Cure of a blind man at Bethsaida

22 They came to Bethsaida, and some people brought to him a blind man whom they 23 begged him to touch. ·He took the blind man by the hand and led him outside the 5:30b village. Then, putting spittle on his eyes and laying his hands on him, he asked, 7:33
Jn 9:6
24 'Can you see anything?' ·The man, who was beginning to see, [d] replied, 'I can see 1 Tm 4:14e 25 people; they look like trees as they walk around.' ·Then he laid his hands on the man's eyes again and he saw clearly; he was cured, and he could see everything Mt 8:3a 26 plainly and distinctly. ·And Jesus sent him home, saying, 'Do not even go into the 1:34m village.'

Peter's profession of faith ‖Mt 16:13–20
‖Lk 9:18–21

27 Jesus and his disciples left for the villages round Caesarea Philippi. On the way he 28 put this question to his disciples, 'Who do people say I am?' ·And they told him, 29 'John the Baptist, others Elijah, others again, one of the prophets.' ·'But you,' he asked them, 'who do you say I am?' Peter spoke up and said to him, 'You are the 30 Christ.' ·And he gave them strict orders not to tell anyone about him. 1:34m

c. qorban, Aramaic word meaning an offering, especially to God. See Mt 15:6d.

d. Some versions omit v. 16.

e. 'Parable' in the Hebrew sense of mashal which includes even brief enigmatic sayings.

f. lit. 'making all foods clean'; the clause (possibly a gloss) is obscure and variously interpreted.

g. add. 'and Sidon', cf. Mt 15:21.

h. lit. 'a Greek', not racially, since she was a Syro-Phoenician, but culturally, that is to say, gentile in this context; cf. Jn 7:35; Ac 16:1.

8 a. Either a place-name, unidentified like the 'Magadan' of Mt 15:39, or possibly a transliteration of some Aramaic expression.

b. The refusal of any sign in Mk is often considered more primitive than the promise of 'the sign of Jonah' in Mt and Lk. It is, however, also possible that Mk has omitted a biblical allusion which would make no sense to his readers, and that in fact Jesus did promise this sign, in order to foretell the triumph of his final deliverance, as Mt has made explicit, see Mt 12:39*l*.

c. An invitation to the disciples to forget their materialistic preoccupation and to reflect upon Jesus' mission highlighted by his miracles.

d. Others translate 'raising his eyes'.

|Mt 16:21–23 ||Lk 9:22

First prophecy of the Passion

Then he began to teach them that the Son of man was destined to suffer grievously, 31
Mt 21:42 and to be rejected by the elders and the chief priests and the scribes, and to be put 9:9–10.31–32; 10:32–34 to death, and after three days to rise again; 32 and he said all this quite openly. Then, 32 taking him aside, Peter tried to rebuke him. 33 But, turning and seeing his disciples, 33 4:13b he rebuked Peter and said to him, 'Get behind me, Satan! You are thinking not as God thinks, but as human beings do.'

|Mt 16:24–28 ||Lk 9:23–27

The condition of following Christ

He called the people and his disciples to him and said, 'If anyone wants to be a 34 follower of mine, let him renounce himself and take up his cross and follow me.
Anyone who wants to save his life will lose it; but anyone who loses his life for 35
my sake, and for the sake of the gospel, will save it. 36 What gain, then, is it for 36 anyone to win the whole world and forfeit his life? 37 And indeed what can anyone 37
Mt 10:33 offer in exchange for his life? 38 For if anyone in this sinful and adulterous generation 38 is ashamed of me and of my words, the Son of man will also be ashamed of him when he comes in the glory of his Father with the holy angels.'

Rm 1:4 9 And he said to them, 'In truth I tell you, there are some standing here who will 1 not taste death before they see the kingdom of God come with power.'

|Mt 17:1–8 ||Lk 9:28–36

The Transfiguration [a]

5:37d Six days later, Jesus took with him Peter and James and John and led them up a 2 high mountain on their own by themselves. There in their presence he was trans-16:5 Dn 7:9 figured: 3 his clothes became brilliantly white, whiter than any earthly bleacher 3 could make them. 4 Elijah appeared to them with Moses; and they were talking to 4 Jesus. 5 Then Peter spoke to Jesus, 'Rabbi,' he said, 'it is wonderful for us to be 5 here; so let us make three shelters, one for you, one for Moses and one for Elijah.'
14:40 He did not know what to say; they were so frightened. 6 And a cloud came, 6, 7 1:11 covering them in shadow; and from the cloud there came a voice, 'This is my Son, the Beloved. Listen to him.' 8 Then suddenly, when they looked round, they saw 8 no one with them any more but only Jesus.

|Mt 17:9–13

The question about Elijah

1:34m As they were coming down from the mountain he warned them to tell no one what 9 they had seen, until after the Son of man had risen from the dead. 10 They observed 10 4:13b the warning faithfully, though among themselves they discussed what 'rising from the dead' could mean. 11 And they put this question to him, 'Why do the scribes say 11 Ml 3:23–24 that Elijah must come first?' 12 He said to them, 'Elijah is indeed first coming to set 12 everything right again; yet how is it that the scriptures say about the Son of man that he must suffer grievously and be treated with contempt? 13 But I tell you that 13 1 K 19:2.10 Elijah has come and they have treated him as they pleased, just as the scriptures say about him.'

|Mt 17:14–21 ||Lk 9:34–42

The epileptic demoniac

As they were rejoining the disciples they saw [b] a large crowd round them and some 14 scribes arguing with them. 15 At once, when they saw him, the whole crowd were 15 struck with amazement and ran to greet him. 16 And he asked them, 'What are you 16 arguing about with them?' 17 A man answered him from the crowd, 'Master, I have 17
Mt 8:29k brought my son to you; there is a spirit of dumbness in him, 18 and when it takes hold 18 of him it throws him to the ground, and he foams at the mouth and grinds his teeth and goes rigid. And I asked your disciples to drive it out and they were unable to.'
In reply he said to them, 'Faithless generation, how much longer must I be among 19 you? How much longer must I put up with you? Bring him to me.' 20 They brought 20 the boy to him, and at once the spirit of dumbness threw the boy into convulsions, and he fell to the ground and lay writhing there, foaming at the mouth. 21 Jesus 21 asked the father, 'How long has this been happening to him?' 'From childhood,' he 22 said, •'and it has often thrown him into fire and into water, in order to destroy him.

23, 24 But if you can do anything, have pity on us and help us.' ••'If you can?' retorted
Jesus. 'Everything is possible for one who has faith.' At once the father of the boy Mt 8:10b 25 cried out, 'I have faith. Help my lack of faith!' •And when Jesus saw that a crowd was gathering, he rebuked the unclean spirit. 'Deaf and dumb spirit,' he said, 'I 7:37 26 command you: come out of him and never enter him again.' •Then it threw the boy into violent convulsions and came out shouting, and the boy lay there so like a 27 corpse that most of them said, 'He is dead.' •But Jesus took him by the hand and 8:23 28 helped him up, and he was able to stand. •When he had gone indoors, his disciples Mt 8:15+ asked him when they were by themselves, 'Why were we unable to drive it out?'
29 He answered, 'This is the kind that can be driven out only by prayer.'[c]

Second prophecy of the Passion ||Mt 17:22–23 ||Lk 9:44–45

30 After leaving that place they made their way through Galilee; and he did not want Jn 7:1
31 anyone to know, •because he was instructing his disciples; he was telling them, 1:34m
'The Son of man will be delivered into the power of men; they will put him to 8:31e 32 death; and three days after he has been put to death he will rise again.' •But they did not understand what he said and were afraid to ask him. 4:13b

Who is the greatest? ||Mt 18:1–5 ||Lk 9:46–48

33 They came to Capernaum, and when he got into the house he asked them, 'What 7:24g 34 were you arguing about on the road?' •They said nothing, because on the road they 35 had been arguing which of them was the greatest. •So he sat down, called the Twelve to him and said, 'If anyone wants to be first, he must make himself last of 36 all and servant of all.' •He then took a little child whom he set among them and 37 embraced, and he said to them, ••'Anyone who welcomes a little child such as this in my name, welcomes me; and anyone who welcomes me, welcomes not me but Mt 10:40+ the one who sent me.'

On using the name of Jesus ||Lk 9:49–50

38 John said to him, 'Master, we saw someone who is not one of us driving out devils
39 in your name, and because he was not one of us we tried to stop him.' •But Jesus Nb 11:28 said, 'You must not stop him; no one who works a miracle in my name could soon Ac 3:16*l* 40 afterwards speak evil of me. •Anyone who is not against us is for us. 1 Co 12:3 Mt 12:30par.

Generosity shown to Christ's disciples ||Mt 10:42

41 'If anyone gives you a cup of water to drink because you belong to Christ, then in 1 Co 3:23r truth I tell you, he will most certainly not lose his reward.

On leading others astray ||Mt 18:6–9 ||Lk 17:1–2

42 'But anyone who is the downfall of one of these little ones who have faith,[d] would 43 be better thrown into the sea with a great millstone hung round his neck. •And if your hand should be your downfall, cut it off; it is better for you to enter into life ||Mt 18:8–9 crippled, than to have two hands and go to hell, into the fire that can never be put [44] 45 out.[e] ••And if your foot should be your downfall, cut it off; it is better for you to [46] 47 enter into life lame, than to have two feet and be thrown into hell. •And if your eye should be your downfall, tear it out; it is better for you to enter into the kingdom of

e. Peter's profession of faith is the turning point of the plan of Mk, see page 1604. His closest disciples have at last recognised that he is the Messiah; but they still have to learn how the work of the Messiah will be done in a completely unexpected way, cf. 9:32; 10:38.

9 a. While Mt presents the Transfiguration as a proclamation of Jesus as the new Moses, see Mt 17:1a, and Lk emphasises the approaching Passion, see Lk 9:28f, Mk, following the dominant theme of his Gospel, sees in it above all a glorious manifestation of the hidden Messiah. Briefly, the disciples experience the heavenly quality of Jesus, described by means of symbols whose meaning is clear from apocalyptic literature, e.g. Dn 10:5–10.

b. var. 'he rejoined . . . he saw'.

c. var. 'by prayer and fasting'.

d. add. 'in me'.

e. omitting, with the best MSS, vv. 44 and 46 (Vulg.), as repetitions of v. 48.

God with one eye, than to have two eyes and be thrown into hell ·where their worm 48
Is 66:24+ will never die nor their fire be put out. ·For everyone will be salted with fire.[f] ·Salt 49, 50
Lv 2:13+ ‖Mt 5:13 is a good thing, but if salt has become insipid, how can you make it salty again?
‖Lk 14:34 Have salt in yourselves and be at peace with one another.'
Col 4:6
Rm 12:18

‖Mt 19:1–9 The question about divorce

10 After leaving there, he came into the territory of Judaea and Transjordan. 1
And again crowds gathered round him, and again he taught them, as his custom was. ·Some Pharisees approached him and asked, 'Is it lawful for a man to 2 divorce his wife?' They were putting him to the test. ·He answered them, 'What 3 Dt 24:1 did Moses command you?' ·They replied, 'Moses allowed us to draw up a writ of 4 dismissal in cases of divorce.' ·Then Jesus said to them, 'It was because you were 5 so hard hearted that he wrote this commandment for you. ·But from the beginning 6
Gn 1:27;2:24 of creation he made them male and female. ·This is why a man leaves his father and 7 mother,[a] ·and the two become one flesh. They are no longer two, therefore, but 8 one flesh. ·So then, what God has united, human beings must not divide.' ·Back in 9, 10 7:24g the house the disciples questioned him again about this, ·and he said to them, 11
‖Mt 5:32 'Whoever divorces his wife and marries another is guilty of adultery against her.
‖Lk 16:18 And if a woman divorces her husband[b] and marries another she is guilty of adultery 12 too.'

‖Mt 19:13–15 Jesus and the children
‖Lk 18:15–17
Lk 9:47 People were bringing little children to him, for him to touch them. The disciples 13 scolded them, ·but when Jesus saw this he was indignant and said to them, 'Let the 14 little children come to me; do not stop them; for it is to such as these that the kingdom of God belongs. ·In truth I tell you, anyone who does not welcome 15 the kingdom of God like a little child will never enter it.' ·Then he embraced 16 them, laid his hands on them and gave them his blessing.

‖Mt 19:16–22 The rich young man
‖Lk 18:18–23
He was setting out on a journey when a man ran up, knelt before him and put this 17 question to him, 'Good master, what must I do to inherit eternal life?' ·Jesus said 18 to him, 'Why do you call me good? No one is good but God alone. ·You know the 19 Ex 20:12–16 Dt 5:16–20; 24:14 commandments: You shall not kill; You shall not commit adultery; You shall not steal; You shall not give false witness; You shall not defraud; Honour your father and mother.' ·And he said to him, 'Master, I have kept all these since my earliest 20 days.' ·Jesus looked steadily at him and he was filled with love for him, and he said, 21 Lk 12:33d 'You need to do one thing more. Go and sell what you own and give the money to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; then come, follow me.' ·But his 22 face fell at these words and he went away sad, for he was a man of great wealth.

‖Mt 19:23–26 The danger of riches
‖Lk 18:24–27
Jesus looked round and said to his disciples, 'How hard it is for those who have 23 riches to enter the kingdom of God!' ·The disciples were astounded by these 24 words,[c] but Jesus insisted, 'My children,' he said to them, 'how hard it is to enter the kingdom of God! ·It is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle 25 than for someone rich to enter the kingdom of God.' ·They were more aston- 26
Zc 8:6–7 ished than ever, saying to one another, 'In that case, who can be saved?' ·Jesus 27 gazed at them and said, 'By human resources it is impossible, but not for God:
because for God everything is possible.'

‖Mt 19:27–30 The reward of renunciation
‖Lk 18:28–30
Peter took this up. 'Look,' he said to him, 'we have left everything and followed 28
you.' ·Jesus said, 'In truth I tell you, there is no one who has left house, brothers, 29 1:1a sisters, mother, father, children or land for my sake and for the sake of the gospel who will not receive a hundred times as much, houses, brothers, sisters, mothers, 30 children and land—and persecutions too—now in this present time and, in the 31 world to come, eternal life. •Many who are first will be last, and the last, first.'

Third prophecy of the Passion

‖Mt 20:17–19
‖Lk 18:31–33

32 They were on the road, going up to Jerusalem; Jesus was walking on ahead of them; they were in a daze, and those who followed were apprehensive. Once more taking the Twelve aside he began to tell them what was going to happen to him, 33 'Now we are going up to Jerusalem, and the Son of man is about to be handed 8:31e over to the chief priests and the scribes. They will condemn him to death and will 34 hand him over to the gentiles, •who will mock him and spit at him and scourge him and put him to death; and after three days he will rise again.'

The sons of Zebedee make their request

35 James and John, the sons of Zebedee, approached him. 'Master,' they said to him, ‖Mt 20:20–23
36 'We want you to do us a favour.' •He said to them, 'What is it you want me to do 37 for you?' •They said to him, 'Allow us to sit one at your right hand and the other at 38 your left in your glory.'[d] •But Jesus said to them, 'You do not know what you are 4:13b asking. Can you drink the cup that I shall drink, or be baptised with the baptism 39 with which I shall be baptised?'[e] •They replied, 'We can.' Jesus said to them, 'The cup that I shall drink you shall drink, and with the baptism with which I shall be 40 baptised you shall be baptised, •but as for seats at my right hand or my left, these are not mine to grant; they belong to those to whom they have been allotted.'

Leadership with service

‖Mt 20:24–28
‖Lk 22:24–27

41 When the other ten heard this they began to feel indignant with James and John, 42 so Jesus called them to him and said to them, 'You know that among the gentiles those they call their rulers lord it over them, and their great men make their 43 authority felt. •Among you this is not to happen. No; anyone who wants to become 44 great among you must be your servant, •and anyone who wants to be first among 45 you must be slave to all. •For the Son of man himself came not to be served but to serve, and to give his life as a ransom for many.'

The blind man of Jericho

46 They reached Jericho; and as he left Jericho with his disciples and a great crowd, Bartimaeus—that is, the son of Timaeus—a blind beggar, was sitting at the side of ‖Mt 20:29–34
47 the road. •When he heard that it was Jesus of Nazareth, he began to shout and cry ‖Lk 18:35–43 48 out, 'Son of David, Jesus, have pity on me.' •And many of them scolded him and told him to keep quiet, but he only shouted all the louder, 'Son of David, have pity 49 on me.' •Jesus stopped and said, 'Call him here.' So they called the blind man over.
50 'Courage,' they said, 'get up; he is calling you.' •So throwing off his cloak, he 51 jumped up and went to Jesus. •Then Jesus spoke, 'What do you want me to do for 52 you?' The blind man said to him, 'Rabbuni,[f] let me see again.' •Jesus said to him, Mt 8:10b 'Go; your faith has saved you.' And at once his sight returned and he followed him Jn 20:16 along the road.

f. This 'seasoning' fire means either penalties by which the sinner is punished and at the same time preserved, or (preferably) the purifying fire of trials by which the faithful become sacrifices pleasing to God, see Lv 2:13 (to this alludes an add. 'and every victim must be salted with salt'). It appears that v. 50, cf. Mt 5:13, has been inserted here for no other reason than the recurrence of the word 'salt'.

10a. add. 'and clings to his wife', cf. Gn 2:24 and Mt 19:5.

b. This clause reflects Roman law, for Jewish law permitted only a husband, not a wife, to divorce.

c. Wealth and prosperity were considered signs of God's favour, see pp. 750–1.

d. When, as Messianic King, your triumph is assured.

e. To drink the cup, cf. 14:36, and to be baptised are symbols of the approaching Passion: Jesus is to be 'immersed' (Gk: baptizein) in suffering.

f. Aramaic 'My master' or 'Master'; cf. Jn 20:16.

IV: THE JERUSALEM MINISTRY

The Messiah enters Jerusalem

‖Mt 21:1–11 ‖Lk 19:28–38 ‖Jn 12:12–16

11 When they were approaching Jerusalem, at Bethphage and Bethany, close 1 by the Mount of Olives, he sent two of his disciples ·and said to them, 'Go 2 to the village facing you, and as you enter it you will at once find a tethered colt that no one has yet ridden. Untie it and bring it here. ·If anyone says to you, 3
"What are you doing?" say, "The Master needs it and will send it back here at once." ' ·They went off and found a colt tethered near a door in the open street. 4
As they untied it, ·some men standing there said, 'What are you doing, untying 5 that colt?' ·They gave the answer Jesus had told them, and the men let them go. 6
Then they took the colt to Jesus and threw their cloaks on its back, and he 7 mounted it. ·Many people spread their cloaks on the road, and others greenery 8 which they had cut in the fields. ·And those who went in front and those who 9 Ps 118:25–26 followed were all shouting, 'Hosanna! Blessed is he who is coming in the name of 2 S 7:16 the Lord! ·Blessed is the coming kingdom of David our father! Hosanna in the 10 highest heavens!' ·He entered Jerusalem and went into the Temple; and when he 11 had surveyed it all, as it was late by now, he went out to Bethany with the Twelve.

The barren fig tree [a]

‖Mt 21:18–19

Next day as they were leaving Bethany, he felt hungry. ·Seeing a fig tree in leaf 12, 13 some distance away, he went to see if he could find any fruit on it, but when he came up to it he found nothing but leaves; for it was not the season for figs. ·And 14 he addressed the fig tree, 'May no one ever eat fruit from you again.' And his disciples heard him say this.

The expulsion of the dealers from the Temple

‖Mt 21:12–13,17 ‖Lk 19:45–48 ‖Jn 2:14–16

So they reached Jerusalem and he went into the Temple and began driving out the 15 men selling and buying there; he upset the tables of the money changers and the seats of the dove sellers. ·Nor would he allow anyone to carry anything through 16
Is 56:7 the Temple. ·And he taught them and said, 'Does not scripture say: My house will 17 be called a house of prayer for all peoples? [b] But you have turned it into a bandits'
Jr 7:11 den.' ·This came to the ears of the chief priests and the scribes, and they tried to 18 find some way of doing away with him; they were afraid of him because the people were carried away by his teaching. ·And when evening came he went out of the 19 city.

The fig tree withered. Faith and prayer

‖Mt 21:20–22

Next morning, as they passed by, they saw the fig tree withered to the roots. 20
Peter remembered. 'Look, Rabbi,' he said to Jesus, 'the fig tree that you cursed 21
Mt 8:10b has withered away.' ·Jesus answered, 'Have faith in God. ·In truth I tell you, if 22, 23
anyone says to this mountain, "Be pulled up and thrown into the sea," with no Jn 11:22 doubt in his heart, but believing that what he says will happen, it will be done for 1 Co 13:2 Mt 7:7+ him. ·I tell you, therefore, everything you ask and pray for, believe that you have 24
Mt 6:14–15 it already, and it will be yours. ·And when you stand in prayer, forgive whatever 25 you have against anybody, so that your Father in heaven may forgive your failings too.' [c][26]

The authority of Jesus is questioned

‖Mt 21:23–27 ‖Lk 20:1–8

They came to Jerusalem again, and as Jesus was walking in the Temple, the chief 27
Jn 2:18 priests and the scribes and the elders came to him, ·and they said to him, 'What 28 authority have you for acting like this? Or who gave you authority to act like this?'
Jesus said to them, 'And I will ask you a question, just one; answer me and I will 29 tell you my authority for acting like this. ·John's baptism, what was its origin, 30

31 heavenly or human? Answer me that.' ·And they argued this way among themselves, 'If we say heavenly, he will say, "Then why did you refuse to believe him?"
32 But dare we say human?'—they had the people to fear, for everyone held that 33 John had been a real prophet. ·So their reply to Jesus was, 'We do not know.' And Mt 16:14c Jesus said to them, 'Nor will I tell you my authority for acting like this.'

Parable of the wicked tenants ‖Mt 21:33–46 ‖Lk 20:9–19

1 12 He went on to speak to them in parables, 'A man planted a vineyard; he Is 5:1a fenced it round, dug out a trough for the winepress and built a tower; then 2 he leased it to tenants and went abroad. ·When the time came, he sent a servant to 3 the tenants to collect from them his share of the produce of the vineyard. ·But they 4 seized the man, thrashed him and sent him away empty handed. ·Next he sent another servant to them; him they beat about the head and treated shamefully.
5 And he sent another and him they killed; then a number of others, and they 6 thrashed some and killed the rest. ·He had still someone left: his beloved son. He 7 sent him to them last of all, thinking, "They will respect my son." ·But those tenants said to each other, "This is the heir. Come on, let us kill him, and the 8 inheritance will be ours." ·So they seized him and killed him and threw him out of 9 the vineyard. ·Now what will the owner of the vineyard do? He will come and 10 make an end of the tenants and give the vineyard to others. ·Have you not read this text of scripture:

The stone which the builders rejected Ps 118:22–23
has become the cornerstone; 11 this is the Lord's doing,
and we marvel at it?'

12 And they would have liked to arrest him, because they realised that the parable was aimed at them, but they were afraid of the crowds. So they left him alone and went away.

On tribute to Caesar ‖Mt 22:15–22 ‖Lk 20:20–26

13 Next they sent to him some Pharisees and some Herodians to catch him out in what 3:6a
14 he said. ·These came and said to him, 'Master, we know that you are an honest man, that you are not afraid of anyone, because human rank means nothing to you, and that you teach the way of God in all honesty. Is it permissible to pay taxes
15 to Caesar or not? Should we pay or not?' ·Recognising their hypocrisy he said to them, 'Why are you putting me to the test? Hand me a denarius and let me see it.'
16 They handed him one and he said to them, 'Whose portrait is this? Whose title?'
17 They said to him, 'Caesar's.' ·Jesus said to them, 'Pay Caesar what belongs to Caesar—and God what belongs to God.' And they were amazed at him.

The resurrection of the dead ‖Mt 22:23–33 ‖Lk 20:27–40

18 Then some Sadducees—who deny that there is a resurrection—came to him and 19 they put this question to him, ·'Master, Moses prescribed for us that if a man's Dt 25:5a brother dies leaving a wife but no child, the man must marry the widow to raise up 20 children for his brother. ·Now there were seven brothers; the first married a wife

11 a. The Synoptic Gospels present here a different order which must be explained by the literary evolution of the tradition. On the one hand the entry into Jerusalem and the expulsion of the merchants from the Temple, given by Mt and Lk on the same day, are spread over two days by Mk, and separated by the incident of the cursing of the fig tree. On the other hand, the withered fig tree (and also its curse in Mt) are put by Mk between the expulsion of the merchants and the discussion of Jesus' authority, two incidents which must originally have come one after the other, see Jn 2:14–22. These divergencies are explained if the episode of the fig tree was introduced later into a primitive account (note that it is absent from Lk), and this in two stages: first the curse, then the withering, a later addition intended to draw out of the fulfilment of the curse a lesson on the efficacy of prayer with faith. In Mk alone has this lesson brought with it, by verbal association, a saying on forgiveness which Mt uses after the Lord's Prayer, Mt 6:14.

b. Of the synoptics only Mk quotes, no doubt deliberately, these last three words of Isaiah's text; they foretell the worldwide worship of the messianic age.

c. add. v. 26 'But if you do not forgive, your Father in heaven will not forgive your failings either,' cf. Mt 6:15.

and then died leaving no children. •The second married the widow, and he too died 21 leaving no children; with the third it was the same, •and none of the seven left 22 any children. Last of all the woman herself died. •Now at the resurrection, when 23 they rise again, whose wife will she be, since she had been married to all seven?'

Jesus said to them, 'Surely the reason why you are wrong is that you understand 24 neither the scriptures nor the power of God. •For when they rise from the dead, 25 men and women do not marry; no, they are like the angels in heaven. •Now about 26
the dead rising again, have you never read in the Book of Moses, in the passage
Ex 3:6 about the bush,[a] how God spoke to him and said: I am the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob? •He is God, not of the dead, but of the living. 27
You are very much mistaken.'

‖Mt 22:34–40 ‖Lk 10:25–28 The greatest commandment of all

One of the scribes who had listened to them debating appreciated that Jesus had 28 given a good answer and put a further question to him, 'Which is the first of all the Dt 6:4–5 commandments?' •Jesus replied, 'This is the first: Listen, Israel, the Lord our God 29 is the one, only Lord,[b] •and you must love the Lord your God with all your heart, 30 with all your soul, with all your mind and with all your strength. •The second is this: 31 Lv 19:18 You must love your neighbour as yourself. There is no commandment greater than these.' •The scribe said to him, 'Well spoken, Master; what you have said is true, 32
Dt 6:4;4:35 that he is one and there is no other. •To love him with all your heart, with all your 33
1 S 15:22 Ps 40:6–8 Am 5:21n understanding and strength, and to love your neighbour as yourself, this is far more important than any burnt offering or sacrifice.' •Jesus, seeing how wisely he had 34 spoken, said, 'You are not far from the kingdom of God.' And after that no one ‖Mt 22:46 ‖Lk 20:40 dared to question him any more.

‖Mt 22:41–46 ‖Lk 20:41–44 Jesus not only son but also Lord of David

While teaching in the Temple, Jesus said, 'How can the scribes maintain that the 35
Mt 9:27m Christ is the son of David? •David himself, moved by the Holy Spirit, said: 36

Ps 110:1

> The Lord declared to my Lord,
> take your seat at my right hand
> till I have made your enemies
> your footstool.

David himself calls him Lord; in what way then can he be his son?' And the great 37 crowd listened to him with delight.

‖Mt 23:6–7 ‖Lk 20:45–47; 11:43 The scribes condemned by Jesus

In his teaching he said, 'Beware of the scribes who like to walk about in long robes, 38
Lk 14:7,8 to be greeted respectfully in the market squares, •to take the front seats in the 39 synagogues and the places of honour at banquets; •these are the men who devour 40 the property of widows and for show offer long prayers. The more severe will be the sentence they receive.'

‖Lk 21:1–4 The widow's mite

He sat down opposite the treasury and watched the people putting money into the 41 treasury,[c] and many of the rich put in a great deal. •A poor widow came and put in 42 two small coins, the equivalent of a penny. •Then he called his disciples and said to 43 them, 'In truth I tell you, this poor widow has put more in than all who have contributed to the treasury; •for they have all put in money they could spare, but 44 she in her poverty has put in everything she possessed, all she had to live on.'

‖Mt 24:1–3 ‖Lk 21:5–7 The eschatological discourse: Introduction[a]

13 As he was leaving the Temple one of his disciples said to him, 'Master, look 1 at the size of those stones! Look at the size of those buildings!' •And Jesus 2 said to him, 'You see these great buildings? Not a single stone will be left on another; everything will be pulled down.'

3 And while he was sitting on the Mount of Olives, facing the Temple, Peter, 1:29;5:37*o*
4 James, John and Andrew questioned him when they were by themselves, •'Tell us, when is this going to happen, and what sign will there be that it is all about to take place?'

The beginning of sorrows ‖Mt 24:4–14 ‖Lk 21:8–19

5, 6 Then Jesus began to tell them, 'Take care that no one deceives you. •Many will 7 come using my name and saying, "I am he," and they will deceive many. •When you hear of wars and rumours of wars, do not be alarmed; this is something that 8 must happen, but the end will not be yet. •For nation will fight against nation, and Dn 2:28 kingdom against kingdom. There will be earthquakes in various places; there will be famines. This is the beginning of the birth-pangs.
9 'Be on your guard: you will be handed over to sanhedrins; you will be beaten in ‖Mt 10:17–22 synagogues; and you will be brought before governors and kings for my sake, as 10 evidence to them, •since the gospel must first be proclaimed to all nations.
11 'And when you are taken to be handed over, do not worry beforehand about ‖Lk 12:11–12 what to say; no, say whatever is given to you when the time comes, because it is not 12 you who will be speaking; it is the Holy Spirit. •Brother will betray brother to Mt 10:36 death, and a father his child; children will come forward against their parents and 13 have them put to death. •You will be universally hated on account of my name; but Jn 15:18–21,18f anyone who stands firm to the end will be saved.

The great tribulation of Jerusalem ‖Mt 24:15–25 ‖Lk 21:20–24 1 M 1:54 Dn 9:27;11:31; 12:11

14 'When you see the appalling abomination set up where it ought not to be (let 15 the reader understand), then those in Judaea must escape to the mountains; •if a man is on the housetop, he must not come down or go inside to collect anything 16 from his house; •if a man is in the fields, he must not turn back to fetch his cloak.
17 Alas for those with child, or with babies at the breast, when those days come!
18, 19 Pray that this may not be in winter. •For in those days there will be great distress, Dn 12:1
20 unparalleled since God created the world, and such as will never be again. •And if the Lord had not shortened that time, no human being would have survived; but he did shorten the time, for the sake of the elect whom he chose.
21 'And if anyone says to you then, "Look, here is the Christ" or, "Look, he is 22 there," do not believe it; •for false Christs and false prophets will arise and produce 23 signs and portents to deceive the elect, if that were possible. •You, therefore, must be on your guard. I have given you full warning.

The coming of the Son of man [b] ‖Mt 24:29–31 ‖Lk 21:25–27

24 'But in those days, after that time of distress, the sun will be darkened, the moon 25 will not give its light, •the stars will come falling out of the sky and the powers in 26 the heavens will be shaken. •And then they will see the Son of man coming in the Dn 7:13–14
27 clouds with great power and glory. •And then he will send the angels to gather his Mt 8:20h Dt 30:3–4 Zc 2:10–17 elect from the four winds, from the ends of the world to the ends of the sky.

12 a. i.e. in which the burning bush incident is narrated.
b. Monotheism is as uncompromising in the NT as it is in Judaism. Here, on Jesus' lips, it is based on the shema, Dt 6:4–5b. Paul will exhort the gentiles to be converted to the one living God, Ac 14:15k; 1 Th 1:9; see also 1 Co 8:4–6c; 1 Tm 2:5. In his view all the work of Jesus Christ comes from God and leads to him, for he makes it contribute to his own glory, Rm 8:28–30; 16:27; 1 Co 1:30; 15:28,57; Ep 1:3–12; 3:11; Ph 2:11; 4:19–20; 1 Tm 2:3–5; 6:15–16; see Heb 1:1–13; 13:20–21. John's Gospel expresses it differently: Jesus comes from the Father, 3:17,31; 6:46, and goes to the Father, 7:33; 13:3; 14:6d.
c. Evidently the treasure chamber inside the Temple enclosure had an alms box outside.

13 a. By contrast with Mt, who adds the dimension of the end of the world to that of the destruction of Jerusalem and the Temple, see Mt 24:1a, Mk's discourse is limited to the destruction of Jerusalem. Many scholars discern here a little Jewish apocalypse inspired by Daniel, vv. 7–8,14–20,24–27, filled out by sayings of Jesus, vv. 5–6, 9–13, 21–23,28–37. Nothing either in the sayings or in the underlying little Jewish apocalypse foretells anything more than the imminent messianic crisis and the awaited deliverance of the chosen people, which in fact occurred in the resurrection of Christ, his coming in the Church, and the destruction of Jerusalem.

‖Mt 24:32–36 ‖Lk 21:29–33 The time of this coming

'Take the fig tree as a parable: as soon as its twigs grow supple and its leaves come 28 out, you know that summer is near. ·So with you when you see these things 29 happening: know that he is near, right at the gates. ·In truth I tell you, before this 30 generation has passed away all these things will have taken place. ·Sky and earth 31 will pass away, but my words will not pass away.

1 Th 5:1a 'But as for that day or hour, nobody knows it, neither the angels in heaven, nor 32
the Son; no one but the Father.

‖Mt 24:42; 25:13–15 ‖Lk 19:12–13; 12:38,40 Be on the alert

'Be on your guard, stay awake, because you never know when the time will come. 33
It is like a man travelling abroad: he has gone from his home, and left his servants 34 in charge, each with his own work to do; and he has told the doorkeeper to stay awake. ·So stay awake, because you do not know when the master of the house 35 is coming, evening, midnight, cockcrow or dawn;[c] ·if he comes unexpec- 36 tedly, he must not find you asleep. ·And what I am saying to you I say to all: Stay 37 awake!'

V: PASSION AND RESURRECTION

‖Mt 26:2–5 ‖Lk 22:1–2 The conspiracy against Jesus

Mt 26:17d 14 It was two days before the Passover and the feast of Unleavened Bread, and 1
the chief priests and the scribes were looking for a way to arrest Jesus by some trick and have him put to death. ·For they said, 'It must not be during the 2 festivities, or there will be a disturbance among the people.'

‖Mt 26:6–13 ‖Jn 12:1–8 The anointing at Bethany

He was at Bethany in the house of Simon, a man who had suffered from a virulent 3 skin-disease; he was at table when a woman came in with an alabaster jar of very costly ointment, pure nard.[a] She broke the jar and poured the ointment on his head. ·Some who were there said to one another indignantly, 'Why this waste of 4 ointment? ·Ointment like this could have been sold for over three hundred denarii 5 and the money given to the poor'; and they were angry with her. ·But Jesus said, 6
'Leave her alone. Why are you upsetting her? What she has done for me is a good Dt 15:11 work.[b] ·You have the poor with you always, and you can be kind to them whenever 7 you wish, but you will not always have me. ·She has done what she could: she has 8 anointed my body beforehand for its burial. ·In truth I tell you, wherever through- 9 out all the world the gospel is proclaimed, what she has done will be told as well, in remembrance of her.'

‖Mt 26:14–16 ‖Lk 22:3–6 Judas betrays Jesus

Judas Iscariot, one of the Twelve, approached the chief priests with an offer to 10 hand Jesus over to them. ·They were delighted to hear it, and promised to give him 11 money; and he began to look for a way of betraying him when the opportunity should occur.

‖Mt 26:17–19 ‖Lk 22:7–13 Preparations for the Passover supper

On the first day of Unleavened Bread, when the Passover lamb was sacrificed, his 12 disciples said to him, 'Where do you want us to go and make the preparations[c] for you to eat the Passover?' ·So he sent two of his disciples, saying to them, 'Go into 13 1 S 10:2–5 the city and you will meet a man carrying a pitcher of water. Follow him, ·and say 14 to the owner of the house which he enters, "The Master says: Where is the room for me to eat the Passover with my disciples?" ·He will show you a large upper 15 room furnished with couches, all prepared. Make the preparations for us there.'

16 The disciples set out and went to the city and found everything as he had told them, and prepared the Passover.

The treachery of Judas foretold

‖Mt 26:20–25
‖Lk 22:14,21–23
‖Jn 13:21–30
•Mt 26:21+

17, 18 When evening came he arrived with the Twelve. •And while they were at table eating, Jesus said, 'In truth I tell you, one of you is about to betray me, one of you 19 eating with me.' •They were distressed and said to him, one after another, 'Not me, 20 surely?' •He said to them, 'It is one of the Twelve, one who is dipping into the 21 same dish with me. •Yes, the Son of man is going to his fate, as the scriptures say he will, but alas for that man by whom the Son of man is betrayed! Better for that man if he had never been born.'

The institution of the Eucharist

‖Mt 26:26–29,26f
‖Lk 22:15–20
‖1 Co 11:23–25

22 And as they were eating he took bread, and when he had said the blessing he broke 23 it and gave it to them. 'Take it,' he said, 'this is my body.' •Then he took a cup, 24 and when he had given thanks he handed it to them, and all drank from it, •and he said to them, 'This is my blood, the blood of the covenant, poured out for many.
‖Mt 26:28*l*
25 In truth I tell you, I shall never drink wine any more until the day I drink the new Mt 8:11c
wine in the kingdom of God.'

Peter's denial foretold

‖Mt 26:30–35,30k
‖Lk 22:31–34,39
‖Jn 13:36–38

26, 27 After the psalms had been sung they left for the Mount of Olives. •And Jesus said to them, 'You will all fall away, for the scripture says: I shall strike the shepherd 28 and the sheep will be scattered; •however, after my resurrection I shall go before
Zc 13:7
29, 30 you into Galilee.' •Peter said, 'Even if all fall away, I will not.' •And Jesus said to him, 'In truth I tell you, this day, this very night, before the cock crows twice, you 14:72
31 will have disowned me three times.' •But he repeated still more earnestly, 'If I have to die with you, I will never disown you.' And they all said the same.

Gethsemane

‖Mt 26:36–46
‖Lk 22:40–46

32 They came to a plot of land called Gethsemane, and he said to his disciples, 'Stay 33, 34 here while I pray.' •Then he took Peter and James and John with him. •And he began to feel terror and anguish. And he said to them, 'My soul is sorrowful to the 35 point of death. Wait here, and stay awake.' •And going on a little further he threw himself on the ground and prayed that, if it were possible, this hour might pass him 36 by. •'Abba, Father!'[d] he said, 'For you everything is possible. Take this cup away 37 from me. But let it be as you, not I, would have it.' •He came back and found them sleeping, and he said to Peter, 'Simon, are you asleep? Had you not the strength to 38 stay awake one hour? •Stay awake and pray not to be put to the test. The spirit is Rm 7:5c
5:37d
39 willing enough, but human nature is weak.' •Again he went away and prayed, 40 saying the same words. •And once more he came back and found them sleeping, 41 their eyes were so heavy; and they could find no answer for him. •He came back a third time and said to them, 'You can sleep on now and have your rest. It is all
9:6

b. In the traditional language of the prophets (see marginal references here and to Mt 24:29–31) cosmic wonders are used to describe powerful interventions of God in history, and in this case the messianic crisis, followed by the final triumph of the chosen people and the Son of man at their head. There is no need to refer them to the end of the world, as is often done because of the context in which Mt has set them, see Mt 24:1a.

c. The night was divided into these four watches, each of which lasted three hours.

14 a. With Jn 12:3, Mk indicates the quality of the perfume, nard, the extract of an Indian aromatic plant. He alone notes that the woman breaks the jar in order to pour it more abundantly and quickly, a gesture of touching prodigality.

b. 'a good work' may possibly be in a Jewish technical sense, the works of compassion being ranked as superior to the duty of almsgiving; but it may also be meant in the general sense of 'a beautiful thing'.

c. According to Mt, Jesus sent a message to the man to whose house he invited himself; according to Mk a sign will lead the two appointed disciples to a room which they will find all prepared. Although sign and preparation could have been pre-arranged, their literary presentation, inspired by 1 S 10:2–5, lends a halo of supernatural foreknowledge to the scene. It will further be noted that the structure of the incident closely resembles the preparation for the messianic entry, Mk 11:1–6.

d. Abba is an Aramaic word which, on Jesus' lips, expresses the familiarity of Son with Father, cf. Mt 11:25–26 and par.; Jn 3:35; 5:19–20; 8:28–29. It will be placed on the lips of Christians, Rm 8:15; Ga 4:6, for the Spirit, Rm 5:5e makes them children of God, Mt 6:9; 17:25i; Lk 11:2.

over. The hour has come. Now the Son of man is to be betrayed into the hands of Jn 14:31–32 sinners. ·Get up! Let us go! My betrayer is not far away.' 42

‖Mt 26:47–56
‖Lk 22:47–53
The arrest

‖Jn 18:2–11 And at once, while he was still speaking, Judas, one of the Twelve, came up and 43 with him a number of men armed with swords and clubs, sent by the chief priests and the scribes and the elders. ·Now the traitor had arranged a signal with them 44 saying, 'The one I kiss, he is the man. Arrest him, and see he is well guarded when you lead him away.' ·So when the traitor came, he went up to Jesus at once and 45 said, 'Rabbi!' and kissed him. ·The others seized him and arrested him. ·Then one 46, 47 of the bystanders drew his sword and struck out at the high priest's servant and cut off his ear.

Then Jesus spoke. 'Am I a bandit,' he said, 'that you had to set out to capture 48 me with swords and clubs? ·I was among you teaching in the Temple day after 49 day and you never laid a hand on me. But this is to fulfil the scriptures.' ·And 50 they all deserted him and ran away. ·A young man followed with nothing on but 51 a linen cloth. They caught hold of him, ·but he left the cloth in their hands and 52
Am 2:16 ran away naked. [e]

‖Mt 26:57–68
‖Lk 22:54, 63–71
Jesus before the Sanhedrin

They led Jesus off to the high priest; and all the chief priests and the elders and the 53 ‖Jn 18:15–16,18 scribes assembled there. ·Peter had followed him at a distance, right into the high 54 priest's palace, and was sitting with the attendants warming himself at the fire.

The chief priests and the whole Sanhedrin were looking for evidence against 55
Jesus in order to have him executed. But they could not find any. ·Several, 56 indeed, brought false witness against him, but their evidence was conflicting.
Some stood up and submitted this false evidence against him, ·'We heard him 57, 58 say, "I am going to destroy this Temple made by human hands, and in three days 2 Co 5:1 build another, not made by human hands." ' ·But even on this point their evidence 59 was conflicting. ·The high priest then rose before the whole assembly and put this 60 question to Jesus, 'Have you no answer to that? What is this evidence these men are bringing against you?' [f] ·But he was silent and made no answer at all. The high 61 priest put a second question to him saying, 'Are you the Christ, the Son of the 13:26+ Ps 110:1 Blessed One?' [g] ·'I am,' said Jesus, 'and you will see the Son of man seated at the 62 right hand of the Power and coming with the clouds of heaven.' ·The high priest 63 tore his robes and said, 'What need of witnesses have we now? ·You heard the 64 blasphemy. What is your finding?' Their verdict was unanimous: he deserved to die.

Some of them started spitting at his face, hitting him and saying, 'Play the 65 prophet!' [h] And the attendants struck him too.

‖Mt 26:69–75
‖Lk 22:55–62
Peter's denials

‖Jn 18:15–18, 25–27 While Peter was down below in the courtyard, one of the high priest's servant-girls 66 came up. ·She saw Peter warming himself there, looked closely at him and said, 67
Mt 2:23*l* 'You too were with Jesus, the man from Nazareth.' ·But he denied it. 'I do not 68 know, I do not understand what you are talking about,' he said. And he went out into the forecourt, and a cock crowed. [i] ·The servant-girl saw him and again started 69 telling the bystanders, 'This man is one of them.' ·But again he denied it. A little 70 later the bystanders themselves said to Peter, 'You are certainly one of them! Why, you are a Galilean.' ·But he started cursing and swearing, 'I do not know the man 71 you speak of.' ·And at once the cock crowed for the second time, and Peter 72 recalled what Jesus had said to him, 'Before the cock crows twice, you will have disowned me three times.' And he burst into tears.

Jesus before Pilate

‖Mt 27:1–2, 11–26
‖Lk 22:66;23: 1–5,13–25
‖Jn 18:28–19:1; 19:4–16
•Mt 26:57r

15 1 First thing in the morning, the chief priests, together with the elders and scribes and the rest of the Sanhedrin, had their plan ready. They had Jesus bound and took him away and handed him over to Pilate.
2 Pilate put to him this question, 'Are you the king of the Jews?' He replied, 'It is 3 you who say it.' •And the chief priests brought many accusations against him.
4 Pilate questioned him again, 'Have you no reply at all? See how many accusations
5 they are bringing against you!' •But, to Pilate's surprise, Jesus made no further reply.
6 At festival time Pilate used to release a prisoner for them, any one they asked 7 for. •Now a man called Barabbas was then in prison with the rebels who had 8 committed murder during the uprising. •When the crowd went up[a] and began to 9 ask Pilate the customary favour, •Pilate answered them, 'Do you want me to 10 release for you the king of the Jews?'[b] •For he realised it was out of jealousy that 11 the chief priests had handed Jesus over. •The chief priests, however, had incited 12 the crowd to demand that he should release Barabbas for them instead. •Then Pilate spoke again, 'But in that case, what am I to do with the man you call king of 13, 14 the Jews?' •They shouted back, 'Crucify him!' •Pilate asked them, 'What harm has 15 he done?' But they shouted all the louder, 'Crucify him!' •So Pilate, anxious to placate the crowd, released Barabbas for them and, after having Jesus scourged, he handed him over to be crucified.

Jesus crowned with thorns

‖Mt 27:27–31
‖Jn 19:1–3

16 The soldiers led him away to the inner part of the palace, that is, the Praetorium, 17 and called the whole cohort together. •They dressed him up in purple, twisted
18 some thorns into a crown and put it on him. •And they began saluting him, 'Hail 19 king of the Jews!' •They struck his head with a reed and spat on him; and they went 20 down on their knees to do him homage. •And when they had finished making fun of him, they took off the purple and dressed him in his own clothes.

The way of the cross

‖Mt 27:32–33
‖Lk 23:26
‖Jn 19:17

21 They led him out to crucify him. •They enlisted a passer-by, Simon of Cyrene, father of Alexander and Rufus,[c] who was coming in from the country, to carry his 22 cross. •They brought Jesus to the place called Golgotha, which means the place of the skull.

The crucifixion

‖Mt 27:34–38
‖Lk 23:33–34
‖Jn 19:18–24
Ps 22:18

23, 24 They offered him wine mixed with myrrh, but he refused it. •Then they crucified
25 him, and shared out his clothing, casting lots to decide what each should get. •It 26 was the third hour[d] when they crucified him. •The inscription giving the charge

e. Detail peculiar to Mk. Some commentators have seen in this young man the evangelist himself.

f. Here, and in Mt 26:62, some translate 'Do you make no reply to the charges these men are bringing against you?'

g. 'The Blessed One' (see also 'the Power', v. 62) is a substitute for the name 'Yahweh' which the Jews would not pronounce.

h. 'Spitting at his face', D Vet Lat (a f), Caesarean text, Peshitta; 'spitting at him and blindfolding him', the majority, by harmonisation with Lk 22:64. Add. 'Who is it who hit you then?', less good witnesses, by harmonisation with Mt 26:68 and Lk 22:64. If Mk mentions neither blindfold nor question, the scene loses its character of a guessing-game and shows only the outrages to the prophet foretold by Is 50:6.

i. The first cockcrow which does not shake Peter and the partial exit which goes with it are strange and suggest an original account which had only one denial with a cockcrow and exit. The combination of this with two parallel accounts, drawn from other traditions, has produced the traditional figure of three denials: 14:30 and par., 72 and par. see Jn 3:38; 21:15–17. This combination of texts, visible in Mk, has been smoothed over in Mt and Lk, who have removed the first cockcrow and diminished (or eliminated, Lk) the first partial exit; it is still discernible in the separation in Jn of the first denial, 18:17, from the other two, 18:25–27.

15 a. This indication implies that the Praetorium was on high ground, which is the case with the Western Hill, where stood the palace previously belonging to Herod the Great.

b. In Mk the crowd comes to the Praetorium to ask for the release of a prisoner without any thought of Jesus. It is Pilate who turns this request to good account by suggesting the release of Jesus in order to save himself from a tricky situation; but his manoeuvre is outplayed by the chief priests, who put forward the name of Barabbas. Mt 27:17 has lost these subtleties by making Pilate himself clumsily put forward the choice between Barabbas and Jesus.

c. Alexander and Rufus were doubtless known to the circle in which Mark wrote his Gospel, see Rm 16:13.

d. 9 am, or, more vaguely, sometime between 9 am and noon.

Is 53:12 Lk 22:37 against him read, 'The King of the Jews'. ·And they crucified two bandits with him, 27
one on his right and one on his left. [c][28]

‖Mt 27:39–44 ‖Lk 23:35–37 The crucified Jesus is mocked

The passers-by jeered at him; they shook their heads and said, 'Aha! So you would 29
14:58 destroy the Temple and rebuild it in three days! ·Then save yourself; come down 30 from the cross!' ·The chief priests and the scribes mocked him among themselves 31 in the same way with the words, 'He saved others, he cannot save himself. ·Let the 32
Jn 6:30 Christ, the king of Israel, come down from the cross now, for us to see it and Lk 23:39–43 believe.' Even those who were crucified with him taunted him.

‖Mt 27:45–54 ‖Lk 23:44–47 ‖Jn 19:28–30 The death of Jesus

When the sixth hour came there was darkness over the whole land until the ninth 33
Ps 22:1 hour. ·And at the ninth hour Jesus cried out in a loud voice, 'Eloi, eloi, [d] lama 34 sabachthani?' which means, 'My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?'
When some of those who stood by heard this, they said, 'Listen, he is calling on 35
Elijah.' ·Someone ran and soaked a sponge in vinegar and, putting it on a reed, 36 gave it to him to drink saying, 'Wait! And see if Elijah will come to take him down.'
But Jesus gave a loud cry and breathed his last. ·And the veil of the Sanctuary was 37,38 torn in two from top to bottom. ·The centurion, who was standing in front of him, 39
Mt 4:3d had seen how he had died, and he said, 'In truth this man was Son of God.' [e]

‖Mt 27:55–56 ‖Lk 23:49 ‖Jn 19:25 The women on Calvary

There were some women watching from a distance. Among them were Mary of 40
6:3 Magdala, Mary who was the mother of James the younger and Joset, and Salome. [h]
These used to follow him and look after him when he was in Galilee. And many 41 other women were there who had come up to Jerusalem with him.

‖Mt 27:57–61 ‖Lk 23:50–55 ‖Jn 19:38–42 The burial

It was now evening, and since it was Preparation Day—that is, the day before the 42
Mt 27:62z Sabbath—·there came Joseph of Arimathaea, a prominent member of the Coun- 43
cil, [i] who himself lived in the hope of seeing the kingdom of God, and he boldly went to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus. ·Pilate, astonished that he should 44 have died so soon, summoned the centurion and enquired if he had been dead for some time. [j] ·Having been assured of this by the centurion, he granted the corpse 45 to Joseph ·who bought a shroud, took Jesus down from the cross, wrapped him in 46 the shroud and laid him in a tomb which had been hewn out of the rock. He then rolled a stone against the entrance to the tomb. ·Mary of Magdala and Mary the 47 mother of Joset took note of where he was laid.

‖Mt 28:1–8 ‖Lk 24:1–10 ‖Jn 20:1–2 The empty tomb. The angel's message

16 When the Sabbath was over, Mary of Magdala, Mary the mother of James, 1 and Salome, bought spices with which to go and anoint him. ·And very early 2 in the morning on the first day of the week they went to the tomb when the sun had risen. [a]

They had been saying to one another, 'Who will roll away the stone for us from 3 the entrance to the tomb?' ·But when they looked they saw that the stone—which 4 was very big—had already been rolled back. ·On entering the tomb they saw a 5 Mt 9:3 young man in a white robe seated on the right-hand side, and they were struck with amazement. ·But he said to them, 'There is no need to be so amazed. You are 6 Mt 2:23*l* looking for Jesus of Nazareth, who was crucified: he has risen, he is not here. See, here is the place where they laid him. ·But you must go and tell his disciples and 7 Peter, "He is going ahead of you to Galilee; that is where you will see him, just as he told you." ' ·And the women came out and ran away from the tomb because 8 they were frightened out of their wits; and they said nothing to anyone, [b] for they were afraid.

Appearances of the risen Christ [c] ‖Mt 28:10f

9 Having risen in the morning on the first day of the week, he appeared first to Mary Lk 8:2 ‖Jn 20:11–18
10 of Magdala from whom he had cast out seven devils. •She then went to those who Lk 24:10–11 Jn 20:18 had been his companions, and who were mourning and in tears, and told them.
11 But they did not believe her when they heard her say that he was alive and that Mt 8:10b she had seen him.

12 After this, he showed himself under another form to two of them as they were ‖Lk 24:13–35
13 on their way into the country. •These went back and told the others, who did not believe them either.

14 Lastly, he showed himself to the Eleven themselves while they were at table. He ‖Lk 24:36–49 ‖Jn 20:19–23 reproached them for their incredulity and obstinacy, because they had refused to 1 Co 15:5
15 believe those who had seen him after he had risen. •And he said to them, 'Go out 13:10 ‖Mt 28:18–20
16 to the whole world; proclaim the gospel to all creation. •Whoever believes and is Col 1:23
17 baptised will be saved; whoever does not believe will be condemned. •These are the signs that will be associated with believers: in my name they will cast out devils; Mt 10:1par. Ac 1:8k;2:4 18 they will have the gift of tongues; •they will pick up snakes in their hands and be Lk 10:19 unharmed should they drink deadly poison; they will lay their hands on the sick, Ac 28:3–6 who will recover.' 1 Tm 4:14e

19 And so the Lord Jesus, after he had spoken to them, was taken up into heaven; ‖Lk 24:50–53 ‖Ac 1:3–14; 2:33t 20 there at the right hand of God he took his place, •while they, going out, preached everywhere, the Lord working with them and confirming the word by the signs that accompanied it.

e. add. v. 28 'And the text of scriptures was fulfilled that says, "He was taken for a criminal" ' (Is 53:12). cf. Lk 22:37.

f. This is the Aramaic form elahi, transliterated eloi, perhaps under the influence of the Hebr. elohim. The form eli, given by Mt is Hebr.; it is the original text of the Psalm, and better explains the pun of the soldiers.

g. For the Roman officer, this admission would not have its full Christian content, but Mk clearly sees in it an acknowledgement that Jesus was more than a man.

h. Probably the same woman who, in Mt 27:56, is called the mother of Zebedee's sons.

i. i.e. of the Sanhedrin.

j. var. 'if he was already dead'.

16 a. var. 'just as the sun was rising'.

b. According to Mt 28:8; Lk 24:10.22seq.; Jn 20:18, they did in fact tell the news. Mark, too, may have said so in a lost ending of his Gospel (see following note); alternatively, he may have deliberately refrained from speaking of it to avoid having to append an account of the appearances which he had made up his mind to omit.

c. The 'longer ending' of Mk, vv. 9–20, is included in the canonically accepted body of inspired scripture, although some important MSS (including Vat. and Sin.) omit it, and it does not seem to be by Mk. It is in a different style, and is little more than a summary of the appearances of the risen Christ, with other material, all of which could be derived from various NT writings. One MS gives instead a shorter ending after v. 8: 'They reported briefly to Peter's companions what they had been told. Then Jesus himself through their agency broadcast from east to west the sacred and incorruptible message of eternal salvation.' Four MSS give the shorter ending and add the longer to it. One MS has the longer ending with the following insertion between vv. 14 and 15: 'And they defended themselves thus, "This age of lawlessness and unbelief is under the sway of Satan, who does not allow those under the yoke of unclean spirits to understand God's truth and power. Now, therefore, reveal your uprightness." This is what they said to Christ, and Christ answered, "The number of years allowed for Satan's authority has been reached, but other terrible things draw near. I was handed over to be killed for those who have sinned, so that they might turn to the truth and sin no more, and so inherit the spiritual and incorruptible glory of uprightness which is in heaven . . ." '

One explanation of this diversity is that Mk's original ending was lost. More probably Mk intended to finish his Gospel at v. 8; but comparison with the other gospels made the first Christian generation feel that this ending was incomplete (and also stylistically somewhat harsh). This led them to add the 'longer ending'.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO LUKE

Prologue [a]

1 Seeing that many others [b] have undertaken to draw up accounts of the events 1 that have reached their fulfilment among us, ·as these were handed down to us 2
Jn 15:27 Ac 1:8k ·Ep 3:7 by those who from the outset were eyewitnesses and ministers of the word, ·I in my 3
Ac 1:1 turn, after carefully going over the whole story from the beginning, have decided to write an ordered account for you, Theophilus, ·so that your Excellency may 4 learn how well founded the teaching is that you have received. [c]

I: THE BIRTH AND HIDDEN LIFE OF JOHN THE BAPTIST AND OF JESUS [d]

The birth of John the Baptist foretold

In the days of King Herod of Judaea there lived a priest called Zechariah who 5 1 Ch 24:10 belonged to the Abijah section of the priesthood, and he had a wife, Elizabeth by name, who was a descendant of Aaron. ·Both were upright in the sight of God 6 and impeccably carried out all the commandments and observances of the Lord.
Gn 18:11 Jg 13:2–5 1 S 1:5–6 But they were childless: Elizabeth was barren and they were both advanced in 7 years.

Now it happened that it was the turn of his section [e] to serve, and he was 8 exercising his priestly office before God ·when it fell to him by lot, as the priestly 9 custom was, to enter the Lord's sanctuary and burn incense there. [f] ·And at the 10 hour of incense all the people were outside, praying.

Mt 1:20g Then there appeared to him the angel of the Lord, standing on the right of the 11 altar of incense. ·The sight disturbed Zechariah and he was overcome with fear. [g] 12
But the angel said to him, 'Zechariah, do not be afraid, for your prayer has been 13 heard. Your wife Elizabeth is to bear you a son and you shall name him John. [h]
He will be your joy and delight and many will rejoice [i] at his birth, ·for he will be 14, 15
Nb 6:2–3 great in the sight of the Lord; he must drink no wine, no strong drink; [j] even from 1:41 Jr 1:5+ his mother's womb he will be filled with the Holy Spirit, [k] ·and he will bring back 16
many of the Israelites to the Lord their God. ·With the spirit and power of Elijah, [l] 17 Si 48:10–11 Ml 3:24–25 Mt 17:10–13e he will go before him to reconcile fathers to their children and the disobedient to the good sense of the upright, preparing for the Lord a people fit for him.' ·Zechariah 18
Gn 15:8 said to the angel, 'How can I know this? [m] I am an old man and my wife is getting on Tb 12:15 Dn 8:16;9:21 in years.' ·The angel replied, 'I am Gabriel, who stand in God's presence, and I 19
Mk 1:1a have been sent to speak to you and bring you [n] this good news. ·Look! Since you 20 Mt 8:10e did not believe my words, which will come true at their appointed time, you will be silenced and have no power of speech until this has happened.' ·Meanwhile the 21 people were waiting for Zechariah and were surprised that he stayed in the sanctuary so long. ·When he came out he could not speak to them, and they 22 realised that he had seen a vision in the sanctuary. But he could only make signs to them [o] and remained dumb.

23, 24 When his time of service came to an end he returned home. •Some time later his wife Elizabeth conceived and for five months she kept to herself, saying,
25 'The Lord has done this for me, now that it has pleased him to take away the humiliation I suffered [p] in public.'

The annunciation [q]

26 In the sixth month [r] the angel Gabriel was sent by God to a town in Galilee called 27 Nazareth, •to a virgin betrothed to a man named Joseph, of the House of David; Mt 1:18
28 and the virgin's name was Mary. •He went in and said to her, 'Rejoice, [s] you who Rt 2:4
29 enjoy God's favour! The Lord is with you.' •She was deeply disturbed by these Zp 3:14–15 Zc 2:14 30 words and asked herself what this greeting could mean, •but the angel said to her,
31 'Mary, do not be afraid; you have won God's favour. •Look! You are to conceive Is 7:14f
32 in your womb and bear a son, and you must name him Jesus. •He will be great and Mt 1:21i will be called Son of the Most High. The Lord God will give him the throne of his 33 ancestor David; •he will rule over the House of Jacob for ever and his reign will 2 S 7:1a Is 9:6
34 have no end.' [t] •Mary said to the angel, 'But how can this come about, since I have Dn 7:14 Mt 9:27m
35 no knowledge of man?' [u] •The angel answered, 'The Holy Spirit will come upon Mt 1:20 you, and the power of the Most High will cover you with its shadow. [v] And so the 36 child will be holy and will be called Son of God. •And I tell you this too: your Ac 3:14i Mt 1:24j cousin Elizabeth also, in her old age, has conceived a son, and she whom people Mk 4:3d 37, 38 called barren is now in her sixth month, •for nothing is impossible to God.' •Mary Gn 18:14 Jr 32:27 said, 'You see before you the Lord's servant, let it happen to me as you have said.' Mt 19:26 Rm 4:21
And the angel left her.

The visitation

39 Mary set out at that time and went as quickly as she could into the hill country to a

1 a. This prologue uses a classical vocabulary and construction; it is similar to the formal prefaces of contemporary Greek historians.

b. Hyperbole: understand 'several'. For the narratives known and used by Lk, see pp. 1607–8.

c. Or possibly 'that has come to your knowledge', in which case Theophilus would be not a Christian to be confirmed in the faith but some distinguished official asking for information.

d. From here till ch. 3 Lk employs the semitising Greek of the Septuagint. Biblical allusions and reminiscences are frequent, and the whole has an archaic colouring. Lk re-creates the atmosphere of the circles of the 'Poor'. see Zp 2:3d. It was in this atmosphere that his characters lived, from here that he derived his information. Lk presents the stories in a series of carefully structured little dramatic episodes, each with its own entries on stage and exits. The stories of John the Baptist and those of Jesus are presented in parallel in order to compare and contrast the two figures, their mission and their importance.

e. Each section was responsible for a week's service, see 1 Ch 24:19; 2 Ch 23:8.

f. It was the priest's duty to keep the brazier burning that stood on the altar of incense in front of the Holy of Holies; he would also supply it with fresh incense, once before the morning sacrifice, again after the evening sacrifice; see Ex 30:6–8.

g. Lk is fond of mentioning religious fear and awe: 1:29–30,65; 2:9–10; 4:36; 5:8–10,26; 7:16; 8:25,33–37,56; 9:34,43; 24:37; Ac 2:43; 3:10; 5:5,11; 10:4; 19:17.

h. The name means 'Yahweh-is-gracious'.

i. Joy is the keynote of ch. 1–2: 1:28,46,58; 2:10. Cf. also 10:17,20seq.; 13:17; 15:7,32; 19:6,37; 24:41,52; Ac 2:46jj.

j. Several OT texts lie behind this remark, especially the law of the nazirite, see Nb 6:1a.

k. This expression here, and elsewhere in Lk, does not mean the fullness of sanctifying grace, but the prophetic gift of inspiration, cf. 1:41,67; Ac 2:4; 4:8,31; 7:55; 9:17; 13:9.

l. Ml 3:23 gave rise to the expectation that Elijah would return before the messianic era and pave the way for it. John the Baptist will be 'the Elijah who is to come', see 9:30; Mt 17:10–13.

m. Zechariah asks for a 'sign', cf. Gn 15:8; Jg 6:17; Is 7:11; 38:7. But he remains sceptical.

n. First occurrence of a verb beloved of Lk, ten times in the gospel, fifteen in Ac, most often of the good news or 'gospel' of the Kingdom, see Ga 1:6d; Mk 1:1a; Ac 5:42q.

o. To give the customary blessing.

p. Barrenness was considered a humiliation, Gn 30:23; 1 S 1:5–8, and even a punishment, 2 S 6:23; Ho 9:11.

q. The presentation of this incident is inspired by several OT passages, notably the angelic promise of a child to Samson's mother, Jg 13:2–7. The dignity of the child is described by means of allusions to OT promises, especially those made to the line of David, 2 S 7:1seq.

r. i.e. of John's conception.

s. 'Rejoice' rather than simply 'hail'. It is an invitation to the joy of the Messiah, an echo of the greetings to the Daughter of Zion, and similarly motivated by the coming of God to his people; cf. Is 12:6; Jl 2:21–27; Zp 3:14–15; Zc 2:14; 9:9. • 'who enjoy God's favour', lit. 'you who have been and remain filled with the divine favour'. Add. 'Of all women you are most blessed' under the influence of 1:42.

t. The angel's words recall several OT passages referring to the Messiah.

u. The virgin Mary is only 'betrothed' (v. 27) and does not have conjugal relations (a semitic sense of 'know'). The seeming opposition between this and the promise of vv. 31–33 calls forth the explanation of v. 35. Nothing in the text suggests a vow of virginity.

v. This expression is used of the bright cloud which is a sign of God's presence, see Ex 13:22h; 19:16g; 24:16f, or of the wings which symbolise God's protective, Ps 17:8; 57:1; 140:7, and creative presence, Gn 1:2, cf. 9:34seq. In the conception of Jesus the power of the Holy Spirit is the only cause.

town in Judah. [w] •She went into Zechariah's house and greeted Elizabeth. •Now it happened that as soon as Elizabeth heard Mary's greeting, the child leapt in her 1:15 womb and Elizabeth was filled with the Holy Spirit. •She gave a loud cry and said, Jg 5:24 Jdt 13:18 'Of all women you are the most blessed, and blessed is the fruit of your womb. Why should I be honoured with a visit from the mother of my Lord? [x] •Look, the moment your greeting reached my ears, the child in my womb leapt for joy. •Yes, Jn 20:29 blessed is she who believed that the promise made her by the Lord would be fulfilled.' [y]

1 S 2:1–10 Is 29:19 The Magnificat

And Mary [z] said:

My soul proclaims the greatness of the Lord
1 S 2:1 Is 61:10 and my spirit rejoices in God my Saviour;
Hab 3:18 because he has looked upon the humiliation of his servant.
1 Tm 1:1b •1 S 1:11 •11:27 Yes, from now onwards all generations will call me blessed,
Gn 30:13 for the Almighty has done great things for me.
Ps 111:9 Holy is his name,
Ps 103:17 and his faithful love extends age after age to those who fear him.
Ps 89:10 He has used the power of his arm,
1 P 5:5+ he has routed the arrogant of heart.
Jb 5:11;12:19 He has pulled down princes from their thrones and raised high the lowly.
Ps 107:9 He has filled the starving with good things, sent the rich away empty.
Is 41:8–9 Ps 98:3 He has come to the help of Israel his servant, mindful of his faithful love
Gn 12:3;13:15; 22:18 —according to the promise he made to our ancestors—of his mercy to Abraham and to his descendants for ever.

Mary stayed with her some three months and then went home. [aa]

The birth of John the Baptist and visit of the neighbours

The time came for Elizabeth to have her child, and she gave birth to a son; •and when her neighbours and relations heard that the Lord had lavished on her his 1:14i faithful love, they shared her joy.

The circumcision of John the Baptist

Gn 17:10d Lv 12:3 Now it happened that on the eighth day they came to circumcise the child; they were going to call [bb] him Zechariah after his father, •but his mother spoke up. 'No,' she said, 'he is to be called John.' •They said to her, 'But no one in your family has that name,' •and made signs [cc] to his father to find out what he wanted
1:13 him called. •The father asked for a writing-tablet and wrote, 'His name is John.' And they were all astonished. •At that instant his power of speech returned and he
1:12g;2:20g spoke and praised God. •All their neighbours were filled with awe and the whole affair was talked about throughout the hill country of Judaea. •All those who heard of it treasured it in their hearts. 'What will this child turn out to be?' they wondered.
1:80mm And indeed the hand of the Lord was with him. [dd]

The Benedictus [ee]

His father Zechariah was filled with the Holy Spirit and spoke this prophecy: [ff]

Ps 41:13;72:18; 106:48;111:9 Blessed be the Lord, the God of Israel, for he has visited [gg] his people, he has set them free,
and he has established for us a saving power [hh]
in the House of his servant David,
just as he proclaimed,
by the mouth of his holy prophets from ancient times,
that he would save us from our enemies
and from the hands of all those who hate us,

72 and show faithful love to our ancestors, Lv 26:42 and so keep in mind his holy covenant. Ps 105:8–9
Jr 11:5
73 This was the oath he swore Mi 7:20
to our father Abraham, 74 that he would grant us, free from fear, to be delivered from the hands of our enemies, Gn 22:16–18 75 to serve him in holiness and uprightness in his presence, all our days.
76 And you, little child, you shall be called Prophet of the Most High, Mt 16:14c for you will go before the Lord [ii] 1:16–17 to prepare a way for him, Is 40:3
Ml 3:1
77 to give his people knowledge of salvation through the forgiveness of their sins, [jj] 78 because of the faithful love [kk] of our God in which the rising Sun [ll] has come from on high to visit us, Zc 3:8
Ml 3:20i
79 to give light to those who live Is 9:1;42:7
in darkness and the shadow dark as death, Jn 8:12b and to guide our feet into the way of peace. Is 11:6e Jr 6:1f

The hidden life of John the Baptist

80 Meanwhile the child grew up and his spirit grew strong. [mm] And he lived in the desert until the day he appeared openly to Israel. 3:1–18

The birth of Jesus and visit of the shepherds

1 2 Now it happened that at this time Caesar Augustus [a] issued a decree that a
2 census should be made of the whole inhabited world. 2 This census—the first [b]— 3 took place while Quirinius was governor of Syria, 3 and everyone went to be 4 registered, each to his own town. 4 So Joseph set out from the town of Nazareth in Galilee for Judaea, to David's town called Bethlehem, since he was of David's 1 S 16:1–13
Jn 7:42

w. Commonly identified with Ain Karim, about 4 m (about 6.5 km) west of the Old City of Jerusalem.

x. Divine title of the risen Jesus, Ac 2:36w; Ph 2:11p, which Lk gives him already in his earthly life more often than Mt and Mk: 7:13; 10:1,39,41; 11:39.

y. 'the Lord', i.e. God. • Or 'And blessed are you who have believed, because what has been promised to you by the Lord will be fulfilled.'

z. Not 'Elizabeth', a var. with only slight MS support. • Mary's canticle is reminiscent of Hannah's, 1 S 2:1–10, and of many other OT passages, e.g. Ps 113:7–9. Apart from the main textual similarities noted in the margin there are two characteristic OT ideas: 1 God comes to the help not of the rich and powerful but of the poor and the simple, Zp 2:3d, compare Mt 5:3c. 2 Ever since Abraham received the promises, Gn 15:1a; 17:1a, Israel has been God's favoured one, see Dt 7:6b. Lk must have found this canticle in the circles of the 'Poor', where it was perhaps attributed to the Daughter of Zion. He found it suitable to bring into his prose narrative and put on the lips of Mary.

aa. It would be likely that Mary stayed with Elizabeth until John's birth and circumcision, but Lk's habit is to round off one episode before passing to the next, cf. 1:64 and 67; 3:19–20; 8:37–38.

bb. The name was normally given when the child was circumcised, see 2:21.

cc. Perhaps he is deaf as well as dumb; the same Greek word can be used for either condition.

dd. i.e. protected him: a biblical expression, Jr 26:24; Ac 11:21.

ee. Like the Magnificat, this canticle is a poem which Lk has drawn from elsewhere to put on Zechariah's lips, adding vv. 76–77 to adapt it to the context. He has added it after the prose account, v. 64, rather than in the course of it.

ff. In the full sense of the term, because Zechariah not only utters a hymn of thanksgiving (vv. 68–75) but also foresees the future (vv. 76–79).

gg. As often in the OT, Ex 3:16h, God's visitation is understood in the NT uniquely in a favourable sense, 1:78; 7:16; 19:44; 1 P 2:12.

hh. lit. 'a horn of', see Ps 75:4c.

ii. i.e. God, as in 1:16–17, not the Messiah.

jj. Lk depicts the function of the Precursor with the help of texts applied to him by tradition, see 3:4seq.; 7:27seq. He makes his message accord with that of the apostles in Acts, see Ac 2:38; 5:31; 10:43; 13:38; 26:18.

kk. 'faithful love', lit. 'bowels of mercy'. • 'will bring'; var. 'has brought'; 'has come'; var. 'will come'.

ll. Or 'star that heralds the day', cf. Nb 24:17; Is 60:1; Ml 3:20, and Shoot which springs from the stock of David, cf. Jr 23:5; 33:15; Zc 3:8; 6:12.

mm. A kind of refrain: 2:40,52; cf. 1:66.

2 a. Roman emperor from 30 BC to AD 14.

b. The first of a series. The translation sometimes given, 'This census preceded that which was held when Quirinius was governor of Syria' is difficult to justify grammatically. The historical circumstances are little known. Most scholars put the census of Quirinius in AD 6, but the only authority for this is Josephus who is doubtfully reliable in this matter, see Ac 5:37n. The most probable explanation is that the census, which was made with a view to taxation, began in Palestine even before Herod's death, as early as 8–6 BC as part of a general census of the empire, and that Quirinius concluded it in AD 6, as Josephus says. This census, which in fact took place over a considerable period, was then known by the name of this important personality. Jesus was born certainly before Herod's death (4 BC), possibly in 8–6 BC. The 'Christian era', established by Dionysius Exiguus (sixth century), is the result of a false calculation, see 3:1a.

House and line, ·in order to be registered together with Mary, his betrothed, who 5 was with child. ·Now it happened that, while they were there, the time came for 6
Mt 1:25 her to have her child, ·and she gave birth to a son, her first-born.[c] She wrapped 7 him in swaddling clothes and laid him in a manger because there was no room for them in the living-space.[d] ·In the countryside close by there were shepherds out in 8
Ex 24:16f Tb 5:4b the fields keeping guard over their sheep during the watches of the night. ·An angel 9 Mt 1:20g of the Lord stood over them and the glory of the Lord shone round them. They 1:12g were terrified, ·but the angel said, 'Do not be afraid. Look, I bring you news of 10
1:14i great joy, a joy to be shared by the whole people. ·Today in the town of David a 11
Mt 1:21 Saviour has been born to you; he is Christ the Lord.[e] ·And here is a sign for you: 12
·1:18m Is 9:5b you will find a baby wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger.' ·And all 13 at once with the angel there was a great throng of the hosts of heaven, praising God with the words:

Ezk 3:12 19:38 Glory to God in the highest heaven, 14
and on earth peace for those he favours.[f]

Now it happened that when the angels had gone from them into heaven, the 15 shepherds said to one another, 'Let us go to Bethlehem and see this event which the Lord has made known to us.' ·So they hurried away and found Mary and 16
Is 1:3 Joseph, and the baby lying in the manger. ·When they saw the child they repeated 17 what they had been told about him, ·and everyone who heard it was astonished at 18 2:51 what the shepherds said to them. ·As for Mary, she treasured all these things and 19 pondered them in her heart. ·And the shepherds went back glorifying and praising 20
God[g] for all they had heard and seen, just as they had been told.

1:59bb The circumcision of Jesus

When the eighth day came and the child was to be circumcised, they gave him the 21 1:31 Mt 1:21i name Jesus, the name the angel had given him before his conception.

Jesus is presented in the Temple

Lv 12:2–4 And when the day came for them to be purified[h] in keeping with the Law of Moses, 22
they took him up to Jerusalem to present him to the Lord—·observing what is 23 Ex 13:2;13:11b written in the Law of the Lord: Every first-born male must be consecrated to the Lord—·and also to offer in sacrifice, in accordance with what is prescribed in the 24
Lv 5:7;12:8 Law of the Lord, a pair of turtledoves or two young pigeons.[i] ·Now in Jerusalem 25 there was a man named Simeon. He was an upright and devout man; he looked Is 40:1a;Is 42:1 forward to the restoration of Israel and the Holy Spirit rested on him. ·It had been 26 revealed to him by the Holy Spirit that he would not see death until he had set eyes Ex 30:22d on the Christ of the Lord.[j] ·Prompted by the Spirit he came to the Temple; and 27
when the parents brought in the child Jesus to do for him what the Law required, 2:20g he took him into his arms and blessed God; and he said: 28

The Nunc Dimittis

Now, Master, you are letting your servant go in peace 29
as you promised;
Is 52:10;46:13 for my eyes have seen the salvation 30 which you have made ready in the sight of the nations; 31
Is 42:6;49:6 Jn 8:12b a light of revelation for the gentiles 32 and glory for your people Israel.[k]

The prophecy of Simeon

As the child's father and mother were wondering at the things that were being said 33 about him, ·Simeon blessed them and said to Mary his mother, 'Look, he is 34 7:23;12:51–53 destined for the fall and for the rise of many in Israel, destined to be a sign that is Jr 15:10 Jn 3:19,9:39; 19:25–27 opposed[l]—·and a sword will pierce your soul too[m]—so that the secret thoughts of 35 many may be laid bare.'

The prophecy of Anna

36 There was a prophetess [n], too, Anna the daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Asher.
She was well on in years. Her days of girlhood over, she had been married for 37 seven years ·before becoming a widow. She was now eighty-four years old and Jdt 8:4–5 1 Tm 5:5 38 never left the Temple, serving God night and day with fasting and prayer. ·She came up just at that moment and began to praise God; and she spoke of the child 2:20g to all who looked forward to the deliverance of Jerusalem. [o]

The hidden life of Jesus at Nazareth

39 When they had done everything the Law of the Lord required, they went back to 40 Galilee, to their own town of Nazareth. ·And as the child grew to maturity, he was Mt 2:23 ·1:80mm filled with wisdom; and God's favour was with him.

Jesus among the doctors of the Law

41 Every year his parents used to go to Jerusalem for the feast of the Passover. Ex 12:1a Dt 16:16
42, 43 When he was twelve years old, they went up for the feast as usual. ·When the days of the feast were over and they set off home, the boy Jesus stayed behind in 44 Jerusalem without his parents knowing it. ·They assumed he was somewhere in the party, and it was only after a day's journey that they went to look for him among 45 their relations and acquaintances. ·When they failed to find him they went back to Jerusalem looking for him everywhere.
46 It happened that, three days later, [p] they found him in the Temple, sitting among 47 the teachers, listening to them, and asking them questions; ·and all those who 48 heard him were astounded at his intelligence and his replies. ·They were over- 4:22 Jn 7:15,16 come when they saw him, and his mother said to him, 'My child, why have you done this to us? See how worried your father and I have been, looking for you.'
49 He replied, 'Why were you looking for me? Did you not know that I must be in my 50 Father's house?' [q] ·But they did not understand what he meant. Jn 2:16;14:2 Mk 4:13c

The hidden life at Nazareth resumed

51 He went down with them then and came to Nazareth and lived under their

c. In biblical Greek, the term does not necessarily imply younger brothers but emphasises the dignity and rights of the child.

d. Rather than 'inn' (pandocheion, 10:34) the Greek word kataluma can mean a room, 22:11par.; 1 S 1:18; 9:22, where Joseph's family lived. If Joseph's home was at Bethlehem this would explain why he returned there with his pregnant young wife for the census. The manger where the animals ate was presumably fixed on a wall of the poor habitation, which was so crowded that there was no better place for the child. A pious legend has embellished this manger with two animals, see Is 1:3; Hab 3:2e.

e. So he is the Messiah awaited; but he will be 'Lord', a title which the OT meticulously reserved for God. A new era is about to begin, see 1:43x.

f. The traditional translation 'peace to men of good will', based on the Vulgate, among other versions, does not render the usual sense of the Greek term. Another version, also less probable is 'peace on earth and God's favour towards men'.

g. A favourite theme of Lk: 1:64; 2:28,38; 5:25–26; 7:16; 13:13; 17:15,18; 18:43; 19:37; 23:47; 24:53. Cf. Ac 2:47*ll*.

h. Only the mother needed to be purified; the child, however, had to be 'redeemed'. Lk is careful to note that the parents of Jesus, like the Baptist's, observed all that the Law required. The presentation of the child in the sanctuary was not prescribed but was possible, Nb 18:15, and must have seemed fitting to religious people, cf. 1 S 1:24–28. Lk centres his story on the first cultic act of Jesus, in the holy city to which he attaches great importance as the location of the Easter event and the starting-point of the Christian mission. See 2:38*o*; Ac 1:4e.

i. Offering of the poor.

j. 'the Christ of the Lord' is the one whom the Lord anoints, see Ex 30:22d, i.e. consecrates for a saving mission; the king of Israel, God's chosen prince, is thus consecrated and thus, pre-eminently, the Messiah who is to establish the kingdom of God.

k. Unlike Magnificat and Benedictus this canticle seems to have been written by Lk himself, using especially texts from Isaiah. After a first triplet about Simeon and his approaching death, a second triplet characterises the universal salvation brought by Jesus the Messiah: light brought to the gentile world which forms one element in the chosen people, and which will bring glory to the chosen people.

l. Jesus' mission of light to the gentile world will bring hostility and persecution from his own people, see Mt 2:1a.

m. As the true Daughter of Zion, Mary will herself bear the sorrowful destiny of her race. With her Son she will be at the centre of this contradiction, where secret thoughts will be laid bare, for or against Jesus. The symbol of the sword may be inspired by Ezk 14:17, or alternatively Zc 12:10.

n. A woman dedicated to God and the qualified interpreter of his intentions. Cf. Ex 15:20; Jg 4:4; 2 K 22:14.

o. The messianic deliverance of the chosen people, 1:68; 24:21, primarily affected their capital city: cf. Is 40:2; 52:9 (and see 2 S 5:9f). For Lk, Jerusalem is God's chosen centre from which will spread his salvation: 9:31,51,53; 13:22,33; 17:11; 18:31; 19:11; 24:47–49,52; Ac 1:8*l*.

p. For Lk, the 'finding' of Jesus 'after three days' 'in the house of his Father' may be intended as prefiguring the events of Easter.

q. Alternative translation 'be busy with my Father's affairs'. In either case Jesus affirms, in Joseph's presence, v. 48, that God is his Father, cf. 10:22; 22:29; Jn 20:17, and claims a relationship to him which surpasses human family ties, see Jn 2:4. This is the first manifestation of his consciousnesss of being 'the Son', see Mt 4:3d.

2:19 authority. His mother stored up all these things in her heart. ·And Jesus increased 52
·1:80mm in wisdom, in stature, and in favour with God and with people.
1 S 2:26
Pr 3:4

II: PRELUDE TO THE PUBLIC MINISTRY OF JESUS

The proclamation of John the Baptist

||Mt 3:1–12
||Mk 1:1–8

3 In the fifteenth year of Tiberius Caesar's reign,[a] when Pontius Pilate[b] was 1 governor of Judaea, Herod[c] tetrarch of Galilee, his brother Philip[d] tetrarch of the territories of Ituraea and Trachonitis, Lysanias[e] tetrarch of Abilene, ·and while 2 Jr 1:2 the high-priesthood was held by Annas and Caiaphas,[f] the word of God came to
Ho 1:1
1:80 John the son of Zechariah, in the desert. ·He went through the whole Jordan area 3
Mt 3:2c proclaiming a baptism of repentance for the forgiveness of sins, ·as it is written in 4 the book of the sayings of Isaiah the prophet:

Is 40:3–5 A voice of one that cries in the desert:
=Jn 1:23 Prepare a way for the Lord,
make his paths straight!
Let every valley be filled in, 5 every mountain and hill be levelled, winding ways be straightened and rough roads made smooth, and all humanity will see the salvation of God.[g] 6

He said, therefore, to the crowds who came to be baptised by him, 'Brood of 7 vipers, who warned you to flee from the coming retribution? ·Produce fruit in 8 keeping with repentance, and do not start telling yourselves, "We have Abraham Jn 8:39k as our father," because, I tell you, God can raise children for Abraham from these stones. ·Yes, even now the axe is being laid to the root of the trees, so that any tree 9 failing to produce good fruit will be cut down and thrown on the fire.'

Ac 2:37 [h]When all the people asked him, 'What must we do, then?' ·he answered, 10. 11 12:33d 'Anyone who has two tunics must share with the one who has none, and anyone
Is 58:7
Mt 5:46u with something to eat must do the same.' ·There were tax collectors, too, who 12 came for baptism, and these said to him, 'Master, what must we do?' ·He said to 13 them, 'Exact no more than the appointed rate.' ·Some soldiers asked him in their 14 turn, 'What about us? What must we do?' He said to them, 'No intimidation! No extortion! Be content with your pay!'

A feeling of expectancy had grown among the people, who were beginning to 15
Jn 1:19–20,26, 33;3:28 wonder whether John might be the Christ, ·so John declared before them all, 'I 16
Jn 1:26,27,33 baptise you with water, but someone is coming, who is more powerful than me, Ac 1:5e;13:25 and I am not fit to undo the strap of his sandals; he will baptise you with the Holy Spirit and fire. ·His winnowing-fan is in his hand, to clear his threshing-floor and to 17 gather the wheat into his barn; but the chaff he will burn in a fire that will never go out.' ·And he proclaimed the good news to the people with many other exhorta- 18 tions too.

John the Baptist imprisoned

||Mt 14:3–12
||Mk 6:17–29

But Herod the tetrarch, censured by John for his relations with his brother's wife 19
Herodias and for all the other crimes he had committed, ·added a further crime to 20 all the rest by shutting John up in prison.

Jesus is baptised

||Mt 3:13–17
||Mk 1:9–11

Now it happened that when all the people had been baptised and while Jesus after 21
Jn 1:32–34 his own baptism was at prayer,[i] heaven opened ·and the Holy Spirit descended on 22
Ps 2:7 him in a physical form, like a dove. And a voice came from heaven, 'You are my Son; today have I fathered you.'[k]

The ancestry of Jesus [l]

‖Mt 1:1–17

23 When he began, Jesus was about thirty years old, being the son, as it was thought,
24 of Joseph son of Heli, ·son of Matthat, son of Levi, son of Melchi, son of Jannai, Mt 13:55
25 son of Joseph, ·son of Mattathias, son of Amos, son of Nahum, son of Esli, son 26 of Naggai, ·son of Maath, son of Mattathias, son of Semein, son of Josech, son of 27 Joda, ·son of Joanan, son of Rhesa, son of Zerubbabel, son of Shealtiel, son of 28, 29 Neri, ·son of Melchi, son of Addi, son of Cosam, son of Elmadam, son of Er, ·son 30 of Jesus, son of Eliezer, son of Jorim, son of Matthat; son of Levi, ·son of Symeon, 31 son of Judah, son of Joseph, son of Jonam, son of Eliakim, ·son of Melea, son of 32 Menna, son of Mattatha, son of Nathan, son of David, ·son of Jesse, son of Obed, 33 son of Boaz, son of Sala, son of Nahshon, ·son of Amminadab, son of Admin, son 34, 35 of Arni, son of Hezron, son of Perez, son of Judah, ·son of Jacob, son of Isaac, son of Abraham, son of Terah, son of Nahor, son of Serug, son of Reu, son of Peleg, 36 son of Eber, son of Shelah, ·son of Cainan, son of Arphaxad, son of Shem, son of 37 Noah, son of Lamech ·son of Methuselah, son of Enoch, son of Jared, son of 38 Mahalaleel, son of Cainan, ·son of Enos, son of Seth, son of Adam, son of God.

Testing in the desert [a]

‖Mt 4:1–11
‖Mk 1:12–13

1 4 Filled with the Holy Spirit, [b] Jesus left the Jordan and was led by the Spirit into 2 the desert, ·for forty days being put to the test by the devil. During that time he 3 ate nothing and at the end he was hungry. ·Then the devil said to him, 'If you are 4 Son of God, tell this stone to turn into a loaf.' ·But Jesus replied, 'Scripture says: Dt 8:3

Human beings live not on bread alone.'

5 Then leading him to a height, the devil showed him in a moment of time all the 6 kingdoms of the world ·and said to him, 'I will give you all this power and their Rv 13:2,4 splendour, for it has been handed over to me, for me to give it to anyone I choose. [c] Jr 27:5 7, 8 Do homage, then, to me, and it shall all be yours.' ·But Jesus answered him,
'Scripture says: Dt 6:13

You must do homage to the Lord your God, him alone you must serve.'

3 a. Here, as in 1:5 and 2:1–3, Lk dates his narrative by secular events. Tiberius succeeded Augustus, 2:1, on 19 August AD 14. The 15th year, therefore, is from AD 19 August 28 to AD 18 August 29. Alternatively, if the Syrian method of calculating the year of a reign is being followed, the 15th year is from AD Sept.–Oct. 27 to AD Sept.–Oct. 28. At that time, Jesus was at least 33 years old, possibly 35 or 36. The indication of v. 23 is approximate, and perhaps it means only that Jesus was old enough to exercise a public ministry. The mistake in calculating the 'Christian era' results from taking the 'thirty years' of 3:23 as an exact figure: the 15th year of Tiberius was 782 'after the foundation of Rome'; Dionysius Exiguus subtracted 29 full years from this, thus arriving at 753 for the beginning of our era. Actually, it should have been 750 or even 746.

b. Procurator of Judaea (including Idumaea and Samaria) AD 26–36.

c. The Herod referred to is Herod Antipas, son of Herod the Great and Malthace; he was tetrarch of Galilee and Peraea from 4 BC to AD 39.

d. Son of Herod the Great and Cleopatra, tetrarch from 4 BC to AD 34.

e. Known from two inscriptions. Abilene was in Anti-Lebanon.

f. The high priest in office was Joseph, called Caiaphas; he held this position from AD 18–36, and played a leading part in the plot against Jesus, see Mt 26:3; Jn 11:49; 18:14. His father-in-law, Annas, who had been high priest from AD 6 (?) to 15, is associated with him and even named first, see Jn 18:13,24 and Ac 4:6, as if his influence was such that he was high priest in all but name.

g. Mk, followed by Mt, ends the quotation from Is 40 at the end of the third line. Lk continues it to include the specific promise of universal salvation.

h. Vv. 10–14, which are in Lk alone, stress the positive human element in John's message. No profession is excluded from salvation, but justice and charity are essential.

i. Lk finishes with John's ministry before passing to that of Jesus, see 1:56aa. He makes no more than a brief allusion to John's death, 9:7–9.

j. Jesus at prayer is a favourite theme of Lk, see 5:16; 6:12; 9:18,28–29; 11:1; 22:41.

k. The var. 'You are my Son, the beloved; my favour rests on you' is probably a harmonisation with the text of Mk and Mt. The voice from heaven in Lk probably did not originally contain Mt's and Mk's reference to Is 42, but referred to Ps 2:7. Rather than seeing Jesus as the 'servant', it presents him as the King-Messiah of the Ps, enthroned at the Baptism to establish the rule of God in the world.

l. By tracing the ancestry of Jesus further back than Abraham, to Adam, Lk gives his genealogy a more universalist character than that of Mt. Descended from Adam and similarly without a human father, 1:35, Jesus inaugurates a new era for the human race. Lk perhaps follows Paul in thinking of the New Adam, Rm 5:12g. For the relation between the two very different genealogies, see Mt 1:1a.

4 a. Lk combines Mk's data (40 days of being put to the test) with Matthew's (three temptations at the end of 40 days' fast). He changes Mt's order so as to end with Jerusalem: see 2:38*o*. On the nature of this being put to the test, see Mt 4:1a.

b. Lk's interest in the Holy Spirit is evident not only from his first two chapters, 1:15,35,41,67,80; 2:25,26,27, but also from the remainder of the Gospel in which, on several occasions, he adds a mention of the Spirit to the other synoptic passages, 4:1,14,18; 10:21; 11:13. In Ac also Lk very frequently speaks of the Spirit, Ac 1:8j.

c. By bringing into the world sin and its consequence, death, Ws 2:24t; Rm 5:12h, Satan has made the human race his prisoner, Mt 8:29k; Ga 4:3b; Col 2:8d. He has extended over the world, of which he has become the 'Prince', Jn 12:31i, a dominion which Jesus came to overturn by his 'redemption', Mt 20:28g; Rm 3:24j; 6:15g; Col 1:13–14; 2:15m. See also Jn 3:35t; Ep 2:1–6; 6:12d; 1 Jn 2:14; Rv 13:1–8; 19:19–21.

Then he led him to Jerusalem and set him on the parapet of the Temple. 'If you 9 are Son of God,' he said to him, 'throw yourself down from here, ·for scripture 10 says:

Ps 91:11–12 He has given his angels orders about you, to guard you
and again:
They will carry you in their arms in case you trip over a stone.' 11

Dt 6:16 But Jesus answered him, 'Scripture says: 12
Do not put the Lord your God to the test.'

22:3,53 Jn 13:2,27 Having exhausted every way of putting him to the test,[d] the devil left him, until 13 the opportune moment.

III: THE GALILEAN MINISTRY

Mt 3:16n;4:12 17,23 ‖Mk 1:14–15,39 =4:44 Jesus begins to preach

Jesus, with the power of the Spirit in him, returned to Galilee; and his reputation 14 spread throughout the countryside.[e] ·He taught in their synagogues and everyone 15 glorified him.[f]

‖Mt 13:53–58 ‖Mk 6:1–6 2:39,51 Jesus at Nazareth

He came to Nazara,[g] where he had been brought up, and went into the synagogue 16 on the Sabbath day as he usually did. He stood up to read,[h] ·and they handed him 17 the scroll of the prophet Isaiah. Unrolling the scroll he found the place where it is written:

Mt 3:16n Is 61:1–2 The spirit of the Lord is on me, 18
for he has anointed me
Zp 2:3d to bring the good news to the afflicted.[i]
He has sent me to proclaim liberty to captives, sight to the blind,
to let the oppressed go free,
to proclaim a year of favour from the Lord. 19

He then rolled up the scroll, gave it back to the assistant and sat down. And all 20
Ac 6:15 eyes in the synagogue were fixed on him. ·Then he began to speak to them, 'This 21
2:47;4:15f Jn 7:46 text is being fulfilled today even while you are listening.' ·And he won the approval 22 of all, and they were astonished by the gracious words that came from his lips.

They said, 'This is Joseph's son, surely?' ·But he replied, 'No doubt you will 23 quote me the saying, "Physician, heal yourself," and tell me, "We have heard all that happened in Capernaum,[j] do the same here in your own country." ' ·And he 24
Jn 4:44 went on, 'In truth I tell you, no prophet is ever accepted in his own country.

1 K 17:1;18:1 Jm 5:17 'There were many widows in Israel, I can assure you, in Elijah's day, when 25 heaven remained shut for three years and six months and a great famine raged throughout the land, ·but Elijah was not sent to any one of these: he was sent to a 26 1 K 17:9 widow at Zarephath, a town in Sidonia. ·And in the prophet Elisha's time there 27 were many suffering from virulent skin-diseases in Israel, but none of these was,
2 K 5:14 cured—only Naaman the Syrian.'

Ac 7:57seq. When they heard this everyone in the synagogue was enraged. ·They sprang to 28, 29 their feet and hustled him out of the town; and they took him up to the brow of the Jn 8:59 hill their town was built on, intending to throw him off the cliff, ·but he passed 30 straight through the crowd and walked away.

‖Mk 1:21–28 Jesus teaches in Capernaum and cures a demoniac

He went down to Capernaum, a town in Galilee, and taught them on the Sabbath. 31 ‖Mt 7:28–29 And his teaching made a deep impression on them because his word carried 32 authority.

Mt 8:29k In the synagogue there was a man possessed by the spirit of an unclean devil, 33 and he shouted at the top of his voice, ·'Ha! What do you want with us, Jesus of 34

Nazareth? Have you come to destroy us? I know who you are: the Holy One of Mt 2:23*f* 35 God.' •But Jesus rebuked it, saying, 'Be quiet! Come out of him!' And the devil, •Mk 1:24j Jn 6:69 throwing the man into the middle, went out of him without hurting him at all. Ac 3:14i 36 Astonishment seized them and they were all saying to one another, 'What is it in 1:12g his words? He gives orders to unclean spirits with authority and power and they Mt 8:29k 37 come out.' •And the news of him travelled all through the surrounding countryside. 4:14h

Cure of Simon's mother-in-law ‖Mt 8:14–15 ‖Mk 1:29–31

38 Leaving the synagogue he went to Simon's house. Now Simon's mother-in-law was 39 in the grip of a high fever and they asked him to do something for her. •Standing over her he rebuked the fever and it left her. And she immediately got up and ‖Mt 8:16–17 ‖Mk 1:32–34 began to serve them.

A number of cures 13:33 1 Tm 4:14e

40 At sunset all those who had friends suffering from diseases of one kind or another Mt 8:29k
41 brought them to him, and laying his hands on each he cured them. •Devils too Mt 4:3d Mk 1:34m came out of many people, shouting, 'You are the Son of God.' But he warned them ‖Mk 1:35–39 and would not allow them to speak because they knew that he was the Christ.

Dawn departure from Capernaum and travels through Judaea

42 When daylight came he left the house and made his way to a lonely place. The crowds went to look for him, and when they had caught up with him they wanted to Mk 1:38n 43 prevent him from leaving them, •but he answered, 'I must proclaim the good news of the kingdom of God to the other towns too, because that is what I was sent to 44 do.' •And he continued his proclamation in the synagogues of Judaea. [k]

The first four disciples are called [a] ‖Mt 4:18–22 ‖Mk 1:16–20 Jn 1:40–42

1 5 Now it happened that he was standing one day by the Lake of Gennesaret, 2 with the crowd pressing round him listening to the word of God, •when he Mk 4:1
caught sight of two boats at the water's edge. The fishermen had got out of them Mk 1:16,19 3 and were washing their nets. •He got into one of the boats—it was Simon's [b]—and Mk 4:1–2 asked him to put out a little from the shore. Then he sat down and taught the crowds from the boat.

4 When he had finished speaking he said to Simon, 'Put out into deep water and Jn 21:1–6
5 pay out your nets for a catch.' •Simon replied, 'Master, we worked hard all night 8:24,45; 9:33; 17:13
6 long and caught nothing, but if you say so, I will pay out the nets.' •And when they Mt 8:10b had done this they netted such a huge number of fish that their nets began to tear, Mt 8:3a 7 so they signalled to their companions in the other boat to come and help them;
when these came, they filled both boats to sinking point.

8 When Simon Peter saw this he fell at the knees of Jesus saying, 'Leave me, Lord; Ex 33:20i
9 I am a sinful man.' •For he and all his companions were completely awestruck at 1:12g

d. Rather than 'finished all the temptations'.

e. One of Lk's recurrent motifs: 4:37; 5:15; 7:17; see, for similar examples, 1:80mm; Ac 2:41cc; 6:7.

f. Another favourite theme of Lk: the people admiring and praising Jesus: 4:22; 8:25; 9:43; 11:27; 13:17; 19:48, related to the previous refrain 4:14e, the theme of praise to God 2:20g, and of religious awe, 1:12g.

g. The crowd's sudden change from admiration, v. 22^a, to animosity, v. 22^b, 28seq., is astonishing. The anomaly is probably the product of its literary evolution. A first story recounted a visit to the synagogue at the beginning of Jesus' ministry, cf. Mk 1:21seq., at Nazareth, cf. Mt 4:13, using the form Nazara, as here in Lk 4:16; this was crowned with success. This story was later taken up again, added to and placed later in Jesus' life, Mt 13:53–58; Mk 6:1–6, to express the misunderstanding and rejection which followed the early acceptance by the people. From this complex text Lk has painted an admirable picture, restrained at the beginning of the ministry, of an inaugural scene in which, with symbolic foreshortening, he depicts Jesus' mission of grace and the rejection by his people.

h. The director of a synagogue could authorise any adult Jew to read and expound the scripture in public.

i. add. 'to heal the broken-hearted', see LXX.

j. i.e. the miracles of which Lk does not speak until after the visit to Nazareth, 4:33. See note g above.

k. Mk reads 'Galilee'. Lk uses 'Judaea' in the wide sense: the land of Israel. Also in 7:17; 23:5; Ac 10:37; 28:21.

5 a. In this narrative, Lk has combined: 1 A topographical note and an incident about Jesus' preaching, vv. 1–3; this section resembles Mk 1:16,19 and 4:1–2. 2 The episode of the miraculous catch, vv. 4–10^a, which is like that of Jn 21:1–6. 3. The call of Simon, vv. 10^b–11, which is related to Mk 1:17,20. Lk's purpose in placing a period of teaching and miracles before the call of the first disciples was to make their unhesitating response less surprising.

b. In Lk 5:8 Simon does not receive the name Peter until 6:14. This is an anticipation, Johannine in character (as the miraculous catch of fish?), for, apart from this instance in Lk and Mt 16:16, the expression 'Simon Peter' occurs only in Jn—17 times.

the catch they had made; ·so also were James and John, sons of Zebedee, who 10 were Simon's partners. ᶜ But Jesus said to Simon, 'Do not be afraid; from now on it Mk 1:17.20 Jn 21:15–17.19 is people you will be catching.' ·Then, bringing their boats back to land they left 11 ·12:33d everything and followed him.

‖Mt 8:1–4 ‖Mk 1:40–45 Cure of a man suffering from a virulent skin-disease

Now it happened that Jesus was in one of the towns when suddenly a man 12 appeared, covered with a skin-disease. Seeing Jesus he fell on his face and implored him saying, 'Sir, if you are willing you can cleanse me.' ·He stretched out his hand, 13 and touched him saying, 'I am willing. Be cleansed.' At once the skin-disease left Mk 1:34m him. ·He ordered him to tell no one, 'But go and show yourself to the priest and 14 Lv 14:1–32 make the offering for your cleansing just as Moses prescribed, as evidence to them.'

4:14e But the news of him kept spreading, and large crowds would gather to hear 15 him and to have their illnesses cured, ·but he would go off to some deserted place 16 3:21j and pray.

‖Mt 9:1–8 ‖Mk 2:1–12 Cure of a paralytic

Now it happened that he was teaching one day, and Pharisees and teachers of the 17
Law, who had come from every village in Galilee, from Judaea and from Jerusalem, were sitting there. And the power of the Lord[d] was there so that he should heal. ·And now some men appeared, bringing on a bed a paralysed man whom 18 they were trying to bring in and lay down in front of him. ·But as they could find no 19 way of getting the man through the crowd, they went up onto the top of the house and lowered him and his stretcher down through the tiles[e] into the middle of the Mt 8:10b gathering, in front of Jesus. ·Seeing their faith he said, 'My friend, your sins are 20
Mt 2:4d;3:7f forgiven you.' ·The scribes and the Pharisees began to think this over. 'Who is this 21
Jn 2:25 man, talking blasphemy? Who but God alone can forgive sins?' ·But Jesus, aware 22 of their thoughts, made them this reply, 'What are these thoughts you have in your hearts? ·Which of these is easier: to say, "Your sins are forgiven you," or to say, 23
"Get up and walk"? ·But to prove to you that the Son of man has authority on 24 earth to forgive sins,'—he said to the paralysed man—'I order you: get up, and pick up your stretcher and go home.' ·And immediately before their very eyes he 25 got up, picked up what he had been lying on and went home praising God.

2:20g 1:12g They were all astounded and praised God and were filled with awe, saying, 'We 26 have seen strange things today.'

‖Mt 9:9 ‖Mk 2:13–14 The call of Levi

When he went out after this, he noticed a tax collector, Levi by name, sitting at the 27
12:33d tax office, and said to him, 'Follow me.' ·And leaving everything Levi got up and 28 followed him.

‖Mt 9:10–12 ‖Mk 2:15–17 Eating with sinners in Levi's house

In his honour Levi held a great reception in his house, and with them at table was 29
Mt 5:46u a large gathering of tax collectors and others. ·The Pharisees and their scribes 30
Mt 2:4d;3:7f ·Mt 9:10e complained to his disciples and said, 'Why do you eat and drink with tax collectors and sinners?' ·Jesus said to them in reply, 'It is not those that are well who need the 31 doctor, but the sick. ·I have come to call not the upright but sinners to repentance.' 32

Discussion on fasting

They then said to him, 'John's disciples are always fasting and saying prayers, and 33
the disciples of the Pharisees, too, but yours go on eating and drinking.' ·Jesus 34 replied, 'Surely you cannot make the bridegroom's attendants fast while the bridegroom is still with them? ·But the time will come when the bridegroom is 35 taken away from them; then, in those days, they will fast.'

He also told them a parable, 'No one tears a piece from a new cloak to put it on 36 an old cloak; otherwise, not only will the new one be torn, but the piece taken from the new will not match the old.

37 'And nobody puts new wine in old wineskins; otherwise, the new wine will burst 38 the skins and run to waste, and the skins will be ruined. ·No; new wine must be put 39 in fresh skins. ·And nobody who has been drinking old wine wants new. "The old is good," he says.'[f] Jn 3:19 Jn 2:10

Picking corn on the Sabbath

‖Mt 12:1–8 ‖Mk 2:23–28

1 6 It happened that one Sabbath he was walking through the cornfields, and his disciples were picking ears of corn, rubbing them in their hands and eating
2 them. ·Some of the Pharisees said, 'Why are you doing something that is forbidden
3 on the Sabbath day?' ·Jesus answered them, 'So you have not read what David did
4 when he and his followers were hungry—·how he went into the house of God and took the loaves of the offering and ate them and gave them to his followers, loaves Ex 25:23j
5 which the priests alone are allowed to eat?' ·And he said to them, 'The Son of man is master of the Sabbath.'[a]

Cure of the man with a withered hand

‖Mt 12:9–16 ‖Mk 3:1–6 13:10–17;14:1–6

6 Now on another Sabbath he went into the synagogue and began to teach, and a 7 man was present, and his right hand was withered. ·The scribes and the Pharisees were watching him to see if he would cure somebody on the Sabbath, hoping to 8 find something to charge him with. ·But he knew their thoughts; and he said to the Jn 1:48dd man with the withered hand, 'Get up and stand out in the middle!' And he came 9 forward and stood there. ·Then Jesus said to them, 'I put it to you: is it permitted
10 on the Sabbath to do good, or to do evil; to save life, or to destroy it?' ·Then he looked round at them all and said to the man, 'Stretch out your hand.' He did so, 11 and his hand was restored. ·But they were furious and began to discuss the best 11:53p way of dealing with Jesus.

The choice of the Twelve

‖Mt 10:1–4 ‖Mk 3:13–19

12 Now it happened in those days that he went onto the mountain to pray; and he 13 spent the whole night in prayer to God. ·When day came he summoned his 3:21j
14 disciples and picked out twelve of them; he called them 'apostles':[b] ·Simon whom ‖Ac 1:13 he called Peter, and his brother Andrew; James, John, Philip, Bartholomew, 15, 16 Matthew, Thomas, James son of Alphaeus, Simon called the Zealot, ·Judas son of James,[c] and Judas Iscariot who became a traitor.

The crowds follow Jesus

‖Mt 4:24–25 ‖Mk 3:7–12

17 He then came down with them and stopped at a piece of level ground where there was a large gathering of his disciples, with a great crowd of people from all parts of 18 Judaea and Jerusalem and the coastal region of Tyre and Sidon ·who had come to hear him and to be cured of their diseases. People tormented by unclean spirits
19 were also cured, ·and everyone in the crowd was trying to touch him because power came out of him that cured them all. 5:17;8:46 Mk 5:30b

c. The 'companions' of v. 7. Andrew is not mentioned because he is in Simon's boat (note the plural pronouns in vv. 5,6,7) which is in the centre of Luke's picture.

d. i.e. God, cf. Ac 2:22; 10:38.

e. The Palestinian terrace of Mk 2:4 has become in Lk the roof of a Greco-Roman house.

f. The 'new wine' Jesus provides is not appreciated by those who have drunk the old wine of the Law. This last remark, which comes only in Lk, perhaps reflects the experience of Lk, the disciple of Paul, who knew the difficulties of the mission to the Jews, see Ac 13:5e.

6 a. One MS here adds an interesting, but probably spurious, dictum: 'On the same day, seeing a man working on the Sabbath day, he said to him: "Friend, if you know what you are doing, you are blessed; but if you do not know, you are accursed as a breaker of the Law."'

b. Apostle means 'someone sent'. The term, already known in the Jewish and Greek worlds, came in Christianity to mean missionaries 'sent', see Ac 22:21i, as witnesses of Christ, his life, death and resurrection, Ac 1:8k, primarily the Twelve, Mk 3:14c (in Acts the term is used only of them), but also of a wider circle of disciples, see Rm 1:1b, who are mentioned in the first place in the list of charisms, cf. 1 Co 12:28; Ep 4:11. Possibly the name of apostle was given to the missionaries only by the earliest community, though Jesus certainly sent his disciples on missions, first to the villages of Galilee, 9:6 and, after his resurrection, to the whole world, 24:47; Ac 1:8; see also Jn 3:11f; 4:34k.

c. lit. 'Judas of James', which could mean 'brother of James'. See Mt 10:2b.

Is 65:13–14 The first sermon. [d] The Beatitudes [e]

|Mt 5:1 Then fixing his eyes on his disciples he said: 20

|Mt 5:3 How blessed are you who are poor: the kingdom of God is yours.
|Mt 5:6 Blessed are you who are hungry now: you shall have your fill. 21
|Mt 5:5 Blessed are you who are weeping now: you shall laugh.

|Mt 5:11–12 'Blessed are you when people hate you, drive you out, abuse you, denounce 22
your name as criminal, on account of the Son of man. ·Rejoice when that day 23 comes and dance for joy, look!—your reward will be great in heaven. This was the way their ancestors treated the prophets.

Is 5:8–25 Hab 2:6seq. The curses

But alas for you who are rich: you are having your consolation now. 24
Alas for you who have plenty to eat now: you shall go hungry. 25
Pr 14:13 Alas for you who are laughing now: you shall mourn and weep.

'Alas for you when everyone speaks well of you! This was the way their ancestors 26 treated the false prophets.

Love of enemies

Pr 25:21,22 |Mt 5:44 1 P 3:9 '|Mt 5:39–40 12:33d |Mt 5:42 Tb 4:15 |Mt 7:12 |Mt 5:46 14:12–14 Si 4:11 |Mt 5:45

'But I say this to you who are listening: Love your enemies, do good to those who 27 hate you, ·bless those who curse you, pray for those who treat you badly. ·To 28, 29 anyone who slaps you on one cheek, present the other cheek as well; to anyone who takes your cloak from you, do not refuse your tunic. ·Give to everyone who 30 asks you, and do not ask for your property back from someone who takes it. ·Treat 31 others as you would like people to treat you. ·If you love those who love you, what 32 credit can you expect? Even sinners love those who love them. ·And if you do good 33 to those who do good to you, what credit can you expect? For even sinners do that much. ·And if you lend to those from whom you hope to get money back, what 34 credit can you expect? Even sinners lend to sinners to get back the same amount.
Instead, love your enemies and do good to them, and lend without any hope of 35 return. [f] You will have a great reward, and you will be children of the Most High, for he himself is kind to the ungrateful and the wicked.

Compassion and generosity

Ex 34:6–7 |Mt 7:1 |Mt 7:2 |Mk 4:24

'Be compassionate just as your Father is compassionate. ·Do not judge, and you 36, 37 will not be judged; do not condemn, and you will not be condemned; forgive, and you will be forgiven. ·Give, and there will be gifts for you: a full measure, pressed 38 down, shaken together, and overflowing, will be poured into your lap; [g] because the standard you use will be the standard used for you.'

Integrity

|Mt 15:14 |Mt 10:24–25 Jn 13:16;15:20 |Mt 12:33–35 |Mt 7:16–18

He also told them a parable, 'Can one blind person guide another? Surely both will 39 fall into a pit? [h] ·Disciple is not superior to teacher; but fully trained disciple will 40 be like teacher. ·Why do you observe the splinter in your brother's eye and never 41 notice the great log in your own? ·How can you say to your brother, "Brother, let 42 me take out that splinter in your eye," when you cannot see the great log in your own? Hypocrite! Take the log out of your own eye first, and then you will see clearly enough to take [i] out the splinter in your brother's eye.

'There is no sound tree that produces rotten fruit, nor again a rotten tree that 43 produces sound fruit. ·Every tree can be told by its own fruit: people do not pick 44 figs from thorns, nor gather grapes from brambles. ·Good people draw what is 45 good from the store of goodness in their hearts; bad people draw what is bad from the store of badness. For the words of the mouth flow out of what fills the heart.

The true disciple

46 'Why do you call me, "Lord, Lord" and not do what I say? ‖Mt 7:21
47 'Everyone who comes to me[j] and listens to my words and acts on them—I will ‖Mt 7:24–27
48 show you what such a person is like. ·Such a person is like the man who, when he built a house, dug, and dug deep, and laid the foundations on rock; when the river was in flood it bore down on that house but could not shake it, it was so well built.
49 But someone who listens and does nothing is like the man who built a house on soil, with no foundations; as soon as the river bore down on it, it collapsed; and what a ruin that house became!'

Cure of the centurion's servant

‖Mt 8:5–10,13
‖Jn 4:46–54?

1 When he had come to the end of all he wanted the people to hear, he went into
2 Capernaum. ·A centurion there had a servant, a favourite of his, who was sick
3 and near death. ·Having heard about Jesus he sent some Jewish elders[a] to him to 4 ask him to come and heal his servant. ·When they came to Jesus they pleaded 5 earnestly with him saying, 'He deserves this of you, ·because he is well disposed 6 towards our people;[b] he built us our synagogue himself.' ·So Jesus went with them, 12:33d and was not very far from the house when the centurion sent word to him by some friends to say to him, 'Sir, do not put yourself to any trouble because I am not 7 worthy to have you under my roof; ·and that is why I did not presume to come to 8 you myself; let my boy be cured by your giving the word.[c] ·For I am under authority myself, and have soldiers under me; and I say to one man, "Go," and he goes; to another, "Come here," and he comes; to my servant, "Do this," and he 9 does it.' ·When Jesus heard these words he was astonished at him and, turning round, said to the crowd following him, 'I tell you, not even in Israel have I found 10 faith as great as this.' ·And when the messengers got back to the house they Mt 8:10b found the servant in perfect health.

The son of the widow of Nain restored to life[d]

11 It happened that soon afterwards he went to a town called Nain, accompanied by 12 his disciples and a great number of people. ·Now when he was near the gate of the town there was a dead man being carried out, the only son of his mother, and she was a widow. And a considerable number of the townspeople was with her.
13, 14 When the Lord saw her he felt sorry for her and said to her, 'Don't cry.' ·Then he 1:43k went up and touched the bier and the bearers stood still, and he said, 'Young man, 15 I tell you: get up.' ·And the dead man sat up and began to talk, and Jesus gave him Mt 8:3a
16 to his mother. ·Everyone was filled with awe and glorified God saying, 'A great 1 K 17:23 •1:12g;2:20g
17 prophet has risen up among us; God has visited his people.' ·And this view of him Mt 16:14c 1:68gg;4:14e spread throughout Judaea and all over the countryside. 4:44k

The Baptist's question. Jesus commends him

‖Mt 11:2–15

18 The disciples of John gave him all this news, and John, summoning two of his 19 disciples, ·sent them to the Lord to ask, 'Are you the one who is to come, or are 20 we to expect someone else?' ·When the men reached Jesus they said, 'John the Baptist has sent us to you to ask, "Are you the one who is to come or are we to

d. Luke's form is shorter than Matthew's because he has not filled out the discourse, as Mt has done, with additional sayings on allied subjects: and he has not included much material, notably about the Law, which would not interest non-Jewish readers, see Mt 5:1a.

e. Mt has eight beatitudes, Lk four, and four maledictions. Mt intends them as a pattern of the new life which will bring heavenly rewards; in Lk, the blessings and the curses both speak of material conditions in this life to be reversed in the next, e.g. in 16:25. In Mt, Jesus uses the third person, in Lk he directly addresses his audience.

f. The text is difficult and the translation conj. var. 'driving no one to despair' or 'despairing of no one' or 'not at all despairing'.

g. Folds in the tunic or cloak were used as a pocket or as a bag for provisions.

h. Addressed, in Lk, to the disciples; in Mt 15:14, to the Pharisees. The same applies to vv. 43–45.

i. Or 'and then you will see how to take'.

j. A Johannine expression, see Jn 6:35k.

7 a. Local worthies, not to be confused with the Jerusalem 'elders' who were members of the Sanhedrin.

b. Evidently a gentile in sympathy with Judaism, like Cornelius, Ac 10:1–2a.

c. var. 'and my boy will be cured'.

d. Lk only. The episode leads up to the reply of Jesus to John's disciples, 7:22.

expect someone else?" ' •At that very time he cured many people of diseases and 21 afflictions and of evil spirits, and gave the gift of sight to many who were blind.
Then he gave the messengers their answer, 'Go back and tell John what you have 22
Is 26:19;35; 5–6;42:7;61:1 seen and heard: the blind see again, the lame walk, those suffering from virulent skin-diseases are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised to life, the good news is proclaimed to the poor; •and blessed is anyone who does not find me a 23 2:34*l* cause of falling.'

When John's messengers had gone he began to talk to the people about John, 24
'What did you go out into the desert to see? A reed swaying in the breeze? No! 25 Then what did you go out to see? A man dressed in fine clothes? Look, those who go in magnificent clothes and live luxuriously are to be found at royal courts!
Then what did you go out to see? A prophet? Yes, I tell you, and much more 26 than a prophet: •he is the one of whom scripture says: 27

Ml 3:1 Look, I am going to send my messenger in front of you to prepare your way before you.

'I tell you, of all the children born to women, there is no one greater than John; 28
yet the least in the kingdom of God is greater than he.' •All the people who heard 29 ‖Mt 21:31–32 him, and the tax collectors too, acknowledged God's saving justice by accepting baptism from John; •but by refusing baptism from him the Pharisees and the 30 lawyers thwarted God's plan for them.

‖Mt 11:16–19 Jesus condemns his contemporaries

'What comparison, then, can I find for the people of this generation? What are 31 they like? •They are like children shouting to one another while they sit in the 32 market place:

We played the pipes for you,
and you wouldn't dance;
we sang dirges,
and you wouldn't cry.

'For John the Baptist has come, not eating bread, not drinking wine, and you 33 say, "He is possessed." •The Son of man has come, eating and drinking, and you 34 say, "Look, a glutton and a drunkard, a friend of tax collectors and sinners." •Yet 35
Jn 6:35k wisdom is justified by all her children.'[e]

The woman who was a sinner[f]

11:37;14:1 One of the Pharisees invited him to a meal. When he arrived at the Pharisee's 36 house and took his place at table, •suddenly a woman came in, who had a bad name 37 in the town. She had heard he was dining with the Pharisee and had brought with her an alabaster jar of ointment. •She waited behind him at his feet, weeping, and 38 her tears fell on his feet, and she wiped them away with her hair; then she covered his feet with kisses and anointed them with the ointment.

When the Pharisee who had invited him saw this, he said to himself, 'If this man 39
Mt 16:14c Jn 4:18–19 were a prophet, he would know who this woman is and what sort of person it is who is touching him and what a bad name she has.' •Then Jesus took him up and 40 said, 'Simon, I have something to say to you.' He replied, 'Say on, Master.'
'There was once a creditor who had two men in his debt; one owed him five 41 hundred denarii, the other fifty. •They were unable to pay, so he let them both off. 42
Which of them will love him more?' •Simon answered, 'The one who was let off 43 more, I suppose.' Jesus said, 'You are right.'

Then he turned to the woman and said to Simon, 'You see this woman? I came 44 into your house, and you poured no water over my feet, but she has poured out her tears over my feet and wiped them away with her hair. •You gave me no kiss, but 45
she has been covering my feet with kisses ever since I came in.[g] •You did not 46
Ps 23:5c anoint my head with oil, but she has anointed my feet with ointment. •For this 47 reason I tell you that her sins, many as they are, have been forgiven her, because she has shown such great love. [h] It is someone who is forgiven little who shows little Mt 21:31

48, 49 love.' •Then he said to her, 'Your sins are forgiven.' •Those who were with him at Mt 9:2b
50 table began to say to themselves, 'Who is this man, that even forgives sins?' •But he said to the woman, 'Your faith has saved you; go in peace.'

The women accompanying Jesus

1 8 Now it happened that after this he made his way through towns and villages 4:43–44 preaching and proclaiming the good news of the kingdom of God. With him ‖Mt 4:23;9:35
‖Mk 1:39
2 went the Twelve, •as well as certain women who had been cured of evil spirits and Mt 8:29k ailments: Mary surnamed the Magdalene, from whom seven demons had gone out, 3 Joanna the wife of Herod's steward Chuza, Susanna, and many others who 23:49;24:10 provided for them out of their own resources. Mt 27:55–56
Mk 15:40–41
Jn 19:25

Parable of the sower ‖Mt 13:1–9
‖Mk 4:1–9

4 With a large crowd gathering and people from every town finding their way to him, he told this parable:
5 'A sower went out to sow his seed. Now as he sowed, some fell on the edge of the 6 path and was trampled on; and the birds of the air ate it up. •Some seed fell on 7 rock, and when it came up it withered away, having no moisture. •Some seed fell in 8 the middle of thorns and the thorns grew with it and choked it. •And some seed fell Jr 4:3–4 into good soil and grew and produced its crop a hundredfold.' Saying this he cried, 'Anyone who has ears for listening should listen!'

Why Jesus speaks in parables ‖Mt 13:10–11,13
9, 10 His disciples asked him what this parable might mean, •and he said, 'To you is ‖Mk 4:10–12 granted to understand the secrets of the kingdom of God; for the rest it remains in parables, so that they may look but not perceive, listen but not understand. Is 6:9

The parable of the sower explained ‖Mt 13:18–23
‖Mk 4:14–20

11, 12 'This, then, is what the parable means: the seed is the word of God. •Those on the edge of the path are people who have heard it, and then the devil comes and carries 13 away the word from their hearts in case they should believe and be saved. •Those Mt 8:10b on the rock are people who, when they first hear it, welcome the word with joy.
But these have no root; they believe for a while, and in time of trial they give up.
14 As for the part that fell into thorns, this is people who have heard, but as they go on their way they are choked by the worries and riches and pleasures of life and 21:34 15 never produce any crops. •As for the part in the rich soil, this is people with a noble and generous heart who have heard the word and take it to themselves and yield a harvest through their perseverance.

Parable of the lamp ‖Mk 4:21–22

16 'No one lights a lamp to cover it with a bowl or to put it under a bed. No, it is put on =11:33
17 a lamp-stand so that people may see the light when they come in. •For nothing is ‖Mt 5:15
Jn 8:12b
hidden but it will be made clear, nothing secret but it will be made known and =12:2
‖Mt 10:26

e. var. 'by her actions', see Mt 11:19h. The children of Wisdom, i.e., of the all-wise God, appreciate and welcome God's works.

f. Lk only. This episode is not the same as the anointing of the Lord's head at Bethany, Mt 26:6–13 and par., although versions of that incident may well have influenced some of the details of the narrative here. There is no reason to identify the sinful woman with Mary of Magdala, 8:2, and still less with Mary, sister of Martha, 10:39; Jn 11:1,2,5; 12:2–3.

g. var. 'ever since she came in'.

h. In the first part of this verse, love seems to be the cause of forgiveness, in the second its effect. This paradox reflects the composite nature of the pericope. In vv. 37–38, 44–46 the woman's actions express a great love which earns her forgiveness, whence the conclusion 47[a]. But in vv. 40–43 a parable has been inserted whose lesson is the opposite: greater forgiveness brings greater love, whence the conclusion 47[b].

=19:26 ‖Mt 13:12;25:29 ‖Mk 4:24–25
brought to light. ·So take care how you listen; anyone who has, will be given more; 18 anyone who has not, will be deprived even of what he thinks he has.'

‖Mt 12:46–50 ‖Mk 3:31–35
The true family of Jesus [a]

His mother and his brothers came looking for him, but they could not get to him 19 because of the crowd. ·He was told, 'Your mother and brothers are standing 20 11:27–28 outside and want to see you.' ·But he said in answer, 'My mother and my brothers 21 are those who hear the word of God and put it into practice.'

‖Mt 8:18,23–27 ‖Mk 4:35–41
The calming of the storm

It happened that one day he got into a boat with his disciples and said to them, 'Let 22 us cross over to the other side of the lake.' So they set out, ·and as they sailed he 23 fell asleep. When a squall of wind came down on the lake the boat started shipping water and they found themselves in danger. ·So they went to rouse him saying, 24 5:5;8:45;9:33; 17:13 'Master! Master! We are lost!' Then he woke up and rebuked the wind and the rough water; and they subsided and it was calm again. ·He said to them, 'Where is 25 Mt 8:10b 1:12g;4:15f your faith?' They were awestruck and astounded and said to one another, 'Who can this be, that gives orders even to winds and waves and they obey him?'

‖Mt 8:28–34 ‖Mk 5:1–20
The Gerasene demoniac

They came to land in the territory of the Gerasenes, [b] which is opposite Galilee. 26
He was stepping ashore when a man from the city who was possessed by devils 27 came towards him; for a long time the man had been living with no clothes on, not in a house, but in the tombs.

Catching sight of Jesus he gave a shout, fell at his feet and cried out at the top of 28 4:34 Mt 4:3a his voice, 'What do you want with me, Jesus, son of the Most High God? I implore you, do not torture me.' ·For Jesus had been telling the unclean spirit to come out 29 of the man. It had seized on him a great many times, and then they used to secure him with chains and fetters to restrain him, but he would always break the fastenings, and the devil would drive him out into the wilds. ·Jesus asked him, 30
'What is your name?' He said, 'Legion'—because many devils had gone into him.
And these begged him not to order them to depart into the Abyss. [c] 31

Now there was a large herd of pigs feeding there on the mountain, and the devils 32 begged him to let them go into these. So he gave them leave. ·The devils came out 33 of the man and went into the pigs, and the herd charged down the cliff into the lake and was drowned.

When the swineherds saw what had happened they ran off and told their story in 34
the city and in the country round about; ·and the people went out to see what had 35 happened. When they came to Jesus they found the man from whom the devils had gone out sitting at the feet of Jesus, [d] wearing clothes and in his right mind; and they were afraid. ·Those who had witnessed it told them how the man who had 36 been possessed came to be saved. ·The entire population of the Gerasene territory 37 1:12g was in great fear and asked Jesus to leave them. So he got into the boat and went back.

The man from whom the devils had gone out asked to be allowed to stay with 38 him, but he sent him away saying, ·'Go back home and report all that God has 39 done for you.' So the man went off and proclaimed throughout the city all that Jesus had done for him.

‖Mt 9:18–26 ‖Mk 5:21–43
Cure of the woman with a haemorrhage. Jairus' daughter raised to life

On his return Jesus was welcomed by the crowd, for they were all there waiting for 40 him. ·And suddenly there came a man named Jairus, who was president of the 41 synagogue. He fell at Jesus' feet and pleaded with him to come to his house, because he had an only daughter about twelve years old, who was dying. And 42
the crowds were almost stifling Jesus as he went.

Now there was a woman suffering from a haemorrhage for the past twelve years, 43 whom no one had been able to cure.[e] •She came up behind him and touched the fringe of his cloak; and the haemorrhage stopped at that very moment. •Jesus said, 'Who was it that touched me?' When they all denied it, Peter said, 'Master, it is the crowds round you, pushing.' •But Jesus said, 'Somebody touched me. I felt that power had gone out from me.' •Seeing herself discovered, the woman came forward trembling, and falling at his feet explained in front of all the people why she had touched him and how she had been cured at that very moment. •'My daughter,' he said, 'your faith has saved you; go in peace.'

5:5;8:24;9:33; 17:13
6:19+

While he was still speaking, someone arrived from the house of the president of the synagogue to say, 'Your daughter has died. Do not trouble the Master any further.' •But Jesus heard this, and he spoke to the man, 'Do not be afraid, only have faith and she will be saved.' •When he came to the house he allowed no one to go in with him except Peter and John and James,[f] and the child's father and mother. •They were all crying and mourning for her, but Jesus said, 'Stop crying; she is not dead, but asleep.' •But they ridiculed him, knowing she was dead. •But taking her by the hand himself he spoke to her, 'Child, get up.' •And her spirit returned and she got up at that very moment. Then he told them to give her something to eat. •Her parents were astonished, but he ordered them not to tell anyone what had happened.

Mt 8:10b
1:12g
Mk 1:34m

The mission of the Twelve

‖Mt 10:1,5,8, 9–14
‖Mk 6:7–13

He called the Twelve[a] together and gave them power and authority over all devils and to cure diseases, •and he sent them out to proclaim the kingdom of God and to heal. •He said to them, 'Take nothing for the journey: neither staff, nor haversack, nor bread, nor money; and do not have a spare tunic. •Whatever house you enter, stay there; and when you leave let your departure be from there. As for those who do not welcome you, when you leave their town shake the dust from your feet as evidence against them.' •So they set out and went from village to village proclaiming the good news and healing everywhere.

Mt 8:3a;8:29k
10:7
Ac 9:43;16:15; 17:7;18:3
Ac 13:51

Herod and Jesus[b]

‖Mt 14:1–2
‖Mk 6:14–16

Meanwhile Herod the tetrarch had heard about all that was going on; and he was puzzled, because some people were saying that John had risen from the dead, others that Elijah had reappeared, still others that one of the ancient prophets had come back to life. •But Herod said, 'John? I beheaded him. So who is this I hear such reports about?' And he was anxious to see him.

9:19
23:8–12

The return of the apostles. Miracle of the loaves[c]

‖Mt 14:13–21
‖Mk 6:30–44
‖Jn 6:1–13

On their return the apostles gave him an account of all they had done. Then he took them with him and withdrew towards a town called Bethsaida where they could be by themselves. •But the crowds got to know and they went after him. He 8 a. Lk has taken this passage out of its context in Mk 3:31–35 to serve as a conclusion to this small section on the parables; hence he modifies v. 21 (cf. Mk 3:35) to match v. 15.

Mk 6:45

b. var. 'Gergesenes', 'Gadarenes'.

c. In place of Mark's 'send them out of the district', Mk 5:10. The demons beseech Jesus not to send them back to the depths of the earth, their usual dwelling-place and ultimate home, Rv 9:1,2,11; 11:7; 17:8; 20:1,3.

d. As a disciple sits, see 10:39; Ac 22:3. Lk alone adds this detail.

e. var. 'a woman who, having spent all she had on doctors, could be cured by no one', cf. Mk 5:26.

f. See Mk 5:37d. Here, however, as in 9:28; Ac 1:13, John is named immediately after Peter. This coupling of John with Peter is common to Lk, 22:8; Ac 3:1,3,11; 4:13,19; 8:14, and the fourth gospel, Jn 13:23–26; 18:15–16; 20:3–9; 21:7,20–23.

9 a. add. 'apostles'.

b. Lk does not record the Baptist's death; instead, he prepares the reader ('he was anxious to see him') for the subsequent meeting of Herod with Jesus, 23:8–12.

c. Lk, as Jn, gives only one multiplication of loaves, while Mt and Mk have two. Possibly Lk has omitted or did not know the whole section Mk 6:45–8:26 which contains the second multiplication. But more probably he is avoiding a reduplication of Mk and Mt, where the two stories of the multiplication of loaves do indeed seem to be parallel versions of the same event, one issuing from a Palestinian milieu (western shore of the lake, see Mt 14:13d; twelve baskets, corresponding to the twelve tribes of Israel), the other issuing from a gentile milieu (eastern shore, see Mk 7:31; seven baskets, corresponding to the seven gentile nations of Canaan before the conquest, Dt 7:1; Ac 13:19); see also Mt 14:13c.

made them welcome and talked to them about the kingdom of God; and he cured those who were in need of healing.

It was late afternoon when the Twelve came up to him and said, 'Send the people 12 away, and they can go to the villages and farms round about to find lodging and food; for we are in a lonely place here.' •He replied, 'Give them something to eat 13 yourselves.' But they said, 'We have no more than five loaves and two fish, unless we are to go ourselves and buy food for all these people.' •For there were about 14 five thousand men. But he said to his disciples, 'Get them to sit down in parties of about fifty.' •They did so and made them all sit down. •Then he took the five loaves 15, 16 Mk 7:34 and the two fish, raised his eyes to heaven, and said the blessing over them; then he Jn 11:41;17:1+ broke them and handed them to his disciples to distribute among the crowd. •They 17 all ate as much as they wanted, and when the scraps left over were collected they filled twelve baskets.

‖Mt 16:13–20 Peter's profession of faith [d]
‖Mk 8:27–30
Jn 6:67–69 Now it happened that he was praying alone, and his disciples came to him and he 18
3:21j put this question to them, 'Who do the crowds say I am?' •And they answered, 19 9:7–8 'Some say John the Baptist; others Elijah; others again one of the ancient prophets come back to life.' •'But you,' he said to them, 'who do you say I am?' It was Peter 20
2:26j;23:35 who spoke up. 'The Christ of God,' he said. •But he gave them strict orders and 21 Mk 1:34m charged them not to say this to anyone.

‖Mt 16:21 First prophecy of the Passion [e]
‖Mk 8:31
He said, 'The Son of man is destined to suffer grievously, to be rejected by the 22 elders and chief priests and scribes and to be put to death, and to be raised up on the third day.'

=14:27 The condition of following Christ
‖Mt 10:38;16:24–27
‖Mk 8:34–38 Then, speaking to all, he said, 'If anyone wants to be a follower of mine, let him 23
Jn 12:26 renounce himself and take up his cross every day and follow me. •Anyone who 24
=17:33 wants to save his life will lose it; but anyone who loses his life for my sake, will save
‖Mt 10:39 it. •What benefit is it to anyone to win the whole world and forfeit or lose his very 25
‖Jn 12:25 self? •For if anyone is ashamed of me and of my words, of him the Son of man will 26 =12:9 be ashamed when he comes in his own glory and in the glory of the Father and the ‖Mt 10:33 holy angels.

‖Mt 16:28n The kingdom will come soon
‖Mk 9:1
'I tell you truly, there are some standing here who will not taste death before they 27
see the kingdom of God.'

‖Mt 17:1–9 The transfiguration [f]
‖Mk 9:2–10
8:51 Now about eight days after this had been said, he took with him Peter, John and 28
3:21j James and went up the mountain to pray. •And it happened that, as he was 29
24:16d praying, the aspect of his face was changed and his clothing became sparkling
24:4 white. •And suddenly there were two men talking to him; they were Moses and 30
Ac 1:10 Jn 13:1b Elijah [g] •appearing in glory, and they were speaking of his passing which he was to 31
2:38o accomplish in Jerusalem. •Peter and his companions were heavy with sleep, but 32
22:45 they woke up [h] and saw his glory and the two men standing with him. •As these 33
•Jn 1:14n were leaving him, Peter said to Jesus, 'Master, it is wonderful for us to be here; so 5:5;8:24,45;17:13 let us make three shelters, one for you, one for Moses and one for Elijah.' He did not know what he was saying. •As he was saying this, a cloud came and covered 34 1:12g,35v them with shadow; and when they went into the cloud the disciples were afraid.
Jn 1:34 And a voice came from the cloud saying, 'This is my Son, the Chosen 35
One. [i] Listen to him.' •And after the voice had spoken, Jesus was found alone. The 36 9:21 disciples kept silence and, at that time, told no one what they had seen.

The epileptic demoniac

‖Mt 17:14–18
‖Mk 9:14–27

37 Now it happened that on the following day when they were coming down from the 38 mountain a large crowd came to meet him. ·And suddenly a man in the crowd cried out. 'Master,' he said, 'I implore you to look at my son: he is my only child.
39 A spirit will suddenly take hold of him, and all at once it gives a sudden cry and throws the boy into convulsions with foaming at the mouth; it is slow to leave him, 40 but when it does, it leaves the boy worn out. ·I begged your disciples to drive it
41 out, and they could not.' ·In reply Jesus said, 'Faithless and perverse generation! Ac 2:40
How much longer must I be among you and put up with you? Bring your son here.'
42 Even while the boy was coming, the devil threw him to the ground in convulsions.
But Jesus rebuked the unclean spirit and cured the boy and gave him back to his 7:15
43 father, ·and everyone was awestruck by the greatness of God. 4:15f

Second prophecy of the Passion

‖Mt 17:22
‖Mk 9:30–32
·4:15f

But while everyone was full of admiration for all he did, he said to his disciples, 44 'For your part, you must have these words constantly in mind: The Son of man is 9:22e
45 going to be delivered into the power of men.' ·But they did not understand what he Mk 4:13b said; it was hidden from them so that they should not see the meaning of it, and they were afraid to ask him about it.

Who is the greatest?[j]

=Lk 22:24
‖Mt 18:1–5
‖Mk 9:33–37

46, 47 An argument started between them about which of them was the greatest. ·Jesus knew what thoughts were going through their minds, and he took a little child 48 whom he set by his side ·and then he said to them, 'Anyone who welcomes this =10:16 little child in my name welcomes me; and anyone who welcomes me, welcomes the ‖Mt 10:40 one who sent me. The least among you all is the one who is the greatest.' ‖Jn 13:20 14:11:22:26

On using the name of Jesus

‖Mk 9:38–40

49 John spoke up. 'Master,' he said, 'we saw someone driving out devils in your name, Ac 3:16*l*
50 and because he is not with us we tried to stop him.'[k] ·But Jesus said to him, 'You must not stop him: anyone who is not against you is for you.' Mt 12:30p

IV: THE JOURNEY TO JERUSALEM[l]

A Samaritan village is inhospitable

51 Now it happened that as the time drew near for him to be taken up,[m] he resolutely Mt 19:1
Mk 10:1
2:38*o*;22:8

d. Even without the Matthaean addition, 'son of God', see Mt 16:16d, this confession of Peter, speaking in the name of the apostles, is of crucial significance as a turning-point in the earthly career of Jesus. While the crowd cannot grasp his significance and becomes progressively alienated, his disciples recognise for the first time explicitly that he is Messiah, see 2:26j. Henceforth Jesus is going to concentrate on forming this little nucleus of believers and on purifying their faith.

e. This prophecy is to be followed by several others, 9:44; 12:50; 17:25; 18:31–33. Cf. 24:7,25–27. • Lk omits Peter's protest and his rebuke by Jesus, Mk 8:32seq.

f. Certain of the details in this account of the Transfiguration are peculiar to Lk and not found in Mk or Mt. Whereas in Mk it is the revelation of the hidden Messiah as the consummation of the Law and the Prophets, and for Mt it is the manifestation of the new and greater Moses, for Lk the Transfiguration is also a personal experience of Jesus, in the course of earnest prayer, in which he clearly sees the 'passing' (exodus) which he is to accomplish in Jerusalem. These differences have led some commentators to suggest that Lk had a separate and additional tradition to draw on.

g. Since Moses and Elijah are named only to identify the 'two men' mentioned in the first place, it may be that in Lk's source these were two angels, cf. 24:4; Ac 1:10, who were sustaining and strengthening Jesus, cf. Lk 22:43. On the significance of Moses and Elijah in Mt's tradition, see Mt 17:1a.

h. Or 'kept awake'. This irresistible sleep of the disciples occurring only in Lk, recalls that of Gethsemane, 22:45, which is more natural and from which it could be derived.

i. var. 'the Beloved', see Mt and Mk. • The titles 'Chosen One', cf. 23:35; Is 42:1, and 'Son of man' alternate in the Parables of Enoch.

j. The answer to this question is given in v. 48[b]. The saying which makes up 48[a], is apparently taken from another context, cf. Mt 10:40.

k. var. 'we stopped him'.

l. From 9:51–18:14, Lk deserts Mk. Assembling material he has found in the Collection (see Intro. to Synoptic Gospels, pp. 1601–2, 1607) which also served Mt, together with information from his own special source, Lk arranges all within the literary framework of a journey to Jerusalem (9:53,57; 10:1; 13:22,33; 17:11; see 2:38*o*).

m. lit. 'for his taking up'. This 'assumption' of Jesus, cf. 2 K 2:9–11; Mk 16:19; Ac 1:2,10–11; 1 Tm 3:16, refers to the last days of his suffering life (Passion, death) and the beginning of his glory (resurrection, ascension). Jn, thinking more theologically, uses the word 'glorify' in connection with the whole of this period, Jn 7:39; 12:16,23; 13:31seq.; for him the crucifixion is a 'lifting up', Jn 12:32j.

turned his face towards Jerusalem ·and sent messengers ahead of him. These set 52 out, and they went into a Samaritan village to make preparations for him, ·but the 53 people would not receive him because he was making for Jerusalem. [n] ·Seeing this, 54 2 K 1:10 the disciples James and John said, 'Lord, do you want us to call down fire from heaven to burn them up?' [o] ·But he turned and rebuked them, [p] ·and they went on 55, 56 to another village.

‖Mt 8:18–22 Hardships of the apostolic calling

As they travelled along they met a man on the road who said to him, 'I will follow 57 you wherever you go.' ·Jesus answered, 'Foxes have holes and the birds of the air 58 have nests, but the Son of man has nowhere to lay his head.'
14:26,33 Another to whom he said, 'Follow me,' replied, [q] 'Let me go and bury my father 59 first.' ·But he answered, 'Leave the dead to bury their dead; [r] your duty is to go 60 and spread the news of the kingdom of God.'
1 K 19:19–21 Another said, 'I will follow you, sir, but first let me go and say good-bye to my 61 people at home.' ·Jesus said to him, 'Once the hand is laid on the plough, no one 62
Ph 3:13 who looks back is fit for the kingdom of God.'

9:1–2 The mission of the seventy-two disciples [a]

Ex 24:1 10 After this the Lord appointed seventy-two [b] others and sent them out ahead 1 of him [c] in pairs, to all the towns and places he himself would be visiting.
‖Mt 9:37–38 And he said to them, 'The harvest is rich but the labourers are few, so ask the 2
Lord of the harvest to send labourers to do his harvesting. ·Start off now, but look, 3
‖Mt 10:16 I am sending you out like lambs among wolves. ·Take no purse with you, no 4 ·=9:3–5
Mt 10:9–15 haversack, no sandals. Salute no one on the road. ·Whatever house you enter, let 5 ‖Mk 6:8–11 your first words be, "Peace to this house!" ·And if a man of peace lives there, [d] 6 your peace will go and rest on him; if not, it will come back to you. ·Stay in the 7 1 Tm 5:18 same house, taking what food and drink they have to offer, for the labourer deserves his wages; do not move from house to house. ·Whenever you go into a 8 ‖Mt 3:2d;10:7seq. town where they make you welcome, eat what is put before you. ·Cure those in it 9 who are sick, and say, "The kingdom of God is very near to you." ·But whenever 10 you enter a town and they do not make you welcome, go out into its streets and say, ·"We wipe off the very dust of your town that clings to our feet, and leave it 11 with you. Yet be sure of this: the kingdom of God is very near." ·I tell you, on the 12 great Day it will be more bearable for Sodom than for that town.
‖Mt 11:21–24 'Alas for you, Chorazin! Alas for you, Bethsaida! For if the miracles done in you 13 had been done in Tyre and Sidon, they would have repented long ago, sitting in sackcloth and ashes. ·And still, it will be more bearable for Tyre and Sidon at the 14
Is 14:13–15 Judgement than for you. ·And as for you, Capernaum, did you want to be raised 15 high as heaven? You shall be flung down to hell.
=9:48 'Anyone who listens to you listens to me; anyone who rejects you rejects me, 16
‖Mt 10:40
‖Mk 9:37 and those who reject me reject the one who sent me.'
‖Jn 13:20

True cause for the apostles to rejoice

1:14i The seventy-two came back rejoicing. 'Lord,' they said, 'even the devils submit to 17
Mt 8:29k us when we use your name.' ·He said to them, 'I watched Satan fall like lightning 18
Ac 3:16l
Jn 12:31–32 from heaven. ·Look, I have given you power to tread down serpents and scorpions 19
Rv 12:9
·Ps 91:13 and the whole strength of the enemy; nothing shall ever hurt you. ·Yet do not 20
Ac 28:5 rejoice that the spirits submit to you; rejoice instead that your names are written
Mk 16:18
Rv 20:12i in heaven.'

‖Mt 11:25–27 The good news revealed to the simple. The Father and the Son

1:14i Just at this time, filled with joy by the Holy Spirit, he said, 'I bless you, Father, 21
4:1b Lord of heaven and of earth, for hiding these things from the learned and the clever 8:10 and revealing them to little children. Yes, Father, for that is what it has pleased you to do. · [e] Everything has been entrusted to me by my Father; and no one knows 22 who the Son is except the Father, and who the Father is except the Son and those to whom the Son chooses to reveal him.'

The privilege of the disciples ‖Mt 13:16–17

23 Then turning to his disciples he spoke to them by themselves, 'Blessed are the eyes
24 that see what you see, ·for I tell you that many prophets and kings wanted to see what you see, and never saw it; to hear what you hear, and never heard it.'[f]

The great commandment ‖Mt 22:34–40 ‖Mk 12:28–31

25 And now a lawyer stood up and, to test him, asked, 'Master, what must I do to 26 inherit eternal life?' ·He said to him, 'What is written in the Law? What is your 27 reading of it?' ·He replied, 'You must love the Lord your God with all your heart, Dt 6:5
with all your soul, with all your strength, and with all your mind, and your neighbour Lv 19:18 28 as yourself.' ·Jesus said to him, 'You have answered right, do this and life is yours.' Lv 18:5

Parable of the good Samaritan

29 But the man was anxious to justify himself[g] and said to Jesus, 'And who is my 30 neighbour?' ·In answer Jesus said, 'A man was once on his way down from 15:11a
Jerusalem to Jericho and fell into the hands of bandits; they stripped him, beat him 31 and then made off, leaving him half dead. ·Now a priest happened to be travelling down the same road, but when he saw the man, he passed by on the other side.
32 In the same way a Levite who came to the place saw him, and passed by on the 33 other side. ·But a Samaritan[h] traveller who came on him was moved with compas-34 sion when he saw him. ·He went up to him and bandaged his wounds, pouring oil and wine on them. He then lifted him onto his own mount and took him to an inn 2 Ch 28:15 35 and looked after him. ·Next day, he took out two denarii and handed them to the innkeeper and said, "Look after him, and on my way back I will make good any 36 extra expense you have." ·Which of these three, do you think, proved himself a 37 neighbour to the man who fell into the bandits' hands?' ·He replied, 'The one who showed pity towards him.' Jesus said to him, 'Go, and do the same yourself.'

Martha and Mary[i]

38 In the course of their journey he came to a village, and a woman named Martha 39 welcomed him into her house. ·She had a sister called Mary, who sat down at the 40 Lord's feet and listened to him speaking. ·Now Martha, who was distracted with 8:35d all the serving, came to him and said, 'Lord, do you not care that my sister is 1 Co 7:35 41 leaving me to do the serving all by myself? Please tell her to help me.' ·But the 8:3+ Lord answered, 'Martha, Martha,' he said, 'you worry and fret about so many 42 things, ·and yet few are needed, indeed only one.[j] It is Mary who has chosen the Mt 6:33 Jn 6:27 better part, and it is not to be taken from her.'

n. The hatred of the Samaritans for the Jews, Jn 4:9e, would show itself particularly towards those on pilgrimage to Jerusalem; hence it was usual to bypass this territory, cf. Mt 10:5. Only Lk and Jn (4:1–42) mention Jesus' presence in this hostile territory, see 17:11,16. It was not long before the primitive Church imitated its Master, Ac 8:5–25.

o. add. 'as Elijah did'. • Allusion to 2 K 1:10–12. James and John are seen here as 'Sons of Thunder' indeed, Mk 3:17.

p. add. 'You do not know what spirit you are made of. The Son of man came not to destroy souls but to save them.'

q. add. 'Lord', cf. Mt 8:21.

r. A play on the two meanings of 'death': physical and spiritual.

10 a. The collection of sayings used by Mt and Lk contained a mission discourse parallel to that of Mk 6:8–11. While Mt has combined both versions in one discourse, 10:7–16, Lk has kept them separate in two discourses addressed respectively to the Twelve, the number of Israel, and to the seventy (or seventy-two) disciples, the traditional number of gentile nations. Compare the case of the two multiplications of loaves, see Mt 14:13c.

b. var. 'seventy'.

c. Not, as in 9:52, to arrange for lodgings but to prepare the people for his teaching.

d. lit. 'son of peace', a Hebraism for those who deserve 'peace', i.e. all the spiritual and temporal blessings the word implies. See Jn 14:27s.

e. add. 'and turning to his disciples he said'.

f. Paul emphasises the fact that the 'mystery' was long kept hidden; Rm 16:25*l*. See also 1 P 1:11–12.

g. For having put the question.

h. The contrast is between the element in Israel most strictly bound to the law of love, and the heretic and stranger, Jn 8:48, see Lk 9:53*n*., from whom normally only hate could be expected.

i. These two sisters also appear in the story of the raising of Lazarus, Jn 11:1–44.

j. var. 'but only one thing is needed', 'but only a few things are needed', readings which make free with the text and deform the sense. • In his remark Jesus rises from the material plane ('few things are needed', i.e. for the meal) to the 'one thing necessary', which is to listen to the word of God.

The Lord's prayer

3:21j 11 Now it happened that he was in a certain place praying, and when he had 1 finished one of his disciples said, 'Lord, teach us to pray, as John taught his disciples.' ·He said to them, 'When you pray, this is what to say: [a] 2

‖Mt 6:9–13
Father, may your name be held holy,
your kingdom come;
give us each day our daily bread, [b] 3
and forgive us our sins, [c] for we ourselves forgive each one who is in debt to us. 4
And do not put us to the test.'

18:1–8 ### The importunate friend

He also said to them, 'Suppose one of you has a friend and goes to him in the 5 middle of the night to say, "My friend, lend me three loaves, ·because a friend of 6 mine on his travels has just arrived at my house and I have nothing to offer him;" and the man answers from inside the house, "Do not bother me. The door is 7 bolted now, and my children are with me in bed; I cannot get up to give it to you."
·I tell you, if the man does not get up and give it him for friendship's sake, 8 persistence will make him get up and give his friend all he wants.

‖Mt 7:7–11
Jn 14:13–14+ ### Effective prayer

'So I say to you: Ask, and it will be given to you; search, and you will find; knock, 9 and the door will be opened to you. ·For everyone who asks receives; everyone 10 who searches finds; everyone who knocks will have the door opened. ·What father 11 among you, if his son asked for a fish, would hand him a snake? [d] ·Or if he asked for 12 an egg, hand him a scorpion? ·If you then, evil as you are, know how to give your 13 children what is good, how much more will the heavenly Father give the Holy ‖Mt 12:22–29 Spirit [e] to those who ask him!'
‖Mk 3:22–27
Jn 14:13–16

Jesus and Beelzebul

He was driving out a devil and it was dumb; and it happened that when the devil 14 had gone out the dumb man spoke, and the people were amazed. ·But some of 15 them said, 'It is through Beelzebul, the prince of devils, that he drives devils out.'
=11:29 Others asked him, as a test, for a sign from heaven; ·but, knowing what they were 16, 17
‖Mt 16:1 thinking, he said to them, 'Any kingdom which is divided against itself is heading ‖Mk 8:11 for ruin, and house collapses against house. ·So, too, with Satan: if he is divided 18 against himself, how can his kingdom last?—since you claim that it is through Beelzebul [f] that I drive devils out. ·Now if it is through Beelzebul that I drive devils 19 out, through whom do your own sons drive them out? They shall be your judges, 17:21 then. ·But if it is through the finger of God [g] that I drive devils out, then the 20
Ex 8:15
Mt 4:17f;8:29k; kingdom of God has indeed caught you unawares. ·So long as a strong man fully 21
12:28 armed guards his own home, his goods are undisturbed; ·but when someone 22
Is 49:25;53:12 stronger than himself attacks and defeats him, the stronger man takes away all the weapons he relied on and shares out his spoil.

‖Mt 12:30 ### No compromise

9:50 'Anyone who is not with me is against me; and anyone who does not gather in with 23 me throws away.

‖Mt 12:43–45 ### Return of the unclean spirit

'When an unclean spirit goes out of someone it wanders through waterless country 24 looking for a place to rest, and not finding one it says, "I will go back to the home
I came from." ·But on arrival, finding it swept and tidied, ·it then goes off and 25, 26 brings seven other spirits more wicked than itself, and they go in and set up house there, and so that person ends up worse off than before.'

The truly blessed

27 It happened that as he was speaking, a woman in the crowd raised her voice and 28 said, 'Blessed the womb that bore you and the breasts that fed you!' •But he 1:42,48;4:15f replied, 'More blessed still are those who hear the word of God and keep it!' 8:21
Dt 30:14
Jn 13:17;14:23
Rv 1:3

The sign of Jonah

•‖Mt 12:38–42

29 The crowds got even bigger and he addressed them, 'This is an evil generation; it is 30 asking for a sign. [h] The only sign it will be given is the sign of Jonah. •For just as Jn 6:30–31
Jonah became a sign to the people of Nineveh, so will the Son of man be a sign to 31 this generation. [i] •On Judgement Day the Queen of the South will stand up against 1 K 10:1–10 the people of this generation and be their condemnation, because she came from the ends of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon; and, look, there is something Jn 6:35k 32 greater than Solomon here. •On Judgement Day the men of Nineveh will appear against this generation and be its condemnation, because when Jonah preached they repented; and, look, there is something greater than Jonah here. Jon 3

The parable of the lamp repeated

=8:16
‖Mt 5:15
33 'No one lights a lamp and puts it in some hidden place or under a tub; they put it on ‖Mk 4:21
34 the lamp-stand so that people may see the light when they come in. •The lamp of ‖Mt 6:22–23 the body is your eye. When your eye is clear, your whole body, too, is filled with 35 light; but when it is diseased your body, too, will be darkened. •See to it then that 36 the light inside you is not darkness. •If, therefore, your whole body is filled with light, and not darkened at all, it will be light entirely, as when the lamp shines on you with its rays.' [j]

The Pharisees and the lawyers attacked

37 He had just finished speaking when a Pharisee invited him to dine at his house. He 7:36;14:1
38 went in and sat down at table. •The Pharisee saw this and was surprised that he had 39 not first washed before the meal. •But the Lord said to him, [k] 'You Pharisees! You Mt 15:2
Mk 7:2,5
clean the outside of cup and plate, while inside yourselves you are filled with ‖Mt 23:25–26 40 extortion and wickedness. •Fools! Did not he who made the outside make the 41 inside too? •Instead, give alms from what you have [l] and, look, everything will be 12:33d
42 clean for you. •But alas for you Pharisees, because you pay your tithe of mint and ‖Mt 23:23 rue and all sorts of garden herbs and neglect justice and the love of God! These you 43 should have practised, without neglecting the others. •Alas for you Pharisees, =20:46
‖Mt 23:6–7
because you like to take the seats of honour in the synagogues and to be ‖Mk 12:38–39 44 greeted respectfully in the market squares! •Alas for you, because you are like the ‖Mt 23:27 unmarked tombs that people walk on without knowing it!' [m] 45 A lawyer then spoke up. 'Master,' he said, 'when you speak like this you insult 46 us too.' •But he said, 'Alas for you lawyers as well, because you load on people Mt 11:28;‖23:4 burdens that are unendurable, burdens that you yourselves do not touch with your fingertips.
47 'Alas for you because you build tombs for the prophets, the people your ‖Mt 23:29–31

11 a. Mt's text has seven petitions, Lk's five. See Mt 6:9d.
b. var. (borrowed, perhaps, from a baptismal liturgy) 'may your Holy Spirit come down on us and cleanse us'.
c. 'Debts' in Mt. Lk is more explicit and less juridical, but he retains 'debts' in the balancing clause that follows.
d. add. 'for bread would hand him a stone', a harmonisation with Mt 7:9.
e. Instead of the 'good things' of Mt 7:11. The Holy Spirit is the best of all 'good things'.
f. var. 'Beezebul' and 'Beelzebub'.
g. On this phrase, see Ex 8:15 and Ps 8:3. This passage and its parallel, Mt 12:28, have combined to provide the title 'finger of God's right hand' for the Holy Spirit.
h. i.e. a miracle as evidence and vindication of Christ's authority, see Jn 2:11f.
i. This interpretation of the 'sign of Jonah' is less probable than that of Mt 12:40, see Mt 12:39*l*. It is moreover merely the result of the artificial association of originally distinct sayings, 11:29 and par.; Mt 12:38–39 and Lk 11:30–32 and par.; Mt 12:41–42.
j. The textual tradition of vv. 35–36 is confused, and the text is probably corrupt. But the general meaning is clear: Jesus addresses his message to all, and if the mind is 'healthy', i.e. unclouded by selfish prejudice, cf. Jn 3:19–21, it can be understood by all.
k. Lk depends here on the source he shares with Mt; in 20:45–47 he returns to the same theme, this time depending on Mk. Mt has combined both sources in one discourse (ch. 23); see Lk 10:1a; 17:22g.
l. Interpretation difficult. Others translate, 'Instead give alms from what is inside'.
m. Thus contracting ritual impurity, Nb 19:16.

ancestors killed! ·In this way you both witness to what your ancestors did and 48 approve it; they did the killing, you do the building. " ‖Mt 23:34–36 1 Co 1:24 'And that is why the Wisdom of God° said, "I will send them prophets and 49 apostles; some they will slaughter and persecute, ·so that this generation will have 50 to answer for every prophet's blood that has been shed since the foundation of the world, ·from the blood of Abel to the blood of Zechariah, who perished between 51 the altar and the Temple." Yes, I tell you, this generation will have to answer for it all.
‖Mt 23:13 'Alas for you lawyers who have taken away the key of knowledge! You have not 52 gone in yourselves and have prevented others from going in who wanted to.'
When he left there, the scribes and the Pharisees began a furious attack on him[p] 53
Mk 12:13 and tried to force answers from him on innumerable questions, ·lying in wait to 54 catch him out in something he might say.

Open and fearless speech

12 Meanwhile the people had gathered in their thousands so that they were 1 treading on one another. And he began to speak, first of all to his disciples. [q] ‖Mt 16:6,12 ‖Mk 8:15 =8:17 'Be on your guard against the yeast of the Pharisees—their hypocrisy. ·Everything 2 now covered up will be uncovered, and everything now hidden will be made clear.
‖Mt 10:26–27 ‖Mk 4:22 For this reason, whatever you have said in the dark will be heard in the daylight, 3 and what you have whispered in hidden places will be proclaimed from the housetops.
‖Mt 10:28–31 Jn 15:15 'To you my friends I say: Do not be afraid of those who kill the body and after 4
Jm 4:12 Mt 3:12j;18:9d that can do no more. ·I will tell you whom to fear: fear him who, after he has killed, 5 has the power to cast into hell. Yes, I tell you, he is the one to fear. ·Can you not 6 buy five sparrows for two pennies? And yet not one is forgotten in God's sight.
21:18 Why, every hair on your head has been counted. There is no need to be 7
Mt 10:32+ afraid: you are worth more than many sparrows.
‖Mt 10:32–33 'I tell you, if anyone openly declares himself for me in the presence of human 8 beings, the Son of man will declare himself for him in the presence of God's angels.
=9:26 ‖Mk 8:38 But anyone who disowns me in the presence of human beings will be disowned in 9
the presence of God's angels.
‖Mt 12:32 ‖Mk 3:29 'Everyone who says a word against the Son of man will be forgiven, but no one 10 who blasphemes against the Holy Spirit will be forgiven.
=21:12–15 ‖Mt 10:17–20 'When they take you before synagogues and magistrates and authorities, do not 11
‖Mk 13:11 Jn 14:26r worry about how to defend yourselves or what to say, ·because when the time 12 comes, the Holy Spirit will teach you what you should say.'

On hoarding possessions

A man in the crowd said to him, 'Master, tell my brother to give me a share of our 13 inheritance.' ·He said to him, 'My friend, who appointed me your judge, or the 14 arbitrator of your claims?' ·Then he said to them, 'Watch, and be on your guard 15 against avarice of any kind, for life does not consist in possessions, even when someone has more than he needs.'
15:11 Then he told them a parable, 'There was once a rich man who, having had a 16 good harvest from his land, ·thought to himself, "What am I to do? I have not 17 enough room to store my crops." ·Then he said, "This is what I will do: I will pull 18 down my barns and build bigger ones, and store all my grain and my goods in them, Pr 27:1 Jm 4:13–15 and I will say to my soul: My soul, you have plenty of good things laid by for 19
Si 11:19 1 Co 15:32 many years to come; take things easy, eat, drink, have a good time." ·But God 20 said to him, "Fool! This very night the demand will be made for your soul; and this Ps 39:6 ·Qo 2:17–23; 5:17–6:2 Mt 6:19–21 Rv 3:17–18 hoard of yours, whose will it be then?" ·So it is when someone stores up treasure 21 for himself instead of becoming rich in the sight of God.'

Trust in Providence

‖Mt 6:25–34 Then he said to his disciples, 'That is why I am telling you not to worry about your 22 life and what you are to eat, nor about your body and how you are to clothe it.

23, 24 For life[b] is more than food, and the body more than clothing. ·Think of the ravens. They do not sow or reap; they have no storehouses and no barns; yet God 25 feeds them. And how much more you are worth than the birds! ·Can any of you, 26 however much you worry, add a single cubit to your span of life? ·If a very small 27 thing is beyond your powers, why worry about the rest? ·Think how the flowers grow; they never have to spin or weave;[c] yet, I assure you, not even Solomon in all 28 his royal robes was clothed like one of them. ·Now if that is how God clothes a flower which is growing wild today and is thrown into the furnace tomorrow, how 29 much more will he look after you, who have so little faith! ·But you must not set 30 your hearts on things to eat and things to drink; nor must you worry. ·It is the gentiles of this world who set their hearts on all these things. Your Father well 31 knows you need them. ·No; set your hearts on his kingdom, and these other things will be given you as well.

32 'There is no need to be afraid, little flock, for it has pleased your Father to give Jn 10:21:15–17 you the kingdom.

On almsgiving[d]

33 'Sell your possessions and give to those in need. Get yourselves purses that do not Pr 13:7 Ac 4:34 wear out, treasure that will not fail you, in heaven where no thief can reach it and ‖Mt 6:20–21 34 no moth destroy it. ·For wherever your treasure is, that is where your heart will be too.

On being ready for the Master's return

35, 36 'See that you have your belts done up[e] and your lamps lit. ·Be like people waiting Ep 6:14 1 P 1:13 for their master to return from the wedding feast, ready to open the door as soon as Mt 25:1–13 37 he comes and knocks. ·Blessed those servants whom the master finds awake when he comes. In truth I tell you, he will do up his belt, sit them down at table and wait 22:27 Jn 13:4–5 38 on them. ·It may be in the second watch that he comes, or in the third, but blessed ‖Mk 13:35
39 are those servants if he finds them ready. ·You may be quite sure of this, that if the ‖Mt 24:43–44 householder had known at what time the burglar would come, he would not have 40 let anyone break through the wall of his house. ·You too must stand ready, because the Son of man is coming at an hour you do not expect.'

41, 42 Peter said, 'Lord, do you mean this parable for us, or for everyone?' ·The Lord replied, 'Who, then, is the wise and trustworthy steward[f] whom the master will ‖Mt 24:45–51 1 Co 4:1seq.
place over his household to give them at the proper time their allowance of food?
43, 44 Blessed that servant if his master's arrival finds him doing exactly that. ·I tell you 45 truly, he will put him in charge of everything that he owns. ·But if the servant says to himself, "My master is taking his time coming," and sets about beating the 46 menservants and the servant-girls, and eating and drinking and getting drunk, ·his master will come on a day he does not expect and at an hour he does not know.
The master will cut him off and send him to the same fate as the unfaithful.

47 'The servant who knows what his master wants, but has got nothing ready and done nothing in accord with those wishes, will be given a great many strokes of the 48 lash. ·The one who did not know, but has acted in such a way that he deserves a beating, will be given fewer strokes. When someone is given a great deal, a great deal will be demanded of that person; when someone is entrusted with a great deal, of that person even more will be expected.

n. Irony. By building the tombs of the prophets they hoped to make amends for their ancestors' sins—yet they have exactly the same mentality as these ancestors.

o. i.e the divine intention as interpreted by Jesus.

p. The attitude of Jesus' enemies continued to harden; Lk traces the process in more detail than Mk; Lk 6:11; 11:53–54; 19:48; 20:19–20; 22:2.

12 a. Or else 'began to say to his disciples: First of all, be on your guard . . .'

b. lit. 'the soul' in the biblical sense, as in v. 19.

c. var. 'work or spin', compare Mt 6:28.

d. That riches are a danger and should be given away in alms is characteristic teaching of Lk: see 3:11; 6:30; 7:5; 11:41; 12:33–34; 14:13–14; 16:9; 18:22; 19:8; Ac 9:36; 10:2,4,31.

e. lit. 'Keep your loins girded'; not by putting on an additional garment, but by tucking up the long skirt which would hinder running.

f. A steward with authority over other servants; Jesus, therefore, is speaking of the apostles (the 'us' of Peter's question).

Jesus and his Passion

Mt 3:11i 'I have come to bring fire[g] to the earth, and how I wish it were blazing already! 49 9:22h Mk 10:38e There is a baptism I must still receive, and what constraint I am under until it is 50 completed!

‖Mt 10:34–36 ### Jesus the cause of dissension

'Do you suppose that I am here to bring peace on earth? No, I tell you, but rather 51
2:34;21:16 division. ·For from now on, a household of five will be divided: three against two 52
Mi 7:6 and two against three; ·father opposed to son, son to father, mother to daughter, 53 daughter to mother, mother-in-law to daughter-in-law, daughter-in-law to mother-in-law.'

On reading the signs of the times[h]

‖Mt 16:2–3 He said again to the crowds, 'When you see a cloud looming up in the west you say 54 at once that rain is coming, and so it does. ·And when the wind is from the south 55 you say it's going to be hot, and it is. ·Hypocrites! You know how to interpret 56 the face of the earth and the sky. How is it you do not know how to interpret these times?

Mt 5:25–26 'Why not judge for yourselves what is upright? ·For example: when you are 57, 58 going to court with your opponent, make an effort to settle with him on the way, or he may drag you before the judge and the judge hand you over to the officer and the officer have you thrown into prison. ·I tell you, you will not get out till you 59 have paid the very last penny.'[i]

Examples inviting repentance

13 It was just about this time that some people arrived and told him about the 1 Galileans whose blood Pilate had mingled with that of their sacrifices.[a] At Jn 9:3 this he said to them, ·'Do you suppose that these Galileans were worse sinners than 2 any others, that this should have happened to them? ·They were not, I tell you. 3
No; but unless you repent you will all perish as they did. ·Or those eighteen on 4 whom the tower at Siloam fell, killing them all? Do you suppose that they were more guilty than all the other people living in Jerusalem? ·They were not, I tell 5 Jn 8:24 you. No; but unless you repent you will all perish as they did.'

Parable of the barren fig tree[b]

Mt 21:19seq. He told this parable, 'A man had a fig tree planted in his vineyard, and he came 6 looking for fruit on it but found none. ·He said to his vinedresser, "For three 7 years[c] now I have been coming to look for fruit on this fig tree and finding none.
Cut it down: why should it be taking up the ground?" ·"Sir," the man replied, 8
"leave it one more year and give me time to dig round it and manure it: ·it may 9 Jn 15:2b bear fruit next year; if not, then you can cut it down." '

6:6–11;14:1–6 ### Healing of a crippled woman on the Sabbath

One Sabbath day he was teaching in one of the synagogues, ·and there before him 10, 11
Mt 8:29k was a woman who for eighteen years had been possessed by a spirit that crippled her; she was bent double and quite unable to stand upright.[d] ·When Jesus saw her 12
he called her over and said, 'Woman, you are freed from your disability,' ·and he 13 4:40+ 2:20g laid his hands on her. And at once she straightened up, and she glorified God.

But the president of the synagogue was indignant because Jesus had healed on 14 the Sabbath,[e] and he addressed all those present saying, 'There are six days when work is to be done. Come and be healed on one of those days and not on the 14:5 Mt 12:11 Sabbath.' ·But the Lord answered him and said, 'Hypocrites! Is there one of you 15 who does not untie his ox or his donkey from the manger on the Sabbath and take Mt 8:29k it out for watering? ·And this woman, a daughter of Abraham whom Satan has 16 held bound these eighteen years—was it not right to untie this bond on the Sabbath

17 day?' ·When he said this, all his adversaries were covered with confusion, and all the people were overjoyed at all the wonders he worked. 1:14i;4:15f

Parable of the mustard seed ‖Mt 13:31–32 ‖Mk 4:30–32

18 He went on to say, 'What is the kingdom of God like? What shall I compare it 19 with? ·It is like a mustard seed which a man took and threw into his garden: it grew and became a tree, and the birds of the air sheltered in its branches.' Ezk 17:23 Dn 4:9,18

Parable of the yeast ‖Mt 13:33

20, 21 Again he said, 'What shall I compare the kingdom of God with? ·It is like the yeast a woman took and mixed in with three measures of flour till it was leavened all through.'

The narrow door; rejection of the Jews, call of the gentiles[f]

22 Through towns and villages he went teaching, making his way to Jerusalem. 2:38o;9:51m
23 Someone said to him, 'Sir, will there be only a few saved?' He said to them, 24 'Try your hardest to enter by the narrow door, because, I tell you, many will try ‖Mt 7:13–14 to enter and will not succeed.
25 'Once the master of the house has got up and locked the door, you may find ‖Mt 25:10–12 yourself standing outside knocking on the door, saying, "Lord, open to us," but he
26 will answer, "I do not know where you come from." ·Then you will start saying, ‖Mt 7:22–23
27 "We once ate and drank in your company; you taught in our streets," ·but he will reply, "I do not know where you come from; away from me, all evil doers!" Ps 6:8
28 'Then there will be weeping and grinding of teeth, when you see Abraham and ‖Mt 8:12e Isaac and Jacob and all the prophets in the kingdom of God, and yourselves thrown 29 out. ·And people from east and west, from north and south, will come and sit down at the feast in the kingdom of God.
30 'Look, there are those now last who will be first, and those now first who ‖Mt 19:30+; 20:16 will be last.' ‖Mk 10:31

Herod the fox

31 Just at this time some Pharisees came up. 'Go away,' they said. 'Leave this place, 32 because Herod[g] means to kill you.' ·He replied, 'You may go and give that fox this message: Look! Today and tomorrow I drive out devils and heal, and on the third 33 day[h] I attain my end.[i] ·But for today and tomorrow and the next day I must go on, since it would not be right for a prophet to die outside Jerusalem.[j] 2:38o Mt 16:14c

g. This fire, obviously symbolic, can bear different meanings according to the context: the Holy Spirit, or the fire which will purify hearts and must be lit on the cross. v. 50 points to the latter interpretation, but vv. 51–53 suggest rather the state of spiritual conflict stirred up by Jesus' appearing.

h. The messianic era has arrived, and it is high time to realise this, for judgement is near, vv. 57–59.

i. lit. 'lepton', a Greek coin of very small value. • In Mt 5:25–26 the context gave this saying a community application: how the brethren of the community should be reconciled and settle their differences. In Lk it has an eschatological sense: the judgement of God is near, and putting oneself in order is an urgent necessity.

13 a. There is no other evidence for this incident or for that mentioned in v. 4. The meaning of both is clear: sin is not the immediate cause of this or that calamity (cf. Jn 9:3), but such disasters as these are providential invitations to repentance.

b. The episode of the withered fig tree in Mk 11 may be thought to show Jesus in a hard light; Lk prefers to substitute this parable of his patience.

c. Some have seen this as an allusion to the length of Christ's ministry as described in the fourth gospel.

d. Or 'unable to hold her head erect'.

e. He takes this act of healing for a 'work' forbidden by the Law.

f. The source used by Lk and Mt has here grouped some sayings which Mt has elsewhere separated in his Gospel, see 9:51*l*. The main idea of this grouping, maintained by Lk, seems to have been the rejection of Israel and the call of the gentiles to salvation. For Israel ties of blood with Jesus will not save them from the exclusion which their conduct deserves, vv. 25–27, cf. 3:7–9 and par.; Jn 8:33seq. So little will they be able to find the way of salvation, vv. 23–24, that the first shall be last, v. 30; cf. Mt 20:16, and will see the gentiles take their place at the banquet of the Messiah, vv. 28–29.

g. Herod Antipas, see 3:1c. If, as is possible, he made this threat to rid himself of Jesus, the term 'fox' refers to that sly trick.

h. The expression signifies a short period of time.

i. A word full of meaning, including both his death and the achievement of his perfection: Jesus was made 'perfect' by his suffering and death, Heb 2:10; 5:9. Cf. Jn 19:30.

j. Meaning apparently 'My work will soon be over, but not yet. I have not finished my work of exorcising and healing; this I shall contrive to do on my way to Jerusalem where my destiny lies,' see 2:38*o*. Similarly, in Jn 7:30; 8:20 (cf. 8:59; 10:39; 11:54) the enemies of Jesus have no power over him so long as 'his hour has not yet come'.

19:41–44 ‖Mt 23:37–39 Jerusalem admonished

'Jerusalem, Jerusalem, you that kill the prophets and stone those who are sent to 34 you! How often have I longed to gather your children together, as a hen gathers her brood under her wings, and you refused! ·Look! Your house will be left to you. 35
Mt 23:39s Yes, I promise you, you shall not see me till the time comes when you are saying:

Ps 118:26 Blessed is he who is coming in the name of the Lord!'

6:6–11; 7:36; 11:37;13:10–17 Healing of a dropsical man on the Sabbath

14 Now it happened that on a Sabbath day he had gone to share a meal in the 1 house of one of the leading Pharisees; and they watched him closely. ·Now 2 there in front of him was a man with dropsy, ·and Jesus addressed the lawyers and 3 Mt 8:3a Mk 3:4 Pharisees with the words, 'Is it against the law to cure someone on the Sabbath, or not?' ·But they remained silent, so he took the man and cured him and sent him 4 13:15 ‖Mt 12:11 away. ·Then he said to them, 'Which of you here, if his son[a] falls into a well, or his 5 ox, will not pull him out on a Sabbath day without any hesitation?' ·And to this 6 they could find no answer.

On choosing places at table

He then told the guests a parable, because he had noticed how they picked the 7 places of honour. He said this, ·'When someone invites you to a wedding feast, do 8 11:43;20:46 Pr 25:6–7 Mt 23:6 not take your seat in the place of honour. A more distinguished person than you may have been invited, ·and the person who invited you both may come and say, 9
"Give up your place to this man." And then, to your embarrassment, you will have to go and take the lowest place. ·No; when you are a guest, make your way to the 10 lowest place and sit there, so that, when your host comes, he may say, "My friend, move up higher." Then, everyone with you at the table will see you honoured.
=18:14 Ezk 22:32 Mt 23:12 For everyone who raises himself up will be humbled, and the one who humbles 11 himself will be raised up.'

On choosing guests to be invited

Then he said to his host, 'When you give a lunch or a dinner, do not invite your 12 friends or your brothers or your relations or rich neighbours, in case they invite 12:33d you back and so repay you. ·No; when you have a party, invite the poor, the 13
6:35 crippled, the lame, the blind; ·then you will be blessed, for they have no means to 14 repay you and so you will be repaid when the upright rise again.'

The invited guests who made excuses

On hearing this, one of those gathered round the table said to him, 'Blessed is 15
Mt 8:11c anyone who will share the meal in the kingdom of God!' ·But he said to him, 16 ‖Mt 22:2–10 'There was a man who gave a great banquet, and he invited a large number of people. ·When the time for the banquet came, he sent his servant to say to those 17 who had been invited, "Come along: everything is ready now." ·But all alike 18 started to make excuses. The first said, "I have bought a piece of land and must go and see it. Please accept my apologies." ·Another said, "I have bought five yoke of 19 oxen and am on my way to try them out. Please accept my apologies." ·Yet another 20 Dt 24:5 said, "I have just got married and so am unable to come."

'The servant returned and reported this to his master. Then the householder, in 21 a rage, said to his servant, "Go out quickly into the streets and alleys of the town and bring in here the poor, the crippled, the blind and the lame."[b] ·"Sir," said the 22 servant, "your orders have been carried out and there is still room." ·Then the 23 master said to his servant, "Go to the open roads and the hedgerows[c] and press people to come in, to make sure my house is full; ·because, I tell you, not one of 24 those who were invited shall have a taste of my banquet." '

Renouncing all that one holds dear

25 Great crowds accompanied him on his way and he turned and spoke to them.
26 'Anyone who comes to me without hating[d] father, mother, wife,[e] children, broth- Mt 10:37;19:29 =9:23
27 ers, sisters, yes and his own life too, cannot be my disciple. ·No one who does not ‖Mt 10:38;16:24 ‖Mk 8:34 Jn 12:26 carry his cross and come after me can be my disciple.

Renouncing possessions

28 'And indeed, which of you here, intending to build a tower, would not first sit down
29 and work out the cost to see if he had enough to complete it? ·Otherwise, if he laid the foundation and then found himself unable to finish the work, anyone who saw 30 it would start making fun of him and saying, ·"Here is someone who started to 31 build and was unable to finish." ·Or again, what king marching to war against another king would not first sit down and consider whether with ten thousand men he could stand up to the other who was advancing against him with twenty 32 thousand? ·If not, then while the other king was still a long way off, he would send 33 envoys to sue for peace. ·So in the same way, none of you can be my disciple without giving up all that he owns.[f] 12:33d

On loss of enthusiasm in a disciple

‖Mt 5:13 ‖Mk 9:50

34 'Salt is a good thing. But if salt itself loses its taste, what can make it salty again?
35 It is good for neither soil nor manure heap. People throw it away. Anyone who has ears for listening should listen!'

The three parables of God's mercy

6:36 Ex 34:6c Ho 2:21u 11:8–9

1 15 The tax collectors and sinners, however, were all crowding round to listen
2 to him, ·and the Pharisees and scribes complained saying, 'This man wel-
3 comes sinners and eats with them.' ·So he told them this parable: Mt 9:10–13

The lost sheep

Ezk 34:1a ‖Mt 18:12–14

4 'Which one of you with a hundred sheep, if he lost one, would fail to leave the 5 ninety-nine in the desert and go after the missing one till he found it? ·And when Ezk 34:4,16
6 he found it, would he not joyfully take it on his shoulders ·and then, when he got Is 40:11 home, call together his friends and neighbours saying to them, " Rejoice with me, 7 I have found my sheep that was lost." ·In the same way, I tell you, there will be 19:10 more rejoicing in heaven over one sinner repenting than over ninety-nine upright 1:14i people who have no need of repentance.

The lost drachma

8 'Or again, what woman with ten drachmas would not, if she lost one, light a lamp
9 and sweep out the house and search thoroughly till she found it? ·And then, when she had found it, call together her friends and neighbours, saying to them, "Rejoice
10 with me, I have found the drachma I lost." ·In the same way, I tell you, there is rejoicing among the angels of God over one repentant sinner.'

The lost son (the 'prodigal') and the dutiful son[a]

11, 12 Then he said, 'There was a man who had two sons. ·The younger one said to his father, "Father, let me have the share of the estate that will come to me." So the 14 a. 'his son'; var. 'his donkey'.

b. In the scrolls of Qumran, the lame and the blind and cripples are excluded from the eschatological warfare and the banquet which follows it.

c. After the 'streets and alleys of the town' of v. 21, the 'open roads and hedgerows' of v. 23 seem to be outside the town. There appear to be two different categories, on the one hand the poor and 'unclean' of Israel, on the other the gentiles. The 'compulsion' employed to bring in these underprivileged is meant to express only the triumph of grace over their lack of preparation, not violence done to their consciences. But the abuses of such 'compulsion to enter' in the course of history are only too well known.

d. Hebraism. Jesus asks, not for hate, but for total detachment now, cf. 9:57–62.

e. 'wife', peculiar to Lk, illustrating his leaning to asceticism, cf. 1 Co 7. So Lk also, 18:29.

f. Applicable to all disciples—Lk seems to make no distinction; see Mk 1:17f.

15 a. Lk has several long parables peculiar to his Gospel. Mk's parables provide teaching on the nature and coming father divided the property between them. •A few days later, the younger son got 13 together everything he had and left for a distant country where he squandered his money on a life of debauchery.

'When he had spent it all, that country experienced a severe famine, and now he 14 began to feel the pinch; •so he hired himself out to one of the local inhabitants 15 who put him on his farm to feed the pigs. •And he would willingly have filled 16 himself with the husks the pigs were eating but no one would let him have them.
Then he came to his senses and said, "How many of my father's hired men have 17
all the food they want and more, and here am I dying of hunger! •I will leave this 18 place and go to my father and say: Father, I have sinned against heaven and against you; •I no longer deserve to be called your son; treat me as one of your hired men." 19
Is 55:7 Jr 3:12seq. So he left the place and went back to his father. 20

Is 49:14–16 Jr 31:20 'While he was still a long way off, his father saw him and was moved with pity.
He ran to the boy, clasped him in his arms and kissed him. •Then his son said, 21
"Father, I have sinned against heaven and against you. I no longer deserve to be Zc 3:4 called your son." •But the father said to his servants, "Quick! Bring out the best 22 robe and put it on him; put a ring on his finger and sandals on his feet. •Bring the 23 calf we have been fattening, and kill it; we will celebrate by having a feast, Ep 2:1 because this son of mine was dead and has come back to life; he was lost and is 24 found." And they began to celebrate.

'Now the elder son[b] was out in the fields, and on his way back, as he drew near 25
the house, he could hear music and dancing. •Calling one of the servants he asked 26 what it was all about. •The servant told him, "Your brother has come, and your 27 father has killed the calf we had been fattening because he has got him back safe and sound." •He was angry then and refused to go in, and his father came out and 28 began to urge him to come in; •but he retorted to his father, "All these years I have 29 slaved for you and never once disobeyed any orders of yours, yet you never offered me so much as a kid for me to celebrate with my friends. •But, for this son of yours, 30 when he comes back after swallowing up your property—he and his loose women—you kill the calf we had been fattening."

Jn 17:10 'The father said, "My son, you are with me always and all I have is yours. •But 31, 32 1:14i it was only right we should celebrate and rejoice, because your brother here was dead and has come to life; he was lost and is found." '

The crafty steward

15:11 16 [a]He also said to his disciples, 'There was a rich man and he had a steward 1 who was denounced to him for being wasteful with his property. •He called 2 for the man and said, "What is this I hear about you? Draw me up an account of your stewardship because you are not to be my steward any longer." •Then the 3 steward said to himself, "Now that my master is taking the stewardship from me, what am I to do? Dig? I am not strong enough. Go begging? I should be too ashamed. •Ah, I know what I will do to make sure that when I am dismissed from 4 office there will be some to welcome me into their homes."

'Then he called his master's debtors one by one. To the first he said, "How much 5 do you owe my master?" •"One hundred measures of oil," he said. The steward 6 said, "Here, take your bond; sit down and quickly write fifty." •To another he said, 7
"And you, sir, how much do you owe?" "One hundred measures of wheat," he said. The steward said, "Here, take your bond and write eighty."

20:34b 'The master praised the dishonest steward for his astuteness.[b] For the children 8 of this world are more astute in dealing with their own kind than are the chil-Jn 8:12b dren of light.'

The right use of money

6:24;12:33d Tb 4:9–10 'And so I tell you this: use money, tainted as it is,[c] to win you friends, and thus 9 make sure that when it fails you, they will welcome you into eternal dwellings.

10 Anyone who is trustworthy in little things is trustworthy in great; anyone who is ‖19:17 ‖Mt 25:21
11 dishonest in little things is dishonest in great. ·If then you are not trustworthy with 12 money, that tainted thing, who will trust you with genuine riches? ·And if you are not trustworthy with what is not yours, [d] who will give you what is your very own? [e]
13 'No servant can be the slave of two masters: he will either hate the first and love ‖Mt 6:24 the second, or be attached to the first and despise the second. You cannot be the slave both of God and of money.'

Against the Pharisees and their love of money

14, 15 The Pharisees, who loved money, heard all this and jeered at him. ·He said to them, 'You are the very ones who pass yourselves off as upright in people's sight, 18:9 Jr 11:20+ but God knows your hearts. For what is highly esteemed in human eyes is loath- Mt 6:1;23:28 some in the sight of God.

The kingdom stormed ‖Mt 11:12–13

16 'Up to the time of John it was the Law and the Prophets; from then onwards, the kingdom of God has been preached, and everyone is forcing their way into it.

The Law remains

17 'It is easier for heaven and earth to disappear than for one little stroke to drop out of the Law. ‖Mt 5:18

Marriage indissoluble ‖Mt 5:32;19:9

18 'Everyone who divorces his wife and marries another is guilty of adultery, and the man who marries a woman divorced by her husband commits adultery.

The parable of the rich man and Lazarus [f]

19 'There was a rich man who used to dress in purple and fine linen and feast 15:11
20 magnificently every day. ·And at his gate there used to lie a poor man called 21 Lazarus, covered with sores, ·who longed to fill himself with what fell from the rich
22 man's table. [g] Even dogs came and licked his sores. ·Now it happened that the poor man died and was carried away by the angels into Abraham's embrace. [h] The rich man also died and was buried.
23 'In his torment in Hades he looked up and saw Abraham a long way off with 24 Lazarus in his embrace. ·So he cried out, "Father Abraham, pity me and send Lazarus to dip the tip of his finger in water and cool my tongue, for I am in agony in 25 these flames." ·Abraham said, "My son, remember that during your life you had 6:24–25 your fill of good things, just as Lazarus his fill of bad. Now he is being comforted 26 here while you are in agony. ·But that is not all: between us and you a great gulf [i] of the kingdom. Many of Mt's proper parables teach a warning about the final judgement, and others are concerned with human relationships. These Lukan parables concern individuals and teach individual morality, often featuring an anti-hero, whose soliloquy is the turning-point of the story, see 12:17; 16:3, 24; 18:4,11; Mt 18:22*l*.

b. To the forgiving attitude of the father, symbol of God's forgiveness, is opposed in the elder son the attitude of the Pharisees and scribes who pride themselves on being 'upright' because they do not break any commandments of the Law, v. 29; cf. 18:9seq.

16 a. This chapter is a compilation of two parables and several logia of Jesus on the right and wrong use of money. vv. 16,17,18, each with a different theme, interrupt the literary scheme of the chapter.

b. It was the custom for a steward, or responsible servant, to take commission on all sales of his master's goods; this was his only means of making a salary. In the present case the original loan was presumably fifty measures of oil and eighty measures of wheat. In reducing the debtors' bills, he is not depriving his master of anything, but only sacrificing his own immediate interests by forgoing his legitimate commission. It is for this that he is praised as 'astute'; any 'dishonesty' (v. 8) was in his earlier actions for which he is under notice.

c. Money is here called 'tainted' not only because its owner is here presumed to have gained it dishonestly, but because great wealth is rarely acquired without some sharp practice.

d. lit. 'what is outside', i.e. wealth, which is external.

e. 'your very own'; var. 'our very own'. Jesus is speaking of the most intimate possessions anyone can have; these are spiritual.

f. A parable-story without any historical basis.

g. add. 'but no one offered him a thing', cf. 15:16.

h. Jewish figure of speech, the equivalent of the old biblical phrase 'gathered to his fathers', i.e. to the patriarchs, Jg 2:10; cf. Gn 15:15; 47:30; Dt 31:16. 'In the embrace of . . .' implies close intimacy, Jn 1:18, and evokes a picture of the messianic banquet where Lazarus reclines next to Abraham, see Mt 8:11c; Jn 13:23.

i. The 'gulf' is a symbol: the destiny of saved and lost is unalterable.

has been fixed, to prevent those who want to cross from our side to yours or from your side to ours."

'So he said, "Father, I beg you then to send Lazarus to my father's house, ·since 27, 28
I have five brothers, to give them warning so that they do not come to this place of 24:44 torment too." ·Abraham said, "They have Moses and the prophets, let them listen 29 to them." ·The rich man replied, "Ah no, father Abraham, but if someone comes 30 to them from the dead, they will repent." ·Then Abraham said to him, "If they will 31 not listen either to Moses or to the prophets, they will not be convinced even if someone should rise from the dead." '

‖Mt 18:6–7 ‖Mk 9:42 On leading others astray

17 He said to his disciples, 'Causes of falling are sure to come, but alas for the 1 one through whom they occur! ·It would be better for him to be thrown into 2 1 Co 8:12 the sea with a millstone round the neck than to be the downfall of a single one of these little ones. ·Keep watch on yourselves! 3

‖Mt 18:15,21–22 Brotherly correction [a]

'If your brother does something wrong, rebuke him and, if he is sorry, forgive him.
And if he wrongs you seven times a day and seven times comes back to you and 4 says, "I am sorry," you must forgive him.'

Mt 8:10b The power of faith

‖Mt 17:20;21:21 ‖Mk 11:23 The apostles said to the Lord, 'Increase our faith.' ·The Lord replied, 'If you had 5, 6 faith like a mustard seed you could say to this mulberry tree, "Be uprooted and planted in the sea," and it would obey you.

Jn 13:4–5 Humble service

'Which of you, with a servant ploughing or minding sheep, would say to him when 7 he returned from the fields, "Come and have your meal at once"? [b] ·Would he not 8 be more likely to say, "Get my supper ready; fasten your belt and wait on me while I eat and drink. You yourself can eat and drink afterwards"? ·Must he be grateful 9 to the servant for doing what he was told? ·So with you: when you have done all 10 Jb 22:3;35:7 you have been told to do, say, "We are useless [c] servants: we have done no more than our duty." '

The ten victims of skin-disease

Now it happened that on the way to Jerusalem he was travelling in the borderlands 11 of Samaria and Galilee. [d] ·As he entered one of the villages, ten men suffering from 12 9:51i a virulent skin-disease came to meet him. They stood some way off ·and called to 13
Lv 13:45–46 5:5;8:24,45; 9:33 ·5:14 him, 'Jesus! Master! Take pity on us.' ·When he saw them he said, 'Go and show 14 yourselves to the priests.' Now as they were going away they were cleansed.
Lv 14:1–32 Mt 8:4 Finding himself cured, one of them turned back praising God at the top of his 15
Mk 1:44 voice ·and threw himself prostrate at the feet of Jesus and thanked him. The man 16 ·2:20g ·9:53m;10:33h was a Samaritan. ·This led Jesus to say, 'Were not all ten made clean? The other 17 nine, where are they? ·It seems that no one has come back to give praise to God, 18 except this foreigner.' ·And he said to the man, 'Stand up and go on your way. 19
Mt 8:10b Your faith has saved you.'

The coming of the kingdom of God

Asked by the Pharisees when the kingdom of God was to come, he gave them this 20
Mt 4:17f answer, 'The coming of the kingdom of God does not admit of observation ·and 21 there will be no one to say, "Look, it is here! Look, it is there!" For look, the 11:20+ Mt 3:2 kingdom of God is among you.' [e]

The Day of the Son of man [f]

Mt 13:17f He said to the disciples, 'A time will come when you will long to see one of the days 22

23 of the Son of man[g] and will not see it. •They will say to you, "Look, it is there!" Mt 8:20b▶ Jn 8:56f▶
24 or, "Look, it is here!" Make no move; do not set off in pursuit; •for as the lightning •Mt 8:20b flashing from one part of heaven lights up the other, so will be the Son of man ‖Mt 24:23, 26–27 25 when his Day comes. •But first he is destined to suffer grievously and be rejected ‖Mk 13:21 •9:22e by this generation.

26 'As it was in Noah's day, so will it also be in the days of the Son of man.[h] Gn 6–8
27 People were eating and drinking, marrying wives and husbands, right up to the ‖Mt 24:37–39 28 day Noah went into the ark, and the Flood came and destroyed them all. •It will be the same as it was in Lot's day: people were eating and drinking, buying and Gn 19:1–29 29 selling, planting and building, •but the day Lot left Sodom, it rained fire and 30 brimstone from heaven and it destroyed them all. •It will be the same when the day comes for the Son of man to be revealed.

31 'When that Day comes, no one on the housetop, with his possessions in the 21:21 ‖Mt 24:17–18 house, must come down to collect them, nor must anyone in the fields turn back. ‖Mk 13:15–16
32, 33 Remember Lot's wife. •Anyone who tries to preserve his life will lose it; and Gn 19:26 •9:24
34 anyone who loses it will keep it safe. •I tell you, on that night, when two are in one ‖Mt 10:39;24:40–41
35 bed, one will be taken, the other left; •when two women are grinding corn together, ‖Jn 12:25
[36], 37 one will be taken, the other left.'[i] •The disciples spoke up and asked, 'Where, ‖Mt 24:28
Lord?' He said, 'Where the body is, there too will the vultures gather.'

The unscrupulous judge and the importunate widow

1 18 Then he told them a parable about the need to pray continually and never •11:9+
2 lose heart.[a] •'There was a judge in a certain town,' he said, 'who had neither 1 Th 5:17f
3 fear of God nor respect for anyone. •In the same town there was also a widow who 11:5–8 Pr 25:15 kept on coming to him and saying, "I want justice from you against my enemy!"
4 For a long time he refused, but at last he said to himself, "Even though I have 5 neither fear of God nor respect for any human person, •I must give this widow her just rights since she keeps pestering me, or she will come and slap me in the face." '
6, 7 And the Lord said, 'You notice what the unjust judge has to say? •Now, will not God see justice done to his elect if they keep calling to him day and night even Si 35:19 Rv 6:9–11 8 though he still delays to help them?[b] •I promise you, he will see justice done to them, and done speedily. But when the Son of man comes, will he find any faith Mt 8:10b;24:12 on earth?'

The Pharisee and the tax collector

9 He spoke the following parable to some people who prided themselves on being 15:11 •16:15
10 upright and despised everyone else, •'Two men went up to the Temple to pray, one Mt 6:1;23:28
11 a Pharisee, the other a tax collector. •The Pharisee stood there and said this prayer to himself, "I thank you, God, that I am not grasping, unjust, adulterous like 12 everyone else, and particularly that I am not like this tax collector here. •I fast

17 a. Lk, apparently, is thinking of a matter that concerns only two of the community; in Mt the offence is more public. Lk does not mention appealing to the community.

b. Contrast this human rule with the gospel paradox 12:37; 22:27; Jn 13:1–6.

c. This adjective hardly fits the context, since the accent is on the state of service itself, see the end of the v.; but it is the literal (and traditional) translation of the Greek.

d. Making for the Jordan valley and so down to Jericho, 18:35; from there he goes up to Jerusalem.

e. As something already present and active. The alternative translation, 'within your grasp', is attractive; a third possibility, 'within you', would not furnish as direct an answer to the Pharisees' question.

f. The discourse is proper to Lk, who makes a clear distinction between Jesus prophesying the destruction of Jerusalem, 21:6–24, and Christ's coming in glory at the end of time, 17:22–37. • Some of the passages in this discourse are found in the great eschatological discourse of Mt 24:5–41; there, as elsewhere (see Lk 10:1a; 11:39k), Mt has joined together two sources which Lk leaves separate; see Mt 24:1a. • 'The Day' of the Lord, adopted by Lk, is a more familiar OT expression than Mt's parousia (coming), a term borrowed from the hellenistic world, see 1 Co 1:8e.

g. Not to experience again one day of the earthly life of Jesus, nor to see the first day of his glorious coming, but to have the joy of even one of the days that are to follow that coming.

h. i.e. at the time of the coming.

i. add. v. 36 'There will be two men in the fields; one will be taken, the other left,' cf. Mt 24:40.

18 a. A lesson frequently found in Paul's letters: see Rm 1:10; 12:12; Ep 6:18; Col 1:3; 1 Th 5:17; 2 Th 1:11 and 2 Co 4:1,16; Ga 6:9; Ep 3:13; 2 Th 3:13.

b. In Si 35:18–19, which seems to have inspired this verse, God will not delay to give their due to the oppressed poor; here, however, he does delay. Perhaps this adaptation reflects concern to explain the delay of the parousia. Compare a similar attitude in 2 P 3:9; Rv 6:9–11.

twice a week; I pay tithes on all I get." ·The tax collector stood some distance 13 away, not daring even to raise his eyes to heaven; but he beat his breast and said,
"God, be merciful to me, a sinner." ·This man, I tell you, went home again 14 =14:11 ‖Mt 23:12 justified; the other did not. For everyone who raises himself up will be humbled, but anyone who humbles himself will be raised up.'

9:47 Mt 19:13–15 Mk 10:13–16 Jesus and the children [c]

People even brought babies to him, for him to touch them; but when the disciples 15 saw this they scolded them. ·But Jesus called the children to him and said, 'Let the 16 little children come to me, and do not stop them; for it is to such as these that the kingdom of God belongs. ·In truth I tell you, anyone who does not 17 welcome the kingdom of God like a little child will never enter it.'

‖Mt 19.16–22 ‖Mk 10:17–22 The rich aristocrat

One of the rulers put this question to him, 'Good Master, what shall I do to inherit 18
10:25–28 eternal life?' ·Jesus said to him, 'Why do you call me good? No one is good but 19
God alone. ·You know the commandments: You shall not commit adultery; You 20 Ex 20:12–16 Dt 5:16–20 shall not kill; You shall not steal; You shall not give false witness; Honour your father and your mother.' ·He replied, 'I have kept all these since my earliest days.' 21
And when Jesus heard this he said, 'There is still one thing you lack. Sell 22 12:33d everything you own and distribute the money to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; then come, follow me.' ·But when he heard this he was 23 overcome with sadness, for he was very rich.

‖Mt 19:23–26 ‖Mk 10:23–27 The danger of riches

Jesus looked at him and said, 'How hard it is for those who have riches to make 24 their way into the kingdom of God! ·Yes, it is easier for a camel to pass through the 25 eye of a needle than for someone rich to enter the kingdom of God.' ·Those who 26 were listening said, 'In that case, who can be saved?' ·He replied, 'Things that are 27 impossible by human resources, are possible for God.'

‖Mt 19:27–29 ‖Mk 10:28–30 The reward of renunciation

But Peter said, 'Look, we left all we had to follow you.' ·He said to them, 'In truth 28, 29 14:26e I tell you, there is no one who has left house, wife, brothers, parents or children for the sake of the kingdom of God ·who will not receive [d] many times as much in this 30 present age and, in the world to come, eternal life.'

‖Mt 20:17–19 ‖Mk 10:32–34 Third prophecy of the Passion

2:38*o*:9:51i Then taking the Twelve aside he said to them, 'Look, we are going up to Jerusalem, 31 and everything that is written by the prophets [e] about the Son of man is to come 9:22e true. ·For he will be handed over to the gentiles and will be mocked, maltreated 32 and spat on, ·and when they have scourged him they will put him to death; and on 33 Mk 4:13b the third day he will rise again.' ·But they could make nothing of this; what he said 34 was quite obscure to them, they did not understand what he was telling them.

‖Mt 20:29–34 ‖Mk 10:46–52 Entering Jericho: the blind man

Now it happened that as he drew near to Jericho there was a blind man sitting at 35
the side of the road begging. ·When he heard the crowd going past he asked what 36
Mt 2:23*l* it was all about, ·and they told him that Jesus the Nazarene was passing by. ·So he 37, 38 called out, 'Jesus, Son of David, have pity on me.' ·The people in front scolded 39 Mt 9:27m him and told him to keep quiet, but he only shouted all the louder, 'Son of David, have pity on me.' ·Jesus stopped and ordered them to bring the man to him, and 40
when he came up, asked him, ·'What do you want me to do for you?' 'Sir,' he 41
Mt 8:10b replied, 'let me see again.' ·Jesus said to him, 'Receive your sight. Your faith has 42
2:20g saved you.' ·And instantly his sight returned and he followed him praising God, 43 and all the people who saw it gave praise to God.

Zacchaeus

1, 2 19 He entered Jericho and was going through the town •and suddenly a man whose name was Zacchaeus made his appearance; he was one of the senior 3 tax collectors and a wealthy man. •He kept trying to see which Jesus was, but he Mt 5:46u
4 was too short and could not see him for the crowd; •so he ran ahead and climbed a 5 sycamore tree to catch a glimpse of Jesus who was to pass that way. •When Jesus reached the spot he looked up and spoke to him, 'Zacchaeus, come down. Hurry, 6 because I am to stay at your house today.' •And he hurried down and welcomed
7 him joyfully. •They all complained when they saw what was happening. 'He has 1:14i
8 gone to stay at a sinner's house,' they said. •But Zacchaeus stood his ground and 5:30;15:2
said to the Lord, 'Look, sir, I am going to give half my property to the poor, and if 12:33d 9 I have cheated anybody I will pay him back four times the amount.'[a] •And Jesus 2 S 12:6
said to him, 'Today salvation has come to this house, because this man too is a son Mt 21:31
10 of Abraham;[b] •for the Son of man has come to seek out and save what was lost.' 15:6,9,24,32

Parable of the pounds[c]

11 While the people were listening to this he went on to tell a parable, because he was Mt 25:14–30 near Jerusalem and they thought that the kingdom of God was going to show itself 2:38o 12 then and there. •Accordingly he said, 'A man of noble birth went to a distant Mk 13:34
13 country to be appointed king and then return.[d] •He summoned ten of his servants and gave them ten pounds, telling them, "Trade with these, until I get back."
14 But his compatriots detested him and sent a delegation to follow him with this message, "We do not want this man to be our king." Ps 2:2seq.,
Jn 19:15,21
15 'Now it happened that on his return, having received his appointment as king, he sent for those servants to whom he had given the money, to find out what profit 16 each had made by trading. •The first came in, "Sir," he said, "your one pound has 17 brought in ten." •He replied, "Well done, my good servant! Since you have proved yourself trustworthy in a very small thing, you shall have the government of ten 16:10 18 cities." •Then came the second, "Sir," he said, "your one pound has made five."
19, 20 To this one also he said, "And you shall be in charge of five cities." •Next came the other, "Sir," he said, "here is your pound. I put it away safely wrapped up in a 21 cloth •because I was afraid of you; for you are an exacting man: you gather in what 22 you have not laid out and reap what you have not sown." •He said to him, "You wicked servant! Out of your own mouth I condemn you. So you knew that I was an exacting man, gathering in what I have not laid out and reaping what I have not 23 sown? •Then why did you not put my money in the bank? On my return I could 24 have drawn it out with interest." •And he said to those standing by, "Take the 25 pound from him and give it to the man who has ten pounds." •And they said to 20:16
26 him, "But, sir, he has ten pounds . . ." •"I tell you, to everyone who has will be =8:18 given more; but anyone who has not will be deprived even of what he has. ‖Mt 13:12
‖Mk 4:25
27 "As for my enemies who did not want me for their king, bring them here and execute them in my presence." ' 20:16
Ps 2:9

c. Lk here rejoins Mark's narrative which he deserted in 9:50. Cf. 9:51*l*.

d. add. 'in return'.

e. Lk often stresses that the Passion was foretold by the prophets: 24:25,27,44; Ac 2:23*o*; 3:18,24*s*; 8:32–35; 13:27; 26:22seq. and par.

19 a. Fourfold restitution was imposed by Jewish law (Ex 21:37) for one case only; Roman law demanded it of all convicted thieves. Zacchaeus goes further: he acknowledges the obligation in the case of any injustice for which he may have been responsible.

b. Nothwithstanding his despised profession. No social rank excludes 'salvation', cf. 3:12–14. All the Jewish privileges follow from 'sonship of Abraham', cf. 3:8; Rm 4:11seq.; Ga 3:7seq.

c. The parable of the talents, Mt 25:14–30, shows some wide differences, but the two are thought to be based on the same original, treated with great freedom by both the evangelists. Moreover, it seems that in Lk we must distinguish two parables which have been fused into one: that of the pounds, vv. 12–13,15–26, and that of the royal claimant, vv. 12,14,17,19,27.

d. Probably alluding to the journey of Archelaus to Rome in 4 BC to have the will of Herod the Great confirmed in his favour. A deputation of Jews followed him there to thwart the attempt, cf. v. 14.

V: TEACHING IN JERUSALEM

The Messiah enters Jerusalem

||Mt 21:1–11
||Mk 11:1–11
||Jn 12:12–16
2:38*o*;9:51

When he had said this he went on ahead, going up to Jerusalem. 28, 29
•Now it happened that when he was near Bethphage and Bethany, close by the Mount of Olives as it is called, he sent two of the disciples, saying, 30
•'Go to the village opposite, and as you enter it you will find a tethered colt that no one has ever yet ridden. Untie it and bring it here. 31
•If anyone asks you, "Why are you untying it?" you are to say this, "The Master needs it." ' 32
•The messengers went off and found everything just as he had told them. 33
•As they were untying the colt, its owners said, 'Why are you untying it?' 34
•and they answered, 'The Master needs it.'

So they took the colt to Jesus and, throwing their cloaks on its back, they lifted 35
Jesus on to it. 36, 37
•As he moved off, they spread their cloaks in the road,
•and now, as he was approaching the downward slope of the Mount of Olives, the whole group
1:14*i* •2:20*g*;4:15*f* Jn 12:18 of disciples joyfully began to praise God at the top of their voices for all the miracles they had seen. 38
•They cried out:

Ps 118:26 Blessed is he who is coming
as King in the name of the Lord!
2:14 Peace in heaven
and glory in the highest heavens!

Jesus defends his disciples for acclaiming him

Mt 21:14–16 Some Pharisees in the crowd said to him, 'Master, reprove your disciples,' 39, 40
Hab 2:11 •but he answered, 'I tell you, if these keep silence, the stones will cry out.'

Lament for Jerusalem

13:34–35 Jr 26 As he drew near and came in sight of the city he shed tears over it 41, 42
•and said, 'If you too had only recognised on this day the way to peace! e But in fact it is hidden from your eyes! 43
•Yes, a time is coming when your enemies will raise fortifications all round you, when they will encircle you and hem you in on every side; 44
•they will dash you and the children inside your walls to the ground; they will leave not one 12:54–56 stone standing on another within you, because you did not recognise the moment
1:68 of your visitation.' f

The expulsion of the dealers from the Temple

||Mt 21:12–13
||Mk 11:15–17
||Jn 2:14–16 Then he went into the Temple and began driving out those who were busy trading, 45
Is 56:7 saying to them, 46
•'According to scripture, my house shall be a house of prayer but Jr 7:11 you have turned it into a bandits' den.'

Jesus teaches in the Temple

11:53*p*;21:37; 22:53 He taught in the Temple every day. The chief priests and the scribes, in company 47
||Mk 11:18 Jn 18:20 4:15*f* with the leading citizens, tried to do away with him, 48
•but they could not find a way to carry this out because the whole people hung on his words.

The Jews question the authority of Jesus

||Mt 21:23–27
||Mk 11:27–33

20 *a*Now it happened that one day while he was teaching the people in the 1
Temple and proclaiming the good news, the chief priests and the scribes came up, together with the elders, 2
•and spoke to him. 'Tell us,' they said, 'what authority have you for acting like this? Or who gives you this authority?' 3
•In reply he said to them, 'And I will ask you a question, just one. Tell me: 4
•John's baptism: what was its origin, heavenly or human?' 5
•And they debated this way among themselves, 'If we say heavenly, he will retort, "Why did you refuse to believe him?"; 6
•and if we say human, the whole people will stone us, for they are convinced that John was a prophet.' ·So their reply was that they did not know where it came from. ·And Jesus said to them, 'Nor will I tell you my authority for acting like this.'

Parable of the wicked tenants

||Mt 21:33–46
||Mk 12:1–12

And he went on to tell the people this parable, 'A man planted a vineyard and Is 5:1a leased it to tenants, and went abroad for a long while. ·When the right time came, he sent a servant to the tenants to get his share of the produce of the vineyard. But the tenants thrashed him, and sent him away empty-handed. ·But he went on to send a second servant; they thrashed him too and treated him shamefully and sent him away empty-handed. ·He still went on to send a third; they wounded this one too, and threw him out. ·Then the owner of the vineyard thought, "What am I to do? I will send them my own beloved son. Perhaps they will respect him." ·But when the tenants saw him they put their heads together saying, "This is the heir, let us kill him so that the inheritance will be ours." ·So they threw him out of the vineyard and killed him.

'Now what will the owner of the vineyard do to them? ·He will come and make an end of these tenants and give the vineyard to others.' Hearing this they said, 'God forbid!' ·But he looked hard at them and said, 'Then what does this text in the scriptures mean:

> The stone which the builders rejected
> has become the cornerstone? Ps 118:22

Anyone who falls on that stone will be dashed to pieces; anyone it falls on will be crushed.'

And the scribes and the chief priests would have liked to lay hands on him that 11:53p very moment, because they realised that this parable was aimed at them, but they were afraid of the people.

On tribute to Caesar

||Mt 22:15–22
||Mk 12:13–17
23:2

So they awaited their opportunity and sent agents to pose as upright men, and to catch him out in something he might say and so enable them to hand him over to the jurisdiction and authority of the governor. ·They put to him this question, 'Master, we know that you say and teach what is right; you favour no one, but teach the way of God in all honesty. ·Is it permissible for us to pay taxes to Caesar or not?' ·But he was aware of their cunning and said, ·'Show me a denarius. Whose portrait and title are on it?' They said, 'Caesar's.' · He said to them, 'Well then, pay Caesar what belongs to Caesar—and God what belongs to God.'

They were unable to catch him out in anything he had to say in public; they were amazed at his answer and were silenced.

The resurrection of the dead

||Mt 22:23–33
||Mk 12:18–27

Some Sadducees—those who argue that there is no resurrection—approached him and they put this question to him, ·'Master, Moses prescribed for us, if a man's Dt 25:5a married brother dies childless, the man must marry the widow to raise up children for his brother. ·Well then, there were seven brothers; the first, having married a wife, died childless. ·The second ·and then the third married the widow. And the same with all seven, they died leaving no children. ·Finally the woman herself died.

e. The peace of the messianic age, see Is 11:6e; Ho 2:20s.

f. This whole prophecy is made up of OT references (especially noticeable in the Greek text for v. 43, see Is 29:3; 37:33; Jr 52: 4–5; Ezk 4:1–3; 21:27 (22); for v. 44; see Ps 137:9; Ho 10:14; 14:1; Na 3:10) and suggests the destruction of Jerusalem in 587 BC as much as, and more than, that of AD 70 of whose distinctive features it says nothing. It cannot, therefore, be concluded from this text that the destruction of AD 70 had already taken place, see 17:22f; 21:20c.

20 a. From 20:1 to 21:5 Lk follows Mk very closely. He omits the symbolic episode of the withered fig tree, Mk 11:12–14,20–25, for which he substitutes the parable of the barren fig tree, Lk 13:6–9; he also omits here the discussion on the first commandment of the Law, Mk 12:28–34, which he has already used, possibly taking it from another source, Lk 10:25–28.

Now, at the resurrection, whose wife will she be, since she had been married to all seven?' 33

Jesus replied, 'The children of this world[b] take wives and husbands, ·but those who are judged worthy of a place in the other world and in the resurrection from the dead[c] do not marry ·because they can no longer die,[d] for they are the same as the angels, and being children of the resurrection[e] they are children of God. ·And Moses himself implies that the dead rise again, in the passage about the bush where he calls the Lord the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob. Now he is God, not of the dead, but of the living; for to him everyone is alive.' 34, 35 Ph 3:11 36 37 Ex 3:6 Rm 6:10–11 Ga 2:19 38

Some scribes[f] then spoke up. They said, 'Well put, Master.' ·They did not dare to ask him any more questions. 39, 40 ‖Mt 22:46 ‖Mk 12:34

‖Mt 22:41–45 ‖Mk 12:35–37 Christ not only son but also Lord of David

He then said to them, 'How can people maintain that the Christ is son of David? Why, David himself says in the Book of Psalms: 41 42

> The Lord declared to my Lord,
> take your seat at my right hand,
> till I have made your enemies
> your footstool. 43 Ps 110:1

David here calls him Lord; how then can he be his son?' 44

‖Mt 23:6–7 ‖Mk 12:38–40 The scribes condemned by Jesus

While all the people were listening he said to the disciples, ·'Beware of the scribes who like to walk about in long robes and love to be greeted respectfully in the market squares, to take the front seats in the synagogues and the places of honour at banquets, ·who devour the property of widows, and for show offer long prayers. The more severe will be the sentence they receive.' 45, 46 =11:43 47

‖Mk 12:41–44 The widow's mite

21 Looking up, he saw rich people putting their offerings into the treasury; and he noticed a poverty-stricken widow putting in two small coins, ·and he said, 'I tell you truly, this poor widow has put in more than any of them; ·for these have all put in money they could spare, but she in her poverty has put in all she had to live on.' 1 2, 3 4

‖Mt 24:1–3 ‖Mk 13:1–4 Discourse on the destruction of Jerusalem:[a] Introduction

When some were talking about the Temple, remarking how it was adorned with fine stonework and votive offerings, he said, ·'All these things you are staring at now—the time will come when not a single stone will be left on another; everything will be destroyed.' ·And they put to him this question, 'Master,' they said, 'when will this happen, then, and what sign will there be that it is about to take place?' 5 6 7

‖Mt 24:4–14 ‖Mk 13:5–13 The warning signs

But he said, 'Take care not to be deceived, because many will come using my name and saying, "I am the one" and "The time is near at hand." Refuse to join them. And when you hear of wars and revolutions, do not be terrified, for this is something that must happen first, but the end will not come at once.' ·Then he said to them, 'Nation will fight against nation, and kingdom against kingdom. There will be great earthquakes and plagues and famines in various places; there will be terrifying events and great signs from heaven. 8 9 Dn 2:28 10 2 Ch 15:6 Is 19:2 11

‖Mt 10:17–22 Jn 15:20;16:1–2 'But before all this happens, you will be seized and persecuted; you will be handed over to the synagogues and to imprisonment, and brought before kings and governors for the sake of my name ·—and that will be your opportunity to bear witness. ·Make up your minds not to prepare your defence, ·because I myself[b] shall give you an eloquence and a wisdom that none of your opponents will be able 12 13 12:11seq. 14, 15 Ac 6:10

16 to resist or contradict. ·You will be betrayed even by parents and brothers, 12:52–53
17 relations and friends; and some of you will be put to death. ·You will be hated
18 universally on account of my name, but not a hair of your head will be lost. 12:7 Mt 10:30 Heb 10:36,39
19 ·Your perseverance will win you your lives.

The siege ‖Mt 24:15–20 ‖Mk 13:14–18

20 'When you see Jerusalem surrounded by armies,[c] then you must realise that it will 21 soon be laid desolate. ·Then those in Judaea must escape to the mountains, those inside the city must leave it, and those in country districts must not take refuge in 22 it. ·For this is the time of retribution when all that scripture says[d] must be fulfilled. Ho 9:7
23 Alas for those with child, or with babies at the breast, when those days come!

The disaster and the age of the gentiles ‖Mt 24:21 ‖Mk 13:19

24 'For great misery will descend on the land and retribution on this people. ·They Rm 1:18m will fall by the edge of the sword and be led captive to every gentile country; and Dt 28:64 Jerusalem will be trampled down by the gentiles until their time[e] is complete. Dn 8:10 Rv 11:2

Cosmic disasters and the glorious appearing of the Son of man ‖Mt 24:29–30 ‖Mk 13:24–26

25 'There will be signs in the sun and moon and stars; on earth nations in agony, 26 bewildered by the turmoil of the ocean and its waves; ·men fainting away with Ps 65:7seq.
terror and fear at what menaces the world, for the powers of heaven will be shaken.
27 And then they will see the Son of man coming in a cloud with power and great Dn 7:13–14 28 glory. ·When these things begin to take place, stand erect, hold your heads high, because your liberation is near at hand.' Heb 10:37

The time of this coming ‖Mt 24:32–35 ‖Mk 13:28–31

29, 30 And he told them a parable, 'Look at the fig tree and indeed every tree. ·As soon 31 as you see them bud, you can see for yourselves that summer is now near. ·So with you when you see these things happening: know that the kingdom of God is near.[f]
32 In truth I tell you, before this generation has passed away all will have taken place. 9:27 Is 40:8 Mt 16:28 Mk 9:1 33 Sky and earth will pass away, but my words will never pass away.

Be on the alert

34 'Watch yourselves, or your hearts will be coarsened by debauchery and drunken- 17:26–30 8:14
35 ness and the cares of life, and that day will come upon you unexpectedly, ·like a 36 trap. For it will come down[g] on all those living on the face of the earth. ·Stay Qo 9:12 Is 24:17seq. 1 Th 5:3 Ep 6:18 Rv 6:17 awake, praying at all times for the strength to survive all that is going to happen, and to hold your ground before the Son of man.'

The last days of Jesus

37 All day long he would be in the Temple teaching, but would spend the night in the 19:47+
38 open on the hill called the Mount of Olives. ·And from early morning the people Mt 21:17 Mk 11:11,19 Jn 8:2
thronged to him in the Temple to listen to him.[h]

b. 'children': a semitism for 'those who belong to . . .' Cf. 16:8.

c. Only the resurrection of the just is considered here. See Ph 3:11h.

d. var. 'they have not to die'.

e. Semitism for those who are actually raised up.

f. The scribes, being Pharisees for the most part, believed in the resurrection of the dead, see Ac 23:6–9.

21 a. In 17:22–37 Lk, following one of his sources, speaks of the coming of Jesus in glory at the end of time. Here he follows Mk where two perspectives merge: that of the final coming and that of the destruction of Jerusalem: see 19:44f; Mt 24:1a.

b. Lk, in this place, assigns to Jesus the role reserved by 12:12; Mt 10:20; Mk 13:11 to the Spirit of the Father (Mt), the Holy Spirit (Mk and Lk), Ac 6:10. Cf. Jn 16:13–15.

c. As in 19:43–44, the expressions are biblical and contain no hint of a description written after the event, see 19:44f.

d. Possibly alluding to Dn 9:26,27.

e. i.e. the period during which the gentiles will take the place of the unfaithful Jewish nation; according to Paul, Rm 11:11–32, this period will end with the conversion of all Israel. Thus a period of indeterminate length is introduced between the ruin of Jerusalem and the end of time.

f. The kingdom has already been inaugurated, 17:21, but this present verse refers to the period of its triumphant progress which begins with the destruction of Jerusalem; cf. 9:27.

g. var. 'for it will come down on you like a snare'.

h. The literary relationship with Jn 8:1–2 is unmistakable. The incident of the adulterous woman, Jn 7:53–8:11, which so many grounds combine to attribute to Lk, would fit admirably into this context.

VI: THE PASSION [a]

The conspiracy against Jesus: Judas betrays him

22 The feast of Unleavened Bread, called the Passover, was now drawing near, and the chief priests and the scribes were looking for some way of doing away with him, because they were afraid of the people. [b]

Then Satan entered into Judas, surnamed Iscariot, who was one of the Twelve. He approached the chief priests and the officers of the guard [c] to discuss some way of handing Jesus over to them. They were delighted and agreed to give him money. He accepted and began to look for an opportunity to betray him to them without people knowing about it.

Preparation for the Passover supper

The day of Unleavened Bread came round, on which the Passover had to be sacrificed, and he sent Peter and John, saying, 'Go and make the preparations for us to eat the Passover.' They asked him, 'Where do you want us to prepare it?' He said to them, 'Look, as you go into the city you will meet a man carrying a pitcher of water. Follow him into the house he enters and tell the owner of the house, "The Master says this to you: Where is the room for me to eat the Passover with my disciples?" The man will show you a large upper room furnished with couches. Make the preparations there.' They set off and found everything as he had told them and prepared the Passover.

The supper

When the time came he took his place at table, and the apostles with him. And he said to them, [d] 'I have ardently longed to eat this Passover with you before I suffer; because, I tell you, I shall not eat it until it is fulfilled [e] in the kingdom of God.'

Then, taking a cup, [f] he gave thanks and said, 'Take this and share it among you, because from now on, I tell you, I shall never again drink wine until the kingdom of God comes.'

The institution of the Eucharist [g]

Then he took bread, and when he had given thanks, he broke it and gave it to them, saying, 'This is my body given for you; do this in remembrance of me.' He did the same with the cup after supper, and said, 'This cup is the new covenant in my blood poured out for you. [h]

The treachery of Judas foretold

'But look, here with me on the table is the hand of the man who is betraying me. The Son of man is indeed on the path which was decreed, but alas for that man by whom he is betrayed!' And they began to ask one another which of them it could be who was to do this.

Who is the greatest? [i]

An argument also began between them about who should be reckoned the greatest; but he said to them, 'Among the gentiles it is the kings who lord it over them, and those who have authority over them are given the title Benefactor. With you this must not happen. No; the greatest among you must behave as if he were the youngest, the leader as if he were the one who serves. For who is the greater: the one at table or the one who serves? The one at table, surely? Yet here am I among you as one who serves!

The reward promised to the apostles

28, 29 'You are the men who have stood by me faithfully in my trials; ·and now I confer a 30 kingdom on you, just as my Father conferred one on me: ·you will eat and drink at my table in my kingdom, and you will sit on thrones to judge the twelve tribes of Israel.

Jn 6:66–68; 15:27
Rv 2:26–28
Rv 3:20–21
‖Mt 19:28

Peter's denial and repentance foretold

31, 32 [j]'Simon, Simon! Look, Satan has got his wish to sift you all like wheat; ·but I have prayed for you, Simon, that your faith may not fail, and once you have recovered, 33 you in your turn must strengthen your brothers.'[k] ·'Lord,' he answered, 'I would 34 be ready to go to prison with you, and to death.' ·Jesus replied, 'I tell you, Peter, by the time the cock crows today you will have denied three times that you know me.'

Jb 1:6g
Am 9:9
Mt 8:10b
Mt 16:19i
Jn 21:15–17
2 S 15:20–21
Ac 21:13
‖Mt 26:31–35
‖Mk 14:27–31
‖Jn 13:36–38

A time of crisis

35 He said to them, 'When I sent you out without purse or haversack or sandals, were 36 you short of anything?' ·'No, nothing,' they said. He said to them, 'But now if you have a purse, take it, and the same with a haversack; if you have no sword, sell 37 your cloak and buy one,[l] ·because I tell you these words of scripture are destined to be fulfilled in me: He was counted as one of the rebellious. Yes, what it says about 38 me is even now reaching its fulfilment.' ·They said, 'Lord, here are two swords.' He said to them, 'That is enough!'

10:4
12:51
Mt 10:34
23:32
Is 53:12

The Mount of Olives[m]

39 He then left to make his way as usual to the Mount of Olives, with the disciples 40 following. ·When he reached the place he said to them, 'Pray not to be put to the test.'

‖Mt 26:30, 36–46
‖Mk 14:26, 32–42

41 Then he withdrew from them, about a stone's throw away, and knelt down[n] and 42 prayed. ·'Father,' he said, 'if you are willing, take this cup away from me. Never-43 theless, let your will be done, not mine.' ·Then an angel appeared to him, coming 44 from heaven to give him strength. ·In his anguish he prayed even more earnestly, and his sweat fell to the ground like great drops of blood.[o]

21:37
Jn 18:2
3:21j
Jn 12:27–29
Mk 10:38
Ac 21:14

45 When he rose from prayer he went to the disciples and found them sleeping for 22 a. Throughout the Passion narrative, Lk shows himself considerably less dependent on Mk than hitherto; on the other hand, there are many points of contact with Jn. They probably shared a common source.

b. Lk does not record the anointing at Bethany; he has already described a similar incident in 7:36–50.

c. Officers of the Temple police. All of these were Levites; cf. Ac 4:1.

d. In Lk, Christ's discourses at the supper play a more important part than in Mk and Mt, preparing us for those of Jn 13:31–17:26. Lk adopts the hellenistic convention of gathering together at a final meal teachings of the Master about the future of his disciples. He seems to have thought of these discourses in the light of the primitive eucharistic assemblies.

e. The first stage of fulfilment is the Eucharist itself, the centre of spiritual life in the kingdom founded by Jesus; the final stage will be at the end of time when the Passover is to be fulfilled perfectly and in a fashion no longer veiled.

f. Lk distinguishes the Passover and the cup of vv. 15–18 from the bread and the cup of vv. 19–20 in order to draw a parallel between the ancient rite of the Jewish Passover and the new rite of the Christian Eucharist. Some ancient authorities (including important representatives of the Latin/Western text), evidently failing to understand this theological device and, disturbed to find two cups mentioned, quite mistakenly omitted v. 20, or even v. 20 with the second part of v. 19 (i.e. 'which will be given . . . of me').

g. Note the affinity between Lk's text and Paul's, 1 Co 11:23–25.

h. Or alternatively 'which has to be given' and 'which has to be poured out'.

i. By transposing this argument from its place in Mt 20:25; Mk 10:42, into the context of the institution of the Eucharist Lk relates it to the dissensions in the early Church. See Ac 6:1; 1 Co 11:17–19; Jm 2:2–4.

j. add. 'And the Lord said'.

k. This saying gives Peter a function in directing faith with regard to the other apostles. His primacy within the apostolic college is affirmed more clearly than in Mt 16:17–19, where he could simply be the spokesman and representative of the Twelve. See also Jn 21:15–17, where the 'lambs' or 'sheep' whom he is to feed surely include 'these others' whom he surpasses in love.

l. The world which was once sympathetic is now hostile: the purse and the haversack will be needed, to buy and to husband the necessities of life which were once freely provided; the sword will be needed for protection.

m. Lk's account of Jesus' ordeal is far more succinct than that of Mt and Mk: there is only one prayer. The accent (vv. 40, 46) is on the need of the disciples to follow their Master in prayer when they are put to the test.

n. It was normal to stand in prayer, see 18:11; 1 K 8:22; Mt 6:5, but also to kneel when prayer was especially intent or humble, see Ps 95:6; Is 45:23; Dn 6:11; Ac 7:60; 9:40; 20:36; 21:5.

o. Although some good and widely diverse witnesses omit them, vv. 43–44 should be retained. They are attested by many witnesses from as early as the second century, and represent the style and manner of Lk. Their omission is explained by concern to avoid a humiliation of Jesus which seemed too human.

sheer grief. ·And he said to them, 'Why are you asleep? Get up and pray not to be 46 put to the test.'

‖Mt 26:47–56 ‖Mk 14:43–52 ‖Jn 18:3–11 Ac 1:16
The arrest

Suddenly, while he was still speaking, a number of men appeared, and at the head 47 of them the man called Judas, one of the Twelve, who went up to Jesus to kiss him.
Jesus said, 'Judas, are you betraying the Son of man with a kiss?' ·His followers, 48, 49 seeing what was about to happen, said, 'Lord, shall we use our swords?' ·And one 50 of them struck the high priest's servant and cut off his right ear. ·But at this Jesus 51 said, 'That is enough.' And touching the man's ear he healed him.

Then Jesus said to the chief priests and captains of the Temple guard and elders 52 who had come for him, 'Am I a bandit, that you had to set out with swords and 19:47;21:37 clubs? ·When I was among you in the Temple day after day you never made a move 53
4:13d Jn 8:12b to lay hands on me. But this is your hour; this is the reign of darkness.'

‖Mt 26:69–75 ‖Mk 14:53–54, 66–72 ‖Jn 18:15–18, 25–27
Peter's denials

They seized him then[p] and led him away, and they took him to the high priest's 54 house. Peter followed at a distance. ·They had lit a fire in the middle of the 55 courtyard and Peter sat down among them, ·and as he was sitting there by the 56 blaze a servant-girl saw him, peered at him, and said, 'This man was with him too.'
But he denied it, 'Woman, I do not know him,' he said. ·Shortly afterwards 57, 58 someone else saw him and said, 'You are one of them too.' But Peter replied, 'I am not, my friend.'[q] ·About an hour later another man insisted, saying, 'This fellow 59 was certainly with him. Why, he is a Galilean.' ·Peter said, 'My friend, I do not 60 know what you are talking about.' At that instant, while he was still speaking, the cock crowed, ·and the Lord turned and looked straight at Peter, and Peter remem- 61 22:34 bered the Lord's words when he had said to him, 'Before the cock crows today, you will have disowned me three times.' ·And he went outside and 62 wept bitterly.

‖Mt 26:67–68 ‖Mk 14:65
Jesus mocked by the guards[r]

Meanwhile the men who guarded Jesus were mocking and beating him. ·They 63, 64 blindfolded him and questioned him, saying, 'Prophesy! Who hit you then?' ·And 65 they heaped many other insults on him.

‖Mt 26:57–66;27:2 ‖Mk 14:53–64;15:1 Jn 10:24–25 Ps 110:1 Mt 4:3d Jn 10:30–33
Jesus before the Sanhedrin[s]

When day broke there was a meeting of the elders of the people,[t] the chief priests 66 and scribes. He was brought before their council, ·and they said to him, 'If you are 67 the Christ, tell us.' He replied, 'If I tell you, you will not believe, ·and if I question 68 you, you will not answer. ·But from now on, the Son of man will be[u] seated at the 69 right hand of the Power of God.' ·They all said, 'So you are the Son of God 70 then?'[v] He answered, 'It is you who say I am.' ·Then they said, 'Why do we need 71 any evidence? We have heard it for ourselves from his own lips.'[w]

Mt 27:1–2 Jn 18:28
23 The whole assembly then rose, and they brought him before Pilate. 1

‖Mt 27:11–14 ‖Mk 15:2–5 ‖Jn 18:29–38[a] 20:20–26 4:44k
Jesus before Pilate[a]

They began their accusation by saying, 'We found this man inciting our people to 2 revolt, opposing payment of the tribute to Caesar, and claiming to be Christ, a king.' ·Pilate put to him this question, 'Are you the king of the Jews?' He replied, 3
'It is you who say it.' ·Pilate then said to the chief priests and the crowd, 'I find no 4 case against this man.' ·But they persisted, 'He is inflaming the people with his 5 teaching all over Judaea and all the way from Galilee, where he started, down to here.' ·When Pilate heard this, he asked if the man were a Galilean; ·and finding 6, 7 that he came under Herod's jurisdiction, he passed him over to Herod, who was also in Jerusalem at that time.

Jesus before Herod [b]

8 Herod was delighted to see Jesus; he had heard about him and had been wanting for a long time to set eyes on him; moreover, he was hoping to see some miracle
9 worked by him. ·So he questioned him at some length, but without getting any 10 reply. ·Meanwhile the chief priests and the scribes were there, vigorously pressing 11 their accusations. ·Then Herod, together with his guards, treated him with contempt and made fun of him; he put a rich cloak [c] on him and sent him back to Pilate.
12 And though Herod and Pilate had been enemies before, they were reconciled that same day.

9:9
Mt 14:1–2
Ac 4:27

Jesus before Pilate again

‖Mt 27:15–26
‖Mk 15:6–15
‖Jn 18:38[b]–19:16

13, 14 Pilate then summoned the chief priests and the leading men and the people. ·He said to them, 'You brought this man before me as a popular agitator. Now I have gone into the matter myself in your presence and found no grounds in the man for 15 any of the charges you bring against him. ·Nor has Herod either, since he has sent 16 him back to us. As you can see, the man has done nothing that deserves death, ·so 18 I shall have him flogged and then let him go.' [d][17] ·But as one man they howled, 19 'Away with him! Give us Barabbas!' ·(This man had been thrown into prison because of a riot in the city and murder.)

Ac 21:35

20, 21 In his desire to set Jesus free, Pilate addressed them again, ·but they shouted
22 back, 'Crucify him! Crucify him!' ·And for the third time [e] he spoke to them, 'But what harm has this man done? I have found no case against him that deserves
23 death, so I shall have him flogged and then let him go.' [f] ·But they kept on shouting at the top of their voices, demanding that he should be crucified. And their shouts kept growing louder.

24, 25 Pilate then gave his verdict: their demand was to be granted. ·He released the man they asked for, who had been imprisoned because of rioting and murder, and handed Jesus over to them to deal with as they pleased.

The way to Calvary

‖Mt 27:31[b]–32
‖Mk 15:20[b]–22
‖Jn 19:17

26 As they were leading him away they seized on a man, Simon from Cyrene, who was coming in from the country, and made him shoulder the cross and carry it 27 behind Jesus. ·Large numbers of people followed him, and women too, [g] who 28 mourned and lamented for him. ·But Jesus turned to them and said, 'Daughters of Jerusalem, do not weep for me; weep rather for yourselves and for your children.

14:27

p. In Mt and Mk, Jesus is seized immediately after Judas' greeting; the sword episode follows, and finally the discourse by Jesus. Lk makes the arrest follow the discourse, thus emphasising the control Jesus has over what takes place. See for the same emphasis, Jn 10:18j; 18:4–6.

q. lit. 'man'.

r. Occurring during the night's wait, before the session of the Sanhedrin, and not after it as in Mt and Mk, this mockery in Lk is the work not of the members of the Sanhedrin but of the retainers. On all these points Lk's account may well be more historical than those of Mt and Mk. Further, in contrast to Mt 26:68; Mk 14:65 (see notes) Jesus is blindfolded, so that the mockery becomes a guessing-game as well known in the ancient world as in any age.

s. Whereas Mk and Mt have two hearings, Lk has only one, and that in the morning, probably held in the 'Tribunal', a building adjacent to the Temple; see Mt 26:57r.

t. 'elders' here means the whole Sanhedrin, not merely one of its three component bodies (the elders); of these, Lk names the two most influential (chief priests and scribes).

u. Lk omits the 'you will see' of Mk and Mt and also the allusion to Dn. Perhaps he wanted to avoid the suggestion of a parousia soon to come which could arise from a misunderstanding of this saying.

v. Lk distinguishes more clearly than Mt and Mk the two titles 'Christ', v. 67, and 'son of God', v. 70. Cf. Jn 10:24–39.

w. Lk has neither false witnesses (but cf. Ac 6:11–14) nor explicit sentence of death. He certainly seems to use a different source from Mt and Mk.

23 a. Lk's account lies half-way between the less detailed and less dramatic accounts of Mk and Mt, and the prolonged interview in Jn.

b. Lk only. His information might have come from Manaen, 'who had been brought up with Herod the tetrarch', Ac 13:1. It was legally acceptable for a Roman magistrate to refer a prisoner to the ruler of the territory of his origin, in this case Herod Antipas, as tetrarch of Galilee.

c. The ceremonial dress of princes; Herod's gibe at the royal claim of Jesus, v. 3.

d. add. v. 17 'He was under obligation to release one man for them every feast day'; this seems to be an explanatory gloss, cf. Mt 27:15 and par.

e. Lk, like Jn, emphasises Pilate's wish to let Jesus go free, and mentions the procurator's declaration of Christ's innocence three times, cf. Jn 18:38; 19:4,6.

f. Cf. v. 16. Lk does not say what the punishment was; in Mt 27:26–31 and par. it is scourging. Unlike Mk and Mt, but like Jn, Lk regards the punishment as a conciliatory measure designed to avert a sentence not yet pronounced.

g. The Talmud records that noblewomen of Jerusalem were accustomed to give sedative drinks to condemned criminals.

For look, the days are surely coming when people will say, "Blessed are those 29 11:27 who are barren, the wombs that have never borne children, the breasts that have
Ho 9:14
Ho 10:8 never suckled!" ·Then they will begin to say to the mountains, "Fall on us!"; to the 30
Ezk 21:3,8; hills, "Cover us!" ·For if this is what is done to green wood, what will be done 31
23:31
22:37 when the wood is dry?'[h] ·Now they were also leading out two others, criminals, to 32
Is 53:12 be executed with him.

‖Mt 27:35–38 The crucifixion[i]
‖Mk 15:24–28
‖Jn 19:17–24 When they reached the place called The Skull, there they crucified him and the two 33
Mt 18:21seq.,35 criminals, one on his right, the other on his left. ·[j]Jesus said, 'Father, forgive 34
Ac 7:60
Ps 22:18 them; they do not know what they are doing.'[k] Then they cast lots to share out his clothing.

‖Mt 27:39–43 The crucified Christ is mocked ‖Mk 15:29–32[a]
The people stayed there watching. As for the leaders, they jeered at him with the 35
2:26j words, 'He saved others, let him save himself if he is the Christ of God, the Chosen
•9:35i
Mt 27:48 One.' ·The soldiers mocked him too, coming up to him, offering him vinegar, 36 and saying, 'If you are the king of the Jews, save yourself.' ·Above him there was 37, 38 Jn 19:19 an inscription: 'This is the King of the Jews'.

The good thief

Mt 27:44 One of the criminals hanging there abused him: 'Are you not the Christ?[l] Save 39
Mk 15:32[b] yourself and us as well.' ·But the other spoke up and rebuked him. 'Have you no 40 fear of God at all?' he said. 'You got the same sentence as he did, ·but in our case 41 we deserved it: we are paying for what we did. But this man has done nothing wrong.' ·Then he said, 'Jesus, remember me when you come into your kingdom.'[m] 42 2 Co 12:4 He answered him, 'In truth I tell you, today you will be with me in paradise.' 43
Rv 2:7

‖Mt 27:45–50 The death of Jesus
‖Mk 15:33–37
‖Jn 19:25–30 It was now about the sixth hour and the sun's light failed, so that darkness came 44 over the whole land until the ninth hour.[n] ·The veil of the Sanctuary was torn 45
Ps 31:5 right down the middle. ·Jesus cried out in a loud voice saying, 'Father, into your 46 hands I commit my spirit.' With these words he breathed his last.

Mt 27:51–56 After the death
‖Mk 15:38–41
‖Jn 19:31–37 When the centurion saw what had taken place, he gave praise to God and said, 47
Ac 3:14i 'Truly, this was an upright man.' ·And when all the crowds who had gathered for 48 the spectacle saw what had happened, they went home beating their breasts.
Ps 38:11 All his friends stood at a distance; so also did the women who had accompanied 49
8:2–3;24:10 him from Galilee and saw all this happen.

‖Mt 27:57–61 The burial
‖Mk 15:42–47
‖Jn 19:38–42 And now a member of the Council arrived, a good and upright man named Joseph. 50
He had not consented to what the others had planned and carried out. He came 51 from Arimathaea, a Jewish town, and he lived in the hope of seeing the kingdom of God. ·This man went to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus. ·He then took it 52, 53 down, wrapped it in a shroud and put it in a tomb which was hewn in stone and which had never held a body. ·It was Preparation day and the Sabbath was 54 beginning to grow light.[o]
Meanwhile the women who had come from Galilee with Jesus were following 55 behind. They took note of the tomb and how the body had been laid.
Mk 16:1 Then they returned and prepared spices and ointments. And on the Sabbath day 56 they rested, as the Law required.

VII: AFTER THE RESURRECTION

Mt 28:10f

The empty tomb. The angel's message

‖Mt 28:1–8
‖Mk 16:1–8
‖Jn 20:1–2

24 On the first day of the week, at the first sign of dawn, they went to the tomb with the spices they had prepared. ·They found that the stone had been rolled away from the tomb, ·but on entering they could not find the body of the Lord Jesus. ·As they stood there puzzled about this, two men in brilliant clothes suddenly appeared at their side. ·Terrified, the women bowed their heads to the ground. But the two said to them, 'Why look among the dead for someone who is alive? ·He is not here; he has risen. Remember what he told you when he was still in Galilee: [a] ·that the Son of man was destined to be handed over into the power of sinful men and be crucified, and rise again on the third day.' ·And they remembered his words.

9:30g

9:22e

The apostles refuse to believe the women

‖Mt 28:10,17
‖Mk 16:10–11,14
‖Jn 20:18,25,29

8:2–3

And they returned from the tomb and told all this to the Eleven and to all the others. ·The women were Mary of Magdala, Joanna, and Mary the mother of James. And the other women with them also told the apostles, ·but this story of theirs seemed pure nonsense, and they did not believe them.

Peter at the tomb

‖Jn 20:3–10

[b]Peter, however, went off to the tomb, running. He bent down and looked in and saw the linen cloths but nothing else; he then went back home, amazed at what had happened.

24:24

The road to Emmaus

‖Mk 16:12–13

Now that very same day, two of them were on their way to a village called Emmaus, seven miles [c] from Jerusalem, ·and they were talking together about all that had happened. ·And it happened that as they were talking together and discussing it, Jesus himself came up and walked by their side; ·but their eyes were prevented from recognising him. [d] ·He said to them, 'What are all these things that you are discussing as you walk along?' They stopped, their faces downcast. [e]

Then one of them, called Cleopas, answered him, 'You must be the only person staying in Jerusalem who does not know the things that have been happening there

h. If green wood is burnt that is not meant for burning (allusion to Christ's condemnation), what is to happen to dry wood (the truly guilty)?

i. A comparison with Mk and Mt shows how Lk has softened the harshness of the crucifixion: Luke's crowd, vv. 27,35,48, is more inquisitive than hostile, and repents in the end, v. 48; Jesus does not utter the seemingly despairing cry, 'My God, my God, why have you deserted me?'; his ministry of forgiveness goes on to the last, vv. 34,39–43; he dies committing his spirit into the hands of his Father, v. 46.

j. This verse is retained despite its omission by some good and diverse ancient authorities.

k. These words of Jesus recall Is 53:12. The same view of the causes of his death will be repeated, Ac 3:17; 13:27; 1 Co 2:8. Stephen the deacon will pray in the same spirit, Ac 7:60, following the example left by the Master to all his disciples, 1 P 2:23; see Mt 18:21–22k.

l. In the persons of the 'bad thief' and the 'good thief', Jesus is given recognition as Christ, v. 39, and King, v. 42: the titles which were respectively the formal charges in the trial before the Jews and the trial before Pilate.

m. Or else 'in your kingly power', i.e. to establish your kingdom. var. 'when you come with (i.e. in possession of) your kingdom'.

n. Cosmic phemomena which characterise the Day of the Lord, see Mt 27:51–53x.

o. Or possibly 'was shining'. The Gk word could indicate either sunlight or lamplight.

24 a. Lk does not intend to speak of the Galilean apparitions; he therefore modifies Mk 16:7, just as earlier he omitted Mk 14:28.

b. In spite of its omission by several witnesses, this v. is to be retained. In style both Lukan and Johannine, it represents a tradition common to the third and fourth gospels. This is echoed in 24:24 and plainly implies that Peter was not alone in his visit.

c. lit. 'sixty stadia' (furlongs); var. (with less support) 'one hundred and sixty'. • The identity of the village is disputed. The story that follows is of a stamp different from the other resurrection appearances, bearing many similarities to the story of Philip and the eunuch in Ac 8:26–40; in each case initial bewilderment is dispersed by instruction, and the stories conclude respectively with a eucharist and a baptism.

d. In the appearances described by Lk and Jn, the disciples do not at first recognise the Lord: they need a word or a sign, 24:30f,35,37,39–43; Jn 20:14,16,20; 21:4,6–7; cf. Mt 28:17. While maintaining its identity, the body of the Risen One is in a new state which modifies its exterior form, Mk 16:12, and transcends the physical limitations of this world, Jn 20:19. On the condition of the risen body, see 1 Co 15:44w.

e. var. 'What are these things that you are discussing as you walk along and look sad'.

these last few days.' •He asked, 'What things?' They answered, 'All about Jesus of 19
Mt 2:23*l* Nazareth,[l] who showed himself a prophet powerful in action and speech before Mt 16:14c Ac 7:22 God and the whole people; •and how our chief priests and our leaders handed him 20 over to be sentenced to death, and had him crucified. •Our own hope had been 21 1:54,68;2:38 that he would be the one to set Israel free. And this is not all: two whole days have now gone by since it all happened; •and some women from our group have 22 astounded us: they went to the tomb in the early morning, •and when they could 23 24:9seq. not find the body, they came back to tell us they had seen a vision of angels who declared he was alive. •Some of our friends[g] went to the tomb and found everything 24 exactly as the women had reported, but of him they saw nothing.'

Mk 4:13b 9:22e;16:29,31; 18:31e Mt 8:10b Ac 3:24s 1 P 1:11 Then he said to them, 'You foolish men! So slow to believe all that the prophets 25 have said! •Was it not necessary that the Christ should suffer before entering into 26 his glory?' •Then, starting with Moses and going through all the prophets, he 27 explained to them the passages throughout the scriptures that were about himself.

When they drew near to the village to which they were going, he made as if to go 28 on; •but they pressed him to stay with them saying, 'It is nearly evening, and the 29 day is almost over.' So he went in to stay with them. •Now while he was with them 30 at table, he took the bread and said the blessing; then he broke it and handed it to 24:16d them. •And their eyes were opened and they recognised him; but he had vanished 31 from their sight. •Then they said to each other, 'Did not our hearts burn within us 32 as he talked to us on the road and explained the scriptures to us?'

They set out that instant and returned to Jerusalem. There they found the 33
Eleven assembled together with their companions, •who said to them, 'The Lord 34
1 Co 15:5 has indeed risen and has appeared to Simon.' •Then they told their story of 35 24:16d what had happened on the road and how they had recognised him at the breaking of bread.[h]

Jn 20:19–23 Jesus appears to the apostles

They were still talking about all this when he himself stood among them and said to 36
1:12g;24:16d them, 'Peace be with you!' •In a state of alarm and fright, they thought they were 37 seeing a ghost. •But he said, 'Why are you so agitated, and why are these doubts 38 stirring in your hearts? •See by my hands and my feet that it is I myself. Touch 39 me and see for yourselves; a ghost has no flesh and bones as you can see I have.'
1:14i [i]And as he said this he showed them his hands and his feet.[j] •Their joy was so great 40, 41
Mt 8:10b that they still could not believe it, as they were dumbfounded; so he said to them,
Jn 21:5 'Have you anything here to eat?' •And they offered him a piece of grilled fish, 42
Jn 21:9–10,13 which he took and ate before their eyes. 43

Last instructions to the apostles

Then[k] he told them, 'This is what I meant when I said, while I was still with you, 44 9:22e;24:25–27 that everything written about me in the Law of Moses, in the Prophets and in the Mk 4:13b Psalms, was destined to be fulfilled.' •He then opened their minds to understand 45
Ac 2:23*o* the scriptures, •and he said to them, 'So it is written that the Christ would suffer 46
Ho 6:2 and on the third day rise from the dead, •and that, in his name, repentance for the 47
Ac 10:40n Mt 3:2 forgiveness of sins would be preached to all nations, beginning from Jerusalem.
2:38*o* Mt 28:19–20 Mk 16:15–16 Jn 14:26r ‖Ac 1:4,8k; 2:33u Ga 3:14 Ep 1:13 You are witnesses to this. 48
'And now I am sending upon you what the Father has promised.[l] Stay in the 49 city, then, until you are clothed with the power from on high.'

The ascension

‖Mk 16:19 ‖Ac 1:9,12 Lv 9:22 Si 50:20 9:51m 1:14i 2:20g Then he took them out as far as the outskirts of Bethany, and raising his hands he 50 blessed them. •Now as he blessed them, he withdrew from them and was carried 51 up to heaven.[m] •They worshipped him and[n] then went back to Jerusalem full of 52 joy; •and they were continually in the Temple praising God.[o] 53

f. var. 'the Nazarene'. See Mt 2:23*l*.

g. Either, 'Peter' of v. 12 stands for 'the leading apostles'; or else Lk is following the same tradition as Jn 20:3–10 of a visit to the tomb by Peter and the Beloved Disciple.

h. In Ac (2:42gg) Lk uses this as a technical term for the Eucharist; probably it means the same here.

i. In spite of its omission by some good witnesses, this v. should be retained.

j. Writing for Greeks who scoffed at the idea of bodily resurrection, Lk underlines the physical reality of Christ's risen body, cf. v. 43.

k. The impression given is that all these events took place on the same day, the day of resurrection. See Mt 28:10f. But Ac 1:1–8 presupposes a period of forty days.

l. That is, the Holy Spirit, see Jn 1:33x; Ac 1:1–8; 2:33,39; Ga 3:14,22; 4:6; Ep 1:13.

m. om. 'and was carried up to heaven'. This omission is made by good authorities in the Latin/Western text and in other types of text, but is probably an attempt to avoid an Ascension on the day of Resurrection itself, which seems to clash with that of Ac 1:3,9 forty days later.

n. om. 'They worshipped him, and'.

o. Lk's Gospel ends where it began, in the Temple; its last word is of joy and praise.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO

JOHN

INTRODUCTION TO THE GOSPEL AND LETTERS OF JOHN

The Gospel

The first ending to the fourth Gospel (20:31) specifies the book's literary form. It is a 'gospel', just as the preaching of the earlier Church was a 'gospel'; i.e. it proclaims that Jesus is Messiah and Son of God, and its teaching, based on 'signs' that Jesus gave, is to bring the reader to believe in the Messiah and so to attain life. The fourth Gospel, therefore, in spite of all indications of its late composition, is not unrelated to the most primitive Christian kerygma, or message, and it preserves both the structure and the chief points of this message, e.g. the Holy Spirit descends, as the Baptist testifies, to point out Jesus as Messiah, 1:31–34; Christ's 'glory' is manifested in his work and word, 1:35–12:50; his death, resurrection and subsequent apparitions are described, 13:1–20:20; the apostles are sent out with the gift of the Spirit and the power to forgive sins, 20:21–29. The book claims, moreover, to fulfil the condition that (see Ac 1:8k) qualifies a witness as 'apostolic': i.e. it offers an (unnamed) eyewitness for its guarantor, 'the disciple Jesus loved', who took part in the events of the Passion, see Jn 13:23; 19:26,35; compare 18:15seq., saw the empty tomb, 20:2seq., and the risen Christ, 21:7,20–24, and was perhaps one of the first two disciples of Jesus, 1:35seq.

There are some features peculiar to the fourth Gospel that mark it off sharply from the Synoptics. In the first place, it is far more concerned than the Synoptics to bring out the significance of the events of Christ's life and of all that he did and said. The things Christ did were 'signs': their meaning, hidden at first, could be fully understood only after his glorification, 2:22; 12:16; 13:17. The things he said had a deeper meaning not perceived at the time, see 2:20g; it was the business of the Spirit who spoke in the name of the risen Christ, to remind the disciples of what Jesus had said, to deepen their understanding of it, and to 'lead' them 'into the whole truth', see 14:26r. The Gospel according to John looks back on the earthly life of Jesus in the light of this completed understanding.

In the second place, the author seems to have been influenced to a considerable extent by ideas current in certain sections of Judaism, ideas that are reflected in the Essene documents of Qumran. In this school of thought the great emphasis laid on 'knowledge' has given its vocabulary the sort of tinge to be found in later Gnostic literature: e.g. the contrasting pairs 'light/darkness', 'truth/lies', 'angel of light/angel of darkness (Beliar)' which all have a dualist flavour. At Qumran—in view of its expectation of an imminent coming of God—a particular stress was laid both on the need for unity and on the necessity for mutual love. All these ideas which recur in the fourth Gospel are characteristic of the Judaeo-Christian milieu in which it must have originated.

Moreover, this Gospel is far more interested than the Synoptics in worship and sacraments. It relates the life of Jesus to the Jewish liturgical year and associates his miracles with the principal feasts; the Temple is often given as the setting both for them and for Christ's discourses. Jesus asserts that he himself is the focus of a religion, restored 'in spirit and in truth', 4:24, but a religion also which is expressed and realised in the sacraments. The dialogue with Nicodemus includes all the essentials of a baptismal instruction, 3:1–21, and the narratives of the man born blind and of the paralytic seem to presuppose the ideas of baptism as light, 9:1–39, and new life 5:1–14; 5:21–24. Ch. 6 by itself is a complete collection of teachings on the Eucharist, but the entire Gospel is pervaded by the concept of the Christian Passover, replacing the Jewish Passover, 1:29,36; 2:13; 6:4; 19:36u. Jewish purificatory rites, 2:6; 3:25, give way to a purification of the soul by Word, 15:3, and Spirit, 20:22seq. In this way the life of Christ is seen as directly related to a living liturgical and sacramental Christianity.

The fourth Gospel is a complex work; it is related to the earliest Christian preaching, and yet at the same time it gives us the results of a quest, completed under the guidance of the Holy Spirit, for a deeper and more rewarding apprehension of the mystery of Jesus.

Each of the evangelists has his own approach to Christ's person and mission. For John he is the Word made flesh, come to give life, 1:14, and this, the mystery of the Incarnation, dominates the whole of John's thought. He expresses its theology in concrete terms: Jesus is sent; Jesus bears witness. Christ is God's message, he is the Word sent down to earth by God, to whom he must return when his task is complete, see 1:1a. This task of the Word is to declare the hidden things of God; and to be witness to all that he has seen and heard from the Father himself, see 3:11e. As credentials God has given him certain works or 'signs' to perform; these demand more than human power and prove that he has been sent by the God who is active in him, see 2:11f; through them is glimpsed his glory which will not be revealed fully till the day of his resurrection, see 1:14n, when the Son of man is to be 'lifted up' as Isaiah foretold, Is 53:12 (LXX), to return to the Father by way of the cross, see Jn 12:32j, and to resume the glory he had with God 'before the world was made', 17:5f,24. This is the glory about which the prophets learned through revelation (see 5:27; 12:41; 19:37 and references), and the revealing of this glory is a theophany, or divine self-revelation, that is at once both the culmination and final eclipse of all those other theophanies that had taken place already, whether that given in the act of creation, 1:1, or those given to Moses, 1:17, Jacob, 1:51, Abraham, 8:56, or the prophets. The glory of the 'Day of Yahweh', see Am 5:18m, is identified with the 'Day' of Jesus, Jn 8:56, and more particularly with his Hour, 2:4e, which is the hour of his 'lifting up' and of his glorification. In that hour is revealed the super-human majesty of him who was 'sent', 8:24g, the majesty of one who came to the world to give life, 3:35t, to all those whose hearts were opened by faith to the saving message he brought, 3:11e. For this 'salvation' and for this alone the Son was 'sent', and in this way his 'sending' was the supreme manifestation of the Father's love for the world, 17:6g.

In the Synoptic Gospels the revelation of Christ's glory is associated primarily with his eschatological 'coming', his return at the end of time, Mt 16:27seq. The basic elements of traditional eschatology: the expectation of the 'Last Day', Jn 6:39seq.; 11:24; 12:48, of the 'coming' of Jesus, 14:3; 21:22seq., of the resurrection of the dead, 5:28seq.; 11:24, and of the last judgement, 3:36; 5:29, are all found in the fourth Gospel, but in it this eschatology receives a new and double emphasis: not only is the End here and now—it is also an inner principle and not an external event. In this way, the 'coming' of the Son of man is interpreted primarily as the 'coming' of Jesus to this world through his Incarnation, his 'lifting up' on the cross, and his return to his own disciples through the Holy Spirit. In the same way the 'judgement' is presented as something already taking place in human hearts, and eternal life (John's counterpart of the synoptic 'kingdom') is made to be something actually present, already in the possession of those who have faith. That these 'last things' should be seen as present is not surprising, since salvation throughout history centres on Christ's historical life and death and resurrection. Beyond the Jews who rejected Jesus looms something more fundamental—the 'world', see 1:9,10,10g, the 'darkness', see 8:12b, which is controlled by Satan, the 'prince of this world', see 1 Jn 2:13seq.; who challenges God and his Anointed. There is no one who is not involved in this dramatic conflict of the spirit: the world, face to face with the Word, suffers its 'judgement', 12:31–32, receives its verdict, and admits defeat, 16:7–11,33. Christ gives his life, see 10:18j, he is 'lifted up' on the cross, but willingly, and only in order to enter into his glory, see 12:32j, a glory that is made visible even in this world to the confusion of unbelievers and ending in the defeat of Satan once and for all. God's victory over evil, his salvation of the world, is already guaranteed by Christ's resurrection in glory; the return of Jesus at the Last Day will be nothing but its confirmation.

It is difficult to determine the precise scheme adopted by John for this great theme. In the first place, the arrangement of the Gospel is not always easy to explain: the sequence of ch. 4, 5, 6, 7:1–24 is awkward; ch. 15–17 are placed after the farewell of 14:31; passages like 3:31–36 and 12:44–50 break into their context. The way the Gospel was both written and edited may be responsible for this. It would seem that we have only the end-stage of a slow process that has brought together not only component parts of different ages, but also corrections, additions and sometimes even more than one revision of the same discourse. Finally all this was published not by the eyewitness himself but by disciples after his death, 21:24. It seems that these disciples had a number of Johannine fragments which they were reluctant to abandon; though uncertain of their place, they worked them into the primitive gospel.

Many ways of dividing the Gospel have been suggested. These all satisfy some of the data but are frequently far too rigidly systematic. It is best to follow such clear indications as are given by the evangelist himself. In the first place there is no doubt that he attaches special importance to the Jewish liturgical feasts which he uses to punctuate his narrative. These are: three feasts of Passover, 2:13; 6:4; 11:55, one unnamed feast, 5:1, one feast of Shelters, 7:2, and one feast of Dedication, 10:22. Secondly, the evangelist on several occasions very deliberately calculates the number of days with a view to dividing the life of Jesus into set periods. Thus we have the first week of Christ's ministry, 1:19–2:11, the week of the feast of Shelters, 7:2, 14, 37, and the week of the Passion, 12:1,12; 19:31,42, which latter is unified by the symbolic burial that begins it, 12:7, and the actual burial with which it ends, 19:38seq; in the same way, 4:45 harks back to the first Passover, see 2:13–25, and in this way brackets together a whole section. With the above two points in mind, the following division may be suggested:

A Prologue, 1:1–18; 'In the beginning . . .'

B Jesus' ministry
1 Proclamation of the new order, 1:19–4:54; the inaugural week; the events of the first Passover
2 The second feast: a Sabbath in Jerusalem; the first opposition, 5:1–47
3 The second Passover, in Galilee; new opposition, 6:1–71
4 The feast of Shelters: the great messianic revelation; the great rejection, 7:1–10:21
5 The feast of the Dedication: decision to kill Jesus, 10:22–10:42
6 Jesus moves towards his death, 11:1–12:50

C Jesus' Hour. The Passover of the Lamb of God, 13:1–20:31
1 Jesus' last meal with the disciples, 13:1–17:26
2 The Passion, 18–19
3 The resurrection; commissioning of the disciples, 20:1–29
4 First ending of the Gospel, 20:30, 31

D Epilogue, 21:1–25. The risen Lord teaches the church

The plan of this Gospel thus implies that Jesus fulfilled the institutions of the Jewish religion and in so doing brought them to an end.

Is the fourth Gospel a source of information independent of the three Synoptics? On this problem, and with due caution, the following observations may be made. There are several indications that John was familiar with the traditions embodied in the Synoptics. At times his omissions would be incomprehensible unless he was presuming that the facts would be known from some other source, but there are also times when he seems anxious to fill out the synoptic tradition and add another emphasis. Nevertheless, modern studies continue to provide more and more evidence for the originality and independence of the Johannine tradition. Even when narrating episodes found in the Synoptic Gospels, John remains so much himself that direct literary dependence becomes impossible: the facts must have reached the author by some other route and he must always be considered a source in his own right, an independent witness to the primitive tradition. Between John and Luke the relationship is much closer, close enough to make it possible that when Luke wrote his Gospel he made use not perhaps of the fourth Gospel as it stands but of the traditions that went to its making. This applies especially to the Passion and Resurrection narratives, but the contrary is also possible, namely, that the final editor of the fourth Gospel was influenced by the third.

What then is the historical value of John's Gospel? With the growing scholarly appreciation of the independence of the Johannine tradition there has grown also a recognition of its historical significance. On many points, for example, that have to do with Christ's ministry, John is more precise than the Synoptics; the duration of the ministry and the chronology of the Passion seem to be more exactly defined. Indeed, one of the most exact chronological indications in any of the gospels is to be found in John 2:20, and it is supported by Lk 3:1. Topography in the fourth Gospel is also much more detailed than it is in the Synoptics, and this information has been confirmed more than once by recent discoveries (e.g. the pool with five porticos, 5:2). Moreover, throughout the Gospel we meet with factual detail that displays the author's close familiarity with the Jewish religious practice as also with the rabbinic mind and with the casuistry of the doctors of the law. The portrait of Jesus himself as painted by the evangelist represents him as transcending this world but nevertheless as someone real and entirely human: simple and humble even in his risen glory. Finally it may be remarked that if John had not been convinced of the historical truth of all he wrote, his Gospel would remain an insoluble enigma.

But it is important to realise that 'history' in this context is very different from the concept of modern historians. The absorbing concern of the evangelist is the meaning of those historical events which were at once both divine and human, events which were at one and the same time both historical and theological; events which flowered in time but were rooted in eternity. The aim of the evangelist is to make his account a faithful one, something which he intends should be believed; his theme is a supernatural event, played out in human history by Jesus Christ, the Word who became incarnate for the salvation of the human race. With this in mind, the evangelist has selected his material, carefully choosing events which, it seemed to him, could be presented symbolically. In this way he has deepened their meaning and given them new overtones. The miracles he describes are 'signs': they not only manifest Christ's glory, they are also symbolic of the gifts (the new purification, the living bread, light and life) he has brought to the world; even non-miraculous events can be presented in a way that brings out their spiritual meaning, a way that makes them vehicles of the divine mysteries (see 2:19–21; 9:7; 11:51seq.; 13:30; 19:31–37 with notes). John can see spiritual depths even in the most material elements of history: when Jesus comes, it is as the light of the world that he comes: his whole life is a battle against darkness; his death is a judgement on the entire world; and in him are realised the types of the Old Testament—he is the lamb of God, 1:29, the new Temple, 2:21, the healing serpent of Moses, 3:14, the bread of life prefigured by manna, 6:35, the perfect shepherd, 10:11, the true vine, 15:1. In John's portrait of him Jesus is presented as divine but it is a portrait filled with the details of Jesus' true humanity: it records the Jesus of history, but Jesus as seen in all his depths as Saviour of the world: John's symbolism, therefore, does not compromise history but presupposes it; for him there is no tension between the symbolic and the factual: his symbols are the real events of history, and his symbolism is inherent in these events; it not only explains the inner meaning of these historic events, but to John, the privileged witness of the incarnate Word, all this symbolism would be useless if these events had not taken place.

As for the author of this highly rewarding and complex Gospel, tradition almost unanimously makes him John the apostle, the son of Zebedee. Before 150 AD the fourth Gospel was known and used by Ignatius of Antioch, by the author of the Odes of Solomon, by Papias, by Justin, and probably by Clement of Rome, which makes it clear that the work was already considered to have apostolic authority. The first explicit testimony is that of Irenaeus, c. 180: 'Last of all John, too, the disciple of the Lord who leant against his breast, himself brought out a gospel while he was in Ephesus.' At about the same time, Clement of Alexandria, Tertullian and the Muratorian Canon expressly attribute the fourth Gospel to John the apostle, though this authorship was denied in about AD 200 by some opponents of the Montanists. These last had used the fourth Gospel to bolster their doctrine of the Spirit, but their opponents' reaction, prompted by theological considerations, has no supporting evidence from tradition.

The matter is, however, not as simple as this. It is today freely accepted that the fourth Gospel underwent a complex development before it reached its final form. Some commentators hold that the evangelist used a variety of sources which he reshaped and expanded to adapt them to his own theology. One has, for example, isolated a 'Sign Source' containing the miracles related in the fourth Gospel, a collection of 'sayings' attributed to Christ, and finally an account of the Passion and Resurrection distinct from that of the Synoptic Gospels. Following him, several authors have taken steps to work out the nature and scope of this presumed Sign Source. On this hypothesis the attribution of the gospel to the apostle John would become most unlikely: could an eyewitness have used sources to recount his own memories? At best one could suppose that one of the presumed sources was derived from an eyewitness. Other commentators prefer to invoke the hypothesis of a primitive gospel, much simpler than the present one, amplified and developed in several stages during the second half of the first century AD. This hypothesis can appeal for support to the numerous doublets which occur, indications that a single tradition can have evolved along different lines which finally converged in the Gospel as we have it. On this view it is possible to attribute to the apostle John, if not the final editing of the Gospel (which must be the work of his disciples—Jn 21:24), at least the genesis of the primitive gospel. Other indications of this are the topographical and chronological details, which are striking by their precision and coherence.

Must any connection be maintained between the fourth Gospel in whatever form and the apostle John? According to Jn 21:24 it was written by 'the disciple Jesus loved'; should this disciple be identified with the apostle John? An indication that he should is provided by his special friendship with Peter, according to Jn 13:23seq.; 18:15; 20:3–10; 21:20–23. Luke tells us that this was in fact the case with the apostle John (Lk 22:8; Ac 3:1–4; 4:13; 8:14). Nevertheless the argument is not conclusive nor without its difficulties: the apostle John was a fisherman at the Lake of Tiberias; by contrast the 'disciple Jesus loved' lived in or around Jerusalem, since he appears for the first time at Jesus' last supper at Jerusalem (Jn 13:23) and is known to the High Priest (Jn 18:16). In any case, the possibility remains that the attribution of the genesis of the gospel to the apostle John could be the result of a confusion between this John and a certain John the Elder, mentioned by Papias, Bishop of Hierapolis, who was writing c. 135 AD. According to Eusebius of Caesarea, this confusion was already made by Irenaeus, c. 180 AD.

The Letters

The three letters we have, and which by tradition bear John's name, are so like the gospel in style and doctrine that it is difficult not to accept that they issue from the same school.

For a time the Johannine authorship of the second and third letters was in doubt, and traces of this uncertainity are to be found in Origen, Eusebius of Caesarea and Jerome, while the church of Antioch and the Syrian churches in general refused for a long time to accept them; however, these brief, incidental letters are of little doctrinal import, and it is hard to see how they could have forced their way into the canon had they not in fact been closely related to the Gospel of John.

The third letter was probably written first: it is an attempt to settle the dispute on jurisdiction which had arisen in one of the churches acknowledging the author's jurisdiction; the second letter was written to another church in answer to those who publicly denied the reality of the Incarnation. The first letter, however, is by far the most important: its form is that of an encyclical letter to the Christian communities of Asia, threatened with disintegration under the impact of the early heresies. In this letter the author summarises the entire content of his religious experience. He successively develops the parallel themes of light, 1:5seq.; uprightness, 2:29seq.; love, 4:7–8seq.; and truth, 5:6seq.; and then, taking these as a basis, he goes on to show how we as children of God must necessarily live the life of integrity which, for John, is the only thing which fulfils the twin commandments: faith in Jesus Christ, the son of God, and love of the brethren (see notes to 1:3,7). Of the three Johannine letters this is the closest to his Gospel both in style and doctrine; it must have been written about the same time, but whether before or after the Gospel is something that cannot now be determined.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO JOHN

A: PROLOGUE

Jn 8:24k;10:30p Gn 1:1–5 Ph 2:6 1 Jn 1:1–2

1 In the beginning was the Word: [a] the Word was with God and the Word was God.
He was with God in the beginning.

1 Co 8:6 Col 1:15–20 Heb 1:1–3

Through him all things came into being, not one thing came into being except through him.

3:35t 3:11f

What has come into being [b] in him was life, [c] life that was the light of men;

8:12b 1 Jn 2:8

and light shines in darkness, and darkness could not overpower it. [d]

A man came, sent by God.
His name was John. [e]

1:19–34

He came as a witness,
to bear witness to the light,
so that everyone might believe through him.
He was not the light,
he was to bear witness to the light.

3:19;8:12b; 12:46 Ws 7:26

The Word was the real light that gives light to everyone;
he was coming into the world. [f]
He was in the world
that had come into being through him, and the world did not recognise him. [g]
He came to his own and his own people [h] did not accept him.

3:11e;10:35 Ho 2:1 Ga 3:26 Jm 1:18,21

But to those who did accept him
he gave power to become [i] children of God,

1 Jn 3:2;5:13

to those who believed in his name [j] who were born not from human stock or human desire

1 Jn 5:18

or human will but from God himself. [k]
The Word became flesh, [l]
he lived among us, [m]

17:5g Ex 25:8d;34:6c Lv 26:11–12 Dt 4:7b Is 40:5 Ho 2:22 1 Jn 1:1–3 and we saw his glory, [n]

the glory that he has from the Father as only Son of the Father, full of grace and truth. [o]

John witnesses to him. He proclaims:

=1:30

'This is the one of whom I said:

He who comes after me
has passed ahead of me
because he existed before me.'

16 Indeed, from his fullness we have, all of us, received— Col 1:19f;2:9–10
one gift replacing another,[p] 17 for the Law was given through Moses, 1:21t grace and truth have come through Jesus Christ.
18 No one has ever seen God; 3:11e,f;6:46; 17:6g Ex 33:20i Si 43:31 Col 1:15 1 Jn 4:12 it is the only Son,[q] who is close to the Father's heart, who has made him known.

B: JESUS' MINISTRY

I: PROCLAMATION OF THE NEW ORDER

THE MINISTRY OF JESUS

A: THE OPENING WEEK

The witness of John 1:7–8,15

19 This was the witness of John, when the Jews[r] sent to him priests and Levites from 5:33
20 Jerusalem to ask him, 'Who are you?' ·He declared, he did not deny but declared, Lk 3:15 Ac 13:25

1 a. The OT speaks of the Word of God, and of his Wisdom, present with God before the world was made, see Pr 8:22e; Ws 7:22i; by it all things were created; it is sent to earth to reveal the hidden designs of God; it returns to him with its work done, Pr 8:22–36; Ws 9:9–12; Si 24:3–22; Is 55:10–11. On its creative role, see also Gn 1:3,6; Jdt 16:14; Ps 33:6; Si 42:15; Is 40:8,26; 44:24–28; 48:13; on its mission, see Ps 107:20; 147:15–18; Ws 18:14–16. For John, too, 13:3; 16:28, the Word existed before the world in God, vv. 1,2; 8:24g; 10:30p; it has come on earth, vv. 9–14; 3:19; 9:39; 12:46, see Mk 1:38n, being sent by the Father, 3:17,34; 5:36,43; 6:29; 7:29; 8:42; 9:7; 10:36; 11:42; 17:3,25, cf. Lk 4:43, to perform a task, Jn 4:34k, namely, to deliver a message of salvation to the world, Jn 1:33x; 3:11e; with its mission accomplished it returns to the Father, Jn 1:18; 7:33; 8:21; 12:35; 13:3; 16:5; 17:11,13; 20:17. The Incarnation enabled the NT, and especially John, to see this separately and eternally existent Word-Wisdom as a person, but this personification is present also in other passages, such as Heb 1:1–2; 1 Jn 1:1–2; Rv 19:13.

b. Alternatively, these words may be joined with what precedes, to give 'and of all that has come to be not one thing had its being except through him'. In that case v. 4 would begin 'In him was life and that life . . .'

c. var. 'is life in him'.

d. The Light (Goodness; the Word) cannot be imprisoned by Darkness (Evil; the powers of evil), cf. 7:33seq.; 8:21; 12:31,32; 14:30; 1 Jn 2:8,14; 4:4; 5:18. Others translate 'could not understand'.

e. Vv. 6–8 form a parenthesis on the mission of John the Baptist. Similarly v. 15; see Mt 3:1 and par.

f. Other possible translations: 'The true light, that which enlightens every man, was coming into the world,' or 'He (the Word) was the real light that enlightens every man who comes into the world.'

g. The 'world' variously means: the cosmos or this earth, the human race, those hostile to God who hate Christ and his disciples, 7:7; 15:18,19; 17:14. This last sense coincides with the contemporary Jewish distinction between 'this world', 8:23 and passim, dominated by Satan, 12:31; 14:30; 16:11; 1 Jn 5:19, and 'the world to come' which possibly corresponds to John's 'eternal life', 12:25. The disciples are to remain in this world for the present, though not of it, 17:11,14seq., compare the pejorative sense of 'earth' in Rv 6:15; 13:3,8; 14:3; 17:2,5,8; see also Rm 8:16j.

h. Probably the Jews.

i. var. 'to be called'.

j. 'to those who believed in his name' omitted by many of the Fathers. Those who believe in the Son of God, 3:15j, themselves become children of God, Mt 5:9; 6:9; Rm 8:14; Ga 3:26*o*; 4:5d; Jm 1:27p; 1 Jn 3:1.

k. The same terms are used in the Book of Enoch, 15:4, to describe the birth of the giants, the product of the union of angels with the daughters of men. The original reading may be a shorter one, 'not from human stock or human desire'. • There are strong arguments for reading the verb in the singular, 'who was born', in which case the v. refers to Jesus' divine origin, not to the virgin birth.

l. Even though it is the place of revelation, the 'flesh' considered as frail and mortal denotes humanity, see 3:6; 17:2; Gn 6:3; Ps 56:5; Is 40:6. The use of this term, see Rm 7:5c, stresses the reality of the coming of Christ in human nature, which Jn constantly brings out. Later the term 'Incarnation' will come into use, see 1 Jn 4:2; 2 Jn 7; and in Paul Rm 1:3; Ga 4:4; Ph 2:7; Col 1:19.

m. The Incarnation of the Word makes God personally and visibly present; it is no longer a presence unseen and awe-inspiring as in the Tent and Temple of the old régime, Ex 25:8d; cf. Nb 35:34, nor merely the presence of divine Wisdom enshrined in Israel's Mosaic Law, Si 24:7–22; Ba 3:36–4:4.

n. The 'glory' is the manifestation of God's presence, Ex 24:16f. No one could see its brilliance and live, Ex 33:20i, but the human nature of the Word now screens this glory as the cloud once did. Yet at times it pierces the veil, at the transfiguration, for instance, cf. Lk 9:32,35 (alluded to in Jn 1:14?), and when Jesus works miracles—'signs' that God is active in him, Jn 2:11f; 11:40; cf. 14:24–27 and 15:7; 16:7seq. The resurrection will reveal the glory fully, see 17:5f.

o. 'Grace and truth' recalls the 'grace' (or 'love') and 'faithfulness' of God's self-revelation to Moses, Ex 34:6c, see Ho 2:16–22, with whom the Word is contrasted, see 2:11f; 6:31i.

p. An alternative translation is 'grace upon grace'.

q. var. 'God the only Son'. Jesus is the only Son, vv. 14,18; 3:16–18, beloved of the Father, 15:9; 17:23, in complete reciprocal intimacy with him, 10:30–38p; 14:10–11; 17:21, in knowledge and love, 5:20,30; 10:15; 14:31; cf. Mt 11:27 and par.

r. In Jn this usually indicates the Jewish religious authorities hostile to Jesus, see 2:18; 5:10; 7:13; 9:22; 18:12; 19:38; 20:19, but occasionally the Jews as a whole. Cf. v. 11h.

Mt 17:10–13.10c Mt 16:14c
'I am not the Christ.' ·So they asked, 'Then are you Elijah?' ' He replied, 'I am not.' 'Are you the Prophet?' ' He answered, 'No.' ·So they said to him, 'Who are you? We must take back an answer to those who sent us. What have you to say about yourself?' ·So he said, 'I am, as Isaiah prophesied: 21 22 23

Is 40:3 |Mt 3:3+
A voice of one that cries in the desert:
Prepare a way for the Lord.
Make his paths straight!'

Now those who had been sent were Pharisees, ·and they put this question to him, 24. 25
'Why are you baptising if you are not the Christ, and not Elijah, and not the Mt 3:6e;3:11par. 7:27j Mk 1:7 par. ·10:40 Prophet?' ·John answered them, 'I baptise with water; but standing among you— 26 unknown to you—·is the one who is coming after me; and I am not fit to undo the 27 strap of his sandal.' ·This happened at Bethany, on the far side of the Jordan,[u] 28 where John was baptising.

The next day, he saw Jesus coming towards him and said, 'Look, there is the 29
4:42+ Ex 12:1a Is 53:7.12 lamb of God[v] that takes away the sin of the world. ·It was of him that I said, 30
"Behind me comes one who has passed ahead of me because he existed before 1:1a;8:58 me." ·I did not know him myself, and yet my purpose in coming to baptise with 31 water was so that he might be revealed to Israel.' ·And John declared, 'I saw the 32 3:34 Is 11:2;61:1 Mt 3:16par. 1 S 9:17 3:5 Mt 3:11i Is 42:1 Lk 9:35;23:35 Spirit come down on him like a dove[w] from heaven and rest on him. ·I did not 33 know him myself, but he who sent me to baptise with water had said to me, "The man on whom you see the Spirit come down and rest is the one who is to baptise with the Holy Spirit."[x] ·I have seen and I testify that he is the Chosen One of 34
God.'[y]

Mt 4:18–20par. The first disciples

The next day as John stood there again with two of his disciples, Jesus went past, 35 and John looked towards him and said, 'Look, there is the lamb of God.' ·And the 36. 37 two disciples heard what he said and followed Jesus. ·Jesus turned round, saw 38 them following and said, 'What do you want?' They answered, 'Rabbi'—which means Teacher—'where do you live?' ·He replied, 'Come and see;' so they went 39 and saw where he lived, and stayed with him that day. It was about the tenth hour.[z]

One of these two who became followers of Jesus after hearing what John had 40 said was Andrew, the brother of Simon Peter. ·The first thing[aa] Andrew did was to 41 find his brother and say to him, 'We have found the Messiah'—which means the Mt 16:18–19.18g Mk 3:16 Christ—·and he took Simon to Jesus. Jesus looked at him and said, 'You are Simon 42 son of John; you are to be called Cephas'—which means Rock.

6:5;14:8 Mt 10:3 12:21 Mt 9:9 The next day, after Jesus had decided to leave for Galilee, he met Philip and 43 said, 'Follow me.' ·Philip came from the same town, Bethsaida, as Andrew and 44
Peter. ·Philip found Nathanael[bb] and said to him, 'We have found him of whom 45
1:21t;5:39q Dt 18:18e Ac 26:22+ ·7:41,42,52 Mt 13:54seq. Moses in the Law and the prophets wrote, Jesus son of Joseph, from Nazareth.'
Nathanael said to him, 'From Nazareth? Can anything good come from that 46 place?' Philip replied, 'Come and see.' ·When Jesus saw Nathanael coming he 47
Ps 32:2 Rm 2:29 said of him,[cc] 'There, truly, is an Israelite in whom there is no deception.'
Nathanael asked, 'How do you know me?' Jesus replied, 'Before Philip came to 48 call you, I saw you under the fig tree.'[dd] ·Nathanael answered, 'Rabbi, you are the 49 6:15;12:13 Son of God,[ee] you are the king of Israel.' ·Jesus replied, 'You believe that just 50 because I said: I saw you under the fig tree. You are going to see greater things Gn 28:10;17 Ezk 1:1 Mt 8:20h than that.' ·And then he added, 'In all truth I tell you, you will see heaven open 51 and the angels of God ascending and descending over the Son of man.'[ff]

21:2 The wedding at Cana

2 On the third day[a] there was a wedding at Cana in Galilee. The mother of Jesus 1 was there,[b] ·and Jesus and his disciples had also been invited. ·And they ran 2. 3 out of wine, since the wine provided for the feast had all been used, and the mother of Jesus said to him, 'They have no wine.' ·Jesus said, 'Woman,[c] what do you want 4 from me?[d] My hour[e] has not come yet.' ·His mother said to the servants, 'Do whatever he tells you.' ·There were six stone water jars standing there, meant for the ablutions that are customary among the Jews: each could hold twenty or thirty gallons. ·Jesus said to the servants, 'Fill the jars with water,' and they filled them to the brim. ·Then he said to them, 'Draw some out now and take it to the president of the feast.' ·They did this; the president tasted the water, and it had turned into wine. Having no idea where it came from—though the servants who had drawn the water knew—the president of the feast called the bridegroom ·and said, 'Everyone serves good wine first and the worse wine when the guests are well wined; but you have kept the best wine till now.'

Gn 41:55

Mk 7:3–4

This was the first of Jesus' signs:[f] it was at Cana in Galilee. He revealed his glory, and his disciples believed in him. ·After this he went down to Capernaum with his mother and his brothers and his disciples, but they stayed there only a few days.

Mt 26:29par
Lk 5:37par
•1:14n;4:54
Ex 4:30–31
Mt 4:13
20:17
Mt 12:46*o*
Ac 1:15s

B: THE PASSOVER

The cleansing of the Temple

When the time of the Jewish Passover was near Jesus went up to Jerusalem, ·and in the Temple he found people selling cattle and sheep and doves, and the money changers sitting there. ·Making a whip out of cord, he drove them all out of the Temple, sheep and cattle as well, scattered the money changers' coins, knocked their tables over ·and said to the dove sellers, 'Take all this out of here and stop using my Father's house as a market.' ·Then his disciples remembered the words of scripture: I am eaten up with zeal for your house. ·The Jews intervened and said, 'What sign can you show us that you should act like this?' ·Jesus answered,

‖Mt 21:12–13
‖Mk 11:11, 15–17
‖Lk 19:45–46
•Ne 13:7seq.
Mt 3:1–4

1:18+
Zc 14:21
Ps 69:9
4:48;6:30

s. On the expected return of Elijah, see Ml 3:23–24 and Mk 9:12.

t. From Dt 18:15,18e the Jews argued that the expected Messiah would be another Moses (the prophet par excellence, see Nb 12:7d) who would repeat on a grand scale the prodigies of the Exodus; see Jn 3:14; 6:14,30–31; 7:40,52; 13:1a; Ac 3:22–23; 7:20–44; Heb 3:1–11. See also Mt 16:14c.

u. Not the Bethany near Jerusalem, 11:18.

v. One of the most significant of John's symbols of Christ, cf. Rv 5:6,12; etc. It blends the idea of the 'servant' (Is 53), who takes all sin on himself and offers himself as a 'lamb of expiation' (Lv 14), with that of the Passover lamb (Ex 12:1a; see also Jn 19:36) in the ritual which symbolises Israel's redemption; cf. Ac 8:31–35; 1 Co 5:7; 1 P 1:18–20.

w. om. 'like a dove'.

x. This phrase sums up the whole purpose of the Messiah's coming, see v. 1a, namely, that humanity might be born again in the Spirit; the OT had already foretold it, see Ac 2:33u. The Spirit rests on him, 1:33; Is 11:2; 42:1; and so he can confer it on others (baptism in the Spirit, see here and Ac 1:5f), but only after his resurrection, 7:39; 16:7,8; 20:22; Ac 2. For Jesus 'came in the flesh', 1 Jn 4:2; 2 Jn 7, flesh that was corruptible, v. 14*l*, and it is only when he is 'lifted up' and has gone to the Father that his body, glorified now, is fully endowed with divine, life-giving power. Thenceforward the Spirit flows freely to the world from this body as from an inexhaustible spring: 7:37–39; 19:34r; see Rm 5:5e. For the water symbolism, see 4:1a.

y. var. 'the Son of God'.

z. About 4 pm. Throughout this first week the days are carefully noted: vv. 29, 35, 41, 43; 2:1a.

aa. var. 'early in the morning'.

bb. Perhaps the Bartholomew of the Synoptics, Mt 10:3 and par.; cf. Jn 21:2.

cc. 'of him'; var. 'of Nathanael' or 'to him'.

dd. Jesus' supernatural knowledge of persons and things is one of the features of Jn's portrait of him, see 2:24seq.; 4:17–19,29; 6:61,64,71; 13:1,11,27,28; 16:19,30; 18:4; 21:17.

ee. In this passage the phrase implies only that he is Messiah (like 'king of Israel'); see Mt 4:3d.

ff. Jacob's dream, Gn 28:10–17, will be fulfilled when the Son of man is 'lifted up', Jn 3:14i.

2 a. i.e. three days after the meeting with Philip and Nathanael. The opening events of the Gospel, therefore, are contained within one week of which almost every day is noticed, see 1:39z; it culminates in the manifestation of Christ's glory.

b. Mary is present when Jesus first manifests his glory; she is there again at the cross, 19:25–27. The two descriptions have several details in common, evidently of set purpose.

c. Unusual address from son to mother; the term is used again in 19:26, where its meaning becomes clear as an allusion to Gn 3:15,20; Mary is the new Eve, 'mother of the living'.

d. lit. 'What to me and to thee', a Semitic formula not infrequent in OT, Jg 11:12; 2 S 16:10; 19:23; 1 K 17:18; etc., and in NT, Mt 8:29; Mk 1:24; 5:7; Lk 4:34; 8:28. It is used to deprecate interference or, more strongly, to reject overtures of any kind. The shade of meaning can be deduced only from the context. Here, Jesus objects that his hour has not yet come.

e. The 'hour' of his glorification and of his return to the Father's right hand. Its approach is noted by the evangelist, 7:30; 8:20; 12:23,27; 13:1; 17:1; 19:27. This 'hour' is determined by the Father and cannot be anticipated, though the miracle worked through Mary's intervention is a prophetic symbol of it.

f. For credentials, every true prophet must have 'signs', or wonders worked in God's name, Is 7:11; see Jn 3:2; 6:29,30; 7:3,31; 9:16,33; of the Messiah it was expected that he would repeat the Mosaic miracles, Jn 1:21t. Jesus, therefore, works 'signs' in order to stimulate faith in his divine mission, vv. 11,23; 4:48–54; 11:15,42; 12:37; see also 3:11e. And indeed his 'works' show that God has sent him, 5:36; 10:25,37, that the Father is within him, 10:30p, manifesting the divine glory in power, 1:14n; it is the Father himself who does the works, 10:38; 14:10. But many refuse to believe, 3:12; 5:38–47; 6:36,64; 7:5; 8:45; 10:25; 12:37, and their sin remains, 9:41; 15:24.

Mt 26:61s 'Destroy this Temple, and in three days I will raise it up.'[g] •The Jews replied, 'It 20 1:14m has taken forty-six years to build this Temple: [h] are you going to raise it up again in three days?' •But he was speaking of the Temple that was his body,[i] •and when 21, 22 5:39q;14:26r; 20:9c Jesus rose from the dead, his disciples remembered that he had said this, and they believed the scripture and what he had said.

Jesus in Jerusalem

During his stay in Jerusalem for the feast of the Passover many believed in his 23
1:48dd name when they saw the signs that he did, •but Jesus knew all people and did not 24 trust himself to them; •he never needed evidence about anyone; he could tell what 25 someone had in him.

The conversation with Nicodemus

7:48,50–52;12: 42–43;19:39 3 There was one of the Pharisees called Nicodemus, a leader of the Jews, •who 1, 2 came to Jesus by night and said, 'Rabbi, we know that you have come from 2:11f God as a teacher; for no one could perform the signs that you do unless God were with him.' •Jesus answered: 3

In all truth I tell you,
no one can see the kingdom of God[a]
Mt 18:3 Jm 1:18 1 P 1:23 without being born from above.[b]

2:19g Nicodemus said, 'How can anyone who is already old be born? Is it possible to go 4 back into the womb again and be born?' •Jesus replied: 5

In all truth I tell you,
no one can enter the kingdom of God
1:33x Mt 3:5 Tt 3:5 without being born through water and the Spirit;[c] •Gn 6:3 •6:63 what is born of human nature is human; 6
what is born of the Spirit is spirit.
1 Co 15:44–50 Do not be surprised when I say: 7
You must be born from above.
Qo 11:5 The wind[d] blows where it pleases; 8
you can hear its sound,
but you cannot tell where it comes from or where it is going.
So it is with everyone who is born of the Spirit.

'How is that possible?' asked Nicodemus. •Jesus replied, 'You are the Teacher 9, 10 of Israel, and you do not know these things!

'In all truth I tell you, 11
3:32 we speak only about what we know[e] and witness only to what we have seen and yet you people reject our evidence.[f] 6:60–62 Ws 9:16–17 Ph 3:19seq. If you do not believe me 12 when I speak to you about earthly things, how will you believe me
when I speak to you about heavenly things?[g] 1:18;20:17h Pr 30:4 Rm 10:6 Ep 4:8–9 No one has gone up to heaven[h] 13 except the one who came down from heaven,
the Son of man;
1:21t;12:32j Nb 21:4–9 Ws 16:5–7 as Moses lifted up the snake in the desert, 14
so must the Son of man[i] be lifted up so that everyone who believes may have eternal life in him.[j] 15
For this is how God loved the world: 16
Gn 22 Mt 21:37par. Rm 5:8;8:32 Ep 2:4 1 Jn 4:9 he gave his only Son, so that everyone who believes in him may not perish
but may have eternal life.

17 For God sent his Son into the world 1:1a;4:34+ not to judge the world, but so that through him the world might be saved. 2 Co 5:19 18 No one who believes in him will be judged; 4:42n;12:47
but whoever does not believe is judged already, Ac 4:12 because that person does not believe in the Name of God's only Son. k 19 And the judgement is this:
though the light has come into the world 8:12b people have preferred darkness to the light
because their deeds were evil.
20 And indeed, everybody who does wrong Jb 24:13–17 hates the light and avoids it, to prevent his actions from being shown up; Ep 5:13 21 but whoever does the truth l comes out into the light, Mt 5:14–16 so that what he is doing may plainly appear as done in God.'

Jesus' ministry in Judaea
John bears witness for the last time

22 After this, Jesus went with his disciples into the Judaean countryside and stayed

g. In the fourth Gospel, Jesus frequently uses terms which, in addition to their obvious meaning appreciated by the audience, possess a metaphorical and higher sense; see v. 20 (Temple); 3:4 (new birth); 4:15 (living water); 6:34 (bread of life); 7:35 (to depart); 11:11 (to awaken); 12:34 (to lift up); 13:9 (to wash); 13:36seq. (to depart); 14:22 (to show oneself). Consequent misapprehensions provide an opportunity for explanatory developments, see 3:11e.

h. Reconstruction work on the Temple began in 19 BC. This, therefore, is the Passover of AD 28 or later.

i. One of the great Johannine symbols, see Rv 21:22; see also Paul, 1 Co 12:12b. The body of the risen Christ is to be the focus of worship in spirit and truth, 4:21seq., the shrine of the Presence, 1:14, the spiritual temple from which living waters flow, 7:37–39; 19:34.

3 a. A phrase common in the Synoptics, Mt 4:17f, but occurring only here (and v. 5) in Jn; its Johannine equivalent is 'life' or 'eternal life'.

b. Here preferred to 'again'

c. Allusion to baptism and its necessity, see Rm 6:4a.

d. In Greek, as in Hebr., one word serves for both 'wind' and 'spirit'.

e. Jesus does not speak on his own initiative, 7:17–18; he declares what he has seen 'with the Father', 1:18; 3:11; 8:38; see 8:24g; it is the Father's words and teaching that he hands on to us, 3:34; 8:28; 12:49,50; 14:24; 17:8,14; he is himself the Word, 1:1,14. This Word is not idle: it calls all things from nothing, 1:1a, it calls the dead from the tomb, 5:28–29; 11:43,44; it gives life to the soul, 5:24; 6:63; 8:51; it confers the Spirit, the source of immortality, 1:33x; 20:22, and so makes people children of God, 1:12; 10:35. It is required only that someone should have faith in the Word, 1:12, 'dwell' in it, see 8:31, 'keep' it, 8:51,55; 12:47; 14:23; 15:20; 17:6, obey its command which is love, 13:34u. Nevertheless, the Word is enigmatic, 2:19g, and difficult, see 6:60; 7:36; it makes its way only into humble hearts. Those who hear it, therefore, respond differently, 7:43; 10:19; some believe, 4:41; 7:40seq., 46; 8:30, others go away disappointed, 6:66, in spite of the 'signs', 2:11f; this same rejected Word will judge them at the last day, 12:48.

f. The constant recourse to evidence gives Jn the form of a vast trial, see 5:22i. Heralded by the witness of John the Baptist, 1:7–8,15,19; 3:26; 5:33; 10:41, Jesus witnesses to the truth, 18:37, against the world, 7:7, to the Father and to himself as the messenger of the Father, 3:11,31–32; 5:26; 10:25; cf. 1 Tm 6:13; Rv 1:5; 3:14. The climax of the trial comes at Jesus' own trial before Pilate, see 18:28d. The Father in his turn bears witness to the Son, 5:31–37; 8:18; and also the Spirit, 15:26; see 14:26; Rm 8:16; 1 Jn 5:6–12. To this group of witnesses the apostles, see 17:20, join their witness, 15:27; 19:35; Ac 1:8k.

g. 'Believing', see Mt 8:10b; Rm 1:16h, consists in Jn in 'accepting' Jesus, 1:12; 5:43, in 'knowing' him, and the Father with him, 10:38; 14:7, in recognising him as the messenger and the Son, 3:16–18; 14:1,10; 17:8,21–25; 20:31, in coming to him, 6:35, in 'seeing' him, 6:36,40; 11:40; 20:8,29. Aroused by signs, 2:11f; 4:53; 20:31, and based on evidence, 3:11f; 10:25, it leads to eternal life, 3:15j; 5:25; 10:26–28m. It is expressed in the love which keeps God's word and commandments. This fundamental attitude towards himself is the criterion on which Jesus judges, 3:17–18, 36; 5:29,44–47.

h. Possibly a denial that any of the revealers renowned in contemporary Jewish literature had in fact ascended into heaven; the only true source of revelation is Jesus who descended from heaven. Possibly an allusion to the ascension, which will both show that Jesus really came from heaven and also establish the Son of man on his glorious throne.

i. The Son of man, see Dn 7:13k; Mt 8:20h; 12:32; 24:30, must be lifted up, at the same time on the cross and back into the glory of the Father, 1:51; 8:28; 12:32–34,32j; 13:31–32. To be saved one must 'look on' him 'lifted up' on the cross, 19:37v; Nb 21:8; Zc 12:10f, that is, believe that he is the only Son, Jn 3:18. One will then be cleansed by the water from his pierced side, 19:34; Zc 13:1. In Jn the title shows an insistence on the humanity of Jesus, although his divine origin, stressed in v. 13; 16:62, occasions actions where he anticipates eschatological prerogatives, 5:26–29; 6:27,53; 9:35.

j. var. 'so that everyone who believes in him may receive eternal life'. God, absolute master of life, Gn 9:4–5; Dt 32:39; Ps 36:10, has passed on this mastery to the Son, Jn 5:21; 10:18j; 17:2. The Son is himself life, 11:25; 14:6. He has life in himself and gives life, 5:26, to those who believe in him, 1:4,12; 4:14; 5:24; 6:35; 20:31. This life is signified by water, 4:1a, and nourished by the word, 6:35k. It is often called 'eternal', a word which denotes a quality properly divine which puts this life beyond what is corporeal, beyond time and beyond measure, cf. Gn 21:33; Ps 90:2; Ws 5:15–16; Is 40:28. It is promised to believers, see also 2 Co 4:18, but already given to them, Jn 3:36; 5:24; 6:40, 68; 1 Jn 2:25; it will be completed by the resurrection, 6:39–40,54; 11:25–26; see also 7:14; 18:8; 19:16.

k. Semitism: the 'name' is the person.

l. See 1 Jn 3:19g.

4:1–2 with them there and baptised. [m] ·John also was baptising at Aenon [n] near Salim, 23 where there was plenty of water, and people were going there and were being Mt 3:6e baptised. ·For John had not yet been put in prison. 24
Lk 3:20 Now a discussion arose between some of John's disciples and a Jew about 25 purification, [o] ·so they went to John and said, 'Rabbi, the man who was with you on 26
the far side of the Jordan, the man to whom you bore witness, is baptising now, and everyone is going to him.' ·John replied: 27

19:11 'No one can have anything
1 Co 4:7 except what is given him from heaven.
Jm 1:17

1:19–27 'You yourselves can bear me out. I said, "I am not the Christ; I am the one who has 28 Ml 3:1 been sent to go in front of him."

Mt 9:15h 'It is the bridegroom who has the bride; [p] 29 and yet the bridegroom's friend, who stands there and listens to him,
is filled with joy at the bridegroom's voice.
This is the joy I feel, and it is complete.
He must grow greater, 30
I must grow less.
8:23 He who comes from above 31
is above all others; [q]
he who is of the earth
1 Jn 4:5 is earthly himself and speaks in an earthly way.
He who comes from heaven [r]
3:11 bears witness to the things he has seen and heard, 32 but his testimony is not accepted by anybody;
1 Jn 5:10 though anyone who does accept his testimony 33
7:28;8:26 is attesting that God is true,
1:1a since he whom God has sent 34
3:11e,f speaks God's own words,
1:32 for God gives him the Spirit without reserve. [s]
The Father loves the Son 35 and has entrusted everything to his hands. [t] 6:40 Anyone who believes in the Son has eternal life, 36
but anyone who refuses to believe in the Son will never see life:
Mt 3:7h God's retribution hangs over him.'

Jesus among the Samaritans [a]

4 When Jesus [b] heard that the Pharisees had found out that he was making and 1 baptising more disciples than John—·though in fact it was his disciples who 2
Mt 3:6e baptised, not Jesus himself—·he left Judaea and went back to Galilee. ·He had to 3, 4
Lk 9:52–55 pass through Samaria. ·On the way he came to the Samaritan town called Sychar [c] 5
Gn 33:18–20; 48:21–22g near the land that Jacob gave to his son Joseph. ·Jacob's well was there and Jesus, 6
Jos 24:32 tired by the journey, sat down by the well. It was about the sixth hour. [d] ·When a 7 19:28 Samaritan woman came to draw water, Jesus said to her, 'Give me something to Lk 10:29–37; 17:11–19 drink.' ·His disciples had gone into the town to buy food. ·The Samaritan woman 8, 9 said to him, 'You are a Jew. How is it that you ask me, a Samaritan, for something to drink?'—Jews, of course, do not associate with Samaritans. [e] ·Jesus replied to 10 her:

3:16 If you only knew what God is offering Ac 8:20g and who it is that is saying to you,
'Give me something to drink,'
you would have been the one to ask,
and he would have given you living water.

'You have no bucket, sir,' she answered, 'and the well is deep: how do you get this living water? ·Are you a greater man than our father Jacob, who gave us this well and drank from it himself with his sons and his cattle?' ·Jesus replied: 6:31–32 8:53

> Whoever drinks this water > will be thirsty again;
> but no one who drinks the water that I shall give him > will ever be thirsty again: 6:35;7:37–39
> the water that I shall give him > will become in him a spring of water, welling up for eternal life. Is 58:11

'Sir,' said the woman, 'give me some of that water, so that I may never be thirsty or come here again to draw water.' ·'Go and call your husband,' said Jesus to her, 'and come back here.' ·The woman answered, 'I have no husband.' Jesus said to her, 'You are right to say, "I have no husband"; ·for although you have had five, the one you now have is not your husband. You spoke the truth there.' ·'I see you are a prophet, sir,' said the woman. ·'Our fathers worshipped on this mountain,[f] though you say that Jerusalem is the place where one ought to worship.'[g] ·Jesus said: 2:19g; 6:34 1:48dd Mt 16:14c Dt 12:5+ Jos 8:33i

> Believe me, woman, the hour is coming > when you will worship the Father > neither on this mountain nor in Jerusalem.
> You worship what you do not know; 2 K 17:27–33 Is 2:3
> we worship what we do know;
> for salvation comes from the Jews. Rm 9:4–5
> But the hour is coming—indeed is already here—> when true worshippers will worship the Father in spirit and truth:[h] 2:21i > that is the kind of worshipper
> the Father seeks.
> God is spirit,
> and those who worship[i] > must worship in spirit and truth.

The woman said to him, 'I know that Messiah—that is, Christ—is coming; and when he comes he will explain everything.' ·Jesus said, 'That is who I am, I who speak to you.' Dt 18:18–22 8:24g;9:37 Is 52:6

m. Presumably a baptism of the same nature as the Baptist's; a baptism of repentance in preparation for the coming of the kingdom.

n. A tradition locates Aenon ('the Springs') in the Jordan valley about 7 miles (12km) south of Scythopolis. Ain Farah is also a possibility.

o. About baptism probably. • a Jew'; var. 'Jews'. The text is corrupt. The reading may have been 'Jesus' or 'the disciples of Jesus'.

p. The OT uses the marriage metaphor to express the relationship between God and Israel, Ho 1:2b. Jesus applies it to himself, Mt 9:15 and par.; 22:1seq.; 25:1seq.; see also Paul in 2 Co 11:2; Ep 5:22seq. The Messiah's coming has brought joy to the world, v. 29, cf. 1:29,36–39; 2:1–11, consequently the marriage feast of the Lamb, Rv 19:7; 21:2, has already begun.

q. Or perhaps 'everything'.

r. add. 'is above everything'.

s. Or 'and gives the Spirit without reserve'.

t. By the Father's decree, all things are 'in the hands' (or 'power') of the Son, v. 35; 10:28,29; 13:3; 17:2; cf. 6:37–39; Mt 11:27; 28:18; on this is based the sovereignty, Jn 12:13–15; 18:36–37, that he will assume on the day of his 'lifting up', Jn 12:32j; 19:19; Ac 2:33; Ep 4:8; and on that day, the 'prince of this world' will forfeit his kingdom, Jn 12:31.

4 a. Meetings at a well are a feature of the patriarchal narratives: Gn 25:10seq.; 29:1seq.; Ex 2:15seq. Wells and springs play a significant part in the life and religion of the patriarchal and Exodus periods: Gn 26:14–22; Ex 15:22–27; 17:1–7. In the OT, spring water symbolises the life that God gives, especially that of the messianic age: Ps 36:8–9; Is 12:3–4; 55:1; Jr 2:13; Ezk 47:1seq. (cf. Ps 46:4 and Zc 14:8 and in the NT: Rv 7:16–17; 22:17); it symbolises also the life imparted by divine Wisdom and by the Law, Pr 13:14; Si 15:3; 24:23–29. This symbolism is carried further in the gospel narrative: living (i.e. spring) water signifies the Spirit, see 1:33x; 7:37–39.

b. var. 'the Lord'.

c. Either the ancient Shechem (Sichara in Aramaic) or the present village of Askar at the foot of Mt Ebal, about .75 mile (1km) from 'Jacob's Well'. The well is not mentioned in Gn.

d. Noon.

e. Some authorities omit this parenthesis. • The Jews hated the Samaritans, 8:48; Si 50:25–26; Lk 9:52–55, cf. Mt 10:5; Lk 10:33; 17:16, and attributed their origin to the importation of five gentile groups, 2 K 17:24–41, who retained some of their loyalty to their old gods; these may be symbolised by the 'five husbands' of v. 18.

f. i.e. Gerizim; on this mountain the Samaritans had built a rival to the Jerusalem Temple; it was destroyed by John Hyrcanus in 129 BC.

g. var. 'is where one ought to worship'.

h. The Spirit, 14:26r, who makes a person a new creature, 3:5, is also the inspiring principle of the new worship of God. This worship is 'in truth' because it is the only worship that meets the conditions revealed by God through Jesus.

i. var. 'those who worship him', see 12:20.

At this point his disciples returned and were surprised to find him speaking to a 27 woman, though none of them asked, 'What do you want from her?' or, 'What are you talking to her about?' ·The woman put down her water jar and hurried back[j] 28 to the town to tell the people, ·'Come and see a man who has told me everything I 29 have done; could this be the Christ?' ·This brought people out of the town and 30 they made their way towards him.

Meanwhile, the disciples were urging him, 'Rabbi, do have something to eat'; 31 but he said, 'I have food to eat that you do not know about.' ·So the disciples said 32, 33 to one another, 'Has someone brought him food?' ·But Jesus said: 34

Dt 8:3b My food
1:1a;6:38–40; 17:4;19:30 is to do the will of the one who sent me,[k] and to complete his work.
Do you not have a saying: 35
Four months and then the harvest?
Well, I tell you,
look around you, look at the fields;
Mt 9:37–38 Lk 10:2 already they are white, ready for harvest![l]
Rv 14:15 Already ·the reaper is being paid his wages, 36 already he is bringing in the grain for eternal life, Ps 126:5–6 so that sower and reaper can rejoice together.
For here the proverb holds true: 37
one sows, another reaps;
17:18;20:21 Ac 8:14–17 I sent you to reap 38
a harvest you have not laboured for.
Others have laboured for it;
and you have come into the rewards of their labour.[m]

Many Samaritans of that town believed in him on the strength of the woman's 39 words of testimony , 'He told me everything I have done.' ·So, when the Samari- 40 tans came up to him, they begged him to stay with them. He stayed for two days, and ·many more came to believe on the strength of the words he spoke to them; 41 and they said to the woman, 'Now we believe no longer because of what you 42 told us; we have heard him ourselves and we know that he is indeed the Saviour of 1:9–10g the world.'[n]

Jesus in Galilee

When the two days were over Jesus left for Galilee. ·He himself had declared that 43, 44
Mt 13:57par.; 16:14c 2:23 a prophet is not honoured in his own home town. ·On his arrival the Galileans 45 received him well, having seen all that he had done at Jerusalem during the festival which they too had attended.

‖Mt 8:5–13? ‖Lk 7:1–10? Second sign at Cana
The cure of a royal official's son

2:1–11 He went again to Cana in Galilee, where he had changed the water into wine. And 46 there was a court official whose son was ill at Capernaum; ·hearing that Jesus had 47 arrived in Galilee from Judaea, he went and asked him to come and cure his son, as 6:30;20:29 Mt 12:38seq., par. Mt 8:10b he was at the point of death. ·Jesus said to him, 'Unless you see signs and portents 48 you will not believe!' ·'Sir,' answered the official, 'come down before my child 49 dies.' ·'Go home,' said Jesus, 'your son will live.' The man believed what Jesus 50 had said and went on his way home; ·and while he was still on the way his servants 51 met him with the news that his boy was alive. ·He asked them when the boy had 52 begun to recover. They replied, 'The fever left him yesterday at the seventh hour.'
The father realised that this was exactly the time when Jesus had said, 'Your son 53 will live'; and he and all his household believed.

2:11f This new sign, the second, Jesus performed on his return from Judaea to Galilee. 54

II: THE SECOND FEAST AT JERUSALEM
FIRST OPPOSITION TO REVELATION

The cure of a sick man at the Pool of Bethesda

1, 2 5 After this there was a Jewish festival, [a] and Jesus went up to Jerusalem. ·Now
3 in Jerusalem next to the Sheep Pool there is a pool called Bethesda [b] in Hebrew, which has five porticos; ·and under these were crowds of sick people, blind, lame, 5 paralysed. [c] ·One man there had an illness which had lasted thirty-eight years, Dt 2:14
6 and when Jesus saw him lying there and knew he had been in that condition for a 7 long time, he said, 'Do you want to be well again?' ·'Sir,' replied the sick man. 'I have no one to put me into the pool when the water is disturbed; and while I am 8 still on the way, someone else gets down there before me.' ·Jesus said, 'Get up, Mt 9:6 9 pick up your sleeping-mat and walk around.' ·The man was cured at once, and he picked up his mat and started to walk around.

10 Now that day happened to be the Sabbath, ·so the Jews said to the man who 9:14 had been cured, 'It is the Sabbath; you are not allowed to carry your sleeping-mat.' Ex 20:8f 11 He replied, 'But the man who cured me told me, "Pick up your mat and walk Jr 17:21–27
12 around." ' ·They asked, 'Who is the man who said to you, "Pick up your mat and 13 walk around"? ' ·The man had no idea who it was, since Jesus had disappeared, 14 as the place was crowded. ·After a while Jesus met him in the Temple and said,
'Now you are well again, do not sin any more, or something worse may happen to 8:11 15 you.' [d] ·The man went back and told the Jews that it was Jesus who had cured him. Mt 9:2b
16 It was because he did things like this on the Sabbath that the Jews began to harass 7:23;9:4
17 Jesus. [e] ·His answer to them was, 'My Father still goes on working, and I am at 18 work, too.' [f] ·But that only made the Jews even more intent on killing him, because 7:1,19,25; 11:53 not only was he breaking the Sabbath, but he spoke of God as his own Father and ·2:16 so made himself God's equal. Ws 2:16 10:33 19 To this Jesus replied: [g] Ph 2:6

> In all truth I tell you,
> by himself the Son can do nothing; 8:28–29
> he can do only what he sees the Father doing:
> and whatever the Father does the Son does too.
20 For the Father loves the Son 3:35;10:17

j. Alternatively 'went away'.

k. That Jesus was sent by the Father was taught by Paul and the writers of the Synoptic Gospels, but John stresses this repeatedly, to the point of insistence, 3:17; 5:24,36–38; 8:42; 9:7; 11:42; 17:8,21–25. Jesus has his origin in the Father, 3:31; 6:46; 7:29; 8:42, comes down from the Father, 3:13; 6:38,42. He speaks the words of the Father, 3:34; 7:16; 8:26–28; 12:49–50; 14:24; 17:8,14, he does the will of the Father, 9:4; 10:32,37; 14:10. Faith, 3:12g, consists in recognising him as the envoy of the Father, 7:28–29; 17:21,25; 19:9b. Later the apostles will be similarly sent, 13:20; 17:18; 20:21, see 17:20n; Ac 1:26; 22:21i; Rm 1:1b.

l. A harvest of souls: the Samaritans who are coming to Jesus, v. 30, are its first-fruits.

m. The reapers are the disciples, the sowers those who have laboured before them, especially Jesus.

n. Not merely 'King of Israel' as in 1:49. This world-perspective is typical of John, see 1:29; 3:16; 11:52; 1 Jn 2:2. Nevertheless, 'salvation comes from the Jews', v. 22.

5 a. var. 'the festival'. Possibly Pentecost.

b. var. 'Bethzatha', 'Bethsaida', 'Belsetha', 'Bethesda' means 'house of mercy'. • The fifth portico divided the rectangle into two pools; here the water gathered, to be used afterwards in the Temple. Besides these two reservoirs there were other smaller pools attached to a pagan healing sanctuary.

c. Some witnesses add: 'waiting for the water to move;[4] for at intervals the angel of the Lord came down into the pool, and the water was disturbed, and the first person to enter the water after this disturbance was cured of any ailment from which he was suffering.

d. Jesus does not say that the disease was the result of sin, cf. 9:2seq. He warns the man that his cure is a divine favour that must be acknowledged by conversion, cf. Mt 9:2–8; to forget this is to risk something worse than the disease. The miracle is therefore a 'sign' of spiritual resurrection, v. 24.

e. The episode is concluded in 7:19–24. Jesus identifies his own activity with that of the sovereign Judge. Hence the anger of the Jews and the discourse by which Jesus justifies his claim, cf. Lk 6:5, and especially Mt 12:1–8.

f. Jewish theologians reconciled the fact that God 'rested' after the work of creation (the Sabbath was the human counterpart of this 'rest', Gn 2:2seq.) with his unceasing, active government of the world, by distinguishing between God's activity as Creator, which is now at an end, and his activity as judge (or 'governor'), which never ends.

g. The discourse of vv. 19–47 is one of the fullest explanations in Jn of the relationship between Son and Father, and shows in dynamic terms the divine powers of the Son. It falls into two parts: 1 The Father commits lifegiving power to the Son, vv. 19–30. 2 The Father bears witness to the Son: a through the Baptist, b through the works that the Father does through Jesus, c through the scriptures (Moses), vv. 31–47.

and shows him everything he himself does,
and he will show him even greater things than these,
works that will astonish you.
3:35t;11:28 Dt 32:39 1 S 2:6 2 K 5:7 Rm 4:17 — Thus, as the Father raises the dead and gives them life, 21
so the Son gives life to anyone he chooses;
for the Father judges [k] no one; 22 5:27 Ac 10:42q — he has entrusted all judgement to the Son, [i] so that all may honour the Son 23
as they honour the Father.
Whoever refuses honour to the Son
17:6g — refuses honour to the Father who sent him.
In all truth I tell you, 24
3:11e,18;6:40 10:27;18:37 1 Jn 3:14 — whoever listens to my words, and believes in the one who sent me,
has eternal life;
without being brought to judgement
such a person has passed from death to life.
In all truth I tell you, 25
the hour is coming—indeed it is already here—11:25–26 — when the dead [j] will hear the voice of the Son of God, and all who hear it will live.
For as the Father has life in himself, 26
3:35t — so he has granted the Son also to have life in himself;
Dn 7:13,22 Mt 8:20h — and, because he is the Son of man, 27 has granted him power to give judgement.
Do not be surprised at this, 28
for the hour is coming when the dead will leave their graves 3:11e;11:43–44 — at the sound of his voice:
those who did good 29
Dn 12:2 Mt 16:27;25:46 Ac 24:15 — will come forth [k] to life;
and those who did evil will come forth to judgement.
By myself I can do nothing; 30
I can judge only as I am told to judge, [l] and my judging is just,
4:34;6:38 — because I seek to do not my own will but the will of him who sent me.
8:13–14 — Were I to testify on my own behalf, 31
my testimony would not be true;
but there is another witness [m] who speaks on my behalf, 32
and I know [n] that his testimony is true.
1:19–28 — You sent messengers to John, 33
Mt 11:7–11par. 8:18 — and he gave his testimony to the truth—
1:8 Si 48:1 — not that I depend on human testimony; 34
no, it is for your salvation that I mention it.
John was a lamp lit and shining 35 and for a time you were content to enjoy the light that he gave.
But my testimony is greater than John's: 36
the deeds my Father has given me to perform,
these same deeds of mine
1:1a — testify that the Father has sent me.
Besides, the Father who sent me 37
2:11f;6:44–45 — bears witness to me himself.
You have never heard his voice,
you have never seen his shape,
8:37 1 Jn 2:14 — and his word finds no home in you 38

because you do not believe in the one whom he has sent.

39 You pore over[o] the scriptures, believing that in them you can find eternal life;[p] it is these scriptures that testify to me,[q] Lk 24:27 40 and yet you refuse to come to me to receive life!
41 Human glory means nothing to me. 1:14
42 Besides, I know you too well:
you have no love of God in you. 1 Jn 2:15 43 I have come in the name of my Father and you refuse to accept me;
if someone else should come in my own name Mt 24:5;24+
you would accept him.
44 How can you believe,
since you look to each other for glory 12:43
and are not concerned Rm 2:29 with the glory that comes from the one God?[r] 1 Co 4:5 45 Do not imagine that I am going to accuse you before the Father:
you have placed your hopes on Moses, and Moses will be the one who accuses you. Dt 31:26 46 If you really believed him 5:39q you would believe me too, Mt 8:10b since it was about me that he was writing; Dt 18:15 47 but if you will not believe what he wrote, how can you believe what I say?

III: THE PASSOVER OF THE BREAD OF LIFE

FURTHER OPPOSITION TO REVELATION

The miracle of the loaves

‖Mt 14:13–21
‖Mk 6:32–44
‖Lk 9:10–17

1, 2 6 After this, Jesus crossed the Sea of Galilee—or of Tiberias— ·and a large crowd followed him, impressed by the signs he had done in curing the sick.
3, 4 Jesus climbed the hillside and sat down there with his disciples. ·The time of the Jewish Passover[a] was near.
5 Looking up, Jesus saw the crowds approaching and said to Philip, 'Where can Nb 11:13
6 we buy some bread for these people to eat?' ·He said this only to put Philip to the 7 test; he himself knew exactly what he was going to do. ·Philip answered, 'Two 8 hundred denarii would not buy enough to give them a little piece each.' ·One of his Nb 11:22
9 disciples, Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, said, ·'Here is a small boy with five 2 K 4:42–44
10 barley loaves and two fish; but what is that among so many?' ·Jesus said to them,
'Make the people sit down.' There was plenty of grass there, and as many as five 11 thousand men sat down. ·Then Jesus took the loaves, gave thanks, and distributed

h. Power over life and death is the supreme power of the judge, see v. 21.

i. Jesus will be the supreme judge at the Last Day, vv. 26–30; 12:48; see Mt 25:31–46; Rm 2:6b. This judgement will reveal the outcome of the trial, see 3:11f, which began with the coming of the Son, v. 25; 12:31. All people will be judged by faith, 3:12g, given or refused to Jesus, 3:18–21; 16:8–11, Saviour of all who do not reject him, 3:18; 8:15; 12:47. In fact the texts about judgement belong to different phases of editing, the eschatological judgement on the Last Day, and the judgement which has already taken place.

j. Those who are spiritually dead, though see vv. 28 and 29.

k. The reference is to the resurrection of the dead at the Last Day, cf. Mt 22:29–32.

l. Jesus listens to the Father.

m. The Father.

n. var. 'you know', wrongly making this verse refer to the Baptist's testimony, v. 33.

o. Alternative translation 'pore over', imperative.

p. The scriptures are the source of life because they transmit to us God's word, see Dt 4:1; 8:1,3; 30:15–20; 32:46seq.; Ps 119; Ba 4:1.

q. The scriptures converge on Jesus who is their fulfilment, see 1:45; 2:22; 5:39,46; 12:16,41; 19:28; 20:9.

r. var. 'from the Only One'.

6 a. The bread Jesus gives is to be the new Passover.

them to those who were sitting there; he then did the same with the fish, distributing as much as they wanted. ·When they had eaten enough he said to the disciples, 12
'Pick up the pieces left over, so that nothing is wasted.' ·So they picked them up 13 and filled twelve large baskets with scraps left over from the meal of five barley loaves. ·Seeing the sign that he had done, the people said, 'This is indeed the 14
1:21t prophet who is to come into the world.' ·Jesus, as he realised they were about to 15 18:36 come and take him by force and make him king, fled[b] back to the hills alone.
Mk 1:34m

‖Mt 14:22–23 ‖Mk 6:45–52

Jesus comes to his disciples walking on the waters

That evening the disciples went down to the shore of the sea ·and got into a boat to 16, 17 make for Capernaum on the other side of the sea. It was getting dark by now and Jesus had still not rejoined them. ·The wind was strong, and the sea was getting 18 rough. ·They had rowed three or four miles when they saw Jesus walking on the 19 sea and coming towards the boat. They were afraid, ·but he said, 'It's me. Don't be 20 afraid.'[c] ·They were ready to take him into the boat, and immediately it reached 21 the shore at the place they were making for.

The discourse in the synagogue at Capernaum[d]

Next day, the crowd that had stayed on the other side saw that only one boat had 22 been there, and that Jesus had not got into the boat with his disciples, but that the disciples had set off by themselves. ·Other boats, however, had put in from 23 Tiberias, near the place where the bread had been eaten.[e] ·When the people saw 24 that neither Jesus nor his disciples were there, they got into those boats and crossed to Capernaum to look for Jesus. ·When they found him on the other side, they said 25 to him, 'Rabbi, when did you come here?' ·Jesus answered: 26

In all truth I tell you,
you are looking for me
2:11f not because you have seen the signs
but because you had all the bread you wanted to eat.
Ex 16:20 Is 55:2 Do not work for food that goes bad, 27
but work for food that endures for eternal life, Mt 8:20h which the Son of man will give[f] you, for on him the Father, God himself, has set his seal.[g]

Then they said to him, 'What must we do if we are to carry out God's work?' 28
Mt 8:10b Jesus gave them this answer, 'This is carrying out God's work:[h] you must believe 29
1:21t;2:11f in the one he has sent.' ·So they said, 'What sign will you yourself do, the sight of 30
Mt 16:1–4 Mk 15:32 Lk 11:29–32 which will make us believe in you? What work will you do? ·Our fathers ate manna[i] 31
·Ex 16:1a. 4seq.,15d in the desert; as scripture says: He gave them bread from heaven to eat.'
Nb 11:7–9 Ps 78:24 Jesus answered them: 32

In all truth I tell you,
it was not Moses who gave you the bread from heaven,
it is my Father who gives you the bread from heaven,
the true bread;
for the bread of God 33
is the bread which comes down from heaven and gives life to the world.

2:19g 'Sir,' they said, 'give us that bread always.' ·Jesus answered them: 34, 35

Pr 9:1–6 Si 24:19–22 Is 55:1–3 Jn 4:10+.14 I am[j] the bread of life.
No one who comes to me will ever hunger;
no one who believes in me will ever thirst.[k]
But, as I have told you, 36
2:11f you can see me and still you do not believe.
Everyone whom the Father gives me will come to me; 37

I will certainly not reject
anyone who comes to me,[l] 38 because I have come from heaven, not to do my own will, 4:34;5:30; 12:27f;14:31
but to do the will of him who sent me.
39 Now the will of him who sent me 3:35t;10:28–29;17:12 is that I should lose nothing •Mt 18:14
of all that he has given to me, but that I should raise it up on the last day.
40 It is my Father's will that whoever sees the Son[m] and believes in him should have eternal life, 3:16,36;5:24; 1 Jn 5:12–13 and that I should raise that person up on the last day.

41 Meanwhile the Jews were complaining[n] to each other about him, because he had 42 said, 'I am the bread that has come down from heaven.' •They were saying, 'Surely Mt 13:54–57; Mk 6:1–6 this is Jesus son of Joseph, whose father and mother we know. How can he now 43 say, "I have come down from heaven?" ' •Jesus said in reply to them, 'Stop complaining to each other.

44 'No one can come to me unless drawn by the Father who sent me, Mt 16:17 and I will raise that person up on the last day.
45 It is written in the prophets:
They will all be taught by God; Is 54:13; Jr 31:33seq.; 1 Jn 2:20,27
everyone who has listened to the Father,
and learnt from him,
comes to me.
46 Not that anybody has seen the Father, Ex 33:20i; Jn 1:18;7:29; 1 Jn 4:12 except him who has his being from God:
he has seen the Father.
47 In all truth I tell you,
everyone who believes has eternal life.
48 I am the bread of life.
49 Your fathers ate manna in the desert and they are dead;

b. var. 'withdrew'.

c. om. 'Do not be afraid'.

d. Some interpreters hold that a discourse about the Eucharist (vv. 51–58: Jesus nourishing the soul with his flesh and blood, see vv. 51p) has been inserted into the narrative-discourse which may be summarised as follows: the Jews ask for a 'sign' like that of the manna, vv. 30–31; see 1:21t; Jesus tells them, 'The Father's message, which I pass on (see 3:11e) makes of me true bread, a nourishment that only those with faith can receive,' vv. 32seq.; the Jews do not understand, vv. 60–66; only Peter and the disciples believe, vv. 67–71. More probably vv. 31–58 may be understood as one integral sermon after the Jewish homiletic midrash tradition; v. 31 gives a scriptural text, of which the first part ('bread from heaven') is explained in vv. 32–48, and the second ('to eat') in vv. 49–58. (This doctrine is best understood in the light of Dt 8:3; Pr 8:22–24; 9:1–6; Si 24:3,17–21; Lk 11:29–32.)

e. add. 'after the Lord had given thanks'.

f. var. 'is giving'.

g. The 'seal' that Jesus received at his baptism, namely the Spirit, Mt 3:16n, who is the power of God operative in Christ's 'signs'. Cf. Mt 12:28; Ac 10:38; 2 Co 1:22; Ep 1:13; 4:30.

h. For 'works' in the Jewish sense Jesus substitutes faith in God's representative.

i. The manna of Ex 16, food given by God for the messianic people, Ps 78:23–24; 105:40, was seen by Christians as a figure of the Eucharist, 1 Co 10:3–4. Jesus uses it here as a sign of the true nourishment of faith, vv. 35–50, provided by his flesh and blood, source of eternal life, vv. 51–58; see Mt 4:4; 14:13–21.

j. The Greek phrase ego eimi recalls the name that God revealed to Moses, Ex 3:13g. see Jn 8:24g, but here (and frequently elsewhere) it also forms the prelude to the explanation of a parable. In this case the parable is not in words but in action: the gift of the manna and the multiplication of the loaves are explained as parables of Christ's gift of himself, the true bread. See vv. 41,48,51; 8:12; 10:7–11; 11:25; 15:1.

k. As Wisdom invites all people to her table, Pr 9:1seq., so does Jesus. Jn sees him as the Wisdom of God which, in the OT revelation, was already moving towards personification. see 1:1a; Lk 7:35; 1 Co 1:24. This perception springs from Jesus' own teaching already recorded in the Synoptics, Mt 11:19; Lk 11:31 and par., but is given here much more clearly by Jn. Thus, Jesus' origin is mysterious, 7:27–29; 8:14,19; cf. Jb 28:20–28; he alone knows the secrets of God and reveals them, Jn 3:11–12,31–32; cf. Ws 9:13–18; Ba 3:29–38; Mt 11:25–27 and par.; he is the living bread that supremely satisfies, Jn 6:35; cf. Pr 9:1–6; Si 24:19–22.

l. To 'come to' Jesus is to believe in him, as is plainly shown in Mk 2:5; 5:34; etc., where it is accepted as proof of faith without any declaration.

m. 'Seeing' the Son is recognising that he is in truth the Son sent by the Father, cf. 12:45; 14:9; 17:6g.

n. As their ancestors did in the desert, see Ex 16:2seq.; 17:3; Nb 11:1; 14:27; 1 Co 10:10.

but this is the bread which comes down from heaven, 50
so that a person may eat it and not die.
I am the living bread which has come down from heaven. 51
Anyone who eats this bread will live for ever;
Lk 22:19par. and the bread that I shall give 1 Co 11:24 is my flesh, [o] for the life of the world.' [p]

Then the Jews started arguing among themselves, 'How can this man give us his 52 flesh to eat?' ·Jesus replied to them: 53

In all truth I tell you,
1:14l Mt 8:20h if you do not eat the flesh of the Son of man and drink his blood,
you have no life in you.
Anyone who does eat my flesh and drink my blood 54
has eternal life,
and I shall raise that person up on the last day.
For my flesh is real food 55
and my blood is real drink.
Whoever eats my flesh and drinks my blood 56 15:4–5 lives in me
and I live in that person. [q]
As the living Father sent me 57
and I draw life from the Father,
5:26 so whoever eats me will also draw life from me. [r]
This is the bread which has come down from heaven; 58
it is not like the bread our ancestors ate: [s]
they are dead,
but anyone who eats this bread will live for ever.

This is what he taught at Capernaum in the synagogue. ·After hearing it, many 59, 60
3:11e,f of his followers said, 'This is intolerable language. How could anyone accept it?'
1:48dd Jesus was aware that his followers were complaining about it and said, 'Does this 61
Mt 8:20h Jn 12:32j disturb you? ·What if you should see the Son of man ascend to where he was 62 before?

1:33x 2 Co 3:6 'It is the spirit that gives life, 63
the flesh has nothing to offer.
3:11e;12:49–50 The words I have spoken to you are spirit and they are life. [t]

1:48dd 'But there are some of you who do not believe.' For Jesus knew from the outset 64 who did not believe and who was to betray him. ·He went on, 'This is why I told 65 you that no one could come to me except by the gift of the Father.' ·After this, 66 many of his disciples went away and accompanied him no more.

‖Mt 16:16par. Peter's profession of faith

Then Jesus said to the Twelve, 'What about you, do you want to go away too?' 67 1:21t Dt 8:3 Ac 7:38 Simon Peter answered, 'Lord, to whom shall we go? You have the message of 68 eternal life, ·and we believe; we have come to know that you are the Holy One of 69 Ac 3:14i; 13:18;15:16,19 God.' [u] ·Jesus replied to them, 'Did I not choose the Twelve of you? Yet one 70 of you is a devil.' ·He meant Judas son of Simon Iscariot, since this was the man, 71 13:2,27 one of the Twelve, who was to betray him.

IV: THE FEAST OF SHELTERS

THE GREAT REJECTION

Jesus goes up to Jerusalem for the feast and teaches there

1 7 After this Jesus travelled round Galilee; he could not[a] travel round Judaea, 5:18 because the Jews were seeking to kill him. Mk 9:30par.

2, 3 As the Jewish feast of Shelters drew near, ·his brothers[b] said to him, 'Leave this Nb 29:12f place and go to Judaea, so that your disciples,[c] too, can see the works you are Zc 14:16–19 4 doing; ·no one who wants to be publicly known acts in secret; if this is what you 2:11f
5 are doing, you should reveal yourself to the world.' ·Not even his brothers had Mt 5:15
6 faith in him. ·Jesus answered, 'For me the right time[d] has not come yet, but for 14:22
7 you any time is the right time. ·The world cannot hate you, but it does hate me, ·Mk 3:21
8 because I give evidence that its ways are evil ·Go up to the festival yourselves: I 2:4e
9 am not going[e] to this festival, because for me the time is not ripe yet.' ·Having Dn 7:22 said that, he stayed behind in Galilee. 1:10g
3:19;8:12b

10 However, after his brothers had left for the festival, he went up as well, not 11 publicly but secretly. ·At the festival the Jews were on the look-out for him:
12 'Where is he?' they said. ·There was a great deal[f] of talk about him in the crowds.
13 Some said, 'He is a good man'; others, 'No, he is leading the people astray.' ·Yet Mt 27:63
no one spoke about him openly, for fear of the Jews. 9:22;12:42; 19:38

14 When the festival was half over, Jesus went to the Temple and began to teach.[g]
15 The Jews were astonished and said, 'How did he learn to read? He has not been Mt 7:28;13: 54–57
16 educated.' ·Jesus answered them: Ac 4:13

'My teaching is not from myself: 3:11e
it comes from the one who sent me; 17 anyone who is prepared to do his will,
will know whether my teaching is from God or whether I speak on my own account.
18 When someone speaks on his own account,
he is seeking honour for himself; 8:50
but when he is seeking the honour of the person who sent him, then he is true Ps 92:15
and altogether without dishonesty.
19 Did not Moses give you the Law? 8:37–41
And yet not one of you keeps the Law! Rm 2:17–23

20 'Why do you want to kill me?' ·The crowd replied, 'You are mad! Who wants to 8:42,52;10:20 21, 22 kill you?' ·Jesus answered, 'One work I did, and you are all amazed at it. ·Moses Mt 12:24–27par.
5:1–9

o. add. 'that I shall give'; the phrase is, in any case, to be understood. This concise phrase recalls 1 Co 11:24, 'This is my Body which is for you,' cf. Lk 22:19. It is an allusion to the Passion.

p. Jesus is the true bread because he is God's Word, vv. 32seq., and also because he is a victim whose body and blood are offered in sacrifice for the life of the world, vv. 51–58, cf. vv. 22d. The word 'flesh' suggests a connection between Eucharist and Incarnation: the Word made flesh, 1:14, is real food.

q. 'To be in' and even more, 'to live in' are characteristic phrases of this Gospel. The relationship of interior presence thus expressed clearly depends on the nature of the persons or things at issue: one is always greater than the other, especially when it is a divine person. It is particularly remarkable if the relationship is reciprocal, as here, 10:38; 14:10,20; 15:4–7; 17:21–23; 1 Jn 2:24; 3:24; 4:12–16.

r. The life that the Father communicates to the Son passes to the faithful through the Eucharist.

s. add. 'the manna' or 'in the desert'.

t. Jesus' words about the bread from heaven reveal something divine of which only the Spirit, see 1:33x, can supply understanding, see 14:26r, and which is the source of life for all people.

u. i.e. the Messiah, God's chosen representative, consecrated and united in him uniquely, cf. 10:36; 17:19. var. 'you are the Christ, the Son of God' or 'the Son of the living God', cf. Mt 16:16.

7 a. var. 'he did not want to'.

b. In the wide sense: cousins, relations, see Mt 12:46*o*.

c. Those in Jerusalem and Judaea, cf. 2:23; 3:26; 4:1.

d. i.e. 'my hour', see 2:4e.

e. var. 'I am not going yet'.

f. om. 'a great deal of'.

g. 7:14–52 is made up of separate passages with a common theme—the uncertainty about Jesus' origin. 1 His human origin obscures his divine: he has never been a pupil of the rabbis, what is his knowledge worth? (vv. 14–18); the details of his childhood are known, how can he be the Messiah (vv. 25–30)? 2 His reputed birth at Nazareth shows that he is not the Christ (vv. 40–52). The theme of 'departure', too (vv. 33–36, see 8:21–23) is connected with that of divine origin: the man Jesus departs for the place where (in his divine nature, see vv. 29 and 34) he has always been. • Vv. 19–24 are the conclusion of 5:1–16 and are alien to the present context.

Gn 17:10d Ac 7:8 Rm 4:11 ordered you to practise circumcision—not that it began with him, it goes back to the patriarchs—and you circumcise on the Sabbath. ·Now if someone can be 23
Mt 12:1–5, 11–12 Lk 13:15;14:5 circumcised on the Sabbath so that the Law of Moses is not broken, why are you angry with me for making someone completely healthy on a Sabbath? [h] ·Do not 24
·Is 11:3 Zc 7:9 keep judging according to appearances; let your judgement be according to what is right.'

The people discuss the origin of the Messiah

Meanwhile some of the people of Jerusalem were saying, 'Isn't this the man they 25 want to kill? ·And here he is, speaking openly, and they have nothing to say to 26 him! Can it be true the authorities [i] have recognised that he is the Christ? ·Yet we 27 all know where he comes from, but when the Christ appears no one will know where he comes from.' [j]

Then, as Jesus was teaching in the Temple, he cried out: 28

6:42;8:19; 19:9+ Mt 11:27+ Heb 7:3 8:26 6:46;8:55 1:1a
You know me and you know where I came from.
Yet I have not come of my own accord:
but he who sent me is true; [k]
You do not know him,
but I know him 29
because I have my being from him [l] and it was he who sent me.

7:44 Lk 4:29seq.; 2:4e;8:20 They wanted to arrest him then, but because his hour had not yet come no one 30 laid a hand on him.

Jesus foretells his approaching departure

There were many people in the crowds, however, who believed in him; they were 31
2:11f saying, 'When the Christ comes, will he give more signs than this man has?'
Hearing that talk like this about him was spreading among the people, the 32
Pharisees [m] sent the Temple guards to arrest him.

Then Jesus said: 33

1:1a;16:16k 8:21 Dt 4:29 Pr 1:28 Is 55:6 Ho 5:6+
For a short time I am with you still;
then I shall go back to the one who sent me.
You will look for me and will not find me; [n] 34
where I am
you cannot come.

So the Jews said to one another, 'Where is he intending to go that we shall not be 35 able to find him? Is he intending to go abroad to the people who are dispersed among the Greeks and to teach the Greeks? ·What does he mean when he says: 36

2:19g
"You will look for me and will not find me;
where I am
you cannot come?" '

The promise of living water

Pr 1:20d On the last day, the great day of the festival, [o] Jesus stood and cried out: 37

4:1a Is 55:1,3
'Let anyone who is thirsty come to me! [p]
Let anyone who believes in me come and drink! 38

2:21+;19:34 Is 44:3 1 Co 10:4+ 1:33x As scripture says, "From his heart [q] shall flow streams of living water." ' [r]
He was speaking of the Spirit which those who believed in him were to receive; 39 for there was no Spirit as yet [s] because Jesus had not yet been glorified.

Fresh discussions on the origin of the Messiah

1:21t Some of the crowd who had been listening said, 'He is indeed the prophet,' ·and 40, 41

some said, 'He is the Christ,' but others said, 'Would the Christ come from Galilee?
42 Does not scripture say that the Christ must be descended from David and come 2 S 7:1a Mi 5:1a
43 from Bethlehem,[j] the village where David was?' ·So the people could not agree Mt 2:5seq.; 9:27m
44 about him. ·Some wanted to arrest him, but no one actually laid a hand on him. Rm 1:3
45 The guards went back to the chief priests and Pharisees who said to them, 'Why ·3:11f
46 haven't you brought him?' ·The guards replied, 'No one has ever spoken like this ·7:30
47, 48 man.' ·'So,' the Pharisees answered, 'you, too, have been led astray? ·Have any of ·Mt 13:54–56
49 the authorities come to believe in him? Any of the Pharisees? ·This rabble knows
50 nothing about the Law—they are damned.' ·One of them, Nicodemus—the same 3:1+ 51 man who had come to Jesus earlier—said to them, ·'But surely our Law does not Dt 1:16 seq.;17:4
allow us to pass judgement on anyone without first giving him a hearing and Ac 5:35 52 discovering what he is doing?' ·To this they answered, 'Are you a Galilean too?
Go into the matter, and see for yourself: prophets do not arise in Galilee.' 5:39 ·1:46 Mt 16:14c

The adulterous woman [a]

53 They all went home,
1 8 and Jesus went to the Mount of Olives.
2 At daybreak he appeared in the Temple again; and as all the people came to Lk 21:37–38 him, he sat down and began to teach them.
3 The scribes and Pharisees brought a woman along who had been caught commit- Lk 7:37–50
4 ting adultery; and making her stand there in the middle ·they said to Jesus, 'Master, ·Lv 20:10 Dt 22:22–24
5 this woman was caught in the very act of committing adultery, ·and in the Law Ezk 16:38,40
Moses has ordered us to stone women of this kind. What have you got to say?'
6 They asked him this as a test, looking for an accusation to use against him. But Mt 12:10 Lk 20:20 7 Jesus bent down and started writing on the ground with his finger.[a] ·As they persisted with their question, he straightened up and said, 'Let the one among you Dt 17:7 Mt 7:1–5 8 who is guiltless be the first to throw a stone at her.' ·Then he bent down and 9 continued writing on the ground. ·When they heard this they went away one by one, beginning with the eldest, until the last one had gone and Jesus was left alone 10 with the woman, who remained in the middle. ·Jesus again straightened up and 11 said, 'Woman, where are they? Has no one condemned you?' ·'No one, sir,' she replied. 'Neither do I condemn you,' said Jesus. 'Go away, and from this moment 5:14 Ps 103:8,13–14 Ezk 18:32;33:11 Ex 13:21 Ps 27:1;36:9f; 89:15 Ws 7:26j Is 9:1;49:6;60:19 1 Jn 1:5 sin no more.'

Jesus, the light of the world [b]

12 When Jesus spoke to the people again, he said:

h. The argument is rabbinic in type: circumcision was reckoned the 'healing' of one member; if this 'healing' of one member was allowed on the Sabbath, how much more the healing of the whole person?

i. var. 'the chief priests' or 'the elders' or 'they'.

j. They knew that the Messiah was to be born in Bethlehem, v. 42; Mt 2:5seq., but it was commonly believed that he would stay hidden in some secret place, cf. Mt 24:26, (in heaven, according to some) until the day of his coming. This belief was vindicated, though his audience did not recognise it, by Jesus' heavenly origin.

k. lit. 'he who sent me is true' (var. 'truthful').

l. var. 'because I am at his side'.

m. var. 'Pharisees and chief priests', 'They and the chief priests', 'Chief priests and Pharisees'.

n. Jesus, like God himself, must be sought while there is still time to find him. But the Jews will let his 'time' slip by and instead of coming to them, salvation will come to the gentiles (the 'Greeks'), see 12:20–21,35m; 19:37v.

o. The day, the 7th or perhaps the 8th, celebrating the end of the festival.

p. om. 'to me'. • Jesus' invitation resembles that of divine Wisdom, see 6:35j.

q. From Jesus himself, according to the oldest tradition, though another tradition joins 'anyone who believes in me' with 'from his heart', making the 'streams' flow from the believer.

r. The liturgy of the feast of Shelters ('Tabernacles'), which formed the background of these words, included prayers for rain, the procession to Siloam and the gathering of 'living water', which was then carried back to the Temple for the lustrations. These rites commemorated the Mosaic water-miracle, Ex 17:1–7; cf. 1 Co 10:4, and included readings from biblical passages foretelling lifegiving water for Zion, Ezk 47:1seq.; Zc 14:8; see Jn 4:1a.

s. var. 'the Spirit had not yet been given'.

t. That Jesus was born at Bethlehem was known only to those nearest him.

u. The author of this passage, 7:53–8:11, is not John: it is omitted by the oldest witnesses (MSS, versions, Fathers) and found elsewhere in others; moreover, its style is that of the Synoptics and the author was possibly Luke, see Lk 21:38h. Nevertheless, the passage was accepted in the canon and there are no grounds for regarding it as unhistorical.

8 a. The significance of the gesture is debated.

b. The development in the NT of the light-darkness theme can be traced fairly clearly along three main lines: 1 Just as the sun lights people on their way, so anything that shows them the way to God is 'light': of old it was the Law, the Wisdom and Word of God, Ps 119:105; Pr 4:18–19; 6:23; Qo 2:13; cf. Rm 2:19; now it is Jesus, Jn 1:9; 9:1–39; 12:35; 1 Jn 2:8–11; see also 2 Co 4:6, who is compared with the bright cloud that led the Israelites, Jn 8:12; see also Ex 13:21seq.; Ws 18:3seq.; it is also his followers from whom

I am the light of the world;
anyone who follows me will not be walking in the dark but will have the light of life.

A discussion on the testimony of Jesus to himself

At this the Pharisees said to him, 'You are testifying on your own behalf; your testimony is not true.' 13
•Jesus replied: 14

3:11f;5:31 Even though I am testifying on my own behalf, my testimony is still true,
because I know
14:28 where I have come from and where I am going;
but you do not know where I come from or where I am going. [c]
7:24 Rm 7:5 You judge by human standards; [d] 15 12:47 I judge [e] no one,
but if I judge, 16 5:30;8:29 my judgement will be true,
because I am not alone:
10:30p the one who sent me is with me;
Nb 35:30 Dt 17:6;19:15 and in your Law it is written 17
that the testimony of two witnesses is true.
I testify on my own behalf, 18
5:32,37 but the Father who sent me testifies on my behalf, too.

14:9 They asked him, 'Where is your Father then?' Jesus answered: 19

12:45 You do not know me, nor do you know my Father;
=14:7 if you did know me, you would know my Father as well.

Mk 12:41c •7:30 2:4e He spoke these words in the Treasury, while teaching in the Temple. No one arrested him, because his hour had not yet come. 20
Again he said to them: 21

7:34n I am going away; you will look for me
13:33,36 Dt 24:16 Ezk 18:20;33: 12–20 and you will die in your sin. [f]
Where I am going, you cannot come.

So the Jews said to one another, 'Is he going to kill himself, that he says, "Where I am going, you cannot come?" ' 22
•Jesus went on: 23

You are from below;
I am from above.
1:10g You are of this world;
3:31;17:14 I am not of this world.
I have told you already: You will die in your sins. 24 1:1a;6:35+; 8:28+ Ex 3:14+ Is 43:11 Yes, if you do not believe that I am He, [g] you will die in your sins.

So they said to him, 'Who are you?' Jesus answered: 25

What I have told you from the outset. [h]
About you I have much to say 26
and much to judge;
7:28 but the one who sent me is true,
12:48–50 and what I declare to the world
I have learnt from him.

They did not recognise that he was talking to them about the Father. •So Jesus said: 27, 28

When you have lifted up the Son of man, 12:32j then you will know that I am He[i] Mt 8:20h and that I do nothing of my own accord. 8:24g
What I say is what the Father has taught me; 3:11e 29 he who sent me is with me, 10:30p and has not left me to myself, 16:32 for I always do what pleases him.

30 As he was saying this, many came to believe in him.

Jesus and Abraham

31 To the Jews who believed in him Jesus said:

If you make my word your home 3:11e
you will indeed be my disciples; 32 you will come to know the truth,[j]
and the truth will set you free. 2 Co 3:17

33 They answered, 'We are descended from Abraham and we have never been the 34 slaves of anyone; what do you mean, "You will be set free?" ' •Jesus replied:

In all truth I tell you,
everyone who commits sin is a slave.[k] 2:19g
Rm 6:17–19
35 Now a slave has no permanent standing in the household, 2 P 2:19j but a son belongs to it for ever. •14:2–3
Gn 21:10
36 So if the Son sets you free, Jr 2:14seq.
you will indeed be free. Ga 4:30seq.
Heb 3:5–6
37 I know that you are descended from Abraham; Mt 21:33–46
but you want to kill me because my word finds no place in you. 5:38

the light of God's own perfections shines out, Mt 5:14–16; Lk 8:16; Rv 21:24. 2 Light is symbolic of life, contentment, and joy, as darkness is of death, unhappiness, and misery, Jb 30:26; Is 45:7; hence, enslavement is darkness, the deliverance and salvation of the messianic age is light, Is 8:22–9:1; Mt 4:16; Lk 1:79; Rm 13:11–12. This light shines even on the gentile nations, Lk 2:32; Ac 13:47, through Jesus who is the Light, Jn (see texts just quoted); Ep 5:14; it is at its brightest in the kingdom of Heaven, Mt 8:12; 22:13; 25:30; Rv 22:5. 3 The 'light-darkness' contrast came to be used for the mutually hostile worlds of Good and Evil (see also the Essene texts of Qumran). Thus in the NT there are two 'empires', Christ the lord of one, Satan of the other, Ac 26:18; 2 Co 6:14–15; Col 1:12–13; 1 P 2:9, each striving for the mastery, Jn 13:29–30; Lk 22:53. People are either 'children of light' or 'children of darkness', 12:36; Lk 16:8; Ep 5:7–9; 1 Th 5:5, according as their life is ruled by the light (Christ) or by darkness (Satan), 1 Th 5:4seq.; 1 Jn 1:6–7; 2:9–10, and what they do shows which they are, Rm 13:12–14; Ep 5.8–11. The coming of the Light makes clear this distinction ('judgement') of one person from another, because this coming forces everyone to declare himself either for or against, 3:19–21; 7:7; 9:39; 12:46; see Ep 5:12–13. The perspective remains optimistic: darkness will one day disappear before light, 1:5; Rm 13:12; 1 Jn 2:8.

c. It is enough for the Son to be his own witness since he alone knows the mystery of his heavenly origin, cf. Mt 11:27 and par.

d. The Jews judge by what they can see: a man like themselves; 'in that flesh they fail to see the glory of God's Son shining' (St Augustine).

e. In the semitic sense of the word, i.e. 'condemn'.

f. By rejecting Jesus, the Jews are heading for irremediable loss; they are sinning against the truth, vv. 40,45seq. It is the sin against the Spirit, Mt 12:31 and par.; see Jn 7:34n.

g. 'I Am' or 'I am He' is the divine name revealed to Moses, Ex 3:13g, 14, it means that the God of Israel is unique, the true God, Dt 32:39. When Jesus appropriates this name, he is claiming to be the one incomparable Saviour, the goal of Israel's faith and hope; see vv. 28,58; 13:19 and also 6:35; 18:5,8.

h. A very obscure text; it is variously rendered 'Why, in the first place, am I speaking to you?'; 'Why should I speak to you at all?'; 'What I have been telling you from the beginning'; 'Precisely what I am telling you'. Our translation resembles this last but preserves the idea of temporal priority which leads up to the following 'then' of v. 28, thus: as it is, the Jews have the opportunity of knowing Jesus from his words; afterwards, when they know him as one 'lifted up' it will be too late.

i. In the OT the formula 'you shall know that I am', or 'that I am Yahweh', is a declaration of God's power, see v. 24g, or else heralds some notable intervention of God in history, see Ex 10:2; Is 43:10 (strikingly like John); Ezk 6:7,10,13seq. This verse foretells the glorification of Jesus through his 'lifting up' on the cross, 12:32h, which is to be the reply to the Jews' question (v. 25) but will be also the condemnation of their unbelief; see 19:37; Mt 26:64 and par.; 1 Co 2:8; Rv 1:7.

j. Jesus is Truth, the total reality of the gift of the Father and of his saving plan, 14:6; 17:17; see Rv 3:7; 19:11. In him the promises of the Law, 1:17, have been realised. He proclaims the words he has received from the Father who sent him, 3:11e; 8:26,40. Thus he reveals to us the Father whom he knows, 1:18, and invites us to believe in him, 3:12g; 8:45–47. He is the true light, 1:9, and can say 'I am the true bread,' etc., 6:35. After his glorification, 12:32j, the Spirit of truth, 14:17j, will guide believers to all truth, 16:13. The believer, who 'is of the truth', 18:37; 1 Jn 3:19g; see also 2 Th 2:10–12, is sanctified by the truth, 17:17–19; he remains in it, Jn 8:31; walks in it, 2 Jn 4; 3 Jn 4; accomplishes it; Jn 3:21; co-operates with it, 3 Jn 8. He adores the Father in spirit and in truth, 4:23–24. He is saved from lies, v. 44*o*.

k. add. 'of sin'.

What I speak of 38
3:11e is what I have seen at my Father's side, and you too put into action
the lessons you have learnt from your father.

They repeated, 'Our father is Abraham.' Jesus said to them: 39

If you are Abraham's children, do as Abraham did. [l]
As it is, you want to kill me, 40
a man who has told you the truth
as I have learnt it from God;
Gn 15:6;17:1 seq. that is not what Abraham did.
You are doing your father's work. 41

Ex 4:22 Dt 32:6 They replied, 'We were not born illegitimate, [m] the only father we have is God.' 42 •Jesus answered:

Mk 1:38n 1 Jn 5:1 If God were your father, you would love me, since I have my origin in God and have come from him;
I did not come of my own accord,
1:1a but he sent me.
Why do you not understand what I say? 43
Because you cannot bear to listen to my words. [n]
Mt 4:1c 1 Jn 3:8–15 You are from your father, the devil, 44 and you prefer to do what your father wants.
Gn 2:17;3:1 seq. Ws 1:13;2:24 Rm 5:12 He was a murderer from the start;
he was never grounded [o] in the truth;
there is no truth in him at all.
When he lies
he is speaking true to his nature, because he is a liar, and the father of lies. [p]
But it is because I speak the truth 45 that you do not believe me.
Heb 9:14–28 1 P 1:19 1 Jn 3:5 Can any of you convict me of sin? [q] 46
If I speak the truth, why do you not believe me?
Whoever comes from God 47 listens to the words of God;
the reason why you do not listen
10:26m 1 Jn 4:6 is that you are not from God.

4:9e; 7:20+ The Jews replied, 'Are we not right in saying that you are a Samaritan and possessed by a devil?' Jesus answered: 48

I am not possessed; 49
but I honour my Father,
and you deny me honour.
7:18 I do not seek my own glory; 50
there is someone who does seek it and is the judge of it.
In all truth I tell you, 51
whoever keeps my word
3:11f;5:25–28;11:25 will never see death.

7:20+ The Jews said, 'Now we know that you are possessed. Abraham is dead, and the 52 prophets are dead, and yet you say, "Whoever keeps my word will never know the 4:12 taste of death." •Are you greater than our father Abraham, who is dead? The 53 prophets are dead too. Who are you claiming to be?' •Jesus answered: 54

If I were to seek my own glory
my glory would be worth nothing;
in fact, my glory is conferred by the Father,
by the one of whom you say, 'He is our God,' 55 although you do not know him.
But I know him, 7:29
and if I were to say, 'I do not know him,'
I should be a liar, as you yourselves are.
But I do know him, and I keep his word.
56 Your father Abraham rejoiced 5:39q to think that he would see my Day; r Gn 17:17
he saw it and was glad. s Mt 13:17seq.
Lk 17:22

57, 58 The Jews then said, 'You are not fifty yet, and you have seen Abraham!' ·Jesus replied:

In all truth I tell you,
before Abraham ever was, 1:1a
I am. 8:24g

59 At this they picked up stones to throw at him; t but Jesus hid himself and left the Temple. 10:31,39;11:8 Lk 4:29seq.

The cure of the man born blind

1, 2 9 As he went along, he saw a man who had been blind from birth. ·His disciples asked him, 'Rabbi, who sinned, this man or his parents, that he should have 5:14e
3 been born blind?' ·'Neither he nor his parents sinned,' Jesus answered, 'he was Ex 20:5 Lk 13:2
born blind so that the works of God a might be revealed in him.

4 'As long as day lasts 4:34;11:9–10; 12:35–36
we must b carry out the work of the one who sent me;
the night will soon be here when no one can work. c
5 As long as I am in the world
I am the light of the world.' d 8:12b,23

6 Having said this, he spat on the ground, made a paste with the spittle, put this 7 over the eyes of the blind man, ·and said to him, 'Go and wash in the Pool of Siloam e (the name means 'one who has been sent'). So he went off and washed and Is 8:6 came back able to see.
8 His neighbours and the people who used to see him before (for he was a beggar)
9 said, 'Isn't this the man who used to sit and beg?' ·Some said, 'Yes, it is the same

l. var. 'If you were Abraham's children, you would'. Unlike Isaac, the Jews are not 'children' of Abraham because they do not believe; they are merely of his 'race' (like the slave-girl's son, Ishmael, who was cast out, see vv. 34–35). On this, see Ga 4:30seq. Nevertheless they are not in this sense children of God because they do not believe in Jesus, 1:12j; 3:7–9.

m. The prophets call religious infidelity 'prostitution', see Ho 1:2b; here, therefore, the Jews are objecting that they have been faithful to God's covenant.

n. Because they have the devil for master, and he is hostile to the truth. Cf. 18:37.

o. var. 'he has never taken his stand upon the truth'.

p. Or 'father of the liar'. Lying, the opposite of the Word, 1:1a, and of truth, v. 31, is linked to evil, cf. Rm 1:25; 2 Th 2:9–12. The Jews who refuse the truth of Jesus, v. 40, cf. 1 P 2:22, submit to the chief of all the enemies of this truth, see Jn 12:31f; 13:2e; 1 Jn 2:14.

q. i.e. of betraying the commission entrusted to him by God.

r. i.e. Jesus' coming. Another example of an expression reserved for God in the OT (the 'Day of Yahweh', see Am 5:18m) but adopted for himself by Jesus.

s. Abraham saw Jesus' 'Day' (as Isaiah 'saw his glory', 12:41), but 'from a distance', cf. Nb 24:17; Heb 11:13, because he saw it in the birth of the promised Isaac (at which Abraham 'laughed', Gn 17:17f) which was an event prophetic of Jesus' birth. Jesus claims to be the ultimate fulfilment of this promise made to Abraham; he is Isaac according to the spirit.

t. The claim of Jesus to live on the divine plane (v. 58) is, for the Jews, blasphemy, for which the penalty is stoning, Lv 24:16.

9 a. i.e. 'the signs', see 2:11f.

b. var. 'I must'.

c. The life of Jesus is compared to a day's work, 5:17, ending with the night of death, cf. Lk 13:32.

d. Before the miracle takes place its significance is pointed out, see v. 37.

e. The water drawn from here during the feast of Shelters ('Tabernacles') symbolised the blessings of the messianic age. Henceforth, the source of these blessings is Jesus himself. • 'The envoy', or 'the one sent', is one of Jn's favourite names for Jesus, see 3:17;4:34; 5:36; etc.

one.' Others said, 'No, but he looks just like him.' The man himself said, 'Yes, I am the one.' •So they said to him, 'Then how is it that your eyes were opened?' 10
He answered, 'The man called Jesus made a paste, daubed my eyes with it and 11 said to me, "Go off and wash at Siloam"; so I went, and when I washed I gained my sight.' •They asked, 'Where is he?' He answered, 'I don't know.' 12

They brought to the Pharisees the man who had been blind. •It had been a 13, 14
Mt 12:10seq., par. Lk 13:10seq.; 14:1seq. Sabbath day when Jesus made the paste[e] and opened the man's eyes, •so when the 15 Pharisees asked him how he had gained his sight, he said, 'He put a paste on my eyes, and I washed, and I can see.' •Then some of the Pharisees said, 'That man 16 cannot be from God: he does not keep the Sabbath.' Others said, 'How can a 3:2 sinner produce signs like this?' And there was division among them. •So they spoke 17 to the blind man again, 'What have you to say about him yourself, now that he has Mt 16:14c opened your eyes?' The man answered, 'He is a prophet.'

However, the Jews would not believe that the man had been blind[g] without first 18 sending for the parents of the man who had gained his sight and •asking them, 'Is 19 this man really the son of yours who you say was born blind? If so, how is it that he is now able to see?' •His parents answered, 'We know he is our son and we know 20
he was born blind, •but how he can see, we don't know, nor who opened his eyes. 21
Ask him.[h] He is old enough: let him speak for himself.' •His parents spoke like 22 7:13+ •16:2 this out of fear of the Jews, who had already agreed to ban from the synagogue anyone who should acknowledge Jesus as the Christ. •This was why his parents 23 said, 'He is old enough; ask him.'

So the Jews sent for the man again and said to him, 'Give glory to God![i] We are 24 satisfied that this man is a sinner.' •The man answered, 'Whether he is a sinner I 25 don't know; all I know is that I was blind and now I can see.' •They said to him, 26
'What did he do to you? How did he open your eyes? •He replied, 'I have told you 27 once and you wouldn't listen. Why do you want to hear it all again? Do you want to become his disciples yourselves?' •At this they hurled abuse at him, 'It is you who 28 are his disciple, we are disciples of Moses: •we know that God spoke to Moses, but 29 as for this man, we don't know where he comes from.' •The man replied, 'That is 30 just what is so amazing! You don't know where he comes from and he has opened Ps 34:15–16 Pr 15:29 Is 1:15 my eyes! •We know that God doesn't listen to sinners, but God does listen to men 31 who are devout and do his will. •Ever since the world began it is unheard of for 32 anyone to open the eyes of a man who was born blind;[j] •if this man were not from 33
God, he wouldn't have been able to do anything.' •They retorted, 'Are you trying 34 3:2 7:49 to teach us, and you a sinner through and through ever since you were born!' And they ejected him.

Jesus heard they had ejected him, and when he found him he said to him, 'Do 35
Mt 8:20h you believe in the Son of man?' •'Sir,' the man replied, 'tell me who he is so that 36
4:26;9:5d I may believe in him.' •Jesus said, 'You have seen him; he is speaking to you.'[k] 37
Mt 8:10b The man said, 'Lord, I believe,' and worshipped him. 38

Jesus said: 39

8:12b 1:1a Mt 13:13
It is for judgement
that I have come into this world, so that those without sight may see and those with sight[l] may become blind.

Mt 15:14par. Hearing this, some Pharisees who were present said to him, 'So we are blind, are 40
we?' •Jesus replied: 41

3:36;12:48 Mt 23:16seq.
If you were blind,
you would not be guilty,
but since you say, 'We can see,'
your guilt remains.

The good shepherd

Jr 23:1–3
Ezk 34:1seq..1a

1 10 'In all truth I tell you, anyone who does not enter the sheepfold through the
2 gate, but climbs in some other way, is a thief and a bandit. ·He who enters
3 through the gate is the shepherd of the flock; ·the gatekeeper lets him in, the sheep
4 hear his voice, one by one [a] he calls his own sheep and leads them out. ·When he 21:16 has brought out all those that are his, he goes ahead of them, and the sheep follow Mi 2:13 5 because they know his voice. ·They will never follow a stranger, but will run away from him because they do not recognise the voice of strangers.'
6 Jesus told them [b] this parable but they failed to understand what he was saying to them.
7 So Jesus spoke to them again:

In all truth I tell you,
I am the gate of the sheepfold. [c]
8 All who have come [d] before me are thieves and bandits,
but the sheep took no notice of them.
9 I am the gate.
Anyone who enters through me will be safe: 3:17
such a one will go in and out Ps 23:1–3 and will find pasture. Is 49:9–10
Ezk 34:14
10 The thief comes only to steal and kill and destroy.
I have come
so that they may have life [e]
and have it to the full.
11 I am the good shepherd: [f] Ezk 34:1a the good shepherd lays down his life for his sheep. Heb 13:20
1 P 5:4
12 The hired man, since he is not the shepherd Rv 7:17 and the sheep do not belong to him, abandons the sheep Jr 23:1seq.
as soon as he sees a wolf coming, and runs away, Ezk 34:3–8
Zc 11:17
and then the wolf attacks and scatters the sheep; 13 he runs away because he is only a hired man and has no concern for the sheep.
14 I am the good shepherd;
I know my own
and my own know me, [g]
15 just as the Father knows me 15:9 and I know the Father; Mt 11:25–27par.
and I lay down my life for my sheep.

f. This was work and forbidden on the Sabbath.

g. var. 'that the man had been blind and had gained his sight'.

h. om. 'ask him'.

i. A biblical phrase putting a person under oath to tell the truth and to make reparation for his insult to the divine majesty, see Jos 7:19; 1 S 6:5.

j. There are many points of resemblance between ch. 9 and 3:1–21, and it is probable that to the evangelist's mind the cure of the man born blind is a symbol of the new birth through water and the Spirit, 3:3–7.

k. om. all v. 38 and first two words of v. 39.

l. The complacent who trust to their own 'light', see vv. 24,29,34, as opposed to the humble, typified by the blind man, cf. Dt 29:3; Is 6:9seq; Jr 5:21; Ezk 12:2.

10 a. Or possibly 'each by its name'.

b. i.e. to the Pharisees, wilfully blind, 9:40. They fail to realise that the parable refers to them.

c. The gate that gives access to the sheep. Only those who 'go in' by Jesus have authority to guide the flock, 21:15–17.

d. om. 'before me'. The reference is probably to the Pharisees, cf. Mt 23:1–36; Lk 11:39–52 and Mt 9:36; Mk 6:34.

e. Eternal life. Jesus gives it. 3:16,36; 5:40; 6:33,35,48,51; 14:6; 20:31, with abounding generosity, see Mt 25:29; Lk 6:38; Rv 7:17.

f. God, himself the shepherd of his people, was to choose a shepherd for them in the messianic age, cf. Ezk 34:1a. Jesus' assertion that he is the good shepherd is a claim to messiahship.

g. In biblical language, see Ho 2:22v, 'knowledge' is not merely the conclusion of an intellectual process, but the fruit of an 'experience', a personal contact (see Jn 10:14–15 and 14:20; 17:21–22; cf. 14:17; 17:3; 2 Jn 1–2); when it matures, it is love, see Ho 6:6c and 1 Jn 1:3b.

5:25;11:52; 18:37;Is 56:8 Jr 23:3;31:10 Ezk 34:23; 37:22;Mi 2:13 Ep 2:14seq.; 4:4seq.

And there are other sheep I have 16
that are not of this fold, and I must lead these too. [h]
They too will listen to my voice, and there will be only one flock, [i] one shepherd.

3:35;8:29 Ph 2:8–9 Heb 10:10

The Father loves me, 17
because I lay down my life
in order to take it up again.
No one takes it from me; 18
I lay it down of my own free will, [j]
and as I have power to lay it down, so I have power to take it up again;
and this is the command I have received from my Father.

3:11f 7:20+ 3:2;9:30–33

These words caused a fresh division among the Jews. ·Many said, 'He is possessed, he is raving; why do you listen to him?' ·Others said, 'These are not the words of a man possessed by a devil: could a devil open the eyes of the blind?' 19, 20 21

V: THE FEAST OF DEDICATION
THE DECISION TO KILL JESUS

Jesus claims to be the Son of God

1 M 4:36h Ac 3:11d 8:25 Lk 22:67

It was the time of the feast of Dedication in Jerusalem. It was winter, ·and Jesus was in the Temple walking up and down in the Portico of Solomon. ·The Jews gathered round him and said, 'How much longer are you going to keep us in suspense? If you are the Christ, tell us openly.' [k] ·Jesus replied: 22, 23 24 25

2:11f;5:36

I have told you, [l] but you do not believe.
The works I do in my Father's name are my witness;
but you do not believe, 26
10:3–4,14 Pr 28:5

because you are no sheep of mine. [m]

1 Co 2:14

The sheep that belong to me listen to my voice; 27
I know them and they follow me.

10:10 Jr 23:4 Rm 8:33–39

I give them eternal life; 28
they will never be lost and no one will ever steal them from my hand.

3:35t

The Father, for what he has given me, is greater than anyone, [n] 29

1:1 Dt 32:39;33:3 Is 43:13;51:16 Ws 3:1

and no one can steal [o] anything from the Father's hand.
The Father and I are one. [p] 30

8:59

The Jews fetched stones to stone him, ·so Jesus said to them, 'I have shown you many good works from my Father; for which of these are you stoning me?' ·The Jews answered him, 'We are stoning you, not for doing a good work, but for blasphemy; though you are only a man, you claim to be God.' ·Jesus answered: 31, 32 33 34

19:7 Lk 22:70–71 ·5:18 Rm 3:19f Ps 82:6

Is it not written in your Law:
I said, you are gods? [q]
So it uses the word 'gods' 35
1:12–13

of those people to whom the word of God was addressed
—and scripture cannot be set aside.

1:1a Jr 1:5

Yet to someone whom the Father has consecrated 36
and sent into the world you say,
'You are blaspheming'
because I said, 'I am Son of God.'

37 If I am not doing my Father's work, there is no need to believe me;
38 but if I am doing it,
then even if you refuse to believe in me, at least believe in the work I do; 2:11f then you will know for certain that the Father is in me and I am in the Father. 14:11;17:21

39 They again wanted[r] to arrest him then, but he eluded their clutches. 8:59

Jesus withdraws to the other side of the Jordan

40 He went back again to the far side of the Jordan to the district where John had 1:28
41 been baptising at first and he stayed there. ·Many people who came to him said, Mt 19:1 Mk 10:1
42 'John gave no signs, but all he said about this man was true'; ·and many of them believed in him.

VI: JESUS MOVES TOWARDS HIS DEATH

The resurrection of Lazarus

1 11 There was a man named Lazarus of Bethany, the village of Mary and her 12:1–8 2 sister, Martha, and he was ill. ·It was the same Mary, the sister of the sick Lk 10:38seq.
man Lazarus, who anointed the Lord with ointment and wiped his feet with her 3, 4 hair.[a] ·The sisters sent this message to Jesus, 'Lord, the man you love is ill.' ·On receiving the message, Jesus said, 'This sickness will not end in death, but it is for God's glory so that through it the Son of God may be glorified.'[b] 2:11
5, 6 Jesus loved Martha and her sister and Lazarus, ·yet when he heard that he was 1:14h 10:34q
7 ill he stayed where he was for two more days ·before saying to the disciples, 'Let us
8 go back to Judaea.'[c] ·The disciples said, 'Rabbi, it is not long since the Jews were 9 trying to stone you; are you going back there again?' ·Jesus replied: 8:59+;10:31

Are there not twelve hours in the day?
No one who walks in the daytime stumbles, having the light of this world to see by; 8:12b;9:4;12:35 10 anyone who walks around at night stumbles, having no light as a guide.

11 He said that and then added, 'Our friend Lazarus is at rest; I am going to wake 2:19g 12, 13 him.' ·The disciples said to him, 'Lord, if he is at rest he will be saved.' ·Jesus was Mt 9:24par.
speaking of the death of Lazarus, but they thought that by 'rest' he meant 'sleep'; 14, 15 so Jesus put it plainly, 'Lazarus is dead; ·and for your sake I am glad I was not

h. Not to take them into the Jewish fold but to gather them into the flock that Jesus 'leads' to eternal life.

i. var. 'one fold' (Vulg.).

j. Jesus has life in himself, 3:35t, and no one can rob him of it, 7:30,44; 8:20; 10:39; he surrenders it of his own will, v. 18; 14:30; 19:11; hence his perfect control and majestic calm in the face of death, 12:27; 13:1–3; 17:19; 18:4–6; 19:28.

k. Not, as hitherto, in the oblique language of parable, see v. 6; 16:25,29. More urgently than before, 2:18; 6:30; 8:25, the Jews press Jesus to say if he is the Messiah. In the Synoptics, the question is put by the high priest before the Passion, Mk 14:61.

l. Jesus' previous statements, in this Gospel, had made it sufficiently clear that he spoke as God's envoy, cf. 2:19; 5:17seq., 39; 6:32seq.; 8:24,28seq., 56seq.; 9:37.

m. Faith in Jesus implies an inner sympathy with him: one must be 'from above', 8:23, 'of God', 8:47, 'of the truth', 18:37, of his flock, v. 14. Faith presupposes a mind open to truth, 3:17–21, see Ac 13:48jj; Rm 8:29seq.

n. var. 'As for my Father, that which he has given me is greater than all'.

o. var. 'Steal them'.

p. The Son's power is not other than the Father's. The context shows that this is the primary meaning, but the statement is deliberately undefined and hints at a more comprehensive and a profounder unity. The Jews do not miss the implication; they sense a claim to godhead, v. 33; cf. 1:1; 8:24,29; 10:38; 14:9–10; 17:11,21 and 2:11f.

q. The words were addressed to judges whose function made them, in a sense, 'gods' because 'judgement is God's', Ex 21:6; Dt 1:17; 19:17; Ps 58. Jesus' argument is a rabbinic a fortiori, the conclusion being that blasphemy is a surprising charge to bring when it is God's consecrated envoy who calls himself Son of God. On this title, 'Son of God', v. 36, cf. 5:25; 11:4,27; 20:17,31; Jesus' fate is henceforth to turn, see 19:7, see also Mt 4:3d.

r. om. 'again'.

11 a. It is unlikely that this is 'the woman who was a sinner' of Lk 7:37.

b. A double meaning here: Jesus will be glorified by the miracle itself, see 1:14n, but the miracle will bring about his death, vv. 46–54, by which also he will be glorified, 12:32h.

c. om. 'back'.

2:11f there because now you will believe. [d] But let us go to him.' ·Then Thomas—known 16
14:5;20:24–29 as the Twin—said to the other disciples, 'Let us also go to die with him.'
Mk 10:32 On arriving, Jesus found that Lazarus had been in the tomb for four days 17
11:45;12: already. ·Bethany is only about two miles from Jerusalem, ·and many Jews had 18, 19
9–11,17–19 come to Martha and Mary to comfort them about their brother. ·When Martha 20 Lk 10:39seq. heard that Jesus was coming she went to meet him. Mary remained sitting in the 11:32 house. ·Martha said to Jesus, 'Lord, if you had been here, [e] my brother would not 21
Mk 11:24par. have died, ·but even now I know that God will grant whatever you ask of him.' [f] 22
Jesus said to her, 'Your brother will rise again.' ·Martha said, 'I know he will 23, 24
2:19+ rise again at the resurrection on the last day.' ·Jesus said: 25

3:35t;8:51 I am the resurrection. [g]
Mt 22:23e Anyone who believes in me, even though that person dies, will live, [h]
5:24 and whoever lives and believes in me 26
1 Jn 3:14 will never die.
Do you believe this?

1:9–10,9f;10:34q 'Yes, Lord,' she said, 'I believe that you are the Christ, the Son of God, the one 27 who was to come into this world.'
When she had said this, she went and called her sister Mary, saying in a low 28 voice, 'The Master is here and wants to see you.' ·Hearing this, Mary got up 29 quickly and went to him. ·Jesus had not yet come into the village; he was still at the 30 place where Martha had met him. ·When the Jews who were in the house comfort- 31 ing Mary saw her get up so quickly and go out, they followed her, thinking that she was going to the tomb to weep there.
Mary went to Jesus, and as soon as she saw him she threw herself at his feet, 32
11:21 saying, 'Lord, if you had been here, my brother would not have died.' ·At the sight 33 of her tears, and those of the Jews who had come with her, Jesus was greatly 11:38;12:27; distressed, and with a profound sigh he said, ·'Where have you put him?' They 34
13:21 said, 'Lord, come and see.' ·Jesus wept; ·and the Jews said, 'See how much he loved 35, 36 him!' ·But there were some who remarked, 'He opened the eyes of the blind man. 37 Could he not have prevented this man's death?' ·Sighing again, Jesus reached the 38 tomb: it was a cave with a stone to close the opening. ·Jesus said, 'Take the stone 39 away.' Martha, [i] the dead man's sister, said to him, 'Lord, by now he will smell; this is the fourth day since he died.' ·Jesus replied, 'Have I not told you that if you 40
1:14n;2:11f believe you will see the glory of God?' ·So they took the stone away. Then Jesus 41 17:1+ lifted up [j] his eyes and said:
Mt 14:19par.

Father, I thank you for hearing my prayer.
I myself knew that you hear me always, 42
but I speak
12:30 for the sake of all these who are standing around me,
1:1a so that they may believe it was you who sent me.

5:27–29 When he had said this, he cried in a loud voice, 'Lazarus, come out!' ·The dead 43, 44
Is 49:9 man came out, his feet and hands bound with strips of material, and a cloth over 19:40;20:5–7 his face. Jesus said to them, 'Unbind him, let him go free.'

The Jewish leaders decide on the death of Jesus

Many of the Jews who had come to visit Mary, and had seen what he did, believed 45 in him, ·but some of them went to the Pharisees to tell them what Jesus had done. 46 Mt 26:3–5par. Then the chief priests and Pharisees called a meeting. 'Here is this man working 47 all these signs,' they said, 'and what action are we taking? ·If we let him go on in 48 this way everybody will believe in him, and the Romans will come and suppress the Lk 3:2f Holy Place [k] and our nation.' ·One of them, Caiaphas, the high priest that year, 49
18:13 said, 'You do not seem to have grasped the situation at all; ·you fail to see that it 50 is to your advantage [l] that one man should die for the people, rather than that the whole nation should perish.' ·He did not speak in his own person, but as high 51 priest of that year[m] he was prophesying that Jesus was to die for the nation[n]— 52 and not for the nation only, but also to gather together into one the scattered

53 children of God. ·From that day onwards they were determined[o] to kill him. 4:42n;10:16 Dt 30:3 Is 49:6
54 So Jesus no longer went about openly among the Jews, but left the district for a town called Ephraim, in the country bordering on the desert, and stayed there with his disciples. ·5:18g.7:1 Mt 12:14par.

The Passover draws near

55 The Jewish Passover was drawing near,[p] and many of the country people who had 2:13;6:4
56 gone up to Jerusalem before the Passover[q] to purify themselves ·were looking out Nb 9:6–13 for Jesus, saying to one another as they stood about in the Temple, 'What do you 7:11 57 think? Will he come to the festival or not?' ·The chief priests and Pharisees had by now given their orders: anyone who knew where he was must inform them so that they could arrest him.

The anointing at Bethany

‖Mt 26:6–12
‖Mk 14:3–8

1 12 Six days before the Passover,[a] Jesus went to Bethany, where Lazarus was,
2 whom he had raised from the dead. ·They gave a dinner for him there;
3 Martha waited on them and Lazarus was among those at table. ·Mary brought in 11:2+ a pound of very costly ointment, pure nard, and with it anointed the feet of Jesus, wiping them with her hair; the house was filled with the scent of the ointment.
4 Then Judas Iscariot—one of his disciples, the man who was to betray him—said,
5 'Why was this ointment not sold for three hundred denarii and the money given
6 to the poor?' ·He said this, not because he cared about the poor, but because he was a thief; he was in charge of the common fund and used to help himself to the 13:29
7 contents. ·So Jesus said, 'Leave her alone; let her keep it for the day of my burial.[b]
8 You have the poor with you always, you will not always have me.'
9 Meanwhile a large number of Jews heard that he was there and came not only on 10 account of Jesus but also to see Lazarus whom he had raised from the dead. ·Then 11 the chief priests decided to kill Lazarus as well, ·since it was on his account that many of the Jews were leaving them and believing in Jesus. 11:45

The Messiah enters Jerusalem

‖Mt 21:4–9
‖Mk 11:7–10
‖Lk 19:35–38

12 The next day the great crowd of people who had come up for the festival heard that 13 Jesus was on his way to Jerusalem. ·They took branches of palm and went out to 1 M 13:51 Rv 7:9 receive him, shouting:

> 'Hosanna! Ps 118:25seq.
> Blessed is he who is coming in the name of the Lord,
> the king of Israel.'[c] 1:49;6:15

14 Jesus found a young donkey and mounted it—as scripture says:

15 Do not be afraid, daughter of Zion; Zc 9:9seq.

d. The significance of the death of Lazarus includes the strengthening of their faith by a miracle.
e. om. 'Lord'.
f. Martha has faith in Jesus but she stops short as if about to ask an impossibility.
g. add. 'and the life'.
h. The believer has triumphed over death for ever, a victory of which the resurrection of Lazarus is the sign, see 3:11e.
i. om. 'the dead man's sister'.
j. Or 'to heaven', 'up to heaven'.
k. lit. 'our Place'; Jerusalem, the Holy Land, or more probably the holiest of all places, the Temple.
l. var. 'it is better'.
m. om. 'of that year'.
n. Caiaphas means that Jesus must be executed to save the nation from political extinction. The higher, prophetic sense, is that the death of Jesus is necessary for the salvation of the world, see 1:29v.
o. var. 'they plotted'.
p. Jn repeatedly emphasises the connection between the Passover and Christ's death, 13:1; 18:28; 19:14,42.
q. om. 'before the Passover'.

12 a. This last week of Jesus' life is as carefully punctuated as the first, v. 12; 13:1; 18:28; 19:31; see 2:1a. Each of the two weeks culminates in the manifestation of his glory, but the time for 'signs' (see Cana, 2:4,11) is now over: 'the hour has come for the Son of man to be glorified', v. 23; 13:31seq.; 17:1,5.
b. Jesus sees Mary's act as a gesture of respect offered to his dead body before the time; it is a symbol of his actual burial, 19:38seq.
c. The Messiah-King.

look, your king is approaching, riding on the foal of a donkey.

2:22;14:26r Mk 4:13b 5:39q At first his disciples did not understand this, but later, after Jesus had been 16 glorified, they remembered that this had been written about him and that this was what had happened to him. ·The crowd who had been with him when he called 17
Lazarus out of the tomb and raised him from the dead kept bearing witness to it;
Lk 19:37 this was another reason why the crowd came out to receive him: they had heard 18 that he had given this sign. ·Then the Pharisees said to one another, 'You see, you 19 11:47–48 are making no progress; look, the whole world has gone after him!'

Jesus foretells his death and subsequent glorification

Ac 8:26seq. 1:44 Among those who went up to worship at the festival were some Greeks. [d] ·These 20, 21 approached Philip, who came from Bethsaida in Galilee, and put this request to 7:34n;12:32j him, 'Sir, we should like to see Jesus.' ·Philip went to tell Andrew, and Andrew 22 and Philip together went to tell Jesus.
Jesus replied to them: 23

2:4e 3:14i Mt 8:20h
Now the hour has come for the Son of man to be glorified.
In all truth I tell you, 24
1 Co 15:36
unless a wheat grain falls into the earth and dies,
it remains only a single grain;
Is 53:10–12
but if it dies
it yields a rich harvest.
1:10g ‖Mt 16:24–25 ‖Mk 8:35 ‖Lk 9:24 Rv 12:11
Anyone who loves his life loses it; 25 anyone who hates his life in this world will keep it for eternal life.
Whoever serves me, must follow me, 26 7:34;14:3; 17:24
and my servant will be with me wherever I am. [e]
If anyone serves me, my Father will honour him.
11:33;13:21 Heb 5:7–8
Now my soul is troubled. [f] 27
What shall I say:
18:11 Ps 22:19–23 Lk 22:40–46 par.
Father, save me from this hour?
But it is for this very reason that I have come to this hour.
Father, glorify your name! [g] 28

1:14n;2:11f; 17:5+ Mk 1:11par.; 9:7par. 11:42
A voice came from heaven, 'I have glorified it, and I will again glorify it.'
The crowd standing by, who heard this, said it was a clap of thunder; others said, 29
'It was an angel speaking to him.' ·Jesus answered, 'It was not for my sake that this 30 voice came, but for yours. [h]

1:10g;3:19
'Now sentence is being passed on this world; 31 Lk 10:18 Rv 12:9;20:1–6
now the prince of this world is to be driven out. [i]
And when I am lifted up from the earth, [j] 32
3:35t
I shall draw all people [k] to myself.' [l]

By these words he indicated the kind of death he would die. ·The crowd 33, 34
2:19g Rm 3:19f answered, 'The Law has taught us that the Christ will remain for ever. So how can •2 S 7:16 Ps 110:4 Is 9:6 •Mt 8:20 you say, "The Son of man must be lifted up"? Who is this Son of man?' ·Jesus 35 then said:
8:12b
The light will be with you only a little longer now.
Go on your way [m] while you have the light,
or darkness will overtake you,
and nobody who walks in the dark knows where he is going.
Jr 13:16
While you still have the light, 36 believe in the light
so that you may become children of light.

Having said this, Jesus left them and was hidden from their sight.

Conclusion: the unbelief of the Jews

37 Though they had been present when he gave so many signs, they did not believe in 2:11f Dt 29:1–3 38 him; ·this was to fulfil the words of the prophet Isaiah:

Lord, who has given credence to what they have heard from us, Is 53:1 and who has seen in it a revelation of the Lord's arm? Rm 10:16

39 Indeed, they were unable to believe because, as Isaiah says again: Mt 13:13e

40 He has blinded their eyes, Is 6:10k
he has hardened their heart, to prevent them from using their eyes to see,
using their heart to understand,
changing their ways and being healed by me.

41 Isaiah said this because he saw his glory,[n] and his words referred to Jesus. 5:39q
42 And yet there were many who did believe in him, even among the leading men, 3:1;7:13
but they did not admit it, because of the Pharisees and for fear of being banned 5:44 43 from the synagogue: ·they put human glory before God's glory. 9:22 44 Jesus declared publicly:

Whoever believes in me believes not in me
but in the one who sent me, 13:20 45 and whoever sees me, 14:7–9 sees the one who sent me.
46 I have come into the world as light, 1:1a;8:12b to prevent anyone who believes in me from staying in the dark any more.
47 If anyone hears my words and does not keep them faithfully, 3:11e it is not I who shall judge such a person, Mt 13:18–23par.
since I have come not to judge the world, Lk 8:2;par.; 11:28
but to save the world: 3:17
48 anyone who rejects me and refuses my words Lk 20:16 has his judge already: 8:37,47
the word itself that I have spoken Dt 31:26–29 will be his judge on the last day. Heb 4:12seq.
49 For I have not spoken of my own accord; Dt 18:18–19
but the Father who sent me 1:1a commanded me what to say and what to speak, 3:11e
50 and I know that his commands mean eternal life. 6:63
And therefore what the Father has told me is what I speak.

d. Not Jews by birth but converts to the monotheism of Israel and adopting certain specific Mosaic observances; they are the 'God-fearers' of Ac 10:2b.

e. In the glory of the Father, cf. 14:3; 17:24.

f. This episode and Gethsemane, Mk 14:32–42, have many details in common: the anguish as the 'hour' draws near, the appeal to the Father's pity, the acceptance of death, the comfort from heaven (cf. Lk). But we should note also the differences: Jesus remains standing, and his cry for mercy remains at the level of a mental struggle (Jn); he 'kneels down' (Lk), 'falls prostrate' (Mt, Mk), see Jn 10:18j; 18:4–6.

g. var. 'your Son'. The Father's 'name' is his person. Jesus worked for the Father's glory; his death, now freely offered, is the completion of that work because it shows how great is the Father's love, 17:6g.

h. Jesus' coming death is thus divinely and publicly sanctioned.

i. Satan (see 14:30; 16:11; 2 Co 4:4; Ep 2:2; 6:12) was lord of the world. 1 Jn 5:19; Jesus' death breaks his dominion over humanity; see Jn 3:35t and Mt 8:29k; Lk 8:31c; Col 1:12–13.

j. om. 'from the earth'. • Allusion both to the 'lifting up' of Jesus on the cross (v. 34) and to his 'lifting up' to heaven, 3:13,14h; 8:28; cf. 6:62, on the day of his resurrection, 20:17h; the two events are two aspects of the same mystery, 13:1a. When Christ is raised to the Father's right hand in glory, v. 23; 17:5e, he will send the Spirit, 7:39, through whom his reign will spread over the world, 16:14; see 3:35t.

k. var. 'every man' or 'all things'.

l. The crucified Jesus will be set before the eyes of the world as its Saviour, cf. 19:37. This is the answer to the Greeks' request to 'see' Jesus, see 6:40m.

m. Jesus urges the Jews to believe in him before it is too late, see 7:34n.

n. var. 'when he saw'. • Alluding to Isaiah's vision in the Temple, Is 6:1–4 and notes. Jn interprets it as a prophetic vision of Christ's glory, see 8:56r.

C: JESUS' HOUR COMES

THE PASSOVER OF THE LAMB OF GOD

I: JESUS' LAST MEAL WITH HIS DISCIPLES

The washing of feet

1:48dd Mt 26:17d 1:10g;2:4d; 10:18j
13 Before the festival of the Passover, Jesus, knowing that his hour had come 1 to pass from this world to the Father, [a] having loved [b] those who were his in the world, loved them to the end. [c]

Mt 26:20par. Mt 4:1c 3:35t 1:1a
They were at supper, [d] and the devil had already put it into the mind [e] of Judas 2 Iscariot son of Simon, to betray him. ·Jesus knew that the Father had put every- 3 thing into his hands, and that he had come from God and was returning to God, and he got up from table, removed his outer garments and, taking a towel, 4

Lk 12:37;17:7–10
wrapped it round his waist; ·he then poured water into a basin and began to wash 5 the disciples' feet [f] and to wipe them with the towel he was wearing.

Mt 3:14
He came to Simon Peter, who said to him, 'Lord, are you going to wash my 6 feet?' ·Jesus answered, 'At the moment you do not know what I am doing, but 7

14:26r
later you will understand.' ·'Never!' said Peter, 'You shall never wash my feet.' 8

2:19g 1 Co 6:11 Ep 5:26
Jesus replied, 'If I do not wash you, you can have no share with me.' [g] Simon Peter said, ·'Well then, Lord, not only my feet, but my hands and my head as well!' 9

15:3
Jesus said, 'No one who has had a bath needs washing, [h] such a person is clean all 10

1:48dd
over. [i] You too are clean, [j] though not all of you are.' ·He knew who was going to 11 betray him, and that was why he said, 'though not all of you are'.

When he had washed their feet and put on his outer garments again he went 12 back to the table. 'Do you understand', he said, 'what I have done to you? ·You 13

Mt 23:8–12
call me Master and Lord, and rightly; so I am. ·If I, then, the Lord and Master, 14 have washed your feet, you must wash each other's feet. [k] ·I have given you an 15

13:34;15:12 Lk 22:24–27 Ep 5:2 Ph 2:5,8 example so that you may copy what I have done to you.

15:20 Mt 10:24 Lk 6:40
'In all truth I tell you, 16
no servant is greater than his master,
no messenger is greater than the one who sent him.

Is 56:2 Jm 1:25 6:70
'Now that you know this, blessed are you if you behave accordingly. ·I am not 17, 18 speaking about all of you: I know the ones I have chosen; but what scripture says must be fulfilled:

Ps 41:9
'He who shares my table
takes advantage [l] of me.

14:29;16:4
I tell you this now, before it happens, 19
so that when it does happen

8:24g
you may believe that I am He. [m]
In all truth I tell you, 20

‖Mt 10:40 ‖Mk 9:37 ‖Lk 9:48
whoever welcomes the one I send, welcomes me,
and whoever welcomes me, welcomes the one who sent me.'

11:33 ‖Mt 26:21–25 ‖Mk 14:18–21 ‖Lk 22:21–23
The treachery of Judas foretold

Having said this, Jesus was deeply disturbed and declared, 'In all truth I tell you , 21
one of you is going to betray me.' ·The disciples looked at each other, wondering 22

19:26;20:2; 21:7,20 ·Lk 8:51f whom he meant. ·The disciple Jesus loved was reclining next to Jesus; ·Simon 23, 24
Peter signed to him and said, 'Ask who it is he means,' ·so leaning back close to 25
Jesus' chest he said, 'Who is it, Lord?' ·Jesus answered, 'It is the one to whom I 26 give the piece of bread [n] that I dip in the dish.' And when he had dipped the piece of bread he gave it to Judas son of Simon Iscariot. ·At that instant, after Judas 27 had taken the bread, Satan entered him. Jesus then said, 'What you are going to 28, 29 do, do quickly.' •None of the others at table understood why he said this. •Since Judas had charge of the common fund, some of them thought Jesus was telling him,

'Buy what we need for the festival,' or telling him to give something to the poor.
30 As soon as Judas had taken the piece of bread he went out. It was night.

13:2e Lk 22:3
1:48dd
12:6
8:12b Lk 22:53

Farewell discourses [o]

31 When he had gone, Jesus said:

Now [p] has the Son of man been glorified,
and in him God has been glorified.
32 If God has been glorified in him, [q]
God will in turn glorify him in himself, [r] and will glorify him very soon.
33 Little children,
I shall be with you only a little longer.
You will look for me,
and, as I told the Jews, [s]
where I am going,
you cannot come. [t]
34 I give you a new commandment: [u]
love one another;
you must love one another
just as I have loved you.
35 It is by your love for one another, that everyone will recognise you as my disciples.

14:13;17:1,4
Mt 8:20h
1:14n
8:21
1:1a
1 Jn 2:8
15:12,17
Lv 19:18
Mt 19:19;22:39
Lk 10:26seq.
Dt 28:9–10
Ac 4:32

36 Simon Peter said, 'Lord, where are you going?' Jesus replied, 'Now you cannot 37 follow me where I am going, but later you shall follow me.' [v] •Peter said to him, [w] 38 'Why can I not follow you now? I will lay down my life for you.' •'Lay down your

2:19g;8:21
21:18–19
•Lk 22:31–34

13 a. According to a Jewish tradition the word 'Passover' (pesah: see Ex 12:11f) meant 'a passing, or crossing over', with reference to the crossing of the Sea of Reeds (Red Sea), Ex 14. Jesus (and we with him) will pass from this world, which is enslaved by sin, to the Father's company, the true Promised Land, see 1:21t.

b. Here, for the first time, Jn clearly states that Jesus' life and death are an expression of his love for his disciples. The impression given is one of a secret kept for these final moments, v. 34; 15:9,13; 17:23; Rm 8:35; Ga 2:20; Ep 3:19; 5:2,25; 1 Jn 3:16.

c. lit. 'he loved them to the end', i.e. utterly.

d. var. 'Supper was over'.

e. var. 'the devil having already put in the (his?) heart that Judas Iscariot should betray him', or '. . . having already put in his heart (i.e. made up his mind) . . .', or 'Satan having already entered into the heart of Judas in order that he might betray him'. • Unseen forces are at work in Jesus' Passion: the human agents are tools of the devil; cf. 6:70seq.; 8:44; 12:31; 13:27; 16:11; Lk 22:3; 1 Co 2:8; Rv 12:4,17; 13:2.

f. The dress and duty are those of a slave, see 1 S 25:41.

g. A semitic phrase: Peter is cutting himself off from his Lord and from all share in his ministry and in his glory.

h. add. 'except for the feet'.

i. Peter has understood Jesus' answer, v. 8, superficially, as if a new rite of purification were being instituted. Jesus replies that his sacrifice has already achieved this purification, cf. 15:2–3; Heb 10:22; 1 Jn 1:7. He explains the meaning of his action in vv. 12–15.

j. The same Greek word is used for 'clean' and 'pure'.

k. i.e. serve one another lovingly with complete humility.

l. lit. 'has lifted up his heel against me'.

m. Because it demonstrates Jesus' superhuman knowledge and fulfils the scripture, Judas' betrayal and Christ's death will confirm the disciples' faith.

n. This particular 'morsel' is not the Holy Eucharist; nevertheless, a comparison of 13:2,18 with 6:64,70 seems to show that there was some connection between the institution and Judas' act of treachery, cf. Lk 22:21.

o. The washing of the feet and the exchange which accompanies it form the prelude to a long talk of Jesus with his disciples, compare Lk 22:14d. In their present form ch. 13–17 certainly include teaching given on other occasions. The complex ch. 16 could be another version of Jesus' words in ch. 14. By putting them here John means to show the deepest meaning of the whole of Jesus' life at that moment when he passes from his earthly to his heavenly existence.

p. The Passion has already begun, since Judas has just gone out to do Satan's work: Jesus speaks of his victory as already won, cf. 16:33.

q. om. 'If God has been glorified in him'.

r. 'himself' refers to God the Father who will glorify the Son of man by taking him to himself in glory, cf. 17:5,22,24.

s. Jesus' 'departure' and his glorification are intimately connected. The separation will be, for 'the Jews', final, 8:21; for the disciples, only for a time, 14:2–3.

t. Except by dying, cf. v. 36; 21:19,22seq.

u. Cf. Mt 25:31–46. The reference to Jesus' 'departure', v. 33 (which leads up to the prophecy of Peter's denial, vv. 36–38), makes this command, vv. 34–35, a solemn legacy from him. Though enunciated in the Mosaic Law, this precept of love is 'new' because Jesus sets the standard so high by telling his followers to love one another as he himself loved them, and because love is to be the distinguishing mark of the 'new' era which the death of Jesus inaugurates and proclaims to the world.

v. A veiled prediction of Peter's martyrdom.

w. add. 'Lord'.

‖Mt 26:33–35 ‖Mk 14:29–31 life for me?' answered Jesus. 'In all truth I tell you, before the cock crows you will have disowned me three times.'

14:27 Dt 1:21 16:33 14 Do not let your hearts be troubled. [a] 1
You trust in God, trust also in me.
In my Father's house there are many places to live in; 2 otherwise I would have told you. [b] 8:35 Dt 1:33 Mt 25:34 I am going now to prepare a place for you, and after I have gone and prepared you a place, 3 Heb 6:19–20 I shall return to take you to myself, [c]
so that you may be with me
7:34;12:26; 17:24 where I am.
You know the way to the place where I am going. 4

11:16;20:24–29 13:36 Thomas said, 'Lord, we do not know where you are going, so how can we know 5
the way?' ·Jesus said: 6

1:4 Ep 2:18 Heb 10:19–20 1 Tm 2:5 8:19;12:45 2 Co 4:4 Ex 33:18g I am the Way; I am Truth and Life. [d]
No one can come to the Father except through me.
If you know me, [e] you will know my Father too. 7
From this moment you know him and have seen him.

Philip said, 'Lord, show us the Father and then we shall be satisfied.' Jesus said 8 to him, ·'Have I been with you all this time, Philip, and you still do not know me? 9 1:18;17:6g 'Anyone who has seen me has seen the Father, so how can you say, "Show us the Father"?

Do you not believe [f] 10
10:30p that I am in the Father and the Father is in me?
1:1a;12:49 What I say to you I do not speak of my own accord:
2:11f it is the Father, living in me, who is doing his works.
You must believe me when I say 11
that I am in the Father and the Father is in me; 10:38 or at least believe it on the evidence of these works.
In all truth I tell you, 12
Mt 8:10b whoever believes in me will perform the same works as I do myself, Mt 21:21 and will perform even greater works, because I am going to the Father. [g] 15:16;16:24,26 Mt 7:7–11 Whatever you ask for in my name I will do, 13 so that the Father may be glorified in the Son.
Ac 3:16*l* If you ask me for anything in my name, 14
I will do it.
15:10 Dt 6:4–9; 7:11;11:1 Ws 6:18 1 Jn 2:3;5:3 If you love me you will keep my commandments. [h] 15
I shall ask the Father, 16 and he will give you another Paraclete [i]
to be with you for ever,
14:26r the Spirit of truth 17
1:10g 1 Co 2:12–14 whom the world can never accept since it neither sees nor knows him;
but you know him,
2 Jn 1–2 because he is with you, he is in you. [j]
I shall not leave you orphans; 18
Mt 28:20 I shall come to you.
7:34;8:21 In a short time the world will no longer see me; 19
16:16 but you will see that I live
6:57 and you also will live. [k]
On that day [l] 20

you will know that I am in my Father and you in me and I in you. [m] 10:30p 17:11,21–22

21 Whoever holds to my commandments and keeps them is the one who loves me;
and whoever loves me will be loved by my Father, and I shall love him and reveal myself to him.' [n] Dt 7:12–13 Pr 8:17 Ws 6:12,18 16:27;17:26 Si 4:14

22 Judas [o]—not Judas Iscariot—said to him, 'Lord, what has happened, that you
23 intend to show yourself to us and not to the world?' ·Jesus replied: 2:19g;7:4

Anyone who loves me will keep my word, [p] 3:11c Rv 3:20 and my Father will love him, and we shall come to him
and make a home in him.

24 Anyone who does not love me does not keep my words.
And the word that you hear [q] is not my own:
it is the word of the Father who sent me. 1:1a

25 I have said these things to you while still with you;

26 but the Paraclete, the Holy Spirit, 16:13–15
whom the Father will send in my name, will teach you everything and remind you of all I have said to you. [r]

27 Peace [s] I bequeath to you, 20:19 Rm 5:1 Ep 2:14–18 Ph 4:7 2 Th 3:16 14:1–3 my own peace I give you,
a peace which the world cannot give, this is my gift to you.
Do not let your hearts be troubled or afraid.

28 You heard me say:
I am going away and shall return.
If you loved me you would be glad that I am going to the Father, for the Father is greater than I. [t]

29 I have told you this now, before it happens, 13:19;16:4
so that when it does happen you may believe.

14 a. The apostles are perturbed by the predictions of betrayal, of Jesus' departure, and of Peter's denial. Jesus wants to strengthen their faith: this purpose pervades ch. 14.

b. Others translate 'otherwise I would have told you (where I am going)'.

c. This promise keeps the Church's hope alive, cf. 1 Co 4:5;11:26;16:22;1 Th 4:16seq.;1 Jn 2:28;Rv 22:17,20.

d. Jesus is the Way because he reveals the Father, 12:45; 14:9; he shows us the way to the Father, Ac 9:2b; he alone gives access to the Father, Jn 1:18; 14.4–7. He comes from the Father and returns to the Father, 7:29, 33; 13:3; 16:28, and is one with him, 10:30; 12:45; 14:9; 17:22. He is Truth, 8:32j, and Life 3:15j.

e. var. 'If you had known me, you would have . . .'

f. When Philip asks for some marvellous manifestation of the Father, he is falling short of that faith by which alone the Father is seen to be in the Son and the Son in the Father.

g. Jesus brought revelation and salvation; his miracles were 'signs' of these things. 2:11f. The 'works' of the disciples will continue this ministry. The Spirit, from whom mighty works will proceed, is to be sent by Jesus seated in glory at the Father's right hand, 7:39; 16:7.

h. var. om. 'you will'. Jesus, like God himself, asserts his right to love and obedience.

i. The title 'Paraclete' used in our translation is a transliteration of the Gk word parakletos; in English it is difficult to choose between the various meanings: 'advocate', 'intercessor', 'counsellor', 'protector', 'support'. • The parallel between the Spirit's work for the disciples and Jesus' brings out powerfully the personal character of the Spirit. see vv. 26r; 1 Jn 2:1.

j. var. 'will be in you'.

k. The world has seen its last of Jesus, cf. 7:34; 8:21. The disciples, however, will see him in his risen life, not merely with their eyes but with the inward vision of faith, 20:29.

l. Phrase used by the prophets for the occasions when God intervenes notably in human history, see Is 2:17; 4:1seq. The 'day' may indicate a whole epoch; here, it is the post-resurrection era.

m. The relationship between Jesus and his disciples is analogous to that between him and his Father, 6:57; 10:14–15; 15:9.

n. By coming, with the Father, to dwell in him.

o. The 'Judas, brother of James' of Lk 6:16 and Ac 1:13; the Thaddaeus of Mt 10:3 and Mk 3:18.

p. As the world does not: 8:37,43,47.

q. var. 'my word'.

r. In place of the departed Jesus, the faithful will have the Spirit, vv. 16,17; 16:7; see 1:33x. He is the parakletos, who intercedes with the Father, cf. 1 Jn 2:1, and whose voice is heard in human courts, 15:26,27; cf. Mt 10:19–20 and par.; Lk 12:11–12; Ac 5:32. He is the Spirit of truth, leading humanity to the very fullness of truth, 16:13, teaching them to understand the mystery of Christ—his fulfilment of the scriptures, 5:39r, the meaning of his words, 2:19g, of his actions, and of his 'signs', v. 16; 16:13; 1 Jn 2:20seq.,27, all hitherto obscure to the disciples, Jn 2:22; 12:16; 13:7; 20:9. In this way the Spirit is to bear witness to Christ, 15:26; 1 Jn 5:6,7, and shame the unbelieving world, Jn 16:8–11.

s. The customary Jewish greeting and farewell, see Lk 10:5 and par.; it means soundness of body but came to be used of the perfect happiness and the deliverance which the Messiah would bring, 2 Th 3:16.

t. Though the Son is the Father's equal, 8:24g; 10:30p, his glory is for the moment veiled, 1:14; his return to the Father will reveal it again, 17:5f, cf. Ph 2:6–9; Heb 1:3.

I shall not talk to you much longer, [a] 30
1:10g;10:18j; 12:31i;13:2e because the prince of this world is on his way.
He has no power over me,
but the world must recognise that I love the Father 31
6:38+ and that I act just as the Father commanded.
Mt 26:46par. Come now, let us go.

The true vine

Is 5:1a 15 I am the true vine, [a] 1
and my Father is the vinedresser.
Every branch in me that bears no fruit [b] 2
Mt 15:13 he cuts away,
Is 18:5 and every branch that does bear fruit he prunes
to make it bear even more.
13:10 You are clean [c] already, 3
3:11e by means of the word that I have spoken to you.
6:56–57 Remain in me, as I in you. 4
As a branch cannot bear fruit all by itself, unless it remains part of the vine,
neither can you unless you remain in me.
I am the vine, 5
you are the branches.
Whoever remains in me, with me in him,
bears fruit in plenty;
15:16 for cut off from me you can do nothing.
1:3 Anyone who does not remain in me 6 is thrown away like a branch
—and withers;
these branches are collected and thrown on the fire
Ezk 15:1–8 and are burnt.
Mt 3:10par.; 13:30,40 If you remain in me 7
and my words remain in you,
you may ask for whatever you please 14:13+ and you will get it.
1 Jn 5:14
It is to the glory of my Father that you should bear much fruit 8
Mt 5:16 Rm 7:4 and be my disciples. [d]
I have loved you 9
3:35t;10:14–15, 14g;13:1b;17:23 just as the Father has loved me.
Remain in my love.
If you keep my commandments 10
you will remain in my love,
6:38+;8:29 just as I have kept my Father's commandments and remain in his love.
I have told you this 11
so that my own joy [e] may be in you 3:29;16:21,22; 17:13 and your joy be complete.
1 Jn 1:4 This is my commandment: 12
13:34 love one another,
as I have loved you.
Rm 5:6–8 Eph 5:2 No one can have greater love 13
1 Jn 3:16 than to lay down his life for his friends.
Ex 33:11 Lk 12:4 Rm 8:15 You are my friends, 14
if you do what I command you.
I shall no longer call you servants, 15 because a servant does not know
his master's business;

I call you friends,
because I have made known to you everything I have learnt from my Father.
16 You did not choose me, no, I chose you; 13:18 Dt 7:6b 1 Jn 4:10
and I commissioned you to go out and to bear fruit, 15:2b Rm 6:20–23
fruit that will last;
so that the Father will give you anything you ask him in my name. 14:13+ 17 My command to you is to love one another. 13:34 1 Jn 3:23

The disciples and the world[f]

18 If the world hates you, Mt 10:22 1 Jn 3:12–13
you must realise that it hated me before it hated you.
19 If you belonged to the world,
the world would love you as its own;
but because you do not belong to the world, 1:10g;17:14–16 because my choice of you has drawn you out of the world, that is why the world hates you.
20 Remember the words I said to you:
A servant is not greater than his master. 13:16 Mt 10:24–25
If they persecuted me, 1 Th 2:14f 2 Tm 2:12 they will persecute you too; Rv 2:3d
if they kept my word,
they will keep yours as well.
21 But it will be on my account that they will do all this to you, Ac 5:41
because they do not know the one who sent me. 8:19 22 If I had not come,
if I had not spoken to them,
they would have been blameless;
but as it is they have no excuse for their sin. 8:21–24.21f.; 16:9
23 Anyone who hates me hates my Father. 10:30p
24 If I had not performed such works among them as no one else has ever done, Mt 12:24–28
they would be blameless;
but as it is, in spite of what they have seen, 2:11f;6:36
they hate both me and my Father.
25 But all this was only to fulfil the words written in their Law: Rm 3:19f
They hated me without reason. Ps 35:19;69:4 26 When the Paraclete comes, whom I shall send to you from the Father,
the Spirit of truth who issues from[g] the Father, 14:26r Ac 2:33u
he will be my witness. Mt 10:18–20 Lk 1:2 27 And you too will be witnesses, Ac 1:8k;5:32
because you have been with me from the beginning.

u. var. 'I will not have much more speech with you.'

15 a. On the vine image, see Is 5:1a; Jr 2:21. In the Synoptics, Jesus uses the vine as a symbol of the kingdom of God, Mt 20:1–8; 21:28–31.33–41 and par., and 'the fruit of the vine' becomes the eucharistic sacrament of the new covenant, Mt 26:29 and par. Here he calls himself the true vine whose fruit, the true Israel, will not disappoint God's expectation.

b. The 'fruit' is that of a life of obedience to the commandments, especially that of love, vv. 12–17, cf. Is 5:7; Jr 2:21.

c. Or 'have been pruned'. The same root denotes in Gk 'pruning' and 'cleansing', cf. 13:10.

d. var. 'and so prove to be my disciples'. In this way the Father is 'glorified in the Son', 14:13, cf. 21:19.

e. The perfect happiness of the messianic era which is communicated by the Son of God.

f. Jesus contrasts the disciples' love for one another with the world's hatred of them. It will be with them as with their Master, and when the world persecutes them, it persecutes Jesus himself, cf. Ac 9:5; Col 1:24.

g. The sending of the Spirit into the world rather than the 'eternal' proceeding from the Father within the Trinity.

16 I have told you all this so that you may not fall away. [a] 1

9:22 Mt 10:17 They will expel you from the synagogues, 2
and indeed the time is coming
Ac 26:9–11 when anyone who kills you will think he is doing a holy service to God.
They will do these things 3
8:19;15:21 because they have never known either the Father or me.
13:19;14:29 Mk 13:23 But I have told you all this, 4 so that when the time for it comes you may remember that I told you.

The coming of the Paraclete

I did not tell you this from the beginning,
because I was with you;
1:1a but now I am going to the one who sent me. 5
13:36;14:5 Not one of you asks, 'Where are you going?'
14:1 Yet you are sad at heart because I have told you this. 6
Still, I am telling you the truth: 7 it is for your own good that I am going,
because unless I go,
the Paraclete will not come to you;
1:33x;14:26r but if I go,
I will send him to you.
And when he comes, 8
1:10g he will show the world how wrong it was, [b]
about sin,
and about who was in the right,
and about judgement:
8:21–24;15:22 about sin: 9
in that they refuse to believe in me; [c] about who was in the right: 10 13:33 in that I am going to the Father and you will see me no more; [d]
about judgement: 11
12:31i in that the prince of this world is already condemned. [e]
I still have many things to say to you 12
but they would be too much for you to bear now.
14:26+ Ps 25:5;86:11 However, when the Spirit of truth comes 13 he will lead you to the complete truth,
since he will not be speaking of his own accord,
but will say only what he has been told;
and he will reveal to you the things to come. [f]
He will glorify me, 14
since all he reveals to you will be taken from what is mine.
17:10 Lk 15:31 Everything the Father has is mine; 15
that is why I said:
all he reveals to you will be taken from what is mine. [g]

Jesus to return very soon

7:33;14:19 In a short time you will no longer see me, 16 and then a short time later you will see me again. [h]

Then some of his disciples said to one another, 'What does he mean, "In a short 17 time you will no longer see me, and then a short time later you will see me again,"

18 and, "I am going to the Father"? •What is this "short time"?[i] We don't know 19 what he means.' •Jesus knew that they wanted to question him, so he said, 'You 1:48dd are asking one another what I meant by saying, "In a short time you will no longer see me, and then a short time later you will see me again."

20 'In all truth I tell you,
you will be weeping and wailing Jr 31:13
while the world will rejoice; Lk 6:21
you will be sorrowful, Rv 11:10
but your sorrow will turn to joy.[j] 21 A woman in childbirth suffers, Is 26:17–18;
because her time has come;[k] 66:7–14
but when she has given birth to the child she forgets the suffering Mi 4:9–10 in her joy that a human being has been born into the world.
22 So it is with you: you are sad now, but I shall see you again, and your hearts will be full of joy, 14:19;15:11;
and that joy no one shall take from you. 20:20
Is 66:14
23 When that day comes,
you will not ask me any questions.
In all truth I tell you,
anything you ask from the Father 14:13+
he will grant in my name. Mt 7:7 24 Until now you have not asked anything in my name.[l]
Ask and you will receive,
and so your joy will be complete.
25 I have been telling you these things in veiled language.
The hour is coming Mt 13:34–
when I shall no longer speak to you in veiled language 35par.
but tell you about the Father in plain words.[m] 26 When that day comes
you will ask in my name;
and I do not say that I shall pray to the Father[n] for you, 27 because the Father himself loves you 14:23
for loving me
and believing that I came from God.
28 I came from the Father and have come into the world 1:1a and now I am leaving the world to go to the Father.'

29 His disciples said, 'Now you are speaking plainly and not using veiled language.
30 Now we see that you know everything and need not wait for questions to be 1:48dd;16:19 31 put into words; because of this we believe that you came from God.' •Jesus answered them:

16 a. lit. 'so that you may not be tripped'. To preserve their faith from shock, Jesus forewarns the apostles of coming trials, cf. 13:19.

b. The Holy Spirit sent by Jesus will reinforce his witness, 3:11e, so that the rightness of the Saviour's cause stands out in the sight of believers.

c. The world's sin is unbelief, 8:21,24,46; 15:22; the Spirit will expose it.

d. The Spirit will demonstrate the right of Jesus to the title 'Son of God', cf. 10:33; 19:7. The 'passing' of Jesus to the Father will prove that he is God's Son, 13:1; 20:17, because it shows that heaven is his true home, 6:62.

e. The Spirit will reveal the significance of Jesus' death: it is the final sentence pronounced on the prince of this world.

f. The new order of things that is to result from Jesus' death and resurrection.

g. By revealing the hidden depths of the mystery of Jesus, the Spirit makes his glory known. Jesus, in his turn, manifests the glory of the Father, 17:4seq., from whom comes everything he possesses, 3:35; 5:22,26; 13:3; 17:2.

h. A veiled reference to his approaching death and resurrection. • add. 'because I am going to the Father'.

i. add. 'he speaks of'.

j. The happiness of seeing the risen Christ after the sad days of his Passion, cf. 20:20.

k. Traditional biblical metaphor for the sufferings which will herald the new, messianic age, see Mt 24:8f.

l. Because Jesus was not yet glorified, cf. 14:13seq.

m. The resurrection and the coming of the Spirit inaugurate the period of more perfect instruction which is to end in the vision of God 'as he is', 1 Jn 3:2.

n. var. 'and I shall not pray to the Father'. Jesus is still the only mediator, cf. 10:9; 14:6; 15:5; Heb 8:6, but the disciples' faith and love make them one with him and therefore dear to the Father: mediation could not be more perfect.

Do you believe at last?
Listen; the time will come—indeed it has come already— 32
Zc 13:7 Mt 26:31par. when you are going to be scattered, each going his own way and leaving me alone.
8:29 And yet I am not alone,
because the Father is with me.
I have told you all this 33
14:27s so that you may find peace in me.
1:10g In the world you will have hardship,
but be courageous:
12:31;14:30 1 Jn 2:14+ I have conquered the world.

The prayer of Jesus [a]

11:41 Mk 7:34 Lk 9:16 17 After saying this, Jesus raised his eyes to heaven and said: 1 2:4e Father, the hour has come:
glorify your Son
so that your Son may glorify you; [b] 3:35t;18:9 so that, just as you have given him power over all humanity, 2 he may give eternal life to all those you have entrusted to him.
14:7–9 Ws 15:3 Jr 24:7;31:31–34 Ezk 36:25–28 Ho 2:22v 1 Jn 5:20–21 1:1a And eternal life is this: 3 to know [c] you,
the only true God,
and Jesus Christ whom you have sent. [d]
I have glorified you on earth 4 4:34k by finishing the work that you gave me to do.
Ph 2:6–11 1:14n;17:24 Now, Father, glorify me 5 with that glory I had with you [e] before ever the world existed. [f] 17:26 Ex 3:13 I have revealed your name [g] 6 to those whom you took from the world to give me.
3:35t They were yours and you gave them to me,
3:11e and they have kept your word.
Now at last they have recognised 7 that all you have given me comes from you for I have given them 8
Dt 18:18 the teaching you gave to me, and they have indeed accepted it and know for certain [h] that I came from you,
and have believed that it was you who sent me.
It is for them that I pray. 9
1:10g Lk 22:32 I am not praying for the world but for those you have given me, because they belong to you.
16:15 Lk 15:31 All I have is yours 10
and all you have is mine,
2 Th 1:10 and in them I am glorified.
1:10g;10:30p Ga 3:28 I am no longer in the world, 11
but they are in the world,
and I am coming to you.
Holy Father,
3:35t Nb 6:24 keep those you have given me true to your name, [i] so that they may be one like us.
While I was with them, 12
I kept those you had given me true to your name.

I have watched over them and not one is lost — 6:39;10:28 except one who was destined to be lost,[j] — 13:18–19+ Ps 41:9
and this was to fulfil the scriptures. — Ac 1:16,20 13 But now I am coming to you and I say these things in the world to share my joy with them to the full. — 15:11e 14 I passed your word on to them, — 3:11e and the world hated them, — 15:19 Lk 6:22 because they belong to the world
no more than I belong to the world.
15 I am not asking you to remove them from the world, but to protect them from the Evil One.[k] — 1 Jn 2:14+ 16 They do not belong to the world — 8:23 any more than I belong to the world.
17 Consecrate[l] them in the truth; — 10:36;20:21 Lv 17:1a Ac 9:13g 1 P 1:22 your word is truth.
18 As you sent me into the world,
I have sent them into the world,
19 and for their sake I consecrate myself[m] — 4:23h;10:18j Ex 28:36,38 Heb 10:10–14 so that they too may be consecrated in truth.
20 I pray not only for these but also for those who through their teaching will come to believe in me.[n] 21 May they all be one, just as, Father, you are in me and I am in you, — 10:30p
so that they also may be in us, so that the world may believe it was you who sent me.
22 I have given them the glory you gave to me, — 1:14;17:5g Rm 8:30 that they may be one as we are one.
23 With me in them and you in me, may they be so perfected in unity that the world will recognise that it was you who sent me and that you have loved them[o] as you have loved me. — 15:9 Rm 8:10 2 Co 13:5 24 Father,
I want those you have given me to be with me where I am, — 12:26e;14:3
so that they may always see my glory — 17:5f which you have given me because you loved me
before the foundation of the world. — Ep 1:4

17 a. The time for the sacrifice draws near: in this prayer Jesus offers himself and intercedes for his disciples.

b. When Jesus asks to be 'glorified' (i.e. shown in glory), it is not for his own sake, cf. 7:18; 8:50, but the glory of the Son and of the Father are one, cf. 12:28; 13:31.

c. Knowledge in its biblical sense, see 10:14g.

d. Hitherto the Mosaic Law had been the instrument of revelation which now comes to all people through Christ.

e. var. 'the glory which was with you' or 'the glory with which I was' or 'the glory with you'.

f. Either the glory he enjoyed as the pre-incarnate Son, or else the glory predestined for him from eternity by the Father, 1:14n.

g. It was Jesus' mission to reveal the 'Name', i.e. the person, of the Father, vv. 3–6,26; 12:28g; 14:7–11; see 3:11e; now love for all people is characteristic of the Father, 1 Jn 4:8,16, and he proves this love by delivering up his only Son, Jn 3:16–18; 1 Jn 4:9,10,14,16; see also Rm 8:32; it follows that all people must believe that Jesus is the Son, Jn 3:18, if they are to appreciate this love, cf. Jn 20:31; 1 Jn 2:23; and thus 'know' the Father.

h. Also translated 'they have given them (the teachings) true welcome because I came from you.'

i. var. 'Keep those in your name whom (var. which) you have given me'. So also in v. 12.

j. This Hebr. expression has either the meaning given in the text, or 'the one who has willingly submitted himself to the power of evil'.

k. Or 'from evil', cf. Mt 6:13.

l. The verb means literally: to set aside for, dedicate to, God; to 'consecrate' (in the original sense of 'dedicate to God'), see Ac 9:13g.

m. Jesus consecrates himself by presenting himself to the Father to be one with him, and to all people as the perfect revelation. He prays that the disciples may live in God's truth, sanctified by faith in the Father he has revealed to them.

n. Finally, vv. 20–26, Jesus prays for the Church of believers gathered by the witness of the apostles, 3:11e; 15:27; see Rm 1:1b, that their unity may foster faith in the mission of Jesus, cf. 1 Jn 1:1–3; 2:24.

o. var. 'that I have loved them'.

Father, Upright One, 25
1:10g the world has not known you, but I have known you,
and these have known
1:1a that you have sent me.
17:6g I have made your name known to them 26
Ex 3:13 and will continue to make it known, so that the love with which you loved me may be in them,
and so that I may be in them.

II: THE PASSION

The arrest of Jesus

‖Mt 26:30,36 ‖Mk 14:26,32 ‖Lk 22:39 18 After he had said all this, Jesus left with his disciples and crossed the Kidron 1 valley where there was a garden into which he went with his disciples. ·Judas 2 ‖Mt 26:47–56 ‖Mk 14:43–50 ‖Lk 22:47–53 the traitor knew the place also, since Jesus had often met his disciples there, ·so 3
Judas brought the cohort[a] to this place together with guards sent by the chief
1:48dd 12:27f priests and the Pharisees, all with lanterns and torches and weapons. ·Knowing 4 everything that was to happen to him, Jesus came forward and said, 'Who are you 8:24g looking for?' ·They answered, 'Jesus the Nazarene.' He said, 'I am he.' Now Judas 5 the traitor was standing among them. ·When Jesus said to them, 'I am he,' they 6 Ps 27:2;35:4 moved back and fell on the ground. ·He asked them a second time, 'Who are you 7 looking for?' They said, 'Jesus the Nazarene.' ·Jesus replied, 'I have told you that 8
I am he. If I am the one you are looking for, let these others go.' ·This was to fulfil 9 6:39;10:28; 17:12 the words he had spoken, 'Not one of those you gave me have I lost.'

Simon Peter, who had a sword, drew it and struck the high priest's servant, 10 cutting off his right ear. The servant's name was Malchus. ·Jesus said to Peter, 'Put 11 Mt 26:39par. your sword back in its scabbard; am I not to drink the cup that the Father has given me?'

Jesus before Annas and Caiaphas. Peter disowns him

‖Mt 26:57 ‖Mk 14:53 ‖Lk 22:54 The cohort and its tribune and the Jewish guards seized Jesus and bound him. 12
They took him first to Annas, because Annas was the father-in-law of Caiaphas, 13
Lk 3:2 11:50 who was high priest that year. ·It was Caiaphas who had counselled the Jews, 'It is 14 better for one man to die for the people.'

‖Mt 26:58,69–75 ‖Mk 14:54, 66–72 ‖Lk 22:54–62 Simon Peter, with another disciple,[b] followed Jesus. This disciple, who was 15 known to the high priest, went with Jesus into the high priest's palace, ·but Peter 16 stayed outside the door. So the other disciple, the one known to the high priest, went out, spoke to the door-keeper and brought Peter in. ·The girl on duty at the 17 door said to Peter, 'Aren't you another of that man's disciples?' He answered, 'I am not.' ·Now it was cold, and the servants and guards had lit a charcoal fire and 18 were standing there warming themselves; so Peter stood there too, warming himself with the others.

The high priest questioned Jesus about his disciples and his teaching. ·Jesus 19, 20
Is 45:19;48:16 Lk 22:53 answered, 'I have spoken openly for all the world to hear; I have always taught in the synagogue and in the Temple where all the Jews meet together; I have said nothing in secret. ·Why ask me? Ask my hearers what I taught; they know what I 21
Ac 23:2 said.' ·At these words, one of the guards standing by gave Jesus a slap in the face, 22 saying, 'Is that the way you answer the high priest?' ·Jesus replied, 'If there is some 23 offence in what I said, point it out; but if not, why do you strike me?' ·Then Annas 24 sent him, bound, to Caiaphas the high priest.[c]

As Simon Peter stood there warming himself, someone said to him, 'Aren't you 25 another of his disciples?' He denied it saying, 'I am not.' ·One of the high priest's 26 servants, a relation of the man whose ear Peter had cut off, said, 'Didn't I see you in the garden with him?' ·Again Peter denied it; and at once a cock crew. 27

Jesus before Pilate

Mt 27:2,11–26
Mk 15:1–5
Lk 23:1–7, 13–25

28 They then led Jesus from the house of Caiaphas to the Praetorium.[d] It was now morning. They did not go into the Praetorium themselves to avoid becoming 29 defiled[e] and unable to eat the Passover. •So Pilate came outside to them and said, 11:55
30 'What charge do you bring against this man?' They replied, •'If he were not a Mt 26:17d; 27:2,11–14
31 criminal, we should not have handed him over to you.' •Pilate said, 'Take him Mk 15:1–5 Lk 23:1–3 yourselves, and try him by your own Law.' The Jews answered, 'We are not Ac 18:15 32 allowed to put a man to death.'[f] •This was to fulfil the words Jesus had spoken indicating the way he was going to die. 3:14i

33 So Pilate went back into the Praetorium and called Jesus to him and asked him, 34 'Are you the king of the Jews?' •Jesus replied, 'Do you ask this of your own accord, 19:14seq., 19–22 35 or have others said it to you about me?' •Pilate answered, 'Am I a Jew? It is your own people and the chief priests who have handed you over to me: what have you 36 done?' •Jesus replied, 'Mine is not a kingdom of this world; if my kingdom were of 1:10g this world, my men would have fought to prevent my being surrendered to the 6:15b;8:23; 12:32;18: 10–11 37 Jews. As it is, my kingdom does not belong here.' •Pilate said, 'So, then you are a king?' Jesus answered, 'It is you who say that I am a king. I was born for this, I 3:35t came into the world for this, to bear witness to the truth; and all who are on the 3:11f 38 side of truth listen to my voice.' •'Truth?' said Pilate. 'What is that?' And so saying 10:26m
39 he went out again to the Jews and said, 'I find no case against him. •But according 1 Jn 3:19h Mt 27:15–18, 20–23 to a custom of yours I should release one prisoner at the Passover; would you like Mk 15:6–14 40 me, then, to release for you the king of the Jews?' •At this they shouted, 'Not this •Lk 23:18–19 man,' they said, 'but Barabbas.' Barabbas was a bandit. Lk 23:22f Ac 3:14

1, 2 19 Pilate then had Jesus taken away and scourged;[a] •and after this, the soldiers ‖Mt 27:26–31 ‖Mk 15:15–20 ‖Lk 23:16 twisted some thorns into a crown and put it on his head and dressed him in 3 a purple robe. •They kept coming up to him and saying, 'Hail, king of the Jews!'
and slapping him in the face.

4 Pilate came outside again and said to them, 'Look, I am going to bring him out
5 to you to let you see that I find no case against him.' •Jesus then came out wearing Lk 23:4
6 the crown of thorns and the purple robe. Pilate said, 'Here is the man.' •When they 1:29,36 saw him, the chief priests and the guards shouted, 'Crucify him! Crucify him!'
7 Pilate said, 'Take him yourselves and crucify him: I find no case against him.' •The Jews replied, 'We have a Law, and according to that Law he ought to be put to 10:33–36 Lv 24:16 death, because he has claimed to be Son of God.'

8, 9 When Pilate heard them say this his fears increased. •Re-entering the Praetorium, he said to Jesus, 'Where do you come from?'[b] But Jesus made no answer. Is 53:7 10 Pilate then said to him, 'Are you refusing to speak to me? Surely you know I 11 have power to release you and I have power to crucify you?' •Jesus replied, 'You would have no power over me at all if it had not been given you from above; that is 3:27;10:18j Ws 6:3
why the one who handed me over to you has the greater guilt.'[c] 8:21,44

18 a. A detachment from the Roman garrison in Jerusalem.

b. Probably the 'disciple' of 20:2seq., 'whom Jesus loved', the evangelist himself, see 19:27*l*.

c. This is all that John has to say about the Jewish trial because this trial, in fact, runs through the whole Gospel from the Baptist's cross-examination, 1:19, to the decision to kill Jesus, 11:49–53.

d. The Roman procurator's judicial court. 18:28–19:16 may be seen as an elaborately balanced drama in which the Jews demand Jesus' condemnation and eventually obtain it. But in fact Jesus is crowned king (19:2–3) and is seated on the chair of judgement (19:13) while the Jews pronounce their own condemnation by denying that Yahweh is their king (19:15).

e. To enter the house of a gentile was to incur legal impurity, cf. Ac 11:2seq.

f. The Romans had withdrawn from the Sanhedrin the power of life and death. Jesus could have been stoned by the Jews, cf. 8:59; 10:31, but not crucified ('lifted up') by them.

19 a. Mt and Mk put both mockery and scourging of Jesus after his condemnation, while Jn relates both before the condemnation. Scourging was a standard preliminary to crucifixion and presumably followed the sentence, but it is more likely that the mockery filled the delays of the night than that it intruded between sentence and execution.

b. i.e. not 'what district do you come from?' but 'what is the secret of your origin? Who are you?' First, the people of Cana, 2:9, then the Samaritan woman, 4:11, the apostles, the multitude, 6:5, the Jewish leaders, 7:27seq.; 8:14; 9:29seq., and now Pilate, are faced with the mystery of Jesus, 16:28; 17:25, which is the theme of the whole Gospel, 1:13.

c. The Jewish leaders, Caiaphas in particular, 11:51seq.; 18:14, but also Judas who betrayed him to them, 6:71; 13:2,11,21; 18:2,5.

Jesus is condemned to death

From that moment Pilate was anxious to set him free, but the Jews shouted, 'If you 12 set him free you are no friend of Caesar's; anyone who makes himself king is Lk 23:2 defying Caesar.' ·Hearing these words, Pilate had Jesus brought out, and seated 13 him on the chair of judgement at a place called the Pavement, in Hebrew Mt 26:17d Gabbatha.[d] ·It was the Day of Preparation,[e] about the sixth hour.[f] 'Here is your 14 king,' said Pilate to the Jews. ·But they shouted,[g] 'Away with him, away with him, 15 crucify him.' Pilate said, 'Shall I crucify your king?' The chief priests answered, 'We have no king except Caesar.' ·So at that Pilate handed him over to them to be 16 crucified.

‖Mt 27:31,33, 37–38 ‖Mk 15:20,22, 25–27 ‖Lk 23:33,38 Gn 22:6 Is 53:12 3:35t The crucifixion

They then took charge of Jesus,[h] ·and carrying his own cross he went out to the 17
Place of the Skull or, as it is called in Hebrew, Golgotha, ·where they crucified 18 him with two others, one on either side, Jesus being in the middle. ·Pilate wrote 19 out a notice and had it fixed to the cross; it ran 'Jesus the Nazarene, King of the Jews'. ·This notice was read by many of the Jews, because the place where Jesus 20 was crucified was near the city, and the writing was in Hebrew, Latin and Greek.
So the Jewish chief priests said to Pilate, 'You should not write "King of the 21 Jews", but that the man said, "I am King of the Jews". ' ·Pilate answered, 'What I 22 have written, I have written.'

‖Mt 27:35 ‖Mk 15:24 ‖Lk 23:34 Jesus' garments divided

When the soldiers had finished crucifying Jesus they took his clothing and divided 23 it into four shares, one for each soldier. His undergarment was seamless,[i] woven in one piece from neck to hem; ·so they said to one another, 'Instead of tearing it, 24 let's throw dice to decide who is to have it.' In this way the words of scripture were fulfilled:

Ps 22:18

> They divide my garments among them
> and cast lots for my clothes.

That is what the soldiers did.

‖Mt 27:55–56 ‖Mk 15:40–41 ‖Lk 23:49 Jesus and his mother

Near the cross of Jesus stood his mother[j] and his mother's sister,[k] Mary the wife of 25
Clopas, and Mary of Magdala. ·Seeing his mother and the disciple whom he loved 26
2:4c standing near her, Jesus said to his mother, 'Woman, this is your son.' ·Then to the 27 disciple he said, 'This is your mother.'[l] And from that hour the disciple took her into his home.

‖Mt 27:48–50 ‖Mk 15:36–37 ‖Lk 23:46 5:39q Ps 22:15;69:21 The death of Jesus

After this, Jesus knew that everything had now been completed and, so that the 28 scripture should be completely fulfilled, he said:

> I am thirsty.

A jar full of sour wine stood there; so, putting a sponge soaked in the wine on a 29
hyssop stick,[m] they held it up to his mouth. ·After Jesus had taken the wine he 30 4:34k;10:18j; 17:4 said, 'It is fulfilled';[n] and bowing his head he gave up his spirit.[o]
Mt 8:20par.

The pierced Christ

19:14 Dt 21:23 Ga 3:13 It was the Day of Preparation, and to avoid the bodies' remaining on the cross 31 during the Sabbath—since that Sabbath was a day of special solemnity—the Jews asked Pilate to have the legs broken[p] and the bodies taken away. ·Consequently 32 the soldiers came and broke the legs of the first man who had been crucified with him and then of the other. ·When they came to Jesus, they saw[q] he was already 33

34 dead, and so instead of breaking his legs •one of the soldiers pierced his side with a 35 lance; and immediately there came out blood and water. [r] •This is the evidence of 1:33x;7:37–39 Ezk 47:1a 1 Jn 5:6–8 one who saw it [s]—true evidence, and he [t] knows that what he says is true—and he 36 gives it so that you may believe as well. •Because all this happened to fulfil the words of scripture:

Not one bone of his will be broken; [u] Ex 12:46 Ps 34:20

37 and again, in another place scripture says:

They will look to the one whom they have pierced. [v] Zc 12:10 Rv 1:7

The burial ‖Mt 27:57–60 ‖Mk 15:42–46 ‖Lk 23:50–54

38 After this, Joseph of Arimathaea, who was a disciple of Jesus—though a secret one because he was afraid of the Jews—asked Pilate to let him remove the body of 7:13+ 39 Jesus. Pilate gave permission, so they [w] came and took it away. •Nicodemus came 3:1;7:50 as well—the same one who had first come to Jesus at night-time—and he brought 40 a mixture of myrrh and aloes, weighing about a hundred pounds. •They took the body of Jesus and bound it in linen cloths with the spices, following the Jewish 11:44 41 burial custom. •At the place where he had been crucified there was a garden, and 42 in this garden a new tomb in which no one had yet been buried. •Since it was the Jewish Day of Preparation and the tomb was nearby, they laid Jesus there.

C: THE DAY OF CHRIST'S RESURRECTION

The empty tomb ‖Mt 28:1–8,10f ‖Mk 16:1–8 ‖Lk 24:1–11

1 20 It was very early on the first day of the week [e] and still dark, when Mary of Magdala came to the tomb. She saw that the stone had been moved away
2 from the tomb •and came running to Simon Peter and the other disciple, the one 13:22–23; 18:15 whom Jesus loved. 'They have taken the Lord out of the tomb,' she said, 'and we don't know where they have put him.'

3, 4 So Peter set out with the other disciple to go to the tomb. •They ran together, 5 but the other disciple, running faster than Peter, reached the tomb first; •he bent

d. Probably meaning 'elevated place', 'mound'.

e. In the course of this day, the Passover supper was made ready (it was to be eaten after sunset, see Ex 12:6c) and everything necessary prepared so that the feast could be celebrated without violating the rest prescribed by the Law.

f. About noon, the time by which all yeast had to be removed from the house; during the Passover unleavened bread ('azymes') was to be eaten, see Ex 12:15seq. It is possible that the evangelist wishes to call attention to this coincidence; cf. 1 Co 5:7.

g. var. 'answered'.

h. add. 'and led him away'. In Jn the chief stress in this passage is on the notice proclaiming Jesus' kingship, which Pilate refuses to modify. The royal dignity of Jesus has been stressed throughout Jn's Passion narrative: Jesus controls his arrest (18:4–11); the trial is an assertion of his kingship (18:28d); he carries his cross like a royal banner (19:17). It is truly the hour of his exaltation (3:35t; 12:32j).

i. Possibly allusion to the priesthood of the crucified: the high-priestly robe was without seam.

j. Her presence is mentioned only by John, see 2:1b.

k. Either Salome, mother of the sons of Zebedee (see Mt 27:56 and par.) or else, if the phrase refers to what follows, 'Mary, the wife of Clopas'.

l. The reference to the OT (vv. 24,28,36,37) and the unusual term 'woman' suggest that the evangelist sees more in this than the gesture of a dutiful son: namely, a declaration that Mary, the new Eve, is the spiritual mother of all the faithful, of whom the beloved disciple is the type and representative, cf. 15:10–15.

m. conj. 'on a spear'.

n. i.e. the Father's work: the salvation of the world through the sacrifice of Jesus. Jn does not record the desolate cry of Mt 27:46 and Mk 15:34: it is the calm majesty of Jesus' death that he wishes to emphasise, cf. Lk 23:46; Jn 12:27f.

o. The last breath of Jesus is the first moment of the outpouring of the Spirit, 1:33x; 20:22.

p. To hasten death.

q. var. 'when they found'.

r. var. 'water and blood'. The significance of the incident is brought out by two texts of scripture (vv. 36seq.). The blood shows that the lamb has truly been sacrificed for the salvation of the world, 6:51; the water, symbol of the Spirit, shows that the sacrifice is a rich source of grace. Many of the Fathers interpret the water and blood as symbols of baptism and the Eucharist, and these two sacraments as signifying the Church, which is born like a second Eve from the side of another Adam, cf. Ep 5:23–32.

s. The disciple of v. 26, probably the evangelist himself.

t. Referring either to 'the one who saw' or else to God (or Christ) whom 'the one who saw' calls to witness.

u. Two texts are here combined: one from a Psalm describing how God protects the upright in persecution (cf. Ws 2:18–20), of whom the 'servant of Yahweh' (Is 53) is the ideal example; the other, a ritual instruction for the preparation of the Passover lamb, see Jn 1:29v and 1 Co 5:7.

v. 'They will look', in the Johannine sense of 'see and understand'. For Jn, the Roman soldier symbolises the gentiles who will be converted, see 12:20–21,32 and notes. Similarly, Mt 27:54 and Mk 15:39j, see also Mt 24:30; Lk 23:47,48; Rv 1:7.

w. var. 'he'.

20 a. This was to become 'the Lord's Day', the Christian Sunday; see Rv 1:10.

down and saw the linen cloths lying on the ground, but did not go in. [b] ·Simon 6 11:44;19:40 Lk 24:12 Peter, following him, also came up, went into the tomb, saw the linen cloths lying on the ground ·and also the cloth that had been over his head; this was not with the 7 linen cloths but rolled up in a place by itself. ·Then the other disciple who had 8 reached the tomb first also went in; he saw and he believed. ·Till this moment they 9 5:39q;14:26r 1 Co 15:4 had still not understood the scripture, [c] that he must rise from the dead. ·The 10 disciples then went back home.

‖Mt 28:9–10 ‖Mk 16:9–11 The appearance to Mary of Magdala

But Mary was standing outside near the tomb, weeping. Then, as she wept, she 11
Lk 24:4 stooped to look inside, ·and saw two angels in white sitting where the body of Jesus 12 had been, one at the head, the other at the feet. ·They said, 'Woman, why are you 13 Sg 3:1–3 weeping?' 'They have taken my Lord away,' she replied, 'and I don't know where they have put him.' ·As she said this she turned round and saw Jesus standing 14 Lk 24:16d there, though she did not realise that it was Jesus. ·Jesus said to her, 'Woman, why 15 are you weeping? Who are you looking for?' Supposing him to be the gardener, she said, 'Sir, if you have taken him away, tell me where you have put him, and I 10:3–4 will go and remove him.' ·Jesus said, 'Mary!' She turned round [d] then and said to 16
Mk 10:51f him in Hebrew, 'Rabbuni!' [e]—which means Master. ·Jesus said to her, 'Do not 17 Sg 3:4 cling to me, [f] because I have not yet ascended to the Father. But go and find my 1:1a;12:32j Ps 89:26 brothers, [g] and tell them: I am ascending to my Father [h] and your Father, to my God and your God.' ·So Mary of Magdala told the disciples, 'I have seen the Lord,' 18 and that he had said these things to her.

‖Mk 16:14–18 ‖Lk 24:36–49 Appearances to the disciples

In the evening of that same day, the first day of the week, the doors were closed in 19 14:27;16:16 1 Co 15:5 the room where the disciples were, [i] for fear of the Jews. Jesus came and stood among them. He said to them, 'Peace be with you,' ·and, after saying this, he 20 Lk 24:16 15:11;16:22 showed them his hands and his side. The disciples were filled with joy at seeing the Lord, ·and he said to them again, 'Peace be with you. 21

17:18 Mt 28:19 Mk 16:15
'As the Father sent me,
so am I sending you.'

1:33x Gn 2:7 Ezk 37:9 Lk 24:47seq. Ac 1:8j Mt 16:19i;18:18j After saying this he breathed [j] on them and said: 22

Receive the Holy Spirit.
If you forgive anyone's sins, 23
they are forgiven;
if you retain anyone's sins,
they are retained.

11:16;14:5 Thomas, called the Twin, who was one of the Twelve, was not with them when 24
Jesus came. ·So the other [k] disciples said to him, 'We have seen the Lord,' but he 25 answered, 'Unless I can see the holes that the nails made in his hands and can put my finger into the holes they made, and unless I can put my hand into his side, I refuse to believe.' ·Eight days later the disciples were in the house again and 26 Thomas was with them. The doors were closed, but Jesus came in and stood among 14:27 Lk 24:39–40 1 Jn 1:1 19:34r them. 'Peace be with you,' he said. ·Then he spoke to Thomas, 'Put your finger 27 here; look, here are my hands. Give me your hand; put it into my side. [l] Do not be unbelieving any more but believe.' ·Thomas replied, 'My Lord and my God!' 28
Jesus said to him: 29

4:48 Lk 1:45 1 P 1:8
You believe because you can see me.
Blessed are those who have not seen and yet believe. [m]

IV: FIRST CONCLUSION

30 There were many other signs that Jesus worked in the sight of the disciples, but 12:37;21:25
31 they are not recorded in this book. ·These are recorded so that you may believe Dt 34:10:12 that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that believing this you may have life through his name. Ac 3:16*l*

D: EPILOGUE[a]

I: THE APPEARANCE ON THE SHORE OF TIBERIAS Mt 26:32 par.;28:7

1 21 Later on, Jesus revealed himself again to the disciples. It was by the Sea of 2 Tiberias, and it happened like this: ·Simon Peter, Thomas called the Twin, 11:16;14:5
Nathanael from Cana in Galilee, the sons of Zebedee and two more of his disciples
3 were together. ·Simon Peter said, 'I'm going fishing.' They replied, 'We'll come Lk 5:4–10 with you.' They went out and got into the boat but caught nothing that night.
4 When it was already light, there stood Jesus on the shore, though the disciples
5 did not realise that it was Jesus. ·Jesus called out, 'Haven't you caught anything, 20:14
6 friends?' And when they answered, 'No,' ·he said, 'Throw the net out to starboard Lk 24:16d and you'll find something.' So they threw the net out and could not haul it in 7 because of the quantity of fish.[b] ·The disciple whom Jesus loved said to Peter, 'It is 20:8
the Lord.' At these words 'It is the Lord,' Simon Peter tied his outer garment 8 round him (for he had nothing on) and jumped into the water. ·The other disciples came on in the boat, towing the net with the fish; they were only about a hundred yards from land.
9 As soon as they came ashore they saw that there was some bread there and a Lk 24:41–43
10 charcoal fire with fish cooking on it. ·Jesus said, 'Bring some of the fish you have 11 just caught.' ·Simon Peter went aboard and dragged the net ashore,[c] full of big fish, one hundred and fifty-three of them; and in spite of there being so many the 12 net was not broken. ·Jesus said to them, 'Come and have breakfast.' None of the 4:27 disciples was bold enough to ask, 'Who are you?' They knew quite well it was 13 the Lord. ·Jesus then stepped forward, took the bread and gave it to them, 6:11
14 and the same with the fish. ·This was the third time that Jesus revealed himself to 20:19–23, 26–29
the disciples after rising from the dead.
15 When they had eaten, Jesus said to Simon Peter, 'Simon son of John, do you love me more than these others do?' He answered, 'Yes, Lord, you know I love 16 you.' Jesus said to him, 'Feed my lambs.' ·A second time he said to him, 'Simon son of John, do you love me?' He replied, 'Yes, Lord, you know I love you.' Jesus 17 said to him, 'Look after my sheep.' ·Then he said to him a third time, 'Simon son

b. The disciple acknowledges that Peter has some title to precedence, cf. 21:15–17.

c. The evangelist does not quote any text. He means to underline the unpreparedness of the disciples for the Easter revelation, despite the scriptures, cf. 2:22; 12:16; Lk 24:27,32,44–45.

d. var. 'She recognised him'.

e. A more solemn address than 'Rabbi', and often used when speaking to God; it is therefore some approximation to Thomas' profession of faith, v. 28.

f. Mary has fallen at the feet of Jesus to embrace them, cf. Mt 28:9.

g. var. 'the brothers'.

h. This assertion does not contradict the account of Ac 1:3seq. Christ 'went up' to the Father, that is to say, his body entered into glory, 3:13; 6:62; Ep 4:10; 1 Tm 3:16; Heb 4:14; 6:19seq.; 9:24; 1 P 3:22; cf. Ac 2:33t, 36w, on the day he rose from the tomb, Jn 20:17; Lk 24:51. The significance of the ascension, 40 days later, Ac 1:2seq., 9–11, is that the time of earthly companionship with Jesus is over, that he is now 'seated at the right hand of God' and will not return before his final coming (the parousia).

i. add. 'assembled'.

j. The breath of Jesus is a symbol of the Spirit ('breath' in Hebrew); he sends forth the Spirit who will make all things new, Gn 1:2; 2:7; Ws 15:11; Ezk 37:9. See 19:30*o* and Mt 3:16n.

k. om. 'other'.

l. In the closing words of his Gospel, John again calls the Christian reader's attention to the wound in Christ's side, see 19:34r.

m. On the apostles' witness, see 17:20–23; also see Ac 1:8k.

21 a. Added either by the evangelist or by one of his disciples.

b. This generosity recalls Cana, 2:6, the miracle of the loaves, 6:11seq., the living water, 4:14; 7:37seq., the life which the good shepherd gives, 10:10, and the richness of the Spirit bestowed on Jesus, 3:34.

c. In the Synoptics, this operation is an image of the kingdom's coming, Mt 13:47seq., or of the apostles' task, Mt 4:19 and par. Here, too, it evidently symbolises the apostolic mission under Peter's direction, cf. Jn 21:15–17.

13:37-38; 18:17,25-27 1:48dd 6:68seq. Mt 16:17-19 Lk 22:31-32 of John, do you love me?' Peter was hurt that he asked him a third time, [d] 'Do you love me?' [e] and said, 'Lord, you know everything; you know I love you.' Jesus said to him, 'Feed my sheep. [f]

In all truth I tell you, 18
when you were young
you put on your own belt
and walked where you liked;
but when you grow old
you will stretch out your hands, and somebody else will put a belt round you and take you where you would rather not go.'

12:33 13:31;17:1 13:36

In these words he indicated the kind of death [g] by which Peter would give glory to 19
God. After this he said, 'Follow me.' [h]

Peter turned and saw the disciple whom Jesus loved following them—the one 20 13:25 who had leant back close to his chest at the supper and had said to him, 'Lord, who is it that will betray you?' ·Seeing him, Peter said to Jesus, 'What about him, 21
Lord?' ·Jesus answered, 'If I want him to stay behind till I come, [i] what does it 22 matter to you? You are to follow me.' ·The rumour then went out among the 23 brothers that this disciple would not die. Yet Jesus had not said to Peter, 'He will not die,' but, 'If I want him to stay behind till I come.' [j]

B: SECOND CONCLUSION

This disciple is the one who vouches for these things and has written them down, 24 and we know [k] that his testimony is true.

There was much else that Jesus did; if it were written down in detail, I do not 25 suppose the world itself would hold all the books that would be written.

d. It recalls his three denials, 13:38; 18:17,25–27.

e. 'Love' is expressed in the text by two different verbs which denote respectively love and friendship or cherishing. But it is unclear whether this is anything more than a stylistic variation. Similarly with the variation 'lambs'—'sheep'.

f. To the triple profession of love by Peter Jesus replies with a triple investiture. He entrusts to Peter the care of ruling the flock in his name, cf. Mt 16:18; Lk 22:31seq. It is possible that the triple repetition indicates a contract made in due form, according to semitic custom, cf. Gn 23:3–20.

g. Martyrdom.

h. This takes up Jesus' saying to Peter after the washing of the feet, 13:36.

i. A reference perhaps to the Second Coming, cf. 1 Co 11:26; 16:22; Rv 1:7; 22:7,12,17,20.

j. add. 'what does it matter to you?'

k. Possibly the words of a group of John's disciples.

ACTS OF THE APOSTLES

INTRODUCTION TO
ACTS OF THE APOSTLES

§1 Acts and the third Gospel must originally have been two parts of a book that today we should call 'a history of the rise of Christianity'. About AD 150, when Christians wanted the four gospels bound in one codex, these two parts were separated. The title 'Acts of the Apostles', or 'Acts of Apostles', which may have been given to the second part at this time, follows normal contemporary hellenistic usage as in, e.g., the 'Acts' of Hannibal and the 'Acts' of Alexander, etc. That these two books of the New Testament were once closely associated is suggested: 1 By their Prologues: both are addressed (see Lk 1:1–4) to someone called Theophilus and Ac 1:1, having referred to the Gospel as an 'earlier work', goes on by way of introduction to say why the Gospel was written and to summarise its closing incidents (appearances of the risen Christ, ascension). 2 By their literary affinity: vocabulary, grammar and style are not only consistent all through Acts, showing that it is a literary unity, but they are also characteristic of the third Gospel, which makes it almost certain that both books are by the same author.

The only identification of the author ever suggested by church writers is Luke, and no critic ancient or modern has ever seriously suggested anyone else. This identification was already known to the churches about the year AD 175, as is shown by the Roman canon known as the Muratorian Fragment, by the Anti-Marcionite Prologue, by St Irenaeus, Clement and Origen in Alexandria and by Tertullian; this is supported by internal evidence: the author must have been a Christian of the apostolic age, either a thoroughly hellenised Jew or, more probably, a well-educated Greek very well acquainted with the LXX and with Judaism. The most straightforward (though not the only possible) explanation of the use of the first person plural in some passages of the second part of Acts is that the author accompanied Paul on his journeys. Among Paul's companions tradition has always pointed to Luke, a Syrian from Antioch and a doctor of non-Jewish origin (Col 4:10–14); Paul describes him as a close friend who stuck by him during his captivity in Rome (Col 4:14; Phm 24). To judge from the passages in the first person plural, he accompanied Paul on the second (Ac 16:10seq.) and third (Ac 20:6seq.; cf. perhaps 2 Co 8:18) missionary journeys. The reason why he does not figure in lists like that of Ac 20:4 is that he compiled these lists himself. Various arguments have, however, convinced a number of scholars that the author of Acts, and so also of the third Gospel, cannot have been a companion of Paul, but is a writer whose identity is otherwise completely unknown. Chief among these arguments are differences between Acts and

Paul's letters in theological outlook and in the accounts of some incidents; some explanations for these differences will be suggested below.

There is no clear early tradition about either date or place of writing (Greece, after Paul's death? Rome, before the end of Paul's trial?), and we have to rely on internal evidence. Acts ends with Paul's Roman captivity in 61–63, and it must therefore be later than this, and later also than Mark. A date as late as 80–100, which has been suggested by some critics, is possible, but (as in Luke) there are no conclusive indications in Acts of a date later than AD 70.

§2 The precise date, however, becomes a secondary consideration once the book can establish its credentials either as an eyewitness account for the events that fill a major section or as based on adequate sources at the author's disposal. Analysis of Acts confirms Lk 1:1–4 (meant as prologue to the complete work) by suggesting that Luke must have collected a great deal of detailed evidence from a variety of sources, because in spite of the way Luke has superimposed his own personality in reworking this material he has not succeeded in disguising the various sources he has used. Not only does the flavour of the doctrinal content change according to the context so that in appropriate sections it seems convincingly primitive, but also there is considerable variation in the literary style. In passages where Luke can control the style, for example in the travel diary, the Greek is excellent; but in his description of the early history of the Palestinian community we find that the language becomes full of semitisms, clumsy and even inaccurate. In some places this is not only because he is trying to copy Old Testament LXX Greek, but mostly it is because he is reproducing his various Aramaic sources as closely as possible. In Luke this can be checked by comparing it with two of its sources, but unfortunately there are no texts with which to compare Acts; it is possible, however, to try to determine what kinds of source were used. One suggestion was that the whole of 1–15:35 is based on a single Aramaic document, but this is far too sweeping as it does not account for all the editing that Luke has unmistakably done in these chapters. His sources were more restricted and more varied than this, and it is not even certain (though probable in some cases, such as Stephen's speech) that they were in written form. It is rather a question of oral traditions which he received from various circles. These provided him with partial accounts which he then combined as best he could to compose his book. Without being dogmatic about details, it is possible to classify traditions collected by Luke. 1 Those that relate to the primitive Jerusalem community, ch. 1–5. 2 Biographical notes about individuals: e.g. Peter, 9:32–11:18; ch. 12, or Philip, 8:4–40; these details could have been supplied at first hand by people like Philip, the evangelist whom Luke met at Caesarea, 21:8. 3 Details about the early days of the community in Antioch and its foundation by Hellenists: these were obviously provided by that community, 6:1–8:3; 11:19–30; 13:1–3. 4 Paul's conversion and missionary journeys: these were things Paul himself could have told Luke, 9:1–30; 13:4–14:28; 15:36seq., though places can be found at which Luke's account of an incident differs from the version in Paul's own letters, and it is clear that the lesson he meant to teach was more important to him than literal historicity. 5 For Paul's later journeys Luke seems to have had his own notes, for this is the most straightforward explanation of the 'we' passages which are precisely the sections where the peculiarities of Luke's own style are most concentrated, 11:28; 16:10–17; 20:5–21:18; 27:1–28:16. Luke managed to organise all this material into a single book by sorting it out chronologically as best he could and linking the episodes together with frequent editorial formulae, e.g. 6:7; 9:31; 12:24.

§3 This excellent documentation gives Acts a unique historical worth. Obviously the process of editing has involved a certain amount of anticipation and fusion. Thus the events of ch. 12 should come before the visit of Barnabas and Saul to Jerusalem mentioned in 11:30; 12:25, unless this visit is to be identified with that of ch. 15; though the account of the 'council of Jerusalem' (ch. 15) may itself be a conflation of two quite distinct debates (see notes). Slight adjustments like this do not affect the basic reliability of the work, provided that it is understood within its literary type. Like all historians of his time, Luke does not restrict himself to a material exactitude, but rather seeks to draw a theological lesson from events. This concern has its influence on the way he treats his sources. Thus there is a deliberate parallelism between the miracles of Peter and those of Paul: compare 3:1–10 and 14:8–10; 5:15 and 19:12; 5:19 or 12:6–11,17 and 16:23–26,40; 8:15–17 and 19:2–7; 8:18–24 and 13:6–11; 9:36–42 and 20:7–12. In addition, these miracle stories sometimes have parallels in the Gospel: compare 3:6–7 and Lk 4:39; Mk 1:31; compare 9:33–34 and Lk 5:24b–25; 20:10,12 and Lk 8:52–55; it is also clear that the dying words of Stephen (7:59–60) resemble those of Jesus (Lk 23:34,46). Paul's speech at Antioch in Pisidia (13:16–41) is not without analogies with those of Peter at Jerusalem (2:14–36; 3:12–26; 4:8–12; 5:29–32) and at Caesarea (10:34–43). It is therefore reasonable to suppose that Luke did not receive these speeches just as they are, but composed them freely, using the pattern of the first apostolic preaching, with its basic proclamation and its arguments drawn from the scriptures. This pattern he carefully adapted to the various circumstances in which he placed the speeches. A contrast has often been made between the portrait of Paul drawn by Acts and that which appears in the Pauline epistles. It is true that Luke attributes to the apostle a more conciliatory attitude than is shown by the epistles: compare Ac 21:20–26 with Ga 2:12seq.; Ac 16:3 with Ga 2:3; 5:1–12; but due weight must be given to the different interests which inspired these two literary sources. Paul is an advocate who does not shrink from showing unyielding attitudes (but see also 1 Co 9:19–23), while Luke is concerned to show the profound unity which existed among the first brethren.

Nevertheless this conciliatory attitude of Acts must not be exaggerated. The Tübingen school thought Acts was a second-century attempt to smooth over the quarrel between Petrine and Pauline factions. Such a radical attack on the objectivity of Acts would not be put forward by any exegete today, if only because the date it suggests is far too late. To what extent, however, is Acts a piece of special pleading? To what extent does it twist the facts that it records? Was Luke's purpose in writing Acts to present a portrait of Paul that would convince the Roman authorities that Paul was not a political criminal? This is certainly one aspect of Acts but not the only one, and in any case such a portrait of Paul need not necessarily be tendentious. The two things he stresses are the exclusively religious nature of Paul's battle with the Jews, and Paul's loyalty to the Roman authorities. However, as has been said, Luke was not merely interested in giving a portrait of Paul to serve as evidence for the Roman courts: what he aimed at was to write the history of the beginnings of Christianity.

§4 This assertion is based on the structure of the book as summarised in the words of Christ with which it begins, 'You will be my witnesses not only in Jerusalem but throughout Judaea and Samaria, and indeed to the earth's remotest end,' Ac 1:8. Acts begins with Jerusalem where the faith takes firm root and the first community grows in grace and numbers, ch. 1–5. This community begins to expand, under the stimulus of the world-wide outlook of converts from hellenistic Judaism especially after the martyrdom of Stephen when these converts were expelled, 6:1–8:3. The faith spreads north of Jerusalem to Samaria, 8:4–25, south west to the coast and north again to Caesarea, 8:26–40; 9:32–11:18. The insertion here of Paul's conversion shows that the faith had already reached Damascus and indicates that it was soon to reach Cilicia, 9:1–30. Refrains like the one that closes this section (9:31, which adds Galilee to the list) draw attention repeatedly to the spread of the faith. Acts turns next to the reception of the good news in Antioch, 11:19–26, and shows how Antioch became a missionary headquarters, while keeping in touch with Jerusalem, and how Jerusalem reached a solution to the main problems at Antioch connected with the missions, 11:27–30; 15:1–35. This leads on to the spread of the faith to the gentiles. After his imprisonment following the conversion of Cornelius, Peter goes off to some place that is not named, ch. 12, and from that point Paul takes over the leading part in Luke's story. His first journey takes the faith to Cyprus and Asia Minor, ch. 13–14; his next two journeys take it as far as Macedonia and Greece, 15:36–18:22; 18:23–21:17. After each one he returns to Jerusalem where eventually he is arrested and later imprisoned at Caesarea, 21:18–26:32. This leads him to Rome, where, still a missionary in spite of being a prisoner in chains, Paul preaches the good news, ch. 27–28, and since Rome could be taken as 'the ends of the earth' by anyone who thought of Jerusalem as the centre, Luke has reached a point where he can stop.

One may regret that Luke does not write about what the other apostles did, or describe how the Church was founded, for example, in Rome where it had been established before Paul's arrival (see Romans, written during Paul's third journey) or in Alexandria. Luke does not even suggest that Peter had an apostolate outside Palestine: the focus of attention shifts to Paul in ch. 13 as the faith is carried by Hellenists to gentiles, and there is little about developments in Jerusalem. His interest lies in: 1 The spiritual energy inside Christianity that motivates its expansion, and 2 The spiritual doctrine he can deduce from the facts at his disposal.

§5 Here it is possible to list only the main points that we learn from Acts. 1 The kerygma of the apostles is centred on faith in Christ, and in Acts this is presented with many slight variations that make it possible for us to recover the history of how this teaching developed; e.g. the earliest Christians are shown as feeling no need to go beyond the stage of contemplating the triumph of the human Jesus who has become the Lord by his resurrection, 2:22–36;

but later Paul is made to give him the title 'Son of God', 9:20. 2 From the speeches we know the main scriptural texts that (under the Spirit's guidance) formed the basis both for a systematic Christology and for arguments with the Jews: e.g. the themes of the servant, 3:13,26; 4:27,30; 8:32–33, and the second Moses, 3:22seq.; 7:20seq.; the proof of the resurrection from Ps 16:8–11 (Ac 2:24–32; 13:34–37); and the use of their own history to warn Jews against resisting grace, Ac 7:2–53; 13:16–41. Gentiles, of course, needed a more generalised theological argument, 14:15–17; 17:22–31, and though the apostles are primarily 'witnesses', 1:8k (as such Luke sums up their kerygma 2:22h, and records their miraculous 'signs') the most urgent problem facing the new Church was the admission of gentiles, and Acts provides important details about this, without, however, revealing the full extent of the difficulties and disagreements this must have caused within the Christian community, and even between its leaders, see Ga 2:11h. The Jerusalem brotherhood led by James remains faithful to the Jewish Law, 15:1,5; 21:20seq.; but the Hellenists, for whom Stephen acts as spokesman, want to break away from Temple worship. In Luke's account, Peter, but even more so Paul, gets the principle of salvation through faith in Christ recognised at the council of Jerusalem. This dispenses the gentiles from the need to be circumcised and from obeying the whole Law of Moses. As it is still true, however, that this salvation comes from Israel, Luke records how Paul always preached to the Jews first, and turned to the gentiles only after his fellow-Jews had rejected him, 13:5e. 3 Acts also provides important details about life in the earliest Christian communities: e.g. the way of prayer and sharing of goods known to the church in Jerusalem; the administration of baptism in water and baptism in Spirit, Ac 1:5f; celebration of the Eucharist, 2:42gg; early attempts at organisation, e.g. 'prophets' and 'teachers', 13:1a, the separate hierarchy appointed for the Hellenists, see 6:5f, the 'elders' who preside in the Jerusalem church, 11:30p, and those who are appointed by Paul in the churches he founds, 14:23. 4 All these developments in community life are attributed to the irresistible guidance of the Spirit. As Lk 4:1b insists on the importance of the Holy Spirit, so Acts (1:8j) attributes the spread of the developing Church to the continuous activity of the Holy Spirit—this is why the book has been called 'the gospel of the Spirit', and why it seems so full of spiritual joy and of wonder at God's works. 5 To this wealth of theology we must add the detailed factual information which we should otherwise lack, the psychological tact with which Luke presents his characters, the shrewdness and the craftsmanship of passages like the speech in the presence of Agrippa, ch. 26, and the pathos of scenes like the farewell to the Ephesian elders, 20:17–38. This book, the only one of its kind in the New Testament, is full of treasures.

§6 The texts of the New Testament have come down to us with a great number of minor variants, and for Acts those in the so-called 'Western' Text (Codex Bezae, the old Latin and old Syriac versions, and early ecclesiastical writers) are the most interesting. Because this Western Text, unlike the Alexandrian recension, was not critically edited in ancient times it contains many corrupt readings, but a number of its concrete and vivid details, absent from the other texts, could be authentic. The most important of these readings have been either mentioned in the footnotes or incorporated in the text.

ACTS OF THE APOSTLES

Prologue

Lk 1:1–4 1 In my earlier work,[a] Theophilus, I dealt with everything Jesus had done and 1
1:22 taught from the beginning ·until the day he gave his instructions to the apostles 2
·Mt 28:19–20 Lk 24:49,51 1 Tm 3:16 10:40–41;13:31 Mt 28:10 Lk 24:42–43 he had chosen through the Holy Spirit,[b] and was taken up to heaven.[c] ·He had 3
2:33u ‖Lk 24:49 Ga 3:14 Ep 1:13 shown himself alive to them after his Passion by many demonstrations: for forty 11:16 Lk 3:16par. days he had continued to appear to them and tell them about the kingdom of God.[d]
While at table with them, he had told them not to leave Jerusalem,[e] but to wait 4 there for what the Father had promised. 'It is', he had said, 'what you have heard me speak about: ·John baptised with water but, not many days from now, you are 5 going to be baptised[f] with the Holy Spirit.'

The ascension

Now having met together,[g] they asked him, 'Lord, has the time come for you to 6
Dn 2:21 Mt 24:36par. 1 Th 5:1–2 restore the kingdom to Israel?'[h] ·He replied, 'It is not for you to know times or 7
dates[i] that the Father has decided by his own authority, ·but you will receive the 8 4:33n Is 32:15;43:10 ·Mt 28:19 ‖Lk 24:47–48 2 K 2:11 Mk 16:19 ‖Lk 24:50–51 Jn 20:17h Rm 10:6 Ep 4:8–10 1 P 3:22 ·3:20 Zc 14:4 Lk 24:4 power of the Holy Spirit which will come on you,[j] and then you will be my witnesses[k] not only in Jerusalem but throughout Judaea and Samaria, and indeed to earth's remotest end.'[l]
As he said this he was lifted up while they looked on, and a cloud[m] took him 9 from their sight. ·They were still staring into the sky as he went when suddenly two 10 men in white were standing beside them ·and they said, 'Why are you Galileans 11 standing here looking into the sky? This Jesus[n] who has been taken up from you into heaven will come back in the same way[o] as you have seen him go to heaven.'

I: THE CHURCH IN JERUSALEM

The group of apostles

So from the Mount of Olives, as it is called, they went back to Jerusalem, a short 12 distance away, no more than a Sabbath walk; ·and when they reached the city they 13 ‖Lk 6:14–16par. went to the upper room where they were staying; there were Peter and John, James and Andrew, Philip and Thomas, Bartholomew and Matthew, James son of Alphaeus and Simon the Zealot, and Jude son of James.[p] ·With one heart all these 14 2:42,46;6:4 Rm 12:12 ·Lk 23:49 joined constantly in prayer,[q] together with some women, including Mary the mother of Jesus, and with his brothers.[r]

Judas is replaced

One day Peter stood up to speak to the brothers[s]—there were about a hundred 15 and twenty people in the congregation, ·'Brothers,' he said, 'the passage of 16 1:20 Lk 22:47 scripture had to be fulfilled in which the Holy Spirit, speaking through David, foretells the fate of Judas, who acted as guide to the men who arrested Jesus—after being one of our number and sharing our ministry. ·As you know, he 17, 18 bought a plot of land with the money he was paid for his crime. He fell headlong ‖Mt 27:3–10 19 and burst open, and all his entrails poured out. ·Everybody in Jerusalem heard Ws 4:19 about it and the plot came to be called "Bloody Acre", in their language Hakel-20 dama.' ·Now in the Book of Psalms it says:

Reduce his encampment to ruin Ps 69:25;
and leave his tent unoccupied.

And again:

Let someone else take over his office. Ps 109:8

21 'Out of the men who have been with us the whole time that the Lord Jesus was

1 a. The Gospel of Luke

b. This emphasises the part played by the Spirit in the first missionary activities of the apostles, vv. 5.8 and ch. 2, as in the opening of Christ's ministry, Lk 4:1.14.18.

c. One form of the Western text does not mention the ascension here.

d. The kingdom of God, Mt 4:17f, must be the main subject preached by the apostles, see Ac 8:12; 19:8; 20:25; 28:23.31, as it was the main thing preached by Christ, see Mt 3:2d.

e. For Luke, Jerusalem is the predestined centre of the whole saving work of God through Christ, Lk 2:22h, 38*o*, the place at which the earthly mission of Jesus culminates, and the starting-point for the universal mission of the apostles, 1:8.

f. The baptism of the Spirit foretold by John the Baptist, Mt 3:11 and par., and here promised by Jesus, will be initiated by the outpouring of the Spirit at Pentecost, Ac 2:1–4. Subsequently, the apostles, obedient to Christ's command, Mt 28:19, will continue to make use of baptism by water, Ac 2:41; 8:12.38; 9:18; 10:48; 16:15.33; 18:8; 19:5, as the ritual initiation into the messianic kingdom, see Mt 3:6e, but it will be 'in the name of Jesus', Ac 2:38y, and through belief in Christ as Saviour, see Rm 6:4a, will be able to absolve from sins and to give the Spirit, Ac 2:38. Connected with this Christian baptism by water there is the companion rite of the imposition of hands, 1 Tm 4:14e, the purpose of which is to give the gifts of the Spirit in as manifest a way as that in which they had been given at Pentecost, Ac 8:16–19; 9:17–18; 19:5–6 (but cf. 10:44–48); this is the origin of the sacrament of confirmation. Side by side with these Christian sacraments the baptism of John was for a time still being administered by certain of the less well-instructed early Christians, 19:3.

g. 1:6 takes up the narrative broken off in Lk 24:49.

h. The apostles still expect the messianic kingdom to be the political restoration of David's dynasty, see Mt 4:17f.

i. Human history is the unfolding of salvation, and it develops through the 'times and dates', see Dn 2:21; 1 Th 5:1, that God has always foreseen (Rm 16:25*l*; 1 Co 2:7; Ep 1:4; 3:9,11; Col 1:26; 2 Tm 1:9; cf. Mt 25:34): first there are the 'times' of preparation, Heb 1:2; 9:9; 1 P 1:11, and of God's patience, Ac 17:30; Rm 3:26; then follows the appointed time, Ga 4:4c, the moment long foretold for the Messiah to come and begin the era of salvation, Rm 3:26m; after this, the time that is to elapse before the final coming, 2 Co 6:2a; lastly, the great and final 'Day', 1 Co 1:8e (preceded by the 'last days', 1 Tm 4:1a) and the Last Judgement itself, Rm 2:6b. However, in the course of the NT itself, the vividness of this hope in a Second Coming, which is founded on the outlook of Jewish apocalyptic, wanes and gives way to a 'realised eschatology', see 1 Co 1:8e.

j. The Holy Spirit is a favourite theme of Luke (Lk 4:1b); he talks generally about the Holy Spirit as a Power, 1:8; 10:38; Lk 1:35; 24:49; Rm 15:13.19; 1 Co 2:4.5; 1 Th 1:5; Heb 2:4, sent from God by Christ, Ac 2:33, to broadcast the good news. 1 From the Spirit come the gifts, 1 Co 12:4seq., that guarantee the message: the gift of tongues, Ac 2:1a.4, of miracles, 10:38, of prophecy, 11:27m; 20:23; 21:11, of wisdom, 6:3,5,10. 2 The Spirit gives strength to proclaim Jesus as Messiah in spite of persecution, 4:8,31; 5:32; 6:10; cf. Ph 1:19, and to bear witness to him, 1:8; Mt 10:20 and par.; Jn 15:26; 2 Tm 1:7seq., see following note. 3 The Spirit guides the Church in her major decisions: the admission of gentiles, 8:29.40; 10:19.44–47; 11:12–16; 15:8, without obligation to observe the Law, 15:28; Paul's mission to the gentile world, 13:2seq.; 16:6–7; 19:1 (Western text), see Mt 3:16n. Ac also mentions the Spirit as received in baptism and forgiving sins, 2:38; see Rm 5:5e.

k. The primary function of the apostles is to bear witness: not only to Christ's resurrection, 2:32; 3:15; 4:33; 5:32; 13:31; 22:15; Lk 24:48, but also to the whole of his public life, 1:21; 10:39seq.; Lk 1:2; Jn 15:27.

l. Nothing can limit the apostolic mission, Is 45:14h. The progress outlined here follows the geographical plan of Ac: Jerusalem was destined to receive the good news, to be the centre from which it is now spreading, see Lk 2:38*o*.

m. The cloud is part of theophanies in OT, Ex 13:22h, and in NT, Lk 9:34–35 and par. In particular, Dn 7:13, it marks the coming of the Son of man, v. 11 of this passage; Mt 24:30q; cf. 1 Th 4:17; Rv 1:7; 14:14–16.

n. The western text omits 'into heaven'.

o. The glorious coming, the parousia, see notes on Mt 24 and Lk 17:22–37; 21:5–33.

p. 'Son' (of Alphaeus, of James) is not in the Greek. The apostle Jude is not the Jude 'brother' of Jesus, see Mt 13:55; Mk 6:3, and brother of James (Jude 1). Nor is it likely that the apostle James son of Alphaeus was James brother of the Lord, 12:17; 15:13; etc.

q. There are many examples in Acts of the earnest prayer enjoined, Mt 6:5c, and practised, Mt 14:23f, by Jesus. Communal prayer under the apostles is centred on the breaking of bread, Ac 2:42.46; 20:7–11. There is prayer on all important occasions, elections, ordinations and the promulgation of rulings, 1:24; 6:6; 13:3; 14:23, confirmation of the Samaritans, 8:15, on the occasion of persecutions, 4:24–31; 12:5.12. Individuals also are seen praying: Stephen for himself and his executioners, 7:59–60, Paul after his vision of Christ, 9:11, Peter and Paul before their miracles, 9:40; 28:8. Peter when God calls him to Cornelius, 10:9; 11:5, Cornelius himself as a man of prayer, 10:2,4,30–31, Paul and Silas in prison, 16:25, Paul taking leave of his friends at Miletus, 20:36, and at Tyre, 21:5. On most occasions it is a prayer of asking, also to obtain pardon in 8:22–24, prayer of praise, 16:25, thanksgiving, 28:15; finally witness to the faith: 'calling on the name of Jesus' is the hallmark of the Christian, 2:21.38; 9:14.21; 22:16.

r. Close relations of Jesus, see Mt 12:46*o*.

s. Besides its strict sense the word 'brother' has often in the Bible wider senses, a relation more or less distant, Gn 9:25; 13:8, a compatriot, Gn 16:12; Ex 2:11; Dt 2:4; 15:2; Ps 22:22. From there it passes to a deeper relationship by communion in the covenant. In the NT it very frequently denotes Christians, disciples of Christ, 6:3; 9:30; 11:1; 12:17; Mt 28:10; Jn 20:17; Rm 1:13, who, like him, do the will of the Father, Mt 12:50 and par., children of the Father of whom he is the First-born, Mt 25:40; Rm 8:29; Heb 2:11,17, between whom brotherly love reigns, Rm 12:10; 1 Th 4:9; 1 P 1:22; 1 Jn 3:14.

t. This account of the death of Judas differs from the version in Mt 27:3–10. It is not a death by hanging, like that of Ahitophel, 2 S 17:23, but is after the pattern of the death of the wicked in Ws 4:19, and the pouring out of his entrails mirrors the death of many a criminal in folk legends. The field 'of blood' is named not after the blood of Jesus, but that of Judas. Both traditions recall the fact of a sudden and ignominious end to the life of a traitor, and attach it with more or less success to the Hakeldama, well known in Jerusalem as a place of ill omen.

living with us, ·from the time when John was baptising until the day when he was 22 1:8k taken up from us—one must be appointed to serve with us as a witness to his resurrection.'

13:9f Having nominated two candidates, Joseph known as Barsabbas, whose surname 23
15:8 was Justus, and Matthias, ·they prayed, " 'Lord, you can read everyone's heart; 24
Jr 11:20+ Lk 16:15 show us therefore which of these two you have chosen ·to take over this ministry 25
Rv 2:23 and apostolate, which Judas abandoned to go to his proper place.' ·They then drew 26
Ex 33:7e 1 S 14:41r lots [v] for them, and as the lot fell to Matthias, he was listed as one of the twelve apostles. [w]

Pentecost [a]

Ex 23:14d 2 When Pentecost day came round, they [b] had all met together, ·when suddenly 1, 2 4:31 there came from heaven a sound as of a violent wind [c] which filled the entire Ps 33:6;104:30 Jn 3:8d;20:22 house in which they were sitting; ·and there appeared to them tongues as of fire; [d] 3
1:5f Lk 1:15k these separated and came to rest on the head of each of them. ·They were all filled 4
1:8j with the Holy Spirit and began to speak different languages as the Spirit gave them
Mt 28:19 Lk 24:47 power to express themselves.
Col 1:23 Now there were devout men [e] living in Jerusalem from every nation under 5 heaven, ·and at this sound they all assembled, and each one was bewildered to 6
Gn 11:1–9,1a hear these men speaking his own language. ·They were amazed and astonished. 7
'Surely,' they said, 'all these men speaking are Galileans? ·How does it happen 8 that each of us hears them in his own native language? ·Parthians, Medes and 9 Elamites; people from Mesopotamia, Judaea and Cappadocia, Pontus and Asia, Phrygia and Pamphylia, Egypt and the parts of Libya round Cyrene; residents of 10
Rome—·Jews and proselytes [f] alike—Cretans and Arabs; [g] we hear them preaching 11 in our own language about the marvels of God.' ·Everyone was amazed and 12 1 Co 14:23 perplexed; they asked one another what it all meant. ·Some, however, laughed it 13
off. 'They have been drinking too much new wine,' they said.

Peter's address to the crowd

Then Peter stood up with the Eleven [h] and addressed them in a loud voice: 14
'Men of Judaea, and all you who live in Jerusalem, make no mistake about this, but listen carefully to what I say. ·These men are not drunk, as you imagine; why, 15
2:33u it is only the third hour of the day. [i] ·On the contrary, this is what the prophet [j] 16 was saying:

In the last days [k]—the Lord declares— 17
Is 2:2 J1 3:1–5 I shall pour out my Spirit on all humanity.
•Rm 7:5c •11:27m Your sons and daughters shall prophesy, your young people shall see visions,
your old people dream dreams.
Even on the slaves, men and women, 18
shall I pour out my Spirit.
I will show portents in the sky above 19
5:12 and signs on the earth below.
Mt 24:29par. The sun will be turned into darkness 20
and the moon into blood
before the day of the Lord comes, [l]
that great and terrible Day.
Rm 10:9–13 And all who call on the name of the Lord will be saved. [m] 21

Mt 2:23l 'Men of Israel, listen to what I am going to say: [n] Jesus the Nazarene was a man 22
10:38 Lk 5:17;24:19 commended to you by God by the miracles and portents and signs that God worked Jn 5:36 through him when he was among you, as you know. ·This man, who was put into 23 your power by the deliberate intention [o] and foreknowledge of God, you took and had crucified and killed by men outside the Law. [p] ·But God raised him to life, 24 freeing him from the pangs of Hades;[q] for it was impossible for him to be held in its power since, ·as David says of him:[r] Ps 18:5 13:34–37

I kept the Lord before my sight always, Ps 16:8–11 for with him at my right hand nothing can shake me.
So my heart rejoiced
my tongue delighted;
my body, too, will rest secure,
for you will not abandon me to Hades or allow your holy one to see corruption.
You have taught me the way of life,
you will fill me with joy in your presence.

'Brothers, no one can deny that the patriarch David himself is dead and buried: his tomb is still with us.[s] ·But since he was a prophet, and knew that God had sworn him an oath to make one of his descendants succeed him on the throne, ·he spoke with foreknowledge about the resurrection of the Christ: he is the one who was not abandoned to Hades, and whose body did not see corruption. ·God raised 2 S 7:12 Ps 132:11 Mt 9:27m

u. var. 'He nominated' v. 23 and var. 'he prayed' v. 24, to give greater prominence to Peter's role.

v. This archaic way of electing, Ex 33:7e; 1 S 14:41r; Lk 1:9, will soon be replaced in the community by a less mechanical process, see 6:3–6; 13:2–3.

w. 'he was listed as one of the twelve apostles', Western text; see Mk 3:14c.

2 a. The phenomenon of Pentecost has elements common to the speaking in tongues experienced by Cornelius (10:46seq.; 11:15) and by the disciples of John at Ephesus (19:6), which Paul discusses in 1 Co 14. In none of these cases is there any question of a continuous speech of instruction, but what happens is praise of God (2:11; 10:46; 1 Co 14:2,16) by ecstatic speech which surprises the listeners (2:13; 1 Co 14:23). Analogous happenings in the ancient contemporary world show that these bursts of praise used words of foreign languages (2:6,11; 1 Co 14:10–11,21). Luke uses this fact to see in this occurrence at the beginning of the Church a foretaste of the preaching which was soon to carry the good news to all the peoples of the world, and thus undo the confusion of languages at the Tower of Babel (Gn 11:6–7). He could have been helped in this by a Jewish tradition which commemorated on the day of Pentecost the theophany at Sinai and which claimed that the voice of God, mediated by flames of fire, was then addressed to all the peoples of the world, but was rejected by all except Israel which accepted the Law. In this new Sinai all the peoples are challenged, and they accept.

b. Not the hundred and twenty, 1:15–26, but the group mentioned in 1:13–14.

c. 'Breath' and 'Spirit' are the same word in Hebrew (and in Greek and Latin), see Jn 3:8d.

d. The shape of the flames (Is 5:24; cf. Is 6:6–7) is here associated with the gift of tongues.

e. 'devout men' Sin. Western text 'Now the Jews who were living in Jerusalem were men from every nation under heaven.' The other texts have both 'devout men' and 'Jews'.

f. Gentile converts to Judaism who joined the chosen race by being circumcised. These proselytes are not the same as the God-fearers, 10:2b, who admire the Jewish religion and attend the synagogue but do not accept circumcision or the ritual prescribed by the Law. Jews and proselytes are not here additional classes of people: the terms qualify the nations just enumerated.

g. This list of peoples of the Mediterranean world, which runs roughly from east to west and from north to south, appears to depend on an ancient astrological calendar, known from other sources, in which the peoples were attached to the signs of the zodiac and listed in their order. Luke must have taken it over as a handy description of the inhabited world of his day. The mention of Judaea is hard to explain and has, since ancient times, occasioned many attempts at correction.

h. Peter speaks as leader of the apostolic body, see 1:15; 2:37; 3:4,6, 12; 4:8,13; 5:3,8,9,15,29; cf. ch. 10–11. See Mt 16:19i; Lk 22:32k. John is often joined to him, but rather as a sort of double, 3:1,3,4,11; 4:13,19; 8:14; cf. Lk 22:8. Peter's speech takes the form of a Jewish sermon, commenting on three texts of scripture in turn and applying them to the present situation. This is a recognised rabbinic technique.

i. About 9 am.

j. add. 'Joel'. • Vv. 17–21 quoted as in Western text; Alexandrian text favours the LXX.

k. The messianic era.

l. The day of the Lord's coming in glory, the 'Day of Yahweh', Am 5:18m. In Christian preaching, this 'Day' is that of Christ's return, Mt 24:1a.

m. The Christians style themselves 'those who invoke the name of the Lord', 9:14,21; 22:16; 1 Co 1:2; 2 Tm 2:22; the title 'Lord' indicates no longer Yahweh but Jesus, see Ac 3:16*l*; Ph 2:11. On Judgement Day people will be accepted or rejected according as to whether they have or have not invoked this name, i.e. acknowledged Jesus as Lord: see 4:12 and Rm 10:9.

n. The content of the earliest apostolic preaching (the kerygma) is here summarised for the first time (see 2:14–39; 3:12–26; 4:8–12; 5:29–32; 10:34–43; the five discourses of Peter and the discourse of Paul): 1 A witness, 1:8k, to Jesus' death and resurrection, 2:24q, and to his exaltation, 2:33t,36w. 2 It also provides certain details of Jesus' ministry; how it was heralded by John the Baptist, 10:37; 13:24, inaugurated by teaching and miracle, 2:22; 10:38, completed by the appearances of the risen Christ, 10:40,41; 13:31, and by the gift of the Spirit, 2:33; 5:32. 3 It places this story in its wider setting: it appeals to the past, adducing the OT prophecies, 2:23*o*,25r, and it surveys the future, the advent of the messianic era, inviting Jews and gentiles to repentance, 2:38x, so that Christ's glorious return may come the sooner, 3:19–21. The gospels, which are developments of the primitive preaching, adopt the same scheme.

o. The OT prophecies demonstrate this divine plan: 3:18; 4:28; 13:29, see also 8:32–35; 9:22; 10:43; 17:2–3; 18:5,28; 26:22–23,27; 28:23; Lk 18:31e; 22:22; 24:25–27,44.

p. In this case the Romans. The primitive kerygma accused the Jews in the same way, and confronted them with the decisive intervention of God in the raising of Jesus from the dead, 2:32,36; 3:13–17; 4:10; 5:30–31; 7:52; 10:39–40; 13:27–30; 17:31; see Rm 1:4c; 1 Th 2:14f.

q. 'of Hades' Western text; 'of death' Text. rec., cf. vv. 27 and 31. 'Hades' in LXX is sheol, Nb 16:33f; Mt 16:18h.

r. Quoted according to LXX. In the Hebr. text the psalmist prays only for deliverance from imminent death 'You will not allow your faithful one to see the pit.' Hence the argument presupposes the Greek version which, by translating 'pit' (= grave) as 'corruption', introduces a new idea.

s. On the ancient Mount Sion, at a lower level than the Temple, 1 K 2:10. A wrong interpretation of this verse gave rise to the belief that the tomb of David was at the traditional place of the Last Supper, on the western hill which has been given the name Sion since the early Christian centuries.

1:8j this man Jesus to life, and of that we are all witnesses. ·Now raised to the heights 33
1:4–5;5f by God's right hand,[t] he has received from the Father the Holy Spirit, who was Ezk 36:27f promised,[u] and what you see and hear is the outpouring of that Spirit. ·For David 34
Jn 15:26
Ep 4:8–11 himself never went up to heaven,[v] but yet he said:

Ps 110:1 The Lord declared to my Lord,
take your seat at my right hand,
till I have made your enemies 35
your footstool.

2:23p 'For this reason the whole House of Israel can be certain that the Lord and Christ 36
Ph 2:11p whom God has made is this Jesus whom you crucified.'[w]

The first conversions

Hearing this, they were cut to the heart and said to Peter and the other apostles, 37
16:30 'What are we to do, brothers?' ·'You must repent,'[x] Peter answered, 'and every 38
Lk 3:10
Mt 3:2c one of you must be baptised in the name of Jesus Christ[y] for the forgiveness of 1:5f your sins, and you will receive the gift of the Holy Spirit. ·The promise[z] that was 39
2:33u
Is 57:19 made is for you and your children, and for all those who are far away,[aa] for all those Jl 3:5 whom the Lord our God is calling to himself.' ·He spoke to them[bb] for a long time 40 using many other arguments, and he urged them, 'Save yourselves from this 1:5f perverse generation.' ·They accepted what he said and were baptised. That very 41
Dt 32:5
Mt 17:17 day about three thousand were added to their number.[cc]
Lk 9:41
Ph 2:15
4:32–35; The early Christian community[dd]
5:12–16

These remained faithful to the teaching of the apostles,[ee] to the brotherhood,[ff] to 42
the breaking of bread[gg] and to the prayers.[hh]

=5:11–12a And everyone was filled with awe: the apostles worked many signs and 43
Lk 1:12g miracles.[ii]

=4:32,34–35 And all who shared the faith owned everything in common; ·they sold their 44, 45 goods and possessions and distributed the proceeds among themselves according 6:1 to what each one needed.

5:12,42 Each day, with one heart, they regularly went to the Temple but met in their 46
Lk 24:53
4:21,33;5:13 houses for the breaking of bread; they shared their food gladly[jj] and generously;
they praised God[kk] and were looked up to by everyone. Day by day the Lord 47
2:41cc added to their community those destined to be saved.[ll]

14:8–10 The cure of a lame man

Lk 8:51f 3 Once, when Peter and John were going up to the Temple for the prayers at the 1 ninth hour,[a] ·it happened that there was a man being carried along. He was a 2 cripple from birth; and they used to put him down every day near the Temple entrance called the Beautiful Gate[b] so that he could beg from the people going in.
When this man saw Peter and John on their way into the Temple he begged from 3 2:14h them. ·Peter, and John too, looked straight at him and said, 'Look at us.' ·He 4, 5 turned to them expectantly, hoping to get something from them, ·but Peter said, 6 3:16/ 'I have neither silver nor gold, but I will give you what I have: in the name of Jesus
Mt 2:23/ 9:41 Christ the Nazarene, walk!'[c] ·Then he took him by the right hand and helped him 7
Mt 8:15+ to stand up. Instantly his feet and ankles became firm, ·he jumped up, stood, and 8
Is 35:6 began to walk, and he went with them into the Temple, walking and jumping and Lk 7:22par. 2:47*ll* praising God. ·Everyone could see him walking and praising God, ·and they 9, 10 recognised him as the man who used to sit begging at the Beautiful Gate of the Lk 1:12g Temple. They were all astonished and perplexed at what had happened to him.

2:22n Peter's address to the people

Everyone came running towards them in great excitement, to the Portico of 11 5:12 Solomon,[d] as it is called, where the man was still clinging to Peter and John.
Jn 10:23 When Peter saw the people he addressed them, 'Men of Israel, why are you so 12 surprised at this? Why are you staring at us as though we had made this man walk 13 by our own power or holiness? ·It is the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, the God of our ancestors, who has glorified his servant[e] Jesus whom you handed over[f] and then disowned[g] in the presence of Pilate after he had given his verdict to 14 release him. ·It was you who accused[h] the Holy[i] and Upright[j] One, you who 15 demanded that a murderer should be released to you ·while you killed the prince of life.[k] God, however, raised him from the dead, and to that fact we are witnesses;

16 and it is the name of Jesus which, through faith in him, has brought back the strength of this man whom you see here and who is well known to you. It is faith in him that has restored this man to health, as you can all see.[l]

Ex 3:6,15
Is 52:13 ·2:23*o*
Lk 23:22f
Lk 23:2,5
Lk 23:19,25

17 'Now I know, brothers, that neither you nor your leaders had any idea what you 18 were really doing;[m] ·but this was the way God carried out what he had foretold, 19 when he said through all his prophets that his Christ would suffer. ·Now you must 20 repent and turn to God,[n] so that your sins may be wiped out, ·and so that the Lord

13:27
1 Co 2:8
1 Tm 1:13
·Lk 18:31
2:38*y*
Mt 3:2*c*

t. Words borrowed from Ps 118 (v. 16 LXX 'The right hand of the Lord has raised me up') used in their preaching by the apostles who took it to be messianic: 4:11; Mt 21:9 and par., 42 and par.; 23:39; Lk 13:35; Jn 12:13; Heb 13:6; 1 P 2:7. But it is possible to translate 'Having been raised up to the right hand of God' and to see in this an introduction to the quotation (v. 34) of Ps 110:1, which is another theme of apostolic preaching: 7:55,56; Mt 22:44 and par.; 26:64 and par.; Mk 16:19; Rm 8:34; 1 Co 15:25; Ep 1:20; Col 3:1; Heb 1:3,13; 8:1; 10:12; 12:2; 1 P 3:22.

u. According to the prophets, the gift of the Spirit would characterise the messianic era, Ezk 36:27f. Peter explains the miracle his hearers have witnessed as the 'pouring out' of this Spirit, foretold in Jl 3:1–2, by the risen Christ.

v. The argument is, apparently, that David lies in his tomb and therefore did not ascend into heaven; hence God's summons was addressed not to him but to the one who came out from the tomb.

w. Conclusion of the argument from scripture: it is by his resurrection that Jesus has been constituted the 'Lord' of whom Ps 110 speaks, and the 'Messiah' (Christ) to whom Ps 16 refers. From Ps 2:7 (Son of God), Ac 13:33x; Rm 1:4c; Heb 1:5; 5:5 develop a similar argument. See also 5:31 (leader and Saviour); 10:42 and Rm 14:9 (Judge and Lord of living and dead); Ph 2:9–11 (glorified Lord). By his resurrection Jesus entered upon the enjoyment of the divine prerogatives which were his by right of birth.

x. Each of the great apostolic discourses closes with a call to repentance (see Mt 3:2c) to obtain forgiveness of sins: 3:19,26; 5:31; 10:43; 13:38; see also 17:30; 26:20; Lk 1:77; 3:8; 5:32; 13:3.

y. Baptism is administered 'in the name of Jesus Christ' (see 1:5f) and the recipient 'invokes the name of the Lord Jesus' (see 2:21m; 3:16*f*) 8:16; 10:48; 19:5; 22:16; Rm 6:3; 1 Co 1:13,15; 6:11; 10:2; Ga 3:27; cf. Jm 2:7. Such expressions are not necessarily the actual liturgical formulae of baptism, cf. Mt 28:19; they may simply indicate its significance, namely, that the baptised profess their faith in Christ, and Christ adopts those who thenceforth are dedicated to him.

z. The promise is addressed primarily to the Jews, 3:25–26; 13:46; Rm 9:4.

aa. i.e. the gentiles, alluding to Is 57:19 quoted and explained in Ep 2:13–17; see also 22:21.

bb. Or 'he bore witness', cf. 8:25; 28:23.

cc. Luke repeatedly and deliberately notes the Church's numerical growth: v. 47; 4:4; 5:14; 6:1,7; 9:31p; 11:21,24; 16:5; cf. 12:24; 13:48–49; 19:20.

dd. Compare this passage with 4:32–35 and 5:12–16. These three composite editorial 'summaries' paint similar pictures of life in the first Christian community.

ee. Not the proclamation of the good news to non-Christians, cf. 15:35, but instructions for the newly converted in which the scriptures were explained in the light of the Incarnation.

ff. 'Brotherhood' (or 'fellowship'), 1 Co 1:9f, occurs here without further detail, cf. Ga 2:9. It certainly denotes community of goods, v. 44; 4:32–35, which expresses and strengthens community of spirit, v. 46; 4:32, as a result of sharing the gospel and all the benefits received in the apostolic community from God through Jesus Christ. But the sense is not limited to help on the social level, nor to a common ideology or feeling of solidarity.

gg. Cf. v. 46; 20:7,11; 27:35; Lk 24:30,35. In itself the phrase suggests a Jewish meal at which the one who presides pronounces a blessing before dividing the bread. For Christians, however, it implies the Eucharistic service, Lk 22:19 and par.; 24:35h; 1 Co 10:16; 11:24. This, v. 46, was celebrated not in the Temple but in private houses; an ordinary meal would accompany it, cf. 1 Co 11:20–34.

hh. Prayer in common, 1:14,24; 4:24–30; 6:4; 12:5.

ii. add. 'in Jerusalem, and upon all there was great fear.'

jj. Joy is the sequel of faith: 8:8,39; 13:48, 52; 16:34; cf. 5:41; Lk 1:14i; Rm 15:13.

kk. Cf. 3:8,9; 4:21; 13:48; 21:20; Lk 2:20g.

ll. When judgement comes the members of the Christian community are assured of salvation, 2:21m; see also 13:48 and Paul's letters. The Church is thus identified with 'the remnant of Israel', Is 4:3c, cf. Rm 9:27.

3 a. The time of evening sacrifice, see 10:3,30; Ex 29:39–42; Lk 1:8–10f. There is a clear parallel between the miracles of Peter and those of Paul, and also those of Jesus, see p. 1795.

b. Probably the gate known as 'Corinthian', which, to the east of the Sanctuary, led from the outer court or Court of the Gentiles, to the first inner court, or Court of Women.

c. var. 'get up and walk', cf. Lk 5:23–24, etc.

d. A porch or cloister along the eastern side of the Temple.

e. The Christians see in Jesus the mysterious 'servant' of Is 52:13–53:12 (quoted in part in Ac 8:32–33), see Is 42:1a. See below, v. 26; 4:27,30. His 'glorification' by God is his resurrection, v. 15, see Jn 17:5e.

f. Cf. Is 53:12. Same allusion to the servant song in 7:52; Rm 4:25; 8:32; Ga 2:20; Ep 5:2,25.

g. As they disowned Moses, 7:35, himself a figure of Christ.

h. var. 'disowned'.

i. Cf. 4.27,30: Jesus is the 'holy servant' of God. He is also 'the Holy One of God' and 'the Holy One' par excellence: 2:27; Mk 1:24j; Lk 1:35; 4:34; Jn 6:69; Rv 3:7.

j. See 7:52; 22:14; Is 53:11; see also Mt 27:19; Lk 23:47; 1 P 3:18; 1 Jn 2:1.

k. The one who leads his subjects to full life, imparting his own life to them. This same title of 'leader' is given, 7:27,35, to Moses who prefigures Christ, see 5:31k; Heb 2:10.

l. The 'name', according to the ancients, is inseparable from the person and shares his prerogatives, see Ex 3:13g. By the invocation of the name of Jesus, 2:21m,38y, his power is stirred to action, 3:6; 4:7,10,30; 10:43; 16:18; 19:13; Lk 9:49; 10:17; see also Jn 14:13,14; 15:16; 16:24,26; 20:31. Faith is of course required for this invocation to be effective, cf. 19:13–17; Mt 8:10b.

m. Apparently an allusion to Lk 23:34; cf. 7:60.

n. By 'repentance' a person 'comes back' to God, see Mt 3:2c. The gentiles must return to God by forsaking idols, cf. 14:15; 15:19–20; 26:18,20; 1 Co 10:7,14; Ga 4:9; 1 Th 1:9; the Jews must turn to the Lord by acknowledging Jesus as Lord; see Ac 9:35; 2 Co 3:16. The expression of 11:21, Lk 1:16, cf. 1 P 2:25, is somewhat different, see also Is 6:10, quoted in 28:27; Mt 13:15; Mk 4:12, cf. Jn 12:40.

2 P 3:11–13 may send the time of comfort. [o] Then he will send you the Christ he has predestined, Mt 3:23–24 Mt 17:11 that is Jesus, [p] ·whom heaven must keep till the universal restoration [q] comes which 21
God proclaimed, speaking through his holy prophets. [r] ·Moses, for example, said, 22 7:37 Dt 18:15, 19 Mt 16:14c Jn 1:21t Mt 17:5par Lv 23:29 "From among your brothers the Lord God will raise up for you a prophet like me;
you will listen to whatever he tells you. ·Anyone who refuses to listen to that prophet 23 shall be cut off from the people." ·In fact, all the prophets that have ever spoken, 24 from Samuel onwards, have predicted these days. [s]

Rm 9:4 2:39aa Gn 12:3b; 22:18 Ga 3:8–29 Rm 1:16 'You are the heirs of the prophets, the heirs of the covenant God made with 25 your ancestors when he told Abraham, "All the nations of the earth will be blessed in your descendants". ·It was for you in the first place that God raised 26 up [t] his servant and sent him to bless you [u] as every one of you turns from his wicked ways.' [v]

Peter and John before the Sanhedrin

5:17–18,24 Lk 22:4c 4 While they were still talking to the people the priests came up to them, 1 accompanied by the captain of the Temple and the Sadducees. [a] ·They were 2 extremely annoyed at their teaching the people the resurrection from the dead by 23:6–8; 24:15,21 1 Co 15:20–23 2:41cc proclaiming the resurrection of Jesus. ·They arrested them, and, as it was already 3 late, they kept them in prison till the next day. ·But many of those who had listened 4 to their message became believers; the total number of men had now risen to something like five thousand.

Lk 22:66r Lk 3:2f It happened that the next day the rulers, elders and scribes [b] held a meeting in 5
Jerusalem ·with Annas the high priest, Caiaphas, Jonathan, [c] Alexander and all 6
the members of the high-priestly families. ·They made the prisoners stand in the 7 Lk 20:2 middle and began to interrogate them, 'By what power, and by whose name have 1:8j;2:14h,22n Lk 1:15k;12:12 you men done this?' ·Then Peter, filled with the Holy Spirit, addressed them, 8
'Rulers of the people, and elders! ·If you are questioning us today about an act of 9 kindness to a cripple and asking us how he was healed, ·[d] you must know, all of 10 3:6,16l 2:23–24 you, and the whole people of Israel, that it is by the name of Jesus Christ the Nazarene, whom you crucified, and God raised from the dead, by this name and by Ps 118:22 Mt 21:42par. 1 P 2:4,7 no other that this man stands before you cured. ·This is the stone which you, the 11 builders, rejected but which has become the cornerstone. Only in him is there salvation; ·for of all the names in the world given to men, this is the only one by 12
2:21m J1 3:5 which we can be saved.' [e]

Lk 12:11–12 par.;21; •Jn 7:15 They were astonished at the fearlessness shown by Peter and John, considering 13 that they were uneducated laymen; and they recognised them as associates of Jesus; ·but when they saw the man who had been cured standing by their side, they 14 could find no answer. ·So they ordered them to stand outside while the Sanhedrin 15
Jn 11:47–48 had a private discussion. ·'What are we going to do with these men?' they asked. 16
'It is obvious to everybody in Jerusalem that a notable miracle has been worked through them, and we cannot deny it. ·But to stop the whole thing spreading any 17 further among the people, let us threaten them against ever speaking to anyone in this name again.'

So they called them in and gave them a warning [f] on no account to make 18 statements or to teach in the name of Jesus. ·But Peter and John retorted, 'You 19
5:29 must judge whether in God's eyes it is right to listen to you and not to God. ·We 20
1:8j Jr 20:9 Am 3:8 1 Co 9:16 2 Co 13:8 2 Tm 1:7–8 •2:47ll cannot stop proclaiming what we have seen and heard.' ·The court repeated the 21 threats and then released them; they could not think of any way to punish them, since all the people were giving glory to God for what had happened. ·The man 22 who had been miraculously cured was over forty years old.

The apostles' prayer under persecution

As soon as they were released they went to the community and told them every- 23 thing the chief priests and elders had said to them. ·When they heard it they lifted 24 14:15l up their voice to God with one heart. 'Master,' they prayed, 'it is you who made

25 sky and earth and sea, and everything in them; •it is you who said through the Holy Spirit and speaking through our ancestor David, your servant: [g]

Why this uproar among the nations, Ps 2:1–2
this impotent muttering of the peoples?
26 Kings on earth take up position,
princes plot together
against the Lord and his Anointed. [h]

27 'This is what has come true: in this very city Herod and Pontius Pilate [i] plotted Lk 23:7–12 together with the gentile nations and the peoples of Israel, against your holy servant 3:13e 28 Jesus whom you anointed, [j] •to bring about the very thing that you in your strength 10:38
29 and your wisdom [k] had predetermined should happen. •And now, Lord, take note 2:23*o* of their threats and help your servants to proclaim your message with all fearless- 13:46gg; 18:9–10
30 ness, •by stretching out your hand to heal and to work miracles and marvels Ep 6:19 31 through the name of your holy servant Jesus.' •As they prayed, the house where 3:16*l* they were assembled rocked. From this time they were all filled with the Holy Spirit and began to proclaim the word of God fearlessly. [l] 1:8j

The early Christian community [m] 2:42–47;5: 12–16

32 The whole group of believers was united, heart and soul; no one claimed private Jn 17:11,21 Ph 1:27 ownership of any possessions, as everything they owned was held in common. =2:44–45 33 The apostles continued to testify to the resurrection of the Lord Jesus with great 1:8k power, [n] and they were all accorded great respect. [o] 4:30
34 None of their members was ever in want, as all those who owned land or houses Dt 15:4
35 would sell them, and bring the money from the sale of them, •to present it to the Lk 12:33 apostles; it was then distributed to any who might be in need.

The generosity of Barnabas

36 There was a Levite of Cypriot origin called Joseph whom the apostles surnamed 37 Barnabas (which means 'son of encouragement'). [p] •He owned a piece of land and he sold it and brought the money and presented it to the apostles.

o. This epoch coincides with that of Christ's coming and of 'the restoration of all things', see 1:7h; Rm 2:6b, a period which, as the apostles thought, would see the re-establishment of the kingdom in Israel, Ac 1:6–7. Repentance and conversion hasten its coming, cf. 2 P 3:12.

p. Or 'Jesus who has been appointed Christ for you', see 2:36w.

q. The return of the captive and scattered Israelites was proclaimed by the prophets as a prelude to the messianic era, Jr 16:15; 23:8; Ho 11:10–11, when happiness and peace would prevail for ever, Is 11:1–9,7e; 65:17–25; Ho 2:20s; Mi 5:6–8. In the same way, at the due time, God will send Jesus, instituted messianic king at the time of his resurrection, 2:36w, who will inaugurate his definitive reign and the renewal of all creation, see Rm 8:19j; 1 Co 15:24–25.

r. add. 'from ancient times'.

s. The earliest Christian preaching made a point of showing how Jesus fulfilled OT prophecy, including many texts in Psalms which were regarded as prophetic: he was a descendant of David, 2:29–31; 13:34, he appeared as a prophet, Moses' successor, 3:22seq., see Mt 16:14c; Jn 1:21t. He suffered, 2:23*o*, he was the stone rejected by the builders (the Jews) but now set in a place of honour, 4:11, he rose again, 2:25–31; 13:33–37, and is at God's right hand, 2:34seq.

t. Thus implementing the promise recalled in v. 22, because the Greek verb means both 'to raise up' and 'to raise up again'. God by raising Christ from the dead fulfils the promises made to the ancestors, 13:32–34; 24:14–15; 26:6–8.

u. Cf. 26:23; Ga 3:14; 2 Tm 1:10. Christ by his resurrection brought to the world the blessing promised to Abraham, 3:25.

v. Others translate 'so long as each of you turns from his wicked ways'.

4 a. The priestly aristocratic faction opposed the Pharisees who were the pious and popular party, see Mt 3:7f. The Sadducees are always represented as denying the doctrine of resurrection, 23:6–8; Lk 20:27–38 and par. More than once the mutual hostility of these two parties produces an alliance of Pharisees with Christians, see 5:34; 23:8–9; 26:5–8; Lk 20:39.

b. The Great Sanhedrin of Jerusalem, Israel's supreme court.

c. var. 'John'.

d. For vv. 10–12 we follow the Western text.

e. 'Jesus' means 'God saves', Mt 1:21.

f. Apparently a solemn legal warning. In matters of this kind the accused (unless they were rabbis) could not be imprisoned except for a second offence (the case in 5:28).

g. Text corrupt, translation uncertain. The composition of the Psalter as a whole was attributed to David.

h. 'Anointed': the Greek word is 'Christ'; it is explained here, v. 27, according to its etymological sense.

i. Representing respectively the 'kings' and 'princes' of the Psalm. For 'Herod', see Lk 23:6–16.

j. The 'anointing' that has constituted him King Messiah, 'the Christ', see Mt 3:16n.

k. lit. 'your hand and counsel'.

l. A miniature Pentecost, cf. the earlier one, 2:1seq.

m. A summary like that of 2:42–47. The prevailing idea is here the pooling of resources; this preludes two examples: Barnabas, Ananias and Sapphira. The emphasis on sacrificing possessions is characteristic of Luke's religious outlook.

n. A power that showed itself by miracles. See 2:22; 3:12; 4:7; 6:8; 8:13; 10:38; 1 Co 2:4–5; 1 Th 1:5.

o. By the people: see 2:47; 4:21; 5:13.

p. The Greek word means both 'consolation' (often in the strong sense of 'rescue') and 'encouragement' (often in the strong sense of 'support and defend'), see 11:23. • 'Son of', a semitic expression here meaning 'with an aptitude for'. • On Barnabas, see 9:27; 11:22–30; 12:25; ch. 13–15; 1 Co 9:6; Ga 2; Col 4:10.

Jos 7 The fraud of Ananias and Sapphira

5 There was also a man called Ananias. He and his wife, Sapphira, agreed to sell 1 a property; ·but with his wife's connivance he kept back part of the price and 2 brought the rest and presented it to the apostles. ·Peter said, 'Ananias, how can 3 Lk 22:3 Jn 13:2, 27 Satan have so possessed you that you should lie to the Holy Spirit and keep back Dt 23:22–24 part of the price of the land? ·While you still owned the land, wasn't it yours to 4 keep, and after you had sold it wasn't the money yours to do with as you liked?
What put this scheme into your mind? You have been lying not to men, but to Lk 1:12g God.' ·When he heard this Ananias fell down dead. And a great fear came upon 5 everyone present. ·The younger men got up, wrapped up the body, carried it out 6 and buried it.

About three hours later his wife came in, not knowing what had taken place. 7 2:14h Peter challenged her, 'Tell me, was this the price you sold the land for?' 'Yes,' 8
she said, 'that was the price.' ·Peter then said, 'Why did you and your husband 9 15:10k 1 Co 10:9; 11:30–32 agree to put the Spirit of the Lord to the test? Listen! At the door are the footsteps of those who have buried your husband; they will carry you out, too.' ·Instantly 10 she dropped dead at his feet. When the young men came in they found she was dead, and they carried her out and buried her by the side of her husband. [a] ·And a 11
Lk 1:12g great fear came upon the whole church [b] and on all who heard it.

2:42–47; 4:32–35 The general situation [c]

2:19 The apostles worked many signs and miracles among the people. One in heart they 12
=2:46 3:11 all [d] used to meet in the Portico of Solomon. ·No one else dared to join them, but 13
=2:47 2:41cc the people were loud in their praise ·and the numbers of men and women who 14 came to believe in the Lord increased steadily. [e] Many signs and wonders were Mk 6:56 worked among the people at the hands of the apostles ·so that the sick were even 15 taken out into the streets and laid on beds and sleeping-mats in the hope that at 19:12 least the shadow of Peter might fall across some of them as he went past. ·People 16 even came crowding in from the towns round about Jerusalem, bringing with them 8:6–8 Lk 4:40–41 their sick and those tormented by unclean spirits, and all of them were cured.

The apostles' arrest and miraculous deliverance

4:6 4:1a Then the high priest [f] intervened with all his supporters from the party of the 17 Sadducees. Filled with jealousy, ·they arrested the apostles and had them put in 18 the public gaol.

Mt 1:20g But at night the angel of the Lord opened the prison gates and said as he led 19 12:7–10;16: 25–26 them out, ·'Go and take up position in the Temple, and tell the people all about 20 this new Life.' [g] ·They did as they were told; they went into the Temple at dawn 21 and began to preach.

A summons to appear before the Sanhedrin

When the high priest arrived, he and his supporters convened the Sanhedrin—this was the full Senate [h] of Israel—and sent to the gaol for them to be brought. ·But 22 when the officials arrived at the prison they found they were not inside, so they went back and reported, ·'We found the gaol securely locked and the warders on 23 duty at the gates, but when we unlocked the door we found no one inside.' ·When 24 4:1+ the captain of the Temple and the chief priests heard this news they wondered what could be happening. ·Then a man arrived with fresh news. 'Look!' he said, 'the 25 men you imprisoned are in the Temple. They are standing there preaching to the people.' ·The captain went with his men and fetched them—though not by force, 26
Lk 20:19par.; 22:2par. for they were afraid that the people might stone them.

When they had brought them in to face the Sanhedrin, the high priest demanded 27
4:18f an explanation. ·'We gave you a strong warning', he said, 'not to preach in this 28 name, [i] and what have you done? You have filled Jerusalem with your teaching, Mt 27:25 and seem determined to fix the guilt for this man's death on us.' ·In reply Peter and 29

30 the apostles said, 'Obedience to God comes before obedience to men; •it was the God of our ancestors who raised up Jesus, whom you executed by hanging on a 31 tree.[j] •By his own right hand God has now raised him up to be leader and 32 Saviour,[k] to give repentance and forgiveness of sins through him to Israel. •We are witnesses to this, we and the Holy Spirit[l] whom God has given to those who obey 33 him.' •This so infuriated them that they wanted to put them to death.

▶2:14h,22n 2:23p;4:19 2:33t Ps 118:16 4:12e 2:38x 1:8j Jn 15:26–27 •Jn 7:39

Gamaliel's intervention

34 One member of the Sanhedrin, however, a Pharisee called Gamaliel, who was a teacher of the Law respected by the whole people,[m] stood up and asked to have 35 the men taken outside for a time. •Then he addressed the Sanhedrin, 'Men of 36 Israel, be careful how you deal with these people. •Some time ago there arose Theudas. He claimed to be someone important, and collected about four hundred followers; but when he was killed, all his followers scattered and that was the end
37 of them. •And then there was Judas the Galilean, at the time of the census, who attracted crowds of supporters; but he was killed too, and all his followers dis-
38 persed.[n] •What I suggest, therefore, is that you leave these men alone and let them go. If this enterprise, this movement of theirs, is of human origin it will break up of 39 its own accord; •but if it does in fact come from God you will be unable to destroy them. Take care not to find yourselves fighting against God.'[o]

23:9 Jn 7:50par. Lk 2:2b Mt 15:13 Lk 20:4 2 Ch 13:12 2 M 7:19

40 His advice was accepted; •and they had the apostles called in, gave orders for them to be flogged, warned them not to speak in the name of Jesus and released
41 them. •And so they left the presence of the Sanhedrin, glad to have had the honour of suffering humiliation for the sake of the name.[p]

4:18;16:22–23; 22:19 Mt 10:17 Mt 5:10–11+ 1 Co 4:9seq.

42 Every day they went on ceaselessly teaching and proclaiming the good news[q] of Christ Jesus, both in the temple and in private houses.

18:5f

5 a. The fault of Ananias and Sapphira is, out of avarice, to have tried to cheat the apostles and through them the Holy Spirit present in the brethren to whom they lied. The purpose of this disturbing story is probably to show Peter's prophetic authority in the community, compare 2 K 2:23–24.

b. The meaning of this term, adopted from the OT, cf. 7:38, to signify the messianic community, Mt 16:18g, expanded as Christianity developed. It originally indicated the mother church in Jerusalem, 8:1; 11:22; later the individual churches throughout Judaea, Ga 1:22; 1 Th 2:14; cf. Ac 9:31, and among the gentiles, Ac 13:1; 14:23; 15:41; 16:5; Rm 16:1,4; 1 Co 1:2a; Jm 5:14; 3 Jn 9; Rv 1:4; 2:1; referring to their 'gatherings', 1 Co 11:18; 14:23,34; cf. Ac 19:32; Phm 2, or to their location or area, Rm 16:5; 1 Co 16:19; Col 4:15. Lastly, it stands for the Church united under God, 20:28; 1 Co 10:32; 12:27–28; for the Church as Body and Bride of Christ, Ep 5:23–32; Col 1:18e, and for the Church as including the whole cosmos, Ep 1:22–23,23t.

c. This third 'summary' stresses the miraculous power of the apostles, cf. 2:43; 4:33. Vv. 12[b]–14 interrupt the development of this theme.

d. Here, it seems, not the apostles but all the faithful.

e. Rather than 'More and more joined (the community) as believers in the Lord,' cf. 11:24.

f. var. 'Annas the high priest', cf. 4:6.

g. lit. 'all the words (cf. 10:36) of this life'. This means the same thing as 'the message of salvation', 13:26. The purpose of Christian preaching is the 'salvation', see 4:12; 11:14; 15:11; 16:17,30–31, and 'life', see also 3:15; 11:18; 13:46,48, promised to those 'who invoke the name of the Lord', 2:21,40,47; 4:12.

h. The terms 'Sanhedrin' and 'Senate' both indicate the same council, the Great Sanhedrin of Jerusalem, see Lk 22:66t. • The motif of miraculous release from prison is frequent in Ac, 12:6–11; 16:26–27, and in Jewish literature. It is a sign of God's special protection.

i. Western text ' "Did we not expressly forbid you to preach in that name? And now . . ." Then Peter answered, "Which must we obey? God or man?" "God," he said. And Peter then replied, "The God of our ancestors . . ." '

j. The phrase is repeated in 10:39 (see 13:29). It recalls Dt 21:22–23, quoted in Ga 3:13, see 1 P 2:24.

k. The title matches 'Prince of life', 3:15k; it also corresponds to 'leader and redeemer' applied to Moses as a prefiguring of Christ, 7:35 (cf. 7:25). See also Heb 2:10; 12:2. There is an implicit comparison of Jesus with Moses.

l. Cf. 1:8; Mt 10:20 and par.; Jn 15:26–27.

m. Gamaliel I, Paul's teacher, 22:3, belonged to the school of Hillel and was the leading exponent of the more liberal and humane interpretation of the Law. The policy he urges here is in line with that of the Pharisaic party, see 4:1a.

n. Josephus mentions the revolts of Theudas and of Judas the Galilean but the dates he gives seem unreliable. Both must have taken place about the time Jesus was born.

o. A variant introduces the idea of ritual purity '. . . leave them alone and do not dirty your hands. For if . . . God, not only you but kings and tyrants will be powerless to destroy them. Do not therefore touch these men lest you find yourselves at war with God.'

p. The name for whose sake the apostles suffer, cf. 21:13; 1 P 4:14; 3 Jn 7, the name they preach, 4:10,12,17,18; 5:28,40; cf. 3:6,16; 8:12,16; 9:15,16,27,28, and which the Christians invoke, 2:21; 4:12; 9:14,21; 22:16, is the name, i.e. the person, of Jesus, 3:16*l*, the name he received at his resurrection, 2:36w, 'the name above all other names'. This name was 'Lord', hitherto reserved to God, Ph 2:9–11,11p.

q. The good news of the Kingdom, Mk 1:1a, preached by the disciples, Ac 8:4,25,40; 14:7,15,21; 16:10, or the 'gospel', 15:7; 20:24, receives its concrete embodiment for primitive Christianity in the person of Jesus, 8:35, raised by God, 13:32seq.; 17:18; see also 2:23p; 9:20, and become Son of God in power, see Rm 1:1b, Christ, 5:42; 8:12; cf. 9:22, and Lord, 10:36; 11:20; 15:35; see 2:36w.

II: THE EARLIEST MISSIONS

The institution of the Seven

2:41cc;2:45; 4:35;9:29n

6 About this time, when the number of disciples [a] was increasing, the Hellenists 1 made a complaint against the Hebrews: [b] in the daily distribution their own widows were being overlooked. ·So the Twelve called a full meeting of the disciples 2 and addressed them, 'It would not be right for us to neglect the word of God so as Ex 18:17–23 Nb 27:16–18 1 Tm 3:8–10 1:8k Is 11:2c to give out food; ·you, brothers, must select [c] from among yourselves seven men of 3 good reputation, [d] filled with the Spirit and with wisdom, to whom we can hand over this duty. ·We ourselves will continue to devote ourselves to prayer and to the 4 1:14;2:42 service of the word.' [e] ·The whole assembly approved of this proposal and elected 5
Stephen, a man full of faith and of the Holy Spirit, together with Philip, Prochorus, Nicanor, Timon, Parmenas, and Nicolaus of Antioch, a convert to Judaism. [f] ·They 6
13:3 1 Tm 4:14e presented these to the apostles, and after prayer they laid their hands on them. [g]

The word of the Lord continued to spread: [h] the number of disciples in Jerusalem 7 2:41cc Rm 1:5d was greatly increased, and a large group of priests made their submission to the faith.

Stephen's arrest

Stephen was filled with grace and power and began to work miracles and great 8 signs among the people. ·Then certain people came forward to debate with 9 Stephen, some from Cyrene and Alexandria who were members of the synagogue called the Synagogue of Freedmen, [i] and others from Cilicia and Asia. ·They found 10 1:8j Lk 21:15 they could not stand up against him because of his wisdom, and the Spirit that prompted what he said. ·So they procured some men to say, 'We heard him using 11 blasphemous language against Moses and against God.' ·Having turned the people 12 against him as well as the elders and scribes, they took Stephen by surprise, and arrested him and brought him before the Sanhedrin. ·There they put up false 13 witnesses to say, 'This man is always making speeches against this Holy Place and Mt 2:23l •Mt 26:59–61par. the Law. ·We have heard him say that Jesus, this Nazarene, is going to destroy this 14
Place and alter the traditions that Moses handed down to us.' [j] ·The members of 15 Lk 4:20 the Sanhedrin all looked intently at Stephen, and his face appeared to them like the face of an angel. [k]

Stephen's speech

7 The high priest asked, 'Is this true?' ·He replied, [a] 'My brothers, my fathers, 1, 2
Ps 29:3 listen to what I have to say. The God of glory appeared to our ancestor
Abraham, while he was in Mesopotamia before settling in Haran, [b] ·and said to 3 Gn 12:1 him, "Leave your country, your kindred and your father's house for this country which I shall show you." ·So he left Chaldaea and settled in Haran; and after his 4 father died God made him leave that place and come to this land where you are living today. ·God did not give him any property in this land or even a foothold, 5
Gn 12:7c Gn 15:2 yet he promised to give it to him and after him to his descendants, childless though Gn 15:13 he was. ·The actual words God used when he spoke to him are that his descendants 6 would be exiles in a land not their own, where they would be enslaved and oppressed Gn 15:14 for four hundred years. ·"But I will bring judgement on the nation that enslaves 7
Ex 3:12 them," God said, "and after this they will leave, and worship me in this place." [c]
Gn 17:10d Then he made the covenant of circumcision with him: and so when his son Isaac 8
Gn 21:4 was born Abraham circumcised him on the eighth day; similarly Isaac circumcised
Jacob, and Jacob the twelve patriarchs.

Gn 37:11, 28 'The patriarchs were jealous of Joseph and sold him into slavery in Egypt. But 9
Gn 39:2,3, 21,23 God was with him, ·and rescued him from all his miseries by making him so wise 10
Gn 41:40–46 Ps 105:21 that he won the favour of Pharaoh king of Egypt, who made him governor of Egypt
Gn 41:54–55;42:5 and put him in charge of his household. ·Then a famine set in that caused much 11 suffering throughout Egypt and Canaan, and our ancestors could find nothing to 12 eat. ·When Jacob heard that there were supplies in Egypt, he sent our ancestors Gn 42:2

13 there on a first visit; ·and on the second Joseph made himself known to his brothers, Gn 45:1 14 and Pharaoh came to know his origin. ·Joseph then sent for his father Jacob and 15 his whole family, a total of seventy-five people. ·Jacob went down into Egypt and Gn 46:27d
16 after he and our ancestors had died there, ·their bodies were brought back to Gn 23:16;50:13 Shechem and buried in the tomb that Abraham had bought for money from the sons of Hamor, the father of Shechem. [d]

17 'As the time drew near for God to fulfil the promise he had solemnly made to 18 Abraham, our nation in Egypt became very powerful and numerous, ·there came to Ex 1:7,8 19 power in Egypt a new king who had never heard of Joseph. ·He took precautions Ex 1:10,11,22 and wore down our race, forcing our ancestors to expose their babies rather than 20 letting them live. ·It was at this time that Moses was born, a fine child before God. Ex 2:2
21 He was looked after for three months in his father's house, ·and after he had been Heb 11:23seq.
22 exposed, Pharaoh's daughter adopted him and brought him up like a son. ·So Ex 2:5–10
Moses was taught all the wisdom of the Egyptians and became a man with power Lk 24:19 both in his speech and in his actions.

23, 24 'At the age of forty [e] he decided to visit his kinsmen, the Israelites. ·When he Ex 2:11 saw one of them being ill-treated he went to his defence and rescued the man by 25 killing the Egyptian. ·He thought his brothers would realise that through him God Ex 2:12 26 would liberate them, but they did not. ·The next day, when he came across some of them fighting, he tried to reconcile them, and said, "Friends, you are brothers; 27 why are you hurting each other?" ·But the man who was attacking his kinsman Ex 2:13 pushed him aside, saying, "And who appointed you to be prince over us and judge? [f] 28, 29 Do you intend to kill me as you killed the Egyptian yesterday?" ·Moses fled Ex 2:14 when he heard this [g] and he went to dwell in the land of Midian, where he fathered Lk 12:14
Ex 2:15
two sons.

6 a. 'Disciples': a new use of the term, in certain parts of Ac (not before 6:1 nor after 21:16, an indication of the sources used by Luke) to indicate the Christians who are thus associated with the small circle of those first adherents of Jesus who are called by this name in the gospels.

b. 'Hellenists': Jews from outside Palestine; in Jerusalem they had their own synagogues where the Bible was read in Greek. The 'Hebrews' were native Palestinian Jews; their language was Aramaic but in their synagogues the Bible was read in Hebrew. This distinction made its way into the early Church. Missionary initiative was to come from the hellenistic group.

c. var. 'We shall select'.

d. The Twelve represent the number of the tribes of Israel; seven is the number of the gentile 'nations' inhabiting Canaan, Dt 7:1, quoted in Ac 13:19.

e. When the community met for public worship the apostles had two functions: they led prayers and were responsible also for the katechesis (the doctrinal elaboration of the good news).

f. Luke does not call the chosen seven 'deacons', and this term may have been given to the Seven as a title or rank because he twice uses the word diakonia ('service' v. 4; translated 'distribution' in v. 1) see Ph 1:1a; Tt 1:5c. All seven have Greek names; the last is a proselyte, see 2:11n. The hellenistic Christians now have their own organisation independent of the Hebrew group. The functions of the Seven overlap those of the Twelve, for they both preach and baptise. It is possible that the author has smoothed over some bigger disagreement between the two elements in the community which led to this institution of a parallel leadership.

g. Possibly a gesture of the community, cf. 13:1–3, more probably (v. 3) of the apostles.

h. A fresh formula, see also 12:24; 19:20.

i. Probably the descendants of Jews carried off to Rome by Pompey in 63 BC who were sold into slavery and later released.

j. The 'false witnesses' at the trial of Jesus similarly brought the accusation that he 'would destroy the Temple'. There is also a similarity in the climax of the two trials, 7:56–57; Mt 26:62–66. The allegations concerning Mosaic practice will be made in Paul's case also, 15:1,5; 21:21,28; 25:8; 28:17.

k. The sight of an angel induces religious awe, see Jg 13:6. The face of Moses, reflecting the glory of God as he came down from Sinai, produced the same effect, Ex 34:29–35; 2 Co 3:7–18; so also the appearance of Jesus was changed, Mt 17:2; Lk 9:29. The members of the Sanhedrin in their turn witness a transfiguration, that of Stephen as he contemplates the glory of God, 7:55–56. • The narrative, interrupted by the insertion of Stephen's discourse, 7:1–54, is resumed in 7:55. On theophanies, see Ex 13:22; 19:16; 33:20; Mt 17:1; 24:26–31 and notes there.

7 a. The speech opens with a summary of the stories of Abraham and Joseph, vv. 2–16; it goes on to expound the history of Moses, vv. 17–43 (see also the charge made against Stephen, 6:11). With Moses' divine mission of salvation Stephen contrasts the attitude of Israel: rejection, disobedience, faithlessness—traditional themes (see Dt) but here elaborated with the Christian event in mind. When Stephen speaks of Moses he is thinking of Christ whom Moses prefigured: the Jews react now as the Israelites did then. In the history of Israel, Stephen underlines anything which goes against attachment to any particular country, vv. 2–6, against sacrifices, vv. 39–43, and against the construction of a material temple, vv. 44–50, see the accusation of 6:13. The spirit of the hellenised Judaism of the Diaspora is discernible.

b. According to Gn 11:31 the apparition took place at Haran. Stephen follows a non-biblical tradition.

c. Mt Horeb, but Stephen says 'this place' (i.e. the Temple) instead.

d. 'father of Shechem': this detail is taken from Gn 33:19. var. 'from the sons of Hemor son of Shechem', 'from the sons of Emmor at Shechem', 'from the sons of Emmor (inhabitants) of Shechem', v. 16 follows a non-biblical tradition.

e. According to Jewish traditions.

f. By raising up Jesus from the dead God has appointed him 'prince', cf. 5:31, and 'judge', cf. 10:42; 17:31.

g. In Ex 2:15 Moses runs away because he is afraid of Pharaoh; here it is because his compatriots reject him.

Ex 3:1–2 'When forty years were fulfilled, in the desert near Mount Sinai, an angel 30 appeared to him in a flame blazing from a bush that was on fire. ·Moses was amazed 31
Ex 3:4, 6 by what he saw. As he went nearer to look at it, the voice of the Lord was heard, ·"I 32 am the God of your ancestors, the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob." Moses Ex 3:5 trembled and was afraid to look. ·The Lord said to him, "Take off your sandals, 33
Ex 3:7–8 for the place where you are standing is holy ground. ·I have seen the misery of my 34 people in Egypt, I have heard them crying for help, and I have come down to rescue Ex 3:10 them. So come here; I am sending you into Egypt." Ex 2:14 'It was the same Moses that they had disowned [h] when they said, "Who appointed 35 you to be our leader and judge?" whom God sent to be both leader and redeemer through the angel who had appeared to him in the bush. ·It was this man who led 36
Ex 7:3 them out, after performing miracles and signs in Egypt and at the Red Sea and in Nb 14:33 the desert for forty years. ·It was this Moses who told the sons of Israel, "From 37
Am 5:25
·Dt 18:15 among your own brothers God will raise up a prophet like me." [i] ·When they held 38
Dt 4:10,9:10; the assembly [j] in the desert it was he who was with our ancestors and the angel who 18:16
Jn 1:17 had spoken to him on Mount Sinai; [k] it was he who was entrusted with words of Ga 3:19f life [l] to hand on to us. ·This is the man that our ancestors refused to listen to; they 39
Nb 14:3 pushed him aside, went back to Egypt in their thoughts, [m] ·and said to Aaron, 40
Ex 32:1,23 "Make us a god to go at our head; for that Moses, the man who brought us here from Ex 32:4,6 Egypt, we do not know what has become of him." ·It was then that they made the 41 Is 2:8 statue of a calf and offered sacrifice to the idol. They were perfectly happy with something they had made for themselves. ·God turned away from them and 42 abandoned them to the worship of the army of heaven, [n] as scripture says in the book of the prophets:

Am 5:25–27 LXX
> Did you bring me sacrifices and oblations
> those forty years in the desert, House of Israel?
> No, you carried the tent of Moloch on your shoulders 43 > and the star of the god Rephan,
> the idols you made for yourselves to adore, > and so now I am about to drive you into captivity beyond Babylon.

'While they were in the desert our ancestors possessed the Tent of Testimony 44 that had been constructed according to the instructions God gave Moses, telling Ex 25:40 Heb 8:5 him to work to the design he had been shown. ·It was handed down from one 45 ancestor of ours to another until Joshua brought it into the country that had belonged to the nations which were driven out by God before us. Here it stayed Ps 132:5 until the time of David. ·He won God's favour and asked permission to find a 46
1 K 6:2 dwelling for the House [o] of Jacob, ·though it was Solomon who actually built a 47
17:24
Heb 9:11, 24 house for God. ·Even so the Most High does not live in a house that human hands 48 have built: for as the prophet says:

Is 66:1–2
> With heaven my throne 49
> and earth my footstool,
> what house could you build me, says the Lord,
> what place for me to rest,
> when all these things were made by me? 50

Dt 9:13+ 'You stubborn people, with uncircumcised hearts and ears. You are always 51
2 Ch 30:7–8;
36:14–16 resisting the Holy Spirit, [p] just as your ancestors used to do. ·Can you name a 52
Is 63:10 single prophet your ancestors never persecuted? They killed those who foretold
Jr 4:4a
Mt 23:34–35 the coming of the Upright One, and now you have become his betrayers, his 2:23o:3:14j murderers. ·In spite of being given the Law through angels, you have not kept it.' 53
7:38k;13:38
15:10 They were infuriated when they heard this, and ground their teeth at him. 54
Jb 16:9
Ga 6:13

The stoning of Stephen. Saul as persecutor

Lk 1:15k But Stephen, filled with the Holy Spirit, gazed into heaven and saw the glory of 55
Ex 24:16f God, and Jesus standing [q] at God's right hand. [r] ·'Look! I can see heaven thrown 56

57 open,' he said, 'and the Son of man standing at the right hand of God.' ·All the members of the council shouted out and stopped their ears with their hands; then 58 they made a concerted rush at him, ·thrust him out of the city and stoned him.[s]
59 The witnesses[t] put down their clothes at the feet of a young man called Saul.[u] ·As they were stoning him, Stephen said in invocation,[v] 'Lord Jesus, receive my spirit.'
60 Then he knelt down and said aloud, 'Lord, do not hold this sin against them.' And with these words he fell asleep.

Dn 7:13 Mt 8:20h 2:33+ Mt 26:64par.. 64u Heb 13:12e 22:20;26:10 Ga 1:13+ Ps 31:5 Lk 23:46 Lk 23:34 7:58;22:20 Jn 16:2

1 8 [a]Saul approved of the killing.
That day a bitter persecution started against the church in Jerusalem, and everyone[b] except the apostles scattered to the country districts of Judaea and Samaria.[c]
2 There were some devout people, however, who buried Stephen and made great mourning for him.
3 Saul then began doing great harm to the church; he went from house to house arresting both men and women and sending them to prison.

9:1–2;22:4; 26:10–11 1 Co 15:9 Ga 1:13 Ph 3:6 1 Tm 1:13

Philip in Samaria

4 Once they had scattered, they went from place to place preaching the good news. =11:19
5 And Philip went to a Samaritan town[d] and proclaimed the Christ to them.[e] 6:5;21:8 18:5f
6 The people unanimously welcomed the message Philip preached, because they had heard of the miracles he worked and because they saw them for themselves.
7 For unclean spirits came shrieking out of many who were possessed, and several Mt 8:29k
8 paralytics and cripples were cured. ·As a result there was great rejoicing in 2:46jj that town.

Simon the magician

9 Now a man called Simon had for some time been practising magic arts in the town and astounded the Samaritan people. He had given it out that he was someone 10 momentous, ·and everyone believed in him; eminent citizens and ordinary people

h. The Bible does not apply this verb to Moses, but in 3:13–14 it is applied to Jesus. Nor does the Bible give the name 'redeemer' to Moses. The image of Christ shades into that of Moses who prefigured him.

i. A messianic text already cited, 3:22. One other than Moses—the Messiah—is to play a similar part, Mt 16:14c; Jn 1:21t.

j. The word also means 'church', see 5:11b; Mt 16:18g. In Dt 4:10 it denoted the assembly of the chosen people in the desert, cf. the sacred assembly, Ex 12:16; Lv 23:3; Nb 29:1. The Church, the new chosen people, 9:13g, is the heir of the old.

k. Moses acted as mediator between 'the angel' and the people. 'The angel of Yahweh' in the earliest texts is identical with Yahweh as manifesting himself, Gn 16:7c, see also Mt 1:20g. Later, a distinction was made between Yahweh and his angel in order to emphasise the divine transcendence. Thus Moses is represented as in immediate touch not with God but with one or several angels. There are traces of this idea in Ga 3:19; Heb 2:2.

l. To obey the Law is to live, Lv 18:5; Dt 4:1; 8:1,3; 30:15–16,19–20; 32:46–47, quoted in Rm 10:5; Ga 3:12; the Law, therefore, is referred to as 'the statutes of life', Ba 3:9; Ezk 33:15. For the Christian, the gospel preaching is the 'word of life', Ph 2:16; cf. Ac 5:20, i.e. 'the word of salvation', Ac 13:26. Since life springs from God's word, this word is itself 'living', cf. Heb 4:12; 1 P 1:23. And Jesus is himself 'the Word of life': 1 Jn 1:1.

m. See Ex 16:3 and Nb 14:3, see also Ezk 20:8–14.

n. Biblical phrase for the stars, often worshipped as gods, see Dt 4:19; 17:3; 2 K 21:3–5; Jr 8:2; 19:13; Zp 1:5.

o. var. 'for the God'.

p. Who spoke through Moses and the prophets.

q. Standing rather than seated as in Lk 22:69seq., perhaps as a witness to the martyr.

r. Stephen's vision is to be related to his transfiguration, 6:15k.

s. What is described is not the end of a judicial process, but a lynching by the crowd. It may be that this is historically accurate and the elements of a formal legal hearing are due to Luke's intention of showing the death of the first martyr as a parallel to that of Jesus.

t. The false witness mentioned in 6:13–14. It was for the hostile witnesses to initiate the execution of the sentence, Dt 17:7.

u. The future apostle Paul, 13:9f.

v. Fine example of 'calling upon the name of the Lord', 2:21m. Luke stresses by two features, vv. 59–60, the similarity between Stephen's death and the Passion of Jesus.

8 a. Vv. 1–4 are made up of a number of brief remarks: Stephen's burial (v. 2), the natural conclusion of the foregoing narrative; Saul's campaign against the Christians (vv. 1[a] and 3) which links the account of the stoning of Stephen, see 7:58[b], with what appears to be its sequel, namely Paul's conversion, 9:1–30; finally a note on the Church persecuted and scattered (vv. 1[b]–4) which introduces the narrative of Philip's mission, 8:5–40, and that of Peter, 9:32–11:18; v. 4 is picked up again in 11:19. We have here, therefore, a preliminary sketch of the various themes developed in the following chapters up to ch. 12.

b. 'everyone': a very general statement. The persecution in fact seems to have been directed principally against the Hellenists, see 6:1.5, and it was this group, scattered by persecution, that gave the Church its first missionaries, see v. 4; 11:19–20.

c. The second stage of the expansion of the Church, see 1:8. The third will start with the foundation of the church of Antioch, 11:20.

d. var. 'the town of Samaria', 'the town of Caesarea'. The reference is probably not to the town called Samaria, by this time a hellenistic city and known as Sebaste, but to the province: those who are evangelised are the 'Samaritans' in the Jewish sense of the word, i.e. akin in blood and religion but cut off from Israel's community and living in heresy, see Mt 10:5–6c; Jn 4:9e.

e. The Samaritans, too, expected the Messiah, see Jn 4:25.

14:11 alike had declared, 'He is the divine power that is called Great.'[f] ·He had this 11 following because for a considerable period they had been astounded by his 5:42q wizardry. ·But when they came to accept Philip's preaching of the good news about 12
1:5f the kingdom of God and the name of Jesus Christ, they were baptised, both men and women, ·and even Simon himself became a believer. After his baptism Simon 13 went round constantly with Philip and was astonished when he saw the wonders and great miracles that took place.

11:1,22 When the apostles in Jerusalem heard that Samaria had accepted the word of 14
Lk 8:51f God, they sent Peter and John to them, ·and they went down there and prayed for 15
1:5f;10:44 them to receive the Holy Spirit, ·for as yet he had not come down on any of them: 16
1:5f;2:38y; 19:5–6 they had only been baptised in the name of the Lord Jesus. ·Then they laid hands 17
1 Tm 4:14e on them, and they received the Holy Spirit.

When Simon saw that the Spirit was given through the laying on of the apostles' 18 hands, he offered them money, ·with the words, 'Give me the same power so that 19 anyone I lay my hands on will receive the Holy Spirit.' ·Peter answered, 'May your 20
2 K 5:16 Is 55:1 silver be lost for ever, and you with it, for thinking that money could buy what God
Mt 10:8 has given[g] for nothing! ·You have no share, no part, in this: God can see how your 21 heart is warped. ·Repent of this wickedness of yours, and pray to the Lord that this 22 scheme of yours may be forgiven; ·it is plain to me that you are held in the 23
Dt 29:17 Pr 5:22 Jr 4:18 bitterness of gall and the chains of sin.'[h] ·Simon replied, 'Pray to the Lord for me 24 yourselves so that none of the things you have spoken about may happen to me.'[i]

1:8k Having given their testimony and proclaimed the word of the Lord, they went 25 back to Jerusalem, preaching the good news to a number of Samaritan villages.

Philip baptises a eunuch

11:13 Mt 1:20g The angel of the Lord[j] spoke to Philip saying, 'Set out at noon[k] and go along the 26 road that leads from Jerusalem down to Gaza, the desert road.' ·So he set off on 27 1 K 8:41–42 Ps 68:31 Is 56:3–7 Zp 3:10 his journey. Now an Ethiopian[l] had been on pilgrimage to Jerusalem; he was a eunuch and an officer at the court of the kandake, or queen, of Ethiopia; he was
Is 18:7d Jn 12:20 her chief treasurer. ·He was now on his way home; and as he sat in his chariot he 28
1:8j was reading the prophet Isaiah. ·The Spirit said to Philip, 'Go up and join that 29 chariot.' ·When Philip ran up, he heard him reading Isaiah the prophet and asked, 30 Rm 10:14 'Do you understand what you are reading?' ·He replied, 'How could I, unless I 31 have someone to guide me?' So he urged Philip to get in and sit by his side. ·Now 32 the passage of scripture he was reading was this:[m]

Is 53:7–8 Lk 18:31e
Like a lamb led to the slaughter-house, like a sheep dumb in front of its shearers,
he never opens his mouth.
In his humiliation fair judgement was denied him. 33
Who will ever talk about his descendants, since his life on earth has been cut short?

The eunuch addressed Philip and said, 'Tell me, is the prophet referring to 34
Lk 24:27 himself or someone else?' ·Starting, therefore, with this text of scripture Philip 35 5:42q proceeded to explain the good news of Jesus to him.

Further along the road they came to some water, and the eunuch said, 'Look, 36
10:47 here is some water; is there anything to prevent my being baptised?'[n] ·He ordered 38
the chariot to stop, then Philip and the eunuch both went down into the water and 1:5f he baptised him. ·But after they had come up out of the water again Philip was 39
1 K 18:12c Lk 24:31–32 taken away by the Spirit of the Lord,[o] and the eunuch never saw him again but
2:46jj went on his way rejoicing. ·Philip appeared in Azotus and continued his journey, 40
21:8 proclaiming the good news in every town as far as Caesarea.

The conversion of Saul[a]

8:3; =22:4–16 =26:9–18 Ga 1:12–17
9 Meanwhile Saul was still breathing threats to slaughter the Lord's disciples. He 1 went to the high priest ·and asked for letters addressed to the synagogues in 2

Damascus, that would authorise him to arrest and take to Jerusalem any followers of the Way, [b] men or women, that he might find. [c]

3 It happened that while he was travelling to Damascus and approaching the city,
4 suddenly a light from heaven shone all round him. ·He fell to the ground, and then Ezk 1:28
5 he heard a voice saying, 'Saul, Saul, [d] why are you persecuting me?' ·'Who are you, Dn 8:17
Lord?' he asked, and the answer came, 'I am Jesus, whom you are persecuting. [e] Mt 25:40 6, 7 Get up and go into the city, and you will be told what you are to do.' ·The men 1 Co 8:12 travelling with Saul stood there speechless, for though they heard the voice they Dn 10:7 8 could see no one. ·Saul got up from the ground, but when he opened his eyes he 9 could see nothing at all, and they had to lead him into Damascus by the hand. ·For three days he was without his sight and took neither food nor drink.

10 There was a disciple in Damascus called Ananias, and he had a vision in which 11 the Lord said to him, 'Ananias!' When he replied, 'Here I am, Lord,' ·the Lord Gn 22:1a said, 'Get up and go to Straight Street and ask at the house of Judas for someone Ex 3:4 12 called Saul, who comes from Tarsus. At this moment he is praying, ·and has seen [f] 1 S 3:4f a man called Ananias coming in and laying hands on him to give him 1 S 9:15–17 back his sight.'

9:17;28:8
•1 Tm 4:14e

13 But in response, Ananias said, 'Lord, I have heard from many people about this 14 man and all the harm he has been doing to your holy people [g] in Jerusalem. ·He has come here with a warrant from the chief priests to arrest everybody who invokes 15 your name.' ·The Lord replied, 'Go, for this man is my chosen instrument to bring 2:21m
16 my name before gentiles and kings and before the people of Israel; [h] ·I myself will 22:21
17 show him how much he must suffer for my name.' ·Then Ananias went. He entered 15:26; 21:13
Mt 10:22+
the house, and laid his hands on Saul and said, 'Brother Saul, I have been sent by 1 Co 4:9– the Lord Jesus, who appeared to you on your way here, so that you may recover 13,13g 22:14;26:16
1 Co 9:1;15:8

f. Or, less probably, 'that is called Megalleh' (Aramaic for 'Revealing'). Evidently it was thought that Simon's supernatural power issued from some indwelling force of the high God.

g. The Holy Spirit is the gift of God par excellence, see 2:38; 10:45; 11:17; Lk 11:9,13.

h. 'Simony' (trafficking in sacred things) gets its name from this incident.

i. Western text adds 'and he wept bitterly without ceasing'.

j. Angels, see Tb 5:4b; Ep 1:21s, appear in the gospels several times ministering to Jesus and his mission, Mt 4:11 and par.; 26:53; Jn 1:51. In Ac they often minister to the Christian community, 1:10; 5:19; 10:3; 11:3; 12:7–10,23; 27:23. Here, the rest of the narrative refers to 'the Spirit', vv. 29 and 39.

k. Or 'towards the south'.

l. 'Ethiopia' began beyond the first cataract of the Nile: Nubia or the Sudan. It was ruled by queens bearing the title kandake.

m. Quoted from the LXX, here somewhat obscure and deriving from a Hebr. text itself obscure and probably corrupt. On the use of Is 53 in early Christian preaching, see Ac 3:13e.

n. V. 37, omitted here, is a very ancient gloss preserved in the Western text and suggested by the baptismal liturgy 'And Philip said, "If you believe with all your heart, you may." And he replied, "I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God." '

o. var. West. 'the Holy Spirit came down on the eunuch and the angel of the Lord carried Philip away.'

9 a. Crucial event in the Church's history. Luke gives three accounts whose discrepancies of detail are explained by their differing literary forms: the second and third accounts are found in Paul's discourses. See also Ga 1:12–17. • The accounts have echoes of OT vocation narratives (Gn 31:11–13; 1 S 3:4–14), of a theophany (Dn 10:5–9) and of the conversion of another persecutor of God's people (2 M 3:24–40). The incident took place probably in AD 36, about 12 years (14 if we reckon as the ancients did) before the council of Jerusalem, Ga 2:1seq.; see Ac 15, held in 49.

b. The 'Way' is the way of life characteristic of the Christian community. The term is used, by extension, for the community itself. The OT usage, Ps 119:1a, is enriched by the new value of conformity to Christ, Mt 7:13–14; 22:16; 1 Co 4:17; 12:31; Heb 9:8; 10:19–22; 2 P 2:2. Jesus is himself called 'the Way', Jn 14:6d. This unqualified use of the word is peculiar to Ac: 18:25–26; 19:9,23; 22:4; 24:14,22.

c. The Roman authority recognised the high priest's jurisdiction over the members of Jewish communities even outside Palestine; according to 1 M 15:21 this even included right of extradition.

d. Aramaic ('Hebrew', 26:14) form of Saul's name.

e. Whatever is done to the disciples for the sake of the name of Jesus is done to Jesus himself, Mt 10:40.

f. var. 'having had a vision of'. Two corelative revelations, to Paul and to Ananias, see 10:11seq. and 30seq.

g. 'your holy people' lit. 'your holy ones' or 'your consecrated people'. Since God is the Holy One par excellence, Is 6:3, those consecrated to his service are called 'holy', Lv 17:1a. The term, applied originally to the people of Israel, Ex 19:3c,6, and in particular to the community of the messianic era, Dn 7:18m, is especially apt for the Christians who are the new 'holy race', 1 P 2:5,9, called, Rm 1:7; 1 Co 1:2; Ep 1:4; 2 Tm 1:9, by their baptismal consecration, Ep 5:26seq., to a blameless life, 1 Co 7:34; Ep 1:4; 5:3; Col 1:22, which makes them holy as God is holy, 1 P 1:15seq., see 1 Jn 3:3, and like Jesus himself, 'the Holy One of God', Mk 1:24j. In the early community it becomes the usual term for the Christians, in Palestine first, 9:13,32,41; Rm 15:26,31; 1 Co 16:1,15; 2 Co 8:4; 9:1,12, and then in all the churches, Rm 8:27; 12:13; 16:2, 15; 1 Co 6:1seq.; 14:33; 2 Co 13:12; Ep 1:15; 3:18; 4:12; 6:18; Ph 4:21seq.; Col 1:4; 1 Tm 5:10; Phm 5,7; Heb 6:10; 13:24; Jude 3 (and in the introductory formulae of the letters 2 Co 1:1). In Rv 5:8; 8:3 the phrase 'holy ones' is used more specifically of the Christians who witness by their death. At times its application may be restricted to the leaders, the 'apostles and prophets', Ep 3:5 and Col 1:26; Ep 3:8; 4:12; Rv 18:20. Lastly, as in the OT, Jb 5:1a, it may indicate the angels, 10:22; Mk 8:38; Lk 9:26; Jude 14; Rv 14:10, and in some cases it is doubtful whether the reference is to angels or to the saints in glory, Ep 1:18; Col 1:12; 1 Th 3:13; 2 Th 1:10.

h. Cf. Jr 1:10. Paul's mission is 'to all humanity', 22:15, to the gentiles, 26:17; this agrees with what Paul himself writes in Ga 1:16, cf. Rm 1:5; 11:13; 15:16–18; Ga 2:2,8,9; Ep 3:8; Col 1:27; 1 Tm 2:7. On the 'kings', see 26:2a.

Tb 11:10–15 your sight and be filled with the Holy Spirit.'[i] ·It was as though scales fell away 18 from his eyes and immediately he was able to see again. So he got up and was 1:5f baptised, ·and after taking some food he regained his strength. 19

Ga 1:16–17 Saul's preaching at Damascus

After he had spent only a few days with the disciples in Damascus, ·he began 20 preaching in the synagogues, 'Jesus is the Son of God.'[j] ·All his hearers were 21 amazed, and said, 'Surely, this is the man who did such damage in Jerusalem to the 9:2 people who invoke this name, and who came here for the sole purpose of arresting them to have them tried by the chief priests?' ·Saul's power increased steadily, and 22 he was able to throw the Jewish colony at Damascus into complete confusion by 2:36w;18:5,28 the way he demonstrated that Jesus was the Christ.

Some time passed,[k] and the Jews worked out a plot to kill him, ·but news of it 23. 24
2 Co 11:32–33 reached Saul. They were keeping watch at the gates day and night in order to kill Jos 2:15 him, ·but the disciples[l] took him by night and let him down from the wall, lowering 25 him in a basket.

Ga 1:18–19 Saul's visit to Jerusalem[m]

When he got to Jerusalem he tried to join the disciples, but they were all afraid of 26
4:36–37 him: they could not believe he was really a disciple. ·Barnabas, however, took 27 charge of him, introduced him to the apostles, and explained how the Lord had appeared to him and spoken to him on his journey, and how he had preached 13:46gg 5:41p; fearlessly at Damascus in the name of Jesus. ·Saul now started to go round with 28 them in Jerusalem, preaching fearlessly in the name of the Lord. ·But after he had 29 spoken to the Hellenists[n] and argued with them, they became determined to kill =22:17–21 him. ·When the brothers got to know of this, they took him to Caesarea and sent 30 him off from there to Tarsus.[o]

A lull

The churches[p] throughout Judaea, Galilee and Samaria were now left in peace, 31
2:41cc 1 Co 8:1 Ep 4:16 building themselves up and living in the fear of the Lord; encouraged by the Holy Spirit, they continued to grow.

Peter cures a paralytic at Lydda

It happened that Peter visited one place after another and eventually came to 32
God's holy people living down in Lydda. ·There he found a man called Aeneas, a 33 paralytic who had been bedridden for eight years. ·Peter said to him, 'Aeneas, 34 Jesus Christ cures you: get up and make your bed.' Aeneas got up immediately;[q] everybody who lived in Lydda and Sharon saw him, and they were converted to 35
the Lord.

Peter raises a woman to life at Jaffa

13:9f At Jaffa there was a disciple called Tabitha, or in Greek, Dorcas,[r] who never tired 36
Lk 12:33d of doing good or giving to those in need. ·But it happened that at this time she 37
1 K 17:19 became ill and died, and they washed her and laid her out in an upper room.
Lydda is not far from Jaffa, so when the disciples heard that Peter was there, they 38 sent two men to urge him, 'Come to us without delay.'

Peter went back with them immediately, and on his arrival they took him to the 39 upper room, where all the widows stood round him in tears, showing him tunics and other clothes Dorcas had made when she was with them. ·Peter sent everyone 40 Mk 5:40–41 out of the room and knelt down and prayed. Then he turned to the dead woman
3:7 Lk 7:15 and said, 'Tabitha, stand up.' She opened her eyes, looked at Peter and sat up.
9:13g Peter helped her to her feet, then he called in the members of the congregation 41 and widows and showed them she was alive. ·The whole of Jaffa heard about it and 42
many believed in the Lord.

Peter stayed on some time in Jaffa, lodging with a leather-tanner called Simon. 43

Peter visits a Roman centurion [a]

10 One of the centurions of the Italica cohort stationed in Caesarea was called Cornelius. ·He and the whole of his household were devout and God-fearing, [b] and he gave generously to Jewish causes and prayed constantly to God. Lk 7:2,4–5 2:11f Lk 12:33d

One day at about the ninth hour he had a vision in which he distinctly saw the angel of God come into his house and call out to him, 'Cornelius!' ·He stared at the vision in terror and exclaimed, 'What is it, Lord?' The angel answered 'Your prayers and charitable gifts have been accepted by God. [c] ·Now you must send some men to Jaffa and fetch a man called Simon, known as Peter, ·who is lodging with Simon the tanner whose house is by the sea.' ·When the angel who said this had gone, Cornelius called two of the slaves and a devout soldier of his staff, ·told them all that had happened, and sent them off to Jaffa. Lk 18:1 3:1a Mt 1:20g 9:10+ Lk 1:12g 2:14h

Next day, while they were still on their journey and had only a short distance to go before reaching the town, Peter went to the housetop at about the sixth hour to say his prayers. ·He felt hungry and was looking forward to his meal, but before it was ready he fell into a trance ·and saw heaven thrown open and something like a big sheet being let down to earth by its four corners; [d] ·it contained every kind of animal, reptile and bird. ·A voice then said to him, 'Now, Peter; kill and eat!' But Peter answered, 'Certainly not, Lord; I have never yet eaten anything profane or unclean.' ·Again, a second time, the voice spoke to him, 'What God has made clean, you have no right to call profane.' [e] ·This was repeated three times, and then suddenly the container was drawn up to heaven again. Jdt 8:5 Dn 6:11 Lv 11 Ezk 4:14 Gn 1:31+

Peter was still at a loss over the meaning of the vision he had seen, when the men sent by Cornelius arrived. They had asked where Simon's house was and they were now standing at the door, ·calling out to know if the Simon known as Peter was lodging there. ·While Peter's mind was still on the vision, the Spirit [f] told him, 'Look! Some men [g] have come to see you. ·Hurry down, and do not hesitate to return with them; it was I who told them to come.' ·Peter went down and said to them, 'I am the man you are looking for; why have you come?' ·They said, 'The centurion Cornelius, who is an upright and God-fearing man, highly regarded by the entire Jewish people, was told by God through a holy angel to send for you and bring you to his house and to listen to what you have to say.' ·So Peter asked them in and gave them lodging. 1:8j Lk 7:4–5

i. Characteristic Lucan phrase, 2:4; 4:8,31; 9:17; Lk 1:15,41,67, see Lk 4:1b.

j. 'Son of God' corresponds to 'Christ' in v. 22, see Mt 4:3d. We meet the title 'Son of God' only once more in Ac, at 13:33. It is characteristic of Pauline Christology, Rm 1:3–4,9; Ga 1:16; 2:20; 4:4,6; 1 Th 1:10; see also Rm 9:5d.

k. Three years, according to Ga 1:17–18; Paul's stay in Arabia belongs to this period. Luke's statement is vague.

l. var. 'his disciples'.

m. Paul mentions this visit, Ga 1:18–19. He observes that at that time the churches in Judaea did not yet know him by sight, but says nothing of the part Barnabas played. He states that, of the apostles, he saw none but Peter, and James the brother of the Lord; Ac, generalising, speaks vaguely of 'the apostles'.

n. var. 'the Greeks' (i.e. the gentiles); same variant in 11:20. The Hellenist Christians (see 6:1b) are the most active proselytisers, just as the Hellenist Jews were the most active opponents of Christian propaganda, 6:9seq.; 7:58; 9:1; 21:27; 24:19.

o. Where Barnabas later finds him, 11:25. Compare this with 22:17–21 and with Ga 1:18–21.

p. 'the churches' Western and Antiochene texts; 'the Church' Alexandrian text.

q. For similar miracles: 3:1–10 (and 4:22); 14:8–10; Lk 5:18–26 and par.; 13:11–13; Jn 5:1–14.

r. i.e. 'gazelle'. • The miracle is told in such a way as to bring out the similarity with Jesus' raising to life of the little girl ('Talitha') in Mk 5:38–41, see p. 1795.

10 a. For Luke, Cornelius' conversion has a wide application. Its significance for the Church at large appears from the narrative itself and from its emphasis on the two corelative visions of Peter and of Cornelius (as to Paul and Ananias, 9:10–12), but especially from the way the author deliberately links this incident to the decision of the council of Jerusalem, see 15:7–11,14. There seem to be two separate lessons here. First, God himself has made it clear that the gentiles are to be received into the Church without being forced to obey the Law, cf. 10:34–35,44–48[a]; 11:1,15–18; 15:7–11,14; and Ga 2:1–10. Secondly, God himself has shown Peter that he must accept the hospitality of the uncircumcised. The problem of social relations between Christians converted from Judaism and Christians converted from paganism underlies the narrative, cf. 10:10–16,28–29; 11:2–14; and Ga 2:11–21.

b. The expressions 'fearing God', 10:2,22,35; 13:16,26, and 'worshipping God', 13:43,50; 16:14; 17:4,17; 18:7, are technical terms for admirers and followers of the Jewish religion who stop short of circumcision, see 2:11f.

c. lit. 'has ascended as a memorial before God'. The expression recalls the 'memorial' sacrifice, see Lv 2:2,9,16, to which Tb 12:12 compares prayer.

d. Following Western text.

e. Peter is to throw off his scruples of legal purity, 11:9, cf. Mt 15:1–20 and par; Rm 14:14,17. The application is made in 15:9: by faith, God has cleansed the hearts of the gentiles; although their bodies, being uncircumcised, remain unclean. The immediate practical conclusion is that Peter must not fear contact with the uncircumcised, 10:27–28.

f. The intervention of the Spirit is like that of the angel of the Lord, cf. 8:26,29.

g. var. 'Three men', see 11:11.

Next day, he was ready to go off with them, accompanied by some of the brothers from Jaffa. 24 They reached Caesarea the following day, and Cornelius was waiting for them. He had asked his relations and close friends to be there, and as Peter reached the house Cornelius went out to meet him, fell at his feet 25 and did him reverence. 26 But Peter helped him up. 'Stand up,' he said, ' after all, I am only a man!' 27 Talking together they went in to meet all the people assembled there, 28 and Peter said to them, 'You know it is forbidden for Jews to mix with people of another race and visit them; but God has made it clear to me that I must not call anyone profane or unclean. 29 That is why I made no objection to coming when I was sent for; but I should like to know exactly why you sent for me.' Cornelius replied, 'At this time three days ago I was in my house saying the 30 prayers for the ninth hour,[k] when I suddenly saw a man in front of me in shining robes. 31 He said, "Cornelius, your prayer has been heard and your charitable gifts have not been forgotten by God;[l] 32 so now you must send to Jaffa and fetch Simon known as Peter who is lodging in the house of Simon the tanner, by the sea." 33 So I sent for you at once, and you have been kind enough to come. Here we all are, assembled in front of you to hear all the instructions God has given you.'

3:12;14:15 Rv 19:10 11:3;15:9 Ga 2:12,15–16 3:1a Lk 1:13

Peter's address in the house of Cornelius

Then Peter addressed them, 'I now really understand', he said, 'that God has no 34 favourites, 35 but that anybody of any nationality who fears him and does what is right is acceptable to him.[j]

'God sent his word[k] to the people of Israel, and it was to them that the good news 36 of peace was brought by Jesus Christ—he is the Lord of all. 37 You know what happened all over Judaea,[l] how Jesus of Nazareth began[m] in Galilee, after John had been preaching baptism. 38 God had anointed him with the Holy Spirit and with power, and because God was with him, Jesus went about doing good and curing all who had fallen into the power of the devil. 39 Now we are witnesses to everything he did throughout the countryside of Judaea and in Jerusalem itself: and they killed him by hanging him on a tree, 40 yet on the third day God raised him to life[n] and allowed him to be seen, 41 not by the whole people but only by certain witnesses that God had chosen beforehand. Now we are those witnesses—we have eaten and drunk with him[o] after his resurrection from the dead— 42 and he has ordered us to proclaim this to his people[p] and to bear witness that God has appointed him to judge everyone, alive or dead.[q] 43 It is to him that all the prophets bear this witness: that all who believe in Jesus will have their sins forgiven through his name.'

2:22n Dt 10:17f Rm 2:11 Ga 2:6 1 P 1:17 Is 52:7 Na 2:1 Rm 10:12 Lk 4:44k 2:22;4:27j Is 61:1 Mt 3:16n;4:1b; 8:29k 1:8j, k,22; 2:22;4:27j 2:23p 1:3–4 Jn 14:22 Lk 13:31;24: 41–43 2:26w 2:38y;3:16l

Baptism of the first gentiles

While Peter was still speaking the Holy Spirit came down[r] on all the listeners. 44 Jewish believers who had accompanied Peter were all astonished that the gift of 45 the Holy Spirit should be poured out on gentiles too, 46 since they could hear them speaking strange languages and proclaiming the greatness of God. Peter himself then said, 47 'Could anyone refuse the water of baptism to these people, now they have received the Holy Spirit just as we have?' 48 He then gave orders[s] for them to be baptised in the name of Jesus Christ. Afterwards they begged him to stay on for some days.[t]

1:8j;8:16 2:33 2:4h,11 8:36;11:17 1:5f;2:38y

Jerusalem: Peter justifies his conduct

11 The apostles and the brothers in Judaea heard that gentiles too had accepted 1 the word of God, 2 and when Peter came up to Jerusalem the circumcised believers protested to him[a] 3 and said, 'So you have been visiting the uncircumcised and eating with them!' 4, 5 Peter in reply gave them the details point by point, 'One day, when I was in the town of Jaffa,' he began, 'I fell into a trance as I was praying and had a vision of something like a big sheet being let down from heaven by its four corners. This sheet came right down beside me. 6 I looked carefully into it and saw four-footed animals of the earth, wild beasts, reptiles, and birds of heaven.

1:15s;8:14; 15:7 10:28,48t 10:10–48

7, 8 Then I heard a voice that said to me, "Now, Peter; kill and eat!" ·But I answered, 9 "Certainly not, Lord; nothing profane or unclean has ever crossed my lips." ·And a second time the voice spoke from heaven, "What God has made clean, you have 10 no right to call profane." ·This was repeated three times, before the whole of it was drawn up to heaven again.
11 'Just at that moment, three men stopped outside the house where we were 12 staying; they had been sent from Caesarea to fetch me, ·and the Spirit told me to 1:8j have no hesitation about going back with them. The six brothers here came with 13 me as well, and we entered the man's house. ·He told us he had seen an angel standing in his house who said, "Send to Jaffa and fetch Simon known as Peter; 14 he has a message for you that will save you and your entire household." 2:47*ll*;16:15j
15 'I had scarcely begun to speak when the Holy Spirit came down on them in the 10:44t
16 same way as it came on us at the beginning, ·and I remembered that the Lord had 17 said, "John baptised with water, but you will be baptised with the Holy Spirit." ·I 1:5f realised then that God[b] was giving them the identical gift he gave to us when we 15:8–9 believed in the Lord Jesus Christ; and who was I to stand in God's way?'[c] 10:47
Mt 16:23k
18 This account satisfied them, and they gave glory to God, saying 'God has clearly 2:47*ll* granted to the gentiles too the repentance that leads to life.' 13:46seq.; 14:27;17:30; 26:20

Foundation of the church of Antioch

19 Those who had scattered[d] because of the persecution that arose over Stephen 8:1,4 travelled as far as Phoenicia and Cyprus and Antioch,[e] but they proclaimed the 20 message only to Jews. ·Some of them, however, who came from Cyprus and Cyrene, went to Antioch where they started preaching also to the Greeks,[f] pro-21 claiming the good news of the Lord Jesus[g] to them. ·The Lord helped them, and a 2:41cc;13:11 Lk 1:66 great number believed and were converted to the Lord. 3:19n 22 The news of them came to the ears of the church in Jerusalem[h] and they sent 23 Barnabas out to Antioch. ·There he was glad to see for himself that God had given 4:36p grace, and he urged[i] them all to remain faithful to the Lord[j] with heartfelt 13:43;14:22

h. var. 'I was fasting and praying.'

i. This impersonal mode of expression both shows respect for the majesty of God and also alludes to the ministry of angels, see Tb 12:12; Mt 18:11,14; Rv 5:8; 8:3.

j. The language of sacrifice (see v. 4). The unblemished victim and its offerer are both 'acceptable' to God, Lv 1:3; 19:5; 22:19–27. Isaiah (56:7) had prophesied that when the fullness of time came, the gentiles' sacrifices would be 'acceptable' to God; see Ml 1:10–11, cf. Rm 15:16; Ph 4:18; 1 P 2:5.

k. var. 'The word that God has sent'.

l. Vv. 37–42 sum up the gospel story, see 1:21–22; 2:22n, emphasising the same points as Luke brought out in his own Gospel.

m. var. 'It began'.

n. Stereotyped formula of the Christian preaching and faith. It appears as early as 1 Co 15:4 (a first stage of the creed) with the addition 'according to the scriptures'. The formula echoes Jon 2:1 (see Mt 12:40); see also Ho 6:2. It recurs in Mt 16:21; 17:23; 20:19; 27:64; Lk 9:22; 18:33; 24:7,46.

o. add. (Western text) 'and were his companions for forty days after his resurrection from the dead'.

p. i.e. the chosen people, Israel, 10:2; 21:28.

q. Those still alive at the Second Coming and those who have died before the coming but then rise for judgement. Cf. 1 Th 4:13–5:10. By raising up Jesus, God has solemnly invested him as supreme Judge, 17:31; Jn 5:22,27; 2 Tm 4:1; 1 P 4:5; to proclaim the resurrection is therefore to invite people to repentance, cf. Ac 17:30–31.

r. 'The Pentecost of the gentiles'. As Peter notes, v. 47; 11:15; 15:8, it resembles the first Pentecost.

s. It was not usual for the apostles to administer baptism themselves, see 19:5; 1 Co 1:14,17. See also 1 Jn 4:2.

t. That Peter should lodge with the uncircumcised seems to the Jerusalem 'Hebrews' even more shocking and contrary to the Law than that he should authorise their baptism (11:2–3; cf. 10:28). This same question gave rise to the Antioch incident, Ga 2:11seq.

11 a. Western text 'So after some time Peter determined to set out for Jerusalem. After speaking to the brothers and encouraging them, he set out, delivering many sermons throughout the countryside and instructing the people. When he reached them and told them of the favour God had granted, the circumcised brothers remonstrated with him.'

b. 'God' omitted by Western text (because it is Christ who gives the Spirit).

c. Peter explains why he allowed a gentile to be baptised; he does not answer the objection that he had lodged with the uncircumcised, see v. 3, cf. 10:1a. According to Luke, Peter was considered to have been the first to receive gentiles into the Church, in spite of the episode of the Ethiopian eunuch, 8:26–39, and the date of the evangelisation of Antioch to which Luke does not refer till later, vv. 19seq. Against this background the council of Jerusalem, 15:5–29, appears as a kind of sequel to, or repetition of, the discussion in 11:1–18.

d. V. 19 takes up from 8:1 and 8:4 and then presents the founding of the church at Antioch as an immediate sequel to Stephen's martyrdom from which it has been separated by the insertion of the Acts of Philip, 8:5–40, and of Peter, 9:31–11:18. Nevertheless, the narrative presupposes the story of Saul's conversion, 9:1–30, itself a sequel to Stephen's martyrdom.

e. Antioch on the Orontes, capital of the Roman province of Syria, third city of the empire after Rome and Alexandria.

f. var. 'Hellenists', cf. 9:29. • 'Greeks', as opposed to 'Jews', v. 19, includes all the uncircumcised.

g. Not 'Christ', a title more suited to a Jewish audience with its messianic expectation; in preaching to gentiles (Greeks) Jesus was called 'Lord', see 25:26h.

h. The church in Jerusalem enjoyed right of supervision over the other churches, see 8:14; 11:1, and see Ga 2:2b.

i. Apparently a play on the name 'Barnabas', 'son of exhortation', 4:36.

j. var. 'in the Lord'.

devotion; ·for he was a good man, filled with the Holy Spirit and with faith. And a large number of people were won over to the Lord. 24

Barnabas then left for Tarsus to look for Saul, ·and when he found him he brought him to Antioch. And it happened that they stayed together in that church [k] a whole year, instructing a large number of people. It was at Antioch that the disciples were first called 'Christians'. [l] 25, 26

Barnabas and Saul sent as deputies to Jerusalem

While they were there some prophets [m] came down to Antioch from Jerusalem, [n] 27 and one of them whose name was Agabus, seized by the Spirit, stood up and 28 predicted that a severe and universal famine was going to happen. This in fact happened while Claudius was emperor. [o] ·The disciples decided to send relief, each 29 to contribute what he could afford, to the brothers living in Judaea. ·They did this 30 and delivered their contributions to the elders [p] through the agency of Barnabas and Saul.

Peter's arrest and miraculous deliverance [q]

12 It was about this time that King Herod started persecuting certain members 1 of the church. ·He had James the brother of John beheaded, ·and when he 2, 3 saw that this pleased the Jews he went on to arrest Peter as well. ·As it was during 4 the days of Unleavened Bread that he had arrested him, he put him in prison, assigning four sections of four soldiers each to guard him, meaning to try him in public after the Passover. ·All the time Peter was under guard the church prayed to 5
God for him unremittingly.

On the night before Herod was to try him, Peter was sleeping between two 6 soldiers, fastened with two chains, [r] while guards kept watch at the main entrance to the prison. ·Then suddenly an angel of the Lord stood there, and the cell was 7 filled with light. He tapped Peter on the side and woke him. 'Get up!' he said, 'Hurry!'—and the chains fell from his hands. ·The angel then said, 'Put on your 8 belt and sandals.' After he had done this, the angel next said, 'Wrap your cloak round you and follow me.' ·He followed him out, but had no idea that what the 9 angel did was all happening in reality; he thought he was seeing a vision. ·They 10 passed through the first guard post and then the second and reached the iron gate leading to the city. This opened of its own accord; they went through it [s] and had walked the whole length of one street when suddenly the angel left him. ·It was 11 only then that Peter came to himself. And he said, 'Now I know it is all true. The Lord really did send his angel and save me from Herod and from all that the Jewish people were expecting.'

As soon as he realised this he went straight to the house of Mary the mother of 12
John Mark, [t] where a number of people had assembled and were praying. ·He 13 knocked at the outside door and a servant called Rhoda came to answer it. ·She 14 recognised Peter's voice and was so overcome with joy that, instead of opening the door, she ran inside with the news that Peter was standing at the main entrance. They said to her, 'You are out of your mind,' but she insisted that it was true. 15
Then they said, 'It must be his angel!' [u] ·Peter, meanwhile, was still knocking. 16
When they opened the door, they were amazed to see that it really was Peter himself. ·He raised his hand for silence and described to them how the Lord had 17 led him out of prison. He added, 'Tell James [v] and the brothers.' Then he left and went elsewhere.

When daylight came there was a great commotion among the soldiers, who could 18 not imagine what had become of Peter. ·Herod put out an unsuccessful search for 19 him; he had the guards questioned, and before leaving Judaea to take up residence in Caesarea he gave orders for their execution. [w]

The death of the persecutor

Now Herod was on bad terms with the Tyrians and Sidonians. Yet they sent a joint 20 deputation which managed to enlist the support of Blastus, the king's chamberlain, and through him negotiated a treaty, since their country depended for its food 21 supply on the king's territory. •A day was fixed, and Herod, wearing his robes of 22 state and seated on a throne, began to make a speech to them. •The people 23 acclaimed him with, 'It is a god speaking, not a man!' •and at that moment the angel of the Lord struck him down, because he had not given the glory to God. He 2 M 9:9

was eaten away by worms and died. [h] Ezk 28:2
Mt 1:20g

Barnabas and Saul return to Antioch

24 The word of God continued to spread and to gain followers. 6:7h
25 Barnabas and Saul completed their task at Jerusalem [i] and came back, bringing 11:29–30
John Mark with them. 12:12d

III: THE MISSION OF BARNABAS AND PAUL
THE COUNCIL OF JERUSALEM

The mission sent out

1 13 In the church at Antioch the following were prophets and teachers: [a] Bar- 4:36p;11:27m
nabas, Simeon called Niger, and Lucius of Cyrene, Manaen, who had been 13:9f 2 brought up with Herod the tetrarch, and Saul. •One day while they were offering

k. Meaning doubtful. Possibly 'they worked together', 'they were received (by the church)', i.e. were guests of the church.

l. i.e. supporters or followers of Christus (or Chrestus). The nickname shows that the gentiles of Antioch took the title of 'Christ' (anointed) for a proper name.

m. Like the OT prophets, Dt 18:18e; Mt 5:12; 2 P 1:21, those of the NT are charismatics, 1 Co 12:1a, who speak in God's name, being inspired by his Spirit. Under the new covenant this charism is bestowed even more generously, 2:17–18, and at times it is enjoyed by the faithful at large, 19:6; 1 Co 11:4–5; 14:26,29–33,37. But particular individuals are so specially endowed with the charisms that they are always referred to as 'prophets', 11:27; 13:1; 15:32; 21:9,10. These normally occupy the second place after the apostles in the order of charisms, 1 Co 12:28–29; Ep 4:11; but see Lk 11:49; Rm 12:6; 1 Co 12:10; this is because they are the appointed witnesses of the Spirit, 1 Th 5:19–20; Rv 2:7, whose 'revelations' they communicate, 1 Co 14:6,26,30; Ep 3:5; Rv 1:1, just as the apostles are witnesses to the risen Christ, Ac 1:8k; Rm 1:1b, and proclaim the kerygma, Ac 2:22n. They do not simply foretell the future, 11:28; 21:11, or read hearts, 1 Co 14:24–25; see 1 Tm 1:18. When they 'edify, exhort, console', 1 Co 14:3; see Ac 4:36; 11:23–24, they do so by a supernatural revelation; in this they resemble those who 'speak strange languages', Ac 2:1a,4; 19:6, but their gift is greater because their speech is intelligible, 1 Co 14. Their chief work was evidently to explain the prophecies of scripture under the guidance of the Holy Spirit, especially those of the OT prophets, 1 P 1:10–12, and thus expound the 'mystery' of the divine plan, Rm 16:25*l*; 1 Co 13:2; Ep 3:5. For this reason they are named with the apostles as the foundation of the Church, Ep 2:20s. The Revelation of John is a typical example of this NT 'prophecy', Rv 1:3; 10:11; 19:10; 22:7–10,18–19. For all its dignity, the prophetic charism communicates knowledge that is imperfect and provisional, being bound up with faith, Rm 12:6, which is itself destined to vanish in face of the beatific vision, 1 Co 13:8–12.

n. Western text adds 'and there was great rejoicing. While we were together, one of them . . .' If this reading is correct, this is the first of the 'We-sections', see 16:10.

o. In the reign of Claudius (41–54) famine swept through the empire (49–50), through Greece first, and later Rome. Josephus puts it in the time of Tiberius Alexander as procurator (46–48).

p. The apostles are not mentioned, unlike 15:2; they had perhaps left Jerusalem. According to 9:26; 11:29seq.; 15:2, it would seem that Paul made three journeys to Jerusalem before his two visits to Galatia, 16:6; 18:23. Paul himself, however, in Ga 1:18; 2:1seq.; cf. 4:13, mentions only two. The impression produced by Ac arises perhaps from Luke's method of combining his sources. It may be that the journey of 11:29 is the same as that of 15:2. The 'help' which is the purpose of the journey is probably to be distinguished from that which Paul supplied later, 24:17, when the great collection, made at the appeal of the Jerusalem church, was completed, Ga 2:10; cf. Rm 15:31; 1 Co 16:1a; 2 Co 8:4; 9:1,12,13.

12 a. This episode, which 11:30 and 12:25 seem to place at the same time as the visit of Barnabas and Saul to Jerusalem, must in fact have preceded it, for Herod Agrippa I (called 'king' to distinguish him from his uncle Herod Antipas, the tetrarch of the Passion story, and awarded the royal title by Caligula in 37) was not actually king of Judaea and Samaria until 41; he died in 44. The events here described took place, therefore, between 41 and 44. The narrative has been rather clumsily fitted into its present literary context. On miraculous release from prison, see 5:21h.

b. Each one to a soldier on each side.

c. add. 'went down the seven steps'.

d. John Mark is mentioned again in 12:25; 13:5, 13; 15:37,39; he was cousin to Barnabas, Col 4:10. During Paul's captivity in Rome Mark was with him, Col 4:10; Phm 24, and shortly before Paul died he asked for Mark's assistance, 2 Tm 4:11. Mark is also named as an assistant to Peter, 1 P 5:13, and tradition names him as author of the second Gospel.

e. It was popularly believed that guardian angels were a kind of spiritual 'double' of their charges.

f. 'James' without qualification means the 'brother of the Lord'. At the time of Paul's first visit to Jerusalem, Ga 1:19 (i.e. probably in 38–39, see Ac 9:1a) and afterwards, James was leader of the 'Hebrew' section of the Jerusalem Christians. After Peter's departure, he was in charge of the mother church. See 15:13; 21:18; 1 Co 15:7. The Letter of James appears under his name.

g. Soldiers who let their prisoners escape were liable to receive the sentence due to the prisoners, see 16:27; 27:42.

h. The scene of Agrippa's apotheosis is described in splendid detail by Josephus. • var. 'When he had come down from the tribune he became food for worms even while he was still alive; and so he died.' His death resembles that of an earlier persecutor of God's people, 2 M 9:9.

i. var. 'came back from Jerusalem', but this seems to be an attempt to simplify.

13 a. On the 'prophets', see 11:27m. The charism of the teacher, or didaskalos, was his ability to instruct others on matters of morality and doctrine, instruction usually based on the scriptures, cf. 1 Co 12–14 and notes. The five prophets

1:8j Rm 1:1 worship [b] to the Lord and keeping a fast, the Holy Spirit said, 'I want Barnabas and Saul set apart for the work to which I have called them.' ·So it was that after fasting 3 and prayer they laid their hands on them [c] and sent them off.

Cyprus: the magician Elymas

So these two, sent on their mission by the Holy Spirit, went down to Seleucia and 4 from there set sail for Cyprus. [d] ·They landed at Salamis and proclaimed the word 5 9:20;12:12d; 14:1;17:10,17; 18:4,19;19:8 of God in the synagogues of the Jews; [e] John acted as their assistant.
They travelled the whole length of the island, and at Paphos they came in contact 6 with a Jewish magician and false prophet called Bar-Jesus. ·He was one of the 7 attendants of the proconsul Sergius Paulus who was an extremely intelligent man.
The proconsul summoned Barnabas and Saul and asked to hear the word of God, but Elymas the magician (this is what his name means in Greek) tried to stop 8 them so as to prevent the proconsul's conversion to the faith. ·Then Saul, whose 9 8:20–23 other name is Paul, [f] filled with the Holy Spirit, looked at him intently ·and said, 10
Jn 8:44 'You utter fraud, you impostor, you son of the devil, you enemy of all uprightness, will you not stop twisting the straightforward ways of the Lord? ·Now watch how 11
the hand of the Lord will strike you: you will be blind, and for a time you will not see the sun.' That instant, everything went misty and dark for him, and he groped about to find someone to lead him by the hand. ·The proconsul, who had watched 12 Mt 22:33 Lk 4:32 everything, became a believer, being much struck by what he had learnt about the Lord.

They arrive at Antioch in Pisidia

Paul and his companions went by sea from Paphos to Perga in Pamphylia where 13 15:38 John left them to go back to Jerusalem. ·The others carried on from Perga till 14 they reached Antioch in Pisidia. Here they went to synagogue on the Sabbath and 13:5e took their seats. ·After the passages from the Law and the Prophets had been 15 read, the presidents of the synagogue sent them a message, 'Brothers, if you would like to address some words of encouragement [g] to the congregation, please do so.'
Paul stood up, raised his hand [h] for silence and began to speak: 16

Paul's preaching before the Jews [i]

2:22n;10:2b 'Men of Israel, and fearers of God, [j] listen! ·The God of our nation Israel [k] chose 17
Ex 1:7;3–15 Is 1:2 our ancestors and made our people great when they were living in Egypt, a land not their own; then by divine power he led them out ·and for about forty years 18
Dt 1:31 Dt 7:1a took care of [l] them in the desert. ·When he had destroyed seven nations in Canaan, 19
Gn 15:13 he put them in possession of their land ·for about four hundred and fifty years. [m] 20
Ex 12:40–41 After this he gave them judges, down to the prophet Samuel. ·Then they demanded 21
1 S 8–10 a king, and God gave them Saul son of Kish, a man of the tribe of Benjamin. [n]
After forty years, ·he deposed him and raised up David to be king, whom he 22
1 S 13:14 Ps 89:20 Is 44:28 attested in these words, "I have found David son of Jesse, a man after my own heart, who will perform my entire will." ·To keep his promise, God has raised up [o] 23 for Israel one of David's descendants, Jesus, as Saviour, ·whose coming was 24
Mt 3:1–2 Lk 1:76 heralded by John when he proclaimed a baptism of repentance for the whole Mt 3:11par.;11i Jn 1:20–27 people of Israel. ·Before John ended his course he said, "I am not the one [p] you 25 imagine me to be; there is someone coming after me whose sandal I am not fit to undo."
5:20g 'My brothers, sons of Abraham's race, and all you godfearers, this message of 26 salvation is meant for you. [q] ·What the people of Jerusalem and their rulers did, 27
2:23;3:17m 13:14seq.;15:21 Lk 18:31e though they did not realise it, was in fact to fulfil the prophecies read on every Sabbath. [r] ·Though they found nothing to justify his execution, [s] they condemned 28 him and asked Pilate to have him put to death. [t] ·When they had carried out 29 5:30 Lk 24:44 everything that scripture foretells about him they took him down from the tree and buried him in a tomb. [u] ·But God raised him from the dead, ·and for many days he 30, 31 appeared to those who had accompanied him from Galilee to Jerusalem: and it is these same companions of his who are now his witnesses before our people. [v] 1:3 1:8k

32 'We have come here to tell you the good news that the promise made to our 33 ancestors has come about. ·God has fulfilled it to their children [w] by raising Jesus from the dead. As scripture says in the psalms: [x] You are my son: today I have 34 fathered you. [y] ·The fact that God raised him from the dead, never to return to corruption, is no more than what he had declared: To you I shall give the holy 35 things promised to David which can be relied upon. [z] ·This is also why it says in 36 another text: You will not allow your Holy One to see corruption. ·Now when David in his own time had served God's purposes he died; he was buried with his 37 ancestors and has certainly seen corruption. ·The one whom God has raised up, however, has not seen corruption. 2:24–31;13:23 2:36w;9:20j Ps 2:7 Is 55:3 Ps 16:10

38 'My brothers, I want you to realise that it is through him that forgiveness of sins 39 is being proclaimed to you. Through him justification from all sins from which the Law of Moses was unable to justify ·is being offered to every believer. 2:38x 15:11 Rm 1:16+; 3:20g

40 'So be careful—or what the prophets say will happen to you. 28:26–27

41 Cast your eyes around you, mockers;
be amazed, and perish!
For I am doing something in your own days that you would never believe if you were told of it.' [aa] Hab 1:5

and teachers here named represent the governing body of the church of Antioch; compare the list of the Twelve, 1:13, and of the Seven, 6:5. Like the latter, the Antiochene Five are, it seems, Hellenist Jews.

b. Or 'holding a service'; the use of the term for Christian prayer in common puts this on a level with the sacrificial worship of the Old Law, see Rm 1:9g.

c. It seems, to judge by 14:26 (see 15:40), that by this act the community commends to God's grace the new missionaries chosen, v. 2, and sent, v. 4, by the Holy Spirit. The significance of the rite is not, therefore, exactly the same as that of 6:6, by which the Seven receive their commission from the apostles, see 1 Tm 4:14e.

d. Barnabas' native country, 4:36.

e. Paul's regular policy, 17:2, is to approach the Jews first, see 13:14; 14:1; 16:13; 17:10,17; 18:4,19; 19:8; 28:17,23, on the principle that the Jews have first claim, see 3:26; 13:46; Mk 7:27; Rm 1:16; 2:9–10; only after their refusal does Paul turn to the gentiles, see Ac 13:46; 18:6; 28:28.

f. The Jews, and the eastern peoples in general, adopted names familiar in the Graeco-Roman world: John took 'Mark', 12:12, Joseph-Barsabbas took 'Justus', 1:23, Tabitha 'Dorcas', 9:36, Simeon 'Niger', 13:1, etc. Luke has given Paul his Roman name for the first time and does not use 'Saul' again. He also gives prominence now to Paul who is no longer a subordinate of Barnabas but the real missionary leader, v. 13.

g. i.e. a sermon based upon the scriptures, cf. Rm 15:4. The synagogue custom mentioned here was followed also when Christians met for worship: the sermons were preached by the 'prophets' or teachers, see 11:23; 14:22; 15:32; 16:40; 20:1,2; 1 Co 14:3,31; 1 Tm 4:13; Heb 13:22.

h. The conventional gesture of the public speaker in the ancient world, to invite attention and call for quiet; the right hand was held up with the thumb and little finger bent and the other three fingers extended, see 19:33; 21:40; 26:1.

i. The great inaugural discourse of Paul which Luke offers as typical of the apostle's preaching to the Jews. It falls into two parts: vv. 16–25 are a summary of the history of salvation (compare Stephen's sermon, ch. 7) with an appendix recalling John the Baptist's testimony (he is never mentioned in Paul's own letters); vv. 26–39 claim that Jesus who died and has risen is the expected Messiah (thus closely resembling Peter's discourses, though this discourse ends with a suggestion of the Pauline doctrine of justification by faith). The conclusion, vv. 40–41, is a grave warning taken from the scriptures, see 28:26–27.

j. The two classes of listeners: Jews by birth and 'god-fearers', 10:2b.

k. lit. 'the God of this people Israel'.

l. var. 'upheld' (or 'bore with').

m. Western (and Antiochene) text 'For about four hundred and fifty years he gave them judges.' The text is obscure.

n. Paul's own name, and he too was of the tribe of Benjamin, Rm 11:1; Ph 3:5.

o. Or 'raised from the dead'. The Greek verb can mean either, and this ambivalence is exploited in the argument, as in 3:20–26: the 'promise' finds fulfilment in Christ's resurrection, vv. 32–33; see also 26:6–8; moreover, it is by his resurrection that Jesus is established as Saviour, cf. 5:31; see also 2:21; 4:12; Rm 5:9–10; Ph 3:20. Thus the verb which means 'raise up' in v. 22 unequivocally means 'raise from the dead' from v. 30 onwards. In v. 23 it is transitional and ambiguous.

p. var. 'what'.

q. var. 'for us'.

r. Following Western text. Current text 'For those who live in Jerusalem and their leaders did not recognise him or (understand) the prophecies read on every Sabbath: but they fulfilled the prophecies by condemning him.'

s. A recurring element of the Christian plea: the innocence and unjust condemnation of Jesus, see 3:13–14; Mt 27:3–10,19,23–24; Lk 23:14,22,47.

t. 'asked Pilate to have him put to death', alternatively (the textual witnesses vary) 'that (he) should be put to death'; or 'that (they might) put him to death'. var. 'handed him over to Pilate that he might be put to death.'

u. Western text '. . . foretells about him, after he had been crucified they asked Pilate for permission to take him down from the tree, and when they received it they took him down and buried him in a tomb.'

v. This appeal to the testimony of the Galilean apostles is a little surprising on Paul's lips. In his own letters he makes no distinction between their testimony and his own, 1 Co 15:3–11. This is one of the differences between the viewpoint of Ac and that of Paul.

w. var. 'for our children'.

x. Western text 'first psalm' (following the ancient custom of reading Ps 1 and 2 as one); var. 'second psalm'.

y. By his resurrection Christ was enthroned as Messiah, and from then on his human nature enjoyed all the privileges of the Son of God, see Rm 1:4c.

z. A promise of holiness as a gift kept for the messianic era, stemming from the risen Christ, the new David.

aa. The disbelief and rejection of the Jews (cf. Mt 21:33seq.; 22:1seq, 1a) are a favourite theme of Luke, see 13:5e; he uses it again as a conclusion to 28:26–27.

As they left they were urged to [bb] continue this preaching the following Sabbath. 42
10:2b;17:4 When the meeting broke up many Jews and devout converts [cc] followed Paul and 43
11:23;14:22 Barnabas, [dd] and in their talks with them Paul and Barnabas urged them to remain faithful to the grace God had given them. [ee]

Paul and Barnabas preach to the gentiles

The next Sabbath almost the whole town assembled to hear the word of God. [ff] 44
5:17;17:5 When they saw the crowds, the Jews, filled with jealousy, used blasphemies to 45
1 Th 2:14f contradict everything Paul said. ·Then Paul and Barnabas spoke out fearlessly. [gg] 46
13:5e 'We had to proclaim the word of God to you first, but since you have rejected it, since you do not think yourselves worthy of eternal life, here and now we turn to 1:8 the gentiles. ·For this is what the Lord commanded us to do when he said: 47

Is 49:6 Jn 8:12b I have made you a light to the nations, so that my salvation may reach the remotest parts of the earth.' [hh]

2:46jj, 47kk It made the gentiles very happy to hear this and they gave thanks to the Lord for 48
3:15k his message; [ii] all who were destined for eternal life became believers. [jj] ·Thus the 49
6:7h word of the Lord spread through the whole countryside.
10:2b;17:12 But the Jews worked on some of the devout women of the upper classes and the 50 leading men of the city; they stirred up a persecution against Paul and Barnabas 18:6 Lk9:5;10:11par. •2:46jj and expelled them from their territory. ·So they shook the dust from their feet in 51 protest against them and went off to Iconium; but the converts were filled with joy and the Holy Spirit.

Iconium evangelised

13:5e 14 It happened that at Iconium they went to the Jewish synagogue, in the same 1 way, [a] and they spoke so effectively that a great many Jews and Greeks became believers. [b] 1 Th 2:14f (However, the Jews who refused to believe stirred up the gentiles against the 2 brothers and set them in opposition. [c]) 4:29–30;13:46gg 20:24,32 Mk 16:17–20 Accordingly Paul and Barnabas stayed on for some time, preaching fearlessly in 3 the Lord; and he attested all they said about his gift of grace, allowing signs and wonders to be performed by them.
The people in the city were divided; [d] some supported the Jews, others the 4 apostles, ·but eventually with the connivance of the authorities a move was made 5 2 Tm 3:11 by gentiles as well as Jews to make attacks on them and to stone them. ·When they 6 came to hear of this, they went off for safety to Lycaonia where, in the towns of Lystra and Derbe and in the surrounding country, [e] ·they preached the good news. 7

3:1–10 Healing of a cripple

There was a man sitting there [f] who had never walked in his life, because his feet 8 were crippled from birth; ·he was listening to Paul preaching, and Paul looked at 9 him intently and saw that he had the faith to be cured. [g] ·Paul said in a loud voice, 10
'Get to your feet—stand up,' and the cripple jumped up and began to walk.
When the crowds saw what Paul had done they shouted in the language of 11
28:6 Lycaonia, 'The gods have come down to us in human form.' ·They addressed 12
Barnabas as Zeus, and since Paul was the principal speaker they called him Hermes. [h] ·The priests of Zeus-outside-the-Gate, [i] proposing that all the people 13 should offer sacrifice with them, brought garlanded oxen to the gates. ·When the 14 apostles Barnabas and Paul heard what was happening they tore their clothes, [j] and rushed into the crowd, shouting, ·'Friends, what do you think you are doing? We 15 3:12; 10:26 are only human beings, mortal like yourselves. We have come with good news to
2:38x;3:19n; 1 Th 1:9 make you turn from these empty idols to the living God [k] who made sky and earth
17:22, 30 and notes Dt 5:26 Jr 5:24 and the sea and all that these hold. [l] ·In the past he allowed all the nations to go 16 their own way; ·but even then he did not leave you without evidence of himself in 17 the good things he does for you: he sends you rain from heaven and seasons of 18 fruitfulness; he fills you with food and your hearts with merriment.' ·With this speech they just managed to prevent the crowd from offering them sacrifice.

End of the mission

19 Then some Jews arrived from Antioch and Iconium and turned the people against them. They stoned Paul and dragged him outside the town, thinking he was dead. 2 Co 11:25 1 Th 2:14f
20 The disciples came crowding round him but, as they did so, he stood up and went back to the town. The next day he and Barnabas left for Derbe. 2 Tm 3:11
21 Having preached the good news in that town and made a considerable number 22 of disciples, they went back through Lystra, Iconium and Antioch. ·They put fresh heart into the disciples,[m] encouraging them to persevere in the faith, saying, 15:32,41;18:23
'We must all experience many hardships before we enter the kingdom of God.' 11:23;13:43 Mt 10:22;24:13
23 In each of these churches they appointed elders,[n] and with prayer and fasting they commended them to the Lord in whom they had come to believe. Rm 5:3–4 2 Th 1:4seq. 2 Tm 2:12;3:12 Heb 10:36
24, 25 They passed through Pisidia and reached Pamphylia. ·Then after proclaiming
26 the word[o] at Perga they went down to Attalia ·and from there sailed for Antioch, where they had originally been commended to the grace of God for the work they had now completed. ·13:3 ·13:2–3
27 On their arrival they assembled the church and gave an account of all that God had done with them, and how he had opened the door of faith[p] to the gentiles. 15:4,12;21:19 28 They stayed there with the disciples for some time.

Controversy at Antioch

Ga 2:11–14

1 15 [a]Then some men came down from Judaea[b] and taught the brothers, 'Unless you have yourselves circumcised in the tradition of Moses you cannot be 15:5,24 Gn 17:10d
2 saved.' ·This led to disagreement, and after Paul and Barnabas had had a long argument with these men it was decided that Paul and Barnabas and others of the

bb. var. 'When they left they felt it appropriate to'.

cc. 'converts' or 'proselytes', here in the wide sense, is equivalent to 'those who feared God' or 'those who worshipped God', see 10:2b.

dd. add. 'considering it fitting to accept baptism'.

ee. add (Western text) 'And in this way the word of God spread through the whole town.'

ff. var. 'the word of the Lord', or '(to hear) Paul who spoke for a long time about the Lord'.

gg. The 'courage' and 'confidence' of the apostles has been already stressed, 4:13,29,31; Luke repeatedly attributes these qualities to Paul, 9:27–28; 14:3; 19:8; 26:26; 28:31, and Paul himself lays emphasis on them, 2 Co 3:12; 7:4; Ep 3:12; 6:19–20; Ph 1:20; 1 Th 2:2.

hh. LXX text quoted freely. The words may be taken either as referring to Paul himself (cf. 26:17–18), apostle and teacher of the gentiles (cf. Rm 11:13; Ep 3:8; 1 Tm 2:7) or to the risen Christ (cf. Ac 26:23 which also, it seems, is based on Is 49:6; and, cf. Lk 2:32, dependent on Is 49:6): Christ is the light of the gentiles, but since only the apostles' witness can spread this light, see Ac 1:8k, Paul considers this prophecy as a command that he must carry out.

ii. var. 'the word of God'.

jj. 'eternal life', cf. v. 46, i.e. the life of the world to come, cf. 3:15; only those achieve it whose names are 'written in heaven', Lk 10:20, in 'the book of life', Ph 4:3; Rv 20:12h. 'Destined for the life of the world to come' was a common rabbinic expression. In Christian teaching the first prerequisite of this predestination to glory is faith in Christ, see Jn 10:26m; Rm 8:28–30, and earlier in Ac 2:39.

14 a. Or 'together'.

b. V. 1 is continued in v. 3.

c. Refusal to believe becomes in a short time active opposition, cf. 19:9; 28:24 and 9:23; 13:45,50; 17:5–8,13; 18:6,13.

d. Continuation of v. 2.

e. Lystra, a Roman colony, Timothy's home town, see 16:1–2. The events of vv. 8–19 take place in Lystra; Paul is not in Derbe until v. 20.

f. All the MSS have 'in Lystra' but this is evidently an addition, see v. 20[b].

g. Others translate 'to be saved'. The condition for the miracle is faith, see Mt 8:10b; Mk 2:5; 6:5,6. There is a clear parallelism between Paul's miracles and Peter's, and Jesus', see 3:1a and p. 1795.

h. Hermes (the Latin 'Mercury') was the messenger of the gods.

i. His temple was outside the walls.

j. Sign of agonised protest, cf. Mt 26:65.

k. In preaching against polytheism it was customary to contrast the true God with the false, the living God with helpless idols, and to make an appeal for conversion. For a summary of Paul's preaching to the gentiles see Ga 4:9 and 1 Th 1:9–10; cf. Ac 15:19–20; 26:18,20.

l. That God creates the universe shows that he is a living God: this proposition is found in Jewish creeds, cf. 4:24; 17:24; Ex 20:11; Ne 9:6; Ps 146:6; Rv 10:6; 14:7.

m. Cf. Lk 22:32; Rm 1:11; 1 Th 3:2,13.

n. Paul seems to have modelled the structure of his communities on that of any normal Diaspora Jewish community. The first elders in new churches are appointed by the apostles; or, at a later stage, by the overseer whom the apostle has commissioned, Tt 1:5.

o. add. 'of the Lord' or 'of God'.

p. Paul uses a similar metaphor, 1 Co 16:9seq.; 2 Co 2:12; Col 4:3.

15 a. The events of this chapter raise several difficulties: 1 Vv. 5–7[a] repeat vv. 1–2[a] as if the author, having two different accounts of how the controversy started, decided to give both as they stood. 2 V. 6 gives the impression that the community leaders held a private meeting, but vv. 12,22 suggest the debate took place before the whole Christian assembly. 3 The meeting issues a decree about how Christian converts from paganism must observe purity rites, and it entrusts this decree to Paul, vv. 22seq.; later, however (in 21:25), James seems to assume that Paul was then being informed of this decree for the first time. Paul himself does not speak of the decree either in Ga 2:6 (speaking of the Jerusalem meeting) or in Rm 14; 1 Co 8–10 (discussing similar problems). 4 Though the decree of 15:29 was primarily intended for the churches of Syria and Cilicia, 15:23, Luke has nothing to say about Paul's publishing it when he trav-

Ga 2:1–2 church[e] should go up to Jerusalem and discuss the question with the apostles[d] and elders.

20:38;21:5 The members of the church saw them off,[e] and as they passed through Phoenicia 3 and Samaria they told how the gentiles had been converted, and this news was received with the greatest satisfaction by all the brothers. ·When they arrived in 4 Jerusalem they were welcomed by the church and by the apostles and elders, and 14:27b gave an account of all that God had done through them.

Ga 2:1–9 Controversy at Jerusalem

But certain members of the Pharisees' party who had become believers objected,[f] 5 insisting that gentiles should be circumcised and instructed to keep the Law of Moses.[g] ·The apostles and elders[h] met to look into the matter, ·and after a long 6, 7 2:14h discussion, Peter stood up[i] and addressed them.

10:1–11:18 and notes Peter's speech

'My brothers,' he said, 'you know perfectly well that in the early days God made his choice among you: the gentiles were to learn the good news from me and so
1:24 become believers. ·And God, who can read everyone's heart, showed his approval 8
10:44–47; 11:15–17 of them by giving the Holy Spirit to them just as he had to us. ·God made no 9
10:34+;11:12+ distinction between them and us, since he purified their hearts by faith.[j] ·Why do 10
Mt 11:30;23:4 Ga 5:1 Rm 7 Ga 3:10–12 you put God to the test[k] now by imposing on the disciples the very burden that neither our ancestors nor we ourselves were strong enough to support? ·But we 11 believe that we are saved in the same way as they are: through the grace of the Lord Jesus.'[l]

14:27 The entire assembly fell silent,[m] and they listened to Barnabas and Paul describ- 12 ing all the signs and wonders God had worked through them among the gentiles.

James' speech

12:17f When they had finished it was James[n] who spoke. 'My brothers,' he said, 'listen to 13
13:47;18:10 Dt 7:6b me. ·Simeon[o] has described how God first arranged to enlist a people for his name 14
Rm 9:26;15: 9–12;16:26 out of the gentiles. ·This is entirely in harmony with the words of the prophets, 15 since the scriptures say:[p]

Am 9:11–12

> After that I shall return 16
> and rebuild the fallen hut of David;
> I shall make good the gaps in it > and restore it.
> Then the rest of humanity, 17
> and of all the nations once called mine,[q] > will look for the Lord, > says the Lord who made this ·known so long ago.[r] 18

'My verdict is, then,[s] that instead of making things more difficult for gentiles 19
3:19n who turn to God, ·we should send them a letter telling them merely to abstain from 20 anything polluted by idols,[t] from illicit marriages,[u] from the meat of strangled 13:27 animals and from blood.[v] ·For Moses has always had his preachers in every town 21 and is read aloud in the synagogues every Sabbath.'

The apostolic letter

Then the apostles and elders, with the whole church, decided to choose delegates 22 from among themselves to send to Antioch with Paul and Barnabas. They chose Judas, known as Barsabbas,[w] and Silas,[x] both leading men in the brotherhood, and gave them this letter to take with them: 23

'The apostles and elders, your brothers, send greetings to the brothers of 15:1 Ga 2:12 gentile birth in Antioch, Syria and Cilicia. ·We hear that some people coming 24 from here, but acting without any authority from ourselves, have disturbed you

25 with their demands and have unsettled your minds; ·and so we have decided unanimously to elect delegates and to send them to you with our well-26 beloved Barnabas and Paul, ·who have committed their lives to the name of our 27 Lord Jesus Christ. ·Accordingly we are sending you Judas and Silas, who 28 will confirm by word of mouth what we have written. ·It has been decided by the 1:8j;5:32
Holy Spirit and by ourselves not to impose on you any burden beyond 29 these essentials: ·you are to abstain from food sacrificed to idols, from blood, from the meat of strangled animals and from illicit marriages. Avoid these, and you will do what is right. [y] Farewell.'

The delegates at Antioch

30 The party left and went down to Antioch, where they summoned the whole 31 community and delivered the letter. ·The community read it and were delighted 32 with the encouragement it gave them. ·Judas and Silas, being themselves prophets, spoke for a long time, encouraging and strengthening the brothers. 11:27m 33 These two spent some time there, and then the brothers wished them peace and 35 they went back to those who had sent them. [z] ·Paul and Barnabas, however, stayed 14:28 on in Antioch, and there with many others they taught and proclaimed the good 2:42ee;5:42q news, the word of the Lord.

elled through those provinces, 15:41. Luke does mention it when speaking about Lycaonia, 16:4, but the terms of 15:19–21; 21:25 suggest that the decree was for all regions. All these difficulties may be explained by supposing that Luke has combined two distinct controversies and their varying solutions (Paul distinguishes them more clearly in Ga 2). One controversy was about the obligations of convert gentiles to observe the Law, and Peter and Paul both took part, see Ga 2:1–10; the other controversy which took place later was about the social relations between the groups of Christian converts, those from Judaism and those from paganism, see Ga 2:11–14. In this James, in Peter's absence, took the leading part. Any contact with gentiles involved legal impurity for Jews, see 15:20u.

b. In Ga 2:12 there are several of them and they come from James.

c. Ga 2:1–3 mentions Titus who had gentile blood.

d. The apostles, who are not mentioned either in 11:30 or in 21:18, are grouped here with the elders, cf. Ga 2:2–9 where Peter and John are grouped with James, 'brother of the Lord', as authorities in the Jerusalem church.

e. Others translate 'provided them with all they needed for the journey', cf. 1 Co 16:11; Tt 3:13.

f. In the current text there seems to be no connection between the Pharisees' intervention at Jerusalem and the events that happened at Antioch. The Western text links them together 'But those who had told them to go up to the elders then stood up . . .'

g. According to Ga 2:3–5 they are thinking particularly of Titus who had accompanied Paul to Jerusalem.

h. add. (West.) 'and the assembly', cf. v. 12.

i. add. (West.) '(inspired) by the Spirit'.

j. An interpretation of God's message to Peter, 10:15; 11:9; cf. 10:28; Si 38:10.

k. To put God to the test (see 1 Co 10:13f) is to demand from him proof in the form of an intervention or sign, 5:8–10; Ex 17:2,7; Nb 14:22; Dt 6:16; Jdt 8:12–17; Ps 95:9; Is 7:11–12; Mt 4:7seq.; 1 Co 10:9.

l. A straight answer to the assertion in v. 1. The doctrine is that of Rm 11:32; Ga 2:15–21; 3:22–26; Ep 2:1–10. On this score the Jews' position is not privileged, cf. 13:38; Ga 5:6; 6:15.

m. Western text 'When the elders had expressed their agreement with what Peter had said, the entire assembly . . .'

n. Ga 2:9 witnesses to the importance of the part played by James in this matter especially in the controversy over local problems of social relations, see 15:1a and 20u.

o. Semitic form of Simon Peter's name, see 2 P 1:1.

p. The text is quoted according to the LXX; the argument depends on variants peculiar to that version and probably comes from Hellenist circles, though here it is ascribed to the leader of the 'Hebrew' party.

q. lit. 'on whom my name has been invoked' (or 'over whom . . . pronounced'). To invoke the name of Yahweh over a people, see 2 Ch 7:14, or over a place, see 2 Ch 6:34, is to consecrate it to him.

r. lit. 'says the Lord who makes these things known from of old'. var. 'says the Lord who does these things. From of old the Lord knows his work.'

s. James settles the discussion, and the terms of the apostolic letter are those of his own pronouncement. Ga 2:9 also suggests that James at this period occupied the first place in the Jerusalem church, see Ac 12:17f. A variant reduces this impression 'And so, for my part . . .'

t. The meat of animals killed for heathen sacrifice, cf. v. 29 and 21:25, see also 1 Co 8:10.

u. This word refers to all the irregular marriages listed in Lv 18.

v. Western text omits 'the meat of strangled animals' and adds, after 'blood': 'and not to do to others what one would not have done to oneself' (so also in v. 29). Another omits 'impurity'. The ritual exceptions mentioned by James show clearly the sort of thing that was at issue and answer the question asked in 11:3 and Ga 2:12–14: what gentile Christians must do for Judaeo-Christians to mix with them without incurring legal impurity. James decides to keep only those prescriptions for purity that have a fundamentally religious meaning: 1 To eat idol-meats implies sharing in sacrilegious worship, see 1 Co 8–10. 2 Blood symbolises life, and that belongs to God alone. The severity with which the Law forbids it, Lv 1:5e, explains the Jews' reluctance to dispense gentiles from this prohibition. 3 As blood remains in strangled animals, this is part of the previous prohibition. 4 The mention of irregular marriages is included here only because they involved legal impurity, not by way of moral judgement.

w. Not mentioned elsewhere, see 1:23.

x. Silas, missionary companion of Paul, 15:40–18:5, is the same as the Silvanus mentioned in 2 Co 1:19; 1 Th 1:1; 2 Th 1:1; 1 P 5:12.

y. Western text adds 'under the guidance of the Holy Spirit'.

z. Western text adds v. 34 'But Silas decided to stay there'. Several MSS further add 'Judas set out by himself.'

IV: PAUL'S MISSIONS

Paul separates from Barnabas and recruits Silas

On a later occasion Paul said to Barnabas, 'Let us go back and visit the brothers in 36 all the towns where we preached the word of the Lord, so that we can see how they 12:12d are doing.' •Barnabas suggested taking John Mark, •but Paul was not in favour of 37, 38 13:13 taking along the man who had deserted them in Pamphylia and had refused to share in their work.

There was sharp disagreement so that they parted company, and Barnabas sailed 39
14:26;15:22x off with Mark to Cyprus. •Before Paul left, he chose Silas to accompany him and 40
13:3 was commended by the brothers to the grace of God. [aa]

Lycaonia: Paul recruits Timothy

14:22m He travelled through Syria and Cilicia, consolidating the churches. [bb] 41

2 Tm 1:5;3:15 16 From there he went to Derbe, and then on to Lystra, where there was a 1 disciple called Timothy,[a] whose mother was Jewish and had become a believer; but his father was a Greek. •The brothers at Lystra and Iconium spoke 2 well of him, •and Paul, who wanted to have him as a travelling companion, had 3 him circumcised. This was on account of the Jews in the locality[b] where everyone knew his father was a Greek.

15:23–29 As they visited one town after another, they passed on the decisions reached by 4 the apostles and elders in Jerusalem, with instructions to observe them.[c]

14:22m •2:41cc So the churches grew strong in the faith, as well as growing daily in numbers. 5

The crossing into Asia Minor

Ga 4:13–15 They travelled through Phrygia and the Galatian country,[d] because they had been 6 told by the Holy Spirit not to preach the word in Asia. •When they reached the 7 Rm 8:9 Ph 1:19 1 P 1:11 frontier of Mysia they tried to go into Bithynia, but as the Spirit of Jesus[e] would not allow them, •they went through[f] Mysia and came down to Troas. 8

10:9–23 One night Paul had a vision: a Macedonian appeared and kept urging him in 9 these words, 'Come across to Macedonia and help us.' •Once he had seen this 10 vision we[g] lost no time in arranging a passage to Macedonia, convinced that God had called us to bring them the good news.

Arrival at Philippi

Sailing from Troas we made a straight run for Samothrace; the next day for 11
Neapolis, •and from there for Philippi, a Roman colony and the principal city of 12 13:5e that district of Macedonia.[h] •After a few days in this city we went outside the 13 gates beside a river as it was the Sabbath and this was a customary place for prayer.[i] We sat down and preached to the women who had come to the meeting.
One of these women was called Lydia, a woman from the town of Thyatira who 14 10:2b was in the purple-dye trade, and who revered God. She listened to us, and the Lord opened her heart to accept what Paul was saying. •After she and her household 15 1:5f had been baptised[j] she kept urging us, 'If you judge me a true believer in the Lord,'
10:48 she said, 'come and stay with us.' And she would take no refusal.[k]

Imprisonment of Paul and Silas

It happened one day that as we were going to prayer, we were met by a slave-girl 16 who was a soothsayer[l] and made a lot of money for her masters by foretelling the 19:15 Mt 8:29k future. •This girl started following Paul and the rest of us and shouting, 'Here are 17 the servants of the Most High God; they have come to tell you how to be saved!'
She did this day after day until Paul was exasperated and turned round and said 18 3:16l Mk 1:25–26+; 16:17 to the spirit, 'I order you in the name of Jesus Christ to leave that woman.' The spirit went out of her then and there.

19 When her masters saw that there was no hope of making any more money out of 19:24–27 her, they seized Paul and Silas and dragged them into the market place before the 20 authorities. ·Taking them before the magistrates they said, 'These people are 21 causing a disturbance in our city. They are Jews ·and are advocating practices 24:5a 22 which it is unlawful for us as Romans to accept or follow.'[m] ·The crowd joined in and showed its hostility to them, so the magistrates had them stripped and ordered Ph 1:30
1 Th 2:2
23 them to be flogged. ·They were given many lashes and then thrown into prison, 2 Co 6:5;11:25 24 and the gaoler was told to keep a close watch on them. ·So, following such instructions, he threw them into the inner prison and fastened their feet in the stocks.

The miraculous deliverance of Paul and Silas

25 In the middle of the night Paul and Silas were praying and singing God's praises, Col 3:16
26 while the other prisoners listened. ·Suddenly there was an earthquake that shook 4:31 the prison to its foundations. All the doors flew open and the chains fell from all 12:6–11 27 the prisoners. ·When the gaoler woke and saw the doors wide open he drew his 12:18–19;27:42 sword and was about to commit suicide, presuming that the prisoners had escaped.
28 But Paul shouted at the top of his voice, 'Do yourself no harm; we are all here.'
29 He called for lights, then rushed in, threw himself trembling[n] at the feet of Paul 30 and Silas, ·and escorted them out, saying, 'Sirs, what must I do to be saved?'
31 They told him, 'Become a believer in the Lord Jesus, and you will be saved, and 2:21m;16:15k
32 your household too.' ·Then they preached the word of the Lord[o] to him and to all 33 his household. ·Late as it was, he took them to wash their wounds, and was 34 baptised then and there with all his household. ·Afterwards he took them into his 1:5f;8:36,38 house and gave them a meal, and the whole household celebrated their conversion 2:46jj to belief in God.
35 When it was daylight the magistrates sent the lictors with the order: 'Release
36 those men.'[p] ·The gaoler reported the message to Paul, 'The magistrates have sent 37 an order for your release; you can go now and be on your way.'[q] ·'What!' Paul replied. 'Without trial they gave us a public flogging, though we are Roman 22:25 citizens,[r] and threw us into prison, and now they want to send us away on the quiet!
Oh no! They must come and escort us out themselves.'
38 The lictors reported this to the magistrates, who were terrified when they heard 22:29
39 they were Roman citizens. ·They came and urged them to leave the town.[s]

aa. var. 'the grace of the Lord'.

bb. Western text adds 'passing on to them the injunctions of the elders', see 16:4.

16 a. Timothy became Paul's constant companion, see 17:14seq.; 18:5; 19:22; 20:4; Rm 16:21; 1 Co 4:17; 16:10; 2 Co 1:19; 1 Th 3:2,6. 1 Tm and 2 Tm are 'pastoral epistles' in the form of letters addressed to him.

b. Paul opposed circumcision for converts from the gentiles, Ga 2:3; 5:1–12, but Timothy had a Jewish mother and so, by Jewish law, was an Israelite.

c. This editorial note is consistent with the general impression given in ch. 15 that the decree of the council of Jerusalem was made in the presence of Peter and Paul; but see 15:1a.

d. Galatia strictly so called, see p. 1856. When he left Iconium, therefore, Paul intended to travel westwards to Ephesus. But the Spirit intervened and he turned north into Phrygia, then in a northwesterly direction to 'Galatian country', where illness kept him for a time, Ga 4:13–15, preached the gospel in these places and returned later to visit the disciples there, Ac 18:23.

e. om. 'of Jesus'.

f. Preferable to 'they skirted'.

g. Sudden transition to first person plural: the first 'We-section' of Ac. but see 11:27n, see also p. 1793.

h. Philippi, a town in the principal district of the province of Macedonia; it had become a Roman colony and was a Latin city populated largely by veterans of the army, its administration modelled on that of Rome.

i. The Jews had no synagogue in Philippi; they would meet by the side of the River (for ritual ablutions).

j. Lydia's conversion brought her household to the faith; cf. 10:44; 16:31,34; 18:8; 1 Co 1:16.

k. Unusual for Paul: see 20:33–35; 1 Co 9; 1 Th 2:9; 2 Th 3:8, though on a later occasion the Philippians persuaded him to accept help again, see Ph 4:10–18. He would have accepted it from no one else; it is the greatest compliment to the charity of Lydia and of the other Philippian Christians.

l. lit. 'who had a Python-spirit', so called from the serpent Python of the ancient Delphic oracle.

m. The practices referred to are Jewish, see 6:14; 15:1; 21:21; 26:3; 28:17; Jn 19:40; the accusers make no distinction between Christian and Jew. The precise charge is proselytism: though the Jews were allowed to practise their religion, they had no right to proselytise Romans. Christian propaganda could therefore be against the law.

n. This new fear comes from his realising that he has treated as criminals men who are envoys of God.

o. var. 'the word of God'.

p. var. 'When it was daylight the magistrates met in the market place; remembering the earthquake that had taken place they were afraid and sent the officers to say, "Release the men you arrested yesterday." '

q. add. 'in peace'.

r. The lex Porcia forbade (under heavy penalties) the scourging of a Roman citizen.

s. Alex. (and Antiochene) text 'They came to apologise, and when they had taken them out they asked them to leave the town.' Western text 'And going with a number of friends to the prison, they urged them to go out, saying, "We had

From the prison they went to Lydia's house where they saw all the brothers and 40 gave them some encouragement; then they left.

Thessalonica: difficulties with the Jews

17 Passing through Amphipolis and Apollonia, they eventually reached Thes- 1
13:5e salonica, where there was a Jewish synagogue. ·Paul as usual went in and 2
Lk 24:25–27, 44–47 for three consecutive Sabbaths developed the arguments from scripture for them,
2:23p;18:5f explaining and proving how it was ordained that the Christ should suffer and rise 3 from the dead. 'And the Christ', he said, 'is this Jesus whom I am proclaiming to you.' ·Some of them [a] were convinced and joined Paul and Silas, and so did a great 4 10:2b many godfearing people and Greeks, [b] as well as a number of the leading women.
13:45+ 1 Th 2:14f The Jews, full of resentment, enlisted the help of a gang from the market place, 5 stirred up a crowd, and soon had the whole city in an uproar. They made for Jason's house, [c] hoping to bring them before the People's Assembly; ·however, 6 they found only Jason and some of the brothers, and these they dragged before the 24:5 city council, shouting, 'The people who have been turning the whole world upside 25:8 Lk 23:2 down have come here now; ·they have been staying at Jason's. They have broken 7
Jn 19:12–15 Caesar's edicts by claiming that there is another king, [d] Jesus.' ·Hearing this, the 8 citizens and the city councillors were alarmed, ·and they made Jason and the rest 9 give security before setting them free.

Fresh difficulties at Beroea

When it was dark the brothers immediately sent Paul and Silas away to Beroea, [e] 10
13:5e where they went to the Jewish synagogue as soon as they arrived. ·Here the Jews 11 were more noble-minded than those in Thessalonica, and they welcomed the word Jn 5:39 very readily; every day they studied the scriptures to check whether it was true.
Many of them became believers, and so did many Greek women of high standing 12 and a number of the men.

When the Jews of Thessalonica came to learn that the word of God was being 13 13:50;14:2c preached by Paul in Beroea as well, they went there to make trouble and stir up the people. ·So the brothers arranged for Paul to go immediately as far as the coast, 14 leaving Silas and Timothy behind. ·Paul's escort took him as far as Athens, and 15 went back with instructions for Silas and Timothy to rejoin Paul as soon as they could. [f]

Paul in Athens

Paul waited for them in Athens and there his whole soul was revolted at the sight of 16
13:5e a city given over to idolatry. [g] ·In the synagogue he debated with the Jews and the 17 10:2b godfearing, and in the market place he debated every day with anyone whom he met. [h] ·Even a few Epicurean and Stoic philosophers [i] argued with him. 18
Some said, 'What can this parrot mean?' [j] And, because he was preaching about Jesus and Resurrection, [k] others said, 'He seems to be a propagandist for some outlandish gods.'

They got him to accompany them to the Areopagus, [l] where they said to him, 19
'Can we know what this new doctrine is that you are teaching? ·Some of the things 20 28:22 you say seemed startling to us and we would like to find out what they mean.'
The one amusement the Athenians and the foreigners living there seem to have 21 is to discuss and listen to the latest ideas.

So Paul stood before the whole council of the Areopagus and made this speech: 22

Paul's speech before the council of the Areopagus [m]

'Men of Athens, I have seen for myself how extremely scrupulous you are in all religious matters, ·because, as I strolled round looking at your sacred monuments, 23
I noticed among other things an altar inscribed: To An Unknown God. [n] In fact, Jn 4:22 the unknown God you revere is the one I proclaim to you.
14:15l
Is 42:5 'Since the God who made the world and everything in it is himself Lord of 24 heaven and earth, he does not make his home in shrines made by human hands. 7:48–50 25 Nor is he in need of anything, that he should be served by human hands; [o] on the 1 K 8:27 contrary, it is he who gives everything—including life and breath—to everyone. 2 M 14:35 26 From one single principle [p] he not only created the whole human race so that they Ps 50:12 could occupy the entire earth, but he decreed the times and limits of their habita- Gn 2:7e 27 tion. [q] •And he did this so that they might seek the deity [r] and, by feeling their way 2 M 7:23 28 towards him, succeed in finding him; and indeed he is not far from any of us, •since •Gn 1:27seq.

it is in him that we live, and move, and exist, [s] as indeed some of your own writers [t] Gn 10 have said: Dt 32:8
•Dt 4:29
Ws 13:6
Is 55:6
•Ps 145:18
Rm 1:19

We are all his children. [u] 2 P 1:4
Jn 1:12j
2 Co 3:18

29 'Since we are the children of God, we have no excuse for thinking that the deity 19:26 looks like anything in gold, silver or stone that has been carved and designed Rm 1:22–23
by a man. [v]

30 'But now, overlooking the times of ignorance, God is telling everyone every- Rm 3:25–26
31 where that they must repent, •because he has fixed a day when the whole world 2:38x will be judged in uprightness [w] by a man he has appointed. And God has publicly Lk 24:27 proved this by raising him from the dead.' [x] 10:42q

32 At this mention of rising from the dead, some of them burst out laughing; others
33 said, 'We would like to hear you talk about this another time.' [y] •After that Paul 24:25 34 left them, •but there were some who attached themselves to him and became not realised what you wanted and that you were holy men." When they had taken them out, they begged them, "Get out of this town in case those who shouted against you get another mob together." '

17 a. Aristarchus, one of Paul's most faithful companions, see 20:4; Col 4:10, was probably one of them.

b. var. 'Greek worshippers of God'. The reading here preferred distinguishes 'those who worship God', 10:2b, from 'Greeks' not previously influenced by Jewish proselytism. Most of the conversions in Thessalonica were made from the gentiles, see 1 Th 1:9–10.

c. Possibly the Jason of Rm 16:21.

d. Actually, the Christians deliberately avoided calling Jesus by the emperor's title basileus ('king'); they preferred 'Christ' (Messiah) and 'Lord'.

e. Despite their departure the persecution in Thessalonica went on, cf. 1 Th 2:14.

f. Luke is summarising and simplifying. Timothy must have gone with Paul because Paul later sends him from Athens to Thessalonica, 1 Th 3:1seq.

g. Athens was the intellectual metropolis of Hellenism and to Luke was a symbol. This is evident from the fact that Paul's sermon there, the only sample of his preaching to gentiles, is the only one in which he combats paganism by the use of secular wisdom.

h. The one explicit mention in Ac of this kind of preaching (though cf. 14:7seq.).

i. Representatives of the two prevailing philosophical systems.

j. lit. 'What does this seed-picker want to say?' The local Athenian word spermologos was used of birds that peck, crows, etc. It came to mean 'beggar', one who picks up food wherever he can find it, and also a garrulous man who speaks in clichés, parrot-wise.

k. Cf. v. 32. They assume Anastasis ('Resurrection') is the name of a goddess, consort of Jesus.

l. A hill to the south of the Agora. The word means also the Athenian supreme council which held its sessions there. The text may be understood in two ways: either the philosophers lead Paul 'on to (the hill of) the Areopagus', away from the city centre for easier listening, or (preferably) they lead him 'before (the council of) the Areopagus'.

m. After a solemn introduction, vv. 22–23, Paul develops his proclamation of the true God by opposition to gentile conceptions: 1 God created the universe, so one cannot suppose that he lives in a temple or needs the worship he is given, vv. 24–25. 2 God created humans and surrounds them with favours; it is absurd to assimilate him to material objects such as statues, vv. 26–29. The speech ends with a call to repentance in the perspective of judgement, vv. 30–31. Both parts of the speech are aimed against idolatry. Paul draws on the habitual arguments of monotheistic propaganda used in Hellenistic Judaism.

n. The Greeks used to dedicate altars 'to the unknown gods' to placate divinities whose names they did not know. Paul turns the practice to his own purpose and thus parries the biblical sense of ignorance of the heathen who do not acknowledge God, Jb 18:21; Ws 13:1; 14:22; Jr 10:25; 1 Co 15:34; Ga 4:8; Ep 4:17–19; 1 Th 4:5; 2 Th 1:8; 1 P 1:14. He thus avoids the charge of preaching outlandish gods.

o. This idea was common in Greek thought and Hellenistic Judaism; it is a form of the old biblical theme in 1 Ch 29:10seq.; Ps 50:9–13; Am 5:21seq.

p. var. 'of one blood', 'of one nation', 'of one race'.

q. The 'times' suggest primarily the seasons, whose regular return provides nourishment, 14:17; cf. Gn 1:14; Ws 7:18; Si 33:8; the 'limits' of human habitation are probably those which divide the habitable world from the waters of the abyss, Gn 1:9–10; Jb 38:8–11; Ps 104:9; Pr 8:28–29; cf. Ps 74:17; Jr 5:22–24. According to another explanation it is a matter of the times and limits which God has allotted to different nations, Gn 10; Dt 32:8seq. In any case it is a question of order in the universe, which leads to knowledge of God.

r. var. 'God' or 'the Lord'.

s. Expression suggested by the poet Epimenides of Cnossos (sixth c. BC).

t. lit. 'of your people'. var. 'of your poets' or 'of your sages'.

u. Quotation from the Phainomena of Aratus, a poet of Cilician origin (third c. BC). Cleanthes the Stoic (third c.) used almost identical language. Jewish monotheistic preaching here invoked the fact that man was created in the image and likeness of God, Gn 1:26–27; Ws 2:23; Si 17:1–8, to highlight the absurdity of idolatry.

v. This form of attack on idolatry has ancient precedent, see Is 40:20m.

w. Cf. Ps 9:8; 96:13; 98:9. The apostles set their appeal for repentance against the background of judgement, cf. especially 10:42–43; 1 Th 1:10.

x. Christ's resurrection justifies belief in his coming as judge and Saviour at the end of time, see Rm 14:9; 2 Tm 4:1; 1 P 4:5.

y. In the Greek world, even among Christians, the doctrine of the resurrection met stubborn resistance from preconceived ideas, see 1 Co 15:12seq. The Jerusalem Sanhedrists condemned and attacked this Christian dogma; the Athenians of the Areopagus were content to mock. Paul's failure in Athens was all but complete; from now on he refuses to use the devices of Greek philosophy, 1 Co 2:1–5.

believers, among them Dionysius the Aeropagite[c] and a woman called Damaris, and others besides.

Foundation of the church of Corinth

18 After this Paul left Athens and went to Corinth,[a] ·where he met a Jew 1, 2 called Aquila whose family came from Pontus. He and his wife Priscilla[b] had recently left Italy because an edict of Claudius had expelled all the Jews from Rome.[c] Paul went to visit them, ·and when he found they were tentmakers, of the 3 20:33–35 same trade as himself, he lodged with them, and they worked together.[d] ·Every 4
1 Co 4:12
13:5k Sabbath he used to hold debates in the synagogues, trying to convert Jews as well as Greeks.

17:15 After Silas and Timothy had arrived from Macedonia,[e] Paul devoted all his time 5
1 Th 3:5–7 to preaching, declaring to the Jews that Jesus was the Christ.[f] ·When they turned 6 13:51+ against him and started to insult him, he took his cloak and shook it out in front of 20:26 them,[g] saying, 'Your blood be on your own heads; from now on I will go to the Ne 5:13
Ezk 18:13;33:4 gentiles with a clear conscience.' ·Then he left the synagogue and moved to the 7
Mt 27:24–25
·13:5k,46– house next door that belonged to a worshipper of God called Justus.[h] ·Crispus, 8 47;28:8 president of the synagogue, and his whole household, all became believers in the 16:15j Lord. Many Corinthians who had heard him became believers and were baptised.[i]
1 Co 1:14
10:2b One night the Lord spoke to Paul in a vision, 'Be fearless; speak out and do not 9
1:5f keep silence: ·I am with you. I have so many people that belong to me in this city 10
23:11 that no one will attempt to hurt you.' ·So Paul stayed there preaching the word of 11
Jr 1:8
1 Co 2:3 God among them for eighteen months.
Jn 10:16

The Jews take Paul to court

1 Th 2:14f But while Gallio was proconsul of Achaia,[j] the Jews made a concerted attack on 12
Paul and brought him before the tribunal, saying, ·'We accuse this man of persuad- 13
ing people to worship God in a way that breaks the Law.'[k] ·Before Paul could open 14 his mouth, Gallio said to the Jews, 'Listen, you Jews. If this were a misdemeanour or a crime, it would be in order for me to listen to your plea; ·but if it is only 15
23:29;25: quibbles about words and names, and about your own Law, then you must deal 18–19
Jn 18:31 with it yourselves—I have no intention of making legal decisions about these things.' ·Then he began to hustle them out of the court, ·and at once they all turned 16, 17 on Sosthenes,[l] the synagogue president, and beat him in front of the tribunal.
Gallio refused to take any notice at all.

Return to Antioch and departure for the third journey

After staying on for some time, Paul took leave of the brothers and sailed for 18
Rm 16:1 Syria,[m] accompanied by Priscilla and Aquila. At Cenchreae he had his hair cut off, because of a vow he had made.[n]

13:5e When they reached Ephesus, he left them, but first he went alone to the 19
10:48 synagogue to debate with the Jews. ·They asked him to stay longer, but he 20 declined, ·though when he took his leave he said, 'I will come back another time, 21 1 Co 4:19 God willing.' Then he sailed from Ephesus.
Jm 4:15

He landed at Caesarea and went up to greet the church.[o] Then he came down to 22
Antioch ·where he spent a short time before continuing his journey through the 23 16:6d Galatian country and then through Phrygia, encouraging all the followers.
14:22m

Apollos

19:1 An Alexandrian Jew named Apollos[p] now arrived in Ephesus. He was an eloquent 24 man, with a sound knowledge of the scriptures, and yet, ·though he had been given 25 9:2b instruction in the Way of the Lord and preached with great spiritual fervour and was accurate in all the details he taught about Jesus, he had experienced only the 19:3–5 baptism of John. ·He began to teach fearlessly in the synagogue and, when Priscilla 26
13:46gg and Aquila heard him, they attached themselves to him and gave him more detailed 9:2b instruction about the Way.[q]

27 When Apollos thought of crossing over to Achaia, the brothers encouraged him and wrote asking the disciples to welcome him. [r] When he arrived there he was 28 able by God's grace to help the believers considerably ·by the energetic way he refuted the Jews in public, demonstrating from the scriptures that Jesus was 9:22
the Christ. 18:5f

The disciples of John at Ephesus

1 19 It happened that while Apollos was in Corinth, [a] Paul made his way overland
2 as far as Ephesus, [b] where he found a number of disciples. ·When he asked,
'Did you receive the Holy Spirit when you became believers?' they answered, 'No, 8:15–17
3 we were never even told there was such a thing as a Holy Spirit.' [c] ·He asked, 'Then Jn 7:39
4 how were you baptised?' They replied, 'With John's baptism.' ·Paul said, 'John's Mt 3:6e baptism was a baptism of repentance; but he insisted that the people should believe 1:5f;2:38x;
5 in the one who was to come after him—namely Jesus.' ·When they heard this, they 13:24–25+
6 were baptised in the name of the Lord Jesus, ·and the moment Paul had laid hands 2:4+;8:15–17.
on them the Holy Spirit came down on them, and they began to speak with tongues 11:27m
7 and to prophesy. ·There were about twelve of these men in all. 1 Tm 4:14e

Foundation of the church of Ephesus [d]

8 He began by going to the synagogue, where he spoke out fearlessly and argued 13:5e
9 persuasively about the kingdom of God. He did this for three months, ·till the 13:46gg attitude of some of the congregation hardened into unbelief. As soon as they began 1:3d attacking the Way in public, he broke with them and took his disciples apart to 9:2b 10 hold daily discussions in the lecture room of Tyrannus. [e] ·This went on for two

z. Luke's readers must have known him. He became the subject of legend, especially after the fifth c. when an author (the 'pseudo-Dionysius') published various mystical writings under his name. Later legend identified him with St Denys, first Bishop of Paris (third c.).

18 a. Corinth, rebuilt by Julius Caesar, became capital of the Roman province of Achaia and was a flourishing city with two ports. Its population was largely Roman and Latin-speaking, but brisk trade had attracted people of all nations. It had a considerable Jewish colony. The immorality of Corinth was proverbial.

b. Also called Prisca, Rm 16:3; 1 Co 16:19; 2 Tm 4:19.

c. This edict, mentioned by Suetonius, was issued in 49 or 50. It was in force only for a very short time, cf. 28:17; Rm 16:3.

d. Though Paul acknowledges the missionary's right to sustenance, 1 Co 9:6–14; Ga 6:6; 2 Th 3:7–9; cf. Lk 10:7, he himself always practised a trade, 1 Co 4:12, not wishing to be a burden on anyone, 2 Co 12:13seq.; 1 Th 2:9; 2 Th 3:8, and in order to prove his singleness of purpose, Ac 20:33seq.; 1 Co 9:15–18; 2 Co 11:7–12. Only from the Philippians did he accept help, 2 Co 11:8seq.; Ph 4:10–18; see also Ac 16:15k. He recommended his followers to do the same to supply their own needs, 1 Th 4:11seq.; 2 Th 3:10–12, and those of the poor, Ac 20:35; Ep 4:28.

e. It was after this that Paul wrote his two letters to the Thessalonians. They came from Macedon with the subsidy, 2 Co 11:8–9; Ph :15, and helped Paul evangelise Corinth, 2 Co 1:19.

f. That Jesus was Messiah was the distinctive theme of the preaching to the Jews, cf. 2:36; 3:18,20; 5:42; 8:5,12; 9:22; 17:3; 18:28; 24:24; 26:23.

g. Symbolically breaking off relations. The following sentence is biblical, cf. Lv 20:9–16; 2 S 1:15–16, and means that the Jews must accept full responsibility for the consequences. Their 'blood', i.e. their punishment, is not Paul's affair; his conscience is clear (lit. 'I am clean').

h. var. 'Titus Justus' or 'Titius Justus'.

i. Western text add. 'believing in God through the name of our Lord Jesus Christ', see 8:36n. The converts were therefore gentiles.

j. An inscription from Delphi puts Gallio's proconsulate in 51–2. Paul's arraignment before Gallio must have been towards the end (v. 18) of his eighteen-month stay (v. 11) in Corinth: probably the spring of 52.

k. Ambiguous term capable of meaning the Roman Law, see 16:21; 17:7, or the Jewish Law which was itself guaranteed by Roman Law. Gallio chooses to see the charge as a question of the interpretation of Jewish Law (v. 15) in which he claims no competence.

l. Possibly the Sosthenes of 1 Co 1:1.

m. Back to Antioch, his base of operations.

n. The Greek is obscure, but apparently it was Paul, not Aquila, who took the vow. To take a vow was to be nazir, see Nb 6:1a, for the period it covered, usually thirty days, and among other obligations it meant leaving the hair uncut during that time. It is not known whether the vow was taken by Paul at Cenchreae or whether it expired there, cf. 21:23–27, where Paul and four other Jews perform the rites for the fulfilment of a vow.

o. Perhaps the church of Jerusalem.

p. For further information, see 1 Co: when he went to Corinth his enormous popularity soon developed into partisanship, see 1 Co 1:12; 3:4–11,22; see also Tt 3:13. These remarks about Apollos have something in common with the description of John the Baptist's admirers at Ephesus in the following passage: combining these two descriptions of an imperfectly informed Christianity, we may possibly get some idea of Christianity in the church of Alexandria at this time.

q. add. 'of God'.

r. On the use of letters of reference in the early Christian communities, see Rm 16:1; 2 Co 3:1seq.; Col 4:10; 3 Jn 9–10,12.

19 a. An editorial link joining two items of information which are inserted in the account of the journey. The Western text has 'When Paul, pursuing his own plan, wanted to set out for Jerusalem, the Spirit told him to go back to Asia. Consequently, he made his way . . .

b. Ephesus at this time was regarded, with Alexandria, as one of the finest cities in the empire; it was a religious, political and commercial centre of mixed population.

c. They were unaware, not that the Spirit existed (evident from the OT to the most casual reader) but that the messianic promises had been fulfilled and the Spirit given in abundance, cf. 2:17–18,33.

d. Resumption of the narrative interrupted by the remarks about Apollos and the followers of John the Baptist: 19:8 follows on 18:23 and 19:1.

e. Western text adds 'from the fifth to the tenth hour' (11 am to 4 pm.).

years,[f] with the result that all the inhabitants of Asia,[g] both Jews and Greeks, were able to hear the word of the Lord.

The Jewish exorcists

5:15 Lk 8:44–47par. So remarkable were the miracles worked by God at Paul's hands 11, 12 ·that handkerchiefs or aprons which had touched him were taken to the sick, and they were cured of their illnesses, and the evil spirits came out of them.

3:16[i] Lk 9:49par. But some itinerant Jewish exorcists[h] too tried pronouncing the name of the Lord 13 Jesus over people who were possessed by evil spirits; they used to say, 'I adjure you by the Jesus whose spokesman is Paul.' ·Among those who did this were seven 14 sons of Sceva, a Jewish chief priest. ·The evil spirit replied, 'Jesus I recognise, and 15 16:17 Paul I know, but who are you?' ·and the man with the evil spirit hurled himself at 16 them and overpowered first one and then another,[i] and handled them so violently 9:35,42 that they fled from that house stripped of clothing and badly mauled. ·Everybody 17 in Ephesus, both Jews and Greeks, heard about this episode; everyone was filled 3:10 Lk 1:12g;5:26 with awe, and the name of the Lord Jesus came to be held in great honour.

Some believers, too, came forward to admit in detail how they had used spells[j] 18 and a number of them who had practised magic collected their books and made 19 a bonfire of them in public. The value of these was calculated to be fifty thousand silver pieces.

6:7h In this powerful way the word of the Lord spread more and more widely and 20 successfully.[k]

V: THE END OF PAUL'S MISSIONARY JOURNEYS A PRISONER FOR CHRIST

Rm 15:22–32 1 Co 16:1–8 Paul's plans

When all this was over Paul made up his mind to go back to Jerusalem through 21 11:30p Macedonia and Achaia. 'After I have been there,' he said, 'I must go on to see 23:11 Rm 1:13 1 Co 4:17 Rome as well.' ·So he sent two of his helpers, Timothy and Erastus, ahead of him 22 to Macedonia, while he remained for a time in Asia.

Ephesus: the silversmiths' riot[l]

It was during this time that a serious disturbance broke out in connection with the 23 9:2b Way. ·A silversmith called Demetrius, who provided work for a large number of 24 16:19 craftsmen making silver shrines of Diana, ·called a general meeting of them with 25 others in the same trade. 'As you know,' he said, 'it is on this industry that we depend for our prosperity. ·Now you must have seen and heard how, not just in 26 Ephesus but nearly everywhere in Asia, this man Paul has persuaded and converted 17:29v a great number of people with his argument that gods made by hand are not gods at all. ·This threatens not only to discredit our trade, but also to reduce the sanctuary 27 of the great goddess Diana to unimportance. It could end up by taking away the prestige of a goddess venerated all over Asia, and indeed all over the world.' ·This 28 speech roused them to fury, and they started to shout,[m] 'Great is Diana of the Ephesians!' ·The whole town was filled with the uproar and the mob made a 29 concerted rush to the theatre, dragging along two of Paul's Macedonian travelling companions, Gaius and Aristarchus.[n] ·Paul wanted to make an appeal to the 30 people, but the disciples refused to let him; ·in fact, some of the Asiarchs,[o] who 31 were friends of his, sent messages urging him not to take the risk of going into the theatre.

21:34 By now everybody was shouting different things, till the assembly itself had no 32 idea what was going on; most of them did not even know why they had gathered together. ·Some of the crowd prevailed upon[p] Alexander, whom the Jews pushed 33 forward; he raised his hand for silence with the intention of explaining things to the 12:17;13:16;

34 people. •As soon as they realised he was a Jew, they all started shouting in unison, 16:20
35 'Great is Diana of the Ephesians!' and they kept this up for two hours. •When the town clerk eventually succeeded in calming the crowd, he said, 'Citizens of Ephesus! Is there anybody who does not know that the city of the Ephesians is the guardian of the temple of great Diana and of her statue that fell from heaven?
36 Nobody can contradict this and there is no need for you to get excited or do 37 anything rash. •These men you have brought here are not guilty of any sacrilege or 38 blasphemy against our goddess. •If Demetrius and the craftsmen he has with him want to complain about anyone, there are the assizes and the proconsuls; let them
39 take the case to court. •And if you want to ask any more questions you must raise 40 them in the regular assembly. •We could easily be charged with rioting for today's happenings: there is no ground for it all, and we can give no justification for this gathering.' When he had finished this speech he dismissed the assembly.

Paul leaves Ephesus

1 20 When the disturbance was over,[a] Paul sent for the disciples and, after 14:22;16:40
2 speaking words of encouragement to them, said good-bye and set out for Macedonia. •On his way through those areas[b] he said many words of encouragement to them and then made his way into Greece, •where he spent three months.[c]
3 He was leaving by ship for Syria[d] when a plot organised against him by the Jews 9:23;23:12seq. 1 Th 2:14f
4 made him decide to go back by way of Macedonia. •He was accompanied[e] by Sopater, son of Pyrrhus, who came from Beroea; Aristarchus and Secundus who 19:29 came from Thessalonica; Gaius from Derbe, and Timothy, as well as Tychicus and 16:1a;19:22+ 5 Trophimus who were from Asia.[f] •They all went on to Troas where they waited for 6 us.[g] •We ourselves left Philippi by ship[h] after the days of Unleavened Bread[i] and joined them five days later at Troas, where we stayed for a week.[j]

Troas: Paul raises a dead man to life

7 On the first day of the week[k] we met for the breaking of bread. Paul was due to 2:42gg leave the next day, and he preached a sermon that went on till the middle of the 8 night. •A number of lamps were lit in the upstairs room where we were assembled, 9 and as Paul went on and on, a young man called Eutychus who was sitting on the window-sill grew drowsy and was overcome by sleep and fell to the ground three

f. 20:31 says three years. During this stay, Paul wrote the first Letter to the Corinthians, the Letter to the Galatians and, possibly, the Letter to the Philippians. 2 Co 1:8, written soon after his departure, mentions hardships undergone in Asia and a threat of death; but Lk tells us nothing of these here.

g. Not the whole of proconsular Asia (the western half of Asia Minor) but the region centred on Ephesus and including the seven towns of Rv 1:11. Epaphras of Colossae had been appointed by Paul to evangelise his own city, and his mission had spread to Laodicea and Hierapolis, Col 1:7; 4:12–13. Paul was also assisted by Timothy and Erastus, 19:22, Gaius and Aristarchus, 19:29, Titus, whom Ac never mentions, and others, see 2 Co 12:18. Luke credits Paul with the achievements of his subordinates.

h. On Jewish exorcisms, see Mt 12:27. Jesus himself, and his apostles after him, see Ac 5:16; 16:18, frequently exorcised, see Mt 8:29k.

i. Or 'both' (two of their number).

j. Occult practices for which Ephesus was well known.

k. Alex. text 'Thus, through the power of the Lord, the word spread even more widely and impressively.'

l. The literary style of this narrative is unusual in Luke; he has taken it from a special source and linked it with his story of the evangelisation of Ephesus.

m. Western text adds 'rushing into the street'.

n. Aristarchus, a native of Thessalonica, 20:4, was a companion of Paul during his imprisonment, 27:2; Col 4:10; Phm 24. This Gaius is probably the one mentioned in 20:4.

o. Members of the 'Asiatic assembly' which supervised the cult of Rome and the emperor on behalf of the cities of Asia.

p. Others translate 'they made him stand away from the crowd'.

20 a. The narrative is resumed from 19:22.

b. From here he sent his second letter to the Christians in Corinth.

c. Paul was therefore able to carry out the proposal of 1 Co 16:5–6. During this period in Corinth he wrote the Letter to the Romans. Western text 'When he had been there for three months and the Jews had plotted against him, he intended to set out for Syria, but the Spirit told him to go back through Macedonia.'

d. To take the proceeds of the collection to Jerusalem, see 19:21 and 1 Co 16:1a.

e. add. 'as far as Asia'. • Sopater is perhaps the Jew, Sosipater, of Rm 16:21. • 'Derbe'; var. 'Doberus'.

f. Trophimus was an Ephesian, 21:29, cf. 2 Tm 4:20. Tychicus is mentioned several times in the letters, Ep 6:21; Col 4:7; 2 Tm 4:12; Tt 3:12.

g. Narrative in the first person: this continues from Philippi till Jerusalem, see 16:10g.

h. From the port of Neapolis, cf. 16:11.

i. Passover week, see Ex 12:1a.

j. On Paul's previous ministry in this town (when on the way from Ephesus to Corinth: vv. 1–2) see 2 Co 2:12.

k. The first day of the Jewish week, which had become the Christians' day of assembly, see Mt 28:1a; 1 Co 16:2, the 'Lord's day', Rv 1:10. This Sunday meeting was held when the Lord's Day began, i.e. on the Saturday evening, because in the Jewish fashion the day was reckoned as beginning at sunset.

9:36–42 floors below. He was picked up dead. •Paul went down and stooped to clasp the 10
1 K 17:17–24 2 K 4:30–37 Mk 5:39–42par. boy to him, saying 'There is no need to worry, there is still life in him.' •Then he 11 went back upstairs where he broke the bread and ate and carried on talking till he left at daybreak. •They took the boy away alive, and were greatly encouraged. 12

From Troas to Miletus

We were now to go on ahead by sea, so we set sail for Assos, where we were to 13 take Paul on board; this was what he had arranged, for he wanted to go overland.
When he rejoined us at Assos we took him aboard and went on to Mitylene. 14
The next day we sailed from there and arrived opposite Chios. The second day 15 we touched at Samos and, after stopping at Trogyllium, made Miletus the next day. •Paul had decided to pass wide of Ephesus so as to avoid spending time in 16
Asia, since he was anxious to be in Jerusalem, if possible, for the day of Pentecost.

Farewell to the elders of Ephesus

11:30p From Miletus he sent for the elders of the church of Ephesus. •When they arrived 17, 18
he addressed these words to them: l

1 Th 1:5;2:10–12 'You know what my way of life has been ever since the first day I set foot among 2 Co 1:8–9; 11:23–31 Ph 2:3;3:18 you in Asia, •how I have served the Lord in all humility, with all the sorrows and 19 trials that came to me through the plots of the Jews. •I have not hesitated to do 20 20:27 2 Tm 4:2 13:5e anything that would be helpful to you; I have preached to you and instructed you both in public and in your homes, •urging both Jews and Greeks to turn to God 21 and to believe in our Lord Jesus. m

'And now you see me on my way to Jerusalem in captivity to the Spirit; n I have 22
1:8j;21:4,11 no idea what will happen to me there, •except that the Holy Spirit, in town after 23 town, has made it clear to me that imprisonment and persecution await me. •But I 24
Ga 1:1–2 Ph 2:16 2 Tm 4:7 do not place any value on my own life, o provided that I complete the mission the Lord Jesus gave me—to bear witness to the good news of God's grace.

26:15–18 'I now feel sure that none of you among whom I have gone about proclaiming 25
1:3d the kingdom will ever see my face again. p •And so on this very day I swear that my 26
18:6g 20:20 conscience is clear as far as all of you are concerned, •for I have without faltering 27 put before you the whole of God's purpose.

Ps 74:1seq. Jn 21:15–17 Ph 1:1a 1 Tm 4:16 1 P 5:1–3 'Be on your guard for yourselves and for all the flock of which the Holy Spirit has 28 made you the guardians, to feed the Church of God q which he bought with the blood of his own Son. r

5:11b 1 Co 1:2b Is 43:21 Jn 10:12 Ep 1:14*o* 'I know quite well that when I have gone fierce wolves will invade you and will 29 have no mercy on the flock. •Even from your own ranks there will be men coming 30 forward with a travesty of the truth on their lips to induce the disciples to follow
Mt 7:15 them. •So be on your guard, remembering how night and day for three years I 31
2 P 2:1–2 never slackened in counselling each one of you with tears. •And now I commend 32
1 P 5:8–9 19:10f 14:23 9:31 you to God and to the word of his grace that has power s to build you up and to give you your inheritance among all the sanctified.

1 Co 3:9–15 Ep 2:20–22 Dt 33:3–4 Ep 1:18 18:3d 1 Co 11:1 Ep 4:28 'I have never asked anyone for money or clothes; •you know for yourselves 33, 34 that these hands of mine earned enough to meet my needs and those of my companions. •By every means I have shown you that we must exert ourselves in this 35 way to support the weak, remembering the words of the Lord Jesus, who himself said, "There is more happiness in giving than in receiving." t

When he had finished speaking he knelt down with them all and prayed. •By 36, 37 2 Co 13:12d now they were all in tears; they put their arms round Paul's neck and kissed him;
what saddened them most was his saying they would never see his face again. 38 15:3;20:25; 21:5 Then they escorted him to the ship.

The journey to Jerusalem

21 When we had at last torn ourselves away from them and put to sea, we set a 1 straight course and arrived at Cos; the next day we reached Rhodes, and from there went on to Patara. a •Here we found a ship bound for Phoenicia, so we 2 went on board and sailed in her. ·After sighting Cyprus and leaving it to port, we sailed to Syria and put in at Tyre, since the ship was to unload her cargo there. We sought out the disciples and stayed there a week. Speaking in the Spirit,[k] they kept telling Paul not to go on to Jerusalem, ·but when our time was up we set off. Together with the women and children they all escorted us on our way till we were out of the town. When we reached the beach, we knelt down and prayed; ·then, after saying good-bye to each other, we went aboard and they returned home.

The end of our voyage from Tyre came when we landed at Ptolemais, where we greeted the brothers and stayed one day with them. ·The next day we left and came to Caesarea. Here we called on Philip the evangelist, one of the Seven, and stayed with him. ·He had four unmarried daughters who were prophets. ·When we had been there several days a prophet called Agabus arrived from Judaea. ·He came up to us, took Paul's belt and tied up his own feet and hands,[c] and said, 'This is what the Holy Spirit says, "The man to whom this girdle belongs will be tied up like this by the Jews in Jerusalem and handed over to the gentiles." '[d] ·When we heard this, we and all the local people urged Paul not to go on to Jerusalem. ·To this he replied, 'What are you doing, weeping and breaking my heart? For my part, I am ready not only to be bound but even to die in Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesus.' ·And so, as he would not be persuaded, we gave up the attempt, saying, 'The Lord's will be done.'

20:23;21:11; 21:12
20:36–38
6:5f;8:4seq.,40
2:4+, 17
11:27–28
1:8j
21:4
5:41p;20:24o Lk 22:33
Mt 6:10 Lk 22:42par.

Paul's arrival in Jerusalem

After this we made our preparations and went on up to Jerusalem. ·Some of the disciples from Caesarea accompanied us and took us to the house of a Cypriot with whom we were to lodge;[e] he was called Mnason and had been one of the earliest disciples.

On our arrival in Jerusalem the brothers gave us a very warm welcome. ·The next day Paul went with us[f] to visit James, and all the elders were present. ·After greeting them he gave a detailed account of all that God had done among the gentiles through his ministry. ·They gave glory to God when they heard this. Then they said, 'You see, brother, how thousands of Jews have now become believers, all of them staunch upholders of the Law;[g] ·and what they have heard about you is that you instruct all Jews living among the gentiles to break away from Moses,[h]

1:15s
12:17f
14:27;15:4,12
11:18+
6:11,14; 15:1;28:17

l. The third great discourse of Paul in Ac. The first, ch. 13, exemplified his preaching to the Jews; the second, ch. 17, his preaching to the gentiles; the third, vv. 18–35, is as it were the last testament of the departing pastor, compare 1 S 12:2–5. Many of the details of this third discourse are found in his letters; its tone is that of the Pastoral Letters. After referring to his mission in Asia, vv. 18–21, he speaks of this as a final parting and seems to hint at his death, vv. 22–27. Paul's last advice to the elders of Ephesus (and through them to all the pastors in every church) is vigilance, vv. 28–32, selflessness, charity, vv. 33–35. In all of this Paul appeals to his own example: the discourse therefore draws a faithful portrait of the apostle himself.

m. Summary of Pauline preaching, to be compared with 17:30–31; 1 Co 8:4–6; 1 Th 1:9–10. 'Repent and believe' have been coupled since the first preaching of Jesus, Mk 1:15.

n. On his way to captivity Paul speaks of himself as a prisoner; in his heart he is one already. Others translate 'a prisoner of the Spirit', i.e. morally prisoner.

o. Cf. 15:26; 21:13; Ph 1:21–23; 1 Th 2:8. Others translate 'But I do not count my life of any value, as if it were precious to me.'

p. Cf. v. 38. From Jerusalem Paul intended to visit Spain, Rm 15:23–28. His long imprisonment affected his plans and he may have revisited Ephesus despite the presentiment expressed here.

q. var. 'the Church of the Lord'. • 1 P 2:9–10 speaks of the people which God made his own (following Is 43:21); this people was the 'Congregation (= Church) of God', Ac 5:11b, one of Paul's favourite expressions, see 1 Co 1:2; 10:32; 11:22.

r. lit. 'which he acquired for himself by his own blood'. Since this cannot be said of God, either it must mean 'by the blood of his own (i.e. own Son)' or Paul's thought slips from the action of the Father to that of the Son, cf. Rm 8:31–39. For the notion, see Ep 5:25–27; Heb 9:12–14; 13:12.

s. 'to God', var. 'to the Lord'. 'that has power', or 'who has power', referring to God, cf. Rm 16:25.

t. This saying has not come down to us in the gospels.

21 a. add. 'and Myra'.

b. The command does not come from the Spirit, but the Spirit has revealed to them Paul's fate which their love for him seeks to avert.

c. Prophecy in mime like that used by the prophets in the past, see Jr 18:1a.

d. The forecast corresponds only approximately to the narrative of Paul's arrest (see 21:31–33; 28:17) but it resembles the prophecy of Jesus' Passion in Lk 18:31–34; cf. Ph 3:10; Col 1:24.

e. The Western text indicates, perhaps correctly, that this was half-way to Jerusalem.

f. The last 'we' until 27:1 (the departure for Rome): see 16:10g.

g. For its observances by others as well as by themselves, see 11:2; 15:1,5; Ga 2:12; 5:1seq.

h. Paul's doctrine of faith as the one source of justification, see Rm 1:16h; 3:22h, did indeed lead to this, since it meant that the Mosaic Law no longer gave the Jew superiority over the gentile. But Paul's purpose in expounding this principle was to leave converts from paganism free of Jewish observance, see Ga 2:11seq., not to dissuade devout Jews from it.

authorising them not to circumcise their children[i] or to follow the customary Mk 7:1–13 practices. •What is to be done? A crowd is sure to gather, for they will hear that 22 you have come.[j] •So this is what we suggest that you should do; we have four men 23 18:18n;24:17 here who are under a vow; •take these men along and be purified with them and 24 pay all the expenses connected with the shaving of their heads.[k] This will let everyone know there is no truth in the reports they have heard about you, and that 15:19seq., 28seq. you too observe the Law by your way of life. •About the gentiles who have become 25 15:1a believers, we have written giving them our decision[l] that they must abstain from things sacrificed to idols, from blood, from the meat of strangled animals and from illicit marriages.'

So the next day Paul took the men along and was purified with them, and he 26 visited the Temple to give notice of the time when the period of purification would be over and the offering would have to be presented on behalf of each of them.[m]

Paul's arrest

The seven days were nearly over when some Jews from Asia caught sight of him in 27
14:2c the Temple and stirred up the crowd and seized him, •shouting, 'Men of Israel, 28 •18:13–15;21: 21;24:5seq., 14;25:8 help! This is the man who preaches to everyone everywhere against our people, against the Law and against this place.[n] He has even profaned this Holy Place by Ezk 44:9 bringing Greeks into the Temple.' •They had, in fact, previously seen Trophimus 29 20:4 the Ephesian in the city with him and thought that Paul had brought him into the Temple.

This roused the whole city; people came running from all sides; they seized Paul 30 and dragged him out of the Temple, and the gates were closed behind them.
26:21 While they were setting about killing him, word reached the tribune of the 31 cohort[o] that there was tumult all over Jerusalem. •He immediately called out 32 soldiers and centurions and charged down on the crowd, who stopped beating Paul when they saw the tribune and the soldiers. •When the tribune came up he 33 20:23;21:11; 22:29j took Paul into custody, had him bound with two chains and enquired who he was and what he had done. •People in the crowd called out different things, and since 34 the noise made it impossible for him to get any positive information, the tribune ordered Paul to be taken into the fortress. •When Paul reached the steps, the 35 crowd became so violent that he had to be carried by the soldiers; •and indeed the 36 22:22;25:24 Lk 23:18 whole mob was after them, shouting 'Do away with him!'

Just as Paul was being taken into the fortress, he asked the tribune if he could 37 have a word with him. The tribune said, 'You speak Greek, then? •Aren't you the 38 Egyptian who started the recent revolt and led those four thousand cut-throats[p] out into the desert?' •'I?' said Paul, 'I am a Jew and a citizen of the well-known city 39 of Tarsus in Cilicia. Please give me permission to speak to the people.' •The man 40 12:17;13:16 gave his consent and Paul, standing at the top of the steps, raised his hand to the people for silence. A profound silence followed, and he started speaking to them in Hebrew.[q]

Paul's address to the Jews of Jerusalem[a]

7:2 22 'My brothers, my fathers, listen to what I have to say to you in my defence.' 1
When they realised he was speaking in Hebrew, the silence was even 2 26:4–5 2 Co 11:22 greater than before. •'I am a Jew', Paul said, 'and was born at Tarsus in Cilicia. I 3 5:34m was brought up here in this city. It was under Gamaliel that I studied and was Rm 10:2a taught the exact observance of the Law of our ancestors. In fact, I was as full of Ga 1:13–14 Ph 3:5–6 duty towards God as you all are today. •I even persecuted this Way[b] to the death 4
8:3;9:2 and sent women as well as men to prison in chains •as the high priest and the whole 5 =9:1–18,1a; =26:9–18 council of elders can testify. I even received letters from them to the brothers in Damascus, which I took with me when I set off to bring prisoners back from there to Jerusalem for punishment.

'It happened that I was on that journey and nearly at Damascus when in the 6 middle of the day a bright light from heaven suddenly shone round me. •I fell to 7

the ground and heard a voice saying, "Saul, Saul, why are you persecuting me?"
8 I answered, "Who are you, Lord?" and he said to me, "I am Jesus the Nazarene, Mt 2:23*l* 9 whom you are persecuting." ·The people with me saw the light but did not hear the 10 voice which spoke to me. ·I said, "What am I to do, Lord?" The Lord answered, "Get up and go into Damascus, and there you will be told what you have been 11 appointed to do." ·Since the light had been so dazzling that I was blind, I got to Damascus only because my companions led me by the hand.
12 'Someone called Ananias, a devout follower of the Law and highly thought of by 13 all the Jews living there,[c] ·came to see me; he stood beside me and said, "Brother Saul, receive your sight." Instantly my sight came back and I was able to see him.
14 Then he said, "The God of our ancestors has chosen you to know his will, to see 9:17;26:16
15 the Upright One[d] and hear his own voice speaking, ·because you are to be his 1 Co 9:1;15:8h
16 witness before all humanity, testifying to what you have seen and heard.[e] ·And 1:8k now why delay? Hurry and be baptized and wash away your sins, calling on his Mt 13:16–17par.
1 Jn 1:1,3
name." 2:38y
17 'It happened that, when I got back to Jerusalem,[f] and was praying in the Temple, 9:26;10:10
18 I fell into a trance ·and then I saw him. "Hurry," he said, "leave Jerusalem at once; Ga 1:18 19 they will not accept the testimony you are giving about me."[g] ·"Lord," I answered, 9:29–30
"they know that I used to go from synagogue to synagogue, imprisoning and 20 flogging those who believed in you; ·and that when the blood of your witness[h]
Stephen was being shed, I, too, was standing by, in full agreement with his 7:58;8:1 21 murderers, and in charge of their clothes." ·Then he said to me, "Go! I am sending you out to the gentiles far away." '[i] 2:39aa;9:15h

Paul the Roman citizen

22 So far they had listened to him, but at these words they began to shout, 'Rid the 21:36+ 23 earth of the man! He is not fit to live!' ·They were yelling, waving their cloaks and 24 throwing dust into the air, ·and so the tribune had him brought into the fortress and ordered him to be examined under the lash, to find out the reason for the 25 outcry against him. ·But when they had strapped him down Paul said to the centurion on duty, 'Is it legal for you to flog a man who is a Roman citizen and has 26 not been brought to trial?' ·When he heard this the centurion went and told the 16:37r tribune; 'Do you realise what you are doing?' he said. 'This man is a Roman 27 citizen.' ·So the tribune came and asked him, 'Tell me, are you a Roman citizen?' 16:37r; 21:33

i. See Rm 2:25–29; 4:9–12; 1 Co 7:17–20.

j. var. 'They are bound to hear that you have come.'

k. The discharging of the nazirite vow had to be celebrated with expensive sacrifices, Nb 6:14–15.

l. Western text 'Of the gentiles who have become believers they have nothing to say to you. For our part, we have sent our decisions, namely that they have no observance to practise but that of abstaining from things sacrificed to idols, from blood, and from impurity.'

m. Text obscure: it seems to presuppose before the nazirite sacrifice a period of seven days devoted to certain rites of purification; there is no other evidence for this practice.

n. Cf. the charges against Stephen, 6:11–14, and against Jesus, Mt 26:61; 27:40.

o. A Roman garrison consisting of an auxiliary cohort was stationed in the fortress called Antonia overlooking the Temple area from the northwest corner.

p. Or 'four thousand sikarioi'; the term strictly means the extremist nationalist Zealots. This revolt is mentioned by Josephus.

q. i.e. Aramaic: Hebrew was barely spoken after the return from exile.

22 a. After the three discourses which sum up the preaching of Paul, ch. 13; 17; 20, Ac records three apologias: before the Jewish people in Jerusalem, ch. 22, before the procurator Felix, ch. 24, before King Agrippa, ch. 26; each is cleverly adapted to the audience, see 9:1a. Before the people Paul defends his conduct as being that of a devout Jew.

b. The Church, see 9:2b. On Paul's career as persecutor, see 7:58; 8:1,3; 9:1–2,21; 22:19–20; 26:10–11; 1 Co 15:9; Ga 1:13,23; Ph 3:6; 1 Tm 1:13.

c. Paul describes Ananias simply as a pious Jew without adding that he was a Christian, 9:10, or mentioning his vision, 9:10–16.

d. Christ, cf. 3:14; 7:52.

e. See 9:15h. Ananias here speaks in the name of 'the God of our ancestors', like an OT prophet. Paul is to be a witness 'before all humanity', but the gentiles are not explicitly mentioned until v. 21.

f. Paul passes over the three years which elapsed before his return, see 9:23k. The trance he speaks of is not mentioned elsewhere; it is not to be confused with that of 2 Co 12:1–4.

g. It is a main theme of Luke's understanding of Paul's apostolate that he turns to the gentiles because the Jews will not believe him, see 13:46–48; 18:6; 28:25–28. Speaking in the Temple he stresses that it was only under divine duress that he abandoned the Jewish mission.

h. The Greek word, martyr, had not yet acquired its restricted meaning but was beginning to, the supreme testimony being that of blood, see Rv 2:13; 6:9; 17:6.

i. Since 'apostle' means 'envoy', Christ's words imply that Paul is in fact an apostle, see 1 Co 9:1; 2 Co 12:11–12; Ga 1:1, and in particular, an apostle of the gentiles, Ga 1:16; 2:7–8, though Ac (with the exception of 14:4, 14) reserves the term 'apostle' to the Twelve.

Paul answered 'Yes'. ·To this the tribune replied, 'It cost me a large sum to acquire 28
this citizenship.' 'But I was born to it,' said Paul. ·Then those who were about to 29 examine him hurriedly withdrew, and the tribune himself was alarmed when he realised that he had put a Roman citizen in chains.[j]

His appearance before the Sanhedrin[k]

The next day, since he wanted to know for sure what charge the Jews were 30 bringing, he freed Paul and gave orders for a meeting of the chief priests and the entire Sanhedrin; then he brought Paul down and set him in front of them.

23 Paul looked steadily at the Sanhedrin and began to speak, 'My brothers, to 1 24:16 this day I have conducted myself before God with a perfectly clear con-Jn 18:22 science.'[a] ·At this the high priest Ananias[b] ordered his attendants to strike him on 2 the mouth. ·Then Paul said to him, 'God will surely strike you, you whitewashed 3 Ex 13:10–15 Mt 23:27 wall! How can you sit there to judge me according to the Law, and then break the Law by ordering a man to strike me?' ·The attendants said, 'Are you insulting the 4 high priest of God? ·Paul answered, 'Brothers, I did not realise it was the high 5
Ex 22:27 priest; certainly scripture says, "You will not curse your people's leader." '

Now Paul was well aware that one party was made up of Sadducees and the other 6 26:5 2 M 7:9c Ph 3:5 of Pharisees, so he called out in the Sanhedrin, 'Brothers, I am a Pharisee and the son of Pharisees. It is for our hope in the resurrection of the dead that I am on 24:15,21; 26:6seq.;28:20 trial.' ·As soon as he said this, a dispute broke out between the Pharisees and 7
·2 M 7 Sadducees, and the assembly was split between the two parties. ·For the Sadducees 8
Dn 12:1–3 say there is neither resurrection, nor angel, nor spirit,[c] while the Pharisees accept ·4:1a all three. ·The shouting grew louder, and some of the scribes from the Pharisees' 9
Mt 22:23 5:34seq. party stood up and protested strongly, 'We find nothing wrong with this man.
Suppose a spirit has spoken to him, or an angel?'[d] ·Feeling was running high, and 10 the tribune, afraid that they would tear Paul to pieces, ordered his troops to go down and haul him out and bring him into the fortress.

18:9–10;27:24 19:21 Next night, the Lord appeared to him and said, 'Courage! You have borne 11 witness for me in Jerusalem, now you must do the same in Rome.'

9:23;20:3 1 Th 2:14f The conspiracy of the Jews against Paul

When it was day, the Jews held a secret meeting at which they made a vow[e] not to 12 eat or drink until they had killed Paul. ·More than forty of them entered this pact, 13 and they went to the chief priests and elders and told them, 'We have made a 14 solemn vow to let nothing pass our lips until we have killed Paul. ·Now it is up to 15
you and the Sanhedrin together to apply to the tribune to bring him down to you, as though you meant to examine his case more closely; we, on our side, are prepared to dispose of him before he reaches you.'

But the son of Paul's sister heard of the ambush they were laying and made his 16 way into the fortress and told Paul, ·who called one of the centurions and said, 17
'Take this young man to the tribune; he has something to tell him.' ·So the man 18 took him to the tribune, and reported, 'The prisoner Paul summoned me and requested me to bring this young man to you; he has something to tell you.' ·Then 19 the tribune took him by the hand and drew him aside and questioned him in private, 'What is it you have to tell me?' ·He replied, 'The Jews have made a plan 20 to ask you to take Paul down to the Sanhedrin tomorrow, as though they meant to enquire more closely into his case. ·Do not believe them. There are more than 21 forty of them lying in wait for him, and they have vowed not to eat or drink until they have got rid of him. They are ready now and only waiting for your order to be given.' ·The tribune let the young man go with this order, 'Tell no one that you 22 have given me this information.'

Paul transferred to Caesarea

Then he summoned two of the centurions and said, 'Get two hundred soldiers 23 ready to leave for Caesarea by the third hour of the night with seventy cavalry and two hundred auxiliaries; ·provide horses for Paul, and deliver him unharmed to Felix the governor.'[f] ·He also wrote a letter in these terms:

'Claudius Lysias to his Excellency the governor Felix, greetings. ·This man had been seized by the Jews and would have been murdered by them, but I came on the scene with my troops and got him away, having discovered that he was a Roman citizen. ·Wanting to find out what charge they were making against him, I brought him before their Sanhedrin. ·I found that the accusation concerned disputed points of their Law,[g] but that there was no charge deserving death or imprisonment.[h] ·Acting on information that there was a conspiracy against the man, I hasten to send him to you, and have notified his accusers that they must state their case against him in your presence.'[i]

21:31–33 22:25–29 18:15;25:18–19

The soldiers carried out their orders; they took Paul and escorted him by night to Antipatris. ·Next day they left the mounted escort to go on with him and returned to the fortress. ·On arriving at Caesarea the escort delivered the letter to the governor and handed Paul over to him. ·When he had read it, he asked Paul what province he came from. Learning that he was from Cilicia he said, ·'I will hear your case as soon as your accusers are here too.' Then he ordered him to be held in Herod's praetorium.[j]

The case before Felix

24 Five days later the high priest Ananias came down with some of the elders and an advocate named Tertullus, and they laid information against Paul before the governor. ·Paul was called, and Tertullus opened for the prosecution, 'Your Excellency, Felix, the unbroken peace we enjoy and the reforms this nation owes to your foresight ·are matters we accept, always and everywhere, with all gratitude. ·I do not want to take up too much of your time, but I urge you in your graciousness to give us a brief hearing. ·We have found this man a perfect pest; he stirs up trouble among Jews the world over and is a ringleader of the Nazarene sect.[a] ·He has even attempted to profane the Temple. We placed him under arrest.[b] ·If you ask him[c] you can find out for yourself the truth of all our accusations against this man.' ·The Jews supported him, asserting that these were the facts.

16:20;17:6 Lk 23:2 ·Mt 2:23*l* ·21:28

When the governor motioned him to speak, Paul answered:[d]

j. Nevertheless, Paul is left in chains, v. 30; 23:18; 24:27; 26:29. Possibly a distinction is to be made between the heavy chains, a torture in themselves (of which Paul may have been relieved), and the lighter chains to prevent the prisoner from escaping.

k. As Jesus foretold to his disciples, Mk 13:9–10 = Mt 10:17–18; Lk 21:12. Paul is to appear before 'councils' 22:30–23:10, 'governors' (Felix, ch. 24), 'kings' (Agrippa, ch. 25–26).

23 a. The 'clear conscience' is a feature of Paul's moral teaching: 1 Co 4:4; 2 Co 1:12; 1 Tm 1:5,19; 3:9; 2 Tm 1:3; see also Heb 13:18.

b. Ananias son of Nedebaios became high priest about AD 47. He was arrested, sent to Rome and probably deprived of office in 51 or 52, then reinstated; he was assassinated in 66 at the beginning of the Jewish War.

c. The resurrection of the body, see 2 M 7:9, and the doctrine of angels, see Tb 5:4, were not part of Jewish teaching until a comparatively late date. From the text it appears that the Sadducees rejected the latter as well as the former (they certainly denied the doctrine of retribution in the world to come). On both questions Paul and the Pharisees were in agreement, see 4:1 seq., 1a. Paul uses this point of disagreement between his opponents to throw them into confusion.

d. This hypothesis seems to be intended to explain the vision on the road to Damascus.

e. By calling down God's vengeance on themselves should they weaken.

f. Antonius Felix, a freedman, brother of Pallas, Agrippina's favourite; he was procurator of Judaea from 52 to 59 or 60.

g. Western text '. . . points of the Law of Moses, and a man called Jesus'.

h. Luke emphasises such statements which attest Paul's innocence, see v. 9; 25:18.25; 26:31; 28:18, as he did in the case of Jesus, see 3:13; 13:28; Lk 23:14–15,22.

i. add. 'Farewell'.

j. A palace built by Herod the Great which had become the official residence of the Roman procurator.

24 a. The opponents of Christianity see in it only a sect, cf. 5:17, within Judaism, cf. v. 14; 28:22.

b. The Jews claim that this is their affair, see 25:9; Jn 18:31f. Several witnesses add 'intending to judge him according to our Law,[7] • but the tribune Lysias intervened and took him out of our hands by force,[8] • ordering the accusers to appear before you.'

c. 'him' is Paul, according to the short text adopted here; according to the long text (see note b) it could be Lysias.

d. Paul denies the charge of inciting to riot (see v. 5), vv. 11–13. He then explains how being a 'Nazarene' (see v. 5) in no way prevents him from being a faithful Jew, vv. 14–16. He goes on to refute the charge of profaning the Temple, vv. 17–19. Finally he reminds them that it had been found impossible to convict him when he appeared before the Sanhedrin, vv. 20–21.

Paul's speech before the Roman governor

'I know that you have administered justice over this nation for many years, and I can therefore speak with confidence in my defence. ·As you can verify for 11 11:30p;20:16 yourself, it is no more than twelve days since I went up to Jerusalem on pilgrimage,[e] and it is not true that they ever found me arguing with anyone or stirring up the 12 mob, either in the Temple, in the synagogues, or about the town; ·neither can they 13 give you any proof of the accusations they are making against me now.

9:2b 'What I do admit to you is this: it is according to the Way, which they describe as 14 a sect, that I worship the God of my ancestors, retaining my belief in all points of Mt 5:17h Rm 3:31;10:4 the Law and in what is written in the prophets;[f] ·and I hold the same hope in God 15
23:6+ as they[g] do that there will be a resurrection of the upright and the wicked alike. ·In 16
Dn 12:2b Jn 5:29f these things, I, as much as they, do my best to keep a clear conscience at all times 23:1a before God and everyone.

'After several years[h] I came to bring relief-money to my nation[i] and to make 17 offerings;[j] ·it was in connection with these that they found me in the Temple; I 18 had been purified, and there was no crowd involved, and no disturbance. ·But 19 21:27 some Jews from Asia—these are the ones who should have appeared before you and accused me of whatever they had against me. ·At least let those who are 20 present say what crime they held against me when I stood before the Sanhedrin, unless it were to do with this single claim, when I stood up among them and 21 23:6+ called out, "It is about the resurrection of the dead that I am on trial before you today." '[k]

Paul's captivity at Caesarea

9:2b At this, Felix, who was fairly well informed about the Way, adjourned the case, 22 saying, 'When Lysias the tribune comes down I will give judgement about your case.' ·He then gave orders to the centurion that he should be kept under arrest 23 but free from restriction, and that none of his own people should be prevented from seeing to his needs.[l]

Some days later Felix came with his wife Drusilla who was a Jewess.[m] He sent 24 18:5f for Paul and gave him a hearing on the subject of faith in Christ Jesus. ·But when 25
he began to treat of uprightness, self-control and the coming Judgement, Felix Mk 6:17–20 took fright[n] and said, 'You may go for the present; I will send for you when I find 17:32 it convenient.' ·At the same time he had hopes of receiving money from Paul, and 26 for this reason he sent for him frequently and had talks with him.

25:9 When two years[o] came to an end, Felix was succeeded by Porcius Festus[p] and, 27 being anxious to gain favour with the Jews,[q] Felix left Paul in custody.

Paul appeals to Caesar

25 Three days after his arrival in the province,[a] Festus went up to Jerusalem 1 from Caesarea. ·The chief priests and leaders of the Jews informed him of 2 23:12–15 the case against Paul,[b] ·urgently asking him to support them against him, and to 3 have him transferred to Jerusalem. They were preparing an ambush to murder him on the way. ·But Festus replied that Paul was in custody in Caesarea, and that he 4 would be going back there shortly himself. ·He said, 'Let your authorities come 5 down with me, and if there is anything wrong about the man, they can bring a charge against him.'

After staying with them for eight or ten days at the most, he went down to 6
Caesarea and the next day he took his seat on the tribunal and had Paul brought in.
As soon as Paul appeared, the Jews who had come down from Jerusalem sur- 7 17:6–7 Mt 26:59par.; 27:12–14 Lk 23:10 rounded him, making many serious accusations which they were unable to substan-
·21:18f;24:14f tiate. ·Paul's defence was this, 'I have committed no offence whatever against 8
24:27 either Jewish law, or the Temple, or Caesar.' ·Festus was anxious to gain favour 9 with the Jews, so he said to Paul, 'Are you willing to go up to Jerusalem and be tried on these charges before me there?'[c] ·But Paul replied, 'I am standing before 10 the tribunal of Caesar and this is where I should be tried. I have done the Jews no 11 wrong, as you very well know. •If I am guilty of committing any capital crime, I do not ask to be spared the death penalty. But if there is no substance in the accusations these persons bring against me, no one has a right to surrender me to 12 them. I appeal to Caesar.'[d] •Then Festus conferred with his advisers and replied,

'You have appealed to Caesar; to Caesar you shall go.' 26:32;28:19

Paul appears before King Agrippa

13 Some days later King Agrippa and Bernice[e] arrived in Caesarea and paid their 14 respects to Festus. •Their visit lasted several days, and Festus put Paul's case before the king, saying, 'There is a man here whom Felix left behind in custody, 15 and while I was in Jerusalem the chief priests and elders of the Jews laid 16 information against him, demanding his condemnation. •But I told them that Romans are not in the habit of surrendering any man, until the accused confronts 17 his accusers and is given an opportunity to defend himself against the charge. •So they came here with me, and I wasted no time but took my seat on the tribunal the 18 very next day and had the man brought in. •When confronted with him, his 19 accusers did not charge him with any of the crimes I had expected; •but they had some argument or other with him about their own religion and about a dead man 18:15;23:29 20 called Jesus whom Paul alleged to be alive. •Not feeling qualified to deal with 23:6+ Lk 24:5,23 1 Co 15:12–20 2 Co 13:4
questions of this sort, I asked him if he would be willing to go to Jerusalem to be 21 tried there on this issue. •But Paul put in an appeal for his case to be reserved for the judgement of the emperor,[f] so I ordered him to be remanded until I could send 22 him to Caesar.' •Agrippa said to Festus, 'I should like to hear the man myself.'[g]
He answered, 'Tomorrow you shall hear him.'

23 So the next day Agrippa and Bernice arrived in great state and entered the audience chamber attended by the tribunes and the city notables; and Festus 24 ordered Paul to be brought in. •Then Festus said, 'King Agrippa, and all here present with us, you see before you the man about whom the whole Jewish community has petitioned me, both in Jerusalem and here, loudly protesting that 25 he ought not to be allowed to remain alive. •For my own part I am satisfied that he 21:36+ has committed no capital crime, but when he himself appealed to the emperor I 23:29h 26 decided to send him. •But I have nothing definite that I can write to his Imperial Majesty[h] about him; that is why I have produced him before you all, and before

e. lit. 'to worship', cf. 8:27.

f. Christianity is not a different religion, it is Judaism with its ancient hope fulfilled. If the Jews reject Christ, they reject their own religious tradition. Compare the discourse before Agrippa, ch. 26, the early Christian argument from prophecy, 2:23*o*; 3:24*s*, and Paul's own assertions, Rm 1:2; 3:31; 10:4; 16:26; 1 Co 15:3–4; Ga 3.

g. The Pharisees, see 23:6 and refs.

h. The visit of 18:22 must have been at least four years earlier and the 'council of Jerusalem' visit eight or nine years earlier.

i. The only allusion in Ac to the real purpose of the journey, namely to deliver in Jerusalem the collection made among the churches in gentile territory, see 1 Co 16:1a.

j. Sacrifices, cf. 21:24, 26.

k. A doctrine of the Pharisees: Paul shrewdly implies that Christians and Pharisees have something in common.

l. The same conditions as for Paul's imprisonment in Rome.

m. Youngest daughter of Herod Agrippa I (12:1a). She had left her first husband, the king of Emesa, to marry Felix.

n. Felix was avaricious, cruel and dissolute. Compare the attitude of John the Baptist before Herod Antipas.

o. Roman law prescribed penalties for accusers who failed to follow up their charges, but there is no suggestion that the accused should be released in such a case.

p. Appointed probably in 60, died in 62.

q. 'being anxious to gain favour with the Jews'; Western text 'And he left Paul in prison on account of Drusilla.'

25 a. Or 'after taking office'.

b. Same procedure as in 24:1, cf. 25:15.

c. Festus realises that the dispute is about religious matters, a case not for him but for the Sanhedrin (see vv. 19–20). But as a Roman citizen Paul could not be committed to the Sanhedrin without his own consent. To secure this, Festus promises to attend and to preside over the discussion.

d. Since Festus has disclaimed jurisdiction, Paul cannot escape trial before the Sanhedrin except by claiming the Roman citizen's privilege of trial before the imperial tribunal.

e. Agrippa, Bernice and Drusilla (see 24:24) were children of Herod Agrippa I, see 12:1a. The eldest, later Agrippa II, was born in 27. At this time Bernice was living with her brother and their relationship became matter for gossip; some years later Bernice became the mistress of Titus, the Roman general, later emperor.

f. lit. 'Augustus'; so also in v. 25. The title 'Augustus', like 'Caesar', was borne by the ruling emperor, in this case Nero (54–68).

g. Just as his great-uncle Herod Antipas had wanted to see Jesus, Lk 9:9; 23:8.

h. Term for the emperor considered as a king whose power was absolute and universal, and therefore practically divine.

you in particular, King Agrippa, so that after the examination I may have something to write. •It seems to me pointless to send a prisoner without indicating the 27 charges against him.'

13:16 26 Then Agrippa said to Paul, 'You have leave to speak on your own behalf.' 1
And Paul held up his hand and began his defence:

Paul's speech before King Agrippa [a]

'I consider myself fortunate, King Agrippa, in that it is before you I am to answer 2
today all the charges made against me by the Jews, •the more so because [b] you are 3 an expert in matters of custom and controversy among the Jews. So I beg you to listen to me patiently.

22:3+ 'My manner of life from my youth, a life spent from the beginning among my 4 own people and in Jerusalem, is common knowledge among the Jews. •They have 5 known me for a long time and could testify, if they would, that I followed the 23:6+ strictest party in our religion and lived as a Pharisee. •And now it is for my hope in 6
the promise made by God to our ancestors that I am on trial, •the promise that our 7 2 M 7:9 Dn 12:1–3 twelve tribes, constant in worship night and day, hope to attain. [c] For that hope,
Your Majesty, I am actually put on trial by Jews! •Why does it seem incredible to 8
Rm 4:17 2 Co 1:9 Heb 11:19 you that God should raise the dead? [d]

'As for me, I once thought it was my duty to use every means to oppose the name 9 =9:1–18; =22:5–16 of Jesus the Nazarene. •This I did in Jerusalem; I myself threw many of God's holy 10
Mt 2:23*l* people into prison, acting on authority from the chief priests, and when they were 9:13*g* being sentenced to death I cast my vote against them. •I often went round the 11 8:1;22:20 synagogues inflicting penalties, trying in this way to force them to renounce their faith; my fury against them was so extreme that I even pursued them into foreign cities.

'On such an expedition I was going to Damascus, armed with full powers and a 12 commission from the chief priests, •and in the middle of the day as I was on my 13 way, Your Majesty, I saw a light from heaven shining more brilliantly than the sun round me and my fellow-travellers. •We all fell to the ground, and I heard a voice 14 21:40*q* 1 Co 9:16*seq.* saying to me in Hebrew, "Saul, Saul, why are you persecuting me? It is hard for you, kicking against the goad." [e] •Then I said, "Who are you, Lord?" And the 15 Ezk 2:1 Dn 10:11 Lord answered, "I am Jesus, whom you are persecuting. •But get up and stand on 16 your feet, for I have appeared to you for this reason: to appoint you as my servant
1:8*k*;20:24 and as witness of this vision in which you have seen me, and of others in which I
Jr 1:5–8 shall appear to you. •I shall rescue you from the people and from the nations to 17 9:17–18 Is 42:7,16 Jn 8:12*b* Col 1:12–14 1 P 2:9 whom I send you •to open their eyes, so that they may turn from darkness to light, [f] 18 from the dominion of Satan to God, and receive, through faith in me, forgiveness of their sins [g] and a share in the inheritance of the sanctified."

•Dt 33:3–4 •Ga 1:16 'After that, King Agrippa, I could not disobey the heavenly vision. •On the 19, 20 contrary I started preaching, first to the people of Damascus, then to those of 2:38*x* Lk 3:8*par.* Jerusalem and all Judaean territory, and also to the gentiles, urging them to repent and turn to God, proving their change of heart by their deeds. •This was why the 21 21:30–31 Jews laid hands on me in the Temple and tried to do away with me. •But I was 22 blessed with God's help, and so I have stood firm to this day, testifying to great and 2:23*o* small alike, saying nothing more than what the prophets and Moses himself said
1 Co 15:20–23 would happen: •that the Christ was to suffer and that, as the first to rise from the 23 13:47 dead, he was to proclaim a light for our people and for the gentiles.'

His hearers' reactions

He had reached this point in his defence when Festus shouted out, 'Paul, you are 24 out of your mind; all that learning of yours is driving you mad.' [h] •But Paul 25
Jn 18:37–38 answered, 'Festus, your Excellency, I am not mad: I am speaking words of sober truth and good sense. •The king understands these matters, and to him I now speak 26 13:46*gg* fearlessly. I am confident that nothing of all this comes as a surprise to him; after all, these things were not done in a corner. [i] •King Agrippa, do you believe in the 27

28 prophets? I know you do.' ·At this Agrippa said to Paul, 'A little more, and your 29 arguments would make a Christian[j] of me.' ·Paul replied 'Little or much,[k] I wish before God that not only you but all who are listening to me today would come to be as I am—except for these chains.' 28:20 30 At this the king rose to his feet, with the governor and Bernice and those who sat
31 there with them. ·When they had retired they talked together and agreed, 'This 32 man is doing nothing that deserves death or imprisonment.' ·And Agrippa re- 23:29h marked to Festus, 'The man could have been set free if he had not appealed to 25:11;28:19 Caesar.'

The departure for Rome

1 27 When it had been decided that we[a] should sail to Italy, Paul and some other 16:10g prisoners were handed over to a centurion called Julius, of the Augustan 2 cohort. ·We boarded a vessel from Adramyttium bound for ports on the Asiatic coast and put to sea; we had Aristarchus with us, a Macedonian of Thessalonica. 19:29n 3 Next day we put in at Sidon, and Julius was considerate enough to allow Paul to go to his friends to be looked after.
4 From there we put to sea again, but as the winds were against us we sailed under 5 the lee of Cyprus, ·then across the open sea off Cilicia and Pamphylia, taking a 6 fortnight[b] to reach Myra in Lycia. ·There the centurion found an Alexandrian ship leaving for Italy and put us aboard.
7 For some days we made little headway, and we had difficulty in making Cnidus.
The wind would not allow us to touch there, so we sailed under the lee of Crete off
8 Cape Salmone ·and struggled along the coast until we came to a place called Fair Havens, near the town of Lasea.

Storm and shipwreck

Jon 1:4–16
Mt 8:23–27p

9 A great deal of time had been lost, and navigation was already hazardous, since it
10 was now well after the time of the Fast,[c] so Paul gave them this warning, ·'Friends, I can see this voyage will be dangerous and that we will run considerable risk of 11 losing not only the cargo and the ship but also our lives as well.' ·But the centurion took more notice of the captain and the ship's owner than of what Paul was saying; 12 and since the harbour was unsuitable for wintering, the majority were for putting out from there in the hope of wintering at Phoenix—a harbour in Crete, facing south-west and north-west.
13 A southerly breeze sprang up and, thinking their objective as good as reached,
14 they weighed anchor and began to sail past Crete, close inshore. ·But it was not

26 a. A flattering address, vv. 2–3; cf. 24:2–3,10, is followed by Paul's assertion that his Christian faith in bodily resurrection is shared by the Pharisees, vv. 4–8; see Mt 3:7f. Paul then describes the circumstances of his conversion, vv. 9–18; cf. 9:1–18; 22:3–16, and ends with a summary of his preaching which presents the Christian faith simply as the fulfilment of the scriptures, vv. 19–23; cf. 13:15–41. Behind the actual point of difference lies the whole question of the relationship between Judaism and Christianity, see 24:14f.

b. Others translate 'more than anyone'.

c. The messianic hope takes definite shape in the belief in the resurrection of the upright who are to have their place in the kingdom at the end of time, see 2 M 7:9c; Dn 12:1–3. This hope has its initial fulfilment in the resurrection of Christ which is the ground of Christian hope, 1 Co 15:15–22; Col 1:18.

d. var. vv. 7–8 'the promise for which our twelve tribes assiduously worship God day and night in the hope of attaining it; it is for this that I am now arraigned by the Jews: namely, that God raises the dead.'

e. Greek proverb for useless resistance: the ox kicking against the goad succeeds only in wounding itself.

f. Paul's missionary vocation is described here in OT terms used about two great prophetic figures, Jeremiah and the servant of Yahweh.

g. In 9:17–18, Paul, his sight restored, passes from darkness to light; in 22:16 (cf. 9:18) Paul is ordered to wash away his sins by baptism. Thus his own experience is a symbol of his mission to others.

h. Festus is taken aback by Paul's biblical erudition and probably by the Jewish method of argument. Agrippa is silent; he is clearly shaken, see his evasive reply in v. 28.

i. The scriptures are being fulfilled by events (v. 23; the passion and death of Christ; the widespread apostolic preaching) which all the world can see.

j. The word is still a nickname, see 11:26*l*. • var. 'In a little while you will persuade me to become a Christian!' or, 'In a little while you will persuade yourself you have made me a Christian!'

k. A play on Agrippa's phrase.

27 a. The narrative in the first person resumes and now continues till Paul reaches Rome, see 16:10g. The precision of the narrative suggests a carefully kept diary. Alternatively the author may have used a neutral account of a sea voyage ending in shipwreck, and inserted those passages where the prisoner Paul unexpectedly assumes command, vv. 9b–11, 21–26, 30b–31, 33–36.

b. lit. 'for fifteen days', Western text.

c. Another name for the feast of Expiation, the only fast-day prescribed by the Law, Lv. 16:29–31. It was celebrated about the time of the autumn equinox.

long before a hurricane, the 'north-easter' as they call it, burst on them from across the island. ·The ship was caught and could not keep head to wind, so we had to 15 give way to the wind and let ourselves be driven. ·We ran under the lee of a small 16 island called Cauda and managed with some difficulty to bring the ship's boat under control. ·Having hauled it up they used it to undergird the ship; then, afraid 17 of running aground on the Syrtis banks, they floated out the sea-anchor and so let themselves drift. ·As we were thoroughly storm-bound, the next day they began to 18
jettison the cargo, ·and the third day they threw the ship's gear overboard with 19 their own hands. ·For a number of days both the sun and the stars were invisible 20 and the storm raged unabated until at last we gave up all hope of surviving.

27:33 Then, when they had been without food for a long time,[d] Paul stood up among 21
the men. 'Friends,' he said, 'you should have listened to me and not put out from Crete. You would have spared yourselves all this damage and loss. ·But now I ask 22 27:34 you not to give way to despair. There will be no loss of life at all, only of the ship.
18:9;23:11 Last night there appeared beside me an angel of the God to whom I belong and 23
10:3+ Jon 1:9 whom I serve, ·and he said, "Do not be afraid, Paul. You are destined to appear 24 before Caesar,[e] and God grants you the safety of all who are sailing with you."
So take courage, friends; I trust in God that things will turn out just as I was told; 25
but we are to be stranded on some island.' 26

On the fourteenth night we were being driven one way and another in the 27
Adriatic,[f] when about midnight the crew sensed that land of some sort was near.
They took soundings and found twenty fathoms; after a short interval they 28 sounded again and found fifteen fathoms. ·Then, afraid that we might run aground 29 somewhere on a reef, they dropped four anchors from the stern and prayed for daylight. ·When the crew tried to escape from the ship and lowered the ship's boat 30 into the sea as though they meant to lay out anchors from the bows, Paul said to the centurion and his men, ·'Unless those men stay on board you cannot hope to 31 be saved.' ·So the soldiers cut the boat's ropes and let it drop away. 32

27:21 Just before daybreak Paul urged them all to have something to eat. 'For fourteen 33 days', he said, 'you have been in suspense, going hungry and eating nothing. ·I 34 27:22, 24 urge you to have something to eat; your safety depends on it. Not a hair of any of Lk 24:30 your heads will be lost.' ·With these words he took some bread, gave thanks to 35
God in view of them all, broke it and began to eat.[g] ·They all plucked up courage 36 and took something to eat themselves. ·In all we were two hundred and seventy- 37 six souls on board that ship. ·When they had eaten what they wanted they lightened 38 the ship by throwing the corn overboard into the sea.

When day came they did not recognise the land, but they could make out a bay 39 with a beach; they planned to run the ship aground on this if they could. ·They 40 slipped the anchors and let them fall into the sea, and at the same time loosened the lashings of the rudders; then, hoisting the foresail to the wind, they headed for the beach. ·But the cross-currents carried them into a shoal and the vessel ran 41 aground. The bows were wedged in and stuck fast, while the stern began to break up with the pounding of the waves.

12:19g The soldiers planned to kill the prisoners for fear that any should swim off and 42 escape. ·But the centurion was determined to bring Paul safely through and would 43 not let them carry out their plan. He gave orders that those who could swim should jump overboard first and so get ashore, ·and the rest follow either on planks or on 44 pieces of wreckage. In this way it happened that all came safe and sound to land.

Waiting in Malta

28 Once we had come safely through, we discovered that the island was called 1 Malta. ·The inhabitants treated us with unusual kindness. They made us all 2 welcome by lighting a huge fire because it had started to rain and the weather was cold. ·Paul had collected a bundle of sticks and was putting them on the fire when 3 a viper brought out by the heat attached itself to his hand. ·When the inhabitants 4 saw the creature hanging from his hand they said to one another, 'That man must be a murderer; he may have escaped the sea, but divine justice [a] would not let him

5 live.' ·However, he shook the creature off into the fire and came to no harm, Mk 16:18 Lk 10:19
6 although they were expecting him at any moment to swell up or drop dead on the spot. After they had waited a long time without seeing anything out of the ordinary happen to him, they changed their minds and began to say he was a god. 14:11

7 In that neighbourhood there were estates belonging to the chief man of the island, whose name was Publius. He received us and entertained us hospitably for 8 three days. ·It happened that Publius' father was in bed, suffering from fever and dysentery. Paul went in to see him, and after a prayer he laid his hands on the man 5:15–16;8: 7–8; 9:12 9 and healed him. ·When this happened, the other sick people on the island also Lk 4:40;19: 9par.
10 came and were cured; ·they honoured us with many marks of respect, and when 1 Tm 4:14c we sailed they put on board the provisions we needed.

From Malta to Rome

11 At the end of three months we set sail in a ship that had wintered in the island; she 12 came from Alexandria and her figurehead was the Twins. ·We put in at Syracuse
13 and spent three days there; ·from there we followed the coast up to Rhegium. After one day there a south wind sprang up and on the second day we made 14 Puteoli, [b] ·where we found some brothers and had the great encouragement of staying a week with them. And so we came to Rome.

15 When the brothers there heard about us they came to meet us, as far as the Forum of Appius and the Three Taverns. When Paul saw them he thanked God
16 and took courage. ·On our arrival in Rome Paul was allowed to stay in lodgings of his own with the soldier who guarded him. [c]

Paul makes contact with the Roman Jews [d]

17 After three days he called together the leading Jews. When they had assembled, he said to them, 'Brothers, although I have done nothing against our people or the customs of our ancestors, I was arrested in Jerusalem and handed over to the 21:21h;24:14f
18 Romans. ·They examined me and would have set me free, since they found me
19 guilty of nothing involving the death penalty; ·but the Jews lodged an objection, 23:29h and I was forced to appeal to Caesar, though not because I had any accusation to 25:11;26:32
20 make against my own nation. [e] ·That is why I have urged you to see me and have a discussion with me, for it is on account of the hope of Israel that I wear this chain.' 23:6+;26:6–8 •26:29

21 They answered, [f] 'We have received no letters from Judaea about you, nor has Lk 4:44k any of the brothers arrived here with any report or story of anything to your 22 discredit. ·We think it would be as well to hear your own account of your position; 17:19–20 all we know about this sect is that it encounters opposition everywhere.' 24:5.14

Paul's declaration to the Roman Jews [g]

23 So they arranged a day with him and a large number of them visited him at his lodgings. He put his case to them, testifying to the kingdom of God and trying to 13:16–41 •1:3d persuade them about Jesus, arguing from the Law of Moses and the prophets from •2:23o 24 early morning until evening; ·and some were convinced by what he said, while the

d. Paul's second speech (vv. 33seq.) would follow naturally on this observation. This first speech (vv. 21–26) seems to have been rather clumsily introduced into this context and to be partly a doublet of the second.

e. Not before Nero in person but before his tribunal.

f. The name was used for all that part of the Mediterranean between Greece, Italy and Africa.

g. Western text add. 'giving it to us also'. • All Jews said a blessing when about to eat; nevertheless, the terms Luke uses seem to suggest the Eucharist. see 2:42gg.

28 a. lit. 'justice', dike, divine justice personified.

b. Pozzuoli on the Gulf of Naples. There was already a Christian colony in this busy port.

c. Western text (adopted by the Antiochene recension) . . . Rome, the centurion handed the prisoners over to the commander. But Paul was allowed to live outside the (Praetorian) camp.' This additional information agrees with what in fact must have happened. By the concession of custodia militaris the prisoner had his own lodgings, but his right arm was chained to the left of the soldier in charge.

d. Paul wants to establish good relations with the Jews of Rome as soon as possible. He gives a brief account of his trial, and for the last time protests his loyalty to Judaism.

e. Western text add. 'but merely wished to escape death'.

f. The reply is cautious.

g. In Rome also Paul preaches the gospel first to the Jews. see 13:5e. The summary of this preaching should be compared with the opening discourse in Pisidian Antioch. 13:15–41.

13:46–47; 14:4; 17:4–5 rest were sceptical. ·So they disagreed among themselves and, as they went away, 25
Paul had one last thing to say to them.[h] ·'How aptly the Holy Spirit spoke when he told your ancestors through the prophet Isaiah:

Is 6:9–10

Go and say to this people: 26
Listen and listen but never understand!
Look and look but never perceive!
This people's heart is torpid, 27 their ears dulled, they have shut their eyes tight, to avoid using their eyes to see, their ears to hear,
using their heart to understand,
changing their ways and being healed by me.

18:6 'You must realise, then, that this salvation of God has been sent to the gentiles; 28 and they will listen to it.'[i]

Epilogue[j]

He spent the whole of the two years[k] in his own rented lodging. He welcomed all 30 who came to visit him, ·proclaiming the kingdom of God and teaching the truth 31 13:46gg about the Lord Jesus Christ with complete fearlessness and without any hindrance
Ph 1:12–13 from anyone.[l]

h. Paul's words are reminiscent of those following his discourse at Antioch, 13:46–47. They constitute the finale of Ac, and sound its predominant note, see 13:41aa. They recall the vision of the future offered by Jesus at the end of his discourse in Nazareth, Lk 4:23–27, and in his last words to the apostles, Lk 24:27. The text from Is 6:9–10 (LXX) is also used in Mt 13:14–15 (cf. Mk 4:12 and par.) and, in part, in Jn 12:40. Both theme and text are commonplaces of early Christianity.

i. The Western text (followed by the Antiochene recension) adds v. 29 'And when he had said this, the Jews left, arguing hotly between themselves.'

j. Thus Paul arrived in Rome, which brings one period of evangelisation to a close, see 1:8i; Lk 24:47, and is presented as the starting-point for a further advance of Christianity. Before Luke had finished his Gospel he had opened up wide horizons to the apostolic mission; his Book of Acts ends with the same prospect for the future.

k. The same term as in 24:27o. The NT gives no clear indication what happens after this period, though Phm 22 (if it was written now) shows that Paul hoped to be released soon. But Nero was given to occasional acts of clemency and Paul may have benefited from one of these.

l. Western text add, 'saying that this is he, Jesus, the son of God, by whom the whole world is destined to be judged,' see 17:31. • On Paul's ministry after his discharge, his second imprisonment, and his death, see p. 1850.

THE LETTERS OF PAUL

INTRODUCTION TO
THE LETTERS OF PAUL

§1 CHRONOLOGY

Through the Acts of the Apostles and through his own letters Paul is more familiar to us than any other figure of the New Testament. Even though allowance must be made for Luke's particular method of historical writing and his theological interests, there is no reason to believe that the broad outlines of his presentation of Paul's ministry are unreliable. We can therefore construct a fairly exact chronology of Paul's life by reference to events in secular history whose dates are known, such as Gallio's proconsulate in Corinth, Ac 18:12, and the year Festus succeeded Felix, Ac 24:27–25:1. These give us two fixed points relative to which other dates in the life of the Apostle may be established more or less accurately.

Paul, born at Tarsus in Cilicia, Ac 9:11; 21:39; 22:3, about AD 10—possibly in the first decade of our era—of a Jewish family of the tribe of Benjamin, Rm 11:1; Ph 3:5, was a Roman citizen, Ac 16:37seq.; 22:25–28; 23:27. As a young man he received the thorough grounding in the scriptures of an educated Pharisee, with the all-embracing Law as its basis. According to Acts he received this education in Jerusalem from Gamaliel, one of the most distinguished teachers of his generation. Acts also tells us how Paul persecuted the young Christian Church (Ac 22:4seq.; 26:9–12; Ga 1:13; Ph 3:6), played some part in the martyrdom of Stephen (Ac 7:58; 22:20), and became a bitter persecutor of the Hellenist Christians, who had dissociated themselves from the Judaism centred on the Temple in Jerusalem, Ac 8:3; 22:4; Ga 1:13. But on the road to Damascus, c. AD 34, a vision of the risen Jesus changed his whole life. The risen Lord opened his mind to the truth of the Christian faith and revealed that he had chosen him to be the apostle of the gentiles, Ac 9:3–16 and par.; Ga 1:12, 15seq. From then on, Paul dedicated his life to serving Christ who had personally chosen him as his follower, Ph 3:12. After spending some time in Arabia he returned to Damascus, Ga 1:17, and began his preaching there, Ac 9:20. In about AD 39, after a brief visit to Jerusalem, Ac 9:26–29; Ga 1:18, Paul went to Syria and Cilicia, Ac 9:30; Ga 1:21, till Barnabas fetched him back to Antioch where they preached together, Ac 11:25seq. and cf. 9:27.

During Paul's first missionary journey (45–9) to Cyprus, Pamphilia, Pisidia and Lycaonia, Ac 13–14, he started using his Greek name Paul instead of his Jewish name Saul, Ac 13:9, and, because of his more important role in preaching, he began to take the lead over Barnabas, Ac 14:12. In AD 49, fourteen years after his conversion, he went to Jerusalem, Ga 2:1, and he and Barnabas were recognised as the apostles to the gentiles by the leaders of the church there, who were 'the apostles to the circumcised', Ga 2:90. The dates of his second (AD 50–2; Ac 15:36–18:22) and third missionary journeys (AD 53–8; Ac 18:23–21:17) are discussed later under the letters he wrote at intervals during those journeys. In AD 58, Paul was arrested in Jerusalem, Ac 21:27–23:22, and imprisoned at Caesarea Palestinae until AD 60, Ac 23:23–26:32. In the autumn of AD 60, Festus the procurator sent him to Rome under escort, Ac 27:1–28:16 where he lived for two years, AD 61–3, Ac 28:30. There our certain knowledge of Paul's life ends. Ancient tradition, relying to some extent on the Pastoral Letters (on whose historical value see below), teaches that after two years his case was dismissed for lack of evidence, and Paul travelled again in the East, though he may well have made his projected (Rm 15:24, 28) visit to Spain. Tradition also holds that a subsequent imprisonment in Rome ended in martyrdom, in AD 67.

§2 THE CHARACTER OF PAUL

As well as this chronology, it is possible to recover quite a detailed portrait of Paul from his letters and from Acts.

He was a person of great dedication, capable of pursuing an ideal with a complete disregard for the cost. For him, the only thing that mattered was God, and as God's servant, Paul refused any sort of compromise. It was with equally single-minded determination that he had persecuted those he considered God's enemies, see Ac 24:5, 14, and later preached Christ as the one, universal Saviour. This Saviour he served passionately and selflessly for the rest of his life. He knew what work he had been given to do, 1 Co 9:16, and he let nothing stop him from doing it: hard work, exhaustion, suffering, poverty, danger of death, 1 Co 4:9–13; 2 Co 4:8seq.; 6:4–10; 11:23–27. Far from letting these things weaken his love for God or Christ, Rm 8:35–39, he welcomed them, since they helped him to grow into the image of his suffering and crucified Master, 2 Co 4:10seq.; Ph 3:10seq. The knowledge that his vocation was unique gave him an enormous ambition, but it did not make him arrogant. It was with holy humility that Paul felt a personal pride in being responsible for so many churches, 2 Co 11:28, compare Col 1:24seq., and claimed to have done more missionary work than others, 1 Co 15:10, compare 2 Co 11:5, and offered himself as a model to his converts, 2 Th 3:7b. He never forgot that, having persecuted the Church of Christ, he was the unworthiest of all the apostles. All the great things he succeeded in doing he attributed to God's grace working through him, 1 Co 15:10; 2 Co 4:7; Ph 4:13; Col 1:29.

Paul had a sensitive temperament that showed itself in his attitude to those he had converted. He had a childlike trust in the converts at Philippi, Ph 1:7seq.; 4:10–20, a deep affection for those at Ephesus, Ac 20:17–38; he was furious with those in Galatia who were on the verge of apostasy, Ga 1:6; 3:1–3, and deeply upset when he thought that the Christians in Corinth had become vain and unstable, 2 Co 12:11–13:10. When he was being ironical with people he considered superficial, 1 Co 4:8; 2 Co 11:7; 12:13, or when he was outspoken, 1 Co 3:1–3; 5:1–2; 6:5; 11:17–22; 2 Co 11:3seq.; Ga 3:1–

3; 4:11, it was only for their own good, 2 Co 7: 8–13, and after these outbursts he soon became tender, 2 Co 11:1–2; 12:14seq., and fatherly, 1 Co 4:14seq.; 2 Co 6:13, compare 1 Th 2:11; Phm 10, even motherly, Ga 4:19; 1 Th 2:7, and anxious to restore the earlier affection, 2 Co 7:11–13; Ga 4:12–20.

Paul's fiercest outbursts of indignation were directed against anybody who tried to seduce his converts, whether they were strict Jews, who were bitterly opposed to Hellenist Christianity and opposed him wherever he went, Ac 13:45, 50; 14:2, 19; 17:5, 13; 18:6; 19:9; 21:27, or judaising 'Hebrew' Christians who wanted all followers of Christ to follow the Law, Ga 1:7; 2:4; 6:12seq. He never minced his words with either of these groups, Ga 5:12; Ph 3:2; 1 Th 2:15seq. and, however unprepossessing, he felt himself to be an irresistible weapon wielded by divine power against ambitious, arrogant and unspiritual opponents, 2 Co 10:1–12:12. God's weapon was Paul's selfless sincerity, Ac 18:3d. It has been suggested that the people against whom he inveighs were in fact the senior apostles in Jerusalem, but in fact it seems clear from Ga 2 that Paul respected their authority in the Jewish Christian churches of the Jerusalem region while firmly resisting the influence of some of their followers in the gentile Christian churches that he had founded; he claimed only that he was just as much a witness to Christ as they were, 1 Co 9:1; 15:8–11; Ga 1:11seq. Even after his disagreement with Peter, Ga 2:11–14, his attitude was conciliatory. The collection which he organised for the poor Christians of Jerusalem, Ga 2:10, was intended as the proof that his gentile converts were truly one with the Christians of the mother church, Rm 15:25seq.; 2 Co 8:14; 9:12–13, however coolly it was received, Ac 21:17–25.

§3 PAUL AS PREACHER

What Paul proclaimed was in all essentials the apostolic kerygma, Ac 2:22n, i.e. that Christ had been crucified and raised from the dead and that this had been foretold in the scriptures, 1 Co 2:2; 15:3–4; Ga 3:1; what he calls 'his' gospel, Rm 2:16; 16:25, was identical to the faith held by the other apostles, Ga 1:6–9; Col 1:5–7, but he had no reservations about the admission of gentiles, and his first missionary activity, according to Ac 11, was at Antioch among gentile converts of the Hellenists 'scattered in the troubles over Stephen', Ga 1:16; 2:7–9. Paul accepts and sometimes appeals to the apostolic tradition, 1 Co 11:23; 15:3–7, to which he was deeply indebted. Though he probably never met Jesus during his earthly life, see 2 Co 5:16g, Paul was familiar with his teaching, Ac 20:35; 1 Co 7:10seq.; 1 Th 4:15, and confidently claimed to have seen the risen Christ, not only on the Damascus road, Ac 9:17; 22:14seq.; 26:16; 1 Co 9:1; 15:8, but on several occasions subsequently, Ac 22:17–21; 26:16. He also had revelations and ecstasies, 2 Co 12:1–4, but everything he had received from apostolic tradition he could also attribute, and justly, to direct communication from the Lord, 1 Co 11:23; Ga 1:12.

These mystical experiences have sometimes been attributed to Paul's excitable and morbid temperament, yet this is hardly likely. The disease that detained him in Galatia, Ga 4:13–15, cannot now be determined, but the 'thorn in my side', 2 Co 12:7, may well be the persistent hostility of Jews, his brothers 'according to the flesh', Rm 9:3. Paul does not seem to have had a very vivid imagination, to judge from his sparing and pedestrian use of imagery: the sportsground, 1 Co 9:24–27; Ph 3:12–14; and the sea. Two images, farming, 1 Co 3:6–8, and building, Rm 15:20; 1 Co 3:10–17, are so basic that he often mixes them, 1 Co 3:9; Col 2:7, compare Col 2:19. His genius was much more intellectual than imaginative, his enthusiasm was never divorced from the rigid logic with which he explains his teaching and adapts it to the needs of his audience. It is to this intellectual need to adapt his teaching to the occasion that we owe the remarkable theological analysis to which he repeatedly submits the kerygma. His logic, which is based on the rabbinical method in which he had been trained, may be unfamiliar today (e.g. Ga 3:16; 4:21–31). His genius, however, was never restricted by the tradition he inherited, so that these ancient conventions do not obscure the profundity of his teaching.

Paul was a Jew with a Greek cultural background probably acquired during his boyhood in Tarsus; this influence is obvious not only in his logical method but also in his language and style. He sometimes quotes Greek writers, Ac 17:28; 1 Co 15:33, and was familiar with popular Stoic-based philosophy from which he borrows concepts (e.g. of the soul separated from the body and bound for another world, 2 Co 5:6–8; the cosmic pleroma in Col) and clichés (Rm 11:36; 1 Co 8:6). From the Cynics and Stoics he borrowed the rapid question and answer method (diatribe), Rm 3:1–9, 27–31, and the rhetorical device of heaping word on word, 2 Co 6:4–10. Even the use of long, packed phrases in wave after wave, Ep 1:3–14; Col 1:9–20, has a precedent in Hellenist religious literature. The Greek that was a second mother tongue to Paul (see Ac 21:40), that he was able to use so familiarly with only occasional semitisms, was a cultured form of the koine, i.e. the popular Greek of his own day. Paul never attempted Attic elegance, and he deliberately avoided rhetoric, so that his audience would be convinced not by the form but by the content of his message of faith and by the signs the Spirit had promised to provide to confirm it, Rm 15:18; 1 Co 2:4seq.; 1 Th 1:5. This is one reason why his grammar is sometimes wrong and his sentences unfinished, 1 Co 9:15; another is that he sometimes thought too fast or too emotionally; a third is that with rare exceptions, Phm 19, he normally dictated his letters, Rm 16:22 (a common practice at the time), and wrote only the final greeting by way of signature, 1 Co 16:21; Ga 6:11; Col 4:18; 2 Th 3:17. Some passages in his letters were obviously written only after long and careful thought, e.g. Col 1:15–20, but mostly his letters suggest spontaneity and lack of revision. In spite of, or perhaps because of these literary faults, Paul's sentences are dynamic and packed with meaning. He is not easy to read, 2 P 3:16; profound thoughts expressed by an urgent writer never are; however, some passages have an extraordinary religious and literary power.

It is important to remember that Paul's letters were not meant as theological treatises: most of them represent his response to a particular situation in a particular church. They begin according to the usual epistolary convention, Rm 1:1a, but cannot be classed either as private letters, or as literary 'epistles'; they are Pauline instructions intended for a specific circle of readers and, in a general way, for all the faithful. Paul's letters do not give any systematic and exhaustive exposition of his teaching; they presuppose the oral teaching which preceded them, and enlarge and comment only upon certain points of that. This does not detract from their value: the depth and range of his letters give us all the essentials of Paul's message. No matter what the reason was for writing or who the people were to whom he was writing, his basic teaching remained the same: that Christ died and was raised from the dead. The apostle who was all things to all people, 1 Co 9:19–22, adapts this, his one basic doctrine, to the listener; he develops and enriches it. Paul has sometimes been accused of being an eclectic, in the sense of adopting not only different but contradictory opinions according to the circumstances in which he found himself, of being interested less in truth than in persuading people to believe in Christ. He has also been accused of not having an open mind, of being obsessed by the vision that converted him, and of never having allowed his ideas to develop. The truth between these extremes seems to be that Paul's theology remains homogeneous but that it did develop under the guidance of the Spirit, who inspired everything he did as an apostle. To show this development of Paul's thought, his letters have to be read in the order in which they were written; the order, however, in which they are printed here is the traditional one that arranges them in order of diminishing length.

§4 PAUL'S JOURNEYS AND LETTERS

§4a 1 and 2 Thessalonians: AD 50–1

The first letters to be written were to the converts Paul had made in Thessalonica in the summer of AD 50, during his second missionary journey, Ac 17:1–10. As a result of the hostility of some Jews he went on to Beroea, and from there to Athens and Corinth where, it seems, he wrote 1 Th during the winter of 50–1. When he wrote this letter, his companions were Silas and Timothy. Timothy had paid a second visit to Thessalonica, and brought back the good news of their faith under persecution, whence the affectionate tone of the opening chapters, 1–3; these are followed by a series of practical recommendations, 4:1–12; 5:12–28, including an answer to their questions about the destiny of the dead and about Christ's parousia, 4:13–5:11. It was at Corinth a few months later that 2 Th was probably written, making further practical recommendations, 1; 2:13–3:15, and offering fresh instruction on the time of the parousia and the signs that were to come before it, 2:1–12.

The literary resemblance between 1 and 2 Th is so close that some critics consider 2 Th a forgery made by one who had absorbed Paul's ideas and style; but it is hard to explain why this should have been done. A more obvious explanation is that when Paul wished to clarify and tidy up his teaching on eschatology, he used a number of expressions from the first letter in writing a second. The two letters are not contradictory but complementary and the earliest authorities accepted them both as written by Paul.

These two letters are particularly important because of their eschatological teaching, but they also introduce many points elaborated in subsequent letters. At this early stage, Paul's ideas were structured around the question of how the resurrection and parousia of Christ can bring salvation to his followers whether alive or dead, 1 Th 4:13–18. Paul described this parousia in the traditional terms of Jewish and the earliest Christian apocalyptic writings (e.g. the eschatological discourses in the Synoptic Gospels, especially in Mt). At one time he so emphasises, 1 Th 5:1–11, the unpredictable imminence of the coming and the necessity for vigilance, as to give the impression that he and his readers would live to see it, 4:17; at other times (2 Th 2:1–12) he tries to allay the anxiety naturally aroused and reminds his readers that the Day could not come till certain signs had preceded it. What these signs were to be is not as clear to us as it must have been to the first readers. Paul seems to consider the 'Adversary' to be an individual person who had to wait till the end of the age before he could appear; some writers consider that by the phrase 'what is still holding him back', 2 Th 2:6, Paul meant the Roman empire, others that he meant the preaching of the gospel; no certainty is possible.

§4b 1 and 2 Corinthians: AD 57

Paul wrote the letters to Thessalonica during the eighteen months he spent evangelising Corinth, Ac 18:1–18, from the end of AD 50 to the middle of 52. His policy was always to establish the Christian faith in a centre of population, and here he chose the great and populous port of Corinth, so that it could spread from there into the whole of Achaia, 2 Co 1:1; 9:2. The Christian community he established grew strong and was composed mostly of poor people, 1 Co 1:26–28, but Corinth was not only a great centre of Hellenism and a magnet to every sort of philosophy and religion, it was also a notorious centre of immorality; it was a milieu that could create awkward problems for the newly converted. It was to the solution of these problems that Paul addressed himself when he wrote his two letters to the Christians of Corinth.

How these two letters came to be written is clear enough, though some details are still disputed. There had been an earlier letter than these two canonical ones, 1 Co 5:9–13, but the date at which this first letter was written is unknown and it has not survived. Before the end of the two and a half years he spent at Ephesus (54–7) on his third missionary journey, Ac 19:1–20:1, a Corinthian delegation arrived to ask Paul certain questions, 1 Co 16:17; and as he had also received news of Corinth from Apollos, Ac 18:27seq.; 1 Co 16:12, and from Chloe's household, 1 Co 1:11, he felt obliged to write a second letter. This is 1 Co, and it was written at some time possibly near Easter, 57 (1 Co 5:7seq.; 16:5–9, compare Ac 19:21). Shortly afterwards, some sort of crisis developed in Corinth, and Paul was forced to pay a brief and painful visit, 2 Co 1:23–2:1; 12:14; 13:1–2. While there, he promised another and a longer visit, 2 Co 1:15–16, which never in fact took place. Instead, Paul sent a representative to whom he delegated his authority, but the only result was a second crisis; Paul's authority, committed to this delegate, had been flouted, 2 Co 2:5–10; 7:12. Paul still did not pay the promised visit, but sent a severe letter written 'in agony of mind', 2 Co 2:3seq., 9; this third letter had the desired effect, 2 Co 7:8–13. This good news that he heard from Titus reached Paul only after he had gone to Macedonia, 2 Co 2:12seq.; 7:5–16, having left Ephesus as a result of serious disturbances of which we know little, Ac 19:23–40; 1 Co 15:32; 2 Co 1:8–10. At this stage, towards the end of AD 57, he wrote 2 Co, or at least part of it, 1:1–6:13; 7:2–16 (see below). He must subsequently have travelled via Corinth, Ac 20:1seq., see 2 Co 9:5; 12:14; 13:1, 10, to Jerusalem, where he was arrested at Pentecost.

It has however been suggested that 2 Co 6:14–7:1 is a fragment of the lost first letter, and 2 Co 10–13 part of the letter written 'in agony of mind'. It would be hard to prove that they were parts of these two particular letters, but it is quite certain that these two sections are not in their original contexts. The first section reads like an insertion: 2 Co 7:2 follows naturally on 6:13, and the whole passage, 6:14–7:1, has remarkable affinity with some of the Essene literature discovered at Qumran. The vehemence of the second section, 2 Co 10–13, is certainly not in place after the friendly tone of the first nine chapters. To these two dislocations should be added the fact that 9:1 does not make sense after what has been said in ch. 8 about the collection, and is probably part of a completely different note on the subject. These were written on different occasions and were joined together only later when the collection of the apostle's writings was being made.

In these letters to Corinth, even the details about Paul and the way he treated his converts are important doctrinally. In particular, 1 Co contains a great deal of information about urgent problems that faced the church and about the decisions made to meet them: internally there were questions of moral conduct, 1 Co 5:1–13; 6:12–20, of marriage and virginity, 7:1–40, of liturgical and eucharistic meetings, of the charisms, 12:1–14:40; and also matters concerning the Church in the world, questions of appeals to civil courts, 6:1–11, and eating foods sacrificed to idols, ch. 8–10. It was Paul's religious genius to turn what might have remained cases of conscience or liturgical instruction into a vehicle for the profound doctrine of Christian liberty, the sanctification of the body, the supremacy of love, union with Christ. When forced to defend his apostolate, 2 Co 10–13, he writes a magnificent passage about the dignity of the apostle's mission, 2 Co 1:12–6:10; and when he brings up the business of collecting money, 2 Co 8–9, this is illuminated by the ideal of union betwen the churches. The eschatological basis of his doctrine is always present in Paul's mind, and provides the perspective in which he explains the resurrection of the body, 1 Co 15; here, however, the apocalyptic imagery of 1 and 2 Th gives place to a philosophical discussion intended to justify a doctrine that the Greek mind found so unsympathetic. This adaptation of the gospel to the new world which it is entering is seen above all in the contrast between the folly of the cross and Greek wisdom. The apostle's converts at Corinth had split into factions, each proud of its own leader and boasting about his talents; Paul reminded them that there is only one master, Christ, and only one message, the cross, and that there is only one true wisdom, 1 Co 1:10—4:13. Quite naturally, through the way events had developed, without surrendering anything of the primacy of his eschatological thought, the inner development of Paul's ideas led him to the point where he had to stress how the life we lead here and now is already a life of union between Christ and his followers, and that this union is achieved by faith, which is the only way to know him. But Paul was yet to reach a still deeper understanding of the life given by faith, and this time in relation to Judaism, in the wake of the crisis in Galatia.

§4c Galatians, Romans: AD 57–8

The letters Paul wrote to the Christians of Galatia and Rome need to be discussed together, since both letters analyse the same problem. The first was Paul's immediate reaction to a particular situation, but the second is an orderly exposition, both calmer and fuller, of the thinking stimulated by the controversy. The very close relationship between the two letters is really the strongest reason against the early dating of Ga (pre-AD 49, the council of Jerusalem) which some scholars have suggested. They argue that Paul's second visit to Jerusalem, Ga 2:1–10, was the second visit mentioned in Ac 11:30; 12:25, not the third, Ac 15:2–30, since several details here differ from Paul's account, and that, as Paul seems unaware of the decree of the council, Ac 15:20, 29 (see Ga 2:6), this letter must have been written before it. All difficulties disappear, it is argued, if it is supposed that the 'Galatians' are the Christians of Lycaonia and Pisidia, evangelised by Paul on his first missionary journey when he returned by the way he had come; this would explain the double visit that Ga 4:13 seems to imply. This hypothesis has little to support it, apart from the fact that Lycaonia and Pisidia had been part of the province of Galatia in 36–25 BC; in the first century AD, however, 'Galatia' normally referred to Galatia properly so called, which lay to the north of Lycaonia and Pisidia, and it is unlikely that the inhabitants of each district were both called 'Galatians', Ga 3:1. This hypothesis is in any case quite unnecessary. The second visit of Ga 2:1–10 may much more easily be identified with the third visit mentioned in Ac 15, than with the second visit of Ac 11:30; 10:25. The explanation of any discrepancies is therefore either that Paul considered this intermediate visit so unimportant that he omitted to mention it in Ga, or that the visit is simply the product of a literary duplication by Luke (see Introduction to Acts of the Apostles p. 1796, and Acts 11:30p). Thus the letter to the Galatians was indeed written well after the council of Jerusalem. The reason why Paul does not mention the decree could, perhaps, be that its date was later than that of Galatians, or that Paul learned about the decree only on his return to Jerusalem in AD 58. This would explain Peter's conduct that Paul says he criticised, Ga 2:11–14. The converts to whom the letter was addressed would then be the inhabitants of the 'Galatian territory' (i.e. North Galatia) through which Paul passed on his second and third journeys, Ac 16:6; 18:23. The letter may have been written at Ephesus, or even in Macedonia, about the year 57.

The letter to the Christians of Rome must, in this case, have been written soon after. In the winter of 57–8 Paul was at Corinth preparing to go to Jerusalem and from there to visit Rome on the way to Spain, Rm 15:22–32; cf. 1 Co 16:3–6; Ac 19:21; 20:3. He had not founded the Roman church, and any information he had about it (from people like Aquila, Ac 18:2) was not considerable: all we learn from occasional allusions in the letter is that it was a mixed community and that there was a danger of Jewish and non-Jewish converts looking down on one another. In view of this danger, Paul thought it would be prudent to pave the way for his visit by sending a letter (through Phoebe the deaconess, Rm 16:1) in which he gave the solution to the problem of the relationship between Judaism and Christianity, developed by him as a result of the Galatian crisis. To do this he takes up again the ideas first expressed in Ga, but in a manner both better arranged and more subtle. While Ga gives the impression of a cry from the heart, in which explanation of his own conduct 1:11–2:21, is joined to theological argument, 3:1–4:31, and forceful admonition 5:1–6:18, Rm is a carefully planned whole; it has only a few main sections, and these are linked harmoniously together by the announcement in the preliminary section of the themes which will subsequently be taken up.

Like Corinthians and Galatians, the authenticity of the letter to Roman Christians is not seriously disputed, though it is suggested that ch. 15 and 16 are later insertions. Ch. 16 has many greetings, and it may quite easily have been a separate note for the church at Ephesus, but in spite of certain MSS ch. 15 cannot be amputated so easily. Critics who keep ch. 16 as part of the original letter suggest that it was quite possible for Paul to have met a great many Christians who, as Jews, had eight years previously been expelled under Claudius and then later gone back to Rome, and that it was diplomatic for him to mention their names in a letter to a church he had not yet visited. The unusual style of the doxology, 16:25–27, certainly suggests that it could be a later insertion, but this in itself is not sufficient argument against the authenticity of the chapter.

The first letter to the Corinthians contrasted Christ as the Wisdom of God with the human wisdom of philosophers, but in the letters to Galatia and Rome, Paul contrasted the uprightness people can achieve by purely human effort with Christ who is the Uprightness of God. There Paul had striven to correct the proud reliance of the Greek mind on reason; now he sets out to correct the Jews' proud reliance on the Law. Judaising Christians who had visited Galatia advised the gentile converts to have themselves circumcised to ensure their salvation. This would have meant adopting all the prescriptions of the Law, Ga 5:2seq., the implications of which, to Paul, made nonsense of Christ's redemptive work, Ga 5:4, and it was for this reason that he opposed the circumcision of his converts so violently. He maintained that the true value of the Law could be appreciated only by seeing its place in the development of God's plan, Ga 3:23–25. The Mosaic Law was good and holy, Rm 7:12, because it revealed God's will to the Jews, but without providing the spiritual power necessary to obey it: all the Law could do was make people aware of sin and of the need they have for God to help them, Rm 3:20; 7:7–13; Ga 3:19–22. All human beings need this help, and it is necessarily a gift from God: it was promised to Abraham long before the Law was formulated, Rm 4; Ga 3:16–18, and has now been given in Jesus Christ: his death and resurrection have destroyed the old humanity which was corrupted by Adam's sin, and created a new humanity of which Christ himself is the prototype, Rm 5:12–21. All human beings, united to Christ by faith, and living a new life by sharing the Spirit of Christ, without any merit on their part, are made upright and enabled to carry out God's will, Rm 8:1–4. This faith must result in 'good works', but these will not be at all the same as those 'good works' commanded by the Law, on which Jews were so proud to rely; they will be works prompted by the presence of the Spirit, Rm 8:5–13; Ga 5:22–25. And they can be done by all who have faith, whether Jews or gentiles, Ga 3:6–9, 14. The preparatory or Mosaic stage of religion is over, and Jews who claim they are continuing to fulfil the Law are in fact putting themselves outside the pale of salvation. God allowed their blindness only to bring the gentiles to salvation. But it is out of the question that they should permanently fail to live up to their original choice, for God is faithful to his promises. Some of them, the 'remnant' foretold by the prophets, have already become believers, and one day all of them will, Rm 9–11. Meanwhile, all converts without exception, whether they are Jews or not, must love and help one another as one family, Rm 12:1–15:13. The general outlines of this thesis were sketched in Ga; the details added in Rm are much deeper insights into mysteries such as the position of the human race while waiting for salvation, Rm 1:18–3:20; the spiritual struggle of each individual to be saved, Rm 7:14–25; God's gift of salvation, Rm 3:24 and passim; what the death and resurrection of Jesus actually achieved, Rm 4:24seq.; 5:6–11, and how Christians share in this by dying and rising by faith and baptism, Rm 6:3–11; Ga 3:26seq.; the vocation of the whole human race to be children of God, Rm 8:14–17; Ga 4:1–7; the love and wisdom of God who, being perfect and faithful to his promises, guides each different stage in the plan of salvation Rm 3:21–26; 8:31–39. Paul's thought is still basically eschatological—we are saved 'in hope', Rm 5:1–11; 8:24—but, as in his letters to Corinth, the stress is on the already present reality of salvation: the Spirit that was promised is already possessed, as 'first-fruits', Rm 8:23, by the Christian who from now on lives in Christ, Rm 6:11, as Christ lives in him, Ga 2:20.

The letter to the Romans is a magnificent synthesis of Paul's theology: it does not, however, exhaust his doctrine. It would be unfortunate if the importance accorded to it by the Lutheran controversy isolated it and led to a failure to complete it by its integration into the larger synthesis provided by the other letters.

§4d Philippians: AD 56–7

The Roman colony of Philippi was one of the principal cities of Macedonia; it had been evangelised by Paul in AD 50, during his second missionary journey, Ac 16:12–40, and he revisited it twice during his third: in the autumn of 57, Ac 20:1–2, and at Passover in AD 58, Ac 20:3–6. His converts there had proved their affection by contributing to his support first at Thessalonica, Ph 4:16, then at Corinth, 2 Co 11:9, and later still had commissioned Epaphroditus to take further contributions to him, Ph 4:10–20. Normally, Paul was afraid of doing anything that might give the impression that he was trying to make money out of his preaching, Ac 18:3d; so, by accepting their gift, he shows that he has a unique confidence in them.

If Philippians is accepted at its face value, as being a single letter, it must be said that at the time of writing, Paul was under arrest, Ph 1:7, 12–17, and for a long time this was assumed to be the first Roman captivity. Rome, however, was so far away that it seems unlikely that communications between Paul (with whom Epaphroditus was staying) and Philippi could have been as frequent or as easy as they appear to have been, 2:25–30. Nor is it clear why, if Paul was under arrest in Rome or in Caesarea, Ac 23:23, the Philippians should say that the contribution brought by Epaphroditus was the first chance they had had since the second missionary journey (see the mention of the gifts in Ph 4:10, 16) of helping the apostle, since Paul had visited them twice on his third journey. It is easier to suppose that Paul actually wrote this letter during the third journey, before reaching Philippi, i.e. while he was at Ephesus, the capital of Roman Asia, in 56–7, hoping to visit Macedonia after his liberation (compare Ph 1:26; 2:19–24 and Ac 19:21seq.; 20:1; 1 Co 16:5). The 'praetorium', Ph 1:13, and 'Caesar's household', 4:22, do not necessarily refer to Rome, since there were praetoria in all the major cities and there were most certainly detachments of the praetorian guard in Ephesus. It is true that there is no reference anywhere to an Ephesian captivity; but Luke says very little about Paul's three years there, Ac 19:1–20:1, and Paul himself mentions the very grave trials he underwent there, 1 Co 15:32; 2 Co 1:8–10.

If we accept this hypothesis we shall have to dissociate Ph from Col, Ep and Phm and group it with the 'great letters', notably with 1 Co. The style and content of the letter are quite consistent with this. It is not particularly doctrinal, but is just a friendly letter, giving some news to his converts at Philippi, warning them against the 'bad workmen' who are ruining his work in other places and might turn on them next, and, above all, appealing for the unity of corporate humility. As part of this appeal Paul gives us, Ph 2:6–11, the poem on the humility of the Messiah; and whether he wrote it or is quoting it, this poem is an important witness to developments in the early Christian understanding of the nature of Jesus.

Recently the thesis has gained ground that Ph is, in fact, a collection of three originally separate letters. One of the most satisfactory divisions is as follows: A=4:10–20; B=1:1–3:1 plus 4:2–9, 21–23; C=3:2–4:1. Letter A fits well with the beginning of Paul's stay at Ephesus, for the Philippians would not have delayed long before sending Paul help (4:10), nor he before thanking them. Letter B accords better with a time near the end of his stay there (2:19, compare Ac 19:22; 1 Co 16:10).

§4e Ephesians, Colossians, Philemon: AD 61–3

The letters to the Christians of Ephesus and Colossae (both in Roman Asia) and the letter to Philemon are closely related: the mission on which Onesimus is sent in Col 4:9 is the same as that in Phm 10–12; the same is true of Tychicus in Col 4:7seq. and Ep 6:21seq.; Paul's companions in Col 4:10–14 are the same as in Phm 23–24; Col and Ep are very similar in style and doctrine. The author says that he is in prison, Phm 1, 9seq., 13, 23; Col 4:3, 10, 18; Ep 3:1; 4:1; 6:20. If it is granted that this author is Paul, as tradition has long held, this imprisonment would be the one in Rome (61–3) rather than in Caesarea (58–60) where it would be difficult to account for the presence of Mark and of Onesimus, or in Ephesus (56–7) since there is nothing to suggest that Luke was ever there with Paul. The degree to which Paul's style has changed, and his doctrine developed, suggests some interval between Col, Ep and the 'great letters' Rm, Co, Ga. In the meantime a crisis had occurred and Epaphras, Col 1:7, Paul's delegate, arrived from Colossae (a church Paul had not founded) 1:4; 2:1, with disturbing news. Paul promptly wrote a letter to the Christians there, and gave it to Tychicus to deliver. On the traditional view of the authorship of Ep the inherent dangers of this new situation stimulated Paul to rethink things at a deeper level, and just as Rm had systematised the ideas outlined in Ga, so now, at about the same time as Col, Paul wrote another letter in which he restructured his teaching from the new angle that he had been forced by the recent developments at Colossae to adopt. This new synthesis is referred to as the letter he wrote to the Christians at Ephesus. The title, however, is misleading, and has very scanty MS support, see Ep 1:1a. This is a general letter addressed to the whole Church and not just to the church at Ephesus where Paul had spent three years, Ep 1:15; 3:2–4, though it is meant in a special way for Colossae and the other Christian communities of the Lycus valley among whom it is to be circulated, Col 4:16.

The interpretation just outlined respects the tradition which attributes Col and Ep to Paul; it retains considerable probability. But since the middle of the nineteenth century critics have contested the authenticity of these two letters. The heavy and repetitious style, they maintain, is not that of Paul; the theological ideas, notably those concerning the Body of Christ, Christ head of the Body, the universal Church, are different from those of previous letters, the errors opposed are later than Paul's time and belong rather to the gnostic ideas of the second century. These objections deserve serious consideration. They are put forward by numerous scholars, even Catholic ones. Nevertheless, they are not incontestable. In fact, for Col the balance is now in favour of Paul, with good justification. Not only does it retain his basic ideas but the new ideas in it are satisfactorily explained by the circumstances mentioned above. The same may be true of Ep although doubt about it still lingers. Among arguments in favour of Paul are: 1 That Ep is the work not of any derivative thinker, but of someone with a genius for creative thinking. 2 That the leisurely, rich and overloaded style of Col and Ep which contrasts so much with the quick, jerky discussions of earlier letters, can probably be explained by these wide new horizons that Paul was opening for himself. 3 That the style of the earlier letters is not itself wholly consistent, and two early examples of this later contemplative, semi-liturgical manner can be found already in Rm 3:23–26; 2 Co 9:8–14. The only real difficulty springs from the many passages in which Ep seems to borrow phrases from Col in a manner slavish and even awkward; but this might be because Paul was not in the habit of composing every word of his letters, and on this occasion may have allowed a disciple to play a greater part than usual. But it must be admitted that the phenomena noted in these second and third points could be explained more economically on the hypothesis of an author other than Paul, if such could be found, who was at the same time a creative thinker of genius similar to Paul's own, and yet content to borrow slavishly whole phrases from other, Pauline, letters. The difficulty of postulating such a hybrid as author of Ephesians is one of the main factors which has led some scholars to suppose that Colossians too, from which the vast majority of the borrowed phrases are taken, is also non-Pauline.

In the knowledge, then, that the genuine Pauline authorship of these two letters is the strongest but not the only possible hypothesis, we can attempt to reconstruct the genesis of Paul's thought in Col and Ep.

The errors at Colossae opposed by Paul are not yet those of the second-century gnostics, but rather ideas common among the Jewish Essenes. The danger at Colossae was the result of the basically Jewish (Col 2:16) speculations which the Christians at Colossae had taken up about the celestial or cosmic powers. These were the powers thought to be responsible for the regular movement of the cosmos, and the speculations about them, much influenced by Hellenist philosophy, attached an importance to these powers that threatened the supremacy of Christ. The author of the letter accepts these cosmological premises and, far from expressing any doubts about these powers, he associates them with the angels of Jewish tradition, Col 2:15; he is concerned only to show their subordinate place in the scheme of salvation. Their task had been to 'mediate' the Law and to administer it, and that task is now accomplished: Christos Kyrios, Christ the Lord, has established a new order of things and he now governs the cosmos. Raised up to heaven, he is above all the cosmic powers and has stripped them of their ancient dignities, Col 2:15. Because he is the Son, the Father's image, he was their Lord already when the world was made; now in the new creation he is their confirmed and absolute Master, for gathered into him is the pleroma, the fullness of Being, that is to say the fullness both of God and of all that exists through God's creative power, Col 1:13–20. Christians have been set free from these 'principles' of the world', Col 2:8, 20, through being united with their Master and thus sharing in his fullness, 2:9–10, Christians must never again accept their tyranny by submitting to outworn and ineffective observances, Col 2:16–23. United to the risen Christ by baptism, Col 2:11–13, they are parts of his Body and receive a new life from him, as from their life-giving Head, 2:19. Paul's primary interest had always been in the salvation of Christians; the new perspective provoked by the arguments at Colossae embraced the effects of Christ's work on the entire cosmos. Since the human race forms part of the cosmos, the cosmos itself must be influenced by the saving act of the one and only Lord of all creation. In this perspective, a whole new breadth is given to the concept of the 'Body of Christ', which was an idea that, a few years previously, Paul had only touched on. Three aspects of this broader view, which focuses on the function of Christ as Head, are: that the scope of salvation is seen to be cosmic; that Christ, into whom the Church has to structure itself, is the victor who has triumphed over the whole cosmos; and finally that the conception of the future, eschatological, promise as already realised, becomes very much more central, see Ep 2:6e.

When the letter we know as Ephesians was written it followed the same lines, but this time the author can assume the conclusions of the previous letter about the subordinate place of the powers, Ep 1:20–22, and give further thought to how the Church as the Body of Christ embraces the whole of the new universe, 'the fullness of him who is filled, all in all', 1:23. This supreme vision forms the high point of the author's work. It forms the new focus round which many Pauline insights are synthesised. In particular the author reconsiders some of the problems he had already dealt with in Rm, the high point of Paul's previous period of thought. In a few phrases he recalls the survey of humanity under the shadow of sin and the central teaching that salvation is a gift given by God through Christ, Ep 2:1–10. Next, he re-examines the problem of Jew and gentile that previously caused Paul so much distress, Rm 9–11; but now in the light of eschatology realised in the exalted Christ, he is aware of the unity of Jews and gentiles, who are now reconciled, since each is equally part of the New Humanity, and who advance towards the Father together,

Ep 2:11–22. The opening to the gentiles of the salvation promised to Israel is the great 'mystery', Ep 1:9; 3:3–6, 9; 6:19; Col 1:27; 2:2; 4:3. The author writes about the infinite wisdom of this 'mystery', Ep 3:9seq.; Col 2:3, about how it proves Christ's love to be inexhaustible, Ep 3:17seq., and about how God had made the unexpected choice of him, who was 'the least of all', to proclaim this mystery, Ep 3:2–8. This plan of salvation was revealed gradually, according to God's eternal designs, Ep 1:3–14, and its culmination is the wedding of Christ to the saved humanity constituted by the Church, 5:22–32.

The short letter Paul wrote at about the same time as Col is to tell Philemon of Colossae, v. 18, one of Paul's converts, that Onesimus, a runaway slave belonging to Philemon, and also one of Paul's converts, had returned. It is a very short note, and Paul wrote it in his own handwriting, v. 19. The letter reveals a gentle, affectionate side of the apostle, and also shows how he applies his views on slavery to a particular case, Rm 6:15g: as far as society is concerned, the master still owns his slave, but the two of them should live as brothers serving the same Master, Phm 16; compare Col 3:22; 4:1.

§4f 1 Timothy, Titus, 2 Timothy: AD 65–80

The three letters generally known as the Pastoral Epistles are all closely related in substance, form and historical background; two are addressed to Timothy and one to Titus, and all three have the form of letters from Paul to his most loyal followers, Ac 16:1; 2 Co 2:13d, giving them instruction and advice about the organisation and governing of the communities which he had entrusted to their care. Both 1 Tm and Tt seem to have been written from Macedonia, Timothy being at that time in Ephesus, 1 Tm 1:3, where Paul hoped to join him in the near future, 3:14; 4:13. Titus was in Crete, where he had been left by Paul, Tt 1:5, who planned to winter at Nicopolis in Epirus where Titus was to join him, Tt 3:12. In 2 Tm Paul is represented as a prisoner in Rome, 1:8, 16seq.; 2:9, after visits to Troas, 4:13, and Miletus, 4:20. In this threatening situation, 4:16, he feels that death is not far off, 4:6–8, 18, 4:9–16, 21. These circumstances correspond neither to the Roman captivity of Ac 28 nor to the journey that preceded it. Although Acts has nothing to tell us of any later activities, it is not impossible that at the end of the two years of this captivity he was set free and that he made the journey to the East projected in Phm 22. Tradition places the writing of 1 Tm and Tt on that journey, in AD 65, through Crete, Asia Minor, Macedonia and Greece. Similarly 2 Tm with its background of a new captivity, ending probably in Paul's death, is placed shortly before the traditional date of his martyrdom in AD 67.

The historical difficulties combine, however, with problems of thought and language to suggest that another solution to the question of authorship must be found. There is little reference any more to some of the great mysteries of Christianity on which Paul's thought had hinged (the cross, the Body of Christ, Christ as 'the Son'). The method of arguing has changed radically: no longer does Paul argue against false teaching, he simply condemns it. In addition the fiery, enthusiastic and vivid style has gone, and the confidence in his Christian flock has been replaced by a certain timidity of outlook. There is also considerable difference of vocabulary; many of the words common in the Pauline epistles have disappeared and there is a much higher proportion of words not used elsewhere by Paul, or even not used at all elsewhere in the New Testament. It has been argued that these phenomena can be explained either through a lack of confidence and elasticity in the tired and ageing apostle, or by Paul's leaving greater latitude than he does elsewhere to a secretary. But the historical difficulties remain, and the best explanation may be that the Pastoral Epistles are letters written by a follower of Paul, conscious of inheriting his mantle and seeking to give advice and instruction for the administration of local churches. This adoption of a revered name in such circumstances was a literary convention of the times, and the illusion could, as here, be supported by the mention of persons and places associated with the chosen figure. Some critics believe that in these letters such references, e.g. 2 Tm 1:15–18; 4:9–17, 19–21 and Tt 3:12–14, spring from the incorporation of fragments from genuine Pauline letters.

It must on the other hand be noted that the ecclesiastical hierarchy appears in these letters in a stage of evolution which cannot be very distant from that of Paul's time. The titles of episkopos and presbyteros are still practically synonymous, Ti 1:5–7, as formerly, Ac 20:17 and 28, in the primitive situation of communities governed by a body of elders, Tt 1:5c. There is as yet no trace of the monarchical 'bishop' of whom Ignatius was to write at the beginning of the second century. Nevertheless this development is not far distant, for Timothy and Titus, those delegates of Paul, although responsible for several communities without being attached to any single one, Tt 1:5, represent this apostolic authority which is being transmitted to fill the gap left by the disappearance of the apostles themselves, and which is soon to come to reside in each community in the bishop—the head of the college of presbyters. This intermediate stage of organisation is an argument against dating the letters later than the years 80–90. The same is true of the errors of doctrine opposed in the letters. One purpose of the letters is to fight dangerous new ideas which were already circulating, 1 Tm 1:19, and would later become important features of the Gnostic teaching which flourished in the second century. But most of the ideas, the idle questions, 1 Tm 6:4, empty problems, 'myths and endless genealogies', 1 Tm 1:4, 'Jewish myths', Tt 1:14, 'disputes about the Law', Tt 3:9, and the various ascetical practices they seemed to involve, 1 Tm 4:3, would all appear to belong to those hellenised and syncretistic ideas affecting Judaism, which formed part of the crisis in Colossae.

§5 Hebrews: AD 70–80

The question of who wrote this letter to the Jewish Christians has, unlike the disputed authorship of the pastoral letters, been a subject of debate from the earliest times. Not that its canonical status was often questioned, but up to the end of the fourth century the Western Church denied that Paul had written it, and the Eastern Church affirmed Pauline authorship only with many reservations about its literary composition (Clement of Alexandria, Origen). Its vocabulary and style have a simplicity and a distinction quite uncharacteristic of Paul; the way in which it quotes and uses the Old Testament is different from Paul's; the usual Pauline greetings and introduction are lacking, and though its doctrine has Pauline overtones, it is so original that its immediate attribution to Paul is difficult. Most critics agree that Paul could not have been its author in the same sense as he was author of the other letters, but he is felt to have had sufficient indirect influence to warrant its inclusion from early times in the corpus Paulinum.

No sort of agreement exists as to who actually wrote the letter; Barnabas, Silas, Aristion and others, have been suggested; perhaps the most likely is Apollos, the Alexandrian Jew who is praised by Luke for his eloquence, apostolic zeal and knowledge of the scriptures, Ac 18:24–28. Not only are these qualities reflected in the letter itself, but its language and thought, with their marked affinity with Philo, also suggest Alexandrian culture. The argument of the letter, pleaded with rhetorical skill, is founded entirely on the Old Testament.

The place and date of writing are equally uncertain, and the intended recipients are also unknown. But the author seems to be writing from Italy, 13:24, and he speaks as if the Temple were still open for worship, 8:4seq., warning his readers against the temptation of going back to it; when he emphasises the transitory nature of the Mosaic cult, he makes no reference to the destruction of the Temple which would have made a decisive argument for him. This suggests he was writing before AD 70. On the other hand, he certainly makes use of Paul's letters from prison and therefore wrote after 63. If the crisis behind the author's urgent appeal for unshakable faith, 10:25, is the first threat of the Jewish War, the letter could be dated AD 67.

The title 'to the Hebrews' dates from the second century and is well chosen. The letter clearly assumes not only that its readers are thoroughly familiar with the old covenant but that they are Jewish Christians, perhaps even Jewish priests, cf. Ac 6:7, to judge by the emphasis on public worship and ceremonial. Having become Christians, they seem to have left Jerusalem and gone for shelter to some coastal town like Caesarea or Antioch. They are tired of exile and think longingly of the splendour of Temple worship and of the part they played in it; their new faith is not very strong, and they have not yet properly understood it; persecution discourages them and they are tempted to revert to Judaism.

The letter was written to them to try to prevent this from happening, 10:19–39. To these exiles the author presents Christian life in the perspective of the Exodus, marching to the place of rest, the Promised Land of heaven, an exodus guided not by Moses but by Christ, an incomparably superior leader, 3:1–6, and led by the same light of faith and hope that had guided their ancestors in the Exodus and had illumined all the saints of old, 3:7–4:11; 11 passim. Christ himself replaces the old priesthood and being a priest like Melchizedek, he is higher than Aaron, 4:14–5:10; 7. The many ineffectual sacrifices of levitical worship are replaced by the one uniquely efficacious sacrifice of Christ himself, 8:1–10:18. To prove this, the author shows how Jesus Christ, the incarnate Son of God, is, as Leader and Priest, higher than all the angels and is ruler of all things, ch.1–2.

In this letter, strictly theological and exegetical passages alternate with passages of exhortation, but the main themes themselves are interwoven in a very intricate and oriental way, as disconcerting to some modern Western readers as its method of using scripture. For this reason the letter is most illuminating about typology, showing how the earliest Christians conceived the harmony of the Old and New Testaments, and how they understood the redemptive work of Jesus in terms of God's whole plan of salvation. This, and the profound intuitions about the central points of Christian belief, combine to make this unsigned document one of the most important books of the New Testament.

ROMANS

THE LETTER OF PAUL TO THE CHURCH IN ROME

Address [a]

Ga 1:10 Ph 1:1 Ac 26:16–18 Ga 1:15

1 From Paul, a servant of Christ Jesus, called to be an apostle, [b] •set apart for the service of the gospel that God promised long ago through his prophets in the holy scriptures. 1, 2

2 S 7:1a Mt 9:27m 2 Tm 2:8 Rv 22:16 9:5d Ga 4:4 Ac 9:15 Ga 2:7,9

This is the gospel concerning his Son who, in terms of human nature •was born a descendant of David and who, in terms of the Spirit and of holiness was designated Son of God in power by resurrection from the dead: [c] Jesus Christ, our Lord, through whom we have received grace and our apostolic mission of winning the obedience of faith [d] among all the nations for the honour of his name. •You are among these, and by his call you belong to Jesus Christ. •To you all, God's beloved in Rome, called to be his holy people. Grace and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. 3, 4 5 6 7

Ac 9:13g 1 Co 8:6

Thanksgiving and prayer

.16:19 1 Th 1:8 15:16 •2 Co 1:23 Ph 1:8 1 Th 2:5,10

First I give thanks to my God through Jesus Christ for all of you because your faith is talked of all over the world. •God, whom I serve [e] with my spirit [f] in preaching the gospel of his Son, is my witness that I continually mention you in my prayers, asking always that by some means I may at long last be enabled to visit you, if it is God's will. •For I am longing to see you so that I can convey to you some spiritual gift that will be a lasting strength, •or rather that we may be strengthened together through our mutual faith, yours and mine. •I want you to be quite certain too, brothers, that I have often planned to visit you—though up to the present I have always been prevented—in the hope that I might work as fruitfully among you as I have among the gentiles elsewhere. •I have an obligation to Greeks [g] as well as barbarians, to the educated as well as the ignorant, •and hence the eagerness on my part to preach the gospel to you in Rome too. 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15

15:23 Ac 19:21

SALVATION BY FAITH

I: JUSTIFICATION

The theme stated

1 Co 1:18–25; 2:1–5 2 Co 12:9seq. 1 Th 2:13 1:16h

For I see no reason to be ashamed of the gospel; it is God's power for the salvation of everyone who has faith [h]—Jews first, [i] but Greeks as well—•for in it is revealed the saving justice of God: a justice [j] based on faith [k] and addressed to faith. As it says in scripture: Anyone who is upright through faith will live. 16 17

▶Hab 2:4
Ga 3:11
Heb 10:38

A: THE RETRIBUTION OF GOD AGAINST GENTILE AND JEW[l]

God's retribution against the gentiles

18 The retribution[m] of God from heaven is being revealed against the ungodliness and Ps 85:3–5; 69:24
19 injustice of human beings who in their injustice hold back the truth. ·For what can Mi 7:9
be known about God is perfectly plain to them, since God has made it plain to Zp 1:15

1 a. Adopting the convention of his time Paul begins letters with an introductory paragraph (names of sender and receiver, good wishes) followed by thanks and a prayer. He colours this, however, in a unique way with a Christian spirit, and often includes theological ideas in it so as to anticipate the principal themes of each letter. In Rm these themes are: God's freedom to choose his people; the connection between faith and justification; salvation through Christ's death and resurrection; the harmony of the two Testaments.

b. 'apostle' corresponds to a Jewish title that means 'envoy', cf. Jn 13:16; 2 Co 8:23; Ph 2:25, sometimes used in the NT for the Twelve chosen by Christ, Mt 10:2; Ac 1:26; 2:37; etc.; 1 Co 15:7; Rv 21:14, to be his witnesses, Ac 1:8k, sometimes in a wider sense for those sent to preach the gospel, Rm 16:7; 1 Co 12:28; Ep 2:20; 3:5; 4:11. Though Paul was not a member of the Twelve, the fact that he had been appointed missionary to the gentiles by God, 11:13; Ac 26:17; 1 Co 9:2; Ga 2:8; 1 Tm 2:7, constitutes him an apostle of Christ, Rm 1:1; 1 Co 1:1; etc., equal to the Twelve, Ac 10:41, because like them he had seen the risen Christ, 1 Co 9:1, and been sent by him, Rm 1:5; Ga 1:16, to be his witness, Ac 26:16seq. In spite of being 'the least of the apostles', 1 Co 15:9, he is their equal, 1 Co 9:5; Ga 2:6–9, because it was not from them that he learnt the gospel that he preaches, Ga 1:1,17,19.

c. For Paul, Christ rose only because God raised him, 4:25; 10:9; Ac 2:24q; 1 Co 6:14; 15:15; 2 Co 4:14; cf. Ga 1:1; 1 Th 1:10; compare 1 P 1:21, thus displaying his 'power', Rm 6:4; 2 Co 13:4; Ep 1:19seq.; Col 2:12; Ph 3:10; Heb 7:16; and because God raised him to life, Rm 8:11, Christ is established in glory as Kyrios, Ph 2:9–11,9*l*; Ac 2:36; Rm 14:9, deserving anew, this time in virtue of his messianic work, the name he had from eternity, 'Son of God', Ac 13:33, Heb 1:1–5; 5:5. See Rm 8:11g, 9:5d.

d. The obedience implicit in the virtue of faith, rather than the obedience owed to the gospel message. Cf. 6:16–17; 10:16; 15:18; 16:19,26; Ac 6:7; 2 Co 10:5–6; 2 Th 1:8; Heb 5:9; 11:8; 1 P 1:22.

e. lit. 'I offer worship in my spirit.' The apostolic ministry is an act of worship offered to God, see 15:16, like any Christian life in which the ruling motive is the love of others, 12:1; Ac 13:2; Ph 2:17r; 3:3; 4:18; 2 Tm 1:3; 4:6; Heb 9:14; 12:28; 13:15; 1 P 2:5.

f. By spirit (pneuma) Paul sometimes means the highest element in a human being, Rm 1:9; 8:16; 1 Co 2:11; 16:18; 2 Co 2:13; 7:13; Ga 6:18; Ph 4:23; Phm 25; 2 Tm 4:22; cf. Mt 5:3; 27:50; Mk 2:8; 8:12; Lk 1:47,80; 8:55; 23:46; Jn 4:23seq.; 11:33; 13:21; 19:30; Ac 7:59; 17:16; 18:25. He distinguishes it from the body (1 Co 5:3seq.; 7:34; cf. Rm 7:24; Jm 2:26) and from the psyche also (1 Th 5:23h; cf. Heb 4:12; Jude 19); it bears some relationship to nous (Rm 7:25; Ep 4:23). See also 'dispositions of the spirit' in 2 Co 12:18; Ga 6:1; Ph 1:27. It is contrasted with 'the flesh', which is human nature without the inspiration of the Spirit of God (1 Co 5:5; 2 Co 7:1; Col 2:5; see Mt 26:41par.; Rm 7:5; 1 P 4:6) and by choosing this traditional term (see Is 11:2c) instead of the nous of the Greek philosophers, the NT can suggest a deep affinity between the human spirit and the Spirit of God that stimulates and guides it, Ac 1:8j; Rm 5:5e. There are many texts where it is hard to tell whether it is the natural or supernatural spirit that is referred to, the personal or the indwelling spirit—see e.g. Rm 12:11; 2 Co 6:6; Ep 4:3,23; 6:18; Ph 3:3 var.; Col 1:8; Jude 19.

g. In contrast to 'barbarians', 'Greeks' means the inhabitants of the hellenic world (including the Romans, who had adopted the Greek culture); in contrast to 'Jews' it means the gentiles in general, 1:16; 2:9–10; 3:9; 10:12; 1 Co 1:22–24; etc.

h. Faith, which is the response of a human being to God as truth and goodness and so the one source of salvation, is reliance on the truth of God's promises and on God's faithfulness to them (3:3seq.; 1 Th 5:24; 2 Tm 2:13; Heb 10:23; 11:11) and on his power to implement them (Rm 4:17–21; Heb 11:19). After the long OT period of preparation (Heb 11) God has spoken through his Son (Heb 1:1). We must believe the Son (see Mt 8:10b; Jn 3:11seq., 11e) and the kerygma or proclamation (Rm 10:8–17; 1 Co 1:21; 15:11,14; see Ac 2:22n) of the gospel (Rm 1:16; 1 Co 15:1–2; Ep 1:13; Ph 1:27) made by the apostles (Rm 1:5; 1 Co 3:5; see Jn 17:20). The kerygma proclaims that God raised Jesus from the dead, made him Kyrios (4:24seq.; 10:9; Ac 17:31; 1 P 1:21; cf. 1 Co 15:14,17), and through him offers life to all who believe in him (Rm 6:8–11; 2 Co 4:13seq.; Ep 1:19seq.; Col 2:12; 1 Th 4:14). Faith in the name, or person, of Jesus (3:26; 10:13; cf. Jn 1:12; Ac 3:16; 1 Jn 3:23); who is the Messiah (Ga 2:16; cf. Ac 24:24; 1 Jn 5:1), the Lord (Rm 10:9; 1 Co 12:3; Ph 2:11; cf. Ac 16:31) and Son of God (Ga 2:20; cf. Jn 20:31; Ac 9:20; 1 Jn 5:5) is thus the necessary condition of salvation (Rm 10:9–13; 1 Co 1:21; Ga 3:22; see Is 7:9e; Jn 3:15–18; Ac 4:12; 16:31; Heb 11:6). Faith is not only intellectual assent, it is trust and obedience (6:17; 10:16; 16:26; cf. Ac 6:7) to the lifegiving truth (2 Th 2:12seq.). Faith which thus unites a person with Christ (2 Co 13:5; Ga 2:16,20; Ep 3:17) also confers the Spirit on him (Ga 3:2,5,14; cf. Jn 7:38seq.; Ac 11:17), the Spirit of the children of God (Ga 3:26; cf. Jn 1:12). Faith is reliance on God and not on self (3:27; Ep 2:9) and thus contrasts with the old order of the Law (Rm 7:7d) with its vain search (Rm 10:3–4; Ph 3:9) for holiness by works (Rm 3:20,28; 9:31seq.; Ga 2:16; 3:11seq.): only faith can effect true holiness, the saving holiness of God himself (Rm 1:17j; 3:21–26), received as a free gift from him (Rm 3:24; 4:16; 5:17; Ep 2:8; cf. Ac 15:11). Faith relates to the promise made to Abraham (4; Ga 3:6–18) and so makes salvation accessible to everyone, gentiles included (Rm 1:5,16; 3:29seq.; 9:30; 10:11seq.; 16:26; Ga 3:8). It is coupled with baptism (6:4a), calls for public profession (10:10; 1 Tm 6:12), and expresses itself in charity (Ga 5:6; see Jm 2:14f). Faith is unsupported by the senses or other proof (2 Co 5:7; Heb 11:1; cf. Jn 20:29), and involves hope as its concomitant (Rm 5:2c). It must be allowed to grow (2 Co 10:15; 1 Th 3:10; 2 Th 1:3) amid struggles and sufferings (Ep 6:16; Ph 1:29; 1 Th 3:2–8; 2 Th 1:4; Heb 12:2; 1 P 5:9), demanding fortitude (1 Co 16:13; Col 1:23; 2:5,7) and tenacity (2 Tm 4:7; cf. 1:14; 1 Tm 6:20) right up to the vision and possession of God (1 Co 13:12; cf. 1 Jn 3:2).

i. In the actual development of salvation-history the Jews come first, either for their glory or for their condemnation: 'salvation comes from the Jews' (Jn 4:22). See 2:9–10; Mt 10:5seq.; 15:24; Mk 7:27; Ac 13:5e.

j. Not 'distributive' justice, the recompense for actions, but the saving justice (cf. Is 56:1) of God, see Rm 3:26, which fulfils the promise of salvation by grace, Rm 4:25j.

k. Faith is the necessary and only condition of this revelation.

l. By way of antithesis, the subject of the gospel being the revelation of God's saving justice, 1:16–17 (resumed in 3:21seq.), is interrupted to consider what the human race is like before it hears the good news. In it both gentile, 1:18–32, and Jew, 2:1–3:20, are subject to God's 'retribution', which is first shown by the multiplication of sins and which will reach its climax in the Last Judgement, 2:6b; Mt 3:7h.

m. lit. 'anger'. In the OT, though the prophet or psalmist may pray that 'God's anger' (Nb 11:1a) should be averted, it is recognised that it is provoked by sin, Ps 85:5–12; Mi 7:9. Here too (2:5–8; 4:15; 9:22h; Ep 5:6; Col 3:6; cf. Jn 3:36; 1 Th 2:16) but now there is deliverance from 'retribution' through faith in Christ which brings justification from sin, Rm 5:9, cf. 1 Th 1:10; 5:9.

Ws 13:1–9 Si 17:8 Ac 17:24–29 1 Co 1:21 Is 40:26–28 them: ·ever since the creation of the world, the invisible existence of God and his 20 everlasting power have been clearly seen by the mind's understanding of created things. And so these people have no excuse: ·they knew God [n] and yet they did not 21 honour him as God or give thanks to him, but their arguments became futile and Ep 4:17–18 1 Co 1:19–20 Jr 2:5,11 their uncomprehending minds were darkened. ·While they claimed to be wise, in 22 fact they were growing so stupid ·that they exchanged the glory of the immortal 23 Gn 1:26–27 Ex 32 Dt 4:16–18 Ps 106:20 Ws 11:15; 12:24;13:10 God for an imitation, for the image of a mortal human being, or of birds, or animals, or crawling things.

1 Tm 1:17 ·Ep 4:19 ·16:27n That is why God abandoned them [o] in their inmost cravings to filthy practices of 24 dishonouring their own bodies—·because they exchanged God's truth for a lie and 25 have worshipped and served the creature instead of the Creator, who is blessed for ever. Amen. [p]

That is why God abandoned them to degrading passions: ·why their women have 26, 27 exchanged natural intercourse for unnatural practices; and the men, in a similar Lv 18:22 fashion, too, giving up normal relations with women, are consumed with passion for each other, men doing shameful things with men and receiving in themselves due reward for their perversion.

In other words, since they would not consent to acknowledge God, God aban- 28 doned them to their unacceptable thoughts and indecent behaviour. ·And so now 29 they are steeped in all sorts of injustice, [q] rottenness, greed and malice; [r] full of envy, murder, wrangling, treachery and spite, ·libellers, slanderers, enemies of 30 God, [s] rude, arrogant and boastful, enterprising in evil, rebellious to parents, without brains, honour, love [t] or pity. ·They are well aware of God's ordinance: 31, 32 that those who behave like this deserve to die—yet they not only do it, but even applaud others who do the same. [u]

The Jews are not exempt from the retribution of God [a]

2 So no matter who you are, if you pass judgement you have no excuse. It is 1 yourself that you condemn when you judge others, since you behave in the same way as those you are condemning. ·We are well aware that people who 2 behave like that are justly condemned by God.' ·But you—when you judge those 3 who behave like this while you are doing the same yourself—do you think you will escape God's condemnation? ·Or are you not disregarding his abundant goodness, 4 Ws 11:23 Ep 1:7;2:7 2 P 3:9 ·Ac 7:51 ·Zp 1:14–18 2 Th 1:5–10 tolerance and patience, failing to realise that this generosity of God is meant to bring you to repentance? ·Your stubborn refusal to repent is only storing up 5 retribution for yourself on that Day of retribution when God's just verdicts will be made known. ·He will repay everyone as their deeds deserve. [b] ·For those who aimed 6, 7 Ps 62:12e Ezk 18:21–32,21g Heb 11:6c for glory and honour and immortality by persevering in doing good, there will be eternal life; ·but for those who out of jealousy have taken for their guide not truth 8
1 P 1:17 but injustice, there will be the fury of retribution. ·Trouble and distress will come 9
1 P 1:7 to every human being who does evil—Jews first, but Greeks as well; ·glory and 10
1:16i honour and peace will come to everyone who does good—Jews first, but Greeks as Dt 10:17f Ac 10:34+ well. ·There is no favouritism with God. 11

The Law will not save them

All those who have sinned without the Law will perish without the Law; and those 12
Jm 2:12 under the Law who have sinned will be judged by the Law. ·For the ones that God 13
Mt 7:26–27 Lk 8:21 will justify are not those who have heard the Law but those who have kept the Jm 1:22–25 Law. ·So, when gentiles, not having the Law, still through their own innate sense [c] 14 behave as the Law commands, then, even though they have no Law, they are a law Jr 31:33 for themselves. ·They can demonstrate the effect of the Law engraved on their 15 hearts, to which their own conscience bears witness; since they are aware of various considerations, some [d] of which accuse them, while others provide them with a 2:6b defence . . . on the day when, [e] ·according to the gospel that I preach, God, 16
1 Co 4:5 through Jesus Christ, judges all human secrets.

Is 48:1–4 If you can call yourself a Jew, and you really trust in the Law, and are proud of 17

18 your God, ·and know his will, and tell right from wrong because you have been ▶Am 5:21n
19 taught by the Law; ·if you are confident that you are a guide to the blind and a Mt 3:8–9 20 beacon to those in the dark, ·that you can teach the ignorant and instruct the Jn 8:33seq.
21 unlearned because the Law embodies all knowledge and all truth—·so then, in 12:2+ teaching others, do you teach yourself as well? You preach that there is to be no ·Mt 23 22 stealing, but do you steal? ·You say that adultery is forbidden, but do you commit Lk 18:9–12 adultery? You detest the worship of objects, but do you desecrate holy things Jn 9:40–41
23 yourself? ·If, while you are boasting of the Law, you disobey it, then you are Ps 50:16–21
24 bringing God into contempt. ·As scripture says: It is your fault that the name of Is 52:5
God is held in contempt among the nations. Ezk 36:20–22
Jm 2:7d
2 P 2:2

Circumcision will not save them

25 Circumcision has its value if you keep the Law; but if you go on breaking the Law, 1 Co 7:19 26 you are no more circumcised than the uncircumcised. ·And if an uncircumcised Ga 5:3
man keeps the commands of the Law, will not his uncircumcised state count as Jr 9:24–25 27 circumcision? ·More, the man who, in his native uncircumcised state, keeps the Law, is a condemnation of you, who, by your concentration on the letter and on Mt 12:41seq.
28 circumcision, actually break the Law. ·Being a Jew is not only having the outward appearance of a Jew, and circumcision is not only a visible physical operation. 9:6–8 29 The real Jew is the one who is inwardly a Jew, and real circumcision is in the Ep 2:11 heart, a thing not of the letter but of the spirit. He may not be praised by any Ph 3:2seq.
human being, but he will be praised by God. Dt 10:16
Jr 4:4a
Col 2:11g
7:6;8:2seq.
2 Co 3:6

God's promises will not save them

1 3 Is there any benefit, then, in being a Jew?[a] Is there any advantage in being 2 circumcised? ·A great deal, in every way. First of all, it was to the Jews that the 9:4–5

n. To know there is one personal God means to know that one must pray to him and adore him.

o. The biblical formula 'God abandoned them', thrice repeated, emphasises that religious error brings in its train the worst moral and social disorders. Sin produces its own consequences and its own punishment; cf. Ws 11:15–16; 12:23–27; Is 64:6; Ezk 23:28–29. Though Paul judges and condemns gentile society he does not condemn individuals (whose intentions God alone must judge, 2:16; 1 Co 4:5; 5:12–13) since he presupposes, Rm 2, that there are gentiles who obey the natural law written in their hearts 2:14–15. But human beings must admit that they are sinners.

p. The Hebrew word amen, see Ps 41:13f, passed into Christian usage, 9:5; 11:36; 1 Co 14:16; Rv 1:6–7; 22:20–21. Used by Jesus for emphasis (translated as 'truly' or 'in truth'), the word is later given to him as a proper name (2 Co 1:20; Rv 3:14) because he is the true witness to God's promises.

q. Here, as he frequently does elsewhere, Paul uses lists of vices taken from current gentile and (even more so) Jewish literature: 13:13; 1 Co 5:10–11; 6:9–10; 2 Co 12:20; Ga 5:19–21; Ep 4:31; 5:3–5; Col 3:5–8; 1 Tm 1:9–10; 6:4; 2 Tm 3:2–5; Tt 3:3. (See also Mt 15:19par.; 1 P 4:3; Rv 21:8; 22:15.)

r. add. 'fornication'.

s. Others translate 'hateful to God', but cf. 5:10; 8:7.

t. add. 'loyalty', see 2 Tm 3:3.

u. The Latin text tradition reads 'They know that God is just, and yet they did not understand that those who behave like this deserve to die, and not only those who do this but those who encourage them.'

2 a. Here Paul turns to the Jews, vv. 1–16, not actually naming them until 2:17–3:20. He is aware, as he condemns others, that he is condemning himself if he behaves in the way they do, vv. 1–5; 17–24. Nothing can take the place of personal virtue: not the Law, vv. 12–16, not circumcision, vv. 25–29, not even the scriptures, 3:1–8. The Jew as well as the gentile will be individually judged by God, 2:6–11, since both are equally liable to sin, 3:9–20.

b. The prophecy of a 'Day of Yahweh' which will be a day of retribution and salvation, Am 5:18m, will be fulfilled eschatologically in the 'Day of the Lord', when Christ returns in glory, 1 Co 1:8e. On this 'Day of Judgement' (see Mt 10:15; 11:22,24; 12:36, 2 P 2:9; 3:7; 1 Jn 4:17) the dead will rise again, 1 Co 15:12–23,51seq.; 1 Th 4:13–18, and the whole human race will be judged in God's court, Rm 14:10, and in Christ's, 2 Co 5:10; cf. Mt 25:31seq. This trial is inescapable, 2:3; Ga 5:10; 1 Th 5:3, and impartial, Rm 2:11; Col 3:25; cf. 1 P 1:17; it is conducted by God, Rm 12:19; 14:10; 1 Co 4:5; cf. Mt 7:1par. Through Christ, v. 16; 2 Tm 4:1; cf. Jn 5:22; Ac 17:31, God will judge 'the living and the dead', 2 Tm 4:1; cf. Ac 10:42; 1 P 4:5. He examines the heart, Rm 2:16; 1 Co 4:5; cf. Rv 2:23, and his trial is by fire, 1 Co 3:13–15; he will treat all people according to their works, 1 Co 3:8; 2 Co 5:10; 11:15; Ep 6:8; cf. Mt 16:27; 1 P 1:17; Rv 2:23; 20:12; 22:12. What has been sown will be reaped, Ga 6:7–9; cf. Mt 13:39; Rv 14:15. Angrily he will destroy, 9:22, evil powers, 1 Co 15:24–26; 2 Th 2:8, and evil people, 2 Th 1:7–10; cf. Mt 13:41; Ep 5:6; 2 P 3:7; Rv 6:17; 11:18. But for the chosen, i.e. those who by grace have done good, there will be freedom, Ep 4:30; cf. Rm 8:23, rest, Ac 3:20; cf. 2 Th 1:7; Heb 4:5–11, reward, see Mt 5:12; Rv 11:18, salvation, 1 P 1:5, honour, 1 P 5:6, praise; 1 Co 4:5, and glory, Rm 8:18seq.; 1 Co 15:43; Col 3:4; cf. Mt 13:43.

c. i.e. guided by conscience, not by revealed law. As Jews are meant not to be saved by the Law but to be guided by it to salvation, so the natural law in his conscience can guide any human being.

d. Or 'both what will accuse them and what will excuse them'.

e. Anacoluthon: v. 16 follows grammatically on v. 13. Alternative translation 'in the court where God judges . . .', cf. 1 Co 4:3.

3 a. There is one last resort for the Jews: if Israel is the people chosen by God to receive the promise, then how can they have strayed from the way to salvation? Later, ch. 9–11, Paul develops at great length the brief answer he gives here: however much human beings are unfaithful to the pact, this cannot abrogate God's promises; indeed the way human beings behave only makes the promises more remarkable, a fact, however, which does not protect the sinner from God's retribution (v. 6), or absolve his sin (v. 8). The dialogue used here seems as if it may echo some of Paul's debates in the synagogues.

Ps 89:30–37
2 Tm 2:13
message of God was entrusted. ·What if some of them were unfaithful? Do you 3 think their lack of faith could cancel God's faithfulness? ·Out of the question! God 4
Ps 116:11
Ps 51:4
will always be true even if no human being can be relied on. As scripture says: That you may show your saving justice when you pass sentence and your victory may appear when you give judgement. ·But if our injustice serves to bring God's saving 5
Jb 34:12.17
justice [b] into view, can we say that God is unjust when—to use human terms—he 1:8m
brings his retribution down on us? ·Out of the question! It would mean that God 6 could not be the judge of the world. ·You might as well say that [c] if my untruthful- 7 9:19g
ness makes God demonstrate his truthfulness, to his greater glory, then I should not be judged to be a sinner at all. ·In this case, the slanderous report some people 8 6:1.15
are spreading [d] would be true, that we teach that one should do evil that good may come of it. In fact such people are justly condemned.

All are guilty

Well: are we any better off? [e] Not at all: we have already indicted Jews and Greeks 9 11:32
as being all alike under the dominion of sin. ·As scripture says: 10

Ps 14:1–3
Not one of them is upright, not a single one,
not a single one is wise, 11
not a single one seeks God.
All have turned away, all alike turned sour, 12
not one of them does right, not a single one.
Ps 5:9
Their throats are wide-open graves, 13 their tongues seductive.
Ps 140:3
Viper's venom behind their lips;
Ps 10:7
their speech is full of cursing and bitterness. 14
Pr 1:16
Is 59:7–8
Their feet quick to shed innocent blood, 15 wherever they go there is havoc and ruin. 16
They do not know the way of peace, 17
Ps 36:1
there is no fear of God before their eyes. 18

Now we are well aware that whatever the Law says [f] is said for those who are 19
Ga 3:22
subject to the Law, so that every mouth may be silenced, and the whole world
7:7
Ps 143:2
brought under the judgement of God. ·So then, no human being can be found 20
Ac 13:38
upright at the tribunal of God by keeping the Law; [g] all that the Law does is to tell us what is sinful.

B: FAITH AND THE JUDGEMENT OF GOD

The revelation of God's judgement

God's saving justice was witnessed by the Law and the Prophets, but now it has 21
1:16h
Ga 2:16:3
been revealed altogether apart from law: ·God's saving justice given through faith 22 in Jesus Christ to all who believe. ·No distinction is made: all have sinned and lack 23
Ep 2:8
God's glory, [h] ·and all are justified by the free gift of his grace [i] through being set 24
1 Jn 2:2;4:10
free [j] in Christ Jesus. ·God appointed him as a sacrifice for reconciliation, through 25
Ac 17:30
faith, [k] by the shedding of his blood, and so showed his justness; first for the past, when sins went unpunished because he held his hand; [l] ·and now again for the 26
Is 53:11
present age, [m] to show how he is just [n] and justifies everyone who has faith in Jesus.

What faith does

2:17;4:2–3;
5:2c;11:18
Ga 6:13–14
Ep 2:9
So what becomes of our boasts? [o] There is no room for them. On what principle— 27 that only actions count? No; that faith is what counts, [p] ·since, as we see it, a 28 person is justified by faith and not by doing what the Law tells him to do. ·Do you 29 think God is the God only of the Jews, and not of gentiles too? Most certainly of gentiles too, ·since there is only one God; he will justify the circumcised by their 30

31 faith, and he will justify the uncircumcised through their faith. •Are we saying that the Law has been made pointless by faith? Out of the question; we are placing the Law on its true footing. ᵠ

b. The argument compares the group: faithfulness, truth (truthfulness), integrity, with its anti-group: faithlessness, falsehood, sinfulness.

c. 'You might as well say that', var. 'in fact'.

d. By twisting Paul's words as in 5:20; Ga 3:22; cf. Rm 6:1,15.

e. Disputed translation; some prefer 'what excuse then can we offer?' or 'Are we worse off, then?'

f. 'Law' here means all the OT, cf. 1 Co 14:34; Jn 10:34; etc.

g. Since Ps 143 says that no human being would ever be forgiven if God judged everyone by their actions, there must be something else that will account for justification, and Paul finds this in God's promises to save his people: this is the 'saving justice of God' which was promised for the messianic era and which, as Paul says, v. 22, is manifest in Jesus Christ. The Law, which merely regulates behaviour, was meant by God not to eliminate sin but to make sinners aware of the fact, see Jn 1:16h; 7:7d.

h. 'Glory' in OT sense, Ex 24:16f, that is to say God as present to human beings and communicating himself to them more and more, a process that can reach its climax only in the messianic era, cf. Ps 84:9; Is 40:5.

i. This word (charis) when used with reference to human relationships can either mean the quality that makes a person attractive (Ac 2:47), or it can mean thanks for a gift (Lk 6:32–34; 17:9), or it can mean something given free and unearned (1 Co 16:3; 2 Co 8:6–7,19). This last sense predominates in the NT and especially in Paul (John uses agape) who uses the word to describe the way God saves through Jesus: it is a work of spontaneous love to which no one had any claim. It was an act of 'grace' for Jesus to come on earth (Jn 1:14,17; 2 Co 8:9; Tt 2:11) to die (Heb 2:9), for his Father to give him up as a gift to us, a gift that includes all divine favours (Rm 8:32; cf. 1 Co 2:12; Ep 1:6seq.): justification, salvation, and the right to inherit by having faith in him without having to perform the works of the Law (Rm 3:24; 4:4seq.; Ep 2:5,8; Tt 3:7; cf. Ac 15:11); it will also be an act of 'grace' for Christ to come again at the end of the world and for us to receive everlasting glory 2 Th 1:12; 1 P 1:13. It was by grace that Abraham received the promise (4:16; Ga 3:18) and that a few Israelites were chosen to survive (Rm 11:5seq.). Since grace is God's love for us, it is inexhaustible (Ep 1:7; 2:7; cf. 2 Co 4:15; 9:8,14; 1 Tm 1:14) and it conquers sin (Rm 5:15,17,20–21). The one word 'grace' is so useful and full of meaning that it can be used to indicate the entire messianic era (Rm 5:21) that succeeds the era of the Law (6:14; Ga 2:21; 5:4), the same messianic era that was once proclaimed by the prophets (1 P 1:10) and is now proclaimed as the gospel (Col 1:6; compare Ac 14:3; 20:24,32). The word sums up the gifts of God so well that Paul begins and ends his letters by wishing 'grace' to all his readers (1 Th 1:1 and 5:28; etc.; see also 1 P 1:2; 5:10,12; 2 P 1:2; 3:18; 2 Jn 3; Rv 1:4; 22:21). It is by an act of grace that 'the God of all grace' (1 P 5:10) calls all people to salvation (Ga 1:6; 2 Tm 1:9; 1 P 3:7), loads them with all spiritual gifts (1 Co 1:4–7; see Ac 6:8; 2 Th 2:16), makes Paul an apostle of the gentiles (Rm 1:5; 15:15seq.; 1 Co 3:10; Ga 1:15seq.; 2:7–9; Ep 3:1–2,7,8; Ph 1:7) and assigns to each Christian a part in the life of the Church (Rm 12:6; 1 Co 12:1a; 2 Co 8:1; Ep 4:7; 1 P 4:10); similarly, it is a 'grace' to suffer for Christ (Ph 1:29; 1 P 2:19–20). Mary 'found grace' with God (Lk 1:30; cf. Ac 7:46 and LXX passim); Jesus himself received the 'grace' of the highest name of all (Ph 2:9; cf. Lk 2:40). For human beings to be agreeable to God depends primarily on God's initiative and secondarily on human response. It is possible to receive grace in vain (2 Co 6:1) to fall from grace (Ga 5:4), to forfeit grace (Heb 12:15), and thus to insult the Spirit of grace (Heb 10:29). Grace obtained must be carefully guarded (5:2; Heb 12:28; 1 P 5:12) and used wisely (1 P 4:10); it is not enough to remain in grace (Ac 13:43; cf. 14:26; 15:40), it must increase (2 P 3:18), to strengthen us (2 Tm 2:1), and help us to persist in our good intentions (Heb 13:9). This divine help is given to the humble (Jm 4:6; 1 P 5:5) and is obtained by prayer, since this is to approach 'the throne of grace' confidently (Heb 4:16). Grace will be granted and will be found sufficient; it is the power of Christ operating in weak human beings (2 Co 12–9; cf. 1 Co 15:10), and this grace of Christ triumphs over unspiritual wisdom (2 Co 1:12). The same word charis is also used for thanksgiving (6:17; 7:25; 1 Co 10:30; 15:57; 2 Co 2:14; 8:16; 9:15; Col 3:16; 1 Tm 1:12; 2 Tm 1:3; and compare the verb eucharistein), since gratitude to God is the fundamental and necessary disposition for grace. From all these shades of meaning it is clear that the word charis is always used to emphasise that the gift is absolutely free; to bring out its power and its inwardness Paul also uses the word pneuma (see Rm 5:5e). See 1:h and the emphasis on holiness as something received as a free gift from God. See also p. 1857.

j. Yahweh had 'redeemed' Israel by delivering her from the slavery of Egypt, to provide himself with a nation for his 'inheritance', Dt 7:6b. When the prophets spoke of the 'redemption' from Babylon, Is 41:14g, they hinted at a deliverance more profound and less restricted, the forgiveness that is deliverance from sin, Is 44:22; cf. Ps 130:8. This messianic redemption is fulfilled in Christ, 1 Co 1:30; cf. Lk 1:68; 2:38. God the Father through Christ—and indeed Christ himself—has 'delivered' the new Israel from the slavery of the Law, Ga 3:13; 4:5; and of sin, Ep 1:7; Col 1:14; Heb 9:15, by 'acquiring' her, Ac 20:28, making her his own, Tt 2:14; purchasing her 1 Co 6:20; 7:23; cf. Ga 3:13; 4:5; cf. 2 P 2:1. The price was the blood of Christ, Ac 20:28; Ep 1:7; Heb 9:12; 1 P 1:18seq.; Rv 1:5; 5:9. This redemption, begun on Calvary and guaranteed by the present gift of the Spirit, Ep 1:14; 4:30, will be complete only at the parousia, Lk 21:28, when deliverance from death is secured by the resurrection of the body, Rm 8:23.

k. lit. 'whom God put forward as (or: destined to be) a propitiatory through faith by his blood'. For the 'propitiatory', or 'throne of mercy', see Ex 25:17h; and compare Heb 9:5. On the Day of Expiation, Lv 16:1a, this was sprinkled with blood, Lv 16:15. The blood of Christ has performed what the ancient ritual could only symbolise: purification from sin. Compare the blood of the covenant, Ex 24:8c; Mt 26:28h.

l. A quasi-forgiveness; God declined to attach guilt (a paresis or 'passing over'); such 'non-imputation' would be an idle procedure if positive forgiveness were not to follow, i.e. the utter destruction of sin by justification. Others translate 'with a view to the remission of sins'.

m. This 'present age' is in God's plan of salvation the 'time appointed'. Ac 1:7i, for Christ's redemptive work, Rm 5:6; 11:30; 1 Tm 2:6; Tt 1:3, which comes in the appointed time, Ga 4:4c, once for all, Heb 7:27g, and inaugurates the eschatological era. Cf. Mt 4:17 par.; 16:3 par.; Lk 4:13; 19:44; 21:8; Jn 7:6,8.

n. i.e. exercising his (saving, see 1:17j) justice, as he had promised, by justifying humanity.

o. The Gk word expresses the attitude of one who boasts of his own achievements, relies on them, and claims to accomplish his supernatural destiny by his own strength. This attitude is ruled out, since one does not win God's acquittal by superior strength, one receives it as a gift. The act of faith excludes self-sufficiency because in it human beings explicitly attest their radical insufficiency.

p. That is, the principle that consists in believing. Paul contrasts the Law engraved on stone, 2 Co 3:3, with faith, Rm 1:16h, an interior Law, written in human hearts, cf. Jr 31:33, which works through love, Ga 5:6, and is the 'law of the Spirit', Rm 8:2.

q. lit. 'we establish (the) Law': it is only by means of the regime of faith that the Law achieves what it was intended to do, viz. to make people holy, see 7:7d.

C: THE EXAMPLE OF ABRAHAM

Abraham justified by faith

Gn 12:1a;15:6c Si 44:19–21k Ga 3:6–9 Jm 2:14f: 20–24 3:27o

4 Then what do we say about Abraham,[a] the ancestor from whom we are descended physically?[b] 1
•If Abraham had been justified because of what he had done, then he would have had something to boast about.[c] 2
But not before God: does not scripture say: Abraham put his faith in God and this was reckoned to him as uprightness?[d] 3
•Now, when someone works, the wages for this are not considered as a favour but as due; 4
•however, when someone, without working, puts faith in the one who justifies the godless, it is this faith that is reckoned as uprightness. 5
•David, too, says the same: he calls someone blessed if God attributes uprightness to that person, apart from any action undertaken: 6

Ps 32:1–2

> How blessed are those whose offence is forgiven, 7 > whose sin is blotted out.
> How blessed are those to whom the Lord imputes no guilt. 8

Justified before circumcision

Is this blessing only for the circumcised, or is it said of the uncircumcised as well? 9
Well, we said of Abraham that his faith was reckoned to him as uprightness. 10
•Now how did this come about? When he was already circumcised, or before he had been circumcised? Not when he had been circumcised, but while he was still uncircumcised; 11
•and circumcision was given to him later, as a sign and a guarantee[e] that the faith which he had while still uncircumcised was reckoned to him as uprightness. In this way, Abraham was to be the ancestor of all believers who are uncircumcised, so that they might be reckoned as upright; 12
•as well as the ancestor of those of the circumcision who not only have their circumcision but who also follow our ancestor Abraham along the path of faith that he trod before he was circumcised.

Gn 17:10d

Ga 3:7

Not justified by obedience to the Law

Ga 3:16–18 Gn 12:7+

For the promise to Abraham and his descendants that he should inherit the world was not through the Law, but through the uprightness of faith.[f] 13
•For if it is those who live by the Law who will gain the inheritance, faith is worthless and the promise is without force; 14
•for the Law produces nothing but God's retribution, and it is only where there is no Law that it is possible to live without breaking the Law. 15
That is why the promise is to faith, so that it comes as a free gift and is secure for all the descendants, not only those who rely on the Law but all those others who rely on the faith of Abraham, the ancestor of us all 16
•(as scripture says: I have made you the father of many nations). 17
Abraham is our father in the eyes of God, in whom he put his faith, and who brings the dead to life and calls into existence what does not yet exist.[g]

Ga 3:10 5:13;7:7d

Gn 17:5c Dt 32:39+ Is 48:13 Heb 11:19

Abraham's faith a model of Christian faith

Though there seemed no hope, he hoped and believed that he was to become 18 father of many nations in fulfilment of the promise: Just so will your descendants be. 19
•Even the thought that his body was as good as dead—he was about a hundred years old—and that Sarah's womb was dead too did not shake his faith.[h]
Counting on the promise of God, he did not doubt or disbelieve, but drew 20 strength from faith[i] and gave glory to God, 21 •fully convinced that whatever God promised he has the power to perform. 22
•This is the faith that was reckoned to him as uprightness. 23, 24
•And the word 'reckoned' in scripture applies not only to him; 25
•it is there for our sake too—our faith, too, will be 'reckoned'
•because we believe in him who raised from the dead our Lord Jesus who was handed over to death for our sins and raised to life for our justification.[j]

Gn 15:5 Gn 17:17f

Mk 9:23 Heb 11:1seq. Jr 32:17 Lk 1:37 1 Co 10:6d 1 P 1:21 •1:4c •Is 53:6

II: SALVATION

Faith guarantees salvation [a]

1 5 So then, now that we have been justified by faith, we are at peace [b] with God
2 through our Lord Jesus Christ; •it is through him, by faith, that we have been admitted into God's favour in which we are living, and look forward exultantly to 3:27o
3 God's glory. [c] •Not only that; let us exult, too, in our hardships, understanding that 3:23h
4 hardship develops perseverance, •and perseverance develops a tested character, 2 Co 12:9–10 Jm 1:2–4 1 P 4:13–14 Rv 1:9
5 something that gives us hope, •and a hope which will not let us down, because the •1 Co 13:13e love of God [d] has been poured into our hearts by the Holy Spirit which has been •8:4–16 Ga 4:4–6 3:26m 6 given to us. [e] •When we were still helpless, at the appointed time, Christ died for

4 a. var. 'What then shall we say that Abraham has gained?'

b. The recurrence of the fatherhood-of-Abraham theme marks the stages in the argument, vv. 1,12,16–22.

c. Jewish tradition, preoccupied with Abraham's loyalty and his fortitude under trial, had made him the outstanding example of justification by works, 1 M 2:52; Ws 10:5; Si 44:20seq., and cf. especially the Book of Jubilees, 11–12; 16:19 seq.; see also Jm 2:21j, cf. Rm 2:14c. Paul, however, finds that this justification and these works have their source in Abraham's faith, Gn 12:1a and 15:6c. Cf. Heb 11:8seq.

d. The words themselves are capable of various interpretations: by reason of his faith Abraham was reckoned an upright man by God, though in fact he was not so; or, by reason of his faith Abraham had conferred upon him gratuitously by God an uprightness (or 'justice') that had not been his when he came to believe; or thirdly, in God's eyes (and hence in fact) faith and uprightness are so interdependent as to be inseparable. The first of these interpretations is, however, incompatible with Pauline teaching as a whole; so also, it would seem, is the second; the third is completely consistent with it.

e. This word, sphragis, (lit. 'seal' or 'impression of a seal') came very soon to be analogically used of baptism, the sacrament of Christian faith, 2 Co 1:22; Ep 1:13; 4:30; see Jn 6:27g; Rv 7:2–8; 9:4.

f. lit. 'the uprightness of faith', i.e. that uprightness which is precisely the act of believing with a living faith. The inheritance is conferred not to reward people for observing the clauses of a contract (a law), but to fulfil a promise. The promises, Gn 12:1a, having been offered to faith, the fulfilment of them can be known and welcomed only by faith in the person and work of Jesus Christ, 9:4–8; 15:8; Jn 8:56; Ac 2:39; 13:23; Ga 3:14–19; Ep 1:13,14; 2:12; 3:6; Heb 11:9–10,13. Compare 3:27.

g. As at the creation; the two striking reminders of God's power prepare the reader (or the hearer) for the reference to Christ's resurrection in v. 25.

h. Text. rec. 'His faith was not shaken, nor did he give a thought to his own body that was dead already.'

i. Faith is all-powerful, Mk 9:23. It allows God's power true play in us, see 2 Co 12:9–10.

j. Paul never thinks of the death of Jesus in isolation from his resurrection. 'Justification' is the entering into the life of the risen Christ, 6:4; 8:10. The God who in the OT gives saving justice by means of judgement, Ps 9:8, is in the NT expected to be the judge at the Last Day, Rm 2:6; 'justification' (= acquittal) by Christ is conferred in consideration of faith only, Rm 1:17k, and not 'works' of the Law, Rm 3:27p; 7:7d.

5 a. The theme of the second section, ch. 5–11: for the Christian who has received justification, see ch. 1–4, God's love and the gift of the Spirit are a pledge of salvation. After the contrast of 5:12–7:25 this theme is resumed in ch. 8.

b. var. 'let us be at peace'.

c. For a Christian to hope is to be confident of receiving the eschatological gifts: the resurrection of the body, 8:18–23; 1 Th 4:13seq.; cf. Ac 2:26; 23:6; 24:15; 26:6–8, the rich inheritance of the saints, Ep 1:18; cf. 1 P 1:3seq., eternal life, Tt 1:2; cf. 1 Co 15:19, glory, Rm 5:2; in short, salvation, 1 Th 5:8; cf. 1 P 1:3–5, of self and neighbour, 2 Co 1:6seq.; 1 Th 2:19. Though it means primarily this virtue of expectation, 'hope' is used sometimes for the expected gifts themselves, Ga 5:5; Col 1:5; Tt 2:13; Heb 6:18. Of old, this hope was given to Israel, Ep 1:11–12; cf. Jn 5:45; Rm 4:18, and not to the gentiles, Ep 2:12; cf. 1 Th 4:13; but it was a step towards a higher hope, Heb 7:19, offered now to the gentile world also, Col 1:27; Ep 1:18; cf. Mt 12:21; Rm 15:12, through the 'mystery' of Christ, Rm 16:25*l*. The basis of this hope is God himself, 1 Tm 5:5; 6:17; 1 P 1:21; 3:5, his love. 2 Th 2:16, his invitation, 1 P 1:13–15; cf. Ep 1:18; 4:4, his power, Rm 4:17–21, truthfulness, Tt 1:2; Heb 6:18, fidelity, Heb 10:23, in implementing the promises declared in the written word, Rm 15:4, and in the gospel message, Col 1:23, promises fulfilled in Christ's person, 1 Tm 1:1; 1 P 1:3,21. The hope is therefore not illusory, 5:5. Since the gifts it expects are in the future, 8:24; Heb 11:1, faith is its prop, Rm 4:18; 5:1seq.; 15:13; Ga 5:5; Heb 6:11seq.; 1 P 1:21; charity is its food, Rm 5:5; 1 Co 13:7; hope and faith and charity, the three theological virtues, are closely allied. Hope's superlative source is the Holy Spirit, cf. Ga 5:5, greatest of all the eschatological gifts and in part already conferred, Rm 5:5e; Ac 1:8j; this enlightens, Ep 1:17seq., and strengthens hope, Rm 15:13, and inspires its prayer, Rm 8:26–27, effecting the unity of the Body, for this hope is common, Ep 4:4. And because hope is built on justification through faith in Christ, 5:1seq.; cf. Ga 5:5, it is rich in confidence, 2 Co 3:12; Heb 3:6, consolation, 2 Th 2:16; Heb 6:18, joy, Rm 12:12; 15:13; 1 Th 2:19, and is a thing to be proud of, Rm 5:2; 1 Th 2:19; Heb 3:6. The sufferings of this present time are inconsiderable in comparison, 8:18; on the contrary they sustain it, giving it a constancy, 8:25; 12:12; 15:4; 1 Th 1:3; cf. 1 Co 13:7, that tests, Rm 5:4, and fortifies it, 2 Co 1:7.

d. God's love for us; of this the Holy Spirit is a pledge and to this, by his active presence within us, he bears witness: cf. 8:15 and Ga 4:6. In him, we speak to God as a child to his father; love is mutual. In him, too, our love for our brothers is the same love with which the Father loves the Son and loves us, see Jn 17:26; 1 Jn 4:7seq.

e. The promised Spirit, Ep 1:13, see Ac 2:33u; Ga 3:14, distinctive of the new covenant as contrasted with the old, Rm 2:29; 7:6; Ezk 36:27f; 2 Co 3:6; cf. Ga 3:3; 4:29; is not merely an exhibition of healing or charismatic power, Ac 1:8j; it is also, and especially, an inward principle of new life, a principle that God 'gives', 1 Th 4:8, etc., cf. Lk 11:13; Jn 3:34; 14:16seq.; Ac 1:5; 2:38; etc.; 1 Jn 3:24, 'sends', Ga 4:6; cf. Lk 24:49; Jn 14:26; 1 P 1:12, 'pours out', Rm 5:5; Tt 3:5seq.; cf. Ac 2:33. Received into the Christian by faith, Ga 3:2,14; cf. Jn 7:38seq.; Ac 11:17, and baptism, 1 Co 6:11; Tt 3:5; cf. Jn 3:5; Ac 2:38; 19:2–6, it dwells within the Christian, Rm 8:9; 1 Co 3:16; 2 Tm 1:14; cf. Jm 4:5, in the spirit, Rm 8:16; see Rm 1:9e, and even in the body, 1 Co 6:19. This Spirit, the Spirit of Christ, 8:9; Ga 4:6; Ph 1:19; cf. Jn 14:26; 15:26; 16:7,14; Ac 16:7; 2 Co 3:17, makes the Christian a child of God, Rm 8:14–16; Ga 4:6seq., and establishes Christ in the heart, Ep 3:16. For the Christian (as for Christ himself, 1:4c) this Spirit is a principle of resurrection, 8:11g, in virtue of an eschatological gift which even in life acts as with a seal, 2 Co 1:22; Ep 1:13; 4:30, and which is present by way of pledge, 2 Co 1:22; 5:5; Ep 1:14, and of first-fruits, Rm 8:23. It takes the place of the ungodly principle in human beings that is 'the flesh', 7:5c, and becomes a principle of supernatural knowledge, 1 Co 2:10–16; 7:40; 12:8seq.; 14:2seq.; Ep 1:17; 3:16,18; Col 1:9; see Jn 14:26r, of love, Rm 5:5; 15:30; Col 1:8, of sanctification, Rm 15:16; 1 Co 6:11; 2 Th 2:13; cf. 1 P 1:2, of moral conduct, Rm 8:4–

1 P 3:18 the godless. ·You could hardly find anyone ready to die even for someone upright; 7 though it is just possible that, for a really good person, someone might undertake 8:32 to die. ·So it is proof of God's own love for us, that Christ died for us while we were 8
Jn 15:13
1 Jn 3:16;4:10 still sinners. ·How much more can we be sure, therefore, that, now that we have 9
2 Co 5:18–21 been justified by his death, we shall be saved through him from the retribution of 1 Th 1:10 God. ·For if, while we were enemies, we were reconciled to God through the death 10 of his Son, how much more can we be sure that, being now reconciled, we shall be Col 1:21–22j saved by his life. ·What is more, we are filled with exultant trust in God, through 11
Jn 14:20k
Col 3:3–4b our Lord Jesus Christ, through whom we have already gained our reconciliation.

A: DELIVERANCE FROM SIN AND DEATH AND LAW

Adam and Jesus Christ[f]

6:23 Well then; it was through one man that sin came into the world, and through sin 12
Gn 3:17,19
Ps 51:5c death,[g] and thus death has spread through the whole human race because everyone
Ws 2:24
1 Co 15:21–22 has sinned.[h] ·Sin already existed in the world before there was any law, even 13
3:23
4:15;7:7d though sin is not reckoned when there is no law. ·Nonetheless death reigned over 14 all from Adam to Moses, even over those whose sin was not the breaking of a commandment, as Adam's was. He prefigured[i] the One who was to come . . .

There is no comparison between the free gift and the offence. If death came to 15 many[j] through the offence of one man, how much greater an effect the grace of God has had, coming to so many and so plentifully as a free gift through the one man Jesus Christ! ·Again, there is no comparison between the gift and the 16 offence of one man. One single offence brought condemnation, but now, after many offences, have come the free gift and so acquittal! ·It was by one man's 17 offence that death came to reign over all, but how much greater the reign in life of those who receive the fullness of grace and the gift of saving justice, through the one man, Jesus Christ. ·One man's offence brought condemnation on all humanity; 18 and one man's good act has brought justification and life to all humanity. ·Just as
Is 53:11 by one man's disobedience many were made sinners, so by one man's obedience
7:7d are many to be made upright.[k] ·When law[l] came on the scene, it was to multiply 20
Ga 3:19 the offences. But however much sin increased, grace was always greater; ·so that 21 11:32 as sin's reign brought death, so grace was to rule through saving justice that leads to eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.

Col 2:12–13 ### Baptism
Tt 3:5–7
1 P 3:21–22
3:8;6:15;
1 P 4:1–2 6 What should we say then? Should we remain in sin so that grace may be given 1 the more fully? ·Out of the question! We have died to sin; how could we go on 2 living in it? ·You cannot have forgotten that all of us, when we were baptised into 3
Ac 2:38y Christ Jesus, were baptised into his death. ·So by our baptism into his death we 4
Ga 3:27
Col 2:12 were buried with him,[a] so that as Christ was raised from the dead by the Father's 1:4c glorious power, we too should begin living a new life. ·If we have been joined to 5
Ex 24:16f
2 Co 5:17h him by dying a death like his, so we shall be by a resurrection like his; ·realising 6
Ph 3:10–11
8:11g that our former self was crucified with him, so that the self which belonged to sin
Ep 2:6e should be destroyed and we should be freed from the slavery of sin.[b] ·Someone 7
Col 3:9–10,10e who has died, of course, no longer has to answer for sin.

Col 3:5c But[c] we believe that, if we died with Christ, then we shall live with him too. 8
Ga 5:24;6:14
2 Tm 2:11 We know that Christ has been raised from the dead and will never die again. 9
Death has no power over him any more. ·For by dying, he is dead to sin[d] once and 10
Ac 13:34
1 Co 15:26 for all, and now the life that he lives is life with God. ·In the same way, you must 11
2 Tm 1:10
Heb 2:14seq., see yourselves as being dead to sin but alive for God in Christ Jesus.[e] 14h
↗Rv 1:18p
Heb 7:27g

Holiness, not sin, to be the master

7:14–24 That is why you must not allow sin to reign over your mortal bodies[f] and make you 12

13 obey their desires; ·or give any parts of your bodies over to sin to be used as 12:1 instruments of evil. Instead, give yourselves to God, as people brought to life from the dead, and give every part of your bodies to God to be instruments of upright-14 ness; ·and then sin will no longer have any power over you—you are living not under law, but under grace.

The Christian is freed from the slavery of sin[g]

15 What is the implication? That we are free to sin, now that we are not under law but 3:8;6:1 16 under grace? Out of the question! ·You know well that if you undertake to be somebody's slave and obey him, you are the slave of him you obey: you can be the Jn 8:34 slave either of sin which leads to death, or of obedience which leads to saving 1:5d
17 justice. ·Once you were slaves of sin, but thank God you have given whole-hearted 16:18 18 obedience to the pattern of teaching to which you were introduced; ·and so, being 19 freed from serving sin, you took uprightness as your master. ·I am putting it in Jn 8:36 Ga 5:13 human terms because you are still weak human beings: as once you surrendered

9,13; Ga 5:16–25. of apostolic courage. Ph 1:19; 2 Tm 1:7seq.; see Ac 1:8j. of hope. Rm 15:13; Ga 5:5; Ep 4:4. of prayer. Rm 8:26seq.; cf. Jm 4:3,5; Jude 20. The Spirit must not be quenched. 1 Th 5:19, or grieved. Ep 4:30. It unites human beings with Christ. 1 Co 6:17. and thus secures the unity of his Body. 1 Co 12:13; Ep 2:16,18; 4:4.

f. Sin 'lives in' humanity. 7:14–24. Death. the reward of sin. came into the world as a result of Adam's disobedience. Ws 2:24: from this Paul concludes that sin itself entered into all humanity through that first fall. This is the doctrine of original sin and by introducing it here Paul is able to draw the contrast between the deadly work of the first Adam and the more than sufficient compensation of the 'second Adam'. vv. 15–19; 1 Co 15:21seq.,25. It is as the new head of the human race. the image in which God remakes his creation. 8:29n; 2 Co 5:17h. that Christ is Saviour of humanity. see 1 Co 15:22m.

g. Sin makes a division from God. This separation is 'death'. death spiritual and eternal; physical death is the symbol of it. see Ws 2:24; Heb 6:1b.

h. The exact meaning is a matter of debate. Perhaps 'everyone has sinned in Adam'. i.e. by participation in Adam's sins. or perhaps the reference is to everyone sinning through their personal sins. In this instance. the Gk phrase would be best translated 'by the fact that everyone has sinned'. referring to the actual situation by which eternal death has extended to everyone. In fact. in the case of adults (who alone are considered here) the power of sin which entered the world with Adam had its effects through personal sins which in some way ratify Adam's revolt. Alternative translation: 'because of which everyone has sinned'.

i. 'prefigured'. see 1 Co 10:6d: the likeness. therefore. is not complete—hence the comparison. begun in v. 12 and interrupted by the long parenthesis of vv. 13 and 14. becomes a contrast in v. 15.

j. The word 'many' means all people. see v. 18; see Mt 20:28h.

k. Not only in the remote future of the Last Judgement (for Paul regards justification as a present condition. see 5:1; etc.) but progressively as each individual becomes reborn in Christ.

l. 'law' without the definite article. i.e. a state of things in which Law is the governing factor.

6 a. Baptism is not contrasted with faith but goes with it. Ga 3:26seq.; Ep 4:5; Heb 10:22. cf. Ac 8:12seq.,37; 16:31–33; 18:8; 19:2–5. and gives it outward expression by the operative symbolism of the baptismal ceremonial. For this reason Paul ascribes to faith and to baptism the same effects (cf. Rm 6:3–9 and Ga 2:16–20). The sinner is immersed in water (the etymological meaning of 'baptise' is 'dip') and thus 'buried' with Christ. Col 2:12. with whom also the Christian emerges to resurrection. Rm 8:11g. as a 'new creature'. 2 Co 5:17h. a 'new person'. Ep 2:15n. a member of the one Body animated by the one Spirit. 1 Co 12:13; Ep 4:4seq. This resurrection will not be complete or final until the end of time. 1 Co 15:12 (but see Ep 2:6e). but is already taking place in the form of a new life lived 'in the Spirit'. Rm 8:2f,8–11,13; Ga 5:16–24. The death-resurrection symbolism of baptism is particularly Pauline. but this initial rite of the Christian life. Heb 6:2. is also spoken of in the NT as a cleansing bath. Ep 5:26; Heb 10:22; cf. 1 Co 6:11; Tt 3:5. a new birth. Jn 3:5; Tt 3:5; cf. 1 P 1:3; 2:2. an enlightenment. Heb 6:4; 10:32; cf. Ep 5:14. On baptism of water and baptism of the Spirit. cf. Ac 1:5f: these two aspects of the consecration of the Christian are seen as the 'anointing' and the 'seal' of 2 Co 1:21seq. According to 1 P 3:20–21 the ark of Noah is a type of baptism.

b. Possibly in the sense of no longer having the means to sin. having lost the 'sinful body'. v. 6: being no more 'in the flesh'. 8:9. and so freed from sin once and for all. cf. 1 P 4:1. Possibly in the sense that in law the death of the accused cancels legal proceedings. Cf. 7:1.

c. var. 'For'.

d. Christ was sinless. 2 Co 5:21. but having a physical body like our own. Rm 8:3. he belonged to the order of sin: when he became 'spiritual'. 1 Co 15:45–46. he belonged only to the divine order. Similarly. the Christian. though remaining 'in the flesh' for a time. already lives by the Spirit.

e. Text. rec. 'Christ Jesus our Lord'. Cf. 14:7seq.; 1 Co 3:23h; 2 Co 5:15; Ga 2:20; 1 P 2:24.

f. Though baptism has destroyed human sin. as long as the body has not been 'clothed with immortality' 1 Co 15:54. sin may still find a way to reassert itself in a 'mortal' body. still open to the natural human inclination.

g. Christ has freed human beings from evil so as to restore them to God. Paul develops the biblical ideas of 'redemption'. 3:24j. and of liberation from death. 7:1b. and in order to bring out their implications makes frequent use of a metaphor that his contemporaries would find impressive: the slave redeemed and set free who can be a slave no longer but must serve the new master freely and faithfully. Christ has paid for our redemption with his life. 1 Co 6:20; 7:23; Ga 3:13; 4:5; and he has made us permanently free. Ga 5:1,13. The Christian must be careful not to let himself be caught again by those who once owned him. Ga 2:4seq.; 4:9; 5:1. i.e. by sin. Rm 6:18–22; the Law. Rm 6:14; 8:2; Ga 3:13; 4:5; cf. Rm 7:1seq. with its ritual observance. Ga 2:4; the principles of the world. Ga 4:3,8. see also Col 2:20–22; and corruption. Rm 8:21–23. He is free. 1 Co 9:1. the child of a free mother. i.e. the spiritual Jerusalem. Ga 4:26,31. This liberty is not licence to sin. Ga 5:13; cf. 1 P 2:16; 2 P 2:19–21. It means serving a new master. God. 6:22; cf. 1 Th 1:9; 1 P 2:16. the Lord Christ. Rm 1:1; 14:8; 16:8; Jm 1:1; 2 P 1:1; Jude 1; etc., to whom the Christian now belongs. 1 Co 6:19; 3:23. for whom he lives and dies. Rm 7:1b; this obedient service is prompted by faith and leads to uprightness and holiness. Rm 6:16–19. This is the sort of freedom a son has. Ga 4:7. once he has been set free by 'the law of the Spirit'. Rm 8:2; cf. 7:6; 8:14seq.; 2 Co 3:17 (and see Jm 1:25; 2:12). and he must be prepared to surrender it to serve his neighbour in charity. Ga 5:13; cf. 2 Co 4:5. respect for someone else's scruples may require it. Rm 14; 1 Co 10:23–33; cf. 1 Co 6:12–13; 1 Co 9:19. Slavery as a social institution may be tolerated in a society that is. after all. transient. 1 Co 7:20–24,31. it has no real significance in the new order established by Christ. 1 Co 12:13; Ga 3:28; Col 3:11. the Christian slave has been enfranchised by the Lord Christ. and slave and master are equally servants of Christ. 1 Co 7:22; cf. Ep 6:5–9; Col 3:22–4:1; Phm 16.

yourselves as servants to immorality and to a lawlessness which results in more
1 P 1:14–15 lawlessness, now you have to surrender yourselves to uprightness which is to result in sanctification. [h]

The reward of sin and the reward of uprightness

When you were the servants of sin, you felt no obligation to uprightness, ·and what 20, 21 did you gain from living like that? Experiences of which you are now ashamed, [i] for that sort of behaviour ends in death. ·But, now you are set free from sin and bound 22
Jn 15:8,16 to the service of God, your gain will be sanctification and the end will be eternal
5:12,21 life. ·For the wage paid by sin is death; the gift freely given by God is eternal life in 23
Ga 6:7–9
Jm 1:15 Christ Jesus our Lord.

The Christian is freed from slavery to the Law [a]

7 As people who are familiar with the Law, brothers, you cannot have forgotten 1 that the law can control a person only during that person's lifetime. [b] ·A 2 1 Co 7:39 married woman, for instance, is bound to her husband by law, as long as he lives, but when her husband dies all her legal obligation to him as husband is ended. ·So 3 if she were to have relations with another man while her husband was still alive, she would be termed an adulteress; but if her husband dies, her legal obligation comes to an end and if she then has relations with another man, that does not make her an adulteress. ·In the same way you, my brothers, through the body of Christ 4 6:5–6 have become dead to the Law and so you are able to belong to someone else, that Ga 2:19*l*
6:8–11,22 is, to him who was raised from the dead to make us live fruitfully for God. ·While 5
Jn 15:8 we were still living by our natural inclinations, [c] the sinful passions aroused by the 7:7seq..7d Law were working in all parts of our bodies to make us live lives which were fruitful
6:7 only for death. ·But now we are released from the Law, having died to what was 6
2:29 binding us, and so we are in a new service, that of the spirit, and not in the old
Mt 9:16–17
2 Co 3:6 service of a written code.

The function of the Law [d]

What should we say, then? That the Law itself is sin? Out of the question! All the 7 same, if it had not been for the Law, I should not have known what sin was; for instance, I should not have known what it meant to covet if the Law had not said:
Ex 20:17 You are not to covet. ·But, once it found the opportunity through that command- 8
Jm 1:14–15
4:15;5:13 ment, sin produced in me all kinds of covetousness; as long as there is no Law,
1 Co 15:56 sin is dead.

Once, when there was no Law, I used to be alive; [e] but when the commandment 9
Gn2:17;3:1seq. came, sin came to life ·and I died. The commandment was meant to bring life but 10
Lv 18:5
Ezk 20:11 I found it brought death, ·because sin; finding its opportunity by means of the 11
Gn 3:13 commandment, beguiled me and, by means of it, killed me.
Dt 4:8 So then, the Law is holy, and what it commands is holy and upright and good. 12
Does that mean that something good resulted in my dying? Out of the question! 13
But sin, [f] in order to be identified as sin, caused my death through that good 5:20 thing, and so it is by means of the commandment that sin shows its unbounded sinful power.

The inward struggle [g]

Jb 14:4c We are well aware that the Law is spiritual: but I am a creature of flesh and blood 14
Ps 51:5c
Ws 9:15f sold as a slave to sin. ·I do not understand my own behaviour; I do not act as I 15
Ga 5:17 mean to, but I do things that I hate. ·While I am acting as I do not want to, I still 16 acknowledge the Law as good, ·so it is not myself acting, but the sin which lives in 17 7:5 me. ·And really, I know of nothing good living in me—in my natural self, that is— 18 for though the will to do what is good is in me, the power to do it is not: ·the good 19 thing I want to do, I never do; the evil thing which I do not want—that is what I do.
Ga 2:20 But every time I do what I do not want to, then it is not myself acting, but the sin 20 that lives in me. [h]

21 So I find this rule: [i] that for me, where I want to do nothing but good, evil is close 22, 23 at my side. [j] In my inmost self I dearly love God's law, [k] but I see that acting on my body there is a different law which battles against the law in my mind. So I am Jm 1:14–15 brought to be a prisoner of that law of sin which lives inside my body.

h. The holiness proper to God, Lv 17:1a, which he communicated to his people, Ex 19:3c,6, is communicated to those who have faith in Christ, Ac 9:13g; Col 1:12c. If it was formal or ritual, it is no longer so; it is 'being made like Christ, the Holy One of God'. The Christian, sanctified because justified and, by belonging to the holy people, inhabited by the Holy Spirit, 5:5c, has still to live out this holiness in practice and progress in sanctification, v. 22; 1 Th 4:3–7.3c; 2 Th 2:13.

i. Or 'what did you get from actions that now you regret?'

7 a. Paul now approaches a subject which has been in his mind for some time, 3:20; 4:15; 5:20; 6:14: the emancipation of the Christian from the Law, and this leads him to explain the role of the Law as God intended it, see 7:d.

b. Elsewhere Paul refers to the liberation of the Christian either biblically as 'redemption', 3:24j or hellenistically as 'enfranchisement', 6:15g. He also describes it frequently as a deliverance through death, since death frees a person from the past with all its tyrannical demands, 6:7; 7:1–3. The Christian, in union with the dead and risen Christ, 8:11g, and by virtue of faith, 1:16h, and baptism, 6:4a, is now dead to sin, 6:2,11, cf. 1 P 4:1, to the Law, Rm 7:6; Ga 2:19*l*; to the principles of the world, Col 2:20, and so lives under the new order of grace and the Spirit, Rm 8:5–13. Like slaves emancipated and enslaved to a new master, 6:15g, Christians, risen in Christ, live no longer for themselves but for Christ and for God, 6:11–13; 14:7seq., cf. 2 Co 5:15; Ga 2:20.

c. 1 The primary meaning of 'flesh' is the matter of which the body is made, 1 Co 15:39; cf. Lk 24:39; Rv 17:16; 19:18; it is the opposite of spirit, Rm 1:9e, it is the body with its senses, Col 2:1,5, and especially the medium of sexual union, 1 Co 6:16; 7:28; Ep 5:29,31; cf. Mt 19:5par.; Jn 1:13; Jude 7, by which people become parents and heirs, Rm 4:1; 9:3,5; 11:14; cf. Heb 12:9. Thus 'flesh', like basar in biblical usage, emphasises the weak and perishable side of human beings, 6:19; 2 Co 7:5; 12:7; Ga 4:13seq., cf. Mt 26:41par., and their insignificance in comparison with God, Rm 3:20 and Ga 2:16; 1 Co 1:29; cf. Mt 24:22par.; Lk 3:6; Jn 17:2; Ac 2:17; 1 P 1:24. So, in order to distinguish what belongs to human nature from what belongs to grace, the words 'according to the flesh' are used for the first, 1 Co 1:26; 2 Co 1:17; Ep 6:5; cf. Jn 8:15; Phm 16, 'flesh and blood', 1 Co 15:50; Ga 1:16; Ep 6:12; Heb 2:14; cf. Mt 16:17, and 'fleshly', 1 Co 3:1,3; 9:11; 2 Co 1:12; 10:4. 2 Since the sending of the Spirit is what gives this eschatological age its character, Paul can use the word 'flesh' to signify the old dispensation as opposed to the new, 9:8; Jn 3:6; 6:63; Ga 3:3; 6:12seq.; Ph 3:3seq.; Ep 2:11; cf. Heb 9:10,13, so also the phrase 'according to the flesh', 2 Co 11:18; Ga 4:23,29; cf. Rm 1:3seq.; 2 Co 5:16, and 'fleshly', Heb 7:16; but see 1 Co 10:3seq. 3 For Paul the 'flesh' is especially the sphere in which the passions and sin operate, 7:5,14,18,25; 13:14; 2 Co 7:1; Ga 5:13,19; Ep 2:3; Col 2:13,18,23; cf. 1 P 2:11; 2 P 2:10,18; 1 Jn 2:16; Jude 8,23, condemned to corruption, 1 Co 15:50; Ga 6:8; cf. Ac 2:26–27,31; Jm 5:3, and to death, Rm 8:6,13; 1 Co 5:5; 2 Co 4:11; see 1 P 4:6, so much so that 'flesh' becomes personified as a Power of evil hostile to God, Rm 8:7seq., and to the Spirit, Rm 8:4–9.12seq.; Ga 5:16seq. Christ has defeated this Power by assuming 'sinful flesh', 8:3; cf. Jn 1:14; 1 Tm 3:16; 1 Jn 4:2; 2 Jn 7, and putting it to death on the cross, Rm 8:3; Ep 2:14–16; Col 1:22; cf. Heb 5:7seq.; 10:20; 1 P 3:18; 4:1. Being united with him, Jn 6:51seq., Christians are no longer 'in the flesh' Rm 7:5; 8:9, since they have crucified the flesh, Ga 5:24; cf. 1 P 4:1, and cast it off by baptism, Col 2:11; more precisely, they are still 'in the flesh' as long as they remain in this world, Ph 1:22–24; cf. 1 P 4:2, but are not slaves to the flesh any more, 2 Co 10:3; they are its masters through their union with Christ by faith, Ga 2:20, and suffering, Col 1:24. In this theological note, for the sake of clarity, the term 'flesh' is used throughout; in the translation of the biblical text, however, a variety of terms has been used: 'body', 'human nature', 'human ideals', 'natural inclinations', 'physical descent', to render the various facets of this concept.

d. In itself the Law is holy and good since it expresses God's will, 7:12–25; 1 Tm 1:8; it is the glorious prerogative of Israel, Rm 9:4; but see 2:14seq. And yet it seems to have been a failure: in spite of the Law the Jews are sinners like everyone else, 2:21–27; Ga 6:13; Ep 2:3, and obedience to it even makes them so confident, Rm 2:17–20; 3:27; 4:2,4; 9:31seq.; Ph 3:9; Ep 2:8, that they are shut off by it from the grace of Christ, Ga 6:12; Ph 3:18; cf. Ac 15:1. In short, the Law is powerless to make anyone justified as upright, 3:20; Ga 3:11,21seq.; cf. Heb 7:19. Paul's argument, to which polemic lends a tone of paradox, is that this apparent failure of the Law is due to the nature of the Law itself and to the part it was meant to play in the history of salvation. The Law gives information—it does not give spiritual strength. No law, whether Mosaic or otherwise, not even the primordial command given to Adam, see vv. 9–11, can prevent sin, in fact law makes it worse: 1 Because though law is not the source of sin it becomes the instrument of sin by 'multiplying offences' 7:7seq. 2 Because by informing the mind it increases the fault, which becomes a conscious transgression, 4:15; 5:13. 3 Because the only remedy law can offer is punishment, 4:15, curse, Ga 3:10, condemnation, 2 Co 3:9, death, 2 Co 3:6; hence it can be called 'the law of sin and death', Rm 8:2; cf. Rm 7:13; 1 Co 15:56. Nevertheless God willed this defective system, though as a temporary period of schooling, Ga 3:24, to make people conscious of their sin, Rm 3:19seq.; 5:20; Ga 3:19, and to teach them to look for justification solely to the grace of God, Rm 11:32; Ga 3:22. Since this state of things is only provisional it has to give way before the fulfilment of the promise made, before the Law, to Abraham and his descendants, Ga 3:6–22; Rm 4. Christ has put an end to the Law, Ep 2:15; cf. Rm 10:4, by 'fulfilling', see Mt 3:15; 5:17, all in it that is of positive value, Rm 3:31; 9:31, notably by his death, the supreme expression of his love, Rm 5:8; 8:35,39; Ga 2:20; Ph 2:5–8; and also the satisfaction of the Law's demands over sinners, with whom he was identifying himself, Rm 8:3c; Ga 3:13e; Col 2:14. He emancipates the sons from the guardianship of the tutor, Ga 3:25seq. With him, they are dead to the Law, 7:4–6; Ga 2:19; cf. Col 2:20, from which he has 'redeemed' them, Ga 3:13, to make them children by adoption, Ga 4:5. Through the promised Spirit, he gives to humanity thus renewed, Ep 2:15n, the inward strength to do all the good things prescribed by the Law, Rm 8:4seq. This order of grace, superseding that of the old Law, may still be termed a law in the sense of a rule, but it is 'the law of faith', 3:27, 'the law of Christ', Ga 6:2, 'the law of the Spirit', Rm 8:2, and love is its essential precept, Rm 13:8–10; Ga 5:14; cf. Jn 13:34; Jm 2:8, a sharing in the love of the Father and the Son, Rm 5:5d; Ga 4:6.

e. Paul speaks in the person of humanity before the Law was given, cf. 5:13.

f. Sin personified, cf. 5:12, here takes the place of the snake of Gn 3:1 and the Devil of Ws 2:24.

g. Paul now speaks in the person of humanity still under the empire of sin and not yet justified, whereas in ch. 8, he speaks in the name of the justified Christian with the gift of the Spirit who, nevertheless, is conscious of an inward struggle while on earth, Ga 5:17seq.

h. Paul is not denying personal responsibility for evil done, any more than for the good, in Ga 2:20.

i. lit. 'law', in the sense of regular experience.

j. This 'inmost self' is the reasoning part of human nature as opposed to the 'outer self', 2 Co 4:16[a], the perishable body. This distinction which has its origin in Greek thought is not the same as that between the 'old' and the 'new' self, Col 3:9–10e, which derives from Jewish eschatology. There are texts, however, where Paul speaks of the 'inmost self' in the Christian sense of the 'new self', 2 Co 4:16[b]; Ep 3:16.

k. var. 'reason's law' as in v. 23.

What a wretched man I am! Who will rescue me from this body doomed to death? [l] 24
5:21;6:23 •God—thanks be to him—through Jesus Christ our Lord. 25
So it is that I myself with my mind [m] obey the law of God, but in my disordered nature I obey the law of sin. [n]

B: THE CHRISTIAN'S SPIRITUAL LIFE

Ezk 36:27f

The life of the spirit

8 Thus, condemnation will never come to those who are in Christ Jesus, 1 because the law of the Spirit which gives life in Christ Jesus has set you [a] free 2 from the law of sin and death. [b] •What the Law could not do because of the 3 7:7d Ac 13:38–39; 15:10–11 •6:10d 2 Co 5:21 Ga 3:13 Heb 2:14–18 3:31q;9:30–31, 31o;10:4 weakness of human nature, [c] God did, sending his own Son in the same human nature as any sinner to be a sacrifice for sin, and condemning sin in that human nature. [d] •This was so that the Law's requirements [e] might be fully satisfied in us as 4
we direct our lives not by our natural inclinations but by the spirit. •Those who are 5 living by their natural inclinations have their minds on the things human nature desires; those who live in the spirit have their minds on spiritual things. •And 6
Ga 5:16–23 human nature has nothing to look forward to but death, while the spirit looks 6:21 Ga 6:8 forward to life and peace, •because the outlook of disordered human nature is 7 opposed to God, since it does not submit to God's Law, and indeed it cannot, •and 8 1 Jn 2:15–16 7:5–6 those who live by their natural inclinations can never be pleasing to God. •You, 9
however, live not by your natural inclinations, but by the spirit, since the Spirit of God has made a home in you. Indeed, anyone who does not have the Spirit of Jn 3:5–6 1 Co 2:23h •5:12g 1:4c;6:4a,8–11 Ezk 37:10d Christ does not belong to him. •But when Christ is in you, the body is dead because 10 of sin but the spirit is alive because you have been justified; [f] •and if the Spirit of 11 him who raised Jesus from the dead has made his home in you, then he who raised Christ Jesus from the dead will give life to your own mortal bodies through his Spirit living in you. [g] Gn 6:3 Ga 6:8 Ep 4:22–24 So then, my brothers, we have no obligation to human nature to be dominated 12 by it. •If you do live in that way, you are doomed to die; but if by the Spirit you put 13 to death the habits originating in the body, you will have life.

Ga 4:4–7

Children of God

Ga 5:18 Jn 1:12 •Jn 15:15 1 Jn 4:18 5:5f Ga 3:16,26–29 All who are guided [h] by the Spirit of God are sons of God; •for what you received 14, 15 was not the spirit of slavery to bring you back into fear; you received the spirit of adoption, enabling us to cry out, 'Abba, Father!' [i] •The Spirit himself joins with 16
our spirit to bear witness that we are children of God. •And if we are children, then 17
we are heirs, heirs of God and joint-heirs with Christ, provided that we share his suffering, so as to share his glory.
Lk 22:28–30; 24:26 Ph 3:10–11 1 P 4:13 Rv 21:7

Glory as our destiny

5:2–5 Ws 3:5d 2 Co 4:17 1 P 5:1b,c Col 3:3–4,4b 1 Jn 3:2 Gn 3:17;6:20h Ho 4:3a 2 P 3:12–13 Rv 21:1b In my estimation, all that we suffer in the present time is nothing in comparison 18 with the glory which is destined to be disclosed for us, •for the whole creation is 19 waiting with eagerness for the children of God to be revealed. [j] •It was not for its 20 own purposes that creation had frustration imposed on it, but for the purposes of him who imposed it— [k] •with the intention that the whole creation itself might be 21 freed from its slavery to corruption and brought into the same glorious freedom as the children of God. •We are well aware that the whole creation, until this time, 22 has been groaning in labour pains. •And not only that: we too, who have the first- 23
2 Co 5:2–5 fruits of the Spirit, even we are groaning inside ourselves, waiting with eagerness
3:24o;7:24l Ph 3:20–21 •5:2c for [l] our bodies to be set free. •In hope, we already have salvation; in hope, not 24 visibly present, or we should not be hoping—nobody goes on hoping for something 2 Co 5:7c Heb 11:1a which he can already see. •But having this hope for what we cannot yet see, we are 25 able to wait for it with persevering confidence.

26 And as well as this, the Spirit too comes to help us in our weakness, for, when we 5:5f;8:15 Ga 4:6
do not know how to pray properly, then the Spirit personally makes our petitions Jm 4:3,5,5c 27 for us in groans that cannot be put into words; •and he who can see into all hearts Jr 11:20+ knows what the Spirit means because the prayers that the Spirit makes for God's holy people are always in accordance with the mind of God. [m] Ep 1:4–14

God has called us to share his glory

28 We are well aware that God works with those who love him, those who have been Jm 1:12
29 called in accordance with his purpose, and turns everything to their good. [n] •He Ac 13:48jj decided beforehand who were the ones destined to be moulded to the pattern of Jr 1:5 30 his Son, [o] so that he should be the eldest of many brothers; •it was those so 1 Co 15:49 Ph 3:21

l. lit. 'from the body of this death'. Paul is concerned with the body and its component members, 12:4; 1 Co 12:12,14seq., that is to say with the human being actually existing, a sentient creature, 1 Co 5:3; 2 Co 10:10, with a sexual life, Rm 4:19; 1 Co 6:16; 7:4; Ep 5:28, because it is in the body that people live morally and religiously. The body, though tyrannised by the 'flesh', 7:5c, by sin, 1:24; 6:12c; 7:23; 8:13; 1 Co 6:18, by death, Rm 8:10, and therefore a 'body of flesh', Col 2:11; cf. a 'body of sin', Rm 6:6, and a 'body of death', 7:24, is not, however, doomed to perish, as Greek philosophy would have it, but, in accordance with the biblical tradition, 2 M 7:9c; Ezk 37:10d, destined to live, Rm 8:13; 2 Co 4:10, through resurrection, Rm 8:11g. The principle of this renewal is the Spirit, 5:5e, which takes the place of the psyche, 1 Co 15:44w, and transforms the body of the Christian into the likeness of the risen body of Christ, Ph 3:21. Until this ultimate deliverance takes place, 8:23, the body of the Christian, provisionally delivered from the 'flesh' by its union with Christ's death, 6:6; 8:3seq., is even now the home of the Holy Spirit, 1 Co 6:19, who produces in it a new life of uprightness and holiness, Rm 6:13,19; 12:1; 1 Co 7:34, which is praiseworthy, 2 Co 5:10, and gives glory to God, 1 Co 6:20; Ph 1:20.

m. The nous, human reason or mind, is a Greek idea very different from the pneuma or supernatural Spirit, 5:5e, and even from the spirit in the biblical sense of the higher self, 1:9e. It is the principle of understanding, 1 Co 14:14,15,19; Ph 4:7; 2 Th 2:2; cf. Luke 24:45; Rv 13:18; 17:9, and of moral judgement, Rm 14:5; 1 Co 1:10. Usually it is reliable, 7:23,25, but at times it is perverted, 1:28; Ep 4:17–19; 1 Tm 6:5; 2 Tm 3:8; Tt 1:15, by the 'flesh', Col 2:18; see Rm 7:5c, and has to be renewed, Rm 12:2, within the human spirit by the Spirit of God, Ep 4:23seq.; cf. Col 3:10.

n. This sentence, which would come more naturally before v. 24, seems to have been added—perhaps by Paul

8 a. var. 'me', 'us'.

b. Paul contrasts the order of sin and death with the new order of the Spirit. The word 'spirit' here means either the Holy Spirit in person (as it does more clearly in v. 9) or the human spirit made new by its presence, see 5:5e; 1:9f.

c. The Mosaic Law, imposed from without, could not be an inward principle of salvation, 7:7d. Christ alone, who by his death destroyed our unspiritual nature (lit. 'flesh') in his own person, could destroy sin whose domain the 'flesh' was.

d. lit. 'sending his Son in the likeness of sinful flesh, and in that flesh . . .'

e. These requirements of the Law, which can be satisfied only through faith and union with Christ, are summed up in the command of love, cf. 13:10; Ga 5:14, and already Mt 22:40. See 7:7d.

f. Because of sin, 5:12h, the body is doomed to physical death and is the instrument of spiritual death also; but the Spirit is Life, a power of resurrection; see following note

g. The resurrection of Christians is intimately dependent on that of Christ, 6:5; 1 Co 6:14; 15:20seq.; 2 Co 4:14; 13:4; Ep 2:6; Col 1:18; 2:12seq.; 1 Th 4:14; 2 Tm 2:11. It is by the same power and the same gift of the Spirit, see Rm 1:4c, that the Father will raise them to life in their turn. This operation is already being prepared: a new life is making the Christians into sons (v. 14) in the likeness of the Son himself, 8:29n, and they are being incorporated into the risen Christ by faith, 1:16h, and baptism, 6:4a.

h. More than just an 'internal guide', the Spirit is the principle of a divine life in Christ, see 5:5e; Ga 5:20.

i. The prayer of Christ in Gethsemane, Mk 14:36.

j. The material world, created for humanity, shares its destiny. It was cursed for sin, Gn 3:17, and is consequently deformed, subject to 'frustration', v. 20, a moral condition resulting from sin, and 'corruption', v. 21, a physical condition. But like the human body, destined to be glorified, it too is to be redeemed, v. 21. For some of the Greek philosophers matter was evil and the spirit must be delivered from it; Christianity regards matter as itself enslaved and to be set free. In other texts also salvation is extended to creatures (especially angels) other than humanity, see Col 1:20; Rv 21:1–5. On the new creation see 2 Co 5:17h.

k. Probably humanity through sin. Alternatively God by way of punishment, or God as Creator.

l. Add. 'adoption as sons (and)' which would here have an eschatological sense, but cf. v. 15.

m. Paul insists on the necessity of constant prayer (12:12; Ep 6:18; Ph 4:6; Col 4:2; 1 Th 5:17; 1 Tm 2:8; 5:5; cf. 1 Co 7:5) taught by Jesus himself (Mt 6:5; 14:23f) and practised by the early Christians (Ac 2:42hh). Paul is always praying for the faithful (1:10; Ep 1:16; Ph 1:4; Col 1:3,9; 1 Th 1:2; 3:10; 2 Th 1:11; Phm 4) and asks them to do the same for him (Rm 15:30; 2 Co 1:11; Ep 6:19; Ph 1:19; Col 4:3; 1 Th 5:25; 2 Th 3:1; Phm 22; Heb 13:18), and for each other (2 Co 9:14; Ep 6:18; on prayer for sinners and the sick, see 1 Jn 5:16; Jm 5:13–16). These prayers must ask for growth in holiness but also for the removal of all external (1 Th 2:18 and 3:10) and internal (2 Co 12:8–9) obstacles to it; we have to pray, too, for the orderly conduct of the country's business (1 Tm 2:1–2). Paul lays special stress on prayers of thanksgiving (2 Co 1:11e; Ep 5:4; Ph 4:6; Col 2:7; 4:2; 1 Th 5:18; 1 Tm 2:1) for every gift of God (Ep 5:20; Col 3:17) and particularly for the food God gives us (Rm 14:6; 1 Co 10:31; 1 Tm 4:3–5); he begins all his own letters with a prayer of thanks (Rm 1:8, etc.) and he wants the spirit of thanksgiving to pervade all the Christians' dealings with each other (1 Co 14:17; 2 Co 1:11; 4:15; 9:11–12). In liturgical gatherings prayers of thanksgiving and praise must predominate (1 Co 11–14) and these sentiments must inspire the hymns that the Christians compose for these occasions (Ep 5:19; Col 3:16). It is the Holy Spirit who inspires the prayer of the Christian, and Paul prefers to emphasise this rather than repeat the traditional Wisdom themes, namely the necessary conditions for prayer and its efficacy (see Jm 1:5–8; 4:2–3; 5:16–18; 1 Jn 3:22; 5:14–16) which Paul guarantees by the presence of the Spirit of Christ within the Christian, enabling the Christian to pray as a child to a father (Rm 8:15,26–27; Ga 4:6; cf. Ep 6:18; Jude 20), while Christ himself intercedes at the right hand of God (Rm 8:34; cf. Heb 7:25; 1 Jn 2:1). The Father's response is therefore most generous (Ep 3:20). Hence Christians are called 'those who invoke the name of Jesus Christ', 1 Co 1:2; cf. Rm 10:9–13; Ac 2:21m; 9:14,21; 22:16; 2 Tm 2:22; Jm 2:7. On the attitude to be adopted when praying, see 1 Co 11:14–16; 1 Tm 2:8.

n. Some interpretations make 'everything', or 'the Spirit' (following v. 27) the subject of the sentence: e.g., 'for those who love God, . . . everything turns to their good.'

o. Christ, the image of God in the primordial creation, Col 1:14d, cf. Heb 1:3, has now come, by a new creation, 2 Co 5:17n, to restore to fallen humanity the splendour of that image which has been darkened by sin, 5:12h; Gn 1:26m; 3:22–24. He does this by forming humanity in the still more splendid image of a child of God (8:29); thus, true destined that he called; those that he called, he justified, and those that he has justified he has brought into glory. [p]

1 Co 13:1a A hymn to God's love

Ps 118:6 Is 50:7–9 5:6–11 Gn 22:16 Jn 3:16 2 Co 5:14–21 1 Jn 4:10 Zc 3:1seq. Is 50:8 Ps 110:1 Ac 2:23 Heb 7:25f

After saying this, what can we add? If God is for us, who can be against us? ·Since 31, 32 he did not spare his own Son, but gave him up for the sake of all of us, then can we not expect that with him he will freely give us all his gifts? ·Who can bring any 33 accusation against those that God has chosen? When God grants saving justice who can condemn? Are we not sure that it is Christ Jesus, who died—yes and 34 more, who was raised from the dead and is at God's right hand—and who is adding his plea for us? ·Can anything cut us off from the love of Christ—can hardships or 35 distress, or persecution, or lack of food and clothing, or threats or violence; ·as 36 scripture says:

Ps 44:22 1 Th 3:4 2 Tm 3:12

> For your sake we are being massacred all day long,
> treated as sheep to be slaughtered?

Jn 16:33 No; we come through all these things triumphantly victorious, by the power of him 37 who loved us. ·For I am certain of this: neither death nor life, nor angels, nor 38 Ep 1:21s principalities, nothing already in existence and nothing still to come, nor any power, ·nor the heights nor the depths, [q] nor any created thing whatever, will 39 be able to come between us and the love of God, known to us in Christ Jesus our Lord.

C: THE PLACE OF ISRAEL [a]

The privileges of Israel

2 Co 12:7b Ex 4:22;32:32 Ep 2:12 1:3+

9 This is the truth and I am speaking in Christ, without pretence, as my con- 1 science testifies for me in the Holy Spirit; ·there is great sorrow and unremit- 2 ting agony in my heart: ·I could pray that I myself might be accursed [b] and cut off 3 from Christ, if this could benefit the brothers who are my own flesh and blood. [c]
They are Israelites; it was they who were adopted as children, the glory was theirs 4 and the covenants; to them were given the Law and the worship of God and the promises. ·To them belong the fathers and out of them, so far as physical descent 5 is concerned, came Christ who is above all, God, blessed for ever. [d] Amen.

3:3+ God has kept his promise

Nb 23:19 Is 55:10–11 2:28–29 Mt 3:9par. Gn 21:12

It is not that God's promise has failed. Not all born Israelites belong to Israel, [e] 6 and not all the descendants of Abraham count as his children, for 7

> Isaac is the one through whom your Name will be carried on.

Jn 8:31–44 Ga 4:21–31 Gn 18:10 11:5–6 Gn 25:23 •Ml 1:2–3

That is, it is not by being children through physical descent that people become 8 children of God; it is the children of the promise that are counted as the heirs. ·The 9 actual words of the promise were: I shall come back to you at this season, and Sarah will have a son. ·Even more to the point is what was said to Rebecca when she was 10 pregnant by our ancestor, Isaac, ·before her children were born, so that neither 11 had yet done anything either good or bad, but in order that it should be God's choice which prevailed, ·—not human merit, but his call—she was told: the elder 12 one will serve the younger. ·Or as scripture says elsewhere: I loved Jacob but hated 13 Esau.

3:5 God is not unjust

Dt 32:4 Ex 33:19

What should we say, then? That God is unjust? Out of the question! ·For speaking 14, 15 to Moses, he said: I am gracious to those to whom I am gracious and I take pity on those on whom I take pity. ·So it is not a matter of what any person wants or what 16

17 any person does, but only of God having mercy. ·Scripture says to Pharaoh:
I raised you up for this reason,[f] to display my power in you and to have my name Ex 9:16 18 talked of throughout the world. ·In other words, if God wants to show mercy on someone, he does so, and if he wants to harden someone's heart, he does so.
19 Then you will ask me, 'How then can he ever blame anyone, since no one can 20 oppose his will?'[g] ·But you—who do you think you, a human being, are, to answer Ws 12:12 back to God? Something that was made, can it say to its maker: why did you make Is 29:16g 21 me this shape? ·A potter surely has the right over his clay to make out of the same Ws 15:7
Is 45:9;64:7
lump either a pot for special use or one for ordinary use. Jr 18:6 22 But suppose that[h] God, although all the time he wanted to reveal his retribution and demonstrate his power, has with great patience gone on putting up with those 2:4;3:25–26 23 who are the instruments of his retribution and designed to be destroyed; ·so that[i] Pr 16:4 Ws 12:20–21 he may make known the glorious riches ready for the people who are the instru-24 ments of his faithful love and were long ago prepared for that glory.[j] ·We are that 8:29 people, called by him not only out of the Jews but out of the gentiles too. Ep 2:1–7 moral judgement is restored to the 'new self', Col 3:10e, as is also the claim to glory which had been forfeited by sin, Rm 3:23h. This glory, which Christ as the image of God possesses by right, 2 Co 4:4, is progressively communicated to the Christians, 2 Co 3:18, until the Christian's body is itself clothed in the image of the 'heavenly' man, 1 Co 15:49.

p. Everything has been directed by God to the glory of his elect: it was for this they were called to faith and justified through baptism; with this, it can be said by anticipation, they are already clothed.

q. The 'principalities', like 'angels' and 'princes' are among the mysterious cosmic or elemental forces which to the mind of antiquity were in general hostile to humanity. see Ep 1:21; 3:18. The 'heights' and 'depths' represent Heaven and Hell, also conceived as powers.

9 a. To expound the theme of justification by faith, Paul founded his argument on the uprightness of Abraham, ch. 4. Similarly, the theme of salvation as the free gift of God through the Spirit demands that he consider the case of Israel, ch. 9–11, a people which has not responded with faith although it was given the promise of salvation. These chapters, then, explore not the predestination of the individual to glory, or even to faith, but the problem of Israel's part in the history of salvation—a problem raised by the statements in the OT.

b. lit. anathema, a thing accursed, under a curse of destruction, see Jos 6:17c and Lv 27:28e.

c. Actual descendants of Jacob (called 'Israel', Gn 32:29). All the other privileges derive from this: adoptive sonship, Ex 4:22; see Dt 7:6b; the glory of God, Ex 24:16f, who dwells with his people, Ex 25:8f; Dt 4:7b; see Jn 1:14m; the covenant with Abraham, Gn 15:1a; 15:17f; 17:1a, with Jacob-Israel, Gn 32:29, with Moses, Ex 24:7–8; the worship of the one true God; the Law which embodies his will; the messianic promises, 2 S 7:1a, and physical relationship with Christ.

d. The context and the internal development of the sentence show that the doxology is addressed to Christ. Paul rarely gives Jesus the title 'God', though see Tt 2:11–14, or addresses a doxology to him, cf. Heb 13:21, but this is because he usually keeps this title for the Father, see Rm 15:6; etc., and considers the divine persons not so much with an abstract appreciation of their nature as with a concrete appreciation of their functions in the process of salvation. Moreover, he has always in mind the historical Christ in his concrete reality as God made man, see Ph 2:5d; Col 1:15d. For this reason he presents Christ as subordinated to the Father, 1 Co 3:23; 11:3, not only in the work of creation, 1 Co 8:6, but also in that of eschatological renewal, 1 Co 15:27seq.; cf. Rm 16:27; etc. Nevertheless, the title 'Lord', Kyrios, received by Christ at his resurrection, Ph 2:9–11; see Ep 1:20–22; Heb 1:3seq., is the title given by the LXX to Yahweh in the OT, Rm 10:9,13; 1 Co 2:16. For Paul, Jesus is essentially 'the Son of God', Rm 1:3–4,9; 5:10; 8:29; 1 Co 1:9; 15:28; 2 Co 1:19; Ga 1:16; 2:20; 4:4,6; Ep 4:13; 1 Th 1:10; see also Heb 4:14, his 'own Son', Rm 8:3,32, 'the Son of his love', Col 1:13, who belongs to the sphere of the divine by right, the sphere from which he came, 1 Co 15:47, being sent by God, Rm 8:3; Ga 4:4. The title 'Son of God' became his in a new way with the resurrection, Rm 1:4c; cf. Heb 1:5; 5:5, but it was not then that he received it since he pre-existed not only as prefigured in the OT, 1 Co 10:4, but ontologically, Ph 2:6; cf. 2 Co 8:9. He is the Wisdom, 1 Co 1:24,30, and the Image, 2 Co 4:4, by which and in which all things were created, Col 1:15–17; cf. Heb 1:2; 1 Co 8:6; and have been re-created, Rm 8:29; cf. Col 3:10; 1:18–20, because into his own person is gathered the fullness of the godhead and of the universe, Col 2:9e. In him God has devised the whole plan of salvation, Ep 1:3seq., and he, no less than the Father, is its accomplishment (cf. Rm 11:36; 1 Co 8:6 and Col 1:16,20). The Father raises to life and judges, so does the Son raise to life (see Rm 1:4c; 8:11g and Ph 3:21) and judge (cf. Rm 2:16 and 1 Co 4:5; Rm 14:10 and 2 Co 5:10). In short, he is one of the three persons enumerated in the trinitarian formulae, 2 Co 13:13e.

e. For example, Ishmaelites, and above all the Edomites, descendants of Esau, Gn 36:1, and in the later OT times the archetypal enemy of Israel, Dt 23:8; Ps 137:7d.

f. Like the OT writers Paul attributes to God as their ultimate cause (stressing the phrase of Ex: 'I raised you up') the good and bad actions of human beings, cf. 1:24seq.

g. If human perversity thus becomes part of God's design, how can anyone be accused of not doing the will of God? Paul replies, as before in a similar case (3:7; 6:1,15), by disallowing the objection. God being the absolute master of what he has made, the question of injustice cannot arise. Cf. Mt 20:15.

h. lit. 'But if', an obscure phrase here, to be interpreted by the context. Paul is explaining how the hardening of Pharaoh's heart then, and the unbelief of Israel now, are not acts of injustice if regarded as elements in the plan of God. God could destroy the Jewish people, as he could have destroyed Pharaoh, but he patiently tolerates them: thus (while allowing time to repent, 2:4) he 'shows his anger' (by permitting sins to multiply, see ch. 1–3, though even this paves the way to conversion); he 'displays his power' by brushing such obstacles aside, v. 17, as the present antagonism of the Jews towards the gospel; but above all he carries out his merciful plan for the gentiles, see 11:11–12, to whom the gospel is preached once the Jews have rejected it, see Ac 13:5e.

i. var. 'and he has disclosed'.

j. In the Greek, vv. 22–24, the sentence is left in the air. Supply 'How, if this supposition is correct, could we speak of injustice in God?' In the long run everything is directed to the salvation of both Jews and gentiles, see 11:32.

All has been foretold in the Old Testament

Ho 2:25y
1 P 2:10
•Ho 2:1
11:5
Is 10:22–23
Is 1:9
1:16h;3:22
10:20;11:7
Ga 2:16
10:11
Is 8:14;28:16
1 P 2:6–8

Just as he says in the book of Hosea: I shall tell those who were not my people, 'You 25 are my people,' and I shall take pity on those on whom I had no pity. •And in the 26 very place where they were told, 'You are not my people,' they will be told that they are 'children of the living God'. [k] •And about Israel, this is what Isaiah cried out: [l] 27
Though the people of Israel are like the sand of the sea, only a remnant will be saved;
•for without hesitation or delay the Lord will execute his sentence on the earth. [m] 28
•As Isaiah foretold: Had the Lord Sabaoth not left us a few survivors, we should be 29 like Sodom, we should be the same as Gomorrah.

What should we say, then? [n] That the gentiles, although they were not looking 30 for saving justice, found it, and this was the saving justice that comes of faith; while Israel, looking for saving justice by law-keeping, did not succeed in fulfilling 31 the Law. [o] •And why? Because they were trying to find it in actions and not in faith, 32 and so they stumbled over the stumbling-stone—•as it says in scripture: Now I am 33 laying in Zion a stumbling-stone, a rock to trip people up; but he who relies on this will not be brought to disgrace.

Israel fails to see that it is God who makes us holy

Pr 19:2
Ph 3:9
9:30–31,31o
Mt 5:17h
2 Co 3:14
Ga 3:24
3:21;4

10 Brothers, my dearest wish and my prayer to God is for them, that they may 1 be saved. •I readily testify to their fervour for God, but it is misguided. [a] 2
Not recognising God's saving justice they have tried to establish their own, 3 instead of submitting to the saving justice of God. [b] •But the Law has found its 4 fulfilment in Christ so that all who have faith will be justified.

The testimony of Moses

Lv 18:5+
Ga 3:12d
Dt 9:4;30:
12 seq.
Heb 13:20
1 P 3:19h
Dt 30:14
Si 21:26
Ac 2:36w
1 Co 12:3
1:4c
Mt 10:32par.
1:16;3:22–23;
9:33
Is 28:16
Jl 3:5
Ac 2:21m

Moses writes of the saving justice that comes by the Law and says that whoever 5 complies with it will find life in it. •But the saving justice of faith says this: [c] Do not 6 think in your heart, 'Who will go up to heaven?'•—that is to bring Christ down; or 7
'Who will go down to the depths?' [d]—that is to bring Christ back from the dead.
What does it say, then? The word is very near to you; it is in your mouth and in your 8 heart, that is, the word of faith, the faith which we preach, • that if you declare with 9 your mouth that Jesus is Lord, and if you believe with your heart that God raised him from the dead, [e] then you will be saved. •It is by believing with the heart that 10 you are justified, and by making the declaration with your lips that you are saved.
When scripture says: No one who relies on this will be brought to disgrace, 11
it makes no distinction between Jew and Greek: the same Lord is the Lord of all, 12 and his generosity is offered to all who appeal to him, •for all who call on the name 13 of the Lord will be saved.

Israel has no excuse

Heb 11:6c
Ac 8:31
Is 52:7
1:5d
Is 53:1
Ga 3:2,5
Ps 19:4
11:11
Dt 32:21h
9:30
Is 65:1
Is 65:2

How then are they to call on him if they have not come to believe in him? [f] And 14 how can they believe in him if they have never heard of him? And how will they hear of him unless there is a preacher for them? •And how will there be preachers 15 if they are not sent? As scripture says: How beautiful are the feet of the messenger of good news. [g]

But in fact they have not all responded to the good news. As Isaiah says: Lord, 16 who has given credence to what they have heard from us? •But it is in that way faith 17 comes, from hearing, and that means hearing the word of Christ. [h]

Well then, I say, is it possible that they have not heard? Indeed they have: in the 18 entire earth their voice [i] stands out, their message reaches the whole world. •Well, 19 another question, then: is it possible that Israel did not understand? In the first place Moses said: I rouse you to jealousy with a non-people, I shall exasperate you with a stupid nation. [j] •And Isaiah is even bold enough to say: I have let myself be 20 found by those who did not seek me; I have let myself be seen by those who did not consult me; •and referring to Israel, he says: All day long I have been stretching out 21
my hands to a disobedient and rebellious people. [k]

The remnant of Israel

1 11 What I am saying is this: is it possible [a] that God abandoned his people? Out Ps 44:9seq.; 94:14 of the question! I too am an Israelite, descended from Abraham, of the Jr 31:37 2 tribe of Benjamin. •God never abandoned his own people to whom, ages ago, he •2 Co 11:21i had given recognition. Do you not remember what scripture says about Elijah and 3 how he made a complaint to God against Israel: •Lord, they have put your prophets 1 K 19:10,14 to the sword, torn down your altars. I am the only one left, and now they want to kill 4 me? •And what was the prophetic answer given? I have spared for myself seven 1 K 19:18
5 thousand men that have not bent the knee to Baal. •In the same way, then, in our 6 own time, there is a remnant, set aside by grace. •And since it is by grace, it cannot Is 4:3c now be by good actions, or grace would not be grace at all! 9:12–17 7 What follows? Israel failed to find what it was seeking; only those who were 9:30–31
8 chosen found it and the rest had their minds hardened; •just as it says in scripture:
God has infused them with a spirit of lethargy; until today they have not eyes to see Dt 29:3 •Is 29:10 9 or ears to hear. •David too says: May their own table [b] prove a trap for them, a pitfall Mt 13:13e
10 and a snare; let that be their retribution. •May their eyes grow so dim they cannot Ps 69:22seq see, and their backs be bent for ever.

The Jews to be restored in the future

11 What I am saying is this: Was this stumbling to lead to their final downfall? [c] Out of the question! On the contrary, their failure has brought salvation for the gentiles, [d] Mt 8:11seq 21:43 12 in order to stir them to envy. •And if their fall has proved a great gain to the world, Ac 13:5e and their loss has proved a great gain to the gentiles—how much greater a gain will 10:19 •1:5
come when all is restored to them! Ac 9:15;22
13 Let me say then to you gentiles [e] that, as far as I am an apostle to the gentiles, I
14 take pride in this work of service; •and I want it to be the means of rousing to envy 15 the people who are my own blood-relations and so of saving some of them. •Since their rejection meant the reconciliation of the world, do you know what their re-acceptance will mean? Nothing less than life from the dead! [f]

k. The history of an Israel welcomed back by God despite its unfaithfulness thus becomes the antetype of the invitation to the gentiles, who had no claim, to the messianic feast.

l. The texts cited here proclaim both the infidelity of Israel and the return of a 'remnant', see Is 4:3c, in which the promises are safeguarded. They are thus a preparation for ch. 11.

m. One var. (Vulg.) makes the quotation follow the LXX text, which Paul abbreviates.

n. This conclusion introduces the argument of the following chapter where the cause of Israel's infidelity is examined not now as seen in God's plan but as seen in Israel's conduct.

o. Only the Christian can do this, 3:31; 8:4; 10:4; cf. 7:7d; Ac 13:39.

10 a. Like that of Paul before his conversion, Ac 22:3; Ga 1:14; Ph 3:6; cf. 1 Tm 1:13.

b. Uprightness is not something to be won: it is a favour received through faith in Christ, see 1:16h; 7:7d.

c. The argument is odd at first reading, because the passage of Dt is a eulogy of uprightness according to the Law. But Paul sees in this text, which sums up the whole Law in the precept of love and the 'circumcision of the heart', Dt 30:6,16,20, a presentiment of the new law, an equivalent to the gift of Law 'written on the heart', Jr 31:33.

d. Of the sea in Dt 30:13, of Sheol in Paul's applied sense. In connection with this text, already the Targum spoke of the descent of Moses from Sinai and the ascent of Jonah from the depths of the sea.

e. Profession of faith, such as is made at baptism, is the outward expression of the inward commitment of the 'heart'.

f. As in other places, Paul puts himself here into the position of a listener who makes qualifications or criticisms of his argument.

g. lit. 'How beautiful the feet of those who bring good news.'

h. var. 'word of God'.

i. Of those who preach the gospel.

j. This allusion to Israel's jealousy prepares the way for 11:11,14.

k. In the Hebr. both texts (vv. 20 and 21) refer to the Jewish people, but in the first of these the prophet speaks of Israel 'not invoking the name of Yahweh' and therefore no better than the gentiles. Paul's application of v. 20 to the gentiles (ethne) is the more easily made in that the Greek version uses ethnos ('nation') in Is 65:1, and not laos (i.e. Israel, the 'people' of God) as in Is 65:2.

11 a. This phrase, used in 10:18,19 to introduce a denunciation of Israel, now prefaces an announcement of its salvation (so also in v. 11); Israel, though unbelieving, 10:21, is still a chosen people, 11:2. The 'remnant', Is 4:3c, its temporary representative, is the pledge of future restoration.

b. This psalm quotation describes the punishment of those who, because they themselves were sated, had no compassion for the sufferings or thirst of the faithful. There may be a reference (as in the Targum) to sacrificial meals; if so, the prophecy is fulfilled to the letter: the Jews are incapable of acknowledging a suffering Messiah precisely because they are so attached to their formal worship.

c. lit. 'have they stumbled so as to fall (without hope of rising)?'

d. The present unbelief of the Jews is only a false step which God has permitted with a view to the conversion of the gentiles, 9:22; 11:12,19,25,30, and ultimately of the Jews themselves: for their own good God will make them 'envious', 10:19, of the gentiles.

e. i.e. the converts to Christianity from the gentiles. Thus even as apostle of the gentiles Paul is working for the salvation of his own people (lit. his 'flesh').

f. This sentence has been variously interpreted. The meaning seems to be that if a comparison may be drawn between the conversion of the gentiles and 'the reconciliation of the world' (the first stage in the redemptive plan), the conversion of Israel will be such a favour from God that it could be compared only with the final resurrection (the

Ep 2:11–22

The Jews are still the chosen people

Nb 15:18–21 When the first-fruits are made holy, so is the whole batch;[g] and if the root is holy, 16 so are the branches. •Now suppose that some branches were broken off, and you[h] 17 are wild olive, grafted among[i] the rest to share with[j] the others the rich sap of the 3:27*o*;5:2c olive tree; •then it is not for you to consider yourself superior to the other branches; 18
1 Co 1:31 and if you start feeling proud, think: it is not you that sustain the root, but the root that sustains you. •You will say, 'Branches were broken off on purpose for me to 19 be grafted in.' True; •they through their unbelief were broken off, and you are 20 established through your faith. So it is not pride that you should have, but fear: •if 21
Jr 49:12 God did not spare the natural branches, he might not spare you either.[k] •Remem- 22 Lk 23:31 ber God's severity as well as his goodness: his severity to those who fell, and his goodness to you as long as you persevere in it; if not, you too will be cut off. •And 23 they, if they do not persevere in their unbelief, will be grafted in; for it is within the power of God to graft them back again. •After all, if you, cut off from what was by 24 nature a wild olive, could then be grafted unnaturally on to a cultivated olive, how much easier will it be for them, the branches that naturally belong there, to be grafted on to the olive tree which is their own.

The conversion of the Jews

16:25*l* I want you to be quite certain, brothers, of this mystery, to save you from 25
Pr 3:7 congratulating yourselves on your own good sense: part of Israel had its mind
•2 Co 3:14 hardened, but only until the gentiles have wholly come in;[l] •and this is how all 26
11:11d Israel will be saved. As scripture says:[m]

Is 59:20–21 From Zion will come the Redeemer,
he will remove godlessness from Jacob.
And this will be my covenant with them, 27
Is 27:9 when I take their sins away.

As regards the gospel, they are enemies, but for your sake; but as regards those 28 who are God's choice,[n] they are still well loved for the sake of their ancestors.
9:6 There is no change of mind on God's part about the gifts he has made or 29
Nb 23:19+ of his choice.
1 S 15:29
3:26m Just as you were in the past disobedient to God but now you have been shown 30 mercy, through their disobedience; •so in the same way they are disobedient now, 31 11:11d so that through the mercy shown to you they too will receive mercy. •God has 32
Ezk 18:23+ imprisoned all human beings in their own disobedience only to show mercy to Ga 3:22 them all.

A hymn to God's mercy and wisdom

Jb 15:8 How rich and deep are the wisdom and the knowledge of God! We cannot reach to 33
Ps 139:6,17seq. the root of his decisions or his ways. •Who has ever known the mind of the Lord? 34
Col 2:3 Who has ever been his adviser? •Who has given anything to him, so that his presents 35
Is 40:13,28 come only as a debt returned? •Everything there is comes from him and is caused 36 1 Co 2:11,16 by him and exists for him. To him be glory for ever! Amen.
1 Co 8:6
Col 1:16–17

EXHORTATION

Spiritual worship[a]

1:9f;6:13,16,19 12 I urge you, then, brothers, remembering the mercies of God, to offer your 1
Ac 10:35j bodies as a living sacrifice, dedicated and acceptable to God; that is the kind
1 P 2:5 of worship for you, as sensible people.[b] •Do not model your behaviour on the 2 8:5,14,26seq. contemporary world, but let the renewing of your minds transform you, so that Ep 4:23seq. you may discern for yourselves what is the will of God—what is good and accept-2:18 able and mature.
Ep 5:10,17
Ph 1:10
Heb 5:14

Humility and charity

3 And through the grace that I have been given, I say this to every one of you: never pride yourself on being better than you really are, but think of yourself dispassion- Ph 2:3
4 ately, recognising that God has given to each one his measure of faith.[c] ·Just as 1 Co 12:9;13:2
each of us has various parts in one body, and the parts do not all have the same Ep 4:7b
5 function: ·in the same way, all of us, though there are so many of us, make up one 1 Co 12:12i
6 body in Christ, and as different parts we are all joined to one another.[d] ·Then since the gifts that we have differ according to the grace that was given to each of us: if it 1 Co 12:8,10, 28–30 7 is a gift of prophecy, we should prophesy as much as our faith[e] tells us; ·if it is a gift Ep 4:7–11 of practical service, let us devote ourselves to serving; if it is teaching, to teaching; Ac 11:27m 8 if it is encouraging, to encouraging. When you give, you should give generously from the heart; if you are put in charge, you must be conscientious; if you do works Tt 1:5c 9 of mercy, let it be because you enjoy doing them. ·Let love be without any 10 pretence. Avoid what is evil; stick to what is good. ·In brotherly love let your 1 P 1:22 Jn 13:34 feelings of deep affection for one another come to expression and regard others as Ph 2:3 11 more important than yourself.[f] ·In the service of the Lord, work[g] not half-
12 heartedly but with conscientiousness and an eager spirit. ·Be joyful in hope, 1 Co 13:13e
13 persevere in hardship; keep praying regularly; ·share with any of God's holy Ac 1:14;6:4 Col 4:2 1 Th 5:17 people who are in need; look for opportunities to be hospitable. Ac 9:13g 1 Co 16:1a

Charity to everyone, including enemies[h]

Mt 5:38–48+
14, 15 Bless your persecutors; never curse them, bless them. ·Rejoice with others when Si 7:34 16 they rejoice, and be sad with those in sorrow. ·Give the same consideration to all others alike. Pay no regard to social standing, but meet humble people on their 17 own terms. Do not congratulate yourself on your own wisdom. ·Never pay Pr 3:7 Pr 3:4
18 back evil with evil, but bear in mind the ideals that all regard with respect. ·As 2 Co 8:21 1 Th 5:15 1 P 3:9
much as is possible, and to the utmost of your ability, be at peace with everyone.
19 Never try to get revenge: leave that, my dear friends, to the Retribution.[i] As Lv 19:18 Pr 20:22
20 scripture says: Vengeance is mine—I will pay them back, the Lord promises. ·And 1 Co 6:6–7 Gn 50:19 Dt 32:35 more: If your enemy is hungry, give him something to eat; if thirsty, something to 21 drink. By this, you will be heaping red-hot coals on his head.[j] ·Do not be mastered Pr 25:21–22+ by evil, but master evil with good.

second stage). If this is true, Paul is thinking of the general resurrection at the end of time; but he does not say that this is to take place immediately after Israel's conversion. On the other hand some translate 'life from those who were dead'. To bring back someone from the dead is an extraordinary prodigy of which only the power of God is capable, see 4.17g; 2 Co 1:9. The return of Israel, the prodigal (and, in this case) the elder son, will be no less marvellous, compare Lk 15:24, 32.

g. The future conversion of Israel, vv. 11–15 and more explicitly vv. 25–26, will show that the faithful minority is a true 'remnant' and a reliable 'sign' that the nation will be restored. The unbelieving majority retains some measure of solidarity with the faithful minority and so must to some extent share its holiness, as the handful of dough offered as 'first-fruits' makes the whole baking holy (Nb 15:19–21).

h. The gentile who is now a Christian.

i. Or 'in place of'.

j. Add, 'the root and'.

k. lit. 'perhaps he will not spare you'; var. 'he will not spare you'.

l. Paul is still speaking of peoples, not of individuals: the Jews en masse, and the gentile world as a whole.

m. The OT prophesied that as a result of the Messiah's coming Israel would be cleansed of all her sins. Paul teaches (calling it, lit., a 'mystery', v. 25) that this prophecy, partially fulfilled already in the conversion of the gentiles, implies the conversion of the Jewish people also.

n. A clear distinction between the two great stages in the history of salvation, traditionally known as 'Election' and 'Gospel'. In this time of the gospel the Jews rejecting Christ have become the enemies of God, and God has permitted this while the gentiles are converted, see 9:22h; 11:11c; but in the earlier times of the Fathers, the Jews were the only chosen people.

12 a. The Christian community has taken the place of the Temple in Jerusalem, Ps 2:6b; 40:8c, and the indwelling of the Spirit gives a new intensity to the presence of God among his holy people, 1 Co 3:16–17; 2 Co 6:16; Ep 2:20–22. This is also the inspiration of a new, spiritual cult, Rm 1:9f; 12:1, for believers are members of Christ, 1 Co 6:15–20, who has become, in his crucified and risen body, the dwelling-place of a new presence of God and a new cult, Mt 12:6–7; 26:61 par., 6a; 27:40 par.; Jn 2:19–22.21i; 4:20–21; Ac 6:13–14; 7:48; Heb 10:4–10a; Rv 21:22.

b. Or 'a spiritual kind'; the contrast is with the ritual sacrifices of Jews and gentiles, cf. Ho 6:6; compare Rm 1:9f.

c. 'Faith' is used here to mean the spiritual gifts bestowed by God on the members of the Christian community to ensure its life and growth.

d. The sentence emphasises not so much the identification of Christians with Christ, 1 Co 12:27 as their dependence on one another.

e. Another translation, less likely, is 'according to the rule of faith', that is, the common teaching of the Church, as in 1 Co 12:3, where the 'confession of faith' is the criterion of authentic gifts of the Spirit'.

f. Or 'outdo each other in mutual esteem'.

g. lit. 'Serve the Lord'; var. 'Be ready when opportunity arises' (lit. 'Serve the time').

h. The perspective now, particularly from v. 17 onwards, embraces all humanity.

i. Presumably the indignation of God waiting to punish sin.

j. The Christian takes vengeance on an enemy by doing good. The image of red-hot coals, symbol of burning pain, stands for the remorse which will bring the sinner to repentance.

Mt 22:16–21par, 1 Tm 2:1–2, Tt 3:1, 1 P 2:13–15, Pr 8:15, Ws 6:3, Jr 27:5

Submission to civil authority [a]

13 Everyone is to obey the governing authorities, because there is no authority 1 except from God and so whatever authorities exist have been appointed by God. ·So anyone who disobeys an authority is rebelling against God's ordinance; 2 and rebels must expect to receive the condemnation they deserve. ·Magistrates 3 bring fear not to those who do good, but to those who do evil. So if you want to live with no fear of authority, live honestly and you will have its approval; ·it is there to 4 serve God for you and for your good. But if you do what is wrong, then you may well be afraid; because it is not for nothing that the symbol of authority is the sword: it is there to serve God, too, as his avenger, to bring retribution to wrongdoers. ·You must be obedient, therefore, not only because of this retribu- 5 tion, but also for conscience's sake. ·And this is why you should pay taxes, too, 6 because the authorities are all serving God as his agents, even while they are busily Mt 22:21par; occupied with that particular task. ·Pay to each one what is due to each: taxes to 7 the one to whom tax is due, tolls to the one to whom tolls are due, respect to the one to whom respect is due, honour to the one to whom honour is due.

Mt 22:34–40, Jn 13:34, Ga 5:14

Love and Law

The only thing you should owe to anyone is love for one another, for to love the 8
Col 3:14 other person is to fulfil the law. [b] ·All these: You shall not commit adultery, You 9
Ex 20:13–17, Dt 5:17–21 shall not kill, You shall not steal, [c] You shall not covet, and all the other command-Lv 19:18, Ga 5:14 ments that there are, are summed up in this single phrase: You must love your 1 Co 13:4–7 neighbour [d] as yourself. ·Love can cause no harm to your neighbour, and so love is 10
the fulfilment of the Law.

1 Th 5:4–8, 1 Co 7:26,29–31, Ep 5:8–16, Col 4:5

Children of the light

Besides, you know the time [e] has come; the moment is here for you to stop sleeping 11 and wake up, because by now our salvation is nearer than when we first began to believe. ·The night is nearly over, daylight is on the way; so let us throw off 12
Jn 8:12b everything that belongs to the darkness and equip ourselves for the light. ·Let us 13
Ep 6:11b, 1:29q live decently, as in the light of day; with no orgies or drunkenness, no promiscuity
Ga 3:27 or licentiousness, and no wrangling or jealousy. ·Let your armour be the Lord 14
Ep 4:24 Jesus Christ, and stop worrying about how your disordered natural inclinations may be fulfilled.

6:15g, 1 Co 8:10:14–33

Charity towards the scrupulous

14 Give a welcome to anyone whose faith is not strong, [a] but do not get into 1 arguments about doubtful points. ·One person may have faith enough to 2 eat any kind of food; another, less strong, will eat only vegetables. ·Those who 3 Col 2:16–21 feel free to eat freely are not to condemn those who are unwilling to eat freely; nor must the person who does not eat freely pass judgement on the one who does—Mt 7:1, Jm 4:12 because God has welcomed him. ·And who are you, to sit in judgement over 4 somebody else's servant? Whether he deserves to be upheld or to fall is for his own master to decide; and he shall be upheld, for the Lord has power to uphold him.
Ga 4:10, Col 2:16 One person thinks that some days are holier than others, and another thinks them 5 all equal. Let each of them be fully convinced in his own mind. ·The one who 6 makes special observance of a particular day observes it in honour of the Lord. So the one who eats freely, eats in honour of the Lord, making his thanksgiving to God; and the one who does not, abstains from eating in honour of the Lord and makes his thanksgiving to God. ·For none of us lives for himself and none of us 7 6:10–11, Lk 20:38, Ga 2:19, Ph 1:20, Ac 10:42, 2 Co 5:15 dies for himself; ·while we are alive, we are living for the Lord, and when we die, 8
we die for the Lord: and so, alive or dead, we belong to the Lord. ·It was for this 9 purpose that Christ both died and came to life again: so that he might be Lord of both the dead and the living. ·Why, then, does one of you make himself judge over 10 his brother, and why does another among you despise his brother? All of us will have to stand in front of the judgement-seat of God: [b] ·as scripture says: By my own life says the Lord, every knee shall bow before me, every tongue shall give glory to God. ·It is to God, then, that each of us will have to give an account of himself.

Let us each stop passing judgement, therefore, on one another and decide instead that none of us will place obstacles in any brother's way, or anything that can bring him down. ·I am sure, and quite convinced in the Lord Jesus, that no food is unclean in itself; it is only if someone classifies any kind of food as unclean, then for him it is unclean. ·And indeed, [c] if through any kind of food you are causing offence to a brother, then you are no longer being guided by love. You are not to let the food that you eat cause the ruin of anyone for whom Christ died. ·A privilege [d] of yours must not be allowed to give rise to harmful talk; ·for it is not eating and drinking that make the kingdom of God, but the saving justice, the peace and the joy brought by the Holy Spirit. ·It is the person who serves Christ in these things that will be approved by God and respected by everyone. ·So then, let us be always seeking the ways which lead to peace and the ways in which we can support one another. ·Do not wreck God's work [e] for the sake of food. Certainly all foods are clean; but all the same, any kind can be evil for someone to whom it is an offence to eat it. [f] ·It is best to abstain from eating any meat, or drinking any wine, or from any other activity which might cause a brother to fall away, or to be scandalised, or to weaken.

Within yourself, before God, hold on to what you already believe. [g] Blessed is the person whose principles do not condemn his practice. ·But anyone who eats with qualms of conscience is condemned, because this eating does not spring from faith [h]—and every action which does not spring from faith is sin.

15 It is for us who are strong to bear with the susceptibilities of the weaker ones, and not please ourselves. ·Each of us must consider his neighbour's good, so that we support one another. ·Christ did not indulge his own feelings, either; indeed, as scripture says: The insults of those who insult you fall on me. And all these things which were written so long ago were written so that we, learning perseverance and the encouragement which the scriptures give, should have hope. ·Now the God of perseverance and encouragement give you all the same purpose, [a] following the example of Christ Jesus, ·so that you may together give glory to the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ with one heart.

Accept one another, then, for the sake of God's glory, as Christ accepted you. I tell you that Christ's work was to serve the circumcised, fulfilling the truthfulness

2:6b 2 Co 5:10 Is 45:23;49:18 Ph 2:10–11
1 Co 8:9
Mt 15:10–20par. Ac 10:15 1 Co 8:10 1 Tm 4:4 ·1 Co 13:1a
1 Co 8:8 Ga 5:22 1 Th 1:6 12:17–18
Tt 1:15 1 Co 8:13
1 Co 8:7
1 Co 9:22 Ga 6:2 1 Th 5:14 1 Co 10:33 14:19 1 Co 8:1 1 Co 13:5 Ps 69:9 1 Co 10:6d 2 Tm 3:16 1 M 12:9 2 M 15:9 1 Co 1:10 2 Co 13:11 Ph 2:2seq. Mt 15:24 Ac 3:25–26

13 a. Paul here enunciates the principle that all lawful authority derives from God. The Christian religion is not in opposition to civil life, 13:1–7, and the Christian is not absolved from the duties and obligations of a citizen. This principle is still maintained even after the first persecutions, Tt 3:1; 1 Tm 2:1,2.

b. Probably law in general rather than the Law of Moses.

c. Add. 'you shall not bear false witness'.

d. In Lv the 'neighbour' was a fellow countryman, here it is any member of the human family which is made one in Christ, Mt 25:40; Ga 3:28.

e. The thought is a fundamental one in Paul's moral teaching. The 'time' (kairos) is the eschatological era or 'Last Days', introduced by Christ's death and resurrection and coextensive with the age of the Church on earth, the age of salvation, 2 Co 6:2a. It is opposed to the era that preceded it by a difference not so much of time as of nature. The Christian, henceforward a 'child of the day', emancipated from the wicked world, Ga 1:4, and from the empire of darkness, belongs to the kingdom of God and of his Son, Col 1:13, is already a citizen of heaven, Ph 3:20. This entirely new status dominates the whole moral outlook, see 6:3seq.

14 a. Christians not yet securely grounded in the faith and therefore without the firm convictions that would give them a sure conscience, vv. 2,5,22. These considered themselves bound to observe certain days, v. 5, and to abstain from meat or from wine, vv. 2,21, perhaps as a permanent obligation, v. 21. Such ascetical practices were familiar to the gentile world (the Pythagoreans) and the Jewish (the Essenes, John the Baptist). Paul lays down the same general rule as in the similar case of 1 Co 8; 10:14–33: each must act 'for the Lord' as conscience dictates, vv. 5–6, provided it is not a doubtful conscience, v. 23; but above all, charity must govern the conduct of those 'strong' in the faith, vv. 1.15,19–21 and 15:1–13.

b. Who alone knows the secrets of the heart, cf. 2:16; 1 Co 4:3seq.

c. 'And indeed'; var. 'But' or 'Now'.

d. Probably the privilege of Christian liberty of which the 'strong' make use but which may be brought into disrepute, see 3:8d.

e. Refers to the weaker brothers, v. 15, or the Christian community, cf. 1 Co 3:9.

f. lit. 'by eating it with a cause of stumbling' see v. 13; that is, according to the context (v. 21 deals with the duties of the 'strong'), while giving 'scandal'.

g. var. 'Have you a belief? Hold on to it.' Because such faith is correct it has genuine value before God; but love may be an even higher principle.

h. Here in the sense of right conscience, see 14:1a. Other translations 'since he does not act from conviction', or, 'since his action is not prompted by a conviction of faith'.

15 a. i.e. to be thoughtful for one another. Others interpret 'to live in good understanding of one another', 'to live in agreement with one another'.

of God by carrying out the promises made to the fathers, ·and his work was also for 9
the gentiles, so that they should give glory to God for his faithful love [b]; as scripture Ex 34:6 Ps 18:49 says: For this I shall praise you among the nations and sing praise to your name.
Dt 32:43 And in another place it says: Nations, rejoice, with his people, ·and in another place 10, 11
Ps 117:1 again: Praise the Lord, all nations, extol him, all peoples. ·And in Isaiah, it says: 12
Is 11:10 The root of Jesse will appear, he who rises up to rule the nations, and in him the nations will put their hope.

May the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in your faith, so that in the 13 power of the Holy Spirit you may be rich in hope. [c]

EPILOGUE

Paul's ministry

My brothers, I am quite sure that you, in particular, are full of goodness, fully 14 instructed and capable of correcting each other. ·But I have special confidence in 15 writing on some points to you, to refresh your memories, [d] because of the grace 1:9e Is 66:20 Ac 9:15h that was given to me by God. ·I was given grace to be a minister of Christ Jesus to 16 the gentiles, dedicated to offer [e] them the gospel of God, so that gentiles might become an acceptable offering, sanctified by the Holy Spirit.

3:27o So I can be proud, in Christ Jesus, of what I have done for God. ·Of course I 17, 18 can dare to speak only of the things which Christ has done through me to win the 1:5d 2 Co 12:12+ Ac 1:8j allegiance of the gentiles, using what I have said and done, ·by the power of signs 19 and wonders, by the power of the Spirit of God. In this way, from Jerusalem and Col 1:25 all round, even as far as Illyricum, [f] I have fully carried out the preaching of the gospel of Christ; ·and what is more, it has been my rule to preach the gospel only 20 2 Co 10:15–16 1 Co 3:10seq. where the name of Christ has not already been heard for I do not build on Is 52:15 another's foundations; ·in accordance with scripture: Those who have never 21 been told about him will see him, and those who have never heard about him will understand.

Paul's plans

1:10 seq. That is why I have been so often prevented from coming to see you; ·now, however, 22, 23 as there is nothing more to keep me in these parts, [g] I hope, after longing for many years past to visit you, to see you when I am on the way to Spain—·and after 24 enjoying at least something of your company, to be sent on my way with your 12:13 Ac 19:21 support. ·But now I have undertaken to go to Jerusalem in the service of the holy 25
1 Co 16:1a people of God there, ·since Macedonia and Achaia have chosen to make a gener- 26 ous contribution to the poor among God's holy people at Jerusalem.

Yes, they chose to; not that they did not owe it to them. For if the gentiles have 27 11:17seq. 1 Co 9:11 Ga 6:6 been given a share in their spiritual possessions, then in return to give them help with material possessions is repaying a debt to them. ·So when I have done this, 28 8:27m Col 4:12 and given this harvest into their possession, [h] I shall visit you on the way to Spain.
I am sure that, when I do come to you, I shall come with the fullest blessing 29 of Christ.

Meanwhile I urge you, brothers, by our Lord Jesus Christ and by the love of the 30
Spirit, that in your prayers to God for me [i] you exert yourselves to help me;
Ac 20:3,23; 21:10seq.; 17seq.,27seq. praying that I may escape the unbelievers in Judaea, and that the aid I am 31 carrying to Jerusalem will be acceptable to God's holy people. ·Then I shall come 32 to you, if God wills, for a happy time of relaxation in your company. ·The God of 33 peace be with you all. Amen.

Greetings and good wishes

Ac 18:18 16 [a]I commend to you our sister Phoebe, [b] a deaconess of the church at 1
Cenchreae; ·give her, in the Lord, a welcome worthy of God's holy people 2 and help her with whatever she needs from you—she herself has come to the help of many people, including myself.

3, 4 My greetings to Prisca and Aquila, my fellow-workers in Christ Jesus, ·who risked their own necks to save my life;[c] to them, thanks not only from me, but 5 from all the churches among the gentiles; ·and my greetings to the church at their house.

Ac 18:2seq.,26
1 Co 16:19
2 Tm 4:19
1 Co 16:19
Col 4:15
Phm 2

Greetings to my dear friend Epaenetus, the first of Asia's offerings to Christ.[d]

1 Co 16:15

6, 7 Greetings to Mary, who worked so hard for you. ·Greetings to those outstanding apostles, Andronicus and Junias, my kinsmen and fellow-prisoners,[e] who were in 8 Christ before me. ·Greetings to Ampliatus, my dear friend in the Lord. 9 Greetings to Urban, my fellow-worker in Christ, and to my dear friend Stachys. 10 Greetings to Apelles, proved servant of Christ. Greetings to all the household of 11 Aristobulus. ·Greetings to my kinsman, Herodion, and greetings to those who 12 belong to the Lord in the household of Narcissus. ·Greetings to Tryphaena and Tryphosa who work hard in the Lord; greetings to my dear friend Persis, also a 13 very hard worker in the Lord. ·Greetings to Rufus,[f] chosen servant of the Lord, 14 and to his mother—a mother to me too. ·Greetings to Asyncritus, Phlegon, 15 Hermes, Patrobas, Hermas, and the brothers who are with them. ·Greetings to Philologus and Julia, Nereus and his sister, and Olympas and all God's holy people 16 who are with them. ·Greet each other with the holy kiss. All the churches of Christ send their greetings.[g]

2 Co 13:12d

A warning and first postscript

Ga 6:11

17 I urge you, brothers, be on your guard against the people who are out to stir up disagreements and bring up difficulties against the teaching which you learnt. 6:17
18 Avoid them.[h] ·People of that sort are servants not of our Lord Christ, but of their own greed; and with talk that sounds smooth and reasonable they deceive the Ph 3:19
19 minds of the unwary. ·Your obedience has become known to everyone, and I am 1:5d,1:8
very pleased with you for it; but I should want you to be learned only in what is Mt 10:16
1 Co 14:20
20 good, and unsophisticated about all that is evil. ·The God of peace will soon crush Gn 3:15 Satan under your feet. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you.[i]

Last greetings and second postscript

21 Timothy, who is working with me, sends greetings to you, and so do my kinsmen Ac 16:1a
22 Lucius, Jason and Sosipater. ·I, Tertius, who am writing this letter, greet you Ac 13:1;17:5; 20:4
23 in the Lord. ·Greetings to you from Gaius, my host here, and host of the whole church. Erastus, the city treasurer, sends greetings to you, and our brother Quartus. 1 Co 1:14

b. Christ welcomed the gentiles and thus gave glory to God. But by confining his work while on earth to the evangelisation of Israel, cf. Mt 15:24, Christ gave evidence of God's loyalty to his promise, the converted gentiles being living evidence rather of God's mercy. Let these in their turn be merciful to their brothers in the faith, see 12:1.

c. This blessing recalls in summary the main themes of Paul's teaching in this letter.

d. Towards the end of this letter, Paul once again gives his claim to write to a church which he has not founded, compare 1:13.

e. The apostolate, even more than the ordinary Christian life, 12:1; cf. Ph 2:17, is a liturgical function, see 1:9, the apostle—or rather, through him, Christ, v. 18—makes an offering of the whole human race to God.

f. The two extremes of Paul's missionary journeys at the time of writing; whether he had actually been to Illyricum is disputed.

g. Not that all the gentiles there have been converted, but that Paul's task is to lay foundations; he leaves his disciples to build on them, see 1 Co 3:6,10; Col 1:7; etc.

h. lit. 'sealed'.

i. Paul often asks his communities to pray for him, see 8:27m. On prayer conceived as a struggle with God, see the examples of Abraham, Gn 18:17seq., Jacob, Gn 32:29, Moses, Ex 32:11–14,30–32; Dt 9:18,25, and the gospel, Mk 7:24–30; Lk 11:1–8.

16 a. This chapter may not have formed part of the original epistle, see p. 1857.

b. Probably the bearer of the letter.

c. Presumably in Ephesus, either at the time of the riot described in Ac 19:23seq., or during Paul's imprisonment there (see v. 7); see p. 1857.

d. lit. 'the first-fruits of Asia for Christ'. This probably means the first convert in the province of Asia.

e. Paul had been imprisoned several times already, see 2 Co 11:23. Andronicus and Junias (var. Julias) are apostles in the wide sense, Rm 1:1b.

f. Possibly the son of Simon of Cyrene, Mk 15:21.

g. This form of greeting, not found elsewhere in Paul's letters, shows special respect for the church in Rome.

h. The curt warning is reminiscent of Ga 6:12–17. It probably refers to judaising preachers, cf. Ga 5:7–12 and particularly Ph 3:18–19.

i. Omit v. 24 'The grace . . .' This formula (add. 'all') is placed by some authorities (Vulg.) after v. 23 or v. 27.

1 Co 16:23 Doxology [j]
2 Co 13:14
Ga 6:18
Ph 4:23
1 Th 5:28
2 Th 3:18
Rv 22:21

And now to him who can make you strong [k] 25
in accordance with the gospel that I preach and the proclamation of Jesus Christ, in accordance with that mystery [l]
which for endless ages was kept secret but now (as the prophets wrote) is revealed, 26
as the eternal God commanded,
to be made known to all the nations,
1:5d so that they obey in faith:
1:25 to him, the only wise [m] God, 27 give glory through Jesus Christ for ever and ever. Amen. [n]

j. Most authorities place this doxology here, but in some it appears at the end of ch. 15 or 14; others omit. A solemn presentation, cf. Ep 3:20; Jude 24-25, of the main points of the letter.

k. Firmly grounded in doctrine and strong in Christian practice, cf. 1:11; 1 Co 1:8; 2 Co 1:21; Col 2:7; 1 Th 3:2,13; 2 Th 2:17; 3:3.

l. The idea of a 'mystery' of wisdom, v. 27; 1 Co 2:7; Ep 3:9; Col 2:2-3, long hidden in God and now revealed, Rm.16:25-26; 1 Co 2:7,10; Ep 3:5,9seq.; Col 1:26, is borrowed by Paul from Jewish apocalyptic, Dn 2:18-19,18e, but he enriches the content of the term by applying it to the climax of the history of salvation: the saving cross of Christ, 1 Co 2:8; the call of the gentiles, Rm 11:25;16:26; Col 1:26-27, Ep 3:6, to this salvation preached by Paul, Rm.16:25; Col 1:23; 4:3; Ep 3:3-12; 6:19, and finally the restoration of all things in Christ as their one head, Ep 1:9-10. See also Mt 13:11par.; 1 Co 4:1; 13:2; 14:2; 15:51; Ep 5:32; 2 Th 2:7; 1 Tm 3:9,16; 2 Tm 1:9-10; Rv 1:20; 10:7; 17:5-7.

m. Cf. 11:33-36; 1 Co 1:24; 2:7; Ep 3:10; Col 2:3; Rv 7:12.

n. The NT adopts the blessings and doxologies of Israel, Gn 14:19h; Ps 41:13f; but often calls God Father and associates Jesus Christ with him, 9:5; 11:35-36; 1 Co 8:6; cf. Ga 1:5; Ep 3:21; Ph 4:20; 1 Tm 1:17; 6:16; 2 Tm 4:18; Heb 13:21; 1 P 4:11; 2 P 3:18; Jude 25; Rv 1:6k. Later doxologies commonly name all three 'Persons', see 2 Co 13:13e.

1 CORINTHIANS

THE FIRST LETTER OF PAUL TO THE CHURCH AT CORINTH

INTRODUCTION

Address and greetings. Thanksgiving

Rm 1:1a

1 Paul, called by the will of God to be an apostle of Christ Jesus, and Sosthenes, Ac 18:17
2 our brother, ·to the church of God[a] in Corinth, to those who have been Ac 5:11b consecrated in Christ Jesus and called to be God's holy people, with all those Ac 9:13g everywhere who call on the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, their Lord as well as Ac 2:21m
3 ours.[b] ·Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.
4 I am continually thanking God about you, for the grace of God which you have 5 been given in Christ Jesus; ·in him you have been richly endowed in every kind of 2 Co 8:7,9 6, 7 utterance and knowledge; ·so firmly has witness to Christ taken root in you. ·And 12:8e so you are not lacking in any gift as you wait for our Lord Jesus Christ to be 2 Co 6:10 8 revealed;[c] ·he will continue to give you strength till the very end, so that you will 9 be irreproachable[d] on the Day[e] of our Lord Jesus Christ. ·You can rely on God, 2 Co 1:21 who has called you to be partners[f] with his Son Jesus Christ our Lord.[g] Col 2:7
Dt 7:9
Ph 3:10seq.
1 Jn 1:3

1 a. One of Paul's favourite expressions: 10:32; 11:16,22; 15:9; 2 Co 1:1; Ga 1:13; 1 Th 2:14; 2 Th 1:4; 1 Tm 3:5,15; see also Ac 20:28. Cf. 'the churches of Christ', Rm 16:16. See Mt 16:18g; Ac 5:11b.

b. Alternative translation: 'with all those who in every place, theirs as well as ours, pray in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ.'

c. When the hidden plans of God are to be made known. Rm 16:25–26. 25*l*. Christ will reveal himself at the end of time, the time of his parousia, 15:23n, and his appearing. 1 Tm 6:14f; Cf. Lk 17:30; 2 Th 1:7; Heb 9:28; 1 P 1:5,7,13; 4:13.

d. Cf. Ep 1:4; Ph 1:10; 2:15seq.; Col 1:22; 1 Th 3:13; 5:23; Jude 24.

e. This 'Day of the Lord'. 5:5; 2 Co 1:14; 1 Th 5:2; 2 Th 2:2; cf. 2 P 3:10, called also the 'Day of Christ', Ph 1:6,10; 2:16, or simply the 'Day', 1 Co 3:13; 1 Th 5:4; cf. Heb 10:25, or 'that Day', 2 Th 1:10; 2 Tm 1:12,18; 4:8; cf. Mt 7:22; 24:36; Lk 10:12; 21:34, or 'the Day of the Son of man', Lk 17:22–24; cf. v. 26, or 'the Day of God', 2 P 3:12, or 'the Day of visitation', 1 P 2:12, or 'the great Day', Jude 6; Rv 6:17; 16:14, or 'the last Day', Jn 6:39,40,44,54; 11:24; 12:48, is the fulfilment in the eschatological era, ushered in by Christ, of the 'Day of Yahweh' foretold by the prophets. Am 5:18m. This eschatological imagery of the prophets, so widely used in first-century Judaism, is largely current also in the NT. The fulfilment begins with the first coming of Christ, Lk 17:20–24, and the punishment of Jerusalem, Mt 24:1a; and this final stage in the history of salvation, see Ac 1:7i, will be completed by the glorious second coming, 1 Co 1:7 and notes; 15:23n; 1 Tm 6:14f, of the Sovereign Judge, Rm 2:6b; Jm 5:8–9. A cosmic upheaval and renewal will accompany it (see Am 8:9h). Mt 24:29 and par., 29*o* Heb 12:26seq.; 2 P 3:10–13; Rv 20:11; 21:1; cf. Mt 19:28; Rm 8:20–22. This Day of light is coming, Rm 13:12; Heb 10:25; Jm 5:8; 1 P 4:7; cf. 1 Th 5:5,8, but exactly when is uncertain, 1 Th 5:1a, meanwhile we must prepare for it, 2 Co 6:2a. But this eschatological imagery also receives a different interpretation in the 'realised eschatology' of Jn. see p. 1739; Ep 2:6e.

f. 'Koinonia', frequently translated as 'communion', or as here 'being partners with', which has a basic meaning which, underlying a variety of usages, is the sharing of possessions. Amongst Christians, it is not spiritual possessions alone which are shared, Rm 15:26–27; 2 Co 8:4; 9:13; Ga 6:6; Ph 4:15–17. They must be united in actions and concerns, 2 Co 1:7; 6:14; 2 Jn 9; Rv 1:9. The communion from which all other forms derive is the partnership of grace from God, 9:23; Ph 1:5; Phm 6; it unites us to the Father and his Son Jesus Christ, 1 Co 1:9; 1 Jn 1:3b, 7e; to Christ himself, 1 Co 10:16; Ph 3:10; 1 P 4:13; to the Spirit, 2 Co 13:13e; Ph 2:1. Because Christ is our partner in human nature, we are his in the divine nature, 2 P 1:4g. The word becomes characteristic of the Christian community, Ac 2:42ff.

g. Cf. 10:13; 2 Co 1:18; 1 Th 5:24; 2 Th 3:3; 2 Tm 2:13; Heb 10:23; 11:11.

I: DIVISIONS AND SCANDALS

A: FACTIONS IN THE CORINTHIAN CHURCH

Dissensions among the faithful

Brothers, I urge you, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, not to have factions among yourselves but all to be in agreement in what you profess; so that you are Rm 15:5 Ph 2:2seq. perfectly united in your beliefs and judgements. 11 From what Chloe's people [h] have been telling me about you, brothers, it is clear that there are serious differences among you. 12 What I mean is this: every one of you is declaring, 'I belong to 3:22–23g Jn 1:42 Paul,' or 'I belong to Apollos,' or 'I belong to Cephas,' [i] or 'I belong to Christ.' [j]
Ac 18:24p 13 Has Christ been split up? Was it Paul that was crucified for you, or was it in Paul's Ac 2:38aa Ep 4:5 name that you were baptised? 14 I am thankful I did not baptise any of you, except Ac 18:8 15 Crispus and Gaius, so that no one can say that you were baptised in my name.
Rm 16:23 16:15–17 Ac 16:15j 16 Yes, I did baptise the family of Stephanas, too; [k] but besides these I do not think I baptised anyone.

The true wisdom and the false

17 After all, Christ sent me not to baptise, but to preach the gospel; and not by means of wisdom of language, [l] wise words which would make the cross of Christ pointless. [m]
18 The message of the cross is folly for those who are on the way to ruin, but Rm 1:16 19 for those of us who are on the road to salvation it is the power of God. As scripture Ps 33:10 Is 29:14 Mt 11:25 says: I am going to destroy the wisdom of the wise and bring to nothing the understanding of any who understand. [n] 20 Where are the philosophers? Where are the
Is 19:12;33:18 experts? And where are the debaters of this age? 21 Do you not see how God has shown up human wisdom [o] as folly? Since in the wisdom of God the world was Rm 1:19–20+ unable to recognise God through wisdom, [p] it was God's own pleasure to save Mt 12:38par. Jn 2:18+ believers through the folly of the gospel. 22 While the Jews demand miracles and the Ac 17:19–23 Greeks look for wisdom, [q] 23 we are preaching a crucified Christ: to the Jews an Jn 12:34 Ga 5:11 obstacle they cannot get over, to the gentiles foolishness, [r] 24 but to those who have been called, whether they are Jews or Greeks, a Christ who is both the power of Jn 6:35k God and the wisdom of God. 25 God's folly is wiser than human wisdom, and God's 2 Co 12:10;13:4 weakness is stronger than human strength. [s] 26 Consider, brothers, how you were Dt 7:7 Rm 7:5k called; not many of you are wise by human standards, [t] not many influential, not 1 Sam 16:7 Jg 7:2 Mt 11:25 many from noble families. 27 No, God chose those who by human standards are
2 Co 4:7 Jm 2:5 fools to shame the wise; he chose those who by human standards are weak to shame the strong, 28 those who by human standards are common and contemptible—indeed those who count for nothing—to reduce to nothing all those that do count
Dt 8:16–18+ Rm 3:27o Ep 2:9 for something, 29, 30 so that no human being might feel boastful before God. It is by him that you exist [u] in Christ Jesus, who for us was made wisdom from God, [v] and Jr 9:22–23 2 Co 10:17 saving justice and holiness and redemption. [w] 31 As scripture says: If anyone wants to boast, let him boast of the Lord.

2 Co 11:6 Rm 16:25l 2 Now when I came to you, brothers, I did not come with any brilliance of oratory or wise argument to announce to you the mystery of God. [a] 2 I was resolved that the only knowledge I would have while I was with you was knowledge
Ga 3:1;6:14 of Jesus, and of him as the crucified Christ. 3 I came among you in weakness, in fear and great trembling [b] 4 and what I spoke and proclaimed was not meant to convince Ac 1:8j 2 Co 12:12 by philosophical argument, but to demonstrate the convincing power of the Spirit, [c] so that your faith should depend not on human wisdom but on the power of God. [d] 5

But still, to those who have reached maturity, [e] we do talk of a wisdom, not, it is 6
2 Co 4:7 true, a philosophy of this age or of the rulers of this age, [f] who will not last long
Rm 8:29–30q; 16:25l now. 7 It is of the mysterious wisdom [g] of God that we talk, the wisdom that was hidden, which God predestined to be for our glory before the ages began. 8 None
Is 19:11,13 of the rulers of the age recognised it; for if they had recognised it, they would not

9 have crucified the Lord of glory;[h] ·but it is as scripture says:[i] What no eye has seen and no ear has heard, what the mind of man cannot visualise; all that God has 10 prepared for those who love him, ·to us, though, God has given revelation through the Spirit, for the Spirit explores the depths of everything, even the depths of God.
11 After all, is there anyone who knows the qualities of anyone except his own spirit, within him; and in the same way, nobody knows the qualities of God except 12 the Spirit of God. ·Now, the Spirit we have received is not the spirit of the world but God's own Spirit, so that we may understand the lavish gifts God has given us.
13 And these are what we speak of, not in the terms learnt from human philosophy, but in terms learnt from the Spirit, fitting spiritual language to spiritual things.[j] 14 The natural person[k] has no room for the gifts of God's Spirit; to him they are folly; he cannot recognise them, because their value can be assessed only in the 15 Spirit. ·The spiritual person, on the other hand, can assess the value of everything, 16 and his own value cannot be assessed by anybody else.[l] ·For: who has ever known the mind of the Lord? Who has ever been his adviser? But we are those who have the mind of Christ.

1 3 And so, brothers, I was not able to talk to you as spiritual people; I had to talk to you as people still living by your natural inclinations,[a] still infants in Christ;
2 I fed you with milk and not solid food, for you were not yet able to take it—and

▶Ba 3:14
▶Ep 3:10
▶1 P 1:12
Is 64:3
Jr 3:16
Si 1:10
2 Co 13:13e
Jn 14:26r
Pr 20:27
Rm 11:33seq.
15:44w
Mt 16:23
Jn 10:26m
15:44w
Is 40:13
Rm 11:34
7:40
Jn 16:12
Heb 5:12–14
1 Th 2:7
1 P 2:2

h. It is not known who this Chloe was; the phrase suggests that she may have been a trader with a staff of slaves or freedmen.

i. Either because Cephas (Peter) had visited the church of Corinth, or because some members of that church paid special allegiance to Peter's authority acknowledged in other churches.

j. Perhaps they claimed to have seen Christ on earth, cf. Ac 1:21seq.; 10:41, and so claimed preference over others, cf. 1 Co 9:1; 2 Co 5:16g; 11:5,23; 12:11.

k. This correction to the previous sentence indicates that Paul is dictating, cf. 16:21.

l. This human wisdom (here philosophical speculation and tricks of rhetoric) will be contrasted with the wisdom of God, v. 24 and 2:6seq.

m. Paul develops this point in 2:1–5.

n. The same point is made in Is 29:14: God promises a people who are being terrorised by the Assyrian threat that the workings of a purely human mind will not be able to save them.

o. Nowhere in this passage does Paul condemn genuine human wisdom, the gift of God and a means to knowledge of God, v. 21*p*; what he condemns is an arrogant wisdom which fails of its object.

p. That is, in the works of God which make his wisdom known, see Ws 13:1–9; Rm 1:19–20. Other interpretations are possible: by deliberate arrangements of God's wisdom; or, at the time of God's wisdom, that is of the old economy which was under the standard of good sense, as opposed to the new economy where God reveals himself by seemingly senseless paradox.

q. It is 'human' to want a proof, whether miracles guaranteeing the truth of the message, or a logical argument resting on philosophical axioms. This desire is not in itself reprehensible, and the cross of Christ, paradoxically, responds to it, v. 23r. But it is unacceptable if it becomes a condition without which the mind refuses to believe.

r. From the human point of view the cross goes against all the expectations both of Jews and of Greeks; it is a rejection rather than a glorious manifestation, foolishness instead of wisdom. But to the eyes of faith the cross is the climax and overflow of the expectations, the power and wisdom of God.

s. The paradox of God's action (1:18–25) is fulfilled in the choice of the Corinthians (1:26–30) and in Paul's preaching (2:1–5).

t. i.e. from a purely human point of view.

u. You who formerly, in the eyes of the world, did not exist (v. 28) now exist in Jesus Christ, while those who in the eyes of the world exist are reduced to nothing. It is about this new existence in Jesus Christ, and this alone, that you should boast (see vv. 29,31).

v. So Christian wisdom is not the fruit of human effort 'according to the flesh'. It is found in a member of the human race who appeared in 'the fullness of time' (Ga 4:4), Christ, whom we must 'win' (Ph 3:8) in order to find in him all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge (Col 2:3). This wisdom is that of an all-embracing salvation, 'saving justice and holiness and redemption'.

w. These three last concepts form the basic themes of the future letter to the Romans, which was surely already taking shape in Paul's mind, see Rm 1:17; 6:19,22; 3:24.

2 a. var. 'the witness of God'.

b. 'fear and trembling': a biblical cliché, cf. 2:3; Jg 7:3; Ps 2:11seq.; 55:5; Ezk 12:18; Mk 5:33; 2 Co 7:15; Ph 2:12.

c. An allusion to the miracles and outpouring of the Spirit which went with Paul's preaching (cf. 1:5 and 2 Co 12:12).

d. Words of human wisdom are persuasive by themselves (v. 4). They evoke in their listeners a purely human response (v. 5). It is just this that Paul will not accept. His word is indeed a demonstration (v. 4) but shows the action of the Spirit and demands a response on a different plane, that of the Spirit.

e. The 'mature' or 'perfect' (teleioi) are not an exclusive group of initiates but those who have reached maturity in Christian life and thought. Cf. 14:20; Mt 19:21g; Ph 3:15; Col 4:12; Heb 5:14. They are the same as the 'spiritual people' whom Paul contrasts with the 'infants in Christ', 3:1.

f. Perhaps human rulers or governments; more probably, the evil powers or demons that control the world, cf. 15:24–25; Ep 6:12. See also Lk 4:6 and Jn 12:31i; but the reference is perhaps to both, the latter using the former as their tools.

g. lit. 'in mystery', not an enigmatic wisdom, but a wisdom whose object is a mystery, the secret of the plan of salvation realised in Christ, Rm 16:25*l*.

h. The 'glory' is the manifestation of Yahweh's power, Ex 24:16f, the incommunicable attribute of God. The title 'Lord of glory' implies the same dignity for Jesus as that of Yahweh himself.

i. A free combination of Is 64:3 and Jr 3:16, or possibly a quotation from the Apocalypse of Elijah.

j. A difficult passage. It can also be understood 'showing how spiritual things fit spiritual people' or 'spiritual things thus fitting spiritual people' or 'allowing spiritual people to judge spiritual things'.

k. psychikos: a human being left to his own natural resources. See the note on soma psychikon, see 15:44w.

l. Possibly a defensive remark: Paul, a 'spiritual' man, is not to be judged by the Corinthians who are 'sensual', 3:1–3. In ch. 14, Paul lays down rules to be obeyed by the 'spiritual'; see also 1 Th 5:19–22.

3 a. lit. 'in the flesh'. For the distinction between 'spirit' and 'flesh', see Rm 1:9f.

even now, you are still not able to, ·for you are still living by your natural 3 Ga 5:19–20 inclinations. As long as there are jealousy and rivalry[b] among you, that surely means that you are still living by your natural inclinations and by merely human 1:12 principles. ·While there is one that says, 'I belong to Paul' and another that says, 4
'I belong to Apollos' are you not being only too human?

The place of the Christian preacher

2 Co 6:4
Ac 18:24–27 For what is Apollos and what is Paul? The servants through whom you came to 5 believe, and each has only what the Lord has given him. ·I did the planting, 6 Apollos did the watering, but God gave growth. ·In this, neither the planter nor 7 the waterer counts for anything; only God, who gives growth. ·It is all one who 8 does the planting and who does the watering, and each will have the proper pay for 2 Co 6:1 the work that he has done. ·After all, we do share in God's work;[c] you are God's 9
Ep 2:20–22
1 P 2:5 farm, God's building.

By the grace of God which was given to me, I laid the foundations like a trained 10 master-builder, and someone else is building on them. Now each one must be
Ps 118:22
Is 28:16 careful how he does the building. ·For nobody can lay down any other foundation 11
Ac 4:11–12
1 P 2:4 than the one which is there already, namely Jesus Christ. ·On this foundation, 12 different people may build in gold, silver, jewels, wood, hay or straw ·but each 13 1:8e person's handiwork will be shown for what it is. The Day which dawns in fire will
Mt 3:11–12par.
1 P 1:7 make it clear and the fire itself will test the quality of each person's work. ·The one 14 whose work stands up to it will be given his wages; ·the one whose work is burnt 15 down will suffer the loss of it, though he himself will be saved; he will be saved as someone might expect to be saved from a fire.[d]

6:19
2 Co 6:16
Ep 2:20–22 Do you not realise that you are a temple[e] of God with the Spirit of God living 16 in you? ·If anybody should destroy the temple of God, God will destroy that 17 person,[f] because God's temple is holy;[g] and you are that temple.

Conclusions

1:17–25 There is no room for self-delusion. Any one of you who thinks he is wise by 18 worldly standards must learn to be a fool in order to be really wise. ·For the 19 Jb 5:13 wisdom of the world is folly to God. As scripture says: He traps the crafty in the Ps 94:11 snare of their own cunning ·and again: The Lord knows the plans of the wise and 20
how insipid they are. ·So there is to be no boasting about human beings: everything 21
1:12 belongs to you, ·whether it is Paul, or Apollos, or Cephas, the world, life or death, 22
11:3 the present or the future—all belong to you; ·but you belong to Christ and Christ 23
2 Co 10:7 belongs to God.[h]

Lk 12:42–44 4 People should think of us as Christ's servants, stewards entrusted with the 1 mysteries of God. ·In such a matter, what is expected of stewards is that each 2 one should be found trustworthy. ·It is of no importance to me how you or any 3
Jb 9:2.15
2 Co 5:10–11 other human court[a] may judge me: I will not even be the judge of my own self. ·It 4 is true that my conscience does not reproach me,[b] but that is not enough to justify Mt 7:1 me: it is the Lord who is my judge. ·For that reason, do not judge anything before 5
Lk 12:2–3
Rm 2:16 the due time, until the Lord comes; he will bring to light everything that is hidden in darkness and reveal the designs of all hearts. Then everyone will receive from God the appropriate commendation.

I have applied all this to myself and Apollos for your sakes, so that you can learn 6
how the saying, 'Nothing beyond what is written'[c] is true of us: no individual among you must become filled with his own importance and make comparisons, to Jr 3:27 another's detriment. ·Who made you so important? What have you got that was 7 not given to you? And if it was given to you, why are you boasting as though it were Ho 12:9
Rv 3:17 your own? ·You already have everything—you are rich already—you have come 8 into your kingdom,[d] without any help from us! Well, I wish you were kings and we
2 Co 4:8–12;
6:4–10;11:
23–33 could be kings with you! ·For it seems to me that God has put us apostles on show 9
2 Tm 3:10–11 right at the end, like men condemned to death: we have been exhibited as a spectacle[e] to the whole universe, both angelic and human. ·Here we are, fools for 10

Christ's sake, while you are the clever ones in Christ; we are weak, while you are 11 strong; you are honoured, while we are disgraced.[f] •To this day, we go short of 2 Co 11:27
12 food and drink and clothes, we are beaten up and we have no homes; •we earn our Ac 18:3d living by labouring with our own hands; when we are cursed, we answer with a 13 blessing; when we are hounded, we endure it passively; •when we are insulted, we give a courteous answer. We are treated even now as the dregs of the world, the Lm 3:45 very lowest scum.[g]

An appeal

14 I am writing all this not to make you ashamed but simply to remind you, as my dear
15 children; •for even though you might have ten thousand slaves to look after you[h] 2 Co 6:13 in Christ, you still have no more than one father, and it was I who fathered you in Ga 4:19 16 Christ Jesus,[i] by the gospel. •That is why I urge you to take me as your pattern 1 Th 2:11
17 and why I have sent you Timothy, a dear and faithful son to me in the Lord, who Phm 10 will remind you of my principles of conduct[j] in Christ, as I teach them everywhere 11:1 in every church. Ph 3:17
1 Th 1:6
2 Th 3:7b
Ac 16:1a;19:22

18 On the assumption that I was not coming to you, some of you have become filled 19 with your own self-importance; •but I shall be coming to you soon, the Lord willing, and then I shall find out not what these self-important people say, but what Ac 18:21 20 power they have.[k] •For the kingdom of God consists not in spoken words but in 21 power. •What do you want then? Am I to come to you with a stick in my hand or in 2:4c love, and with a spirit of gentleness? 2 Co 10:2

B: INCEST IN CORINTH

1 5 It is widely reported that there is sexual immorality among you, immorality of a kind that is not found even among gentiles: that one of you is living with his Lv 18:8;20:11
Dt 27:20

b. add. 'and dissension'.

c. Or 'We are God's labourers'.

d. i.e., he will escape 'by the skin of his teeth', as one who has run through the flames. Purgatory is not directly envisaged here, but this text is one of those on the basis of which the Church has made this doctrine explicit.

e. It is the Christian community, the Body of Christ (12:12i), which is the Temple of the new covenant, and the Spirit that lives in it makes a reality of what was prefigured by the Temple of Jerusalem in which lived 'the glory' of God, 1 K 8:10–13; see Jn 2:21i; Rv 21:22; and 1 Co 6:19; 2 Co 6:16.

f. Paul distinguishes three kinds of preachers: those who build solidly (v. 14), those who build in non-resistant materials (v. 15), and those who destroy instead of building (v.17). These last are sacrilegious and should be punished accordingly.

g. i.e. consecrated and reserved to God: to lay hands on it is sacrilege.

h. vv. 21–23 deliberately echo the terms of 1:12 'Every one of you is declaring, "I belong to Paul" or "I belong to Apollos" or "I belong to Cephas." ' It is exactly the opposite, retorts Paul. You do not belong to them; they belong to you as your servants. And they are at your service, as is all creation, so that you may belong to Christ, who in his turn belongs to God the Father.

4 a. lit. 'day'. Paul is being ironical, suggesting that people are making their own 'Day of the Lord', see 1:8e, by passing a judgement which only God has a right to make.

b. The word syneidesis, see 1 S 25:31; Ws 17:11c, acquired a Christian value in Paul. Whatever may be the external norms, human conduct springs only from personal judgement. Ac 23:1; 24:16; Rm 2:14–15; 9:1; 13:5; 2 Co 1:12; but this judgement is subject to God's judgement, 1 Co 8:7–12; 10:25–29; 2 Co 4:2, cf. 1 P 2:19. Conscience is good and pure if it is inspired by faith and love, 1 Tm 1:5; 19, etc.; 1 P 3:16,21, and purified by Christ's blood, Heb 9:14; 10:22.

c. Obscure. Perhaps a citation of a proverb familiar to the Corinthian Jews; perhaps a gloss deprecating some insertion by a copyist.

d. Without any help from us, you are already installed in the kingdom of Heaven and enjoy all its riches to your complete satisfaction.

e. Like the men condemned to death in the arena with wild animals, with spectators crowding to watch as though at a sport.

f. At the end of this passage, vv. 6–10, Paul takes up again, ironically, the themes of ch. 1–2; you are, or claim to be, sensible, strong, honoured; but this is in the eyes not of God but of the world, which considers us foolish, weak and contemptible, and consequently persecutes us (vv. 11–13); the reality, in the eyes of God, is exactly the opposite.

g. The words translated 'dregs' and 'scum' are also used for the unfortunates who were used as expiatory victims in public calamities. Paul often returns to the subject of his sufferings, the persecutions he underwent in his apostolate and the way God enabled him to overcome them: 2 Co 4:7–12; 6:4–10; 11:23–33; 1 Th 3:4; 2 Tm 3:10–11. In his view, the weakness of the apostle shows the power of him by whom he was sent, 2 Co 12:9–10; Ph 4:13, because the greatness of the work done cannot be attributed entirely to the envoy, 2 Co 4:7c.

h. 'slaves'. This refers to a type of slave whose business was to take the child, and later the young man, to his teachers, to watch over him and keep him within bounds. Since the nuance is pejorative, perhaps the best translation is 'nursemaids' even though the original reference is to males.

i. This spiritual fatherhood corresponds to what Paul says in 3:6, 'I did the planting'; I sowed in you the new life of the Spirit which conforms you to Christ; see v. 17; Ga 4:19; Phm 10. Elsewhere it is his tenderness for his converts that Paul likens to that of a father or mother, 1 Th 2:7,11, see 2 Co 12:15e.

j. Cf. Ps 119:1; Jn 14:6d; Ac 9:2b.

k. Paul is referring to effects of the power of the Spirit (see 2:4; 1 Th 1:5), and especially conversion and life according to the Spirit.

stepmother.[a] ·And you so filled with your own self-importance! It would have 2
Lv 18:29 Dt 13:6 been better if you had been grieving bitterly, so that the man who has done this Col 2:5 thing were turned out of the community. ·For my part, however distant I am 3 physically, I am present in spirit and have already condemned the man who behaved in this way, just as though I were present in person. ·When you have 4
Mt 18:20 gathered together in the name of our Lord Jesus,[b] with the presence of my spirit,[c]
1:8e 1 Tm 1:20 and in the power of our Lord Jesus, ·hand such a man over to Satan, to be 5 destroyed as far as natural life is concerned, so that on the Day of the Lord[d] his spirit may be saved.

Ga 5:9 Your self-satisfaction is ill founded. Do you not realise that only a little yeast[e] 6
leavens the whole batch of dough? ·Throw out the old yeast so that you can be the 7 Jn 1:29 1 P 1:19 Rv 5:6 fresh dough, unleavened as you are. For our Passover has been sacrificed, that is, Ex 12:19 Christ; ·let us keep the feast, then, with none of the old yeast and no leavening of 8 evil and wickedness, but only the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth.[f]

2 Co 6:17 In my letter,[g] I wrote to you that you should have nothing to do with people 9
1 Jn 5:19 living immoral lives. ·I was not including everybody in this present world who is 10 sexually immoral, or everybody who is greedy, or dishonest or worships false Jn 17:15 gods—that would mean you would have to cut yourselves off completely from the world. ·In fact what I meant was that you were not to have anything to do with 11 Rm 1:29q anyone going by the name of brother[h] who is sexually immoral, or is greedy, or worships false gods, or is a slanderer or a drunkard or dishonest; never even have a meal with anybody of that kind. ·It is no concern of mine to judge outsiders.[i] 12
It is for you to judge those who are inside, is it not? ·But outsiders are for 13
God to judge.

Dt 13:6 You must banish this evil-doer from among you.

C: RECOURSE TO THE GENTILE COURTS[a]

6 Is one of you with a complaint against another so brazen as to seek judgement 1
Ac 9:13f from sinners and not from God's holy people?[b] ·Do you not realise that the 2 Dn 7:22,26 Mt 19:28 Rv 20:4 holy people of God are to be the judges of the world?[c] And if the world is to be judged by you, are you not competent for petty cases? ·Do you not realise that we 3 Jude 5–6 shall be the judges of angels?—then quite certainly over matters of this life. ·But 4 when you have matters of this life to be judged, you bring them before those who are of no account in the Church![d] ·I say this to make you ashamed of yourselves. 5
Can it really be that it is impossible to find in the community one sensible person capable of deciding questions between brothers, ·and that this is why brother goes 6 to law against brother, and that before unbelievers? ·No; it is a fault in you, by 7 itself, that one of you should go to law against another at all: why do you not prefer Mt 5:38–42par. Rm 12:17–19 1 Th 5:15 to suffer injustice, why not prefer to be defrauded? ·And here you are, doing the 8 injustice and the defrauding, and to your own brothers.

Do you not realise that people who do evil will never inherit the kingdom of 9
Rm 1:29q God? Make no mistake—the sexually immoral, idolaters, adulterers, the self-indulgent, sodomites, ·thieves, misers, drunkards, slanderers and swindlers, none 10 of these will inherit the kingdom of God.[e] ·Some of you used to be of that kind: 11
Jn 3:5 Ep 2:1–6 Tt 3:3–7 1 Jn 2:12 but you have been washed clean, you have been sanctified, and you have been justified in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ and through the Spirit of our God.[f]

D: SEXUAL IMMORALITY

10:23 Rm 6:15g Gn 4:7 'For me everything is permissible';[g] maybe, but not everything does good. True, 12 for me everything is permissible, but I am determined not to be dominated by anything. ·Foods are for the stomach, and the stomach is for foods; and God 13

14 will destroy them both. But the body is not for sexual immorality; [h] ·it is for the Lord, and the Lord is for the body. God raised up the Lord and he will raise [i] 15 us up too by his power. ·Do you not realise that your bodies are members of Christ's body; do you think one can take parts of Christ's body and join them to 16 the body of a prostitute? Out of the question! ·Or do you not realise that anyone who attaches himself to a prostitute is one body with her, since the two, as it is 17 said, become one flesh. ·But anyone who attaches himself to the Lord is one spirit with him. [j] 18 Keep away from sexual immorality. All other sins that someone may commit are done outside the body; [k] but the sexually immoral person sins against his own body.
19 Do you not realise that your body is the temple [l] of the Holy Spirit, who is in you 20 and whom you received from God? ·You are not your own property, then; you have been bought at a price. [m] So use your body for the glory of God.

Col 2:22
10:31
15:12seq.
Rm 1:4c;8:11g
1 Co 12:12i
Rm 6:12–13
Gn 2:24
Rm 8:9–10
3:16–17
Rm 5:5e
1 Th 4:4–8
3:23
7:23
Rm 3:24j;6:15j
Ph 1:20

II: ANSWERS TO VARIOUS QUESTIONS

A: MARRIAGE AND VIRGINITY [a]

1 7 Now for the questions about which you wrote. Yes, it is a good thing for a man
2 not to touch a woman; [b] · yet to avoid immorality every man should have his

5 a. 'His father's wife'. Marriage to a stepmother was forbidden by the OT (Lv 18:8) and Roman Law, but such a union was tolerated by the majority of rabbis in converted gentiles; and this may explain the indulgence of the Corinthian community, who were not subject to Roman civil law. The council of Jerusalem forbade such unions, Ac 15:20u.

b. var. 'of our Lord Jesus Christ'.

c. Paul is asking the church to confirm a decision he has already taken, and make it a verdict of the whole community in the name of Jesus; cf. Mt 18:18.

d. This is not precisely 'excommunication'; the word does not occur in the Bible (it does not exactly correspond to 'anathema', the curse of destruction 16:22h; Jos 6:17b). Punishment by exclusion was practised in the OT, in Judaism and at Qumran. The NT shows several cases where the motives and ways of carrying it out are different. Sometimes the guilty person is kept temporarily apart from the community, 5:2.9–13; 2 Th 3:6–14; Ti 3:10; cf. 1 Jn 5:16–17; 2 Jn 10; sometimes he is 'handed over', here and 1 Tm 1:20, to Satan, deprived of the support of God's people, the Church, and so left exposed to the power which God allows the Adversary, 2 Th 2:4, see Jb 1:6g; even in these extreme cases there is hope of repentance and final salvation, as here and 2 Th 3:15. Such a discipline presupposes that the Church has a certain degree of power over its members, see Mt 18:15–18,18j.

e. Yeast is here a symbol of corruption, as in Mt 16:6 and par.; Ga 5:9, and contrary to Mt 13:33 and par. Unleavened bread is the symbol of purity, v. 8. We have here a typical example of Pauline moral teaching: become what you are already. 'You are pure; purify yourselves.' Do in your lives what Christ did in you when you became Christians; cf. Rm 6:11–12; Col 3:3–5.

f. At Passover time, according to the Jewish ritual, all leavened bread was removed from the house (Ex 12:15), the paschal lamb was sacrificed (Ex 12:6) and unleavened bread was eaten (Ex 12:18–20). These were the symbolic preparations for the Christian mystery. By his sacrifice, Christ, the true paschal lamb, destroys the old leaven of sin and makes possible a life holy and pure, of which unleavened bread is the symbol. It is possible that this imagery was suggested to Paul by the time of year at which he was writing.

g. The 'pre-canonical' letter, see pp. 1854–5.

h. That is, a member of the Christian community, Ac 1:15s.

i. Those who do not belong to the community, cf. Mk 4:11; Col 4:5; 1 Th 4:12; 1 Tm 3:7. The expression is of Jewish origin, see Si, prologue v. 5.

6 a. In the following eight verses, Paul's disapproval of the Christians' recourse to the gentile magistrates is expressed with a sarcastic irony which contrasts with his more sober thoughts on gentile courts in Rm 13:1–7.

b. The gentile magistrates. Not that the Corinthian judges were more corrupt than others but they had not been 'justified' by God through faith in Christ. Hence Paul's play on words: how could they administer 'justice' for those who were 'justified', i.e. the consecrated people, or members of the Christian community?

c. Side by side with Christ, the sovereign judge.

d. That is, gentile judges, compare Mt 5:25; 18:17. Alternative translation: 'If you have matters in this life to be judged, bring them, etc . . .', that is, before more lowly Christians, who are perfectly capable of judging 'petty cases.'

e. Cf. 15:50; Ga 5:21; Ep 5:5; Rv 21:8; 22:15.

f. Note the trinitarian formula, see 2 Co 13:13e.

g. This may be one of Paul's own sayings which has been quoted against him.

h. A direct answer to the libertines, who maintained that sexual intercourse was as necessary to the body as food and drink. Paul replies that food and drink are linked to the present world and will disappear with it (v. 13); but, cf. 10:31, sexual conduct touches our belonging to Christ and must be such as to befit a member of Christ, vv. 15–17, see Ep 5:21–33,23f.

i. var. 'has raised'. This fits the theology of Col 2:12 better than that of Rm 6:4–8, and seems anachronistic in 1 Co.

j. One would expect 'is one body with him', but Paul is careful to avoid too materialistic an understanding of the physical realism of union to Christ (v. 15).

k. This contrast is fairly familiar to Semitic literature, cf. Mt 12:31; Lk 14:26; Rm 9:13. A debauchee sins more against his own body than one who commits another less physical sin; he turns his body away from its true vocation which is to make a relationship with a life other than his own.

l. See 3:16e; Jn 2:21i.

m. See Rm 3:24j.

7 a. Paul does not consider marriage and virginity in general, but gives answers, seemingly point by point, to the questions put to him. He considers in turn: married people (the Christian couple, vv. 1–11, marriage between Christian and gentile, vv. 12–16) and unmarried people (virgins, vv. 23–35, engaged couples, vv. 36–38, widows, vv. 39–40). The general principle of solution is given in vv. 17,20,24: Everyone should remain in the condition in which he was when called. But this plan is not inflexible: virginity is often mentioned with regard to marriage and vice versa. In this way Paul suggests that the two conditions are complementary and cannot be understood in isolation.

Ep 5:22–33,23f own wife and every woman her own husband. [c] ·The husband must give to his wife 3 what she has a right to expect, and so too the wife to her husband. ·The wife does 4 not have authority over her own body, but the husband does; and in the same way, the husband does not have authority over his own body, but the wife does. [d] ·You 5 must not deprive each other, except by mutual consent for a limited time, to leave Ex 19:15f yourselves free for prayer, and to come together again afterwards; otherwise Satan may take advantage of any lack of self-control to put you to the test. ·I am telling 6
Mt 19:12 you this as a concession, [e] not an order. ·I should still like everyone to be as I am 7 myself; but everyone has his own gift from God, one this kind and the next something different. [f]

To the unmarried [g] and to widows I say: it is good for them to stay as they are, 8 like me. [h] ·But if they cannot exercise self-control, let them marry, since it is better 9 to be married than to be burnt up.

Mt 5:32par.; 19:9 To the married I give this ruling, and this is not mine but the Lord's: a wife must 10
1 P 3:1 not be separated from her husband—·or if she has already left him, she must 11 remain unmarried or else be reconciled to her husband—and a husband must not divorce his wife.

For other cases these instructions are my own, not the Lord's. If one of the 12 brothers has a wife who is not a believer, and she is willing to stay with him, he may not divorce her; ·and if a woman has a husband who is not a believer and he is 13 willing to stay with her, she may not divorce her husband. ·You see, the unbelieving 14 husband is sanctified through his wife and the unbelieving wife is sanctified through the brother. If this were not so, your children would be unclean, whereas in fact they are holy. [i] ·But if the unbeliever chooses to leave, then let the separation take 15 place: [j] in these circumstances, the brother or sister is no longer tied. But God has called you [k] to live in peace: ·as a wife, how can you tell whether you are to be 16 the salvation of your husband; as a husband, how can you tell whether you are to be the salvation of your wife?

7:20,24 ·Anyway let everyone continue in the part which the Lord has allotted to him, as 17 he was when God called him. This is the rule that I give to all the churches. ·If a 18 1 M 1:15 man who is called has already been circumcised, then he must stay circumcised;
Rm 2:25–29 Ga 5:6;6:15 when an uncircumcised man is called, he may not be circumcised. ·To be circum- 19
cised is of no importance, and to be uncircumcised is of no importance; what is 7:17,24 important is the keeping of God's commandments. ·Everyone should stay in 20 whatever state he was in when he was called. ·So, if when you were called, you 21
Rm 6:15g Ep 6:5–9 were a slave, [l] do not think it matters—even if you have a chance of freedom, you
Col 3:22–4:1 should prefer to make full use of your condition as a slave. ·You see, anyone who 22 was called in the Lord while a slave, is a freeman of the Lord; and in the same way, Rm 6:18,22 •6:20 anyone who was free when called, is a slave of Christ. ·You have been bought at a 23
Rm 3:24j price; do not be slaves now to any human being. [m] ·Each one of you, brothers, is 24 7:17,20 to stay before God in the state in which you were called.

About people remaining virgin, [n] I have no directions from the Lord, but I give 25
my own opinion as a person who has been granted the Lord's mercy to be faithful.
Well then, because of the stress which is weighing upon us, [o] the right thing seems 26 to be this: it is good for people to stay as they are. ·If you are joined to a wife, do 27 not seek to be released; if you are freed of a wife, do not look for a wife.
However, if you do get married, that is not a sin, and it is not sinful for a virgin to 28 enter upon marriage. But such people will have the hardships consequent on human nature, [p] and I would like you to be without that.

2 Co 6:2a What I mean, brothers, is that the time has become limited, [q] and from now on, 29
2 Co 6:8–10 those who have wives should live as though they had none; ·and those who mourn 30 as though they were not mourning; those who enjoy life as though they did not enjoy it; those who have been buying property as though they had no possessions; and those who are involved with the world as though they were people not 31 1 P 4:7 1 Jn 2:16–17 engrossed in it. [r] Because this world as we know it is passing away.
Mt 6:25 I should like you to have your minds free from all worry. The unmarried man 32

33 gives his mind to the Lord's affairs and to how he can please the Lord; ·but the man who is married gives his mind to the affairs of this world and to how he can 34 please his wife, and he is divided in mind. ·So, too, the unmarried woman, and the virgin, gives her mind to the Lord's affairs [s] and to being holy in body and spirit; but the married woman gives her mind to the affairs of this world and to how she 35 can please her husband. ·I am saying this only to help you, not to put a bridle on you, but so that everything is as it should be, and you are able to give your undivided attention to the Lord.
36 If someone with strong passions thinks that he is behaving badly towards his fiancée and that things should take their due course, he should follow his desires.
37 There is no sin in it; they should marry. ·But if he stands firm in his resolution, without any compulsion but with full control of his own will, and decides to let her 38 remain as his fiancée, then he is acting well. ·In other words, he who marries his fiancée [t] is doing well, and he who does not, better still.
39 A wife is tied as long as her husband is alive. But if the husband dies, she is free Rm 7:2 40 to marry anybody she likes, only it must be in the Lord. [u] ·She would be happier if she stayed as she is, to my way of thinking—and I believe that I too have the Spirit 2:16 of God.

B: FOOD OFFERED TO FALSE GODS [a]

General principles

1 8 Now about food which has been dedicated to false gods. We are well aware that all of us have knowledge; but while knowledge puffs up, love is what builds Rm 15:2

b. Or 'Now for the questions about which you wrote, namely that it is a good thing for a man not to touch a woman.' In any case Paul recognises the validity of this opinion for the unmarried (it is better that they should remain so, v. 8), but contests its application to married people, for whom he does not recommend continence, vv. 2–5.

c. An invitation to married people to make use of marriage, rather than advice to those who have not received the vocation to celibacy.

d. Every selfish use of marriage is ruled out. What is demanded is the gift of self; in Ep 5:25 it is the example of Christ in his sacrifice which is put before married people.

e. This concession applies to periods of abstinence within marriage. For others the concession is to marry, see v. 7.

f. For Paul the distinction of virginity from marriage is not that it is a special gift from God, for both conditions are gifts from God.

g. Paul includes in this category separated couples, see v. 11.

h. The expression recalls Gn 2:18 and seems to contradict it, 'It is not good for man to be alone.' But this contradiction is only superficial: for the Christian united to Christ and to his brothers, the solitude of Adam is an impossibility.

i. 'Sanctification' and 'holiness' here, as frequently in the Bible, mean not so much the perfection of life as its precondition—dedication to God and adoption by him, see Ac 9:13g. By marrying one of God's people a pagan is brought into a special relationship with the true God and with his Church. The children born of such a marriage are members of the holy people by right. It is to be noted that no mention is made of baptism.

j. The same word as at v. 11, where remarriage is explicitly excluded; but in this case Paul does not explicitly envisage a new marriage.

k. var. 'us'.

l. lit. 'rather make good use'. Some supply 'of the chance', but this does not fit the context.

m. Spiritually, by their point of view and morals.

n. This applies to both sexes.

o. The 'time of troubles' between the first coming of Christ and his return, see 2 Co 6:2a.

p. Not the trials of concupiscence, 7:2,9, but the upsets of married life.

q. A technical term: 'time has been put under full sail'. Whatever the interval before the parousía, it loses its importance in view of the fact that, in the risen Christ, the world to come is already present.

r. A piece of rhetoric where the overall effect is more important than the individual elements. Paul does not recommend indifference with regard to earthly things, he wishes only to prevent his readers from becoming engrossed in them and forgetting that they have a value only relatively to Christ and his coming Kingdom.

s. var. v. 33: '. . . what pleases his wife; v. 34: And there is a difference between the married and the unmarried woman. The unmarried woman gives her mind to the Lord's affairs.'

t. 'his fiancée', lit. 'his virgin'. • The old interpretation of this text sees in it the dilemma of conscience for a father wondering whether he should dispose of his daughter's hand in marriage. The translation then reads

> Still, if there is anyone who feels that it would not be fair to his daughter to let her grow too old for marriage, and that he should do something about it, he is free to do as he likes: he is not sinning if there is a marriage. On the other hand, if someone has firmly made his mind up, without any compulsion and in complete freedom of choice, to keep his daughter as she is, he will be doing a good thing. In other words, the man who sees that his daughter is married has done a good thing but the man who keeps his daughter unmarried has done something even better.

But this interpretation raises such difficulties that it is progressively being abandoned. It is surely a question not of girls who put their virginity under the protection of a trustworthy man with whom they live in dangerous intimacy, but of fiancées. After speaking of married people and of virgins, and before raising the question of widows, Paul discusses those who were engaged at the time of their conversion, to whom the thrice-repeated principle (vv. 17,20,24) 'Let everyone stay as he was when he received the call' obviously cannot apply. Paul's solution agrees with what he said in vv. 8–9.

u. She should marry a Christian.

8 a. When food, especially meat, was offered to the gods, part of it went to the priests and the donor, and what remained might be eaten at a sacred meal or might be sold in the shops and markets. The Corinthians were divided on this matter: could one eat such food without compromising with up. ·Someone may think that he has full knowledge of something and yet not 2 know it as well as he should; ·but someone who loves God is known by God. 3

On the subject of eating foods dedicated to false gods, we are well aware that 4
Dt 6:4b none of the false gods exists in reality and that there is no God other than the One.
Though there are so-called gods, in the heavens or on earth—and there are plenty 5
Ex 20:2–3.3b of gods and plenty of lords [b]—·yet for us there is only one God, the Father from 6
Jn 1:3
Rm 11:36 whom all things come and for whom we exist, and one Lord, Jesus Christ,
Ep 4:5–6
Col 1:16–17 through whom all things come and through whom we exist. [c]
1 Tm 2:5
Heb 1:2

The claims of knowledge

Rm 14:15:1–2.7 However, not everybody has this knowledge. There are some in whose consciences 7 1 Th 5:14 false gods still play such a part [d] that they take the food as though it had been dedicated to a god; then their conscience being vulnerable, is defiled, ·But of 8
Rm 14:17 course food cannot make us acceptable to God; [e] we lose nothing by not eating it,
Col 2:21seq.
Heb 13:9 we gain nothing by eating it. ·Only be careful that this freedom of yours does not in 9
Rm 6:15g any way turn into an obstacle to trip those who are vulnerable. ·Suppose someone 10
Rm 14:15 sees you, who have the knowledge, sitting eating in the temple of some false god, do you not think that his conscience, vulnerable as it is, may be encouraged to eat foods dedicated to false gods? ·And then it would be through your knowledge that 11
Mt 10:40+; 18:6+ this brother for whom Christ died, vulnerable as he is, has been lost. ·So, sinning 12
Ac 9:5 against your brothers and wounding their vulnerable consciences, you would be sinning against Christ. ·That is why, if food can be the cause of a brother's downfall, 13 Rm 14:13, 20seq. I will never eat meat any more, rather than cause my brother's downfall.

Paul invokes his own example [a]

Rm 1:1b;6:15g 9 Am I not free? Am I not an apostle? Have I not seen Jesus our Lord? Are you 1
2 Co 12:12 15:8 not my work in the Lord? ·Even if to others I am not an apostle, to you at any 2
Ac 9:17i rate I am, for you are the seal of my apostolate in the Lord. ·To those who want to 3
2 Co 3:3
Mt 8:14 interrogate me, this is my answer. ·Have we not every right to eat and drink? [b] 4
Lk 8:2–3 And every right to be accompanied by a Christian wife, [c] like the other 5
Mt 8:14; 12:46p apostles, like the brothers of the Lord, and like Cephas? ·Are Barnabas and I the 6
Jn 1:42
Ac 4:36p only ones who have no right to stop working? ·What soldier would ever serve in 7 Dt 20:6 the army at his own expense? And who is there who would plant a vineyard and Ac 18:3d
2 Tm 2:6 never eat the fruit from it; or would keep a flock and not feed on the milk from his flock? ·Do not think that this is merely worldly wisdom. Does not the Law say 8 Dt 25:4 exactly the same? It is written in the Law of Moses: ·You must not muzzle an ox 9
1 Tm 5:18
Lk 12:6.24 when it is treading out the corn. Is it about oxen that God is concerned here, ·or is 10 10:6d it not said entirely for our sake? Clearly it was written for our sake, because it is right that whoever ploughs should plough with the expectation of having his share, Rm 15:27 and whoever threshes should thresh with the expectation of having his share. ·If 11
we have sown the seed of spiritual things in you, is it too much to ask that we should receive from you a crop of material things? ·Others have been given such rights 12 over you and do we not deserve more? In fact, we have never exercised this right; 4:12 on the contrary, we have put up with anything rather than obstruct the gospel of Christ in any way. ·Do you not realise that the ministers in the Temple get their 13
Dt 18:1a food from the Temple, and those who serve at the altar can claim their share from Mt 10:10par. the altar? ·In the same way, the Lord gave the instruction that those who preach 14 the gospel should get their living from the gospel.

However, I have never availed myself of any rights of this kind; and I have not 15 written this to secure such treatment for myself; I would rather die than that . . .
No one shall take from me this ground of boasting. [d] ·In fact, preaching the gospel 16 gives me nothing to boast of, for I am under compulsion and I should be in trouble
Ac 4:20;9:15–16; 22:14–15; 26:16–18 if I failed to do it. ·If I did it on my own initiative I would deserve a reward; but if I 17
Ga 2:7 do it under compulsion I am simply accepting a task entrusted to me. ·What reward 18 2 Co 11:7 do I have, then? That in my preaching I offer the gospel free of charge to avoid using the rights which the gospel allows me.

19 So though I was not a slave to any human being, I put myself in slavery to all Rm 6:15g
20 people, to win as many as I could. ·To the Jews I made myself as a Jew, to win the Mt 20:26par.
Jews; to those under the Law as one under the Law (though I am not), in order to 21 win those under the Law; ·to those outside the Law as one outside the Law, though
I am not outside the Law but under Christ's law,[c] to win those outside the Law. Ac 21:23–26 Ga 4:4–5+ 22 To the weak, I made myself weak, to win the weak. I accommodated myself to 2 Co 11:29 people in all kinds of different situations, so that by all possible means I might bring 23 some to salvation. ·All this I do for the sake of the gospel, that I may share its benefits with others.
24 Do you not realise that, though all the runners in the stadium take part in the Ga 5:7d
25 race, only one of them gets the prize? Run like that—to win. ·Every athlete Ws 4:2c;5:16 Ph 3:14 2 Tm 4:7–8 Jm 1:12 1 P 5:4 Rv 2:10;3:11 concentrates completely on training, and this is to win a wreath that will wither, 26 whereas ours will never wither. ·So that is how I run, not without a clear goal;
27 and how I box, not wasting blows on air. ·I punish my body and bring it under control, to avoid any risk that, having acted as herald for others, I myself may be disqualified.[f]

A warning and the lessons of Israel's history[a]

1 10 I want you to be quite certain, brothers, that our ancestors all had the cloud Ex 13:21;14:22
2 over them and all passed through the sea. ·In the cloud and in the sea they Ex 16:4–35
3, 4 were all baptised into Moses; ·all ate the same spiritual food ·and all drank the Ex 17:5–6 Nb 20:7–11 same spiritual drink,[b] since they drank from the spiritual rock which followed 5 them,[c] and that rock was Christ. ·In spite of this, God was not pleased with most of 6 them, and their corpses were scattered over the desert. ·Now these happenings were Nb 14:16 Heb 3:17
examples,[d] for our benefit, so that we should never set our hearts, as they did, on Nb 11:4.34 7 evil things;· nor are you to worship false gods, as some of them did, as it says in scripture: The people sat down to eat and drink, and afterwards got up to amuse Ex 32:6
8 themselves. ·Nor, again, are we to fall into sexual immorality; some of them did Nb 25:1–9 9 this, and twenty-three thousand met their downfall in one day. ·And we are not to Nb 21:5–6 put the Lord[e] to the test; some of them put him to the test, and they were killed by 10 snakes. ·Never complain; some of them complained, and they were killed by the Nb 17:6–15
11 Destroyer. ·Now all these things happened to them by way of example, and they Ex 12:23j 10:6d were described in writing to be a lesson for us, to whom it has fallen to live in the Rm 15:4

idolatry? Paul answers as in Rm 14–15: the Christian is free, but love requires him to respect the susceptibilities of his brothers who have scruples. He does not mention the decree of Jerusalem, Ac 15:20.29, and indeed seems ignorant of it. For a discussion of the problems see Ac 15:1a.

b. Paul is simply stating a fact. The 'gods' are the mythical gods of Olympus, the 'lords' are divinised human beings.

c. Or possibly 'only one God, the Father, from whom all things (come) and to whom we (go), and one Lord, Jesus Christ, through whom all things (come) and through whom we (go to the Father).' The parentheses indicate words supplied to make this sentence, devoid of verbs, intelligible. Note the affirmation of the pre-existence of Christ, see Ph 2:6f; Col 1:15d.

d. var. 'because of the conception of false gods which they still have'.

e. Or 'bring us to judgement before God'.

9 a. Paul has been showing how, though free to do whatever he thinks best about food dedicated to false gods, a Christian should be guided by love. There follows a fairly long description of how he himself has given up some of his rights as an apostle, out of consideration for others.

b. At the expense of the Christian congregations.

c. Or 'a wife who is a believer'. In any case, for the work of attending to their material welfare, married apostles like Cephas (Peter) presumably took their wives.

d. lit. 'I would rather die than . . . No one shall take away something that I can boast of.' Aposiopesis.

e. In the sense explained in 11:1 and Ga 2:20m.

f. This passage uses the sporting vocabulary of the day. Paul invites 'the strong' to imitate him by sacrificing their rights for love, in order to receive a heavenly reward, just as athletes deprive themselves of everything to win the prize.

10 a. vv. 1–13 are a commentary on 'disqualified', in the previous sentence. The examples from Israel's history show there is a real danger of being rejected. The cause of the disqualification was arrogance and presumption, so the 'strong' should beware of these vices.

b. Paul recalls the cloud and the passing through the Sea of Reeds (or Red Sea), images of baptism, and manna and water from the rock, images of the Eucharist, to spur the Corinthians to prudence and humility. The Hebrews in the desert enjoyed, in some sense, the same privileges as themselves, but nevertheless most of them failed to please God, v. 5.

c. According to a rabbinic tradition, the rock of Nb 20:8 followed Israel in the desert. For Paul this rock symbolises the pre-existent Christ already active in Israel's history.

d. The purpose in the events, intended by God, was to prefigure in the history of Israel the spiritual realities of the messianic age (which are known as 'antitypes', 1 P 3:21, but see Heb 9:24). These 'typological' (or less accurately, 'allegorical', Ga 4:24) meanings in the OT narrative, though not consciously intended by the authors, are nevertheless valid and necessary for the understanding of scripture intended by God, the author of scripture as a whole. Typological meanings of OT events are often pointed out by the authors of the NT, as though the sole purpose of Israel's written history had been to provide types for the instruction of Christians. Paul does this, v. 11 and 9:9; Rm 4:23 seq.; 5:14; 15:4; cf. 2 Tm 3:16, and some books like John and Hebrews are based on a typological interpretation of the OT.

e. var. 'Christ'.

last days of the ages. ·Everyone, no matter how firmly he thinks he is standing, 12
Ga 6:1 must be careful he does not fall. ·None of the trials which have come upon you is 13 more than a human being can stand. You can trust that God will not let you be put 1:9f to the test[f] beyond your strength, but with any trial will also provide a way out by Si 15:11–20 Mt 6:13;26:41 Jm 1:13–14 enabling you to put up with it.

Sacrificial feasts. No compromise with idolatry

For that reason, my dear friends, have nothing to do with the worship of false gods. 14
I am talking to you as sensible people; weigh up for yourselves what I have to 15 11:23–26+ Mt 26:26–28 par.+ Ac 2:42+ say. ·The blessing-cup,[g] which we bless, is it not a sharing in the blood of Christ; 16 and the loaf of bread which we break, is it not a sharing in the body of Christ?
And as there is one loaf, so we, although there are many of us, are one single 17
12:12i body, for we all share in the one loaf.[h] ·Now compare the natural people of 18
Lv 3:1a Israel:[i] is it not true that those who eat the sacrifices share the altar? ·What does 19 this mean? That the dedication of food to false gods amounts to anything? Or that false gods themselves amount to anything? ·No, it does not; simply that when 20
Dt 32:17 pagans sacrifice, what is sacrificed by them is sacrificed to demons who are not God.
2 Co 6:14–16 I do not want you to share with demons. ·You cannot drink the cup of the Lord 21 and the cup of demons as well; you cannot have a share at the Lord's table and the Dt 4:2f demons' table as well.[j] ·Do we really want to arouse the Lord's jealousy;[k] are we 22 stronger than he is?

Food sacrificed to idols. Practical solutions

6:12g •Rm 14:19;15:2 10:33 Ph 2:4 'Everything is permissible'; maybe so, but not everything does good. True, every- 23 thing is permissible, but not everything builds people up. ·Nobody should be 24 looking for selfish advantage, but everybody for someone else's. ·Eat anything that 25 is sold in butchers' shops; there is no need to ask questions for conscience's sake, Ps 24:1 since To the Lord belong the earth and all it contains. ·If an unbeliever invites you 26, 27
Col 3:17 1 P 4:11 to a meal, go if you want to, and eat whatever is put before you; you need not ask questions of conscience first. ·But if someone says to you, 'This food has been 28 offered in sacrifice,' do not eat it, out of consideration for the person that told you, for conscience's sake—·not your own conscience, I mean, but the other person's. 29
Why should my freedom be governed by somebody else's conscience?[l] ·Provided 30 that I accept it with gratitude, why should I be blamed for eating food for which I give thanks? ·Whatever you eat, then, or drink, and whatever else you do, do it all 31 9:19–23 for the glory of God. ·Never be a cause of offence, either to Jews or to Greeks or to 32
1:2a •Rm 15:2 •2 Co 10:24+ the Church of God, ·just as I try to accommodate everybody in everything, not 33 looking for my own advantage, but for the advantage of everybody else, so that they may be saved.

2 Th 3:7b 11 Take me as your pattern, just as I take Christ for mine. 1

C: DECORUM IN PUBLIC WORSHIP

Women's behaviour at services

I congratulate you for remembering me so consistently and for maintaining the 2
15:1–3 1 Th 2:13d; 4:1–2 2 Th 2:15l traditions exactly as I passed them on to you. ·But I should like you to understand 3 •Gn 3:16 Ep 5:23c Col 1:18+ •3:23 that the head of every man is Christ, the head of woman is man, and the head of Christ is God. ·For any man to pray or to prophesy with his head covered shows 4 disrespect for his head.[a] ·And for a woman to pray or prophesy with her head 5 Ac 11:27m 2 Co 3:18 11:15 uncovered shows disrespect for her head; it is exactly the same as if she had her hair shaved off. ·Indeed, if a woman does go without a veil, she should have her 6 hair cut off too; but if it is a shameful thing for a woman to have her hair cut off or shaved off, then she should wear a veil.
Gn 1:26–27 But for a man it is not right to have his head covered, since he is the image of 7

8 God and reflects God's glory; but woman is the reflection of man's glory. ·For man
9 did not come from woman; no, woman came from man; ·nor was man created for Gn 2:21–23
10 the sake of woman, but woman for the sake of man: ·and this is why it is right for a woman to wear on her head a sign of the authority over her, because of the angels. [b] 14:34 11 However, in the Lord, though woman is nothing without man, man is nothing 12 without woman; ·and though woman came from man, so does every man come from a woman, and everything comes from God.
13 Decide for yourselves: does it seem fitting that a woman should pray to God
14 without a veil? ·Does not nature itself teach you that if a man has long hair, it is a 15 disgrace to him, ·but when a woman has long hair, it is her glory? After all, her hair was given to her to be a covering.
16 If anyone wants to be contentious, I say that we have no such custom, nor do any of the churches of God. 1:2a;4:17;7:17;14:33

The Lord's Supper

17 Now that I am on the subject of instructions, I cannot congratulate you on the 18 meetings you hold; they do more harm than good. ·In the first place, I hear that when you all come together in your assembly, there are separate factions among 1:10 19 you, and to some extent I believe it. ·It is no bad thing, either, that there should be differing groups among you so that those who are to be trusted among you can be 20 clearly recognised. ·So, when you meet together, it is not the Lord's Supper that 21 you eat; ·for when the eating begins, each one of you has his own supper [c] first, and 22 there is one going hungry while another is getting drunk. ·Surely you have homes for doing your eating and drinking in? Or have you such disregard for God's assembly that you can put to shame those who have nothing? What am I to say to 1:2a you? Congratulate you? On this I cannot congratulate you.
23 For the tradition I received from the Lord [d] and also handed on to you is that on 10:16–17;15:3+ 24 the night he was betrayed, the Lord Jesus took some bread, ·and after he had given ‖Mt 26:26–29 ‖Mk 14:22–25 ‖Lk 22:14–20
thanks, he broke it, and he said, 'This is my body, which is for you; [e] do this in 25 remembrance of me.' ·And in the same way, with the cup after supper, saying, ·Ex 12:14 Dt 16:3 Ex 24:8e Jr 31:31 Heb 8:6–13
'This cup is the new covenant in my blood. Whenever you drink it, do this as a 26 memorial of me.' [f] ·Whenever you eat this bread, then, and drink this cup, you are 16:22 Rv 22:17,20 27 proclaiming the Lord's death until he comes. ·Therefore anyone who eats the

f. In the NT, the aim of being put to the test is that the reality behind the appearance may be found. God 'tempts' someone although he knows the heart, 2 Ch 32:31; Jr 11:20, to give that person the chance to reveal the very deepest attitudes, Gn 22:1a; Ex 16:4; Dt 8:12.16; 13:4; Jdt 8:25–27. More often, this testing is initiated by external circumstances, or by the Devil, the 'Tempter', 7:5; Jb 1:8–12; Mt 4:1 and par.; 1 Th 3:5; Rv 2:10, or by greed, 1 Tm 6:9; Jm 1:13–14, which gives the word the sense of a seduction, an attraction towards evil, over which, however, the faithful can triumph with God's help, Si 44:20; Mt 6:13seq.; 26:41seq.; Lk 8:13; 1 P 1:6–7. Jesus allowed himself to be tempted in order to emphasise his submission to the will of the Father, Mt 4:1 and par.; 26:39–41 and par.; Heb 2:18; 4:15. Anyone who 'tempts' God, however, is guilty of blasphemy, Ex 17:2.7; Ac 15:10k.

g. i.e. the cup of wine for which we thank God, like Christ at the Last Supper.

h. By sharing in the Body of Christ, Christians are united to Christ and to one another. The Eucharist makes the unity of the Church in Christ a reality, see 12:12j.

i. The Israel of history, cf. Rm 7:5, as compared with the Israel 'of God', Ga 6:16, the true Israel, the Christian community.

j. In vv. 16–18, eucharistic communion with Christ is compared with the sacrificial meals of the OT, at which the participants were in communion with the altar. Here the table of the Eucharist is contrasted with the table of the sacred meals which conclude pagan sacrifices. For Paul, the Eucharist can clearly be regarded as a sacrificial meal.

k. The jealousy of God, Ex 20:5; Dt 4:24, which the OT compares with the jealousy of a husband for his wife, Ho 2:21seq., 21u.v., is touched on in several places in the NT. Here the word has its full meaning: worship of the true God must exclude all 'communion' with idolatry, and it implies a loyalty to be preserved at all costs, 2 Co 11:2, and zeal in the service of the faith, Ac 22:3; Rm 10:2; Ga 1:13–14; Ph 3:6.

l. One should not do violence to the erroneous conscience of another, but also not submit to its false judgement.

11 a. That is, Christ, from whom he appears to hide instead of 'reflecting his brightness with his face unveiled', 2 Co 3:18. Paul is playing here on the two meanings of the Greek word kephale, 'head' or 'master'. His argument is so directly based on the customs to which he is used (v. 16) that his conclusions must be understood in that context.

b. The guardians of order and decorum in public worship, according to a Jewish interpretation of the end of Dt 23:15 (Qumran).

c. Their 'own supper' is contrasted with the 'Lord's Supper' of v. 20, which demands a common celebration in love rather than a selfish division into groups.

d. Not by a direct revelation, but from a tradition going back to the Lord. Here, as in 15:3–7, see 15:3b, Paul is using the technical terminology of the rabbis for the passing on of tradition; he seems to be quoting the earliest Christian tradition about the Eucharist, couched in terms and phrases untypical of Paul.

e. var. 'This is my body, broken for you,' 'given for you'.

f. Paul's text is close to that of Lk 22:19–20.

bread or drinks the cup of the Lord unworthily is answerable for the body and blood of the Lord.

Everyone is to examine himself and only then eat of the bread or drink from the 28 cup; ·because a person who eats and drinks [g] without recognising the body [h] is 29 eating and drinking his own condemnation. ·That is why many of you are weak and 30 ill and a good number have died. [i] ·If we were critical of ourselves we would not be 31
Dt 8:5+ condemned, ·but when we are judged by the Lord, we are corrected by the Lord to 32
save us from being condemned along with the world. [j]

So then, my brothers, when you meet for the Meal, wait for each other; ·anyone 33, 34 who is hungry should eat at home. Then your meeting will not bring your condemnation. The other matters I shall arrange when I come.

Spiritual gifts [a]

12 About the gifts of the Spirit, brothers, I want you to be quite certain. ·You 1, 2 remember that, when you were pagans, you were irresistibly drawn to inarticulate heathen gods. [b] ·Because of that, I want to make it quite clear to you 3
Jn 14:26r
1 Jn 4:1–3 that no one who says 'A curse on Jesus' can be speaking in the Spirit of God, and Ac 2:21m,36w
Rm 10:9
Ph 2:11 nobody is able to say, 'Jesus is Lord' except in the Holy Spirit.

The variety and the unity of gifts

There are many different gifts, but it is always the same Spirit; ·there are many 4, 5 different ways of serving, but it is always the same Lord. ·There are many different 6 forms of activity, but in everybody it is the same God who is at work in them all. [c] 12:28–30
Ac 1:8j The particular manifestation of the Spirit granted to each one is to be used for the 7
Rm 12:6–8 general good. ·To one is given from the Spirit the gift of utterance expressing 8 wisdom; [d] to another the gift of utterance expressing knowledge, [e] in accordance with the same Spirit; ·to another, faith, [f] from the same Spirit; and to another, the 9 gifts of healing, through this one Spirit; ·to another, the working of miracles; to 10
Ac 2:4+;
11:27m another, prophecy; to another, the power of distinguishing spirits; [g] to one, the gift
1 Jn 4:1–3 of different tongues [h] and to another, the interpretation of tongues. ·But at work 11 in all these is one and the same Spirit, distributing them at will to each individual.

The analogy of the body [i]

Rm 12:4–5 For as with the human body which is a unity although it has many parts—all the 12 parts of the body, though many, still making up one single body—so it is with Ga 3:28
Ep 4:4–6
Col 3:11 Christ. [j] ·We were baptised into one body in a single Spirit, Jews as well as Greeks, 13 ·Phm 16f slaves as well as free men, and we were all given the same Spirit to drink. ·And 14 indeed the body consists not of one member but of many. ·If the foot were to say, 15
'I am not a hand and so I do not belong to the body,' it does not belong to the body any the less for that. ·Or if the ear were to say, 'I am not an eye, and so I do not 16 belong to the body,' that would not stop its belonging to the body. ·If the whole 17 body were just an eye, how would there be any hearing? If the whole body were hearing, how would there be any smelling?

As it is, God has put all the separate parts into the body as he chose. ·If they 18, 19 were all the same part, how could it be a body? ·As it is, the parts are many but the 20 body is one. ·The eye cannot say to the hand, 'I have no need of you,' and nor can 21
the head say to the feet, 'I have no need of you.'

What is more, it is precisely the parts of the body that seem to be the weakest 22 which are the indispensable ones. ·It is the parts of the body which we consider 23 least dignified that we surround with the greatest dignity; and our less presentable parts are given greater presentability ·which our presentable parts do not need. 24 God has composed the body so that greater dignity is given to the parts which were without it, ·and so that there may not be disagreements inside the body but each 25
Rm 12:15 part may be equally concerned for all the others. ·If one part is hurt, all the parts 26 share its pain. And if one part is honoured, all the parts share its joy.

12:7–11 Now Christ's body is yourselves, each of you with a part to play in the whole. 27

28 And those whom God has appointed in the Church are, first apostles, secondly prophets, thirdly teachers[k]. . . after them, miraculous powers, then gifts of heal- 29 ing, helpful acts,[l] guidance,[m] various kinds of tongues. 30 Are all of them apostles? Or all prophets? Or all teachers? Or all miracle-workers? Do all have the gifts of healing? Do all of them speak in tongues and all interpret them? ▶Rm 12:6–8 ▶Ep 4:11 Rm 1:1b Ac 11:27m

The order of importance in spiritual gifts. Hymn to Love[n]

31 Set your mind on the higher gifts. And now I am going to put before you the best way of all.

1 13 Though I command languages both human and angelic—if I speak without love,[a] I am no more than a gong booming or a cymbal clashing.

g. add. 'unworthily'.

h. var. 'The Body of the Lord'. This v. is most naturally taken as referring to failures to recognise Christ's presence and activity in the Eucharist (cf. v. 27). However, the emphasis in this letter on the Church as the Body of Christ suggests that there may be also a reference to selfish individuals who ignore needy fellow-members of the Christian family (cf. vv. 11 and 33).

i. Evidently Paul considers the sickness and death of some Corinthians to have been a punishment for irreverence to 'the body and blood of the Lord'.

j. The punishments are sent as a lesson so that people may reform themselves before the Last Judgement. They would not have been necessary if the guilty person had examined and corrected himself, particularly on the occasions of sharing in the Body of Christ (v. 31).

12 a. Chapters 12 to 14 deal with making the proper use of the gifts of the Spirit (charisms), granted to the community as visible evidence of the presence of the Spirit and to help the young community whose faith had not transformed a mentality shot through with paganism. The Corinthian Christians have been tempted to value and develop the more spectacular gifts, and to exercise them at the assemblies of the church in an undisciplined atmosphere reminiscent of certain pagan ceremonies. Paul's response is to declare that charisms are given for the good of the community; they should never give rise to the forming of rival parties (ch. 12). In fact, Christian love surpasses all other gifts (ch. 13). Finally, he explains that the hierarchy of charisms is established according to the contribution that each of them makes to the building up of the community (ch. 14).

b. There is probably an allusion here to the incoherence and disorderliness which were held to be a sign of the authenticity of certain pagan cults; this is contrasted in v. 3 with the meetings of the Christians, at which the content of the sermon or prophecy, not the mere appearance of being inspired, is the sign of its truth.

c. Note again the triadic formulation, cf. 6:11; 2 Co 13:13e.

d. Probably the gift of preaching the deepest Christian truths about God and God's life in us: this is the 'perfect teaching' of Heb 6:1; see also 2 Co 2:6–16.

e. The gift of preaching elementary Christian truths: 'the elementary teaching concerning Christ' of Heb 6:1.

f. An unusually intense faith, cf. 13:2.

g. The gift of knowing if charismata were spiritual, natural, or evil.

h. The gift of 'tongues', or glossolalia, is the power of praying, especially praising God, under the action of the Spirit and under the pressure of ecstasy, by making sounds which, though continuous and syllabled, are not intelligible as language. This is what Paul calls 'speaking in tongues' (14:5,6,18,23,39) or 'speaking in a tongue' (14:2,4,9,13, 14,19,26,27). This gift was one of the first visible effects of the outpouring of the Spirit in the primitive Church. See Ac 2:3–4; 10:44–46; 11:15; 19:6.

i. Paul uses the classical analogy of society as a single body with many parts, but his concept of the Body of Christ goes back to the memory of his own conversion, see Ac 9:4seq.; Ga 1:15seq., to faith in Jesus whose body, raised from the dead and given life by the Spirit, Rm 1:4c, became the 'first-fruits' of a new creation, 1 Co 15:23. The words spoken by the Lord at Paul's conversion, 'I am Jesus, whom you are persecuting,' imply that Christians are identified with the risen Christ. In Paul's writings, Christians are bodily united with the risen body, Rm 8:11, by baptism, 1 Co 12:13; cf. Rm 6:4a, and the Eucharist, 1 Co 10:16seq., which make them parts of Christ's body, 1 Co 6:15, united in such a way that he and they together form the Body of Christ (what is now called 'the mystical body'), 1 Co 12:27; Rm 12:4seq. This wholly realistic teaching of 1 Co is taken up later on and developed in the Letters of the Captivity, where the basic idea remains the same, i.e. human beings are reconciled to God by becoming parts of, Ep 5:30, Christ's body which was physically dead but is now spiritually alive, Ep 2:14–18; Col 1:22. The stress, however, is on the unity of the Body that brings all Christians together in one Spirit, Ep 4:4; Col 3:15, and on the identification of the Body with the Church, Ep 1:22seq.; 5:23; Col 1:18,24. Having thus personified the body, Ep 4:12seq.; Col 2:19, Paul asserts that Christ is its Head, Ep 1:22; 4:15seq.; 5:23; Col 1:18; 2:19 (cf. 1 Co 12:21). This assertion probably developed from the concept of Christ as Head of all Powers, Col 2:10. Eventually, in its widest sense, Paul includes in his concept of the Body the entire cosmos as unified under the Lord Christ, Ep 1:23t; see Jn 2:21i.

j. As the human body gives plurality of its parts, so Christ, the principle of unity in his Church, brings all Christians into the unity of his Body.

k. The regular teachers appointed for each separate church, see Ac 13:1a.

l. lit. 'helpings': possibly those who collected or dispensed grants to the poor; or persons appointed to assist regularly at the meetings.

m. The gift of administering and directing the churches.

n. Three parts: superiority of love (vv. 1–3), its works (vv. 4–7), its never-ending duration (vv. 8–13). It is about love between brothers. Love for God is not directly envisaged, but is present implicitly, especially in v. 13, in connection with faith and hope.

13 a. Love (agape) has no possessiveness and is not a desire for satisfaction: it wants to satisfy the other. The supreme love is God's love for us, 1 Jn 4:19, that made him give his Son so that sinners might be reconciled, Rm 5:8; 8:32–39; 2 Co 5:18–21; Ep 2:4–7; see Jn 3:16seq.; 1 Jn 4:9–10, and become not only God's chosen ones, Ep 1:4, but God's sons, 1 Jn 3:1. This love is attributed to God (the Father), Rm 5:5; 8:39; 2 Co 13:11,13; Ph 2:1; 2 Th 2:16; cf. 1 Jn 2:15, but as it is identical with God's nature, 1 Jn 4:7seq., 16, it is found in the Son, Rm 8:35,37,39; 2 Co 5:14; Ep 3:19; 1 Tm 1:14; 2 Tm 1:13, so the Son loves the Father as the Son is loved by the Father, Ep 1:6; Col 1:13; cf. Jn 3:35; 10:17; 14:31, and as the Father loves us, so the Son loves the human race, Jn 13:1,34; 14:21; 15:9, which he was sent to save, 2 Co 5:14seq.; Ga 2:20; Ep 5:2,25; 1 Tm 1:14seq.; cf. Jn 15:13; 1 Jn 3:16; Rv 1:5. This is the same love that the Holy Spirit, Rm 15:30; Col 1:8, gives Christians, Rm 5:5; cf. Ga 5:22. To love friends and enemies, Mt 5:43–48 and par., is not only the necessary consequence of God's love for us, but actually proves that God loves us, 1 Jn 3:17; 4:20seq., and it is the new commandment laid down by Christ, Jn 13:34seq.; 15:12,17; 1 Jn 3:23; etc., and constantly emphasised by his disciples, Rm 13:8; Ga 5:13seq.; Ep 1:15; Ph 2:2seq.; Col 1:4; 1 Th 3:12; 2 Th 1:3; Phm 5–7; cf. Jm 2:8; 1 P 1:22; 2:17; 4:8; 1 Jn 2:10; 3:10seq., 14; etc. This is how Paul loves the Christians of his own churches, 2 Co 2:4; 12:15;

Mt 7:22 And though I have the power of prophecy, to penetrate all mysteries and 2
Mt 17:20 knowledge, and though I have all the faith necessary to move mountains—if I am
Jm 2:14–17 Mt 6:2 without love, I am nothing. ·Though I should give away to the poor all that I 3
Dn 3:28 (95) possess, and even give up my body to be burned[b]– if I am without love, it will do me no good whatever.

Rm 12:9–10; 13:8–10 1 Th 5:14–15 Love is always patient[c] and kind; love is never jealous; love is not boastful or 4 conceited, ·it is never rude and never seeks its own advantage, it does not take 5 offence or store up grievances. ·Love does not rejoice at wrongdoing, but finds its 6 Pr 10:12 joy in the truth. ·It is always ready to make allowances, to trust, to hope and to 7 endure whatever comes.

13:13c Ac 2:4+; 11:27m Love never comes to an end.[d] But if there are prophecies, they will be done 8 away with; if tongues, they will fall silent; and if knowledge, it will be done away with. ·For we know only imperfectly, and we prophesy imperfectly; ·but once 9, 10 perfection comes, all imperfect things will be done away with. ·When I was a 11 child, I used to talk like a child, and see things as a child does, and think like a child; but now that I have become an adult, I have finished with all childish ways.

Nb 12:8 2 Co 5:7 ·Ga 4:9 1 Jn 3:2 Now we see only reflections in a mirror, mere riddles, but then we shall be seeing 12 face to face. Now, I can know only imperfectly; but then I shall know just as fully as I am myself known.

As it is, these remain:[e] faith, hope and love, the three of them; and the greatest 13 of them is love.

Spiritual gifts: their respective importance in the community

14 Make love your aim; but be eager, too, for spiritual gifts, and especially for 1
1 Th 5:20 ·Ac 2:4+ prophesying. ·Those who speak in a tongue speak to God, but not to other 2
Rm 1:9f people, because nobody understands them; they are speaking in the Spirit and the meaning is hidden. ·On the other hand, someone who prophesies speaks to other 3 people, building them up and giving them encouragement and reassurance. Those who speak in a tongue may build themselves up, but those who prophesy 4 build up the community. ·While I should like you all to speak in tongues, I would 5
Nb 11:29 much rather you could prophesy; since those who prophesy are of greater importance than those who speak in tongues, unless they can interpret what they say so that the church is built up by it.

Now suppose, brothers, I come to you and speak in tongues, what good shall I 6 do you if my speaking provides no revelation or knowledge or prophecy or instruction? ·It is the same with an inanimate musical instrument. If it does not 7 make any distinction between notes, how can one recognise what is being played on flute or lyre? ·If the trumpet sounds a call which is unrecognisable, who is going 8 to get ready for the attack? ·It is the same with you: if you do not use your tongue 9 to produce speech that can be readily understood, how can anyone know what you are saying? You will be talking to the air. ·However many the languages used in 10 the world, all of them use sound;[a] ·but if I do not understand the meaning of the 11 sound, I am a barbarian[b] to the person who is speaking, and the speaker is a barbarian to me. ·So with you, as you are eager to have spiritual powers, aim to be 12 rich in those which build up the community.

That is why anybody who speaks in a tongue must pray that he may be given the 13 interpretation. ·For if I pray in a tongue, my spirit may be praying but my mind 14 derives no fruit from it.[c] ·What then? I shall pray with the spirit, but I shall pray 15 with the mind as well: I shall sing praises with the spirit and I shall sing praises with the mind as well. ·Otherwise, if you say your blessing only with the spirit, how is 16
1 Ch 16:36 Ne 5:13;8:6 Ps 106:48 2 Co 1:20 the uninitiated person[d] going to answer 'Amen' to your thanksgiving, without understanding what you are saying? ·You may be making your thanksgiving well, 17 but the other person is not built up at all. ·I thank God that I speak with tongues 18 more than any of you; ·all the same, when I am in the assembly I would rather say 19 five words with my mind, to instruct others as well, than ten thousand words in a tongue.

20 Brothers, do not remain children in your thinking; infants in wickedness— Ep 4:14
21 agreed, but in your thinking grown-ups. ·It says in the written Law: In strange Rm 16:19 tongues and in a foreign language I will talk to this nation, and even so they will Is 28:11–12 22 refuse to listen, says the Lord.[e] ·So then, strange languages are significant not for believers, but for unbelievers; whereas on the other hand, prophesying is not for 23 unbelievers, but for believers.[f] ·Suppose that, if the whole congregation were meeting and all of them speaking in tongues, and some uninitiated people or Ac 2:4,13 unbelievers were to come in, don't you think they would say that you were all 24 raving? ·But if you were all prophesying when an unbeliever or someone uniniti-25 ated came in, he would find himself put to the test by all and judged by all ·and the secrets of his heart revealed; and so he would fall down on his face and worship God, declaring that God is indeed among you. Is 45:14 Zc 8:23

Regulating spiritual gifts

26 Then what should it be like, brothers? When you come together each of you brings a psalm or some instruction or a revelation, or speaks in a tongue or gives an interpretation. Let all these things be done in a way that will build up the com-27 munity. ·If there are to be any people speaking in a tongue, then let there be only two, or at the most three, and those one at a time, and let one of these interpret.
28 If there is no interpreter, then let each of them be quiet in the assembly, and 29 speak only internally and to God. ·Let two prophets, or three, speak while the rest 30 weigh their words; ·and if a revelation comes to someone else who is sitting by, the 31 speaker should stop speaking. ·You can all prophesy, but one at a time, then all 32 will learn something and all receive encouragement. ·The prophetic spirit is to be 33 under the prophets' control,[g] ·for God is a God not of disorder but of peace.
34 As in all the churches of God's holy people, ·women are to remain quiet in the 11:16d Ac 9:13+ assemblies, since they have no permission to speak:[h] theirs is a subordinate part, 35 as the Law itself says. ·If there is anything they want to know, they should ask their 11:3,9 Gn 3:16 husbands at home: it is shameful for a woman to speak in the assembly. 11:5 1 Tm 2:11–12 36 Do you really think that you are the source of the word of God? Or that you are 37 the only people to whom it has come?[i] ·Anyone who claims to be a prophet, or to have any spiritual powers must recognise that what I am writing to you is a etc., and how they love him, Col 1:18; 1 Th 3:6; etc. Love presupposes sincerity, humility, selflessness and self-sacrifice, vv. 4–7; Rm 12:9seq.; 2 Co 6:6; Ph 2:2seq., service, Ga 5:13; cf. Heb 6:10, mutual help, Ep 4:2; cf. Rm 14:15; 2 Co 2:7seq. Love shows itself in the way we behave, 2 Co 8:8–11,24; cf. 1 Jn 3:18, and the way we obey the Lord's commands, Jn 14:15; 1 Jn 5:2seq.; etc., and give effect to our faith, Ga 5:6; cf. Heb 10:24. Love holds the community together, Col 3:14; cf. 2 P 1:7, and it 'covers up many sins', 1 P 4:8; cf. Lk 7:47. Since love of neighbour springs from love of God, its motive cannot be fear, Rm 8:28–39; cf. 1 Jn 4:17seq. Nor can we be charitable without truth, Ep 4:15–16; cf. 2 Th 2:10, and it is this that enables us to make moral judgements, Ph 1:9, and gives us spiritual understanding of the divine mystery, Col 2:2; cf. 1 Jn 4:7, and spiritual knowledge of the otherwise unknowable love of Christ, Ep 3:17–19; cf. 8:1–3; 13:8–12. Since Christ, Ep 3:17, and the whole Trinity, 2 Co 13:13e; cf. Jn 14:15–23; 1 Jn 4:12, live in the soul that has this love, it fosters the theological virtues, see Rm 1:16h; 5:2c, in any person where it is the dominant characteristic, 1 Co 13:3. Love is the only eternal virtue, v. 8, and will be perfect in the vision, v. 12; cf. 1 Jn 3:2, only when God gives his lovers the gifts he has promised, 1 Co 2:9; Rm 8:28; Ep 6:24; 2 Tm 4:8; cf. Jm 1:12; 2:5.

b. var. 'I may give all my goods to the poor so that I can boast of it.'

c. In vv. 4–7, Christian love is defined with the use of a series of fifteen verbal phrases, not abstract nouns, i.e. it is not an abstract quality, but is known by the actions to which it gives rise.

d. When our imperfect (v. 11) and indirect (v. 12) knowledge of God disappears before the direct sight of God, love will remain the same as it was in this life.

e. This association of the three theological virtues, which is found earlier in 1 Th 1:3 and which may well have been in use before Paul's time, recurs frequently in his letters, though the order varies: 13:7,13; Rm 5:1–5; 12:6–12; Ga 5:5seq.; Ep 1:15–18; 4:2–5; Col 1:4–5; 1 Th 5:8; 1 Tm 6:11; Tt 2:2. Cf. Heb 6:10–12; 10:22–24; 1 P 1:3–9,21seq. Faith and love are associated in 1 Th 3:6; 2 Th 1:3; Phm 5. faith and fortitude in 2 Th 1:4, love and fortitude in 2 Th 3:5; cf. 2 Co 13:13.

14 a. Or 'none of them is gibberish'.

b. A barbarian was someone who did not understand Greek.

c. This prayer of ecstatic utterance is so freed by 'the spirit' that it contains nothing limited enough to be grasped by the 'mind'.

d. One who is not granted similar gifts.

e. The quotation is very free.

f. An obscure text: the vv. 23–24 seem to be in contradiction to v. 22.

g. Incoherence in a prophecy would prove that the prophet was a false prophet.

h. The attitude in 11:5 is more positive, which diminishes the importance of this prohibition, linked as it is with the social context of the time.

i. Since the answer is negative, Paul is asking the Corinthians to accept the practice of other churches.

2:16;7:40 15:34 commandment from the Lord. ·If anyone does not recognise this, it is because that 38 person is not recognised himself.[j]

So, my brothers, be eager to prophesy, and do not suppress the gift of 39 speaking in tongues. ·But make sure that everything is done in a proper and 40 orderly fashion.

III: THE RESURRECTION OF THE DEAD[a]

The fact of the resurrection

1 Th 2:13d 15 I want to make quite clear to you, brothers, what the message of the gospel 1 that I preached to you is; you accepted it and took your stand on it, ·and 2 you are saved by it, if you keep to the message I preached to you; otherwise your 11:2+,23 Lk 1:2 Ac 2:23o coming to believe was in vain. ·The tradition I handed on to you in the first place, 3 a tradition which I had myself received,[b] was that Christ died for our sins,[c] in accordance with the scriptures, ·and that he was buried; and that on the third day, 4
Mt 28:10+ Lk 24:34seq. he was raised to life, in accordance with the scriptures;[d] ·and that he appeared to 5
Cephas; and later to the Twelve; ·and next he appeared to more than five hundred 6 of the brothers at the same time, most of whom are still with us,[e] though some Ac 9:3–6; 12:17f Rm 1:1b have fallen asleep;[f] ·then he appeared to James, and then to all the apostles.[g] ·Last 7, 8 of all he appeared to me too, as though I was a child born abnormally.[h]
Ep 3:8 1 Tm 1:15–16 Ac 8:3+ Ga 1:13–14 For I am the least of the apostles and am not really fit to be called an apostle, 9 because I had been persecuting the Church of God; ·but what I am now, I am 10 through the grace of God, and the grace which was given to me has not been 2 Co 11:23seq. wasted. Indeed, I have worked harder than all the others—not I, but the grace of Ac 2:22n God which is with me. ·Anyway, whether it was they or I, this is what we preach 11 and what you believed.

Now if Christ is proclaimed as raised from the dead, how can some of you be 12 saying that there is no resurrection of the dead? ·If there is no resurrection of the 13 dead, then Christ cannot have been raised either,[i] ·and if Christ has not been 14
Ac 2:22n raised, then our preaching is without substance,[j] and so is your faith. ·What is 15
Ac 1:8k;26:16 more, we have proved to be false witnesses to God, for testifying against God that he raised Christ to life when he did not raise him—if it is true that the dead are not Rm 4:24–25;10:9 raised. ·For, if the dead are not raised, neither is Christ; ·and if Christ has not been 16, 17 raised, your faith is pointless and you have not, after all, been released from your sins.[k] ·In addition, those who have fallen asleep in Christ are utterly lost. ·If 18, 19 our hope in Christ has been for this life only,[l] we are of all people the most pitiable.

Rm 8:11g Col 1:18 1 Th 4:14 15:45–49 Jn 11:25 Rm 5:12–21+ Rm 6:23 •1 Th 4:16 In fact, however, Christ has been raised from the dead, as the first-fruits of all 20 who have fallen asleep. ·As it was by one man that death came, so through one 21 man has come the resurrection of the dead. ·Just as all die in Adam, so in Christ all 22 will be brought to life;[m] ·but all of them in their proper order: Christ the first-fruits, 23 and next, at his coming,[n] those who belong to him.[o] ·After that will come the end, 24 when he will hand over the kingdom to God the Father, having abolished every Ps 110:1 principality, every ruling force and power.[p] ·For he is to be king until he has made 25
Rv 20:14;21:4 his enemies his footstool, ·and the last of the enemies to be done away with is 26 death, for he has put all things under his feet. ·But when it is said[q] everything is 27
Ph 3:21 Ps 8:6 subjected, this obviously cannot include the One who subjected everything to him.
When everything has been subjected to him, then the Son himself will be subjected 28
Rm 9:5d Ep 4:6 Col 3:11 to the One who has subjected everything to him, so that God may be all in all.

Otherwise, what are people up to who have themselves baptised on behalf of the 29 2 M 12:44 dead?[r] If the dead are not raised at all, what is the point of being baptised on their behalf? ·And what about us? Why should we endanger ourselves every hour of our 30 2 Co 4:10:12 lives? ·I swear by the pride that I take in you, in Christ Jesus our Lord, that I face 31 death every day. ·If I fought wild animals at Ephesus[s] in a purely human perspec- 32
Is 22:13 tive, what had I to gain by it? ·If the dead are not going to be raised, then Let us eat 33

34 and drink, for tomorrow we shall be dead.' ·So do not let anyone lead you astray.
'Bad company corrupts good ways.' " Wake up from your stupor as you should and leave sin alone; some of you have no understanding of God; I tell you this to instil 14:38 some shame in you.

The manner of the resurrection

35 Someone may ask: How are dead people raised, and what sort of body do they 36 have when they come? ·How foolish! What you sow must die before it is given new Jn 12:24
37 life; ·and what you sow is not the body that is to be, but only a bare grain, of wheat 38 I dare say, or some other kind; ·it is God who gives it the sort of body that he has chosen for it, " and for each kind of seed its own kind of body.
39 Not all flesh is the same flesh: there is human flesh; animals have another kind of 40 flesh, birds another and fish yet another. ·Then there are heavenly bodies and earthly bodies; the heavenly have a splendour of their own, and the earthly a 41 different splendour. ·The sun has its own splendour, the moon another splendour, and the stars yet another splendour; and the stars differ among themselves in 42 splendour. ·It is the same too with the resurrection of the dead: what is sown is 43 perishable, but what is raised is imperishable; ·what is sown is contemptible but

j. Or, he is unnoticed by God who does not acknowledge him as his own; var. 'if he refuses to recognise this, well let him refuse' (Paul losing patience). For a similar way of putting an end to discussion, see 11:16; Ph 3:15seq.

15 a. Some of the Christians at Corinth rejected the resurrection of the dead, v. 12. Greeks found it a materialistic idea, Ac 17:32y, while the Jews had first gradually perceived it, Jb 19:25g; Ps 16:10; Ezk 37:10d, and then taught it explicitly, 2 M 7:9c; Dn 12:2,3c. To combat the Corinthians' error, Paul starts from the fundamental assertion of the gospel proclamation, the paschal mystery of Christ's death and resurrection, vv. 3–4 (cf. Rm 1:4; Ga 1:2–4; 1 Th 1:10), which he develops by enumerating the appearances of the Risen Lord, vv. 5–11; see Ac 1:8k. Starting from there he shows the absurdity of the opinion which he is opposing, vv. 12–34, see v. 13i. Christ is the first-fruits and the effective cause of the resurrection of the dead, vv. 20–28; see Rm 8:11g. Finally Paul answers objections about the mode of resurrection of the dead, vv. 35–53, and ends with a hymn of thanks, vv. 54–57.

b. In the phrases, 'keep it unchanged', 'passed on . . .', 'what I had been taught', Paul is adopting the vocabulary of the rabbinic tradition, cf. 11:23. But in addition, the gospel, unlike this tradition, is announced, vv. 1–2, proclaimed (v. 11); cf. Mt 4:23; etc.; the object of faith, 1 Co 15:2,11, cf. Mk 1:15, and the bringer of salvation, 1 Co 15:2; cf. Ac 11:14; 16:17. In the vv. that follow the vocabulary and turn of phrase are uncharacteristic of Paul, which suggests that he is quoting the most ancient tradition of the Church about the resurrection appearances, formulae that were learnt by new converts, cf. 11:23d.

c. The expiation effected by Christ's death is a part of the gospel proclamation even before Paul; cf. Rm 6:3.

d. These three clauses, which will have a place in the creeds of the future, seem already to have a fixed formulation.

e. Paul implies that they can still attest what they have seen, and that their faith in Christ's resurrection rests on sure witness.

f. i.e. have died; Paul's usual expression, vv. 18,20,51; 1 Th 4:13g.

g. 'The apostles' apparently comprise a larger group than 'the Twelve' of v. 5.

h. An allusion to the abnormal, sudden and surgical nature of Paul's birth into the apostolic family. He makes no distinction in kind between the appearance to himself that took place on the Damascus road and the appearances of Jesus that took place between the resurrection and the ascension.

i. Denial of the resurrection of the dead brings with it denial of the particular case of the resurrection of Christ. Alternatively, the resurrection of Christ makes no sense except as the first-fruits of our resurrection. But this consideration enters only at v. 20.

j. None of the aspects of the Christian message and of the faith which corresponds to it makes sense except in function of the central reality, the risen Christ. Without this, everything collapses.

k. What makes sin disappear is the new life, participation in the life of the risen Christ, see Rm 6:8–10; 8:2b.

l. Or 'If in this life we have done nothing but hope in Christ'.

m. Contemporary Jewish thought envisaged two Adams, first a perfect, heavenly model of Adam, and second the earthly, historical Adam. Paul turns this thinking on its head: the historical Adam was the first and Christ, the refounder of humanity, is the second, perfect, heavenly Adam. He is the perfect fulfilment of the ideal of Adam, and his exaltation reverses the fall of Adam, see Rm 5:12f,h; Ph 2:6d.

n. A Greek word adopted by early Christians to indicate the glorious coming of Christ on his 'Day', 1:8e, at the end of time, Mt 24:3b; see also 1 Th 2:19; 3:13; 4:15; 5:23; 2 Th 2:1; Jm 5:7,8; 2 P 1:16; 3:4,12; 1 Jn 2:28. In 2 Th 2:8,9 the same word is used to indicate the coming of the Lawless One; see the similar terms 'revelation', 1 Co 1:7c, and 'appearing', 1 Tm 6:14f.

o. The perspective is not merely physical and biological, but includes the whole person, spiritual death to sin and risen life in justice and love. Paul's perspective does not include a resurrection of sinners; contrast Jn 5:29; Ac 24:15; cf. Dn 12:2.

p. All the forces hostile to the sovereignty of God, 2:6; Ep 1:21; Col 1:16; 2:15; 1 P 3:22.

q. When the whole cosmos has been subjected to him, Jesus will go to the Father and say his task is complete. The translation 'scripture says' is incorrect.

r. What this practice was is unknown: Paul does not say whether he approved of it or not; he merely says that it is absurd if the dead do not rise again.

s. This must be metaphorical. The event is not otherwise known to us, but see 2 Co 11:23–26.

t. Cf. Qo 9:7–10. It is possible to give up material pleasures from purely human motives; Paul has himself just said so, 9:25.

u. Quoted from Menander's Thaïs: it may have become a popular proverb.

v. In popular thought germination was a process dependent on the goodwill of the divinity, not a natural phenomenon, cf. 2 M 7:22–23. In the relationship between the present and the glorified body Paul stresses change much more than continuity. No doubt he wishes to answer the objection (v. 35) which rightly refused to take the imagery of Ezk 37:1–10,10d too literally.

what is raised is glorious; what is sown is weak, but what is raised is powerful; ·what 44 is sown is a natural body, and what is raised is a spiritual body. [w]

Gn 2:7 If there is a natural body, there is a spiritual body too. ·So the first man, Adam, 45 15:20–28,23n as scripture says, became a living soul; [x] and the last Adam has become a life-giving spirit. ·But first came the natural body, not the spiritual one; that came only 46 afterwards. ·The first man, being made of earth, is earthly by nature; the second 47
Dn 7:13 man is from heaven. ·The earthly man is the pattern for earthly people, the 48
Jn 3:13 heavenly man for heavenly ones. ·And as we have borne the likeness of the earthly 49
Jn 3:5–6 man, so we shall bear the likeness of the heavenly one. [y]
Rm 8:29n
Ph 3:21 What I am saying, brothers, is that mere human nature cannot inherit the 50 6:10c kingdom of God: what is perishable cannot inherit what is imperishable. ·Now I 51 am going to tell you a mystery: we are not all going to fall asleep, ·but we are all 52
Nb 10:3 going to be changed, instantly, in the twinkling of an eye, when the last trumpet
Jl 2:1b
Mt 24:31r sounds. [z] The trumpet is going to sound, and then the dead will be raised imperish-
1 Th 4:15–17+ able, and we shall be changed, [aa] ·because this perishable nature of ours must put 53
2 Co 5:1–5 on imperishability, this mortal nature must put on immortality.

A hymn of triumph. Conclusion

And after this perishable nature has put on imperishability [bb] and this mortal nature 54 has put on immortality, then will the words of scripture come true: [cc] Death is
Is 25:8 swallowed up in victory. ·Death, where is your victory*? Death, where is your sting?* 55
Ho 13:14
Rv 20:14 The sting of death is sin, and the power of sin comes from the Law. [dd] ·Thank 56, 57
Heb 6:1b God, then, for giving us the victory through Jesus Christ our Lord.
Rm 7:7d
Jn 16:33 So, my dear brothers, keep firm and immovable, always abounding in energy for 58
the Lord's work, being sure that in the Lord none of your labours is wasted. [ee]

CONCLUSION

Commendations. Greetings

Ac 9:13g 16 Now about the collection for God's holy people; [a] you are to do the same as 1
Ga 2:10 I prescribed for the churches in Galatia. ·On the first day of the week, [b] each 2 Mt 28:1a of you should put aside and reserve as much as each can spare; do not delay the collection till I arrive. ·When I come, I will send to Jerusalem with letters of 3 introduction those people you approve to deliver your gift; ·if it is worth my going 4 too, they can travel with me.

In any case, I shall be coming to you after I have passed through Macedonia, as 5
Ac 19:21;20: 1seq. I have to go through Macedonia; ·and I may be staying some time with you, 6 perhaps wintering, so that you can start me on my next journey, wherever I may be going. ·I do not want to make only a passing visit to you, [c] and I am hoping to spend 7 quite a time with you, the Lord permitting. ·But I shall remain at Ephesus until 8 Pentecost, ·for a very promising door is standing wide open to me [d] and there are 9 many against us.

4:17 If Timothy comes, make sure that he has nothing to fear from you; he is doing 10
Ac 16:1a the Lord's work, just as I am, ·and nobody is to underrate him. Start him off in 11 peace on his journey to come on to me: the brothers and I are waiting for him.
Ac 18:24p As for our brother Apollos, I urged him earnestly to come to you with the 12 brothers, but he was quite firm that he did not want to go yet, [e] and he will come when he finds an opportunity.

1 P 5:8–9 Be vigilant, stay firm in the faith, be brave and strong. ·Let everything you do 13, 14 be done in love.

There is something else I must urge you to do, brothers. You know how the 15 1:1f Stephanas family have been the first-fruits of Achaia and have devoted themselves to the service of God's holy people; ·I ask you in turn to put yourselves at the 16

17 service of people like this and all that work with them in this arduous task. ·I am delighted that Stephanas and Fortunatus and Achaicus have arrived;[f] they have 18 made up for your not being here. ·They have set my mind at rest, just as they did yours; you should appreciate people like them.

Ph 2:29–30
1 Th 5:12–13

19 The churches of Asia[g] send their greetings. Aquila and Prisca send their best 20 wishes in the Lord, together with the church that meets in their house. ·All the brothers send their greetings. Greet one another with the holy kiss.

Ac 18:2b
Rm 16:5+
2 Co 13:12d

21 This greeting is in my own hand—PAUL.

Ga 6:11e
Phm 19

22 If there is anyone who does not love the Lord, a curse on such a one.[h] Maran atha.[i]

Rm 16:20+

23 The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ be with you.
24 My love is with you all in Christ Jesus.

w. In Paul, as in the OT, psyche (Hebr. nephesh; cf. Gn 2:7) is what gives life to animals, to the human body, 1 Co 15:45; or it is the actual 'life' of the body, Rm 16:4; Ph 2:30; 1 Th 2:8; cf. Mt 2:20; Mk 3:4; Lk 12:20; Jn 10:11; Ac 20:10; etc., its 'living soul', 2 Co 1:23. The term can also mean any human being, Rm 2:9; 13:1; 2 Co 12:15; etc. As it gives only natural life, 2:14; cf. Jude 19, it is less important than pneuma by which a human life is divinised by a process that begins through the gift of the Spirit, Rm 5:5e; see Rm 1:9e, and is completed after death. Greek philosophers thought of the higher soul (the nous) escaping from 'the body', to survive immortally. Christians thought of immortality more in terms of the restoration of the whole person, involving a resurrection of the body effected by the Spirit or divine principle which God withdrew from human beings because of sins, Gn 6:3, but restored to all who are united to the risen Christ, Rm 1:4c; 8:11, who is the 'heavenly' man and life-giving Spirit, 1 Co 15:45–49. The 'body' is no longer psychikon but pneumatikon, it is incorruptible, immortal, v. 53, glorious, v. 43; cf. Rm 8:18; 2 Co 4:17; Ph 3:21; Col 3:4, no longer subject to the laws of matter, Jn 20:19,26; it does not even answer the description of matter, Lk 24:16. Psyche can be used in a wider sense as the opposite of the body to indicate what it is in a human being that behaves and feels, Ep 6:6; Ph 1:27; Col 3:23; see Mt 22:37 and par.; 26:38 and par.; Lk 1:46; Jn 12:27; Ac 4:32; 1 P 2:11; etc., or even to indicate the spiritual and immortal soul, Mt 10:28,39 and par.; Ac 2:27; Jm 1:21; 5:20; 1 P 1:9; Rv 6:9; etc.

x. Something that is alive because it has a psyche giving it a merely natural life, subject to decay and corruption.

y. var. 'we would be able to'.

z. Since the time of Sinai, Ex 19:16,19, the trumpet has been among the symbols of God's intervention, Mt 24:31; 1 Th 4:16j. A trumpet will mark the stages in God's plan for the End; cf. the seven trumpets of Rv 8:6–11:19.

aa. i.e. those who are alive at the time, among whom Paul may be included, see 1 Th 5:1a.

bb. om. 'because this perishable nature has put on imperishability'.

cc. A free quotation.

dd. The compressed thought of this sentence is made explicit in Rm 5–7.

ee. A reference back to v. 14; this verse marks the end of the instruction which began at that point. The certainty of victory gives the believer the strength to go forward. For Paul there can be no faith without advance in life.

16 a. On this collection see Ac 24:17; Rm 15:26–28; 2 Co 8–9; Ga 2:10. God's holy people (see 2 Co 8:4) are the Christians in Jerusalem who from the earliest days were in need of help, Ac 11:29–30. Paul was very anxious to have this collection made, since he regarded it as a sign and a pledge of unity between the churches he had founded and those of the Judaeo-Christians.

b. i.e. 'The Lord's Day', cf. Mt 28:1; Ac 20:7; Rv 1:10.

c. It has been thought that this verse suggests a previous short visit and this translation has been conjectured: 'I do not want on this occasion to make this only a passing visit.' But this is unlikely.

d. The same image is used in 2 Co 2:12; it indicates Paul's missionary opportunities, cf. Ac 14:27; Rv 3:8.

e. In case his presence aggravated party feeling among his own supporters, 1:12; 3:4–6; 4:6.

f. Probably these had brought the letter from the Corinthians to Paul, 7:1.

g. The Roman province is meant.

h. 'Let him be anathema.' The word usually corresponds to the OT Hebrew word herem, Jos 6:17e. In the NT it is used once, Lk 21:5, of votive offerings in the Temple. More often it acknowledges a curse on the speaker himself, should he not keep a solemn promise, Rm 9:3, or it endorses a curse on another person for a serious sin, here, 1 Co 16:22; Ga 1:8,9; see 12:3; Rv 22:3.

i. These Aramaic words ('the Lord is coming') had passed into liturgical use: they expressed the hope that the parousia would not be long delayed. An alternative reading is Marana tha (Lord, come!), Rv 22:20; cf. Rm 13:12; Ph 4:5; Jm 5:8; 1 P 4:7.

2 CORINTHIANS

THE SECOND LETTER OF PAUL TO THE CHURCH AT CORINTH

INTRODUCTION

Rm 1:1a Address and greetings. Thanksgiving

Ac 16:1a 1 Paul, by the will of God an apostle of Christ Jesus, and Timothy, our brother, 1
1 Co 1:2a to the church of God in Corinth and to all God's holy people in the whole of Ac 9:13g Achaia. 2 Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. 2
Rm 1:7
Ep 1:3 Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the merciful Father and 3
1 P 1:3 the God who gives every possible encouragement;[a] 4 he supports us in every 4 hardship, so that we are able to come to the support of others, in every hardship of theirs because of the encouragement that we ourselves receive from God. 5 For just 5
Ph 1:20i as the sufferings of Christ overflow into our lives; so too does the encouragement
Col 1:24l we receive through Christ. 6 So if we have hardships to undergo, this will contribute 6 to your encouragement and your salvation; if we receive encouragement, this is to gain for you the encouragement which enables you to bear with perseverance the same sufferings as we do. 7 So our hope for you is secure in the knowledge that you 7 share the encouragement we receive, no less than the sufferings we bear.[b]

So in the hardships we underwent in Asia,[c] we want you to be quite certain, 8 1 Co 15:32 brothers, that we were under extraordinary pressure, beyond our powers of endurance, so that we gave up all hope even of surviving. 9 In fact we were carrying the 9 4:7 sentence of death within our own selves, so that we should be forced to trust not in Rm 1:4c;4:17g; 8:11g ourselves but in God, who raises the dead. 10 He did save us from such a death and 10
Rm 15:30i will save us[d]—we are relying on him to do so. 11 Your prayer for us will contribute 11 to this, so that, for God's favour shown to us as the result of the prayers of so many,
4:15;9:12 thanks[e] too may be given by many on our behalf.'[f]

I: SOME RECENT EVENTS REVIEWED

Why Paul changed his plans

There is one thing that we are proud of, namely our conscientious conviction that 12
we have always behaved towards everyone, and especially towards you, with that 1 Co 1:17; 2:1seq. unalloyed holiness[g] that comes from God, relying not on human reasoning but on the grace of God. 13 In our writing, there is nothing that you cannot read clearly and 13 understand; 14 and it is my hope that, just as you have already understood us 14
Ph 2:16;4:1 partially, so you will understand fully that you can be as proud of us as we shall be 1 Th 2:19–20 of you when the Day of our Lord Jesus comes.
1 Co 1:8e

It was with this assurance that I had been meaning to come to you first, so that 15
you would benefit doubly;[h] 16 both to visit you on my way to Macedonia, and then 16 to return to you again from Macedonia, so that you could set me on my way to Act 19:21 17 Judaea. [i] ·Since that was my purpose, do you think I lightly changed my mind? Or that my plans are based on ordinary human promptings and I have in my mind 1:12

18 Yes, yes at the same time as No, no? ·As surely as God is trustworthy, [j] what we Rm 7:5c
19 say to you is not both Yes and No. ·The Son of God, Jesus Christ, who was 1 Co 1:9g proclaimed to you by us, that is, by me and by Silvanus [k] and Timothy, was never Ac 16:1a;18:5 20 Yes-and-No; his nature is all Yes. ·For in him is found the Yes to all God's Mt 5:37 promises [l] and therefore it is 'through him' that we answer 'Amen' [m] to give praise 1 Co 14:16 21, 22 to God. ·It is God who gives us, with you, a sure place in Christ ·and has both Rv 3:14g anointed us and marked us with his seal, [n] giving us as pledge the Spirit in 13:13e our hearts. Rm 16:27n
1 Co 1:6+
1 Jn 2:20, 27
Rm
23 By my life I call on God to be my witness that it was only to spare you that I did 5:5e,f;6:4a
24 not come to Corinth again. ·We have no wish to lord it over your faith, but to work Ep 1:13–14 with you for your joy; for your stand in the faith is firm. 1 P 5:3

1 2 I made up my mind, then, that my next visit to you would not be a painful one [a],
2 for if I cause you distress I am causing distress to my only possible source of 3 joy. ·Indeed, I wrote as I did [b] precisely to spare myself distress when I visited you, from the very people who should have given me joy, in the conviction that for all of 4 you my joy was yours too. ·I wrote to you in agony of mind, not meaning to cause you distress but to show you how very much love I have for you.

5 If anyone did cause distress, he caused it not to me, but—not to exaggerate—in 6 some degree to all of you. ·The punishment already imposed by the majority was 7 quite enough for such a person; [c] ·and now by contrast you should forgive and Col 3:13 encourage him all the more, or he may be overwhelmed by the extent of his 8 distress. ·That is why I urge you to give your love towards him definite expression.
9 This was in fact my reason for writing, to test your quality and whether you are 10 completely obedient. ·But if you forgive anybody, then I too forgive him; and whatever I have forgiven, if there is anything I have forgiven, I have done it for 11 your sake in Christ's presence, ·to avoid being outwitted by Satan, whose scheming Ep 4:27 we know only too well.

1 a. This 'support' is the 'consolation' announced by the prophets and seen as a characteristic of the messianic age. Is 40:1, and brought by the Messiah. Lk 2:25. It consists essentially in an end to trials and the beginning of an era of peace and joy. Is 40:1seq., Mt 5:5. In the NT the new age is present in the old, and the Christian united to Christ is comforted even while his trials continue, 1:4–7; 7:4; cf. Col 1:24. This support is not received passively, but is at once comfort, encouragement, exhortation (the same Greek word, paraklesis). Its sole source is God, 1:3,4, through Christ, 1:5, and through the Spirit, Ac 9:31p, and the Christian is to communicate it to others, 2 Co 1:4,6; 1 Th 4:18. Among its causes the NT enumerates: progress in the Christian life, 7:4,6,7, conversion, 7:13, the Scriptures, Rm 15:4. It is the source of hope, Rm 15:4.

b. In 2 Co. Paul frequently emphasises the presence of contradictory or paradoxical realities in Christ, and thus in the apostle and the Christian; here suffering and support or consolation, also 7:4; death and life, 4:10–12; 6:9; poverty and riches, 6:10; 8:9; weakness and strength, 12:9–10. It is the paschal mystery, the presence of the risen Christ in the old world of sin and death, see 1 Co 1–2.

c. One of the many trials referred to in 11:23seq.

d. var. 'and saves us still'.

e. Thanksgiving plays an important part in Paul's theology, see the beginning of the letters, where he thanks God for the faith of his correspondents, Rm 1:8; 1 Co 1:4; Ph 1:3; Col 1:3; 1 Th 1:2; 2 Th 1:3; Phm 4. It is no empty formula; its absence in Ga is significant, Ga 1:1a. Thanksgiving gives life to all the actions of the Christian done in the name of Christ and taken up by him in his thanksgiving to the Father, Ep 5:20; Col 3:17. It is a duty corresponding to God's will, not only for Christians, 1 Th 5:18, but even for gentiles, Rm 1:21. For thanksgiving 'gives', even though imperfectly, thanks to God (1 Th 3:9, literally). It is therefore the ultimate goal of the prayer that asks for grace, 1:11; 4:15, and of the expression of fraternal love, 9:11–15. Hence its importance in the liturgy, 1 Co 14:16; Ep 5:19seq.; Col 3:16, and in personal prayer, Ph 4:6; 1 Th 5:18.

f. var. 'on your behalf'.

g. var. 'simplicity'.

h. var. 'to give you a double pleasure'.

i. Paul must therefore have changed the plan mentioned in 1 Co 16:5–6.

j. God's faithfulness is primarily his 'firmness'. He is the rock of Israel, Dt 32:4, and provides a wholly secure support. This firmness explains the constancy of his plans, his faithfulness to his promises, Ps 89:1–8.24seq; and, especially in the NT God's faithfulness to his plan of mercy and salvation, 1 Co 1:9f; 10:13; 1 Th 5:24; 2 Th 3:3.

k. Silvanus is the disciple called Silas in Ac.

l. God's promises are seen as waiting for fulfilment until perfect obedience and assent to his will are offered by Jesus Christ. The implication is that Paul 'in Christ' is guided only by the will of God for him, and is not to be thought of as consulting his own wishes or changing his mind on a personal impulse, 1:17–18j.

m. Amen means 'that which is solid, trustworthy'; it is the reply of human faithfulness to God's faithfulness in Jesus Christ. Cf. Rm 1:25p.

n. The anointing and the seal mean either the gift of the Spirit to all believers (possibly with an allusion to initiation rites), see Ep 1:13n; 4:30m; 1 Jn 2:20k,27p; or the special gift of the spirit to the apostolic ministry (making a distinction between the 'us' and 'you' of this verse) by a special gift of the Spirit, which makes the apostle the faithful messenger of God's fidelity in Christ (vv. 17–20). Note the trinitarian formulation of vv. 21–22.

2 a. An allusion to a painful visit which Paul must have made to Corinth before writing 2 Co, see p. 1854.

b. An allusion to the 'severe letter' of 2:3,4.9; 7:8,12; see p. 1854.

c. The man who had given offence to Paul or to Paul's representative, see p. 1854.

From Troas to Macedonia. The apostolate: its importance

Ac 16:8;20:6 1 Co 16:9d
When I came to Troas for the sake of the gospel of Christ and a door was opened 12 for me there in the Lord, ·I had no relief from anxiety, not finding my brother 13 7:6 Titus[d] there, and I said goodbye to them and went on to Macedonia. ·[e] But, 14
Ep 5:2 Ph 4:18 Col 2:15 thanks be to God who always gives us in Christ a part in his triumphal procession,[f] and through us is spreading everywhere the fragrance of the knowledge of himself.
1 Co 1:18 To God we are the fragrance of Christ, both among those who are being saved 15 and among those who are on the way to destruction; ·for these last, the smell of 16 death leading to death, but for the first, the smell of life leading to life. Who is equal to such a task? ·At least we do not adulterate the word of God, as so many[g] 17 do, but it is in all purity, as envoys of God and in God's presence, that we speak in Christ.

5:12;10:12seq.; 11:18seq. Ac 18:27 1 Co 9:2
3 Are we beginning to commend ourselves to you afresh—as though we needed, 1 like some others, to have letters of commendation either to you or from you?[a]
You yourselves are our letter, written in our[b] hearts, that everyone can read and 2 understand; ·and it is plain that you are a letter from Christ, entrusted to our care, 3 Ex 24:12d Jr 31:33 Ezk 11:19; 36:26 written not with ink but with the Spirit of the living God; not on stone tablets but on the tablets of human hearts.[c]

Such is the confidence we have through Christ in facing God; ·it is not that we 4, 5
Jn 3:27 are so competent that we can claim any credit for ourselves; all our competence
1 Co 11:25 Ep 3:7 Col 1:23,25 comes from God. ·He has given us the competence to be ministers of a new 6
Heb 8:8 covenant, a covenant which is not of written letters, but of the Spirit; for the Rm 2:29 written letters kill, but the Spirit gives life.[d] ·Now if the administering of death, 7
Ex 32:16; 34:29–35 engraved in letters on stone, occurred in such glory that the Israelites could not look Moses steadily in the face, because of its glory, transitory though this glory was, ·how much more will the ministry of the Spirit occur in glory! ·For if it is 8, 9 glorious to administer condemnation, to administer saving justice is far richer in glory. ·Indeed, what was once considered glorious has lost all claim to glory, by 10 contrast with the glory which transcends it. ·For if what was transitory had any 11 glory, how much greater is the glory of that which lasts for ever.

With a hope like this, we can speak with complete fearlessness; ·not like Moses 12, 13 who put a veil over his face so that the Israelites should not watch the end of what was transitory.[e] ·But their minds were closed; indeed, until this very day, the 14 same veil remains over the reading of the Old Testament: it is not lifted, for only in Rm 10:4 Christ is it done away with.[f] ·As it is, to this day, whenever Moses is read, their 15
Ex 34:34 Rm 11:7–10 hearts are covered with a veil, ·and this veil will not be taken away till they turn to 16
the Lord. ·Now this Lord is the Spirit[g] and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is 17
Is 61:1–2 Ga 5:1,13 4:6+ Rm 8:29n 1 Jn 3:2 freedom. ·And all of us, with our unveiled faces like mirrors reflecting[h] the glory 18 of the Lord,[i] are being transformed into the image[j] that we reflect in brighter and brighter glory; this is the working of the Lord who is the Spirit.[k]

Rm 1:16
4 Such by God's mercy is our ministry, and therefore we do not waver ·but have 1, 2 renounced all shameful secrecy.[a] It is not our way to be devious, or to falsify the word of God; instead, in God's sight we commend ourselves to every human being with a conscience by showing the truth openly. ·If our gospel seems to be 3 1 Th 2:10 veiled at all, it is so to those who are on the way to destruction, ·the unbelievers 4 whose minds have been blinded by the god of this world,[b] so that they cannot see Rm 8:29n Col 1:15 shining the light of the gospel of the glory of Christ, who is the image of God. ·It is 5 not ourselves that we are proclaiming, but Christ Jesus as the Lord, and ourselves Gn 1:3 Jn 8:12b Ep 1:18 as your servants for Jesus' sake. ·It is God who said, 'Let light shine out of 6 darkness,' that has shone into our hearts to enlighten them with the knowledge of Rm 3:23h Heb 1:3 God's glory, the glory on the face of Christ.

The hardships and hopes of the apostolate

12:9 6:4–10 1 Co 4:9–13
But we hold this treasure in pots of earthenware, so that the immensity of the 7 power is God's and not our own.[c] ·We are subjected to every kind of hardship, but 8 never distressed;[d] we see no way out but we never despair; ·we are pursued but never cut off; knocked down, but still have some life in us; always ·we carry with us in our body the death of Jesus so that the life of Jesus, too, may be visible in our Col 1:24*l* body. ·Indeed, while we are still alive, we are continually being handed over to 2 Tm 2:11 death, for the sake of Jesus, so that the life of Jesus, too, may be visible in our 1 Co 15:31 mortal flesh. ·In us, then, death is at work; in you, life.

But as we have the same spirit of faith as is described in scripture—I believed and Ps 116:10
therefore I spoke—we, too, believe and therefore we, too, speak, ·realising that he Rm 1:4c;8:11g who raised up the Lord Jesus will raise us up with Jesus in our turn, and bring us to himself—and you as well. ·You see, everything is for your benefit, so that as grace spreads, so, to the glory of God, thanksgiving may also overflow among more and 1:11 more people.

That is why we do not waver; indeed, though this outer human nature of ours Rm 7:22j may be falling into decay, at the same time our inner human nature is renewed day by day. ·The temporary, light burden of our hardships is earning us for ever an Ws 3:5
utterly incomparable, eternal weight of glory, ·since what we aim for is not visible Mt 5:11–12 but invisible. Visible things are transitory, but invisible things eternal. Rm 8:18+
Rm 8:24–25
Heb 11:1,3

5 For we are well aware[e] that when the tent that houses us on earth is folded up, Jb 4:19
there is a house for us from God, not made by human hands but everlasting, in Ws 9:15f the heavens. ·And in this earthly state we do indeed groan, ·longing to put on our Is 38:12 heavenly home over the present one; if indeed we are to be found clothed rather 2 P 1:13–14 than stripped bare.[b] ·Yes, indeed, in this present tent, we groan under the burden, 1 Co 15:44–49
Ph 3:20
Col 3:3–4
Rm 8:23
1 Co 15:51–53
1 Th 4:15

d. A Christian of gentile birth, possibly converted by Paul, Tt 1:4, whom he accompanies on Paul's second journey to Jerusalem, Ga 2:1. He was commissioned by Paul to visit Corinth and to settle its problems; in this he was entirely successful, 7:5–7. Soon afterwards Paul sent him to Corinth to organise the collection. If we are to accept the historical data of the Pastoral Letters as genuine (but see pp. 1862–3), he appears again in Crete (63–4) controlling the communities Paul had founded there after his release from the first Roman captivity. It was from there that Paul wrote to Titus asking him to meet him again at Nicopolis in Epirus, Tt 3:12. During Paul's second Roman captivity (66–7) Titus was in Dalmatia, 2 Tm 4:10. Titus with his shrewdness and his strong, well-balanced character, seems to have made an admirable colleague for Paul.

e. The account of events is interrupted by a digression on the apostolic ministry, 2:14–7:4. It continues again in 7:5.

f. Like a victorious general making his solemn entry into Rome. The imagery is taken from the custom familiar to all: incense burns before the victor, his lieutenants are given a place in the procession, and the vanquished leaders are put to death. Cf. Col 2:15.

g. var. 'the others'.

3 a. Presumably Paul has been accused of boastful claims, cf. 5:12, whereas other preachers present letters of commendation from their communities, see Ac 18:27r. His answer is that the churches founded by him and animated by the Spirit make written commendations unnecessary just as the new covenant of the Spirit has made the old covenant 'of written letters' superfluous. There is much more here than a play on words, especially if, as is most likely, Paul's opponents are Judaisers, cf. 11:22.

b. var. 'your'.

c. Besides the reference to the tablets of stone at Sinai, Ex 24:12, there may also be an allusion here to Ezk 36:26.

d. See Rm 7:7d. This is not an observation about the 'letter' as opposed to the 'spirit' of a text: the contrast is between the written external Law of the OT, and the Spirit, the interior law of the NT.

e. Cf. Ex 34:30. The transitory character of the glory which lights up the face of Moses shows, according to Paul, the transitoriness of the old covenant, v. 11.

f. Alternative translation 'nor is it revealed to them that this covenant has been abolished by Christ'.

g. A condensed formula which, without denying the distinction between Christ and the Spirit which is so clearly underlined in the letter, 1:20–23; 13:13e, nevertheless affirms their identity in the work of salvation in both covenants. In the same line, later theology will assert that the works of God are common to the three divine Persons. Another interpretation identifies the Lord of v. 17 with the one of v. 16, namely God; it was when he turned to God that Moses took off his veil, Ex 34:34. Paul means that the Lord to whom Moses turned is already in fact the Holy Spirit to whom Christians turn.

h. Rather than 'contemplate'. The comparison of vv. 7–15 continues. By contrast to Moses, our faces are unveiled and we reflect the divine glory in a permanent rather than transitory way, see 3:13e. The privilege which only Moses enjoyed is granted to all.

i. The 'glory of the Lord' is that of Jesus Christ, for the glory of the Lord is on the face of Christ, 4:6.

j. See Rm 8:29n. A final contrast with Moses, whose glory weakened and disappeared as it shone, vv. 7,13. On the contrary, the Christian is transformed into an increasingly faithful image of God in Christ.

k. Alternative translation 'of the Spirit of the Lord'.

4 a. Presumably the lack of courage which leads to concealment of those elements in the gospel which could provoke opposition or persecution: Mk 8:38 and par.; Rm 1:16; 2 Tm 1:8; cf. Ac 20:27.

b. Satan, cf. Ep 2:2. Cf. Lk 4:6; Jn 12:31; 14:30; 16:11.

c. A favourite theme of Paul's, often stressed in this letter: 3:5–6; 10:1,8; 12:5,9–10; 13:3,4. Cf. 1 Co 1:26; 2:5; 4:13g; Ph 4:13; already present in the OT Jg 7:2; 1 S 14:6; 17:47; 1 M 3:19.

d. These four sentences owe their imagery to the gladiatorial contest.

5 a. 5:1–10 continues the contrast of 4:16–18 between the progressive ruin of the exterior nature and the progress of the interior nature, v. 16, see Rm 7:22j. This interior nature, identical with the new humanity, Col 3:10e, is the pledge of the Spirit, 2 Co 5:5, cf. Rm 8:23, whose fullness will be given at the resurrection, when believers will be clothed with their heavenly habitation, 2 Co 5:2, that is the spiritual body, cf. 1 Co 15:44. Hence the burning longing, 5:2, for this fullness and the desire not to be deprived of it even for a time, by death before the parousia, 5:4, and so to be still alive at the coming of the Lord. But see 5:8d.

b. That is to say, on the supposition that we are still alive when Christ returns in glory. Paul wants to be of the number of those who will live to see the coming of the Lord and whose bodies will be transformed without having to die. Over the 'natural body' they will, as it were, 'put on' the 'spiritual body'. 1 Co 15:44,53,54, which will be 'absorbed' by the former. Alternative translation: 'having put it on, we shall not be found bare'.

not that we want to be stripped of our covering, but because we want to be covered with a second garment on top, so that what is mortal in us may be swallowed up by life. ·It is God who designed us for this very purpose, and he has given us the Spirit as a pledge.

1:22n Rm 8:23

We are always full of confidence, then, realising that as long as we are at home in the body we are exiled from the Lord, ·guided by faith and not yet by sight; [c] ·we are full of confidence, then, and long instead to be exiled from the body and to be at home with the Lord. [d] ·And so whether at home or exiled, we make it our ambition to please him. ·For at the judgement seat of Christ we are all to be seen for what we are, so that each of us may receive what he has deserved in the body, matched to whatever he has done, good or bad.

1 P 1:1a ·Rm 8:24 1 Co 13:12 Ph 1:21–23 Mt 25:19,31seq. Jn 5:27 Rm 14:10 Heb 11:6c

The apostolate in action

And so it is with the fear of the Lord always in mind that we try to win people over. But God sees us for what we are, and I hope your consciences do too. ·Again we are saying this not to commend ourselves to you, but simply to give you the opportunity to take pride in us, so that you may have an answer for those who take pride in appearances and not inner reality. ·If we have been unreasonable, it was for God; if reasonable, for you. [e] ·For the love of Christ overwhelms us when we consider that if one man died for all, then all have died; [f] ·his purpose in dying for all humanity was that those who live should live not any more for themselves, but for him who died and was raised to life for them.

3:1a Rm 6:4–11 and notes Ga 2:20 Rm 6:11e;7:1b Rm 1:3,9;5 7:5c

From now onwards, then, we will not consider anyone by human standards: even if we were once familiar with Christ according to human standards, we do not know him in that way any longer. [g] ·So for anyone who is in Christ, there is a new creation: [h] the old order is gone and a new being is there to see. [i] ·It is all God's work; he reconciled us to himself through Christ and he gave us the ministry of reconciliation. ·I mean, God was in Christ reconciling the world to himself, not holding anyone's faults against them, but entrusting to us the message of reconciliation.

Is 43:18–19 Rm 5:10

So we are ambassadors for Christ; it is as though God were urging you through us, and in the name of Christ we appeal to you to be reconciled to God. ·For our sake he made the sinless one a victim for sin, [j] so that in him we might become the uprightness of God.

Is 53:5–12 Rm 8:3 Ga 3:13 Heb 4:15 1 P 2:24 1 Jn 3:5 1 Co 3:9

6 As his fellow-workers, we urge you not to let your acceptance of his grace come to nothing. ·As he said, 'At the time of my favour I have answered you; on the day of salvation I have helped you;' well, now is the real time of favour, now the day of salvation [a] is here. ·We avoid putting obstacles in anyone's way, so that no blame may attach to our work of service; ·but in everything we prove ourselves authentic servants of God; by resolute perseverance in times of hardships, difficulties and distress; ·when we are flogged or sent to prison or mobbed; labouring, sleepless, starving; ·in purity, in knowledge, in patience, in kindness; in the Holy Spirit, in a love free of affectation; ·in the word of truth and in the power of God; by using the weapons of uprightness for attack and for defence: ·in times of honour or disgrace, blame or praise; taken for impostors and yet we are genuine; ·unknown and yet we are acknowledged; dying, and yet here we are, alive; scourged but not executed; ·in pain yet always full of joy; poor and yet making many people rich; having nothing, and yet owning everything.

Is 49:8 8:21 4:8–10;11: 23–27 1 Co 4:9–13 10:4 Ep 6:11b 1 Co 7:29–31 ·4:11 Rm 8:32 1 Co 1:7

A warning

People of Corinth, we have spoken frankly and opened our heart to you. ·Any distress you feel is not on our side; the distress is in your own selves. ·In fair exchange—I speak as though to children of mine—you must open your hearts too.

7:3 Ga 4:19

[b]Do not harness yourselves in an uneven team with unbelievers; how can uprightness and law-breaking be partners, or what can light and darkness have in common? ·How can Christ come to an agreement with Beliar and what sharing can

Dt 22:10 Ep 5:11 Jn 8:12b Dt 13:14b

16 there be between a believer and an unbeliever? •The temple of God cannot compromise with false gods, and that is what we are[c]—the temple of the living God. We have God's word for it: I shall fix my home among them and live among 17 them; I will be their God and they will be my people. •Get away from them, purify yourselves, says the Lord. Do not touch anything unclean, and then I shall welcome 18 you. •I shall be father to you, and you will be sons and daughters to me, says the almighty Lord.

1 Since these promises have been made to us, my dear friends, we should wash ourselves clean of everything that pollutes either body or spirit, bringing our sanctification to completion in the fear of God.

2 Keep a place for us in your hearts.[a] We have not injured anyone, or ruined 3 anyone, or taken advantage of anyone. •I am not saying this to condemn anybody; as I have already told you, you are in our hearts—so that together we live and 4 together we die. •I can speak with the greatest frankness to you; and I can speak with the greatest pride about you: in all our hardship, I am filled with encouragement and overflowing with joy.

1 Co 3:16–17

Lv 26:11–12
Ezk 37:27
•Is 52:11
Jr 51:45

2 S 7:14
Is 43:6
Jr 31:9
Jn 1:12+
Heb 10:22
Rm 1:9e;7:5c

6:11–13

8:24;9:2;12:10
Col 1:24

Paul in Macedonia; he is joined by Titus

5 Even after we had come to Macedonia, there was no rest for this body of ours.[b] Far from it; we were beset by hardship on all sides, there were quarrels all around 6 us and misgivings within us. •But God, who encourages all those who are dis- 7 tressed, encouraged us through the arrival of Titus; •and not simply by his arrival only, but also by means of the encouragement that you had given him, as he told us of your desire to see us, how sorry you were and how concerned for us; so that I was all the more joyful.

Dt 32:25

2:13

8 So now, though I did distress you with my letter,[c] I do not regret it. Even if I did 9 regret it—and I realise that the letter distressed you, even though not for long—•I am glad now, not because you were made to feel distress, but because the distress that you were caused led to repentance; your distress was the kind that God 10 approves and so you have come to no kind of harm through us. •For to be distressed

c. Cf. 1 Co 13:12. Faith is compared to clear vision as the imperfect is to the perfect. This passage is important because it stresses the cognitive aspect of faith.

d. Here and in Ph 1:23 Paul has in mind a union of Christians with Christ on the death of each individual. Without running counter to the OT doctrine of a final general resurrection, Rm 2:6b; 1 Co 15:44w, this expectation of a blessedness for the separated soul shows the influence of Greek thought which was already present in Judaism, cf. Lk 16:22; 23:43; 1 P 3:19h. But see also the texts referring to ecstatic states when the soul is 'out of the body', 12:2seq.; cf. Rv 1:10; 4:2; 17:3; 21:10.

e. An allusion to earlier events. Paul was no doubt 'unreasonable' in his letter written 'with many tears', 2:4, but this was 'for God', to show the uncompromising demands of God. If he is 'reasonable' it is 'for you', to make an impression on his reader, in his desire to 'win people over'. In both cases he is 'compelled' by the love of Christ, 5:14.

f. Christ dies for all, that is, in the name of all, as head representing the whole of humanity. But the value of this death comes from the loving obedience which it shows, the sacrifice of the total gift of life, Rm 5:19k; Ph 2:8; cf. Lk 22:42 and par.; Jn 15:13; Heb 10:9–10. Believers participate in this death through baptism, Rm 6:3–6, and must ratify this offering of Christ by their own lives (2 Co 5:15 and Rm 6:8–11).

g. Paul does not claim to have known Jesus personally. He maintains that no one, even those who could have known him ('we') may attribute any importance to any connection 'according to human standards', family relationship, acquaintance, race. See Mk 3:31–35 and par. Others consider that Paul is contrasting his present knowledge of Christ, the Lord of Glory, with that which he had before his conversion, when he considered Christ an enemy.

h. God who created all things through Christ, cf. Jn 1:3, has restored his work, deformed by sin, by re-creating it in Christ, Col 1:15–20d. The central figure of this 'new creation', here and Ga 6:15—which extends to the whole universe, Col 1:19f; cf. 2 P 3:13; Rv 21:1—is the 'new humanity' created in Christ, Ep 2:15n, to lead a new life, Rm 6:4, of virtue and holiness, Ep 2:10; 4:24k; Col 3:10e. Cf. the 'new birth' of baptism, Rm 6:4a.

i. var. 'everything is new'.

j. God made Christ one with sinful humanity in order to make the human race one with his obedience and saving justice, see 5:14e; Rm 5:19*l*. Perhaps 'victim for sin' should here be taken as meaning 'sin', since the same Hebr. word hatta't can have both senses, see Lv 4:1–5;13.

6 a. There is an intermediary period, Rm 13:11e, between the time of Christ's coming, Rm 3:26m, and his return, 1 Co 1:8e. This period is the 'day of salvation', a time allowed for conversion, Ac 3:20seq.; it is granted to the 'remnant', Rm 11:5, and to the gentiles, Rm 11:25; Ep 2:12seq.; see Lk 21:24; Rv 6:11. Though the duration is uncertain, 1 Th 5:1a, this time of pilgrimage must be regarded as being short, 1 P 1:17; 1 Co 7:26–31; cf. Rv 10:6; 12:12; 20:3, and full of trials, Ep 5:16; 6:13, and sufferings which are a prelude to the glory to come, Rm 8:11. The end is at hand, 1 P 4:7; see Rv 1:3e and 1 Co 16:22; Ph 4:5; Jm 5:8, the Day approaches, Rm 13:11, and it is necessary to be on the watch, 1 Th 5:6; cf. Mk 13:33, and to use the time well that remains, Col 4:5; Ep 5:16, for one's own salvation and that of others, Ga 6:10, leaving the final vindication to God, Rm 12:19; 1 Co 4:5.

b. 6:14–7:1 is a warning against the infiltration of gentile practices which would split the church and cut it off from its founder. This section is somewhat alien to the context, see p. 1855.

c. var. 'you'. See Rm 12:1a; 1 Co 3:16e.

7 a. lit. 'Make room for us', which could also be translated 'you must understand us.'

b. That is, his person considered in its weakness, see Rm 7:5c.

c. The 'severe letter'; see 2:3b.

in a way that God approves leads to repentance and then to salvation with no regrets; it is the world's kind of distress that ends in death. ·Just look at this present 11 case: at what the result has been of your being made to feel distress in the way that God approves—what concern, what defence, what indignation and what alarm; what yearning, and what enthusiasm, and what justice done.[d] In every way you have cleared yourselves of blame in this matter. ·So although I wrote a letter to 12
you, it was not for the sake of the offender, nor for the one offended,[e] but only so that you yourselves should fully realise in the sight of God what concern you have for us. ·That is what I have found encouraging. 13

In addition to all this to encourage us, we were made all the more joyful by Titus' joy, now that his spirit has been refreshed by you all. ·And if I boasted about you 14 to him in any way, then I have not been made to look foolish; indeed, our boast to 1:18–19 Titus has been proved to be as true as anything we said to you. ·His personal 15 affection for you is all the stronger when he remembers how obedient you have all 1 Co 2:3b been, and how you welcomed him with fear and trembling. ·I am glad that I have 16 every confidence in you.

II: ORGANISATION OF THE COLLECTION[a]

Why the Corinthians should be generous

8 Next, brothers, we will tell you of the grace[b] of God which has been granted to 1
1 Co 16:5 the churches of Macedonia, ·and how, throughout continual ordeals of hard- 2 ship, their unfailing joy and their intense poverty have overflowed in a wealth of generosity on their part. ·I can testify that it was of their own accord that they made 3 their gift, which was not merely as far as their resources would allow, but well beyond their resources; ·and they had kept imploring us most insistently for the 4
Ac 9:13g privilege of a share in the fellowship of service to God's holy people—·it was not 5
Rm 15:31
1 Co 16:1a something that we expected of them, but it began by their offering themselves to the Lord and to us at the prompting of the will of God. ·In the end we urged Titus, 6
since he had already made a beginning, also to bring this work of generosity to completion among you. ·More, as you are rich in everything—faith, eloquence, 7 understanding, concern for everything, and love for us too[c]—then make sure that 1 Co 7:6 you excel in this work of generosity too. ·I am not saying this as an order, but 8 testing the genuineness of your love against the concern of others. ·You are well 9 aware of the generosity[d] which our Lord Jesus Christ had, that, although he was Mt 5:3d;8:20 rich, he became poor for your[e] sake, so that you should become rich through his Ph 2:6–7 poverty.[f] ·I will give you my considered opinion in the matter; this will be the 10 right course for you as you were the first, a year ago, not only to take any action but also even to conceive the project. ·Now, then, complete the action as well, so that 11
the fulfilment may—so far as your resources permit—be proportionate to your enthusiasm for the project. ·As long as the enthusiasm is there, the basis on which 12 it is acceptable is what someone has, not what someone does not have. ·It is not 13 that you ought to relieve other people's needs and leave yourselves in hardship;
Rm 15:26–27 but there should be a fair balance—·your surplus[g] at present may fill their deficit, 14 and another time their surplus[h] may fill your deficit. So there may be a fair balance;
Ex 16:18 ·as scripture says: No one who had collected more had too much, no one who 15 collected less had too little.

The delegates recommended to the Corinthians

Thank God for putting into Titus' heart the same sincere concern for you. ·He 16, 17 certainly took our urging to heart; but greater still was his own enthusiasm, and he went off to you of his own accord. ·We have sent with him the brother[i] who is 18 praised as an evangelist in all the churches ·and who, what is more, was elected by 19 the churches to be our travelling companion in this work of generosity, a work to be administered by us for the glory of the Lord and our complete satisfaction.[j] 20 We arranged it this way so that no one should be able to make any accusation

21 against us about this large sum we are administering. ·And so we have been careful Pr 3:4 LXX
22 to do right not only in the sight of the Lord but also in the sight of people. ·Along Rm 12:17 with these, we have sent a brother of ours[k] whose eagerness we have tested over and over again in many ways and who is now all the more eager because he has so 23 much faith in you. ·If Titus is in question—he is my own partner and fellow-worker in your interests; and if our brothers—they are the emissaries[l] of the churches and 24 the glory of Christ. ·So then, in full view of all the churches, give proof that you love them, and that we were right to boast of you to them.

1 9 About the help to God's holy people, there is really no need for me to write to 2 you;[a] ·for I am well aware of your enthusiasm, and I have been boasting of it to the Macedonians that 'Achaia has been ready for a year'; your enthusiasm has 3 been a spur to many others. ·All the same, I have sent the brothers, to make sure that our boast about you may not prove hollow in this respect and that you may be 4 ready, as I said you would be; ·so that if by chance some of the Macedonians came with me and found you unprepared we—to say nothing of yourselves—would not 5 be put to shame by our confidence in you. ·So I have thought it necessary to encourage the brothers to go to you ahead of us and make sure in advance of the gift that you have already promised, so that it is all at hand as a real gift and not an imposition.

Blessings to be expected from the collection

6 But remember: anyone who sows sparsely will reap sparsely as well—and anyone Pr 11:24–25
7 who sows generously will reap generously as well. ·Each one should give as much Lk 6:38 as he has decided on his own initiative, not reluctantly or under compulsion, for 8 God loves a cheerful giver. ·God is perfectly able to enrich you with every grace, so Pr 22:8 LXX
9 that you always have enough for every ·conceivable need, and your resources overflow in all kinds of good work. As scripture says: To the needy he gave without Ps 112:9 stint, his uprightness stands firm for ever.
10 The one who so freely provides seed for the sower and food to eat will provide Is 55:10 you with ample store of seed for sowing and make the harvest of your uprightness a Ho 12:12 11 bigger one: ·you will be rich enough in every way for every kind of generosity that 12 makes people thank God for what we have done. ·For the help provided by this contribution not only satisfies the needs of God's holy people, but also overflows 1:11 13 into widespread thanksgiving to God; ·because when you have proved your quality by this help, they will give glory to God for the obedience which you show in 1 Co 16:1a professing the gospel of Christ, as well as for the generosity of your fellowship Ac 2:42 14 towards them and towards all. ·At the same time, their prayer for you will express the affection they feel for you[b] because of the unbounded grace God has given 15 you. ·Thanks be to God for his gift that is beyond all telling![c] 8:9
Rm 5:15–16

d. The feelings and conduct of the Corinthians towards Paul and the offender after his severe letter, see 2:5–8.

e. The one offended was probably an envoy of Paul's. On him and the offender, 2:6c; we have no idea what the actual offence was.

8 a. On this collection, particularly dear to Paul, see 1 Co 16:1a.

b. Various favourite themes are used by Paul to persuade the Corinthians to be generous: poverty as a source of enrichment to others here and 6:10; following Christ's example, v. 9; the gift of God, v. 1, giving rise to the gift of the Christians, v. 4 and 5; cf. 9:8.

c. var. 'the love towards us which unites us to you'.

d. Or 'grace'.

e. var. 'our'.

f. Christ is seen as stripping himself of the glory and privileges which were rightly his in order to share to the full our life, our suffering and our death. The theme is the same as Ph 2:6–11, but here the emphasis is on Christ's saving work, enriching us with the privileges he renounced, whereas in Ph 2 it is on his ultimate glorification by the Father.

The exhortation to model Christian conduct on the example of Christ is characteristic of Pauline morality. Cf. Rm 14:8; Ep 5:1; 5:25; Ph 2:5; see also 2 Th 3:7b.

g. Paul asks the Corinthians to give only from their surplus, whereas the Christians of Macedonia, in their 'intense poverty' had given 'well beyond their resources', v. 2–3. Cf. Mk 12:44 and par. But by setting before them the example of Christ, v. 9, Paul discreetly invites them to imitate the generosity of their brothers in Macedon.

h. Either material goods in the future when the situations could be reversed, or spiritual goods already now, cf. 9:14; Rm 15:27.

i. Traditionally supposed to be Luke.

j. Alternative translation: 'as evidence of our goodwill' or 'as we desired'.

k. This brother cannot be identified.

l. Greek apostoloi, apostles, see Rm 1:1b. They are 'the glory of Christ' because they show it by their actions, v. 19, by arousing in Christians conduct like his, v. 9.

III: PAUL'S APOLOGIA [a]

Paul's reply to accusations of weakness

Mt 11:29 Ph 2:1,3 1 Co 2:3
10 I urge you by the gentleness and forbearance of Christ—this is Paul now speaking personally—I, the one who is so humble when he is facing you but full of boldness at a distance. [b] 1 ·Yes, my appeal to you is that I should not have to 2
1 Co 4:21 be bold when I am actually with you, or show the same self-assurance as I reckon
Rm 7:5c to use when I am challenging those who reckon that we are guided by human motives. ·For although we are human, it is not by human methods that we do 3
6:7 Ep 6:11b battle. ·The weapons with which we do battle are not those of human nature, but 4
1 Co 1:25 they have the power, in God's cause, [c] to demolish fortresses. It is ideas that we
Is 2:11–18 demolish, ·every presumptuous notion that is set up against the knowledge of God, 5
Rm 1:5d and we bring every thought into captivity and obedience to Christ; ·once you have 6 given your complete obedience, we are prepared to punish any disobedience.
11:23+ Rm 14:7 1Co 1:12;3:23+ Look at the evidence [d] of your eyes. Anybody who is convinced that he belongs to 7
Christ should go on to reflect that we belong to Christ [e] no less than he does.
Maybe I have taken rather too much pride in our authority, but the Lord gave 8 13:10 Jr 1:10 us that for building you up, not for knocking you down, and I am not going to be shamed ·into letting you think that I can put fear into you only by letter. [f] 9 Someone said, 'His letters are weighty enough, and full of strength, but when you 10 see him in person, he makes no impression and his powers of speaking are negligible.' ·I should like that sort of person to take note that our deeds when we 11 are present will show the same qualities as our letters when we were at a distance.

His reply to the accusation of ambition

3:1c We are not venturing to rank ourselves, or even to compare ourselves with certain 12 people who provide their own commendations. By measuring themselves by them-Ga 6:4 selves and comparing themselves to themselves, they only show their folly. ·By 13 contrast we do not intend to boast beyond measure, [g] but will measure ourselves by Rm 15:20–21 Col 1:25 the standard which God laid down for us, namely that of having come all the way to you. ·We are not overreaching ourselves as we would be if we had not come all 14 the way to you; in fact we were the first to come as far as you with the good news of Christ. [h] ·So we are not boasting beyond measure, about other men's work; in fact, 15 we hope, as your faith increases, to grow greater and greater by this standard of ours, [i] ·by preaching the gospel to regions beyond you, rather than boasting about 16
Jr 9:22–23 1 Co 1:31 work already done in someone else's province. [j] ·Let anyone who wants to boast, 17 boast of the Lord. ·For it is not through self-commendation that recognition is won, 18 but through commendation.

Paul is driven to sound his own praises

11 I wish you would put up with a little foolishness from me—not that you 1
Dt 4:24f Ho 1:2b Ep 5:27 Rv 21:2,9 Gn 3:1–6 don't do this already. [a] ·The jealousy that I feel for you is, you see, God's 2 own jealousy: I gave you all in marriage to a single husband, a virgin pure for presentation to Christ. [b] ·But I am afraid that, just as the snake with his cunning 3 seduced Eve, your minds may be led astray from single-minded [c] devotion to Christ. ·Because any chance comer has only to preach a Jesus [d] other than the one 4 we preached, or you have only to receive a spirit different from the one you Ga 1:6–9 received, or a gospel different from the one you accepted—and you put up with that only too willingly. ·Now, I consider that I am not in the least inferior to the 5 12:11 1 Co 2:1–5 super-apostles. [e] ·Even if there is something lacking in my public speaking, this is 6 not the case with my knowledge, as we have openly shown to you at all times and before everyone. [f]
Have I done wrong, then, humbling myself so that you might be raised up, by 7
Ac 18:3d 1 Co 9:18 preaching the Gospel of God to you for nothing? ·I was robbing other churches, 8 9 taking wages from them in order to work for you. ·When I was with you and needed money, I was no burden to anybody, for the brothers from Macedonia brought me as much as I needed when they came; I have always been careful not to 10 let myself be a burden to you in any way, and I shall continue to be so. ·And as Christ's truth is in me, this boast of mine is not going to be silenced in the regions of 11, 12 Achaia. ·Why should it be? Because I do not love you? God knows that I do. ·I will go on acting as I do at present, to cut the ground from under the feet of those who 13 are looking for a chance to be proved my equals in grounds for boasting. [g] ·These people are counterfeit apostles, dishonest workers disguising themselves as 14 apostles of Christ. ·There is nothing astonishing in this; even Satan disguises 15 himself as an angel of light. ·It is nothing extraordinary, then, when his servants disguise themselves as the servants of uprightness. They will come to the end appropriate to what they have done.

8:1–2 Ph 4:12,15

12:15

16 To repeat: [h] let no one take me for a fool, but if you do, then treat me as a fool, 17 so that I, too, can do a little boasting. ·I shall not be following the Lord's way in what I say now, but will be speaking out of foolishness in the conviction that I have 18 something to boast about. ·So many people boast on merely human grounds that I 19 shall too. ·I know how happy you are to put up with fools, being so wise your- 20 selves; ·and how you will still go on putting up with a man who enslaves you, eats up all you possess, keeps you under his orders and sets himself above 21 you, or even slaps you in the face. ·I say it to your shame; perhaps we have been too weak. [i]

Rm 7:5c

3:1c

Whatever bold claims anyone makes—now I am talking as a fool—I can make 22 them too. [j] ·Are they Hebrews? So am I. Are they Israelites? So am I. Are they 23 descendants of Abraham? So am I. ·Are they servants of Christ? I speak in utter folly—I am too, and more than they are: I have done more work, I have been in prison more, I have been flogged more severely, many times exposed to death.

Ph 3:4–6
Ac 22:3
Rm 11:1
Ga 1:13–14

6:5;10:7

9 a. Paul has, however, just done so at length. Ch. 9 may perhaps be a separate note to the churches of Achaia, inserted here later because of its similarity to the exhortation to the church at Corinth in ch. 8. See p. 1855.

b. Paul puts his teaching of 1 Co 13:5 into practice, for certain members of this community had made life difficult for him, Ga 2:4seq. By this collection he aims to disarm such hostility by showing the deference and support of the churches of gentile origin to the mother Church from which they received their spiritual goods. Rm 15:27.

c. The redemption.

10 a. If 2 Co is a single letter, at least there is here a sudden change of subject and tone: see p. 1855. One possibility is that there was an interruption in the dictation of the letter, and that after completing Ch. 9, Paul received new information about the Corinthians' state of mind and their feelings towards him; perhaps including the comment quoted in v. 10, and alluded to in 10:1. See also 12:16,20.

b. An allusion to the sarcastic reproaches of his enemies, see v. 10.

c. Or 'in the eyes of God'.

d. Or 'You look only at appearances'.

e. Either 'Christ's party' as in 1 Co 1:12j or, more likely, believers who claimed to have a monopoly of Christ.

f. Cf. v. 11. The Corinthians are not to think that Paul's severity is confined to words.

g. var. 'Oh no; by measuring ourselves against ourselves and comparing ourselves with our own selves, we shall be doing no unmeasured boasting.'

h. The meaning of vv. 12–14 is: My opponents' sole cause for boasting is the power and the gifts that they claim to possess in themselves, v. 12, whereas I am able to produce the evidence that I have done the work that God set me to do, of founding the church at Corinth, vv. 13–14.

i. Alternative translation 'we are trusting, when your faith has developed, to grow further in your esteem and to continue to grow according to the standard allotted to us.'

j. It was Paul's rule not to build on the foundations of another, Rm 15:20seq.

11 a. Or perhaps 'Go on! Be indulgent to me!' On this foolishness of Paul see 5:13e; 11:17; 12:11.

b. Paul, the friend of the bridegroom, presents to him his fiancée. Since Ho 2, the love of Yahweh for his people has been represented by the love of husband for wife: Ex 16:23; Is 49:14–21; 50:1; 54:1–10; 62:4–5; Jr 2:1–7; 3; 31:22; 51:5. The NT takes up the same image: Mt 22:2seq.; 25:1seq.; Jn 3:28–29; Ep 5:25–33; Rv 19:7; 21:2.

c. add. 'and pure'.

d. Presumably Jesus presented from an earthly point of view, see 5:16g, with less emphasis on the risen Lord, head of the new creation, 5:17h. The phrase can also be understood as a conditional: if this happened you would accept it. In any case the situation seems to be less serious than in Ga 1:6–9; but it could become serious.

e. 'Super-apostles'; the term recurs in 12:11, where it is contrasted with 'true apostles' and the same men are termed 'counterfeit apostles' in 11:13. The use of the word is sarcastic, and it must not be taken to mean the Twelve, whose authority may be implicitly admitted by Paul, Ga 1:17; 2:9. By the time of this Letter, the circle of apostles was wider than the Twelve, 1 Co 15:7g. Paul could also mean those who claimed the title without any right to do so.

f. Or 'in every way'.

g. Paul's opponents, the 'super-apostles' of v. 5, would never dare to challenge the selflessness which is the mark of Paul's apostolic mission.

h. In fact, however, he has never said it—contrast 11:1. Paul writes with such a passion of rhetoric that there is no time for precision. His foolishness (a word that rankles) 11:1,17,19,21,23; 12:11, which is not madness 11:16; 12:6, will consist of boasting on merely human grounds 11:18, that is, of his race, 11:22, his labours and sufferings, 11:23–26, his daily care for the churches, 11:28. He will add a boast of the revelations made to him, 12:1–5. This is to meet his opponents on their own ground. But his real boast is his weakness, 11:30; 12:5,9, because it is that which calls forth the strength of Christ, 12:9, proving that the power which is active in his apostolic work comes not from him but from God, 4:7c.

i. var. 'I say it to our shame.'

j. The needs of controversy several times compelled Paul, as here, to recall his past as a practising Jew, Rm 11:1; Ga 1:13–14; Ph 3:4–6; cf. Ac 22:3seq.; 26–4–5.

Dt 25:2–3 Five times I have been given the thirty-nine lashes by the Jews; 24, 25
Ac 16:22 Act 14:19 •three times I have been beaten with sticks; once I was stoned; three times I have been shipwrecked, and once I have been in the open sea for a night and a day; 26 •continually travelling, I have been in danger from rivers, in danger from brigands, in danger from my own people and in danger from the gentiles, in danger in the towns and in danger in the open country, in danger at sea and in danger from people masquer-
1 Co 4:11 ading as brothers; 27
•I have worked with unsparing energy, for many nights without sleep; I have been hungry and thirsty, and often altogether without food or drink; I have been cold and lacked clothing. 28
•And, besides all the external things, there Rm 9:2 is, day in day out, the pressure on me of my anxiety for all the churches. 29
•If any-
1 Co 9:22 one weakens, I am weakened as well; and when anyone is made to fall, I burn in agony myself.

If I have to boast, I will boast of all the ways in which I am weak. 30, 31
•The God and Father of the Lord Jesus—who is for ever to be blessed—knows that I am not lying.
Ac 9:23–25 When I was in Damascus, the governor who was under King Aretas put guards 32 round Damascus city to catch me, 33
•and I was let down in a basket through a window in the wall, and that was how I escaped from his hands.

12 I am boasting because I have to. Not that it does any good, but I will move 1 on to visions and revelations from the Lord. 2
•I know a man in Christ who fourteen years ago—still in the body? I do not know; or out of the body? I do not know: God knows—was caught up right into the third heaven. [a] 3
•And I know that
Ex 33:20i this man—still in the body? or outside the body? I do not know, God knows— 4 •was Lk 23:35+ caught up into Paradise and heard words said that cannot and may not be spoken by any human being. 5
•On behalf of someone like that I am willing to boast, but I am not going to boast on my own behalf except of my weaknesses; 6
•and then, if I do choose to boast I shall not be talking like a fool because I shall be speaking the truth. But I will not go on in case anybody should rate me higher than he sees and hears me to be, because of the exceptional greatness of the revelations.

11:29 Rm 9:2 Wherefore, so that I should not get above myself, I was given a thorn in the 7 flesh, [b] a messenger from Satan to batter me and prevent me from getting above
Mt 26:39,42,44 myself. [c] 8
•About this, I have three times pleaded with the Lord that it might leave me; 9
•but he has answered me, 'My grace is enough for you: for power is at full 4:7 Is 40:29 stretch in weakness.' It is, then, about my weaknesses that I am happiest of all to •7:4 Col 1:24 •Ph 4:13 Col 1:29 boast, so that the power of Christ may rest upon me; 10
•and that is why I am glad of weaknesses, insults, constraints, persecutions and distress for Christ's sake. For it is when I am weak that I am strong.

I have turned into a fool, but you forced me to it. It is you that should have been 11
11:5 1 Co 15:10 commending me; those super-apostles had no advantage over me, even if I am nothing at all. 12
•All the marks characteristic of a true apostle have been at work
Ac 1:8k Rm 15:19 1 Co 2:4 1 Th 1:5 among you: complete perseverance, signs, marvels, demonstrations of power. 13
•Is there any way in which you have been given less than the rest of the churches, •Ac 18:3d except that I did not make myself a burden to you? Forgive me for this unfairness! [d]
13:1 Here I am, ready to come to you for the third time and I am not going to be a 14 burden on you: it is not your possessions that I want, but yourselves. Children are not expected to save up for their parents, but parents for their children, 15 •and I am more than glad to spend what I have and to be spent for the sake of your souls. Is it because I love you so much more, that I am loved the less? [e]

All right, then; I did not make myself a burden to you, but, trickster that I am, I 16 caught you by trickery. 17
•Have I taken advantage of you through any of the people
8:16–22 I have sent to you? 18
•Titus came at my urging, and I sent his companion with him. Did Titus take advantage of you? Can you deny that he and I were following the guidance of the same Spirit and were on the same tracks?

Paul's fears and anxieties

All this time [f] you have been thinking that we have been pleading our own cause 19 before you; no, we have been speaking in Christ and in the presence of God—and 20 all, dear friends, to build you up. •I am afraid that in one way or another, when I come, I may find you different from what I should like you to be, and you may find me what you would not like me to be; so that in one way or the other there will be rivalry, jealousy, bad temper, quarrels, slander, gossip, arrogance and disorders; Rm 1:29q 1 Co 1:11 21 and when I come again, my God may humiliate me in front of you and I shall be grieved by all those who sinned in the past and have still not repented of the 1 Co 5:1 impurities and sexual immorality and debauchery that they have committed.

1 13 This will be the third time[a] I have confronted you. Whatever the mis- 12:14 •Dt 19:15
demeanour, the evidence of two or three witnesses is required to sustain a Mt 18:16 2 charge. •I gave you notice once, and now, though I am not with you, I give notice 1 Tm 5:19 again, just as when I was with you for a second time, to those who sinned before, and to all others; and it is to this effect, that when I do come next time, I shall have 3 no mercy. •Since you are asking for a proof that it is Christ who speaks in me; he 4 is not weak with you but his power is at work among you; •for, though it was out of weakness that he was crucified, he is alive now with the power of God. We, too, Rm 1:4c are weak in him, but with regard to you[b] we shall live with him by the power of God. Rm 8:11g 5 Put yourselves to the test to make sure you are in the faith. Examine yourselves.
Do you not recognise yourselves as people in whom Jesus Christ is present?— Rm 8:10
6 unless, that is, you fail the test. •But we, as I hope you will come to recognise, do
7 not fail the test. •It is our prayer to God that you may do nothing wrong—not so that we have the credit of passing a test, but because you will be doing what is right, 8 even if we do not pass the test.[c] •We have no power to resist the truth; only to Ac 4:20+ 9 further the truth; •and we are delighted to be weak if only you are strong. What we 10 ask in our prayers is that you should be made perfect. •That is why I am writing this while still far away, so that when I am with you I shall not have to be harsh, with the authority that the Lord has given me, an authority that is for building up and 10:8
not for breaking down. Jr 1:10

CONCLUSION

Recommendations, greetings, final good wishes

11 To end then, brothers, we wish you joy; try to grow perfect; encourage one another; have a common mind and live in peace, and the God of love and peace Rm 15:33 will be with you.

12 Greet one another with the holy kiss.[d] All God's holy people send you their Ph 4:22i greetings.

13 The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, the love of God and the fellowship of the Rm 16:20+
Holy Spirit be with you all.[e]

12 a. That is, to the highest heaven.

b. Perhaps a disease with severe and unforeseeable attacks; perhaps the resistance of Israel, Paul's brothers by physical descent, to the Christian faith.

c. om. 'and prevent me from getting above myself' (lit. 'so that I should not be too proud'). Possibly also the beginning of v. 7 should be read as the conclusion of v. 6. The clause is awkwardly phrased and the text critically uncertain.

d. A good example of Paul's irony at its heaviest.

e. var. '. . . souls, even if, loving you the more, I must be loved the less'. Paul is often explicit about his love for the Christians in the churches to which he is writing: 2:4;6:12,11:11;12:15; 1 Co 16:24; Ga 4:19; Ph 1:8; 1 Th 2:8, comparing it with mother-love, Ga 4:19; 1 Th 2:8, or paternal love, 1 Co 4:14seq.; 2 Co 6:13. He asks the faithful to give him the same love, 6:13; but in the name of this love, he will unhesitatingly correct and reprove the churches, even though this may cool their feelings of love for him, 7:8; 12:15; Ga 4:16.

f. var. 'Once again'.

13 a. The first time was at the foundation of the church there, the second formed the 'intermediate visit', see p. 1854.

b. 'Towards you', omitted by some authorities.

c. This test will be the conduct of Paul and the Corinthians at his approaching visit, when Paul will give proof that Christ is acting through him, 13:3seq. This proof will be to the Corinthians' disadvantage, 13:6, unless they change their ways; Paul will triumph through the sanctions he applied, 13:7. But if they do change their ways, Paul will not have to make use of his power, and will give the impression of being weak beside their strength, 13:9; he will appear to fail in the test, 13:7, for they will be able to say that his threats are only a matter of words, see 10:9seq. He nevertheless accepts the possibility with joy; it will be humiliating for him but magnificent for his beloved disciples.

d. The kiss of peace, familiar in the liturgy of the Eucharist as the symbol of Christian fellowship and unity, Rm 16:16; 1 Co 16:20; 1 Th 5:26.

e. This trinitarian formula, probably derived from liturgical usage, see also Mt 28:19, is echoed in many passages of the epistles where the several functions of the three Persons are referred to as the various contexts suggest: 1:21seq.; Rm 1:4c; 15:16,30; 1 Co 2:10–16; 6:11,14,15,19; 12:4–6; Ga 4:6; Ep 1:3–14; 2:18,22; 4:4–6; Ph 2:1; Tt 3:5seq.; Heb 9:14; 1 P 1:2; 3:18; 1 Jn 4:2; Rv 1:4seq.; 22:1; cf. Ac 10:38; 20:28; Jn 14:16,18,23. Note in 1 Co 6:11; Ep 4:4–6 the triple formulations emphasising the trinitarian thought. See also the trio of theological virtues in 1 Co 13.13e.

GALATIANS

THE LETTER OF PAUL TO THE CHURCH IN GALATIA

Address [a]

1:11seq. Rm 1:1a,b Rm 1:4c

1 From Paul, an apostle appointed not by human beings nor through any human 1 being but by Jesus Christ and God the Father who raised him from the dead, and all the brothers who are with me, to the churches of Galatia. ·Grace and 2, 3 peace from God the Father and our Lord Jesus Christ ·who gave himself for our 4 Col 1:13–14 ·1 Jn 5:19 sins to liberate us from this present wicked world, [b] in accordance with the will of Rm 16:27n our God and Father, ·to whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen. 5

A warning [c]

2 Th 2:2 I am astonished that you are so promptly turning away from the one who called 6
2 Co 11:4 you in the grace of Christ and are going over to a different gospel—·not that it is 7 another gospel; [d] except that there are trouble-makers among you who are seeking to pervert the gospel of Christ. ·But even if we ourselves or an angel from heaven 8 Rm 9:3b preaches to you a gospel other than the one we preached to you, let God's curse be on him. [e] ·I repeat again what we declared before: anyone who preaches to you a 9 1 Co 11:2+ gospel other than the one you were first given is to be under God's curse. ·Whom 10 1 Th 2:4 Rm 1:1 am I trying to convince now, human beings or God? Am I trying to please human beings? [f] If I were still [g] doing that I should not be a servant of Christ.

I: PAUL'S APOLOGIA

God's call

Now [h] I want to make it quite clear to you, brothers, about the gospel that was 11
Mt 16:17 preached by me, that it was no human message. ·It was not from any human being 12 that I received it, and I was not taught it, but it came to me through a revelation of 2 Co 11:21c Ac 8:1–3,1a Jesus Christ. [i] ·You have surely heard how I lived in the past, within Judaism, 13 and how there was simply no limit to the way I persecuted the Church of God in Ac 26:4–5 my attempts to destroy it; ·and how, in Judaism, I outstripped most of my Jewish 14
Mk 7:3seq. contemporaries in my limitless enthusiasm for the traditions of my ancestors.
Is 49:1 Jr 1:5 Lk 1:15 But when God, who had set me apart from the time when I was in my mother's 15 womb, called me through his grace and chose ·to reveal his Son in me, [j] so that I 16
Ac 9:3–19par. and notes should preach him to the gentiles, I was in no hurry to confer with any human Mt 16:17 Rm 1:1b being, ·or to go up to Jerusalem [k] to see those who were already apostles before 17
Ac 9:26–30,26m me. Instead, I went off to Arabia, [l] and later I came back to Damascus. ·Only after 18 three years did I go up to Jerusalem to meet Cephas. I stayed fifteen days with him
Ac 12:17f ·but did not set eyes on any of the rest of the apostles, only James, [m] the Lord's 19
Mt 12:46o Rm 1:9e brother. ·I swear before God that what I have written is the truth. ·After that I went 20, 21 to places in Syria and Cilicia; ·and was still unknown by sight to the churches of 22

23 Judaea which are in Christ, •they simply kept hearing it said, 'The man once so ▶Ac 9:30; 11:25–26
24 eager to persecute us is now preaching the faith that he used to try to destroy,' •and they gave glory to God for me.

The meeting at Jerusalem

Ac 11:30p;15:1a

1 2 It was not until fourteen years[a] had gone by that I travelled up to Jerusalem
2 again, with Barnabas, and I took Titus with me too. •My journey was inspired Ac 4:36p 2 Co 2:13d by a revelation and there, in a private session with the recognised leaders, I expounded the whole gospel that I preach to the gentiles, to make quite sure that 3 the efforts I was making and had already made should not be fruitless.[b] •Even 5:7d then, and although Titus, a Greek, was with me, there was no demand that he 4 should be circumcised;[c] •but because of some false brothers who had secretly insinuated themselves to spy on the freedom that we have in Christ Jesus, intending Rm 6.15g
5 to reduce us to slavery—•people we did not[d] defer to for one moment, or the truth
6 of the gospel preached to you might have been compromised. . .•but those who were recognised as important people—whether they actually were important or not: There is no favouritism with God—those recognised leaders, I am saying, had Dt 10:17f
7 nothing to add to my message.[e] •On the contrary, once they saw that the gospel for Ac 15:3seq., 12 Rm 15:17–19 the uncircumcised had been entrusted to me, just as to Peter the gospel for the 8 circumcised •(for he who empowered Peter's apostolate to the circumcision also 9 empowered mine to the gentiles), •and when they acknowledged the grace that had been given to me, then James and Cephas and John,[f] who were the ones recognised 1:19+ Ac 12:17f as pillars, offered their right hands to Barnabas and to me as a sign of partnership:
10 we were to go to the gentiles and they to the circumcised.[g] •They asked nothing

1 a. This opening is shorter and less friendly than in any other letter: there is not a single word of praise for the Galatians. In vv. 1 and 4, Paul brings in the two main themes of his letter: 1 He is a true apostle, ch. 1–2. 2 He brings the good news that we are saved through faith in Jesus Christ, and that Christians are therefore free, ch. 3–5.

b. The present world, or present age, as opposed to the 'world to come' of the messianic era. It coincides with the rule of Satan, Ac 26:18, 'god of this world', 2 Co 4:4; cf. Jn 8:12; 12:31i; Ep 2:2; 6:12, and with the rule of sin and Law, Ga 3:19. By dying and rising Christ has freed us from these forces and made us members of his kingdom, of God's kingdom, Rm 14:17; Ep 5:5; Col 1:13, though we shall not be completely freed till we also rise from the dead at the second coming, see Rm 5–8.

c. This warning takes the place of the thanksgiving with which Paul's letters usually begin, Rm 1:1a.

d. There is only one gospel, 2 Co 11:4, preached by all the apostles, 1 Co 15:11, for the service of which Paul has been set apart by God, Rm 1:1; 1 Co 1:17; cf. Ga 1:15,16. As in the gospels, Mk 1:1a, and Acts 5:42q, it is the good news proclaimed by word of mouth and listened to. Its content is the revelation of the Son Jesus Christ, Rm 1:1–4, risen from the dead, 1 Co 15:1–5; 2 Tm 1:10, after his crucifixion, 1 Co 2:2, which has inaugurated for the benefit of all sinners, whether Jewish or gentile, Rm 3:22–24, the time of justification, Rm 1:16h, and salvation, Ep 1:13, announced by the prophets, Rm 16:25,26; 1 P 1:10. 'The gospel' or the 'good news' can refer both to the apostle's vocation and to the message which he preaches, 2 Co 2:12; 8:18; Ph 1:5,12; 4:3,15; 1 Th 3:2; Phm 13. The effective power of the proclamation is from God, 1 Th 1:3 (see also 2:13). As the Word of truth which discloses the grace of God, Ac 14:3; 20:24,32; 2 Co 6:1; Ep 1:13; Col 1:5,6, it brings salvation to those who receive it with faith, Rm 1:16,17k; 3:22; 10:14,15; Ph 1:28, and obey it, Rm 1:5; 10:16; 2 Th 1:8. It bears fruit and grows, Col 1:6, and the ministry of the apostle who 'fully carries it out', Rm 15:19, is the main source of all Christian hope, Col 1:23.

e. lit. anathema, see Rm 9:3b. In this context, cursed, see Dt 7:26; 1 Co 5:5d.

f. It appears that the Judaisers accused Paul of trying to make the gentiles' conversion easier by not insisting on circumcision. But on this occasion at least, he retorts, he cannot be suspected of a conciliatory attitude.

g. As formerly, before his conversion, when Paul used to preach circumcision.

h. var. 'But'.

i. Jesus Christ was both source and content of this revelation, v. 16. Paul does not mean that he learnt everything by direct revelation, still less all at once on the road to Damascus; he is thinking of the doctrine of salvation by faith without the works of the Law; this alone is here at issue.

j. Others translate 'reveal his Son to me'. Paul is not denying that his vision was real, 1 Co 9:1; 15:8; see also Ac 9:17; 22:14; 26:16, he is stressing that it was personal to himself, and he relates to this his call to be apostle of the gospel to the gentiles, 2:8,9; Rm 1:1b; Ep 3:2–3; 1 Tm 2:7.

k. var. 'leave for', 'go to'.

l. Probably the kingdom of the Nabataean Arabs to the south of Damascus, 1 M 5:25h, where Paul took refuge from Aretas, 2 Co 11:32.

m. Others translate 'except James'; but to do so presumes that either Paul supposed him to be one of the Twelve or that the term 'apostles' is here used with a less precise meaning, see Rm 1:1b.

2 a. Reckoning from the last meeting with Peter or else, more probably, from Paul's conversion. It is possible that the 'three years' of 1:18 and the 'fourteen' of 2:1 are no more than just over one and twelve respectively, since it was customary to count even the last few days or the first few days of a year as a whole year.

b. lit. 'for fear I was running or had run to no purpose'. Paul is not in any doubt of the truth of his gospel, but the foundation of the churches made it essential that there should be no break of the link to the mother church, here represented by the three 'recognised leaders', the 'pillars' of v. 9; that is why he felt the collection for the 'poor' in Jerusalem to be important, see 1 Co 16:1a; see also v. 10.

c. On another occasion, Paul did have Timothy circumcised; but Timothy's mother was a Jewess, and so he was by definition a Jew, Ac 16:3, cf. 1 Co 9:20.

d. By omitting 'not', the Old Latin version makes Paul admit that he gave way for a moment. Papyrus Beatty has 'yield' rather than 'defer'.

e. lit. 'laid down nothing more for me', see v. 2.

f. 'James, Cephas and John'; var. 'James, Peter and John', 'Peter, James and John' or 'James and John'.

g. Not, as it seems, a racial distinction, but a recognition of different geographical territories. 'The circumcised' (lit. 'the circumcision') refers to the Jews in Palestine; in the territory of 'the gentiles', the resident Jews were always Paul's first concern, Ac 13:5e.

1 Co 16:1a more than that we should remember to help the poor, as indeed I was anxious to do in any case.

Ac 15:1a Peter and Paul at Antioch

However, when Cephas came to Antioch, then I did oppose him to his face since 11
Ac 10:1a he was manifestly in the wrong.[h] ·Before certain people from James came, he used 12 to eat with gentiles;[i] but as soon as these came, he backed out and kept apart from them, out of fear of the circumcised. ·And the rest of the Jews put on the same act 13 as he did, so that even Barnabas was carried away by their insincerity.

When I saw, though, that their behaviour was not true to the gospel, I said to 14
Cephas in front of all of them, 'Since you, though you are a Jew, live like the gentiles and not like the Jews, how can you compel the gentiles to live like the Jews?'

The gospel as preached by Paul[j]

We who were born Jews and not gentile sinners[k] ·have nevertheless learnt that 15, 16 someone is reckoned as upright not by practising the Law but by faith in Jesus Christ; and we too came to believe in Christ Jesus so as to be reckoned as upright Ph 3:9f Ps 143:2 Rm 3:20g by faith in Christ and not by practising the Law: since no human being can be found upright by keeping the Law. ·Now if we too are found to be sinners on the grounds 17 that we seek our justification in Christ, it would surely follow that Christ was at the service of sin. Out of the question! ·If I now rebuild everything I once demolished, 18
Rm 6:11e; 7:1b;14:8 2 Co 5:15 I prove that I was wrong before. ·In fact, through the Law I am dead to the Law[l] so 19 that I can be alive to God. ·I have been crucified with Christ and yet I am alive; yet 20
Rm 8:10–11 Ph 1:21 Col 3:3–4 it is no longer I, but Christ living in me.[m] The life that I am now living, subject to the limitation of human nature, I am living in faith,[n] faith in the Son of God[o]
2 Co 5:14 Ep 5:2,25 who loved me and gave himself for me. ·I am not setting aside God's grace as of 21
5:4 no value;[p] it is merely that if saving justice comes through the Law, Christ died needlessly.

II: DOCTRINAL MATTERS

The Christian experience

1 Co 2:2 3 You stupid people in Galatia! After you have had a clear picture of Jesus Christ 1 crucified,[q] right in front of your eyes, who has put a spell on you? ·There is 2 4:6 Rm 5:5f only one thing I should like you to tell me: How was it that you received the Spirit—was it by the practice of the Law, or by believing in the message you heard?
Having begun in the Spirit, can you be so stupid as to end in the flesh?[b] ·Can all 3, 4 the favours you have received[c] have had no effect at all—if there really has been Ac 1:8k no effect? ·Would you say, then, that he who so lavishly sends the Spirit to you, 5 and causes the miracles among you, is doing this through your practice of the Law or because you believed the message you heard?

Rm 1:16h;7:7d Witness of scripture: faith and the Law

Gn 15:6 Rm 4:3c Abraham, you remember, put his faith in God, and this was reckoned to him as 6 uprightness. ·Be sure, then, that it is people of faith who are the children of 7 Abraham. ·And it was because scripture foresaw that God would give saving 8 justice to the gentiles through faith, that it announced the future gospel to Abra-Gn 12:3b Ac 3:25 ham in the words: All nations will be blessed in you. ·So it is people of faith who 9 receive the same blessing as Abraham, the man of faith.

The curse brought by the Law

Rm 7:7d On the other hand, all those who depend on the works of the Law are under a 10
Dt 27:26 curse, since scripture says: Accursed be he who does not make what is written in the 5:3 Jm 2:10 book of the Law effective, by putting it into practice. ·Now it is obvious that nobody 11 is reckoned as upright in God's sight by the law, since the upright will live through Hab 2:4 Rm 1:17

12 faith; ·and the Law is based not on faith[d] but on the principle, whoever complies Lv 18:5
13 with it will find life in it. ·Christ redeemed us from the curse of the Law by being Rm 3:24j Dt 21:23
14 cursed for our sake[e] since scripture says: Anyone hanged is accursed, ·so that the Act 5:30j Ep 1:3
blessing of Abraham might come to the gentiles in Christ Jesus, and so that we Rm 5:5f might receive the promised Spirit[f] through faith.

The Law did not cancel the promise

15 To put it in human terms, my brothers: even when a will is only a human one, once 16 it has been ratified nobody can cancel it or add more provisions to it. ·Now the promises were addressed to Abraham and to his progeny. The words were not and Gn 12:7c to his progenies in the plural, but in the singular; and to your progeny,[g] which 17 means Christ. ·What I am saying is this: once a will had been long ago ratified by God, the Law, coming four hundred and thirty years later, could not abolish it and Ex 12:40 18 so nullify its promise.[h] ·You see, if the inheritance comes by the Law, it no longer comes through a promise; but it was by a promise that God made his gift to Rm 11:6 Abraham.

The purpose of the Law

Rm 7:7d

19 Then what is the purpose of the Law? It was added to deal with crimes[i] until the 'progeny' to whom the promise had been made should come;[j] and it was promul-
20 gated through angels,[k] by the agency of an intermediary. ·Now there can be an 4:3b Ac 7:38;53+
21 intermediary only between two parties, yet God is one[l].·Is the Law contrary, Col 2:15m Heb 2:2 then, to God's promises? Out of the question! If the Law that was given had been capable of giving life, then certainly saving justice would have come from the Law.
22 As it is, scripture makes no exception when it says that sin is master everywhere; Ps 14:1–3 Rm 3:9–20,23; 11:32 so the promise can be given only by faith in Jesus Christ to those who have this faith.[m]

h. In itself, Peter's behaviour could be justified; Paul will do the same in other circumstances, Ac 16:3; 21:26; 1 Co 8:13; Rm 14:21; cf. 1 Co 9:20. But in the present circumstances it implied that only convert Jews who practised the Law were real Christians, and this might produce two distinct communities, separate even in their eucharistic meals. Above all, Peter's conduct was 'insincere', v. 13, precisely when he should have made his principles clear.

i. Gentile converts, so also in v. 14, as opposed to the 'circumcised' of v. 12 and 'the Jews' of v. 13, who are converts from Judaism.

j. This paragraph begins as a continuation of Paul's argument to Peter; but it is in fact addressed to all Judaisers and particularly to those in Galatia.

k. 'gentile sinners' is a technical term, perhaps used with a touch of irony; though of course Paul never doubted that Israel kept a privileged position, Rm 1:16; 3:1; 9:4–5, even though unfaithful for a time, Rm 11:12seq.

l. So laconic as to be obscure; it can be understood in two ways: 1 Christians, crucified with Christ, are dead with Christ and therefore, like Christ, dead to the Mosaic Law, see Rm 7:1seq.—and indeed in virtue of that Law, 3:13; this is why Christians already share the life of the risen Christ, Rm 6:4–10; 7:4–6 with notes. 2 Christians are dead to the Mosaic Law only in obedience to a higher law, the law of faith and of the Spirit, Rm 8:2.

m. By faith, Rm 1:16, Christ becomes in a sense the subject of all the living acts of a Christian, Rm 8:2,10–11,10f; Ph 1:21; cf. Col 3:3.

n. Though still living 'in the flesh', Christians already have the life of the Spirit, Rm 7:5c; cf. Ep 3:17; on this paradox, see Rm 8:18–27.

o. var. 'faith in God and in Christ'.

p. By returning to the Law, see 3:17.

3 a. The foundation of everything Paul teaches is the idea that we are redeemed because Christ died and rose again, see 1:1–4; 6:14; Ac 13:26–39; 1 Co 1:17–25; 2:2; 15:1–4,1a; 1 Th 1:9,10.

b. The immediate reference may be to circumcision which had been urged by Judaising preachers.

c. Others translate 'all the sufferings you have undergone'.

d. The Law demands a whole way of life, v. 10 and 5:3; cf. Jn 2:10, which it is insufficient to produce of itself, cf. Ac 15:10; Rm 7:7d.

e. To free the human race from the curse which it had incurred by disobedience to the Law, Christ made himself answerable for the curse, see Rm 8:3c; 2 Co 5:21; Col 2:14. The curse from Dt 21:23, which is part of the old code of criminal law, is introduced in the rabbinical manner, which permits any isolated quotation, or even a single word, to be adduced from scripture to support an argument; Christ was content to be termed a criminal by the Jews, like the servant of Is 53.

f. lit. 'the promise of the Spirit', var. 'the blessing of the Spirit'.

g. The use in scripture of a collective capable of indicating an individual enables Paul to illustrate his argument with a play on words.

h. God's promise to the Fathers, Gn 12:1a; 15:1a; Rm 4:13f; Heb 11:8, is here regarded as an unconditional bequest, or will, see Heb 9:16,17, made or 'affirmed' before the Law was 'given'. If, long afterwards, he had made fulfilment of his promise depend on observance of the Law, this would have been to make the promise a promise no longer, but a bilateral contract, v. 20, and God would be contradicting himself. In fact, the Law was given for quite a different purpose, vv. 19,24; namely to unmask sin and lead consciences towards faith in Christ vv. 24–25.

i. 'It was added to deal with crimes.' On the meaning of this terse statement, see note h above, and Rm 7:7d.

j. lit. 'Why then the Law? It was added on account of crimes until that progeny came. . . .' var. 'Why then the law of works? It was added until that progeny came. . . .'

k. In Jewish tradition angels were present at Sinai when the Law was given. The 'intermediary' is Moses, see Ac 7:38k.

l. The Law was given through an intermediary; the promise came directly from God.

m. Saving justice is a free gift; it may not be claimed as a due, or as earned by obedience.

The coming of faith

But before faith came, we were kept under guard by the Law, locked up to wait for 23
the faith which would eventually be revealed to us. ·So the Law was serving as a 24 slave to look after us,[n] to lead us to Christ, so that we could be justified by faith.
But now that faith has come we are no longer under a slave looking after us; 25
4:5–7 Jn 1:12 for all of you[o] are the children of God, through faith, in Christ Jesus, ·since 26, 27
Rm 8:14seq..29 ·Rm 6:4a;13:14 Ep 4:24 ·Rm 10:12 1 Co 12:13 Col 3:11 ·Jn 17:21seq. every one of you that has been baptised[p] has been clothed in Christ. ·There can be 28 neither Jew nor Greek, there can be neither slave nor freeman, there can be neither male nor female—for you are all one in Christ Jesus.[q] ·And simply by 29 being Christ's, you are that progeny of Abraham,[r] the heirs named in the promise.

Sons of God

4 What I am saying is this:[a] an heir, during the time while he is still under age, is 1 no different from a slave, even though he is the owner of all the property; ·he 2 is under the control of guardians and administrators until the time fixed by his father. ·So too with us, as long as we were still under age, we were enslaved to the 3
Ep 1:10 elemental principles of this world;[b] ·but when the completion of the time[c] came, 4
Rm 1:3 ·Rm 3:24j God sent his Son, born of a woman, born a subject of the Law, ·to redeem the 5
Rm 8:15–17 subjects of the Law, so that we could receive adoption as sons.[d] ·As you are sons, 6
Mk 14:36 Jn 15:15 God has sent into our hearts the Spirit of his Son crying, 'Abba, Father'; ·and so 7 you are no longer a slave, but a son; and if a son, then an heir, by God's own act.
1 Co 12:2 But formerly when you did not know God, you were kept in slavery to things 8
1 Co 8:4–5 1 Th 1:9 ·1 Co 13:12 which are not really gods at all, ·whereas now that you have come to recognise 9 God—or rather, be recognised by God—[e] how can you now turn back again to those powerless and bankrupt elements whose slaves you now want to be all over Col 2:16,20 again? ·You are keeping special days, and months, and seasons and years—·I am 10, 11
Ph 2:16 1 Th 3:5 beginning to be afraid that I may, after all, have wasted my efforts on you.

A personal appeal

2 Th 3:7b 1 Co 9:21 I urge you, brothers,—be like me,[f] as I have become like you. You have never 12 been unfair to me; ·indeed you remember that it was an illness[g] that first gave me 13
the opportunity to preach the gospel to you, ·but though my illness was a trial to 14
Mt 10:40+ you, you did not show any distaste or revulsion; instead, you welcomed me as a messenger of God, as if I were Christ Jesus himself. ·What has happened to the 15 utter contentment you had then? For I can testify to you that you would have plucked your eyes out, were that possible, and given them to me. ·Then have I 16 2 Co 12:15e turned into your enemy simply by being truthful with you? ·Their devotion to you 17 has no praiseworthy motive; they simply want to cut you off from me, so that you may centre your devotion on them. ·Devotion to a praiseworthy cause is praise- 18 worthy at any time,[h] not only when I am there with you. ·My children, I am going 19 1 Co 4:14–15 2 Co 6:13 1 Th 2:7–8 Phm 10 through the pain of giving birth to you all over again, until Christ is formed in you;
and how I wish I could be there with you at this moment and find the right way of 20 talking to you: I am quite at a loss with you.

The two covenants: Hagar and Sarah

Tell me then, you are so eager to be subject to the Law, have you listened to what 21
Gn 16:15;21:2 the Law says?[i] ·Scripture says that Abraham had two sons, one by the slave girl 22 and one by the freewoman. ·The son of the slave girl came to be born in the way of 23
Gn 17:16 Rm 9:7–9 1 Co 10:6d human nature;[j] but the son of the freewoman came to be born through a promise.
There is an allegory here: these women stand for the two covenants. The one given 24 on Mount Sinai—that is Hagar, whose children are born into slavery; ·now Sinai is 25
Jn 8:32seq. a mountain in Arabia[k] and represents Jerusalem in its present state, for she is in Rv 21:2 Ps 87:5c,d slavery together with her children.[l] ·But the Jerusalem above is free, and that is 26
Is 54:1 the one that is our mother; ·as scripture says: Shout for joy, you barren woman 27 who has borne no children! Break into shouts of joy, you who were never in labour.

For the sons of the forsaken one are more in number than the sons of the wedded 28, 29 wife. •Now you, brothers, are like Isaac, children of the promise; •just as at that time, the child born in the way of human nature persecuted the child born through Gn 21:9 30 the Spirit, so now.[m] •But what is it that scripture says? Drive away that slave girl •1 Th 2:14f and her son; the slave girl's son is not to share the inheritance with the son of the •Gn 21:10 31 freewoman. •So, brothers, we are the children not of the slave girl but of the freewoman.

III: EXHORTATION

Christian liberty

Rm 6:15g

1 5 Christ set us free, so that we should remain free. Stand firm, then, and do not Jn 8:36 let yourselves be fastened again to the yoke of slavery.[a] Mt 11:29
Ac 15:10
2 I, Paul, give you my word that if you accept circumcision, Christ will be of no 2:21
3 benefit to you at all. •I give my assurance once again to every man who accepts
4 circumcision that he is under obligation to keep the whole Law; •once you seek to 3:10 be reckoned as upright through the Law, then you have separated yourself from Jm 2:10 5 Christ, you have fallen away from grace. •We are led by the Spirit to wait in the 6 confident hope of saving justice through faith,[b] •since in Christ Jesus it is not being Rm 5:2c circumcised or being uncircumcised that can effect anything—only faith working 6:15 through love.[c] 1 Co 7:19
•1 Co 13:13e
7 You began your race well;[d] who came to obstruct you and stop you obeying the Jm 2:14
8, 9 truth? •It was certainly not any prompting from him who called you! •A pinch of 1 Co 5:6
10 yeast ferments the whole batch. •But I feel sure that, united in the Lord, you[e] will Ph 2:1–5 not be led astray, and that anyone who makes trouble with you will be condemned, 1:7 11 no matter who he is. •And I, brothers—if I were still preaching circumcision,[f] why 1 Co 3:17

n. The educated slave whose duty was to escort the child to his tutor's, and supplement the teaching as they went. His real work is finished when he has conducted the children to their teacher. This was the function, preparatory and strictly temporary, of the Law, brought to completion by faith in Christ and by grace, Rm 6:14–15g; see Mt 5:17h.

o. All, i.e. not only 'we', who are Jews, but 'you', who are gentiles.

p. Far from being opposed to each other, faith and baptism correspond to each other, see Rm 6:4a.

q. var. 'you are all of Christ Jesus.'

r. Paul returns to the theme of the progeny of Abraham, vv. 6–9. It is no longer Abraham's physical descendants, but it is now constituted by the children of God who believe in Jesus Christ and belong to him, see Ph 3:3.

4 a. A further comparison, again taken from the law courts. Though the Jews are chosen as the heir presumptive, yet they are only slaves, v. 3, to the Law. Any Christian who wants to submit to this slavery is going back to a state of childhood, see v. 9.

b. As elsewhere, Paul is here regarding 'the Law and all its works' as part of the material world, Col 2:8,20; we were, he says, slaves to the elements that make up the physical universe, the field in which the Law operates, v. 10; Col 2:16, and to the spirits which made use of the Law, Ga 3:19k; Col 2:15,18, to dominate the universe.

c. lit. 'the fullness of time'; this phrase refers to the coming of the messianic or eschatological era, which completes the long wait of the centuries, like a measure filled at last; see Mk 1:15 and Ac 1:7i; 1 Co 10:11; Ep 1:10; Heb 1:2; 9:26; 1 P 1:20.

d. The two aspects of redemption: the negative, freedom from slavery, and the positive, adoption as sons. But notice that adoption is not only legal accession to the inheritance, v. 7 (see 3:29), but is first the real gift of new life, in which the three Persons are associated, v. 6 (see 2 Co 13:13e).

e. The Galatians were converted by God who 'knew' them before they 'knew' him.

f. Presumably by putting aside observance of the Law, cf. 1 Co 9:21.

g. This probably prolonged Paul's stay in Galatia, and he took the opportunity to preach the gospel.

h. var. 'Pursue good at any time.'

i. i.e. the witness of the scriptures, see Rm 3:19f; to inherit the promise it is not enough just to be a descendant of Abraham, see Mt 3:9; it is not enough to be descended from Abraham like Ishmael, it is necessary to be descended as the result of promise, like Isaac, Ga 4:23; it is necessary to be a spiritual descendant, not just a genealogical one, Ga 4:29; thus Isaac's birth prefigured the rebirth of Christians, Ga 4:28; cf. Rm 9:6seq. This basic argument is embellished with other more contrived comparisons.

j. lit. 'according to the flesh', i.e. in the ordinary course of nature, see Rm 7:5c, without God's working a miracle to fulfil his promise.

k. 'now Sinai is a mountain in Arabia'; var. 'Hagar stands for Sinai in Arabia' (or 'in Arabic').

l. i.e. enslaved to the Law, as opposed to the messianic Jerusalem, cf. Is 2:2, long barren, now a mother, v. 27; cf. Is 54:1–6; Rv 21:1–3.

m. Having demonstrated the Ishmael-Jews, Isaac-Christians, parallel, Paul makes two observations, vv. 29 and 30. According to some Jewish traditions Ishmael 'persecuted' Isaac, and according to the Bible, Sarah sees Ishmael as her son's rival and demands Hagar's expulsion, Gn 21:9.

5 a. To return to circumcision would be to renounce the freedom brought by faith in Christ, see Rm 6:15g. The Law and faith are mutually exclusive, vv. 2–6.

b. Or else 'The saving justice that was hoped for'.

c. Faith is the principle of the new life, 4:5;5:5, but 'through the Spirit' it is bound up with hope, v. 5, and love; see v. 6, 13–14; Rm 5:5e; 13:8; 1 Co 13:13e. It is the practice of love which shows that faith is a living faith, see 1 Jn 3:23–24.

d. One of Paul's favourite images, see 2:2, 1 Co 9:24–26; Ph 2:16; 3:12–14; 2 Tm 4:7; Heb 12:1.

e. Or else 'I have confidence in the Lord that you'.

f. As Paul's enemies apparently claimed, but see 1:10; 2:3c.

1 Co 1:23 should I still be persecuted? For then the obstacle which is the cross would have no point any more. 12 •I could wish that those who are unsettling you would go further
Ph 3:2 and mutilate themselves. [g]

Liberty and love [h]

Rm 6:15g After all, brothers, you were called to be free; do not use your freedom as an 13
1 P 2:16 Jude 4 opening for self-indulgence, but be servants to one another in love, 14 •since the Lv 19:18 Mt 22:40 Rm 13:8–10.10d whole of the Law is summarised in the one commandment: You must love your neighbour as yourself. [i] 15 •If you go snapping at one another and tearing one another to pieces, take care: you will be eaten up by one another.

Rm 8:5seq. Instead, I tell you, be guided by the Spirit, and you will no longer yield to self- 16
Rm 7:14seq. indulgence. [j] 17 •The desires of self-indulgence are always in opposition to the Spirit, and the desires of the Spirit are in opposition to self-indulgence: they are opposites, one against the other; that is how you are prevented from doing the things that you want to. 18, 19 •But when you are led by the Spirit, you are not under the Law. •When Rm 1:29q self-indulgence is at work the results are obvious: sexual vice, impurity, and sensuality, 20 •the worship of false gods and sorcery; antagonisms and rivalry, jealousy, bad temper and quarrels, disagreements, 21 •factions and malice, drunkenness, orgies and all such things. And about these, I tell you now as I have told you in the 1 Co 6:10a past, that people who behave in these ways will not inherit the kingdom of God.
1 Co 13:4–7 2 Co 6:6 Ep 5:9 1 Tm 4:12 2 P 1:5–7 On the other hand the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, 22 goodness, trustfulness, 23 •gentleness and self-control; [k] no law can touch such things as these. [l] 24 •All who belong to Christ Jesus have crucified self with all its passions and its desires.

1 Tm 1:9 Rm 6:6 Col 3:5 Rm 8:14 Ph 2:3 Since we are living by the Spirit, let our behaviour be guided by the Spirit 25, 26 •and let us not be conceited or provocative and envious of one another.

On kindness and perseverance

Mt 18:15 2 Th 3:14–15 2 Tm 2:25 Jm 5:19seq. •1 Co 10:12 6 Brothers, even if one of you is caught doing something wrong, those of you 1 who are spiritual should set that person right in a spirit of gentleness; and watch yourselves that you are not put to the test in the same way. 2 •Carry each other's Jn 13:34 Rm 8:2 burdens; that is how to keep [a] the law of Christ. 3 • Someone who thinks himself
1 Co 4:7 important, when he is not, only deceives himself; 4 •but everyone is to examine his own achievements, and then he will confine his boasting to his own achievements, Rm 14:12 not comparing them with anybody else's. 5 •Each one has his own load to carry.
Rm 15:27 When someone is under instruction in doctrine, he should give his teacher a 6
Jb 13:9 share in all his possessions. 7 •Don't delude yourself: God is not to be fooled;
Jn 3:6 Rm 6:21–22 1 Co 15:35–49 whatever someone sows, that is what he will reap. 8 •If his sowing is in the field of self-indulgence, then his harvest from it will be corruption; if his sowing is in the Spirit, then his harvest from the Spirit will be eternal life. 9 •And let us never slacken in doing good; for if we do not give up, we shall have our harvest in due time. 10 •So
1 Th 5:15 then, as long as we have the opportunity [b] let all our actions be for the good [c] of everybody, and especially of those who belong to the household of the faith. [d]

Postscript

Notice what large letters I have used in writing to you with my own hand. [e] 11, 12 •It is Rm 16:17h Col 2:18 those who want to cut a figure by human standards who force [f] circumcision on you, simply so that they will not be persecuted for the cross of Christ. 13 •Even though Rm 2:21seq. they are circumcised they still do not keep the Law themselves; they want you to Rm 3:27o be circumcised only so that they can boast of your outward appearance. [g] 14 •But as 3:1 for me, it is out of the question that I should boast at all, except of the cross [h] of our 2:19l Lord Jesus Christ, through whom the world [i] has been crucified to me, and I to the 5:6c world. [j] 15 •It is not being circumcised or uncircumcised that matters; but what
2 Co 5:17h matters is a new creation. 16 •Peace and mercy to all who follow this as their rule and to the Israel of God. [k]

17 After this, let no one trouble me; I carry branded on my body the marks of Jesus. l
18 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit, my brothers. Amen. Rm 16:20+

g. lit. 'I wish that those who are disturbing you might go even further (than circumcision) and castrate themselves.' Perhaps an allusion to the castration which was practised in the cult of Cybele. For similar sarcasm see Ph 3:2.

h. The new life of faith is fulfilled in love, v. 6; Rm 13:8; 1 Co 13:1a, and love is its only 'Law', see Rm 7:7d, producing the fruit of the Spirit, v. 22; see Rm 5:5e; Ph 1:11, not the works of self-indulgence, Ga 5:19; 6:8; see also Rm 13:12

i. The neighbour is no longer, as in Lv, 'a member of the same people'; all members of the human family are neighbours, cf. Lk 10:29–37, identified with Christ in person, Mt 25:40,45. Thus for Paul the second commandment inescapably includes the first.

j. It is to be noted that in vv. 16–21, in which self-indulgence and Spirit are contrasted, 'self-indulgence' does not mean 'originating in, or limited by the physical body' but it includes the total resources of humanity without the Spirit. 'The desires of self-indulgence' does not mean exclusively, or even primarily, the desire for sensual or bodily gratification, vv. 19,20. See Rm 7:5c.

k. add. 'chastity'.

l. For the believer united to Christ, there is no longer any external law dictating all his outward behaviour. Though Paul can use the phrase, the 'law of Christ', 6:2; Rm 8:1, it is no more than an indication that the Spirit has completely superseded and replaced the Law.

6 a. var. 'you will keep'.

b. Possibly alluding to the time that still remains before the second coming, see Rm 13:11e; 2 Co 6:2a.

c. var. 'all our actions are for the good'.

d. Christian love is first exercised within the community, Rm 14:15; 1 Th 4:9–10; 2 Th 1:3, but it is shown to all, Rm 12:18seq.; 1 Th 5:15, even one's enemies, Rm 12:20, and can serve as a testimony to all people, Rm 12:17.

e. As usual, Paul adds a few words in his own hand, cf. 1 Co 16:21–24; Col 4:18; 2 Th 3:17, and possibly Rm 16:17–20. Large letters were used for emphasis.

f. lit. 'It is those who want to make a fair show in the flesh who force . . .'

g. lit. 'glory in your flesh'.

h. Cross, see 3:1; crucified, see 2:19.

i. This present sinful world, cf. 1:4; 4:5; Jn 1:10g; 1 Co 1:20; 2 Co 4:4; Ep 2:2.

j. add. 'in Christ Jesus'.

k. The Christian community, the true Israel, heir of the promises, cf. 3:6–9, 29; 4:21–31; Rm 9:6–8, as opposed to the natural people of Israel, 1 Co 10:18.

l. The marks of ill-treatment suffered for Christ, see 2 Co 6:4–5; 11:23seq.; Col 1:24. In Paul's eyes, these marks are incomparably more glorious than any other fleshly sign could be, vv. 13–14; cf. 2 Co 11:18; Ph 3:7.

EPHESIANS

THE LETTER OF PAUL TO THE CHURCH AT EPHESUS

Address and greetings

Rm 1:1a,b
Ac 9:13g

1 Paul, by the will of God an apostle of Christ Jesus, to God's holy people,[a] 1 faithful in Christ Jesus. ·Grace and peace to you from God our Father and 2 from the Lord Jesus Christ.

I: THE MYSTERY OF SALVATION AND OF THE CHURCH

God's plan of salvation

Blessed be God the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, 3
Ga 3:14 who has blessed us with all the spiritual blessings of heaven in Christ.[b]
Jn 17:24
Ac 1:7i;5:27
1 Co 1:8e
1 P 1:20
•Jn 1:12
Rm 8:29
1 Jn 3:1
Thus he chose us in Christ before the world was made 4 to be holy and faultless before him in love,[c] marking us out for himself beforehand, to be adopted sons,[d] 5 through Jesus Christ.
Such was his purpose and good pleasure, to the praise of the glory of his grace,[e] 6
Mt 3:17o his free gift to us in the Beloved,
Rm 3:24j
‖Col 1:13–14
in whom, through his blood, we gain our freedom, 7
the forgiveness of our sins.[f]
2:7 Such is the richness of the grace which he[g] has showered on us 8
in all wisdom and insight.
Rm 16:25l He has let us know the mystery of his purpose,[h] 9
according to his good pleasure which he determined beforehand in Christ,
Mk 1:15
Ga 4:4c
for him to act upon when the times had run their course:[i] 10 that he would bring everything together under Christ, as head, Col 1:16.20 everything in the heavens and everything on earth.[j]
Dt 7:6b And it is in him[k] that we have received our heritage,[l] 11 marked out beforehand as we were,
Is 46:10
Ep 3:11
Col 1:12
Dn 4:32
Rv 4:11
under the plan of the One who guides all things as he decides by his own will, chosen to be, 12
for the praise of his glory,
the people who would put their hopes in Christ before he came.
Now you too,[m] in him, 13
‖Col 1:5
1 Th 2:13d
have heard the message of the truth and the gospel of your salvation, and having put your trust in it 4:30
Ac 2:33u
you have been stamped with the seal of the Holy Spirit of the Promise,[n]

14 who is the pledge of our inheritance, for the freedom of the people whom God has taken for his own, [o]
for the praise of his glory.

▶Rm 5:5f
▶2 Co 1:22n
•Rm 3:24j
•Is 43:21 LXX
1 P 2:9

The triumph and the supremacy of Christ

15 That is why I, having once heard about your faith in the Lord Jesus, and your love [p]
16 for all God's holy people, •have never failed to thank God for you and to remember 17 you in my prayers. •May the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of glory, give you a spirit [q] of wisdom and perception of what is revealed, to bring you to full 18 knowledge of him. •May he enlighten the eyes of your mind [r] so that you can see what hope his call holds for you, how rich is the glory of the heritage he offers 19 among his holy people, •and how extraordinarily great is the power that he has 20 exercised for us believers; this accords with the strength of his power •at work in Christ, the power which he exercised in raising him from the dead and enthroning 21 him at his right hand, in heaven, •far above every principality, ruling force, power or sovereignty, [s] or any other name that can be named, not only in this age but also 22 in the age to come. •He has put all things under his feet, and made him, as he is 23 above all things, the head of the Church; •which is his Body, the fullness of him who is filled, all in all. [t]

‖Col 1:3–4,9
Phm 4–5
•1 Co 13:13e
Ac 9:13g
Rm 1:9
2 Tm 1:3
3:14,16
Ex 24:16f
1 Jn 5:20
2 Co 4:6

Ac 9:13g

Rm 1:4c
Col 2:12
Ac 2:33u
1 P 3:22
Col 1:16;2:15
Ph 2:9
Ps 8:6
1 Co 15:24–28
Col 1:18e,19f

Salvation in Christ a free gift

1, 2 2 And you were dead, through the crimes and the sins •which used to make up your way of life when you were living by the principles of this world, obeying

‖Col 2:13;3:7

1 a. add. 'who are at Ephesus'. The words 'at Ephesus' were probably not part of the original text. The words 'who are' could be part of a very early addition. Some critics think they are authentic, that they were followed by a blank to be filled in with the name of whichever church was being sent the letter.

b. Right from the beginning Paul raises the discussion onto the heavenly plane where it remains throughout the letter, 1:20; 2:6; 3:10; 6:12. The 'spiritual blessings' listed in the following verses belong to heaven from all eternity and will there be fully realised at the end of time.

c. First blessing: the call of God's chosen ones to eternal happiness, already begun in a hidden sort of way by the union of the faithful to the glorified Christ. 'Love' here is primarily the love God has for us, and that leads him to 'choose' us and to call us to be 'holy', cf. Rm 11:28; Col 3:12; 1 Th 1:4; 2 Th 2:13, but does not exclude our love for God that results from and is a response to his own love for us, cf. Rm 5:5.

d. Second blessing: the means of becoming holy, divine sonship, of which Jesus Christ, the only Son, is source and model, cf. Rm 8:29.

e. The word 'grace' (charis) as it is used here emphasises not so much the interior gift that makes a human being holy, as the fact that God's favour and the way he manifests his glory, see Ex 24:16f, are given freely. These are the two themes that run through this account of God's blessings: their source is God's liberality, and their purpose is to make his glory appreciated by creatures. Everything comes from him, and everything should lead to him.

f. Third blessing: our redemption by an event in time, i.e. the death of Jesus.

g. God the Father.

h. Fourth blessing: the revelation of the 'mystery', 3:2–3; Rm 16:25*l*.

i. lit. 'for a dispensation of the times' fullness', see Ga 4:4seq.

j. The main theme of this letter is how the whole body of creation, having been cut off from the Creator by sin, is decomposing, and how its rebirth is effected by Christ's reuniting all its parts into an organism with himself as the head, so as to re-attach it to God. The human (Jew and gentile) and the angelic worlds are united in the same salvation, see 4:10seq.

k. Christ.

l. Fifth blessing: the choice of Israel to be God's own, a witness in the world of the messianic hope. Paul, being a Jew, here uses 'we'.

m. Sixth blessing: the call of the non-Jews to share the salvation that had, till then, been reserved for the Jews; that they will be saved is proved by the fact that they receive the Spirit as was promised.

n. Paul completes his trinitarian account of God's plan with the Spirit, since the giving of the Spirit shows the plan has reached its final stage. Nevertheless, though this gift has already begun, it is given only in a hidden way while the unspiritual world lasts, and will be given fully only when the kingdom of God is complete and Christ comes in glory, cf. Lk 24:49; Jn 1:33k; 14:26d.

o. lit. 'the setting free of that (enslaved people) which has been acquired' i.e. by God, and at the cost of the life of his Son. This is one of the occasions when Paul widens an OT concept, 'the chosen people' (like 'blessing', 'saint', 'choice', 'adoption', 'share', 'promise') by applying it to the Church as the new Israel and the body of the saved.

p. 'and your love for' var. 'and in'.

q. This gift is what technically would be called (actual) grace.

r. lit. 'heart': used in the Bible for the seat of knowledge and understanding as well as of love, conscience and emotions; sometimes to be translated 'mind'. The moral and spiritual connotations of 'heart' in the OT, Gn 8:21c, persist in the NT. God knows the heart, Lk 16:15; Ac 1:24; Rm 8:27. Human beings love God with their whole heart, Mk 12:29–30 and par. God's gift of the Spirit is put in the human heart, Rm 5:5e; 2 Co 1:22; Ga 4:6. Christ makes his home there, 3:17. Hearts which are simple 6:5; Ac 2:46; 2 Co 11:3; Col 3:22, upright Ac 8:21, pure Mt 5:8; Jm 4:8, are open without reservation to the presence and action of God. The first believers in Jerusalem have one heart and one mind, Ac 4:32.

s. Names of cosmic powers attested in Jewish apocryphal writing. Without any discussion of the mode of existence of these celestial beings, Paul insists that they are under the dominion of Christ, Col 1:16; 2:10. By associating them with the angels of OT tradition who were concerned in the giving of the Law, Ga 3:19k, he sees a place for them in salvation-history, but with an increasingly pejorative moral qualification, Ga 4:3b; Col 2:15m, which finally assimilates them with demonic forces, Ep 2:2a; 6:12d; see 1 Co 15:24p.

t. The Church, as the body of Christ, 1 Co 12:12seq., can be called the fullness (pleroma; see below 3:19; 4:13) in so far as it includes the whole new creation that shares (since it forms the setting of the human race) in the cosmic rebirth under Christ its ruler and head, see Col 1:15–20seq. The adverbial phrase 'all in all' is used to suggest something of limitless size, cf. 1 Co 12:6; 15:28; Col 3:11.

Jn 12:31 2 Co 4:4 Ep 6:12d Rm 2;3:9.23 5:6 Rm 1:18;2:8 Ex 34:6c Rm 5:8 ‖Col 2:13 Rm 8:11g Col 2:12;3:1–4 Ps 22:31–32 Rm 9:23 1:7 Rm 9:23 Rm 1:16h Rm 3:27o 1 Co 1:29+ 2 Co 5:17h

the ruler who dominates the air,[a] the spirit who is at work in those who rebel. We[b] too were all among them once, living only by our natural inclinations, 3 obeying the demands of human self-indulgence and our own whim; our nature made us no less liable to God's retribution than the rest of the world. ·But God, 4 being rich in faithful love, through the great love with which he loved us, ·even 5 when we[c] were dead in our sins, brought us to life with Christ[d]—it is through grace that you have been saved—·and raised us up with him and gave us a place with him 6 in heaven, in Christ Jesus.[e]
This was to show for all ages to come, through his goodness towards us in Christ 7
Jesus, how extraordinarily rich he is in grace. ·Because it is by grace that you have 8 been saved, through faith; not by anything of your own, but by a gift from God; not by anything that you have done, so that nobody can claim the credit. ·We 9, 10 are God's work of art, created in Christ Jesus for the good works which God has already designated to make up our way of life.

Reconciliation of the Jews and the gentiles with each other and with God

Do not forget, then, that there was a time when you[f] who were gentiles by physical 11 descent, termed the uncircumcised by those who speak of themselves as the circumcised by reason of a physical operation, ·do not forget, I say, that you were 12

Col 1:21,27 Rm 9:4–5 2:17 Is 9:5 Mi 5:4 Ga 3:28+ Col 2:14l Col 3:14–15 Is 57:19 Zc 9:10 3:12+;4:4 2 Co 13:13e Ex 12:48e Ac 9:13g ·4:11–12 Is 28:16 Rm 15:20 1 Co 3:10seq. 2 Co 6:16 Rv 21:14 Mt 16:18g 1 Co 3:16e 1 P 2:5

at that time separate from Christ[g] and excluded from membership of Israel, aliens with no part in the covenants of the Promise,[h] limited to this world, without hope[i] and without God.[j] ·But now in Christ Jesus, you that used to be so far off have 13 been brought close, by the blood of Christ.[k] ·For he is the peace between us, and 14 has made the two into one entity and broken down the barrier which used to keep them apart,[l] by destroying in his own person the hostility, ·that is, the Law of 15 commandments with its decrees.[m] His purpose in this was, by restoring peace, to create a single New Man[n] out of the two of them, ·and through the cross, to 16 reconcile them both to God in one Body;[o] in his own person he killed the hostility.
He came[p] to bring the good news of peace to you who were far off and peace to 17 those who were near. ·Through him, then, we both in the one Spirit[q] have free 18 access to the Father.
So you[r] are no longer aliens or foreign visitors; you are fellow-citizens with the 19 holy people of God and part of God's household. ·You are built upon the 20 foundations of the apostles and prophets,[s] and Christ Jesus himself is the cornerstone. ·Every[t] structure knit together in him grows into a holy temple in the Lord; 21 and you too, in him, are being built up into a dwelling-place of God in the Spirit. 22

Paul, a servant of the mystery

‖Col 1:24–29 4:1 Ph 1:13,17 Col 4:18 2 Tm 2:9 Rm 16:25l ·1 Co 7:40 2 Co 11:5seq. ·1 P 1:12 4:11 Jn 14:26r 2:12–19 2 Co 3:6 Col 1:23 1 Th 2:4 1 Co 15:8seq. Ga 2:8 Ph 4:13 Col 1:29 Rm 16:25l 1 Co 2:7–9+ 1 P 1:12 1:4 2:18

3 It is because of this that I, Paul, a prisoner of the Lord Jesus on behalf of you 1 gentiles. . . ·You have surely heard the way in which God entrusted me with 2 the grace[a] he gave me for your sake; ·he made known to me by a revelation[b] the 3 mystery I have just described briefly—·a reading of it will enable you to perceive 4 my understanding of the mystery of Christ. ·This mystery, as it is now revealed in 5 the Spirit to his holy apostles and prophets[c], was unknown to humanity in previous generations: ·that the gentiles now have the same inheritance[d] and form the same 6 Body and enjoy the same promise in Christ Jesus through the gospel. ·I have been 7 made the servant of that gospel by a gift of grace from God who gave it to me by the workings of his power. ·I, who am less than the least of all God's holy people, 8 have been entrusted with this special grace, of proclaiming to the gentiles the unfathomable treasure of Christ ·and of throwing light on the inner workings of 9 the mystery kept hidden through all the ages in God, the Creator of everything.
The purpose of this was, that now, through the Church, the principalities and 10 ruling forces should learn[e] how many-sided God's wisdom is, ·according to the 11 plan which he had formed from all eternity in Christ Jesus our Lord. ·In him we are 12 bold enough to approach God in complete confidence, through our faith in him;

13 so, I beg you, do not let the hardships I go through on your account make you waver;[f] they are your glory.[g]

Rm 5:1seq.
Col 1:22
Heb 4:16
1 P 3:18
Col 1:24

Paul's prayer

14. 15 This, then, is what I pray, kneeling before the Father, •from whom every father-16 hood,[h] in heaven or on earth, takes its name. •In the abundance of his glory may he, through his Spirit, enable you to grow firm in power with regard to your inner 17 self, •so that Christ may live in your hearts through faith, and then, planted in love
18 and built on love, •with all God's holy people you will have the strength to grasp 19 the breadth and the length, the height and the depth;[i] •so that, knowing the love of Christ,[j] which is beyond knowledge,[k] you may be filled with the utter fullness of God.[l]

Ac 1:8j
Rm 5:5f;7:22k
Jn 14:23
Col 1:23;2:7
•Ac 9:13g
•Jb 11:7–9
Col 2:9e

20 Glory be to him whose power, working in us, can do infinitely more than we can 21 ask or imagine; •glory be to him from generation to generation in the Church and in Christ Jesus for ever and ever. Amen.

1:19seq.
Ph 2:13
Rm 16:27n

2 a. Air is the habitat of demons and of their ruler Satan.

b. Paul writes as a Jew.

c. 'We' here means both the gentiles, see vv. 1–2, and the Jews, cf. v. 3. • V. 3 is a parenthesis.

d. 'with Christ'; • var. 'in Christ'. 'it is through grace'; var. (Vulg) 'through whose grace'.

e. Here as in Col 2:12; 3:1–4 the use of the past tense shows that the resurrection and triumph of Christians in heaven is considered as actually existing, whereas the future tense in Rm 6:3–11; 8:11,17seq., treats it as something that has still to take place. Treating the eschatological reality as already existing is a characteristic of the captivity epistles.

f. The description of this past that Paul now gives is meant to apply to all gentiles in a general way—not specifically to those he is writing to.

g. i.e. you had no Messiah.

h. The successive covenants made by God with Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Moses, David; see Gn 12:1a; 15:1a; Ex 19:1a; Lv 26:42,45; 2 M 8:15; Ws 18:22; Si 44–45; Rm 9:4, which contained the promise of salvation through the Messiah.

i. Hope of a Messiah, which was hitherto confined to Israel, 1:12.

j. The non-Jews had many gods but not the one true God, 1 Co 8:5seq.

k. The crucifixion of Christ that brought together Jews and non-Jews, vv. 14–15, and reconciled both with the Father, vv. 16–18.

l. Visibly symbolised by the wall separating the court of the Jews from the court of the non-Jews in the Temple, cf. Ac 21:28seq.

m. The Mosaic Law gave the Jews a privileged status and separated them from gentiles. Jesus abolished this Law by fulfilling it once for all on the cross, Col 2:14*l*.

n. This New Man is the prototype of the new humanity that God re-created (2 Co 5:17i) in the person of Christ, the second Adam (1 Co 15:45), after the sinfully corrupt race of the first Adam had died in the crucifixion (Rm 5:12seq.; 8:3; 1 Co 15:21). This New Adam has been created in 'the goodness and holiness of the truth', 4:24, and he is unique because in him the boundaries between any one group and the rest of the human race all disappear, Ga 3:27seq.; Col 3:10seq.

o. This 'one Body' is both the physical body of Jesus that was sacrificed on the cross, Col 1:22j, and the Church or 'mystical' body of Christ in which, once they are reconciled, all the parts function in their own places, 1 Co 12:12i,j.

p. Through the apostles who in his name preached the good news of salvation and peace.

q. The one Spirit that gives life to the single Body (of Christ who is one with his Church) is the Holy Spirit. The trinitarian structure of this section is repeated in v. 22.

r. Paul inserts vv. 14–18 (how Christ has united gentiles and Jews) between his contrasting descriptions of gentiles before (vv. 11–13) and after (19–22) conversion.

s. The NT prophets, cf. 3:5; 4:11; Ac 11:27m, together with the apostles, are the witnesses to whom the divine plan was first revealed and who were the first to preach the good news, cf. Mt 10:41; 23:34; Lk 11:49. This is why the Church, as well as being founded on Christ, 1 Co 3:10seq., is also said to be founded on them.

t. 'every'; var. 'the entire'.

3 a. On the grace given to the apostle to empower him to preach to the gentiles, see 3:7seq.; Rm 1:5; 15:15seq.; 1 Co 3:10. Notice, however, that 'grace' in this sentence is granted to him for him to dispense, not as a possession.

b. Cf. 2 Co 12:1,7. The immediate reference is to what was revealed to Paul on the way to Damascus, see Ac 9:15; 22:21; 26:16–18; Ga 1:16.

c. The NT prophets, see 2:20s. The OT prophets had only an obscure and imperfect knowledge of the mystery of the Messiah, cf. Mt 13:17; 1 P 1:10–12.

d. i.e. as the Jewish Christians, see 2:19.

e. The evil spirits were unaware of God's plan for salvation and so they persuaded human beings to crucify Christ, 1 Co 2:8, and it is only the existence of the Church that makes them aware of it now; cf. 1 P 1:12.

f. An alternative (and less likely) translation: 'so I pray not to lose confidence'.

g. var. 'our glory'.

h. The Gk word here translated 'fatherhood' has a more concrete sense than this English rendering might imply. It denotes any social group which owes its existence and unity to one ancestor. The origin of every human, or even angelic, grouping is in God.

i. Stoics used this expression to mean the totality of the cosmos. Paul uses it to suggest the cosmic function of Christ in the rebirth of the world. (Notice too the eschatological dimensions of the Temple and Promised Land, Ezk 40–45; Rv 21:9seq.) Here the dimensions may be those of the mystery of salvation, or more probably those of Christ's universal love on which (next verse) the mystery depends. As in the case of Wisdom, they surpass all human standards of measurement, 1:17–19,23; 2:7; 3:8; Jb 11:8–9seq.; Col 2:2seq.

j. This love for us that Christ proved by accepting death, 5:2,25; Ga 2:20, is identical with the love the Father has, 2:4,7; Rm 8:35,37,39; 2 Co 5:14,18–19. See 1 Co 13:1a.

k. The love of God cannot be 'grasped' (v. 18, using a philosophical term technical in Greek) but can be 'known' by spiritual awareness of it through love, cf. 1:17seq.; 3:3seq.; Ho 2:22v; Jn 10:14g. This awareness is something deeper than scientific knowledge, see 1 Co 13, and is less a matter of knowledge than of awareness of being loved, cf. Ga 4:9. Even awareness of this sort, however, can never 'grasp' this sort of love.

l. lit. 'in order that you may be filled to all the fullness (pleroma) of God'. (var. 'in order that all the fullness of God may be filled'.) • Christ who is filled with the divine life fills Christians with it, Col 2:9, and in this way Christians enter both the Church and the new cosmos which they help to build and which is the fullness of the total Christ, 1:23; 2:22; 4:12–13; Col 2:10f.

II: EXHORTATION

A call to unity [a]

‖Col 3:12–15

3:1a Ph 1:27 4 I, the prisoner in the Lord, urge you therefore to lead a life worthy of the vocation to which you were called. 1
1 Co 13:13e •With all humility and gentleness, and with patience, support each other in love. 2
Rm 12:5 1 Co 10:17; 12:12i •Take every care to preserve the unity of the Spirit by the peace that binds you together. 3
•There is one Body, one Spirit, just as one hope is the goal of your calling by God. 4
1 Co 1:13 1 Co 8:6;12:4–6 2 Co 13:13e •There is one Lord, one faith, one baptism, 5
•and one God and Father of all, over all, through all and within all. 6
On each one of us God's favour [b] has been bestowed in whatever way Christ 7
•Rm 12:3,6 allotted it. 8
•That is why it says:

Ps 68:18 Ac 2:33 He went up to the heights, took captives, he gave gifts to humanity. [c]

1 P 3:19h When it says, 'he went up', it must mean that he had gone down to the deepest 9 levels of the earth. [d] 10
•The one who went down is none other than the one who went up above all the heavens to fill all things. [e] 11
•And to some, his 'gift' was that they 1 Co 12:28+ should be apostles; to some prophets; to some, evangelists; to some, pastors and teachers; [f] 12
•to knit God's holy people [g] together for the work of service to build up 2:21;4:16 Tt 1:5c the Body of Christ, 13
•until we all reach unity in faith and knowledge of the Son of God and form the perfect Man [h] Col 1:23+;3:11 fully mature with the fullness of Christ himself.
1:23t Then we shall no longer be children, or tossed one way and another, and carried 14
•1 Co 14:20 Heb 13:9 5:6 hither and thither by every new gust of teaching, at the mercy of all the tricks
Col 2:4,8 people play and their unscrupulousness in deliberate deception. 15
‖Col 2:19 •If we live by the truth and in love, we shall grow completely into Christ, who is the head 16
•by whom the whole Body is fitted and joined together, every joint adding its own strength, for each individual part to work according to its function. So the body grows until it has built itself up in love.

The new life in Christ

So this I say to you and attest to you in the Lord, do not go on living the empty- 17
Rm 1:18–32 1 P 4:3 ‖Col 1:21 headed life that the gentiles live. 18
•Intellectually they are in the dark, and they are estranged from the life of God, because of the ignorance which is the consequence of closed minds. 19
•Their sense of right and wrong once dulled, they have abandoned all self-control and pursue to excess every kind of uncleanness. [i] 20
•Now that is hardly the way you have learnt Christ, 21
•unless you failed to hear him properly when you ‖Col 3:9–10 Col 3:5c were taught what the truth is in Jesus. [j] 22
•You were to put aside your old self, which belongs to your old way of life and is corrupted by following illusory desires. 23
•Your 2:15n Rm 13:14 Col 3:10e Ws 9:3 Zc 8:16 mind was to be renewed in spirit 24
•so that you could put on the New Man that has been created on God's principles, in the uprightness and holiness of the truth. [k]
So from now on, there must be no more lies. Speak the truth to one another, since 25
Rm 12:5c Col 3:9 we are all parts of one another. 26
•Even if you are angry, do not sin: never let the •Ps 4:4 LXX Mt 5:22 sun set on your anger 27, 28
•or else you will give the devil a foothold. 1 Co 12:12i 2 Co 2:11 Mt 15:11 •Anyone who was a thief must stop stealing; instead he should exert himself at some honest job with his own hands [l] Ac 18:3d;20: 34–35 so that he may have something to share with those in need.
No foul word should ever cross your lips; let your words be for the improvement 29
1 Th 4:11 Jm 3:10–12 •1:13n Is 63:10 of others, as occasion offers, and do good to your listeners; 30
•do not grieve the Holy Spirit of God who has marked you with his seal, ready for the day when we shall be set free. [m] 31
•Rm 1:29q Col 3:8 •Any bitterness or bad temper or anger or shouting or abuse must be far removed from you—as must every kind of malice. 32
•Mt 6:12,14–15par. Col 3:13 Jm 2:13 •Be generous to one another, sympathetic, forgiving each other as readily as God forgave you [n] in Christ.
•Mt 5:48 2 Th 3:7b 5 As God's dear children, then, take him as your pattern, 1, 2
•and follow Christ by loving as he loved you, giving himself up for us as an offering and a sweet-

3 smelling sacrifice to God. ·Among you there must be not even a mention of sexual 4 vice or impurity in any of its forms, or greed: this would scarcely become the holy 5 people of God! ·There must be no foul or salacious talk or coarse jokes—all this is wrong for you; there should rather be thanksgiving. ·For you can be quite certain that nobody who indulges in sexual immorality or impurity or greed—which is 6 worshipping a false god[a]—can inherit the kingdom of God. ·Do not let anyone deceive you with empty arguments: it is such behaviour that draws down God's 7 retribution on those who rebel against him. ·Make sure that you do not throw in 8 your lot with them. ·You were darkness once, but now you are light in the Lord;
9 behave as children of light, ·for the effects of the light are seen in complete
10 goodness and uprightness and truth. ·Try to discover what the Lord wants of you, 11 take no part in the futile works of darkness but, on the contrary, show them up for 12 what they are. ·The things which are done in secret are shameful even to speak of;
13, 14 but anything shown up by the light will be illuminated ·and anything illuminated is itself a light.[b] That is why it is said:[c]

Ps 40:6
Ga 2:20
Heb 7:27g
1 Jn 3:16
Ex 29:18
Ga 5:19+
Ac 9:13g
5:20+
Mt 6:24
Col 2:4,8;3:5
Heb 13:4–5
1 Co 6:9–10,10e
‖Col 3:6
4:18
Jn 8:12b
2 Co 4:6;6:14
Col 1:12–13
1 Th 5:4–8
Rm 12:2+
Col 3:10e
Jn 3:20–21

> Wake up, sleeper,
> rise from the dead,
> and Christ will shine on you.[d]

Is 26:19;60:1
Heb 10:32e

15 So be very careful about the sort of lives you lead, like intelligent and not like 16 senseless people. ·Make the best of the present time,[e] for it is a wicked age.
17 This is why you must not be thoughtless but must recognise what is the will of the 18 Lord. ·Do not get drunk with wine; this is simply dissipation; be filled with the 19 Spirit. ·Sing psalms and hymns and inspired songs among yourselves, singing and 20 chanting to the Lord in your hearts, ·always and everywhere giving thanks to God who is our Father in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Col 4:5
Rm 12:2+
Col 1:9
Pr 23:31 LXX
‖Col 3:16–17
Col 3:15–17
1 Th 5:18

The morals of the home

21, 22 Be subject to one another out of reverence for Christ. ·Wives should be subject to 23 their husbands as to the Lord, ·since,[f] as Christ is head of the Church and saves
24 the whole body, so is a husband the head of his wife; ·and as the Church is subject

Col 3:18
1 P 3:1–6
1:22–23
1 Cor 11:3

4 a. Paul lists three different threats to the Church's unity: arguments between Christians vv. 1–3, diversity of service in the Church vv. 7–11, unorthodox teaching vv. 14–15. These threats are all averted by applying the principle of unity in Christ, vv. 4–6,12–13,16.

b. Charisms or special graces given to individuals for the benefit of the whole community, see 1 Co 12:1a.

c. Following rabbinic practice Paul quotes this text for the sake of two phrases: 'he ascended' vv. 9–10, and 'he gave gifts' v. 11 which he interprets as the ascension of Jesus and the descent of the Spirit.

d. The subterranean regions where the realms of the dead were placed; see Nb 16:33f, and where Christ descended before his resurrection and ascension 'above the heavens'; see 1 P 3:19h. Or, according to others, the death, said to be 'lower' in relation to the heavens.

e. By ascending through all the cosmic spheres Christ takes possession of them all one after another, and becomes the head of the whole pleroma or total cosmos 1:10j, and makes the entire universe acknowledge him as 'Lord', see 1:20–23; Ph 2:8–11; Col 1:19.

f. Paul limits his list to charisms that relate to teaching; these are the only ones that apply in this context, vv. 13–15.

g. The particular holy people of God Paul mentions here seem to be missionaries and other teachers, cf. 3:5, but may include all the faithful in so far as they all help to build up the Church, see Ac 9:13v.

h. This does not refer primarily to the individual Christian. The sense is collective. It can be taken as referring to Christ himself, the New Man, the archetype of all who are reborn 2:15n, or else (and this sense is to be preferred) as referring to the total Christ, i.e. the whole body, 1 Co 12:2i,j; made up of head, Ep 1:22; 4:15; Col 1:18; and the rest of the body, Ep 4:16; 5:30.

i. Or 'sexuality and every kind of indecency and greed'.

j. As in Col 2:6, the true Christ is the historic Jesus, who died and rose again to renew our lives in him.

k. Each human being needs to 'put on the New Man', 2:15n (here, as in v. 22, translated 'self'), so as to be re-created in him, cf. Rm 13:14; Ga 3:27. In some places Paul talks in the same way about the 'new creature', 2 Co 5:17i.

l. lit. 'working the good thing with his own hand'. 'Good' and '(own) hand' are omitted or interchanged in various readings: the original text may have been ambiguous.

m. The one Holy Spirit that keeps the one Body of Christ united, 4:4; 1 Co 12:13, is 'grieved', cf. Ep 4:30; Is 63:10, by anything that harms the unity of the Body.

n. 'you'; var. 'us'. The same in 5:2.

5 a. Uncontrolled desires pay to creatures, especially money, a worship due to God alone and thus turn them into idols.

b. The wrong sort of way to talk about sexual immorality is the way that leaves the subject in a dangerous obscurity, v. 3. To talk about it in such a way, however, that it is recognised for what it is will lead to its being corrected; this sort of light is the light of Christ that puts an end to darkness.

c. This (like 1 Tm 3:16) seems to be an extract from an early Christian hymn. On baptism as an enlightening, see Heb 6:4; 10:32 (see Rm 6:4a).

d. var. 'and you will touch Christ'.

e. lit. 'redeem the present time'.

f. By drawing a parallel between a marriage and the marriage of Christ to his Church, vv. 23–32, Paul makes these two concepts illumine each other. Christ is the husband of the Church because he is her head and because he loves the Church as man loves his own body when he loves his wife. In its turn, this comparison naturally suggests an ideal for human marriage. The symbol of Israel as the wife of Yahweh is common in the OT, Ho 1:2c.

to Christ, so should wives be to their husbands, in everything. ·Husbands should 25
5:2 love their wives, just as Christ loved the Church and sacrificed himself for her ·to 26
Ezk 16:9 Rm 6:4a make her holy by washing her in cleansing water with a form of words,[g] ·so that 27
2 Co 11:2 Col 1:22;‖3:19 when he took the Church to himself she would be glorious, with no speck or Tt 2:14;3:5–7 wrinkle or anything like that, but holy and faultless.[h] ·In the same way, husbands 28 pl P 3:7 Rv 19:7–8; must love their wives as they love their own bodies; for a man to love his wife is for 21:2,9–11 him to love himself. ·A man never hates his own body, but he feeds it and looks 29
1 Co 12:12i after it; and that is the way Christ treats the Church, ·because we are parts of his 30
Gn 2:24 Mt 19:5par. Body. ·This is why a man leaves his father and mother and becomes attached to his 31
Rm 16:25l wife, and the two become one flesh. ·This mystery has great significance, but I am 32 applying it to Christ and the Church.[i] ·To sum up: you also, each one of you, must 33 love his wife as he loves himself; and let every wife respect her husband.

Pr 6:20 Si 3:1–16 ‖Col 3:20–21 6 Children, be obedient to your parents in the Lord[a]—that is what uprightness 1 demands. ·The first commandment that has a promise attached to it is: Honour 2
Ex 20:12 your father and mother, ·and the promise is: so that you may have long life 3 and prosper in the land. ·And parents, never drive your children to resentment but 4 Pr 13:24+ bring them up with correction and advice inspired by the Lord.

‖Col 3:22–4:1 Tt 2:9–10 1 P 2:18 ·1 Co 2:3 Slaves, be obedient to those who are, according to human reckoning, your 5 masters, with deep respect and sincere loyalty, as you are obedient to Christ: ·not 6 only when you are under their eye, as if you had only to please human beings, but Rm 6:15g as slaves of Christ who wholeheartedly do the will of God. ·Work willingly for the 7 sake of the Lord and not for the sake of human beings. ·Never forget that everyone, 8 Ga 3:28 Col 3:11 whether a slave or a free man, will be rewarded by the Lord for whatever work he has done well. ·And those of you who are employers, treat your slaves in the same 9
Jb 31:13–15 spirit; do without threats, and never forget that they and you have the same Master Dt 10:17f in heaven and there is no favouritism with him.

The spiritual war

Finally, grow strong in the Lord, with the strength of his power. ·Put on the full 10, 11
Rm 13:12 armour of God[b] so as to be able to resist the devil's tactics. ·For it is not against 12
2 Co 6:7;10:4 Jm 4:7 human enemies that we have[c] to struggle, but against the principalities and the
1 P 5:8–9 Mt 4:1c ruling forces who are masters of the darkness in this world, the spirits of evil in the 1:21q Mt 16:17c heavens.[d] ·That is why you must take up all God's armour, or you will not be able 13 to put up any resistance on the evil day, or stand your ground even though you exert yourselves to the full.

Ws 5:18 Is 11:5;40:3, 9;52:7;59:17 So stand your ground, with truth a belt round your waist, and uprightness a 14
breastplate, ·wearing for shoes on your feet the eagerness to spread the gospel of 15 peace ·and always carrying the shield of faith so that you can use it to quench the 16 1 Jn 2:14+ burning arrows of the Evil One. ·And then you must take salvation as your helmet 17 and the sword of the Spirit, that is, the word of God.

Lk 18:1a;21:36 ‖Col 4:2–4 Jude 20 In all your prayer and entreaty keep praying in the Spirit on every possible 18 occasion. Never get tired of staying awake to pray for all God's holy people, ·and 19
Rm 15:30i pray for me to be given an opportunity to open my mouth[e] and fearlessly make Rm 16:25l known the mystery of the gospel[f] ·of which I am an ambassador in chains; pray 20 that in proclaiming it I may speak as fearlessly as I ought to.

‖Col 4:7 ### Personal news and final salutation

So that you know, as well, what is happening to me and what I am doing, my dear 21
Ac 20:4f friend Tychicus, my trustworthy helper in the Lord, will tell you everything. ·I am 22 sending him to you precisely for this purpose, to give you news about us and encourage you thoroughly.

May God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ grant peace, love and faith to all 23 the brothers. ·May grace be with all who love our Lord Jesus Christ, in life 24 imperishable.

g. Baptism has no value unless it is accompanied by proclamation of the Word, expressed through evangelisation by the minister and the recipient's profession of faith, 1:13, cf. Mk 16:15seq.; Ac 2:38y; Rm 6:4a; 1 P 1:23m.

h. It was customary in the Middle East, at the time this letter was written, for the 'sons of the wedding' to escort the bride to her husband after she had bathed and dressed. As applied mystically to the Church, Christ washes his bride himself in the bath of baptism, and makes her immaculate (note the mention of a baptismal formula) before taking her to himself. Cf. 1 Th 5:8.

i. Paul finds in this Gn text a prophecy of the marriage of Christ and the Church: a mystery, like that of the salvation of the gentiles, that has been hidden but is now revealed, cf. 1:9f; 3:3seq.

6 a. om. 'in the Lord'.

b. God in the OT arms himself against his enemies, see Ws 5:17–23; Is 11:4–5; 59:16–18. These are the arms of Yahweh with which, Paul says, the Christian is to arm himself.

c. var. 'you have'.

d. These are the spirits who were thought to move the stars and, consequently, the universe. They lived in 'the heavens', 1:20seq.; 3:10; Ph 2:10, or in 'the air', Ep 2:2, i.e. the space between the surface of the earth and the heaven where God lives. Some of them are among the 'elemental principles of the world', Ga 4:3. They disobeyed God and want to enslave the human race to themselves in sin, 2:2. We used to be their slaves but Christ came to free us, 1:19–21; Col 1:13; 2:15,20, and if Christians are armed with the power of Christ, they will be able to fight them.

e. Hebraism, cf. Ps 51:15; Ezk 3:27; cf. Col 4:3.

f. om. 'of the gospel'.

PHILIPPIANS

THE LETTER OF PAUL TO THE CHURCH AT PHILIPPI

Address

Ac 9:13g;16:1a
Rm 1:1 a,b

1 Paul and Timothy, servants of Christ Jesus, to all God's holy people in Christ 1
Jesus at Philippi, together with their presiding elders [a] and the deacons. ·Grace 2 and peace to you from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

Thanksgiving and prayer

I thank my God whenever I think of you, ·and every time I pray for you all, I 3, 4 always pray with joy [b] ·for your partnership in the gospel [c] from the very first 5 day [d] up to the present. ·I am quite confident that the One who began a good work 6 1:10;2:16
1 Co 1:8e
in you will go on completing it until the Day of Jesus Christ comes. ·It is only right 7 that I should feel like this towards you all, because you have a place in my heart,
Ep 3:2
since you have all shared together in the grace that has been mine, both my chains
Rm 1:9
and my work defending and establishing the gospel. ·For God will testify for me 8 how much I long for you all with the warm longing of Christ Jesus; ·it is my prayer 9
Col 1:9–10
that your love for one another may grow more and more with the knowledge and Rm 12:2+
Heb 5:14
complete understanding ·that will help you to come to true discernment, [e] so that 10 you will be innocent and free of any trace of guilt when the Day of Christ comes,
3:9g
Jn 15:8
He 12:11
Jm 3:18
entirely filled with the fruits of uprightness through Jesus Christ, for the glory and 11 praise of God.

Paul's own circumstances

Now I want you to realise, brothers, that the circumstances of my present life [f] are 12
Ep 3:1+
helping rather than hindering the advance of the gospel. ·My chains in Christ have 13 become well known not only to all the Praetorium, [g] but to everybody else, ·and so 14 most of the brothers in the Lord have gained confidence from my chains and are getting more and more daring in announcing the Message [h] without any fear. ·It is 15 true that some of them are preaching Christ out of malice and rivalry; but there are many as well whose intentions are good; ·some are doing it out of love, knowing 16 that I remain firm in my defence of the gospel. ·There are others who are proclaim- 17
ing Christ out of jealousy, not in sincerity but meaning to add to the weight of my
Ep 3:1+
chains. ·But what does it matter? Only that in both ways, whether with false 18
1:4b
motives or true, Christ is proclaimed, and for that I am happy; ·and I shall go on 19
Jb 13:16 LXX
being happy, too, because I know that this is what will save me, with your prayers and with the support of the Spirit of Jesus Christ; ·all in accordance with my most 20 confident hope and trust that I shall never have to admit defeat, but with complete
1 Co 6:20
fearlessness I shall go on, so that now, as always, Christ will be glorified in my
Ga 2:20
Col 3:3par.
body, [i] whether by my life or my death. ·Life to me, of course, is Christ, but then 21 death would be a positive gain. ·On the other hand again, if to be alive in the body 22 gives me an opportunity for fruitful work, I do not know which I should choose. ·I 23
2 Co 5:6–9
am caught in this dilemma: I want to be gone and to be with Christ, [j] and this is by far the stronger desire—·and yet for your sake to stay alive in this body is a more 24 urgent need. ·This much I know for certain, that I shall stay and stand by you all, [k] 25

26 to encourage your advance and your joy in the faith, •so that my return to be among you may increase to overflowing your pride in Jesus Christ on my account. 1:4b;2:16 1 Co 15:31 2 Co 1:14;5:12 1 Th 2:19

Fight for the faith

27 But you must always behave in a way that is worthy of the gospel of Christ, [l] so that whether I come to you and see for myself or whether I only hear all about you from a distance, I shall find that you are standing firm and united in spirit, battling, as a 28 team with a single aim, for the faith of the gospel, •undismayed by any of your opponents. This will be a clear sign, for them that they are to be lost, and for you 29 that you are to be saved. •This comes from God, for you have been granted the privilege for Christ's sake not only of believing in him but of suffering for him as 30 well; •you are fighting the same battle which you saw me fighting for him and which you hear I am fighting still. [m] Ep 4:1 Col 1:10 1 Th 2:12 Col 2:5 2 Th 1:4–7 1:7 Col 1:24*l*

Preserve unity in humility

1 2 So if in Christ there is anything that will move you, any incentive in love, [a] any 2 fellowship in the Spirit, [b] any warmth or sympathy—I appeal to you, •make my joy complete by being of a single mind, one in love, one in heart and one in mind. [c] 2 Col 13:13e 1:4b
3 Nothing is to be done out of jealousy or vanity; instead, out of humility of mind 4 everyone should give preference to others, •everyone pursuing not selfish interests 5 but those of others. •Make your own the mind of Christ Jesus: [d] 1 Co 1:10seq. 1 Co 10:24

6 Who, being in the form of God, [e] did not count equality with God something to be grasped. [f] Jn 1:1seq.;5:18; 10:33 Col 1:15–20 Heb 1:3

7 But he emptied himself, [g] taking the form of a slave, [h] becoming as human beings are; [i] 2 Co 8:9 Mt 20:28 Rm 8:3 Ga 4:4 Heb 2:17

1 a. The word episkopos (overseer) has not yet acquired the meaning 'bishop', see Tt 1:5seq. The 'deacons' are their assistants, Ac 6:1–6; 1 Tm 3:8–13.

b. Joy is one of the chief characteristics of this letter; see vv. 18,25; 2:2,17,28,29; 3:1; 4:1,4,10.

c. Not only by sending money, 4:14–16, but also by their joining in the work of witness, 1:7; cf. 2:15–16, when they have suffered as he has for the gospel, 1:29–30.

d. Since the day they were converted, see Ac 16:12–40.

e. The fruit, cf. Ho 14:9 and Ga 5:22; Ep 5:9, of growing love is knowledge and discernment of 'what is important', Rm 2:18; its rectitude and warmth continue to grow to maturity, v. 11, transcending the limits of all legislation, Ga 5:23*l*.

f. i.e. Paul's arrest and imprisonment awaiting trial.

g. If Paul is writing from his house-arrest in Rome, this must refer to members of the Praetorian Guard (who were quartered just outside the city wall). If Paul is writing from Ephesus or Caesarea, he is referring to the staff of the Praetorium which was the name of the official residence of the governor in each of those cities.

h. add. 'of the Lord'.

i. By baptism and Eucharist a Christian is so closely united to Christ, see 1 Co 6:15–16; 10:17; 12:12seq.,27; Ga 2:20; Ep 5:30, that his life, sufferings and death can be attributed mystically to Christ living in him and being glorified in him, see Rm 14:8; 1 Co 6:20. This union would be particularly close in the case of an apostle like Paul, see 2 Co 4:10seq.; Col 1:24.

j. For death as a way of being with Christ, see Rm 14:8; Col 3:3; 1 Th 5:10. Paul does not explain what is the 'positive gain' that death will bring, nor why to be with Christ in death is 'the stronger desire'; he may possibly be envisaging a more direct relationship with Christ than is possible in the body. As in 2 Co 5:8d, his words suppose that the state of being 'with Christ' follows immediately after death, with no temporal interval of waiting for the general resurrection.

k. This presentiment (it was no more than that, see 2:17) was not mistaken, see Ac 20:1–6, unlike that expressed by Paul at Miletus, Ac 20:25.

l. The Greek term means primarily 'to lead the life of a citizen', according to the laws of a city. The new City of the Kingdom of God has Christ as its King, the gospel as its Law and Christians as its citizens, see 3:20; Ep 2:19.

m. The first reference is to the persecution Paul had to put up with when he was with them in Philippi, Ac 16:19seq.; 1 Th 2:2; the second is to his present imprisonment.

2 a. lit. 'If there is any ground for appeal in Christ, etc', an affectionate invocation of all that is most sacred.

b. Perhaps to be taken as a trinitarian reference; in this case 'love' is appropriated to the Father, see 2 Co 13:13e.

c. This urgent plea for unity suggests that internal divisions threatened the peace of the church at Philippi, see 1:27; 2:14; 4:2. Note how Paul keeps insisting that he is addressing all of them, 1:1,4,7,25; 2:17,26; 4:21.

d. Vv. 6–11 are probably an early Christian hymn quoted by Paul, as Ep 5:14; Col 1:15–20; 2 T 2:11–13 etc. It has been understood of Christ's kenosis in emptying himself of his divine glory in order to live a human life and undergo suffering. More probably Jesus is here contrasted as the second with the first Adam, see Rm 5:12f, h; 1 Co 15:22m. The first Adam, being in the form or image of God, attempted to grasp equality with God and, by this pride, fell. By contrast, Jesus, through his humility, was raised up by God to the divine glory.

e. The contrast is with Adam, who was created 'in the image of God' but misused this.

f. Adam sought illegitimately to be like God; Jesus humbled himself.

g. In the traditional but less probable interpretation, this emptying or kenosis expressed Jesus' voluntary self-deprivation, during his earthly life, of the divine glory. But this interpretation is not only less scriptural but also anachronistic for the development of christology at this moment of Paul's thinking.

h. A reference to the 'servant' of Is 52:13–53:12 which contains the same movement of exaltation through humiliation; see Is 42:1a.

i. There is probably a reference here to the 'one like a son of man' who receives honour and glory from God in Dn 7:13.

and being in every way like a human being,[j]
he was humbler yet, 8
Mt 26:39seq. Jn 10:17seq. Rm 5:19 Heb 5:8;12:2 •Mt 23:12 Ac 5:41p Ep 1:20–23 even to accepting death, death on a cross.

And for this God raised him high,[k] 9
and gave him the name[l]
which is above all other names;[m]

so that all beings 10
Ep 4:10 Rv 5:3 Is 45:23 in the heavens, on earth and in the underworld,[n] should bend the knee at the name of Jesus and that every tongue should acknowledge[o] 11

Ac 2:36w Rm 1:4;10:9; 14:19 1 Co 12:3 Jesus Christ as Lord,[p]
to the glory of God the Father.[q]

Work for salvation

2 Co 7:15 So, my dear friends, you have always been obedient; your obedience must not be 12 limited to times when I am present. Now that I am absent it must be more in 1 Co 2:3b Ep 2:10 evidence, so work out your salvation in fear and trembling. •It is God who, for his 13
Ac 17:28 Ep 3:20 own generous purpose, gives you the intention and the powers to act. •Let your 14
Heb 13:21 Dt 32:5 Mt 17:17 behaviour be free of murmuring and complaining •so that you remain faultless and 15
Gn 1:14–16 Mt 5:14–16 1:26+ pure, unspoilt children of God surrounded by a deceitful and underhand brood, shining out among them like bright stars in the world, •proffering to it the Word of 16 life. Then I shall have reason to be proud on the Day of Christ, for it will not be for 1 Co 1:8e Ga 2:2; 4:11;5:7d nothing that I have run the race and toiled so hard. •Indeed, even if my blood has 17 to be poured as a libation over your sacrifice and the offering of your faith,[r] then I Rm 1:9e 2 Tm 4:6 1:4b shall be glad and join in your rejoicing—•and in the same way, you must be glad 18 and join in my rejoicing.

The mission of Timothy and Epaphroditus

Ac 16:1a I hope, in the Lord Jesus, to send Timothy to you soon, so that my mind may be set 19 at rest when I hear how you are. •There is nobody else that I can send who is like 20 1:15–17 him and cares as sincerely for your well-being; •they all want to work for them- 21 selves, not for Jesus Christ. •But you know what sort of person he has proved 22
Ga 1:7 himself, working with me for the sake of the gospel like a son with his father.
That is the man, then, that I am hoping to send to you immediately I can make 23
1:25–26 out what is going to happen to me; •but I am confident in the Lord that I shall come 24 myself, too, before long. •Nevertheless I thought it essential to send to you 25 4:18 Epaphroditus, my brother and fellow-worker and companion-in-arms since he came as your representative to look after my needs; •because he was missing you 26 all and was worrying because you had heard that he was ill. •Indeed he was 27 seriously ill and nearly died; but God took pity on him—and not only on him but also on me, to spare me one grief on top of another. •So I am sending him back as 28 promptly as I can so that you will have the joy of seeing him again, and that will be 1:4b some comfort to me in my distress. •Welcome him in the Lord, then, with all joy; 29 hold people like him in honour, •because it was for Christ's work[s] that he came so 30 near to dying, risking his life to do the duty to me which you could not do yourselves.

1:4b 2 Co 13:11 3 Finally, brothers, I wish you joy in the Lord.[a] 1

The true way of Christian salvation

To write to you what I have already written before is no trouble to me and to you will be a protection. •Beware of dogs![b] Beware of evil workmen! Beware of self- 2 2:17r Jr 4:4a mutilators![c] •We are the true people of the circumcision since we worship by the 3
Rm 2:25–29 Ga 6:14–15 Spirit of God[d] and make Christ Jesus our only boast, not relying on physical qualifications,[e] •although, I myself could rely on these too. If anyone does claim to rely on them, my claim is better. •Circumcised on the eighth day of my life, I was born of the race of Israel, of the tribe of Benjamin, a Hebrew born of Hebrew parents.[f] In the matter of the Law, I was a Pharisee; •as for religious fervour, I was a persecutor of the Church; as for the uprightness embodied in the Law, I was faultless. •But what were once my assets I now through Christ Jesus count as losses. Yes, I will go further: because of the supreme advantage of knowing Christ Jesus my Lord, I count everything else as loss. For him I have accepted the loss of all other things, and look on them all as filth if only I can gain Christ •and be given a place in him, with the uprightness I have gained not from the Law, but through faith in Christ, an uprightness from God, based on faith,[g] •that I may come to know him and the power of his resurrection, and partake of his sufferings by being moulded to the pattern of his death, •striving towards the goal of resurrection from the dead.[h] •Not that I have secured it already, not yet reached my goal, but I am still pursuing it in the attempt to take hold of the prize for which Christ Jesus took hold of me.[i] •Brothers, I do not reckon myself as having taken hold of it; I can only say that forgetting all that lies behind me, and straining forward to what lies in front, •I am racing towards the finishing-point to win the prize of God's heavenly call in Christ Jesus. •So this is the way in which all of us who are mature[j] should be thinking,[k] and if you are still thinking differently in any way, then God has yet to make this matter clear to you. •Meanwhile, let us go forward from the point we have each attained.[l]

Brothers, be united in imitating me. Keep your eyes fixed on those who act according to the example you have from me. •For there are so many people[m] of whom I have often warned you, and now I warn you again with tears in my eyes, who behave like the enemies of Christ's cross. •They are destined to be lost; their god is the stomach;[n] they glory in what they should think shameful,[o] since their minds are set on earthly things. •But our homeland is in heaven and it is from there that we are expecting a Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ, •who will transfigure the wretched body of ours into the mould of his glorious body, through the working of the power which he has, even to bring all things under his mastery.

▶Col 2:11 ▶Rm 7:5c •2 Co 11:21i •Gn 17:10d Mt 3:7f Ac 8:1,3+

Rm 10:3

Rm 1:16h Ga 2:16 Rm 1:4c;6:4a, 11+,17

2:16 Ga 5:7d

Lk 9:62

1 Co 9:25+

1 Co 4:15–17 2 Th 3:7b

Rm 16:18

Ac 3:20–21 Col 3:1–4 Heb 11:13–16 1 Tm 1:1a Rm 8:23 1 Co 15:47–49,49y 1 Jn 3:2 •1 Co 15:23–28

j. lit 'and in fashion found as a human being'.

k. lit. 'super-raised him': by the resurrection and ascension. The resurrection is the prime work of the power of God.

l. Imposition of a name confers a real quality, cf. Ep 1:21; Heb 1:4. This name is 'Lord', v. 11; or more profoundly the unspeakable divine name which, in the triumph of the Risen Christ, is expressed by the title 'Lord'; see Ac 2:21m; 3:16*l*.

m. Greater even than the angels, cf. Ep 1:21; Heb 1:4; 1 P 3:22. 'in the underworld' refers to those who dwell in Sheol, Nb 16:33f, rather than to demons.

n. The three cosmic divisions that cover the entire creation, cf. Rv 5:3,13.

o. var. 'and every tongue will acclaim'.

p. om. 'Christ'. This proclamation is the essence of the Christian creed, Rm 10:9; 1 Co 12:3; cf. Col 2:6. The use of Is 45:23 (in which this homage is addressed to Yahweh himself) is a clear indication of the divine character that is meant to be understood by the title Kyrios, cf. Jn 20:28; Ac 2:36w. God exalted Jesus, and his glory is therefore increased by the Son's humiliation, 2:7.

q. Vulg. interpretation is 'proclaim that Jesus Christ is in the glory of God the Father'.

r. Libations were common to both Greek and Jewish sacrifices. Paul merely applies this custom metaphorically to the spiritual worship of the new creation, cf. 3:3; 4:18; Rm 1:9g.

s. var. 'the Lord's work', or 'the work'.

3 a. This appears to be the conclusion of the letter, interrupted by the verses which follow, and not resumed until 4:4, see p. 1859.

b. Term of abuse applied by Jews to gentiles, Mt 15:26 (and possibly 7:6) which Paul ironically applies to non-Christian Jews.

c. lit. 'for the gash'. Paul uses this term (katatomē) as a contemptuous pun on 'circumcision (peritomē), implying a comparison between physical circumcision and the self-inflicted gashes in pagan cults, cf. 1 K 18:28; cf. Ga 5:12.

d. var. 'we who worship God in spirit'.

e. lit. 'the flesh', which stands here for the whole system of the old Law with its physical observances, of which circumcision is a typical example. See Rm 7:5c. Paul often recalls his Jewish past, 2 Co 11:21j, but nowhere else in such detail.

f. Of Palestinian stock, Ac 23:6, and speaking the language of his ancestors, Ac 21:40, by contrast to the 'Hellenists', Ac 6:1b.

g. The differences between these two sorts of 'uprightness' form the entire subject of Paul's letters to the Christians of Galatia and Rome.

h. Paul is not referring to the general resurrection of both saved and damned, Jn 5:29, but to the true resurrection of the saints who are separated from the 'spiritually' dead to life with Christ, Lk 20:35c.

i. On the road to Damascus.

j. Christians who are mature, see 1 Co 2:6e, but who are not totally perfect, Ph 3:12.

k. 'should be thinking' var. 'think'.

l. var. 'let us be united in our convictions (cf. 2:2) and let us follow the same rule of life,' cf. Ga 6:16.

m. The Judaisers, against whom this whole chapter is a warning.

n. The dietary laws loomed large in the Jewish practice of religion, Lv 11; cf. Mt 15:10–20 and par.; 23:25–26; Ac 15:20; Rm 14:17; 16:18; Ga 2:12; Col 2:16,20seq.

o. Probably an allusion to the circumcised member.

1:4b
1 Th 2:19–20 4 So then, my brothers and dear friends whom I miss so much, my joy and my crown, hold firm in the Lord, dear friends. 1

Last advice

I urge Euodia, and I urge Syntyche to come to agreement with each other in the Lord; 2
•and I ask you, Syzygus,[a] really to be a 'partner' and help them. These women 3 have struggled hard for the gospel with me, along with Clement and all my Dn 12:1a
Rv 20:12i other fellow-workers, whose names are written in the book of life.
1:4b Always be joyful, then, in the Lord; I repeat, be joyful. •Let your good sense be 4, 5
1 Co 16:22i obvious to everybody. The Lord is near. •Never worry about anything; but tell 6
Mt 6:25–34 God all your desires of every kind in prayer and petition shot through with •Ep 5:20+ gratitude, •and the peace of God which is beyond our understanding will guard your 7
Jn 14:27
Col 3:15 hearts and your thoughts[b] in Christ Jesus. •Finally, brothers, let your minds be 8 filled with everything that is true,[c] everything that is honourable, everything that is upright and pure, everything that we love and admire[d]—with whatever is good and 1 Th 2:13d praiseworthy. •Keep doing everything you learnt from me and were told by me 9 2 Th 3:7b and have heard or seen me doing. Then the God of peace will be with you.

Thanks for help received[e]

1:4b As for me, I am full of joy in the Lord, now that at last your consideration for me 10 has blossomed again; though I recognise that you really did have consideration before, but had no opportunity to show it. •I do not say this because I have lacked 11
Heb 13:5 anything; I have learnt to manage with whatever I have. •I know how 12 to live modestly, and I know how to live luxuriously too: in every way now I have mastered the secret of all conditions: full stomach and empty stomach, plenty
2 Co 12:9–12
Col 1:29 and poverty. •There is nothing I cannot do in the One[f] who strengthens me. 13
All the same, it was good of you to share with me in my hardships. •In the early 14, 15
Ac 16:12seq. days of the gospel, as you of Philippi well know, when I left Macedonia, no church other than yourselves made common account with me in the matter of expenditure and receipts.[g] You were the only ones; •and what is more, you have twice sent me 16
Ac 17:1 what I needed in Thessalonica. •It is not the gift that I value most; what I value is 17
the interest that is mounting up in your account. •I have all that I need and more: 18 2:25 I am fully provided, now that I have received from Epaphroditus the offering that
2:17r
Gn 8:21 you sent, a pleasing smell, the sacrifice which is acceptable and pleasing to God.
Heb 13:16 And my God will fulfil[h] all your needs out of the riches of his glory in Christ 19
Rm 16:27n Jesus. •And so glory be to God our Father, for ever and ever. Amen. 20

Greetings and final wish

My greetings to every one of God's holy people in Christ Jesus. The brothers who 21
Ac 9:13g are with me send you their greetings. •All God's holy people[i] send you their 22
greetings, especially those of Caesar's household.[j]
Rm 16:20+ May the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit.[k] 23

4 a. 'Syzygus' means yoke-fellow, partner, second of a pair, colleague, companion; a play on words as in Phm 10–11.
b. var. 'your bodies'.
c. In this verse the ideas commended by Paul are expressed in terms current among the Greek moralists of his time; but in v. 9 he returns to his more usual practice of telling his readers to follow him as their example, 3:17, see 2 Th 3:7b.
d. add. 'everything there is of knowledge', or 'of discipline'.
e. At the same time as repeating his gratitude for the gifts he has received, v. 18; 2:25–30, Paul insists on the independence of his mission; the essential element remains the spiritual good of everyone, vv. 17,19; 1:5, cf. 1 Co 9:11.
f. 'the One', var. 'Christ'.
g. Paul was usually unwilling to do anything to leave the impression that he took money for his preaching, 1 Co 9:15; 1 Th 2:5; his acceptance of presents from the Philippians is a mark of his special feeling for them and confidence in their understanding, cf. Ac 16:15; 18:3d; 2 Co 11:8.
h. var. 'may my God fulfil'.
i. All the Christians of the place from which Paul is writing.
j. The 'household' of Caesar was a wide term that covered anybody employed in the service of the emperor, either in Rome or in any of the chief towns of the empire.
k. add. 'Amen'.

COLOSSIANS

THE LETTER OF PAUL TO THE CHURCH AT COLOSSAE

PREFACE

Address

1 1 From Paul, by the will of God an apostle of Christ Jesus, and from our brother Rm 1:1b
2 Timothy ·to God's holy people in Colossae, our faithful brothers in Christ. Ac 16:1a
Grace and peace to you from God our Father. [a] Ac 9:13g;

Thanksgiving and prayer

3 We give thanks for you to God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, continually in Ep 1:15–16
4 our prayers, ·ever since we heard about your faith in Christ Jesus and the love that Phm 4–5
5 you show towards all God's holy people ·because of the hope which is stored up for 1 Co 13:13e you in heaven. News of this hope reached you not long ago through the word of 6 truth, the gospel ·that came to you in the same way as it is bearing fruit and growing ‖Ep 1:13 throughout the world. It has had the same effect among you, ever since you heard Ga 1:7d 7 about the grace of God and recognised it for what it truly is. ·This you learnt from Epaphras, our very dear fellow-worker [b] and a trustworthy deputy for us as Christ's Ac 14:3;20:
8 servant, ·and it was he who also told us all about your love in the Spirit. 24,32
2 Co 6:1
1 Co 13:1a
9 That is why, ever since the day he told us, we have never failed to remember you ‖Ep 1:15 in our prayers and ask that through perfect wisdom and spiritual understanding 10 you should reach the fullest knowledge of his will ·and so be able to lead a life 3:10e worthy of the Lord, a life acceptable to him in all its aspects, bearing fruit in every Rm 12:2+ 11 kind of good work and growing in knowledge of God, ·fortified, in accordance with 12 his glorious strength, with all power always to persevere and endure, ·giving thanks Act 26:18 with joy to the Father who has made you able to share the lot of God's holy people Ep 1:11–13;
and with them to inherit the light. [c] 5:8
1 P 2:9
13 Because that is what he has done. It is he who has rescued us from the ruling 14 force of darkness and transferred us to the kingdom of the Son that he loves, ·and Jn 8:12b in him we enjoy our freedom, the forgiveness of sin. Ga 1:4 2 P 1:11j
·Rm 3:24j
‖Ep 1:6–7

I: FORMAL INSTRUCTION

Christ is the head of all creation [d]

Ws 7:26

15 He is the image of the unseen God, 1:18e
the first-born of all creation, Rm 8:29
Heb 1:3
16 for in him were created all things Jn 1:3
in heaven and on earth: Ep 1:10

1 a. add. 'and the Lord Jesus Christ'.
b. lit. 'A faithful servant of Christ on behalf of us'; var. 'on behalf of you'.
c. 'Made you (var. 'us') able to'; var. 'called you (var. 'us') to . . .' • The 'lot of God's holy people' is the salvation once reserved to Israel, to which the gentiles are now called, cf. Ep 1:11–13. The expression 'God's holy people' here can mean either Christians, called to live while still on earth in the light of salvation, Rm 6:19h; 13:11–12e, or it can mean the angels who live with God in the eschatological 'light', see Ac 9:13g.

everything visible and everything invisible,
Ep 1:21s thrones, ruling forces, sovereignties, powers—
1 Co 8:6c all things were created through him and for him.
Pr 8:22–31e He exists before all things 17
and in him all things hold together,
1:24 and he is the Head [e] of the Body, 18
Ep 1:22–23; 5:23seq. that is, the Church.

He is the Beginning,
1 Co 15:20 Rv 1:5 the first-born from the dead,
so that he should be supreme in every way;
2:9e because God wanted all fullness to be found in him [f] 19
Ep 1:10;2:14,16 and through him to reconcile all things to him, [g] 20 everything in heaven and everything on earth, [h]
by making peace through his death on the cross.

The Colossians have their share in salvation

Ep 2:1seq.; 4:18–19 You were once estranged and of hostile intent [i] through your evil behaviour; ·now 21, 22
Ep 2:14–16 he [j] has reconciled you, by his death and in that mortal body, to bring you before
1 Co 1:8e Ep 5:27h himself holy, faultless and irreproachable—·as long as you persevere and stand 23
1:5seq. firm on the solid base of the faith, never letting yourselves drift away from the hope Mk 16:15 promised by the gospel, which you have heard, which has been preached to every Ep 3:7 creature under heaven, [k] and of which I, Paul, have become the servant.

Paul's labours in the service of the gentiles

2:1 It makes me happy to be suffering for you now, and in my own body to make up all 24
Mt 5:11 2 Col 7:4;12:10 the hardships that still have to be undergone by Christ for the sake of his body, the 1:18e Church, [l] ·of which I was made a servant with the responsibility towards you that 25
2 Co 3:6 Ep 3:2a God gave to me, that of completing God's message, ·the message which was a 26 Rm 15:19 mystery hidden for generations and centuries and has now been revealed to his holy people. ·It was God's purpose to reveal to them how rich is the glory of this 27
Rm 16:25*l* Ac 9:13g mystery among the gentiles; it is Christ among you, your hope of glory: [m] ·this is 28
3:4 the Christ we are proclaiming, admonishing and instructing everyone in all wisdom,
1 Co 2:6 ·Ep 4:13h to make everyone perfect in Christ. ·And it is for this reason that I labour, striving 29
·Ph 2:13;4:13 2 Th 1:11 with his energy which works in me mightily.

Paul's concern for the Colossians' faith

1:24 2 I want you to know, then, what a struggle I am having on your behalf and on 1 behalf of those in Laodicea, and on behalf of so many others who have never seen me face to face. ·It is all to bind them together in love and to encourage their 2 Ep 3:18–19 resolution until they are rich in the assurance of their complete understanding and Rm 16:25*l* have knowledge of the mystery of God [a] ·in which [b] all the jewels of wisdom and 3
Pr 2:4–5 Is 11:2d;45:3 knowledge are hidden.
Ep 5:6 I say this to make sure that no one deceives you with specious arguments. [c] ·I 4, 5 1 Co 5:3–4 may be absent in body, but in spirit I am there among you, delighted to find how well-ordered you are and to see how firm your faith in Christ is.

II: A WARNING AGAINST SOME ERRORS

Live according to the true faith in Christ, not according to false teaching

Ac 2:22n Ep 4:2 So then, as you received Jesus as Lord and Christ, now live your lives in him, ·be 6, 7 1 Th 2:13d rooted in him and built up on him, held firm by the faith you have been taught, and overflowing with thanksgiving.

8 Make sure that no one captivates [d] you with the empty lure of a 'philosophy' of the kind that human beings hand on, based on the principles of this world and not on Christ. Ep 5:6 Rm 6:15g Ga 4:3b

Christ alone is the true head of all humanity and the angels

9, 10 In him, in bodily form, lives divinity [e] in all its fullness, ·and in him you too find your own fulfilment, in the one who is the head of every sovereignty and ruling force. [f] 1:19f Ep 1:13;3:19; 4:12–13

11 In him you have been circumcised, with a circumcision performed, not by human hand, but by the complete stripping of your natural self. [g] This is circumcision 12 according to Christ. [h] ·You have been buried with him by your baptism; by which, too, you have been raised up with him through your belief in the power of God 13 who raised him from the dead. ·You were dead, because you were sinners and uncircumcised in body: he [i] has brought you [j] to life with him, he has forgiven us [k] every one of our sins. Jr 4:4 Rm 2:25–29 Ph 3:3 Rm 6:4a Rm 1:4c;8:11g Ep1:19seq.;2:6c ‖Ep 2:1,5seq.

14 He has wiped out the record of our debt to the Law, which stood against us; he 15 has destroyed it by nailing it to the cross; [l] ·and he has stripped the sovereignties Ep 2:15 1 P 3:22

d. In this poem Paul explains, in the form of a diptych, how Christ is the 'head' of everything that exists: 1 He is the head of creation, of all that exists naturally, vv. 15–17. 2 He is the head of the new creation and of all that exists supernaturally through redemption, vv. 18–20. The subject of the poem is the pre-existent Christ, but considered as manifested in the unique historic person who is the 'image of God', i.e. his human nature was the visible manifestation of God who is invisible, see Rm 8:29n, and it is he who must be said to be a creature, but the First-born in the order of creation, not only in time but also with a causal primacy and a primacy of honour.

e. On the Church as Christ's body, see 1 Co 12:12seq.; he is called the 'head' of his own body both in a temporal sense (v. 18, i.e. he was the first to rise from the dead) and by his role as Principal in the order of salvation (v. 20).

f. The exact meaning of the word pleroma (i.e. the thing that fills up a gap or hole, like a patch, see Mt 9:16) is not certain here. Some writers have thought it must mean the same as in 2:9 (the fullness of divinity that filled Jesus), but since vv. 15–18 have already dealt with the divinity of Jesus, it seems likely that the reference here is to the biblical concept of the entire cosmos as filled with the creative presence of God, see Ps 24:1; 50:12; 72:19; Ws 1:7; Si 43:27; Is 6:3; Jr 23:24. This concept was also widespread in the Graeco-Roman world because of Stoic pantheism. Paul teaches that the Incarnation and Resurrection make Christ head not only of the entire human race, but of the entire created cosmos, for everything that was involved in the fall is equally involved in salvation, see Rm 8:19–22; 1 Co 3:22seq.; 15:20–28; Ep 1:10; 4:10; Ph 2:10seq.; 3:21; Heb 2:5–8; cf. Col 2:9f.

g. i.e. through and for Christ, cf. the parallel 'through him and for him', see v. 16. Alternatively, it could read 'God wanted everything . . . to be reconciled to himself, through him who made peace . . .' cf. Rm 5:10; 2 Co 5:18seq.

h. This reconciliation of the whole universe (including angels as well as human beings) means, not the individual salvation of the whole human race but the collective salvation of the world by its return to the right order and peace of perfect submission to God. Any individuals who do not through grace join this new creation will be forced to join it, see 2:15; 1 Co 15:24–25 (the heavenly spirits) and Rm 2:8; 1 Co 6:9–10; Ga 5:21; Ep 5:5; 2 Th 1:8–9 (human beings).

i. The context suggests that there is a closer parallel with Ep 4:18seq. (foreigners to God and therefore God's enemies) than with Ep 2:12 (foreigners in Israel).

j. 'he', i.e. the Father. The human, mortal body is that of his Son (lit. 'body of his flesh'); this provides the locus where the reconciliation takes place. Into this body the entire human race is effectively gathered, cf. Ep 2:14–16, because Christ has assumed its sin, 2 Co 5:21. The 'flesh' is the body subject to sin, see Rm 7:5c; 8:3; Heb 4:15.

k. That is, to all humanity.

l. Jesus suffered in order to establish the reign of God, and anyone who continues his work must share this suffering. Paul is not claiming to add anything to the redemptive value of the cross (to which in any case nothing is lacking); but he associates himself with the trials of Jesus, by his sufferings in his apostolate, see 2 Co 1:5; Ph 1:20i. These are the sufferings predicted for the messianic era, Mt 24:8f; Ac 14:22m; 1 Tm 4:1a, and are all part of the way in which God had always intended the Church to develop; Paul feels that, being the messenger Christ has chosen to send to the gentiles, he has been specially called on to complete these sufferings.

m. Previously, when it had seemed (to the Jews) that gentiles could never be saved, as salvation was restricted to 'Israel', gentiles had seemed to be without a Messiah and consequently to be deprived of all hope, Ep 2:12. The 'mystery' or secret of God that had now been revealed was that the gentiles, too, were called to salvation and the glory of heaven through union to Christ, see Ep 2:13–22; 3:3–6.

2 a. var. 'the mystery of Christ', cf. 4:3; Ep 3:4; or 'God's mystery of Christ', or 'the mystery of God the Father of Christ', or 'the mystery of God the Father, and of Christ', etc.

b. 'in which', i.e. in the 'mystery' that revealed what till then had been 'hidden', namely the 'infinite wisdom' of God, see Rm 16:25*l*; 1 Tm 3:16e. That it is Christ who is revealed in the mystery, 1:27, is of course true, and he himself is also the Wisdom of God, 1 Co 1:24,30, and he is also the Mystery, 1 Co 2:7, that is hard to understand, Ep 3:8,19.

c. This will be developed in v. 8seq.

d. To deny Christ after he has liberated them from the tyranny of 'darkness', 1:13seq., by going back to error, would be nothing but a new slavery, cf. Ga 4:8seq.; 5:1.

e. The sense of the word 'fullness' here is clarified by 'bodily' and 'of divinity'. In the risen Christ are united the divine sphere, to which he belongs by his pre-existence and his glory, and the whole created world which, by his incarnation and resurrection, he has taken to himself either directly (human nature) or indirectly (the cosmos). In this way he himself is the pleroma of all possible categories of being.

f. A Christian shares this pleroma of Christ by being part of it, i.e. part of Christ's body, see (text and notes) 1:19; Ep 1:23; 3:19; 4:12–13, and associated thus with the Head of Heavenly Powers, he is superior to them all. The following verses develop these two ideas: disciples of Christ share his triumph, vv. 11–13, even the heavenly powers are submitted to his triumph, vv. 14–15.

g. Surgical circumcision removes only a piece of skin.

h. The 'circumcision' instituted by Christ, i.e. baptism.

i. God the Father. Cf. 1:22.

j. 'you'; var. 'us'.

k. 'us'; var. 'you'.

l. The Law was able to do nothing about a sinner except condemn him to death, Rm 7:7d; this death sentence is what God suppressed by means of the death of his own Son, and it was for this very reason that God's Son was 'made a victim for sin', 2 Co 5:21, 'subject to the Law', Ga 4:4, and 'cursed by the Law', Ga 3:13. In the person of his Son, whom he allowed to be executed, God nailed up and destroyed the document which contained our debt and condemned us.

Is 53:12
2 Co 2:14
and the ruling forces, and paraded them in public, behind him in his triumphal procession. [m]

Ga 4:3b
Against the false asceticism based on the 'principles of this world'

Then never let anyone criticise you for what you eat or drink, or about observance 16
Rm 14:5 of annual festivals, New Moons or Sabbaths. ·These are only a shadow of what was 17 coming: the reality is the body of Christ. [n] ·Do not be cheated of your prize by 18
Ga 6:12 anyone who chooses [o] to grovel to angels and worship them, [p] pinning every hope on visions received, [q] vainly puffed up by a human way of thinking; ·such a person 19
|Ep 4:15–16 has no connection to the Head, [r] by which the whole body, given all that it needs and held together by its joints and sinews, grows with the growth given by God.

Ga 4:3b If you have really died with Christ to the principles of this world, why do you still 20
let rules dictate to you, as though you were still living in the world? ·—'Do not pick 21
1 Co 6:13;8:8 up this, do not eat that, do not touch the other,' ·and all about things which perish 22
Is 29:13
Mt 15:9 even while they are being used—according to merely human commandments and doctrines! ·In these rules you can indeed find what seems to be good sense—the 23 cultivation of the will, and a humility which takes no account of the body; but in fact they have no value against self-indulgence. [s]

Life-giving union with the glorified Christ

Ep 2:6e
Ac 2:33t
Ph 3:20
3 Since you have been raised up to be with Christ, you must look for the things 1 that are above, where Christ is, sitting at God's right hand. ·Let your thoughts 2 be on things above, not on the things that are on the earth, ·because you have died, 3 2:12 and now the life you have is hidden with Christ in God. ·But when Christ is 4 1:27
Rm 8:19
1 Jn 3:2
revealed—and he is your [a] life—you, too, will be revealed with him in glory. [b]

III: ENCOURAGEMENT

General rules of Christian behaviour

Rm 1:29q;
6:11seq.
That is why you must kill everything in you that is earthly: [c] sexual vice, impurity, 5 uncontrolled passion, evil desires and especially greed, which is the same thing as Rm 1:18m
|Ep 5:6
worshipping a false god; ·it is precisely these things which draw God's retribution 6
||Ep 2:2–3
Tt 3:3
upon those who resist. [d] ·And these things made up your way of life when you were 7 living among such people, ·but now you also must give up all these things: human 8
Ep 4:31
|Ep 4:22–24
anger, hot temper, malice, abusive language and dirty talk; ·and do not lie to each 9 other. You have stripped off your old behaviour with your old self, ·and you have 10
Rm 12:2+
Gn 1:26–27
put on a new self which will progress towards true knowledge the more it is renewed in the image of its Creator; [e] ·and in that image there is no room for 11
Gn 11:1a
1 Co 12:13
Ga 3:27–28
distinction between Greek and Jew, between the circumcised and uncircumcised, or between barbarian and Scythian, slave and free. There is only Christ: he is
1 Co 15:28
everything and he is in everything. [f]

As the chosen of God, then, the holy people whom he loves, you are to be 12
|Ep 4:1–2.32
clothed in heartfelt compassion, in generosity and humility, gentleness and Mt 6:14;18;
21–35
patience. ·Bear with one another; forgive each other if one of you has a complaint 13 against another. The Lord has forgiven you; now you must do the same. ·Over all 14 Rm 13:8–10.8b
1 Co 13:1a
Jn 14:27
Ph 4:7
these clothes, put on love, the perfect bond. ·And may the peace of Christ reign 15 in your hearts, because it is for this that you were called together in one body.
Always be thankful.
1 Co 12:12i
Ep 2:16;4:3–4
Let the Word of Christ, [g] in all its richness, find a home with you. Teach each 16
Ep 5:20
Ep 4:29
other, and advise each other, in all wisdom. With gratitude in your hearts sing
||Ep 5:19–20
psalms and hymns and inspired songs to God; [h] ·and whatever you say or do, let it 17
1 Co 10:31
be in the name of the Lord Jesus, in thanksgiving to God the Father through him.

|Ep 5:21–6:9
1 P 3:1–7
The morals of the home and household [i]

Wives, be subject to your husbands, as you should in the Lord. ·Husbands, love 18, 19

20 your wives and do not be sharp with them. •Children, be obedient to your parents 21 always, because that is what will please the Lord. •Parents, do not irritate your children or they will lose heart.
22 Slaves, be obedient in every way to the people who, according to human reckoning, are your masters; not only when you are under their eye, as if you had only to please human beings, but wholeheartedly, out of respect for the Master.[j] 23 Whatever your work is, put your heart into it as done for the Lord and not for 24 human beings, •knowing that the Lord will repay you by making you his heirs.[k] It 25 is Christ the Lord that you are serving. •Anyone who does wrong will be repaid in kind. For there is no favouritism.

Rm 6:15g
1 Co 7:21–23
Tt 2:9–10
Phm 16f
1 P 2:18

1 4 Masters, make sure that your slaves are given what is upright and fair, knowing that you too have a Master in heaven.

The apostolic spirit

2, 3 Be persevering in your prayers and be thankful as you stay awake to pray. •Pray for us especially, asking God to throw open a door for us to announce the message 4 and proclaim the mystery of Christ,[a] for the sake of which I am in chains; •pray that I may proclaim it as clearly as I ought.
5, 6 Act wisely with outsiders, making the best of the present time. •Always talk pleasantly and with a flavour of wit[b] but be sensitive to the kind of answer each one requires.

Rm 12:12
||Ep 6:18–20
•1 Th 5:6,17seq.
•Rm 15:30i
•1 Co 16:9d
Rm 16:25l
•1 Co 5:12i
||Ep 5:15
•2 Co 6:2a
Ep 5:16
•Ws 8:9

Personal news

Ep 6:21

7 Tychicus will tell you all the news about me. He is a very dear brother, and a 8 trustworthy helper and companion in the service of the Lord. •I am sending him to you precisely for this purpose: to give you news[c] about us and to encourage you 9 thoroughly. •With him I am sending Onesimus, that dear and trustworthy brother who is a fellow-citizen of yours. They will tell you everything that is happening here.

Ac 20:4f

Phm 10seq.

m. The tradition is that the Law was brought down to Moses by angels, Ga 3:19k, and by honouring them as the lawgivers, see Col 2:18, people were distracted from the true Creator. Now that God has brought the régime of that Law to an end, by means of the crucifixion, these angelic Powers have lost the one thing that had given them power, and so they too must acknowledge that Christ has triumphed.

n. lit. 'but the body is Christ'—a pun on the word soma ('body') as being both that which is more real than any shadow or reflection, and the body of the risen Christ which is the essential eschatological reality and the seed from which the new universe will grow.

o. Or 'Do not let anyone give himself the pleasure of condemning you.'

p. Dietary and cultic practices, v. 16, attribute too much importance to material things and therefore to the 'spirits' that are supposed to control them, cf. Ga 4:3seq.

q. var. 'which he has not seen'. Paul is explaining where the teachers at Colossae have gone wrong, which is either because they attach a false importance to their 'visions' or, at a more general level, because they base all their religion on visible things.

r. Christ, Ep 4:15.

s. This may mean either that they are of no real value in subduing 'self-indulgence', or else that 'they are of no value and help only to satisfy self-indulgence'.

3 a. var. 'our'.

b. Through union with Christ in baptism, 2:12, his followers already live the identical life he lives in heaven, see Ep 2:6e, but this spiritual life is not manifest and glorious as it will be at the parousia.

c. At the mystical level of union with the glorified Christ, participation in his death and resurrection through baptism is instantaneous and total, 2:12seq.,20; 3:1–4; Rm 6:4e, but at the practical level of life on earth, this union has to be grown into gradually. Already 'dead' in theory, the Christian must still put this death into practice by 'killing' day after day the old, sinful self which still lives in him.

d. The words 'upon those who resist', omitted by some ancient witnesses and several modern editions, are required to explain the literary genesis of Ep 2:2–3 and 5:6, on the basis of this passage of Col.

e. The human race, that was to have been 'the image of God', Gn 1:26m, lost its way trying to locate the 'knowledge of good and evil' outside and apart from the will of God, Gn 2:17j, and became the slave of sin and sinful urges, Rm 5:12g. This is the 'old self' that must die, Rm 6:6; Ep 4:22; the 'new self' is reborn in Christ, Ep 2:15n, who is the true image of God, Rm 8:29n. In this way the human race can both recover its original justice and reach true knowledge of what is right and wrong, 1:9; Heb 5:14.

f. The new creation will not be divided into races and religions and cultures and social classes in the way the present creation has been since the Fall; this unity is based on Christ.

g. var. 'of the Lord' or 'of God'; possibly the text originally read simply 'the Word', cf. Ph 1:14; 2:30.

h. These 'inspired songs' could be charismatic improvisations suggested by the Spirit during liturgical assembly, cf. 1 Co 12:7seq.; 14:26.

i. Paul christens these simple precepts of ordinary morality by introducing his phrase 'in the Lord' which must be taken here as meaning 'according to the Christian way of life'. These Christian applications are further developed in Ep 5:21seq.

j. 'your masters . . . the Master': Paul uses the same word each time, i.e. Christ is the master equally of both slave and slave-owner.

k. That a slave should inherit, cf. Mt 21:35–38; Lk 15:19; Ga 4:1–2, is a striking sign of the new order in Christ, see Rm 8:15–17; Ga 4:3–7; Phm 16.

4 a. var. 'of God', cf. 2:2.

b. lit. 'with a seasoning of salt', a classical Gk cliché, cf. Mk 9:50.

c. var. 'to get your news'.

Greetings[d] and final wishes

Ac 19:29n
Phm 23seq.
•Ac 12:12d
Aristarchus, who is here in prison with me, sends his greetings, and so does Mark, 10 the cousin of Barnabas—you were sent some instructions about him; if he comes to you, give him a warm welcome—•and Jesus Justus adds his greetings. Of all those 11 who have come over from the circumcision, these are the only ones actually working with me for the kingdom of God. They have been a great comfort to me.
Epaphras, your fellow-citizen, sends his greetings; this servant of Christ Jesus 12
Rm 15:30
never stops battling for you, praying that you will never lapse but always hold perfectly and securely to the will of God. •I can testify for him that he works hard 13 for you, as well as for those at Laodicea and Hierapolis. •Greetings from my dear 14 friend Luke, the doctor, and also from Demas.

Please give my greetings to the brothers at Laodicea and to Nympha and the 15
Rm 16:5+
•1 Th 5:27
church which meets in her house. •After this letter has been read among you, send 16 it on to be read in the church of the Laodiceans; and get the letter[e] from Laodicea Phm 2
for you to read yourselves. •Give Archippus this message, 'Remember the service 17 that the Lord assigned to you, and try to carry it out.'

1 Co 16:21
Ga 6:11
2 Th 3:17
•Ep 3:1+
This greeting is in my own hand—PAUL. Remember the chains I wear. Grace be 18 with you.[f]

d. On Aristarchus, see Ac 19:29. On Mark, see Ac 12:12d. 'Jesus Justus' is not mentioned anywhere else; his surname was quite common among Jews and Jewish converts, see Ac 1:23; 18:27. Epaphras, born at Colossae (and therefore not the same person as Epaphroditus, who came from Philippi, Ph 2:25; 4:18) had been sent by Paul to evangelise Colossae, his own native town, Col 1:7. Luke is the evangelist and author of Ac: he had joined Paul towards the end of his third journey, Ac 20:5seq., had been with him till they reached Rome. Ac 27:1seq., and now, with Paul under arrest, he is still by his side, see Phm 24, as he will be again (if the historical data of the Pastoral Epistles are reliable) after Paul has been arrested a second time, 2 Tm 4:11. On Demas, see 2 Tm 4:10; Phm 24. Who the woman was called Nympha (or man, if the correct spelling is Nymphas) is unknown. Archippus, v. 17, is probably a son of Philemon, Phm 2; what the service was the Lord wanted him to do is not known.

e. Paul expected his letters to be read in public to the assembled brothers, 1 Th 5:27, and then passed on to the neighbouring churches, see 2 Co 1:1. The letter that was to be brought back from Laodicea to Colossae was probably the one that Paul wrote to Ephesus.

f. var. add. 'Amen', Ph 4:20, see Ph 4:23.

1 THESSALONIANS

THE FIRST LETTER OF PAUL TO THE CHURCH IN THESSALONICA

Address

Rm 1:1a
2 Th 1:1–2
Ac 15:22x; 16:1a

1 1 Paul, Silvanus and Timothy, to the Church in Thessalonica which is in God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. Grace to you and peace. [a]

Thanksgiving and congratulations

Ph 1:3
2 Th 1:3

2, 3 We always thank God for you all, mentioning you in our prayers continually. •We remember before our God and Father how active is the faith, how unsparing the love, how persevering the hope which you have from our Lord Jesus Christ. [b]

5:8
1 Co 13:13e

4, 5 We know, brothers loved by God, that you have been chosen, •because our gospel [c] came to you not only in words, but also in power and in the Holy Spirit and with great effect. And you observed the sort of life we lived when we were with

Rv 2:2
Ac 1:8j
1 Co 2:4
2 Co 12:12+
2 Th 2:13

6 you, which was for your sake. •You took us and the Lord as your model, welcoming

Mt 13:20–21
Ac 17:1–9

7 the word with the joy of the Holy Spirit in spite of great hardship. •And so you

2 Th 3:7b

8 became an example to all believers in Macedonia and Achaia •since it was from you that the word of the Lord rang out—and not only throughout Macedonia and Achaia, for your faith in God has spread everywhere. We do not need to tell other

Rm 14:17
Ga 5:22
Rm 1:8

9 people about it: [d] •other people tell us how we started the work among you, how you broke with the worship of false gods when you were converted to God and

Ac 3:19n;14:15

10 became servants of the living and true God; •and how you are now waiting for Jesus, his Son, whom he raised from the dead, to come from heaven. It is he who saves us from the Retribution [e] which is coming.

Jr 10:10
4:16–17
Mt 3:7g
Rm 1:18; 2:5seq.

Paul's example in Thessalonica

1 2 You know yourselves, my brothers, that our visit to you has not been pointless.

2 Although, as you know, we had received rough treatment and insults at Philippi, God gave us the courage to speak his gospel to you fearlessly, in spite of

Ac 16:19–40
Ph 1:30

3 great opposition. •Our encouragement to you does not come from any delusion or

Ac 13:46gg

4 impure motives or trickery. •No, God has approved us to be entrusted with the gospel, and this is how we preach, seeking to please not human beings but God

2 Co 3:12
2 Co 4:2
•Ep 3:7
1 Tm 1:11

5 who tests our hearts. •Indeed, we have never acted with the thought of flattering

•2 Co 5:9

6 anyone, as you know, nor as an excuse for greed, God is our witness; •nor have we ever looked for honour from human beings, either from you or anybody else,

Ga 1:10
Jr 11:20
Ac 20:33
Rm 1:9
Jn 5:41,44

1 a. add. 'from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ', cf. 2 Th 1:2.

b. Note that faith, hope and love, which Paul distinguishes in 1 Co 13:13 as the three enduring virtues of the Christian, are here found at work in the life of the Church.

c. var. 'the gospel of God', or 'of our God'. The gospel is more than a proclamation, it is the whole new economy of salvation.

d. Even allowing for some exaggeration one can discern that the life of Christians in accordance with the gospel by itself achieves the spread of their faith; it is one form of the Word of God.

e. Vv. 9–10 seem to give an extremely condensed summary of Paul's proclamation. The gospel he preached revolves round two central themes: a vigorous stress on monotheism, Mk 12:29b; 1 Co 8:4–6; 10:7,14; Ga 4:8–9, and a Christology stressing the coming of the risen Lord, see 1 Co 1:7; 15:23n. • Note the title 'his Son' applied to Jesus in the earliest of all Paul's letters.

when we could have imposed ourselves on you with full weight,[a] as apostles of Christ. 7

1 Co 3:2 Ga 4:19 Instead, we lived unassumingly among you.[b] Like a mother feeding and looking after her children, ·we felt so devoted to you, that we would have been happy to 8
Rm 9:3 Ga 2:20+ share with you not only the gospel of God, but also our own lives, so dear had you become. ·You remember, brothers, with what unsparing energy we used to work, 9 4:11 Ac 18:3d 2 Th 3:6–12 slaving night and day so as not to be a burden on any one of you while we were Rm 1:9 proclaiming the gospel of God to you. ·You are witnesses, and so is God, that our 10 treatment of you, since you believed, has been impeccably fair and upright. ·As 11
1 Co 4:15i you know we treated every one of you as a father treats his children, ·urging you, 12
5:24 Mt 4:17f 2 Th 1:11 1 P 5:10 encouraging you and appealing to you to live a life worthy of God, who calls[c] you into his kingdom and his glory.

The faith and the patience of the Thessalonians

1 Co 11:2+ Another reason why we continually thank God for you is that as soon as you heard 13 the word that we brought you as God's message, you welcomed it for what it really Rm 1:16 Heb 4:12 is, not the word of any human being, but God's word[d], a power that is working[e]
1 Co 1:2a 2 Th 3:7b among you believers. ·For you, my brothers, have modelled yourselves on the 14
Mt 23:29–37 Ac 2:23–24,23p churches of God in Christ Jesus which are in Judaea, in that you have suffered the same treatment from your own countrymen as they have had from the Jews,[f]
1 P 5:9 who put the Lord Jesus to death, and the prophets too, and persecuted us also. 15
Their conduct does not please God, and makes them the enemies of the whole
Ac 14:2c human race, ·because they are hindering us from preaching to gentiles to save 16
Gn 15:16 Mt 23:32 them. Thus all the time they are reaching the full extent of their iniquity, but Rm 1:18m retribution[g] has finally overtaken them.

Paul's anxiety

Col 2:1,5 Although we had been deprived of you for only a short time in body but never in 17
Rm 1:10–11 affection, brothers, we had an especially strong desire and longing to see you face to face again, ·and we tried hard to come and visit you; I, Paul, tried more than 18
2 Th 2:9h once, but Satan prevented us. ·What do you think is our hope and our joy, and 19
Pr 16:31 Ezk 16:12;23:42 what our crown of honour in the presence of our Lord Jesus when he comes?
1 Co 9:25+ Ph 2:16;4:1 You are, for you are our pride and joy. 20

1:10e 1 Co 15:23n 2 Co 1:14+

Timothy's mission to Thessalonica

3 When we could not bear it any longer, we decided it would be best to be left 1 without a companion at Athens, and ·sent our brother Timothy, who is God's 2 Ac 17:14–16,15f 1 Co 3:9 2 Co 6:1 helper[a] in spreading the gospel of Christ, to keep you firm and encourage you about your faith ·and prevent any of you from being unsettled by the present 3 1:6 hardships. As you know, these are bound to come our way: ·indeed, when we were 4 Mt 16:24par. Ac 14:22 2 Tm 3:12 Heb 10:32,36 with you, we warned you that we are certain to have hardships to bear, and that is what has happened now, as you have found out. ·That is why, when I could not 5
Ga 4:11 Ph 2:16 bear it any longer, I sent to assure myself of your faith: I was afraid the Tester[b] might have put you to the test, and all our work might have been pointless.

Paul thanks God for good reports of the Thessalonians

Ac 18:5e 2 Co 7:7 2 Th 1:3 However, Timothy has returned from you and has given us good news of your faith 6 and your love, telling us that you always remember us with pleasure and want to see us quite as much as we want to see you. ·And so, brothers, your faith has been 7 a great encouragement to us in the middle of our own distress and hardship; ·now 8 2 Th 2:15 Rv 2:9–10 we can breathe again, as you are holding firm in the Lord. ·How can we thank God 9 enough for you, for all the joy we feel before our God on your account? ·We are 10 2:17 earnestly praying night and day to be able to see you face to face again and make up any shortcomings[c] in your faith.

May God our Father himself, and our Lord Jesus, ease our path to you. ·May 11, 12
5:15 Rm 12:17seq. the Lord increase and enrich your love for each other and for all[d], so that it matches

13 ours for you. ·And may he so confirm your hearts in holiness that you may be blameless in the sight of our God and Father when our Lord Jesus comes with all his holy ones.[c]

▶Ga 6:10 ▶2 Th 1:3 ▶Tt 3:2 5:23 1 Co 1:8e; 15:23n Zc 14:5

Live in holiness and charity

1 4 Finally, brothers, we urge you and appeal to you in the Lord Jesus[a]; we instructed you how to live in the way that pleases God, and you are so living;[b]
2 but make more progress still. ·You are well aware of the instructions we gave you on the authority of the Lord Jesus.

2 Th 3:6 2:13d Rm 12:1–2 1 Co 11:2+

3 God wills you all to be holy. [c]He wants you to keep away from sexual immorality, 4 and each one of you to know how to control his body[d] in a way that is holy and 5 honourable, ·not giving way to selfish lust like the nations who do not acknowledge
6 God. ·He wants nobody at all ever to sin by taking advantage of a brother in these matters; the Lord always pays back sins of that sort, as we told you before
7, 8 emphatically. ·God called us to be holy, not to be immoral; ·in other words, anyone who rejects this is rejecting not human authority, but God, who gives you his Holy Spirit.[e]

Mt 6:10 Ep 1:4 1 Co 6:12–20 Ps 79:6 Jr 10:25 Dt 32:35 Ps 94:1–2 Jn 17:19 Lk 10:16 Ezk 37:14

9 As for brotherly love, there is no need to write to you about that, since you have 10 yourselves learnt from God to love one another, ·and in fact this is how you treat all the brothers throughout the whole of Macedonia. However, we do urge you,
11 brothers, to go on making even greater progress ·and to make a point of living quietly, attending to your own business and earning your living, just as we told 12 you to, ·so that you may earn the respect of outsiders and not be dependent on anyone.

Is 54:13 Jr 31:33–34 Jn 6:45;13:34u 2 Th 1:3 Ac 18:3d Ep 4:28 2 Th 3:6–12 ·1 Co 5:12i

The dead and the living at the time of the Lord's coming[f]

13 We want you to be quite certain, brothers, about those who have fallen asleep,[g] to 14 make sure that you do not grieve for them, as others do who have no hope. ·We believe that Jesus died and rose again, and that in the same way God will bring

Ep 2:12 Col 1:27 Rm 1:4c; 8:11g;10:9e 1 Co 15:1a

2 a. lit. 'make our weight felt': interpreted morally, this can mean that Paul could have insisted on his own dignity and prestige, or that materially he could have expected to have been fed and kept at their expense, cf. 2:9; 2 Co 11:9; 2 Th 3:8.

b. 'unassumingly'; var. 'as babes'.

c. var. 'called you'. • The Kingdom of God, Ep 5:5; 2 Th 1:5; Mt 4:17; Rv 19:8, and its glory are properly divine entities, but to them God calls, 4:7; 5:24, and guides his chosen ones, 1:4.

d. A brief summary of the apostolic tradition, the message is first 'received', 4:1; 2 Th 3:6; 1 Co 15:1; Ga 1:9; Ph 4:9; Col 2:6, or 'heard', Rm 10:17h; Ep 1:13; Ac 15:7. It then penetrates the mind or heart, Rm 10:8–10, where if it is welcomed, 1 Th 1:6; Mk 4:20; Ac 8:14; 2 Co 11:4; 2 Th 2:10, it proves that the hearer acknowledges that God has been speaking through his missionary, 1 Th 4:1seq.; 2 Co 3:5; 13:3.

e. Or 'has come to be at work'; God acts through his message that has been welcomed by the believer, cf. 1:8; 2 Th 3:1.

f. The harsh tone of vv. 15–16 gives a good idea of how bitter the atmosphere was in Jerusalem, Mt 5:12; 21:33–46; 23:29–37; Ac 2:23*o*, owing to the way Paul upset the Jewish community by preaching to gentiles, 1 Th 2:16; see Ac 13:5e. Later on Paul was able to take a more balanced attitude than he takes here, by frequent references to the special position of God's chosen people, cf. Rm 9:11; Ga 4:21–31. He tried hard to reconcile convert gentile with Jewish Christian, see 1 Co 16:1a; Ep 2:11–22.

g. add. 'from God'.

3 a. om. 'who is God's helper', or var. 'who is God's slave' or 'God's slave and our helper'.

b. 'Tester', i.e. 'Satan' as in 2:18, see Mk 1:13.

c. This would refer to gaps in their knowledge of Christian doctrine, as well as gaps in their code of Christian behaviour, cf. Rm 14:1; 2 Co 10:15; Ph 1:25.

d. Brotherly love of one another in the Christian community is only the beginning of charity; it has to spread to love for the whole human race.

e. add. 'Amen'. • Holiness, 4:3c, begins with brotherly love but will not be perfect till the parousia. In this context 'holy ones' can refer to the chosen, the saved or the angels, Ac 9:13g.

4 a. Paul speaks 'in' (v. 1) 'by' (v. 2) or 'in the name of' Christ, cf. 4:15; 2 Th 3:6,12. His doctrine on moral behaviour which is based on the earliest Christian teaching invests ordinary day-to-day life with a new depth: it has the seal of Christ on it, Col 3:18i.

b. om. 'and you are so living'.

c. It is the will of God, cf. Mt 6:10, that makes people holy, 1 Th 4:3,7; 2 Th 2:13; Ep 1:4. It is God who makes them holy, 5:23; 1 Co 6:11; see Jn 17:17; Ac 20:32. Christ has made himself our 'holiness', 1 Co 1:30. The Holy Spirit is involved in making us holy, v. 8; 2 Th 2:13; 1 Co 6:11. Christians, however, must make use of this gift, Rm 6:19h. The title 'the holy ones', is common, Ac 9:13h.

d. Either a man's own body, 5:23, cf. Rm 12:1; 1 Co 6:19, or that of his wife, as in several rabbinic texts and 1 P 3:7.

e. Ezekiel foretold that the Spirit would be given to the messianic people: this reference draws attention to the continuity between the church of Thessalonica and the giving of this gift to the early Christian community, Ac 2:16seq., 33,38; etc. On the gift of the Spirit to the spirit of each believer, see Rm 5:5e.

f. The converts in Thessalonica had obviously been worried about friends and relations who had died and would not be there to see the coming of the Lord. Replying to their questions Paul affirms the fundamental doctrine of the resurrection so as to strengthen their faith and hope.

g. lit. 'we do not wish you to be ignorant, brothers, concerning the sleeping'. The euphemism was common in the OT, the NT and in Greek literature: the natural concomitant was to call the resurrection (to new life or from death) an 'awakening'.

with him those who have fallen asleep in Jesus. ·We can tell you this from the 15
Si 48:11 Lord's own teaching, [h] that we [i] who are still alive for the Lord's coming will not
1 Co 15:23,51
Mt 24:30–31,31r have any advantage over those who have fallen asleep. ·At the signal given by the 16
1 Co 15:52z voice of the Archangel and the trumpet of God, the Lord himself will come down
2 Th 1:7seq. from heaven; [j] those who have died in Christ will be the first to rise, ·and only 17
Jn 14:2–3; 17:24 after that shall we who remain alive [k] be taken up in the clouds, together with them, Dn 2:21 to meet the Lord in the air. This is the way we shall be with the Lord for ever. [l]
Dn 2:21
Ac 1:7h With such thoughts as these, then, you should encourage one another. 18

Watchfulness while awaiting the coming of the Lord [a]

5 About times and dates, brothers, [b] there is no need to write to you ·for you are 1, 2
Mt 24:36,43 well aware in any case that the Day of the Lord is going to come like a thief in
1 Co 1:8e
2 P 3:10 the night. ·It is when people are saying, 'How quiet and peaceful it is' that sudden 3
Rv 3:3 destruction falls on them, as suddenly as labour pains come on a pregnant woman;
Jr 6:14
Lk 21:34–55 and there is no escape.
·Jr 4:31+
Mt 24:8f But you, brothers, do not live in the dark, that the Day [c] should take you 4
Ep 5:8+ unawares like a thief. ·No, you are all children of light and children of the day: we 5
Jn 8:12b do not belong to the night or to darkness, ·so we should not go on sleeping, as 6
Rm 13:12–13
Mt 24:42+ everyone else does, but stay wide awake and sober. ·Night is the time for sleepers 7
1P1:13;4:7;5;8 to sleep and night the time for drunkards to be drunk, ·but we belong to the day 8
1:3 and we should be sober; let us put on faith and love for a breastplate, and the hope
Is 59:17
1 Co 13:13e of salvation for a helmet. ·God destined us not for his retribution, but to win 9
Ep 6:11b
1:10e salvation through our Lord Jesus Christ, ·who died for us so that, awake or asleep, [d] 10
4:14+ we should still live united to him. ·So give encouragement to each other, and keep 11
Ep 2:20s strengthening one another, as you do already.

1 Co 16:16 We appeal to you, my brothers, to be considerate to those who work so hard 12
Ga 6:6
1 Tm 5:17 among you as your leaders in the Lord and those who admonish you. [e] ·Have the 13
Tt 1:5b
Heb 13:17 greatest respect and affection for them because of their work.
·Rm 14:1
2 Th 3:6–12 Be at peace among yourselves. ·We urge you, brothers, to admonish those who 14 are undisciplined, encourage the apprehensive, support the weak and be patient Ep 21:25f with everyone. ·Make sure that people do not try to repay evil for evil; always aim 15
Mt 5:38seq.
Rm 12:17 at what is best for each other and for everyone. ·Always be joyful; ·pray con- 16, 17
Ga 6:10
Col 3:12–13 stantly; [f] ·and for all things give thanks; this is the will of God for you in 18
Lk 18:1a Christ Jesus.
·Ep 5:20
·4:3 Do not stifle the Spirit [g] ·or despise the gift of prophecy with contempt; ·test 19, 20, 21
1 Co 12:1a
1 Co 12:10g everything and hold on to what is good ·and shun every form of evil. 22
Jb 1:1,8;2:3

Closing prayer and farewell

Is 11:6e May the God of peace make you perfect and holy; and may your spirit, life and 23
2 Th 3:16
3:13e body [h] be kept blameless for the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. ·He who has 24
1 Co 1:9f called you is trustworthy and will carry it out.
2 Th 3:3
Rm 15:30i Pray for us, my brothers. 25
2 Th 3:1
2 Co 13:12+ Greet all the brothers with a holy kiss. ·My orders, in the Lord's name, are that 26, 27
Col 4:16 this letter is to be read to all the brothers. [i] Rm 16:20+ The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you. 28

h. See Mt 25:32f. Perhaps it is no more than a recourse to the Lord's authority, see Dn 7:1,13,16.

i. 'us'; Paul includes himself among those who will be present at the parousia: more by aspiration, however, than by conviction, see 5:1a.

j. The trumpet, voice and clouds were traditional signs that accompanied manifestations of God, see Ex 13:22h; 19:16g and they were adopted as conventional elements of apocalyptic literature, see Mt 24:30seq.; 2 Th 1:8b.

k. om. 'who remain alive'.

l. Of all the details given here: that the dead will answer the summons by returning to life, that they and the living will be taken to meet the Lord, and that they will accompany him to the judgement with which the eternal kingdom begins, the essential one is the last: eternal life with Christ, see 5:10; 2 Th 2:1. That is to be the 'salvation', the 'glory', the 'kingdom' that Jesus shares among his chosen followers.

5 a. Paul asserts that he has no idea when the Last Day will come, and he merely repeats what the Lord said, Mt 24:36 and par.; Ac 1:7, about having to stay awake till it comes, Mt 24:42 and par., 50; 25:13. The Day of the Lord, 1 Co 1:8e, will come like a thief, cf. Mt 24:43 and par., so it is necessary to stay alert, 1 Th 5:6, cf. Rm 13:11; 1 Co 16:13; Col 4:2; 1 P 1:13; 5:8; Rv 3:2seq.; 16:15. It will come soon, 2 Co 6:2a. At first Paul expected he would live to see the Last Day, 4:17; cf. 1 Co 15:51; he later realised he might die before it, 2 Co 5:3; Ph 1:23, and he warns people it will not come as soon as they thought, 2 Th 2:1seq. More than anything, the prospect of how long it would take to convert the gentiles Rm 11:25, made it certain that the Last Day would not come for a very long time, see Mt 25:19; Lk 20:9; 2 P 3:4,8–10, cf. 1 Co 8:8e.

b. 'about times and dates': a cliché, see Ac 1:7i, underlying which is the idea of God as outside time and yet as controlling it and its divisions, Ac 17:26.

c. Mention of 'the Day' without further qualification, 1 Co 1:8e, helps Paul to introduce the mention of light and day and contrast 'wakefulness' with the dark, night and sleep (in a different sense from 1 Th 4:13seq.), and also make the contrast between Christians (children of light) and others (children of darkness), see Jn 8:12b. A very concise summary of Paul's preaching: God saves us by Christ who died for us.

d. 'Awake or asleep' means 'alive or dead', as in 4:14–17; all the faithful will share in final salvation.

e. We know little of these 'teachers'; their devotion exercised in the name of Christ earns them esteem and love.

f. This brief instruction has had an enormous influence on Christian spirituality, see 1:2; 2:13; Lk 18:1a; Rm 1:10; 12:12; Ep 6:18; Ph 1:3–4; 4:6; Col 1:3; 4:2; 2 Th 1:11; 1 Tm 2:8; 5:5; 2 Tm 1:3.

g. The gift of the Spirit, 4:8, is a feature of the messianic era, and discernment of its inspirations is one of its gifts, 1 Co 12:10; 14:29; 1 Jn 4:1; cf. 2 Th 2:2. See 1 Co 12:1a.

h. This is the only reference made by Paul to a tripartite division of body (see Rm 7:24*l*), soul (see 1 Co 15:44w) and spirit (which can be taken in two ways: as the divine presence in a human being, giving new life in union with Christ, Rm 5:5e, or more probably as the innermost depths of the human being, open and awake to the Spirit, see Rm 1:9e). The accent is on the totality of the effects of the sanctifying action of God, 3:13; 4:3c, the effect of his fidelity.

i. This is the earliest reference to the public reading of an apostle's letter. Paul wanted to address and teach the whole Church and not merely its appointed leaders. 2 Co 1:1 and Col 4:16 also ask that the letters should be passed on to other churches; but it was not for many years that the apostolic writings were put on the same footing as the gospel and the scriptures. 2 P 3:15–16; see 1 M 12:9c; 1 Tm 5:18–19, 18g.

2 THESSALONIANS

THE SECOND LETTER OF PAUL TO THE CHURCH IN THESSALONICA

1 Th 1:1

Address

Ac 15:22x; 16:1a

1 Paul, Silvanus and Timothy, to the Church in Thessalonica which is in God our 1
Father and the Lord Jesus Christ ·Grace to you and peace from God the Father 2 and the Lord Jesus Christ.

Thanksgiving and encouragement. The Last Judgement

1 Th 1:2

We must always thank God for you, brothers; quite rightly, because your faith is 3 1 Th 3:6–12 growing so wonderfully and the mutual love that each one of you has for all never
·1 Th 4:9–10 stops increasing. ·Among the churches of God we take special pride in you for your 4 ·1 Co 1:2a perseverance and faith under all the persecutions and hardships you have to bear.
1 Th 1:7–8; 2:19–20 It all shows that God's judgement is just, so that you may be found worthy of the 5
Mt 4:17f kingdom of God; it is for the sake of this that you are suffering now.
1 Th 2:14;3:4+ Ph 1:28 For God's justice will surely mean hardship being inflicted on those who are now 6
Rv 14:13 inflicting hardship on you, ·and for you who are now suffering hardship, relief 7 1 Co 1:7b with us, [a] when the Lord Jesus appears from heaven with the angels of his power.
Ex 3:2 He will come amid flaming fire [b]; he will impose a penalty on those who do not 8
Is 66:4,15 Jr 10:25 acknowledge God and refuse to accept the gospel of our Lord Jesus. [c] ·Their 9
Rm 1:5d punishment is to be lost eternally, excluded from the presence of the Lord and from
Is 2:10 the glory of his strength ·on that day when he comes to be glorified among his holy 10
Is 2:11–17 Ps 68:34 LXX; 89:7 LXX ones and marvelled at by all who believe in him; [d] and you are among those who
Is 49:3;66:5 believed our witness. [e]
Is 2:11–17 In view of this we also pray continually that our God will make you worthy of his 11
1 Th 2:12e call, and by his power fulfil all your [f] desires for goodness, and complete all that Ph 2:13;4:13 Is 24:15;66:5 you have been doing through faith; ·so that the name of our Lord Jesus Christ 12
Jn 17:10,24 may be glorified in you and you in him, by the grace of our God and the Lord Jesus Christ.

The coming of the Lord and the prelude to it [a]

Mt 24:31s

2 About the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, brothers, and our being gathered 1
1 Co 15:23 1 Th 4:15–17 to him: ·please do not be too easily thrown into confusion or alarmed by any 2
3:17 manifestation of the Spirit or any statement or any letter claiming to come from us,
1 Co 1:8e suggesting that the Day of the Lord has already arrived. ·Never let anyone deceive 3 you in any way.

It cannot happen until the Great Revolt [b] has taken place and there has appeared
Rv 13:1–8 Is 14:13 the wicked One, the lost One, ·the Enemy, [c] who raises himself above every so- 4
Ezk 28:2 called God or object of worship to enthrone himself in God's sanctuary and flaunts the claim that he is God. ·Surely you remember my telling you about this when I 5 was with you? ·And you know, too, what is still holding him back [d] from appearing 6 before his appointed time. ·The mystery of wickedness is already at work, [e] but let 7 him who is restraining it once be removed, ·and the wicked One will appear 8 openly. [f] The Lord [g] will destroy him with the breath of his mouth and will annihilate him with his glorious appearance at his coming. Ps 33:6 Is 11:4 Rv 19:11–21

9 But the coming of the wicked One will be marked by Satan being at work [h] in all
10 kinds of counterfeit miracles and signs and wonders, ·and every wicked deception aimed at those who are on the way to destruction because they would not accept
11 the love of the truth and so be saved. ·And therefore God sends on them a power
12 that deludes people so that they believe what is false, ·and so that those who do not believe the truth and take their pleasure in wickedness may all be condemned. [i] Ep 2:2 Rv 13:13–17 Jn 8:44 Mt 24:12 1 K 22:22 Is 6:10 Jn 3:19;9:39

Encouragement to persevere

13 But we must always thank God for you, brothers whom the Lord loves, because God chose you from the beginning [k] to be saved by the Spirit who makes us holy 14 and by faith in the truth. ·Through our gospel he called you to this so that you
15 should claim as your own the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ. ·Stand firm, then, brothers, and keep the traditions that we taught you, whether by word of mouth or 16 by letter. [l] ·May our Lord Jesus Christ himself, and God our Father who has given us his love and, through his grace, such ceaseless encouragement and such sure 17 hope, ·encourage you and strengthen you in every good word and deed. Ep 1:4 1 Th 1:4–5; 4:3c,8 1 P 1:1–2 3:6 1 Co 11:2+ 1 Th 3:8,11–13 Rm 5:2c

1 3 Finally, brothers, pray for us that the Lord's message may spread quickly, and 2 be received with honour as it was among you; ·and pray that we may be
3 preserved from bigoted and evil people, for not everyone has faith. ·You can rely 4 on the Lord, who will give you strength and guard you from the evil One, [a] ·and we, in the Lord, have every confidence in you, that you are doing and will go on 5 doing all that we tell you. ·May the Lord turn your hearts towards the love of God and the perseverance of Christ. Ps 147:15 1 Th 5:25 Ep 6:19seq. Col 4:3 ·Rm 10:16 ·1 Th 5:24 Mt 6:13 1 Co 1:9g 2 Co 7:16 1 Jn 2:14+ 1 Co 13:13e

1 a. In such phrases, Paul often reveals his ideal of a solidarity between the churches and himself and his anxiety that the churches should preserve it, see 1 Co 4:8; Ph 1:30.

b. Heaven, cf, 1 Th 4:16, the angels, cf. Mt 13:39, 41,49; 16:27 and par.; 24:31; 25:31; Lk 12:8seq. (and probably the 'holy ones' of 1 Th 3:13), the 'fire' of various theophanies, see Ex 13:22h; 19:16g, are all conventional elements of apocalyptic literature, see 1 Th 4:16f.

c. i.e. both gentiles, 1 Th 4:5, and Jews, Rm 10:16. The condemnation of those who reject the gospel is described in severe and implacable terms perhaps to be explained by a persistent persecution.

d. Paul here seems to be thinking of angels (the 'holy ones', see Ac 9:13g) and Christians ('those who believe').

e. Vv. 6–10 form a parenthesis, v. 11 follows on from v. 5.

f. Or 'his'.

2 a. In 1 Th 4:13–5:11 Paul avoided suggesting anything that would indicate when the parousia would take place, see 1 Th 5:1b. Obviously replying to further questions, Paul does not now repeat all he said about what would happen to the living and the dead: all he is concerned with is to emphasise that the coming is not imminent, and that it cannot take place till certain specific signs have preceded it.

b. The way this revolt (apostasia) is mentioned here shows that the Thessalonians had already been told something about it. The word is used here in its usual sense of 'secession' or 'defection' but with a specifically religious reference, Ac 5:37; 21:21; Heb 3:12. It seems that the rebels are not only those who have never belonged to Christ but also those who have given up the faith, cf. 1 Tm 4:1; 2 Tm 4:3fseq.

c. The apostasy will be due to a being who is given three names. He is the wicked One (lit. 'man of lawlessness' or 'man of sin'). He is a being destined to be lost (lit. 'son of perdition') vv. 9–10; Jn 17:12; cf. 1 Th 5:5. He is the enemy of God and is described here in terms reminiscent of the description of the Great Rebel in Dn 11:36. Later on in Christian traditions, based on Dn, he is called the Antichrist, cf. 1 Jn 2:18; 4:3; 2 Jn 7. Unlike Satan, whose tool he is, and who is already at work in 'secret' (lit. 'the mystery') v. 7, the lawless One is represented as a person who will be revealed at the 'end of time', and whose power will persecute and seduce Christians. On the final 'test', that will come to an end only with the parousia of Christ, cf. Mt 24:24; Rv 13:1–8.

d. Paul does not name the cause that delays the parousia of Christ. All he says is that there is something, v. 6, or someone, v. 7, that can 'delay' it. This person or power blocks the coming of Christ by preventing the manifestation of the Messiah's enemy who must precede the coming of the Messiah himself. The allusion would have been understood, v. 4, by the community to whom he was writing.

e. Wickedness (lit. 'lawlessness') is going on, but it is underground, secretly preparing for the great revolt. When the obstacle, whatever it is, is removed, lawlessness (or the lawless one) will work unmasked.

f. The revealing of the wicked One, vv. 6–8, is the counterpart of the revealing of Christ, 1:7; 1 Co 1:7, in the same way as his parousia is the counterpart of Christ's parousia, v. 8. The enemy of God becomes the enemy of Christ, but Christ will conquer his enemy.

g. add. 'Jesus'.

h. The wicked One is the instrument through which Satan works, see 1 Th 2:18, and whom he endows with superhuman power rather as Christ endows his followers with his own Spirit. Compare the Dragon and the Beast, Rv 13:2,4.

i. Truth and untruth here have a religious as well as an intellectual reference because they involve the whole of human life and activity, see Jn 8:32j, 44p; 1 Jn 3:19g.

j. This passage, 2:13–3:5, is closely linked to the description of the parousia. Having corrected the false ideas of the Thessalonians, Paul goes on to describe the positive consequences of his conception. Notice that the thought is firmly trinitarian, 2 Co 13:13e; cf. 1 Th 4:6–8.

k. var. 'as first-fruits'.

l. What Paul taught them when he was in Thessalonica and what he had written to them since he returned from there, 2:2,5; 1 Th 3:4; 4:2,6; 5:27, includes, in the message of the good news, see 1 Th 2:13d, the principles by which a Christian should live, cf. 1 Co 11:2,23–25; 1 Th 4:1.

3 a. Or perhaps 'from evil'. Christians will be tempted but not beyond their powers of resistance, 1 Co 10:13.

Against idleness and disunity

1 Th 4:1a 2:15i 1 Th 4:11–12;5:14 Ac 18:3d 1 Th 2:9+ Mt 6:11 Mt 10:10 Gn 3:19 Ga 6:9 3:6 1 Co 5:5,9–11;5:5 2 Co 2:7 Ga 6:1 1 Th 5:14 •Mt 18:15–18

In the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, we urge you, brothers, to keep away from 6 any of the brothers who lives an undisciplined life, not in accordance with the tradition you received from us.

You know how you should take us as your model: [b] we were not undisciplined 7 when we were with you, •nor did we ever accept food from anyone without paying 8 for it; no, we worked with unsparing energy, night and day, so as not to be a burden on any of you. •This was not because we had no right to be, but in order to make 9 ourselves a model for you to imitate.

We urged you when we were with you not to let anyone eat if he refused to 10 work. [c] •Now we hear that there are some of you who are living lives without any 11 discipline, doing no work themselves but interfering with other people's. •In the 12 Lord Jesus Christ, we urge and call on people of this kind to go on quietly working and earning the food that they eat.

My brothers, never slacken in doing what is right. •If anyone refuses to obey 13, 14
what I have written in this letter, take note of him and have nothing to do with him, so that he will be ashamed of himself, •though you are not to treat him as an 15 enemy, but to correct him as a brother.

Prayer and farewell wishes

1 Th 5:23

May the Lord of peace himself give you peace at all times and in every way. The 16
Lord be with you all.

2:2 Ga 6:11+ Rm 16:20+

This greeting is in my own hand—PAUL. It is the mark of genuineness 17 in every letter; this is my own writing. •May the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be 18 with you all. [d]

b. By imitating Paul, 1 Co 4:16; Ga 4:12; Ph 3:17, Christians will be imitating Christ, 1 Th 1:6; Ph 2:5; cf. Mt 16:24; Jn 13:15; 1 P 2:21; 1 Jn 2:6, who is himself the one that Paul is imitating, 1 Co 11:1. Christians must also imitate God, Ep 5:1 (cf. Mt 5:48), and they must imitate each other, 1 Th 1:7; 2:14; Heb 6:12. Behind this community of life is the idea of a model of doctrine, Rm 6:17, that has been received by tradition, 2 Th 3:6; 1 Co 11:2; 1 Th 2:13d. The leaders who transmit the doctrine must themselves be 'models' v. 9; Ph 3:17; 1 Tm 1:16; 4:12; Tt 2:7; 1 P 5:3, whose faith and life are to be imitated, Heb 13:7.

c. This rule, which aims only at deliberate refusal to work, comes either from a saying of Jesus, or perhaps simply from a popular saying. It constitutes 'the rule of Christian work'.

d. add. 'Amen', cf. 1 Th 3:13; 5:28.

1 TIMOTHY

THE FIRST LETTER FROM PAUL TO TIMOTHY

Address

1 1 Paul, apostle of Christ Jesus appointed by the command [a] of God our Saviour [b] Rm 1:1a,b 2 and of Christ Jesus our hope, ·to Timothy, true child of mine in the faith. Ac 16:1a
Grace, mercy and peace from God the Father and from Christ Jesus our Lord.

Suppress the false teachers

3 When I was setting out for Macedonia I urged you to stay on in Ephesus to instruct 4 certain people not to spread wrong teaching ·or to give attention to myths and 4:7;6:4,20 unending genealogies; [c] these things only foster doubts instead of furthering God's 2 Tm 2:14, 16,23;4:4 5 plan [d] which is founded on faith. ·The final goal at which this instruction aims is Tt 1:14;3:9
6 love, issuing from a pure heart, a clear conscience and a sincere faith. ·Some 1 Co 4:4b
7 people have missed the way to these things and turned to empty speculation, ·trying to be teachers of the Law; but they understand neither the words they use nor the matters about which they make such strong assertions.

The purpose of the Law

8 We are well aware that the Law [e] is good, but only provided it is used legitimately, [f] Rm 7:7d,12seq.
9 on the understanding that laws are not framed for people who are upright. [g] On the Ga 5:23 contrary, they are for criminals and the insubordinate, for the irreligious and the Rm 1:29q wicked, for the sacrilegious and the godless; they are for people who kill their 10 fathers or mothers and for murderers, ·for the promiscuous, homosexuals, kidnap- Rv 18:13 pers, for liars and for perjurers—and for everything else that is contrary to the 11 sound teaching [h] ·that accords with the gospel of the glory of the blessed God, the Jn 1:14n 2 Co 4:4 gospel that was entrusted to me. Tt 1:3

Paul on his own calling

12 I thank Christ Jesus our Lord, who has given me strength. By calling me into his 13 service he has judged me trustworthy, ·even though I used to be a blasphemer Ac 8:3+ and a persecutor and contemptuous. Mercy, however, was shown me, because 14 while I lacked faith I acted in ignorance; ·but the grace of our Lord filled me with Mt 9:13par.
15 faith and with the love that is in Christ Jesus. ·Here is a saying that you can rely Jn 16:2 Ac 3:17m 1 Co 15:9seq. 2 P 3:15

1 a. var. 'the promise'.

b. The title 'Saviour', rare in the letters of Paul, Ep 5:23; Ph 3:20, is in the Pastoral Letters applied to the Father, 1 Tm 2:3; 4:10; Tt 1:3; 2:10; 3:4. The work of Christ the Saviour fulfilled the design of the Father.

c. Genealogies of OT patriarchs and heroes constructed by Jewish writers in the same style as those in the Book of Jubilees.

d. var. 'the building-up of God's house.

e. The 'Law of Moses'.

f. lit. 'Now the Law is good if anyone uses it as a law', i.e. without asking it to be more than it claims to be.

g. The Law, here, is good not because it gives knowledge of sin, Rm 7:7d,12–14, nor because it prepares for the coming of Christ, Ga 3:24–25, but because it is necessary for the correction of sinners.

h. The epithet 'sound' in 'sound teaching' is characteristic of the Pastoral Letters, see 6:3; 2 Tm 1:13; 4:3; Tt 1:9,13; 2:1,8. It is the apostolic preaching with all its qualities of soundness, and taken in connection with ethical conduct (see Rm 12:1–2; Ph 4:8–9).

on [i] and nobody should doubt: that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners.
I myself am the greatest of them; ·and if mercy has been shown to me, it is 16
2 Th 3:7b because Jesus Christ meant to make me the leading example of his inexhaustible patience for all the other people who were later to trust in him for eternal life.
6:16 To the eternal King, the undying,[j] invisible and only God, be honour and glory 17
Rm 16:27n for ever and ever. Amen.
Col 1:15

Timothy's responsibility

Timothy, my son, these are the instructions that I am giving you, in accordance 18
4:14+ with the words once spoken over you by the prophets,[k] so that in their light you
2 Tm 4:7 may fight like a good soldier ·with faith and a good conscience for your weapons. 19
Some people have put conscience aside and wrecked their faith in consequence.
2 Tm 2:17;4:14 I mean men like Hymenaeus and Alexander, whom I have handed over to Satan[l] 20 1 Co 5:5d so that they may learn not to be blasphemous.

Liturgical prayer

2 I urge[a] then, first of all that petitions, prayers, intercessions and thanksgiving 1
Rm 13:1–7,1a should be offered for everyone, ·for kings and others in authority,[b] so that we 2
Tt 3:1 may be able to live peaceful and quiet lives with all devotion and propriety. ·To do 3
1:1b this is right, and acceptable to God our Saviour: ·he wants everyone to be saved[c] 4
Ezk 18:23+ and reach full knowledge of the truth.[d] ·For there is only one God, and there is 5
•Jn 8:32 only one mediator between God and humanity, himself a human being, Christ
1 Co 8:6c Jesus, [e] ·who offered himself as a ransom for all. This was the witness[f] given at the 6
Heb 8:6b appointed time, ·of which I was appointed herald and apostle and—I am telling 7
Mt20:28par,28g the truth and no lie—a teacher of the gentiles in faith and truth.
Ac 9:15 In every place, then, I want the men to lift their hands up reverently in prayer, 8
Rm 3:26m with no anger or argument.
2 Co 5:15
Ga 1:4;2:7
Ep 5:2
2 Tim 1:11
Tt 2:14

Women in the assembly

Is 3:16seq. Similarly, women are to wear suitable clothes and to be dressed quietly and 9 1 P 3:2–4 modestly, without braided hair or gold and jewellery or expensive clothes; ·their 10 adornment is to do the good works that are proper for women who claim to be Gn 3:16 religious. ·During instruction, a woman should be quiet and respectful. I give no 11, 12 1 Co 14:34–35 permission for a woman to teach or to have authority over a man. A woman ought
1 Co 11:3, 8–12 to be quiet, ·because Adam was formed first and Eve afterwards, and it was not 13, 14
Gn 2:18,21seq.; 3:12–13 Adam who was led astray but the woman who was led astray and fell into sin.
•Nb 31:16 Nevertheless, she will be saved by child-bearing,[g] provided she lives a sensible life 15
•1 Co 13:13e and is constant in faith and love and holiness.
•Tt 1:6–9

The elder-in-charge

1:15i 3 Here is a saying that you can rely on: to want to be a presiding elder[a] is to 1
2 Tm 2:24 desire a noble task. ·That is why the presiding elder must have an impeccable 2
3:12 character. Husband of one wife,[b] he must be temperate, discreet and courteous, Tt 2:6b hospitable and a good teacher; ·not a heavy drinker, nor hot-tempered, but gentle 3 and peaceable, not avaricious, ·a man who manages his own household well and 4 brings his children up to obey him and be well-behaved: ·how can any man who 5 1 Co 1:2a does not understand how to manage his own household take care of the Church of God? ·He should not be a new convert, in case pride should turn his head and he 6 incur the same condemnation as the devil. ·It is also necessary that he be held 7 1 Co 5:12i in good repute by outsiders, so that he never falls into disrepute and into the devil's trap.

Ac 6:1–6 ### Deacons

Similarly, deacons must be respectable, not double-tongued, moderate in the 8 amount of wine they drink and with no squalid greed for money. ·They must hold 9
Rm 16:25l to the mystery of the faith with a clear conscience. ·They are first to be examined, 10

11 and admitted to serve as deacons only if there is nothing against them. ·Similarly, women[c] must be respectable, not gossips, but sober and wholly reliable.
12 Deacons must be husbands of one wife and must be people who manage their 3:2,4 13 children and households well. ·Those of them who carry out their duties well as deacons will earn a high standing for themselves and an authoritative voice in matters concerning faith in Christ Jesus.

The Church and the mystery of the spiritual life

14, 15 I write this to you in the hope that I may be able to come to you soon; ·but in case
I should be delayed, I want you to know how people ought to behave in God's Tt 1:7
household—that is, in the Church of the living God, pillar and support of the ·1 Co 1:2a 16 truth.[d] ·Without any doubt, the mystery of our religion is very deep indeed: Ep 2:20s
Rm 16:25*l*

He[e] was made visible in the flesh, Jn 1:14*l* justified in the Spirit, Rm 1:3–4 seen by angels, Jn 16:10 proclaimed to the gentiles, Ep 3:10 believed in throughout the world, 1 P 1:12 taken up in glory.[f] Mk 16:19
Ac 1:2,11

False teachers

1 4 The Spirit has explicitly said that during the last times[a] some will desert the Mt 24:23–24 faith and pay attention to deceitful spirits and doctrines that come from devils, Ac 20:29–30
2 seduced by the hypocrisy of liars whose consciences are branded as though with 2 Tm 3:1
3 a red-hot iron:[b] ·they forbid marriage and prohibit foods which God created to be 2 P 2:1;3:3
accepted with thanksgiving by all who believe and who know the truth.[c] 1 Jn 2:18 4 Everything God has created is good, and no food is to be rejected, provided it is ·Col 2:16–23
5, 6 received with thanksgiving: ·the word of God and prayer make it holy. ·If you put Gn 9:3
all this to the brothers, you will be a good servant of Christ Jesus and show that you 2:4
have really digested the teaching of the faith and the good doctrine which you have Gn 1:31+ 7 always followed. ·Have nothing to do with godless myths and old wives' tales. Mt 15:11seq.par.
Rm 14:14,20
1Co10:25seq., 30seq.
Ac 10:15e
2 Tm 2:15
1:4d

i. This is one of the characteristic phrases of the Pastoral Letters, see 3:1; 4:9; 2 Tm 2:11; Tt 3:8. It is a way of attracting attention, perhaps of stressing an allusion or quotation which the readers will recognise.

j. lit. 'incorruptible' or 'imperishable'; var. 'immortal'. • This solemn doxology may be of liturgical origin. Doxologies are frequent in the Pauline letters, Rm 16:27n.

k. Here and in 4:14 Paul reminds Timothy of the part played by the 'prophets' when the college of elders laid their hands on his head, Ac 13:1–3; 11:27m.

l. The penalty of exclusion which will give the guilty a chance to amend, see 1 Co 5:5d.

2 a. 'I urge'; var. 'Urge'.

b. On Paul's political loyalty, see Rm 13:1–7. The end of the verse perhaps reflects the apostle's fears for the future.

c. Many theological implications have been drawn from this statement, and it has been used to interpret or correct some difficult passages in Romans, Rm 9:18,21. It is founded, v. 5, on an appeal to the oneness of God, cf. Mt 12:29; Rm 3:29–30; Ep 4:6, and to the unique position of Christ as divine and human, cf. Heb 2:17; 8:6b. Paul received from the Saviour, v. 7, the mission to preach a salvation offered to all, Ac 9:15h; Rm 1:1b.

d. Salvation is knowledge of the truth, 4:3; 2 Tm 2:25; 3:7; Tt 1:1. But this knowledge entails total commitment, see Ho 2:22v; Jn 8:32j; 2 Th 2:12.

e. Jesus is mediator precisely as a human being, and it is this which enables him to be Saviour of all, v. 4, by his death to ransom them, v. 6. Cf. Heb 2:14–17,15i.

f. Cf. 6:13. By accepting to die for humanity Jesus made clear to the world God's plan to save all humanity. Witness to the Father by his whole life, he was supremely so by his death (later the Gk word for 'witness' comes to be used also for 'martyr'). See Jn 3:11; Rv 1:5; 3:14.

g. Perhaps it was a point made against false teachers who forbade marriage, 4:3, that the primary vocation of women was giving life and raising children.

3 a. 'Bishop' and 'presbyter' are not mentioned here. See Tt 1:5seq., 5c.

b. This list of qualities, and the one which follows in vv. 8–12, have nothing specific about them. They draw on the classic lists of qualities required of those who hold office in the Church.

c. This instruction is probably intended for deaconesses, see Rm 16:1, rather than for the wives of deacons.

d. The Church of the living God, Dt 5:26d; 2 Co 6:16, is his house, that is, both his dwelling and his family, Nb 12:7; Heb 3:6; 10:21; 1 P 4:17, where the saving gospel is firmly preserved, v. 16.

e. He, i.e. Christ: many authorities (e.g. Vulg.) read 'It', i.e. the 'mystery', see Col 2:3a. There follows a fragment from a hymn or a liturgical profession of faith, composed of six brief statements grouped in pairs. Cf. 6:15–16; 2 Tm 2:11–13. Also see Ep 1:3–14; Ph 2:6–11; Col 1:15–20.

f. The holiness and divinity of Christ were proved by the fact that he rose in glory, see Rm 1:4c. 'Taken up in glory', i.e. at the ascension.

4 a. On the crisis that will characterise the 'last times' see 2 Th 2:3–12; 2 Tm 3:1; 4:3–4; 2 P 3:3; Jude 18. Also see Mt 24:6seq. and par.; Ac 20:29–30. As the 'last times' have already begun, Rm 3:26m, we are already living in this final epoch of crisis, cf. 1 Co 7:26; Ep 5:6; 6:13; Jm 5:3; 1 Jn 2:18; 4:1,3; 2 Jn 7.

b. i.e. branded like runaway slaves.

c. The rejection of marriage was to be one of the hallmarks of Gnosticism; dietary regulations were more specifically Jewish, see Col 2:16–23.

Train yourself for religion.[d] •Physical exercise is useful enough, but the usefulness 8 of religion is unlimited, since it holds out promise both for life here and now and 1:15i for the life to come; •that is a saying that you can rely on and nobody should doubt 9
it. •I mean that the point of all our toiling and battling is that we have put our trust 10 1:1b in the living God and he is the Saviour of the whole human race but particularly of all believers. •This is what you are to instruct and teach. 11

2 Th 3:7b Tt 2:7–8 Let no one disregard you because you are young, but be an example to all the 12 believers in the way you speak and behave, and in your love, your faith and your purity. •Until I arrive, devote yourself to reading to the people, encouraging and 13 6:11 Ga 5:22+ 1:18k teaching. •You have in you a spiritual gift which was given to you when the 14 prophets spoke and the body of elders laid their hands on you;[e] do not neglect it.
Let this be your care and your occupation, and everyone will be able to see your 15 progress. •Be conscientious about what you do and what you teach; persevere in 16 this, and in this way you will save both yourself and those who listen to you.

Pastoral practice

Lv 19:32 5 Never speak sharply to a man older than yourself, but appeal to him as you 1 would to your own father; treat younger men as brothers, •older women as 2 mothers and young women as sisters with all propriety.

Widows

Be considerate to widows—if they really are widowed.[a] •If a widow has children or 3, 4 grandchildren, they are to learn first of all to do their duty to their own families and repay their debt to their parents, because this is what pleases God. •But a woman 5 Jdt 8:4–5 Lk 2:37 who is really widowed and left on her own has set her hope on God and perseveres night and day in petitions and prayer. •The one who thinks only of pleasure is 6 Rv 3:1 already dead while she is still alive: •instruct them in this, too, so that their lives 7 may be blameless. •Anyone who does not look after his own relations, especially if 8 they are living with him, has rejected the faith and is worse than an unbeliever.

Enrolment as a widow is permissible only for a woman at least sixty years old 9 who has had only one husband. •She must be a woman known for her good works— 10
Jn 13:14 whether she has brought up her children, been hospitable to strangers and washed Ac 9:13g the feet of God's holy people,[b] helped people in hardship or been active in all kinds of good work. •Do not accept young widows because if their natural desires distract 11 them from Christ, they want to marry again, •and then people condemn them for 12 being unfaithful to their original promise.[c] •Besides, they learn how to be idle and 13 go round from house to house; and then, not merely idle, they learn to be gossips and meddlers in other people's affairs and to say what should remain unsaid. •I 14 think it is best for young widows to marry again[d] and have children and a household Tt 2:8 to look after, and not give the enemy any chance[e] to raise a scandal about them;
there are already some who have turned aside to follow Satan. •If a woman believer 15, 16 has widowed relatives, she should support them and not make the Church bear the expense but enable it to support those who are really widowed.

Tt 1:5c ### The elders

1 Th 5:12e Elders who do their work well while they are in charge earn double reward,[f] 17
Dt 25:4 1 Co 9:9 especially those who work hard at preaching and teaching. •As scripture says: You 18
Lk 10:7 must not muzzle an ox when it is treading out the corn; and again: The worker deserves his wages.[g] •Never accept any accusation brought against an elder unless 19
Dt 19:15 Mt 18:16 it is supported by two or three witnesses. •If anyone is at fault, reprimand him 20
2 Co 13:1 publicly, as a warning to the rest. •Before God, and before Jesus Christ and the 21 angels he has chosen, I charge you to keep these rules impartially and never to be influenced by favouritism. •Do not be too quick to lay hands on anyone,[h] and 22 never make yourself an accomplice in anybody else's sin; keep yourself pure.

You should give up drinking only water and have a little wine for the sake of 23 your digestion and the frequent bouts of illness that you have.

24 The faults of some people are obvious long before they come to the reckoning, 25 while others have faults that are not discovered until later. ·Similarly, the good Mt 5:16 that people do can be obvious; but even when it is not, it cannot remain hidden. Mt 10:26par.

Slaves

Rm 6:15g
1 Co 7:21–22
Ep 6:5–8
Col 3:22–25
Tt 2:9–10
Phm 16f

1 6 All those under the yoke of slavery must have unqualified respect for their masters, so that the name of God and our teaching are not brought into 2 disrepute. ·Those whose masters are believers are not to respect them less because Rm 2:24+ they are brothers; on the contrary, they should serve them all the better, since those who have the benefit of their services are believers and dear to God. [a]

The true teacher and the false teacher

3 This is what you are to teach and urge. ·Anyone who teaches anything different and does not keep to the sound teaching which is that of our Lord Jesus Christ, the 1:10h 4 doctrine which is in accordance with true religion, ·is proud and has no understanding, but rather a weakness for questioning [b] everything and arguing about 1:4d words. All that can come of this is jealousy, contention, abuse and evil mistrust; Rm 1:29q 5 and unending disputes by people who are depraved in mind and deprived of 6 truth, and imagine that religion is a way of making a profit. ·Religion, of course, does bring large profits, but only to those who are content with what they have.
7, 8 We brought nothing into the world, and we can take nothing out of it; ·but as Jb 1:21
9 long as we have food and clothing, we shall be content with that. ·People who long Ps 49:17 to be rich are a prey to trial; they get trapped into all sorts of foolish and harmful Qo 5:14 10 ambitions which plunge people into ruin and destruction. ·'The love of money is Mt 6:24
the root of all evils' [c] and there are some who, pursuing it, have wandered away from the faith and so given their souls any number of fatal wounds.

Timothy's vocation recalled

2 Tm 4:1

11 But, as someone dedicated to God, avoid all that. You must aim to be upright and 2 Tm 2:22
12 religious, filled with faith and love, perseverance and gentleness. ·Fight the good ·Ga 5:22+
Tt 2:2
fight of faith and win the eternal life to which you were called and for which you 1 Co 13:13e 13 made your noble profession of faith [d] before many witnesses. ·Now, before God, ·2 Tm 4:7
the source of all life, and before Jesus Christ, who witnessed to his noble profession 2:6f 14 of faith before Pontius Pilate, [e] I charge you ·to do all that you have been told, Jn 18:36–37 with no faults or failures, until the appearing [f] of our Lord Jesus Christ,

d. The word translated 'religion' occurs ten times in the Pastoral Epistles, 2:2; 3:16; 4:7,8; 6:3,5,6,11; 2 Tm 3:12; Tt 2:12. It sums up the Christian attitude; connected with the knowledge of faith which is the core of common life in Christ Jesus, it has the sense also of devotion and seriousness for the things of God.

e. Some translate 'the imposition of hands for the office of presbyter'. The 'imposition of hands' can be the rite for transmitting grace or a charism, Heb 6:2, or it can be the gesture used when blessing, Mt 19:15, or curing, Mt 9:18 and par.; Mk 6:5; 7:32; 8:23–25; 16:18; Lk 4:40; 13:13; Ac 9:12,17; 28:8, or imparting the Holy Spirit to the newly baptised, Ac 1:5f. It can also be the rite for consecrating a person for a particular public function, Ac 6:6; 13:3, as in this passage and 1 Tm 5:22h; 2 Tm 1:6. Since the day on which he received the imposition of hands, Timothy has had a permanent charism ('grace-gift') that consecrates him to his ministry. For the part played by the prophets, see 1:18.

5 a. Three categories of widow are mentioned here: those who do not need assistance from the Church since they have relations to look after them, v. 4; those who are 'true widows' because they have no one to look after them, and whom the Church is obliged to help, vv. 3–5,16; and those who (whether helped by the Church or not) are called by the Church to fulfil certain official functions. Widows in this third category have to satisfy quite severe regulations, vv. 9–15.

b. The normal courtesy then shown to guests.

c. i.e. their vow or promise to consecrate themselves to God.

d. The caution expressed here stands in marked contrast to the high ideals put before young widows in 1 Co 7:8.

e. Either a malicious person, hostile to Christians, or, less probably, Satan.

f. Or 'double honour'.

g. Or 'his keep', see Mt 10:10. To the quotation from Dt 25:4 is added a saying of Jesus which is known to us only through Lk 10:7. But this does not imply that Luke's Gospel was already completed and recognised as scripture. See 2 Tm 3:15d.

h. i.e. to confer a function in the Church, see 4:14e. Some commentators have suggested that this refers to the giving of absolution to a sinner.

6 a. Or 'and dear brothers'.

b. lit. 'seeking'. With the search for God which in the OT summed up the whole attitude of fidelity to God, Dt 4:29; Ps 27:8b; Jr 29:13–14 and which retains its value in the NT, Mt 6:33; 7:7–8; Ac 17:27 the apostle here contrasts, see 1:4; 2 Tm 2:16,23; Tt 3:9, subtle and pointless delvings, unending because indiscreet, an illness fatal to sound teaching, 1 Tm 1:10h; 6:3, because of an inquisitiveness which claims to go further than the mystery of faith, cf. 2 Jn 9.

c. A contemporary proverb.

d. We do not know to what incident in Timothy's life this refers: possibly baptism or consecration for the ministry.

e. The proclamation of his royal messiahship and his office as revealer of Truth, Jn 18:36–37. The mention of Pontius Pilate lends strength to the official tone of this who at the due time will be revealed 15

by God, the blessed and only Ruler of all, Dt 10:17 the King of kings and the Lord of lords,
2 M 13:4
Ps 136:3 who alone is immortal, 16
Rv 17:14
whose home is in inaccessible light,
Ex 33:20i whom no human being has seen or is able to see:
Jn 1:17–18+ to him be honour and everlasting power. Amen.[g]

Rich Christians

Instruct those who are rich in this world's goods that they should not be proud and 17
Lk 12:17–21 should set their hopes not on money, which is untrustworthy, but on God who Jn 1:10 gives us richly all that we need for our happiness. ·They are to do good and be rich 18 in good works, generous in giving and always ready to share—·this is the way they 19
Mt 6:20 can amass a good capital sum for the future if they want to possess the only life that Ph 4:17 is real.

Final warning and conclusion

My dear Timothy, take great care of all that has been entrusted to you.[h] Turn away 20
1:4c from godless philosophical discussions and the contradictions of the 'knowledge'
2 Tm 1:12,14; which is not knowledge at all;[i] ·by adopting this, some have missed the goal of 21
2:2;3:14
Tt 2:1 faith. Grace be with you.[j] witness, which is exemplary for the Christian's profession of faith at baptism or in the face of persecution.

f. The word 'epiphany' ('appearing', used in 2 Th 2:8 with reference to the Great Rebel) is adopted in the Pastoral Letters in preference to parousia ('coming', 1 Co 15:23n), or 'apocalypse' ('revealing', 1 Co 1:7c), as the technical term, 2 Tm 4:1,8; Tt 2:13; Heb 9:28. It is used both for the manifestation of Christ in his triumph at the end of the world, and for his first appearance in the world for the saving action of his life, death and resurrection (2 Tm 1:10; Tt 2:11; 3:4).

g. This impressive doxology may be inspired by a liturgical hymn, cf. 1:17. It comprises seven scriptural phrases transposed into Hellenistic language, the themes being that God is the only object of worship and that no one may claim to fathom the mystery of God.

h. The deposit entrusted is an important theme of the Pastoral Letters, 2 Tm 1:12,14. Its content is that of faith, 4:6; 2 Tm 1:13; Tt 1:9, or tradition, 2 Th 2:15i; 3:6. But the notion is legal in origin and stresses the recipient's duty to keep and hand on intact the deposit which has been entrusted to him. Compare 'Hold on firmly to what you have,' Rv 2:25; 3:11.

i. This pseudo-science is that which will later be refuted by Irenaeus.

j. 'you', plural; var. 'you', singular. add. 'Amen'.

2 TIMOTHY

THE SECOND LETTER FROM PAUL TO TIMOTHY

Greeting and thanksgiving

1 From Paul, apostle of Christ Jesus through the will of God in accordance with 2 his promise of life in Christ Jesus, ·to Timothy, dear son of mine. Grace, mercy and peace from God the Father and from Christ Jesus our Lord.

Rm 1:1a,b
Ac 16:1a

3 Night and day I thank God whom I serve with a pure conscience as my 4 ancestors did. I remember you in my prayers constantly night and day; ·I remember 5 your tears [a] and long to see you again to complete my joy. ·I also remember your sincere faith, a faith which first dwelt in your grandmother Lois, and your mother Eunice, and I am sure dwells also in you. [b]

Rm 1:9f
Ph 3:5
4:9,21
3:14–15
Ac 16:1

The gifts that Timothy has received

6 That is why I am reminding you now to fan into a flame the gift [c] of God that you
7 possess through the laying on of my hands. ·God did not give us a spirit of timidity, 8 but the Spirit of power and love and self-control. ·So you are never to be ashamed of witnessing to our Lord, or ashamed of me for being his prisoner; but share in my 9 hardships for the sake of the gospel, relying on the power of God ·who has saved us and called us to be holy [d]—not because of anything we ourselves had done but for his own purpose and by his own grace. This grace had already been granted to 10 us, in Christ Jesus, before the beginning of time, ·but it has been revealed only by the appearing [e] of our Saviour Christ Jesus. He has abolished death, and he has 11 brought to light immortality and life through the gospel, ·in whose service I have been made herald, apostle and teacher. [f]

1 Tm 4:14e
·Ac 1:8j
Rm 8:15
1 Jn 4:18
Lk 9:26
Rm 1:16; 5:3seq.
Ep 3:13
Tt 3:5
Rm 8:28;16:25*l*
Tt 2:11;3:4
Rm 6:9;8:2
Heb 2:14–15
1 Tm 2:7

12 That is why I am experiencing my present sufferings; [g] but I am not ashamed, because I know in whom I have put my trust, and I have no doubt at all that he is able to safeguard until that Day what I have entrusted to him. [h]

1 Co 1:8e
1 Tm 1:10h; 6:20h

13 Keep as your pattern the sound teaching you have heard from me, in the faith
14 and love that are in Christ Jesus. ·With the help of the Holy Spirit who dwells in us, look after that precious thing given in trust.

Rm 5:5e

15 As you know, Phygelus and Hermogenes and all the others in Asia have deserted 16 me. ·I hope the Lord will be kind to all the family of Onesiphorus, because he has 17 often been a comfort to me and has never been ashamed of my chains. ·On the contrary, as soon as he reached Rome, he searched hard for me and found me.

4:19
1:8+

1 a. Possibly when they parted at Ephesus, 1 Tm 1:3.

b. This verse is a happy complement to Ac 16;1. We have not much evidence in the NT of the benefits of education in the faith in the bosom of a Christian family. Cf. 3: 14–15.

c. The charism had already been received, 1 Tm 4:14e, and Timothy must fan it into a flame with the help of the Spirit.

d. This may be taken in two ways here: the calling of Christians to salvation, cf. Rm 1:6–7; 8:28; 1 Co 1:2,24; Ep 1:18; 4:4; Ph 3:14; Col 3:15, or (by metonymy) the state ('vocation') to which Christians have been called.

e. The 'appearing' ('epiphany'), see 1 Tm 6:14f, here refers to the incarnation and redemption.

f. add. 'to the non-Jews', cf. 1 Tm 2:7.

g. A second captivity at Rome.

h. The context suggests that this indicates Christian doctrine kept intact, 1 Tm 6:20h, rather than Paul's good deeds, 4:7–8; 1 Tm 6:19.

May the Lord grant him to find the Lord's mercy on that Day.[i] You know better than anyone else how much he helped me at Ephesus. 18

How Timothy should face hardships

2 As for you, my dear son, take strength from the grace which is in Christ Jesus. 1
Pass on to reliable people what you have heard from me through many 2
1 Tm 4:14;6:12 witnesses so that they in turn will be able to teach others.[a]
Bear with your share of difficulties, like a good soldier of Christ Jesus.[b] 3, 4
•No one on active service involves himself in the affairs of civilian life, because he must win the approval of the man who enlisted him; 5
•or again someone who enters an 1 Co 9:25+ athletic contest wins only by competing in the sports—a prize can be won only by 1 Co 3:6–9; 9:7,10 competing according to the rules; 6
•and again, it is the farmer who works hard that has the first claim on any crop that is harvested. 7 •Think over what I have said, and the Lord will give you full understanding.
Ac 13:22–23 Remember the gospel that I carry, 'Jesus Christ risen from the dead, sprung 8
Rm 1:3–4 Lk 23:32 from the race of David'; 9
•it is on account of this that I have to put up with suffering, Ep 3:1+ Ph 1:13–17 even to being chained like a criminal. But God's message cannot be chained up.
Col 1:24*l* So I persevere for the sake of those who are chosen, so that they, too, may obtain 10 1 Th 2:12 the salvation that is in Christ Jesus with eternal glory.
1 Tm 1:15i Here is a saying that you can rely on:[c] 11

Rm 6:5f If we have died with him, then we shall live with him.
Rm 8:17 If we persevere, then we shall reign with him. 12
Mt 10:33 If we disown him, then he will disown us.
Nb 23:19+ Rm 3:3+ 1 Co 1:9f If we are faithless, he is faithful still, 13 for he cannot disown his own self.

The struggle against the immediate danger from false teachers

Remind them of this; and tell them in the name of God[d] that there must be no 14 1 Tm 1:4c wrangling about words: all that this ever achieves is the destruction of those who
1 Tm 4:6–7 are listening. 15
•Make every effort to present yourself before God as a proven worker who has no need to be ashamed, but who keeps the message of truth on a straight
1 Tm 1:4c path. 16
•Have nothing to do with godless philosophical discussions—they only lead further and further away from true religion. 17
•Talk of this kind spreads corruption
1 Tm 1:20 like gangrene, as in the case of Hymenaeus and Philetus, 18
•the men who have gone astray from the truth, claiming that the resurrection has already taken place.[e] They are upsetting some people's faith.
Ep 2:20s However, God's solid foundation-stone stands firm,[f] and this is the seal on it: 19
Nb 16:5,26 Is 26:13 'The Lord knows those who are his own' and 'All who call on the name of the Lord must avoid evil.'[g]
Not all the dishes in a large house are made of gold and silver; some are made of 20
Is 29:16g Rm 9:21 wood or earthenware: the former are held in honour, the latter held cheap. 21
•If someone holds himself aloof from these faults I speak of, he will be a vessel held in honour, dedicated and fit for the Master, ready for any good work.
1 Tm 6:11 Ga 5:22+ Turn away from the passions of youth, concentrate on uprightness, faith, love 22 and peace, in union with all those who call on the Lord with a pure heart. 23 •Avoid 1 Tm 1:4c these foolish and undisciplined speculations, understanding that they only give rise
Is 42:3 Mt 12:19seq. 1 Tm 3:2seq. to quarrels; 24
•and a servant of the Lord must not engage in quarrels, but must be kind to everyone, a good teacher, and patient. 25
•He must be gentle when he corrects Ga 6:1 people who oppose him, in the hope that God may give them a change of mind so that they recognise the truth 26
•and come to their senses, escaping the trap of the 1 Jn 2:1,3g devil who made them his captives and subjected them to his will.

The dangers of the last days

1 Tm 4:1a 3 You may be quite sure that in the last days there will be some difficult times. 1
Rm 1:29q People will be self-centred and avaricious, boastful, arrogant and rude; 2

3 disobedient to their parents, ungrateful, irreligious; ·heartless and intractable;
they will be slanderers, profligates, savages and enemies of everything that 4 is good; ·they will be treacherous and reckless and demented by pride, preferring
5 their own pleasure to God. ·They will keep up the outward appearance of religion [a] Mt 7:15;24: 4seq., 24 Col 2:23 but will have rejected the inner power of it. Keep away from people like that.
6 Of the same kind, too, are those men who insinuate themselves into families in order to get influence over silly women who are obsessed with their sins and follow Ac 17:21
7 one craze after another, ·always seeking learning, but unable ever to come to Jn 8:32 1 Tm 2:4
8 knowledge of the truth. ·Just as Jannes and Jambres defied Moses, [b] so these men 9 defy the truth, their minds corrupt and their faith spurious. ·But they will not be able to go on much longer: their folly, like that of the other two, must become obvious to everybody.
10 You, though, have followed my teaching, my way of life, my aims, my faith, my 1 Co 13:13e 11 patience and my love, my perseverance ·and the persecutions and sufferings that came to me in places like Antioch, Iconium and Lystra—all the persecutions I Ac 13:44–14:22 12 have endured; and the Lord has rescued me from every one of them. ·But anybody 2 Co 11:23seq.
13 who tries to live in devotion to Christ is certain to be persecuted; ·while these Jn 16:33 Ac 14:22+ 1 Th 3:4–5 wicked impostors will go from bad to worse, deceiving others, and themselves deceived.
14 You must keep to what you have been taught and know to be true; remember 2:2
15 who your teachers were, [c] ·and how, ever since you were a child, you have known 1:5
the holy scriptures [d]—from these you can learn the wisdom that leads to salvation 2 Co 3:14–18 16 through faith in Christ Jesus. ·All scripture is inspired by God and useful [e] for Rm 15:4 1 Co 10:6d
17 refuting error, for guiding people's lives and teaching them to be upright. ·This is 2 P 1:20–21 how someone who is dedicated to God becomes fully equipped and ready for any good work.

A solemn charge [a]

1 Tm 1:10h; 4:1a

1 4 Before God and before Christ Jesus who is to be judge of the living and the Ac 10:42q 1 Tm 6:14f dead, [b] I charge you, in the name of his appearing and of his kingdom: 1 P 4:5 2 proclaim the message and, welcome or unwelcome, insist on it. Refute falsehood, correct error, give encouragement—but do all with patience and with care to 3 instruct. ·The time is sure to come when people will not accept sound teaching, but 1 Tm 1:10h; 4:1a their ears will be itching for anything new and they will collect themselves a whole 4 series of teachers according to their own tastes; ·and then they will shut their ears

i. 'Lord' can be taken in either case as a reference either to the Father or to the Son.

2 a. The process of transmission of this 'precious trust', or tradition, is here seen at work, in four successive stages.

b. Vv. 4–6 are three short parables: the soldier, the athlete, the farm labourer.

c. Vv. 11–13 are part of a Christian hymn, see 1 Tm 3:16e.

d. var. 'the Lord'.

e. The Greek mind found the resurrection particularly hard to accept, Ac 17:32; 1 Co 15:12. Hymenaeus and Philetus may well have given it a purely spiritual interpretation as the mystical resurrection that occurs in baptism, Rm 6:4; Ep 2:6e, or as a mystical ascent to God. Paul had put the Corinthians on their guard against too material a conception, 1 Co 15:35–53 and notes.

f. Details about a building were often inscribed on its foundation-stone: as the building here is the Church, the foundation-stone could be either Christ himself, 1 Co 3:11, or the apostles, Ep 2:20; cf. Rv 21:14, or faith in the unbreakable promise of God, cf. 2:13.

g. The scriptural texts complement each other: God looks after those he loves, Nb 16:5, and these must live in uprightness, Nb 16:26; Ps 6:8; Is 26:13; 52:11.

3 a. This is reminiscent of the 'false prophets' foretold in Mt 7:15; 24:4–5,24. A fresh outbreak of irreligion is one of the characteristics of the 'last times', see 1 Tm 4:1a.

b. The magicians of Egypt in Ex 7:11–13,22 are not named. In Jewish writings Jannes and Jambres (or 'Mambres'), represented as the leaders of the Egyptian magicians, are said to be the disciples (or even sons) of Balaam, Nb 22:2b.

c. These teachers were Lois, Eunice, 1:5, and, above all, Paul himself.

d. This was the name given by hellenistic Jews to the books of the Bible, see 1 M 12:9c. The NT often quotes 'the scriptures' or 'scripture' or individual books. Rm 1:2 has 'the holy scriptures'; 2 Co 3:14f has 'the old covenant or Testament' (but the sense is not limited to the books of scripture, see 1 Th 5:27i; 2 P 3:16).

e. Or (less probably) 'all scripture that is inspired by God can . . .' (Vulg.). This affirmation about the inspiration of the OT, cf. 2 P 1:21, probably includes some Christian writings also. It is by assiduously studying scripture that the Christian nourishes faith and apostolic zeal, vv. 15–17.

4 a. This appeal to a cherished disciple, at the end of the last of the epistles, can be compared, in a different tonality, to the discourse at Miletus, Ac 20:18–36. Dominated by the thought of approaching death and the coming of the Lord, Paul charges Timothy to carry on untiringly the mission he bequeaths to him.

b. Christ will judge all, both those who are alive at his coming and those who will rise again, see Mt 25:31e; Jn 5:26–29; 1 Th 4:15–17. This claim surely formed part of the earliest kerygma, Ac 10:42; 1 P 4:5, and has been included in the Creed.

1 Tm 1:4c to the truth and will turn to myths. •But you must keep steady all the time; put up with suffering; do the work of preaching the gospel; fulfil the service asked of you. [c] 5

Paul in the evening of his life

Ph 2:17r As for me, my life is already being poured away as a libation, [d] and the time has 6
1 Co 9:24 come for me to depart. •I have fought the good fight to the end; I have run the race 7
1 Tm 1:18 to the finish; I have kept the faith; •all there is to come for me now is the crown of 8
Ac 20:24 uprightness which the Lord, the upright judge, will give to me on that Day; and not Ga 5:7d only to me but to all those who have longed for his appearing. [e]
2:4–5
1 Co 9:25+
1 Tm 6:14f

Final advice

Col 4:14 Make every effort to come and see me as soon as you can. •As it is, Demas has 9, 10
Phm 24 deserted me for love of this life and gone to Thessalonica, Crescens has gone to Col 4:10 Galatia [f] and Titus to Dalmatia; •only Luke [g] is with me. Bring Mark [h] with you; I 11
Tt 3:12+ find him a useful helper in my work. •I have sent Tychicus to Ephesus. •When you 12, 13 come, bring the cloak I left with Carpus in Troas, and the scrolls, especially the 1 Tm 1:20 parchment ones. •Alexander the coppersmith has done me a lot of harm; the Lord 14
Ps 5:10c;28:4; 62:12e will repay him as his deeds deserve. •Be on your guard against him yourself, because 15
Pr 24:12 he has been bitterly contesting everything that we say.

The first time I had to present my defence, [i] no one came into court to support 16
me. Every one of them deserted me—may they not be held accountable for it.
Mt 10:19seq. Ph 1:19seq. Col 4:3seq. But the Lord stood by me and gave me power, so that through me the message 17 might be fully proclaimed for all the gentiles to hear; and so I was saved from the Ps 22:21 Dn 6:17 lion's mouth. •The Lord will rescue me from all evil attempts on me, and bring me 18
Rm 16:27n safely to [j] his heavenly kingdom. To him be glory for ever and ever. [k] Amen.

Farewells and final good wishes

Ac 18:2b;19; 22; 20:4 Greetings to Prisca and Aquila, and the family of Onesiphorus. •Erastus stayed 19, 20 behind at Corinth, and I left Trophimus ill at Miletus. •Make every effort to come 21 before the winter.

Greetings to you from Eubulus, Pudens, Linus, Claudia and all the brothers.

The Lord [l] be with your spirit. Grace be with you. 22

c. Vulg. adds 'Be sober'.

d. Libations of wine, water or oil were poured over the victims not only in gentile sacrifices but also in Jewish ones, see Ex 29:40; Nb 28:7.

e. Paul is sure that he has fulfilled his mission. With him will be crowned all those who have accepted the gospel, Ph 4:1; 2 Th 1:7,10.

f. var. 'Gaul'. • At that time the name 'Galatia' was used for the Roman province in Asia, which had been settled by Gallic ex-servicemen.

g. Presumably Luke the evangelist, see Col 4:14.

h. Presumably Mark the evangelist, Ac 12:12d. His old quarrel with Paul, Ac 15:37–39, seems to have been forgotten.

i. At some recent hearing of his case, which gave the Apostle the chance to proclaim the faith entirely on his own, v. 17; Ac 9:15h.

j. Or 'and keep me safe for'.

k. Note that this doxology is addressed to Christ the Saviour and Redeemer, see Rm 16:25*l*; Ga 1:5.

l. Some witnesses add 'Jesus Christ', and (at the end) 'Amen'

TITUS

THE LETTER FROM PAUL TO TITUS

Address [a]

1 From Paul, servant of God, an apostle of Jesus Christ to bring those whom God has chosen to faith and to the knowledge of the truth that leads to true
2 religion, ·and to give them the hope of the eternal life that was promised so long
3 ago by God. He does not lie ·and so, in due time, he made known his message by a proclamation which was entrusted to me by the command of God our Saviour.
4 To Titus, true child of mine in the faith that we share. Grace and peace from God the Father and from Christ Jesus our Saviour.

Rm 1:1a,b
Nb 23:19+
2 Tm 2:13
Ac 1:7i
Rm 3:26
2 Co 2:13d
1 Tm 1:1b,11

The appointment of elders

5 The reason I left you behind in Crete was for you to organise everything that still had to be done [b] and appoint elders [c] in every town, in the way that I told you,
6 that is, each of them must be a man of irreproachable character, husband of one wife, and his children must be believers and not liable to be charged with disorderly
7 conduct or insubordination. ·The presiding elder has to be irreproachable since he is God's representative: never arrogant or hot-tempered, nor a heavy drinker or 8 violent, nor avaricious; ·but hospitable and a lover of goodness; sensible, upright,
9 devout and self-controlled; ·and he must have a firm grasp of the unchanging message of the tradition, so that he can be counted on both for giving encouragement in sound doctrine and for refuting those who argue against it.

1 Tm 3:2–7
1 Tm 3:15
Heb 3:2seq.
2 Tm 2:24
1 P 5:2
1 Tm 1:10h

Opposing the false teachers

10 And in fact there are many people who are insubordinate, who talk nonsense and 11 try to make others believe it, particularly among those of the circumcision. ·They must be silenced: people of this kind upset whole families, by teaching things that

1 Tm 4:1
2 Tm 3:13
2 Tm 3:6

1 a. This address, vv. 1–3, contains a whole theology of salvation and of the apostolate.

b. As usual, Paul had begun the work of evangelisation and then left it to be completed by others, see Rm 15:23g; 1 Co 3:6,10; Col 1:7b.

c. In the earliest days each Christian community was governed by a body of elders ('presbyters', whence English word 'priests') or prominent people. This was the case both in Jerusalem (Ac 11:30; 15:2seq.; 21:18) and in the Dispersion (Ac 14:23; 20:17) and it merely continued both the ancient practice of the OT, Ex 18:13seq.; Nb 11:16; Jos 8:10; 1 S 16:4; Is 9:14; Ezk 8:1,11–12, and the more recent practice of the Jews, Ezr 5:5; 10:14; Jdt 6:16; Lk 7:3; 22:66; Ac 4:5, see Josephus, Philo, etc. These episkopoi (presiding elders) who are not yet 'bishops' and who are mentioned in connection with the diakonoi (servants, attendants, assistants, deputies, ministers: 'deacons': Ph 1:1; 1 Tm 3:1–13; the Apostolic Fathers) seem in some passages, Tt 1:5,7; Ac 20:17,28, to be identical with the elders. The Greek word episkopos, taken over from the gentile world probably as an equivalent for a semitic title (cf. the mebaqqer of the Essenes, and see Nb 4:16; 31:14; Jg 9:28; 2 K 11:15,18; 12:11) indicated the duty of an officer, while presbyteros indicated the status or dignity of the same officer. The episkopoi in the college of presbyters may have taken turns to carry out their official duties, cf. 1 Tm 5:17. It is quite certain that Christian presbyteroi or episkopoi were not merely concerned with the practical side of organising things: they had to teach. 1:9; 1 Tm 3:2; 5:17, and govern, Tt 1:7; 1 Tm 3:5. They were appointed by the apostles, Ac 14:23, or their representatives, Tt 1:5, by the imposition of hands, 1 Tm 5:22, see 1 Tm 4:14e; 2 Tm 1:6; their powers derived from God, Ac 20:28, and were charismatic, 1 Co 12:28. The word episkopos eventually replaced analogous titles like proistamenos (official), Rm 12:8; 1 Th 5:12, poimen (pastor, shepherd), Ep 4:11, hegoumenos (guide, leader), Heb 13:7,17,24. These heads of the local community who developed into our priests (presbyteroi) and bishops (episkopoi) were helped by diakonoi (deacons). The transformation of a local assembly ruled by a body of bishops or presbyters, into an assembly ruled by a single bishop set over a number of priests (a stage reached in some churches by the time of Ignatius of Antioch, who died c. AD 107) may have involved the intermediate stage when a single episkopos in the community was given the same powers over that local community which had previously been exercised over several communities by the apostles or their representatives like Timothy or Titus.

1 Tm 6:10 they ought not to, and doing it for the sake of sordid gain. 12 •It was one of themselves, one of their own prophets, who said,[d] 'Cretans were never anything but liars, dangerous animals, all greed and laziness'; 13 •and that is a true statement. So be severe in correcting them, and make them sound in the faith 14 •so that they stop 1 Tm 1:4c, 10 taking notice of Jewish myths and the orders of people who turn away from the truth.

Mt 15:11,18–20par.; 23:25–26par. Rm 14:14–20 To those who are pure themselves, everything is pure;[e] but to those who have 15 been corrupted and lack faith, nothing can be pure—the corruption is both in their minds and in their consciences. 16 •They claim to know God but by their works they deny him; they are outrageously rebellious and quite untrustworthy for any good work.

Some specific moral instruction

1 Tm 1:10h; 5:1–2 1 Co 13:13e 2 It is for you, then, to preach the behaviour which goes with healthy doctrine. 1 Older men should be reserved, dignified, moderate, sound in faith and love 2 and perseverance. 3 •Similarly, older women should behave as befits religious people, with no scandal-mongering and no addiction to wine—they must be the Ep 5:22 Col 3:18 1 Tm 2:12 teachers of right behaviour 4 •and show younger women how they should love their husbands and love their children, 5 •how they must be sensible and chaste, and how to work in their homes, and be gentle, and obey their husbands, so that the message 1 Tm 6:1 of God is not disgraced. 6 •Similarly, urge younger men to be moderate[a] in every- 1 Tm 4:12 2 Th 3:7b thing that they do, 7 •and you yourself set an example of good works, by sincerity and earnestness, when you are teaching, and by a message sound and irreproach- 1 Tm 1:10h; 5:14e able • 8 so that any opponent will be at a loss, with no accusation to make against us. 1 Tm 6:1+ Slaves must be obedient to their masters in everything, and do what is wanted 9 without argument; 10 •and there must be no pilfering—they must show complete honesty at all times, so that they are in every way a credit to the teaching of God 1 Tm 1:1b our Saviour.

The basis of the Christian moral life

3:4 1 Tm 2:4c You see, God's grace has been revealed to save the whole human race;[b] 11, 12 •it has taught us that we should give up everything contrary to true religion and all our 1 Jn 2:16 worldly passions; we must be self-restrained and live upright and religious lives in this present world, 13 •waiting in hope for the blessing which will come with the 1 Tm 1:11+ appearing of the glory of our great God and Saviour Christ Jesus.[c] 14 •He offered Ex 19:5 Dt 7:6h Ps 130:8 himself for us in order to ransom us from all our faults and to purify a people to be Rm 3:24j his very own and eager to do good.

Ep 5:25seq. 1 Tm 2:6f 1 Tm 4:12 This is what you must say, encouraging or arguing with full authority; no one 15 should despise you.

General instruction for believers

Rm 13:1–7 1 Tm 2:2b 1 P 2:13–14 3 Remind them to be obedient to the officials in authority; to be ready to do good 1 at every opportunity; 2 •not to go slandering other people but to be peaceable Ph 4:5 1 Th 3:12 and gentle, and always polite to people of all kinds. 3 •There was a time when we too Rm 1:29q; 3:21–26 were ignorant, disobedient and misled and enslaved by different passions and 1 Co 6:11 Ep 2:3–10 dissipations; we lived then in wickedness and malice, hating each other and hateful ourselves.

1 Tm 1:1b 2 Tm 1:9 •2:11 Jn 3:3,5,8 2 Co 13:13e Rm 5:5;6:4a;7:6 Ep 4:23seq.; 5:26 •Rm 3:24 1 Tm 1:1b •Rm 8:17,24 1 Tm 1:15i But when the kindness and love of God our Saviour for humanity were revealed, 4 it was not because of any upright actions we had done ourselves; it was for no 5 reason except his own faithful love that he saved us, by means of the cleansing water of rebirth and renewal in the Holy Spirit 6 •which he has so generously poured over us through Jesus Christ our Saviour; 7 •so that, justified by his grace, we should become heirs in hope of eternal life.[a] 8 •This is doctrine that you can rely on.

Personal advice to Titus

I want you to be quite uncompromising in teaching all this, so that those who now believe in God may keep their minds constantly occupied in doing good works. All 9 this is good, and useful for everybody. •But avoid foolish speculations, and those 1 Tm 1:4c genealogies, and the quibbles and disputes about the Law—they are useless and 10 futile. •If someone disputes what you teach,[b] then after a first and a second Mt 18:15–17par.

11 warning, have no more to do with him: •you will know that anyone of that sort is warped and is self-condemned as a sinner.

Practical recommendations, farewells and good wishes

12 As soon as I have sent Artemas or Tychicus to you, do your best to join me at Ac 20:4f
13 Nicopolis, where I have decided to spend the winter. •Help eagerly on their way Zenas the lawyer and Apollos, and make sure they have everything they need. Ac 18:24p 14 All our people must also learn to occupy themselves in doing good works for their practical needs,[c] and not to be unproductive.
15 All those who are with me send their greetings. Greetings to those who love us in the faith. Grace[d] be with you all.

d. Quotation attributed to the Cretan poet Epimenides of Cnossos (sixth century BC); first half quoted by Callimachus of Alexandria (early third century BC).

e. A proverb which takes on a Christian sense, Mt 15:10–20 par.; Rm 14:14–23; see Jn 13:10i; Heb 9:10.

2 a. This instruction to be 'sensible' or 'moderate', here aimed at young people, is characteristic of Greek moral advice, vv. 5,12; 1 Tm 2:9,15; 3:2; 2 Tm 1:7. 'In everything' can alternatively be put at the beginning of v. 7, 'set an example in everything'.

b. Grace, the effective mercy of God, Ho 2:2c, and his goodness, his love for mankind, 3:4, have appeared as a prelude to his 'appearing', v. 13, 1 Tm 6:14f. Again (as vv. 1–3), vv. 11–14 and 3:4–7 are two extremely close-knit treatments of the work of salvation, its demands and effects.

c. A clear statement of the divinity of Christ, see Rm 9:5d. The Saviour is here called also the great God, see 1 Tm 1:1b.

3 a. The effects of baptism are: rebirth, free forgiveness by Christ, reception of his Holy Spirit, see Rm 5:5e, and the immediate enjoyment of all rights as heir to eternal life (the presence of the Holy Spirit being a pledge of this, cf. 2 Co 1:22).

b. lit. 'a heretic', etymologically, one who makes a choice. The word occurs only here in the Bible, and is borrowed from the terminology of contemporary philosophical schools. In Christian terminology, cf. 1 Co 11:19; Ga 5:20, 'heresy' is a choice made from among truths of faith, which creates separation and division. For the procedure prescribed by Paul see 1 Co 5:5d.

c. Or 'for urgent needs'.

d. Some witnesses add 'of the Lord' or 'of God' and, at the end, 'Amen'.

PHILEMON

THE LETTER FROM PAUL TO PHILEMON

Rm 1:1a Address

Ac 16:1a From Paul, a prisoner of Christ Jesus and from our brother Timothy; to our dear 1
Col 4:17 fellow worker Philemon, 2 our sister [a] Apphia, our fellow soldier Archippus and the 2
2 Tm 2:3
Rm 16:5+ church that meets in your house. 3 Grace and the peace of God our Father and 3
the Lord Jesus Christ.

‖Ep 1:15–16 Thanksgiving and prayer
‖Col 1:3seq.
1 Co 13:13e I always thank my God, mentioning you in my prayers, 5 because I hear of the love 4, 5
Ac 9:13g and the faith which you have for the Lord Jesus and for all God's holy people. 6 I 6
Ph 1:9–11
Col 1:9–11 pray that your fellowship in faith [b] may come to expression in full knowledge of all
2 Jn 4–6 the good we can do for Christ. 7 I have received much joy and encouragement by 7 your love; you have set the hearts of God's holy people at rest.

The request about Onesimus

Therefore, although in Christ I have no hesitations about telling you what your 8 duty is, 9 I am rather appealing to your love, being what I am, Paul, an old man, 9 Ep 3:1;4:1 and now also a prisoner of Christ Jesus. 10 I am appealing to you for a child of mine, 10
Col 4:18
•Ga 4:19+ whose father I became [c] while wearing these chains: I mean Onesimus. 11 He was of 11 no use to you before, but now he is useful [d] both to you and to me. 12 I am sending 12 him back to you—that is to say, sending you my own heart. 13 I should have liked to 13 keep him with me; he could have been a substitute for you, to help me while I am in the chains that the gospel has brought me. 14 However, I did not want to do 14 anything without your consent; it would have been forcing your act of kindness, which should be spontaneous. 15 I suppose you have been deprived of Onesimus for 15
a time, [e] merely so that you could have him back for ever, 16 no longer as a slave, but 16
Rm 6:15g something much better than a slave, a dear brother; especially dear to me, but how
Ep 6:5–9
Col 3:22–4:1 much more to you, both on the natural plane and in the Lord. [f] 17 So if you grant me 17
1 Tm 6:2
any fellowship with yourself, welcome him as you would me; 18 if he has wronged 18
you in any way or owes you anything, [g] put it down to my account. 19 I am writing 19
Col 4:18f this in my own hand: I, Paul, shall pay it back—I make no mention of a further debt, that you owe your very self to me! [h] 20 Well then, brother, I am counting on 20 you, in the Lord; set my heart at rest, in Christ. 21 I am writing with complete 21 confidence in your compliance, [i] sure that you will do even more than I ask.

A personal request. Good wishes

There is another thing: will you get a place ready for me to stay in? I am hoping 22 through your prayers to be restored to you.

Col 4:10d Epaphras, a prisoner with me in Christ Jesus, sends his greetings; 24 so do my 23, 24 fellow-workers Mark, Aristarchus, Demas and Luke.

Ac 12:12d May the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit. [j] 25

a. var. 'our beloved Apphia', or 'our beloved sister Apphia'.

b. That is, the sense of fellowship with Christ and with the brothers in Christ (see 1 Co 1:9f), which faith establishes in the hearts of the faithful. From this faith, shot through with love (v. 5), see Ga 5:6b, Paul expects practical results.

c. He became his 'father' by converting him, cf. 1 Co 4:15; Ga 4:19.

d. A pun: 'Onesimus' means 'useful', cf. Ph 4:3.

e. 'Deprived' of him by God who allowed the slave to escape only so that everyone might subsequently benefit.

f. To the natural ties 'in the flesh' (such is the literal sense of the Greek, see Rm 7:5c) between slave and master are added ties 'in the Lord'. Without ceasing to be a slave, cf. 1 Co 7:20–24, although Paul does suggest to Philemon that he should set Onesimus free, vv. 14–16,21, Onesimus will henceforth be a brother to Philemon. Before the one heavenly Lord, Ep 6:9, there is neither slave nor free man any more, 1 Co 12:13; Col 3:22–25.

g. It looks as if Onesimus had not only run away but had stolen something from Philemon as well.

h. Since he was one of Paul's converts.

i. To Paul obviously, but more radically to the demands of the faith.

j. add. 'Amen', cf. Ph 4:23.

THE LETTER TO THE HEBREWS

PROLOGUE

The greatness of the incarnate Son of God

Ga 4:4c
1 Tm 4:1a
Ws 7:22i
Mt 4:3d
Jn 1:18q; 10:34q
Col 1:15d,17
Ep 1:7
Col 1:14
Ac 2:33t
Ph 2:9–11,9*l*

1 At many moments in the past and by many means, God spoke to our ancestors through the prophets; but 1
·in our time, the final days,[a] he has spoken to us in the person of his Son,[b] whom he appointed heir of all things[c] and through whom 2
he made the ages.[d] ·He is the reflection of God's glory and bears the impress of God's own being,[e] sustaining all things by his powerful command; and now that he 3 has purged sins away, he has taken his seat at the right hand of the divine Majesty on high. ·So he is now as far above the angels as the title which he has inherited is higher than their own name. 4

I: THE SON IS GREATER THAN THE ANGELS

Proof from the scriptures

To which of the angels, then, has God ever said: 5

2 S 7:14e
1 Ch 17:13
Ps 2:7
Ac 13:33y

You are my Son, today I have fathered you,

or:

I shall be a father to him and he a son to me?

Col 1:15d Again, when he brings the First-born into the world,[f] he says: 6

Dt 32:43 LXX
Ps 97:7

Let all the angels of God pay him homage.[g]

To the angels, he says: 7

Ps 104:4

appointing the winds his messengers and flames of fire his servants,[h]

but to the Son he says: 8

Ps 45:6–7

Your throne, God, is for ever and ever;

and:

the sceptre of[i] his kingdom is a sceptre of justice;
you love uprightness and detest evil. 9
This is why God, your God, has anointed you with the oil of gladness, as none of your rivals.[j]

And again: 10

Ps 102:25–27

Long ago, Lord, you laid earth's foundations, the heavens are the work of your hands.

11 They pass away but you remain,
they all wear out like a garment.
12 Like a cloak you will roll them up, like a garment, and they will be changed.
But you never alter and your years are unending.

13 To which of the angels has God ever said:

Take your seat at my right hand Ps 110:1
till I have made your enemies your footstool? Ac 2:33–35+

14 Are they not all ministering spirits, sent to serve for the sake of those who are to inherit salvation? [k] Tb 5:4b Mt 4:11;18:10; 26:53 Lk 1:26

An exhortation

1 2 We ought, then, [a] to turn our minds more attentively than before to what we 2 P 3:17
2 have been taught, so that we do not drift away. ·If a message that was spoken Ac 7:38,53+ Ga 3:19k;4:3b
through angels [b] proved to be so reliable that every infringement and disobedience 3 brought its own proper punishment, ·then we shall certainly not go unpunished if we neglect such a great salvation. It was first announced by the Lord himself, and Ac 10:37 4 is guaranteed to us by those who heard him; ·God himself confirmed their witness with signs and marvels and miracles of all kinds, and by distributing the gifts of the Holy Spirit in the various ways he wills. Ac 1:8j

Redemption brought by Christ, not by angels

5 It was not under angels that he put the world to come, about which we are speaking. Col 2:15m
6 Someone witnesses to this somewhere with the words:

What are human beings that you spare a thought for them, Ps 8:4–6 LXX
a child of Adam that you care for him?
7 For a short while you have made him less than the angels;
you have crowned him with glory and honour,
8 put all things under his feet. 1 Co 15:25 Ep 1:20–23 Ph 3:21

For in putting all things under him he made no exceptions. At present, it is true, 9 we are not able to see that all things are under him, [c] ·but we do see Jesus, who was Ph 2:6–11 for a short while made less than the angels, now crowned with glory and honour because he submitted to death; [d] so that by God's grace [e] his experience of death should benefit all humanity.

1 a. In the fullness of time, Mk 1:15; Ga 4:4c, the last times or the last days begin, Ac 2:17; 1 P 1:20.

b. After the prophets, God sends an envoy who is no longer a mere messenger like the others; he is 'Son', cf. Mk 12:2–6; Rm 1:4c, he is even the Word, Jn 1:1a,14m.

c. To be a son implies having the right to inherit, cf. Mt 21:38; Ga 4:7. Here, however, God is credited with the handing over of the whole creation because the inheritance in question is messianic and eschatological.

d. Hebraism for the whole of creation.

e. These two metaphors are borrowed from the sophia and logos theologies of Alexandria. Ws 7:25–26; they express both the identity of nature between Father and Son, and the distinction of person. The Son is the brightness, the light shining from its source, which is the bright glory, see Ex 24:16f, of the Father ('Light from Light'). He is also the replica, see Col 1:15d, of the Father's substance, like an exact impression made by a seal on a clay or wax, cf. Jn 14:9.

f. Either at the incarnation or at his enthronement in glory, cf. v. 3; 2:5; Ep 1:20–21; Ph 2:9–10. 'First-born' is a title of honour, Col 1:15,18; Rv 1:5.

g. The quotation is from Dt 32:43, in 'the Song of Moses'.

h. The author, thinking perhaps of the theophany on Sinai, 2:2b, takes this LXX text as a description of the nature of angels, subtle and changeable and therefore inferior to that of the Son reigning from his eschatological throne.

i. var. 'your', see Ps 45:6 LXX.

j. The godhead, attributed in the Psalms to the priest-king by way of hyperbole, is here attributed to Jesus the Messiah as of pre-eminent right, v. 3. The divine Christ enjoys an eternal kingship.

k. Compared with the Son, angels are only servants used to save human beings.

2 a. If God speaks to us by a Son who saves us and who is superior to the angels, how can we not take notice of such an initiative?

b. The Law, given through the intermediary of angels, see Ga 3:19*l*, and sanctioned by severe penalties.

c. The first Christians, despised and persecuted, are still waiting for the coming of God's reign on earth, 2 P 3:4. Although Christ has already entered his glory, his reign on earth has to continue in time till he has conquered all his enemies (1:13) before his full and final triumph. 1 Co 15:25; Ep 1:21–22; Ph 3:20–21.

d. Christ was glorified precisely because he suffered, and his triumph seals the redeeming value of his death.

e. 'God's grace'; rare var. 'without God' which may have been a gloss meant to emphasis that the Messiah could suffer only in his human, not in his divine, nature; but it could be an allusion to what Jesus cried out from the cross (Mt 27:46), or it could be taken as meaning that Christ died for all people, but not for God, cf. 1 Co 15:27.

Rm 11:36
1 Co 8:6
5:9e
Ac 3:15k
Jn 17:19
Ps 22:22
Jn 17:6
•Is 8:17
•Is 8:18
Mt 16:17e

It was fitting that God, for whom and through whom everything exists, should, 10 in bringing many sons to glory, make perfect through suffering the leader of their salvation.[f] •For consecrator and consecrated are all of the same stock;[g] that is why 11
he is not ashamed to call them brothers •in the text: I shall proclaim your name to 12 my brothers, praise you in full assembly; or in the text: •I shall put my hope in him; 13 followed by Look, I and the children whom God has given me.

Jn 12:31i
Rm 5:12seq.

Since all the children share the same human nature, he too shared equally in it, 14 so that by his death he could set aside him who held the power of death, namely the devil,[h] •and set free[i] all those who had been held in slavery all their lives by the 15 fear of death. •For it was not the angels that he took to himself; he took to himself 16
Is 41:8–9
the line of Abraham. •It was essential that he should in this way be made completely 17
Rm 8:3,29
Ph 2:7
3:1a;4:15;
5:7b
Mt 4:1a
Rm 3:25
1 Co 10:13f
1 Jn 2:2;4:10
like his brothers so that he could become a compassionate and trustworthy high priest for their relationship to God, able to expiate the sins of the people. •For the 18 suffering he himself passed through while being put to the test enables him to help others when they are being put to the test.

II: JESUS THE FAITHFUL AND MERCIFUL HIGH PRIEST

Christ higher than Moses

11:16;12:22
Ep 1:18
Ph 3:14
•4:14;10:23

3 That is why all you who are holy brothers and share the same heavenly call 1 should turn your minds to Jesus, the apostle and the high priest[a] of our profession of faith. •He was trustworthy to the one who appointed him, just like 2
Nb 12:7 LXX
Moses, who remained trustworthy in all his household; •but he deserves a greater 3 2 Co 3:7seq.
glory than Moses, just as the builder of a house is more honoured than the house itself. •Every house is built by someone, of course; but God built everything that 4 exists. •It is true that Moses was trustworthy in the household of God, as a servant 5 is, acting as witness to the things which were yet to be revealed, •but Christ is 6 1:2b
Jn 8:35
•1 Co 3:9
Ep 2:19seq.
1 Tm 3:15
trustworthy as a son is, over his household. And we are his household, as long as we fearlessly maintain the hope in which we glory.[b]

How to reach God's land of rest

That is why, as the Holy Spirit says: 7

Ps 95:7–11

If only you would listen to him today!
Do not harden your hearts, as at the rebellion, 8
as at the time of testing in the desert, when your ancestors challenged me, 9 and put me to the test, and saw what I could do for forty years. 10

That was why

that generation sickened me and I said, 'Always fickle hearts, that cannot grasp my ways!'
Nb 14:21–23
And then in my anger I swore 11
that they would never enter my place of rest.

2 Th 2:3b
•10:25
2 Th 2:10

Take care, brothers, that none of you ever has a wicked heart, so unbelieving as to 12 turn away from the living God. •Every day, as long as this today lasts, keep 13 encouraging one another so that none of you is hardened by the lure of sin, because we have been granted a share with Christ only if we keep the grasp of 14
our first confidence firm to the end. •In this saying: If only you would listen to him 15 today; do not harden your hearts, as at the Rebellion, •who was it who listened and 16 then rebelled? Surely all those whom Moses led out of Egypt. •And with whom was 17
Nb 14:29
1 Co 10:5
he angry for forty years? Surely with those who sinned and whose dead bodies fell

18 in the desert. ·To whom did he swear they would never enter his place of rest? Surely 19 those who would not believe. ·So we see that it was their refusal to believe which prevented them from entering.

1 4 Let us beware, then: since the promise never lapses, none of you must think 2 that he has come too late for the promise of entering his place of rest. [a] ·We received the gospel exactly as they did; but hearing the message did them no good 1 Co 10:1–13 3 because they did not share the faith of those who did listen. [b] ·We, however, [c] who have faith, are entering a place of rest, as in the text: And then in my anger I swore Ps 95:11 that they would never enter my place of rest. Now God's work was all finished at the 4 beginning of the world; ·as one text says, referring to the seventh day: And God Gn 2:2
5 rested on the seventh day after all the work he had been doing. ·And, again, the 6 passage above says: They will never reach my place of rest. ·It remains the case, Ps 95:11 then, that there would be some people who would reach it, and since those who first heard the good news were prevented from entering by their refusal to believe, 7 God fixed another day, a Today, when he said through David in the text already 8 quoted: If only you would listen to him today; do not harden your hearts. ·If Joshua Ps 95:7seq.
had led them into this place of rest, God would not later have spoken of another Dt 31:7 9 day. ·There must still be, therefore, a seventh-day rest reserved for God's people, Jos 22:4
10, 11 since to enter the place of rest is to rest after your work, as God did after his. ·Let Rv 14:13 us, then, press forward to enter this place of rest, or some of you might copy this example of refusal to believe and be lost.

12 The word of God [d] is something alive and active: it cuts more incisively than any 1 P 1:23 two-edged sword: it can seek out the place where soul is divided from spirit, or Is 49:2 13 joints from marrow; it can pass judgement on secret emotions and thoughts. ·No Ep 6:17 created thing is hidden from him; everything is uncovered and stretched fully open Rv 1:16 to the eyes of the one to whom we must give account of ourselves. Jn 12:48
Rm 1:9e
1 Co 15:44w
Jb 34:21–22
Ps 33:13–15+
Ws 1:6

Jesus the compassionate high priest

14 Since in Jesus, the Son of God, we have the supreme high priest who has gone 9:11,24
15 through to the highest heaven, [e] we must hold firm to our profession of faith. ·For 3:1;10:23
the high priest we have is not incapable of feeling our weaknesses with us, but has 2:17–18 16 been put to the test in exactly the same way as ourselves, apart from sin. ·Let us, 5:7b then, have no fear in approaching the throne of grace to receive mercy and to find Jn 8:46
Rm 8:3
grace when we are in need of help. 2 Co 5:21
1 P 2:22
1 5 Every high priest is taken from among human beings and is appointed to act on 1 Jn 3:5
2 their behalf in relationships with God, to offer gifts and sacrifices for sins; [a] ·he 10:19b can sympathise with those who are ignorant or who have gone astray, because he 8:3

f. By dying and fulfilling the will of God, Christ becomes the one perfect Saviour, responsible for the entry of human beings into the glory of God, 2:17–18; 4:15; 5:2–3. The verb 'makes perfect' comes frequently in the letter to denote the various effects of Christ's work on the relationship of humanity to God, 11:40i.

g. From the context, the translation could read 'form a single whole'. The following verses stress this union in the flesh and blood, v. 14, which the Son of God took upon himself, and so they introduce the central theme of the letter, the high-priesthood of Christ, v. 17.

h. Sin and death are related because both derive from Satan whose reign is the opposite of the reign of Christ.

i. By his resurrection, which is the guarantee to believers that they will rise, Rm 8:11g.

3 a. Christ is both 'apostle', i.e. someone 'sent' by God to the human race, see Jn 3:17,34; 5:36; 9:7; Rm 1:1b; 8:3; Ga 4:4, and high priest representing the human race before God, see Heb 2:17; 4:14; 5:5,10; 6:20; 7:26; 8:1; 9:11; 10:21.

b. add. 'unwavering right till the end', see v. 14.

4 a. The comparison between Moses and Jesus, 3:1seq., cf. Ac 7:20; Jn 1:21t, now develops into one between Israelites and Christians. The Israelites, who doubted the word of God, did not enter the place of rest which was the Promised Land, 3:17–19. But God's promise cannot remain unfulfilled, so it applies to Christians, invited to enter into the repose of heavenly blessedness, of which the Promised Land was only a type.

b. e.g. Joshua and Caleb. see Nb 13–14. • var. 'because (the message) was not accompanied by faith in what they heard'.

c. 'however'; var. 'therefore'. • 'a place of rest', var. 'the place of rest'.

d. The word of God mediated by the prophets and then by the Son, of which an instance has just been given in Ps 95:7–11, is living and active in believers, 1 Th 2:13e. It is this word which judges, cf. Jn 12:48; Rv 19:13, the movements and secret intentions of the heart, in its quest for the 'rest' of God. On soul and spirit, see 1 Th 5:26g.

e. First mention of heaven where, according to the letter, Christ exercises his priestly function. Seated at the right hand of God, 1:3; 8:1, he belongs no less than God to the eternal realities; his sacrifice, accomplished once and for all, 7:26–27g, takes on a perfect and eternal value, 8:1–4a; 9:11–12,11e,23–24. The God of Christian hope is the fulfilment of this salvation in the heavenly city, 9:28; 12:23–24.

5 a. The priest's office of sacrificing (see Lv 1; 4; 9), connected with Aaron rather than with Moses, is to be the subject of a full development. Sacrifice, related to sin, shows that the priest is in solidarity with believers before God.

Lv 9:7;16:6 too is subject to the limitations of weakness. 3 ·That is why he has to make sin
Jn 8:27 offerings for himself as well as for the people. 4 ·No one takes this honour on Ex 28:1 himself; it needs a call from God, as in Aaron's case. 5 ·And so it was not Christ who gave himself the glory of becoming high priest, but the one who said to him: You
Ps 2:7 Jn 8:54 are my Son, today I have fathered you, 6 ·and in another text: You are a priest for Ps 110:4 ever, of the order of Melchizedek. 7 ·During his life on earth, [b] he offered up prayer
Mt 26:36 seq.par. and entreaty, with loud cries and with tears, to the one who had the power to save Rm 7:5c him from death, [c] and, winning a hearing by his reverence, [d] 8 ·he learnt obedience, Ph 2:8 Son though he was, through his sufferings; 9 ·when he had been perfected, [e] he 2:10f;7:28 Jn 17:19 became for all who obey him the source of eternal salvation 10 ·and was acclaimed by Rm 1:5d God with the title of high priest of the order of Melchizedek. [f]

III: THE AUTHENTIC PRIESTHOOD OF JESUS CHRIST

Christian life and theology

On this subject we have many things to say, and they are difficult to explain because 11
1 Co 3:1–3 you have grown so slow at understanding. 12 ·Indeed, when you should by this time have become masters, you need someone to teach you all over again the elements of the principles of God's sayings; you have gone back to needing milk, and not
1 P 2:2 solid food. 13 ·Truly, no one who is still living on milk can digest the doctrine of saving
1 Co 2:6e justice, [g] being still a baby. 14 ·Solid food is for adults with minds trained by practice
Gn 3:22f Ph 1:10e Col 3:10e to distinguish between good and bad.

The author explains his intention

6 Let us leave behind us then [a] all the elementary teaching about Christ and go 1 on to its completion, without going over the fundamental doctrines again: the 9:14 Mt 3:2c •Ac 2:38y Rm 1:16h •1 Tm 4:14e •Rm 2:6b 10:32e turning away from dead actions, [b] faith in God, 2 ·the teaching about baptisms [c] and the laying-on of hands, about the resurrection of the dead and eternal judgement.
This, God willing, is what we propose to do. 3

As for those people who were once brought into the light, and tasted the gift 4 2 Co 4:4,6 Ep 5:14 Rm 5:5e from heaven, and received a share of the Holy Spirit, 5 ·and tasted the goodness of 10:26–31;12:17 1 Jn 5:16 God's message and the powers of the world to come 6 ·and yet in spite of this have fallen away [d]—it is impossible for them to be brought to the freshness of repentance a second time, since they are crucifying the Son of God again for themselves, and making a public exhibition of him. 7 ·A field that drinks up the rain that has fallen
2 Tm 2:6 frequently on it, and yields the crops that are wanted by the owners who grew Gn 3:17–18 them, receives God's blessing; 8 ·but one that grows brambles and thistles is worthless, and near to being cursed. It will end by being burnt.

Words of hope and encouragement

But you, my dear friends—in spite of what we have just said, we are sure you are in 9 a better state and on the way to salvation. 10 ·God would not be so unjust as to forget 10:32–34 all you have done, the love that you have for his name or the services you have Ep 1:15par. done, and are still doing, for the holy people of God. [e] 11 ·Our desire is that every one of you should go on showing the same enthusiasm till the ultimate fulfilment of your hope, 12 ·never growing careless, but taking as your model those who by their Rm 4:20 Ga 3:14,29 Ep 1:13–14 2 Th 3:7 faith and perseverance are heirs of the promises.

When God made the promise to Abraham, he swore by his own self, since there 13
•Gn 22:16seq. was no one greater he could swear by: 14 ·I will shower blessings on you and give you many descendants. 15 ·Because of that, Abraham persevered and received fulfilment of the promise. 16 ·Human beings, of course, swear an oath by something greater than themselves, and between them, confirmation by an oath puts an end to all dispute.
In the same way, when God wanted to show the heirs of the promise even more 17 clearly how unalterable his plan was, he conveyed it by an oath 18 ·so that through Nb 23:19+ two unalterable factors [f] in which God could not be lying, we who have fled to him might have a vigorous encouragement to grasp the hope held out to us. •This is the anchor our souls have,[g] as sure as it is firm, reaching right through inside the curtain •where Jesus has entered as a forerunner on our behalf, having become a high priest for ever, of the order of Melchizedek.

▶2 Tm 2:13 ▶Tt 1:2 •Lv 16:2 •9:3;10:20 Mt 27:51par. 5:10 Ps 110:4

A: CHRIST'S PRIESTHOOD HIGHER THAN LEVITICAL PRIESTHOOD

Melchizedek[a]

Gn 14:18g Ps 110:4+

7 Melchizedek, king of Salem, a priest of God Most High, came to meet Abraham when he returned from defeating the kings, and blessed him; •and Abraham gave him a tenth of everything. By the interpretation of his name, he is, first, 'king of saving justice' and also king of Salem, that is, 'king of peace'; •he has no father, mother or ancestry, and his life has no beginning or ending; he is like the Son of God. He remains a priest for ever.

Gn 14:17–20 1:2b Jn 7:27

Melchizedek accepted tithes from Abraham

Now think how great this man must have been, if the patriarch Abraham gave him a tenth of the finest plunder.[b] •We know that any of the descendants of Levi who are admitted to the priesthood are obliged by the Law to take tithes from the people, that is, from their own brothers although they too are descended from Abraham. •But this man, who was not of the same descent, took his tithe from Abraham, and he gave his blessing to the holder of the promises. •Now it is indisputable that a blessing is given by a superior to an inferior. •Further, in the normal case it is ordinary mortal men who receive the tithes, whereas in that case it was one who is attested as being alive. •It could be said that Levi himself, who receives tithes, actually paid tithes, in the person of Abraham, •because he was still in the loins of his ancestor when Melchizedek came to meet him.

Gn 14:20 Dt 14:22d Gn 14:17

From levitical priesthood to the priesthood of Melchizedek[c]

Now if perfection had been reached through the levitical priesthood—and this was the basis of the Law given to the people—why was it necessary for a different kind

b. The emphasis of this section is on humanity: a priest must be human since he represents human beings, and he must share their sufferings since he must feel compassion for them, see 2:17–18; 4:15. Jesus suffered in this way all through his life on earth, and especially in his agony and death.

c. Not saved from dying, since that was the whole purpose of his life, Jn 12:27seq., but rescued from death after dying, Ac 2:24seq. God transformed his death by raising him to glory after it, 2:9; Jn 12:27seq.; 13:31seq.; 17:5; Ph 2:9–11.

d. The term implies respect and submission. It was because the prayer of Christ in Gethsemane was a prayer of total submission to the will of his Father, Mt 26:39,42, that it was heard and answered.

e. Perfected in his office of Priest and Victim.

f. This sets off all the themes developed in ch. 6–10.

g. 'The doctrine of saving justice', like 'God's prophecies', can mean either the OT, cf. 2 Tm 3:16, or the whole body of doctrine. Here it seems to mean all that Christ taught about the saving justice of God as applied to humanity, Rm 3:21–26, and especially about his own priesthood of mediation, prefigured by Melchizedek, the 'king of saving justice' Heb 7:2.

6 a. In spite of the difficulties his readers will have, the author is going to challenge them by formulating the difficult doctrine already mentioned in 5:11.

b. Anything done without faith and the divine life is called a 'dead' action because it is done in the context of sin, Rm 1:18–3:20, which leads to death, Rm 5:12,21; 6:23; 7:5; 1 Co 15:56; Ep 2:1; Col 2:13; Jm 1:15; cf. Jn 5:24; 1 Jn 3:14.

c. Not only Christian baptism, see Ac 1:5f; Rm 6:4a, but all the washings, lustrations and purificatory rites then practised, including the 'baptism of John', Ac 18:25; 19:1–5.

d. The irreparable apostasy of rejecting Christ and ceasing to believe in the power of his sacrifice to save.

e. The same phrase is used, Rm 15:25,31; 2 Co 8:4; 9:1,12, about a collection for the church in Jerusalem. 'God's holy people' means all Christians, but especially members of the mother church at Jerusalem, and in particular the apostles, see Ac 9:13g.

f. The promise of God and the oath joined to it, see Gn 12:1a; Rm 4:11e, for God does not deceive, 10:23; 11:11; 2 Tm 2:13; Tt 1:2.

g. Anchor: symbol of stability in the classical world, adopted in Christian iconography of 2nd century as a symbol of hope.

7 a. Melchizedek the priest-king: here seen as an OT type of Christ. Gn 14 is oddly silent about any ancestors or descendants of Melchizedek and this suggested the idea that he represented the eternal priesthood, vv. 1–3, cf. vv. 15–17 and Ps 110:4. He was superior to Abraham in so far as Abraham offered him, Gn 14:20, a tithe of everything that had been captured, so a fortiori, the argument goes, he was superior to all the descendants of Abraham, including the Levites, v. 4seq.

b. The tithe paid to levitical priests, Dt 14:22d, was both the stipend for their ministry at the altar and acknowledgement that as priests they were members of a higher class than those who paid. Levi (in the person of Abraham) could have paid his tithe only if Melchizedek were a priest of an even higher class than himself.

c. The argument here is based on Ps 110:4. The Psalm, in praise of a Davidic king, is interpreted as a prophecy of

Ps 110:4 of priest to arise, spoken of as being of the order of Melchizedek rather than of the 8:6seq. order of Aaron? ·Any change in the priesthood must mean a change in the Law as 12 well.

So our Lord, of whom these things were said, belonged to a different tribe, the 13
8:4 members of which have never done service at the altar; ·everyone knows he came 14
Gn 49:10 from Judah, a tribe which Moses did not mention at all when dealing with priests.
Mt 1:1seq.;2:6
Rm 1:3
Rv 5:5

The abrogation of the old law

This becomes even more clearly evident if another priest, of the type of Melchize- 15
dek, arises who is a priest ·not in virtue of a law of physical descent, [d] but in virtue 16
Rm 1:4c of the power of an indestructible life. ·For he is attested by the prophecy: You are 17
Ps 110:4 a priest for ever of the order of Melchizedek. ·The earlier commandment is thus 18
11:40 abolished, because of its weakness and ineffectiveness ·since the Law could not 19
Rm 7:7d make anything perfect; but now this commandment is replaced by something 10:19b better—the hope that brings us close to God.

Christ's priesthood is unchanging

Now the former priests became priests without any oath being sworn, ·but this one 20, 21
Ps 110:4 with the swearing of an oath by him who said to him, The Lord has sworn an oath
he will never retract: you are a priest for ever; [e] ·the very fact that it occurred with 22 8:6–13 the swearing of an oath makes the covenant of which Jesus is the guarantee all the greater. ·Further, the former priests were many in number, because death put an 23 end to each one of them; ·but this one, because he remains for ever, has a perpetual 24 9:24;10:19b priesthood. ·It follows, then, that his power to save those who come to God 25
Rm 8:34 through him [f] is absolute, since he lives for ever to intercede for them.
1 Jn 2:1
Rv 1:18

The perfection of the heavenly high priest

3:1a Such is the high priest that met our need, holy, innocent and uncontaminated, set 26 apart from sinners, and raised up above the heavens; ·he has no need to offer 27 5:3+ sacrifices every day, as the high priests do, first for their own sins and only then for 9:25–28; those of the people; this he did once and for all [g] by offering himself. ·The Law 28
10:11–14 appoints high priests who are men subject to weakness; but the promise on oath,
5:9e which came after the Law, [h] appointed the Son who is made perfect for ever.

B: SUPERIORITY OF THE WORSHIP, SANCTUARY AND MEDIATION OF CHRIST

The new priesthood and the new sanctuary

3:1a 8 The principal point of all that we have said is that we have a high priest of 1
Ps 110:1 exactly this kind. He has taken his seat at the right of the throne of divine
Ac 2:33t Majesty in the heavens, ·and he is the minister of the sanctuary and of the true 2
Nb 24:6 LXX Tent which the Lord, and not any man, set up. [a] ·Every high priest is constituted to 3
5:1 offer gifts and sacrifices, and so this one too must have something to offer. ·In fact, 4 7:13seq. if he were on earth, he would not be a priest at all, since there are others who make the offerings laid down by the Law, ·though these maintain the service only of a 5 9:23;10:1 model or a reflection of the heavenly realities; just as Moses, when he had the Tent
Col 2:17n to build, was warned by God who said: See that you work to the design that was Rv 11:19 shown you on the mountain.
Ex 25:40

Christ is the mediator of a greater covenant

9:15;12:24 As it is, he has been given a ministry as far superior as is the covenant of which he 6
1 Tm 2:5 is the mediator, [b] which is founded on better promises. ·If that first covenant had 7 been faultless, there would have been no room for a second one to replace it.
And in fact God does find fault with them; he says: 8

Look, the days are coming, the Lord declares, Jr 31:31–34
when I will make a new covenant Mt 26:28i with the House of Israel and the House of Judah, 1 Co 11:25 9 but not a covenant like the one I made with their ancestors, the day I took them by the hand to bring them out of Egypt, which covenant of mine they broke,
and I too abandoned them, the Lord declares.
10 No, this is the covenant I will make with the House of Israel, 10:16–17 when those days have come, the Lord declares:
In their minds I shall plant my laws
writing them on their hearts.
Then I shall be their God,
and they shall be my people.
11 There will be no further need for each to teach his neighbour, and each his brother, saying 'Learn to know the Lord!'
No, they will all know me,
from the least to the greatest,
12 since I shall forgive their guilt
and never more call their sins to mind.

13 By speaking of a new covenant, he implies that the first one is old. And anything old and ageing is ready to disappear. 2 Co 5:17 Rv 21:4–5

Christ enters the heavenly sanctuary

1 9 The first covenant also[a] had its laws governing worship and its sanctuary, a
2 sanctuary on this earth. ·There was a tent which comprised two compartments: Ex 25:8d, 25–26
3 the first, in which the lamp-stand, the table and the loaves of permanent offering 4 were kept, was called the Holy Place;[b] ·then beyond the second veil, a second compartment which was called the Holy of Holies ·to which belonged the gold altar Ex 30:1a of incense,[c] and the ark of the covenant, plated all over with gold. In this were Ex 25:10e kept the gold jar containing the manna, Aaron's branch that grew the buds, and Ex 16:1a Nb 17:25 5 the tables of the covenant. ·On top of it were the glorious winged creatures, over- Ex 24:12+ Ex 25:17h,18i shadowing the throne of mercy. This is not the time to go into detail about this.

the King-Messiah, declaring that he will not be descended from Levi and that his priesthood will therefore be 'of the order of Melchizedek' and eternal. This implies that when Christ comes, his sort of priesthood will replace the levitical priesthood, and this in turn will necessitate a new law since the old one was concerned only with the levitical priesthood, vv. 12,16seq., 21.

d. The law that restricted the priesthood of Levi to his physical descendants, see Nb 1:47seq.; 3:5seq.; Dt 10:8seq.; 18:1seq.; 33:8seq.

e. add. 'of the order of Melchizedek'.

f. Christ the eternal priest exercises his office of mediator and intercessor, see Rm 8:34; 1 Jn 2:1. His entreaty is analogous to that of the Holy Spirit approaching God on behalf of the faithful, Rm 8:27.

g. The unique sacrifice of Jesus is the culmination of salvation-history, Ac 1:7i. It closes a long epoch of preparation, 1:1seq.; cf. Rm 10:4; it occurs at 'the appointed time', Rm 3:26m; Ga 4:4c, and it begins the eschatological epoch. Though the Last Day, Rm 2:6b; 1 Co 1:8e, will follow, 2 Co 6:2a, only at some unspecified, 1 Th 5:1b, time in the future; salvation for the human race has been in essence certain from the moment when, in the person of Jesus, it died to sin and rose to live again. Heb makes a special point of how the whole of this hope flows from the unique, unrepeatable sacrifice of Jesus, 7:27; 9:12,26,28; 10:10; cf. Rm 6:10; 1 P 3:18. Being unrepeatable, 10:12–14, this sacrifice is different from all others in the OT, since these had to be repeated again and again because they were unable actually to save anyone.

h. Cf. the promise made before the Law was given, Ga 3:17.

8 a. The argument so far has been to prove that what Christ is, i.e. an eternal and perfect priest, is superior to what the levitical priests are, since they are all mortals and sinners, ch. 7; now the argument goes on to show that what Christ does is equally superior to what the levitical priests do: Christ's sanctuary is better because it is in heaven, 8:1–5, see 9:11seq., while the one on earth is only a copy of it, Ex 25:40; and the covenant brought by the mediation of Christ is a better covenant, Heb 6–13.

b. Technically Christ is the one and only true mediator: he is truly human and truly divine, Col 2:9, and so the one and only intermediary, Rm 5:15–19; 1 Tm 2:5; cf. 1 Co 3:22–23; 11:3, between God and the human race. He unites and reconciles them, 2 Co 5:14–20. Through him came grace, Jn 1:16–17; Ep 1:7, and complete revelation, 1:1–2. In heaven he continues to intercede for those who are faithful to him, 7:25f.

9 a. om. 'also'.

b. In the desert Tent-Sanctuary, Ex 25–26 (compare the Temple of Solomon, 1 K 6) a curtain hung between the Holy Place and the Holy of Holies, Ex 26:33. Only the high priest ever went into the Holy of Holies and he did so only once a year on yom kippur, the Day of Expiation, see Lv 16:1a,2.

c. Ex 30:6; 40:26 says that the incense altar, Ex 30:1a, was in the Holy of Holies. Heb follows a different liturgical tradition.

Under these provisions, priests go regularly into the outer tent to carry out their 6 7:27g Ex 30:10 Lv 16:2–29 acts of worship, ·but the second tent is entered only once a year, and then only by 7
the high priest who takes in the blood to make an offering for his own and the people's faults of inadvertence. ·By this, the Holy Spirit means us to see that as 8 10:20 long as the old tent stands, the way into the holy place is not opened up; ·it is a 9
1 Co 10:6d symbol for this present time. [d] None of the gifts and sacrifices offered under these 11:40i regulations can possibly bring any worshipper to perfection in his conscience;
Mk 7:4 Col 2:16–17 they are rules about outward life, connected with food and drink and washing at 10 various times, which are in force only until the time comes to set things right.

But now Christ [e] has come, as the high priest of all the blessings which were to 11
4:14;9:24; 10:20 come. [f] He has passed through the greater, the more perfect tent, not made by 7:27g human hands, that is, not of this created order; ·and he has entered the sanctuary [g] 12
Ac 20:28r Mt 26:28 once and for all, taking with him not the blood of goats and bull calves, but his own
Rm 3:24j blood, having won an eternal redemption. ·The blood of goats and bulls and the 13
Nb 19:2–10, 17–20 ashes of a heifer, sprinkled on those who have incurred defilement, may restore 10:10+ 2 Co 13:13e their bodily purity. ·How much more will the blood of Christ, who offered himself, 14
1 P 1:18–19 blameless as he was, to God through the eternal Spirit, [h] purify our conscience
6:1b;8:28 Rm 1:9e from dead actions so that we can worship the living God.

Christ seals the new covenant with his blood [i]

8:6b This makes him the mediator of a new covenant, so that, now that a death has 15 occurred to redeem the sins committed under an earlier covenant, those who have Ga 4:1–7 been called to an eternal inheritance may receive the promise. ·Now wherever a 16 will is in question, the death of the testator must be established; ·a testament 17 comes into effect only after a death, since it has no force while the testator is still alive. ·That is why even the earlier covenant was inaugurated with blood, ·and 18, 19 why, after Moses had promulgated all the commandments of the Law to the Ex 24:6–8,8c people, he took the calves' blood, the goats' blood and some water, and with these he sprinkled the book itself and all the people, using scarlet wool and hyssop;
Mt 26:28par. saying as he did so: This is the blood of the covenant that God has made with you. 20
And he sprinkled both the tent and all the liturgical vessels with blood in the 21 same way. ·In fact, according to the Law, practically every purification [j] takes 22 place by means of blood; and if there is no shedding of blood, there is no remission.
8:5 Only the copies of heavenly things are purified in this way; the heavenly things 23
9:11seq. themselves have to be purified [k] by a higher sort of sacrifice than this. ·It is not as 24
1 Co 10:6d though Christ had entered a man-made sanctuary which was merely a model of the Rm 8:34 real one; he entered heaven itself, so that he now appears in the presence of God
7:25f on our behalf. ·And he does not have to offer himself again and again, as the high 25 priest goes into the sanctuary year after year with the blood that is not his own, or else he would have had to suffer over and over again since the world began. 26 7:27g •Jn 1:29 Ga 4:4c As it is, he has made his appearance once and for all, [l] at the end of the last age, to do away with sin by sacrificing himself. ·Since human beings die only once, after 27
Is 53:12 which comes judgement, ·so Christ too, having offered himself only once to bear 28
Ac 3:20–21 Ph 3:20–21 the sin of many, will manifest himself a second time, sin being no more, to those 1 Tm 6:14f who are waiting for him, to bring them salvation. [m]

SUMMARY: CHRIST'S SACRIFICE SUPERIOR TO THE SACRIFICES OF THE MOSAIC LAW

The old sacrifices ineffective

8:5 Col 2:17 7:19 Rm 7:7d 10:19b;11:40i 10 So, since the Law contains no more than a reflection of the good things 1 which were still to come, and no true image of them, it is quite incapable of bringing the worshippers to perfection, by means of the same sacrifices repeatedly offered year after year. ·Otherwise, surely the offering of them would have 2 stopped, because the worshippers, when they had been purified once, would have 3 no awareness of sins. ·But in fact the sins are recalled year after year in the 4, 5 sacrifices. ·Bulls' blood and goats' blood are incapable of taking away sins,[a] ·and 9:13 that is why he said, on coming into the world:

Ps 40:6–8, 6b LXX

You wanted no sacrifice or cereal offering,
but you gave me a body.
6 You took no pleasure in burnt offering or sacrifice for sin;
7 then I said, 'Here I am, I am coming,'
in the scroll of the book it is written of me, to do your will, God.

8 He says first You did not want what the Law lays down as the things to be offered, 1 S 15:22 that is: the sacrifices, the cereal offerings, the burnt offerings and the sacrifices for 9 sin, and you took no pleasure in them; ·and then he says: Here I am! I am coming to Mt 26:39,42par. Jn 6:38; 10:17seq.
10 do your will. He is abolishing the first sort to establish the second. ·And this will 7:27g;9:14,28; 10:12,14 was for us to be made holy by the offering of the body of Jesus Christ made once Jn 17:19 and for all. Ep 5:2

The efficacy of Christ's sacrifice

11 Every priest stands at his duties every day, offering over and over again the same 10:1–4 12 sacrifices which are quite incapable of taking away sins. ·He, on the other hand, has offered one single sacrifice for sins, and then taken his seat for ever, at the right 7:27g;10:10+ ·Ps 110:1 13 hand of God, ·where he is now waiting till his enemies are made his footstool. Ac 2:33t
14 By virtue of that one single offering, he has achieved the eternal perfection of all 11:40i
15 who are sanctified. ·The Holy Spirit attests this to us, for after saying: Jn 17:19m

16 No, this is the covenant I will make with them, 8:10,12 when those days have come. Jr 31:33–34

the Lord says:

In their minds I will plant my Laws
writing them on their hearts,
17 and I shall never more call their sins to mind,
or their offences.

18 When these have been forgiven, there can be no more sin offerings.

d. The spiritual meaning of this ceremonial arrangement is that under the old covenant the people had no access to God. Under the new covenant, Christ himself is the way to the Father, Jn 14:6; see Heb 10:19b. The abrogation of the old worship can thus be appropriately symbolised by the Temple curtain splitting wide open at the death of Jesus, Mt 27:51 and par.

e. The Jewish ceremonial of expiation, v. 7; Lv 16, is replaced by the unique sacrifice, Heb 7:27g, of Christ's blood, Heb 9:14; Rm 3:24j, which reopens the way to God, Heb 10:1f,19; cf. Jn 14:6d; Ep 2:18.

f. var. 'blessings already won'.

g. In his ascension Christ 'passed through' all the successive heavenly spheres that form the 'Holy Place' of the celestial Tent, and so came into the presence of God in the celestial 'Holy of Holies'.

h. var. 'the Holy Spirit', cf. Rm 1:4c.

i. This section is parallel to 8:6–13: it shows that the death of Christ was essential for him to act as mediator. It does this by making use of a pun: the Greek word diatheke can mean 'pact', as in vv. 15,18–20, or 'last will and testament', as in vv. 16–17; this makes it possible for the author to argue that a 'pact' or covenant suggests the death of a 'testator'. All pacts were sealed with the shedding of blood, Ex 24:6–8. Hence Christ had to die to found the new covenant, see 7:22; 8:6–10; 12:24; Mt 26:28i.

j. e.g. the altar, Lv 8:15; 16:18–19; the priests, Lv 8:24–30; the Levites, Nb 8:15; the sinful people, Lv 9:15–18; a mother, Lv 12:7–8, etc.; one exception, see Lv 5:11.

k. The 'purification' of the sanctuary, whether the earthly or the heavenly one, does not necessarily imply any previous 'impurity': it is a consecratory and inaugural rite.

l. The sacrifice of Christ is unique, 7:27g: being offered 'at the end of the last age' (lit. 'at the completion of the aeons'), i.e. the end of human history, there is no need for it to be repeated, since it wipes out sin, not with non-human ('alien') blood, but with Christ's own blood, see 9:12–14, so its effect is unconditional.

m. The first coming of Christ gave him a direct relationship to sin, Rm 8:3; 2 Co 5:21. The second coming of Christ will, since the redemption is complete, have no connection with sin. Christians wait for this parousia that will take place at the Judgement, Rm 2:6b; 1 Co 1:8e.

10 a. Going beyond the prophets who called for purity at heart in the cult, Is 1:11–13; Jr 6:20; 11:15; Ho 6:6; Am 5:21n, the letter declares that the old sacrifices were ineffective, see 9:13–14. Only Christ's spiritual sacrifice can sanctify mankind, vv. 12–14.

IV: PERSEVERING FAITH

The Christian opportunity

6:19–20;9:8, 11–12 Jn 14:6 3:1a,6;4:14 Zc 6:11–12 Rm 6:4a 2 Co 7:1 1 P 3:21 11:11 1 Co 1:9f 3:13 1 Co 1:8e

We have then, brothers, complete confidence through the blood of Jesus in entering the sanctuary, [b] ·by a new way which he has opened for us, a living opening through the curtain, that is to say, his flesh. ·And we have the high priest over all the sanctuary of God. ·So as we go in, let us be sincere in heart and filled with faith, our hearts sprinkled and free from any trace of bad conscience, and our bodies washed with pure water. ·Let us keep firm in the hope we profess, because the one who made the promise is trustworthy. ·Let us be concerned for each other, to stir a response in love and good works. ·Do not absent yourself from your own assemblies, as some do, but encourage each other; the more so as you see the Day [c] drawing near.

The danger of apostasy

6:4–6;12:17 Is 26:11 LXX Dt 17:6 6:6d;9:20 Ex 24:8 Dt 32:35–36 Mt 10:28par.; 12:31–32par.

If, after we have been given knowledge of the truth, we should deliberately commit any sins, then there is no longer any sacrifice for them. [d] ·There is left only the dreadful prospect of judgement and of the fiery wrath that is to devour your enemies. ·Anyone who disregards the Law of Moses is ruthlessly put to death on the word of two witnesses or three; ·and you may be sure that anyone who tramples on the Son of God, and who treats the blood of the covenant which sanctified him as if it were not holy, and who insults the Spirit of grace, will be condemned to a far severer punishment. ·We are all aware who it was that said: Vengeance is mine; I will pay them back. And again: The Lord will vindicate his people. ·It is a dreadful thing to fall into the hands of the living God.

Motives for perseverance

6:4+ Ep 5:14 1 Co 4:9 13:3 •Mt 5:40 Mt 6:20 Ac 14:22+

Remember the great challenge of the sufferings that you had to meet after you received the light, [e] in earlier days; ·sometimes by being yourselves publicly exposed to humiliations and violence, and sometimes as associates of others who were treated in the same way. ·For you not only shared in the sufferings of those who were in prison, [f] but you accepted with joy being stripped of your belongings, knowing that you owned something that was better and lasting. ·Do not lose your fearlessness now, then, since the reward is so great. ·You will need perseverance if you are to do God's will and gain what he has promised.

Is 26:20 LXX Hab 2:3–4 LXX Rm 1:17

> Only a little while now, a very little while,
> for come he certainly will before too long.
> My upright person will live through faith
> but if he draws back, my soul will take no pleasure in him.

1 P 1:9

We are not the sort of people who draw back, and are lost by it; we are the sort who keep faith until our souls are saved.

The exemplary faith of our ancestors

Rm 1:16h

11 Only faith can guarantee the blessings that we hope for, or prove the existence of realities that are unseen. [a] ·It is for their faith that our ancestors are acknowledged.

Gn 1 Rm 1:20

It is by faith that we understand that the ages were created by a word from God, so that from the invisible the visible world came to be. [b]

Gn 4:4 Gn 4:10 Jb 16:18f

It was because of his faith that Abel offered God a better sacrifice than Cain, and for that he was acknowledged as upright when God himself made acknowledgement of his offerings. Though he is dead, he still speaks by faith.

Mt 23:35 Gn 5:22–24

It was because of his faith that Enoch was taken up and did not experience death: he was no more, because God took him; because before his assumption he was acknowledged to have pleased God. ·Now it is impossible to please God without faith, since anyone who comes to him must believe that he exists and rewards those who seek him. [c]

Ex 3:14+
Jr 29:12–14

7 It was through his faith that Noah, when he had been warned by God of something that had never been seen before, took care to build an ark to save his family. His faith was a judgement on the world, [d] and he was able to claim the uprightness which comes from faith.

Gn 6:8–22
Mt 24:37–39
1 P 3:20
2 P 2:5

8 It was by faith that Abraham obeyed the call to set out for a country that was the inheritance given to him and his descendants, and that he set out without knowing
9 where he was going. ·By faith he sojourned in the Promised Land as though it were not his, living in tents with Isaac and Jacob, who were heirs with him of the same 10 promise. ·He looked forward to the well-founded city, designed and built by God.

Rm 1:16h;4:13f
Gn 12:1–4+
Rm 1:5a

Gn 23:4;26:3; 35:12

Rv 21:10–20

11 It was equally by faith that Sarah, in spite of being past the age, was made able to conceive, because she believed that he who had made the promise was faithful to 12 it. ·Because of this, there came from one man, and one who already had the mark of death on him, descendants as numerous as the stars of heaven and the grains of sand on the seashore which cannot be counted.

10:23
Gn 17:19;21:2
Rm 4:19–21

Gn 22:17
Ex 32:13
Dn 3:36 LXX

13 All these died in faith, before receiving any of the things that had been promised, but they saw them in the far distance and welcomed them, recognising that they 14 were only strangers and nomads on earth. ·People who use such terms about 15 themselves make it quite plain that they are in search of a homeland. ·If they had meant the country they came from, they would have had the opportunity to return 16 to it; ·but in fact they were longing for a better homeland, their heavenly homeland. That is why God is not ashamed to be called their God, since he has founded the city for them.

Jn 8:56

Gn 23:4
Ps 39:12;119:19

13:14
Ph 3:20
Rv 21:2

17 It was by faith that Abraham, when put to the test, offered up Isaac. He offered to sacrifice his only son even though he had yet to receive what had been promised,
18 and he had been told: Isaac is the one through whom your name will be carried
19 on. ·He was confident that God had the power even to raise the dead; and so, figuratively speaking, [e] he was given back Isaac from the dead.

Gn 22:1–14
Jm 2:21–22

Gn 21:12
Rm 4:17–21
1 Co 10:6d

20 It was by faith that this same Isaac gave his blessing to Jacob and Esau for the 21 still distant future. ·By faith Jacob, when he was dying, blessed each of Joseph's 22 sons, bowed in reverence, as he leant on his staff. ·It was by faith that, when he was about to die, Joseph mentioned the Exodus of the Israelites and gave instructions about his own remains.

Gn 27:27seq.,39
Gn 48:15seq.
Gn 47:31
Gn 50:24–25

23 It was by faith that Moses, when he was born, was kept hidden by his parents for three months; because they saw that he was a fine child; they were not afraid of the 24 royal edict. [f] ·It was by faith that, when he was grown up, Moses refused to be 25 known as the son of Pharaoh's daughter ·and chose to be ill-treated in company

Ex 2:2
Ac 7:20

Ex 2:11

b. Only the high priest could enter the Holy of Holies, i.e. the presence of God, and he could do so only once a year. From now on, all who are faithful will be able to reach God through Christ, see 4:14–16; 7:19,25; 9:11; 10:9; Rm 5:2; Ep 1:4; 2:18; 3:12; Col 1:22.

c. When Christ returns at the end of history, see 1 Co 1:8e. This verse may refer to the signs preceding the parousia, see 2 Th 2:1a.

d. The sin of apostasy or deliberate revolt against God, see 6:6d. The fire, v. 27, is the traditional weapon God uses in anger. Is 26:11; Mt 3:11–12; Mk 9:48–49f; Rv 11:5.

e. 'Enlightenment' or 'illumination' in NT, as in patristic writers, always refers to baptism, 6:4; Ep 5:14 (see Rm 6:4a).

f. var. 'of my chains', which would be an allusion to Paul's captivity, Ph 1:7; Col 4:18.

11 a. var. 'Faith is the assurance of things hoped for (heaven) and the conviction of things unwanted (hell).' The Jewish Christians to whom the author is writing have been discouraged by persecution, so he emphasises that it is only what is future and what is invisible that concerns hope. This verse was adopted as a theological definition of faith, i.e. the anticipated and assured possession of heavenly realities, see 6:5; Rm 5:2; Ep 1:13seq. The examples taken from the lives of OT saints are meant to illustrate how faith is the source of patience and strength.

b. Creation seen with the eye of faith reveals 'unseen reality'; before creation everything real existed in God from whom everything comes.

c. The faith that is essential for salvation has two objects: belief in the existence of one personal God, Ws 13:1, who by his very nature cannot be seen, Jn 1:18; 20:29; Rm 1:20; 2 Co 5:7; Col 1:15; 1 Tm 1:17; 6:16, and belief that God will reward all effort spent in searching for him; cf. Mt 5:12 and par.; 6:4,6,18; 10:41seq., and par.; 16:27; 20:1–16; 25:31–46; Lk 6:35; 14:14; Rm 2:6; 1 Co 3:8,14; 2 Co 5:10; Ep 6:8; 2 Tm 4:8,14; 1 P 1:17; 2 Jn 8; Rv 2:23; 11:18; 14:13; 20:12–13; 22:12. See also Ps 62:12e. The absence of all mention of Christ is explained by the fact that Enoch precedes any of the covenants, cf. Jn 17:3; 20:31.

d. Noah's confidence in what God had said 'convicts' a sinner, cf. Ws 4:16; Mt 12:41.

e. lit. 'by a parable'. The saving of Isaac from death prefigures the general resurrection and, according to traditional exegesis, the death and resurrection of Jesus.

f. Some authorities insert the story of the murdered Egyptian here, see Ex 2:11–12; Ac 7:24.

with God's people rather than to enjoy the transitory pleasures of sin. 26
Ps 89:50seq. ·He considered that the humiliations offered to the Anointed[g] were something more precious than all the treasures of Egypt, because he had his eyes fixed on the reward. 27
Ex 2:15 1 Tm 1:17 ·It was by faith that he left Egypt without fear of the king's anger; he held to his purpose like someone who could see the Invisible. 28
Ex 12:11, 22–23 Ex 14:22,27 ·It was by faith that he kept the Passover and sprinkled the blood to prevent the Destroyer from touching any of their first-born sons. 29
·It was by faith they crossed the Red Sea as easily as dry land, while the Egyptians, trying to do the same, were drowned.

Jos 6:20 Jos 2:1seq.;6:17 It was through faith that the walls of Jericho fell down when the people had marched round them for seven days. 30 31
·It was by faith that Rahab the prostitute welcomed the spies and so was not killed with the unbelievers.

What more shall I say? There is not time for me to give an account of Gideon, 32
Barak, Samson, Jephthah, or of David, Samuel and the prophets. 33
·These were men who through faith conquered kingdoms, did what was upright and earned the promises. They could keep a lion's mouth shut, 34
Dn 3:49–50;6:23 ·put out blazing fires and emerge unscathed from battle. They were weak people who were given strength to be brave in war and drive back foreign invaders. 35
1 K 17:23 2 K 4:36 2 M 6:18;7:42 ·Some returned to their wives from the dead by resurrection; and others submitted to torture, refusing release so that they would rise again to a better life. 36
Jr 20:2;37:15seq. ·Some had to bear being pilloried and flogged, or even chained up in prison. 37
·They were stoned, or sawn in half,[h] or killed by the sword; they were homeless, and wore only the skins of sheep and goats; they were in want and hardship, and maltreated. 38
·They were too good for the world and they wandered in deserts and mountains and in caves and ravines. 39
·These all won acknowledgement through their faith, but they did not receive what was promised, 1 P 1:10–12; 3:19+ since God had made provision for us to have something better, and they were not to reach perfection except with us.[i] 40

The example of Jesus Christ

12 With so many witnesses in a great cloud all around us, we too, then, should throw off everything that weighs us down and the sin that clings so closely, 1
Gn 4:7 Ga 5:7d 2:10 and with perseverance keep running in the race which lies ahead of us. 2
·Let us keep our eyes fixed on Jesus, who leads us in our faith and brings it to perfection: for the Mt 4:3–11par. Jn 6:15 sake of the joy which lay ahead of him, he endured the cross, disregarding the 2 Co 8:9 Ph 2:6–8 shame of it, and has taken his seat at the right of God's throne. 3
·Think of the way he persevered against such opposition from sinners[a] and then you will not lose heart Ps 110:1 Ac 2:33t Lk 2:34 10:32seq. and come to grief. 4
·In the fight against sin, you have not yet had to keep fighting to the point of bloodshed.

God's fatherly instruction

Have you forgotten that encouraging text in which you are addressed as sons? 5

Pr 3:11–12 LXX
> My son, do not scorn correction from the Lord,
> do not resent his training,
Rv 3:19
> for the Lord trains those he loves, 6 > and chastises every son he accepts.

Perseverence is part of your training;[b] God is treating you as his sons. Has there 7
Dt 8:5+ ever been any son whose father did not train him? 8
·If you were not getting this training, as all of you are, then you would be not sons but bastards. 9
·Besides, we have all had our human fathers who punished us, and we respected them for it; all Nb 16:22;27:16 2 M 3:24 Lv 17:1a 2 P 1:4 Jn 16:20 2 Co 7:8–11 Jm 1:2–4 1 P 1:6–7 the more readily ought we to submit to the Father of spirits, and so earn life. 10
·Our human fathers were training us for a short life and according to their own lights; but he does it all for our own good, so that we may share his own holiness. 11
·Of course, any discipline is at the time a matter for grief, not joy; but later, in those who have undergone it, it bears fruit in peace and uprightness. 12
·Pr 4:26 LXX Is 35:3 ·So steady all weary hands and trembling knees 13
·and make your crooked paths straight; then the injured limb will not be maimed, it will get better instead.

Unfaithfulness is punished

14 Seek peace with all people, and the holiness without which no one can ever see the 15 Lord. ·Be careful that no one is deprived of the grace of God and that no root of bitterness should begin to grow and make trouble; this can poison a large number.
16 And be careful that there is no immoral person, or anyone worldly minded like 17 Esau, [c] who sold his birthright for one single meal. ·As you know, when he wanted to obtain the blessing afterwards, he was rejected and, though he pleaded for it with tears, he could find no way of reversing the decision.

Ps 34:14 Mt 5:8–9 Rm 12:18 1 Jn 3:2 Dt 29:17 LXX Ac 8:23 Gn 25:33 Gn 27:30–40

The two covenants [d]

18 What you have come to is nothing [e] known to the senses: not a blazing fire, or 19 gloom or total darkness, or a storm; ·or trumpet-blast or the sound of a voice speaking which made everyone that heard it beg that no more should be said to 20 them. ·They could not bear the order that was given: If even a beast touches the 21 mountain, it must be stoned. ·The whole scene was so terrible that Moses said, 'I 22 am afraid and trembling.' ·But what you have come to is Mount Zion and the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem where the millions of angels have 23 gathered for the festival, ·with the whole Church of first-born sons, enrolled as citizens of heaven. You have come to God himself, the supreme Judge, and to the 24 spirits of the upright who have been made perfect; ·and to Jesus, the mediator of a new covenant, and to purifying blood which pleads more insistently than Abel's.
25 Make sure that you never refuse to listen when he speaks. If the people who on earth refused to listen to a warning could not escape their punishment, how shall we possibly escape if we turn away from a voice that warns us from heaven? [f] 26 That time his voice made the earth shake, but now he has given us this promise:
I am going to shake the earth once more and not only the earth but heaven as well.
27 The words once more indicate the removal of what is shaken, since these are 28 created things, so that what is not shaken remains. [g] ·We have been given possession of an unshakeable kingdom. Let us therefore be grateful and use our gratitude to worship God in the way that pleases him, in reverence and fear. [h] 29 For our God is a consuming fire.

Ex 19:16,18 Dt 4:11 Ex 20:19 Ex 19:12seq. Dt 9:19 Rv 14:1;21:10 Rm 2:6b 11:40i •8:6b 11:4+ Gn 4:10 2:2–3 Ex 19:18 Jg 5:4–5 Ps 68:8 Hg 2:6 •Mt 24:35par. 2 P 3:12–13 Rv 21:1 Dn 7:18 9:14 Rm 1:9f Dt 4:24f Is 33:14

APPENDIX

Final recommendations

1, 2 13 Continue to love each other like brothers, [a] ·and remember always to welcome strangers, for by doing this, some people have entertained angels

Gn 18:2seq.; 19:1seq. Jg 6:11–24; 13:3–23 Tb 5:4 Rm 12:13

g. In the psalm, God's 'Anointed' who is 'insulted' refers to the people of God, v. 25, consecrated to Yahweh, Ex 19:6. The author of Heb applies the text to Christ himself on whose account Moses (through faith, since the Messiah was still in the future) suffered, see 10:33; 13:13.

h. Some apocryphal books say this was how King Manasseh had Isaiah executed. • add. 'put to the test'.

i. The eschatological epoch of 'perfection' was inaugurated by Christ, 2:10; 5:9; 7:28; 10:14, and access to the divine life has been made available only by him, 9:11seq.; 10:19seq. The OT saints, who could not be 'perfected' by the Law, 7:19; 9:9; 10:1, had thus to wait until the resurrection of Christ before they could enter the perfect life of heaven, 12:23; cf. Mt 27:52seq.; 1 P 3:19h.

12 a. lit. 'endured contradictions of sinners against himself'; var. '. . . against themselves'.

b. The trials of life are regarded here as part of the 'correction' or 'punishment' which are the basis of a father's education of his son, according to the OT tradition, particularly in the later books, Jb 5:17; 33:19; Ps 94:12; Si 1:27; 4:17; 23:2. The trials, being sent by God, reveal and prove that he is our Father.

c. This refers to the sin committed by Esau when he surrendered the position that was his by birth, of being heir to the messianic promises.

d. The approach to God, 4:16; 10:22, no longer occurs, v. 18, in an awe-inspiring theophany as on Sinai, but, v. 22, in a city built by God, for which the OT saints yearned, 11:10,16, the heavenly city, 4:14; Rv 21:1a. With the angels are assembled round the triumphant Mediator all Christians, cf. Lk 10:20; Jm 1:18, whom he has sanctified and perfected, Heb 10:14; 11:40i; 12:14.

e. var. 'a mountain'.

f. The contrast is not between Moses and Christ so much as between the beneficiaries of the two covenants. The old covenant regulated life on earth, as a pale shadow of the heavenly life introduced by the new one. Hence to turn away from the latter merits a more severe punishment.

g. Cosmic upheavals are traditional metaphors in apocalypses for the time when God intervenes to introduce a new régime, see Am 8:9h; Mt 24:1a; 1 Co 1:8e.

h. This is the real conclusion, and an apt one for a letter that lays such emphasis on the liturgy. The 'unshakeable' kingdom summarises vv. 22–24. God reigns over both his angels and his saints in the Kingdom of Heaven, the eternal and spiritual Jerusalem. From now on Christians are able to enter this kingdom and live there a life that is a eucharistic liturgy.

13 a. For love between the brothers, see Rm 12:10; 1 Th 4:9; 1 P 1:22; 2 P 1:7; 1 Jn 3:14–18.

without knowing it. •Keep in mind those who are in prison, as though you were in 3 10:34 prison with them; and those who are being badly treated, since you too are in the Mt 25:36 Ws 3:13 body. •Marriage must be honoured by all, and marriages must be kept undefiled, 4
Ep 5:5seq. because the sexually immoral and adulterers will come under God's judgement.
Mt 6:25seq. Ph 4:12 Put avarice out of your lives and be content with whatever you have; God himself 5
Dt 31:6 has said: I shall not fail you or desert you, •and so we can say with confidence: 6
Ps 27:1–3; 118:6 Rm 8:31–39 With the Lord on my side, I fear nothing: what can human beings do to me?

Faithfulness

Tt 1:5c Remember your leaders, [b] who preached the word of God to you, and as you reflect 7
2 Th 3:7b on the outcome of their lives, take their faith as your model. •Jesus Christ is the 8
Ep 4:14 same today as he was yesterday and as he will be for ever. [c] •Do not be led astray by 9 all sorts of strange doctrines: it is better to rely on grace for inner strength than on 1 Co 8:8e food, which has done no good to those who concentrate on it. •We have our own 10 altar [d] from which those who serve the Tent have no right to eat. •The bodies of the 11
Lv 3:1a animals whose blood is taken into the sanctuary by the high priest for the rite of Lv 16:27 expiation are burnt outside the camp, •and so Jesus too suffered outside the gate to 12
10:14 Mt 21:39par. sanctify the people with his own blood. [e] •Let us go to him, then, outside the camp, 13
Jn 19:20 Ac 7:58 and bear his humiliation. •There is no permanent city for us here; we are looking 14
11:10,14–16,26 for the one which is yet to be. •Through him, let us offer God an unending sacrifice 15
1 Co 7:29–31 Ph 3:20 of praise, the fruit of the lips of those who acknowledge his name. •Keep [f] doing 16
Ps 50:14,23 Ho 14:3 good works and sharing your resources, for these are the kinds of sacrifice that Rm 1:9f;10:9 Ac 2:21m please God.
•Am 5:21n Ph 4:18

Obedience to religious leaders

•Ezk 3:18 1 Co 16:16 1 Th 5:12e Obey your leaders and give way to them; they watch over your souls because they 17
•Rm 15:30 Ep 6:19 must give an account of them; make this a joy for them to do, and not a grief—you
Col 4:3 1 Th 5:25 yourselves would be the losers. •Pray for us; we are sure that our own conscience is 18
2 Th 3:1 •Ph 2:24 clear and we are certainly determined to behave honourably in everything we do.
Phm 22 I ask you very particularly to pray that I may come back to you all the sooner. 19

EPILOGUE

News, good wishes and greetings

Is 63:11;55:3 Ezk 37:26;34:1a Zc 9:11 Jn 10:11 I pray that the God of peace, who brought back from the dead [g] our Lord Jesus, the 20
1 P 2:25;5:4 •Ph 2:13 great Shepherd of the sheep, by the blood that sealed an eternal covenant, •may 21 •Rm 16:27n prepare you to do his will in every kind of good action; effecting in us all whatever is acceptable to himself through Jesus Christ, to whom be glory for ever and ever, Amen.

I urge you, brothers, [h] to take these words of encouragement kindly; that is why 22
I have written to you briefly.

Ac 16:1a I want you to know that our brother Timothy has been set free. If he arrives in 23 time, he will be with me when I see you. •Greetings to all your leaders and to all 24 God's holy people. God's holy people in Italy send you greetings. •Grace be with 25 you all.

b. The first leaders of the community, responsible for proclaiming the word of God, v. 7, and guiding conduct, v. 17.

c. This declaration, introduced by the mention of the word of God and of faith, v. 7, underlines the central theme of the leaders' preaching. They may change or disappear, but Christ remains, and it is to him that Christians owe their allegiance. The recommendations which follow take up again the themes of the letter, stressing the presence of Jesus and the firm confidence of believers.

d. Not the table used for the Eucharist, but either the cross on which Christ was sacrificed, or Christ himself through whom we offer the sacrifice of prayer to God. Non-Christian Jews who still 'served the tabernacle' cannot participate.

e. On the Day of Expiation the high priest went into the Holy of Holies and sprinkled it with the blood of animals that had been killed, and the bodies of these animals were burnt outside the camp. This prefigured how Jesus as expiatory victim was to be killed outside the walls of Jerusalem. The lesson drawn from this is that Christians should break with Judaism.

f. add. 'therefore'.

g. The resurrection is here mentioned explicitly, but it is always implied when Heb mentions the glorified Christ, 1:3.

h. These last lines form a kind of tail-piece to the letter.

THE LETTERS TO ALL CHRISTIANS

INTRODUCTION TO
THE LETTERS TO ALL CHRISTIANS

There are seven New Testament letters which are not Pauline and which, in spite of having no other obvious connection, were very soon grouped together. Three of these letters are attributed to John, two to Peter and the other two to James and Jude, but these attributions must in each case be evaluated in the light of the literary convention of the time by which literary works could be attributed to great figures of the past who were not concerned, at any rate directly, with their composition. These letters were already given the title 'universal' or 'catholic' by the end of the second century; it is not certain why, possibly because most are addressed to the whole Christian Church and not to particular communities or individuals.

The Letter of James became accepted in the Church only gradually. If its canonicity seems to have been no problem in Egypt, where Origen quotes it as inspired scripture, Eusebius of Caesarea at the beginning of the fourth century recognises that it is still contested by some people. In the Syriac-speaking Churches it was only in the course of the fourth century that it was inserted in the canon of the NT. In Africa Tertullian and Cyprian have no knowledge of it, Mommsen's Catalogue (c. 360*)* still does not include it. At Rome it does not feature in the Canon of Muratori attributed to St Hippolytus (c. 200) and it is very doubtful whether Clement of Rome and the Shepherd of Hermas (see below) quote it. One may conclude therefore that it was not universally recognised in the Churches of East and West until near the end of the fourth century.

When the Churches do come to accept the canonical nature of this letter, they generally identify its author with the James, 'brother of the Lord', Mt 13:55; cf. 12:46 and par., who played an important part in the earliest Christian community in Jerusalem, Ac 12:17f; 15:13–21; 21:18–26; 1 Co 15:7; Ga 1:19; 2:9,12, and who was put to death by Jews about the year 62 (Josephus, Hegesippus). He is obviously not the apostle James, son of Zebedee, Mt 10:2 and par., martyred by Herod in 44, Ac 12:2, though he could theoretically be identified with the apostle James, son of Alphaeus, Mt 10:3 and par.; even early writers, however, were doubtful and most critics nowadays reject authorship by the apostle. Paul's turn of phrase in Ga 1:19 is ambiguous.

But the real problem is a different one, and deeper. It concerns the ascription itself of the letter to James 'brother of the Lord' . The ascription is not without its difficulties. If the letter had really been written by this outstanding personality, the difficulty it had in winning a place in the Church as inspired Scripture is difficult to understand. Further, it was composed in Greek, and with an elegance, wealth of vocabulary and sense of rhetoric (diatribe) which are surprising for a Galilaean; certainly James could have secured the help of a disciple of good hellenistic culture, but this is a guess which cannot be proved. Finally, and above all, the letter shows a very marked affinity to writings whose composition is dated to the very end of the first century or the beginning of the second, notably the first letter of Clement of Rome and the Shepherd of Hermas. It has often been claimed that these two letters made considerable use of the letter of James, but recognition is today growing more and more widespread that these affinities are explained by the use of common sources and by the fact that the authors of these different works had to face up to similar problems. Consequently many scholars today place the composition of the letter of James at the end of the first century or the beginning of the second. The archaic character of its Christology would then be due not to the antiquity of its composition but to the fact that it issues from Judaeo-Christian circles, heirs to the thought of James, brother of the Lord, unaffected by the development of early Christian theology.

If, however, the authenticity of the letter is maintained, its composition must be placed before 62, the date of James' death. In this case two hypotheses are possible, according to the view adopted of the relationships between Jm and Ga/Rm on the subject of justification by faith (see below). For some scholars it is James who is engaging in polemic against Paul, or rather against Christians who deform the teaching of Paul. For others, less and less numerous, it is Paul who wanted to oppose the ideas of James, whose letter must in this case have been written about the years 45–50; this would explain the archaic character of its Christology. But the observations we have made above make such an early date most unlikely.

The letter is addressed to the 'twelve tribes of the Dispersion', 1:1, i.e. to the Jewish Christians scattered all over the Graeco-Roman world but concentrated in countries near Palestine like Syria and Egypt. The whole tone of the letter shows that it was intended for Jewish converts and presumes that the readers are familiar with the Old Testament since, unlike Paul and the author of the letter to the Hebrews, James hardly ever makes use of direct quotations but argues from the imprecise and rather general allusions that underlie the whole text. His two chief sources are the Old Testament Wisdom literature, on which he bases his moral lessons, and the teaching found in the gospels. Some critics have thought of the letter as an exclusively Jewish product, but, on the contrary, ideas and even characteristic expressions of Jesus can be detected all through it, not so much by explicit quotations from written texts, as by reference to a living, oral tradition. James is a Judaeo-Christian sage who has rethought the maxims of the Jewish Wisdom tradition in the light of his Master's teachings and is able to re-present them in an original way.

More a sermon than a letter, it probably reflects the regular teaching of Judaeo-Christian assemblies and consists of a series of moral exhortations linked either by a common theme or sometimes by nothing more than verbal assonances. The sort of subjects dealt with are: how to behave in time of trial, Jm 1:1–12; 5:7–11; the origin of temptation, 1:13–18; how to control the tongue, 1:26; 3:1–18; good relations and sympathy with one's neighbour, 2:8,13; 3:13–4:2; 4:11seq.; the power of prayer, 1:5–8; 4:2seq.; 5:13–18 etc. In 5:14seq. is the locus classicus on the sacramental anointing of the sick.

There are two main themes. The first praises the poor and threatens the rich, 1:9–11; 1:27–2:9; 4:13–5:6, showing a concern for the lowly, God's favoured ones, that follows an Old Testament tradition but particularly the Beatitudes, Mt 5:3d. The second insists that Christians must do good and not be content with a faith that produces nothing, 1:22–27; 2:10–26; this leads on to a section, 2:14–26, that ridicules the preaching of a faith completely unrelated to good works, and some have seen this as aimed against Paul. Jm and Ga/Rm have many significant points of contact, particularly noticeable in the different ways they interpret Old Testament texts on Abraham. James may be opposing Paul himself or, more probably, certain Christians who drew pernicious conclusions from Paul's teaching. Two points are worth remembering: first, that beneath the clash between their different positions, Paul and James agree on essentials, see 2:14f; secondly, that the problem of relating faith to works is inherent in the data of Jewish religion and may have been a traditional topic that James and Paul dealt with independently of each other.

Jude who calls himself 'brother of James', v. 1, is also, it appears, one of the 'brothers of the Lord', Mt 13:55 and par. There is no reason to identify him with the apostle of the same name, Lk 6:16; Ac 1:13; cf. Jn 14:22, especially as he refers to himself as being outside the apostolic body, v. 17. Nor is it likely that an anonymous author would have adopted the name, since Jude was not sufficiently prominent to lend authority to a letter. The letter was accepted as canonical by many of the Churches as early as 200, though its use of two apocryphal sources, the Book of Enoch in vv. 6,14seq., and the Assumption of Moses in v. 9, had prompted certain hesitations; but to quote contemporary Jewish writings is hardly equivalent to recognising their inspiration.

Jude's purpose in writing this letter is to denounce the false teachers who are a danger to Christian faith. He threatens them with the divine punishments familiar from Jewish tradition, vv. 5–7, and also seems to base his description of their false teaching on the same traditions, v. 11. He nowhere states precisely what these doctrines were, so they cannot be identified with second-century Gnosticism. He accuses them of irreligion and immorality, in particular of blasphemies against the Lord Christ and the angels, vv. 4,8–10. These may have been part of the syncretistic tendencies denounced in Colossians, the Pastoral Letters and Revelation.

The letter must be dated fairly late in the first century: the apostles are quoted as belonging to the past, vv. 17seq.; the faith is now something fixed and 'handed on once for all', v. 3; and the author appears to be acquainted with Paul's letters. It is true that 2 Peter borrows from Jude and is therefore later, but the 'Second Letter of Peter' could have been written after Peter's death (see below). It can be firmly dated to the last years of the apostolic age.

Two of these 'universal' letters are attributed to Peter. 1 Peter introduces the name of the apostle in the opening verse, 1:1, and has always been accepted in every part of the Church. Clement of Rome seems to have used it; Polycarp certainly did, and since the time of Irenaeus it has been expressly attributed to Peter. The apostle writes from Rome (Babylon, 5:13), and calls Mark, who is with him, his 'son'. Very little is known about Peter's last years; according to tradition he went to Rome and was martyred there under Nero (in 64 or possibly 67). His letter is addressed to the Christians 'of the Dispersion', and names five provinces, 1:1, which represent practically the whole of Asia Minor. From what he says, 1:14,18; 2:9seq.; 4:3, it seems that most of them were converted pagans, though there may have been some Judaeo-Christians among them. He was obviously obliged to send them a letter in Greek—James had done the same with less reason—and though Peter's Greek is unsophisticated it is too accurate and fluent for a fisherman from Galilee. Unlike the letter from James, the name of a disciple and secretary is mentioned who may have helped: this is Silvanus, 5:12, usually identified with the Silvanus who had been a companion of Paul, Ac 15:22x.

The purpose of the letter is to help its readers' faith in a time of trial. Some critics think this may refer to a persecution under Domitian or Trajan, which would date the letter much later than Peter; but the allusions in the letter are not strong enough to make this conclusion inevitable, since it seems that this 'time of trial' could refer rather to the personal malice and spiteful calumnies caused by the strictly moral life led by converts among those whose sins they no longer shared, 2:12; 3:16; 4:4,12–16.

Another argument against Petrine authorship is based on the liberal use the letter makes of John, Romans and Ephesians, and on the surprisingly little direct use it makes of the gospel. There are, however, many reminiscences of the gospel, but these are so implicit as to constitute an argument against the idea that the author merely wanted to pretend the apostle had written it. There is a tendency perhaps to exaggerate the number of points of contact with James and Paul. Specifically Pauline themes, e.g. the abolition of the Jewish Law, the Body of Christ, etc., do not appear at all, and though some themes appear that are best known from Paul's letters, yet these are themes common to all early Christian theology, e.g. the redemptive nature of the death of Jesus; faith and baptism, etc. Certain formulae and certain Old Testament quotations which were common in the primitive preaching are being increasingly identified by critics, and any early writings could well have drawn on these independently. It is also worth remembering that Silvanus was a disciple of both apostles and that some scholars detect affinities not only between 1 Peter and Paul but also between 1 Peter and two groups of writings whose climate is Petrine: i.e. Mark and the discourses of Peter in Acts.

If the substance of the letter had been in existence before Peter's death in 64 or 67, Silvanus could still have given it its present form some years later, working on Peter's instructions and authority. This hypothesis would be more likely if it could be proved that the letter was made up of fragments. It is suggested that, for example, a baptismal homily, 1:13–4:11, is one such fragment, but these identifications remain very tentative.

Though a very practical letter, it is also a valuable summary of apostolic theology. The dominating theme is fortitude in trial, for which Christ himself is the model, 2:21–25; 3:18; 4:1. Christians must suffer patiently like him when their trials are due to their faith and to their saintly lives, 2:19seq.; 3:14; 4:12–19; 5:9, i.e. if, in return for evil, they offer charity, obedience to civil authority, 2:13–17, and gentleness to all, 3:8–17; 4:7–11,19. There is one obscure passage, 3:19seq., cf. 4:6; the 'preaching' of Christ can be taken as an announcement either of salvation or of punishment; the 'spirits in prison' can be taken either as the wicked who were drowned in the Flood or as the fallen angels of biblical and apocalyptic tradition. On either view, this passage refers the 'preaching' to the moment Jesus died and is the chief source for the doctrine of the Descent into Hell.

The Second Letter of Peter claims to have been written by the apostle himself. He is named in the opening address, 1:1, the prediction of Peter's death is made by Jesus to the author himself, 1:14, who also claims to have witnessed the transfiguration, 1:16–18, and who alludes to a former letter that is obviously meant to be 1 Peter.

The purpose of the letter is twofold: to warn against false teachers, ch. 2, and to allay anxiety due to the delay of the parousia, ch. 3. It is possible that both these difficulties existed before Peter's death, but other considerations make Petrine authorship doubtful and suggest a later date. The vocabulary is notably different from that of 1 Peter; the whole of ch. 2 is obviously a free repetition of Jude; an accepted Pauline corpus seems to be already in existence, 3:15seq.; the apostolic body is referred to, with the prophets, as a thing of the past and as if the author did not belong to it. These difficulties caused early writers to hesitate, and there is no sure evidence that the letter was accepted at all before the third century, and some, according to Origen, Eusebius and Jerome, explicitly refused to accept it. Most critics nowadays also reject the Petrine authorship, though the writer may have had some claim to represent Peter: perhaps he belonged to a group of Peter's disciples, perhaps he filled out one of Peter's writings with ideas from the letter of Jude. This is what we should call forgery, but the ancients had different conventions about authorship and pseudonymity.

The letter has been definitely accepted by the Church as canonical, and Christians accept it as an authoritative document from the apostolic age. The doctrine it teaches supports this: note especially the vocation of all Christians to the 'share in the divine nature', 1:4; the way scriptural inspiration is defined, 1:20seq.; the assurance that eventually the parousia will come though no one can know when; the prediction of a new world free of all injustice after the old world has been destroyed by fire, 3:3–13.

For the three letters of John, see the Introduction to the Gospel and Letters of John, p. 1743.

THE LETTER OF JAMES

Address and greetings

Ac 12:17f
Jn 7:35
Ac 26:7
1 P 1:1

1 From James, servant of God and of the Lord Jesus Christ. Greetings [a] to the twelve tribes of the Dispersion. [b] 1

Trials a privilege

Mt 5:11+
1 P 4:13–14
Rm 5:3–5
Heb 12:11
1 P 1:6–7
Rm 5:3–5
Mt 5:48

My brothers, consider it a great joy when trials of many kinds come upon you, 2 for you well know that the testing of your faith produces perseverence, ·and perse- 3, 4 verence must complete its work [c] so that you will become fully developed, complete, not deficient in any way.

Prayer with confidence

1 K 3:7seq.
Pr 2:6+
Ws 8:21seq.
Mt 7:7;21:
21par.
Is 57:20
4:8

Any of you who lacks wisdom must ask God, who gives to all generously [d] and 5 without scolding; it will be given. ·But the prayer must be made with faith, and no 6 trace of doubt, because a person who has doubts is like the waves thrown up in the sea by the buffeting of the wind. ·That sort of person, in 7 two minds, ·inconsistent in every activity, [e] must not expect to receive anything 8 from the Lord.

The lot of the rich

Jr 9:22–23
Is 40:6–7

It is right that the brother in humble circumstances should glory in being lifted 9 up, [f] ·and the rich in being brought low. For the rich will last no longer than the wild 10 flower; ·the scorching sun comes up, [g] and the grass withers, its flower falls, its 11 beauty is lost. It is the same with the rich: in the middle of a busy life, the rich will wither.

Temptation

Dn 12:12
Mt 5:3c
1 Co 9:25+
Rv 2:10

Blessed is anyone who perseveres when trials come. Such a person is of proven 12 worth and will win the prize of life, the crown that the Lord [h] has promised to those who love him. [i]

Pr 19:3
Si 15:11–20
Rm 7:8–10
1 Co 10:13

Never, when you are being put to the test, [j] say, 'God is tempting me'; God 13 cannot be tempted by evil, and he does not put anybody to the test . ·Everyone is 14 put to the test by being attracted and seduced by that person's own wrong desire.

Jb 15:35
Rm 5:12;6:23
Heb 6:1b

Then the desire conceives and gives birth to sin, and when sin reaches full growth, 15 it gives birth to death.

Receiving the Word and putting it into practice

Mt 7:11
Jn 3:3,27
Jn 8:12b
1 Jn 1:5
•Jn 1:12–13
1 P 1:23m
Rv 14:4

Make no mistake about this, my dear brothers: ·all that is good, all that is perfect, 16, 17 is given us from above; it comes down [k] from the Father of all light; [l] with him there is no such thing as alteration, no shadow caused by change.

By his own choice he gave birth to us by the message of the truth [m] so that we 18 should be a sort of first-fruits of all his creation. [n]

True religion

19 Remember this, my dear brothers: everyone should be quick to listen but slow to 20 speak and slow to human anger; ·God's saving justice is never served by human 21 anger; · so do away with all impurities and remnants of evil. Humbly welcome the Word which has been planted in you and can save your souls.
22 But you must do what the Word tells you and not just listen to it and deceive 23 yourselves. ·Anyone who listens to the Word and takes no action is like someone 24 who looks at his own features in a mirror and, ·once he has seen what he looks like, 25 goes off and immediately forgets it. ·But anyone who looks steadily at the perfect law of freedom [o] and keeps to it—not listening and forgetting, but putting it into practice—will be blessed in every undertaking.
26 Nobody who fails to keep a tight rein on the tongue can claim to be religious; this 27 is mere self-deception; that person's religion is worthless. ·Pure, unspoilt religion, in the eyes of God our Father, [p] is this: coming to the help of orphans and widows in their hardships, and keeping oneself uncontaminated by the world.

Pr 10:19;14:17
Si 5:11
Mt 5:22
Ga 5:19+
1 P 2:1–2
Mt 11:29
Jn 3:11e
Mt 7:24–27 par.
Lk 8:21
Rm 2:13
1 Jn 3:17 seq.
Ps 19:7
Mt 5:17
Rm 6:15g; 7:21; 8:2
•Jn 13:17
•3:2seq.
Ex 22:21+

Respect for the poor

1 2 My brothers, do not let class distinction enter into your faith in Jesus Christ,
2 our glorified Lord. [a] ·Now suppose a man comes into your synagogue, [b] well-dressed and with a gold ring on, and at the same time a poor man comes in, in 3 shabby clothes, ·and you take notice of the well-dressed man, and say, 'Come this way to the best seats'; then you tell the poor man, 'Stand over there' or 'You can sit 4 on the floor by my foot-rest.' ·In making this distinction among yourselves have you not used a corrupt standard?
5 Listen, my dear brothers: it was those who were poor according to the world that God chose, to be rich in faith [c] and to be the heirs to the kingdom which he 6 promised to those who love him. ·You, on the other hand, have dishonoured the 7 poor. Is it not the rich who lord it over you? ·Are not they the ones who drag you into court, who insult the honourable name which has been pronounced over you? [d]
8 Well, the right thing to do is to keep the supreme Law of scripture: you will love 9 your neighbour as yourself; ·but as soon as you make class distinctions, you are committing sin and under condemnation for breaking the Law.
10 You see, anyone who keeps the whole of the Law but trips up on a single point,

Dt 1:17d

Zp 2:3d
1 Co 1:26–29
Rv 2:29
•1:12
Mt 4:17+
Ga 3:29

Is 52:5
Rm 2:24

Lv 19:18
Mt 22:39par.
Rm 13:8–10
Dt 1:17
Pr 24:23e
Dt 27:26
Mt 5:19
Ga 3:10

1 a. lit. 'Be joyful' or 'Rejoice', a normal Gk greeting. V. 2 makes a pun with the word.

b. In OT days the 'Dispersion' (diaspora) was used to describe the Jews who had emigrated from their country, cf. Jdt 5:19; Ps 147:2; see also Jn 7:35. Here the reference is to the Jewish Christians living in the Graeco-Roman world, see Ac 2:5–11. The twelve tribes prefigured the new People of God, Ac 26:7; Rv 7:4b.

c. For James, as for Judaism, faith must, for perfection, issue in deeds, 2:14f, cf. 1 Th 1:3. The central message of 2:14–26 is already hinted at.

d. i.e. simply, or unreservedly.

e. This inconsistency contrasts with simplicity of heart, Gn 8:21c, and the firmness of attitudes which results from it.

f. The rich are to share in the exaltation of the poor, 1 S 2:7–8; Ps 72:4,12; 113:7–9; Lk 1:52; see Zp 2:3d, but only by humbling themselves with them.

g. Or 'The sun comes up with a scorching wind.'

h. om. 'the Lord'.

i. At the outcome of temptation, vv. 2–4, anyone who loves God will receive a reward, 1 Co 9:25; 1 P 5:4; Rv 2:10.

j. See 1 Co 10:13f. One who allows himself to be drawn into evil must not blame the fault on God who cannot desire evil. Sin comes from within, Rm 7:8, and culminates in a state wholly opposed to the crown of life, v. 12; Rm 6:23.

k. om. (Vet. Lat.) 'from above'.

l. i.e. the maker of the stars, Gn 1:14–18, and source of spiritual light, cf. 1 P 2:9; 1 Jn 1:5. The imagery following this phrase is suggested by astronomy. • var. 'no such thing as alteration due to the movement of a shadow'.

m. This 'word of truth' is everything God has revealed to the human race, it is also called the law of freedom or the supreme Law, see 1:21–25; 2:8.

n. Jm speaks of 'grace' only in 4:6. He mentions here the equivalent of it in the new birth through the Word of God, Jn 1:12j; 3:3; 1 P 1:23, which creates the People of God as its first-born, cf. Dt 18:4; 1 Co 15:20; Rv 8:23; 16:5. This Word is planted in human hearts by the saving preaching of the gospel, v. 21, and the faith which is the acceptance of such preaching, see 1 Th 2:13d. There are traces here of baptismal catechesis.

o. Like the word of truth, v. 18, this law is Christian revelation accepted and put into practice, see Mt 5:17–19h; 7:24–27; Jn 13:17. It sets people free, 2:12, by the keeping of the commandments. Paul will see in the liberty of the Christian a privilege of the New Law, of faith, Rm 3:27; 6:15g; 7:1; Ga 4:21seq.

p. Cf. Mt 6:9; 1 Co 15:24; Ep 5:20. The OT uses the phrase in Dt 32:6; cf. Ws 2:16; Si 23:1,4; Is 63:16. Worship in the Spirit which is acceptable to God takes a concrete form in right conduct and the service of the weak, see Dt 27:19; Is 11:17; Jr 5:28.

2 a. lit. 'our Lord Jesus Christ of glory', see 1 Co 2:8h.

b. James is writing to Jewish Christians; it is possible that they may even have still been attending Jewish synagogues, or it may be his word for the Christian 'assembly' for liturgical services.

c. i.e. poor in money, rich in faith, see 1:9f.

d. In the OT the name of Yahweh pronounced over someone dedicated that person to the divine protection, Is 43:7; Am 9:12. In the NT the only means of salvation is the name of Jesus invoked, e.g. at baptism, Ac 2:21m. Alternative translation 'the honourable name you bear'.

Ex 20:13–14 Dt 5:17–18
is still guilty of breaking it all. ·He who said, 'You must not commit adultery' said also, 'You must not kill.' Now if you commit murder, you need not commit adultery as well to become a breaker of the Law. ·Talk and behave like people who are going to be judged by the law of freedom. ·Whoever acts without mercy will be judged without mercy [e] but mercy can afford to laugh at judgement.

Rm 2:12;6:15g Mt 6:14–15; 18:35 Lk 6:36seq.

Faith and good deeds [f]

1 Jn 4:18

How does it help, my brothers, when someone who has never done a single good act claims to have faith? Will that faith bring salvation? ·If one of the brothers or one of the sisters is in need of clothes and has not enough food to live on, ·and one of you says to them, 'I wish you well; keep yourself warm and eat plenty,' without giving them these bare necessities of life, then what good is that? ·In the same way faith: if good deeds do not go with it, it is quite dead. [g]

1 Co 13:3 Ga 5:6 Mt 7:21; 25:41–45 1 Jn 3:17

But someone may say: [h] So you have faith and I have good deeds? Show me this faith of yours without deeds, then! It is by my deeds that I will show you my faith. You believe in the one God—that is creditable enough, but even the demons have the same belief, and they tremble with fear. [i] ·Fool! Would you not like to know that faith without deeds is useless? ·Was not Abraham our father [j] justified by his deed, because he offered his son Isaac on the altar? ·So you can see that his faith was working together with his deeds; his faith became perfect by what he did. [k] ·In this way the scripture was fulfilled: Abraham put his faith in God, and this was considered as making him upright; and he received the name 'friend of God'.

Mt 8:29k Gn 22:9 Heb 11:17 Gn 15:6 Rm 4:3 Ga 3:6 Is 41:8f

2:14f

You see now that it is by deeds, and not only by believing, that someone is justified. ·There is another example of the same kind: Rahab the prostitute, was she not justified by her deeds because she welcomed the messengers [l] and showed them a different way to leave? ·As a body without a spirit is dead, so is faith without deeds. [m]

Jos 2:1seq. Heb 11:31

Uncontrolled language

Mt 23:8 1 Co 12:28k

3 Only a few of you, my brothers, should be teachers, [a] bearing in mind that we shall receive a stricter judgement. ·For we all trip up in many ways.

Pr 10:19;18:21 Si 5:9–15;14:1; 28:13–26

Someone who does not trip up in speech has reached perfection and is able to keep the whole body on a tight rein. [b] ·Once [c] we put a bit in the horse's mouth, to make it do what we want, we have the whole animal under our control. ·Or think of ships: no matter how big they are, even if a gale is driving them, they are directed by a tiny rudder wherever the whim of the helmsman decides. ·So the tongue is only a tiny part of the body, but its boasts are great. Think how small a flame can set fire to a huge forest; ·the tongue is a flame too. Among all the parts of the body, the tongue is a whole wicked world: [d] it infects the whole body; catching fire itself from hell, it sets fire to the whole wheel of creation. [e] ·Wild animals and birds, reptiles and fish of every kind can all be tamed, and have been tamed, by humans; but nobody can tame the tongue—it is a pest that will not keep still, full of deadly poison. ·We use it to bless the Lord and Father, but we also use it to curse people who are made in God's image: ·the blessing and curse come out of the same mouth. [f] My brothers, this must be wrong—·does any water supply give a flow of fresh water and salt water out of the same pipe? ·Can a fig tree yield olives, my brothers, or a vine yield figs? No more can sea water yield fresh water.

Dn 7:8+,20 Pr 16:27; 26:18–21 Si 28:22 Mt 15:18 Mt 3:12j;5:22+ Gn 1:26;9:2 Ps 140:3 Gn 1:27+ Ep 4:29 Mt 7:16

Real wisdom and its opposite

Si 19:20–30 Ep 4:1–2

Anyone who is wise or understanding among you [g] should from a good life give evidence of deeds done in the gentleness of wisdom. ·But if at heart you have the bitterness of jealousy, or selfish ambition, do not be boastful or hide the truth with lies; ·this is not the wisdom that comes from above, but earthly, human and devilish. ·Wherever there are jealousy and ambition, there are also disharmony and wickedness of every kind; ·whereas the wisdom that comes down from above

1 Co 3:3 2 Co 1:12 1:5d

is essentially something pure; it is also peaceable, kindly and considerate; it is full of mercy and shows itself by doing good; nor is there any trace of partiality or 18 hypocrisy in it. ·The peace sown by peacemakers brings a harvest of justice.

1 Co 13:4–7
Ph 1:11
Heb 12:11
Mt 5:9

Disunity among Christians

1 4 Where do these wars and battles between yourselves first start? Is it not
2 precisely in the desires fighting inside your own selves? ·You want something and you lack it; so you kill. You have an ambition that you cannot satisfy; so you fight to get your way by force.[a] It is because you do not pray that you do not
3 receive; ·when you do pray and do not receive, it is because you prayed wrongly, wanting to indulge your passions.

Rm 7:23
Ga 5:17
1 P 2:11
Ps 66:18
Mt 6:5–13,33
Rm 8:26

4 Adulterers![b] Do you not realise that love for the world is hatred for God?
5 Anyone who chooses the world for a friend is constituted an enemy of God. ·Can you not see the point of the saying in scripture, 'The longing of the spirit he sent to 6 dwell in us is a jealous longing.'?[c] ·But he has given us an even greater grace, as scripture says: God opposes the proud but he accords his favour to the humble.
7,8 Give in to God, then; resist the devil, and he will run away from you. ·The nearer you go to God, the nearer God will come to you. Clean your hands, you sinners,
9 and clear your minds, you waverers. ·Appreciate your wretchedness, and weep for it in misery. Your laughter must be turned to grief, your happiness to gloom.[d]
10 Humble yourselves before the Lord and he will lift you up.

Mt 6:24par.
Jn 15:19
1 Jn 2:15–17
Gn 2:7
Pr 3:34 LXX
1 P 5:5–9
Ep 6:11
2 Ch 15:2
Zc 1:3
Ml 3:7
1:8
Mt 23:12

11 Brothers, do not slander one another. Anyone who slanders a brother, or condemns one, is speaking against the Law and condemning the Law. But if you condemn the Law, you have ceased to be subject to it and become a judge over it.

Lv 19:16
Mt 7:1–5

12 There is only one lawgiver [e]and he is the only judge and has the power to save or to destroy. Who are you to give a verdict on your neighbour?[f]

1 S 2:6+
Mt 10:28par.
Rm 14:4

e. Judgement in the sense of condemnation. Judgement belongs to God alone, author of the Law, 4:11–12; 5:9; cf. Ps 9:8. He will reward the practice of the Law, 1:25; 2:8, which is summed up as being that which mercy requires.

f. The different points of view of James and Paul, Rm 3:20–31; Ga 2:16; 3:2,5,11seq.; Ph 3:9, are not wholly irreconcilable. Paul is anxious to rule out the view that a human being can earn salvation without having faith in Christ, since such a reliance on self-made sanctity would be contradicted by the radical sinfulness of unredeemed humanity, Rm 1:18–3:20; Ga 3:22, and would make faith in Christ superfluous, Ga 2:17; see Rm 1:16h. But Paul does not deny that God's chosen one who has been made holy by grace must show faith by actually loving, Ga 5:6; cf. 1 Th 1:3; 2 Th 1:11; Phm 6, and in this way obeying the Law, Rm 8:4, i.e. the Law or commandment of Christ and his Spirit, Rm 8:2; Ga 6.2, which is the commandment to love, Rm 13:8–10; Ga 5:14. It is perfectly true, however, that in order to teach the same truth as Paul, James in a different context and under different circumstances explains the case of Abraham in a completely different way from Paul.

g. lit. 'it is dead by itself'.

h. The same opponents as in vv. 14 and 16.

i. The refusal of the demons to believe in the God they recognise, see Mk 1:24,34, does not prevent them from fearing his future anger.

j. Jewish tradition thought of Abraham as the just man faithful to God, Si 44:19–21k, friend of God, 2 Ch 20:7; Is 41:8, father of believers, cf. Mt 3:8; Jn 8:39. On this point Jm agrees with Paul, Rm 4:1,16.

k. No more than Paul does Jm regard Abraham's faith as a deed, Gn 15:6, quoted v. 23; Rm 4:3; Ga 3:6. But he lays more stress on the deeds to which faith, the perfect law, gives birth, 1:25; 2:8.

l. 'messengers'; var. 'spies'. The story of the two spies sent by Joshua was popular among the Jews, see Heb 11:31.

m. Vv. 17,20,24 all point to the comparison of a body deprived of the breath of life.

3 a. Those who aspire to this respected office, Mt 23:8; Ac 13:1; 1 Co 12:28k, must weigh the responsibility which falls on them. The whole of ch. 3 seems to have been written with them in mind.

b. Several images are going to teach the lesson that control of the tongue is the mark of complete self-control. The theme is a classic one both in the Gk moralists and in the wisdom literature.

c. var. 'Look!', cf. v. 4.

d. Alternative punctuation, 'The tongue is a fire, a whole wicked world in itself.'

e. The expression 'wheel (or cycle) of the created world', appears to have come from the Gk orphic mysteries.

f. The antithesis 'bless-curse' is common in the OT, Gn 12:3; 27:29; Nb 23:11; 24:9; Jos 8:34. But the Christian cannot curse, see Lk 6:28; Rm 12:4; 1 P 3:9.

g. Continuing the writer's advice to those who aspire to be teachers, v. 1. Wisdom is seen in its effects, see 1:22–25; 2:14–26.

4 a. Alternative translation (textual corrections): 'You want something and you lack it; you are envious and jealous and you cannot get it; you fight to get your way by force.' This fight is not the interior struggle in each individual, see Rm 7:23; 1 P 2:11, but dissension and rancour among believers, perhaps real conflicts in which Christians took an active part.

b. The Gk term is feminine and so recalls the imagery of Israel, the unfaithful wife of Yahweh, and is traditional in the OT, Ho 1:2b, cf. 2 Co 11:2.

c. The quotation is hard to identify. On God's jealousy, see Dt 4:24f. Probably these are reminiscences drawn for example from Gn 2:7; 6:3 or Ezk 36:27, cf. 1 Th 4:8. Rm 8:26–27 draws its inspiration from the same source: God has put in us his Spirit which makes us desire what he desires; therefore our requests are granted, see Mt 18:19–20; Jn 14:13.

d. Cf. Is 32:11seq.; Jr 4:13seq.; Mi 2:4; Zc 11:2seq.

e. var. 'There is only one: the lawgiver . . .'

f. Judgement belongs to God alone, 1:12; 2:4; 5:7–8; Mt 7:1 and par., 1a; cf. Ps 5:10c; 9:8. Whoever judges a neighbour goes against the golden rule of love, 2:8, and usurps the place of divine justice.

A warning for the rich and self-confident

Pr 27:1 Lk 12:19–20
Well now, you who say, 'Today or tomorrow, we are off to this or that town; we are going to spend a year there, trading, and make some money.' 13
Jb 14:2+ Ac 18:21 Rm 1:10 1:22–25,25o
•You never know what will happen tomorrow: you are no more than a mist that appears for a little while and then disappears. [g] 14
•Instead of this, you should say, 'If it is the Lord's will, we shall still be alive to do this or that.' 15
•But as it is, how boastful and loud-mouthed you are! Boasting of this kind is always wrong. 16
•Everyone who knows what is the right thing to do and does not do it commits a sin. 17

Lk 6:24seq.
5 Well now, you rich! Lament, weep for the miseries that are coming to you. 1
Your wealth is rotting, your clothes are all moth-eaten. 2, 3
Pr 11:4,28; 16:27 Si 29:10–12 Mt 6:19–21 Rm 12:20
•All your gold and your silver are corroding away, and the same corrosion will be a witness against you and eat into your body. It is like a fire which you have stored up for the final days. [a]
Lv 19:13 Dt 24:14–15 •Ex 22:22
Can you hear crying out against you the wages which you kept back from the labourers mowing your fields? The cries of the reapers have reached the ears of the Lord Sabaoth. 4
•On earth you have had a life of comfort and luxury; in the time of slaughter you went on eating to your heart's content. [b] 5
Ws 2:10–20
•It was you who condemned the upright and killed them; they offered you no resistance. 6

The coming of the Lord

1 Co 15:23n Dt 11:14
Now be patient, brothers, until the Lord's coming. Think of a farmer: how patiently he waits for the precious fruit of the ground until it has had the autumn rains [c] and the spring rains! 7
•You too must be patient; do not lose heart, because the Lord's coming will be soon. [d] 8
Mt 24:33par. Rm 2:6b 2 Co 6:2a Rv 1:3
•Do not make complaints against one another, brothers, so as not to be brought to judgement yourselves; the Judge is already to be seen waiting at the gates. 9
•For your example, brothers, in patiently putting up with persecution, take the prophets who spoke in the Lord's name; 10
Mt 5:11–12par.
•remember it is those who had perseverance that we say are the blessed ones. You have heard of the perseverance of Job and understood the Lord's purpose, realising that the Lord is kind and compassionate. 11
1:2–3,12 Ex 34:6+ Jb 42:10–17 Ps 103:8

Mt 5:34–37
Above all, my brothers, do not swear by heaven or by the earth or use any oaths at all. If you mean 'yes', you must say 'yes'; if you mean 'no', say 'no'. Otherwise you make yourselves liable to judgement. 12

Any one of you who is in trouble should pray; [e] anyone in good spirits should sing a psalm. 13
Tt 1:5c
•Any one of you who is ill should send for the elders of the church, 14 Mk 6:13 Ac 3:16*l* Mt 9:2par.
and they must anoint the sick person with oil in the name of the Lord [f] and pray over him.
•The prayer of faith will save the sick person and the Lord will raise him up again; and if he has committed any sins, he will be forgiven. 15
Pr 28:13d Si 4:26 1 Jn 1:8–10
•So confess your sins to one another, and pray for one another to be cured; [g] the heartfelt prayer of someone upright works very powerfully. 16
Ex 32:11e
•Elijah [h] was a human being as frail as ourselves— he prayed earnestly for it not to rain, and no rain fell for three and a half years; 17
1 K 17:1; 18:1,41seq. Rv 11:6
•then he prayed again and the sky gave rain and the earth gave crops. 18

Gn 6:1+ Mt 18:15 1 Jn 5:16 Tb 12:9 Pr 10:12 1 P 4:8
My brothers, if one of you strays away from the truth, and another brings him back to it, 19
•he may be sure [i] that anyone who can bring back a sinner from his erring ways will be saving his soul from death and covering over many a sin. 20

g. The wisdom theme of human frailty, Ps 39:5–7,11; 102:3; Ws 2:4; 5:9–14, which obliges a person to submit and trust to God.

5 a. The misfortunes of the rich will be apparent only at the Judgement, 5:7–9. We, however, are living already in the Last Days, cf. 2 Co 6:2a; cf. Is 5:8–10; Am 2:6–7; 8:4–8; Mt 6:19.

b. Perhaps an allusion to the acts of violence with which the rich oppressed the just, v. 6; cf. Ps 44:22; Ws 2:10–20; Jr 12:1–3.

c. 'rains', var. 'fruits'.

d. The expectation of the coming (parousia, 1 Co 15:23n) is the ultimate motive of Christian patience, 1:2–4,12; 1 Th 3:13; 1 P 4:7; 5:10. The comparison with the labourer recalls Mk 4:26–29.

e. The common factor in vv. 13–18 is prayer, with stress on the case of the sick and the sinner; then vv. 16 [b]–18, on the power of those who pray well.

f. om. 'of the Lord'. • Jm assumes that the practice of which he speaks is well known. In this anointing in the name of the Lord, with prayers said by the 'elders', Ac 11:30p, for the relief of illness and the remission of sins, the Church has seen the earliest form of the sacrament of Anointing of the Sick.

g. This mutual confession and prayer for each other, instead of being recommendations only to the sick, v. 15, are here urged on all Christians. Nothing special, however, may be deduced about sacramental confession.

h. The figure of Elijah was as popular with Christians as with Jews. Jm underlines that this man of prayer was like ourselves.

i. var. 'you can be sure'. • Fraternal love and pardon can bring back those who have strayed, see Mt 18:15,21–22k; 1 Th 5:14, and in return will bring advantage on the Day of Judgement to anyone who exercises them, 1 P 4:8; cf. Ezk 3:19; 33:9; Dn 12:3. So ends the letter, without the normal greeting.

1 PETER

THE FIRST LETTER OF PETER

Address. Greetings

1 1 Peter, apostle of Jesus Christ, to all those living as aliens [a] in the Dispersion [b] of 2 Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia and Bithynia, who have been chosen, ·in the foresight of God the Father, to be made holy by the Spirit, obedient to Jesus Christ and sprinkled with his blood: [c] Grace and peace be yours in abundance.

Jn 7:35
Jm 1:1b
Rm 8:29
Ep 1:4
1 Th 4:3c
2 Th 2:13
Ex 24:6–8
Mt 26:28i

Introduction. The inheritance of Christians

3 Blessed be God [d] the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who in his great mercy has given us a new birth into a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from 4 the dead ·and into a heritage that can never be spoilt or soiled and never fade away.
5 It is reserved in heaven for you ·who are being kept safe by God's power through faith until the salvation which has been prepared is revealed at the final point of time. [e]

2 Co 1:3
Ep 1:3
1:23
Jn 3:5
Rm 1:4c
1 Jn 2:29;3:9
Mt 6:19–20par.
Col 1:5,12; 3:3–4
Ep 1:19seq.
1 Jn 3:2

Faithfulness to Christ and love of Christ

6 This is a great joy to you, even though for a short time yet you must bear all sorts of 7 trials; ·so that the worth of your faith, more valuable than gold, which is perishable even if it has been tested by fire, may be proved—to your praise and glory and 8 honour when Jesus Christ is revealed. ·You have not seen him, yet you love him;
and still without seeing him you believe in him and so are already filled with a joy 9 so glorious that it cannot be described; ·and you are sure of the goal of your faith, that is, the salvation of your souls. [f]

Jn 16:20
Heb 12:11
Jm 1:2–3
Ml 3:2–3
1 Co 3:13
·Rm 2:7
1 Jn 4:20

The hope of the prophets

10 This salvation was the subject of the search and investigation of the prophets who 11 spoke of the grace you were to receive, ·searching out the time and circumstances for which the Spirit of Christ, [g] bearing witness in them, was revealing the sufferings 12 of Christ and the glories to follow them. ·It was revealed to them that it was for

Ac 11:27m
Ac 1:7*i*;2:23*o*
Is 52:13–53:12
Mt 13:16–17par.
Lk 18:31e

1 a. The world belongs to God (Ps 24:1); human beings live there as passing aliens (Lv 25:23) because at their death they must leave it (1 Ch 29:10–15; Ps 39:12seq.; 119:19). After the revelation of the resurrection of the dead (2 M 7:9c) this theme receives its complement: our true homeland is in heaven (Ph 3:20; Col 3:1–4; Heb 11:8–16; 13:14). On earth we live in exile (paroikia, the word from which 'parish' comes, 1:17; 2 Co 5:1–8) in the midst of a gentile world whose vices we must avoid (1 P 2:11; 4:2–4) just as the Jews of the Dispersion did.

b. Dispersion, Diaspora: convert Jews, Jm 1:1b; or simply Christians living among gentiles, 1 P 5:9.

c. Cf. Heb 9:18seq. The people promise to obey God's commandments (v. 7) and, to seal the covenant, Moses sprinkles them with the blood of the victims (v. 8). On the Christian use of this text with reference to the blood of Christ, see Mt 26:28; Heb 9:18seq.

d. The blessing formula inherited from the OT (Gn 14:19–20h; Lk 1:68; Rm 1:25; 2 Co 11:31), has become Christian as in Rm 9:5; 2 Co 1:3; Ep 1:3, and the benefits for which God is thanked with praises are tied to the person of Christ, most prominently his resurrection, Rm 1:4–5c.

e. The last age, the end of history, has begun; it will be completed by the 'appearance', or second coming of Jesus, the parousia, vv. 7,13; 4:13; 5:1; see 1 Co 1:7–8e.

f. Amid their persecutions, v. 8; 2:12,19; 3:13–17; 4:12–19, Christians draw from their faith in Christ and their love for him the joyful certainty that God is storing up salvation for them (for souls, i.e. persons, 1:22; 2:11; see 1 Co 15:44w).

g. The role of the prophets was to announce the mystery of Christ, v. 10. Their inspiration is attributed to the Spirit of Christ, see Lk 24:27,44; 1 Co 10:1–11,6d; just as is the preaching of the apostles, v. 12. Thus the unity of the two covenants is highlighted.

your sake and not their own that they were acting as servants delivering the Rm 16:25† message which has now been announced to you by those who preached to you the Ep 3:10+ gospel through the Holy Spirit sent from heaven. Even the angels long to catch a glimpse of these things.

The demands of the new life
Holiness of the newly baptised

Lk 12:35–40 Your minds, then, must be sober and ready for action; put all your hope in the 13
grace brought to you by the revelation of Jesus Christ. ·Do not allow yourselves 14
Rm 6:19 to be shaped by the passions of your old ignorance, [h] ·but as obedient children, be 15
Is 43:1 yourselves holy in all your activity, [i] after the model of the Holy One who calls us,
Mt 5:48 since scripture says, 'Be holy, for I am holy.' ·And if you address as Father him 16, 17
Ac 9:13g who judges without favouritism according to each individual's deeds, live out the 1 Jn 3:3 time of your exile here in reverent awe. ·For you know that the price of your 18
Lv 19:2;17:1a ransom from the futile way of life handed down from your ancestors was paid, not Heb 11:6c in anything perishable like silver or gold, ·but in precious blood as of a blameless 19
Dt 10:17f and spotless lamb, Christ. [j] ·He was marked out before the world was made, and 20
2 Co 5:6 was revealed at the final point of time for your sake. ·Through him you now have 21
Is 52:3 faith in God, who raised him from the dead and gave him glory for this very 1 Co 6:20;7:23 purpose—that your faith and hope should be in God. [k]

Regeneration by the Word

Jn 1:29v Since by your obedience to the truth you have purified yourselves so that you can 22
Rm 3:24–25,24j experience the genuine love of brothers, love each other intensely from the heart; [l]
Rv 5:9 for your new birth was not from any perishable seed but from imperishable 23
Jn 17:24 seed, the living and enduring Word of God. [m] ·For all humanity is grass, and 24
Rm 1:4c;1:16h; all its beauty like the wild flower's. As grass withers, the flower fades, ·but the Word 25 8:11g of the Lord remains for ever. And this Word is the Good News that has been Ga 4:4 brought to you.
Heb 1:2
·Jn 17:17
Rm 1:5d
1:3
Jm 1:18
1 Jn 3:9;5:1
Dn 6:27
Jn 3:11e
·Is 40:6–8

Jm 1:21 2 Rid yourselves, then, of all spite, deceit, hypocrisy, envy and carping criticism. 1
1 Co 3:2 Like new-born babies all your longing should be for milk—the unadulterated 2 spiritual milk—which will help you to grow up to salvation, [n] ·at any rate if you 3 Ps 34:8 have tasted that the Lord is good.

The new priesthood

Ex 19:23 [b]He is the living stone, rejected by human beings but chosen by God and precious 4
Mt 21:42par. to him; set yourselves close to him ·so that you, too, may be living stones making a 5
Ac 4:11 spiritual house as a holy priesthood to offer the spiritual sacrifices made acceptable
Ep 2:20–22 to God through Jesus Christ. ·As scripture says: Now I am laying a stone in Zion, 6
Ex 19:6+ a chosen, precious cornerstone and no one who relies on this will be brought to ·Rm 1:9f disgrace. ·To you believers it brings honour. But for unbelievers, it is rather a stone 7
Is 28:16 which the builders rejected that became a cornerstone, ·a stumbling stone, a rock to 8
Rm 9:33;10:11 trip people up. They stumble over it because they do not believe in the Word; it
Ps 118:22 was the fate in store for them. [c]
Is 8:14seq.

Ex 19:5–6+ But you [d] are a chosen race, a kingdom of priests, a holy nation, a people to be a 9
Is 43:20–21 personal possession to sing the praises of God who called you out of the darkness
Ac 26:18 into his wonderful light. ·Once you were a non-people and now you are the People 10
Rm 3:24j of God; once you were outside his pity; now you have received pity.
Ep 1:14o
Col 1:12–13
Ho 1:6–9; 2:3,25

The obligations of Christians: towards unbelievers

Gn 23:4 I urge you, my dear friends, as strangers and nomads, [e] to keep yourselves free 11
Ps 39:12 from the disordered natural inclinations that attack the soul. ·Always behave 12
Heb 11:13 honourably among gentiles [f] so that they can see for themselves what moral lives
·Ga 5:24 you lead, and when the day of reckoning comes, give thanks to God for the things
Jm 4:1 which now make them denounce you as criminals.
Mt 5:16
Ex 3:16h
Is 10:3

Towards civil authority

Rm 13:1–7
Tt 3:1

13 For the sake of the Lord, accept the authority of every human institution: [g] the 14 emperor, as the supreme authority, ·and the governors as commissioned by him to 15 punish criminals and praise those who do good. ·It is God's will that by your good 16 deeds you should silence the ignorant talk of fools. ·You are slaves of no one except God, so behave like free people, and never use your freedom as a cover for Ga 5:13
Jude 4
17 wickedness. ·Have respect for everyone and love for your fellow-believers; fear Pr 24:21
God and honour the emperor. Mt 22:21par.

Towards masters

18 Slaves, you should obey your masters respectfully, not only those who are kind Ep 6:5–8+ 19 and reasonable but also those who are difficult to please. ·You see, there is merit [h] 3:14;4:14
if, in awareness of God, you put up with the pains of undeserved punishment; Jm 5:7–11 20 but what glory is there in putting up with a beating after you have done something wrong? The merit in the sight of God is in putting up with it patiently when you are punished for doing your duty.

21 This, in fact, is what you were called to do, because Christ suffered [i] for you and Mt 11:29;16:2
22 left an example for you to follow in his steps. [j] ·He had done nothing wrong, and 2 Th 3:7b
23 had spoken no deceit. ·He was insulted and did not retaliate with insults; when he Jn 8:46
24 was suffering he made no threats but put his trust in the upright judge. ·He was Is 53:9
bearing our sins in his own body on the cross, so that we might die to our sins and Mt 5:39;26:62 25 live for uprightness; through his bruises you have been healed. ·You had gone astray Rm 12:19 like sheep [k] but now you have returned to the shepherd and guardian of Is 53: 9,12 your souls. Rm 6:11,18
2 Co 5:21
Is 53:5,6
Ezk 34:1a

h. They had crossed over from ignorance to knowledge of God, Ps 78:6; Jr 10:25; 1 Th 4:5, and their behaviour, 1 P 1:18; Ep 4:17–19, had thereby been completely transformed.

i. All must imitate the holiness of God (Lv 19:2). It is by loving others (cf. Lv 19:15), explains Jesus, that the Christian does that, is distinguished from gentiles, and becomes a child of God (Mt 5:43–48 and par.). But whence comes the strength to do this? The apostolic tradition reverses the situation and understands that it is because we are children of God (1:23m) that we can imitate God (1:14–16; Ep 5:1seq.; 1 Jn 3:2–10), for the God who is love (1 Jn 4:8) becomes the principle of our activity. Paul sees in this imitation of God the restoration of the work of creation (Ep 4.24; Col 3: 10–13).

j. Or 'by the precious blood of the Christ, this spotless lamb'.

k. The redemption, Rm 3:25k, by the blood of Christ (Mt 26:28i; Rv 1:5; 5:9) and the resurrection were the outcome of the eternal plan of the Father, 1 P 1:20, who in this way consecrated his new people, the believers, see 1 Th 1:7; 2:10,13. In 1:13–21 there are hints of a baptismal catechesis or even baptismal liturgy.

l. var. 'from a pure heart'.

m. Or 'the Word of the living and enduring God'. Seed of life, the Word of God is the principle of our divine rebirth and gives us the power to act according to the will of God, 1:22–25; Jn 1:12seq.; Jm 1:18n; cf. 1 P 2:13seq.; 5:18, because it is endowed with power, 1 Co 1:18; 1 Th 2:13; Heb 4:12. For Jm the Word is still the Law of Moses, 1:25; for 1 P it is the gospel-preaching, 1 P 1:25 (cf. Mt 13:18–23p); for Jn it is the Son of God in person, 1:1a. Paul sees in the Spirit the principle which makes us the children of God, Rm 6:4a, but the Spirit is the dynamism of the Word.

2 a. Birth, 1:23m, is followed by growth, due also to the Word on which Christians feed so avidly.

b. The allusions are to Ex 19, and the covenant constituting Israel a holy people, at Sinai, though the people were forbidden to go near the mountain itself. The new holy people are founded on another Rock, the living stone, to which they may, as a holy priesthood, come close. Instead of the sacrifices which sealed the old covenant, Ex 24:5–8, Christians offer spiritual sacrifices, 1 P 2:5. • The imagery of growth gives way to that of building. Jesus himself had, Mt 21:42 and par., compared himself to the stone rejected, Ps 118:22, and then chosen by God, Is 28:16. Christians, living stones, v. 5, like Christ, v. 4, are built into a spiritual dwelling, 1 Co 3:16–17; 2 Co 6:16; Ep 2:20–22, where they pay God worship worthy of him, Jn 2:21i; Rm 1:9g; Heb 7:27g.

c. lit. 'to this indeed they were appointed'. By rejecting the gospel the Jews have lost their prerogatives, which have been transferred to Christians, 3:9; Ac 28:26–28; cf. Jn 12:37seq. These texts need to be completed by Rm 11:32; 1 Tm 2:4; and this text does not prove the final, eschatological rejection of the Jews.

d. Another series of biblical allusions gives to the Church the titles of the chosen people, to underline its relationship with God and its responsibility in the world, see Rv 1:6; 5:10; 20:6. By belonging to Christ this nation gains a unity which defies all classification, see Ga 3:28; Rv 5:9.

e. The quotation from Ps 39:12 also occurs in Heb 11:13 and may have been in regular use among early Christian teachers as a conventional reminder that the Christian's life on earth is to be lived as a life of exile. But the reference here may be only to the readers, as living 'in the Dispersion' surrounded by gentiles, see 1:1,17; Ph 3:20; Col 3:1–4.

f. By belonging to another city, 1:1a, Christians are not freed from all earthly obligations. Their condition as children of God, citizens of heaven, imposes on them numerous duties which will gain for them the good opinion of their detractors, vv. 12,15.

g. Or 'every human creature'. In both versions opposition to the gentile idea of the divinised monarch may be perceived. The whole of the following passage, 2:13–3:12, is addressed to various social categories, cf. Ep 5:22–6:9; Col 3:18–4:1; Ti 2:1–10.

h. add. 'in the sight of God', cf. v. 20.

i. var. 'died', cf. 3:18.

j. The 'grace' of putting up with injustice, vv. 19–20, is based on the example of Christ, see Jn 13:15; 1 Co 11:1; Ph 2:5; 2 Th 3:7b. vv. 21–25, with their allusions to Is 53, could come from a hymn. Christians, ill-treated, should remember Jesus crucified for our sins, 3:18; Ac 2:23, innocent and patient, Lk 23:41; Jn 8:46; 2 Co 5:21; Heb 4:15.

k. var. 'you were like stray sheep'. These sheep are now in the flock of which Jesus is the shepherd, 5:2–4; Jn 10, and the episkopos, the inspector or overseer, cf. Ti 1:5.

In marriage

Gn 3:16d
Ep 5:22–24
Col 3:18
1:25
1 Co 7:12–16
Is 3:16seq.+
1 Tm 2:9–15

3 In the same way, you wives should be obedient to your husbands. Then if there 1 are some husbands who do not believe the Word, they may find themselves won over, without a word spoken, by the way their wives behave, ·when they see 2 the reverence and purity of your way of life. ·Your adornment should be not an 3 exterior one, consisting of braided hair or gold jewellery or fine clothing, ·but the 4 interior disposition of the heart, consisting in the imperishable quality of a gentle and peaceful spirit, so precious in the sight of God. ·That was how the holy women 5 of the past dressed themselves attractively—they hoped in God and were submis-Gn 18:12 sive to their husbands; ·like Sarah, who was obedient to Abraham, and called him 6
Ga 4:28 her lord. You are now her children, as long as you live good lives free from fear and worry.

Ep 5:25–33
Col 3:19

In the same way, husbands must always treat their wives with consideration in 7 their life together, respecting a woman as one who, though she may be the weaker partner, is equally an heir[a] to the generous gift of life. This will prevent anything from coming in the way of your prayers.

Love the brothers

Rm 12:14–18
Mt 5:38seq., 43seq.
Lk 6:28

Finally:[b] you should all agree among yourselves and be sympathetic; love the 8 brothers, have compassion and be self-effacing. ·Never repay one wrong with 9 another, or one abusive word with another; instead, repay with a blessing. That is what you are called to do, so that you inherit a blessing. ·For 10

Ps 34:12–16

Who among you delights in life,
longs for time to enjoy prosperity?
Guard your tongue from evil,
your lips from any breath of deceit.
Turn away from evil and do good, seek peace and pursue it. 11
For the eyes of the Lord are on the upright, 12
his ear turned to their cry.
But the Lord's face is set against those who do evil.

In persecution

Mt 5:10
Is 8:12
Pr 3:25
Mt 10:26–31
Is 8:13

No one can hurt you if you are determined to do only what is right; ·and blessed 13, 14 are you if you have to suffer for being upright. Have no dread of them; have no fear.[c] ·Simply proclaim[d] the Lord[e] Christ holy in your hearts, and always have 15 your answer ready for people who ask you the reason for the hope that you have.
But give it with courtesy and respect and with a clear conscience, so that those 16 who slander your good behaviour in Christ may be ashamed of their accusations.
And if it is the will of God that you should suffer, it is better to suffer for doing 17 right than for doing wrong.

The resurrection and the descent into hell[f]

2:21–24
Is 53:11
Ac 3:14i
Rm 5:6;6:10
Heb 9:26–28
Rm 1:3–4,4c
2 P 3:9
Gn 7:7
2 P 2:5
Rm 6:4seq.,4a
Col 2:12–13
Heb 10:22seq.
1 Co 15:24p
Ac 2:33t
Ep 1:20–21
Col 2:15m

Christ himself died once and for all for sins,[g] the upright for the sake of the guilty, 18 to lead us to God. In the body he was put to death, in the spirit he was raised to life, and, in the spirit, he went to preach to the spirits in prison.[h] ·They refused to 19, 20 believe long ago, while God patiently waited to receive them, in Noah's time when the ark was being built. In it only a few, that is eight souls, were saved through water. ·It is the baptism corresponding to[i] this water which saves you now—not 21
the washing off of physical dirt[j] but the pledge[k] of a good conscience given to God through the resurrection of Jesus Christ, ·who has entered heaven and is at God's 22 right hand, with angels, ruling forces and powers subject to him.[l]

The break with sin

2:21;3:18

4 As Christ has undergone bodily suffering, you too should arm yourselves with 1
the same conviction, that anyone who has undergone bodily suffering has broken with sin, •because for the rest of life on earth that person is ruled not by human passions but only by the will of God. •You spent quite long enough in the past living the sort of life that gentiles choose to live, behaving in a debauched way, giving way to your passions, drinking to excess, having wild parties and drunken orgies and sacrilegiously worshipping false gods. •So people are taken aback that you no longer hurry off with them to join this flood which is rushing down to ruin, [a] and then abuse you for it. •They will have to answer for it before the judge who is to judge the living and the dead. •And this was why the gospel was brought to the dead as well, [b] so that, though in their bodies they had undergone the judgement that faces all humanity, in their spirit they might enjoy the life of God.

Rm 6:2,7 Rm 7:14seq. 1 Jn 2:16–17 Tt 3:3 Ep 4:17–18 Rm 1:29q

Ac 10:42 2 Tm 4:1 3:19h Rm 1:9f 2 Co 5:5+

The revelation of Christ is close

The end of all things is near, [c] so keep your minds calm and sober for prayer. Above all preserve an intense love for each other, since love covers over many a sin. •Welcome each other into your houses without grumbling. •Each one of you has received a special grace, so, like good stewards responsible for all these varied graces of God, put it at the service of others. [d] •If anyone is a speaker, let it be as the words of God, [e] if anyone serves, [f] let it be as in strength granted by God; so that in everything God may receive the glory, through Jesus Christ, since to him alone belong all glory and power for ever and ever. [g] Amen.

1:5–7;4:17 2 Co 6:2a Tb 12:9 Jm 5:20i Rm 12:6–8 1 Co 12:4–11 Lk 12:42

1 Co 10:31 Rm 9:5;16:27n

Suffering for Christ

My dear friends, do not be taken aback at the testing by fire which is taking place among you, as though something strange were happening to you; •but in so far as you share in the sufferings of Christ, be glad, so that you may enjoy a much greater gladness when his glory is revealed. [h] •If you are insulted for bearing Christ's name, blessed are you, for on you rests the Spirit of God, [i] the Spirit of glory.

1:7 Mt 5:11–12 Rm 5:3–5 Ph 3:10–11h •Jm 1:2–3 •1:21 Col 3:4 •Is 11:2 LXX

3 a. '(she) is equally an heir', var. 'you are equally heirs'. 'the generous gift', var. 'the varied and generous gift'. Husband and wife have received the same gift from God which demands mutual respect and devotion in love, cf. Ep 5:33; Col 3:19, and makes shared prayer possible and effective.

b. This last exhortation sums up all the others: brotherhood, 2:17, union of hearts, see Rm 12:9–13; forgiveness of enemies, Mt 5:44 and par.; Rm 12:14,17–21; 1 Th 5:15.

c. om. 'or to worry about them'.

d. lit. 'sanctify'.

e. 'Lord'; var. 'God'. 'hope', add. 'and faith'. • Christians bear witness to their adherence to Christ, cf. Lk 12:11–12; 1 Tm 6:12–15; 2 Tm 4:17, before gentiles who have no hope, Ep 2:12; 1 Th 4:13. The opportunity occurs through local persecutions.

f. This paragraph, 3:18–4:6, contains the elements of an ancient profession of faith: death of Christ, descent to hell, resurrection, enthronement at the right hand of God, and judgement of the living and the dead.

g. om. 'to God'.

h. Probably alludes to the descent of Christ to Hades between his death and resurrection, Mt 12:40; Ac 2:24,31; Rm 10:7; Ep 4:9; Heb 13:20. He went there 'in spirit', or 'according to the Spirit', Rm 1:4c, his 'flesh' being dead on the cross, Rm 8:3seq. The 'spirits in prison' to whom he 'preached' (or 'proclaimed') salvation are identified by some writers as the chained demons mentioned in the Book of Enoch (some texts are corrected so as to make Enoch, and not Christ, preach to them). These spirits have thus been put under the authority of Christ as Kyrios, v. 22, cf. Ep 1:21seq.; 4:9; Ph 2:8–10, and this subjection to him is to be confirmed later on, 1 Co 15:24seq. Others interpret this passage of the souls of the dead who, punished at the time of the Flood, are nevertheless called by the 'patience of God' to life, cf. 4:6. Mt 27:52seq. has a similar allusion to Christ's deliverance, between his death and his resurrection, of the 'holy ones', that is the upright who were waiting for him, cf. Heb 11:39seq.; 12:23, to enter the eschatological 'holy city'.

i. lit. '. . . that is the antitype to', the reality prefigured by the 'type' (see 1 Co 10:6d). In this case the type is the passing through the waters by means of the ark.

j. As so few were saved from drowning, the Flood is taken to symbolise the OT purificatory rites that were, almost without exception, limited to an external 'bodily' purity, whereas the baptism by which a person is reborn can have no limits to its efficacy.

k. The 'pledge' (alternative translation: 'the request') made by a convert at his baptism.

l. 'Ruling forces and powers' referred to civil dignitaries, Lk 12:11; 20:20; Ti 3:1. The court of heaven is compared to an earthly court, Ep 3:10; Col 2:10. These 'ruling forces' had charge especially of judicial matters, which explains the role of accuser which Satan had before God, Jb 1; Zc 3:1–5; Rv 12:7–12. Conversely, Jesus will be called our 'advocate' with God, 1 Jn 2:1–2.

4 a. lit. 'this flood of un-salvation', by contrast to the saving Flood, cf. 3:20. Alternative translation: 'this flood of debauchery'.

b. For the proclamation of the gospel to the dead, see 3:19h.

c. The closeness of the parousia is a spur to the Christian, 1:5–7; 4:17; 5:10; Mt 24:42; 1 Co 16:22i; Jm 5:8d.

d. All the gifts (lit. 'charismata') are for the service of the Church as a whole, 3:7; 1 Co 12:1–11 and notes; cf. 1 Co 4:1–2.

e. This includes the inspired utterances of prophecy and glossolalia, see Ac 2:4g; 11:27m; 1 Co 14:2–19, but also the functions of teaching and exhorting, Rm 12:7–8, and even the preaching or defence of the gospel.

f. Presumably the various forms of help, Rm 12:7, and particularly liturgical service.

g. This doxology is the only one in the NT which is addressed to God through Jesus Christ and then to Christ himself, see Rm 16:27m.

h. Those who through baptism have received a share in the sufferings of Christ, 2 Co 1:5,7; Ph 3:10, are assured also of a share in his glory, 1:11; 5:1; Rm 8:17; 2 Co 4:17; Ph 3:11.

i. add. 'and power'; add. at end of verse '(the Spirit) blasphemed by them but honoured by you'. A new trinitarian formula, 1:2c.

None of you should ever deserve to suffer for being a murderer, a thief, a 15
Ac 11:26*l* criminal or an informer; ·but if any one of you should suffer for being a Christian, 16
then there must be no shame but thanksgiving to God for bearing this name. ·The 17
Jr 25:29 time has come for the judgement to begin at the household of God; and if it begins
Lk 23:31
Pr 11:31 LXX with us, what will be the end for those who refuse to believe God's gospel? ·If it is 18 hard for the upright to be saved, what will happen to the wicked and to sinners?
So even those whom God allows to suffer should commit themselves to a Creator 19 who is trustworthy, and go on doing good.[j]

Instructions: to the elders

Ac 11:30p 5 I urge the elders[a] among you, as a fellow-elder myself and a witness[b] to the 1 sufferings of Christ, and as one who is to have a share in the glory that is to be Jn 21:15–17 revealed:[c] ·give a shepherd's care to the flock of God that is entrusted to you: 2
Ac 20:28*q*
Col 3:4 watch over it, not simply as a duty but gladly, as God wants;[d] not for sordid money, 1 Tm 3:8 but because you are eager to do it. ·Do not lord it over the group which is in your 3
Tt 1:7
2 Co 1:24 charge, but be an example for the flock.[e] ·When the chief shepherd[f] appears, you 4
Ezk 34:1a
1 Co 4:16+; will be given the unfading crown of glory.
Tt 2:7–8

Is 40:10–11
1 Co 9:25+ To the faithful

1 Jn 2:12–14 In the same way, younger people,[g] be subject to the elders. Humility towards one 5 Jb 22:29 another must be the garment you all wear constantly, because God opposes the
Pr 3:34 LXX
Jn 13:14 proud but accords his favour to the humble. ·Bow down, then, before the power of 6
Ph 2:8–9
Jm 4:6–10 God now, so that he may raise you up in due time; ·unload all your burden on to 7
Ps 55:22
Si 2:1–18 him, since he is concerned about you. ·Keep sober and alert, because your enemy 8
Mt 6:25seq. the devil[h] is on the prowl like a roaring lion, looking for someone to devour.
·Ps 22:13
1 Co 16:1 Stand up to him, strong in faith and in the knowledge that it is the same kind of 9
Ep 6:11
1 Th 2:14 suffering that the community of your brothers throughout the world is undergoing.
Rm 8:18
2 Co 4:17 You will have to suffer only for a little while: the God of all grace who called you 10
1 Th 2:12;5:24 to eternal glory in Christ will restore you, he will confirm, strengthen and support
4:11
Rv 1:8;11:17 you. ·His[i] power lasts for ever and ever. Amen. 11

Last words. Greetings

Ac 15:22x I write these few words to you through Silvanus, who is a trustworthy brother, to 12 encourage you and attest that this is the true grace of God. Stand firm in it!

2 Jn 1b Your sister in Babylon, who is with you among the chosen,[j] sends you greetings; 13
Rv 17:5
Ac 12:12d so does my son, Mark.

2 Co 13:12d Greet one another with a kiss of love. 14

Peace to you all who are in Christ.

j. Here God is trustworthy, 1 Co 1:9f, as Creator, Gn 1:1a, which implies his omnipotence and his command of events. Persecuted Christians can base their unshakeable hope on this thought, cf. Ps 31:6; Lk 23:46.

5 a. These elders are to be identified with the 'presbyters' of Ti 1:5c, see 1 P 5:5g. But the term keeps also its etymological sense, contrasting with the 'younger men' of 5:5.

b. Not necessarily a claim as apostle, 1:1, to have been present at the Passion of Christ; it could also be a claim to have borne witness to Christ by his own sufferings.

c. At the parousia, see 1:5,13; 4:7,17; 5:10.

d. om. 'watch over it' and 'as God wants'.

e. om. 'over the group which is in your charge'. Jesus had already warned his disciples against the instinct to domineer, Mt 20:25–28 and par.; 23:8; cf. 2 Co 1:24; 4:5; 1 Th 2:7.

f. The figure of the shepherd, for Jesus, is frequent in the later writings in the NT, Jn 10:11f; Heb 13:20; and is used in 1 P 2:25. Only here is he called the chief shepherd, when the work of a shepherd has been defined in a context of service.

g. Possibly young people (often turbulent, especially in groups) as opposed to adults, cf. Ep 6:1–4; Col 3:20–21; 1 Tm 4:12; 5:1; possibly the newly baptised of the body of the faithful as opposed to the 'elders', 5:1.

h. Or the 'Accuser' according to the etymology which corresponds to the role of prosecuting counsel here attributed to the devil, see 3:22*l*; Mt 4:1c; 24:42,45w.

i. add. 'glory and'.

j. The title 'chosen one', in the feminine, see 2 Jn 1,13, designates the Church of the chosen, 1:1–2; 2:9. • 'Babylon' designates Rome, see Rv 14:8; 16:19; 17:5.

2 PETER

THE SECOND LETTER OF PETER

Greetings

1 Simeon Peter, servant and apostle of Jesus Christ, to those who have received a faith as precious as our own, given through the saving justice of our God and
2 Saviour Jesus Christ.[a] ·Grace and peace be yours in abundance through the knowledge of our Lord.[b]

Ac 15:14+
Rm 1:17
‖Jude 2
Ph 3:8–10
Col 2:6

The generosity of God

3 By his divine power, he has lavished on us all the things we need for life and for true devotion, through the knowledge of him who has called us by his own glory
4 and goodness.[c] ·Through these,[d] the greatest and priceless promises have been lavished on us,[e] that through them[f] you should share the divine nature[g] and escape
5 the corruption rife in the world through disordered passion. ·With this in view, do your utmost to support your faith with goodness, goodness with understanding,
6 understanding with self-control, self-control with perseverance, perseverance 7 with devotion, ·devotion with kindness to the brothers, and kindness to the 8 brothers with love. ·The possession and growth of these qualities will prevent your 9 knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ from being ineffectual or unproductive. ·But without them,[h] a person is blind or short sighted, forgetting how the sins of the 10 past were washed away. ·Instead of this, brothers, never allow your choice or 11 calling to waver; then there will be no danger of your stumbling, ·for in this way you will be given the generous gift of entry to the eternal kingdom[i] of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

Ep 3:16–19
Jn 1:14n
Jn 1:12
Ac 17:28
2 Co 3:18
Jn 1:10g
1 Jn 2:15seq.; 5:19
Ga 5:22+
1:2
2 Th 1:11
1 Jn 3:6d
•Lk 1:33

The apostolic witness

12 That is why I will always go on recalling the same truths[j] to you, even though you 13 already know them and are firmly fixed in these truths. ·I am sure it is my duty, as 14 long as I am in this tent, to keep stirring you up with reminders, ·since I know the time for me to lay aside this tent is coming soon, as our Lord Jesus Christ made

‖Jude 5
1 Jn 2:21
Is 38:12
Ws 9:15
2 Co 5:1

1 a. Or 'of our God and of the Saviour Jesus Christ'.

b. var. 'through knowing God and Jesus (or Jesus Christ) our Lord'. All through this letter it is Christ who is proposed as the object of a Christian's knowledge, 1:3,8; 2:20; 3:18, cf. Ho 2:22v; Jn 17:3; Ph 3:10. This knowledge includes moral discernment and the practice of virtue, vv. 5–6,8.

c. 'glory' here refers to the miracles done by Jesus as a sign of his divinity, see Jn 1:14n, but in particular it refers to the transfiguration, 2 P 1:16–18. 'goodness' could refer to his powers both natural and miraculous. These two divine attributes give all that is needed for a life in accord with the demands of piety, 1 Tm 4:7d.

d. The 'glory' and 'goodness' of Christ, the links between the call received and the promised future, cf. 1 Tm 4:8.

e. 'us', var. 'you'. • What has been promised is the 'Day of the Lord', see 3:4,9–10,12–13.

f. i.e. as a result of the glory and goodness of Christ.

g. An expression of Gk origin, unique in the Bible and surprising by its impersonal tone. The author expresses by it the fullness of divine life in Christ, the communication by God of a life which is his own. For the basic idea see e.g. Jn 1:12; 14:20; 15:4–5; Rm 6:5; 1 Co 1:9f; 1 Jn 1:3b. It is one of the starting-points for the doctrine of 'deification' in the Gk Fathers.

h. This is the same sort of warning against Gnosticism that is given in the Johannine letters, see 1 Jn 1:8f. Gnostics claimed to know God without keeping his commandments.

i. This, like 1:4; 3:4,9–10, looks forward to the parousia. The kingdom of Christ is also that of the Father, Ep 5:5; 2 Tm 4:1; Rv 11:15.

j. Cf. 1 P 1:10–12. The reminder concerns the foundations of Christian faith and the parousia: Christ and the apostles, vv. 14–18, then the prophets, vv. 19–21.

Jn 21:18–19 clear to me. ·And I shall take great care that after my own departure you will still 15 have a means to recall these things to mind.

1 Co 15:23n When we told you about the power and the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, we 16
Lk 9:31–32par. Jn 1:14 were not slavishly repeating [k] cleverly invented myths; no, we had seen his majesty with our own eyes. [l] ·He was honoured and glorified by God the Father, when a 17 Mt 17:5par. voice came to him from the transcendent Glory, This is my Son, the Beloved; he enjoys my favour. ·We ourselves heard this voice from heaven, when we were with 18 him on the holy mountain. [m]

The value of prophecy

So we have confirmation of the words of the prophets; [n] and you will be right to pay 19 attention to it as to a lamp for lighting a way through the dark, until the dawn
Lk 1:7–8 Rv 2:28t comes and the morning star rises in your minds. ·At the same time, we must 20
Ac 3:21 2 Tm 3:16 recognise that the interpretation of scriptural prophecy is never a matter for the 1 P 1:10–12 individual. ·For no prophecy ever came from human initiative. When people spoke 21 for God it was the Holy Spirit that moved them. [o]

False teachers [a]

Dt 13:2–6 3:3c Mt 24:24 ‖Jude 4 Rm 3:24j Ac 9:2b Is 52:5 Rm 2:24

2 As there were false prophets in the past history of our people, so you too will 1 have your false teachers, who will insinuate their own disruptive views and, by disowning the Lord who bought them freedom, will bring upon themselves speedy destruction. ·Many will copy their debauched behaviour and the Way of Truth will 2 be brought into disrepute on their account. ·In their greed they will try to make a 3 profit out of you with untrue tales. But the judgement made upon them long ago is not idle, and the destruction awaiting them is forever on the watch. [b]

Lessons of the past

Gn 6:17 Mt 8:29 ‖Jude 6 Ws 10:4 1 P 3:20 Gn 19 Ws 10:6–8 Si 16:7–8 Mt 10:15par. ‖Jude 7 2 Th 1:5–10 Rm 2:6b Jude 8

When angels sinned, God did not spare them: [c] he sent them down into the 4 underworld and consigned them to the dark abyss to be held there until the Judgement. ·He did not spare the world in ancient times: he saved only Noah, 5 the preacher of uprightness, along with seven others, when he sent the Flood over a world of sinners. ·He condemned the cities of Sodom and Gemorrah by reducing 6 them to ashes [d] as a warning to future sinners; ·but rescued Lot, an upright man 7 who had been sickened by the debauched way in which these vile people behaved—for that upright man, living among them, was outraged in his upright soul by the 8 crimes that he saw and heard every day. ·All this shows that the Lord is well able to 9 rescue the good from their trials, and hold the wicked for their punishment until the Day of Judgement, ·especially those who follow the desires of their corrupt 10 human nature and have no respect for the Lord's authority. [e]

The punishment to come

‖Jude 8–10 ‖Jude 12 Nb 22:2b ‖Jude 11 Rv 2:14–15 Nb 22:28–33 ‖Jude 12–13 Ps 49:12–14

Such self-willed people with no reverence are not afraid of offending against the glorious ones, [f] ·but the angels in their greater strength and power make no 11 complaint or accusation against them in the Lord's presence. ·But these people 12 speak evil of what they do not understand; they are like brute beasts, born only to be caught and killed, and like beasts they will be destroyed, being injured in return for the injuries they have inflicted. ·Debauchery even by day they make their 13 pleasure; [g] they are unsightly blots, and amuse themselves by their trickery even when they are sharing your table; ·with their eyes always looking for adultery, 14 people with an insatiable capacity for sinning, they will seduce any but the most stable soul. Where greed is concerned they are at their peak of fitness. They are under a curse. ·They have left the right path and wandered off to follow the path of 15 Balaam son of Bosor, [h] who set his heart on a dishonest reward, but soon had his fault pointed out to him: ·a dumb beast of burden, speaking with a human voice, 16 put a stop to the madness of the prophet.

People like this are dried-up springs, fogs swirling in the wind, and the gloom of 17 darkness is stored up for them. •With their high-sounding but empty talk they tempt back people who have scarcely[i] escaped from those who live in error, by playing on the disordered desires of their human nature and by debaucheries. ‖Jude 16

They may promise freedom[j] but are themselves slaves to corruption; because if Jn 8:34 anyone lets himself be dominated by anything, then he is a slave to it; •and anyone Rm 6:16–17 who has escaped the pollution of the world by coming to know our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, and who then allows himself to be entangled[k] and mastered by it a second time, ends up by being worse than he was before. •It would have Mt 12:45par.
been better for them never to have learnt the way of uprightness, than to learn it and then desert the holy commandment that was entrusted to them.[l] •What they 1 Co 11:2+ have done is exactly as the proverb rightly says: The dog goes back to its vomit and: Pr 26:11
As soon as the sow has been washed, it wallows in the mud.

The Day of the Lord; the prophets and the apostles

3 My dear friends, this is the second[a] letter I have written to you, trying to awaken in you by my reminders an unclouded understanding. •Remember ‖Jude 17 what was said in the past by the holy prophets and the command of the Lord and 1:18–20 Saviour given by your apostles.

False teachers

First of all, do not forget[b] that in the final days[c] there will come sarcastic scoffers 1:16;2:1
whose life is ruled by their passions. •'What has happened to the promise of his 1 Tm 4:1a coming?' they will say, 'Since our Fathers[d] died everything has gone on just as it ‖Jude 18 has since the beginning of creation!' •They deliberately ignore the fact that long Is 5:19 ago there were the heavens and the earth, formed out of water and through water Gn 1:2,6–9 by the Word of God,[e] •and that it was through these same factors that the world of Gn 7–9 those days was destroyed by the floodwaters. •It is the same Word which is Mt 24:38–39 reserving the present heavens and earth for fire, keeping them till the Day of Mt 3:12j Judgement and of the destruction of sinners. Rm 2:6b

But there is one thing, my dear friends, that you must never forget: that with the Lord, a day is like a thousand years, and a thousand years are like a day. •The Lord Ps 90:4
is not being slow in carrying out his promises, as some people think he is; rather is Si 35:19
he being patient with you, wanting nobody to be lost and everybody to be brought Hab 2:2–3 to repentance.[f] •The Day of the Lord will come like a thief, and then with a roar Lk 18:7
•Ezk 18:23+
Rm 2:4–5
1 P 3:20
Mt 24:43par.
1 Th 5:2

k. This is another warning against Gnostics who had a doctrine of the parousia based not on logical proofs, but on an elaborate mythological system, cf. 3:4seq. Peter and the apostles pass on facts of which they are eyewitnesses, see Lk 1:2; Ac 1:8k; 1 Jn 1:1–3, and which the Father himself has confirmed.

l. At the transfiguration.

m. 'holy mountain' should perhaps be taken as Zion, Ps 2:6; Is 11:9, or as a suggestion that the mountain of transfiguration was the antitype of Sinai.

n. The transfiguration is a preliminary glimpse of scriptural prophecy being fulfilled.

o. The way in which the inspiration of the scriptures by the Spirit, 2 Tm 3:15–16,16e, is mentioned suggests that the reading of scripture also is done under the guidance of the Spirit and the apostolic tradition.

2 a. All this passage 2:1 to 3:3 echoes Jude, although the two developments differ in details.

b. These false teachers have already been condemned, see Jude 4.

c. The antediluvian world.

d. om. 'to extinction'.

e. All these events show a stability in God's justice which will remain unchanged at the Last Judgement, vv. 10–22.

f. The angels. These false teachers usurp the right to judge them, which belongs to God alone, Rm 12:19; 1 P 2:23.

g. var. 'happy to give themselves up to debauchery in broad daylight'.

h. var. 'Beor', see Nb 22:5.

i. The reference is to the 'unstable souls' of 2:14; many of them copy the shameful behaviour of the false teachers, 2:2.

j. Faith in Christ begets right conduct and true liberty, Rm 6:15g; Jm 1:25o; 1 P 2:16. By contrast, the heretics, on the plea of liberty, absolve themselves from the moral law, see Jude 4. But sin is a slavery, see Jn 8:34; Rm 6:16–17.

k. This refers to those who have been seduced by the false teachers, not to the teachers themselves.

l. Better never to have known faith, Jude 3, with all its demands, than to abandon it.

3 a. Alludes probably to 1 P.

b. The prediction that follows seems to be based more on the teaching of the apostles than on OT prophecy, cf. Ac 20:29; 2 Tm 3:1–5. It fits into Jude 18 better than it fits here.

c. That heretics should exist is itself proof that the Last Days are near, Mt 24:24; Ac 20:29–31; 2 Th 2:3–4,9; 1 Tm 4:1.

d. The Christians of the first generation.

e. God created the world by his Word. His Word will play a similar part in the final catastrophe. God does not need to submit to the so-called laws of the universe.

f. God's mercy is an alternative explanation for the alleged delay of the parousia, cf. Ws 11:23seq.; 12:8d.

Mt 24:29o
Rv 20:11;21:1
the sky will vanish, the elements will catch fire and melt away, the earth and all that it contains will be burned up. [g]

Fresh call to holiness. Doxology

Since everything is coming to an end like this, what holy and saintly lives you 11
Ac 3:19–20 should be living ·while you wait for the Day of God to come, and try to hasten its 12
Is 34:4
Heb 12:27g coming: on that Day the sky will dissolve in flames and the elements melt in the heat. ·What we are waiting for, relying on his promises, is the new heavens and 13
Is 60:21;65:17;
66:22
Rm 8:19j new earth, where uprightness will be at home. ·So then, my dear friends, while you 14
Rv 21:1,27 are waiting, do your best to live blameless and unsullied lives so that he will find ‖Jude 24 you at peace. ·Think of our Lord's patience as your opportunity to be saved; our 15
1 Tm 1:15–16 brother Paul, who is so dear to us, told you this when he wrote to you with the wisdom that he was given. ·He makes this point too in his letters as a whole 16 wherever he touches on these things. In all his letters there are of course some passages which are hard to understand, [h] and these are the ones that uneducated and unbalanced people distort, in the same way as they distort the rest of scrip-Heb 2:1 ture [i]—to their own destruction. ·Since you have been forewarned about this, my 17
dear friends, be careful that you do not come to the point of losing the firm ground that you are standing on, carried away by the errors of unprincipled people.
Instead, continue to grow in the grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and 18
Rm 16:27n Saviour Jesus Christ. To him be glory, in time and eternity. Amen.

g. 'burned', corr.; 'uncovered' (Gk). This destruction of the world by fire was, in Graeco-Roman times, a common topic for philosophers, as it was also in Jewish apocalyptic writings and the documents of Qumran. Here all this traditional vocabulary is pressed into the service of the Christian message about the Day, see 1 Co 1:8e.

h. About the parousia, presumably, since that is the subject under discussion. But other questions also were debated in the churches where Paul's letters were known.

i. This comparison of the collection of letters, as already formed and known, with the rest of scripture, is one of the first indications that the Christian writings are comparable as scripture to the books of the OT; see 1 M 12:9c; 1 Th 5:27i.

1 JOHN

THE FIRST LETTER OF JOHN

INTRODUCTION

The Incarnate Word and sharing with the Father and the Son

1 1 Something which has existed since the beginning, 2:13;4:14 Jn 1:1–5;19:35 which we have heard, which we have seen with our own eyes, Lk 24:39 Jn 20:20
which we have watched and touched with our own hands, the Word of life [a]— Jn 1:1a;3:11e
this is our theme.
2 That life was made visible;
we saw it and are giving our testimony, 5:20 Jn 1:14n;15:27 declaring to you the eternal life, which was present to the Father and has been revealed to us.
3 We are declaring to you what we have seen and heard, Ac 4:20;26:16
so that you too may share [b] our life. Ac 2:42seq.
Our life is shared with the Father and with his Son Jesus Christ. 1 Co 1:9 4 We are writing this to you so that our [c] joy may be complete. Jn 15:11;16:22–24 2 Jn 12

I: TO WALK IN THE LIGHT

5 This is what we have heard from him 3:11
and are declaring to you:
God is light, and there is no darkness in him at all. Dn 2:22 Jn 8:12b
6 If we say that we share in God's [d] life 1 Tm 6:16 Jm 1:17 while we are living in darkness, we are lying, because we are not living the truth. Jn 3:21 7 But if we live in light,
as he is in light,

1 a. The Word of God was the source of life. Dt 4:1; 32:47; Mt 4:4; 5:20; Ph 2:16. Here the title of 'Word' is given to the Son of God with whom the apostles lived. 'Word of life' alludes to the wish of 1:3; 5:11–13; see Jn 1:1a,14i.

b. This union, and sharing of life, see 1 Co 1:9f; 2 P 1:4, is the idea most central to John's mysticism, Jn 14:20; 15:1–6; 17:11,20–26; union between all Christians results from the union created by Christ between each Christian and God. This union is referred to in different ways: a Christian 'lives in' God and God 'lives in' him, 2:5,6,24,27; 3:6,24; 4:12,13,15,16; a Christian is begotten by God, has new life from him, 2:29; 3:9; 4:7; 5:1,18; the Christian is from God, is his child, 3:10; 4:4–6; 5:19; the Christian knows God, 2:3,13,14; 3:6; 4:7,8 (on knowledge and presence, cf. Jn 14:17; 2 Jn 1:2). This union with God shows itself in a person's faith and in love for the brothers, see 1:7e; Jn 13:34u. The witness of the apostles is the tool of this union, v. 5; 2:7,24,25; 4:6; Jn 4:38; 17:20n; see Ac 1:8k,21,22.

c. 'our own', var. 'your'.

d. Union and sharing with God, 1:3b, who is light, 1:5; and love, 4:8,16, expresses itself in faith and fraternal love, 2:10,11; 3:10,17,23; 4:8,16.

we have a share in one another's life, [e] Mt 26:29par. Rm 3:24–25,24k Rv 1:5 and the blood of Jesus, his Son, cleanses us from all sin.

First condition: to break with sin

Pr 20:9 Qo 7:20 If we say, 'We have no sin,' 8
we are deceiving ourselves, and truth has no place in us; [f] Ps 32:1b Pr 28:13d Mt 6:12par. Jm 5:16+ if we acknowledge our sins, 9 he is trustworthy and upright, so that he will forgive our sins
and will cleanse us from all evil.
If we say, 'We have never sinned,' 10
we make him a liar,
and his word has no place in us.

3:6+ 2 My children, I am writing this to prevent you from sinning; 1
but if anyone does sin,
Jn 14:16 Rm 8:34 1 Tm 2:5 Heb 7:25;8:6b we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ, the upright.
•Ac 3:14j 4:10 Rm 3:25k Jn 4:42n He is the sacrifice to expiate our sins, 2 and not only ours,
but also those of the whole world.

Second condition: to keep the commandments, especially that of love

1:3b In this way we know 3 that we have come to know him, [a] 1:7e if we keep his commandments.
Jn 10:14g Whoever says, 'I know him' 4 without keeping his commandments,
4:20 is a liar,
3:19h Jn 8:32j and truth [b] has no place in him.
Jn 14:21,23 But anyone who does keep his word, 5 in such a one God's love truly reaches its perfection. [c]
This is the proof that we are in God.
Whoever claims to remain in such a person [d] 6
Jn 13:15,34 Ep 5:2 must act as he [e] acted.
2 Th 3:7b My dear friends, 7
this is not a new commandment I am writing for you, Lv 19:18+ Dt 6:5 Mt 22:37–40 but an old commandment that you have had from the beginning;
the old commandment is the message you have heard.
Jn 13:34u Yet in another way, I am writing a new commandment for you [f] 8
—and this is true for you, just as much as for him—
Rm 13:12 for darkness is passing away
Jn 1:5 Jn 8:12b and the true light is already shining.
Whoever claims to be in light 9
but hates his brother
is still in darkness.
Jn 12:35–36 Anyone who loves his brother remains in light 10
Pr 4:19 and there is in him nothing to make him fall away.
But whoever hates his brother is in darkness 11
and is walking about in darkness not knowing where he is going,
Mt 15:14par. because darkness has blinded him.

Third condition: detachment from the world

12 I am writing to you, children, because your sins have been forgiven through his name. 1:7;2:2 Ac 3:16*l* 1 Co 6:11 13 I am writing to you, fathers, because you have come to know the One who has existed since the beginning. 1:1 Jn 1:1
I am writing to you, young people, because you have overcome the Evil One.[e] Ep 6:16 14 I have written to you, children, because you have come to know the Father.
I have written to you, parents, because you have come to know the One who has existed since the beginning.
I have written to you, young people,
because you are strong,
and God's word remains in you, Jn 3:11e;5:38
and you have overcome the Evil One.
15 Do not love the world Jn 1:10g or what is in the world.
If anyone does love the world, Jm 4:4
the love of the Father finds no place in him, Jn 5:42 16 because everything there is in the world—disordered bodily desires, Pr 27:20 Mt 6:24par.
disordered desires of the eyes, pride in possession—[h] Jm 4:16
is not from the Father
but is from the world.
17 And the world, with all its disordered desires, 1 Co 7:31 1 P 4:2
is passing away.
But whoever does the will of God Mt 7:21 remains for ever. Pr 10:25 Is 40:8

Fourth condition: to be on guard against Antichrists

18 Children, this is the final hour; 1 Tm 4:1a you have heard that the Antichrist[i] is coming, 2 Th 2:4c 2 Jn 7 and now many Antichrists have already come;
from this we know that it is the final hour.

e. God is in Christians, 1:3b, as the principle of their new life. Since God is light, 1:5, uprightness, 2:29, and love, 4:8,16, whoever lives in union with God must live a life of light, virtue and love, and keep God's commandments, especially the commandment to love all human beings, 2:10,11; 3:10; 4:8,16. Faith and love are thus the visible evidence of true union with God, 1:6,7; 2:3,6; 3:6,10,17,24; 4:6,8,13,16,20.

f. This is possibly an allusion to the sect that called themselves 'spirituals', pneumatikoi, and who were the forerunners of the Gnostics of the second century. These looked down on other people as being either psychikoi or hylikoi (see 1 Co 15:44w). Jn is here speaking of transient failures, although union to God, who has taken sin away, 2:2; 3:5, entails a holy and sinless life, 3:3,6,9; 5:18.

2 a. This knowledge, Ho 2:22v, is faith, Jn 3:12g, and embraces a whole way of life, 3:23, 51, in such a way that conduct is the criterion by which life in Christ may be recognised, v. 5; 3:10; 4:13; 5:2.

b. add. 'of God'.

c. This refers more to God's love for us than to our love for him.

d. 'To be in', 'to remain in' are expressions characteristic of Jn, see Jn 6:56q.

e. lit. 'as that One'; Jesus is repeatedly referred to in this way, 3:3,5,7,16; 4:17; see Jn 2:21; 19:35.

f. This commandment is prepared for in the old Law, Lv 19:18, and was known to Christians from their first initiation, v. 7; 3:11, but it received the special stamp of Jesus Christ, Jn 13:34u.

g. The devil is still the Tempter as in Gn 3:1–6; Jb 1:6g, who incites human beings to wickedness, 1 Jn 3:8d. Christians, however, have 'known' the Son; the Son lives in them, 1:3b, and 'clothes' them in light, virtue and love, 1:7e; and as this protects them from sinning, 1 Jn 3:6,9, it constitutes their victory over the devil, 5:18; Jn 17:15, preventing them from sinning, 1 Jn 2:13–14, and over this transient world, 1 Jn 4:4; 5:4–5; cf. Mt 6:13; Jn 1:9f; 12:31; 14:30; 16:33; Ga 6:14; Jm 4:4.

h. Motives which dominate the 'world', sensuality, the lure of appearances, pride which comes from earthly possessions. The true realities are totally different, see 2 Co 4:18; Heb 11:1,3,27.

i. var. 'The Antichrist', 'an Antichrist'. • On this Enemy of the last times, of whom Jn here speaks in the plural, see 2 Th 2:3–4c. He sets himself against all authentic faith in Christ, Son of God, v. 22,4:2-3; cf. 5:5; Jn 1:18q.

2 Co 6:14–18
They have gone from among us, 19
but they never really belonged to us;[j]
1:3b
Jn 5:22j
if they had belonged to us, they would have stayed with us.
But this was to prove that not one of them belonged to us.
Lv 17:1a
Is 6:3g
Mk 1:24g
Jn 14:26r
2 Co 1:21
But you have been anointed[k] by the Holy One, 20
and have all received knowledge.[l]
I have written to you 21
2 P 1:12
2 Jn 1–2
not because you are ignorant of the truth, but because you are well aware of it,
3:19h
and because no lie can come from the truth.[m]
Who is the liar, 22
if not one who claims that Jesus is not the Christ?
2 Th 2:4c
This is the Antichrist, who denies both the Father and the Son.[n]
Whoever denies the Son cannot have the Father either; 23
Jn 14:7–9;
17:6g
whoever acknowledges the Son has the Father too.
Let what you heard in the beginning remain in you;[o] 24
as long as what you heard in the beginning remains in you, 1:3b
you will remain in the Son and in the Father.
Jn 5:24;
6:40,68;17:2
And the promise he made you himself 25
is eternal life.
So much have I written to you 26
about those who are trying to lead you astray.
2:20
But as for you, the anointing you received from him 27
remains in you,
Jr 31:34
Jn 6:45;14:26r
and you do not need anyone to teach you;[p]
since the anointing he gave you teaches you everything, and since it is true, not false,
remain in him just as it has taught you.
Therefore remain in him now, children, 28 4:17
so that when he appears we may be fearless
2 Th 1:9
and not shrink from him in shame
Mt 24:3b
1 Co 15:23o
at his coming.

II: TO LIVE AS GOD'S CHILDREN

If you know that he is upright 29
1:7e
you must recognise that everyone whose life is upright 1:3b
is a child of his.
3 You must see what great love the Father has lavished on us 1
Jn 1:12
Rm 8:14–17,
37–39
Ep 1:5
by letting us be called God's children—which is what we are![q]
Jn 15:21;16:3;
17:24–5
The reason why the world does not acknowledge us is that it did not acknowledge him.
My dear friends, we are already God's children, 2 but what we shall be in the future has not yet been revealed.
Rm 8:29
Ph 3:21
Col 3:4
We are well aware that when he appears
we shall be like him,
1 Co 13:12
2 Co 3:18h
Rv 22:4
because we shall see him as he really is.

First condition: to break with sin

Whoever treasures this hope of him 3 2:6
Mt 5:48+
purifies himself, to be as pure as he is.[b]

4 Whoever sins, acts wickedly, because all sin is wickedness.
5 Now you are well aware that he has appeared in order to take sins away, [c] Heb 9:26 Jn 1:29v and that in him there is no sin. Jn 8:46 6 No one who remains in him sins, [d] Heb 7:26 •1:3b;2:14 and whoever sins Mt 7:18
has neither seen him nor recognised him.
7 Children, do not let anyone lead you astray.
Whoever acts uprightly is upright,
just as he [e] is upright.
8 Whoever lives sinfully belongs to the devil, [f] 3:12 since the devil has been a sinner from the beginning. Gn 3:15 Jn 8:44
This was the purpose of the appearing of the Son of God, to undo the work of the devil. 3:5 Jn 12:31–32 9 No one who is a child of God sins 3:6d because God's seed [g] remains in him.
Nor can he sin, because he is a child of God. 2:12+ 10 This is what distinguishes the children of God from the children of the devil: 1:7e;3:8e Mt 4:1a whoever does not live uprightly and does not love his brother 3:23 is not from God.

Second condition: to keep the commandments, especially that of love

11 This is the message which you heard from the beginning, 2:7
that we must love each other, Jn 13:24 12 not to be like Cain, who was from the Evil One 3:8e and murdered his brother. Gn 4:8 Jn 8:44
And why did he murder his brother?
Because his own actions were evil and his brother's upright. [h] 13 Do not be surprised, brothers,
if the world hates you. Mt 24:9 Jn 15:18–21
14 We are well aware that we have passed over from death to life Jn 5:24 because we love our brothers.
Whoever does not love, remains in death. Heb 6:1a 15 Anyone who hates his brother is a murderer, and you are well aware that no murderer has eternal life remaining in him.

j. Though they seemed to belong to the community, they lacked the spirit of Christ.

k. This is the Spirit given to the Messiah, Is 11:2c; 61:1, and by him to believers, 3:24; 4:13; cf. 2 Co 1:21, to instruct them in all things, v. 27; Jn 16:13f; cf. 1 Co 2:10,15, in virtue of which the words of Jesus are 'spirit and life', Jn 6:63.

l. var. 'you know all things'.

m. Or 'because you know that the lies cannot have come from truth'.

n. It is not easy to name the heretics envisaged (probably Cerinthus, whose error persisted in a diluted form in Gnosticism). Here the title of Christ is not merely a translation of 'Messiah', but calls for the complete faith of 'Christians' in him who 'has come in human nature'.

o. The apostolic teaching concerning the mystery of Christ.

p. Christians are taught by the apostles, 1:3,5; 2:7,24, but merely hearing what is said is not enough, the message must penetrate them and this it cannot do except through the grace of the Holy Spirit.

3 a. om. 'and that is what we are'.
b. Jesus.

c. lit. 'sins'; var. 'our sins'.

d. Jn stylises somewhat. From hope of vision, v. 2, and perfect holiness, v. 3, there now flows by the action of Jesus Christ, v. 5; 2:2, that abstinence from all evil befitting children of God, v. 9; 5:18; cf. Ga 5:16, who have been 'justified', v. 7; 2:29; see Rm 3:24–25,24i. This does not in fact exclude the possibility of sin, 1:8–10,9g, which breaks such a union, cf. 2:3–5.

e. See note 2:e.

f. Having used expressions like: 'of God', 'from Truth', 'child of God', to show how a Christian lives under the influence of God living in him, John now uses expressions like: 'of the devil', 3:8; 'of the Evil One', 3:12, from, or of, the impermanent world, 2:16; 4:5, 'children of the devil' to indicate those who live under the influence of the devil and allow themselves to be seduced by him.

g. The 'seed' of God could be a reference to Christ, cf. Ga 3:16; 1 Jn 5:18, but some commentators take it as a reference to the Spirit, cf. 2:20–27, or to the seed of divine life introduced into us by God.

h. The antithesis between the children of God who live in truth and love and the world ruled by sin and hate continues until 4:6.

2:6 Mt 20:28 Jn 15:12–13 Ep 5:2
This is the proof of love, 16
that he laid down his life for us, and we too ought to lay down our lives for our brothers.
Dt 15:7,11 Jm 2:16
If anyone is well off in worldly possessions 17
and sees his brother in need but closes his heart to him,
2:5;4:12 Jn 5:42
how can the love of God be remaining in him?
Children, 18
Mt 7:21 Jm 1:22
our love must be not just words or mere talk,
but something active and genuine.
This will be the proof that we belong to the truth, [i] 19 and it will convince us in his presence, even if our own feelings condemn us, 20 4:4
that God is greater than our feelings and knows all things. [j]
My dear friends, 21
if our own feelings do not condemn us,
we can be fearless before God, Mt 7:7–11par. Jn 14:13–14
and whatever we ask 22
we shall receive from him,
because we keep his commandments
Jn 8:29
and do what is acceptable to him.
His commandment is this, 23 that we should believe in the name of his Son Jesus Christ and that we should love each other
Jn 13:34;15:17
as he commanded us.
Whoever keeps his commandments 24
1:3b,7e Jn 14:21–23
remains in God, and God in him.
And this is the proof that he remains in us:
4:13
the Spirit that he has given us.

Third condition: to be on guard against Antichrists and against the world

4 My dear friends, 1
Dt 13:1–6; 18:20–22 1 Co 12:10g 1 Th 5:19g 2:18
not every spirit is to be trusted, but test the spirits to see whether they are from God, for many false prophets are at large in the world. [a] Mt 24:24 1 Tm 4:1a 1 Co 12:3 1 Th 5:21
This is the proof of the spirit of God: 2 any spirit which acknowledges Jesus Christ, come in human nature, is from God,
and no spirit which fails to acknowledge Jesus [b] 3
is from God;
2:22 2 Th 2:4c
it is the spirit of Antichrist, whose coming you have heard of;
he is already at large in the world.
Children, you are from God 4 2:14+
and have overcome them,
because he who is in you
3:20 Jn 10:29
is greater than he who is in the world.
3:8e
They are from the world, 5
Jn 3:31
and therefore the world inspires what they say,
and listens to them.
1:3b Jn 10:26m
We [c] are from God; 6
whoever recognises God listens to us;
anyone who is not from God refuses to listen to us.
This is how we can distinguish
3:10 Jn 14:17
the spirit of truth from the spirit of falsehood. [d]

III: THE SOURCE OF LOVE AND FAITH

The source of love

7 My dear friends,
let us love each other, 1 Th 4:9
since love is from God and everyone who loves is a child of God and knows God. [e] 1:3b
8 Whoever fails to love does not know God, 1:7e because God is love. [f] 4:16 9 This is the revelation of God's love for us, that God sent his only Son into the world Jn 3:16 that we might have life through him.
10 Love consists in this: Rm 8:31seq.
it is not we who loved God,
but God loved us and sent his Son 4:19
Dt 7:8
to expiate our sins. Rm 5:8 •2:2
11 My dear friends, Rm 3:25k
if God loved us so much, Mt 18:33
we too should love each other.
12 No one has ever seen God, [g] Ex 33:20i
Jn 1:18;6:46
but as long as we love each other God remains in us 1:3b
and his love comes to its perfection in us.
13 This is the proof that we remain in him and he in us, 1:7e
that he has given us a share in his Spirit. [h] 3:24
Rm 5:5e
14 We ourselves have seen and testify that the Father sent his Son Jn 3:17
as Saviour of the world. Jn 4:42n 15 Anyone who acknowledges that Jesus is the Son of God, God remains in him and he in God.
16 We have recognised for ourselves, and put our faith in, the love God has for us. Jn 17:6g God is love, 4:7–8
and whoever remains in love remains in God and God in him. 1:3b
17 Love comes to its perfection in us when we can face the Day of Judgement fearlessly, 2:28
Rm 8:15
Jm 2:13

i. In the Johannine writings 'truth', 2:4, has a very wide sense which embraces faith and love, 3:23; 5:1. They 'belong to the truth' who believe, 2:21–22, and who love, 3:18–19. See Jn 3:21; 8:32k; 18:37; 2 Jn 4–6; 3 Jn 3–8.

j. The person whose conscience (lit. 'heart') reproaches him, will find that God as a judge is both more acute and more lenient than his conscience, providing (it is understood) that charity has been practised. Another translation could be 'In the presence of God we shall prove to our conscience, if it has been accusing us, that God is greater than our conscience is, and that he knows everything.'

4 a. One must be certain that those who lay claim to the Spirit of God are not in fact motivated by the spirit of the world. They may be known by their fruits, Mt 7:15–20, by their relationships, cf. 1 Jn 2:3–6,13–14, and especially by what they say of Christ, vv. 2–3. The apostles are capable of this discernment, v. 6.

b. var., supported by several authorities, 'which dissolves (or breaks, splits, divides) Jesus'.

c. 'we' = the Christian prophets, recognised evangelists and preachers with apostolic authority.

d. The theme of the two spirits is well known in Judaism (e.g. Qumran), and is similar to that of the two ways, Dt 11:26–28; Mt 7:13–14,13d. A human being is situated between two worlds, and belongs to one or the other by partaking of their spirit, 3:8,19. The final victory of believers is certain, v. 4; 2:13–14; 5:4–5.

e. Love is characteristic of the children of God, v. 16.

f. God loved Israel, Is 54:8c. The sending of his only Son as Saviour of the world, v. 9; Jn 3:16; 4:42; cf. Rm 3:24–25,24i; 5:8; etc, makes the love of God visible, v. 7, because God himself is love, v. 16; 3:16, and makes the believer who is the child of God, 1:3b, participate in love, vv. 10,19.

g. This is directed against the pneumatikoi who held that by intuition a human being can 'reach' God.

h. This gift of the Spirit promised for the last times, Ac 2:17–21,33, has been poured into our hearts, see Rm 5:5e; 1 Th 4:8, and there engenders the inner certainty which the apostles proclaimed exteriorly, 5:6–7; cf. Ac 5:32. Here this concerns divine Sonship, Rm 8:15–16; Ga 4:6.

2:6e;3:2–3 2 Th 3:7b
because even in this world
we have become as he is.
In love there is no room for fear, 18
2 Tm 1:7 but perfect love drives out fear, because fear implies punishment and whoever is afraid has not come to perfection in love. [i]
Let us love, then, 19
4:9–10 because he first loved us.
Anyone who says 'I love God' 20 and hates his brother,
is a liar,
since no one who fails to love the brother whom he can see 1 P 1:8 can love God whom he has not seen.
Mt 22:36–40 Jn 14:15,21; 15:17 Indeed this is the commandment we have received from him, 21 that whoever loves God, must also love his brother.

5

1:3b Whoever believes that Jesus is the Christ 1 is a child of God,
and whoever loves the father loves the son. [a]
In this way we know that we love God's children, 2
Rm 13:9 when we love God and keep his commandments.
3:23 Ga 5:14 2 Jn 6 This is what the love of God is: 3 keeping his commandments.
Dt 30:11 Mt 11:30 Nor are his commandments burdensome, because every child of God 4
Jn 16:33 overcomes the world.
And this is the victory that has overcome the world—
2:14+ our faith.

The source of faith

Who can overcome the world 5
but the one who believes that Jesus is the Son of God? [b]
Jn 19:34 He it is who came by water and blood, [c] 6
Jesus Christ,
Jn 4:1a 2:20,27 Jn 1:33x;14:26r not with water alone
but with water and blood, and it is the Spirit that bears witness,
for the Spirit is Truth.
So there are three witnesses, [d] 7
the Spirit, water and blood; 8
and the three of them coincide. [e]
If we accept the testimony of human witnesses, 9
Jn 5:32,37 God's testimony is greater, for this is God's testimony which he gave about his Son.
Whoever believes in the Son of God 10
Jn 3:33 has this testimony within him, and whoever does not believe is making God a liar, because he has not believed the testimony God has given about his Son.
Jn 3:11f This is the testimony: 11 1:2;5:20 Jn 1:4;5:21,26 God has given us eternal life, and this life is in his Son.
Whoever has the Son has life, 12
Jn 3:36 and whoever has not the Son of God has not life.

13 I have written this to you who believe in the name of the Son of God — Jn 1:12;20:31
so that you may know that you have eternal life.

SUPPLEMENTS[f]

Prayer for sinners

14 Our fearlessness towards him consists in this,
that if we ask anything in accordance with his will — 3:22
he hears us. — Mt 7:7par. Jn 14:13–14 15 And if we know that he listens to whatever we ask him, we know that we already possess whatever we have asked of him.
16 If anyone sees his brother commit a sin — Jm 5:19
that is not a deadly sin, he has only to pray, and God will give life to this brother —provided that it is not a deadly sin.
There is sin that leads to death[g] — Jn 15:22–24
and I am not saying you must pray about that.
17 Every kind of wickedness is sin, but not all sin leads to death.

Summary of the letter[h]

18 We are well aware that no one who is a child of God sins, — 1:3b •3:6d because he who was born from God protects him, and the Evil One has no hold over him. — 2:14+ Jn 17:15 19 We are well aware that we are from God, and the whole world is in the power of the Evil One.
20 We are well aware also that the Son of God has come and has given us understanding — Jr 24:7
so that we may know the One who is true.[i] — Jn 17:3
We are in the One who is true
as we are in his Son, Jesus Christ.
He is the true God
and this is eternal life. — 1:2 21 Children, be on your guard against false gods.[j]

i. Love presupposes the filial element of religious fear, Dt 6:2a; Pr 1:7a, but it excludes servile fear, the fear of being condemned by God, 3:20, who has in his Son given such proof of love, see v. 8f.

5 a. Whoever loves God loves also his children. The love of God is expressed in love of neighbour, the criterion of its sincerity, 3:14,17–19; 4:20, and the first of the commandments to which one is committed by the love of God, vv. 2–3; cf. 2:3–5; 3:22–24; Mt 22:26–40 and par.; Jn 13:34 = 15:10–14; Rm 13:9; Ga 5:14. Finally, then, it is faith which judges love, the faith by which a person is born of God, 3:1; Jn 1:12j.

b. This argument is based on two previous ones: whoever believes is begotten by God, v. 1, and to be begotten by God is to be the conqueror of the 'world', v. 4, see Rm 1:4c.

c. The water and the blood that came from the side of Jesus when it was opened by the lance.

d. Vulg. vv. 7–8 read as follows: 'There are three witnesses in heaven: the Father, the Word and the Spirit, and these three are one; there are three witnesses on earth: the Spirit, the water and the blood.' The words in italics (not in any of the early Gk MSS, or any of the early translations, or in the best MSS of the Vulg. itself) are probably a gloss that has crept into the text.

e. The three testimonies converge. Blood and water join the Spirit, 2:20k,27; Jn 3:5; 4:1, to bear witness, see Jn 3:11f, in favour of the mission of the Son who gives life, v. 11; Jn 3:15h.

f. As in the gospel, see Jn 21, the conclusion is followed by a postscript.

g. No doubt the recipients of the letter knew what this exceptionally grave sin was. Perhaps the sin against the Spirit, against truth, see Mt 12:31–32,32h, or the apostasy of the Antichrists, 2:18–29; Heb 6:4–8.

h. Three sentences beginning 'we are well aware' sum up the great Christian certainties and hopes developed in the letter.

i. God the only true One, Jn 17:3d; cf. 8:31; 1 Th 1:19, and the only One known for what he is in truth, i.e. Life and Love.

j. A last warning, no doubt occasioned by the mention of the only true God. The 'false gods', surely in a metaphorical sense, can denote paganism, or the 'false gods of the heart' (Qumran) which turn people away from faith and love.

2 JOHN

THE SECOND LETTER OF JOHN

1 P 5:13
3 Jn 1
Jn 8:32k;14:17

From the Elder: [a] my greetings to the Lady, the chosen one, [b] and to her children, 1 whom I love in truth—and I am not the only one, for so do all who have come to know the Truth—•because of the truth that remains in us and will be with us for 2 ever. •In our life of truth and love, we shall have grace, faithful love [c] and peace 3 from God the Father and from Jesus Christ, the Son of the Father.

The law of love

Phm 7
3 Jn 3
1 Jn 3:19h
Jn 14:15h
1 Jn 2:7–11

It has given me great joy to find that children of yours have been living the life of 4 truth [d] as we were commanded by the Father. •And now I am asking you—dear 5 lady, not as though I were writing you a new commandment, but only the one which we have had from the beginning—that we should love each other.

1 Jn 5:3

To love is to live according to his commandments: this is the commandment 6 which you have heard since the beginning, [e] to live a life of love.

The enemies of Christ

1 Jn 2:18
1 Jn 4:2–3
1 Jn 2:22

There are many deceivers at large in the world, refusing to acknowledge Jesus 7
Christ as coming in human nature. They are the Deceiver; they are the Antichrist.
Watch yourselves, or all our work [f] will be lost and you will forfeit your full 8 reward. •If anybody does not remain in the teaching of Christ [g] but goes beyond 9 it, [h] he does not have God with him: only those who remain in what he taught can have the Father and the Son with them. •If anyone comes to you bringing a 10 different doctrine, you must not receive him into your house or even give him a greeting. •Whoever greets him has a share in his wicked activities. 11

3 Jn 13seq.

There are several things I have to tell you, but I have thought it best not to trust 12 them to paper and ink. I hope instead to visit you and talk to you in person, so that our joy [i] may be complete.

Jn 15:11e
1 Jn 1:4

Greetings to you from the children of your sister, [j] the chosen one. 13

a. The elders were the leaders in each community, see Tt 1:5c. Here John the Apostle, the outstanding leader of the communities of Asia Minor is in question.

b. The 'Chosen Lady' or 'Sovereign Lady', cryptic references to one of the local churches under the jurisdiction of the Elder and threatened by the propaganda of false teachers. We do not know which it was.

c. 'Faithful love' occurs nowhere else in the Johannine writings.

d. lit. 'walk in the truth', through observance of the commandments in love.

e. Or 'you must obey that commandment as you learnt it at the beginning'.

f. var. 'your work'.

g. Teaching either by, or about, Christ.

h. Teaching pure speculation as apostolic doctrine, cf. 2 Tm 2:16; Tt 3:9.

i. var. 'your joy'.

j. The church (perhaps Ephesus) from which the letter is being written.

3 JOHN

THE THIRD LETTER OF JOHN

1, 2 From the Elder: greetings to my dear friend Gaius,[a] whom I love in truth. •My dear friend, I hope everything is going happily with you and that you are as well
3 physically as you are spiritually. •It was a great joy[b] to me when some brothers
4 came and told of your faithfulness to the truth, and of your life in the truth. •It is always my greatest joy to hear that my children are living according to the truth.
5 My dear friend, you have done loyal work in helping these brothers, even though
6 they were strangers to you.[c] •They are a proof to the whole Church of your love and it would be a kindness if you could help them on their journey as God would 7 approve. •It was entirely for the sake of the name[d] that they set out, without 8 depending on the non-believers for anything: •it is our duty to welcome people of this sort and contribute our share to their work for the truth.

2 Jn 1a
2 Jn 4
1 Jn 3:19h
Jn 8:24g
Ac 5:41p
Mt 18:5par.; 10:10,41
1 Tm 5:18

Beware of the example of Diotrephes[e]

9 I have written a note[f] for the members of the church, but Diotrephes, who enjoys
10 being in charge of it, refuses to accept us.[g] •So if I come, I shall tell everyone how he has behaved, and about the wicked accusations he has been circulating against us. As if that were not enough, he not only refuses to welcome our brothers, but prevents from doing so other people who would have liked to, and expels them 11 from the church. •My dear friend, never follow a bad example, but keep following the good one; whoever does what is right is from God, but no one who does what is wrong has ever seen God.

1 Jn 1:3b;7e

Commendation of Demetrius

12 Demetrius[h] has been approved by everyone, and indeed by Truth itself. We too will vouch for him and you know that our testimony is true.

1 Jn 5:6
Jn 19:35;21:24

Epilogue

13 There were several things I had to tell you but I would rather not trust them to 14, 15 pen and ink. •However, I hope to see you soon and talk to you in person. •Peace be with you; greetings from your friends; greet each of our friends[i] by name.

2 Jn 12seq.

a. A fairly common name. The bearer is a faithful disciple to whom the Elder sees fit to address the letter.

b. 'Joy', var. 'privilege'.

c. Probably missionaries sent by 'the Elder' to the communities of Asia Minor.

d. The name of the Lord; see Ac 5:41p, expressing the mystery of his divinity, cf. Ph 2:9; 1 Jn 3:25; 5:13; Jm 2:7.

e. By contrast to Gaius, this leader of a community envisaged by the letter fails in submission to the Elder, and so seems to threaten the faith. The Elder intends to intervene when he visits soon, vv. 10,14.

f. Perhaps 2 Jn.

g. In the persons of the apostle's envoys.

h. Either a leading member of that community or one of the missionaries recommended to Gaius (the bearer of the letter?).

i. Those who resist Diotrephes because they recognise the authority of the Elder.

THE LETTER OF JUDE

Address

Ac 12:17f From Jude, servant of Jesus Christ and brother of James; to those who are called, 1
Jn 17:11j to those who are dear to [a] God the Father and kept safe for Jesus Christ, ·mercy, 2 ‖2 P 1:2 peace and love be yours in abundance.

The reason for this letter

My dear friends, at a time when I was eagerly looking forward to writing to you 3 about the salvation that we all share, I felt that I must write to you encouraging you 1 Tm 6:12 to fight hard for the faith which has been once and for all entrusted to God's holy
2 Tm 4:7
Ac 9:13g people. [b] ·Certain people have infiltrated among you, who were long ago marked 4 ‖2 P 2:1 down for condemnation on this account; [c] without any reverence they pervert the Ga 5:13 grace of our God to debauchery and deny all religion, rejecting our only Master
1 P 2:16
1 Jn 4:1 and Lord, Jesus Christ. [d]
2 Jn 10

The false teachers: the certainty of punishment

‖2 P 1:12 I should like to remind you—though you have already learnt it once and for all [e]— 5
Nb 14:26–35 that the Lord [f] rescued the nation from Egypt, but afterwards he still destroyed
1 Co 10:5
·Gn 6:1–2 the people who refused to believe him; ·and the angels who did not keep to the 6
‖2 P 2:4 authority they had, but left their appointed sphere, [g] he has kept in darkness in Gn 19 eternal bonds until the judgement of the great Day. ·Sodom and Gemorrah, too, 7
Mt 10:15par. and the neighbouring towns, who with the same sexual immorality pursued unnatu-‖2 P 2:6–9 ral lusts, [h] are put before us as an example since they are paying the penalty of eternal fire.

Their violent language

Nevertheless, these people [i] are doing the same: in their delusions they not only 8
2 P 2:10–12 defile their bodies and disregard Authority, but abuse the Glories [j] as well. ·Not 9
Dn 10:13b even the archangel Michael, when he was engaged in argument with the devil about the corpse of Moses, [k] dared to denounce him in the language of abuse; all he Zc 3:2 said was, 'May the Lord rebuke you.' ·But these people abuse anything they do not 10 understand; and the only things they do understand—merely by nature [l] like unreasoning animals—will turn out to be fatal to them.

Their vicious behaviour

Gn 4:8 Alas for them, because they have followed Cain; they have thrown themselves into 11
‖2 P 2:15
1 Jn 3:12 the same delusion as Balaam for a reward; they have been ruined by the same
Nb 22:2b rebellion as Korah—and share the same fate. ·They are a dangerous hazard [m] at 12
Rv 2:14
Nb 16 your community meals, coming for the food and quite shamelessly only looking Pr 25:14 after themselves. They are like the clouds blown about by the winds and bringing
‖2 P 2:13,17–18
Is 57:20 no rain, or like autumn trees, barren and uprooted and so twice dead; ·like wild 13 sea waves with their own shame for foam; or like wandering stars [n] for whom the 14 gloom of darkness is stored up for ever. •It was with them in mind that Enoch, the seventh patriarch from Adam, made his prophecy when he said, 'I tell you, the 15 Lord will come with his holy ones in their tens of thousands, •to pronounce Dn 7:10 judgement on all humanity and to sentence the godless for all the godless things they have done, and for all the defiant things said against him by godless sinners.'[o] 16 •They are mischief-makers, grumblers governed only by their own desires,[p] with mouths full of boastful talk, ready to flatter others for gain. Lv 19:15 Dn 7:8, 20 ‖2 P 2:18

A warning

17 But remember, my dear friends, what the apostles of our Lord Jesus Christ ‖2 P 3:2–3
18 foretold.[q] •'At the final point of time', they told you, 'there will be mockers who 1 Tm 4:1a 19 follow nothing but their own godless desires.'[r] •It is they who cause division, who live according to nature and do not possess the Spirit. 1 Co 15:44w

The duties of love

20 But you, my dear friends, must build yourselves up on the foundation of your most 1 Co 3:9–17 Ep 2:20–22
21 holy faith, praying in the Holy Spirit;[s] •keep yourselves within the love of God
22 and wait for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ to give you eternal life. •To some 2 Co 13:13e 23 you must be compassionate because they are wavering; •others you must save by snatching them from the fire;[t] to others again you must be compassionate but wary, hating even the tunic stained by their bodies.

Doxology

24 To him who can keep you from falling and bring you safe to his glorious presence, 25 innocent and joyful, •to the only God, our Saviour, through Jesus Christ ‖2 P 3:14 •Rm 16:27i Rv 5:13 our Lord, be glory, majesty, authority and power, before all ages, now and for ever. Amen.[u]

a. 'To those who are', var. 'to the nations who are' • 'dear to'; var. 'made holy by'.

b. No change must be made, v. 5, in the tradition of the faith of the apostles, v. 17. the foundation of the Christian life, v. 20; cf. 1 Co 11:2; 2 Th 2:15*l*; 1 Tm 6:20.

c. var. 'for this sin'.

d. var. 'rejecting God, the only Master and our Lord Jesus Christ'.

e. The faith entrusted 'once and for all', v. 3, to God's holy people must never be changed.

f. God the Father, see 2 P 2:4. var. (Vulg.) 'Jesus', i.e. a reference to Christ in his divine pre-existence, cf. 1 Co 10:4.

g. They let themselves be seduced by the 'daughters of men', Gn 6:1–2; the subject is elaborated in the Book of Enoch.

h. They lusted not after human beings, but after the strangers who were angels, Gn 19:1–11. The apocryphal Testament of the Twelve Patriarchs, like Jude 6–7, also compares the sin of the angels with the sin of the Sodomites.

i. Heretics living at the same time as the writer, who are not deterred by the punishment of the fallen angels, vv. 6–7.

j. 'Authority' var. 'Authorities', i.e. angels, see Ep 1:21s; Col 1:16. The Glories would also be such cosmic powers.

k. Almost certainly a reference to the apocryphal Assumption of Moses, in which Michael (Dn 10:13b) has an altercation with the devil as to who claims Moses' body after his death.

l. Their lack of knowledge results from the fact that they do not possess the Spirit, they know nothing except what they have learnt through their unaided natural powers, see Rm 1:9e; 1 Co 15:44. They were despised by the Gnostics.

m. 'community meals' (agapai), var. 'deceits', cf. 2 P 2:13. • So the heretics still participated in the life of the Church; their conduct had only recently been noticed. Whether Jude is referring to the Eucharist or to the agape which preceded it, their attitude recalls 1 Co 11:17–22.

n. In Jewish apocrypha, e.g. the Book of Enoch, 'stars' often stand for 'angels'.

o. Enoch 1:9, probably quoted from memory.

p. Suggested by Enoch 5:5.

q. The apostolic preaching received through the tradition, v. 3.

r. No saying is found in this exact form, but see Ac 20:29–31; 1 Tm 4:1; 2 Tm 3:1–5; 4:3, and already Mt 24:24; Mk 13:22.

s. Vv. 20–21 mention the three Persons, cf. 2 Co 13:13, in connection with faith, prayer, love, hope, see 1 Co 13:13e.

t. Love dictates different treatment of those who are more or less tainted by the heresy. • var. 'Be kind to some, those who are hesitating; save them, snatch them from the fire.'

u. The solemn doxology, cf. Rm 16:25–27,27n; Ep 3:20; Rv 1:6k, comes perhaps from the liturgy.

THE BOOK OF REVELATION

INTRODUCTION TO THE REVELATION TO JOHN

The Greek title of this book is literally 'The Apocalypse of John' or 'The Revelation of John'. (The word 'apocalypse' is merely a transliteration into English of the Greek word for 'Revelation'.) The title phrase is shown in Rv 1:1 and 2 to mean 'The Revelation to John'. Any writing under the title 'Apocalypse' claims to include a revelation of hidden things, imparted by God, and particularly a revelation of events hidden in the future. It is not easy to draw an exact dividing line between prophecy and apocalypse, and the writers of apocalyptic are in some ways the successors of the prophets; but we can at least make the distinction that the Old Testament prophets characteristically received the message by 'hearing the word of God' and passed it on by word of mouth, whereas the author of a written apocalypse was given his revelation in a vision and passed it on in writing.

The language of apocalyptic writing is richly symbolic, and the importance of the visions which are described is never in their immediate literal meaning. It can be taken as a rule that every element in this kind of writing has symbolic value—persons, places, animals, actions, objects, parts of the body, numbers and measurements, stars, constellations, colours and garments—and if we are not to misunderstand or distort the writer's message, we must appreciate the imagery at its true value and do our best to translate the symbols back into the ideas which he intended them to convey. There are parts of the text in which this will involve our distinguishing a direct allegorical interpretation of the images that are used. There are other parts, however, in which no single interpretation can be confidently adopted, since a single group of images will be found to draw its meaning from various different associations.

Apocalyptic writing became very popular in some Jewish circles (including the Essenes of Qumran) in the two centuries before Christ. The visions of prophets like Ezekiel and Zechariah paved the way, and apocalypse as a literary form was already fully developed by the time of Daniel and in the many apocryphal writings about the beginning of the Christian era. The New Testament includes only one apocalypse; its author says he was called John, 1:9, and that at the time of writing he was an exile for his Christian faith on the island of Patmos. A tradition as early as Justin and widespread by the end of the second century (Irenaeus, Clement of Alexandria, Tertullian, the Canon of Muratori) identified this John with the apostle, author of the fourth Gospel. On the other hand, it is almost certain that the Churches of Syria, Cappadocia and even Palestine did not include The Revelation in the canon of scripture until the fifth century; evidently they did not believe it to be the work of an apostle. At the beginning of the third century a priest of Rome, Caius by name, attributed it to Cerinthus the heretic, though this may have been merely an attempt to justify his attack on it. Internal evidence shows that The Revelation to John has some affinity with the other Johannine writings, but it is so sharply distinguished from them by language, style, and some theological positions, notably its view of the second coming, that it is impossible to identify the author of The Revelation to John as it stands with the author of the rest of the Johannine literature. Nevertheless, it makes use of the Johannine vocabulary of theological thinking, and it must have issued from a church in which the tradition preserved was that of John. As for its date, the most common opinion is that it was written in the reign of Domitian, about AD 95; others, with considerable justification, believe that parts of it, if not all, were composed shortly after Nero's death, between AD 68 and 70.

Whatever its precise date, we cannot understand The Revelation without taking into account the historical conditions that gave birth to it. It is first and foremost a tract for the times, like the apocalypses (particularly Daniel) that preceded it and on which it draws. It was written during a period of disturbance and bitter persecution to increase the hope and determination of the infant Church. Jesus had said, 'Be brave: I have conquered the world,' Jn 16:33; how, therefore, could God permit this mortal attack on his own Church? John's answer begins by recalling the classical themes of the prophets, notably that of the great 'Day of Yahweh' (see Am 5:18, note m). When the chosen people had been enslaved to the Assyrians, Chaldaeans, and Greeks, when they had been scattered abroad and nearly annihilated by persecution, the prophets had promised: the day is coming, and soon, when God will liberate his people from their oppressors, and restore their independence, and help them to conquer their enemies, after he has punished them and brought them to the point of extinction. When John wrote The Revelation, the Church, the new chosen race, had just been decimated by persecution, ch. 6:10–11; 13; 16:6; 17:6; Rome and its empire (the Beast) was only a tool, but a tool wielded by Satan, ch. 12; 13:2,4, the great and only real enemy of Christ and his people. In the opening vision John describes God as Emperor, enthroned in heaven; he is Master of human destiny, ch. 4, and to the Lamb he gives the scroll that foretells the doom of the persecutors, ch. 5; the vision then proclaims a foreign invasion (the Parthians) and its familiar concomitants, war, famine, plague, ch. 6. During this, God's faithful will be preserved, 7:1–8; compare 14:1–5, and eventually rejoice triumphantly in heaven, 7:9–17; compare 15:1–5. God, however, wants to save their enemies as well, so instead of destroying them immediately, he warns them, as he had warned Egypt and its Pharaoh, by a series of plagues, ch. 8–9; compare 16. The persecutors are only hardened in their evil determination, and God is forced to destroy them, ch. 17. Their aim was to corrupt the world and get it to worship Satan (an allusion to emperor-worship in pagan Rome). After this comes a lament over fallen Babylon (Rome), ch. 18, and hymns of victory in heaven, 19:1–10. There is a second vision of the destruction of the Beast (Rome the persecutor) this time by Christ in glory, 19:11–21, that begins an era of prosperity for the Church, 20:1–6, which is to end in a new assault by Satan 20:7seq., followed by the annihilation of the Enemy, the resurrection and judgement of the dead, 20:11–15, and ultimately by the definitive establishment of the kingdom of perfect happiness in heaven when death itself has been destroyed, 21:1–8. A final vision glances back to the period just before this consummation and describes the beauty of the new Jerusalem, or Church, on earth, 21:9seq.

The significance of The Revelation is wider than this primary, basic meaning derived by historical interpretation: the book portrays the unchanging realities on which faith relies in any period of history. God's promise to be 'with his people', see Ex 25:8, note d, protecting them and saving them, had always been the foundation of their confidence in him in the Old Testament, and it is this presence that has now been perfected by the marriage of God and his new chosen people in the person of his Son, Immanuel (God-with-us). The promise of the risen Christ, 'I am with you always; yes, to the end of time,' is what gives life to the Church, Mt 28:20. As a result, those who are faithful to Jesus have nothing to fear: they may suffer a while for him but in the end they will triumph over Satan and his schemes.

In its present state the text of The Revelation presents a certain number of repetitions or even double repetitions, breaks of continuity between the visions, passages seemingly out of context (especially in ch. 20–22). Commentators have tried to explain these anomalies in various ways: compilation from different sources, accidental displacement of certain passages, etc. There is general agreement that the letters to the seven Churches (1:9–3:22) were added at the time of the final edition of the book. As for the strictly prophetic part of the book (ch. 4–22), it could have joined together two distinct apocalypses, written by the same author but at different dates. A more complex solution, using three partially distinct apocalypses, could also be envisaged. Whatever the truth of the matter, it is nevertheless possible to read The Revelation as it has been handed down to us, concentrating on the message of certainty and hope expressed by the complex but powerful imagery of the book. The sacrifice of the Lamb has won the final victory. Whatever evils the Church may undergo, its confidence in God's faithfulness remains unshaken; the Lord will 'soon' come (1:1; 22:20). The Revelation is an epic of Christian hope, the victory song of the persecuted Church.

THE REVELATION TO JOHN

Prologue

1 A revelation of Jesus Christ[a], which God gave him so that he could tell his 1
22:6seq.;16 Dn 2:28 servants[b] what is now to take place very soon; he sent his angel to make it
19:10e known[c] to his servant John, ·and John has borne witness to the Word of God and 2
Jn 19:35 to the witness of Jesus Christ, everything that he saw. ·Blessed[d] is anyone who 3 22:7 reads the words of this prophecy, and blessed those who hear them, if they treasure Rm 13:11g 2 Co 6:2a the content, because the Time[e] is near.

I: THE LETTERS TO THE CHURCHES OF ASIA

Address and greeting[f]

Ex 3:14+ John, to the seven churches of Asia: grace and peace to you from him who is, who 4 was, and who is to come,[g] from the seven spirits who are before his throne, ·and 5 Ps 89:37 Is 55:4 from Jesus Christ, the faithful witness, the First-born from the dead, the highest of 1 Tm 6:13e earthly kings.[h] He loves us and has washed away[i] our sins with his blood, ·and 6
Ps 89:27 Ex 19:6 made us a Kingdom of Priests to serve[j] his God and Father; to him, then, be glory
1 P 2:9 ·Rm 16:27n and power for ever and ever. Amen.[k] ·Look, he is coming on the clouds; 7 ·Dn 7:13 ·Zc 12:10,14 everyone will see him, even those who pierced him, and all the races of the earth will Mt 24:30q Jn 19:37 mourn over him. Indeed this shall be so. Amen. ·'I am the Alpha and the Omega,'[l] 8 says the Lord God, who is, who was, and who is to come, the Almighty.

Preliminary vision

Rm 5:3 2 Tm 2:12 I, John, your brother and partner in hardships, in the kingdom and in perseverance 9 in Jesus, was on the island of Patmos[m] on account of the Word of God and of Ac 20:7k witness to Jesus; ·it was the Lord's Day and I was in ecstasy, and I heard a loud 10 voice behind me, like the sound of a trumpet, saying, ·'Write down in a book all 11 that you see, and send it to the seven churches of Ephesus, Smyrna, Pergamum, Thyatira, Sardis, Philadelphia and Laodicea.' ·I turned round to see who was 12
1:20 ·Ex 25:37 Dn 7:13 speaking to me, and when I turned I saw seven golden lamp-stands ·and, in the 13
Dn 10:5 Dn 7:9 Dn 10:6 middle of them, one like a Son of man,[n] dressed in a long robe tied at the waist with a belt of gold. ·His head and his hair were white with the whiteness of wool, 14 like snow, his eyes like a burning flame, ·his feet like burnished bronze when it has 15
Ezk 43:2 been refined in a furnace, and his voice like the sound of the ocean. ·In his right 16 2:12+ hand he was holding seven stars, out of his mouth came a sharp sword, double-edged, and his face was like the sun shining with all its force.
Dn 8:18; 10: 15–19 When I saw him, I fell at his feet as though dead, but he laid his right hand on me 17
Ezk 1:28seq. and said, 'Do not be afraid; it is I, the First and the Last; I am the Living One,[o] ·I 18
1:8l Is 44:6; 48:12 was dead and look—I am alive for ever and ever, and I hold the keys of death and Heb 7:25 of Hades.[p] ·Now write down all that you see of present happenings[q] and what is 19

20 still to come. ·The secret of the seven stars you have seen in my right hand, and of the seven golden lamp-stands, is this: the seven stars are the angels [r] of the seven churches, and the seven lamp-stands are the seven churches themselves.' ▶Mt 16:18i ▶4:1 ▶Dn 2:28

1 Ephesus [a]

1 2 'Write to the angel of the church in Ephesus [b] and say, "Here is the message of the one who holds the seven stars in his right hand and who lives among the 1:16 2 seven golden lamp-stands: ·I know your activities, your hard work and your 1:12 ·1 Th 1:3
perseverance. I know you cannot stand wicked people, and how you put to the test 3 those who were self-styled apostles [c] and found them false. ·I know too that you 2 Co 11:13,15 have perseverance, and have suffered for my name [d] without growing tired.
4 Nevertheless, I have this complaint to make: you have less love now than formerly.
5 Think where you were before you fell; repent, and behave as you did at first, or else, if you will not repent, I shall come to you and take your lamp-stand 6 from its place. [e] ·It is in your favour, nevertheless, that you loathe as I do the way
7 the Nicolaitans are behaving. ·Let anyone who can hear, listen to what the Spirit is 2:15m saying to the churches: [f] those who prove victorious I will feed from the tree of life 13:9 Mt 13:9
set in God's paradise." 22:2 Gn 2:9 Lk 23:43+

2 Smyrna

8 'Write to the angel of the church in Smyrna and say, "Here is the message of the 9 First and the Last, who was dead and has come to life again: ·I know your 1:17–18,18p Is 44:6; 48:12

1 a. Jesus Christ is both author and subject of this revelation.

b. 'His servants' are the prophets in the early Church, see 10:7; 11:18; 22:6; Ac 11:27m and Am 3:7; but the same word is regularly used for all followers and disciples of Christ, 2:20; 7:3; 19:2,5; 22:3,6.

c. God sends the angel (messenger) 22:16, see Gn 16:7c; Ezk 40:3d, who probably represents Christ himself, in accordance with Rv 1:13 and 14:14,15.

d. The first of the seven 'beatitudes' of Rv, see 14:13; 16:15; 19:9; 20:6; 22:7; 22:14.

e. When Jesus returns; see 1:7 and 3:11; 22:10,12,20.

f. This section makes use of many OT allusions to suggest the King-Messiah's glorious return, solemn enthronement and future reign over God's people in fulfilment of the promise made to David. This is basically what the whole book is about.

g. A stereotyped expression, 1:8; 4:8; 11:17; 16:5, similar to others in Jewish Literature which develop the name revealed to Moses, interpreted as 'He who is', Ex 3:14.

h. The Messiah is the 'witness' to the promise that was made to David, 2 S 7:1a; Ps 89; Is 55:3–4; Zc 12:8, both in his person and in his work; as he fulfils this promise he is the efficacious Word, God's 'Yes', 3:14; 19:11,13; 2 Co 1:20. Not only is he heir to David, 5:5; 22:16, but by his Resurrection he is the 'First-born', Col 1:18, who will reign over the universe when his enemies have been destroyed, Rv 19:16; Dn 7:14.

i. var. 'released us from'.

j. Those who turn to the Messiah and whose sins he forgives, v. 5, will be a royal line of priests, Ex 19:3c,6; kings because they will rule over all the nations, Is 54:11–17; Dn 7:22,27; Zc 12:1–3; cf. Rv 2:26; 5:10; 20:6; 22:5; priests because in union with Jesus the messianic Priest they will consecrate the universe to God in a sacrifice of praise.

k. The doxologies frequent throughout Rv are plainly echoes of an ancient liturgy. They include precious christological material, for the Lamb is associated with the Father in many ways, see 5:6e. At the time, they would certainly have been read as a protest against the imperial cult of the state and emperor.

l. The first and last letters of the Gk alphabet, 21:6; 22:13; a quality of God, originator of all things, Is 41:4; 44:6, is transferred to Christ, cf. Rv 1:17; 2:8.

m. Presumably deported there for being a Christian.

n. The Messiah as Judge (cf. Dn 7:13, also 10:6). The long robe symbolises his priesthood (see Ex 28:4; 29:5; Zc 3:4), the golden cord round the waist his royalty, see 1 M 10:89, the white hair his eternity (see Dn 7:9), the burning eyes (to probe minds and 'hearts', see Rv 2:23) his divine knowledge, the feet of bronze (see Dn 2:31–45) his permanence; the brightness of his legs and face, and the strength of his voice symbolise the fear inspired by his majesty. In his power (his 'right hand') he holds the seven churches (the 'stars', see v. 20); he is prepared to sentence faithless Christians to death (the 'double-edged sword'), see 2:16; 19:15*l*; and Is 49:2; Ep 6:17; Heb 4:12. One or other of his attributes as Judge is used, at the beginning of each of the seven letters, to suggest the situation of the particular church addressed.

o. The one who has life 'in himself', see Jn 1:4; 3:15j; 5:21,26. The accent is on the fact that the risen Christ is alive here and now.

p. lit. 'Death and Hades'. Hades was the place of the dead, the Gk word corresponding to the sheol of the OT, see Nb 16:33f. Christ has the power to release souls from Hades, Jn 5:26–28.

q. 'present happenings' refers to the letters of ch. 2 and 3; 'things that are still to come': the revelations of ch. 4–22.

r. In Jewish thought not only the material world, see 7:1; 14:18; 16:5, was ruled by angels, but even individuals and communities, see Ex 23:20i. Hence each church is considered to be ruled by an angel responsible for it, to whom the letter is addressed. But the churches are also in the hand of Christ, that is, in his power and under his protection.

2 a. The seven letters all follow the same pattern. Statements on the condition of the churches ('I know') are followed by eschatological promises or threats. They are very rich in doctrine especially on Jesus Christ, who is presented throughout as speaking. They also give us a picture of Christian life in the Province of Asia at the end of the first century.

b. Metropolis of the Province of Asia; the other six churches of the letters that follow were located in the same province. Numerous pagan cults flourished there, including that of Artemis, Ac 19:24–40.

c. Probably the Nicolaitans of v. 6, see 2:15m, see also 2 Co 11:5,13.

d. Allusion to some previous persecution.

e. Ephesus will cease to be the religious capital.

f. This formula, which marks the conclusion of each of the letters to the churches, stresses the role of the Spirit in the relation of Christ with his Church.

Jm 2:5 hardships and your poverty, and —though you are rich [g]—the slander of the people
3:9 who falsely claim to be Jews [h] but are really members of the synagogue of Satan.
Lk 22:31–33 Jn 8:37–44 Do not be afraid of the sufferings that are coming to you. Look, the devil will 10
Dn 1:12,14seq. •1 Co 9:25+ send some of you to prison to put you to the test, and you must face hardship for ten days. [i] Even if you have to die, keep faithful, and I will give you the crown of life for your prize. •Let anyone who can hear, listen to what the Spirit is saying to the 11 churches: for those who prove victorious will come to no harm from the 20:14; 21:8 second death."

3 Pergamum

'Write to the angel of the church in Pergamum and say, "Here is the message of the 12 1:16; 19:15 one who has the sharp sword, double-edged: •I know where you live, in the place 13 where Satan is enthroned, and that you still hold firmly to my name, and did not disown your faith in me even when my faithful witness, Antipas, was killed among you, where Satan lives. [j]

"Nevertheless, I have one or two charges against you: some of you are followers 14
Nb 22:2b of Balaam, who taught Balak to set a trap for the Israelites [k] so that they committed
2:6 adultery [l] by eating food that had been sacrificed to idols; •and among you too 15
Nb 25:1–2 1 Co 8–10 there are some also who follow the teaching of the Nicolaitans. [m] •So repent, or I 16 2 P 2:15 shall soon come to you and attack these people with the sword out of my mouth.
Let anyone who can hear, listen to what the Spirit is saying to the churches: to 17 those who prove victorious I will give some hidden manna and a white stone, [n] with 3:12f; 19:12 Is 56:5; 62:2; 65:15 a new name written on it, known only to the person who receives it."

4 Thyatira

'Write to the angel of the church in Thyatira and say, "Here is the message of the 18
1:14–15 Son of God who has eyes like a burning flame and feet like burnished bronze: •I 19 know your activities, your love, your faith, your service and your perseverance, and I know how you are still making progress. •Nevertheless, I have a complaint to 20 make: you tolerate the woman Jezebel [o] who claims to be a prophetess, and by her 2:14+ teaching she is luring my servants away to commit the adultery of eating food which has been sacrificed to idols. •I have given her time to repent but she is not willing to 21 repent of her adulterous life. •Look, I am consigning her to a bed of pain, and all 22 her partners in adultery to great hardship, unless they repent of their practices; [p] and I will see that her children [q] die, so that all the churches realise that it is I who 23
Jr 11:20+; 17:10 Ps 62:12 test motives and thoughts and repay you as your deeds deserve. •But on the rest of 24
you in Thyatira, all of you who have not accepted this teaching or learnt the deep secrets of Satan, [r] as they are called, I am not laying any other burden; •but hold on 25
3:8–11 firmly to what you already have [s] until I come. •To anyone who proves victorious, 26
Ps 2:8–9 and keeps working for me until the end, I will give the authority over the nations
1:6k; 12:5; 19:15 which I myself have been given by my Father, to rule them with an iron 27 sceptre and shatter them like so many pots. •And I will give such a person the 28 22:16 Is 14:12 2 P 1:19 Morning Star. [t] •Let anyone who can hear, listen to what the Spirit is saying to 29
the churches."

5 Sardis

3 'Write to the angel of the church in Sardis and say, "Here is the message of the 1 1:16 one who holds the seven spirits of God and the seven stars [a]: I know about your behaviour: how you are reputed to be alive and yet are dead. •Wake up; put some 2 resolve into what little vigour you have left: it is dying fast. So far I have failed to notice anything in your behaviour that my God could possibly call perfect; remember how you first heard the message. Hold on to that. Repent! If you do not 3 Mt 24:42–44par. Mk 13:33 1 Th 5:2 •7:14 wake up, I shall come to you like a thief, and you will have no idea at what hour I shall come upon you. •There are a few in Sardis, it is true, who have kept their 4 robes unstained, and they are fit to come with me, dressed in white. •Anyone who 5 proves victorious will be dressed, like these, in white robes; [b] I shall not blot that name out of the book of life, but acknowledge it in the presence of my Father 6 and his angels. •Let anyone who can hear, listen to what the Spirit is saying to the churches."

20:12i
1 S 25:29i
Mt 10:32
Lk 9:26

6 Philadelphia

7 'Write to the angel of the church in Philadelphia and say, "Here is the message of the holy and true one who has the key of David, so that when he opens, no one will 8 close, and when he closes, no one will open: •I know about your activities. Look,
I have opened in front of you a door that no one will be able to close [c]—and I know that though you are not very strong, you have kept my commandments and not 9 disowned my name. •Look, I am going to make the synagogue of Satan—those who falsely claim to be Jews, but are liars, because they are no such thing—I will make them come and fall at your feet and recognize that I have loved you.
10 Because you have kept my commandment to persevere, I will keep you safe in the time of trial which is coming for the whole world, to put the people of the world 11 to the test. [d] •I am coming soon: hold firmly to what you already have, and let no 12 one take your victor's crown away from you. •Anyone who proves victorious I will make into a pillar in the sanctuary of my God, and it will stay there for ever; I will inscribe on it the name of my God [e] and the name of the city of my God, the new Jerusalem which is coming down from my God in heaven, and my own new 13 name as well. [f] •Let anyone who can hear, listen to what the Spirit is saying to the churches."

1:18
Lv 17:1a
Is 6:3g; 22:22
2:9h
Is 43:3;45:14; 60:14
2 P 2:9
2:25s
2 Co 6:2a
Ga 2:9
1 Tm 3:15
Ezk 48:35
•21:2seq.
•2:17n

7 Laodicea

14 'Write to the angel of the church in Laodicea and say, "Here is the message of the 15 Amen, [g] the trustworthy, the true witness, the Principle of God's creation: [h] •I know about your activities: how you are neither cold nor hot. I wish you were one 16 or the other, •but since you are neither hot nor cold, but only lukewarm, I will spit 17 you out of my mouth. •You say to yourself: I am rich, I have made a fortune and have everything I want, never realising that you are wretchedly and pitiably poor, 18 and blind and naked too. [i] •I warn you, buy from me the gold that has been tested in the fire [j] to make you truly rich, and white robes to clothe you and hide your

1:5h
2 Co 1:20
Jn 1:3
Ho 12:9
1 Co 4:8
Is 55:1

g. Smyrna's spiritual wealth contrasts with her material poverty.

h. Henceforth the Church of Christ is the true Israel, see Rm 9:8; Ga 6:16.

i. i.e. of short duration.

j. Emperor-worship, and the worship of other false gods, flourished in Pergamum, and are always represented in Rv as the antithesis of faith in Christ.

k. According to one Jewish tradition, see Nb 31:16, Balaam suggested to Balak that he should persuade Israel to idolatry with the help of the women of Moab, Nb 25:1–3.

l. The prophets used this as a common figure of speech for idolatry, religious infidelity, see Ho 1:2b.

m. This doctrine had some affinity with the errors already attacked by Paul in the Captivity Letters (notably in Col); it heralded the gnostic speculations of the second century, but also tolerated a measure of compromise with heathen cults, e.g. participation in sacred banquets, cf. v. 14.

n. The manna (hidden, together with the ark, by Jeremiah, 2 M 2:4–8 see also Heb 9:4) will be brought out as the food of those who are saved in the heavenly kingdom, see Jn 6:31.49, compare Rv 15:8d. The white stone (white is the colour of triumph and joy) alludes to various ancient usages (badges of honour,'tablets of discharge or admission) and symbolises entry into the kingdom. The 'new name' (3:12f; 19:12) signifies the Christian's spiritual rebirth, see Is 1:26n.

o. 'Jezebel'; var. 'your wife Jezebel'. A self-styled prophetess of the Nicolaitan sect; her name is symbolic, cf. 2 K 9:22.

p. var. 'their practices'.

q. Those who follow her teaching.

r. The letter takes issue with vain pretensions to penetrate the mystery of God which led to moral laxity.

s. The true faith in Christ.

t. The morning star is the symbol both of power, Nb 24:17; Is 14:12, and also of the glorification of the Christian by Christ the Lord, 22:16; see 1:5h; Ac 2:36w; Rm 1:4c.

3 a. In the letter to Ephesus, the seven stars represented the angels guiding the seven churches.

b. A symbol of purity but also of victory and joy. The robe is the conventional image for the profound reality of something, Is 51:9; 52:1; Rm 13:14; 1 Co 15:53–54; Col 3:9–12.

c. Free exercise of the apostolate, see Ac 14:27p.

d. In Rv the world always stands for the gentile world, as 'the world' is hostile in Jn 1:10; 17:9. The servants of God are not counted among its inhabitants, but will be preserved, 7:1seq., from the scourges described in ch. 8–9; 16 (cf. 18:4).

e. Cf. 2:17; 14:1; 19:12,13; and Is 56:5; 62:2; 65:15; see also Is 1:26n.

f. Either a name that will not be known until the second coming, or the name 'the Word', cf. 19:13.

g. Reference to Is 65:16 where 'God of truth' is literally 'God of Amen'; see 1:5h.

h. Christ is here identified with the creative Word and creative Wisdom. Cf. Pr 8:22; Ws 9:1seq.; Jn 1:3; Col 1:16seq.; Heb 1:2.

i. Unlike Smyrna, 2:9, Laodicea was rich in worldly goods, but spiritually poor.

j. The true riches that are of the spirit.

shameful nakedness, and ointment to put on your eyes to enable you to see. [k] •I 19
Pr 3:12 reprove and train those whom I love: so repent in real earnest. •Look, I am standing 20 1 Co 11:32 at the door, knocking. If one of you hears me calling and opens the door, I will Heb 12:4–11 come in to share a meal [l] at that person's side. •Anyone who proves victorious I will 21
Sg 5:2 allow to share my throne, just as I have myself overcome and have taken my seat
Is 50:2 with my Father on his throne. •Let anyone who can hear, listen to what the Spirit is 22
Lk 12:36; 22:29–30 saying to the churches." '
Jn 14:2
1:6k; 20:4
Mt 19:28

II: THE PROPHETIC VISIONS

A: THE PRELUDE TO THE GREAT DAY OF GOD

God entrusts the future of the world to the Lamb [a]

4 Then, in my vision, I saw a door open in heaven and heard the same voice 1
1:10 speaking to me, the voice like a trumpet, saying, 'Come up here: I will show
Ex 19:16 you what is to take place in the future.' •With that, I fell into ecstasy and I saw a 2
1:1,19 throne standing in heaven, and the One who was sitting on the throne, •and the 3
Dn 2:28 One sitting there looked like a diamond and a ruby. There was a rainbow encircling
Is 6:1 the throne, and this looked like an emerald. [b] •Round the throne in a circle were 4
Ezk 1:26–28; 10:1 twenty-four thrones, and on them twenty-four elders [c] sitting, dressed in white
Gn 9:12–17 robes with golden crowns on their heads. •Flashes of lightning were coming from 5
Is 24:23 the throne, and the sound of peals of thunder, [d] and in front of the throne there
8:5; 11:19; 16:18 were seven flaming lamps burning, the seven Spirits [e] of God. •In front of the 6
Ex 19:16 throne was a sea [f] as transparent as crystal. In the middle of the throne and around
Zc 4:2 5:6 it, [g] were four living creatures [h] all studded with eyes, in front and behind. •The first 7
Ex 24:10 living creature was like a lion, the second like a bull, the third living creature had a
Ezk 1:5–21; 10:14 human face, and the fourth living creature was like a flying eagle. •Each of the four 8
Is 6:2 living creatures had six wings and was studded with eyes all the way round as well as Ezk 10:12 inside; and day and night they never stopped singing:

Is 6:3 Holy, Holy, Holy
is the Lord God, the Almighty;
1:4g who was, and is and is to come.' [i]

Every time the living creatures glorified and honoured and gave thanks to the One 9
Dn 4:31 sitting on the throne, who lives for ever and ever, •the twenty-four elders prostrated 10 themselves before him to worship the One who lives for ever and ever, and threw down their crowns in front of the throne, [j] saying:

You are worthy, our Lord and God, 11 to receive glory and honour and power, for you made the whole universe;
14:7 by your will, when it did not exist, it was created.
Ps 115:3
Rm 4:17
Ep 1:11

5 I saw that in the right hand of the One sitting on the throne there was a scroll 1
•Is 29:11 that was written on back and front and was sealed with seven seals. [a] •Then I 2
Ezk 2:9 saw a powerful angel who called with a loud voice, 'Who is worthy [b] to open
Dn 12:4,9 the scroll and break its seals?' •But there was no one, in heaven or on the 3
Ph 2:10 earth or under the earth, [c] who was able to open the scroll and read it. •I wept 4 bitterly because nobody could be found to open the scroll and read it, •but one of 5 Lk 7:13–15 •Gn 49:9 the elders said to me, 'Do not weep. Look, the Lion of the tribe of Judah, the Root •Is 11:1,10 Rm 15:12 of David, has triumphed, [d] and so he will open the scroll and its seven seals.'
Then I saw, in the middle of the throne with its four living creatures and the circle 6
Jn 1:29v of the elders, a Lamb standing that seemed to have been sacrificed;[e] it had seven Zc 4:10 4:5e horns, and it had seven eyes,[f] which are the seven Spirits that God has sent out over the whole world, •The Lamb came forward to take the scroll from the right 7

8 hand of the One sitting on the throne, ·and when he took it, the four living creatures prostrated themselves before him and with them the twenty-four elders; each one of them was holding a harp and had a golden bowl full of incense which 9 are the prayers of the saints. ·They sang a new hymn: 14:3c Ac 9:13g

You are worthy to take the scroll and to break its seals, because you were sacrificed, and with your blood 14:4 Rm 3:24j
you bought [g] people for God of every race, language, people and nation [h] 10 and made them a line of kings and priests for God, 1:6k Ex 19:6 Is 61:6 to rule the world.

11 In my vision, I heard the sound of an immense number of angels gathered round the throne and the living creatures and the elders; there were ten thousand times Dn 7:10 Jude 14–15 12 ten thousand of them and thousands upon thousands, ·loudly chanting:

Worthy is the Lamb that was sacrificed to receive power, riches, wisdom, Ph 2:7–9 strength, honour, glory and blessing.

13 Then I heard all the living things in creation—everything that lives in heaven, and 5:3
on earth, and under the earth, and in the sea, crying:

To the One seated on the throne and to the Lamb,
be all praise, honour, glory and power,
for ever and ever.

14 And the four living creatures said, 'Amen'; and the elders prostrated themselves to worship.

k. The clothing and the eye ointment are, of course, needed to repair the 'blindness and nakedness' of v. 17; but there may be a special point in this as an allusion to the local products for which Laodicea was known.

l. Intimacy with Jesus, a foretaste of the messianic banquet, see Mt 8:11c. Very probably a liturgical allusion.

4 a. God on his throne is glorified by the heavenly court, ch. 4, then the horizon broadens to the whole universe, whose destiny is handed over to the Lamb in the form of a sealed book, ch. 5. There follow great symbolic visions which form a prelude to the 'Great Day' when the retribution of God will fall on the persecuting unbelievers, ch. 17–19.

b. John is careful not to describe God anthropomorphically; he prefers to give an impression of light. The whole scene draws heavily on Ezk 1 and 10; see also Is 6.

c. These elders, grouped round the throne of God as elders were grouped round the altar at the Eucharist of a local church, have a priestly and royal function; they praise and adore God, 4:10; 5:9; 11:16,17; 19:4, and offer him the prayers of the faithful; they assist in the government of the world (thrones) and share his royal power (crowns). The number 24 perhaps corresponds to the 24 orders of priests in 1 Ch 24:1–19.

d. Thunder is frequently associated with theophanies, see Ex 19:16g; Ezk 1:4,13.

e. Not the sevenfold Spirit of medieval tradition but the seven 'angels of the presence', see 3:1a; 8:2; Tb 12:15. God's messengers, cf. Rv 5:6 and passim; Tb 12:15; Zc 4:10; Lk 1:26.

f. Either the 'waters above' of Gn 1:7; Ps 104:3, or the prototype of the 'Sea' in the great Temple, 1 K 7:23–26.

g. The arrangement is difficult to imagine. 'In the middle of the throne and' is possibly a gloss from Ezk 1:5.

h. The symbolism derives from Ezk 1:5–21. The 'animals' are the four angels responsible for directing the physical world. 'Four' symbolises the universe; their many eyes symbolise God's omniscience and providence. They give unceasing glory to God for his creation. The figures of lion, bull, man, eagle suggest all that is noblest, strongest, wisest, swiftest, in the created world. Since Irenaeus, these four creatures have been used as symbols of the four evangelists.

i. The doxology of Isaiah was already in use in synagogue worship and was taken up by the Christian liturgies. Worship on earth is seen to be a participation in worship in heaven.

j. The elders do homage to God for the power which they have received from him, which the kings of the earth will refuse to do, 17:2.

5 a. A roll of papyrus in which God's hitherto secret decrees are written. The contents are made known in ch. 6–9. The presentation of the Lamb at the throne of God, ch. 5, occurs in the course of the eternal liturgy of ch. 4.

b. He alone will be worthy who has shown himself to be such in the testing, 5:9,12.

c. In Hades, 1:18p.

d. Over Satan and the world, see Jn 3:35t; 1 Jn 2:13g, 13, 14.

e. Taking over from the messianic titles of v. 5, the title of 'Lamb' which first occurs here will be used of Christ some thirty times in Rv. It is the Lamb sacrificed for the salvation of the chosen people, see Jn 1:29v; Is 53:7. He bears the wounds of his passion, but has triumphed and therefore stands erect, cf. Ac 7:55, as victor of death, Rv 1:18, and therefore associated with the Father as master of all humanity, see v. 13, etc, cf. ch. 21–22; Rm 1:4c.

f. Symbolising the fullness (number seven) of the Messiah's power (horns) and knowledge (eyes).

g. var. 'you bought us', 'you bought us for God'. The reading 'us' supposes that the elders are human beings, possibly the OT patriarchs, lit. 'you were killed and you bought for God by your blood'.

h. Stereotyped expression for 'the whole world'; see Dn 3:4,7,96.

The Lamb breaks the seven seals [a]

Jr 15:2–4
Ezk 5:17;14:13–21
Zc 1:8–10; 6:1–3

6 Then, in my vision, I saw the Lamb break one of the seven seals, and I heard 1 one of the four living creatures shout in a voice like thunder, 'Come!'
Immediately I saw a white horse appear, and its rider was holding a bow; he was 2 given a victor's crown and he went away, to go from victory to victory. [b]

When he broke the second seal, I heard the second living creature shout, 'Come!' 3
And out came another horse, bright red, and its rider was given this duty: to take 4 Ezk 21:14–16 away peace from the earth and set people killing each other. He was given a huge sword. [c]

When he broke the third seal, I heard the third living creature shout, 'Come!' 5
Immediately I saw a black horse appear, and its rider was holding a pair of scales; [d] and I seemed to hear a voice shout from among the four living creatures and say, 6
Lv 26:26
Ezk 4:16seq. 'A day's wages for a quart of corn, and a day's wages for three quarts of barley, but do not tamper with the oil or the wine.'

When he broke the fourth seal, I heard the voice of the fourth living creature 7 shout, 'Come!' ·Immediately I saw another horse appear, deathly pale, and its 8 1:18p rider was called Death, [e] and Hades followed at its heels. [f]
Ezk 14:21 They were given authority over a quarter of the earth, to kill by the sword, by famine, by plague and through wild beasts.

When he broke the fifth seal, I saw underneath the altar the souls of all the 9 people who had been killed on account of the Word of God, [g] for witnessing to it.
Dt 32:43
Jb 16:18f
Ps 5:10c
Zc 1:12–13
Lk 18:7
3:10d They shouted in a loud voice, 'Holy, true Master, how much longer will you wait 10 before you pass sentence and take vengeance for our death on the inhabitants of the earth?' ·Each of them was given a white robe, [h] and they were told to be patient 11 a little longer, until the roll was completed of their fellow-servants and brothers who were still to be killed as they had been.

In my vision, when he broke the sixth seal, there was a violent earthquake and 12
Is 50:3b
Mt 24:29 the sun went as black as coarse sackcloth; the moon turned red as blood all over,
Is 34:4 and the stars of the sky fell onto the earth like figs dropping from a fig tree when a 13 high wind shakes it; ·the sky disappeared like a scroll rolling up and all the 14 16:20 mountains and islands were shaken from their places. [i] ·Then all the kings of the 15 earth, the governors and the commanders, the rich people and the men of influ-
Is 2:10,19 ence, the whole population, slaves and citizens, hid in caverns and among the rocks
Ho 10:8
Lk 23:30 of the mountains. ·They said to the mountains and the rocks, 'Fall on us and hide 16 us away from the One who sits on the throne and from the retribution of the Lamb.
Jl 2:11;3:4
Rm 1:18
1 Co 1:8e For the Great Day of his retribution [j] has come, and who can face it?' 17

God's servants will be preserved

7 Next I saw four angels, standing at the four corners of the earth, holding back 1
Jr 49:36
Ezk 7:2
Zc 6:5 the four winds of the world to keep them from blowing over the land or the sea or any tree. ·Then I saw another angel rising where the sun rises, carrying the seal 2 of the living God; he called in a powerful voice to the four angels [a] whose duty was to devastate land and sea, ·'Wait before you do any damage on land or at sea or to 3 3:12;22:4
Ex 12:7–14
Is 44:5b
Ezk 9:4
=14:1 the trees, until we have put the seal on the foreheads of the servants of our God.'
And I heard how many had been sealed: a hundred and forty-four thousand, [b] out 4 of all the tribes of Israel.

Nb 1:20–43 From the tribe of Judah, twelve thousand had been sealed; from the tribe of 5
Reuben, twelve thousand; from the tribe of Gad, twelve thousand; ·from the tribe 6 of Asher, twelve thousand; from the tribe of Naphtali, twelve thousand; from the tribe of Manasseh, twelve thousand; ·from the tribe of Simeon, twelve thousand; 7 from the tribe of Levi, twelve thousand; from the tribe of Issachar, twelve thousand; ·from the tribe of Zebulun, twelve thousand; from the tribe of Joseph, twelve 8 thousand; and from the tribe of Benjamin, twelve thousand had been sealed.

The rewarding of the saints

=15:2–5
Gn 15:5 After that I saw that there was a huge number, impossible for anyone to count, of 9 people from every nation, race, tribe and language; [c] they were standing in front of the throne and in front of the Lamb, dressed in white robes and holding palms in 10 their hands. [d] They shouted in a loud voice, •'Salvation to our God, who sits on the 11 throne, and to the Lamb!' •And all the angels who were standing in a circle round the throne, surrounding the elders and the four living creatures, prostrated themselves before the throne, and touched the ground with their foreheads, worshipping 12 God •with these words:

=5:9h

Amen. Praise and glory and wisdom, thanksgiving and honour and power and strength to our God for ever and ever. Amen.

13 One of the elders then spoke and asked me, 'Who are these people, dressed in 14 white robes, and where have they come from?' •I answered him, 'You can tell me, sir.' Then he said, [e] 'These are the people who have been through the great trial; [f] they have washed their robes white again in the blood of the Lamb. [g]
15 That is why they are standing in front of God's throne and serving him day and night in his sanctuary; and the One who sits on the throne will spread his tent over 16 them. •They will never hunger or thirst again; sun and scorching wind will never 17 plague them, •because the Lamb who is at the heart of the throne will be their shepherd and will guide them to springs of living water; and God will wipe away all tears from their eyes.' [h]

=15:2
Dn 12:1
1:5;22:14
Gn 49:11
Ex 19:10
21:3;22:3
Is 4:5seq.;25:4–5;49:10
Is 49:10
=21:4
Is 25:8

The seventh seal

1 8 The Lamb then broke the seventh seal, and there was silence in heaven for about half an hour. [a]

Hab 2:20
Zp 1:7
Zc 2:17

The prayers of the saints bring the coming of the Great Day nearer

2 Next I saw seven trumpets being given to the seven angels who stand in the 3 presence of God. •Another angel, who had a golden censer, [b] came and stood at the altar. [c] A large quantity of incense was given to him to offer with the prayers of 4 all the saints on the golden altar that stood in front of the throne; •and so from the angel's hand the smoke of the incense went up in the presence of God and with it
5 the prayers of the saints. •Then the angel took the censer and filled it from the fire

4:5e
5:8;6:9
Ps 141:2
Ezk 30:1–10
Ex 19:16g
Lv 16:12
Ezk 10:2

6 a. Ch. 6–9 make a homogeneous whole. As the Lamb unseals the book, 6–8:1, and the trumpets sound, 8:2–9, the vision unfurls of the events which announce and prepare the overthrow of the Roman empire, prototype of God's enemies, cf. Mt 24seq. The four horsemen of this first vision are modelled on Zc 1:8–10 and 6:1–3; but they further symbolise the four scourges with which God, through the prophets, threatened a faithless Israel: wild animals, war, famine, plague, cf. Lv 26:21–26; Dt 32:24; Ezk 5:17; 14:13–21; and also Ezk 6:11–12; 7:14–15; 12:16; 33:27.

b. The rider on the white horse (symbol of victory) represents the Parthians, identified by the bow, their favourite weapon. They were the terror of the Roman world in the first century. These are the 'wild beasts' of v. 8 (i.e. victorious gentile nations, cf. Dt 7:22; Jr 15:2–4; 50:17; Ezk 34:28). The Parthian invasion is described in the vision of 9:13seq. One tradition identified the rider with the Messiah, as in 19:11–16.

c. Symbol of war.

d. Symbol of famine: food is rationed and sold at a prohibitive price.

e. The colour is that of a corpse decomposing, especially as a result of plague.

f. To swallow up the victims.

g. The altar, 8:3; 9:13; 14:18; 16:7, corresponds in this liturgy to the altar of burnt offerings, 1 K 8:64s. The martyrs, witnesses to the Word, are associated with their Master's sacrifice, see Ph 2:17r.

h. Symbolising triumphant joy, 3:5b; 7:9,13–14; 19:8.

i. In the prophets, these cosmic events signalise the Day of Yahweh, see Am 8:9h. They are to be understood not as physical realities but as symbols of God's retribution, see Mt 24:1a.

j. var. 'their retribution'.

7 a. The angels of v. 1.

b. Twelve (the sacred number) squared and multiplied by one thousand represents the totality of all who have been faithful to Christ (the new Israel, cf. Ga 6:16). Marked with God's seal, Rm 4:11e, in the end they will escape the plagues to come, cf. Ex 12:7–14.

c. All the Christian martyrs now in heaven, v. 14.

d. The palms of victory form an allusion to the joyful feast of Shelters, Lv 23:33–34; in v. 15 they will live in God's tent.

e. For this form of dialogue see Zc 4:4–13 and 6:4–5.

f. The persecutions, of which Nero's was the prototype.

g. Blood is the symbol of the effectiveness of the death of Jesus, Rm 3:25k; 1 Co 11:25; Ep 1:7. Here the gift is given to those who receive its effects.

h. Common metaphors in the prophetic tradition, used to symbolise eschatological bliss, see Is 11:6e; Ho 2:20v; they recur in Rv 21:4.

8 a. As in the prophetic tradition a solemn silence precedes and heralds the coming of the Lord. The decrees contained in the open book are now going to be carried out in a new celestial liturgy, marked by seven trumpet-blasts, ch. 8–9; 11:15–18.

b. This was in the shape of a scoop or shovel, and was also used for carrying the live coals from the altar of burnt offering to the altar of incense.

c. The altar of incense, see Ex 30:1; 1 K 6:20–21.

of the altar, which he then hurled down onto the earth; immediately there came 4:5 peals of thunder and flashes of lightning, and the earth shook.

=16:1–9 The first four trumpets

Jl 2:1b The seven angels that had the seven trumpets now made ready to sound them. 6
Ex 9:24 Jl 3:3 The first blew his trumpet and, with that, hail and fire, mixed with blood, were 7 hurled on the earth: a third of the earth was burnt up, and a third of all trees, and every blade of grass was burnt. [d] ·The second angel blew his trumpet, and it was as 8
Jr 51:25 though a great mountain blazing with fire was hurled into the sea: a third of the sea
Ex 7:20 turned into blood, ·a third of all the living things in the sea were killed, and a third 9
Is 14:12 of all ships were destroyed. ·The third angel blew his trumpet, and a huge star fell 10 from the sky, burning like a ball of fire, and it fell on a third of all rivers and on the Jr 9:14 springs of water; ·this was the star called Wormwood, and a third of all water 11 turned to wormwood, so that many people died; the water had become so bitter.
The fourth angel blew his trumpet, and a third of the sun and a third of the moon 12 and a third of the stars were blasted, so that the light went out of a third of them
Ex 10:21–23 and the day lost a third of its illumination, and likewise the night.
14:6 Ezk 7:5,26; 9:12;11:14 In my vision, I heard an eagle, calling aloud as it flew high overhead, 'Disaster, 13 disaster, disaster, on all the people on earth at the sound of the other three trumpets which the three angels have yet to blow!'

The fifth trumpet

Is 14:12 9 Then the fifth angel blew his trumpet, and I saw a star [a] that had fallen from 1 heaven onto the earth, and the angel was given the key to the shaft leading Gn 19:28 Ex 19:18 down to the Abyss. [b] ·When he unlocked the shaft of the Abyss, smoke rose out of 2
the Abyss like the smoke from a huge furnace so that the sun and the sky were Ex 10:12,15 Ws 16:9 Jl 1–2 darkened by the smoke from the Abyss, ·and out of the smoke dropped locusts 3 onto the earth: they were given the powers that scorpions have on the earth: [c] they were forbidden to harm any fields or crops or trees [d] and told to attack only 4 7:3 Ezk 9:6 those people who were without God's seal on their foreheads. ·They were not to 5 kill them, but to give them anguish for five months, and the anguish was to be the Jb 3:21 anguish of a scorpion's sting. ·When this happens, people will long for death and 6 not find it anywhere; they will want to die and death will evade them.
Jl 2:4 These locusts looked like horses armoured for battle; they had what looked like 7
gold crowns on their heads, and their faces looked human, ·and their hair was like 8
Jl 1:6 women's hair, and teeth like lion's teeth. ·They had body-armour like iron breast- 9 Jl 2:5 plates, and the noise of their wings sounded like the racket of chariots with many horses charging. ·Their tails were like scorpions' tails, with stings, and with their 10 tails they were able to torture people for five months. ·As their leader they had 11 their emperor, the angel of the Abyss, whose name in Hebrew is Abaddon, and in Greek Apollyon. [e]
8:13 That was the first of the disasters; there are still two more to come. 12

The sixth trumpet

The sixth angel blew his trumpet, and I heard a single voice issuing from the four 13
Ex 30:1–3 horns of the golden altar [f] in God's presence. ·It spoke to the sixth angel with the 14
=16:12 trumpet, and said, 'Release the four angels that are chained up at the great river
6:17 1 Co 1:8e Euphrates.' [g] ·These four angels had been ready for this hour of this day of this 15 month of this year, and ready to destroy a third of the human race. ·I learnt how 16 many there were in their army: twice ten thousand times ten thousand mounted men. ·In my vision I saw the horses, and the riders with their breastplates of flame 17 colour, hyacinth-blue and sulphur-yellow; the horses had lions' heads, and fire, Jb 41:10–13 Ws 11:17–18 smoke and sulphur were coming from their mouths. ·It was by these three plagues, 18 the fire, the smoke and the sulphur coming from their mouths, that the one third of the human race was killed. ·All the horses' power was in their mouths and their 19 tails: their tails were like snakes, and had heads which inflicted wounds. ·But the 20 rest of the human race, who escaped death by these plagues, refused either to abandon their own handiwork or to stop worshipping devils, the idols made of 21 gold, silver, bronze, stone and wood that can neither see nor hear nor move. ·Nor did they give up their murdering, or witchcraft, or fornication or stealing.

Am 4:6f
Is 17:8
Ps 135:15–17
Dn 5:4

The imminence of the last punishment

1 10 Then I saw another powerful angel coming down from heaven, wrapped in cloud, with a rainbow over his head; his face was like the sun, and his legs
2 were pillars of fire. ·In his hand he had a small scroll, unrolled;[a] he put his right
3 foot in the sea and his left foot on the land ·and he shouted so loud, it was like a 4 lion roaring. At this, the seven claps of thunder made themselves heard[b] ·and when the seven thunderclaps had sounded, I was preparing to write, when I heard a voice from heaven say to me, 'Keep the words of the seven thunderclaps secret 5 and do not write them down.'[c] ·Then the angel that I had seen, standing on the 6 sea and the land, raised his right hand to heaven,[d] ·and swore by him who lives for ever and ever, and made heaven and all that it contains, and earth and all it contains, 7 and the sea and all it contains, 'The time of waiting is over; ·at the time when the seventh angel is heard sounding his trumpet, the mystery of God[e] will be fulfilled, just as he announced in the gospel to his servants the prophets.'

Am 1:2d;3:8
Ps 29:3–9
22:10
Dn 8:26; 12:4,9
Dt 32:40
Dn 12:7
Ex 20:11
Ne 9:6
Rm 16:25*l*
Am 3:7

The seer eats the small scroll[f]

8 Then I heard the voice I had heard from heaven speaking to me again. 'Go', it said, 9 'and take that open scroll from the hand of the angel standing on sea and land.' ·I went to the angel and asked him to give me the small scroll, and he said, 'Take it 10 and eat it; it will turn your stomach sour, but it will taste as sweet as honey.' ·So I took it out of the angel's hand, and I ate it and it tasted sweet as honey, but when I 11 had eaten it my stomach turned sour.[g] ·Then I was told, 'You are to prophesy again, this time against many different nations and countries and languages and kings.'

Ezk 3:1–13a

The two witnesses

1 11 Then I was given a long cane like a measuring rod,[a] and I was told, 'Get up and measure God's sanctuary, and the altar, and the people who worship 2 there;[b] ·but exclude the outer court and do not measure it, because it has been handed over to gentiles—they will trample on the holy city for forty-two months.[c]

Ezk 40:3d
Zc 2:5–9
Lk 21:24

d. For the symbolism of these disasters see 6:1a. In addition they seem to recall the plagues of Egypt, Ex 7–10; Ws 11:5–12:2; cf. 15:5seq.

9 a. One of the fallen angels, perhaps Satan himself, see v. 11 and Lk 10:18.

b. Where the fallen angels are imprisoned until their final punishment.

c. The vision of locusts is suggested by Jl 1–2 which, according to Jerome, the Jews interpreted historically: the four armies of locusts being successive invaders, Assyrian, Persian, Greek and Roman; see Jr 51:27. Here the locusts probably indicate the Parthians. Another suggestion is that the locusts symbolise spiritual torments inflicted by demons.

d. Possibly symbols of upright, faithful Christians, see 7:1seq.

e. Destruction, or ruin, personified.

f. This is to show that the vengeance on unbelievers follows the prayer of the martyrs described in 6:9,10 (see 8:2seq.).

g. The Euphrates was the eastern border of the Roman empire, beyond which were the Parthians, at this time a dreaded enemy and the nightmare of the Roman rulers. The description in v. 19 of the warhorses whose power was in their mouths and in their tails recalls the Parthian mounted archers, who having attacked, turned to retreat and fired a 'Parthian shot'—a salvo over their horses' tails.

10 a. Unlike the sealed book given to the Lamb, 5:2, the one offered to John is small and open.

b. The voice of God, cf. Ps 29:3–9.

c. Keep it secret, cf. Dn 12:4; 2 Co 12:4, because the time of its fulfilment, v. 7, has not yet come. It is used in a different sense in 1:11,19; etc; 22:10.

d. The angel, in contact with air, sea and land, the three regions of the universe, is about to swear by him who made them; cf. Gn 14:22; Ex 20:11; Dt 32:40; Ne 9:6.

e. The definitive establishment of the kingdom; the sign of this is the destruction of the enemies of God's people, 17; 18; 20:7–10. On the 'mystery' or 'secret' of God in the eschatological sense, see Rm 11:25; 16:25*l*; 2 Th 2:6seq.

f. The incident draws on the prophetic call of Ezekiel, Ezk 2:8–3:3, cf. Jr 15:16. It renews the mission of John, 1:1–2,9–20, and defines it more closely.

g. The news is sweet because it announces the Church's victory, bitter because it foretells her suffering, 11:1–13.

11 a. Some MSS insert 'and the angel stood there'.

b. The Temple, centre of the holy city Jerusalem, represents the people of God, 20:9; 21:1a; 1 Co 3:16–17,16c. It is to be 'measured', cf. Jr 31:39; Ezk 40:1–6; Zc 2:5–9. Surrounded by unbelievers, v. 2, those who are faithful to Christ will be spared, see 7:4; 14:1–5, like the remnant of Israel, see Is 4:3.

c. This period (three-and-a-half years) taken from Dn, had become the symbol for any persecution, cf. Lk 4:25; Jm 5:17. Here it is the Roman persecution (the Beast of 13; 17:10–14).

Dn 7:25p But I shall send my two witnesses to prophesy for twelve hundred and sixty days, 3
Zc 4:3,14 wearing sackcloth. 4 These are the two olive trees and the two lamps in attendance
2 K 1:10 Jr 5:14 on the Lord of the world. [d] 5 Fire comes from their mouths and consumes their enemies if anyone tries to harm them; and anyone who tries to harm them will 1 K 17:1 certainly be killed in this way. 6 They have the power to lock up the sky so that it
Ex 7:17;11:10 does not rain as long as they are prophesying; they have the power to turn water into blood and strike the whole world with any plague as often as they like. 7 When they have completed their witnessing, the beast that comes out of the Abyss [e] is Dn 7:21 going to make war on them and overcome them and kill them. 8 Their corpses lie in the main street of the great city [f] known by the symbolic names Sodom and Egypt, in which their Lord was crucified. 9 People of every race, tribe, language and nation stare at their corpses, for three-and-a-half days, not letting them be buried, 10 and the people of the world are glad about it and celebrate the event by giving presents to each other, because these two prophets have been a plague to the people of the world.'

Ex 37:5,10 After the three-and-a-half days, God breathed life into them and they stood up 11 on their feet, and everybody who saw it happen was terrified; 12 then I heard [g] a loud 2 K 2:11 Ac 1:9m voice from heaven say to them, 'Come up here,' and while their enemies were watching, they went up to heaven in a cloud. 13 Immediately, there was a violent earthquake, and a tenth of the city collapsed; seven thousand persons [h] were killed in the earthquake, and the survivors, overcome with fear, could only praise the God of heaven.

8:13;9:12 That was the second of the disasters; the third is to come quickly after it. [i] 14

The seventh trumpet

Then the seventh angel blew his trumpet, and voices could be heard shouting in 15
1:5h heaven, calling, 'The kingdom of the world has become the kingdom of our Lord Ps 2:22:29 Dn 7:14,27 and his Christ, and he will reign for ever and ever.' 16 The twenty-four elders, enthroned in the presence of God, prostrated themselves and touched the ground with their foreheads worshipping God 17 with these words, 'We give thanks to you, 1:4g Almighty Lord God, He who is, He who was, for assuming your great power and Ps 2:1,5 beginning your reign. 18 The nations were in uproar and now the time has come for Am 3:7 your retribution, and for the dead to be judged, and for your servants the prophets, Ps 115:13 for the saints and for those who fear your name, small and great alike, to be rewarded. The time has come to destroy those who are destroying the earth.'

Ex 25:8–10,8d Then the sanctuary of God in heaven [j] opened, and the ark of the covenant could 19 1 K 8:1–6,4c 2 M 2:5–8 be seen inside it. Then came flashes of lightning, peals of thunder and an earth-8:5 quake and violent hail.

The vision of the woman and the dragon [a]

Gn 37:9 12 Now a great sign appeared in heaven: a woman, [b] robed with the sun, 1 standing on the moon, and on her head a crown of twelve stars. 2 She was Gn 3:16 Mi 4:9–10 pregnant, and in labour, crying aloud in the pangs of childbirth. 3 Then a second Dn 7:7 sign appeared in the sky: there was a huge red dragon with seven heads and ten horns, and each of the seven heads crowned with a coronet. [c] 4 Its tail swept a third Dn 8:10 of the stars from the sky and hurled them to the ground, [d] and the dragon stopped in front of the woman as she was at the point of giving birth, so that he could eat the
Is 66:7 child as soon as it was born. 5 The woman was delivered of a boy, [e] the son who was 1:6k;2:27 Ps 2:9 to rule all the nations with an iron sceptre, and the child was taken straight up to God and to his throne, [f] 6 while the woman escaped into the desert, [g] where God 11:3+;12:14 Dn 10:13b;12:1 had prepared a place for her to be looked after for twelve hundred and sixty days.

And now war broke out in heaven, when Michael [h] with his angels attacked the 7 20:2–3 Gn 3:1–4 dragon. The dragon fought back with his angels, 8 but they were defeated and Mt 4:1c driven out of heaven. 9 The great dragon, the primeval serpent, known as the devil Lk 10:18 Jn 12:31 or Satan, who had led all the world astray, was hurled down to the earth and his angels were hurled down with him. 10 Then I heard a voice shout from heaven,

'Salvation and power and empire for ever have been won by our God, and all authority for his Christ, now that the accuser, who accused our brothers day and 11:15
11 night before our God, has been brought down. ·They have triumphed over him by the blood of the Lamb and by the word to which they bore witness, because even in 12 the face of death they did not cling to life. ·So let the heavens rejoice and all who Jn 12:25 live there; but for you, earth and sea, disaster is coming—because the devil has 20:3 gone down to you in a rage, knowing that he has little time left.'

13 As soon as the dragon found himself hurled down to the earth, he sprang in 2 Co 6:2a
14 pursuit of the woman, the mother of the male child, ·but she was given a pair of the Gn 3:15 great eagle's wings to fly away from the serpent into the desert, to the place where Ex 19:4 15 she was to be looked after for a time, two times and half a time. [i] ·So the serpent Is 40:31 11:3c Dn 7:25p vomited water from his mouth, like a river, after the woman, to sweep her away in 16 the current, [j] ·but the earth came to her rescue; it opened its mouth and swallowed Nb 16:30–34
17 the river spewed from the dragon's mouth. ·Then the dragon was enraged with the woman and went away to make war on the rest of her children, who obey God's commandments and have in themselves the witness of Jesus. [k]

The dragon delegates his power to the beast [l]

Dn 7
2 Th 2:3–12

18 And I took my stand [m] on the seashore.

1 13 Then I saw a beast emerge from the sea: it had seven heads and ten horns, =17:3,8 Dn 7:3 with a coronet on each of its ten horns, and its heads were marked with 2 blasphemous titles. ·I saw that the beast was like a leopard, with paws like a bear 7:4–6 and a mouth like a lion; the dragon had handed over to it his own power and his Lk 4:6
3 throne and his immense authority. [a] ·I saw that one of its heads seemed to have had a fatal wound but that this deadly injury had healed [b] and the whole world had 4 marvelled and followed the beast. ·They prostrated themselves in front of the dragon because he had given the beast his authority; and they prostrated themselves in front of the beast, saying, 'Who can compare with the beast? [c] Who can

d. In Zc the two olive trees symbolise Joshua and Zerubbabel, the religious and the civil leaders of the repatriated community who restored Temple and city after the Exile. Here they probably stand for the two champions who are to build up the new Temple, Christ's Church; they are described, vv. 5–6,11–12, by means of the features of Moses and Elijah, cf. Mt 17:3seq.,3e. They can hardly be identified, but Peter and Paul, martyred at Rome under Nero, see vv. 7–8, have been suggested.

e. The emperor Nero, type of Antichrist, cf. 13:1,18; 17:8 with notes.

f. The great city here is Babylon, i.e. Rome, see 16:19; 17:18; 18:10,16,18,19; it is called Sodom and Egypt for its two great crimes: refusing God's messengers and oppressing the people of Christ, see 17:4–6. Here it is identified with Jerusalem which is not only the holy city, 11:1, but which 'killed the prophets', Mt 23:37.

g. var. 'they heard'.

h. The figure symbolises people of all classes of society (seven) and in great numbers (thousands).

i. The second disaster was described (the sixth trumpet) in 9:15–19. The third is to be the fall of Babylon (Rome) in ch. 17–18.

j. As opposed to the Jerusalem Temple referred to in vv. 1 and 2, it contains the ark (Ex 25) of the new covenant, permanent home of God among his people, see 2 M 2:5–8; Ws 9:8d.

12 a. This chapter is made up of two separate visions: the attack of the dragon on the woman and her children, vv. 1–6 and 13–17; the attack of Michael on the dragon, vv. 7–12.

b. This scene looks back to Gn 3:15–16. The woman gives birth in pain, v. 2, to a child who will be the Messiah, v. 5. Satan tests her, v. 9, see 20:2, persecutes both her and her offspring, vv. 6,13,17. She represents the holy people of the messianic era, Is 54; 60; 66:7; Mi 4:9–10, and so the Church militant. It is possible that the author was thinking also of Mary, the new Eve, the daughter of Zion, who gave birth to the Messiah, see Jn 19:25j.

c. The dragon is 'Satan', see v. 9 and 20:2, a word which the LXX renders as 'devil'. The Hebr. word means 'accuser', see v. 10 and Zc 3:1–2; see also Jb 1:6g. In the Jewish tradition the Serpent or Dragon represented the power of evil, hostile to God and his people, and God was to destroy it at the end of time, see Jb 3:8e and 7:12f.

d. Allusion to the fall of the angels seduced by Satan.

e. The Messiah considered simultaneously as an individual person and as head or leader of the new Israel, cf. the 'Son of man' of Dn 7:13, and the 'servant of Yahweh' of Is 42:1a.

f. The ascension and the triumph of the Messiah that will result in the dragon's fall. The child's triumph is here described immediately after its birth.

g. Traditional OT refuge for the persecuted, see Ex 2:15; 1 K 17:2seq.; 19:3seq.; 1 M 2:29,30. To exist, the Church must depend not on the world but on her own divine life, cf. Ex 16; 1 K 17:4,6; 19:5–8; Mt 4:3–4, 14:13 seq.

h. According to Jewish tradition (Dn 10:12–21; 12:1) he is God's champion. The name means 'Who (is) like God?'

i. lit. 'a time and times and half a time'. Three and a half years, see 11:2c.

j. The Roman empire, like a flood let loose by Satan, cf. Is 8:7–8, will try to engulf the Church, see Rv 13.

k. Two marks of the faithful, 14:1; cf. 14:12; 20:4; already 1:1, and Rm 8:29.

l. This vision draws on Dn 7 (in the persecution of Antiochus Epiphanes). According to Rv 17:10,12–14, the Beast from the (Mediterranean) sea is the Roman empire, type of all forces in opposition to Christ and the Church, because it claims divine powers (its titles, Rv 1, cf. Dn 11:36; 2 Th 2:4). The seven heads and the ten horns recur in 17:3,7–12.

m. var. 'he stood', which would join v. 18 to the preceding passage.

13 a. It is from Satan, 12:3c, that he receives all his power, cf. Mt 4:8–9; Jn 12:31i; 2 Th 2:9.

b. The allusion may be to the empire recovering after some temporary set-back, or to the expectation of Nero redivivus. The risen beast is a caricature of the risen Christ.

c. A parody of the name Michael, 12:7.

Dn 7:8,11 fight against him?' ·The beast was allowed to mouth its boasts and blasphemies and 5 11:2c to be active for forty-two months; ·and it mouthed its blasphemies against God, 6 against his name, his heavenly Tent and all those who are sheltered there. ·It was 7
Dn 7:21 allowed to make war against the saints and conquer them, and given power over Dn 7:6 every race, people, language and nation; ·and all people of the world will worship 8
it, that is, everybody whose name has not been written down since the foundation 20:12i of the world in the sacrificial Lamb's book of life. ·Let anyone who can hear, listen: 9
Jr 15:2 Those for captivity to captivity; those for death[d] by the sword to death by the 10
Mt 13:9 sword.[e] ·This is why the saints must have perseverance and faith.

The false prophet as the slave of the beast

Mt 7:15 Then I saw a second beast, emerging from the ground;[f] it had two horns like a 11 lamb, but made a noise like a dragon. ·This second beast exercised all the power of 12
the first beast, on its behalf making the world and all its people worship the first Dt 13:2–4 beast, whose deadly injury had healed. ·And it worked great miracles, even to 13
1 K 18:38+ calling down fire from heaven onto the earth while people watched. ·Through the 14
Mt 24:24
2 Th 2:9–10 miracles which it was allowed to do on behalf of the first beast, it was able to lead astray the people of the world and persuade them to put up a statue in honour of the beast that had been wounded by the sword and still lived. ·It was allowed to 15 breathe life into this statue, so that the statue of the beast was able to speak, and to Dn 3:5–7,15 have anyone who refused to worship the statue of the beast put to death.[g] ·It 16 compelled everyone—small and great alike, rich and poor, slave and citizen—to 7:13;14:9,11; 16:2;19:20; 20:4 be branded on the right hand or on the forehead, ·and made it illegal for anyone to 17 buy or sell anything unless he had been branded with the name of the beast or with the number of its name.
17:9 There is need for shrewdness here: anyone clever may interpret the number of 18
the beast: it is the number of a human being, the number 666.[h]

=7:1–8,4b The companions of the Lamb[a]

2 K 19:30–31 14 Next in my vision I saw Mount Zion, and standing on it the Lamb[b] who had 1 Jl 3:5 with him a hundred and forty-four thousand people, all with his name and Ob 17
·Zp 3:12–13 his Father's name written on their foreheads. ·I heard a sound coming out of 2
Ac 2:21m heaven like the sound of the ocean or the roar of thunder; it was like the sound of harpists playing their harps. ·There before the throne they were singing a new 3 5:9 hymn[c] in the presence of the four living creatures and the elders, a hymn that could
Ps 33:3;98:1
Is 42:10;43:19 be learnt only by the hundred and forty-four thousand who had been redeemed
3:10 from the world. ·These are the ones who have kept their virginity[d] and not been 4
Jr 2:2–3
Zp 3:13 defiled with women; they follow the Lamb wherever he goes;[e] they, out of all people, have been redeemed to be the first-fruits for God and for the Lamb. ·No 5 lie was found in their mouths and no fault can be found in them.[f]

Angels announce the Day of Judgement[g]

8:13 Then I saw another angel, flying high overhead, sent to announce the gospel of 6 eternity to all who live on the earth, every nation, race, language and tribe. ·He 7
Mt 10:28par. was calling, 'Fear God and glorify him, because the time has come for him to Ex 20:11 sit in judgement; worship the maker of heaven and earth and sea and the springs of water.'
=18:2–3 A second angel followed him, calling, 'Babylon has fallen, Babylon the Great 8
Is 21:9
Is 51:17h has fallen,[h] Babylon which gave the whole world the wine of retribution to drink.'[i]
Jr 25:15;51:7–8
·13:15–17,15h A third angel followed, shouting aloud, 'All those who worship the beast and his 9 statue, or have had themselves branded on the hand or forehead, ·will be made to 10 drink the wine of God's fury which is ready, undiluted, in his cup of retribution; in Gn 19:24 fire and brimstone[j] they will be tortured in the presence of the holy angels and the 19:3 Lamb ·and the smoke of their torture rise for ever and ever. There will be no 11
Is 34:9–10
respite, night or day, for those who worship the beast or its statue or accept Ac 9:13g branding with its name.' ·This is why there must be perseverance in the saints who 12

13 keep the commandments of God and faith in Jesus. •Then I heard a voice from heaven say to me, 'Write down: Blessed are those who die in the Lord! Blessed indeed, the Spirit says; now they can rest for ever after their work, since their good deeds go with them.'

12:17
1:3e
1 Co 15:18
•Is 57:1–2
Mt 11:28–29
Heb 4:10

The harvest and vintage of the gentiles [k]

Jl 4:12–13

14 Now in my vision I saw a white cloud and, sitting on it, one like a son of man with a 15 gold crown on his head and a sharp sickle in his hand. •Then another angel came out of the sanctuary and shouted at the top of his voice to the one sitting on the cloud, 'Ply your sickle and reap: harvest time has come and the harvest of the earth
16 is ripe.' •Then the one sitting on the cloud set his sickle to work on the earth, and the harvest of earth was reaped.

1:7
Dn 7:13
Jr 51:33
Jl 4:13
Mt 13:36–43
Jn 4:35
Rm 2:6b

17 Another angel, who also carried a sharp sickle, came out of the temple in 18 heaven, •and the angel in charge of the fire left the altar [l] and shouted at the top of his voice to the one with the sharp sickle, 'Put your sickle in and harvest the
19 bunches from the vine of the earth; all its grapes are ripe.' •So the angel set his sickle to work on the earth and harvested the whole vintage of the earth and put it 20 into a huge winepress, the winepress of God's anger, •outside the city, [m] where it was trodden until the blood that came out of the winepress was up to the horses' bridles as far away as sixteen hundred furlongs.

6:9–10;8:3–5
Is 63:1–6
19:15
19:14,21

The hymn of Moses and the Lamb [a]

1 15 And I saw in heaven another sign, great and wonderful: seven angels were bringing the seven plagues that are the last of all, because they exhaust the
2 anger of God. •I seemed to be looking at a sea of crystal suffused with fire, and standing by the lake of glass, those who had fought against the beast and won, and against his statue and the number which is his name. They all had harps from God,
3 and they were singing the hymn of Moses, [b] the servant of God, and the hymn of the Lamb:

=7:9;
13:15–18
14:3c
Ex 15:1–21

d. var. 'he who kills by the sword must die . . .'

e. There are two interpretations of this quotation from Jr 15:2: that persecution is ordained and must be endured; or that the punishment of the persecutors is inevitable and will be inexorable, cf. 14:11–12; Ps 5:10c; Mt 26:52.

f. This beast is later referred to as 'false prophet', 16:13; 19:20; 20:10. Before describing the return of the Son of man, 14:14–20, cf. 19:11seq. and Mt 24:30, the author shows the activity of the false messiahs (first beast) and the false prophets (second beast) foretold in the gospel, Mt 24:24; cf. 2 Th 2:9.

g. The second beast mimics the Spirit who works miracles in the Church to encourage faith in Christ. Similarly, the first beast had imitated the risen Messiah, v. 3. The Dragon, the first beast and the second beast form a caricature of the Trinity.

h. var. '616'. In both Gk and Hebr., letters are used for numbers, the value corresponding to the place in the alphabet; by adding up the values of component letters that total 'number of a person's name' is obtained. In Hebr. the letters of Caesar Nero add up to 666, and in Gk the letters of Caesar-God add up to 616 (the alternative reading).

14 a. The followers of the beast who are branded with his name and number, 13:16–17, are now contrasted with the followers of a Lamb marked with his name and the name of his Father. This is the 'remnant' of the new Israel, Is 4:3c, the faithful Christians who have survived persecution and who are to begin the restoration of God's kingdom when its enemies have been destroyed. Mount Zion is God's throne, see 21:1a.

b. var. 'a Lamb'.

c. Moses had celebrated the deliverance from Egypt, Ex 15:1–21; cf. 15:3–5; the new hymn celebrates the new deliverance of God's people and of the new order introduced by the Lamb that was sacrificed.

d. Metaphorically. In the OT marital infidelity is a metaphor for idolatry, see Ho 1:2b, in this case the worship of the beast, see 17:1, etc. The hundred and forty-four thousand redeemed, 5:9, have remained faithful and true, and have rejected worship of false gods, and so can be betrothed to the Lamb, see 19:9; 21:2; 2 Co 11:2.

e. Just as Israel followed Yahweh at the Exodus, so the new Israel, newly redeemed, follows the Lamb into the desert, cf. Jr 2:2–3, where the marriage rites are renewed (Ho 2:16–25).

f. i.e. they have not invoked false gods, the beast. The vocabulary of vv. 4,5 is that of sacrifices: the first-fruits represent the whole harvest; the acceptable sacrifice is without blemish, Ex 12:5; 1 P 1:19.

g. Before God's vengeance strikes, the angels appear to give a final warning of Judgement; but it goes unheeded, see 16:2,9,11,21. See also 15:5c.

h. The tense is the prophetic perfect.

i. corr. 'drink the wine of the anger of her adultery' Gk, as in 17:2; 18:3. The 'wine of anger' is a familiar image, see Is 51:17h, for the divine anger especially on worshippers of false gods.

j. The lake of burning sulphur is where the wicked are punished, see 19:20; 20:10; 21:8.

k. The destruction of the gentile nations. The fulfilment of this prophecy is described in 19:11seq.

l. From the altar arise the prayers of the saints, 8:3–5; 9:13, which the angel carries to God to ask for justice.

m. The gentiles are to be destroyed outside Jerusalem according to Ezk 38–39; Zc 14:2seq., 12seq.; see Lv 4:12c; Heb 13:11.

15 a. The vision of seven cups picks up that of the seven trumpets, 8:2seq. Between vv. 1 and 5 is inserted the hymn sung by the saved to the praise of him who saves them.

b. Like the hymn of Moses, Ex 15, this is a song of deliverance, 14:1. It is woven from biblical allusions and dwells less on the severity of the punishments than on the triumph of the Lord and those who belong to him.

Ps 92:5;98:1 How great and wonderful are all your works,
Lord God Almighty;
Dt 32:4 Ps 145:17 upright and true are all your ways,
King of nations.
Jr 10:7 Who does not revere and glorify your name, O Lord? 4
For you alone are holy,
Ps 86:9 and all nations will come and adore you for the many acts of saving justice you have shown.

The seven bowls of plagues [c]

Ex 25:16g After this, in my vision, the sanctuary, the tent of the Testimony, opened in 5 19:8 heaven, ·and out came the seven angels with the seven plagues, wearing pure white 6 linen, fastened round their waists with belts of gold. ·One of the four living 7 14:8i creatures gave the seven angels seven golden bowls filled with the anger of God
1 K 8:10 Is 6:4 who lives for ever and ever. ·The smoke from the glory and the power of God filled 8 the temple so that no one could go into it [d] until the seven plagues of the seven angels were completed.

=8:6–12 16 Then I heard a loud voice from the sanctuary calling to the seven angels, 1
'Go, and empty the seven bowls of God's anger over the earth.'

The first angel went and emptied his bowl over the earth; at once, on all the 2 13:15–17 people who had been branded with the mark of the beast and had worshipped its Ex 9:8–11 statue, there came disgusting and virulent sores.

The second angel emptied his bowl over the sea, and it turned to blood, like the 3 blood of a corpse, and every living creature in the sea died.

Ex 7:14–24 The third angel emptied his bowl into the rivers and springs of water and they 4
1:20r turned into blood. ·Then I heard the angel of water say, 'You are the Upright One, 5
1:4g;11:17 He who is, He who was, the Holy One, for giving this verdict: ·they spilt the blood 6 =18:24 Mt 23:35 of the saints and the prophets, and blood is what you have given them to drink; it is 6:9;8:3–4 what they deserve.' ·And I heard the altar itself say, 'Truly, Lord God Almighty, 7 the punishments you give are true and just.'

The fourth angel emptied his bowl over the sun and it was made to scorch people 8 9:20 Am 4:6f with its flames; ·but though people were scorched by the fierce heat of it, they 9 cursed the name of God who had the power to cause such plagues, and they would not repent and glorify him.

The fifth angel emptied his bowl over the throne of the beast [a] and its whole 10
Ex 10:21–23 Is 8:22 empire was plunged into darkness. People were biting their tongues for pain, ·but 11
instead of repenting for what they had done, they cursed the God of heaven because of their pains and sores.

=9:14 The sixth angel emptied his bowl over the great river Euphrates; all the water 12 dried up so that a way was made for the kings of the East [b] to come in. ·Then from 13
the jaws of dragon and beast and false prophet I saw three foul spirits come; they Ex 8:2–3 looked like frogs ·and in fact were demon spirits, able to work miracles, going out 14 17:13–14;19:19 1 Co 1:8e to all the kings of the world to call them together for the war of the Great Day of God the Almighty. [c]—·Look, I shall come like a thief. Blessed is anyone who has 15
1:3e;3:3–4,18 Mt 24:42+ kept watch, and has kept his clothes on, so that he does not go out naked and =20:8 expose his shame.—·They called the kings together at the place called, in Hebrew, 16
Armageddon. [d]

4:5;21:6 Is 66:6 The seventh angel emptied his bowl into the air, and a great voice boomed out 17 from the sanctuary, [e] 'The end has come.' ·Then there were flashes of lightning and 18
Dn 12:1 Mk 13:19 peals of thunder and a violent earthquake, unparalleled since humanity first came into existence. ·The Great City was split into three parts and the cities of the world 19 14:8,10 collapsed; Babylon the Great was not forgotten: God made her drink the full
6:14 winecup of his retribution. ·Every island vanished and the mountains disap- 20
Ex 9:22–26 peared; [f] ·and hail, with great hailstones weighing a talent each, [g] fell from the sky 21 on the people. They cursed God for sending a plague of hail; it was the most terrible plague.

B: THE PUNISHMENT OF BABYLON

The great prostitute

Ezk 16:23
Na 3:4

1 17 One of the seven angels that had the seven bowls came to speak to me, and said, 'Come here and I will show you the punishment of the great prostitute [a] 2 who is enthroned beside abundant waters, [b] ·with whom all the kings of the earth Jr 51:13 have prostituted themselves, and who has made all the population of the world Is 23:17
3 drunk with the wine of her adultery.' [c] ·He took me in spirit to a desert, [d] and there Jr 51:7
I saw a woman riding a scarlet beast which had seven heads and ten horns [e] and had Is 21:1seq.
4 blasphemous titles written all over it. ·The woman was dressed in purple and =13:1
scarlet and glittered with gold and jewels and pearls, and she was holding a gold Jr 51:7 5 winecup filled with the disgusting filth of her prostitution; ·on her forehead was written a name, a cryptic name: 'Babylon the Great, the mother of all the prosti- 2 Th 2:7 6 tutes and all the filthy practices on the earth.' ·I saw that she was drunk, drunk with the blood of the saints, and the blood of the martyrs of Jesus; [f] and when I saw her, 7 I was completely mystified. ·The angel said to me, 'Do you not understand? I will tell you the meaning of this woman, and of the beast she is riding, with the seven heads and the ten horns.

The symbolism of the beast and the prostitute [g]

8 'The beast you have seen was once alive and is alive no longer; it is yet to come up =13:3–4 from the Abyss, but only to go to its destruction. And the people of the world, whose names have not been written since the beginning of the world in the book of 20:12i life, will be astonished when they see how the beast was once alive and is alive no longer, and is still to come.
9 'This calls for shrewdness. The seven heads are the seven hills, on which the 13:18 10 woman is sitting. ·The seven heads are also seven emperors. [h] Five of them have already gone, one is here now, and one is yet to come; once here, he must stay for 11 a short while. ·The beast, who was alive and is alive no longer, is at the same time the eighth and one of the seven, and he is going to his destruction.
12 'The ten horns which you saw are ten kings who have not yet been given their Dn 7:24 royal power but will have royal authority only for a single hour and in association 13 with the beast. ·They are all of one mind in putting their strength and their powers 14 at the beast's disposal, ·and they will go to war against the Lamb; but because the 19:11–21

c. Before finally destroying Babylon (Rome), 16:18–19, God sends a series of plagues on the wicked (several are reminiscent of the Egyptian plagues, Ex 7–10). The angels who accomplish them issue from the Tent which is the true Temple in heaven, 11:19. They execute justice within the liturgical framework of a theophany.

d. According to 2 M 2:4–8 the reappearance of the sacred tent and the manifestation of God's glory as in the time of Moses, Ex 40:34–35, and of Solomon, 1 K 8:10, were to herald the coming of the messianic age and the rebirth of the chosen people. The 'glory' (see Ex 24:16f) is the sign of God's presence (compare the appearance of the ark of the covenant in Rv 11:19).

16 a. Rome, type of all gentile powers hostile to God.

b. If the Euphrates dries up, the Romans lose all defences against the Parthian warriors, 9:14.

c. The work of these evil spirits is foreordained to bring the gentile nations to Judgement.

d. i.e. 'the mountains of Megiddo'. The defeat of King Josiah near this town, 2 K 23:29seq., made the place symbolise disaster for any armies assembling there, cf. Zc 12:11.

e. add. '(proceeding) from the throne' or 'from God'.

f. These cosmic phenomena symbolise the powers of this world withering under God's anger.

g. About 88 lb (40 kg).

17 a. As Jerusalem will be, 21:9, Babylon is personified by a woman, see 12:1; Dn 4:27k. Here it is Rome the idolatrous, 2:14k; 18:3; Ho 1:2b; see Rv 14:4. After its brilliant career, vv. 3–7, it will suffer the condemnation proclaimed and prepared by the previous visions.

b. A literal description of Babylon, metaphorically explained in v. 15.

c. All gentile nations and their kings who have adopted the imperial cult.

d. Where unclean beasts live, see Lv 26:8b; 17:7c.

e. The seven heads are the seven hills of Rome, v. 9, and the ten horns are subject kings, v. 12, who shake off the yoke of the Empire, v. 16. The beast, vv. 3,7–8, represents an emperor, presumably Nero, whom popular belief expected to return to life and power before the coming of the Lamb, see 2 Th 2:8–9. The beginning of v. 8 is a parody of the titles of God, 1:4, and of Christ, 1:18.

f. Like Jerusalem (Ezk 16:36–38 and 23:37–45) Rome is guilty of a double crime: idolatry, v. 4, and murder, v. 6.

g. In the symbolism of the beast two distinct senses can be discerned, vv. 8–9,15–18, and vv. 10,12–14. The woman who is sitting on it thinks herself powerful, but is riding to her destruction.

h. Seven Roman emperors, of whom the sixth is reigning at the moment. Seven is a number symbolic of totality, and the author does not intend to say anything about the number and chronology of the historical Roman emperors.

14:4 Dt 10:17 2 M 13:4 1 Tm 6:15
Lamb is Lord of lords and King of kings, he will defeat them, he and his followers, the called, the chosen, the trustworthy.' [i]

The angel continued, 'The waters you saw, beside which the prostitute was 15 sitting, are all the peoples, the populations, the nations and the languages. ·But 16
Ezk 16:39–41; 23:25–29
the ten horns and the beast will turn against the prostitute, and tear off her clothes and leave her stark naked; then they will eat her flesh and burn the remains in the fire. ·In fact, God has influenced their minds to do what he intends, to agree 17 together to put their royal powers at the beast's disposal until the time when God's 11:8f
words shall be fulfilled. ·The woman you saw is the great city which has authority 18 over all the rulers on earth.'

An angel announces the fall of Babylon [a]

Jr 18:1a Ezk 43:2
18 After this, I saw another angel come down from heaven, with great author- 1
ity given to him; the earth shone with his glory. ·At the top of his voice he 2
=14:8 Is 21:9
shouted, 'Babylon has fallen, Babylon the Great has fallen, and has become the
Is 13:21–22; 34:11–14 Jr 50:39
haunt of devils and a lodging for every foul spirit and dirty, loathsome bird. ·All 3 the nations have drunk deep of the wine of her prostitution; [b] every king on the earth has prostituted himself with her, and every merchant grown rich through her debauchery.'
17:2 Jr 51:7

The people of God summoned to flee

16:17 Is 48:20;52:11 Jr 51:6
Another voice spoke from heaven; I heard it say, 'Come out, my people, away 4 from her, so that you do not share in her crimes and have the same plagues to bear.
Gn 18:20 Jr 51:9
Her sins have reached up to the sky, and God has her crimes in mind: treat her as 5 she has treated others. ·She must be paid double the amount she exacted. She is to 6
Jr 50:15;16:18
have a doubly strong cup of her own mixture. ·Every one of her pomps and orgies 7
Is 47:8
is to be matched by a torture or an agony. I am enthroned as queen, she thinks; I am
Is 47:9
no widow and will never know bereavement. ·For that, in one day, the plagues will 8 fall on her: disease and mourning and famine. She will be burned to the ground. The Lord God who has condemned her is mighty.'

The people of the world mourn for Babylon [c]

Ezk 26–28
'There will be mourning and weeping for her by the kings of the earth who have 9 prostituted themselves with her and held orgies with her. They see the smoke as she burns, ·while they keep at a safe distance through fear of her anguish. They 10 will say:

> Mourn, mourn for this great city,
> Babylon, so powerful a city,
> in one short hour your doom has come upon you.

'There will be weeping and distress over her among all the traders of the earth 11 when no one is left to buy their cargoes of goods; ·their stocks of gold and silver, 12 jewels and pearls, linen and purple and silks and scarlet; all the sandalwood, every piece in ivory or fine wood, in bronze or iron or marble; ·the cinnamon and spices, 13 the myrrh and ointment and incense; wine, oil, flour and corn; their stocks of cattle, sheep, horses and chariots, their slaves and their human cargo.

Mi 7:1
'All the fruits you had set your hearts on have failed you; gone for ever, never to 14 return again, is your life of magnificence and ease.

'The traders who had made a fortune out of her will be standing at a safe distance 15 through fear of her anguish, mourning and weeping. ·They will be saying: 16

> Mourn, mourn for this great city;
> for all the linen and purple and scarlet that you wore, > 17:4
> for all your finery of gold and jewels and pearls;
> your huge riches are all destroyed within a single hour.' 17

All the captains and seafaring men, sailors and all those who make a living from Ezk 27:27–29 18 the sea kept a safe distance, •watching the smoke as she burned, and crying out, 19 'Has there ever been a city as great as this!' •They threw dust on their heads and 13:4 said, with tears and groans:

'Mourn, mourn for this great city
whose lavish living has made a fortune for every owner of a sea-going ship, ruined within a single hour.

20 'Now heaven, celebrate her downfall, and all you saints, apostles and prophets: =19:1–2
God has given judgement for you against her.' Dt 32:43
Is 44:23
21 Then a powerful angel picked up a boulder like a great millstone, and as he Jr 51:63–64 hurled it into the sea, he said, 'That is how the great city of Babylon is going to be hurled down, never to be seen again. [d]

22 Never again in you Is 24:8 will be heard the song of harpists and minstrels, Ezk 26:13
the music of flute and trumpet;
never again will craftsmen of every skill be found in you or the sound of the handmill be heard; Jr 25:10 23 never again will shine the light of the lamp in you, never again will be heard in you the voices of bridegroom and bride. Jr 7:34;16:9
Your traders were the princes of the earth, Is 23:8
all the nations were led astray by your sorcery.

24 In her was found the blood of prophets and saints,and all the blood that was ever =16:6 shed on earth.' Mt 23:35–37

Songs of victory in heaven [a]

1 19 After this I heard what seemed to be the great sound of a huge crowd in 18:20 heaven, singing, 'Alleluia! [b] Salvation and glory and power to our God!
2 He judges fairly, he punishes justly, and he has condemned the great prostitute =16:7
who corrupted the earth with her prostitution; he has avenged the blood of his •6:9;11:18
3 servants which she shed.' •And again they sang, 'Alleluia! The smoke of her will Dt 32:43
4 rise for ever and ever.' •Then the twenty-four elders and the four living creatures Ps 5:10c threw themselves down and worshipped God seated on his throne, and they cried, 14:11
'Amen, Alleluia.' Is 34:10

5 Then a voice came from the throne; it said, 'Praise our God, you servants of his 6 and those who fear him, small and great alike.' •And I heard what seemed to be the 11:18 voices of a huge crowd, like the sound of the ocean or the great roar of thunder, Ps 115:13 7 answering, 'Alleluia! The reign of the Lord our God Almighty has begun; •let us 11:17 be glad and joyful and give glory to God, because this is the time for the marriage Is 61:10 8 of the Lamb. [c] •His bride is ready, and she has been able to dress herself in dazzling Ep 5:25+ 9 white linen, because her linen is made of the good deeds of the saints.' •The angel 2:17;3:5; said, 'Write this, "Blessed are those who are invited to the wedding feast of the 21:2d 1:3e
Mt 8:11+;
22:1–14

i. A reference back to 14:4 and forward to 19:11–21.

18 a. The punishment prophesied in cryptic terms, ch. 17, is now imminent. It will occur when the faithful have been set apart from sinners, v. 4, see 3:10d.

b. 'her prostitution'; var. 'the anger of her prostitution', cf. 14:8.

c. Triple lamentation by the kings of the earth, vv. 9–10, by the merchants of the world, vv. 11–17[a], and by seafarers, vv. 17[b]–19. It draws on Jr 50–51 and even more Ezk 26–28.

d. A symbolic gesture after which the lament is taken up again, vv. 22–23; v. 21 is continued in v. 24. The description of 18:1–3 is completed here: Babylon is to be destroyed for its idolatry, see 17:4; and for persecuting Christians, 18:24.

19 a. The prelude of songs of joy in 18:20, contrasting vividly with the laments of ch. 18, was for the fall of Babylon. The first song, vv. 1–4, comes from heaven; in the second, vv. 5–9, join the saints of the whole Church, invited to the wedding of the Lamb.

b. The only uses of the word in the NT are in 19:1,3,4,6; this liturgical acclamation ('Praise God') was already used in Jewish worship, Ps 111:1; 113:1a.

c. The wedding of the Lamb symbolises the beginning of the heavenly kingdom described in 21:9seq. See Ho 1:2b and Ep 5:22–23f.

22:8–9 Lamb," ' and he added, 'These words of God are true.' ·Then I knelt at his feet to 10 worship him, but he said to me, 'Never do that: [d] I am your fellow-servant and the fellow-servant of all your brothers who have in themselves the witness of Jesus.
God alone you must worship.' The witness of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy. [e]

C: THE DESTRUCTION OF THE UNBELIEVERS

=20:7–10 The first eschatological battle [f]

And now I saw heaven open, and a white horse [g] appear; its rider was called 11 1:5;3:7,14 Is 11:4 1:14;2:18 Trustworthy and True; in uprightness he judges and makes war. ·His eyes were 12 flames of fire, and he was crowned with many coronets; [h] the name written on him Lk 10:22 Is 63:1 Jn 1:1a was known only to himself, ·his cloak was soaked in blood. [i] He is known by the 13 name, The Word of God. [j] ·Behind him, dressed in linen of dazzling white, rode 14
1:16 the armies of heaven [k] on white horses. ·From his mouth came a sharp sword [l] with 15
2:27+ Ps 2:9 which to strike the unbelievers; he is the one who will rule them with an iron sceptre, 14:19 Is 63:3 Dt 10:17 and tread out the wine of Almighty God's fierce retribution. [m] ·On his cloak and on 16 his thigh a name was written: King of kings and Lord of lords. [n]

2 M 13:4 Ezk 39:17 I saw an angel standing in the sun, and he shouted aloud to all the birds that were 17 flying high overhead in the sky, 'Come here. Gather together at God's great feast.
You will eat the flesh of kings, and the flesh of great generals and heroes, the 18 flesh of horses and their riders and of all kinds of people, citizens and slaves, small and great alike.'

17:12–14 Then I saw the beast, with all the kings of the earth and their armies, gathered 19
Mt 26:53 together to fight the Rider and his army. ·But the beast was taken prisoner, 20 together with the false prophet who had worked miracles on the beast's behalf and by them had deceived those who had accepted branding with the mark of the beast and those who had worshipped his statue. [o] These two were hurled alive into the 14:10j; 20:10,14 Dn 7:11 Ezk 39:20 fiery lake of burning sulphur. ·All the rest were killed by the sword of the Rider, 21 which came out of his mouth, and all the birds glutted themselves with their flesh.

The reign of a thousand years

9:1b 12:7,9 Mt 12:28–29 20 Then I saw an angel come down from heaven with the key of the Abyss in 1 his hand and an enormous chain. ·He overpowered the dragon, that prime- 2 val serpent which is the devil and Satan, and chained him up for a thousand years.
He hurled him into the Abyss and shut the entrance and sealed it over him, to 3 2 Co 6:2a 2 Th 2:8seq.,8h make sure he would not lead the nations astray again until the thousand years had passed. At the end of that time he must be released, but only for a short while.

Dn 7:22 Then I saw thrones, where they took their seats, and on them was conferred the 4 power to give judgement. I saw the souls of all who had been beheaded for having 19:10d witnessed for Jesus and for having preached God's word, [a] and those who refused 13:15–17 to worship the beast or his statue and would not accept the brand-mark on their 5:10 foreheads or hands; they came to life, and reigned with Christ for a thousand years. [b] ·The rest of the dead did not come to life until the thousand years were 5 1:3e over; this is the first resurrection. ·Blessed and holy are those who share in the first 6
2:11+ resurrection; the second death has no power over them [c] but they will be priests of 1:6k God and of Christ and reign with him for a thousand years. [d]

=19:11–21 When the thousand years are over, Satan will be released from his prison ·and 7, 8 =16:14,16 Ezk 38:2,9,15 will come out to lead astray all the nations in the four quarters of the earth, Gog and Magog, [e] and mobilise them for war, his armies being as many as the sands of Lk 21:24 the sea. ·They came swarming over the entire country and besieged the camp of 9 9:13g =Ezk 38:22 19:20 the saints, which is the beloved City. [f] But fire rained down on them from heaven and consumed them. ·Then the devil, who led them astray, was hurled into the 10 lake of fire and sulphur, where the beast and the false prophet are, and their torture will not come to an end, day or night, for ever and ever.

The Last Judgement

Rm 2:6b

11 Then I saw a great white throne and the One who was sitting on it. [g] In his presence, 12 earth and sky vanished, leaving no trace. ·I saw the dead, great and small alike, 21:1 2 P 3:7,10,12 3:5;13:8;17:8
standing in front of his throne while the books lay open. And another book was Dn 7:10i opened, which is the book of life, and the dead were judged from what was written in the books, as their deeds deserved. [h] 13, 14 The sea gave up all the dead who were in it; ·Death and Hades were emptied of 21:4 1 Co 15:26,54 the dead that were in them; and every one was judged as his deeds deserved. Then 1:18p Death and Hades were hurled into the burning lake. [i] This burning lake is the 15 second death; ·and anybody whose name could not be found written in the book of 2:11+ life was hurled into the burning lake. 14:10j

D: THE JERUSALEM OF THE FUTURE

The heavenly Jerusalem [a]

=7:15–17

1 21 Then I saw a new heaven and a new earth; [b] the first heaven and the first Is 65:17 Rm 8:19–23
2 earth had disappeared now, and there was no longer any sea. [c] ·I saw the 2 P 3:13 holy city, the new Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, prepared as ·Jb 7:12f
3 a bride dressed for her husband. [d] ·Then I heard a loud voice call from the throne, 19:7–8

d. Possibly there is in this incident a warning against the worship of heavenly 'powers', Col 2:18; Heb 1:14; 2:5.

e. The 'witness of Jesus' is the word of God to which Jesus testifies and which is implanted in every Christian, see 1:2; 6:9; 12:17, and which inspires the prophets.

f. After the fall of Babylon prophesied 14:8,14–15, and described 16:19–20; 17:12–14, Christ the faithful witness, 3:14, brings about the Day of Yahweh, Am 5:18m, by annihilating the enemies of the Church. The account, as previous descriptions, 12:5; 14:6–20; 17:14, draws on a variety of prophecies.

g. The colour symbolises victory.

h. Because he is King of kings, see v. 16.

i. Alluding (see v. 15) to Is 63:1. Symbol of the mortal ruin he deals his enemies, see 5:5.

j. The names of the victorious horseman, vv. 12,13,16, express different aspects of his nature. To the transcendent divine name, v. 12, are here added the Word, which indicates that he effectively reveals God, cf. Jn 1:1,14, and, more exactly, that he carries out his judgements, Rv 20:11–12; 22:12; see also Ws 18:14–18.

k. The angels, cf. Mt 26:53, or preferably, following Rv 14:5 and 17:14, the white-robed martyrs, see 3:5,18; 6:11; 16:15; 19:8 and also Mt 22:11seq.

l. Symbol of the destroying Word; cf. Ws 18:16; Is 11:4; and also Rv 1:16; Ho 6:5; 2 Th 2:8; Heb 4:12.

m. The winepress is a common image in prophetic literature for God's destruction of his people's enemies on the Great Day of his revenge; cf. Gn 49:9–12; Is 63:1–6; Jr 25:30; Jl 4:13. On the 'wine of retribution', see Is 51:17h.

n. A title of dignity, see 17:14; Ph 2:9–11, which infinitely surpasses the blasphemous titles of the beast, Rv 13:1; 17:3.

o. This long parenthesis echoes the events described in ch. 13.

20 a. This difficult verse is one of those where traces may remain of different stages and revisions in the editing of this book. Is 20:1–6 another version of 19:11–21? Cf. Mt 19:28; 1 Co 6:23.

b. One interpretation makes this 'resurrection' of the martyrs (cf. Is 26:19; Ezk 37) symbolise the recovery of the Church after the Roman persecution; the 'reign of a thousand years' is then the period of the kingdom of Christ on earth from the end of persecution (the fall of Rome) to the Last Judgement (in 20:11seq.). According to Augustine and others who follow him, the 'reign of a thousand years' is reckoned from Christ's Resurrection, and the 'first resurrection' is baptism, cf. Jn 5:25–28; Rm 6:1–11. From the time of the early Church there have been some readers who have taken this as a literal forecast: after a first resurrection, that of the martyrs, Christ would come to reign on earth with his faithful for a thousand years. But this literal interpretation has never won acceptance in the Church.

c. The first death is on earth, the second 'death' is failure to win eternal life.

d. The messianic rule of Christians on earth is foretold in 5:9–10, and under the symbol of the new Jerusalem, in 21:9–22:2 and 22:6–15, although this passage comes after the description of the Last Judgement, 20:13–15.

e. Ezk 38–39 (see notes) mentions 'Gog, king of Magog'; here the two names symbolise all the gentile nations leagued against the Church at the end of time.

f. A new promised land of which Jerusalem is the capital, 21:2d; it withstands the final invasion, cf. Lk 21:24. But it also symbolises the whole Church.

g. After the general resurrection occurs the Judgement, 2:23; 3:5; see 19:13j; Dn 7:10. This created universe is to be replaced by another, wholly new, 21:1a.

h. The first scrolls list human deeds; the scroll of life, the last to be opened, is the list of the predestined, see Dn 7:10i; 12:1a; Ac 13:48jj.

i. After the Last Judgement death itself will lose its power, see 20:10; 21:4 and 20:6.

21 a. The city of the elect, in total contrast with Babylon, ch. 17, is a gift of God. The outlook is an entirely celestial one, as in 7:15–17. The opening draws on Isaiah (especially ch. 51 and 65). Jerusalem, city of David, political and religious centre of Israel, 2 S 5:9f; 24:25; 1 K 6:2; Ps 122, city of God, Ps 46:4, holy city, Is 52:1; Dn 9:24; Mt 4:5, whose heart was the mountain, Ps 2:6b, where the Temple stood, Dt 12:2–3b, was considered in Israel as the destined metropolis of the messianic people, Ps 87:1a; 122; Is 2:1–5; 54:11d; 60; Jr 3:17; Lk 2:38*o*. It is there that the Holy Spirit founded the Christian Church, Ac 1:4, 8j; 2; 8:1–4. In this passage the city is transferred to heaven where the saving plan of God finds its fulfilment, 3:12; 11:1; 20:9; 22:19; see also Ac 2:22–24*o*; Ga 4:26; Ph 3:20, when the wedding of the Lamb is celebrated, Rv 19:7–8c; cf. Is 61:10; 62:4–5; Ho 1:2b; 2:16.

b. In Is 65:17; 66:22 the phrase is merely a symbol of the new messianic age: the fresh start for which the later prophets long. For Paul the shape of the eventual future has become clearer: all creation will be freed from the dominance of corruption and transformed, Rm 8:19j.

c. The sea, home of the Dragon and symbol of evil, see Jb 7:12f, will disappear as at the time of the Exodus, but this time for ever, before the victorious advance of the new Israel, cf. Jb 26:12–13; Ps 74:13,14; Is 27:1; 51:9–10.

d. The new and joyful wedding of Jerusalem and her God has taken place, cf. Is 61:10; 62:4–5; 65:18; the Exodus ideal has at last been achieved, see Ho 2:16p.

7:15–17 •Ezk 37:27 Is 7:14f •Is 25:8 •Is 35:10 'Look, here God lives among human beings. He will make his home among them; they will be his people, and he will be their God, God-with-them.[c] •He will wipe 4 away all tears from their eyes; there will be no more death, and no more mourning or sadness or pain. The world of the past has gone.'

2 Co 5:17 Then the One sitting on the throne spoke. 'Look, I am making the whole of 5
Dn 8:26 creation new. Write this, "What I am saying is trustworthy and will come true." '
1:8*l* Then he said to me, 'It has already happened. I am the Alpha and the Omega, the 6 22:17 Is 55:1 Beginning and the End. I will give water from the well of life free to anybody who
2 S 7:14 is thirsty;[f] •anyone who proves victorious will inherit these things; and I will be his 7
=22:15 Rm 1:29q God and he will be my son.[g] •But the legacy for cowards, for those who break their 8 word, or worship obscenities, for murderers and the sexually immoral, and for sorcerers, worshippers of false gods or any other sort of liars, is the second death[h] in the burning lake of sulphur.'

The messianic Jerusalem[i]

One of the seven angels that had the seven bowls full of the seven final plagues 9 came to speak to me and said, 'Come here and I will show you the bride that the Ezk 40:2 Lamb has married.' •In the spirit, he carried me to the top of a very high mountain, 10 21:2 and showed me Jerusalem, the holy city, coming down out of heaven from God.
Is 60:1–2 It had all the glory of God and glittered like some precious jewel of crystal-clear 11 7:1–8 Ezk 48:31–35 diamond. •Its wall was of a great height and had twelve gates; at each of the twelve 12 gates there was an angel, and over the gates were written the names of the twelve tribes of Israel; •on the east there were three gates, on the north three gates, on the 13
Ep 2:20 south three gates, and on the west three gates. •The city walls stood on twelve 14 foundation stones, each one of which bore the name of one of the twelve apostles of the Lamb.[j]

The angel that was speaking to me was carrying a gold measuring rod to measure 15
the city and its gates and wall. •The plan of the city is perfectly square, its length 16
the same as its breadth.[k] He measured the city with his rod and it was twelve thousand furlongs, equal in length and in breadth, and equal in height.[l] •He 17 measured its wall, and this was a hundred and forty-four cubits high—by human Tb 13:17 measurements. •The wall was built of diamond, and the city of pure gold, like clear 18
Is 54:11–12 glass. •The foundations of the city wall were faced with all kinds of precious stone:[m] 19
the first with diamond, the second lapis lazuli, the third turquoise, the fourth crystal, •the fifth agate, the sixth ruby, the seventh gold quartz, the eighth mal- 20 achite, the ninth topaz, the tenth emerald, the eleventh sapphire and the twelfth amethyst. •The twelve gates were twelve pearls, each gate being made of a single 21 pearl, and the main street of the city was pure gold, transparent as glass. •I could 22
Jn 2:19–21 not see any temple in the city[n] since the Lord God Almighty and the Lamb were
Is 60:1–2, 19–20 2 Co 3:18 themselves the temple, •and the city did not need the sun or the moon for light, 23
since it was lit by the radiant glory of God, and the Lamb was a lighted torch for it.
Is 60:3 The nations will come to its light and the kings of the earth will bring it their 24 treasures. •Its gates will never be closed by day—and there will be no night 25
Is 60:3,11 there[o]—•and the nations will come, bringing their treasure and their wealth. 26
Is 35:8;52:1 Zc 13:1–2 2 P 3:13 Nothing unclean may come into it: no one who does what is loathsome or false, but 27 only those who are listed in the Lamb's book of life.

Ezk 47:1–12 Jn 4:1a 22 Then the angel showed me the river of life, rising from the throne of God 1 and of the Lamb[a] and flowing crystal-clear. •Down the middle of the city 2 Ezk 47:12 street, on either bank[b] of the river were the trees of life, which bear twelve crops of fruit in a year, one in each month, and the leaves of which are the cure for the nations.

Zc 14:11 The curse of destruction will be abolished.[c] The throne of God and of the Lamb 3
=7:15 will be in the city; his servants will worship him, •they will see him face to face, and 4

5 his name will be written on their foreheads. •And night will be abolished; they will not need lamplight or sunlight, because the Lord God will be shining on them. They will reign for ever and ever.

6 The angel said to me, [d] 'All that you have written is sure and will come true: the Lord God who inspires the prophets has sent his angel to reveal to his servants
7 what is soon to take place. •I am coming soon!' Blessed are those who keep the prophetic message of this book.

8 I, John, am the one who heard and saw these things. When I had heard and seen them all, I knelt at the feet of the angel who had shown them to me, to worship
9 him; •but he said, 'Do no such thing: I am your fellow-servant and the fellow-servant of your brothers the prophets and those who keep the message of this book. God alone you must worship.'

10 This, too, he said to me, 'Do not keep the prophecies in this book a secret, 11 because the Time is close. •Meanwhile let the sinner continue sinning, and the unclean continue to be unclean; let the upright continue in his uprightness, and 12 those who are holy continue to be holy. [e] •Look, I am coming soon, and my 13 reward is with me, to repay everyone as their deeds deserve. •I am the Alpha and the 14 Omega, the First and the Last, the Beginning and the End. •Blessed are those who will have washed their robes clean, so that they will have the right to feed on the 15 tree of life and can come through the gates into the city. [f] •Others must stay outside: dogs, fortune-tellers, and the sexually immoral, murderers, idolaters, and everyone of false speech and false life.'

Ps 17:15d
1 Co 13:12
1 Jn 3:2
•Ps 36:9
19:9;21:5
Dn 8:26
1:1;22:16
Dn 2:28
•1:3e
19:10d
10:4
Dn 12:10
Is 40:10
Ps 62:12e
1:8*l*
Is 41:4;44:6
7:14;12:1b;
22:2
=21:8
Nb 5:1–4
Rm 1:29q

e. var. 'and God himself will be their God' or 'and God himself will be with them'. This is the classic formula of the covenant, Gn 17:8; Lv 26:11–12; Jr 31:33; Ezk 37:27; cf. 2 Co 6:16. The intimate presence of God is the mark of God's covenant with his people, see Ex 25:8d and Jn 1:14m. It will reach its consummation at the end of time. Cf. Is 12:6; Jl 4:17,21; Zp 3:15–17; Zc 2:14.

f. In the OT, fresh water is the regular symbol of life-saving refreshment and is a feature of the messianic age. In the NT, it becomes a symbol of the Spirit, see Jn 4:1a.

g. The title 'Son of God' was to be conferred on King-Messiah, David's heir, on the day of his enthronement, 2 S 7:14e; hence Jesus was proclaimed 'Son of God' in virtue of his resurrection, Ac 2:36w; Rm 1:4c. He also extended this title to those who believe in him, Jn 1:12j.

h. Eternal death. The fire, like the water of v. 6, is symbolic.

i. It is the messianic Jerusalem because the gentile nations still exist, 21:24, and can be converted to the true God, 22:2. But it is already the heavenly Jerusalem and awaits only its eternal development. The elements of this description are drawn primarily from Ezk 40–48.

j. All the numbers which are multiples of 12 express the idea of perfection, and the new people of God inherits the total perfection of the old. The twelve apostles, see Mt 19:28seq.; Mk 3:14seq.; Ep 2:20, correspond to the twelve tribes of Israel, Rv 7:4–8.

k. The symbol of (terrestrial) perfection. Information concerning ancient weights and measures will be found in the Tables of measures and money.

l. Symbolic number: twelve (for the new Israel) multiplied by one thousand (for immensity).

m. These precious stones and their colours are intended to give an overall impression of solidity and splendour, the reflection of God's glory (see 2 Co 3:18). Cf. Is 54:11–12; Ezk 28:13, and the description of the high priest's pectoral, Ex 28:17–21; 39:10–14.

n. The Temple where God used to reside at the heart of the earthly Jerusalem, 11:19; 14:15–17; 15:5–16:1, has now disappeared. Now the new spiritual worship takes place in the body of Christ sacrificed and raised to life, see Jn 2:19–22i; 4:23–24; Rm 12:1a.

o. The risen Christ provides the shadowless light of his holiness, v. 27, on all the assembled nations, 22:5; cf. Jn 8:12b; 2 Co 4:6.

22 a. Allusion to the Trinity, since the river of living water is a symbol of the Spirit (Jn 4:1a), see Rv 21:6f.

b. Or punctuate '. . . crystal-clear, down the middle of the street . . . on either side'.

c. Vv. 3–5 follow on directly after 21:4. These vv. are in the future tense, a firm promise of the kingdom and the vision which will never come to an end, cf. 1 Co 13:12; 1 Jn 3:2, of the servants of God and of the Lamb, Rv 3:12; 7:3; 14:1.

d. All the rest of the book is a sort of epilogue. It is a conversation between the Angel (or Jesus) and the seer, a commentary on the visions written down in the book and the use to be made of them.

e. Whatever anyone may do, God's plan will still be accomplished.

f. Jerusalem, as described in 21:9seq.

EPILOGUE

1:11seq. 2:28t I, Jesus, have sent my angel to attest these things to you for the sake of the churches. I am the sprig from the root of David and the bright star of the morning. 16

The Spirit and the Bride[g] say, 'Come!' Let everyone who listens answer, 'Come!'[h] Then let all who are thirsty come: all who want it may have the water of life, and have it free. 17

21:6 Is 55:1

This is my solemn attestation to all who hear the prophecies in this book:[i] if anyone adds anything to them, God will add to him every plague mentioned in the book; 18

Dt 4:2

•if anyone cuts anything out of the prophecies in this book, God will cut off his share of the tree of life and of the holy city, which are described in the book. 19

The one who attests these things says: I am indeed coming soon. 20

Ac 3:20–21 1 Co 15:23*o* Amen; come, Lord Jesus.[j]

Rm 16:20+ May the grace of the Lord Jesus be with you all.[k] Amen. 21

g. The Church, bride of the Messiah, see 21:10.

h. The appeal is addressed to the Messiah; it is 'O Lord, come', marana tha, the refrain of the liturgical assemblies, 1 Co 16:22, expressive of the Christians' longing for the Second Coming, see 1 Th 5:1a.

i. This very ancient formula, Dt 4:2; 13:1; Pr 30:6; cf. Qo 3:14, is a way of protecting sacred writings against falsification.

j. Jesus confirms in vv. 7.12, and already in 1:3.7, that his coming is near. Thus he responds to the call of the Church and of believers. Their 'Amen', Rm 1:25p, expresses their joyful faith and their yearning.

k. var. 'with the saints' or 'with all the saints'.

SUPPLEMENTS

CHRONOLOGICAL TABLE

The columns to the right of the date column concern Palestinian and biblical history; those to the left concern general history; but this distinction is less strict from the Christian era onwards. In the right-hand column, extra-biblical writings are in italics, and (before the Roman period) extra-biblical facts or those not taken from Josephus are also in italics.

The names of rulers, kings, governors and high priests are in SMALL CAPITALS or CAPITALS according to their importance. In the list of the kings of Judah the succession is from father to son unless anything different is indicated. The names of prophets, and of biblical books when mentioned at the time of their composition, are in bold type; and the most important of other items are also in bold type.

I: THE BEGINNINGS Gn 1–11

	BC	FOLK TALES
Homo habilis and the 'Pebble Culture' (small stones adapted as tools). Gradual development (worked flints, fire, cave paintings, language)	2 000 000	The beginnings, Gn 1–11. Adam, a living, intelligent and free being, Gn 1:26. The Fall. Ten symbolic generations between Adam and the Flood, Gn 5
End of the Second Ice Age; development of food-gathering; expansion of the human race	13 000	The table of peoples, Gn 10
Stock raising and agriculture; villages	9000	Abel and Cain, Gn 4:2; Enoch 4:17
Painted pottery	5000
Metallurgy (copper); beginning of writing (Sumerian tablets of Uruk = Erech in Gn 10:10)	3500	Tubal-Cain ancestor of all blacksmiths, Gn 4:22

II: THE PATRIARCHS Gn 12–50

		Palestine: early Bronze Age, 3100–2100. The Canaanites Abraham's ancestors nomads in Mesopotamia
Writing, properly so called; more widespread use of bronze. Egypt, Old Kingdom (Great Pyramids) (Capital: Memphis) Mesopotamia: Sumerians, followed by Accadians	3000
		Middle Bronze Age: 2100 to 1550 The Amorites. In the 21st and 20th centuries Egypt controlled the Syro-Palestinian coast but not the interior (Memoirs of Sinuhe the Egyptian)
	2000
Egypt: Middle Kingdom: 2030 to approximately 1720 Mesopotamia: Sumerian revival (3rd dynasty of Ur), followed by growing importance of the Amorites—Execration rites
		About 1850: arrival of ABRAHAM in Canaan, Gn 12

	BC
About this time the Accadian poems of Creation (Enuma Elish) and of the Flood (Gilgamesh)
18th and 17th centuries: 1st Babylonian dynasty (Amorite) HAMMURABI: about 1750, his code Egypt, The Hyksos, 1720 to about 1552 (Capital: Tanis)
	1700	The Patriarchs in Egypt

III: MOSES AND JOSHUA
Ex/Nb/Dt/Jos

Egypt: New Kingdom, 18th to 20th dynasties, 1552–1070 (Capital: Thebes) THUTMOSES III, 1468–1436 (campaigns in Palestine and Syria)	1500	Late Bronze Age: about 1550–1200. Hurrians in Palestine
	1400
AKHNATON (= Amenophis IV): 1377–1358. His exclusive worship of the god Aton. The great hymn to Aton (Capital: Tell el-Amarna)		The el-Amarna Letters (the Habiru; Abdihepa King of Jerusalem)
In Asia Minor and northern Syria, the Hittites: SHUPPILULIUMASH 1370–1336	1350
TUTANKHAMON: 1347–1338 Egypt: 19th dynasty, 1304–1184 SETI I: 1304–1290		Alphabetical tablets of Ugarit (14th to 13th century)
	1300	Stelae of Seti I and Rameses III at Beth-Shean
RAMESES II: 1290–1224. Residence at Pi-Rameses. Struggle, followed by alliance, with the Hittites		Hebrews as forced labour for the building of Pi-Rameses, Ex 1:11
	1250	The Exodus: about 1250 MOSES, the Law at Sinai
MERNEPTAH: 1224–1204. His fifth year: stele recording a victory over the 'people of Israel'
Mesopotamia: 13th and 12th centuries, Assyrian preponderance		Between about 1220 and 1200: JOSHUA invades Palestine. Excavations at the level of this period (at Hazor, for example, Jos 11:10) show ruins and impoverishment of dwellings and utensils

IV: FROM THE JUDGES TO SOLOMON 1200–931
Jg / 1 S /2 S / 1 K 1–11 / 1 Ch / 2 Ch 1–9

	1200	Iron Age I: about 1200 to 900. The Philistines, repulsed by Rameses III, occupy the Palestinian coast. Use of iron gradually spreads
		The JUDGES: c. 1200 to 1025
Egypt: 20th dynasty, 1184–1070. RAMESES III, about 1175, victory over the Peoples of the Sea who try to force an entry into Egypt
		About 1125: Deborah and Barak triumph over the Canaanites at Taanach
Mesopotamia: about 1100, Assyrian hegemony under TIGLATH-PILESER I, followed by the decline of Assyria and appearance of the Aramaean kingdoms, Damascus, Zobah, Hamath, temporarily Babylon, etc.	1100

	BC
Egypt: 21st dynasty 1070–945. (Capital: Tanis) Wenamon's voyage to Byblos
	1050	About 1050: victory of the Philistines at Aphek and death of Eli
		SAMUEL appears about 1040. The sanctuary at Shiloh
		SAUL: 1030 to about 1010. Resides at Gibeah. Victories over the Ammonites and Philistines. Defeat at Gilboa and death of Saul
		DAVID: 1010–970
	1000	Capture of Jerusalem about 1000. Victories over the Philistines, Moabites, King of Zobah, Aramaeans of Damascus, Ammonites, Amalekites, Edomites. Alliance with Hamath, 2 S 8
SIAMON: 975–955
REZON king of Damascus, 1 K 11:23seq.		SOLOMON: about 970–931. Marries Pharaoh's daughter. In his 4th year, the building of the Temple, 1 K 6:1. Commercial contacts with Phoenicia and Arabia. Literary activity: proverbs, writing of history (2 S 9–1 K 2)
PSUSENNES II: 955–950

V: JUDAH AND ISRAEL: 931–721
1 K 12–22 / 2 K 1–17 / 2 Ch 10–28 / Am / Ho / Is / Mi

		Iron Age II about 900–600
Egypt: 22nd dynasty, about 945–725 (Libyan). Capital: Bubastis
SHESHONK I: 945–925
		Assembly at Shechem and schism 1 K 12, about 931
		ISRAEL	JUDAH
Sheshonk's campaign in Palestine (the Karnak list)		JEROBOAM I: 931–910. Residence at Tirzah. Worship at Dan and Bethel	REHOBOAM: 931–913. In his 5th year, Temple pillaged by Sheshonk, 1 K 14:25seq. (Sheshonk's stele at Megiddo)
OSORKON I: about 925–889			ABIJAH: 913–911
TABRIMMON (son of Hezion) king of Damascus, 1 K 15:18			ASA: 911–870. Struggle against idolatry. Allies with Ben-Hadad against Baasha
		NADAB: 910–909
		BAASHA: 909–886. Massacre of the House of Jeroboam
BEN-HADAD I his son, 1 K 15:18	900
		ELAH: 886–885
		ZIMRI: 7 days
		OMRI: 885–874. Founds Samaria. Controls territory of Moab
Revival of Assyria: ASSURNASIRPAL II: 883–859
Egypt's weakness in 9th century and first half of 8th

	BC
		AHAB: 874–853. Marries Jezebel daughter of Ittobaal king of Tyre and Sidon. Temple of Baal. Enlarges his palace
BEN-HADAD II king of Damascus		Samaria ivories, see 1 K 22:39. Elijah and the Yahwist reaction, 1 K 17–19; 21; 2 K 1. Wars against Ben-Hadad II, 1 K 20 and 22. Battles of Aphek and Ramoth	JEHOSHAPHAT: 870–848. Struggle against idolatry. Allied to Ahab. Controls Edom
SHALMANESER III: 858–824. In 853, victory at Kharkah on the Orontes over 12 kings, including Hadadezer (= Ben Hadad) and Ahab		AHAZIAH: 853–852
	850	JEHORAM: 852–841, his brother. Campaigns with the king of Judah against Mesha. Elisha, 2 K 2–13. Jehoram defends Ramoth-Gilead with Ahaziah of Judah against HAZAEL. Put to death, with all his family, by Jehu	JEHORAM: 848–841. Marries Ataliah daughter of Omri. Baal-worship. Edom set free
			AHAZIAH: 841. Put to death on Jehu's orders
841: Shalmaneser III defeats Hazael, reaches the sea and receives tribute from Jehu and the kings of Tyre and Sidon		JEHU: 841–814. Yahwist reaction. Hazael secures Gilead	ATHALIAH: 841–835. Massacre of the king's sons, except Joash. Jehoiada's plot and death of Athaliah
			JOASH: 835–796. Son of Ahaziah. Repairs the Temple. Hazael captures Gath
		JEHOAHAZ: 814–798. Son of Jehu. Harassed by Ben-Hadad III, 1 K 13:3, cf. 2 K 6:24i
BEN-HADAD III king of Damascus. Defeated by Shalmaneser III
ADADNIRARI III: 810–783. In 805 receives tribute from Ben-Hadad III and the king of Israel 800
		JOASH: 798–783. Death of Elisha. Joash regains lost cities from Ben-Hadad, 2 K 13:25. Defeats Amaziah at Beth-Shemesh. Samaria ostraca	AMAZIAH: 796–781. Victory over Edom. Defeated by Joash of Israel. Killed at Lachish
ZAKIR king of Hamath
Between 783 and 745: Assyria weak		JEROBOAM II: 783–743. Re-establishes Israel's boundaries	UZZIAH: 781–740 (= Azariah). Re-establishes his authority as far as Elath. Develops agriculture
	750	750: Amos and, a little later, Hosea
Egypt: rivalry between 22nd dynasty (Bubastis) and 23rd (Thebes)
TIGLATH-PILESER III: 745–727 (= Pulu in Babylon). Conquered territories reduced to provinces and populations exchanged		ZECHARIAH: 743
		SHALLUM: 743

	BC
		MENAHEM: 743–738. Tribute to Pul, 2 K 15:19
RAZON king of Damascus			740: call of Isaiah, Is 6:1
			JOTHAM: 740–736. First appearance of Micah
About 738: Tiglath-Pileser receives tribute from Razon, Menahem and the princes of the west		PEKAHIAH: 738–737. Killed by Pekah
		PEKAH: 737–732. Loses Galilee and Gilead, 2 K 15:29
			AHAZ: 736–716
About 734: Tiglath-Pileser captures part of Galilee. Ahaz pays him tribute			734: Razon and Pekah besiege Jerusalem. Isaiah's prophecy of Emmanuel. Appeal to Tiglath-Pileser who takes Damascus and kills Razon, 2 K 16:9
About 732: Tiglath-Pileser's campaign against Razon. End of Damascus' independence. He replaces Pekah by Hoshea		HOSHEA: 732–724. Makes alliance with Egypt
SHALMANESER V: 726–722		Samaria besieged by Shalmaneser V
SARGON II: 721–705. Captures Samaria (or claims his father's victory as his own) and founds the Assyrian province of Samerina. Puts an end to the kingdom of Hamath (720)		722 or 721: capture of Samaria, deportation of inhabitants, installation of foreigners; religious syncretism, 2 K 17:5seq

VI: END OF THE KINGDOM OF JUDAH 721–587
2 K 18–25 / 2 Ch 29–36 / Zp / Na / Hab / Jr / Ezk

Sargon defeats Sibê the Egyptian at Raphia	EGYPT 24th dynasty. Capital: Sais
His palace at Khorsabad, near Nineveh
721–711 and in 703: the Chaldaean Mardukapaliddina king of Babylon
	BOCCHORIS: 715–709 25th dynasty (Nubian)		HEZEKIAH: 716–687. Sargon's army captures Ashdod, Is 20:1. Embassy of Merodach-Baladan, 2 K 20:12seq.
711: Sargon captures Ashdod
	SHABAKAH: 710–696
	TIRHAKAH: born about 710
SENNACHERIB: 704–681
701: victory of ELTEKEH over the Ekronites aided by Egyptians and Ethiopians (Nubians). He takes 46 towns from Hezekiah and imposes a tribute		700	Hezekiah's building programme at Jerusalem and inscription in the tunnel of Siloam. Sennacherib invades Judaea. Hezekiah's tribute, 2 K 18:13–16
	SHABATOKA: 696–685
About 690: Eltekeh's campaign in Arabia as far as Dumah. On his return, capture of Lachish (Nineveh relief, undated)	Tirhakah his brother, co-regent about 690		Literary activity, Pr 25:1

		BC
			Second (?) campaign of Sennacherib in Palestine, capture of Lachish, threat of Tirhakah, retreat of Sennacherib, 2 K 18:17–19:37
			MANASSEH: 687–642. Non-Yahwist cults in the Temple. Captivity in Babylon according to 2 Ch 33:11
	TIRHAKAH king: 685–664
ESARHADDON: 680–669 About 671: Esarhaddon takes Lower Egypt from Tirhakah. Tribute from the kings of the West, including Manasseh ASHURBANIPAL: 669–630?
668: tribute from Manasseh; Egyptian campaign: Tirhakah pushed back beyond Thebes	TANUTAMON: 664–656
About 663: second campaign by Ashurbanipal in Egypt against Tanutamon; sack of Thebes	26th dynasty: 663–525. Capital: Sais
	PSAMMETICHUS I: 663–609	650
The library of Ashurbanipal	About 650: Assyrians driven from Egypt by Psammetichus I
			AMON: 642–640
			JOSIAH: 640–609
ASHURETILILANI: 630–623			About 630: Zephaniah
SHINSHARISHKUN: 627–612 king of Assyria			627: call of Jeremiah Jr 25:3
Babylon: neo-Babylonian dynasty, 626–539
NEBUPOLASSAR: 626–605
	About 625: Ashuretililani checks the Scythian invasion
			622: discovery of 'The Book of the Law' (2 K 23:25). Religious reform which spreads to Samaria Editing of historical documents in the spirit of Dt. 1st revision of the Books of Joshua, Judges, Samuel and Kings
612: CYAXARES king of the Medes, and Nebupolassar take and destroy Nineveh			About 612: Nahum
ASHURUBALLIT II: 612–609; reigns in Haran; in 609 is expelled from Mesopotamia
609: Nebupolassar repulses the army of Necho coming to the aid of Assyria. In 606 he puts an end to the Assyrian Empire	NECHO: 609–594		609: Josiah is killed while opposing the advance of Necho's armies

		BC
			609: JEHOAHAZ: replaced at the end of three months by his brother at Necho's instigation
			JEHOIAKIM: 609–598
605: the king's son Nebuchadnezzar defeats Necho's armies at Carchemish and seizes Syria			605: Nebuchadnezzar defeats Necho at Carchemish, Jr 46:2, cf. 2 K 24:1,7; prophecy of the 70 years of exile, Jr 25:1,11
NEBUCHADNEZZAR: Sept 605–562	Aramaic letter from the Philistine king Adon to Pharaoh (Necho)		Invasion of Philistia, Jr 47:1–7; Jehoiakim a vassal for 3 years, 2 K 24:1; 2 Ch 36:6; Dn 1:1
605–604: 2nd campaign in Syria, 604–603: 3rd campaign and capture of Ashkelon (Dec. 604)
		600	About 600: revolt of Jehoiakim and incursion of bands of Chaldaeans and Aramaeans, 2 K 24:2. The prophet Habakkuk (?)
End of 601: Nebuchadnezzar is defeated in Egypt 599–598: raids against the Arabs
			JEHOIACHIN: 598–597
Beginning of 597: Nebuchadnezzar besieges the capital of Judah and captures it on 16 March. Takes the king prisoner and replaces him by another. Tablets mention Jehoiachin among those receiving rations at Nebuchadnezzar's court	PSAMMETICHUS II: 594–589		Siege of Jerusalem. After a reign of 3 months, Jehoiachin surrenders to Nebuchadnezzar. Deportation to Babylon. Jehoiachin replaced by his uncle, Zedekiah, 597–587 or 586 (son of Josiah). Jeremiah and the false prophets. Ezekiel predicts the ruin of Jerusalem, Ezk 1–23
	HOPHRA (Apries): 589–566		589: revolt of Zedekiah. In Dec. or Jan. beginning of the siege of Jerusalem
587: siege of Tyre; lasted 13 years
			Early 587: diversion by Hophra Siege of Tyre, Ezk 26seq.; Jr 37:5,11. June–July 587 or 586: capture of Jerusalem. Zedekiah taken Nebuzeriddinam heads a list of royal functionaries			One month later, Nebuzaradan destroys the Temple and the city. Fresh deportations. Gedaliah as governor; assassinated Sept./Oct. Jeremiah taken to Egypt, Jr 42seq.
			582/581: fresh deportations, Jr 52:30
	569: AMASIS co-regent 566–526 (?): king		Jr 46:13
568/567: campaign against Amasis
562–560: AVILMARDUK
560–556: NERIGLISSAR			561: Evil-Merodach pardons Jehoiachin

556: LABASHIMARDUK

556–539: NABONIDUS. During his stay at Teima he is replaced by the crown prince BELSHAZZAR

555: CYRUS, King of the Persians revolts against his overlord Astyages king of the Medes

546: he captures Sardis (Croesus)

525 PSAMMETICHUS III

BC

550 Is ch. 40–55

VII: THE RESTORATION AT THE PERSIAN PERIOD 538–323
Ezr / Ne / Hg / Zc / Ml

539: the army of Cyrus enters Babylon. Cyrus gives back to their original cities the sacred objects carried off to Babylon

The palace of Pasargadae

Summer 530: death of Cyrus

CAMBYSES: 529–522. Son of Cyrus. Conquers Egypt, which remains under Persian rule until 400 (27th dynasty)

DARIUS I: 522–486. Organises the Persian empire: Syria and Palestine form the 5th satrapy and Egypt the 6th.

520–515: building of the Second Temple, Ezr 6:15; Hg 1:15. High Commissioner ZERUBBABEL; High Priest JOSHUA. The prophets Haggai and Zechariah

The palace of Persepolis

500

490: battle of Marathon

XERXES I: 486–465 (Ahasuerus)

480: he captures Athens but is defeated at Salamis

ARTAXERXES I LONGIMANUS: 464–423. Revolts in Egypt and Syria

Athens: Pericles

ARSAMES satrap of Egypt (455/4 to about 403)

450

538: The Edict of Cyrus. Return from exile. SHESHBAZZAR high commissioner, Ezr 5:14

Autumn, restoration of the altar of burnt offerings, Ezr 3:3

537: Spring, Foundation of the Second Temple, Ezr 3:8; 5:16

498–399: papyri from the Jewish colony of Elephantine

Opposition of the Samaritans to the rebuilding of the walls of Jerusalem, Ezr 4:6seq.

458: Ezra's mission (if Ezr 7:7 refers to Artaxerxes I)

445–443: the 1st mission of NEHEMIAH, Ne 2:1; 5:14, and the restoration of the walls. Hostility of Sanballat (governor of Samaria, according to Elephantine papyrus), of Tobiah the Ammonite and Geshem the Arab

Under Xerxes and Artaxerxes, Malachi and probably Obadiah, possibly also Job, Proverbs, Song of Songs and Ruth and many Psalms

	BC
		(428, Ezra's mission, if we read 37th in place of 7th year in Ezr 7:7seq.)
		Before the death of Artaxerxes: 2nd mission of Nehemiah and the reforms inspired by Deuteronomy, Ne 13:6seq.
XERXES II: 423
DARIUS II NOTHUS: 423–404
		419: Rescript of Darius on the Passover (Elephantine papyrus)
		About 410: the incident at the temple of Yaho at Elephantine
ARTAXERXES II MNEMON: 404–358		Prosperity of the Jews in Babylon (archives of the banking family of Murashu)
401: Revolt of Cyrus the Younger and expedition of the Ten Thousand
About 400: Egypt wins its freedom (28th–30th dynasties: 400–342)	400
		(398: EZRA'S mission, if Ezr 7:7 refers to Artaxerxes II. The legislation of the Pentateuch, unified by Ezra, is sanctioned by Artaxerxes, Ezr 7:26)
Plato
359/8–338/7: ARTAXERXES III OCHUS
	350	Judaea is formed into a theocratic state with its own coinage (drachmas inscribed YHD, Judah)
342: reconquest of Egypt (31st Dynasty: 342–332) PHILIP OF MACEDON. Aristotle		Before Alexander, the prophet Joel and probably the work of the Chronicler: the Books of Chronicles and Ezra-Nehemiah. At the time of Alexander, Zc 9–14
338–336: ARSES
DARIUS III CODOMAN: 336/5–330
ALEXANDER THE GREAT: 336–323		End of the Persian period, or beginning of the hellenistic period: Jonah, Tobit
333: conquest of Syria
332: capture of Tyre and Gaza; entry into Egypt
331: foundation of Alexandria
331: ends the Persian empire by his victory at Arbela
330–326: conquest of the Eastern satrapies and India
323: Alexander dies in Babylon

VIII: THE HELLENISTIC PERIOD 323–63
1 M / 2 M / Dn 11

In Egypt: the LAGIDES	In Syria and Babylonia: the SELEUCIDS		Judaea ruled by the Lagides until 200
PTOLEMY I SOTER: 323–285
Foundation of the 'Museum' at Alexandria. At Athens, a little before 300: foundation of the Epicurean and Stoic Schools	SELEUCUS I NICATOR: 305/4–281. In 300, the foundation of Antioch on the Orontes	300	Jews established in Egypt by Ptolemy I and in Antioch by Seleucus (Josephus)

		BC
PTOLEMY II PHILADELPHUS: 285–246	ANTIOCHUS I SOTER: 281–261. Defeats the Galatian invaders of Asia Minor		PTOLEMY II orders Greek translation of the Law by the Seventy (apocryphal letter of Aristeas)
276–273: war with Syria which continues intermittently until the arrival of the Romans	ANTIOCHUS II THEOS: 261–246		Tobiah governor of Ammanitis (his building operations at Arak el-Emir). Archives of Zeno. Active hellenisation in Palestine
About 253: Ptolemy II gives his daughter Berenice to Antiochus II, who repudiates Laodice, see Dn 11:6		250
	247: start of the Arsacid (Parthian) era
PTOLEMY III EUERGETES: 246–221	246: Laodice has Berenice and her son assassinated, see Dn 11:6		Possibly the books of Esther and Ecclesiastes
	SELEUCUS II CALLINICUS: 246–226
Supremacy of Egypt, see Dn 11:7	SELEUCUS III CERAUNUS: 226–223
	ANTIOCHUS III THE GREAT: 223–187		The victorious Ptolemy III and IV offer sacrifices at Jerusalem (3M and Josephus)
PTOLEMY IV PHILOPATOR: 221–205
217: victory over Antiochus at Raphia	Numerous campaigns, for the most part successful
PTOLEMY V EPIPHANES: 204–180
	202–200: Antiochus reconquers Palestine; siege and capture of Gaza, compare Dn 11:15(?)
	200: Antiochus defeats Scopas at Panion	200
			199–198: Scopas, Ptolemy's general, returns to the offensive Besieged in Sidon, Scopas surrenders, compare Dn 11:10–16
Egypt, after Panion, plays a minor role			Judaea ruled by the Seleucids: 200–142, cf. 1 M 13:41
197: Flaminius beats Philip V of Macedonia at Cynoscephalae, see 1 M 8:5			The charter of Antiochus III confirms the theocratic status of the Jews, see 2 M 4:11
193: Antiochus III gives his daughter Cleopatra I to Ptolemy V, see Dn 11:17
189: At Magnesia of Sipyle Antiochus III is defeated by the Scipios, see Dn 11:18. The onerous Peace of Apamea (188). His son Antiochus IV a hostage at Rome, see 1 M 8:6seq.
187: Antiochus III killed at Elymais, see Dn 11:19			SIMON II the Just, high priest. Building works at Jerusalem, Si 50. Jesus Ben Sira writes Ecclesiasticus
SELEUCUS IV PHILOPATOR his son: 187–175 killed by his minister HELIODORUS			ONIAS III high priest: episode of Heliodorus. 2 M 3; Dn 11:20
PTOLEMY VI PHILOMETOR: 180–145
ANTIOCHUS IV EPIPHANES brother of Seleucus; Demetrius (I) hostage at Rome

BC

175/4: Philometor marries his sister Cleopatra II (2 M 4:21?)

175

175/4: JASON brother of Onias III high priest; Jerusalem now a Greek city named Antioch, 2 M 4:9

172: MENELAUS high priest. Has Onias III killed in the summer of that year (Dn 9:25seq.; 11:22; 2 M 4:30seq.)

171–138: MITHRIDATES I ARSACES VI King of the Parthians

170: co-regency of Philometor, Cleopatra II and their brother Ptolemy VII Physcon

169: First campaign by Antiochus in Egypt. On his return he pillages the Temple (Polybius)

First campaign in Egypt, Dn 11:24seq.; 1 M 1:16seq. (2 M 5:15seq.: pillaging of the Temple)

168: Second campaign in Egypt. Aemilius Paulus defeats Perseus king of Macedon at Pydna in June, see 1 M 8:5. Near Alexandria, Antiochus forces Caius Popilius Laenas to retire from Egypt, see Dn 11:29 seq.

Second campaign in Egypt, Dn 11:29; 2 M 5:1

167–164: The Great Persecution; construction of the Citadel (Acra), 1 M 1:33. In the Temple, sacrifices made to Olympian Zeus, 25 Chislev 145, Seleucid Era 1 M 1:59; 2 M 10:5; Dn 11:31x

Revolt of the priest MATTATHIAS. The Hasidaeans join him, 1 M 2:42, see also Dn 11:32

JUDAS MACCABAEUS his son succeeds him: 166–160

164: expedition of Antiochus IV into Armenia and Persia

About November 164: death of Antiochus IV at Tabae (Polybius)

Beginning of 164: First campaign of Lysias, 1 M 4:28seq.; 2 M 11 (except vv. 22–26)

Book of Daniel; the Book of Dreams (Enoch 83–90). Death of Antiochus IV, 1 M 6:1seq.; 2 M 9

ANTIOCHUS V EUPATOR his son: 164–162. Power wielded by Lysias

Accession of Antiochus V, 1 M 6:17; 2 M 10:11. Dec 164 (25 Chislev): Purification of the Temple and dedication, 1 M 4:36 seq.; 2 M 1:10seq.; 10:1seq.; compare Dn 7:25*o*

163: 2nd campaign of Lysias; Antiochus V restores religious freedom to the Jews, 1 M 6:31seq.; 2 M 11:22–26 and ch. 13

161–150: DEMETRIUS I SOTER son of Seleucus IV has Antiochus V and Lysias put to death

The high priest ALCIMUS asks Demetrius to take action against Judas Maccabaeus

Judas allies himself with Rome, 1 M 8

March 160: Nicanor defeated and killed at Adasa (13 Adar), 1 M 7; 2 M 15

Jason of Cyrene writes the work (2 M 2:19seq.) subsequently adapted about 124 (1:9seq.) as Second Book of Maccabees

April–May 160: Judas Maccabaeus killed at Beer Zeth

JONATHAN succeeds his brother Judas: 160–143

Tyranny of Bacchides

157–152: Jonathan 'judge' at Michmash, 1 M 9:73

152–150: Alexander Balas (son of Antiochus IV?) disputes the throne with Demetrius I who dies in battle

Autumn 152: JONATHAN named high priest by Alexander Balas. Onias son of Onias III, builds a temple at Leontopolis (Jewish Antiquities, Josephus, xiii, 62seq; Jewish War, vii, 420seq.)

	BC
		Formation of the Essene Community at Qumran (?), see Josephus, Jewish Antiquities, xiii. 171seq.; Manual of Discipline
About 150: Mithridates I ruler of almost all Persia	150
ALEXANDER BALAS: 150–145. Marries Cleopatra Thea daughter of Ptolemy VI		Jonathan at Ptolemais attends the marriage of Cleopatra Thea and Alexander Balas who names him strategos and meridarch, 1 M 10:65
148: Macedonia becomes a Roman province 147–145: Demetrius II son of Demetrius I disputes the throne of Syria with Alexander Balas and marries Cleopatra Thea. Battle of the Oenoparos near Antioch; Ptolemy VI mortally wounded, Alexander killed soon afterwards		Jonathan defeats Apollonius, governor of Coele-Syria on behalf of Demetrius the Younger, and seizes the coastal towns, 1 M 10:67seq.
146: Destruction of Carthage and Corinth
DEMETRIUS II: 145–140 and 129–125		145: charter of Demetrius II confirming Jonathan as ruler of Judaea and southern Samaria, 1 M 11:30seq.
PTOLEMY VIII PHYSCON: 145–116
ANTIOCHUS VI: 144–142. Young son of Alexander Balas, installed in Antioch by Diodotus (Trypho)		144: Antiochus VI confirms Jonathan in his functions. Renewal of alliances with Rome and Sparta, 1 M 11:54seq.
		143: Jonathan captured and later killed by Trypho. SIMON, his brother, succeeds him: 143–134
TRYPHO king: 142–138. He does away with Antiochus VI in 142 or 138		142: Simon rallies to Demetrius II, who confirms the charter of 145
141: Seleucia on the Tigris and Babylon taken by Mithridates		June 141: the Citadel surrenders to Simon; end of the Seleucid occupation, 1 M 13:51
140/139: counter-offensive by Demetrius II in Persia. He is captured by the Parthians		Renewal of alliances with Rome and Sparta, 1 M 14:16seq. and 15:15seq.
		Feb 134: Simon killed by his son-in-law Ptolemy. His son Hyrcanus escapes the assassins. End of First Book of Maccabees
133: ATTALUS III king of Pergamum bequeaths his states to Rome, which, in 129, organises the province of Asia		134–104: JOHN HYRCANUS (I)
129–64: the successors of Sidetes destroy themselves in fratricidal feuds; they have lost control of Palestine		John Hyrcanus conquers Moab and Samaria. Destruction of the temple at Gerizim
		ARISTOBULUS I: 104–103. He takes the title of king
		ALEXANDER JANNAEUS: 103–76. New conquests. Struggle against the Pharisees
	100	Between 100 and 50, the book of Judith
95–88 (at Damascus): DEMETRIUS III About 84, ARETAS III King of Nabataea occupies Coele-Syria
70: TIGRANES King of Armenia dominates the whole of Syria		ALEXANDRA: 76–67. Her son HYRCANUS II is high priest: 76–67, and again 63–40. In 67 he succeeds his mother as king but is soon supplanted by his younger brother
67: Roman province of Crete-Cyrenaica		ARISTOBULUS II: 67–63, king and high priest
66–62: POMPEY in the East. Pontus and Bithynia become Roman provinces

BC Passover 65: Hyrcanus II and Aretas III besiege Jerusalem but, on instructions from Pompey, retire and are subsequently defeated by Aristobulus II

64: at Antioch, Pompey deposes Philip II, last of the Seleucids, and makes Syria a Roman province

IX: ROMAN PALESTINE TO THE TIME OF HADRIAN 63 BC–AD135

63: Pompey at Damascus. Arrogance of Aristobulus and incapacity of Hyrcanus

Summer or autumn 63: Pompey takes Jerusalem, names Hyrcanus high priest and sends Aristobulus and his son Antigonus to Rome

The Idumaean ANTIPATER minister of Hyrcanus, the real ruler of Judaea. Rebellion of the last Hasmonaeans

53: Crassus defeated by the Parthians

54: Crassus pillages the Temple

CLEOPATRA VII queen of Egypt: 51–30

50

About 50: in Alexandria, the book of Wisdom

48: JULIUS CAESAR defeats Pompey at Pharsalia. Pompey is killed in Egypt

The Psalms of Solomon

47: Caesar names Hyrcanus ethnarch (47–41). Herod son of Antipater is named strategos of Galilee. The revolt of Hezekiah is suppressed

44: Julius Caesar assassinated

43: Antipater dies of poisoning

41–30: ANTONY in the East

41: Antony names Herod and his brother Phasael as tetrarchs

40: the Parthians in Syria and Palestine

40: the Parthians name ANTIGONUS king and high priest Herod flees to Rome

End of 40: the Senate names Herod king

Hyrcanus is mutilated

39–37: struggle between Herod and Antigonus

38: Parthians driven from Syria and Palestine
38–37 SOSIUS governor of Syria

Early 37: Herod marries MARIAMNE I granddaughter of Aristobulus II and Hyrcanus II

June (?) 37: capture of Jerusalem by Sosius and Herod

37–4 BC: HEROD THE GREAT effectively king

31: OCTAVIAN defeats Antony at the naval battle of Actium

30: Suicide of Antony and Cleopatra. Egypt becomes a Roman province

30: Herod executes Hyrcanus II

29: Octavian, Imperator for life

29: Herod executes Mariamne I and builds the Antonia

27: Octavian named AUGUSTUS
Syria an imperial province with a legate from Augustus

Herod 'rex socius'

25: Galatia a Roman province

23: Herod is given Trachonitis, Batanaea and Auranitis

23: Herod builds the Palace in the upper city. Founds, or rebuilds, Antipatris, Phaselis, Samaria (Sebaste), the Herodion and Caesarea
Numerous wives: in 23, Mariamne II daughter of the High Priest Simon son of Boethos

20: Herod is given Paneas

12–6: SULPICIUS QUIRINIUS as legate of Syria (?), subdues the Homonades of Taurus. Several indications of a census throughout the empire

9: ARETAS IV succeeds his father Obodas II as king of Nabataea and reigns until AD 39

9–6: SENTIUS SATURNINUS legate in Syria

According to Tertullian, it is Saturninus who initiates the census of Judaea

6–4: QUINTILIUS VARUS legate in Syria

SABINUS procurator for Augustus' estates in Syria

ARCHELAUS ethnarch of Judaea and Samaria: 4BC–AD6

HEROD ANTIPAS tetrarch of Galilee and Peraea: 4BC–AD39

PHILIP tetrarch of Gaulanitis, Batanaea, Trachonitis, Auranitis, and of Paneas (Ituraea): 4BC–AD34

End of year 4: Augustus confirms Herod's last will, but refuses Archelaus the title of king

3–2 BC: the successor to Varus is unknown. Possibly Quirinius legate now

AD 1/2–4: Quirinius is counsellor to young GAIUS CAESAR, grandson of Augustus, during his mission to the East

4–5: VOLUSIUS SATURNINUS legate in Syria

BC

Winter of 20–19: start of the rebuilding of the Temple

The Pharisees Hillel and Shammai and their rival schools

The census of Lk 2:1*seq*. See the lapis Venetus inscription, undated, giving evidence of a census in Apamaea (Syria) by order of Quirinius. 'legate in Syria'; see Lk 2:2b

9–8: Herod penetrates into the territory of the Nabataeans to capture the brigands of Trachonitis, given asylum by the minister SYLLAIOS, who complains to Augustus. Temporary disgrace of Herod

About the year 7: Herod has Alexander and Aristobulus, his two sons by Mariamne I, strangled

More than 6,000 Pharisees refuse to take the oath to Augustus on the occasion of a census (?) (which continues that of Quirinius)

7–6 (?): Birth of JESUS

March of the year 4: the affair of the golden eagle in the Temple. Execution of Antipater, eldest son of Herod. Herod's will in favour of the sons of Malthace the Samaritan (Archelaus and Herod Antipas) and the son of Cleopatra (Philip)

End of March beginning of April 4 BC: death of Herod at Jericho. Archelaus takes his body to the Herodion

4 At the Passover (11 April), Archelaus puts down a rebellion at Jerusalem and then goes to Rome to receive the title of king from Augustus

Sabinus comes to Jerusalem to make an inventory of the resources of the kingdom of Herod: sharp opposition and trouble throughout the country. At this time, possibly, the rebellion of Judas the Galilean, see Ac 5:37, and of the Pharisee Saddok who urged disobedience to Rome and refusal to pay taxes. (Origin of the Zealots, see Mt 22:17.) Sabinus appeals to Varus who pursues the rebels; 2000 are crucified

The Assumption of Moses (apoc.)

If Quirinius is legate from 3 to 2, he could have continued the census begun by Sabinus and ordered the census of Apamaea (the undated lapis Venetus)

AD

1

Philip the tetrarch builds Julias (Bethsaida). He enriches the shrine of Pan (Paneas, the Paneion), which he names Caesarea in honour of Augustus

AD

Between 5 and 10: birth of Paul at Tarsus; pupil of Gamaliel the Elder, Ac 22:3, compare 5:34

6: Augustus deposes Archelaus who is exiled to Vienne (Gaul)

6: According to Josephus, Quirinius legate in Syria (?)

6: According to Josephus, Quirinius comes to Judaea to make an inventory of possessions of Archelaus; this could have provoked the rebellion of Judas and Saddok. (But for the year 6 Josephus repeats events he has described for the year 4)

6–8: Coponius prefect

6 (?)–15: Annas son of Seth, High Priest

6–41: Judaea a prefectorial province (with Caesarea as the capital)

14 (19 August): death of Augustus.

14–37: TIBERIUS emperor

15: Valerius Gratus deposes Annas. Three high priests follow

Valerius Gratus prefect: 15–26

17–19: GERMANICUS adopted son of Tiberius, in the East

About 17: foundation of Tiberias by Antipas
Under Tiberius, Lysanias tetrarch of Abilene, Lk 3:1, and inscriptions

18: Cappadocia becomes a Roman province

26–36: Pontius Pilate prefect

About 27: Herod Antipas, married to the daughter of Aretas, marries Herodias the wife of his brother Herod (son of Mariamne II)

The preaching of JOHN THE BAPTIST and the beginning of the ministry of Jesus, see Lk 3:2f

Easter 28: Jesus at Jerusalem, Jn 2:13. The 46 years of Jn 2:20 begin from 20/19 BC

In the 15th year of Tiberius, Lk 3:1: 19 Aug. 28 or 18 Aug. 29—but according to the Syrian calculation, Sept.–Oct. 27 to Sept.–Oct. 28

'(The) Christ condemned to death by Pontius Pilate under the Emperor Tiberius' (Tacitus, Annals)

Easter 30: on the eve of the Passover, i.e. 14 Nisan, a Friday, death of Jesus, Jn 19:31seq. (The Passover fell on the Saturday, 8 April in 30 and 4 April in 33: the second date is too late, see Jn 2:20.) See Mt 26:17c

Pentecost 30: outpouring of the Spirit on the Church, Ac 2. The first community, Ac 2:42, etc.

33–34: Philip dies without an heir, and Tiberius merges his tetrarchy into the province of Syria

Pontius Pilate has difficulties with the Jews; the incident of the standards and shields (Philo). Pilate's aqueduct

Election of the seven Hellenist ministers, Ac 6:1seq.

Martyrdom of Stephen and dispersion of the community; conversion of Paul; Paul in Arabia

35–39: L. Vitellius legate in Syria, father of the emperor Vitellius. He is given full powers in the East

About 35: Pontius Pilate orders the massacre of the Samaritans at Gerizim

Easter 36: Vitellius in Jerusalem. He replaces Caiaphas by Jonathan son of Annas

Paul returns to Damascus, he escapes from there, 2 Co 11:32seq. and visits the elders of the church, Ga 1:18seq. (Cephas and James, the brother of the Lord), Ac 9:25seq.

Autumn 36: Pontius Pilate leaves for Rome, sent thither by Vitellius to justify his conduct. He dies a violent death

	AD
Winter 36–37: Vitellius concentrates the legions at Ptolemais in order to attack Aretas IV
March 37: death of Tiberius. Vitellius breaks off his campaign against Aretas		37: Vitellius, on his way to Petra, stops at Jerusalem. He replaces Jonathan by his brother THEOPHILUS, high priest from 37 to 41
		Foundation of the church at Antioch, Ac 11:19seq.
37–41: CALIGULA emperor MARCELLUS prefect
37: Caligula gives AGRIPPA I son of Aristobulus the tetrarchies of Philip and Lysanias, with title of king (37–44)
38: persecution of the Jews in Alexandria
39–42: P. PETRONIUS legate in Syria
39: the Jewish philosopher Philo ambassador to Rome. He died after 41
39: Caligula exiles Antipas and gives, at the beginning of 40, his tetrarchy to Agrippa I		39: Caligula orders the erection of his statue in the Temple. Thanks to Petronius and Agrippa I the affair drags on until Caligula's assassination
		PETER in Samaria (Simon the Magician), in the coastal plain (Cornelius the centurion), and at Jerusalem, Ac 8:14–11:18
41–54: CLAUDIUS emperor. Agrippa I, now in Rome contributes to his success: Claudius concedes him Judaea and Samaria. His brother Herod becomes King of Chalcis (41–48) and marries Berenice (daughter of Agrippa)		Herod the Great's kingdom is reconstituted. Agrippa builds the 3rd wall of Jerusalem, but Claudius has the work discontinued. Many buildings, in particular at Berytus (Beirut)
41: edict and letter from Claudius to the Alexandrians
42–44: VIBIUS MARSIUS legate in Syria
Spring 44: on Herod Agrippa's death, Judaea once again becomes a prefectorial province, 44–66		Before Passover 44: Agrippa orders the beheading of JAMES BROTHER OF JOHN (James the Great); during the feast he imprisons Peter, Ac 12
44–46: CUSPIUS FADUS prefect		28 June 45: a rescript of Claudius gives the Jews the custody of the priestly vestments. Herod of Chalcis is named inspector of the Temple, with the right to nominate the high priest. In 47 he nominated Ananias son of Nebadius (47–59), see Ac 23:2seq.
		Fadus and the false prophet, Theudas, see Ac 5:36
46–48: TIBERIUS ALEXANDER prefect. Nephew of Philo, but an apostate. At this time, several famines throughout the empire		Between 45 and 49: 1st mission by Paul: Antioch, Cyprus, Antioch in Pisidia, Lystra, . . . Antioch, Ac 13:1seq.
48–52: VENTIDIUS CUMANUS prefect		About 48: famine in Judaea, worsened by the sabbatical year 47–48. Visit to Jerusalem by HELEN queen of Adiabene, a convert to Judaism; she brings relief to the population, Paul and Barnabas bring help to the communities at Antioch and Jerusalem. The council of Jerusalem: gentile Christians exempt from the Law, Ac 15:5seq.; Ga 2:1seq.
48–53: AGRIPPA II son of Agrippa I, king of Chalcis.
49: Claudius 'drives from Rome the Jewish agitators stirred up by Chrestos' (Suetonius), see Ac 18:2		49–52: 2nd mission by Paul: Lystra (Timothy), Phrygia, Galatia, Philippi, Thessalonica, Athens (sermon on the Areopagus)
	50	Earliest oral tradition of the gospel put in written form
50–60: UMMIDIUS QUADRATUS legate in Syria		Winter of 50 to summer of 52; Paul in Corinth: the Letters to the Thessalonians; and, in the spring of 52, summoned to appear before Gallio

	AD
52 (rather than 51): GALLIO, brother of Seneca, proconsul of Achaia		Summer 52: Paul goes to Jerusalem (?) and then to Antioch, Ac 18:22
Agrippa in favour in Rome. Claudius exiles Cumanus
52–60: ANTONIUS FELIX prefect, brother of the freedman Pallas. Marries DRUSILLA sister of Agrippa II, already married to Aziz king of Emesa, see Ac 24:24		The Jews in their struggle against the Samaritans are supported by Cumanus. He is sent to Rome by Quadratus, who visits Jerusalem, Passover of 52
		Felix checks brigandage
		52–59: JONATHAN high priest
53: Claudius gives to Agrippa II, in exchange for Chalcis, the tetrarchies of Philip and Lysarias (53–95), and the heptarchy of Varus (North Libya)		53–58: 3rd mission by Paul; APOLLOS at Ephesus, then at Corinth
54–68: NERO emperor		54–57: after passing through Galatia and Phrygia. Paul stays at Ephesus for 2 years and 3 months
55: Nero adds a part of Galilee and Peraea to Agrippa's kingdom
		After 56 (?): Letter to the Philippians
		About Passover 57: First Letter to the Corinthians, followed by a quick visit to Corinth, 2 Co 12:14. Return to Ephesus (and Letter to the Galatians?)
		End of 57: passes through Macedonia. Second letter to the Corinthians Winter 57–58: at Corinth, Ac 20:3, compare 1 Co 16:6; Letter to the Galatians (?); Letter to the Romans
		Passover 58: at Philippi, Ac 20:6, then, by sea, to Caesarea (Philip and Agabus)
		Summer 58: in Jerusalem. JAMES THE BROTHER OF THE LORD heads the Judaeo-Christian community
		About 58: Felix disbands the followers of the false Egyptian prophet on the Mount of Olives, see Ac 21:28
		Pentecost 58: Paul arrested in the Temple and brought before Ananias and the Sanhedrin. Taken to Caesarea, he is brought before Felix
Between 59 and 67: Agrippa II nominates six high priests, including ANAN SON OF ANNAS (62)		58–60: Paul a captive at Caesarea, the scene of serious troubles between Jews and Syrians
		59: Felix has the former high priest Jonathan assassinated in spite of the fact that he owed his position to Jonathan
60–62: PORCIUS FESTUS prefect		60: Paul appears before Festus and appeals to Caesar. He pleads his cause before Agrippa and his sister Berenice
60–63: CORBULO legate in Syria
		Autumn of 60: Paul's voyage to Rome, the storm, he winters in Malta 61–63: Paul in Rome under military guard. His apostolate, Letters to Colossians, Ephesians, Philemon and Philippians(?)
62–64: LUCCEIUS ALBINUS prefect		62: the High Priest Anan has James the brother of the Lord stoned to death (after the death of Festus and before the arrival of Albinus). SIMEON, son of Cleopas and of Mary succeeds James as head of the church of Jerusalem (Eusebius)
		Anan deposed by Agrippa II

	AD
63–66: CESTIUS GALLUS legate in Syria		63: Paul is set free. Perhaps further journeys, possibly to Spain (Rm 15:24seq.)? Asia Minor? I Timothy and Letter to Titus?
July 64: burning of Rome and persecution of the Christians		Gospel of Mark and 1 Peter Letter of James
64–66: GESSIUS FLORUS prefect. Nominated through the influence of Poppaea, the Jewish wife of Nero		64 (or 67): martyrdom of Peter at Rome
66: rising of the Alexandrine Jews. Tiberius Alexander, at that time prefect of Egypt, massacres several thousand of them		Summer 66: in Jerusalem, Florus crucifies some Jews, but a rising compels him to leave the city. Troubles in Caesarea and throughout the country
66–67: spectacular tour of Greece by Nero. He appoints VESPASIAN and his son TITUS to restore order in Palestine		Sept 66: Jerusalem attacked by Cestius Gallius. He retires with heavy losses. Rebel government
		Exodus of people of importance and probably some Christians, see Lk 21:20seq., who take refuge in Pella (Eusebius)
67–69: MUCIANUS legate in Syria		67: Vespasian, with 60 000 men, reconquers Galilee (Josephus, its rebel governor, is taken prisoner)
		About 67: Paul, prisoner in Rome, writes 2 Timothy (?) A little later he is beheaded(?)
		Letter to the Hebrews
March 68: in Gaul the revolt of the legate VINDEX		67–68: the Zealots of JOHN OF GISCHALA, escaped from Galilee, are masters of Jerusalem with the Idumaeans. Anan and the leading people are massacred
April 68: GALBA emperor
June 68: Nero's suicide		68: Vespasian occupies the maritime plain and the Valley of the Jordan (destruction of Qumran). On Nero's death the siege of Jerusalem is broken off
January 69: OTHO proclaimed Emperor by the Praetorians and VITELLIUS by the legions in Germany		69: SIMON BAR-GIORA and the sicarii in Jerusalem. Vespasian subdues the rest of Judaea; the sicarii hold out in Jerusalem, and in the Herodion, Masada and Machaerus
July 69: Tiberius Alexander declares his support for Vespasian. His lead is followed by all the East End of 69: Vespasian in sole command of the empire
		Passover 70: Many pilgrims in Jerusalem. Titus lays siege to the city with four legions. Tiberius Alexander is second in command Capture of the 3rd wall, then of the 2nd. Circumvallation. Capture of the Antonia. Famine
		Beginning of August, sacrifices cease
		29 August 70: capture of the Inner Court and burning of the Temple (the 10th of Lous, i.e. the 10th of the 5th month, the day when Nebuzaradan set fire to the first Temple, Jr 52:12 and Josephus)
		Sacrifice to the standards, in front of the Temple, cf. Mt 24:15. Titus hailed as Imperator
70, end of the year: Judaea an imperial province; under the rule of the legate of the Xth Legion based in Jerusalem. Caesarea a Roman colony		September 70: capture of the Upper City and the palace of Herod. The inhabitants killed, sold into slavery or condemned to hard labour
		Titus in Syria; many Jews killed in the gladiatorial games
71–72: LUCILIUS BASSUS legate in Judaea		Summer 71: triumph of Vespasian and Titus in Rome (with the Temple furnishings): execution of Simon Bar-Giora. The Arch of Titus

	AD
		The didrachma formerly subscribed to the Temple is now paid to Jupiter Capitolinus
72: foundation of Flavia Neapolis (Nablus)		Capture of the Herodion and Machaerus, by L. Bassus
73: FLAVIUS SILVA legate in Judaea		Passover 73: Siege of Masada by F. Silva: Eleazar (descendant of Judas the Galilean) and his sicarii kill each other rather than yield
A number of sicarii take refuge in Egypt, but are handed over to the Romans. Closing of the temple founded by Onias at Leontopolis		Return to Jerusalem of a group of Judaeo-Christians (Epiphanius). Rabbi Eleazar re-opens the synagogue of the Alexandrians
		Rabbi Johanan ben-Zakkai founds the Academy of Jabneh (Jamnia), successor to the Sanhedrin. GAMALIEL II succeeds him; origins of the Mishnah Before 70? or about 80: Gospel of Matthew in Greek, Gospel of Luke and Acts of Apostles
		The Letter of Jude; IV Esdras (apocryphal)
		About 78: The Jewish War (Josephus)
79–81: TITUS emperor
81–96: DOMITIAN emperor (brother of Titus)
		About 93: The Antiquities of the Jews (Josephus)
95: Domitian has his cousin FLAVIUS CLEMENS condemned to death as a Christian and exiles his wife Flavia Domitilla to Pandataria		About 95: Final text of Revelation. Letter of Clement, bishop of Rome, to the Corinthians
96–98: NERVA emperor		Gospel of John, then 1 John (3 John and 2 John are possibly earlier). He opposes Cerinthus and his Docetism
98–117: TRAJAN emperor
		2 Peter
		The Didache (end of first century)
	100
106: CORNELIUS PALMA, legate in Syria, occupies the kingdom of Nabataea which becomes the province of Arabia, capital: Bostra (Bozrah)
CLAUDIUS ATTICUS HERODES governor of Judaea		107: martyrdom of Simeon, 2nd bishop of Jerusalem. From now until the Second Revolt there are 13 other bishops, likewise Judaeo-Christians
		About 110: the seven letters of IGNATIUS, bishop of Antioch, and his martyrdom at Rome
111–113: PLINY THE YOUNGER legate in Bithynia. His letter on the persecution of the Christians and the rescript of Trajan		A little later, the Letter to the Philippians of Polycarp, bishop of Smyrna and disciple of John (died in 156)
114–116: annexation of Armenia, Assyria Mesopotamia
The Roman Empire at the height of its power
		The Odes of Solomon (apocryphal)
117: rising of the Jews throughout the East and revolt of the new provinces. The latter are recaptured by the Moor LUSIUS QUIETUS; he is named legate of Judaea		Quietus erects the statue of Trajan in front of the altar of the Temple (Hippolytus). He is deposed and subsequently put to death by Hadrian

AD

117–138: HADRIAN emperor. Establishes the frontier of the empire on the Euphrates

128–134: Hadrian's second tour of the Empire. At Athens the completion of the Temple of Olympian (or 'Capitoline') Zeus; Antiochus Epiphanes had contributed to its construction. Hadrian claims title 'Olympian' or 'Capitoline'

About 130: the Letter of Barnabas (apocryphal). At Hierapolis in Phrygia, the bishop PAPIAS. In Alexandria, the gnostic BASILIDES

TINEIUS RUFUS legate in Judaea and PUBLICIUS MARCELLUS legate in Syria

130: Hadrian in Jerusalem. He decides to rebuild the city (Aelia Capitolina) and the Temple, now dedicated to Jupiter

131–135: second Jewish rebellion

SIMEON BEN KOSIBA (letters of Murabbaat) seizes Jerusalem; Eleazar high priest. Ben Kosiba acknowledged by RABBI AKIBA as Messiah and as the Star of Nb 24:17, whence his name of Bar Kocheba (Son of the Star). He persecutes the Christians because they refuse to join the revolt

In spite of the reinforcements of Marcellus, Rufus is overrun by the rebels; Hadrian sends them the legate of Britain, JULIUS SEVERUS, and comes in pèrson

Beginning of 134: capture of Jerusalem

After the conquest of nearly 50 strongholds, Severus seizes Bether, where Bar Kocheba perishes in August 135

The captives are sold at Mamre and Gaza

The province of Judaea becomes the province of Syria-Palestine. Jerusalem a Roman colony, forbidden to the Jews

135: Rufus builds Aelia (the temple of Jupiter, Juno and Venus on the site of Calvary and the tomb of Christ). The Temple is made into a sanctuary of Zeus and Hadrian

The temple of Zeus Hypsistos at Gerizim and the sacred grove of Adonis around the Cave at Bethlehem

The bishop Mark (about 135–155) and the new Christian community. The Judaeo-Christians, dispersed in Transjordan and Syria, in time form the sect of the Ebionites (the 'Poor'), with the Gospel of the Hebrews; they do not accept the divinity of Christ and reject the Pauline Letters

THE HASMONAEAN AND HERODIAN DYNASTIES

= indicates marriages

THE CALENDAR

The year was based upon a dual lunar-solar calculation: 12 months of 29 or 30 days, with a supplementary month every second or third year to correct the lag of the lunar cycle behind the solar cycle. From 367 BC, the Babylonian experts, by inserting 7 supplementary months at fixed intervals into a 19-year cycle, reduced the lag to approximately two hours. This system was adopted by Seleucus I when, on 1 October (Macedonian reckoning) of the year 312, he inaugurated the 'Grecian Era' (see 1 M 1:10), which prevailed throughout the East. In Babylon the spring New Year's Day was retained, and there the Seleucid Era began on 1 Nisan 311 (= 3 April in the Julian Calendar).

With the Jews also, the religious calendar began in the spring. The Jewish civil calendar by contrast began in the autumn, but the numbering of the months began in the spring as in Babylon. 1 K 6:8 has preserved three Phoenician month-names and Exodus an old west-semitic name (Abib). After the Exile the Jews adopted Babylonian names for the months (Nisan, Iyyar, etc.), and the intercalary month was usually inserted before Nisan (Ve-Adar). Seleucus also introduced the use of Macedonian names, the month of Dius, corresponding to Tishri. By about AD 30, things had got out of gear, with Dius corresponding to Marheshvan and Xanthicus corresponding to Nisan. The observation of the new moon of Nisan determined the Jewish liturgical calendar, and normally occurred after the spring equinox (in the Seleucid period, about 25 March); the interval could be as much as 29 days. The Jewish week was not geared to the moon—and consequently feast-days on which work was forbidden, such as the Passover, rarely fell on the Sabbath. As the new moon rose in the evening, the day was reckoned from one sunset to the next. The day of the full moon of Nisan (Passover) therefore began on the evening of the 14th.

The night was divided into three watches, Ex 14:24; Jg 7:19; 1 S 11:11. The Roman system had four watches, dividing the period from sunrise to sunset into 12 hours, the sixth hour thus falling at midday.

OT	BABYLONIAN NAMES	SOLAR MONTHS	MACEDONIAN NAMES	ANNUAL FEASTS MENTIONED IN THE BIBLE (see Ex 23:14d)
1st	Nisan = Abib Ex 13:4 etc.	Mar./Apr.	Artemisius	The 14/15th day: Passover Ex 12seq.; 23:15; 34:18; Lv 23:5; Nb 28:16; Dt 16:1seq.; feast of Unleavened Bread for 7 days. Offering of the first sheaf 'on the day after the Sabbath' Lv 23:11
2nd	Iyyar = Zif 1 K 6:1	Apr./May	Daisius
3rd	Sivan	May/June	Panemus	7 weeks after the Offering of the first sheaf; feast of Weeks (Harvest, First-fruits, Pentecost), Ex 23:16; 34:22; Lv 23:15seq.; Nb 28:26; Dt 16:9seq.; Ac 2:1
4th	Tammuz	June/July	Lous
5th	Ab	July/Aug.	Gorpaius
6th	Elul	Aug./Sep.	Hyperberetaius
7th	Tishri = Ethanim 1 K 8:2	Sep./Oct.	Dius	New Moon: Day of Acclamation Lv 23:23seq.; Nb 29:1seq. (rosh hashanah or the Jewish New Year) 10th day: yom hakkippurim. Day of Expiation, Lv 16; 23:26seq.; Nb 29:7seq. The Fast, see Ac 27:9
7th				From the 15th day to the 23rd: feast of Shelters (Tabernacles) or Scenopegie (the Greek title), Lv 23:33seq.; Nb 29:12seq.; Dt 16:13; Jn 7:2. This was the 'feast of the Ingathering at the end of the year' Ex 23:16, at the 'turn of the year', Ex 34:22, i.e. an autumnal New Year's day as in Canaan
8th	Marheshvan = Bul 1 K 6:38	Oct./Nov.	Apellaius
9th	Chisleu	Nov./Dec.	Audunaius	25th day: The Dedication (of the Temple) with an octave, 1 M 4:52; 2 M 10:5; Jn 10:22. hanukkah in Hebrew, the feast of Lights (in Josephus)
10th	Tebet	Dec./Jan.	Peritius
11th	Shebat	Jan./Feb.	Dystrus
12th	Adar	Feb./Mar.	Xanthicus	13th day: Day of Nicanor, 1 M 7:49; 2 M 15:36. 14/15th day: feast of purim or Lots, Est 9:21seq., or Day of Mordecai, 2 M 15:36

TABLES OF MEASURES AND MONEY
APPROXIMATE EQUIVALENTS

I: DISTANCE

	RATIO	INCHES	CENTIMETRES
'ammah (cubit)	1	18.0	45.7
zeret (span)	1:2	8.8	22.3
tofah (palm)	1:6	3.0	7.6
'etzba' (finger)	1:24	0.75	1.9

The old cubit of Ezekiel measured 7 palms or handsbreadth (= 21 in/53 cm), see Ezk 40:5 note e; the human measuring rod was 6 old cubits = 10 ft 3 in/315 cm. The NT has, besides the cubit, the arm-span of approximately 6 ft/1.83 m., and the stadion of approximately 202 yds/185 m. The Roman mile was 8 stadia or some 1616 yds/1.5 km. The schoinos of 2 M 11:5 equals 30 stadia, or about 3.5 modern miles/5.6 km

II: CAPACITY (Dry)

	RATIO	BUSHELS/GALLONS	LITRES
homer/kor	10	12.50 bus.	450.0
letek (Ho 3:2)	5	6.25 bus.	225.0
'eiphah (ephah)	1	1.25 bus.	45.0
se'ah (seah) (measure)	1/3	3.33 UK gal. 4.00 US gal.	15.0
'issaron	1/10	1.00 UK gal. 1.25 US gal.	4.5

(Liquid)

	RATIO	GALLONS		LITRES
		UK	USA
kor	10	100.00	120.00	450.0
bat	1	10.00	12.00	45.0
hin	1:6	1.66	2.00	7.5
		pints	quarts
qab (2 K 6:25)	1:18	4.50	2.50	2.5
			fl. oz
log	1:72	1.00	20.00	0.6

The artabē in Dn 14:3 is a Persian measure of about 12.33 (UK)/14.75 (US) gallons or 56 litres
In the NT there are: the 'measure' (metrētē) of 8.67 (UK)/10.50 (US) gallons or 39.4 litres which is equivalent to the bat; the 'sixth' (sextarius or xestes) of 0.75 (UK) pint/15 (US) fl. oz or 0.46 litres as an equivalent to the log; the modion is 2 (UK)/2.33 (US) gallons or 8.75 litres which is two-thirds of the seah; and the choinix of Rv 6:6 which is 2 (UK) pints/1.67 (US) quarts or 1.1 litres. The NT also uses the words seah, kor, and bat in Greek forms

III: WEIGHT

	RATIO	LB /OZ	KILOGRAMS
kikkar (talent)	3000	75.00 lb	34.02
maneh (mina)	50	1.25 lb	0.571
shekel	1	0.39 oz	0.011
beqa(half-shekel)	1:2	0.19 oz	0.0054
gerah	1:20	0.02 oz	0.0006

The mina of Ezk 45:12 is 60 shekels (1.50 lb or 0.68 kg). The NT has the Roman pound (Lat. libra = Gr. litra) of approximately 11.50 oz /0.317 kg

IV: MONEY

1: BEFORE DARIUS I: Coinage first appeared in the 7th century BC in Anatolia and then in Greece. Before this date the value of metal was gauged only by its weight. The gold drachma of Ne 7:69 = Ezr 2:69, was probably the Attic half-stater (see table of monetary equivalents). The silver mina mentioned at the same place was only nominal money, perhaps the Babylonian maneh of about 1 lb or 0.505 kg
2: DARIUS, soon after 515 BC, issued the gold daric having the weight of the Babylonian shekel of 0.29 oz or 8.22 grams (Ezr 8:27), and a silver shekel one-twentieth of the value of the gold coin and thus weighing 0.20 oz or 5.67 grams, gold being then worth 13.3 times as much as silver. It is this shekel that is mentioned in Ne 5:15, whereas the reference in Ne 10:33 is presumably to the shekel-weight. The minting of silver coinage seems to have been permitted throughout the Persian empire; silver coins have been found in Palestine with the inscription YHD = Judah

3: HELLENISTIC AND ROMAN PERIOD: Alexander extended the Attic system throughout his empire, with a gold-to-silver value-ratio of 10 to 1 and a silver-to-copper value-ratio of 50:1. Later the Romans introduced their currency; they reckoned large sums in sesterces (see table). Coinage was also weighed by the talent and Attic mina (approximately 26kg and 436gr respectively), i.e. by the 6000 and by the 100 drachma. The shekel of 1 M 10:40 was the didrachma (see usage in LXX)

MONETARY EQUIVALENTS

GREEK MONEY	WEIGHT		VALUE RATIO		WEIGHT		ROMAN MONEY
	OZ	GRAMS	GREEK	ROMAN	GRAMS	OZ
Attic stater (= gold standard)	0.3	8.5	20[a]:1	25:1	7.8	0.27	gold aureus, under Augustus
Attic silver tetradrachma	0.6	17.0	4:1
Tyrian tetradrachma[b] 126 BC to AD 195 sometimes called stater, Mt 21:27; 26:15 (D), cf. Zc 11:12	0.5	14.2	3:1
Attic silver didrachma:	0.3	8.5	2:1
Under the empire Mt 17:24	0.25	7.0	1.5:1
Attic drachma (= silver standard):	0.15	4.25	1		4.55	0.16	silver denarius, appears 269 BC; good quality till the start of 3rd cent. AD
Under Antiochus IV, 2 M 12:43:	0.14	4.0		1	3.69	0.13	From 216 BC up to Nero
Under the empire:	0.12	3.5	3:4		3.41	0.12	From Nero onwards
				1:4	25.4	0.9	latten alloy sesterce; under Augustus = 4 as (weight 1 oz)
Attic silver obol:	0.025	0.71	1:6	1:8	12.4	0.44	latten alloy dipondium: under Augustus = 2 as Lk 12)
							as or assarius (= bronze standard) originally a Roman pound i.e. 12 oz or 340 grams
				1:16	10.8	0.38	Under Augustus
Attic bronze chalkos:	0.3	8.6	1:48	1:32	4.5	0.16	bronze semis, under Augustus
Under Antiochus IV	0.21	6.0
Attic bronze lepton: one-seventh of the chalkos; sometimes called obol, chalkos, etc. Mk 12:42; Lk 12:59 = Mt 5:26			1:336	1:64	3.1	0.11	bronze quadrans, under Augustus. In the East, coinage of small values was locally minted by the ruling dynasty, by prefects or by cities, in rough conformity with the chalkos and as

Silver coinage in Palestine during the Graeco-Roman Period (issued only during the First and Second Revolts):

FIRST REVOLT: AD 66–70:			SECOND REVOLT: AD 133–135
tetradrachma	0.49 oz/14 gr	inscribed 'shekel of Israel'	tetradrachma	0.49 oz/14 gr
didrachma	0.25 oz/7 gr	inscribed 'half-shekel'	denarius	re-struck drachma	0.12 oz/3.4 gr	inscribed 'quarter-shekel'

NOTES

a Before Alexander

b This tetradrachma or Phoenician shekel corresponded in purchasing power to the old Israelite shekel-weight. Hence, the didrachma annually levied for the Temple corresponded to the half-shekel of Ex 30:13, and to the third-of-a-shekel of Ne 10:33. The rabbis stipulated that these should conform to the standard of Tyre, the stater (tetradrachma) of which city-state was held in high repute

ALPHABETICAL TABLE OF THE MAJOR FOOTNOTES

A list is given here of the more important biblical names, places and biblical concepts on which a major footnote, or a footnote giving a number of cross-references, is to be found.

Proper names of persons and places (ABRAHAM, JERUSALEM etc.) are shown in small capitals, while Hebrew, Aramaic or Greek words (sheol, phragis etc.) are given in italics.

Footnotes are referred to by the biblical passage to which they are attached; if the relevant verse has more than one footnote attached to it, the letter of the note is also shown (e.g. Rm 5:12h). Where several references are given the most important are printed in heavy type. Page references refer to the introductions.

Abba	Mk 14:36
abomination, the appalling	Dn 9:27w; Mt 24:15
ABRAHAM	see Index of Persons
acclamation (teru'ah)	Nb 10:5; Ps 33:3
ADAM – see also creation –	see Index of Persons adoption	Gn 48:12; Ga 4:5
adultery	Pr 2:16
adulterous woman	Jn 7:53
= religious infidelity	Ho 1:2b
adversary	see Satan
agape	see love
alleluia	Rv 19:1b
almsgiving	Mt 6:1; Lk 12:33
Alpha and Omega	Rv 1:8
altar
of burnt offering	Ex 27:1
of incense	Ex 30:1; Heb 9:4
Solomon's	1 K 8:64; 2 K 16:14; 1 Ch 21:18
horns of	Ex 27:2
symbolism of	Ex 24:8
the cross	Heb 13:10
heavenly	Rv 6:9
non-Jewish altars	Ac 17:23
angel	Tb 5:4
representing God	Gn 19:1; Ml 3:1b
of Yahweh	Gn 16:7; Mt 1:20g; Ac 7:38k
as mediators	Jb 5:1; 33:23; Tb 12:12; Ga 3:19k
as messengers	Rv 4:5e
as guardians	Ex 23:20; Dt 32:8; Tb 5:4; Dn 10:3b; Rv 1:20; 4:9h
as courtiers of God	Jb 1:6f; Ps 18:10; Dn 4:10; Heb 1:7; Rv 4:5e
as interpreters	Ezk 40:3
names of	Tb 12:15
and Christ	Ep 1:21; Heb 1:14
sin of	Gn 6:1; Jude 7

anger Yahweh slow to — Ps 103:8
  cup of — Ps 11:6d; Is 51:17
  Day of — Am 5:18
  God's — Nb 11:1; Na 1:5; Rm 1:18*l*, m ANNAS — see Index of Persons anointing priestly — Ex 30:22
  royal — 1 S 9:26
  as gesture of hospitality — Ps 23:5 of the whole people — Ps 28:8 of the sick — Jm 5:14
  of Christians — 1 Jn 2:20k Yahweh's anointed – see also Messiah – — Ps 132:10; Is 45:1a; Zc 4:14 antichrist — 2 Th 2:4
Apocalypse — Ezk 38:1; pp. 1178–9, 2027–8
APOLLOS — see Index of Persons apostasy — Dn 1:8; 2 Th 2:3, 4; Heb 10:26 apostle — Rm 1:1b
  Jesus model of apostles — Mk 1:17; Jn 4:34; Heb 3:1
  list of the Twelve — Mt 10:2
  Paul apostle — Ac 22:21; Ep 3:2
  boldness of — Ac 13:46
  doubts of — Mt 28:17
  slowness to understand — Mk 4:13 mission of — Ac 1:8k,*l; 2:22; 6:4
  apostolate as liturgy — Rm 1:9f and elders — Ac 15:2d appearances
  to Abraham — Gn 18:1
  angelic — 2 M 5:4; Ezk 3:3; Mt 1:20g
  of risen Christ — Mt 28:10 ark of the covenant — Ex 25:8d; 1 S 4:4; 2 S 6:1, 7 ascension – see also Glory – — Lk 9:51; Jn 20:17h; Ac 1:9; Heb 9:12d assembly — Ac 7:38j asylum — Ex 21:13e; 27:2; Jos 20:1; Ne 6:11; Ob 17
authority
  divine source of — Ws 6:3 of Christ — Mt 28:18; Jn 3:35; 5:22j of leaders — Mt 16:19; 18:18 respect for civil — Ezr 6:10; Rm 13:1

BAAL — see Index of Persons BABYLON — see Index to the Maps baptism
  John's — Mt 3:6; Jn 3:22
  of Jesus — Mt 3:15k; Jn 1:33
  Christian — Mt 28:19; Ac 1:5; 2:38y; Rm 6:4, 12; Ep 5:26; Tt 3:7; Heb 10:32 of Spirit and fire — Mt 3:11 symbol of the Passion — Mk 10:38 figures of — Jon 2:2; Jn 19:34; Rm 4:11; 1 Co 10:4b, c; 1 P 3:21i, j for the dead — 1 Co 15:29
barrenness
  Mesopotamian laws on — Gn 16:2

dishonour of	Jg 11:37; Ps 113:9; Ws 3:13k; Lk 1:25
sulphur as symbol of	Jb 18:15
beatitudes	Si 14:1; Mt 5:3c; Lk 6:20e; Rv 1:3d
BEELZEBUL	see Index of Persons
BELIAL	see Index of Persons blessing	Gn 12:3; 14:19; Dt 28:1; Ac 3:26u; Ep 1:3; 1 Tm 4:14; Jm 3:10; 1 P 1:3
eucharistic	Mt 26:27; Ac 2:42gg, hh; 1 Co 10:16 blood
life-principle	Lv 1:5e
belongs to God	Gn 9:6; Ac 15:20v
cries to God	Jb 16:18
vengeance for	Ex 21:13e; Nb 35:19; Jb 16:18; Mt 27:25
of the covenant	Ex 24:8; Mt 26:28j; Heb 9:15
of Jesus	Mt 26:28i; Jn 19:34; Ac 20:28r; Rm 3:24j, 25*l*; Heb 9:11e; 1 Jn 5:6
of reconciliation	Rm 3:25*l*
body	Dn 12:3; Rm 6:12; 7:24
and soul	1 Co 15:44
soul and spirit	Rm 1:9f; 1 Th 5:23
of risen Christ	Lk 24:16
of Christ as temple	Mt 26:61
of Christ	1 Co 12:12i,j; Ep 1:23; 2:16; 4:13, 24; Col 2:10
of the Christian	Rm 5:5e; Ph 1:20; 1 Co 15:44; 2 Co 5:1, 3; 2 Tm 2:18
branch	Nb 17:17; Ps 72:17; Is 4:2; 45:8d; Jr 23:5; Zc 3:8; 6:12 bread
of offering	Ex 25:23
of life	Jn 6:22
multiplication of	Mt 14:13c
feast of unleavened	Ex 12:1; 23:14; Lv 23:5, 9; 1 Co 5:8
of angels	Ws 16:20*l*
symbol of purity	1 Co 5:6
breath – see Spirit bride
Israel, bride of Yahweh	Is 54:1; Ezk 16:1; Ho 1:2
Church, bride of Christ	Ps 45:1; Mt 25:1; Jn 3:29; Ac 5:10; Ep 5:23; Rv 21:2
brothers
of Jesus	Mt 12:46–47*o*; Ac 1:14
= Christians	Ac 1:15; 2 Co 13:12; Phm 6
brotherhood of prophets	1 S 10:5e; 2 K 2:3
CAIAPHAS	see Index of Persons
CAIN	see Index of Persons calling of the younger	Gn 4:5
of Christians	2 Tm 1:9
CANAAN	see Index to the Maps
Canon of Scripture	1 M 12:9
canticles – see also hymns –	Lk 1:46, 67ee,ff; 2:32
CEPHAS	see under Peter in Index of Persons
chaos	Gn 1:2c; Jb 7:12; Ps 46:3b
charisms (gifts of Spirit) – see also Spirit –	1 Co 12:1
cherubim – see great winged creatures chosen people — Gn 12:1; Dt 7:6; Am 3:2

  circumcision as sign of — Gn 17:10 holiness of — Ex 19:3; Ho 2:21t; Am 5:25
  Jerusalem as personification of — 2 S 5:9f; Ps 122:1
  unity of — 2 Ch 34:9
  God's possession — Is 44:5; Ws 1:16
  ingratitude of — Is 43:22 restoration of — Is 4:3; Ho 2:20s; Jl 2:1b; Am 5:18; Mt 4:17; 24:1; Ac 2:6; Rm 9:1; 11:1
  punishment of — Am 5:18; Mt 24:1; Ac 2:21
  testing of — Mt 4:1a opposition to Jesus — Lk 4:16g; Jn 1:11 opposition to Paul — Ac 13:5, 41
Christ – see also anointing – Jesus, Messiah — Lk 2:26; Ac 11:26 Church — Mt 16:18g; Ac 5:11; 7:38j; 20:28q; Ep 1:14 body of Christ – see Body bride of Christ – see Bride of God — 1 Co 1:2
  growth of — Ac 2:41; 8:1b mission of — Mt 16:18g authority in — Mt 16:19; 18:18; Ep 2:19; 1 Co 5:4c; 2 Tm 2:19 presence of Christ in — Jn 14:3
  OT figures of — Jos 2:11; Ps 87:1; 122:3
circumcision — Gn 17:10; Ex 4:24; Lv 19:23 of the heart — Jr 4:4; Rm 10:6
cloud
  sign of God's presence — Ex 13:22; Si 14:27; Hab 3:3; Mt 24:30q; Ac 1:9
collection for Church of Jerusalem — 1 Co 16:1
coming – see also Day – — 1 Co 15:23n; Heb 2:8
  second coming of Christ — Mt 24:30q; Lk 21:5; Jn 8:56r; Ac 1:7i; 1 Co 1:8e; 1 Tm 6:14; Heb 2:8
  parousia — Mt 24:3; 1 Co 15:23n; 1 Th 5:1a; Rv 22:17h false hopes of — Mt 20:21; Ac 1:6h; 2 Th 2:1
  intervening period — Rm 3:26m; 2 Co 6:2; Ga 1:4; Col 3:4b; 2 Th 2:1
commandment – see Law communion – see also Eucharist – — Ac 2:42gg; 1 Co 1:9f; 10:17 sacrifice — Lv 3:1
  with God — Ps 16:10; Ho 1:2c; 2 P 1:4f; 1 Jn 1:1
  with Christ — 1 Co 5:8; Ph 1:20 confession of sin — Lv 5:5; 2 Ch 29:6; Ps 106:1; Pr 28:13; Si 4:26; Jm 5:16 Confessions of Jeremiah — Jr 15:10 conquest of Palestine — Gn 34:1; Nb 13:1; Jos 3:1a; 10:1; 11:20; Jg 1:1
  slowness of — Dt 7:22; Jg 2:6 conscience — Ac 23:1; Rm 2:14; 14:1; 1 Co 4:4; 1 Jn 3:20 conversion — Ezk 18:21; Mt 3:2c; Jn 3:5, 6; Ac 2:38y; 3:19 in desert — Jr 31:2; Ho 14:3
  liturgy of — Jl 1:13
covenant
  old — Gn 9:9; 15:1; 17:1a; Ex 19:1; 32:1a; Nb 1:18 renewed — Jos 24:1a; 2 K 22:8
  extended — Ps 47:9
  with Noah — Gn 6:18; 9:9; Is 24:4

with Abraham	Gn 12:1
old rite of	Gn 15:17
new and eternal	Is 11:6; 55:3; 59:21; Jr 31:31; Ezk 36:27; Ho 2:20; Zc 2:15; Ml 3:1b; Mt 26:28h; Rm 5:5e; Heb 9:15; Rv 21:3
Book of the	Ex 20:22
of salt	Lv 2:13
creation	Gn 1:1b; Jb 9:8; Hab 3:8*l*
Creator	Ws 13:1b; Is 42:8; Jr 10:1; Ac 17:22
new creation	Is 11:6; Rm 8:19, 29; 2 Co 5:17h; Ep 1:10j; Col 3:10; Rv 21:1b
to create	Ps 51:10
first-fruits of	Pr 8:22f; Col 1:15; Rv 3:14h
cross	Jn 12:32j,l; Col 1:24; Heb 7:27
cup	Ps 11:6d; 75:8
cup of anger	Is 51:17; Mt 20:22; Mk 10:38
curse	Rt 1:17; 1 K 8:31
cursing Psalms	Ps 5:10; 35:1
curse of destruction (= herem)	Lv 27:28; Jos 6:17; 1 S 15:9; 1 Co 16:22h darkness – see light
DAVID	see Index of Persons
Day of Judgement	Gn 6:5 Rm 2:6
of Salvation	Rm 13:11; 2 Co 6:2
prefigured	Gn 6:5
of the Son of man	Lk 17:22
of the Lord (Sunday)	Mt 28:1
the last days	Ac 1:7; 1 Tm 4:1; Heb 7:27
Day of Yahweh
characteristics of	Jl 21:1b; 4:1b; Am 5:18; Zp 1:7, 14k; Ml 3:19
cosmic signs of	Am 8:9; Mt 24:1; Lk 17:22; 1 Th 5:1a; Rv 6:14i
eschatological	1 Co 1:8e; Jn 14:20*l*; Is 8:23
deacons	Ac 6:5
death
the dead unclean	Lv 21:1a
not made by God	Ws 1:13
Christian	2 Co 5:8; Ph 1:20, 23; Col 3:5
and sin	Ps 55:15; Qo 3:14; Ws 2:24; 4:7; Rm 5:12g
and redemption	Mt 20:28g; Rm 7:1b; 7:24
second death	Rv 20:6c
development of doctrine in OT	Nb 16:33; 2 M 7:9; Jb 7:9; Ps 16:10; 49:15g; Ws 3:4; 16:13; Si 11:28
mourning rites	Lv 19:27; 1 S 31:13; 2 Ch 16:14e; Si 7:33; 38:16j
gates of	Jb 38:17; Mt 16:18h
DECAPOLIS	see Index to the Maps
dedication of Temple	1 M 4:59
'descended to the dead'	Mt 27:53; 1 P 3:19; 4:6
desert
abode of evil spirits	Lv 16:8; 17:7c; Ps 72:9; Mt 12:43
refuge of fugitives	Ps 44:19; Ac 12:6
lost ideal	Ho 2:16p; Am 5:25; Rv 14:4e
detachment	Lk 12:33
devil – see evil spirits, Satan diaspora Si 36:10c; 1 P 1:1a,b Christian communities of Tt 1:5c; Jm 1:1a disciples successors of the prophets Mt 5:12

the seventy-two Lk 10:1a
contrasted with 'the world' Jn 1:10; 15:18 = Christians Mt 10:27d; Ac 6:1a; 9:5; Col 2:10 divination Is 2:6e; Zc 10:2; Ac 16:16
dominions – see powers doxologies Ps 41:13; Rm 16:27n; 2 Co 13:13; 1 Tm 6:16 dreams Gn 37:5; 40:8; 1 K 3:5; Si 34:1; Dn 2:1; Mt 1:20h dwelling-place of God Ex 24:16; 25:8d, 10e, 17; 26:1; Dt 4:7; 12:2; 1 K 8:12; Ps 29:2; 93:2; Ws 9:8; Lm 2:1b; Ezk 1:28; Am 7:17; Heb 4:14; 12:18 of the Word Jn 1:14m of the Christian in Christ 2 Co 5:8
– see also Body of Christ

EDEN Gn 2:8
elders Tt 1:5c
of the people Lk 22:66
ELIJAH see Index of Persons ephod loincloth 1 S 2:18
robe of high priest Ex 28:6
in consulting Yahweh Ex 33:7e; 1 S 2:28; 14:36 idol Jg 8:27; 1 S 21:10
episcopos Tt 1:5c
eschatology – see coming, Day, death eschatological discourse Mt 24:1; Mk 13:1 Eucharist Mt 14:13; 26:17; Lk 22:15, 16; 24:35; Jn 6:22, 57; 15:1; 19:34; Ac 2:42gg; 1 Co 10:17; Ph 1:20 in Old Testament Gn 14:18; Ps 23:1
evil
power of Dt 13:14; Jb 1:6g; Mt 16:18h; Lk 4:6; Jn 1:5; 8:12; 13:2e; Rm 6:15; 1 Jn 3:8; Rv 12:3; 21:1c evil spirits – see also powers – 1 S 16:16; Mt 8:29; 12:43; Mk 1:23; 1 Co 2:6f; Ep 3:10; 6:12d; 1 P 3:19 tendency in human beings Jb 14:4; 20:6; Ps 51:5; Rm 6:7
in the world Pr 21:18
excommunication Mt 16:19; 24:51; 1 Co 5:5
exile – see also remnant – as punishment Dt 1:5
as bar to serving Yahweh Jr 16:13
as spiritual condition Ps 42:1; 1 P 1:1a exodus Ex 13:17d; 15 24 miracles of Ws 11:3, 4; Hab 3:2d murmuring Ps 74:15
historicity p. 12; Jos 3:1a
and choice of Israel Ho 11:1b
New Exodus Is 40:3e; 52:12; Jr 31:2; Jn 13:1b
and sacraments 1 Co 10:4

expiation – see also forgiveness, sacrifice –
seat of	Ex 25:17
sacrifice of	Lv 1:4
Day of	Lv 16:1; Ps 65:4; Heb 9:11e; 13:12
faith
of Abraham	Gn 12:1; 15:6; 22:1; Si 44:20; Rm 4:3
in the prophets	Is 7:9
in the New Testament	Mt 8:10; Jn 3:12; 10:26; Rm 1:5, 16h; 4:13; Heb 11:1, 6
, hope and charity	Rm 5:2; 1 Co 13:13
door to	Ac 14:27
obedience of	Rm 1:5
and signs	Jn 2:11; 3:11e
and works	Jos 2:11; Mt 22:1; Rm 1:16h; 3:20; 4:2; Ga 5:6; Heb 6:1b; Jm 2:14, 22
faithful (fidelity)	Hab 2:4e; Jn 1:14*o*; 8:32; Rm 1:16h; 3:20; Rv 1:13
image of unfaithful spouse	Ezk 16:1; Ho 1:2c; 2:21t
marital infidelity	Pr 5:15
fall
sin of	Gn 2:17j; 4:1a; Jb 20:6; Rm 5:12f
consequences of	Gn 3:16; 5:1; 6:1; Rm 5:12h; Col 3:10
fasting	Is 58:3
as prayer of petition	1 S 14:24k; 1 K 18:41; Mt 9:14
for the dead	1 S 31:13
to appease God	1 K 21:9
Father – see also Son –	Ho 11:1a; Ep 3:15; Heb 12:7
Abba	Mk 14:36
kingdom of	Mt 13:43
will of	Mt 26:39; Jn 2:4d; Ac 20:28r
works of	Jn 2:11; 3:11
way to	Jn 14:6; Heb 9:9
Jesus' relationship to	Jn 14:28; Rm 9:5; 2 Co 13:13; Heb 1:3
glory of	Jn 17:1b
name of	Jn 17:6
love of	Ep 3:19j; Ph 2:1b
Saviour	1 Tm 1:1b
fear	Ex 20:20; Dt 6:2; Ps 14:5; 1 Co 2:3; 1 Jn 4:18
religious awe	Ex 33:20; Lk 1:12; Ac 6:15
of God	Pr 1:7; Si 1:11
fearing Yahweh	Ps 15:4
fearing God	Jn 12:20; Ac 2:11f; 10:2
feasts of Israel	Ex 23:14; 1 M 4:36; Ps 33:3; 81:3; Zc 14:16
Jesus and	Mt 26:17; Jn 7:38r; 9:7; 12:1
fire – see also baptism, jealousy
perpetual	Lv 6:2
Yahweh is a devouring fire	Ex 13:22; Dt 4:24
destroyer and purifier	Nb 31:23; Is 6:7; Am 7:4d; Mt 3:11; 1 Co 3:15; Heb 10:26
Gehenna	Mt 3:12
brought by Jesus	Lk 12:49
seasoning	Mk 9:49

sign of, presence of Yahweh – see theophany Ex24:16 sign of Day of Yahweh Ml 3:19 first-born Gn 4:5; 22:1; Ex 13:1, 11; Lk 2:7c; Col 1:15d first-fruits Dt 26:1; 1 Co 15:1
flesh Gn 2:21; Lv 18:6c; Ws 9:15; Jn 1:14*l; 6:51; Rm 1:9e; 7:5
and blood Mt 16:17
'all flesh' Gn 2:21
flood Gn 6:5c; Jb 7:12; Ps 18:4; 1 P 3:21j foreigner Ex 12:48; 1 P 1:1a forgiveness of sin – see also conversion – 2 S 12:25; Jb 14:13; Ps 65:3; Jr 31:31; Ac 2:38x and love Lk 7:47
by Jesus Mk 2:5; Lk 23:34k
by Christians Mt 18:21 forty Ex 24:18; 1 S 4:18; Jon 3:4
freedom
free will 1 S 2:25; Si 15:14 of Christian Rm 6:15; 7:1b; 8:19; 1 Co 6:12g,h; Ga 5:1
and slavery Phm 16
Friends of the king 1 M 2:18; 10:65 fulfilment of scripture Mt 1:22 of the Law Mt 5:17
of OT in NT Mk 1:15; Ac 24:14; 26:2; Rm 9:5; Heb 11:40 fullness of time Mk 1:15; 1 Co 1:8e; Ga 4:4
of Christ's Body (pleroma) Rm 9:5; Ep 1:23; 3:19*l*; 4:10; Col 1:19; 2:9, 10

GEHENNA Lv 18:21; 2 Ch 28:3; Mt 3:12; 18:9; 27:8
genealogies Gn 5:1; 10:1; 1 Ch 1:1a of David Rt 4:18
of Jesus Mt 1:1; Lk 3:23
speculative 1 Tm 1:4
gentiles – see nations
GERIZIM see Index to the Maps GILGAL see Index to the Maps glory of Yahweh Ex 24:16; Si 14:27; Ezk 1:28 of God Jn 1:14n; Ac 6:15; 2 Co 2:14f; Heb 1:3; Rv 15:8 of Christ Mt 26:64; Lk 9:51; Jn 2:1a; 3:14; 12:32j; 17:5f; 20:17h; Ac 2:36; 1 Co 2:8; Ph 2:7g; 2 P 1:3
give glory to God Jn 9:24
my glory = me Ps 6:4b
glossolalia Ac 2:1a; 1 Co 12:10h gods – see also under Baal in Index of Persons – Ex 23:24; Dt 4:4:35; 6:4; Jg 2:13; 2 K 23:14; 1 M 1:54r go'el (avenger of blood, redeemer, Saviour) Nb 35:19; Rt 2:20
God as Jb 19:25g; Ps 19:14g; Is 41:14
Gospel Mt 4:17; Mk 1:1a; Ac 2:22; 5:42; Ga 1:7d spirit of Mt 5:1a
grace Rm 3:24i
gratuity of God's choice Gn 4:5; 1 S 13:7
great winged creatures Ex 25:18; Ezk 1:10

hades Ws 1:14p; 2:1b; Mt 16:18h; Rv 1:18
hallel Ps 113:1; Mt 26:30 happiness Ws 4:7; Si 14:1
  messianic Is 11:6; Ho 2:20
hasidim 1 M 2:42
healing Mt 4:23; 8:29; Jn 5:14
heart Gn 8:21c; Ws 1:6i; Ep 1:18 hardness of 1 S 2:25; Ws 1:6i; Is 6:10; 48:4; Am 4:6f; Mt 13:13; Rm 9:22 heaven creation of Gn 1:1b
  God's dwelling-place Ps 93:2; Ws 9:8; Heb 4:14; 12:18d
  Christ's dwelling-place Heb 8:2, 6; Rv 4:1
  Christian as citizen of Ep 2:6; Col 3:4b; Heb 11:40; 1 P 1:1a in Jewish theophanies 2 Th 1:8b = God Mt 3:2d hell – see also hades – Jb 26:6; Si 21:10; Mt 18:9; Rv 14:10 descent into – see 'descended to the dead' hellenisation 1 M 1:15, 44; 2:1a
Hellenists Ac 6:1b; 8:1b; 9:29
hesed – see also love – Ho 2:21u high places 1 S 9:12 history of salvation Ac 1:7; Rm 3:26m; 11:28; 2 Co 6:2; Heb 7:27 holiness
  code of Lv 17:1
  God's Ex 33:20; Lv 17:1; Is 5:16; 6:3
  Jesus' Mk 1:24j; Jn 6:69; Ac 3:14i
  the people's Ex 19:3; Dn 7:18; Ac 9:13; Rm 6:19; Col 1:12 the Christian's Ac 9:13; Rm 6:15; 1 Co 1:8d; Ep 1:4; 1 Th 4:3
  the ark's 2 S 6:7
  of angels Jb 5:1; Ws 5:5
  of things Lv 2:3
  of places Ex 19:12; 25:8d; Am 7:17
Holy of Holies 1 K 6:2b; 2 Ch 3:8; Heb 9:2, 12 hope – see also faith – Ws 3:5; Mt 8:10; Jn 14:3; Ac 13:42; Rm 5:2
hosanna Mt 21:9
hour of Jesus Jn 2:4e; 12:1
human ideals, nature, standards – see flesh humility – see also poverty – Si 3:20; Jn 9:39; 1 Co 13:1 hymns Ph 2:5, 6d; 1 Tm 3:16e hypocrisy Am 5:21; Mt 6:2

idols – see also prostitution – Jg 3:19; 17:4; 2 K 18:4; 23:12m household Gn 31:19; 1 S 15:22
  making of Is 40:20
  food sacrificed to 1 Co 8:1
  worship of Ex 23:24; Jg 8:33; Ws 13:1a, 10; Ho 8:6
  uncleanness of Am 7:17
  metaphorical 1 Jn 5:21; Rv 14:4d
image of God
  man Gn 1:26m; Ps 8:1b; Rm 8:29; Ph 2:6e; Col 3:10 Christ, the Christian Rm 8:29; Col 1:15; Heb 1:3
IMMANUEL Is 7:14f

immortality – see also resurrection – Ws 3:4; 1 Co 15:19m impartiality Dt 1:17; 10:17; Pr 24:23 preference for younger Gn 4:5
imposition of hands – see laying-on incarnation Jn 1:14*l*,m,n; 6:51; Rm 9:5; Col 1:19
  as kenosis Ph 2:7g pre-existence 1 Co 10:4c; Col 1:15d intercession of Abraham Gn 18:24
  of Moses Ex 32:11; Ps 99:6
  of Job Jb 42:8
  of Jeremiah 2 M 15:14; Jr 42:2 of angels Tb 3:17; Jb 5:1; 33:23 of prophets Am 7:2
  of Spirit Jn 14:26
  of Jesus – see also mediator – Jn 17:1a
  for the dead 2 M 12:38j
ISAAC see Index of Persons
ISRAEL see Index of Persons

JACOB see Index of Persons JAMES see Index of Persons son of Alphaeus Ac 1:13 brother of the Lord Ac 1:13; 12:17; 15:19; Ga 1:19
  son of Zebedee Mt 20:23e
jealousy of God Dt 4:24; Ezk 8:3e; 1 Co 10:22
JEREMIAH see Index of Persons
JERUSALEM see Index to the Maps
JESUS CHRIST, Messiah,
  anointing – see Messiah
  image of God – Rm 8:29; Col 1:15d; Heb 1:3
  Son of God – see Son of God
  prophet – see prophecy
  Wisdom – see Wisdom
  Son of man Mt 8:20
  God's Son Rm 9:5
  Holy One of God Mk 1:24j; Jn 6:69; Ac 3:14i
  Lord Ac 2:21; 11:20g; Ph 2:11p Saviour – see Saviour servant – see servant
  light Jn 8:12
  witness – see witness sign of contradiction Mt 10:34 master of his own life Jn 10:18 mediator Jn 16:26; Heb 8:6; 9:15 high priest – see priest eschatological judge
  – see judge, Jesus as prince of life Ac 3:15
  King Mt 4:17; Jn 3:35
  our passover – see Passover

lowered himself	Ph 2:7g
mysterious origins	Jn 7:14, 27; 8:14; 19:9
admired by crowds	Lk 4:15
attains his end	Lk 13:33
exalted by the Father	Jn 3:14; 12:32j
foretold by prophets	Lk 18:31; Ac 2:23*o*, 36; 3:24
appearing of	1 Tm 6:14
goal of scripture	Jn 5:39r relationship to Father	Jn 14:28; Rm 9:5; 2 Co 13:13; Heb 1:3
JEWS
religious customs of	Tb 1:3; 1 M 1:15; 2:34; Zc 8:19
persecution of	Ne 3:33; Est 3:8e; 1 M 2:1a; 2 M 7:1
as unbelievers	Jn 1:19; 8:39; Ac 13:41; 24:14
priority of	Mt 22:14; Jn 4:42; Ac 13:5; Rm 1:16; 2:1; 9:3, 22
and Christians	Ac 10:1; 15:1a; Ep 1:10d
JOHN THE BAPTIST	see Index of Persons joy	Dt 12:7; Ho 2:20; Lk 1:14; Jn 15:11; Ac 2:46; Ph 1:4b; Rv 6:11
jubilee	Lv 25:1
JUDAH (tribe)	see Index of Persons judge(s)
history of period	Jg 2:11
office of	Jg 3:7b; 1 S 7:2; Ps 58:1
God as	Jb 9:14g; Ps 110:5; Dn 7:9; Jn 5:17; Rm 2:6; Jm 4:12f
Jesus as	Jn 5:22j; Ac 7:27; 10:42q; 1 Co 1:8e; Rv 1:13
judgement	Ps 17:5; 75:1; Pr 16:10; Is 5:16
of God	Gn 6:5; Ws 4:20; Am 5:18; Jn 3:11f; Rm 1:24
last	Mt 24:1; Rm 2:6; 1 Co 1:8e; 2 Tm 4:1b; Ac 17:31w; Jm 5:3
by ordeal	Nb 5:11
by curse	1 K 8:31
by Jesus	Jn 5:22j
justice	Is 41:2; 45:8; Mi 6:5
and holiness	Is 1:26; 5:16; Ho 2:20
of God	Ezr 9:15; Ps 17:15; Is 5:16; Mt 3:15k; 20:28g; Rm 1:18
of man	Lv 19:15; Mt 5:17; Rm 4:11, 25
and faith	Rm 1:16h
and vengeance	Ex 21:25
justification	Gn 15:6; Ps 51:10; Ac 13:16h; 21:21h; Rm 3:20; 4:2, 3, 25; 5:2; 7:7
kairos	Rm 13:11
kenosis	Ph 2:6d, 7g
kerygma
earliest apostolic preaching	Ac 2:22
scriptural argumentation	Ac 2:23*o*, 33t, 36; 3:24
call to repent	Ac 2:38x
Kingdom	Dn 2:28
of God or of heaven	Is 52:7; Mt 3:2c,d; 4:17; Heb 12:28
of priests	Ex 19:3; Rv 1:6j
spirit of	Mt 5:1a; Rm 13:11
miracles as signs of	Mt 8:10
and violence	Mt 11:12
keys of	Mt 16:19
mysteries of	Mt 11:25

theme of apostolic preaching — Ac 1:3
fulfilment of promises — Ac 3:21q and kingdom of Satan — Ga 1:4
final inauguration of kingship — Mt 24:3; 1 Th 4:17*l*; Heb 2:8; Rv 10:7
in Israel — 1 S 8:1a; 9:26; 15:1; 1 K 16:13 messianic — Ps 61:7; 72:1; 110:1a; Jr 3:18; Ezk 34:1; Mi 4:14j; Zk 9:9h of Christ — Mt 4:17; Jn 3:35; 4:42; Heb 7:25; Rv 1:6k knowledge of God — Jr 9:23d; Ho 2:22; Jn 10:14; 19:16h; Ac 17:23; Ep 3:19k; Col 3:10; 2 P 1:2; 1 Jn 1:3
of good and evil — Gn 2:17j Christ's — Mt 24:36; Jn 1:48
Korban — Mk 7:11

lamb — Is 16:1
Jesus — Jn 1:29, compare Is 53:7; Rv 5:6e
Last Supper – see Supper Law — Dt 4:5; Mi 3:11 and life – see also Word – Dt 8:3; 1 M 1:10d; 2:24; Jn 4:1a; Ac 7:38*l* of Moses — 2 Ch 23:18 and worship — Si 35:1
and temple — 1 M 4:36
piety towards — Ps 119:1; Si 14:21
old and new — Jr 31:31; Ezk 36:27; Mt 5:17; Jn 13:34 and liberty — Rm 6:15; Jm 1:25 burden of — Mt 11:28; 20:28g value of — Lv 19:15; Ac 21:25; Rm 7:7; Ga 3:24; Col 2:14 Christian dead to — Rm 7:1b; Ga 2:19 book of — 2 K 22:8; 2 Ch 34:1 and Ezra — Ezr 7:11; Ne 10:1a oral Law — Si 8:9; Mk 7:5
and Wisdom — Si 24:23h and love — Mt 5:43; Jn 13:34; Rm 13:8; Ga 5:14; 1 Jn 2:8
laying-on of hands — Lv 24:14; Ac 6:6; 13:3; 1 Tm 4:14
leprosy — Lv 13:1
LEVIATHAN — Jb 3:8e; 40:25
levirate — Dt 25:5
levites — Ezk 44:6; 15
choice of — Nb 3:11; Dt 10:8
territory — Jos 21:1
function of — 1 Ch 23:6, 29: 2 Ch 35:7; Ezr 6:20 lies, lying — Gn 12:10; Jn 8:44p life — Ps 119:17; Ac 3:15; 5:20 eternal — Nb 16:33; 2 M 7:9; Ps 16:10; Ws 3:4; Jn 3:15; 10:10; Ac 13:48jj tree of — Gn 3:22g
Word of — Ac 7:38*l* compare Jn 3:11e; 5:39q; Heb 11:40; 1 Jn 1:1; Rv 1:18
God, source of — Ps 36:9e; Ws 1:7j; Jn 3:15 living God — Dt 5:26 to live for God — Rm 6:11
long life — Gn 5:1; Qo 11:7
blood, principle of — Ps 30:9; Ac 15:20v

Spirit, principle of	Rm 5:5e light
and darkness	Gn 1:4; Jn 1:5; 9:4c; 1 Th 5:4
enemies of	Jn 1:5
of the face	Ps 4:6
symbol of salvation	Ps 17:15; Mt 6:23
Messiah, light of nations	Ps 132:17g; Jn 8:12
God, eternal light	Ws 7:26; Dn 2:22; Jm 1:17*l* likeness – see image logos – see Word
Lord	Si 1:1b; Lk 1:43; Ac 2:21; 36; 11:20g; Rm 9:5; Ph 2:11p
Lord's Day (Sunday)	Jn 20:1; Ac 20:7
love
of God for his people	Ps 100:5; Is 49:15; 54:8; Rm 5:5d; Ep 1:5; 1 Jn 1:7; 4:8
for God	Dt 6:5; 1 Jn 4:18
= hesed	Jr 2:2; Ho 2:21u
revelation of God	Jn 17:6
of Christ	Jn 13:1b; Ep 3:19j
of neighbour	Lv 19:18; Pr 3:28; Mt 5:17; 22:39; Jn 13:34; 1 Co 13:1; Ga 6:10d; 1 Jn 5:1
LUCIFER	see Index of Names man
image of God	Gn 1:26m; Ps 8:1b; Rm 8:29; Ph 2:6e; Col 3:10
and moral autonomy	Gn 2:10
interior and exterior	Rm 7:22j
new	Ep 2:15n; Col 3:10
manifestation of angels	Gn 18:1
of God	Ex 13:22; 19:16; 25:8d; 33:20; 1 K 19:12; Mt 17:1a; 24:30q; Ac 1:9; Rv 4:5d
eschatological – see also coming –	Heb 12:18d
manna	Ex 16:1, 15; Ws 16:20*l*; Jn 6:31; Rv 2:17
maran atha	1 Co 16:22i
marriage
endogamous	1 S 13:13; Tb 6:12
mixed	Ezr 9:1a
Christian to non-Christian	1 Co 7:14, 15j
indissolubility of	Mt 19:9
and virginity	1 Co 7:1a, b
image of covenant	Ho 1:2b
Yahweh-Israel – see bride
image of union of Christ to Church – see bride –	Ep 5:23
marriage song	Ps 45:1; pp. 1028–9
and betrothal	Mt 1:18
martyr – see also witness –	Ac 7:58t; 22:20; 1 Tm 2:6
MARY
mother of Jesus	Gn 3:15c; Is 7:14g; Mi 5:2d; Mt 1:25; Jn 2:1b, 4d; 19:27
and wisdom	Pr 8:22e
and the Church	Rv 12:1b
mashal	Mk 7:17; p. 751

mediator
Moses	Ac 7:38k
Christ	Jn 16:26; Heb 8:6; 9:15
MELCHIZEDEK	see Index of Names
Messiah
= Christ	Ex 30:22; 2 S 7:1; Ps 20:6; Mt 26:64u; Mk 1:34m; Lk 2:26
first promise of (= protoevangel)	Gn 3:15
successor of David	Gn 49:10g; 2 S 7:1; Is 7:14f; Ezk 34:1; Mi 4:14i; Hg 2:23p; Mt 9:27
in the Prophets	p. 1165
in the Psalms	p. 812
messianic peace	Si 36:1; Is 11:6; Ho 2:20; Zp 2:3
and the Spirit	Ezk 36:27; Mt 3:16m; Jn 1:33
messianic secret	Mt 26:64; Mk 1:34
universality	Mt 2:11; Ac 3:21q
signs of	Mt 8:3; Jn 2:11
messianic banquet	Mt 8:11
MICHAEL	see Index of Names
midrash	Ws 11:3; 16:1
ministry	Ac 6:5; Ph 1:1; 1 Tm 3:2; 4:4; Tt 1:5c
elders	Ac 14:23; 15:2d miracles
of Exodus	Ex 14:15; Ps 74:15; Ws 11:4
of Jesus	Mt 8:3, 17; 9:2; Jn 1:14n; 2:11
of apostles	Ac 4:33n; 9:34
mission
of Jesus	Mt 3:16m; 8:3, 10; Jn 4:34; 17:6
of Apostles	Mt 28:18; Ac 1:8k; 18:3; Rm 1:1b; Ep 4:12
of Paul	Ac 9:15; 13:5; 22:21; Rm 1:1; 2 Co 3:1
monotheism	Gn 1:1a; Dt 6:4; Is 40:18; 41 2; 42:8; 1 Th 1:10; p. 1163 morality
in the Prophets	pp. 1163–4; Am 2:6f, 7h; 5:21
in Paul	Rm 13:11; 1 Co 5:6; 13:1; Ga 5:6; Col 3:18
MOSES	see Index of Persons mountain	Mi 6:1b; Hab 3:6
of God	Ps 36:6
holy (Jerusalem)	Ps 2:6
mystery	Ps 25:14; Dn 2:18e; Mt 11:25; Ep 3:5; Col 1:27; 2:3
of Christ	Rm 16:25
Name	Ph 2:9m; Rv 3:12
of God Shaddai	Gn 17:1b
Elyon	Gn 14:18
Yahweh	Gn 4:26; Ex 3:13; 6:2; Is 42:8; cf. Jn 8:24; Rv 1:4g
Yahweh Sabaoth	1 S 1:3c
God of Heaven	Ezr 1:2
Heaven	1 M 2:21; Mt 3:2d
the Blessed	Mk 14:61
the Holy	Is 40:25
the Power	Mt 26:64
the Name	1 K 8:16; Ezk 20:9; Jn 17:6
Abba	Mk 14:36
of Jesus	Ac 4:12; 3 Jn 7

invocation of	Ac 2:21y, 38; 3:16; 5:41
prophetic	Is 1:26; Ho 2:25
nations	Ac 22:21; Rm 1:14
instrument of Yahweh	Hab 1:5c
gods of – see gods –	Ex 23:24
religious rites of	Lv 18:21; Dt 14:1; Ac 17:23
extermination of	Rv 14:20
conversion of – see also universality –	Is 45:14; Mk 15:39; Ac 10:1; 15; 11:17c; 13:5; 15:1a; Rm 9:22; Ep 1:13m
proselytes	Ac 2:11f
Paul, apostle of	Ac 9:15; 13:47; 22:21; Rm 1:1b; Ep 3:2
nature, human, natural inclinations – see flesh neighbour	Pr 3:28; Mt 5:1a; Rm 13:9d; 1 Co 13:1
newness – see also covenant, creation, man –	Mt 9:17
NOAH	see Index of Persons numbers – see forty, seven, twelve obedience	1 S 15:22; Ps 40:9; Ws 6:18; Si 2:16; Jn 4:34
and faith	Rm 1:5, 16h
to civil authorities	Ezr 6:10; Rm 13:1; 1 P 2:13 obstacle – see stumbling-block
parable – see also mashal –	Mt 13:13e; 18:22*l*; Lk 15:11a Paraclete – see Spirit parousia – see coming Passion of Christ – see also blood, cross –	Mt 16:21; 20:22d; Lk 9:32; Jn 13:2e; Heb 2:10
Passover	Ex 12:1, 11f; 23:14; Nb 9:1; 2 Ch 35:18
passage of Christ to the Father	Jn 11:55; 12:1; 13:1a; 1 Co 5:8
last Supper and	Mt 26:26; Lk 22:16, 17
paschal lamb	Jn 1:29
patience of God	Lk 13:6; Ac 1:7
PAUL	see Index of Persons
peace	Jb 25:2; Ps 122:1; Jr 6:14; Mt 10:12; Lk 10:6; Jn 14:27
messianic	Si 36:1; Is 11:6; Ho 2:20; Zp 2:3
Pentecost
in the old Law	Ex 23:16f; Ac 2:1
in the New Testament	Gn 11:1; Jl 3:1; Ac 2:1a, 6; 10:44 people of God – see Body (of Christ), Church, Israel persecution
of Jews	Ne 3:33; 1 M 2:1a; 2 M 7:1
of Christians – see also suffering –	Jn 15:18; Ac 7:58; Rv 12:1b, 6; 13:1a
PETER	see Index of Persons
PHARISEES	1 M 2:42; Mt 3:7f; 6:2; Ac 4:1; 5:34
physical – see flesh
piety	Tb 1:3; 1 Tm 4:7
pleroma – see fullness

poor — 1 S 2:1; Jdt 9:11; Jr 20:13; Ba 2:18; Zp 2:3; Mt 5:3d; Lk 1:46; Jm 1:9 danger of wealth — Lk 12:33 power spirit of — Ac 1:8j
  The Power = God — Mt 26:64
  hostile powers — Jn 12:31; 1 Co 15:24; Ep 1:21; 6:12d of Yahweh — Jb 38:1; Ps 29:1a; Pr 7:22; Zp 1:14j of Jesus — Mt 8:3, 29; Ac 3:16 horn as symbol of — Ps 18:2d
  of apostles — Ac 4:33n; 5:12
prayer – see also intercession of Jesus — Mt 14:23; Lk 3:21; Heb 5:7d of Christians — Mt 6:5; Ac 2:42hh; Rm 8:27
  for civil authorities — Ezr 6:10 hours of — Ps 55:17
  gestures of — Ps 44:20; Dn 6:11 and sacrifice — Ps 141:2; Ac 10:4
  for the dead — 2 M 12:38j
  for the sick — Jm 5:13 preaching of Jesus — Mt 3:2c
  of Apostles – see also kerygma – — Ac 1:3; 2:22; 5:20; Rm 1:16h of Paul — Ac 13:16h; 17:22; 20:18 to the Jews — Ac 13:5; 18:5f presbyters – see ministry presence of God — Gn 28:18; Ex 13:22; 1 K 19:12; Ps 11:7
  messianic — Lk 1:28; Jn 1:14m,n; 6:56; Rv 21:3
priest — Ezk 44:15
  messianic — Zk 3:7; 4:14; Rv 1:13 investiture of — Ex 28:41j; Lv 8:1
  line of high priests — 1 Ch 5:27
  kingship of — 2 S 6:14; 2 K 16:13; Rv 1:6j; 4:4
  Christ the high priest — Ps 110:1a; Jn 19:23; Heb 3:1; Rv 1:13
  Melchizedek — Gn 14:18; Heb 7:1
  a people of priests — Ex 19:3
  respect for priesthood — Si 7:29 charges against — Ho 4:8
  reorganisations of — 2 K 23:9; 1 Ch 23:6; 2 Ch 29:34 prince(s) of this world — Jn 12:31; 1 Co 2:6f principalities – see powers (hostile) Promised Land, limits of — Jg 20:1; 2 S 24:5 promises of God – see also covenant, faithful – — Gn 12:1; Rm 4:11; Heb 6:18 prophecy — pp. 1157–67; Gn 20:7; Nb 12:7; Dt 18:18; 1 K 13:11; Am 7:2; Jn 1:21 true and false — Dt 18:21; Is 11:2; Jr 28:17; Rv 13:11 prophetic actions — 1 K 11:36; Jr 18:1
  in New Testament — Ac 11:27m; Ep 2:20
  Jesus as prophet — Mt 16:14; Jn 2:11 brotherhoods of — 1 S 10:5e; 1 K 18:19; 2 K 2:3
  and the Spirit — Is 11:2
  clothing of — 2 K 1:8

sign of Yahweh's favour	Ho 12:11
presents made to	1 S 9:7
necromancy	1 S 28:3
proselytes	Mt 23:15; Ac 2:11f
prostitution
unfaithfulness to Yahweh	Ex 34:15; Pr 22:16; Ho 1:2b; Jn 8:41; Jm 4:4
sacred	Dt 23:19; Mi 1:7d
providence of God	Ws 14:3c; Heb 11:6
psyche – see also soul –	Mt 16:25; 1 Co 15:44
punishment	1 K 20:36; Jb 8:10; Ps 41:7; 55:15; Ws 4:7; Rm 7:7
collective	Jdt 7:28; Ezk 14:12
corporal	Si 22:6
as education	Am 4:6f
purgatory	2 M 12:38j; 1 Co 3:15
purity
code of	Lv 11:1a; 17:1
salt as purifier	Lv 2:13
purity of Holy Land	Am 7:17
human impurity	Jb 14:4
baptism and	Mt 3:6; Ep 5:27; 1 P 3:21j
fire as purifier	Mt 3:11, 12
legal and moral	Mt 15:10; Ac 10:15
Jesus and purification	Jn 13:10i
Christians and legal	Ac 10:15; 15:1a; 20v
RAHAB	see Index of Persons
recapitulation in Christ	Ep 1:10j reconciliation in Christ	Rm 11:15; Ep 2:13; Col 1:20h redemption
of first-born	Gn 22:1
go'el	Nb 35:19; Rt 2:20
God as go'el	Jb 19:25g; Ps 19:14g; Is 41:14
Jesus as redeemer	Mt 20:28g; 26:28i; Rm 3:24j; Ga 3:1
as ransom	Rm 6:15
as liberation	Rm 7:1b; Rv 14:3
refuge, cities of	Ex 21:13
regeneration	Mt 19:28; Ep 1:10j
remnant	Ne 1:2; Is 4:3; Jr 31:31; Am 5:15; Mi 5:6; Mt 24:22; Rm 11:1; Rv 11:1b repentance – see conversion responsibility
individual and collective	Gn 18:24; Dt 7:10; 24:16; Ps 62:12
personal	Jr 31:29; Ezk 14:12; 18:21; Rm 7:20
restoration	Jr 30:1; Ho 2:20; Ac 3:21q; Rm 16:25*l*; 2 Co 5:17h resurrection – see also death of the body –	2 M 7:9; Jb 19:25g; Ps 16:10; 49:15; Ezk 37:10; 2 Tm 2:18 of the Christian	Mt 25:32; 27:53; Ac 2:36; 4:1; 10:42q; 17:31x: Rm 8:11; 2 Co 5:8; Ph 3:11; Rv 20:4b
of Christ	Mt 28:10; Ac 2:36; 10:40; Rm 1:4; 1 Co 15:1
retribution – see also death,
responsibility –	Ex 21:25; Jb 31:29; Qo 7:8; Ml 2:17
temporal	p. 750; Gn 18:24; Jb 4:1a; Ps 5:10; 37:1; Jr 12:1, 5
personal	Ps 62:12; Jr 31:29; Ezk 14:12; Heb 11:6
after death	Ps 49:15; Si 7:36; 21:10

return of Christ – see coming revelation — Jb 4:12; Jn 16:15; Ga 1:11
  by angels — Jb 33:23
  by the Word — Jn 1:1; Heb 1:2b; 4:12 gradual — Mt 13:17; Lk 10:24; Rm 16:25*l*; 1 Co 1:7
  by the Spirit — Ac 11:27m revenge — Ex 21:25; 1 K 2:1; Est 9:5; Jb 31:29
  avenger of blood – see redemption, go'el appeal to God for — Ps 5:10; Jr 12:5
rock
  God — Ps 18:2c; 95:1b
  Christ — 1 Co 10:4c
  Peter — Mt 16:18f

sabaoth (Yahweh) — 1 S 1:3c Sabbath — Gn 2:3; Ex 20:8; Mt 12:8; Mk 2:27 sabbatical year — Lv 25:1
sacrifices of the Old Law — Lv 1:1a burnt — Lv 1:1b
  communion — Lv 3:1
  of praise — Lv 7:11
  for sin — Lv 4:1
  of reparation — Lv 5:14 of expiation — Lv 1:4; Nb 19:1
  daily — Lv 6:2
  human — Jg 11:29
  of children — Gn 22:1; Lv 18:21
  of the new covenant — Heb 7:27 oblation of produce — Lv 2:1; Dt 26:1
  for the dead — 2 M 12:38j assimilated to prayer — Ps 141:2
  of Christ — Jn 6:54; Heb 7:27
  of Christians — Ph 2:17; Rv 6:9
SADDUCEES — Mt 3:7g; 22:23; Ac 4:1; 23:8; salt — Lv 2:13
salted by fire — Mk 9:49
salvation — Ac 2:21, 47*ll*; 5:20; Col 1:20h; 1 Tm 2:4d of all people — 1 Tm 2:4c of non-human world — Rm 8:19
  day of salvation — Rm 2:6; 2 Co 6:2
  history of salvation – see history
SAMARITANS — Jos 8:33; 2 K 17:24; Zc 11:14; Lk 9:53; 10:33; Jn 4:9; Ac 8:5d sanctification — Rm 6:19; 1 Th 4:3
sanctuary – see also asylum – law of single — Dt 12:2
SATAN — see Index of Persons Saviour – see also go'el – — Jn 8:24; Ac 5:31; 1 Tm 1:1b scapegoat — Lv 16:22 scribes
  wisdom of — Si 15:1; 39:2
  Ezra the scribe — Ezr 7:6

in Jesus' time	Mt 2:4
seal of the Spirit	Jn 6:27g; Rm 4:11e
seeing God	Ex 33:20; Ps 11:7; 42:2; 2 Co 5:7
visions	Ho 12:11
seeking God	Ps 27:8; Am 5:4; Jn 7:34
seraphim	Nb 21:6
serpent	Gn 3:1; Jb 3:8e; Rv 12:3
servant of Yahweh	Jos 24:29f
Israel	Is 41:8
poems of	Is 42:1a; 50:4; 52:13
Jesus	Mt 3:17; 8:17; 26:28i; Jn 1:29; Ac 3:13e,f; Ph 2:7h; Rv 12:5e
angels	Jb 4:18
seven	Ws 7:22
shepherd	Zc 13:7; Mt 9:36
good shepherd	Ezk 34:1; Jn 10:11; 1 P 2:25
sign
event as sign	1 S 14:10
miracle	Ws 8:8c; Mt 12:38; Lk 11:29; Jn 2:11
guarantee of mission	pp. 1158, 1160
guarantee of promise	Lk 1:18
of Day of Yahweh	Am 8:9; Mt 24:1; 2 Th 2:1; Rv 6:14i
of the times	Lk 12:54
of the Son of man	Mt 24:30p
names as prophetic signs	Is 1:26
sin	2 S 12:14
sacrifice for	Lv 4:1; 2 Co 5:21; Col 2:14; Heb 9:11e
original	Gn 3:16; 11:1; Jb 9:30; 14:4; Ps 51:5c; Si 25:24; Rm 5:12f,h
of the world	Jn 16:9
against the Spirit	Mt 12:32; Jn 8:21
and death	Ws 1:13; Mt 20:28g; Rm 5:12g; Heb 2:14; 1 Jn 5:16
by inadvertence	Nb 22:34; 1 S 15:9; 1 K 20:36; Jb 6:24; Qo 5:5
slavery	Si 33:25
in Egypt	Ex 1:11c
Hebrew slaves	Lv 25:1, 41
Christ as slave – see also freedom of Christian –	Ph 2:7h son
of Abraham	Lk 19:9
of David	2 S 7:1; Mt 9:27
Christians as sons of Abraham	Rm 4:2
Jesus, Son of Abraham	Mt 1:1
of pride	Jb 41:26
of the East	Nb 24:21
Son of God	2 S 7:14; Mt 4:3; Jn 10:34
Jesus	Ps 110:5; Mt 11:27; 16:16; 17:25; Mk 15:39; Jn 1:18; 3:35; 5:19g; Rm 1:4; 8:29; 9:5; 1 Jn 1:1
Israel	Dt 7:6; Ps 29:1b
angels	Dt 32:8; Jb 1:6f; Ws 5:5
and the daughters of men	Gn 6:1
the saints	Ws 5:5
Christians	Rm 8:29; Ga 4:5
of man	Ezk 2:1b; Dn 7:13; Mt 8:20; 24:30q; Jn 3:14
soul (nephesh, psyche).	Ps 6:4; Mt 16:25; 1 Co 15:44

and body	Ws 9:15; 16 13
separate from body	2 Co 5:8
, body and spirit	1 Th 5:23
immortality of	Ws 3:4
Spirit
of Yahweh	Ws 7:22; Is 11:2; 42:1b; Ezk 36:27; Mt 3:16n
evil spirit from Yahweh	1 S 16:14e
Holy, in Lk	Lk 4:1b; Ac 9:17
sent by Messiah	Is 11:2; Jn 1:33; 1 Jn 2:20k; 4:13
Paraclete	Jn 14:16
giving understanding	Jn 14:26
of power	1 K 18:12; Ac 1:8j
interior gift	Ac 8:20; Rm 5:5e
gifts of	1 Co 12:1; 1 Th 5:19
, soul and body	1 Th 5:23
pneuma	Rm 1:9f
reason	Rm 7:25m
of wisdom	Jb 32:8
of holiness	Ps 51:11
life-giving	Ws 1:7j; 12:1; Rm 1:4; Ep 2:18
body and	Ws 9:15
worship in	Jn 4:23
baptism in	Ac 1:5
stumbling-block	Ps 118:23; Mt 16:23; 18:8b; 26:31; Jn 16:1 suffering
as education	Heb 12:7
of the upright	Gn 18:22; Ps 22:1a; 73:1a
vicarious – compare	pp. 755–6
servant of Yahweh –	Jb 42:8
of Christ and the Christian	Ph 1:20; Col 1:24
Supper of the Lord	Mt 26:17; Lk 22:17; Ac 2:42gg; 1 Co 11:21
TARSHISH	see Index to the Maps
teaching – see also kerygma –	Ac 13:1, 15; 1 Co 12:8d,e
Temple – see also dwelling-place of God –	Ps 46:1; 93:5e; Rv 11:1
of Solomon	1 K 6:2b
of Ezekiel	Ezk 40:48x
of heaven	Ps 29:2; Ws 9:8; Rv 11:19
not inviolable	Jr 7:1b; Ezk 1:4
sack of	Ps 74:1; Mt 26:61; Heb 9:9
rebuilding of	2 Ch 34:1; 36:22; Ezr 5:2; Jn 2:20
zeal for	1 M 4:36
Jesus and	Ml 3:1b; Mt 26:61; Lk 2:22; Jn 1:14m
= body of Jesus	Jn 2:21; 1 Co 3:16; Rv 21:22
and the Church	Rv 11:1b
temptation	1 Co 10:13
tempting God	Ac 15:10
tent
of meeting	Ex 25:23; 33:7c; Jn 1:14m
feast of tents	Ex 23:14; Ne 8:14
thanksgiving	Lk 2:20; 2 Co 1:11e
theophany – see manifestations of God

TIAMAT	see Index of Persons tradition
oral tradition of Jews	Si 8:9; Mt 15:2a
Christian tradition	1 Th 2:13d; 2 Th 2:15; 2 Tm 2:2
deposit of faith	1 Tm 6:20
transfiguration	Mt 17:1a; Lk 9:28 tree
of knowledge	Gn 2:17j
of life	Gn 3:22g
tribes of Israel	Gn 48:1; 49:1; Dt 33:1; Jos 13:8e; 19:1; 22:1; 24:1b; Jg 1:3; 4:1
Trinity	Rm 9:5; 2 Co 13:13; 1 P 1:2; Rv 22:1
prefigured	Gn 18:1
triumph of Christ – see also glory –	Col 2:10
truth	Jn 1:14*o*; 8:32; 14:26; 1 Jn 3:19
truthfulness	Jdt 10:13
twelve	Mt 10:2; Rv 7:4; 21:16*l*
unity – see also communion –
of sanctuary	Dt 12:2
of two kingdoms in messianic era	Jr 3:18; 30:1
of Christ with his Father	Jn 10:30
of Christ and Christians	Ph 1:20; Col 1:20h
of Christians	Ac 2:42ff; 1 Co 1:12i,j; Ep 2:16; 1 Jn 1:3
lost unity of humanity	Gn 11:1
Jerusalem, symbol of	Ps 122:3
universality of salvation	Ps 67:3; Is 24:5; 45:14; Mt 24:14g; 28:18; Mk 11:17; Jn 4:42; 7:34; Ac 1:8*l*; 8:5e; 9:15; 10:1; 13:5; 1 Th 2:14
uprightness	Ws 1:1a; Is 1:26
upright as children of God	Ws 2:18
veil of Temple	Mt 27:51v; cf. Ex 26:33 vengeance – see revenge
vices, lists of	Rm 1:29q
vigilance	Mt 25:1a
vine, vineyard
parable of the	Is 5:1
workers in the	Mt 20:1
the true	Jn 15:1
virginity	Is 7:14g; Mt 1:25; Lk 1:34; Jn 1:13; 1 Co 7:1a
Israel	Am 5:2
vows	Lv 27:1
of nazir	Nb 6:1; Ac 18:18n
of Jephthah	Jg 11:29
war
holy war	Nb 31:1; Jr 6:4; Jl 4:9
war cry	Ps 33:3
water
of chaos	Gn 1:2c; Jb 26:5c
purifying	Nb 19:1
symbol of danger	Ps 18:4; Jon 2:2b

symbol of messianic blessing	Jn 9:7; 19:34
living	Jn 4:1a; 7:38r
water-system of Jerusalem	2 K 20:20
way	Ps 119:1; Mt 7:13d; Jn 14:6; Ac 9:2c wisdom
of the East	p. 749; Gn 41:8; Jb 2:11
of Solomon	1 K 5:13
practical	Ex 31:3; Ws 14:2; Si 38:31
charismatic	Jb 4:12; 32:8
personified	Pr 1:20e; 8:22e; Ws 7:22; Si 4:11; 24:1; pp. 750, 1043–4
inaccessible	Dt 30:11; Jb 28:1
of God	Rm 16:27m; 1 Co 1:23; Rv 4:6h
Jesus, God's wisdom	Jn 6:35k; Col 2:3
before time began	Jb 15:7; Pr 8:22f
source of life	Ps 36:9e; Jn 4:1a
witness	1 Jn 5:7, 8
of Christ	Jn 3:11f; 1 Tm 2:6; Rv 1:5
of the Spirit	Jn 14:26
of the apostles	Ac 1:8k; 2:22; 11:27m; 1 P 5:1b
of Paul	Ac 22:15
of Stephen	Ac 22:20
NT prophets	Ep 2:19
woman
position of	Rt 2:1; 1 Tm 2:15; 5:3
word	Ps 56:4; Ws 18:15; Si 24:1; 42:15i; Is 55:11; Jn 1:1; 3:11; 6:51; 1 Th 2:13; Rv 19:13j
source of life	Dt 8:3; Jn 5:39q; Ac 5:20; 7:38*l*
work	Gn 3:16; Ps 127:1; Si 14:19
works of God (in Jesus)	Jn 2:11; 14:12
faith and works	Heb 6:1b; Jm 2:14
good works	Tb 1:3; Mt 6:1; 25:36; 26:10; Jn 6:29
world	Jn 1:10; 16:9; Ga 1:4; 1 Jn 2:16
inhabited world	Mt 24:14g
as redeemed	Rm 8:19
worship
Law and	Si 35:1
interior	Am 5:21, cf. 1 S 15:22
spiritual	Ps 40:8; Mt 9:13; Jn 2:21; 4:23; Rm 1:9f; 12:1
of false gods	Ex 34:15; 2 K 17:7; 23:14; Rv 2:13
centralisation of	Dt 12:1; 2 K 18:4; 23:8
Christian	Ac 2:42hh; 6:4; 13:2, 15; Heb 9:11e; Rv 4:8

Yahweh – see Name

ZION – see also Jerusalem in Index to the Maps – 2 S 5:9f; Ps 48:1; 87:1; 122:1; Jr 31:6; Ob 17; Mi 4:1, 11; Ac 2:29s

INDEX OF PERSONS

Principal references are given, but the list is not exhaustive

Aaron — Moses' mouthpiece Ex 4:14; 5:1; 7:1
at Sinai Ex 19:24; 24:1
vestments Ex 28–29
priestly duties Lv 8–10
in the desert Nm 12; 14; 17–20 buried Dt 10:6
in NT Ac 7:40; Heb 5:4; 7:11; 9:4

Abel — Gn 4:2–25
in NT Mt 23:35; Lk 11:51; Heb 11:4; 12:24

Abraham — stories Gn 11:29–25:11; cf. p.11 model of believers Gn 12:1a; 15:6c; 22:1a; Jn 8:56s; Rm 4:2c; Ga 3:6; Heb 11:8; Jm 2:21j embrace of Lk 16:22h

Absalom — 2 S 3:3; 13:21–18:33

Adam — stories Gn 1:26–5:5, cf. p.11; 1 Tm 2:13–14
New Adam Rm 5:12f–21; 1 Co 15:22m–49; Ph 2:6def; Ep 2:15n

Agabus — Ac 11:28; 21:10

Agrippa — see Herod

Ahab — 1 K 16:28–22:40

Ahasuerus — see Xerxes

Ahaz — 2 K 16; 20:11; Is 7:3–17

Ananias — (i) husband of Sapphira Ac 5:1–6
(ii) of Damascus Ac 9:10–17; 22:12–16
(iii) high priest Ac 23:2; 24:1

Andrew — Mt 4:18par; Mk 3:3; Jn 1:40, 44; 6:8; 12:22

Anna — Lk 2:36

Annas — Lk 3:2f; Jn 18:13, 24; Ac 4:6

Antiochus — (i) III the Great (Dn 11:10–17)
(ii) IV Epiphanes 1 M 1:11–6:16; 2 M 4:7–9:29
(iii) V Eupator 1 M 6:17–7:4
(iv) VI Dionysus 1 M 11:39, 57–59; 13:31
(v) VII Sidetes 1 M 15

Apollos — at Ephesus and Corinth Ac 18:24p; 19:1
and Paul 1 Co 1:12; 2 Co 3:4–22; 4:6; 16:12

Aquila — Ac 18:2–26; Rm 16:3; 1 Co 16:19; 2 Tm 4:19

Artemis — Ac 19:24–35

Asher — personal Gn 30:13
tribal Gn 49:20; Jg 5:17; 6:35; 7:23; Dt 33:24–25

Asherah — Ex 34:13e; Jg 3:7; 6:25; 1 K 14:15; 15:13; 18:19; 2 K 23:4–7

Astarte — Jg 2:13i; 1 S 7:4; 12:10; 31:10; 1 K 11:5, 33; 2 K 23:13

Augustus — Lk 2:1

Baal — God of Peor Nm 25:1a–3
death of Dt 14:1a
in Canaan Jg 2:11–13i; 3:7; 6:25; 8:33k; 1 S 7:4 prophets of 1 K 18:18; 2 K 10:18
in Jerusalem Jr 2:23; 19:5; 23:27
also Dn 9:27w; Ho 2:10–18; Rm 11:4 cf. Mt 12:24f

Balaam	Nm 22:5–24:25; 31:8, 16; Mi 6:5; 2 P 2:16; Jude 11; Rv 2:14
Barabbas	Mt 27:16–26; Mk 15:7–15; Lk 23:18; Jn 18:40
Barnabas	Ac 4:36; 11:22–30; 12:25; 13:1–15:41; 1 Co 9:6; Ga 2:1; 9:13; Co 14:10
Bartholomew	Mt 10:3; Mk 3:18; Lk 6:14; Ac 1:13
Bartimaeus	Mk 10:46
Baruch	Jr 32:11; 36:1; 45:1; see pp. 1172–4
Bathsheba	2 S 11:3–12:24; 1 K 1:15–21
Beelzebul	Mt 10:25; 12:24f, 27; Mk 3:22; Lk 11:15–19
Belial/Beliar	Dt 13:14b; Ps 18:4; 2 Co 6:15
Belshazzar	Dn 5:1–30; 7:1; 8:1
Ben-Hadad	(i) son of Tabrimmon 1 K 15:18; 20:1; 2 K 8:7 (ii) son of Hazael 2 K 13:14
Benjamin	personal Gn 35:16–18; 42:3–45:22 tribal Gn 49:27; Jos 2–9; 18:11–20; Jg 3:15; 19:14–21:23; 1 S 9:21
Bernice	Ac 25:13–26:30
Boaz	Rt 2–4; Mt 1:5
Caiaphas	Mt 26:3, 57par; Lk 3:2f; Jn 11:49; 18:13–28; Ac 4:6
Cain	Gn 4:1a, b–24; Heb 11:4; 1 Jn 3:12; Jude 11
Cephas	see Peter
Cornelius	Ac 10
Dagon	Jg 16:23d; 1 S 5:2; 1 M 10:84
Dan	personal Gn 30:6 tribal Gn 49:16; Dt 33:22; Jos 19:40–48; Jg 5:17; 18:1–30
Danel	Ezk 14:14, 20; 28:3
Darius	(i) King of Persia Ezr 4:5; 5:5; 6:1–15; Neh 12:22; Hg 1:1; Zk 1:1 (ii) 'the Mede' Dn 5:31; 6:1–28; 9—1; cf. pp. 1177–8
David	stories 1 S 16–1 K 2:11; 1 Ch 11–22 as ideal king 1 S 8:1a as type of Messiah Gn 49:10g; Ps 78:67m; Ezk 34:1a; Mt 1:1a; Ac 3:24s
Deborah	Jg 4–5
Delilah	Jg 16:4–18
Demas	Col 4:14; Phm 24; 2 Tm 4:10
Demetrius	(i) I Soter: 1 M 7; 9:1–10:50; 2 M 14–15 (ii) II Nicator: 1 M 10:67–11:74; 13–14 (iii) of Ephesus: Ac 19:23–41
Dinah	Gn 34
Dionysius	Ac 17:34
Dorcas	Ac 9:36–41
Eli	1 S 1; 4:12–18
Elijah	p. 282; 1 K 17–19; 21; 2 K 1:1–2:18; Si 48:1–11; Mal 3:23–24k in NT Mt 11:14; 17:3–13; 27:47–49; Lk 1:17; 4:25–26; Jn 1:21, 25; Rm 11:2; Jm 5
Elisha	1 K 19:16–21; 2 K 2:1–9:3; 13:14–21; Lk 4:27
Elizabeth	Lk 1:5–7, 24–25, 36–45, 57–61
Enoch	Gn 4:17; 5:18–24d; Si 44:16; 49:14; Heb 11:5; Jude 14–15
Ephraim	personal Gn 41:52; 48 tribal Nm 26:35–37; Dt 33:17; Jos 17:14–18; Jg 7:24—8:3; 12:1–6
Esau	Gn 25:21–26; 27; 32–33; Ob 8, 9, 19, 21; Mal 1:2–3; Rm 9:13; Heb 11:20
Ezra	Ezr 7–10; Neh 8; 12:26, 36

Felix Ac 23:24–24:27
Festus Ac 24:27–26:32

Gabriel Dn 8:15–26; 9:20–27; Lk 1:11–20,26
Gad personal Gn 30:11
tribal Gn 49:19; Dt 33:20–21; Jos 13:24–28; 22; 2 K 10:33
Gallio Ac 18:12j, 14, 17
Gamaliel Ac 5:34; 22:3
Gideon Jg 6–8
Goliath 1 S 17; 21:9–10; 22:10

Habbakuk Dn 14:33–39; Hab 1:1
Hagar Gn 16; 21:9–21; Ga 4:24–25
Haggai Ezr 5:1; 6:14; Hag passim
Ham Gn 6:10; 7:13; 9:22–24; 10:6
Haman Est 3–7
Hannah 1 S 1–2
Hazael 1 K 19:15–17; 2 K 8:28–29; 9:14–15; 10:32; 12:18–19; 13; Am 1:4
Heliodorus 2 M 3
Herod see Table, p. 2075
(i) the Great, king of Judaea Mt 2:1–22; Lk 1:5
(ii) Antipas, tetrarch of Galilee Mt 14:1–10par; Mk 8:15; Lk 3:1, 19; 9:7, 9; 13:31; 23:6–12, 15; Ac 4:27; 13:1
(iii) Agrippa I Ac 12
(iv) Agrippa II Ac 23:13–26:32
Herodias Mt 14:3–6par; Lk 3:19
Hezekiah 2 K 18–20; 2 Chr 29–32; Si 48:17–21; Is 36–39; Mt 1:9, 10
Hiram 2 S 5:11; 1 K 5:15–32; 9:10–14, 26–27
Holofernes Jdt passim

Immanuel see Table of Major Footnotes
Isaac stories Gn 17:17f; 21:1–5; 22:1–19; 24; 25:19–26; 27:1–40; 35:29 cf. p.11 in NT Mt 1:2; 8:11; Ac 7:8; Rm 9:7–10; Ga 4:28; Heb 11:9, 17–18, 20; Jas 2:21
Isaiah 2 K 19–20; Si 48:22–25; Is passim quoted Mt 3:3; 4:14; 8:17; 12:17; 13:14; 15:17; Mk 1:2; Lk 3:4; 4:17; Jn 1:23; 12:38; Ac 8:28, 30; 28:25; Rm 9:27; 10:16, 20; 15:12
Ishbosheth/Ishbaal 2 S 2:8g–4:12
Ishmael Gn 16:15; 17:25; 21:9–21; 25:9, 12; 28:9
Israel = Jacob Gn 32:23d, 29f as chosen people Dt 7:6b; Ho 11:1b; Ezk passim; Rm 9:3c as consecrated nation Ex 19:3c stubborn Ex 15:24i; Is 48:4c; Ac 7:2a; Rm 9:22h twelve tribes of Gn 29:31g
in period of Judges Jg 2:11h; 6:1a Northern kingdom 1 S 11:8e; 17:52; 1 K 12:3b
united monarchy 1 K 8:5; 11:25 repatriated exiles Ezr 9:1; Neh 9:2 bride of Yahweh Ho 1:2b; Ps 45:1a servant of Yahweh Is 41:8f true Israel Jr 4:4a; Mt 10:6c; 15:24; Lk 1:80; 2:25, 32, 34; 24:21; Ac 13:16–24; Rm 9–11; Ga 6:16k; Ep 1:14*o*; Heb 8:8–10; Rv 21:12 vineyard of Is 5:1a privileges of Rm 1:16i; 9:3c

Issachar — personal Gn 30:18;
tribal Gn 49:14–15; Jos 17:11–13; 19:17–23; Dt 33:18–19; Jg 5:15; 1 K 4:17; 15:27

Jacob — stories Gn 25:26–35:29; 46–50; Ws 10:9–12 in NT Jn 1:51ff; 4:5–12; Ac 7:8–46; Rm 9:13; Heb 11:9–21 Mighty One of Jacob Gn 49:24; Is 1:24; 49:26; 60:16; Ps 132:2, 5

Jairus — Mk 5:21–43; Lk 8:40–56

James — (i) son of Zebedee Mt 4:21par; 17:1par; Mk 1:29; 5:37; 10:35, 41; 13:3; 14:33; Lk 5:10; 9:54; Ac 1:13; 12:2
(ii) son of Alphaeus Mt 10:3par; Ac 1:13
(iii) brother of the Lord Mt 13:55par; Ac 12:17; 15:13; 21:18; Ga 1:19; 2:9,12
(iv) author of Jm; Jm 1:1 see pp. 1191–2; Jude 1

Japheth — Gn 6:10; 7:13; 9:27

Jehoahaz — (i) king of Israel 2 K 10:35; 13:1–9
(ii) king of Judah 2 K 23:30–35; Jr 22:11

Jehoash — (i) father of Gideon Jg 6:11
(ii) king of Judah 2 K 11–12
(iii) king of Israel 2 K 13:10–14:17

Jehu — 1 K 19:16; 2 K 9–10

Jephthah — Jg 10:8–12:7

Jeremiah — 2 Ch 35:25; 37:12–26; Jer passim; Dn 9:2; Si 49:7; 2 M 2:1a; 14:15–16 — quoted Mt 2:17; 16; 14; 27:9

Jeroboam — (i) I son of Nebat 1 K 11:26–14:20
(ii) II son of Jehoash 2 K 14:23–29

Jesse — Rt 4:18–22; 1 S 16:1–22; 17:12–20; Is 11:1, 10; Mt 1:5–6; Ac 13:22; Rm 15:12

Jesus Christ — see Table of Major Footnotes

Jezebel — 1 K 16:31; 19:1–2; 21; 2 K 9:7–10,30–37; see also Rv 2:20–23

Joab — 2 S 2:12–32; 3:22–30; 11:6–21; 14:28–33; 18:9–17; 20:4–23; 1 K 2:28–34

Job — Ezk 14:14, 20; Job passim

John — (i) the Baptiser Mt 3:1–15par; 11:2–19par; 14:2–12par; 21:25–32par; Lk 3:19–20; Jn 3:23–30
(ii) son of Zebedee Mt 4:21par; 17:1par; Mk 5:37par; 9:2, 38par; 10:35–41; 13:3; Lk 9:54; 22:8; Ac 3:1–11; 4:13–21; 8:14–17; Ga 2–9
(iii) John Mark Ac 12:12, 25; 13:5, 13; 15:37, 39; Col 4:10; 2 Tm 4:11; Phm 24; 1 P 5:13
(iv) author of Rv 1:1, 4, 9; 22:8; see pp. 2027–8, cf.1742–3

Jonah — (i) son of Amittai, prophet 2 K 14:25; Jon passim, see pp. 1188–9
(ii) father of Simon Peter Mt 16:17; Jn 1:42; 21:15–17

Jonathan — (i) son of Saul 1 S 13:2–4; 14:1–15, 36–46; 18:1–5; 20; 23:16–18; 31:2; 2 S 1:17–27
(ii) son of Mattathias 1 M 2:5; 5:17, 24; 9:1–13:25

Joseph — (i) son of Jacob, personal Gn 30:22–24; 37:5–50:26; Jos 24:32; Jn 4:5; Ac 7:9–14 tribal Gn 49:22–26; Dt 33:13–17; Ps 77:16; 105:17–22; Am 5:6, 15
(ii) husband of Mary Mt 1:16–25; 2:13–15, 19–23; Lk 1:27; 2:4, 16; 4:22; Jn 1:45; 6:42
(iii) brother of Jesus Mt 13:55par
(iv) brother of James Mt 27:56par
(v) of Arimathea Mt 27:57–60par
(vi) Joseph or Barsabbas Ac 1:23

	(vii) Joseph Barnabas, see Barnabas
Joshua	Ex 17:8–13; 24:13; 33:11; Nm 13:1–16; 14:6–9; 27:18–23; Dt 31:23; Jos passim; Ac 7:45; Heb 4:8
Josiah	2 K 21:24–23:30; 2 Ch 33:25–35:27
Jotham	(i) son of Gideon Jg 9:5–21 (ii) son of Uzziah 2 K 15:5, 32–36; 2 Ch 27:1–9; Is 1:1; Ho 1:1; Mi 1:1
Judah	personal Gn 29:35; 37:26–28; 38; 43:8–44:34 tribal Gn 49:8e–12; Jos 15; Jg 1:2–19; Ps 78:1
Judas	(i) son of Mattathias 1 M 2:66–9:21 (ii) the Galilean rebel Ac 5:37 (iii) Iscariot Mt 10:4par; 26:14, 25, 47par; 27:3; Jn 6:71;12:4; 13:2, 26, 29:Ac 1:16, 25 (iv) brother of Jesus Mt 13:55par (v) apostle Jn 14:22 (vi) of Damascus Ac 9:11 (vii) Judas Barsabbas Ac 15:22–32
Jude	Jude 1, cf. p.1193
Laban	Gn 24:29–60; 28:5; 29–31
Lazarus	(i) brother of Martha and Mary of Bethany Jn 11–12 (ii) character in parable of rich man Lk 16:19–31
Leah	Gn 29:16–33:7; 48:31
Levi	(i) son of Jacob, personal Gn 29:34; 34 tribal Gn 49:5–7; Ex 2:1; Nm 35:2–8; Dt 18:1–5; 33:8–13 (ii) one of the Twelve Mk 2:14par
Lucifer	Is 14:12e; Ezek 28:11d
Lucius	Ac 13:1; Rm 16:21
Luke	Col 4:14; 2 Tm 4:11; Phm 24=foreg?
Lydia	Ac 16:14, 40
Machir	personal Gn 50:23; Nm 26:29 tribal Nm 32:39; Jos 13:31; 17:1; Jg 5:14–18
Malchus	Jn 18:10
Manasseh	(i) son of Joseph, personal Gn 41:51; 46:20; 48 tribal Dt 3:13–14; 33:17; Jos 3:29–31; 17:1–6; 22; Jg 1:27; Ps 60:9; 108:9; Is 9:20 (ii) son of Hezekiah 2 K 20:21; 21:1–18; 2 Ch 33:1–20; Jr 15:4
Mark	see John (iii)
Martha	Lk 10:38–42; Jn 11:1–40; 12:2
Mary	(i) mother of Jesus Mt 1:16–20; 2:11; 13:55par; Lk 1:27–2:34; Jn 2:1–5, 12; 19:25–27; Ac 1:14, see also Table of Major Footnotes (ii) Magdalene Mt 27:56, 61par; 28:1par; Lk 8:2; 24:10; Jn 20:1–18 (iii) mother of James and of Joseph/Joset Mt 27:56, 61par; 28:1par; Lk 24:10 (iv) sister of Lazarus and Martha Lk 10:39, 42; Jn 11; 12:3
Mattathias	1 M 2
Matthew	Mt 9:9par
Matthias	Ac 1:23–26
Melchizedek	Gn 14:18–20; Ps 110:4; Heb 5:6–10; 6:20; 7:1–17
Michael	Dn 10:13, 21; 12:1; Jude 9; Rv 12:7
Miriam	Ex 15:20; Nm 12:1–15; 20:1; Dt 24:9; Mi 6:4
Mordecai	Est passim; 2 M 15:36
Moses	childhood to exodus Ex 1–15; Ac 7:20–44; Heb 11:23–24 in Sinai Ex 16–24; 32–34; Ps 77:20; 2 Co 3:7, 13; Rv 15:3 attempts to enter Canaan Nm 11–14; 20–25; 20:12d; Jude 9

	final instructions Dt 1–4; 34; Ps 103:7 friend of God and intercessor Ex 32:11e; 33:20i prophet Nb 12:7d; Dt 18:8e; Ps 103:7; Lk 16:29, 31 historical evaluation p.11–12 and Jesus Mt 16:14c; 17:3–4par, la; Jn l:14*o*, 17, 21t; 3:14; 5:45–46; 9:28–29; Ac 5:31k; Heb 3:2–5, 16 traditions of Mt 8:4par; 19:7–8par; Lk 2:22; Ac 6:11–14j; 15:1, 5, 21; 28:23
Naaman	2 K 5; Lk 4:27
Naboth	1 K 21; 2 K 9:25–6
Naomi	Rt passim
Naphtali	personal Gn 30:8 tribal Gn 49:21; Dt 33:23; Jos 19:32–39; 20:7; Jg 4:6, 10; 5:18; 6:35; 7:23; 1 K 15:20; 2 K 15:29; Is 8:23
Nathan	2 S 7; 12:1–25; 1 K 1:8–45
Nathanael	Jn 1:45–49; 21:2
Nebuchadnezzar	2 K 24–25; 2 Ch 36; Jr 21:1–10; 39:1–12; 46:2, 13, 26; 52; Ezk 26:7; 29:18–19; Dn 2–4
Nicanor	1 M 3:38–4:25; 7:26–50; 2 M 8:9–34; 14:11–15:36
Noah	Gn 5:29–9:29; Is 54:9; Ezk 14:14; Mt 24:37–38par; Heb 11:7; 1 P 3:20; 2 P 2:5
Og	Nm 21:33–35; Dt 1:4; 3:1–13; Ps 135:11; 136:20
Omri	1 K 16:23–28; 2 Ch 22:2; Mi 6:16
Onesimus	Col 4:9; Phm 10
Onias	(i) I 1 M 12:7–23 (ii) III 2 M 3–4; Si 50:1
Paul	Ac 7:58; 9:1a–30; 11:25sq passim; name Ac 13:9f; apostle Ac 22:21i persecutor Ac 22:4b manual worker Ac 18:3d companions of Col 4:10d and Peter pp. 1795–6 letters of pp. 1849–65
Peter	call Mt 4:18par; Lk 5:1–11; Jn 1:41–42 confession and promise Mt 16:13–20par; Lk 22:32; Jn 6:68–69 with inner group of the Twelve Mt 17:1–3par; 26:36–46par; Mk 5:37par denial of Jesus Mt 26:69–74par witness of risen Lord Lk 24:12; Jn 20:2–10; 21; 1 Co 15:5 other gospel incidents Mt 8:14par; 14:28–31; 15:15par; Mk 11:21; Jn 13:6–9,24; 18:10 leader of early community Ac l–12; 15:7–11; Gal 1:18; 2:11–14 cf. pp. 1795–6 letters of pp. 1195–7
Philip	(i) son of Herod the Great and Cleopatra Lk 3:1 cf. p. 2075 (ii) son of Herod the Great and Mariamne Mt 14:3par cf. p. 2075 (iii) one of the Twelve Mt 10:3par; Jn l:43–48; 6:5–7; 12:21; 14:8; Ac l:13 (iv) one of the Seven Ac 6:5; 8:5–13, 26–40; 21:8
Pilate	Mt 27par; Lk 3:1; 13:1; Jn 18–19; Ac 3:13; 4:27; 13:28; 1 Tm 6:13
Priscilla	Ac 18:2–26; Rm 16:3; 1 Co 16:19; 2 Tm 4:19

Quirinius	Lk 2:2
Rachel	Gn 29:6–33:7; 35:16–20; Jr 31:15; Mt 2:18
Rahab	(i) prostitute of Jericho Jos 2:1–21; 6:17–25; Mt 1:5; Heb 11:31; Jm 2:25 (ii) mythical monster Is 30:7 (=Egypt); 51:9; Jb 9:13; 26:12; Ps 87:4; 89:10
Raphael	Tob 5:4–8:3; 12:15
Rebecca	Gn 24:15–28:5; Rm 9:10
Reuben	personal Gn 30:14; 35:22; 37:21–30; 42:22–38; tribal Gn 49:4b; Ex 6:14; Jos 13:15–23; Dt 3:12–16; 33:6f
Rezin	2 K 15:37; 16:5–9; Is 7:1a–8; 8:6
Rezon	1 K 11:23–25
Rhoda	Ac 12:13
Rufus	Mk 15:21; Rm 16:13
Salome	(i) wife of Zebedee Mt 20:20; Mk 15:14; 16:1 [(ii) daughter of Herodias Mt 14:3–12par]
Samson	Jg 13–16; Heb 11:32
Samuel	1 S 1:19–4:1; 7–12; 15–16; 25:1; 28:3–25; Ps 99:6; Si 46:13–20; Jr 15:1; Ac 3:24; 13:20; Heb 11:32
Sapphira	Ac 5:1–11
Sarah	Gn 11:29–30; 12:10–20; 16:1–8; 17:15; 18:9–15; 21:1–11; 23 in NT Rm 4:19; 9:9; Heb 11:11; 1 P 3:6
Sargon	(2 K 17:6) Is 20:1
Satan	1 Chr 21:1c; Jb 1:6g–12; 2:1–7; Zc 3; Ps 109:6c; Ws 2:24t; Si 21:27; Mt 4:1c–11par; 12:26par; 16:23par; Mk 4:15; Lk 10:18; 13:16; 22:3, 31; Jn 12:31; 13:27–31i; Ac 5:3; Rm 16:20; 1 Co 5:5; 7:5; 2 Th 2:9; 1 Tm 1:20; Rv 2:9, 13, 24; 12:3c–9; 20:7
Saul	(i) son of Kish 1 S 9–11; 13–28; 31; 2 S 1; Ac 13:21 (ii) of Tarsus, see Paul
Sennacherib	2 K 18:13–19:37; Si 48:18; Is 36–37
Sergius Paulus	Ac 13:7–12
Shear-Jashub	Is 7:3
Shebna	2 K 18–19; Is 22:15–19; 36:3–37:2
Shem	Gn 6:10; 7:13; 9:18–27
Sheshbazzar	Ezr 1:8–11; 5:14–16
Shimei	2 S 16:5–13; 19:17–24; 1 K 2:8–9
Sihon	Nm 21:21–30; Dt 1:4; Jg 11:19–21 Ps 135:11; 136:19; Jr 48:45
Silas	Ac 15:22–18:5; 2 Co 1:19; 1 Th 1:1; 2 Th 1:1; 1 P 5:12
Silvanus	see Silas
Simeon	(i) son of Jacob Gn 29:33; 34:25–30; 49:5–7 (ii) of Jerusalem Lk 2:25–35
Simon	(i) son of Mattathias 1 M 2:3; 9:33–16:16 (ii) administrator of the Temple 2 M 3:4; 4:1–6 (iii) son of Onias III, high priest Si 50:1–21 (iv) Simon Peter, see Peter (v) one of the Twelve Mt 10:2b–4; Ac 1:13 (vi) brother of Jesus Mt 13:55par (foreg.) (vii) Simon of Cyrene Mt 27:32par (viii) father of Judas Iscariot Jn 6:71; 12:4; 13:2, 26 (ix) of Bethany Mt 26:6–13par (x) the Pharisee Lk 7:36–50 (foreg.) (xi) the magician of Samaria Ac 8:9–24 (xii) leather-worker of Jaffa Ac 10:6–32
Solomon	2 S 5:14; 12:24; 1 K 1–11; Ne 13:26; Pr 1:1; 10:1; 25:1;

	Qo 1:1b; Sg 1:1
Sosthenes	(i) of Corinth Ac 18:12–17 (ii) fellow-worker of Paul 1 Co 1:1 (=foreg.?)
Stephen	Ac 6:8–8:2; 22:20
Susanna	Dn 13
Tabitha	Ac 9:36–40
Tamar	(i) daughter-in-law of Judah Gn 38; Rt 4:12; Mt 1:3 (ii) daughter of David 2 S 13 (iii) daughter of Absalom 2 S 14:27
Thaddaeus	Mt 10:3par
Theophilus	Lk 1:3; Ac 1:1
Thomas	Mt 10:3par; Jn 11:16; 14:5; 20:24–28; 21:2; Ac 1:13
Tiamat	Jb 7:12f
Tiberius	Lk 3:1
Tiglath-Pileser	2 K 15:19–20, 29; 16:7–10; Is 7:10–24
Timotheus	1 M 5; 2 M 12
Timothy	Ac 16:1a–3; 17:14–15; 18:5; 19:22; 20:4; Rm 16:21; 1 Co 4:17; 16:10; 2 Co 1:1, 19; Phil 1:1; 2:19, 22; Col 1:1; 1 Th 1:1; 3:2, 6; 2 Th 1:1; 1 Tm 1:2,18; 6:20; 2 Tm 1:2; Phm 1: Heb 13:23
Tirhakah	2 K 19:9e; Is 37:9
Titus	2 Co 2:13; 7:6–14; 8:6–23; 12:18; Ga 2:1–3; 2 Tm 4:10; Ti 1:4
Trophimus	Ac 20:4f; 21:29; 2 T 4:20
Tryphon	1 Mc 1:29–15:25
Tychicus	Ac 20:4f; Ep 6:21; Col 4;7; Ti 3:12
Uriah	(i) the Hittite 2 S 11; 23:39; 1 K 15:5; Mt 1:6 (ii) priest 2 K 16:10–16; Is 8:2
Uzziah	2 K 14:21–15:8
Xerxes	Ezr 4:6; Est 1:1b–10:3 (=Ahasuerus)
Zacchaeus	Lk 19:1–10
Zadok	2 S 8:17; 15:24–35; 17:15; 18:19–27; 19:12; 1 K 1:8–45; 2:35; 4:2, 4
Zebedee	Mt 4:21par; 20:20par; 27:56; Lk 5:10; Jn 21:2
Zechariah	(i) son of Jeroboam 2 K 14:29; 15:8–11 (ii) son of Jehoiada 2 Ch 24:20–23; Mt 23:35 (iii) son of Iddo Ezr 5:1; 6:14; Zc 1:1b; 7:1 (iv) father of John the Baptiser Lk 1:5–67
Zerubbabel	Ezr 2:2; 3:2–8; 5:2; Hag 1:1–2:23; Zc 4:1–10
Zimri	1 K 16:9–20; 2 K 9:31
Zipporah	Ex 2:21; 4:24–26; 18:2–5

LIST OF ORIGINAL COLLABORATORS

There follows a list of those whom the Editor, Alexander Jones, named as his principal collaborators in translation and literary revision of the First Edition of the Jerusalem Bible: Joseph Leo Alston, Florence M. Bennett. Joseph Blenkinsopp, David Joseph Bourke, Douglas Carter, Aldhelm Dean, O.S.B., Illtud Evans, O.P., Kenelm Foster, O.P, Ernest Graf, O.S.B., Prospero Grech, O.S.A., Edmund Hill, O.P., Sylvester Houédard, O.S.B., Leonard Johnston, Anthony J. Kenny, D. O. Lloyd James, James McAuley, Alan Neame, Hubert Richards, Edward Sackville West, Ronald Senator, Walter Shewring, Robert Speaight, J. R. R. Tolkien, R. F. Trevett, Thomas Worden, John Wright, Basil Wrighton.