
THE NEW LINGUISTIC AND EXEGETICAL KEY TO THE GREEK NEW TESTAMENT

CLEON L. ROGERS JR.
CLEON L. ROGERS III

The New Linguistic and Exegetical Key to the Greek New Testament is ideal for students and for busy pastors whose knowledge of Greek grammar is limited or rusty but who want to read the Greek New Testament. It not only simplifies reading the text of the Greek New Testament but also gives the reader a wealth of tools that a lexicon and grammar alone cannot provide.

For those with a basic knowledge of first-year Greek grammar and vocabulary, this completely revised and greatly expanded edition of the highly successful Linguistic Key to the Greek New Testament (1982) makes reading the Greek New Testament faster, easier, and more effective. Going through the New Testament verse by verse, The New Linguistic and Exegetical Key to the Greek New Testament provides help in three areas:

Lexical - It identifies unusual and uncommon word forms that in the past had to be looked up in a lexicon, as well as their meaning, based on BAGD and other standard lexicons.

Grammatical - It provides grammatical insights from the leading Greek grammars, including Wallace's Greek Grammar Beyond the Basics.

Exegetical - As the title of this revised and expanded edition indicates, The New Linguistic and Exegetical Key to the Greek New Testament also provides the reader with a wealth of exegetical insights and nuances, as well as references to a wide range of commentaries, monographs, journal articles, historical works, the Dead Sea Scrolls, and so forth.

Cleon L. Rogers Jr. (Th.D.), now retired, was director of the Freie Theologische Akademie in Giessen, Germany. He is the author of The Topical Josephus and contributor to the New International Dictionary of Old Testament Theology and Exegesis.

Cleon L. Rogers III (Th.D.) is lecturer in biblical and exegetical studies at the New Life Seminary in Altenkirchen, Germany, and at the Bibel Seminary in Bonn, Germany.

Foreword

It has now been over twenty years since the Linguistic Key to the Greek New Testament first appeared in English, and we are thankful for the acceptance that it has received. There has, however, been a flood of significant literature in the area of New Testament studies since that time, so there is a real need for an "up-grade" of the book. Important contributions have been made in grammatical and lexical studies, and new tools, such as concordances, specialized lexica, and new texts, are now available. Illuminating background material in both Jewish and Greco-Roman cultures has appeared. New and helpful commentaries, as well as special studies both in journals and monographs dealing with various New Testament subjects, have been published. Many of these works have been consulted in the making of the present book. In fact, so much new material has been added and so many changes have been made that it has actually become a totally new book.

The original purpose–to provide a "key" to aid in the understanding of God's Word–has remained foremost; but this has also been expanded with the hope of making the work more useful for the exegesis of the New Testament by providing pertinent information to those who are studying a particular text. More grammatical explanations are given, especially in the use of the tenses, participles, and infinitives; more comments and references to historical works have been added, and a wider range of source material for further study has been included. The Greek words are each given a number (the Goodrick-Kohlenberger number), keying the total work to The NIV Exhaustive Concordance, thus expanding the availability of this book to include those who may not have a working knowledge of Greek. This will enable electronic publication of the book as well. All of this has lead to the new title, The New Linguistic and Exegetical Key to the Greek New Testament. It is our hope and prayer that the long hours of "delightful drudgery" spent in working on the New Testament will be used by the Lord to help those studying and preaching His eternal Word, which produces changes in their personal lives as well as the lives of those to whom they minister.

Many different grammars and commentaries have been consulted and cited in the work. The citation of a particular author or commentary does not necessarily mean that the given theological position or interpretation is accepted. The comment was simply deemed helpful in discussing the passage. Although we are aware of the many different approaches in New Testament studies, we decided to concentrate on the meaning and significance of the Greek text without a full discussion of the various approaches. In addition we have attempted to have various levels of comments, both for those with little knowledge of Greek as well as for the more advanced student.

It goes without saying that many people have helped in various ways in the preparation of this work, and they deserve a grateful word of thanks. It has been a personal joy for a "father-son" team to have been able to work together on this project. It has been a "team effort," with each making his own unique contribution. In a real sense it has also been a "family effort," for Gail (Cleon Jr.'s wife) and Kathy (Cleon III's wife) have been patient, long-suffering, and enduring as their husbands worked long hours. We all have experienced God's sustaining grace as Gail suffered a near-fatal heart attack as well as cancer. Each member of the family has had to bear the burden of stress during these times, but there was always a cheerful word of encouragement, and they deserve to be mentioned with a word of appreciation.

Charles's patient and caring medical help was often a source of strength. Sharon Breimhorst and her husband, Ditmar, and their daughters, Olivia and Geneviève, as well as Suzanne Assmann and her husband, Dieter, along with Esther, Stephan, and Philip Baxter, have provided "rays of sunshine," even when it appeared dark. Hannah, Cleon IV, Nathaniel, and Micah have also provided hours of joy and pleasure for Oma and Opa, as well as for Mom and Dad. The family heritage cannot be overlooked. Our lives have been positively influenced by the lives of our godly parents and grandparents, Cleon and Carrie Rogers and Albert and Inez Martin, and we thank God for them and for many other godly relatives as well.

There are others outside of the family who have provided invaluable assistance–colleagues, present and former students, friends, and those who have faithfully prayed for and supported us over the years. Without the encouragement and expert advice of those at Zondervan Publishing House, the work would not have been finished. We extend a special word of thanks and appreciation to Dr. Stan Gundry, Dr. Verlyn Verbrugge, Mr. Ed van der Maas, Mr. Philip Apol, Mrs. Becky Knapp, Dr. William D. Mounce, Ms. Courtney Boerstler, and other members of the Zondervan staff for their help and assistance, all of whom have worked hard to bring this book to completion.

There have also been various publishers who have graciously supplied many important works for this project and in this way have made a special contribution to the present work. We especially thank the following for providing some of their books to use in the revision: Moody; Baker; The Liturgical Press; Word; Broadman. Zondervan provided us with their NIV Complete Bible Library on CD, as well as many other books.

May the Lord see fit to use this combined effort to glorify His Name!

The Gospel of Matthew

Matthew 1

◆ 1 Βίβλος (# 1047) book, different from βιβλίον (# 1161), has a connotation of sacredness and veneration (AS). γενέσεως descriptive gen. origin, birth, genealogy, history, document (BAGD; DA; Luz; DJG, 253-59). The phrase may mean "geneological register" and refer to only Matt. 1:1-17 (Hagner). υἱοῦ Δαυὶδ son of David. Apposition. As a descendant of David, He has a legitimate claim to the throne of David (Cleon L. Rogers, Jr., "The Covenant of David in the New Testament: Part 2. The Davidic Covenant in the Gospels," Bib Sac 150 [1993]: 459; s. also Cleon L. Rogers, Jr., "The Promises to David in Early Judaism," Bib Sac 150 [1993]: 285-302). υἱοῦ Ἀβρααμ son of Abraham. Apposition. This traces Jesus' lineage back to the founding father of the nation of Israel and echoes the promises to Abraham that his offspring would bless all the peoples of the earth (Blomberg; Hagner). ◆ 2 ἐγέννησεν aor. ind. act. γεννάω (# 1164) to beget; not necessarily immediate parentage, but merely direct descent (RWP). ◆ 6 βασιλέα acc. masc. sing. βασιλεύς (# 995) king. Strikes the keynote of the book of Matthew. Jesus Christ as Son of David is king. ◆ 11 ἐπί w. gen. Means "at the time of" (MT, 3:271). τῆς μετοικεσίας (# 3578) removal to another place of habitation, deportation (BAGD). The word should call to mind the hand of divine providence (DA). ◆ 16 Ἰωσήφ (# 2737) Joseph. Joseph as the son of David is the legal father of Jesus and Jesus as his son is entitled to all his inheritance rights (Gnilka; SB, 1:35). Μαρίας (# 3451) poss. gen. The syntax effects a displacement of Joseph in the progression of father begetting son and relates the generation of Jesus to his birth by Mary (Herman C. Waetjen, "The Genealogy as the Key to the Gospel according to Matthew," JBL 95 [1976]: 216). For the name "Mary" s. DA. ἐξ ἧς gen. fem. sing. John Nolland "Jechoniah and His Brothers" (Matthew 1:11) BBR 7 (1997): 169-78; Marshall D. Johnson, The Purpose of Biblical Geneaologies SNTS MS 8 2nd. ed. (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1988). Means "from whom." The rel. pron. obviously refers to Mary, hinting at the virgin birth (Toussaint; France; GGBB, 336). ἐγεννήθη aor. ind. pass. γεννάω (# 1164) to beget. The pass. means "to be conceived," or "to be born" (DA). λεγόμενος pres. pass. part. λέγω (# 3306) to say, to name. For the textual variants in this v. s. DA; TBM, 62-64; TC, 2-7. ◆ 17 γενεαί fem. pl. γενεά (# 1155) generation. The source of Matthew's information could have been the OT and certain "public registers" which were evidently available (Carson, 63; DA; SB, 1:1-6; JTJ, 275-302). δεκατέσσαρες (# 1280) fourteen. The number is best explained as being the numerical value of the name "David" (DA; Carson, 70). ◆ 18 μνηστευθείσης aor. pass. part. (temp.) gen. fem. sing. gen. abs. "after his mother..." (s. BD, 218; RG, 514). μνηστεύω (# 3650) to woo and win, betroth, pass. to be betrothed, to become engaged (BAGD). It was a formal pre-nuptial contract entered into before witnesses and could only be broken by a formal process of divorce (Hagner; M, Ketub. 1:2; 4:2; BBC). Aor. part. begins the sentence, the subject is first, and the pres. part. follows. It means that the action indicated by the part. accompanies the action of the main cl. (Schl., 11). For the custom of betrothal, marriage, and divorce s. M, Kiddushin; M, Gittin; Moore, Judaism, 1:119-26; JPF, 2:752-60; DA. πρὶν ἤ before (w. acc., w. inf.); s. VA, 388. συνελθεῖν aor. act. inf. συνέρχομαι (# 5302) to come together (used of sexual intercourse), to live together as man and wife. In the papyrus marriage contracts it means "to marry" (BBKA; NDIEC, 3:85). εὑρέθη aor. ind. pass. εὑρίσκω (# 2351) to find. The sense is "proved to be," or "to turn out to be" (DA). γαστρί dat. sing. γαστήρ (# 1143) stomach, womb. ἔχουσα pres. act. part. nom. fem. sing. ἔχω (# 2400) to have. ἐν γαστρὶ ἔχουσα to be pregnant. ἐκ indicates the source or cause from which something arises. πνεύματος gen. πνεῦμα (# 4460) spirit; refers to the Holy Spirit. The art. is omitted owing to the prep. (McNeile). ◆ 19 ὤν pres. act. part. (causal) εἰμί (# 1639) to be. θέλων pres. act. part. (causal) θέλω (# 2527) to will, to desire. δειγατίσαι aor. act. inf. δειγματίζω (# 1258) to expose publicly, to humiliate publicly (TDNT). ἐβουλήθη aor. ind. pass. (dep.) βούλομαι (# 1089) to will, to make a decision after contemplation (TDNT; NIDNTT; EDNT; BBKA). "He came to a decision." λάθρᾳ (# 3277) secretly. It was a private arrangement whereby he drew up a bill of divorce himself, thus avoiding a complete public disgrace (McNeile; DA). ἀπολῦσαι aor. act. inf. ἀπολύω (# 668) to release, to dismiss, to divorce, to send away one's wife or betrothed (BAGD; BBC). ◆ 20 ἐνθυμηθέντος aor. pass. (dep.) part. gen. masc. sing. ἐνθυμέομαι (# 1926) to consider, to think about. Gen. abs.

"after he..." indicates the time of the vision and the vb. the state of mind: revolving the matter in thought without clear perception of outlet (EGT). ἰδού aor. imp. act. ὁράω (# 2629) to see, behold, used to draw attention. Points to the surprising, unexpected type of acion (Schl.). ἄγγελος (# 34) messenger, angel. κυρίου (# 3261) lord, ruler. Used in the OT sense for Yahweh especially when it is in the gen. (NIDNTT). κατ' = κατά (# 2848) in a dream (BD, 27). For the significance of dreams s. DJG, 199-200. ἐφάνη aor. ind. pass. φαίνομαι (# 5743) to appear, to show oneself. υἱὸς Δαυίδ "son of David." The form of the address summarizes the thought of the genealogy (McNeile; Cleon L. Rogers, Jr., "The Promises to David in Early Judaism," Bib Sac 150 [1993]: 285-302; "The Davidic Covenant in the Gospels: The Covenant of David in the New Testament," Bib Sac 150 [1993]: 485-78; DJG, 766-69). For the nom. instead of the voc. s. MT, 34. μὴ φοβηθῇς aor. subj. pass. (dep.) φοβέομαι (# 5828) to be afraid, to fear someone or something (w. μή = neg. imp. s. VA, 360). παραλαβεῖν aor. act. inf. παραλαμβάνω (# 4161) to take to oneself, to lead home, of one's wife, to take her into one's home (BAGD). γάρ for (cause). γεννηθέν aor. pass. part. γεννάω (# 1164) s.v. 2. ◆ 21 τέξεται fut. ind. mid. (dep.) τίκτω (# 5503) to give birth. καλέσεις fut. ind. act. καλέω (# 2813) to call, to name. For the fut. to express a command s. MT, 86; VA, 419. Ἰησοῦς (# 2652) Jesus, the Greek form of "Joshua," meaning "Yahweh saves." The name identifies Mary's Son as the one who brings Yahweh's promised eschatological salvation (Carson; s. DA; Hagner). σώσει fut. ind. act. σώζω (# 5392) to save, to rescue, to deliver. For a study of the word s. TDNT; NIDNTT; NTW, 114-21; TLNT; EDNT. λαόν (# 3295) people. In Matt. it refers to Israel, the OT people of God (Luz). ἁμαρτιῶν (# 281) sins. Many Jewish writings viewed the "Messianic Age" as one where sinners are removed and God's people cleansed and the Messiah leads the people in righteousness (SB, 1:70-74). ◆ 22 ὅλος (# 3910) all, whole (BAGD). Luke 1

◆ 1 ἐπειδήπερ (# 2077) inasmuch as, since. A triple compound particle ("since," "truly," "indeed") expressing cause w. reference to a fact already well known (Arndt; Godet; BD, 238). This reflects the conviction that the Christian faith is rooted not in speculative creation but in hist. reality (Ellis). The eyewitnesses are Luke's guarantee of a true report (Du Plessis, 265). Used in medical language of a personal examination of disease or of the parts of the body (WSNT; MLL, 89-90; PLG,121; for other uses s. Evans; PLG, 34-41; 121-23; BASHH, 322). ὑπηρέται nom. pl. ὑπηρέτης (# 5677) minister. They not only had personal knowledge of the facts but also practical experience of the facts (Plummer). The position of the word gives its solemn emphasis. Theophilus shall know that the faith he has embraced has an impregnable hist. foundation (Plummer). Luke wants to give him certainty by supplying him w. a historically verified and complete account (Du Plessis, "The Purpose...," 270; s. also Terrance Callan, "The Preface of Luke–Acts and Historiography," NTS 31 [1985]: 580; BASHH, 326). John 1

◆ 1 ἀρχῇ (# 794) dat. sing. beginning. Refers to a period before creation and is more qualitative than temp. (Brown). Without the art. it can refer to any possible beginning. While there is a deliberate allusion to Gen 1:1 here, there are also numerous contrasts (Haenchen; TDNT; NIDNTT; GELTS, 64). ἦν impf. ind. act. εἰμί (# 1639) to be. Impf. expresses continuous timeless existence (Bernard) and is contrasted w. ἐγένετο of v. 3 (Barrett). It relates here not to the act of creation, but to what existed when creation came into being, namely, the Word (Beasley-Murray). The Word existed in the past at any beginning. πρός (# 4639) toward, to. Here, "with," showing accompaniment ("w. God"), or "toward God"; i.e., relationship (Brown). θεός (# 2536) God. The word occurs without the art. It is the predicate emphasizing quality: "the Word has the same nature as God" (Phillip B. Harner, "Qualitative Anarthrous Predicate Nouns," JBL 92 [1973]: 75-78; DM, 139-40; GGBB, 266-69). ὁ λόγος nom. λόγος (# 3364) word. Possibly a description of Jesus from the OT designating Him as the divine and ultimate Revealer of God's wisdom and power (Brown; Morris; Hoskyns; s. further Bernard; Dodd; Beasley-Murray, 6-10; Carson; TDNT; NIDNTT; Ladd, 237-42; Burton L. Mack, Logos und Sophia [Göttingen: Vandenhoeck and Ruprecht, 1973]; ABD, 4:348-56, esp. 352-53; DJG, 481-84, 376-77). Perhaps the best view is to view the art. as indicating par excellence (GGBB, 222-23), and "word" from the context of rhetoric, w. the meaning "The Communicator par excellence." The word was used w. the art. as a nickname for Protagoras, because of his eloquence and ability to communicate (LS, 1059; HGS, 2:78; s. also Jos., JW, 1:234, 515). As THE WORD, Jesus reveals the Father to the creation (s.v. 18). Borgen discusses that it is an exposition of Gen. 1:1, assuming Philo's exegesis; s. Haenchen, 145-47, for further bibliography. ◆ 2 οὗτος (# 4047) demonstrative pron. nom. masc. this. It implies and emphasizes the whole previous definition (Westcott). ◆ 3 πάντα δι' αὐτοῦ "all things (were) through Him." This phrase seems to be particularly appropriate to describe the role of the Logos vis-à-vis God and the world (Schlatter). ἐγένετο aor. ind. mid. (dep.) γίνομαι to become. The creative activity is viewed as one event in contrast to the continuous existence in vv. 1-2 (RWP; Tenny). χωρίς (# 6006) prep. w. gen., without, apart. It implies here both causality and presence (Brown). γέγονεν perf. ind. act. γίνομαι (# 1181) For the possible grammatical constructions s. Brown; 1QH 1:20; 1QS 3:15. Perf. here emphasizes the existing results along with the accomplished action. The emphasis here is not on the process of creation, as previously, but on the product of creation. For the textual problem s. TC, 195-96; Kurt Aland, "Über die Bedeutung eines Punktes: Eine Untersuchung zu Joh 1, 3/4," ZNW 69 (1968): 174-209; Schnackenburg; SPJ, 17-44. For various interpretations of vv. 3-4 s. SPJ, 45-89. ◆ 4 ζωή (# 4237) life. The right and power to bestow activity, to make alive. Here it points to one particular part of creation: mankind (Lightfoot). All that is created continually owes its existence to him (Becker; DJG, 469-71). φῶς (# 5890) light. That which enables men to recognize the operation of God in the world (Hoskyns). The emphasis is on the source and purpose of the light (Carson; Peder Borgen, LOGOS Was the True Light and Other Essays on the Gospel of John [Trondheim: Tapir Publishers, 1983]; cf. also R.E. Brown, "The Qumran Scrolls and the Johannine Gospel and Epistles," CBQ 17 [1955]: 403-419; 559-74; BTNT, 203-204; DJG, 472-73). τῶν ἀνθρώπων gen. pl. ἄνθρωπος man. Obj. gen., light for men to see how they are and how God is. ◆ 5 σκοτίᾳ (# 5028) dat. sing. darkness. Darkness is viewed as opposite and opposed to the light. Fig. of speech that describes the cond. of the world darkened by sin. φαίνει pres. ind. act. φαίνω (# 5743) to shine. Pres. indicates, "the light keeps on giving light" (RWP). κατέλαβεν aor. ind. act. καταλαμβάνω (# 2898) to seize, to grasp, to overcome, to grasp w. the mind, to understand. Const. aor. viewing the total action in contrast to the light that continues to shine. Perhaps John combined the two verbal meanings–the darkness neither understood nor quenched the light (Barrett). Here the vb. could also refer to acknowledging and receiving the truth of the revelation (Beasley-Murray); for discussion of the options s. PJP, 89-92. He concludes it means "seize," "overcome in an undesirable or hostile manner." For the importance of life and darkness in DDS s. 1QS 1:9-10; 2:16; 3:13; 3:20; 1 QM 1:7, 9; Morris, Studies, 324f; Ladd, 234-36; J.H. Charlesworth, "A Critical Comparison of the Dualism in 1QS iii, 12-iv, 26 and the 'Dualism' contained in the Fourth Gospel," NTS 15 (1969): 389-418. This v. is almost a summary of the Gospel: 1. Light invades the realm of darkness; 2. Satan and his subjects resist the light, but are unable to thwart its power; 3. the light is victorious in spite of the opposition. (Blum; Tenny). ◆ 6 ἀπεσταλμένος perf. pass. part. ἀποστέλλω (# 690) to send, to commission, to send as an authoritative personal representative (TDNT; EDNT). Perf. stressing the existing result. Adj. part. giving a description of the man who appeared. The prep. indicates the permanent character of his mission (Morris). John was divinely commissioned and equipped to prepare for the coming light; thus his witness was valid. This is the reason for his testimony concerning the true nature of the light (Beasley-Murray; Carson; Blum; Morna D. Hooker, "John the Baptist and the Johannine Prologue," NTS 16 [1969/70]: 354-58; DJG, 383-91). παρά (# 4123) w. gen., from, from the side of. It does not indicate the same close relation as v. 1 (Morris). John is to prepare for the coming Light (PJP, 86). ◆ 7 ἦλθεν aor. ind. act. ἔρχομαι (# 2262) to come. μαρτυρήσῃ aor. subj. act. μαρτυρέω (# 3455) to witness, to be a witness. Const. aor. viewing all the various actions of his testimony as a whole. The effectiveness of his witness is visible in vv. 19-51. εἰς (# 1650) prep., to. Used as an idiom with the vb. to give the purp. of the coming, to testify. Subj. w. ἵνα (# 2671) to explain the previous (Barrett), or to express purp. πιστεύσωσιν aor. subj. act. πιστεύω (# 4409) to believe. Subj. w. ἵνα to express the purp. of the witness, that or so that people believe in the light. ◆ 8 ἦν impf. ind. act. s.v. 1. ἐκεῖνος (# 1697) that one, referring to John in contrast to Christ. μαρτυρήσῃ aor. subj. act. s.v. 7. περὶ τοῦ φωτός concerning the light. John was the lamp, not the light itself (PJP, 89). ◆ 9 ἀληθινός (# 240) real, genuine, authentic. The opposite is not necessarily false, but impf., shadowy. Christ is the perf. light in whose radiance all other lights seem dim (Bernard; Morris). He is the true light, the genuine and ultimate self-disclosure of God to man (Carson; TDNT; NIDNT; MM; TLNT). φωτίζει pres. ind. act. φωτίζω (# 5894) to shed light upon, to bring light, to enlighten, to instruct. Customary pres., indicating that this is the general habit. Only He can make clear for every individual the meaning and purpose of his or her life; it is not that he literally enlightens everyone (Lightfoot; Carson). This helps man to see God and himself. Pres. indicates the revelation is only in Him (Bultmann), or that it continually shines in the present darkness, not referring to universal salvation or revelation. It may mean that the conception of the Torah's light coming with Moses is the model for the coming of Logos light (PJP, 88). ἐρχόμενον pres. mid. (dep.) part., s.v. 7. Adj. part. expressing contemporaneous action to the main vb. φωτίζει. It could refer to each person born, or more like to Christ as the light who came into the world (Brown). It seems best to take it as the antecedent to the light. In light of 3:19; 12:46 it should refer grammatically to Christ coming into the world. Cf. various options for the meaning here (PJP, 87; Carson). ◆ 10 ἔγνω aor. ind. act. 3rd. pers. sing. γινώσκω (# 1182) to know, to recognize; more than intellectual knowledge, but rather "to be in right relation" (Morris). The lack of recognition was not due to the light, but due to the willful rejection of man, caused by sin (s. John 12:37-43). ◆ 11 ἴδια acc. n. pl. ἴδιος. (# 2625) one's own, belonging to one, personal. It describes the land and people of Israel as being the home and family of God (Westcott; NIDNTT, 2:838-39; W. Pryor, "Jesus and Israel in the Fourth Gospel – John 1:11," Nov T 32 [1990]: 201-18; LS; Thucydides, History, 1.141; TLNT). It emphasizes that they should have been familiar with His person, His coming and His claims, as well as the great tragedy of their ultimate rejection. παρέλαβον aor. ind. act. παραλαμβάνω (# 4161) to receive, to take to one's side; a common vb. meaning "to welcome" (RWP). Aor. pictures the action independent of time. ◆ 12 ὅσοι nom. ὅσος (# 4012) as many as. This introduces a casus pendus, a dangling construction which is resumed by the subsequent pron. αὐτοῖς dat. pl. αὐτός (# 899) (GGBB, 51-52; Bernard; MH, 423ff). The unbelief of John 1:11 is not universal. ἔλαβον aor. ind. act. λαμβάνω (# 3284) to receive. ἔδωκεν aor. ind. act. δίδωμι (# 1443) to give, used here in the sense of give permission. While there is human responsibility to act upon the offer of faith, it requires a divine action to bestow this privilege. γενέσθαι aor. mid. (dep.) inf. γίνομαι (# 1181) to become. Epex. inf. completing the verbal thought of ἐξουσίαν (# 2026). By nature men are not the children of God; only by receiving Christ do they gain the right to become the children of God or enjoy the benefits of the salvation that comes from the Jews (John 4:22; Barrett; Beasley-

Murray). πιστεύουσιν pres. act. part. πιστεύω (# 4409) to believe, to trust, to put one's faith in (BAGD; TDNT; NIDNTT; Dennis R. Lindsey, Josephus and Faith: πίστις & πιστεύειν as Faith Terminology in the Writings of Flavius Josephus & in the New Testament (Arbeiten zur Geschichte des Antiken Judentums und des Urchristentums 19; Leiden: Brill 1993). It is the appropriate response to revelation (DJG, 224-25). Part. w. the prep. εἰς (# 1650) indicating an active commitment to a person. It is the acceptance of Jesus and what He claims to be as well as a committing of one's life to Him (Brown; M, 67-68). ◆ 13 αἱμάτων gen. pl. αἱμά (# 135) blood. Perhaps the blood of father and mother, but it is better to view the pl. in the Semitic sense of bloodshed, blood, or violence (DCH, 2:443-44; GELTS, 11) or bloodshed at the altar (Epistle of Aristeas, 88, 90). This and the following phrases emphasize that no human agency is or can be responsible for such a birth (Barrett). σαρκός gen. sing. σάρξ (# 4922) flesh. Gen. indicates the source of the will. Here the word "flesh" is not a wicked principle opposite to God, but rather the sphere of the natural, the powerless, and the superficial (Brown). It stands in contrast to the divine will, emphasizing "earthly humanity's transitoriness and subjection to death" (EDNT). ἐγεννήθησαν aor. ind. pass. γεννάω (# 1164) to give birth, to bear; pass. to be born. Vb. is used of the new birth and the new source of life. Const. aor. viewing the total action. ◆ 14 σάρξ flesh (s.v. 13). Here it stands for the whole man, a synecdoche (Brown). It shows that Christ shared in man's creaturely weakness (Beasley-Murray). ἐγένετο aor. ind. mid. (dep.) s.v. 3. The word came on the human scene as flesh, man (Barrett). This change in state stands in contrast to its permanent cond. in 1:1 (Tenny, 31; s. J. Painter, "Christology and the Fourth Gospel," AusBR 31 [1983]: 45-62). ἐσκήνωσεν aor. ind. act. σκηνόω (# 5012) to live in a tent, to settle. Ingressive aor., to take up one's temporary dwelling place (Bernard). The flesh of Jesus Christ is the new localization of God's presence on earth; Jesus is the replacement of the ancient tabernacle (Brown). His body is now the physical location of the divine presence; an incarnation, becoming flesh, not coming into existence. The Word is the ultimate manifestation of the presence of God amongst human beings (Carson). This may also allude to the attendant temp. limitations of human life and environment s. John 3:17; 6:38-42, 51; 7:29; 8:23; 10:36; 16:28 (Tenny, 33). ἐθεασάμεθα aor. ind. mid. (dep.) θεάομαι (# 2517) to watch as in a theater, to view, to contemplate (Brown, 502). Const. aor. viewing his whole life as one event to behold. To attribute to the word θεάομαι in such a context purely a spiritual sense is to set at nought the evidence (Godet, John). This could also refer to the revelation of glory in terms of the signs performed (2:11), the being lifted up on the cross (19:35), and the Easter resurrection (20:24-29; Beasley-Murray). This clearly manifested glory was not perceived by all, as the Gospel goes on to show (Carson). δόξαν (# 1518) glory, that which brings honor and praise to someone. Here the manifestation of God's presence and power which is visible to Israel during the wilderness wandering. Now it is visible in the person of Christ (Dodd, 207; TDNT; TLNT). Possibly this refers to the glory seen in the miracles mentioned in John (Haenchen). μονογενοῦς acc. sing. μονόγενης (# 3666) only, unique. The word emphasizes the unique relationship that the Father has to the Son (Morris; EDNT; s. also John 3:16). It does not suggest the idea of begotten by one alone, by one Father without the assistance of a mother. Instead, it suggests the unique position to the father and thus his unique ability to reveal the Father (Gen. 22:2; Beasley-Murray). For the textual problem s. PJP, 97. πλήρης (# 4441) full. In apposition to δόξαν (Carson). χάριτος gen. sing. χαρίς (# 5921) grace (TDNT; TLNT). ἀληθείᾳ (# 237) truth. These terms used together are based on the OT concepts of grace (loving loyalty) and truth related to God's loyalty and faithfulness to His covenant and covenant people (Barrett). For the OT background s. Lester J. Kuyper, "Grace and Truth: An Old Testament Description of God and Its Use in the Johannine Gospel," Interpretation 18 (1964): 3-19; TDNT; Matt. 9:13; 12:7; Zane Hodges, "Problem Passages in the Gospel of John 1. Grace after Grace," Bib Sac 135 (1978): 34-45. In John's Gospel it often represents "eternal reality as revealed to men–either the reality itself or the revelation of it" (Dodd, 177; DJG, 860-62). Here it suggests the personal nature of the reality of God and the revelation (Beasley-Murray). ◆ 15 μαρτυρεῖ pres. ind. act. s.v. 7. Hist. pres. adding vividness to the account or iterat., suggesting the repeated testimony of John concerning Jesus. It may also suggest that John's testimony continues (Beasley-Murray). κέκραγεν perf. ind. act. κράζω (# 3189) to cry, to cry out. A rabbinic t.t. for the loud voice of prophet who intends to be heard (Hoskyns). Perf. possibly pictures the ringing of the message in the ears of the hearers (Bernard; but s. M, 147). It may also be presenting John's witness comprehensively, as a summary of all the action (Carson). πρῶτός μου ἦν "He was before me." Jesus is superior to John in terms of might, priority in status and in time (Beasley-Murray). ◆ 16 πληρώματος gen. sing. πλήρωμα (# 4445) fullness, that which is filled (in the pass. sense) or that which fills (act. sense) (Morris; TDNT). καί (# 2779) even, resumptive. ἀντί (# 505) instead of, either the idea of replacement (the old covenant replaced by the new covenant [Brown]), or the idea of accumulation–the total life is of grace as it perceives one grace is exchanged only for another (Barrett). Fresh grace replaces grace received and perpetually so; thus the grace is inexhaustible (Beasley-Murray; Tenny, 33). A more likely alternative view is that the Old Testament Law (a token of grace) is replaced by the revelation through Christ (a new grace) (Carson). ◆ 17 ὅτι (# 4022) that, explanatory of the preceding cl. (Haenchen). ἐδόθη aor. ind. pass. δίδωμι (# 1443) to give. Const. aor. with the action being viewed as a whole. This underscores the contrast to the grace given through the Mosaic Law and the grace that appears with the advent of Christ. This is a dominant theme throughout the prologue. (Eldon Jay Epp, "Wisdom, Torah, Word: The Johannine Prologue and the Purpose of the Fourth Gospel," in Current Issues in Biblical and Patristic Interpretation: Studies in Honor of Merrill C. Tenney Presented by His Former Students [Grand Rapids: Eerdmans, 1975], 136-38). Divine passive not mentioning explicitly God as the subject. ◆ 18 θεός (# 2536) God. The anarthrous use of the noun emphasizes his nature, not just his person. Thus no one has seen the essence of true deity (Tenny, 34). The background is Exod. 33:20. In Christ there is the full revelation of God (HSB, 492-93). ἑώρακεν perf. ind. act. ὁράω (# 3972) to see, to behold, to view. Perf. indicating the action has not taken place at any time. πώποτε (# 4799) ever, yet at any time. ὤν pres. act. part. εἰμί (# 1639) to be. κόλπον (# 3146) bosom. A Heb. idiom expressing the intimate relationship of child and parent, or of friends (Tasker), or a position of honor (John 13:23; TDNT). Here it suggests intimate fellowship. εἰς w. a stative vb. does not express motion, but affirms the intimate relationship (GGBB, 360). ἐξηγήσατο aor. ind. mid. (dep.) ἐξηγέομαι to lead out, to explain, to rehearse facts, to recount a narrative. Often used for a publishing or explaining of divine secrets (Barrett; TLNT). Only the Son, who has the very nature of God, is able to give an authentic exposition of God to man. This is a t.t. of the exposition of the Laws by the rabbis. This exposition is particularly authoritative due to his unity with God (Beasley-Murray). As a result he displays the nature of the invisible Father (Blum). Const. aor. viewing Christ's life as a continuing revelation of the Father. Consequently, the rest of the Gospel is Christ's unfolding revelation of God the Father (Carson). ◆ 19 μαρτυρία (# 3456) witness. The miracle of the incarnation calls for witnesses to substantiate its reality (Tenney; M.C. Tenney, "The Meaning of Witness in John," Bib Sac 132 [1975]: 229-41). ἀπέστειλαν aor. ind. act. s.v. 6. Λευίτης (# 3324) Levite. Perhaps the Levites accompanied the priests here as members of the Temple police (Haenchen; JTJ, 207-13). ἐρωτήσωσιν aor. subj. act. ἐρωτάω (# 2263) to ask, to question. Subj. w. ἵνα (# 2671) indicates the purp. of the sending. There does not seem to be any hostile intent, but there seems to be a legitimate function of inquiring concerning John's self-understanding. C.J.A. Hickling, "Attitudes to Judaism in the Fourth Gospel," L'Evangile de Jean, Sources, Rédaction, Theologie, ed. M. de Jonge (Louvain: University Press, 1977), 347-54. ◆ 20 ὡμολόγησεν aor. ind. act. ὁμολογέω (# 3933) to agree, to confess. Const. aor. viewing the total action. ἠρνήσατο aor. ind. mid. (dep.) ἀρνέομαι (# 766) to deny. The first term marks the ready self-devotion of the testimony, the second its completeness (Westcott). The terms taken together suggest "he declared without any qualification, avowing" (Brown). Even his denials constituted part of his witness to the true Christ (Carson). For a discussion of John s. TJ, 63-65; E. Bammel, "The Baptist in Early Christian Tradition," NTS 18 (1971): 95-128; W. Scribner's Sons, 1951); ABD, 3:887-99. Χριστός (# 5986) Christ, Messiah. S. M. de Jonge, "Jewish Expectations about the 'Messiah' according to the Fourth Gospel," Jesus Stranger from Heaven and Son of God, (Missoula, Mont.: Scholars, 1977), 77-116; DJG, 114-17. ◆ 21 ἠρώτησαν aor. ind. act. s.v. 19. ἀπεκρίθη aor. ind. pass. (dep.) ἀποκρίνομαι (# 646) to answer. Ἠλίας (# 2460) Elijah. This expectation is based on Mal. 4:5-6; cf. Mark 9:11-12; ABD, 2:465-66; BBC; DJG, 203-206. ὁ προφήτης (# 4737) the prophet. The art. refers to the known or promised prophet intended by Deut. 18:15 (Meyer; s. also the study of background material in Meeks; 1QS 9:11; Beasley-Murray). ◆ 22 δῶμεν aor. subj. act. δίδωμι (# 1443) to give. Subj. w. ἵνα (# 2671) to express purp. πέμψασιν aor. act. part. (temp.) masc. dat. pl. πέμπω (# 4287) to send. Aor. indicating antecedent time. ◆ 23 ἔφη impf. ind. act. φήμι (# 5773) to say, to speak (VA, 444-47). βοῶντος pres. act. part. βοάω (# 1066) to shout, to cry out. It describes the cry which answers to strong feeling (Westcott). εὐθύνατε aor. imp. act. εὐθύνω (# 2316) straighten, to make straight. ◆ 24 ἀπεσταλμένοι perf. pass. part. s.v. 6. ◆ 25 ἠρώτησαν aor. ind. act. s.v. 19. Here the question turns from his identity to his authority (Haenchen). βαπτίζεις pres. ind. act. βαπτίζω (# 966) to baptize. Pres. pictures the repeated action. ◆ 26 ἀπεκρίθη aor. ind. pass. (dep.) s.v. 21. Here John renounces all three Messianic titles, viewing himself only as one who prepares the way. ἔστηκεν perf. ind. act. ἵστημι (# 5112) to stand. Perf. suggests "there is one who has taken his stand in your midst: the hidden Messiah is present in Israel" (Beasley-Murray). The other variant readings have insufficient support, while the perf. fits into the context and John's usage nicely (TC, 199). οἴδατε perf. ind. act. οἰδα (# 3857) to know. Def. perf. w. a pres. meaning. For a discussion of the meaning and its contrast to its synonym s. Brown, Appendix 1; VA, 281-87. ◆ 27 ἐρχόμενος aor. pass. (dep.) part. ἔρχομαι (# 2262) to go, to come. ἵνα (# 2671) used here w. the adj. ἄξιος (# 545) worthy; w. the subj. where normally the inf. is used (RWP; Mark 1:7). αὐτοῦ repeated after the rel. pron. and best regarded as a Semitism (Barrett). ἱμάντα acc. ἱμάς (# 2666) leather strap. ὑπόδημα (# 5687) sandal, shoe. Loosing and carrying sandals was a duty of a slaves and a disciple was exempt from this because of its menial character (Bernard; Talmud, Keth 96a; SB, 1:121). This then reflects the exalted nature of Jesus (Tenney). John's baptism is to prepare for the appearance of the yet hidden Messiah (Beasley-Murray). ◆ 28 ἐγένετο aor. ind. mid. (dep.) s.v. 3. Βηθανίᾳ Bethany beyond the Jordan. The present location is unknown; perhaps a small wadi close to Jericho (ABD, 1:703-705) or it may refer to Batanea (OT Bashan) in the north-east of Palestine (Carson; Rainer Riesner, "Bethany Beyond the Jordan [John 1:28]: Topography, Theology and History in the Fourth Gospel," TB 38 [1987]: 29-63). ◆ 29 ἐπαύριον (# 2069) adv. tomorrow; that is, on the following day. The word "day" in the dat. (dat. of time) is understood (RWP). In vv. 29, 35, 43 this phrase occurs; in John 2:1 it is ἡμέρα τῇ τρίτῃ ("the third day"). Thus there seems to be a beginning of a series of days here (Haenchen). This series culminates in the first sign. For a discussion of proposed parallels between these days and the last week of Christ's life s. Tenney, 38-39. ἴδε (# 2623) aor. act. imp. ὁράω to see ("behold"). This favorite word of John is no longer a real imp. expressing a command but an exclamation to draw attention (Morris; SB, 2:371; NIDNTT; P. Fiedler, Die Formel "und siehe" im Neuen Testament, 1969). ἀμνός (# 303) lamb. Evidently a reference to the various uses of the lamb as a sacrifice in the OT (ABD, 4:132.). All that this sacrifice foreshadowed was perfectly fulfilled in the sacrifice of Christ (Morris). Here referring to the innocence and mildness of a lamb. It emphasizes not only the vicarious suffering, but his unprotesting suffering. This makes a lamb a perfect substitute for sins in contrast to the daily sacrifice of the lamb (J Lightfoot). For the possible specific references of what was intended s. Morris; Brown. S. C.K. Barrett, "The Lamb of God," NTS 1 (1954/55): 210-18; G. Ashbey, "The Lamb of God," JTS (1977): 63ff; (1978): 62ff; D. Brent Sandy, "John the Baptist's 'Lamb of God' Affirmation in Its Canonical and Apocalyptic Milieu," JETS 34 (1991): 447-59. The figs. of the lion and the lamb are combined in the T. Jos. 19:8f; s. also the T. Benj. 3; J.C. O'Neill, "The Lamb of God in the Testaments of the Twelve Patriarchs," JSNT 1 (1979): 2-30; DJG, 432-34. αἴρων pres. act. part. αἴρω (# 149) to lift up, to take away, to carry off, to bear (TDNT). Pres. is the futuristic (Brown) or timeless (Bultmann) or hist. (Godet). ἁμαρτία (# 281) sin. The sing. here refers to the mass of sin and the subsequent guilt incurred (Godet; Hoskyns). ◆ 30 γέγονεν perf. ind. act. s.v. 3. πρῶτος (# 4755) first, as a comp. It has a temp. significance, "before" (Brown). Here the priority stems from his preexistence (Blum). ◆ 31 ᾔδειν plperf. ind. act. οἰδα (# 3857) to know. Def. perf. w. pres. meaning. Plperf. refers to a past event, or is a remote stative aspect (VA, 287-90). φανερωθῇ aor. subj. pass. φανερόω (# 5746) to manifest, to make clear, to reveal. ἦλθον aor. ind. act. ἔρχομαι (# 2262) to come. ◆ 32 ἐμαρτύρησεν aor. ind. act. μαρτυρέω (# 3455) to witness. Const. aor. viewing John's witness to Jesus as the Messiah as a whole. τεθέαμαι perf. ind. mid. (dep.) s.v. 14. Resultative perf. emphasizes the continuing effects of the past action. καταβαῖνον pres. act. part. καταβαίνω (# 2849) to come down. ὡς (# 6055) as. περιστερά (# 4361) dove. ἔμεινεν aor. ind. act. μένω (# 3531) to remain. Const. aor. suggests the dove's remaining as a whole. For the phrase "Son of God" s. Beasley-Murray, 25-26. ◆ 33 ᾔδειν plperf. ind. act. οἰδα to know. Def. perf. w. pres. meaning (s.v. 31). πέμψας aor. act. part. s.v. 22. Subst. part. βαπτίζειν pres. act. inf. s.v. 25. Inf. of purp. εἶπεν aor. ind. act. λέγω (# 3306) to say. ἴδῃς aor. subj. act. 2nd. pers. sing. ὁράω. Subj. w. indef. rel. ἄν (# 165) suggests "any one who." καταβαῖνον pres. act. part. (adj.) s.v. 32. μένον pres. act. part. (adj.) nom. n. sing. s.v. 32. For the idea of ritual cleansing with water and the cleansing of the spirit s. 1QS 3:7, 8; 4:21. ◆ 34 ἑώρακα perf. ind. act. s.v. 18. μεμαρτύρηκα perf. ind. act. s.v. 32. Perf. emphasizes that his testimony was continuous up to the time of speaking (Bernard). ◆ 35 εἱστήκει plperf. ind. act. ἵστημι (# 2705) to stand. Plperf. indicates that they were standing before the conversation commenced. ἐκ (# 1666) out of, from; used here to circumscribe a partitive gen. (Haenchen). ◆ 36 ἐμβλέψας aor. act. part. ἐμβλέπω (# 1838) to look at; signifies an intent, earnest gazing (Bernard). ἀμνός (# 303) lamb (s. John 1:29). περιπατοῦντι pres. act. part. περιπατέω (# 4344) to walk. ἴδε aor. imp. act. ὁράω to see (s.v. 29). ◆ 37 ἤκουσαν aor. ind. act. ἀκούω (# 201) to hear. Const. aor. viewing the conversation and the talking as a whole. λαλοῦντος pres. act. part. λαλέω (# 3281) to speak. For John's use of this vb. s. Morris. ἠκολούθησαν aor. ind. act. ἀκολουθέω (# 199) to follow as a disciple. They followed in the sense of literally walking with him and as his disciples. They turned their loyalty to him as a result of hearing the conversation (TNDT). ◆ 38 στραφείς aor. pass. part. στρέφω (# 5138) to turn, to turn around. θεασάμενος aor. mid. (dep.) part. (temp.) θεάομαι (# 2517) to see; s.v. 14. Aor. is necessarily antecedent to his question. Τί ζητεῖτε "What do you seek?" Here the question is understood as "where do you live?" However, the significance here seems to be, "What do you seek in life?" (Blum). ῥαββί (Heb.) rabbi; lit., my great one; teacher (TDNT; ABD, 5:600-602). μεθερμηνευόμενον pres. pass. part. μεθερμηνεύω (# 3493) to translate, to interpret. ◆ 39 ἔρχεσθε pres. imp. mid. (dep.) ἔρχομαι (# 2262) to come s.v. 7. ὄψεσθε fut. imp. mid. ὁράω (# 3972) to see. For the imp. followed by καί and the fut. as a Semitic type of cond. cl. s. Beyer, 238-58. ἦλθαν aor. ind. act. ἔρχομαι s.v. 7. εἶδαν aor. ind. act. ὁράω to see. The time was either 10 A.M. (Roman time) or 4 P.M. K. Hanhnart, "About the Tenth Hour" ... on Nisan 15 (John 1, 40), in L'Evangile de Jean BETL 44 Gembloux/Leuven 1977, 335-46; IBC, 1:594-95. ◆ 40 ἀκουσάντων aor. act. part. (adj.) ἀκούω (# 201) to hear. ἀκολουθησάντων aor. act. part. s.v. 37. ◆ 41 εὑρίσκει pres. ind. act. εὑρίσκω (# 2351) to find. Hist. pres. πρῶτον (# 4754) first, taken either as an adv. (i.e., he found his own brother first and later found someone else) or as an adj.: the first thing he did was to find his brother (Tasker). εὑρήκαμεν perf. ind. act. εὑρίσκω to find. Μεσσίας (# 3549) the anointed, Messiah, Christ. Perhaps looking forward to John 20:31. For the term s. NIDNTT; TDNT; EDNT; UFG, 238-79; Matt. 16:16. μεθερμηνευόμενον pres. pass. part. (adj.) μεθερμηνεύω (# 3493) to translate, to interpret. ◆ 42 ἤγαγεν aor. ind. act. ἄγω (# 72) to lead. ἐμβλέψας aor. act. part. ἐμβλέπω (# 1838) to look upon. Aor. part. indicates that he looked before he spoke. κληθήσῃ fut. ind. pass. καλέω (# 2813) to call. ἑρμηνεύεται pres. ind. pass. ἑρμηνεύω (# 2257) to translate, to interpret. ◆ 43 ἠθέλησεν aor. ind. act. θέλω (# 2527) to will, to want. Aor. indicates "he resolved" w. the subject probably Jesus (Morris). ἐξελθεῖν aor. act. inf. ἐξέρχομαι (# 2002) to go out. Compl. inf. to the main vb. εὑρίσκει pres. ind. act. s.v. 41. ἀκολούθει pres. imp. act. ἀκολουθέω s.v. 37. ◆ 45 ἔγραψεν aor. ind. act. γράφω (# 1211) to write. The prominent position of the vb. may indicate that Philip and Nathanael had previously discussed the fulfillment of these Scriptures (Morris). A major theme in John is that Jesus fulfills the OT (Carson). Moses (Deut. 18:18-19) and the prophets (Isa. 52:13-53:12; Dan. 7:13; Mic. 5:2-4; Mal. 3:1-4) predicted Messiah's coming. ◆ 46 τι ἀγαθόν anything good. A scornful question (Barrett) due to the low regard for Nazareth. ἔρχου pres. imp. mid. (dep.), s.v. 7. Imp. is inviting rather than commanding. Pres. imp. is common w. a vb. of motion (VANT, 341-48; esp., 344-45). ◆ 47 ἐρχόμενον pres. mid. (dep.) part. s.v. 7. ἀληθῶς (# 242) truly. H. Kuhli, "Nathanael – "Wahrer Israelit"? Zum angeblischen attributiven Gebrauch von ἀληθῶς in Joh 1,47," BN 9 (1979): 11-19. δόλος (# 1515) deceit, cunning, treachery. It indicates his religious and moral integrity (Lindars). ◆ 48 πόθεν (# 4470) where. γινώσκεις pres. ind. act. γινώσκω (# 1182) to know. ἀπεκρίθη aor. ind. pass. (dep.) ἀποκρίνομαι s.v. 21. φωνῆσαι aor. act. inf. φωνέω (# 5888) to call. Inf. w. prep. πρό (# 4574) to express time ("before") (MT, 144). ὄντα pres. act. part. εἰμί (# 1639) to be. συκῆ (# 5190) fig tree. The rabbis often sat under a fig tree for study or for teaching (Bultmann). The fig tree portrays a place of peace and prosperity, safety and leisure (1 Kings 4:25; Mic. 4:4; Zech. 3:10). Perhaps it was a place of meditation on the Law (Tenney; Blum; s. also J.R. Michaels "Nathanael under the Fig-Tree [Jn 1, 48; 4, 19]" ET 78 [1966/67]: 182f; C.F.D. Moule, "A Note on "Under the Fig tree in John 1,48.50," JTS 5 [1954]: 210f. For a discussion of the fig tree see FFB, 118-19; Oded Boronski, Agriculture in Iron Age Israel, 114-16; POB, 103-07; PB, 58-59). The supernatural knowledge of Christ, not the fig tree, is emphasized (Carson). εἶδον aor. ind. act. ὁράω (# 3972) to see. ◆ 49 ἀπεκρίθη aor. ind. pass. (dep.) s.v. 21. σὺ βασιλεὺς εἶ τοῦ Ἰσραήλ "You are King over Israel." Without the art. the character or quality is stressed (s.v. 1 θεός). The thought is that the Son of man is the means of bridging the gap between earth and heaven (Morris).

(New York: AMS Press, 1975), 1931-35; JPFC, 2:752-60. ἐγένετο aor. ind. mid. (dep.) γίνομαι (# 1181) to become. For a discussion of this passage s. B. Olsson, Structure and Meaning in the Fourth Gospel: A Text-Linguistic Analysis of John 2:1-11 and 4:1-42 (Gleerup, 1974); R. Schnackenburg, Das erste Wunder Jesu (Freiburg: Herder, 1951); W. Luetgehetmann, Die Hochzeit von Kana (Joh 2,1-11), 1989. For a discussion of the structure of 2:1-4:54 s. Carson, 166. Κανὰ τῆς Γαλιλαίας Cana of Galilee. The exact location is unknown. It was in the area around Nazareth. Thus it would have taken 2-3 days to travel from Jerusalem to Cana of Galilee. ◆ 2 ἐκλήθη aor. ind. pass. καλέω (# 2813) to call, to invite. Const. aor. viewing the complete action. For the moral obligation of the guests to bring gifts and the duty of reciprocation

s. LNT, 229-34. ◆ 3 ὑστερήσαντος aor. act. part. (temp.) ὑστερέω (# 5728) to fall short, to run short, to fail. Gen. abs. Failure by the groom to provide adequately for the guests was a social disgrace (Tenney; BBC). ◆ 4 τί ἐμοὶ καὶ σοί "What is it to Me and to you?" ("You have no right to blame Me. The problem is taken care of.") It is an answer of remonstrance, of putting off and impatient urging (LNT, 238-43). There are two ways of understanding this (1) What business is that of ours? (2) What authority do you have over me? (Tenney). For the various views see C.P. Ceroke, "The Problem of Ambiguity in John 2,4," CBQ 21 (1959): 316-40; O. Baechli, "Was habe ich mit Dir zu schaffen?" ThZ 33 (1977): 69-80; GGBB, 150-51. γύναι voc. γυνή (# 1222) woman. "I shall choose the appropriate moment," referring to His intention to provide the needed wine, and to reveal his glory. The reference is not immediately to his death. It is the beginning of the journey which through the cross climaxes in his exaltation (LNT, 142; for similar expressions s. 7:6, 8, 30; 8:20; 12:23; 13:1; 17:1). ◆ 5 ὅ τι ἄν (# 4005; 5515; 323) whatever. λέγῃ pres. subj. act. λέγω (# 3306) to speak, to say. Thus the meaning is, "Whatever he may be shortly saying to you" (JG, 376-77). ποιήσατε aor. imp. act. ποιέω (# 4472) to do. Aor. imp. has a note of urgency here (EGGNT, 86), "do immediately." ◆ 6 λίθιναι (# 3343) stone. Adjs. w. this ending generally signify material, origin, or kind (MH, 359). Stone was used because it did not itself contract uncleanness (Barrett; SB, 2:406-07; R. Deines, Jüdische Steingefäße und pharisäische Frömmigkeit. Ein archäolog.-historischer Beitrag zum Verständnis von Joh 2,6 und der jüdischen Reinheitshalacha z. Zeit Jesu [Tübingen: J.C.B. Mohr], 1993). ὑδρία (# 5620) waterpot. κείμεναι pres. mid. (w. gen.). Authoritative imp. (JG, 319). ἐγέμισαν aor. ind. act. ἕως ἄνω (# 2401; 539) up to the brim. There was no room left for adding anything to the water in the jars (Bernard). ◆ 8 ἀντλήσατε aor. imp. act. ἀντλέω (# 533) to draw, to draw out. Often used of drawing water from a well, but here from a water jar (Brown; TLNT, 1:131-33; Gen. 24:13; Isa. 12:3; cf. Jos., JW, 4:472). Aor. imp. has a note of urgency (EGGNT, 86). Here it also emphasizes the antecedent action of the quite recent events (JG). ᾔδει plperf. ind. act. οἶδα (# 3857) to know. Def. perf. w. pres. meaning πόθεν (# 4470) where, from where, indicating source. ἠντληκότες perf. act. part. ἀντλέω s.v. 8. Subj. w. ὅταν (# 4020) describes the general time ("whenever"). The words do not imply that the guests were already drunk (Sanders). ἐλάσσω (# 1781) comp. μικρός small; comp., lesser, inferior; used as the opposite of καλόν (# 2819) to describe less good wine served at the end of a meal (TLNT). τετήρηκας perf. ind. act. τηρέω (# 5498) to guard, to keep back, to preserve. Const. aor. emphasizing the total action. ἀρχή (# 794) beginning (implying that there was more to come). σημεῖον (# 4956) sign, an act or miracle w. a meaning designed to lead to belief in Jesus as the Messiah, the Son of God. It was also designed to show the type of ministry he was to have, one of transformation. (Jos., Ant., 2:274, 280 states God uses miracles to convince people). ἐφανέρωσεν aor. ind. act. φανερόω (# 5746) to manifest, to make visible, to make clear. Const. aor. viewing all the actions in the miracle as part of the manifestation of His glory. His Messianic glory was manifested in the abundance of wine which was the OT figure for joy in the final days (Brown). ἐπίστευσαν aor. ind. act. πισ-τεύω (# 4409) to believe in, to trust in. Const. aor. picturing their belief as a whole, or ingressive aor. picturing their entrance into the state of belief. ◆ 12 μετὰ τοῦτο after this. Const. aor. viewing the staying as a whole. ◆ 13 πάσχα (# 4247) Passover. This feast was celebrated on the 14-15 of Nisan (Exod. 12:6). Two other Passovers are mentioned in John (6:4; 11:55; 12:1; 13:1). For a discussion of the pilgrimages to the Passover s. WZZT. For a discussion of the way of celebrating Passover cf. the Mishnah tractate Pesahim. ἀνέβη aor. ind. act. ἀναβαίνω (# 326) to go up. This describes the pilgrimage to Jerusalem. It could simply refer to the geographic height or to the importance of the capital and Temple. For a discussion of this pericope s. R.H. Hiers, "The Purification of the Temple: Preparation for the Kingdom of God," JBL 90 (1971): 82-90; DJG, 819-20. ◆ 14 εὗρεν aor. ind. act. εὑρίσκω (# 2351) to find. ἱερῷ dat. ἱερόν (# 2639) temple. Here it is a reference to the Court of the Gentiles, not the sanctuary per se (2:19-20). For a summary of the history and description of this temple s. ABD, 6:364-68; JPB, 54-72. πωλοῦντας pres. act. part. πωλέω (# 4797) to sell. Subst. part. used as a noun indicating not only their profession, but the activity. Pigeons were for the poor, oxen for the very wealthy (M, Sheq. 5:3; SB 1:851). κερματιστής (# 3048) money changer, properly one who exchanges large money into small (Morris). Money changers were required because the Jews were not allowed to mint their own coins. The Roman coins, w. images of the emperor as deity, were blasphemous to the Jewish leaders. For this reason the Temple tax and sacrifices had to be paid in silver didrachmas of Tyre. For a picture s. ABD, 1:1081 fig. o. According to the Mishnah (M, Sheq. 1:1, 3) they were to collect the tax before the Feast (beginning the 25th of Adar) inside the Temple precincts. At times they cheated in assisting in transactions, particularly in converting or selling animals for the temple service (M, Ker. 1:7; M, Shek. 7:4; JCST; Beasley-Murray; ABD, 1:1086-87; JTJ, 48-49). καθημένους pres. mid. (dep.) part. κάθημαι (# 2764) to sit. Subst. part. At times a money changer also functioned as a banker charging interest and a 4-6 percent transaction fee for exchanging coins of different origins. The temple tax, based on Neh. 10:32-33, was for the upkeep of the temple (ABD, 6:340). ◆ 15 ποιήσας aor. act. part. ποιέω (# 4472) to make. Aor. indicates antecedent time to the main vb. ἐξέβαλεν. φραγέλλιον (# 5848) whip, scourge. No sticks or weapons were allowed in the temple precinct (Brown). This is a Latin loanword, flagellum, the dem. form of flagrum (BAGD; MM; for a discussion of the incident in general s. DJG, 817-21; particularly in John s. DJG, 819-20). A lash made of cords or thongs made from the ox's hide was attached. Const. aor. viewing the action as a whole. He drove out the animals. κολλυβιστῶν gen. κολλυβιστής (# 3142) money changer. Poss. gen., indicating to whom the coins belonged. The action is not directed against the worshippers, but against those who detract from true worship (Beasley-Murray). ἐξέχεεν aor. ind. act. ἐξέχω (# 1772) to pour out. For the unusual form s. MH 215, 265. κέρμα (# 3047) small coin, usually copper; change (BAGD; MM). τράπεζα (# 5544) table. ἀνέτρεψεν aor. ind. act. ἀνατρέφω (# 418) to turn over. ◆ 16 πωλοῦσιν pres. act. part. πωλέω (# 4797) to sell. Used here as an noun with an obj. ("the sellers of pigeons"). ἄρατε aor. imp. act. αἴρω (# 149) to lift up, to take away. ποιεῖτε pres. imp. act. ποιέω (# 4472) to make; used w. neg. μή (# 3590) to prohibit an action in progress. ἐμπορίου gen. ἐμπόριον (# 1866) a place of trade, a house of merchandise. Gen. of apposition (Barrett) or epex. gen. (BAGD). Here the selling location takes the place of the action of selling. The attack here is that they think one can purchase God's favor through sacrifice (Schlatter; Richard Bauckham, "Jesus' Demonstration in the Temple," in Law and Religion: Essays on the Place of the Law in Israel and Early Christianity ed. Barnabas Lindars [London: SPCK, 1988], 72-89). ◆ 17 ἐμνήσθησαν aor. ind. pass. (dep.) μιμνήσκομαι (# 3630) to remember. γεγραμμένον perf. pass. part. γράφω (# 1211) to write. Periphrastic part. ζῆλος (# 2419) zeal, followed by the obj. gen. τοῦ οἴκου σου zeal for thine house (Tasker). A quotation from Ps. 69:9. The zeal for God would ultimately lead Jesus to his death. His vehemence demonstrates his inward passion for the Father and the Father's interest (Tenney). καταφάγεται fut. ind. mid. (dep.) κατεσθίω (# 2983) to eat up, to consume. Pred. fut. describing a fut. event. ◆ 18 ἀπεκρίθησαν aor. ind. pass. (dep.) ἀποκρίνομαι (# 646) to answer. οὖν (# 4036) in response. 402-424). The question is one of credentials (Carson). δεικνύεις pres. ind. act. δείκνυμι (# 1259) to show. Pres. indicating an immediate fut. action: "What sign are you going to show us?" ὅτι (# 4022) because (JG, 157). ποιεῖς pres. ind. act. ποιέω (# 4472) to do. Pres. points to the things that Jesus was in the process of doing. ◆ 19 ἀπεκρίθη aor. ind. pass. (dep.) ἀποκρίνομαι s.v. 18. λύσατε aor. imp. act. λύω (# 3395) to loose, to destroy. The construction by over 1,000 workers was ongoing (ABD, 6:365). It is a permissive or concessive imp., not a command (RWP; JG, 321-22; contra GGBB, 490-97). Or it is a type of cond. cl.: "If you destroy..." (VA, 352-53). ἐν within; temp. use of the prep. "after an interval of three days" (JG, 255). ἐγερῶ fut. ind. act. ἐγείρω (# 1586) to raise up. For the imp. followed by the fut. s. 1:39. This may refer to the restoration of the Temple by Messiah (Tg Isa. 53:5). ◆ 20 οἰκοδομήθη aor. ind. pass. οἰκοδομέω (# 3868) to build, to erect. Complexive aor. summing up the completed building, though it is not yet completed (it was completed in A.D. 63) (Brown; Harold W. Hoehner, "Chronological Aspects of the Life of Christ," Bib Sac 131 [1974]: 49-52; VANT, 172; 257-58; cf. GGBB, 560-61; for DSS instructions concerning temple building s. Yigael Yadin, "The Temple Scroll," BA 30 [1967]: 137-39). Since the building was started about 20 or 19 B.C. this year must be between 27 or 28 A.D. (SB, 2:411ff; Jos., Ant. 15:380-425; JW, 1:401; 5:184-247; for a discussion on the chronological problem as well as the building of the temple in Josephus cf. TJ, 28-30. Hoehner understands the aor. to refer to a completed edifice finished 18/17 B.C. Thus this year would be 29/30 A.D. Harold W. Hoehner, Chronological Aspects of the Life of Christ, 40-43. ◆ 21 For the misunderstanding by the Jewish leaders s. O. Cullmann, "Der johannische Gebrauch doppeldeutiger Ausdrücke als Schlüssel zum Verständnis des vierten Evangeliums," TZ 4 (1948): 360-72; D.A. Carson, "Understanding Misunderstandings in the Fourth Gospel," TB 13 (1982): 59-91. ◆ 22 ἠγέρθη aor. ind. pass. ἐγείρω s.v. 19. Only after the resurrection did the disciples understand the meaning of this statement (Schlatter). ◆ 23 θεωροῦντες pres. act. part. θεωρέω (# 2555) to see. Part. is causal or temp. Pres. indicates contemporaneous action. S. Donald Guthrie, "Importance of Signs in the Fourth Gospel," VoxE 5 (1967): 72-83; Zane C. Hodges, "Untrustworthy Believers Joh 2,23-25," Bib Sac 135 (1978): 139ff. ἐποίει impf. ind. act. ποιέω s.v. 18. Progressive impf. to vividly describe the past action in progress. ◆ 24 αὐτός pron. emphasizes the contrast between the others and Jesus (GGBB, 349). δέ (# 1254) in contrast, on the other hand. ἐπίστευεν impf. ind. act. πιστεύω (# 4409) to trust, to entrust oneself. Prog. impf. to vividly describe the past action. It could be customary, describing Jesus' custom of not entrusting the full meaning of his mission to everyone. The use of the vb. is parallel to 1 Thess. 2:4; Gal. 2:7; 1 Cor. 9:17; 1 Tim. 1:11; cf. also Jos., Ant., 20:183; JW, 5:567; MM; BAGD; Schlatter). γινώσκειν pres. act. inf. γινώσκω (# 1182) to know. διά (# 1328) with the art. inf. describes the cause. "God, who knows everything and is everywhere present, from whom nothing is hidden, is the witness par excellence" (TLNT). Const. aor. describing his knowledge as a whole. ἐγίνωσκεν impf. ind. act. γινώσκω s.v. 24. Cust. impf. indicating that he regularly knew what was in man. What is in a man is hidden from another; only God knows (SB, 2:412; GGBB, 228-29).

◆ 1 δέ (# 1254) and, but. This can be in contrast to the preceding and suggest that Nicodemus was open. Or it can be a continuation of the narrative, not necessarily as a point in thought (Carson, 185-86; JG, 104-106). ἄνθρωπος (# 476) man, a man of the Pharisees. An unusual expression probably linked to the closing of the previous chapter, so as to bring out Jesus' knowledge of man (Morris). For two opposite portrayals s. Michael Goulder, "Nicodemus," SJT 44 (1991): 153-68 and M. de Jonge, "Nicodemus and Jesus: Some Observations on Misunderstandings and Understanding in the Fourth Gospel," BJRL 53 (1970-71): 337-59; ABD, 4:1105-106. For a discussion of the Pharisees s. TJ, 70-76; Alan Watson, Jesus and the Jews: The Pharisaic Tradition in John (Athens, Ga.: University of Georgia Press, 1995); ABD, 5:289-303; DJG, 609-14. ἄρχων (# 807) leader. At least an influential Pharisee, perhaps a member of the Sanhedrin (BAGD; Haenchen; Schlatter; SB, 2:412-19). ◆ 2 ἦλθεν aor. ind. act. ἔρχομαι (# 2262) to come. οἴδαμεν perf. ind. act. οἶδα (# 3857) to know. Def. perf. w. a pres. meaning. The 1st. pl. may be a reference to others among the Sanhedrin who believe or at least are interested. ἐλήλυθας perf. ind. act. ἔρχομαι to come; a consummative perf. emphasizing not only the completion of the process of coming, but the state of Christ's presence in Israel. This is not a reference to Christ's preexistence but a recognition that God was peculiarly with him (Carson). σημεῖον (# 4956) sign (s. John 2:11, 18) Here it is plural even though only one sign has been mentioned by John (Carson). The miracles authenticated the message (SB, 2:420; Baba Meci'a 59b; s. also Acts 2:22; Schlatter). ᾖ pres. subj. act. εἰμί (# 1639) to be. Subj. w. ἐάν (# 1569), except. The implied question is, "who are you really?" (Carson). ◆ 3 ἀπεκρίθη aor. ind. pass. (dep.) ἀποκρίνομαι (# 646) to answer. γεννηθῇ aor. subj. pass. γεννάω (# 1164). Pass. can either mean to be born or begotten (Brown). Subj. w. ἐάν in a cond. cl. where the cond. is possible. The emphasis here is on receiving a new origin. This birth is attributed to the Spirit (NIDNTT, 3:179). ἄνωθεν (# 540) from above; the heavenly word from whose power a man must be renewed (s. 3:31; 19:11, 23; Schnackenburg; Tenney). Perhaps a circumlocution for God (BBC). This is an adaptation of the Jewish hope of a new creation (Beasley-Murray; SB, 1:420-23). Advs. with the suffix -θεν answer the question "whence?" "from where?" (BD, 56). The word can also mean "again," "anew" (Acts 26:5). The translation "reborn from above" includes both meaning of the word (Morris). This also stands in contrast to the belief that being of the seed of Abraham was sufficient (J Lightfoot). ἰδεῖν aor. inf. act. ὁράω (# 3972) to see. Here to experience, encounter, participate in at the end of the age (Brown). Compl. inf. to the main vb. δύναται. Aor. points to the total experience. The need is for transformation (Carson). βασιλείαν τοῦ θεοῦ kingdom of God. It points to God's rule. Used almost as a synonym for eternal life (DJG, 429). ◆ 4 γεννηθῆναι aor. pass. inf. γεννάω s.v. 3. Compl. inf. to the main vb. δύναται. γέρων (# 1173) old. ὤν pres. act. part. εἰμί (# 1639) to be. Circum. part. describing a contemporaneous cond. κοιλία (# 3120) stomach, womb. δεύτερον (# 1309) second, a second time. εἰσελθεῖν aor. act. inf. εἰσέρχομαι (# 1656) to go into. Compl. inf. to the main vb. δύναται. γεννηθῆναι aor. pass. inf. γεννάω s.v. 3. ◆ 5 γεννηθῇ ἐξ ὕδατος καὶ πνεύματος "born of water and spirit." For a discussion of the various views s. Carson; Zane C. Hodges, "Water and Spirit – John 3,5," Bib Sac 135 (1978): 206ff; Linda Belleville, "'Born of Water and Spirit': John 3:5," TrinJ N.S. 2 (1981): 125-41; HSB, 495-96; BBC; DJG, 347-48, 575-76. Witherington wants to see water as physical birth (Ben Witherington III, "The Waters of Birth: John 3:5 and 1 John 5:6-8," NTS 35 [1989]: 155-60). The phrase explains the previous ἄνωθεν (# 540) and καί (# 2779) is explanatory in the sense of "that is." Thus there is an equation between water and the spirit. ◆ 6 γεγεννημένον perf. pass. part. s.v. 3. Perf. conveys that which has been born and presently comes before us in this light (Westcott). This shows the necessity of a new birth in order to become children of God (Carson). ἐκ (# 1666) prep., from; indicates the source or sphere. ◆ 7 θαυμάσῃς aor. subj. act. θαυμάζω (# 2513) to wonder, to marvel. Aor. subj. is a categorical prohibition: "Do not marvel at all!" (which he had done in v. 4) (BD, 337,2). Perhaps the idea of the vb. here is to stumble or reject; s. 5:28 for the same meaning (Schlatter). δεῖ (# 1256) pres., ind. act. it is necessary (w. inf.). ὑμᾶς pl. σύ (# 5148) you; the pl. here stands in contrast to the sing. of addressing Nicodemus. This application is broader than simply Nicodemus. This explains the generalizing τίς (# 5516) in vv. 3, 5 (Carson). ◆ 8 πνεῦμα (# 4460) wind. Perhaps there is a play on words here or it is figurative; the wind itself has no will. θέλει pres. ind. act. θέλω (# 2527) to desire. πνεῖ pres. ind. act. πνέω (# 4463) to blow. Gnomic pres. suggesting what normally occurs (IBG, 8). πόθεν (# 4470) where, from what place. ποῦ (# 4544) where, to what place. γεγεννημένος perf. pass. part. s.v. 3. The point of the comp. seems to be that the Spirit as the wind is not understandable or controllable. Yet the effects are undeniable and unmistakable (Carson). ◆ 9 γενέσθαι aor. mid. (dep.) inf. γίνομαι (# 1181) to become; to be; to happen. ταῦτα (# 4047) fem. pl. αὗτη; this is a summary of the discussion so far. ◆ 10 ὁ διδάσκαλος (# 1437) the teacher. The art. emphasizes this status of Nicodemus as a great teacher (Barrett). This is ironic, the "well-known teacher" who does not know this simple truth (JG). As a Pharisee, he was considered among "the most accurate interpreters of the Laws" (Jos., JW, 2:162; Life, 191; TJ, 72-73). The sharp rebuke stands in contrast to his leadership position. Based on the study of the Hebrew Bible he should have but did not understand this (Carson). ◆ 11 οἴδαμεν perf. ind. act. s.v. 2. λαλοῦμεν pres. ind. act. λαλέω (# 3281) to speak. Pres. indicates the action in progress. ἑωράκαμεν perf. ind. act. ὁράω (# 3972) to see. Perf. indicates the resulting cond. of having seen. μαρτυροῦμεν pres. ind. act. μαρτυρέω (# 3455) to witness to, to bear witness. λαμβάνετε pres. ind. act. λαμβανω (# 3284) to receive. The problem here is not intellectual, but one of believing the witness (Carson). ◆ 12 εἰ (# 1623) if; the fact of fulfillment is assumed to be fulfilled (SMT, 244). ἐπίγεια n. pl. ἐπίγειος (# 2103) earthly. εἶπω aor. subj. act. λέγω (# 3306) to say. Subj. suggests doubt. ἐπουράνιος heavenly. For the terms "earthly" and "heavenly" s. Schnackenburg. The earthly things may refer to the conds. necessary to enter the kingdom of God, while the heavenly things refer to the conds. of the established kingdom on earth (Carson). ◆ 13 ἀναβέβηκεν perf. ind. act. ἀναβαίνω (# 326) to go up, to ascend. Perf. indicates "no man has gained the height of heaven" (Morris). εἰ μή (# 1623; 3590) except. Since he is the only one who has come from heaven, he alone can speak authoritatively of it (Carson). He alone by virtue of his descent from heaven is authorized and empowered by the Father to achieve the salvation of the divine sovereignty (Beasley-Murray). καταβάς aor. act. part. καταβαίνω (# 2849) to descend, to come down. Subst. part. to describe here the qualifications of the Son of Man. Aor. indicates action logically antecedent, though the action could be temporally simultaneous. ◆ 14 ὕψωσεν aor. ind. act. ὑψόω (# 5738) to lift up, to make high.

Const. aor. referring to the action as a whole. In John it refers both to the lifting up on the cross as well as the exaltation to heaven (TDNT). ὄφις (# 4058) snake; cf. Num. 21:4-9; 2 Kings 18:4; ABD, 5:1117. ὑψωθῆναι aor. pass. inf. ὑψόω. Compl. inf. to the impersonal vb. δεῖ (# 1256) pres. ind. act. w. inf., it is necessary to, giving a logical necessity. τὸν υἱὸν τοῦ ἀνθρώπου Son of Man. S. the discussion in Schackenburg. ◆ 15 πιστεύων pres. act. part. πιστεύω (# 4409) to believe. Subst. part. πᾶς ὁ (# 4246) anyone who. Pres. expresses simultaneous action. ἔχῃ pres. subj. act. ἔχω (# 2400) to have. Subj. w. ἵνα (# 2671) to express purp.; the purp. of the exaltation is that those who believe obtain eternal life. αἰώνιος (# 173) eternal. Eternal life is the life of the age to come which is gained by faith, cannot be destroyed, and is a pres. possession of the one who believes (GW, 191-201; Brown, 505-508; Dodd, 144-50). ◆ 16 οὕτως γάρ just as the acquisition of eternal life is grounded in the lifting up of the Son, so the lifting up of the Son is grounded in the love of God (Carson). ἠγάπησεν aor. ind. act. ἀγαπάω (# 26) to love (TDNT; TLNT; EDNT; James Moffatt, Love in the New Testament [London: Hodder and Stoughton, 1929]; Brown, 497ff; EIM, 64-85). Const. aor. viewing all God's individual actions of loving the world as a whole. κόσμος (# 3180) world (N.H. Cassem, "A Grammatical and Contextual Inventory of the Use of κόσμος in the Johannine Corpus with some Implications for a Johannine Cosmic Theology," NTS 19 [1972]: 81-91; TDNT). ὥστε (# 6063) w. ind. to express actual result (RG, 1000; BAGD; Carson). μονογενῆ (# 3666) unique, only one of this kind (EDNT; TDNT; GELTS, 309; Wisdom 7:22; D. Moody, "God's Only Son," JBL 72 [1953]: 213-19). ἔδωκεν aor. ind. act. δίδωμι (# 1443) to give. The giving points to His grace (s. Isa. 9:6). Const. aor. viewing all God's individual actions in sending His Son. πᾶς ὁ πιστεύων this construction has a generalizing tendency; perhaps a gnomic pres. (GGBB, 620-27); "anyone who believes." ἀπόληται aor. subj. mid. ἀπόλλυμι (# 660) to destroy, to perish (TDNT). Subj. w. ἵνα (# 2671) and neg. μή (# 3590) to express neg. purp. of the giving. ◆ 17 ἀπέστειλεν aor. ind. act. ἀποστέλλω (# 690) to send, to send as an authoritative representative (TDNT; EDNT). This may be a preparation for v. 19, because the word is used for emitting light (TLNT, 1:186). κρίνῃ aor. subj. act. κρίνω (# 3212) to decide, to judge, to condemn, as a contrast w. σωθῇ (Morris). The vb. suggests not just the process of sentencing, but the ensuing condemnation (NIDNNT, 2:362-67). Const. aor. viewing the total action. σωθῇ aor. subj. pass. σῴζω (# 5392) to rescue, to save. Subjs. w. ἵνα (# 2671) to express purp. In light of John 9:39 one should understand the statement that Jesus came into a world already condemned in order to save some (Carson). ◆ 18 πιστεύων pres. act. part. πιστεύω to believe s.v. 16. κρίνεται pres. ind. pass. s.v. 17. The change to the pres. is durative or progressive, suggesting a sentence presently being executed. κέκριται perf. ind. pass. κρίνω to judge. Perf. indicates he has already been judged and presently is under the sentence (JG, 352). πεπίστευκεν perf. ind. act. πιστεύω to believe. Perf. indicates he has entered into a continuing state of belief (Morris). ◆ 19 κρίσις (# 3213) judgment. Here as the process of judging, not the sentence of condemnation (Morris). Men are judged by the work and person of Jesus (Barrett). God's great saving act has become a means of judgment through the perverted reaction of people. (Beasley-Murray). φῶς (# 5890) light. The revelation brings to light what man truly is (TDNT; s. John 1:4). The difference in men is their response to the light (Tenny; Zane C. Hodges, "Coming to the Light–John 3:20-21," Bib Sac 135 [1978]: 314-22; E.R. Achtemeier, "Jesus Christ, the Light of the World: The Biblical Understanding of Light and Darkness," Interpretation 17 [1963]: 439-49). ἐλήλυθεν perf. ind. act. ἔρχομαι (# 2262) to come. Pres. indicates simultaneous actions. His evil deeds demonstrate his rejection of Christ, the light of God. ἐλεγχθῇ aor. subj. pass. ἐλέγχω (# 1794) to bring to light, expose; properly sifted, tried, tested and then, if need be, convicted; to show how faulty they are and to reprove; to state that someone has done wrong, w. the implication that there is adequate proof of such wrongdoing; to prove (Westcott; LN, 1:436; NIDNTT; TDNT; CCFJ, 2:73). Subj. w. ἵνα (# 2671) to express purp. ◆ 21 ποιῶν pres. act. part. ποιέω (# 4472) to do, practice. For the construction ποιῶν τὴν ἀλήθειαν in DDS s. 1QS 1:5; 5:3; 8:2. φανερωθῇ aor. subj. pass. φανερόω (# 5746) to manifest, to bring to light. ὅτι (# 4022) gives the content of what is manifested. εἰργασμένα perf. pass. part. ἐργάζομαι (# 2237) to work, to produce by work. Durative impf. presenting the staying as in progress, but prior to the time of writing. ἐβάπτιζεν impf. ind. act. βαπτίζω (# 966) to baptize. Iterat. impf. points to the repeated action. ◆ 23 βαπτίζων pres. act. part. βαπτίζω s.v. 22. In light of John 4:2 the disciples baptized, not Jesus himself. παρεγίνοντο impf. ind. mid. (dep.) παραγίνομαι (# 4134) to come on the scene, to appear, to come. Iterat. impf. indicates

"they kept on coming again and again." ἐβαπτίζοντο impf. ind. pass. βαπτίζω to baptize. ◆ 24 γάρ (# 1142) explains why John is still baptizing. βεβλημένος perf. pass. part. βάλλω (# 965) to throw, to cast. Part. in a periphastic construction indicating that John was not yet in prison (VA, 485). This gives an indication of the earliest ministry of Christ. Based on Mark 1:14 the Galilean ministry began after the incarceration (Carson). ◆ 25 ἐγένετο aor. ind. mid. (dep.) γίνομαι (# 1181) to become, to arise. Leaney, The Rule of Qumran and its Meaning [London: SCM Press, 1966], 141f, 191f; Roger P. While the future holds the full manifestation of the wrath, present unbelief places one presently under wrath (NIDNTT; TDNT; DJG, 411). God's wrath is not a sudden gust or passion, but the settled displeasure of God against sin (Tenny).

Not geographical necessity in light of Jos., Ant., 20:118; JW, 2:232; Life, 269, referring to Jewish travellers passing through Samaria (Carson). Rather, the vb. gives a divine necessity, meaning that God's will or plan is involved (Brown). It may anticipate the statement in John 4:42 that Jesus is the Savior of the world, and not just the Jews. διὰ τῆς Σαμαρείας (# 1328; 4899).This was the shortest way from Judea to Galilee. Normally, a Jew would not pass through Samaria, since the Samaritans even made the land impure. S. ABD, 5:940-47; James D. Purvis, "The Samaritans and Judaism," in Early Judaism and Its Modern Interpreters, ed. by Robert A. Kraft and George W.E. Antike Quellen zur Geschichte und Kultur der Samaritaner in deutscher Übersetzung* (Tübingen: A. Francke Verlag, 1994); DJG, 40. Impf. ἔδει is used w. a necessity in the past. Josephus comments, "It was absolutely necessary for those who would go quickly to pass through that country (Samaria), for by that road you may, in three days, go from Galilee to Jerusalem" (Jos., Life, 269). διέρχεσθαι pres. mid. (dep.) inf. διέρχομαι (# 1451) to pass through. Compl. inf. to the impersonal vb. ἔδει. ◆ 5 Συχάρ (# 5373) this may be modern day 'Askar, on the shoulder of Mount Ebal, opposite of Mount Gerizim (Carson). λεγομένην pres. pass. part. λέγω (# 3306) to say; pass. to have the name. πλησίον (# 4446) w. gen., near to, near. χωρίον (# 6005) piece of land, parcel. ἔδωκεν aor. ind. act. δίδωμι (# 1443) to give. Const. aor. viewing the action of purchasing and giving as a whole (cf. Gen. 33:19; 48:22; Josh. 24:32). A.F. Wedel, "John 4:5-36," Interp. 31 (1977): 406-12. ◆ 6 πηγή (# 4380) well, spring. This well was over 90 ft. deep. There was a rounded stone at the top. A hole was cut in the top so that a leather bucket could be lowered to the underground spring (Schlatter). The following discussion revolves around the contrast of well water and living water suggesting the life and salvation of the kingdom (Beasley-Murray). While the well here is dug out, it is fed by an underground spring, providing then fresh water (Carson). κεκοπιακώς perf. act. part. κοπιάω (# 3159) to labor, to grow weary from work (TLNT). Perf. emphasizes the state of weariness, frequently beginning before the action of the main vb. Part. is either causal or temp. Impf. is progressive describing a vivid past action. οὕτως (# 4048) thus, so, either modifying the vb. ἐκαθέζετο or the part. κεκοπιακώς (Brown). ἐπί (# 2093) w. dat., upon; "upon the curbstone of the well" (RWP). ὡς (# 6055) w. numbers, about; (i.e., about noon, the natural time to rest while the sun was at its height [Bernard; BBC]). ◆ 7 ἔρχεται pres. ind. mid. (dep.) ἔρχομαι (# 2262) to come. Hist. pres. ἀντλῆσαι aor. act. inf. ἀντλέω (# 533) to draw. Inf. expresses the purp. of her coming. This is a polite request, yet with a note of urgency. πεῖν aor. act. inf. πίνω (# 4403) to drink. Compl. inf. to the main vb. giving the content of the request with the dir. object (water) understood. ◆ 8 ἀπεληλύθεισαν plperf. ind. act. ἀπέρχομαι (# 599) to go away. Plperf. describes the antecedent action of the disciples. They had left, leaving Jesus alone. ἀγοράσωσιν aor. subj. act. ἀγοράζω (# 60) to buy at the marketplace. (# 1639) to be. Part. in apposition to σύ. Concessive use of the part., "even though you are a Jew." The inherited suspicions and animosities were intensified when the Samaritan was a woman (Carson). According to the Mishnah a Cuthean (Samaritan) woman was considered completely unclean (M, Niddah 4:1). οὔσης pres. act. part. εἰμί to be. Part. used appositionally; pres. indicates a contemporaneous status, thus heightening the distinction between the two. συγχρῶνται pres. ind. act. συγχράομαι (# 5178) to have dealings w., to use together w.; s. D.R. Hall, "The Meaning of synchraomai in John 4,9," ET 83 (1972): 56-57. Jews do not use vessels w. Samaritans for fear of becoming unclean (Barrett; Morris; M, Niddah 4:1; SB, 1:538-60; D. Daube, "Jesus and the Samaritan Woman: The Meaning of συνχράομαι," JBL 69 [1950]: 137-47; Matt. 10:5). Customary or gnomic pres., indicating the Jewish custom. ◆ 10 ἀπεκρίθη aor. ind. pass. (dep.) ἀποκρίνομαι (# 646) to answer. ᾔδεις plperf. ind. act. of the def. perf. οἶδα (# 3857) to know. Ind. in a 2nd. class cond. cl. in which the speaker assumes the cond. is contrary to fact. δωρεά (# 1561) gift, donation. This could refer either to the Torah as God's gift, or better to eternal life which Christ will offer her (Carson). This deals with the legal aspect of the gift (TDNT). In a letter it refers to the Emperor's beneficium to the soldiers (MM). It could possibly be referring to Jesus himself, the gift of God, that is the one who is speaking to you (NIDNTT). ᾔτησας aor. ind. act. αἰτέω (# 160) to ask. Const. aor. describing the upcoming conversation. ἔδωκεν aor. ind. act. δίδωμι (# 1443) to give. ζῶν pres. act. part. ζάω (# 2409) to live; attributive use of the part. Part. describes an attribute of the water; that is, fresh, flowing water in contrast to brackish water from a cistern or a well, but also water creating and maintaining life (Barrett; Beasley-Murray; SB, 2:433-36). For the expression in DSS s. CD 19:34. There it means the law which is a well of living water. This expression often refers to YHWH and his salvation in the OT (Prov. 13:14; 18:4; Isa. 12:3; Jer. 2:13; 17:13). Jesus' request is only an opening to the rest of the conversation. Jesus focuses the conversation on three things: 1. Who is he? 2. What is the gift of God? 3. What is the living water? (Blum). Here the thirsty traveler becomes the true giver of thirst-quenching water (Becker). In light of SB, 2:433-36 it is tempting to view this water as the revelation brought by the Revealer (Becker) or the gift bestowed by the revelation (Beasley-Murray), i.e., the eternal life mediated by the Spirit (Carson). ◆ 11 κύριε (# 3261) sir; not christological, but a polite address. ἔχεις pres. ind. act. ἔχω (# 2400) to have. Progressive pres. indicating pres. possession here. ἄντλημα (# 534) bucket for drawing water. The response of the woman is controlled by her misunderstanding of the conversation (Beasley-Murray). φρέαρ (# 5853) well. βαθύ (# 960) deep. The well is still over 100 feet (30 m) deep. (Carson). οὖν (# 4036) therefore, then; the lack of the bucket and the depth of the well make it impossible to draw the desired water. Even the great patriarch Jacob had to use a bucket. ◆ 12 μή (# 3590) expecting a neg. reply. μείζων (# 3505) comp. μέγας great; comp., greater. πατρός gen. πατήρ (# 4252) father; gen. of comp. ἔδωκεν aor. ind. act. δίδωμι (# 1443) to give. Const. aor. viewing the action of giving as a whole. θρέμματα (# 2576) cattle. ἔπιεν aor. ind. act. πίνω (# 4403) to drink. Const. aor. viewing the action of drinking as a whole. ◆ 13 πίνων pres. act. part. πίνω s.v. 12. Attributive part. to describe a generalizing tendency. It is in apposition to πᾶς (# 4246) ("all who ...") (RG, 772). διψήσει fut. ind. act. διψάω (# 1498) to thirst, to be thirsty. Predictive fut. here describes what will certainly happen. Jesus means here nothing in the world offers one true satisfaction (Schlatter). ◆ 14 πίῃ aor. subj. act. πίνω s.v. 12. Subj. w. ἄν (# 323) generalizes: anyone who, anyone in general, without any particular individual in mind (EGGNT). οὗ (# 4005) rel. pron. has been attracted to the gen. of its antecedent. δώσω fut. ind. act. δίδωμι s.v. 12. Fut. gives the fut. cond. in which the following will be fulfilled. The water given by Jesus liberates because it is what one deeply longs for and fulfills human needs (Schlatter). This water satisfies the thirst for God (cf. Isa. 12:3; 55:1). γενήσεται fut. ind. mid. (dep.) γίνομαι (# 1181) to be, to become. The water that Jesus will give will change the person by becoming a spring itself. ἁλλομένου pres. mid. (dep.) part. ἅλλομαι (# 256) to spring up, leap. In simple apposition. Used of quick movement by living beings like jumping (Brown). εἰς (# 1650) could be understood to give the purp. or result. It could also give the goal of the water, leading the recipient to eternal life (Schlatter). ◆ 15 δός aor. imp. act. δίδωμι s.v. 12. Imp. is used as a request or entreaty. ἵνα (# 2671) gives the content or result of the preceding request. διψῶ pres. subj. act. διψάω s.v. 13. διέρχωμαι pres. subj. mid. (dep.) διέρχομαι (# 1451) to go, to come (BAGD). ἐνθάδε (# 1924) here. ἀντλεῖν pres. act. inf. ἀντλέω s.v. 7. Inf. gives the purp. of her coming to the well. ◆ 16 ὕπαγε pres. imp. act. ὑπάγω (# 5632) to go. Pres. imp. often is used to express an order involving motion (Bakker, 82). Here the imps. are dir. commands for the woman to follow. They are given in the necessary and chronological sequence. φώνησον aor. imp. act. φωνέω (# 5888) to call. Aor. imp. may have a note of urgency to it (EGGNT, 86). ἐλθέ aor. imp. act. ἔρχομαι (# 2262) to go. ◆ 17 ἀπεκρίθη aor. ind. pass. (dep.) ἀποκρίνομαι (# 646) to answer. καλῶς (# 2822) adv., well; used here in the sense of truthfully (EDNT). Jesus commends her formal truthfulness, while gently exposing the truth (Carson). ὅτι (# 4022) gives the content of her speech. ◆ 18 ἔσχες aor. ind. act. ἔχω (# 2400)

to have. Const. aor. viewing all five marriages as a whole. According to rabbinic teaching, a woman was to be married only twice or at most three times (SB, 2:437; C.M. Carmichel, "Marriage and the Samaritan Woman," NTS 26 [1980]: 332-46). ἀληθές acc. ἀληθής (# 239) truly. "This is a true thing" (RWP). εἴρηκας perf. ind. act. λέγω (# 3306) to say. Perf. emphasizes the completion of her speech and confession. ◆ 19 θεωρῶ pres. ind. act. θεωρέω (# 2555) to see, to perceive. προφήτης (# 4737) prophet. The word is used with a wide range of meaning. At this point it may not denote a full-orbed OT prophet or messianic figure (Carson), but prophetic quality (GGBB, 265-66). ◆ 20 προσεκύνησαν aor. ind. act. προσκυνέω (# 4686) to worship. Aor. views the entire process of worship ever since the establishment of the Samaritan temple or religion as one whole act. προσκυνεῖν pres. act. inf. Compl. inf. to the main vb. δεῖ (# 1256) pres. ind. act. it is necessary. R.J. Bull, "An Archaeological Context of Understanding John 4, 20," BA 38 (1975): 54-59. The different location in worship was a major difference between the Jews and Samaritans. For a discussion of the OT background s. Otto Betz, "'To Worship God in Spirit and Truth:' Reflections on John 4, 20-26," Standing before God: Studies on Prayer in Scripture and Tradition with Essays: Festschrift John M. Oesterreicher, KTAV, 1981, 53-72. ◆ 21 ὅτι (# 4022) indir. discourse or possibly causal. πίστευε pres. imp. act. πιστεύω (# 4409) to believe. Pres. imp. may have the notion of linear or continuing action (EGGNT). ὥρα (# 6052) hour. "The eschatological hour, initiating the new age of the kingdom of God–when worship of the Father will be tied to no place" (Beasley-Murray). προσκυνήσετε fut. ind. act. προσκυνέω s.v. 20. The conversation concerning the controversy of the location of worship should not be understood against the rival temple built in the Persian period and destroyed by John Hyrcanus in 128 B.C. ◆ 22 ὅτι (# 4022) because; causal. The question is what is it giving the reason to: just to the immediate cl. or to the two that precede. This then goes beyond the location of worship to the object of worship (Becker). σωτηρία (# 5401) deliverance, salvation. What is meant is that salvation is available through Jesus, who was born as fulfillment of the covenant with Abraham. Samaritans must participate in the salvation that comes from the Jews (TDNT; TLNT; NIDNTT; Carson). ◆ 23 ἔρχεται pres. ind. mid. (dep.) ἔρχομαι (# 2262) to go, to come. Futuristic pres. to emphasize the certainty of coming. ἀληθινός (# 240) true, genuine. προσκυνητής (# 4687) worshiper. προσκυνήσουσιν fut. ind. act. προσκυνέω s.v. 20. τοιούτους (# 5525) such, of such a kind. ζητεῖ pres. ind. act. ζητέω (# 2426) to seek. Continuous pres. emphasizing John's point that this type of worship is what God seeks at all times. Possibly progressive emphasizing that God is presently looking for such worshipers. προσκυνοῦντας pres. act. part. προσκυνέω to worship (TDNT; EDNT). ◆ 24 πνεῦμα (# 4460) spirit. The predicate without the art. emphasizes the character and nature (s. John 1:1; GGBB, 270). As a spirit he is not bound to a location as the Jews and Samaritans would have him bound. "God is invisible, life-giving and unknowable unless he chooses to reveal himself" (Carson). ἐν (# 1877) "in." Prep. gives the sphere or manner in which one must worship. προσκυνεῖν pres. act. inf. προσκυνέω s.v. 20. Compl. inf. to the impersonal δεῖ (# 1256). ◆ 25 ἔλθῃ aor. subj. act. ἔρχομαι s.v. 23. Subj. adds a degree of uncertainty ("whenever"). ἀναγγελεῖ fut. ind. act. ἀναγγέλλω (# 334) to announce. The word is used of the fresh and authoritative message of the advocate in John 16:13ff (Westcott). The Messiah is the supernatural person who will declare the divine truth to men (Barrett). This will be His recognizing trait. ◆ 26 λαλῶν pres. act. part. λαλέω (# 3281) to speak. Pres. emphasizes the ongoing action. Part. in simple apposition to ἐγώ ◆ 27 ἐπὶ τούτῳ (# 2093; 4047) this indicates a shift in the story with the return of the disciples (Becker). ἐθαύμαζον impf. ind. act. θαυμάζω (# 2513) to be astonished, to marvel. It denotes incredulous surprise (MM). Ingressive impf., "they began to wonder." The surprise arises because He was talking to a woman, which was held to be improper, esp. for a rabbi. One does not talk to a woman publicly on the street, not one's own wife, and particularly not to another woman, due to the gossip of the people (Schlatter; s. M, Aboth 1:5; b. Qidd. 70a; Moore, Judaism, 2:269f; SB, 2:438). ἐλάλει impf. ind. act. λαλέω s.v. 26. Durative impf. describing the whole conversation in the past tense. μέντοι (# 3530) really, actually. ◆ 28 ἀφῆκεν aor. ind. act. ἀφίημι (# 918) to leave. Const. aor. viewing the action as a whole. οὖν (# 4036) now. This should not be understood logically, but chronologically. ὑδρία (# 5620) water jar (BAGD). It must be fairly large, since in Gen. 24:14 it could provide enough water for camels to drink. She leaves her water bucket behind in haste. This indicates her desire to return; or perhaps it allows Jesus to drink from it (Schlatter). ◆ 29 δεῦτε (# 1307) adv. serving as hortatory particle: come! come on! (BAGD). ἴδετε aor. imp. act. ὁράω (# 3972) to see. Aor. imp. often has a sense of urgency, entreaty, command, a polite command. ἐποίησα aor. ind. act. ποιέω (# 4472) to do. Const. aor. viewing all her actions as a whole. This is consonant with the Samaritans' understanding of the "Taheb" as restorer and revealer of the truth (Beasley-Murray; BBC). μήτι (# 3614) not necessarily expecting a neg. answer, but rather a cautious, tentative opinion (Schnackenburg; M, 193). Χριστός (# 5986) for her Jesus is not just a prophet or the prophet, but the Messiah (Becker; DJG, 114-17). ◆ 30 ἐξῆλθον aor. ind. act. ἐξέρχομαι (# 2002) to go out.

Const. aor. viewing the action as a whole. ἤρχοντο impf. ind. mid. (dep.) ἔρχομαι (# 2262) to go. Impf. pictures the long procession as they approached Jesus (RWP), "they began coming." ◆ 31 ἐν τῷ μεταξύ (# 1877; 3590) in the meanwhile; that is, before the Samaritan villagers arrived (Bernard). Another indication of a shift in the story line. ἠρώτων impf. ind. act. ἐρωτάω (# 2263) to question, to ask. Impf. may suggest the very recent past or the action as still ongoing; or it may be incep. φάγε aor. imp. act. ἐσθίω (# 2266) to eat. Aor. imp. calls for a specific act w. a note of urgency. This section moves from the water for the woman to the bread for the disciples (Beasley-Murray). ◆ 32 βρῶσιν (# 1111) food, properly the process of eating but here synon. w. food (Barrett). φαγεῖν aor. act. inf. ἐσθίω s.v. 31. Here the inf. describes the purp. of having the bread. ◆ 33 ἀλλήλους acc. pl. ἀλλήλων (# 253) each other, a reciprocal pron. μή (# 3590) used in questions expecting the answer no. ἤνεγκεν aor. ind. act. φέρω (# 5770) to carry, to bring. ◆ 34 βρῶμα (# 1109) food. ἵνα (# 2671) does not express purp., but rather introduces a noun cl. used as subject or pred. nom. explaining what the food is (M, 208). A person lives from that for which he lives (Schlatter). πέμψαντος aor. act. part. πέμπω (# 4287) to send. τελειώσω aor. subj. act. τελειόω (# 5457) to accomplish, to finish, to bring to consummation; to complete, to bring to completion that work which was begun by the Father (BAGD; Schnackenburg). Subj. w. ἵνα (# 2671) cl. explaining what His food is. ◆ 35 τετράμηνος (# 5485) the fourth month. θερισμός (# 2546) harvest. Four months intervened between the end of sowing and the beginning of harvest (Barrett; s. also "The Gezer Calendar," ANET, 320; IBD, "Calendar"; ABD, 1:816-20). There is a question, whether this is a simple proverbial saying, or whether the saying describes the time of year (Becker; W.G.E. Watson, "Antecedents of a New Testament Proverb," VT 20 [1970]: 368-70). Usually the period between sowing and harvest was six months, but the interval from the latest date of sowing to the beginning of the harvest was four months (Beasley-Murray; SB, 2:439-40). Here the word is used in a fig. sense, indicating the spiritual readiness of the Samaritans. He had just sown the seed through his conversation with the woman; now the harvest is already at hand with the population streaming out of the city (Carson). ἐπάρατε aor. imp. act. ἐπαίρω (# 2048) to lift up. Imp. here is used as entreaty, inviting them to see that the fields are ready for the harvest. Aor. here indicates a note of urgency and a specific action (EGGNT, 86). θεάσασθε aor. imp. mid. (dep.) θεάομαι (# 2517) to look at, to contemplate (John 1:14). The disciples should not only see the people streaming out of the city, but contemplate the meaning and significance of this. χώρα (# 6001) field, open country (BAGD). Used here of people coming to Christ. λευκαί pl. λευκός (# 3328) white. Perhaps referring to the people in their white clothes (Morris). Jesus' work–to do the will of the one who sent him–cannot be postponed, since the harvest is now (Becker). ◆ 36 θερίζων pres. act. part. θερίζω (# 2545) to harvest. Subst. part. describing a man in his role as sower. The pres. suggests durative action. The harvest is already ongoing (Becker). μισθός (# 3635) reward, recompense. σπείρων pres. act. part. σπείρω (# 5062) to sow. ὁμοῦ (# 3938) together. Both should rejoice though each had a different responsibility, one at the end of the harvest, the other is necessary for its initiation. χαίρῃ pres. subj. act. χαίρω (# 5897) to rejoice. Subj. w. ἵνα (# 2671) expresses result. This proverb is used differently than in Lev. 26:10; Deut. 28:30; Mic. 6:15; Matt. 25:26, where it largely has a neg. connotation. Here it indicates the difference of roles in the service of the kingdom of God. Each worker may rejoice in the total harvest (Beasly-Murray). ◆ 37 ἐν τούτῳ (# 1877; 4047) in this. It may refer to the previous (v. 36) but more probably to the following (v. 38) (Barrett). ἀληθινός (# 240) true, dependable; here an accurate proverb in contrast to the previous one. ◆ 38 ἀπέστειλα aor. ind. act. ἀποστέλλω (# 690) to send, to send as an official and authoritative representative. Const. aor. viewing the action of sending as whole. This would include not only the actual sending out, but also the preparation and work. It refers to the general purp. of their calling (Carson). θερίζειν pres. act. inf. s.v. 36. Compl. inf. is giving the purp. of the sending. κεκοπιάκατε perf. ind. act. κοπιάω s.v. 6. Consummative perf. emphasizing the completion of the work antecedent to the time of sending. κόπος (# 3160) work, labor. εἰσεληλύθατε perf. ind. act. εἰσέρχομαι (# 1656) to go into, to enter into; used here in a fig. sense to come to enjoy; to enjoy the fruit of one's labor (BAGD). Consummative perf. emphasizing that the disciples have already been sent and are enjoying the fruit of the previous work. ◆ 39 ἐπίστευσαν aor. ind. act. πιστεύω (# 4409) to believe. Const. aor. emphasizes the action in its entirety; possibly an ingressive aor. emphasizing the entrance into the state or cond. This acceptance of Jesus as Christ by the Samaritans stands in sharp contrast to the rejection by the Pharisees (vv. 1-3). μαρτυρούσης pres. act. part. μαρτυρέω (# 3455) to give witness, to testify. She has joined John the Baptist in testifying to Jesus as the Messiah (Beasley-Murray). ἐποίησα aor. ind. act. ποιέω (# 4472) to do. Const. aor. viewing her life as a whole. ◆ 40 ἠρώτων impf. ind. act. ἐρωτάω (# 2263) to ask, to request. Iterat. impf., "they kept on asking him." μεῖναι aor. act. inf. μένω (# 3531) to remain. Compl. inf. giving the content of the request. ἔμεινεν aor. ind. act. μένω to remain. The following indicates that he stayed and taught about his person and his mission (Schlatter). A shocking action to the Jews then (BBC). ◆ 41 τὸν λόγον αὐτοῦ "his word." This is a further development from the reference to word of the woman in v. 39. Their belief is not based on a secondhand report, but a firsthand encounter. ◆ 42 λαλιά (# 3282) speech. Not in the sense of gossip but as human and outward speech about something (Schnackenburg). ἀκηκόαμεν perf. ind. act. ἀκούω (# 201) to hear. Consummative perf. emphasizes the previous report that was heard (past act) and accepted (present result). ἀληθῶς (# 242) truly, in the sense of certainly. This is great insight into the true nature of Christ, while the Pharisees rejected these claims (vv. 1-2). σωτὴρ τοῦ κόσμου (# 5400; 3180) "savior of the world." The term "savior of the world" often was used of the Roman emperor (LAE, 364f; TDNT; Craig R. Koester, "'The Savior of the World' (John 4:42)," JBL 109 [1990]: 665-80). The emphasis in this story is not on the woman or the Samaritans, but on the person of Christ. The Samaritans believed based on Deut. 18:15-18 promising another Moses to come and initiate divine favor. This is a title applied to Jesus in that he fulfills the hopes of the Samaritans, Jews, and the world of nations (Beasley-Murray; cf. John MacDonald, The Theology of the Samaritans [Philadelphia: Westminster, 1964], 365ff). ◆ 43 ἐξῆλθεν aor. ind. act. ἐξέρχομαι to go out (s.v. 30). Jesus and his disciples leave the Samaritan city of Sychar and continue on northward into Galilee, continuing the journey from 4:3. ◆ 44 ἐμαρτύρησεν aor. ind. act. μαρτυρέω to witness s.v. 39. πατρίδι dat. sing. πατρίς (# 4258) homeland, one's own part of the country (BAGD). For a discussion of the word s. Carson. ◆ 45 οὖν (# 4036) then, therefore (DM, 253f). ἦλθεν aor. ind. act. ἔρχομαι (# 2262) to go, to come. Const. aor. describing the total journey. ἐδέξαντο aor. ind. mid. (dep.) δέχομαι (# 1312) to receive, to welcome. Const. aor. describing the reception as a whole. ἑωρακότες perf. act. part. ὁράω (# 3972) to see. Perf. part. often refers to recent events in John (JG, 366; # 2506). ἐποίησεν aor. ind. act. ποιέω (# 4472) to do, to make. Const. aor. describing the ministry as a whole. ἑορτῇ (# 2038) feast; here referring to the Passover (BAGD). ◆ 46 βασιλικός (# 997) belonging to the king, royal officer. Either a person of royal blood or a servant of the king (Brown); perhaps here an official in the army of Herod Agrippa (Beasley-Murray), since the term describes the soldiers of King Mithridates (BAGD); s. also A.H. Mead, "The βασιλικός in John 4:46-53," JSNT 23 (1985): 69-72. ἠσθένει impf. ind. act. ἀσθενέω (# 820) to be sick. Prog. impf. indicates the vivid past or perhaps that the illness is still going on. ◆ 47 ἀκούσας aor. act. part. ἀκούω (# 201) to hear. Temp. use of the circum. part., "when he heard." The journey from Capernaum to Cana was about 18 miles (Becker). ἠρώτα impf. ind. act. s.v. 31. Incep. impf. ("began to ask") or iterat. impf. ("asked repeatedly"). The vb. occurs here in the sense of petition, not in the sense to ask a question (Schlatter; MM). ἵνα (# 2671) w. subj. gives the content of the request. καταβῇ aor. subj. act. καταβαίνω (# 2849) to go down, to descend; used to indicate a direction away from Jerusalem. ἰάσηται aor. subj. mid. (dep.) ἰάομαι (# 2615) to heal. This is the actual purp. of his coming and the request. ἤμελλεν impf. ind. act. μέλλω (# 3516) to be about to, w. inf. ("was going to die," "was at point of death"). For the use of the inf. to express futurity reckoned from a moment in the past s. MKG, 307. ◆ 48 σημεῖον (# 4956) sign (John 2:11). τέρατα pl. τέρας (# 5469) wonder. Directs attention to the miraculous, but in the NT the word is not used alone (Morris). ἴδητε aor. subj. act. ὁράω (# 3972) to see. Subj. occurs to express uncertainty in the cond. His faith required the support of sight (Westcott). πιστεύσητε aor. subj. act. πιστεύω (# 4409) to believe. The pl. indicates the individual was representative of a whole class (Bernard). ◆ 49 κατάβηθι aor. imp. act. καταβαίνω (# 2849) to go down. The word does not necessarily mean a small child. ◆ 50 πορεύου pres. imp. mid. (dep.) sing. πορεύομαι (# 4513) to go, to travel. Pres. imp. emphasizes the durative nature of the journey. ζῇ pres. ind. act. ζάω (# 2409) to live; Semitic, covering both recovery from illness and return to life from death (Brown). Pres. is futuristic indicating the certainty of the healing. ἐπίστευσεν aor. ind. act. πιστεύω (# 4409) to believe. His belief consisted of thinking that Jesus can heal even from a distance. λόγῳ dat. λόγος (# 3364) word. Here the object of the faith is the revelation of Christ. Here is an example of a positive response in faith to the revelation of Christ through a sign. ἐπορεύετο impf. ind. mid. (dep.) πορεύομαι to travel. This is the outward expression of his faith in Christ's revelation. ◆ 51 καταβαίνοντος pres. act. part. καταβαίνω s.v. 49. An adj. modifying an understood noun, such as gate or market. This allows for κολυμβήθρα (# 3148) (diving pool, sheep pool) to be nom. (Carson). For a discussion of the variant see Barrett; TC, 207-208. For the identification as the pool of St. Anne s. Aor. imp. calls for a specific act and has a note of urgency. κράβαττος (# 3187) mat, pallet, mattress used by the poor as bedding (Brown; MM). The command to carry the light mat shows the completeness of the healing (Carson). περιπάτει pres. imp. act. περιπατέω (# 4344) to walk about. Incep. impf., "he began to walk about." σάββατον (# 4879) Sabbath (ABD, 5:853-56). The exegetical significance is not just a chronological statement, but that healing on the Sabbath caused controversy. The carrying does not contradict the OT law, but does break the tradition of the elders (Carson; BBC; DJG, 716-19, 218-19; SB, 2:454-61; Matt. 12:2). ◆ 10 τεθεραπευμένῳ perf. pass. part. θεραπεύω (# 2543) to treat medically, to heal. was no longer visible to the man healed (BAGD). ὄντος pres. act. part. (causal) εἰμί (# 1639) to be. Gen. abs., "because there was a crowd in the place." (JG, 84). ◆ 14 μετὰ ταῦτα after these things; after the Jewish leaders had interrogated the man; no specific time is in mind. ἴδε (# 2623) aor. imp. act. ὁράω to see. γέγονας perf. ind. act. γίνομαι (# 1181) to become. He reported to the officials the name of the one who healed him (BAGD). ποιήσας aor. act. part. s.v. 11. ◆ 16 διὰ τοῦτο (# 1328; 4047) because of this; because the man identified the healer as Jesus. ἐδίωκον impf. ind. act. διώκω (# 1503) to persecute. Incep. impf., "they began to persecute." There is a marked shift here from a simple hesitation about Christ to a controversy and ultimately an official rejection of Christ (Carson, 240). ἐποίει impf. ind. act. ποιέω to do. Impf. could be incep. (Morris) or better, customary: "he was in the habit of doing" (Westcott). ◆ 17 ἀπεκρίνατο aor. ind. mid. (dep.) s.v. 7. The mid. indicates a legal force, to make answer to the charge, to make a defense (Morris; MM). Even though the opponents' statements are not mentioned, the answer should be viewed as a response to these charges (Carson). The response indicates that the charges against the man of carrying his bed were only a pretense to the real charge of Jesus healing on the Sabbath (Becker). The basis of the answer is that while God's creative activity ceased after 6 days, his activity of rewarding and punishing did not (Haenchen). ◆ 18 ἐζήτουν impf. ind. act. ζητέω (# 2426) to seek. Impf. is either progressive, indicating the action in progress, or iterat.: "they kept on seeking to kill him." ἀποκτεῖναι aor. act. inf. ἀποκτείνω (# 650) to kill. Inf. indicates the purp. of the searching and complements the main vb. ἔλυεν impf. ind. act. λύω (# 3395) to loose, to break, in the sense of disregarding their traditions. ἴσος (# 2698) equal. He claims to be God. ποιῶν pres. act. part. ποιέω (# 4472) to do. In rabbinic teaching a rebellious son is said to make himself equal w. his father (Lightfoot). Breaking the Law concerning the Sabbath was serious, but claiming God as his own Father was blasphemy (Carson). ◆ 19 ποιεῖν pres. act. inf. ποιέω s.v. 18. βλέπῃ pres. subj. act. βλέπω (# 1063) to see. ποιοῦντα pres. act. part. ποιέω to do. ποιῇ pres. subj. act. ποιέω to do. Subj. w. ἄν (# 323) for a generalizing tendency. Perfect Sonship involves perfect identity of will and action with the Father (Westcott; s. Isa. 42:1). ◆ 20 γάρ (# 1142) for. Explains how the Son can do the Father's will (Carson). φιλεῖ pres. ind. act. φιλέω (# 5797) to love; from the original meaning, "treat someone as one of their own" developed the meaning, "the natural inclination to a relative, love for a relative"; then the meaning, "to love" (TDNT; TLNT; Brown; 3:16). Pres. indicates the ongoing love of the Father for the Son. δείκνυσιν pres. ind. act. δείκνυμι (# 1259) to show, to demonstrate. μείζονα (# 3505) comp. μέγας large, great; comp., greater. τούτων gen. of comp., w. ἔργα referring to the healings. θαυμάζητε pres. subj. act. θαυμάζω (# 2513) to be astonished, to wonder. Subj. w. ἵνα (# 2671) to express purp. ◆ 21 γάρ (# 1142) for. Introduces an illustration of the principal of vv. 19-20 (Carson). ἐγείρει pres. ind. act. ἐγείρω (# 1586) to raise. ζῳοποιεῖ pres. ind. act. ζῳοποιέω (# 2443) to make alive. There seems to be a play on words here. Just as the Father physically gives life to the dead so the Son gives spiritual life to the spiritually dead. This was an activity belonging exclusively to God and may be anticipatory of John 11 (Carson). ◆ 22 δέδωκεν perf. ind. act. δίδωμι (# 1443) to give; in the sense of granting authority. Resultative perf. stressing the pres. results of the Son's authority due to the Father's past action. ◆ 23 τιμῶσι pres. subj. act. τιμάω (# 5506) to honor. Subj. w. ἵνα (# 2671) to express result, possibly purp. τιμῶν pres. act. part. τιμάω to honor. Subst. part. Pres. used to describe a trait or attitude. πέμψαντα aor. act. part. πέμπω (# 4287) to send. Adj. part. to describe the past actions of the Father sending the Son. Perf. indicates the completed state; the believer has passed into eternal life which begins here (Bernard). The place from which and to which is given with ἐκ (# 1666) and εἰς (# 1650) (BAGD; s. 1 John 3:14). Part of the Son's mission is to bring both life and judgment. ◆ 25 ἀκούσουσιν fut. ind. act. ἀκούω s.v. 24, to hear and do, to be obedient as commonly used in the OT (Barrett); to hear and to appropriately act upon what has been heard. There is a double reference here to the physically dead and the spiritually dead. Just as Jesus healed by his word, so he makes those alive by his word (Carson). ἀκούσαντες aor. act. part. ἀκούω to hear. ζήσουσιν fut. ind. act. ζάω (# 2437)

to live. Refers to the spiritually dead being made alive (Tasker). ◆ 26 ὥσπερ ... οὕτως "just as . . . so also"; explicates the comp. between the Father and the Son. ἔδωκεν aor. ind. act. δίδωμι (# 1443) to give. ἔχειν pres. act. inf. ἔχω (# 2400) to have. Compl. inf. to the main vb. ◆ 27 κρίσιν ποιεῖν to execute judgment. Compl. inf. to the main vb. ἔδωκεν. ὅτι because. υἱὸς ἀνθρώπου Son of Man (DJG, 775-81). Without the art. emphasizing humanity or equal to the expression w. the art. (Morris). Here the concept of the Son of God in the previous discussion (vv. 19-26) is expanded. ◆ 28 θαυμάζετε pres. imp. act. θαυμάζω (# 2513) to wonder, to be astonished. w. the neg. μή (# 3590) prohibits an action in progress. μνημείον (# 3646) grave; this strengthens the contrast between the physically and spiritually dead. Those who are physically dead obey the Son while those who are spiritually dead do not. ἀκούσουσιν pres. act. part. ἀκούω s.v. 24. Subst. part. Here used in the sense of "obey." ◆ 29 ἐκπορεύσονται fut. ind. mid. (dep.) ἐκπορεύομαι (# 1744) to go out. ποιήσαντες aor. act. part. ποιέω (# 4472) to do; to practice virtue (BAGD). Aor. describes the antecedent action, here the fulfilling of a cond. ἀνάστασις (# 414) resurrection. The following gen. is result or purp. φαῦλος (# 5765) bad, worthless. πράξαντες aor. act. part. πράσσω (# 4556) to do. Subst. part. The two parts. describe the two types of individuals and their ensuing destinies. ◆ 30 δίκαιος (# 1465) righteous, corresponding to God's standard. πέμψαντος aor. act. part. πέμπω to send s.v. 23. The authority of passing judgment is derived from the sending agent, the Father Himself. ◆ 31 ἀληθής (# 239) true, genuine in the sense of legally acceptable. The legal principle here is from Deut. 19:15 where man can not be convicted of a crime on the testimony of one witness (Brown; s. also M, Kethoboth, 2:9; SB, 2:227-29.). For a structure of the discourse s. U.C. von Wahlde, "Literary Structure and Theological Argument in Three Discourses with the Jews in the Fourth Gospel," JBL 103 (1984): 575-84. ◆ 32 ἄλλος (# 257) another. Not the Baptist, but the Father (Barrett). μαρτυρῶν pres. act. part. μαρτυρέω (# 3455) to witness. Used substantivally to emphasize the person witnessing. Def. perf. w. pres. meaning. ◆ 33 ἀπεστάλκατε perf. ind. act. ἀποστέλλω (# 690) to send, to send as an authoritative representative. The reference is to the religious leaders who examined John the Baptist (s. John 1:19-27). Now Jesus offers corroborative evidence for his claim, namely the following witnesses: John the Baptist (33-35); God the Father (36-38); and the Scriptures (39-47) (Carson). μεμαρτύρηκεν perf. ind. act. μαρτυρέω (# 3455) to witness. Perf. indicates the testimony of John still has value (Brown). Those of Qumran considered themselves as witnesses of the truth and sons of the truth (1QS 8:6; 4:5; 1QM 17:8; 1QH 6:29). τῇ ἀληθείᾳ (# 237) dat. of interest; if the truth refers to the person of Christ. It can refer to his testimony of the Coming One or to his testimony that Jesus is the truth (Haenchen). ◆ 34 σωθῆτε aor. subj. pass. σῴζω (# 5392) to save, to rescue. The pass. may express divine agency. Subj. w. ἵνα (# 2671) to express purp. ◆ 35 λύχνος (# 3394) lamp (Matt. 5:15). A hypocatastasis referring to John the Baptist. Thus he combines the themes of witness and light. He is not the light but a lightbearer, suggesting that his light was from a higher source (Carson). καιόμενος pres. pass. part. καίω (# 2794) to light; pass. to burn. The emphasis is on the process and result of the light burning (BAGD). Adj. part. to describe the activity of the lamp. Pres. indicates the ongoing testimony of John the Baptist. φαίνων pres. act. part. φαίνω (# 5743) to shine, to give light, to be bright (BAGD) ἠθελήσατε aor. ind. act. θέλω (# 2527) to wish, to want to. Predicate acc. γάρ (# 1142) for. The miracles Christ has done are greater than the testimony of John. They are part of the Father's testimony (Carson). Thus they constitute two witnesses, the Father and the works themselves (Becker). δέδωκεν perf. ind. act. δίδωμι (# 1443) to give. The consummative perf. emphasizes the completion of the Father giving the Son specific tasks to accomplish. τελειώσω aor. subj. act. τελειόω (# 5457) to complete. Corresponding to the Heb. t.t. used by the rabbis and in the Qumran literature for the study of the Scripture (Schnackenburg; Sir. 17:11; 45:5; Bar. 4:1; Pss. Sol. 14:1f; Becker). ὅτι (# 4022) because. μαρτυροῦσαι pres. act. part. nom. fem. pl. μαρτυρέω s.v. 37. ◆ 1 ἄμπελος (# 306) vine. For the Jewish symbol of the vine s. Barrett; Hoskyns; DJG, 867-68. ἀληθινός (# 240) true, genuine; cf. Isa. 5:1-2, 7; Hos. 10:1; Jer. 2:21; Ezek. 15; Ps. 80:9-12, 15f; Lev Rabba 36: 2; SB, 2:563. This is one of the most prized of plants and thus represents the most privileged among nations and men. It is also emphasized by being placed after the emphatic ἐγώ εἰμι and by the use of the adj. following the noun (Schnackenburg). This refers to the idea of a fruitful Israel obedient to God. For a description of the vine as the temple representing Israel s. Josephus, Ant.,15:11:3; JW, 5:5:4; 5:20; Tacitus, Historiae, 5:5. γεωργός (# 1177) farmer, one who tills soil. Refers here in a specialized way to a vinedresser (Brown). G.S. A method of viticulture consisted of training the vines on trellises, poles, or trees (4-6 feet high), which provided a canopy-like form (Columella, Book 4, 18-19). Whether poles or trees were used, grapes grown this way were easier to harvest since the bunches hung down from the vine and hence were more accessible (ANEP, fig. 19). To train the vine for maximum yield the vinedresser had to prune (זמר) excessive branches (Num. 13:23). The time of pruning was after the winter was over, usually during the fall before the vines became dormant. It involved cutting into the wood. This needed to be done in the fall lest there be new vegetative growth at the cut (Columella, Book 4, 6:5). For the first five years, the plant needed the fall pruning every year; thereafter only every third year (Columella, Book 4, 6:5). πλείονα comp. πολύς (# 4498) much; comp., greater, more. φέρῃ pres. subj. act. φέρω to carry, used fig., to bear. Here it indicates the courthouse (LC). Every eighth day for the Romans was a market day called Nundinae ("ninth-day affairs"), during which court was held (LLAR, 58-65; 79-81; FCRR, 42-50). Business was conducted from early morning till midday, with courts beginning around 9:00 A.M. (LLAR, 24). ἄρχοντας acc. pl. ἄρχων (# 807) ruler, magistrate. A general Greek name for the magistrates of a city (Gill, "Macedonia," BAFCS, 2:412). For their function in a Roman colony s. LC; Sherwin-White, 74f. ◆ 20 προσαγαγόντες aor. act. part. (temp.) προσάγω (# 4642) to lead to. στρατηγός (# 5130) leader of an army, general, city official. The author uses the most common Hellenistic title to render the untranslatable term duoviri (Sherwin-White, 93; Gill, "Macedonia," BAFCS, 2:412). After the pattern of the consuls at Rome, the chief magistrates of a Roman colony were two in number and their official title was duoviri ("the two men"). They were attended by two lictores (s.v. 35) who carried bundles of rods called virgae which were symbols of their right to use physical coercion or corporal punishment (Rackham; BAFCS, 3:123-24; P, 193-99). εἶπαν aor. ind. act. λέγω (# 3306) to say. ἐκταράσσουσιν pres. ind. act. ἐκταράσσω (# 1752) to trouble, to agitate, to throw into confusion. The prep. compound is perfective, "to cause utter confusion" (MH, 309). Pres. indicates a continual action. ὑπάρχοντες pres. act. part. (adj.) s.v. 3. ◆ 21 καταγγέλλουσιν pres. ind. act. s.v. 17. ἔθη acc. pl. ἔθος (# 1621) custom. ἔξεστιν (# 2003) pres. ind. act. it is lawful; impersonal use, it is allowed, w. inf. παραδέχεσθαι pres. mid. (Sherwin-White, 78-83; P, 189-93). Since Paul was a Jew, the charges may reflect an awareness of Claudius' recent edict and the Roman soldiers refusal to observe Jewish rituals (BAFCS,

3:117-18). οὖσιν pres. act. part. (adj.) εἰμί s.v. 1. ◆ 22 συνεπέστη aor. ind. act. συνεφίστημι (# 5308) to rise up together, to join in an attack (BAGD). (temp.) περιρήγνυμι (# 4351) to strip off all around. The magistrates had the clothes of the apostles torn off (Bruce). ἐκέλευον impf. ind. act. κελεύω (# 3027) to command. The beating w. rods (Latin verberatio), a means of police coercion, was done by the lictors (s.v. 35) and could be a cruel, bloody process w. lethal results (TDNT; KP, 5:1186; s. H. Last, "Coercitio," RAC, 3:235-43; BAFCS, 3:124-25). The punishment was considered appropriate for those causing civic disturbance (BAFCS, 3:125). The Lex Porciae de Tergo Civium prohibited the scourging of Roman citizens without appeal (OCD, 604; BAFCS, 3:47-56). Perhaps Paul did not claim his rights as a Roman citizen at this time because he feared delay in checking his claim and, most of all, because it would have compromised his Jewishness, his Gospel message, and the young church at Philippi (BAFCS, 3:129-34). ◆ 23 ἐπιθέντες aor. act. part. (temp.) ἐπιτίθημι (# 2202) to lay on. ἔβαλον aor. ind. act. βάλλω (# 965) to throw. φυλακή (# 5871) place of guarding, prison. He may have been a military officer, a retired soldier, or a public slave (BAFCS, 3:261-63; for prison personnel s. BAFCS, 3:244-61; CIC, 86-89; Pliny, the Younger, Letter 10). The comp. has perhaps superl. force ("innermost") (Bruce). The first part of a Roman prison (communiora) had light and fresh air; the second part (interiora) was shut off by iron gates; the third part (tullianum) was a dungeon where those who had committed the most serious crimes and those of the lowest level of society were kept awaiting execution (CH, 234; DGRA, 240-41; BAFCS, 3:20-22, 126). ἠσφαλίσατο aor. ind. mid. (dep.) ἀσφαλίζω (# 856) to make safe, to secure, to guard someone so that he cannot escape (BAGD). ξύλον (# 3833) acc. sing. wood, stock. A Roman instrument of torture w. more than two holes for the legs so that they could be forced widely apart into a position which soon became intolerably painful. One of the abiding hallmarks of life in prison was darkness. Nightfall robbed the prisoner of what little light there was and at midnight there was total darkness (BAFCS, 3:199-200). Since business was concluded generally by noon, Paul and Silas had been beaten in the morning and held in the inner prison in stocks, unable to move their legs, for about 12 hours. προσευχόμενοι pres. mid. (dep.) part. (circum.) προσεύχομαι (# 4667) to pray. ὕμνουν impf. ind. act. ὑμνέω (# 5630) to sing a hymn of praise addressed directly to God (Trench, Synonyms, 297; TDNT; EDNT; NIDNTT, 3:668-70). The joyful hymns were for praise, not release, and their stark contrast to the distress, complaint and/or anxious petition which might be expected was a witness to those in the prison (BAFCS, 3:339). Impf. pictures continual singing. ἐπηκροῶντο impf. ind. mid. (dep.) ἐπακροάομαι (# 2053) to listen to, w. the probable implication of one's own interest (LN, 1:283), w. gen.
