HEBREW AND ENGLISH INDEX.

 After each Hebrew word the various English terms by which it is rendered in the Authorised Version, are given in alphabetical order.—Those in which the English is not strictly a translation of the Hebrew, but the rendering is the result of some peculiarity, are marked *. The mark † indicates that the rendering is that of the Hebrew word in combination with some other. The intensitive use of the Infinitives has also to be noticed as the occasion of peculiar renderings in the verbs. Words, or parts of words in italics, indicate that they are merely accompaniments of the English which translates the Hebrew word under which they stand.

ENGLISH AND HEBREW INDEX.

 The Hebrew words follow in alphabetical order the English word by which they are translated. An English word is marked * when some peculiarity is the occasion of its being used to translate the Hebrew word which follows it. The mark † shews that the English word is the translation of the following Hebrew word in combination with some other. A bracket prefixed to two or more Hebrew words after one English word, indicates that the English is the rendering of such combination. Words or parts of words in italics, indicate that they are not included in the Hebrew word that follows. The few proper names found in this Index are such as, in some cases at least, may be taken as appellatives.

TABLE

VARIATIONS OF CHAPTERS AND VERSES

IN THE

ENGLISH AND HEBREW BIBLES.

 In the following Table, the English notation of chapters and verses is given first; the different notation of the Hebrew (as found in Van der Hooght's Bible) follows in a parenthesis. An asterisk (*) marks the few places in which a verse only differs in part in the Hebrew and the English texts.

INDEX OF OUT-OF-SEQUENCE STRONG'S NUMBERS.

(Including those numbers out-of-sequence by a page or more)

Note: Strong's method of alphabetization disregards the distinction between שׂ (sin) and שׁ (shin), which is reflected in his corresponding assignment of numbers. Consequently, Strong's numbers 7603–8368, which are assigned to words beginning with שׂ, are found on pages 1195–1219. Strong's numbers 7579–8371, which are assigned to words beginning with שׁ, are found on pages 1219–1333. Only out-of-sequence numbers found within these sections are noted below.

185	33	1310	280	2131	385, 392	3384	564, 559
255	47	1311	280	2324	406	3394	564
311	54	1317	280	2418	423	3451	576
328	54, 55	1318	280	2426	425	3455	568
335	57	1385	290	2427	425	3476	579
