Passover exactly one month later. No others may postpone its observance.

■ 9:14 As a covenant rite, the Passover was to be celebrated only by members of the covenant community. Male strangers who wished to participate were to accept the terms of the covenant by being circumcised (Ex. 12:48).

■ 9:15—10:6 Two kinds of guidance were arranged for the march: supernatural guidance by the cloud (9:15–23) and orders from Moses given by trumpet (10:1–6).

and at the command of the LORD they journeyed; they [w]kept the charge of the LORD, at the command of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

Two Silver Trumpets

10 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: [2] "Make two silver trumpets for yourself; you shall make them of hammered work; you shall use them for [a]calling the congregation and for directing the movement of the camps. [3] When [b]they blow both of them, all the congregation shall gather before you at the door of the tabernacle of meeting. [4] But if they blow only one, then the leaders, the [c]heads of the divisions of Israel, shall gather to you. [5] When you sound the [d]advance, [e]the camps that lie on the east side shall then begin their journey. [6] When you sound the advance the second time, then the camps that lie [f]on the south side shall begin their journey; they shall sound the call for them to begin their journeys. [7] And when the assembly is to be gathered together, [g]you shall blow, but not [h]sound the advance. [8] [i]The sons of Aaron, the priests, shall blow the trumpets; and these shall be to you as an [j]ordinance forever throughout your generations.

[9] [j]"When you go to war in your land against the enemy who [k]oppresses you, then you shall sound an alarm with the trumpets, and you will be [l]remembered before the LORD your God, and you will be saved from your enemies. [10] Also [m]in the day of your gladness, in your appointed feasts, and at the beginning of your months, you shall blow the trumpets over your burnt offerings and over the sacrifices of your peace offerings; and they shall be [n]a memorial for you before your God: I am the LORD your God."

Departure from Sinai

[11] Now it came to pass on the twentieth day of the second month, in the second year, that the cloud [o]was taken up from above the tabernacle of the Testimony. [12] And the children of Israel set out from the [p]Wilderness of Sinai on [q]their journeys; then the cloud settled down in the [r]Wilderness of Paran. [13] So they started out for the first time [s]according to the command of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

[14] The [2]standard of the camp of the children of Judah [t]set out first according to their armies; over their army was [u]Nahshon the son of Amminadab. [15] Over the army of the tribe of the children of Issachar was Nethanel the son of Zuar. [16] And over the army of the tribe of the children of Zebulun was Eliab the son of Helon.

[17] Then [v]the tabernacle was taken down; and the sons of Gershon and the sons of Merari set out, [w]carrying the tabernacle.

[18] And [x]the standard of the camp of Reuben set out according to their armies; over their army was Elizur the son of Shedeur. [19] Over the army of the tribe of the children of Simeon was Shelumiel the son of Zurishaddai. [20] And over the army of the tribe of the children of Gad was Eliasaph the son of Deuel.

[21] Then the Kohathites set out, carrying the [y]holy things. (The tabernacle would be [3]prepared for their arrival.)

[22] And [z]the standard of the camp of the children of Ephraim set out according to their armies; over their army was Elishama the son of Ammihud. [23] Over the army of the tribe of the children of Manasseh was Gamaliel the son of Pedahzur. [24] And over the army of the tribe of the children of Benjamin was Abidan the son of Gideoni.

[25] Then [a]the standard of the camp of the children of Dan (the rear guard of all the camps) set out according to their armies; over their army was Ahiezer the son of Ammishaddai. [26] Over the

25 [a]Num. 2:25–31; Josh. 6:9

■ 10:11—22:1 This section begins with the Lord's guidance of the people immediately to the area of Kadesh in the Wilderness of Paran (10:12; 12:16; 13:3, 26), the camp from which they would begin the conquest. Instead of the promised victory, the spies' gloomy report created a rebellion that affected the entire nation, except for Moses, Aaron, Joshua, and Caleb. The Lord pronounced judgment on the whole first generation who were counted in the census, and told them to leave Kadesh and turn back toward Sinai.

In view of this judgment, the laws and results of the meager history following in chs. 15—19 are striking for two reasons: (a) after the judgment the Lord immediately told Israel how to serve Him in the Land of Promise (ch. 15), a clear indication that they would eventually go there as promised; and (b) for the whole period of the wilderness judgment we are given only two events (which were actually one connected incident): Korah's rebellion and the budding of Aaron's rod.

The events in chs. 20; 21 are clearly transitional, beginning with the return to Kadesh, a hint that the conquest was on again. The victory over the king of Arad also signaled the change as the place of victory was named "Hormah," "Utter Destruction" (21:3), in contrast to the tragic defeat in ch. 14.

■ 10:11 day . . . month . . . year. Almost fourteen months after the Exodus from Egypt and eleven months after the arrival at Sinai (Ex. 19:1).

■ 10:14–28 The order of march follows the prescription of ch. 2, though more detail about the Levites is given here (vv. 17, 21).

army of the tribe of the children of Asher was Pagiel the son of Ocran. 27 And over the army of the tribe of the children of Naphtali was Ahira the son of Enan.

28 [b]Thus was the order of march of the children of Israel, according to their armies, when they began their journey.

29 Now Moses said to [c]Hobab the son of [d]Reuel[4] the Midianite, Moses' father-in-law, "We are setting out for the place of which the LORD said, [e]'I will give it to you.' Come with us, and [f]we will treat you well; for [g]the LORD has promised good things to Israel."

30 And he said to him, "I will not go, but I will depart to my own land and to my relatives."

31 So Moses said, "Please do not leave, inasmuch as you know how we are to camp in the wilderness, and you can [5]be our [h]eyes. 32 And it shall be, if you go with us—indeed it shall be—that [i]whatever good the LORD will do to us, the same we will do to you."

33 So they departed from [j]the mountain of the LORD on a journey of three days; and the ark of the covenant of the LORD [k]went before them for the three days' journey, to search out a resting place for them. 34 And [l]the cloud of the LORD was above them by day when they went out from the camp.

35 So it was, whenever the ark set out, that Moses said:

[m]"Rise up, O LORD!
Let Your enemies be scattered,
And let those who hate You flee before You."

36 And when it rested, he said:

"Return, O LORD,
To the many thousands of Israel."

The People Complain

11 Now [a]when the people complained, it displeased the LORD; [b]for the LORD heard it, and His anger was aroused. So the [c]fire of the LORD burned among them, and consumed some in the outskirts of the camp. 2 Then the people [d]cried out to Moses, and when Moses [e]prayed to the LORD, the fire was [1]quenched. 3 So he called the name of the place [2]Taberah, because the fire of the LORD had burned among them.

4 Now the [f]mixed multitude who were among them [3]yielded to [g]intense craving; so the children of Israel also wept again and said: [h]"Who will give us meat to eat? 5 [i]We remember the fish which we ate freely in Egypt, the cucumbers, the melons, the leeks, the onions, and the garlic; 6 but now [j]our whole being is dried up; there is nothing at all except this manna before our eyes!"

7 Now [k]the manna was like coriander seed, and its color like the color of bdellium. 8 The people went about and gathered it, ground it on millstones or beat it in the mortar, cooked it in pans, and made cakes of it; and [l]its taste was like the taste of pastry prepared with oil. 9 And [m]when the dew fell on the camp in the night, the manna fell on it.

10 Then Moses heard the people weeping throughout their families, everyone at the door of his tent; and [n]the anger of the LORD was greatly aroused; Moses also was displeased. 11 [o]So Moses said to the LORD, "Why have You afflicted Your servant? And why have I not found favor in Your sight, that You have laid the [4]burden of all these people on me? 12 Did I conceive all these people? Did I beget them, that You should say to me, [p]'Carry them in your bosom, as a [q]guardian carries a nursing child,' to the land which You [r]swore[5] to their fathers? 13 [s]Where am I to get meat to give to all these people? For they weep all over me, saying, 'Give us meat, that we may eat.' 14 [t]I am not able to bear all these people alone, because the burden is too heavy for me. 15 If You treat me like this, please kill me here and now—if I have found favor in Your sight—and [u]do not let me see my wretchedness!"

■ 10:29 Hobab. Yet another element of guidance is found. Moses asked his Midianite brother-in-law, a man familiar with the desert, for assistance (Ex. 2:16—3:1; Judg. 1:16).

■ 10:35–36 Moses was intensely conscious of God's mighty presence with His people. These prayers honor the Lord as the divine Warrior who goes before the host of the people (v. 35), and as the source of divine protection for the camp (v. 36).

■ 11:4 the mixed multitude. These were non-Israelites who came out from Egypt with the Israelites (Ex. 12:38 note).

■ 11:7 manna. See note on Ex. 16:14.

The Seventy Elders

16 So the LORD said to Moses: "Gather to Me [v]seventy men of the elders of Israel, whom you know to be the elders of the people and [w]officers over them; bring them to the tabernacle of meeting, that they may stand there with you. 17 Then I will come down and talk with you there. [x]I will take of the Spirit that is upon you and will put the same upon them; and they shall bear the burden of the people with you, that you may not bear it yourself alone. 18 Then you shall say to the people, [6]'Consecrate yourselves for tomorrow, and you shall eat meat; for you have wept [y]in the hearing of the LORD, saying, "Who will give us meat to eat? For it was well with us in Egypt." Therefore the LORD will give you meat, and you shall eat. 19 You shall eat, not one day, nor two days, nor five days, nor ten days, nor twenty days, 20 [z]but for a whole month, until it comes out of your nostrils and becomes loathsome to you, because you have [a]despised the LORD who is among you, and have wept before Him, saying, [b]"Why did we ever come up out of Egypt?" ' "

21 And Moses said, [c]"The people whom I am among are six hundred thousand men on foot; yet You have said, 'I will give them meat, that they may eat for a whole month.' 22 [d]Shall flocks and herds be slaughtered for them, to provide enough for them? Or shall all the fish of the sea be gathered together for them, to provide enough for them?"

23 And the LORD said to Moses, [e]"Has[7] the LORD's arm been shortened? Now you shall see whether [f]what I say will happen to you or not."

24 So Moses went out and told the people the words of the LORD, and he [g]gathered the seventy men of the elders of the people and placed them around the tabernacle. 25 Then the LORD came down in the cloud, and spoke to him, and took of the Spirit that was upon him, and placed the same upon the seventy elders; and it happened, [h]when the Spirit rested upon them, that [i]they prophesied, [8]although they never did so again.

26 But two men had remained in the camp: the name of one was Eldad, and the name of the other Medad. And the Spirit rested upon them. Now they were among those listed, but who [j]had not gone out to the tabernacle; yet they prophesied in the camp. 27 And a young man ran and told Moses, and said, "Eldad and Medad are prophesying in the camp."

28 So Joshua the son of Nun, Moses' assistant, one of his choice men, answered and said, "Moses my lord, [k]forbid them!"

29 Then Moses said to him, "Are you [9]zealous for my sake? [l]Oh, that all the LORD's people were prophets and that the LORD would put His Spirit upon them!" 30 And Moses returned to the camp, he and the elders of Israel.

The LORD Sends Quail

31 Now a [m]wind went out from the LORD, and it brought quail from the sea and left them fluttering near the camp, about a day's journey on this side and about a day's journey on the other side, all around the camp, and about two cubits above the surface of the ground. 32 And the people stayed up all that day, all night, and all the next day, and gathered the quail (he who gathered least gathered ten [n]homers); and they spread them out for themselves all around the camp. 33 But while the [o]meat was still between their teeth, before it was chewed, the wrath of the LORD was aroused against the people, and the LORD struck the people with a very great plague. 34 So he called the name of that place [l]Kibroth Hattaavah, because there they buried the people who had yielded to craving.

35 [p]From Kibroth Hattaavah the people moved to Hazeroth, and camped at Hazeroth.

Dissension of Aaron and Miriam

12 Then [a]Miriam and Aaron [1]spoke [b]against Moses because of the [2]Ethiopian woman whom he had married; for [c]he had married an Ethiopian woman. 2 So they said, "Has the LORD indeed spoken only through [d]Moses? [e]Has He not spoken through us also?" And the LORD

■ 11:25 prophesied. An instance of divinely inspired ecstatic utterance by the elders (cf. 1 Sam. 10:10; 19:24). This apparently temporary phenomenon (cf. text note) served to authenticate the leadership of the elders.

■ 11:31 about two cubits above the . . . ground. The quail were not piled to this depth, but flying blindly at a level of about three feet, where they were easily seized or struck down. See note on Ex. 16:13.

■ 12:1 Ethiopian. Or "Cushite" (text note). Cush is the region south of Egypt. Zipporah the Midianite (Ex. 2:16–21) might have been referred to as "an Ethiopian," but the directness of the explanation that Moses "had married an Ethiopian [or Cushite] woman" suggests that Zipporah had died and Moses had married again.

■ 12:2 spoken only through Moses. The real reason for the criticism comes to view—jealousy of Moses. Miriam and Aaron had important places in God's plan for Israel (cf. Mic. 6:4), but their jealousy of Moses, if not corrected, could greatly injure the work of God.

[j]heard it. 3 (Now the man Moses was very humble, more than all men who were on the face of the earth.)

4 [g]Suddenly the LORD said to Moses, Aaron, and Miriam, "Come out, you three, to the tabernacle of meeting!" So the three came out. 5 [h]Then the LORD came down in the pillar of cloud and stood in the door of the tabernacle, and called Aaron and Miriam. And they both went forward. 6 Then He said,

"Hear now My words:
If there is a prophet among you,
I, the LORD, make Myself known to him [i]in a vision;
I speak to him [j]in a dream.
7 Not so with [k]My servant Moses;
[l]He is faithful in all [m]My house.

To speak against My servant Moses?"

9 So the anger of the LORD was aroused against them, and He departed. 10 And when the cloud departed from above the tabernacle, [r]suddenly Miriam became [s]leprous, as white as snow. Then Aaron turned toward Miriam, and there she was, a leper. 11 So Aaron said to Moses, "Oh, my lord! Please [t]do not lay [5]this sin on us, in which we have done foolishly and in which we have sinned. 12 Please [u]do not let her be as one dead, whose flesh is half consumed when he comes out of his mother's womb!"

13 So Moses cried out to the LORD, saying, "Please [v]heal her, O God, I pray!"

14 Then the LORD said to Moses, "If her father had but [w]spit in her face, would she not be shamed seven days? Let her be [x]shut[6] out of the camp seven days, and afterward she may be received again." 15 [y]So Miriam was shut out of the camp seven days, and the people did not journey till Miriam was brought in again. 16 And afterward the people moved from [z]Hazeroth and camped in the Wilderness of Paran.

Spies Sent into Canaan

13 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 2 [a]"Send men to spy out the land of Canaan, which I am giving to the children of Israel; from each tribe of their fathers you shall send a man, every one a leader among them."

3 So Moses sent them [b]from the Wilderness of Paran according to the command of the LORD,

■ 12:3 Many suggest that this statement about Moses was added by someone other than Moses, though the Mosaic origin of this verse is not impossible (a unique feature of Scripture is its accurate representation of both the good and bad qualities of its characters, cf. Neh. 13:14, 22; 1 Cor. 4:16, 17). The statement establishes that Moses did not wrongly provoke the complaint of Miriam and Aaron, and explains God's swift defense of His prophet.

■ 12:5 came down. This phrase is often used in Scripture to indicate a special act of God in dealing with earthly events (e.g., Is. 64:1).

■ 12:6–8 The Lord summoned Moses and his two accusers to the tabernacle of meeting. There He rebuked Aaron and Miriam for their arrogant lack of fear in opposing Moses. In light of the clarity and directness of God's self-revelation to Moses, they should have accepted their subordination to his unique status and supported him. See "Prophets" at Deut. 18:18.

■ 12:7 My servant Moses. The New Testament contrasts the great honor of Moses referred to here with the even greater honor of Jesus Christ—Moses was a faithful servant in God's house, but Christ is "a Son over His own house" (Heb. 3:6).

■ 12:8 face to face. Contrast the way God revealed His will even to Elijah (cf. 1 Kin. 19:9–18). No other Old Testament figure had as intimate a relation to God as Moses, and this description in turn highlights the greater privilege of the Christian—in Jesus Christ, the glory of God's goodness and mercy that was withheld even from Moses is displayed to believers through the Spirit (Ex. 33:19, 20; John 1:14; 2 Cor. 3:18). But the believer also looks forward to a yet greater visio dei (vision of God)—seeing Christ "face to face" (1 Cor. 13:12; Rev. 22:4).

plainly, and not in dark sayings. With respect to the clarity of divine revelation given to him, Moses stands above all other Old Testament prophets (cf. v. 6). The characterization of prophetic revelation as "dark speech" or "riddles" (text note) implies that prophetic materials in Scripture are sometimes to be understood figuratively rather than literally.

■ 12:10 leprous. The Hebrew word can refer to various skin diseases. It was clear to anyone who saw Miriam that God had condemned her attitude. Aaron shared the humiliation, for it was evident to all that he too was being chastened for joining her in claiming that they were as great as Moses. God did not make Aaron leprous, however, since his position as high priest (second in importance only to that of Moses) needed to be safeguarded (cf. Num. 16:6—17:11). Later, Uzziah, a beloved king of Judah, was stricken with leprosy when he tried to assume the prerogatives of the high priest (2 Chr. 26:16–21).

■ 12:16 Wilderness of Paran. The region southwest of the Promised Land in the east-central portion of the Sinai peninsula (Gen. 21:21).

■ 13:1 the LORD spoke to Moses. God told Moses to send spies apparently in response to an earlier petition of the people, since Deut. 1:22, 23 indicates that they had asked for this. God used the spies to show that the people as a whole were not yet ready to enter the Promised Land.

■ 13:3 heads of the children of Israel. The names of vv. 4–15 are not found in the earlier lists of leaders and heads of houses (chs. 1; 2; 7; 10).

all of them men who were heads of the children of Israel. 4 Now these were their names: from the tribe of Reuben, Shammua the son of Zaccur; 5 from the tribe of Simeon, Shaphat the son of Hori; 6 [c]from the tribe of Judah, [d]Caleb the son of Jephunneh; 7 from the tribe of Issachar, Igal the son of Joseph; 8 from the tribe of Ephraim, [f]Hoshea the son of Nun; 9 from the tribe of Benjamin, Palti the son of Raphu; 10 from the tribe of Zebulun, Gaddiel the son of Sodi; 11 from the tribe of Joseph, that is, from the tribe of Manasseh, Gaddi the son of Susi; 12 from the tribe of Dan, Ammiel the son of Gemalli; 13 from the tribe of Asher, Sethur the son of Michael; 14 from the tribe of Naphtali, Nahbi the son of Vophsi; 15 from the tribe of Gad, Geuel the son of Machi.

16 These are the names of the men whom Moses sent to [2]spy out the land. And Moses called [e]Hoshea[3] the son of Nun, Joshua.

17 Then Moses sent them to spy out the land of Canaan, and said to them, "Go up this way into the South, and go up to [j]the mountains, 18 and see what the land is like: whether the people who dwell in it are strong or weak, few or many; 19 whether the land they dwell in is good or bad; whether the cities they inhabit are like camps or strongholds; 20 whether the land is [4]rich or poor; and whether there are forests there or not. [g]Be of good courage. And bring some of the fruit of the land." Now the time was the season of the first ripe grapes.

21 So they went up and spied out the land [h]from the Wilderness of Zin as far as [i]Rehob, near the entrance of [j]Hamath. 22 And they went up through the South and came to [k]Hebron; Ahiman, Sheshai, and Talmai, the descendants of [l]Anak, were there. (Now Hebron was built seven years before Zoan in Egypt.) 23 [m]Then they came to the [5]Valley of Eshcol, and there cut down a branch with one cluster of grapes; they carried it between two of them on a pole. They also brought some of the pomegranates and figs. 24 The place was called the Valley of [6]Eshcol, because of the cluster which the men of Israel cut down there. 25 And they returned from spying out the land after forty days.

26 Now they departed and came back to Moses and Aaron and all the congregation of the children of Israel in the Wilderness of Paran, at [n]Kadesh; they brought back word to them and to all the congregation, and showed them the fruit of the land. 27 Then they told him, and said: "We went to the land where you sent us. It truly [7]flows with [o]milk and honey, [p]and this is its fruit. 28 Nevertheless the [q]people who dwell in the land are strong; the cities are fortified and very large; moreover we saw the descendants of [r]Anak there. 29 [s]The Amalekites dwell in the land of the South; the Hittites, the Jebusites, and the Amorites dwell in the mountains; and the Canaanites dwell by the sea and along the banks of the Jordan."

30 Then [t]Caleb quieted the people before Moses, and said, "Let us go up at once and take possession, for we are well able to overcome it."

31 [u]But the men who had gone up with him said, "We are not able to go up against the people, for they are stronger than we." 32 And they [v]gave the children of Israel a bad report of the land which they had spied out, saying, "The land through which we have gone as spies is a land that devours its inhabitants, and [w]all the people whom we saw in it are men of great stature. 33 There we saw the [8]giants ([x]the descendants of Anak came from the giants); and we were [y]like[9] grasshoppers in our own sight, and so we were [z]in their sight."

Israel Refuses to Enter Canaan

14 So all the congregation lifted up their voices and cried, and the people [a]wept that night. 2 [b]And all the children of Israel complained against Moses and Aaron, and the whole congregation said to them, "If only we had died in the land of Egypt! Or if only we had died in this wilderness! 3 Why has the LORD brought us to this land to [1]fall by the sword, that our wives and [c]children should become victims? Would it not be better for us to return to Egypt?" 4 So they said to one another, [d]"Let us select a leader and [e]return to Egypt."

4 [d]Neh. 9:17 [e]Acts 7:39

The spies are a separate group of persons specially chosen for the dangerous task of reconnaissance.

■ 13:16 Hoshea . . . Joshua. The first name simply means "salvation"; the new one means "the LORD saves." It was appropriate that the man succeeding Moses as leader should bear a name that pointed to the Lord as the One from whom the nation's salvation must come.

■ 13:22 Hebron. Hebron was well-known as the location of the graves of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (Gen. 13:18; 49:29–33; 50:13). The Zoan which was built seven years after Hebron is the city of Tanis in Egypt, founded about 1430 B.C. Another name for Hebron is Kirjath Arba, and it was associated with the Anakim or descendents of Anak, a clan of large and intimidating fighters (Josh. 14:15). In later history, David occupied Hebron and was anointed there, first as king of Judah and then as king of Israel and Judah (2 Sam. 2:1–3; 5:1–5).

■ 13:33 giants. See text note; note on Gen. 6:4. The Hebrew term is used in Gen. 6:4 for a group of strong and wicked men who lived in the earth before the Flood. The spies' exaggerated and cowardly report disheartened the people and brought God's judgment on the spies themselves (14:36, 37).

■ 14:1–45 The Exodus generation provided an example of apostasy that the psalmist (Ps. 95:7–11) and New Testament authors (1 Cor. 10:5; Heb. 3:12—4:13) used to warn later generations of God's people.

5 Then Moses and Aaron [2]fell on their faces before all the assembly of the congregation of the children of Israel.

6 But Joshua the son of Nun and Caleb the son of Jephunneh, who were among those who had spied out the land, tore their clothes; 7 and they spoke to all the congregation of the children of Israel, saying: [f]"The land we passed through to spy out is an exceedingly good land. 8 If the LORD [g]delights in us, then He will bring us into this land and give it to us, [h]'a land which flows with milk and honey.' 9 Only [i]do not rebel against the LORD, [j]nor fear the people of the land, for [k]they[3] are our bread; their protection has departed from them, [l]and the LORD is with us. Do not fear them."

10 [m]And all the congregation said to stone them with stones. Now [n]the glory of the LORD appeared in the tabernacle of meeting before all the children of Israel.

Moses Intercedes for the People

11 Then the LORD said to Moses: "How long will these people [o]reject[4] Me? And how long will they not [p]believe Me, with all the [5]signs which I have performed among them? 12 I will strike them with the pestilence and disinherit them, and I will [q]make of you a nation greater and mightier than they."

13 And [r]Moses said to the LORD: [s]"Then the Egyptians will hear it, for by Your might You brought these people up from among them, 14 and they will tell it to the inhabitants of this land. They have [t]heard that You, LORD, are among these people; that You, LORD, are seen face to face and Your cloud stands above them, and You go before them in a pillar of cloud by day and in a pillar of fire by night. 15 Now if You kill these people as one man, then the nations which have heard of Your fame will speak, saying, 16 'Because the LORD was not [u]able to bring this people to the land which He swore to give them, therefore He killed them in the wilderness.' 17 And now, I pray, let the power of my Lord be great, just as You have spoken, saying, 18 [v]'The LORD is longsuffering and abundant in mercy, forgiving iniquity and transgression; but He by no means clears the guilty, [w]visiting the iniquity of the fathers on the children to the third and fourth generation.' 19 [x]Pardon the iniquity of this people, I pray, [y]according to the greatness of Your mercy, just [z]as You have forgiven this people, from Egypt even until now."

20 Then the LORD said: "I have pardoned, [a]according to your word; 21 but truly, as I live, [b]all the earth shall be filled with the glory of the LORD— 22 [c]because all these men who have seen My glory and the signs which I did in Egypt and in the wilderness, and have put Me to the test now [d]these ten times, and have not heeded My voice, 23 they certainly shall not [e]see the land of which I [6]swore to their fathers, nor shall any of those who rejected Me see it. 24 But My servant [f]Caleb, because he has a different spirit in him and [g]has followed Me fully, I will bring into the land where he went, and his descendants shall inherit it. 25 Now the Amalekites and the Canaanites dwell in the valley; tomorrow turn and [h]move out into the wilderness by the Way of the Red Sea."

Death Sentence on the Rebels

26 And the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying, 27 [i]"How long shall I bear with this evil congregation who complain against Me? [j]I have heard the complaints which the children of Israel make against Me. 28 Say to them, [k]'As I live,' says the LORD, 'just as you have spoken in My hearing, so I will do to you: 29 The carcasses of you who have complained against Me shall fall in this wilderness, [l]all of you who were numbered, according to your entire number, from twenty years old and above. 30 [m]Except for Caleb the son of Jephunneh and Joshua the son of Nun, you shall by no means enter the land which I [7]swore I would make you dwell in. 31 [n]But your little ones, whom you said would be victims, I will bring in, and they shall [8]know the land which [o]you have despised. 32 But as for you, [p]your[9] carcasses shall fall in this wilderness. 33 And your sons shall [q]be [l]shepherds in the wilderness [r]forty years, and [s]bear the brunt of your infidelity, until your carcasses are consumed in the wilderness. 34 [t]According to the number of the days in which you spied out the land, [u]forty days, for each day you shall bear your [2]guilt one year, namely forty years, [v]and you shall know My [3]rejection. 35 [w]I the LORD have spoken this. I will surely do so to all [x]this evil congregation who are gathered together against Me. In this wilderness they shall be consumed, and there they shall die.' "

36 Now the men whom Moses sent to spy out the land, who returned and made all the congregation complain against him by bringing a bad report of the land, 37 those very men who brought the evil report about the land, [y]died by the plague before the LORD. 38 [z]But Joshua the son of Nun and Caleb the son of Jephunneh remained alive, of the men who went to spy out the land.

...ile Invasion Attempt

39 Then Moses told these words to all the children of Israel, [a]and the people mourned greatly.
40 And they rose early in the morning and went up to the top of the mountain, saying, [b]"Here we are, and we will go up to the place which the LORD has promised, for we have sinned!"

41 And Moses said, "Now why do you [d]transgress the command of the LORD? For this will not succeed. 42 [e]Do not go up, lest you be defeated by your enemies, for the LORD is not among you.
43 For the Amalekites and the Canaanites are there before you, and you shall fall by the sword; [d]because you have turned away from the LORD, the LORD will not be with you."

44 [e]But they presumed to go up to the mountaintop. Nevertheless, neither the ark of the covenant of the LORD nor Moses departed from the camp. 45 Then the Amalekites and the Canaanites who dwelt in that mountain came down and attacked them, and drove them back as far as [f]Hormah.

Laws of Grain and Drink Offerings

15 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 2 [a]"Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: 'When you have come into the land you are to inhabit, which I am giving to you,
3 and you [b]make an offering by fire to the LORD, a burnt offering or a sacrifice, [c]to fulfill a vow or as a freewill offering or [d]in your appointed feasts, to make a [e]sweet[I] aroma to the LORD, from the herd or the flock, 4 then [f]he who presents his offering to the LORD shall bring [g]a grain offering of one-tenth of an ephah of fine flour mixed [h]with one-fourth of a hin of oil; 5 [i]and one-fourth of a hin of wine as a drink offering you shall prepare with the burnt offering or the sacrifice, for each [j]lamb. 6 [k]Or for a ram you shall prepare as a grain offering two-tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with one-third of a hin of oil; 7 and as a drink offering you shall offer one-third of a hin of wine as a sweet aroma to the LORD. 8 And when you prepare a young bull as a burnt offering, or as a sacrifice to fulfill a vow, or as a [l]peace offering to the LORD, 9 then shall be offered [m]with the young bull a grain offering of three-tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with half a hin of oil; 10 and you shall bring as the drink offering half a hin of wine as an offering made by fire, a sweet aroma to the LORD.

11 [n]'Thus it shall be done for each young bull, for each ram, or for each lamb or young goat.
12 According to the number that you prepare, so you shall do with everyone according to their number. 13 All who are native-born shall do these things in this manner, in presenting an offering made by fire, a sweet aroma to the LORD. 14 And if a stranger [z]dwells with you, or whoever is among you throughout your generations, and would present an offering made by fire, a sweet aroma to the LORD, just as you do, so shall he do. 15 [o]One [3]ordinance shall be for you of the assembly and for the stranger who dwells with you, an ordinance forever throughout your generations; as you are, so shall the stranger be before the LORD. 16 One law and one custom shall be for you and for the stranger who dwells with you.' "

17 Again the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 18 [p]"Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: 'When you come into the land to which I bring you, 19 then it will be, when you eat of [q]the bread of the land, that you shall offer up a heave offering to the LORD. 20 [r]You shall offer up a cake of the first of your ground meal as a heave offering; as [s]a heave offering of the threshing floor, so shall you offer it up. 21 Of the first of your ground meal you shall give to the LORD a heave offering throughout your generations.

Laws Concerning Unintentional Sin

22 [t]'If you sin unintentionally, and do not observe all these commandments which the LORD has spoken to Moses— 23 all that the LORD has commanded you by the hand of Moses, from the day the LORD gave commandment and onward throughout your generations— 24 then it will be, [u]if it is unintentionally committed, [4]without the knowledge of the congregation, that the whole congregation shall offer one young bull as a burnt offering, as a sweet aroma to the LORD, [v]with its grain offering and its drink offering, according to the ordinance, and [w]one kid of the goats as

■ 14:39–45 The Israelites make a futile attempt to conquer Canaan. Despite Moses' opposition, the disappointed people try to enter the Promised Land, and are driven back.

■ 14:45 Hormah. A place of some importance in later history (21:1–3; Josh. 15:30; 19:4; Judg. 1:17; 1 Sam. 30:26–30).

■ 15:1–41 The location of the material in this chapter—between the disastrous defeat at the hands of the Amalekites and Canaanites (14:39–45) and Korah's rebellion (ch. 16)—is significant. In giving this chapter of laws for their behavior in the land (v. 2) God assured Israel that, despite their failures and rebellions, He still planned to give Canaan to them.

■ 15:1 When you have come into the land . . . I am giving to you. This expectation is a key to the chapter.

■ 15:22–29 Sacrifices of atonement for unintentional sins are prescribed. The whole community (v. 24–26) or an individual alone (v. 27) could be responsible for such transgressions, e.g., of ritual commandments like those given in vv. 1–21.

a sin offering. 25 [x]So the priest shall make atonement for the whole congregation of the children of Israel, and it shall be forgiven them, for it was unintentional; they shall bring their offering, an offering made by fire to the LORD, and their sin offering before the LORD, for their unintended sin. 26 It shall be forgiven the whole congregation of the children of Israel and the stranger who dwells among them, because all the people did it unintentionally.

27 'And [y]if a person sins unintentionally, then he shall bring a female goat in its first year as a sin offering. 28 [z]So the priest shall make atonement for the person who sins unintentionally, when he sins unintentionally before the LORD, to make atonement for him; and it shall be forgiven him. 29 [a]You shall have one law for him who sins unintentionally, for him who is native-born among the children of Israel and for the stranger who dwells among them.

Law Concerning Presumptuous Sin

30 [b]'But the person who does anything [5]presumptuously, whether he is native-born or a stranger, that one [6]brings reproach on the LORD, and he shall be [7]cut off from among his people. 31 Because he has [c]despised the word of the LORD, and has broken His commandment, that person shall be completely cut off; his [8]guilt shall be upon him.' "

Penalty for Violating the Sabbath

32 Now while the children of Israel were in the wilderness, [d]they found a man gathering sticks on the Sabbath day. 33 And those who found him gathering sticks brought him to Moses and Aaron, and to all the congregation. 34 They put him [e]under guard, because it had not been explained what should be done to him.

35 Then the LORD said to Moses, [f]"The man must surely be put to death; all the congregation shall [g]stone him with stones outside the camp." 36 So, as the LORD commanded Moses, all the congregation brought him outside the camp and stoned him with stones, and he died.

Tassels on Garments

37 Again the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 38 "Speak to the children of Israel: Tell [h]them to make tassels on the corners of their garments throughout their generations, and to put a blue thread in the tassels of the corners. 39 And you shall have the tassel, that you may look upon it and [i]remember all the commandments of the LORD and do them, and that you [j]may not [k]follow the harlotry to which your own heart and your own eyes are inclined, 40 and that you may remember and do all My commandments, and be [l]holy for your God. 41 I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, to be your God: I am the LORD your God."

Rebellion Against Moses and Aaron

16 Now [a]Korah the son of Izhar, the son of Kohath, the son of Levi, with [b]Dathan and Abiram the sons of Eliab, and On the son of Peleth, sons of Reuben, took men; 2 and they rose up before Moses with some of the children of Israel, two hundred and fifty leaders of the congregation, [c]representatives of the congregation, men of renown. 3 [d]They gathered together against Moses and Aaron, and said to them, "You [1]take too much upon yourselves, for [e]all the congregation is holy, every one of them, [f]and the LORD is among them. Why then do you exalt yourselves above the assembly of the LORD?"

4 So when Moses heard it, he [g]fell on his face; 5 and he spoke to Korah and all his company, saying, "Tomorrow morning the LORD will show who is [h]His and who is [i]holy,[2] and will cause him to come near to Him. That one whom He chooses He will cause to [j]come near to Him. 6 Do this: Take censers, Korah and all your company; 7 put fire in them and put incense in them before the LORD tomorrow, and it shall be that the man whom the LORD chooses is the holy one. You take too much upon yourselves, you sons of Levi!"

8 Then Moses said to Korah, "Hear now, you sons of Levi: 9 Is it [k]a small thing to you that the God of Israel has [l]separated you from the congregation of Israel, to bring you near to Himself, to do the work of the tabernacle of the LORD, and to stand before the congregation to serve them; 10 and that He has brought you near to Himself, you and all your brethren, the sons of Levi, with you? And are you seeking the priesthood also? 11 Therefore you and all your company are gathered together against the LORD. [m]And what is Aaron that you complain against him?"

■ 15:37–41 Tassels with blue threads were to be affixed to garments as reminders to be holy and to keep God's commands (v. 40).

■ 16:1–3 This chapter describes a complicated series of events in which two separate movements combined forces to oppose Moses and Aaron. One group, led by Dathan, Abiram, and On from the tribe of Reuben, was jealous of the leadership that God had established, and propagandized against Moses and Aaron. The other disaffected group consisted of Kohathites (Levites), the very group to which Moses and Aaron belonged.

■ 16:4–11 Moses dealt first with the Levite opposition, which had access to the tabernacle. Moses' proposal in vv. 6, 7 set the stage for divine judgment in v. 35.

12 And Moses sent to call Dathan and Abiram the sons of Eliab, but they said, "We will not come up! 13 Is it a small thing that you have brought us up out of [n]a land flowing with milk and honey, to kill us in the wilderness, that you should [o]keep acting like a prince over us? 14 Moreover [p]you have not brought us into [q]a land flowing with milk and honey, nor given us inheritance of fields and vineyards. Will you put out the eyes of these men? We will not come up!"

15 Then Moses was very angry, and said to the LORD, [r]"Do not [3]respect their offering. [s]I have not taken one donkey from them, nor have I hurt one of them."

16 And Moses said to Korah, "Tomorrow, you and all your company be present [t]before the LORD—you and they, as well as Aaron. 17 Let each take his censer and put incense in it, and each of you bring his censer before the LORD, two hundred and fifty censers; both you and Aaron, each with his censer." 18 So every man took his censer, put fire in it, laid incense on it, and stood at the door of the tabernacle of meeting with Moses and Aaron. 19 And Korah gathered all the congregation against them at the door of the tabernacle of meeting. Then [u]the glory of the LORD appeared to all the congregation.

20 And the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying, 21 [v]"Separate yourselves from among this congregation, that I may [w]consume them in a moment."

22 Then they [x]fell[4] on their faces, and said, "O God, [y]the God of the spirits of all flesh, shall one man sin, and You be angry with all the [z]congregation?"

23 So the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 24 "Speak to the congregation, saying, 'Get away from the tents of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram.' "

25 Then Moses rose and went to Dathan and Abiram, and the elders of Israel followed him. 26 And he spoke to the congregation, saying, [a]"Depart now from the tents of these wicked men! Touch nothing of theirs, lest you be consumed in all their sins." 27 So they got away from around the tents of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram; and Dathan and Abiram came out and stood at the door of their tents, with their wives, their sons, and their little [b]children.

28 And Moses said: [c]"By this you shall know that the LORD has sent me to do all these works, for I have not done them [d]of my own will. 29 If these men die naturally like all men, or if they are [e]visited by the common fate of all men, then the LORD has not sent me. 30 But if the LORD creates [f]a new thing, and the earth opens its mouth and swallows them up with all that belongs to them, and they [g]go down alive into the pit, then you will understand that these men have rejected the LORD."

31 [h]Now it came to pass, as he finished speaking all these words, that the ground split apart under them, 32 and the earth opened its mouth and swallowed them up, with their households and [i]all the men with Korah, with all their goods. 33 So they and all those with them went down alive into the pit; the earth closed over them, and they perished from among the assembly. 34 Then all Israel who were around them fled at their cry, for they said, "Lest the earth swallow us up also!"

35 And [j]a fire came out from the LORD and consumed the two hundred and fifty men who were offering incense.

36 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 37 "Tell Eleazar, the son of Aaron the priest, to pick up the censers out of the blaze, for [k]they are holy, and scatter the fire some distance away. 38 The censers of [l]these men who sinned [5]against their own souls, let them be made into hammered plates as a covering for the altar. Because they presented them before the LORD, therefore they are holy; [m]and they shall be a sign to the children of Israel." 39 So Eleazar the priest took the bronze censers, which those who were burned up had presented, and they were hammered out as a covering on the altar, 40 to be a [6]memorial to the children of Israel [n]that no outsider, who is not a descendant of Aaron, should come near to offer incense before the LORD, that he might not become like Korah and his companions, just as the LORD had said to him through Moses.

Complaints of the People

41 On the next day [c]all the congregation of the children of Israel complained against Moses and Aaron, saying, "You have killed the people of the LORD." 42 Now it happened, when the congregation had gathered against Moses and Aaron, that they turned toward the tabernacle of meeting; and suddenly [p]the cloud covered it, and the glory of the LORD appeared. 43 Then Moses and Aaron came before the tabernacle of meeting.

44 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 45 "Get away from among this congregation, that I may consume them in a moment."

And they fell on their faces.

46 So Moses said to Aaron, "Take a censer and put fire in it from the altar, put incense on it, and take it quickly to the congregation and make [7]atonement for them; [q]for wrath has gone out from the LORD. The plague has begun." 47 Then Aaron took it as Moses commanded, and ran into the midst of the assembly; and already the plague had begun among the people. So he put in the incense and made atonement for the people. 48 And he stood between the dead and the living; so [r]the plague was stopped. 49 Now those who died in the plague were fourteen thousand seven hundred, besides those who died in the Korah incident. 50 So Aaron returned to Moses at the door of the tabernacle of meeting, for the plague had stopped.

The Budding of Aaron's Rod

17 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 2 "Speak to the children of Israel, and get from them a rod from each father's house, all their leaders according to their fathers' houses—twelve rods. Write each man's name on his rod. 3 And you shall write Aaron's name on the rod of Levi. For there shall be one rod for the head of each father's house. 4 Then you shall place them in the tabernacle of meeting before [a]the Testimony, [b]where I meet with you. 5 And it shall be that the rod of the man [c]whom I choose will blossom; thus I will rid Myself of the complaints of the children of Israel, [d]which they make against you."

6 So Moses spoke to the children of Israel, and each of their leaders gave him a rod apiece, for each leader according to their fathers' houses, twelve rods; and the rod of Aaron was among their rods. 7 And Moses placed the rods before the LORD in [e]the tabernacle of witness.

8 Now it came to pass on the next day that Moses went into the tabernacle of witness, and behold, the [f]rod of Aaron, of the house of Levi, had sprouted and put forth buds, had produced blossoms and yielded ripe almonds. 9 Then Moses brought out all the rods from before the LORD to all the children of Israel; and they looked, and each man took his rod.

10 And the LORD said to Moses, "Bring [g]Aaron's rod back before the Testimony, to be kept [h]as a sign against the rebels, [i]that you may put their complaints away from Me, lest they die." 11 Thus did Moses; just as the LORD had commanded him, so he did.

12 So the children of Israel spoke to Moses, saying, "Surely we die, we perish, we all perish! 13 [j]Whoever even comes near the tabernacle of the LORD must die. Shall we all utterly die?"

Duties of Priests and Levites

18 Then the LORD said to Aaron: [a]"You and your sons and your father's house with you shall [b]bear the [1]iniquity related to the sanctuary, and you and your sons with you shall bear the iniquity associated with your priesthood. 2 Also bring with you your brethren of the [c]tribe of Levi, the tribe of your father, that they may be [d]joined with you and serve you while you and your sons are with you before the tabernacle of [2]witness. 3 They shall attend to your [3]needs and [e]all the needs of the tabernacle; [f]but they shall not come near the articles of the sanc-

■ 16:45b–48 Moses and Aaron again act as intercessors for the sinful people (v. 22 note).

■ 17:1–11 Further evidence of Aaron's unique priesthood is given by God. The blossoms of Aaron's rod taught the leaders of Israel that God had chosen Aaron and his descendants as priests. Aaron's rod was kept permanently in front of the ark as a witness (v. 10).

■ 17:4 before the Testimony. In front of the ark in the Most Holy Place (cf. vv. 8, 10).

■ 17:13 Whoever even comes near the tabernacle. This terror of approaching God's dwelling highlights the importance of the mediatorial ministry of the priests and Levites described in ch. 18.

■ 18:1–24 The duties and support of the priests and Levites are detailed. Only Aaron and his family could go near the furnishings of the sanctuary or the altar; the other Levites answered to the priests and were to do all the work at the tabernacle of meeting (vv. 1–7). The males of Aaron's family were to receive the parts of the most holy offerings that were kept from the fire (vv. 8–10). All members of this family who were ceremonially clean were to share the wave offerings (v. 11; Ex. 29:24–27; Lev. 7:30–34) and the firstfruits (vv. 12, 13; Ex. 23:16–19; 34:22–26; Lev. 23:20; Deut. 18:4; 26:10). Support for the Levites came from the tithes offered by the people (Deut. 13:22–29 and notes).

■ 18:1 bear the iniquity. See text note. Aaron and his sons were responsible for offenses against the holiness of the sanctuary and for violations of the rules of the priesthood. The imperfection of their priesthood was indicated by their having to make sacrifices for their own sins, as well as for the sins of others (Ex. 29:38; Heb. 9:7). This imperfection pointed forward to a greater, perfect Priest who did not need to offer sacrifices for His own sin (Heb. 10:11–14).

tuary and the altar, [g]lest they die—they and you also. 4 They shall be joined with you and attend to the needs of the tabernacle of meeting, for all the work of the tabernacle; [h]but an outsider shall not come near you. 5 And you shall attend to [i]the duties of the sanctuary and the duties of the altar; [j]that there may be no more wrath on the children of Israel. 6 Behold, I Myself have [k]taken your brethren the Levites from among the children of Israel; [l]they are a gift to you, given by the LORD, to do the work of the tabernacle of meeting. 7 Therefore [m]you and your sons with you shall attend to your priesthood for everything at the altar and [n]behind the veil; and you shall serve. I give your priesthood to you as a [o]gift for service, but the outsider who comes near shall be put to death."

Offerings for Support of the Priests

8 And the LORD spoke to Aaron: "Here, [p]I Myself have also given you [4]charge of My heave offerings, all the holy gifts of the children of Israel; I have given them [q]as a portion to you and your sons, as an ordinance forever. 9 This shall be yours of the most holy things reserved from the fire: every offering of theirs, every [r]grain offering and every [s]sin offering and every [t]trespass offering which they render to Me, shall be most holy for you and your sons. 10 [u]In a most holy place you shall eat it; every male shall eat it. It shall be holy to you.

11 "This also is yours: [v]the heave offering of their gift, with all the wave offerings of the children of Israel; I have given them to you, and your sons and daughters with you, as an ordinance forever. [w]Everyone who is [5]clean in your house may eat it.

12 [x]"All the [6]best of the oil, all the best of the new wine and the grain, [y]their firstfruits which they offer to the LORD, I have given them to you. 13 Whatever first ripe fruit is in their land, [z]which they bring to the LORD, shall be yours. Everyone who is clean in your house may eat it.

14 [a]"Every [7]devoted thing in Israel shall be yours.

15 "Everything that first opens [b]the womb of all flesh, which they bring to the LORD, whether man or beast, shall be yours; nevertheless [c]the firstborn of man you shall surely redeem, and the firstborn of unclean animals you shall redeem. 16 And those redeemed of the devoted things you shall redeem when one month old, [d]according to your valuation, for five shekels of silver, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, which is [e]twenty gerahs. 17 [f]But the firstborn of a cow, the firstborn of a sheep, or the firstborn of a goat you shall not redeem; they are holy. [8]You shall sprinkle their blood on the altar, and burn their fat as an offering made by fire for a sweet aroma to the LORD. 18 And their flesh shall be yours, just as the [h]wave[8] breast and the right thigh are yours.

19 "All the heave offerings of the holy things, which the children of Israel offer to the LORD, I have given to you and your sons and daughters with you as an ordinance forever; [i]it is a covenant of salt forever before the LORD with you and your descendants with you."

20 Then the LORD said to Aaron: "You shall have [j]no inheritance in their land, nor shall you have any portion among them; [k]I am your portion and your inheritance among the children of Israel.

Tithes for Support of the Levites

21 "Behold, [l]I have given the children of Levi all the tithes in Israel as [9]an inheritance in return for the work which they perform, [m]the work of the tabernacle of meeting. 22 [n]Hereafter the children of Israel shall not come near the tabernacle of meeting, [o]lest they bear sin and die. 23 But the Levites shall perform the work of the tabernacle of meeting, and they shall bear their iniquity; it shall be a statute forever, throughout your generations, that among the children of Israel they shall have no inheritance. 24 For the tithes of the children of Israel, which they offer up as a heave offering to the LORD, I have given to the Levites [1]as an inheritance; therefore I have said to them, 'Among the children of Israel they shall have no inheritance.' "

The Tithe of the Levites

25 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 26 "Speak thus to the Levites, and say to them: 'When you take from the children of Israel the tithes which I have given you from them as your inheritance, then you shall offer up a heave offering of it to the LORD, [p]a tenth of the tithe.

■ 18:19 a covenant of salt forever. This phrase indicates the permanent nature of God's promise, based on the apparent indestructibility of salt, which does not burn. The priests had no inheritance in the land. Rather, through the tithes and offerings presented to the Lord by the people, the Lord Himself was to be the Levites' portion (vv. 20, 21).

■ 18:25–32 From the tithes they received from the people, the Levites too were to give a tenth to the priests. It had to be taken from the best and holiest parts (vv. 29–32).

27 And your heave offering shall be reckoned to you as though it were the grain of the [q]threshing floor and as the fullness of the winepress. 28 Thus you shall also offer a heave offering to the LORD from all your tithes which you receive from the children of Israel, and you shall give the LORD's heave offering from it to Aaron the priest. 29 Of all your gifts you shall offer up every heave offering due to the LORD, from all the [2]best of them, the consecrated part of them.' 30 Therefore you shall say to them: 'When you have lifted up the best of it, then the rest shall be accounted to the Levites as the produce of the threshing floor and as the produce of the winepress. 31 You may eat it in any place, you and your households, for it is [r]your [3]reward for your work in the tabernacle of meeting. 32 And you shall [s]bear no sin because of it, when you have lifted up the best of it. But you shall not [t]profane the holy gifts of the children of Israel, lest you die.' "

Laws of Purification

19 Now the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying, 2 "This is the [1]ordinance of the law which the LORD has commanded, saying: 'Speak to the children of Israel, that they bring you a red heifer without [2]blemish, in which there is no [a]defect [b]and on which a yoke has never come. 3 You shall give it to Eleazar the priest, that he may take it [c]outside the camp, and it shall be slaughtered before him; 4 and Eleazar the priest shall take some of its blood with his finger, and [d]sprinkle some of its blood seven times directly in front of the tabernacle of meeting. 5 Then the heifer shall be burned in his sight: [e]its hide, its flesh, its blood, and its offal shall be burned. 6 And the priest shall take [f]cedar wood and [g]hyssop and scarlet, and cast them into the midst of the fire burning the heifer. 7 [h]Then the priest shall wash his clothes, he shall bathe in water, and afterward he shall come into the camp; the priest shall be unclean until evening. 8 And the one who burns it shall wash his clothes in water, bathe in water, and shall be unclean until evening. 9 Then a man who is clean shall gather up [i]the ashes of the heifer, and store them outside the camp in a clean place; and they shall be kept for the congregation of the children of Israel [j]for the water of [3]purification; it is for purifying from sin. 10 And the one who gathers the ashes of the heifer shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until evening. It shall be a statute forever to the children of Israel and to the stranger who dwells among them.

11 [k]'He who touches the dead [4]body of anyone shall be unclean seven days. 12 [l]He shall purify himself with the water on the third day and on the seventh day; then he will be clean. But if he does not purify himself on the third day and on the seventh day, he will not be clean. 13 Whoever touches the body of anyone who has died, and [m]does not purify himself, [n]defiles the tabernacle of the LORD. That person shall be cut off from Israel. He shall be unclean, because [o]the water of purification was not sprinkled on him; [p]his uncleanness is still on him.

14 'This is the law when a man dies in a tent: All who come into the tent and all who are in the tent shall be unclean seven days; 15 and every [q]open vessel, which has no cover fastened on it, is unclean. 16 [r]Whoever in the open field touches one who is slain by a sword or who has died, or a bone of a man, or a grave, shall be unclean seven days.

17 'And for an unclean person they shall take some of the [s]ashes of the heifer burnt for purification from sin, and [5]running water shall be put on them in a vessel. 18 A clean person shall take [t]hyssop and dip it in the water, sprinkle it on the tent, on all the vessels, on the persons who were there, or on the one who touched a bone, the slain, the dead, or a grave. 19 The clean person shall sprinkle the unclean on the third day and on the seventh day; [u]and on the seventh day he shall purify himself, wash his clothes, and bathe in water; and at evening he shall be clean.

20 'But the man who is unclean and does not purify himself, that person shall be cut off from among the assembly, because he has [v]defiled the sanctuary of the LORD. The water of purification has not been sprinkled on him; he is unclean. 21 It shall be a perpetual statute for them. He who sprinkles the water of purification shall wash his clothes; and he who touches the water of

■ 19:1–22 Arrangements for cleansing those ceremonially unclean are presented. Under the direction of Eleazar the priest, a red heifer without blemish (v. 2) is taken outside the camp and killed (v. 3). The priest performs a prescribed ceremony (v. 4) and the heifer is burned (v. 5–6; cf. Heb. 9:11–13). Then the ashes are gathered up and put in a clean place outside the camp, to be kept for use in the water of cleansing (vv. 9–10). Situations of uncleanness requiring ceremonial cleansing are discussed in vv. 11–16, followed by the procedures for use of the water of cleansing (vv. 17–22).

■ 19:9 outside the camp. Christ, "that He might sanctify the people with His own blood, suffered outside the gate" (Heb. 13:11–13). The ceremonies for cleansing and purification prefigured His death.

■ 19:20 cut off from among the assembly. This exact phrase occurs nowhere else in the Bible. "Cut off from Israel" occurs twice (Ex. 12:15; Num. 19:13). Similar expressions occur in Lev. 17:10; 20:3, 5, 6; 23:29; Num. 9:13; 15:30; Ezek. 14:8. On the meaning of "cut off," see note on Lev. 7:20.

Moses' Error at Kadesh

20 Then[a] the children of Israel, the whole congregation, came into the Wilderness of Zin in the first month, and the people stayed in [b]Kadesh; and [c]Miriam died there and was buried there.

2 [d]Now there was no water for the congregation; [e]so they gathered together against Moses and Aaron. 3 And the people [f]contended with Moses and spoke, saying: "If only we had died [g]when our brethren died before the LORD! 4 [h]Why have you brought up the assembly of the LORD into this wilderness, that we and our animals should die here? 5 And why have you made us come up out of Egypt, to bring us to this evil place? It is not a place of grain or figs or vines or pomegranates; nor is there any water to drink." 6 So Moses and Aaron went from the presence of the assembly to the door of the tabernacle of meeting, and [i]they [j]fell on their faces. And [j]the glory of the LORD appeared to them.

7 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 8 [k]"Take the rod; you and your brother Aaron gather the congregation together. Speak to the rock before their eyes, and it will yield its water; thus [l]you shall bring water for them out of the rock, and give drink to the congregation and their animals." 9 So Moses took the rod [m]from before the LORD as He commanded him.

10 And Moses and Aaron gathered the assembly together before the rock; and he said to them, [n]"Hear now, you rebels! Must we bring water for you out of this rock?" 11 Then Moses lifted his hand and struck the rock twice with his rod; [o]and water came out abundantly, and the congregation and their animals drank.

12 Then the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, "Because [p]you did not believe Me, to [q]hallow Me in the eyes of the children of Israel, therefore you shall not bring this assembly into the land which I have given them."

13 [r]This was the water of [2]Meribah, because the children of Israel contended with the LORD, and He was hallowed among them.

Passage Through Edom Refused

14 [s]Now Moses sent messengers from Kadesh to the king of [t]Edom, [u]"Thus says your brother Israel: 'You know all the hardship that has befallen us, 15 [v]how our fathers went down to Egypt, [w]and we dwelt in Egypt a long time, [x]and the Egyptians [3]afflicted us and our fathers. 16 [y]When we cried out to the LORD, He heard our voice and [z]sent the Angel and brought us up out of Egypt; now here we are in Kadesh, a city on the edge of your border. 17 Please [a]let us pass through your country. We will not pass through fields or vineyards, nor will we drink water from wells; we will go along the King's Highway; we will not turn aside to the right hand or to the left until we have passed through your territory.' "

18 Then [b]Edom said to him, "You shall not pass through my land, lest I come out against you with the sword."

■ 20:1–13 In his exasperation with Israel, Moses acted presumptuously and failed to honor the holiness of God (vv. 9–11 note; Ex. 17:6 notes). The seriousness of Moses' sin is evident from the resulting judgment—he was not allowed to enter the Promised Land (v. 12).

■ 20:1 the first month. This would be at the end of the 40 years of wandering decreed in 14:32–34. The period of wandering in the desert was nearing its end. Everyone under 40 or even 50 was in effect from a new generation, about to begin the next part of God's plan—entrance into Canaan and conquest of the Promised Land.

Miriam died. Moses' sister was a godly woman. When Moses was a baby she had helped preserve him from destruction (Ex. 2:4–10). After the deliverance at the Red Sea she had led the victory celebration (Ex. 15:20, 21). Yet 12:5–15 shows her serious sin and the resulting punishment.

■ 20:2 no water. Water was the greatest need in desert travel (cf. Gen. 21:14–19; Ex. 17:1–7).

■ 20:2–5 The people complain again—an echo of previous complaints (Ex. 15:24; 16:2; 17:3; Num. 11:1; 14:2).

■ 20:9–11 After years of constant service and unparalleled patience Moses fell at his strongest point (12:3): (a) he spoke in anger; (b) he usurped the place of God, saying, "Must we bring water for you out of this rock?" and (c) he acted violently, striking the rock twice, when God had told him only to speak to it. On the symbolism of the rock, see notes on Ex. 17:6.

■ 20:12 God's word of judgment is directed to both Moses and Aaron, for Aaron had accompanied Moses and was implicated in the rashness of his brother's action. Their ministry was coming to an end.

■ 20:13 Meribah. See text note. Together with "Massah" ("Trial"), this name was used at the first incident of striking water from a rock (Ex. 17:7; Ps. 95:8 and text notes).

■ 20:14–20 The Edomites, descendants of Jacob's brother Esau (Gen. 25:25–34; 27:1–42; 28:5–9; 32:3–33:16; 35:29; 36:1–43), show an unbrotherly attitude toward Israel. Moses made a courteous request of the Edomites, asking permission to go peacefully through their territory, paying the Edomites for anything the travelers might need on the way. Since Israel was not given this permission, and they did not want to fight their way through, they could not reach the Promised Land without first making a long march through a particularly unpleasant part of the desert.

■ 20:14 your brother Israel. Jacob (later called Israel; Gen. 32:28) and his brother Esau had quarreled in their youth, but they were reconciled in later years (Gen. 33:9–16; 35:29).

19 So the children of Israel said to him, "We will go by the Highway, and if I or my livestock drink any of your water, [c]then I will pay for it; let me only pass through on foot, nothing more."

20 Then he said, [d]"You shall not pass through." So Edom came out against them with many men and with a strong hand. 21 Thus Edom [e]refused to give Israel passage through his territory; so Israel [f]turned away from him.

Death of Aaron

22 Now the children of Israel, the whole congregation, journeyed from [g]Kadesh [h]and came to Mount Hor. 23 And the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron in Mount Hor by the border of the land of Edom, saying: 24 "Aaron shall [4]be [i]gathered to his people, for he shall not enter the land which I have given to the children of Israel, because you rebelled against My word at the water of Meribah. 25 [j]Take Aaron and Eleazar his son, and bring them up to Mount Hor; 26 and strip Aaron of his garments and put them on Eleazar his son; for Aaron shall be gathered to his people and die there." 27 So Moses did just as the LORD commanded, and they went up to Mount Hor in the sight of all the congregation. 28 [k]Moses stripped Aaron of his garments and put them on Eleazar his son; and [l]Aaron died there on the top of the mountain. Then Moses and Eleazar came down from the mountain. 29 Now when all the congregation saw that Aaron was dead, all the house of Israel mourned for Aaron [m]thirty days.

Canaanites Defeated at Hormah

21 The [a]king of Arad, the Canaanite, who dwelt in the South, heard that Israel was coming on the road to Atharim. Then he fought against Israel and took some of them prisoners. 2 [b]So Israel made a vow to the LORD, and said, "If You will indeed deliver this people into my hand, then [c]I will utterly destroy their cities." 3 And the LORD listened to the voice of Israel and delivered up the Canaanites, and they utterly destroyed them and their cities. So the name of that place was called [1]Hormah.

The Bronze Serpent

4 Then they journeyed from Mount Hor by the Way of the Red Sea, to [d]go around the land of Edom; and the soul of the people became very [2]discouraged on the way. 5 And the people [e]spoke against God and against Moses: "Why have you brought us up out of Egypt to die in the wilderness? For there is no food and no water, and our soul [3]loathes this worthless bread." 6 So [f]the LORD sent [g]fiery serpents among the people, and they bit the people; and many of the people of Israel died.

7 [h]Therefore the people came to Moses, and said, "We have [i]sinned, for we have spoken against the LORD and against you; [j]pray to the LORD that He take away the serpents from us." So Moses prayed for the people.

8 Then the LORD said to Moses, [k]"Make a [l]fiery serpent, and set it on a pole; and it shall be that everyone who is bitten, when he looks at it, shall live." 9 So [m]Moses made a bronze serpent, and put it on a pole; and so it was, if a serpent had bitten anyone, when he looked at the bronze serpent, he lived.

From Mount Hor to Moab

10 Now the children of Israel moved on and [n]camped in Oboth. 11 And they journeyed from Oboth and camped at [4]Ije Abarim, in the wilderness which is east of Moab, toward the sunrise. 12 [o]From there they moved and camped in the Valley of Zered. 13 From there they moved and camped on the other side of the Arnon, which is in the wilderness that extends from the border of the Amorites; for [p]the Arnon is the border of Moab, between Moab and the Amorites. 14 Therefore it is said in the Book of the Wars of the LORD:

■ 20:22–29 Eleazar succeeds his father as high priest. Aaron had the joy of seeing his work carried on by a son; Moses, whose ministry as mediator of the Sinai covenant was unique (12:8 note; Ex. 18:1—24:18 note), did not.

■ 20:29 mourned . . . thirty days. See note on Deut. 34:8.

■ 21:1–3 The Israelites' first victory against the Canaanites was over Arad at Hormah, where Israel had suffered stinging defeat many years before (14:45). This victory marks a shift in focus from the Exodus generation condemned to die in the desert (14:29–35) to the generation born in the desert.

■ 21:4–9 This event typifies both the sacrifice of Christ and the faith of His people. Just as the bronze representation of the poisonous serpent was lifted up, so Christ, as one born "in the likeness of sinful flesh" (Rom. 8:3), was lifted up (John 3:14). The afflicted Israelites had no other means of rescue than to look at the bronze snake, just as sinners have no hope for salvation except faith in the crucified Christ (John 3:15, 16). Unfortunately, this bronze serpent later became the object of idolatrous worship (2 Kin. 18:4).

■ 21:14 the Book of the Wars of the LORD. This is the only biblical reference to an uninspired book of victory songs that was apparently current

5"Waheb in Suphah,
The brooks of the Arnon,
15 And the slope of the brooks
That reaches to the dwelling of [q]Ar,
And lies on the border of Moab."

16 From there they went [r]to Beer, which is the well where the LORD said to Moses, "Gather the people together, and I will give them water." 17 [s]Then Israel sang this song:

"Spring up, O well!
All of you sing to it—
18 The well the leaders sank,
Dug by the nation's nobles,
By the [t]lawgiver, with their staves."

And from the wilderness they went to Mattanah, 19 from Mattanah to Nahaliel, from Nahaliel to Bamoth, 20 and from Bamoth, in the valley that is in the [6]country of Moab, to the top of Pisgah which looks [u]down on the [7]wasteland.

King Sihon Defeated

21 Then [v]Israel sent messengers to Sihon king of the Amorites, saying, 22 [w]"Let me pass through your land. We will not turn aside into fields or vineyards; we will not drink water from wells. We will go by the King's Highway until we have passed through your territory." 23 [x]But Sihon would not allow Israel to pass through his territory. So Sihon gathered all his people together and [8]went out against Israel in the wilderness, [y]and he came to Jahaz and fought against Israel. 24 Then [z]Israel defeated him with the edge of the sword, and took possession of his land from the Arnon to the Jabbok, as far as the people of Ammon; for the border of the people of Ammon was fortified. 25 So Israel took all these cities, and Israel [a]dwelt in all the cities of the Arnon. This perennial stream flowed into the Dead Sea from the east, through a deep ravine. It formed the border between the territory of Moab and the Amorite kingdom of Sihon (21:21–31).

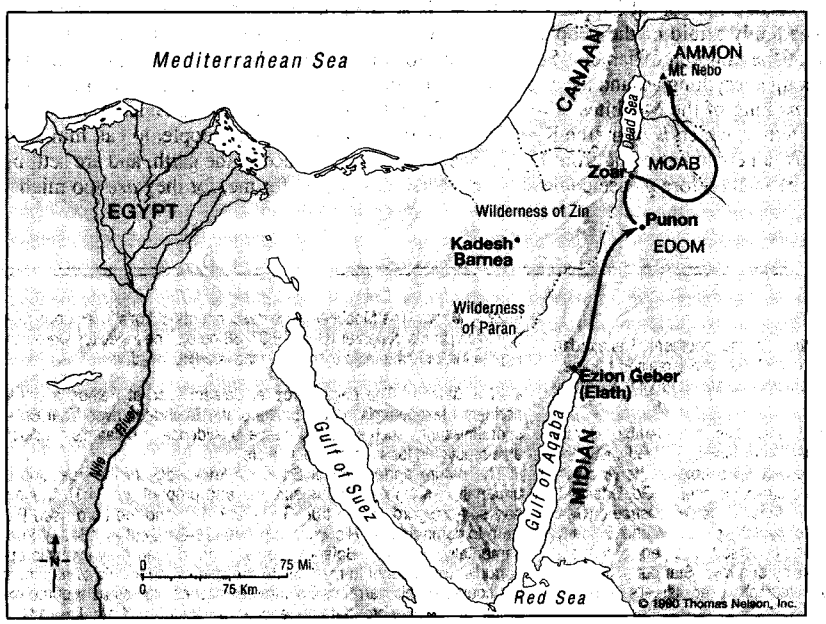
■ 21:21–35 Moses narrates Israel's conquest of Heshbon and Bashan. Both of these kingdoms were in eastern Palestine, across the Jordan from Canaan (the Transjordan).



From the Wilderness to Canaan. The attempt forty years earlier to move from Kadesh Barnea north into Canaan had been rebuffed. This time Moses wanted to go east through Edom and north through Moab toward Canaan. However, the Hebrews were refused passage through both territories despite kinship with the peoples. Instead, Moses went south to Elath, then north and east, bypassing Edom and Moab. North of the Arnon River, they defeated the Amorites and were poised to cross the Jordan from the east to enter Canaan.

Amorites, in Heshbon and in all its villages. 26 For Heshbon was the city of Sihon king of the Amorites, who had fought against the former king of Moab, and had taken all his land from his hand as far as the Arnon. 27 Therefore those who speak in [g]proverbs say:

"Come to Heshbon, let it be built;
Let the city of Sihon be repaired.

28 "For [b]fire went out from Heshbon,
A flame from the city of Sihon;
It consumed [c]Ar of Moab,
The lords of the [d]heights of the Arnon.
29 Woe to you, [e]Moab!
You have perished, O people of [f]Chemosh!
He has given his [g]sons as fugitives,
And his [h]daughters into captivity,
To Sihon king of the Amorites.

30 "But we have shot at them;
Heshbon has perished [i]as far as Dibon.
Then we laid waste as far as Nophah,
Which reaches to [j]Medeba."

31 Thus Israel dwelt in the land of the Amorites. 32 Then Moses sent to [l]spy out [k]Jazer; and they took its villages and drove out the Amorites who were there.

King Og Defeated

33 [l]And they turned and went up by the way to [m]Bashan. So Og king of Bashan went out against them, he and all his people, to battle [n]at Edrei. 34 Then the LORD said to Moses, [o]"Do not fear him, for I have [2]delivered him into your hand, with all his people and his land; and [p]you shall do to him as you did to Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt at Heshbon." 35 [q]So they defeated him, his sons, and all his people, until there was no survivor left him; and they took possession of his land.

Balak Sends for Balaam

22 Then [a]the children of Israel moved, and camped in the plains of Moab on the side of the Jordan across from Jericho.

2 Now [b]Balak the son of Zippor saw all that Israel had done to the Amorites. 3 And [c]Moab was exceedingly afraid of the people because they were many, and Moab was sick with dread because of the children of Israel. 4 So Moab said to [d]the elders of Midian, "Now this company will [l]lick up everything around us, as an ox licks up the grass of the field." And Balak the son of Zippor was king of the Moabites at that time. 5 Then [e]he sent messengers to Balaam the son of Beor at [f]Pethor, which is near [2]the River in the land of [3]the sons of his people, to call him, saying: "Look, a people has come from Egypt. ■ 21:33 Bashan. See note on Deut. 3:1.

■ 22:1 After the conquest of Heshbon in the southern Transjordan (21:21–26) and Bashan in the north (21:33–35), the Israelites returned south to the area across the Jordan from Jericho and north of the territory of Moab.

■ 22:2—24:25 Though the narrative itself has considerable literary charm (22:28 note), the Balaam incident must also be viewed within the context of God's covenant relationship with His people. In the vivid portrayal of divine opposition to those who curse His people, God's faithfulness to the covenant promises made to Abraham is demonstrated (Gen. 12:3 and note). Ironically, the Lord also used the pagan prophet Balaam, who had been hired by the Moabite king to curse God's people, to bless them instead, and to prophesy the coming of a royal Star out of Jacob—the Messiah Himself—who would triumph over Israel's enemies (24:17–19).

■ 22:4 Moab. The Moabites were descendants of Lot's incestuous relationship with his daughter (Gen. 19:37, 38 note). The Moabites were asking the Midianites to help them resist the Israelite invaders.

■ 22:5 Balaam. The pagan prophet Balaam lived at Pethor, a city in northern Mesopotamia on the banks of the Euphrates river. That Balak sent emissaries such a great distance is evidence of Balaam's considerable reputation for supernatural powers.

The nature and extent of Balaam's knowledge of the true God is uncertain. Though a famous sorcerer and prophet (cf. 24:1), Balaam had some regard for the true God (22:8, 18), and the Lord used Balaam to communicate His word (23:7–10, 18–24; 24:3–9, 15–24). Fundamentally, however, Balaam seems to have been a syncretistic opportunist who sought to manipulate the spirit world for his own gain. In the course of this narrative Balaam establishes himself as a prime example of the false prophet and teacher (31:16; 2 Pet. 2:15; Jude 11).

for me. Perhaps I shall be able to defeat them and drive them out of the land, for I know that he whom you bless is blessed, and he whom you curse is cursed."

7 So the elders of Moab and the elders of Midian departed with [i]the diviner's fee in their hand, and they came to Balaam and spoke to him the words of Balak. 8 And he said to them, [j]"Lodge here tonight, and I will bring back word to you, as the LORD speaks to me." So the princes of Moab stayed with Balaam.

9 [k]Then God came to Balaam and said, "Who are these men with you?"

10 So Balaam said to God, "Balak the son of Zippor, king of Moab, has sent to me, saying, 11 'Look, a people has come out of Egypt, and they cover the face of the earth. Come now, curse them for me; perhaps I shall be able to overpower them and drive them out.' "

12 And God said to Balaam, "You shall not go with them; you shall not curse the people, for [l]they are blessed."

13 So Balaam rose in the morning and said to the princes of Balak, "Go back to your land, for the LORD has refused to give me permission to go with you."

14 And the princes of Moab rose and went to Balak, and said, "Balaam refuses to come with us."

15 Then Balak again sent princes, more numerous and more [4]honorable than they. 16 And they came to Balaam and said to him, "Thus says Balak the son of Zippor: 'Please let nothing hinder you from coming to me; 17 for I will certainly [m]honor you greatly, and I will do whatever you say to me. [n]Therefore please come, curse this people for me.' "

18 Then Balaam answered and said to the servants of Balak, [o]"Though Balak were to give me his house full of silver and gold, [p]I could not go beyond the word of the LORD my God, to do less or more. 19 Now therefore, please, you also [q]stay here tonight, that I may know what more the LORD will say to me."

20 [r]And God came to Balaam at night and said to him, "If the men come to call you, rise and go with them; but [s]only the word which I speak to you—that you shall do." 21 So Balaam rose in the morning, saddled his donkey, and went with the princes of Moab.

Balaam, the Donkey, and the Angel

22 Then God's anger was aroused because he went, [t]and the Angel of the LORD took His stand in the way as an adversary against him. And he was riding on his donkey, and his two servants were with him. 23 Now [u]the donkey saw the Angel of the LORD standing in the way with His drawn sword in His hand, and the donkey turned aside out of the way and went into the field. So Balaam struck the donkey to turn her back onto the road. 24 Then the Angel of the LORD stood in a narrow path between the vineyards, with a wall on this side and a wall on that side. 25 And when the donkey saw the Angel of the LORD, she pushed herself against the wall and crushed Balaam's foot against the wall; so he struck her again. 26 Then the Angel of the LORD went further, and stood in a narrow place where there was no way to turn either to the right hand or to the left. 27 And when the donkey saw the Angel of the LORD, she lay down under Balaam; so Balaam's anger was aroused, and he struck the donkey with his staff.

28 Then the LORD [v]opened the mouth of the donkey, and she said to Balaam, "What have I done to you, that you have struck me these three times?"

29 And Balaam said to the donkey, "Because you have [5]abused me. I wish there were a sword in my hand, [w]for now I would kill you!"

30 [x]So the donkey said to Balaam, "Am I not your donkey on which you have ridden, ever since I became yours, to this day? Was I ever [6]disposed to do this to you?"

And he said, "No."

31 Then the LORD [y]opened Balaam's eyes, and he saw the Angel of the LORD standing in the way with His drawn sword in His hand; and he bowed his head and fell flat on his face. 32 And the Angel of the LORD said to him, "Why have you struck your donkey these three times? Behold, I have come out [7]to stand against you, because your way is [z]perverse[8] before Me. 33 The

■ 22:22 because he went. In light of God's earlier permission to travel (v. 20), the Lord's response is perhaps surprising. The narrative as a whole indicates, however, that Balaam's trip was perversely motivated and that he certainly hoped to curse Israel (v. 32). God used this confrontation between Balaam and the Angel of the Lord to underscore His command to say nothing except what He might direct (v. 35).

the Angel of the LORD. See note on Gen. 16:7; "Angels" at Zech. 1:9.

■ 22:28 the mouth of the donkey. The story of Balaam abounds in comic irony. The donkey was able to see the path better than the diviner, and then tell him about it (2 Pet. 2:16).

■ 22:29 I wish there were a sword. Balaam was calling for a sword, without knowing that he was about to see one pointed at him.

donkey saw Me and turned aside from Me these three times. If she had not turned aside from Me, surely I would also have killed you by now, and let her live."

34 And Balaam said to the Angel of the LORD, [a]"I have sinned, for I did not know You stood in the way against me. Now therefore, if it [g]displeases You, I will turn back."

35 Then the Angel of the LORD said to Balaam, "Go with the men, [b]but only the word that I speak to you, that you shall speak." So Balaam went with the princes of Balak.

36 Now when Balak heard that Balaam was coming, [c]he went out to meet him at the city of Moab, [d]which is on the border at the Arnon, the boundary of the territory. 37 Then Balak said to Balaam, "Did I not earnestly send to you, calling for you? Why did you not come to me? Am I not able [e]to honor you?"

38 And Balaam said to Balak, "Look, I have come to you! Now, have I any power at all to say anything? [f]The word that God puts in my mouth, that I must speak." 39 So Balaam went with Balak, and they came to Kirjath Huzoth. 40 Then Balak offered oxen and sheep, and he sent some to Balaam and to the princes who were with him.

Balaam's First Prophecy

41 So it was, the next day, that Balak took Balaam and brought him up to the [g]high places of Baal, that from there he might observe [1]the extent of the people.

23 Then Balaam said to Balak, [a]"Build seven altars for me here, and prepare for me here seven bulls and seven rams."

2 And Balak did just as Balaam had spoken, and Balak and Balaam [b]offered a bull and a ram on each altar. 3 Then Balaam said to Balak, [c]"Stand by your burnt offering, and I will go; perhaps the LORD will come [d]to meet me, and whatever He shows me I will tell you." So he went to a desolate height. 4 [e]And God met Balaam, and he said to Him, "I have prepared the seven altars, and I have offered on each altar a bull and a ram."

5 Then the LORD [f]put a word in Balaam's mouth, and said, "Return to Balak, and thus you shall speak." 6 So he returned to him, and there he was, standing by his burnt offering, he and all the princes of Moab.

7 And he [g]took up his [1]oracle and said:

"Balak the king of Moab has brought me from Aram,
From the mountains of the east.
[h]'Come, curse Jacob for me,
And come, [i]denounce Israel!'

8 "How[j] shall I curse whom God has not cursed?
And how shall I denounce whom the LORD has not denounced?
9 For from the top of the rocks I see him,
And from the hills I behold him;
There! [k]A people dwelling alone,
[l]Not reckoning itself among the nations.

10 "Who[m] can count the [2]dust of Jacob,
Or number one-fourth of Israel?
Let me die [n]the death of the righteous,
And let my end be like his!"

11 Then Balak said to Balaam, "What have you done to me? [o]I took you to curse my enemies, and look, you have blessed them bountifully!"

12 So he answered and said, [p]"Must I not take heed to speak what the LORD has put in my mouth?"

Balaam's Second Prophecy

13 Then Balak said to him, "Please come with me to another place from which you may see them; you shall see only the outer part of them, and shall not see them all; curse them for me

■ 22:40 sent some to Balaam . . . princes. Because Balaam and the princes received the meat, this was probably a sacrificial meal, though some suggest a reference to the pagan use of animal entrails for divination (cf. 24:1).

■ 23:1 seven . . . seven . . . seven. The number seven was of profound symbolic significance in the ancient Near East. The sum of the sacred numbers three and four, it often appears in a ritual context (Gen. 21:28; 33:3; Ex. 12:15; 29:35–37).

from there." 14 So he brought him to the field of Zophim, to the top of Pisgah, [q]and built seven altars, and offered a bull and a ram on each altar.

15 And he said to Balak, "Stand here by your burnt offering while I [3]meet the LORD over there."

16 Then the LORD met Balaam, and [r]put a word in his mouth, and said, "Go back to Balak, and thus you shall speak." 17 So he came to him, and there he was, standing by his burnt offering, and the princes of Moab were with him. And Balak said to him, "What has the LORD spoken?"

18 Then he took up his oracle and said:

[s]"Rise up, Balak, and hear!
Listen to me, son of Zippor!

19 "God[t] is not a man, that He should lie,
Nor a son of man, that He should repent.
Has He [u]said, and will He not do?
Or has He spoken, and will He not make it good?
20 Behold, I have received a command to bless;
[v]He has blessed, and I cannot reverse it.

21 "He[w] has not observed iniquity in Jacob,
Nor has He seen [4]wickedness in Israel.
The LORD his God is with him,
[x]And the shout of a King is among them.
22 [y]God brings them out of Egypt;
He has [z]strength like a wild ox.

23 "For there is no [5]sorcery against Jacob,
Nor any [6]divination against Israel.
It now must be said of Jacob
And of Israel, 'Oh, [a]what God has done!'
24 Look, a people rises [b]like a lioness,
And lifts itself up like a lion;
[c]It shall not lie down until it devours the prey,
And drinks the blood of the slain."

25 Then Balak said to Balaam, "Neither curse them at all, nor bless them at all!"

26 So Balaam answered and said to Balak, "Did I not tell you, saying, [d]'All that the LORD speaks, that I must do'?"

Balaam's Third Prophecy

27 Then Balak said to Balaam, "Please come, I will take you to another place; perhaps it will please God that you may curse them for me from there." 28 So Balak took Balaam to the top of Peor, that [e]overlooks the [7]wasteland. 29 Then Balaam said to Balak, "Build for me here seven altars, and prepare for me here seven bulls and seven rams." 30 And Balak did as Balaam had said, and offered a bull and a ram on every altar.

24 Now when Balaam saw that it pleased the LORD to bless Israel, he did not go as at [a]other times, to seek to use [1]sorcery, but he set his face toward the wilderness. 2 And Balaam raised his eyes, and saw Israel [b]encamped according to their tribes; and [c]the Spirit of God came upon him.

3 [d]Then he took up his oracle and said:

"The utterance of Balaam the son of Beor,
The utterance of the man whose eyes are opened,

3 [d]Num. 23:7, 18

■ 23:18–24 Balaam's second oracle reaffirms God's determination to bless Israel by giving them victory over the Moabites. Verse 21 is surprising, in view of the sins described in the Book of Numbers. Despite their failings, God regards His people as righteous for the sake of His covenant promises, and He provides the means of their forgiveness (Gen. 17:2 note).

■ 23:27–30 Balak superstitiously decides to see whether another location or additional sacrifices can bring a more favorable result.

■ 24:1–9 Balaam's third oracle pictures the blessings that God plans for Israel, ending with a curse from the Abrahamic promise against those who curse her (v. 9; Gen. 12:3).

4 The utterance of him who hears the words of God,
Who sees the vision of the Almighty,
Who [e]falls down, with eyes wide open:

5 "How lovely are your tents, O Jacob!
Your dwellings, O Israel!
6 Like valleys that stretch out,
Like gardens by the riverside,
[f]Like aloes [g]planted by the LORD,
Like cedars beside the waters.
7 He shall pour water from his buckets,
And his seed shall be [h]in many waters.

"His king shall be higher than [i]Agag,
And his [j]kingdom shall be exalted.

8 "God[k] brings him out of Egypt;
He has strength like a wild ox;
He shall [l]consume the nations, his enemies;
He shall [m]break their bones
And [n]pierce them with his arrows.
9 'He[o] bows down, he lies down as a lion;
And as a lion, who shall rouse him?'

[p]"Blessed is he who blesses you,
And cursed is he who curses you."

10 Then Balak's anger was aroused against Balaam, and he [q]struck his hands together; and Balak said to Balaam, [r]"I called you to curse my enemies, and look, you have bountifully blessed them these three times! 11 Now therefore, flee to your place. [s]I said I would greatly honor you, but in fact, the LORD has kept you back from honor."

12 So Balaam said to Balak, "Did I not also speak to your messengers whom you sent to me, saying, 13 'If Balak were to give me his house full of silver and gold, I could not go beyond the word of the LORD, to do good or bad of my own will. What the LORD says, that I must speak'? 14 And now, indeed, I am going to my people. Come, [t]I will advise you what this people will do to your people in the [u]latter days."

Balaam's Fourth Prophecy

15 So he took up his oracle and said:

"The utterance of Balaam the son of Beor,
And the utterance of the man whose eyes are opened;
16 The utterance of him who hears the words of God,
And has the knowledge of the Most High,
Who sees the vision of the Almighty,
Who falls down, with eyes wide open:

17 [v]Rev. 1:7; Matt. 1:2; Luke 3:34 [w]Matt. 2:2

■ 24:4 the vision of the Almighty. The word translated "Almighty" (also in v. 16) is the Hebrew word Shaddai, a divine name associated with the patriarchal narratives (Gen. 17:1; 28:3; 35:11; 43:14; 48:3; 49:25) that also occurs frequently in Job.

■ 24:7 Agag. First Samuel 15:32, 33 recounts the death of an Amalekite king who bore this name. Here Balaam may refer to an earlier prominent king of the Amalekites bearing the same personal name. It is also possible that "Agag" was a title, just as the title "Pharaoh" was used by many Egyptian rulers.

■ 24:10, 11 Balak refuses to pay the hired prophet his "wages of unrighteousness"—the "honor" he was expecting (22:7; 2 Pet. 2:15).

■ 24:15–19 In his fourth oracle, Balaam predicts the future advent of a royal conqueror who would triumph over Moab and Edom. An initial fulfillment of these predictions is found in 2 Sam. 8:2–14, which describes David's victory over the Moabites and Edomites. But his accomplishments prefigure the greater conquests of Christ (e.g., Col. 2:15; 1 Cor. 15:25, 26; Rev. 20:10, 14).

[x] A Scepter shall rise out of Israel,
And [2] batter the brow of Moab,
And destroy all the sons of [3] tumult.

18 "And [y] Edom shall be a possession;
Seir also, his enemies, shall be a possession,
While Israel does [4] valiantly.
19 [z] Out of Jacob One [5] shall have dominion,
And destroy the remains of the city."

20 Then he looked on Amalek, and he took up his oracle and said:

"Amalek was first among the nations,
But shall be last until he perishes."

21 Then he looked on the Kenites, and he took up his oracle and said:

"Firm is your dwelling place,
And your nest is set in the rock;
22 Nevertheless Kain shall be burned.
How long until Asshur carries you away captive?"

23 Then he took up his oracle and said:

"Alas! Who shall live when God does this?
24 But ships shall come from the coasts of [a] Cyprus,[6]
And they shall afflict Asshur and afflict [b] Eber,
And so shall [7] Amalek, until he perishes."

25 So Balaam rose and departed and [c] returned to his place; Balak also went his way.

Israel's Harlotry in Moab

25 Now Israel remained in [a] Acacia Grove,[1] and the [b] people began to commit harlotry with the women of Moab. 2 [c] They invited the people to [d] the sacrifices of their gods, and the people ate and [e] bowed down to their gods. 3 So Israel was joined to Baal of Peor, and [f] the anger of the LORD was aroused against Israel.

4 Then the LORD said to Moses, [g] "Take all the leaders of the people and hang the offenders before the LORD, out in the sun, [h] that the fierce anger of the LORD may turn away from Israel."

5 So Moses said to [i] the judges of Israel, [j] "Every one of you kill his men who were joined to Baal of Peor."

6 And indeed, one of the children of Israel came and presented to his brethren a Midianite woman in the sight of Moses and in the sight of all the congregation of the children of Israel, [k] who were weeping at the door of the tabernacle of meeting. 7 Now [l] when Phinehas [m] the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the priest, saw it, he rose from among the congregation and took a

■ 24:20–25 In his final oracles, Balaam predicts the downfall of the other nations in the area.

■ 24:20 Amelek. See notes on Ex. 17:8, 16.

■ 24:21 Kenites. A nomadic tribe of metalworkers found in Palestine from the Patriarchal period onward (Gen. 15:19). Moses' father-in-law is identified as both a Midianite and a Kenite (Ex. 2:16; Judg. 1:16). The Rechabites of Jer. 35 are thought to be descendants of the Kenites (1 Chr. 2:55; Neh. 3:14).

■ 24:22 Asshur. The Assyrians of northern Mesopotamia were already an important military power, but their greatest conquests would be made centuries later (cf. Is. 36).

■ 24:24 Cyprus. See text note. The Hebrew name for Cyprus came to represent the Mediterranean region to the west of Palestine. In Dan. 11:30, this word is used to predict the effects of Roman naval power.

■ 25:1–3 Fearing to attack the vast throng of Israelites (22:3) and having failed to thwart them through by means of Balaam, the Moabites and Midianites (at Balaam's instigation, 31:16) then sought to subvert and assimilate Israel through idolatry and immorality. When the world cannot eliminate the witness of the elect through direct conflict it often tries to neutralize that witness by absorbing the elect into the world. Old Testament Israel was to survive in physical separation from her neighbors (Lev. 18:24; Deut. 7:3; Josh. 23:12, 13), trusting in God's promises of land and the Messiah.

This incident at the Baal of Peor was later seen as a prime example of the temptations to which the covenant people were exposed by the surrounding peoples (Deut. 4:3; Josh. 22:17; Ps. 106:28; Hos. 9:10).

■ 25:1 Acacia Grove. This Hebrew word (text note) identifies the region across the Jordan from Jericho (cf. Josh. 2:1). Here worship of the local fertility god was joined with ritual prostitution (vv. 1–3, 6).

■ 25:3 joined to Baal of Peor. In gross defiance of the covenant between the Lord and Israel, the Israelites yoked themselves to the false god through their idolatrous worship.

■ 25:4 hang the offenders. See note on Deut. 21:22.

javelin in his hand; [8] and he went after the man of Israel into the tent and thrust both of them through, the man of Israel, and the woman through her body. So [n]the plague was [o]stopped among the children of Israel. [9] And [p]those who died in the plague were twenty-four thousand.

[10] Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: [11] [q]"Phinehas the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the priest, has turned back My wrath from the children of Israel, because he was zealous with My zeal among them, so that I did not consume the children of Israel in [r]My zeal. [12] Therefore say, [s]'Behold, I give to him My [t]covenant of peace; [13] and it shall be to him and [u]his descendants after him a covenant of [v]an everlasting priesthood, because he was [w]zealous for his God, and [x]made [2]atonement for the children of Israel.' "

[14] Now the name of the Israelite who was killed, who was killed with the Midianite woman, was Zimri the son of Salu, a leader of a father's house among the Simeonites. [15] And the name of the Midianite woman who was killed was Cozbi the daughter of [y]Zur; he was head of the people of a father's house in Midian.

[16] Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: [17] [z]"Harass the Midianites, and [3]attack them; [18] for they harassed you with their [a]schemes[4] by which they seduced you in the matter of Peor and in the matter of Cozbi, the daughter of a leader of Midian, their sister, who was killed in the day of the plague because of Peor."

The Second Census of Israel

26 And it came to pass, after the [a]plague, that the LORD spoke to Moses and Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest, saying: [2] [b]"Take a census of all the congregation of the children of Israel [c]from twenty years old and above, by their fathers' houses, all who are able to go to war in Israel." [3] So Moses and Eleazar the priest spoke with them [d]in the plains of Moab by the Jordan, across from Jericho, saying: [4] "Take a census of the people from twenty years old and above, just as the LORD [e]commanded Moses and the children of Israel who came out of the land of Egypt."

[5] [f]Reuben was the firstborn of Israel. The children of Reuben were: of Hanoch, the family of the Hanochites; of Pallu, the family of the Palluites; [6] of Hezron, the family of the Hezronites; of Carmi, the family of the Carmites. [7] These are the families of the Reubenites: those who were numbered of them were forty-three thousand seven hundred and thirty. [8] And the son of Pallu was Eliab. [9] The sons of Eliab were Nemuel, Dathan, and Abiram. These are the Dathan and Abiram, [g]representatives of the congregation, who contended against Moses and Aaron in the company of Korah, when they contended against the LORD; [10] [h]and the earth opened its mouth and swallowed them up together with Korah when that company died, when the fire devoured two hundred and fifty men; [i]and they became a sign. [11] Nevertheless [j]the children of Korah did not die.

[12] The sons of Simeon according to their families were: of [1]Nemuel, the family of the Nemuelites; of Jamin, the family of the Jaminites; of [2]Jachin, the family of the Jachinites; [13] of [3]Zerah, the family of the Zarhites; of Shaul, the family of the Shaulites. [14] These are the families of the Simeonites: twenty-two thousand two hundred.

[15] The sons of Gad according to their families were: of [4]Zephon, the family of the Zephonites; of Haggi, the family of the Haggites; of Shuni, the family of the Shunites; [16] of [5]Ozni, the family of the Oznites; of Eri, the family of the Erites; [17] of [6]Arod, the family of the Arodites; of Areli, the family of the Arelites. [18] These are the families of the sons of Gad according to those who were numbered of them: forty thousand five hundred.

[19] [k]The sons of Judah were Er and Onan; and Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan. [20] And

■ 25:11 zealous with My zeal. Note the stress on Phinehas as embodying God's own zeal for the purity of His people. Such zeal earned Phinehas divine commendation and the promise of a perpetual priesthood (v. 13). Later in Jewish history, Phinehas became a symbol of uncompromising loyalty to God's law (Ps. 106:30, 31).

■ 26:1—36:13 The final major section of Numbers concerns preparations for entering the Promised Land, with particular attention paid to matters relevant to life in the land.

■ 26:1–51 Like the census taken 38 years earlier (ch. 1), this second census counted only males, aged twenty or older, and able to serve in the army (v. 2). It records only the total number for each tribe, though in each case the names of the tribe's subdivisions are included. Overall, there was a decline of nearly two thousand in the total number of fighting men.

■ 26:5–11 The tribe of Jacob's eldest son, Reuben, is listed first. Although it had suffered losses because of the rebellion of Dathan and Abiram (vv. 8–10), it had recovered sufficiently to be almost as numerous as at the first census. Korah (of the tribe of Levi) is mentioned here because of his association with Dathan and Abiram, and it is observed that his line did not die out (v. 11).

■ 26:12–14 Simeon's numbers had declined far more than those of any other tribe (from nearly 60,000 to a little over 22,000), probably indicating that the Simeonite leader killed during the Midianite seduction shortly before this census was taken (25:14) was but one of thousands of Simeonites involved in the Midianite seduction (25:1–9). See note on Gen. 49:7.

■ 26:19 Er and Onan. See Gen. 38:1–10 and notes.

[l]the sons of Judah according to their families were: of Shelah, the family of the Shelanites; of Perez, the family of the Parzites; of Zerah, the family of the Zarhites. 21 And the sons of Perez were: of Hezron, the family of the Hezronites; of Hamul, the family of the Hamulites. 22 These are the families of Judah according to those who were numbered of them: seventy-six thousand five hundred.

23 The sons of Issachar according to their families were: of Tola, the family of the Tolaites; of [7]Puah, the family of the [8]Punites; 24 of [9]Jashub, the family of the Jashubites; of Shimron, the family of the Shimronites. 25 These are the families of Issachar according to those who were numbered of them: sixty-four thousand three hundred.

26 [m]The sons of Zebulun according to their families were: of Sered, the family of the Sardites; of Elon, the family of the Elonites; of Jahleel, the family of the Jahleelites. 27 These are the families of the Zebulunites according to those who were numbered of them: sixty thousand five hundred.

28 [n]The sons of Joseph according to their families, by Manasseh and Ephraim, were: 29 The sons of [o]Manasseh: of [p]Machir, the family of the Machirites; and Machir begot Gilead; of Gilead, the family of the Gileadites. 30 These are the sons of Gilead: of [1]Jeezer, the family of the Jeezerites; of Helek, the family of the Helekites; 31 of Asriel, the family of the Asrielites; of Shechem, the family of the Shechemites; 32 of Shemida, the family of the Shemidaites; of Hepher, the family of the Hepherites. 33 Now [q]Zelophehad the son of Hepher had no sons, but daughters; and the names of the daughters of Zelophehad were Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah. 34 These are the families of Manasseh; and those who were numbered of them were fifty-two thousand seven hundred.

35 These are the sons of Ephraim according to their families: of Shuthelah, the family of the Shuthalhites; of [2]Becher, the family of the Bachrites; of Tahan, the family of the Tahanites. 36 And these are the sons of Shuthelah: of Eran, the family of the Eranites. 37 These are the families of the sons of Ephraim according to those who were numbered of them: thirty-two thousand five hundred.

These are the sons of Joseph according to their families.

38 [r]The sons of Benjamin according to their families were: of Bela, the family of the Belaites; of Ashbel, the family of the Ashbelites; of [s]Ahiram, the family of the Ahiramites; 39 of [t]Shupham,[3] the family of the Shuphamites; of [4]Hupham, the family of the Huphamites. 40 And the sons of Bela were [5]Ard and Naaman: [u]of Ard, the family of the Ardites; of Naaman, the family of the Naamites. 41 These are the sons of Benjamin according to their families; and those who were numbered of them were forty-five thousand six hundred.

42 These are the sons of Dan according to their families: of [6]Shuham, the family of the Shuhamites. These are the families of Dan according to their families. 43 All the families of the Shuhamites, according to those who were numbered of them, were sixty-four thousand four hundred.

44 [v]The sons of Asher according to their families were: of Jimna, the family of the Jimnites; of Jesui, the family of the Jesuites; of Beriah, the family of the Beriites. 45 Of the sons of Beriah: of Heber, the family of the Heberites; of Malchiel, the family of the Malchielites. 46 And the name of the daughter of Asher was Serah. 47 These are the families of the sons of Asher according to those who were numbered of them: fifty-three thousand four hundred.

48 [w]The sons of Naphtali according to their families were: of [7]Jahzeel, the family of the Jahzeelites; of Guni, the family of the Gunites; 49 of Jezer, the family of the Jezerites; of [x]Shillem, the family of the Shillemites. 50 These are the families of Naphtali according to their families; and those who were numbered of them were forty-five thousand four hundred.

51 [y]These are those who were numbered of the children of Israel: six hundred and one thousand seven hundred and thirty.

52 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 53 [z]"To these the land shall be [a]divided as an inheritance, according to the number of names. 54 [b]To a large tribe you shall give a larger inheritance, and to a small tribe you shall give a smaller inheritance. Each shall be given its inheritance according to those who were numbered of them. 55 But the land shall be [c]divided by lot; they shall inherit according to the names of the tribes of their fathers. 56 According to the lot their inheritance shall be divided between the larger and the smaller."

57 [d]And these are those who were numbered of the Levites according to their families: of Gershon, the family of the Gershonites; of Kohath, the family of the Kohathites; of Merari, the family of the Merarites. 58 These are the families of the Levites: the family of the Libnites, the family of the Hebronites, the family of the Mahlites, the family of the Mushites, and the family of the Korathites. And Kohath begot Amram. 59 The name of Amram's wife was [e]Jochebed the daughter of Levi, who was born to Levi in Egypt; and to Amram she bore Aaron and Moses and their sister Miriam. 60 [f]To Aaron were born Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar. 61 And [g]Nadab and Abihu died when they offered profane fire before the LORD.

62 [h]Now those who were numbered of them were twenty-three thousand, every male from a month old and above; [i]for they were not numbered among the other children of Israel, because there was [j]no inheritance given to them among the children of Israel.

63 These are those who were numbered by Moses and Eleazar the priest, who numbered the children of Israel [k]in the plains of Moab by the Jordan, across from Jericho. 64 [l]But among these there was not a man of those who were numbered by Moses and Aaron the priest when they numbered the children of Israel in the [m]Wilderness of Sinai. 65 For the LORD had said of them, "They [n]shall surely die in the wilderness." So there was not left a man of them, [o]except Caleb the son of Jephunneh and Joshua the son of Nun.

Inheritance Laws

27 Then came the daughters of [a]Zelophehad the son of Hepher, the son of Gilead, the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh, from the families of Manasseh the son of Joseph; and these were the names of his daughters: Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah. 2 And they stood before Moses, before Eleazar the priest, and before the leaders and all the congregation, by the doorway of the tabernacle of meeting, saying: 3 "Our father [b]died in the wilderness; but he was not in the company of those who gathered together against the LORD, [c]in company with Korah, but he died in his own sin; and he had no sons. 4 Why should the name of our father be [d]removed[1] from among his family because he had no son? [e]Give us a [2]possession among our father's brothers."

5 So Moses [f]brought their case before the LORD.

6 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 7 "The daughters of Zelophehad speak what is right; [g]you shall surely give them a possession of inheritance among their father's brothers, and cause the inheritance of their father to pass to them. 8 And you shall speak to the children of Israel, saying: 'If a man dies and has no son, then you shall cause his inheritance to pass to his daughter. 9 If he has no daughter, then you shall give his inheritance to his brothers. 10 If he has no brothers, then you shall give his inheritance to his father's brothers. 11 And if his father has no brothers, then you shall give his inheritance to the relative closest to him in his family, and he shall possess it.' " And it shall be to the children of Israel [h]a statute of judgment, just as the LORD commanded Moses.

Joshua the Next Leader of Israel

12 Now the LORD said to Moses: [i]"Go up into this Mount Abarim, and see the land which I have given to the children of Israel. 13 And when you have seen it, you also [j]shall [3]be gathered to your people, as Aaron your brother was gathered. 14 For in the Wilderness of Zin, during the strife of the congregation, you [k]rebelled against My command to hallow Me at the waters before their eyes." (These are the [l]waters of Meribah, at Kadesh in the Wilderness of Zin.)

15 Then Moses spoke to the LORD, saying: 16 "Let the LORD, [m]the God of the spirits of all flesh, set a man over the congregation, 17 [n]who may go out before them and go in before them, who may lead them out and bring them in, that the congregation of the LORD may not be [o]like sheep which have no shepherd."

■ 27:1–11 Rules for inheritance of land, which notably permit women to inherit, are explained after the account of Zelophehad's daughters. Zelophehad had died without leaving a male heir, and his daughters petitioned Moses and the leaders to allow the daughters to inherit their father's portion in the land, and not to let his name be cut off. The names of all five daughters are recorded in v. 1.

In ch. 36 a related question was raised by the tribal leaders: if the daughters of Zelophehad married men of a different tribe, would their father's inheritance be transferred to that tribe? In response to both questions, the Lord answered that the family and tribal legacies should be protected (27:7; 36:6). These protections, as well as the prohibition against permanent transfer of land from one family to another, were rooted in God's ultimate ownership of the Promised Land (Lev. 25:23), and that He had entrusted it to all His people as a good gift and permanent possession to be enjoyed (Lev. 25:34; Deut. 6:10–12; 8:10–13). The land was not simply private property to be transferred on the basis of human convention and agreement. Rather, it symbolized life with God.

■ 27:12–14 Moses was not permitted to enter the Promised Land, but only to see it from a distance. This was punishment for his failure at Meribah (20:9–13 and notes).

18 And the LORD said to Moses: "Take Joshua the son of Nun with you, a man [p]in whom is the Spirit, and [q]lay your hand on him; 19 set him before Eleazar the priest and before all the congregation, and [r]inaugurate[4] him in their sight. 20 And [s]you shall give some of your authority to him, that all the congregation of the children of Israel [t]may be obedient. 21 [u]He shall stand before Eleazar the priest, who shall inquire before the LORD for him [v]by the judgment of the Urim. [w]At his word they shall go out, and at his word they shall come in, he and all the children of Israel with him—all the congregation."

22 So Moses did as the LORD commanded him. He took Joshua and set him before Eleazar the priest and before all the congregation. 23 And he laid his hands on him [x]and [5]inaugurated him, just as the LORD commanded by the hand of Moses.

Daily Offerings

28 Now the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 2 "Command the children of Israel, and say to them, 'My offering, [a]My food for My offerings made by fire as a sweet aroma to Me, you shall be careful to offer to Me at their appointed time.'

3 "And you shall say to them, [b]'This is the offering made by fire which you shall offer to the LORD: two male lambs in their first year without blemish, day by day, as a regular burnt offering. 4 The one lamb you shall offer in the morning, the other lamb you shall offer in the evening, 5 and [c]one-tenth of an ephah of fine flour as a [d]grain offering mixed with one-fourth of a hin of pressed oil. 6 It is [e]a regular burnt offering which was ordained at Mount Sinai for a sweet aroma, an offering made by fire to the LORD. 7 And its drink offering shall be one-fourth of a hin for each lamb; [f]in a holy place you shall pour out the drink to the LORD as an offering. 8 The other lamb you shall offer in the evening; as the morning grain offering and its drink offering, you shall offer it as an offering made by fire, a [1]sweet aroma to the LORD.

Sabbath Offerings

9 'And on the Sabbath day two lambs in their first year, without blemish, and two-tenths of an ephah of fine flour as a grain offering, mixed with oil, with its drink offering— 10 this is [g]the burnt offering for every Sabbath, besides the regular burnt offering with its drink offering.

Monthly Offerings

11 [h]'At the beginnings of your months you shall present a burnt offering to the LORD: two young bulls, one ram, and seven lambs in their first year, without blemish; 12 [i]three-tenths of an ephah of fine flour as a grain offering, mixed with oil, for each bull; two-tenths of an ephah of fine flour as a grain offering, mixed with oil, for the one ram; 13 and one-tenth of an ephah of fine flour, mixed with oil, as a grain offering for each lamb, as a burnt offering of sweet aroma, an offering made by fire to the LORD. 14 Their drink offering shall be half a hin of wine for a bull, one-third of a hin for a ram, and one-fourth of a hin for a lamb; this is the burnt offering for each month throughout the months of the year. 15 Also [j]one kid of the goats as a sin offering to the LORD shall be offered, besides the regular burnt offering and its drink offering.

Offerings at Passover

16 [k]'On the fourteenth day of the first month is the Passover of the LORD. 17 [l]And on the fifteenth day of this month is the feast; unleavened bread shall be eaten for seven days. 18 On the [m]first day you shall have a holy [2]convocation. You shall do no [3]customary work. 19 And you shall present an offering made by fire as a burnt offering to the LORD: two young bulls, one ram, and seven lambs in their first year. [n]Be sure they are without blemish. 20 Their grain offering shall be of fine flour mixed with oil: three-tenths of an ephah you shall offer for a bull, and two-tenths for a ram; 21 you shall offer one-tenth of an ephah for each of the seven lambs; 22 also [o]one goat as a sin offering, to make [4]atonement for you. 23 You shall offer these besides the burnt offering of the morning, which is for a regular burnt offering. 24 In this manner you shall offer the food of the offering made by fire daily for seven days, as a sweet aroma to the LORD; it

■ 27:18 lay your hand on him. See note on Deut. 34:9.

■ 27:20 give some of your authority. Moses' office and ministry were unique (20:22–29 note), but a portion of his honor and authority would be imparted to Joshua.

■ 28:1—29:40 In preparation for entry into the land, the laws of regular sacrifice and celebration already presented earlier (consult cross references) are summarized. Beginning with daily (28:1–8), Sabbath (28:9, 10), and monthly offerings (28:11–15), and then the celebration of annual feasts (28:16—29:40), the summary shows clearly how Israelite life in the land was to revolve around the worship and service of the Lord.

40 So Moses told the children of Israel everything, just as the LORD commanded Moses.

The Law Concerning Vows

30 Then Moses spoke to [a]the heads of the tribes concerning the children of Israel, saying, "This is the thing which the LORD has commanded: 2 [b]If a man makes a vow to the LORD, or [c]swears an oath to bind himself by some agreement, he shall not break his word; he shall [d]do according to all that proceeds out of his mouth.

3 "Or if a woman makes a vow to the LORD, and binds herself by some agreement while in her father's house in her youth, 4 and her father hears her vow and the agreement by which she has bound herself, and her father [1]holds his peace, then all her vows shall stand, and every agreement with which she has bound herself shall stand. 5 But if her father overrules her on the day that he hears, then none of her vows nor her agreements by which she has bound herself shall stand; and the LORD will release her, because her father overruled her.

6 "If indeed she takes a husband, while bound by her vows or by a rash utterance from her lips by which she bound herself, 7 and her husband hears it, and makes no response to her on the day that he hears, then her vows shall stand, and her agreements by which she bound herself shall stand. 8 But if her husband [e]overrules her on the day that he hears it, he shall make void her vow which she took and what she uttered with her lips, by which she bound herself, and the LORD will release her.

9 "Also any vow of a widow or a divorced woman, by which she has bound herself, shall stand against her.

10 "If she vowed in her husband's house, or bound herself by an agreement with an oath, 11 and her husband heard it, and made no response to her and did not overrule her, then all her vows shall stand, and every agreement by which she bound herself shall stand. 12 But if her husband truly made them void on the day he heard them, then whatever proceeded from her lips concerning her vows or concerning the agreement binding her, it shall not stand; her husband has made them [2]void, and the LORD will release her. 13 Every vow and every binding oath to afflict her soul, her husband may confirm it, or her husband may make it void. 14 Now if her husband makes no response whatever to her from day to day, then he confirms all her vows or all the agreements that bind her; he confirms them, because he made no response to her on the day that he heard them. 15 But if he does make them void after he has heard them, then he shall bear her guilt."

16 These are the statutes which the LORD commanded Moses, between a man and his wife, and between a father and his daughter in her youth in her father's house.

Vengeance on the Midianites

■ 30:1–16 Ordinarily, people were obliged to fulfill any vow or obligation they had made, including even a rash promise (v. 6). However, the vow of a subordinate member of a household could be cancelled by the head of the house (vv. 5, 8, 12–13, 15). Moses urged the people not to make rash vows, but declared that if made they must be fulfilled (Deut. 23:21–23; cf. Prov. 20:25). For a terrible instance of a rash vow, see Judg. 11:30–40 and notes.

■ 31:1–54 Vengeance against the Midianites for their efforts to seduce the Israelites into idol worship and sexual immorality (ch. 25) is under-

3 So Moses spoke to the people, saying, "Arm some of yourselves for war, and let them go against the Midianites to take vengeance for the LORD on [c]Midian. 4 A thousand from each tribe of all the tribes of Israel you shall send to the war."

5 So there were recruited from the divisions of Israel one thousand from each tribe, twelve thousand armed for war. 6 Then Moses sent them to the war, one thousand from each tribe; he sent them to the war with Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest, with the holy articles and [d]the signal trumpets in his hand. 7 And they warred against the Midianites, just as the LORD commanded Moses, and [e]they killed all the [f]males. 8 They killed the kings of Midian with the rest of those who were killed—[g]Evi, Rekem, [h]Zur, Hur, and Reba, the five kings of Midian. [i]Balaam the son of Beor they also killed with the sword.

9 And the children of Israel took the women of Midian captive, with their little ones, and took as spoil all their cattle, all their flocks, and all their goods. 10 They also burned with fire all the cities where they dwelt, and all their forts. 11 And [j]they took all the spoil and all the booty—of man and beast.

Return from the War

12 Then they brought the captives, the booty, and the spoil to Moses, to Eleazar the priest, and to the congregation of the children of Israel, to the camp in the plains of Moab by the Jordan, across from Jericho. 13 And Moses, Eleazar the priest, and all the leaders of the congregation, went to meet them outside the camp. 14 But Moses was angry with the officers of the army, with the captains over thousands and captains over hundreds, who had come from the battle.

15 And Moses said to them: "Have you kept [k]all the women alive? 16 Look, [l]these women caused the children of Israel, through the [m]counsel of Balaam, to trespass against the LORD in the incident of Peor, and [n]there was a plague among the congregation of the LORD. 17 Now therefore, [o]kill every male among the little ones, and kill every woman who has known a man intimately. 18 But keep alive [p]for yourselves all the young girls who have not known a man intimately. 19 And as for you, [q]remain outside the camp seven days; whoever has killed any person, and [r]whoever has touched any slain, purify yourselves and your captives on the third day and on the seventh day. 20 Purify every garment, everything made of leather, everything woven of goats' hair, and everything made of wood."

21 Then Eleazar the priest said to the men of war who had gone to the battle, "This is the [1]ordinance of the law which the LORD commanded Moses: 22 "Only the gold, the silver, the bronze, the iron, the tin, and the lead, 23 everything that can endure fire, you shall put through the fire, and it shall be clean; and it shall be purified [s]with the water of purification. But all that cannot endure fire you shall put through water. 24 [t]And you shall wash your clothes on the seventh day and be clean, and afterward you may come into the camp."

Division of the Plunder

25 Now the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: 26 "Count up the plunder that was [2]taken—of man and beast—you and Eleazar the priest and the chief fathers of the congregation; 27 and [u]divide the plunder into two parts, between those who took part in the war, who went out to battle, and all the congregation. 28 And levy a [3]tribute for the LORD on the men of war who went out to battle: [v]one of every five hundred of the persons, the cattle, the donkeys, and the sheep; 29 take it from their half, and [w]give it to Eleazar the priest as a heave offering to the LORD. 30 And from the children of Israel's half you shall take [x]one of every fifty, drawn from the persons, the cattle, the donkeys, and the sheep, from all the livestock, and give them to the Levites [y]who [4]keep charge of the tabernacle of the LORD." 31 So Moses and Eleazar the priest did as the LORD commanded Moses.

32 The booty remaining from the plunder, which the men of war had taken, was six hundred and seventy-five thousand sheep, 33 seventy-two thousand cattle, 34 sixty-one thousand donkeys, taken. This narrative deals particularly with details concerning the plunder taken from the Midianites. Because the plunder of war had to be handled in a fashion that preserved the holiness of God and of the people, the principles stated here helped prepare the Israelites for the coming conquest of the land.

■ 31:6 Phinehas. See note on 25:11.

■ 31:8 Balaam. See note on 22:5.

■ 31:13–18 Moses' command that all the women who were not virgins must be killed was due to the immorality at Peor. All males were killed, including children, probably to prevent any resurgence of the Midianite clans (cf. v. 7).

■ 31:16 the counsel of Balaam. See Deut. 23:4, 5; Josh. 13:22; 24:9, 10; Neh. 13:2; Mic. 6:5; 2 Pet. 2:15; Jude 11; Rev. 2:14.

■ 31:25–47 Israel divides the Midianite spoils: half to the soldiers and half to the community (vv. 25–27). As a tribute to the Lord, one out of every five hundred from the soldier's half, and one out of every fifty from the community's half was to be given to the Levites (vv. 28–31, 41). A detailed enumeration of the portions is given (vv. 32–47).

[35] and thirty-two thousand persons in all, of women who had not known a man intimately. [36] And the half, the portion for those who had gone out to war, was in number three hundred and thirty-seven thousand five hundred sheep; [37] and the LORD's [5]tribute of the sheep was six hundred and seventy-five. [38] The cattle were thirty-six thousand, of which the LORD's tribute was seventy-two. [39] The donkeys were thirty thousand five hundred, of which the LORD's tribute was sixty-one. [40] The persons were sixteen thousand, of which the LORD's tribute was thirty-two persons. [41] So Moses gave the tribute which was the LORD's heave offering to Eleazar the priest, [z]as the LORD commanded Moses.

[42] And from the children of Israel's half, which Moses separated from the men who fought— [43] now the half belonging to the congregation was three hundred and thirty-seven thousand five hundred sheep, [44] thirty-six thousand cattle, [45] thirty thousand five hundred donkeys, [46] and sixteen thousand persons— [47] and [a]from the children of Israel's half Moses took one of every fifty, drawn from man and beast, and gave them to the Levites, who kept charge of the tabernacle of the LORD, as the LORD commanded Moses.

[48] Then the officers who were over thousands of the army, the captains of thousands and captains of hundreds, came near to Moses; [49] and they said to Moses, "Your servants have taken a count of the men of war who are under our command, and not a man of us is missing. [50] Therefore we have brought an offering for the LORD, what every man found of ornaments of gold: armlets and bracelets and signet rings and earrings and necklaces, [b]to make [6]atonement for ourselves before the LORD." [51] So Moses and Eleazar the priest received the gold from them, all the fashioned ornaments. [52] And all the gold of the offering that they offered to the LORD, from the captains of thousands and captains of hundreds, was sixteen thousand seven hundred and fifty shekels. [53] [c](The men of war had taken spoil, every man for himself.) [54] And Moses and Eleazar the priest received the gold from the captains of thousands and of hundreds, and brought it into the tabernacle of meeting [d]as a memorial for the children of Israel before the LORD.

The Tribes Settling East of the Jordan

32 Now the children of Reuben and the children of Gad had a very great multitude of livestock; and when they saw the land of [a]Jazer and the land of [b]Gilead, that indeed the region was a place for livestock, [2] the children of Gad and the children of Reuben came and spoke to Moses, to Eleazar the priest, and to the leaders of the congregation, saying, [3] "Ataroth, Dibon, Jazer, [c]Nimrah, [d]Heshbon, Elealeh, [e]Shebam, Nebo, and [f]Beon, [4] the country [g]which the LORD defeated before the congregation of Israel, is a land for livestock, and your servants have livestock." [5] Therefore they said, "If we have found favor in your sight, let this land be given to your servants as a possession. Do not take us over the Jordan."

[6] And Moses said to the children of Gad and to the children of Reuben: "Shall your brethren go to war while you sit here? [7] Now why will you [h]discourage the heart of the children of Israel from going over into the land which the LORD has given them? [8] Thus your fathers did [i]when I sent them away from Kadesh Barnea [j]to see the land. [9] For [k]when they went up to the Valley of Eshcol and saw the land, they discouraged the heart of the children of Israel, so that they did not go into the land which the LORD had given them. [10] [l]So the LORD's anger was aroused on that day, and He swore an oath, saying, [11] 'Surely none of the men who came up from Egypt, [m]from twenty years old and above, shall see the land of which I swore to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, because [n]they have not wholly followed Me, [12] except Caleb the son of Jephunneh, the Kenizzite, and Joshua the son of Nun, [o]for they have wholly followed the LORD.' [13] So the LORD's anger was aroused against Israel, and He made them [p]wander in the wilderness forty years, until [q]all the generation that had done evil in the sight of the LORD was gone. [14] And look! You have risen in your fathers' place, a brood of sinful men, to increase still more the [r]fierce anger of the LORD against Israel. [15] For if you [s]turn away from following Him, He will once again leave them in the wilderness, and you will destroy all these people."

[16] Then they came near to him and said: "We will build sheepfolds here for our livestock, and cities for our little ones, [17] but [t]we ourselves will be armed, ready to go before the children of Israel until we have brought them to their place; and our little ones will dwell in the fortified cities because of the inhabitants of the land. [18] [u]We will not return to our homes until every one of the children of Israel has [j]received his inheritance. 19 For we will not inherit with them on the other side of the Jordan and beyond, [v]because our inheritance has fallen to us on this eastern side of the Jordan."

18 [u]Josh. 22:1–4

■ 32:1–42 The tribes of Reuben and Gad, possessors of much livestock, requested permission to settle in the Transjordan territory (the region east of the Jordan River and the Dead Sea) already conquered (vv. 1–5; cf. 21:24–26, 31–35). Because all of Israel was to participate in the conquest and because their departure would dishearten the other tribes, Moses sternly warned them against the sin of the Exodus generation (vv. 6–15). His admonition includes a classic recognition of God's sovereign dominion as judge: "be sure your sin will find you out" (v. 23).

20 Then [w]Moses said to them: "If you do this thing, if you arm yourselves before the LORD for the war, 21 and all your armed men cross over the Jordan before the LORD until He has driven out His enemies from before Him, 22 and [x]the land is subdued before the LORD, then afterward [y]you may return and be blameless before the LORD and before Israel; and [z]this land shall be your possession before the LORD. 23 But if you do not do so, then take note, you have sinned against the LORD; and be sure [a]your sin will find you out. 24 [b]Build cities for your little ones and folds for your sheep, and do [2]what has proceeded out of your mouth."

25 And the children of Gad and the children of Reuben spoke to Moses, saying: "Your servants will do as my lord commands. 26 [c]Our little ones, our wives, our flocks, and all our livestock will be there in the cities of Gilead; 27 [d]but your servants will cross over, every man armed for war, before the LORD to battle, just as my lord says."

28 So Moses gave command [e]concerning them to Eleazar the priest, to Joshua the son of Nun, and to the chief fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel. 29 And Moses said to them: "If the children of Gad and the children of Reuben cross over the Jordan with you, every man armed for battle before the LORD, and the land is subdued before you, then you shall give them the land of Gilead as a possession. 30 But if they do not cross over armed with you, they shall have possessions among you in the land of Canaan."

31 Then the children of Gad and the children of Reuben answered, saying: "As the LORD has said to your servants, so we will do. 32 We will cross over armed before the LORD into the land of Canaan, but the possession of our inheritance shall remain with us on this side of the Jordan."

33 So [f]Moses gave to the children of Gad, to the children of Reuben, and to half the tribe of Manasseh the son of Joseph, [g]the kingdom of Sihon king of the Amorites and the kingdom of Og king of Bashan, the land with its cities within the borders, the cities of the surrounding country. 34 And the children of Gad built [h]Dibon and Ataroth and [i]Aroer, 35 Atroth and Shophan and [j]Jazer and Jogbehah, 36 [k]Beth Nimrah and Beth Haran, [l]fortified cities, and folds for sheep. 37 And the children of Reuben built [m]Heshbon and Elealeh and Kirjathaim, 38 [n]Nebo and [o]Baal Meon [p](their names being changed) and Shibmah; and they gave other names to the cities which they built.

39 And the children of [q]Machir the son of Manasseh went to Gilead and took it, and [3]dispossessed the Amorites who were in it. 40 So Moses [r]gave Gilead to Machir the son of Manasseh, and he dwelt in it. 41 Also [s]Jair the son of Manasseh went and took its small towns, and called them [t]Havoth Jair.[4] 42 Then Nobah went and took Kenath and its villages, and he called it Nobah, after his own name.

Israel's Journey from Egypt Reviewed

33 These are the journeys of the children of Israel, who went out of the land of Egypt by their armies under the [a]hand of Moses and Aaron. 2 Now Moses wrote down the starting points of their journeys at the command of the LORD. And these are their journeys according to their starting points:

3 They [b]departed from Rameses in [c]the first month, on the fifteenth day of the first month; on the day after the Passover the children of Israel went out [d]with boldness in the sight of all the Egyptians. 4 For the Egyptians were burying all their firstborn, [e]whom the LORD had killed among them. Also [f]on their gods the LORD had executed judgments.

5 [g]Then the children of Israel moved from Rameses and camped at Succoth. 6 They departed from [h]Succoth and camped at Etham, which is on the edge of the wilderness. 7 [i]They moved from Etham and turned back to Pi Hahiroth, which is east of Baal Zephon; and they camped near Migdol. 8 They departed [l]from before Hahiroth and [j]passed through the midst of the sea into the wilderness, went three days' journey in the Wilderness of Etham, and camped at Marah. 9 They moved from Marah and [k]came to Elim. At Elim were twelve springs of water and seventy palm trees; so they camped there.

During the time in the wilderness Manasseh had increased from 32,200 to 52,700 (cf. 1:35 and 26:34). Reuben and Gad settled territory already conquered (vv. 33–38), but the half-tribe of Manasseh went further north and made new conquests (vv. 39–42).

10 They moved from Elim and camped by the Red Sea. 11 They moved from the Red Sea and camped in the [l]Wilderness of Sin. 12 They journeyed from the Wilderness of Sin and camped at Dophkah. 13 They departed from Dophkah and camped at Alush. 14 They moved from Alush and camped at [m]Rephidim, where there was no water for the people to drink.

15 They departed from Rephidim and camped in the [n]Wilderness of Sinai. 16 They moved from the Wilderness of Sinai and camped [o]at [2]Kibroth Hattaavah. 17 They departed from Kibroth Hattaavah and [p]camped at Hazeroth. 18 They departed from Hazeroth and camped at [q]Rithmah. 19 They departed from Rithmah and camped at Rimmon Perez. 20 They departed from Rimmon Perez and camped at Libnah. 21 They moved from Libnah and camped at Rissah. 22 They journeyed from Rissah and camped at Kehelathah. 23 They went from Kehelathah and camped at Mount Shepher. 24 They moved from Mount Shepher and camped at Haradah. 25 They moved from Haradah and camped at Makheloth. 26 They moved from Makheloth and camped at Tahath. 27 They departed from Tahath and camped at Terah. 28 They moved from Terah and camped at Mithkah. 29 They went from Mithkah and camped at Hashmonah. 30 They departed from Hashmonah and [r]camped at Moseroth. 31 They departed from Moseroth and camped at Bene Jaakan. 32 They moved from [s]Bene Jaakan and [t]camped at Hor Hagidgad. 33 They went from Hor Hagidgad and camped at Jotbathah. 34 They moved from Jotbathah and camped at Abronah. 35 They departed from Abronah [u]and camped at Ezion Geber. 36 They moved from Ezion Geber and camped in the [v]Wilderness of Zin, which is Kadesh. 37 They moved from [w]Kadesh and camped at Mount Hor, on the boundary of the land of Edom.

38 Then [x]Aaron the priest went up to Mount Hor at the command of the LORD, and died there in the fortieth year after the children of Israel had come out of the land of Egypt, on the first day of the fifth month. 39 Aaron was one hundred and twenty-three years old when he died on Mount Hor.

40 Now [y]the king of Arad, the Canaanite, who dwelt in the South in the land of Canaan, heard of the coming of the children of Israel.

41 So they departed from Mount Hor and camped at Zalmonah. 42 They departed from Zalmonah and camped at Punon. 43 They departed from Punon and [z]camped at Oboth. 44 [a]They departed from Oboth and camped at Ije Abarim, at the border of Moab. 45 They departed from [3]Ijim and camped [b]at Dibon Gad. 46 They moved from Dibon Gad and camped at [c]Almon Diblathaim. 47 They moved from Almon Diblathaim [d]and camped in the mountains of Abarim, before Nebo. 48 They departed from the mountains of Abarim and [e]camped in the plains of Moab by the Jordan, across from Jericho. 49 They camped by the Jordan, from Beth Jesimoth as far as the [f]Abel Acacia Grove[4] in the plains of Moab.

Instructions for the Conquest of Canaan

50 Now the LORD spoke to Moses in the plains of Moab by the Jordan, across from Jericho, saying, 51 "Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: [g]'When you have crossed the Jordan into the land of Canaan, 52 [h]then you shall drive out all the inhabitants of the land from before you, destroy all their engraved stones, destroy all their molded images, and demolish all their [5]high places; 53 you shall dispossess the inhabitants of the land and dwell in it, for I have given you the land to [i]possess. 54 And [j]you shall divide the land by lot as an inheritance among your families; to the larger you shall give a larger inheritance, and to the smaller you shall give a smaller inheritance; there everyone's inheritance shall be whatever falls to him by lot. You shall inherit according to the tribes of your fathers. 55 But if you do not drive out the inhabitants of the land from before you, then it shall be that those whom you let remain shall be [k]irritants in your eyes and thorns in your sides, and they shall harass you in the land where you dwell. 56 Moreover it shall be that I will do to you as I thought to do to them.' "

The Appointed Boundaries of Canaan

34 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 2 "Command the children of Israel, and say to them: 'When you come into [a]the land of Canaan, this is the land that shall fall to you as

- 34:1–15 These boundaries of Canaan do not include the territory an inheritance—the land of Canaan to its boundaries. 3 [b]Your southern border shall be from the Wilderness of Zin along the border of Edom; then your southern border shall extend eastward to the end of [c]the Salt Sea; 4 your border shall turn from the southern side of [d]the Ascent of Akrabbim, continue to Zin, and be on the south of [e]Kadesh Barnea; then it shall go on to [f]Hazar Addar, and continue to Azmon; 5 the border shall turn from Azmon [g]to the Brook of Egypt, and it shall end at the Sea.

6 'As for the [h]western border, you shall have the Great Sea for a border; this shall be your western border.

7 'And this shall be your northern border: From the Great Sea you shall mark out your border line to [i]Mount Hor; 8 from Mount Hor you shall mark out your border [j]to the entrance of Hamath; then the direction of the border shall be toward [k]Zedad; 9 the border shall proceed to Ziphron, and it shall end at [l]Hazar Enan. This shall be your northern border.

10 'You shall mark out your eastern border from Hazar Enan to Shepham; 11 the border shall go down from Shepham [m]to Riblah on the east side of Ain; the border shall go down and reach to the eastern [l]side of the Sea [n]of Chinnereth; 12 the border shall go down along the Jordan, and it shall end at [o]the Salt Sea. This shall be your land with its surrounding boundaries.' "

13 Then Moses commanded the children of Israel, saying: [p]"This is the land which you shall inherit by lot, which the LORD has commanded to give to the nine tribes and to the half-tribe. 14 [q]For the tribe of the children of Reuben according to the house of their fathers, and the tribe of the children of Gad according to the house of their fathers, have received their inheritance; and the half-tribe of Manasseh has received its inheritance. 15 The two tribes and the half-tribe have received their inheritance on this side of the Jordan, across from Jericho eastward, toward the sunrise."

The Leaders Appointed to Divide the Land

16 And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 17 "These are the names of the men who shall divide the land among you as an inheritance: [r]Eleazar the priest and Joshua the son of Nun. 18 And you shall take one [s]leader of every tribe to divide the land for the inheritance. 19 These are the names of the men: from the tribe of Judah, Caleb the son of Jephunneh; 20 from the tribe of the children of Simeon, Shemuel the son of Ammihud; 21 from the tribe of Benjamin, Elidad the son of Chislon; 22 a leader from the tribe of the children of Dan, Bukki the son of Jogli; 23 from the sons of Joseph: a leader from the tribe of the children of Manasseh, Hanniel the son of Ephod, 24 and a leader from the tribe of the children of Ephraim, Kemuel the son of Shiphtan; 25 a leader from the tribe of the children of Zebulun, Elizaphan the son of Parnach; 26 a leader from the tribe of the children of Issachar, Paltiel the son of Azzan; 27 a leader from the tribe of the children of Asher, Ahihud the son of Shelomi; 28 and a leader from the tribe of the children of Naphtali, Pedahel the son of Ammihud."

29 These are the ones the LORD commanded to [z]divide the inheritance among the children of Israel in the land of Canaan.

Cities for the Levites

35 And the LORD spoke to Moses in [a]the plains of Moab by the Jordan across from Jericho, saying: 2 [b]"Command the children of Israel that they give the Levites cities to dwell in from the inheritance of their possession, and you shall also give the Levites [c]common-land around the cities. 3 They shall have the cities to dwell in; and their common-land shall be for their cattle, for their herds, and for all their animals. 4 The common-land of the cities which you will give the Levites shall extend from the wall of the city outward a thousand cubits all around. 5 And you shall measure outside the city on the east side two thousand cubits, on the south side two thousand cubits, on the west side two thousand cubits, and on the north side two thousand cubits. The city shall be in the middle. This shall belong to them as common-land for the cities.

6 "Now among the cities which you will give to the Levites you shall appoint [d]six cities of refuge, to which a manslayer may flee. And to these you shall add forty-two cities. 7 So all the cities you will give to the Levites shall be [e]forty-eight; these you shall give with their common-already assigned in Transjordan, east of the Jordan River (vv. 13–15). See ch. 32.

■ 34:16–29 The Lord designates men to assign the portions of the land of Canaan: Eleazar the priest (Num. 20:25–26) and Joshua the commander (Num. 27:18–23) were to be in charge, together with a leader from each of the ten tribes that had not yet been given their inheritance. None of these ten names are included in earlier lists of leaders (Num. 1:5–15; 2:3–29; 7:12–78), nor is any one of them the son of a man included in those lists.

■ 35:1–8 Because the Levites were not given a tribal land inheritance (18:20), they were instead assigned forty-eight towns with surrounding pastureland, including six "cities of refuge."

land. 8 And the cities which you will give shall be [f]from the possession of the children of Israel; [g]from the larger tribe you shall give many, from the smaller you shall give few. Each shall give some of its cities to the Levites, in proportion to the inheritance that each receives."

Cities of Refuge

9 Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 10 "Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: [h]'When you cross the Jordan into the land of Canaan, 11 then [i]you shall appoint cities to be cities of refuge for you, that the manslayer who kills any person accidentally may flee there. 12 [j]They shall be cities of refuge for you from the avenger, that the manslayer may not die until he stands before the congregation in judgment. 13 And of the cities which you give, you shall have [k]six cities of refuge. 14 [l]You shall appoint three cities on this side of the Jordan, and three cities you shall appoint in the land of Canaan, which will be cities of refuge. 15 These six cities shall be for refuge for the children of Israel, [m]for the stranger, and for the sojourner among them, that anyone who kills a person accidentally may flee there.

16 [n]'But if he strikes him with an iron implement, so that he dies, he is a murderer; the murderer shall surely be put to death. 17 And if he strikes him with a stone in the hand, by which one could die, and he does die, he is a murderer; the murderer shall surely be put to death. 18 Or if he strikes him with a wooden hand weapon, by which one could die, and he does die, he is a murderer; the murderer shall surely be put to death. 19 [o]The [t] avenger of blood himself shall put the murderer to death; when he meets him, he shall put him to death. 20 [p]If he pushes him out of hatred or, [q]while lying in wait, hurls something at him so that he dies, 21 or in enmity he strikes him with his hand so that he dies, the one who struck him shall surely be put to death. He is a murderer. The avenger of blood shall put the murderer to death when he meets him.

22 'However, if he pushes him suddenly [r]without enmity, or throws anything at him without lying in wait, 23 or uses a stone, by which a man could die, throwing it at him without seeing him, so that he dies, while he was not his enemy or seeking his harm, 24 then [s]the congregation shall judge between the manslayer and the avenger of blood according to these judgments. 25 So the congregation shall deliver the manslayer from the hand of the avenger of blood, and the congregation shall return him to the city of refuge where he had fled, and [t]he shall remain there until the death of the high priest [u]who was anointed with the holy oil. 26 But if the manslayer at any time goes outside the limits of the city of refuge where he fled, 27 and the avenger of blood finds him outside the limits of his city of refuge, and the avenger of blood kills the manslayer, he shall not be guilty of [2]blood, 28 because he should have remained in his city of refuge until the death of the high priest. But after the death of the high priest the manslayer may return to the land of his possession.

29 'And these things shall be [v]a statute of judgment to you throughout your generations in all your dwellings. 30 Whoever kills a person, the murderer shall be put to death on the [w]testimony of witnesses; but one witness is not sufficient testimony against a person for the death penalty. 31 Moreover you shall take no ransom for the life of a murderer who is guilty of death, but he shall surely be put to death. 32 And you shall take no ransom for him who has fled to his city of refuge, that he may return to dwell in the land before the death of the priest. 33 So you shall not pollute the land where you are; for blood [x]defiles the land, and no [3]atonement can be made for the land, for the blood that is shed on it, except [y]by the blood of him who shed it. 34 Therefore [z]do not defile the land which you inhabit, in the midst of which I dwell; for [a]I the LORD dwell among the children of Israel.' "

■ 35:9–33 Six cities of refuge were to be established for those who had accidentally killed someone. See note on Deut. 4:41–43.

■ 35:12 the avenger. A member of the victim's family was customarily designated to avenge the victim's death by killing the manslayer.

■ 35:25 until the death of the high priest. See also v. 28. The death of the high priest brought a change in the legal status of a manslayer—the guilty one was no longer liable to the penalty for manslaughter.

■ 35:30 No one was to be put to death on the evidence of only one witness.

■ 35:31, 32 Accepting a ransom payment was forbidden in cases of murder and manslaughter. This provision emphasizes the value God places on human life.

■ 35:33, 34 Pollution of the land by bloodshed could be removed only by shedding the blood of the murderer (Gen. 9:5, 6 and notes).

■ 36:1–11 See note on 27:1–11.

Israel, and [d]my lord was commanded by the LORD to give the inheritance of our brother Zelophehad to his daughters. [3] Now if they are married to any of the sons of the other tribes of the children of Israel, then their inheritance will be [e]taken from the inheritance of our fathers, and it will be added to the inheritance of the tribe into which they marry; so it will be taken from the lot of our inheritance. [4] And when [f]the Jubilee of the children of Israel comes, then their inheritance will be added to the inheritance of the tribe into which they marry; so their inheritance will be taken away from the inheritance of the tribe of our fathers."

[5] Then Moses commanded the children of Israel according to the word of the LORD, saying: [g]"What the tribe of the sons of Joseph speaks is right. [6] This is what the LORD commands concerning the daughters of Zelophehad, saying, 'Let them [l]marry whom they think best, [h]but they may marry only within the family of their father's tribe.' [7] So the inheritance of the children of Israel shall not change hands from tribe to tribe, for every one of the children of Israel shall [i]keep the inheritance of the tribe of his fathers. [8] And [j]every daughter who possesses an inheritance in any tribe of the children of Israel shall be the wife of one of the family of her father's tribe, so that the children of Israel each may possess the inheritance of his fathers. [9] Thus no inheritance shall change hands from one tribe to another, but every tribe of the children of Israel shall keep its own inheritance."

[10] Just as the LORD commanded Moses, so did the daughters of Zelophehad; [11] [k]for Mahlah, Tirzah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Noah, the daughters of Zelophehad, were married to the sons of their father's brothers. [12] They were married into the families of the children of Manasseh the son of Joseph, and their inheritance remained in the tribe of their father's family.

[13] These are the commandments and the judgments which the LORD commanded the children of Israel by the hand of Moses [l]in the plains of Moab by the Jordan, across from Jericho.

■ 36:4 the Jubilee. In the Jubilee Year, all property would revert to its original owner or heir (Lev. 25:8–17). In the case of the daughters of Zelophehad it had been established that women could inherit land (27:1–11). If a daughter inheriting property were to marry outside her tribe, it appeared that the Law of Jubilee would cause the land to be transfered to the tribe of the new husband. Moses rules that a woman with property may not marry outside her tribe. In agreement with this, the daughters of Zelophehad married relatives in Manasseh.

The Fifth Book of Moses Called

DEUTERONOMY

Author By its own testimony (1:1, 5; 31:22), Deuteronomy is the work of Moses. Mosaic authorship is affirmed many times elsewhere in the Old Testament (e.g. 2 Kin. 14:6), in ancient Jewish sources (e.g., Josephus), and in the New Testament. This view was almost universally held until the rise of rationalistic criticism in modern times (Introduction to the Pentateuch: Author and Date).

Critics correctly point out that the last chapter could not have been written by Moses. It is widely agreed that ch. 34 is an addendum, perhaps appended by Joshua. In the same way, the Book of Joshua ends with the death of Joshua, this record clearly having been supplied by the author of the Book of Judges, who appended verses from Judges to the end of Joshua (Judg. 2:7–9; cf. Josh. 24:29–31). Likewise, the first verses of Ezra are copied and appended to the last chapter of Chronicles (Chronicles ends in the middle of a sentence). This way of linking a subsequent book to the preceding one (or variations of this practice) was common in antiquity and was intended to show the proper sequence of scrolls or clay tablets. It is probable that Joshua added the note on Moses' death and Israel's acceptance of Joshua in order to link his own book to Moses' great production. Such obvious additions do not, however, negate the general authorship of Moses.

More controversially, some critics have alleged that the language of 1:1, 5 indicates that the writer of the book must have been located on the west side of the Jordan River, i.e., in Canaan (the Hebrew phrase here translated "this side of the Jordan" is often translated "the other side of the Jordan" or "beyond the Jordan"). Such a description, they argue, belies the credibility of Deuteronomy as a work of Moses, since Moses never crossed the Jordan. This argument assumes that the Hebrew phrase in question must always refer to the region east of the Jordan. It is evident, however, that the precise meaning of the phrase must be determined by the context, and that it can refer either to Transjordan (the region to the east of the Jordan and the Dead Sea, 1:1–5; 3:8; 4:41, 47, 49) or to Canaan itself (3:20, 25; 11:30; Josh. 9:1, 10). Here it clearly means the region east of the Jordan, as the geographical descriptions indicate (1:1, 5).

Date and Occasion In the nineteenth century, biblical critics contended that Deuteronomy was written about 620 B.C., as part of the religious reform of King Josiah, in which he insisted that worship be centered in Jerusalem. The law of the central sanctuary (ch. 12) was said by these critics to have been the invention of a writer in the time of Josiah. Since the early twentieth century, however, this view has received less favor. Some have dated Deuteronomy as early as Samuel, others as late as the Exile. Many critics still date the book in the seventh century B.C., which is the period of Josiah. But these scholars also question the unity of the book. If some parts seem "early" (from Moses' time), they ascribe those parts to an old tradition that has conveniently been preserved. If other parts seem "late" (during or after the time of Josiah), they are called "later editions" or due to "late editing." Such elastic, subjective, and speculative methods cannot be conclusively disproved without a copy from Moses' own time, which no one possesses. No concrete evidence rules out the composition of Deuteronomy at the time of Moses, making reasonable allowances for additions by someone like Joshua, who appended Moses' obituary to the book, and for some later updating of Hebrew grammar and place names.

The background and setting of the book reflect conditions prior to the conquest of Canaan under Joshua. There is no mention of a king in Judah or of the city of Jerusalem, which is mentioned over one hundred times by the prophet Jeremiah (who wrote in Josiah's day). It is unlikely that a sixth-century author would make no allusion whatever to that capital city or its temple. The twelve tribes are represented as one nation (instead of, as in Josiah's period, the kingdoms of Judah and Israel). The Transjordan cities of refuge are named, while those in Canaan (which were named later by Joshua) are not. The Babylonian names of months are not used, and there are no Persian loan words in the vocabulary, even though such words would be expected to appear in a work supposedly written during a period when these empires were dominant. Moses, Aaron, and Joshua are named, but no later persons or later historical incidents are mentioned. It is unlikely that a later author, even one well-versed in the lore of the past, could so completely avoid the use of later terms and the mention of persons and events of his own period.

Perhaps most significant is the general conformity of Deuteronomy's structure to the covenant or treaty form of the mid-second millennium B.C. (the approximate time of Moses). We find the following treaty elements in Deuteronomy: (a) a preamble identifying the covenant mediator (1:1–5); (b) a historical prologue reviewing previous covenant history (1:6—4:40); (c) stipulations expounding the covenant way of life (4:44—11:32; 12—26); (d) a declaration of sanctions stating the blessings for obedience and curses for disobedience of the covenant (chs. 27—30); and (e) a provision for the administration of the covenant after the death of the inaugural mediator (chs. 31—34). The main divisions from the covenant documents of Moses' lifetime, then, are discernible in the fifth book of the Pentateuch, Deuteronomy.

We conclude, therefore, that Deuteronomy was written by Moses, Israel's lawgiver, before his death in 1406 B.C.

Characteristics and Themes

Deuteronomy has been much used both by Christians and ancient Jews. It is quoted in the New Testament over fifty times, a number exceeded only by Psalms and Isaiah. The book contains much exhortation. The detailed legal material (chs. 14—26), much of which parallels Leviticus, is not as familiar or as much used as the rest, although it has importance for special purposes.

The book is a repetition of the law and history of Israel. It consists mainly of three great speeches and a legal compendium given by Moses at the end of his life, while the people were encamped in the plains of Moab, just before Joshua took command and led the people in the conquest of Canaan. The conquest of Transjordan had been successfully concluded, and Moses challenged the people in these farewell addresses.

As Moses' farewell messages to his people, the book combines exhortation and commandments, and serves as an example of how the Law should be taught. The opening address (1:5—4:40) recounts the experiences of Israel under Moses' leadership. Deuteronomy does not speak of how Moses confronted Pharaoh and how the miracles of the ten plagues forced Pharaoh to let the people go, but it alludes to the Exodus repeatedly (five times in the first address: 1:20, 34; 4:20, 34, 37). Moses recounts God's providential and miraculous care for the people during the journey from Egypt to Sinai. Then he details their defeat both spiritually and militarily at Kadesh Barnea. There are references here to events recorded in Numbers, but like the record in Numbers, almost nothing is said about events of the forty years of wilderness wandering. The journey around Edom toward Transjordan is mentioned, and the defeat of the kings Sihon and Og is recorded in fuller detail than in Numbers. Then comes the allocation of land in Transjordan for the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and half of Manasseh (as in Num. 32), and the narrative ends with reference to Moses' plea for himself to enter Canaan, which God disallows (as in Num. 27:12–23). Moses concludes the address with exhortations to be loyal to the Lord.

The second address (4:44—11:32) is composed of exhortations. Some consider this address as continuing to 26:19 with inclusion of the laws and regulations of chs. 12—26. The speech begins with the Ten Commandments, almost exactly like the wording in Ex. 20, aside from the fourth commandment (5:12–15 note). The terror of the theophany (a visible self-revelation of God) is recalled with the call to obedience. Only the Ten Commandments are given directly by the voice of God; the rest of the law is mediated through Moses (5:22 note). The famous Shema, "Hear, O Israel: The LORD Our God, the LORD is one," is given in 6:4, with the exhortation to teach, remember, and obey. The following chapters are sprinkled with examples of God's care and judgments since leaving Egypt—all allusions to material in Exodus and Numbers. These examples serve to warn Israel to trust the Lord and not themselves. This leads to a promise of success in the coming wars of Canaan.

The laws (chs. 12—26) include regulations for worship, clean foods, slaves and debts, annual feasts, judges, cities of refuge, and various matters of conduct. Most of these have some parallel to material found in the previous books of the Pentateuch, which will be noted at the appropriate places.

The third address (chs. 27—30) is a powerful exhortation to obey the laws of the Lord. It includes the solemn ceremony to be held in the valley between Mount Ebal and Mount Gerizim, near Shechem, after Israel had secured a foothold in Canaan—a ceremony reminiscent of the covenant ceremony of Ex. 20:1—24:8, and duly carried out by Joshua (Josh. 8:30–35). These laws and exhortations were given by Moses with emphasis on Israel's obligation before God to hear and obey the law of the Lord.

The final sections of the book are equally important and powerful (31:1—34:2). They include the installation of Joshua as Moses' successor, the great Song of Moses celebrating the greatness of God and His care for His covenant people (ch. 32), Moses' song of blessing of the twelve tribes after the fashion of Jacob's blessing of his twelve sons in Gen. 49 (ch. 33), and finally, the addendum describing the death of Moses (ch. 34).

Through types and prophecy this book also points us to Christ. He is the Passover Lamb (16:1 note) and the coming Prophet (18:15–19 note). Moses, the founder of Israel's theocracy, mediated the old covenant, but Jesus Christ, the Son of God, mediated the new covenant (Jer. 31:31–34). The substance of the covenants is the same, but their manner of administration differs significantly. Whereas the old covenant was written on tablets of stone, Christ writes the new covenant through the Spirit of the living God on the tablets of human hearts (2 Cor. 3:3). The old covenant was ratified with Israel's promise, "we will hear and do" (5:27; cf. Ex. 19:8; 20:19). But the new covenant depends on God's better promise, "I will . . . write it on their hearts" (Jer. 31:33; Heb. 8:7). The old covenant called for shedding the blood of animals; the everlasting new covenant was instituted once and for all by the blood of Christ (Jer. 32:40; Heb. 9:11–28). The old covenant calls for a heart religion, but it failed through human weakness and became obsolete after its fulfillment at Calvary (Rom. 8:3; Heb. 7:12; 8:13).

The Book of Deuteronomy, the fifth book of Moses, receives its title from the Septuagint, which called it Deuteronomion, meaning the "Second Law," or the "Repetition of the Law." □

The Previous Command to Enter Canaan

CHAPTER 1

THESE are the words which Moses spoke to all Israel [a]on this side of the Jordan in the wilderness, in the [1]plain opposite [2]Suph, between Paran, Tophel, Laban, Hazeroth, and Dizahab. [2] It is eleven days' journey from Horeb by way of Mount Seir [b]to Kadesh Barnea. [3] Now it came to pass [c]in the fortieth year, in the eleventh month, on the first day of the month, that Moses spoke to the children of Israel according to all that the LORD had given him as commandments to them, [4] [d]after he had killed Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt in Heshbon, and Og king of Bashan, who dwelt at Ashtaroth [e]in[3] Edrei.

the plain opposite Suph. The exact location is uncertain, but taken as a whole, the description points to the region of Moab. This "plain" or arabah (text note) extends along the eastern edge of Palestine from the Sea of Galilee south to the Gulf of Aqaba. Suph, meaning "reeds," may refer to a location in Moab near the Arnon River. The names Paran and Hazeroth are mentioned during Israel's travels in the Sinai peninsula (Num. 10:12; 11:35; 12:16; 33:17), but it is unclear whether they are the same places as mentioned here. Tophel, Laban, and Dizahab are mentioned only here.

■ 1:2 eleven days' journey. The distance between Horeb and Kadesh Barnea is about 150 miles. The Israelites went by way of the Mount Seir road, which probably means they traveled part of the time along the valley north of Ezion Geber, a journey of 175 miles or more. They made good time if the whole nation arrived in eleven days. But the "eleven days' journey" could be a conventional expression for the distance involved, rather than the time taken on this particular journey.

■ 1:3 the fortieth year. This date (forty years since the Exodus from Egypt) serves to fix the time for the book as a whole. The years of divine judgment have ended (Num. 14:33, 34), and Israel prepares to enter the Promised Land. This forty-year period included thirty-eight years in the wilderness, followed by two years for the conquest of Transjordan (2:14).

■ 1:4 Sihon . . . Og. The conquest of Transjordan is detailed in 2:24—3:11.

[5] On this side of the Jordan in the land of Moab, Moses began to explain this law, saying,
[6] "The LORD our God spoke to us [f]in Horeb, saying: 'You have dwelt long [g]enough at this mountain. [7] Turn and take your journey, and go to the mountains of the Amorites, to all the neighboring places in the [4]plain, in the mountains and in the lowland, in the South and on the seacoast, to the land of the Canaanites and to Lebanon, as far as the great river, the River Euphrates. [8] See, I have set the land before you; go in and possess the land which the LORD [5]swore to your fathers—to [h]Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob—to give to them and their descendants after them.'

Tribal Leaders Appointed

[9] "And [i]I spoke to you at that time, saying: 'I [6]alone am not able to bear you. [10] The LORD your God has multiplied you, [j]and here you are today, as the stars of heaven in multitude. [11] [k]May the LORD God of your fathers make you a thousand times more numerous than you are, and bless you [l]as He has promised you! [12] [m]How can I alone bear your problems and your burdens and your complaints? [13] Choose wise, understanding, and knowledgeable men from among your tribes, and I will make them [7]heads over you.' [14] And you answered me and said, 'The thing which you have told us to do is good.' [15] So I took [n]the heads of your tribes, wise and knowledgeable men, and [8]made them heads over you, leaders of thousands, leaders of hundreds, leaders of fifties, leaders of tens, and officers for your tribes.

[16] "Then I commanded your judges at that time, saying, 'Hear the cases between your brethren, and [o]judge righteously between a man and his [p]brother or the stranger who is with him. [17] [q]You shall not show partiality in judgment; you shall hear the small as well as the great; you shall not be afraid in any man's presence, for [r]the judgment is God's. The case that is too hard for you, [s]bring to me, and I will hear it.' [18] And I commanded you at that time all the things which you should do.

Israel's Refusal to Enter the Land

[19] "So we departed from Horeb, [t]and went through all that great and terrible wilderness which you saw on the way to the mountains of the Amorites, as the LORD our God had commanded us. Then [u]we came to Kadesh Barnea. [20] And I said to you, 'You have come to the mountains of the Amorites, which the LORD our God is giving us. [21] Look, the LORD your God has set the land before you; go up and possess it, as the LORD God of your fathers has spoken to you; [v]do not fear or be discouraged.'

[22] "And every one of you came near to me and said, 'Let us send men before us, and let them search out the land for us, and bring back word to us of the way by which we should go up, and of the cities into which we shall come.'

[23] "The plan pleased me well; so [w]I took twelve of your men, one man from each tribe. [24] [x]And they departed and went up into the mountains, and came to the Valley of Eshcol, and spied it out. [25] They also took some of the fruit of the land in their hands and brought it down to Heshbon. The name has been preserved in the modern Tell Hesban, located in Transjordan some thirty-five miles east of Jerusalem. Extensive excavations have discovered no remains at Hesban from Moses' time (i.e., from the fourteenth century B.C.). It is possible that a nearby mound that does contain fourteenth-century remains is the Heshbon in Moses' day.

Edrei. The name is probably preserved in the town-name of modern Der'a on the border between Syria and Jordan, which does have ruins of this period.

■ 1:5 in the land of Moab. The Israelites are said to have camped in the plains of Moab (e.g., Num. 22:1; 26:3, 63) or in the land of Moab (e.g., Deut. 29:1; 32:49), but Israel was encamped north of the Arnon River, the northern border of Moab. The solution is that Moab earlier had held the northern territory but had been driven south of the Arnon by Sihon the Amorite (Num. 21:26). Jephthah rehearses this history in Judg. 11:14–27.

■ 1:6—4:40 Following the introduction of himself as the covenant mediator (vv. 1–5), Moses turns to a review of the history of Israel prior to this covenant ratification occasion. He provides a travelogue of the nation's movements from the Sinai region to Hormah, on to the Arnon, and into the Transjordan area. This segment of the book concludes with an overview of the covenant now to be renewed with the generation born in the wilderness.

■ 1:6 Horeb. Another name for Sinai, apparently for the area around Mount Sinai. The name Sinai nearly always has the designation "Mount" or "Desert." Horeb only once has the designation "Mount" (Ex. 33:6).

■ 1:7 the land of the Canaanites. These borders of the Promised Land were given to Abraham in Gen. 15:18, 19. The promise included driving out the Canaanites and the other nations.

■ 1:8 the LORD swore. God's solemn oath to give the land to Abraham's descendants is mentioned at least six times in Genesis, and is found at least twenty-five times in Deuteronomy (it is also mentioned in Exodus, Leviticus, and Numbers).

■ 1:13 Choose wise . . . men. A reference to Ex. 18:24–26 where Moses took the good advice of Jethro, his father-in-law. During the year at Mount Sinai, Moses, under God, organized the nation's judicial system, military power, and worship. Regarding the judges, see 16:18; 17:8; 19:17.

■ 1:19 Kadesh Barnea. The place was called simply Kadesh in Num. 13:26. Kadesh means "holy place" and the name was doubtless given by the original inhabitants to many supposedly sacred places. This place was called Kadesh Barnea to distinguish it from other such places (e.g., in Naphtali, Judg. 4:6; in Judah, Josh. 15:23).

us; and they brought back word to us, saying, 'It is a [y]good land which the LORD our God is giving us.'

[26] [z]"Nevertheless you would not go up, but rebelled against the command of the LORD your God; [27] and you [a]complained in your tents, and said, 'Because the LORD [b]hates us, He has brought us out of the land of Egypt to deliver us into the hand of the Amorites, to destroy us. [28] Where can we go up? Our brethren have [g]discouraged our hearts, saying, [c]"The people are greater and taller than we; the cities are great and fortified up to heaven; moreover we have seen the sons of the [d]Anakim there." '

[29] "Then I said to you, 'Do not be terrified, [e]or afraid of them. [30] [f]The LORD your God, who goes before you, He will fight for you, according to all He did for you in Egypt before your eyes, [31] and in the wilderness where you saw how the LORD your God carried you, as a [g]man carries his son, in all the way that you went until you came to this place.' [32] Yet, for all that, [h]you did not believe the LORD your God, [33] [i]who went in the way before you [j]to search out a place for you to pitch your tents, to show you the way you should go, in the fire by night and in the cloud by day.

The Penalty for Israel's Rebellion

[34] "And the LORD heard the sound of your words, and was angry, [k]and took an oath, saying, [35] [l]'Surely not one of these men of this evil generation shall see that good land of which I [l]swore to give to your fathers, [36] [m]except Caleb the son of Jephunneh; he shall see it, and to him and his children I am giving the land on which he walked, because [n]he [2]wholly followed the LORD.' [37] [o]The LORD was also angry with me for your sakes, saying, 'Even you shall not go in there. [38] [p]Joshua the son of Nun, [q]who stands before you, he shall go in there. [r]Encourage him, for he shall cause Israel to inherit it.

[39] [s]'Moreover your little ones and your children, who [t]you say will be victims, who today [u]have no knowledge of good and evil, they shall go in there; to them I will give it, and they shall possess it. [40] [v]But as for you, turn and take your journey into the wilderness by the Way of the Red Sea.'

[41] "Then you answered and said to me, [w]'We have sinned against the LORD; we will go up and fight, just as the LORD our God commanded us.' And when everyone of you had girded on his weapons of war, you were ready to go up into the mountain.

[42] "And the LORD said to me, 'Tell them, [x]"Do not go up nor fight, for I am not among you; lest you be defeated before your enemies." ' [43] So I spoke to you; yet you would not listen, but [y]rebelled against the command of the LORD, and [z]presumptuously[3] went up into the mountain. [44] And the Amorites who dwelt in that mountain came out against you and chased you [a]as bees do, and drove you back from Seir to Hormah. [45] Then you returned and wept before the LORD, but the LORD would not listen to your voice nor give ear to you.

[46] [b]"So you remained in Kadesh many days, according to the days that you spent there.

■ 1:26 but rebelled. This account of the people's failure at Kadesh parallels extensively the account in Num. 13.

■ 1:28 the Anakim. The name Anak appears in Egyptian texts of the early second millennium as the name of a ruler in Palestine. It probably is related to the biblical Anak whose descendants lived in Hebron (Num. 13:22). They were taller than the Israelites and were feared for their military prowess. Joshua conquered them, and their remnants merged with the Philistines (Josh. 12:21, 22).

■ 1:33 in the fire by night. The mention of the pillar of fire and the cloud refers to Ex. 13:21, where the pillar guided them out of Egypt, and especially to Num. 9:15–23, which tells of the Lord's guidance through the whole wilderness journey.

■ 1:37 LORD was also angry with me. Mention of the doom of the lost generation recalls that God was also displeased with Moses and refused to allow him to enter Canaan (32:51; Num. 20:9–11 note; 27:14). Joshua, a faithful spy, would carry on as leader (Num. 27:12–23).

■ 1:46 in Kadesh many days. Little is said in Numbers or Deuteronomy about the forty years of lost time. Numbers gives examples of the people's rebellions against Moses (Num. 16; 17). It is likely that the list of the wanderings in Num. 33:18–49, after they left Hazeroth and the Wilderness of Paran, indicates where the tabernacle was set up and the core of the people stayed. As for the rebellious majority, they may have fanned out over the peninsula of Sinai with their flocks in order to find forage.

■ 2:1 Way of the Red Sea. Because the term "Red Sea" could include the Gulf of Aqaba (Ex. 13:18 note), this was likely the desert road to the gulf.

skirted Mount Seir. Or, "we circled around Mount Seir" (text note). The Israelites lived a nomadic life. Moses and those with him continued faithfully in the worship of God.

■ 2:4 your brethren, the descendants of Esau. As explained in v. 8 and in Num. 20:14–21, the Edomites refused peaceful passage, so Israel

[e]your brethren, the descendants of Esau, who live in Seir; and they will be afraid of you. Therefore watch yourselves carefully. 5 Do not meddle with them, for I will not give you any of their land, no, not so much as one footstep, [f]because I have given Mount Seir to Esau as a possession. 6 You shall buy food from them with money, that you may eat; and you shall also buy water from them with money, that you may drink.

7 "For the LORD your God has blessed you in all the work of your hand. He knows your [2]trudging through this great wilderness. [g]These forty years the LORD your God has been with you; you have lacked nothing." '

8 "And when we passed beyond our brethren, the descendants of Esau who dwell in Seir, away from the road of the plain, away from [h]Elath and Ezion Geber, we [i]turned and passed by way of the Wilderness of Moab. 9 Then the LORD said to me, 'Do not harass Moab, nor contend with them in battle, for I will not give you any of their land as a possession, because I have given [j]Ar to [k]the descendants of Lot as a possession.' "

10 [l](The Emim had dwelt there in times past, a people as great and numerous and tall as [m]the Anakim. 11 They were also regarded as [3]giants, like the Anakim, but the Moabites call them Emim. 12 [n]The Horites formerly dwelt in Seir, but the descendants of Esau dispossessed them and destroyed them from before them, and dwelt in their [4]place, just as Israel did to the land of their possession which the LORD gave them.)

13 " 'Now rise and cross over [o]the [5]Valley of the Zered.' So we crossed over the Valley of the Zered. 14 And the time we took to come [p]from Kadesh Barnea until we crossed over the Valley of the Zered was thirty-eight years, [q]until all the generation of the men of war [6]was consumed from the midst of the camp, [r]just as the LORD had sworn to them. 15 For indeed the hand of the LORD was against them, to destroy them from the midst of the camp until they [7]were consumed.

16 "So it was, when all the men of war had finally perished from among the people, 17 that the LORD spoke to me, saying: 18 'This day you are to cross over at Ar, the boundary of Moab. 19 And when you come near the people of Ammon, do not harass them or meddle with them, for I will not give you any of the land of the people of Ammon as a possession, because I have given it to [s]the descendants of Lot as a possession.' "

20 (That was also regarded as a land of [8]giants; giants formerly dwelt there. But the Ammonites call them [t]Zamzummim, 21 [u]a people as great and numerous and tall as the Anakim. But the LORD destroyed them before them, and they dispossessed them and dwelt in their place, 22 just as He had done for the descendants of Esau, [v]who dwelt in Seir, when He destroyed [w]the Horites from before them. They dispossessed them and dwelt in their place, even to this day. 23 And [x]the Avim, who dwelt in villages as far as Gaza—[y]the Caphtorim, who came from Caphtor, destroyed them and dwelt in their place.)

24 " 'Rise, take your journey, and [z]cross over the River Arnon. Look, I have given into your hand [a]Sihon the Amorite, king of Heshbon, and his land. Begin [9]to possess it, and engage him in battle. 25 [b]This day I will begin to put the dread and fear of you upon the nations [1]under the went around their territory. Deuteronomy adds to the Numbers account that this was the Lord's command. In Moses' day, the Edomites, according to archaeological study, were apparently not living in fixed locations. They were brothers to Israel in nomadic life as well as in ancestry (Gen. 25:25, 26).

■ 2:8 from Elath and Ezion Geber. Stops at Punon, Oboth, and Ije Abarim are mentioned at Num. 33:43, 44. Punon is probably modern Feinan, in the valley south of the Dead Sea, where there is a good spring. Israel was bypassing Edom and Moab and would attack Canaan from the eastern gateway.

■ 2:10–12 The Emim . . . Horites. We know little about these former inhabitants of Transjordan, but their names occur in Gen. 14, the report of the raid of eastern kings throughout this area in the days of Abraham. The Emim, also called Rephaim (or "giants," text note on v. 11), lived where Moab later lived; the Zamzummim, also called Rephaim, lived where the Ammonites later lived; and the Horites preceded the Edomites (vv. 10–12, 20–23). The remark that the Emim and Zamzummim were tall like the Anakim (but had nevertheless been conquered) would help the morale of Israel who had yet to conquer the Anakim (the im ending of such names is the Hebrew plural suffix). The identity of the Horites is puzzling. An important early people in Mesopotamia were called Hurrians (an equivalent of the Hebrew term translated "Horite"). Some Horites in Canaan seem to have Hurrian names, but their relationship to the Hurrians is unclear.

■ 2:12 possession which the LORD gave them. This phrase might seem to be a later insertion after Israel conquered Canaan, but this could as easily have been spoken by Moses after the significant conquest of Transjordan and settlement of the two-and-a-half tribes there.

■ 2:14 thirty-eight years. See note on v. 3.

as the LORD had sworn. Another clear reference to Numbers, where God swore that the faithless generation would die in the wilderness (Num. 14:21–23).

■ 2:19 the people of Ammon. The kinship with Ammon, as with Moab and Edom, had long been remembered (Gen. 19:37, 38).

■ 2:23 the Avim. We know nothing of these people. If the Gaza mentioned is the same as the Gaza in southeastern Canaan, then Moses mentions it here only as part of his survey of earlier dislocations of peoples.

the Caphtorim. If Caphtor means Crete, as is usual, then the reference would be to an early and probably local Philistine community (before the later, great Philistine invasion of c. 1200 B.C.), of which the Abimelech in Gen. 20 was perhaps a member (cf. Jer. 47:4).

■ 2:25 fear of you. Israel now is to begin its conquest, but the people are to remember that it is God who goes before. This was to be the emphasis of God's people ever after (cf. Ps. 44:3).

whole heaven, who shall hear the report of you, and shall [c]tremble and be in anguish because of you.'

King Sihon Defeated

[26] "And I [d]sent messengers from the Wilderness of Kedemoth to Sihon king of Heshbon, [e]with words of peace, saying, [27] [f]'Let me pass through your land; I will keep strictly to the road, and I will turn neither to the right nor to the left. [28] You shall sell me food for money, that I may eat, and give me water for money, that I may drink; [g]only let me pass through on foot, [29] [h]just as the descendants of Esau who dwell in Seir and the Moabites who dwell in Ar did for me, until I cross the Jordan to the land which the LORD our God is giving us.'

[30] [i]"But Sihon king of Heshbon would not let us pass through, for [j]the LORD your God [k]hardened his spirit and made his heart obstinate, that He might deliver him into your hand, as it is this day.

[31] "And the LORD said to me, 'See, I have begun to [l]give Sihon and his land over to you. Begin to possess it, that you may inherit his land.' [32] [m]Then Sihon and all his people came out against us to fight at Jahaz. [33] And [n]the LORD our God delivered him [2]over to us; so [o]we defeated him, his sons, and all his people. [34] We took all his cities at that time, and we [p]utterly destroyed the men, women, and little ones of every city; we left none remaining. [35] We took only the livestock as plunder for ourselves, with the spoil of the cities which we took. [36] [q]From Aroer, which is on the bank of the River Arnon, and from [r]the city that is in the ravine, as far as Gilead, there was not one city too strong for us; [s]the LORD our God delivered all to us. [37] Only you did not go near the land of the people of Ammon—anywhere along the River [t]Jabbok, or to the cities of the mountains, or [u]wherever the LORD our God had forbidden us.

King Og Defeated

3 "Then we turned and went up the road to Bashan; and [a]Og king of Bashan came out against us, he and all his people, to battle [b]at Edrei. [2] And the LORD said to me, 'Do not fear him, for I have delivered him and all his people and his land into your hand; you shall do to him as you did to [c]Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt at Heshbon.'

[3] "So the LORD our God also delivered into our hands Og king of Bashan, with all his people, and we [l]attacked him until he had no survivors remaining. [4] And we took all his cities at that time; there was not a city which we did not take from them: sixty cities, [d]all the region of Argob, the kingdom of Og in Bashan. [5] All these cities were fortified with high walls, gates, and bars, besides a great many rural towns. [6] And we utterly destroyed them, as we did to Sihon king [e]of Heshbon, utterly destroying the men, women, and children of every city. [7] But all the livestock and the spoil of the cities we took as booty for ourselves.

[8] "And at that time we took the [f]land from the hand of the two kings of the Amorites who were on this side of the Jordan, from the River Arnon to Mount [g]Hermon [9] (the Sidonians call [h]Hermon Sirion, and the Amorites call it Senir), [10] [i]all the cities of the plain, all Gilead, and [j]all Bashan, as far as Salcah and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Bashan.

[11] [k]"For only Og king of Bashan remained of the remnant of [l]the [2]giants. Indeed his bedstead was an iron bedstead. (Is it not in [m]Rabbah of the people of Ammon?) Nine cubits is its length and four cubits its width, according to the standard cubit.

■ 2:27 Let me pass through. The same offer as was given to Edom and Moab. Here, however, it was God's will for Israel to conquer the territory. Sihon refused Moses' offer, but God was in sovereign control as He had been with Pharaoh (Ex. 4:21). Sihon's resistance became Israel's opportunity.

■ 2:32 at Jahaz. About seven miles south of Heshbon, Sihon was beaten and his territory conquered. The cities were put under the ban (i.e., Israel left no survivors, v. 34; Lev. 27:28 note). The calculated effect of the ban in ancient times was to make the inhabitants of an area flee without putting up resistance. Israel was commanded not to use this procedure except in their conquest of Canaan and Transjordan (20:10–15), where the holy nation would be corrupted by the influence of the remaining pagan culture (Ps. 106:34–39).

■ 3:1 Og king of Bashan. Bashan was a fertile region located east of the Jordan and the Sea of Galilee, and extending from the Yarmuk River in the south to Mount Hermon in the north. It is wheat country today and in ancient time was famous for its cattle and flocks (Ps. 22:12; Deut. 32:14). The spoil of this area must have seemed a treasure to the nomadic Israelites.

■ 3:8 this side of the Jordan. The east side of the river. This territory was in extent more than half as large as Canaan proper. From the Arnon River to Mount Hermon is about 150 miles.

■ 3:9 Sirion . . . Senir. Both terms for Mount Hermon are witnessed in ancient Canaanite and Mesopotamian texts.

■ 3:11 an iron bedstead. Og's bedstead, thirteen feet long, suggests he was a giant and that his people, the Rephaim, were also giants (2:10–12 note). The "bedstead" may actually have been a sarcophagus; the word translated "bedstead" is rare and could here be a euphemism for a sarcophagus, which would be large enough also to hold tomb objects. The reference to "iron" may only mean that it was joined or trimmed with iron, a new material at this date (before the beginning of the Iron Age c. 1200 B.C.). See note on 8:9.

The Land East of the Jordan Divided

12 "And this [n]land, which we possessed at that time, [o]from Aroer, which is by the River Arnon, and half the mountains of Gilead and [p]its cities, I gave to the Reubenites and the Gadites. 13 [q]The rest of Gilead, and all Bashan, the kingdom of Og, I gave to half the tribe of Manasseh. (All the region of Argob, with all Bashan, was called the land of the [3]giants. 14 [r]Jair the son of Manasseh took all the region of Argob, [s]as far as the border of the Geshurites and the Maachathites, and [t]called Bashan after his own name, [4]Havoth Jair, to this day.)

15 "Also I gave [u]Gilead to Machir. 16 And to the Reubenites [v]and the Gadites I gave from Gilead as far as the River Arnon, the middle of the river as the border, as far as the River Jabbok, [w]the border of the people of Ammon; 17 the plain also, with the Jordan as the border, from Chinnereth [x]as far as the east side of the Sea of the Arabah [y](the Salt Sea), below the slopes of Pisgah.

18 "Then I commanded you at that time, saying: 'The LORD your God has given you this land to possess. [z]All you men of valor shall cross over armed before your brethren, the children of Israel. 19 But your wives, your little ones, and your livestock (I know that you have much livestock) shall stay in your cities which I have given you, 20 until the LORD has given [a]rest to your brethren as to you, and they also possess the land which the LORD your God is giving them beyond the Jordan. Then each of you may [b]return to his possession which I have given you.'

21 "And [c]I commanded Joshua at that time, saying, 'Your eyes have seen all that the LORD your God has done to these two kings; so will the LORD do to all the kingdoms through which you pass. 22 You must not fear them, for [d]the LORD your God Himself fights for you.'

Moses Forbidden to Enter the Land

23 "Then [e]I pleaded with the LORD at that time, saying: 24 'O Lord GOD, You have begun to show Your servant [f]Your greatness and Your [5]mighty hand, for [g]what god is there in heaven or on earth who can do anything like Your works and Your mighty deeds? 25 I pray, let me cross over and see [h]the good land beyond the Jordan, those pleasant mountains, and Lebanon.'

26 "But the LORD [i]was angry with me on your account, and would not listen to me. So the LORD said to me: 'Enough of that! Speak no more to Me of this matter. 27 [j]Go up to the top of Pisgah, and lift your eyes toward the west, the north, the south, and the east; behold it with your eyes, for you shall not cross over this Jordan. 28 But [k]command[6] Joshua, and encourage him and strengthen him; for he shall go over before this people, and he shall cause them to inherit the land which you will see.'

29 "So we stayed in [l]the valley opposite Beth Peor.

Moses Commands Obedience

4 "Now, O Israel, listen to [a]the statutes and the judgments which I teach you to observe, that you may live, and go in and [1]possess the land which the LORD God of your fathers is giving you. 2 [b]You shall not add to the word which I command you, nor take from it, that you may keep the commandments of the LORD your God which I command you. 3 Your eyes have seen what the LORD did at [c]Baal Peor; for the LORD your God has destroyed from among you all the men who followed Baal of Peor. 4 But you who held fast to the LORD your God are alive today, every one of you.

5 "Surely I have taught you statutes and judgments, just as the LORD my God commanded me, that you should act according to them in the land which you go to possess. 6 Therefore be careful

■ 3:12 the Reubenites and the Gadites. These tribes received the southern part of the conquered Transjordan area. Sparsely populated in the modern period, it was more thickly settled in ancient times. Recent excavations have shown a surprising number of Christian churches here before and even after the Muslim conquest.

■ 3:13 half the tribe of Manasseh. The north half of Gilead, beginning near Zarethan, and all of Bashan went to this half-tribe.

■ 3:14 Jair the son of Manasseh. Or, "the descendant of." Manasseh had but one son, Machir, and he had one son, Gilead (Num. 26:29–34). Jair's conquest is mentioned in Num. 32:41.

■ 3:18 All you men of valor shall cross. Note the required unity. None could settle until all had conquered. Details are given in Num. 32. See the fulfillment of the pledge in Josh. 22.

■ 3:22 the LORD your God Himself fights for you. As Moses passed the command to Joshua, he emphasized the promise: the Lord will give victory.

■ 3:23–28 Moses' prayer in vv. 24, 25 is instructive. He knew of the Lord's anger because of his sin at Meribah (Num. 20:12), but he also knew that God does not "keep His anger forever" (cf. Ps. 103:9). Moses recognized God's great sovereign power and asked for great mercy.

■ 4:2 You shall not add. The word of God to Moses was to be treated as sacred and kept inviolate (12:32). See the similar certification in Rev. 22:18, 19, quite possibly modeled on this prohibition in Deuteronomy.

■ 4:3 Baal Peor. A dreadful warning. The reference is to Num. 25, which details the idolatry at Baal Peor that God judged by killing twenty-four thousand people.

■ 4:6 the peoples. Israel's fidelity would be a testimony to the world that God was near His people and that His laws were righteous.

to observe them; for this is [d]your wisdom and your understanding in the sight of the peoples who will hear all these statutes, and say, 'Surely this great nation is a wise and understanding people.'

7 "For [e]what great nation is there that has [f]God[2] so near to it, as the LORD our God is to us, for whatever reason we may call upon Him? 8 And what great nation is there that has such statutes and righteous judgments as are in all this law which I set before you this day? 9 Only take heed to yourself, and diligently [g]keep yourself, lest you [h]forget the things your eyes have seen, and lest they depart from your heart all the days of your life. And [i]teach them to your children and your grandchildren, 10 especially concerning [j]the day you stood before the LORD your God in Horeb, when the LORD said to me, 'Gather the people to Me, and I will let them hear My words, that they may learn to fear Me all the days they live on the earth, and that they may teach their children.'

11 "Then you came near and stood at the foot of the mountain, and the mountain burned with fire to the midst of heaven, with darkness, cloud, and thick darkness. 12 [k]And the LORD spoke to you out of the midst of the fire. You heard the sound of the words, but saw no [3]form; [l]you only heard a voice. 13 [m]So He declared to you His covenant which He commanded you to perform, [n]the Ten Commandments; and [o]He wrote them on two tablets of stone. 14 And [p]the LORD commanded me at that time to teach you statutes and judgments, that you might [4]observe them in the land which you cross over to possess.

Beware of Idolatry

15 [q]"Take careful heed to yourselves, for you saw no [r]form when the LORD spoke to you at Horeb out of the midst of the fire, 16 lest you [s]act corruptly and [t]make for yourselves a carved image in the [5]form of any figure: [u]the likeness of male or female, 17 the likeness of any animal that is on the earth or the likeness of any winged bird that flies in the air, 18 the likeness of anything that creeps on the ground or the likeness of any fish that is in the water beneath the earth. 19 And take heed, lest you [v]lift your eyes to heaven, and when you see the sun, the moon, and the stars, [w]all the host of heaven, you feel driven to [x]worship them and serve them, which the LORD your God has [6]given to all the peoples under the whole heaven as a heritage. 20 But the LORD has taken you and [y]brought you out of the iron furnace, out of Egypt, to be [z]His people, an inheritance, as you are this day. 21 Furthermore [a]the LORD was angry with me for your sakes, and swore that [b]I would not cross over the Jordan, and that I would not enter the good land which the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance. 22 But [c]I must die in this land, [d]I must not cross over the Jordan; but you shall cross over and [7]possess [e]that good land. 23 Take heed to yourselves, lest you forget the covenant of the LORD your God which He made with you, [f]and make for yourselves a carved image in the form of anything which the LORD your God has forbidden you. 24 For [g]the LORD your God is a consuming fire, [h]a jealous God.

25 "When you beget children and grandchildren and have grown old in the land, and act corruptly and make a carved image in the form of anything, and [i]do evil in the sight of the LORD your God to provoke Him to anger, 26 [j]I call heaven and earth to witness against you this day, that you will soon utterly perish from the land which you cross over the Jordan to possess; you will not [8]prolong your days in it, but will be utterly destroyed. 27 And the LORD [k]will scatter you among the peoples, and you will be left few in number among the nations where the LORD will

■ 4:9 teach them to your children. Deuteronomy stresses the covenant responsibility of parents for their children (6:7; 11:19). This covenant concern for children continues in the New Testament (Matt. 19:14 note; Acts 2:39).

■ 4:10 especially concerning the day. A reference to the great theophany (visible self-revelation of God) at Mount Sinai recorded in Ex. 19:9—20:19. It was a never-to-be-forgotten experience.

■ 4:13 the Ten Commandments. This title is used also in 10:4 and Ex. 34:28. Protestants usually divide them into four commandments dealing with duty to God and six that give our duty to man. Roman Catholics unite the first and second and divide the tenth resulting in a division of three and seven. The command regarding the Sabbath is pivotal: it has reference to God and also is for the benefit of both men and animals (Mark 2:27); the first three commandments concern God exclusively, the last six deal with humans.

■ 4:15 you saw no form. God is transcendent Spirit (John 4:24), which rules out any idolatrous representation of God in the form of animate objects (vv. 16–18), and any worship of the created order (v. 19).

■ 4:20 the iron furnace. A hot furnace used to smelt iron, a vivid metaphor for a place of great suffering (8:9 note).

■ 4:21 the LORD was angry with me. See 1:37; 3:26; Num. 20:12.

■ 4:24 a jealous God. See note on Ex. 20:5.

■ 4:25–29 Here in brief form is found the warning embodied in the curses of 28:15–68. But here also is a promise to the repentant.

■ 4:27 the LORD will scatter you. Such passages have been taken by some as indication that Deuteronomy was not written by Moses, but by someone in the sixth century B.C. during the Jewish exile in Babylon. However, the warning is general, and there is no mention of captivity in Babylon or of conditions in that later period.

drive you. 28 And [l]there you will serve gods, the work of men's hands, wood and stone, [m]which neither see nor hear nor eat nor smell. 29 [n]But from there you will seek the LORD your God, and you will find Him if you seek Him with all your heart and with all your soul. 30 When you are in [o]distress, and all these things come upon you in the [o]latter days, when you [p]turn to the LORD your God and obey His voice 31 (for the LORD your God is a merciful God), He will not forsake you nor [q]destroy you, nor forget the covenant of your fathers which He swore to them.

32 "For [r]ask now concerning the days that are past, which were before you, since the day that God created man on the earth, and ask [s]from one end of heaven to the other, whether any great thing like this has happened, or anything like it has been heard. 33 [t]Did any people ever hear the voice of God speaking out of the midst of the fire, as you have heard, and live? 34 Or did God ever try to go and take for Himself a nation from the midst of another nation, [u]by trials, [v]by signs, by wonders, by war, [w]by a mighty hand and [x]an outstretched arm, [y]and by great [z]terrors, according to all that the LORD your God did for you in Egypt before your eyes? 35 To you it was shown, that you might know that the LORD Himself is God; [z]there is none other besides Him. 36 [a]Out of heaven He let you hear His voice, that He might instruct you; on earth He showed you His great fire, and you heard His words out of the midst of the fire. 37 And because [b]He loved your fathers, therefore He chose their [2]descendants after them; and [c]He brought you out of Egypt with His Presence, with His mighty power, 38 [d]driving out from before you nations greater and mightier than you, to bring you in, to give you their land as an inheritance, as it is this day. 39 Therefore know this day, and consider it in your heart, that [e]the LORD Himself is God in heaven above and on the earth beneath; there is no other. 40 [f]You shall therefore keep His statutes and His commandments which I command you today, that [3]it may go well with you and with your children after you, and that you may [4]prolong your days in the land which the LORD your God is giving you for all time."

Cities of Refuge East of the Jordan

41 Then Moses [g]set apart three cities on this side of the Jordan, toward the rising of the sun, 42 [h]that the manslayer might flee there, who kills his neighbor unintentionally, without having hated him in time past, and that by fleeing to one of these cities he might live: 43 [i]Bezer in the wilderness on the plateau for the Reubenites, Ramoth in Gilead for the Gadites, and Golan in Bashan for the Manassites.

Introduction to God's Law

44 Now this is the law which Moses set before the children of Israel. 45 These are the testimonies, the statutes, and the judgments which Moses spoke to the children of Israel after they came out of Egypt, 46 on this side of the Jordan, [j]in the valley opposite Beth Peor, in the land of Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt at Heshbon, whom Moses and the children of Israel [k]defeated[5] after they came out of Egypt. 47 And they took possession of his land and the land [l]of Og king of Bashan, two kings of the Amorites, who were on this side of the Jordan, toward the [6]rising of the sun, 48 [m]from Aroer, which is on the bank of the River Arnon, even to Mount [7]Sion

■ 4:30 the latter days. This phrase, repeated in 31:29, refers to any general future time of apostasy and renewal (cf. Num. 24:14).

■ 4:31 a merciful God. This description may allude to the name of God given in Ex. 34:6 ("the LORD God, merciful"). The theme of God's love for His people is highlighted in Deuteronomy (7:7–9, 13; 10:15, 18; 23:5; 33:3), anticipating the more complete revelation of God's love in the New Testament (John 3:16; Rom. 5:8; Eph. 2:4, 5; 1 John 3:1).

the covenant of your fathers. See 1:8.

■ 4:32 the day that God created man. Except for the creation account in the early chapters of Genesis, this is the only mention of the creation of man in the Pentateuch.

■ 4:34 in Egypt. A reference to the deliverance from Egypt, a topic repeatedly mentioned in Deuteronomy.

■ 4:37 His Presence. See Ex. 33:14.

■ 4:41–43 This parenthetical section, in narrative style, marks the close of the first great speech. Moses names the cities of refuge for Transjordan. The principle of having cities of refuge was given in Ex. 21:13; that there should be six was stated in Num. 35:6. This section names the three for Transjordan, while 19:1–13 specifies that three should be designated for Canaan itself. Finally, all six cities are named in Josh. 20:7, 8. This progressive unfolding is consistent with Mosaic authorship and an indication that Deuteronomy was not written after the conquest of Canaan.

■ 4:44—11:32 In this his second address (and in the section to follow, chs. 12—26), Moses expounds the way of life in the covenant. The exposition focuses on love for the Lord, love that issues in obedience and consecration, as exemplified among the Levites set apart for service to the Lord. The sermon closes with a preview of the solemn declaration of covenant obligations elaborated in chs. 27—30.

■ 4:45 testimonies . . . statutes . . . judgments. Note the use of covenantal language. This portion of Deuteronomy, with its listing of covenantal requirements, resembles the stipulation sections of ancient treaties, especially those of the second millennium B.C. (Introduction: Date and Occasion).

■ 4:48 Mount Sion. Not to be confused with Mount Zion in Jerusalem. The name "Sion" is not mentioned elsewhere; it may be a copying mistake for "Sirion," a similar term (and alternate name for Mount Hermon, 3:9) found in the Syriac translation of this verse (text note).

The Ten Commandments Reviewed

5 And Moses called all Israel, and said to them: "Hear, O Israel, the statutes and judgments which I speak in your hearing today, that you may learn them and be careful to observe them. [2] [a]The LORD our God made a covenant with us in Horeb. [3] The LORD [b]did not make this covenant with our fathers, but with us, those who are here today, all of us who are alive. [4] [c]The LORD talked with you face to face on the mountain from the midst of the fire. [5] [d]I stood between the LORD and you at that time, to declare to you the word of the LORD; for [e]you were afraid because of the fire, and you did not go up the mountain. He said:

6 [f]'I am the LORD your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of [1]bondage.

7 [g]'You shall have no other gods [2]before Me.

8 [h]'You shall not make for yourself a carved image—any likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth; [9] you shall not [i]bow[3] down to them nor serve them. For I, the LORD your God, am a jealous God, [4]visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children to the third and fourth generations of those who hate Me, [10] [j]but showing mercy to thousands, to those who love Me and [5]keep My commandments.

11 [k]'You shall not take the name of the LORD your God in vain, for the LORD will not hold him [6]guiltless who takes His name in vain.

12 [l]'Observe the Sabbath day, to [7]keep it holy, as the LORD your God commanded you. [13] [m]Six days you shall labor and do all your work, [14] but the seventh day is the [n]Sabbath of the LORD your God. In it you shall do no work: you, nor your son, nor your daughter, nor your male servant, nor your female servant, nor your ox, nor your donkey, nor any of your cattle, nor your stranger who is within your gates, that your male servant and your female servant may rest as well as you. [15] [o]And remember that you were a slave in the land of Egypt, and the LORD your God brought you out from there [p]by a mighty hand and by an outstretched arm; therefore the LORD your God commanded you to keep the Sabbath day.

16 [q]'Honor your father and your mother, as the LORD your God has commanded you, [r]that your days may be long, and that it may be well with [s]you in the land which the LORD your God is giving you.

17 [t]'You shall not murder.

18 [u]'You shall not commit adultery.

19 [v]'You shall not steal.

20 [w]'You shall not bear false witness against your neighbor.

21 [x]'You shall not covet your neighbor's wife; and you shall not desire your neighbor's house, his field, his male servant, his female servant, his ox, his donkey, or anything that is your neighbor's.'

■ 4:49 the slopes of Pisgah. See the similar area description in 3:17.

■ 5:1 Hear, O Israel. This solemn form of address to Israel is only found in Deuteronomy: first here, then in the great Shema of 6:4, and finally in the exhortation of 9:1–3. Here the foundational covenant at Mount Sinai in Horeb is recalled.

■ 5:3 not . . . with our fathers. Moses is differentiating the Sinai covenant from the promise of the land made to the patriarchs, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. It was not the patriarchs who stood before God at Sinai, but the Israelites of Moses' day (11:2 note).

■ 5:6–21 See Ex. 20:2–17 and notes.

■ 5:7 no other gods. The exalted monotheism of this commandment and of the whole Old Testament was unique in ancient times. There are no other gods (4:39), and the worship of anything other than God Himself is forbidden.

■ 5:8 a carved image. See 4:15; note on Ex. 20:4.

■ 5:10 to thousands. Whereas God's anger extends only to the third and fourth generation, His love extends to a thousand generations (7:9).

■ 5:12–15 See "God's Pattern for Worship" at 1 Chr. 16:29.

■ 5:12 Observe the Sabbath day. Most of the commandments in Deuteronomy parallel almost verbatim those in Exodus, with obvious interdependence. Deuteronomy bases this command on the deliverance from the bondage of Egypt, whereas Exodus cites God's work of creation as a basis. The continuing sabbatical principle commands a weekly day of rest. The change from the seventh day to the first day or Lord's Day by the New Testament church (Rev. 1:10), in celebration of Christ's resurrection, points to the inauguration of the new creation (1 Cor. 15:45–49; 2 Cor. 5:17; cf. Ex. 20:11), and to the believer's redemption from bondage to sin through the death and resurrection of Christ.

■ 5:16 that your days may be long. Other passages suggest that this clause may primarily be a promise of settled conditions and long peace for the people in the land, which would also include freedom from early death in war and revolution (5:33; 30:18, 20; cf. 25:15).

■ 5:22 and He added no more. Lit. "and He did not add," perhaps an idiom meaning that He spoke no more. This would fit the statement in Exodus, that the people in their fear asked that God speak no more to them directly, but only through Moses (Ex. 20:19).

fire, the cloud, and the thick darkness, with a loud voice; and He added no more. And [y]He wrote them on two tablets of stone and gave them to me.

The People Afraid of God's Presence

23 [z]"So it was, when you heard the voice from the midst of the darkness, while the mountain was burning with fire, that you came near to me, all the heads of your tribes and your elders. 24 And you said: 'Surely the LORD our God has shown us His glory and His greatness, and [a]we have heard His voice from the midst of the fire. We have seen this day that God speaks with man; yet he [b]still lives. 25 Now therefore, why should we die? For this great fire will consume us; [c]if we hear the voice of the LORD our God anymore, then we shall die. 26 [d]For who is there of all flesh who has heard the voice of the living God speaking from the midst of the fire, as we have, and lived? 27 You go near and hear all that the LORD our God may say, and [e]tell us all that the LORD our God says to you, and we will hear and do it.'

28 "Then the LORD heard the voice of your words when you spoke to me, and the LORD said to me: 'I have heard the voice of the words of this people which they have spoken to you. [f]They are right in all that they have spoken. 29 [g]Oh, that they had such a heart in them that they would fear Me and [h]always keep all My commandments, [i]that it might be well with them and with their children forever! 30 Go and say to them, "Return to your tents." 31 But as for you, stand here by Me, [j]and I will speak to you all the commandments, the statutes, and the judgments which you shall teach them, that they may observe them in the land which I am giving them to possess.'

32 "Therefore you shall [8]be careful to do as the LORD your God has commanded you; [k]you shall not turn aside to the right hand or to the left. 33 You shall walk in [l]all the ways which the LORD your God has commanded you, that you may live [m]and that it may be well with you, and that you may prolong your days in the land which you shall possess.

The Greatest Commandment

6 "Now this is [a]the commandment, and these are the statutes and judgments which the LORD your God has commanded to teach you, that you may observe them in the land which you are crossing over to possess, 2 [b]that you may fear the LORD your God, to keep all His statutes and His commandments which I command you, you and your son and your grandson, all the days of your life, [c]and that your days may be prolonged. 3 Therefore hear, O Israel, and [l]be careful to observe it, that it may be well with you, and that you may [d]multiply greatly [e]as the LORD God of your fathers has promised you—[f]'a land flowing with milk and honey.'

4 [g]"Hear, O Israel: [2]The LORD our God, the LORD is one! 5 [h]You shall love the LORD your God with all your heart, [i]with all your soul, and with all your strength.

6 "And [j]these words which I command you today shall be in your heart. 7 [k]You shall teach them diligently to your children, and shall talk of them when you sit in your house, when you walk by the way, when you lie down, and when you rise up. 8 [l]You shall bind them as a sign on your hand, and they shall be as frontlets between your eyes. 9 [m]You shall write them on the doorposts of your house and on your gates.

Caution Against Disobedience

10 "So it shall be, when the LORD your God brings you into the land of which He [3]swore to your fathers, to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, to give you large and beautiful cities [n]which you did finger of God." In addition, the tablets were inscribed on both sides (Ex. 32:15). These tablets were broken (Ex. 32:19), but new ones were made (Ex. 34:1–4, 27). Called "the Testimony," the tablets were placed in the ark of the Testimony (Ex. 25:16; 40:20), also called the "ark of the covenant" (Num. 10:33). The "Testimony" was the written record attesting the terms of the covenant (Ex. 25:16 note).

■ 6:2 days . . . prolonged. These words translate the same Hebrew phrase as in 5:33. Here also we may understand the meaning as "long life in the land."

■ 6:4 Hear, O Israel. Often called the Shema, from the initial Hebrew word meaning "Hear," this verse became the great confession of Israel's monotheistic faith, and is recited morning and evening by Jews (cf. Mark 12:29). See note on 5:1.

The LORD . . . LORD is one. Though the Hebrew may be translated several ways (text note), it is best to understand the verse as affirming both God's uniqueness and unity or singularity—the only God is "one" (Mark 12:29). As the Old Testament implies and the New Testament explicitly teaches, however, there is differentiation of Persons within the unity of the Godhead. See "One and Three: The Trinity" at Is. 44:6.

■ 6:5 all your strength. The Hebrew expresses totality. For this reason the New Testament sometimes renders it with "mind and strength" (Mark 12:30). This is the language of devotion. God does not demand mere outward obedience to a law, but the heartfelt love and commitment of the whole person (Prov. 23:26).

■ 6:7 children. See "The Christian Family" at Eph. 5:22.

■ 6:8 frontlets between your eyes. The phrases in this section are multiplied to emphasize the overall importance of God's law. Jews since the time of Christ have taken these verses literally and tie little boxes containing these verses on their arms and foreheads, and fasten them on their doorposts (cf. Matt. 23:5).

■ 6:10 the land . . . He swore to your fathers. See text note and 5:3. This is one of many references in Deuteronomy to God's solemn promise to the patriarchs.

not build, [11] houses full of all good things, which you did not fill, hewn-out wells which you did not dig, vineyards and olive trees which you did not plant—[o]when you have eaten and are full— [12] then beware, lest you forget the [p]LORD who brought you out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage. [13] You shall [q]fear the LORD your God and serve Him, and [r]shall take oaths in His name. [14] You shall not go after other gods, [s]the gods of the peoples who are all around you [15] (for [t]the LORD your God is a jealous God [u]among you), lest the anger of the LORD your God be aroused against you and destroy you from the face of the earth.

[16] [v]"You shall not [4]tempt the LORD your God [w]as you [5]tempted Him in Massah. [17] You shall [x]diligently keep the commandments of the LORD your God, His testimonies, and His statutes which He has commanded you. [18] And you [y]shall do what is right and good in the sight of the LORD, that it may be well with you, and that you may go in and possess the good land of which the LORD swore to your fathers, [19] [z]to cast out all your enemies from before you, as the LORD has spoken.

[20] [a]"When your son asks you in time to come, saying, 'What is the meaning of the testimonies, the statutes, and the judgments which the LORD our God has commanded you?' [21] then you shall say to your son: 'We were slaves of Pharaoh in Egypt, and the LORD brought us out of Egypt [b]with a mighty hand; [22] and the LORD showed signs and wonders before our eyes, great and severe, against Egypt, Pharaoh, and all his household. [23] Then He brought us out from there, that He might bring us in, to give us the land of which He [6]swore to our fathers. [24] And the LORD commanded us to [7]observe all these [8]statutes, [c]to fear the LORD our God, [d]for our good always, that [e]He might preserve us alive, as it is [9]this day. [25] Then [f]it will be righteousness for us, if we are careful to observe all these commandments before the LORD our God, as He has commanded us.'

A Chosen People

7 "When the LORD your God brings you into the land which you go to [a]possess, and has cast out many [b]nations before you, [c]the Hittites and the Girgashites and the Amorites and the Canaanites and the Perizzites and the Hivites and the Jebusites, seven nations greater and mightier than you, [2] and when the LORD your God delivers [d]them over to you, you shall conquer them and utterly destroy them. [e]You shall make no covenant with them nor show mercy to them. [3] [f]Nor shall you make marriages with them. You shall not give your daughter to their son, nor take their daughter for your son. [4] For they will turn your sons away from following Me, to serve other gods; [g]so the anger of the LORD will be aroused against you and destroy you suddenly. [5] But thus you shall deal with them: you shall [h]destroy their altars, and break down their sacred pillars, and cut down their [i]wooden images, and burn their carved images with fire.

[6] "For you are a [2]holy people to the LORD your God; [i]the LORD your God has chosen you to be a people for Himself, a special treasure above all the peoples on the face of the earth. [7] The LORD did not set His [j]love on you nor choose you because you were more in number than any other people, for you were [k]the least of all peoples; [8] but [l]because the LORD loves you, and

■ 6:13 take oaths in His name. The third commandment does not forbid taking an oath on the name of God (cf. Judg. 8:19), but forbids a false oath. Because swearing by the name of a god implied the recognition and worship of that god, the Israelites were not to swear by other gods (cf. Jer. 5:7; Zeph. 1:5).

■ 6:15 a jealous God. See note on Ex. 20:5.

■ 6:16 Massah. This word means "testing" (Ex. 17:7). Later in Old Testament history, King Ahaz of Judah cited this verse insincerely (Is. 7:12).

■ 6:20–24 See note on 4:9.

■ 6:24 to observe . . . to fear the LORD. Cf. John 14:23.

■ 7:1 cast out. See note on 2:32. Here the Israelites were specifically promised that the Lord would drive out the inhabitants.

seven nations. These seven nations are difficult to identify. In 20:17 only six nations are mentioned (as also in Ex. 3:8, 17; 13:5; 33:2; 34:11), and the Girgashites are omitted. The Jebusites inhabited Jebus, another name for Jerusalem, and there is some indication that they were Hurrians (2:10–12). Amorites are known from ancient Mesopotamia. The ancient lawgiver Hammurabi (1792–1750 B.C.) was an Amorite, as were Og and Sihon, kings of Transjordan. The word "Canaanite" sometimes seems to include them all.

■ 7:2 utterly destroy them. See note on 2:32. Some think that the God of the Old Testament was harsh and vengeful to decree the destruction of the Canaanites, but this is to forget that God is just. The sins of the land's inhabitants were extreme, and the time for judgment had come (cf. Gen. 15:16). God used Israel to punish the Canaanites, but warned that if Israel committed apostasy, leaving the God who had graciously revealed Himself to them, they too would perish (28:15–68).

■ 7:3 Nor . . . make marriages. Marriage is the closest of human ties and its sacredness was guarded in Old Testament law. The corollary is that marriage must not be contracted with unbelievers, a principle repeated in the New Testament (1 Cor. 7:39). Israel did not maintain her spiritual purity and suffered for it (Ps. 106:37–39).

■ 7:5 destroy their altars. Israel was chosen to be a holy people (v. 6), and God would not tolerate pagan religion. Although the means of separation have changed, believers today were chosen for holiness (Eph. 1:4) and are called to separate from false worship (2 Cor. 6:15–18).

■ 7:8 loves you . . . keep the oath. The election of Israel as a holy nation set apart for God (vv. 6, 7) was grounded, not in any merit or intrinsic goodness in Israel, but in God's love and in His faithfulness to the covenant promises made to the patriarchs (6:10). God's election of the church is based on His oath to Jesus, the son of Abraham, the Son of God (Ps. 110:4; John 17:6). See "God's Covenant of Grace" at Gen. 12:1.

because He would keep [m]the oath which He swore to your fathers, [n]the LORD has brought you out with a mighty hand, and redeemed you from the house of [3]bondage, from the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt.

9 "Therefore know that the LORD your God, He is God, [o]the faithful God [p]who keeps covenant and mercy for a thousand generations with those who love Him and keep His commandments; 10 and He repays those who hate Him to their face, to destroy them. He will not [4]be [q]slack with him who hates Him; He will repay him to his face. 11 Therefore you shall keep the commandment, the statutes, and the judgments which I command you today, to observe them.

Blessings of Obedience

12 "Then it shall come to pass, because you listen to these judgments, and keep and do them, that the LORD your God will keep with you the covenant and the mercy which He swore to your fathers. 13 And He will [r]love you and bless you and [5]multiply you; [s]He will also bless the fruit of your womb and the fruit of your land, your grain and your new wine and your oil, the increase of your cattle and the offspring of your flock, in the land of which He [6]swore to your fathers to give you. 14 You shall be blessed above all peoples; there shall not be a male or female [t]barren among you or among your livestock. 15 And the LORD will take away from you all sickness, and will afflict you with none of the [u]terrible diseases of Egypt which you have known, but will lay them on all those who hate you. 16 Also you shall [7]destroy all the peoples whom the LORD your God delivers over to you; your eye shall have no pity on them; nor shall you serve their gods, for that will [v]be a snare to you.

17 "If you should say in your heart, 'These nations are greater than I; how can I dispossess them?'— 18 you shall not be afraid of them, but you shall [w]remember well what the LORD your God did to Pharaoh and to all Egypt: 19 [x]the great trials which your eyes saw, the signs and the wonders, the mighty hand and the outstretched arm, by which the LORD your God brought you out. So shall the LORD your God do to all the peoples of whom you are afraid. 20 [y]Moreover the LORD your God will send the hornet among them until those who are left, who hide themselves from you, are destroyed. 21 You shall not be terrified of them; for the LORD your God, the great and awesome God, is among you. 22 And the LORD your God will drive out those nations before you [z]little by little; you will be unable to [8]destroy them at once, lest the beasts of the field become too numerous for you. 23 But the LORD your God will deliver them over to you, and will inflict defeat upon them until they are destroyed. 24 And [a]He will deliver their kings into your hand, and you will destroy their name from under heaven; [b]no one shall be able to stand [9]against you until you have destroyed them. 25 You shall burn the carved images of their gods with fire; you shall not [c]covet[1] the silver or gold that is on them, nor take it for yourselves, lest you be snared by it; for it is an abomination to the LORD your God. 26 Nor shall you bring an abomination into your house, lest you be doomed to destruction like it. You shall utterly detest it and utterly abhor it, [d]for it is an [2]accursed thing.

Remember the LORD Your God

8 "Every commandment which I command you today [a]you must [1]be careful to observe, that you may live and [b]multiply,[2] and go in and possess the land of which the LORD [3]swore to your fathers. 2 And you shall remember that the LORD your God [c]led you all the way these forty years in the wilderness, to humble you and [d]test you, [e]to know what was in your heart, whether you would keep His commandments or not. 3 So He humbled you, [f]allowed you to hunger, and grain . . . new wine . . . oil. The three staples of the ancient agricultural economy, here symbolic of prosperity (11:14; 14:23; 18:4). "New wine" here is not the aged and fermented product, but the grape juice as it came fresh from the presses (Prov. 3:10); the "oil" is the olive oil used in cooking and lamps.

■ 7:15 the terrible diseases of Egypt. The same promise of health is given in Ex. 15:26, and the converse is given as a curse in Deut. 28:60. The dietary laws provided Israel with some protection against common parasites that were rife in Egypt.

■ 7:19 your eyes saw. See note on 5:3.

■ 7:20 God will send the hornet. The Hebrew word for "hornet" is from the same root as "leprosy" or "skin disease" (Lev. 14:3 text note). Here it may mean "God will send distress." But the figure of stinging insects chasing the enemy is used elsewhere (1:44; Is. 7:18), and the metaphor of a hornet is quite appropriate (Ex. 23:28 note). God promises to fight for His people with the same power He manifested in the Exodus (v. 18).

■ 7:21 great and awesome. See "The Greatness of God" at 1 Chr. 29:11.

■ 7:26 it is an accursed thing. See text note; note on 20:17. Another call for utter hatred of pagan idolatry. But the idols were often made of gold and were valuable. The precious metal was under the ban (Hebrew herem); the idols were to be destroyed, and what could pass through the fire was to be given to the Lord (Josh. 6:18, 19).

■ 8:3 manna which you did not know. The initial giving of manna is mentioned in Ex. 16:15, its cessation in Josh. 5:12. God chose to sustain His people in the desert by a means previously unknown to them.

[g]fed you with manna which you did not know nor did your fathers know, that He might make you know that man shall [h]not live by bread alone; but man lives by every word that proceeds from the mouth of the LORD. 4 [i]Your garments did not wear out on you, nor did your foot swell these forty years. 5 [j]You should [4]know in your heart that as a man chastens his son, so the LORD your God chastens you.

6 "Therefore you shall keep the commandments of the LORD your God, [k]to walk in His ways and to fear Him. 7 For the LORD your God is bringing you into a good land, [l]a land of brooks of water, of fountains and springs, that flow out of valleys and hills; 8 a land of wheat and barley, of vines and fig trees and pomegranates, a land of olive oil and honey; 9 a land in which you will eat bread without scarcity, in which you will lack nothing; a land whose stones are iron and out of whose hills you can dig copper. 10 [m]When you have eaten and are full, then you shall bless the LORD your God for the good land which He has given you.

11 "Beware that you do not forget the LORD your God by not keeping His commandments, His judgments, and His statutes which I command you today, 12 [n]lest—when you have eaten and are [5]full, and have built beautiful houses and dwell in them; 13 and when your herds and your flocks multiply, and your silver and your gold are [6]multiplied, and all that you have is multiplied; 14 [o]when your heart [7]is lifted up, and you [p]forget the LORD your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage; 15 who [q]led you through that great and terrible wilderness, [r]in which were fiery serpents and scorpions and thirsty land where there was no water; [s]who brought water for you out of the flinty rock; 16 who fed you in the wilderness with [t]manna, which your fathers did not know, that He might humble you and that He might test you, [u]to do you good in the end— 17 then you say in your heart, 'My power and the might of my hand have gained me this wealth.'

18 "And you shall remember the LORD your God, [v]for it is He who gives you power to get wealth, [w]that He may [8]establish His covenant which He swore to your fathers, as it is this day. 19 Then it shall be, if you by any means forget the LORD your God, and follow other gods, and serve them and worship them, [x]I testify against you this day that you shall surely perish. 20 As the nations which the LORD destroys before you, [y]so you shall perish, because you would not be obedient to the voice of the LORD your God.

Israel's Rebellions Reviewed

9 "Hear, O Israel: You are to cross over the Jordan today, and go in to dispossess nations greater and mightier than yourself, cities great and fortified up to heaven, 2 a people great and tall, the [a]descendants of the Anakim, whom you know, and of whom you heard it said, 'Who can stand before the descendants of Anak?' 3 Therefore understand today that the LORD your God is He who [b]goes over before you as a [c]consuming fire. [d]He will destroy them and bring them down before you; [e]so you shall drive them out and destroy them quickly, as the LORD has said to you.

Through this miraculous provision God humbled the people (by challenging their self-sufficiency) and tested their obedience (v. 16; cf. Ex. 16:16–30).

man shall not live by bread alone. See Matt. 4:4; Luke 4:4.

every word that proceeds from the mouth of the LORD. Even more basic to life than physical food is the sustaining word of God (Heb. 1:3).

■ 8:4 Your garments did not wear out. This miraculous preservation is mentioned also in 29:5, but not elsewhere.

■ 8:5 as a man chastens his son. God let them hunger that He might show them His supply (v. 3). Discipline usually includes initial difficulty followed by blessing (Prov. 3:11, 12; Heb. 12:5, 6).

■ 8:7–9 a good land . . . iron . . . copper. The description is more extensive than the familiar "flowing with milk and honey" found in Exodus, Leviticus, and frequently in Deuteronomy. Palestine certainly had more variety and more rainfall than the flat land of Goshen, but today much of the land is arid. The climate may have been different then, for a small difference in rainfall can significantly affect productivity. The land today has suffered from years of mismanagement—modern hills that were forested within recent memory are now barren. In Assyrian reliefs from about 800 B.C., Israel is depicted with lush vines and grapes, and there is no reason to deny the characterization of the land as pleasant (11:9–12).

■ 8:9 whose stones are iron. The Iron Age (c. 1200–300 B.C.) came to Palestine after Moses died (c. 1406 B.C.), but iron was known before that. Inventories in ancient Ugarit (c. 1400 B.C.) mention two talents of iron. The copper mines of the Sinai Peninsula and the area of south Transjordan were a valuable resource in antiquity, and probably were a source of Solomon's wealth.

■ 8:19 if you by any means forget. Continuing fidelity is the requirement for blessing. Israel without God was no better than the pagans. But God will keep His covenant with the fathers and save a remnant chosen by grace (v. 18; Rom. 11:28, 29).

■ 9:1 Hear, O Israel. See note on 5:1. In this long section of exhortation (9:1—11:32), Moses turns toward the future. In the forthcoming conquest of Canaan, God will go before them (v. 3).

■ 9:2 the Anakim. See 1:28; 2:21. The Anakim had frightened the faithless spies forty years earlier (Num. 13:22, 28).

■ 9:4 Because of my righteousness. Note the threefold emphasis in this section (vv. 4–6) that the victory was not because of Israel's goodness, but was entirely the work of God's grace. Repetition was characteristic of Hebrew literature, and aided learning and memorization. Genesis 21:1 is a prime example of this characteristic, misunderstood by critics who insist that ancient Near Eastern literature should resemble the crisp economy that ideally characterizes modern Western journalism. This

'Because of my righteousness the LORD has brought me in to possess this land'; but it is [g]because of the wickedness of these nations that the LORD is driving them out from before you. 5 [h]It is not because of your righteousness or the uprightness of your heart that you go in to possess their land, but because of the wickedness of these nations that the LORD your God drives them out from before you, and that He may [i]fulfill the [j]word which the LORD swore to your fathers, to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. 6 Therefore understand that the LORD your God is not giving you this good land to possess because of your righteousness, for you are a [k]stiff-necked[2] people.

7 "Remember! Do not forget how you [l]provoked the LORD your God to wrath in the wilderness. [m]From the day that you departed from the land of Egypt until you came to this place, you have been rebellious against the LORD. 8 Also [n]in Horeb you provoked the LORD to wrath, so that the LORD was angry enough with you to have destroyed you. 9 [o]When I went up into the mountain to receive the tablets of stone, the tablets of the covenant which the LORD made with you, then I stayed on the mountain forty days and [p]forty nights. I neither ate bread nor drank water. 10 [q]Then the LORD delivered to me two tablets of stone written with the finger of God, and on them were all the words which the LORD had spoken to you on the mountain from the midst of the fire [r]in[3] the day of the assembly. 11 And it came to pass, at the end of forty days and forty nights, that the LORD gave me the two tablets of stone, the tablets of the covenant.

12 "Then the LORD said to me, [s]'Arise, go down quickly from here, for your people whom you brought out of Egypt have acted corruptly; they have [t]quickly turned aside from the way which I commanded them; they have made themselves a molded image.'

13 "Furthermore [u]the LORD spoke to me, saying, 'I have seen this people, and indeed [v]they are a [w]stiff-necked people. 14 [x]Let Me alone, that I may destroy them and [y]blot out their name from under heaven; [z]and I will make of you a nation mightier and greater than they.'

15 [a]"So I turned and came down from the mountain, and [b]the mountain burned with fire; and the two tablets of the covenant were in my two hands. 16 And [c]I looked, and behold, you had sinned against the LORD your God—had made for yourselves a molded calf! You had turned aside quickly from the way which the LORD had commanded you. 17 Then I took the two tablets and threw them out of my two hands and [d]broke them before your eyes. 18 And I [e]fell[5] down before the LORD, as at the first, forty days and forty nights; I neither ate bread nor drank water, because of all your sin which you committed in doing wickedly in the sight of the LORD, to provoke Him to anger. 19 [f]For I was afraid of the anger and hot displeasure with which the LORD was angry with you, to destroy you. [g]But the LORD listened to me at that time also. 20 And the LORD was very angry with Aaron and would have destroyed him; so I prayed for Aaron also at the same time. 21 Then I took your sin, the calf which you had made, and burned it with fire and crushed it and ground it very small, until it was as fine as dust; and I [h]threw its dust into the brook that descended from the mountain.

22 "Also at [i]Taberah and [j]Massah and [k]Kibroth Hattaavah you [l]provoked the LORD to wrath. 23 Likewise, [m]when the LORD sent you from Kadesh Barnea, saying, 'Go up and possess the land which I have given you,' then you rebelled against the commandment of the LORD your God, and [n]you did not believe Him nor obey His voice. 24 [o]You have been rebellious against the LORD from the day that I knew you.

25 [p]"Thus I [7]prostrated myself before the LORD; forty days and forty nights I kept prostrating myself, because the LORD had said He would destroy you. 26 Therefore I prayed to the LORD, and said: 'O Lord GOD, do not destroy Your people and [q]Your inheritance whom You have redeemed through Your greatness, whom You have brought out of Egypt with a mighty hand. 27 Remember Your servants, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; do not look on the stubbornness of this people, or on their wickedness or their sin, 28 lest the land from which You brought us should say, "Because the LORD was not able to bring them to the land which He promised them, and because He hated them, He has brought them out to kill them in the wilderness." 29 Yet they are Your people and Your inheritance, whom You brought out by Your mighty power and by Your outstretched arm.'

prejudice has led to the unwarranted conclusion that the Pentateuch must be the product of "cutting and pasting" documents from different authors.

■ 9:9 I went up into the mountain. Moses retells the story given in Exodus (Ex. 24:12, 18; 32:7–10, 15–20).

■ 9:21 the brook that descended from the mountain. Today no stream flows down from Jebel Musa, the peak often identified as Mount Sinai (Ex. 16:1 note). The ground has some moisture, and low bushes grow, but the mention of a stream implies that in Moses' time there was more rainfall than now (8:7–9 note).

■ 9:22 Taberah. See Num. 11:3. On Massah, see 6:16 and Ex. 17:7. On Kibroth Hattaavah, see Num. 11:34.

■ 9:23 you rebelled. The sheer persistence in rebellion by the Israelites (v. 24) points to the importance of Moses' intercession (vv. 25–28; Ex. 32:11–13) and to the gracious power of God, who remains faithful to His covenant despite the failings of the people (v. 29).

The Second Pair of Tablets

10 "At that time the LORD said to me, [1] 'Hew for yourself two tablets of stone like the first, and come up to Me on the mountain and make yourself an [a]ark of wood. [2] And I will write on the tablets the words that were on the first tablets, which you broke; and [b]you shall put them in the ark.'

[3] "So I made an ark of acacia wood, hewed two tablets of stone like the first, and went up the mountain, having the two tablets in my hand. [4] And He wrote on the tablets according to the first writing, the Ten [2]Commandments, [c]which the LORD had spoken to you in the mountain from the midst of the fire in the day of the assembly; and the LORD gave them to me. [5] Then I turned and [d]came down from the mountain, and [e]put the tablets in the ark which I had made; [f]and there they are, just as the LORD commanded me."

[6] (Now the children of Israel journeyed from the wells of Bene Jaakan to Moserah, where Aaron [g]died, and where he was buried; and Eleazar his son ministered as priest in his [3]stead. [7] [h]From there they journeyed to Gudgodah, and from Gudgodah to Jotbathah, a land of [4]rivers of water. [8] At that time [i]the LORD [5]separated the tribe of Levi [j]to bear the ark of the covenant of the LORD, [k]to stand before the LORD to minister to Him and [l]to bless in His name, to this day. [9] [m]Therefore Levi has no portion nor inheritance with his brethren; the LORD is his inheritance, just as the LORD your God promised him.)

[10] "As at the first time, [n]I stayed in the mountain forty days and forty nights; [o]the LORD also heard me at that time, and the LORD chose not to destroy you. [11] [p]Then the LORD said to me, 'Arise, begin your journey before the people, that they may go in and possess the land which I swore to their fathers to give them.'

The Essence of the Law

[12] "And now, Israel, [q]what does the LORD your God require of you, but to fear the LORD your God, to walk in all His ways and to [r]love Him, to serve the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul, [13] and to keep the commandments of the LORD and His statutes which I command you today [s]for your [6]good? [14] Indeed heaven and the highest heavens belong to the [t]LORD your God, also the earth with all that is in it. [15] The LORD delighted only in your fathers, to love them; and He chose their [7]descendants after them, you above all peoples, as it is this day. [16] Therefore circumcise the foreskin of your [u]heart, and be [v]stiff-necked[8] no longer. [17] For the LORD your God is [w]God of gods and [x]Lord of lords, the great God, [y]mighty and awesome, who [z]shows no partiality nor takes a bribe. [18] [a]He administers justice for the fatherless and the

■ 10:1–5 Summarizing the material in Ex. 34:1–4 and 40:20, Moses here telescopes the receiving of the commandments and the building of the ark. Moses was twice on the Mount. He received the directions for the tabernacle the first time. It and its furniture were built after Moses came down the second time. The tablets were put in the ark when the tabernacle was set up, as mentioned in Ex. 40:20.

■ 10:1 two tablets of stone. It has generally been assumed that the law was written once, the material taking up two tablets or a double tablet. More recently, some have suggested that there were two tablets, each a separate copy of the law. This would reflect the ancient practice of providing each treaty partner with a copy of the agreement. Because the ark was both the place of God's presence with His people, and the focal point of Israel's worship, it was appropriate for both copies of the covenantal terms to be housed in the ark. See note on Ex. 31:18.

■ 10:4 the Ten Commandments. See note on 4:13.

■ 10:6–9 Some have suggested that this parenthetical section breaks the narrative and is, therefore, a later insertion. It is evident, however, that this section serves to tie together a number of themes from the preceding context: Aaron's role in the golden calf incident, for which he was threatened with death that was averted only by Moses' intercession (9:20); the impending possession of the land (9:1–4), in which the Levites would not participate because the Lord was their inheritance (v. 9; cf. 9:29); and the ark (vv. 1–5), which the Levites were to tend (v. 8).

The journeys in vv. 6, 7 appear to correspond to Num. 33:31–33. These movements are difficult to interpret because we can identify only a few of the places mentioned.

■ 10:6 Moserah, where Aaron died. This mention of Aaron's death underscores the effectiveness of Moses' intercession (9:20). Aaron was not killed at Sinai, but lived until the fortieth year after the Exodus (Num. 33:38).

■ 10:8 At that time. This does not refer to the time of Aaron's death (v. 6) or to the events of v. 7, but to the time of the revelation at Sinai (Ex. 28; 29).

■ 10:11 to their fathers. To the patriarchs (9:5; Ex. 33:1).

■ 10:12 what does the LORD your God require of you. This rhetorical question resembles the much-quoted Mic. 6:8, which calls us to justice, mercy, and humility in our walk with God (cf. Matt. 23:23). To walk with God requires that we love Him with all our being and keep His commandments—love and obedience go together (John 14:23). To love God with our whole being is the greatest commandment (Deut. 6:5; Mark 12:29–34).

■ 10:15 you above all. The contrast is a noble one, between God's sovereignty over and common grace to all creation (v. 14), and His special electing love for the patriarchs and the nation (v. 15).

■ 10:16 Therefore circumcise . . . your heart. This verse (along with Deut. 30:6 and Jer. 4:4) is an effective answer to those who imagine that the Old Testament teaches merely a religion of outward form. Circumcision was a symbol, a sacrament, an outward sign of an inward grace. Apart from this, as Paul indicates, circumcision was of no saving significance. True circumcision is "of the heart, in the Spirit, not in the letter" (Rom. 2:29).

■ 10:18 He administers justice. The Lord of surpassing greatness and sovereignty ("God of gods and Lord of lords," v. 17) is also revealed to be the supremely compassionate God, with deep concern for the least in human society: the fatherless, the widow, and the alien. In this He is our example (v. 19).

widow, and loves the stranger, giving him food and clothing. [19] Therefore love the stranger, for you were strangers in the land of Egypt. [20] [b]You shall fear the LORD your God; you shall serve Him, and to Him you shall hold fast, and take oaths in His name. [21] He is your praise, and He is your God, who has done for you these great and awesome things which your eyes have seen. [22] Your fathers went down to Egypt with seventy persons, and now the LORD your God has made you as the stars of heaven in multitude.

Love and Obedience Rewarded

11 "Therefore you shall love the LORD your God, and keep His charge, His statutes, His judgments, and His commandments always. [2] Know today that I do not speak with your children, who have not known and who have not seen the [1]chastening of the LORD your God, His greatness and His mighty hand and His outstretched arm— [3] His signs and His acts which He did in the midst of Egypt, to Pharaoh king of Egypt, and to all his land; [4] what He did to the army of Egypt, to their horses and their chariots: [a]how He made the waters of the Red Sea overflow them as they pursued you, and how the LORD has destroyed them to this day; [5] what He did for you in the wilderness until you came to this place; [6] and [b]what He did to Dathan and Abiram the sons of Eliab, the son of Reuben: how the earth opened its mouth and swallowed them up, their households, their tents, and all the substance that was [2]in their possession, in the midst of all Israel— [7] but your eyes have [c]seen every great [3]act of the LORD which He did.

[8] "Therefore you shall keep every commandment which I command you today, that you may [d]be strong, and go in and possess the land which you cross over to possess, [9] and [e]that you may prolong your days in the land [f]which the LORD [4]swore to give your fathers, to them and their descendants, [g]'a land flowing with milk and honey.' [10] For the land which you go to possess is not like the land of Egypt from which you have come, where you sowed your seed and watered it by foot, as a vegetable garden; [11] [h]but the land which you cross over to possess is a land of hills and valleys, which drinks water from the rain of heaven, [12] a land for which the LORD your God cares; [i]the eyes of the LORD your God are always on it, from the beginning of the year to the very end of the year.

[13] 'And it shall be that if you earnestly [5]obey My commandments which I command you today, to love the LORD your God and serve Him with all your heart and with all your soul, [14] then [j][6]I will give you the rain for your land in its season, [k]the early rain and the latter rain, that you may gather in your grain, your new wine, and your oil. [15] [l]And I will send grass in your fields for your livestock, that you may [m]eat and be [7]filled.' [16] Take heed to yourselves, [n]lest your heart be deceived, and you turn aside and [o]serve other gods and worship them, [17] lest [p]the LORD's anger be aroused against you, and He [q]shut up the heavens so that there be no rain, and the land yield no produce, and [r]you perish quickly from the good land which the LORD is giving you.

[18] "Therefore [s]you shall [8]lay up these words of mine in your heart and in your [t]soul, and [u]bind them as a sign on your hand, and they shall be as frontlets between your eyes. [19] [v]You shall teach them to your children, speaking of them when you sit in your house, when you walk by the way, when you lie down, and when you rise up. [20] [w]And you shall write them on the doorposts of your house and on your gates, [21] that [x]your days and the days of your children may be multiplied in the land of which the LORD swore to your fathers to give them, like [y]the days of the heavens above the earth.

■ 10:22 seventy. See note on Ex. 1:5. Mention of the number who went into Egypt emphasizes God's great love in increasing Israel's population to nearly two million.

■ 11:2 your children. Since the people had seen God's wonderful deliverance (v. 8), they should therefore obey God's commands all the more faithfully. In his mention of "children," it does not seem that Moses distinguishes the adults over age forty in his audience, who had seen the Exodus, from the youths who had not. The younger generation also had seen God's preserving care and discipline in the desert (vv. 5, 6). Probably, therefore, Moses is distinguishing the current generation to which he was speaking from their children yet to be born.

■ 11:6 Dathan and Abiram. Moses distinguishes Dathan and Abiram from Korah. Likewise, Ps. 106:17 does not include Korah with those buried alive. This distinction is not because the information about Korah belongs to a later time of writing, as some have held; rather, this distinction by Moses is precise. Closer reading of the record in Num. 16:16–35 shows that Korah was at the tabernacle among the two hundred fifty men with censers. Dathan and Abiram, who were not Levites, were in front of their tents with their families when the earth swallowed them up, and Korah's family with them. But Korah himself perished with the two hundred fifty in the fire from the Lord.

■ 11:9 prolong your days in the land. See note on 5:16.

■ 11:10 watered it by foot. The precise detail of this allusion is unclear. It may refer to the sluice gates of irrigation canals (which were often opened by the gardener's foot), or to the burdensome practice of carrying water by bucket. In contrast to the Promised Land, which had sufficient rainfall for agriculture (vv. 9, 11), arid Egypt depended heavily upon irrigation for farming.

■ 11:13 with all your heart. The command to love the Lord "with all your heart" (6:5) is echoed in Deuteronomy at least six times.

■ 11:14 grain . . . new wine . . . oil. See note on 7:13.

■ 11:19 teach them to your children. See note on 4:9, and the similar exhortations and metaphors in 6:6–9.

22 "For if [z]you carefully keep all these commandments which I command you to do—to love the LORD your God, to walk in all His ways, and [a]to hold fast to Him— 23 then the LORD will [b]drive out all these nations from before you, and you will [c]dispossess greater and mightier nations than yourselves. 24 [d]Every place on which the sole of your foot treads shall be yours: [e]from the wilderness and Lebanon, from the river, the River Euphrates, even to the [g]Western Sea, shall be your territory. 25 No man shall be able to [f]stand [1]against you; the LORD your God will put the [g]dread of you and the fear of you upon all the land where you tread, just as He has said to you.
26 [h]"Behold, I set before you today a blessing and a curse: 27 [i]the blessing, if you obey the commandments of the LORD your God which I command you today; 28 and the [j]curse, if you do not obey the commandments of the LORD your God, but turn aside from the way which I command you today, to go after other gods which you have not known. 29 Now it shall be, when the LORD your God has brought you into the land which you go to possess, that you shall put the [k]blessing on Mount Gerizim and the [l]curse on Mount Ebal. 30 Are they not on the other side of Gilgal, [m]beside the terebinth trees of Moreh? 31 For you will cross over the Jordan and go in to possess the land which the LORD your God is giving you, and you will possess it and dwell in it.

32 And you shall be careful to observe all the statutes and judgments which I set before you today.

A Prescribed Place of Worship

12 "These [a]are the statutes and judgments which you shall be careful to observe in the land which the LORD God of your fathers is giving you to possess, [b]all[1] the days that you live on the earth. 2 [c]You shall utterly destroy all the places where the nations which you shall dispos-sess served their gods, [d]on the high mountains and on the hills and under every green tree. 3 And [e]you shall destroy their altars, break their sacred pillars, and burn their [2]wooden images with fire; you shall cut down the carved images of their gods and destroy their names from that place.
4 You shall not [f]worship the LORD your God with such things.
5 "But you shall seek the [g]place where the LORD your God chooses, out of all your tribes, to put His name for His [h]dwelling[3] place; and there you shall go. 6 [i]There you shall take your burnt offerings, your sacrifices, your tithes, the heave offerings of your hand, your vowed offerings, your freewill offerings, and the [j]firstborn of your herds and flocks. 7 And [k]there you shall eat before the LORD your God, and [l]you shall rejoice in [4]all to which you have put your hand, you and your households, in which the LORD your God has blessed you.
8 "You shall not at all do as we are doing here today—[m]every man doing whatever is right in his own eyes— 9 for as yet you have not come to the [n]rest[5] and the inheritance which the LORD your God is giving you. 10 But when you cross over the Jordan and dwell in the land which the LORD your God is giving you to inherit, and He gives you [o]rest from all your enemies round about, so that you dwell in safety, 11 then there will be the place where the LORD your God chooses to make His name abide. There you shall bring all that I command you: your burnt

■ 11:24 Every place . . . your foot treads. The same expression and the same boundaries of Canaan are repeated in Josh. 1:3–5. Because the boundaries need to include a southern limit, "wilderness" probably means the Sinai Desert. The boundaries include all of modern Israel and Lebanon, together with part of Syria.

■ 11:26 a blessing and a curse. This introduction to the ceremony of blessing and cursing that was to take place at Ebal and Gerizim is reiterated in Deut. 30:19 at the end of Moses' speech. Under divine inspiration, Moses emphasizes the people's obligation to love God and obey His commands.

■ 11:29 Mount Gerizim . . . Mount Ebal. The details of this ceremony are provided in chs. 27; 28; the ceremony itself was performed according to Moses' direction by Joshua (Josh. 8:30–35). The phrases "on the other side of the Jordan, toward the setting sun" (v. 30) point to a location in Canaan (i.e., west of the Jordan). According to Gen. 12:6, the "terebinth trees of Moreh" are near Shechem. The precise location of Gilgal is uncertain, but it seems to have been near Jericho (Josh. 4:19). The Canaanites inhabited this whole territory, and there is no reason to doubt the usual identification of these mountains as the two mountains near Shechem astride the main north-south road.

■ 12:1—26:19 Moses continues to expound the covenant way of life, reiterating laws governing Israel's worship and conduct. The laws pertain to topics from idolatry to tithes, from priests to divorce, from nations to the individual. The section concludes with exhortations to obey the Lord, who is both Redeemer and King.

■ 12:5 the place where the LORD your God chooses. This passage has been used to argue that Deuteronomy was written in the sixth century B.C. so as to support Josiah's centralization of worship at Jerusalem in that period (Introduction: Date and Occasion). But that view, which presupposes an evolutionary theory of the development of Israelite religion, misreads this verse. The reference here to "the place" certainly need not imply that the location of the temple in Jerusalem was known when this text was written. In the course of Israel's history, worship of the Lord was successively centered in several places: Shiloh (Josh. 18:1) and Gibeon (1 Chr. 16:39), as well as later in Jerusalem. The stress here is on the contrast between "the place . . . the LORD your God chooses" and "the places where the nations . . . served their gods" (v. 2). Purity of worship in obedience to divine command, rather than centralization, is primarily in view.

■ 12:7 eat . . . rejoice. Some sacrifices were shared by priests and worshipers. The worship of Israel was holy, reverent, and joyful. The worship of a holy God involved repentance and cleansing, but the redeemed heart was full of joy and praise. The Book of Psalms frequently expresses such joyful devotion.

offerings, your sacrifices, your tithes, the heave offerings of your hand, and all your choice offerings which you vow to the LORD. 12 And [p]you shall rejoice before the LORD your God, you and your sons and your daughters, your male and female servants, and the [q]Levite who is within your gates, since he has no portion nor inheritance with you. 13 Take heed to yourself that you do not offer your burnt offerings in every place that you see; 14 but in the place which the LORD chooses, in one of your tribes, there you shall offer your burnt offerings, and there you shall do all that I command you.

15 "However, [r]you may slaughter and eat meat within all your gates, whatever your heart desires, according to the blessing of the LORD your God which He has given you; [s]the unclean and the clean may eat of it, [t]of the gazelle and the deer alike. 16 [u]Only you shall not eat the blood; you shall pour it on the earth like water. 17 You may not eat within your gates the tithe of your grain or your new wine or your oil, of the firstborn of your herd or your flock, of any of your offerings which you vow, of your freewill offerings, or of the [6]heave offering of your hand. 18 But you must eat them before the LORD your God in the place which the LORD your God chooses, you and your son and your daughter, your male servant and your female servant, and the Levite who is within your gates; and you shall rejoice before the LORD your God in [7]all to which you put your hands. 19 [8]Take heed to yourself that you do not forsake the Levite as long as you live in your land.

20 "When the LORD your God [v]enlarges your border as He has promised you, and you say, 'Let me eat meat,' because you long to eat meat, you may eat as much meat as your heart desires. 21 If the place where the LORD your God chooses to put His name is too far from [w]you, then you may slaughter from your herd and from your flock which the LORD has given you, just as I have commanded you, and you may eat within your gates as much as your heart desires. 22 Just as the gazelle and the deer are eaten, so you may eat them; the unclean and the clean alike may eat them. 23 Only be sure that you do not eat the blood, [x]for the blood is the life; you may not eat the life with the meat. 24 You shall not eat it; you shall pour it on the earth like water. 25 You shall not eat it, [y]that it may go well with you and your children after you, [z]when you do what is right in the sight of the LORD. 26 Only the [a]holy things which you have, and your vowed offerings, you shall take and go to the place which the LORD chooses. 27 And [b]you shall offer your burnt offerings, the meat and the blood, on the altar of the LORD your God; and the blood of your sacrifices shall be poured out on the altar of the LORD your God, and you shall eat the meat. 28 Observe and obey all these words which I command you, [c]that it may go well with you and your children after you forever, when you do what is good and right in the sight of the LORD your God.

Beware of False Gods

29 "When [d]the LORD your God cuts off from before you the nations which you go to dispossess, and you displace them and dwell in their land, 30 take heed to yourself that you are not ensnared to follow them, after they are destroyed from before you, and that you do not inquire after their gods, saying, 'How did these nations serve their gods? I also will do likewise.' 31 [e]You shall not worship the LORD your God in that way; for every [9]abomination to the LORD which He hates they have done to their gods; for [f]they burn even their sons and daughters in the fire to their gods.

32 "Whatever I command you, be careful to observe it; [g]you shall not add to it nor take away from it.

■ 12:12 no . . . inheritance. The gifts of the worshipers were, in part, to support the priests and Levites, who were allotted no farmland of their own (10:6–9).

■ 12:15 slaughter . . . within all your gates. The same rule is given in vv. 20, 21. They could slaughter for meat anywhere, but sacrificial meat and foodstuffs devoted to God could only be eaten at the central place of worship. See note on Lev. 17:3.

■ 12:21 If the place . . . is too far. See 14:24–26.

■ 12:23 the blood is the life. The same principle is given in Gen. 9:4 and Lev. 17:10–14. The treatment of the blood in the sacrificial system shows that it stood for the life of the animal. When the blood is gone, the life is gone. When blood was sprinkled on the altar, innocent life was shed for a guilty sinner. The Old Testament sacrifices show a theology of substitution of the innocent for the guilty. This theology was incomplete, because an animal, no matter how perfect, is by no means as valuable as the human soul (Mic. 6:6, 7). The resolution is found most clearly in Is. 53:10 where the innocent Servant of the Lord dies as a sin offering (cf. John 1:29).

■ 12:31 they burn even their sons and daughters. Child sacrifice was common in ancient times, especially in the Phoenician colony of Carthage in North Africa. In ancient pagan cultures, children were sometimes sacrificed in times of great need as an expression of devotion to a god (2 Kin. 3:27). Even some Israelites at times engaged in this detestable practice (Judg. 11:30–40; Ps. 106:34–39; Jer. 7:31).

Punishment of Apostates

13 "If there arises among you a prophet or a [a]dreamer of dreams, [b]and he gives you a sign or a wonder, [2] and [c]the sign or the wonder comes to pass, of which he spoke to you, saying, 'Let us go after other gods'—which you have not known—'and let us serve them,' [3] you shall not listen to the words of that prophet or that dreamer of dreams, for the LORD your God [d]is testing you to know whether you love the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul. [4] You shall [e]walk[1] after the LORD your God and fear Him, and keep His commandments and obey His voice; you shall serve Him and [f]hold fast to Him. [5] But [g]that prophet or that dreamer of dreams shall be put to death, because he has spoken in order to turn you away from the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt and redeemed you from the house of bondage, to entice you from the way in which the LORD your God commanded you to walk. [h]So you shall [2]put away the evil from your midst.

[6] [i]"If your brother, the son of your mother, your son or your daughter, [j]the wife [3]of your bosom, or your friend [k]who is as your own soul, secretly entices you, saying, 'Let us go and serve other gods,' which you have not known, neither you nor your fathers, [7] of the gods of the people which are all around you, near to you or far off from you, from one end of the earth to the other end of the earth, [8] you shall [l]not [4]consent to him or listen to him, nor shall your eye pity him, nor shall you spare him or conceal him; [9] but you shall surely kill him; your hand shall be first against him to put him to [m]death, and afterward the hand of all the people. [10] And you shall stone him with stones until he dies, because he sought to entice you away from the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage. [11] So all Israel shall hear and [n]fear, and not again do such wickedness as this among you.

The Three Purposes of the Law

Scripture shows that God intends His law to function in three ways, which Calvin crystallized in classic form for the church's benefit as the law's threefold use.

Its first function is to be a mirror reflecting to us both the perfect righteousness of God and our own sinfulness and shortcomings. As Augustine wrote, "the law bids us, as we try to fulfill its requirements, and become wearied in our weakness under it, to know how to ask the help of grace." The law is meant to give knowledge of sin (Rom. 3:20; 4:15; 5:13; 7:7–11), and by showing us our need of pardon and our danger of damnation to lead us in repentance and faith to Christ (Gal. 3:19–24).

A second function, the "civil use," is to restrain evil. Though the law cannot change the heart, it can to some extent inhibit lawlessness by its threats of judgment, especially when backed by a civil code that administers punishment for proven offenses (Deut. 13:6–11; 19:16–21; Rom. 13:3, 4). Thus it secures civil order, and serves to protect the righteous from the unjust.

Its third function is to guide the regenerate into the good works that God has planned for them (Eph. 2:10). The law tells God's children what will please their heavenly Father. It could be called their family code. Christ was speaking of this third use of the law when He said that those who become His disciples must be taught to do all that He had commanded (Matt. 28:20), and that obedience to His commands will prove the reality of one's love for Him (John 14:15). The Christian is free from the law as a system of salvation (Rom. 6:14; 7:4, 6; 1 Cor. 9:20; Gal. 2:15–19; 3:25), but is "under law toward Christ" as a rule of life (1 Cor. 9:21; Gal. 6:2). □

■ 13:1–18 Moses issues warnings against apostasy in ch. 13. The first (vv. 1–5) concerns false prophets. The other sections warn against a near relative who tempts to apostasy (vv. 6–11) and the apostasy of a whole town (vv. 12–18). In each case, the penalty is death.

■ 13:1–5 The caution against a false prophet is given to emphasize that even though a prophet seems to carry impressive credentials, the theological test is still crucial. No true prophet could possibly advance a false religion, since Israel's God is the true and only God. All other gods are the creations of men. Those who follow them and worship them must be destroyed from Israel.

■ 13:6–11 Attention turns to the second instance of seduction to apostasy.

■ 13:6 your brother . . . friend. The closest ties on earth do not dissolve the obligation to remain faithful to the true and only God (cf. 21:18–21).

■ 13:10 See theological note "The Three Purposes of the Law."

Clean and Unclean Meat

3 [d]"You shall not eat any [2]detestable thing. 4 [e]These are the animals which you may eat: the ox, the sheep, the goat, 5 the deer, the gazelle, the roe deer, the wild goat, the [3]mountain goat, the antelope, and the mountain sheep. 6 And you may eat every animal with cloven hooves, having the hoof split into two parts, and that chews the cud, among the animals. 7 Nevertheless, of those that chew the cud or have cloven hooves, you shall not eat, such as these: the camel, the hare, and the rock hyrax; for they chew the cud but do not have cloven hooves; they are unclean for you. 8 Also the swine is unclean for you, because it has cloven hooves, yet does not chew the cud; you shall not eat their flesh [f]or touch their dead carcasses.

9 [g]"These you may eat of all that are in the waters: you may eat all that have fins and scales. 10 And whatever does not have fins and scales you shall not eat; it is unclean for you.

11 "All clean birds you may eat. 12 [h]But these you shall not eat: the eagle, the vulture, the buzzard, 13 the red kite, the falcon, and the kite after their kinds; 14 every raven after its kind; 15 the ostrich, the short-eared owl, the sea gull, and the hawk after their kinds; 16 the little owl, the screech owl, the white owl, 17 the jackdaw, the carrion vulture, the fisher owl, 18 the stork, the heron after its kind, and the hoopoe and the bat.

19 "Also [i]every [4]creeping thing that flies is unclean for you; [j]they shall not be eaten.

20 "You may eat all clean birds.

21 [k]"You shall not eat anything that dies of itself; you may give it to the alien who is within

■ 13:12–18 In the third instance of apostasy the case of a whole town is considered. First, investigation is undertaken (vv. 12–14). If the thing is true, the town must be destroyed (vv. 14–15). Note that the plunder of the town is not to be taken for private gain (vv. 16–18). The thought of gain might cloud the judgment of those who investigated. The Hebrew for "heap" is tel, the word now used by archaeologists for the mounds comprising the ruins of successive generations of the buried cities they excavate.

■ 14:1 you shall not cut yourselves . . . for the dead. See Lev. 19:27, 28, where the same rules are given. Details of this custom are unclear, but it doubtless involved practices associated with ancestor worship and pagan ritual mourning. Because Israel was chosen by God as His special possession (v. 2; 26:18), Israel was to be different and was to reject all pagan religion and associated rituals.

■ 14:3–21 This section and Num. 5:1–4 are the main references to the clean-and-unclean legislation outside of Lev. 11—15. The only ground given for the prohibitions is that Israel is to be holy to the Lord. Several reasons, ranging from religious to medical, have been suggested for these laws. In many cases the prohibitions require what would be good public health procedure, but the distinction of clean and unclean was not entirely a matter of health. Rather, it teaches an important moral and spiritual truth: separation from the specified foods and diseases portrayed the holiness of God and of His people. See notes on Lev. 11—15.

■ 14:11 All clean birds. No easy formula is given to identify clean birds. In general the scavenger birds are unclean, probably because of their frequent contact with carrion. Such birds might pose a health risk as well. Some of the birds listed in vv. 12–18 can no longer be precisely identified.

■ 14:19 every creeping thing that flies. See text note. But there were exceptions: Lev. 11:22 explicitly mentions the locust, destroying locust, cricket, and grasshopper as clean.

■ 14:21 a young goat in its mother's milk. This prohibition is not fully explained. Appearing also in Ex. 23:19 and 34:26, it is the basis of the practice among orthodox Jews of not eating milk and meat products together. The prohibition may be similar to 22:6, which forbids taking the mother bird with its young. There, the idea is to preserve the mother and nest so as to have more birds for the future. Some have also suggested that cooking a goat in milk may have been a Canaanite practice with pagan religious implications, but the evidence is not clear.

your gates, that he may eat it, or you may sell it to a foreigner; [l]for you are a holy people to the LORD your God.

[m]"You shall not boil a young goat in its mother's milk.

Tithing Principles

22 [n]"You shall truly tithe all the increase of your grain that the field produces year by year. 23 [o]And you shall eat before the LORD your God, in the place where He chooses to make His name abide, the tithe of your grain and your new wine and your oil, of [p]the firstborn of your herds and your flocks, that you may learn to fear the LORD your God always. 24 But if the journey is too long for you, so that you are not able to carry the tithe, or [q]if the place where the LORD your God chooses to put His name is too far from you, when the LORD your God has blessed you, 25 then you shall exchange it for money, take the money in your hand, and go to the place which the LORD your God chooses. 26 And you shall spend that money for whatever your heart desires: for oxen or sheep, for wine or similar drink, for whatever your heart desires; you shall eat there before the LORD your God, and you shall [r]rejoice, you and your household. 27 You shall not [s]forsake the [s]Levite who is within your gates, for he has no part nor inheritance with you.

28 [t]"At the end of every third year you shall bring out the [u]tithe of your produce of that year and store it up within your gates. 29 And the Levite, because he has no portion nor inheritance with you, and the stranger and the fatherless and the widow who are within your gates, may come and eat and be satisfied, that the LORD your God may bless you in all the work of your hand which you do.

Debts Canceled Every Seven Years

15 "At the end of [a]every seven years you shall grant a [1]release of debts. 2 And this is the form of the release: Every creditor who has lent anything to his neighbor shall [2]release it; he shall not [3]require it of his neighbor or his brother, because it is called the LORD's release. 3 Of a foreigner you may require it; but you shall give up your claim to what is owed by your brother, 4 except when there may be no poor among you; for the LORD will greatly [b]bless you in the land which the LORD your God is giving you to possess as an inheritance— 5 only if you carefully obey the voice of the LORD your God, to observe with care all these commandments which I command you today. 6 For the LORD your God will bless you just as He promised you; [c]you shall lend to many nations, but you shall not borrow; you shall reign over many nations, but they shall not reign over you.

Generosity to the Poor

7 "If there is among you a poor man of your brethren, within any of the [4]gates in your land which the LORD your God is giving you, [d]you shall not harden your heart nor shut your hand from your poor brother, 8 but [e]you shall [5]open your hand wide to him and willingly lend him sufficient for his need, whatever he needs. 9 Beware lest there be a wicked thought in your heart, saying, 'The seventh year, the year of release, is at hand,' and your [f]eye be evil against your poor brother and you give him nothing, and [g]he cry out to the LORD against you, and [h]it become sin among you. 10 You shall surely give to him, and [i]your heart should not be grieved when you give to him, because [j]for this thing the LORD your God will bless you in all your works and in all

■ 14:22 tithe. A tenth. The law of the tithe was expressed as early as the time of the patriarchs (Gen. 14:20; 28:22). Leviticus 27:32 specifies that the tithe of animals must not be selected, but must be "whatever passes under the rod" of the shepherd.

■ 14:23 eat before the LORD. The tithe was to be taken to the sanctuary (12:17), where the worshipers were to eat a portion in happy fellowship with the priests, Levites, and the poor. Far from being a burdensome requirement, the giving of the tithe was to be an occasion of joyous celebration and worship (12:7 note; cf. 2 Cor. 9:7).

■ 14:24 if the journey is too long. Travel was not easy, and the transportation of agricultural products was harder still. A practical solution was allowed—they could convert the goods to money and carry the money (v. 25).

■ 14:28 At the end of every third year. The third-year tithe is mentioned again only in 26:12, and the precise details are unclear. Because it was a special gift for the Levites and the poor, and because the Levitical cities were scattered throughout Israel (Josh. 21), it would have been impractical to take all the tithes at one time to the central place of worship. Thus, these tithe offerings were to be stored in the towns of Israel and used to provide for the needy.

■ 15:1 every seven years . . . grant a release of debts. The sabbatical year was established and described in Ex. 23:10, 11 and Lev. 25:1–7, which require that the land should lie fallow during the seventh year. This passage (15:1–11) adds the provision that debts should be forgiven in that year. Since a loan might be arranged shortly before the sabbatical year, it could amount to a gift. For this reason vv. 7–11 warn against refusing to lend to the poor under these circumstances.

■ 15:4 except when there may be no poor. The forgiveness of personal loans to the poor is apparently in view here. God desired to bless His people materially in the Land of Promise so that borrowing would be unnecessary (vv. 5, 6). Although full obedience would have resulted in the eradication of poverty from Israel, Moses realistically recognized that some poverty would remain (v. 11; cf. Matt. 26:11). The sabbatical year and the Jubilee provisions (Lev. 25:8–34) were God's gracious provision to minimize the oppression of the poor.

to which you put your hand. 11 For [k]the poor will never cease from the land; therefore I command you, saying, 'You shall [6]open your hand wide to your brother, to your poor and your needy, in your land.'

The Law Concerning Bondservants

12 [l]"If your brother, a Hebrew man, or a Hebrew woman, is [m]sold to you and serves you six years, then in the seventh year you shall let him go free from you. 13 And when you [7]send him away free from you, you shall not let him go away empty-handed; 14 you shall supply him liberally from your flock, from your threshing floor, and from your winepress. From what the LORD has [n]blessed you with, you shall give to him. 15 [o]You shall remember that you were a slave in the land of Egypt, and the LORD your God redeemed you; therefore I command you this thing today. 16 And [p]if it happens that he says to you, 'I will not go away from you,' because he loves you and your house, since he prospers with you, 17 then you shall take an awl and thrust it through his ear to the door, and he shall be your servant forever. Also to your female servant you shall do likewise. 18 It shall not seem hard to you when you send him away free from you; for he has been worth [q]a double hired servant in serving you six years. Then the LORD your God will bless you in all that you do.

The Law Concerning Firstborn Animals

19 [r]"All the firstborn males that come from your herd and your flock you shall [8]sanctify to the LORD your God; you shall do no work with the firstborn of your herd, nor shear the firstborn of your flock. 20 [s]You and your household shall eat it before the LORD your God year by year in the place which the LORD chooses. 21 [t]But if there is a defect in it, if it is lame or blind or has any serious defect, you shall not sacrifice it to the LORD your God. 22 You may eat it within your gates; [u]the unclean and the clean person alike may eat it, as if it were a gazelle or a deer. 23 Only you shall not eat its blood; you shall pour it on the ground like water.

The Passover Reviewed

16 "Observe the [a]month of Abib, and keep the Passover to the LORD your God, for [b]in the month of Abib the LORD your God brought you out of Egypt by night. 2 Therefore you shall sacrifice the Passover to the LORD your God, from the flock and [c]the herd, in the [d]place where the LORD chooses to put His name. 3 You shall eat no leavened bread with it; [e]seven days you shall eat unleavened bread with it, that is, the bread of affliction (for you came out of the land of Egypt in haste), that you may [f]remember the day in which you came out of the land of Egypt all the days of your life. 4 [g]And no leaven shall be seen among you in all your territory for seven days, nor shall any of the meat which you sacrifice the first day at twilight remain overnight until [h]morning.

■ 15:12 If your brother . . . is sold. Because this law of servitude is similar to the sabbatical year regulation, it might be thought that the sabbatical year freed all slaves. But that is not stated. Rather, the period of servitude was six years for every Hebrew slave and in the seventh year he went free.

Recalling the nation's experience of servitude in Egypt (v. 15), Israel was to be merciful to slaves. The slave in ancient Israel had rights (Ex. 21:1–11, 20), and the redemption provisions here are generous—the freed slave must be given something with which to start fresh (v. 13, 14; cf. Ex. 12:35, 36). The law of servitude described does not contradict the provision for freedom in the Year of Jubilee (Lev. 25:39–43). That provision probably refers to the special case of an impoverished servant whose ancestral property was gone and who therefore had nowhere to go if freed. When the Year of Jubilee came, his home was restored and he went to it.

■ 15:19 All the firstborn . . . sanctify. See 12:17; 15:19 text note.

nor shear. The firstborn ox was not to be worked nor the firstborn sheep shorn, because they were to be given to the Lord while still young.

■ 15:21 a defect. See 17:1.

■ 16:1–17 Most of ch. 16 deals with the three pilgrimage festivals, so called because they required all grown males to celebrate them at the sanctuary. These feasts are mentioned briefly in Ex. 23:14–17, ending with the same charge given in similar language at Deut. 16:16: Every man must bring his offering. The feasts are listed again in Ex. 34:18–23, where the Passover is simply included with the closely associated Feast of Unleavened Bread (Ex. 23:15 note). All five major feasts are listed more fully in Lev. 23, and they are listed with their offerings in Num. 28 and 29.

■ 16:1 the month of Abib. In Exodus, the Passover (Ex. 12:1–14) and the Feast of Unleavened Bread (Ex. 12:15–20) were instituted in the "first month" (Ex. 12:2, 18), also called the month of Abib, one of the Canaanite month names (Ex. 13:4; 23:15). The Babylonian name of the first month is Nisan, and Babylonian month names appear in Old Testament books of the exilic and postexilic periods (e.g., Esth. 3:7).

keep the Passover. See notes on Ex. 12:1–26. The Passover clearly symbolizes substitution, since the lamb is slain in place of the firstborn. Although the blood of animals could not, in itself, redeem human beings, the Passover lamb was a sacramental symbol pointing forward to the effectual sacrifice of Christ (Heb. 10:1–10). So Paul is fully justified in saying, "Christ, our Passover, was sacrificed for us" (1 Cor. 5:7).

■ 16:6 at the place . . . God chooses. At the location of the sanctuary. See note on 12:5.

you shall sacrifice the Passover [i]at twilight, at the going down of the sun, at the time you came out of Egypt. [7] And you shall roast and eat it [j]in the place which the LORD your God chooses, and in the morning you shall turn and go to your tents. [8] Six days you shall eat unleavened bread, and [k]on the seventh day there shall be a [l]sacred assembly to the LORD your God. You shall do no work on it.

■ 16:7 in the morning . . . go to your tents. The lamb or goat was to be slaughtered at the sanctuary at sundown, roasted in that area for several hours, and then eaten at midnight. Following the celebration, the people would return to their tents in the morning. After their settlement in Canaan, when they assembled at the central sanctuary, the majority surely lived in tents again. In modern times the Samaritan Passover on Mount Gerizim is performed precisely in this way.

■ 16:9–12 The Passover was always celebrated on the fourteenth day of the first month (corresponding to the modern March-April). The Israelites used the lunar month, so the Passover was always on a full moon. Associated with Passover was the presentation of the first ripe sheaf of grain (Lev. 23:9). On the day following the seventh Sabbath after that presentation (Lev. 23:15, 16) was the one-day "Feast of Weeks" (v. 10), called "Pentecost" in the New Testament because of this fifty-day calculation.

■ 16:13–17 The "Feast of Tabernacles" (v. 13) is called by Jews the Feast of Sukkoth (Booths), because for a week they were to gather at the sanctuary and live in temporary structures. It begins on the fifteenth day

The Jewish Calendar (16:1)

The Jews used two kinds of calendars:
Civil Calendar—official calendar of kings, childbirth, and contracts.
Sacred Calendar—from which festivals were computed.

*Hebrew months were alternately 30 and 29 days long. Their year, shorter than ours, had 354 days. Therefore, about every 3 years (7 times in 19 years) an extra 29-day month, Veadar, was added between Adar and Nisan.

your son and your daughter, your male servant and your female servant and the Levite, the stranger and the fatherless and the widow, who are within your [2]gates. 15 [r]Seven days you shall keep a sacred feast to the LORD your God in the place which the LORD chooses, because the LORD your God will bless you in all your produce and in all the work of your hands, so that you surely rejoice.

16 [s]"Three times a year all your males shall appear before the LORD your God in the place which He chooses: at the Feast of Unleavened Bread, at the Feast of Weeks, and at the Feast of Tabernacles; and [t]they shall not appear before the LORD empty-handed. 17 Every man shall give as he is able, [u]according to the blessing of the LORD your God which He has given you.

Justice Must Be Administered

18 "You shall appoint [v]judges and officers in all your [3]gates, which the LORD your God gives you, according to your tribes, and they shall judge the people with just judgment. 19 [w]You shall not pervert justice; [x]you shall not [4]show partiality, [y]nor take a bribe, for a bribe blinds the eyes of the wise and [5]twists the words of the righteous. 20 You shall follow what is altogether just, that you may [z]live and inherit the land which the LORD your God is giving you.

21 [a]"You shall not plant for yourself any tree, as a [6]wooden image, near the altar which you build for yourself to the LORD your God. 22 [b]You shall not set up a sacred pillar, which the LORD your God hates.

17 "You [a]shall not sacrifice to the LORD your God a bull or sheep which has any [1]blemish or defect, for that is an [2]abomination to the LORD your God.

2 [b]"If there is found among you, within any of your [3]gates which the LORD your God gives you, a man or a woman who has been wicked in the sight of the LORD your God, [c]in transgressing His covenant, 3 who has gone and served other gods and worshiped them, either [d]the sun or moon or any of the host of heaven, [e]which I have not commanded, 4 [f]and it is told you, and you hear of it, then you shall inquire diligently. And if it is indeed true and certain that such an [4]abomination has been committed in Israel, 5 then you shall bring out to your gates that man or woman who has committed that wicked thing, and [g]shall stone [h]to death that man or woman with stones. 6 Whoever is deserving of death shall be put to death on the testimony of two or three [i]witnesses; he shall not be put to death on the testimony of one witness. 7 The hands of the witnesses shall be the first against him to put him to death, and afterward the hands of all the people. So you shall put away the evil from among [j]you.

8 [k]"If a matter arises which is too hard for you to judge, between degrees of guilt for bloodshed, between one judgment or another, or between one punishment or another, matters of controversy within your gates, then you shall arise and go up to the [l]place which the LORD your God chooses. 9 And [m]you shall come to the priests, the Levites, and [n]to the judge there in those days, and inquire of them; [o]they shall pronounce upon you the sentence of judgment. 10 You shall do according to the sentence which they pronounce upon you in that place which the LORD chooses. of the seventh lunar month (modern September-October), at the end of the agricultural season after the grain was threshed and the grapes harvested. Naturally, the tithe of the harvest was to be brought at this feast, which was also to memorialize Israel's pilgrim experience in leaving Egypt (Lev. 23:43). In addition, this feast was to be a time of reading the law (31:10–13; Neh. 8).

■ 16:18 appoint judges and officers. Moses had appointed leaders at Sinai (1:13), and this section specifies that such an organization should continue. Moreover, the high ideal of justice, and justice alone, was to guide their conduct (19:15–21 note).

■ 16:19 a bribe blinds. This fact is often emphasized (Ex. 23:8; Prov. 17:23).

■ 16:21 wooden image. A reference to the wooden poles, images, or trees that represented the Canaanite goddess Asherah (text note). There was to be no compromise with pagan idolatry (17:2–7). Despite such warnings, these pagan Asherah shrines later became a snare to the Israelites (Judg. 3:7, 8; 2 Kin. 13:6; 17:10).

■ 17:1 any . . . defect. It was repeatedly commanded that any flaw or defect would make an animal unsuitable for sacrifice (15:21; Lev. 22:19–25; Num. 19:2). Also, Lev. 21:16–23 specifies that any priest with a physical deformity could not officiate. The symbolism is clear: God is holy (Lev. 21:23), and He demands perfection. As symbols of the coming perfect Savior and His worthy sacrifice, the sacrificial animals were to be without defect.

■ 17:2–7 The sin of idolatry is in view, the seriousness of which is indicated by the consistently prescribed death penalty (v. 5; ch. 13). In such instances, the judicial goal was not rehabilitation or restitution, but to purge Israel of the abomination of idolatry (vv. 4, 7).

■ 17:6 two or three witnesses. Condemnation does not take place on the basis of hearsay. Two or three witnesses must agree (v. 6; 19:15–19; Num. 35:30), and must be sufficiently convinced and sincere to take part in the stoning, knowing that the penalty for false witness to a crime was the same as for the crime itself (19:19). There was no torture for confession or torture of witnesses.

■ 17:8 a matter . . . too hard for you to judge. We do not know the precise details of the Israelite judicial system (19:15–21 note). There were graded courts to take care of difficult cases (Ex. 18:21–26), with priests who judged and also other judges. This passage stresses that the judicial office is divinely ordained, and that verdicts were to be accepted on pain of death (v. 12).

do; you shall not turn aside to the right hand or to the left from the sentence which they pronounce upon you. 12 Now [p]the man who acts presumptuously and will not heed the priest who stands to minister there before the LORD your God, or the judge, that man shall die. So you shall put away the evil from Israel. 13 [q]And all the people shall hear and fear, and no longer act presumptuously.

Principles Governing Kings

14 "When you come to the land which the LORD your God is giving you, and possess it and dwell in it, and say, 'I will set a king over me like all the nations that are around me,' 15 you shall surely set a king over you [s]whom the LORD your God chooses; one [t]from among your brethren you shall set as king over you; you may not set a foreigner over you, who is not your brother. 16 But he shall not multiply [u]horses for himself, nor cause the people [v]to return to Egypt to multiply horses, for [w]the LORD has said to you, [x]'You shall not return that way again.' 17 Neither shall he multiply wives for himself, lest his heart turn away; nor shall he greatly multiply silver and [y]gold for himself.

18 "Also it shall be, when he sits on the throne of his kingdom, that he shall write for himself a copy of this law in a book, from the one [z]before the priests, the Levites. 19 And [a]it shall be with him, and he shall read it all the days of his life, that he may learn to fear the LORD his God and be careful to observe all the words of this law and these statutes, 20 that his heart may not [5]be lifted above his brethren, that he [b]may not turn aside from the commandment to the right hand or to the left, and that he may [6]prolong his days in his kingdom, he and his children in the midst of Israel.

The Portion of the Priests and Levites

18 "The priests, the Levites—all the tribe of Levi—shall have [1]no part nor [a]inheritance with Israel; they shall eat the offerings of the LORD made by fire, and His portion. 2 Therefore they shall have no inheritance among their brethren; the LORD is their inheritance, as He said to them.

3 "And this shall be the priest's [b]due[2] from the people, from those who offer a sacrifice, whether it is bull or sheep: they shall give to the priest the shoulder, the cheeks, and the stomach. 4 [c]The firstfruits of your grain and your new wine and your oil, and the first of the fleece of your sheep, you shall give him. 5 For [d]the LORD your God has chosen him out of all your tribes [e]to stand to minister in the name of the LORD, him and his sons forever.

6 "So if a Levite comes from any of your [3]gates, from where he [f]dwells among all Israel, and comes with all the desire of his mind [g]to the place which the LORD chooses, 7 then he may serve in the name of the LORD his God [h]as all his brethren the Levites do, who stand there before the LORD. 8 They shall have equal [i]portions to eat, besides what comes from the sale of his inheritance.

Avoid Wicked Customs

9 "When you come into the land which the LORD your God is giving you, [j]you shall not learn to follow the [4]abominations of those nations. 10 There shall not be found among you anyone who makes his son or his daughter [k]pass[5] through the fire, [l]or one who practices witchcraft, or a

■ 17:14–17 The reference to "a king" (v. 14) is conditional, and need not imply that the text was written when a king ruled Israel, although critics have argued that with its reference to horses, wives, and wealth, the section refers to Solomon and was written long after him by one of his detractors. There was no king in Moses' time, but the future possibility of such a ruler was obvious, since every known ancient nation had a king, and an Israelite king was even predicted in Gen. 49:10. That Israel might have a king was never denied, although it was stated most emphatically that God was their King (33:5). In addition, v. 15 warns against choosing a foreign king, a stipulation that cannot be directed against Solomon and his successors, who were native Israelites.

■ 17:18 write . . . a copy of this law. The phrase "this law" may refer to the Book of Deuteronomy as a whole, or perhaps to the Book of the Covenant (Ex. 24:7) or to the other parts of the Pentateuch. As a covenant nation, Israel was to be governed according to the covenant laws.

■ 18:1 all the tribe of Levi. Not only the priests, but the whole tribe of Levi, numbering twenty-three thousand, was to receive no inheritance (Num. 18:20; 26:62; Deut. 10:9). This tribe would have no farms for livelihood, but would depend on the tithes and offerings of the people (vv. 3–5). Moses specifically allotted them forty-two cities, six of which would be cities of refuge (Num. 35:2–8). In due time these cities were allocated by Joshua (Josh. 21).

■ 18:3 priest's due. See text note. In place of a land inheritance, and in recognition of their priestly duties, the priests had a right to specific portions of the animals offered for sacrifice. Later, this practice was sometimes abused by corrupt priests (1 Sam. 2:12–17).

■ 18:9 the abominations of those nations. Anticipating the instructions regarding true and false prophecy in vv. 19–22, Moses forbids all attempts to discern the future through occult, pagan means, as well as resorting to sorcery and witchcraft. The detestable character of these practices is underscored and cited as a reason for divine judgment upon the Canaanites (vv. 9, 12).

Him you shall hear, 16 according to all you desired of the LORD your God in Horeb [q]in the day of the assembly, saying, [r]'Let me not hear again the voice of the LORD my God, nor let me see this great fire anymore, lest I die.'

17 "And the LORD said to me: [s]'What they have spoken is good. 18 [t]I will raise up for them a Prophet like you from among their brethren, and [u]will put My words in His mouth, [v]and He shall speak to them all that I command Him. 19 [w]And it shall be that whoever will not hear My words, which He speaks in My name, I will require it of him. 20 But [x]the prophet who presumes to speak a word in My name, which I have not commanded him to speak, or [y]who speaks in the name of other gods, that prophet shall die.' 21 And if you say in your heart, 'How shall we know the word which the LORD has not spoken?'— 22 [z]when a prophet speaks in the name of the LORD,

Prophets

The canonical prophets, whose books make up over a quarter of the Old Testament, were called by God to be channels of revelation. They were men of God who stood in His council (Jer. 23:22), knew His mind, and were enabled to declare it. God the Holy Spirit spoke in and through them (2 Pet. 1:19–21; Is. 61:1; Mic. 3:8; Acts 28:25–27; 1 Pet. 1:10–12). They knew He was doing so; hence they dared to begin proclamations with "Thus says the LORD," presenting Yahweh Himself as the speaker of what they were saying.

Prophecy involved prediction (foretelling), but usually this was done in a context of declaring God's warnings and exhortations to His covenant people (forthtelling). The prophets looked forward to the coming of the messianic King and His kingdom after purging judgments, but often their chief concern was exhortation to repentance, in hope that impending judgments might be averted. The prophets were primarily reformers, enforcing God's law and recalling God's people to the covenant faithfulness from which they had lapsed.

Along with their preaching to the nation went prayer for the nation—they talked to God about men just as earnestly as they talked to men about God. They fulfilled a unique ministry as intercessors (Ex. 32:30–32; 1 Sam. 7:5–9; 12:19–23; 2 Kin. 19:4; cf. Jer. 7:16; 11:14; 14:11).

False prophets were a bane to Israel. Professionally linked with Israel's organized worship, they said what people wanted to hear and spoke their own dreams and opinions rather than words of God (1 Kin. 22:1–28; Jer. 23:9–40; Ezek. 13).

In the New Testament, one book (Revelation) announces itself as a true and trustworthy prophecy, received directly from God (from God the Father through Jesus Christ, Rev. 1:1–3; 22:12–20). The ministry of the apostles brought instruction directly from God to His people, just as the Old Testament prophetic ministry had done, though the form of presentation was different. The prophets of the New Testament period were linked with the apostles in the foundation of the church (Eph. 2:20; 3:5) as expositors of the fulfillment in Christ of Old Testament prophecy (Rom. 16:25–27). □

■ 18:18 Moses, the preeminent prophet of the Old Testament period, introduces the topic of Israelite prophecy. God would communicate His word to Israel through a succession of prophets. As mediators of God's word to the people, the other Old Testament prophets would function in ways similar to Moses (v. 16). But none would be the initial mediators of a covenant, and none would equal Moses' intimacy with God or receive divine revelations as clear as those given to him (Num. 12:6–8; Deut. 34:10). This passage, then, finds final fulfillment in the Prophet who is equal to, indeed greater than, the prophet Moses—Jesus Christ (Acts 3:22–26; 7:37; cf. John 5:45–47; Heb. 3:2–6). Like Moses, Christ is the Mediator of a covenant between God and His people (Luke 22:20; Heb. 8:7–13). See theological note "Prophets."

■ 18:20–22 Two means of discerning false prophets from true are given in Deuteronomy. The first is theological integrity—a true prophet will not teach error or lead the people astray (v. 20; 13:1–5). The second is that his prophetic predictions of the future would come true (v. 22). See "The Authentication of Scripture" at 2 Cor. 4:6.

[a]if the thing does not happen or come to pass, that is the thing which the LORD has not spoken; the prophet has spoken it [b]presumptuously; you shall not be afraid of him.

Three Cities of Refuge

19 "When the LORD your God [a]has cut off the nations whose land the LORD your God is giving you, and you dispossess them and dwell in their cities and in their houses, 2 [b]you shall separate three cities for yourself in the midst of your land which the LORD your God is giving you to possess. 3 You shall prepare roads for yourself, and divide into three parts the territory of your land which the LORD your God is giving you to inherit, that any manslayer may flee there.

4 "And [c]this is the case of the manslayer who flees there, that he may live: Whoever kills his neighbor [f]unintentionally, not having hated him in time past— 5 as when a man goes to the woods with his neighbor to cut timber, and his hand swings a stroke with the ax to cut down the tree, and the head slips from the handle and strikes his neighbor so that he dies—he shall flee to one of these cities and live; 6 [d]lest the avenger of blood, while his anger is hot, pursue the manslayer and overtake him, because the way is long, and kill him, though he was not deserving of death, since he had not hated the victim in time past. 7 Therefore I command you, saying, 'You shall separate three cities for yourself.'

8 "Now if the LORD your God [e]enlarges your territory, as He swore to [f]your fathers, and gives you the land which He promised to give to your fathers, 9 and if you keep all these commandments and do them, which I command you today, to love the LORD your God and to walk always in His ways, [g]then you shall add three more cities for yourself besides these three, 10 [h]lest innocent blood be shed in the midst of your land which the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance, and thus guilt of bloodshed be upon you.

11 "But [i]if anyone hates his neighbor, lies in wait for him, rises against him and strikes him mortally, so that he dies, and he flees to one of these cities, 12 then the elders of his city shall send and bring him from there, and deliver him over to the hand of the avenger of blood, that he may die. 13 [j]Your eye shall not pity him, [k]but you shall [2]put away the guilt of innocent blood from Israel, that it may go well with you.

Property Boundaries

The Law Concerning Witnesses

15 [m]"One witness shall not rise against a man concerning any iniquity or any sin that he commits; by the mouth of two or three witnesses the matter shall be established. 16 If a false witness [n]rises against any man to testify against him of wrongdoing, 17 then both men in the controversy shall stand before the LORD, [o]before the priests and the judges who serve in those days. 18 And the judges shall make careful inquiry, and indeed, if the witness is a false witness, who has testified falsely against his brother, 19 [p]then you shall do to him as he thought to have done to his brother; so [q]you shall put away the evil from among you. 20 [r]And those who remain shall hear and fear, and hereafter they shall not again commit such evil among you. 21 [s]Your eye shall not pity: [t]life shall be for life, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot.

■ 19:2 three cities. These cities of refuge were to be set aside in Canaan. The three cities of refuge for Transjordan had already been named and set aside. See 4:41–43 for the sequence of establishing these cities.

■ 19:4 Whoever kills his neighbor unintentionally. The law of manslaughter is given first in Ex. 21:13, then more fully in Num. 35:6–28. This passage repeats some matters given in Numbers. Other regulations are added, such as the provision for building access roads to the cities of refuge. Also, this passage specifies three extra cities in Canaan if the nation's territory is greatly enlarged. But it is plain in both Numbers and Deuteronomy that a man guilty of premeditated murder must die. The death penalty is grounded, not in disrespect for life, but in intense respect for the life of the innocent victim, made in the image of God (Gen. 9:6).

■ 19:9 to love . . . walk always in His ways. See 6:4.

■ 19:14 your neighbor's landmark. Though this verse has sometimes been misinterpreted to urge respect for ancient customs and beliefs, the term "landmark" actually refers to stones that served as boundary markers. This law was essential to prevent encroachment and theft of land (27:17; Prov. 22:28; 23:20).

■ 19:15–21 The general principle was that a conviction was not to be based on the testimony of a single witness (v. 15). When false testimony was detected, the false witness was to receive the same punishment that the falsely accused person would have received (vv. 19–21).

In the jurisprudence of the ancient Near East, much responsibility was given to the judge. He did not simply compare an offense to a particular law and pronounce a verdict. Rather, he compared a case with the principles of the law and with typical cases and gave a decision in accordance with justice and equity (1:13; 16:18; 17:8).

■ 19:15 One witness. See 17:6.

■ 19:20 fear. See "The Three Purposes of the Law" at 13:10.

■ 19:21 eye for eye. Much argument has revolved about this verse. Some contend it is brutal and opposed to New Testament ideas of love and mercy. The phrase "eye for eye" occurs twice more in the

Principles Governing Warfare

20 "When you go out to battle against your enemies, and see [a]horses and chariots and people more numerous than you, do not be [b]afraid of them; for the LORD your God is [c]with you, who brought you up from the land of Egypt. 2 So it shall be, when you are on the verge of battle, that the priest shall approach and speak to the people. 3 And he shall say to them, 'Hear, O Israel: Today you are on the verge of battle with your enemies. Do not let your heart faint, do not be afraid, and do not tremble or be terrified because of them; 4 for the LORD your God is He who goes with you, [d]to fight for you against your enemies, to save you.'

5 "Then the officers shall speak to the people, saying: 'What man is there who has built a new house and has not [e]dedicated it? Let him go and return to his house, lest he die in the battle and another man dedicate it. 6 Also what man is there who has planted a vineyard and has not eaten of it? Let him go and return to his house, lest he die in the battle and another man eat of it. 7 [f]And what man is there who is betrothed to a woman and has not married her? Let him go and return to his house, lest he die in the battle and another man marry her.'

8 "The officers shall speak further to the people, and say, [g]'What man is there who is fearful and fainthearted? Let him go and return to his house, [1]lest the heart of his brethren faint like his heart.' 9 And so it shall be, when the officers have finished speaking to the people, that they shall make captains of the armies to lead the people.

10 "When you go near a city to fight against it, [h]then proclaim an offer of peace to it. 11 And it shall be that if they accept your offer of peace, and open to you, then all the people who are found in it shall be placed under tribute to you, and serve you. 12 Now if the city will not make peace with you, but war against you, then you shall besiege it. 13 And when the LORD your God delivers it into your hands, [i]you shall strike every male in it with the edge of the sword. 14 But the women, the little ones, [j]the livestock, and all that is in the city, all its spoil, you shall plunder for yourself; and [k]you shall eat the enemies' plunder which the LORD your God gives you. 15 Thus you shall do to all the cities which are very far from you, which are not of the cities of these nations.

16 "But [l]of the cities of these peoples which the LORD your God gives you as an inheritance, you shall let nothing that breathes remain alive, 17 but you shall utterly destroy them: the Hittite and the Amorite and the Canaanite and the Perizzite and the Hivite and the Jebusite, just as the LORD your God has commanded you, 18 lest [m]they teach you to do according to all their [2]abominations which they have done for their gods, and you [n]sin against the LORD your God.

19 "When you besiege a city for a long time, while making war against it to take it, you shall not destroy its trees by wielding an ax against them; if you can eat of them, do not cut them down to use in the siege, for the tree of the field is man's food. 20 Only the trees which you know are not trees for food you may destroy and cut down, to build siegeworks against the city that makes war with you, until it is subdued.

The Law Concerning Unsolved Murder

21 "If anyone is found slain, lying in the field in the land which the LORD your God is giving you to possess, and it is not known who killed him, 2 then your elders and your judges shall go out and measure the distance from the slain man to the surrounding cities. 3 And it shall be that the elders of the city nearest to the slain man will take a heifer which has not been Pentateuch (Ex. 21:24; Lev. 24:20). In each case, the verse is in a legal context; it is a principle of public justice—the penalty must fit the crime. There are indications that the term was not taken literally (Ex. 21:18, 26, 27). The only physical penalty mentioned in the law is flogging, and that limited to forty strokes (Deut. 25:3). Christ opposed those who used this verse as an excuse for personal vengeance (Matt. 5:38 note). See notes on Ex. 21:24 and Lev. 24:20.

■ 20:1 do not be afraid. Morale in the army, particularly the importance of single-minded reliance upon God, is the subject of vv. 1–9. The exemptions cited illustrate the principle that anyone whose heart was not in the fight should not be there (vv. 5–8). The power of God, rather than numerical superiority, would guarantee Israel's victory (v. 4; cf. 32:30 note; Judg. 7:1–8). One result of such an attitude would be high morale, which would itself contribute to victory.

■ 20:10 an offer of peace. Ancient walled cities could withstand attack for some time, and attackers wanted to avoid the trouble of a lengthy siege. An offer of peace in exchange for vassal tribute (v. 11), coupled with the threat of death for the defending soldiers, could be attractive to both sides. These warfare provisions (comparatively humane for that period) were applied to enemies outside the Promised Land (v. 15).

■ 20:17 utterly destroy. The Hebrew word for this practice is herem, which means "to put under the ban" (i.e., to devote everything to the Lord), as occurred at Jericho during the conquest (Josh. 6:17–19). See notes on Lev. 27:28; Deut. 7:26.

■ 20:19 you shall not destroy its trees. The reference is clearly to fruit trees (v. 20). One of Israel's covenant blessings was to enjoy the fruit of the land God had given them (7:12, 13).

■ 21:1 If anyone is found slain. In the case of an unsolved murder, the elders from the nearest town were to take an oath of innocence and ignorance. The symbolism of the heifer, killed while the oath was taken, is clear: it dies as a symbol of the murderer who ought to die. The land was to be purged of serious guilt. The vicarious death of the heifer points to the death of Christ as a satisfaction for the sins, known and unknown, of His people.

worked and which has not pulled with a [a]yoke. 4 The elders of that city shall bring the heifer down to a valley with flowing water, which is neither plowed nor sown, and they shall break the heifer's neck there in the valley. 5 Then the priests, the sons of Levi, shall come near, for [b]the LORD your God has chosen them to minister to Him and to bless in the name of the LORD; [c]by their word every controversy and every [f]assault shall be settled. 6 And all the elders of that city nearest to the slain man [d]shall wash their hands over the heifer whose neck was broken in the valley. 7 Then they shall answer and say, 'Our hands have not shed this blood, nor have our eyes seen it. 8 Provide atonement, O LORD, for Your people Israel, whom You have redeemed, [e]and do not lay innocent blood to the charge of Your people Israel.' And atonement shall be provided on their behalf for the blood. 9 So [f]you shall put away the guilt of innocent blood from among you when you do what is right in the sight of the LORD.

Female Captives

10 "When you go out to war against your enemies, and the LORD your God delivers them into your hand, and you take them captive, 11 and you see among the captives a beautiful woman, and desire her and would take her for your [g]wife, 12 then you shall bring her home to your house, and she shall [h]shave her head and trim her nails. 13 She shall put off the clothes of her captivity, remain in your house, and [i]mourn her father and her mother a full month; after that you may go in to her and be her husband, and she shall be your wife. 14 And it shall be, if you have no delight in her, then you shall set her free, but you certainly shall not sell her for money; you shall not treat her brutally, because you have [j]humbled her.

Firstborn Inheritance Rights

15 "If a man has two wives, one loved [k]and the other unloved, and they have borne him children, both the loved and the unloved, and if the firstborn son is of her who is unloved, 16 then it shall be, [l]on the day he bequeaths his possessions to his sons, that he must not bestow firstborn status on the son of the loved wife in preference to the son of the unloved, the true firstborn. 17 But he shall acknowledge the son of the unloved wife as the firstborn [m]by giving him a double portion of all that he has, for he [n]is the beginning of his strength; [o]the right of the firstborn is his.

The Rebellious Son

18 "If a man has a stubborn and rebellious son who will not obey the voice of his father or the voice of his mother, and who, when they have chastened him, will not heed them, 19 then his father and his mother shall take hold of him and bring him out to the elders of his city, to the gate of his city. 20 And they shall say to the elders of his city, 'This son of ours is stubborn and rebellious; he will not obey our voice; he is a glutton and a drunkard.' 21 Then all the men of his city shall stone him to death with stones; [p]so you shall put away the evil from among you, [q]and all Israel shall hear and fear.

Miscellaneous Laws

22 "If a man has committed a sin [r]deserving of death, and he is put to death, and you hang him on a tree, 23 [s]his body shall not remain overnight on the tree, but you shall surely bury him that day, so that [t]you do not defile the land which the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance; for [u]he who is hanged is accursed of God.

22 "You [a]shall not see your brother's ox or his sheep going astray, and [l]hide yourself from them; you shall certainly bring them back to your brother. 2 And if your brother is not

CHAPTER 22

1 [a]Ex. 23:4 [l]ignore them

■ 21:11 among the captives a beautiful woman. The law preserved the sanctity of marriage. An Israelite man might take a captive woman, but he had to wait a month. She was to be given a chance to adjust and to grieve for her lost family. She was a wife, not chattel, and if the husband divorced her, he could not sell her as a slave.

■ 21:15 two wives. Just as divorce was allowed "because of the hardness of . . . hearts" (Matt. 19:8), so polygamy was permitted, but its harsher evils were mitigated. The unloved wife had her rights, and the firstborn son of an unloved wife could not be dispossessed.

■ 21:18 a stubborn and rebellious son. In view here is not the petty disobedience of children, but a long-term pattern of rebellion and deep sin. Although "stubborn and rebellious" is not precisely defined, in v. 20 the son is called "a glutton and a drunkard" (cf. Prov. 23:21). In such cases, even the parents were not to shield their offspring (cf. Zech. 13:2, 3).

■ 21:22 hang him on a tree. Hanging as a method of execution is not mentioned in the Old Testament. The practice in view here is the exposure of the corpse of a criminal or an enemy (1 Sam. 31:10–13). Such gruesome exposure, symbolizing divine curse (v. 23), was not to be continued more than a day. This verse motivated the Pharisees' request to have the body of Jesus taken off the cross before nightfall (John 19:31). The point of Gal. 3:13 is that Christ, though innocent, died a criminal's death, taking the curse that we deserved (cf. Acts 5:30).

■ 22:1 bring them back. Note the emphasis on the rightful ownership of private property (cf. Ex. 23:4). The law concerning lost property requires that an effort be made to find the owner of strayed or lost property and return the property to him. If the owner cannot be found, the property is to be kept for him until he is found.

near you, or if you do not know him, then you shall bring it to your own house, and it shall remain with you until your brother seeks it; then you shall restore it to him. 3 You shall do the same with his donkey, and so shall you do with his garment; with any lost thing of your brother's, which he has lost and you have found, you shall do likewise; you [2]must not hide yourself.

4 [b]"You shall not see your brother's donkey or his ox fall down along the road, and hide yourself from them; you shall surely help him lift them up again.

5 "A woman shall not wear anything that pertains to a man, nor shall a man put on a woman's garment, for all who do so are [3]an abomination to the LORD your God.

6 "If a bird's nest happens to be before you along the way, in any tree or on the ground, with young ones or eggs, with the mother sitting on the young or on the eggs, [c]you shall not take the mother with the young; 7 you shall surely let the mother go, and take the young for yourself, [d]that it may be well with you and that you may prolong your days.

8 "When you build a new house, then you shall make a parapet for your roof, that you may not bring guilt of bloodshed on your household if anyone falls from it.

9 [e]"You shall not sow your vineyard with different kinds of seed, lest the yield of the seed which you have sown and the fruit of your vineyard be defiled.

10 [f]"You shall not plow with an ox and a donkey together.

11 [g]"You shall not wear a garment of different sorts, such as wool and linen mixed together.

12 "You shall make [h]tassels on the four corners of the clothing with which you cover yourself.

Laws of Sexual Morality

13 "If any man takes a wife, and goes in to her, and [i]detests her, 14 and charges her with shameful conduct, and brings a bad name on her, and says, 'I took this woman, and when I came to her I found she was not a virgin,' 15 then the father and mother of the young woman shall take and bring out the evidence of the young woman's virginity to the elders of the city at the gate. 16 And the young woman's father shall say to the elders, 'I gave my daughter to this man as wife, and he detests her. 17 Now he has charged her with shameful conduct, saying, "I found your daughter was not a virgin," and yet these are the evidences of my daughter's virginity.' And they shall spread the cloth before the elders of the city. 18 Then the elders of that city shall take that man and punish him; 19 and they shall fine him one hundred shekels of silver and give them to the father of the young woman, because he has brought a bad name on a virgin of Israel. And she shall be his wife; he cannot divorce her all his days.

20 "But if the thing is true, and evidences of virginity are not found for the young woman, 21 then they shall bring out the young woman to the door of her father's house, and the men of her city shall stone her to death with [j]stones, because she has [k]done a disgraceful thing in Israel, to play the harlot in her father's house. [l]So you shall [4]put away the evil from among you.

■ 22:4 his ox fall down. Again, accidental loss of private property is to be prevented if possible (cf. Ex. 23:5). Jesus quoted this verse to justify healing a man on the Sabbath. The Pharisees allowed the law of helping a fallen animal to supersede their rules for Sabbath keeping, but had no pity on a man in serious need (Luke 14:5).

■ 22:5 anything that pertains to a man . . . woman's garment. Women were not to adopt the accoutrements of the male (e.g., carrying weapons), and men were not to dress as women. The symbols of gender difference were to be respected, and while such symbols vary over time and from culture to culture, the principle of gender distinction remains (Gen. 1:27; cf. 1 Tim. 2:13). Violations of the creation order, such as homosexuality and bestiality (Lev. 18:22, 23; 20:13; 1 Cor. 6:9; 1 Tim. 1:10), are an "abomination." It has also been suggested that the interchange of clothing was a part of pagan religious practice.

■ 22:8 parapet for your roof. This is a law against criminal negligence. Roofs in ancient Israel were flat and often reached by an outside stairway. The roof was used for work (Josh. 2:6) or leisure. To prevent accidental injury or death from falling, a parapet or fence was specified.

■ 22:9–11 Similar prohibitions of mixtures are found in Lev. 19:19. Reasons for these regulations are no longer clear. Various suggestions have been made: that these verses teach the importance of creation-order distinctions, that they remind Israel of her call to purity and separation from the surrounding nations (v. 11 note), or that practical considerations were involved (e.g., the mixture of seed as harmful for agriculture).

■ 22:10 an ox and a donkey together. The reason for this may be the impracticality both of making a donkey pull an ox's load and of making an ox go at the faster donkey's pace. Or, the contrast between clean animals (the ox) and unclean (the donkey, 14:1–8) may have served to remind Israel of her call to purity. Paul cites this verse in 2 Cor. 6:14, forbidding the fellowship of believers and unbelievers.

■ 22:11 garment . . . wool and linen. Some suggest that such material would shrink unevenly and therefore not wash well. Others argue that through eating pure food (14:3–21) and not mixing their seeds (Deut. 22:9), their draft animals (22:10), or the materials of their garments, Israel was reminded that they were to be a pure people (7:2–5 and notes).

■ 22:12 make tassels. These tassels were to remind Israel of the Lord's commandments and the nation's responsibility to be holy before God (Num. 15:38–40).

■ 22:14–21 These verses provide for judging a husband's complaint that his wife was not a virgin when they married. Such an accusation, when made by a man who wished to be rid of a wife who displeased him, could be disproved by the wife's parents presenting visible "evidence of . . . virginity," presumably the stained bed clothes of the wedding night (v. 15).

■ 22:22–29 The implications of the seventh commandment are developed (5:18; Ex. 20:14), here with respect to instances of adultery and rape. Particular care is given to guarding the sanctity of the marriage covenant: adultery with a married or betrothed woman is punishable by die—the man that lay with the woman, and the woman; so you shall put away the evil from Israel.

23 "If a young woman who is a virgin is [n]betrothed to a husband, and a man finds her in the city and lies with her, 24 then you shall bring them both out to the gate of that city, and you shall stone them to death with stones, the young woman because she did not cry out in the city, and the man because he [o]humbled his neighbor's wife; [p]so you shall put away the evil from among you.

25 "But if a man finds a betrothed young woman in the countryside, and the man forces her and lies with her, then only the man who lay with her shall die. 26 But you shall do nothing to the young woman; there is in the young woman no sin deserving of death, for just as when a man rises against his neighbor and kills him, even so is this matter. 27 For he found her in the countryside, and the betrothed young woman cried out, but there was no one to save her.

28 [q]"If a man finds a young woman who is a virgin, who is not betrothed, and he seizes her and lies with her, and they are found out, 29 then the man who lay with her shall give to the young woman's father [r]fifty shekels of silver, and she shall be his wife [s]because he has humbled her; he shall not be permitted to divorce her all his days.

30 [t]"A man shall not take his father's wife, nor [u]uncover his father's bed.

Those Excluded from the Congregation

23 "He who is emasculated by crushing or mutilation shall [a]not enter the assembly of the LORD.

2 "One of illegitimate birth shall not enter the assembly of the LORD; even to the tenth generation none of his descendants shall enter the assembly of the LORD.

3 [b]"An Ammonite or Moabite shall not enter the assembly of the LORD; even to the tenth generation none of his descendants shall enter the assembly of the LORD forever, 4 [c]because they did not meet you with bread and water on the road when you came out of Egypt, and [d]because they hired against you Balaam the son of Beor from Pethor of [f]Mesopotamia, to curse you. 5 Nevertheless the LORD your God would not listen to Balaam, but the LORD your God turned the curse into a blessing for you, because the LORD your God [e]loves you. 6 [f]You shall not seek their peace nor their prosperity all your days forever.

7 "You shall not abhor an Edomite, [g]for he is your brother. You shall not abhor an Egyptian, because [h]you were an alien in his land. 8 The children of the third generation born to them may enter the assembly of the LORD.

Cleanliness of the Camp Site

9 "When the army goes out against your enemies, then keep yourself from every wicked thing. 10 [i]If there is any man among you who becomes unclean by some occurrence in the night, then he shall go outside the camp; he shall not come inside the camp. 11 But it shall be, when evening comes, that [j]he shall wash with water; and when the sun sets, he may come into the camp.

12 "Also you shall have a place outside the camp, where you may go out; 13 and you shall have an implement among your equipment, and when you sit down outside, you shall dig with it and turn and cover your refuse. 14 For the LORD your God [k]walks in the midst of your camp, to deliver you and give your enemies over to you; therefore your camp shall be holy, that He may see no unclean thing among you, and turn away from you.

the death of both consenting parties (vv. 22–24), while lesser penalties are prescribed for a sexual relationship with an unmarried woman (vv. 28, 29). Women depended on their marriage relationship for protection and status in ancient Near Eastern society, and the law provides important protections for women. The penalty for forcible rape of a married woman was the death of the offending man (vv. 25–27). The man who violated the honor of a virgin was compelled to marry her, and could not later divorce her (v. 29).

■ 22:30 A man shall not take his father's wife. Sexual relations with a stepmother are probably in view (Lev. 18:7, 8; 20:11).

■ 23:1 the assembly of the LORD. This phrase refers to the worshiping community gathered before the presence of God, rather than to Israel's population as a whole (Neh. 13:1–3). The Hebrew word for "assembly" (qahal) is usually rendered ekklesia in the Septuagint (the Greek Old Testament). This is also the term used in the Greek New Testament for "church."

■ 23:3 Ammonite or Moabite . . . the tenth generation. As the word "forever" in this verse indicates, "tenth generation" is probably an idiom denoting permanent exclusion from the worshiping community of Israel (cf. Neh. 13:1). This special exclusion of Ammonites and Moabites was due, not to their incestuous origin (Gen. 19:30–38), but to their stubborn opposition to Israel (v. 4; Neh. 13:2). The Old Testament also looks forward to a new covenant in which the exclusions of this passage are transcended (Is. 56:3–8), an event prefigured by Ruth, the Moabite who became the ancestor of David and of the Messiah (Ruth 1:4; 4:17; Matt. 1:5).

■ 23:4 Balaam. Note the clear reference to details in Num. 22—24.

■ 23:9–14 Because the camp of Israelite soldiers was a place of God's presence as divine Warrior (v. 14; 20:4), the camp was to be kept pure of unclean things. In view here are occurrences that were both hygienically and ceremonially unclean: instances of urination or perhaps nocturnal emission (v. 10; cf. Lev. 15:16), and defecation in the camp (v. 13).

15 [l]"You shall not give back to his master the slave who has escaped from his master to you. 16 He may dwell with you in your midst, in the place which he chooses within one of your gates, where it [2]seems best to him; [m]you shall not oppress him.

17 "There shall be no ritual [3]harlot [n]of the daughters of Israel, or a [o]perverted[4] one of the sons of Israel. 18 You shall not bring the wages of a harlot or the price of a dog to the house of the LORD your God for any vowed offering, for both of these are [5]an abomination to the LORD your God.

19 [p]"You shall not charge interest to your brother—interest on money or food or anything that is lent out at interest. 20 [q]To a foreigner you may charge interest, but to your brother you shall not charge interest, [r]that the LORD your God may bless you in all to which you set your hand in the land which you are entering to possess.

21 [s]"When you make a vow to the LORD your God, you shall not delay to pay it; for the LORD your God will surely require it of you, and it would be sin to you. 22 But if you abstain from vowing, it shall not be sin to you. 23 [t]That which has gone from your lips you shall keep and perform, for you voluntarily vowed to the LORD your God what you have promised with your mouth.

24 "When you come into your neighbor's vineyard, you may eat your fill of grapes at your pleasure, but you shall not put any in your container. 25 When you come into your neighbor's standing grain, [u]you may pluck the heads with your hand, but you shall not use a sickle on your neighbor's standing grain.

Law Concerning Divorce

24 "When a [a]man takes a wife and marries her, and it happens that she finds no favor in his eyes because he has found some [1]uncleanness in her, and he writes her a [b]certificate of divorce, puts it in her hand, and sends her out of his house, 2 when she has departed from his house, and goes and becomes another man's wife, 3 if the latter husband detests her and writes her a certificate of divorce, puts it in her hand, and sends her out of his house, or if the latter husband dies who took her as his wife, 4 [c]then her former husband who divorced her must not take her back to be his wife after she has been defiled; for that is [2]an abomination before the LORD, and you shall not bring sin on the land which the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance.

Miscellaneous Laws

5 [d]"When a man has taken a new wife, he shall not go out to war or be charged with any business; he shall be free at home one year, and [e]bring happiness to his wife whom he has taken.

■ 23:15 slave who has escaped. Slavery in Israel was carefully regulated and its abuses limited (15:12 note). In view here is an escaped slave from another country who takes refuge in Israel.

■ 23:17 ritual harlot . . . perverted one. See text notes. Ritual prostitution, involving both male and female prostitutes, was characteristic of the Canaanite fertility religions.

■ 23:19 interest. The agricultural economy of ancient Israel was very different from the commercial economy of today, and borrowing was usually due to poverty. God desired to bless an obedient Israel so that borrowing would be unnecessary (15:4 note), and those whom the Lord had blessed materially were to assist fellow Israelites in distress by not charging interest. This regulation did not apply to those outside the covenant (the "foreigner," v. 20).

■ 23:21 a vow to the LORD. Such a vow was given voluntarily (v. 22). It was a serious matter, and if a valid vow, must be kept. The law of vows is given fully in Lev. 27 and Num. 30.

■ 24:1–4 See "Marriage and Divorce" at Mal. 2:16. The situation described (vv. 1–3) is followed by the legal prescription (v. 4). Divorce was permitted in the Mosaic law, as Jesus later said, "because of the hardness of your hearts" (Matt. 19:8). The restriction on remarriage of a divorced couple after an intervening marriage (v. 4) served to discourage casual divorces.

■ 24:1 some uncleanness. The Hebrew of this phrase is the same as "unclean thing" in 23:14, and is rather general. Adultery is apparently not in view, for adultery was punishable by death (22:22). The fact of divorce for a variety of reasons is recognized, but not necessarily condoned (vv. 1–3 are descriptive, not prescriptive).

■ 24:5 taken a new wife. A one-year exemption for the newly married would not only strengthen the marriage relationship and benefit the home, but would also help the morale of the army (20:1 note).

■ 24:6 take . . . in pledge. Because loans were typically given to relieve the economic hardship of the borrower (23:19 note), the material given "in pledge" was likely not collateral property of value equal to the amount of the loan, but a personal possession given as a token of the promise to pay. In keeping with the purpose of the loan, the lender was not to cause further hardship to the borrower by confiscating essential items such as household millstones or outer garments (vv. 10–13, 17). Other references to Old Testament borrowing practices include Ex. 22:26, 27; Job 22:6; 24:3, 9; Amos 2:8.

■ 24:7 kidnapping . . . his brethren. The chief purpose of kidnapping was the enslavement of others for profit. To sell fellow Israelites into slavery in other countries was forbidden on pain of death, probably because such slaves were cut off from the life of the covenant community (itself a form of "death," Ex. 12:19 and Lev. 7:20 notes). Indentured slavery was allowed within Israel, but was tempered in several important ways (15:12 note). Paul condemns slave traders ("kidnappers") together with other violators of the Ten Commandments (1 Tim. 1:10, 10).

8 "Take heed in [h]an outbreak of leprosy, that you carefully observe and do according to all that the priests, the Levites, shall teach you; just as I commanded them, so you shall be careful to do. 9 [i]Remember what the LORD your God did [j]to Miriam on the way when you came out of Egypt!

10 "When you [k]lend your brother anything, you shall not go into his house to get his pledge. 11 You shall stand outside, and the man to whom you lend shall bring the pledge out to you. 12 And if the man is poor, you shall not [l]keep his pledge overnight. 13 [m]You shall in any case return the pledge to him again when the sun goes down, that he may sleep in his own garment and [m]bless you; and [n]it shall be righteousness to you before the LORD your God.

14 "You shall not [o]oppress a hired servant who is poor and needy, whether one of your brethren or one of the aliens who is in your land within your gates. 15 Each day [p]you shall give him his wages, and not let the sun go down on it, for he is poor and has set his heart on it; [q]lest he cry out against you to the LORD, and it be sin to you.

16 [r]"Fathers shall not be put to death for their children, nor shall children be put to death for their fathers; a person shall be put to death for his own sin.

17 [s]"You shall not pervert justice due the stranger or the fatherless, [t]nor take a widow's garment as a pledge. 18 But [u]you shall remember that you were a slave in Egypt, and the LORD your God redeemed you from there; therefore I command you to do this thing.

19 [v]"When you reap your harvest in your field, and forget a sheaf in the field, you shall not go back to get it; it shall be for the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow, that the LORD your God may [w]bless you in all the work of your hands. 20 When you beat your olive trees, you shall not go over the boughs again; it shall be for the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow. 21 When you gather the grapes of your vineyard, you shall not glean it afterward; it shall be for the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow. 22 And you shall remember that you were a slave in the land of Egypt; therefore I command you to do this thing.

25 "If there is a [a]dispute between men, and they come to [1]court, that the judges may judge them, and they [b]justify the righteous and condemn the wicked, 2 then it shall be, if the wicked man [c]deserves to be beaten, that the judge will cause him to lie down [d]and be beaten in his presence, according to his guilt, with a certain number of blows. 3 [e]Forty blows he may give him and no more, lest he should exceed this and beat him with many blows above these, and your brother [f]be humiliated in your sight.

4 [g]"You shall not muzzle an ox while it [2]treads out the grain.

Marriage Duty of the Surviving Brother

5 [h]"If brothers dwell together, and one of them dies and has no son, the widow of the dead man shall not be married to a stranger outside the family; her husband's brother shall go in to her, take her as his wife, and perform the duty of a husband's brother to her. 6 And it shall be that the firstborn son which she bears [i]will succeed to the name of his dead brother, that [j]his name may not be blotted out of Israel. 7 But if the man does not want to take his brother's wife, then let his brother's wife go up to the [k]gate to the elders, and say, 'My husband's brother refuses to raise up a name to his brother in Israel; he will not perform the duty of my husband's brother.' 8 Then the elders of his city shall call him and speak to him. But if he stands firm and says, [l]'I do not want to take her,' 9 then his brother's wife shall come to him in the presence of the elders, [m]remove his sandal from his foot, spit in his face, and answer and say, 'So shall it be

■ 24:14 a hired servant who is poor. God's concern for the poor and oppressed is emphasized in this passage (Ps. 9:18 note).

■ 24:16 Fathers shall not be put to death for their children. This interesting and just law is quoted in 2 Kin. 14:6 and 2 Chr. 25:4, where it is cited as from the "Book of the Law of Moses" or the "Law in the Book of Moses."

■ 24:19 When you reap your harvest. The compassionate intention of this law is realized in Ruth 2:2–23 (cf. Lev. 19:9, 10; 23:22).

■ 25:3 Forty blows. This is the background of the Jewish practice of giving "forty stripes minus one" (2 Cor. 11:24). The intent was to guard against any possible miscount by erring on the side of mercy.

■ 25:4 You shall not muzzle an ox. According to Paul, this provision for oxen points to the more general principle that those who labor, particularly Christian ministers, deserve fair remuneration for their work (1 Cor. 9:9–12; 1 Tim. 5:18).

■ 25:5 her husband's brother. The law of levirate marriage (from the Latin word levir, meaning "husband's brother") is given only here. The limitation to brothers "living together" may indicate that it applied to an unmarried brother, but it is doubtful that this limitation held in practice. The obvious purpose of the arrangement was to maintain the property rights of the deceased's family line. The levirate custom dates to patriarchal times and is mentioned in Gen. 38:8–11; Ruth 3:1—4:12; Matt. 22:23–28; Mark 12:18–23; and Luke 20:27–33.

Miscellaneous Laws

[11] "If two men fight together, and the wife of one draws near to rescue her husband from the hand of the one attacking him, and puts out her hand and seizes him by the genitals, [12] then you shall cut off her hand; [o]your eye shall not pity her.

You shall not forget.

[3] And you shall go to the one who is priest in those days, and say to him, 'I declare today to the LORD [1]your God that I have come to the country which the LORD swore to our fathers to give us.'

[4] "Then the priest shall take the basket out of your hand and set it down before the altar of the LORD your God. ■ 25:13 differing weights. God's displeasure at dishonest business dealing is stressed (Lev. 19:35, 36; Prov. 11:1; 16:21; 20:10, 23; and Mic. 6:11).

■ 25:17–19 On the historic conflict between Israel and Amalek, see Ex. 17:16 and note.

■ 26:2 first of all the produce. Many scholars suggest that vv. 1–11 refer to a special firstfruits offering that Israel was to bring when they took possession of the land (v. 4), although some relate the ceremony described in these verses to the perpetual firstfruits offering (Lev. 23:9–14). Either way, it is probable that the words of the ceremony reciting God's mighty acts on Israel's behalf (vv. 3–10) continued to be used in Israelite worship.

place . . . God chooses. See note on 12:5.

■ 26:5 Syrian, about to perish. The Hebrew here translated "about to perish" is sometimes rendered "wandering." This verse may refer either to the advanced age of Jacob when he went down to Egypt (Gen. 47:9; cf. 46:30), or to Jacob's changing circumstances and travels to Aram, back to Canaan, throughout Canaan, and finally to Egypt (Gen. 28:2–5; 29:1; 31:20, 21; 33:18; 35:1, 16, 21; 46:1–28).

■ 26:12 the tithe. Regarding the tithe and third year tithe, see notes on 14:22 and 14:28.

■ 26:13 holy tithe. As holy things (things set apart for God) the tithes were not to have been put to any unclean or idolatrous use (v. 14). The phrase "given . . . for the dead" (v. 14) may refer to idolatrous practices (14:1 note).

stranger, the fatherless, and the widow, according to all Your commandments which You have commanded me; I have not transgressed Your commandments, [p]nor have I forgotten them. [14] [q]I have not eaten any of it [5]when in mourning, nor have I removed any of it [6]for an unclean use, nor given any of it for the dead. I have obeyed the voice of the LORD my God, and have done according to all that You have commanded me. [15] [r]Look down from Your holy [7]habitation, from heaven, and bless Your people Israel and the land which You have given us, just as You swore to our fathers, [s]"a land flowing with milk and honey." '

A Special People of God

[16] "This day the LORD your God commands you to observe these statutes and judgments; therefore you shall be careful to observe them with all your heart and with all your soul. [17] Today you have [t]proclaimed the LORD to be your God, and that you will walk in His ways and keep His statutes, His commandments, and His judgments, and that you will [u]obey His voice. [18] Also today [v]the LORD has proclaimed you to be His special people, just as He promised you, that you should keep all His commandments, [19] and that He will set you [w]high above all nations which He has made, in praise, in name, and in honor, and that you may be [x]a [8]holy people to the LORD your God, just as He has spoken."

The Law Inscribed on Stones

27 Now Moses, with the elders of Israel, commanded the people, saying: "Keep all the commandments which I command you today. [2] And it shall be, on the day [a]when you cross over the Jordan to the land which the LORD your God is giving you, that [b]you shall set up for yourselves large stones, and whitewash them with lime. [3] You shall write on them all the words of this law, when you have crossed over, that you may enter the land which the LORD your God is giving you, [c]'a land flowing with milk and honey,' just as the LORD God of your fathers promised you. [4] Therefore it shall be, when you have crossed over the Jordan, that [d]on Mount Ebal you shall set up these stones, which I command you today, and you shall whitewash them with lime. [5] And there you shall build an altar to the LORD your God, an altar of stones; [e]you shall not use an iron tool on them. [6] You shall build with [f]whole stones the altar of the LORD your God, and offer burnt offerings on it to the LORD your God. [7] You shall offer peace offerings, and shall eat there, and [g]rejoice before the LORD your God. [8] And you shall [h]write very plainly on the stones all the words of this law."

[9] Then Moses and the priests, the Levites, spoke to all Israel, saying, "Take heed and listen, O Israel: [h]This day you have become the people of the LORD your God. [10] Therefore you shall obey the voice of the LORD your God, and observe His commandments and His statutes which I command you today."

Curses Pronounced from Mount Ebal

[11] And Moses commanded the people on the same day, saying, [12] "These shall stand [i]on Mount Gerizim to bless the people, when you have crossed over the Jordan: Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, Joseph, and Benjamin; [13] and [j]these shall stand on Mount Ebal to curse: Reuben, Gad, Asher, Zebulun, Dan, and Naphtali.

■ 26:15 Look down from . . . heaven. This phrase was adapted by Solomon in his great prayer at the dedication of the temple (1 Kin. 8:30).

■ 26:16–19 These verses conclude the covenant stipulations section that begins at 12:1. Here the people accepted the terms of God's covenant by their pledge of obedience to the covenant stipulations (v. 17; cf. Ex. 24:7), and the two parties of the covenant (God and the people) "proclaimed" loyalty to the other (vv. 17, 18).

■ 27:1—30:20 Moses continues his book of farewells with a third address devoted especially to the sanctions by which the covenant requirements will be enforced. After summoning the people to covenant oath in light of their rebelliousness, and prophesying covenant renewal in the future, Moses calls for the people to "choose life" according to the promise given to their fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

■ 27:1 Moses . . . commanded. Moses and the elders specify a ceremony of dedication to be held after the Israelites entered the land. The laws would be published; the ceremony would be impressive; the people would add their "Amen," and a liturgy of promised blessings and curses would follow.

■ 27:2 whitewash them with lime. Moses provides for the publication of the law at the covenant renewal ceremony on Mount Ebal (vv. 3, 8). Large stones were to be whitewashed and the words of the law written on them. This technique of writing upon a whitewashed surface is typically Egyptian (the Canaanite and Mesopotamian practice was to inscribe words into stone surfaces). Because Moses was intimately familiar with Egypt and its practices, these verses provide another indication that the text of Deuteronomy dates to the Mosaic era.

■ 27:5 not use an iron tool. The stones were to be uncut or "whole stones" (Josh. 8:31; cf. Ex. 20:25). Because iron was used in the building of Solomon's temple (1 Chr. 22:3, 14), we need not conclude that it was a taboo metal forbidden for religious worship. See note on 8:9.

■ 27:12 These . . . on Mount Gerizim to bless. There is no apparent reason for the precise tribal assignments. Here Levi is included among the regular tribes (even among the six that pronounced the blessings); although some of the Levites were to recite the curses the people would answer. The tribe of Joseph united Manasseh and Ephraim, so the enumeration follows the names of the twelve patriarchs rather than the later tribal divisions.

Blessings on Obedience

28 "Now it shall come to pass, [a]if you diligently obey the voice of the LORD your God, to observe carefully all His commandments which I command you today, that the LORD your God [b]will set you high above all nations of the earth. 2 And all these blessings shall come upon you and [c]overtake you, because you obey the voice of the LORD your God:

3 [d]"Blessed shall you be in the city, and blessed shall you be [e]in the country.

4 "Blessed shall be [f]the [1]fruit of your body, the produce of your ground and the increase of your herds, the increase of your cattle and the offspring of your flocks.

■ 27:15–26 This list of offenses subject to curse is not exhaustive. These offenses may have been chosen as representative of the sorts of sins that might escape detection and so remain secret (cf. vv. 15, 24). Even secret sins would affect Israel's covenant relationship with God (cf. Josh. 7:10–26).

■ 27:15 one who makes a carved . . . image. The first curse concerns idolatry (5:7–9).

Amen. The Hebrew word means "so be it," as it is translated in Num. 5:22.

■ 27:16 treats his father or his mother with contempt. The second curse concerns the fifth commandment (5:16).

■ 27:17 landmark. See note on 19:14.

■ 27:18 makes the blind to wander. Leviticus 19:14 commands care for the disabled.

■ 27:19 perverts the justice. God upholds the cause of the helpless (10:18).

■ 27:20 lies with his father's wife. See note on 22:30.

■ 27:21 lies with any kind of animal. The penalty for this perversion was death (Ex. 22:19; Lev. 18:23; 20:15).

■ 27:22 lies with his sister. This curse concerns both a full sister and a half sister (having the same father but a different mother). See Lev. 18:11; 20:17.

■ 27:23 lies with his mother-in-law. The penalty was death (Lev. 18:17; 20:14).

■ 27:24, 25 Both the secret attacker and the hired assassin fall under divine curse, even though both might expect to avoid detection (vv. 15–26 note).

■ 27:26 does not confirm all the words of this law. The final curse covers all the rest of God's commandments. Paul quotes this verse to underscore the stringency of law's demands and the impossibility of meriting salvation by works (Gal. 3:10). Measured by God's standards, all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God (Rom. 3:23). But this does not remove the obligation of the believer to obey the moral laws of God by the enabling of the Holy Spirit.

■ 28:1–68 After recording the liturgy for the covenant ritual at Mount Ebal and Mount Gerizim (ch. 27), Moses calls on the congregation at Moab to obey the commands of God, setting forth God's promised blessings for obedience and His curses for disobedience. The blessings are briefer and come first. The curses are, in some cases, the exact reverse of the blessings, and they continue with awesome emphasis before climaxing on a note of doom (v. 68).

■ 28:4 fruit . . . produce . . . increase. Their children, crops, and herds will be blessed. For an agricultural people, these were the crucial elements of physical life.

5 "Blessed shall be your basket and your kneading bowl.
6 [g]"Blessed shall you be when you come in, and blessed shall you be when you go out.
7 "The LORD [h]will cause your enemies who rise against you to be defeated before your face; they shall come out against you one way and flee before you seven ways.
8 "The LORD will [i]command the blessing on you in your storehouses and in all to which you [j]set your hand, and He will bless you in the land which the LORD your God is giving you.
9 [k]"The LORD will establish you as a holy people to Himself, just as He has sworn to you, if you keep the commandments of the LORD your God and walk in His ways. 10 Then all peoples of the earth shall see that you are [l]called by the name of the LORD, and they shall be [m]afraid of you.
11 And [n]the LORD will grant you plenty of goods, in the fruit of your body, in the increase of your livestock, and in the produce of your ground, in the land of which the LORD [2]swore to your fathers to give you. 12 The LORD will open to you His good [3]treasure, the heavens, [o]to give the rain to your land in its season, and [p]to bless all the work of your hand. [q]You shall lend to many nations, but you shall not borrow. 13 And the LORD will make [r]you the head and not the tail; you shall be above only, and not be beneath, if you [4]heed the commandments of the LORD your God, which I command you today, and are careful to observe them. 14 [s]So you shall not turn aside from any of the words which I command you this day, to the right or the left, to go after other gods to serve them.

Curses on Disobedience

15 "But it shall come to pass, [t]if you do not obey the voice of the LORD your God, to observe carefully all His commandments and His statutes which I command you today, that all these curses will come upon you and overtake you:
16 "Cursed shall you be in the city, and cursed shall you be in the country.
17 "Cursed shall be your basket and your kneading bowl.
18 "Cursed shall be the [5]fruit of your body and the produce of your land, the increase of your cattle and the offspring of your flocks.
19 "Cursed shall you be when you come in, and cursed shall you be when you go out.
20 "The LORD will send on you [u]cursing, [v]confusion, and [w]rebuke in all that you set your hand to do, until you are destroyed and until you perish quickly, because of the wickedness of your doings in which you have forsaken Me. 21 The LORD will make the [6]plague cling to you until He has consumed you from the land which you are going to possess. 22 [x]The LORD will strike you with consumption, with fever, with inflammation, with severe burning fever, with the sword, with [y]scorching,[7] and with mildew; they shall pursue you until you perish. 23 And [z]your heavens which are over your head shall be bronze, and the earth which is under you shall be iron. 24 The LORD will change the rain of your land to powder and dust; from the heaven it shall come down on you until you are destroyed.
25 [a]"The LORD will cause you to be defeated before your enemies; you shall go out one way against them and flee seven ways before them; and you shall become [8]troublesome to all the kingdoms of the earth. 26 [b]Your carcasses shall be food for all the birds of the air and the beasts of the earth, and no one shall frighten them away. 27 The LORD will strike you with [c]the boils of Egypt, with [d]tumors, with the scab, and with the itch, from which you cannot be healed. 28 The LORD will strike you with madness and blindness and [e]confusion of heart. 29 And you shall [f]grope at noonday, as a blind man gropes in darkness; you shall not prosper in your ways; you shall be only oppressed and plundered continually, and no one shall save you.

■ 28:5 your basket and your kneading bowl. Household endeavors would be blessed.

■ 28:6 come in . . . go out. This idiom referring to normal, everyday activities underscores the comprehensiveness of divine blessing (cf. 31:2). God will bless an obedient people in every way.

■ 28:10 See "This Is My Name': God's Self-disclosure" at Ex. 3:15.

■ 28:11 in the land. The blessings detailed above will be realized in the Land of Promise—itself a major part of the blessing.

■ 28:12 His good treasure, the heavens. This idiom expresses the conviction that the rainfall so crucial to Israel's agricultural prosperity was a gift of God (11:11–17; Ps. 104:13). Here is an implicit warning against the Canaanite fertility religions which ascribed the rainfall to the pagan god Baal.

■ 28:16–19 The curses here negatively mirror the blessings of vv. 3–6.

■ 28:23 bronze . . . iron. These metaphors of rainless sky and barren land would be frightful to an agricultural people so dependent on rain and soil (cf. Lev. 26:19).

■ 28:25 defeated before your enemies. The expression is the reverse of the blessing in v. 7, with the added horror that their corpses would be exposed with no one to give them decent burial (v. 26).

■ 28:27 The various diseases mentioned here cannot be precisely identified. They may be included in the "diseases of Egypt" (v. 60), from which God had promised to deliver them (7:15; Ex. 15:26) if they would obey His laws. Egyptians suffered from a variety of tropical diseases and parasites. (cf. 14:3–21 note).

47 [w]"Because you did not serve the LORD your God with joy and gladness of heart, [x]for the abundance of everything, 48 therefore you shall serve your enemies, whom the LORD will send against you, in [y]hunger, in thirst, in nakedness, and in need of everything; and He [z]will put a yoke of iron on your neck until He has destroyed you. 49 [a]The LORD will bring a nation against you from afar, from the end of the earth, [b]as swift as the eagle flies, a nation whose language you will not understand, 50 a nation of fierce countenance, [c]which does not respect the elderly nor show favor to the young. 51 And they shall eat the increase of your livestock and the produce of your land, until you are destroyed; they shall not leave you grain or new wine or oil, or the increase of your cattle or the offspring of your flocks, until they have destroyed you.

■ 28:35 sole of your foot . . . head. A description of great torment, also used to describe Job's boils (Job 2:7).

■ 28:36, 37 The covenantal curse of captivity and exile mentioned here becomes an important element of the prophetic covenant lawsuits against disobedient Israel later in the Old Testament (e.g., Is. 5:13; Jer. 13:19; 29:17–19).

■ 28:36 the king whom you set over you. See 17:14–17 for another mention of possible future kingship in Israel.

■ 28:44 He shall lend to you. This curse, like several in this section, is the reverse of an earlier blessing (vv. 12, 13; 23:19 note).

■ 28:49 the end of the earth. This expression for extreme distance is based on how the eye perceives the earth to end where horizon and sky meet; it is equivalent to "from afar" (cf. 13:7).

■ 28:53 eat the fruit of your own body. Cannibalism was a dreadful accompaniment of ancient sieges, when a city's food supply would be cut off for lengthy periods. This curse found frightful fulfillment during the sieges of Samaria and Jerusalem (2 Kin. 6:28, 29; Jer. 19:9; Lam. 2:20; 4:10).

58 "If you do not carefully observe all the words of this law that are written in this book, that you may fear [i]this glorious and awesome name, THE LORD YOUR GOD, 59 then the LORD will bring upon you and your descendants [j]extraordinary plagues—great and prolonged plagues—and serious and prolonged sicknesses. 60 Moreover He will bring back on you all [k]the diseases of Egypt, of which you were afraid, and they shall cling to you. 61 Also every sickness and every plague, which is not written in this Book of the Law, will the LORD bring upon you until you are destroyed. 62 You [l]shall be left few in number, whereas you were [m]as the stars of heaven in multitude, because you would not obey the voice of the LORD your God. 63 And it shall be, that just as the LORD [n]rejoiced over you to do you good and multiply you, so the LORD [o]will rejoice over you to destroy you and bring you to nothing; and you shall be [p]plucked[3] from off the land which you go to possess.

64 "Then the LORD [q]will scatter you among all peoples, from one end of the earth to the other, and [r]there you shall serve other gods, which neither you nor your fathers have known—wood and stone. 65 And [s]among those nations you shall find no rest, nor shall the sole of your foot have a resting place; [t]but there the LORD will give you a [4]trembling heart, failing eyes, and [u]anguish of soul. 66 Your life shall hang in doubt before you; you shall fear day and night, and have no assurance of life. 67 [v]In the morning you shall say, 'Oh, that it were evening!' And at evening you shall say, 'Oh, that it were morning!' because of the fear which terrifies your heart, and [w]because of the sight which your eyes see.

68 "And the LORD [x]will take you back to Egypt in ships, by the way of which I said to you, [y]'You shall never see it again.' And there you shall be offered for sale to your enemies as male and female slaves, but no one will buy you."

The Covenant Renewed in Moab

29 These are the words of the covenant which the LORD commanded Moses to make with the children of Israel in the land of Moab, besides the [a]covenant which He made with them in Horeb.

2 Now Moses called all Israel and said to them: [b]"You have seen all that the LORD did before your eyes in the land of Egypt, to Pharaoh and to all his servants and to all his land— 3 [c]the great trials which your eyes have seen, the signs, and those great wonders. 4 Yet [d]the LORD has not given you a heart to [1]perceive and eyes to see and ears to hear, to this very day. 5 [e]And I have led you forty years in the wilderness. [f]Your clothes have not worn out on you, and your sandals have not worn out on your feet. 6 [g]You have not eaten bread, nor have you drunk wine or similar drink, that you may know that I am the LORD your God. 7 And when you came to this place, [h]Sihon king of Heshbon and Og king of Bashan came out against us to battle, and we conquered them. 8 We took their land and [i]gave it as an inheritance to the Reubenites, to the Gadites, and to half the tribe of Manasseh. 9 Therefore [j]keep the words of this covenant, and do them, that you may [k]prosper in all that you do.

10 "All of you stand today before the LORD your God: your leaders and your tribes and your elders and your officers, all the men of Israel, 11 your little ones and your wives—also the stranger who is in your camp, from [l]the one who cuts your wood to the one who draws your

■ 28:58 this glorious and awesome name. See "'This Is My Name': God's Self-disclosure" at Ex. 3:15.

■ 28:61 this Book of the Law. The written record documenting the terms of a covenant had legal status and was a crucial part of the ancient Near Eastern treaty (Introduction: Date and Occasion). Deuteronomy as such is the record of God's covenant with His people (v. 58; 31:24–26).

■ 28:64 will scatter you. Some argue that these threats of exile indicate that portions of Deuteronomy were written during or after the Babylonian exile (sixth century B.C.). This argument is rooted in the view that supernatural predictive prophecy is impossible. But in fact, this covenant curse is couched in more general terms than would apply to the Babylonian exile. It threatens a widespread dispersion "from one end of the earth to the other." It may find fulfillment in the Assyrian and Babylonian exiles, as well as in the dispersion of the Jews after the fall of Jerusalem in A.D. 70.

■ 28:68 but no one will buy you. This theme of abandonment echoes v. 29. The aggregation of curses here is overwhelming. This chapter should be compared with the similar but shorter Lev. 26, which ends with the possibility of confession, repentance, and restoration. Here, the theme of possible restoration is left for ch. 30.

■ 29:1 the covenant . . . in the land of Moab. Scholars debate whether v. 1 concludes what precedes or introduces what follows. The latter, as reflected in the NKJV text division, is more likely. This "covenant . . . in the land of Moab" is a renewal of the Sinai covenant ("the covenant . . . in Horeb"). As usual, Moses recites the history of God's mighty acts on Israel's behalf in the Exodus from Egypt and in the wilderness (cf. Moses' speech in 1:6—4:38). There follows a warning against departing from the Lord, a promise of restoration upon repentance, and a solemn charge to obey.

Horeb. See note on 1:6.

■ 29:2 in the land of Egypt. The deliverance from Egypt, which occupies a third of the Book of Exodus, is mentioned many times in Deuteronomy (e.g., 1:30; 4:20, 34; 5:6; 11:2–7).

■ 29:4 the LORD has not given . . . eyes to see. Paul combines this verse with Is. 29:10, and applies both verses to the Jews of his day (Rom. 11:8).

■ 29:5 forty years. The special preservation of clothes was mentioned in 8:4. The additional fact given here is that they drank no wine or other fermented drink, since there were no grapes in the desert. They also had no bread, but God supplied them with manna.

water— [12] that you may enter into covenant with the LORD your God, and [m]into His oath, which the LORD your God makes with you today, [13] that He may [n]establish you today as a people for Himself, and that He may be God to you, [o]just as He has spoken to you, and [p]just as He has sworn to your fathers, to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

[14] "I make this covenant and this oath, [q]not with you alone, [15] but with him who stands here with us today before the LORD our God, [r]as well as with him who is not here with us today [16] (for you know that we dwelt in the land of Egypt and that we came through the nations which you passed by, [17] and you saw their [2]abominations and their idols which were among them—wood and stone and silver and gold); [18] so that there may not be among you man or woman or family or tribe, [s]whose heart turns away today from the LORD our God, to go and serve the gods of these nations, [t]and that there may not be among you a root bearing [u]bitterness or wormwood; [19] and so it may not happen, when he hears the words of this curse, that he blesses himself in his heart, saying, 'I shall have peace, even though I [3]follow the [v]dictates of my heart'—[w]as though the drunkard could be included with the sober.

[20] [x]"The LORD would not spare him; for then [y]the anger of the LORD and [z]His jealousy would burn against that man, and every curse that is written in this book would settle on him, and the LORD [a]would blot out his name from under heaven. [21] And the LORD [b]would separate him from all the tribes of Israel for adversity, according to all the curses of the covenant that are written in this Book of the [c]Law, [22] so that the coming generation of your children who rise up after you, and the foreigner who comes from a far land, would say, when they [d]see the plagues of that land and the sicknesses which the LORD has laid on it:

[23] 'The whole land is brimstone, [e]salt, and burning; it is not sown, nor does it bear, nor does any grass grow there, [f]like the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah, Admah, and Zeboiim, which the LORD overthrew in His anger and His wrath.' [24] All nations would say, [g]'Why has the LORD done so to this land? What does the heat of this great anger mean?' [25] Then people would say: 'Because they have forsaken the covenant of the LORD God of their fathers, which He made with them when He brought them out of the land of Egypt; [26] for they went and served other gods and worshiped them, gods that they did not know and that He had not given to them. [27] Then the anger of the LORD was aroused against this land, [h]to bring on it every curse that is written in this book. [28] And the LORD [i]uprooted them from their land in anger, in wrath, and in great indignation, and cast them into another land, as it is this day.'

[29] "The secret things belong to the LORD our God, but those things which are revealed belong to us and to our children forever, that we may do all the words of this law.

The Blessing of Returning to God

30 "Now [a]it shall come to pass, when [b]all these things come upon you, the blessing and the [c]curse which I have set before you, and [d]you [1]call them to mind among all the nations where the LORD your God drives you, [2] and you [e]return to the LORD your God and obey His

■ 29:12 enter into covenant. In terming this a renewal of the Sinai covenant, we should remember that the covenant was the same, but the people were not. All those over twenty at Sinai had perished in the wilderness. Many of the people under twenty then, now between forty and sixty, had seen the great events but had not taken part. Now they too were to affirm the covenant.

■ 29:19 as though the drunkard . . . included with the sober. The Hebrew of this phrase (apparently an ancient proverb) is difficult to translate. The word here rendered "included" can be translated "add" or, alternatively, have the sense of "sweep" or "destroy." Similarly, the terms here rendered "drunkard" and "sober" are sometimes translated "watered land" and "dry land." The entire phrase as translated here means that the sinner will not escape judgment by hiding undetected in the company of the righteous (cf. v. 21). Another possibility is to render the phrase "so that the well-watered land is destroyed along with dry land" or "so that the drunkard is destroyed along with the thirsty," indicating that the sin of one brings disaster on many (cf. vv. 22–25). A third possible translation is "to add drunkenness to thirst," meaning that the sinful man compounds his guilt by sinking further into sin.

■ 29:21 this Book of the Law. See note on 28:61 (cf. Josh. 1:7, 8).

■ 29:23 Sodom. The four cities of the plain that were destroyed in Abraham's day are named. In Gen. 14 five cities of the plain are mentioned, but not their destruction. In Gen. 19 Sodom and Gomorrah are mentioned and the whole area is said to be destroyed, but Zoar is spared. Deuteronomy puts the two records together and lists the four destroyed cities. The judgment of Sodom was a prophetic model of divine wrath. Like Moses, Isaiah compares the judgment of Israel to that of Sodom (Is. 1:10). Jesus also compares the judgment at His Second Advent to that of Sodom (Luke 17:28–35), as does Peter (2 Pet. 2:6).

■ 29:29 The meaning of the latter part of this verse is apparent: God's revealed law is of vital importance, and the Israelites and their children must follow this revealed law. The reference to "secret things" may suggest that Moses faces the uncertain future of the nation, remembering their waywardness and how they turned to the golden calf at Horeb (Ex. 32). In this uncertainty Moses trusts the hidden future to his trustworthy God.

■ 30:1–10 Anticipating the real possibility of judgment and exile for Israel, Moses looks beyond the time of judgment to Israel's future repentance, restoration, and divine blessing. Significantly, this future blessing will include deliverance from slavery to sin. Moses' reference to the circumcision of the "heart" (v. 6; cf. 10:16) is foundational for the later prophetic expectation (Jer. 31:31–34; Ezek. 36:25–27), and finds fulfillment in the New Testament (Rom. 2:29).

■ 30:2 with all your heart and with all your soul. Moses refers again to the great commandment of 6:5, holding out the hope of repentance even where there had been apostasy and judgment.

voice, according to all that I command you today, you and your children, with all your heart and with all your soul, 3 *f*that the LORD your God will bring you back from captivity, and have compassion on you, and *g*gather you again from all the nations where the LORD your God has scattered you. 4 *h*If any of you are driven out to the farthest parts under heaven, from there the LORD your God will gather you, and from there He will bring you. 5 Then the LORD your God will bring you to the land which your fathers possessed, and you shall possess it. He will prosper you and multiply you more than your fathers. 6 And *i*the LORD your God will circumcise your heart and the heart of your descendants, to love the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul, that you may live.

7 "Also the LORD your God will put all these *j*curses on your enemies and on those who hate you, who persecuted you. 8 And you will *k*again obey the voice of the LORD and do all His commandments which I command you today. 9 *l*The LORD your God will make you abound in all the work of your hand, in the [2]fruit of your body, in the increase of your livestock, and in the produce of your land for good. For the LORD will again *m*rejoice over you for good as He rejoiced over your fathers, 10 if you obey the voice of the LORD your God, to keep His commandments and His statutes which are written in this Book of the Law, and if you turn to the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul.

The Choice of Life or Death

11 "For this commandment which I command you today n[3]is not too mysterious for you, nor is it far off. 12 *o*It is not in heaven, that you should say, 'Who will ascend into heaven for us and bring it to us, that we may hear it and do it?' 13 Nor is it beyond the sea, that you should say, 'Who will go over the sea for us and bring it to us, that we may hear it and do it?' 14 But the word is very near you, *p*in your mouth and in your heart, that you may do it.

15 "See, *q*I have set before you today life and good, death and evil, 16 in that I command you today to love the LORD your God, to walk in His ways, and to keep His commandments, His statutes, and His judgments, that you may live and multiply; and the LORD your God will bless you in the land which you go to possess. 17 But if your heart turns away so that you do not hear, and are drawn away, and worship other gods and serve them, 18 *r*I announce to you today that you shall surely perish; you shall not prolong your days in the land which you cross over the Jordan to go in and possess. 19 *s*I call heaven and earth as witnesses today against you, that *t*I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing; therefore choose life, that both you and your descendants may live; 20 that you may love the LORD your God, that you may obey His voice, and that you may cling to Him, for He is your *u*life and the length of your days; and that you may dwell in the land which the LORD swore to your fathers, to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, to give them."

■ 30:4, 5 The measure of God's compassion in restoration will equal or exceed the measure of His wrath in judgment and exile.

■ 30:6 the LORD . . . will circumcise your heart. See notes on vv. 1–10 and 10:16. The promised restoration and renewal will result from a sovereign work of God in the hearts of His elect. By circumcising (transforming) their hearts, He will replace their total inability and stubbornness (5:29; 10:16; 29:4) with the humility and repentance they need (cf. vv. 1, 2), purifying for Himself a people who will love and obey Him. See "Legalism" at Matt. 23:4.

■ 30:7 on your enemies. The future restoration will bring a fulfillment of the promise made to Abraham and his seed: "I will curse him who curses you" (Gen. 12:3). Moses links the restoration pictured in vv. 3–10 to another judgment by God against the enemies of His people.

■ 30:10 The blessings of the renewed covenant will be inseparable from, but not based on, the obedience of the restored remnant of the people to their Lord's commandments (cf., e.g., Matt. 7:21). The obedience of Christ, which is the victory over sin in which the remnant by faith will share, is the only meritorious basis of such blessings.

■ 30:11–14 Recalling his words in 6:6, Moses maintains that the commandment God revealed through him and the righteousness it required were readily accessible to and attainable by Israel (v. 11). He anticipates, however, that those with uncircumcised hearts and ears will raise questions denying these truths, and will seek to establish a righteousness of their own (vv. 12, 13). Moses rebukes such stubbornness, insisting that the word of righteousness is found "in your mouth and in your heart" (v. 14)—in the mouth and heart that speak not in the unbelief and rebellion of their own righteousness, but in the faith and humility of the Lord's righteousness. This righteousness the Lord demonstrated in the works of salvation and judgment, by which He confirmed His oath to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (cf. 8:17, 18; 9:4–6; 30:1–7; especially 1:29–33; 9:23). The commandment that Moses proclaimed here was a word calling for faith, and the righteousness it reveals is a righteousness attained by faith (cf. v. 10 note). Paul alludes to these verses in Rom. 10:6–8, updating Moses' admonition in view of the revelation of God's righteousness in the Person and work of Christ. Paul preaches the word that calls for faith where Moses had to leave off, insisting that Israel (and the Gentiles, Rom. 10:12, 13) must now confess with their mouths that Jesus is Lord (cf. Deut. 6:4), and believe with their hearts that God raised Him from the dead (Rom. 10:9). God's work in Jesus Christ yet again reveals His righteousness (Rom. 3:21–26), and confirms His oath to the fathers (cf. Rom. 4:18–25; Gal. 3). See "The Word of God: Scripture as Revelation" at Ex. 32:16.

■ 30:15 I have set before you. Moses calls for a decision. There are two ways: life or death, God's blessing or sure judgment. Joshua presented the same alternatives (Josh. 24:15), and Jesus, who is greater than Moses or Joshua, calls His disciples to take the narrow path that leads to life (Matt. 7:13, 14).

■ 30:19 heaven and earth as witnesses. The mention of witnesses recalls the form of ancient Near Eastern treaty documents, which have a list of witnesses at the end, often the names of pagan gods. In the biblical covenant, God's creation is called to witness against His people.

Joshua the New Leader of Israel

31 Then Moses went and spoke these words to all Israel. 2 And he said to them: "I [a]am one hundred and twenty years old today. I can no longer [b]go out and come in. Also the LORD has said to me, [c]'You shall not cross over this Jordan.' 3 The LORD your God [d]Himself crosses over before you; He will destroy these nations from before you, and you shall dispossess them. [e]Joshua himself crosses over before you, just [f]as the LORD has said. 4 [g]And the LORD will do to them [h]as He did to Sihon and Og, the kings of the Amorites and their land, when He destroyed them. 5 [i]The LORD will give them over to you, that you may do to them according to every commandment which I have commanded you. 6 [j]Be strong and of good courage, [k]do not fear nor be afraid of them; for the LORD your God, [l]He is the One who goes with you. [m]He will not leave you nor forsake you."

7 Then Moses called Joshua and said to him in the sight of all Israel, [n]"Be strong and of good courage, for you must go with this people to the land which the LORD has sworn to their fathers to give them, and you shall cause them to inherit it. 8 And the LORD, [o]He is the One who goes before you. [p]He will be with you, He will not leave you nor forsake you; do not fear nor be dismayed."

The Law to Be Read Every Seven Years

9 So Moses wrote this law [q]and delivered it to the priests, the sons of Levi, [r]who bore the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and to all the elders of Israel. 10 And Moses commanded them, saying: "At the end of every seven years, at the appointed time in the [s]year of release, [t]at the Feast of Tabernacles, 11 when all Israel comes to [u]appear before the LORD your God in the [v]place which He chooses, [w]you shall read this law before all Israel in their hearing. 12 [x]Gather the people together, men and women and little ones, and the stranger who is within your gates, that they may hear and that they may learn to fear the LORD your God and carefully observe all the words of this law, 13 and that their children, [y]who have not known it, [z]may hear and learn to fear the LORD your God as long as you live in the land which you cross the Jordan to possess."

Prediction of Israel's Rebellion

14 Then the LORD said to Moses, [a]"Behold, the days approach when you must die; call Joshua, and present yourselves in the tabernacle of meeting, that [b]I may [t]inaugurate him."

So Moses and Joshua went and presented themselves in the tabernacle of meeting. 15 Now [c]the LORD appeared at the tabernacle in a pillar of cloud, and the pillar of cloud stood above the door of the tabernacle.

■ 31:1—34:12 In this final section of his work, Moses provides for a smooth transition in covenant administration after his death. Also included are the Song of Moses and Moses' blessing of the twelve tribes. The book concludes with an obituary for Moses.

■ 31:1 Moses went and spoke. This brief exhortation (vv. 1–8) can hardly be called another address, but is part of Moses' arrangement of his final affairs and the transfer of authority to Joshua, his successor (Introduction: Outline).

■ 31:2 one hundred and twenty years old. Acts 7:30 tells us that Moses had spent forty years in Midian tending sheep. This time was not wasted, as he learned the geography and climate of the Sinai peninsula in preparation for leading the Israelites in that area for another forty years. The humiliation of being reduced from a prince in Egypt to being a hired tender of sheep also accomplished the divine disciplinary purpose of preparing Moses for his greater role as shepherd of God's people. This leaves forty years for Moses' youth and training in Egypt. So God ensured that Moses was prepared for his great task.

can no longer go out and come in. A reference to limitations on Moses' daily activities as leader of the vast company of Israelites (28:6 note). The statement in 34:7 that Moses' "eyes were not dim nor his natural vigor diminished" need not mean that he felt no effects of his advanced age. Moses' many-faceted role as Israel's leader was coming to an end.

■ 31:3 Joshua himself crosses over. See notes on 1:37 and 3:23. Though the aged Moses was still active (34:7), the conquest of Canaan would require some years, and it was time for the younger man to take charge. Most importantly, the Lord Himself would lead as He had done with Moses (Ex. 33:14, 15).

■ 31:6 Be strong and of good courage. These and the following words resemble the encouragement God gave Joshua after Moses died (Josh. 1:9).

■ 31:7 Moses called Joshua. The transfer of political power is often a delicate matter. Moses wisely, and at God's command, elevated Joshua in the presence of the people.

■ 31:9 Moses wrote this law. The conclusion of Moses' covenant ministry is marked by the completion of the law (vv. 24–26; 28:61 note). Repeatedly in Deuteronomy and Exodus, Moses is said to have written down the law or laws of the Lord. In Leviticus most of the chapters begin with the words, "The LORD spoke to Moses." God used Moses preeminently to speak and write His word for Israel (18:15–19 note).

■ 31:10–13 Moses provides for regular instruction of the people and their children in the covenant law by the priests, at a point in the year when the people had ample time to learn. The Feast of Tabernacles came in the fall and lasted a week (16:13–17 note). During the sabbatical year the land was to lie fallow, and the people would not have been burdened with agricultural duties (15:1 note). This practice of reading the law at regular intervals was characteristic of the suzerainty treaties among nations of Moses' time, which typically provided for the regular publication of the covenantal terms of agreement (Introduction: Date and Occasion).

■ 31:14 the tabernacle of meeting. Joshua's legitimacy and authority as Moses' successor are underscored by his commission at the tabernacle of meeting, accompanied by God's appearance in the pillar of cloud (cf. Num. 12:4–12).

16 And the LORD said to Moses: "Behold, you will [2]rest with your fathers; and this people will [d]rise and [e]play the harlot with the gods of the foreigners of the land, where they go to be among them, and they will [f]forsake Me and [g]break My covenant which I have made with them. 17 Then My anger shall be [h]aroused against them in that day, and [i]I will forsake them, and I will [j]hide My face from them, and they shall be [3]devoured. And many evils and troubles shall befall them, so that they will say in that day, [k]'Have not these evils come upon us because our God is [l]not among us?' 18 And [m]I will surely hide My face in that day because of all the evil which they have done, in that they have turned to other gods.

19 "Now therefore, write down this song for yourselves, and teach it to the children of Israel; put it in their mouths, that this song may be [n]a witness for Me against the children of Israel. 20 When I have brought them to the land flowing with milk and honey, of which I swore to their fathers, and they have eaten and filled themselves [o]and grown fat, [p]then they will turn to other gods and serve them; and they will provoke Me and break My covenant. 21 Then it shall be, [q]when many evils and troubles have come upon them, that this song will testify against them as a witness; for it will not be forgotten in the mouths of their descendants, for [r]I know the inclination [s]of their behavior today, even before I have brought them to the land of which I swore to give them."

22 Therefore Moses wrote this song the same day, and taught it to the children of Israel. 23 [t]Then He inaugurated Joshua the son of Nun, and said, [u]"Be strong and of good courage; for you shall bring the children of Israel into the land of which I swore to them, and I will be with you."

24 So it was, when Moses had completed writing the words of this law in a book, when they were finished, 25 that Moses commanded the Levites, who bore the ark of the covenant of the LORD, saying: 26 "Take this Book of the Law, [v]and put it beside the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God, that it may be there [w]as a witness against you; 27 [x]for I know your rebellion and your [y]stiff neck. If today, while I am yet alive with you, you have been rebellious against the LORD, then how much more after my death? 28 Gather to me all the elders of your tribes, and your officers, that I may speak these words in their hearing [z]and call heaven and earth to witness against them. 29 For I know that after my death you will [a]become utterly corrupt, and turn aside from the way which I have commanded you. And [b]evil will befall you [c]in the latter days, because you will do evil in the sight of the LORD, to provoke Him to anger through the work of your hands."

The Song of Moses

30 Then Moses spoke in the hearing of all the assembly of Israel the words of this song until they were ended:

32 "Give [a]ear, O heavens, and I will speak;
And hear, O [b]earth, the words of my mouth.
2 Let [c]my [1]teaching drop as the rain,
My speech distill as the dew,
[d]As raindrops on the tender herb,
And as showers on the grass.
3 For I proclaim the [e]name of the LORD:
[f]Ascribe greatness to our God.
4 He is [g]the Rock, [h]His work is perfect;

Righteous and upright is He.

■ 31:19 write down this song for yourselves. Knowing the people's inclination to be unfaithful (v. 21), and realizing the power of song in worship and in memory, the Lord commands Moses to write a song that would serve as a testimony in future days. Other examples of Moses' poetry include Ex. 15:1–18; 32:18; Num. 10:35, 36; and Ps. 90.

■ 32:1 O heavens . . . O earth. Moses had called heaven and earth as witnesses at the end of the covenant renewal in 30:19.

■ 32:3 proclaim the name of the LORD. This song was to witness in future days to the Lord, His goodness, and His saving work for Israel (31:19).

■ 32:4 Rock. This chapter provides the first instances in Scripture of "Rock" as a name for God (vv. 15, 18, 30; there is a similar image in Gen. 49:24 using a different Hebrew word). Suggesting God's steadfast faithfulness and permanence, the term is common in the Psalms and other poetic passages (Ps. 95:1; Is. 44:8).

6 Do you thus [m]deal[2] with the LORD,
O foolish and unwise people?
Is He not [n]your Father, who [o]bought you?
Has He not [p]made you and established you?

7 "Remember[q] the days of old,
Consider the years of many generations.
[r]Ask your father, and he will show you;
Your elders, and they will tell you:
8 When the Most High [s]divided their inheritance to the nations,
When He [t]separated the sons of Adam,
He set the boundaries of the peoples
According to the number of the [3]children of Israel.
9 For [u]the LORD's portion is His people;
Jacob is the place of His inheritance.

10 "He found him [v]in a desert land
And in the wasteland, a howling wilderness;
He encircled him, He instructed him,
He [w]kept him as the [4]apple of His eye.
11 [x]As an eagle stirs up its nest,
Hovers over its young,
Spreading out its wings, taking them up,
Carrying them on its wings,
12 So the LORD alone led him,
And there was no foreign god with him.

13 "He[y] made him ride in the heights of the earth,
That he might eat the produce of the fields;
He made him draw honey from the rock,
And oil from the flinty rock;
14 Curds from the cattle, and milk of the flock,

You are obese!
Then he [c]forsook God who [d]made him,
And scornfully esteemed the [e]Rock of his salvation.
16 [f]They provoked Him to jealousy with foreign gods;
With [5]abominations they provoked Him to anger.
17 [g]They sacrificed to demons, not to God,

■ 32:5 Because of their blemish. Note the sharp contrast between the steadfast, righteous God (v. 4) and the corrupt nation (v. 5).

■ 32:8 their inheritance. The meaning here is that God by decree gave the Promised Land to Israel. It was an ancient grant to the patriarchs (v. 7).

According to . . . the children of Israel. God is sovereign over all of world history, but world history itself is ordered in the interests of God's plan of redemption for His chosen people Israel (Gen. 12:3).

■ 32:10 as the apple of His eye. A reference to the pupil of the eye (text note). Just as the pupil of the eye is closely guarded against harm, so God protects Israel.

■ 32:11 Hovers over its young. The image is of an eagle teaching its young to fly. The poetic figures of the Song of Moses are powerful expressions of God's dealings with His people. See also Gen. 1:2 and note.

■ 32:14 rams of . . . Bashan. See note at 3:1.

■ 32:15 Jeshurun. From the Hebrew term for "upright" (yashar). Often used to represent Israel as the upright people of a holy and righteous God (33:5, 26; Is. 44:2), here the term is used ironically.

grew fat and kicked. Israel is described with the telling figure of a well-fed ox.

Demons

"Demon," or "devil" (as some translations render the words), is from the Greek daimon and daimonion, the regular terms in the Gospels for the spiritual beings, corrupt and hostile to both God and man, whom Jesus exorcised from their victims during His earthly ministry. The demons are fallen angels, deathless creatures serving Satan (Jesus equated Beelzebub, their reputed ruler, with Satan, Matt. 12:24–29). Having joined Satan's rebellion, they were cast out of heaven to await final judgment (2 Pet. 2:4; Jude 6). Their minds are permanently opposed to God, goodness, truth, the kingdom of Christ, and the welfare of human beings. They have real but limited power and freedom of movement, though in Calvin's picturesque phrase they "drag their chains wherever they go," and can never hope to overcome God.

The level and intensity of demonic manifestations in people during Christ's ministry was unique, having no parallel in Old Testament times or since; it was doubtless part of Satan's desperate battle for his kingdom against Christ's attack on it (Matt. 12:29). Demons have both knowledge and strength (Mark 1:24; 9:17–27). They inflicted or exploited physical and mental maladies (Mark 5:1–15; 9:17, 18; Luke 11:14). They recognized and feared Christ, to whose authority they were subject (Mark 1:25; 3:11, 12; 9:25), though He said that it required effort in prayer to expel them (Mark 9:29).

Christ authorized and equipped the twelve and the seventy to cast out demons in His name (that is, by His power, Luke 9:1; 10:17), and the ministry of exorcism continues to be an occasional pastoral necessity. The sixteenth-century Lutheran church abolished exorcism, believing that Christ's victory over Satan had suppressed demonic invasion forever, but this was premature.

Satan's army of demons uses subtler strategies also—deception and discouragement in many forms. To oppose these is the task of spiritual warfare (Eph. 6:10–18). Though demons can cause trouble of different kinds for regenerate persons in whom the Holy Spirit dwells, they cannot deter God's final purpose of saving His elect, any more than they can escape their own eternal torment. As the devil is God's devil (as Luther put it), so the demons are God's demons, defeated enemies (Col. 2:15) whose limited power is only permitted for the advancement of God's glory as His people contend with them. □

■ 32:21 not a nation. Just as Israel provoked God by worshiping that which was "not God," so God would provoke them by means of "those who are not a nation" (people outside the sphere of the Mosaic covenant). This prophecy is partly fulfilled in the Old Testament as Israel is defeated by God's instruments of judgment, the Assyrians and Babylonians (Is. 10:5; Jer. 21:4–10). In the New Testament, Paul finds further fulfillment of this verse in the extension of the gospel to the Gentiles (Rom. 10:19; 11:11).

■ 32:22 a fire is kindled . . . to the lowest hell. For the figure of God's anger as a consuming fire, see Ps. 21:9; Jer. 15:14; 17:4. The poetic figure here represents God's wrath as an all-devouring fire that burns to the deepest grave, consumes the surface of the earth, and reaches to the roots of the mountains.

And shall burn to the [7]lowest [8]hell;
It shall consume the earth with her increase,
And set on fire the foundations of the mountains.

23 'I will [p]heap disasters on them;
[q]I will spend My arrows on them.
24 They shall be wasted with hunger,
Devoured by pestilence and bitter destruction;
I will also send against them the [r]teeth of beasts,
With the poison of serpents of the dust.
25 The sword shall destroy outside;
There shall be terror within
For the young man and virgin,
The nursing child with the man of gray hairs.
26 [s]I would have said, "I will dash them in pieces,
I will make the memory of them to cease from among men,"
27 Had I not feared the wrath of the enemy,
Lest their adversaries should misunderstand,
Lest they should say, [t]"Our hand is high;
And it is not the LORD who has done all this." '

28 "For they are a nation void of counsel,
Nor is there any understanding in them.
29 [u]Oh, that they were wise, that they understood this,
That they would consider their [v]latter end!
30 How could one chase a thousand,
And two put ten thousand to flight,
Unless their Rock [w]had sold them,
And the LORD had surrendered them?
31 For their rock is not like our Rock,
[x]Even our enemies themselves being judges.
32 For [y]their vine is of the vine of Sodom
And of the fields of Gomorrah;
Their grapes are grapes of gall,
Their clusters are bitter.
33 Their wine is [z]the poison of serpents,
And the cruel [a]venom of cobras.

34 'Is this not [b]laid up in store with Me,
Sealed up among My treasures?
35 [c]Vengeance is Mine, and recompense;
Their foot shall slip in due time;
[d]For the day of their calamity is at hand,
And the things to come hasten upon them.'

36 "For[e] the LORD will judge His people
[f]And have compassion on His servants,
When He sees that their power is gone,

36 [e]Ps. 135:14; Heb. 10:30 [f]Ps. 106:45; Jer. 31:20

■ 32:27 Lest their adversaries should misunderstand. Though Israel deserves utter destruction because of her disobedience (v. 26), the Lord preserves a remnant of the people, lest the Gentiles take credit for their victory over Israel and fail to see God's hand in history. Assyria and Babylon were later judged for their arrogant misunderstanding (Is. 10:12–19; 47:6–8).

■ 32:30 one chase a thousand. Numbers are of no consequence when the Lord intervenes. Israel with God's help would put to flight vast numbers of adversaries (Lev. 26:8), while a numerous but disobedient Israel would be defeated by a few, even fleeing when no one pursued (Lev. 26:17).

■ 32:32 the vine of Sodom. False gods bring evil deeds and poisonous fruit. Sodom was a symbol of awful destruction (29:23 note).

■ 32:35 Vengeance is Mine, and recompense. The New Testament quotes this verse twice, using a slightly different wording (Rom. 12:19; Heb. 10:30).

■ 32:36 judge . . . have compassion. The relationship of these terms suggests that "judge" here means "vindicate" (cf. v. 43). Still, Israel must see that they have no help apart from the one true God.

And [g]there is no one remaining, bond or free.
37 He will say: [h]'Where are their gods,
The rock in which they sought refuge?
38 Who ate the fat of their sacrifices,
And drank the wine of their drink offering?
Let them rise and help you,
And be your refuge.

39 'Now see that [i]I, even I, am He,
And [j]there is no God besides Me;
[k]I kill and I make alive;
I wound and I heal;
Nor is there any who can deliver from My hand.
40 For I raise My hand to heaven,
And say, "As I live forever,
41 [l]If I [g]whet My glittering sword,
And My hand takes hold on judgment,
I will render vengeance to My enemies,
And repay those who hate Me.
42 I will make My arrows drunk with blood,
And My sword shall devour flesh,
With the blood of the slain and the captives,
From the heads of the leaders of the enemy." '

43 "Rejoice,[m] O Gentiles, with His [1]people;
For He will [n]avenge the blood of His servants,
And render vengeance to His adversaries;
He [o]will provide atonement for His land and His people."

44 So Moses came with [2]Joshua the son of Nun and spoke all the words of this song in the hearing of the people. 45 Moses finished speaking all these words to all Israel, 46 and he said to them: [p]"Set your hearts on all the words which I testify among you today, which you shall command your [q]children to be careful to observe—all the words of this law. 47 For it is not a [3]futile thing for you, because it is your [r]life, and by this word you shall prolong your days in the land which you cross over the Jordan to possess."

Moses to Die on Mount Nebo

48 Then the LORD spoke to Moses that very same day, saying: 49 [s]"Go up this mountain of the Abarim, Mount Nebo, which is in the land of Moab, across from Jericho; view the land of Canaan, which I give to the children of Israel as a possession; 50 and die on the mountain which you ascend, and be [4]gathered to your people, just as [t]Aaron your brother died on Mount Hor and was gathered to his people; 51 because [u]you trespassed against Me among the children of Israel at the waters of [5]Meribah Kadesh, in the Wilderness of Zin, because you [v]did not hallow Me in the midst of the children of Israel. 52 [w]Yet you shall see the land before you, though you shall not go there, into the land which I am giving to the children of Israel."

CHAPTER 33

1 [a]Gen. 49:28 [b]Ps. 90

■ 32:39 I, even I, am He. The Hebrew emphasizes by repetition. This whole stanza is a towering expression of the uniqueness of God in His being, power, providence, and justice. Because God is both infinitely just and all-powerful, we can be sure that evil will at last be destroyed (Rev. 19:1, 2).

■ 32:43 Rejoice . . . people. The Septuagint (Greek Old Testament) and one of the Dead Sea Scrolls contain a longer version of this phrase (text note). This longer version is quoted in Heb. 1:6.

He will avenge the blood of His servants. This triumphal Song of Moses is echoed at the consummation of human history (Rev. 19:2).

■ 32:47 it is your life. Moses emphasizes again that obedience to God's commands, from the heart, is a matter of life—eternal life—and death (30:19, 20).

■ 32:49 Mount Nebo. Usually identified as the modern Jebel Neba, a mountain twelve miles east of the Jordan River's point of entry into the Dead Sea. Rising over four thousand feet above the Dead Sea, Mount Nebo provided Moses a vantage point from which to view the Promised Land.

■ 33:1–29 In Gen. 49, Leah's children are listed first, followed by those of the handmaidens and Rachel. Here the order is different. Reuben, the

They [i]sit down at Your feet;

8 And of [s]Levi he said:

firstborn, is mentioned first (v. 6), followed by the royal tribe of Judah (v. 7; cf. Gen. 49:10) and the priestly tribe of Levi (vv. 8–11). The tribes descending from Rachel's sons are next (vv. 12–17), followed by two remaining sons of Leah, Zebulun and Issachar (vv. 18, 19). Finally, the handmaidens' children are listed (vv. 20–24). The tribe of Simeon is omitted, perhaps to retain the number twelve, although Jacob's blessing had predicted that Simeon would be scattered throughout Israel (Gen. 49:7).

■ 33:1 the man of God. This expression is used customarily for prophets (1 Sam. 9:6; 1 Kin. 13:1; 17:18; 2 Kin. 4:7), but is applied to Moses only here and in the title of Ps. 90.

■ 33:2 The LORD came from Sinai. The defining event of Moses' ministry, the revelation at Sinai, is recalled in terms describing the theophany on the mountain (Ex. 19:18; cf. Hab. 3:3).

saints. Lit. "holy ones." This is likely a reference to the angels of the heavenly host surrounding God's throne (cf. 1 Kin. 22:19; Dan. 7:9, 10). The New Testament also mentions the role of angels in giving the Mosaic law (Acts 7:53; Gal. 3:19; Heb. 2:2 and note).

■ 33:5 He was King in Jeshurun. A reference to the Lord as king over His people (cf. 1 Sam. 12:12; Ps. 10:16). Moses was never called a king. On "Jeshurun," see note on 32:15.

■ 33:6 Nor let. The Hebrew can also be translated "but let." This alternate reading could reflect the curse on Reuben in Gen. 49:3, 4.

■ 33:7 Judah. This blessing hints at the warrior role of the Davidic kings, descendants of Judah, in leading Israel into battle. But the blessing on Judah is extremely brief in view of the promise of rulership to Judah in Gen. 49:8–12, and in view of Judah's large part in later history. Because a later writer might have wanted to give Judah more prominence, the brevity of this blessing points to a date for Deuteronomy during Moses' lifetime.

■ 33:8 Levi. The blessing on Levi reflects their fidelity at the time of the golden calf, when Levi rallied to Moses' side and acted in judgment against their sinful brethren (Ex. 32:27–29).

Thummim . . . Urim. See note on Ex. 28:30.

Strike the loins of those who rise against him,
And of those who hate him, that they rise not again."

12 Of Benjamin he said:

"The beloved of the LORD shall dwell in safety by Him,
Who shelters him all the day long;
And he shall dwell between His shoulders."

13 And of Joseph he said:

[c]"Blessed of the LORD is his land,
With the precious things of heaven, with the [d]dew,
And the deep lying beneath,
14 With the precious fruits of the sun,
With the precious produce of the months,
15 With the best things of [e]the ancient mountains,
With the precious things [f]of the everlasting hills,
16 With the precious things of the earth and its fullness,
And the favor of [g]Him who dwelt in the bush.
Let the blessing come [h]'on the head of Joseph,
And on the crown of the head of him who was separate from his brothers.'
17 His glory is like a [i]firstborn bull,
And his horns like the [j]horns of the wild ox;
Together with them
[k]He shall push the peoples
To the ends of the earth;
[l]They are the ten thousands of Ephraim,
And they are the thousands of Manasseh."

18 And of Zebulun he said:

[m]"Rejoice, Zebulun, in your going out,
And Issachar in your tents!
19 They shall [n]call the peoples to the mountain;
There [o]they shall offer sacrifices of righteousness;
For they shall partake of the abundance of the seas
And of treasures hidden in the sand."

20 And of Gad he said:

"Blessed is he who [p]enlarges Gad;
He dwells as a lion,
And tears the arm and the crown of his head.
21 [q]He provided the first part for himself,
Because a lawgiver's portion was reserved there.
[r]He came with the heads of the people;
He administered the justice of the LORD,
And His judgments with Israel."

22 And of Dan he said:

separate from his brothers. The Hebrew word translated "separate from" is sometimes used for those set apart by the Nazirite vow (cf. Num. 6:1–21 note). This term can also mean "prince." It is applied to Joseph in Gen. 49:26 with similar blessings. Because of the blessings mentioned, the meaning "prince" may be preferred.

■ 33:17 ten thousands . . . thousands. During this period, Ephraim was smaller than Manasseh (Num. 26:34, 37), but Ephraim was to become more numerous and important (cf. Gen. 48:17–20). Because of the tribe's importance, the name "Ephraim" later was applied to the ten tribes making up the northern kingdom of Israel (2 Chr. 25:7; Hos. 5:3, 11–14).

■ 33:22 Bashan. See note on 3:1. This blessing may refer to the north-

23 And of Naphtali he said:

"O Naphtali, [t]satisfied with favor,
And full of the blessing of the LORD,

24 And of Asher he said:

[v]"Asher is most blessed of sons;
Let him be favored by his brothers,
And let him [w]dip his foot in oil.

As your days, so shall your strength be.

And [l]you shall tread down their [3]high places."

Moses Dies on Mount Nebo

34 Then Moses went up from the plains of Moab [a]to Mount Nebo, to the top of Pisgah, which is across from Jericho. And the LORD showed him all the land of Gilead as far as Dan, 2 all Naphtali and the land of Ephraim and Manasseh, all the land of Judah as far as the [l]Western Sea, 3 the South, and the plain of the Valley of Jericho, [b]the city of palm trees, as far as Zoar. 4 Then the LORD said to him, [c]"This is the land of which I swore to give Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, saying, 'I will give it to your descendants.' [d]I have caused you to see it with your eyes, but you shall not cross over there."

5 [e]So Moses the servant of the LORD died there in the land of Moab, according to the word of the LORD. 6 And He buried him in a valley in the land of Moab, opposite Beth Peor; but [f]no one knows his grave to this day. 7 [g]Moses was one hundred and twenty years old when he died. ■ 33:24 dip his foot in oil. Olive oil, valuable for food and also as fuel for lamps, is here symbolic of the tribe's material prosperity (Gen. 49:20; cf. Job 29:6).

■ 33:26–29 This final stanza has blessed the hearts of God's people through the ages. He is the majestic God (v. 26), the eternal God (v. 27), the protecting and providing God (v. 28). The great blessing of Israel was that He was their God. Such a splendid hymn of praise is perhaps only matched by passages in the New Testament such as "the song of Moses, the servant of God, and the song of the Lamb" in Rev. 15:3, 4.

■ 33:26 the God of Jeshurun. See 32:15 and note.

■ 34:1–12 This chapter is a supplement, probably added by the author of the Book of Joshua in order to connect his work with the books of Moses (Introduction: Author).

■ 34:1 Gilead as far as Dan. The descriptions here and in v. 2 name the areas in terms of the tribal areas as designated in the Book of Joshua (Josh. 13—19).

■ 34:7 not dim . . . diminished. See note on 31:2.

■ 34:8 thirty days. The same period of mourning as for Aaron (Num. 20:29; cf. Gen. 50:3, 10; 2 Sam. 1:12). Ritual displays of mourning in the Old Testament included weeping, fasting, tearing of clothing, wearing ses in the plains of Moab [i]thirty days. So the days of weeping and mourning for Moses ended.

sackcloth, and throwing dust on the head (Gen. 37:34, 35; Ps. 35:13; Lam. 2:10). Certain mourning practices were forbidden to Israel (14:1 note).

■ 34:9 spirit of wisdom . . . laid his hands on him. Moses had previously put his hand on Joshua to symbolize the transfer of divinely ordained leadership (Num. 27:18). God empowers those whom He chooses and ordains for service.

■ 34:10–12 See note on 18:15–19; "Prophets" at 18:18.

■ 34:10 since then. Because no length of time is specified, these words need not imply that many generations had passed since Moses' death. Joshua took Moses' place, but he realized that Moses' miracles and access to God had been unique (18:15–19 note; Num. 12:6–8).

■ 34:11 signs and wonders. Jesus arose as a prophet like Moses, yet superior to him. He did miracles, signs, and wonders before the kings and rulers of the people, and in the sight of all Israel (Matt. 4:23–25; Acts 2:22; 3:22–26).

Introduction to the

HISTORICAL BOOKS

The collection of books in the Protestant Old Testament known as the "historical books" extends from Joshua through Esther. It relates the history of ancient Israel from the conquest of Canaan under Joshua, through the divided kingdoms of Israel and Judah, the fall of the two kingdoms to Assyria and Babylonia, and the restoration of Judah from exile in the sixth century B.C. Each of these twelve books narrates important events in God's dealings with His covenant people.

The books of the Old Testament were first recorded on scrolls and continued to be transmitted in this form through several centuries of use. It was not until the development of the "codex" (the book format first popularized by Christians in the production of the New Testament books) that the order in which the individual books of the Old Testament were to be arranged became an issue. The chronological arrangement of the twelve historical books familiar in Protestant Bibles derives from the order found in the great Septuagint (the Greek translation of the Old Testament) codices produced by Christians in the first four centuries A.D.

The historical books are arranged quite differently in Hebrew Bibles. The books of Joshua, Judges, Samuel, and Kings are grouped together as the "former prophets" and constitute the first half of the second division of the Jewish canon, the "Prophets." The second half of the division, the "latter prophets," consists of Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and the twelve "Minor Prophets." The books of Chronicles, Ezra, and Nehemiah are found in the third division of the Jewish canon, known as the "Writings." Finally, Ruth and Esther are contained in a special subset of five books within the "Writings" known as the "Festival Scrolls," since Jewish tradition required them to be read on certain religious feast days (Ruth at Pentecost, Esther at Purim; the other "scrolls" are Song of Solomon, Ecclesiastes, and Lamentations).

The arrangement of the historical books in the Jewish canon helps us to recognize two important blocks of material within the historical books. Each group of books was completed at a specific time in Israel's history and has particular theological interests and emphases. Scholars now recognize that the books of Joshua, Judges, Samuel, and Kings (the "former prophets") are a carefully constructed history of Israel completed during the Babylonian exile (the component books were actually begun much earlier; see their respective introductions). Similarly, the books of Chronicles, Ezra, and Nehemiah form a second major block of material completed during Judah's restoration from exile. Although there is disagreement among scholars regarding whether they are the work of a single author, these books do share certain theological interests related to their later historical setting.

The books of Joshua, Judges, Samuel, and Kings are referred to by scholars as the "Deuteronomistic History" since the Book of Deuteronomy serves as their historical and theological preamble. Building on Moses' narration of God's saving acts for His people from Abraham through the arrival of the Israelites at the border of the Promised Land, the Deuteronomistic History continues the story from the conquest of that land under Joshua to Jehoiachin, the last surviving Davidic king (2 Kin. 25:27–30). A brief concluding note that Jehoiachin was released from prison to live at the Babylonian court sets the date of the completion of the Deuteronomistic History in the uncertain years of the Babylonian exile. The collection is a serious attempt to write an accurate history of Israel and Judah using the conventions of ancient Near Eastern historiography.

The concerns of these books are not, however, of merely antiquarian interest. This history reiterates from Deuteronomy both such specific issues for the life of the covenant community as the "law of the king" (Deut. 17:14–20; cf. 1 Sam. 8:10–18) and such fundamental theological concepts as blessings for obedience and curses for disobedience (Deut. 28). Indeed, the dominant theological theme of the Deuteronomistic History may be summed up in the statement, "Sin brings punishment; repentance brings restoration" (see especially the repeated cycles of sin, oppression, repentance, and deliverance in the Book of Judges). The repeated sins of idolatry and injustice throughout the histories of Israel and Judah culminated in the ultimate punishment of exile from the Promised Land (Deut. 28:47–68; 2 Kin. 17:7–23; 23:26, 27). The final author of the Deuteronomistic History sees in Jehoiachin's release from prison a glimmer of hope that repentance will again bring restoration; but it remains for him only a hope.

The books of Chronicles, Ezra, and Nehemiah return to telling the story of God's people once that hope has become a reality. Ezra-Nehemiah (originally a single book) extends the history of Judah from the proclamation of Cyrus allowing the first of the Judean exiles to return to Palestine (c. 538 B.C.) through the final resettlement of Jerusalem (c. 400 B.C.). It recounts the rebuilding of the temple under Zerubbabel, the repair of Jerusalem's walls under Nehemiah, and the reconstitution of religious life under Ezra. Chronicles retells the story of the chosen people from Adam (in its genealogies) to Cyrus's proclamation, focusing on the history of Judah under the rule of David and his descendants. Approximately half of Chronicles is taken word for word from the books of Samuel and Kings.

These books are deeply concerned with how God's people should respond to His gracious act of restoring Judah. Since the Babylonian exile had been a punishment for failure to maintain full covenant loyalty to the Lord, the writers of these books were chiefly concerned with the lessons to be drawn from Israel's older and recent history for maintaining the religious purity of the people. Ezra-Nehemiah looks upon God's actions in making a new beginning for His people and emphasizes the need of the newly constituted community to maintain separation from other peoples so as not to fall back into the sin of idolatry. The theological emphases in Chronicles in this regard are twofold. First, Chronicles stresses the importance of the temple, its worship, and its officials in directing the religious life of God's people. Second, it focuses attention on the central role of the Davidic house in the proper administration of the temple and in the religious life of the people.

As the years passed, it became clear that the hopes of the restored community for the resumption of rule by a descendant of David as king over Judah would not be realized. The people continued to read in Chronicles about the glorious history of David's rule and how David and his descendants (most notably Solomon) preserved true worship in Jerusalem. As they reflected on this history, their hopes were directed toward the future Son of David, the Messiah, who would be the perfect leader of the community's religious life. The history of God's saving acts for His people was not to end with Esther's role of rescuing them from destruction by the Persians, or even Ezra and Nehemiah's work of reestablishing them in the Promised Land. □

JOSHUA

Author The author of the Book of Joshua is unknown, and our knowledge of the time it was written depends on the interpretation of certain clues within the book. Theories range from the view that the book was largely composed by Joshua himself (the tradition of the Talmud) to the hypothesis that it was written by someone long after the Jews returned from the exile in Babylon. From the standpoint of the final form of the book, it is probable that a man or group committed to the theological framework of the Book of Deuteronomy gave Joshua its canonical form. See "Date and Occasion" below and "Introduction to the Historical Books."

Date and Occasion The precise time the Book of Joshua was composed is not clear. Comments within the book itself, such as notices that something is true "to this day," suggest that many of its sources came from a time between the death of Joshua (24:29–31) and the time of Samuel (c. 1050 B.C.). Because Sidon is still reckoned as Phoenicia's leading city (11:8; 19:28), some would date the book no later than 1200 B.C.; after that time Tyre gained the ascendancy. Jerusalem is as yet unconquered (15:63), a feat accomplished by David (2 Sam. 5:6–10), and Gezer is not as yet under Solomon's rule (16:10; 1 Kin. 9:16).

Many scholars today date the final form of the book from its relationship to the Pentateuch and the rest of the Former Prophets (Characteristics and Themes below). The introduction of Joshua overlaps with the conclusion of Deuteronomy. Josh. 1:1 matches Deut. 34:1–12, especially v. 5, where Moses is called "the servant of the LORD" for the first time. The conclusion of Joshua (24:29–31) is repeated as part of the introduction to Judges (Judg. 2:6–9).

On balance it appears that the book was written after Joshua's death but before Saul (c. 1050 B.C.) and his successors. The author wrote doubtless to recount the astounding fulfillment of the Lord's promises under Joshua. At the same time, recognizing the need to consolidate the conquest of the land, the author wrote in hope of the rise of another faithful servant who, like Joshua, could lead the Israelites to victory over every enemy still in the land.

Interpretive Difficulties Any attempt to relate the accounts of the Book of Joshua to data gained from archaeological investigations must reckon with the nature of both the biblical record and the archaeological evidence. All historical writing is selective in what it records and interpretive in the manner in which it presents its material. Biblical history has a particular interest in the purposes of God. Archaeological evidence is often ambiguous and illustrative rather than specific in the information it yields.

The task of correlating archaeological data and the biblical record is well illustrated by the debate over the Book of Joshua. Among those who accept the biblical representation of a violent conquest of the land, there are basically two schools of thought. One believes there is persuasive archaeological evidence (such as the destruction of Canaanite cities and occupation patterns) for a violent and successful Israelite invasion of Canaan around 1250 B.C. The other argues that archaeological evidence (such as that at Jericho) together with texts like 1 Kin. 6:1, Judg. 11:26, and Ex. 12:40, indicates that the conquest should be dated earlier, around 1400 B.C. The difficulties arise from uncertainties about the identification of modern sites with biblical locations, disputes over the dating of materials, biblical chronology, and how certain data should be interpreted.

Characteristics and Themes The main theological idea in the Book of Joshua is the promise of God to give the land of Canaan to the descendants of Abraham, the people of Israel (Gen. 12:7). This one aspect of the promise to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (Gen. 12:1–3) has dominated the contents of Genesis through Deuteronomy. Joshua testifies to God's faithfulness to this promise by recounting the successful entry of the Israelites into the land (2:1—5:12), the dispossession of its inhabitants (5:13—12:24; cf. Gen. 15:13–16 and notes), and the allocation of the territory to the twelve tribes (chs. 13—21). The closing sentence of the main body of the book (21:45) summarizes the theme of the book: "Not a word failed of any good thing which the Lord had spoken to the house of Israel. All came to pass" (21:45; see 23:14). This bold assertion of God's complete faithfulness is accompanied by the recognition that much of what was promised was still unrealized (e.g., 13:1; 23:5; Gen. 13:5 and note), and that the enjoyment of the fulfilled promise was always conditional upon the people's obedience (e.g., 23:12, 13, 15, 16). The full extent of the Promised Land would not be occupied until the reigns of David and Solomon.

Joshua should be understood in relation to the Pentateuch, or Genesis through Deuteronomy in the Hebrew Bible, also called "the Law" (1:7, 8 and notes). The content of these books is summarized in 24:2–10. These verses recount the history of the descendants of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob from the time the promise was first given to Abraham (Gen. 12:1–3) to the death of Moses (Deut. 34), who had led the Israelites from Egypt to the land promised to them by God. But the Pentateuch ends with the people still outside the Promised Land. Furthermore, the generation of Israelites who came out of Egypt had fallen under God's judgment because of their rebellion in the desert (Num. 13; 14; Deut. 1:26–36), and even the death of Moses is understood in these terms (Deut. 1:37; 32:48–52). In this context Joshua speaks of the faithfulness of the Lord to His promises made to the patriarchs, despite the rebellion of the earlier generation of Israelites and the judgment that had fallen on them.

Joshua should also be understood in relation to the history of Israel in the land, recorded in Joshua and the following books, through 2 Kings. The story is a tragic one as far as Israel is concerned. The nation failed to follow the Lord wholeheartedly, and was all but destroyed by God's judgment in the form of the successive assaults by the Assyrians in the eighth century B.C. (2 Kin. 17) and the Babylonians in the sixth century (2 Kin. 25). The Book of Joshua confirms from the outset that the demise of Israel cannot be blamed on the failure of the power or the faithfulness of God.

The New Testament provides a third perspective from which the Book of Joshua should be understood. The promise of God, to which the Book of Joshua points, is the gospel preached "to Abraham beforehand" (Gal. 3:8; Gen. 12:1–3). This promise was kept by God through the time of Joshua and was ultimately fulfilled in Jesus Christ (Acts 13:32, 33; Heb. 4:8–11). The faithfulness of God proclaimed in the Book of Joshua is His faithfulness to the gospel of Christ. Israel's entrance into and occupation of the land prefigures the Christian's life in Christ (Gen. 13:15 and note). □

God's Commission to Joshua

AFTER the death of Moses the servant of the LORD, it came to pass that the LORD spoke to Joshua the son of Nun, Moses' [a]assistant, saying: 2 [b]"Moses My servant is dead. Now therefore, arise, go over this Jordan, you and all this people, to the land which I am giving to them—the children of Israel. 3 [c]Every place that the sole of your foot will tread upon I have given you, as I said to Moses. 4 [d]From the wilderness and this Lebanon as far as the great river, the River Euphrates, all the land of the Hittites, and to the Great Sea toward the going down of the sun, shall be your territory. 5 [e]No man shall be able to stand before you all the days of your life; [f]as I was with Moses, so [g]I will be with you. [h]I will not leave you nor forsake you. 6 [i]Be strong and of good courage, for to this people you shall [1]divide as an inheritance the land which I swore to their fathers to give them. 7 Only be strong and very courageous, that you may observe to do ac-

■ 1:1–18 The opening words indicate both the historical starting point of the book and the theological crisis with which it deals. Moses' death concludes the judgment of God on the generation that came out of Egypt (5:4–6; Deut. 1:35; 32:51). What is to be said when Moses had died and the people of Israel had fallen under God's judgment? Ch. 1 introduces the answer to this question, namely, that even "after the death of Moses" the Lord was faithful to His promises. See Introduction: Characteristics and Themes. This reality and its consequences are spelled out by God to Joshua (vv. 1–9), and then by Joshua to the people in general (vv. 10, 11) and the two-and-a-half tribes in particular (vv. 12–15). Finally, the people's response is recorded (vv. 16–18).

■ 1:1 the servant of the LORD. This title of honor suggests the special role of Moses in God's purposes (vv. 1, 2, 7, 13, 15; cf. Is. 42:1). It was also given to Abraham (Gen. 26:24) and will be applied to Joshua on his death (24:29).

Joshua. Joshua's name was changed from "Hoshea" ("salvation") to "Joshua" ("the LORD is salvation") by Moses (Num. 13:16). Joshua appears as Moses' assistant as early as Ex. 17. He was one of the men sent from Kadesh Barnea to explore the land (Num. 13:8), and he joined Caleb in calling on the Israelites to trust the Lord and not to rebel against Him (Num. 14:6–9). Like Caleb (Deut. 1:36), he escaped the judgment that fell on that generation because of its refusal to obey God at Kadesh Barnea. Joshua is presented as the successor to Moses, as was anticipated before Moses' death (Num. 27:12–23; Deut. 3:28; 31:1–8). Joshua's role, however, continues to be subordinate to that of Moses. This is expressed in his submission to the "Book of the Law" (1:8 note) and his obedience to the commands of Moses, something repeatedly emphasized throughout the book (e.g., 1:7; 8:31; 11:12, 15; 14:2, 5; 20:2). In the transition from Moses to Joshua there is continuity because the purpose of God for Israel persists, but there is discontinuity too, because the era of Moses was unique and is the standard of comparison for future generations. There is a similar continuity and discontinuity in the New Testament transition from the Gospels to the Book of Acts.

■ 1:2 go over this Jordan. The people are east of the river (Deut. 1:1), which has a deep valley and forms a formidable boundary between them and the land God has promised to the west. See also 3:15.

to the land. The land is God's gift to the Israelites, in faithfulness to His promise to Abraham (see vv. 3, 6). This is the dominant theme of the book: note the elaboration of this idea in 24:13, echoing Deut. 6:10, 11. The land is an expression of what the New Testament calls "grace" (Eph. 2:8). See note on 21:43.

■ 1:3 your foot. "Your" and "you" are plural, indicating the promise is addressed to all Israel.

■ 1:4 The extent of the land promised here exceeds what was actually received in the days of Joshua and corresponds to the dimensions of David's and Solomon's kingdom (1 Kin. 4:21). Despite the emphasis on fulfillment in Joshua (21:45 note), the book sees the promise as still pointing to the future (13:1 note; 23:5, 12–13).

■ 1:5–9 These promises are addressed to Joshua individually, as the successor to Moses. The section begins and ends with God's promise to be with him. Second and second-to-last in order is the exhortation to be strong and courageous. In the middle is the commandment to keep the law together with the promise of success if he does. In ch. 23 Joshua applies these ideas to the whole people of Israel in the light of the faithfulness of God that the whole book proclaims.

■ 1:5 I will be with you. See Gen. 26:3 and notes; Ex. 3:12. The divine presence is not a general concept here, or a mystical experience, but the presence of God to fulfill His promises. Compare the promise of Jesus in Matt. 28:20.

■ 1:6 Be strong and of good courage. Confidence based on the promises of God is the essence of biblical faith (vv. 9, 18; 8:1; 10:8, 25; 11:6).

inheritance. The idea that the land was an inheritance is important in this book. An inheritance is something handed down from the past, as the land was given in the promise made to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. Second, what is inherited brings responsibilities. See 1 Pet. 1:4.

■ 1:7 to do. The essential relationship between faith and obedience is illustrated here. Faith is confidence based on God's promise (v. 6), and such faith issues in obedience (v. 7).

the law. The Hebrew word is broader in meaning than the English word "law." It may include both promises and commands, as well as records of God's activity. See "The Word of God: Scripture as Revelation" at Ex. 32:16.

prosper. Success is understood in terms of what God has promised. Such success cannot be understood simply as a reward earned by obedience, because the promise was issued before any obedience. It would be more accurate to understand the promised success as something that can be forfeited by disobedience.

cording to all the law [j]which Moses My servant commanded you; [k]do not turn from it to the right hand or to the left, that you may [2]prosper wherever you go. [8][l]This Book of the Law shall not depart from your mouth, but [m]you[3] shall meditate in it day and night, that you may observe to do according to all that is written in it. For then you will make your way prosperous, and then you will have good success. [9][n]Have I not commanded you? Be strong and of good courage; [o]do not be afraid, nor be dismayed; for the LORD your God is with you wherever you go."

The Order to Cross the Jordan

[10] Then Joshua commanded the officers of the people, saying, [11] "Pass through the camp and command the people, saying, 'Prepare provisions for yourselves, for [p]within three days you will cross over this Jordan, to go in to possess the land which the LORD your God is giving you to possess.'"

[12] And to the Reubenites, the Gadites, and half the tribe of Manasseh Joshua spoke, saying, [13] "Remember [q]the word which Moses the servant of the LORD commanded you, saying, 'The LORD your God is giving you rest and is giving you this land.' [14] Your wives, your little ones, and your livestock shall remain in the land which Moses gave you on this side of the Jordan. But you shall [4]pass before your brethren armed, all your mighty men of valor, and help them, [15] until the LORD has given your brethren rest, as He gave you, and they also have taken possession of the land which the LORD your God is giving them. [r]Then you shall return to the land of your possession and enjoy it, which Moses the LORD's servant gave you on this side of the Jordan toward the sunrise."

[16] So they answered Joshua, saying, "All that you command us we will do, and wherever you send us we will go. [17] Just as we heeded Moses in all things, so we will heed you. Only the LORD your God [s]be with you, as He was with Moses. [18] Whoever rebels against your command and does not heed your words, in all that you command him, shall be put to death. Only be strong and of good courage."

Rahab Hides the Spies

2 Now Joshua the son of Nun sent out two men [a]from [1]Acacia Grove to spy secretly, saying, "Go, view the land, especially Jericho."

So they went, and [b]came to the house of a harlot named [c]Rahab, and [2]lodged there. [2] And [d]it meditate. Cf. Ps. 1:2. From meditation on the Book of the Law flow all the consequences of the promise already seen in vv. 6, 7: obedience and success (v. 8), faith and the presence of God (v. 9). See "Understanding the Word of God" at Ps. 119:34.

■ 1:11 three days. The narrative of Joshua is not arranged in a strictly chronological order (Introduction: Characteristics and Themes). It is possible that the command of v. 11 was spoken after 3:1, but is recorded here to indicate Joshua's role as the people's leader by divine appointment. It is also possible that "three days" is not a precise expression and means "a few days."

to possess. The promise that God has given (v. 2) demands the human act of taking possession, an act of obedient faith (vv. 6; 18:3; and notes).

■ 1:12–15 Num. 32 shows how the Reubenites, Gadites, and half-tribe of Manasseh (13:8 note) had already received their portion of land east of the Jordan. It was understood that they would also join in Israel's conquest of the western portion of the Promised Land (Num. 32:16–32; Deut. 3:18–20). All Israel must participate in taking possession of the land as a whole. There is a dramatic sequel in ch. 22. See notes on 12:1; 13:8–33.

■ 1:13 rest. See also v. 15. The goal of God's gift of the land is often referred to as "rest" (11:23; 21:44; 22:4; 23:1), a condition or state that links the land with God's purposes in creation (Gen. 2:2, 3). For the New Testament extension of the idea see Heb. 3:7—4:11.

■ 1:16–18 The people's obedient response to Joshua, and therefore to God, will be echoed and elaborated at the end of the book (24:16–24). The essential connection between faith and obedience is implicit here: the obedience of the people is unambiguous evidence that they believe the promise. The necessary qualities for Joshua's leadership are that God be with him (v. 5 note) and that he be a man of faith (v. 6 note).

■ 2:1—5:12 The first major section of the book recounts the movement of the Israelites from Acacia Grove (2:1), across the Jordan River (chs. 3; 4; cf. 1:2), and into the land of Canaan. This movement marks the end of one era (5:9) and the beginning of the new life in the Land of Promise (5:12). It represents the first main testimony of the book to the faithfulness of God to His promises.

■ 2:1–24 Before the expected sequel to ch. 1 (namely, 3:1) there is the surprising story of the spies who return to Joshua proclaiming the promise of God (v. 24; cf. 1:2–5). Although the Book of Joshua describes in graphic detail the destruction of the Canaanites (chs. 6—12), it gives a prominent place to Rahab, a Canaanite harlot, (Lev. 18:24 in context). It is from her lips that the spies hear testimony to the promise and the power of God (vv. 9–11), in the light of which she seeks and finds "kindness" (v. 12). She will be spared from the coming judgment (6:22, 23) and find a place among the people of God (6:25). The chapter testifies to the grace of God in bringing such a woman to seek and find His mercy. The story of Rahab supplies an important perspective on the judgments of God that will occupy much of this book.

■ 2:1 Acacia Grove. The site is a reminder of a time when Israel was guilty of harlotry (both physical and spiritual; Num. 25:1–3), a time not forgotten in this book (22:17).

to spy. The role of these spies is as unusual as the conquest that is to follow. Both their role and the conquest are shaped by the promise of God. See their report in v. 24. Cf. Num. 13:17–20.

harlot named Rahab. The narrative does not say why they chose Rahab's house. She is remembered in the New Testament as an ancestor of Christ (Matt. 1:5), and as an example of faith (Heb. 11:31) and good works (James 2:25).

■ 2:2 king of Jericho. Canaan was made up of city-states, each with its own king.

was told the king of Jericho, saying, "Behold, men have come here tonight from the children of Israel to search out the country."

3 So the king of Jericho sent to Rahab, saying, "Bring out the men who have come to you, who have entered your house, for they have come to search out all the country."

4 [e]Then the woman took the two men and hid them. So she said, "Yes, the men came to me, but I did not know where they were from. 5 And it happened as the gate was being shut, when it was dark, that the men went out. Where the men went I do not know; pursue them quickly, for you may overtake them." 6 (But [f]she had brought them up to the roof and hidden them with the stalks of flax, which she had laid in order on the roof.) 7 Then the men pursued them by the road to the Jordan, to the fords. And as soon as those who pursued them had gone out, they shut the gate.

8 Now before they lay down, she came up to them on the roof, 9 and said to the men: [g]"I know that the LORD has given you the land, that [h]the terror of you has fallen on us, and that all the inhabitants of the land [i]are fainthearted because of you. 10 For we have heard how the LORD [j]dried up the water of the Red Sea for you when you came out of Egypt, and [k]what you did to the two kings of the Amorites who were on the other side of the Jordan, Sihon and Og, whom you [l]utterly destroyed. 11 And as soon as we [m]heard these things, [n]our hearts melted; neither did there remain any more courage in anyone because of you, for [o]the LORD your God, He is God in heaven above and on earth beneath. 12 Now therefore, I beg you, [p]swear to me by the LORD, since I have shown you kindness, that you also will show kindness to [q]my father's house, and [r]give me [3]a true token, 13 and [s]spare my father, my mother, my brothers, my sisters, and all that they have, and deliver our lives from death."

14 So the men answered her, "Our lives for yours, if none of you tell this business of ours. And it shall be, when the LORD has given us the land, that [t]we will deal kindly and truly with you."

15 Then she [u]let them down by a rope through the window, for her house was on the city wall; she dwelt on the wall. 16 And she said to them, "Get to the mountain, lest the pursuers meet you. Hide there three days, until the pursuers have returned. Afterward you may go your way."

17 So the men said to her: "We will be [v]blameless[4] of this oath of yours which you have made us swear, 18 [w]unless, when we come into the land, you bind this line of scarlet cord in the window through which you let us down, [x]and unless you [5]bring your father, your mother, your brothers, and all your father's household to your own home. 19 So it shall be that whoever goes outside the doors of your house into the street, his blood shall be on his own head, and we will be [6]guiltless. And whoever is with you in the house, [y]his [7]blood shall be on our head if a hand is laid on him. 20 And if you tell this business of ours, then we will be [8]free from your oath which you made us swear."

21 Then she said, "According to your words, so be it." And she sent them away, and they departed. And she bound the scarlet cord in the window.

22 They departed and went to the mountain, and stayed there three days until the pursuers re-

■ 2:3 The skillfully narrated story creates a moment of tension before telling the reader that the men have been hidden (v. 4).

■ 2:4 I did not know. She did know (v. 9). The writer of Joshua does not justify or condemn Rahab for lying, but James approves her action (James 2:25). Deception is a necessary tactic in war. The main point is why Rahab protects the foreign spies (vv. 9–11).

■ 2:6 she had brought them. Note the narrative style in which information is given out of chronological sequence. See Introduction: Characteristics and Themes.

■ 2:7 they shut the gate. The suspense of the narrative increases, since the spies now seem to be trapped.

terror. This is the inevitable response to finding oneself on the wrong side of what God has promised to do. Contrast 1:6. In holy war panic is incited among God's enemies by the approach of His army (5:1; 9:24; 10:2; Ex. 15:14–16; Deut. 2:25).

■ 2:10 we have heard. The cause of Rahab's knowledge, and the Canaanites' terror, was the news of what God had already done for Israel in faithfulness to His promises. See note on 9:3.

Amorites. The term is flexible, sometimes applying to all the peoples of Canaan (e.g., 24:15), sometimes more specifically to people in the hill country (e.g., 5:1), especially as distinct from the Jebusites who also occupied the hill country (e.g., 3:10).

a true token. Probably the oath (v. 14).

■ 2:13 deliver our lives from death. The mercy sought presupposes the certainty of the promise of God. It is no less than deliverance from the coming wrath (cf. 1 Thess. 1:10).

■ 2:14 when the LORD has given us the land. The certainty of the promise is again assumed.

■ 2:15 she let them down . . . the city wall. The suspense created in vv. 2, 3, 7 is resolved.

■ 2:18 scarlet cord. The cord is not mentioned in ch. 6. It is unlikely that symbolic significance should be seen in the color, although it can be associated with the blood of the Passover lamb and the blood of Christ.

turned. The pursuers sought them all along the way, but did not find them. [23] So the two men returned, descended from the mountain, and crossed over; and they came to Joshua the son of Nun, and told him all that had befallen them. [24] And they said to Joshua, "Truly [z]the LORD has delivered all the land into our hands, for indeed all the inhabitants of the country are fainthearted because of us."

Israel Crosses the Jordan

3 Then Joshua rose early in the morning; and they set out [a]from [1]Acacia Grove and came to the Jordan, he and all the children of Israel, and lodged there before they crossed over. [2] So it was, [b]after three days, that the officers went through the camp; [3] and they commanded the people, saying, [c]"When you see the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God, [d]and the priests, the Levites, [2]bearing it, then you shall set out from your place and go after it. [4] [e]Yet there shall be a space between you and it, about two thousand cubits by measure. Do not come near it, that you may know the way by which you must go, for you have not passed this way before."

[5] And Joshua said to the people, [f]"Sanctify[3] yourselves, for tomorrow the LORD will do wonders among you." [6] Then Joshua spoke to the priests, saying, [g]"Take up the ark of the covenant and cross over before the people."

So they took up the ark of the covenant and went before the people.

[7] And the LORD said to Joshua, "This day I will begin to [h]exalt[4] you in the sight of all Israel, that they may know that, [i]as I was with Moses, so I will be with you. [8] You shall command [j]the priests who bear the ark of the covenant, saying, 'When you have come to the edge of the water of the Jordan, [k]you shall stand in the Jordan.' "

[9] So Joshua said to the children of Israel, "Come here, and hear the words of the LORD your God." [10] And Joshua said, "By this you shall know that [l]the living God is among you, and that He will without fail [m]drive out from before you the [n]Canaanites and the Hittites and the Hivites and the Perizzites and the Girgashites and the Amorites and the Jebusites: [11] Behold, the ark of the covenant of [o]the Lord of all the earth is crossing over before you into the Jordan. [12] Now therefore, [p]take for yourselves twelve men from the tribes of Israel, one man from every tribe. [13] And it shall come to pass, [q]as soon as the soles of the feet of the priests who bear the ark of the LORD, [r]the Lord of all the earth, shall rest in the waters of the Jordan, that the waters of the

■ 2:24 the LORD has delivered. These spies return with the news that the promise of God is indeed certain (1:2), news they have learned from Rahab.

■ 3:1—4:24 The crossing of the Jordan River, the river marking the boundary of the Promised Land, was an occasion of wonders comparable to the crossing of the Red Sea (4:23; cf. 3:7; 4:14). The great significance of these wonders is indicated in 4:24. They were to remain a testimony for all peoples and for all time that the hand of the Lord is powerful. The prominence of the ark of the covenant (3:3 note) relates the power of God, to the promises of God that are at the heart of the covenant. Ch. 3 gives the events in order; ch. 4 returns to and elaborates on several points, especially the memorial of stones at Gilgal.

■ 3:2 three days. See note on 1:11.

■ 3:3 the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God. See Ex. 25:10–22; Deut. 10:5. The ark plays a prominent role in chs. 3; 4; 6; and 8. It signifies not only the presence of the Lord (Num. 10:33–36), but specifically His covenant, which means His commitment to His promises as well as the consequent obligations of Israel. See notes on 1:5; 24:25.

the priests, the Levites. See Deut. 10:8.

■ 3:4 a space between you and it. The purpose of the separation may be to ensure that the ark will be visible to the maximum number of people. See 4:11.

■ 3:5 Sanctify yourselves. "Sanctify" means "to make holy" (5:15 note), and probably refers to physical actions like washing that symbolize the holiness of the people. There was a similar requirement when God came down to the people at Mount Sinai (Ex. 19:10, 14, 15).

wonders. The same word is used of the plagues in Egypt (Ex. 3:20; Judg. 6:13; Ps. 78:11; Mic. 7:15) and the conquest of Canaan (Ex. 34:10; 1 Chr. 16:9–24; cf. Jer. 21:2).

■ 3:7 I will begin to exalt you. The Lord validated Joshua's leadership by repeating the wonders He did at the Red Sea through Moses. The God of Joshua is the God of Moses. See note on 4:14.

that they may know. God's acts are often said to have the purpose of bringing about knowledge (Ex. 8:10; Deut. 4:35; 2 Kin. 19:19; Is. 45:6). Such knowledge is never merely intellectual. It is, however, attainable through hearing the news of God's acts, as well as by seeing them (2:9, 10; 4:24). Here the object of knowledge is the presence of God with Joshua (1:5 note; cf. Ex. 14:31), which the people will experience through the faithfulness of God to His promises. See notes on v. 10; 4:24.

■ 3:9 hear the words of the LORD. This is a fundamental duty of the people of God. See 1:8; 24:2.

■ 3:10 By this. The reference is probably to the whole miracle of the crossing, but attention is focused on the role of the ark (v. 11).

know. That is, "know by experience." Cf. v. 7. What they will know is the presence of God with Israel to bring His promise to certain fulfillment. Remarkably, this knowledge was already attained by Rahab in 2:9.

the living God. Israel's God is opposed to and contrasted with lifeless idols (Deut. 32:21).

Canaanites . . . Jebusites. This is one of several ways of listing the inhabitants of Canaan (Gen. 15:18–21; Deut. 7:1). See note on 2:10.

■ 3:11 the ark of the covenant of the Lord of all the earth. Lit. "the ark of the covenant, the Lord of all the earth." Not only the symbol of the covenant, but the Lord Himself will go ahead of His people. The reminder that He is Lord of all the earth suggests that the events that follow will have a purpose which reaches beyond Israel (4:24; cf. 2:11; Gen. 12:3; Ex. 19:5, 6).

■ 3:12 twelve men. This anticipates the main subject of ch. 4; see 4:2.

■ 3:13 stand as a heap. The language has similarities to Ex. 15:8 and Ps. 78:13, which describe the crossing of the Red Sea (4:23). The God of the Exodus is the God of the conquest.

Jordan shall be cut off, the waters that come down from upstream, and they [s]shall stand as a heap."

[14] So it was, when the people set out from their camp to cross over the Jordan, with the priests bearing the [t]ark of the covenant before the people, [15] and as those who bore the ark came to the Jordan, and [u]the feet of the priests who bore the ark dipped in the edge of the water (for the [v]Jordan overflows all its banks [w]during the whole time of harvest), [16] that the waters which came down from upstream stood still, and rose in a heap very far away [5]at Adam, the city that is beside [x]Zaretan. So the waters that went down [y]into the Sea of the Arabah, [z]the Salt Sea, failed, and were cut off; and the people crossed over opposite Jericho. [17] Then the priests who bore the ark of the covenant of the LORD stood firm on dry ground in the midst of the Jordan; [a]and all Israel crossed over on dry ground, until all the people had crossed completely over the Jordan.

The Memorial Stones

4 And it came to pass, when all the people had completely crossed [a]over the Jordan, that the LORD spoke to Joshua, saying: [2] [b]"Take for yourselves twelve men from the people, one man from every tribe, [3] and command them, saying, 'Take for yourselves twelve stones from here, out of the midst of the Jordan, from the place where [c]the priests' feet stood firm. You shall carry them over with you and leave them in [d]the lodging place where you lodge tonight.' "

[4] Then Joshua called the twelve men whom he had appointed from the children of Israel, one man from every tribe; [5] and Joshua said to them: "Cross over before the ark of the LORD your God into the midst of the Jordan, and each one of you take up a stone on his shoulder, according to the number of the tribes of the children of Israel, [6] that this may be [e]a sign among you [f]when your children ask in time to come, saying, 'What do these stones mean to you?' [7] Then you shall answer them that [g]the waters of the Jordan were cut off before the ark of the covenant of the LORD; when it crossed over the Jordan, the waters of the Jordan were cut off. And these stones shall be for [h]a memorial to the children of Israel forever."

[8] And the children of Israel did so, just as Joshua commanded, and took up twelve stones from the midst of the Jordan, as the LORD had spoken to Joshua, according to the number of the tribes of the children of Israel, and carried them over with them to the place where they lodged, and laid them down there. [9] Then Joshua set up twelve stones in the midst of the Jordan, in the place where the feet of the priests who bore the ark of the covenant stood; and they are there to this day.

[10] So the priests who bore the ark stood in the midst of the Jordan until everything was finished that the LORD had commanded Joshua to speak to the people, according to all that Moses had commanded Joshua; and the people hurried and crossed over. [11] Then it came to pass, when all the people had completely crossed over, that the [i]ark of the LORD and the priests crossed over in the presence of the people. [12] And [j]the men of Reuben, the men of Gad, and half the tribe of Manasseh crossed over armed before the children of Israel, as Moses had spoken to them. [13] About forty thousand [l]prepared for war crossed over before the LORD for battle, to the plains of Jericho. [14] On that day the LORD [k]exalted[2] Joshua in the sight of all Israel; and they feared him, as they had feared Moses, all the days of his life.

[15] Then the LORD spoke to Joshua, saying, [16] "Command the priests who bear [l]the ark of the people. The Hebrew word used here is not usually applied to Israel; perhaps it is meant to recall Gen. 12:2 and Ex. 19:6, where it is also found.

■ 3:14 the people set out. This verse picks up the action from v. 6.

■ 3:15 the Jordan overflows . . . during . . . harvest. This vital piece of information takes the reader by surprise. The crossing will be even more remarkable than v. 13 indicated.

■ 3:17 the ark. As instrumental in the miracle, the ark conveys the powerful message of God's faithfulness to His covenant promises.

■ 4:2 twelve. All Israel is to be represented (1:12–15).

■ 4:6 sign. This testimony for future generations of God's faithfulness is the first of several in Joshua (7:26; 8:29). See note on v. 9.

What do these stones mean. Ex. 12:26, 27; Deut. 6:20–25.

■ 4:7 the ark. As the ark is prominent in ch. 3, so is it central to the retelling of the story to future generations. See notes on 3:3, 17.

memorial. The purpose of the "sign" (v. 6) and telling about it is for future generations to remember the wonderful faithfulness of God to His promises. On the importance of such remembering for Israel, see Deut. 8:1–20; 1 Cor. 11:25; 2 Tim. 2:8.

■ 4:9 to this day. That is, the day of the narrator. This expression occurs frequently in the Book of Joshua (5:9; 6:25; 7:26; 8:28, 29; 9:27; 10:27; 13:13; 14:14; 15:63; 16:10), pointing to evidence for the truth and relevance of the narrative.

■ 4:12 Reuben . . . Gad . . . Manasseh. See 1:12–15.

■ 4:13 About forty thousand. Some scholars suggest the word translated "thousand" means a military unit of unspecified size, a "contingent."

■ 4:14 the LORD exalted Joshua . . . and they feared him. Joshua's exaltation is in fulfillment of 3:7. See Ex. 14:31. God's powerful faithfulness to His promises has the effect of exalting the one whose leadership is based on those promises.

■ 4:15–18 The conclusion of the miracle is described, with the focus still on the ark.

■ 4:16 the ark of the Testimony. Also called the ark of the covenant (Ex. 25:16, 21, 22; 31:18; 32:15; 40:20). The Ten Commandments were Testimony to come up from the Jordan." [17] Joshua therefore commanded the priests, saying, "Come up from the Jordan." [18] And it came to pass, when the priests who bore the ark of the covenant of the LORD had come from the midst of the Jordan, and the soles of the priests' feet touched the dry land, that the waters of the Jordan returned to their place [m] and overflowed all its banks as before.

[19] Now the people came up from the Jordan on the tenth day of the first month, and they camped [n] in Gilgal on the east border of Jericho. [20] And [o] those twelve stones which they took out of the Jordan, Joshua set up in Gilgal. [21] Then he spoke to the children of Israel, saying: [p] "When your children ask their fathers in time to come, saying, 'What are these stones?' [22] then you shall let your children know, saying, [q] 'Israel crossed over this Jordan on [r] dry land'; [23] for the LORD your God dried up the waters of the Jordan before you until you had crossed over, as the LORD your God did to the Red Sea, [s] which He dried up before us until we had crossed over, [24] [t] that all the peoples of the earth may know the hand of the LORD, that it is [u] mighty, that you may [v] fear the LORD your God [3] forever."

The Second Generation Circumcised

5 So it was, when all the kings of the Amorites who were on the west side of the Jordan, and all the kings of the Canaanites [a] who were by the sea, [b] heard that the LORD had dried up the waters of the Jordan from before the children of Israel until [1] we had crossed over, that [2] their heart melted; [c] and there was no spirit in them any longer because of the children of Israel.

[2] At that time the LORD said to Joshua, "Make [d] flint knives for yourself, and circumcise the sons of Israel again the second time." [3] So Joshua made flint knives for himself, and circumcised the sons of Israel at [3] the hill of the foreskins. [4] And this is the reason why Joshua circumcised them: [e] All the people who came out of Egypt who were males, all the men of war, had died in the wilderness on the way, after they had come out of Egypt. [5] For all the people who came out had been circumcised, but all the people born in the wilderness, on the way as they came out of Egypt, had not been circumcised. [6] For the children of Israel walked [f] forty years in the wilderness, till all the people who were men of war, who came out of Egypt, were [4] consumed, because they did not obey the voice of the LORD—to whom the LORD swore that [g] He would not show them the land which the LORD had sworn to their fathers that He would give us, [h] "a land flowing with milk and honey." [7] Then Joshua circumcised [i] their sons whom He raised up in their place; for they were uncircumcised, because they had not been circumcised on the way.

[8] So it was, when they had finished circumcising all the people, that they stayed in their places in the camp [j] till they were healed. [9] Then the LORD said to Joshua, "This day I have rolled away [k] the reproach of Egypt from you." Therefore the name of the place is called [l] Gilgal [5] to this day.

[10] Now the children of Israel camped in Gilgal, and kept the Passover [m] on the fourteenth day deposited in the ark as a testimony to the agreement God made with Israel.

■ 4:19 the tenth day of the first month. This is the day the Passover lamb was to be chosen (Ex. 12:3), underlining the connection between the crossing and the Exodus. See v. 23 and 5:10.

■ 4:23, 24 The pronoun "you" in vv. 23, 24 identifies the later generations with the earlier great acts of God, as Moses did in Deut. 4:9–24; 5:2–5, and as Joshua will do in Josh. 24:5–10 (24:7 note).

■ 4:24 all the peoples of the earth. The wonders of chs. 3 and 4 will have effects far beyond the immediate generation and far beyond the Israelite people (2:10; 5:1; cf. Gen. 12:3). The wonderful works of God in the Bible are expected to affect those who hear about them as powerfully as those who see them (Ex. 10:2; and supremely John 20:30, 31). See notes on 2:9, 10.

know. The knowledge of God and His purposes has been the objective of these wonders (3:7, 10 notes). This goal is now shown to apply to all peoples. This knowledge does not necessarily imply salvation (Ex. 14:18).

fear the LORD. A common Old Testament expression for true faith (Ps. 128:1). See 24:14 note.

■ 5:1–12 A significant moment (v. 9), with the desert behind them and the new life in the Land of Promise before them (vv. 11, 12), is marked by two symbolic actions: circumcision (vv. 2–8) and the Passover (v. 10). Circumcision was the sign of the covenant with Abraham (Gen. 17:9–14 notes), and was required for participation in the Passover (Ex. 12:48). Circumcision marked the people of the promise; the Passover celebrated their redemption from Egypt. Both the promise to Abraham and the redemption from Egypt looked forward to this day (Gen. 17:8; Ex. 3:8).

■ 5:1 when all the kings . . . heard. See 4:24; note on 2:9.

Amorites. See note on 2:10.

■ 5:2 circumcise . . . again. See v. 5.

■ 5:4–7 This circumcision was necessary because the generation that came out of Egypt had fallen under God's judgment. In his grace God was raising up a new generation for Himself (v. 7). Physical circumcision had its spiritual counterpart in circumcised hearts (Deut. 10:16; 30:6 and notes).

■ 5:6 they did not obey . . . the LORD. This is the simplest description of the behavior that brought judgment. The reference is to Num. 14 (Deut. 1:32, 43).

the LORD swore. The promise of God can be a negative one.

■ 5:7 sons . . . in their place. These people were, in effect, a "new Israel."

■ 5:9 This day I have rolled away the reproach of Egypt. These words indicate the great significance of this moment. The redemption from Egypt is complete only with the entry into the Promised Land. See the promise of the Exodus and its goal in Ex. 3:8. Had that goal not been reached, the reproach or scorn of Egypt would have remained (Deut. 9:28).

of the month at twilight on the plains of Jericho. 11 And they ate of the produce of the land on the day after the Passover, unleavened bread and [6]parched grain, on the very same day. 12 Then [n]the manna ceased on the day after they had eaten the produce of the land; and the children of Israel no longer had manna, but they ate the food of the land of Canaan that year.

The Commander of the Army of the LORD

13 And it came to pass, when Joshua was by Jericho, that he lifted his eyes and looked, and behold, [o]a Man stood opposite him [p]with His sword drawn in His hand. And Joshua went to Him and said to Him, "Are You for us or for our adversaries?"

14 So He said, "No, but as Commander of the army of the LORD I have now come."

And Joshua [q]fell on his face to the earth and [r]worshiped, and said to Him, "What does my Lord say to His servant?"

15 Then the Commander of the LORD's army said to Joshua, [s]"Take your sandal off your foot, for the place where you stand is holy." And Joshua did so.

The Destruction of Jericho

6 Now [a]Jericho was securely shut up because of the children of Israel; none went out, and none came in. 2 And the LORD said to Joshua: "See! [b]I have given Jericho into your hand, its [c]king, and the mighty men of valor. 3 You shall march around the city, all you men of war; you shall go all around the city once. This you shall do six days. 4 And seven priests shall bear seven [d]trumpets of rams' horns before the ark. But the seventh day you shall march around the city [e]seven times, and [f]the priests shall blow the trumpets. 5 It shall come to pass, when they make a long blast with the ram's horn, and when you hear the sound of the trumpet, that all the people shall shout with a great shout; then the wall of the city will fall down flat. And the people shall go up every man straight before him."

6 Then Joshua the son of Nun called the priests and said to them, "Take up the ark of the covenant, and let seven priests bear seven trumpets of rams' horns before the ark of the LORD."

■ 5:12 the manna ceased. This is another indication that a new era has begun and that the first major section of the book is concluded; see Introduction: Outline. On manna and its significance, see Ex. 16; Deut. 8:3.

■ 5:13—12:24 The second major section of the book tells how the Israelites conquered Canaan. The shocking violence and terrible destruction in these chapters trouble many readers. Yet the text seems to ring with praise to God. This is so because the destruction is the true and just judgment of God on sinners (Gen. 15:16; cf. Lev. 18:24–27; Deut. 9:4, 5), through which He fulfilled His gracious promises to Israel (note the connection between salvation and judgment in Ex. 14:13, 14 and Rev. 19:1, 2). These accounts of destruction, no less than anything else in the book, testify to God's faithfulness to His promises (cf. the curse in the promise in Gen. 12:3) and prefigure His final judgment on those who reject His grace (Matt. 25:46; Heb. 9:27; 10:26–31).

■ 5:13–15 The account of the conquest begins with the appearance of "the Commander of the LORD's army." This shows first, that God's sovereignty is free; second, that He and not Joshua controls the ensuing action; and third, that Joshua is the servant of the same God that appeared to Moses in the burning bush (Ex. 3:5).

■ 5:14 No. The Commander of the Lord's army encourages Joshua, but He is not under Joshua's command. God is bound neither to destroy all Canaanites nor to deliver all Israelites, as is powerfully illustrated in the subsequent chapters in the experiences of Rahab (6:25) and Achan (ch. 7). See note on 6:17, 18.

Commander of the army of the LORD. The Commander is evidently an appearance of the pre-incarnate Son of God (1:5 and note; Gen. 16:7). The Divine Warrior and His army are prepared for war.

■ 5:15 Take your sandal. This command is like that of Ex. 3:5, establishing a continuity between what began with Moses and what follows under Joshua. Joshua is the successor to Moses. "Holiness" is fundamentally a quality of God. People (3:5 note) or things are described as holy when they belong to God in some special way.

■ 6:1–27 The essential elements for a theological understanding of the conquest are indicated in this account of Jericho, the first city to be destroyed. The destruction of the Canaanites, no less than the crossing of the Jordan, is the powerful work of God in faithfulness to the covenant, (note the role of the ark of the covenant in chs. 6 and 3—4, and see notes on 3:3, 11, 14, 17; 4:16). The fearful judgment of God is working to bring about the promised deliverance of His people is an important biblical theme (e.g., Ex. 14:13–14; Rev. 19:1–2). Furthermore, that the grace of God is not restricted to Israel (Gen. 12:3) is evidenced by the experience of Rahab and her household (v. 25). God is not simply anti-Canaanite (see note on 5:14).

■ 6:1 Jericho. Its name probably means "Moon City," a center for worship (Gen. 11:27—25:11 note).

■ 6:2 the LORD. Although this is sometimes taken to refer to the "Commander of the army of the LORD" (5:13–15), the verses are more likely a separate episode introducing the whole of the conquest.

See! I have given. A striking paradox, since all that had been "seen" according to v. 1 was Jericho's shut gates. The promise of God creates possibilities not inherent in the present situation. A similar contrast between present circumstances and what God promises is found often in the Bible, as in the present experience of believers (Gen. 15:2–5; Is. 65:17; Rom. 8:18).

■ 6:4 seven. See note on Gen. 4:16.

the seventh day. The number suggests a parallel to the work of creation. Just as the work of creation reached its goal in the seventh day (Gen. 2:1–3), so the work of redemption from Egypt reaches its goal with possession of the Promised Land. Sabbath rest is related to both creation and redemption (Ex. 20:8–11 and Deut. 5:12–15; Josh. 1:13 note). In Heb. 3:7—4:11 "rest" refers to the ultimate goal of God's people.

■ 6:5 straight before him. The collapse of the wall will allow access from every direction.

■ 6:6 the ark of the covenant. See note on 3:3. The procession, with the ark at its center, applied the covenant promises of God symbolically to Jericho. For Jericho the covenant promises will mean judgment. The parallel between the role of the ark in crossing the Jordan (chs. 3—4) and the conquest of Canaan is illuminated by Ex. 15:1–18, where the crossing of the Red Sea and the conquest are described in similar terms. All of these events are powerful acts of God in accordance with His covenant, directed to the goal of bringing His people to their promised rest.

7 And he said to the people, "Proceed, and march around the city, and let him who is armed advance before the ark of the LORD."

8 So it was, when Joshua had spoken to the people, that the seven priests bearing the seven trumpets of rams' horns before the LORD advanced and blew the trumpets, and the ark of the covenant of the LORD followed them. 9 The armed men went before the priests who blew the trumpets, [g]and the rear guard came after the ark, while the priests continued blowing the trumpets. 10 Now Joshua had commanded the people, saying, "You shall not shout or make any noise with your voice, nor shall a word proceed out of your mouth, until the day I say to you, 'Shout!' Then you shall shout." 11 So he had [h]the ark of the LORD circle the city, going around it once. Then they came into the camp and [i]lodged in the camp.

12 And Joshua rose early in the morning, [i]and the priests took up the ark of the LORD. 13 Then seven priests bearing seven trumpets of rams' horns before the ark of the LORD went on continually and blew with the trumpets. And the armed men went before them. But the rear guard came after the ark of the LORD, while the priests continued blowing the trumpets. 14 And the second day they marched around the city once and returned to the camp. So they did six days.

15 But it came to pass on the seventh day that they rose early, about the dawning of the day, and marched around the city seven times in the same manner. On that day only they marched around the city seven times. 16 And the seventh time it happened, when the priests blew the trumpets, that Joshua said to the people: "Shout, for the LORD has given you the city! 17 Now the city shall be [j]doomed by the LORD to destruction, it and all who are in it. Only [k]Rahab the harlot shall live, she and all who are with her in the house, because [l]she hid the messengers that we sent. 18 And you, [m]by all means abstain from the accursed things, lest you become accursed when you take of the accursed things, and make the camp of Israel a curse, [n]and trouble it. 19 But all the silver and gold, and vessels of bronze and iron, are [2]consecrated to the LORD; they [3]shall come into the treasury of the LORD."

20 So the people shouted when the priests blew the trumpets. And it happened when the people heard the sound of the trumpet, and the people shouted with a great shout, that [o]the wall fell down flat. Then the people went up into the city, every man straight before him, and they took the city. 21 And they [p]utterly destroyed all that was in the city, both man and woman, young and old, ox and sheep and donkey, with the edge of the sword.

22 But Joshua had said to the two men who had spied out the country, "Go into the harlot's house, and from there bring out the woman and all that she has, [q]as you swore to her." 23 And the young men who had been spies went in and brought out Rahab, [r]her father, her mother, her brothers, and all that she had. So they brought out all her relatives and left them outside the camp of Israel. 24 But they burned the city and all that was in it with fire. Only the silver and gold, and the vessels of bronze and iron, they put into the treasury of the house of the LORD. 25 And Joshua spared Rahab the harlot, her father's household, and all that she had. So [s]she dwells in Israel to this day, because she hid the messengers whom Joshua sent to spy out Jericho.

26 Then Joshua [4]charged them at that time, saying, [t]"Cursed be the man before the LORD who rises up and builds this city Jericho; he shall lay its foundation with his firstborn, and with his youngest he shall set up its gates."

27 So the LORD was with Joshua, and his fame spread throughout all the country.

in the camp. At Gilgal (5:10).

■ 6:15–19 The description of the seventh day is expanded with a report of Joshua's speech. In accordance with the narrative style noted elsewhere (1:11; 2:6 and notes), the words of vv. 17–19 may have been spoken earlier but are recorded here for dramatic effect.

■ 6:17 doomed . . . to destruction. The same Hebrew word is translated "utterly destroyed" in 2:10; see note on 1 Sam. 15:3. In the holy war the city was reserved for God. The consequence is seen in v. 21, the awful reality of God's judgment on Jericho, as also on the whole of Canaan (11:11–12, 14, 20; Lev. 27:28–29; Deut. 13:16; 20:10–18).

Only Rahab . . . and all who are with her. Judgment does not exclude grace. The mercy she sought in 2:12 will be extended to her.

■ 6:18 accursed. The same Hebrew term (translated "doomed" in v. 17) occurs three times here, warning Israel not to fall into the same judgment as the Canaanites. Ch. 7 shows the need for this warning.

■ 6:19 consecrated. Or "holy." See text note and note on 5:15.

■ 6:20, 21 The fall of Jericho is briefly described. Further details may be deduced from v. 24; 8:2; 10:1; 24:11.

Defeat at Ai

7 But the children of Israel [1]committed a [a]trespass regarding the [b]accursed[2] things, for [c]Achan the son of Carmi, the son of [3]Zabdi, the son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, took of the accursed things; so the anger of the LORD burned against the children of Israel.

2 Now Joshua sent men from Jericho to Ai, which is beside Beth Aven, on the east side of Bethel, and spoke to them, saying, "Go up and spy out the country." So the men went up and spied out Ai. 3 And they returned to Joshua and said to him, "Do not let all the people go up, but let about two or three thousand men go up and attack Ai. Do not weary all the people there, for the people of Ai are few." 4 So about three thousand men went up there from the people, [d]but they fled before the men of Ai. 5 And the men of Ai struck down about thirty-six men, for they chased them from before the gate as far as Shebarim, and struck them down on the descent; therefore [e]the[4] hearts of the people melted and became like water.

6 Then Joshua [f]tore his clothes, and fell to the earth on his face before the ark of the LORD until evening, he and the elders of Israel; and they [g]put dust on their heads. 7 And Joshua said, "Alas, Lord [5]GOD, [h]why have You brought this people over the Jordan at all—to deliver us into the hand of the Amorites, to destroy us? Oh, that we had been content, and dwelt on the other side of the Jordan! 8 O Lord, what shall I say when Israel turns its [6]back before its enemies? 9 For the Canaanites and all the inhabitants of the land will hear it, and surround us, and [i]cut off our name from the earth. Then [j]what will You do for Your great name?"

The Sin of Achan

10 So the LORD said to Joshua: "Get up! Why do you lie thus on your face? 11 Israel has sinned, and they have also transgressed My covenant which I commanded them. [k]For they have even taken some of the [7]accursed things, and have both stolen and [l]deceived; and they have also put it among their own stuff. 12 [m]Therefore the children of Israel could not stand before their enemies, but turned their backs before their enemies, because [n]they have become doomed to destruction. Neither will I be with you anymore, unless you destroy the accursed from among you. 13 Get up, [o]sanctify[8] the people, and say, [p]'Sanctify yourselves for tomorrow, because thus says

■ 7:1–26 If Rahab, the Canaanite who found mercy, is a story of God's grace in the midst of judgment (6:25), Achan's story is a reminder of the holiness of God, on which no one may presume (24:19; Num. 17:11–13; Heb. 10:30–31). Ch. 7 recounts the first instance of disobedience in the Promised Land, an ominous event in light of the history that will follow (2 Kin. 17:7–20) and an occasion reminiscent of Gen. 3 (v. 21 note). The incident and its lesson for Israel are recalled in 22:18–20.

■ 7:1 the children of Israel. Although the offense was committed by one man, all Israel is involved and affected (see v. 11; 22:18). The facts stated in v. 1 only gradually became known to the Israelites.

accursed things. See 6:18; note on 6:17.

the anger of the LORD. The anger of God is His personal righteous hostility to evil. Unlike ancient pagan conceptions of divine wrath, in the Bible God's anger is never arbitrary or capricious. It is as much a part of the New Testament message as of the Old (Matt. 3:7; John 3:36; Rom. 1:18; Col. 3:6; 1 Thess. 1:10; Heb. 10:26–31; Rev. 6:16).

■ 7:2–5 In contrast to the stories of the spies (ch. 2), and the conquest of Jericho (ch. 6), Israel is now under God's anger, and the outcome will be different.

■ 7:2 from Jericho to Ai. The movement is westwards and up into the central hill country.

Beth Aven. The name means "house of nothingness" or "house of wickedness." The name may be used disparagingly for Bethel (as in Hos. 4:15; 10:5).

■ 7:3 Do not let all the people go up. Contrast the report of the spies in 2:24.

■ 7:5 thirty-six. The number of casualties is not great. The fear and dismay of the people were due more to the Lord's anger than to the human scale of the defeat.

the hearts of the people melted. Disobedience in Israel has brought about a great reversal. The Israelites now find themselves in the situation of the Canaanites in 2:11; 5:1.

■ 7:6 tore his clothes . . . put dust on their heads. These are conventional expressions of grief (Job 1:20; 2:12). The cause of grief is the apparent failure of the covenant promises, the symbol of which is the ark. See notes on 3:3, 17; 4:16. Joshua's prayer (vv. 7–9) will appeal to those promises. See note on 10:6.

■ 7:7–9 Joshua prays for Israel as Moses had done in similar circumstances (cf. Num. 14:13–19).

■ 7:7 why. This question comes to the lips of those who find their experience contradicting their understanding of the promises of God. It can be a rebellious question (as in Num. 14:3), but it can also express a true faith perplexed by circumstances (cf. Ps. 22:1).

Amorites. See note on 2:10.

■ 7:9 will hear. See note on 9:3.

our name. The promise to Abraham included a "great name" (Gen. 12:2). Joshua's prayer is based on the promises of God.

Your great name. God's reputation is at stake (Ex. 32:12; Num. 14:13–16; Ezek. 36:16–23).

■ 7:11 Israel. The corporate unity of Israel is stressed throughout the chapter. The sin of one man (v. 15) brought guilt on his community (22:18).

transgressed My covenant. This is a further indication of the nature of the sin. The concept of God's covenant includes His commitment to His promises, and the consequent obligations on the people who received the promises. See note on 3:3. It is God's covenant because He has set its terms.

accursed things. See 6:18; note on 6:17.

■ 7:12 doomed to destruction. The cause of Israel's defeat at Ai was not a failure of God's promises (7:6 note) but disobedience.

Neither will I be with you anymore. This terrible reversal of 1:5 brings the first half of ch. 7 to a climax; the second half will elaborate the words "unless you destroy the accursed from among you."

■ 7:13 Sanctify. See note on 3:5. In contrast to ch. 3, this is preparation to meet God's judgment.

the LORD God of Israel: "There is an accursed thing in your midst, O Israel; you cannot stand before your enemies until you take away the accursed thing from among you." 14 In the morning therefore you shall be brought according to your tribes. And it shall be that the tribe which [q]the LORD takes shall come according to families; and the family which the LORD takes shall come by households; and the household which the LORD takes shall come man by man. 15 [r]Then it shall be that he who is taken with the accursed thing shall be burned with fire, he and all that he has, because he has [s]transgressed[9] the covenant of the LORD, and because he [t]has done a disgraceful thing in Israel.' "

16 So Joshua rose early in the morning and brought Israel by their tribes, and the tribe of Judah was taken. 17 He brought the clan of Judah, and he took the family of the Zarhites; and he brought the family of the Zarhites man by man, and Zabdi was taken. 18 Then he brought his household man by man, and Achan the son of Carmi, the son of Zabdi, the son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, [u]was taken.

19 Now Joshua said to Achan, "My son, I beg you, [v]give glory to the LORD God of Israel, [w]and make confession to Him, and [x]tell me now what you have done; do not hide it from me."

20 And Achan answered Joshua and said, "Indeed [y]I have sinned against the LORD God of Israel, and this is what I have done: 21 When I saw among the spoils a beautiful Babylonian garment, two hundred shekels of silver, and a wedge of gold weighing fifty shekels, I [1]coveted them and took them. And there they are, hidden in the earth in the midst of my tent, with the silver under it."

22 So Joshua sent messengers, and they ran to the tent; and there it was, hidden in his tent, with the silver under it. 23 And they took them from the midst of the tent, brought them to Joshua and to all the children of Israel, and laid them out before the LORD. 24 Then Joshua, and all Israel with him, took Achan the son of Zerah, the silver, the garment, the wedge of gold, his sons, his daughters, his oxen, his donkeys, his sheep, his tent, and [z]all that he had, and they brought them to [a]the Valley of Achor. 25 And Joshua said, [b]"Why have you troubled us? The LORD will trouble you this day." [c]So all Israel stoned him with stones; and they burned them with fire after they had stoned them with stones.

26 Then they [d]raised over him a great heap of stones, still there to this day. So [e]the LORD turned from the fierceness of His anger. Therefore the name of that place has been called [f]the Valley of [2]Achor to this day.

The Fall of Ai

8 Now the LORD said to Joshua: [a]"Do not be afraid, nor be dismayed; take all the people of war with you, and arise, go up to Ai. See, [b]I have given into your hand the king of Ai, his people, his city, and his land. 2 And you shall do to Ai and its king as you did to [c]Jericho and its king. Only [d]its spoil and its cattle you shall take as booty for yourselves. Lay an ambush for the city behind it."

3 So Joshua arose, and all the people of war, to go up against Ai; and Joshua chose thirty thousand mighty men of valor and sent them away by night. 4 And he commanded them, saying: "Behold, [e]you shall lie in ambush against the city, behind the city. Do not go very far from the city, but all of you be ready. 5 Then I and all the people who are with me will approach the city; and it will come about, when they come out against us as at the first, that [f]we shall flee before

■ 7:14 which the LORD takes. The actual procedure may have been by the Urim and Thummim (Ex. 28:30 note).

■ 7:15 a disgraceful thing in Israel. Such an act is contrary to the nature of Israel as the covenant people, and therefore an act of folly. Elsewhere this expression is used of sexual perversions prohibited in Israel (Gen. 34:7; Deut. 22:21; Judg. 20:6, 10; 2 Sam. 13:12; Jer. 29:23).

■ 7:20 sinned. See note on v. 11.

■ 7:21 saw . . . coveted . . . took. There may be an allusion here to Gen. 3:6, where these three verbs occur in the same order. The pattern of the Garden of Eden has been repeated in the Promised Land: no sooner was the gift of God given than the recipients desired what was forbidden, and took it.

■ 7:23 before the LORD. That is, presumably before the ark. See note on 6:8.

■ 7:24 all that he had. God's mercy to Rahab extended to her family (6:23), and the punishment of Achan reached his family.

■ 7:26 from the fierceness of His anger. God's wrath, being righteous, ceases when sin has been dealt with. This is fundamental to the New Testament teaching that the death of Christ is an atoning or propitiatory sacrifice (Rom. 3:25, 26).

■ 8:1 Do not be afraid. Compare 7:5. This call to faith (1:9; 1:6 note) is based on the promises of God despite visible circumstances. It is a common expression of God's favor (Gen. 15:1). It confirms that the Lord's anger has ceased towards Israel.

them. 6 For they will come out after us till we have drawn them from the city, for they will say, 'They are fleeing before us as at the first.' Therefore we will flee before them. 7 Then you shall rise from the ambush and seize the city, for the LORD your God will deliver it into your hand. 8 And it will be, when you have taken the city, that you shall set the city on fire. According to the commandment of the LORD you shall do. g See, I have commanded you."

9 Joshua therefore sent them out; and they went to lie in ambush, and stayed between Bethel and Ai, on the west side of Ai; but Joshua lodged that night among the people. 10 Then Joshua rose up early in the morning and mustered the people, and went up, he and the elders of Israel, before the people to Ai. 11 h And all the people of war who were with him went up and drew near; and they came before the city and camped on the north side of Ai. Now a valley lay between them and Ai. 12 So he took about five thousand men and set them in ambush between Bethel and Ai, on the west side of i the city. 13 And when they had set the people, all the army that was on the north of the city, and its rear guard on the west of the city, Joshua went that night into the midst of the valley.

14 Now it happened, when the king of Ai saw it, that the men of the city hurried and rose early and went out against Israel to battle, he and all his people, at an appointed place before the plain. But he j did not know that there was an ambush against him behind the city. 15 And Joshua and all Israel j made as if they were beaten before them, and fled by the way of the wilderness. 16 So all the people who were in Ai were called together to pursue them. And they pursued Joshua and were drawn away from the city. 17 There was not a man left in Ai or Bethel who did not go out after Israel. So they left the city open and pursued Israel.

18 Then the LORD said to Joshua, "Stretch out the spear that is in your hand toward Ai, for I will give it into your hand." And Joshua stretched out the spear that was in his hand toward the city. 19 So those in ambush arose quickly out of their place; they ran as soon as he had stretched out his hand, and they entered the city and took it, and hurried to set the city on fire. 20 And when the men of Ai looked behind them, they saw, and behold, the smoke of the city ascended to heaven. So they had no power to flee this way or that way, and the people who had fled to the wilderness turned back on the pursuers.

21 Now when Joshua and all Israel saw that the ambush had taken the city and that the smoke of the city ascended, they turned back and struck down the men of Ai. 22 Then the others came out of the city against them; so they were caught in the midst of Israel, some on this side and some on that side. And they struck them down, so that they k let none of them remain or escape. 23 But the king of Ai they took alive, and brought him to Joshua.

24 And it came to pass when Israel had made an end of slaying all the inhabitants of Ai in the field, in the wilderness where they pursued them, and when they all had fallen by the edge of the sword until they were consumed, that all the Israelites returned to Ai and struck it with the edge of the sword. 25 So it was that all who fell that day, both men and women, were twelve thousand—all the people of Ai. 26 For Joshua did not draw back his hand, with which he stretched out the spear, until he had l utterly destroyed all the inhabitants of Ai. 27 m Only the livestock and the spoil of that city Israel took as booty for themselves, according to the word of the LORD which He had n commanded Joshua. 28 So Joshua burned Ai and made it o a heap forever, a desolation to this day. 29 p And the king of Ai he hanged on a tree until evening. q And as soon as the sun was down, Joshua commanded that they should take his corpse down from the tree, cast it at the entrance of the gate of the city, and r raise over it a great heap of stones that remains to this day.

Joshua Renews the Covenant

30 Now Joshua built an altar to the LORD God of Israel s in Mount Ebal, 31 as Moses the servant of the LORD had commanded the children of Israel, as it is written in the Book of the Law of Moses: t "an altar of whole stones over which no man has wielded an iron tool." And u they offered

■ 8:12 five thousand. The number differing from the "thirty thousand" in v. 3 may indicate that there were two units assigned to different aspects of the ambush.

■ 8:14 the plain. The Jordan Valley.

■ 8:15 the wilderness. Uncultivated land to the east of Ai, not the desert on the other side of the Jordan Valley (v. 24).

■ 8:17 or Bethel. The sudden inclusion of Bethel is not explained, but see 12:9, 16.

■ 8:18 the spear. Compare Moses' action in Ex. 14:16; 17:9.

■ 8:28, 29 to this day. See note on 4:9.

■ 8:29 hanged on a tree. This action is a sign of the curse of God (21:22, 23; cf. Gal. 3:13).

■ 8:30–35 The first phase of the account of the conquest (6:1—8:35) concludes with the assembly of the people at Mount Ebal and Mount Gerizim to hear God's promise of blessing and His warning of curse. This assembly was commanded by Moses (Deut. 11:29; 27:1–13); it shows on it burnt offerings to the LORD, and sacrificed peace offerings. 32 And there, in the presence of the children of Israel, [v]he wrote on the stones a copy of the law of Moses, which he had written. 33 Then all Israel, with their elders and officers and judges, stood on either side of the ark before the priests, the Levites, [w]who bore the ark of the covenant of the LORD, [x]the stranger as well as he who was born among them. Half of them were in front of Mount Gerizim and half of them in front of Mount Ebal, [y]as Moses the servant of the LORD had commanded before, that they should bless the people of Israel. 34 And afterward [z]he read all the words of the law, [a]the blessings and the cursings, according to all that is written in the [b]Book of the Law. 35 There was not a word of all that Moses had commanded which Joshua did not read before all the assembly of Israel, [c]with the women, the little ones, [d]and the strangers who were living among them.

The Treaty with the Gibeonites

CHAPTER 9

9 And it came to pass when [a]all the kings who were on this side of the Jordan, in the hills and in the lowland and in all the coasts of [b]the Great Sea toward Lebanon—[c]the Hittite, the Amorite, the Canaanite, the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite—heard about it, 2 that they [d]gathered together to fight with Joshua and Israel with one [1]accord.

3 But when the inhabitants of [e]Gibeon [f]heard what Joshua had done to Jericho and Ai, 4 they that the life of Israel, including entry into the Promised Land, is established by the covenant and must be lived under the words of God (v. 34).

■ 8:30 Mount Ebal. Just north of Shechem, where Abraham heard God's promise to give the land to his descendants, and where he built an altar to God (Gen. 12:6, 7). Joshua's altar built in the same location many years later accompanied the repetition and renewal of the covenant promises.

burnt offerings. Offerings were essential for the establishment of the covenant with God. See Gen. 15:9, 10; Ex. 20:24.

stones. These could be the stones of the altar, but Deut. 27:1–8 indicates that special stones could be set up as writing surfaces.

■ 8:33 the ark. At the center of the assembly of Israel is the symbol of the covenant that makes them the people of God and according to which they have received the land (3:3; 6:4; 7:6 and notes).

bless the people of Israel. Although blessings and curses will be read (v. 34), blessing has priority in the purpose of God. In Gen. 12:1–3, blessing sums up the good that God promised Abraham (14:13; 22:6).

■ 8:34 the blessings and the cursings. Both sides of the covenant of God have already been experienced in the land: blessing in ch. 6 and 8:1–29, cursing in ch. 7. See Deut. 27—28.

■ 8:35 assembly. This gathering of the people of God to hear this word continues in the time of the New Testament church (cf. Deut. 9:10).

■ 9:1, 2 These verses form the background to chs. 9—12. The fear of the Israelites that immobilized the Canaanites in 5:1 here unites them against Joshua and Israel. There is an anticipation of Ps. 2:1–3, the opposition to God and His rule that culminated in the crucifixion of Jesus (Acts 4:25–27). The impotence of the rulers in Ps. 2 is amply illustrated by the list of defeated kings in Josh. 12.

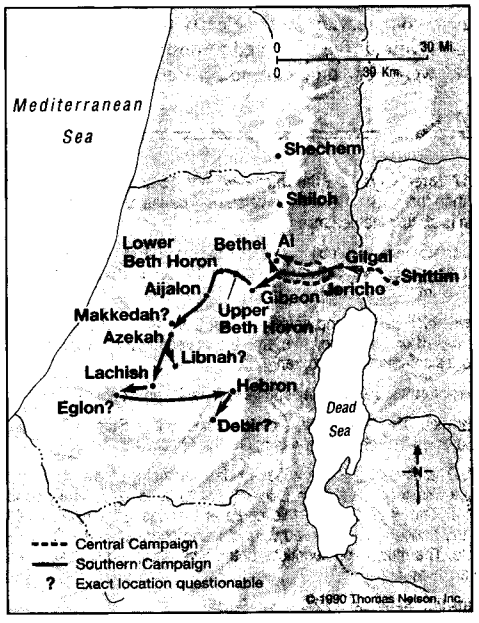
■ 9:3 Gibeon. The action of the people of Gibeon (eight miles north of Jerusalem) is in contrast to the general pattern throughout Canaan (vv. 1, 2).

heard. The effect of the news of God's powerful faithfulness to His promises is an important theme in the account of the conquest (2:10, 11; 5:1; 9:1, 9; 10:1; 11:1; cf. 7:9). For the Canaanites this news was terrifying, for it meant that the God of heaven and earth (2:11) would destroy them (5:13—12:24 note).

■ 9:4 worked craftily. This deception will bring a curse on the Gibeonites (v. 23) and is a contrast to Rahab's action towards the representatives of Israel in ch. 2.



The Conquest of Canaan (Central and Southern Campaigns). From the camp at Gilgal Joshua launched two campaigns. The central campaign conquered Jericho, Bethel and Ai. The southern campaign defeated a coalition of Canaanite kings, pushing as far as Debir.

worked craftily, and went and [2]pretended to be ambassadors. And they took old sacks on their donkeys, old wineskins torn and [3]mended, [5] old and patched sandals on their feet, and old garments on themselves; and all the bread of their provision was dry and moldy. [6] And they went to Joshua, [g]to the camp at Gilgal, and said to him and to the men of Israel, "We have come from a far country; now therefore, make a [4]covenant with us."

[7] Then the men of Israel said to the [h]Hivites, "Perhaps you dwell among us; so [i]how can we make a covenant with you?"

[8] But they said to Joshua, [j]"We are your servants."

And Joshua said to them, "Who are you, and where do you come from?"

[9] So they said to him: [k]"From a very far country your servants have come, because of the name of the LORD your God; for we have [l]heard of His fame, and all that He did in Egypt, [10] and [m]all that He did to the two kings of the Amorites who were beyond the Jordan—to Sihon king of Heshbon, and Og king of Bashan, who was at Ashtaroth. [11] Therefore our elders and all the inhabitants of our country spoke to us, saying, 'Take provisions with you for the journey, and go to meet them, and say to them, "We are your servants; now therefore, make a covenant with us." ' [12] This bread of ours we took hot for our provision from our houses on the day we departed to come to you. But now look, it is dry and moldy. [13] And these wineskins which we filled were new, and see, they are torn; and these our garments and our sandals have become old because of the very long journey."

[14] Then the men of Israel took some of their provisions; [n]but they [5]did not ask counsel of the LORD. [15] So Joshua [o]made peace with them, and made a covenant with them to let them live; and the rulers of the congregation swore to them.

[16] And it happened at the end of three days, after they had made a covenant with them, that they heard that they were their neighbors who dwelt near them. [17] Then the children of Israel journeyed and came to their cities on the third day. Now their cities were [p]Gibeon, Chephirah, Beeroth, and Kirjath Jearim. [18] But the children of Israel did not [6]attack them, [q]because the rulers of the congregation had sworn to them by the LORD God of Israel. And all the congregation complained against the rulers.

[19] Then all the rulers said to all the congregation, "We have sworn to them by the LORD God of Israel; now therefore, we may not touch them. [20] This we will do to them: We will let them live, lest [r]wrath be upon us because of the oath which we swore to them." [21] And the rulers said to them, "Let them live, but let them be [s]woodcutters and water carriers for all the congregation, as the rulers had [t]promised them."

[22] Then Joshua called for them, and he spoke to them, saying, "Why have you deceived us, saying, [u]'We are very far from you,' when [v]you dwell near us? [23] Now therefore, you are [w]cursed, and none of you shall be freed from being slaves—woodcutters and water carriers for the house of my God."

[24] So they answered Joshua and said, "Because your servants were clearly told that the LORD your God [x]commanded His servant Moses to give you all the land, and to destroy all the inhabitants of the land from before you; therefore [y]we were very much afraid for our lives because of

■ 9:10 all that He did. The news the Gibeonites had heard is the same as that confessed by Rahab (2:10 note). Their reaction was quite different from hers.

Amorites. See note on 2:10.

■ 9:14 did not ask counsel of the LORD. How they should have sought counsel is not specified, but as in 5:6, Israel's failure is a failure to obey God.

■ 9:15 made peace. The sense is explained by the following phrase "to let them live."

■ 9:16, 17 three days . . . the third day. If v. 16 anticipates the result of v. 17, then the three days in each verse may be the same. From Gilgal to Gibeon is about nineteen miles.

■ 9:18 complained. Grumbling (against Moses, Aaron, and ultimately the Lord) was a common activity of Israel in the desert (Ex. 15:24; 16:2, 7–9; 17:3; Num. 14:2, 27, 36).

■ 9:20 wrath. See 7:11 and note. Contrast this oath, kept scrupulously although based on a Gibeonite lie, and the covenant of ch. 7:11, based on the Lord's command, but broken.

■ 9:21 woodcutters and water carriers. That is, household slaves.

my God. The danger posed by Canaanites remaining in the land was that they would turn Israel from following the Lord to serve other gods (Deut. 7:4). The implication of this curse is that the Gibeonites would serve in the house of Israel's God without being counted as members of His people. The rituals and sacrifices of the tabernacle required supplies of wood and water.

The Sun Stands Still

10 Now it came to pass when Adoni-Zedek king of Jerusalem [a]heard how Joshua had taken [b]Ai and had utterly destroyed it—[c]as he had done to Jericho and its king, so he had done to [d]Ai and its king—and [e]how the inhabitants of Gibeon had made peace with Israel and were among them, 2 that they [f]feared greatly, because Gibeon was a great city, like one of the royal cities, and because it was greater than Ai, and all its men were mighty. 3 Therefore Adoni-Zedek king of Jerusalem sent to Hoham king of Hebron, Piram king of Jarmuth, Japhia king of Lachish, and Debir king of Eglon, saying, 4 "Come up to me and help me, that we may attack Gibeon, for [g]it has made peace with Joshua and with the children of Israel." 5 Therefore the five kings of the [h]Amorites, the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish, and the king of Eglon, [i]gathered together and went up, they and all their armies, and camped before Gibeon and made war against it.

6 And the men of Gibeon sent to Joshua at the camp [j]at Gilgal, saying, "Do not forsake your servants; come up to us quickly, save us and help us, for all the kings of the Amorites who dwell in the mountains have gathered together against us."

7 So Joshua ascended from Gilgal, he and [k]all the people of war with him, and all the mighty men of valor. 8 And the LORD said to Joshua, [l]"Do not fear them, for I have delivered them into your hand; [m]not a man of them shall [n]stand before you." 9 Joshua therefore came upon them suddenly, having marched all night from Gilgal. 10 So the LORD [o]routed them before Israel, killed them with a great slaughter at Gibeon, chased them along the road that goes [p]to Beth Horon, and struck them down as far as [q]Azekah and Makkedah. 11 And it happened, as they fled before Israel and were on the descent of Beth Horon, [r]that the LORD cast down large hailstones from heaven on them as far as Azekah, and they died. There were more who died from the hailstones than the children of Israel killed with the sword.

12 Then Joshua spoke to the LORD in the day when the LORD delivered up the Amorites before the children of Israel, and he said in the sight of Israel:

[s]"Sun, stand still over Gibeon;
And Moon, in the Valley of [t]Aijalon."
13 So the sun stood still,

to this day. See note on 4:9.

■ 10:1–43 The hostility anticipated in 9:1, 2 begins to emerge; in ch. 10 the hostile nations to the south are overthrown by remarkable divine intervention. The scheming of the five kings (v. 4) and their destruction (v. 26, 40–42) is like what is described in Ps. 2 (9:1, 2 note), and demonstrates the great power of God to fulfill His promises. This is the kind of battle described in Deut. 20, not ultimately fought by Israel but by God (v. 14 and Deut. 20:4).

■ 10:3 Hoham . . . Debir. These were the kings of five southern Canaanite cities.

■ 10:5 Amorites. See note on 2:10.

■ 10:6 save us and help us. The treaty relationship between Gibeon and Israel (9:15) allowed Gibeon to appeal for help from Israel, the stronger of the treaty partners. This aspect of a human covenant illustrates an aspect of the covenant between God and Israel.

■ 10:8 Do not fear . . . I have delivered them. The particular actions in this chapter take place under the promises of God introduced in ch. 1. See 1:2, 3, 5–9; 8:1 and notes.

■ 10:9 all night. Gilgal was at the bottom of the Jordan Valley and Gibeon was on top of a mountain twenty miles to the west.

■ 10:10 routed them. The same expression is often used in descriptions of battles where the Lord is the Divine Warrior (2:9 note; Ex. 14:24; 23:27; Judg. 4:15; 1 Sam. 7:10; 2 Sam. 22:15; cf. Jer. 51:34).

■ 10:11 more who died from the hailstones. This emphasizes that the victory was a gift to Israel. Experiences like this illuminate the use of storm phenomena in poetic descriptions of God's judgment (Ps. 18:7–16; Is. 30:30).

[u] Is this not written in the Book of Jasher? So the sun stood still in the midst of heaven, and did not hasten to go down for about a whole day. [14] And there has been [v] no day like that, before it or after it, that the LORD heeded the voice of a man; for [w] the LORD fought for Israel.

[15] [x] Then Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, to the camp at Gilgal.

The Amorite Kings Executed

[16] But these five kings had fled and hidden themselves in a cave at Makkedah. [17] And it was told Joshua, saying, "The five kings have been found hidden in the cave at Makkedah."

[18] So Joshua said, "Roll large stones against the mouth of the cave, and set men by it to guard them. [19] And do not stay there yourselves, but pursue your enemies, and attack their rear guard. Do not allow them to enter their cities, for the LORD your God has delivered them into your hand." [20] Then it happened, while Joshua and the children of Israel made an end of slaying them with a very great slaughter, till they had finished, that those who escaped entered fortified cities. [21] And all the people returned to the camp, to Joshua at Makkedah, in peace.

[y] No one [1] moved his tongue against any of the children of Israel.

[22] Then Joshua said, "Open the mouth of the cave, and bring out those five kings to me from the cave." [23] And they did so, and brought out those five kings to him from the cave: the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish, and the king of Eglon.

[24] So it was, when they brought out those kings to Joshua, that Joshua called for all the men of Israel, and said to the captains of the men of war who went with him, "Come near, put your feet on the necks of these kings." And they drew near and [z] put their feet on their necks. [25] Then Joshua said to [2] them, [a] "Do not be afraid, nor be dismayed; be strong and of good courage, for [b] thus the LORD will do to all your enemies against whom you fight." [26] And afterward Joshua struck [3] them and killed them, and hanged them on five trees; and they [c] were hanging on the trees until evening. [27] So it was at the time of the going down of the sun that Joshua commanded, and they [d] took them down from the trees, cast them into the cave where they had been hidden, and laid large stones against the cave's mouth, which remain until this very day.

Conquest of the Southland

[28] On that day Joshua took Makkedah, and struck it and its king with the edge of the sword. He utterly [e] destroyed [4] them—all the people who were in it. He let none remain. He also did to the king of Makkedah [f] as he had done to the king of Jericho.

[29] Then Joshua passed from Makkedah, and all Israel with him, to [g] Libnah; and they fought against Libnah. [30] And the LORD also delivered it and its king into the hand of Israel; he struck it and all the people who were in it with the edge of the sword. He let none remain in it, but did to its king as he had done to the king of Jericho.

[31] Then Joshua passed from Libnah, and all Israel with him, to Lachish; and they encamped against it and fought against it. [32] And the LORD delivered Lachish into the hand of Israel, who took it on the second day, and struck it and all the people who were in it with the edge of the sword, according to all that he had done to Libnah. [33] Then Horam king of Gezer came up to help Lachish; and Joshua struck him and his people, until he left him none remaining.

[34] From Lachish Joshua passed to Eglon, and all Israel with him; and they encamped against it and fought against it. [35] They took it on that day and struck it with the edge of the sword; all the people who were in it he utterly destroyed that day, according to all that he had done to Lachish.

of Jasher may extend as far as the end of v. 15. The biblical writers often use written sources (Luke 1:1–4).

■ 10:14 the LORD fought for Israel. See Deut. 20, especially v. 4; cf. Ex. 14:14.

■ 10:16–27 The narrative returns to the events of v. 10 to finish the story of the five kings introduced in v. 5.

■ 10:19 the LORD . . . has delivered. The action of God, in terms of His promise, still dominates the account. See vv. 8, 10, 14.

■ 10:21 No one moved his tongue. Not even a word, let alone a weapon, could be raised against God's army.

■ 10:24 your feet on the necks. This is a vivid, symbolic ritual of victory. Defeated enemies are often said to be "under the feet" of the victor (1 Kin. 5:3; Ps. 110:1; 1 Cor. 15:25), and Egyptian royal footstools depict the Pharaoh's feet on his enemies' necks.

■ 10:26 hanged them on five trees. See note on 8:29.

■ 10:27 until this very day. See note on 4:9.

■ 10:28–39 These verses are a summary account of victories over cities in southern Canaan. The account emphasizes the complete destruction of the towns according to the judgment of God (vv. 28—39; 6:17, 18 and notes). Another emphasis is the unity of Israel (1:12–15) under Joshua's leadership (1:1–9).

36 So Joshua went up from Eglon, and all Israel with him, to [h]Hebron; and they fought against it. 37 And they took it and struck it with the edge of the sword—its king, all its cities, and all the people who were in it; he left none remaining, according to all that he had done to Eglon, but utterly destroyed it and all the people who were in it.

38 Then Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, to [i]Debir; and they fought against it. 39 And he took it and its king and all its cities; they struck them with the edge of the sword and utterly destroyed all the people who were in it. He left none remaining; as he had done to Hebron, so he did to Debir and its king, as he had done also to Libnah and its king.

40 So Joshua conquered all the land: the [j]mountain country and the [5]South and the lowland and the wilderness slopes, and [k]all their kings; he left none remaining, but [l]utterly destroyed all that breathed, as the LORD God of Israel had commanded. 41 And Joshua conquered them from [m]Kadesh Barnea as far as [n]Gaza, [o]and all the country of Goshen, even as far as Gibeon. 42 All these kings and their land Joshua took at one time, [p]because the LORD God of Israel fought for Israel. 43 Then Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, to the camp at Gilgal.

The Northern Conquest

11 And it came to pass, when Jabin king of Hazor heard these things, that he [a]sent to Jobab king of Madon, to the king [b]of Shimron, to the king of Achshaph, 2 and to the kings who were from the north, in the mountains, in the plain south of [c]Chinneroth, in the lowland, and in the heights [d]of Dor on the west, 3 to the Canaanites in the east and in the west, the [e]Amorite, the Hittite, the Perizzite, the Jebusite in the mountains, [f]and the Hivite below [g]Hermon [h]in the land of Mizpah. 4 So they went out, they and all their armies with them, as many people [i]as the sand that is on the seashore in multitude, with very many horses and chariots. 5 And when all these kings had [1]met together, they came and camped together at the waters of Merom to fight against Israel.

6 But the LORD said to Joshua, [j]"Do not be afraid because of them, for tomorrow about this time I will deliver all of them slain before Israel. You shall [k]hamstring their horses and burn their chariots with fire." 7 So Joshua and all the people of war with him came against them suddenly by the waters of Merom, and they attacked them. 8 And the LORD delivered them into the hand of Israel, who defeated them and chased them to [2]Greater [l]Sidon, to the [3]Brook

■ 11:1–23 The account of the conquest of the northern region of Palestine is similar in its emphases to the report of the southern victories in ch. 10 (10:1–43 note), and brings the book's record of Israel's taking of the land to a conclusion.

The Conquest of Canaan (Northern Campaign). A coalition of kings, including Canaanites, Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, Jebusites, and Hivites, fought against Joshua at the waters of Merom. Joshua's armies pursued some of them toward Tyre and Sidon and others toward Kedesh, while also turning aside to destroy Hazor.

[m]Misrephoth, and to the Valley of Mizpah eastward; they attacked them until they left none of them remaining. 9 So Joshua did to them as the LORD had told him: he hamstrung their horses and burned their chariots with fire.

10 Joshua turned back at that time and took Hazor, and struck its king with the sword; for Hazor was formerly the head of all those kingdoms. 11 And they struck all the people who were in it with the edge of the sword, [n]utterly destroying them. There was none left [o]breathing. Then he burned Hazor with fire.

12 So all the cities of those kings, and all their kings, Joshua took and struck with the edge of the sword. He utterly destroyed them, [p]as Moses the servant of the LORD had commanded. 13 But as for the cities that stood on their [4]mounds, Israel burned none of them, except Hazor only, which Joshua burned. 14 And all the [q]spoil of these cities and the livestock, the children of Israel took as booty for themselves; but they struck every man with the edge of the sword until they had destroyed them, and they left none breathing. 15 [r]As the LORD had commanded Moses his servant, so [s]Moses commanded Joshua, and [t]so Joshua did. [5]He left nothing undone of all that the LORD had commanded Moses.

Summary of Joshua's Conquests

16 Thus Joshua took all this land: [u]the mountain country, all the South, [v]all the land of Goshen, the lowland, and the Jordan [6]plain—the mountains of Israel and its lowlands, 17 [w]from [7]Mount Halak and the ascent to Seir, even as far as Baal Gad in the Valley of Lebanon below Mount Hermon. He captured [x]all their kings, and struck them down and killed them. 18 Joshua made war a long time with all those kings. 19 There was not a city that made peace with the children of Israel, except [y]the Hivites, the inhabitants of Gibeon. All the others they took in battle. 20 For [z]it was of the LORD [8]to harden their hearts, that they should come against Israel in battle, that He might utterly destroy them, and that they might receive no mercy, but that He might destroy them, [a]as the LORD had commanded Moses.

21 And at that time Joshua came and cut off [b]the Anakim from the mountains: from Hebron, from Debir, from Anab, from all the mountains of Judah, and from all the mountains of Israel; Joshua utterly destroyed them with their cities. 22 None of the Anakim were left in the land of the children of Israel; they remained only [c]in Gaza, in Gath, [d]and in Ashdod.

23 So Joshua took the whole land, [e]according to all that the LORD had said to Moses; and Joshua gave it as an inheritance to Israel [f]according to their divisions by their tribes. Then the land [g]rested from war.

The Kings Conquered by Moses

12 These are the kings of the land whom the children of Israel defeated, and whose land they possessed on the other side of the Jordan toward the rising of the sun, [a]from the River Arnon [b]to Mount Hermon, and all the eastern Jordan plain: 2 One king was [c]Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt in Heshbon and ruled half of Gilead, from Aroer, which is on the bank

■ 11:11 utterly destroying. The same term occurs in vv. 12, 20, 21. See note on 6:17.

■ 11:12 as Moses the servant of the LORD had commanded. The success of the conquest is emphatically portrayed in terms of obedience to the commands of God given through Moses (1:1–18; 1:1, 3; 5:15 and notes). The writer makes the closest possible connection between the promises of God (v. 6 note) and His commands. Faith and obedience cannot be separated. See note on 1:7.

■ 11:16 all this land. In principle the whole land now belonged to the Israelites, although there was "very much land yet to be possessed" (13:1).

■ 11:18 a long time. This is an indication that the preceding chapters present a greatly condensed account.

■ 11:19 made peace. See 9:6, 15.

■ 11:20 it was of the LORD to harden. The relationship between divine sovereignty and human responsibility is seen in the divine hardening of hearts to achieve His purposes. God's sovereign act does not overthrow either His justice or human responsibility (Ex. 10:1, 2; Rom. 9:14–29).

■ 11:21, 22 Anakim. These people were the fearful inhabitants of Canaan who had frightened the Israelites into disobedience a generation earlier (Num. 13:26–33; Deut. 1:28; 2:10–12 and notes; Josh. 14:12; 15:14). Their destruction concludes the account of the obedient conquest under Joshua.

■ 11:23 an inheritance . . . according to . . . their tribes. This is an anticipatory summary of chs. 13—21. See note on 1:6.

the land rested from war. These words sum up the conquest and the fulfillment of God's promise given in 1:2–5. See notes on 1:13; 21:45.

■ 12:1–24 This chapter summarizes the entire conquest under Moses and Joshua with a list of defeated kings and territories. It is an elaboration of 11:17, a striking resolution to 9:1, 2 (note), and a testimony to the truth of the promise in 1:5, providing a fitting conclusion to the whole account of the conquest.

■ 12:1 land. Notice that the territory east of the Jordan is clearly included in the land given by God to Israel (v. 7). See notes on 1:12–15; 13:8–33.

Mount Hermon. Northeast of the Sea of Galilee.

■ 12:2–5 See Num. 21:21–35; Deut. 2:24—3:11. The defeat of Sihon and Og marked the beginning of the conquest and is remembered as a testimony to God's power and faithfulness (e.g., Deut. 29:7, 8; 31:4; Josh. 2:10; 9:10; Neh. 9:22; Ps. 135:11; 136:19, 20).

of the River Arnon, from the middle of that river, even as far as the River Jabbok, which is the border of the Ammonites, 3 and [d]the eastern Jordan plain from the [f]Sea of Chinneroth as far as the [2]Sea of the Arabah (the Salt Sea), [e]the road to Beth Jeshimoth, and [3]southward below [f]the[4] slopes of Pisgah. 4 [g]The other king was Og king of Bashan and his territory, who was of [h]the remnant of the giants, [i]who dwelt at Ashtaroth and at Edrei, 5 and reigned over [j]Mount Hermon, [k]over Salcah, over all Bashan, [l]as far as the border of the Geshurites and the Maachathites, and over half of Gilead to the border of Sihon king of Heshbon.

6 [m]These Moses the servant of the LORD and the children of Israel had conquered; and [n]Moses the servant of the LORD had given it as a possession to the Reubenites, the Gadites, and half the tribe of Manasseh.

The Kings Conquered by Joshua

7 And these are the kings of the country [o]which Joshua and the children of Israel conquered on this side of the Jordan, on the west, from Baal Gad in the Valley of Lebanon as far as [5]Mount Halak and the ascent to [p]Seir, which Joshua [q]gave to the tribes of Israel as a possession according to their divisions, 8 [r]in the mountain country, in the lowlands, in the Jordan plain, in the slopes, in the wilderness, and in the South—[s]the Hittites, the Amorites, the Canaanites, the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites: 9 [t]the king of Jericho, one; [u]the king of Ai, which is beside Bethel, one; 10 [v]the king of Jerusalem, one; the king of Hebron, one; 11 the king of Jarmuth, one; the king of Lachish, one; 12 the king of Eglon, one; [w]the king of Gezer, one; 13 [x]the king of Debir, one; the king of Geder, one; 14 the king of Hormah, one; the king of Arad, one; 15 [y]the king of Libnah, one; the king of Adullam, one; 16 [z]the king of Makkedah, one; [a]the king of Bethel, one; 17 the king of Tappuah, one; [b]the king of Hepher, one; 18 the king of Aphek, one; the king of [6]Lasharon, one; 19 the king of Madon, one; [c]the king of Hazor, one; 20 the king of [d]Shimron Meron, one; the king of Achshaph, one; 21 the king of Taanach, one; the king of Megiddo, one; 22 [e]the king of Kedesh, one; the king of Jokneam in Carmel, one; 23 the king of Dor in the [f]heights of Dor, one; the king of [g]the people of Gilgal, one; 24 the king of Tirzah, one—[h]all the kings, thirty-one.

Remaining Land to Be Conquered

13 Now Joshua [a]was old, advanced in years. And the LORD said to him: "You are old, advanced in years, and there remains very much land yet to be possessed. 2 [b]This is the land that yet remains: [c]all the territory of the Philistines and all [d]that of the Geshurites, 3 [e]from Sihor, which is east of Egypt, as far as the border of Ekron northward (which is counted as Canaanite); the [f]five lords of the Philistines—the Gazites, the Ashdodites, the Ashkelonites, the Gittites, and the Ekronites; also [g]the Avites; 4 from the south, all the land of the Canaanites, and Mearah that belongs to the Sidonians [h]as far as Aphek, to the border of [i]the Amorites; 5 the land of [j]the [1]Gebalites, and all Lebanon, toward the sunrise, [k]from Baal Gad below Mount Hermon as far as the entrance to Hamath; 6 all the inhabitants of the mountains from Lebanon as far as [l]the [2]Brook Misrephoth, and all the Sidonians—them [m]I will drive out from before the children of Israel; only [n]divide[3] it by lot to Israel as an inheritance, as I have commanded you. 7 Now therefore, divide this land as an inheritance to the nine tribes and half the tribe of Manasseh."

CHAPTER 13

1 [a]Josh. 14:10; 23:1, 2

■ 12:6 Moses the servant of the LORD. See note on 1:1.

■ 12:7–24 This summary of the conquest under Joshua approximates the account so far given, but with additions, indicating the incomplete and representative nature of the preceding account.

■ 13:1—21:45 The third major section of the book details the division of the land among the tribes. The significance of these chapters is made explicit in 21:43–45. The lists of boundaries and towns represent the objective content of the promises of God. Although many of the places are no longer known, and although their allotment here did not in all cases mean that the designated tribe actually occupied them (23:13), they nevertheless are an elaborate testimony to the faithfulness of the Lord.

■ 13:1 Joshua was old. The implication is that further conquest will not take place under him.

very much land yet. The Book of Joshua speaks of both the complete fulfillment of God's promises (11:23; 21:45) and the incompleteness of the actual possession of the land (e.g., 13:1; 23:4–5). Compare the New Testament perspective of the completeness of what has been given in Christ, and the future expectation that still remains (e.g., Eph. 1:3, 14). While the Book of Joshua testifies to Israel's experience of the Lord's complete faithfulness, the promise remained, pointing to the future. See notes on 1:4; 21:45; Gen. 13:15.

■ 13:3 counted as Canaanite. The Philistines were not strictly speaking Canaanites, but their territory was in Canaan and was included in God's promise to Israel.

The Land Divided East of the Jordan

8 With the other half-tribe the Reubenites and the Gadites received their inheritance, [o]which Moses had given them, [p]beyond the Jordan eastward, as Moses the servant of the LORD had given them: 9 [q]from Aroer which is on the bank of the River Arnon, and the town that is in the midst of the ravine, and all the plain of Medeba as far as Dibon; 10 [r]all the cities of Sihon king of the Amorites, who reigned in Heshbon, as far as the border of the children of Ammon; 11 [s]Gilead, and the border of the Geshurites and Maachathites, all Mount Hermon, and all Bashan as far

■ 13:8–33 As the summary of the conquest in ch. 12 began with the kings and their territory east of the Jordan (12:1–6; cf. 1:12–15), so the account of the distribution of the land begins with the allocation of this territory to the tribes of Reuben (vv. 15–23), Gad (vv. 24–28), and the half-tribe of Manasseh (vv. 29–31) in the days of Moses. In this way what Joshua does is seen as the completion of what Moses began, and the unity of all Israel is affirmed, despite the geographical boundary of the Jordan (22:25) and the lapse of time between the work of Moses and Joshua. See ch. 22.

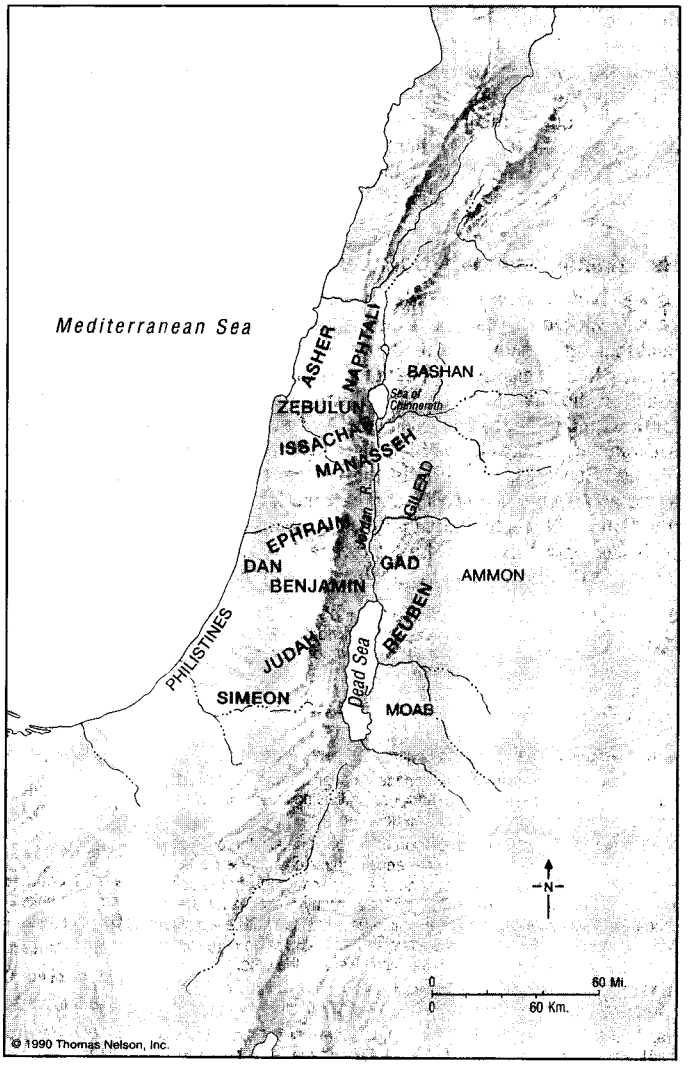
■ 13:8 Reubenites. Reuben was Jacob's oldest son, born to Leah (Gen. 29:32; 35:22; 49:3, 4 and notes).

Gadites. Gad was Jacob's seventh son, his first from Zilpah (Gen. 30:9–11; 49:19 and note).

Division of Land Among the Twelve Tribes. When Joshua grew old, God commanded him to divide the land among the tribes in the manner that Moses had promised them, even though the total conquest of the Promised Land was not yet complete.

The tribe of Levi was given no land inheritance. The inheritance of the Levites was to be the Lord God of Israel Himself. However, the tribe of Joseph was divided into the two tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh; thus, there were still twelve tribal areas assigned.

The tribes of Gad and Reuben, as well as the half-tribe of Manasseh, were given land on the eastern side of the Jordan, to which they returned when the battles of conquest under Joshua had been concluded.



as Salcah; 12 all the kingdom of Og in Bashan, who reigned in Ashtaroth and Edrei, who remained of [t]the remnant of the giants; [u]for Moses had [4]defeated and [5]cast out these.

13 Nevertheless the children of Israel [v]did not drive out the Geshurites or the Maachathites, but the Geshurites and the Maachathites dwell among the Israelites until this day.

14 [w]Only to the tribe of Levi he had given [6]no inheritance; the sacrifices of the LORD God of Israel made by fire are their inheritance, [x]as He said to them.

The Land of Reuben

15 [y]And Moses had given to the tribe of the children of Reuben an inheritance according to their families. 16 Their territory was [z]from Aroer, which is on the bank of the River Arnon, [a]and the city that is in the midst of the ravine, [b]and all the plain by Medeba; 17 [c]Heshbon and all its cities that are in the plain: Dibon, Bamoth Baal, Beth Baal Meon, 18 [d]Jahaza, Kedemoth, Mephaath, 19 [e]Kirjathaim, [f]Sibmah, Zereth Shahar on the mountain of the valley, 20 Beth Peor, [g]the slopes of Pisgah, and Beth Jeshimoth— 21 [h]all the cities of the plain and all the kingdom of Sihon king of the Amorites, who reigned in Heshbon, [i]whom Moses had struck [j]with the princes of Midian: Evi, Rekem, Zur, Hur, and Reba, who were princes of Sihon dwelling in the country. 22 The children of Israel also killed with the sword [k]Balaam the son of Beor, the [7]soothsayer, among those who were killed by them. 23 And the border of the children of Reuben was the bank of the Jordan. This was the inheritance of the children of Reuben according to their families, the cities and their villages.

The Land of Gad

24 [l]Moses also had given an inheritance to the tribe of Gad, to the children of Gad according to their families. 25 [m]Their territory was Jazer, and all the cities of Gilead, [n]and half the land of the Ammonites as far as Aroer, which is before [o]Rabbah, 26 and from Heshbon to Ramath Mizpah and Betonim, and from Mahanaim to the border of Debir, 27 and in the valley [p]Beth Haram, Beth Nimrah, [q]Succoth, and Zaphon, the rest of the kingdom of Sihon king of Heshbon, with the Jordan as its border, as far as the edge [r]of the [8]Sea of Chinnereth, on the other side of the Jordan eastward. 28 This is the inheritance of the children of Gad according to their families, the cities and their villages.

Half the Tribe of Manasseh (East)

29 [s]Moses also had given an inheritance to half the tribe of Manasseh; it was for half the tribe of the children of Manasseh according to their families: 30 Their territory was from Mahanaim, all Bashan, all the kingdom of Og king of Bashan, and [t]all the towns of Jair which are in Bashan, sixty cities; 31 half of Gilead, and [u]Ashtaroth and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Bashan, were for the [v]children of Machir the son of Manasseh, for half of the children of Machir according to their families.

32 These are the areas which Moses had [9]distributed as an inheritance in the plains of Moab on the other side of the Jordan, by Jericho eastward. 33 [w]But to the tribe of Levi Moses had given no inheritance; the LORD God of Israel was their inheritance, [x]as He had said to them.

The Land Divided West of the Jordan

14 These are the areas which the children of Israel inherited in the land of Canaan, [a]which Eleazar the priest, Joshua the son of Nun, and the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the

■ 13:13 did not drive out. The significance of this failure of the Israelites will become clearer in the Book of Judges (Judg. 1:27–36; 2:20—3:6)

until this day. See note on 4:9.

■ 13:14 the tribe of Levi. Levi was Jacob's third son, born to Leah (Gen. 29:34; 34:25; 49:5 and notes). That Levi received no allotment of land from either Moses or Joshua is explained here and in v. 33 (also 14:3, 4; 18:7). See Deut. 18:1–8. The twelve tribes of Israel are counted in various ways in the Old Testament. For the division into twelve territories the descendants of Joseph are counted as two tribes, Ephraim and Manasseh (14:4; Gen. 48:5).

■ 13:22 Balaam the son of Beor. See Num. 31:8. Balaam was associated with "the incident of Peor" (Num. 31:16) referred to in Josh. 22:17. Balaam's evil influence was long remembered (2 Pet. 2:15; Rev. 2:14).

soothsayer. A soothsayer tries to attain knowledge by magical or occult means. This was a common practice among the pagans, but forbidden in Israel (Lev. 19:26; Deut. 18:9–14; 1 Sam. 15:23; 2 Kin. 17:17; 21:6; Is. 2:6; Ezek. 13:23).

■ 13:33 the tribe of Levi. See note on v. 14.

■ 14:1–5 This introduces the territories west of the Jordan and relates them to those on the east, explaining again the exception of the Levites. The effect is to keep the reader's attention on the essential unity of all Israel. See note on 13:8–33.

■ 14:1 inherited. See note on 1:6.

Canaan. Here this means the land west of the Jordan.

Eleazar the priest. Eleazar was the son of Aaron the high priest (Ex. 6:23). He is mentioned before Joshua, possibly because of the priest's role in casting lots (Ex. 28:30; 1 Sam. 2:28).

children of Israel distributed as an inheritance to them. 2 Their inheritance was [b]by lot, as the LORD had commanded by the hand of Moses, for the nine tribes and the half-tribe. 3 [c]For Moses had given the inheritance of the two tribes and the half-tribe on the other side of the Jordan; but to the Levites he had given no inheritance among them. 4 For [d]the children of Joseph were two tribes: Manasseh and Ephraim. And they gave no part to the Levites in the land, except [e]cities to dwell in, with their common-lands for their livestock and their property. 5 [f]As the LORD had commanded Moses, so the children of Israel did; and they divided the land.

Caleb Inherits Hebron

6 Then the children of Judah came to Joshua in Gilgal. And Caleb the son of Jephunneh the [g]Kenizzite said to him: "You know [h]the word which the LORD said to Moses the man of God concerning [i]you and me in Kadesh Barnea. 7 I was forty years old when Moses the servant of the LORD [j]sent me from Kadesh Barnea to spy out the land, and I brought back word to him as it was in my heart. 8 Nevertheless [k]my brethren who went up with me made the [l]heart of the people melt, but I wholly [l]followed the LORD my God. 9 So Moses swore on that day, saying, [m]'Surely the land [n]where your foot has trodden shall be your inheritance and your children's forever, because you have wholly followed the LORD my God.' 10 And now, behold, the LORD has kept me [o]alive, [p]as He said, these forty-five years, ever since the LORD spoke this word to Moses while Israel [2]wandered in the wilderness; and now, here I am this day, eighty-five years old. 11 [q]As yet I am as strong this day as on the day that Moses sent me; just as my strength was then, so now is my strength for war, both [r]for going out and for coming in. 12 Now therefore, give me this mountain of which the LORD spoke in that day; for you heard in that day how [s]the Anakim were there, and that the cities were great and fortified. [t]It may be that the LORD will be with me, and [u]I shall be able to drive them out as the LORD said."

13 And Joshua [v]blessed him, [w]and gave Hebron to Caleb the son of Jephunneh as an inheritance. 14 [x]Hebron therefore became the inheritance of Caleb the son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite to this day, because he [y]wholly followed the LORD God of Israel. 15 And [z]the name of Hebron formerly was Kirjath Arba (Arba was the greatest man among the Anakim).

[a]Then the land had rest from war.

The Land of Judah

15 So this was the [1]lot of the tribe of the children of Judah according to their families: [a]The border of Edom at the [b]Wilderness of Zin southward was the extreme southern boundary. 2 And their [c]southern border began at the shore of the Salt Sea, from the bay that faces southward. 3 Then it went out to the southern side of [d]the Ascent of Akrabbim, passed along to Zin, ascended on the south side of Kadesh Barnea, passed along to Hezron, went up to Adar, and went around to Karkaa. 4 From there it passed [e]toward Azmon and went out to the Brook of Egypt; and the border ended at the sea. This shall be your southern border.

5 The east border was the Salt Sea as far as the mouth of the Jordan.

And the [f]border on the northern quarter began at the bay of the sea at the mouth of the Jordan. 6 The border went up to [g]Beth Hoglah and passed north of Beth Arabah; and the border went up

■ 14:3, 4 the Levites . . . Manasseh and Ephraim. See note on 13:14.

■ 14:6–15 The story of Caleb's inheritance opens the account of the allotment of land under Joshua, while Joshua's inheritance comes at the end (19:49–50). This framework illustrates the principles of human faithfulness to God met by God's faithfulness to His promises. The story of Caleb is concluded in 15:13–19.

■ 14:6 Gilgal. This is probably the same Gilgal as in 10:43, to the east of Jericho.

Caleb. He represented Judah among the twelve spies sent by Moses from Kadesh Barnea into the land (Num. 13:6). Caleb and Joshua represented Ephraim on the same mission (Num. 13:8) and were the only two on that occasion to believe the promise of God (Num. 13:30; 14:6–9, 24, 30, 38; Deut. 1:36).

■ 14:7 as it was in my heart. Caleb's report had expressed his trust in God's promise. See Num. 14:6–9.

■ 14:8 I wholly followed the LORD. Caleb's faith is exemplary.

■ 14:14 to this day. See note on 4:9.

■ 14:15 the land had rest from war. See note on 11:23.

■ 15:1–63 The first territory west of the Jordan to be described is Judah's, anticipating the importance of Judah in the later history of Israel as the tribe of David and finally of the Messiah to come (Is. 11:1; see also Gen. 49:8–12). The place names cannot all be identified. Also, the allocation was never followed completely or exactly. The promise was never fully realized in Israel's Old Testament experience. See Introduction: Characteristics and Themes.

■ 15:1 lot. See 14:2; 18:6. The method of casting lots is not specified. The important point is that the land was not divided by human decision (Prov. 16:33; 18:18).

one of Bohan the son of Reuben. 7 Then the border went up toward [i]Debir from [j]the Valley of Achor, and it turned northward toward Gilgal, which is before the Ascent of Adummim, which is on the south side of the valley. The border continued toward the waters of En Shemesh and ended at [k]En Rogel. 8 And the border went up [l]by the Valley of the Son of Hinnom to the southern slope of the [m]Jebusite city (which is Jerusalem). The border went up to the top of the mountain that lies before the Valley of Hinnom westward, which is at the end of the Valley [n]of [2]Rephaim northward. 9 Then the border went around from the top of the hill to [o]the fountain of the water of Nephtoah, and extended to the cities of Mount Ephron. And the border went around [p]to Baalah (which is [q]Kirjath Jearim). 10 Then the border [3]turned westward from Baalah to Mount Seir, passed along to the side of Mount Jearim on the north (which is Chesalon), went down to Beth Shemesh, and passed on to [r]Timnah. 11 And the border went out to the side of [s]Ekron northward. Then the border went around to Shicron, passed along to Mount Baalah, and extended to Jabneel; and the border ended at the sea.

12 The west border was [t]the coastline of the Great Sea. This is the boundary of the children of Judah all around according to their families.

Caleb Occupies Hebron and Debir

13 [u]Now to Caleb the son of Jephunneh he gave a share among the children of [v]Judah, according to the commandment of the LORD to Joshua, namely, [w]Kirjath Arba, which is Hebron (Arba was the father of Anak). 14 Caleb drove out [x]the three sons of Anak from there: [y]Sheshai, Ahiman, and Talmai, the children of Anak. 15 Then [z]he went up from there to the inhabitants of Debir (formerly the name of Debir was Kirjath Sepher).

16 [a]And Caleb said, "He who [4]attacks Kirjath Sepher and takes it, to him I will give Achsah my daughter as wife." 17 So [b]Othniel the [c]son of Kenaz, the brother of Caleb, took it; and he gave him [d]Achsah his daughter as wife. 18 [e]Now it was so, when she came to him, that she persuaded him to ask her father for a field. So [f]she dismounted from her donkey, and Caleb said to her, "What do you wish?" 19 She answered, "Give me a [g]blessing; since you have given me land in the South, give me also springs of water." So he gave her the upper springs and the lower springs.

The Cities of Judah

20 This was the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Judah according to their families:

21 The cities at the limits of the tribe of the children of Judah, toward the border of Edom in the South, were Kabzeel, [h]Eder, Jagur, 22 Kinah, Dimonah, Adadah, 23 Kedesh, Hazor, Ithnan, 24 [i]Ziph, Telem, Bealoth, 25 Hazor, Hadattah, Kerioth, Hezron (which is Hazor), 26 Amam, Shema, Moladah, 27 Hazar Gaddah, Heshmon, Beth Pelet, 28 Hazar Shual, [j]Beersheba, Bizjothjah, 29 Baalah, Ijim, Ezem, 30 Eltolad, Chesil, [k]Hormah, 31 [l]Ziklag, Madmannah, Sansannah, 32 Lebaoth, Shilhim, Ain, and [m]Rimmon: all the cities are twenty-nine, with their villages.

48 And in the mountain country: Shamir, Jattir, Sochoh, 49 Dannah, Kirjath Sannah (which is Debir), 50 Anab, Eshtemoh, Anim, 51 [w]Goshen, Holon, and Giloh: eleven cities with their villages; 52 Arab, Dumah, Eshean, 53 Janum, Beth Tappuah, Aphekah, 54 Humtah, [x]Kirjath Arba (which is Hebron), and Zior: nine cities with their villages; 55 [y]Maon, Carmel, Ziph, Juttah, 56 Jezreel, Jokdeam, Zanoah, 57 Kain, Gibeah, and Timnah: ten cities with their villages; 58 Halhul, Beth Zur, Gedor, 59 Maarath, Beth Anoth, and Eltekon: six cities with their villages; 60 [z]Kirjath Baal (which is Kirjath Jearim) and Rabbah: two cities with their villages.

61 In the wilderness: Beth Arabah, Middin, Secacah, 62 Nibshan, the City of Salt, and [a]En Gedi: six cities with their villages.

63 As for the Jebusites, the inhabitants of Jerusalem, [b]the children of Judah could not drive them out; [c]but the Jebusites dwell with the children of Judah at Jerusalem to this day.

Ephraim and West Manasseh

16 The lot [1]fell to the children of Joseph from the Jordan, by Jericho, to the waters of Jericho on the east, to the [a]wilderness that goes up from Jericho through the mountains to [2]Bethel, 2 then went out [3]from [b]Bethel to Luz, passed along to the border of the Archites at Ataroth, 3 and went down westward to the boundary of the Japhletites, [c]as far as the boundary of Lower Beth Horon to [d]Gezer; and [4]it ended at the sea.

4 [e]So the children of Joseph, Manasseh and Ephraim, took their [5]inheritance.

The Land of Ephraim

5 [f]The border of the children of Ephraim, according to their families, was thus: The border of their inheritance on the east side was [g]Ataroth Addar [h]as far as Upper Beth Horon.

6 And the border went out toward the sea on the north side of [i]Michmethath; then the border went around eastward to Taanath Shiloh, and passed by it on the east of Janohah. 7 Then it went down from Janohah to Ataroth and [6]Naarah, reached to Jericho, and came out at the Jordan.

8 The border went out from [j]Tappuah westward to the [k]Brook Kanah, and [7]it ended at the sea. This was the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Ephraim according to their families. 9 [l]The separate cities for the children of Ephraim were among the inheritance of the children of Manasseh, all the cities with their villages.

10 [m]And they did not drive out the Canaanites who dwelt in Gezer; but the Canaanites dwell among the Ephraimites to this day and have become forced laborers.

The Other Half-Tribe of Manasseh (West)

17 There was also a lot for the tribe of Manasseh, for he was the [a]firstborn of Joseph: namely for [b]Machir the firstborn of Manasseh, the father of Gilead, because he was a man of war; therefore he was given [c]Gilead and Bashan. 2 And there was a lot for [d]the rest of the children of Manasseh according to their families: [e]for the children of [1]Abiezer, the children of Helek, [f]the children of Asriel, the children of Shechem, [g]the children of Hepher, and the children of Shemida; these were the male children of Manasseh the son of Joseph according to their families.

3 But [h]Zelophehad the son of Hepher, the son of Gilead, the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh, had no sons, but only daughters. And these are the names of his daughters: Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah. 4 And they came near before [i]Eleazar the priest, before Joshua the son of Nun, and before the rulers, saying, [j]"The LORD commanded Moses to give us an [2]inheritance among our brothers." Therefore, according to the commandment of the LORD, he gave them an inheritance among their father's brothers. 5 Ten shares fell to [k]Manasseh, besides the land of Gilead and Bashan, which were on the other side of the Jordan, 6 because the daughters of Manasseh received an inheritance among his sons; and the rest of Manasseh's sons had the land of Gilead.

7 And the territory of Manasseh was from Asher to [l]Michmethath, that lies east of Shechem; and the border went along south to the inhabitants of En Tappuah. 8 Manasseh had the land of Tappuah, but [m]Tappuah on the border of Manasseh belonged to the children of Ephraim. 9 And the [3]border descended to the [4]Brook Kanah, southward to the brook. [n]These cities of Ephraim

■ 15:63 Judah could not drive them out. This brief note on Judah's failure is a reminder that the fulfillment of God's promises was not complete. There still remained a "not yet" (21:45 and note). The victory over the Jebusites in Judg. 1:8 apparently was not permanent (cf. Judg. 1:21).

to this day. See note on 4:9.

■ 16:1—17:18 These two chapters describe the allotment of land to Joseph's two sons, Ephraim and Manasseh (Gen. 41:50–52; Josh. 13:14 note). Half the tribe of Manasseh had already received their land east of the Jordan (17:1).

inheritance. See note on 1:6.

■ 16:5–10 Ephraim was Joseph's younger son (Gen. 41:52), but his territory is described before Manasseh's, probably because of the precedence given him in Gen. 48:12–20.

■ 16:10 they did not drive out. See note on 15:63.

are among the cities of Manasseh. The border of Manasseh was on the north side of the brook; and it ended at the sea.

10 Southward it was Ephraim's, northward it was Manasseh's, and the sea was its border. Manasseh's territory was adjoining Asher on the north and Issachar on the east. 11 And in Issachar and in Asher, [o]Manasseh had [p]Beth Shean and its towns, Ibleam and its towns, the inhabitants of Dor and its towns, the inhabitants of En Dor and its towns, the inhabitants of Taanach and its towns, and the inhabitants of Megiddo and its towns—three hilly regions. 12 Yet [q]the children of Manasseh could not drive out the inhabitants of those cities, but the Canaanites were determined to dwell in that land. 13 And it happened, when the children of Israel grew strong, that they put the Canaanites to [r]forced labor, but did not utterly drive them out.

More Land for Ephraim and Manasseh

14 [s]Then the children of Joseph spoke to Joshua, saying, "Why have you given us only [t]one [5]lot and one share to inherit, since we are [u]a great people, inasmuch as the LORD has blessed us until now?"

15 So Joshua answered them, "If you are a great people, then go up to the forest country and clear a place for yourself there in the land of the Perizzites and the giants, since the mountains of Ephraim are too confined for you."

16 But the children of Joseph said, "The mountain country is not enough for us; and all the Canaanites who dwell in the land of the valley have [v]chariots of iron, both those who are of Beth Shean and its towns and those who are [w]of the Valley of Jezreel."

17 And Joshua spoke to the house of Joseph—to Ephraim and Manasseh—saying, "You are a great people and have great power; you shall not have only one [6]lot, 18 but the mountain country shall be yours. Although it is wooded, you shall cut it down, and its [7]farthest extent shall be yours; for you shall drive out the Canaanites, [x]though they have iron chariots and are strong."

The Remainder of the Land Divided

18 Now the whole congregation of the children of Israel assembled together [a]at Shiloh, and [b]set up the tabernacle of meeting there. And the land was subdued before them. 2 But there remained among the children of Israel seven tribes which had not yet received their inheritance.

3 Then Joshua said to the children of Israel: [c]"How long will you neglect to go and possess the land which the LORD God of your fathers has given you? 4 Pick out from among you three men for each tribe, and I will send them; they shall rise and go through the land, survey it according to their inheritance, and come back to me. 5 And they shall divide it into seven parts. [d]Judah shall remain in their territory on the south, and the [e]house of Joseph shall remain in their territory on the north. 6 You shall therefore [f]survey the land in seven parts and bring the survey here to me, [f]that I may cast lots for you here before the LORD our God. 7 [g]But the Levites have no part

■ 17:12, 13 could not drive out. See notes on 15:63; 21:45.

■ 17:14–18 The complaining request of the people of Joseph (v. 14) and their fear of the Canaanites (v. 16) are in contrast to Caleb's faith and courage (14:6–12).

■ 17:14 one lot and one share. The territory of Manasseh on both sides of the Jordan and of Ephraim is treated as a unit (16:1).

■ 17:15 go up . . . and clear a place for yourself. Faith in the promise of God should be expressed in courageous, obedient action. See notes on 1:6, 7; 14:12.

■ 17:16 not enough . . . the Canaanites. Their fear and unwillingness to obey are expressions of unbelief.

■ 17:18 you shall drive out. Joshua answers the fears of the people of Joseph with an application of the promise of God (1:2–5).

Shiloh. Located in Ephraim, the city of Shiloh has so far not been prominent in biblical history, but here it becomes what was called in Deut. 12 "the place the LORD your God chooses" (Deut. 12:5, 11, 18; cf. Jer. 7:12). In the days of David this role will be transferred to Jerusalem. For the role of Shiloh in Israel's history see 22:12; Judg. 18:31; 21:19; 1 Sam. 1:3, 24; 2:14; 3:21; 4:3; 14:3; 1 Kin. 2:27; 11:29; 14:2; Ps. 78:60; Jer. 7:12, 14; 26:6, 9.

tabernacle of meeting. This name is used for the tabernacle in the Book of Joshua only here and at 19:51 ("tabernacle" in 22:19, 29; "house" in 6:24; 9:23). The "meeting" is that of God with His people (1:5 note). The tabernacle contained the ark of the covenant, the wood and gold box containing the Ten Commandments (3:3; 4:16 and notes; Ex. 25:10–22). It was the place where the Old Testament sacrificial system for spiritual cleansing and communication with God was inaugurated, to continue in principle until the time of the New Testament.

■ 18:3 will you neglect. Or "be slack" (the same Hebrew verb occurs in Prov. 18:9; 24:10).

possess. This means to occupy the land completely, something more than the initial conquest (1:11, 15; 13:1; 21:43). It is an act of obedient faith because it is based on the promise of God (1:11 note), hence the note of rebuke in Joshua's question.

■ 18:6 before the LORD. God's presence is represented by the tabernacle because He spoke to them "from between the two cherubim" (3:11; 7:23 notes; Ex. 25:22).

among you, for the priesthood of the LORD is their inheritance. [h]And Gad, Reuben, and half the tribe of Manasseh have received their inheritance beyond the Jordan on the east, which Moses the servant of the LORD gave them."

[8] Then the men arose to go away; and Joshua charged those who went to [2]survey the land, saying, "Go, walk [i]through the land, survey it, and come back to me, that I may cast lots for you here before the LORD in Shiloh." [9] So the men went, passed through the land, and [3]wrote the survey in a book in seven parts by cities; and they came to Joshua at the camp in Shiloh. [10] Then Joshua cast [j]lots for them in Shiloh before the LORD, and there [k]Joshua divided the land to the children of Israel according to their [4]divisions.

The Land of Benjamin

[11] [l]Now the lot of the tribe of the children of Benjamin came up according to their families, and the territory of their lot came out between the children of Judah and the children of Joseph. [12] [m]Their border on the north side began at the Jordan, and the border went up to the side of Jericho on the north, and went up through the mountains westward; it ended at the Wilderness of Beth Aven. [13] The border went over from there toward Luz, to the side of Luz [n](which is Bethel) southward; and the border descended to Ataroth Addar, near the hill that lies on the south side [o]of Lower Beth Horon.

[14] Then the border extended around the west side to the south, from the hill that lies before Beth Horon southward; and [5]it ended at [p]Kirjath Baal (which is Kirjath Jearim), a city of the children of Judah. This was the west side.

[15] The south side began at the end of Kirjath Jearim, and the border extended on the west and went out to [q]the spring of the waters of Nephtoah. [16] Then the border came down to the end of the mountain that lies before [r]the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, which is in the Valley of [6]Rephaim on the north, descended to the Valley of Hinnom, to the side of the Jebusite city on the south, and descended to [s]En Rogel. [17] And it went around from the north, went out to En Shemesh, and extended toward Geliloth, which is before the Ascent of Adummim, and descended to [t]the stone of Bohan the son of Reuben. [18] Then it passed along toward the north side of [7]Arabah, and went down to Arabah. [19] And the border passed along to the north side of Beth Hoglah; then [8]the border ended at the north bay at the [u]Salt Sea, at the south end of the Jordan. This was the southern boundary.

[20] The Jordan was its border on the east side. This was the inheritance of the children of Benjamin, according to its boundaries all around, according to their families.

[21] Now the cities of the tribe of the children of Benjamin, according to their families, were Jericho, Beth Hoglah, Emek Keziz, [22] Beth Arabah, Zemaraim, Bethel, [23] Avim, Parah, Ophrah, [24] Chephar Haammoni, Ophni, and Gaba: twelve cities with their villages; [25] [v]Gibeon, [w]Ramah, Beeroth, [26] Mizpah, Chephirah, Mozah, [27] Rekem, Irpeel, Taralah, [28] Zelah, Eleph, [x]Jebus (which is Jerusalem), Gibeath, and Kirjath: fourteen cities with their villages. This was the inheritance of the children of Benjamin according to their families.

Simeon's Inheritance with Judah

19 The [a]second lot came out for Simeon, for the tribe of the children of Simeon according to their families. [b]And their inheritance was within the inheritance of the children of Judah. [2] [c]They had in their inheritance Beersheba (Sheba), Moladah, [3] Hazar Shual, Balah, Ezem, [4] Eltolad, Bethul, Hormah, [5] Ziklag, Beth Marcaboth, Hazar Susah, [6] Beth Lebaoth, and Sharuhen: thirteen cities and their villages; [7] Ain, Rimmon, Ether, and Ashan: four cities and their villages; [8] and all the villages that were all around these cities as far as Baalath Beer, [d]Ramah of the South. This was the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Simeon according to their families.

[9] The inheritance of the children of Simeon was included in the share of the children of Judah, for the share of the children of Judah was [1]too much for them. [e]Therefore the children of Simeon had their inheritance within the inheritance of [2]that people.

The Land of Zebulun

[10] The third lot came out for the children of Zebulun according to their families, and the border of their inheritance was as far as Sarid. [11] [f]Their border went toward the west and to Maralah, went to Dabbasheth, and extended along the brook that is [g]east of Jokneam. [12] Then from

■ 19:1 within . . . Judah. Simeon's allotment was inside the territory of Judah (Gen. 49:7). Judah and Simeon acted together in Judg. 1:3, 17. At some stage the tribe of Simeon seems to have lost its distinct identity.

■ 19:8, 9 inheritance. See note on 1:6.

Sarid it went eastward toward the sunrise along the border of Chisloth Tabor, and went out toward [h]Daberath, bypassing Japhia. 13 And from there it passed along on the east of [i]Gath Hepher, toward Eth Kazin, and extended to Rimmon, which borders on Neah. 14 Then the border went around it on the north side of Hannathon, and [3]it ended in the Valley of Jiphthah El. 15 Included were Kattath, Nahallal, Shimron, Idalah, and Bethlehem: twelve cities with their villages. 16 This was the inheritance of the children of Zebulun according to their families, these cities with their villages.

The Land of Issachar

17 The fourth lot came out to Issachar, for the children of Issachar according to their families. 18 And their territory went to Jezreel, and included Chesulloth, Shunem, 19 Haphraim, Shion, Anaharath, 20 Rabbith, Kishion, Abez, 21 Remeth, En Gannim, En Haddah, and Beth Pazzez. 22 And the border reached to Tabor, Shahazimah, and [j]Beth Shemesh; their border ended at the Jordan: sixteen cities with their villages. 23 This was the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Issachar according to their families, the cities and their villages.

The Land of Asher

24 [k]The fifth lot came out for the tribe of the children of Asher according to their families. 25 And their territory included Helkath, Hali, Beten, Achshaph, 26 Alammelech, Amad, and Mishal; it reached to [l]Mount Carmel westward, along the Brook Shihor Libnath. 27 It turned toward the sunrise to Beth Dagon; and it reached to Zebulun and to the Valley of Jiphthah El, then northward beyond Beth Emek and Neiel, bypassing [m]Cabul which was on the left, 28 including [4]Ebron, Rehob, Hammon, and Kanah, [n]as far as Greater Sidon. 29 And the border turned to Ramah and to the fortified city of Tyre; then the border turned to Hosah, and ended at the sea by the region of [o]Achzib. 30 Also Ummah, Aphek, and Rehob were included: twenty-two cities with their villages. 31 This was the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Asher according to their families, these cities with their villages.

The Land of Naphtali

32 [p]The sixth lot came out to the children of Naphtali, for the children of Naphtali according to their families. 33 And their border began at Heleph, enclosing the territory from the terebinth tree in Zaanannim, Adami Nekeb, and Jabneel, as far as Lakkum; [5]it ended at the Jordan. 34 [q]From Heleph the border extended westward to Aznoth Tabor, and went out from there toward Hukkok; it adjoined Zebulun on the south side and Asher on the west side, and ended at Judah by the Jordan toward the sunrise. 35 And the fortified cities are Ziddim, Zer, Hammath, Rakkath, Chinnereth, 36 Adamah, Ramah, Hazor, 37 [r]Kedesh, Edrei, En Hazor, 38 Iron, Migdal El, Horem, Beth Anath, and Beth Shemesh: nineteen cities with their villages. 39 This was the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Naphtali according to their families, the cities and their villages.

The Land of Dan

40 [s]The seventh lot came out for the tribe of the children of Dan according to their families. 41 And the territory of their inheritance was Zorah, [t]Eshtaol, Ir Shemesh; 42 [u]Shaalabbin, [v]Aijalon, Jethlah, 43 Elon, Timnah, [w]Ekron, 44 Eltekeh, Gibbethon, Baalath, 45 Jehud, Bene Berak, Gath Rimmon, 46 Me Jarkon, and Rakkon, with the region [6]near [7]Joppa. 47 And the [x]border of the children of Dan went beyond these, because the children of Dan went up to fight against Leshem and took it; and they struck it with the edge of the sword, took possession of it, and dwelt in it. They called Leshem, [y]Dan, after the name of Dan their father. 48 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Dan according to their families, these cities with their villages.

Joshua's Inheritance

49 When they had [8]made an end of dividing the land as an inheritance according to their borders, the children of Israel gave an inheritance among them to Joshua the son of Nun.

■ 20:1–9 The record of the division of the land is followed by a provision for basic justice in it, illustrating God's concern for justice and the preservation of life. The provision implies the idea of just retribution, while restraining the injustice that could flow from vengeance (Deut. 4:41–43).
■ 20:2 cities of refuge. These were places where certain offenders could escape unjust vengeance and seek a fair trial. Similar cities will Cities of Refuge. In biblical times tribal bonds were very strong. In the event a person from one tribe killed a member of another tribe, even if by accident, blood vengeance was to be taken by killing a member of the offender's tribe.

The cities of refuge were established at several strategic locations to provide a place of sanctuary for those who had killed someone unintentionally, regardless of tribal affiliation. There they could remain in safety until they had either been judged innocent by the congregation or until the death of the current high priest. At that time, they could return freely to their original home region without fear of reprisal.

who kills a person accidentally or unintentionally may flee there; and they shall be your refuge from the avenger of blood. 4 And when he flees to one of those cities, and stands at the entrance of the gate of the city, and [2]declares his case in the hearing of the elders of that city, they shall take him into the city as one of them, and give him a place, that he may dwell among them. 5 [b]Then if the avenger of blood pursues him, they shall not deliver the slayer into his hand, because he struck his neighbor unintentionally, but did not hate him beforehand. 6 And he shall dwell in that city [c]until he stands before the congregation for judgment, and until the death of the one who is high priest in those days. Then the slayer may return and come to his own city and his own house, to the city from which he fled.' "

7 So they appointed [d]Kedesh in Galilee, in the mountains of Naphtali, [e]Shechem in the mountains of Ephraim, and [f]Kirjath Arba (which is Hebron) in [g]the mountains of Judah. 8 And on the other side of the Jordan, by Jericho eastward, they assigned [h]Bezer in the wilderness on the plain, from the tribe of Reuben, [i]Ramoth in Gilead, from the tribe of Gad, and [j]Golan in Bashan, from the tribe of Manasseh. 9 [k]These were the cities appointed for all the children of Israel and for the stranger who [3]dwelt among them, that whoever killed a person accidentally might flee there, and not die by the hand of the avenger of blood [l]until he stood before the congregation.

Cities of the Levites

21 Then the heads of the fathers' houses of the [a]Levites came near to [b]Eleazar the priest, to Joshua the son of Nun, and to the heads of the fathers' houses of the tribes of the children of Israel. 2 And they spoke to them at [c]Shiloh in the land of Canaan, saying, [d]"The LORD commanded through Moses to give us cities to dwell in, with their common-lands for our livestock." 3 So the children of Israel gave to the Levites from their inheritance, at the commandment of the LORD, these cities and their common-lands:

4 Now the lot came out for the families of the Kohathites. And [e]the children of Aaron the priest, who were of the Levites, [f]had thirteen cities by lot from the tribe of Judah, from the tribe of Simeon, and from the tribe of Benjamin. 5 [g]The rest of the children of Kohath had ten cities by lot from the families of the tribe of Ephraim, from the tribe of Dan, and from the half-tribe of Manasseh.

6 And [h]the children of Gershon had thirteen cities by lot from the families of the tribe of Issachar, from the tribe of Asher, from the tribe of Naphtali, and from the half-tribe of Manasseh in Bashan.

7 [i]The children of Merari according to their families had twelve cities from the tribe of Reuben, from the tribe of Gad, and from the tribe of Zebulun.

8 [j]And the children of Israel gave these cities with their common-lands by lot to the Levites, [k]as the LORD had commanded by the hand of Moses.

9 So they gave from the tribe of the children of Judah and from the tribe of the children of Simeon these cities which are [l]designated by name, 10 which were for the children of Aaron, one

■ 20:9 the stranger. Concern for the foreigner in Israel was a regular feature of the law (e.g., Ex. 12:48–49; 20:10; 22:21; 23:9, 12).

■ 21:1–42 The last part of the division of the land is the assignment of towns to the Levites, whose lack of an inheritance in the land has been mentioned in 13:14 (note), 33; 14:3–4; 18:7. These towns continued to belong to the tribes to which they had been assigned, but were provided, along with adjoining common-lands (v. 8), for the Levites to live in.

■ 21:2 The LORD commanded through Moses. Refers to Num. 35:1–8. The request of the Levites, like that of Caleb in 14:6–12, was an expression of faith in the promise of God.

of the families of the Kohathites, who were of the children of Levi; for the lot was theirs first. 11 [l]And they gave them [2]Kirjath Arba (Arba was the father of [m]Anak), [n]which is Hebron, in the mountains of Judah, with the common-land surrounding it. 12 But [o]the fields of the city and its villages they gave to Caleb the son of Jephunneh as his possession.

13 Thus [p]to the children of Aaron the priest they gave [q]Hebron with its common-land (a city of refuge for the slayer), [r]Libnah with its common-land, 14 [s]Jattir with its common-land, [t]Eshtemoa with its common-land, 15 [u]Holon with its common-land, [v]Debir with its common-land, 16 [w]Ain with its common-land, [x]Juttah with its common-land, and [y]Beth Shemesh with its common-land: nine cities from those two tribes; 17 and from the tribe of Benjamin, [z]Gibeon with its common-land, [a]Geba with its common-land, 18 Anathoth with its common-land, and [b]Almon with its common-land: four cities. 19 All the cities of the children of Aaron, the priests, were thirteen cities with their common-lands.

20 [c]And the families of the children of Kohath, the Levites, the rest of the children of Kohath, even they had the cities of their [3]lot from the tribe of Ephraim. 21 For they gave them [d]Shechem with its common-land in the mountains of Ephraim (a city of refuge for the slayer), [e]Gezer with its common-land, 22 Kibzaim with its common-land, and Beth Horon with its common-land: four cities; 23 and from the tribe of Dan, Eltekeh with its common-land, Gibbethon with its common-land, 24 [f]Aijalon with its common-land, and Gath Rimmon with its common-land: four cities; 25 and from the half-tribe of Manasseh, Tanach with its common-land and Gath Rimmon with its common-land: two cities. 26 All the ten cities with their common-lands were for the rest of the families of the children of Kohath.

27 [g]Also to the children of Gershon, of the families of the Levites, from the other half-tribe of Manasseh, they gave [h]Golan in Bashan with its common-land (a city of refuge for the slayer), and Be Eshterah with its common-land: two cities; 28 and from the tribe of Issachar, Kishion with its common-land, Daberath with its common-land, 29 Jarmuth with its common-land, and En Gannim with its common-land: four cities; 30 and from the tribe of Asher, Mishal with its common-land, Abdon with its common-land, 31 Helkath with its common-land, and Rehob with its common-land: four cities; 32 and from the tribe of Naphtali, [i]Kedesh in Galilee with its common-land (a city of refuge for the slayer), Hammoth Dor with its common-land, and Kartan with its common-land: three cities. 33 All the cities of the Gershonites according to their families were thirteen cities with their common-lands.

34 [j]And to the families of the children of Merari, the rest of the Levites, from the tribe of Zebulun, Jokneam with its common-land, Kartah with its common-land, 35 Dimnah with its common-land, and Nahalal with its common-land: four cities; 36 [4]and from the tribe of Reuben, [k]Bezer with its common-land, Jahaz with its common-land, 37 Kedemoth with its common-land, and Mephaath with its common-land: four cities; 38 and from the tribe of Gad, [l]Ramoth in Gilead with its common-land (a city of refuge for the slayer), Mahanaim with its common-land, 39 Heshbon with its common-land, and Jazer with its common-land: four cities in all. 40 So all the cities for the children of Merari according to their families, the rest of the families of the Levites, were by their lot twelve cities.

41 [m]All the cities of the Levites within the possession of the children of Israel were forty-eight cities with their common-lands. 42 Every one of these cities had its common-land surrounding it; thus were all these cities.

The Promise Fulfilled

43 So the LORD gave to Israel [n]all the land of which He had sworn to give to their fathers, and they [o]took possession of it and dwelt in it. 44 [p]The LORD gave them [q]rest all around, according to all that He had sworn to their fathers. And [r]not a man of all their enemies stood against them; the LORD delivered all their enemies into their hand. 45 [s]Not a word failed of any good thing which the LORD had spoken to the house of Israel. All came to pass.

Eastern Tribes Return to Their Lands

22 Then Joshua called the Reubenites, the Gadites, and half the tribe of Manasseh, 2 and said to them: "You have kept [a]all that Moses the servant of the LORD commanded you, [b]and have obeyed my voice in all that I commanded you. 3 You have not [1]left your brethren these many days, up to this day, but have kept the charge of the commandment of the LORD your God. 4 And now the LORD your God has given [c]rest to your brethren, as He promised them; now therefore, return and go to your tents and to the land of your possession, [d]which Moses the servant of the LORD gave you on the other side of the Jordan. 5 But [e]take[2] careful heed to do the commandment and the law which Moses the servant of the Lord commanded you, [f]to love the Lord your God, to walk in all His ways, to keep His commandments, to hold fast to Him, and to serve Him with all your heart and with all your soul." 6 So Joshua [g]blessed them and sent them away, and they went to their tents.

7 Now to half the tribe of Manasseh Moses had given a possession in Bashan, [h]but to the other half of it Joshua gave a possession among their brethren on this side of the Jordan, westward. And indeed, when Joshua sent them away to their tents, he blessed them, 8 and spoke to them, saying, "Return with much riches to your tents, with very much livestock, with silver, with gold, with bronze, with iron, and with very much clothing. [i]Divide the [3]spoil of your enemies with your brethren."

9 So the children of Reuben, the children of Gad, and half the tribe of Manasseh returned, and departed from the children of Israel at Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan, to go to [j]the country of Gilead, to the land of their possession, which they had obtained according to the word of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

An Altar by the Jordan

10 And when they came to the region of the Jordan which is in the land of Canaan, the children of Reuben, the children of Gad, and half the tribe of Manasseh built an altar there by the Jordan—a great, impressive altar. 11 Now the children of Israel [k]heard someone say, "Behold, the children of Reuben, the children of Gad, and half the tribe of Manasseh have built an altar on the [4]frontier of the land of Canaan, in the region of the Jordan—on the children of Israel's side." 12 And when the children of Israel heard of it, [l]the whole congregation of the children of Israel gathered together at Shiloh to go to war against them.

13 Then the children of Israel [m]sent [n]Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest to the children of Reuben, to the children of Gad, and to half the tribe of Manasseh, into the land of Gilead, 14 and with him ten rulers, one ruler each from the chief house of every tribe of Israel; and [o]each one was the head of the house of his father among the [5]divisions of Israel. 15 Then they came to the children of Reuben, to the children of Gad, and to half the tribe of Manasseh, to the land of Gilead, and they spoke with them, saying, 16 "Thus says the whole congregation of the LORD: 'What the house of Israel. Israel is considered as a unity (1:12–15; 13:8–33 notes).

■ 22:1—24:33 The book closes with three chapters about Israel's faithfulness, following God's faithfulness that has been the main subject so far (21:43–45 and note). The human response demanded by God's remarkable grace is the recurring theme of the final chapters. Each chapter begins with Joshua summoning the people (22:1; 23:1–2; 24:1), and focuses on the faithfulness God now requires of them.

to go to war. The reaction of the Israelites can be understood in light of the command to have no rival altars to the one at the central sanctuary (Lev. 17:8–9). The law demanded disciplinary action against apostasy (Deut. 13:12–18).

■ 22:13 Phinehas. His action at Peor (v. 17; Num. 25:7–8) adds solemnity to his being chosen for this mission.

■ 22:16 the whole congregation. The unity of Israel is emphasized throughout Joshua. Geographical boundaries and differences of experience are transcended by the one God, under whose promises all Israel is one people (13:8–33 note). The corollary is that apostasy and rebellion against God will destroy this unity.

[p]treachery[6] is this that you have committed against the God of Israel, to turn away this day from following the LORD, in that you have built for yourselves an altar, [q]that you might rebel this day against the LORD? 17 Is the iniquity [r]of Peor not enough for us, from which we are not cleansed till this day, although there was a plague in the congregation of the LORD, 18 but that you must turn away this day from following the LORD? And it shall be, if you rebel today against the LORD, that tomorrow [s]He will be angry with the whole congregation of Israel. 19 [7]Nevertheless, if the land of your possession is unclean, then cross over to the land of the possession of the LORD, [t]where the LORD's tabernacle stands, and take possession among us; but do not rebel against the LORD, nor rebel against us, by building yourselves an altar besides the altar of the LORD our God. 20 [u]Did not Achan the son of Zerah [8]commit a trespass in the [9]accursed thing, and wrath fell on all the congregation of Israel? And that man did not perish alone in his iniquity.' "

21 Then the children of Reuben, the children of Gad, and half the tribe of Manasseh answered and said to the heads of the [1]divisions of Israel: 22 "The LORD [v]God of gods, the LORD God of gods, He [w]knows, and let Israel itself know—if it is in rebellion, or if in treachery against the LORD, do not save us this day. 23 If we have built ourselves an altar to turn from following the LORD, or if to offer on it burnt offerings or grain offerings, or if to offer peace offerings on it, let the LORD Himself [x]require an account. 24 But in fact we have done it [2]for fear, for a reason, saying, 'In time to come your descendants may speak to our descendants, saying, "What have you to do with the LORD God of Israel? 25 For the LORD has made the Jordan a border between you and us, you children of Reuben and children of Gad. You have no part in the LORD." So your descendants would make our descendants cease fearing the LORD.' 26 Therefore we said, 'Let us now prepare to build ourselves an altar, not for burnt offering nor for sacrifice, 27 but that it may be [y]a [3]witness between you and us and our generations after us, that we may [z]perform the service of the LORD before Him with our burnt offerings, with our sacrifices, and with our peace offerings; that your descendants may not say to our descendants in time to come, "You have no part in the LORD." ' 28 Therefore we said that it will be, when they say this to us or to our generations in time to come, that we may say, 'Here is the replica of the altar of the LORD which our fathers made, though not for burnt offerings nor for sacrifices; but it is a witness between you and us.' 29 Far be it from us that we should rebel against the LORD, and turn from following the LORD this day, [a]to build an altar for burnt offerings, for grain offerings, or for sacrifices, besides the altar of the LORD our God which is before His tabernacle."

30 Now when Phinehas the priest and the rulers of the congregation, the heads of the [4]divisions of Israel who were with him, heard the words that the children of Reuben, the children of Gad, and the children of Manasseh spoke, it pleased them. 31 Then Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest said to the children of Reuben, the children of Gad, and the children of Manasseh, "This day we perceive that the LORD is [b]among us, because you have not committed this treachery against the LORD. Now you have delivered the children of Israel out of the hand of the LORD."

32 And Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest, and the rulers, returned from the children of Reuben and the children of Gad, from the land of Gilead to the land of Canaan, to the children of Israel, and brought back word to them. 33 So the thing pleased the children of Israel, and the children of Israel [c]blessed God; they spoke no more of going against them in battle, to destroy the land where the children of Reuben and Gad dwelt.

no part in the LORD. To deny that their land was God's land (v. 19) was to deny that they shared in God's promise.

■ 22:27 witness. The altar was to function as a testimony (cf. the stones at Gilgal, 4:20–24), not a place of sacrifice.

■ 22:30 pleased. Contrast Phinehas' reaction to actual apostasy in Num. 25:7–8.

you have delivered. This is an unusual way of making an important point: by not turning from God they had saved Israel from God's wrath.

[34] The children of Reuben and the children of [5]Gad called the altar, Witness, "For it is a witness between us that the LORD is God."

Joshua's Farewell Address

23 Now it came to pass, a long time after the LORD [a]had given rest to Israel from all their enemies round about, that Joshua [b]was old, advanced in age. [2] And Joshua [c]called for all Israel, for their elders, for their heads, for their judges, and for their officers, and said to them:

"I am old, advanced in age. [3] You have seen all that the [d]LORD your God has done to all these nations because of you, for the [e]LORD your God is He who has fought for you. [4] See, [f]I have divided to you by lot these nations that remain, to be an inheritance for your tribes, from the Jordan, with all the nations that I have cut off, as far as the Great Sea westward. [5] And the LORD your God [g]will expel them from before you and drive them out of your sight. So you shall possess their land, [h]as the LORD your God promised you. [6] [i]Therefore be very courageous to keep and to do all that is written in the Book of the Law of Moses, [j]lest you turn aside from it to the right hand or to the left, [7] and lest you [k]go[l] among these nations, these who remain among you. You shall not [l]make mention of the name of their gods, nor cause anyone to [m]swear by them; you shall not [n]serve them nor bow down to them, [8] but you shall [o]hold fast to the LORD your God, as you have done to this day. [9] [p]For the LORD has [2]driven out from before you great and strong nations; but as for you, no one has been able to stand against you to this day. [10] [q]One man of you shall chase a thousand, for the LORD your God is He who fights for you, [r]as He promised you. [11] [s]Therefore take careful heed to yourselves, that you love the LORD your God. [12] Or else, if indeed you do [t]go back, and cling to the remnant of these nations—these that remain among you—and [u]make marriages with them, and go in to them and they to you, [13] know for certain that [v]the LORD your God will no longer drive out these nations from before you. [w]But they shall be snares and traps to you, and scourges on your sides and thorns in your eyes, until you perish from this good land which the LORD your God has given you.

[14] "Behold, this day [x]I[3] am going the way of all the earth. And you know in all your hearts and in all your souls that [y]not one thing has failed of all the good things which the LORD your

■ 22:34 Witness. The altar witnessed (v. 27) to the one reality that united all Israel and, by implication, to the offense that could destroy Israel (v. 16).

■ 23:1–16 Joshua in his old age addresses all Israel, probably at Shiloh (18:1; 19:51; 21:2). Chs. 23 and 24 take up the exhortations of ch. 1 and apply them to Israel following the substantial fulfillment of God's promises. The beginning and end of the book (chs. 1 and 23—24) convey the purpose of the whole, namely, an exhortation to faithful obedience based on the complete faithfulness of God to His promises. Joshua's speech in ch. 23 expresses this three times over (vv. 3–8, 9–13, 14–16), with variations in emphasis.

■ 23:1 rest. See note on 1:13. The experience of "rest . . . from all their enemies," here incompletely realized, will become part of Israel's hope (Deut. 12:10; 2 Sam. 7:11; 1 Chr. 22:9; cf. Mic. 5:9; Luke 1:71).

as you have done. The previous generation who rebelled in the wilderness and the generations to follow did not do as well (cf. 24:31).

■ 23:9 no one has been able to stand against you. The promise to Joshua in 1:5 has been fulfilled for the Israelites (Deut. 7:24; 11:25).

■ 23:11 that you love the LORD your God. In the Bible love can be commanded. This does not mean that such love lacks emotional depth. It is actually more than emotion. It is expressed in glad and willing obedience (22:5 note).

■ 23:12 go back. See 22:16 and note.

make marriages with them. See notes on Gen. 26:34, 35; 34:1–31; 38:1–30.

■ 23:13 God will no longer drive out. The validity of God's promise (v. 5) is not dependent on human cooperation. The history of Israel shows this, as does the rest of the Bible, culminating in the work of Christ. But the promise will not benefit those who reject the grace of God. This provision was part of the promise from the beginning (Gen. 12:3).

■ 23:14–16 See note on vv. 3–8. In this final section of Joshua's speech the exhortation is again based on a reminder of God's faithfulness, but consists entirely of warnings of the consequences of turning away from the Lord.

■ 23:14 know in all your hearts and in all your souls. Knowledge of God's faithfulness can never be merely intellectual, but pervades and shapes every aspect of a person's life.

God spoke concerning you. All have come to pass for you; not one word of them has failed.
15 [z]Therefore it shall come to pass, that as all the good things have come upon you which the LORD your God promised you, so the LORD will bring upon you [a]all harmful things, until He has destroyed you from this good land which the LORD your God has given you. 16 [d]When you have transgressed the covenant of the LORD your God, which He commanded you, and have gone and served other gods, and bowed down to them, then the [b]anger of the LORD will burn against you, and you shall perish quickly from the good land which He has given you."

The Covenant at Shechem

24 Then Joshua gathered all the tribes of Israel to [a]Shechem and [b]called for the elders of Israel, for their heads, for their judges, and for their officers; and they [c]presented themselves before God. 2 And Joshua said to all the people, "Thus says the LORD God of Israel: [d]'Your fathers, including Terah, the father of Abraham and the father of Nahor, dwelt on the other side of [1]the River in old times; and [e]they served other gods. 3 [f]Then I took your father Abraham from the other side of [2]the River, led him throughout all the land of Canaan, and multiplied his [3]descendants and [g]gave him Isaac. 4 To Isaac I gave [h]Jacob and Esau. To [i]Esau I gave the mountains of Seir to possess, [j]but Jacob and his children went down to Egypt. 5 [k]Also I sent Moses and Aaron, and [l]I plagued Egypt, according to what I did among them. Afterward I brought you out.

6 'Then I [m]brought your fathers out of Egypt, and you came to the sea; and the Egyptians pursued your fathers with chariots and horsemen to the Red Sea. 7 So they cried out to the LORD; and He put [n]darkness between you and the Egyptians, brought the sea upon them, and covered them. And [o]your eyes saw what I did in Egypt. Then you dwelt in the wilderness [p]a long time. 8 And I brought you into the land of the Amorites, who dwelt on the other side of the Jordan, [q]and they fought with you. But I gave them into your hand, that you might possess their land, and I destroyed them from before you. 9 Then [r]Balak the son of Zippor, king of Moab, arose to make war against Israel, and [s]sent and called Balaam the son of Beor to curse you. 10 [t]But I would not listen to Balaam; [u]therefore he continued to bless you. So I delivered you out of his

■ 23:15 good things . . . harmful things. There are two sides to God's faithfulness, because there are two sides to His covenant: promises and warnings. God can be trusted to enforce the warnings as fully as He can be trusted to keep His promises.

■ 23:16 transgressed the covenant. See note on 7:11.

anger. See note on 7:1.

■ 24:1–28 At the end of his life, Joshua led Israel in a reaffirmation of the covenant, much as Moses did before he died (Deut. 32:46). As with Deuteronomy, there may be an analogy between this covenant renewal and the kind of treaties that were typically used to formalize relations between powerful sovereign nations and weaker client states (see Deuteronomy: Introduction). These treaties, called "suzerainty treaties," commonly included elements like those found in Josh. 24, such as a historical prologue reviewing the care given by the powerful party to the client (vv. 2–13); a prohibition of any outside alliance (vv. 14, 23); and provision for a written document (vv. 25, 26). There are also significant differences between such ancient treaties and Josh. 24.

■ 24:1 Joshua gathered all the tribes. See 8:33–35; 23:2 and note.

before God. This does not necessarily imply the movement of the tabernacle from Shiloh (19:51) to Shechem for the occasion. The presence of God was not restricted to the tabernacle (cf. 1 Kin. 8:27), just as His presence was not guaranteed by physical possession of the ark (1 Sam. 4:3–11).

■ 24:2 Thus says the LORD. Joshua speaks with the authority of Moses (Deut. 5:27) and of a prophet (Deut. 18:15–19).

other gods. The pagan beginning underlines the grace of God to which this history testifies, and provides the background for the exhortation in v. 14.

■ 24:3–13 The word of God to the people on this occasion is not a new word. The books of Genesis (vv. 2–4), Exodus (vv. 5–7), Numbers (vv. 8–10), and Joshua (vv. 11–13) are reviewed by way of rehearsing God's dealings with the people since the time of Abraham, focusing on the gift of the land promised to Abraham and now received by his descendants. The review begins with a digest of Genesis from the promise to Abraham through the descent to Egypt (Gen. 11—50).

■ 24:3 Then I. God is the dominant subject of the verbs in vv. 3–13.

multiplied his descendants. The promise of many descendants to Abraham is a preeminent concern in Genesis (Gen. 12:2; 15:5; 17:2 and notes), and is related to God's blessing on humanity in Gen. 1:26–18 (cf. Ex. 1:7 note).

■ 24:4 Jacob and Esau. The principle of divine election was clear in the choice of Jacob over Esau (Gen. 25:23; Rom. 9:11 and note). So also is the reality that God's promises are often in apparent conflict with the immediate course of history. Jacob had to go to Egypt.

■ 24:5–7 Joshua's summary of Exodus is remarkable for its failure to mention the giving of the Law at Mount Sinai. The account concentrates on the actions leading directly to occupation of the Promised Land.

■ 24:6 Red Sea. See note on Ex. 13:18.

■ 24:7 your eyes saw. The people of Joshua's day are spoken of as having participated in the redemptive events of the past. This emphasizes that they must see the goodness of God towards them not only in their personal experience, but also in the larger history of their people. See note on 4:23, 24.

in the wilderness a long time. A few words summarize everything from the crossing of the sea to the arrival at the land. See note on vv. 5–7.

■ 24:8–10 Joshua's summary of Numbers does not mention the rebellions that took place in the desert (Num. 14; 25), probably because the emphasis of his review is on the deeds of God.

■ 24:8 Amorites. See note on 2:10.

■ 24:9 Balaam. See Num. 22—24; note on Josh. 13:22.

hand. 11 Then [v]you went over the Jordan and came to Jericho. And [w]the men of Jericho fought against you—also the Amorites, the Perizzites, the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Girgashites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites. But I delivered them into your hand. 12 [x]I sent the hornet before you which drove them out from before you, also the two kings of the Amorites, but [y]not with your sword or with your bow. 13 I have given you a land for which you did not labor, and [z]cities which you did not build, and you dwell in them; you eat of the vineyards and olive groves which you did not plant.'

14 [a]"Now therefore, fear the LORD, serve Him in [b]sincerity and in truth, and [c]put away the gods which your fathers served on the other side of [4]the River and [d]in Egypt. Serve the LORD! 15 And if it seems evil to you to serve the LORD, [e]choose for yourselves this day whom you will serve, whether [f]the gods which your fathers served that were on the other side of [5]the River, or [g]the gods of the Amorites, in whose land you dwell. [h]But as for me and my house, we will serve the LORD."

16 So the people answered and said: "Far be it from us that we should forsake the LORD to serve other gods; 17 for the LORD our God is He who brought us and our fathers up out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage, who did those great signs in our sight, and preserved us in all the way that we went and among all the people through whom we passed. 18 And the LORD drove out from before us all the people, including the Amorites who dwelt in the land. [i]We also will serve the LORD, for He is our God."

19 But Joshua said to the people, [j]"You cannot serve the LORD, for He is a [k]holy God. He is [l]a jealous God; [m]He will not forgive your transgressions nor your sins. 20 [n]If you forsake the LORD and serve foreign gods, [o]then He will turn and do you harm and consume you, after He has done you good."

21 And the people said to Joshua, "No, but we will serve the LORD!"

22 So Joshua said to the people, "You are witnesses against yourselves that [p]you have chosen the LORD for yourselves, to serve Him."

And they said, "We are witnesses!"

23 "Now therefore," he said, [q]"put away the foreign gods which are among you, and [r]incline your heart to the LORD God of Israel."

24 And the people [s]said to Joshua, "The LORD our God we will serve, and His voice we will obey!"

25 So Joshua [t]made[6] a covenant with the people that day, and made for them a statute and an ordinance [u]in Shechem.

not with your sword. The Israelites received the land as a gift that must not be understood as based on their own achievement (1:2 note; cf. Eph. 2:8).

■ 24:14 fear the LORD. See 4:24. This response is demanded by the history of God's faithfulness to His promises in vv. 2–13. The fear of God is associated with knowledge of His grace and is fully compatible with love for Him (Deut. 10:12, 13; Ps. 130:4). Contrast 2:9, where the Canaanites fear God because of His coming judgment; and 7:5, where the Israelites experience His anger.

■ 24:15 choose . . . this day whom you will serve. There is some irony in offering a kind of choice after the Lord is rejected. The choice is between the gods Abraham left behind (vv. 2, 3) and the gods of the dispossessed Amorites (vv. 12; 2:10 note).

■ 24:16–18 In response to the call of v. 14, the people repudiate other gods (v. 16), acknowledge the Lord's goodness from the Exodus to the conquest, and conclude by promising obedience to the Lord.

■ 24:19 You cannot serve the LORD. This paradoxical statement will all too soon be proved true (v. 31 note; 7:1–26 note; 23:12, 13 note; Judg. 2:7, 10–13; 2 Kin. 17:7–23; Deut. 31:16). It is based on the holiness of God, who cannot be approached casually (Ps. 15:1, 2; Eccl. 5:1, 2). Also, Joshua warns the people because he knows their rebelliousness himself (22:17 and note).

will not forgive. The transgressions in view here amount to the apostasy described in the following verse.

■ 24:20 He will turn. God's dealing will change from grace to judgment (Gen. 6:7). In another sense God never changes (1 Sam. 15:29), since His promise has always included the threat of judgment (23:15; Gen. 6:6 and notes).

■ 24:21 we will serve the LORD. The people reject the possibility envisaged or predicted in v. 20.

■ 24:22 witnesses against yourselves. When they are accused of forsaking the Lord the case against them will be supported by their decision on this occasion.

And he took [w]a large stone, and [x]set it up there [y]under the oak that was by the sanctuary of the LORD. 27 And Joshua said to all the people, "Behold, this stone shall be [z]a witness to us, for [a]it has heard all the words of the LORD which He spoke to us. ■ 24:29–33 The deaths of Joshua and Eleazar mark the end of the period that has been the subject of this book. Their burials, along with the burial of the bones of Joseph, in the land that is now Israel's possession symbolizes God's faithful fulfillment of His promises to the patriarchs.

■ 24:31 Israel served the LORD all the days of Joshua. The faithfulness of the generation of Joshua and the elders is testimony to the Lord's power in everything He had done for Israel. That such faithfulness would be so short-lived supports Joshua's assertion in vv. 19–20 (notes; Judg. 2:7, 10–13).

The Book of JUDGES

Author The original author of Judges is unknown, though we may infer certain things about him from his work. He evidently supported David's kingship over that of Saul's son Ishbosheth, who was from the tribe of Benjamin. The author's loyalty to David and the tribe of Judah would indicate that he lived and wrote during the early period of David's reign at Hebron. The writer of Judges addresses the Israelites of his day from the same theological point of view as the Book of Deuteronomy. The final form of the Book of Judges is doubtless the work of a person or group that shared this perspective. See also "Characteristics and Themes," below, and "Introduction to the Historical Books."

Date and Occasion The subject matter of Judges suggests that the book was composed during a period when there was strong controversy about whether the king should be from the house of David and the tribe of Judah, or from the house of Saul and the tribe of Benjamin. There were rival kings from these tribes when David ruled in Hebron, and Ishbosheth, Saul's son, ruled in the north. Judges ends with events that severely compromise the reputation of the tribe of Benjamin.

The events narrated in Judges span about 350 years, from the conquest of Canaan (c. 1400 B.C.) until just before Samuel, who anointed the first king of Israel (c. 1050 B.C.). The first of the judges in the book, Othniel, appears during the generation following Joshua. Samson, the last judge in the book, was a contemporary of Samuel. During this period Israel was oppressed from within by the Canaanites and from without by the Arameans, Moabites, Midianites, Ammonites, Amalekites, Amorites, and Philistines.

Like the other historical books of the Old Testament, Judges might be treated as a sermon addressed to the covenant community at a time of crisis. The readers had not themselves experienced the events described in the book. Rather, the readers were of a later generation facing their own crisis in keeping the covenant. The stories of successes and failures either encouraged or sobered the later generation. Judges records a period of gross ignorance and sin. The people are depicted as unstable and easily led into idolatry. Extreme crimes are described in the book.

Gideon asks the question that is central to Judges: "if the LORD is with us, why then has all this happened to us?" (6:13). There was warning in Deuteronomy that the result of turning away from God and serving idols would be the sort of suffering that took place during the period of the judges. God would seem to be absent and the land would be filled with sorrows (Deut. 31:16,17). Israel needed a king who could teach them how to keep their covenant with the Lord.

Characteristics and Themes Judges can be divided into three distinct sections (Introduction: Outline). Each section has its own internal style and consistency, containing lively narration of God's people and leaders in action. Occasionally humorous, sometimes tragic, but never dull, the individual stories within the sections are complete in themselves.

Each episode and section employs verbal repetition, historical comparison, and quotations from the Book of Joshua to emphasize the connections between people, places, and events. The reader is invited to search for the pattern and moral framework of the history.

The central section of Judges (3:7—16:31), the bulk of the book, makes an extensive use of repetition. The author describes a repeating sequence of events. The Israelites do evil in the eyes of the Lord, turning to serve other gods. God becomes angry and delivers them up to oppressors. They cry out for help, and God raises up a judge to deliver them. The judge brings peace, but the nation returns to sin as soon as the judge dies. The repeated phrasing describing this pattern reinforces the point that the Israelites were unrepentant. While each judge and the details of the deliverance he brought varies, the end was inevitable: the people again did evil in the eyes of the Lord.

Six major judges are described, interspersed with the mention of six lesser judges. The opening and closing sections of the book are like bookends, enclosing the cyclical narratives about the judges. The introduction (1:1—2:5) points out Israel's general failure to conquer the land according to the provisions of the covenant God had made with them. The cycles of the twelve judges show that the judges could not lead the people into faithfulness to the covenant. There was a downward spiral of increasing disobedience. The conclusion (chs. 17—21) recounts two especially grievous examples of covenant disobedience. The writer repeats the brief, tragic observation, "There was no king in Israel; everyone did what was right in his own eyes."

The writer of Judges, like the authors of the other historical books, calls the community of faith to obey the covenant, applying to their lives the teaching of Deuteronomy. He points to the successes and failures of previous generations, and challenges the people of David's time to be faithful to the covenant. He warns them prophetically about the dangers of the wrong kind of leadership.

According to Judges, Israel was falling away from the covenant and worshiping false gods as they forgot the Lord's acts of salvation in the past (2:10; 6:13). As in Deuteronomy, the sin of seeking other gods is the continuing pattern of covenant disobedience (Judg. 2:11, 12; 3:7, 12; 8:33; 10:6, 10; Deut. 4:23). The repeated cycles with the constant refrains, "the children of Israel did evil in the sight of the LORD" (2:11; 3:7, 12; 4:1; 6:1; 10:6; 13:1) and "everyone did what was right in his own eyes" (17:6; 21:25; cf. Deut. 12:8; 31:16, 17), were a sharp warning to Israel in David's early kingship that they absolutely needed a king who could enable the nation to keep the terms of their covenant with God.

Beyond these immediate applications for the original audience of Judges, we should observe that later readers doubtless saw in the book the hope for a new David who would teach them to keep their covenant with the Lord. This would be especially true of those who read the book in the days of the divided monarchy or during and after the exile to Babylon. In New Testament days, the gospel of Jesus, the son of David (Matt. 1:1), answers the longing of the readers of Judges for the presence of a godly king, and heightens the church's expectation of His return in glory.

Title The title "Judges" refers to the twelve men God raised up prior to the time of Samuel to deliver Israel from their oppressors (2:11–19). The normal translation of the Hebrew noun and verb as "judge" and "to judge" can be misleading to modern readers, since the judges of Israel were military and political leaders rather than officials presiding over courts of law. Deborah is the only judge who is mentioned as having a judicial function in the usual sense (4:4, 5). The last judge, Samuel, was a priest and prophet. At one point God is called "the Judge" (11:27). □

The Continuing Conquest of Canaan

NOW after the [a]death of Joshua it came to pass that the children of Israel [b]asked the LORD, saying, "Who shall be first to go up for us against the [c]Canaanites to fight against them?"

2 And the LORD said, [d]"Judah shall go up. Indeed I have delivered the land into his hand."

3 So Judah said to [e]Simeon his brother, "Come up with me to my allotted territory, that we may fight against the Canaanites; and [f]I will likewise go with you to your allotted territory." And Simeon went with him. 4 Then Judah went up, and the LORD delivered the Canaanites and the Perizzites into their hand; and they killed ten thousand men at [g]Bezek. 5 And they found Adoni-Bezek in Bezek, and fought against him; and they defeated the Canaanites and the Perizzites. 6 Then Adoni-Bezek fled, and they pursued him and caught him and cut off his thumbs and big toes. 7 And Adoni-Bezek said, "Seventy kings with their thumbs and big toes cut off used to gather scraps under my table; [h]as I have done, so God has repaid me." Then they brought him to Jerusalem, and there he died.

8 Now [i]the children of Judah fought against Jerusalem and took it; they struck it with the edge of the sword and set the city on fire. 9 [j]And afterward the children of Judah went down to fight against the Canaanites who dwelt in the mountains, in the [1]South, and in the lowland. 10 Then Judah [2]went against the Canaanites who dwelt in [k]Hebron. (Now the name of Hebron was formerly [l]Kirjath Arba.) And they killed Sheshai, Ahiman, and Talmai.

11 [m]From there they went against the inhabitants of Debir. (The name of Debir was formerly Kirjath Sepher.)

12 [n]Then Caleb said, "Whoever attacks Kirjath Sepher and takes it, to him I will give my daughter Achsah as wife." 13 And Othniel the son of Kenaz, [o]Caleb's younger brother, took it; so he gave him his daughter Achsah as wife. 14 [p]Now it happened, when she came to him, that [3]she urged him to ask her father for a field. And she dismounted from her donkey, and Caleb said to her, "What do you wish?" 15 So she said to him, [q]"Give me a blessing; since you have given me land in the South, give me also springs of water."

And Caleb gave her the upper springs and the lower springs.

16 [r]Now the children of the Kenite, Moses' father-in-law, went up [s]from the City of Palms with the children of Judah into the Wilderness of Judah, which lies in the South near [t]Arad; [u]and they went and dwelt among the people. 17 [v]And Judah went with his brother Simeon, and they attacked the Canaanites who inhabited Zephath, and utterly destroyed it. So the name of the city was called [w]Hormah. 18 Also Judah took [x]Gaza with its territory, Ashkelon with its territory, and Ekron with its territory. 19 So the LORD was with Judah. And they drove out the mountaineers, but they could not drive out the inhabitants of the lowland, because they had [y]chariots of iron. 20 [z]And they gave Hebron to Caleb, as Moses had said. Then he [4]expelled from there the [a]three sons of Anak. 21 [b]But the children of Benjamin did not drive out the Jebusites who inhabited Jerusalem; so the Jebusites dwell with the children of Benjamin in Jerusalem to this day.

■ 1:1—2:5 This introduction to Judges, in which covenant keeping finds expression in dispossessing and destroying the Canaanites, raises the question of leadership for fighting them (v. 1). The covenant-keeping successes and failures of the various tribes, and God's judgment on Israel for the covenant failure of letting the Canaanites live in the land, are recounted (cf. Deut. 7:1–2; 20:16–20). The space and detail given to Judah's successes (vv. 3–20) contrast strongly with the brief accounts of the failures of the other tribes (vv. 21–36), although the house of Joseph is treated positively (vv. 22–26).

■ 1:1 after. The Book of Joshua opens similarly: "After the death of Moses" (Josh. 1:1).

Who. The Israelites ask an almost identical question at the end of the book—"Which of us shall go up first to battle against the children of Benjamin?" (20:18). The choice of God is Judah. David and his heirs would come from this tribe.

Canaanites. The Canaanites were one of several groups inhabiting the land of Canaan. The Israelites were commanded to annihilate them (Deut. 7:1–2; 20:16–20), and whether they could obey these terms of the covenant will be the issue for this entire introductory section.

■ 1:8 sword. Judah obeyed the covenant by destroying the inhabitants without mercy (Deut. 7:1–2; 20:16–20). Judah did not occupy Jerusalem at this point (v. 21).

■ 1:10–15 These verses describing the victories of Caleb and Othniel are quoted from Josh. 15:13–19.

■ 1:12 Caleb. Caleb, though of Kenizzite ancestry (Gen. 15:19; Num. 32:12), was counted as belonging to the tribe of Judah. He represented Judah when the spies were sent into Canaan (Num. 13:6).

■ 1:13 Othniel . . . Caleb's younger brother. See Josh. 15:17–19. Judg. 1:12–15 provides the only real picture of this first judge.

■ 1:19 the LORD was with Judah. God kept His covenant promise (v. 2). With the exception of the house of Joseph, the writer deals briefly with the rest of the tribes, describing as failures their efforts at settlement (1:27–36 note).

chariots of iron. Such chariots, with their wooden wheels overlaid with iron, were powerful weapons, especially on the level plains. In effect, Judah is excused for failing to dislodge the Canaanites.

■ 1:20 Caleb. Caleb, from the tribe of Judah, is an example of faithfulness to the covenant. In Deut. 1:36–37, Caleb is rewarded for his covenant obedience, an obedience flowing from faith in God's promise.

■ 1:21 Children of Benjamin. The writer specifies that Benjamin, Saul's tribe, did not make a final conquest of Jerusalem. According to Joshua 15:63, the tribe of Judah also failed to drive the Jebusites out of Jerusalem. The city was on the border between the two tribes. The complete conquest of Jerusalem was left for David to accomplish (2 Sam. 5:7).

22 And the [5]house of Joseph also went up against Bethel, [c]and the LORD was with them. 23 So the [6]house of Joseph [d]sent men to spy out Bethel. (The name of the city was formerly [e]Luz.) 24 And when the spies saw a man coming out of the city, they said to him, "Please show us the entrance to the city, and [f]we will show you mercy." 25 So he showed them the entrance to the city, and they struck the city with the edge of the sword; but they let the man and all his family go. 26 And the man went to the land of the Hittites, built a city, and called its name Luz, which is its name to this day.

Incomplete Conquest of the Land

27 [g]However, Manasseh did not drive out the inhabitants of Beth Shean and its villages, or [h]Taanach and its villages, or the inhabitants of [i]Dor and its villages, or the inhabitants of Ibleam and its villages, or the inhabitants of Megiddo and its villages; for the Canaanites were determined to dwell in that land. 28 And it came to pass, when Israel was strong, that they put the Canaanites [7]under tribute, but did not completely drive them out.

29 [j]Nor did Ephraim drive out the Canaanites who dwelt in Gezer; so the Canaanites dwelt in Gezer among them.

30 Nor did [k]Zebulun drive out the inhabitants of Kitron or the inhabitants of Nahalol; so the Canaanites dwelt among them, and [8]were put under tribute.

31 [l]Nor did Asher drive out the inhabitants of Acco or the inhabitants of Sidon, or of Ahlab, Achzib, Helbah, Aphik, or Rehob. 32 So the Asherites [m]dwelt among the Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land; for they did not drive them out.

33 [n]Nor did Naphtali drive out the inhabitants of Beth Shemesh or the inhabitants of Beth Anath; but they dwelt among the Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land. Nevertheless the inhabitants of Beth Shemesh and Beth Anath were put under tribute to them.

34 And the Amorites forced the children of Dan into the mountains, for they would not allow them to come down to the valley; 35 and the Amorites were determined to dwell in Mount Heres, [o]in Aijalon, and in [9]Shaalbim; yet when the strength of the house of Joseph became greater, they [t]were put under tribute.

36 Now the boundary of the Amorites was [p]from the Ascent of Akrabbim, from Sela, and upward.

Israel's Disobedience

2 Then the Angel of the LORD came up from Gilgal to Bochim, and said: [a]"I led you up from Egypt and [b]brought you to the land of which I swore to your fathers; and [c]I said, 'I will never break My covenant with you. 2 And [d]you shall make no [1]covenant with the inhabitants of this land; [e]you shall tear down their altars.' [f]But you have not obeyed My voice. Why have you done this? 3 Therefore I also said, 'I will not drive them out before you; but they shall be [g]thorns[2] in your side, and [h]their gods shall [3]be a [i]snare to you.' " 4 So it was, when the Angel of the LORD spoke these words to all the children of Israel, that the people lifted up their voices and wept.

■ 1:22 the LORD was with them. Besides Judah (v. 19), only with regard to the house of Joseph is it said that "the LORD was with them."

■ 1:27–36 Judah, Benjamin, and Joseph have already been mentioned. The shortcomings of the remaining tribes are briefly presented in outline fashion.

■ 1:34 children of Dan. See chs. 17—18.

■ 2:1–5 This passage reviews the preceding chapter, and like 2:20—3:6, provides the background for the narrative that follows. The covenant was made between God and "your fathers"; these are the parties to the covenant. The covenant terms forbid treaties or mixed worship with the Canaanites. Failure to observe these requirements brought the judgment of the covenant on Israel (Deut. chs. 28—31).

■ 2:1 The Angel of the LORD. A theophany, that is, a visible revelation of God. See 6:11–24; 13:2–23. The words of God's preeminent messenger (6:11–24; Ex. 3:1–17) are the words of the Lord Himself. The Angel of the Lord led Israel out of captivity in Egypt and fought for them (Ex. 14:19; 23:20–23; 33:2; Num. 20:16; Is. 63:9).

Gilgal. The ark of the covenant was at Gilgal (Josh. 5:1–12).

I led you up from Egypt. The Ten Commandments begin with the same statement (Ex. 20:2; Deut. 5:6), a reminder that the history of what God has done is linked to His commands. The Sovereign God who publishes the covenant identifies Himself as the Benefactor of His people.

and brought you to the land of which I swore. God kept His oath (Josh. 23:3–16). The chief difference here between God and His people is that God keeps His vow while the people break theirs.

I will never break My covenant. See Deut. 7:9.

■ 2:2 you shall tear down their altars. Idolatry is taken as the leading, typical act of covenant breaking (v. 11; Ex. 34:13; Num. 33:52; Deut. 7:5; 12:3; Josh. 23:16).

you have not obeyed. Israel contracted marriages with the people of the land (3:5–6) and did not tear down their altars (6:25–32). The Canaanites could not be driven out because of Israel's sin.

■ 2:3 thorns . . . a snare. Intermarriage and all other relationships with the Canaanites had been forbidden because such contact would lead to idolatry (Ex. 34:12; Num. 33:55; Deut. 7:16; Josh. 23:12–13). For disobeying the terms of the covenant, Israel would suffer what Canaan suffered, removal from the land (Num. 33:56; Josh. 23:13; 2 Kin. 17:5–8; 25:1–11).

they called the name of that place [4]Bochim; and they sacrificed there to the LORD.
5 And when [i]Joshua had dismissed the people, the children of Israel went each to his own inheritance to possess the land.

Death of Joshua

7 [k]So the people served the LORD all the days of Joshua, and all the days of the elders who outlived Joshua, who had seen all the great works of the LORD which He had done for Israel.
8 Now [l]Joshua the son of Nun, the servant of the LORD, died when he was one hundred and ten years old. 9 [m]And they buried him within the border of his inheritance at [n]Timnath Heres, in the mountains of Ephraim, on the north side of Mount Gaash. 10 When all that generation had [5]been gathered to their fathers, another generation arose after them who [o]did not know the LORD nor the work which He had done for Israel.

Israel's Unfaithfulness

11 Then the children of Israel did [p]evil in the sight of the LORD, and served the Baals; 12 and they [q]forsook the LORD God of their fathers, who had brought them out of the land of Egypt; and they followed [r]other gods from among the gods of the people who were all around them, and they [s]bowed down to them; and they provoked the LORD to anger. 13 They forsook the LORD [t]and served [6]Baal and the [7]Ashtoreths. 14 [u]And the anger of the LORD was hot against Israel. So He [v]delivered them into the hands of plunderers who despoiled them; and [w]He sold them into the hands of their enemies all around, so that they [x]could no longer stand before their enemies.
15 Wherever they went out, the hand of the LORD was against them for calamity, as the LORD had said, and as the LORD had [y]sworn to them. And they were greatly distressed.
16 Nevertheless, [z]the LORD raised up judges who delivered them out of the hand of those who plundered them. 17 Yet they would not listen to their judges, but they [a]played the harlot with other gods, and bowed down to them. They turned quickly from the way in which their fathers walked, in obeying the commandments of the LORD; they did not do so. 18 And when the LORD raised up judges for them, [b]the LORD was with the judge and delivered them out of the hand of their enemies all the days of the judge; [c]for the LORD was moved to pity by their groaning because of those who oppressed them and harassed them. 19 And it came to pass, [d]when the judge was dead, that they reverted and behaved more corruptly than their fathers, by following other gods, to serve them and bow down to them. They did not cease from their own doings nor from their stubborn way.
20 Then the anger of the LORD was hot against Israel; and He said, "Because this nation has [e]transgressed My covenant which I commanded their fathers, and has not heeded My voice, 21 I

■ 2:6–10 This section, except for v. 10, is closely similar to Josh. 24:28–31 and introduces the pattern for the cycles of the judges that follows.

■ 2:6 when Joshua. See 1:1; Introduction: Date and Occasion.

■ 2:7 the people served the LORD. See Josh. 24:16–18, 21–22, 31. Covenant obedience led to blessing in the land for that generation.

had seen all the great works. See v. 10; Deut. 4:9; 6:22; 7:19; 11:2–7; Josh. 23:3.

■ 2:10 who did not know the LORD nor the work which He had done for Israel. One generation was to declare God's wonders to the next (Deut. 4:9; 6:1–6). Later psalmists extol them (Ps. 44:1–3; 78:2–8). If God's people knew what He had done they would obey the commands of His covenant. But the leaders—heads of families, priests, and judges—failed to keep the covenant or to tell the next generation about God's mighty deeds.

■ 2:11–19 These verses give the pattern for chs. 3—16. They show the sovereignty of God in history as He executes the judgment of the covenant. It was He who sold the people and fought against them, and it was He also who raised up the judges to deliver them. Idolatry was the sin on account of which God punished Israel. Vv. 11–19 are elaborated in 1 Sam. 12:9–11 and Ps. 106:34–46.

■ 2:11 did evil. This refrain occurs at 2:11; 3:7, 12; 4:1; 6:1; 10:6; 13:1.

served the Baals. Israel's evil is summed up in their worship of false gods (v. 2 note). They chose Baal, the Canaanite storm god, and rejected the Lord, who had brought them through the Red Sea and was the true Lord of the storm. "Baals" is plural because Baal was worshiped differently in each Canaanite locality.

■ 2:13 Ashtoreths. These were the goddesses of fertility in the Canaanite pantheon.

■ 2:14 He delivered them. See Deut. 28:48; 1 Sam. 12:9. Israel's enemies and oppressors had no power over God's people unless God allowed it. Israel's conquest is now reversed, as people from outside Canaan (Arameans, Moabites, Midianites, Amalekites, and Philistines) oppress Israel, the new inhabitants of the land (3:8–12; 4:2; 6:1; 10:7; 13:1).

■ 2:15 the hand of the LORD was against them. The hand of the Lord was associated with the saving power of God (Ex. 3:20; 6:1; 13:3; Deut. 4:34). Now the same hand was turned against them in punishment. The Lord was faithful both to bless and to judge. When God rescues His people, He rescues them from their enemies as an act of grace. It is His own judgment that allows their enemies to prevail, and in rescuing them He must turn this judgment aside.

■ 2:16 judges. The role of the judges was primarily to rescue the nation from its enemies (3:9, 15; 1 Sam. 12:11).

■ 2:17 played the harlot. Since the covenant agreement can be compared to marriage, harlotry is a standard metaphor for faithlessness and disobedience (8:33; Deut. 31:16; the Book of Hosea).

■ 2:18 was moved to pity. The people's groaning moved their God (Ex. 2:24; 6:5).

■ 2:19 They did not cease. Neither their judges (v. 17) nor the memory of how they had been delivered was enough to make the people keep the covenant (v. 10).

also will no longer drive out before them any of the nations which Joshua [f]left when he died, 22 so [g]that through them I may [h]test Israel, whether they will keep the ways of the LORD, to walk in them as their fathers kept them, or not." 23 Therefore the LORD left those nations, without driving them out immediately; nor did He deliver them into the hand of Joshua.

The Nations Remaining in the Land

3 Now these are [a]the nations which the LORD left, that He might test Israel by them, that is, all who had not [1]known any of the wars in Canaan 2 (this was only so that the generations of the children of Israel might be taught to know war, at least those who had not formerly known it), 3 namely, [b]five lords of the Philistines, all the Canaanites, the Sidonians, and the Hivites who dwelt in Mount Lebanon, from Mount Baal Hermon to the entrance of Hamath. 4 And they were left, that He might test Israel by them, to [2]know whether they would obey the commandments of the LORD, which He had commanded their fathers by the hand of Moses.

5 [c]Thus the children of Israel dwelt among the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Amorites, the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites. 6 And [d]they took their daughters to be their wives, and gave their daughters to their sons; and they served their gods.

Othniel

7 So the children of Israel did [e]evil in the sight of the LORD. They [f]forgot the LORD their God, and served the Baals and [3]Asherahs. 8 Therefore the anger of the LORD was hot against Israel, and He [g]sold them into the hand of [h]Cushan-Rishathaim king of Mesopotamia; and the children of Israel served Cushan-Rishathaim eight years. 9 When the children of Israel [i]cried out to the LORD, the LORD [j]raised up a deliverer for the children of Israel, who delivered them: [k]Othniel the son of Kenaz, Caleb's younger brother. 10 [l]The Spirit of the LORD came upon him, and he judged Israel. He went out to war, and the LORD delivered Cushan-Rishathaim king of Mesopotamia into his hand; and his hand prevailed over Cushan-Rishathaim. 11 So the land had rest for forty years. Then Othniel the son of Kenaz died.

Ehud

12 [m]And the children of Israel again did evil in the sight of the LORD. So the LORD strengthened [n]Eglon king of Moab against Israel, because they had done evil in the sight of the LORD. 13 Then he gathered to himself the people of Ammon and [o]Amalek, went and [4]defeated Israel, and took possession of [p]the City of Palms. 14 So the children of Israel [q]served Eglon king of Moab eighteen years.

15 But when the children of Israel [r]cried out to the LORD, the LORD raised up a deliverer for them: Ehud the son of Gera, the Benjamite, a [s]left-handed man. By him the children of Israel sent tribute to Eglon king of Moab. 16 Now Ehud made himself a dagger (it was double-edged and a cubit in length) and fastened it under his clothes on his right thigh. 17 So he brought the tribute to Eglon king of Moab. (Now Eglon was a very fat man.) 18 And when he had finished

■ 2:23 left those nations. See Deut. 7:22–23; Josh. 13:1–7. This explains why there were still Canaanites during a period when Israel had been faithful (vv. 6–9). Vv. 20–22 and 3:1–4 provide a new reason for God's leaving the Canaanites, to test the hearts of the people.

■ 3:1 not known. See 2:10. Even God's judgment was not without grace. The testing was an opportunity for a generation who had not seen the Lord work on their behalf to exercise faith and see His might with their own eyes (v. 2).

■ 3:3 Philistines, all the Canaanites, the Sidonians, and the Hivites. The Canaanites and the Hivites were to be utterly destroyed (1:1). David defeated or destroyed them.

■ 3:5 among the Canaanites . . . Jebusites. All these were nations devoted to destruction (1:1). Israel violated the covenant by living among them and not destroying them.

■ 3:6 they took their daughters. This had the effect of leading the Israelites into idolatry. The result of making covenants with the Canaanites rather than destroying that population is repeatedly explained in the following narrative cycles (2:2). It becomes clear that the people cared more about covenants with their pagan neighbors than their covenant with God.

■ 3:7 the Baals and Asherahs. See 2:11, 13 and notes.

■ 3:9 Othniel. See 1:13 note. The prominence of Judah in Israel is highlighted, since the first judge was from Judah and was the only judge without an explicit failure in his own covenant keeping. The success of Judah promotes David, who was from that tribe.

■ 3:10 Spirit of the LORD. The Spirit is also mentioned in connection with Gideon, Jephthah, and Samson. By the gift of the Spirit the judge was empowered to deliver the people (6:34; 11:29; 13:25; 14:6, 19; 15:14).

he judged Israel. This means he fought for Israel and delivered them. See Introduction: Title.

■ 3:11 the land had rest for forty years. Though the pattern in 2:11–19 does not mention the time length of peace, the stories themselves end with a comment about peace or the lack of it (v. 30; 5:31; 8:28; 12:7; 15:20; 16:31).

■ 3:12–30 The story of Ehud humiliates the oppressor of God's people.

■ 3:12 See 2:11 note.

Eglon king of Moab. The Lord strengthened the pagan king to be used as His instrument of judgment.

presenting the tribute, he sent away the people who had carried the tribute. 19 But he himself turned back [t]from the [5]stone images that were at Gilgal, and said, "I have a secret message for you, O king."

He said, "Keep silence!" And all who attended him went out from him.

20 So Ehud came to him (now he was sitting upstairs in his cool private chamber). Then Ehud said, "I have a message from God for you." So he arose from his seat. 21 Then Ehud reached with his left hand, took the dagger from his right thigh, and thrust it into his belly. 22 Even the [6]hilt went in after the blade, and the fat closed over the blade, for he did not draw the dagger out of his belly; and his entrails came out. 23 Then Ehud went out through the porch and shut the doors of the upper room behind him and locked them.

24 When he had gone out, [7]Eglon's servants came to look, and to their surprise, the doors of the upper room were locked. So they said, "He is probably [u]attending[8] to his needs in the cool chamber." 25 So they waited till they were [v]embarrassed, and still he had not opened the doors of the upper room. Therefore they took the key and opened them. And there was their master, fallen dead on the floor.

26 But Ehud had escaped while they delayed, and passed beyond the [9]stone images and escaped to Seirah. 27 And it happened, when he arrived, that [w]he blew the trumpet in the [x]mountains of Ephraim, and the children of Israel went down with him from the mountains; and [7]he led them. 28 Then he said to them, "Follow me, for [y]the LORD has delivered your enemies the Moabites into your hand." So they went down after him, seized the [z]fords of the Jordan leading to Moab, and did not allow anyone to cross over. 29 And at that time they killed about ten thousand men of Moab, all stout men of valor; not a man escaped. 30 So Moab was subdued that day under the hand of Israel. And [a]the land had rest for eighty years.

Shamgar

31 After him was [b]Shamgar the son of Anath, who killed six hundred men of the Philistines [c]with an ox goad; [d]and he also delivered [e]Israel.

Deborah

4 When Ehud was dead, [a]the children of Israel again did [b]evil in the sight of the LORD. 2 So the LORD [c]sold them into the hand of Jabin king of Canaan, who reigned in [d]Hazor. The commander of his army was [e]Sisera, who dwelt in [f]Harosheth Hagoyim. 3 And the children of Israel cried out to the LORD; for Jabin had nine hundred [g]chariots of iron, and for twenty years [h]he had harshly oppressed the children of Israel.

4 Now Deborah, a prophetess, the wife of Lapidoth, was judging Israel at that time. 5 [i]And she would sit under the palm tree of Deborah between Ramah and Bethel in the mountains of Ephraim. And the children of Israel came up to her for judgment. 6 Then she sent and called for [j]Barak the son of Abinoam from [k]Kedesh in Naphtali, and said to him, "Has not the LORD God of Israel commanded, 'Go and [l]deploy troops at Mount [l]Tabor; take with you ten thousand men of the sons of Naphtali and of the sons of Zebulun; 7 and against you [m]I will deploy Sisera, the commander of Jabin's army, with his chariots and his multitude at the [n]River Kishon; and I will [2]deliver him into your hand'?"

8 And Barak said to her, "If you will go with me, then I will go; but if you will not go with me, I will not go!"

■ 3:20 I have a message from God for you. The secret message of v. 19 here becomes a divine message. It was not a false word, but the true word of God working against the same rod raised up by God to punish His people (v. 12 note). Eglon was useful as a tool of God's wrath against Israel, but now that wrath comes back upon him.

■ 3:28 the LORD has delivered. Each major judge except for Othniel verbally acknowledges God's control in Israel's victory (4:14; 7:15; 11:21–30; 15:18; 16:28).

■ 3:30 rest for eighty years. See v. 11 note.

■ 3:31 Shamgar the son of Anath. Shamgar is mentioned only here and in the song of Deborah (5:6). Since Anath was a Canaanite goddess of war, perhaps "son of Anath" was a war hero's nickname.

six hundred . . . with an ox goad. Samson slew one thousand Philistines with the jawbone of a donkey (15:15–17).

■ 4:2 Jabin. This Jabin is a descendant of the Jabin mentioned in Josh. 11:1–9.

■ 4:4 Deborah, a prophetess, the wife of Lapidoth. Lit. "a woman, a prophetess, the wife of Lapidoth." The emphasis is that a woman is the leader in Israel. Deborah, a prophetess, is introduced at the point where the narrator usually mentions the deliverer (6:8 note).

■ 4:5 sit . . . for judgment. That is, she was a magistrate, handing down legal decisions.

■ 4:6 Mount Tabor. This was a rounded hillock standing isolated on the north side of the plain in the Jezreel Valley.

■ 4:7 River Kishon. The River Kishon was near the base of Mount Tabor and was virtually dry for much of the year (v. 15 note).

■ 4:8 If you will go. Barak was asking Deborah to risk her life to verify the truth of her words, and he was also asking a woman to do what he had been assigned to do. From his point of view the mission was suicidal, since the exposed Mount Tabor could easily be surrounded by the chariots of Sisera, cutting off any escape. Barak's faith was not equal to this danger.

9 So she said, "I will surely go with you; nevertheless there will be no glory for you in the journey you are taking, for the LORD will [o]sell Sisera into the hand of a woman." Then Deborah arose and went with Barak to Kedesh. 10 And Barak called [p]Zebulun and Naphtali to Kedesh; he went up with ten thousand men [q]under[3] his command, and Deborah went up with him.

11 Now Heber [r]the Kenite, of the children of [s]Hobab the father-in-law of Moses, had separated himself from the Kenites and pitched his tent near the terebinth tree at Zaanaim, [t]which is beside Kedesh.

12 And they reported to Sisera that Barak the son of Abinoam had gone up to Mount Tabor. 13 So Sisera gathered together all his chariots, nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the people who were with him, from Harosheth Hagoyim to the River Kishon.

14 Then Deborah said to Barak, [4]"Up! For this is the day in which the LORD has delivered Sisera into your hand. [u]Has not the LORD gone out before you?" So Barak went down from Mount Tabor with ten thousand men following him. 15 And the LORD routed Sisera and all his chariots and all his army with the edge of the sword before Barak; and Sisera alighted from his chariot and fled away on foot. 16 But Barak pursued the chariots and the army as far as Harosheth Hagoyim, and all the army of Sisera fell by the edge of the sword; not a man was [v]left.

17 However, Sisera had fled away on foot to the tent of [w]Jael, the wife of Heber the Kenite; for there was peace between Jabin king of Hazor and the house of Heber the Kenite. 18 And Jael went out to meet Sisera, and said to him, "Turn aside, my lord, turn aside to me; do not fear." And when he had turned aside with her into the tent, she covered him with a [5]blanket.

19 Then he said to her, "Please give me a little water to drink, for I am thirsty." So she opened [x]a jug of milk, gave him a drink, and covered him. 20 And he said to her, "Stand at the door of the tent, and if any man comes and inquires of you, and says, 'Is there any man here?' you shall say, 'No.' "

21 Then Jael, Heber's wife, [y]took a tent peg and took a hammer in her hand, and went softly to him and drove the peg into his temple, and it went down into the ground; for he was fast asleep and weary. So he died. 22 And then, as Barak pursued Sisera, Jael came out to meet him, and said to him, "Come, I will show you the man whom you seek." And when he went into her tent, there lay Sisera, dead with the peg in his temple.

23 So on that day God subdued Jabin king of Canaan in the presence of the children of Israel. 24 And the hand of the children of Israel grew stronger and stronger against Jabin king of Canaan, until they had destroyed Jabin king of Canaan.

The Song of Deborah

5 Then Deborah and Barak the son of Abinoam [a]sang on that day, saying:

2 "When[1] leaders [b]lead in Israel,
[c]When the people [2]willingly offer themselves,
Bless the LORD!

3 "Hear,[d] O kings! Give ear, O princes!
I, even [e]I, will sing to the LORD;
I will sing praise to the LORD God of Israel.

4 "LORD, [f]when You went out from Seir,
When You marched from [g]the field of Edom,

■ 4:9 there will be no glory for you. Barak was punished for doubting (v. 8).

for the LORD will sell Sisera into the hand of a woman. The enemy will not be delivered to Barak, but to a woman. As God would have it, Jael (v.17) will succeed where faithless Barak will fail (vv. 18–22).

■ 4:10 Zebulun and Naphtali. See 5:13–18.

■ 4:13 River Kishon. See vv. 7, 15.

■ 4:14 the LORD has delivered Sisera. Deborah confirms her word from the Lord (v. 7).

■ 4:15 the LORD routed. From Deborah's song we learn that the Lord sent rain that would cause flash floods, trapping the chariots.

■ 4:18–21 See 5:24–27 for the poetic account.

■ 4:21 drove the peg. No motive is given for Jael's action. A woman killed Sisera, and the Lord's word to Barak was fulfilled (v. 9). Women were not normally warriors, and it was considered shameful to die at the hands of a woman (9:53–54).

■ 5:1–32 "The Song of Deborah" is famous for its age and for its outstanding literary quality.

■ 5:2 When leaders lead in Israel. Leadership is a major theme in Judges.

■ 5:4 from Seir . . . from the field of Edom. Mount Seir was the main mountain ridge running through Edom, Israel's point of departure for the battles of conquest (Deut. 33:2). God is pictured as the mighty Warrior going before His people.

■ 5:4, 5 The earth trembled . . . before the LORD. God is pictured as a warrior who fights by means of the created elements. The portrayal of God as ruling the storm is doubly appropriate: by defeating Sisera with a cloudburst (v. 20) God refutes Baal's claim to be lord of the storm.

The earth trembled and the heavens poured,
The clouds also poured water;
5 [h]The mountains [3]gushed before the LORD,
[i]This Sinai, before the LORD God of Israel.

6 "In the days of [j]Shamgar, son of Anath,
In the days of [k]Jael,
[l]The highways were deserted,
And the travelers walked along the byways.
7 Village life ceased, it ceased in Israel,
Until I, Deborah, arose,
Arose a mother in Israel.
8 They chose [m]new gods;
Then there was war in the gates;
Not a shield or spear was seen among forty thousand in Israel.
9 My heart is with the rulers of Israel
Who offered themselves willingly with the people.

10 "Speak, you who ride on white [n]donkeys,
Who sit in judges' attire,
And who walk along the road.
11 Far from the noise of the archers, among the watering places,
There they shall recount the righteous acts of the LORD,
The righteous acts for His villagers in Israel;
Then the people of the LORD shall go down to the gates.

12 "Awake,[o] awake, Deborah!
Awake, awake, sing a song!
Arise, Barak, and lead your captives away,
O son of Abinoam!

13 "Then the survivors came down, the people against the nobles;
The LORD came down for me against the mighty.
14 From Ephraim were those whose roots were in [p]Amalek.
After you, Benjamin, with your peoples,
From Machir rulers came down,
And from Zebulun those who bear the recruiter's staff.
15 And [4]the princes of Issachar were with Deborah;
As Issachar, so was Barak
Sent into the valley [5]under his command;
Among the divisions of Reuben
There were great resolves of heart.
16 Why did you sit among the sheepfolds,

■ 5:6, 7 The highways were deserted. Israel's failed leadership had resulted in chaos and foreign domination. It was not like the days in which God had been the warrior at the front of Israel (vv. 4–5). The roads were abandoned because they were not safe for travel on account of the foreign oppressors and robbers. No one provided protection.

■ 5:7 a mother in Israel. The princes would not lead (implied by v. 2), but a woman was raised up to lead Israel. Contrast this "mother in Israel" with the despairing mother of Sisera (v. 28).

■ 5:8 chose new gods; Then there was war in the gates. This is a poetic representation of the cycle of sin and punishment (2:11–19). Idolatry brings suffering to the city.

■ 5:9 offered themselves. Later in the song there is a pointed comparison of those who volunteered to fight and those who for some reason refused (v. 13–23).

■ 5:10 ride on white donkeys. Donkeys were ridden by nobility; the song is addressed to the princes mentioned in vv. 2, 9.

■ 5:11 the righteous acts of the LORD. The Lord's righteous acts are His intervention and defeat of His people's enemies. These are His judgments in the earth (cf. Rev. 15:4).

■ 5:15 great resolves. The failure of Reuben, Gilead, Dan, and Asher (v. 17) to participate shows that Israel was not united.

18 [s]Zebulun is a people who jeopardized their lives to the point of death,

19 "The kings came and fought,
Then the kings of Canaan fought
In [t]Taanach, by the waters of Megiddo;
They took no spoils of silver.
20 They fought from the heavens;
The stars from their courses fought against Sisera.
21 [u]The torrent of Kishon swept them away,
That ancient torrent, the torrent of Kishon.
O my soul, march on in strength!
22 Then the horses' hooves pounded,
The galloping, galloping of his steeds.
23 'Curse Meroz,' said the [7]angel of the LORD,
'Curse its inhabitants bitterly,
Because they did not come to the help of the LORD,
To the help of the LORD against the mighty.'

24 "Most blessed among women is Jael,
The wife of Heber the Kenite;
[v]Blessed is she among women in tents.
25 He asked for water, she gave milk;
She brought out cream in a lordly bowl.
26 She stretched her hand to the tent peg,
Her right hand to the workmen's hammer;
She pounded Sisera, she pierced his head,
She split and struck through his temple.
27 At her feet he sank, he fell, he lay still;
At her feet he sank, he fell;
Where he sank, there he fell [w]dead.

28 "The mother of Sisera looked through the window,
And cried out through the lattice,
'Why is his chariot so long in coming?
Why tarries the clatter of his chariots?'
29 Her wisest [8]ladies answered her,
Yes, she [9]answered herself,
30 'Are they not finding and dividing the spoil:
To every man a girl or two;
For Sisera, plunder of dyed garments,
Plunder of garments embroidered and dyed,
Two pieces of dyed embroidery for the neck of the looter?'

31 "Thus let all Your enemies [x]perish, O LORD!
But let those who love Him be [y]like the [z]sun
When it comes out in full [a]strength."

So the land had rest for forty years.

Midianites Oppress Israel

6 Then the children of Israel did [a]evil in the sight of the LORD. So the LORD delivered them into the hand of [b]Midian for seven years, 2 and the hand of Midian prevailed against Israel.

■ 5:20 The stars . . . fought. The participation of the heavens means that God was intervening, fighting as the divine Warrior from heaven. This text has been appealed to in history as biblical grounds for astrology, but this distorts the sense of the passage.

■ 5:23 Meroz. A city of uncertain location.

■ 5:24–27 This section of the song closely parallels the narrative of 4:18–22.

■ 5:31 rest for forty years. This standard conclusion ties Deborah's and Barak's song to ch. 4 (cf. 2:19; 3:11).

■ 6:1—8:32 Gideon was the greatest of the judges. The following facts

Because of the Midianites, the children of Israel made for themselves the dens, [c]the caves, and the strongholds which are in the mountains. [3] So it was, whenever Israel had sown, Midianites would come up; also Amalekites and the [d]people of the East would come up against them. [4] Then they would encamp against them and [e]destroy the produce of the earth as far as Gaza, and leave no sustenance for Israel, neither sheep nor ox nor [f]donkey. [5] For they would come up with their livestock and their tents, coming in as numerous as locusts; both they and their camels were [l]without number; and they would enter the land to destroy it. [6] So Israel was greatly impoverished because of the Midianites, and the children of Israel [g]cried out to the LORD.

[7] And it came to pass, when the children of Israel cried out to the LORD because of the Midianites, [8] that the LORD sent a prophet to the children of Israel, who said to them, "Thus says the LORD God of Israel: 'I brought you up from Egypt and brought you out of the [h]house of [2]bondage; [9] and I delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians and out of the hand of all who oppressed you, and [i]drove them out before you and gave you their land. [10] Also I said to you, "I am the LORD your God; [j]do not fear the gods of the Amorites, in whose land you dwell." But you have not obeyed My [k]voice.' "

Gideon

[11] Now the Angel of the LORD came and sat under the terebinth tree which was in Ophrah, which belonged to Joash [l]the Abiezrite, while his son [m]Gideon threshed wheat in the winepress, in order to hide it from the Midianites. [12] And the [n]Angel of the LORD appeared to him, and said to him, "The LORD is [o]with you, you mighty man of valor!"

[13] Gideon said to Him, "O [3]my lord, if the LORD is with us, why then has all this happened to us? And [p]where are all His miracles [q]which our fathers told us about, saying, 'Did not the LORD bear out this judgment. (a) His story is the longest in the book. (b) The Lord is more visibly active in his story than in any of the others. (c) The Angel of the Lord appeared to him, but to no other judge (vv. 11–24). (d) Centuries later Isaiah remembers Gideon's defeat of Midian as a significant victory (Is. 9:4; 10:26). (e) He is listed first in Samuel's list of deliverers ("Jerubbaal," 1 Sam. 12:11). (f) He is paralleled with Moses (6:11–24 note). (g) The people sought to make him king (8:22–23). (h) He lived like a king (8:26–27, 30, 32). Yet for all this, Gideon failed badly at one point. Gideon made a gold ephod that drew him and others into sin (8:27). In his greatness and in his deficiency, Gideon pointed to the need for a better deliverer, a king who would truly keep the covenant. In this way he points to Christ.

■ 6:2 Midian prevailed. None of the other stories in Judges devotes such attention to the details of the oppression as this one. Homes, crops, and livestock were subject to the covenant curse (Deut. 28:30–33, 38–42). The Midianite oppression was so great that Isaiah mentioned it centuries later (Is. 9:4; 10:26).

■ 6:6 was greatly impoverished. Lit. "made small." The covenant curse was a reversal of God's promise to Abraham (Gen. 15:5; 22:17; Deut. 28:62; Ps. 107:38–39).

cried out. See 2:19; 3:9.

■ 6:8 a prophet. The prophets constantly reminded the people of their covenant obligations. The words of this unnamed prophet (vv. 8–10) are virtually identical to the words of the Angel of the Lord in 2:1–3.

■ 6:8, 9 I brought . . . delivered . . . drove them . . . gave you. Remembering these saving actions of God is the first part of covenant keeping. In Israel religious apostasy was linked to forgetting God's saving acts, and His law.

■ 6:11–24 This is the heart of the Gideon narrative. His call is similar to Moses' call (Ex. 3); he asks the question that is central to the book's message (v. 13); and his search for faith begins with signs (6:1—8:32 note). The search for and need for a covenant-keeping deliverer like the prophet Moses is the focus of Judges.

■ 6:11 Angel of the LORD came. See 2:1; 13:3.

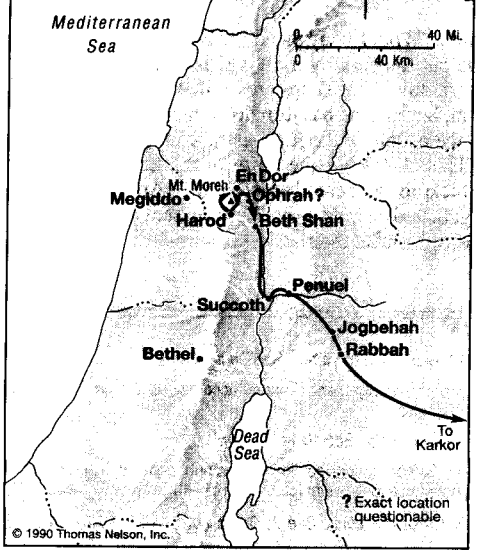
■ 6:13 why. This question is central to the Book of Judges. The Angel did not answer the question, since the prophet had already answered it (vv. 8–10; Deut. 28:47–52; 29:24–27; 31:17–18). Some of the psalms ask a similar question (Ps. 44:20; 74:9–11).



Gideon's Campaign. With a force of 300 Israelites Gideon attacked the Midianites and Amalekites near Mt. Moreh. While in pursuit, he requested aid for his forces from Succoth and Penuel, but was denied. Nevertheless, Gideon's army was able to capture the remaining Midianite kings in Karkor.

bring us up from Egypt?' But now the LORD has [r]forsaken us and delivered us into the hands of the Midianites."

14 Then the LORD turned to him and said, [s]"Go in this might of yours, and you shall save Israel from the hand of the Midianites. [t]Have I not sent you?"

15 So he said to Him, "O [4]my Lord, how can I save Israel? Indeed [u]my clan is the weakest in Manasseh, and I am the least in my father's house."

16 And the LORD said to him, [v]"Surely I will be with you, and you shall [5]defeat the Midianites as one man."

17 Then he said to Him, "If now I have found favor in Your sight, then [w]show me a sign that it is You who talk with me. 18 [x]Do not depart from here, I pray, until I come to You and bring out my offering and set it before You."
