816. אָשָׁם {35x} ʾâsham, aw-sham'; or

אָשֵׁם ʾâshêm, aw-shame'; a prim. root; to be guilty; by impl. to be punished or perish:—guilty {14x}, desolate {6x}, offend {6x}, trespass {4x}, certainly {1x}, destroy {1x}, faulty {1x}, greatly {1x}, offence {1x}. See: TWOT—180; BDB—79c.

817. אָשָׁם {46x} ʾâshâm, aw-shawm'; from 816; guilt; by impl. a fault; also a sin-offering:—trespass offering {34x}, trespass {8x}, offering for sin {1x}, sin {2x}, guiltiness {1x}.

Asham means "guilt offering; offense; guilt; gift of restitution; gift of atonement." (1) The noun asham occurs 46 times in biblical Hebrew; 33 of its occurrences are in the Pentateuch. (2) The most frequent meaning of the word is "guilt offering": "And he shall bring his trespass [guilt] offering unto the LORD for his sin which he hath sinned" (Lev 5:6). (3) This specialized kind of sin offering (Lev 5:7) was to be offered when someone had been denied what was due to him. (4) The valued amount defrauded was to be repaid plus 20 percent (Lev 5:16; 6:5). (5) Ritual infractions and periods of leprosy and defilement took from God a commodity or service rightfully belonging to Him and required repayment plus restitution. (6) Every violation of property rights required paying full reparation and the restitution price (20 percent) to the one violated as well as presenting the guilt offering to God as the LORD of all (i.e., as a feudal lord over all). (7) If the offended party was dead, reparation and restitution were made to God (i.e. given to the priests; Num 5:5–10).

(8) Usually the "guilt offering" consisted of a ram (Lev 5:15) or a male lamb. (8a) The offerer presented the victim, laying his hands on it. (8b) The priest sprinkled its blood around the altar, burned the choice parts on the altar, and received the rest as food (Lev 7:2–7). (8c) When a cleansed leper made this offering, blood from the sacrifice was applied to the man's right ear, right thumb, and right big toe (Lev 14:14). (9) In some passages, asham is used of an offense against God and the guilt incurred by it: "And Abimelech said, What is this thou hast done unto us? One of the people might lightly have lain with thy wife, and thou shouldest have brought guiltiness upon us" (Gen 26:10—the first occurrence). There is an added sense here that the party offended would punish the perpetrator of the crime. (10) In two verses (Num 5:7–8), asham represents the repayment made to one who has been wronged: "Then they shall confess their sin which they have done: and he shall recompense his trespass with the principal thereof, and add unto it the fifth part thereof, and give it unto him against whom he hath trespassed." (10a) In the Hebrew the word is the value of the initial thing taken from the injured party, which value is to be returned to him, i.e., the reparation or restitution itself. (10b) This basic idea is extended so that the word comes to mean a gift made to God to remove guilt (1 Sa 6:3), or atone for sin (Is 53:10) other than the specified offerings to be presented at the altar.

(11) The noun implies the condition of guilt incurred through some wrongdoing (Gen 26:10); asham refers (12) to the compensation given to satisfy an injured party [trespass offering or guilt offering] (12a) presented on the altar by the repentant offender (12b) after paying a compensation of six-fifths of the damage inflicted (Num 5:7– 8). The trespass offering was (12c) the blood sacrifice of a ram (Lev 5:18; Lev 7:5, 7; 14:12–13). (13) The most significant theological statement containing asham is Is 53:10, which says that the servant of Yahweh was appointed as an asham for sinful mankind; suggesting that His death furnished a 120-percent compensation for the broken law of God. (14) It also is offense against God and the guilt incurred thereby (Gen 26:10). Syn. 801, 4503, 5927, 5030, 7133, 8641. See: TWOT—180b; BDB—79d.

825. אַשָּׁף {2x} ʾashshâph, ash-shawf'; from an unused root (prob. mean. To lisp, i.e. practice enchantment); a conjurer:—astrologer {2x}.

Ashshaph means "enchanter." (1) The noun appears only twice in biblical Hebrew, and only in the Book of Daniel. (2) The vocation of ashipu is known from earliest times in the Akkadian (Old Babylonian) society. It is not clear whether the ashipu was an assistant to a particular order of Babylonian priests (mashmashu) or an order parallel in function to the mashmashu order. In either case, the ashipu offered incantations to deliver a person from evil magical forces (demons). The sick often underwent actual surgery while the incantations were spoken. (3) In the Bible, ashshaph first occurs in Dan 1:20: "And as for every matter of wisdom and understanding about which the king consulted them he found them ten times better than all the magicians and enchanters who were in his realm." See: TWOT—181; BDB—80b, 1083b.

834. אֲשֶׁר {111x} ʾăsher, ash-er'; a prim. rel. pron. (of every gender and number); who, which, what, that; also (as adv. and conjunc.) when, where, how, because, in order that, etc.:—which, wherewith, because, when, soon, whilst, as if, as when, that, until, much, whosoever, whereas, wherein, whom, whose = {111x}. See: TWOT—184; BDB—81c, 84a, 455b, 606b, 758a, 774d, 775c, 979b, 979d, 980a, 1083d, 1087.

835. אֶשֶׁר {45x} ʾesher, eh'-sher; from 833; happiness; only in masc. plur. constr. as interj., how happy!:—blessed {27x}, happy {18x}.

Esher (835) means "blessed; happy." (1) All but 4 of the 44 biblical occurrences of this noun are in poetical passages, with 26 occurrences in the Psalms and 8 in Proverbs. (2) Basically, this word connotes the state of "prosperity" or "happiness" that comes when a superior bestows his favor (blessing) on one. (2a) In most passages, the one bestowing favor is God Himself: "Happy art thou, O Israel: who is like unto thee, O people saved by the LORD" (Deut 33:29). (2b) The state that the blessed one enjoys does not always appear to be "happy": "Behold, happy is the man whom God correcteth: therefore despise not thou the chastening of the Almighty: for he maketh sore, and bindeth up" (Job 5:17–18). Eliphaz was not describing Job's condition as a happy one; it was "blessed," however, inasmuch as God was concerned about him. Because it was a blessed state and the outcome would be good, Job was expected to laugh at his adversity (Job 5:22).

(3) God is not always the one who makes one "blessed." At least, the Queen of Sheba flatteringly told Solomon that this was the case (1 Kin 10:8). (4) One's status before God (being "blessed") is not always expressed in terms of the individual or social conditions that bring what moderns normally consider to be "happiness." (5) So although it is appropriate to render esher as "blessed," the rendering of "happiness" does not always convey its emphasis to modern readers. Syn.: 833, 1288, 1293. See: TWOT—183a; BDB—80d.

836. אָשֵׁר {43x} ʾÂshêr, aw-share'; from 833; happy; Asher, a son of Jacob, and the tribe descended from him, with its territory; also a place in Pal.:—Asher {43x}. See: BDB—81a.

842. אֲשֵׁרָה {40x} ʾăshêrâh, ash-ay-raw'; or אֲשֵׁירָה ʾăshêyrâh, ash-ay-raw'; from 833; happy; Asherah (or Astarte) a Phœnician goddess; also an image of the same:—grove {40x}.

Asheyrah is transliterated "Asherah, Asherim (pl.)." (1) This noun first appears in the Bible in passages anticipating the settlement in Palestine. (2) The word's most frequent appearances, however, are usually in historical literature. Of its 40 appearances, 4 are in Israel's law code, 4 in Judges, 4 in prophetic books, and the rest are in 1 Kings and 2 Chronicles. (3) Asheyrah refers to a cultic object representing the presence of the Canaanite goddess Asherah. (3a) When the people of Israel entered Palestine, they were to have nothing to do with the idolatrous religions of its inhabitants. (3b) Rather, God said, "But ye shall destroy their altars, break their images, and cut down their groves [asherim]" (Ex 34:13). (4) This cult object was manufactured from wood (Judg 6:26; 1 Kin 14:15) and it could be burned (Deut 12:3). Some scholars conclude that it was a sacred pole set up near an altar to Baal. Since there was only one goddess with this name, the plural (asherim) probably represents her several "poles."

(5) Asherah signifies the name of the goddess herself: "Now therefore send, and gather to me all Israel unto mount Carmel, and the prophets of Baal four hundred and fifty, and the prophets of the groves [asherah] four hundred, which eat at Jezebel's table" (1 Kin 18:19). (6) The Canaanites believed that Asherah ruled the sea, was the mother of all the gods including Baal, and sometimes was his deadly enemy. Apparently, the mythology of Canaan maintained that Asherah was the consort of Baal, who had displaced El as their highest god. Thus her sacred objects (poles) were immediately beside altars to Baal, and she was worshiped along with him. Syn.: comp. 6253. See: TWOT—183h; BDB—81b.

Be'er means "pit; well." (1) This word appears 37 times in the Bible with no occurrences in the Old Testament prophetic books. (2) Be'er means a "well" in which there may be water. (2a) By itself the word does not always infer the presence of water. (2b) The word refers to the "pit" itself whether dug or natural: "And Abraham reproved Abimelech because of a well of water, which Abimelech's servants had violently taken away" (Gen 21:25). (2c) Such a "well" may have a narrow enough mouth that it can be blocked with a stone which a single strong man could move (Gen 29:2, 10). (2d) In the desert country of the ancient Near East a "well" was an important place and its water the source of deep satisfaction for the thirsty. This concept pictures the role of a wife for a faithful husband (Prov 5:15). (3) A "pit" may contain something other than water. In its first biblical appearance be'er is used of tar pits: "And the vale of Siddim was full of slimepits" (Gen 14:10). (4) A "pit" may contain nothing as does the "pit" which becomes one's grave (Ps 55:23, "pit of the grave"). (5) In some passages the word was to represent more than a depository for the body but a place where one exists after death (Ps 69:15). 899. בֶּגֶד {217x} beged, behg'-ed; from 898; a covering, i.e. clothing; also treachery or pillage:—garment {107x}, clothes {69x}, cloth {13x}, raiment {12x}, apparel {4x}, robe {4x}, wardrobe {2x}, very {2x}, clothing {1x}, lap {1x}, rags {1x}, vestures {1x}.

Beged means "garment; covering; cloth; blanket; saddlecloth." (1) The word signifies any kind of "garment" or "covering," usually for human wear. (2) Beged first appears in Gen 24:53: "And the servant brought forth jewels of silver, and jewels of gold, and raiment, and gave them to Rebekah." (2a) Here the word represents "garments made of precious materials." (2b) The "garments" of widows, on the other hand, must have been quite common and valueless (Gen 38:14). (2c) Certainly mourners' "garments" must have been very plain, if not torn (2 Sa 14:2). (3) Beged sometimes refers to "outer garments." (3a) Thus in 2 Kin 7:15, the Syrian soldiers who fled from Jerusalem left behind their "clothes" and equipment; they left behind everything that would hinder their escape. (3b) Surely this did not include their essential "clothing." (4) In Judg 14:12, however, the word is distinguished from linen wrappings ("outer garments")—Samson promised the Philistines that if they would solve his riddle, he would give them "thirty linen sheets and thirty change of garments" (cf. Judg 17:10).

(5) The "holy garments" Moses was commanded to make for Aaron included everything he was to wear while officiating before the Lord: "A breastplate, and an ephod, and a robe, and an embroidered coat, a mitre, and a sash; and they shall make holy garments for Aaron" (Ex 28:4). (6) In passages such as Num 4:6, beged means "covering," in the sense of a large flat piece of cloth material to be laid over something: "And [they] shall put thereon the covering of badgers' skins, and shall spread over it a cloth wholly of blue." (7) When put over people, such clothes were probably "blankets": "Now king David was old and stricken in years; and they covered him with clothes, but he gat no heat" (1 Kin 1:1). (8) When put over beasts, such coverings were "saddlecloths" (Eze 27:20). Syn.: 3801, 3847, 4403, 8008, 8071. See: TWOT—198a; BDB—93d.

Bad (905) means "part; portion; limbs; piece of cloth; pole; shoot; alone; by themselves; only; apart from; besides; aside from." (1) First, bad means a "part or portion" of something. (1a) In Ex 30:34 it refers to the portion or amount of spices mixed together to make incense for the worship of God. (1b) In Job 18:13 the word represents the members or parts of the wicked (cf. Job 41:12—"limbs" of a crocodile). (2) Second, the word means a piece of cloth: (2a) "And thou shalt make them linen breeches to cover their nakedness" (Ex 28:42—first occurrence of this nuance). (2b) This word is always used of a priestly garment or at least of a garment worn by one who appears before God or His altar. (3) Third, bad can mean a long piece of wood or woody material. (3a) The ark, altars, and table of the Bread of the Presence were carried by staves passed through rings attached to these articles: "And thou shalt put the staves into the rings by the sides of the ark, that the ark may be borne with them" (Ex 25:14—first occurrence of this nuance). (3b) In Eze 19:14 bad is used of the "shoots" or limbs of a vine; "And fire is gone out of a rod of her branches" (cf. Eze 17:6). (3c) The gates of a city are badim (Job 17:16).

(4) Fourth, in most of its appearances (152x) this word is preceded by the preposition le. (4a) This use means "alone" (89x): "And the Lord God said, It is not good that the man should be alone; I will make him a help meet for him" (Gen 2:18—first occurrence of the word). (4b) In a second nuance the phrase identifies a unit by itself, a single unit: "And thou shalt couple five curtains by themselves, and six curtains by themselves" (Ex 26:9). (4c) Twice the word is used as an adverb of limitation meaning "only": "Lo, this only have I found, that God hath made man upright; but they have sought out many inventions" (Eccl 7:29). (4d) When followed by the preposition min (or al) the word functions as an adverb meaning "apart from" or "besides": "And the children of Israel journeyed from Rameses to Succoth, about six hundred thousand on foot that were men, beside children" (Ex 12:37). (4e) In Num 29:39 the translation "besides" is appropriate: "These things ye shall do unto the Lord in your set feasts, beside your vows, and your freewill offerings." (4f) In 33 passages the word is preceded by the preposition min but still means "besides." See: TWOT—201a; BDB—94b, 94c, 571c.

Behemah means "beast; animal; domesticated animal; cattle; riding beast; wild beast." (1) In Ex 9:25, this word clearly embraces even the larger "animals," all the animals in Egypt: "And the hail smote throughout all the land of Egypt all that was in the field, both man and beast." (1a) This meaning is especially clear in Gen 6:7: "I will destroy man whom I have created from the face of the earth; both man, and beast, and the creeping thing, and the fowls of the air." (1b) In 1Kin 4:33, this word seems to exclude birds, fish, and reptiles: "He [Solomon] spake also of beasts, and of fowl, and of creeping things, and of fishes."

(2) The word behemah can be used of all the domesticated beasts or animals other than man: "And God said, Let the earth bring forth the living creature after his kind, cattle, and creeping thing, and [wild] beast of the earth after his kind" (Gen 1:24, first occurrence). (2a) Ps 8:7 uses behemah in synonymous parallelism with "oxen" and "sheep," as though it includes both: "All sheep and oxen, yea, and the beasts of the field." (2b) The word can, however, be used of cattle only: "Shall not their cattle and their substance and every beast of theirs be ours?" (Gen 34:23). (3) In a rare use of the word, it signifies a "riding animal," such as a horse or mule: "And I arose in the night, I and some few men with me; neither told I any man what my God had put in my heart to do at Jerusalem: neither was there any beast with me, save the beast that I rode upon" (Neh 2:12). (4) Infrequently, behemah represents any wild, four-footed, undomesticated beast: "And thy carcase shall be meat unto all fowls of the air, and unto the beasts of the earth, and no man shall [frighten] them away" (Deut 28:26). Syn.: 1165, 2416, 4735, 6629, 6728. See: TWOT—208a; BDB—96d.

935. בּוֹא {2577x} bôw', bo; a prim. root; to go or come (in a wide variety of applications):—come {1435x}, bring {487x}, . . . in {233x}, enter {125x}, go {123x}, carry {17x}, . . . down {23x}, pass {13x}, . . . out {12x}, misc. {109x}.

Bow' (935) means "to go in, enter, come, go." (1) First, this verb connotes movement in space from one place toward another. (1a) The meaning "go in" or "enter" appears in Gen 7:7, where it is said that Noah and his family "entered" the ark. (1b) In the causative stem, this verb can signify "cause to enter" or "bring into" (Gen 6:19) or "bring unto" (its meaning in its first biblical occurrence, Gen 2:19). (1c) In Gen 10:19, the verb is used more absolutely in the phrase "as thou goest unto Sodom." (1d) Interestingly, this verb can also mean "to come" and "to return." Abram and his family "came" to the land of Canaan (Gen 12:5), (1e) while in Deut 28:6 God blessed the godly who "go forth" (to work in the morning) and "return" (home in the evening). (2) Sometimes bow' refers to the "going down" or "setting" of the sun (Gen 15:12). (3) It can connote dying, in the sense of "going to one's fathers" (Gen 15:15). (4) Another special use is the "going into one's wife" or "cohabitation" (Gen 6:4). Bow' can also be used of movement in time. For example, the prophets speak of the "coming" day of judgment (1 Sa 2:31). (5) Finally, the verb can be used of the "coming" of an event such as the sign predicted by a false prophet (Deut 13:2).

(6) There are three senses in which God is said "to come." (6a) God "comes" through an angel (Judg 6:11) or other incarnated being (cf. Gen 18:14). (6a1) He "appears" and speaks to men in dreams (Gen 20:3) and (6a2) in other actual manifestations (Ex 20:20). (6a3) For example, during the Exodus, God "appeared" in the cloud and fire that went before the people (Ex 19:9). (6b) Secondly, God promises to "come" to the faithful wherever and whenever they properly worship Him (Ex 20:24). (6b1) The Philistines felt that God had "come" into the Israelite camp when the ark of the covenant arrived (1 Sa 4:7). (6b2) This usage associated with formal worship may appear in Ps 24:7, where the gates of Zion are said to open as the King of glory "enters" Jerusalem. (6b3) Also, the Lord is "to return" ("come back") to the new temple described in Eze 43:2. (6c) Finally, there is a group of prophetic pictures of divine "comings." (6c1) This theme may have originated in the hymns sung of God's "coming" to aid His people in war (cf. Deut 33:2). (6c2) In the Psalms (e.g., 50:3) and prophets (e.g., Is 30:27), the Lord "comes" in judgment and blessing—a poetic figure of speech borrowed from ancient Near Eastern mythology (cf. Eze 1:4).

(7) Bow' also is used to refer to the "coming" of the Messiah. (7a) In Zec 9:9, the messianic king is pictured as "coming" on a foal of a donkey. (7b) Some of the passages pose especially difficult problems, such as Gen 49:10, which prophesies that the scepter will remain in Judah "until Shiloh come." (7c) Another difficult passage is Eze 21:27: "until he come whose right it is." (8) A very well-known prophecy using the verb bow' is that concerning the "coming" of the Son of Man (Dan 7:13). (9) Finally, there is the "coming" of the last day (Amos 8:2) and the Day of the Lord (Is 13:6). Bachar (977) means "to choose." (1) Bachar first occurs in the Bible in Gen 6:2: "They took them wives of all which they chose." (2) It is often used with a man as the subject: "Lot chose [for himself] all the plain of Jordan" (Gen 13:11). (3) In more than half of the occurrences, God is the subject of bachar, as in Num 16:5: "The Lord will show who are his, and who is holy; . . . even him whom he hath chosen will he cause to come near unto him." (4) Neh 9:7–8 describes God's "choosing" (election) of persons as far back as Abram: "Thou art the LORD the God, who didst choose Abram, and broughtest him forth out of Ur of the Chaldees, and gavest him the name of Abraham. (5) Bachar is used 30 times in Deuteronomy, all but twice referring to God's "choice" of Israel or something in Israel's life. "Because he loved thy fathers, therefore he chose their seed after them" (Deut 4:37). (6) Being "chosen" by God brings people into an intimate relationship with Him: "The children of the Lord your God: . . . the Lord hath chosen thee to be a peculiar people unto himself, above all the nations that are upon the earth" (Deut 14:1–2).

(7) God's "choices" shaped the history of Israel; (7a) His "choice" led to their redemption from Egypt (Deut 7:7–8), (7b) sent Moses and Aaron to work miracles in Egypt (Ps 105:26–27), and (7c) gave them the Levites "to bless in the name of the Lord" (Deut 21:5). (7d) He "chose" their inheritance (Ps 47:4), including Jerusalem, where He dwelt among them (Deut 12:5; 2 Chr 6:5, 21). (7e) But "they have chosen their own ways, and . . . I also will choose their delusions, and will bring their fears upon them" (Is 66:3–4). (8) The covenant called men to respond to God's election: "I have set before you life and death . . . : therefore choose life" (Deut 30:19; cf. Josh 24:22). Syn.: 970, 972, 4005. See: TWOT—231; BDB—103d.

One occurrence is in Isa. 32:17: "And the effect of righteousness, quietness and assurance [betach] for ever." (2) Batach as a verb means "to be reliant, trust, be unsuspecting." The word means "to trust" in Deut 28:52: "And he shall besiege thee in all thy gates, until thy high and fenced walls come down, wherein thou trustedst, throughout all thy land." (3) Betach as an adjective means "secure." In two passages this word suggests trust and security: "And Gideon went up . . . and smote the host: for the host was secure [unsuspecting]" (Judg. 8:11; cf. Is 32:17). Syn.: 2620. (1) Betach as an adverb means "securely." (2) In its first occurrence betach emphasizes the status of a city which was certain of not being attacked: "Two of the sons . . . took each man his sword, and came upon the city boldly, and slew all the males" (Gen 34:25). Thus the city was unsuspecting regarding the impending attack. (3) In passages such as Prov 10:9 (cf. Prov 1:33) betach emphasizes a confidence and the absence of impending doom: "He that walketh uprightly walketh surely: but he that perverteth his ways shall be known [faces certain judgment]." (4) Israel dwells in security (4a) apart from any possible doom or danger because God keeps her completely safe (Deut 33:12, 28; cf. 12:10). (4b) This condition is contingent on their faithfulness to God (Lev 25:18–19). (5) In the eschaton, however, such absence of danger is guaranteed by the Messiah's presence (Jer 23:5–6). See: TWOT—233a; BDB—105b.

Beyn means "between; in the midst of; among; within; in the interval of." (1) This word nearly always (except in 1 Sa 17:4, 23) is a preposition meaning "in the interval of" or "between." (2) The word may represent "the area between" in general: "And it shall be for a sign unto thee upon thine hand, and for a memorial between thine eyes" (Ex 13:9). (3) Sometimes the word means "within," in the sense of a person's or a thing's "being in the area of": "The slothful man saith, There is a lion in the way; a lion is in the streets" (Prov 26:13). (4) In other places, beyn means "among": "Shall the companions make a banquet of him [Leviathan]? Shall they part him among [give each a part] the merchants?" (Job 41:6). (5) In Job 34:37, the word means "in the midst of," in the sense of "one among a group": "For he addeth rebellion unto his sin, he clappeth his hands among us."

(6) The area separating two particular objects is indicated in several ways. (6a) First, by repeating beyn before each object: "And God divided the light from the darkness" [literally, "between the light and between the darkness"] (Gen 1:4); that is, He put an interval or space between them. (6b) In other places (more rarely), this concept is represented by putting beyn before one object and the preposition le before the second object: "Let there be a firmament in the midst [beyn] of the waters, and let it divide the waters from [le] the waters" (Gen 1:6). (6c) In still other instances, this idea is represented (6c1) by placing beyn before the first object plus the phrase meaning "with reference to" before the second (Joel 2:17), or (6c2) by beyn before the first object and the phrase "with reference to the interval of" before the second (Is 59:2). (7) Beyn is used in the sense of "distinguishing between" in many passages: "Let there be lights in the firmament of the heaven to divide the day from [ben] the night" (Gen 1:14).

(8) Sometimes beyn signifies a metaphorical relationship. For example, "This is the token of the covenant which I make between [beyn] me and you and every living creature" (Gen 9:12). The covenant is a contractual relationship. (9) Similarly, the Bible speaks of an oath (Gen 26:28) and of goodwill (Prov 14:9) filling the metaphorical "space" between two parties. (10) This word is used to signify an "interval of days," or "a period of time": "Now that which was prepared for me was . . . once in ten days [literally, "at ten-day intervals"] store of all sorts of wine" (Neh 5:18). (11) In the dual form, beyn represents "the space between two armies": "And there went out a champion [literally, "a man between the two armies"] out of the camp of the Philistines, named Goliath" (1 Sa 17:4). In ancient warfare, a battle or even an entire war could be decided by a contest between two champions. See: TWOT—239a; BDB—107b, 108a, 126a, 1084b.

997. בֵּין {2x} bêyn (Aram.), bane; corresp. to 996:—among {1x}, between {1x}. See: TWOT—2626; BDB—1084b.

998. בִּינָה {38x} bîynâh, bee-naw'; from 995; understanding:—understanding {32x}, wisdom {2x}, knowledge {1x}, meaning {1x}, perfectly {1x}, understand {1x}.

Biynah means "understanding." (1) Biynah appears 37 times and in all periods of biblical Hebrew, even though it belongs primarily to the sphere of wisdom and wisdom literature. (2) This noun represents the "act of understanding": "And in all matters of wisdom and understanding, that the king inquired of them, he found them ten times better than all the magicians" (Dan 1:20). (3) Elsewhere biynah signifies the faculty "understanding": "The spirit of my understanding causeth me to answer" (Job 20:3). (4) In other passages the object of knowledge, in the sense of what one desires to know, is indicated by biynah: "Keep therefore and do them [God's laws]: for this is your wisdom and your understanding in the sight of the nations, which shall hear all these statutes" (Deut 4:6; cf. 1 Chr 22:12). (5) God's law, therefore, is wisdom and "understanding"—what one should know. (6) This word is sometimes personified: "Yea, if thou criest after knowledge, and liftest up thy voice for understanding; if thou seekest her as silver, and searchest for her as for hid treasures . . ." (Prov 2:3–4). See also: 4905, 8394. See: TWOT—239b; BDB—108a, 1084b.

1004. בַּיִת {2055X} bayith, bah'-yith; prob. from 1129 abb.; a house (in the greatest var. of applications, espec. family, etc.):—house {1881x}, household {54x}, home {25x}, within {22x}, temple {11x}, prison {16x}, place {16x}, family {3x}, families + 1 {2x}, dungeon {2x}, misc. {23x}.

Bayith means "house or building; home; household; land." (1) First, this noun denotes a fixed, established structure made from some kind of material. (1a) As a "permanent dwelling place" it is usually distinguished from a tent (2 Sa 16:21, cf. v. 22). (1c) This word can even be applied to a one-room dwelling: "And he [Lot] said [to the two angels], Behold now, my lords, turn in, I pray you, into your servant's house" (Gen 19:2). (1d) Bayith is also distinguished from temporary booths or huts: "And Jacob journeyed to Succoth, and built him a house, and made booths for his cattle" (Gen 33:17). (1e) In Ps 132:3 the word means "dwelling-living-place" and is used in direct conjunction with "tent" (literally, "tent of my house"): "Surely I will not come into the tabernacle of my house, nor go up into my bed." (1f) A similar usage appears in 1 Chr 9:23 (literally, "the tent house"): "So they and their children had the oversight of the gates of the house of the Lord, namely, the house of the tabernacle, by wards."

(2) Second, in many passages (especially when the word is joined to the word God) bayith represents a place of worship or "sanctuary": "The first of the first fruits of thy land thou shalt bring into the house of the Lord thy God" (Ex 23:19). (2a) Elsewhere this noun signifies God's temple in Jerusalem: "And against the wall of the house he built chambers round about, against the walls of the house round about, both of the temple and of the oracle" (1 Kin 6:5). (2b) Sometimes the word has this meaning although it is not further defined (cf. Eze 41:7). (3) Third, bayith can signify rooms and/or wings of a house: "And let the king appoint officers in all the provinces of his kingdom, that they may gather together all the fair young virgins unto Shushan the palace, to the [harem] (literally, to the house of the women; Est 2:3)." (3a) In this connection bayith can also represent the inside of a building or some other structure as opposed to the outside: "Make thee an ark of gopher wood; rooms shalt thou make in the ark, and shalt pitch it within and without with pitch" (Gen 6:14—the first biblical occurrence).

(4) Fourth, bayith sometimes refers to the place where something or someone dwells or rests. So the underworld (Sheol) is termed a "home": "If I wait, the grave is mine house: I have made my bed in the darkness" (Job 17:13). (4b) An "eternal home" is one's grave: "Man goeth to his long home, and the mourners go about the streets" (Eccl 12:5). (4c) "House" can also mean "place" when used with "grave," as in Neh 2:3: "Let the king live for ever: why should not my countenance be sad, when the city, the place of my fathers' sepulchers. . . ." (4d) Bayith means a receptacle in Is 3:20. (4e) In 1 Kin 18:32 the "house of two seeds" is a container for seed: "And with the stones he built an altar in the name of the Lord: and he made a trench about the altar, as great as would contain [literally, "a house of"] two measures of seed." (4f) Houses for bars are supports: "And thou shalt overlay the boards with gold, and make their rings of gold for places [literally, "houses"] for the bars" (Ex 26:29). (4g) Similarly, see "the places [house] of the two paths," a crossing of two paths, in Prov 8:2. (4h) The steppe is termed the "house of beasts": ". . . whose house I have made the wilderness, and the barren land his dwellings [house of beasts]" (Job 39:6).

(5) Fifth, bayith is often used of those who live in a house, i.e., a "household": "Come thou and all thy house into the ark" (Gen 7:1). (5a) In passages such as Josh 7:14 this word means "family": "And it shall be, that the tribe which the Lord taketh shall come according to the families thereof; and the family which the Lord shall take shall come by households [literally, by house or by those who live in a single dwelling]." (5b) In a similar nuance this noun means "descendants": "And there went a man of the house of Levi, and took to wife a daughter of Levi" (Ex 2:1). (5c) This word can be used of one's extended family and even of everyone who lives in a given area: "And the men of Judah came, and there they anointed David king over the house of Judah" (2 Sa 2:4). (5d) Gen 50:4, however, uses bayith in the sense of "a royal court" or all the people in a king's court: "And when the days of his mourning were past, Joseph spake unto the house of Pharaoh. . . ." (5e) The ideas "royal court" and "descendant" are joined in 1 Sa 20:16: "So Jonathan made a covenant with the house of David. . . ." (5f) In a few passages bayith means "territory" or "country": "Set the trumpet to thy mouth. He shall come as an eagle against the house of the Lord" (Hos 8:1; 9:15; Jer 12:7; Zec 9:8). See: TWOT—241; BDB—108c, 111b, 143d, 476c, 1084c.

Beliya'al means wickedness; wicked; destruction. (1) The basic meaning of this word appears in a passage such as Judg 20:13, where the sons of beliya'al are perpetrators of wickedness (they raped and murdered a man's concubine): "Now therefore deliver us the men, the children of Belial which are in Gibeah, that we may put them to death, and put away evil from Israel." (2) In its first appearance the word represents men who lead others into idolatry: "Certain men, the children of Belial, are gone out from among you, and have [seduced] the inhabitants of their city" (Deut 13:13). (3) In Deut 15:9 the word modifies Hebrew dabar, "word" or "matter." Israel is warned to avoid "wicked" words (thoughts) in their hearts. (4) Beliya'al is a synonym for rasha' (7563 - "wicked rebellious one") in Job 34:18. (5) In Nah 1:11 the wicked counselor plots evil against God. (6) The psalmist uses beliya'al as a synonym of death: "The cords of death encompassed me, and the floods of ungodly men terrified me" (Ps 18:4). Bala' means "to swallow, engulf." (1) Balaʿ is first used in Gen 41:7 in Pharaoh's dream of seven lean ears of grain "swallowing up" the seven plump ears. (2) While it is used of the normal physical swallowing of something quite frequently, such as Jonah's "being swallowed" by the great fish (Jonah 1:17), the word is used more often in the figurative sense, often implying destruction. (2a) Thus, the violent "overwhelm" the innocent (Prov 1:11–12); (2b) an enemy "swallows" those he conquers "like a dragon" (Jer 51:34); and (2c) the false prophet and priest "are swallowed up of wine" (Is 28:7). See: TWOT—246i; BDB—116c.

1116. בָּמָה {102x} bâmâh, baw-maw'; from an unused root (mean. to be high); an elevation:—high place {100x}, heights {1x}, waves {1x}.

Bamah (1116) means "high place." (1) Bamah is used 102 times in biblical Hebrew, and the first occurrence is in Lev 26:30: "And I will destroy your high places, and cut down your images, and cast your carcases upon the carcases of your idols, and my soul shall abhor you." (2) Most of the uses are in the Books of Kings and Chronicles, with the sense of "cultic high place." The word is rarely used in the Pentateuch or in the poetic or prophetic literature. (3) Bamah refers to (3a) the heights of the clouds: "I will ascend above the heights [bamah] of the clouds; I will be like the most High" (Is 14:14), and (3b) the waves of the sea "[He] alone spreadeth out the heavens, and treadeth upon the waves [literally, "high places"] of the sea" (Job 9:8); (3c) Bamah can be understood idiomatically for authority: Ps. 18:33 (cf. 2 Sa 22:34; Hab 3:19): "He maketh my feet like hinds' feet, and setteth me upon my high places." (4) The word is used metaphorically to portray the Lord as providing for His people: "He made him ride on the high places of the earth, that he might eat the increase of the fields; and he made him to suck honey out of the rock, and oil out of the flinty rock" (Deut 32:13; cf. Is 58:14).

(5) The idiom, "to ride upon the high places of the earth," is a Hebraic way of expressing God's protection of His people. It expresses the exalted nature of Israel, whose God is the Lord. (6) Not every literal bamah was a cultic high place; the word may simply refer to a geographical unit; cf. "Therefore shall Zion for your sake be plowed as a field, and Jerusalem shall become heaps, and the mountain of the [temple] as the high places of the forest" (cf. Amos 4:13; Mic 3:12). (7) The Canaanites served their gods on these hills, where pagan priests presented the sacrifices to the gods: Israel imitated this practice (1 Kin 3:2), even when they sacrificed to the Lord. (8) The surrounding nations had high places dedicated to Chemosh (1 Kin 11:7), Baal (Jer 19:5), and other deities. (9) On the "high place," a temple was built and dedicated to a god: (9a) "[Jeroboam] made a house of high places, and (9b) made priests of the lowest of the people, which were not of the sons of Levi" (1 Kin 12:31). (9c) Cultic symbols were added as decoration; thus, the sacred pillars (842 - asherah) and sacred trees or poles (4676 - matstsebah) were associated with a temple: "For they also built them high places, and [sacred stones], and groves, on every high hill [1389 - gib'ah], and under every green tree" (1 Kin 14:23; cf. 2 Kin 16:4).

(10) Before the temple was built, Solomon worshiped the Lord at the great bamah of Gideon (1 Kin 3:4). (10a) This was permissible until the temple was constructed; however, (10b) history demonstrates that Israel soon adopted these "high places" for pagan customs. (11) The bamah was found in the cities of (11a) Samaria (2 Kin 23:19), and (11b) Judah (2 Chr 21:11), and even (11c) in Jerusalem (2 Kin 23:13). (12) The bamah was a place of cult prostitution: "[They] pant after the dust of the earth on the head of the poor, and turn aside the way of the meek: and a man and his father will go in unto the same maid, to profane my holy name: And they lay themselves down upon clothes laid to pledge by every altar, and they drink the wine of the condemned in the house of their god" (Amos 2:7-8). 1121. בֵּן {4906x} bên, bane; from 1129; a son (as a builder of the family name), in the widest sense (of lit. and fig. relationship, incl. grandson, subject, nation, quality or condition, etc., [like 1, 251, etc.]):—son {2978x}, children {1568x}, old {135x}, first {51x}, man {20x}, young {18x}, young + 1241 {17x}, child {10x}, stranger {10x}, people {5x}, misc. {92x}.

Ben means "son," bat (1323) means "daughter." (1) These nouns are derived from the verb banah. They are actually different forms of the same noun. (1a) Basically, this noun represents one's immediate physical male or female offspring. For example, Adam "begat sons and daughters" (Gen 5:4). (1b) The special emphasis here is on the physical tie binding a man to his offspring. (2) The noun can also be used of an animal's offspring: "Binding his foal unto the vine, and his ass's colt unto the choice vine" (Gen 49:11). (3) Sometimes the word ben, which usually means "son," can mean "children" (both male and female). God told Eve that "in sorrow thou shalt bring forth children" (Gen 3:16—the first occurrence of this noun). (4) The words ben and bat can signify "descendants" in general—daughters, sons, granddaughters, and grandsons. Laban complained to Jacob that he had not allowed him "to kiss my sons and my daughters" (Gen 31:28; cf. v. 43).

(5) The phrase, "my son," may be used by a superior to a subordinate as a term of familiar address. Joshua said to Achan, "My son, give, I pray thee, glory to the Lord God of Israel" (Josh 7:19). (6) On the lips of the subordinate, "son" signifies conscious submission. Ben-hadad's servant Hazael took gifts to Elisha, saying, "Thy son Benhadad king of Syria hath sent me to thee" (2 Kin 8:9). (7) Ben can also be used in a formula expressing a unique and unbreakable relationship: "Thou art my Son; this day have I begotten thee" (Ps 2:7). (8) Ben often is used in this sense of a king's relationship to God (i.e., he is God's adopted son). (9) Sometimes the same word expresses Israel's relationship to God: "When Israel was a child, then I loved him, and called my son out of Egypt" (Hos 11:1). (10) The Bible also refers to the heavenly court as the "sons of God" (Job 1:6). (10a) God called the elders of Israel the "children" of the Most High" (Ps 82:6). (10b) In Gen 6:2, the phrase "sons of God" is variously understood as (10b1) members of the heavenly court, (10b2) the spiritual disciples of God (the sons of Seth), and (10b3) the boastful among mankind.

(11) Ben may signify "young men" in general, regardless of any physical relationship to the speaker: "And [I] beheld among the simple ones, I discerned among the youths, a young man void of understanding" (Prov 7:7). (12) A city may be termed a "mother" and its inhabitants its "sons": "For he hath strengthened the bars of thy gates; he hath blessed thy children within thee" (Ps 147:13). (13) Ben is sometimes used to mean a single individual; thus Abraham ran to his flock and picked out a "son of a cow" (Gen 18:7). (14) The phrase "son of man" is used in this sense—God is asked to save the poor individuals, not the children of the poor (Ps 72:4). (15) Ben may also denote a member of a group. An example is a prophet who followed Elijah (1 Kin 20:35; cf. Amos 7:14). (16) This noun may also indicate someone worthy of a certain fate—e.g., "a stubborn and rebellious son" (Deut 21:18). (17) Used figuratively, "son of" can mean "something belonging to"—e.g., "the arrow [literally, "the son of a bow"] cannot make him flee" (Job 41:28). Banah means to build, establish, construct, rebuild. (1) In its basic meaning, banah appears in Gen 8:20, where Noah is said to have "constructed" an ark. (2) In Gen 4:17, banah means not only that Enoch built a city, but that he "founded" or "established" it. (3) This verb can also mean "to manufacture," or adding to an existing material to fashion a new object: (3a) as in Eze 27:5: "They have made all thy ship boards of fir trees." (3b) Somewhat in the same sense, we read that God "made" or "fashioned" Eve out of Adam's rib (Gen 2:22—the first biblical occurrence). (3c) In like manner, Asa began with the cities of Geba and Mizpah and "fortified" them (1 Kin 15:22). (4) Banah can also refer to "rebuilding" something that is destroyed. Joshua cursed anyone who would rise up and rebuild Jericho, the city that God had utterly destroyed (Josh 6:26). (5) Metaphorically or figuratively, the verb banah is used to mean "building one's house"—i.e., having children. Sarai said to Abram, "I pray thee, go in unto my maid; it may be that I may obtain children by her" (Gen 16:2). (5a) It was the duty of the nearest male relative to conceive a child with the wife of a man who had died childless (Deut 25:9); he thus helped "to build up the house" of his deceased relative. (5b) Used figuratively, "to build a house" may also mean "to found a dynasty" (2 Sa 7:27). Ba'al means "master; baal." (1) The word ba'al occurs 84 times in the Hebrew Old Testament, 15 times with the meaning of "husband" and 50 times as a reference to a deity. The first occurrence of the noun ba'al is in Gen 14:13: "And there came one that had escaped, and told Abram the Hebrew; for he dwelt in the plain of Mamre the Amorite, brother of Eshcol, and brother of Aner: and these were confederate with [literally, "ba'al's of a covenant with"] Abram." (2) The primary meaning of ba'al is "possessor." Isaiah's use of ba'al in parallel with qanah (7069) clarifies this basic significance of ba'al: "The ox knoweth his owner [7069 - qanah], and the ass his master's [ba'al] crib: but Israel does not know, my people doth not consider" (Is 1:3). (3) Man may be the owner [ba'al] of an animal (Ex 22:10), a house (Ex 22:7), a cistern (Ex 21:34), or even a wife (Ex 21:3). (4) A secondary meaning, "husband," is clearly indicated by the phrase ba'al ha-ishshah (literally, "owner of the woman"). For example: "If men strive, and hurt a woman with child, so that her fruit depart from her, and yet no mischief follow: he shall be surely punished, according as the woman's husband [ba'al ha-ishshah] will lay upon him; and he shall pay as the judges determine" (Ex 21:22).

(5) The meaning of ba'al is closely related to ish (376 - "man"), as is seen in the usage of these two words in one verse: "When the wife of Uriah heard that Uriah her husband [ish] was dead, she mourned for her husband [ba'al]" (2 Sa 11:26). (6) The word ba'al with another noun may signify a peculiar characteristic or quality: "And they said one to another, Behold, this master of dreams cometh" (Gen 37:19). (7) The word ba'al may denote any deity other than the God of Israel. (7a) Baal was a common name given to the god of fertility in Canaan. In the Canaanite city of Ugarit, Baal was especially recognized as the god of fertility. (7b) The Old Testament records that Baal was "the god" of the Canaanites. (7c) The Israelites worshiped Baal during (7c1) the time of the judges (Judg 6:25–32) and (7c2) of King Ahab. (7c3) Elijah stood as the opponent of the Baal priests at Mount Carmel (1 Kin 18:21ff.).

(8) Many cities made Baal a local god and honored him with special acts of worship: Baal-peor (Num 25:5), Baal-berith at Shechem (Judg 8:33), Baal-zebub (2 Kin 1:2–16) at Ekron, Baal-zephon (Num 33:7), and Baal-hermon (Judg 3:3). (9) Among the prophets, Jeremiah and Hosea mention Baal most frequently. (9a) Hosea pictured Israel as turning to the baals and only returning to the Lord after a time of despair (Hos 2:13, 17). (9b) He says that the name of Baal will no longer be used, not even with the meaning of "Lord" or "master," as the association was contaminated by the idolatrous practices: "And it shall be at that day, saith the Lord, that thou shalt call me Ishi; and shalt call me no more Ba-a-li [ba'al]. For I will take away the names of Ba-a-lim out of her mouth, and they shall no more be remembered by their name" (Hos 2:16–17). (9c) In Hosea's and Jeremiah's time, the ba'al idols were still worshiped, as the peoples sacrificed, built high places, and made images of the ba'alim (plural). Baqa (1234) means "to cleave, split, break open, break through." It is the origin of the name of the famous Beqa Valley (which means "valley" or "cleft") in Lebanon. (1) In its verbal forms, baqa' is found some 50 times in the Hebrew Old Testament. (2) The word is first used there in Gen 7:11, which states that the "fountains of the great deep [were] broken up," resulting in the Flood. (3) The everyday use of the verb is seen in references (3a) to "splitting" wood (Eccl 10:9) and (3b) the ground "splitting" asunder (Num 16:31). (3c) Serpents' eggs "split open" or "hatch out" their young (Is 59:5). (4) City walls are "breached" or "broken into" in order to take them captive (Jer 52:7). (5) One of the horrors of war was the "ripping open" of pregnant women by the enemy (2 Kin 8:12; 15:16). (6) Three times God is said "to split open" rocks or the ground in order to provide water for His people (Judg 15:19; Ps 74:15; Is 48:21).

(7) In the figurative sense, it is said that the light of truth will "break forth as the morning" (Is 58:8). (8) Using hyperbole or exaggeration, the historian who recorded the celebration for Solomon's coronation said that it was so loud "that the earth rent with the sound of them" (1 Kin 1:40). (9) As here, the KJV often renders baqa' by "rent." In other contexts, it may be translated "burst; clave (cleave); tear; divide; break." Syn.: 1692, 2673, 6536. See: TWOT—271; BDB—131c.

1235. בֶּקַע {2x} beqaʿ, beh'-kah; from 1234; a section (half) of a shekel, i.e. a beka (a weight and a coin):—bekah {1x}, half a shekel {1x}. See: TWOT—271a; BDB—132b.

1238. בָּקַק {9x} bâqaq, baw-kak'; a prim. root; to pour out, i.e. to empty, fig. to depopulate; by anal. to spread out (as a fruitful vine):—empty {5x}, make void {1x}, emptiers {1x}, fail {1x}, utterly (inf for emphasis). See: TWOT—273; BDB—132c.

1239. בָּקַר {7x} bâqar, baw-kar; a prim. root; prop. to plow, or (gen.) break forth, i.e. (fig.) to inspect, admire, care for, consider:—enquire {3x}, seek {3x}, search {1x}.

(1) Baqar means "to attend, bestow care on, seek with pleasure." (2) Although this verb is found only 7 times in biblical Hebrew, it occurs in early, middle, and late periods and in both prose and poetry. (3) In Lev 13:36 baqar means "to attend to": "If the scall be spread in the skin, the priest shall not seek for yellow hair." (4) The word implies "to seek with pleasure or delight" in Ps 27:4: ". . . to behold the beauty of the Lord, and to inquire in his temple." Syn.: 1875, 2664. See: TWOT—274; BDB—133a, 1085b.

1240. בְּקַר {5x} bᵉqar (Aram.), bek-ar'; corresp. to 1239:—inquire {1x}, make search {4x}. See: TWOT—2638; BDB—1085a.

1241. בָּקָר {182x} bâqâr, baw-kawr'; from 1239; a beeve or animal of the ox kind of either gender (as used for plowing); collect. a herd:—ox {78x}, herd {44x}, beeves {7x}, young {18x}, young + 1121 {17x}, bullock {6x}, bullock + 1121 {2x}, calf + 1121 {2x}, heifer {2x}, kine {2x}, bulls {1x}, cattle {1x}, cow's {1x}, great {1x}.

Baqar (1241) means "herd; cattle." (1) One meaning of the word is "cattle." (1a) Such beasts were slaughtered for food, and their hides were presented as offerings to God (Num 15:8). (1b) This meaning of baqar is in Gen 12:16 (the first biblical occurrence): "And he [Pharaoh] entreated Abram well for her [Sarah's] sake: and he had sheep, and oxen, and he asses." (1c) These were grazing beasts (1 Chr 27:29) and were eaten (1 Kin 4:23). (1d) These animals pulled carts (2 Sa 6:6) and plows (Job 1:14), and carried burdens on their backs (1 Chr 12:40). (2) Baqar often refers to a group of cattle or "herd" (both sexes), as it does in Gen 13:5: "And Lot also, which went with Abram, had flocks, and herds [in the Hebrew, this word appears in a singular form] and tents." (3) The word can represent a "small group of cattle" (not a herd; cf. Gen 47:17; Ex 22:1) or even a pair of oxen (Num 7:17). (4) A single ox is indicated either by some other Hebrew word or called an offspring of oxen (Gen 18:7). (5) Baqar also refers to statues of oxen: "It [the altar of burnt offerings] stood upon twelve oxen, three looking toward the north, and three looking toward the west, and three looking toward the south, and three looking toward the east" (1 Kin 7:25). Syn.: 6499, 7794. See: TWOT—274a; BDB—133a.

1242. בֹּקֶר {204x} bôqer, bo'-ker; from 1239; prop. dawn (as the break of day); gen. morning:—morning {190x}, morrow {7x}, day {3x}, days + 6153 {1x}, early {3x}.

Boqer (1242) means "morning." (1) This word means "morning," (1a) though not the period of time before noon. (1b) Rather it indicates the point of time at which night is changing to day or that time at the end of night: "And Moses stretched forth his rod over the land of Egypt, and the Lord brought an east wind upon the land all that day, and all that night; and when it was morning, the east wind brought the locusts" (Ex 10:13). (2) Boqer can represent the time just before the rising of the sun. In Judg 19:25 we read that the men of Gibeah raped and abused the Levite's concubine "all the night until the morning: and when the day began to spring, they let her go" (cf. Ruth 3:13). (3) In the ancient Near East the night was divided into three watches. (3a) The last period of the night was called the morning watch (Ex 14:24). (3b) It lasted from 2:00 A.M. until sunrise, and in such a context the word indicates this period of time.

(4) Boqer can mean "daybreak" or "dawn." In Ex 14:27 it is reported that the water of the Red Sea "returned to his [normal state] when the morning appeared [literally, "at the turning of the morning"]." (5) Boqer is used as a synonym of "dawn" in Job 38:12: "Hast thou commanded the morning since thy days; and caused the dayspring to know his place?" (6) Sometimes boqer appears to mean "early morning," or shortly after daybreak: (6a) "And Joseph came in unto them in the morning, and looked upon them and, behold, they were sad" (Gen 40:6). (6b) Thus, Moses "rose up early in the morning" and went up to Mount Sinai; he arose before daybreak so he could appear before God in the "morning" as God had commanded (Ex 34:2, 4). (6c) In the "morning" Jacob saw that his bride was Leah rather than Rachel (Gen 29:25; cf. 1 Sa 29:10). (7) As the opposite of night the word represents the entire period of daylight. The psalmist prays that it is good "to show forth thy loving-kindness in the morning, and thy faithfulness every night" (Ps 92:2), in other words, to always be praising God (cf. Amos 5:8).

(8) In Ps 65:8 boqer represents a place, specifically, the place where the sun rises: "They also that dwell in the uttermost parts are afraid at thy tokens: thou makest the outgoings of the morning and evening to rejoice." (9) At least once the word appears to represent the resurrection: "Like sheep they [the ungodly] are laid in the grave; death shall feed on them; and the upright shall have dominion over them in the morning" (Ps 49:14). (10) Boqer can mean "morrow" or "next day." This meaning first appears in Ex 12:10, where God tells Israel not to leave any of the Passover "until the morning; and that which remaineth of it until the morning ye shall burn with fire" (cf. Lev 22:30). Syn.: 5399, 7837. See: TWOT—274c; BDB—133c.

1244. בִּקֹּרֶת {1x} biqqôreth, bik-ko'-reth; from 1239; prop. examination, i.e. (by impl.) punishment:—scourged {1x}. See: TWOT—274e; BDB—134c.

1245. בָּקַשׁ {225x} bâqash, baw-kash'; a prim. root; to search out (by any method, spec. in worship or prayer); by impl. to strive after:—seek {189x}, require {14x}, request {4,x} seek out {4x}, enquired {3x}, besought {2x}, ask {2x}, sought for {2x}, begging {1x}, desire {1x}, get {1x}, inquisition {1x}, procureth {1x}.

Baqash means "to seek, search, consult." (1) Basically baqash means "to seek" to find something that is lost or missing, or, at least, whose location is unknown. (1a) In Gen 37:15 a man asks Joseph: "What seekest thou?" (1b) A special nuance of this sense is "to seek out of a group; to choose, select" something or someone yet undesignated, as in 1 Sa 13:14: "The Lord hath sought him a man after his own heart." (1c) To seek one's face is "to seek" to come before him, or to have a favorable audience with him; all the world "was seeking" the presence of Solomon (1 Kin 10:24). (1d) In a similar sense one may "seek" God's face by standing before Him in the temple praying (2 Sa 21:1).

(2) The sense "seek to secure" emphasizes the pursuit of a wish or the accomplishing of a plan. (2a) Moses asked the Levites who rebelled against the unique position of Aaron and his sons: "Seek ye the priesthood also?" (Num 16:10). (2b) This usage may have an emotional coloring, such as, "to aim at, devote oneself to, and be concerned about." So God asks the sons of men (mankind): "How long will ye turn my glory into shame? How long will ye love vanity, and seek after [sin]?" (Ps 4:2). (2c) Cultically one may "seek" to secure God's favor or help: "And Judah gathered themselves together, to ask help of the Lord" (2 Chr 20:4). (2d) In such usages the intellectual element usually is in the background; there is no seeking after information. (2e) An exception to this is Judg 6:29: "And when they inquired [1875 - darash] and asked [1245 - baqash], they said, Gideon the son of Joash hath done this thing."

(3) Infrequently this verb is used of seeking information from God (Ex 33:7). (3a) In a similar sense one may "seek" God's face (2 Sa 21:1). Here baqash is clearly used of searching for information (a cognitive pursuit). (3b) Also, compare the pursuit of wisdom (Prov. 2:4). (4) This sense of "seeking to secure" may also be used of seeking one's life (5315 - nepesh). (4a) God told Moses to "go, return into Egypt: for all the men are dead which sought thy life" (Ex 4:19). (4b) Baqash may be used with this same nuance but without nepesh—so Pharaoh "sought to slay Moses" (Ex 2:15). (5) Only twice is this nuance applied to seeking to procure one's good as in Ps 122:9: "Because of the house of the LORD our God I will seek thy good" [usually darash (1875) is used of seeking one's good].

(6) About 20 times baqash means to hold someone responsible for something because the speaker has a (real or supposed) legal right to it. In Gen 31:39 (the first biblical occurrence of the verb) Jacob points out to Laban that regarding animals lost to wild beasts, "of my hand didst thou require it." (7) Only infrequently is baqash used of seeking out a place, or as a verb of movement toward a place. So Joseph "sought [a place] to weep; and he entered into his chamber, and wept there" (Gen 43:30). (8) Theologically, this verb can be used not only "to seek" a location before the Lord (to stand before Him in the temple and seek to secure His blessing), but it may also be used of a state of mind: "But if from thence thou shalt seek the LORD thy God, thou shalt find him, if thou seek him [darash] with all thy heart and with all thy soul" (Deut 4:29). In instances such as this where the verb is used in synonymous parallelism with darash, the two verbs have the same meaning. Syn.: 1875, 7836. See: TWOT—276; BDB—134c.

1246. בַּקָּשָׁה {8x} baqqâshâh, bak-kaw-shaw'; from 1245; a petition:—request {8x}. See: TWOT—276a; BDB—135a.

1254. בָּרָא {54x} bârâʾ, baw-raw'; a prim. root; (absolutely) to create; (qualified) to cut down (a wood), select, feed (as formative processes):—create {42x}, creator {3x}, choose {2x}, make {2x}, cut down {2x}, dispatch {1x}, done {1x}, make fat {1x}.

Bara' means "to create, make." (1) This verb is of profound theological significance, since it has only God as its subject. (1a) Only God can "create" in the sense implied by bara'. (1b) The verb expresses creation out of nothing, an idea seen clearly in passages having to do with creation on a cosmic scale: "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth" (Gen 1:1; cf. Gen 2:3; Is 40:26; 42:5). (1c) All other verbs for "creating" allow a much broader range of meaning; they have both divine and human subjects, and are used in contexts where bringing something or someone into existence is not the issue. (2) Objects of the verb include (2a) the heavens and earth (Gen 1:1; Is 40:26; 42:5; 45:18; 65:17), (2b) man (Gen 1:27; 5:2; 6:7; Deut 4:32; Ps 89:47; Is 43:7; 45:12); (2c) Israel (Is 43:1; Mal 2:10); (2d) a new thing (Jer 31:22); (2e) cloud and smoke (Is 4:5); (2f) north and south (Ps 89:12); (2g) salvation and righteousness (Is 45:8); (2h) speech (Is 57:19); (2i) darkness (Is 45:7); (2j) wind (Amos 4:13); and (2k) a new heart (Ps 51:10).

(3) A careful study of the passages where bara' occurs shows that in the few non-poetic uses (primarily in Genesis), the writer uses scientifically precise language to demonstrate that God brought the object or concept into being from previously nonexistent material. (4) Especially striking is the use of bara' in Isaiah 40—65. (4a) Out of 49 occurrences of the verb in the Old Testament, 20 are in these chapters. (4b) Because Isaiah writes prophetically to the Jews in Exile, he speaks words of comfort based upon God's past benefits and blessings to His people. Isaiah especially wants to show that, since Yahweh is the Creator, He is able to deliver His people from captivity. The God of Israel has created all things: "I have made [6213 - 'asah] the earth, and created [bara'] man upon it: I, even my hands, have stretched out the heavens, and all their host have I commanded" (Is 45:12). (4c) The gods of Babylon are impotent nonentities (Is 44:12–20; 46:1–7), and so (4d) Israel can expect God to triumph by effecting a new creation (43:16–21; 65:17–25).

(5) Though a precisely correct technical term to suggest cosmic, material creation from nothing, bara' is a rich theological vehicle for communicating the sovereign power of God, who originates and regulates all things to His glory. Syn.: "For thus saith the LORD that created [bara] the heavens; God himself that formed [yatsar - 3335] the earth and made [asah - 6213] it; he hath established [kun - 3559] it, he created [bara] it not in vain, he formed [yatsar - 3335] it to be inhabited: I am the LORD; and there is none else" (Is 45:18). The technical meaning of bara (to create out of nothing) may not hold in these passages; perhaps the verb was popularized in these instances for the sake of providing a poetic synonym. Barach means "to flee, pass through." (1) The word first appears in Gen 16:6, where it is said that Hagar "fled from her [Sarah's] face" as a result of Sarah's harsh treatment. (2) Men may "flee" from many things or situations. David "fled" from Naioth in Ramah in order to come to Jonathan (1 Sa 20:1). (3) Sometimes it is necessary to "flee" from weapons (Job 20:24). (4) In describing flight from a person, the Hebrew idiom "from the presence of" (literally, "from the face of") is often used (Gen 16:6, 8; 31:27; 35:1, 7). (5) In its figurative use, the word describes days "fleeing" away (Job 9:25) or frail man "fleeing" like a shadow (Job 14:2). (6) A rather paradoxical use is found in Song 8:14, in which "flee" must mean "come quickly": "Make haste [literally, "flee"], my beloved, and be thou like to a gazelle." Syn.: 5127. See: TWOT—284; BDB—137d.

Beriyth means "covenant; league; confederacy." (1) The first occurrence of the word is in Gen 6:18: "But with thee [Noah] will I establish my covenant." (2) It is translated 15 times as "league": "Now therefore make ye a league with us" (Josh 9:6). (2a) These are all cases of political agreement within Israel (2 Sa 3:12–13, 21; 5:3) or (2b) between nations (1 Kin 15:19). (2c) In Judg 2:2: "And ye shall make no league with the inhabitants of this land." (2d) The command had been also given in Ex 23:32; 34:12–16; and Deut 7:2–6 ["covenant"]. (3) The word is used of "agreements between men," as (3a) Abraham and Abimelech (Gen 21:32): "Thus they made a covenant at Beer-sheba." (3b) David and Jonathan made a "covenant" of mutual protection that would be binding on David's descendants forever (1 Sa 18:3; 20:8, 16–18, 42). (3c) In these cases, there was "mutual agreement confirmed by oath in the name of the Lord." (3d) Sometimes there were also material pledges (Gen 21:28–31).

(4) Ahab defeated the Syrians: "So he made a covenant with [Ben-hadad], and sent him away" (1 Kin 20:34). (5) The king of Babylon "took of the king's seed [Zedekiah], and made a covenant with him, and hath taken an oath of him" (Eze 17:13). In such "covenants," the terms were imposed by the superior military power; they were not mutual agreements. (6) In Israel, the kingship was based on "covenant": "David made a league with them [the elders of Israel] in Hebron before the LORD" (2 Sa 5:3). (6a) The "covenant" was based on their knowledge that God had appointed him (2 Sa 5:2); (6b) thus they became David's subjects (cf. 2 Kin 11:4, 17).

(7) The great majority of occurrences of beriyth are of God's "covenants" with men, as in Gen 6:18 above. (7a) The verbs used are important: "I will establish my covenant" (Gen 6:18)—literally, "cause to stand" or "confirm." (7b) "I will make my covenant" (Gen 17:2). (7c) "He declared to you his covenant" (Deut 4:13). (7d) "My covenant which I commanded them . . ." (Josh 7:11). (7e) "I have remembered my covenant. Wherefore . . . I will bring you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians" (Ex 6:5–6). (7f) God will not reject Israel for their disobedience so as "to destroy them utterly, and to break my covenant with them" (Lev 26:44). (7g) "He will not . . . forget the covenant . . . which he sware unto them" (Deut 4:31). (7h) The most common verb is "to cut [karat] a covenant," which is always translated as in Gen 15:18: "The LORD made a covenant with Abram." This use apparently comes from the ceremony described in Gen 15:9–17 (cf. Jer 34:18), in which God appeared as "a smoking furnace, and a burning lamp [flaming torch] that passed between those pieces" (Gen 15:17). (7i) These verbs make it plain that God takes the sole initiative in covenant-making and fulfillment.

(8) The words of the "covenant" were written in a book (Ex 24:4, 7; Deut 31:24–26) and on stone tablets (Ex 34:28). (9) Men "enter into" (Deut 29:12) or "join" (Jer 50:5) God's "covenant." (10) They are to obey (Gen 12:4) and "observe carefully" all the commandments of the "covenant" (Deut 4:6). (11) But above all, the "covenant" calls Israel to "love the LORD thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might" (Deut 6:5). (12) God's "covenant" is a relationship of love and loyalty between the Lord and His chosen people: (12a) "If ye will obey my voice indeed, and keep my covenant, then ye shall be a peculiar treasure unto me above all people . . . and ye shall be unto me a kingdom of priests, and a holy nation" (Ex 19:5–6). (12b) "All the commandments . . . shall ye observe to do, that ye may live, and multiply, and go in and possess the land which the LORD sware unto your fathers" (Deut 8:1). (13) In the "covenant," man's response contributes to covenant fulfillment; yet man's action is not causative. God's grace always goes before and produces man's response.

(14) Occasionally, Israel "made a covenant before the LORD, to walk after the LORD, and to keep his commandments . . . , to perform the words of this covenant that were written in this book" (2 Kin 23:3). (14a) This is like their original promise: "All that the LORD hath spoken we will do" (Ex 19:8; 24:7). (14b) Israel did not propose terms or a basis of union with God. They responded to God's "covenant." (15) The use of "Old Testament" and "New Testament" as the names for the two sections of the Bible indicates that God's "covenant" is central to the entire book. (16) The Bible relates God's "covenant" purpose, that man be joined to Him in loving service and know eternal fellowship with Him through the redemption that is in Jesus Christ. Syn: "Covenant" is parallel or equivalent to the Hebrew words (A) dabar (1697 - "word"), (B) hoq (2706 - "statute"), (C) piqqud (6490 - "precepts"—Ps 119:94), (D) 'edah (5715 - "testimony"—Ps 25:10), (E) torah (8451 - "law"—Ps 78:10), and (F) checed (2617 - "lovingkindness"—Ps 17:7). These words emphasize the authority and grace of God in making and keeping the "covenant," and the specific responsibility of man under the covenant. See: TWOT—282a; BDB—136b, 138c.

1286. בְּרִית {1x} B'rîyth, ber-eeth'; the same as 1285; Berith, a Shechemitish deity:—Berith {1x}. See: BDB—42c, 136c.

Barak means "to kneel, bless, be blessed, curse." (1) Barak occurs first in Gen 1:22: "And God blessed them, saying, Be fruitful and multiply, . . ." (2) God's first word to man is introduced in the same way: "And God blessed them, and God said unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply" (v. 28). Thus the whole creation is shown to depend upon God for its continued existence and function (cf. Ps 104:27–30). (3) Barak is used again of man in Gen 5:2, at the beginning of the history of believing men, and again after the Flood in Gen 9:1: "And God blessed Noah and his sons."

(4) The central element of God's covenant with Abram is: "I will bless thee . . . and thou shalt be a blessing: And I will bless them that bless thee . . . and in thee shall all families of the earth be blessed" (Gen 12:2–3). (4a) This "blessing" on the nations is repeated in Gen 18:18; 22:18; and 28:14 (cf. Gen 26:4; Jer 4:2). (4b) In all of these instances, God's blessing goes out to the nations through Abraham or his seed. (4c) The covenant promise called the nations to seek the "blessing" (cf. Is 2:2–4), but made it plain that the initiative in blessing rests with God, and that Abraham and his seed were the instruments of it. (5) God, either directly or through His representatives, is the subject of this verb over 100 times. (6) The Levitical benediction is based on this order: "On this wise ye shall bless the children of Israel . . . the Lord bless thee . . . and they shall put my name upon the children of Israel; and I will bless them" (Num 6:23–27).

(7) The passive form of barak is used in pronouncing God's "blessing on men," as through Melchizedek: "Blessed be Abram of the most high God" (Gen 14:19). (8) "Blessed be the LORD God of Shem" (Gen 9:26) is an expression of praise. (9) "Blessed be the most high God, which hath delivered thine enemies into thy hand" (Gen 14:20) is mingled praise and thanksgiving. (10) A common form of greeting was, "Blessed be thou of the LORD" (1 Sa 15:13; cf. Ruth 2:4); "Saul went out to meet [Samuel], that he might salute him" (1 Sa 13:10). (11) The simple form of the verb is used in 2 Chr 6:13: "He . . . kneeled down." (12) Six times the verb is used to denote profanity, as in Job 1:5: "It may be that my sons have sinned, and cursed God in their hearts." See: TWOT—285; BDB—138c, 1085b.

Berakah means "blessing." (1) It is used in conjunction with the verb barak ("to bless") 71 times in the Old Testament. (2) The word appears most frequently in Genesis and Deuteronomy. (3) The first occurrence is God's blessing of Abram: "I will make of thee a great nation, and I will bless thee, and make thy name great; and thou shalt be a blessing [berakah]" (Gen 12:2). (4) When expressed by men, a "blessing" was a wish or prayer for a blessing that is to come in the future: "And [God] give thee the blessing of Abraham, to thee, and to thy seed with thee; that thou mayest inherit the land wherein thou art a stranger, which God gave unto Abraham" (Gen 28:4). (4a) This refers to a "blessing" that the patriarchs customarily extended upon their children before they died. (4b) Jacob's "blessings" on the tribes (Gen 49) and (4c) Moses' "blessing" (Deut 33:1ff.) are other familiar examples of this.

(5) Blessing was the opposite of a cursing (qelalah): "My father peradventure will feel me, and I shall seem to him as a deceiver; and I shall bring a curse upon me, and not a blessing" (Gen 27:12). (6) The blessing might also be presented more concretely in the form of a gift. For example, "Take, I pray thee, my blessing that is brought to thee; because God hath dealt graciously with me, and because I have enough. And he urged him, and he took it" (Gen 33:11). (7) When a "blessing" was directed to God, it was a word of praise and thanksgiving, as in: "Stand up and bless the LORD your God for ever and ever: and blessed be thy glorious name, which is exalted above all blessing and praise" (Neh 9:5). (8) The LORD's "blessing" rests on those who are faithful to Him: "A blessing, if ye obey the commandments of the LORD your God, which I command you this day" (Deut 11:27). His blessing brings (8a) righteousness (Ps 24:5), (8b) life (Ps. 133:3), (8c) prosperity (2 Sa 7:29), and (8d) salvation (Ps 3:8).

(9) The "blessing" is portrayed as a rain or dew: "I will make them and the places round about my hill a blessing; and I will cause the shower to come down in his season; there shall be showers of blessing" (Eze 34:26; cf. Ps 84:6). (10) In the fellowship of the saints, the LORD commands His "blessing": "[It is] as the dew of Hermon, and as the dew that descended upon the mountains of Zion: for there the Lord commanded the blessing, even life for evermore" (Ps 133:3). (11) In a few cases, the LORD made people to be a "blessing" to others. Abraham is a blessing to the nations (Gen 12:2). (12) His descendants are expected to become a blessing to the nations (Is 19:24; Zec 8:13). See: TWOT—285b; BDB—139c.

Basar means "flesh; meat." (1) The word means the "meaty part plus the skin" of men: "And the LORD God caused a deep sleep to fall upon Adam, and he slept: and he took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh instead thereof" (Gen 2:21—the first occurrence). (2) This word can also be applied to the "meaty part" of animals (Deut 14:8). (2a) Gen 41:2 speaks of seven cows, sleek and "fat of flesh." (2b) In Num 11:33, basar means the meat or "flesh" of the quail that Israel was still chewing. Thus the word means "flesh," whether living or dead. (3) Basar often means the "edible part" of animals. (3a) Eli's sons did not know God's law concerning the priests' portion, so "when any man offered sacrifice, the priest's [Eli's] servant came, while the flesh was [boiling], with a [three-pronged fork] in his hand" (1 Sa 2:13). (3b) However, they insisted that "before they burnt the fat . . . , Give flesh to roast for the priest; for he will not have [boiled] flesh of thee, but raw" (literally, "living"—1 Sa 2:15). (3c) Basar, then, represents edible animal "flesh" or "meat," whether cooked (Dan 10:3) or uncooked. (3d) The word sometimes refers to "meat" that one is forbidden to eat (cf. Ex 21:28).

(4) This word may represent a part of the body. (4a) At some points, the body is viewed as consisting of two components, "flesh" and bones: "This is now bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh: she shall be called Woman, because she was taken out of Man" (Gen 2:23). (4b) That part of the "fleshly" element known as the foreskin was to be removed by circumcision (Gen 17:11). (4c) In other passages, the elements of the body are the "flesh," the skin, and the bones (Lam 3:4). (4d) Num. 19:5 mentions the "flesh," hide, blood, and refuse of a heifer. (4e) In Job 10:11, we read: "Thou hast clothed me with skin and flesh, and hast [knit] me with bones and sinews." (5) Flesh sometimes means "blood relative": "And Laban said to him [Jacob], Surely thou art my bone and my flesh" (Gen 29:14). (5a) The phrase "your flesh" or "our flesh" standing alone may bear the same meaning: "Come, and let us sell him to the Ishmaelites, and let not our hand be upon him; for he is our brother and our flesh" (Gen 37:27). (5b) The phrase she'er basar is rendered "near of kin" (Lev 18:6).

(6) About 50 times, "flesh" represents the "physical aspect" of man or animals as contrasted with the spirit, soul, or heart (the nonphysical aspect). (6a) In the case of men, this usage appears in Num 16:22: "O God, the God of the spirits of all flesh, shall one man sin, and wilt thou be wroth with all the congregation?" (6b) In such passages, then, basar emphasizes the "visible and structural part" of man or animal. (7) In a few passages, the word appears to mean "skin," or the part of the body that is seen: "By reason of the voice of my groaning my bones cleave to my skin" (Ps 102:5; 119:120). (8) In passages such as Lev. 13:2, the ideas "flesh" and "skin" are clearly distinguished. (9) The term "all flesh" has several meanings. (9a) It means "all mankind" in Deut 5:26: "For who is there of all flesh, that hath heard the voice of the living God?" (9b) In another place, this phrase refers to "all living creatures within the cosmos," or all men and animals (Gen 6:17). See: TWOT—291a; BDB—142b, 925b, 1085c.

1321. בְּשַׂר {3x} b'sar (Aram.), bes-ar'; corresp. to 1320:—flesh {3x}. See: TWOT—2643; BDB—1085c.

Bosheth means "shame; shameful thing." (1) The 30 appearances of this noun are mostly in poetic materials—only 5 appearances are in historical literature. (2) This word means a "shameful thing" as a substitute for the name Baal: "For shame hath devoured the labor of our fathers from our youth" (Jer 3:24; cf. Jer 11:13; Hos 9:10). (3) This substitution also occurs in proper names: Ish-bosheth (2 Sa 2:8), the "man of shame," was originally Esh-baal (cf. 1 Chr 8:33), the "man of Baal." (4) This word represents both "shame and worthlessness": "Thou son of the perverse rebellious woman, do not I know that thou hast chosen the son of Jesse . . . unto the confusion of thy mother's nakedness" (1 Sa 20:30). (5) The "shame of one's face" (2 Chr 32:21) may well mean being red-faced or embarrassed. See: TWOT—222b; BDB—102a, 143c, 574c.

1329. בְּתוּל {1x} B'thûwl, beth-ool'; for 1328; Bethul (i.e. Bethuel), a place in Pal.:—Bethuel {1x}. See: BDB—143d.

1330. בְּתוּלָה {50x} b'thûwlâh, beth-oo-law'; fem. pass. part. of an unused root mean. to separate; a virgin (from her privacy); sometimes (by continuation) a bride; also (fig.) a city or state:—virgin {38x}, maid {7x}, maiden {5x}.

Bethuwlah (1330) means "maiden, virgin." (1) This word can mean "virgin," as is clear in Deut 22:17, where if a man has charged that "I found not thy daughter a maid," the father is to say, "And yet these are the tokens of my daughter's virginity [betulim]. The text continues: "And they shall spread the cloth before the elders of the city." The husband was to be chastised and fined (which was given to the girl's father), "because he hath brought up an evil name upon a virgin of Israel" (Deut 22:19). If she was found not to be a "virgin," she was to be stoned to death "because she hath wrought folly in Israel, to play the whore in her father's house" (Deut 22:21). (2) In several passages this word merely means a grown-up girl or a "maiden"; it identifies her age and marital status. The prophets who denounce Israel for playing the harlot also called her the bethuwlah of Yahweh, or the bethuwlah (daughter) of Israel (Jer 31:4, 21). (3) The other nations are also called betuloth: Is 23:12—

Zidon; Is 47:1—Babylon; Jer 46:11—Egypt. (3a) These nations are hardly being commended for their purity! (3b) In Ugaritic literature the word is used frequently of the goddess Anat, the sister of Baal and hardly a virgin. (3c) What was true of her and figuratively of these nations (including Israel) was that she was a vigorous young woman at the height of her powers and not married. (3d) Thus bethuwlah is often used in parallelism with the Hebrew bachur, which signifies a young man, regardless of his virginity, who is at the height of his powers (Deut 32:25). (3e) In such contexts virility and not virginity is in view. (3f) Because of this ambiguity Moses described Rebekah as a young girl (5291 - na'arah) who was "very fair to look upon, a virgin [betulah], neither had any man known her" (Gen 24:16—the first occurrence of the word). (4) It is safe to say that all virgins are maidens, but not all maidens are virgins. Syn.: 5659. See: TWOT—295a; BDB—143d.

1331. בְּתוּלִים {10x} b'thûwlîym, beth-oo-leem'; masc. plur. of the same as 1330; (collect. and abstr.) virginity; by impl. and concr. the tokens of it:—virginity {8x}, maid {2x}. See: TWOT—295b; BDB—144a.

Ga'ah means "to be proud, be exalted." The word appears in Ex 15:1 in the sense of "to be exalted": "I will sing to the LORD, for he hath triumphed gloriously: the horse and his rider hath he thrown into the sea." See: TWOT—299; BDB—144b, 1085d.

1343. גַּאֶה {9x} gê'eh, gay-eh'; from 1342; lofty; fig. arrogant:—proud {9x}.

Ge'eh also means "proud" in its 9 occurrences, once in Is 2:12: "For the day of the LORD of hosts shall be upon every one that is proud and lofty." See: TWOT—299b; BDB—144b.

1344. גַּאֲה {1x} gê'âh, gay-aw'; fem. from 1342; arrogance:—pride {1x}. Ge'ah occurs once to mean "pride" (Prov 8:13). See: TWOT—299c; BDB—144d, 1085d.

The noun ga'avah which is found 19 times, also means "pride": "And all the people shall know, even Ephraim and the inhabitant of Samaria, that say in the pride and stoutness of heart . . ." (Is 9:9). See: TWOT—299d; BDB—144d.

1347. גָּאוֹן {49x} gâ'ôwn, gaw-ohn'; from 1342; the same as 1346:—pride {20x}, excellency {10x}, majesty {7x}, pomp {5x}, swelling {3x}, arrogancy {2x}, excellent {1x}, proud {1x}.

Ga'own means "pride." (1) This noun is a poetic word, which is found only in poetic books, the prophets (12 times in Isaiah), Moses' song (Ex 15:7), and Lev (26:19). (2) In a positive sense ga'own, like the verb, signifies "excellence" or "majesty." (2a) God's "majesty" was expressed in Israel's deliverance through the Red Sea (Ex 15:7). (2b) Israel as the redeemed people, then, is considered to be an expression of God's "majesty": "He shall choose our inheritance for us, the excellency of Jacob whom he loved" (Ps 47:4). (3) The meaning of ga'own is here close to that of kabod (3519), "glory." (4) Related to "majesty" is the word ga'own attributed to nature as something mighty, luxuriant, rich, and thick. The poets use the word to refer to the proud waves (Job 38:11) or the thick shrubbery by the Jordan; cf. "If thou hast run with the footmen, and they have wearied thee, then how canst thou contend with horses? And if in the land of peace, wherein thou trustedst, they wearied thee, then how wilt thou do in the swelling [literally, "majesty"] of Jordan?" (Jer 12:5; cf. 49:19; 50:44).

(5) The majority of the uses of ga'own are negative in that they connote human "pride" as an antonym for humility (Prov 16:18). (5a) Proverbs puts ga'own together with arrogance, evil behavior, and perverse speech. (5b) In her independence from the LORD, Israel as a majestic nation, having been set apart by a majestic God, had turned aside and claimed its excellence as a prerogative earned by herself. (5c) The new attitude of insolence was not tolerated by God: "The Lord God hath sworn by himself, saith the LORD the God of hosts, I abhor the excellency of Jacob, and hate his palaces: therefore will I deliver up the city with all that is therein" (Amos 6:8). See: TWOT—299e; BDB—144d.

Ge'uwth appears 8 times and refers to "majesty": "Let favor be showed to the wicked, yet will he not learn righteousness: in the land of uprightness will he deal unjustly, and will not behold the majesty of the LORD" (Is 26:10). See: TWOT—299f; BDB—145a.

1349. גַּאֲיוֹן {1x} ga'ăyôwn, gah-ăh-yone'; from 1342: haughty:—proud {1x}. Ga'ayown, which means "pride," appears once in biblical Hebrew (Ps 123:4). See: TWOT—299g; BDB—145b.

1350. גָּאַל {104x} gâ'al, gaw-al'; a prim. root, to redeem (according to the Oriental law of kinship), i.e. to be the next of kin (and as such to buy back a relative's property, marry his widow, etc.):—redeem {50x}, redeemer {18x}, kinsman {13x}, revenger {7x}, avenger {6x}, ransom {2x}, at all {2x}, deliver {1x}, kinsfolks {1x}, kinsman's part {1x}, purchase {1x}, stain {1x}, wise {1x}.

Ga'al means "to redeem, deliver, avenge, act as a kinsman." (1) The first occurrence of ga'al is in Gen 48:16: "The angel which redeemed me [Jacob] from all evil . . ." (2) Its basic use had to do with the deliverance of persons or property that had been sold for debt, as (2a) in Lev 25:25: "If thy brother be waxen poor, and hath sold away some of his possession, and if any of his kin come to redeem it, then shall he redeem that which his brother sold." (2b) If he prospers, the man himself may "redeem" it (Lev 25:26). (2c) A poor man may sell himself to a fellow Israelite (Lev 25:39) or to an alien living in Israel (Lev 25:47). (3) The responsibility "to redeem" belonged to the nearest relative—brother, uncle, uncle's son, or a blood relative from his family (Lev 25:25, 48–49). (4) The person who "redeemed" the one in financial difficulties was known as a (4a) kinsman in Ruth 2:20. (4b) In Deut 19:6 the redeemer is called the "avenger of blood" whose duty it was to execute the murderer of his relative. (4b1) The verb occurs in this sense 12 times and is translated "revenger" (Num 35:19, 21, 24, 27) or (4b2) "avenger" (Num 35:12).

(5) The Book of Ruth is a beautiful account of the kinsman-redeemer. (5a) His responsibility is summed up in Ruth 4:5: "What day thou buyest the field of the hand of Naomi, thou must buy it also of Ruth the Moabitess, the wife of the dead, to raise up the name of the dead upon his inheritance." (5b) Thus the kinsman-redeemer was responsible for preserving the integrity, life, property, and family name of his close relative or for executing justice upon his murderer. (6) The greater usage of this word group is of God who promised: "I am the LORD . . . I will redeem you with a stretched out arm and with great judgments" (Ex 6:6; cf. Ps 77:15). (6a) Israel confessed: "Thou in thy mercy hast led forth the people which thou hast redeemed" (Ex 15:13). (6b) "And they remembered that God was their rock, and the high God their redeemer" (Ps 78:35).

(7) The Book of Isaiah evidences the word "Redeemer" used of God 13 times, all in chapters 41—63, and ga'al is used 9 times of God, (7a) first in 43:1: "Fear not; for I have redeemed thee, I have called thee by thy name; thou art mine." (7b) Ga'al is used of deliverance from Egypt (51:10; 63:9) and (7c) from captivity in Babylon (48:20; 52:3, 9; 62:12). (7d) Israel's "Redeemer" is (7d1) "the Holy One of Israel" (41:14), (7d2) "the creator of Israel, your King" (43:14–15), (7d3) "the LORD of hosts" (44:6), and (7d4) "the mighty One of Jacob" (49:26). (7e) Those who share His salvation are "the redeemed" (35:9). (8) The Book of Psalms often places spiritual redemption in parallel with physical redemption. (8a) For example: "Draw nigh unto my soul, and redeem it: deliver me because of mine enemies" (Ps 69:18). (8b) "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits: . . . who redeemeth thy life from destruction; who crowneth thee with loving-kindness and tender mercies" (Ps 103:2, 4). Syn.: 6299. See: TWOT—300; BDB—145b.

Ge'ullah means "(right of) redemption." (1) This word is used in regard to deliverance of persons or property that had been sold for debt. (1a) The law required that the "right of redemption" of land and of persons be protected (Lev 25:24, 48). (1b) The redemption price was determined by the number of years remaining until the release of debts in the year of jubilee (Lev 25:27–28). (2) The word ge'ullah also occurs in Jer 32:7: "Behold, Hanameel the son of Shallum thine uncle shall come unto thee, saying, Buy thee my field that is in Anathoth: for the right of redemption is thine to buy it." See: TWOT—300b; BDB—145d.

"And the two horns were high; but one was higher than the other, and the higher came up last." (4) The word means "high or exalted in station": (4a) "Thus saith the Lord God; Remove the diadem, and take off the crown: this shall not be the same: exalt him that is low, and abase him that is high" (Eze 21:26). (4b) In Eccl 5:8, this connotation of "one of high rank" may be expressed in the translation "higher/highest." (5) Gabowahh may be used of a psychological state, such as "haughtiness": "Talk no more so exceeding proudly [this double appearance of the word emphasizes it]; let not arrogancy come out of your mouth" (1 Sa 2:3). Syn.: 1116, 4791, 6967. See: TWOT—305a; BDB—147a.

Gebul (1366) means "boundary; limit; territory; closed area." (1) Gebul literally means "boundary" or "border." (1a) This meaning appears in Num 20:23, where it signifies the border or boundary of the entire land of Edom. (1b) Sometimes such an imaginary line was marked by a physical barrier: "Arnon is the border of Moab, between Moab and the Amorites" (Num 21:13). (1c) Sometimes gebul denoted ethnic boundaries, such as the borders of the tribes of Israel: "And unto the Reubenites and unto the Gadites I gave from Gilead even unto the river Arnon half the valley, and the border even unto the river Jabbok, which is the border of the children of Ammon" (Deut 3:16). (1d) In Gen 23:17, gebul represents the "border" of an individual's field or piece of ground: "And the field of Ephron, which was in Machpelah, which was before Mamre, the field, and the cave which was therein, and all the trees that were in the field, that were in all the borders round about, were made sure." (1e) Fields were delineated by "boundary marks," whose removal was forbidden by law (Deut 19:14; cf. Deut 27:17).

(2) Gebul can suggest the farthest extremity of a thing: "Thou hast set a bound that they may not pass over; that they turn not again to cover the earth" (Ps 104:9). (3) This word sometimes represents the concrete object marking the border of a thing or area (cf. Eze 40:12). (3a) The "border" of Ezekiel's altar is signified by gebul (Eze 43:13) and (3b) Jerusalem's "surrounding wall" is represented by this word (Is 54:12). (4) Gebul represents the territory within certain boundaries: "And the border of the Canaanites was from Sidon, as thou comest to Gerar, unto Gaza; as thou goest, unto Sodom, and Gomorrah, and Admah, and Zeboim, even unto Lasha" (Gen 10:19). (5) In Ex 34:24, Num 21:22, 1 Chr 21:12, and Ps 105:31–32, gebul is paralleled to the "territory" surrounding and belonging to a city. See: TWOT—307a; BDB—147c, 147d.

Gibbor means "strong/mighty man" (1) The first occurrence of gibbor is in Gen 6:4: "There were giants in the earth in those days; and also after that, when the sons of God came in unto the daughters of men, and they bare children to them, the same became mighty men which were of old, men of renown." (2) In the context of battle, the word is better understood to refer to the category of warriors. (2a) The gibbor is the proven warrior; especially is this true when gibbor is used in combination with chayil (2428 - "strength"). (2b) The KJV gives a literal translation, "mighty men [gibbor] of valor [chayil]." (3) David, who had proven himself as a warrior, (3a) attracted "mighty men" to his band while he was being pursued by Saul (2 Sa 23). (3b) When David was enthroned as king, these men became a part of the elite military corps.

(4) The phrase gibbor chayil may also refer to a man of a high social class, the landed man who had military responsibilities. Saul came from such a family (1 Sa 9:1); so also Jeroboam (1 Kin 11:28). (5) The king symbolized the strength of his kingdom. (5a) He had to lead his troops in battle, and as commander he was expected to be a "mighty man." (5b) Early in David's life, he was recognized as a "mighty man" (1 Sa 18:7). (5c) The king is described as "mighty": "Gird thy sword upon thy thigh, O most Mighty, with thy glory and thy majesty" (Ps 45:3). (6) The messianic expectation included the hope that the Messiah would be "mighty": "For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given: and the government shall be upon his shoulder; and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counselor, The mighty God, The everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace" (Is 9:6).

(7) Israel's God was a mighty God (Is 10:21). (7a) He had the power to deliver: "The Lord thy God in the midst of thee is mighty; he will save, he will rejoice over thee with joy; he will rest in his love, he will joy over thee with singing" (Zeph 3:17). (7b) Jeremiah's moving confession (32:17ff.) bears out the might of God in creation (v. 17) and in redemption (vv. 18ff.). (7c) The answer to the emphatic question, "Who is this King of glory?" in Ps 24 is: "The Lord strong and mighty, the Lord mighty in battle" (v. 8). (8) Gibbor may be translated by the adjective "strong" in the following contexts: (8a) a "strong" man (1 Sa 14:52), (8b) a "strong" lion (Prov 30:30), (8c) a mighty hunter (Gen 10:9), and (8d) the mighty ones (Gen 6:1–4). 1369. גְּבוּרָה {61x} gᵉbûwrâh, gheb-oo-raw'; fem. pass. part. from the same as 1368; force (lit. or fig.); by impl. valor, victory:—might {27x}, strength {17x}, power {9x}, mighty acts {4x}, mighty {2x}, force {1x}, mastery {1x}.

The primary meaning of gebuwrah is power or strength. (1) Certain animals are known for their strength, such as (1a) horses (Ps 147:10) and (1b) crocodiles (Job 41:4). (2) Man demonstrates might (2a) in heroic acts (Judg 8:21) and (2b) in war (Is 3:25). (3) David's powerful regime is a kingship of gebuwrah (1 Chr 29:30). (4) Both physical strength and wisdom were necessary for leadership, these two qualities are joined together (4a) in Wisdom (Prov 8:14), and (4b) in the Spirit-filled Micah (Mic 3:8). (5) The Messiah's special role will be a demonstration of might and counsel (Is 11:2). (6) God's might is lauded (6a) in psalms of praise (Ps 65:6), or (6b) in the context of prayer (Ps 54:1); and (6c) is a manifestation of His wisdom (Job 12:13). Gabar means "to be strong." The root meaning "to be strong" appears in all Semitic languages as a verb or a noun, but the verb occurs only 25 times in the Old Testament. Job 21:7 contains an occurrence of gabar: "Wherefore do the wicked live, become old, yea, are mighty in power?" Syn.: 2388, 8630. See: TWOT—310; BDB—149c, 1085d.

(5) A geber denotes a "male," as an antonym of a "woman"; cf. "The woman [ishshah] shall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, neither shall a man [geber] put on a woman's [ishshah] garment: for all that do so are abomination unto the Lord thy God" (Deut 22:5). (6) In standardized expressions of curse and blessing geber also functions as a synonym for ish, "man." The expression may begin with "Cursed be the man" (geber; Jer 17:5) or "Blessed is the man" (geber; Ps 34:8), but these same expressions also occur with ish (Ps 1:1; Deut 27:15). Syn: Other synonyms are zakar (2145 - "male" - Jer 30:6); enos (582 - "man" - Job 4:17); and adam (120 - "man" - Job 14:10). When compared to the weakness found in enosh, one can readily see that man is a marvelous combination of strength (geber) and weakness (enosh). Syn.: 120, 376, 582, 2145. See: TWOT—310a; BDB—149d.

Geduwd (1416) means "band (of raiders); marauding band; raiding party; army; units (of an army); troops; bandits; raid." (1) Basically, this word represents individuals or a band of individuals who raid and plunder an enemy. (1a) The units that perform such raids may be a group of outlaws ("bandits"), (1b) a special unit of any army, or (1c) an entire army. (2) Ancient peoples frequently suffered raids from their neighbors. (2a1) When the Amalekites "raided" Ziklag, looting and burning it while taking captive the wives and families of the men who followed David, he inquired of God, "Shall I pursue after this troop? shall I overtake them?" (1 Sa 30:8). (2a2) In this case, the "raiding band" consisted of the entire army of Amalek. (2b) This meaning of geduwd occurs for the first time in Gen 49:19: "A troop shall overcome him." Here the word is a collective noun referring to all the "band of raiders" to come. (3) When Job described the glory of days gone by, he said he "dwelt as a king in the army" (Job 29:25).

(4) When David and his followers were called a geduwd, they were being branded outlaws—men who lived by fighting and raiding (1 Kin 11:24). (5) In some passages, geduwd signifies a smaller detachment of troops or a military unit or division: (5a) "And Saul's son had two men that were captains of bands" (2 Sa 4:2). (5b) God sent against Jehoiakim "units" from the Babylonian army—"bands of the Chaldees, and bands of the Syrians, and bands of the Moabites, and bands of the children of Ammon" (2 Kin 24:2). (6) The word can also represent individuals who are members of such raiding or military bands. (6a) The individuals in the household of Izrahiah, the descendant of Issachar, formed a military unit, "and with them by their generations, after the house of their fathers, were bands of soldiers for war, six and thirty thousand men" (1 Chr 7:4). (6b) Bildad asks the rhetorical question concerning God, "Is there any number [numbering] of his armies?" (Job 25:3). See: TWOT—313a; BDB—151b.

Gadol means "great." (1) The adjective gadol is the most frequently appearing word related to the verb gadal (1431). (2) Gadol is used (2a) of extended dimension (Gen 1:21), (2b) of number (Gen 12:2), (2c) of power (Deut 4:37), (2d) of punishment (Gen 4:13), and (2e) of value or importance (Gen 39:9). (3) The verb gadal (1431) and the related adjective gadol may each be used to make distinctive statements. (3a) In Hebrew one may say "he is great" both by using the verb alone and by using the pronoun and the adjective gadol. (3a1) The first sets forth a standing and existing condition—so Mal 1:5 could be rendered: "The Lord is magnified beyond the borders of Israel." (3a2) The second construction announces newly experienced information to the recipient, as in Is 12:6: "Great is the Holy One of Israel in the midst of thee." This information was known previously, but recent divine acts have made it to be experienced anew. The emphasis is on the freshness of the experience. See: TWOT—315d; BDB—152d.

1420. גְּדוּלָה {12x} g^{e}dûwlâh, ghed-oo-law'; or (short.)

Geduwllah means "greatness; great dignity; great things." (1) This noun means "greatness" in Ps 71:21: "Thou shalt increase my greatness, and comfort me on every side." (2) Geduwllah may refer also to "great dignity" (Est 6:3) and (3) to "great things" (2 Sa 7:21). 1431. גָּדַל gâdal, gaw-dal'; a prim. root; prop. to twist [comp. 1434], i.e. to be (caus. make) large (in various senses, as in body, mind, estate or honor, also in pride):—magnify {32x}, great {26x}, grow {14x}, nourish up {7x}, grow up {6x}, greater {5x}, misc. {25x}.

Gadal means "to become strong, grow up, be great or wealthy, evidence oneself as great (magnified), be powerful, significant, or valuable." (1) This verb can signify the increasing of size and age as with the maturing process of human life: "And the child grew, and was weaned" (Gen 21:8). (2) The word also depicts the "growing up" (2a) of animals (2 Sa 12:3) and (2b) plants (Is 44:14) and (2c) the maturing of animal horns (Dan 8:9) and (2d) other growing things. (3) In the intensive stem gadal indicates that this rearing has occurred: "I have nourished and brought up children" (Is 1:2). (4) This stem may also imply permission: "[He] shall let the locks of the hair of his head grow" (Num 6:5). (5) Gadal can represent the status of "being great or wealthy." Abraham's servant reported: "And the Lord hath blessed my master greatly; and he is become great" (Gen 24:35)—here the word represents the conclusion of a process.

(6) In the intensive stem the verb sets forth a fact, as when God said: "And I will make of thee a great nation, and I will bless thee, and make thy name great" (Gen 12:2—the first biblical occurrence of the verb). (7) This word is sometimes used with the meaning "to be great, to evidence oneself as great": (7a) "And now, I beseech thee, let the power of my Lord be great, according as thou hast spoken" (Num 14:17). (7b) Moses is praying that God will demonstrate that He is truly great, even as He has said, and do so not by destroying His people. (7c) Such an act (destroying Israel) would make onlookers conclude that God was not able to accomplish what He had promised. (7d) If, however, He would bring Israel into Palestine, this would exhibit His greatness before the nations. (7e) This same sense appears in 2 Sa 7:22, except with the added overtone of "magnified," "praised as great": "Wherefore thou art great, O Lord God: for there is none like thee, neither is there any God besides thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears."

(8) Another emphasis of gadal is "to be great, powerful, important, or valuable." This nuance arises when the word is applied to kings. Pharaoh said to Joseph: "Thou shalt be over my house, and according unto thy word shall all my people be ruled: only in the throne will I be greater [more powerful and honored] than thou" (Gen 41:40). (9) The Messiah "shall stand and feed in the strength of the Lord, in the majesty of the name of the Lord his God; and they shall abide: for now shall he be great unto the ends of the earth" (Mic 5:4); He will be powerful to the ends of the earth. (10) The nuance "to be valuable" appears in 1 Sa 26:24 when David said to Saul: "And, behold, as thy life was much set by this day in mine eyes, so let my life be much set by in the eyes of the Lord, and let him deliver me out of all tribulation." (10a) In this statement the second use of the verb is in the intensive stem. (10b) Perhaps the force of this could be expressed if one were to translate: "So may my life be very highly valued."

(11) In the reflexive stem gadal may signify "to magnify oneself." (11a) God says: "Thus will I magnify myself, and sanctify myself; and I will be known in the eyes of many nations" (Eze 38:23). (11b) The context shows that He will bring judgment. (11c) In this way He "magnifies Himself," or shows Himself to be great and powerful. (12) On the other hand, a false statement of greatness and power is an empty boast. So gadal can mean "to boast": "Shall the axe boast itself against him that heweth therewith? or shall the saw magnify itself against him that shaketh it?" (Is 10:15). (13) In the causative stem the verb may signify "to assume great airs": "If indeed ye will magnify yourselves against me, and plead against me my reproach . . ." (Job 19:5). (14) A nuance appears in Job 7:17, where gadal is in the intensive stem, suggesting an estimation of greatness: "What is man, that thou shouldest magnify him? and that thou shouldest set thine heart upon him?" (Ps 8:4). When man is so insignificant, why then does God esteem him so important? See: TWOT—315; BDB—152a.

Another adjective gadel means "becoming great; growing up." This verbal adjective occurs 4 times, once in Gen 26:13: "And the man waxed great (1431), and went forward, and grew (1432) until he became very great (1431)." See: TWOT—315a; BDB—152c.

גֹּי gôy, go'-ee; appar. from the same root as 1465 (in the sense of massing); a foreign nation; hence, a Gentile; also (fig.) a troop of animals, or a flight of locusts:—nation {374x}, heathen {143x}, Gentiles {30x}, people {11x}.

Goy means "nation; people; heathen." (1) Goy refers to a "people or nation," usually with overtones of territorial or governmental unity/identity. (1a) This emphasis is in the promise formulas where God promised to make someone a great, powerful, numerous "nation" (Gen 12:2). (1b) Certainly these adjectives described the future characteristics of the individual's descendants as compared to other peoples (cf. Num 14:12). (1c) So goy represents a group of individuals who are considered as a unit with respect to origin, language, land, jurisprudence, and government. (1d) This emphasis is in Gen 10:5 (the first occurrence): "By these were the isles of the Gentiles divided in their lands; every one after his tongue, after their families, in their nations." (1e) Deut 4:6 deals not with political and national identity but with religious unity, its wisdom, insight, righteous jurisprudence, and especially its nearness to God: "Keep therefore and do them; for this is your wisdom and your understanding in the sight of the nations, which shall hear all these statutes, and say, Surely this great nation is a wise and understanding people." (1f) Certainly all this is viewed as the result of divine election (Deut 4:32ff.). (1g) Israel's greatness is due to the greatness of her God and the great acts He has accomplished in and for her.

(2) Goy is sometimes almost a derogatory name for non-Israelite groups, or the "heathen": "And I will scatter you among the heathen, and will draw out a sword . . ." (Lev 26:33). (2a) This negative connotation is not always present, however, when the word is used of the heathen: "For from the top of the rocks I see him, and from the hills I behold him: lo, the people shall dwell alone, and shall not be reckoned among the nations" (Num 23:9). (3) Certainly in contexts dealing with worship the goyim are the non-Israelites: "They feared the Lord, and served their own gods, after the manner of the nations whom they carried away from thence" (2 Kin 17:33). (4) In passages such as Deut 4:38 goyim specifically describes the early inhabitants of Canaan prior to the Israelite conquest. (4a) Israel was to keep herself apart from and distinct from the "heathen" (Deut 7:1) and (4b) was to be an example of true godliness before them (Deut 4:6).

(5) On the other hand, Israel was to be the means by which salvation was declared to the nations (heathen) as a blessing to all the nations (Gen 12:2) and (5a) as a holy "nation" and kingdom of priests (Ex 19:6), and (5b) the nations came to recognize God's sovereignty (Is 60). (6) So the Messiah is the light of the nations (Is 49:6). Syn: (A) The word 'am (5971), "people, nation," suggests subjective personal interrelationships based on common familial ancestry and/or a covenantal union, while goy suggests a political entity with a land of its own: "Now therefore, I pray thee, if I have found grace in thy sight, show me thy way, that I may know thee, that I may find grace in thy sight: and consider that this nation is thy people" (Ex 33:13). (B) Goy may be used of a people, however, apart from its territorial identity: "And ye shall be unto me a kingdom of priests, and a holy nation" (Ex 19:6). Syn.: 5971. See: TWOT—326e; BDB—156c, 157a, 361d.

Golah means "exile; people exiled." (1) Ezra 2:1 uses the word of "people returning from the exile." (2) In other references, the word means "people in exile" (2 Kin 24:15). (3) In 1 Chr 5:22, golah refers to the era of the "exile." See: TWOT—350a; BDB—163c, 1086c.

This verb means "to dwell or sojourn in a land as a client." The first occurrence of the word is in Gen 12:10, where it is reported that Abram journeyed to Egypt and dwelt there as a client. In Gen 21:23, Abraham makes a covenant with Abimelech, saying, "According to the kindness that I have done unto thee, thou shalt do unto me, and to the land wherein thou hast sojourned." 1486. גּוֹרָל {77x} gôwrâl, go-rawl'; or (short.)

גֹּרָל gôrâl, go-ral'; from an unused root mean. to be rough (as stone); prop. a pebble, i.e. a lot (small stones being used for that purpose); fig. a portion or destiny (as if determined by lot):—lot {1x}.

Goral means "lot." (1) Goral represents the "lot" which was cast to discover the will of God in a given situation: "And Aaron shall cast lots upon the two goats; one lot for the Lord, and the other lot for the scapegoat" (Lev 16:8—the first occurrence). (2) Exactly what casting the "lot" involved is not known. (3) Since the land of Palestine was allocated among the tribes by the casting of the "lot," these allotments came to be known as their lots: "This then was the lot of the tribe of the children of Judah by their families; even to the border of Edom" (Josh 15:1). (4) In an extended use the word goral represents the idea "fate" or "destiny": "And behold at eveningtide trouble; and before the morning he is not. This is the portion of them that spoil us, and the lot of them that rob us" (Is 17:14). (5) Since God is viewed as controlling all things absolutely, the result of the casting of the "lot" is divinely controlled: "The lot is cast into the lap; but the whole disposing thereof is of the Lord" (Prov 16:33). (6) Thus, providence (divine control of history) is frequently figured as one's "lot." See: TWOT—381a; BDB—174a.

The Chaldean soothsayer (Dan 2:27; 4:7; 5:7, 11) was no doubt an astrologer, who pretended to do what astrologers in many countries and in various eras have professed to do, namely, to calculate the destinies of man by interpreting the movements and conjunctions of the heavenly bodies. Their name comes from this verb which is literally to cut. Whether their name was applied to them from their marking out the heavens into certain divisions for purposes of observation, or whether they derived it from the fact that they cut off or decided the fate of those who came to them for advice, is a matter which perhaps cannot now be determined. Galah means "to leave, depart, uncover, reveal." (1) Intransitively, galah signifies "depart" or "leave." (1a) This meaning is seen clearly in 1 Sa 4:21: "And she named the child Ichabod, saying, The glory is departed from Israel." (1b) Thus Isaiah 24:11: "The mirth of the land is gone." (1c) One special use of this sense of the verb is "to go into exile." The first biblical occurrence of galah carries this nuance: "And the children of Dan set up the graven image: and Jonathan . . . and his sons were priests to the tribe of Dan until the day of the captivity of the land" (Judg 18:30), or until they lost control of the land and were forced to serve other gods. (1d) The best-known Old Testament captivity was the one brought by God through the kings of Assyria and Babylon (1 Chr 5:26; cf. Jer 29:1).

(1e) Although galah is not used in this sense in the law of Moses, the idea is clearly present. If Israel does not "observe to do all the words of this law that are written in this book, that thou mayest fear this glorious and fearful name, The Lord Thy God; . . . ye shall be plucked from off the land whither thou goest to possess it. And the Lord shall scatter thee among all people" (Deut 28:58, 63–64; cf. Lev 26:27, 33). (1f) This verb can also be used of the "exile of individuals," such as David (2 Sa 15:19). (1g) This word may signify "making oneself naked." Noah "drank of the wine, and was drunken; and he was uncovered within his tent" (Gen 9:21).

(2) The transitive form occurs less frequently, but has a greater variety of meanings. (2a) "To uncover" another person may mean "to have sexual relations with" him or her: "None of you shall approach to any [blood relative of his] to uncover their nakedness: I am the Lord" (Lev 18:6). (2b) Uncovering one's nakedness does not always, however, refer to sexual relations (cf. Ex 20:26). (2c) Another phrase, "to uncover someone's skirts," means to have sexual relations with a person (Deut 22:30). (2d) In Is 16:3, galah (in the intensive stem) signifies "betray": "Hide the outcasts [do not betray the fugitive]. . . ." (2e) This verb may also be used of "discovering" things, of "laying them bare" so that they become visible: "The foundations of the world were discovered at the rebuking of the Lord" (2 Sa 22:16). (2f) In a related sense Eze 23:18 speaks of "uncovering" harlotries, of "exposing" them constantly or leading a life of harlotry. (2g) God's "uncovering" of Himself means that He "revealed" Himself (Gen 35:7).

(2h) "To uncover someone's ears" is to tell him something: (2h1) "Now the LORD had told Samuel in his ear [literally, "had uncovered the ear"] a day before Saul came, saying, to Samuel . . ." (1 Sa 9:15). (2h2) In this case, the verb means not simply "to tell," but "to tell someone something that was not known." (2h3) Used in this sense, galah is applied to the "revealing" of secrets (Prov 11:13) and of one's innermost feelings. (2h4) Hence, Jer 11:20 should be translated: "For unto thee have I revealed my case." (2i) Thus galah can be used of "making something" openly known, or of "publicizing" it: "The copy of the writing for a commandment to be given in every province was published unto all people, that they should be ready against that day" (Est 3:14). (2j) Another nuance appears in Jer 32:11, where galah, in connection with a deed of purchase, means "not sealed or closed up." Geyr means "client; stranger." (1) A "client" was not simply a foreigner (5237 - nakri) or a stranger (2114 - zar). (1a) He was a permanent resident, once a citizen of another land, who had moved into his new residence. (1b) Frequently he left his homeland under some distress, as when Moses fled to Midian (Ex 2:22). (1c) Whether the reason for his journey was to escape some difficulty or merely to seek a new place to dwell, he was one who sought acceptance and refuge. (1d) Consequently he might also call himself a toshab (8453), a settler. (1e) Neither the settler nor the "client" could possess land. (1e1) In the land of Canaan the possession of land was limited to members or descendants of the original tribal members. (1e2) Only they were full citizens who enjoyed all the rights of citizenry, which meant sharing fully in the inheritance of the gods and forefathers—the feudal privileges and responsibilities (cf. Eze 47:22).

(2) In Israel a geyr, like a priest, (2a) could possess no land and enjoyed the special privileges of the third tithe. (2b) Every third year the tithe of the harvest was to be deposited at the city gate with the elders and distributed among "the Levite, (because he hath no part nor inheritance with thee,) and the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, which are within thy gates" (Deut 14:29). (3) In the eschaton such "clients" were to be treated as full citizens: "And it shall come to pass, that ye shall divide it [the land] by lot for an inheritance unto you, and to the strangers that sojourn among you, which shall beget children among you: and they shall be unto you as born in the country among the children of Israel; they shall have inheritance with you among the tribes of Israel" (Eze 47:22). (4) Under the Mosaic law aliens were not slaves but were usually in the service of some Israelite whose protection they enjoyed (Deut 24:14). (4a) This, however, was not always the case. (4b) Sometimes a "client" was rich and an Israelite would be in his service (Lev 25:47).

(5) The geyr was to be treated (except for feudal privileges and responsibilities) as an Israelite, being responsible to and protected by the law: (5a) "Hear the causes between your brethren, and judge righteously between every man and his brother, and the stranger that is with him" (Deut 1:16); (5b) "ye shall therefore keep my statutes and my judgments, and shall not commit any of these abominations; neither any of your own nation, nor any stranger that sojourneth among you" (Lev 18:26); (5c) "ye shall have one manner of law, as well for the stranger, as for one of your own country: for I am the Lord your God" (Lev 24:22). (6) The geyr also enjoyed the Sabbath rest (Lev 25:6) and divine protection (Deut 10:18). (7) God commanded Israel to love the "client" as himself (Lev 19:34).

(8) The geyr could also be (8a) circumcised (Ex 12:48) and (8b) enjoy all the privileges of the true religion: (8b1) the Passover (Ex 12:48–49), (8b2) the Atonement feast (Lev 16:29), (8b3) presenting offerings (Lev 17:8), and (8b4) all the feasts (Deut 16:11). (8c) He was also obligated to keep the purity laws (Lev 17:15). (9) Israel is told that God is the true owner of all the land and its people are but "clients" owing Him feudal obedience (Lev 19:34; Deut 10:19). (10) They are admonished to treat the client with justice, righteousness, and love because like Abraham (Gen 23:4) they were "clients" in Egypt (Ex 22:21). (11) In legal cases the "client" could appeal directly to God the great feudal Lord (Lev 24:22).

Syn: Two other nouns related to geyr are megurim (4033) and gerut (1628). Megurim refers to the "status or condition of being a client" (Gen 17:8) and to a "dwelling where one is a client" (Job 18:19). Gerut refers to a "place where clients dwell" (Jer 41:17). 1692. דָּבַק {54x} dâbaq, daw-bak'; a prim. root; prop. to impinge, i.e. cling or adhere; fig. to catch by pursuit:—cleave {32x}, follow hard {5x}, overtake {3x}, stick {3x}, keep fast {2x}, . . . together {2x}, abide {1x}, close {1x}, joined {1x}, pursued {1x}, take {1x}.

Dabaq means "to cling, cleave, keep close." (1) Dabaq yields the noun form for "glue" and also the more abstract ideas of "loyalty, devotion." (2) In Gen 2:24: "Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife: and they shall be one flesh." This usage reflects the basic meaning of one object's (person's) being joined to another. (3) In this sense, Eleazar's hand "cleaved" to the sword as he struck down the Philistines (2 Sa 23:10). (4) Jeremiah's linen waistcloth "clung" to his loins, symbolic of Israel's "clinging" to God (Jer 13:11). (5) In time of war and siege, the resulting thirst and famine caused the tongue "to cleave" to the roof of the mouth of those who had been so afflicted. (6) The figurative use of dabaq in the sense of "loyalty" and "affection" is based on the physical closeness of the persons involved, such as (6a) a husband's closeness to his wife (Gen 2:24), (6b) Shechem's affection for Dinah (Gen 34:3), or (6c) Ruth's staying with Naomi (Ruth 1:14). (7) "Cleaving" to God is equivalent to "loving" God (Deut 30:20). See: TWOT—398; BDB—179c, 1087a.

1693. דְּבַק {1x} dᵉbaq (Aram.), deb-ak'; corresp. to 1692; to stick to:—cleave {1x}. See: TWOT—2666; BDB—1087a.

1696. דָּבַר {1143x} dâbar, daw-bar'; a prim. root; perh. prop. to arrange; but used fig. (of words), to speak; rarely (in a destructive sense) to subdue:—speak {840x}, say {118x}, talk {46x}, promise {31x}, tell {25x}, commune {20x}, pronounce {14x}, utter {7x}, command {4x} misc. {38x} = answer, appoint, bid, declare, destroy, give, name, rehearse, be spokesman, subdue, teach, think, use [entreaties], × well, × work.

Dabar means "to speak, say." (1) This verb focuses not only on the content of spoken verbal communication but also and especially on the time and circumstances of what is said. (2) Unlike 'amar (559), "to say," dabar often appears without any specification of what was communicated. (2a) Those who "speak" are primarily persons (God or men) or organs of speech. (2a1) In Gen 8:15 (the first occurrence of this verb) God "spoke" to Noah, (2a2) while in Gen 18:5 one of the three men "spoke" to Abraham. (3) Exceptions to this generalization occur, for example (3a) in Job 32:7, where Elihu personifies "days" (a person's age) as that which has the right "to speak" first. (3b) In 2 Sa 23:2 David says that the Spirit of the Lord "spoke" to him; contrary to many (especially liberal) scholars, this is probably a reference to the Holy Spirit.

(4) Among the special meanings of this verb are (4a) "to say" (Dan 9:21), (4b) "to command" (2 Kin 1:9), (4c) "to promise" (Deut 6:3), (4d) "to commission" (Ex 1:17), (4e) "to announce" (Jer 36:31), (4f) "to order or command" (Deut 1:14), and (4g) "to utter a song" (Judg 5:12). (4h) Such secondary meanings are, however, quite infrequent. Syn.: Amar (559) usually focuses on the mode of revelation, whereas dabar focuses on the content. See: TWOT—399; BDB—180b.

1697. דָּבָר {1439x} dâbâr, daw-baw'; from 1696; a word; by impl. a matter (as spoken of) or thing; adv. a cause:—word {807x}, thing {231x}, matter {63x}, acts {51x}, chronicles {38x}, saying {25x}, commandment {20x}, misc. {204x} = advice, affair, answer, × any such (thing), + because of, book, business, care, case, cause, certain rate, × commune (-ication), + concern [-ing], + confer, counsel, + dearth, decree, deed, × disease, due, duty, effect, + eloquent, errand, [evil favoured-] ness, + glory, + harm, hurt, + iniquity, + judgment, language, + lying, manner, message, [no] thing, oracle, × ought, × parts, + pertaining, + please, portion, + power, promise, provision, purpose, question, rate, reason, report, request, × (as hast) said, sake, sentence, + sign, + so, some [uncleanness], somewhat to say, + song, speech, × spoken, talk, task, + that, × there done, thought, + thus, tidings, what [-soever], + wherewith, which, work.

Dabar means "word, matter; something." (1) The noun dabar refers, first, to what is said, to the actual "word" itself; whereas 'emer (561) is essentially oral communication (the act of speaking). (2) Before the dispersion from the tower of Babel all men spoke the same "words" or language (Gen 11:1). (3) This noun can also be used of the content of speaking. When God "did according to the word of Moses" (Ex 8:13), He granted his request. (4) The noun can connote "matter" or "affair," as in Gen 12:17, where it is reported that God struck Pharaoh's household with plagues "because of Sarai." (5) A rather specialized occurrence of this sense appears in references to (5a) records of the "events of a period" (1 Kin 14:19) or (5b) the activities of a particular person (1 Kin 11:41; cf. Gen 15:1).

(6) Dabar can be used as a more general term in the sense of (6a) "something"—so in Gen 24:66 the "all things" is literally "all of something(s)"; (6b) it is an indefinite generalized concept rather than a reference to everything in particular. (7) This noun also appears to have had almost a technical status in Israel's law procedures. Anyone who had a "matter" before Moses had a law case (Ex 18:16). (8) As a biblical phrase "the word of the Lord" is quite important; it occurs about 242 times. (8a) Against the background just presented it is important to note that "word" here may focus on the content (meaning) of what was said, (8b) but it also carries overtones of the actual "words" themselves. (8c) It was the "word of the Lord" that came to Abram in a vision after his victory over the kings who had captured Lot (Gen 15:1). (8d) In most cases this is a technical phrase referring expressly to prophetic revelation (about 225 times). (8e) It has been suggested that this phrase has judicial overtones although there are only 7 passages where this is certain (cf. Num 15:31).

(9) This noun is used twice of God's "affairs" in the sense of the care of the temple (1 Chr 26:32). (10) The "word" of God indicates God's thoughts and will. (10a) This should be contrasted with His name, which indicates His person and presence. (10b) Therefore, God's "word" is called "holy" only once (cf. Ps 105:42), while His name is frequently called "holy." Syn: Several other nouns related to the verb dabar occur infrequently. (A) Dibrah (1700), which occurs 5 times, means "cause, manner" (Job 5:8). (B) Dabberet (1703) means "word" once (Deut 33:3). (C) Deborah (1682) appears 5 times and refers to "honey bee" (Deut 1:44; Ps 118:12). (D) Midbar (4057) refers to "speaking" once (Song 4:3). (E) Dabar refers to what is said, the actual word itself; whereas emer (561) is essentially oral communication (the act of speaking). See: TWOT—399a; BDB—182a.

1698. דֶּבֶר {49x} deber, deh'-ber; from 1696 (in the sense of destroying); a pestilence:—pestilence {47x}, plagues {1x}, murrain {1x}.

Deber means "pestilence." (1) The meaning of deber is best denoted by the English word "pestilence" or "plague." (1a) A country might be quickly reduced in population by the "plague" (cf. 2 Sa 24:13ff.). (1b) The nature of the "plague" (bubonic or other) is often difficult to determine from the contexts, as the details of medical interest are not given or are scanty. (2) In the prophetical writings, the "plague" occurs with other disasters: famine, flood, and the sword: "When they fast, I will not hear their cry; and when they offer burnt offering and an oblation, I will not accept them: but I will consume them by the sword, and by the famine, and by the pestilence" (Jer 14:12). Dor means "generation." (1) In the Old Testament, the word dor occurs about 167 times; as many as 74 of these are in the repetition "dor plus dor," meaning "alway." (2) The first occurrence of the word is in Gen 6:9: "These are the generations of Noah [the account of Noah]: Noah was a just man and perfect in his generations, and Noah walked with God." (3) First the concrete meaning of "generation" is the "period during which people live": "And the Lord said unto Noah, Come thou and all thy house into the ark; for thee have I seen righteous before me in this generation" (Gen 7:1). (4) A "generation" may be described as (4a) "perverse" (Deut 32:5) or (4b) "righteous" (Ps 14:5).

(5) Close to this meaning is the temporal element of dor: A dor is roughly the period of time from one's birth to one's maturity, which in the Old Testament corresponds to a period of about 40 years (Num 14:33). (6) Abraham received the promise that four "generations" of his descendants were to be in Egypt before the Promised Land would be inherited. (7) Israel was warned to be faithful to the Lord, (7a) as the punishment for disobedience would extend to the fourth "generation" (Ex 20:5); (7b) but the Lord's love extends to a thousand "generations" of those who love Him (Deut 7:9). (8) The lasting element of God's covenantal faithfulness is variously expressed with the word dor: "Thy faithfulness is unto all generations: thou hast established the earth, and it abideth" (Ps 119:90)

(9) The use of dor in Isaiah 51 teaches the twofold perspective of "generation," with reference to the future as well as to the past. (9a) Isaiah spoke about the Lord's lasting righteousness and said that His deliverance is everlasting (literally, "generation of generations"—v. 8); (9b) but in view of Israel's situation, Isaiah petitioned the Lord to manifest His loving strength on behalf of Israel as in the past (literally, "generations forever"—v. 9). (9c) Thus, depending on the context, dor may refer to the past, the present, or the future. The psalmist recognized the obligation of one "generation" to the "generations" to come: "One generation shall praise thy works to another, and shall declare thy mighty acts" (Ps 145:4). (10) Even the grey-haired man has the opportunity to instruct the youth (Ps 71:17–18). See: TWOT—418b; BDB—189c, 201b, 1087b.

1767. דַּי {38x} day, dahee; of uncert. der.; enough (as noun or adv.), used chiefly with prep. in phrases:—enough {6x}, sufficient {5x}, from {5x}, when {3x}, since {3x}, able {3x}, misc. {13x}: according to, after ability, among, as oft as, more than enough, in, much as is sufficient, sufficiently, too much, very.

Day means "sufficiency; the required enough." (1) The word is translated variously according to the needs of a given passage. (1a) The meaning "sufficiency" is clearly manifested in Ex 36:7: "For the stuff they had was sufficient for all the work to make it, and too much." (1b) A different translation is warranted in Jer 49:9: "If thieves [come] by night, they will destroy till they have enough" (cf. Obad 5). (1c) In Prov 25:16 the word means only what one's digestive system can handle: "Hast thou found honey? Eat so much as is sufficient for thee, lest thou be filled therewith, and vomit it." (1d) Other passages use this word of money (Deut 15:8). (1e) In Jer 51:58 day preceded by the preposition be means "only for": "The people shall labor in vain [only for nothing], and the folk in the fire [only for fire], and they shall be weary." (2) The phrase "as long as there is need" signifies until there is no more required (Mal 3:10 - "that there shall not be room enough to receive it"). (3) The word first appears in Ex 36:5 and is preceded by the preposition min: "The people bring much more than enough for the service of the work, which the Lord commanded to make."

(4) There are many special uses of day where the basic meaning is in the background and the context dictates a different nuance. (4a) When preceded by the preposition ke, "as," the word usually means "according to": "The judge shall cause him to lie down, and to be beaten before his face, according to his fault, by a certain number" (Deut 25:2). (4b) Preceded by min, "from," the word sometimes means "regarding the need." This illuminates passages such as 1 Sa 7:16: "And he [Samuel] went from year to year [according to the need of each year; "annually"] in circuit to Beth-el" (cf. Is 66:23). (4c) In other places this phrase (day preceded by min) signifies "as often as": "Then the princes of the Philistines went forth: and it came to pass, after they went forth, that David behaved himself more wisely than all the servants of Saul" (1 Sa 18:30). 1800. דַּל {48x} dal, dal; from 1809; prop. dangling, i.e. (by impl.) weak or thin:—lean {1x}, needy {2x}, poor (man) {43x}, weaker {2x}.

Dal is "one who is low, poor, reduced, helpless, weak." (1) The dallim (pl.) constituted the middle class of Israel—those who were physically deprived (in the ancient world the majority of people were poor). For example, the dallim may be viewed as the opposite of the rich (Ex 30:15; cf. Ruth 3:10; Prov 10:15). (2) In addition, the word may connote social poverty or lowliness. As such, dal describes those who are the counterparts of the great: "Ye shall do no unrighteousness in judgment: thou shalt not respect the person of the poor, nor honor the person of the mighty: but in righteousness shalt thou judge thy neighbor" (Lev 19:15; cf. Amos 2:7). (3) When Gideon challenged the Lord's summoning him to deliver Israel, he emphasized that his clan was too weak to do the job: "And he said unto him, Oh my Lord, wherewith shall I save Israel? behold, my family is poor in Manasseh" (Judg 6:15; cf. 2 Sa 3:1). (4) God commands that society protect the poor, the lowly, and the weak: "Thou shalt not follow a multitude to do evil; neither shalt thou speak in a cause to decline after many to wrest judgment: neither shalt thou countenance a poor man in his cause" (Ex 23:2–3; cf. Lev 14:21; Is 10:2).

(5) He also warns that if men fail to provide justice, He will do so (Is 11:4). (6) In Gen 41:19 (the first biblical appearance of the word) dal is contrasted to "healthy" or "fat": "And behold, seven other kine came up after them, poor and very ill-favored and leanfleshed." (6a) Thus, dal indicates a physical condition and appearance of sickliness. (6b) It is used in this sense to describe Amnon's appearance as he longed for Tamar (2 Sa 13:4). (7) Dal is used (very infrequently) of spiritual poverty (in such cases it is sometimes paralleled to 'ebyon (34): "Therefore I said, Surely these are poor; they are foolish: for they know not the way of the Lord, nor the judgment of their God" (Jer 5:4). [Some scholars argue that here the word means "ignorance," and as the context shows, this is ignorance in the knowledge of God's word.] Syn: Dal is related to, but differs from, 'ani (6041 - which suggests affliction of some kind), 'ebyon (34 - which emphasizes need), and rash (7326 - which suggests destitution). See: TWOT—433a; BDB—194c, 195d.

1803. דַּלָּה {8x} dallâh, dal-law'; from 1802; prop. something dangling, i.e. a loose thread or hair; fig. indigent:—poor {5x}, poorest sort {1x}, pinning sickness {1x}, hair {1x}.

Dallah, related to dal (1800), means "poverty; dishevelled hair." (1) The word appears in 2 Kin 24:14: ". . . none remained, save the poorest sort of the people of the land," where dallah emphasizes the social lowliness and "poverty" of those people whom it describes. (2) In Song 7:5 the word refers to "dishevelled hair" in the sense of something that hangs down. See: TWOT—433c; BDB—195d.

Dalal means "to be low, hang down." (1) This verb appears always in poetical passages. (2) The word appears in Ps 79:8: "O remember not against us former iniquities: let thy tender mercies speedily prevent us; for we are brought very low." See: TWOT—433; BDB—195c.

1818. דָּם {361x} dâm, dawm; from 1826 (comp. 119); blood (as that which when shed causes death) of man or an animal; by anal. the juice of the grape; fig. (espec. in the plur.) bloodshed (i.e. drops of blood):—blood {342x}, bloody {15x}, person + 5315 {1x}, bloodguiltiness {1x}, bloodthirsty + 582 {1x}, var. blood {1x}.

Dam means "blood." (1) Dam is used to denote the "blood" of animals, birds, and men (never of fish). (2) In Gen 9:4, "blood" is synonymous with "life": "But flesh with the life thereof, which is the blood thereof, shall ye not eat." (3) The high value of life as a gift of God led to the prohibition against eating "blood": "It shall be a perpetual statute for your generations throughout all your dwellings, that ye eat neither fat nor blood" (Lev 3:17). (4) Only infrequently does this word mean "blood-red," a color: "And they rose up early in the morning, and the sun shone upon the water, and the Moabites saw the water on the other side as red as blood" (2 Kin 3:22). (5) In two passages, dam represents "wine": "He washed his garments in wine, and his clothes in the blood of grapes" (Gen 49:11; cf. Deut 32:14).

(6) Dam bears several nuances. (6a) It can mean "blood shed by violence": "So ye shall not pollute the land wherein ye are: for blood it defileth the land: and the land cannot be cleansed of the blood that is shed therein" (Num 35:33). (6b) Thus it can mean "death": "So will I send upon you famine and evil beasts, and they shall bereave thee; and pestilence and blood shall pass through thee; and I will bring the sword upon thee" (Eze 5:17). (7) Next, dam may connote an act by which a human life is taken, or blood is shed: "If there arise a matter too hard for thee in judgment, between blood and blood [one kind of homicide or another] . . ." (Deut 17:8).

(8) To "shed blood" is to commit murder: "Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed" (Gen 9:6). (8a) The second occurrence here means that the murderer shall suffer capital punishment. (8b) In other places, the phrase "to shed blood" refers to a nonritualistic slaughter of an animal: "What man soever there be of the house of Israel, that killeth an ox, or lamb . . . in the camp, or that killeth it out of the camp, and bringeth it not unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, to offer an offering unto the Lord before the tabernacle of the Lord; blood [guiltiness] shall be imputed unto that man" (Lev 17:3–4). (9) In judicial language, "to stand against one's blood" means to stand before a court and against the accused as a plaintiff, witness, or judge: "Thou shalt not go up and down as a talebearer among thy people: neither shalt thou stand against the blood [i.e., act against the life] of thy neighbor" (Lev 19:16).

(10) The phrase, "his blood be on his head," signifies that the guilt and punishment for a violent act shall be on the perpetrator: "For everyone that curseth his father or his mother shall be surely put to death: he hath cursed his father or his mother; his blood [guiltiness] shall be upon him" (Lev 20:9). (10a) This phrase bears the added overtone that those who execute the punishment by killing the guilty party are not guilty of murder. (10b) So here "blood" means responsibility for one's dead: "And it shall be, that whosoever shall go out of the doors of thy house into the street, his blood shall be upon his head, and we will be guiltless: and whosoever shall be with thee in the house, his blood shall be on our head, if any hand be upon him" (Josh 2:19).

(11) Animal blood could take the place of a sinner's blood in atoning (covering) for sin: "For it is the blood that maketh an atonement for the soul" (Lev 17:11). (11a) Adam's sin merited death and brought death on all his posterity (cf. Rom 5:12); (11b) so the offering of an animal in substitution not only typified the payment of that penalty, but it symbolized that the perfect offering would bring life for Adam and all others represented by the sacrifice (cf. Heb 10:4). (11c) The animal sacrifice prefigured and typologically represented the blood of Christ, who made the great and only effective substitutionary atonement, and whose offering was the only offering that gained life for those whom He represented. (12c) The shedding of His "blood" seals the covenant of life between God and man (cf. Mt 26:28). See: TWOT—436; BDB—196b.

1819. דָּמָה {29x} dâmâh, daw-maw'; a prim. root; to compare; by impl. to resemble, liken, consider:—like {14x}, liken {5x}, thought {6x}, compared {1x}, devised {1x}, meaneth {1x}, similitudes {1x}. Damah (1819) means "to be like, resemble, be or act like, liken or compare, devise, balance or ponder." (1) This verb appears in biblical Hebrew about 29 times. Cognates of this word appear in biblical Aramaic, Akkadian, and Arabic. (2) Damah means "to be like" in Ps 102:6: "I am like a pelican of the wilderness: I am like an owl of the desert." See: TWOT—437; BDB—197d, 1088d.

1820. דָּמָה {16x} dâmâh, daw-maw'; a prim. root; to be dumb or silent; hence, to fail or perish; trans. to destroy:—cut off {3x}, cease {2x}, perish {2x}, bring to silence {2x}, liken {2x}, destroy {2x}, undone {1x}, utterly {1x}, cut down {1x}. See: TWOT—438; BDB—198c.

1823. דְּמוּת {25x} dᵉmûwth, dem-ooth'; from 1819; resemblance; concr. model, shape; adv. like:—likeness {19x}, similitude {2x}, like {2x}, manner {1x}, fashion {1x}.

Demuwth means "likeness; shape; figure; form; pattern." (1) All but 5 of the 25 appearances of this word are in poetical or prophetical books of the Bible. (2) The word means "pattern," in the sense of the specifications from which an actual item is made: "And king Ahaz went to Damascus . . . and saw an altar that was at Damascus: and king Ahaz sent to Urijah the priest the fashion of the altar, and the pattern of it, according to all the workmanship thereof" (2 Kin 16:10). (3) Demuwth means "shape" or "form," the thing(s) made after a given pattern. (3a) In 2 Chr 4:3 the word represents the "shape" of a bronze statue: "And under it was the similitude of oxen, which did compass it round about: ten in a cubit, compassing the sea round about."

(3b) In such passages demuwth means more than just "shape" in general; it indicates the "shape" in particular. (3c) In Eze 1:10, for example, the word represents the "form" or "likeness" of the faces of the living creatures Ezekiel describes. (3d) In Eze 1:26 the word refers to what something seemed to be rather than what it was: "And above the firmament that was over their heads was the likeness of a throne." (4) Demuwth signifies the original after which a thing is patterned: (4a) "To whom then will ye liken God? or what likeness will ye compare unto him?" (Is 40:18). (4b) This significance is in its first biblical appearance: "And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness . . ." (Gen 1:26). (5) In Ps 58:4 the word appears to function merely to extend the form but not the meaning of the preposition ke: "Their poison is like the poison of a serpent." 1870. דֶּרֶךְ {705x} derek, deh'-rek; from 1869; a road (as trodden); fig. a course of life or mode of action, often adv.:—way {590x}, toward {31x}, journey {23x}, manner {8x}, misc. {53x} = along, away, because of, + by, conversation, custom, eastward, passenger, through, highway, pathway, wayside, whither, whithersoever.

Derek means "way (path, road, highway); distance; journey; manner, conduct; condition; destiny." (1) First, this word refers to a path, a road, or a highway. In Gen 3:24 (the first occurrence of the word) it means "path" or "route": "And he placed at the east of the garden of Eden cherubim, and a flaming sword which turned every [direction], to [guard] the way of the tree of life." (2) Sometimes, as in Gen 16:7, the word represents a pathway, road, or route: "And the angel of the Lord found her by a fountain of water in the wilderness, by the fountain in the way to Shur." (3) The actual road itself is represented in Gen 38:21: "Where is the [temple prostitute], that was openly by the wayside?" (4) In Num 20:17 the word means "highway," a well-known and well-traveled road: "We will go by the king's highway, we will not turn to the right hand nor to the left, until we have passed thy borders."

(5) This noun represents a "distance" (how far or how long) between two points: "And he set three days' journey [a distance of three days] betwixt himself and Jacob" (Gen 30:36). (6) In other passages derek refers to the action or process of "taking a journey": "And to his father he sent after this manner; ten asses laden with the good things of Egypt, and ten she asses laden with corn and bread and meat for his father by the way [on the journey]" (Gen 45:23). (7) In an extended nuance derek means "undertaking": "If thou turn away thy foot from the sabbath, from doing thy pleasure on my holy day; and call the sabbath a delight, the holy of the Lord, honorable; and shalt honor him, not doing thine own ways, nor finding thine own pleasure . . ." (Is 58:13). Cf. Gen 24:21: "And the man wondering at her held his peace, to wit whether the Lord had made his journey prosperous or not" (cf. Deut 28:29).

(8) In another emphasis this word connotes how and what one does, a "manner, custom, behavior, mode of life": "Our father is old, and there is not a man in the earth to come in unto us after the manner of all the earth" (Gen 19:31). (9) In 1 Kin 2:4 derek is applied to an activity that controls one, one's life-style: "If thy children take heed to their way, to walk before me in truth with all their heart and with all their soul, there shall not fail thee . . . a man on the throne of Israel." (10) In 1 Kin 16:26 derek is used of Jeroboam's attitude: "For he walked in all the way of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, and in his sin wherewith he made Israel to sin." (11) Deeds, or specific acts, may be connoted by this noun: "Lo, these are parts of his ways; but how little a portion is heard of him? But the thunder of his power who can understand?" (Job 26:14).

(12) Derek refers to a "condition" in the sense of what has happened to someone. This is clear by the parallelism of Is 40:27: "Why sayest thou, O Jacob, and speakest, O Israel, My way is hid from the Lord, and [the justice due to me is passed away] from my God?" (13) In one passage derek signifies the overall course and fixed path of one's life, or his "destiny": "O Lord, I know that the way of man is not in himself: it is not in man that walketh to direct his steps" (Jer 10:23). (14) This word sometimes seems to bear the meaning of "power" or "rulership": "Only acknowledge thine iniquity, that thou hast transgressed against the Lord thy God, and hast scattered thy ways to the strangers under every green tree" (Jer 3:13; cf. Job 26:14; 36:23; 40:19; Ps 67:2; 110:7; 119:37; 138:5; Prov 8:22; 19:16; 31:3; Hos 10:13; Amos 8:14). Some scholars, however, contest this explanation of these passages. Syn.: 734, 5410. See: TWOT—453a; BDB—202c, 1008b.

1871. דַּרְכְּמוֹן {4x} dark^{e}môwn, dar-kem-one'; of Pers. or.; a "drachma," or coin:—dram {1x}. Syn.: 150. See: TWOT—453c; BDB—204b.

1874. דַּרְקוֹן {2x} Darqôwn, dar-kone'; of uncert. der.; Darkon, one of "Solomon's servants":—Darkon {1x}. See: BDB—204c.

1875. דָּרַשׁ {164x} dârash, daw-rash'; a prim. root; prop. to tread or frequent; usually to follow (for pursuit or search); by impl. to seek or ask; spec. to worship:—seek {84x}, enquire {43x}, require {12x}, search {7x}, misc. {18x}: ask, × at all, care for, × diligently, make inquisition, [necro-] mancer, question, seek for, seek out, × surely.

Darash means "to seek, inquire, consult, ask, require, frequent." (1) Occurring more than 160 times in the Old Testament, darash is first used in Gen 9:5: "And surely your blood of your lives will I require." It often has the idea of avenging an offense against God or the shedding of blood (see Eze 33:6). (2) One of the most frequent uses of this word is in the expression "to inquire of God," which sometimes (2a) indicates a private seeking of God in prayer for direction (Gen 25:22), and often (2b) it refers to the contacting of a prophet who would be the instrument of God's revelation (1 Sa 9:9; 1 Kin 22:8). (3) At other times this expression is found in connection with the use of the Urim and Thummim by the high priest as (3a) he sought to discover the will of God by the throwing of these sacred stones (Num 27:21). (3b) Just what was involved is not clear, but it may be presumed that only yes-or-no questions could be answered by the manner in which these stones fell.

(4) Pagan people and sometimes even apostate Israelites "inquired of" heathen gods. (4a) Thus, Ahaziah instructed messengers: "Go, inquire of Baal-zebub the god of Ekron whether I shall recover of this disease" (2 Kin 1:2). (4b) In gross violation of the Mosaic law (Deut 18:10– 11), Saul went to the witch of Endor "to inquire of" her, which in this instance meant that she was to call up the spirit of the dead prophet Samuel. Saul went to the witch of Endor as a last resort, saying, "Seek me a woman that hath a familiar spirit, that I may go to her, and enquire of her" (1 Sa 28:7). (5) This word is often used to describe the "seeking of" the Lord in the sense of entering into covenantal relationship with Him. (6) The prophets often used darash as they called on the people to make an about-face in living and instead "seek ye the Lord while he may be found" (Is 55:6). See: TWOT—455; BDB—201d, 205a.

(from 1880) to remove (fat) ashes (of sacrifices):—accept {1x}, anoint {1x}, take away the ashes {1x}, receive his ashes from {1x}, made fat {6x}, wax fat {1x}. See: TWOT—457; BDB—206a.

הֶבֶל hăbêl, hab-ale'; from 1891; emptiness or vanity; fig. Something transitory and unsatisfactory; often used as an adv.:—vanity {61x}, vain {11x}, altogether {1x}.

Hebel means "breath; vanity; idol." (1) All but 4 of its 73 occurrences are in poetry (37 in Ecclesiastes). (2) The word represents human "breath" as a transitory thing: "I loathe it; I would not live always: let me alone; for my days are vanity [literally, but a breath]" (Job 7:16). (3) Hebel means something meaningless and purposeless: "Vanity of vanities, saith the Preacher, vanity of vanities; all is vanity" (Eccl 1:2). Cotton candy is an excellent example; it appears to offer a lot, when in reality it disappears when sampled. (4) This word signifies an "idol," which is unsubstantial, worthless, and vain: "They have moved me to jealousy with that which is not God; they have provoked me to anger with their vanities . . ." (Deut 32:21—the first occurrence). See: TWOT—463a; BDB—210c.

Hagah means "to meditate, moan, growl, utter, speak." (1) Found only 25 times in the Hebrew Old Testament, (1a) it seems to be an onomatopoetic term, reflecting the sighing and low sounds one may make while musing, at least as the ancients practiced it. (1b) This meaning is seen in its first occurrence in the text: "This book of the law shall not depart out of thy mouth; but thou shalt meditate therein day and night . . ." (Josh 1:8). (2) Perhaps the most famous reference "to meditating" on the law day and night is Ps 1:2.

(3) Hagah also expresses the "growl" of lions (Is 31:4) and the "mourning" of doves (Is 38:14). (4) When the word is used in the sense of "to mourn," it apparently emphasizes the sorrowful sounds of mourning, as seen in this parallelism: "Therefore will I howl for Moab, and I will cry out for all Moab; mine heart shall mourn for the men of Kir-heres" (Jer 48:31). (5) The idea that mental exercise, planning, often is accompanied by low talking seems to be reflected by Prov 24:1–2: "Be not thou envious against evil men, . . . for their heart studieth destruction, and their lips talk of mischief." Syn.: 2803, 7878. See: TWOT—467; BDB—211c.

Hadar means "to honor, prefer, exalt oneself, behave arrogantly." (1) This verb, which appears 7 times in biblical Hebrew means "to honor" or "to prefer" in Ex 23:3: "Neither shalt thou countenance a poor man in his cause." (2) In Prov 25:6 hadar means "to exalt oneself" or "to behave arrogantly." See: TWOT—477; BDB—213d, 1089d.

Hadar means "honor; splendor." (1) Its 30 appearances in the Bible are exclusively in poetic passages and in all periods. (2) Hadar refers to "splendor" in nature: "And ye shall take you on the first day the boughs of goodly trees [literally, trees of splendor or beauty] . . ." (Lev 23:40—the first occurrence). (3) This word is a counterpart to Hebrew words for "glory" and "dignity." (3a) Thus hadar means not so much overwhelming beauty as a combination of physical attractiveness and social position. (3b) The Messiah is said to have "no form nor [majesty]; and when we shall see him, there is no beauty that we should desire him" (Is 53:2). (4) Mankind is crowned with "glory and honor" in the sense of superior desirability (for God) and rank (Ps 8:5). (5) In Prov 20:29 hadar focuses on the same idea—an aged man's mark of rank and privilege is his gray hair. This reflects the theme present throughout the Bible that long life is a mark of divine blessing and results (often) when one is faithful to God, whereas premature death is a result of divine judgment.

(6) The ideas of glorious brilliance, preeminence, and lordship are included in hadar when it is applied to God: "Glory and honor are in his presence; strength and gladness are in his place" (1 Chr 16:27). (6a) Not only are these characteristics of His sanctuary (Ps 96:6) (6b) but He is clothed with them (Ps 104:1). (7) God gave David all good things: a crown of gold on his head, long life, and glory or "splendor" and majesty (Ps 21:3- 5). (8) In the case of earthly kings their beauty or brilliance usually arises from their surroundings. So God says of Tyre: "They of Persia and of Lud and of Phut were in thine army, thy men of war: they hanged the shield and helmet in thee; they set forth thy comeliness [honor]. The men of Arvad with thine army were upon thy walls round about, and the Gammadim were in thy towers: they hanged their shields upon thy walls round about; they have made thy beauty perfect" (Eze 27:10–11). (9) God, however, manifests the characteristic of "honor or splendor" in Himself. Syn.: 3519. See: TWOT—477b; BDB—214a.

1927. הֲדָרָה {5x} hădârâh, had-aw-raw'; fem. of 1926; decoration:—beauty {4x}, honour {1x}.

The noun hadarah means "majesty; splendor; exaltation; adornment." (1) This noun appears 5 times in the Bible. (2) The word implies "majesty or exaltation" in Prov 14:28: in the multitude of people is the king's honour: but in the want of people is the destruction of the prince. (3) Hadarah refers to "adornment" in Ps 29:2. See: TWOT—477c; BDB—214c.

1928. הֲדַרְעֶזֶר {12x} Hădarʿezer, had-ar-eh'-zer; from 1924 and 5828; Hadar (i.e. Hadad, 1908) is his help; Hadarezer (i.e. Hadadezer, 1909), a Syrian king:—Hadarezer {12x}. See: BDB—214c.

See: TWOT—2692; BDB—1089d.

1935. הוֹד {24x} hôwd, hode; from an unused root; grandeur (i.e. an imposing form and appearance):—glory {9x}, honour {6x}, majesty {4x}, beauty {1x}, comeliness {1x}, glorious {1x}, goodly {1x}, honourable {1x}.

Howd means "splendor; majesty; authority." (1) All but 4 of its 24 biblical appearances occur in poetry. (2) The basic significance of "splendor and majesty" with overtones of superior power and position is attested in the application of this word to kings: (2a) "Therefore thus saith the LORD concerning Jehoiakim the son of Josiah king of Judah; They shall not lament for him, saying, Ah my brother! or, Ah sister! they shall not lament for him, saying, Ah lord! or, Ah his glory!" (Jer 22:18). (2b) This concept is equally prominent when the word is used of God: "Fair weather cometh out of the north: with God is terrible majesty" (Job 37:22).

(3) In many cases howd focuses on "dignity and splendor" with overtones of superior power and position but not to the degree seen in oriental kings: "And thou shalt put some of thine honor upon him, that all the congregation of the children of Israel may be obedient" (Num 27:20—the first occurrence of the word). (4) When used of the olive tree (Hos 14:6), howd focuses on its "splendor and dignity" as the most desired and desirable of the trees (cf. Judg 9:9–15). (5) The proud carriage of a war horse and seeming bravery in the face of battle lead God to say "The glory of his nostrils is terrible" (Job 39:20). (6) In every use of the word the one so described evokes a sense of amazement and satisfaction in the mind of the beholder. Hown (1952) means "wealth; substance; riches; possessions; enough." (1) The 26 occurrences of this word are almost wholly in wisdom literature, with 17 of them in the Book of Proverbs. (2) This word appears only in the singular form. (3) Hown usually refers to movable goods considered as "wealth": "But if he [the thief] be found, he shall restore seven-fold; he shall give all the substance of his house" (Prov 6:31; cf. Eze 27:12). (4) "Wealth" can be good and a sign of blessing: "Wealth and riches shall be in his [the righteous man's] house: and his righteousness endureth for ever" (Ps 112:3). (5) The creation is God's wealth: "I have rejoiced in the way of thy testimonies, as much as in all riches" (Ps 119:14). (6) In the Proverbs "wealth" is usually an indication of ungodliness: "The rich man's wealth is his strong city: the destruction of the poor is their poverty" (Prov 10:15). (7) This word can also represent any kind of concrete "wealth": ". . . If a man would give all the substance of his house for love, it would utterly be contemned" (Song 8:7). This is the significance of the word in its first occurrence: "Thou sellest thy people for nought and dost not increase thy wealth by their price" (Ps 44:12). (9) "Wealth" in general is meant in Prov 12:27: "The slothful man roasteth not that which he took in hunting: but the substance of a diligent man is precious." (10) Finally, hown means "enough" (only in Prov 30:15–16): "The horseleech hath two daughters, crying, Give, Give. There are three things that are never satisfied, yea, four things say not, It is enough: the grave; and the barren womb; the earth that is not filled with water; and the fire that saith not, It is enough." 1961. הָיָה {75x} hâyâh, haw-yaw; a prim. root [comp. 1933]; to exist, i.e. be or become, come to pass (always emphat., and not a mere copula or auxiliary):—{75x} = beacon, × altogether, be (-come), accomplished, committed, like), break, cause, come (to pass), do, faint, fall, + follow, happen, × have, last, pertain, quit (one-) self, require, × use.

Hayah means "to become, occur, come to pass, be." (1) Often this verb indicates more than simple existence or identity (this may be indicated by omitting the verb altogether). (1a) Rather, the verb makes a strong statement about the being or presence of a person or thing. (1b) Yet the simple meaning "become" or "come to pass" appears often in the English versions. (2) The verb can be used to emphasize (2a) the presence of a person (e.g., God's Spirit—Judg 3:10), (2c) an emotion (e.g., fear—Gen 9:2), or (2d) a state of being (e.g., evil—Amos 3:6). (2e) In such cases, the verb indicates that their presence (or absence) is noticeable—it makes a real difference to what is happening. (3) On the other hand, in some instances hayah does simply mean "happen, occur." (3a) Here the focus is on the simple occurrence of the events—as seen, for example, in the statement following the first day of creation: "And so it happened" (Gen 1:7). (3b) In this sense, hayah is frequently translated "it came to pass."

(4) The use of this verb with various particles colors its emphasis accordingly. (4a) In passages setting forth blessing or cursing, for example, this verb not only is used to specify the object of the action but also the dynamic forces behind and within the action. (4b) Gen 12:2, for example, records that God told Abram: ". . . I will bless thee, and make thy name great; and thou shalt be [hayah] a blessing." (4c) Abram was already blessed, so God's pronouncement conferred upon him a future blessedness. (4d) The use of hayah in such passages declares the actual release of power, so that the accomplishment is assured—Abram will be blessed because God has ordained it. (5) In another set of passages, hayah constitutes intent rather than accomplishment. Hence, the blessing becomes a promise and the curse a threat (cf. Gen 15:5).

(6) Finally, in a still weaker use of hayah, the blessing or curse constitutes a wish or desire (cf. Ps 129:6). (6a) Even here the verb is somewhat dynamic, since the statement recognizes God's presence, man's faithfulness (or rebellion), and God's intent to accomplish the result pronounced. (7) In miracle accounts, hayah often appears at the climax of the story to confirm the occurrence of the event itself. (7a) Lot's wife looked back and "became" a pillar of salt (Gen 19:26); (7b) the use of hayah emphasizes that the event really occurred. (7c) This is also the force of the verb in Gen 1:3, in which God said, "Let there be light." He accomplished His word so that there was light. (8) The prophets use hayah to project God's intervention in the future. By using this verb, they emphasize not so much the occurrence of predicted events and circumstances as the underlying divine force that will effect them (cf. Is 2:2).

(9) Legal passages use hayah in describing God's relationship to His covenant people, to set forth what is desired and intended (cf. Ex 12:16). (10) When covenants were made between two partners, the formulas usually included hayah (Deut 26:17–18; Jer 7:23). (11) One of the most debated uses of hayah occurs in Ex 3:14, where God tells Moses His name. He says: "I am [hayah] that I am [hayah]." (11a) Since the divine name Jehovah or Yahweh was well-known long before (cf. Gen 4:1), this revelation seems to emphasize that the God who made the covenant was the God who kept the covenant. (11b) So Ex 3:14 is more than a simple statement of identity: "I am that I am"; (11c) it is a declaration of divine control of all things (cf. Hos 1:9). See: TWOT—491; BDB—218b, 224a, 1089d.

1962. הַיָּה {2x} hayâh, hah-yaw'; another form for 1943; ruin:—calamity {2x}. See: TWOT—483b; BDB—217d, 228a.

Heykal (1964) means "palace; temple." (1) The word occurs 78 times from First Samuel to Malachi, most frequently in Ezekiel. (2) The first usage pertains to the tabernacle at Shiloh (1 Sa 1:9). (3) The word "palace" in English versions may have one of three Hebrew words behind it: heykal, bayit (1004), or 'armon (759). (4) The heykal with its 15 usages as "palace" refers to the palaces (4a) of Ahab (1 Kin 21:1), (4b) of the king of Babylon (2 Kin 20:18), and (4c) of Nineveh (Nah 2:6). (5) The "palace" was luxuriously decorated and the residents enjoyed the fulfillment of their pleasures; cf.: (5a) "And the wild beasts of the islands shall cry in their desolate houses, and dragons in their pleasant palaces: and her time is near to come, and her days shall not be prolonged" (Is 13:22). (5b) The psalmist compared beautiful girls to fine pillars in an ornate "palace": ". . . That our sons may be as plants grown up in their youth; that our daughters may be as corner stones, polished after the similitude of a palace" (Ps 144:12).

(6) Amos prophesied that the "songs of the temple" were to turn to wailing at the destruction of the northern kingdom (Amos 8:3). (7) Heykal with the meaning "temple" is generally clarified in the context by two markers that follow. (7a) The first marker is the addition "of the LORD": "And when the builders laid the foundation of the temple of the LORD, they set the priests in their apparel with trumpets, and the Levites the sons of Asaph with cymbals, to praise the LORD, after the ordinance of David king of Israel" (Ezra 3:10). (7b) The second marker is a form of the word qodesh (6944), "holy": "O God, the heathen are come into thine inheritance; thy holy temple have they defiled; they have laid Jerusalem on heaps" (Ps 79:1). (8) Sometimes the definite article suffices to identify the "temple in Jerusalem": "In the year that King Uzziah died I saw also the Lord sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up, and his train filled the temple" (Is 6:1), especially in a section dealing with the "temple" (Eze 41).

(9) The Old Testament also speaks about the heavenly heykal, the heykal of God. (9a) It is difficult to decide on a translation, whether "palace" or "temple." (9b) Most versions opt in favor of the "temple" idea: (9b1) "Hear, all ye people; hearken, O earth, and all that therein is: and let the Lord GOD be witness against you, the LORD from his holy temple" (Mic 1:2; cf. Ps 5:7; 11:4; Hab 2:20). (9b2) "In my distress I called upon the LORD, and cried to my God: and he did hear my voice out of his temple, and my cry did enter into his ears" (2 Sa 22:7). (10) However, since Scripture portrays the presence of the royal judgment throne in heaven, it is not altogether impossible that the original authors had a royal "palace" in mind. (11) The imagery of the throne, the "palace," and judgment seems to lie behind Ps 11:4–5. "The LORD is in his holy temple, the LORD's throne is in heaven: his eyes behold, his eyelids try, the children of men. The LORD trieth the righteous: but the wicked and him that loveth violence his soul hateth." See: TWOT—493; BDB—228a, 1090b.

1978. הָלִיךְ {1x} hâlîyk, haw-leek'; from 1980; a walk, i.e. (by impl.) a step:—step {1x}. Haliyk appears once with the meaning "steps" (Job 29:6). See: TWOT—498b; BDB—237b.

1979. הֲלִיכָה {7x} hălîykâh, hal-ee-kaw'; fem. of 1978; a walking; by impl. a procession or march, a caravan:—ways {2x}, goings {2x}, companies {1x}, walk {1x}, way {1x}.

Haliykah means "course; doings; traveling company; caravan; procession." (1) This noun occurs 6 times in the Old Testament. (2) This word conveys several nuances. (2a) In Nah 2:5 haliykah refers to a "course": "He shall recount his worthies: they shall stumble in their walk. . . ." (2b) The word means "doings" in Prov 31:27. (2c) It may also mean "traveling-company" or "caravan" as in Job 6:19 or a "procession" as in Ps 68:24. See: TWOT—498c; BDB—237b.

1980. הָלַךְ {500x} hâlak, haw-lak'; akin to 3212; a prim. root; to walk (in a great variety of applications, lit. and fig.):—go {217x}, walk {156x}, come {16x}, . . . away {7x}, . . . along {6x}, misc. {98x} = (all) along, apace, behave (self), come, (on) continually, be conversant, depart, + be eased, enter, exercise (self), + follow, forth, forward, get, go (about, abroad, along, away, forward, on, out, up and down), + greater, grow, be wont to haunt, lead, march, × more and more, move (self), needs, on, pass (away), be at the point, quite, run (along), + send, speedily, spread, still, surely, + tale-bearer, + travel (-ler), walk (abroad, on, to and fro, up and down, to places), wander, wax, [way-] faring man, × be weak, whirl.

Halak means "to go, walk, behave." (1) Essentially, this root refers to movement without any suggestion of direction in the sense of going, whether of (1a) man (Gen 9:23), (1b) beasts (Gen 3:14), or (1c) inanimate objects (Gen 2:14—the first occurrence of the word). (2) In cases other than men (where it means "to walk") halak may be translated "to go." (2a) It is used sometimes with a special emphasis on the end or goal of the action in mind; men are but flesh, "a wind that passeth [goes] away, and cometh not again" (Ps 78:39). (2b) Applied to human existence the word suggests "going to one's death," as in Gen 15:2, when Abraham says: "O Lord GOD, what wilt thou give me, seeing I go [am going to my death] childless . . . ?" (3) This verb can also be used of one's behavior, or the way one "walks in life." (3a) So he who "walks" uprightly shall be blessed of God (Is 33:15). (3b) This does not refer to walking upright on one's feet but to living a righteous life.

(4) This root is used in various other special ways. (4a) It may be used to emphasize that a certain thing occurred; (4a1) Jacob went and got the kid his mother requested, in other words, he actually did the action (Gen 27:14). (4a2) In Gen 8:3 the waters of the flood steadily receded from the surface of the earth. (5) Sometimes this verb implies movement away from, as in Gen 18:33, when the Lord "departed" from Abraham. (6) God is said to "walk" or "go in three senses. (6a) First, there are certain cases where He assumed some kind of physical form. (6a1) For example, Adam and Eve heard the sound of God "walking" to and fro in the garden of Eden (Gen 3:8). (6a2) He "walks" on the clouds (Ps 104:3) or in the heavens (Job 22:14); these are probably anthropomorphisms (God is spoken of as if He had bodily parts). (6b) Even more often God is said to accompany His people (Ex 33:14), (6b1) to go to redeem (deliver) them from Egypt (2 Sa 7:23), and (6b2) to come to save them (Ps 80:2). (6c) The idea of God's "going" ("walking") before His people in the pillars of fire and cloud (Ex 13:21) leads to the idea that His people must "walk" behind Him (Deut 13:5).

(7) Quite often the people are said to have "walked" or to be warned against "walking behind" foreign gods (Deut 4:3). (8) Thus, the rather concrete idea of following God through the wilderness moves to "walking behind" Him spiritually. (9) Some scholars suggest that "walking behind" pagan gods (or even the true God) arose from the pagan worship where the god was carried before the people as they entered the sanctuary. (10) Men may also "walk . . . after the imagination of their evil heart," or act stubbornly (Jer 3:17). (11) The pious followed or practiced God's commands; they "walked" (11a) in righteousness (Is 33:15), (11b) in humility (Mic 6:8), and (11c) in integrity (Ps 15:2). (12) They also "walk with God" (Gen 5:22), and (13) they live in His presence, and "walk before" Him (Gen 17:1), in the sense of living responsibly before Him. See: TWOT—498; BDB—229d, 539d, 540b.

1981. הָלַךְ {3x} hălak (Aram.), hal-ak'; corresp. to 1980 [comp. 1946]; to walk:—walk {1x}. See: TWOT—2695; BDB—1090b.

1982. הֵלֶךְ {2x} hêlek, hay'-lek; from 1980; prop. a journey, i.e. (by impl.) a wayfarer; also a flowing:—× dropped {1x}, traveler {1x}. Helek occurs twice and means a "visitor" (2 Sa 12:4). See: TWOT—498a; BDB—237a.

1983. הָלָךְ {3x} hălâk (Aram.), hal-awk'; from 1981; prop. a journey, i.e. (by impl.) toll on goods at a road:—custom {3x}. See: TWOT—2695a; BDB—1090b.

1984. הָלַל {165x} hâlal, haw-lal'; a prim. root; to be clear (orig. of sound, but usually of color); to shine; hence, to make a show, to boast; and thus to be (clamorously) foolish; to rave; caus. to celebrate; also to stultify:—praise {117x}, glory {14x}, boast {10x}, be mad {8x}, shine {3x}, foolish {3x}, be fools {2x}, commended {2x}, rage {2x}, celebrate {1x}, give {1x}, give in marriage {1x}, renowned {1x}.

Halal means "to praise, celebrate, glory, sing (praise), boast." (1) The meaning "to praise" is actually the meaning of the intensive form of the Hebrew verb halal, which in its simple active form means "to boast." (2) Found more than 160 times in the Old Testament, halal is used for the first time in Gen 12:15, where it is noted that because of Sarah's great beauty, the princes of Pharaoh "commended" her to Pharaoh. (3) While halal is often used simply to indicate "praise" of people, including the king (2 Chr 23:12) or the beauty of Absalom (2 Sa 14:25), the word is usually used in reference to the "praise" of God. (4) Indeed, not only all living things but all created things, including the sun and moon, are called upon (4a) "to praise" God (Ps 148:2–5, 13; 150:1). (4b) Typically, such "praise" is called for and expressed in the sanctuary, especially in times of special festivals (Is 62:9).

(5) The Hebrew name for the Book of Psalms is simply the equivalent for the word "praises" and is a bit more appropriate than "Psalms," which comes from the Greek and has to do with the accompaniment of singing with a stringed instrument of some sort. (5a) It is little wonder that the Book of Psalms contains more than half the occurrences of halal in its various forms. (5b) Psalms 113—118 are traditionally referred to as the "Hallel Psalms," because they have to do with praise to God for deliverance from Egyptian bondage under Moses. (5b1) Because of this, they are an important part of the traditional Passover service. (5b2) There is no reason to doubt that these were the hymns sung by Jesus and His disciples on Maundy Thursday when He instituted the Lord's Supper (Mt 26:30).

(6) The word halal is the source of "Hallelujah," a Hebrew expression of "praise" to God (6a) which has been taken over into virtually every language of mankind. (6b) The Hebrew "Hallelujah" is generally translated "Praise the LORD!" (6c) The Hebrew term is more technically translated "Let us praise Yah," (6c1) the term "Yah" being a shortened form of "Yahweh," the unique Israelite name for God. (6c2) The term "Yah" is found in the KJV rendering of Ps 68:4, reflecting the Hebrew text. (7) Most versions follow the traditional translation "Lord," a practice begun in Judaism before New Testament times when the Hebrew term for "Lord" was substituted for "Yahweh," although it probably means something like "He who causes to be." (8) The Greek approximation of "Hallelujah" is found 4 times in the New Testament in the form "Alleluia" (Rev 19:1, 3–4, 6). (9) Christian hymnody certainly would be greatly impoverished if the term "Hallelujah" were suddenly removed from our language of praise. Hamah basically means "to make a noise, be tumultuous, roar, groan, bark, sound, moan." This verb occurs 34 times in biblical Hebrew. Psalm 83:2 contains one appearance: "For, lo, thine enemies make a tumult: and they that hate thee have lifted up the head." See: TWOT—505; BDB—242a.

1994. הִמּוֹ {11x} himmôw (Aram.), him-mo'; or (prol.)

הָמֹן hâmôn (Eze 5:7), haw-mone'; from 1993; a noise, tumult, crowd; also disquietude, wealth:—multitude {62x}, noise {4x}, tumult {4x}, abundance {3x}, many {3x}, store {2x}, company {1x}, multiplied {1x}, riches {1x}, rumbling {1x}, sounding {1x}.

Hamon means "multitude; lively commotion; agitation; tumult; uproar; commotion; turmoil; noise; crowd; abundance." (1) The word represents a "lively commotion or agitation": "Look down from heaven, and behold from the habitation of thy holiness and of thy glory: where is thy zeal and thy strength, the sounding of thy bowels and of thy mercies toward me?" (Is 63:15). (2) Hamon represents the stirring or agitation of a crowd of people: "When Joab sent the king's servant, and me thy servant, I saw a great tumult, but I knew not what it was" (2 Sa 18:29). (3) In Is 17:12 the word is synonymously parallel to sha'on (7588) "rushing": "Woe to the multitude of many people, which make a noise like the noise of the seas; and to the rushing of nations, that make a rushing like the rushing of mighty waters!" (4) Sometimes hamon represents the noise raised by an agitated crowd of people (a "tumult"): "And when Eli heard the noise of the crying, he said, "What meaneth the noise of this tumult [raised by the report that the battle was lost]?" (1 Sa 4:14).

(5) In Is 13:4 the word represents the mighty sound of a gathering army rather than the confused outcry of a mourning city: "The noise of a multitude in the mountains, like as of a great people; a tumultuous noise of the kingdoms of nations gathered together: the LORD of hosts mustereth the host of the battle." (6) A young lion eating his prey is not disturbed by the noise of a band of shepherds trying to scare him off (Is 31:4). (7) There are exceptions to the rule that the word represents the sound of a large number of people. (7a) In 1 Kin 18:41 hamon signifies the roar of a heavy downpour of rain (cf. Jer 10:13), and (7b) in Jer 47:3 it represents the tumult of chariots. (8) Hamon sometimes means a "multitude or crowd" from which a tumult may arise. (9) Frequently the word represents a large army: "And I will draw unto thee, to the river Kishon, Sisera, the captain of Jabin's army, with his chariots and his multitude . . ." (Judg 4:7; cf. 1 Sa 14:16).

(10) Elsewhere hamon represents a whole people: "And he dealt among all the people, even among the whole multitude of Israel . . ." (2 Sa 6:19). (11) Finally, any great throng, or a great number of people (Gen 17:4—the first occurrence) may be represented by this word. (12) A great number of things can be indicated by hamon "O LORD our God, all this store that we have prepared to build thee a house for thine holy name . . ." (1 Chr 29:16). (13) Abundance of possessions or wealth is indicated by hamon, as in: "A little that a righteous man hath is better than the riches of many wicked" (Ps 37:16; cf. Eccl 5:10—parallel to "silver" [money]; Is 60:5). (14) Finally, hamon refers to a group of people organized around a king, specifically, his courtiers: (14a) "Son of man, speak unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, and to his multitude [his train or royal retinue]; Whom art thou like in thy greatness?" (Eze 31:2). (14b) Thus in Ps 42:4 the word can represent a festival procession, a kind of train. Syn.: 527, 6951. See: TWOT—505a; BDB—242b.

Haphak means "to turn, overturn, change, transform, turn back." (1) Used for the first time in the biblical text in Gen 3:24, the Hebrew verb form there indicates reflexive action: ". . . A flaming sword which turned every way [NAB, "revolving"; NEB, "whirling"] . . ." (2) In its simplest meaning, hapak expresses the turning from one side to another, such as (2a) "turning" one's back (Josh 7:8), or (2b) "as a man wipeth a dish, wiping it, and turning it upside down" (2 Kin 21:13). (2c) Similarly, Hosea refers to Israel as being "a cake not turned" (Hos 7:8). (3) The meaning of "transformation" or "change" is vividly illustrated in the story of Saul's encounter with the Spirit of God. (3a) Samuel promised that Saul "shalt be turned into another man" (1 Sa 10:6), and (3b) when the Spirit came on him, "God gave him another heart" (1 Sa 10:9).

(3c) Other examples of change are the "changing" of Pharaoh's mind (Ex 14:5; literally, "the heart of Pharaoh . . . was turned"); (3d) the "turning" of Aaron's rod into a serpent (Ex 7:15); (3e) dancing "turned" to mourning (Lam 5:14); (3f) water "turned" into blood (Ex 7:17); (3g) and the sun "turned" to darkness and the moon to blood (Joel 2:31). (4) Ps 41:3 "the LORD will strengthen him upon the bed of languishing: thou wilt make all his bed in his sickness." In view of the poetic parallelism involved, restoration of health must be meant. (5) The KJV rendering of Is 60:5 sounds strange to our modern ears: "The abundance of the sea shall be converted unto thee . . . " simply means the riches of the seas will be given back to thee. See: TWOT—512; BDB—245b.

2021. הֹצֶן {1x} hôtsen, ho'-tsen; from an unused root mean. appar. to be sharp or strong; a weapon of war:—chariot {1x}. See: TWOT—513; BDB—246c.

2022. הַר {546x} har, har; a short. form of 2042; a mountain or range of hills (sometimes used fig.):—mountain {261x}, mount {224x}, hill {59x}, hill country {1x}, promotion {1x}.

Har means "mountain range; mountainous region; mount." (1) In its first biblical appearance har refers to the "mountain range" upon which Noah's ark came to rest (Gen 8:4). (2) In the singular form the word can mean a "mountain range" or the "mountains" of a given area: (2a) ". . . And [he] set his face toward the mount Gilead" (Gen 31:21). (2) Jacob was fleeing from Laban toward the "mountains" where he thought to find protection. (2c) A further extension of this meaning applies this word to an area which is primarily mountainous; the word focuses on the territory in general rather than on the mountains in particular: "And they gave them the city of Arba the father of Anak, which city is Hebron, in the hill country of Judah, with the suburbs thereof round about it" (Josh 21:11).

(3) The word can be used of particular "mountains": ". . . And he led the flock to the backside of the desert, and came to the mountain of God, even to Horeb" (Ex 3:1). (3a) In this particular instance "the mountain of God" refers to Horeb. (3b) Elsewhere it is Jerusalem: "Why leap ye, ye high hills? This is the hill which God desireth to dwell in; yea, the LORD will dwell in it for ever" (Ps 68:16). (4) Har signifies inhabitable sites situated on hills and/or mountainsides: (4a) "And at that time came Joshua, and cut off the Anakim from the mountains, from Hebron, from Debir, from Anab, and from all the mountains of Judah, and from all the mountains of Israel: Joshua destroyed them utterly with their cities" (Josh 11:21). (4b) In this regard, compare Deut 2:37: "Only unto the land of the children of Ammon thou camest not, nor unto any place of the river Jabbok, nor unto the cities in the mountains, nor unto whatsoever the LORD our God forbade us." (4c) A comparison of Judg 1:35 and Josh 19:41 shows that Mount Heres is the same as the city of Heres.

(5) In the poetical literature of the Old Testament, the view of the world held by men of that era finds its reflection. (5a) One can speak of the foundations of the mountains as rooted in the underworld (Deut 32:22), serving to support the earth as the "bars" of the earth (Jonah 2:6). (5b) Mountain peaks may be said to reach into the heavens where God dwells (Is 24:21; in Gen 11:4, the men who built the tower at Babel erroneously thought they were going to reach God's dwelling place). (5c) Although it would be wrong to conclude that God is setting forth this understanding of creation, yet He used it in explaining His word to men just as He used other contemporaneous ideas.

(6) Since "mountains" were associated with deity (Is 14:13), God chose to make great revelations on "mountains," concretely impressing the recipients with the solemnity and authority of the message (Deut 27; Josh 8:30–35). (7) At the same time such locations provided for better audibility and visibility (Judg 9:7; 2 Chr 13:4). (8) "Mountains" often serve as a symbol of strength (Zec 4:7) inasmuch as they carried mythological significance since many people thought of them as sacred areas (Jer 3:22–23), and they were the locations of strong fortresses (Josh 10:6). (9) Even the "mountains" tremble before the Lord; He is mightier than they are (Job 14:18). Syn.: 1389, 2042. See: TWOT—517a; BDB—219b, 223c, 246d, 249a, 251a.

2026. הָרַג {167x} hârag, haw-rag'; a prim. root; to smite with deadly intent:—

Harag means "to kill, slay, destroy." (1) The fact that it is found in the Old Testament some 167 times reflects how commonly this verb was used to indicate the taking of life, whether animal or human. (2) Harag is found for the first time in the Old Testament in the Cain and Abel story (Gen 4:8; also vv. 14–15). (2) Rarely suggesting premeditated killing or murder, this term generally is used for the "killing" of animals, including sacrificially, and for ruthless personal violence of man against man. (3) Harag is not the term used in the sixth commandment (Ex 20:13; Deut 5:17). The word there is rashach (7523), and since it implies premeditated killing, the commandment is better translated: "Do not murder," as most modern versions have it. (4) The word harag often means wholesale slaughter, both in battle and after battle (Num 31:7–8; Josh 8:24; 2 Sa 10:18). (5) The word is only infrequently used of men's killing at the command of God. In such instances, the causative form of the common Hebrew verb for "to die" is commonly found. (6) In general, harag refers to violent "killing" and destruction, sometimes even referring to the "killing" of vines by hail (Ps 78:47). Syn.: 7523, 7819. See: TWOT—514; BDB—246d.

Zabach means "to slaughter, sacrifice." (1) This word is a common Semitic term for sacrifice in general, although there are a number of other terms used in the Old Testament for specific sacrificial rituals. (2) There is no question that this is one of the most important terms in the Old Testament; zabach is found more than 130 times in its verbal forms and its noun forms occur over 500 times. (3) The first time the verb occurs is in (3a) Gen 31:54, where "Jacob offered sacrifice upon the mount." (3b) In Ex 20:24 the word is used in relation to the kinds of sacrifices to be made. (4) While there were grain and incense offerings prescribed as part of the Mosaic laws dealing with sacrifice (see Lev 2), the primary kind of sacrifice was the blood offering which required the slaughter of an animal (cf. Deut 17:1; 1 Chr 15:26).

(4a) This blood was poured around the altar, for the blood contained the life, as stated in Lev 17:11 "For the life of the flesh is in the blood: and I have given it to you upon the altar to make an atonement for your souls: for it is the blood that maketh an atonement for the soul." (4b) Since the blood was the vehicle of life, it belonged to God alone. (4c) Because the blood is the life, and because it is given to God in the process of pouring it about the altar, it becomes the means of expiating sin, as an offering for sin and not because it becomes a substitute for the sinner. (5) Zabach is also used as a term for "slaughter for eating." (5a) This usage is closely linked with "slaughter for sacrifice" since all eating of flesh was sacrificial among ancient Hebrews. (5b) The word carries this meaning in 1 Kin 19:21: "And he returned back from him, and took a yoke of oxen, and slew them, and boiled their flesh . . . and gave unto the people, and they did eat." See: TWOT—525; BDB—256d, 1087a.

Zebach properly means (1) to slay an animal for food, and accordingly rendered kill or slay. (2) The idea of a sacrifice is mistakenly thought to be performed solely by a priest. (3) A lay offerer, the head of the family, could also present and slay an animal before God's sanctuary (Deut 12:15, 21; 1 Sa 28:24; 2 Chr 18:2; Eze 34:3). (3a) The family or nation, following the priest's directions, offered the sacrifice through their representatives and (3b) partook of the flesh of the victims, entering thereby into communion with God. (4) The various ceremonies connected with the zebach are described in Lev 17:5–7. (4a) A man brought an unblemished animal to the door of the sacred tent, (4b) pressed his hands on its head, and (4c) slew it. (4d) The priest, (4d1) acting on God's behalf, (4d2) took the blood, which represented the life of the animal (and therefore the life of the offerer), and (4d3) poured it forth on the altar as an atonement (Lev 3:2). (4d4) He also burned the fat - to represent the fact that the richness or goodness of animal life proceeded from God, and was due to Him (Lev 3:4–5). (4d5) The sacrifice demonstrated that without the shedding of blood there is no remission of sins (Lev 17:1; cf. Heb 9:22).

(4e) A certain fixed portion of the flesh was (4e1) then given to the priest, to be eaten by himself and his family (Ex 29:28; Lev 7:31–35; Deut 18:3), and (4e2) the rest was eaten by the offerer and his household. (4e3) Because the people shared in the eating, the zebach was a communal meal in which the Lord hosted His people (Zeph 1:7). (5) Whether the feast was public or private, and whether the animal was offered by the elders of the nation or by the head of a family, these ceremonies were to symbolize the union between God and man, who were thus made partakers of the same food. (6) If it was impossible to perform the full rites connected with the sacrifice through distance from the tabernacle of the congregation, or from the place that God should subsequently choose to put His name, i.e., the temple, one point at any rate was to be observed: the blood of the slain animal was to be poured on the earth and covered with dust (Lev 7:13).

(7) The rites connected with the zebach were designed to produce a moral effect on the children of Israel. They were (7a) reminded of God's merciful disposition toward them, (7b) stimulated to live in conformity with His law, and (7c) were to deal mercifully with their poorer brethren. (8) The pious Israelite would be impressed (8a) that sin brought death into the world, and that (8b) he himself had sinned.

His conscience would be stimulated through participating in (8b1) the death of the animal, (8b2) by the sprinkling of the blood, and (8b3) the burning of the fat. (9) He would thus have "a broken spirit" (Ps 51:17). (10) Through his sacrifice would be (10a) a strong call to righteousness (Ps 4:5), (10b) to obedience (1Sa 15:22), (10c) to joy (Ps 27:6), and (10d) to mercy (Hos 6:6). (11) Where the sacrifice had not this spirit, it lost all its value and significance. (12) Zebach was connected to covenant making, the sharing in food being a symbol of the oneness of the eaters (Gen 31:54; Ps 50:5).

(13) The prophets looked with condemnation on apostate Israel's sacrifices (Is 1:11). (14) Sacrifices, however, had their place (15) behind Israel's love for God (Hos 6:6), (16) less desired by God than obedience (1 Sa 15:22), and (17) a broken spirit and a contrite heart (Ps 51:16–17). (18) The Passover and the peace-offering were special kinds of zebach. (19) The "sacrifice" which was part of a covenant ritual involved the sprinkling of the blood on the people and upon the altar, which presumably symbolized God as the covenant partner (see Ex 24:6–8). (20) Another special "sacrifice" was "the sacrifice of the feast of the passover" (Ex 34:25). (20a) In this case the sacrificial lamb provided the main food for the passover meal, and (20b) its blood was sprinkled on the doorposts of the Israelite homes as a sign to the death angel. (21) The "sacrifice" of animals was in no way unique to Israelite religion, for sacrificial rituals generally are part of all ancient religious cults. (21a) Indeed, the mechanics of the ritual were quite similar, especially between Israelite and Canaanite religions. (21b) However, the differences are very clear in the meanings which the rituals had as they were performed either to capricious Canaanite gods or for the one true God who kept His covenant with Israel.

(22) The noun zebach is used of "sacrifices" to the one true God in Gen 46:1: "And Israel took his journey with all that he had . . . and offered sacrifices unto the God of his father Isaac" (cf. Ex 10:25; Neh 12:43). (23) The noun refers to "sacrifices" to other deities in Ex 34:15: "Lest thou make a covenant with the inhabitants of the land, and they go a whoring after their gods, and do sacrifice unto their gods, and one call thee, and thou eat of his sacrifice" (cf. Num 25:2; 2 Kin 10:19). (24) The idea of "sacrifice" certainly is taken over into the New Testament, for (25) Christ became "the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world" (cf. Jn 1:29). (26) The writer of Hebrews makes much of the fact that with the "sacrifice" of Christ, no more sacrifices are necessary (cf. Heb 9). Syn.: The zebach (2077) or sacrifice was utterly distinct from the 'olath (5930) or ascending-offering, which was wholly burned or turned into smoke, and from the sin-offering (2403), which was partly burned and partly eaten by the priest. comp. 801, 2282, 4503, 7133, 8426. Zahab means "gold." (1) Zahab can refer to "gold ore," or "gold in its raw state." This is its meaning in its first biblical appearance: "The name of the first is Pison: that is it which compasseth the whole land of Havilah, where there is gold" (Gen 2:11). (2) The word can also be used of "gold" which has already been refined: "But he knoweth the way that I take: when he hath tried me, I shall come forth as gold" (Job 23:10). (3) "Gold" could be beaten (1 Kin 10:16) and (4) purified (Ex 25:11). (5) One can also speak of the best "gold" (2 Chr 3:5). (6) Zahab can be conceived of as an "object of wealth": "And Abram was very rich in cattle, in silver, and in gold" (Gen 13:2). (6a) As such, the emphasis is on "gold" as a valuable or precious commodity. (6b) Consequently, the word is used in comparisons: "The gold and the crystal cannot equal it: and the exchange of it shall not be for jewels of fine gold" (Job 28:17). (7) "Gold" was often one of the spoils of war: "But all the silver, and gold, and vessels of brass and iron, are consecrated unto the LORD: they shall come into the treasury of the LORD" (Josh 6:19). (8) "Gold" was bought and sold as an object of merchandise: "The merchants of Sheba and Raamah, they were thy merchants: they [paid for your wares] with chief of all spices, and with all precious stones, and gold" (Eze 27:22).

(9) Zahab was used as a costly gift: "And Balaam answered and said unto the servants of Balak, If Balak would give me his house full of silver and gold, I [could not do anything] . . ." (Num 22:18). (10) This metal was used as a material to make jewelry and other valuable items: "And it came to pass, as the camels had done drinking, that the man took a golden earring of half a shekel weight, and two bracelets for her hands of ten shekels weight of gold . . ." (Gen 24:22). (11) Solomon's temple was adorned with "gold" (1 Kin 6:20–28). (12) Gold was used as money, being exchanged in various weights and values (according to its weight): "And he made three hundred shields of beaten gold; three pound of gold went to one shield . . ." (1 Kin 10:17; cf. 2 Sa 12:30). (13) "Gold" even existed in the form of "coins" (Ezra 2:69). (14) Zahab is used for the color "gold": "What be these two olive branches which through the two golden pipes empty the golden oil out of themselves?" (Zec 4:12). See: TWOT—529a; BDB—262c, 1087a.

There are three roots closely connected together that all represent purity cleanness, or freedom from pollution, namely (1) zaqaq (2212 - Ps 12:6; Mal 3:3) (2) zakak (2141 - Job 8:6; 11:4), and (3) zakah (2135 - Job 15:14; Prov 20:9). These passages refer to moral purity and transparency of heart. They point to a character free from taint or sully as the object that man aims at, but which he fails to obtain by his own devices; and even at the best, that which seems perfectly pure in his sight is proved vile when seen in the light of God. See: TWOT—549; BDB—269a, 1091b.

2137. זְכוּכִית {1x} z^{e}kûwkîyth, zek-oo-keeth; from 2135; prop. transparency, i.e. glass:—crystal {1x}. See: TWOT—550b; BDB—269a, 269b.

2140. זַכַּי {3x} Zakkay, zak-kah'-ee; from 2141; pure; Zakkai, an Isr.:—Zaccai {3x}. See: BDB—269b.

2141. זָכַךְ {4x} zâkak, zaw-kak'; a prim. root [comp. 2135]; to be transparent or clean (phys. or mor.):—be clean {2x}, make clean {1x}, be pure {1x}. Syn.: See 2135. See: TWOT—550; BDB—269a.

Zakar means "to remember, think of, mention." (1) The group of words (the verb and the three nouns derived from it) is found throughout the Old Testament. (2) The first occurrence of zakar is in Gen 8:1 with God as the subject: (2a) "God remembered Noah . . . : and God made a wind to pass over the earth, and the waters assuaged." (2b) In Gen 9:15 God said to Noah: "And I will remember my covenant . . . ; and the waters shall no more become a flood to destroy all flesh." (2c) As in these two cases (cf. Gen 6:18), "remember" is used of God in respect to His covenant promises and is followed by an action to fulfill His covenant. (2d) God delivered Lot from Sodom because of His covenant with Abraham to bless all the nations through him (Gen 18:17–33): "God remembered Abraham, and sent Lot out of the midst of the overthrow" (Gen 19:29).

(3) This marks the history of Israel at every major point: "And I have also heard the groaning of the children of Israel, . . . and I have remembered my covenant. . . . and I will bring you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians . . ." (Ex 6:5–6). (3a) The promise "to remember" was repeated in the covenant at Sinai (Lev 26:40–45), (3b) God's remembrance was sung in the Psalms (98:3; 105:8, 42; 106:45), (3c) and the promise was repeated by the prophets in regard to restoration from captivity (Eze 16:60). (3d) The new covenant promise is: "I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no more" (Jer 31:34). (4) Because of this God's people pray, (4a) as Moses: "Turn from thy fierce wrath. . . . Remember Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, thy servants, to whom thou swarest" (Ex 32:12–13); or (4b) Nehemiah: "Remember . . . the word that thou commandedst thy servant Moses" (Neh 1:8, quoting Lev 26:33); or (4c) the psalmist: "Remember not the sins of my youth, nor my transgressions: according to thy mercy remember thou me" (Ps 25:7); or (4d) Jeremiah: "Remember, break not thy covenant with us" (Jer 14:21).

(5) Men also "remember." Joseph said to Pharaoh's butler: "But think on me . . . , and make mention of me unto Pharaoh" (Gen 40:14). (5a) Again, "to remember" means more than "to recall"; (5b) it means "to retain in thought" so as to tell someone who can take action (cf. Ps 20:7). (6) Zakar may have more specific connotations in certain circumstances: "Hear ye this, O house of Jacob, . . . which swear by the name of the Lord, . . . and make mention of the God of Israel . . ." (Is 48:1), (6a) pointing to the mention of God's name in worship. (6b) David appointed "Levites as ministers before the ark of the LORD, to invoke . . . the LORD . . ." (1 Chr 16:4). (7) The covenant commanded Israel to (7a) "remember this day, in which ye came out from Egypt" (Ex 13:3); (7b) to "remember the sabbath day . . ." (Ex 20:8); (7c) to "remember that thou wast a servant in the land of Egypt, and that the LORD thy God brought thee out thence through a mighty hand" (Deut 5:15 and often); and (7d) to "remember his marvelous works . . ." (Ps 105:5; cf. 1 Chr 16:15). (8) But "the children of Israel remembered not the LORD their God, who had delivered them out of the hands of all their enemies" (Judg 8:34; cf. Ps 78:42). See: TWOT—551; BDB—269c, 272c, 561b.

2143. זֵכֶר {23x} zêker, zay'-ker; or

זֵכֶר zeker, zeh'-ker; from 2142; a memento, abstr. recollection (rarely if ever); by impl. commemoration:—remembrance {11x}, memorial {5x}, memory {5x}, remembered {1x}, scent {1x}.

Zeker means "remembrance; memorial." (1) Of His covenant name, YHWH ("LORD"), God said: ". . . This is my memorial unto all generations" (Ex 3:15; cf. Ps 30:4; 135:13). (1a) The name would recall His acts of covenant fulfillment. (1b) Moses was told to write an account of the war with Amalek "for a memorial [2146 - zikkaron] in a book, and rehearse it in the ears of Joshua: for I will utterly put out the remembrance [zeker] of Amalek from under heaven" (Ex 17:14). (2) The name would recall His acts of covenant fulfillment (Ex 17:14). See: TWOT—551a; BDB—271a, 271b.

2144. זָכֶר {1x} Zeker, zeh'-ker; the same as 2143; Zeker, an Isr.:—Zeker {1x}. See: BDB—271a.

2145. זָכָר {1x} zâkâr, zaw-kawr'; from 2142; prop. remembered, i.e. a male (of man or animals, as being the most noteworthy sex):—male {67x}, man {7x}, child {4x}, mankind {2x}, him {1x}.

(1) Zakar, as a noun, means "male." (1a) It occurs 82 times and usually in early prose (Genesis through Deuteronomy), only 5 times in the biblical prophets, and never in biblical wisdom or poetical literature. (1b) Zakar emphasizes "maleness" as over against "femaleness"; this word focuses on the sex of the one so named. Thus, "God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them" (Gen 1:27). (1c) The word can be used not only of an "adult male" but also of a "male child" (Lev 12:7). (1d) Zakar is used collectively in many passages—in singular form, with a plural reference (Judg 21:11). (1e) In some contexts the word represents a "male animal": "And of every living thing of all flesh, two of every sort shalt thou bring into the ark, to keep them alive with thee; they shall be male and female" (Gen 6:19). (2) Zakar, the adjective, means "male." (2a) "Number all the firstborn of the males of the children of Israel from a month old and upward" (Num 3:40). (2b) The word appears in Jer 20:15: "A man child is born unto thee; making him very glad." See: TWOT—551e; BDB—271b, 1088d.

2146. זִכְרוֹן {24x} zikrôwn, zik-rone'; from 2142; a memento (or memorable thing, day or writing):—memorial {17x}, remembrance {6x}, records {1x}.

Zikrown means "memorial." (1) God gave the bronze plates covering the altar (Num 16:40) and the heap of stones at the Jordan (Josh 4:7, 20–24) as perpetual "memorials" for the sons of Israel. (2) The names of the twelve tribes of Israel were engraved on two stones that were attached to the ephod as "stones of memorial unto the children of Israel: and Aaron shall bear their names before the LORD" (Ex 28:12; cf. v. 29). (3) When Israel went into battle, and when they offered sacrifice, they were to blow trumpets "that they may be to you for a memorial before your God" (Num 10:9–10). See: TWOT—551b; BDB—272a, 1088d.

2147. זִכְרִי {12x} Zikrîy, zik-ree'; from 2142; memorable; Zicri, the name of twelve Isr.:—Zichri {12x}. See: BDB—271d.

Zimmah means "loose conduct; lewdness." (1) The 29 occurrences of this noun are all in legal and poetical books of the Bible, except for a single occurrence in Judges.

(2) This noun signifies "loose or infamous conduct" and is used most often with regard to illicit sexual conduct: "Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of a woman and her daughter, . . . or her daughter's daughter, to uncover her nakedness; for they are her near kinswomen: it is wickedness" (Lev 18:17—the first occurrence). (3) Rejection of God's law or spiritual adultery may be represented by zimmah (Ps 119:150; cf. Eze 16:12–28). (4) A plan or scheme identified by the word is, therefore, a "harlotrous" plan (Ps 26:10). Syn: 2161, 4209. See: TWOT—556b; BDB—273b.

Zanah means "to go a whoring, commit fornication, be a harlot, serve other gods." (1) This is the regular term denoting prostitution throughout the history of Hebrew, with special nuances coming out of the religious experience of ancient Israel. (2) It is used for the first time in the text at the conclusion of the story of the rape of Dinah by Shechem, as her brothers excuse their revenge by asking: "Should he deal with our sister as with a harlot?" (Gen 34:31). (3) While the term means "to commit fornication," whether by male or by female, (3a) it is to be noted that it is almost never used to describe sexual misconduct on the part of a male in the Old Testament. (3b) Part of the reason lies in the differing attitude in ancient Israel concerning sexual activity by men and women. (3b) The main reason, however, is the fact that this term is used most frequently to describe "spiritual prostitution" (3b1) in which Israel turned from God to strange gods.

(3b2) Deut 31:16 illustrates this meaning: "And the LORD said unto Moses, Behold, thou shalt sleep with thy fathers; and this people will rise up, and go a whoring after the gods of the strangers of the land, whither they go to be among them, and will forsake me, and break my covenant which I have made with them." (4) Zanah became, then, the common term for spiritual backsliding. (4a) The act of harloting after strange gods was more than changing gods, however. This was especially true when Israel went after the Canaanite gods, for the worship of these pagan deities involved actual prostitution with cult prostitutes connected with the Canaanite shrines. (4b) In the Old Testament sometimes the use of the phrase "go a whoring after" gods (4b1) implies an individual's involvement with cult prostitutes.

(4b2) An example might be in Ex 34:15–16:

"Lest thou make a covenant with the inhabitants of the land, and they go a whoring after their gods, and do sacrifice unto their gods. . . . And thou take of their daughters unto thy sons, and their daughters go a whoring after their gods, and make thy sons go a whoring after their gods." (5) The religious theory behind such activity at the Canaanite shrine was that such (5a) sexual activity with cult prostitutes, both male and female, (5b) who represented the gods and goddesses of the Canaanite fertility cult, (5c) would stimulate fertility in their crops and flocks. (5d) Such cult prostitutes were not designated as prostitutes but rather "holy ones" or "set-apart ones," (5d1) since the Semitic term for "holy" means, first of all, to be set apart for a special use. (5d2) This is illustrated in Deut 23:17: "There shall be a whore of the daughters of Israel, neither shall there be a "sodomite of the sons of Israel."

(5e) This theme of religious harlotry looms large in the prophets who denounce this backsliding in no uncertain terms. (5e1) Ezekiel minces no words as he openly calls both Judah and Israel "harlots" and vividly describes their backsliding in sexual terms (Eze 16:6–63; 23). (5e2) The Book of Hosea, in which Hosea's wife Gomer became unfaithful and most likely was involved in such cult prostitution, again illustrates not only Hosea's heartbreak but also God's own heartbreak because of the unfaithfulness of his wife, Israel. Israel's unfaithfulness appears in Hos 9:1: "Rejoice not, O Israel, for joy, as other people: for thou hast gone a whoring from thy God, thou hast loved a reward upon every cornfloor." See: TWOT—563; BDB—266a, 275c.

Za'aq means "to cry, cry out, call." (1) Its first occurrence is in the record of the suffering of the Israelite bondage in Egypt: "And the children of Israel sighed by reason of the bondage, and they cried [for help]" (Ex 2:23). (2) Za'aq is perhaps most frequently used to indicate the "crying out" for aid in time of emergency, (2a) especially "crying out" for divine aid. (2b) God often heard this "cry" for help in the time of the judges, as Israel found itself in trouble because of its backsliding (Judg 3:9, 15; 6:7; 10:10). (3) The word is used also in appeals to pagan gods (Judg 10:14; Jer 11:12; Jonah 1:5). (4) That za'aq means more than a normal speaking volume is indicated in appeals to the king (2 Sa 19:28). (5) The word may imply (5a) a "crying out" in distress (1 Sa 4:13), (5b) a "cry" of horror (1 Sa 5:10), or (5c) a "cry" of sorrow (2 Sa 13:19). (6) Used figuratively, it is said that "the stone shall cry out of the wall" (Hab 2:11) of a house that is built by means of evil gain. 2204. זָקֵן {27x} zâqên, zaw-kane'; a prim. root; to be old:—aged man {1x}, old {26x}.

Zaqen means "old man; old woman; elder; old." (1) The first occurrence is in Gen 18:11: "Now Abraham and Sarah were old and well stricken in age; and it ceased to be with Sarah after the manner of women." (2) In Gen 19:4, the word "old" is used as an antonym of "young": (2a) "But before they lay down, the men of the city, even the men of Sodom, compassed the house round, both old and young [5288 - na'ar, "young man"], all the people from every quarter" (cf. Josh 6:21). (2b) A similar usage of zaqen and "young" appears in other Bible references: "But [Rehoboam] forsook the counsel of the old men, which they had given him, and consulted with the young men [3206 - yeled, "boy; child"] that were grown up with him" (1 Kin 12:8). (2c) "Then shall the virgin rejoice in the dance, both young men [970 - bachur] and old together: for I will turn their mourning into joy, and will comfort them, and make them rejoice from their sorrow" (Jer 31:13).

(3) The "old man" is described as (3a) being advanced in days (Gen 18:11), (3b) as being satisfied with life or full of years. (4) A feminine form of zaqen refers to an "old woman" (2205 - zeqenah). (5) The word zaqen has a more specialized use with the sense of "elder" (more than 100 times). (5a) The "elder" was recognized by the people for his gifts of leadership, wisdom, and justice. He was set apart to administer justice, settle disputes, and guide the people of his charge. (5b) Elders are also known as officers (7860 - shotrim), heads of the tribes, and judges; notice the parallel usage: "Joshua called for all Israel, and for their elders and for their heads, and for their judges, and for their officers, and said unto them; I am old and stricken in age" (Josh 23:2).

(6) The "elders" were consulted by the king, but the king could determine his own course of action (1 Kin 12:8). (7) In a given city, the governing council was made up of the "elders," who were charged with the well-being of the town: "And Samuel did that which the LORD spake, and came to Bethlehem. And the elders of the town trembled at his coming, and said, Comest thou peaceably?" (1 Sa 16:4). (8) The elders met in session (8a) by the city gate (Eze 8:1). (8b) The place of meeting became known as the "seat" or "assembly") of the elders (Ps 107:32). (9) The KJV gives various translations of zaqen: "old; elder; old man; ancient." (9a) Note that the KJV distinguishes between "elder" and "ancient"; (9b) whenever the word zaqen does not apply to age or to rule, the KJV uses the word "ancient." See: TWOT—574; BDB—278b.

(1) The word zaqen has a specialized use as elder (1a) recognized by the people for his gifts of leadership, wisdom, and justice; (1b) set apart to administer justice, settle disputes, and guide the people of his charge; (1c) known as officers (shotrim -7860), heads of the tribes, and judges (Josh 23:2); (1d) consulted by the king, but the king could determine his own course of action (1 Kin 12:8). (2) In a given city, the governing council was made up of the elders who (2a) were charged with the well-being of the town (1 Sa 16:4) and (2b) met in session by the city gate (Eze 8:1), with the place of meeting known as the seat/council/assembly of the elders (Ps 107:32). Whenever the word zaqen does not apply to age or to rule, the KJV uses the word ancient. See: TWOT—574b; BDB—278C.

Zaqan means "beard." (1) The word zaqan refers to a "beard" in Ps 133:2: "It is like the precious ointment upon the head, that ran down upon the beard, even Aaron's beard: that went down to the skirts of his garments." (2) The association of "old age" with a "beard" can be made, but should not be stressed. See: TWOT—574a; BDB—278a.

2220. זְרוֹעַ {91x} zᵉrôwaʿ, zer-o'-ah; or (short.)

זְרֹעַ zᵉrôaʿ, zer-o'-ah; and (fem.)

זְרוֹעָה zᵉrôwʿâh, zer-o-aw'; or

זְרֹעָה zᵉrôʿâh, zer-o-aw'; from 2232; the arm (as stretched out), or (of animals) the foreleg; fig. force:—arm {83x}, power {3x}, shoulder {2x}, holpen {1x}, mighty {1x}, strength {1x}.

Zeroaʿ means "arm; power; strength; help." (1) Zeroaʿ means "arm," a part of the body: (1a) "Blessed be he that enlargeth Gad: he dwelleth as a lion, and teareth the arm with the crown of the head" (Deut 33:20). (1b) The word refers to arms in Gen 49:24 (the first occurrence): "But his bow abode in strength, and the arms of his hands were made strong." The strength of his arms enabled him to draw the bow. (2) In some passages, zeroaʿ refers especially to the forearm: "It shall be as when the harvestman gathereth the corn, and reapeth the ears with his arm" (Is 17:5). (3) Elsewhere, the word represents the shoulder: "And Jehu drew a bow with his full strength, and smote Jehoram between his arms" (2 Kin 9:24). (4) Zeroaʿ connotes the "seat of strength": (4a) "He teacheth my hands to war, so that a bow of steel is broken by mine arms" (Ps 18:34). (4b) In Job 26:2, the poor are described as the arm that hath no strength. (5) God's strength is figured by anthropomorphisms (attributing to His human bodily parts), such as His "stretched out arm" (Deut 4:34) or His "strong arm" (Jer 21:5).

(6) In Is 30:30, the word seems to represent lightning bolts: "And the Lord shall cause his glorious voice to be heard, and shall show the lighting down of his arm, with the indignation of his anger, and with the flame of a devouring fire, with scattering, and tempest, and hailstones" (cf. Job 40:9). (7) The arm is frequently a symbol of strength, both of man (1 Sa 2:31) and of God (Ps 71:18): "Now also when I am old and grayheaded, O God, forsake me not; until I have showed thy strength unto this generation, and thy power to every one that is to come." (8) In Eze 22:6 zeroaʿ may be translated "power": "Behold, the princes of Israel, every one were in thee to their power to shed blood." (9) Zeroaʿ is also translated "help": "Assur also is joined with them: they have helped the children of Lot" (Ps 83:8). (10) The word can represent political or military forces: "And the arms of the south shall not withstand, neither his chosen people, neither shall there be any strength to withstand" (Dan 11:15; cf. Eze 17:9). (11) In Num 6:19 zeroaʿ is used of an animal's shoulder: "And the priest shall take the sodden shoulder of the ram" (cf. Deut 18:3). See: TWOT—583a; BDB—283d, 1089a.

Zaraʿ means "to sow, scatter seed, make pregnant." (1) It occurs first in Gen 1:29 in the summary of the blessings of creation which God has given to mankind: "In the which is the fruit of a tree yielding seed." (2) In an agricultural society such as ancient Israel, zaraʿ would be most important and very commonly used, especially to describe the annual sowing of crops (Judg 6:3; Gen 26:12). (3) Used in the figurative sense, it is said that Yahweh "will sow" Israel in the land (Hos 2:23); in the latter days, Yahweh promises: "I will sow the house of Israel and the house of Judah with the seed of man, and with the seed of beast" (Jer 31:27). (4) Of great continuing comfort are the words, "They that sow in tears shall reap in joy" (Ps 126:5). The universal law of the harvest, sowing and reaping, applies to all areas of life and experience.

(5) In Num 5, which describes the law of trial by ordeal in the case of a wife accused of infidelity. (5a) If she was found innocent, it was declared: "She shall be free, and shall conceive [zaraʿ] seed [zeraʿ]" (Num 5:28). (5b) This phrase is literally: "She shall be acquitted and shall be seeded seed," or "She shall be made pregnant with seed." (6) An Old Testament name, Jezreel, has been connected with this root. Jezreel ("God sows") refers both to a city and valley near Mt. Gilboa (Josh 17:16; 2 Sa 2:9) and to the symbolically named son of Hosea (Hos 1:4). See: TWOT—582; BDB—281b, 1091d.

Zeraʿ means "seed; sowing; seedtime; harvest; offspring; descendant(s); posterity." (1) Zeraʿ refers to the process of scattering seed, or "sowing." (1a) This is the emphasis in Gen 47:24: "And it shall come to pass in the increase, that ye shall give the fifth part unto Pharaoh, and four parts shall be your own, for seed of the field, and for your food." (1b) Num. 20:5: ". . . it is no place of seed, or of figs, or of vines, or of pomegranates; neither is there any water to drink." (1c) Eze 17:5 "He took also of the seed of the land, and planted it in a fruitful field;" (1d) A closely related emphasis occurs in passages such as Gen 8:22, where the word represents "sowing" as a regularly recurring activity: "While the earth remaineth, seedtime and harvest, and cold and heat . . . shall not cease."

(2) Zera^c frequently means "seed." There are several nuances under this emphasis, (2a) the first being what is sown to raise crops for food. The Egyptians told Joseph: "Buy us and our land for bread, and we and our land will be servants unto Pharaoh: and give us seed, that we may live, and not die, that the land be not desolate" (Gen 47:19).

(2b) The word represents the product of a plant: "Let the earth bring forth grass, the herb yielding seed [food], and the fruit tree yielding fruit after his kind, whose seed is in itself" (Gen 1:11-the first biblical appearance). (2c) In this and other contexts zera^c specifically refers to "grain seed," or "edible seed" (cf. Lev 27:30). (2d) This may be the meaning of the word in 1 Sa 8:15: "And he will take the tenth of your seed, and of your vineyards." (3) In other contexts the word represents an entire "crop or harvest": "For the seed [harvest] shall be prosperous; the vine shall give her fruit, and the ground shall give her increase, and the heavens shall give their dew" (Zec 8:12). (4) In Is 23:3 zera^c and the usual Hebrew word for "harvest" (7105 - qatsir) are in synonymous parallelism. (5) Zera^c sometimes means (5a) "semen," or a man's "seed": "And if any man's seed of copulation go out from him [if he has a seminal emission]" (Lev 15:16). (5b) A beast's "semen" can also be indicated by this word (Jer 31:27).

(6) Zera^c often means "offspring." (6a) "And I will put enmity between thee [the devil] and the woman [Eve], and between thy seed and her seed" (Gen 3:15). (6b) This verse uses the word in several senses. (6b1) The first appearance means both the descendants of the snake and those of the spiritual being who used the snake (evil men). (6b2) The second appearance of the word refers to all the descendants of the woman and ultimately to a particular descendant (Christ). (7) In Gen 4:25 zera^c appears not as a collective noun but refers to a particular and immediate "offspring"; upon the birth of Seth, Eve said: "God . . . hath appointed me another seed [offspring]." (7a) Gen 46:6 uses the word (in the singular) of one's entire family including children and grandchildren (cf. Gen 17:12). (7b) One's larger family, including all immediate relatives, is included in the word in passages such as 1 Kin 11:14. (8) The word is used of an entire nation of people in Est 10:3.

(9) Zera^c is used of groups and individuals marked by a common moral quality. (9a) This usage was already seen in Gen 3:15. (9b) Is 65:23 mentions the "seed" of the blessed of God. The Messiah or Suffering Servant will see His "offspring," or those who believe in and follow Him (Is 53:10). (10) We also read about (10a) the followers of the righteous (Prov 11:21), (10b) the faithful "seed" (Jer 2:21), and (10c) godly "offspring." (10d) In each case this word represents those who are united by being typified by the modifier of zera^c. (11) Several other passages exhibit the same nuance except that zera^c is modified by an undesirable quality. See: TWOT—582a; BDB—282a, 1091d.

Zaraq means "to throw; sprinkle; strew; toss; scatter abundantly." (1) Used 35 times in the text of the Hebrew Old Testament, (1a) in 26 of those times it expresses the "throwing" or "sprinkling" of blood against the sacrificial altar or on the people. (1b) Thus, it appears very often in Leviticus (1:5, 11; 3:2, 8, 13 et al.). (2) Ezekiel's version of "the New Covenant" includes the "sprinkling" of the water of purification (Eze 36:25). (3) In the first use of zaraq in the Old Testament, it describes the "throwing" of handsful of dust into the air which would settle down on the Egyptians and cause boils (Ex 9:8, 10). (4) In his reform, Josiah ground up the Canaanite idol images and "scattered, strewed," the dust over the graves of idol worshipers (2 Chr 34:4). (5) In Ezekiel's vision of the departure of God's glory from the temple, the man in linen takes burning coals and "scatters" them over Jerusalem (Eze 10:2). 2256. חֶבֶל {60x} chebel, kheh'-bel; or

Chebel means "cord; rope; tackle; measuring line; measurement; allotment; portion; region." (1) Chebel primarily means "cord" or "rope." "Then she let them down by a cord through the window: for her house was upon the town wall, and she dwelt upon the wall" (Josh 2:15). (2) The word is used of "tent ropes" in Is 33:20: "A tabernacle that shall not be taken down . . . neither shall any of the cords thereof be broken." (3) A ship's "tackle" is the meaning of chebel in Is 33:23. (4) Used figuratively, chebel emphasizes "being bound." In 1 Kin 20:31, we read that the Syrians who fled into Aphek proposed to put sackcloth on their heads as a sign of repentance for attacking Israel, and to put "ropes" about their necks as a sign of submission to Israel's authority.

(5) Snares used "cords" or "ropes," forming a web or a noose into which the prey stepped and was caught. In this manner, the wicked would be caught by God (Job 18:10).

(6) In many passages, death is pictured as a hunter whose trap has been sprung and whose quarry is captured by the "cords" of the trap: "the sorrows of hell compassed me about; the snares of death prevented me;" (2 Sa 22:6). (7) In other cases, the thing that "binds" is good: "I drew them with cords of a man, with bands of love" (Hos 11:4). (8) Eccl 12:6 pictures human life as being held together by a silver "cord." (9) A "cord" could be used as a "measuring line": "And he smote Moab, and measured them with a line, casting them down to the ground; even with two lines measured he to put to death, and with one full line to keep alive" (2 Sa 8:2). (9a) This meaning of chebel also occurs in Ps 78:55: ". . . And [He] divided them an inheritance by line." (9b) Compare Mic 2:5: "Therefore thou shalt have none that shall cast a cord by lot in the congregation of the Lord." (10) The act referred to by Micah appears in Ps 16:6 as an image of one's life in general: "The lines are fallen unto me in pleasant places; yea, I have a goodly heritage."

(11) Chebel also means "the thing measured or allotted": (11a) "For the LORD's portion is his people; Jacob is the lot of his inheritance" (Deut 32:9). Here the use is clearly figurative, (11b) but in 1 Chr 16:18 the "portion" of Israel's inheritance is a concrete "measured thing"; (11c) this nuance first appears in Josh 17:5. (12) In passages such as Deut 3:4, the word is used of a "region" or "a measured area": ". . . Threescore cities, all the region of Argob, the kingdom of Og in Bashan." (12) The word may refer to a group of people, describing them as that which is tied together—"a band": "Thou shalt meet a company of prophets coming down from the high place" (1 Sa 10:5). חָג châg, khawg; from 2287; a festival, or a victim therefore:—feast {56x}, sacrifice {3x}, feast days {2x}, solemnity {1x}.

Chag means "feast; festal sacrifice." (1) Biblical Hebrew attests it about 62 times and in all periods, except in the wisdom literature. (2) This word refers especially to a "feast observed by a pilgrimage." That is its meaning in its first biblical occurrence, when Moses said to Pharaoh: "We will go with our young and with our old, with our sons and with our daughters, with our flocks and with our herds will we go; for we must hold a feast unto the LORD" (Ex 10:9). (3) Chag usually represents Israel's three annual "pilgrimage feasts," (3a) which were celebrated with processions and dances. (3b) These special feasts are distinguished from the sacred seasons ("festal assemblies"—Eze 45:17), the new moon festivals, and the Sabbaths (Hos 2:11). (4) There are two unique uses of chag. (4a) First, Aaron proclaimed a "feast to the LORD" at the foot of Mt. Sinai. This "feast" involved no pilgrimage but was celebrated with burnt offerings, communal meals, singing, and dancing. The whole matter was displeasing to God (Ex 32:5–7). (4b) In two passages, chag represents the "victim sacrificed to God" (perhaps during one of the three annual sacrifices): "Bind the [festal] sacrifice with cords, even unto the horns of the altar" (Ps 118:27; cf. Ex 23:18). Syn.: 2077. See: TWOT—602a; BDB—290b, 290d.

Chadal means "to cease, come to an end, desist, forbear, lack." (1) The first occurrence of chadal is in Gen 11:8 where, after man's language was confused, "and they left off to build the city." (2) The basic meaning of chadal is "coming to an end." Thus, Sarah's capacity for childbearing had long since "ceased" before an angel informed her that she was to have a son (Gen 18:11). (3) The Mosaic law made provision for the poor, since they would "never cease out of the land" (Deut 15:11; cf. Mt 26:11). (4) In Ex 14:12 this verb is better translated "let us alone" for the literal "cease from us." Syn.: 988, 1826, 3615, 7606, 7673, 7676. See: TWOT—609; BDB—292d.

2318. חָדַשׁ {10x} châdash, khaw-dash'; a prim. root; to be new; caus. to rebuild:—renew {7x}, repair {3x}. Chadash means "to renew." (1) This verb occurs in post-Mosaic literature (with the exception of Job 10:17). (2) The first appearance of chadash in the Bible is in 1 Sa 11:14: "Then said Samuel to the people, Come, and let us go to Gilgal, and renew the kingdom there." Syn: 2319, 2320.See: TWOT—613; BDB—293d.

2319. חָדָשׁ {53x} châdâsh, khaw-dawsh'; from 2318; new:—fresh {1x}, new {48x}, new thing {4x}. Chadash, the adjective, means "new; renewed." (1) Chadash means "new" both in the sense of recent or fresh and in the sense of something not previously existing (a new king - Ex 1:8). (1a) The first nuance appears in Lev 23:16: "Even unto the morrow after the seventh sabbath shall ye number fifty days; and ye shall offer a new meat offering unto the LORD." (1b) The first biblical occurrence of chadash (Ex 1:8) demonstrates the second meaning: "Now there arose up a new king over Egypt, which knew not Joseph." (1b1) This second nuance occurs in Isaiah's discussion of the future salvation. (1b2) For example, in Is 42:10 a new saving act of God will bring forth a new song of praise to Him: "Sing unto the LORD a new song, and his praise from the end of the earth." (1b3) The Psalter uses the phrase "a new song" in this sense; a new saving act of God has occurred and a song responding to that act celebrates it. (1b4) The "new" is often contrasted to the former: "Behold, the former things are come to pass, and new things do I declare: before they spring forth I tell you of them" (Is 42:9). (1b5) Jer 31:31–34 employs this same nuance speaking of the new covenant (cf. Eze 11:19; 18:31).

(2) A unique meaning appears in Lam 3:23, where chadash appears to mean "renewed"; just as God's creation is renewed and refreshed, so is His compassion and loving-kindness: "They are new every morning: great is thy faithfulness." This nuance is more closely related to the verb from which this word is derived. Syn: 2318, 2320. See: TWOT—613a; BDB—294a, 1092a.

2320. חֹדֶשׁ {276x} chôdesh, kho'-desh; from 2318; the new moon; by impl. a month:—month {254x}, new moon {20x}, monthly {1x}, another {1x}.

Chodesh means "new moon; month." (1) The word refers to the day on which the crescent reappears: "So David hid himself in the field: and when the new moon was come, the king sat him down to eat meat" (1 Sa 20:24). (2) Is 1:14 uses this word of the feast which occurred on that day: "Your new moons [festivals] and your appointed feasts my soul hateth" (cf. Num 28:14; 29:6). (3) Chodesh can refer to a "month," or the period from one new moon to another. The sense of a measure of time during which something happens occurs in Gen 38:24: "And it came to pass about three months after, that it was told Judah. . . . " (4) In a related nuance the word refers not so much to a measure of time as to a period of time, or a calendar month. These "months" are sometimes named (Ex 13:4) and sometimes numbered (Gen 7:11). Syn: 2318, 2319. See: TWOT—613b; BDB—294b.

2346. חוֹמָה {133x} chôwmâh, kho-maw'; fem. act. part. of an unused root appar. mean. to join; a wall of protection:—wall {131x}, walled {2x}.

Chowmah means "wall." (1) Its first occurrence is in Ex 14:22: "And the children of Israel went into the midst of the sea upon the dry ground: and the waters were a wall unto them on their right hand, and on their left." (2) It is rare in the Pentateuch, in the historical books, and in the poetical books. The most frequent use is in Nehemiah, where Nehemiah is in charge of the rebuilding of the "wall" of Jerusalem. (3) The primary meaning of chowmah is a "wall" around a city, since in ancient Israel people had to protect themselves by constructing such a well-fortified "wall" (cf. Lev 25:29–30). (3a) Stones were used in the construction of the "wall": "Now Tobiah the Ammonite was by him, and he said, Even that which they build, if a fox go up, he shall even break down their stone wall" (Neh 4:3). (3b) The "wall" was also strengthened by thickness and other devices.

(3c) From Solomonic times double walls (casemate) served a strategic purpose in that they were easy to construct and could be filled in with rocks and dirt in the case of a siege. (3d) There was also another possibility during a siege: "And the city was broken up, and all the men of war fled by night by the way of the gate between two walls, which is by the king's garden: (now the Chaldees were against the city round about:)" (2 Kin 25:4). (4) In the case of war the enemy besieged a city and made efforts to breach the "wall" with a battering ram. (4a) The goal was to force a breach wide enough for the troops to enter into the city; "And Jehoash king of Israel took Amaziah king of Judah, the son of Jehoash the son of Ahaziah, at Beth-shemesh, and came to Jerusalem, and brake down the wall of Jerusalem from the gate of Ephraim unto the corner gate, four hundred cubits [about six hundred feet]" (2 Kin 14:13).

(4b) At the time of Nebuchadnezzar's invasion and victory over Jerusalem, he had the "walls" of the city demolished: "And they burnt the house of God, and brake down the wall of Jerusalem, and burnt all the palaces thereof with fire, and destroyed all the goodly vessels thereof" (2 Chr 36:19). (4c) For this reason Nehemiah had to help his unsuccessful compatriots to rebuild the "wall" about 135 years later: "Then said I unto them, Ye see the distress that we are in, how Jerusalem lieth waste, and the gates thereof are burned with fire: come, and let us build up the wall of Jerusalem, that we be no more a reproach" (Neh 2:17). (5) Chowmah also referred to any "wall," whether around buildings or parts of the city such as the temple precincts: "And behold a wall on the outside of the house round about, and in the man's hand a measuring reed of six cubits long by the cubit and a handbreadth: so he measured the breadth of the building, one reed; and the height, one reed" (Eze 40:5). (1) Chuts, as a noun, means "street." (1a) A particular use of chuts denotes the place outside the houses in a city, or the "street." (1a1) The "street" was the place for setting up bazaars: "The cities, which my father took from thy father, I will restore; and thou shalt make streets for thee in Damascus, as my father made in Samaria" (1 Kin 20:34). (1a2) Craftsmen plied their trade on certain "streets" named after the guild—for example, the Bakers' Street: "Then Zedekiah the king commanded that they should commit Jeremiah into the court of the prison, and that they should give him daily a piece of bread out of the bakers' street, until all the bread in the city were spent" (Jer 37:21). (1a3) The absence of justice in the marketplace was an indication of the wickedness of the whole population of Jerusalem. Jeremiah was called to check in the "streets" to find an honest man: "Run ye to and fro through the streets of Jerusalem, and see now, and know, and seek in the broad places thereof, if ye can find a man, if there be any that executeth judgment, that seeketh the truth; and I will pardon it" (Jer 5:1). (1b) Other descriptions of the "streets" are given by the prophets. (1b1) Several mention that the "streets" were muddy: ". . . And to tread them down like the mire of the streets" (Is 10:6; cf. Mic 7:10; Zec 10:5). (1b2) Others make reference to the blood (Eze 28:23), (1b3) the famished (Lam 2:19), and (1b4) the dead (Nah 3:10) which filled the "streets" in times of war. (1c) The area outside a city was also known as the chuts. In this case it is better translated as "open country" or "field"; cf. "That our garners may be full, affording all manner of store, that sheep may bring forth thousands and ten thousands in our streets" (Ps 144:13; cf. Job 5:10; Prov 8:26). (2) Chuts, as an adverb, means "outside." (2a) The first occurrence of this word is in Gen 6:14: "Make thee an ark of gopher wood; rooms shalt thou make in the ark, and shalt pitch it within and without [chuts] with pitch." (2b) By chuts the general idea of "the outside" is intimated. (2b1) "Thou shalt have a place also without the camp, whither thou shalt go forth abroad" (Deut 23:12). (2b2) The area could be "outside" a home, tent, city, or camp—hence the adverbial usage of "outside." (2c) The word is also connected with a preposition with the sense of "in, to, on, toward the outside": "If he rise again, and walk abroad upon his staff, then shall he that smote him be quit: only he shall pay for the loss of his time, and shall cause him to be thoroughly healed" (Ex 21:19). Chazown means "vision." (1) None of the 35 appearances of this word appear before First Samuel, and most of them are in the prophetic books. (2) Chazown almost always signifies a means of divine revelation. (2a) First, it refers to the means itself, to a prophetic "vision" by which divine messages are communicated: "The days are prolonged, and every vision faileth" (Eze 12:22). (2b) Second, this word represents the message received by prophetic "vision": "Where there is no vision, the people perish: but he that keepeth the law, happy is he" (Prov 29:18). (2c) Finally, chazown can represent the entirety of a prophetic or prophet's message as it is written down: "The vision of Isaiah the son of Amoz . . ." (Is 1:1). (2d) Thus the word inseparably related to the content of a divine communication focuses on the means by which that message is received: "And the word of the LORD was precious in those days; there was no open vision" (1 Sa 3:1—the first occurrence of the word). (3) In Is 29:7 this word signifies a non-prophetic dream. Syn: 2372, 2384. See: TWOT—633a; BDB—302d.

Chizzayown means "vision." This noun, which occurs 9 times, refers (1) to a prophetic "vision" in Joel 2:28: "And it shall come to pass afterward, that I will pour out my spirit upon all flesh; and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, your old men shall dream dreams, your young men shall see visions." Chizzayown refers (2) to divine communication in 2 Sa 7:17 (the first biblical occurrence) and (3) to an ordinary dream in Job 4:13. Syn: 2372, 2377. See: TWOT—633e; BDB—303b.

2388. חָזַק {290x} châzaq, khaw-zak'; a prim. root; to fasten upon; hence, to seize, be strong (fig. courageous, caus.

strengthen, cure, help, repair, fortify), obstinate; to bind, restrain, conquer:—strong {48x}, repair {47x}, hold {37x}, strengthened {28x}, strengthen {14x}, harden {13x}, prevail {10x}, encourage {9x}, take {9x}, courage {8x}, caught {5x}, stronger {5x}, hold {5x}, misc. {52x} = aid, amend, × calker, catch, cleave, confirm, be constant, constrain, continue, be established, fasten, force, fortify, help, lean, maintain, play the man, mend, become (wax) mighty, be recovered, retain, seize, be (wax) sore, be stout, be sure, be urgent, behave self valiantly, withstand.

Chazaq, as a verb, means "to be strong, strengthen, harden, take hold of." (1) The word first occurs in Gen 41:56: ". . . And the famine waxed sore in the land of Egypt." (2) In reference to Pharaoh, it means to brace up and strengthen and points to the hardihood with which he set himself to act in defiance against God and closed all the avenues to his heart to those signs and wonders which Moses wrought. (2a) Pharoah was responsible for his hard heart. Four times we read: "Pharaoh's heart was hardened" (Ex 7:13, 22; 8:19; 9:35). (2b) He hardened it. In Ex 9:34 Pharaoh's responsibility is made clear by the statement "he sinned yet more, and hardened his heart. . . . " (2c) God hardened it. The strong form of the verb is used in Ex 4:21: "I will harden his [Pharaoh's] heart." This statement is found 8 times.

(3) In the sense of personal strength chazaq is first used in Deut 11:8 in the context of the covenant: (3a) "Therefore shall ye keep all the commandments which I command you this day, that ye may be strong, and go in and possess the land." (3b) Moses was commanded to "charge Joshua, and encourage him" (Deut 3:28). (3c) The covenant promise accompanies the injunction to "be strong and of a good courage": ". . . For the LORD thy God, he it is that doth go with thee; he will not fail thee, nor forsake thee" (Deut 31:6). (3d) The same encouragement was given to the returned captives as they renewed the work of rebuilding the temple (Zec 8:9; 13; cf. Hag 2:4). (4) If in the above examples there is moral strength combined with physical, the latter is the sense of Judg 1:28: (4a) "And it came to pass, when Israel was strong, that they put the Canaanites to [forced labor]." (4b) Israel sinned and the Lord "strengthened Eglon the king of Moab against Israel" (Judg 3:12).

(5) The word is used in reference (5a) to a building: "The priests had not repaired the breaches of the house" (2 Kin 12:6), or (5b) to a city: "Moreover Uzziah built towers in Jerusalem . . . and fortified them" (2 Chr 26:9). (6) In battle chazaq means: "So David prevailed over the Philistine . . ." (1 Sa 17:50). (7) As the prophet said, "For the eyes of the LORD run to and fro throughout the whole earth to show himself strong in the behalf of them whose heart is perfect toward him" (2 Chr 16:9). (8) To His Servant, the Messiah, (8a) God said: "I . . . will hold thine hand" (Is 42:6); and to (8b) Cyrus He said: ". . . Whose right hand I have holden . . ." (Is 45:1). (9) Other noteworthy uses of the word are: (9a) "Thou shalt relieve him [a poor Israelite] . . ." (Lev 25:35); and (9b) "[Saul] laid hold upon the skirt of his mantle, and it rent" (1 Sa 15:27). (10) In summary, (10a) this word group describes the physical and moral strength of man and society. (10b) God communicates strength to men, even to the enemies of His people as chastisement for His own. (10c) Men may turn their strength into stubbornness against God. See: TWOT—636; BDB—304a.

2389. חָזַק {56x} châzâq, khaw-zawk'; from 2388; strong (usually in a bad sense, hard, bold, violent):—strong {26x}, mighty {20x}, sore {3x}, stronger {2x}, harder {1x}, hottest {1x}, impudent {1x}, loud {1x}, stiffhearted {1x}.

Chazaq, as an adjective, means "strong; mighty; heavy; severe; firm; hard." (1) First, the word means "firm" or "hard" in the sense that something is impenetrable. (1a) In Eze 3:8–9 the prophet's face is compared to rock; (1b) God has made him determined to his task just as Israel is determined not to listen to him: "Behold, I have made thy face [hard] against their faces, and thy forehead [hard] against their foreheads. As an adamant harder than flint have I made thy forehead." (1c) Job 37:18 uses chazaq of molten solidified metal. (2) Second, this word means "strong." In its basic meaning it refers to physical strength. God's hand (an anthropomorphism; cf. Deut 4:15, 19) as a symbol of His effecting His will among men is "strong": "And I am sure that the king of Egypt will not let you go, no, not by a mighty hand" (Ex 3:19—the first biblical occurrence). (2a) This word modifies a noun, specifying that it is the opposite of weak, or unable to effect anything (Num 13:18). (2b) Isaiah speaks of God's "sore and great and strong sword" (27:1). (2c) When Ezekiel wrote of "fat and strong" animals, he probably meant that they were well fed and healthy (34:16). (3) Third, chazaq means "heavy." (3a) When applied to a battle or war, it describes the event(s) as severe (1 Sa 14:52). (3b) The word is also used to indicate (3b1) a severe sickness (1 Kin 17:17) and (3b2) famine (1 Kin 18:2). 2398. חָטָא {238x} châṭâʾ, khaw-taw'; a prim. root; prop. to miss; hence, (fig. and gen.) to sin; by infer. to forfeit, lack, expiate, repent, (caus.) lead astray, condemn:—sin {188x}, purify {11x}, cleanse {8x}, sinner {8x}, committed {6x}, offended {4x}, blame {2x}, done {2x}, fault {1x}, harm {1x}, loss {1x}, miss {1x}, offender {1x}, purge {1x}, reconciliation {1x}, sinful {1x}, trespass {1x}.

Chata' means sin; sin-guilt; sin purification; sin offering. Chata', as a verb, means "to miss, sin, be guilty, forfeit, purify." (1) The basic nuance of chata' is sin conceived as missing the road or mark; illustrated in Judg 20:16: (1a) "There were 700 left-handed Benjamite soldiers who "could sling stones at a hair breadth, and not miss." (1b) The meaning is extended in Prov 19:2: "He who makes haste with his feet sinneth." (1c) The intensive form is used in Gen 31:39: "That which was torn of beasts I brought not unto thee; I bare the loss of it." (2) From this basic meaning comes the word's chief usage to indicate moral failure toward both God and men, and certain results of such wrongs. (2a) The first occurrence of the verb is in Gen 20:6, God's word to Abimelech after he had taken Sarah: "Yea, I know that thou didst this in the integrity of thy heart; for I also withheld thee from sinning against me: therefore suffered I thee not to touch her. (cf. Gen 39:9). (2b) Sin against God is defined in Josh 7:11: "Israel hath sinned, and they have also transgressed my covenant which I commanded them." (2c) Also note Lev 4:27: "And if any one of the common people sin through ignorance, while he doeth somewhat against any of the commandments of the Lord concerning things which ought not to be done, and be guilty."

(3) The verb may also refer to the result of wrongdoing, as in Gen 43:9: ". . . Then let me bear the blame for ever." (4) Deut 24:1–4, after forbidding adulterous marriage practices, concludes: ". . . For that is abomination before the LORD: and thou shalt not cause the land to sin." (5) Similarly, those who pervert justice are described as "those who by a word make a man out to be guilty" (Is 29:21). (6) This leads to the meaning in Lev 9:15: (6a) "And he . . . took the goat . . . and slew it, and offered it for sin." (6b) The effect of the offerings for sin is described in Ps 51:7: "Purge me with hyssop, and I shall be clean" (cf. Num 19:1–13). (7) Another effect is seen in the word of the prophet to evil Babylon: "You have sinned against your life" (Hab. 2:10). (8) The word is used concerning acts committed against men, as in (8a) Gen 42:22: "Spake I not unto you, saying, Do not sin against the child . . . ?" and (8b) 1 Sa 19:4: "Do not let the king sin against his servant David, since he has not sinned against you."

(9) Men are (9a) to turn from sin - a path/life-style, or act deviating from God's direction (1 Kin 8:35), (9b) to depart from sin (2 Kin 10:31), (9c) be concerned about it (Ps 38:18), and (9d) confess it (Num 5:7). (10) It also connotes the guilt or condition of sin (Gen 18:20), (11) means purification from sin (Num 8:7; 9:9), (12) the sin offering (Lev 4:1—5:13; 6:24–30) for (12a) some specific sin (12b) committed unwittingly, (12c) without intending to do it and (12d) perhaps even without knowing it at the time (Lev. 4:2; 5:15). Syn.: 205, 817, 599, 2403, 5674, 5771, 6588, 7451, 7563. See: TWOT—638; BDB—306c.

(1) This word means "sin" in the sense of missing the mark or the path. (1a) This may be sin against either a man (Gen 41:9—the first occurrence of the word) or (1b) God (Deut 9:18). (2) Second, it connotes the "guilt" of such an act (Num 27:3). The psalmist confessed that his mother was in the condition of sin and guilt (cf. Rom 5:12) when he was conceived (Ps 51:5). See: TWOT—638a; BDB—307d, 1092d.

2400. חַטָּא {18x} chaṭṭâ', khat-taw'; intens. from 2398; a criminal, or one accounted guilty:—offender {1x}, sinful {1x}, sinner {16x}.

(1) The noun chatta', with the form reserved for those who are typified with the characteristic represented by the root, is used both as an adjective (emphatic) and as a noun. (2) The word occurs 18 times. (3) Men are described as "sinners" (1 Sa 15:18) and as those who are liable to the penalty of an offense (1 Kin 1:21). (4) The first occurrence of the word is in Gen 13:13: "But the men of Sodom were wicked and sinners before the Lord exceedingly." See: TWOT—638b; 308b.

2401. חַטָּאָה {8x} chăṭâ'âh, khat-aw-aw'; fem. of 2399; an offence, or a sacrifice for it:—sin offering {1x}, sin {7x}. See: TWOT—638d; BDB—308b.

2402. חַטָּאָה {1x} chaṭṭâ'âh (Aram.), khat-taw-aw'; corresp. to 2401; an offence, and the penalty or sacrifice for it:—sin (offering) {1x}. See: TWOT—2726b; BDB—308b.

2403. חַטָּאָה {296x} chaṭṭâ'âh, khat-taw-aw'; or חַטָּאת chaṭṭâ'th, khat-tawth'; from 2398; an offence (sometimes habitual sinfulness), and its penalty, occasion, sacrifice, or expiation; also (concr.) an offender:—sin {182x}, sin offering {116x}, punishment {3x}, purification for sin {2x}, purifying {1x}, sinful {1x}, sinner {1x}.

Chatta'th, as a noun, means "sin; sin-guilt; sin purification; sin offering." (1) The basic nuance of this word is "sin" conceived as missing the road or mark (155 times). (2) Chatta'th can refer to an offense against a man: "And Jacob was wroth, and chode with Laban: and Jacob answered and said to Laban, What is my trespass [6588 – pesha']? what is my sin, that thou hast so hotly pursued after me?" (Gen 31:36). (2a) It is such passages which prove that chatta'th is not simply a general word for "sin"; (2b) since Jacob used two different words, he probably intended two different nuances. (3) For the most part this word represents a sin against God (Lev 4:14). (3a) Men are to return from "sin," which is a path, a life-style, or act deviating from that which God has marked out (1 Kin 8:35). (3b) They should depart from "sin" (2 Kin 10:31), (3c) be concerned about it (Ps 38:18), and (3d) confess it (Num 5:7).

(4) The noun first appears in Gen 4:7, where Cain is warned that "sin lieth at the door." (4a) This citation may introduce a second nuance of the word—"sin" in general. (4b) Certainly such an emphasis appears in Ps 25:7, where the noun represents rebellious sin (usually indicated by pêsha' - 6588): "Remember not the sins of my youth, nor my transgressions." (5) In a few passages the term connotes the guilt or condition of sin: "The cry of Sodom and Gomorrah is great, and . . . their sin is very grievous" (Gen 18:20). (6) The word means "purification from sin" in two passages: "And thus shalt thou do unto them, to cleanse them: Sprinkle water of purifying upon them" (Num 8:7; cf. 19:9). (7) Chatta'th means "sin offering" (135 times). (7a) The law of the "sin offering" is recorded in Lev 4- 5:13; 6:24–30. (7b) This was an offering for some specific "sin" committed unwittingly, without intending to do it and perhaps even without knowing it at the time (Lev 4:2; 5:15). (7c) Finally, several passages use this word for the idea of "punishment for sin" (Lev 20:20). Syn.: 801, 817, 2077, 4503, 5071, 5258, 5930, 6452, 7133, 8002, 8573. See: TWOT—638e; BDB—303b, 310d, 1092d.

2416. חַי {501x} chay, khah'-ee; from 2421; alive; hence, raw (flesh); fresh (plant, water, year), strong; also (as noun, espec. in the fem. sing. and masc. plur.) life (or living thing), whether lit. or fig.:—live {197x}, life {144x}, beast {76x}, alive {31x}, creature {15x}, running {7x}, living thing {6x}, raw {6x}, misc. {19x} = + age, appetite, company, congregation, maintenance, + merry, multitude, + (be) old, quick, springing, troop.

Chay, in its (1) masculine noun form, means "living thing; life." (1a) The use of this word occurs only in the oath formula "as X lives," literally, "by the life of X": "And he said, They were my brethren, even the sons of my mother: as the LORD liveth, if ye had saved them alive, I would not slay you" (Judg 8:19). (1b) This formula summons the power of a superior to sanction the statement asserted. (1b1) In Judg 8:19 God is the witness to Gideon's pledge to kill his enemies and this statement that they brought the penalty on themselves. (1b2) A similar use appears in Gen 42:15 except that the power summoned is Pharaoh's: "Hereby ye shall be proved: By the life of Pharaoh ye shall not go forth hence, except your youngest brother come hither." (1bc) In 1 Sa 1:26 Hannah employs a similar phrase summoning Eli himself to attest the truthfulness of her statement: "And she said, Oh my lord, as thy soul liveth, my lord, I am the woman that stood by thee here, praying unto the LORD." (1c) Only God swears by His own power: "And the Lord said, I have pardoned according to thy word: But as truly as I live, all the earth shall be filled with the glory of the Lord" (Num 14:20–21).

(2) The feminine form of the word, chayyah, means "living being" and is especially used of animals. (2a) When so used, it usually distinguishes wild and undomesticated from domesticated animals; the word connotes that the animals described are untamed: (2a1) "And God remembered Noah, and every living thing, and all the cattle that was with him in the ark" (Gen 8:1). (2a2) Job 37:8 uses chayyah of rapacious beasts: "Then the beasts go into dens, and remain in their places." (2a3) This same word may also connote "evil beast": "Come now therefore, and let us slay him, and cast him into some pit, and we will say, Some evil beast hath devoured him" (Gen 37:20). (2b) In another nuance the word describes land animals as distinct from birds and fish: "Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it: and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that moveth upon the earth" (Gen 1:28). (2c) Infrequently chayyah represents a domesticated animal: "And the cities shall they have to dwell in; and the suburbs of them shall be for their cattle, and for their goods, and for all their beasts" (Num 35:3). (2d) Sometimes this word is used of "living beings" in general: "Also out of the midst thereof came the likeness of four living creatures: (Eze 1:5). In such passages the word is synonymous with the Hebrew word nepesh (5315).

(3) The masculine plural of the noun chay, chayyim, is a general word for the state of living as opposed to that of death. (3a) This meaning is in Deut 30:15: (3a1) "See, I have set before thee this day life and good, and death and evil." (3a2) Notice also Gen 27:46: "And Rebekah said to Isaac, I am weary of my life because of the daughters of Heth." (3b) In a second nuance the plural signifies "lifetime," or the days of one's life: ". . . And dust shalt thou eat all the days of thy life" (Gen 3:14). (3c) The phrase "the years of one's life" represents the same idea: "And Sarah was a hundred and seven and twenty years old: these were the years of the life of Sarah" (Gen 23:1). (3d) The "breath of life" in Gen 2:7 is the breath that brings "life": "And the LORD God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul" (cf. Gen 6:17). (3e) The "tree of life" is the tree which gives one eternal, everlasting "life." Therefore, it is the tree whose fruit brings "life": "And out of the ground made the LORD God to grow every tree that is pleasant to the sight, and good for food; the tree of life also in the midst of the garden . . ." (Gen 2:9). (3f) In another nuance this word suggests a special quality of "life," life as a special gift from God (a gift of salvation): "I call heaven and earth to record this day against you, that I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing: therefore choose life, that both thou and thy seed may live" (Deut 30:19). (3g) The plural of the word can represent "persons who are alive," or living persons: "And he stood between the dead and the living; and the plague was stayed" (Num 16:48).

(4) Chay, as a masculine adjective, means "alive; living." (4a) Used adjectivally it modifies men, animals, and God, but never plants. (4a1) In Gen 2:7 the word used with the noun nepesh (5315 - "soul, person, being") means a "living" person: "And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul." (4a2) The same two words are used in Gen 1:21 but with a slightly different meaning: "And God created . . . every living creature that moveth, which the waters brought forth abundantly, after their kind." Here a living nepesh ("creature") is an animal.

(4b) Deut 5:26 refers to God as the "living" God, distinguishing Him from the lifeless gods/idols of the heathen. (4c) In a related nuance chay describes flesh (animal meat or human flesh) under the skin, or "raw flesh." (4c1) In Lev 13:10 one reads that leprosy involved seeing quick (alive), raw (chay) flesh: "And the priest shall see him: and, behold, if the rising be white in the skin, and it have turned the hair white, and there be quick raw flesh in the rising. . . ." (4c2) The same words (bashar chay) are applied to dead, raw (skinned) animal flesh: "Give flesh to roast for the priest; for he will not have [boiled] flesh of thee, but raw" (1 Sa 2:15). (4d) Applied to liquids, chay means "running"; it is used metaphorically describing something that moves: "And Isaac's servants digged in the valley, and found there a well of springing water" (Gen 26:19). (4e) The Song of Solomon uses the word in a figure of speech describing one's wife; she is "a well of living waters" (4:15). The emphasis is not on the fact that the water flows but on its freshness; it is not stagnant, and therefore is refreshing and pleasant when consumed.

Chay, as a masculine adjective, means alive/living and modifies (1) man (1a) as man (Gen 2:7), or (1b) his flesh (Lev 13:10); (2) God (Deut 5:26); or (3) animals (1 Sa 2:15). (4) Applied to liquids, chay means running, being used metaphorically to describe something that moves: (4a) a well of springing water (Gen 26:19); (4b) living, life-giving waters (Jer 2:13; 17:3; Zec 14:8); (4c) one's wife; "a well of living waters" (Song 4:15). The emphasis is not on the fact that the water flows but on its freshness; it is not stagnant, and therefore is refreshing and pleasant when consumed. The feminine form, chayyah, means "living being" and is especially used of animals: (1) wild, untamed, undomesticated (Gen 8:1); (1a) rapacious beasts (Job 37:8); (1b) evil beasts (Gen 37:20); (1c) land animals as distinct from birds and fish (Gen 1:28). Infrequently chayyah represents

(2) a domesticated animal (Num 35:3). (3) Sometimes this word is used of living beings in general (Eze 1:5). The masculine plural of chay, chayyim, is a general word for (1) the state of living as opposed to that of death (Deut 30:15; Gen 27:46) and (2) signifies lifetime, or the days of one's life or the years of one's life (Gen 3:14; 23:1). (3) The "breath of life" (Gen 2:7; 6:17) is the breath that brings life. (4) The "tree of life" is the tree that gives one eternal, everlasting life (Gen 2:9). (5) This word also suggests a special quality of life, life as a special gift from God (a gift of salvation - Deut 30:19). (6) The plural can represent alive or living persons (Num 16:48). See: TWOT—644a; BDB—310d, 311d, 312c, 312d, 313a, 1092d.

2421. חָיָה {262x} châyâh, khaw-yaw'; a prim. root [comp. 2331, 2421]; to live, whether lit. or fig.; caus. to revive:—keep (leave, make) alive, × certainly, give (promise) life, (let, suffer to) live, nourish up, preserve (alive), quicken, recover, repair, restore (to life), revive, (× God) save (alive, life, lives), × surely, be whole.

Chayah means "to live." (1) In the ground stem this verb connotes "having life": (1a) "And Adam lived a hundred and thirty years . . ." (Gen 5:3). (1b) A similar meaning appears in Num 14:38 and Josh 9:21. (2) The intensive form of chayah means "to preserve alive": "Two of every sort shalt thou bring into the ark, to keep them alive with thee" (Gen 6:19). (3) This word may also mean "to bring to life" or "to cause to live": "I dwell . . . with him also that is of a contrite and humble spirit, to revive the spirit of the humble, and to revive the heart of the contrite ones" (Is 57:15). (4) "To live" is more than physical existence. (4a) According to Deut 8:3, "man doth not live by bread only, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the LORD doth man live." (4a) Moses said to Israel: "Love the LORD thy God . . . that thou mayest live and multiply" (Deut 30:16). See: TWOT—644; BDB—295c, 310d, 1092d.

2426. חֵיל {10x} chêyl, khale; or (short.)

חֵל chêl, khale; a collat. form of 2428; an army; also (by anal.) an intrenchment:—wall {2x}, rampart {2x}, host {2x}, trench {1x}, poor {1x}, bulwark {1x}, army {1x}. See: TWOT—623d; BDB—298a, 313d, 315d.

חִיל chîyl. See 2342.

2427. חִיל {6x} chîyl, kheel; and (fem.)

חִילָה chîylâh, khee-law'; from 2342; a throe (espec. of childbirth):—pain {3x}, pang {2x}, sorrow {1x}. Syn.: 2342, 2479. See: TWOT—623b; 297d, 313d.

2428. חַיִל {243x} chayil, khah'-yil; from 2342; prob. a force, whether of men, means or other resources; an army, wealth, virtue, valor, strength:—army {56x}, man of valour {37x}, host {29x}, forces {14x}, valiant {13x}, strength {12x}, riches {11x}, wealth {10x}, power {9x}, substance {8x}, might {6x}, strong {5x}, misc. {33x} = able, activity, band of men (soldiers), company, goods, train, virtuous (-ly), war, worthy (-ily).

Chayil means strength; power; wealth; property; capable; valiant; army; troops; influential; upper-class people (courtiers). (1) First, this word signifies a faculty or "power," the ability to effect or produce something. (1a) The word is used of physical "strength" in the sense of power that can be exerted: "If the iron be blunt, and he do not whet the edge, then must he put to more strength" (Eccl 10:10). (1b) Quite often this word appears in a military context. Here it is the physical strength, power, and ability to perform in battle that is in view. This idea is used of men in 1 Sa 2:4: "The bows of the mighty men are broken, and they that stumbled are girded with strength" (cf. Ps 18:32, 39). (1c) Ps 33:17 applies the word to a war horse. (1d) An interesting use of chayil appears in Num 24:17–18, where Balaam prophesied the destruction of Moab and Edom at the hands of Israel: "And Edom shall be a possession, Seir also shall be a possession for his enemies; and Israel shall do valiantly" (v. 18). The idea here is dynamic; something is happening. (1e) One might also render this phrase: "Israel performs mightily." This translation of the word is somewhat inexact; a noun is translated as an adverb.

(2) Second, chayil means "wealth, property." (2a) This nuance of the word focuses on that which demonstrates one's ability, his wealth or goods; Levi, Simeon, and their cohorts attacked the Shechemites: "And all their wealth, and all their little ones, and their wives took they captive, and spoiled even all that was in the home" (Gen 34:29—the first biblical occurrence of the word). (2b) In Num 31:9 chayil includes all the possessions of the Midianites except the women, children, cattle, and flocks. Thus it seems to be a little narrower in meaning. (2c) When this nuance is used with the Hebrew word "to do or make," the resulting phrase means "to become wealthy or make wealth" (cf. Deut 8:18; Ruth 4:11). (2d) This is in marked contrast to the emphasis of the same construction in Num. 24:18. Joel 2:22 uses chayil in the sense of "wealth" or products of the ability of a tree to produce fruit.

(3) Third, several passages use the word in the sense of "able." (3a) In Gen 47:6 the ability to do a job well is in view. Pharaoh told Joseph: "The land of Egypt is before thee; in the best of the land make thy father and brethren to dwell; in the land of Goshen let them dwell: and if thou knowest any men of activity [capable men] among them, then make them rulers over my cattle." (3b) This word can also represent the domestic skills of a woman—Ruth is described as a woman of ability and, therefore, either potentially or actually a good wife (Ruth 3:11; Prov 12:4). (3c) When applied to men, chayil sometimes focuses on their ability to conduct themselves well in battle as well as being loyal to their commanders (1 Sa 14:52; 1 Kin 1:42). When used in such contexts, the word may be translated "valiant": "And there was sore war against the Philistines all the days of Saul: and when Saul saw any strong man, or any valiant man, he took him unto him" (1 Sa 14:52; cf. Num 24:18; 1 Sa 14:48).

(4) Fourth, this word sometimes means "army"; "And I will harden Pharaoh's heart, that he shall follow after them; and I will be honored upon Pharaoh, and upon all his host [army]" (Ex 14:4). (4a) The word can also refer to the army as troops in the sense of a combination of a lot of individuals. (4b) Under such an idea the word can represent the members of an army distributed to perform certain functions. Jehoshaphat "placed forces in all the fenced cities of Judah, and set garrisons in the land of Judah . . ." (2 Chr 17:2). (4c) This is also the emphasis in 1 Kin 15:20: "Ben-hadad . . . sent the captains of the hosts which he had against the cities of Israel." (5) Fifth, chayil sometimes represents the "upper class," who, as in all feudal systems, were at once soldiers, wealthy, and influential; (5a) Sanballat "spake before his brethren and the army of Samaria," i.e., in the royal court (Neh 4:2). (5b) The Queen of Sheba was accompanied by a large escort of upperclass people from her homeland: "And she came to Jerusalem with a very great train" (1 Kin 10:2). Syn.: 2426. See: TWOT—624a; BDB—298c, 313d, 1093a.

2429. חַיִל {7x} chayil (Aram.), khah'-yil; corresp. to 2428; an army, or strength:—aloud {3x}, army {2x}, power {1x}, most {1x}. See: TWOT—2728; BDB—1093a.

2430. חֵילָה {1x} chêylâh, khay-law'; fem. of 2428; an intrenchment:—bulwark {1x}. See: TWOT—623e; BDB—298a.

2435. חִיצוֹן {25x} chîytsôwn, khee-tsone'; from 2434; prop. the (outer) wall side; hence, exterior; fig. secular (as opposed to sacred):—utter {12x}, outward {7x}, without {5x}, outer {1x}. See: TWOT—627b; BDB—300b, 313d.

2436. חֵיק {39x} chêyq, khake; or

חֵק chêq, khake; and

חוֹק chôwq, khoke; from an unused root, appar. mean. to inclose; the bosom (lit. or fig.):—bosom {32x}, bottom {3x}, lap {1x}, midst {1x}, within {1x}, variant {1x}.

Cheq means "bosom; lap; base." (1) The word represents the "outer front of one's body" where beloved ones, infants, and animals are pressed closely: "Have I conceived all this people? have I begotten them, that thou shouldest say unto me, Carry them in thy bosom, as a nursing father beareth the sucking child" (Num 11:12). (2) In its first biblical appearance, cheq is used of a man's "bosom": "And Sarai said unto Abram, My wrong be upon thee: I have given my maid into thy bosom; and when she saw that she had conceived, I was despised in her eyes" (Gen 16:5). (3) The "husband of one's bosom" is (3a) a husband who is "held close to one's heart" or "cherished" (Deut 28:56). (3b) This figurative inward sense appears again in Ps 35:13: "My prayer returned into mine own bosom" (cf. Job 19:27). (3c) In 1 Kin 22:35, the word means the "inside" or "heart" of a war chariot.

(4) Cheq represents a fold of one's garment above the belt where things are hidden: "And the Lord said furthermore unto him [Moses], Put now thine hand into thy bosom" (Ex 4:6). (5) This word is rendered as "lap": (5a) "The lot is cast into the lap; but the whole disposing thereof is of the LORD" (Prov 16:33). (5b) Yet "bosom" may be used, even where "lap" is clearly intended: "But the poor man had nothing, save one little ewe lamb, which he had bought and nourished up: and it grew up together with him, and with his children; it did eat of his own meat, and drank of his own cup, and lay in his bosom" (2 Sa 12:3). (6) Finally, cheq means the "base of the altar," as described in Eze 43:13 (cf. Eze 43:17). Syn.: 2243, 2683, 6747. See: TWOT—629a; BDB—300c, 313d, 348d.

2448. חַכְלִלוּת {1x} chaklîlûwth, khak-lee-looth'; from 2447; flash (of the eyes); in a bad sense, bleariedness:—redness {1x}. See: TWOT—646b; BDB—314b.

2449. חָכַם {27x} châkam, khaw-kam'; a prim. root, to be wise (in mind, word or act):—wise {19x}, wiser {4x}, wisely {2x}, teach wisdom {1x}, exceeding {1x}.

Chakam means "to be wise, act wisely, make wise, show oneself wise." (1) The word means "to be wise" in Prov 23:15: "My son, if thine heart be wise, my heart shall rejoice, even mine." (2) In Ps 119:98 chakam means "to make wise": "Thou through thy commandments hast made me wiser than mine enemies: for they are ever with me." (3) This word represents the discernment of good and evil, prudence in secular matters, skill in arts, and experience in Divine things. (4) It is moral rather than intellectual; it is the adaptation of what we know to what we have (and ought) to do. Syn.: 995, 2450, 2454, 7919. See: TWOT—647; BDB—314b.

2450. חָכָם {137x} châkâm, khaw-kawm'; from 2449; wise, (i.e. intelligent, skillful or artful):—wise {109x}, wise man {13x}, cunning {6x}, cunning men {4x}, subtil {1x}, unwise {2x}, wiser {2x}.

Chakam, the adjective, means "wise; skillful; practical." (1) This word plus the noun chakemah and the verb "to be wise" signify an important element of the Old Testament religious point of view. (1a) Religious experience was not a routine, a ritual, or faith experience. (1b) It was viewed as a mastery of the art of living in accordance with God's expectations. (1c) In their definition, the words "mastery" and "art" signify that wisdom was a process of attainment and not an accomplishment. (2) Chakam appears 132 times in the Hebrew Old Testament and occurs most frequently in Job, Proverbs, and Ecclesiastes, for which reason these books are known as "wisdom literature." (3) The first occurrence of chakam is in Gen 41:8: "And it came to pass in the morning that his spirit was troubled; and he sent and called for all the magicians of Egypt, and all the wise men thereof: and Pharaoh told them his dream; but there was none that could interpret them unto Pharaoh."

(4) The chakam in secular usage signified a man who was a "skillful" craftsman. (4a) The manufacturers of the objects belonging to the tabernacle were known to be wise, or experienced in their crafts (Ex 36:4). (4b) Even the man who was skillful in making idols was recognized as a craftsman (Is 40:20; cf. Jer 10:9). (4c) The reason for this is to be found in the man's skill, craftsmanship, and not in the object which was being manufactured. (4d) Those who were experienced in life were known as "wise," but their wisdom is not to be confused with the religious usage. (4e) Cleverness and shrewdness characterized this type of wisdom. (4e1) Amnon consulted Jonadab, who was known as a shrewd man (2 Sa 13:3), and followed his plan of seducing his sister Tamar. (4e2) Joab hired a "wise" woman to make David change his mind about Absalom (2 Sa 14:2).

(5) Based on the characterization of wisdom as a skill, a class of counselors known as "wise men" arose. (5a) They were to be found in Egypt (Gen 41:8), in Babylon (Jer 50:35), in Tyre (Eze 27:9), in Edom (Obad 8), and in Israel. (5b) In pagan cultures the "wise" man practiced magic and divination: (5b1) "Then Pharaoh also called the wise men and the sorcerers: now the magicians of Egypt, they also did in like manner with their enchantments" (Ex 7:11); and (5b2) ". . . that frustrateth the tokens of the liars, and maketh diviners mad; that turneth wise men backward, and maketh their knowledge foolish" (Is 44:25). (6) The religious sense of chakam excludes delusion, craftiness, shrewdness, and magic. (6a) God is the source of wisdom, as He is "wise": "Yet he also is wise, and will bring evil, and will not call back his words: but will arise against the house of the evildoers, and against the help of them that work iniquity" (Is 31:2).

(6b) The man or woman who, fearing God, lives in accordance with what God expects and what is expected of him in a God-fearing society is viewed as an integrated person. (6c) He is "wise" in that his manner of life projects the fear of God and the blessing of God rests upon him. (6d) Even as the craftsman is said to be skillful in his trade, the Old Testament chakam was learning and applying wisdom to every situation in life, and the degree in which he succeeded was a barometer of his progress on the road of wisdom. (7) The opposite of the chakam is the "fool" or wicked person, who stubbornly refuses counsel and depends on his own understanding: "For the turning away of the simple shall slay them, and the prosperity of fools shall destroy them" (Prov 1:32; cf. Deut 32:5–6; Prov 3:35). See: TWOT—647b; BDB—314c, 1093a.

2451. חָכְמָה {149x} chokmâh, khok-maw'; from 2449; wisdom (in a good sense):—wisdom {145x}, wisely {2x}, skilful man {1x}, wits {1x}.

Chokmah, the noun, means "wisdom; experience; shrewdness." (1) Like chakam, most occurrences of this word are in Job, Proverbs, and Ecclesiastes. (1a) The chakam seeks after chokmah, "wisdom." (1b) Like chakam, the word chokmah can refer to technical skills or special abilities in fashioning something. (1c) The first occurrence of chokmah is in Ex 28:3: "And thou shalt speak unto all that are wisehearted, whom I have filled with the spirit of wisdom, that they may make Aaron's garments to consecrate him, that he may minister unto me in the priest's office." (1c1) This first occurrence of the word in the Hebrew Bible bears this out as well as the description of the workers on the tabernacle. (1c2) The artisan was considered to be endowed with special abilities given to him by God: "And he hath filled him with the spirit of God, in wisdom, in understanding, and in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanship" (Ex 35:31).

(2) Chokmah is the knowledge and the ability to make the right choices at the opportune time. (2a) The consistency of making the right choice is an indication of maturity and development. (2b) The prerequisite for "wisdom" is the fear of the Lord: "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge: but fools despise wisdom and instruction" (Prov 1:7). (2c) "Wisdom" is viewed as crying out for disciples who will do everything to pursue her (Prov 1:20). (2d) The person who seeks chokmah diligently (2d1) will receive understanding: "For the LORD giveth wisdom: out of his mouth cometh knowledge and understanding" (Prov 2:6); (2d2) he will benefit in his life by walking with God: "That thou mayest walk in the way of good men, and keep the paths of the righteous" (Prov 2:20). (3) The advantages of "wisdom" are many: "For length of days, and long life, and peace, shall they add to thee. Let not mercy and truth forsake thee: bind them about thy neck; write them upon the table of thine heart: so shalt thou find favor and good understanding in the sight of God and man" (Prov 3:2–4).

(4) The prerequisite is a desire to follow and imitate God as He has revealed Himself in Jesus Christ, without self-reliance and especially not in a spirit of pride: "A wise man will hear, and will increase learning; and a man of understanding shall attain unto wise counsels: to understand a proverb, and the interpretation; the words of the wise, and their dark sayings. The fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge: but fools despise wisdom and instruction" (Prov 1:5–7). (5) The fruits of chokmah are many, and the Book of Proverbs describes the characters of the chakam and chokmah. (6) In New Testament terms the fruits of "wisdom" are the same as the fruits of the Holy Spirit; cf. (6a) "But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance: against such there is no law" (Gal. 5:22–23); (6b) "But the wisdom that is from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, and easy to be entreated, full of mercy and good fruits, without partiality, and without hypocrisy. And the fruit of righteousness is sown in peace of them that make peace" (Jas 3:17–18).

(7) The importance of "wisdom" explains (7a) why books were written about it. (7b) Songs were composed in celebration of "wisdom" (Job 28). (7c) Even "wisdom" is personified in Proverbs. (7c1) Chokmah as a person stands for that divine perfection of "wisdom" which is manifest in God's creative acts. (7c2) As a divine perfection it is visible in God's creative acts: "Doth not wisdom cry: and understanding put forth her voice? . . . I wisdom dwell with prudence, and find out knowledge of witty inventions. . . . The LORD possessed me in the beginning of his way, before his works of old. . . . Then I was by him, as one brought up with him: and I was daily his delight, rejoicing always before him. . . . Now therefore hearken unto me, O ye children: for blessed are they that keep my ways" (Prov 8:1, 12, 22, 30, 32). See: TWOT—647a; BDB—315b.

2470. חָלָה {75x} châlâh, khaw-law'; a prim. root [comp. 2342, 2470, 2490]; prop. to be rubbed or worn; hence, (fig.) to be weak, sick, afflicted; or (caus.) to grieve, make sick; also to stroke (in flattering), entreat:—sick {34x}, beseech {6x}, be weak {4x}, grievous {4x}, be diseased {3x}, wounded {3x}, pray {3x}, intreat {3x}, grief {2x}, grieved {2x}, sore {2x}, pain {1x}, infirmity {1x}, intreated {1x}, laid {1x}, prayer {1x}, sorry {1x}, make suit {1x}, supplication {1x}, travail {1x}.

Chalah, as a verb, means "to be sick, weak." (1) It is found the first time near the end of the Book of Genesis when Joseph is told: "Behold, thy father is sick" (Gen 48:1). (2) A survey of the uses of chalah shows that there was a certain lack of precision in many of its uses, and that the context would be the deciding factor in its meaning. (2a) When Samson told Delilah that if he were tied up with bowstrings he would "be weak, and be as another man" (Judg 16:7), the verb obviously did not mean "become sick," unless being sick implied being less than normal for Samson. (2b) When Joram is described as being sick because of wounds suffered in battle (2 Kin 8:29), perhaps it would be better to say that he was weak. (2c) Sacrificial animals that are described as being lame or "sick" (Mal 1:8) are actually imperfect or not acceptable for sacrifice. (3) This word is sometimes used in the figurative sense of overexerting oneself, thus becoming "weak." (3a) This is seen in Jer 12:13: "They have put themselves to pain." (3b) Song 2:5, "sick of/with love," probably means "weak with passion." See: TWOT—655; BDB—317c, 318c.

2471. חַלָּה {14x} challâh, khal-law'; from 2490; a cake (as usually punctured):—cake {14x}. Syn.: 4580, 5692, 6742. See: TWOT—660b; BDB—319c.

חֲלֹם chălôm, khal-ome'; from 2492; a dream:—dream {64x}, dreamer + 1167 {1x}.

Chalom, as a noun, means "dream." (1) The word means "dream." It is used of the ordinary dreams of sleep: "Then thou scarest me with dreams, and terrifiest me through visions" (Job 7:14). (2) The most significant use of this word, however, is with reference to prophetic "dreams" and/or "visions." (2a) Both true and false prophets claimed to communicate with God by these dreams and visions. (2b) Perhaps the classical passage using the word in this sense is Deut 13:1ff.: "If there arise among you a prophet, or a dreamer of dreams, and giveth thee a sign or a wonder, and the sign or the wonder come to pass. . . . " (2c) This sense, that a dream is a means of revelation, appears in the first biblical occurrence of chalom: "But God came to Abimelech in a dream by night" (Gen 20:3). Syn.: 2492. See: TWOT—663a; BDB—321c, 1093a.

Chalal (2490), means "to pollute, defile, profane, begin." (1) The most frequent use of this Hebrew root is in the sense of "to pollute, defile." (1a) This may be a ritual defilement, such as that resulting from contact with a dead body (Lev 21:4), or (1b) the ceremonial profaning of the sacred altar by the use of tools in order to shape the stones (Ex 20:25). (1c) Holy places may be profaned (Eze 7:24); (1d) the name of God (Eze 20:9) and (1e) even God Himself (Eze 22:26) may be profaned. (1f) The word is often used to describe the defilement which results from illicit sexual acts, such as harlotry (Lev 21:9) or violation of one's father's bed (Gen 49:4—the first occurrence). (2) In more than 50 instances, this root is used in the sense of "to begin." (2a) Perhaps the most important of such uses is found in Gen 4:26.

(2a1) There it is stated that after the birth of Seth, who was born to Adam and Eve after the murder of Abel by Cain, "then began men to call upon the name of the Lord." (2a2) One must ask whether the writer meant to say that it was not until the birth of Enosh, the son of Seth, that people "began" to call on the name of the Lord altogether, or whether he meant that this was the first time the name Yahweh was used. (2a3) In view of the accounts in Gen 1—3, neither of these seems likely. (2a4) Perhaps the writer is simply saying that in contrast to the apparent non-God-fearing attitude expressed by Cain, the generation beginning with Seth and his son Enosh was known for its God-fearing way of life. (2a5) Perhaps, in view of the passive intensive verb form used here, the meaning is something like this: "Then it was begun again to call on the name of the Lord." See: TWOT—660, 661; BDB—319b, 320a.

2491. חָלָל {94x} châlâl, khaw-lawl'; from 2490; pierced (espec. to death); fig. polluted:—slay {78x}, wounded {10x}, profane {3x}, kill {2x}, slain man {1x}. See: TWOT—660a; BDB—319c, 321a.

Chalam, as a verb, means "to become healthy or strong; to dream." (1) The meaning, "to become healthy," applies only to animals though "to dream" is used of human dreams. (2) Gen 28:12, the first occurrence, tells how Jacob "dreamed" that he beheld a ladder to heaven. See: TWOT—662, 663; BDB—321b.

Chalaph means "to pass on, pass away, change, overstep, transgress." (1) When used in the simple active form, chalaph occurs only in poetry (except for 1 Sa 10:3), and it has the meaning of "to pass on, through." (2) The word is typically used in narrative or prose (2a) with the meaning of "to change." (2b) With this meaning chalaph first occurs in the Old Testament in Gen 31:7: "Your father hath deceived me, and changed my wages ten times" (cf. Gen 31:41). (3b) Chalaph expresses the "sweeping on" (3b1) of a flood (Is 8:8), (3b2) of a whirlwind (Is 21:1), and (3b3) of God Himself (Job 9:11). (4) The word has the meaning of "to pass away or to vanish," with reference (4a) to days (Job 9:26), (4b) the rain (Song 2:11), and (4c) idols (Is 2:18). (5) Not only wages, but garments are "changed" (Gen 35:2; Ps 102:26). (6) "To change" is "to renew" strength (Is 40:31; 41:1); (7) a tree appears "to be renewed" when it sprouts again (Job 14:7). See: TWOT—666; BDB—322a, 1025c, 1093a.

Chalaq, means "to divide, share, plunder, assign, distribute." (1) It appears for the first time in Gen 14:15, (1a) where it is said that Abram "divided himself against them" as he rescued his nephew Lot from the enemy. (1b) Apparently, Abram was "assigning" different responsibilities to his troops as part of his strategy. (2) The sense of "dividing" or "allotting" is found in Deut 4:19, (2a) where the sun, moon, and stars are said to have been "allotted" to all peoples by God. (2b) A similar use is seen in Deut 29:26, where God is said not to have "allotted" false gods to His people. (3) Chalaq is used in the legal sense of "sharing" an inheritance in Prov 17:2. (4) The word is used three times in reference to "sharing" the spoils of war in 1 Sa 30:24. (5) This verb describes the "division" of the people of Israel, as one half followed Tibni and the other half followed Omri (1 Kin 16:21). (6) The word chalaq is also important in the description of the "dividing" of the land of Canaan among the various tribes and clans (Num 26:52–55). 2534. חֵמָה {124x} chêmâh, khay-maw'; or (Dan. 11:44)

חֵמָא chêmâ', khay-maw'; from 3179; heat; fig. anger, poison (from its fever): fury {67x}, wrath {34x}, poison {6x}, furious {4x}, displeasure {3x}, rage {2x}, anger {1x}, bottles {1x}, furious + 1167 {1x}, furiously {1x}, heat {1x}, indignation {1x}, wrathful {1x}, wroth {1x}.

Chemah means "wrath; heat; rage; anger." (1) The noun, as well as the verb yacham (3179), denotes a strong emotional state. (1a) The noun is used 124 times, predominantly in the poetic and prophetic literature, especially Ezekiel. (1b) The first usage of chemah takes place in the story of Esau and Jacob. Jacob is advised to go to Haran with the hope that Esau's "anger" will dissipate: "And tarry with him a few days, until thy brother's fury turn away" (Gen 27:44). (2) The word indicates a state of anger. (2a) Most of the usage involves God's "anger." His "wrath" is expressed against Israel's sin in the wilderness: "For I was afraid of the anger and hot displeasure, wherewith the Lord was wroth against you to destroy you" (Deut 9:19). (2b) The psalmist prayed for God's mercy in the hour of God's "anger": "O LORD, rebuke me not in thine anger, neither chasten me in thy hot displeasure" (Ps 6:1).

(2c) God's "anger" against Israel was ultimately expressed in the exile of the Judeans to Babylon: "The Lord hath accomplished his fury; he hath poured out his fierce anger, and hath kindled a fire in Zion, and it hath devoured the foundations thereof" (Lam 4:11). (2d) The metaphor "cup" denotes the judgment of God upon His people. (2d1) His "wrath" is poured out: "Therefore he hath poured upon him the fury of his anger, and the strength of battle: and it hath set him on fire round about, yet he knew not; and it burned him, yet he laid it not to heart" (Is 42:25); (2d2) and the "cup of wrath" is drunk: "Awake, awake, stand up, O Jerusalem, which hast drunk at the hand of the LORD the cup of his fury; thou hast drunken the dregs of the cup of trembling . . ." (Is 51:17). (3) Thus, God as the Almighty Potentate is angered by the sins and the pride of His people, as they are an insult to His holiness. (3a) In a derived sense, the rulers on earth are also described as those who are angered, but their "anger" is aroused from circumstances over which they have no control.

(3a1) Naaman was angry with Elisha's advice (2 Kin 5:11–12); (3a2) Ahasuerus became enraged with Vashti's refusal to display her beauty before the men (Est 1:12).

(4) Chemah also denotes man's reaction to everyday circumstances. (4a) Man's "rage" is a dangerous expression of his emotional state, as it inflames everybody who comes close to the person in rage. (4a1) "Wrath" may arise for many reasons. Proverbs speaks strongly against chemah, as jealousy (6:34); cf. "Wrath is cruel, and anger is outrageous; but who is able to stand before envy?" (Prov 27:4; cf. Eze 16:38). (4a2) The man in rage may be culpable of crime and be condemned: "Be ye afraid of the sword: for wrath bringeth the punishments of the sword, that ye may know there is a judgment" (Job 19:29). (4a3) The wise response to "rage" is a soft answer: "A soft answer turneth away wrath: but grievous words stir up anger" (Prov 15:1).

(5) There are two special meanings of chemah: (5a) One is "heat," as in "the Spirit lifted me up, and took me away, and I went in bitterness, in the heat of my spirit; but the hand of the LORD was strong upon me" (Eze 3:14). (5b) The other is "poison," or "venom," as in Deut 32:33: "Their wine is the poison of dragons, and the cruel venom of asps." Syn: Chemah is associated with (A) qin'ah (7068), "jealousy," and also with (B) naqam (5358), "vengeance," as the angered person intends to save his name or avenge himself on the person who provoked him. In God's dealing with Israel He was jealous of His Holy name, for which reason He had to deal justly with idolatrous Israel by avenging Himself: "That it might cause fury to come up to take vengeance; I have set her blood upon the top of a rock, that it should not be covered" (Eze 24:8); but He also avenges His people against their enemies: "God is jealous, and the LORD revengeth; the LORD revengeth, and is furious; the LORD will take vengeance on his adversaries and he reserveth wrath for his enemies" (Nah 1:2). Other synonyms of chemah are (C) 'ap (639) "anger," (Deut 29:27); and (D) qetseph, "wrath (7110)," (Jer 21:5). comp. 2529. See: TWOT—860a; BDB—326b, 328a, 404b, 1095c.

Chamac, as a verb, means "to treat violently." (1) This verb appears in Jer. 22:3 with the meaning of "to do no violence": ". . . And do no wrong, do no violence to the stranger, the fatherless, nor the widow, neither shed innocent blood in this place." See: TWOT—678; BDB—329b.

Chamac, as a noun, means "violence; wrong; maliciousness." (1) Basically chamac connotes the disruption of the divinely established order of things. (2) It has a wide range of nuances within this legal sphere. (2a) The expression "a witness in the case of violent wrongdoing" means someone who bears witness in a case having to do with such an offense (cf. Deut 19:16). (2a1) In this context the truthfulness of the witness is not established except upon further investigation (Deut 19:18). (2a2) Once he was established as a false witness, the penalty for the crime concerning which he bore false witness was to be executed against the liar (cf. Deut 19:19). (2b) In Ex 23:1 Israel is admonished: "Put not thine hand with the wicked to be an unrighteous witness," i.e., a witness who in accusing someone of a violent crime intends to see the accused punished severely.

(3) Chamac perhaps connotes a "violent wrongdoing" which has not been righted, the guilt of which lies on an entire area (its inhabitants) disrupting their relationship with God and thereby interfering with His blessings. (3a) It is this latter sense which appears in the phrase "the earth was full of violent wrongdoing": "The earth also was corrupt before God, and the earth was filled with violence" (Gen 6:11—the first occurrence of the word). (3b) Thus, in Gen 16:5 Sarai summons God to judge between Abram and herself because he has not acted properly toward her keeping Hagar in submission: "My wrong [done me] be upon thee: I have given my maid into thy bosom; and when she saw that she had conceived, I was despised in her eyes: the LORD judge between me and thee." (3c) Abram as God's judge (in God's stead) accepts the correctness of her case and commits Hagar to Sarai's care to be dealt with properly. "pleasant and agreeable" can be described by this word. When a woman is said to have chen, she is a "gracious" woman (Prov 11:16); (2b) or the word may have the negative association of being "beautiful without sense" (Prov 31:30). (2c) A person's speech may be characterized by "graciousness": "He that loveth pureness of heart, for the grace of his lips the king shall be his friend" (Prov 22:11; cf. Chinnam basically means "for nothing; for no purpose; useless; without a cause; for no reason." (1) This substantive is used chiefly as an adverb. It means "for nought": "And Laban said unto Jacob, Because thou art my brother, shouldest thou therefore serve me for nought? tell me, what shall thy wages be?" Chanan, as a verb, means "to be gracious, considerate; to show favor." (1) The first time in Gen 33:5: "The children which God hath graciously given thy servant." (2) Generally, this word implies the extending of "favor," often when it is neither expected nor deserved. (2a) Chanan may express "generosity," a gift from the heart (Ps 37:21). (2b) God especially is the source of undeserved "favor" (Gen 33:11), and He is asked repeatedly for such "gracious" acts as only He can do (Num 6:25; Gen 43:29). The psalmist prays: "Grant me thy law graciously" (Ps 119:29). (3) God's "favor" is especially seen in His deliverance from one's enemies or surrounding evils (Ps 77:9; Amos 5:15). (4) However, God extends His "graciousness" in His own sovereign way and will, to whomever He chooses (Ex 33:19). Checed, as a noun, means "loving-kindness; steadfast love; grace; mercy; faithfulness; goodness; devotion." (1) This word is used 240 times in the Old Testament, and (1a) is especially frequent in the Psalter. (1b) The term is one of the most important in the vocabulary of Old Testament theology and ethics. (2) In general, one may identify three basic meanings of the word, which always interact: "strength," "steadfastness," and "love." Any understanding of the word that fails to suggest all three inevitably loses some of its richness. "Love" by itself easily becomes sentimentalized or universalized apart from the covenant. Yet "strength" or "steadfastness" suggests only the fulfillment of a legal or other obligation.

(3) The word refers primarily to mutual and reciprocal rights and obligations between the parties of a relationship (especially Yahweh and Israel). (3a) But checed is not only a matter of obligation; (3b) it is also of generosity. (3c) It is not only a matter of loyalty, but also of mercy. (3d) The weaker party seeks the protection and blessing of the patron and protector, but he may not lay absolute claim to it. (3e) The stronger party remains committed to his promise, but retains his freedom, especially with regard to the manner in which he will implement those promises. (4) Checed implies personal involvement and commitment in a relationship beyond the rule of law. (5) Marital love is often related to checed. (5a) Marriage certainly is a legal matter, and there are legal sanctions for infractions. (5b) Yet the relationship, if sound, far transcends mere legalities. (5c) The prophet Hosea applies the analogy to Yahweh's checed to Israel within the covenant (e.g., 2:21). (6) Hence, "devotion" is sometimes the single English word best capable of capturing the nuance of the original. (7) Hebrew writers often underscored the element of steadfastness (or strength) by pairing checed with 'emet (571 - "truth, reliability") and 'emunah (530 - "faithfulness").

(8) Biblical usage frequently speaks of someone "doing," "showing," or "keeping" checed. (9) The concrete content of the word is especially evident when it is used in the plural. (9a) God's "mercies," "kindnesses," or "faithfulnesses" are His specific, concrete acts of redemption in fulfillment of His promise. (9b) An example appears in Is 55:3: ". . . And I will make an everlasting covenant with you, even the sure mercies of David." (10) Checed has both God and man as its subject. (10a) When man is the subject of checed, the word usually describes the person's kindness or loyalty to another; cf. 2 Sa 9:7: "And David said . . . I will surely show thee [Mephibosheth] kindness for Jonathan thy father's sake." (10b) Only rarely is the term applied explicitly to man's affection or fidelity toward God; (10c) the clearest example is probably Jer 2:2: "Go and cry in the ears of Jerusalem, saying, thus saith the LORD; I remember thee, the kindness of thy youth, the love of thine espousals, when thou wentest after me in the wilderness." (10d) Man exercises checed toward various units within the community—toward family and relatives, but also to friends, guests, masters, and servants. (10e) Checed toward the lowly and needy is often specified.

(11) The Bible prominently uses the term checed to summarize and characterize a life of sanctification within, and in response to, the covenant. (11a) Thus, Hos 6:6 states that God desires "mercy and not sacrifice" (i.e., faithful living in addition to worship). (11b) Similarly, Mic 6:8 features checed in the prophets' summary of biblical ethics: ". . . and what doth the LORD require of thee, but . . . to love mercy . . . ?" (12) Behind all these uses with man as subject, however, stand the repeated references to God's checed. (12a) It is one of His most central characteristics. (12b) God's loving-kindness is offered to His people, who need redemption from sin, enemies, and troubles. (12c) A recurrent refrain describing God's nature is "abounding/plenteous in checed" (Ex 34:6; Neh 9:17; Ps 103:8; Jonah 4:2). (12d) The entire history of Yahweh's covenantal relationship with Israel can be summarized in terms of checed. (12e) It is the one permanent element in the flux of covenantal history. (12f) Even the Creation is the result of God's checed (Ps 136:5–9). (12g) His love lasts for a "thousand generations" (Deut 7:9; cf. Deut 5:10 and Ex 20:6), indeed "forever" (especially in the refrains of certain psalms, such as Ps 136).

(13) Words used in synonymous parallelism with checed help to define and explain it. (13a) The word most commonly associated with checed is 'emet (571 - "fidelity; reliability"): ". . . Let thy loving-kindness [checed] and thy truth ['emet] continually preserve me." (13b) 'Emunah (530) with a similar meaning is also common: "He hath remembered his mercy [checed] and his truth ['emunah] toward the house of Israel." (14) This emphasis is especially appropriate when God is the subject, because His checed is stronger and more enduring than man's. (14a) Etymological investigation suggests that checed's primitive significance may have been "strength" or "permanence." (14b) If so, a puzzling use of checed in Is 40:6 would be explained: "All flesh is grass, and all the goodliness thereof is as the flower of the field."

(15) The association of checed with "covenant" (15a) keeps it from being misunderstood as mere providence or love for all creatures; (15b) it applies primarily to God's particular love for His chosen and covenanted people. (15c) "Covenant" also stresses the reciprocity of the relationship; (15d) but since God's checed is ultimately beyond the covenant, it will not ultimately be abandoned, even when the human partner is unfaithful and must be disciplined (Is 54:8, 10). (16) Since its final triumph and implementation is eschatological, checed can imply the goal and end of all salvation-history (Ps 85:7, 10; 130:7; Mic 7:20). See: TWOT—698a, 699a; BDB—338c, 340a.

2618. חֶסֶד {1x} Cheçed, kheh'-sed; the same as 2617: favor; Chesed, an Isr.:—Hesed {1x}. See: BDB—122c.

The name of Zerubbabel's son means "Yahweh is faithful/gracious," a fitting summary of the prophet's message. See: BDB—339d.

2620. חָסָה {37x} châçâh, khaw-saw'; a prim. root; to flee for protection [comp. 982]; fig. to confide in:—to trust {35x}, to make a refuge {1x}, have hope {1x}. It is often used where God is compared to a rock or a shield or one with protective wings. See: TWOT—700; BDB—340a.

Chaciyd, as an adjective, means "pious; devout; faithful; godly." (1) The adjective is often used to describe the faithful Israelite. (1a) God's checed provides the pattern, model, and strength by which the life of the chaciyd is to be directed. (1b) One reference to the "godly" man appears in Ps 12:1: "Help, LORD; for the godly man ceaseth; for the faithful fail from among the children of men." (1c) Usually a suffix or possessive pronoun referring to God is attached to the word, indicating His special attachment to those who pattern their lives after His: "O love the LORD, all ye his saints [literally, "His pious ones"]: for the LORD preserveth the faithful, and plentifully rewardeth the proud doer" (Ps 31:23). (2) Following the Greek hosios and Latin sanctus, the KJV often renders the word "saint"—which must be understood in the sense of sanctification [dependent upon grace], not moralistically [of native goodness]. See: TWOT—698b; BDB—339c.

Chaphets (2654), as a verb, means "to take pleasure in, take care of, desire, delight in, have delight in." (1) Chaphets means "to delight in" in 2 Sa 15:26: "But if he thus say, I have no delight in thee; behold, here am I, let him do to me as seemeth good unto him." (2) There is no reference to what we call favoritism, (2a) i.e., the overlooking of the claims of some so as to gratify the wishes of special friends; (2b) it is simply recorded that pleasure was found in certain persons, whatever the ground of it might be. (3) It is not so much an intense pleasurable emotion as a favorable disposition, or the prompting of the heart to take a certain course of action from a sense of fitness. See: TWOT—712, 713; BDB—342c, 33c.

2655. חֵפֶץ {11x} châphêts, khaw-fates'; from 2654; pleased with:—desire {3x}, have pleasure {2x}, whosoever would {1x}, if it please {1x}, willing {1x}, favour {1x}, wish {1x}, delight {1x}.

Chephets, as a noun, means "pleasure; delight; desire; request; affair; thing." (1) This word often means "pleasure" or "delight": (1a) "Hath the LORD as great delight in burnt offerings and sacrifices, as in obeying the voice of the LORD?" (1 Sa 15:22—the first occurrence). (1b) Thus "the preacher [writer of Ecclesiastes] sought to find out acceptable [chephets] words: and that which was written was upright, even words of truth" (Eccl 12:10), words that were both true and aesthetically pleasing. (2) A good wife works with "hands of delight," or hands which delight in her work because of her love for her family; "she seeketh wool, and flax, and worketh willingly [in delight] with her hands" (Prov 31:13). (2) Chephets can mean not simply what one takes pleasure in or what gives someone delight but one's wish or desire: "Although my house be not so with God; yet he hath made with me an everlasting covenant, ordered in all things, and sure: for this is all my salvation, and all my desire, although he make it not to grow" (2 Sa 23:5).

(3) "To do one's desire" is to grant a request (1 Kin 5:8). (4) "Stones of desire" are precious stones (Is 54:12). (5) Chephets sometimes represents one's affairs as that in which one takes delight: (5a) "There is . . . a time to every purpose [literally, delight] under the heaven" (Eccl 3:1). (5b) In Is 58:13 the first occurrence of this word means "pleasure" or "delight," while the last occurrence indicates an affair or matter in which one delights: "If thou turn away thy foot from the sabbath, from doing thy pleasure on my holy day; and call the sabbath a delight, the holy of the LORD, honorable; and shalt honor him, not doing thine own ways, nor finding thine own pleasure, nor speaking thine own words." (6) Finally, in one passage this word means "affair" in the sense of a "thing" or "situation": "If thou seest the oppression of the poor, and violent perverting of judgment and justice in a province, marvel not at the matter" (Eccl 5:8). See: TWOT—712b; BDB—343a.

Chatser means "court; enclosure." (1) This word is related to a common Semitic verb that has two meanings: (1a) "to be present," in the sense of living at a certain place (encampment, residence, court), and (1b) "to enclose, surround, press together." (1c) In some Hebrew dictionaries, the usage of chatser as "settled abode," "settlement," or "village" is separated from the meaning "court." But most modern dictionaries identify only one root with two related meanings. (2) The first biblical occurrence of chatser is in Gen 25:16: "These are the sons of Ishmael, and these are their names, by their towns, and by their castles; twelve princes according to their nations." (2a) Here chatser is related to the first meaning of the root; this occurs less frequently than the usage meaning "court." (3) The chatser ("settlement") was a place where people lived without an enclosure to protect them. The word is explained in Lev 25:31: "But the houses of the villages which have no wall round about them shall be counted as the fields of the country: they may be redeemed, and they shall go out in the jubilee."

(3a) Chatser signifies the "settlements" of semi-nomadic peoples: the Ishmaelites (Gen 25:16), the Avim (Deut 2:23), and Kedar (Is 42:11). (3b) Chatser also denotes a "settlement" of people outside the city wall. The cities of Canaan were relatively small and could not contain the whole population. In times of peace, residents of the city might build homes and workshops for themselves outside the wall and establish a separate quarter. If the population grew, the king or governor often decided to enclose the new quarter by surrounding it with a wall and incorporating the section into the existing city, in order to protect the population from bandits and warriors. (3c) Jerusalem gradually extended its size westward; at the time of Hezekiah, it had grown into a large city. Huldah the prophetess lived in such a development, known in Hebrew as the mishneh (4932): ". . . she dwelt in Jerusalem in the college" (2 Kin 22:14).

(4) The Book of Joshua includes Israel's victories in Canaan's major cities as well as the suburbs: "Ain, Remmon, and Ether, and Ashan; four cities and their villages . . ." (19:7; cf. 15:45, 47; 21:12). (5) The predominant usage of chatser is "court," whether of a house, a palace, or the temple. (5a) Each house generally had a courtyard surrounded by a wall or else one adjoined several homes: "Nevertheless a lad saw them, and told Absalom: but they went both of them away quickly, and came to a man's house in Bahurim, which had a well in his court; whither they went down" (2 Sa 17:18). (5b) Solomon's palace had several "courts"—an outer "court," an "enclosed space" around the palace, and a "court" around which the palace was built. (5c) Similarly, the temple had various courts. The psalmist expressed his joy in being in the "courts" of the temple, where the birds built their nests (Ps 84:3); "For a day in thy courts is better than a thousand. I had rather be a doorkeeper in the house of my God, than to dwell in the tents of wickedness" (Ps 84:10). (5d) God's people looked forward to the thronging together of all the people in God's "courts": ". . . In the courts of the LORD's house, in the midst of thee, O Jerusalem" (Ps 116:19). See: TWOT—722a, 723a; BDB—346d, 347b.

חֵק chêq. See 2436.

2706. חֹק {127x} chôq, khoke; from 2710; an enactment; hence, an appointment (of time, space, quantity, labor or usage):—statute {87x}, ordinance {9x}, decree {7x}, due {4x}, law {4x}, portion {3x}, bounds {2x}, custom {2x}, appointed {1x}, commandments {1x}, misc. {7x}: convenient, measure, × necessary, ordinary, set time, task.

Choq, as a noun, means "statute; prescription; rule; law; regulation." (1) This noun is derived from the verb haqaq, "to cut in, determine, decree." (2) The first usage of choq is in Gen 47:22: "Only the land of the priests bought he not; for the priests had a portion [choq] assigned them of Pharaoh." (2a) The meaning of choq in the first occurrence (Gen 47:22) differs from the basic meaning of "statute." (2b) It has the sense of something allotted or apportioned. (2c) A proverb speaks about "food convenient for me" (literally, "food of my prescription or portion"). (2d) Job recognized in his suffering that God does what is appointed for him: "For he performeth the thing that is appointed for me [literally, 'he will perform my Law']" (23:14). (2e) The "portion" may be something that is due to a person as an allowance or payment. The Egyptian priests received their income from Pharaoh (Gen 47:22), even as God permitted a part of the sacrifice to be enjoyed by the priests: "And it shall be Aaron's and his sons' [as their portion] for ever from the children of Israel: for it is a heave offering" (Ex 29:28).

(3) The word choq also signifies "law," or "statute." (3a) In a general sense it refers to the "laws" of nature like rain: "When he made a decree for the rain, and a way for the lightning of the thunder" (Job 28:26; cf. Jer 5:22); (3b) and the celestial bodies: "He hath also stablished them for ever and ever: he hath made a decree which shall not pass" (Ps 148:6) (3c) "Thus saith the LORD, which giveth the sun for a light by day, and the ordinances of the moon and of the stars for a light by night, which divideth the sea when the waves thereof roar; The LORD of hosts is his name: If those ordinances depart from before me, saith the LORD, then the seed of Israel also shall cease from being a nation before me for ever" (Jer 31:35–36). (4) Moreover, the word choq denotes a "law" promulgated in a country: "And Joseph made it a law over the land of Egypt unto this day, that Pharaoh should have the fifth part; except the land of the priests only, which became not Pharaoh's" (Gen 47:26). (5) Finally, and most important, the "law" given by God is also referred to as a choq: "When they have a matter, they come unto me; and I judge between one and another, and I do make them know the statutes [choq] of God, and his laws [8451 - torah]" (Exod. 18:16). Syn: The word's synonyms are (A) mitswah (4687) "commandment"; (B) mishpat (4941) "judgment"; (C) berit (1285) "covenant"; (D) torah (8451) "law"; and (E) 'edut (5713) "testimony." (D) It is not easy to distinguish between these synonyms, as they are often found in conjunction with each other: "Ye shall diligently keep the commandments [mitswah] of the LORD your God, and his testimonies ['edah], and his statutes [choq], which he hath commanded thee" (Deut 6:17). See: TWOT—728a; BDB—348d, 349b, 350c.

2707. חָקָה {4x} châqah, khaw-kaw'; a prim. root; to carve; by impl. to delineate; also to intrench:—portrayed {2x}, carved work {1x}, set a print {1x}. See: TWOT—727; BDB—348d.

2708. חֻקָּה {104x} chuqqâh, khook-kaw'; fem. of 2706, and mean. substantially the same:—statute {77x}, ordinance {22x}, custom {2x}, appointed {1x}, manners {1x}, rites {1x}.

Chuqqah (2708), as a noun means, "statute; regulation; prescription; term." (1) Chuqqah is found for the first time in God's words of commendation about Abraham to Isaac: "Because that Abraham obeyed my voice, and kept my charge [4931 - mishmeret], my commandments [4687 - mitswah], my statutes [chuqqah], and my laws [8451 - torah]" (Gen 26:5). (1a) The primary use of chuqqah is in the Pentateuch, especially in Leviticus and Numbers. (1b) It is extemely rare in the poetical books and in the prophetic writings (except for Jeremiah and Ezekiel). (2) The meaning of "fixed" is similar to the usage of choq, in the sense of the laws of nature: (2a) "Thus saith the LORD; If my covenant be not with day and night, and if I have not appointed the ordinances of heaven and earth" (Jer 33:25; cf. Job 38:33). (2b) Even as the Israelites had a period of rainfall from October to April, there was a fixed period of harvest (from April to June): "Neither say they in their heart, Let us now fear the LORD our God, that giveth rain, both the former and the latter, in his season: he reserveth unto us the appointed weeks of the harvest" (Jer 5:24). (3) In addition to regularity of nature, the word chuqqah signifies regular payment to the priests: "Which the LORD commanded to be given them of the children of Israel, in the day that he anointed them, by a statute for ever throughout their generations" (Lev 7:36).

(4) In non-religious usage, the word chuqqah refers to the customs of the nations: (4a) "After the doings of the land of Egypt, wherein ye dwelt, shall ye not do: and after the doings of the land of Canaan, whither I bring you, shall ye not do: neither shall ye walk in their ordinances" (Lev 18:3; cf. 20:23). (4b) The reason for the requirement to abstain from the pagan practices is that they were considered to be degenerate (Lev 18:30). (5) The most significant usage of chuqqah is God's "law." It is more specific in meaning than choq (2706). (5a) Whereas choq is a general word for "law," chuqqah denotes the "law" of a particular festival or ritual. (5b) There is the "law" of the Passover (Ex 12:14), Unleavened Bread (Ex 12:17), Feast of Tabernacles (Lev 23:41), the Day of Atonement (Lev 16:29ff.), the priesthood (Ex 29:9), and the blood and fat (Lev 3:17). or (6) The "statutes" of people are to be understood as the practices contrary to God's expectations: "For the statutes of Omri are kept, and all the works of the home of Ahab, and ye walk in their counsels, that I should make thee a desolation, and the inhabitants thereof a hissing: therefore ye shall bear the reproach of my people" (Mic 6:16).

(7) The prophet Ezekiel condemned Judah for rejecting God's holy "statutes": (7a) "And she hath changed my judgments into wickedness more than the nations, and my statutes [chuqqah] more than the countries that are round about her: for they have refused my judgments and my statutes [chuqqah], they have not walked in them" (Eze 5:6). (7b) He also challenged God's people to repent and return to God's "statutes" that they might live: "If the wicked restore the pledge, give again that he had robbed, walk in the statutes of life, without committing iniquity; he shall surely live, he shall not die" (Eze 33:15). Syn: The word chuqqah has many synonyms. At times it forms a part of a series of three: "Beware that thou forget not the Lord thy God, in not keeping his (1) commandments [4687 - mitswah], and his (2) judgments [4941 - mishpat], and his statutes [chuqqah], which I command thee this day" (Deut 8:11), and at other times of a series of four: "Therefore thou shalt love the LORD thy God, and keep his charge (3) [4931 - mishmeret], and his statutes [chuqqah] and his judgments [4941 - mishpat], and his commandments [4687 - mitswah], always" (Deut 11:1; cf. Gen 26:5 with torah [8451] instead of mishpat [4941]). See: TWOT—728b; BDB—349a, 349d.

Charab means "to smite down, slaughter." The word appears in 2 Kin 3:23: "This is blood: the kings are surely slain." See: TWOT—2741; BDB—1093d.

Chereb, as a noun, means "sword; dagger; flint knife; chisel." (1) Usually chereb represents an implement that can be or is being used in war, such as a "sword." (1a) The exact shape of that implement, however, is not specified by this word. (1b) Present day archaeology has unearthed various sickle swords and daggers from the earliest periods. (1b1) Sickle swords are so named because they are shaped somewhat like a sickle with the outer edge of the arc being the cutting edge. (1b2) These were long one-edged "swords." This is what chereb refers to when one reads of someone's being slain with the edge of the "sword": "And they slew Hamor and Shechem his son with the edge of the sword, and took Dinah out of Shechem's house" (Gen 34:26). (1c) The first biblical occurrence of the word (Gen 3:24) probably also represents such an implement: "And he placed at the east of the garden of Eden cherubim, and a flaming sword which turned every way."

(2) The precise meaning of chereb is confused, however, by its application to what we know as a "dagger," a short two-edged sword: "But Ehud made him a dagger which had two edges, of a cubit [eighteen to twenty-four inches] length" (Judg 3:16). (3) The sickle sword was probably the implement used up to and during the conquest of Palestine. About the same time the Sea Peoples (among whom were the Philistines) were invading the ancient Near East. They brought with them a new weapon—the long two-edged "sword." (3a) The first clear mention of such a "sword" in the biblical record appears in 1 Sa 17:51: "Therefore David ran, and stood upon the Philistine [Goliath], and took his sword, and drew it out of the sheath thereof, and slew him." (3b) Perhaps Saul also used the highly superior Philistine armor and "sword" (1 Sa 17:39), but this is not clear. (3c) It is also possible that the angel who confronted Balaam with a drawn "sword" wielded a long two-edged "sword" (Num 22:23). Certainly this would have made him

(humanly speaking) a much more formidable sight. (3d) By the time of David, with his expertise and concern for warfare, the large two-edged "sword" was much more prominent if not the primary kind of "sword" used by Israel's heavy infantry.

(4) This two-edged "sword" can be compared (4a) to a tongue: ". . . Even the sons of men, whose teeth are spears and arrows, and their tongue a sharp sword" (Ps 57:4). This usage tells us not only about the shape of the "sword" but that such a tongue is a violent, merciless, attacking weapon. (4b) In Gen 27:40 "sword" is symbolic of violence: "And by thy sword shalt thou live." (4c) Prov 5:4 uses chereb (of a long twoedged "sword") to depict the grievous result of dealing with an adulteress; it is certain death: "But her end is bitter as wormwood, sharp as a two-edged sword." (5) The "sword" is frequently depicted as an agent of God. (5a) It is not only used to safeguard the garden of Eden, (5b) but figures the judgment of God executed upon His enemies: "For my sword shall be bathed in heaven: behold, it shall come down upon Idumea" (Is 34:5; cf. Deut 28:22).

(6) Chereb may be used of various other cutting implements. (6a) In Josh 5:2 it means "knife": "Make thee sharp knives, and circumcise again the children of Israel the second time." (6b) Eze 5:1 uses chereb of a barber's "razor": "And thou, son of man, take thee a sharp knife, take thee a barber's razor, and cause it to pass upon thine head and upon thy beard." The exact size and shape of this tool cannot be determined, but it is clear that it was used as a razor. (7) This word can also be used of tools ("chisels") for hewing stone: "And if thou wilt make me an altar of stone, thou shalt not build it of hewn stone: for if thou lift up thy tool upon it, thou hast polluted it" (Ex 20:25). The fact that a "sword," an implement of death, would be used to cut the stone for an altar, the instrument of life, explains why this action would profane the altar. See: TWOT—732a; BDB—352b.

Charam is a religious word of great importance representing the devotion of some object to destruction or to a sacred use, not for the gratification of any selfish purpose. It is rendered (1) devote or dedicate (1a) a field (Lev 27:21), (1b) man (Lev 27:28), (1c) beast (Lev 27:28), and (1d) land (Lev 27:28–29) which rendered it priestly property (Num 18:14; Eze 44:29). (2) This word applied to the destruction of nations, (2a) because they were regarded as under the Divine doom, and (2b) because the destroyed nations' substance was dedicated to the LORD (Mic 4:13). (3) The word is used of the accursed (i.e., devoted) (3a) city and substance of Jericho (Josh 6:18), and (3b) Achan's conduct (Josh 22:20). Things which are cursed are (3c) the gold and silver from idols (Deut 7:26), (3d) the Edomites (Is 34:5), (3e) Jacob (Is 43:28). Charam is rendered (4) destroy with reference to (4a) the Canaanites by Israel, (4b) the nations by Nebuchadnezzar (2 Kin 19:11), (4c) Egypt by the Lord (Is 11:15), and (4d) Judah by Babylon (Jer 25:9).

With regard to exterminating the Canaanites, note: First, it was not to accomplish personal revenge, for Israel had no grudge against Canaan; the people had to be almost goaded into the land. Second, it was not for plunder for all plunder was devoted to God; hence, Charam, accursed. Third, it was not to gratify thirst for military glory for the Hebrews, the smallest of nations, and were told beforehand their success would be in God's strength, not theirs. Fourth, it was not as a reward for merit; they were a rebellious and stiffnecked people, and would have perished in the wilderness had not God remembered His holy covenant. Fifth, the extermination of the Canaanites was to be a security against idolatry and demoralization on the part of Israel. Last, these nations had filled up the measure of their iniquity and the Israelites in destroying them were acting magisterially as God's agents. See: TWOT—744, 745; BDB—355c, 356d.

Cherpah means "reproach." (1) It is rare in the Pentateuch and in the historical books. (1a) The noun appears most frequently in the Book of Psalms, in the major prophets, and in Daniel. (1b) The first occurrence is in Gen 30:23: "And she conceived, and bare a son; and said, God hath taken away my reproach." (2) "Reproach" denotes the state in which one finds himself. (2a) The unmarried woman (Is 4:1) or the woman without children (Gen 30:23) carried a sense of disgrace in a society where marriage and fertility were highly spoken of. (2b) The destruction of Jerusalem and the Exile brought Judah to the state of "reproach": "O Lord, according to all thy righteousness, I beseech thee, let thine anger and thy fury be turned away from thy city Jerusalem, thy holy mountain: because for our sins, and for the iniquities of our fathers, Jerusalem and thy people are become a reproach to all that are about us" (Dan 9:16).

(3) The disgrace found in a person or a nation became the occasion for taunting the oppressed. (3a) The disgraced received abuse by the words spoken against them and by the rumors which were spread about them. (3b) Whatever the occasion of the disgrace was whether defeat in battle, exile, or enmity, the psalmist prayed for deliverance from the "reproach": "Remove from me reproach and contempt; for I have kept thy testimonies" (Ps 119:22—see context; cf. Ps 109:25). (3c) The verbal abuse that could be heaped upon the unfortunate is best evidenced by the synonyms found with cherpah (2781) in Jer 24:9: "And I will deliver them to be removed into all the kingdoms of the earth for their hurt, to be a reproach and a proverb, a taunt and a curse, in all places whither I shall drive them." (3d) Several prophets predicted that Israel's judgment was partly to be experienced by the humiliating "reproach" of the nations: "And I will persecute them with the sword, with the famine, and with the pestilence, and will deliver them to be removed to all the kingdoms of the earth, to be a curse, and an astonishment, and a hissing, and a reproach among all the nations whither I have driven them" (Jer 29:18; cf. Eze 5:14). (4) However, the Lord graciously promised to remove the "reproach" at the accomplishment of His purpose: "He will swallow up death in victory; and the Lord GOD will wipe away tears from off all faces; and the rebuke of his people shall he take away from off all the earth" (Is 25:8). See: TWOT—749a; BDB—357d.

Charash, as a verb, means "to plow, engrave, work in metals." (1) A fitting word for the agricultural nature of Israelite culture, charash is frequently used of "plowing" a field, usually with animals such as oxen (1 Kin 19:19). (2) The imagery of cutting up or tearing up a field with a plow easily lent itself to the figurative use of the word to mean mistreatment by others: "The plowers plowed upon my back: they made long their furrows" (Ps 129:3). (3) The word is used to express the plotting of evil against a friend in Prov 3:29: "Devise not evil against thy neighbor, seeing he dwelleth securely by thee [literally, "do not plow evil"]."

(4) The use of charash in the sense of "working or engraving" metals is not used in the Old Testament as much as it might have been if Israel had been as given to such craftsmanship as her neighbors, or perhaps because of the commandment against images (Ex 20:4). (4a) The word is used in 1 Kin 7:14: "His father was a man of Tyre, a worker in brass [literally, 'a man who works in brass']." (4b) The first occurrence of charash is in Gen 4:22 where it is used of the "artificer in brass and iron." (5) The figurative use of "engraving" is vividly seen in the expression describing the extent of Israel's sin: "The sin of Judah is written with a pen of iron, and with the point of a diamond: it is graven upon the table of their heart" (Jer 17:1). See: TWOT—760, 761; BDB—360b, 361a.

Charash, as a noun, means "engraver; artificer." (1) The prophets denounced the craftsmanship of these workers in metals when they made images (Is 40:20; Hos 8:6). (2) A more positive approach to the word is conveyed in 1 Chr 29:5: "The gold for things of gold . . . and for all manner of work to be made by the hands of artificers. And who then is willing to consecrate his service this day unto the Lord?" See: TWOT—760a; BDB—360d, 361d.

(1) Generally, this root signifies a mental process whereby some course is planned or conceived. It means "to think, account, reckon, devise, plan." (2) The first time it is found is in Gen 15:6 "And he believed in the LORD; and he counted it to him for righteousness." Here the term has the meaning of "to be imputed." (3) Frequently used in the ordinary sense of "thinking," or the normal thought processes (Is 10:7; 53:4; Mal 3:16), it (4) also is used in the sense of "devising evil plans" (Gen 50:20; Jer 48:2). (5) The word refers to craftsmen "inventing" instruments of music, artistic objects, and weapons of war (Ex 31:4; 2 Chr 26:15; Amos 6:5). Chathath means "to be dismayed, shattered, broken, terrified." (1) It occurs for the first time in Deut. 1:21 as Moses challenged Israel: "Do not fear or be discouraged." (1a) As here, chathath is often used in parallelism with the Hebrew term for "fear" (cf. Deut 31:8; Josh 8:1; 1Sa 17:11). (1b) Similarly, chathath is frequently used in parallelism with "to be ashamed" (Is 20:5; Jer 8:9). (2) An interesting figurative use of the word is found in Jer 14:4, where the ground "is chapt", for there was no rain." (3) The meaning "to be shattered" is usually employed in a figurative sense, (3a) as with reference to the nations coming under God's judgment (Is 7:8; 30:31). (3b) The coming Messiah is to "shatter" or "break" the power of all His enemies (Is 9:4). 2889. טָהוֹר {94x} ṭâhôwr, taw-hore'; or טָהֹר ṭâhôr, taw-hore'; from 2891; pure (in a physical, chemical, ceremonial or moral sense):—clean {50x}, pure {40x}, fair {2x}, purer {1x}, variant {1x}.

Tahor, as an adjective, means "clean; pure." (1) The word denotes the absence of impurity, filthiness, defilement, or imperfection. (2) It is applied concretely to substances that are genuine or unadulterated as well as describing an unstained condition of a spiritual or ceremonial nature. (3) Gold is a material frequently said to be free of baser ingredients. (3a) Thus the ark of the covenant, the incense altar, and the porch of the temple were "overlaid with pure gold" (Ex 25:11; 37:11, 26; 2 Chr 3:4). (3b) Some of the furnishings and utensils in the temple—such as the mercy seat, the lampstand, the dishes, pans, bowls, jars, snuffers, trays—were of "pure gold" (Ex 37:6, 16–24). (3c) The high priest's vestment included "two chains of pure gold" and "a plate of pure gold" (Ex 28:14, 22, 36).

(4) God demands that His people have spiritual and moral purity, unsullied by sin. (4a) Anyone not clean of sin is subject to divine rejection and punishment. (4b) This contamination is never outgrown or overcome. (4c) Because sin pollutes one generation after another, Job asks: "Who can bring a clean thing out of an unclean?" (Job 14:4). (4d) All outward appearances to the contrary, it cannot be said that there is "one event . . . to the clean, and to the unclean" (Eccl 9:2). (5) Hope is available even to the chief of sinners, because any man can entreat the mercy of God and say: "Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me" (Ps 51:10). (6) In sharp contrast with mankind's polluted nature and actions, "the words of the LORD are pure words" (Ps 12:6). The Lord is "of purer eyes than to behold evil" (Hab 1:13). (7) "Clean" most frequently describes the purity maintained by avoiding contact with other human beings, abstaining from eating animals, and using things that are declared ceremonially clean. (8) Conversely, cleansing results if ritual procedures symbolizing the removal of contamination are observed.

(9) The people of the old covenant were told that "he that toucheth the dead body of any man shall be unclean seven days" (Num 19:11). (9a) A priest was not to defile himself "for the dead among his people" except "for his kin, that is near unto him" (Lev 21:1–2). (9b) This relaxation of the rule was even denied the high priest and a Nazarite during "all the days that he separateth himself unto the LORD" (Num 6:6ff.). (10) Cleansing rituals emphasized the fact that the people were conceived and born in sin. (10a) Though conception and birth were not branded immoral (just as dying itself was not sinful), a woman who had borne a child remained unclean until she submitted to the proper purification rites (Lev 12). (10b) Chapter 15 of Leviticus prescribes ceremonial cleansing for a woman having her menstrual flow, for a man having seminal emissions, and for "the woman also with whom man shall lie with seed of copulation" (Lev 15:18). (11) To be ceremonially "clean," (11a) the Israelite also had to abstain from eating certain animals and even from touching them (Lev 11; Deut 14:3–21). (11b) After the Israelites settled in the Promised Land, some modifications were made in the regulations (Deut 12:15, 22; 15:22).

(12) Purification rites frequently involved the use of water. (12a) The person to be cleansed was required to wash himself and his clothes (Lev 15:27). (12b) Water was sprinkled on the individual, on his tent, and on all its furnishings: "And a clean person shall take hyssop, and dip it in the water, and sprinkle it upon the tent, and upon all the vessels, and upon the persons that were there, and upon him that touched a bone, or the slain, or one dead, or a grave" (Num 19:18). (13) Sometimes the person being cleansed also had to change garments (Lev 6:11). (14) However, the rites were not meritorious deeds, (14a) earning God's favor and forgiveness. (14b) Nor did the ceremonies serve their intended purpose if performed mechanically. (14c) Unless the rites expressed a person's contrite and sincere desire to be cleansed from the defilement of sin, they were an abomination to God and only aggravated a person's guilt. (15) Anyone who appeared before Him in ritual and ceremony with "hands . . . full of blood" (Is 1:15) and did not plead for cleansing of his crimes was judged to be as wicked as the people of Sodom and Gomorrah. (16) Zion's hope lay in this cleansing by means of an offering: "And they shall bring all your brethren for an offering unto the LORD out of all nations upon horses . . . as the children of Israel bring an offering in a clean vessel into the house of the LORD" (Is 66:20). See: TWOT—792d; BDB—373a.

2890. טָהוֹר {2x} ṭ'hôwr, teh-hore'; from 2891; purity:—pureness {2x}. See: TWOT—792b; BDB—373a, 779c.

2891. טָהֵר {94x} ṭâhêr, taw-hare'; a prim. root; prop. to be bright; i.e. (by impl.) to be pure (phys. sound, clear, unadulterated; Levit. uncontaminated; mor. innocent or holy):—clean {80x}, purify {6x}, purge {5x}, pure {2x}, purifier {1x}.

Taher, means "to be clean, pure." (1) Since the fall of Adam and Eve, none of their offspring is clean in the sight of the holy God: (1a) "Who can say, I have made my heart clean, I am pure from my sin?" (Prov 20:9). (1b) Reminding Job that protestations of innocence are of no avail, Eliphaz asked: "Shall mortal man be more just than God? Shall a man be more pure than his Maker?" (Job 4:17). (2) There is hope, however, because God promised penitent Israel: (2a) "And I will cleanse them from all their iniquity, whereby they have sinned against me" (Jer 33:8). (2b) He said: "I will save them out of all their dwelling places, wherein they have sinned, and will cleanse them: so they shall be my people, and I will be their God" (Eze 37:23).

(3) The baleful effect of sin was recognized when a person contracted the dread disease of leprosy. After the priest diagnosed the disease, he could declare a person "clean" only after cleansing ceremonies had been performed: ". . . And he shall wash his clothes, also he shall wash his flesh in water, and he shall be clean" (Lev 14:9). (4) God required that His people observe purification rites when they came into His presence for worship. (4a) On the Day of Atonement, for example, prescribed ceremonies were performed to "cleanse" the altar from "the uncleanness of the children of Israel" and to "hallow it" (Lev 16:17–19; cf. Ex 29:36ff.). (4b) The priests were to be purified before they performed their sacred tasks. Moses was directed to "take the Levites . . . and cleanse them" (Num 8:6; cf. Lev 8:5–13).

(5) After they had been held captive in the unclean land of Babylon, "the priests and the Levites purified themselves, and purified the people, and the gates, and the wall [of the rebuilt city of Jerusalem]" (Neh 12:30). (6) Cleansing might be achieved by physically removing the objects of defilement. During the reform of King Hezekiah, "the priests went into the inner part of the house of the LORD, to cleanse it, and brought out all the uncleanness that they found in the temple of the LORD" (2 Chr 29:16). (7) Some rites required blood as the purifying agent: "And he shall sprinkle of the blood upon it [the altar] with his finger seven times, and cleanse it, and hallow it from the uncleanness of the children of Israel" (Lev 16:19). (8) Sacrifices were offered to make atonement for a mother after childbirth: "she shall bring . . . the one for the burnt offering, and the other for a sin offering: and the priest shall make an atonement for her, and she shall be clean" (Lev 12:8). See: TWOT—792; BDB—372a.

2895. טוֹב {33x} ṭowb, tobe; a prim. root, to be (tran. do or make) good (or well) in the widest sense:—well {10x}, good {9x}, please {6x}, goodly {2x}, better {2x}, cheer {1x}, comely {1x}, do {1x}, pleased + 5869 {1x}.

Towb means "to be joyful, glad, pleasant, lovely, appropriate, becoming, good, precious." Job 13:9 is one example of the word's meaning, "to be good": "Is it good that he should search you out?" See: TWOT—793; BDB—373b, 405c, 1094a.

also as an adv. (well):—good {361x}, better {72x}, well {20x}, goodness {16x}, goodly {9x}, best {8x}, merry {7x}, fair {7x}, prosperity {6x}, precious {4x}, fine {3x}, wealth {3x}, beautiful {2x}, fairer {2x}, favour {2x}, glad {2x}, misc. {35x} = bountiful, cheerful, at ease, graciously, joyful, kindly, kindness, liketh (best), loving, × most, pleasant, + pleaseth, pleasure, ready, sweet, welfare.

Towb (2896), means "good; favorable; festive; pleasing; pleasant; well; better; right; best." (1) This adjective denotes "good" in every sense of that word. (1a) For example, towb is used in the sense "pleasant" or "delightful": "And he saw that [a resting place] was good, and the land that it was pleasant; and bowed his shoulder to bear [burdens]" (Gen 49:15). (1b) An extension of this sense appears in Gen 40:16, where towb means "favorable" or "in one's favor": "When the chief baker saw that the interpretation was good, he said unto Joseph. . . ." (1c) In 1 Sa 25:8, the emphasis is on the nuance "delightful" or "festal": "Let the young men find favor in thine eyes: for we come in a good day." (2) God is described as One who is "good," or One who gives "delight" and "pleasure": "But it is good for me to draw near to God: I have put my trust in the Lord GOD, that I may declare all thy works" (Ps 73:28).

(3) In 1 Sa 29:6, this word describes human activities: "As the LORD liveth, thou hast been upright, and thy going out and thy coming in with me in the [army] is good in my sight." (4) Towb can be applied to scenic beauty, as in 2 Kin 2:19: "Behold, I pray thee, the situation of this city is pleasant, as my lord seeth: but the water is naught, and the ground barren." (5) Second Chr 12:12 employs a related nuance when it applies the word to the conditions in Judah under King Rehoboam, after he humbled himself before God: "Things went well." (6) Towb often qualifies a common object or activity. (6a) When the word is used in this sense, no ethical overtones are intended. (6b) In 1 Sa 19:4, towb describes the way Jonathan spoke about David: "And Jonathan spake good of David unto Saul his father, and said unto him, Let not the king sin against his servant, against David; because he hath not sinned against thee, and because his works have been [toward thee] very good."

(7) First Sa 25:15 characterizes a people as "friendly" or "useful": "But the men were very good unto us, and we were not hurt, neither missed we any thing, as long as we were conversant with them, when we were in the fields." (8) Often this word bears an even stronger emphasis, as in 1 Kin 12:7, where the "good word" is not only friendly but eases the life of one's servants. God's "good word" promises life in the face of oppression and uncertainty: "There hath not failed one word of all his good promise, which he promised by the hand of Moses his servant" (1 Kin 8:56). (9) Towb often characterizes a statement as an important assertion for salvation and prosperity (real or imagined): "Is not this the word that we did tell thee in Egypt, saying, Let us alone, that we may serve the Egyptians? For it had been better for us to serve the Egyptians, than that we should die in the wilderness" (Ex 14:12). (10) God judged that man's circumstance without a wife or helpmeet was not "good" (Gen 2:18).

(11) Elsewhere towb is applied to an evaluation of one's well-being or of the well-being of a situation or thing: "And God saw the light, that it was good: and God divided the light from the darkness" (Gen 1:4—the first occurrence). (12) Towb is used to describe land and agriculture: "And I am come down to deliver them out of the [power] of the Egyptians, and to bring them up out of that land unto a good [fertile] land and a large, unto a land flowing with milk and honey" (Ex 3:8). (12a) This suggests its potential of supporting life (Deut 11:17). (12b) Thus the expression "the good land" is a comment about not only its existing, but its potential, productivity. (12c) In such contexts the land is viewed as one aspect of the blessings of salvation promised by God; thus the Lord did not permit Moses to cross the Jordan and enter the land which His people were to inherit (Deut 3:26–28). (12d) This aspect of the "good land" includes overtones of its fruitfulness and "pleasantness": "And he will take your fields, and your vineyards, and your oliveyards, even the best of them" (1 Sa 8:14).

(13) Towb is used to describe men or women. (13a) Sometimes it is used of an "elite corps" of people: "And he will take your menservants, and your maidservants, and your goodliest young men, and your asses" (1 Sa 8:16). (13b) In 2 Sa 18:27, Ahimaaz is described as a "good" man because he comes with "good" military news. (14) In 1 Sa 15:28, the word has ethical overtones: "The LORD hath rent the kingdom of Israel from thee this day, and hath given it to a neighbor of thine, that is better than thou" (cf. 1 Kin 2:32). (15) In other passages, towb describes physical appearance: "And the damsel was very fair to look upon [literally, "good of appearance"]" (Gen 24:16). (16) When applied to one's heart, the word describes "well-being" rather than ethical status. Therefore, the parallel idea is "joyous and happy": ". . . And they . . . went unto their tents joyful and glad of heart for all the goodness that the LORD had done for David" (1 Kin 8:66). (17) Dying "at a good old age" describes "advanced age," rather than moral accomplishment, but a time when due to divine blessings one is fulfilled and satisfied (Gen 15:15).

(18) Towb indicates that a given word, act, or circumstance contributes positively to the condition of a situation. (18a) Often this judgment does not mean that the thing is actually "good," only that it is so evaluated: "When the chief baker saw that the interpretation was good . . ." (Gen 40:16). (18b) The judgment may be ethical: "It is not good that ye do: ought ye not to walk in the fear of our God because of the reproach of the heathen?" (Neh 5:9). (19) The word may also represent "agreement" or "concurrence": "The thing proceedeth from the LORD: we cannot speak unto thee bad or good" (Gen 24:50). (20) Towb is often used in conjunction with the Hebrew word ra'ah (7451 - "bad; evil"). (20a) Sometimes this is intended as a contrast; (20b) but in other contexts it may mean "everything from good [friendly] to bad [unfriendly]," which is a way of saying "nothing at all." (20c) In other contexts, more contrast is suggested: "And what the land is that they dwell in, whether it be good or bad . . ." (Num 13:19). In this case, the evaluation would determine whether the land could support the people well or not.

(21) In Gen 2:9, towb contrasted with evil has moral overtones: ". . . the tree of life also in the midst of the garden, and the tree of knowledge of good and evil." The fruit of this tree, if consumed, would reveal the difference between moral evil and moral "good." This reference also suggests that, by eating this fruit, man attempted to determine for himself what "good" and evil are. Towb, as an adjective, means "good." (22) And God saw the light, that it was good: and God divided the light from the darkness. (22a) God appraises each day's creative work as being "good," climaxing it with a "very good" on the sixth day: "And God saw every thing that he had made, and, behold, it was very good" (Gen 1:31). (23) As a positive term, the word is used to express many nuances of that which is "good," such as (23a) a "glad" heart: "And the priest's heart was glad, and he took the ephod, and the teraphim, and the graven image, and went in the midst of the people" (Judg 18:20), (23b) "pleasing" words: "And their words pleased Hamor, and Shechem Hamor's son" (Gen 34:18), and (23c) a "cheerful" face: "A merry heart maketh a cheerful countenance: but by sorrow of the heart the spirit is broken" (Prov 15:13). Tame', as a verb, means "to be unclean." (1) The verb occurs mainly in Leviticus, as in Lev 11:26: "The carcases of every beast which divideth the hoof, and is not clovenfooted, nor cheweth the cud, are unclean unto you: every one that toucheth them shall be unclean." (2) Tame' is the opposite of taher (2891), "to be pure." See: TWOT—809; BDB—379a, 380a.

2931. טָמֵא {87x} ṭâmê', taw-may'; from 2930; foul in a relig. sense:—unclean {79x}, defiled {5x}, infamous {1x}, polluted {1x}, pollution {1x}.

Tame', as an adjective, means "unclean." (1) The frequency of the word is high in Leviticus. (2) Its first occurrence is also in Leviticus: "Or if a soul touch any unclean thing, whether it be a carcase of an unclean beast, or a carcase of unclean cattle, or the carcase of unclean creeping things, and if it be hidden from him; he also shall be unclean, and guilty" (5:2). (3) The usage of tame' in the Old Testament resembles that of tahor (2889), "pure." (3a) First, uncleanness is a state of being. The leper was compelled to announce his uncleanness wherever he went (Lev 13:45); however, even here there is a religious overtone, in that his uncleanness was ritual. Hence, it is more appropriate to recognize that the second usage is most basic. (3b) Tame' in the religio-cultic sense is a technical term denoting a state of being ceremonially unfit. (3b1) Animals, carcases, unclean people, and objects conveyed the impurity to those who touched them: "And whatsoever the unclean person toucheth shall be unclean; and the soul that toucheth it shall lie unclean until even" (Num 19:22). (3b2) The impurity could also be brought about by a seminal issue (Lev 15:2) or a menstrual period (Lev 15:25), and whatever the unclean touched was also rendered "unclean." Syn.: 2490, 2610, 2933. See: TWOT—809a; BDB—379d.

2932. טֻמְאָה {37x} ṭum'âh, toom-aw'; from 2930; relig. impurity:—uncleanness {26x}, filthiness {7x}, unclean {4x}, unclean (-ness).

Tum'ah, as a noun, means "uncleanness." (1) The word occurs in Num 5:19: "And the priest shall charge her by an oath, and say unto the woman, If no man have lain with thee, and if thou hast not gone aside to uncleanliness with another instead of thine husband, be thou free from this bitter water that causeth the curse." Here the word refers to sexual "uncleanness." (2) Tum'ah occurs twice in Lev 16:16 and refers to ethical and religious "uncleanness." See: TWOT—809b; BDB—380a.

2945. טַף {42x} taph, taf; from 2952 (perh. referring to the tripping gait of children); a family (mostly used collect. in the sing.):—little ones {49x}, children {12x}, families {1x}.

Taph means "weaker one; child; little one." (1) Basically this word signifies those members of a nomadic tribe who are not able to march or who can only march to a limited extent. (1a) The word implies the "weaker ones." Thus we read of the men and the taphim, or the men and those who were unable to move quickly over long stretches: "And Judah said unto Israel, his father, Send the lad with me, and we will arise and go; that we may live, and not die, both we, and thou, and also our little ones" (Gen 43:8). (1b) This nuance is clearer in Gen 50:7–8: "And Joseph went up to bury his father; and with him went up all the servants of Pharaoh, the elders of his house, and all the elders of the land of Egypt, and all the house of Joseph, and his brethren and his father's house: only their little ones, and their flocks, and their herds, they left in the land of Goshen." They left the women and the aged to take care of the beasts and babies. These verses certainly make it clear that only men went along. (2) In several passages taph represents only the children and old ones: "And all their wealth, and all their little ones, and their wives took they captive, and spoiled even all that was in the house" (Gen 34:29, first occurrence). All the able-bodied men of Shechem were killed (Gen 34:26). (3) Sometimes the word means "children": "But all the women children, that have not known a man by lying with him, keep alive for yourselves" (Num 31:18; cf. v. 17). See: TWOT—821a; BDB—381b, 381d.

Job 34:20). (1c) In Is 49:2, "hand" is used of God; God tells Moses that He will put His "hand" over the mouth of the cave and protect him. (1c1) This is a figure of speech, an anthropomorphism, by which God promises His protection. (1c2) God's "hand" is another term for God's "power" (cf. Jer 16:21). (2) Yad is employed in several other noteworthy phrases. (2a) The "lifting of the hand" may be involved in "taking an oath" (Gen 14:22). (2b) "Shaking" [literally, "giving one's hand"] is another oath-taking gesture (cf. Prov 11:21). (2c) For "one's hands to be on another" (Gen 37:27) or "laid upon another" (Ex 7:4) is to do harm to someone. (2d) "Placing one's hands with" signifies "making common cause with someone" (Ex 23:1). (2e) If one's hand does not "reach" something, he is "unable to pay" for it (Lev 5:7). (2f) When one's countryman is "unable to stretch out his hand to you," he is not able to support himself (Lev 25:35). (2g) "Putting one's hand on one's mouth" is a gesture of silence (Prov 30:32). (2h) "Placing one's hands under someone" means submitting to him (1 Chr 29:24). (2i) "Giving something into one's hand" is entrusting it to him (Gen 42:37). (3) A major group of passages uses yad to represent the location and uses of the hand. (3a) First, the word can mean "side," where the hand is located: "And Absalom rose up early, and stood beside the way of the gate" (2 Sa 15:2). (3b) In 2 Chr 21:16, the word means "border": "Moreover the Lord stirred up against Jehoram the spirit of the Philistines, and of the Arabians, that were near [literally, "by the hand of"] the Ethiopians." (3c) A similar use in Ex 25 applies this word to the "banks" of the Nile River: "And the daughter of Pharaoh came down to wash herself at the river, and her maidens walked along by the [Nile]." In this sense, yad can represent "length and breadth." (3d) In Gen 34:21 we read that the land was (literally) "broad of hands": "These men are peaceable with us; therefore let them dwell in the land, and trade therein; for the land, behold, it is large enough for them."

(4) Since the hand can receive only a part or fraction of something, the word can signify a "part" or "fraction": "And he took and sent [portions] unto them from before him: but Benjamin's [portion] was five times so much as any of theirs" (Gen 43:34). (5) Yad comes to mean that which upholds something, a "support" (1 Kin 7:35ff.) or an "arm rest" (1 Kin 10:19). (6) Since a hand may be held up as a "sign," yad can signify a "monument" or "stele": "Saul came to Carmel, and, behold, he set him up a place [monument], and is gone about, and passed on, and gone down to Gilgal" (1 Sa 15:12). (7) Yad sometimes represents the "male sex organ": ". . . And art gone up; thou hast enlarged thy bed, and made thee a covenant with them; thou lovedst their bed where thou sawest it [you have looked on their manhood]" (Is 57:8; cf. v. 10; 6:2; 7:20). (8) In several passages, yad is used in the sense of "power" or "rule": (8a) "And David smote Hadarezer king of Zobah unto Hamath, as he went to stablish his dominion by the river Euphrates" (1 Chr 18:3). (8b) "To be delivered into one's hands" means to be "given into one's power": "God hath delivered him into mine hand; for he is shut in, by entering into a town that hath gates and bars" (1 Sa 23:7; cf. Prov 18:21). (8c) "To fill someone's hand" may be a technical term for "installing him" in office: "And thou shalt put them upon Aaron thy brother, and his sons with him; and shalt anoint them, and consecrate them [literally, "fill their hands"], and sanctify them, that they may minister unto me in the priest's office" (Ex 28:41). (9) Yad is frequently joined to the preposition be and other prepositions as an extension; there is no change in meaning, only a longer form: "For what have I done? or what evil is in mine hand?" (1 Sa 26:18). See: TWOT—844; BDB—388d, 406d, 1094d.

Yadah means "to give thanks, laud, praise." (1) A common Hebrew word in all its periods, this verb is an important word in the language of worship. (2) Yadah is found 114 times in the Hebrew Bible, the first time being in the story of the birth of Judah, Jacob's son who was born to Leah: "And she conceived again, and bare a son: and she said, Now will I praise the LORD: therefore she called his name Judah; and left bearing (Gen 29:35). (3) The root, translated "confess" or "confession" about twenty times in the KJV, is also frequently rendered "praise" or "give thanks." (3a) At first glance, the meanings may appear unrelated. But upon closer inspection, it becomes evident that each sense profoundly illumines and interprets the other. (3) As is to be expected, this word is found most frequently in the Book of Psalms (some 70 times). (3a) Yadah overlaps in meaning with a number of other Hebrew words implying "praise," such as halal (1984 - whence halleluyah). (3b) As an expression of thanks or praise, it is a natural part of ritual or public worship as well as personal praise to God (Ps 30:9, 12; 35:18).

(3c) Man is occasionally the object of yadah; but far more commonly, God is the object. (3d) The usual context seems to be public worship, where the worshipers affirm and renew their relationship with God. (3e) The subject is not primarily the isolated individual, but the congregation. (3f) Especially in the hymns and thanksgivings of the Psalter, it is evident that yadah is a recital of, and thanksgiving for, Yahweh's mighty acts of salvation. (3g) An affirmation or confession of God's undeserved kindness throws man's unworthiness into sharp relief. (3h) Hence, a confession of sin may be articulated in the same breath as a confession of faith or praise and thanksgiving. (3i) The confession is not a moralistic, autobiographical catalogue of sins—individual infractions of a legal code—but a confession of the underlying sinfulness that engulfs all mankind and separates us from the holy God. (4) God is even to be praised for His judgments, by which He awakens repentance (e.g., Ps 51:4). (4a) So one is not surprised to find praises in penitential contexts, and vice versa (1 Kin 8:33ff.; Neh 9:2ff.; Dan 9:4ff.). (4b) If praise inevitably entails confession of sin, the reverse is also true: The sure word of forgiveness elicits praise and thanksgiving on the confessor's part. (4c) This wells up almost automatically from the new being of the repentant person.

(5) The vista of yadah expands both vertically and horizontally—vertically to include all creation, and horizontally stretching forward to that day when praise and thanksgiving shall be eternal (e.g., Ps 29; 95:10; 96:7–9; 103:19–22). (6) Thanks often are directed to the name of the Lord (Ps 106:47; 122:4). (7) An affirmation or confession of God's undeserved kindness throws man's unworthiness into sharp relief. (8) Hence, a confession of sin may be articulated in the same breath as a confession of faith or praise and thanksgiving. (9) The confession is not a moralistic, autobiographical catalogue of sins—individual infractions of a legal code—(10) but a confession of the underlying sinfulness that engulfs all mankind and separates us from the holy God. (11) God is even to be praised for His judgments, by which He awakens repentance (Ps 51:4). (12) So it is not surprising to find praises in penitential contexts, and vice versa (1 Kin 8:33; Neh 9:2; Dan 9:4).

(13) If praise inevitably entails confession of sin, the sure word of forgiveness elicits praise and thanksgiving on the confessor's part. This wells up almost automatically from the new being of the repentant person. (14) Often the direct object of yadah is the "name" of Yahweh (Ps 105:1; Is 12:4; 1 Chr 16:8). (15) This idiom is synonymous with praising Yahweh. (16) It introduces the entire dimension evoked by the "name" in biblical usage and reminds us that the holy God cannot be directly approached by fallen man, but only through His "name"—i.e., His Word and reputation, an anticipation of the incarnation. God reveals Himself only in His "name," especially in the sanctuary where He "causes His name to dwell." (17) Yadah expands vertically to include all creation, and horizontally stretching forward to that day when praise and thanksgiving shall be eternal (Ps 29; 95:10; 96:7–9; 103:19–22). See: TWOT—847; BDB—392a, 1095a.

Yada' means "to know." (1) Essentially yada' means: (1a) to know by observing and reflecting (thinking), and (1b) to know by experiencing. (2) The first sense appears in Gen 8:11, where Noah "knew" the waters had abated as a result of seeing the freshly picked olive leaf in the dove's mouth; he "knew" it after observing and thinking about what he had seen. (2a) He did not actually see or experience the abatement himself. In contrast to this knowing through reflection is the knowing which comes through experience with the senses, by investigation and proving, by reflection and consideration (firsthand knowing). (2b) Consequently yada is used in synonymous parallelism with (2b1) "hear" (Ex 3:7), (2b2) "see" (Gen 18:21), and (2b3) "perceive, see" (Job 28:7). (2c) Joseph told his brothers that were they to leave one of their number with him in Egypt then he would "know," by experience, that they were honest men (Gen 42:33). (2d) In the Garden of Eden, Adam and Eve were forbidden to eat of the tree whose fruit if eaten would give them the experience of evil and, therefore, the knowledge of both good and evil. (2e) Somewhat characteristically the heart plays an important role in knowing. Because they experienced the sustaining presence of God during the wilderness wandering, the Israelites "knew" in their hearts that God was disciplining or caring for them as a father cares for a son (Deut 8:5). Such knowing can be hindered by a wrongly disposed heart (Ps 95:10).

(3) Thirdly, this verb can represent that kind of knowing which one learns and can give back. (3a) So Cain said that he did not "know" he was Abel's keeper (Gen 4:9), and (3b) Abram told Sarai that he "knew" she was a beautiful woman (Gen 12:11). (3c) One can also "know" by being told—in Lev 5:1 a witness either sees or otherwise "knows" (by being told) pertinent information. (3d) In this sense "know" is paralleled (3d1) by "acknowledge" (Deut 33:9) and (3d2) "learn" (Deut 31:12–13). (3e) Thus, little children not yet able to speak do not "know" good and evil (Deut 1:39); (3e1) they have not learned it so as to tell another what it is. (3e2) In other words, their knowledge is not such that they can distinguish between good and evil.

(4) In addition to the essentially cognitive knowing already presented, this verb has a purely experiential side. (4a) The "knower" has actual involvement with or in the object of the knowing. (4a1) So Potiphar was unconcerned about (literally, "did not know about") what was in his house (Gen 39:6)—he had no actual contact with it. (4a2) In Gen 4:1 Adam's knowing Eve also refers to direct contact with her—in a sexual relationship. (4b) In Gen 18:19 God says He "knows" Abraham; He cared for him in the sense that He chose him from among other men and saw to it that certain things happened to him. The emphasis is on the fact that God "knew" him intimately and personally. (4b1) In fact, it is parallel in concept to "sanctified" (cf. Jer 1:5). (4b2) A similar use of this word relates to God's relationship to Israel as a chosen or elect nation (Amos 3:2).

(5) Yada in the intensive and causative stems is used to express a particular concept of revelation. (5a) God did not make Himself known by His name Jehovah to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. (5b) He did reveal that name to them, that He was the God of the covenant. (5c) Nevertheless, the covenant was not fulfilled (they did not possess the Promised Land) until the time of Moses. (5d) The statement in Ex 6:3 implies that now God was going to make Himself known "by His name"; He was going to lead them to possess the land. (5e) God makes Himself known through revelatory acts such as bringing judgment on the wicked (Ps 9:16) and deliverance to His people (Is 66:14). (5f) He also reveals Himself through the spoken word—for example, by the commands given through Moses (Eze 20:11), by promises like those given to David (2 Sa 7:21). (5g) Thus, God reveals Himself in law and promise. (6) "To know" God is to have an intimate experiential knowledge of Him. (6a) So Pharaoh denies that he knows Jehovah (Ex 5:2) or that he recognizes His authority over him. (6b) Positively "to know" God is paralleled to fear Him (1 Kin 8:43), to serve (1 Chr 28:9), and to trust (Is 43:10). Syn: Yada' is related to (7) da'at (1847) which means "knowledge": Gen 2:9: ". . . and the tree of knowledge of good and evil." The word also appears in Ex 31:3. It is related (7a) to the particle, maddua' (4069) which is translated "why": Ex 1:18: "Why have ye done this thing, and have saved the men children alive?" See also: 5234. See: TWOT—848; BDB—393b, 1095a.

These "knowing ones" are always ranked with those who deal in 'owb (186 - necromancer) and are to be regarded with equal abhorrence. They were no doubt wise in their generation, prudent like the diviners, and skilled in the art of preying on the follies and superstitions of those who came in contact with them (Lev 19:31; 20:6; Deut 18:11; 1 Sa 28:8). (1) The Tetragrammaton YHWH appears without its own vowels, and its exact pronunciation is debated (Jehovah, Yehovah, Jahweh, Yahweh). (2) The Hebrew text does insert the vowels for adonay (136), and Jewish students and scholars read adonay whenever they see the Tetragrammaton. (3) The divine name YHWH appears only in the Bible. (4) Its precise meaning is much debated. God chose it as His personal name by which He related specifically to His chosen or covenant people. Its first appearance in the biblical record is Gen 2:4: "These are the generations of the heavens and of the earth when they were created, in the day that the Lord God made the earth and the heavens." Apparently Adam knew Him by this personal or covenantal name from the beginning, since Seth both called his son Enosh (i.e., man as a weak and dependent creature) and began (along with all other pious persons) to call upon (formally worship) the name of YHWH, "the Lord" (Gen 4:26). The covenant found a fuller expression and application when God revealed Himself to Abraham (Gen 12:8), promising redemption in the form of national existence.

This promise became reality through Moses, to whom God explained that He was not only the "God who exists" but the "God who effects His will": "Thus shalt thou say unto the children of Israel, The Lord [YHWH] God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, hath sent me unto you: this is my name for ever, and this is my memorial unto all generations. Go, and gather the elders of Israel together, and say unto them, The Lord [YHWH] God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, of Isaac, and of Jacob, appeared unto me, saying, I have surely visited you, and seen that which is done to you in Egypt: And I have said, I will bring you up out of the affliction of Egypt unto the land of the Canaanites" (Ex 3:15–17). So God explained the meaning of "I am who I am" (Ex 3:14). He spoke to the fathers as YHWH, but the promised deliverance and, therefore, the fuller significance or experienced meaning of His name were unknown to them (Ex 6:2–8). Syn.: 113, 3050, 3069. Yobel means "ram; ram's horn; jubilee year." (1) Yobel means ram's horn blown to assemble the people: "When the ram's horn [v, "trumpet"] sounds a long blast, they shall come up to the mountain" (Ex 19:13). (2) This word also signifies jubilee year (Lev 25:8–15; 27:16–25). (2a) In the fiftieth year on the Day of Atonement jubilee was to be declared. (2b) All land was returned to the individual or family to whom it had originally belonged by inheritance, even if he (or she) were in bondservice. (2c) When land was valued in anticipation of selling it or devoting it to God, it was to be valued in terms of anticipated productivity prior to the year of jubilee. (2d) Between jubilees land might be redeemed for its productivity value. (2e) City property, however, must be redeemed within a year of its sale or loss. (2f) Levitical property was not subject to these rules. (2g) Israelites who fell into bondage were to be released in the jubilee year, or redeemed in the interim period. Yowm (3117) means "daylight; day; time; moment; year." (1) Yowm has several meanings. (1a) The word represents the period of "daylight" as contrasted with nighttime: "While the earth remaineth, seedtime and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night shall not cease" (Gen 8:22). (1b) The word denotes a period of twenty-four hours: "And it came to pass, as she spake to Joseph day by day . . ." (Gen 39:10). (2) Yowm can also signify a period of time of unspecified duration: "And God blessed the seventh day, and sanctified it: because that in it he had rested from all his work which God created and made" (Gen 2:3). (2a) In this verse, "day" refers to the entire period of God's resting from creating this universe. (2b) This "day" began after He completed the creative acts of the seventh day and extends at least to the return of Christ. (2c) Compare Gen 2:4: "These are the generations of the heavens and of the earth when they were created, in the day [beyom] that the Lord God made the earth and the heavens." (2d) Here "day" refers to the entire period envisioned in the first six days of creation. (3) Another nuance appears in Gen 2:17, where the word represents a "point of time" or "a moment": "But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it: for in the day [beyom] that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die."

(4) When used in the plural, the word may represent "year": "Thou shalt therefore keep this ordinance in his season from year to year [yamim]" (Ex 13:10). (5) There are several other special nuances of yowm when it is used with various prepositions. (5a) First, when used with ke ("as," "like"), it can connote (5a1) "first": "And Jacob said, Sell me this day [first] thy birthright" (Gen 25:31). (5a2) It may also mean "one day," or "about this day": "And it came to pass about this time, that Joseph went into the house to do his business" (Gen 39:11). (5a3) On Joseph's lips, the phrase connotes "this present result" (literally, "as it is this day"): "But as for you, ye thought evil against me; but God meant it unto good, to bring to pass, as it is this day, to save much people alive" (Gen 50:20). (5a4) Adonijah used this same phrase to represent "today": "Let king Solomon swear unto me today that he will not slay his servant" (1 Kin 1:51). (5a5) Yet another nuance appears in 1 Sa 9:13: "Now therefore get you up; for about this time ye shall find him." (5b) When used with the definite article ha, the noun may mean (5b1) "today" (as it does in Gen 4:14) or refer (5b2) to some particular "day" (1 Sa 1:4) and the "daytime" (Neh 4:16).

(6) The first biblical occurrence of yowm is found in Gen 1:5: "And God called the light Day, and the darkness he called Night. And the evening and the morning were the first day." (7) The second use introduces one of the most debated occurrences of the word, which is the duration of the days of creation. (7a) Perhaps the most frequently heard explanations are that these "days" are (7a1) 24 hours long, (7a2) indefinitely long (i.e., eras of time), or (7a3) logical rather than temporal categories (i.e., they depict theological categories rather than periods of time). (7b) However, we know that these were literal 24 hour days. God based the Sabbath day's rest on His 7 days of creation. God did not work "7 long periods of time." Ex 20:9–11 "Six days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work: But the seventh day is the sabbath of the LORD thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates: For in six days the LORD made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the LORD blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it."

(8) The "day of the Lord" is used to denote (8a) both the end of the age (eschatologically) or some occurrence during the present age (non-eschatologically). (8b) It may be a day of either judgment or blessing, or both (cf. Is 2). (9) It is noteworthy that Hebrew people did not divide the period of daylight into regular hourly periods, whereas nighttime was divided into three watches (Ex 14:24; Judg 7:19). (10) The beginning of a "day" is sometimes (10) said to be dusk (Est 4:16) and sometimes (11) dawn (Deut 28:66–67). 3162. יַחַד {142x} yachad, yakh'-ad; from 3161; prop. a unit, i.e. (adv.) unitedly:—together {120x}, altogether {5x}, alike {5x}, likewise {2x} withal {2x}, misc. {8x} = at all (once), both, only.

I. The adverbial form yachad means "together; alike; all at once; all together." (1) Used as an adverb, the word emphasizes a plurality in unity. (2) In some contexts the connotation is on community in action. Goliath challenged the Israelites, saying: "I defy the armies of Israel this day; give me a man, that we may fight together" (1 Sa 17:10). (3) Sometimes the emphasis is on commonality of place: "And it came to pass, that they which remained were scattered, so that two of them were not left together" (1 Sa 11:11). (4) The word can be used of being in the same place at the same time: "And he delivered them into the hands of the Gibeonites, and they hanged them in the hill before the Lord: and they fell all seven together" (2 Sa 21:9). (5) In other passages yachad means "at the same time": "O that my grief were thoroughly weighed, and my calamity laid in the balances together!" (Job 6:2). (6) In many poetic contexts yachad is a near synonym of kullam (3617), "altogether." (6a) Yachad, however, is more emphatic, meaning "all at once, all together." (6b) In Deut 33:5 (the first biblical occurrence) the word is used emphatically, meaning "all together," or "all of them together": "And he was king in Jeshurun, when the heads of the people and the tribes of Israel were gathered together." (6c) Cf.: "Surely men of low degree are vanity, and men of high degree are a lie: to be laid in the balance, they are altogether lighter than vanity" (Ps 62:9). (6d) In such contexts yachad emphasizes the totality of a given group (cf. Ps 33:15). (7) Yachad also sometimes emphasizes that things are "alike" or that the same thing will happen to all of them: "likewise the fool and brutish person perish" (Ps 49:10).

II. The form yachdaw, as an adverb, means "all alike; equally; all at once; all together." (1) It speaks of community (1a) in action (Deut 25:11), (1b) in place (Gen 13:6—the first biblical appearance of this form), and (1c) in time (Ps 4:8). (2) In other places it is synonymous with kullam (3617), "altogether." (3) In Is 10:8 yachdaw means "all alike," or "equally": "Are not my princes altogether kings?" (4) In Ex 19:8 this word implies "all at once" as well as "all together": "And all the people answered together, and said. . . ." (5) The sense "alike" appears in Deut 12:22: "Even as the roebuck and the hart is eaten, so thou shalt eat them: the unclean and the clean shall eat of them alike." See: TWOT—858b; BDB—403a, 403b.

Yachiyd means "very self, only; solitary; lonely." (1) The word can be used meaning "self, my soul": "Deliver my soul from the sword, my darling from the power of the dog" (Ps 22:20; cf. Ps 35:17). (2) Sometimes this word means "only": "Take now thy son, thine only son Isaac, whom thou lovest . . ." (Gen 22:2—the first biblical occurrence of the word). (3) In two passages this word means "solitary" or "lonely": "Turn thee unto me, and have mercy upon me; for I am desolate and afflicted" (Ps 25:16; cf. Ps 68:6). (4) The noun yachad occurs only once to mean "unitedness." David said to the Benjaminites: "If ye be come peaceably unto me to help me, mine heart shall be knit unto you [I am ready to become one (or united) with you]" (1 Chr 12:17). This usage of the word as a substantive is unusual. See: TWOT—858a; BDB—402d.

Yachas means "to reckon (according to race or family)." (1) In 1 Chr 5:17 yachas means "reckoned by genealogies": "All these were reckoned by genealogies in the days of Jothan King of Judah" (cf. 1 Chr 7:5). (2) A similar use is found in Ezr 2:62: "These sought their register among those that were reckoned by genealogy, but they were not found." See: TWOT—862; BDB—405b.

(1) Yatab does not mean amend nor improve your ways but to make one's course line up with that which is pleasing to God and that which is well-pleasing in His sight. (2) Yatab, as a verb, means "to be good, do well, be glad, please, do good to go well, be pleasing, be delighted, be happy." (3) The meaning of the word, as expressed in Neh 2:6, is "pleased." (4) This verbal form is found first in the story of Cain and Abel, where it is used twice in one verse: "if thou doest well, shalt thou not be accepted? and if thou doest not well, sin lieth at the door. And unto thee shall be his desire, and thou shalt rule over him" (Gen 4:7). (5) Among other nuances of the verb are (5a) "to deal well": "therefore God dealt well with the midwives: and the people multiplied, and waxed very mighty" (Ex 1:20); (5b) "to play [a musical instrument] well": "and Saul said unto his servants, Provide me now a man that can play well, and bring him to me" (1 Sa 16:17), (5c) "to adorn, make beautiful": "And when Jehu was come to Jezreel, Jezebel heard of it; and she painted [yatab] her face, and tired her head, and looked out at a window" (2 Kin 9:30), and (5d) "to inquire diligently": "and it be told thee, and thou hast heard of it, and enquired diligently, and, behold, it be true, and the thing certain, that such abomination is wrought in Israel" (Deut 17:4). Yayin means "wine." (1) This is the usual Hebrew word for fermented grape. (2) It is usually rendered "wine." Such "wine" was commonly drunk for refreshment: "And Melchizedek king of Salem brought forth bread and wine . . ." (Gen 14:18; cf. 27:25). (3) Passages such as Eze 27:18 inform us that "wine" was an article of commerce: "Damascus was thy merchant in the multitude of the wares of thy making, for the multitude of all riches; in the wine of Helbon, and white wool." (4) Strongholds were supplied with "wine" in case of siege: "and he fortified the strongholds, and put captains in them, and store of victual, and of oil and wine" (2 Chr 11:11). (5) Proverbs recommends that kings avoid "wine" and strong drink but that it be given to those troubled with problems that they might drink and forget their problems (Prov 31:4–7). (6) "Wine" was used to make merry, to make one feel good without being intoxicated: "Now Absalom had commanded his servants, saying, Mark ye now when Amnon's heart is merry with wine, and when I say unto you, Smite Amnon; then kill him, fear not: have not I commanded you? be courageous, and be valiant" (2 Sa 13:28).

(7) It was used in rejoicing before the Lord. (7a) Once a year all Israel is to gather in Jerusalem. (7b) The money realized from the sale of a tithe of all their harvest was to be spent "for whatsoever thy soul lusteth after, for oxen, or for sheep, or for wine, or for strong drink, or for whatsoever thy soul desireth: and thou shalt eat there before the Lord thy God, and thou shalt rejoice . . ." (Deut 14:26). (8) "Wine" was offered to God at His command as part of the prescribed ritual: "And with the one lamb a tenth deal of flour mingled with the fourth part of an hin of beaten oil; and the fourth part of an hin of wine for a drink offering" (Ex 29:40). (9) Thus it was part of the temple supplies available for purchase by pilgrims so that they could offer it to God: "Some of them also were appointed to oversee the vessels, and all the instruments of the sanctuary, and the fine flour, and the wine, and the oil, and the frankincense, and the spices" (1 Chr 9:29). (10) Pagans used "wine" in their worship, but "their wine is the poison of dragons, and the cruel venom of asps" (Deut 32:33).

(11) Yayin clearly represents an intoxicating beverage. (11a) This is evident in its first biblical appearance: "And Noah began to be a husbandman, and he planted a vineyard: and he drank of the wine, and was drunken" (Gen 9:20–21). (11b) In Gen 9:24 yayin means drunkenness: "And Noah awoke from his wine." (12) People in special states of holiness were forbidden to drink "wine," such as (12a) the Nazarites: "He shall separate himself from wine and strong drink, and shall drink no vinegar of wine, or vinegar of strong drink, neither shall he drink any liquor of grapes, nor eat moist grapes, or dried" (Num 6:3), (12b) Samson's mother: "Now therefore beware, I pray thee, and drink not wine nor strong drink, and eat not any unclean thing" (Judg 13:4), and (12c) priests approaching God: "Do not drink wine nor strong drink, thou, nor thy sons with thee, when ye go into the tabernacle of the congregation, lest ye die: it shall be a statute for ever throughout your generations" (Lev 10:9).

(13) The word is used as a synonym of tirosh (8492), "new wine," in Hos 4:11, where it is evident that both can be intoxicating: "Whoredom and wine and new wine (tirosh) take away the heart." (13a) Tirosh is distinguished from yayin by referring only to new wine not fully fermented; yayin includes "wine" at any stage. (13b) In Gen 27:28 (the first biblical occurrence of the word) Jacob's blessing includes the divine bestowal of an abundance of new wine: "Therefore God give thee of the dew of heaven, and the fatness of the earth, and plenty of corn and wine." (13c) In 1 Sa 1:15 yayin parallels shekar (7941), "strong drink." (13c1) Shekar in early times included wine: "And the drink offering thereof shall be the fourth part of an hin for the one lamb: in the holy place shalt thou cause the strong wine to be poured unto the LORD for a drink offering" (Num 28:7); (13c2) but meant strong drink made from any fruit or grain: "He shall separate himself from wine and strong drink, and shall drink no vinegar of wine, or vinegar of strong drink, neither shall he drink any liquor of grapes, nor eat moist grapes, or dried" (Num 6:3). 3198. יָכַח {59x} yâkach, yaw-kahh'; a prim. root; to be right (i.e. correct); recip. to argue; caus. to decide, justify or convict:—reprove {23x}, rebuke {12x}, correct {3x}, plead {3x}, reason {2x}, chasten {2x}, reprover + 376 {2x}, appointed {1x}, arguing {1x}, misc. {9x} = convince, daysman, dispute, judge, maintain, surely, in any wise.

Yakach (3198) means, "to decide, prove, convince, judge." (1) The first occurrence of the word is in Gen 20:16: "And unto Sarah he said, Behold, I have given thy brother a thousand pieces of silver: behold, he is to thee a covering of the eyes, unto all that are with thee, and with all other: thus she was reproved." Reprove in English means to "prove over again"; hence, Sarah was proven chaste, untouched by another man. (2) It is evident in most of the uses of yakach that there is a value judgment involved, as in Ps 50:21: "I will reprove thee, and [lay the charge before thee]." (3) Negative judgments may lead to reproof, especially by God (Job 5:17). (3a) Such divine reproof may be physical: "I will chasten him with the rod of men" (2 Sa 7:14). (3b) But it is the conviction of the wise man that "For whom the LORD loveth he correcteth; even as a father the son in whom he delighteth" (Prov 3:12). See: TWOT—865; BDB—406d.

3201. יָכַל {195x} yâkôl, yaw-kole'; or (fuller)

יָכוֹל yâkôwl, yaw-kole'; a prim. root; to be able, lit. (can, could) or mor. (may, might):—could {46x}, able {43x}, cannot {34x}, prevail {22x}, may {16x}, can {12x}, canst {5x}, endure {2x}, might {2x}, misc. {13x} = any at all (ways), attain, overcome, have power, still, suffer.

Yakowl means "can, may, to be able, prevail, endure." (1) As in English, the Hebrew word usually requires another verb to make the meaning complete. (2) Yakowl first occurs in Gen 13:6: "And the land was not able to bear them, that they might dwell together." (3) God promised Abraham: "And I will make thy seed as the dust of the earth: so that if a man can number the dust of the earth, then shall thy seed also be numbered" (Gen 13:16; cf. Gen 15:5). (4) The most frequent use of this verb is in the sense of "can" or "to be able." (4a) The word may refer specifically to "physical ability," as in 1 Sa 17:33: "And Saul said to David, Thou art not able to go against this Philistine to fight with him: for thou art but a youth, and he a man of war from his youth." (4b) Yakowl may express "moral inability," (4b1) as in Josh 7:13: "Thou canst not stand before thine enemies, until ye take away the accursed thing from among you." (4b2) For a similar sense, see Jer 6:10: "Behold, their ear is uncircumcised, and they cannot hearken."

(5) In the negative sense, it may be used to express "prohibition": "Thou mayest not eat within thy gates the tithe of thy corn, or of thy wine, or of thy oil, or the firstlings of thy herds or of thy flock, nor any of thy vows which thou vowest, nor thy freewill offerings, or heave offering of thine hand" (Deut 12:17). (6) Or the verb may indicate a "social barrier," as in Gen 43:32: "The Egyptians might not eat bread with the Hebrews; for that is an abomination unto the Egyptians." (7) Yakowl is also used of God, as when Moses pleaded with God not to destroy Israel lest the nations say, "Because the LORD was not able to bring this people into the land which he sware unto them, therefore he hath slain them in the wilderness" (Num 14:16). (8) The word may indicate a positive sense: "If it be so, our God whom we serve is able to deliver us" (Dan 3:17). (9) The word yakowl appears when God limits His patience with the insincere: "So that the LORD could no longer bear, because of the evil of your doings, and because of the abominations which ye have committed; therefore is your land a desolation, and an astonishment, and a curse, without an inhabitant, as at this day" (Jer 44:22).

(10) When yakowl is used without another verb, the sense is "to prevail" or "to overcome," as in the words of the angel to Jacob: "And he said, Thy name shall be called no more Jacob, but Israel: for as a prince hast thou power with God and with men, and hast prevailed" (Gen 32:28). (11) With the word yakowl, God rebukes Israel's insincerity: (11a) "Bring no more vain oblations; incense is an abomination unto me; the new moons and sabbaths, the calling of assemblies, I cannot away with; it is iniquity, even the solemn meeting" (Is 1:13). (11b) "Thy calf, O Samaria, hath cast thee off; mine anger is kindled against them: how long will it be ere they attain to innocency?" (Hos 8:5). (12) There is no distinction in Hebrew between "can" and "may," (12a) since yakowl expresses both "ability" and "permission," or prohibition with the negative. (12b) Both God and man can act. (12c) There is no limit to God's ability apart from His own freely determined limits of patience with continued disobedience and insincerity (Is 59:1–2) and will (Dan 3:17–18). See: TWOT—866; BDB—407b, 1095d.

3205. יָלַד {498x} yâlad, yaw-lad'; a prim. root; to bear young; caus. to beget; medically, to act as midwife; spec. to show lineage:—beget {201x}, bare {110x}, born {79x}, bring forth {25x}, bear {23x}, travail {16x}, midwife {10x}, child {8x}, delivered {5x}, borne {3x}, birth {2x}, labour {2x}, brought up {2x}, misc. {12x} = calve, come, time of delivery, gender, hatch, declare pedigrees, be the son of.

Yalad means "to bear, bring forth, beget, be delivered." (1) Essentially, the word refers to the action of "giving birth" and its result, "bearing children." (1a) God cursed woman by multiplying her pain in "bringing forth" children (cf. Gen 3:16, the first occurrence of yalad). (1b) The second meaning is exemplified by Gen 4:18, which reports that Irad "begat" ("became the father of") Mehujael. (1c) This verb can also be used in reference to animals; in Gen 30:39, the strong among Laban's flocks "birthed" striped, speckled, and spotted offspring. (2) One recurring theme in biblical history is typified by Abram and Sarah. (2a) They had no heirs, but God made them a promise and gave them a son (Gen 16:1, 16). (2a) This demonstrates that God controls the opening of the womb (Gen 20:17–18) and bestows children as an indication of His blessing. (3) The prophets use the image of childbirth to illustrate the terror to overcome men in the day of the Lord: "And they shall be afraid: pangs and sorrows shall take hold of them; they shall be in pain as a woman that travaileth: they shall be amazed one at another; their faces shall be as flames" (Is 13:8).

(4) Hosea uses the image of marriage and childbearing to describe God's relationship to Israel (1:3, 6, 8). (5) Is 7:14, uses this verb to predict the "birth" of Immanuel: "Therefore the Lord himself shall give you a sign; Behold, a virgin shall conceive, and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel." (6) Finally, the prophets sometimes mourn the day of their "birth" (Jer 15:10). (7) Yalad describes the relationship between God and Israel at other places in the Bible as well. (7a) This relationship is especially relevant to the king who typifies the Messiah, the Son whom God "begot": "I will declare the decree: the LORD hath said unto me, Thou art my Son; this day have I begotten thee" (Ps 2:7). (7b) God also says He "begot" the nation of Israel as a whole: "Of the Rock that begat thee thou art unmindful, and hast forgotten God that formed thee" (Deut 32:18). (7c) This statement is in noticeable contrast to Moses' disclaimer that he did not "birth" them (Num 11:12) and, therefore, does not want to be responsible for them any longer.

(8) The motif that God "gave birth" to Israel is picked up by Jeremiah. In Jer 31:20, God states that His heart yearns for Ephraim His son (yeled). (9) Ezekiel develops this motif in the form of an allegory, giving the names Aholah and Aholibah to Samaria and Jerusalem respectively, to those whom He "bore" (Eze 23:4, 37). See: TWOT—867; BDB—408a, 529a.

3206. יֶלֶד {89x} yeled, yeh'-led; from 3205; something born, i.e. a lad or offspring:—child {72x}, young man {7x}, young ones {3x}, sons {3x}, boy {2x}, fruit {1x}, variant {1x}.

Yeled, as a noun, means "boy; child." (1) The noun yeled differs from ben (1121 - "son"), which more exactly specifies the parental relationship. (2) For example, the child that Naomi nursed was a "boy" (Ruth 4:16). Syn: Yeled, which appears 89 times in the Bible, has nouns built on it: (2a) yaldah (3207 - "girl"; 3 times), (2b) yalid (3211 - "son" or "slave"; 3 times), (2c) yillod (3209 - "newborn"; 5 times), (2d) walad (2056 - "child"; once), (2e) ledah (3205 - "bringing forth" or "birth"; 4 times), (2f) moledet (4138 - "offspring, kindred, parentage"; 22 times), and (2g) toledot (8435 - "descendants, contemporaries, generation, genealogy, record of the family"; 39 times), (2h) yaldoth (3208 - childhood, youth). 3220. יָם {396x} yâm, yawm; from an unused root mean. to roar; a sea (as breaking in noisy surf) or large body of water; spec. (with the art.), the Mediterranean; sometimes a large river, or an artificial basin; locally, the west, or (rarely) the south:—sea {321x}, west {47x}, westward {21x}, west side {4x}, seafaring men {1x}, south {1x}, western {1x}.

Yam means "sea; ocean." (1) This word refers to the body of water as distinct from the land bodies (continents and islands) and the sky (heavens): "For in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea and all that in them is" (Ex 20:11). (1a) Used in this sense yam means "ocean." (1b) This is its meaning in Gen 1:10, its first biblical appearance; unlike the use in the singular, where the word is a collective noun, it appears here in the plural: "And God called the dry land Earth; and the gathering together of the waters called he Seas. . . ." (2) Yam may be used of "seas," whether they are salty or fresh. (2a) The Great Sea is the Mediterranean: "From the wilderness and this Lebanon even unto the great river, the river Euphrates, all the land of the Hittites, and unto the Great Sea toward the going down of the sun, shall be your coast" (Josh 1:4). (2b) This sea is also called the sea of the Philistines (Ex 23:31) and (2c) the hinter or western sea (Deut 11:24 "uttermost sea"). (3) The Dead Sea is called (3a) the Salt Sea (Gen 14:3), (3b) the Arabah (Deut 3:17; "plain"), and (3c) the east sea (Eze 47:18).

(4) Thus, yam can be used of (4a) an inland salty "sea." (4b) It can also be used of a fresh water "sea" such as the Sea of Galilee: "And the border shall descend, and shall reach unto the side of the Sea of Chinnereth eastward" (Num 34:11). (5) The word is sometimes used of the direction west or westward, in the sense of toward the (Great) Sea: "Lift up now thine eyes, and look from the place where thou art northward, and southward, and eastward, and westward" (Gen 13:14). (5a) In Gen 12:8 yam means "on the west side": "And he removed from thence unto a mountain on the east of Beth-el, and pitched his tent, having Beth-el on the west, and Hai on the east." (5b) This word can also refer to a side of something and not just a direction, but it is the side that faces westward: "He turned about to the west side . . ." (Eze 42:19). (6) Ex 10:19 uses yam as an adjective modifying "wind": "And the Lord turned a mighty strong west wind, which took away the locusts."

(7) Yam is used of the great basin immediately in front of the Holy Place: "And the pillars of brass that were in the house of the Lord, and the bases, and the brazen sea that was in the house of the Lord, did the Chaldees break in pieces, and carried the brass of them to Babylon" (2 Kin 25:13). This is also called (7a) the "molten sea" (of cast metal - 1 Kin 7:23) or simply (7b) the "sea" (Jer. 27:19). (8) Yam is used of mighty rivers such as the Nile: "And the waters shall fail from the sea, and the river shall be wasted and dried up" (Is 19:5). (8a) This statement occurs in the middle of a prophecy against Egypt. Therefore, "the river" is the Nile. (8b) But since the term "river" is in synonymous parallelism to "the sea," this latter term also refers to the Nile. (8c) Eze 32:2 uses yam of the branches of the Nile: "And thou art as a whale in the seas: and thou camest forth with thy rivers, and troubledst the waters with thy feet, and fouledst their rivers."

(9) This word can also be used of the Euphrates River (Jer 51:36). (10) Some scholars believe that in some instances the word yam may represent the Canaanite god Yamm, "which alone spreadeth out the heavens, and treadeth upon the waves of the sea" (Job 9:8). (10a) If understood as a statement about Yamm, this passage would read: "and tramples upon the back of Yamm." (10b) The parallelism between "heavens" and "seas," however, would lead us to conclude that the reference here is to the literal "sea." (10c) Ps. 89:9–10 is a more likely place to see a mention of Yamm, for there the word is identified as one of God's enemies in immediate proximity to the goddess Rahab: "Thou rulest the raging of the sea [Yamm]: when the waves thereof arise, thou stillest them. Thou hast broken Rahab in pieces, as one that is slain; thou hast scattered thine enemies with thy strong arm." (11) Especially note Job 7:12: "Am I a sea [Yamm], or a whale, that thou settest a watch over me?" (cf. Job 26:12; Ps 74:13). See: TWOT—871a; BDB—410d, 1095d.

3223. יְמוּאֵל {2x} Y^emûw'êl, yem-oo-ale'; from 3117 and 410; day of God; Jemuel, an Isr.:—Jemuel {2x}. See: BDB—410c.

3224. יְמִימָה {1x} Y^emîymâh, yem-ee-maw'; perh. from the same as 3117; prop. warm, i.e. affectionate; hence, dove [comp. 3123]; Jemimah, one of Job's daughters:—Jemimah {1x}. See: BDB—410d.

3225. יָמִין {139x} yâmîyn, yaw-meen'; from 3231; the right hand or side (leg, eye) of a person or other object (as the stronger and more dexterous); locally, the south:—hand {105x}, right {24x}, side {5x}, south {3x}, left-handed + 334 {2x}.

Yamiyn means "right hand." (1) First, the word represents the bodily part called the "right hand": (1a) "And Joseph took them both, Ephraim in his right hand toward Israel's left hand, and Manasseh in his left hand toward Israel's right hand . . ." (Gen 48:13). (1b) Ehud was "bound as to his right hand"; he was left-handed: "But when the children of Israel cried unto the Lord, the Lord raised them up a deliverer, Ehud the son of Gera, a Benjamite, a man lefthanded" (Judg 3:15). (2) Yamiyn may be used in a figurative sense. God's taking one's "right hand" means that He strengthens him: "For I the Lord thy God will hold thy right hand, saying unto thee, Fear not: I will help thee" (Is 41:13). (3) The Bible speaks anthropomorphically, attributing to God human parts and, in particular, a "right hand" (Ex 15:6). (3a) The Bible teaches that God is a spirit and has no body or bodily parts (cf. Ex 20:4; Deut 4:15–19). (3b) This figure is used of God's effecting His will among men and of His working in their behalf (showing His favor): "And I said, This is my infirmity: but I will remember the years of the right hand of the Most High" (Ps 77:10).

(4) Yamiyn represents the direction, to the "right." In this use the word can specify the location of someone or something: "But the children of Israel walked upon dry land in the midst of the sea; and the waters were a wall unto them on their right hand, and on their left" (Ex 14:29). (5) In other contexts yamiyn signifies "direction toward": "Is not the whole land before thee? Separate thyself, I pray thee, from me: if thou wilt take the left hand, then I will go to the right; or if thou depart to the right hand, then I will go to the left" (Gen 13:9—the first biblical appearance). (6) Yamiyn can be used of bodily parts other than the right hand. In Judg 3:16 the word is used of one's thigh (literally, "thigh of the right hand"): "But Ehud made him a dagger which had two edges, of a cubit length; and he did gird it under his raiment upon his right thigh." (6a) The word is used in 1 Sa 11:2 in conjunction with one's eye and in (6b) Ex 29:22 with a thigh. (7) This word is used to mean "south," since the south is on one's "right" when he faces eastward: "Then came up the Ziphites to Saul to Gibeah, saying, Doth not David hide himself with us in strongholds in the wood, in the hill of Hachilah, which is on the south of Jeshimon?" (1 Sa 23:19). See: TWOT—872a; BDB—411c.

Yacaph means "to add, continue, do again, increase, surpass." (1) Basically, yacaph signifies increasing the number of something. (2) It may also be used to indicate adding one thing to another, e.g., "And if a man eat of the holy thing unwittingly, then he shall put the fifth part thereof unto it, and shall give it unto the priest" (Lev 22:14). (3) This verb may be used to signify the repetition of an act stipulated by another verb. For example, the dove that Noah sent out "returned not again" (Gen 8:12). (4) Usually the repeated action is indicated by an infinitive absolute, preceded by the preposition le—"And he did not have relations with her again." Literally, this reads "And he did not add again [5750 - 'od] to knowing her [intimately]" (Gen 38:26). (5) In some contexts yacaph means "to heighten," but with no suggestion of numerical increase. (5a) God says, "The meek also shall increase [yacaph] their joy in the Lord . . ." (Is 29:19).

(5b) This same emphasis appears in Ps 71:14: ". . . and will yet praise thee more and more [yacaph]' or literally, "And I will add to all Thy praises." (5c) In such cases, more than an additional quantity of joy or praise is meant. The author is referring to a new quality of joy or praise—i.e., a heightening of them. (6) Another meaning of yacaph is "to surpass." The Queen of Sheba told Solomon, "Thy wisdom and prosperity exceedeth the fame which I heard," or literally, "You add [with respect to] wisdom and prosperity to the report which I heard" (1 Kin 10:7). (7) This verb may also be used in covenantal formulas, e.g., Ruth summoned God's curse upon herself by saying, "The Lord do so to me, and more also [yacaph], if ought but death part thee and me," or literally, "Thus may the Lord do to me, and thus may he add, if . . ." (Ruth 1:17; cf. Lev 26; Deut 27—28). See: TWOT—876; BDB—414d, 1095d.

Ya'ats means to advise, counsel, or consult. I. Ya'ats,* as a verb, means "to advise, counsel, consult." (1) Ya'ats is found first in Ex 18:19, where Jethro says to his son-in-law Moses: "I will give thee counsel, and God shall be with thee." (2) The word is found only one other time in the Hexateuch, and that is in Num 24:14: "And now, behold, I go unto my people: come therefore, and I will advertise thee what this people shall do to thy people in the latter days." (3) While ya'ats most often describes the "giving of good advice," the opposite is sometimes true. A tragic example was the case of King Ahaziah of Judah, whose mother "was his counselor to do wickedly" (2 Chr 22:3). (4) The idea of "decision" is expressed in Is 23:9: "The Lord of hosts hath purposed it."

II. Yo'es, as a noun, means "counselor." Perhaps the most familiar use of this root is the noun form found in the messianic passage, Is 9:6. On the basis of the syntax involved, it is probably best to translate: "Wonderful, Counselor." III. Ya'as, as a participal, refers to "those who give counsel, especially in connection with political and military leaders: (1) "And Absalom sent for Ahithophel the Gilonite, David's counsellor, from his city, even from Giloh, while he offered sacrifices. And the conspiracy was strong; for the people increased continually with Absalom" (2 Sa 15:12); (2) "And David consulted with the captains of thousands and hundreds, and with every leader" (1 Chr 13:1). 3318. יָצָא { {1069x} yâtsâ', yaw-tsaw'; a prim. root; to go (caus. bring) out, in a great variety of applications, lit. and fig., direct and proxim.:— . . . . out {518x}, ... forth {411x}, bring {24x}, come {24x}, proceed {16x}, go {13x}, depart {10x}, misc. {53x} = × after, appear, × assuredly, × begotten, + be condemned, in the end, escape, exact, fail, get away (hence,), grow, put away, be risen, × scarce, send with commandment, spread, × still, × surely, at any time, × to [and fro], utter.

Yatsa' (3318), "to come forth, go out, proceed, go forth, bring out, come out." (1) Basically, this word means "movement away" from some point, even as bo' (935 - "come") means movement toward some point. (2) Yatsa' is the word used of "coming forth"—the observer is outside the point of departure but also speaks from the perspective of that departing point. (2a) For example, Gen 2:10 (the first occurrence of the word) reports that a river "came forth" or "flowed out" from the garden of Eden. (2b) In comparison to this continuing "going out," there is the one-time (punctiliar) "coming forth," as seen when all the animals "came out" of the ark (Gen 9:10). (2c) Thus, Goliath the champion of the Philistines "went forward" from the camp to challenge the Israelites to a duel: "And there went out a champion out of the camp of the Philistines, named Goliath, of Gath, whose height was six cubits and a span" (1 Sa 17:4). In the art of ancient warfare, a battle was sometimes decided on the basis of two duelers.

(3) This verb may be used with "come" (935 – bo') (3a) as an expression for "constant activity." (3b) The raven Noah sent out "went forth to and fro" (literally, "in and out") until the water had abated (Gen 8:7). (4) Various aspects of a man's personality may "go forth," indicating that they "leave" him. (4a) When one's soul "departs" the body, the person dies: "And it came to pass, as her soul was in departing, (for she died) that she called his name Benoni: but his father called him Benjamin" (Gen 35:18). (4b) When one's heart "departs," he loses all inner strength and confidence: "And he said unto his brethren, My money is restored; and, lo, it is even in my sack: and their heart failed them, and they were afraid, saying one to another, What is this that God hath done unto us?" (Gen 42:28).

(5) Yatsa' has a number of special uses. (5a) It can be used of "giving birth": If men strive, and hurt a woman with child, so that her fruit depart from her" (Ex 21:22), or (5b) of "begetting" descendants: "And I will make thee exceeding fruitful, and I will make nations of thee, and kings shall come out of thee" (Gen 17:6). (5c) The "going forth" of a year is its close, as in the harvest season (Ex 23:16). (5d) Another special use of this verb has to do with "moving out" a camp for either a military campaign (1 Sa 8:20) or some other purpose (Deut 23:10). (5e) "Going and coming" may also be used of "fighting" in wars. (5f) Toward the end of his life Moses said he was unable to "come and go" (Deut 31:2; cf. Josh 14:11). He probably meant that he could not engage in war (Deut 31:3). (5g) On the other hand, this phrase can refer to the normal activities of life (1 Kin 3:7). (6) Yatsa' also has a cultic [religious] use, describing the "movement" of the priest in the tabernacle; bells were attached to the hem of the priest's robe so the people could follow his actions (Ex 28:35).

(7) When applied to God, the action of "going out" only infrequently refers to His "abandoning" a certain location. (7a) In Eze 10:18, the glory of the Lord "left" the "threshhold of the [temple], and stood over the cherubim," and eventually departed the temple altogether (Eze 10:19). (7b) Often this verb pictures the Lord as "going forth" to aid His people, especially in texts suggesting or depicting His appearances among men (theophanies; cf. Judg 5:4). (7c) In Egypt, the Lord "went out" into the midst of the Egyptians to smite their first born (Ex 11:4). (7d) The Lord's departure point in such cases is variously represented as Seir (Judg 5:4) and His heavenly dwelling place (Mic 1:3), although it is often unexpressed. (8) The messenger of God also "goes forth" to accomplish specific tasks (Num 22:32). (9) God's providential work in history is described by Laban and Bethuel as "the thing proceedeth from the Lord" (Gen 24:50). (10) Also, "going out" from the Lord are His hand (Ruth 1:13), His Word (Is 55:11), His salvation (Is 51:5), His justice (Is 45:23), and His wisdom (Is 51:4).

(11) Yatsa' is not used of God's initial creative act, but only of His using what already exists to accomplish His purposes, such as His causing water to "come out" of the rock (Deut 8:15). (12) Because yatsa' can mean "to bring forth," it is often used of "divine deliverance," as the One who "bringeth me forth from mine enemies" (2 Sa 22:49) "into a large place" (2 Sa 22:20). (13) One of the most important formulas in the Old Testament uses the verb yatsa': "the Lord [who] brought [Israel] out of [Egypt]"; He brought them from slavery into freedom (Ex 13:3). 3332. יָצַק {53x} yâtsaq, yaw-tsak'; a prim. root; prop. to pour out (tran. or intr.); by impl. to melt or cast as metal; by extens. to place firmly, to stiffen or grow hard:—pour {21x}, cast {11x}, . . . out {7x}, molten {6x}, firm {2x}, set down {1x}, fast {1x}, groweth {1x}, hard {1x}, overflown {1x}, stedfast {1x}.

Yatsaq means "to pour, pour out, cast, flow." (1) The word is used first in (1a) Gen 28:18, where it is said that after Jacob had slept at Bethel with his head resting on a stone, he "poured oil upon the top of it." (1b) He again "poured" oil on a stone pillar at Bethel while on his return trip home twenty years later (Gen 35:14). (1c) The idea expressed in these two instances and others (Lev 8:12; 21:10) is that of anointing with oil; (1c1) it is not the ordinary term for "to anoint." (1c2) The regular term for "to anoint" is mashach (4886), which gives us the word "messiah." (2) Many things may "be poured out," such as (2a) oil in sacrifice: "And when any will offer a meat offering unto the LORD, his offering shall be of fine flour; and he shall pour oil upon it, and put frankincense thereon" (Lev 2:1), (2b) water for washing purposes: "But Jehoshaphat said, Is there not here a prophet of the LORD, that we may enquire of the LORD by him? And one of the king of Israel's servants answered and said, Here is Elisha the son of Shaphat, which poured water on the hands of Elijah" (2 Kin 3:11), and (2c) pottage for eating: "But he said, Then bring meal. And he cast it into the pot; and he said, Pour out for the people, that they may eat. And there was no harm in the pot" (2 Kin 4:41). (3) This verb is used to express the idea of "pouring out" or "casting" molten metals (Ex 25:12; 26:37; 1 Kin 7:46). (4) The idea of "pouring upon or infusing" someone is found in Ps 41:8: "An evil disease, say they, cleaveth fast unto him: and now that he lieth he shall rise up no more." The context seems to imply the infusion of a sickness. Syn.: 8210. See: TWOT—897; BDB—427a.

Yatsar means "to form, mold, fashion." (1) The first occurrence in the Old Testament is in Gen 2:7: "God formed man of the dust of the ground," reflecting the basic meaning of "molding" something to a desired shape. (2) Yatsar is a technical potter's word, and it is often used in connection with the potter at work (Is 29:16; Jer 18:4, 6). (3) The word is sometimes used as a general term of "craftsmanship or handiwork," whether molding, carving, or casting (Is 44:9–10, 12). (3) The word may be used to express the "Shall the throne of iniquity have fellowship with thee, which frameth mischief by a law?" (Ps 94:20). (4) Yatsar is frequently used to describe God's creative activity, whether literally or figuratively. (4a) Thus, God "formed" not only man (Gen 2:7–8) but (4b) the animals (Gen 2:19). (4c) God also "formed" the nation of Israel (Is 27:11; 45:9, 11); (4d) Israel was "formed" as God's special servant even from the womb (Is 44:2, 24; 49:5). (4e) While yet in the womb, Jeremiah was "formed" to be a prophet: "Before I formed thee in the belly I knew thee; and before thou camest forth out of the womb I sanctified thee, and I ordained thee a prophet unto the nations" (Jer 1:5).

(5) God "formed" (5a) locusts as a special visual lesson for Amos (Amos 7:1); (5b) the great sea monster, Leviathan, was "formed" to play in the seas (Ps 104:26). (6) The concreteness of ancient Hebrew thinking is vividly seen in a statement such as this: "I form the light, and create darkness" (Is 45:7). (7) Similarly, the psalmist confessed to God: "Thou hast made summer and winter" (Ps 74:17). (8) God "formed" (8a) the spirit of man (Zec 12:1), as well as (8b) the heart or mind of man (Ps 33:15). (9) Yatsar is used to express God's "planning" or "preordaining" according to His divine purpose (Is 22:11; 46:11). (10) Almost one half of the uses of this word in the Old Testament are found in the Book of Isaiah, with God as the subject of most of them. See: TWOT—898; BDB—427c, 849b.

Yaqar, as a verb, means "to be difficult, be valued from, be valued or honored, be precious." The word means "to be precious" in 1 Sa 26:21: "Then said Saul, I have sinned: return, my son David: for I will no more do thee harm, because my soul was precious in thine eyes this day." See: TWOT—905; BDB—429, 429c.

3366. יְקָר {17x} yᵉqâr, yek-awr'; from 3365; value, i.e. (concr.) wealth; abstr. costliness, dignity:—honour {12x}, precious {1x}, precious things {3x}, price {1x}.

Yeqar means precious thing; value; price; splendor; honor. Yeqar, as a noun, means "precious thing; value; price; splendor; honor." (1) The word signifies (1a) "value or price": "And the LORD said unto me, Cast it unto the potter: a goodly price that I was prised at of them. And I took the thirty pieces of silver, and cast them to the potter in the house of the LORD" (Zec 11:13), (1b) "splendor": "When he shewed the riches of his glorious kingdom and the honour of his excellent majesty many days, even an hundred and fourscore days" (Est 1:4), and (1c) "honor": "The Jews had light, and gladness, and joy, and honour" (Est 8:16). (2) In Jer 20:5 the word refers to "precious things": "Moreover I will deliver all the strength of this city, and all the labors thereof, and all the precious things thereof." See: TWOT—905b; BDB—430b, 1096a.

3367. יְקַר {7x} y^eqâr (Aram.), yek-awr'; corresp. to 3366:—glory {5x}, honour {2x}. See: TWOT—2775a; BDB—1096a.

Yaqar, as an adjective means "precious; rare; excellent; weighty; noble." (1) First, yaqar means "precious" in the sense of being rare and valuable: "And he took their king's crown from off his head, the weight whereof was a talent of gold with the precious stones: and it was set on David's head" (2 Sa 12:30). (2) The emphasis is on the nuance "rare" in 1 Sa 3:1: "And the word of the Lord was precious in those days; there was no open vision." (3) The word can focus on the value of a thing: "How excellent is thy loving-kindness, O God!" (Ps 36:7). (4) This word means "weighty" or "noble": "Dead flies cause the ointment of the apothecary to send forth a stinking savour: so doth a little folly him that is in reputation for wisdom and honour" (Eccl 10:1); like dead flies which make perfume stink, so a little foolishness spoils wisdom and honor—it is worth more in a negative sense (cf. Lam 4:2). See: TWOT—905a; BDB—429d, 891b, 903b.

3369. יָקֹשׁ {8x} yâqôsh, yaw-koshe'; a prim. root; to ensnare (lit. or fig.):—snare {5x}, lay a snare {1x}, laid {1x}, fowlers {1x}. See: TWOT—906; BDB—430b.

יָרֵא yârâ'. See 3384.

3372. יָרֵא {341x} yârê', yaw-ray'; a prim. root; to fear; mor. to revere; caus. to frighten:—fear {188x}, afraid {78x}, terrible {23x}, terrible thing {6x}, dreadful {5x}, reverence {3x}, fearful {2x}, terrible acts {1x}, misc. {8x}.

Yare' means "to be afraid, stand in awe, fear." (1) Basically, this verb connotes the psychological reaction of "fear." (1a) Yare' may indicate being afraid of something or someone. (1b) Jacob prayed: "Deliver me, I pray thee, from the hand of my brother, from the hand of Esau: for I fear him, lest he will come and smite me, and the mother with the children" (Gen 32:11). (2) Used of a person in an exalted position, yare' connotes "standing in awe." (2a) This is not simple fear, but reverence, whereby an individual recognizes the power and position of the individual revered and renders him proper respect. (2b) In this sense, the word may imply submission to a proper ethical relationship to God; (2c) the angel of the Lord told Abraham: "I know that thou fearest God, seeing thou hast not withheld thy son, thine only son from me" (Gen 22:12). (3) The verb can be used absolutely to refer to the heavenly and holy attributes of something or someone. So Jacob said of Bethel: "How [awesome] is this place! this is none other but the house of God, and this is the gate of heaven" (Gen 28:17).

(4) The people who were delivered from Egypt saw God's great power, "feared the Lord, and believed the Lord, and his servant Moses" (Ex 14:31). (5) There is more involved here than mere psychological fear. (5a) The people also showed proper "honor" ("reverence") for God and "stood in awe of" Him and of His servant, as their song demonstrates (Ex 15). (5b) After experiencing the thunder, lightning flashes, sound of the trumpet, and smoking mountain, they were "afraid" and drew back; but Moses told them not to be afraid, "for God is come to prove you, and that his fear may be before your faces, that ye sin not" (Ex 20:20). (5c) In this passage, the word represents "fear" or "dread" of the Lord. (5d) This sense is also found when God says, "fear not" (Gen 15:1).

(6) Yare' can be used absolutely (with no direct object), meaning "to be afraid." Adam told God: "I was afraid, because I was naked; and I hid myself" (Gen 3:10—the first occurrence). (7) One may be "afraid" to do something, as when Lot "feared to dwell in Zoar" (Gen 19:30). See: TWOT—907, 908; BDB—431a, 1108c.

3373. יְרֵא {64x} yârê', yaw-ray'; from 3372; fearing; mor. reverent:—afraid {3x}, fear {59x}, fearful {2x}. See: TWOT—907a; BDB—431a, 531d.

3374. יִרְאָה {45x} yir'âh, yir-aw'; fem. of 3373; fear (also used as infin.); mor. reverence:—fear {41x}, exceedingly + 1419 {2x}, dreadful {1x}, fearfulness {1x}.

Yir'ah means "fear; reverence." (1) It may mean "fear" of men: "This day will I begin to put the dread of thee and the fear of thee upon the nations that are under the whole heaven, who shall hear report of thee, and shall tremble, and be in anguish because of thee" (Deut

2:25), (2) of things: "And on all hills that shall be digged with the mattock, there shall not come thither the fear of briers and thorns: but it shall be for the sending forth of oxen, and for the treading of lesser cattle" (Is 7:25), (3) of situations: "Then were the men exceedingly afraid, and said unto him, Why hast thou done this? For the men knew that he fled from the presence of the LORD, because he had told them" (Jonah 1:10), and (4) of God: "And he said unto them, Take me up, and cast me forth into the sea; so shall the sea be calm unto you: for I know that for my sake this great tempest is upon you" (Jonah 1:12); (5) it may also mean "reverence" of God: "And Abraham said, Because I thought, Surely the fear of God is not in this place; and they will slay me for my wife's sake" (Gen 20:11). See: TWOT—907b; BDB—432a.

3375. יִרְאוֹן Yir'ôwn, yir-ohn'; from 3372; fearfulness; Jiron, a place in Pal:—Iron {1x}. See: BDB—432a.

3376. יִרְאִיָּה Yirîyâyh, yir-ee-yaw'; from 3373 and 3050; fearful of Jah; Jirijah, an Isr.:—Irijah {2x}. See: BDB—432c, 909d.

3377. יָרֵב Yârêb, yaw-rabe'; from 7378; he will contend; Jareb, a symb. name for Assyria:—Jareb {1x} See: BDB—432c, 937a. comp. 3402.

3378. יְרֻבַּעַל Y'rubba'al, yer-oob-bah'-al; from 7378 and 1168; Baal will contend; Jerubbaal, a symbol. name of Gideon:—Jerubbaal {14x}. See: BDB—432c, 937c.

3379. יָרָבְעָם Yârob'âm, yaw-rob-awm'; from 7378 and 5971; (the) people will contend; Jarobam, the name of two Isr. kings:—Jeroboam {104x}. See: BDB—432c, 914c, 937c.

3380. יְרֻבֶּשֶׁת Y'rubbesheth, yer-oob-beh'-sheth; from 7378 and 1322; shame (i.e. the idol) will contend; Jerubbesheth, a symbol. name for Gideon:—Jerubbesheth {1x}. See: BDB—432c, 937c.

3381. יָרַד yârad, yaw-rad'; a prim. root; to descend (lit. to go downwards; or conventionally to a lower region, as the shore, a boundary, the enemy, etc.; or fig. to fall); caus. to bring down (in all the above applications):—(come, go, etc) down {340x}, descend {18x}, variant {2x}, fell {2x}, let {1x}, abundantly {1x}, down by {1x}, indeed {1x}, put off {1x}, light off {1x}, out {1x}, sank {1x}, subdued {1x}, take {1x}.

Yarad means "to descend, go down, come down." (1) Basically, this verb connotes "movement" from a higher to a lower location. (1a) In Gen 28:12, Jacob saw a "ladder set up on the earth, and the top of it reached to heaven: and behold the angels of God ascending and descending on it." (1b) In such a use, the speaker or observer speaks from the point of destination, and the movement is "downward" toward him. (1c) Thus one may "go down" below or under the ground's surface: "And the damsel was very fair to look upon, a virgin, neither had any man known her: and she went down to the well, and filled her pitcher, and came up" (Gen 24:16). (1d) The speaker may also speak as though he stands at the point of departure and the movement is away from him and "downward."

(1d1) Interestingly, one may "go down" to a lower spot in order to reach a city's gates (Judg 5:11) or (1d2) to get to a city located on a lower level than the access road (1 Sa 10:8)—(1d3) usually one goes up to a city and "goes down" to leave a city (1 Sa 9:27). (1d4) The journey from Palestine to Egypt is referred to as "going down" (Gen 12:10). This reference is not to a movement in space from a higher to a lower spot; it is a more technical use of the verb.

(2) Yarad is used frequently of "dying." (2a) One "goes down" to his grave. Here the idea of spatial movement is present, but in the background. (2b) This "going down" is much more of a removal from the world of conscious existence: For the grave cannot praise thee, death cannot celebrate thee: they that go down into the pit cannot hope for thy truth. The living, the living, he shall praise thee . . ." (Is 38:18–19). (2c) On the other hand, "going down to the dust" implies a return to the soil—i.e., a return of the body to the soil from which it came (Gen 3:19). "All they that go down to the dust shall bow before him" (Ps 22:29). (2d) There is also the idea of the "descent" of the human soul into the realm of the dead. When Jacob mourned over Joseph whom he thought to be dead, he said: "For I will go down into the grave unto my son mourning" (Gen 37:35). (2e) Since one can "descend" into Sheol alive as a form of punishment (Num 16:30), this phrase means more than the end of human life. (2f) This meaning is further established because Enoch was rewarded by being taken off the earth: "And Enoch walked with God: and he was not; for God took him" (Gen 5:24); he was rewarded by not having "to descend" into Sheol.

(3) Yarad may also be used of "coming down," when the emphasis is on "moving downward" toward the speaker: "And the Lord came down to see the city and the tower" of Babel (Gen 11:5—the first biblical occurrence). (4) This verb may also be used to express coming down from the top of a mountain, as Moses did when he "descended" from Sinai (Ex 19:14). (5) The word may be used of "dismounting" from a donkey: "And when Abigail saw David, she hasted, and lighted off the ass" (1 Sa 25:23). Abigail's entire body was not necessarily lower than before, so movement from a higher to a lower location is not indicated. However, she was no longer on the animal's back. So the verb here indicates "getting off" rather than getting down or descending. (6) In a somewhat related nuance, one may "get out" of bed. Elijah told Ahaziah: "Thou shalt not come down from that bed on which thou art gone up . . ." (2 Kin 1:4). Again, the idea is not of descending from something. When one comes down from a bed, he stands up; he is higher than he was while yet in the bed. Therefore, the meaning here is "get out of" rather than "descend."

(7) This verb is used also to describe what a beard does—it "hangs down" (Ps 133:2). (8) Yarad is used to indicate "coming away from" the altar: "And Aaron lifted up his hand toward the people, and blessed them, and came down from offering of the sin offering" (Lev 9:22). This special use is best seen as the opposite of "ascending to" the altar, which is not just a physical movement from a lower to a higher plane but a spiritual ascent to a higher realm of reality. (9) For example, to "ascend" before a king is to go into the presence of someone who is on a higher social level. (9a) "To ascend" before God (represented by the altar) is to go before Someone on a higher spiritual plane. (9b) To stand before God is to stand in His presence before His throne, on a higher spiritual plane. (10) Yarad may thus be used of the humbled approach before God. God tells Moses that all the Egyptians shall "come down" to Him and bow themselves before Him (Ex 11:8). (11) Equally interesting is the occasional use of the verb to represent "descending" to a known sanctuary (cf. 2 Kings 2:2).

(12) Figuratively, the verb has many uses. (12a) The "going down" of a city is its destruction (Deut 20:20). (12b) When a day "descends," it comes to an end (Judg 19:11). (12c) The "descent" of a shadow is its lengthening (2 Kin 20:11). (12d) Tears "flow down" the cheeks when one weeps bitterly (Jer 13:17). (13) Yarad is also used figuratively of a "descent in social position": "The stranger that is within thee shall get up above thee very high; and thou shalt come down very low" (Deut 28:43). (14) At least once the word means "to go up." Jephthah's daughter said: "Let me alone two months, that I may go up and down upon the mountains, and bewail my virginity" (Judg 11:37). See: TWOT—909; BDB—432c.

3382. יֶרֶד {7x} Yered, yeh'-red; from 3381; a descent; Jered, the name of an antediluvian, and of an Isr.:—Jared {2x}, Jarad {5x}. See: BDB—434b.

3383. יַרְדֵּן {182x} Yardên, yar-dane'; from 3381; a descender; Jarden, the principal river of Pal.:—Jordan {182x}. See: BDB—434c.

3384. יָרָה {84x} yârâh, yaw-raw'; or (2 Chron. 26:15)

יָרָא {84x} yârâ', yaw-raw'; a prim. root; prop. to flow as water (i.e. to rain); tran. to lay or throw (espec. an arrow, i.e. to shoot); fig. to point out (as if by aiming the finger), to teach:—teach {42x}, shoot {18x}, archers {5x}, cast {5x}, teacher {4x}, rain {2x}, laid {1x}, direct {1x}, inform {1x}, instructed {1x}, shewed {1x}, shooters {1x}, through {1x}, watered {1x}.

Yarah means to throw, cast (Gen 31:51), direct, teach (1 Sa 12:23), instruct, point out. Yara' means to cast, throw, teach, shoot, point out. (1) The basic meaning to cast is (1a) expressed in casting lots (Josh 18:6), by (1b) Pharaoh's army being cast into the sea (Ex 15:4), and (1c) a pillar cast: "And Laban said to Jacob, Behold this heap, and behold this pillar, which I have cast betwixt me and thee" (Gen 31:51). (2) The idea of "to throw" is easily extended to mean (2a) the shooting of arrows (1 Sa 20:36–37); and (2b) "to throw" seems to be further extended to mean "to point," by which fingers are thrown in a certain direction (Gen 46:28; Prov. 6:13). (3) From this it is easy to see the concept of teaching as the "pointing out" of fact and truth. (3a) Thus, Bezaleel was inspired by God "to teach" others his craftsmanship: "And he hath put in his heart that he may teach, both he, and Aholiab, the son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan" (Ex 35:34); (3b) the false prophets "teach" lies: "The ancient and honourable, he is the head; and the prophet that teacheth lies, he is the tail" (Is 9:15); and (3c) the father "taught" his son (Prov 4:4). (4) Yarah means "to teach" in 1 Sa 12:23: ". . . but I will teach you the good and the right way." (5) It was the responsibility of the priests to interpret and "to teach" those things that had to do with ceremonial requirements and God's judgments: "They shall teach Jacob thy judgments, and Israel thy law" (Deut 33:10; cf. Deut 17:10–11). Interestingly, priests at a later time were said "to teach" for hire, presumably "to teach" what was wanted rather than true interpretation of God's word (Mic 3:11). (6) The noun torah (8451) is derived from this root. Syn: 8451. See: TWOT—910; BDB—432b, 434d.

Yarash, as a verb, means "to inherit, subdue, take possession, dispossess, impoverish." (1) Basically yarash means "to inherit." The verb can connote the state of being designated as an heir. Abram said to God: "Behold, to me thou hast given no [offspring]: and, lo, one born in my house is mine heir [literally, "is the one who is inheriting me"]" (Gen 15:3—the first biblical occurrence of the word). (1a) Whatever Abram had to be passed on to his legal descendants was destined to be given to his servant. (1b) Hence his servant was his legally designated heir. (2) This root can also represent the status of having something as one's permanent possession, as a possession which may be passed on to one's legal descendants. God told Abram: "I am the Lord that brought thee out of Ur of the Chaldees, to give thee this land to inherit it" (Gen 15:7). (3) Yarash can mean "to take over as a permanent possession": "And if his father have no brethren, then ye shall give his inheritance unto his kinsman that is next to him of his family, and he shall possess it" (Num 27:11).

(4) The verb sometimes means to take something over (in the case of the Promised Land) by conquest as a permanent possession: "The Lord shall make the pestilence cleave unto thee, until he have consumed thee from off the land, whither thou goest to possess it" (Deut 28:21). (5) When people are the object, yarash sometimes means "to dispossess" in the sense of taking away their inheritable goods and putting them in such a social position that they cannot hold possessions or inherit permanent possessions: "The Horim also dwelt in Seir beforetime; but the children of Esau succeeded them, when they had destroyed them from before them, and dwelt in their stead" (Deut 2:12). (6) To cause someone to be dispossessed is "to impoverish" him: "The Lord maketh poor, and maketh rich . . ." (1 Sa 2:7), the Lord makes one to be without permanent inheritable possessions. See: TWOT—920; BDB—439a.

3424. יְרֻשָּׁה {2x} y^erêshâh, yer-ay-shaw'; from 3423; occupancy:—possession {2x}. Yereshah, which appears twice, means "something given as a permanent possession; to be taken over by conquest": "And Edom shall be a possession, Seir also shall be a possession for his enemies; and Israel shall do valiantly" (Num 24:18). See: TWOT—920a; BDB—440b.

3425. יְרֻשָּׁה {14x} y^erushshâh, yer-oosh-shaw'; from 3423; something occupied; a conquest; also a patrimony:—heritage {1x}, inheritance {1x}, possession {12x}.

Yerushshah occurs 14 times; it means (1) "to have as a possession": "Meddle not with them; for I will not give you of their land, no, not so much as a foot breadth; because I have given mount Seir unto Esau for a possession" (Deut 2:5), (2) "to be designated as a possession, to receive as a possession": "And the LORD said unto me, Distress not the Moabites, neither contend with them in battle: for I will not give thee of their land for a possession; because I have given Ar unto the children of Lot for a possession" (Deut 2:9). See: TWOT—920b; BDB—440b.

3426. יֵשׁ {133x} yêsh, yaysh; perh. from an unused root mean. to stand out, or exist; entity; used adv. or as a copula for the substantive verb (1961); there is or are (or any other form of the verb to be, as may suit the connection):—is {54x}, be {28x}, have {22x}, there {13x}, misc. {16x} = thou do, had, hast, (which) hath, substance, it was, ye will, thou wilt, wouldest.

Yesh means there is; substance; he/she/ it is/are. (1) This particle is used substantively only in Prov 8:21: ". . . That I may cause those that love me to inherit substance; and I will fill their treasures." (2) In all other appearances the word asserts existence with emphasis. (2a) Sometimes yesh appears with a predicate following, (2b) as it does in Gen 28:16: "And Jacob awaked out of his sleep, and he said, Surely the Lord is in this place; and I knew it not." (3) In a few passages the word is used as a response to an inquiry: "Is the seer here? And they [the young maidens] answered them, and said, He is; behold, he is before you" (1 Sa 9:11–12). (4) Used absolutely the word can mean "there is/are/was/were," as it does in Gen 18:24 (the first biblical appearance): "Peradventure there be fifty righteous within the city . . ." (5) In many contexts yesh used in framing questions or protestations suggests doubt that the matter queried exists or is to be found: (5a) "As the Lord thy God liveth, there is no nation or kingdom, whither my lord hath not sent to seek thee: and when they said, He is not there; he took an oath of the kingdom and nation, that they found thee not" (1 Kin 18:10).

(5b) This is especially clear in Jer 5:1, where God commands the prophet to go and seek "if ye can find a man, if there be any that executeth judgment, that seeketh the truth." (6) There are several other special uses of yesh. (6a) Used with the particle im (518) and a participle, it emphasizes abiding intention: "And I came this day unto the well, and said, O Lord God of my master Abraham, if now thou do prosper my way which I go [literally, if there surely is a prospering of my way; or if it surely is that you intend to prosper]" (Gen 24:42). (6b) Possession is sometimes indicated by yesh plus the preposition le: "And Esau said, I have enough, my brother . . ." (Gen 33:9). (6c) Used with the infinitive and the preposition le, yesh signifies possibility—Elisha told the Shunammite woman: "Behold, thou hast been careful for us with all this care; what is to be done for thee? wouldest thou be spoken for to the king, or to the captain of the host [is it possible that you want me to speak a word in your behalf to]?" (2 Kin 4:13). See: TWOT—921; BDB—441b, 930d, 1080a.

3427. יָשַׁב {1088x} yâshab, yaw-shab'; a prim. root; prop. to sit down (spec. as judgement in ambush, in quiet); by impl. to dwell, to remain; caus. to settle, to marry:—dwell {437x}, inhabitant {221x}, sit {172x}, abide {70x}, inhabit {39x}, down {26x}, remain {23x}, in {22x}, tarry {19x}, set {14x}, continue {5x}, place {7x}, still {5x}, taken {5x}, misc. {23x} = ease self, endure, establish, × fail, habitation, haunt, make to keep [house], lurking, × marry (-ing), return, seat.

I. Yashab, as a verb, means "to dwell, sit, abide, inhabit, remain." (1) Yashab is first used in Gen 4:16, in its most common connotation of (1a) "to dwell": "Cain went out . . . and dwelt in the land of Nod." (1b) The word appears again in Gen 18:1: "He [Abraham] sat in the tent door." (1c) In Gen 22:5, yashab is translated: "Abide ye here with the ass; and I and the lad will go yonder and worship." (1d) The word has the sense of "to remain": (1d1) "Remain a widow at thy father's house . . ." (Gen 38:11), and (1d2) it is used of God in a similar sense: "Thou, O Lord, remainest for ever; thy throne from generation to generation" (Lam 5:19). (1e) The promise of restoration from captivity was: "And they shall build houses and inhabit them . . ." (Is 65:21). (2) Yashab is sometimes combined with other words to form expressions in common usage. (2a) For example, "When he sitteth upon the throne of his kingdom" (Deut 17:18; cf. 1 Kin 1:13, 17, 24) carries the meaning "begins to reign." (2b) "To sit in the gate" means "to hold court" or "to decide a case," as in Ruth 4:1–2 and 1 Kin 22:10. (2c) "Sit thou at my right hand" (Ps 110:1) means to assume a ruling position as deputy. (2d) "There will I sit to judge all the heathen" (Joel 3:12) was a promise of eschatological judgment. (2e) "To sit in the dust" or "to sit on the ground" (Is 47:1) was a sign of humiliation and grief.

(3) Yashab is often used figuratively of God. The sentences, "I saw the Lord sitting on his throne" (1 Kin 22:19); "He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh" (Ps 2:4); and "God sitteth upon the throne of his holiness" (Ps 47:8) all describe God as the exalted Ruler over the universe. (4) The idea that God also "dwells" among men is expressed by this verb: "Shalt thou [David] build me a house for me to dwell in?" (2 Sa 7:5; cf. Ps 132:14). (5) The usage of yashab in such verses as 1 Sa 4:4: "The Lord of hosts, which dwelleth between the cherubim," describes His presence at the ark of the covenant in the tabernacle and the temple. (6) The word is also used to describe man's being in God's presence: (6a) "One thing have I desired of the Lord, . . . that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life . . ." (Ps 27:4; cf. Ps 23:6). (6b) "Thou shalt bring them in, and plant them in the mountain of thine inheritance, in the place, O Lord, which thou hast made for thee to dwell in" (Ex 15:17).

II. Yashab, as a participle, means "remaining; inhabitant." (1) This participle is sometimes used as a simple adjective: "Jacob was a plain man, dwelling in tents" (Gen 25:27). (2) But the word is more often used as in Gen 19:25: ". . . All the inhabitants of the cities." Syn: 4908, 7931. See: TWOT—922; BDB—442a, 1096b.

Yeshuw'ah, as a noun, means "deliverance." (1) This noun appears 78 times in the Old Testament, predominantly in the Book of Psalms (45 times) and Isaiah (19 times). (2) The first occurrence is in Jacob's last words: "I have waited for thy salvation, O Lord" (Gen 49:18). (3) "Salvation" in the Old Testament is not understood as a salvation from sin, since the word denotes broadly anything from which "deliverance" must be sought: distress, war, servitude, or enemies. (3a) There are both human and divine deliverers, but the word yeshuw'ah rarely refers to human "deliverance." (3b) A couple of exceptions are when Jonathan brought respite to the Israelites from the Philistine pressure (1 Sa 14:45), and when Joab and his men were to help one another in battle (2 Sa 10:11). (4) "Deliverance" is generally used with God as the subject. (4a) He is known as the salvation of His people: "But Jeshurun waxed fat, and kicked: thou art waxen fat, thou art grown thick, thou art covered with fatness; then he forsook God which made him, and lightly esteemed the Rock of his salvation" (Deut 32:15; cf. Is 12:2).

(4b) He worked many wonders in behalf of His people: "O sing unto the Lord a new song; for he hath done marvelous things: his right hand, and his holy arm, hath [worked salvation for him]" (Ps 98:1). (5) Yeshuw'ah occurs either in the context of rejoicing (Ps 9:14) or in the context of a prayer for "deliverance": "But I am poor and sorrowful: let thy salvation, O God, set me up on high" (Ps 69:29). (6) Habakkuk portrays the Lord's riding on chariots of salvation (3:8) to deliver His people from their oppressors: "Was the LORD displeased against the rivers? was thine anger against the rivers? was thy wrath against the sea, that thou didst ride upon thine horses and thy chariots of salvation?" (7) The worst reproach that could be made against a person was that God did not come to his rescue: "Many there be which say of my soul, there is no help for him in God [literally, "he has no deliverance in God"]" (Ps 3:2). (9) Many personal names contain a form of the root, such as Joshua ("the Lord is help"), Isaiah ("the Lord is help"), and Jesus (a Greek form of yeshu'ah). Syn: 3467, 5414, 8668. See: TWOT—929b; BDB—447b.

Yashar, as a verb, means "to be straight, be smooth, be right." (1) This verb, which occurs rarely, has many derivatives in the Bible. (2) One occurrence of the verb is in 1 Chr 13:4: "And all the congregation said that they would do so: for the thing was right in the eyes of all the people." In this usage yashar has the sense of being pleasing or agreeable. (3) In Hab. 2:4 the word implies an ethical uprightness: "Behold, his soul which is lifted up is not upright in him: but the just shall live by his faith." See: TWOT—930; BDB—448c.

3475. יֶשָׁר {1x} Yêsher, yay'-sher; from 3474; the right; Jesher, an Isr.:—Jesher {1x}. See: BDB—448c, 449c.

Yosher, as a noun, means "straightness." This noun occurs 14 times. One occurrence is in Prov 2:13: "Who leave the paths of uprightness, to walk in the ways of darkness." See: TWOT—930b; BDB—448c, 449c.

3477. יָשָׁר {119x} yâshâr, yaw-shawr'; from 3474; straight (lit. or fig.):—right {53x}, upright {42x}, righteous {9x}, straight {3x}, convenient {2x}, Jasher {2x}, equity {1x}, just {1x}, meet {1x}, meetest {1x}, upright ones {1x}, uprightly {1x}, uprightness {1x}, well {1x}.

Yashar, as an adjective, means "upright; right; righteous; just." (1) This adjective occurs first in Exodus in the idiom "right in his eyes": "[He] said, If thou wilt diligently hearken to the voice of the Lord thy God, and wilt do that which is right in his sight, and wilt give ear to his commandments, and keep all his statutes, I will put none of these diseases upon thee, which I have brought upon the Egyptians: for I am the Lord that healeth thee" (Ex 15:26). (2) Its usage is infrequent in the Pentateuch and in the prophetical writings. Predominantly a poetic term, yashar also occurs idiomatically ("to do what is right") in the historical books; cf. 1 Kin 15:5: "Because David did that which was right in the eyes of the Lord, and turned not aside from any thing that he commanded him all the days of his life, save only in the matter of Uriah the Hittite." (3) The basic meaning is the root meaning "to be straight" in the sense of "to be level." (3a) The legs of the creatures in Ezekiel's vision were straight (Eze 1:7).

(3b) The Israelites designated an easy road for traveling as a "level road." It had few inclines and declines compared to the mountain roads (cf. Jer 31:9: "They shall come with weeping, and with supplications will I lead them: I will cause them to walk by the rivers of water in a straight way, wherein they shall not stumble: for I am a father to Israel, and Ephraim is my firstborn"). (4) Yashar with the meaning "right" pertains to things and to abstracts. (4a) Samuel promised himself to instruct God's people in "the good and the right way" (1 Sa 12:23). (4b) Nehemiah thanked God for having given just ordinances: "Thou camest down also upon mount Sinai, and spakest with them from heaven, and gavest them right judgments, and true laws, good statutes and commandments" (Neh 9:13). (5) Based on His revelation God expected His people to please Him in being obedient to Him: "And thou shalt do that which is right and good in the sight of the Lord: that it may be well with thee, and that thou mayest go in and possess the good land which the Lord sware unto thy fathers" (Deut 6:18).

(6) When yashar pertains to people, it is best translated "just" or "upright." God is the standard of uprightness for His people: "Good and upright is the Lord: therefore will he teach sinners in the way" (Ps 25:8): His word (Ps 33:4), His judgments (Ps 19:9), and His ways (Hos 14:9). He will reveal His uprightness as a blessing to His people. (7) The believer follows Him in being "upright" in heart: "Be glad in the Lord, and rejoice, ye righteous; and shout for joy, all ye that are upright in heart" (Ps 32:11; cf. 7:10; 11:2). (7a) In their daily walk they manifest that they are walking on the narrow road: "The wicked have drawn out the sword, and have bent their bow, to cast down the poor and needy, and to slay such as be of upright conversation" (Ps 37:14). (7b) The "just" are promised God's blessing upon their lives (Prov 11:10–11). (8) Yashar is also the abstract "rightness," especially when the Hebrew word has the definite article (hayyashar, "the right"): "Hear this, I pray you, ye heads of the house of Jacob, and princes of the house of Israel, that abhor judgment, and pervert all equity [all that is right]" (Mic 3:9). See: TWOT—930a; BDB—449a.

Yathar, as a verb, means "to be left; remain over; excel; show excess." (1) Yathar occurs for the first time in the biblical text in Gen 30:36, (1a) where it is stated that "Jacob fed the rest of Laban's flocks." (1b) This statement reflects the word's frequent use to show separation from a primary group. (1c) Thus, Jacob "was left alone" (Gen 32:24) when his family and flocks went on beyond the brook Jabbok. (2) Sometimes the word indicates survivors, as in 2 Sa 9:1: "Is there yet any that is left of the house of Saul . . ." (3) The remnant idea is reflected in Eze 6:8: "Yet will I leave a remnant, that ye may have some that shall escape the sword." See: TWOT—936; 451a, 1096c.

Yether, as a noun, means "remainder; excess." (1) As "remainder, excess," it is used especially in the sense of a lesser number or quality as compared to something of primary importance. (1a) So, yether is used to refer to "the residue of the vessels that remain in this city" left in Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar (Jer 27:19–20), and (1b) the men who were left after Joab had assigned his picked men in the battle lines: "And the rest of the people he delivered into the hand of Abishai his brother, that he might put them in array against the children of Ammon" (2 Sa 10:10). (2) Occasionally yether is used to indicate "excess" in a negative way, so the literal "lip of excess" has the meaning of "lying lips": "Excellent speech becometh not a fool: much less do lying lips a prince" (Prov. 17:7). This is stressing that many times lying is adding to, instead of taking away from the truth. (3) A few times this noun implies "superiority" or "pre-eminence," as in Gen 49:3, where Jacob describes his son Reuben as being "Reuben, thou art my firstborn, my might, and the beginning of my strength, the excellency of dignity, and the excellency of power." (4) The name of Jethro (3503), Moses' father-in-law, is derived from this word. See: TWOT—936a; BDB—451d, 452a.

3500. יֶתֶר {9x} Yether, yeh'-ther; the same as 3499; Jether, the name of five or six Isr. and of one Midianite:—Jether {8x}, Jethro {1x}. See: BDB—452b. comp. 3503.

3513. כָּבַד {116x} kâbad, kaw-bad'; or

כָּבֵד kâbêd, kaw-bade'; a prim. root; to be heavy, i.e. in a bad sense (burdensome, severe, dull) or in a good sense (numerous, rich, honorable); caus. to make weighty (in the same two senses):—honour {34x}, glorify {14x}, honourable {14x}, heavy {13x}, harden {7x}, glorious {5x}, sore {3x}, made heavy {3x}, chargeable {2x}, great {2x}, many {2x}, heavier {2x}, promote {2x}, misc. {10x} = abounding with, more grievously afflict, boast, × be dim, be grievous, lade, × more be laid, nobles, prevail, be rich, stop.

Kabed means "to honor." (1) One occurrence of kabed is in Deut 5:16: "Honor thy father and thy mother, as the Lord thy God hath commanded thee. . . ." Syn.: 2388, 7185, 7188, 8631. See: TWOT—943; BDB—457a.

3514. כֹּבֶד {4x} kôbed, ko'-bed; from 3513; weight, multitude, vehemence:—grievousness {1x}, heavy {2x}, great number {1x}. See: TWOT—943c; BDB—458c.

3515. כָּבֵד {38x} kâbêd, kaw-bade'; from 3513; heavy; fig. in a good sense (numerous) or in a bad sense (severe, difficult, stupid):—great {8x}, grievous {8x}, heavy {8x}, sore {4x}, hard {2x}, much {2x}, slow {2x}, hardened {1x}, heavier {1x}, laden {1x}, thick {1x}.

Kabed means "heavy; numerous; severe; rich." (1) Basically this adjective connotes "heavy." In Ex 17:12 the word is used of physical weight: "But Moses' hands were heavy; and they took a stone, and put it under him, and he sat thereon; and Aaron and Hur stayed up his hands." (2) This adjective bears the connotation of heaviness as an enduring, ever-present quality, a lasting thing. (3) Used in a negative but extended sense, the word depicts sin as a yoke ever pressing down upon one: "For mine iniquities are gone over mine head: as a heavy burden they are too heavy for me" (Ps 38:4). (4) A task can be described as "heavy" (Ex 18:18). (4a) Moses argued his inability to lead God's people out of Egypt because he was "slow of speech, and of a slow tongue"; (4b) his speech or tongue was not smooth-flowing but halting (heavy; Ex 4:10). (4c) This use of kabed appears with an explanation in Eze 3:6, where God is describing the people to whom Ezekiel is to minister: ". . . not to many people of a strange speech and of a hard language, whose words thou canst not understand."

(5) Another nuance of this word appears in Ex 7:14, where it is applied to Pharaoh's heart: "Pharaoh's heart is hardened, he refuseth to let the people go." (6) In all such contexts kabed depicts a burden which weighs down one's body (or some part of it) so that one is either disabled or unable to function successfully. (7) A second series of passages uses this word of something that falls upon or overcomes one. (7a) So God sent upon Egypt a "heavy" hail (Ex 9:18), a "great" swarm of insects (8:24), "numerous" locusts, and a "severe" pestilence (9:3). (7b) The first appearance of the word belongs to this category: "The famine was [severe] in the land" of Egypt (Gen 12:10). (8) Used with a positive connotation, kabed can describe the amount of "riches" one has: "And Abram was very rich in cattle, in silver, and in gold" (Gen 13:2). (8a) This usage vividly illustrates the basic implications of the word. (8b) Whenever kabed is used, it reflects the idea of "weightiness," or that which is added to something else. Thus, to be "very rich" means that Abram was heavily "weighted down" with wealth. (8c) This idea also explains how the word can be used to indicate the state of "being honored" or "glorious," for honor and glory are additional qualities that are added to a person or thing.

(9) In Gen 50:9 the word is used to modify a group of people, (9a) "a very great company." (9b) The next verse uses kabed in the sense of "imposing" or "ponderous": "They mourned with a great and very sore lamentation." (10) This adjective is never used of God. (11) "To be heavy" includes negative as well as positive aspects. (11a) Thus, calamity is "heavier than the sand of the sea" (Job 6:3), and the hand of God is "very heavy" in punishing the Philistines (1 Sa 5:11). (11b) Bondage and heavy work are "heavy" on the people (Ex 5:9; Neh 5:18). (11c) Eyes (Gen 48:10) and ears (Is 59:1) that have become insensitive, or "dull," have had debilitating conditions added to them, whether through age or other causes. (11d) The heart of a man may become excessively "weighted" with stubbornness and thus become "hardened" (Ex 9:7).

(12) "To honor" or "glorify" anything is to add something which it does not have in itself, or that which others can give. (12a) Children are commanded to "honor" their parents (Ex 20:12; Deut 5:16); (12b) Balak promised "honor" to Balaam (Num 22:17); (12c) Jerusalem (Lam 1:8) and the Sabbath (Is 58:13) are "honored" or "made glorious." (12d) Above all, "honor" and "glory" are due to God, as repeatedly commanded in the biblical text: (12d1) "Honor the Lord with thy substance" (Prov 3:9); (12d2) "Let the Lord be glorified" (Is 66:5); (12d3) "Glorify ye the Lord" (Isa. 24:15). (13) Kabed is also the Hebrew word for "liver," apparently reflecting the sense that the liver is the heaviest of the organs of the body. See: TWOT—943a; BDB—458a, 1096b.

3516. כָּבֵד {1x} kâbêd, kaw-bade'; the same as 3515; the liver (as the heaviest of the viscera):—liver {1x}. See: TWOT—943b; BDB—458b.

כָּבֹד kâbôd. See 3519.

3517. כִּבְדָה {1x} k^{e}bêdûth, keb-ay-dooth'; fem. of 3515; difficulty:—× heavily {1x}. See: TWOT—943g; BDB—459c.

3518. כָּבָה {24x} kâbâh, kaw-baw'; a prim. root; to expire or (caus.) to extinguish (fire, light, anger):—go (put) out {7x}, quench {8x}, quenched {9x}. See: TWOT—944; BDB—459c.

3519. כָּבוֹד {200x} kâbôwd, kaw-bode'; rarely כָּבֹד kâbôd, kaw-bode'; from 3513; prop. weight, but only fig. in a good sense, splendor or copiousness:—glory {156x}, honour {32x}, glorious {10x}, gloriously {1x}, honourable {1x}.

Kabod means "honor; glory; great quantity; multitude; wealth; reputation [majesty]; splendor."(1) Kabod refers to the great physical weight or "quantity" of a thing. (2) In Nah 2:9 one should read: "For there is no limit to the treasure—a great quantity of every kind of desirable object." (3) Is 22:24 likens Eliakim to a peg firmly anchored in a wall upon which is hung "all the [weighty things] of his father's house." (4) This meaning is required in Hos 9:11, where kabod represents a great crowd of people or "multitude": "As for Ephraim, their [multitude] shall fly away. . . ." (5) The word does not mean simply "heavy," but a heavy or imposing quantity of things. (6) Kabod often refers to both "wealth" and significant and positive "reputation" (in a concrete sense). (6a) Laban's sons complained that "Jacob hath taken away all that was our father's; and of that which was our father's hath he gotten all this [wealth]" (Gen 31:1—the first biblical occurrence). (6b) The second emphasis appears in Gen 45:13, where Joseph told his brothers to report to his "father . . . all my [majesty] in Egypt." Here this word includes a report of his position and the assurance that if the family came to Egypt, Joseph would be able to provide for them.

(7) Trees, forests, and wooded hills have an imposing quality, a richness or "splendor." God will punish the king of Assyria by destroying most of the trees in his forests, "and shall consume the glory of his forest, . . . and the rest of the trees of his forest shall be few, that a child may write them" (Is 10:18–19). (8) In Ps 85:9 the idea of richness or abundance predominates: (8a) "Surely his salvation is nigh them that fear him; that glory [or abundance] may dwell in our land." (8b) This idea is repeated in Ps 85:12: "Yea, the Lord shall give that which is good; and our land shall yield her increase." (9) Kabod can also have an abstract emphasis of "glory," imposing presence or position. Phinehas' wife named their son Ichabod, "saying, The glory is departed from Israel: because the ark of God was taken, and because of her father-in-law and her husband" (they, the high priests, had died; 1 Sa 4:21). (10) In Is 17:3 kabod represents the more concrete idea of a fullness of things including fortified cities, sovereignty (self-rule), and people.

(11) Among such qualities is "honor," or respect and position. In Is 5:13 this idea of "honor" is represented by kabod: ". . . And their [my people's] honorable men are famished, and their multitude dried up with thirst." (12) Thus the word kabod and its parallel (the multitude) represent all the people of Israel: the upper classes and the common people. (13) In many passages the word represents a future rather than a present reality: "In that day shall the branch of the Lord be beautiful and glorious" (Is 4:2). (14) When used in the sense of "honor" or "importance" (cf. Gen 45:13) there are two nuances of the word. (14a) First, kabod can emphasize the position of an individual within the sphere in which he lives (Prov 11:16). (14a1) This "honor" can be lost through wrong actions or attitudes (Prov 26:1, 8) and evidenced in proper actions (Prov 20:3; 25:2). (14a2) This emphasis then is on a relationship between personalities. (14b) Second, there is a suggestion of nobility in many uses of the word, such as "honor" that belongs to a royal family (1 Kin 3:13). Thus, kabod can be used of the social distinction and position of respect enjoyed by nobility.

(15) When applied to God, the word represents a quality corresponding to Him and by which He is recognized. (15a) Joshua commanded Achan to give glory to God, to recognize His importance, worth, and significance (Josh 7:19). (15b) In this and similar instances "giving honor" refers to doing something; what Achan was to do was to tell the truth. (16) In other passages giving honor to God is a cultic recognition and confession of God as God (Ps 29:1). (16a) Some have suggested that such passages celebrate the sovereignty of God over nature wherein the celebrant sees His "glory" and confesses it in worship. (16b) In other places the word is said to point to God's sovereignty over history and specifically to a future manifestation of that "glory" (Is 40:5). (16c) Still other passages relate the manifestation of divine "glory" to past demonstrations of His sovereignty over history and peoples (Ex 16:7; 24:16). Syn.: 1926. See: TWOT—943d, 943e; BDB—458c.

Kabac means to wash [possibly by treading upon clothes in water]. (1) A common term throughout the history of Hebrew for the "washing" of clothes, this word is found also in ancient Ugaritic and Akkadian, reflecting the treading aspect. (2) It is found for the first time in the Old Testament in Gen 49:11 as part of Jacob's blessing on Judah: "He washed his garments in wine. . . ." (3) The word is used in the Old Testament primarily in the sense of "washing" clothes, both (3a) for ordinary cleansing: "And Mephibosheth the son of Saul came down to meet the king, and had neither dressed his feet, nor trimmed his beard, nor washed his clothes, from the day the king departed until the day he came again in peace" (2 Sa 19:24), and (3b) for ritual cleansing: "And the LORD said unto Moses, Go unto the people, and sanctify them to day and tomorrow, and let them wash their clothes" (Ex 19:10; cf. Lev 11:25).

(4) It is often used in parallelism with the expression "to wash oneself," as in Lev 14:8–9 "And he that is to be cleansed shall wash his clothes, and shave off all his hair, and wash himself in water, that he may be clean: and after that he shall come into the camp, and shall tarry abroad out of his tent seven days. But it shall be on the seventh day, that he shall shave all his hair off his head and his beard and his eyebrows, even all his hair he shall shave off: and he shall wash his clothes, also he shall wash his flesh in water, and he shall be clean." (5) Kabac is used in the sense of "washing" or "bathing" oneself only in the figurative sense and in poetic usage, as in Jer 4:14: "O Jerusalem, wash thine heart from wickedness, that thou mayest be saved." Syn.: 7364. See: TWOT—946; BDB—460a.

3527. כָּבַר {1x} kâbar, kaw-bar'; a prim. root; prop. to plait together, i.e. (fig.) to augment (espec. in number or quantity, to accumulate):—in abundance, multiply {1x}. See: TWOT—947; BDB—460b.

Kebes means "lamb (male); kid." (1) The kebes is a "young lamb" which is nearly always used for sacrificial purposes. (2) The first usage in Exodus pertains to the Passover: "Your lamb shall be without blemish, a male of the first year: ye shall take it out from the sheep, or from the goats" (Ex 12:5). (3) The word gedi (1423), "kid," is a synonym for kebes: "The wolf also shall dwell with the lamb [kebes], and the leopard shall lie down with the kid [gedi]; and the calf and the young lion and the fatling together; and a little child shall lead them" (Is 11:6). (4) The traditional translation "lamb" leaves the gender uncertain. In Hebrew the word kebes is masculine, whereas the kibshah (3535), "young ewe lamb," is feminine; cf. "And Abraham set seven ewe lambs of the flock by themselves" (Gen 21:28). Syn.: 1423, 2924, 3535, 3775, 7716. See: TWOT—949; BDB—461a.

Kahan means "to act as a priest." (1) This verb, which appears 23 times in biblical Hebrew, is derived from the noun kohen (3548). (2) The verb appears only in the intensive stem. (3) One occurrence is in Ex 28:1: "And take thou unto thee Aaron thy brother, and his sons with him, from among the children of Israel, that he may minister unto me in the priest's office." See: TWOT—959; BDB—464c.

3548. כֹּהֵן {750x} kôhên, ko-hane'; act. part. of 3547; lit. one officiating, a priest; also (by courtesy) an acting priest (although a layman):—priest {744x}, own {2x}, chief ruler {2x}, officer {1x}, princes {1x}.

Kohen means "priest." (1) This word is found 750 times in the Old Testament. (1a) More than one-third of the references to the "priests" are found in the Pentateuch. (1b) Leviticus, which has about 185 references, is called the "manual of the priests." (2) The term kohen was used to refer not only to the Hebrew priesthood but to Egyptian "priests" (Gen 41:50; 46:20; 47:26), the Philistine "priests" (1 Sa 6:2), the "priests" of Dagon (1 Sa 5:5), "priests" of Baal (2 Kin 10:19), "priests" of Chemosh (Jer 48:7), and "priests" of the Baalim and Asherim (2 Chr 34:5). (2a) Joseph married the daughter of the "priest" of On (Gen 41:45), and she bore him two sons, Ephraim and Manasseh (Gen 46:20). (2b) Joseph did not purchase the land of the "priests" of Egypt, because the Egyptian "priests" received regular allotments from Pharaoh (Gen 47:22). (3) A "priest" is an authorized minister of deity who officiates at the altar and in other cultic rites. A "priest" performs sacrificial, ritualistic, and mediatorial duties; he represents the people before God. By contrast, a "prophet" is an intermediary between God and the people.

(4) The Jewish priestly office was established by the Lord in the days of Moses. (4a) But prior to the institution of the high priesthood and the priestly office, we read of the priesthood of Melchizedek (Gen 14:18) and of Midianite "priests" (Ex 2:16; 3:1; 18:1). (4b) In Ex 19:24, other "priests" are mentioned: these may have been either Midianite "priests" or "priests" in Israel prior to the official establishment of the Levitical priesthood. (4c) No doubt priestly functions were performed in pre-Mosaic times by the head of the family, such as Noah, Abraham, and Job. (4c1) After the Flood, for example, Noah built an altar to the Lord (Gen 8:20–21). (4c2) At Bethel, Mamre, and Moriah, Abraham built altars. In Gen 22:12–13, we read that Abraham was willing to offer his son as a sacrifice. (4c3) Job offered up sacrifices for his sinning children (Job 1:5). (5) The priesthood constituted one of the central characteristics of Old Testament religion. A passage showing the importance of the priesthood is Num 16:5–7: "And he spake unto Korah and unto all his company, saying, Even tomorrow the Lord will show who are his, and who is holy; and will cause him to come near unto him: even him whom he hath chosen will he cause to come near unto him. This do; Take you censers, Korah, and all his company; And put fire therein, and put incense in them before the Lord . . . the man whom the Lord doth choose, he shall be holy."

(6) God established Moses, Aaron, and Aaron's sons Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar as "priests" in Israel (Ex 28:1, 41; 29:9, 29–30). (6a) Because Nadab and Abihu were killed when they "offered strange fire before the Lord," (6b) the priesthood was limited to the lines of Eleazar and Ithamar (Lev 10:1–2; Num 3:4; 1 Chr 24:2). (6c) However, not all individuals born in the family of Aaron could serve as "priest." (6c1) Certain physical deformities excluded a man from that perfection of holiness which a "priest" should manifest before Yahweh (Lev 21:17–23). (6c2) A "priest" who was ceremonially unclean was not permitted to perform his priestly duties. (6c3) Lev 21:1–15 gives a list of ceremonial prohibitions that forbade a "priest" from carrying out his duties.

(7) Ex 29:1–37 and Lev 8 describe the seven day consecration ceremony of Aaron and his sons. (7a) Both the high priest (kohen haggadol) and his sons were washed with water (Ex 29:4). (7b) Then Aaron the high priest dressed in holy garments with a breastplate over his heart, and there was placed on his head a holy crown—the mitre or turban (Ex 29:5–6). (7c) After that, Aaron was anointed with oil on his head (Ex 29:7; cf. Ps 133:2). (7d) Finally, the blood of a sacrificial offering was applied to Aaron and his sons (Ex 29:20–21). The consecrating bloodmark was placed upon the tip of the right ear, on the thumb of the right hand, and on the great toe of the right foot.

(8) The duties of the priesthood were very clearly defined by the Mosaic law. (8a) These duties were assumed on the eighth day of the service of consecration (Lev 9:1). (8b) The Lord told Aaron: "Therefore thou and thy sons with thee shall keep your priest's office for every thing of the altar, and within the veil; and ye shall serve . . ." (Num 18:7). (9) The "priests" were to act as teachers of the Law (Lev 10:10–11; Deut 33:10; 2 Chr 5:3; 17:7–9; Eze 44:23; Mal 2:6–9), a duty they did not always carry out (Mic 3:11; Mal 2:8). (10) In certain areas of health and jurisprudence, "priests" served as limited revelators of God's will. (10a) For example, it was the duty of the "priest" to discern the existence of leprosy and to perform the rites of cleansing (Lev 13—14). (10b) Priests determined punishments for murder and other civil matters (Deut 21:5; 2 Chr 19:8–11). Kuwn, as a verb, means "to be established, be readied, be prepared, be certain, be admissible." (1) This root used concretely connotes being firmly established, being firmly anchored and being firm. (1a) The first meaning is applied to a roof which is "firmly established" on pillars. So Samson said to the lad who was leading him: "Suffer me that I may feel the pillars whereupon the house standeth, that I may lean upon them" (Judg 16:26). (1b) In a similar sense the inhabited earth "is firmly established or anchored"; it is immovable: "The world also is established, that it cannot be moved" (Ps 93:1). (1c) In Ps 75:3 the image shifts to the earth "firmly established" upon pillars. (1d) In Ps 65:6 the divine establishing of the mountains is synonymous with divine creating. (2) The verb also means "to be firm": "I have caused thee to multiply as the bud of the field, and thou hast increased and waxen great, and thou art come to excellent ornaments: thy breasts are fashioned [kuwn], and thine hair is grown, whereas thou wast naked and bare" (Eze 16:7).

(3) Used abstractly, kuwn can refer to a concept as "established," or "fixed" so as to be unchanging and unchangeable: "And for that the dream was doubled unto Pharaoh twice; it is because the thing is established by God, and God will shortly bring it to pass" (Gen 41:32—the first occurrence of the word). (3a) In somewhat the same sense one can speak of the light of day "being firmly established," or having fully arrived: "But the path of the just is as the shining light, that shineth more and more unto the perfect day" (Prov 4:18). (3b) Kuwn can be used of the "establishing" of one's descendants, of seeing them prosperous (Job 21:8). (4) Something can be "fixed" in the sense of "being prepared or completed": "Now all the work of Solomon was prepared unto the day of the foundation of the house of the Lord" (2 Chr 8:16). (5) An "established" thing can be something that is enduring. (5a) In 1 Sa 20:31 Saul tells Jonathan: "For as long as the son of Jesse liveth upon the ground, thou shalt not be established, nor thy kingdom." (5b) Truthful lips (what they say) "shall be established," or will endure forever (Prov 12:19). (5c) One's plans "will endure" (be established) if he commits his works to the Lord (Prov 16:3).

(6) Kuwn can also mean "to be established" in the sense of "being ready." (6a) So Josiah told the people "to prepare" themselves for the Passover (2 Chr 35:4). (6b) This same sense appears in Ex 19:11 "And be ready against the third day: for the third day the Lord will come down in the sight of all the people upon mount Sinai." (7) A somewhat different nuance appears in Job 18:12; Bildad says that wherever godlessness breaks out, there is judgment: "Destruction shall be ready at his side." That is, calamity is "fixed or prepared" so that it exists potentially even before godlessness breaks out. (8) Something "fixed" or "established" can "be certain": "Then shalt thou inquire, and make search, and ask diligently; and, behold, if it be truth, and the thing certain . . ." (Deut 13:14). (9) In a somewhat different nuance the thing can be trustworthy or true. The psalmist says of the wicked that "there is no faithfulness in their mouth" (Ps 5:9). A further development of this emphasis is that a matter "may be admissible"—so Moses said to Pharaoh: "It is not meet so to do; for we shall sacrifice the abomination of the Egyptians to the Lord our God" (Ex 8:26). (10) When one "fixes" an arrow on the bow, he takes aim or "prepares" to shoot his bow (cf. Ps 7:12). Syn.: 724, 3615, 3634. See: TWOT—964; BDB—465c.

Kowach (3581)means "strength; power; force; ability." (1) Kowach, which occurs 126 times, is a poetic word as it is used most frequently in the poetic and prophetical literature. (2)

The basic meaning of kowach is an ability to do something. (1a) Samson's "strength" lay in his hair (Judg 16:5), and we must keep in mind that his "strength" had been demonstrated against the Philistines. (1b) Nations and kings exert their "powers" (Josh 17:17; Dan 8:24). (1c) It is even possible to say that a field has kowach, as it does or does not have vital "powers" to produce and harvest: "When thou tillest the ground, it shall not henceforth yield unto thee her strength [i.e., crops]" (Gen 4:12—the first occurrence). (2) In the Old Testament it is recognized that by eating one gains "strength" (1 Sa 28:22), whereas one loses one's "abilities" in fasting (1Sa 28:20); "And he arose, and did eat and drink, and went in the strength of that meat forty days and forty nights unto Horeb the mount of God" (1 Kin 19:8). (3) The above definition of kowach fits well in the description of Daniel and his friends: (3a) "Children in whom was no blemish, but well-favored, and skillful in all wisdom, and cunning in knowledge, and understanding science, and such as had ability [kowach] in them to stand in the king's palace, and whom they might teach the learning and the tongue of the Chaldeans" (Dan 1:4).

(3b) The "ability" is here not physical but mental. (3c) They were talented in having the intellectual acumen of learning the skills of the Babylonians and thus training for being counselors to the king. (4) The internal fortitude was best demonstrated by the difficulties and frustrations of life. A strong man withstood hard times. The proverb bears out this important teaching: "If thou faint in the day of adversity, thy strength is small" (Prov 24:10). (5) A special sense of kowach is the meaning "property." (5a) The results of native "abilities," the development of special gifts, and the manifestation of one's "strength" led often to prosperity and riches. (5b) Those who returned from the Exile gave willingly out of their riches (kowach) to the building fund of the temple (Ezr 2:69). (5c) A proverb warns against adultery, because one's "strength," or one's wealth, may be taken by others: "Lest strangers be filled with thy wealth [kowach]; and thy labors be in the house of a stranger" (Prov 5:10). (6) In the Old Testament, God had demonstrated His "strength" to Israel. (6a) The language of God's "strength" is highly metaphorical. (6a1) God's right hand gloriously manifests His "power" (Ex 15:6). (6a2) His voice is loud: "The voice of the Lord is powerful; the voice of the Lord is full of majesty" (Ps 29:4).

(6b) In His "power," He delivered Israel from Egypt (Ex 32:11) and brought them through the Red Sea (Ex 15:6; cf. Num 14:13). (6c) Even as He advances the rights of the poor and needy

(Is 50:2), He brought the Israelites as a needy people into the Promised Land with His "power": "He hath showed his people the power of his works, that he may give them the heritage of the heathen" (Ps 111:6). (7) He delights in helping His people; however, the Lord does not tolerate self-sufficiency on man's part. (7a) Isaiah rebuked the king of Assyria for his arrogance in claiming to have been successful in his conquests (10:12–14), and he remarked that the axe (Assyria) should not boast over the one who chops (God) with it (v. 15). (7b) Likewise God had warned His people against pride in taking the land of Canaan: "And thou say in thine heart, My power [kowach] and the might of mine hand hath gotten me this wealth. But thou shalt remember the Lord thy God: for it is he that giveth thee power [kowach] to get wealth, that he may establish his covenant which he sware unto thy fathers, as it is this day" (Deut 8:17–18). (8) The believer must learn to depend upon God and trust in Him: "This is the word of the Lord unto Zerubbabel, saying, Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord of hosts" (Zec 4:6). See: TWOT—973.1; BDB—470a, 470b, 470c.

3605. כֹּל {25x} kôl, kole; or (Jer. 33:8)

כּוֹל kôwl, kole; from 3634; prop. the whole; hence, all, any or every (in the sing. only, but often in a plur. sense):—{25x} = (in) all (manner, [ye]), altogether, any (manner), enough, every (one, place, thing), howsoever, as many as, [no-] thing, ought, whatsoever, (the) whole, whoso (-ever).

Kowl, as a noun, means "all; the whole." (1) The word can be used alone, meaning "the entirety," "whole," or "all," as in: "And thou shalt put all [kowl] in the hands of Aaron, and in the hands of his sons" (Ex 29:24). (2) Kowl can signify everything in a given unit whose members have been selected from others of their kind: "That the sons of God saw the daughters of men that they were fair; and they took them wives of all which they chose" (Gen 6:2). See: TWOT—985a; BDB—481a, 1097a.

Kol, as an adjective, means "all; whole; entirety; every; each." (1) When kol precedes a noun, it expresses a unit and signifies the whole: "These are the three sons of Noah: and of them was the whole (kol) earth overspread" (Gen 9:19). (2) Kol may also signify the entirety of a noun that does not necessarily represent a unit: "All the people, both small and great" entered into the covenant (2 Kin 23:2). The use of the word in such instances tends to unify what is not otherwise a unit. (3) Kol can precede a word that is only part of a larger unit or not part of a given unit at all. (3a) In this case, the prominent idea is that of "plurality," a heterogeneous unit: "And it came to pass from the time that he had made him overseer in his house, and over all that he had, that the Lord blessed the Egyptian's house for Joseph's sake; and the blessing of the Lord was upon all that he had in the house, and in the field" (Gen 39:5). (3b) Related to the preceding nuance is the use of kol to express comprehensiveness. (3b1) Not only does it indicate that the noun modified is a plurality, but also that the unit formed by the addition of kol includes everything in the category indicated by the noun: "All the cities were ten with their suburbs for the families of the children of Kohath that remained" (Josh 21:26).

(3b2) In Gen 1:21 (its first occurrence), the word precedes a collective noun and may be translated "every": "And God created great whales, and every living creature that moveth, . . ." (4) When used to refer to the individual members of a group, kol means "every": (4a) "His hand will be against every man, and every man's hand against him" (Gen 16:12). (4b) Another example: "Thy princes are rebellious, and companions of thieves: every one loveth gifts, and followeth after rewards" (Is 1:23). (4c) Related to this use is the meaning "none but." (5) In Deut 19:15, kol means "every kind of" or "any"; the word focuses on each and every member of a given unit: (5a) "One witness shall not rise up against a man for any iniquity, or for any sin, in any sin that he sinneth." (5b) A related nuance appears in Gen 24:10, but here the emphasis is upon "all sorts": "And the servant took ten camels of the camels of his master, and departed; for all [i.e., a variety of] the goods of his master were in his hand." See: TWOT—2789; BDB—1096d, 1097a.

3607. כָּלָא {18x} kâlâ', kaw-law'; a prim. root; to restrict, by act (hold back or in) or word (prohibit):—shut up {4x}, stayed {3x}, refrained {2x}, restrained {2x}, withhold {2x}, כָּלֵבִי Kâlêbîy, kaw-lay-bee'; patron. from 3612; a Calebite or desc. of Caleb:—of the house of Caleb {1x}. See: BDB—477a.

3615. כָּלָה {206x} kâlâh, kaw-law'; a prim. root; to end, whether intr. (to cease, be finished, perish) or tran. (to complete, prepare, consume):—consume {57x}, end {44x}, finish {20x}, fail {18x}, accomplish {12x}, done {9x}, spend {8x}, ended {7x}, determined {4x}, away {3x}, fulfil {3x}, fainteth {2x}, destroy {2x}, left {2x}, waste {2x}, misc. {13x} = cease, expire, × fully, × have, long, bring to pass, wholly reap, make clean riddance, quite take away.

Kalah (3615), as a noun, means "to cease, be finished, perish, be completed." (1) Basically, the word means "to cease or stop." (1a) Kalah may refer to the "end" of a process or action, such as the cessation of God's creating the universe: "And on the seventh day God ended his work which he had made . . ." (Gen 2:2—the first occurrence of the word). (1b) The word can also refer to the "disappearance" of something: "And the water was spent in the bottle . . ." (Gen 21:15). (1c) Finally, kalah can be used of "coming to an end" or "the process of ending": "The barrel of meal shall not waste" (1 Kin 17:14). (2) Kalah can have the more positive connotation of "successfully completing" something. (2a) First Kings 6:38 says that the house of the Lord was "finished throughout all the parts thereof, and according to all [its plans]." (2b) In this same sense, the word of the Lord "is fulfilled": "Now in the first year of Cyrus king of Persia, that the word of the Lord by the mouth of Jeremiah might be fulfilled, the Lord stirred up the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia, that he made a proclamation" (Ezr 1:1). (3) Kalah sometimes means "making a firm decision." David tells Jonathan that if Saul is very angry, "be sure that evil is determined by him" (1 Sa 20:7).

(4) Negatively, "to complete" something may mean "to make it vanish" or "go away." (4a) Kalah is used in this sense in Deut 32:23, when God says: "I will heap mischiefs upon them; I will spend mine arrows upon them." In other words, His arrows will "vanish" from His possession. (4b) This nuance is used especially of clouds: "As the cloud is consumed and vanisheth away . . ." (Job 7:9). (4c) Another negative nuance is to "destroy" something or someone: "the famine shall consume the land" (Gen 41:30). (4d) Along this same line is the use of kalah in Is 1:28: "They that forsake the Lord shall be consumed"; here, however, the verb is a synonym for "dying" or "perishing." (4e) One's sight may also "vanish" and one may go blind: "But the eyes of the wicked shall fail, and they shall not escape" (Job 11:20). (5) An altogether different emphasis appears when one's heart comes "to an end" or "stops within": "My soul longeth, yea, even fainteth for the courts of the Lord" (Ps 84:2); the psalmist probably meant that his desire for God's presence was so intense that nothing else had any meaning for him—he "died" to be there. (6) It can mean successfully completing something: "And in the eleventh year, in the month Bul, which is the eighth month, was the house finished throughout all the parts thereof, and according to all the fashion of it. So was he seven years in building it" (1 Kin 6:38). (7) The word of the Lord "is fulfilled" (Ezr 1:1). (8) It can mean making a firm decision: "If he say thus, It is well; thy servant shall have peace: but if he be very wroth, then be sure that evil is determined by him" (1 Sa 20:7). (9) Negatively, to complete something may mean "to make it vanish" or "go away" (Deut 32:23; clouds – Job 7:9). See: TWOT—982, 983, 984; BDB—477b.

3627. כְּלִי {325x} k^elîy, kel-ee'; from 3615; something prepared, i.e. any apparatus (as an implement, utensil, dress, vessel or weapon):—vessel {166x}, instrument {39x}, weapon {21x}, jewel {21x}, armourbearer + 5375 {18x}, stuff {14x}, thing {11x}, armour {10x}, furniture {7x}, carriage {3x}, bag {2x}, misc. {13x} = artillery, + furnish, that is made of, × one from another, that which pertaineth, pot, + psaltery, sack, tool, ware, + whatsoever.

Keliy means "vessel; receptacle; stuff clothing; utensil; tool; instrument; ornament or jewelry; armor or weapon." (1) This word is used of "receptacles" of various kinds used for storing and transporting. Thus Jacob said to Laban: "Whereas thou hast searched through all my stuff [literally, receptacles], what hast thou found of all thy household stuff [literally, from all the receptacles of thy house]?" (Gen 31:37). (1a) Such "receptacles" may be made of wood (Lev 11:32) or potsherd or clay (Lev 6:28). (1b) They may be used to hold documents (Jer 32:14), wine, oil, fruits (Jer 40:10), food (Eze 4:9), beverage (Ruth 2:9), or bread (1 Sa 9:7). (1c) Even a shepherd's bag is a keliy (1 Sa 17:40). (1d) In 1 Sa 17:22 the word is used of baggage, or "receptacles" (his shepherd's bag?) and what is in them: "And David left his carriage in the hand of the [baggage keeper]. . . ." (1e) The sailors on the ship in which Jonah sailed "cast forth the wares [cargo] . . . into the sea, to lighten it of them" (Jonah 1:5). (2) Ships are called "receptacles," presumably because they can hold people: "That sendeth ambassadors by the sea, even in vessels of bulrushes upon the waters . . ." (Is 18:2). (3) Keliy can mean "clothing": "The woman shall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, neither shall a man put on a woman's garment: for all that do so are abomination unto the Lord thy God" (Deut 22:5).

(4) The word may be used of various "vessels and utensils": "And the four tables were of hewn stone for the burnt offering . . . : whereupon also they laid the instruments wherewith they slew the burnt offering and the sacrifice" (Eze 40:42). (5) In Gen 45:20 this word refers to movable but large possessions: Pharaoh told Joseph to tell his brothers to take wagons and bring their family to Egypt, and "regard not your stuff; for the good of all the land of Egypt is yours." (6) Thus in Ex 27:19 the word represents all the furniture and utensils of the tabernacle (cf. Num 3:8). (7) Samuel warned Israel that the king on whom they insisted would organize them into levees (work crews) "to [plow] his ground, and to reap his harvest, and to make his instruments of war, and instruments of his chariots" (1 Sa 8:12). (8) More narrowly, keliy may be used of oxen harnesses: "Behold, here be oxen for burnt sacrifice, and threshing instruments and other instruments of the oxen for wood" (2 Sa 24:22). (9) This word may be used of various "implements or tools": "Simeon and Levi are brethren instruments of cruelty in their habitations" (Gen 49:5). (10) In Jer 22:7 the word represents "tools" with which trees may be cut down: "And I will prepare destroyers against thee, every one with his weapons: and they shall cut down thy choice cedars, and cast them into the fire."

(11) Isaac told Esau to take his gear, his quiver, and his bow, "and go out to the field, and take me some venison" (Gen 27:3). (12) Weapons for war are called "implements": "And they [the Israelites] went after them unto Jordan: and, lo, all the way was full of garments and vessels, which the Syrians had cast away in their haste" (2 Kin 7:15). (12a) A bearer of implements is an armor-bearer (Judg 9:54). (12b) A house of arms or an armory is referred to in 2 Kin 20:13. (13) In Amos 6:5 and such passages (2 Chr 5:13; 7:6; 23:13; cf. Ps 71:22) "musical instruments" are called kelim: "That chant to the sound of the viol, and invent to themselves instruments of music." (14) Keliy stands for various kinds of "precious ornaments": (14a) "And the servant brought forth jewels of silver, and jewels of gold, and raiment, and gave them to Rebekah" (Gen 24:53—the first biblical appearance of the word). (14b) Such "precious ornaments" adorned the typical bride: "I will greatly rejoice in the Lord, my soul shall be joyful in my God; for he hath clothed me with the garments of salvation, he hath covered me with the robe of righteousness, as a bridegroom decketh himself with ornaments and as a bride adorneth herself with her jewels" (Is 61:10). See: TWOT—982g; BDB—479b, 480d.

3628. כְּלִיא {2x} k^{e}lîy$^{}$, kel-ee'; or

Kaliyl means "the entire; whole, whole offering." (1) This word represents the "whole offering" from which the worshiper does not partake: "It is a statute for ever unto the Lord; it shall be wholly burnt" (Lev 6:22). (2) In Num 4:6, kaliyl refers to the "cloth wholly of blue." In other words, it indicates "the entire" cloth. Syn.: 5930. See: TWOT—985b; BDB—483a.

Kana', means "to be humble, to humble, subdue." (1) The word can mean "to humble, to subdue," and it can have a passive or reflexive use, "to be humble" or "to humble oneself." (1a) While kana' occurs some 35 times in the Hebrew Old Testament, the word is not found until Deut 9:3: "The Lord thy God . . . shall destroy them, and he shall bring them down." (1b) Kana' is frequently used in this sense of "subduing, humbling," enemies: "And after this it came to pass, that David smote the Philistines, and subdued them: and David took Methegammah out of the hand of the Philistines" (2 Sa 8:1; cf. 1 Chr 17:10; Ps 81:14). (1c) "To humble oneself" before God in repentance is a common theme and need in the life of ancient Israel: "And that I also have walked contrary unto them, and have brought them into the land of their enemies; if then their uncircumcised hearts be humbled, and they then accept of the punishment of their iniquity" (Lev 26:41; cf. 2 Chr 7:14; 12:6–7, 12). Syn.: 8213. See: TWOT—1001; BDB—488b.

Kena'an means "Canaan" and kena'ani (3669) means "Canaanite; merchant." (1) "Canaan" is used 9 times as the name of a person and 80 times as a place name. (1a) "Canaanite" occurs 72 times of the descendants of "Canaan," the inhabitants of the land of Canaan. (1b) Most occurrences of these words are in Genesis through Judges, but they are scattered throughout the Old Testament. (2) "Canaan" is first used of a person in Gen 9:18: "and Ham is the father of Canaan" (cf. Gen 10:6). (3) After a listing of the nations descended from "Canaan," Gen 10:18–19 adds: "and afterward were the families of the Canaanites spread abroad. (4) And the border of the Canaanites was from Sidon, as thou comest to Gerar, unto Gaza; as thou goest, unto Sodom, and Gomorrah, ..." (4a) "Canaan" is the land west of the Jordan, as in Num 33:51: "When ye are passed over Jordan into the land of Canaan" (cf. Josh 22:9–11). (4b) At the call of God, Abram ". . . went forth to go into the land of Canaan; and into the land of Canaan they came. . . . And the Canaanite was then in the land" (Gen 12:5–6). (4c) Later God promised Abram: "Unto thy seed have I given this land, . . . [the land of] the Canaanites" (Gen 15:18–20; cf. Ex 3:8, 17; Josh 3:10).

(5) "Canaanite" is a general term for all the descendants of "Canaan": (5a) "When the Lord thy God shall bring thee into the land whither thou goest to possess it, and hath cast out many nations before thee . . . the Canaanites . . ." (Deut 7:1). (5b) It is interchanged with Amorite in Gen 15:16: ". . . for the iniquity of the Amorites is not yet full" (cf. Josh 24:15, 18). (6) "Canaanite" is also used in the specific sense of one of the peoples of Canaan: (6a) ". . . and the Canaanites dwell by the sea, and by the coast of Jordan" (Num 13:29; cf. Josh 5:1; 2 Sa 24:7). (6b) As these peoples were traders, "Canaanite" is a symbol for "merchant" in Prov 31:24 and Job 41:6 and notably, in speaking of the sins of Israel, Hosea says, "He is a merchant, the balances of deceit are in his hand" (Hos 7:12; cf. Zeph 1:11). (7) Gen 9:25–27 stamps a theological significance on "Canaan" from the beginning: "Cursed be Canaan; a servant of servants shall he be unto his brethren. . . . Blessed be the Lord God of Shem; and Canaan shall be his servant. And God shall enlarge Japheth . . . and Canaan shall be his servant."

(8) Noah prophetically placed this curse on "Canaan" because his father had stared at Noah's nakedness and reported it grossly to his brothers. (8a) Ham's sin, deeply rooted in his youngest son, is observable in the Canaanites in the succeeding history. (8b) Leviticus 18 gives a long list of sexual perversions that were forbidden to Israel prefaced by the statement: ". . . and after the doings of the land of Canaan, whither I bring you, shall ye not do" (Lev 18:3). (8c) The list is followed by a warning: "Defile not ye yourselves in any of these things: for in all these the nations are defiled which I cast out before you" (Lev 18:24). (9) The command to destroy the "Canaanites" was very specific: (9a) "thou shalt smite them, and utterly destroy them. . . . ye shall destroy their altars, and break down their images. . . . For thou art a holy people unto the Lord thy God" (Deut 7:2–6). (9b) But too often the house of David and Judah "built them high places, and images, and groves, on every high hill, and under every green tree. And there were also sodomites in the land: and they did according to all the abominations of the nations which the Lord cast out before the children of Israel" (1 Kin 14:23–24; cf. 2 Kin 16:3–4; 21:1–15).

(10) The nations were the "Canaanites"; thus "Canaanite" became synonymous with religious and moral perversions of every kind. (11) This fact is reflected in Zec 14:21: "and in that day there shall be no more the Canaanite in the house of the Lord of hosts." (11a) A "Canaanite" was not permitted to enter the tabernacle or temple; no longer would one of God's people who practiced the abominations of the "Canaanites" enter the house of the Lord. (11b) This prophecy speaks of the last days and will be fulfilled in the New Jerusalem, according to Rev 21:27: "And there shall in no wise enter into it any thing that defileth, neither whatsoever worketh abomination, or maketh a lie" (cf. Rev 22:15). See: TWOT—1002, 1002b; BDB—488c, 488d.

3668. כְּנַעֲנָה {5x} K'na'ănâh, ken-ah-an-aw'; fem. of 3667; Kenaanah, the name of two Isr.:—Chenaanah {5x}. See: BDB—489b.

3669. כְּנַעֲנִי {73x} K'na'ănîy, ken-ah-an-ee'; patrial from 3667; a Kenaanite or inhab. of Kenaan; by impl. a pedlar (the Canaanites standing for their neighbors the Ishmaelites, who conducted mercantile caravans):—Canaanite {67x}, merchant {2x}, Canaan {1x}, Canaanitess {1x}, Canaanitish woman {2x}.

Kena'aniy means Canaanite, merchant, inhabitants of the land of Canaan (Gen 10:18–19). (1) Canaan is the land west of the Jordan (Gen 12:5–6; Num 33:51) (2) promised to Abraham (Gen 15:18–20; Ex 3:8). (3) Canaanite is a general term for all the descendants of Canaan (Deut 7:1) and interchanged with Amorite in Gen 15:16. (4) Canaanite is also used in the specific sense of one people of Canaan (Num 13:29; Josh 5:1; 2 Sa 24:7). (5) Gen 9:25–27 stamps a theological significance on Canaan from the beginning; they are cursed (Lev 18:1–24). The nations were the Canaanites; thus Canaanite became synonymous with religious and moral perversions of every kind. (6) Israel was to utterly destroy them (Deut 7:2–6), (7) failed to do so (1 Kin 14:23–24; 2 Kin 16:3–4; 21:1–15). (8) They will be destroyed (Zec 14:21). See: TWOT—1002a, 1002b; BDB—489a, 489b.

3670. כָּנַף {1x} kânaph, kaw-naf'; a prim. root; prop. to project laterally, i.e. prob. (refl.) to withdraw:—be removed into a corner {1x}. See: TWOT—1003; BDB—489d.

3671. כָּנָף {108x} kânâph, kaw-nawf'; from 3670; an edge or extremity; spec. (of a bird or army) a wing, (of a garment or bed-clothing) a flap, (of the earth) a quarter, (of a building) a pinnacle:—wing {74x}, skirt {14x}, borders {2x}, corners {2x}, ends {2x}, feathered {2x}, sort {2x}, winged {2x}, misc. {8x} = + bird, × flying, + (one an-) other, overspreading, × quarters, uttermost part.

Kanaph means "wing." (1) In the Old Testament kanaph occurs first in the Creation account: "And God created great whales, and every living creature that moveth which the waters brought forth abundantly, after their kind, and every winged fowl after his kind: and God saw that it was good" (Gen 1:21; cf. Ps 78:27). (2) In the biblical usage the idiom "any winged fowl" denotes the class of birds; cf. "They, and every beast after his kind, and all the cattle after their kind, and every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth after his kind, and every fowl after his kind, every bird of every sort" (Gen 7:14). (3) The word "wing" appears 109 times in the Hebrew Old Testament, (3a) with particular concentration in the description of the two cherubim of wood in Solomon's temple and in Ezekiel's vision of the "creatures," or cherubim. (3b) Elsewhere the Bible speaks of "wings" of the cherubim (Ex 25:20; 37:9) and of the seraphim (Is 6:2). (4) As an extension of the usage "wing," kanaph signifies "extremity." (4a) The seam or lower part of a garment was known as the kanaph. (4b) In the "skirt" (kanaph) of the garment one could carry things (Hag 2:12). (4c) Saul tore the skirt ("edge" - kanaph) of Samuel's robe (1 Sa 15:27).

(5) The extremity of a land on the world was also known by the word kanaph and is translated by "corner" in English: "And he shall set up an ensign for the nations, and shall assemble the outcasts of Israel, and gather together the dispersed of Judah from the four corners of the earth" (Is 11:12; cf. Job 37:3; 38:13; Eze 7:2). (6) In the metaphorical use God is said to protect His people as a bird protects her young with her "wings" (Deut 32:11). (6a) The psalmist expressed God's care and protection as a "shadow" of the "wings" (Ps 17:8; cf. 36:7; 57:1; 61:4; 63:7; 91:4). This may be a reference to the care afforded "under the wings of the cherubim over the mercy seat." (6b) In keeping with this usage Malachi looked forward to a new age, when "the Sun of righteousness [will] arise with healing in his wings; and ye shall go forth, and grow up as calves of the stall" (4:2). (7) When the nations are compared to birds, the association is that of terror and conquest. This is best expressed in Ezekiel's parable of the two eagles and the vine: "And say, Thus saith the Lord God; A great eagle with great wings, longwinged, full of feathers, which had divers colors, came unto Lebanon, and took the highest branch of the cedar: he cropped off the top of his young twigs, and carried it into a land of traffic; he set it in a city of merchants" (Eze 17:3–4). (8) The believer is enjoined to seek refuge with God when adversity strikes him or adversaries surround him: "He shall cover thee with his feathers, and under his wings shall thou trust: his truth shall be thy shield and buckler" (Ps 91:4). See: TWOT—1003a; BDB—489b.

3678. כִּסֵּא {135x} kiççê', kis-say'; or כִּסֵּה kiççêh, kis-say'; from 3680; prop. covered, i.e. a throne (as canopied):—seat {1x}, stool {7x}, throne {127x}.

Kicce' means "throne; seat." (1) Kicce' occurs 130 times in the Hebrew Old Testament and, as is to be expected, the frequency is greater in the historical books and the prophetical works. It is rare in the Pentateuch. (2) The first usage of kicce' is in Gen 41:40: "Thou shalt be over my house, and according unto thy word shall all my people be ruled: only in the throne will I be greater than thou." (3) In the Old Testament the basic meaning of kicce' is "seat" or "chair." (3a) Visitors were seated on a chair (1 Kin 2:19), as well as guests (2 Kin 4:10) and older men (1 Sa 1:9). (3b) When the king or elders assembled to administer justice, they sat on the throne of justice (Prov 20:8; cf. Ps 9:4). (3c) In these contexts kicce' is associated with honor. (3d) However, in the case of the prostitute (Prov 9:14) and soldiers who set up their chairs (Jer 1:15—kicce' may mean "throne" here), kicce' signifies a place and nothing more. (4) The more frequent sense of kicce' is "throne" or "seat of honor," also known as the "royal seat": "And it shall be, when he sitteth upon the throne of his kingdom, that he shall write him a copy of this law in a book out of that which is before the priests the Levites" (Deut 17:18; cf. 1 Kin 1:46). (5) Since the Davidic dynasty received the blessing of God, the Old Testament has a number of references to "the throne of David" (2 Sa 3:10; Jer 22:2, 30; 36:30): "Of the increase of his government and peace there shall be no end, upon the throne of David, and upon his kingdom, to order it, and to establish it with judgment and with justice from henceforth even for ever" (Is 9:7). (6) The "throne of Israel" is a synonymous phrase for "throne of David" (1 Kin 2:4; cf. 8:20, 25; 9:5; 10:9; 2 Kin 10:30; 15:12, etc.). (7) The physical appearance of the "throne" manifested the glory of the king. Solomon's "throne" was an artistic product with ivory inlays, the wood covered with a layer of fine gold (1 Kin 10:18). (8) The word kicce' was also used to represent "kingship" and the succession to the throne. David had sworn that Solomon would sit on his "throne" (1 Kin 1:13; cf. 2 Kin 10:3). (9) Above all human kingship and "thrones" was the God of Israel: "God reigneth over the heathen: God sitteth upon the throne of his holiness" (Ps 47:8). (10) The Israelites viewed God as the ruler who was seated on a "throne." Micaiah said in the presence of Ahab and Jehoshaphat: "Hear thou therefore the word of the Lord: I saw the Lord sitting on his throne, and all the host of heaven standing by him on his right hand and on his left" (1 Kin 22:19). (11) Isaiah received a vision of God's glory revealed in the temple (Is 6:1). (12) The presence of the Lord in Jerusalem also gave rise to the conception that Jerusalem was the throne of God (Jer 3:17). See: TWOT—1007; BDB—490c, 492c, 1097c.

Keciyl means "stupid fellow; dull person; fool." (1) This word occurs in the Old Testament 70 times with all of its occurrences being in wisdom literature except 3 in the Psalms. (2) The keciyl is "insolent" in religion and "stupid or dull" in wise living (living out a religion he professes). (2a) In Ps 92:6 the first emphasis is especially prominent: "A brutish man knoweth not; neither doth a fool understand this." (2a1) The psalmist is describing an enemy of God who knew God and His word but, seeing the wicked flourishing, reasoned that they have the right life-style: "When the wicked spring as the grass, and when all the workers of iniquity do flourish; it is that they shall be destroyed for ever" (Ps 92:7). (2a2) They have knowledge of God but do not properly evaluate or understand what they know. (3) The second emphasis is especially prominent in wisdom contexts: "How long, ye simple ones, will ye love simplicity? and the scorners delight in their scorning, and fools hate knowledge?" (Prov 1:22). (3a) In such contexts the person so described rejects the claims and teachings of wisdom. (3b) However, in the Bible wisdom is the practical outworking of one's religion. Therefore, even in these contexts there is a clear connotation of insolence in religion. Syn.: 191, 5036. See: TWOT—1011c; BDB—493a.

Kecel means "stupidity; imperturbability; confidence." (1) It means "stupidity": "I applied mine heart to know, and to search, and to seek out wisdom, and the reason of things, and to know the wickedness of folly, even of foolishness" (Eccl 7:25); and (2) "confidence": "For the LORD shall be thy confidence, and shall keep thy foot from being taken" (Prov 3:26). (3) The meaning of "confidence" also appears in Job 31:24: "If I have made gold my hope. . . ." See: TWOT—1011a; BDB—492d.

Kacaph means "to long for" in the sense of "to be pale by reason of longing": "And now, though thou wouldest needs be gone, because thou sore longedst after thy father's house, yet wherefore hast thou stolen my gods?" (Gen 31:30). See: TWOT—1015; BDB—493d.

3701. כֶּסֶף {403x} keçeph, keh'-sef; from 3700; silver (from its pale color); by impl. money:—silver {287x}, money {112x}, price {1x}, silverlings {1x}. money, price, silver (-ling).

Keceph means "silver; money; price; property." (1) This word represents the "metal ore silver": "Take away the dross from the silver, and there shall come forth a vessel for the finer" (Prov 25:4; cf. Job 28:1). (2) Keceph may signify the "metal silver," or what has been refined from silver ore: "And the servant brought forth jewels of silver, and jewels of gold . . ." (Gen 24:53). (3) As a precious metal, "silver" was not as valuable as gold—probably because it is not so rare: "And all king Solomon's drinking vessels were of gold, and all the vessels of the house of the forest of Lebanon were of pure gold; none were of silver: it was nothing accounted of in the days of Solomon" (1 Kin 10:21). (4) "Silver" was often a form of wealth. This is the meaning of keceph in Gen 13:2 (the first biblical occurrence): "And Abram was very rich in cattle, in silver, and in gold." (5) Silver pieces (not coins) were used as money: "Then Joseph commanded to fill their sacks with corn, and to restore every man's money into his sack" (Gen 42:25).

(6) Frequently the word absolutely (by itself) and in the singular form means "pieces of silver": "Behold, I have given thy brother a thousand pieces of silver" (Gen 20:16). (7) In Lev 25:50 the word is used in the general sense of "money, value, price": "And he shall reckon with him that bought him from the year that he was sold to him unto the year of jubilee: and the price of his sale shall be according unto the number of years." (8) Since it was a form of wealth, "silver" often was one of the spoils of war: "The kings came and fought, then fought the kings of Canaan in Taanach by the waters of Megiddo; they took no gain of money" (Judg 5:19). (9) This word may be used in the sense of "valuable property": "Notwithstanding, if he [the slave who has been beaten] continue a day or two, he shall not be punished: for he is his money" (Ex 21:21). (10) Keceph sometimes represents the color "silver": "Though ye have lain among the pots, yet shall ye be as the wings of a dove covered with silver, and her feathers with yellow gold" (Ps 68:13). See: TWOT—1015a; BDB—494a.

כְּעֵת kᵉ'eth (Aram.), keh-eth'; fem. of 3705; thus (only in the formula "and so forth"):—at such a time {4x}. See: TWOT—2796; BDB—1097c, 1107b, 1107c, 1108a.

3707. כָּעַס kâ'aç, kaw-as'; a prim. root; to trouble; by impl. to grieve, rage, be indignant:—anger {43x}, provoke {3x}, angry {2x}, grieved {1x}, indignation {1x}, sorrow {1x}, vex {1x}, wrath {1x}, wroth {1x}.

Ka'ac means "to provoke, vex, make angry." (1) A word that is characteristic of the Book of Deuteronomy, it seems fitting that ka'ac is found for the first time in the Old Testament in that book: ". . . To provoke him to anger" (Deut 4:25). (2) The word is characteristic also of the books of Jeremiah and Kings. (3) A review of the uses of this verb shows that around 80 percent of them involve Yahweh's "being provoked to anger" by Israel's sin, especially its worship of other gods. One such example is in 2 Kin 23:19: "And all the houses also of the high places that were in the cities of Samaria, which the kings of Israel had made to provoke the Lord to anger, Josiah took away." See: TWOT—1016; BDB—494d.

כְּעֵת kᵉ'eth. See 3706.

3709. כַּף {191x} kaph, kaf; from 3721; the hollow hand or palm (so of the paw of an animal, of the sole, and even of the bowl of a dish or sling, the handle of a bolt, the leaves of a palm-tree); fig. power:—hand {127x}, spoon {24x}, sole {19x}, palm {5x}, hollow {3x}, handful {2x}, apiece {1x}, branches {1x}, breadth + 4096 {1x}, clouds {1x}, misc. {7x} = + foot, handle, [-led]), middle, paw, power.

Kaph means "palm (of hand)." (1) Basically, kaph represents the "palm," the hollow part of the hand as distinguished from its fingers, thumbs, and back. (1a) Thus we read that part of the ritual for cleansing a leper is that a "priest shall take some of the log of oil, and pour it into the palm of his own left hand" (Lev 14:15). (1b) The word represents the entire inside of the hand when it is cupped, or the "hollow of the hand." God told Moses: "While my glory passeth by, that I will put thee in a clift of the rock, and will cover thee with my hand while I pass by" (Ex 33:22; cf. Ps 139:5). (2) This word means fist, specifically the inside of a fist. The woman of Zarephath told Elijah: "I have not a cake, but a handful of meal in a barrel, and a little oil in a cruse . . ." (1 Kin 17:12). This was, indeed, a very small amount of flour—enough for only one little biscuit. (3) Kaph also refers to the flat of the hand, including the fingers and the thumb. These are what one claps together in joy and applause: "And he brought forth the king's son, and put the crown upon him, and gave him the testimony; and they made him king, and anointed him; and they clapped their hands, and said, God save the king" (2 Kin 11:12). (4) Clapping the hands may also be an expression of scorn and contempt (Num 24:10).

(5) The flat of the hands may be raised heavenward in prayer to symbolize one's longing to receive. Moses told Pharaoh: "As soon as I am gone out of the city, I will spread abroad my hands unto the Lord" (Ex 9:29). (6) This word can suggest the inside part of a hand grasp as distinguished from the hand as a whole: "And the Lord said unto Moses, Put forth thine hand, and take it by the tail. And he put forth his hand, and caught it, and it became a rod in his hand" (Ex 4:4). (7) A mutual hand grasp may signify entrance into a pledge (Prov 6:1). (8) To take one's life (5315 - nepesh) into one's own hands is to put oneself into danger (Judg 12:3). (9) In many passages kaph is synonymous with the entire hand. Jacob tells Laban that "God hath seen . . . the labor of my hands" (Gen 31:42). (10) Perhaps the same nuance occurs in passages such as Gen 20:5: "In the integrity of my heart and innocency of my hands have I done this." (10) The word may be used symbolically and figuratively meaning "power." (10a) Gideon complained to the Angel of the Lord that "now the Lord hath forsaken us, and delivered us into the hands [the power] of the Midianites" (Judg 6:13). (10b) Israel was not literally in the Midianites' hands but was dominated by them and under their control. (11) Once the word represents animal paws: "And whatsoever goeth upon his paws, among all manner of beasts that go on all four, those are unclean unto you . . ." (Lev 11:27).

(12) In many passages kaph signifies the sole of the foot, the hollow part. This meaning appears in Gen 8:9 (first biblical appearance): "But the dove found no rest for the sole of her foot" (cf. Josh 3:13 where the word is used of the sole of a human foot). (13) Various hollow, bending, or beaten objects are represented by kaph. (13a) First, it is used of a thigh joint: "And when he [the Angel of the Lord] saw that he prevailed not against him [Jacob], he touched the hollow of his thigh; and the hollow of Jacob's thigh was out of joint, as he wrestled with him" (Gen 32:25). (13b) Second, a certain shaped pan or vessel is called a kaph: "And thou shalt make the dishes thereof, and spoons thereof, and covers thereof, and bowls thereof, to cover withal: of pure gold shalt thou make them" (Ex 25:29). (13c) Third, the word is used of the hollow of a sling: "And the souls of thine enemies, them shall he sling out, as out of the middle of a sling" (1Sa 25:29). (13d) Next, the huge hand-shaped branches of palm trees are represented by the word: "And ye shall take you on the first day the boughs of goodly trees, branches of palm trees, and the boughs of thick trees" (Lev 23:40). (13e) Finally, in Song 5:5 this word represents the bent piece of metal or wood which forms a door handle. See: TWOT—1022a; BDB—495b, 496a.

Kaphar means to cover over, propitiate, ransom, atone, expiate." (1) Kaphar has an initial secular and non-theological range quite parallel to padah (6299). (1a) In addition, however, kaphar became a technical term in Israel's sacrificial rituals. (1b) On its most basic level of meaning, kaphar denotes a material transaction or "ransom." (2) Sometimes man is the subject of kaphar. (2a) In 2 Sa 21:3, David asks the Gibeonites, "And wherewith shall I make the atonement, that ye may bless the inheritance of the Lord?" He receives in answer the advice to hang seven of Saul's sons in compensation. (2b) In Ex 32:30, Moses ascends the mountain yet a third time in an effort to "make an atonement" for the people's sin (apparently merely by intercession, although this is not explicitly stated). (2c) Is 27:9 speaks of "purging" Israel's guilt by banishing idolatrous objects. (2d) In Num 25:13, Phinehas is said to have "made an atonement for the children of Israel" by spearing a couple during orgiastic worship of Baal.

(3) God is often the subject of kaphar in this general sense, too. (3a) In 2 Chr 30:18, Hezekiah prays for God to "pardon" those who were not ritually prepared for the Passover. (3b) At the conclusion of the Song of Moses, Yahweh is praised because He "will be merciful (3722) unto his land, and to his people. (3c) Similar general uses of the word appear in Ps 65:3; 78:38; and Dan 9:24. (4) Jeremiah once uses kaphar to pray bitterly that Yahweh not "forgive" the iniquity of those plotting to slay him (Jer 18:23). (5) In Ps 79:9 the word means "to purge" sin. (6) Most often kaphar is used in connection with specific rites, and the immediate subject is a priest. All types of ritual sacrifice are explained in terms of kaphar. (6a) We find the priests' smearing of blood on the altar during the "sin offering" (2403 - chatta't) described as "atonement" (Ex 29: 36–37; Lev 4:20, 31; 10:17; Num 28:22; 29:5; Neh 10:33). (6b) The use of blood is not quite so prominent in sacrifices, but the relation to "atonement" still holds. It is clearly true of the "guilt offering" (Lev 5:16, 18; 6:7; 7:7; 14:21; 19:22; Num 5:8). (6c) The principle holds even when the poor cannot afford an animal or birds, and they sacrifice only a little flour—i.e., where obviously no blood is involved (Lev 5:11–13). (7) Making "atonement" (kaphar) is also part of the purpose of the "burnt offering" (Lev 1:4; Num 15:25).

(8) The only major type of sacrifice not classified an "atonement" in Leviticus is the "cereal offering" (4503 - minchah) of chapter 2; but Eze 45:15, 17 does include it under that heading. (9) First Chr 6:49 applies the concept to the priestly ministry in general. (10) The connection of all of the rituals with kaphar peaks in the complex ceremony of the annual Day of Atonement (Yom Kippur), as described in detail in Lev 16. (11) All the sacrifices in the world would not satisfy God's righteousness (e.g., Mic 6:7; Ps 50:7–15). (11a) Hence God alone can provide an atonement for sin, by which His wrath is assuaged. (11b) The righteous God is neither implacable nor capricious, but provides Himself the "ransom" or substitute sacrifice that would satisfy Him. (11c) The priest at the altar represents God Himself, bringing the requisite offering before God; sacrifice is not essentially man's action, but God's own act of pardoning mercy. (12) Kaphar is first found in Gen 6:14, where it is used in its primary sense of "to cover over." Here God gives Noah instructions concerning the ark, including, "Pitch it within and without with pitch." (13) Most uses of the word, however, involve the theological meaning of "covering over," often with the blood of a sacrifice, in order to atone for some sin. This means that the "covering over" hides the sin from God's until the death of Christ takes away the sin of the world (cf. Jn 1:29; Heb 10:4).

(14) As might be expected, this word occurs more frequently in the Book of Leviticus than in any other book, since Leviticus deals with the ritual sacrifices that were made to atone for sin. (14a) For example, Lev 4:13–21 gives instructions for bringing a young bull to the tent of meeting for a sin offering. (14b) After the elders laid their hands on the bull (to transfer the people's sin to the bull), the bull was killed. (14c) The priest then brought some of the blood of the bull into the tent of meeting and sprinkled it seven times before the veil. (14d) Some of the blood was put on the horns of the altar and the rest of the blood was poured at the base of the altar of burnt offering. (14e) The fat of the bull was then burned on the altar. (14f) The bull itself was to be burned outside the camp. (14g) By means of this ritual, "the priest shall make an atonement [kaphar] for them, and it shall be forgiven them" (Lev 4:20).

(15) The term "atonement" is found at least 16 times in Lev 16, the great chapter concerning the Day of Atonement. (15a) Before anything else, the high priest had to "make atonement" for himself and his house by offering a bull as a sin offering. (15b) After lots were cast upon the two goats, one was sent away into the wilderness as an atonement (v. 10), while the other was sacrificed and its blood sprinkled on the mercy seat as an atonement for the people (vv. 15–20). (15c) The Day of Atonement was celebrated only once a year. (15d) Only on this day could the high priest enter the holy of holies of the tabernacle or temple on behalf of the people of Israel and make atonement for them. (16) Sometimes atonement for sin was made apart from or without blood offerings. (16a) During his vision-call experience, Isaiah's lips were touched with a coal of fire taken from the altar by one of the seraphim. With that, he was told, "Thy sin is purged [kaphar]" (Is 6:7). (16b) Isaiah's sin of unclean lips was purged (6:5); not sin purged unto salvation. Kapporeth, as a noun, means "mercy seat; throne of mercy." (1) It refers to a slab of gold that rested on top of the ark of the covenant. (1a) Images of two cherubims stood on this slab, facing each other. (1b) This slab of gold represented the throne of God and symbolized His real presence in the worship shrine. (1c) On the Day of Atonement, the high priest sprinkled the blood of the sin offering on it, apparently symbolizing the blood's reception by God. (1d) Thus the kapporeth was the central point at which Israel, through its high priest, could come into the presence of God. (2) This is further seen in the fact that the temple proper was distinguished from its porches and other accompanying structures by the name "place of the mercy seat (kapporeth)" (1Chr 28:11). Keriythuwth, refers to a "bill of divorcement." (1) This word implies the cutting off of a marriage by means of a "bill of divorcement": "When a man hath taken a wife, and married her, and it come to pass that she find no favor in his eyes, because he hath found some uncleanness in her: then let him write her a bill of divorcement, and give it in her hand, and send her out of his house" (Deut 24:1). 3754. כֶּרֶם {93x} kerem, keh'-rem; from an unused root of uncert. mean.; a garden or vineyard:—vines {3x}, (increase of the) vineyard (-s) {89x}, vintage {1x}.

Kerem means "vineyard." (1) The first occurrence is in Gen 9:20: "And Noah began to be an husbandman, and he planted a vineyard:" (2) Isaiah gives a vivid description of the work involved in the preparation, planting, and cultivation of a "vineyard" (Is 5:1–7). (2a) The "vineyard" was located on the slopes of a hill (Is 5:1). (2b) The soil was cleared of stones before the tender vines were planted (Is 5:2). (2c) A watchtower provided visibility over the "vineyard" (Is 5:2), and (2d) a winevat and place for crushing the grapes were hewn out of the rock (Is 5:2). (2e) When all the preparations were finished, the "vineyard" was ready and in a few years it was expected to produce crops. (2f) In the meantime the kerem required regular pruning (Lev 25:3–4). (2g) The time between planting and the first crop was of sufficient import as to free the owner from military duty: "And what man is he that hath planted a vineyard, and hath not yet eaten of it?" (Deut 20:6).

(3) The harvest time was a period of hard work and great rejoicing. (3a) The enjoyment of the "vineyard" was a blessing of God: "And they shall build houses, and inhabit them; and they shall plant vineyards, and eat the fruit of them" (Is 65:21). (3b) The failure of the "vineyard" to produce or the transfer of ownership of one's "vineyard" was viewed as God's judgment: "Forasmuch therefore as your treading is upon the poor, and ye take from him burdens of wheat: ye have built houses of hewn stone, but ye shall not dwell in them; ye have planted pleasant vineyards, but ye shall not drink wine of them" (Amos 5:11; cf. Deut 28:30). (4) The words "vineyard" and "olive grove' (2132 - zayit) are often found together in the biblical text. (4a) These furnished the two major permanent agricultural activities in ancient Israel, as both required much work and time before the crops came in. (4b) God promised that the ownership of the "vineyards" and orchards of the Canaanites was to go to His people as a blessing from Him (Deut 6:11–12).

(5) God's judgment to Israel extended to the "vineyards." (5a) The rejoicing in the "vineyard" would cease (Is 16:10) and (5b) the carefully cultivated "vineyard" would be turned into a thicket with thorns and briers (cf. Is 32:12–13). (5c) The "vineyard" would be reduced to a hiding place of wild animals and a grazing place for goats and wild donkeys (Is 32:14). (6) The postexilic hope lay in God's blessings on the agricultural activity of His people: "And I will bring again the captivity of my people of Israel, and they shall build the waste cities, and inhabit them; and they shall plant vineyards, and drink the wine thereof; they shall also make gardens, and eat the fruit of them" (Amos 9:14). (7) The "vineyards" were located mainly in the hill country and in the low-lying hill country. The Bible mentions the "vineyard" at Timnath (Judg 14:5), Jezreel (1 Kin 21:1), the hill country of Samaria (Jer 31:5), and even at Engedi (Song 1:14). (8) The metaphorical use of kerem (8a) allows the prophet Isaiah to draw an analogy between the "vineyard" and Israel: "For the vineyard of the Lord of hosts is the house of Israel" (Is 5:7). Kara' means "to bow, bow down, bend the knee." (1) Karaʿ appears for the first time in the deathbed blessing of Jacob as he describes Judah: "He stooped down, he couched as a lion" (Gen 49:9). (2) The implication of karaʿ seems to be the bending of one's legs or knees, since a noun meaning "leg" is derived from it. (3) To "bow down" to drink was one of the tests for elimination from Gideon's army (Judg 7:5–6). (4) Kneeling" was a common attitude for the worship of God (1 Kin 8:54; Ezra 9:5; Is 45:23; cf. Phil. 2:10). (5) "Bowing down" before Haman was required by the Persian king's command (Est 3:2–5). (6) To "bow down upon" a woman was a euphemism for sexual intercourse (Job 31:10). (7) A woman in process of giving birth was said to "bow down": "And his daughter-in-law, Phinehas' wife, was with child, near to be delivered: and when she heard the tidings that the ark of God was taken, and that her father-in-law and her husband were dead, she bowed herself and travailed; for her pains came upon her" (1 Sa 4:19). (8) Tottering or feeble knees are those that "bend" from weakness or old age: "Thy words have upholden him that was falling, and thou hast strengthened the feeble knees" (Job 4:4). 3772. כָּרַת {288x} kârath, kaw-rath'; a prim. root; to cut (off, down or asunder); by impl. to destroy or consume; spec. to covenant (i.e. make an alliance or bargain, orig. by cutting flesh and passing between the pieces):—cut off {145x}, make {85x}, cut down {23x}, cut {9x}, fail {6x}, destroy {4x}, want {3x}, covenanted {2x}, hew {2x}, misc. {9x}= be chewed, feller, be freed, × lose, perish, × utterly.

Karath means "to cut off, cut down, fell, cut or make (a covenant or agreement)." (1) Basically karath means "to sever" something from something else by cutting it with a blade. (1a) The nuance depends upon the thing being cut off. (1a1) In the case of a branch, one "cuts it down" (Num 13:23), and one (1a2) "[swings] the axe to cut down the tree" (Deut 19:5). (1b) The word is also used of "chopping down" wooden idols (Ex 34:13). (1c) Karath can signify "chopping off" a man's head and feet (1 Sa 5:4). (1d) In Jer 34:18 this verb means "to cut into two pieces." (1e) "Cut off" may also imply cutting off in the sense of circumcision. In Ex 4:25 Zipporah took a flint knife and "cut off" her son's foreskin. (1f) In a related but different usage this word appears in Num. 11:33, where it means "to chew" meat. (2) "To cut off" can mean "to exterminate or destroy." God told Noah that "all flesh [shall never again] be cut off . . . by the waters of a flood" (Gen 9:11–the first occurrence of the word). (3) Karath can be used of spiritual and social extermination. A person "cut off" in this manner is not necessarily killed but may be driven out of the family and removed from the blessings of the covenant. God told Abraham that "the uncircumcised man child whose flesh of his foreskin is not circumcised, that soul shall be cut off from his people; he hath broken my covenant" (Gen 17:14). (4) One of the best known uses of this verb is "to make" a covenant. (4a) The process by which God made a covenant with Abraham is called "cutting": "In the same day the Lord made a covenant with Abram" (Gen 15:18). (4b) The word "covenant" appears nine times before this in Genesis, but it is not connected with karath. (4c) Furthermore, hereafter in Genesis and throughout the Bible karath is frequently associated with making a covenant. (4d) This verb, therefore, constitutes a rather technical term for making a covenant. (4e) In Genesis it often alludes to an act by which animals were cut in two and the party taking the oath passed between the pieces.

(5) Later, "cutting" a covenant did not necessarily include this act but seems to be an allusion to the Abrahamic covenantal process (cf. Jer 34:18). (5a) In such a covenant the one passing through the pieces pledged his faithfulness to the covenant. (5b) If that faithfulness was broken, he called death upon himself, or the same fate which befell the animals. (6) In some cases it is quite clear that no literal cutting took place and that karath is used in a technical sense of "making an agreement in writing": "And because of all this we make a sure covenant, and write it; and our princes, Levites, and priests, seal unto it" (Neh 9:38). See: TWOT—1048; BDB—503c.

Kashal means "to stumble, stagger, totter, be thrown down." (1) It occurs the first time in Lev 26:37: "And they shall fall one upon another. . . ." (1a) This use illustrates the basic idea that one "stumbles" because of something or over something. (1b) Heavy physical burdens cause one "to stagger": "The children fell under the [loads of] wood" (Lam 5:13). (2) This word is often used figuratively to describe the consequences of divine judgment on sin: "Behold, I will lay stumbling blocks before this people, and the fathers and the sons together shall fall upon them" (Jer 6:21). (3) Babylon, too, will know God's judgment: "And the most proud shall stumble and fall" (Jer 50:32). (4) When the psalmist says: "My knees totter from my fasting" (Ps 109:24 NAB), he means: "My knees are weak." Kathab means "to write, inscribe, describe, take dictation, engrave." (1) Basically, this verb represents writing down a message. (2) The judgment (ban) of God against the Amalekites was to be recorded in the book (scroll): "And the Lord said unto Moses, Write this for a memorial in a book, and rehearse it in the ears of Joshua: for I will utterly put out the remembrance of Amalek from under heaven" (Ex 17:14—the first biblical occurrence of the word). (3) One may "write" upon a stone or "write" a message upon it. Moses told Israel that after crossing the Jordan "thou shalt set thee up great stones, and plaster them with plaster: and thou shalt write upon them all the words of this law" (Deut 27:2–3). (3a) This use of the word implies something more than keeping a record of something so that it will be remembered. (3b) This is obvious in the first passage because the memory of Amalek is "to be recorded" and also blotted out.

(3c) In such passages "to be recorded," therefore, refers to the unchangeableness and binding nature of the Word of God. (3d) God has said it, it is fixed, and it will occur. (3e) An extended implication in the case of divine commands is that man must obey what God "has recorded" (Deut 27:2–3). (3f) Thus, such uses of the word describe a fixed body of authoritative instruction, or a canon. (3g) These 2 passages also show that the word does not tell us anything specific about how the message was composed. (3g1) In the first instance Moses seems not to have merely "recorded" as a secretary but "to have written" creatively what he heard and saw. (3g2) Certainly in Ex 32:32 the word is used of creative writing by the author; God was not receiving dictation from anyone when He "inscribed" the Ten Commandments. (3g3) In Deut 27:2–3 the writers must reproduce exactly what was previously given (as mere secretaries).

(4) Sometimes kathab appears to mean "to inscribe" and "to cover with inscription." (4a) The two tablets of the testimony which were given to Moses by God were "tables of stone, written [fully inscribed] with the finger of God" (Ex 31:18). (4b) The verb means not only to write in a book but "to write a book," not just to record something in a few lines on a scroll but to complete the writing. (4c) Moses prays: "Yet now, if thou wilt forgive their sin—and if not, blot me, I pray thee, out of thy book which thou hast written" (Ex 32:32). (4d) Here "book" probably refers to a scroll rather than a book in the present-day sense. (5) Among the special uses of kathab is the meaning "to record a survey." (5a) At Shiloh, Joshua told Israel to choose three men from each tribe "and they shall arise, and go through the land, and describe it" (Josh 18:4). (6) An extended nuance of kathab is "to receive dictation": "And Baruch wrote from the mouth of Jeremiah" (Jer 36:4). (7) The word can also be used of signing one's signature: "And because of all this we make [are cutting] a sure covenant, and write it; and our princes, Levites, and priests, seal unto it" (Neh 9:38). (7a) Thus they "cut," or completed, the agreement by having the representatives sign it. (7b) The cutting was the signing. See: TWOT—1053; BDB—507a, 1098a.

Kathab means "something written; register; scripture." (1) In 1 Chr 28:19 kathab is used to mean "something written," such as an edict: "All this, said David, the Lord made me understand in writing by his hand upon me, even all the works of this pattern." (2) The word also refers to a "register": "These sought their register among those that were reckoned by genealogy, but they were not found: therefore were they, as polluted, put from the priesthood" (Ezr 2:62), and (3) to "scripture": "But I will shew thee that which is noted in the scripture of truth: and there is none that holdeth with me in these things, but Michael your prince" (Dan 10:21). I. Leb as a noun: Summary: The heart includes not only the motives, feelings, affections, and desires, but also the will, the aims, the principles, the thoughts, and the intellect of man. In fact, it embraces the whole inner man, the head never being regarded as the seat of intelligence. While it is the source of all action and the center of all thought and feeling the heart is also described as receptive to the influences both from the outer world and from God Himself. Leb means heart; mind; midst. It is used of God (Gen 6:6; Jer 32:41) and man. (1) Heart may refer to the organ of the body (Ex 28:29; 2 Sa 18:14). (2) Leb may also refer to the inner part or middle of a thing (Ex 15:8; Deut 4:11). (3) Leb is used of the man himself or his personality (Gen 17:17); or (4) his seat of desire, inclination, or will (Ex 7:14; 35:5). (5) Two people are in agreement when their hearts are right with each other (2 Kin 10:15).

(6) The heart is regarded as the seat of emotions (Deut 6:5; Ex 4:14); so there are (6a) merry hearts (Judg 16:25), (6b) fearful hearts (Is 35:4), and (6c) hearts that trembled (1 Sa 4:13). (7) The heart could be regarded as the seat of knowledge and wisdom and as a synonym of "mind" when "heart" appears with the verb "to know" (Deut 29:4; 1 Kin 3:9; cf. 4:29). (8) Memory is the activity of the heart (Job 22:22). (10) It may be the seat of conscience and moral character (Job 27:6; 2 Sa 24:10). (11) It is the fountain of man's deeds (Gen 20:5; 1 Kin 3:6; Is 38:3). (12) Rebellion and pride reside in the heart (Gen 8:21; Eze 28:2). (13) God controls the heart: He (13a) gives a new one (Eze 36:26); (13b) creates a clean one (Ps 51:10); (13c) unites the believer's heart to fear His name (Ps 86:11); and (13d) triest the heart (1 Chr 29:17). (14) Hence God's people seek His approval (Ps 26:2). (15) The heart stands for the inner being of man, the man himself, and is the fountain of all he does (Prov 4:4). All his thoughts, desires, words, and actions flow from deep within him. Yet a man cannot understand his own heart (Jer 17:9).

II. Leb, as an adverb, means "tenderly; friendly; comfortably." (1) Leb is used as an adverb in Gen 34:3: "And his soul clave unto Dinah . . . and he loved the damsel, and spake kindly (leb) unto the damsel." (2) In Ruth 4:13, the word means "friendly": ". . . thou hast spoken friendly unto thine handmaid." (3) The word means "comfortably" (3a) in 2 Chr 30:22: "And Hezekiah spake comfortably unto all the Levites that taught the good knowledge of the LORD: and they did eat throughout the feast seven days, offering peace offerings, and making confession to the LORD God of their fathers" and in (3b) Is 40:2 "Speak ye comfortably to Jerusalem, and cry unto her, that her warfare is accomplished, that her iniquity is pardoned: for she hath received of the LORD'S hand double for all her sins."Syn.: 4578, 5315, 7023, 7130. See: TWOT—1071a; BDB—522, 523a, 524b, 525d, 925c, 1098d.

3823. לָבַב {5x} lâbab, law-bab'; a prim. root; prop. to be enclosed (as if with fat); by impl. (as denom. from 3824) to unheart, i.e. (in a good sense) transport (with love), or (in a bad sense) stultify; also (as denom. from 3834) to make cakes:—ravished my heart {2x}, make {1x}, made cakes {1x}, be wise {1x}. See: TWOT—1071, 1071d; BDB—525d.

3824. לֵבָב {252x} lêbâb, lay-bawb'; from 3823; the heart (as the most interior organ); used also like 3820:—heart {231x}, consider + 7760 {5x}, mind {4x}, understanding {3x}, misc. {9x} = + bethink themselves, breast, comfortably, courage, midst, × unawares.

Lebab, as a noun, means "heart; mind; midst." (1) "Heart" is used first of man in Gen 6:5: "And God saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually." (2) In Gen 6:6 it is used of God: "And it repented the Lord that he had made man on the earth, and it grieved him at his heart." (3) "Heart" may refer to the organ of the body: (3a) "And Aaron shall bear the names of the children of Israel in the breastplate of judgment upon his heart, when he goeth in unto the holy place" (Ex 28:29); (3b) "[Joab] took three darts in his hand, and thrust them through the heart of Absalom" (2 Sa 18:14);

(3c) "My heart panteth . . ." (Ps 38:10). (4) Lebab may also refer to the inner part or middle of a thing: (4a) "and the depths were congealed in the heart of the sea" (Ex 15:8); (4b) "and the mountain burned with fire in the midst [rsv, "to the heart"] of heaven" (Deut 4:11); (4c) "Yea, thou shalt be as he that lieth down in the midst of the sea" (Prov 23:34).

(5) Lebab can be used of the inner man, contrasted to the outer man, as (5a) in Deut 30:14: "But the word is very nigh unto thee, in thy mouth, and in thy heart, that thou mayest do it" (cf. Joel 2:13); (5b) "man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart" (1 Sa 16:7). (6) Lebab is often compounded with "soul" for emphasis, as in 2 Chr 15:12; "And they entered into a covenant to seek the Lord God of their fathers with all their heart and with all their soul" (cf. 2 Chr 15:15). (7) Nepesh (5315 - "soul; life; self") is translated "heart" fifteen times in the KJV. (7a) Each time, it connotes the "inner man": (7b) "For as he thinketh in his heart [nepesh], so is he" (Prov 23:7). (8) Lebab can be used of the man himself or his personality: (8a) "Then Abraham fell upon his face and laughed, and said in his heart, . . ." (Gen 17:17); (8b) "my heart had great experience" (Eccl 1:16). (8c) Lebab is also used of God in this sense: "And I will give you pastors according to mine heart" (Jer 3:15).

(9) The seat of desire, inclination, or will can be indicated by "heart": (9a) "Pharaoh's heart is hardened . . ." (Ex 7:14); (9b) "whosoever is of a willing heart, let him bring it . . ." (Ex 35:5; cf. vv. 21, 29); (9c) "I will praise thee, O Lord my God, with all my heart" (Ps. 86:12). (9d) Lebab is also used of God in this sense: ". . . and I will plant them in this land assuredly with my whole heart and with my whole soul" (Jer 32:41). (10) Two people are said to be in agreement when their "hearts" are right with each other: "Is thine heart right, as my heart is with thy heart?" (2 Kin 10:15). (11) In 2 Chr 24:4, "Joash was minded to repair the house of the Lord" (Heb. "had in his heart"). (12) The "heart" is regarded as the seat of emotions: (12a) "And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, . . ." (Deut 6:5); (12b) "and when he [Aaron] seeth thee, he will be glad in his heart" (Ex 4:14; cf. 1 Sa 2:1). (12b) So there are (12b1) "merry" hearts (Judg 16:25), (12b2) "fearful" hearts (Is 35:4), and (12b3) hearts that "trembled" (1 Sa 4:13).

(13) The "heart" could be regarded as the seat of knowledge and wisdom and as a synonym of "mind." (13a) This meaning often occurs when "heart" appears with the verb "to know": (13a1) "Thou shalt also consider [know] in your heart . . ." (Deut 8:5); and (13a2) "Yet the Lord hath not given you an heart to perceive [know] . . ." (Deut 29:4). (13a3) Solomon prayed, "Give therefore thy servant an understanding heart to judge thy people, that I may discern between good and bad" (1 Kin 3:9; cf. 4:29). (14) Memory is the activity of the "heart," as in Job 22:22: ". . . lay up his [God's] words in thine heart." (15) The "heart" may be the seat of conscience and moral character. How does one respond to the revelation of God and of the world around him? (15a) Job answers: ". . . my heart shall not reproach me as long as I live" (27:6). (15b) On the contrary, "David's heart smote him . . ." (2 Sa 24:10). (16) The "heart" is the fountain of man's deeds: "in the integrity of my heart and innocency of my hands I have done this" (Gen 20:5; cf. v. 6). (16a) David walked "in uprightness of heart" (1 Kin 3:6) and (16b) Hezekiah walked "with a perfect heart" (Is 38:3) before God.

(17) Only the man with "clean hands, and a pure heart" (Ps 24:4) can stand in God's presence. (18) Lebab may refer to the seat of rebellion and pride. God said: "for the imagination of man's heart is evil from his youth" (Gen 8:21). (18a) Tyre is like all men: "Because thine heart is lifted up, and thou hast said, I am a God" (Eze 28:2). (18b) They all become like Judah, whose "sin . . . is graven upon the table of their heart" (Jer 17:1). (19) God controls the "heart." (19a) Because of his natural "heart," man's only hope is in the promise of God: "A new heart also will I give you, . . . and I will take away the stony heart out of your flesh, and I will give you a heart of flesh" (Eze 36:26). (19b) So the sinner prays: "Create in me a clean heart, O God" (Ps 51:10); (19c) and "unite my heart [give me an undivided heart] to fear thy name" (Ps 86:11). (19d) Also, as David says, "I know also, my God, that thou triest the heart, and hast pleasure in uprightness" (1 Chr 29:17). (19e) Hence God's people seek His approval: "try my reins and my heart" (Ps 26:2).

(20) The "heart" stands for the inner being of man, the man himself. As such, it is the fountain of all he does (Prov 4:4). (20a) All his thoughts, desires, words, and actions flow from deep within him. Yet a man cannot understand his own "heart" (Jer 17:9). (20b) As a man goes on in his own way, his "heart" becomes harder and harder. But God will circumcise (cut away the uncleanness of) the "heart" of His people, so that they will love and obey Him with their whole being (Deut 30:6). See: TWOT—1071a; BDB—523a, 925a, 1098d.

to put on a garment or clothe (oneself, or another), lit. or fig.:—clothe {51x}, put on {22x}, put {18x}, array {6x}, wear {4x}, armed {3x}, came {3x}, apparel {1x}, apparelled {1x}, clothed them {1x}, came upon {1x}, variant {1x}.

Labesh means "to put on (a garment), clothe, wear, be clothed." (1) Labash is found very early in the Old Testament, (1a) in Gen 3:21: "Unto Adam also and to his wife did the Lord God make coats of skin, and clothed them." (1b) As always, God provided something much better for man than man could do for himself—in this instance, coats of skins to replace fig-leaf garments (Gen 3:7). (2) Labash is regularly used for the "putting on" of ordinary clothing (Gen 38:19; Ex 29:30; 1 Sa 28:8). (3) The word also describes the "putting on" of armor (Jer 46:4). (4) Many times it is used in a figurative sense, as (4a) in Job 7:5: "My flesh is clothed [covered] with worms. . . ." (4b) Jerusalem is spoken of as "putting on" the Jews as they return after the Exile (Is 49:18). (4c) Often the figurative garment is an abstract quality: "For he put on righteousness as a breastplate, . . . he put on garments of vengeance for clothing" (Is 59:17).

(4d) God is spoken of as being "clothed with honor and majesty" (Ps 104:1). (4e) Job says, "I put on righteousness, and it clothed me" (Job 29:14). (5) These abstract qualities are sometimes negative: (5a) "The prince shall be clothed with desolation" (Eze 7:27). (5b) "They that hate thee shall be clothed with shame" (Job 8:22). (5c) "Let mine adversaries be clothed with shame" (Ps 109:29). (6) A very important figurative use of labash is found in Judg 6:34, where the stative form of the verb may be translated, (6a) "The spirit of the Lord clothed itself [was clothed] with Gideon." (6b) The idea seems to be that the Spirit of the Lord incarnated Himself in Gideon and thus empowered him from within. (6c) The KJV renders it "came upon": "But the Spirit of the LORD came upon Gideon, and he blew a trumpet; and Abiezer was gathered after him." See: TWOT—1075; BDB—527d, 1098d.

Hebrew

3885. לוּן {87x} lûwn, loon; or

לִין lîyn, leen; a prim. root; to stop (usually over night); by impl. to stay permanently; hence, (in a bad sense) to be obstinate (espec. in words, to complain):—lodge {33x}, murmur {14x}, . . . the night {14x}, abide {7x}, remain {6x}, tarry {2x}, lodge in {2x}, continue {1x}, dwell {1x}, endure {1x}, grudge {1x}, left {1x}, lie {1x}, variant {3x}.

Luwn means "to remain, lodge, spend the night, abide." (1) Its first occurrence is in Gen 19:2, where it is used twice: "Behold now, my lords, turn in, I pray you, into your servant's house, and tarry all night (luwn). . . . And they said, Nay; but we will abide (luwn) in the street all night." (2) While it is usually used concerning human beings spending the night, luwn is sometimes used of animals, such as (2a) the unicorn (Job 39:9), (2b) the cormorant and the bittern (Zeph 2:14). (3) The word does not necessarily mean sleeping through the night, but may be used to indicate being located in one place for the night: "Thou shalt not . . . [let] the fat of my sacrifice remain until the morning [literally, "pass the night until morning"] (Ex 23:18). (4) In a similar way, the figurative use of the word often has the connotation of "abiding, remaining": (4a) "Mine error remaineth with myself" (Job 19:4); (4b) "Righteousness lodged in it . . ." (Is 1:21); (4c) "His soul shall dwell at ease . . ." (Ps 25:13); (4d) "[He] shall abide satisfied . . ." (Prov 19:23). See: TWOT—1096, 1097; BDB—533c, 534a, 539b.

Lacham means "to fight, do battle, engage in combat." (1) Lacham appears first in Ex 1:10, where the Egyptian pharaoh expresses his fears that the Israelite slaves will multiply and join an enemy "to fight" against the Egyptians: "Come on, let us deal wisely with them; lest they multiply, and it come to pass, that, when there falleth out any war, they join also unto our enemies, and fight against us, and so get them up out of the land." (2) While the word is commonly used in the context (2a) of "armies engaged in pitched battle" against each other (Num 21:23; Josh 10:5; Judg 11:5), (2b) it is also used to describe "single, hand-to-hand combat": "And David said to Saul, Let no man's heart fail because of him; thy servant will go and fight with this Philistine. And Saul said to David, Thou art not able to go against this Philistine to fight with him: for thou art but a youth, and he a man of war from his youth" (1 Sa 17:32–33). (3) Frequently, God "fights" the battle for Israel (Deut 20:4). (4) Instead of swords, words spoken by a lying tongue are often used "to fight" against God's servants: "For the mouth of the wicked and the mouth of the deceitful are opened against me: they have spoken against me with a lying tongue" (Ps 109:2). See: TWOT—1104, 1105; BDB—535b, 536d.

3899. לֶחֶם {297x} lechem, lekh'-em; from 3898; food (for man or beast), espec. bread, or grain (for making it):—bread {237x}, food {21x}, meat {18x}, shewbread + 6440 {5x}, loaves {5x}, shewbread + 4635 {3x}, shewbread {2x}, victuals {2x}, eat {1x}, feast {1x}, fruit {1x}, provision {1x}.

Lechem means bread, meal, food, fruit. (1) This noun refers to "bread," as distinguished from meat. (1a) The diet of the early Hebrews ordinarily consisted of bread, meat, and liquids: "And he humbled thee, and suffered thee to hunger, and fed thee with manna, which thou knewest not, neither did thy fathers know; that he might make thee know that man doth not live by bread only, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the Lord" (Deut 8:3). (1b) "Bread" was baked in loaves: "And it shall come to pass, that every one that is left in thine house shall come and crouch to him for a piece of silver and a morsel of bread" (1 Sa 2:36). (1c) Even when used by itself, lechem can signify a "loaf of bread": (1c1) "They will salute thee, and give thee two loaves of bread . . ." (1 Sa 10:4). (1c2) In this usage, the word is always preceded by a number. (1d) "Bread" was also baked in cakes (2 Sa 6:19).

(2) A "bit of bread" is a term for a modest meal. So Abraham said to his three guests, "Let a little water, I pray you, be fetched . . . and I will fetch a morsel of bread, and comfort ye your hearts" (Gen 18:4–5). (3) In 1 Sa 20:27, lechem represents an entire meal: "Saul said unto Jonathan his son, Wherefore cometh not the son of Jesse to meat, neither yesterday, nor today?" (4) Thus, "to make bread" may actually mean "to prepare a meal": "A feast is made for laughter, and wine maketh merry" (Eccl 10:19). (5) The "staff of bread" is the "support of life": "And when I have broken the staff of your bread, ten women shall bake your bread in one oven, and they shall deliver you your bread again by weight: and ye shall eat, and not be satisfied" (Lev 26:26). (6) The Bible refers to the "bread of the face" or "the bread of the Presence," which was the bread constantly set before God in the holy place of the tabernacle or temple: "And thou shalt set upon the table showbread before me always" (Ex 25:30).

(7) In several passages, lechem represents the grain from which "bread" is made: (7a) "And the seven years of dearth began to come, according as Joseph had said: and the dearth was in all the lands; but in all the land of Egypt there was bread" (Gen 41:54). (7b) The meaning "grain" is very clear in 2 Kin 18:32: "Until I come and take you away to a land like your own land, a land of corn and wine, a land of bread and vineyards." (8) Lechem can represent food in general. (8a) In Gen 3:19 (the first biblical occurrence), it signifies the entire diet: "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread." (8b) This nuance may include meat, as it does in Judg 13:15–16: "And Manoah said unto the angel of the Lord, I pray thee, let us detain thee, until we shall have made ready a kid for thee. And the angel of the Lord said unto Manoah, Though thou detain me, I will not eat of thy bread." (8c) In 1 Sa 14:24, 28, lechem includes honey, and in Prov 27:27 goat's milk.

(9) Lechem may also represent "food" for animals: "He giveth to the beast his food, and to the young ravens which cry" (Ps 147:9; cf. Prov 6:8). (10) Flesh and grain offered to God are called "the bread of God": "For the offerings of the Lord made by fire, and the bread of their God, they do offer . . ." (Lev 21:6; cf. 22:13). (11) There are several special or figurative uses of lechem. (11a) The "bread" of wickedness is "food" gained by wickedness: "For [evil men] eat the bread of wickedness, and drink the wine of violence" (Prov 4:17). (11b) Compare the "bread" or "food" gained by deceit (Prov 20:17) and lies (23:3). (11c) Thus, in Prov 31:27 the good wife "looketh well to the ways of her household, and eateth not the bread of idleness"—i.e., unearned food. (11d) The "bread of my portion" is the food that one earns (Prov 30:8). (12) Figuratively, men are the "food" or prey for their enemies: "Only rebel not ye against the Lord, neither fear ye the people of the land; for they are bread for us . . ." (Num 14:9).

(13) The psalmist in his grief says his tears are his "food" (Ps 42:3). (14) Evil deeds are likened to food: "[The evil man's] meat in his bowels is turned, it is the gall of asps within him" (Job 20:14). (15) In Jer. 11:19, lechem represents "fruit from a tree" and is a figure of a man and his offspring: "And I knew not that they had devised devices against me, saying, Let us destroy the tree with the fruit thereof, and let us cut him off from the land of the living, that his name may be no more remembered." Layelah means "night." (1) Layelah means "night," the period of time during which it is dark: "And God called the light Day, and the darkness he called Night" (Gen 1:5—the first biblical appearance). (2) In Ex 13:21 and similar passages the word means "by night," or "during the night": "And the Lord went before them by day in a pillar of cloud . . . and by night in a pillar of fire, to give them light; to go by day and night." (3) This word is used figuratively of protection: "Take counsel, execute judgment; make thy shadow as the night in the midst of the noonday; hide the outcasts; [betray] not him that wandereth" (Is 16:3). (3) Layelah also figures deep calamity without the comforting presence and guidance of God, and/or other kinds of distress: "Where is God my maker, who giveth songs in the night . . ." (Job 35:10). (4) During Old Testament times the "night" was divided into three watches: (4a) from sunset to 10 P.M., (Lam 2:19), (4b) from 10 P.M. to 2 A.M. (Judg 7:19), and (4c) from 2 A.M. to sunrise (Ex 14:24). See: TWOT—1111; BDB—538c, 1099b.

Lakad (3920) means "to capture; seize; take captive." (1) It is found for the first time in the text in Num 21:32, where the Israelites are said to have taken the villages of the Amorites. (2) The act of "capturing, seizing" is usually connected with fighting wars or battles, so a variety of objects may be taken. (2a) Cities are often "captured" in war (Josh 8:21; 10:1; Judg 1:8, 12). (2b) Land or territory also is taken as booty of war (Josh 10:42; Dan 11:18). (2c) Strategic geographic areas such as watercourses "are captured" (Judg 3:28). (2d) Sometimes kings and princes "are seized" in battle (Judg 7:25; 8:12, 14), (2e) as well as fighting men and horses (2 Sa 8:4). (2f) Saul is spoken of as actually taking the kingdom, apparently by force of arms (1 Sa 14:47). (3) In establishing the source of Israel's defeat by Ai, lots were used "to take or separate" the guilty party, Achan and his family (Josh 7:14). (4) Occasionally lakad is used in the figurative sense, especially in terms of men "being caught" in the trap of divine judgment (Ps 9:15; Is 8:15; 24:18). Syn: 3948, 4455, 4457, 4727, 4728. See: TWOT—1115; BDB—539d.

Lamad means "to teach, learn, cause to learn." (1) In its simple, active form, this verb has the meaning "to learn," but it is also found in a form giving the causative sense, "to teach." (2) This word is first used in the Hebrew Old Testament in Deut 4:1: "Hearken, O Israel, unto the statutes and unto the judgments, which I teach you." (3) In Deut 5:1 lamad is used of learning God's laws: (3a) "Hear, O Israel, the statutes and judgments which I speak in your ears this day, that ye may learn them, and keep, and do them." (3b) A similar meaning occurs in Ps 119:7: "I will praise thee with uprightness of heart, when I shall have learned thy righteous judgments." (4) The word may be used of learning other things: works of the heathen (Ps 106:35); wisdom (Prov 30:3); and war (Mic 4:3).

(5) About half the occurrences of lamad are found in the books of Deuteronomy and Psalms, underlining the teaching emphasis found in these books. (5a) Judaism's traditional emphasis on teaching and thus preserving its faith clearly has its basis in the stress on teaching the faith found in the Old Testament, specifically Deut. 6:4–9, better known as the "Shema". (5b) Following the Shema', the "watchword of Judaism" that declares that Yahweh is One (Deut 6:4), is the "first great commandment" (Deut 6:5; Mark 12:28–29). (5c) When Moses delivered the Law to his people, he said, "The Lord commanded me at that time to teach you statutes and judgments" (Deut 4:14). (6) The later Jewish term Talmud [not a biblical word], "instruction," is derived from this verb. Syn.: 502, 995, 1696, 2094, 2449, 3256, 7919, 8150. See: TWOT—1116; BDB—540c.

Limmud means "taught." (1) This adjective forms an exact equivalent to the New Testament idea of "disciple, one who is taught." (2) This is well expressed in Is 8:16: "Seal the law among my disciples." (3) The word also occurs 3947. לָקַח {965x} lâqach, law-kakh'; a prim. root; to take (in the widest variety of applications):—take {747x}, receive {61x}, take away {51x}, fetch {31x}, bring {25x}, get {6x}, take out {6x}, carry away {5x}, married {4x}, buy {3x}, misc. {26x} = accept, drawn, infold, × many, mingle, place, reserve, seize, send for, use, win.

Laqach means "to take, receive, take away." (1) Primarily this word means "to take, grasp, take hold of," as when Noah reached out and "took hold of" the dove to bring it back into the ark (Gen 8:9). (2) A secondary meaning is "to take away, remove, take to oneself," as when the invading kings "took away" and "took to themselves" all the movable goods of the cities of the plain (Gen 14:11). (3) Sometimes this verb implies "to receive something from someone." So Abraham asks Ephron the Hittite to "receive from" his hand payment for the field which contained the sepulchre (Gen 23:13). (4) With the particle "for" laqach means "to take someone or something," as when Joseph's brothers remarked that they were afraid he was scheming "to take" them to be slaves, mentioned in Gen 43:18. (5) Another secondary use of this word is "to transfer" a thing, concept, or emotion, such as (5a) "take vengeance" (Is 47:3), (5b) "receive reproach" (Eze 36:30), and (5c) "receive a [whisper]" (Job 4:12). (6) In other passages this verb is virtually a helping verb serving to prepare for an action stipulated in a subsequent verb; God "took" Adam and put him into the garden of Eden (Gen 2:15—the first occurrence of the verb).

(7) This word can be used elliptically, suggesting the phrase "take and bring," but only "taken" is written. Noah is told to "take" (and bring) clean animals by sevens into the ark (Gen 7:2). (8) This verb is used of God in several connections. (8a) Sometimes God is pictured as having bodily parts (anthropomorphically). (8b) This is the implication of Gen 2:15, where the Lord "took" Adam and put him into Eden. (8b1) God's taking sometimes connotes election, as when He "took" Abraham from his father's house (Gen 24:7). (8b2) He also "takes" in the sense of taking to Himself or accepting. Thus, He "accepts" offerings (Judg 13:23) and prayers (Ps 6:9). (8c) God "takes away" in judgment David's wives (2 Sa 12:11) and the kingdom (1 Kin 11:34). (9) Of special interest is the use of the verb in the absolute sense: God "took away" Enoch so that he was not found on earth (Gen 5:24). This meaning of receiving one into heaven to Himself seems to be the force of Ps 73:24 and perhaps of Ps 49:15. Syn: 3920, 4455, 4457, 4727, 4728. See: TWOT—1124; BDB—542c, 881c.

3948. לֶקַח leqach, leh'-kakh; from 3947; prop. something received, i.e. (ment.) instruction (whether on the part of the teacher or hearer); also (in an act. and sinister sense) inveiglement:—doctrine {4x}, learning {4x}, fair speech {1x}.

Leqach means teaching; instruction; persuasiveness; understanding, in the sense of something taken in. (1) The word is used in the sense of something taken in. (2) One occurrence is in Prov 1:5: "A wise man will hear, and will increase learning." (3) The word refers to "persuasiveness" in Prov 7:21. Syn: 3947, 4455, 4457, 4727, 4728. See: TWOT—1124a; BDB—544b.

לָשֹׁן lâshôn, law-shone'; also (in plur.) fem.

(speech, an ingot, a fork of flame, a cove of water):—tongue {98x}, language {10x}, bay {3x}, wedge {2x}, babbler {1x}, flame {1x}, speaker + 376 {1x}, talkers {1x}.

Lashon means, "tongue; language; speech." (1) In the Hebrew Old Testament it appears 115 times, mainly in the poetic and, to a lesser extent, in the prophetical books. The first occurrence is in Gen 10:5: "By these were the isles of the Gentiles divided in their lands; every one after his tongue, after their families, in their nations." (2) The basic meaning of lashon is "tongue," which as an organ of the body refers (2a) to humans (Lam 4:4) and (2b) animals (Ex 11:7; Job 41:1). (3) The extended meaning of the word as an organ of speech occurs more frequently. (3a) A person may be "heavy" or "slow" of tongue (Ex 4:10); or (3b) he may be fluent and clear: "The heart also of the rash shall understand knowledge, and the tongue of the stammerers shall be ready to speak plainly" (Is 32:4). (4) And see the description of the "tongue" in Ps 45:1: "My heart is inditing a good matter: I speak of the things which I have made touching the King: my tongue is the pen of a ready writer."

(5) The word is often better translated as "speech," because of the negative and positive associations of lashon. (5a) Especially in the wisdom literature the manner of one's "speech" is considered to be the external expression of the character of the speaker. (5b) The fool's "speech" is unreliable (Ps 5:9), deceitful (Ps 109:2; 120:2–3; Prov 6:17), boastful (Ps 140:11), flattering (Prov 26:28), slanderous (Ps 15:3), and subversive (Prov 10:31). (5c) The "tongue" of the righteous man heals (Prov 15:4). (5d) While the "tongue" may be as sharp as a sword (Ps 57:4), it is a means of giving life to the righteous and death to the wicked: "Death and life are in the power of the tongue: and they that love it shall eat the fruit thereof" (Prov 18:21; cf. 21:23; 25:15). (6) The biblical authors speak of divine inspiration as the Lord's enabling them to speak: "The Spirit of the Lord spake by me, and his word was in my tongue" (2 Sa 23:2; cf. Prov 16:1).(7) "Tongue" with the meaning "speech" has as a synonym peh (6310), "mouth" (Ps 66:17), and more rarely sapah (8222), "lip" (Job 27:4).

(8) A further extension of meaning is "language." In Hebrew both sapah (8222) and lashon denote a foreign "language": "For with stammering lips and another tongue will he speak to this people" (Is 28:11). The foreigners to the "language" are well described in these words: "Thou shalt not see a fierce people, a people of a deeper speech than thou canst perceive; of stammering tongue, that thou canst not understand" (Is 33:19). (9) Lashon also refers to objects that are shaped in the form of a tongue. Most important is the "tongue of fire," which even takes the character of "eating" or "devouring": "Therefore as the [tongues of fire] devoureth the stubble, and the flame consumeth the chaff . . ." (Is 5:24). (10) The association in Isaiah of God's appearance in judgment with smoke and fire gave rise to a fine literary description of the Lord's anger: "Behold, the name of the Lord cometh from far, burning with his anger, and the burden thereof is heavy: his lips are full of indignation, and his tongue as a devouring fire" (Is 30:27). Notice the words "lips" and "tongue" here with the meaning of "flames of fire," even though the language evokes the representation of a tongue (as an organ of the body) together with a tongue (of fire). (11) Also a bar of gold (Josh 7:21) and a bay of the sea (Is 11:15) shaped in the form of a tongue were called lashon. Syn.: 6310, 8193. I. Me'od, as an adverb, means "exceedingly; very; greatly; highly." (1) Me'od functions adverbially, meaning "very." (2) The more superlative emphasis appears in Gen 7:18, where the word is applied to the "amount (quantity)" of a thing: "And the waters prevailed, and were increased greatly upon the earth." (3) In Ps 47:9, me'od is used of "magnifying" and "exaltation": "For the shields of the earth belong unto God; he is greatly exalted." (4) The doubling of the word is a means of emphasizing its basic meaning, which is "very much": "And the waters prevailed exceedingly upon the earth" (Gen 7:19). II. Me'od, as a noun, means "might." This word is used substantively in the sequence "heart . . . soul . . . might": "And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might" (Deut 6:5). 11:20). (5) At the same time, man may "reject" evil (Is 7:15–16). Muwl (4135) means "to circumcise, cut off." (1) Most of the occurrences in the Old Testament take place in the Pentateuch (20 times) and Joshua (8 times). Muwl occurs most frequently in Genesis (17 times, 11 of them in Genesis 17 alone) and Joshua (8 times). (2) The physical act of circumcision was introduced by God as a sign of the Abrahamic covenant: (2a) "This is my covenant, which ye shall keep, between me and you and thy seed after thee; Every man child among you shall be circumcised. And ye shall circumcise the flesh of your foreskin; and it shall be a token of the covenant betwixt me and you" (Gen 17:10–11). (2b) It was a permanent "cutting off" of the foreskin of the male organ, and as such was a reminder of the perpetuity of the covenantal relationship. (2c) Israel was enjoined to be faithful in "circumcising" all males; each male baby was to be "circumcised" on the eighth day (Gen 17:12; Lev 12:3). (2d) Not only were the physical descendants of Abraham "circumcised," but also those who were servants, slaves, and foreigners in the covenant community (Gen 17:13–14).

(3) The special act of circumcision was a sign of God's gracious promise. With the promise and covenantal relations, God expected that His people would joyously and willingly live up to His expectations, and thus demonstrate His rule on earth. (4) To describe the "heart" attitude, several writers of Scripture use the verb "to circumcise." (4a) The "circumcision" of the flesh is a physical sign of commitment to God. (4b) Deuteronomy particularly is fond of the spiritual usage of the verb "to circumcise": "Circumcise therefore the foreskin of your heart, and be no more stiffnecked" (Deut 10:16; cf. 30:6). (4c) Jeremiah took over this usage: "Circumcise yourselves to the Lord, and take away the foreskins of your heart, ye men of Judah . . . , because of the evil of your doings" (Jer 4:4). (5) Few occurrences of the verb differ from the physical and the spiritual usage of "to circumcise." Muwl in the Book of Psalms has the meaning of "to cut off, destroy": "All nations compassed me about: but in the name of the LORD will I destroy them" (Ps 118:10; cf. vv. 11–12). Muwcar means "instruction; chastisement; warning." (1) This noun occurs 50 times, mainly in Proverbs. (2) The first occurrence is in Deut 11:2: "I speak not with your children which have not known, and which have not seen the chastisement of the LORD your God, his greatness, his mighty hand, and his stretched out arm." (3) One of the major purposes of the wisdom literature was to teach wisdom and muwcar (Prov 1:2). (4) Muwcar is discipline, but more. (4a) As "discipline" it teaches how to live correctly in the fear of the Lord, so that the wise man learns his lesson before temptation and testing: "Then I saw, and considered it well: I looked upon it, and received instruction" (Prov 24:32). (4b) This "discipline" is training for life; hence, paying attention to muwcar is important. (4c) Many verbs bear out the need for a correct response: "hear, obey, love, receive, obtain, take hold of, guard, keep." (4d) Moreover, the rejection is borne out by many verbs connected with muwcar: "reject, hate, ignore, not love, despise, forsake."

(5) When muwcar as "instruction" has been given, but was not observed, the muwcar as "chastisement" or "discipline" may be the next step: "Foolishness is bound in the heart of a child; but the rod of correction shall drive it far from him" (Prov 22:15). (6) Careful attention to "instruction" brings honor (Prov 1:9), life (Prov 4:13), and wisdom (Prov 8:33), and above all it pleases God: "For whoso findeth me findeth life, and shall obtain favor of the Lord" (Prov 8:35). (7) The lack of observance of "instruction" brings its own results: death (Prov 5:23), poverty, and shame (Prov 13:18), and is ultimately a sign that one has no regard for one's own life (Prov 15:32). (8) The receptivity for "instruction" from one's parents, teacher, the wise, or the king is directly corollary to one's subjugation to God's discipline. (8a) The prophets charged Israel with not receiving God's discipline: "O Lord, are not thine eyes upon the truth? thou hast stricken them, but they have not grieved; thou hast consumed them, but they have refused to receive correction: they have made their faces harder than a rock; they have refused to return" (Jer 5:3).

(8b) Jeremiah asked the men of Judah and the inhabitants in the besieged Jerusalem to pay attention to what was happening around them, that they still might subject themselves to "instruction" (35:13). (9) Isaiah predicted that God's chastisement on man was carried by the Suffering Servant, bringing peace to those who believe in Him: "But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed" (53:5). The place of meeting; also a signal (as appointed beforehand):—congregation {150x}, feast {23x}, season {13x}, appointed {12x}, time {12x}, assembly {4x}, solemnity {4x}, solemn {2x}, days {1x}, sign {1x}, synagogues {1x}.

Moʿed means "appointed place of meeting; meeting." (1) The noun moʿed appears in the Old Testament 223 times, of which 160 times are in the Pentateuch. (2) The word moʿed keeps its basic meaning of "appointed," (2a) but varies as to what is agreed upon or appointed according to the context: the time, the place, or the meeting itself. (2b) The usage of the verb in Amos 3:3 is illuminating: "Can two walk together, except they be agreed?" Whether they have agreed on a time or a place of meeting, or on the meeting itself, is ambiguous. (3) The meaning of moʿed is fixed within the context of Israel's religion. (3a) First, the festivals came to be known as the "appointed times" or the set feasts. These festivals were clearly prescribed in the Pentateuch.

(3b) The word refers to any "festival" or "pilgrimage festival," such as Passover (Lev 23:15ff.), the feast of first fruits (Lev 23:15ff.), the feast of tabernacles (Lev 23:33ff.), or the Day of Atonement (Lev 23:27). (3b) God condemned the people for observing the moʿed ritualistically: "Your new moons and your appointed feasts my soul hateth" (Is 1:14). (4) The word moʿed also signifies a "fixed place." (4a) This usage is not frequent: "For thou hast said in thine heart, I will ascend into heaven, I will exalt my throne above the stars of God: I will sit also upon the mount of the congregation [moʿed], in the sides of the north" (Is 14:13). (4b) "For I know that thou wilt bring me to death, and to the house appointed for all living" (Job 30:23). (5) In both meanings of moʿed—"fixed time" and "fixed place"—a common denominator is the "meeting" of two or more parties at a certain place and time—hence the usage of moʿed as "meeting." (6) The phrase, "tabernacle of the congregation," is a translation of the Hebrew ʿohel moʿed ("tent of meeting"). (6a) The phrase occurs 139 times—mainly in Exodus, Leviticus, and Numbers, rarely in Deuteronomy.

(6b) It signifies that the Lord has an "appointed place" by which His presence is represented and through which Israel was assured that their God was with them. (6c) The fact that the tent was called the "tent of meeting" signifies that Israel's God was among His people and that He was to be approached at a certain time and place that were "fixed" (yaʿad) in the Pentateuch. (6d) In the KJV, this phrase is translated as "tabernacle of the congregation" (Ex 28:43) because translators realized that the noun ʿedah ("congregation") is derived from the same root as moʿed. (7) Of the three meanings, the appointed "time" is most basic. The phrase "tent of meeting" lays stress on the "place of meeting." The "meeting" itself is generally associated with "time" or "place." Syn.: 5172. See: TWOT—878b; BDB—417b, 558a, 588d.

Mowpheth means "wonder; sign; portent." (1) First, this word signifies a divine act or a special display of divine power: "When thou goest to return into Egypt, see that thou do all those wonders before Pharaoh, which I have put in thine hand" (Ex 4:21—the first biblical occurrence of the word). (2) Acts effecting the divine curses are called "wonders." Thus the word does not necessarily refer to a miraculous act, if "miracle" means something outside the realm of ordinary providence. (3) The word can represent a "sign" from God or a token of a future event: "This is the sign which the LORD hath spoken: Behold, the altar shall be rent, and the ashes that are upon it shall be poured out" (1 Kin 13:3). (3a) This sense sometimes has the nuance "symbol": "Hear now, O Joshua the high priest, thou, and thy fellows that sit before thee: for they are men wondered at (mowpheth): for, behold, I will bring forth my servant the BRANCH" (Zec 3:8; cf. Ps 71:7). See: TWOT—152a; BDB—68d, 558b.

Motsa' means place of going forth; that which comes forth; going forth. (1) Motsa' is a word for "east" (cf. Ps 19:6), where the sun rises ("goes forth"): "His going forth is from the end of the heaven, and his circuit unto the ends of it: and there is nothing hid from the heat thereof." (2) The word also represents the "place of departure" or "exit" from the temple in Ezekiel's vision (Eze 42:11): "And the way before them was like the appearance of the chambers which were toward the north, as long as they, and as broad as they: and all their goings out were both according to their fashions, and according to their doors." (3) Motsa' also refers to the "starting point" of a journey (Num 33:2). (4) Motsa' may also refer to that which "comes forth," for example, (4a) an "utterance" (Num 30:13), and (4b) the "going forth" of the morning and evening, the dawn and dusk (Ps 65:8). (5) Finally, the word can represent the "actual going forth" itself. So Hosea says that the LORD's "going forth" to redeem His people is as certain as the sunrise (6:3). See: TWOT—893c; BDB—425c, 558b, 594b.

Morah means "fear." (1) The noun morah, which appears 13 times, is used exclusively of the fear of being before a superior kind of being. (2) Usually it is used to describe the reaction evoked in men by God's mighty works of destruction and sovereignty: (2a) "For the LORD thy God is a consuming fire, even a jealous God" (Deut 4:24). (2b) Hence, the word represents a very strong "fear" or "terror." (3) In the singular, this word emphasizes the divine acts themselves. Morah may suggest the reaction (3a) of animals to men: "And the fear of you and the dread of you shall be upon every beast of the earth, and upon every fowl of the air, upon all that moveth upon the earth, and upon all the fishes of the sea; into your hand are they delivered" (Gen 9:2); and (3b) of the nations to conquering Israel: "There shall no man be able to stand before you: for the LORD your God shall lay the fear of you and the dread of you upon all the land that ye shall tread upon, as he hath said unto you" (Deut 11:25). 4190. מוֹשָׁעָה {1x} môwshâ^ʿâh, mo-shaw-aw'; from 3467; deliverance:—salvation {1x}. See: TWOT—929d; BDB—448a, 559b.

4191. מוּת {835x} mûwth, mooth; a prim. root; to die (lit. or fig.); caus. to kill:—die {424x}, dead {130x}, slay {100x}, death {83x}, surely {50x}, kill {31x}, dead man {3x}, dead body {2x}, in no wise {2x}, misc. {10x} = × at all, × crying, destroy (-er), necro [-mancer], × must needs, × very suddenly.

Muwth means "to die, kill." (1) Essentially, muwth means "to lose one's life." (1a) The word is used of physical "death," with reference to both man and beast. (1a1) Gen 5:5 records that Adam lived "nine hundred and thirty years: and he died." (1a2) Jacob explains to Esau that, were his livestock to be driven too hard (fast), the young among them would "die" (Gen 33:13). (1b) At one point, this verb is also used to refer to the stump of a plant (Job 14:8). (1c) Occasionally, muwth is used figuratively of land (Gen 47:19) or wisdom (Job 12:2). (1d) Then, too, there is the unique hyperbolic expression that Nabal's heart had "died" within him, indicating that he was overcome with great fear (1 Sa 25:37). (2) In an intensive stem, this root is used of the last act inflicted upon one who is already near death. Thus Abimelech, his head having been cracked by a millstone, asked his armor-bearer to "kill" him (Judg 9:54). (3) In the usual causative stem, this verb can mean "to cause to die" or "to kill"; God is the one who "puts to death" and gives life (Deut 32:39). (4) Usually, both the subject and object of this usage are personal, although there are exceptions—as when the Philistines personified the ark of the covenant, urging its removal so it would not "kill" them (1 Sa 5:11).

(5) Death in this sense may also be inflicted by animals (Ex 21:29). (6) This word describes "putting to death" in the broadest sense, including war and judicial sentences of execution (Josh 10:26). (7) God is clearly the ultimate Ruler of life and death (cf. Deut 32:39). (7a) This idea is especially clear in the Creation account, in which God tells man that he will surely die if he eats of the forbidden fruit (Gen 2:17—the first occurrence of the verb). (7b) Apparently there was no death before this time. When the serpent questioned Eve, she associated disobedience with death (Gen 3:3). The serpent repeated God's words, but negated them (Gen 3:4). (7c) When Adam and Eve ate of the fruit, both spiritual and physical death came upon Adam and Eve and their descendants (cf. Rom 5:12). (7d) They experienced spiritual death immediately, resulting in their shame and their attempt to cover their nakedness (Gen 3:7). (7e) Sin and/or the presence of spiritual death required a covering, but man's provision was inadequate; so God made a perfect covering in the form of a promised redeemer (Gen 3:15) and a typological covering of animal skins (Gen 3:21). See: TWOT—1169; BDB—559b, 607a, 1099d.

4192. מוּת {2x} Mûwth (Ps 48:14), mooth; or מוּת לַבֵּן Mûwth lab-bên, mooth lab-bane'; from 4191 and 1121 with the prep. and art. interposed; "To die for the son", prob. the title of a popular song:—death {1x}, Muthlabben {1x}. See: BDB—527c, 761b, 761c, 763a.

4193. מוֹת {1x} môwth (Aram.), mohth; corresp. to 4194; death:—death {1x}. See: TWOT—2823; BDB—1099d.

4194. מָוֶת {160x} mâveth, maw'-veth; from 4191; death (nat. or violent); concr. the dead, their place or state (hades); fig. pestilence, ruin:—death {128x}, die {22x}, dead {8x}, deadly {1x}, slay {1x}.

Maveth means "death." (1) The word maveth occurs frequently as an antonym of chayyim (2416 - "life"): "I call heaven and earth to record this day against you, that I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing: therefore choose life, that both thou and thy seed may live" (Deut 30:19). (2) In the poetic language, maveth is used more often than in the historical books: Job-Proverbs (about 60 times), Joshua-Esther (about 40 times); but in the major prophets only about 25 times. (3) "Death" is the natural end of human life on this earth; it is an aspect of God's judgment on man: "But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it: for in the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die" (Gen 2:17). (3a) Hence all men die: "If these men die the common death of all men . . . then the LORD hath not sent me" (Num 16:29). (3b) The Old Testament uses "death" in phrases such as "the day of death" (Gen 27:2) and "the year of death" (Is 6:1), or to mark an event as occurring before (Gen 27:7, 10) or after (Gen 26:18) someone's passing away.

(4) "Death" may also come upon someone in a violent manner, as an execution of justice: "And if a man have committed a sin worthy of death and he be to be put to death, and thou hang him on a tree: his body shall not remain all night upon the tree" (Deut 21:22–23). (4a) Saul declared David to be a "son of death" because he intended to have David killed (1 Sa 20:31; cf. Prov 16:14). (4b) In one of his experiences, David composed a psalm expressing how close an encounter he had had with death: "When the waves of death compassed me, the floods of ungodly men made me afraid; the sorrows of hell compassed me about; the snares of death prevented me" (2 Sa 22:5–6; cf. Ps 18:5–6). (5) Isaiah predicted the Suffering Servant was to die a violent death: "And he made his grave with the wicked, and with the rich in his death; because he had done no violence, neither was any deceit in his mouth" (Is 53:9).

(6) Associated with the meaning of "death" is the meaning of "death by a plague." (6a) In a besieged city with unsanitary conditions, pestilence would quickly reduce the weakened population. (6b) Jeremiah alludes to this type of death as God's judgment on Egypt (43:11); note that "death" refers here to "death of famine and pestilence." (6c) Lamentations describes the situation of Jerusalem before its fall: "Abroad the sword bereaveth, at home there is as death" (Lam 1:20; cf. also Jer 21:8–9).

(7) The word maveth denotes the "realm of the dead" or she'ol. This place of death has gates (Ps 9:13; 107:18) and chambers (Prov 7:27); the path of the wicked leads to this abode (Prov 5:5). (8) Isaiah expected "death" to be ended when the Lord's full kingship would be established: "He will swallow up death in victory; and the Lord GOD will wipe away tears from off all faces; and the rebuke of his people shall he take away from off all the earth: for the LORD hath spoken it" (Is 25:8). See: TWOT—1169a; BDB—560c.

Mizbeach means "altar." (1) This frequent use is obviously another direct evidence of the centrality of the sacrificial system in Israel. (2) This word signifies a raised place where a sacrifice was made, as in Gen 8:20 (its first biblical appearance): "And Noah builded an altar unto the Lord; and took of every clean beast, and of every clean fowl, and offered burnt offerings on the altar." The first appearance of mizbeach is in Gen 8:20, where Noah built an "altar" after the Flood. (3) Countless "altars" are referred to as the story of Israel progresses on the pages of the Old Testament: that (3a) of Noah (Gen 8:20); (3b) of Abram at Sichem (Gen 12:7), (3c) at Beth-el (Gen 12:8), and (3d) at Moriah (Gen 22:9); (3e) of Isaac at Beersheba (Gen 26:25); (3f) of Jacob at Shechem (Gen 33:20); (3g) of Moses at Horeb (Ex 24:4), (3h) of Samuel at Ramah (1 Sa 7:17); (3i) of the temple in Jerusalem (1 Kin 6:20; 8:64); and (3j) of the two "altars" planned by Ezekiel for the restored temple (Eze 41:22; 43:13–17). (4) In later references, this word may refer to a table upon which incense was burned: "And thou shalt make an altar to burn incense upon: of shittim wood shalt thou make it" (Ex 30:1). (5) From the dawn of human history, offerings were made on a raised table of stone or ground (Gen 4:3).

(5) At first, Israel's altars were to be made of earth—i.e., they were fashioned of material that was strictly the work of God's hands. (5a) If the Jews were to hew stone for altars in the wilderness, they would have been compelled to use war weapons to do the work. (Notice that in Ex 20:25 the word for "tool" is chereb, "sword.") (5b) At Sinai, God directed Israel to fashion altars of valuable woods and metals. This taught them that true worship required man's best and that it was to conform exactly to God's directives; God, not man, initiated and controlled worship. (6) The altar that stood before the holy place (Ex 27:1–8) and the altar of incense within the holy place (Ex 30:1–10) had "horns." (6a) These horns had a vital function in some offerings (Lev 4:30; 16:18). (6b) For example, the sacrificial animal may have been bound to these horns in order to allow its blood to drain away completely (Ps 118:27). (7) Mizbeach is also used of pagan altars: "But ye shall destroy their altars, break their images, and cut down their groves" (Ex 34:13). (8) This noun is derived from the Hebrew verb zabach (2076), (8a) which literally means "to slaughter for food" or "to slaughter for sacrifice." (8b) Another Old Testament noun derived from zabach is zebach (162 times), which usually refers to a sacrifice that establishes communion between God and those who eat the thing offered. See: TWOT—525b; BDB—560d.

This stresses that what ever God thinks to be, is purposed and will happen. (3) Mezimmah refers to "evil device (lewdness)" in Jer 11:15: "What hath my beloved to do in mine house, seeing she hath wrought lewdness with many." (4) In Job 21:27 the word is used to mean "evil thoughts," and (5) in Prov 1:4 the word is used for "discretion." Hebrew this word is clearly set forth in Ex 19:10: "And the LORD said unto Moses, Go unto the people, and sanctify them today and tomorrow, and let them wash their clothes." (2) In a few passages the phrase yom machar is used: "So shall my righteousness answer for me in time to come [later]" (Gen 30:33). (3) In most passages machar by itself (used absolutely) means "tomorrow": "Behold, I go out from thee, and I will entreat the LORD that the swarms of flies may depart from Pharaoh, from his servants, and from his people, tomorrow" (Ex 8:29). (4) Interestingly, in Ex 8:10 the phrase lemachar (which appears 5 times in the Bible) is used: "And he said, Tomorrow." (5) Used with the preposition ke, the word means "tomorrow about this time": "Behold, tomorrow about this time I will cause it to rain a very grievous hail" (Ex 9:18). Macharath, as an adverb, means "the next day." (1) Closely related to the noun machar (4279) is this adverb, which occurs about 32 times and in all periods of biblical Hebrew. (2) About 28 times macharat is joined to the preposition min to mean "on the next day." This is its form and meaning in its first biblical appearance: "And it came to pass on the morrow . . ." Mayim means "water; flood." (1) First, "water" is one of the original basic substances. (1a) This is its significance in Gen 1:2 (the first occurrence of the word): "And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters." (1b) In Gen 1:7 God separated the "waters" above and the "waters" below (cf. Ex 20:4) the expanse of the heavens. (2) Second, the word represents that which is in a well, "water" to be drunk (Gen 21:19). (2a) "Living water" is "water" that flows: "And Isaac's servants digged in the valley, and found there a well of springing [living] water" (Gen 26:19). (2b) "Water" of oppression or affliction is so designated because it is drunk in prison: "Put this fellow in the prison, and feed him with bread of affliction and with water of affliction, until I come in peace"

(1 Kin 22:27). (2c) Job 9:30 speaks of slush or snow water: "If I wash myself with snow water, and make my hands never so clean. . . ."

(3) Third, mayim can represent liquid in general: "For the LORD our God hath put us to silence, and given us water of gall to drink, because we have sinned against the LORD" (Jer 8:14). (3a) The phrase, me raglayim ("water of one's feet") is urine: "Hath my master sent me to thy master, and to thee, to speak these words? hath he not sent me to the men which sit on the wall, that they may eat their own dung, and drink their own piss [water of their feet] with you?" (2 Kin 18:27; cf. Is 25:10). (4) Fourth, in Israel's cultus [rituals] "water" was poured or sprinkled (no one was ever immersed into water), symbolizing purification. (4a) So Aaron and his sons were to be washed with "water" as a part of the rite consecrating them to the priesthood: "And Aaron and his sons thou shalt bring unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and shalt wash them with water" (Ex 29:4). (4b) Parts of the sacrificial animal were to be ritually cleansed with "water" during the sacrifice: "But his inwards and his legs shall he wash in water" (Lev 1:9).

(4c) Israel's rites sometimes include consecrated "water": "And the priest shall take holy water in an earthen vessel; and of the dust that is in the floor of the tabernacle the priest shall take, and put it into the water" (Num 5:17). (4d) "Bitter water" was used in Israel's rituals, too: "And the priest shall set the woman before the LORD, and uncover the woman's head, and put the offering of memorial in her hands, which is the jealousy offering: and the priest shall have in his hand the bitter water that causeth the curse" (Num 5:18). (4e) It was "water" which when drunk brought a curse and caused bitterness (Num 5:24). (5) Fifth, in proper names this word is used of springs, streams, or seas and/or the area in the immediate vicinity of such bodies of water: "Say unto Aaron, Take thy rod, and stretch out thine hand upon the waters of Egypt, upon their streams, upon their rivers, and upon their ponds, and upon all their pools of water, that they may become blood" (Ex 7:19).

(6) Sixth, this word is used figuratively in many senses. (6a) Mayim symbolizes danger or distress: "He sent from above, he took me; he drew me out of many waters" (2 Sa 22:17). (6b) Outbursting force is represented by mayim in 2 Sa 5:20: "The LORD hath broken forth upon mine enemies before me, as the [breakthrough] of waters." (6c) "Mighty waters" describes the onrush of the godless nations against God: "The nations shall rush like the rushing of many waters" (Is 17:13). (6d) Thus the word is used to picture something impetuous, violent, and overwhelming: "Terrors take hold on him as waters, a tempest stealeth him away in the night" (Job 27:20). (6e) In other passages "water" is used to represent timidity: "Wherefore the hearts of the people melted, and became as water" (Josh 7:5). (6f) Related to this nuance is the connotation "transitory": "Because thou shalt forget thy misery, and remember it as waters that pass away" (Job 11:16).

(6g) In Is 32:2 "water" represents that which is refreshing: "And a man shall be as a hiding place from the wind, and a covert from the tempest; as rivers of water in a dry place, as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land." (6h) Rest and peace are figured by waters of rest, or quiet waters: "He leadeth me beside the still waters" (Ps 23:2). (6i) Similar ideas are involved when one's wife's charms are termed "water of life" or "water which enlivens": "Drink waters out of thine own cistern, and running waters out of thine own well" (Prov 5:15). (6j) Outpoured "water" represents bloodshed (Deut 12:16), wrath (Hos 5:10), judgment (Amos 5:24), and strong feelings (Job 3:24). Makar means "to sell." (1) It is found for the first time in the Old Testament in Gen 25:31: "And Jacob said, Sell me this day thy birthright." (2) Anything tangible may be "sold," such as land (Gen 47:20), houses (Lev 25:29), animals (Ex 21:35), and human beings as slaves (Gen 37:27–28). (3) Daughters were usually "sold" for an agreed bride price (Ex 21:7). (4) Makar is often used in the figurative sense to express various actions. (4a) Nineveh is accused of "selling" or "betraying" other nations (Nah 3:4). (4b) Frequently it is said that God "sold" Israel into the power of her enemies, meaning that He gave them over entirely into their hands (Judg 2:14). (4c) Similarly, it was said that "the LORD shall sell Sisera into the hand of a woman" (Judg 4:9). (5) "To be sold" sometimes means to be given over to death (Est 7:4). מָלָא mâlâ' (Est 7:5), maw-law'; a prim. root, to fill or (intr.) be full of, in a wide application (lit. and fig.):—fill {107x}, full {48x}, fulfil {28x}, consecrate {15x}, accomplish {7x}, replenish {7x}, wholly {6x}, set {6x}, expired {3x}, fully {2x}, gather {2x}, overflow {2x}, satisfy {2x}, misc. {14x} = confirm, be at an end, be fenced, fulness, furnish, presume, space, take a [hand-] full.

I. Male', as a verb, means "to fill, fulfill, overflow, ordain, endow." (1) Basically, male' means "to be full" in the sense of having something done to one. (1a) In 2 Kin 4:6, the word implies "to fill up": "And it came to pass, when the vessels were full, that she said. . . ." (1b) The verb is sometimes used figuratively as in Gen 6:13, when God noted that "the earth is filled with violence." (2) Used transitively, this verb means the act or state of "filling something." (2a) In Gen 1:22 (the first occurrence of the word), God told the sea creatures to "penetrate" the waters thoroughly but not exhaustively: "Be fruitful, and multiply and fill the waters in the seas." (2b) Male' can also mean "to fill up" in an exhaustive sense: "And the glory of the Lord filled the tabernacle" (Ex 40:34). (2c) In this sense an appetite can be "filled up," "satiated," or "satisfied." (3) Male' is sometimes used in the sense "coming to an end" or "to be filled up," to the full extent of what is expected. (3a) For example, in 1 Kin 2:27 we read: "So Solomon thrust out Abiathar from being priest unto the Lord; that he might fulfill the word of the Lord, which he spake concerning the house of Eli in Shiloh." (3b) This constitutes a proof of the authority of the divine Word.

(4) In a different but related nuance, the verb signifies "to confirm" someone's word. Nathan told Bathsheba: "Behold, while thou yet talkest there with the king, I also will come in after thee, and confirm thy words" (1 Kin 1:14). (5) This verb is used to signify filling something to the full extent of what is necessary, in the sense of being "successfully completed": "When her days to be delivered were fulfilled . . ." (Gen 25:24). (6) This may also mean "to bring to an end"; so God tells Isaiah: "Speak ye comfortably to Jerusalem and cry unto her, that her warfare is accomplished" (Is 40:2). (7) Male' is used of "filling to overflowing"—not just filling up to the limits of something, but filling so as to go beyond its limits: "For Jordan overfloweth all his banks all the time of harvest" (Josh 3:15). (8) A special nuance appears when the verb is used with "heart"; in such cases, it means "to presume." King Ahasuerus asked Esther: "Who is he, and where is he, that durst presume [literally, "fill his heart"] to do so?" (Est 7:5). (9) To call out "fully" is to cry aloud, as in Jer 4:5.

(10) The word often has a special meaning in conjunction with "hand." (10a) Male' can connote "endow" ("fill one's hand"), as in Ex 28:3: "And thou shalt speak unto all that are wisehearted, whom I have [endowed] with the spirit of wisdom." (10b) In Judg 17:5, "to fill one's hand" is "to consecrate" someone to priestly service. (10c) A similar idea appears in Eze 43:26, where no literal hand is filled with anything, but the phrase is a technical term for "consecration": "Seven days shall they [make atonement for] the altar and purify it; and they shall consecrate themselves." (10c1) This phrase is used not only of setting someone or something aside for special religious or cultic use, but of formally installing someone with the authority and responsibility to fulfill a cultic [religious] function (i.e., to be a priest). (10c2) So God commands concerning Aaron and his sons: "And thou . . . shalt anoint them, and consecrate them, and sanctify them, that they may minister unto me in the priest's office" (Ex 28:41).

(11) In military contexts, "to fill one's hand" is to prepare for battle. (11a) This phrase may be used of "becoming armed," as in Jer 51:11: "Make bright the arrows; gather the shields." (11b) In a fuller sense, the phrase may signify the step immediately before shooting arrows: "And Jehu drew [literally, "filled his hand with"] a bow with his full strength" (2 Kin 9:24). (11c) It can also signify "being armed," or having weapons on one's person: "But the man that shall touch them must be [armed] with iron and the staff of a spear" (2 Sa 23:7).

II. Male', as an adjective, means "full." The basic meaning of the word is "full" or "full of": "I went out full, and the LORD hath brought me home again empty: why then call ye me Naomi, seeing the LORD hath testified against me, and the Almighty hath afflicted me?" (Ruth 1:21; cf. Deut 6:11). See: TWOT—1195; BDB—569d, 1100a.

4397. מַלְאָךְ {214x} mal'âk, mal-awk'; from an unused root mean. to despatch as a deputy; a messenger; spec. of God, i.e. an angel (also a prophet, priest or teacher):—angel {111x}, messenger {98x}, ambassadors {4x}, variant {1x}.

Mal'ak means "messenger; angel." (1) The noun mal'ak appears 213 times in the Hebrew Old Testament. (1a) Its frequency is especially great in the historical books, where it usually means "messenger": Judg (31 times), 2 Kin (20 times), 1 Sa (19 times), and 2 Sa (18 times). (1b) The prophetical works are very moderate in their usage of mal'ak, (1c) with the outstanding exception of the Book of Zechariah, where the angel of the Lord communicates God's message to Zechariah. (1d) For example: "Then I answered and said unto the angel that talked to me, 'What are these, my lord?' And the angel answered and said unto me, 'These are the four spirits [pl. of mal'ak] of the heavens, which go forth from standing before the Lord of all the earth'" (Zec 6:4–5). (2) The word mal'ak denotes someone sent over a great distance by an individual (Gen 32:3) or by a community (Num 21:21), in order to communicate a message. Often several messengers are sent together: "And Ahaziah fell down through a lattice in his upper chamber that was in Samaria, and was sick: and he sent messengers [pl. of mal'ak] and said unto them, Go, inquire of Baal-zebub the god of Ekron whether I shall recover of this disease" (2 Kin 1:2).

(3) The introductory formula of the message borne by the mal'ak often contains the phrase "Thus says . . . ," or "This is what . . . says," signifying the authority of the messenger in giving the message of his master: "Thus saith Jephthah, Israel took not away the land of Moab, nor the land of the children of Ammon" (Judg 11:15). (4) As a representative of a king, the mal'ak might have performed the function of a diplomat. (4a) In 1 Kin 20:1ff., we read that Ben-hadad sent messengers with the terms of surrender: (4b) "He sent messengers to Ahab king of Israel into the city, and said unto him, Thus saith Benhadad . . ." (1 Kin 20:2). (5) These passages confirm the important place of the mal'ak. (5a) Honor to the messenger signified honor to the sender, and the opposite was also true. (5b) David took personally the insult of Nabal (1 Sa 25:14ff.); and when Hanun, king of Ammon, humiliated David's servants (2 Sa 10:4ff.), David was quick to dispatch his forces against the Ammonites.

(6) God also sent messengers. (6a) First, there are the prophetic messengers: "And the LORD God of their fathers sent to them by his messengers, rising up betimes, and sending; because he had compassion on his people, and on his dwelling place: But they mocked the messengers of God, and despised his words, and misused his prophets, until the wrath of the LORD arose against his people, till there was no remedy" (2 Chr 36:15–16). (6b) Haggai called himself "the messenger of the LORD," mal'ak Yahweh. (7) There were also angelic messengers. The English word angel is etymologically related to the Greek word angelos, whose translation is similar to the Hebrew: "messenger" or "angel." (7a) The angel is a supernatural messenger of the Lord sent with a particular message. (7b) Two angels came to Lot at Sodom: "And there came two angels to Sodom at even; and Lot sat in the gate of Sodom: and Lot seeing them rose up to meet them; and he bowed himself with his face toward the ground" (Gen 19:1). (7c) The angels were also commissioned to protect God's people: "For he shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways" (Ps 91:11).

(8) Most significant, are the phrases mal'ak Yahweh, "the angel of the LORD," and mal'ak 'elohim, "the angel of God." (8a) The phrase is always used in the singular. (8b) It denotes an angel who had mainly a saving and protective function: "For mine angel shall go before thee, and bring thee in unto the Amorites, and the Hittites, and the Perizzites, and the Canaanites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites: and I will cut them off" (Ex 23:23). (8c) He might also bring about destruction: "And David lifted up his eyes, and saw the angel of the LORD stand between the earth and the heaven, having a drawn sword in his hand stretched out over Jerusalem. Then David and the elders of Israel, who were clothed in sackcloth, fell upon their faces" (1 Chr 21:16). (8d) The relation between the Lord and the "angel of the LORD" is often so close that it is difficult to separate the two (Gen 16:7ff.; 21:17ff.; 22:11ff.; 31:11ff.; Ex 3:2ff.; Judg 6:11ff.; 13:21f.). (8e) This identification has led some interpreters to conclude that the "angel of the LORD" was the pre-incarnate Christ. See: TWOT—1068a; BDB—521c, 571c, 1098d.

Milchamah means "battle; war." (1) This noun occurs more than 300 times in the Old Testament, indicating how large a part military experience and terminology played in the life of the ancient Israelites. (2) Gen 14:8 is an early occurrence of milchamah: "And there went out the king of Sodom, and the king of Gomorrah, . . . and they joined battle with them in the vale of Siddim." See: TWOT—1104c; BDB—536a, 572b.

Malat means to escape, slip away, deliver, give birth. (1) The word appears twice in the first verse in which it is found: "And it came to pass, when they had brought them forth abroad, that he said, Escape for thy life; look not behind thee, neither stay thou in all the plain; escape to the mountain, lest thou be consumed" (Gen 19:17). (2) Sometimes malat is used in parallelism (2a) with nuç (5127) "to flee": And Saul sought to smite David even to the wall with the javelin; but he slipped away out of Saul's presence, and he smote the javelin into the wall: and David fled (nuç), and escaped (malat) that night" (1 Sa 19:10), or (2b) with barach (1272) "to flee": "So Michal let David down through a window: and he went, and fled (barach), and escaped (nuç)" (1 Sa 19:12). (3) The most common use of this word is to express the "escaping" from any kind of danger such as an enemy (Is 20:6), a trap (2 Kin 10:24), or a temptress (Eccl 7:26). (4) When Josiah's reform called for burning the bones of false prophets, a special directive was issued to spare the bones of a true prophet buried at the same place: "So they let his bones alone . . ." (2 Kin 23:18; literally, "they let his bones escape"). (5) Malat is used once in the sense of "delivering a child" (Is 66:7). See: TWOT—1198; BDB—572b.

Malak means "to reign, be king (or queen)." (1) Basically the word means to fill the functions of ruler over someone. (1a) To hold such a position was to function as the commander-in-chief of the army, the chief executive of the group, and (1b) to be an important, if not central, religious figure. (2) The king was the head of his people and, therefore, in battle were the king to be killed, his army would disperse until a new king could be chosen. (3) The first appearance of malak is in Gen 36:31: "And these are the kings that reigned in the land of Edom, before there reigned any king over the children of Israel." (4) The king "reigned" as the earthly representative of the god (or God) who was recognized as the real king. (4a) Thus, he was considered to be god's (God's) son. (4b) This same idea recurs in Israel (Ps 2:6). In Israel, too, God was the King: "The Lord shall reign for ever and ever" (Ex 15:18). (5) That the word can also be used of what a queen does when she "reigns" proves that it refers to the function of anyone in the office of king: "And he was with her hid in the house of the Lord six years. And Athaliah did reign over the land" (2 Kin 11:3).

(6) Malak can also be used of the idea "to become king"—someone was made, or made himself, a king: "And Bela died, and Jobab the son of Zerah of Bozrah reigned in his stead" (Gen 36:33). (7) This verb can be used of the assumption of a kingly reign, or of "beginning to reign": "Saul reigned one year; and when he had reigned two years over Israel . . ." (1 Sa 13:1; cf. Prov 30:22). (8) Finally, the verb is used of receiving the title of queen (or king) whether or not one receives any political or military power. So it was said: "And let the maiden which pleaseth the king be queen instead of Vashti" (Est 2:4). See: TWOT—1199, 1200; BDB—573d, 576a, 1100b, 1100c.

Mamlakah means "kingdom; sovereignty; dominion; reign." (1) Mamlakah occurs first in Gen 10:10: "And the beginning of his kingdom was Babel, and Erech, and Accad, and Calneh, in the land of Shinar" in the sense of the "realm" of the kingdom. (2) The basic meaning of mamlakah is the area and people that constitute a "kingdom." (2a) The word refers to non-Israelite nations who are ruled by a melek (4428), "king": "And it shall come to pass after the end of seventy years, that the LORD will visit Tyre, and she shall turn to her hire, and shall commit fornication with all the kingdoms of the world upon the face of the earth" (Is 23:17). (3) Mamlakah is a synonym for ʿam (5971) "people," and goy (1471) "nation": "they went from one nation to another, from one kingdom to another people" (Ps 105:13). (4) Mamlakah also denotes Israel as God's "kingdom": "And ye shall be unto me a kingdom of priests, and a holy nation" (Ex 19:6). (5) The Davidic king was the theocratic agent by whom God ruled over and blessed His people: "And thine house and thy kingdom shall be established for ever before thee: thy throne shall be established for ever" (2 Sa 7:16).

(6) Nevertheless, the one mamlakah after Solomon was divided into two kingdoms which Ezekiel predicted would be reunited: "And I will make them one nation in the land upon the mountains of Israel; and one king shall be king to them all: and they shall be no more two nations, neither shall they be divided into two kingdoms" (Eze 37:22). (7) Close to the basic meaning is the usage of mamlakah to denote "king," (7a) as the king was considered to be the embodiment of the "kingdom." (7b) He was viewed as a symbol of the kingdom proper: "Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, I brought up Israel out of Egypt, and delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of all kingdoms, and of them that oppressed you" (1 Sa 10:18); (7c) in Hebrew the noun "kingdoms" is feminine and the verb "oppress" has a masculine form, signifying that we must understand "kingdoms" as "kings". (8) The function and place of the king is important in the development of the concept "kingdom." (8a) "Kingdom" may signify the head of the kingdom.

(8b) The word further has the meaning of the royal "rule," the royal "sovereignty," and the "dominion." (8b1) The royal "sovereignty" was taken from Saul because of his disobedience (1 Sa 28:17). (8b2) "Royal sovereignty" is also the sense in Jer 27:1: "In the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim. . . ." (8c) The Old Testament further defines as expressions of the royal "rule" all things associated with the king: (8c1) the throne: "And it shall be, when he sitteth upon the throne of his kingdom, that he shall write him a copy of this law in a book out of that which is before the priests the Levites" (Deut 17:18); (8c2) the pagan sanctuary supported by the throne: "But prophesy not again any more at Beth-el: for it is the king's chapel, and it is the king's court" (Amos 7:13); and (8c3) a royal city: "And David said unto Achish, If I have now found grace in thine eyes, let them give me a place in some town in the country, that I may dwell there: for why should thy servant dwell in the royal city with thee?" (1 Sa 27:5). (9) All human rule is under God's control. Consequently the Old Testament fully recognizes the kingship of God.

(9a) The Lord ruled as king over His people Israel (1 Chr 29:11). (9b) He graciously ruled over His people through David and his followers until the Exile (2 Chr 13:5). (10) In the New Testament usage all the above meanings are to be associated with the Greek word basileia ("kingdom"). (10a) This is the major translation of mamlakah in the Septuagint, and as such it is small wonder that the New Testament authors used this word to refer to God's "kingdom": the realm, the king, the sovereignty, and the relationship to God Himself as melek (4428), "king." Minchah means meat [cereal] offering; offering; tribute; present; gift; sacrifice; oblation. (1) The minchah must be regarded as a token of love, gratitude, and thanksgiving to God, who is Himself the Giver of all good gifts. (1a) It was an acknowledgement on the part of man that "the earth is the LORD's and the fullness thereof." (1b) Part of it was called the memorial and was burned with fire, and the rest was eaten by the priest and his family, not by the offerer. (1c) The KJV translates the word as meat offering, which is solid food in contrast to drink [liquids] and flesh [of animals]. The word "meat" in this KJV use really means "solid food/grain offering." (2) Minchah occurs for the first time in Gen 4:3: "Cain brought of the fruit of the ground an offering unto the LORD." This use reflects the most common connotation of minchah as a "vegetable or cereal offering." (3) Minchah is used many times to designate a "gift" or "present" which is given by one person to another. (3a) For example, when Jacob was on his way back home after twenty years, his long-standing guilt and fear of Esau prompted him to send a rather large "present" (bribe) of goats, camels, and other animals (Gen 32:13–15).

(3b) Similarly, Jacob directed his sons to "carry down the man a present" (Gen 43:11) to appease the Egyptian ruler that later turned out to be his lost son Joseph. (3c) Those who came to hear Solomon's great wisdom all brought to him an appropriate "present" (1 Kin 10:25), doing so on a yearly basis. (4) Frequently minchah is used in the sense of "tribute" paid to a king or overlord. (4a) The delivering of the "tribute" of the people of Israel to the king of Moab by their judge-deliverer became the occasion for the deliverance of Israel from Moabite control as Ehud assassinated Eglon by a rather sly maneuver (Judg 3:15–23). (4b) Years later when David conquered the Moabites, they "became servants to David and brought gifts [tribute]" (2 Sa 8:2). (4c) Hosea proclaimed to Israel that its pagan bull-god would "be carried unto Assyria for a present [tribute]" (Hos 10:6). (4d) Other passages where minchah has the meaning of "tribute" are: Ps 72:10; 1 Kin 4:21; 2 Kin 17:3–4.

(5) Minchah is often used to refer to any "offering" or "gift" made to God, whether it was a "vegetable offering" or a "blood sacrifice." (5a) The story of Cain and Abel vividly illustrates this general usage: "Cain brought of the fruit of the ground an offering unto the LORD. And Abel, he also brought of the firstlings of his flock and of the fat thereof. And the LORD had respect unto Abel and to his offering: But unto Cain and to his offering he had not respect" (Gen 4:3–5). (5b) The animal sacrifices which were misappropriated by the wicked sons of Eli were simply designated as "the offering of the LORD" (1 Sa 2:17). In each case "offering" is the translation of minchah. (6) A common use of minchah, especially in later Old Testament texts, is to designate "meat [grain/cereal] offerings." (6a) Sometimes it referred to the "meat [cereal] offering" of first fruits, "green ears of corn, dried by the fire. . . ." (Lev 2:14). (6b) Such offerings included oil and frankincense which were burned with the grain.

(6c) Similarly, the "meat [grain] offering" could be in the form of finely ground flour upon which oil and frankincense had been poured also. Sometimes the oil was mixed with the "meat [cereal] offering" (Lev 14:10, 21; 23:13; Num 7:13), again in the form of fine flour. The priest would take a handful of this fine flour, burn it as a memorial portion, and the remainder would belong to the priest (Lev 2:9–10). (6d) The "meat [cereal] offering" frequently was in the form of fine flour which was mixed with oil and then formed into cakes and baked, either in a pan or on a griddle (Lev 2:4–5). (6e) Other descriptions of this type of baked "meat [cereal] offering" are found in Num 6:15 and Lev 7:9. (7e) These baked "meat [cereal] offerings" were always to be made without leaven, but were to be mixed with salt and oil (Lev 2:11, 13). (8) The minchah was prescribed as a "meat offering" of flour kneaded with oil to be given along with the whole burnt offering. (8a) A libation of wine was to be given as well.

(9) This particular rule applied especially to the Feast of Weeks or Pentecost (Lev 23:18), to the daily "continual offering" (Ex 29:38–42), and to all the whole burnt offerings or general sacrifices (Num 15:1–16). (9a) The "meat [cereal] offering" was to be burned, (9b) while the wine seems to have been poured out at the foot of the altar like blood of the sacrificial animal. (10) The regular daily morning and evening sacrifices included the minchah and were specifically referred to (10a) as "the meat [cereal] offering of the morning" (Ex 29:41; cf. Num 28:8) and (10b) as "the evening meat [cereal] offering" (2 Kin 16:15; cf. Ezra 9:4–5 and Ps 141:2, "evening sacrifice"). (11) Minchah provides an interesting symbolism for the prophet when he refers to the restoration of the Jews: (11a) "And they shall bring all your brethren for an offering unto the LORD out of all nations upon horses, and in chariots . . . to my holy mountain Jerusalem, saith the LORD, as the children of Israel bring an offering in a clean vessel into the house of the LORD" (Is 66:20).

(11b) In his vision of the universal worship of God, even in Gentile lands, Malachi saw the minchah given as "a pure offering" to God by believers everywhere (Mal 1:11). Syn.: ʾAsham (817) means guilt offering, that which clears guilt away. ʾIshsheh (801) means those offerings made by fire. ʾOlah (5930) means whole burnt offering with nothing being shared or eaten. Qorban (7133) generally means offering, that which brings near to God. Terumah (8641) means that offering which was symbolically heaved/waved before God and then eaten by the priest and the one offering. See: TWOT—1613a; BDB—590c, 745d.

Maʿal means "to trespass, act unfaithfully." (1) Most of the time the noun maʿal will be combined with a verb into one phrase in which the verb takes the meaning of "to act" or "to commit"—e.g., Josh 7:1: "But the children of Israel committed [maʿal] a trespass [maʿal] in the accursed thing." (2) The first occurrence of the verb (together with the noun) is found in Lev 5:15: "If a soul commit a trespass, and sin through ignorance. . . ." (2a) The sense of the verb is similar to the verb "to sin." (2b) In fact, in the next chapter the verb for "to sin" and maʿal are used together: "If a soul sin, and commit a trespass against the LORD, and lie unto his neighbor . . ." (Lev 6:2). (2c) The combining of these two usages in Leviticus is significant. (2c1) First, it shows that the verb may be a synonym for "to sin." Maʿal has basically this meaning in Lev 5:15, since the sin is here out of ignorance instead of a deliberate act of treachery. (2c2) Second, the meaning of maʿal is further expressed by a verb indicating the intent of being unfaithful to one's neighbor for personal profit ("commit a trespass against the LORD, and lie unto his neighbor . . .").

(3) The offense is against God, even when one acts unfaithfully against one's neighbor. (3a) In 2 Chr 29:6 we read: "For our fathers have trespassed, and done that which was evil in the eyes of the LORD our God, and have forsaken him"; and (3b) Daniel prayed: ". . . Because of their trespass that they have trespassed against thee" (Dan 9:7). (4) When God spoke to Ezekiel: "Son of man, when the land sinneth against me by trespassing grievously, then will I stretch out mine hand upon it, and . . . cut off man and beast from it" (Eze 14:13), He communicated also His displeasure with Israel's rebellious, treacherous attitude. (5) The verb maʿal generally expresses man's unfaithfulness to God (Lev 26:40; Deut 32:51; 2 Chr 12:2; Ezra 10:2; Eze 14:13). (6) The word further signifies man's unfaithfulness to his fellow man; particularly it is illustrative of unfaithfulness in marriage: "If any man's wife go aside, and commit a trespass against him, And a man lie with her carnally . . ." (Num 5:12–13). See: TWOT—1230; BDB—591a.

Maʿal means "trespass; unfaithful, treacherous act." (1) In addition to the primary sense of "trespass," (1a) there may be an indication of the motivation through which the sin was committed. (1b) Most of the usages support the idea of "faithlessness, treachery." (1c) It is an act committed by a person who knows better but who, for selfish motives, acts in bad faith. (1d) The story of Achan bears out the attitude of treachery (Josh 7:1). (1e) Joshua challenged Israel not to follow the example of Achan: "Did not Achan the son of Zerah commit [maʿal] a trespass [maʿal] in the accursed thing, and wrath fell on all the congregation of Israel?" (Josh 22:20). (2) In 2 Chr 29:19 the "faithlessness" was committed against God: "Moreover all the vessels which king Ahaz in his reign did cast away in his transgression." (3) Maʿal also appears in Ezra 9:2: "yea, the hand of the princes and rulers hath been chief in this trespass." See: TWOT—1230a; BDB—591b.

Ma'aseh means "work; deed; labor; behavior." (1) Lamech, Noah's father, in expressing his hope for a new world, used the noun for the first time in the Old Testament: "And he called his name Noah, saying, This same shall comfort us concerning our work and toil of our hands, because of the ground which the LORD hath cursed" (Gen 5:29). (2) The basic meaning of ma'aseh is "work." (2a) Lamech used the word to signify agricultural labor (Gen 5:29). (2b) The Israelites were commanded to celebrate the Festival of the Firstfruits, as it signified the blessing of God upon their "labors" (Ex 23:16). (2c) It is not to be limited to this. (3) As the word is the most general word for "work," it may be used to refer to the "work" of (3a) a skillful craftsman (Ex 26:1), (3b) a weaver (26:36), (3c) a jeweler (28:11), and (3d) a perfumer (30:25). (4) The finished product of the worker is also known as ma'aseh: (4a) "And in the uppermost basket there was of all manner of bakemeats [literally, "work of a baker"] for Pharaoh" (Gen 40:17); (4b) "And Moses and Eleazar the priest took the gold of them, even all wrought jewels" [literally, "articles of work"] (Num 31:51).

(5) The artisan plied his craft during the work week, known in Hebrew as "the days of work," and rested on the Sabbath: "Thus saith the Lord GOD; The gate of the inner court that looketh toward the east shall be shut the six working days; but on the sabbath it shall be opened, and in the day of the new moon it shall be opened" (Eze 46:1; cf. Ex 23:12). (6) The phrase "work of one's hands" signifies the worthlessness of the idols fashioned by human hands: "Asshur shall not save us; we will not ride upon horses: neither will we say any more to the work of our hands, Ye are our gods: for in thee the fatherless findeth mercy" (Hos 14:3). (7) However, the prayer of the psalmist includes the request that the "works" of God's people might be established: "And let the beauty of the LORD our God be upon us: and establish thou the work of our hands upon us; yea, the work of our hands establish thou it" (Ps 90:17). (8) Since the righteous work out God's work and are a cause of God's rejoicing, "the glory of the LORD shall endure for ever: the LORD shall rejoice in his works" (Ps 104:31).

(9) In addition to "work," maʿaseh also denotes "deed," "practice," or "behavior." Joseph asked his brothers, accused of having taken his cup of divination: "What deed is this that ye have done? wot ye not that such a man as I can certainly divine?" (Gen 44:15). (10) The Israelites were strongly commanded not to imitate the grossly immoral behavior of the Canaanites and the surrounding nations: "After the doings of the land of Egypt, wherein ye dwelt, shall ye not do: and after the doings of the land of Canaan, whither I bring you, shall ye not do: neither shall ye walk in their ordinances" (Lev 18:3; cf. Ex 23:24). (11) However, the Israelites did not listen to the warning, and they "were mingled among the heathen, and learned their works. . . . Thus were they defiled with their own works, and went a whoring with their own inventions" (Ps 106:35, 39). (12) Thus far, we have dealt with maʿaseh from man's perspective. (12a) The word may have a positive connotation ("work, deed") as (12b) well as a negative ("corrupt practice").

(13) The Old Testament also calls us to celebrate the "work" of God. The psalmist was overwhelmed with the majesty of the Lord, as he looked at God's "work" of creation: "When I consider thy heavens, the work of thy fingers, the moon and the stars, which thou hast ordained" (Ps 8:3; cf. 19:1; 102:25). (14) The God of Israel demonstrated His love by His mighty acts of deliverance on behalf of Israel: "And Israel served the LORD all the days of Joshua, and all the days of the elders that [out] lived Joshua, and which had known all the works of the LORD, that he had done for Israel" (Josh 24:31). (15) All of God's "works" are characterized by faithfulness to His promises and covenant: "For the word of the LORD is right; and all his works are done in truth" (Ps 33:4). Matsa' means "to find, meet, get." (1) Matsa' refers to "finding" someone or something that is lost or misplaced, or "finding" where it is. (1a) The thing may be found as the result of a purposeful search, as when the Sodomites were temporarily blinded by Lot's visitors and were not able to "find" the door to his house (Gen 19:11). (1b) In a very similar usage, the dove sent forth by Noah searched for a spot to land and was unable to "find" it (Gen 8:9). (1c) On other occasions, the location of something or someone may be found without an intentional search, as when Cain said: "[Whoever] findeth me shall slay me" (Gen 4:14). (2) Matsa' may connote not only "finding" a subject in a location, but "finding something" in an abstract sense. (2a) This idea is demonstrated clearly by Gen 6:8: "But Noah found grace in the eyes of the LORD." (2b) He found—"received"—something he did not seek.

(3) This sense also includes "finding" something one has sought in a spiritual or mental sense: (3a) "Mine hand had gotten much" (Job 31:25). (3b) Laban tells Jacob: "If I have found favor in thine eyes, [stay with me]" (Gen 30:27). Laban is asking Jacob for a favor that he is seeking in an abstract sense. (4) Matsa' can also mean "to discover." (4a) God told Abraham: "If I find in Sodom fifty righteous within the city, then I will spare all the place for their sakes" (Gen 18:26). (4b) This same emphasis appears in the first biblical occurrence of the word: "But for Adam there was not found a help meet for him" (Gen 2:20). (5) As noted earlier, there can be a connotation of the unintentional here, as when the Israelites "found" a man gathering wood on the Sabbath (Num 15:32). (6) Another special nuance is "to find out," in the sense of "gaining knowledge about." For example, Joseph's brothers said: "God hath found out the iniquity of thy servants" (Gen 44:16).

(7) Matsa' sometimes suggests "being under the power" of something, in a concrete sense. David told Abishai: "Take thou thy lord's servants, and pursue after him, lest he get him fenced cities, and escape us" (2 Sa 20:6). The idea is that Sheba would "find," enter, and defend himself in fortified cities. So to "find" them could be to "take them over." (8) This usage appears also in an abstract sense. Judah told Joseph: "For how shall I go up to my father, and the lad be not with me? lest peradventure I see the evil that shall come on my father" (Gen 44:34). (9) The word matsa', therefore, can mean not only to "find" something, but to "obtain" it as one's own: "Then Isaac sowed in that land and received in the same year" (Gen 26:12). (10) Infrequently, the word implies movement in a direction until one arrives at a destination. This sense is found in Job 11:7: "Canst thou by searching find out God?" (cf. 1 Sa 23:17). (11) In a somewhat different nuance, this meaning appears in Num 11:22: "Shall the flocks and the herds be slain for them, to suffice them?" See: TWOT—1231; BDB—592c.

Matstsebah means "pillar; monument; sacred stone." (1) This word refers to a "pillar" as a personal memorial in 2 Sa 18:18: "Now Absalom in his lifetime had taken and reared up for himself a pillar . . . and he called the pillar after his own name: and it is called unto this day, Absalom's place." (2) In Gen 28:18 the "monument" is a memorial of the Lord's appearance: "And Jacob rose up early in the morning, and took the stone that he had put for his pillows, and set it up for a pillar, and poured oil upon the top of it." (3) Matstsebah is used in connection with the altar built by Moses in Ex 24:4: "And Moses wrote all the words of the LORD, and rose up early in the morning, and builded an altar under the hill, and twelve pillars, according to the twelve tribes of Israel." Syn.: 352. See: TWOT—1398g; BDB—594b, 663a.

4682. מַצָּה {53x} matstsâh, mats-tsaw'; from 4711 in the sense of greedily devouring for sweetness; prop. sweetness; concr. sweet (i.e. not soured or bittered with yeast); spec. an unfermented cake or loaf, or (ellip.) the festival of Passover (because no leaven was then used):—unleavened bread {33x}, unleavened {14x}, cakes {5x}, without leaven {1x}.

Matstsah means "unleavened bread." (1) This noun occurs 53 times, (1a) all but 14 of them in the Pentateuch. (1b) The rest of the occurrences are in prose narratives or in Ezekiel's discussion of the new temple: "In the first month, in the fourteenth day of the month, ye shall have the passover, a feast of seven days; unleavened bread shall be eaten" (Eze 45:21). (2) In the ancient Orient, household bread was prepared (2a) by adding fermented dough to the kneading trough and working it through the fresh dough. (2b) Hastily made bread omitted the fermented (leavened) dough: Lot "made them a feast, and did bake unleavened bread, and they did eat" (Gen 19:3). In this case, the word represents bread hastily prepared for unexpected guests. (3) The feasts of Israel often involved the use of unleavened bread, perhaps because of the relationship between fermentation, rotting, and death (Lev 2:4ff.), or because unleavened bread reminded Jews of the hasty departure from Egypt and the rigors of the wilderness march. Syn.: 3899. See: TWOT—1105a; BDB—594c, 595a.

Mitsvah means "commandment." (1) Its first occurrence is in Gen 26:5, where mitsvah is synonymous with choq ("statute", 2706) and torah ("law", 8451): "Because that Abraham obeyed my voice, and kept my charge (4931 – mishmeret), my commandments (mitsvah), my statutes (2708 – chuqqah – plural), and my laws (8451 – torah)." (2) In the Pentateuch, God is always the Giver of the mitsvah. "All the commandments which I command thee this day shall ye observe to do, that ye may live, and multiply, and go in and possess the land which the Lord sware unto your fathers. And thou shalt remember all the way which the LORD thy God led thee these forty years in the wilderness, to humble thee, and to prove thee, to know what was in thine heart, whether thou wouldest keep his commandments, or no" (Deut 8:1–2). (3) The "commandment" may be a prescription ("thou shalt do . . .") or a proscription ("thou shalt not do . . .").

(4) The commandments were (4a) given in the hearing of the Israelites (Ex 15:26; Deut 11:13), (4b) who were to "do" (Lev 4:2ff.) and "keep" (Deut 4:2; Ps 78:7) them. (4c) Any failure to do so signified a covenantal breach (Num 15:31), transgression (2 Chr 24:20), and apostasy (1 Kin 18:18). (5) The plural of mitsvah often denotes a "body of laws" given by divine revelation. (5a) They are God's "word": "Wherewithal shall a young man cleanse his way? By taking heed thereto according to thy word" (Ps 119:9). (5b) They are also known as "the commandments of God." (6) Outside the Pentateuch, "commandments" are given by kings (1 Kin 2:43), fathers (Jer 35:14), people (Is 29:13), and teachers of wisdom (Prov 6:20; cf. 5:13). Only about ten percent of all occurrences in the Old Testament fit this category. See: TWOT—1887b; BDB—594d, 846b.

4784. מָרָה {44x} mârâh, maw-raw'; a prim. root; to be (caus. make) bitter (or unpleasant); (fig.) to rebel (or resist; caus. to provoke):—rebel {19x}, rebellious {9x}, provoke {7x}, disobedient {2x}, against {1x}, bitter {1x}, changed {1x}, disobeyed {1x}, grievously {1x}, provocation {1x}, rebels {1x}.

Marah means "to rebel, be contentious." (1) Marah signifies an opposition to someone motivated by pride: (1a) "If a man have a stubborn [5637 - carar] and rebellious [marah] son, which will not obey the voice of his father . . ." (Deut 21:18). (1b) The sense comes out more clearly in Is 3:8: "For Jerusalem is ruined, and Judah is fallen: because their tongue and their doings are against the LORD, to provoke the eyes of his glory." (2) More particularly, the word generally connotes a rebellious attitude against God. Several prepositions are used to indicate the object of rebellion (ʿim, et, generally translated as "against"): (2a) "Ye have been rebellious against [ʿim] the LORD" (Deut 9:7); (2b) "She hath been rebellious against [et] me" (Jer 4:17). (3) The primary meaning of marah is "to disobey." Several passages attest to this: (3a) "Forasmuch as thou hast disobeyed the mouth of the LORD, and hast not kept the commandment which the LORD thy God commanded thee" (1 Kin 13:21); (3b) 1 Kin 13:26: "It is the man of God, who was disobedient unto the word of the LORD."

(4) The Old Testament sometimes specifically states that someone "rebelled" (4a) against the Lord; at other times it may refer to (4b) a rebelling against the word of the Lord (Ps 105:28; 107:11), or (4c) against the word of God (cf. Num 20:24; Deut 1:26, 43; 9:23; 1 Sa 12:14–15). (4d) The intent of the Hebrew is to signify the act of defying the command of God: "The LORD is righteous; for I have rebelled against his commandment" (Lam 1:18). (5) The verb marah is at times strengthened by a form of the verb carar (5637 - "to be stubborn"): "[They] might not be as their fathers, a stubborn [carar] and rebellious [marah] generation; a generation that set not their heart aright" (Ps 78:8; cf. Deut 21:18, 20; Jer 5:23). (6) An individual (Deut 21:18, 20), a nation (Num 20:24), and a city (Zeph 3:1) may be described as "being rebellious." (7) Zephaniah gave a vivid image of the nature of the rebellious spirit: "Woe to her that is filthy and polluted, to the oppressing city! She obeyed not the voice; she received not correction; she trusted not in the LORD; she drew not near to her God" (Zeph 3:1–2). See: TWOT—1242; BDB—597b, 598a, 598c.

Massa' means "load; burden; tribute; delight." (1) The word means that which is borne by a man, an ass, a mule, or a camel: "If thou see the ass of him that hateth thee lying under his burden, and wouldest forbear to help him . . ." (Ex 23:5—the first occurrence). (2) A "load" may be hung on a peg (Is 22:25). (3) This word is used figuratively of spiritual "loads" one is carrying: "For mine iniquities are gone over mine head: as a heavy burden they are too heavy for me" (Ps 38:4). (4) Massa' means "burden" in the sense of something burdensome, a hardship. Moses asked God: "Wherefore have I not found favor in thy sight, that thou layest the burden of all this people upon me?" (Num 11:11). (5) Once the word represents that which is borne to a lord, a "tribute": "Also some of the Philistines brought Jehoshaphat presents, and tribute silver" (2 Chr 17:11). (6) In Eze 24:25 massa' bears a unique meaning: "Also, thou son of man, hall it not be in the day when I take from them their strength, the joy of their glory, the desire of their eyes, and that whereupon they set [massa'] their minds, their sons and their daughters."

(7) Massa' means "utterance" or "oracle," a "weighty message": "Then said Jehu to Bidkar his captain, Take up, and cast him in the portion of the field of Naboth the Jezreelite: for remember how that, when I and thou rode together after Ahab his father, the LORD laid this burden [massa'] upon him" (2 Kin 9:25). (8) In Jer 23:33–38 the word appears to connote both a burden and an oracle. (9) By a burden we are to understand the message laid on the mind of the prophet, and by him pressed on the attention of the people. The message of the Lord ought not to have been regarded as a burden by the people; but it could not fail to be realized as such by the prophets, who at times felt heavily laden with the weight of their message (Jer 20:9; Nah 1:1, Hab 1:1). Mashach means "to anoint, smear, consecrate." (1) The word is found for the first time in the Old Testament in Gen 31:13: ". . . where thou anointedst the pillar, and . . . vowedst a vow unto me." (1a) This use illustrates the idea of anointing something or someone as an act of consecration. (1b) The basic meaning of the word, however, is simply to "smear" something on an object. (1c) Usually oil is involved, but it could be other substances, such as paint or dye (cf. Jer 22:14). (2) The expression "anoint the shield" in Is 21:5 probably has more to do with lubrication than consecration in that context. (3) When unleavened bread is "tempered with oil" in Ex 29:2, it is basically equivalent to our act of buttering bread. (4) The Old Testament most commonly uses mashach to indicate "anointing" in the sense of a special setting apart for an office or function. (4a) Thus, Elisha was "anointed" to be a prophet (1 Kin 19:16). (4b) More typically, kings were "anointed" for their office (1 Sa 16:12; 1 Kin 1:39). (5) Vessels used in the worship at the sacred shrine (both tabernacle and temple) were consecrated for use by "anointing" them (Ex 29:36; 30:26; 40:9–10). (6) In fact, the recipe for the formulation of this "holy anointing oil" is given in detail in Ex 30:22–25. 4899. מָשִׁיחַ {39x} mâshîyach, maw-shee'-akh; from 4886; anointed; usually a consecrated person (as a king, priest, or saint); spec. the Messiah:—anointed {37x}, Messiah {2x}.

Mashiyach means "anointed one." (1) A word that is important both to Old Testament and New Testament understandings is the noun mashiyach, which gives us the term messiah. (2) As is true of the verb, mashiyach implies an anointing for a special office or function. (2a) Thus, David refused to harm Saul because Saul was "the Lord's anointed" (1 Sa 24:6). (2b) The Psalms often express the messianic ideals attached to the Davidic line by using the phrase "the Lord's anointed" (Ps 2:2; 18:50; 89:38, 51). (3) Interestingly enough, the only person named "messiah" in the Old Testament was Cyrus, the pagan king of Persia, (3a) who was commissioned by God to restore Judah to her homeland after the Exile (Is 45:1). (3b) The anointing in this instance was more figurative than literal, since Cyrus was not aware that he was being set apart for such a divine purpose. (4) The New Testament title of Christ is derived from the Greek Christos which is exactly equivalent to the Hebrew mashiyach, for it is also rooted in the idea of "to smear with oil." So the term Christ emphasizes the special anointing of Jesus of Nazareth for His role as God's chosen one. See: TWOT—1255c; BDB—603c.

4900. מָשַׁךְ {36x} mâshak, maw-shak'; a prim. root; to draw, used in a great variety of applications (incl. to sow, to sound, to prolong, to develop, to march, to remove, to delay, to be tall, etc.):—draw {15x}, draw out {3x}, prolonged {3x}, scattered {2x}, draw along {1x}, draw away {1x}, continue {1x}, deferred {1x}, misc. {9x} = extend, forbear, × give, handle, make (sound) long, × sow, stretch out. Mishkab means a "place to lie; couch; bed; act of lying." (1) In Gen 49:4 mishkab is used to mean a "place to lie" or "bed": ". . . because thou wentest up to thy father's bed." (2) The word refers to the "act of lying" in Num 31:17: ". . . kill every woman that hath known man by lying with him." See: TWOT—2381c; BDB—605a, 1012d, 1115b.

Maskiyl means a "didactic psalm(?)." (1) This noun form, derived from sakal (7919), is found in the title of 13 psalms and also in Ps 47:7. (2) Scholars are not agreed on the significance of this term, but on the basis of the general meaning of sakal, such psalms must have been considered didactic or teaching psalms. See: TWOT—2263b; BDB—601d, 968d.

Mishkan, "dwelling place; tent." (1) This word occurs nearly 140 times, and often refers to the wilderness "tabernacle" (Ex 25:9). (2) Mishkan was also used later to refer to the "temple" (4908). This usage probably prepared the way for the familiar term shekinah, which was widely used in later Judaism to refer to the "presence" of God. Syn: 3427, 7931. See: TWOT—2387c; BDB—605a, 1015c, 1115b.

Mashal means "to rule, reign, have dominion." (1) The word is used for the first time in the Old Testament in Gen 1:18, where the sun, moon, and stars are designated "to rule over the day and over the night." (2) Mashal is used most frequently in the text to express the "ruling or dominion" of one person over another (Gen 3:16; 24:2). (2a) Cain is advised "to rule over" or "master" sin (Gen 4:7). (2b) Joseph's brothers respond to his dreams with the angry question: "Shalt thou indeed reign over us?" (Gen 37:8; the Hebrew verb here is literally "ruling will you rule," the repetition of the same root giving the needed emphasis). (3) As Creator and Sovereign over His world, God "ruleth by his power for ever" (Ps 66:7). (4) When God allowed Israel to have a king, it was with the condition that God was still the ultimate King and that first loyalty belonged to Him (Deut 17:14–20). (4a) This theocratic ideal is perhaps best expressed by Gideon: "I will not rule over you, neither shall my son rule over you: the LORD shall rule over you" (Judg 8:23). (4b) With the possible exception of David, no king of Israel fully lived up to the theocratic ideal, and David himself had some problems with it. See: TWOT—1259; BDB—605c.

Mishpachah means "family; clan." (1) The word is first used in Gen 8:19: "Every beast, every creeping thing, and every fowl, and whatsoever creepeth upon the earth, after their kinds, went forth out of the ark." (2) The noun mishpachah is used predominantly in the Pentateuch (as many as 154 times in Numbers) and in the historical books, but rarely in the poetical literature (5 times) and the prophetical writings. (3) All members of a group who were related by blood and who still felt a sense of consanguinity belonged to the "clan" or "the extended family." (3a) Saul argued that since he belonged to the least of the "clans," he had no right to the kingship (1 Sa 9:21). (3b) This meaning determined the extent of Rahab's family that was spared from Jericho: "And they brought out all her kindred, and left them without the camp of Israel" (Josh 6:23). (3c) So the "clan" was an important division within the "tribe." (3d) The Book of Numbers gives a census of the leaders and the numbers of the tribes according to the "families" (Num 1—4; 26). (3e) In capital cases, where revenge was desired, the entire clan might be taken: "And, behold, the whole family is risen against thine handmaid, and they said, Deliver him that smote his brother, that we may kill him, for the life of his brother whom he slew; and we will destroy the heir also: and so they shall quench my coal which is left, and shall not leave to my husband neither name nor remainder upon the earth" (2 Sa 14:7). (4) A further extension of the meaning "division" or "clan" is the idiomatic usage of "class" or "group," such as "the families" of the animals that left the ark (Gen 8:19) or the "families" of the nations (Ps 22:28; 96:7; cf. Gen 10:5). (5) Even God's promise to Abraham had reference to all the nations: "And I will bless them that bless thee, and curse him that curseth thee: and in thee shall all families of the earth be blessed" (Gen 12:3). (6) The narrow meaning of mishpachah is similar to our usage of "family" and similar to the meaning of the word in modern Hebrew. Abraham sent his servant to his relatives in Padanaram to seek a wife for Isaac (Gen 24:38). (7) The law of redemption applied to the "close relatives in a family": "After that he is sold he may be redeemed again; one of his brethren may redeem him: Either his uncle, or his uncle's son, may redeem him, or any that is nigh of kin unto him of his family may redeem him; or if he be able, he may redeem himself" (Lev 25:48–49). See: TWOT—2442b; BDB—606c, 1046.

Mishpat means "judgment; rights." (1) This word has two main senses; the first deals with the act of sitting as a judge, hearing a case, and rendering a proper verdict. Ecc 12:14 is one such occurrence: "For God shall bring every work into judgment, with every secret thing, whether it be good, or whether it be evil." (2) Mishpat can also refer to the "rights" belonging to someone: "Thou shalt not wrest the judgment of thy poor in his cause" (Ex 23:6). This second sense carries several nuances: (2a) the sphere in which things are in proper relationship to one's claims: "For I know him, that he will command his children and his household after him, and they shall keep the way of the LORD, to do justice and judgment; that the LORD may bring upon Abraham that which he hath spoken of him" (Gen 18:19—the first occurrence); (2b) a judicial verdict: "And thou shalt come unto the priests the Levites, and unto the judge that shall be in those days, and enquire; and they shall shew thee the sentence of judgment" (Deut 17:9); (2c) the statement of the case for the accused: "And Moses brought their cause before the LORD" (Num 27:5); and an established ordinance: "Now these are the judgments which thou shalt set before them" (Ex 21:1). 5001. נָאַם {1x} nâ'am, naw-am'; a prim. root; prop. to whisper, i.e. (by impl.) to utter as an oracle:—say {1x}.

Na'am occurs only once in the entire Old Testament: "Behold, I am against the prophets, saith [5002 - ne'um] the LORD, that use their tongues, and say [na'am], He saith [5002 - ne'um]" (Jer 23:31). See: TWOT—1272; BDB—610c.

5002. נְאֻם {376x} n^e^ûm, neh-oom'; from 5001; an oracle:—saith {366x}, said {9x}, spake {1x}.

I. Ne'um, as a verb, means, "to say, utter an affirmation, speak." (1) The word is a verbal form of the verb na'am, which occurs only once in the entire Old Testament: "Behold, I am against the prophets, saith [ne'um] the LORD, that use their tongues, and say [5001 - na'am], He saith [ne'um]" (Jer 23:31). (2) The word ne'um appears as many as 361 times and, because of the frequency in the prophetical books, it is characteristic of prophetic speech. (3) Ne'um is an indicator which generally appears at the end of the quotation: "What mean ye that ye beat my people to pieces, and grind the faces of the poor? saith [ne'um] the Lord GOD of hosts" (Is 3:15). (4) The word may also be found in the middle of an argument: "And I raised up of your sons for prophets, and of your young men for Nazarites. Is it not even thus, O ye children of Israel? saith [ne'um] the LORD. But ye gave the Nazarites wine to drink; and commanded the prophets, saying, Prophesy not" (Amos 2:11–12). II. *Ne'um, as a noun, means "utterance; saying." (1) The use of ne'um is rare at the beginning of a statement: "The LORD said unto my Lord [literally, 'a statement of Jehovah to my Lord']. Sit thou at my right hand, until I make thine enemies thy footstool" (Ps 110:1).

(2) With one exception (Prov 30:1) in the sayings of Agur, the usage throughout the Old Testament is virtually limited to a word from God. (3) In Numbers the utterances of Balaam are introduced with the formula "and he uttered his oracle": "And he took up his parable, and said, Balaam the son of Beor hath said, and the man whose eyes are open hath said" (Num 24:3; cf. v. 15). (4) David's concluding words begin with these words: "Now these be the last words of David. David the son of Jesse said, and the man who was raised up on high, the anointed of the God of Jacob, and the sweet psalmist of Israel, said" (2 Sa 23:1). (5) Apart from these instances there are a few more examples, but as a rule ne'um is a prophetic term, which even beyond the prophetical literature is associated with a word from God. See: TWOT—1272a; BDB—610b.

5003. נָאַף {13x} nâ'aph, naw-af'; a prim. root; to commit adultery; fig. to apostatize:—adultery {17x}, adulterer {8x}, adulteress {4x}, adulterous {1x}, women that break wedlock {1x}. See: TWOT—1273; BDB—610c.

5012. נָבָא {115x} nâbâʾ, naw-baw'; a prim. root; to prophesy, i.e. speak (or sing) by inspiration (in prediction or simple discourse):—prophesy {111x}, prophesying {2x}, prophet {2x}.

Nabaʾ means "to prophesy." (1) Its first appearance is in 1 Sa 10:6, where Saul is told by Samuel that when he meets a certain band of ecstatic prophets, he too will "prophesy with them, and . . . be turned into another man." (2) Most frequently nabaʾ is used to describe the function of the true prophet as he speaks God's message to the people, under the influence of the divine spirit (1 Kin 22:8; Jer 29:27; Eze 37:10). (2a) "To prophesy" was a task that the prophet could not avoid: "The Lord GOD hath spoken, who can but prophesy?" (Amos 3:8; cf. Jer 20:7, where Jeremiah says that he was both attracted to and forced into being a prophet). (2b) While the formula "The word of the LORD came [to the prophet]" is used literally hundreds of times in the Old Testament, (2b1) there is no real indication as to the manner in which it came—whether it came through the thought-processes, through a vision, or in some other way. (2b2) Sometimes, especially in the earlier prophets, it seems that some kind of ecstatic experience may have been involved, as in 1 Sa 10:6, 11; 19:20. (2b3) Music is sometimes spoken of as a means of prophesying, as in 1 Chr 25:1–3.

(3) The false prophets, although not empowered by the divine spirit, are spoken of as prophesying also: "I have not spoken to them, yet they prophesied" (Jer 23:21). (3a) The false prophet is roundly condemned because he speaks a non-authentic word: "Prophesy against the prophets of Israel that prophesy, and say thou unto them that prophesy out of their own hearts, Hear ye the word of the LORD; . . . Woe unto the foolish prophets, that follow their own spirit, and have seen nothing!" (Eze 13:2–3). (3b) The false prophet especially is subject to frenzied states of mind which give rise to his prophesying, although the content of such activity is not clearly spelled out (1 Kin 22:10). (3c) The point is that in the biblical context "to prophesy" can refer to anything from the frenzied ecstaticism of a false prophet to the cold sober proclamation of God's judgment by an Amos or an Isaiah. (4) "To prophesy" is much more than the prediction of future events. (4a) Indeed, the first concern of the prophet is to speak God's word to the people of his own time, calling them to covenant faithfulness.

(4b) The prophet's message is conditional, dependent upon the response of the people. Thus, by their response to this word, the people determine in large part what the future holds, as is well illustrated by the response of the Ninevites to Jonah's preaching. (4c) Of course, prediction does enter the picture at times, such as in Nahum's prediction of the fall of Nineveh (Nah 2:13) and in the various messianic passages (Is 9:1–6; 11:1–9; 52:13—53:12). Nabat means "to look, regard, behold." (1) The first use of this term is in Gen 15:5, where it is used in the sense of "take a good look," as God commands Abraham: "Look now toward heaven, and [number] the stars." (2) While nabat is commonly used of physical "looking" (Ex 3:6), the word is frequently used in a figurative sense to mean a spiritual and inner apprehension. Thus, Samuel is told by God: "Look not on his countenance" (1 Sa 16:7) as he searched for a king among Jesse's sons. (3) The sense of "consider" (with insight) is expressed in Is 51:1–2: "Look unto the rock whence ye are hewn. . . . Look unto Abraham your father." (4) "Pay attention to" seems to be the meaning in Is 5:12: ". . . they regard not the work of the Lord." See: TWOT—1282; BDB—613c.

5030. נָבִיא {316x} nâbîy', naw-bee'; from 5012; a prophet or (gen.) inspired man:—prophet {312x}, prophecy {1x}, them that prophesy {1x}, prophet + 376 {1x}, variant {1x}.

Nabiy' means "prophet." (1) Nabiy' represents "prophet," whether a true or false prophet (cf. Deut 13:1–5). (2) True prophets were mouthpieces of the true God. (3) In 1 Chr 29:29 three words are used for "prophet": "Now the acts of David the king, first and last, behold, they are written in the Book of Samuel the Seer [7203 - ro'eh] and in the Book of Nathan the Prophet [nabiy'], and in the Book of Gad the Seer [2374 - chozeh]." (4) The words translated "seer" emphasize the means by which the "prophet" communicated with God but do not identify the men as anything different from prophets (cf. 1 Sa 9:9). (5) The first occurrence of nabiy' does not help to clearly define it either: "Now therefore restore the man [Abraham] his wife; for he is a prophet, and he shall pray for thee, and thou shalt live" (Gen 20:7). (6) The second occurrence of nabiy' establishes its meaning: "And the LORD said unto Moses, See, I have made thee a god to Pharaoh: and Aaron thy brother shall be thy prophet" (Ex 7:1). The background of this statement is Ex 4:10–16, where Moses argued his inability to speak clearly. God promised to appoint Aaron (Moses' brother) to be the speaker: "And he shall be thy spokesman unto the people: and he shall be, even he shall be to thee instead of a mouth, and thou shalt be to him instead of God" (Ex 4:16).

(7) Ex 7:1 expresses the same idea in different words. It is clear that the word "prophet" is equal to one who speaks for another, or his mouth. (8) This basic meaning of nabiy' is supported by other passages. In the classical passage Deut 18:14–22, God promised to raise up another "prophet" like Moses who would be God's spokesman (v. 18). They were held responsible for what he told them and were admonished to obey him (Deut 18:19). However, if what the "prophet" said proved to be wrong, he was to be killed (Deut 18:20). Immediately, this constitutes a promise and definition of the long succession of Israel's prophets. Ultimately, it is a promise of the Great Prophet, Jesus Christ (cf. Acts 3:22–23). (9) The "prophet" or dreamer of dreams might perform miracles to demonstrate that he was God's man, but the people were to look to the message rather than the miracle before they heeded his message (Deut 13:1–5).

(10) In the plural nabiy' is used of some who do not function as God's mouthpieces. (10a) In the time of Samuel there were men who followed him. They went about praising God (frequently with song) and trying to stir the people to return to God (1 Sa 10:5, 10; 19:20). (10b) Followers of Elijah and Elisha formed into groups to assist and/or to learn from these masters. They were called sons of the prophets (1 Kin 20:35). (10c) Used in this sense, the word nabiy' means a companion and/or follower of a prophet. (11) The word is also used of "heathen prophets": "Now therefore send, and gather to me all Israel unto mount Carmel, and the prophets of Baal four hundred and fifty, and the prophets of the groves four hundred, which eat at Jezebel's table" (1 Kin 18:19). Syn.: 2374, 4853. See: TWOT—1277a; BDB—611c, 1101d.

(1) In Ex 15:20 Miriam is called a "prophetess." (2) Isaiah's wife, too, is called a "prophetess" (Is 8:3). This usage may be related to the meaning "a companion and/or follower of a prophet." See: TWOT—1277c; BDB—612c.

Nebalah means "foolishness; senselessness; impropriety; stupidity." (1) It signifies "disregarding God's will": "Let not my lord, I pray thee, regard this man of Belial, even Nabal: for as his name is, so is he; Nabal is his name, and folly is with him: but I thine handmaid saw not the young men of my lord, whom thou didst send" (1 Sa 25:25). (2) Nebalah is most often used as a word for a serious sin: "And the sons of Jacob came out of the field when they heard it: and the men were grieved, and they were very wroth, because he had wrought folly [nebalah] in Israel in lying with Jacob's daughter; which thing ought not to be done" (Gen 34:7—the first occurrence). Nagad means "to tell, explain, inform." (1) The first emphasis of the word is "to tell." This especially means that A (frequently a messenger or some other person who has witnessed something) "tells" B (the one to whom the report is made) C (the report). In such instances B (the one told) is spatially separated from the original source of the information. So, in Gen 9:22, Ham (A) saw his father naked and went outside the tent and "told" his brothers (B) what he had seen (C). (2) In another group of passages nagad represents the reporting of a messenger about a matter of life-or-death importance for the recipient. (2a) So a fugitive "came . . . and told Abram" that Lot had been captured and led away captive (Gen 14:13). (2b) A note of this emotionally charged situation is seen in Jacob's message to Esau: "I have sent to tell my lord, that I may find grace in thy sight" (Gen 32:5). (2c) Although not a report from a messenger from afar, Gen 12:18 uses the verb of a report that is of crucial importance to the one addressed. Pharaoh asked Abram: "Why didst thou not tell me that she was thy wife?" (2d) Gen 12:17 reports that because Pharaoh had taken Sarai into his harem to become his wife, God had smitten his household with great plagues.

(3) Nagad means "to explain or reveal" something one does not otherwise know. (3a) In Gen 3:11 (the first biblical occurrence of the word) God asked Adam: "Who told thee that thou wast naked?" This was information immediately before them but not previously grasped by them. (3b) This usage appears in Gen 41:24, where Pharaoh said of his dream: "I told this unto the magicians; but there was none that could declare it to me." (3c) Similarly, David made certain there were no survivors from the Philistine cities he looted so no one would "tell" it to Achish (1 Sa 27:11). (4) This word sometimes has a more forceful significance—God told the prophet to "show my people their transgression" (Is 58:1). See: TWOT—1289; BDB—616c.

5047. נֶגֶד {1x} n^{e}gad (Aram.), neg-ad'; corresp. to 5046; to flow (through the idea of clearing the way):—issue {1x}. See: TWOT—2846; BDB—1102a.

5048. נֶגֶד {23x} neged, neh'-ghed; from 5046; a front, i.e. part opposite; spec. a counterpart, or mate; usually (adv., espec. with prep.) over against or before:—{23x} = about, (over) against, × aloof, × far (off), × from, over, presence, × other side, sight, × to view.

Neged means "before; in the presence of; in the sight of; in front of; in one's estimation; straight ahead." (1) Basically the word indicates that its object is immediately "before" something or someone. (1a) It is used in Gen 2:18, where God said He would make Adam "a help meet for him," or someone to correspond to him, just as the males and females of the animals corresponded to (matched) one another. (1b) To be immediately "before" the sun is to be fully in the sunlight (Num 25:4). (2) In Ex 10:10 Pharaoh told Moses that evil was immediately "before" his face, or was in his mind. (3) Neged signifies "in front of" (Ex 19:2), (4) "before" in the sense of "in one's estimation" (Is 40:17), and (5) "straight ahead (before)" (Josh 6:5). (6) In combination with other particles neged means "contrary to" (Num 22:32). (7) The word indicates that its object is immediately "before" something or someone. As an adverb it means opposite, over against: "And she went, and sat her down over against him a good way off" (Gen 21:16). See: TWOT—1289a; BDB—617a, 1102a.

Nagiyd means "chief leader." (1) In 1 Sa 9:16 the word is used as a "chief leader" that is equivalent to a king: "Tomorrow about this time I will send thee a man out of the land of Benjamin, and thou shalt anoint him to be captain over my people Israel." (2) Nagiyd appears in 1 Chr 9:11 to refer to a "chief leader" (ruler) of a smaller region: "And Azariah the son of Hilkiah, the son of Meshullam, the son of Zadok, the son of Meraioth, the son of Ahitub, the ruler of the house of God." (3) The word may also be used of a head of a family: "And Phinehas the son of Eleazar was the ruler over them in time past, and the LORD was with him" (1Chr 9:20). See: TWOT—1289b; BDB—618d.

5060. נָגַע {150x} nâga^c, naw-gah'; a prim. root; prop. to touch, i.e. lay the hand upon (for any purpose; euphem. to lie with a woman); by impl. to reach (fig. to arrive, acquire); violently, to strike (punish, defeat, destroy, etc.):—touch {92x}, came {18x}, reach {11x}, bring {4x}, near {4x}, smite {4x}, nigh {3x}, plagued {3x}, happeneth {2x}, strike {2x}, beaten {1x}, cast {1x}, reach up {1x}, brought down {1x}, join {1x}, laid {1x}, get up {1x}.

Naga^c means "to touch, strike, reach, smite." (1) Naga^c first occurs in Gen 3:3 in the Garden of Eden story, where the woman reminds the serpent that God had said: "Ye shall not eat of [the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden], neither shall ye touch it." (2) This illustrates the common meaning of physical touch involving various kinds of objects: (2a) Jacob's thigh was "touched" by the man at Jabbok (Gen 32:25, 32); (2b) the Israelites were commanded not "to touch" Mount Horeb under pain of death (Ex 19:12); and (2c) unclean things were not "to be touched" (Lev 5:2–3). (3) Sometimes naga^c is used figuratively in the sense of emotional involvement: "And Saul also went home to Gibeah; and there went with him a band of men, whose hearts God had touched" (1 Sa 10:26). (4) The word is used to refer to sexual contact with another person, such as in Gen 20:6, where God tells Abimelech that He did not allow him "to touch" Sarah, Abraham's wife (cf. Prov 6:29). (5) To refer to the touch of God's hand means that divine chastisement has been received: "Have pity upon me, O ye my friends; for the hand of God hath touched me" (Job 19:21). (6) The word is commonly used also to describe "being stricken" with a disease: King Uzziah "was smitten" with leprosy (2 Chr 26:20). See: TWOT—1293; BDB—619a.

Nega^c means "plague: stroke; wound." (1) The word refers to a "plague" most frequently: "And the LORD plagued Pharaoh and his house with great plagues because of Sarai Abram's wife" (Gen 12:17; cf. Ex 11:1). (2) Nega^c can also mean "stroke": "If there arise a matter too hard for thee in judgment, between blood and blood, between plea and plea, and between stroke and stroke, being matters of controversy within thy gates: then shalt thou arise, and get thee up into the place which the LORD thy God shall choose" (Deut 17:8; cf. 21:5) or (3) "wound": "A wound and dishonour shall he get; and his reproach shall not be wiped away" (Prov 6:33). (4) Each meaning carries with it the sense of a person "being stricken or smitten in some way." See: TWOT—1293a; BDB—619c.

Nagash means "to approach, draw near, bring." (1) Nagash is used for the first time in the biblical text in Gen 18:23, where Abraham is said to "draw near" to God to plead that Sodom be spared. (2) The word is often used to describe ordinary "contact" of one person with another: "And Jacob went near unto Isaac his father; and he felt him, and said, The voice is Jacob's voice, but the hands are the hands of Esau" (Gen 27:22; cf. 43:19). (3) Sometimes nagash describes "contact" for the purpose of sexual intercourse: "And he said unto the people, Be ready against the third day: come not at your wives" (Ex 19:15). (4) More frequently, it is used to speak of the priests "coming into the presence of" God (Eze 44:13) or of the priests' "approach" to the altar (Ex 30:20). (5) Opposing armies are said "to go up" to battle each other (Judg 20:23). (6) Inanimate objects, such as the close-fitting scales of the crocodile, are said to be so "near" to each other that no air can come between them (Job 41:16). (7) Sometimes the word is used to speak of "bringing" an offering to the altar (Mal 1:7). Nadach means "to drive out, banish, thrust, move." (1) Nadach occurs approximately 50 times in the Hebrew Old Testament, and (1a) its first use is in the passive form: "And lest thou . . . shouldest be driven to worship them . . ." (Deut 4:19). (1b) The implication seems to be that an inner "drivenness" or "drawing away," as well as an external force, was involved in Israel's potential turning toward idolatry. (2) Nadach expresses the idea of "being scattered" in exile, as in Jer 40:12: "Even all the Jews returned out of all places whither they were driven." (3) Job complained that any resource he once possessed no longer existed, for it "is . . . driven quite from me" (Job 6:13). (4) Evil "shepherds" or leaders did not lead but rather "drove away" and scattered Israel (Jer 23:2). (5) The enemies of a good man plot against him "They only consult to cast him down from his excellency: they delight in lies: they bless with their mouth, but they curse inwardly" (Ps 62:4). 5085. נִדְנָה {1x} nidneh (Aram.), nid-neh'; from the same as 5084; a sheath; fig. the body (as the receptacle of the soul):—body {1x}. See: TWOT—2851; BDB—1086, 1102b.

5086. נָדַף {9x} nâdaph, naw-daf'; a prim. root; to shove asunder, i.e. disperse:—drive away {4x}, drive {1x}, thrust him down {1x}, shaken {1x}, driven to and fro {1x}, tossed to and fro {1x}. See: TWOT—1307; BDB—623c.

5087. נָדַר {31x} nâdar, naw-dar'; a prim. root; to promise (pos., to do or give something to God):—make a vow {1x}, vow {30x}.

Nadar, as a verb, means "to vow." (1) Both men and women could "vow" a vow. (2) Numbers 30 deals with the law concerning vows; cf. (2a) Num 30:2: "If a man vow a vow unto the LORD, or swear an oath to bind his soul with a bond . . ."; and (2b) Num. 30:3: "If a woman also vow a vow unto the LORD, and bind herself by a bond. . . ." Syn.: 5088. See: TWOT—1308; BDB—623d.

5088. נֶדֶר {60x} neder, neh'-der; or

נֵדֶר nêder, nay'-der; from 5087; a promise (to God); also (concr.) a thing promised:—vow {58x}, vowed {2x}.

Neder, as a noun, means "vow; votive offering." (1) This noun occurs 60 times in biblical Hebrew and is often used in conjunction with the verb (19 times): "Any of thy vows which thou vowest . . ." (Deut 12:17). (2) The vow has two basic forms, the unconditional and the conditional. (2a) The unconditional is an "oath" where someone binds himself without expecting anything in return: "I will pay my vows unto the LORD now in the presence of all his people" (Ps 116:14). The obligation is binding upon the person who has made a "vow." The word spoken has the force of an oath which generally could not be broken: "If a man vow a vow unto the Lord, or swear an oath to bind his soul with a bond; he shall not break his word, he shall do [everything he said]" (Num 30:2). (2b) The conditional "vow" generally had a preceding clause before the oath giving the conditions which had to come to pass before the "vow" became valid: "And Jacob vowed a vow, saying, If God will be with me, and will [watch over me] . . . , so that I come again to my father's house in peace; then shall the LORD be my God . . . and of all that thou shalt give me I will surely give the tenth unto thee" (Gen 28:20–22).

(3) "Vows" usually occurred in serious situations. (3a) Jacob needed the assurance of God's presence before setting out for Padan-aram (Gen 28:20–22); (3b) Jephthah made a rash "vow" before battle (Judg 11:30; cf. Num 21:1–3); (3c) Hannah greatly desired a child (1 Sa 1:11), when she made a "vow." (3d) Though conditional "vows" were often made out of desperation, there is no question of the binding force of the "vow." (4) Ecclesiastes amplifies the Old Testament teaching on "vowing": "When thou vowest a vow unto God, defer not to pay it. . . . Better is it that thou shouldest not vow, than that thou shouldest vow and not pay. . . . Neither say thou before the angel, that it was an error" (5:4–6). (4a) First, "vow" is always made to God. Even non-Israelites made "vows" to Him (Jonah 1:16). (4b) Second, a "vow" is made voluntarily. It is never associated with a life of piety or given the status of religious requirement in the Old Testament. (4c) Third, a "vow" once made must be kept. One cannot annul the "vow." (4c1) However, the Old Testament allows for "redeeming" the "vow"; by payment of an equal amount in silver, a person, a field, or a house dedicated by "vow" to the Lord could be redeemed (Lev 27:1–25). (4c2) This practice, however, declined in Jesus' time, and therefore the Talmud frowns upon the practice of "vowing" and refers to those who vow as "sinners."

(5) Neder signifies a kind of offering: "And thither ye shall bring your burnt offerings, and your sacrifices, and your tithes, and [contributions] of your hand, and your vows, and your freewill offerings" (Deut 12:6). (5a) In particular the word represents a kind of peace or "votive offering" (Ezr 7:16). (5b) It also is a kind of thank offering: "Behold upon the mountains the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace! . . . Perform thy vows . . ." (Nah 1:15). (5c) Here even Gentiles expressed their thanks to God presumably with a gift promised upon condition of deliverance (cf. Num 21:1–3). (5d) Such offerings may also be expressions of zeal for God (Ps 22:25). (5e) One can give to God anything not abominable to Him (Lev 27:9ff.; Deut 23:18), including one's services (Lev 27:2). (6) Pagans were thought to feed and/or tend their gods, while God denied that "vows" paid to Him were to be so conceived (Ps 50:9–13). (6a) In paganism the god rewarded the devotee because of and in proportion to his offering. (6b) It was a contractual relationship whereby the god was obligated to pay a debt thus incurred. In Israel no such contractual relationship was in view.

(7) The Israelites' unique and concrete demonstrations of love for God show that under Moses love (Deut 6:4) was more than pure legalism; it was spiritual devotion. (8) God's Messiah was pledged to offer Himself as a sacrifice for sin (Ps 22:25; cf. Lev 27:2ff.). This was the only sacrifice absolutely and unconditionally acceptable to God. (9) Every man is obliged to pay the "vow" before God: "Praise waiteth for thee, O God in Zion: and unto thee shall the vow be performed. . . . Unto thee shall all flesh come" (Ps 65:1–2). See: TWOT—1308a; BDB—623d.

Nahar means "to flow." This verb occurs in Is 2:2: "And it shall come to pass in the last days that the mountain of the LORD's house shall be established in the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills; and all nations shall flow unto it." See: TWOT—1316, 1315; BDB—625c, 626a, 1102c.

5103. נְהַר {15x} n^ehar (Aram.), neh-har'; from a root corresp. to 5102; a river, espec. the Euphrates:—river {14x}, stream {1x}. See: TWOT—2852; BDB—1102c.

5104. נָהָר {120x} nâhâr, naw-hawr'; from 5102; a stream (incl. the sea; espec. the Nile, Euphrates, etc.); fig. prosperity:—river {98x}, flood {18x}, streams {2x}, Aramnaharaim + 763 {1x}, river side {1x}.

Nahar (5104) means "river; stream; canal; current." (1) First, this word usually refers to permanent natural watercourses. (1a) In its first biblical appearance nahar represents the primeval "rivers" of Eden: "And a river went out of Eden to water the garden; and from thence it was parted, and became into four heads" (Gen 2:10). (2) In some passages nahar may represent a "canal(s)": "Say unto Aaron, Take thy rod, and stretch out thine hand upon the waters of Egypt, upon their streams [the branches of the Nile], upon their rivers [canals], and upon their ponds" (Ex 7:19; cf. Eze 1:1). (3) Third, this word is used of "ocean currents": "For thou hadst cast me into the deep, in the midst of the seas; and the floods compassed me about: all thy billows and thy waves passed over me" (Jonah 2:3). (4) Fourth, nahar is used of underground streams: "For he hath founded it [the earth] upon the seas, and established it upon the floods" (Ps 24:2). This passage appears to be a literary allusion to the pagan concept of the creation and structure of the world—the next verse is "Who shall ascend into the hill of the LORD?" (Ps 24:3).

(5) This word plays a prominent role in the figure of divine blessing set forth in Ps 46:4: "There is a river, the streams whereof shall make glad the city of God." This may be an allusion to the primeval "river" in Eden whose water gave life to the garden. (6) In Is 33:21 the same Jerusalem is depicted as having "rivers" of blessing: "A place of broad rivers and streams; wherein shall go no galley with oars, neither shall gallant ship pass thereby" (cf. Is 48:18). (7) In other passages a "river" is a figure of trouble and difficulty: "When thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee; and through the rivers, they shall not overflow thee" (Is 43:2). (8) This is in marked contrast to the use of the same idea in Is 66:12, where an "overflowing stream" depicts respectively the onrush of God's glory and divine peace. Syn.: 5158. See: TWOT—1315a; BDB—625c.

5105. נְהָרָה {1x} n^ehârâh, neh-haw-raw'; from 5102 in its orig. sense; daylight:—light {1x}. See: TWOT—1316a; BDB—626a.

See: TWOT—1322a, 1322b, 1322c; BDB—610a, 627c, 627d.

Nuwach means "to rest, remain, be quiet." (1) The first occurrence is in Gen 8:4: "And the ark [came to rest] . . . upon the mountains of Ararat." (1a) This illustrates the frequent use of this word to show a physical settling down of something at some particular place. (1b) Other examples are birds (2 Sa 21:10), insects (Ex 10:14), and soles of feet in the waters of the Jordan (Josh 3:13). (2) "To rest" sometimes indicates a complete envelopment and thus permeation, as (2a) in the spirit of Elijah "resting" on Elisha (2 Kin 2:15), (2b) the hand of God "resting" on the mountain (Is 25:10), and (2c) when Wisdom "resteth in the heart of him that hath understanding" (Prov 14:33). (3) Frequently nuwach means "to be quiet" or "to rest" (3a) after hard work (Ex 20:11), (3b) from onslaught of one's enemies (Est 9:16), (3c) from trouble (Job 3:26), and (3d) in death (Job 3:17).

(4) The word may mean "to set one's mind at rest," as when a child receives the discipline of his parent (Prov 29:17). (5) Sometimes nuwach means "to leave at rest" or "to allow to remain." Thus, God "allowed" the pagan nations "to remain" in Canaan during Joshua's lifetime (Judg 2:23). (6) God threatened to abandon the Israelites in the wilderness (Num 32:15). (7) It should be noted that while nuwach is used sometimes as a synonym for shabath (7673), "to cease, to rest" (Ex 20:11), shabath really is basically "to cease" from work which may imply rest, but not necessarily so. The writer of Gen 2:3 is not stressing rest from work but rather God's ceasing from His creative work since it was complete. Syn.: 7673. See: TWOT—1323; BDB—628a. comp. 3241.

Nuwc means to flee, escape, take flight, depart. (1) Nuwc occurs for the first time in Gen 14:10, where it is used twice to describe the "fleeing" of the kings of Sodom and Gomorrah. (2) Nuwc is the common word for "fleeing" from an enemy or danger (Gen 39:12; Num 16:34; Josh 10:6). (3) The word is also used to describe "escape,": "Let not the swift flee away, nor the mighty man escape; they shall stumble, and fall toward the north by the river Euphrates" (Jer 46:6; cf. Amos 9:1). (4) In a figurative use, the word describes (4a) the "disappearance" of physical strength: "And Moses was an hundred and twenty years old when he died: his eye was not dim, nor his natural force abated" (Deut 34:7), (4b) the "fleeing" of evening shadows: "Until the day break, and the shadows flee away, turn, my beloved, and be thou like a roe or a young hart upon the mountains of Bether" (Song 2:17), and (4c) the "fleeing away" of sorrow: "And the ransomed of the LORD shall return, and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads: they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away" (Is 35:10). נָזִר nâzîr, naw-zeer'; from 5144; separate, i.e. consecrated (as prince, a Nazirite); hence, (fig. from the latter) an unpruned vine (like an unshorn Nazirite):—Nazarite {12x}, separate {1x}, separated {1x}, vine undressed {2x}.

Nazir means "one who is separated; Nazarite." (1) There are 16 occurrences of the word in the Old Testament. (1a) The earliest use of nazir is found in Gen 49:26: "The blessings of thy father . . . shall be on the head of Joseph . . . that was separate from his brethren" (cf. Deut 33:16). (1b) Joseph was separated from his brethren to become the savior of his father, his brethren, and their families. (2) Most frequently in Old Testament usage, nazir is an appellation for one who vowed to refrain from certain things for a period of time: "And this is the law of the Nazarite, when the days of his separation are fulfilled: he shall be brought unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation" (Num 6:13). (2a) According to Num 6, a lay person of either sex could take a special vow of consecration to God's service for a certain period of time. (2b) A "Nazarite" usually made a vow voluntarily; however, in the case of Samson, (Judg 13:5, 7) his parents dedicated him for life. (3) Num 6:1–23 laid down regulatory laws pertaining to Nazaritism. (4) There were two kinds of "Nazarites": the temporary and the perpetual. (4a) The temporary was much more common than the perpetual/lifelong. (4b) From the Bible we have knowledge only of Samson, Samuel, and John the Baptist as persons who were lifelong "Nazarites." (5) The Bible does not specify the length of a Nazarite's separation. (5a) According to the Mishna, the normal time for keeping a Nazarite vow was thirty days; but sometimes a double vow was taken, lasting sixty days. (5b) In fact, a vow was sometimes undertaken for a hundred days. (6) During the time of his vow, (6a) a "Nazarite" was required to abstain from wine and every kind of intoxicating drink. (6b) He was also forbidden to cut the hair of his head or to approach a dead body, even that of his nearest relative. (6c) If a "Nazarite" accidently defiled himself, he had to undergo certain rites of purification and then had to begin the full period of consecration over again. (7) There is but one reference in the prophetic literature to "Nazarites": The prophet Amos complained that the Lord had given the Israelites, Nazarites and prophets as spiritual leaders, but that the people "gave the Nazarites wine to drink; and commanded the prophets, saying, Prophesy not" (Amos 2:11–12). (8) The New Testament occasionally refers to what appear to have been Nazarite vows. For example, Acts 18:18 says that Paul sailed with Priscilla and Aquila, "having shorn his head . . . for he had a vow" (cf. Acts 21:23–24). Syn.: 6504. See: TWOT—1340b; BDB—634c.

5140. נָזַל {16x} nâzal, naw-zal'; a prim. root; to drip, or shed by trickling:—flood {3x}, flow {3x}, stream {2x}, pour out {1x}, distil {1x}, melted {1x}, drop {1x}, running waters {1x}, flow out {1x}, pour down {1x}, gush out {1x}. See: TWOT—1337; BDB—633c.

5143. נֵזֶק {1x} nêzeq, nay'zek; from an unused root mean. to injure; loss:—damage {1x}. See: TWOT—1339; BDB—413b, 634a.

5144. נָזַר {10x} nâzar, naw-zar'; a prim. root; to hold aloof, i.e. (intr.) abstain (from food and drink, from impurity, and even from divine worship [i.e. apostatize]); spec. to set apart (to sacred purposes), i.e. devote:—consecrate {1x}, separate (-ing, self) {9x}.

Nazar, "to separate, be separated." (1) "To separate" and "to consecrate" are not distinguished from one another in the early Old Testament books. (1a) For example, the earliest use of nazar in the Pentateuch is in Lev 15:31: "Thus shall ye separate the children of Israel from their uncleanness; that they die not in their uncleanness, when they defile my tabernacle that is among them." (1b) Here Moses uses the word in a cultic [religious] sense, meaning a kind of "consecration." (2) In the days of the prophet Zechariah, Jews asked the Lord whether certain fasts which they had voluntarily adopted were to be continued and observed. (2a) "When they had sent unto the home of God Sherezer and Regemmelech, and their men, to pray before the Lord, and to speak unto the priests which were in the house of the Lord of hosts, and to the prophets, saying, Should I weep in the fifth month, separating myself, as I have done these so many years?" (Zec 7:2–3). (2b) The Lord's response stated that it was no longer necessary and therefore needed not to be continued.

(3) In prophetic literature, the verb nazar indicates Israel's deliberate separation (3a) from Jehovah to dedication of foreign gods or idols. (3b) Hos 9:10: "I found Israel like grapes in the wilderness; I saw your fathers as the firstripe in the fig tree at her first time: but they went to Baalpeor, and separated themselves unto that shame; and their abominations were according as they loved." (4) The prophet Ezekiel employed nazar: "For every one of the house of Israel, or of the stranger that sojourneth in Israel, which separateth himself from me, and setteth up his idols in his heart, and putteth the stumbling block of his iniquity before his face, and cometh to a prophet to inquire of him concerning me; I the Lord will answer him by myself" (Eze 14:7). See: TWOT—1340; BDB—634a, 634c.

5157. נָחַל {62x} nâchal, naw-khal'; a prim. root; to inherit (as a [fig.] mode of descent), or (gen.) to occupy; caus. to bequeath, or (gen.) distribute, instate:—inherit {30x}, inheritance {20x}, possess {5x}, have {2x}, had {1x}, divide {1x}, heritage {1x}, possession {1x}, defiled {1x}.

Nachal means to inherit, get possession of, take as a possession. (1) The first time nachal is used in the Old Testament text is in Ex 23:30: "inherit the land." (2) To inherit (2a) does not always require a "last will and testament." (2b) The basic meaning of nachal is to receive with the ability to control, possess, and direct. (3) One of the few instances of "to inherit" by last will and testament is in Deut 21:16: ". . . when he maketh his sons to inherit that which he hath." This clause is more literally translated "in the day he causes his sons to inherit that which is his." (4) When Moses prayed: "O Lord, . . . take us for thine inheritance" (Ex 34:9), he did not mean that God should "inherit" through a will, but that He should "take possession of" Israel. (5) The meaning "to get as a possession" is seen in its figurative use. Thus, (5a) "the wise shall inherit [possess as their due] glory" (Prov 3:35); (5b) "the upright shall have good things in possession" (Prov 28:10); (5c) "our fathers have inherited lies" (Jer 16:19); (5d) "he that troubleth his own house shall inherit the wind" (Prov 11:29). See: TWOT—1342; BDB—635c.

5158. נַחַל {141x} nachal, nakh'-al; or (fem.)

נַחֲלָה nachălâh (Eze 47:19; 48:28), nakh-al-aw'; from 5157 in its orig. sense; a stream, espec. a winter torrent; (by impl.) a (narrow) valley (in which a brook runs); also a shaft (of a mine):—brook {46x}, flood {5x}, river {56x}, stream {11x}, valley {23x}.

Nachalah means "wadi (or wady); torrent valley; torrent; river; shaft." (1) This noun represents a dry valley in which water runs during the rainy season: "And Isaac departed thence, and pitched his tent in the valley of Gerar, and dwelt there" (Gen 26:17—the first biblical appearance). (2) The word can signify the "wady" when it is full of rushing water. Indeed, it appears to describe the rushing water itself: "And he took them, and sent them over the brook" (Gen 32:23). (3) Sometimes nachalah means a permanent stream or "river": "These shall ye eat of all that are in the waters: whatsoever hath fins and scales in the waters, in the seas, and in the rivers, them shall ye eat" (Lev 11:9). (4) The Pentateuch consistently distinguishes between extra-Egyptian waterways; calling them nachalah, 13 times, and nahar (5104), 13 times, and inter-Egyptian waterways (calling them ye'or). This distinction demonstrates the kind of firsthand knowledge and historical concern expected from a mature eyewitness. (5) Nachalah is used figuratively of many things that emerge and disappear suddenly or that have extreme on-rushing power such as the pride of nations (Is 66:12), the strength of the invader (Jer 47:2), and the power of the foe (Ps 18:4). (6) Torrents of oil do not please God if the offerer's heart is wrongly disposed (Mic 6:7). (7) God overfloods the godly with torrents of His good pleasure (Ps 36:8). (8) The eschaton is typified by streams, or torrents, in the desert (Eze 47:5–19; cf. Ex 17:3ff.). See: TWOT—1343a, 1343b; BDB—636a, 636d.

5159. נַחֲלָה {222x} nachălâh, nakh-al-aw'; from 5157 (in its usual sense); prop. something inherited, i.e. (abstr.) occupancy, or (concr.) an heirloom; gen. an estate, patrimony or portion:—heritage {27x}, to inherit {2x}, inheritance {192x}, possession {1x}.

Nachalah means "possession; property; inheritance." (1) The first occurrence of the word is in Gen 31:14: "And Rachel and Leah answered and said unto him, Is there yet any portion or inheritance for us in our father's house?" (2) The basic translation of nachalah is "inheritance": "And Naboth said to Ahab, The Lord forbid it me, that I should give the inheritance of my fathers unto thee" (1 Kin 21:3). (3) The word stresses a "possession" to which one has received the legal claim. (3a) Technically, the 12 tribes were inheriting the land given to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. (3b) The usage of nachalah in the Pentateuch and Joshua indicates that the word often denotes that "possession" which all of Israel or a tribe or a clan received as their share in the Promised Land. (3c) The share was determined by lot (Num 26:56) shortly before Moses' death, and it fell upon Joshua to execute the division of the "possession": "So Joshua took the whole land, according to all that the Lord said unto Moses; and Joshua gave it for an inheritance unto Israel according to their divisions by their tribes" (Josh 11:23).

(3d) After the Conquest the term "inheritance" is no longer used to refer to newly gained territory by warfare. (3e) Once "possession" had been taken of the land, the legal process came into operation by which the hereditary property was supposed to stay within the family. (3f) For this reason Naboth could not give his rights over to Ahab (1 Kin 21:3–4). (4) One could redeem the property, whenever it had come into other hands, as did Boaz, in order to maintain the name of the deceased: "Moreover Ruth the Moabitess, the wife of Mahlon, have I purchased to be my wife, to raise up the name of the dead upon his inheritance, that the name of the dead be not cut off from among his brethren, and from the gate of his place" (Ruth 4:10). (5) Metaphorically, Israel is said to be God's "possession": "But the Lord hath taken you, and brought you forth out of the iron furnace, even out of Egypt, to be unto him a people of inheritance, as ye are this day" (Deut 4:20).

(6) Within the special covenantal status Israel experienced the blessing that its children were a special gift from the Lord (Ps 127:3). (6a) However, the Lord abandoned Israel as His "possession" to the nations (cf. Is 47:6), and (6b) permitted a remnant of the "possession" to return: "Who is a God like unto thee, that pardoneth iniquity, and passeth by the transgression of the remnant of his heritage? he retaineth not his anger for ever, because he delighteth in mercy" (Mic 7:18). (7) On the other hand, it can even be said that the Lord is the "possession" of His people. The priests and the Levites, whose earthly "possessions" were limited, were assured that their "possession" is the Lord: "Wherefore Levi hath no part nor inheritance with his brethren; the Lord is his inheritance, according as the Lord thy God promised him" (Deut 10:9; cf. 12:22; Num 18:23). See: TWOT—1342a; BDB—635a. comp. 5158.

5160. נַחֲלִיאֵל {2x} Nachălîy'êl, nakh-al-ee-ale'; from 5158 and 410; valley of God; Nachaliël, a place in the desert:—Nahaliel {2x}. See: BDB—636d.

5161. נֶחֱלָמִי {3x} Nechĕlâmîy, nekh-el-aw-mee'; appar. a patron. from an unused name (appar. pass. part. of 2492); dreamed; a Nechelamite, or desc. of Nechlam:—Nehelamite {3x}. See: BDB—636d.

5162. נָחַם {108x} nâcham, naw-kham'; a prim. root; prop. to sigh, i.e. breathe strongly; by impl. to be sorry, i.e. (in a favorable sense) to pity, console or (refl.) rue; or (unfavorably) to avenge (oneself):—comfort {57x}, repent {41x}, comforter {9x}, ease {1x}.

Nacham means "to repent, comfort." (1) Nacham is translated "to repent" 41 times and "to comfort" 57 times in the Old Testament. (1a) To repent means to make a strong turning to a new course of action. (1a1) The emphasis is on turning to a positive course of action, not (1a2) turning from a less desirable course. (1a3) Comfort is derived from "com" (with) and "fort" (strength). (1b) Hence, when one repents, he exerts strength to change, to re-grasp the situation, and exert effort for the situation to take a different course of purpose and action. (1c) The stress is not upon new information or new facts which cause the change as it is upon the visible action taken. (2) Most uses of the term in the Old Testament are connected with God's repentance: (2a) "It repented the Lord that he had made man" (Gen 6:6); (2b) "And the Lord repented of the evil which he thought to do unto his people" (Ex 32:14). (2c) Sometimes the Lord "repented" of the discipline He had planned to carry out concerning His people: "If that nation, against whom I have pronounced, turn from their evil, I will repent of the evil that I thought to do unto them" (Jer 18:8); (2d) "If it do evil in my sight, that it obey not my voice, then I will repent of the good" (Jer 18:10); (2e) "And rend your heart, and not your garments, and turn unto the Lord your God: for he is gracious and merciful, slow to anger . . . and repenteth him of evil" (Joel 2:13).

(3) In other instances, the Lord exhibited new actions when man changed to make the right choices, (3a) but He could not change His attitude toward evil when man continued on the wrong course. (3b) As God demonstrated His actions, He always remained faithful to His own righteousness. (4) In some situations, God was weary of "repenting" (Jer 15:6), (4a) suggesting that He has grown weary with Israel's constant insincere repentance. (4b) An instance of this action was in Samuel's word to Saul, that God took the kingdom from Israel's first king and intended to give it to another; Samuel declared, "And also the Strength of Israel will not lie nor repent: for he is not a man, that he should repent" (1 Sa 15:29). (5) God usually "repented" of His actions because of man's intercession and repentance of his evil deeds. (5a) Moses pleaded with God as the intercessor for Israel: "Turn from thy fierce wrath, and repent of this evil against thy people" (Ex 32:12).

(5b) The Lord did that when He "repented of the evil which he thought to do unto his people" (Ex 32:14). (5c) As God's prophet preached to Nineveh, "God saw their works, that they turned from their evil way; and God repented of the evil, that he had said that he would do unto them" (Jonah 3:10). (5d) In such instances, God "repented," to bring about a change of plan than previously proclaimed by the prophet. Again, however, God remained faithful to His absolutes of righteousness in His relation to and with man. (6) Other passages refer to a change (or lack of it) in man's attitude. When man did not "repent" of his wickedness, he chose rebellion (Jer 8:6). (7) In the eschatological sense, when Ephraim (as a representative of the northern branch of Israel) will "repent" (Jer 31:19), God then will have mercy (Jer 31:20). (8) Man also expressed repentance to other men. Benjamin suffered greatly from the crime of immorality (Judg 19—20): "And the children of Israel [eleven tribes] repented them from Benjamin their brother, and said, There is one tribe cut off from Israel this day" (Judg 21:6; cf. v. 15).

(9) Nacham may also mean "to comfort." (9a) The refugees in Babylon would be "comforted" when survivors arrived from Jerusalem (Eze 14:23); the connection between "comfort" and "repent" here resulted from the calamity God brought upon Jerusalem as a testimony to the truth of His Word. (9b) David "comforted" Bathsheba after the death of her child born in sin (2 Sa 12:24); this probably indicates his repentance of what had happened in their indiscretion. (10) On the other hand, the word was used in the human sense of "comfort." Job asked his three companions, "How then comfort ye me in vain seeing in your answers there remaineth falsehood?" (Job 21:34; he meant that their attitude seemed cruel and unfeeling). (11) The psalmist looked to God for "comfort": "Thou shalt increase my greatness, and comfort me on every side" (Ps 71:21). (12) In an eschatological sense God indicated that He would "comfort" Jerusalem with the restoration of Israel, as a mother comforts her offspring (Is 66:13). נְחֻשָׁה n'chûshâh. See 5154.

5178. נְחֹשֶׁת {141x} n'chôsheth, nekh-o'-sheth; for 5154; copper, hence, something made of that metal, i.e. coin, a fetter; fig. base (as compared with gold or silver):—brass {103x}, brasen {28x}, fetters {4x}, chain {3x}, copper {1x}, filthiness {1x}, steel {1x}.

Nechosheth means "brass, bronze; bronze chains, copper." (1) This word refers to the metal ore usually translated brass: "A land wherein thou shalt eat bread without scarceness, thou shalt not lack any thing in it; a land whose stones are iron, and out of whose hills thou mayest dig brass" (Deut 8:9). (1b) The word can also represent the refined ore: "And Zillah, she also bare Tubal-cain, an instructor of every artificer in brass and iron" (Gen 4:22). (1c) Copper ore rarely occurs in the earth in its pure state, hence, copper is a mixture in the earth of other metals; usually zinc, which is why the translation "brass" [a combination of zinc and copper]. (2) Inasmuch as it was a semi-precious metal, nechosheth is sometimes listed as a spoil of war (2 Sa 8:8). (2a) In such passages, it is difficult to know whether the reference is to copper or to copper mixed with tin (i.e., bronze). (2b) Certainly, "bronze" is intended in 1 Sa 17:5, where nechosheth refers to the material from which armor is made. (2c) Bronze is the material from which utensils (Lev 6:21), altars (Ex 38:30), and other objects were fashioned. (2d) This material could be polished (1 Kin 7:45) or shined (Ezra 8:27). (2e) This metal was less valuable than gold and more valuable than wood (Is 60:17).

(3) Still another meaning of nechosheth appears in Judg 16:21: "But the Philistines took [Samson], and put out his eyes, and brought him down to Gaza, and bound him with fetters of [bronze]; and he did grind in the prison house." Usually, when the word has this meaning it appears in the dual form (in the singular form only in Lam 3:7). (4) Deut 28:23 uses nechosheth to symbolize the cessation of life-giving rain and sunshine: "And thy heaven that is over thy head shall be [bronze], and the earth that is under thee shall be iron." See: TWOT—1349a, 1350a; BDB—638b, 639b, 1102d.

{20x} = + afternoon, apply, deliver, go down, be gone, intend, lay, let down, offer, overthrown, prolong, put away, shew, take (aside), cause to yield.

Natah means "to stretch forth, spread out, stretch down, turn aside." (1) Natah connotes "extending something outward and toward" something or someone. So God told Moses: "I will redeem you with a stretched out arm, and with great judgments" (Ex 6:6). (1a) This is a figure of God's active, sovereign, and mighty involvement in the affairs of men. (1b) So this phrase means "to stretch out" something until it reaches a goal. (2) The verb can also mean "to stretch out toward" but not to touch or reach anything. (2a) God told Moses to tell Aaron to take his staff in hand (cf. Ex 9:23) and "stretch it out." (2b) This act was to be done as a sign. (2c) The pointed staff was a visible sign that God's power was directly related to God's messengers: "Take thy rod, and stretch out thine hand upon the waters of Egypt, upon their streams, upon their rivers, and upon their ponds . . . ," over all the water in Egypt (Ex 7:19). (3) God "stretched out" (offered) 3 things to David (1 Chr 21:10); this is a related sense with the absence of anything physical being "stretched out."

(4) This verb may connote "stretch out" but not toward anything. When a shadow "stretches out," it lengthens. Hezekiah remarked: "It is a light thing for the shadow to go down ten degrees . . ." (2 Kin 20:10), to grow longer. (5) Natah may be used in this sense without an object and referring to a day. The Levite was asked to "comfort thine heart, I pray thee. And they tarried until afternoon [literally, the "stretching" (of the day, or of the shadows)]" (Judg 19:8). (6) "To stretch out" one's limbs full length is to recline: "And they lay themselves down upon clothes laid to pledge by every altar" (Amos 2:8). This is a figure of temple prostitution. (7) This verb may also mean "to extend" in every direction. (7a) It represents what one does in pitching a tent by unrolling the canvas (or skins sewn together) and "stretching it out." (7b) The end product is that the canvas is properly "spread out." Abram "pitched his tent, having Beth-el on the west, and Hai on the east" (Gen 12:8—the first appearance of the word). (8) This act and its result is used as a figure of God's creating the heavens: ". . . Which alone spreadeth out the heavens" (Job 9:8). (9) This verb also implies "stretching down toward" so as to reach something. Earlier in the Bible Rebekah was asked to "let down thy pitcher, . . . that I may drink" (Gen 24:14); she was asked to "stretch it down" into the water.

(10) This is the nuance when God is said to have "inclined [stretched down] unto me, and heard my cry" (Ps 40:1). (11) Issachar is described as a donkey which "bowed his shoulder to bear [burdens]" (Gen 49:15). (12) In somewhat the same sense the heavens are bowed; the heavens are made to come closer to the earth. (12a) This is a figure of the presence of thick clouds: "He bowed the heavens also, and came down: and darkness was under his feet" (Ps 18:9). (12b) The somewhat new element here is that the heavens do not touch the speaker but only "stretch downward" toward him. (13) This verb may mean "to turn aside" in the sense of "to visit": "Judah went down from his brethren, and turned in to [visited] a certain Adullamite" (Gen 38:1). (14) Another special nuance appears in Num 22:23, where it means "to go off the way": "And the ass saw the angel of the Lord standing in the way . . . , and the ass turned aside out of the way." (15) Applied to human relationships, this may connote seduction: "With her much fair speech she caused him to yield" (Prov 7:21). See: TWOT—1352; BDB—639d. Syn.: 4294, 4295.

Nataʿ means "to plant." (1) The word is used for the first time in the text in Gen 2:8: "And the Lord God planted a garden eastward in Eden." (2) The regular word for planting trees and vineyards, nataʿ is used figuratively of planting people: "Yet I had planted thee [Judah] a noble vine . . ." (Jer 2:21). (3) This use is a close parallel to the famous "Song of the Vineyard" (Is 5:1–10) where Israel and Judah are called God's "pleasant plant" (Is 5:7). (4) Nataʿ is used in Is 17:10 in an unusual description of idolatry: "Therefore shalt thou plant pleasant plants, and shalt set it with strange slips." (5) "To plant" sometimes has the meaning of "to establish." Thus, God promises in the latter days, "I will plant them upon their land" (Amos 9:15). See: TWOT—1354; BDB—642b, 785c.

Nakar means "to know, regard, recognize, pay attention to, be acquainted with." (1) The first time is in Gen 27:23: ". . . he discerned him not." (2) The basic meaning of the term is a physical apprehension, whether through sight, touch, or hearing. (2a) Darkness sometimes makes recognition impossible (Ruth 3:14). (2b) People are often "recognized" by their voices (Judg 18:3). (3) Nakar sometimes has the meaning "pay attention to," a special kind of recognition: "Blessed be the man who took knowledge of you" (Ruth 2:19). (4) This verb can mean "to be acquainted with," a kind of intellectual awareness: ". . . neither shall his place know him any more" (Job 7:10; cf. Ps 103:16). (5) The sense of "to distinguish" is seen in Ezra 3:13: "The people could not discern the noise of the shout of joy from the noise of the weeping of the people." *Naca*ʿ means to journey, depart, set out, march. (1) It is probably the most common term in the Old Testament referring to the movement of clans and tribes. Indeed, the word is used almost 90 times in the Book of Numbers alone, since this book records the "journeying" of the people of Israel from Sinai to Canaan. (2) It occurs for the first time in Gen 11:2, where *naca*ʿ refers to the "migration" of people to the area of Babylon: "And it came to pass, as they journeyed from the east, that they found a plain in the land of Shinar; and they dwelt there." (3) This word has the basic meaning of "pulling up" tent pegs (Is 33:20) in preparation for "moving" one's tent and property to another place; thus it lends itself naturally to the general term of "traveling" or "journeying": "Look upon Zion, the city of our solemnities: thine eyes shall see Jerusalem a quiet habitation, a tabernacle that shall not be taken down; not one of the stakes thereof shall ever be removed, neither shall any of the cords thereof be broken."

(4) Samson is said to have "pulled up" (4a) the city gate and posts (Judg 16:3), as well as (4b) the pin on the weaver's loom: "And she fastened it with the pin, and said unto him, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he awaked out of his sleep, and went away with the pin of the beam, and with the web" (Judg 16:14). (4) *Naca*ʿ describes the movement of the angel of God and the pillar of cloud as they came between Israel and the pursuing Egyptians at the Red Sea (Ex 14:19). (5) *Naca*ʿ lends itself to a wide range of renderings, depending upon the context. Naʿar means "youth; lad; young man." (1) The root with the meaning of "youth" occurs only as a noun and occurs in Hebrew in the feminine (5291 - na'arah, "young girl") as well as the masculine form (e.g., Gen 24:14). (1a) Naʿar occurs 235 times in the Hebrew Old Testament. (1b) The first occurrence is in Gen 14:23-24: "I will not take any thing . . . save only that which the young men have eaten, and the portion of the men which went with me, Aner, Eshcol, and Mamre; let them take their portion." (3) The basic meaning of naʿar is "youth," over against an older man. (3a) At times it may signify a very young child: "For before the child shall know to refuse the evil, and choose the good, the land that thou abhorrest shall be forsaken of both her kings" (Is 7:16). (4) Generally naʿar denotes a "young man" who is of marriageable age but is still a bachelor. (4a) When Jeremiah said: "Ah, Lord God! behold, I cannot speak: for I am a child" (Jer 1:6), he was not referring to his chronological age, but his inexperience as a spokesman for God. (4b) Absalom was considered a na'ar, even though he was old enough to lead the troops in rebellion against David: "And the king commanded Joab and Abishai and Ittai, saying, Deal gently for my sake with the young man, even with Absalom" (2 Sa 18:5).

(4c) A derived meaning of naʿar is "servant." Jonathan used a "servant" as armorbearer: "Now it came to pass upon a day, that Jonathan the son of Saul said unto the young man that bare his armor, Come, and let us go over to the Philistines' garrison, that is on the other side" (1 Sa 14:1). (4c) The naʿar ("servant") addressed his employer as "master": "And when they were by Jebus, the day was far spent; and the servant said unto his master, Come, I pray thee, and let us turn into this city of the Jebusites, and lodge in it" (Judg 19:11). (4d) Kings and officials had "servants" who were referred to by the title naʿar. In this context the word is better translated as "attendant," as in the case of the attendants of King Ahasuerus, who gave counsel to the king: "Then said the king's servants that ministered unto him, Let there be fair young virgins sought for the king" (Est 2:2). (4e) When a naʿar is commissioned to carry messages, he is a "messenger." (4f) Thus, we see that the meaning of the word naʿar as "servant" does not denote a "slave" or a performer of low duties. (4g) He carried important documents, was trained in the art of warfare, and even gave counsel to the king. See: TWOT—1389a; BDB—654d.

Another noun no'ar means "youth." This noun appears only 4 times in the Bible, once in Ps 88:15: "I am afflicted and ready to die from my youth up: while I suffer thy terrors I am distracted" (cf. Job 36:14). See: TWOT—1389b; BDB—655a.

Napash means "to breathe; respire; be refreshed." This verb appears 3 times in the Old Testament (Ex 23:12; 31:17). The other appearance is in 2 Sa 16:14: "And the king, and all the people that were with him, came weary and refreshed themselves there." See: TWOT—1395; BDB—661c.

5315. נֶפֶשׁ {753x} nephesh, neh'-fesh; from 5314; prop. a breathing creature, i.e. animal of (abstr.) vitality; used very widely in a lit., accommodated or fig. sense (bodily or ment.):—soul {475x}, life {117x}, person {29x}, mind {15x}, heart {15x}, creature {9x}, body {8x}, himself {8x}, yourselves {6x}, dead {5x}, will {4x}, desire {4x}, man {3x}, themselves {3x}, any {3x}, appetite {2x}, misc. {47x} = beast, breath, × [dis-] contented, × fish, ghost, + greedy, he, lust, me, mortally, one, own, pleasure, + slay, + tablet, they, thing, × would have it.

Nephesh means soul; self; life; person; heart. (1) The basic meaning comes from its verbal form, naphash (5314), which refers to the essence of life, the act of breathing, taking breath (Gen 2:7). From this many abstract meanings were developed. (1a) In its primary sense the noun appears in its first occurrence in Gen 1:20: "the moving creature that hath life," and (1b) in its second occurrence in Gen 2:7: "living soul." (1c) The best biblical definition is found in Ps 103:1 where nephesh is defined as "all that is within" a person: "Bless the LORD, O my soul: and all that is within me, bless his holy name." (2) It is translated "soul" which makes sense in most passages. All other English translations, in the particular context, are stressing some aspect of the soul. (3) The Hebrew system of thought does not include the opposition of the terms "body" and "soul," which are really Greek and Latin in origin. (3a) The Hebrew compares/contrasts "the inner self" and "the outer appearance" or, as viewed in a different context, "what one is to oneself" as opposed to "what one appears to be to one's observers."

(3b) The goal of the Scriptures is to make the inner and the outer consistent. (3c) The inner person is nephesh, while the outer person, or reputation, is shem (8034), most commonly translated "name." (4) In narrative or historical passages of the Old Testament, nephesh is translated as "soul." as (4a) in Lev 17:11: "For the life of the flesh is in the blood: and I have given it to you upon the altar to make an atonement for your souls: for it is the blood that maketh an atonement for the soul." (4b) The soul of man, that immaterial part, which moves into the after life [the body is buried and decomposes] needs atonement to enter into God's presence upon death. (5) Hebrew parallelism brings out the various aspects contained in one's soul. (5a) Soul parallels the whole individual "him": Many there be which say of my soul, There is no help for him in God" (Ps 3:2); (5b) The Lord has a soul [stressing His inward attributes which are demonstrated in action]: "The LORD trieth the righteous: but the wicked and him that loveth violence His soul hateth" (Ps 11:5); (5c) Soul is parallel to the whole person "I": "My soul is continually in my hand: yet do I not forget thy law" (Ps 119:109). Natsab means "to stand, station, set up, erect." (1) Its first occurrence in the Old Testament is in Gen 18:2: "Three men stood by him. . . ." (2) There are various ways of standing. One may "stand" for a definite purpose at a particular spot: "Get thee unto Pharaoh in the morning; lo, he goeth out unto the water; and thou shalt stand by the river's brink against he come; and the rod which was turned to a serpent shalt thou take in thine hand" (Ex 7:15). (3) One often stands upright: (3a) "And stood every man at his tent door . . ." (Ex 33:8); (3b) "my sheaf arose, and also stood upright . . ." (Gen 37:7). (4) One who is "stationed" in a position is usually over someone else: "And Azariah the son of Nathan was over the officers [literally, "those standing over" (1 Kin 4:5). (5) "To stand" something may be "to erect" something: "And Jacob set up a pillar . . ." (Gen 35:14). (6) The waters of the Sea of Reeds were said to "stand as a heap" (Ps 78:13). (7) To fix a boundary is "to establish or erect" a boundary marker (Deut 32:8). Syn.: 5975. I. Natsach, as a verb, means (5329) "to keep, oversee, have charge over." (1) The word appears as "to set forward" in the sense of "to oversee or to lead": "Then stood Jeshua with his sons and his brethren, Kadmiel and his sons, the sons of Judah, together, to set forward the workmen in the house of God" (Ezra 3:9; cf. 1 Chr 23:4; 2 Chr 34:12). (2) The word appears as "to oversee" in 2 Chr 2:2: "And Solomon told out threescore and ten thousand men to bear burdens . . . and three thousand and six hundred to oversee them."

II. Natstseach, as a masculine participle, means "overseer; director." (1) While this word is used approximately 65 times in the Hebrew Old Testament, almost all of them (except for 5 or 6) are participles, used as verbal-nouns. (1a) The participial form has the meaning of "overseer, director," reflecting the idea that one who is pre-eminent or conspicuous is an "overseer." (1b) Thus, natstseach is found in the Book of Psalms a total of 55 times in the titles of various psalms (Ps 5, 6, 9, et al.) with the meaning, "To the chief musician." (1c) Of the 55 psalms involved, 39 are connected with the name of David, 9 with Korah, and 5 with Asaph, leaving only two anonymous psalms. (1d) The Hebrew preposition, le, used with this participle is a lamed of authorship. (1e) This title refers to the One who can bring harmony to all, the Coming One, the Messiah, the Chief Musician unto Whom all tune their songs and instruments. (2) This title is found also at the end of Hab 3, showing that this psalm was in the theme: "the just One shall live by faith." (3) The word refers to "overseers" in 2 Chr 2:18: ". . . and three thousand and six hundred overseers to set the people a work." (4) The feminine participle natsach is used only in Jer 8:5 in the sense of "enduring": "Why then is this people of Jerusalem slidden back by a perpetual [natsach] backsliding? they hold fast deceit, they refuse to return." See: TWOT—1402; BDB—663d, 1103b.

5341. נָצַר {63x} nâtsar, naw-tsar'; a prim. root; to guard, in a good sense (to protect, maintain, obey, etc.) or a bad one (to conceal, etc.):—keep {38x}, preserve {13x}, watchmen {3x}, besieged {2x}, keeper {1x}, monuments {1x}, observe + 7521 {1x}, preserver {1x}, subtil {1x}, hidden things {1x}, watchers {1x}.

Natsar means "to watch, to guard, to keep." (1) Natsar is found for the first time in the biblical text in Ex 34:7 where it has the sense of (1a) "keeping with faithfulness": "Keeping [natsar] mercy for thousands, forgiving iniquity and transgression and sin, and that will by no means clear the guilty; visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, and upon the children's children, unto the third and to the fourth generation." (1b) This meaning is usually found when man is the subject: (1b1) "keeping" the covenant (Deut 33:9); (1b2) "keeping" the law (Ps 105:45 and 10 times in Ps 119); (1b3) "keeping" the rules of parents (Prov 6:20). (2) Natsar is frequently used to express the idea of "guarding" something, such as a vineyard (Is 27:3) or a fortification (Nah 2:1).

(3) "To watch" one's speech is a frequent concern, so advice is given (3a) "to watch" one's mouth (Prov 13:3), (3b) the tongue (Ps 34:13), and (3c) the lips (Ps. 141:3). (4) Many references are made to God as the one who "preserves" His people from dangers of all kinds: "He found him in a desert land, and in the waste howling wilderness; he led him about, he instructed him, he kept him as the apple of his eye" (Deut 32:10; cf. Ps 31:23). (5) Generally, natsar is a close synonym to the much more common verb, shamar (8104), "to keep, tend." (6) sometimes "to keep" has the meaning of "to besiege," as in Is 1:8, ". . . as a besieged city."

5352. נָקָה {44x} nâqâh, naw-kaw'; a prim. root; to be (or make) clean (lit. or fig.); by impl. (in an adverse sense) to be bare, i.e. extirpated:—unpunished {11x}, guiltless {5x}, innocent {5x}, clear {4x}, cleanse {3x}, free {2x}, by no means {2x}, acquit {2x}, altogether {2x}, cut off {2x}, at all {1x}, blameless {1x}, desolate {1x}, quit {1x}, utterly {1x}, wholly {1x}.

Naqah, as a verb, means "to be pure, innocent." (1) Isaiah described the future of Jerusalem as an empty ("desolate") city: "And her gates shall lament and mourn; and she being desolate shall sit upon the ground" (Is 3:26). (2) On the more positive side, a land may also be "cleansed" of robbers: "Then said he unto me, This is the curse that goeth forth over the face of the whole earth: for every one that stealeth shall be cut off [naqah] as on this side according to it; and every one that sweareth shall be cut off [naqah] as on that side according to it" (Zec 5:3). (3) The verb is more often used to mean being "free" (with the preposition min). (3a) The first occurrence in the Old Testament is in Gen 24:8, and is illustrative of this usage. (3b) Abraham ordered his servant to find a wife for Isaac. The servant pledged that he would fulfill his commission; however, if he did not succeed—that is, in case the woman was unwilling to make the long journey with him—Abraham would free him: ". . . Then thou shalt be clear from this my oath."

(4) The freedom may be (4a) from wrongdoing: "Then shall the man be guiltless from iniquity, and this woman shall bear her iniquity" (Num 5:31), or (4b) from punishment: "If he rise again, and walk abroad upon his staff, then shall he that smote him be quit [naqah]: only he shall pay for the loss of his time, and shall cause him to be thoroughly healed" (Ex 21:19; cf. Num 5:28). (5) The verb naqah also appears with the legal connotation of "innocence." (5a) First, a person may be declared "innocent," or "acquitted." David prayed: "Keep back thy servant also from presumptuous sins; let them not have dominion over me: then shall I be upright, and I shall be innocent from the great transgression" (Ps 19:13). (5b) On the other hand, the sinner is not "acquitted" by God: "I am afraid of all my sorrows, I know that thou wilt not hold me innocent" (Job 9:28). (5c) The punishment of the person who is not "acquitted" is also expressed by a negation of the verb naqah: "Thou shalt not take the name of the LORD thy God in vain; for the LORD will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain" (Ex 20:7).

(5d) "For I am with thee, saith the LORD, to save thee: though I make a full end of all nations whither I have scattered thee, yet will I not make a full end of thee: but I will correct thee in measure, and will not leave thee altogether unpunished" (Jer 30:11). (5e) The fate of the wicked is the judgment of God: "the wicked shall not be unpunished: but the seed of the righteous shall be delivered" (Prov 11:21). See: TWOT—1412; BDB—667a, 1103c.

5353. נְקוֹדָא {4x} Nᵉqôwdâʾ, nek-o-daw'; fem. of 5348 (in the fig. sense of marked); distinction; Nekoda, a temple-servant:—Nekoda {4x}. See: BDB—667a.

Naqiy, as an adjective, means "innocent." This adjective appears 43 times in the Old Testament. One occurrence is in Ps 15:5, which says of the righteous man, "He that putteth not out his money to usury, nor taketh reward against the innocent [naqiy]. He that doeth these things shall never be moved." See: TWOT—1412a, 1412b; BDB—667c, 667d.

Naqam means "to avenge, take vengeance, punish." (1) Lamech's sword song is a scornful challenge to his fellows and a blatant attack on the justice of God: ". . . for I have slain a man to my wounding, and a young man to my hurt. If Cain shall be avenged sevenfold, truly Lamech seventy and sevenfold" (Gen 4:23–24). (2) The Lord reserves vengeance as the sphere of His own action: "To me belongeth vengeance, and recompense . . . for he will avenge the blood of his servants, and will render vengeance to his adversaries" (Deut 32:35, 43). (3) The law therefore forbade personal vengeance: "Thou shalt not avenge, nor bear any grudge against the children of thy people, but thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself: I am the Lord" (Lev 19:18). (4) Hence the Lord's people commit their case to Him, as David: "The Lord judge between me and thee [Saul], and the Lord avenge me of thee: but mine hand shall not be upon thee" (1 Sa 24:12). (5) The Lord uses men to take vengeance, as He said to Moses: "Avenge the children of Israel of the Midianites. . . . And Moses spake unto the people, saying, Arm some of yourselves unto the war, and let them go against the Midianites, and avenge the Lord of Midian" (Num 31:2–3).

(6) Vengeance for Israel is the Lord's vengeance. (7) The law stated, "And if a man smite his servant, or his maid, with a rod, and he die under his hand; he shall be surely punished" (Ex 21:20). (7a) In Israel, this responsibility was given to the "avenger of blood" (Deut 19:6). (7b) He was responsible to preserve the life and personal integrity of his nearest relative. (8) When a man was attacked because he was God's servant, he could rightly call for vengeance on his enemies, as Samson prayed for strength, ". . . that I may be at once avenged of the Philistines for my two eyes" (Judg 16:28). (9) In the covenant, God warned that His vengeance may fall on His own people: "And I will bring a sword upon you, that shall avenge the quarrel of my covenant" (Lev 26:25). (10) Isaiah thus says of Judah: "Therefore saith the Lord, the Lord of hosts . . . Ah, I will ease me of mine adversaries, and avenge me of my enemies" (1:24). See: TWOT—1413; BDB—667d.

5359. נָקָם {17x} nâqâm, naw-kawm'; from 5358; revenge:—+ avenged {1x}, quarrel {1x}, vengeance {15x}.

Naqam means "vengeance." (1) The noun is first used in the Lord's promise to Cain: "Therefore whosoever slayeth Cain, vengeance shall be taken on him sevenfold" (Gen 4:15). (2) In some instances a man may call for "vengeance" on his enemies, such as when another man has committed adultery with his wife: "For jealousy is the rage of a man: therefore he will not spare in the day of vengeance" (Prov 6:34). (3) The prophets frequently speak of God's "vengeance" on His enemies: Is 59:17; Mic 5:15; Nah 1:2. (4) It will come at a set time: "For it is the day of the Lord's vengeance, and the year of recompenses for the controversy of Zion" (Is 34:8). (5) Isaiah brings God's "vengeance" and redemption together in the promise of messianic salvation: (5a) "The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me; . . . he hath sent me . . . to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord, and the day of vengeance of our God" (61:1–2). (5b) When Jesus announced that this was fulfilled in Himself, He stopped short of reading the last clause; but His sermon clearly anticipated that "vengeance" that would come on Israel for rejecting Him. Isaiah also said: "For the day of vengeance is in mine heart, and the year of my redeemed is come" (63:4). See: TWOT—1413a; BDB—668b.

Nasi' means prince; chief; leader. (1) Literally translated, it means one who bears responsibility, or who holds aloft an ensign. (1a) An early occurrence of nasi' is in Gen 23:6: "Hear us, my lord: thou art a mighty prince among us." (1b) The books of Numbers and Ezekiel use the word most frequently; elsewhere it rarely occurs. (2) Though the origin and meaning of nasi' are controversial, it is clearly associated with leadership, both Israelite and non-Israelite. (2a) Ishmael was promised to give rise to twelve "princes" (Gen 17:20; cf. 25:16); (2b) the Midianites had "princes" (Num 25:18), (2c) as well as the Amorites (Josh 13:21), (2d) the peoples of the sea (Eze 26:16), (2e) Kedar (Eze 27:21), (2f) Egypt (Eze 30:13), and (2g) Edom (Eze 32:29).

(3) Also Israel had her "princes" ("rulers"): "On the sixth day they gathered twice as much bread, two omers for one man: and all the rulers of the congregation came and told Moses" (Ex 16:22). (3a) The "princes" ("leaders") of Israel did not only participate in the civil leadership; (3b) they were also regarded as pillars in Israelite religious life, the upholders of the covenantal way of life: "And Moses called unto them; and Aaron and all the rulers of the congregation returned unto him: and Moses talked with them" (Ex 34:31; cf. Josh 22:30). (3c) Hence, Israel was to obey her "leaders": "Thou shalt not revile the gods, nor curse the ruler of thy people" (Ex 22:28). (4) The masculine plural noun, which is found 4 times, means "vapors, clouds": "Whoso boasteth himself of a false gift is like clouds and wind without rain" (Prov 25:14; cf. Ps 135:7; Jer 10:13; 51:16). See: TWOT—1421b, 1421c; BDB—672b, 672c.

5414. נָתַן {2008x} nâthan, naw-than'; a prim. root; to give, used with greatest latitude of application (put, make, etc.):—give {1078x}, put {191x}, deliver {174x}, made {107x}, set {99x}, up {26x}, lay {22x}, grant {21x}, suffer {18x}, yield {15x}, bring {15x}, cause {13x}, utter {12x}, laid {11x}, send {11x}, recompense {11x}, appoint {10x}, shew {7x}, misc. {167x} = add, apply, ascribe, assign, × avenge, × be ([healed]), bestow, cast, charge, come, commit, consider, count, + cry, direct, distribute, do, × doubtless, × without fail, fasten, frame, × get, hang (up), × have, × indeed, (give) leave, lend, let (out), lift up, + O that, occupy, offer, ordain, pay, perform, place, pour, print, × pull, render, requite, restore, shoot forth (up), + sing, + slander, strike, [sub-] mit, × surely, × take, thrust, trade, turn, + weep, × willingly, + withdraw, + would (to) God.

Nathan means "to deliver, give, place, set up, lay, make, do." (1) First, nathan represents the action by which something is set going or actuated. Achsah asked her father Caleb to "give" her a blessing, such as a tract of land with abundant water, as her dowry; she wanted him to "transfer" it from his possession to hers: "Who answered, Give me a blessing; for thou hast given me a south land; give me also springs of water. And he gave her the upper springs, and the nether springs" (Josh 15:19). (2) There is a technical use of this verb without an object: Moses instructs Israel to "give" generously to the man in desperate need: "Thou shalt surely give him, and thine heart shall not be grieved when thou givest unto him: because that for this thing the LORD thy God shall bless thee in all thy works, and in all that thou puttest thine hand unto" (Deut 15:10). (3) In some instances, nathan can mean to "send forth," as in "sending forth" a fragrance: "While the king sitteth at his table, my spikenard sendeth forth the smell thereof" (Song 1:12). (4) When used of a liquid, the word means to "send forth" in the sense of "spilling," for example, to spill blood: "Be merciful, O LORD, unto thy people Israel, whom thou hast redeemed, and lay not innocent blood unto thy people of Israel's charge. And the blood shall be forgiven them" (Deut 21:8).

(5) Nathan also has a technical meaning in the area of jurisprudence, meaning to hand something over to someone—for example: (5a1) "to pay": "That he may give me the cave of Machpelah, which he hath, which is in the end of his field; for as much money as it is worth he shall give it me for a possession of a burying place amongst you" (Gen 23:9); or (5a2) "to loan": "Thou shalt surely give him, and thine heart shall not be grieved when thou givest unto him: because that for this thing the LORD thy God shall bless thee in all thy works, and in all that thou puttest thine hand unto" (Deut 15:10). (5b) A girl's parent or someone else in a responsible position may "give" her to a man to be his wife (Gen 16:3), as well as presenting a bride price (Gen 34:12) and dowry (1 Kin 9:16). (5c) The verb also is used of "giving" or "granting" a request (Gen 15:2). (6) Sometimes, nathan can be used to signify "putting" ("placing") someone into custody (2 Sa 14:7) or into prison (Jer 37:4), or even of "destroying" something (Judg 6:30). (7) This same basic sense may be applied to "dedicating" ("handing over") something or someone to God, such as the first-born son (Ex 22:29). Levites are those who have been "handed over" in this way (Num 3:9).

(8) This word is used of "bringing reprisal" upon someone or of "giving" him what he deserves; in some cases, the stress is on the act of reprisal (1 Kin 8:32), or bringing his punishment on his head. (9) Nathan can be used of "giving" or "ascribing" something to someone, such as "giving" glory and praise to God (Josh 7:19). Obviously, nothing is passed from men to God; nothing is added to God, since He is perfect. This means, therefore, that a worshiper recognizes and confesses what is already His. (10) Another major emphasis of nathan is the action of "giving" or "effecting" a result. For example, the land will "give" ("yield") its fruit (Deut 25:19). (11) In some passages, this verb means "to procure" ("to set up"), as when God "gave" ("procured, set up") favor for Joseph (Gen 39:21). (12) The word can be used of sexual activity, too, emphasizing the act of intercourse or "one's lying down" with an animal (Lev 18:23). (13) God "placed" (literally, "gave") the heavenly lights into the expanse of the heavens (Gen 1:17—the first occurrence of the verb). (14) A garland is "placed" (literally, "given") upon one's head (Prov 4:9).

(15) The children of Israel are commanded not to "set up" idols in their land. (16) Another meaning of nathan is seen in Gen 17:5: "For a father of many nations have I made [literally, "given"] thee." There are several instances where the verb bears this significance. (17) Nathan has a number of special implications when used with bodily parts—for example, (17a) "to give" or "turn" a stubborn shoulder (Neh 9:29). Similarly, compare expressions such as (17b) "turning [giving] one's face" (2 Chr 29:6). (17c) To "turn [give] one's back" is to flee (Ex 23:27). (17d) "Giving one's hand" may be no more than "putting it forth," as in the case of the unborn Zarah (Gen 38:28). (18) This word can also signify (18a) an act of friendship as when Jehonadab "gave his hand" (instead of a sword) to Jehu to help him into the chariot (2 Kin 10:15); (18b) an act of oath-taking, as when the priests "pledged" ("gave their hands") to put away their foreign wives (Ezra 10:19); and (18c) "making" or "renewing" a covenant, as when the leaders of Israel "pledged" themselves ("gave their hands") to follow Solomon (1 Chr 29:24).

(19) "To give something into someone's hand" is to "commit" it to his care. (19a) So after the Flood, God "gave" the earth into Noah's hand (Gen 9:2). (19b) This phrase is used to express the "transfer of political power," such as the divine right to rule (2 Sa 16:8). (20) Nathan is used especially in a military and judicial sense, meaning "to give over one's power or control," or to grant victory to someone; so Moses said God would "give" the kings of Canaan into Israel's hands (Deut 7:24). (21) "To give one's heart" to something or someone is "to be concerned about it"; Pharaoh was not "concerned" about ("did not set his heart to") Moses' message from God (Ex 7:23). (22) "To put [give] something into one's heart" is to give one ability and concern to do something; thus God "put" it in the heart of the Hebrew craftsmen to teach others (Ex 36:2). (23) "To give one's face to" is (23a) to focus one's attention on something, as when Jehoshaphat was afraid of the alliance of the Transjordanian kings and "set [his face] to seek the Lord" (2 Chr 20:3). (23b) This same phrase can merely mean "to be facing someone or something" (cf. Gen 30:40).

(24) "To give one's face against" is a hostile action (Lev 17:10). (25) Used with lipne (lamed + 6440 - literally, "before the face of"), this verb may mean (25a) "to place an object before" or (25b) to "set it down before" (Ex 30:6). (25c) It may also mean (25c1) "to put before" (Deut 11:26), (25c2) "to smite" (cf. Deut 2:33), or (25c3) "to give as one's possession" (Deut 1:8). Syn.: 3467. See: TWOT—1443; BDB—678a, 1103c.

Cabab means "to turn, go around, turn around (change direction)." (1) Basically this verb represents a circular movement—"to take a turning." It refers to such movement in general. (2) The first occurrence of cabab having this emphasis is in (2a) Gen 42:24, where Joseph "turned himself about" from his brothers and wept. Here the verb does not tell the precise direction of his departure, only that he left their presence. (2b) Similarly, when Samuel was told that Saul went to Carmel and "is gone about, and passed on, and gone down to Gilgal" (1 Sa 15:12), we are not told that he reversed direction in order to get from his origin to Carmel and Gilgal. (3) God led Israel out of the way (by an out-of-the-way route) when He took them into the Promised Land. (3a) He wanted to avoid having them face war with the Philistines, an event that was unavoidable if they proceeded directly north from Egypt to Palestine. (3b) Therefore, He led them through the wilderness—a back route into the land: "But God led the people about, through the way of the wilderness of the Red Sea" (Ex 13:18).

(4) Perhaps one of the passages where this meaning is clearest is Prov 26:14, which speaks of the "turning" of a door on its hinges. (4a) An extension of this meaning occurs in 1 Sa 5:8–9, "to remove, to take away": "And they answered, Let the ark of the God of Israel be carried about [taken away] unto Gath. And they carried the ark of the God of Israel about thither" (cf. 2 Kin 16:18). (5) Cabab is "to go around," in the sense of to proceed or be arranged in a circle. (5a) Joseph tells his family: "Lo, my sheaf arose, and also stood upright; and, behold, your sheaves stood round about, and made obeisance to my sheaf" (Gen 37:7). They moved so as to surround his sheaf. (5b) This is the action pictured when Israel besieged Jericho, except with the further nuance of encircling in a processional and religious march: "And ye shall compass the city, all ye men of war, and go round about the city once" (Josh 6:3). (6) "To travel" and "to return" are used together to represent traveling a circuit. It is said of Samuel that he used to go annually "in circuit" (1 Sa 7:16).

(7) Another variation of this emphasis is "to go around" a territory in order to avoid crossing through it: "And they journeyed from mount Hor by the way of the Red Sea, to compass [go around] the land of Edom: and the soul of the people was much discouraged because of the way" (Num 21:4). (8) Cabab is also used of the completion of this movement, the state of literally or figuratively surrounding something or someone. (8a) The very first biblical occurrence of the word carries this force (according to many scholars): "The name of the first is Pison: that is it which compasseth [flows around] the whole land of Havilah" (Gen 2:11).

(8b) Judg 16:2, where the Gazites "compassed [Samson] in, and laid wait for him all night in the gate of the city," represents another occurrence of this nuance. (9) When David spoke of the cords (as a trap) of Sheol "surrounding" him (2 Sa 22:6), he meant that they actually touched him and held him fast.

(10) Cabab can be used of sitting down around a table. So Samuel told Jesse to fetch David, "for we will not sit down till he come hither" (1 Sa 16:11). (10) This verb can mean "to change direction." (10a) This can be a change of direction toward:"Neither shall the inheritance remove from one tribe to another tribe . . ." (Num 36:9); (10b) the usual direction of passing on an inheritance is down family lines, and God's commandment that the daughters of Zelophehad marry within their father's families would make certain that this movement of things not be interrupted. (10c) This emphasis appears more clearly in 1 Sa 18:11: "And David [escaped] out of his presence twice"; it is certain that David is putting as much space between himself and Saul as possible. He is "running away or turning away" (cf. 1 Sa 22:17). (11) Cabab may also refer to a change of direction, as in Num 34:4: "And your border shall turn."

(12) There are three special nuances under this emphasis. (12a) First, the verb may mean "to roam through" as a scout looking for water: "And they fetched a compass [made a circuit] of seven days' journey: and there was no water for the host, and for the cattle that followed them" (2 Kin 3:9). Some scholars suggest that this is the idea expressed in Gen 2:11 that the Pison meandered through Havilah rather than flowed around it. (12b) Second, cabab may be used of "turning something over" to someone. So Adonijah said of Solomon: "The kingdom was mine, . . . howbeit the kingdom is turned about, and is become my brother's" (1 Kin 2:15). (12c) Third, cabab may be used of "changing or turning one thing into another": "And the land shall be turned as a plain from Geba to Rimmon south of Jerusalem" (Zec 14:10). Syn.: 2015. See: TWOT—1456; BDB—685b, 687a, 687b, 687c.

5438. סִבָּה {1x} çibbâh, sib-baw'; from 5437; a (providential) turn (of affairs):—cause {1x}.

5439. סָבִיב {308x} çâbîyb, saw-beeb'; or (fem.) סְבִיבָה çᵉbîybâh, seb-ee-baw'; from 5437; (as noun) a circle, neighbour, or environs; but chiefly (as adv., with or without prep.) around:—round about {25x}2, on every side {26x}, about {24x} compass {2x}, about us {2x}, circuits {1x}, about them {1x}.

Cebiybah, as a noun, means "area round about; circuit." (1) The word can be used as a noun, but it usually occurs as an adverb or preposition. (2) In 1 Chr 11:8 it refers to the "parts round about": "And he built the city round about, even from Millo round about." (3) The word may also be used for "circuits": "And the wind returneth again according to his circuits" (Eccl 1:6). (4) The first biblical appearance of the word is in Gen 23:17, and it refers to "within the circuit of": "And the field of Ephron, which was in Machpelah, which was before Mamre, the field, and the cave which was therein, and all the trees that were in the field, that were in all the borders round about, were made sure." See: TWOT—1456b; BDB—686d.

Six times this word is used of Israel as God's personally acquired (elected, delivered from Egyptian bondage, and formed into what He wanted them to be), carefully preserved, and privately possessed people: "Now therefore, if ye will obey my voice indeed, and keep my covenant, then ye shall be a peculiar treasure unto me above all people: for all the earth is mine" (Ex 19:5—first occurrence). (1 Sa 17:46; cf. 1 Sa 24:18; 26:8; 2 Sa 18:28). (6) In Lev 13—14, in which the priest functions as a medical inspector of contagious diseases, cagar is used a number of times in the sense of "to isolate, to shut up" a sick person away from other people (see Lev 13:5, 11, 21, 26). (7) The more extreme sense of "to imprison" is found in Job 11:10: "If he cut off, and shut up, or gather together, then who can hinder him?" This was the time of Joseph. It was not until the end of the second millennium that a rudimentary cavalry appeared on the battlefield. (3) In the period of the eighth-century prophets and following, (3a) "horses" became a sign of luxury and apostasy: "Their land also is full of silver and gold, neither is there any end of their treasures; their land is also full of horses, neither is there any end of their chariots:" (Is 2:7; cf. Amos 4:10) (3b) inasmuch as Israel's hope for freedom and security was to be the Lord: "But he [the king] shall not multiply horses to himself, nor cause the people to return to Egypt, to . . . multiply horses" (Deut 17:16). (4) The "horses" of God are the storm clouds with which he treads upon the sea: "Thou didst walk through the sea with thine horses, through the heap of great waters" (Hab 3:15). Calach is reserved especially to mark the pardon extended to the sinner by God. (1) It is never used to denote that inferior kind and measure of forgiveness that is exercised by one man toward another. (2) It is the Divine restoration of an offender into favor, whether through his own repentance or the intercession of another. (3) Though not identical with atonement, the two are closely related. In fact, the covering of the sin and the forgiveness of the sinner can only be understood as two aspects of one truth; for both found their fullness in God's provision of mercy through Christ (cf. Heb 9:22). (4) God is always the subject of forgiveness. (5) No other Old Testament verb means "to forgive," although several verbs include "forgiveness" in the range of meanings given a particular context [e.g., (maca' - 4229 in Ex 32:32; and kapar - 3722 in Eze 16:63]. (6) The first biblical occurrence is in Moses' prayer of intercession on behalf of the Israelites: "It is a stiffnecked people; and [forgive] our iniquity and our sin, and take us for thine inheritance" (Ex 34:9).

(7) Most occurrences of calach are in the sacrificial laws of Leviticus and Numbers. (8) In the typology of the Old Testament, sacrifices foreshadowed the accomplished work of Jesus Christ, and the Old Testament believer was assured of "forgiveness" based on sacrifice: "And the priest shall make an atonement [for him in regard to his sin]" (Num 15:25, 28), (8a) "And it shall be forgiven him" (Lev 4:26; cf. vv. 20, 31, 35; 5:10, 13, 16, 18). (8b) The mediators of the atonement were the priests who offered the sacrifice. (8c) The sacrifice was ordained by God to promise ultimate "forgiveness" in God's sacrifice of His own Son. (8d) Moreover, sacrifice was appropriately connected to atonement, as there is no forgiveness without the shedding of blood (Lev 4:20; cf. Heb 9:22). (9) Out of His grace, God alone "forgives" sin. (9a) The Israelites experienced God's "forgiveness" in the wilderness and in the Promised Land. (9b) As long as the temple stood, sacrificial atonement continued and the Israelites were assured of God's "forgiveness."

(10) When the temple was destroyed and sacrifices ceased, God sent the prophetic word that He graciously would restore Israel out of exile and "forgive" its sins: "And they shall teach no more every man his neighbour, and every man his brother, saying, Know the LORD: for they shall all know me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them, saith the LORD: for I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no more" (Jer 31:34). (11) The psalmist appealed to God's great name in his request for "forgiveness": "For thy name's sake, O Lord, pardon mine iniquity; for it is great" (Ps 25:11). (12) David praised God for the assurance of "forgiveness" of sins: "Bless the Lord, O my soul . . . , who forgiveth all thine iniquities" (Ps 103:2–3). (13) The Old Testament saints, while involved in sacrificial rites, put their faith in God. It was their faith in God that saved, not the sacrifices. See: TWOT—1505; BDB—699b.

שֵׂפֶק sepheq (Job 20:22; 36:18) seh'-fek; from 5606; chastisement; also satiety:—stroke {1x}, sufficiency {1x}. See: TWOT—1539a; BDB—706d, 974a, 974b.

5608. סָפַר {161x} çâphar, saw-far'; a prim. root; prop. to score with a mark as a tally or record, i.e. (by impl.) to inscribe, and also to enumerate; intens. to recount, i.e. celebrate:—scribe {50x}, tell {40x}, declare {24x}, number {23x}, count {6x}, shew forth {5x}, writer {4x}, speak {2x}, accounted {1x}, commune {1x}, told out {1x}, reckon {1x}, penknife + 8593 {1x}, shewing {1x}, talk {1x}.

Caphar means "to number, count, proclaim, declare." (1) In the basic verbal form this verb signifies "to number or count." (1a) This meaning is in its first biblical appearance, Gen 15:5: "Look now toward heaven, and tell the stars, if thou be able to number them." (1b) Here the counting is a process which has no completion in view. (1c) In Lev 15:13 the emphasis is on a completed task: "And when [the man with the discharge becomes cleansed]; then he shall number to himself seven days for his cleansing, and wash his clothes, and bathe his flesh." (1d) Another nuance of this usage is "to count up" or "to take a census": "And David's heart smote him after that he had numbered the people" (2 Sa 24:10). (2) The verb is also used of assigning persons to particular jobs: "And Solomon told out threescore and ten thousand men to bear burdens" (2 Chr 2:2). (3) Another special use appears in Ezra 1:8, where caphar means "to count out according to a list" as the recipient listens: "Even those [the temple furnishings] did Cyrus king of Persia bring forth by the hand of Mithredath the treasurer, and numbered them unto Sheshbazzar, the prince of Judah." (4) In Ps 56:8 the word signifies "taking account of," or being aware and concerned about each detail of: "Thou tellest my wanderings. . . ."

(5) This verb can also mean "to measure," in the sense of what one does with grain: "And Joseph gathered corn as the sand of the sea, very much, until he left numbering; for it was without number" (Gen 41:49). (6) The verb caphar can represent recording something in writing, or enumerating. So, "the Lord shall count, when he writeth up the people, that this man was born there" (Ps 87:6). (7) In about 90 instances this verb appears in an intensive form. (7a) For the most part the verb in this form means "to recount," to orally list in detail. (7b) The one exception to this significance is Job 38:37: "Who can number the clouds in wisdom? Or who can stay the bottles of heaven?" (7c) In every other instance the verb signifies a vocal statement (listing or enumeration) of a series of given facts. (7c1) In Gen 24:66 Eliezer, Abraham's servant, "told Isaac all things that he had done"; he gave him a summarized but complete account of his activities. Thus Isaac knew who Rebekah was, and why she was there, so he took her to be his wife. (7c2) In a similar but somewhat different sense Jacob "told Laban" who he was, that he was from the same family (Gen 29:13). In this case the word represents something other than a report; it represents an account of Jacob's genealogy and perhaps of the events of his parents' lives.

(8) This emphasis on accurate recounting is especially prominent in Num 13:27, where the spies report back to Moses concerning what they saw in Palestine. (9) Even more emphatic is Ex 24:3, where one word represents a detailed repetition of what Moses heard from God: "And Moses came and told the people all the words of the Lord, and all the judgments." (10) Again, in Is 43:26 a detailed and accurate recounting is clearly in view. In this case the prophet has in mind the presentation of a law case: "Put me in remembrance: let us plead together: declare thou, that thou mayest be justified." (11) Because of the predominant meaning presented above, Ps 40:5 could be translated: "If I would declare and speak of them, they would be too numerous to recount" (instead of "to count"). (12) In at least one case the verb in the intensive stem means "to exhibit," "to recount or list in detail by being a living example." This meaning first appears in Ex 9:16, where God tells Moses to say to Pharaoh: "And in very deed for this cause have I raised thee up, for to show in thee my power; and that my name may be declared throughout all the earth." See: TWOT—1540, 1540c; BDB—707d, 708b, 1104c.

5610. סֵפֶר {1x} çᵉphâr, sef-awr'; from 5608; a census:—numbering {1x}.

Cephar means a "numbering or census": "And Solomon numbered all the strangers that were in the land of Israel, after the numbering wherewith David his father had numbered them; and they were found an hundred and fifty thousand and three thousand and six hundred" (2 Chr 2:17). Cepher means book; tablet. (1) Basically this word represents something one writes upon. (1a) So in Ex 17:14 "the Lord said unto Moses, Write this for a memorial in a book." (1b) In Is 30:8 cepher represents a tablet: "Now go, write it before them in a table (3871 - luwach), and note it in a book (cepher), that it may be for the time to come for ever and ever." (2) In Gen 5:1 (the first biblical occurrence of this word) it signifies something that has been written upon, or a written record: "This is the book of the generations of Adam." (3) Such a written document may be a summary of God's law (Ex 24:7). (4) During the monarchy cepher came to represent a letter (2 Sa 11:14). (5) Even later it means a king's written decree sent throughout his empire (Est 1:22). (6) Usually the word means "book": (6a) "Yet now, if thou wilt forgive their sin—; and if not, blot me, I pray thee, out of thy book which thou hast written" (Ex 32:32)—a complete record of whatever one wants to preserve accurately. (6b) "Thou tellest my wanderings: put thou my tears into thy bottle: are they not in thy book?" (Ps 56:8). (7) Often this word can signify the way a people writes, the written language or script (Is 29:11).

(8) A manuscript (8a) was written (Ex 32:32; Deut 17:18) and (8b) sealed (Is 29:11), and (8c) to be read by the addressee (2 Kin 22:16). (9) In Is 30:8 cepher represents a tablet. (9a) Cepher, in Jer 36:6, is similar to scroll (4309 - megillah) and (9b) book (5612 - cipra - Ps 56:8). (9c) In Gen 5:1 it signifies something that has been written down, or a written record. (10) Many books are named: the book of (10a) remembrance (Mal 3:16), (10b) life (Ps 69:28), (10c) Jasher (Josh 10:13), (10d) the generations (Gen 5:1), (10e) the Lord, (10f) the chronicles of the kings of Israel and of Judah (2 Chr 24:27). (11) Usually the word means "book" (Ex 32:32)—a complete record of whatever one wants to preserve accurately. (12) Cepher can represent a letter (2 Sa 11:14), (13) a king's written decree (Est 1:22). (14) Prophets wrote books: Nah 1:1; Jer 36. (15) Symbolically, Ezekiel ate a book (Eze 2:8—3:1). (16) In divorcing his wife, a man gave her a legal document known as the cepher of divorce (Deut 24:1). Syn.: 5608, 5610, 5615. See: TWOT—1540a, 1540b; BDB—706d, 707c, 708d, 1104c.

Capher means "scribe." (1) In the early monarchy the chief "scribe" was the highest court official next to the king (2 Sa 8:17). (1a) His job was to receive and evaluate all royal correspondence—to answer the unimportant and give the rest to the proper officer or to the king himself. (1b) He also wrote and/or composed royal communications to those within the kingdom. (1c) There was probably an entire corps of lesser scribes under his direction. (1d) As a highly trusted official he was sometimes involved in counting and managing great influxes of royal revenue (2 Kin 12:10) and in certain diplomatic jobs (2 Kin 19:2). (2) Later coper represented the Jewish official in the Persian court who was responsible for Jewish belongings (Ezra 7:11). (3) In the post-exilic community this word came to mean someone who was learned in the Old Testament Scripture and especially the Mosaic Law (the Pentateuch; Ezra 7:6). (4) The word first occurs in Judg 5:14: "they that handle the pen of the writer"). Cathar means "to conceal, hide, shelter." (1) The word is found for the first time in Gen 4:14 as Cain discovers that because of his sin, he will be "hidden" from the presence of God, which implies a separation: "Behold, thou hast driven me out this day from the face of the earth; and from thy face shall I be hid; and I shall be a fugitive and a vagabond in the earth; and it shall come to pass, that every one that findeth me shall slay me."(2) In the so-called Mizpah Benediction (which is really a warning), cathar again has the sense of "separation": "The Lord watch between me and thee, when we are absent one from another" (Gen 31:49). (3) To "hide oneself" is to take refuge: "Doth not David hide himself with us?" (1 Sa 23:19). (4) Similarly, to "hide" someone is to "shelter" him from his enemy: "The Lord hid them" (Jer 36:26). (5) To pray, "Hide thy face from my sins" (Ps 51:9), is to ask God to ignore them. (6) But when the prophet says, "And I will wait upon the Lord, that hideth his face from the house of Jacob" (Is 8:17), he means that God's favor has been withdrawn. (7) Similarly, Judah's sins have "hidden" God's face from her: "But your iniquities have separated between you and your God, and your sins have hid his face from you, that he will not hear" (Is 59:2). See: TWOT—1551; BDB—711b, 1104c.

Hebrew

'Abad, as a verb, means "to serve, cultivate, enslave, work." (1) The verb is first used in (1a) Gen 2:5: "And there was not a man to till the ground." (1b) God gave to man the task "to dress [the ground]" (Gen 2:15; 3:23). (2) In Gen 14:4 "they served Chedorlaomer . . ." means that they were his vassals. (3) God told Abraham that his descendants would "serve" the people of a strange land 400 years: "And he said unto Abram, Know of a surety that thy seed shall be a stranger in a land that is not theirs, and shall serve them; and they shall afflict them four hundred years" (Gen 15:13). (4) 'Abad is often used toward God: "Ye shall serve God upon this mountain" (Ex 3:12), meaning "to worship." (5) The word is frequently used with another verb: (5a) "Thou shalt fear the Lord thy God, and serve him" (Deut 6:13), or (5b) "hearken diligently unto my commandments which I command you this day, to love the Lord your God, and to serve him" (Deut 11:13). (6) All nations are commanded: (6a) "Serve the Lord with gladness" (Ps 100:2). (6b) In the reign of Messiah, "all nations shall serve him" (Ps 72:11). (7) The verb and the noun may be used together as in Num 8:11 "And Aaron shall offer the Levites before the Lord . . . that they may execute the service of the Lord." Syn.: 5650, 5656, 8334. See: TWOT—1553; BDB—712b, 1104d.

'Ebed means "servant." (1) 'Ebed first appears in Gen 9:25: "And he said, Cursed be Canaan; a servant of servants shall he be unto his brethren." (2) A "servant" may be bought with money (Ex 12:44) or hired (1 Kin 5:6). (3) The often repeated statement of God's redemption of Israel is: "I brought you out of the house of bondage" (Ex 13:3). (4) 'Ebed was used as a mark of humility and courtesy, as in Gen 18:3: "Pass not away, I pray thee, from thy servant" (cf. Gen 42:10). (5) Moses addressed God: "O my Lord, I am not eloquent, neither heretofore, nor since thou hast spoken unto thy servant" (Ex 4:10). (6) It is the mark of those called by God, as in Ex 14:31: "[They] believed the Lord, and his servant Moses." (6b) God claimed: "For unto me the children of Israel are servants" (Lev 25:55; cf. Is 49:3). (6c) "And the Lord spake by his servants the prophets . . ." (2 Kin 21:10). (6d) The psalmist said: "I am thy servant" (116:16 indicating the appropriateness of the title to all believers).

(7) Of prime significance is the use of "my servant" for the Messiah in Isaiah (42:1–7; 49:1–7; 50:4–10; 52:13–53:12). (7a) Israel was a blind and deaf "servant" (Is 42:18–22). (7b) So the Lord called "my righteous servant" (Is 53:11; cf. 42:6) (7b1) "[to bear] the sin of many" (Is 53:12), (7b2) "that thou mayest be my salvation unto the end of the earth" (Is 49:6). (8) The "servant" was not a free man. (8a) He was subject to the will and command of his master. (8b) But one might willingly and lovingly submit to his master (Ex 21:5), remaining in his service when he was not obliged to do so: "And if the servant shall plainly say, I love my master, my wife, and my children; I will not go out free:" (8c) Hence it is a very fitting description of the relationship of man to God. Syn.: 5647, 5656, 8334. See: TWOT—1553a; BDB—713d, 1105a.

5656. עֲבֹדָה {141x} ʿăbôdâh, ab-o-daw'; or

עֲבוֹדָה ʿăbôwdâh, ab-o-daw'; from 5647; work of any kind:—service {96x}, servile {12x}, work {10x}, bondage {8x}, act {2x}, serve {2x}, servitude {2x}, tillage {2x}, effect {1x}, labour {1x}, misc. {5x} = + bondservant, ministering (-try), office, use, × wrought.

ʿAbodah, as a noun, means "work; labors; service." (1) This noun appears 141 times in the Hebrew Old Testament, and (1a) the occurrences are concentrated in Numbers and Chronicles. (1b) ʿAbodah is first used in Gen 29:27: "We will give thee this also for the service which thou shalt serve with me." (2) The more general meaning of ʿabodah is close to our English word for "work.": (2a) "Labor" in the field: "And over them that did the work of the field for tillage of the ground was Ezri the son of Chelub:" (1 Chr 27:26), (2b) daily "work" from morning till evening: "Man goeth forth unto his work and to his labour until the evening" (Ps 104:23), and (2c) "work" in the linen industry: "The sons of Shelah the son of Judah were, Er the father of Lecah, and Laadah the father of Mareshah, and the families of the house of them that wrought fine linen, of the house of Ashbea" (1 Chr 4:21) indicate a use with which we are familiar.

(3) To this, it must be added that ʿabodah may also be "hard labor," (3a) such as that of a slave: "And if thy brother that dwelleth by thee be waxen poor, and be sold unto thee; thou shalt not compel him to serve as a bondservant:" (Lev 25:39) or (3b) of Israel while in Egypt: "Go ye, get you straw where ye can find it: yet not aught of your work shall be diminished" (Ex 5:11). (4) The more limited meaning of the word is "service." Israel was in the "service" of the Lord: "But that it may be a witness between us, and you, and our generations after us, that we might do the service of the Lord before him with our burnt offerings, and with our sacrifices, and with our peace offerings; that your children may not say to our children in time to come, Ye have no part in the Lord" (Josh 22:27). (5) Whenever God's people were not fully dependent on Him, they had to choose to serve the Lord God or human kings with their requirements of forced "labor" and tribute: "Nevertheless they shall be his servants; that they may know my service, and the service of the kingdoms of the countries" (2 Chr 12:8).

(6) Further specialization of the usage is in association with the tabernacle and the temple. (6a) The priests were chosen for the "service" of the Lord: "And they shall keep his charge, and the charge of the whole congregation before the tabernacle of the congregation, to do the service of the tabernacle" (Num 3:7). (6b) The Levites also had many important functions in and around the temple; they sang, played musical instruments, and were secretaries, scribes, and doorkeepers (2 Chr 34:13; cf. 8:14). (7) Thus anything, people and objects (1 Chr 28:13), associated with the temple was considered to be in the "service" of the Lord. (8) Our understanding of "worship," with all its components, comes close to the Hebrew meaning of ʿabodah as "service"; cf. "So all the service of the Lord was prepared the same day, to keep the passover, and to offer burnt offerings upon the altar of the Lord, according to the commandment of King Josiah" (2 Chr 35:16). 5674. עָבַר {559x} ʿâbar, aw-bar'; a prim. root; to cross over; used very widely of any transition (lit. or fig.; tran., intr., intens., or caus.); spec. to cover (in copulation):—(pass, went, . . .) over {174x}, pass {108x}, (pass, etc . . .) through {58x}, pass by {27x}, go {26x}, (put, pass, etc . . .) away {24x}, pass on {19x}, misc. {123x} = alienate, alter, × at all, beyond, bring (over, through), carry over, (over-) come (on, over), conduct (over), convey over, current, deliver, enter, escape, fail, gender, get over, lay, meddle, overrun, make partition, (cause to, make) + proclaim (-amation), perish, provoke to anger, rage, + raiser of taxes, remove, send over, set apart, + shave, cause to (make) sound, × speedily, × sweet smelling, (make to) transgress (-or), translate, [way-] faring man, be wrath.

This word communicates the idea of transgression, or crossing over the boundary of right and entering the forbidden land of wrong. ʿAbar, the masculine form, means "to pass away, pass over." (1) The verb refers primarily to spatial movement, to "moving over, through, or away from." (1a) This basic meaning can be used of "going over or through" a particular location to get to the other side, as when Jacob "crossed over" the Euphrates to escape Laban (Gen 31:21). (1b) Another specific use of this general meaning is to pass through something; Ps. 8:8 speaks of whatever "passes through" the sea as being under Adam's control. (1c) ʿAbar can also merely mean "to go as far as"—Amos tells his audience not to "cross over" to Beer-sheba (Amos 5:5). (2) "To go as far as" an individual is to overtake him: "But howsoever, said he, let me run. And he said unto him, Run. Then Ahimaaz ran by the way of the plain, and overran [ʿabar] Cushi" (2 Sa 18:23). (3) Abram "passed through" Canaan as far as Mamre; he did not go out of the land (cf. Gen 12:6). (4) The word can also be used of "passing by" something; Abraham begged the three men not "to pass by" him but to stop and refresh themselves: "And said, My Lord, if now I have found favour in thy sight, pass not away, I pray thee, from thy servant" (Gen 18:3).

(5) ʿAbar is sometimes used of "passing over" a law, order, or covenant as if it were not binding. When the people decided to enter Palestine against the command of God, Moses said, "Wherefore now do ye transgress the commandment of the Lord?" (Num 14:41). (6) This verb first occurs in Gen 8:1 where it means "pass over on top of.": "And God remembered Noah, and every living thing, and all the cattle that was with him in the ark: and God made a wind to pass over the earth, and the waters asswaged;" God caused the wind "to pass over" the flood waters and to carry them away. (7) The word can also mean "to pass away," to cease to be, as in Gen 50:4 where the days of mourning over Jacob "were past." (8) A number of technical phrases where this root has a regular and specialized meaning appear. (8a) For example, one who "passes over" the sea is a seafarer or sailor (Is 23:2). (8b) ʿAbar is used in business affairs with silver or money in the sense of reckoning money according to the "going" (passing) rate (Gen 23:16ff.). (9) In Song 5:5 the verb is used to mean "flow" as what a liquid does ("flowing" or "liquid" myrrh): "I rose up to open to my beloved; and my hands dropped [ʿabar] with myrrh, and my fingers with sweet smelling myrrh, upon the handles of the lock."

(10) The phrase "pass over to be numbered" is a phrase meaning to move from one status to another (to move into the ranks of the militia) in Ex 30:13–14: "This they shall give, every one that passeth among them that are numbered, half a shekel after the shekel of the sanctuary: (a shekel is twenty gerahs:) an half shekel shall be the offering of the LORD. Every one that passeth among them that are numbered, from twenty years old and above, shall give an offering unto the LORD." (11) The intensive stem of ʿabar is used in two special senses: (11a) of "overlaying" with precious metals: "So Solomon overlaid the house within with pure gold: and he made a partition by the chains of gold before the oracle; and he overlaid it with gold" (1 Kin 6:21), and (11b) of the ox's act of making a cow pregnant: "Their bull gendereth [ʿabar], and faileth not; their cow calveth, and casteth not her calf" (Job 21:10).

(12) The verb also has special meanings in the causative stem: (12a) "to devote" the firstborn to the Lord: "That thou shalt set apart [ʿabar] unto the LORD all that openeth the matrix, and every firstling that cometh of a beast which thou hast; the males shall be the LORD'S" (Ex 13:12); (12b) "to offer" a child by burning him in fire: "There shall not be found among you any one that maketh his son or his daughter to pass through [ʿabar] the fire, or that useth divination, or an observer of times, or an enchanter, or a witch," (Deut 18:10); (12c) "to make" a sound "come forth": "Then shalt thou cause the trumpet of the jubile to sound [ʿabar] on the tenth day of the seventh month, in the day of atonement shall ye make the trumpet sound throughout all your land." (Lev 25:9); (12c) "to sovereignly transfer" a kingdom or cause it to pass over to another's leadership: "To translate [ʿabar] the kingdom from the house of Saul, and to set up the throne of David over Israel and over Judah, from Dan even to Beersheba" (2 Sa 3:10); (12d) "to put away or cause to cease": "And he took away [ʿabar] the sodomites out of the land, and removed all the idols that his fathers had made" (1 Kin 15:12); (12e) and "to turn" something "away": "Turn away [ʿabar] mine eyes from beholding vanity; and quicken thou me in thy way" (Ps 119:37).

(13) ʿAbarah, the feminine noun form which occurs twice, means "crossing or ford": "And there went over a ferry boat to carry over [ʿabarah] the king's household, and to do what he thought good. And Shimei the son of Gera fell down before the king, as he was come over [ʿabarah] Jordan" (2 Sa 19:18). (14) ʿAbar, as a verb, occurs only when it refers to sin. (15) ʿAbar often carries the sense of "transgressing" a covenant or commandment—i.e., the offender "passes beyond" the limits set by God's law and falls into transgression and guilt. (15a) This meaning appears in Num 14:41: "And Moses said, wherefore now do ye transgress the commandment of the Lord? but it shall not prosper." (15b) Another example is in Judg 2:20: "And the anger of the Lord was hot against Israel; and he said, Because that this people hath transgressed my covenant which I commanded their fathers, and have not hearkened unto my voice" (cf. 1 Sa 15:24; Hos 8:1).

(16) Most frequently, ʿabar illustrates the motion of "crossing over" or "passing over." (16a) This word refers to crossing a stream or boundage ("pass through," Num 21:22), (16b) invading a country ("passed over," Judg 11:32), (11c) crossing a boundary against a hostile army ("go over," 1 Sa 14:4), (16d) marching over ("go over," Is 51:23), (16e) overflowing the banks of a river or other natural barriers ("pass through," Is 23:10), (16f) passing a razor over one's head ("come upon," Num 6:5), and (16g) the passing of time ("went over," 1 Chr 29:30). See: TWOT—1556; BDB—716d, 720d, 1105b.

5675. עֲבַר {14x} ʿăbar (Aram.), ab-ar'; corresp. to 5676:—beyond {7x}, side {7x}. See: TWOT—2897; BDB—1105a.

(with or without a prep.) on the opposite side (espec. of the Jordan; usually mean. the east):—side {58x}, beyond {21x}, straight {3x}, passage {2x}, by {1x}, from {1x}, other {1x}, against {1x}, over {1x}, quarter {1x}, Strong's synonym {1x}.

'Eber, which occurs 91 times, refers to the (1) "side": "Now it came to pass upon a day, that Jonathan the son of Saul said unto the young man that bare his armour, Come, and let us go over to the Philistines' garrison, that is on the other side. But he told not his father" (1 Sa 14:1) or (2) "edge" of something: "And thou shalt make two rings of gold, and thou shalt put them upon the two ends of the breastplate in the border thereof, which is in the side of the ephod inward" (Ex 28:26). (3) When speaking of rivers or seas, 'eber means the "edge or side opposite the speaker" or "the other side": "For we have heard how the LORD dried up the water of the Red sea for you, when ye came out of Egypt; and what ye did unto the two kings of the Amorites, that were on the other side Jordan, Sihon and Og, whom ye utterly destroyed" (Josh 2:10). 'Ibriy means "Hebrew." (1) The origin and meaning of this word, which appears 34 times, is much debated. (2) The word is an early generic term for a variety of Semitic peoples and is somewhat akin to our word barbarian. (3) So Abram is identified as a "Hebrew" (Gen 14:13). (4) This ethnic term indicates family origin whereas the term "sons of Israel" is a political and religious term. (5) Unquestionably in the ancient Near East "Hebrew" was applied to a far larger group than the Israelites. (6) The word occurs in Ugaritic, Egyptian, and Babylonian writings describing a diverse mixture of nomadic wanderers or at least those who appear to have at one time been nomadic. (7) Sometimes the word seems to be a term of derision. Such usage recalls 1 Sa 29:3, where the Philistine leaders asked Achish, "What do these Hebrews here?" (8) There is considerable debate about identifying Hebrew with the well-known Habiru (Semitic warlords) who occupied Egypt in the first half of the second millennium B.C. ʿEd means a "witness." (1) This word has to do with the legal or judicial sphere. (1a) First, in the area of civil affairs the word can mean someone who is present at a legal transaction and can confirm it if necessary. (1b) Such people worked as notaries, e.g., for an oral transfer of property: "Now this was the manner in former time in Israel concerning redeeming and concerning changing, for to confirrn all things. . . . And Boaz said unto the elders, and unto all the people, Ye are witnesses this day, that I have bought all that was Elimelech's, and all that was Chilion's and Mahlon's, of the hand of Naomi" (Ruth 4:7, 9). (2) At a later time the "witnesses" not only acted to attest the transaction and to confirm it orally, but they signed a document or deed of purchase. (2a) Thus "witness" takes on the new nuance of those able and willing to affirm the truth of a transaction by affixing their signatures: (2b) "And I gave the evidence of the purchase unto Baruch the son of Neriah . . . in the sight of Hanameel mine uncle's son, and in the presence of the witnesses that subscribed the book of the purchase" (Jer 32:12).

(3) An object or animal(s) can signify the truthfulness of an act or agreement. (3a) Its very existence or the acceptance of it by both parties (in the case of the animals given to Abimelech in Gen 21:30) bears witness: "Now therefore come thou, let us make a covenant, I and thou; and let it be for a witness between me and thee [let it attest to our mutual relationship]" (Gen 31:44—the first biblical occurrence of the word). (3b) Jacob then set up a stone pillar or heap as a further "witness" (Gen 31:48) calling upon God to effect judgment if the covenant were broken. (4) In Mosaic criminal law the accused has the right to be faced by his/her accuser and to give evidence of his/her innocence. (4a) In the case of a newly married woman charged by her own husband, his testimony is sufficient to prove her guilty of adultery unless her parents have clear evidence proving her virginity before her marriage (Deut 22:14ff.). (4b) Usually the accused is faced with someone who either saw or heard of his guilt: "And if a soul sin, and hear the voice of swearing, and is a witness, whether he hath seen or known of it . . ." (Lev 5:1).

(5) Heavy penalties fell on anyone who lied to a court. (5a) The ninth commandment may well have immediate reference to such a concrete court situation (Ex 20:16). (5b) If so, it serves to sanction proper judicial procedure, to safeguard individuals from secret accusation and condemnation and giving them the right and privilege of self-defense. (6) In the exchange between Jacob and Laban mentioned above, Jacob also cites God as a "witness" (Gen 31:50) between them, the one who will see violations; God, however, is also the Judge: "If thou shalt afflict my daughters, or if thou shalt take other wives beside my daughters, no man is with us; see, God is witness betwixt me and thee." (7) Although human courts are (as a rule) to keep judge and "witness" separate, the "witnesses" do participate in executing the penalty upon the guilty party (Deut 17:7), even as God does: "The hands of the witnesses shall be first upon him to put him to death, and afterward the hands of all the people. So thou shalt put the evil away from among you." Syn.: 5749. See: TWOT—1576b; BDB—723b, 729c, 1113d.

'Edah means "congregation." (1) In ordinary usage, 'edah refers to a "group of people." (1a) It occurs 149 times in the Old Testament, most frequently in the Book of Numbers. (1b) The first occurrence is in Ex 12:3, where the word is a synonym for qahal (6951), "assembly": "Speak ye unto all the congregation of Israel, saying, In the tenth day of this month they shall take to them every man a lamb, according to the house of their fathers, a lamb for an house:" (2) The most general meaning of 'edah is "group," whether of animals—such as a swarm of bees (Judg 14:8), a herd of bulls (Ps 68:30), and the flocking together of birds (Hos 7:12)—or of people, such as the righteous (Ps 1:5), the evildoers (Ps 22:16), and the nations (Ps 7:7). (3) The most frequent reference is to the "congregation of Israel" (9 times), "the congregation of the sons of Israel" (26 times), "the congregation" (24 times), or "all of the congregation" (30 times). (4) Elders (Lev 4:15), family heads (Num 31:26), and princes (Num 16:2; 31:13; 32:2) were placed in charge of the "congregation" in order to assist Moses in a just rule. 5715. עֵדוּת {59x} ʿêdûwth, ay-dooth'; fem. of 5707; testimony:—testimony {55x}, witness {4x}.

'Eduwth means "testimony; ordinance." (1) This word refers to the Ten Commandments as a solemn divine charge or duty. (1a) In particular, it represents those commandments as written on the tablets and existing as a reminder and "testimony" of Israel's relationship and responsibility to God: "And he gave unto Moses, when he had made an end of communing with him upon Mount Sinai, two tables of testimony, tables of stone, written with the finger of God" (Ex 31:18). (1c) Elsewhere these tablets are called simply "the testimony": "And thou shalt put into the ark the testimony which I shall give thee" (Ex 25:16). (1d) Since they were kept in the ark, it became known as the "ark of the testimony" (Ex 25:22) or simply "the testimony": "As the Lord commanded Moses, so Aaron laid it up before the Testimony, to be kept" (Ex 16:34—the first biblical occurrence of the word). (1e) The tabernacle as the housing for the ark containing these tablets was sometimes called the "tabernacle of testimony" (Ex 38:21) or the "tent of the testimony" (Num 9:15).

(2) The word sometimes refers to the entire law of God: "The law of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul: the testimony of the Lord is sure, making wise the simple" (Ps 19:7). Here 'eduwth is synonymously parallel to "law," making it a synonym to that larger concept. (3) Special or particular laws are sometimes called "testimonies": "And keep the charge of the Lord thy God, to walk in his ways, to keep his statutes, and his commandments, and his judgments, and his testimonies, as it is written in the law of Moses, that thou mayest prosper in all that thou doest, and whithersoever thou turnest thyself:" (1 Kin 2:3). (4) In Ps 122:4 the annual pilgrimage feasts are called "the testimony of Israel": "Whither the tribes go up, the tribes of the LORD, unto the testimony of Israel, to give thanks unto the name of the LORD." 5769. עוֹלָם {439x} ʿôwlâm, o-lawm'; or עֹלָם ʿôlâm, o-lawm'; from 5956; prop. concealed, i.e. the vanishing point; gen. time out of mind (past or future), i.e. (practically) eternity; freq. adv. (espec. with prep. pref.) always:—ever {272x}, everlasting {63x}, old {22x}, perpetual {22x}, evermore {15x}, never {13x}, time {6x}, ancient {5x}, world {4x}, always {3x}, alway {2x}, long {2x}, more {2x}, never + 408 {2x}, misc. {6x}.

'Olam means "eternity; remotest time; perpetuity." (1) First, in a few passages the word means "eternity" in the sense of not being limited to the present. Thus, in Eccl. 3:11 we read that God had bound man to time and given him the capacity to live "above time" (i.e., to remember yesterday, plan for tomorrow, and consider abstract principles); yet He has not given him divine knowledge: "He hath made every thing beautiful in his time: also he hath set the world in their heart, so that no man can find out the work that God maketh from the beginning to the end."

(2) Second, the word signifies "remotest time" or "remote time." (2a) In 1 Chr 16:36, God is described as blessed "for ever and ever," or from the most distant past time to the most distant future time: "Blessed be the LORD God of Israel for ever and ever. And all the people said, Amen, and praised the LORD." (2b) In passages where God is viewed as the One who existed before the creation was brought into existence, 'olam means: (2b1) "at the very beginning": "Remember the former things [the beginning things at the very beginning] of old: for I am God, and there is none else" (Is 46:9); or (2b2) "from eternity, from the pre-creation, till now": "Remember, O Lord, thy tender mercies and thy lovingkindnesses; for they have been ever of old [from eternity]" (Ps 25:6). (3) In other passages, the word means "from (in) olden times": "Mighty men which were of old, men of renown" (Gen 6:4).

(4) In Is 42:14, the word is used hyperbolically meaning "for a long time": "I have long time holden my peace; I have been still, and refrained myself." (5) This word may include all the time between the ancient beginning and the present: "The prophets that have been before me and before thee of old prophesied" (Jer 28:8). (6) The word can mean "long ago" (from long ago): "For [long ago] I have broken thy yoke, and burst thy bands" (Jer 2:20). (7) In Josh 24:2, the word means "formerly; in ancient times." (8) The word is used in Jer 5:15, where it means "ancient": "Lo, I will bring a nation upon you from far, O house of Israel, saith the Lord: it is a mighty nation, it is an ancient nation. . . ." (9) When used with the negative, 'olam can mean "never": "We are thine: thou never barest rule [literally, "not ruled from the most distant past"] over them" (Is 63:19). (10) Similar meanings emerge when the word is used without a preposition and in a genitive relationship to some other noun.

(11) With the preposition 'ad, the word can mean (11a) "into the indefinite future": "An Ammonite or Moabite shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord; even to their tenth generation shall they not enter into the congregation of the Lord for ever" (Deut 23:3). (11b) The same construction can signify "as long as one lives": "I will not go up until the child be weaned, and then I will bring him, that he may appear before the Lord, and there abide for ever" (1 Sa 1:22). (11c) This construction then sets forth an extension into the indefinite future, beginning from the time of the speaker. (12) In the largest number of its occurrences, 'olam appears with the preposition le. (12a) This construction is weaker and less dynamic in emphasis than the previous phrase, insofar as it envisions a "simple duration." (12b) This difference emerges in 1 Kin 2:33, where both phrases occur: "Their blood shall therefore return upon the head of Joab, and upon the head of his seed for ever (le 'olam): but upon David, and upon his seed, and upon his house, and upon his throne, shall there be peace for ever ('ad 'olam) from the LORD." (12b1) Le 'olam is applied to the curse set upon the dead Joab and his descendants. The other more dynamic phrase ('ad 'olam), applied to David and his descendants, emphasizes the ever-continued, ever-acting presence of the blessing extended into the "indefinite future."

(13) In Ex 21:6 the phrase le 'olam means "as long as one lives": "And his master shall bore his ear through with an awl; and he shall serve him for ever." (13a) This phrase emphasizes "continuity," "definiteness," and "unchangeability." (13b) This is its emphasis in Gen 3:22, the first biblical occurrence of 'olam: "And now, lest he put forth his hand, and take also of the tree of life, and eat, and live for ever." (14) The same emphasis on "simple duration" pertains when 'olam is used in passages such as (14a) Ps 61:8, where it appears by itself: "So will I sing praise unto thy name for ever, that I may daily perform my vows." (14b) The parallelism demonstrates that 'olam means "day by day," or "continually." (15) In Gen 9:16, the word (used absolutely) means the "most distant future": "And the bow shall be in the cloud; and I will look upon it, that I may remember the everlasting covenant between God and every living creature." (16) In other places, the word means "without beginning, without end, and ever-continuing": "Trust ye in the Lord for ever: for in the Lord Jehovah is everlasting strength" (Is 26:4). (17) The plural of this word is an intensive form. Syn.: 5331, 5703. See: TWOT—1631a; BDB—732d, 761d, 1106d.

5771. עָוֹן {230x} ʿâvôn, aw-vone'; or

עָוֹן ʿâvôwn (2 Kin 7:9; Ps 51:5 [7]), aw-vone'; from 5753; perversity, i.e. (moral) evil:—iniquity {220x}, punishment {5x}, fault {2x}, Iniquities + 1697 {1x}, mischief {1x}, sin {1x}.

'Avown means "iniquity; guilt; punishment." (1) This word is derived from the root

'avah (5753), which means "to be bent, bowed down, twisted, perverted" or "to twist, pervert." (2) 'Avown portrays sin as (2a) a perversion of life (a twisting out of the right way), (2b) a perversion of truth (a twisting into error), or (2c) a perversion of intent (a bending of rectitude into willful disobedience). (3) The word "iniquity" is the best single-word equivalent. (4) The first use of 'avown comes from Cain's lips, where the word takes the special meaning of "punishment": "And Cain said unto the Lord, My punishment is greater than I can bear" (Gen 4:13). (2) The word signifies (2a) an offense, intentional or not, against God's law. (2b) This meaning is also most basic to the word chatta't (2403), "sin," in the Old Testament, and for this reason the words chatta't and 'avown are virtually synonymous; "Lo, this [the live coal] hath touched thy [Isaiah's] lips; and thine iniquity ['avown] is taken away, and thy sin [chatta't] purged" (Is 6:7). (3) "Iniquity" as an offense to God's holiness is punishable. The individual is warned that the Lord punishes man's transgression: "But every one shall die for his own iniquity: every man that eateth the sour grape, his teeth shall be set on edge" (Jer 31:30).

(4) There is also a collective sense in that the one is responsible for the many: "Thou shalt not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them: for I the Lord thy God am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me" (Ex 20:5). (5) No generation, however, was to think that it bore God's judgment for the "iniquity" of another generation: "Yet say ye, Why? doth not the son bear the iniquity of the father? When the son hath done that which is lawful and right, and hath kept all my statutes, and hath done them, he shall surely live. The soul that sinneth, it shall die. The son shall not bear the iniquity of the father, neither shall the father bear the iniquity of the son: the righteousness of the righteous shall be upon him, and the wickedness of the wicked shall be upon him" (Eze 18:19–20). (6) Israel went into captivity for the sin of their fathers and for their own sins: "And the heathen shall know that the house of Israel went into captivity for their iniquity; because they trespassed against me, therefore hid I my face from them, and gave them into the hand of their enemies: so fell they all by the sword" (Eze 39:23).

(7) Serious as "iniquity" is in the covenantal relationship between the Lord and His people, the people are reminded that He is a living God who willingly forgives "iniquity": "Keeping mercy for thousands, forgiving iniquity and transgression and sin, and that will by no means clear the guilty; visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, and upon the children's children, unto the third and to the fourth generation" (Ex 34:7). (8) God expects (8a) confession of sin: "I acknowledged my sin unto thee, and mine iniquity have I not hid. I said, I will confess my transgressions unto the Lord; and thou forgavest the iniquity of my sin" (Ps 32:5), and (8b) a trusting, believing heart which expresses the humble prayer: "Wash me thoroughly from mine iniquity, and cleanse me from my sin" (Ps 51:2). (9) Isaiah 53 teaches that God put upon Jesus Christ our "iniquities" (v. 6), that He having been bruised for our "iniquities" (v. 5) might justify those who believe on Him: "He shall see of the travail of his soul, and shall be satisfied: by his knowledge shall my righteous servant justify many; for he shall bear their iniquities" (Is 53:11).

(10) The usage of 'avown includes the whole area of sin, judgment, and "punishment" for sin. The Old Testament teaches that God's forgiveness of "iniquity" extends to the actual sin, the guilt of sin, God's judgment upon that sin, and God's punishment of the sin. "Blessed is the man unto whom the Lord imputeth not iniquity, and in whose spirit there is no guile" (Ps 32:2). (11a) The penitent wrongdoer recognized his "iniquity" in Is 59:12: "For our transgressions are multiplied before thee, and our sins testify against us: for our transgressions are with us; and as for our iniquities, we know them" (cf. 1 Sa 3:13). (11b) "Iniquity" is something to be confessed: (11b1) "And Aaron shall lay both his hands upon the head of the live goat, and confess over him all the iniquities of the children of Israel" (Lev 16:21). (11b2) "And the seed of Israel . . . confessed their sins, and the iniquities of their fathers" (Neh 9:2; cf. Ps 38:18). (12) The grace of God may (12a) remove or forgive "iniquity": "And unto him he said, Behold, I have caused thine iniquity to pass from thee" (Zec 3:4; cf. 2 Sa 24:10). (12b) His atonement may cover over "iniquity": "By mercy and truth iniquity is purged; and by the fear of the Lord men depart from evil" (Prov 16:6; cf. Ps 78:38).

(13) 'Avown may refer to "the guilt of iniquity," as in Eze 36:31: "Then shall ye remember your own evil ways . . . and shall loathe yourselves in your own sight for your iniquities and for your abominations" (cf. Eze 9:9). (14) The word may also refer to "punishment for iniquity": "And Saul sware to her by the Lord, saying, As the Lord liveth, there shall no punishment happen to thee for this thing" (1 Sa 28:10). (15) In Ex 28:38, 'avown is used as the object of natsa' (5375 - "to bear, carry away, forgive"): "And it shall be upon Aaron's forehead, that Aaron may bear (natsa') the iniquity (ʿavown) of the holy things, which the children of Israel shall hallow in all their holy gifts; and it shall be always upon his forehead, that they may be accepted before the LORD." (15a) to suggest bearing the punishment for the "iniquity" of others. (15b) In Is 53:11, we are told that the servant of Yahweh bears the consequences of the "iniquities" of sinful mankind, including Israel. Syn: ʿAvown occurs frequently throughout the Old Testament in parallelism with other words related to sin, such as (A) chatta't (2403 - "sin") and (B) pesha' (6588 - "transgression"). (B1) Some examples are 1 Sa 20:1: "And David . . . said before Jonathan, what have I done? what is mine iniquity [5771 – ʿavown]? and what is my sin [2403 – chatta't] before thy father, that he seeketh my life?" (cf. Is 43:24; Jer 5:25). (B2) Also note Job 14:17: "My transgression [6588 – pesha'] is sealed up in a bag, and thou sewest up mine iniquity [5771 - ʿavown]" (cf. Ps 107:17; Is 50:1). ʿUwr means "to awake, stir up, rouse oneself, rouse." (1) Its first use in the Old Testament has the sense (1a) of "rousing" someone to action: "Awake, awake, Deborah" (Judg 5:12). (1b) This same meaning is reflected in Ps 7:6, where it is used in parallelism with "arise": "Arise, O Lord, in thine anger, . . . awake for me to the judgment that thou hast commanded." (2) ʿUwr commonly signifies awakening out of ordinary sleep: "And the angel that talked with me came again, and waked me, as a man that is wakened out of his sleep" (Zec 4:1), or (3) out of the sleep of death: "So man lieth down, and riseth not: till the heavens be no more, they shall not awake, nor be raised out of their sleep" (Job 14:12). (4) In Job 31:29, it expresses the idea of "being excited" or "stirred up": "If I . . . lifted up myself when evil found him. . . ." (5) This verb is found several times in the Song of Solomon, for instance, (5a) in contrast with sleep: "I sleep, but my heart waketh . . ." (5:2). (5b) It is found three times in an identical phrase: ". . . that you stir not up, nor awake my love, till he please" (Song 2:7; 3:5; 8:4). See: TWOT—1587; BDB—BDB—734d.

'Azab means "to leave, forsake, abandon, leave behind, be left over, let go." (1) Basically 'azab means "to depart from something," or "to leave." (1a) This is the meaning of the word in its first biblical appearance: "[For this cause] shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife" (Gen 2:24). (1b) A special nuance of the word is "to leave in the lurch," or to leave someone who is depending upon one's services. So Moses said to Hobab the Midianite (Kenite): "Leave us not [in the lurch] I pray thee; forasmuch as thou knowest how we are to encamp in the wilderness, and thou mayest be to us instead of eyes" (Num 10:31). (2) The word also carries the meaning "forsake," or "leave entirely." Such passages convey a note of finality or completeness. So Isaiah is to preach that ". . . the land that thou abhorrest shall be forsaken of both her kings" (Is 7:16). (3) In other places, the abandonment is complete but not necessarily permanent. God says that Israel is "as a woman forsaken and grieved in spirit. . . . For a small moment have I forsaken thee; but with great mercies will I gather thee" (Is 54:6–7).

(4) This word carries a technical sense of "completely and permanently abandoned" or "divorced." Isaiah employs this sense in 62:4: "Thou shalt no more be termed Forsaken; . . . but thou shalt be called [My delight is in her], and thy land [Married]." (5) Another special use of the word is "to disregard advice": "But he forsook the counsel of the old men which they had given him" (1 Kin 12:8). (6) A second emphasis of 'azab is "to leave behind," meaning to allow something to remain while one leaves the scene. In Gen 39:12, Joseph "left" his garment in the hand of Potiphar's wife and fled. (7) The word may also refer to an intentional "turning over one's possessions to another's trust," or "leaving something in one's control." Potiphar "left all that he had in Joseph's hand" (Gen 39:6). (8) In a somewhat different nuance, the word means to "let someone or something alone with a problem": "If thou see the ass of him that hateth thee lying under his burden, and wouldest forbear to help him . . ." (Ex 23:5). (9) Used figuratively, 'azab means to "put distance between" in a spiritual or intellectual sense: "Cease from anger, and forsake wrath" (Ps 37:8).

(10) The emphasis of the word is "to be left over," or "to take most of something and leave the rest behind": "And thou shalt not glean thy vineyard, neither shalt thou gather every grape of thy vineyard; thou shalt leave them [over] for the poor and stranger: I am the Lord your God" (Lev 19:10). (11) Finally, ʿazab can mean "to let go" or "allow to leave." The "stupid and senseless men" are those who make no provision for the future; they die leaving ("allowing it to go") their wealth to others (Ps 49:10). (12) A different nuance occurs in Ruth 2:16, where the verb means "to let something lie" on the ground. (13) ʿAzab can also mean "to give up": "He that covereth his sins shall not prosper: but whoso confesseth and forsaketh them [gives them up] shall have mercy" (Prov 28:13), and (14) the word can mean "to set free," as in 2 Chr 28:14: "So the armed men left the captives and the spoil before the princes and all the congregation." (15) ʿAzab can signify "let go," or "make it leave." Concerning evil, Zophar remarks, "[The wicked] forsake it not, but keep it still within his mouth" (Job 20:13).

(16) ʿAzab can mean to "allow someone to do something," as in 2 Chr 32:31, where "God left [Hezekiah], to try him, that he might know all that was in his heart"; God "let" Hezekiah do whatever he wanted. (17) "Letting an activity go" may also signify its discontinuance: "I pray you, let us leave off this usury" (Neh 5:10). (18) ʿAzab is sometimes used in a judicial technical sense of "being free," which is the opposite of being in bondage. The Lord will vindicate His people, and will have compassion on His servants "when he seeth that their power is gone, and there is none shut up, or left" (Deut 32:36). 5869. עַיִן {887x} ʿayin, ah'-yin; prob. a prim. word; an eye (lit. or fig.); by anal. a fountain (as the eye of the landscape):—eye {495x}, sight {216x}, seem {19x}, colour {12x}, fountain {11x}, well {11x}, face {10x}, pleased + 3190 {10x}, presence {8x}, displeased + 3415 {8x}, before {8x}, pleased + 3474 {4x}, conceit {4x}, think {4x}, misc. {66x} = affliction, outward appearance, + think best, + be content, countenance, + favour, furrow, × him, + humble, knowledge, look, (+ well), × me, open (-ly), + regard, resemblance, × thee, × them, × us, × you (-rselves).

ʿAyin means "eye; well; surface; appearance; spring." (1) First, the word represents the bodily part, "eye." (1a) In Gen 13:10, ʿayin is used of the "human eye": "And Lot lifted up his eyes, and beheld all the plain of Jordan." (1b) It is also used of the "eyes" of animals (Gen 30:41), idols (Ps 115:5), and God (Deut 11:12—anthropomorphism). (2) The expression "between the eyes" means "on the forehead": "And it shall be for a sign unto thee upon thine hand, and for a memorial between thine eyes, that the Lord's law may be in thy mouth" (Ex 13:9). (3) "Eyes" are used as typical of one's "weakness" or "hurt": "And it came to pass, that when Isaac was old, and his eyes were dim, so that he could not see, he called Esau his eldest son, and said . . ." (Gen 27:1). (4) The "apple of the eye" is the central component, the iris: "Keep me as the apple of the eye" (Ps 17:8). (5) "Eyes" might be a special feature of "beauty": "Now he was ruddy, and withal [fair of eyes], and goodly to look to" (1 Sa 16:12). (6) ʿAyin is often used in connection with expressions of "seeing": "And, behold, your eyes see, and the eyes of my brother Benjamin, that it is my mouth that speaketh unto you" (Gen 45:12). (7) The expression "to lift up one's eyes" is explained by a verb following it: one lifts up his eyes to do something—whatever the verb stipulates (cf. Gen 13:10).

(8) "Lifting up one's eyes" may also be an act expressing "desire," "longing," "devotion": "And it came to pass after these things, that his master's wife [looked with desire at] Joseph" (Gen 39:7). (9) The "eyes" may be used in gaining or seeking a judgment, in the sense of "seeing intellectually," "making an evaluation," or "seeking an evaluation or proof of faithfulness": "And thou saidst unto thy servants, Bring him down unto me, that I may set mine eyes upon him" (Gen 44:21). (10) "Eyes" sometimes show mental qualities, such as regret: "Also regard not [literally, "do not let your eye look with regret upon"] your stuff; for the good of all the land of Egypt is yours" (Gen 45:20). (11) "Eyes" are used figuratively of mental and spiritual abilities, acts and states. So the "opening of the eyes" in Gen 3:5 (the first occurrence) means to become autonomous by setting standards of good and evil for oneself. (12) In passages such as Prov 4:25, "eye" represents a moral faculty: "Let thine eyes look right on, and let thine eyelids look straight before thee." (13) Prov 23:6 uses the word of a moral state (literally"evil eye"): "Eat thou not the bread of [a selfish man], neither desire thou his dainty meats."

(14) An individual may serve as a guide, or one's "eyes": "And he said, Leave us not, I pray thee; forasmuch as thou knowest how we are to encamp in the wilderness, and thou mayest be to us instead of eyes" (Num 10:31). (15) The phrase, "in the eye of," means "in one's view or opinion": "And he went in unto Hagar, and she conceived: and when she saw that she had conceived, her mistress was despised in her eyes" (Gen 16:4). (16) Another phrase, "from the eyes of," may signify that a thing or matter is "hidden" from one's knowledge: "And a man lie with her carnally, and it be hid from the eyes of her husband, and [she be undetected] . . ." (Num 5:13). (17) In Ex 10:5, the word represents the "visible surface of the earth": "And they shall cover the face of the earth, that one cannot be able to see the earth." (18) Lev 13:5 uses ʿayin to represent "one's appearance": "And the priest shall look on him the seventh day: and behold, if the plague in his sight be at a stay . . ." (19) A "gleam or sparkle" is described in the phrase, "to give its eyes," in passages such as Prov 23:31: "Look not thou upon the wine when it is red, when it giveth his color [gives its eyes] in the cup. . . ." (20) ʿAyin also represents a "spring" (literally, an "eye of the water"): "And the angel of the Lord found her by a fountain of water in the wilderness, by the fountain on the way to Shur" (Gen 16:7). ʿIyr means city; town; village; quarter [of a city]. (1) This word suggests a village, maybe with or without walls: "All these cities were fenced with high walls, gates, and bars; beside unwalled towns [ʿiyr] a great many" (Deut 3:5); an unwalled village being Hebrew word chatser (2968). (2) ʿIyr can signify a village in a permanent place, even though the dwellings are tents: "And Saul came to a city [ʿiyr] of Amalek, and laid wait in the valley" (1 Sa 15:5). (3) In Gen 4:17 ʿiyr means a permanent dwelling center consisting of residences of stone and clay: "And Cain knew his wife; and she conceived, and bare Enoch: and he builded a city, and called the name of the city, after the name of his son, Enoch." (4) As a rule, there are usually no political overtones to the word; (4a) ʿiyr simply represents the place where people dwell on a permanent basis. (4b) ʿIyr, however, can represent a political entity: "And to them which were in Rachal, and to them which were in the cities of the Jerahmeelites, and to them which were in the cities of the Kenites," (1 Sa 30:29). (5) This word can represent those who live in a given town: "And when he came, lo, Eli sat upon a seat by the wayside watching: for his heart trembled for the ark of God. And when the man came into the city, and told it, all the city cried out" (1 Sa 4:13). (6) ʿIyr can signify only a part of a city, such as a part that is surrounded by a wall: "Nevertheless David took the strong hold of Zion: the same is the city of David" (2 Sa 5:7). 'Alah means "to go up, ascend, offer up." (1) Basically, 'alah suggests movement from a lower to a higher place. (1a) That is the emphasis in Gen 2:6 (the first occurrence of the word), which reports that Eden was watered by a mist or stream that "went up" over the ground. (1b) 'Alah may also mean "to rise up" or "ascend." The king of Babylon [satan] said in his heart, "I will ascend into heaven" (Is 14:13). (2) This word may mean "to take a journey," as in traveling from Egypt (Gen 13:1) toward Palestine or other points northward. (3) The verb may be used in a special sense meaning "to extend, reach"—for example, the border of Benjamin "went up ["extended, reached"] through the mountains westward" (Josh 18:12). (4) The use of 'alah to describe the journey from Egypt to Palestine is such a standard phrase that it often appears without the geographical reference points. Joseph told his brothers to "go up" to their father in peace (Gen 44:17). (5) Even the return from the Exile, which was a journey from north to south (Palestine), is described as a "going up" (Ezra 2:1). (6) Thus, the reference may be not so much to physically "going up," but to a figurative or spiritual "going up." This usage appears long before Ezra's time, when it is said that one "goes up" to the place where the sanctuary is located (cf. Deut 17:8).

(7) The verb became a technical term for "making a pilgrimage" (Ex 34:24) or "going up" before the Lord; in a secular context, compare Joseph's "going up" before Pharaoh (Gen 46:31). (8) In instances where an enemy located himself in a superior position (frequently a higher place), one "goes up" to battle (Josh 22:12). (9) The verb can also refer merely to "going out" to make war against someone, even though there is no movement from a lower to a higher plane. So Israel "went up" to make war against the Moabites, who heard of the Israelites' approach while still dwelling in their cities (2 Kin 3:21). (10) Even when 'alah is used by itself, it can mean "to go to war"; the Lord told Phinehas, "Go up; for tomorrow I will deliver them into thine hand" (Judg 20:28). (11) On the other hand, if the enemy is recognized to be on a lower plane, one can "go down" (3381 - yarad) to fight (Judg 1:9). (12) The opposite of "going up" to war is not descending to battle, but "leaving off" ('alah me'al), literally, "going up from against." (12) Another special use of 'alah is "to overpower" (literally, "to go up from"). For example, the Pharaoh feared the Israelites lest in a war they join the enemy, fight against Egypt, and "overpower" the land (Ex 1:10).

(13) "To go up" may also be used of "increasing in strength," as the lion that becomes strong from his prey: The lion "goes up from his prey" (Gen 49:9; cf. Deut 28:43). (14) Not only physical things can "go up." 'Alah can be used also of the "increasing" of wrath (2 Sa 11:20), the "ascent" of an outcry before God (Ex 2:23), and the "continual" sound of battle (although "sound of" is omitted; cf. 1 Kin 22:35). (15) The word can also be used passively to denote mixing two kinds of garments together, causing one "to lie upon" or "be placed upon" the other (Lev 19:19). (16) Sometimes "go up" means "placed," even when the direction is downward, as when placing a yoke upon an ox (Num 19:2) or going to one's grave (Job 5:26). This may be an illustration of how Hebrew verbs can sometimes mean their opposite. (17) The verb is also used of "recording" a census (1 Chr 27:24). (18) The verb 'alah is used in a causative stem to signify "presenting an offering" to God. In 63 cases, the word is associated with the presentation of the whole burnt offering ('olah). (19) 'Alah is used of the general act of "presenting offerings" when the various offerings are mentioned in the same context (Lev 14:20), or when the purpose of the offering is not specifically in mind (Is 57:6). (20) Sometimes this verb means merely "to offer" (e.g., Num 23:2). See: TWOT—1624; BDB—748a, 1105d.

עוֹלָה ʿôwlâh, o-law'; fem. act. part. of 5927; a step or (collect. stairs, as ascending); usually a holocaust (as going up in smoke):—burnt offering {264x}, burnt sacrifice {21x}, ascent {1x}, go up {1x}.

'Olah means "whole burnt offering." (1) In its first biblical occurrence olah identifies a kind of "offering" presented to God: "And Noah builded an altar unto the Lord; and took of every clean beast, and of every clean fowl, and offered burnt offerings on the altar" (Gen 8:20). (2) Its second nuance appears in Lev 1:4, where it represents the "thing being offered":"And he shall put his hand upon the head of the burnt offering; and it shall be accepted for him to make atonement for him." (3) This kind of "offering" could be made (3a) with a bull (Lev 1:3–5), a sheep, a goat (Lev 1:10), or a bird (Lev 1:14). (3b) The offerer laid his hands on the sacrificial victim, symbolically transferring his sin and guilt to it. (3c) After he slew the animal (on the north side of the altar), the priest took its blood, which was presented before the Lord prior to being sprinkled around the altar. (3d) A bird was simply given to the priest, but he wrung its neck and allowed its blood to drain beside the altar (Lev 1:15). (3e) This sacrifice effected an atonement, a covering for sin necessary before the essence of the sacrifice could be presented to God. (3f) Next, the "offering" was divided into sections. They were carefully purified (except those parts which could not be purified) and arranged on the altar (Lev 1:6–9, 12–13). (3g) The entire sacrifice was then consumed by the fire and its essence sent up to God as a placating (pleasing) odor. (3h) The animal skin was given to the priest as his portion (Lev 7:8).

(4) The word olah was listed first in Old Testament administrative prescriptions and descriptions as the most frequent offering. (4a) Every day required the presentation of a male lamb morning and evening—the continual "whole burnt offering" (Ex 29:38–42). (4b) Each month was consecrated by a "whole burnt offering," of two young bulls, one ram, and seven male lambs (Num 28:11–14). (4c) The same sacrifice was mandated, for each day of the Passover-Unleavened Bread feast (Num 28:19–24), and the Feast of Weeks (Num 28:26–29). (5) Other stated feasts required "burnt offerings" as well. (6) The various purification rites mandated both "burnt" and sin "offerings." (7) The central significance of 'olah as the "whole burnt offering" was the total surrender of the heart and life of the offerer to God. (7a) Sin offerings could accompany them when the offerer was especially concerned with a covering or expiation for sin (2 Chr 29:27). (7b) When peace offerings accompanied "burnt offerings," the offerer's concern focused on fellowship with God (2 Chr 29:31–35). (7c) Before the Mosaic legislation, it appears, the "whole burnt offering" served the full range of meanings expressed in all the various Mosaic sacrifices. 5959. עַלְמָה {7x} ʿalmâh, al-maw'; fem. of 5958; a lass (as veiled or private):—virgin {4x}, maid {2x}, damsels {1x}.

ʿAlmah means virgin; maiden. (1) That ʿalmah means virgin is quite clear in (1a1) Gen 24:43 the word describes Rebekah, "Behold, I stand by the well of water; and it shall come to pass, that when the virgin cometh forth to draw water, and I say to her, Give me, I pray thee, a little water of thy pitcher to drink;" (1a2) and that she was a "maiden" with whom no man had had relations: "And the damsel was very fair to look upon, a virgin, neither had any man known her: and she went down to the well, and filled her pitcher, and came up" (Gen 24:16). Then again in (1b) Song 6:8: "There are threescore queens, and fourscore concubines, and virgins without number." (1b1) Thus all the women in the court are described. (1b2) The word ʿalmah represents those who are eligible for marriage but are neither wives (queens) nor concubines. (1b3) These "virgins" all loved the king and longed to be chosen to be with him (to be his bride), (1b4) even as did the Shulamite who became his bride (1:3–4). (2) It is used more of the concept "virgin" than that of "maiden," (3) yet always of a woman who had not borne a child. (4) Solomon wrote that the process of wooing a woman was mysterious to him (Prov 30:19). (4a) Certainly in that day a man ordinarily wooed one whom he considered to be a "virgin." (4b) There are several contexts, therefore, in which a young girl's virginity is expressly in view.

(5) All virgins are maidens, but not all maidens are necessarily a virgin. (6) This makes it the ideal word to be used in Is 7:14, since the word betulah emphasizes virility more than virginity (although it is used with both emphases, too). (6a) The reader of Is 7:14 in the days preceding the birth of Jesus would read that a "virgin who is a maiden" would conceive a child. (6b) This was a possible, but irregular, use of the word since the word can refer merely to the unmarried status of the one so described. (6c) The child immediately in view was the son of the prophet and his wife (cf. Is 8:3) who served as a sign to Ahaz that his enemies would be defeated by God. (6c) On the other hand, the reader of that day must have been extremely uncomfortable with this use of the word, since its primary connotation is "virgin" rather than "maiden." (6d) Thus the clear translation of the Greek in Mt 1:23 whereby this word is rendered "virgin" satisfies its fullest implication. (6e) Therefore, there was no embarrassment to Isaiah when his wife conceived a son by him, since the word ʿalmah allowed for this. Neither is there any embarrassment in Matthew's understanding of the word. See: TWOT—1630b; BDB—761c.

5971. עַם {1861x} ʿam, am; from 6004; a people (as a congregated unit); spec. a tribe (as those of Israel); hence, (collect.) troops or attendants; fig. a flock:—people {1836x}, nation {17x}, people + 1121 {4x}, folk {2x}, Ammi {1x}, men {1x}.

ʿAm means "people; relative." (1) The word bears subjective and personal overtones. (1a) ʿAm represents a familial relationship. (1b) In Ruth 3:11 the word means "male kinsmen" with special emphasis on the paternal relationship: (1b1) "And now, my daughter, fear not; I will do to thee all that thou requirest: for all the city of my people doth know that thou art a virtuous woman." (1b2) Here the word is a collective noun insofar as it occurs in the singular; indeed, it is almost an abstract noun. (2) In the plural the word refers to all the individuals who are related to a person through his father: "But he shall not defile himself, being a chief man among his people, to profane himself" (Lev 21:4). (3) The word is quite often combined with divine names and titles in people's names (theophoric names) where God is set forth as the God of a particular tribe, clan, or family—for example, (3a) Jekameam (God has raised up a clan or family, 1 Chr 23:19) and (3b) Jokneam (God has created a clan or family, Josh 12:22). (4) ʿAm may signify those relatives (including women and children) who are grouped together locally whether or not they permanently inhabit a given location: "Then Jacob was greatly afraid and distressed: and he divided the people that was with him, and the flocks, and herds, and the camels, into two bands" (Gen 32:7).

(5) This word may refer to the whole of a nation formed and united primarily by their descent from a common ancestor. Such a group has strong blood ties and social interrelationships and interactions. (5a) Often they live and work together in a society in a common location. (5b) This is the significance of the word in its first biblical appearance: "And the Lord said, Behold, the people is one, and they have all one language" (Gen 11:6). (5c) Hence, in this usage ʿam refers not simply to male relatives but to men, women, and children. (5d) ʿAm may also include those who enter by religious adoption and marriage. (6) The people of Israel initially were the descendants of Jacob (Israel) and their families: "And he said unto his people [Egyptians], Behold, the people of the children of Israel are more and mightier than we" (Ex 1:9).

(7) Later the basic unity in a common covenant relationship with God becomes the unifying factor underlying ʿam. (7a) When they left Egypt, the people of Israel were joined by many others: "And a mixed multitude went up also with them; and flocks, and herds, even very much cattle" (Ex 12:38). (7b) Such individuals and their families were taken into Israel before they observed the Passover: "And when a stranger shall sojourn with thee, and will keep the passover to the LORD, let all his males be circumcised, and then let him come near and keep it; and he shall be as one that is born in the land" (Ex 12:48). (7c) There is another mention of this group (perhaps) in Num 11:4: "And the mixed multitude that was among them fell a lusting: and the children of Israel also wept again, and said. . . ." (7d) After that, however, we read of them no more. By the time of the conquest we read only of the "people" (ʿam) of Israel entering the land of Canaan and inheriting it (Judg 5:11). (7e) Passages such as Deut 32:9 clearly focus on this covenantal relationship as the basis of unity: "For the Lord's portion is his people; Jacob is the lot of his inheritance." (7f) This sense certainly emerges in the concept "to be cut off from one's people": "And the uncircumcised man child whose flesh of his foreskin is not circumcised, that soul shall be cut off from his people; he hath broken my covenant" (Gen 17:14).

(8) ʿAm can mean all those physical ancestors who lived previously and are now dead. (8a) So Abraham was gathered to his people: "Then Abraham gave up the ghost, and died in a good old age, an old man, and full of years; and was gathered to his people" (Gen 25:8). (8b) There might be covenantal overtones here in the sense that Abraham was gathered to all those who were true believers. Jesus argued that such texts taught the reality of life after death (cf. Mt 22:32). (9) ʿAm can represent the individuals who together form a familial (and covenantal) group within a larger group: "Zebulun and Naphtali were a people that jeoparded their lives unto the death in the high places of the field [on the battlefield]" (Judg 5:18). (9a) Some scholars have suggested that the reference here is to a fighting unit with the idea of blood relationship in the background. (9b) One must never forget, however, that among nomadic and semi-nomadic tribes there is no distinction between the concepts "militia" and "kinsmen": "And the Lord said unto Joshua, Fear not, neither be thou dismayed: take all the people of war with thee, and arise " (Josh 8:1). (9c) Compare Josh 8:5 where ʿam by itself means fighting unit: "And I, and all the people that are with me, will approach unto the city" (cf. Gen 32:7).

(10) ʿAm may signify the inhabitants of a city regardless of their familial or covenantal relationship; it is a territorial or political term: "And Boaz said unto the elders, and unto all the people, Ye are witnesses . . ." (Ruth 4:9). (11) This noun can be used of those who are privileged. In the phrase "people of the land" ʿam may signify those who have feudal rights, or those who may own land and are especially protected under the law: "And Abraham stood up, and bowed himself to the people of the land, even to the children of Heth" (Gen 23:7).

(12) This sense of a full citizen appears when the phrase is used of Israel, too (cf. 2 Kin 11:14ff.). (12a) In some contexts this phrase excludes those of high office such as the king, his ministers, and priests; "For, behold, I have made thee this day a defenced city, and an iron pillar, and brazen walls against the whole land, against the kings of Judah, against the princes thereof, against the priests thereof, and against the people of the land" (Jer 1:18). (12b) In Lev 4:27 this same phrase signifies the entire worshiping community of Israel: "And if any one of the common people [people of the land] sin through ignorance. . . ." (12c) The sense of privileged people with a proper relationship to and unique knowledge of God appears in Job 12:2: "No doubt but ye are the people, and wisdom shall die with you." (12d) Could it be that in Is 42:5 all mankind are conceived to be the privileged recipients of divine revelation and blessing: "Thus saith God the Lord, he that created the heavens, and stretched them out; he that spread forth the earth, and that which cometh out of it; he that giveth breath unto the people upon it, and spirit to them that walk therein."

(13) Finally, sometimes ʿam used of an entire nation has political and territorial overtones. As such it may be paralleled to the Hebrew word with such overtones (1471 - goy): "For thou art a holy people unto the Lord thy God, and the Lord hath chosen thee to be a peculiar people unto himself, above all the nations that are upon the earth" (Deut 14:2; cf. Ex 19:5–6). Syn.: 523, 1471. See: TWOT—1640a, 1640e; BDB—763c, 766b, 769b, 770c, 1107a.

(and then usually unrepresented in English):—{26x} = with, unto, by, as long, neither, from between, from among, to, unto. See: TWOT—1640b; BDB—763c, 765c, 767a, 769b, 1107a.

5975. עָמַד {521x} ʿâmad, aw-mad'; a prim. root; to stand, in various relations (lit. and fig., intr. and tran.):—stood {171x}, stand {137x}, (raise, stand . . .) up {42x}, set {32x}, stay {17x}, still {15x}, appointed {10x}, standing {10x}, endure {8x}, remain {8x}, present {7x}, continue {6x}, withstand {6x}, waited {5x}, establish {5x}, misc. {42x} = abide (behind), arise, cease, confirm, dwell, be employed, leave, make, ordain, be [over], place, raise up, repair, + serve, tarry.

ʿAmad means "to take one's stand; stand here or be there; stand still." (1) The basic meaning of this verb is "to stand upright." (1a) This is its meaning in Gen 18:8, its first biblical occurrence: "And he took butter, and milk, and the calf which he had dressed, and set it before them; and he stood by them under the tree, and they did eat." (1b) It is what a soldier does while on watch: "And the king said unto him, Turn aside, and stand here. And he turned aside, and stood still" (2 Sa 18:30). (2) From this basic meaning comes the meaning "to be established, immovable, and standing upright" on a single spot; (2a) the soles of the priests' feet "rested" (stood still, unmoving) in the waters of the Jordan (Josh 3:13). (2b) Also, the sun and the moon "stood still" at Joshua's command (Josh 10:13). (3) Idols "stand upright" in one spot, never moving. The suggestion here is that they never do anything that is expected of living things (Is 46:7).

(4) ʿAmad may be used of the existence of a particular experience. (4a) In 2 Sa 21:18 there "was" (1961 - hayah) war again, (4b) while in 1 Chr 20:4 war "existed" or "arose" (ʿamad) again. (5) Cultically (with reference to the formal worship activities) this verb is used of approaching the altar to make a sacrifice. (5a) It describes the last stage of this approaching, "to stand finally and officially" before the altar (before God; cf. Deut 4:11). (5b) Such standing is not just a standing still doing nothing but includes all that one does in ministering before God (Num 16:9). (6) In other contexts ʿamad is used as the opposite of verbs indicating various kinds of movement. (6a) The psalmist praises the man who does not walk (behave according to) in the counsel of the ungodly or "stand" (serve) in the path of the sinful (Ps 1:1). (6b) Laban told Abraham not "to stand" (remain stationary, not entering) outside his dwelling but to come in (Gen 24:31).

(7) The verb can suggest "immovable," or not being able to be moved. So the "house of the righteous shall stand" (Prov 12:7). (8) Yet another nuance appears in Ps 102:26, which teaches the indestructibility and/or eternity of God—the creation perishes but He "shalt endure [will ever stand]." (8a) This is not the changelessness of doing nothing or standing physically upright, (8b) but the changelessness of ever-existing being, a quality that only God has in Himself. (8c) All other existing depends upon Him; the creation and all creatures are perishable. (9) In a more limited sense the man who does not die as the result of a blow "stands," or remains alive (Ex 21:21). (10) In a military context "to stand" refers to gaining a victory: "Behold, two kings stood not before him: how then shall we stand?" (2 Kin 10:4; cf. Judg 2:14). (11) ʿAmad can be used of the ever unchanged content and/or existence of (11a) a document (Jer 32:14), (11b) a city (1 Kin 15:4), (11c) a people (Is 66:22), and (11d) a divine worship (Ps. 19:9).

(12) Using the causative aspect of the Hebrew verb, Jeroboam "ordained" (made to stand, to minister) priests in Bethel (1 Kin 12:32). (13) Certain prepositions sometimes give this verb special meanings. (13a) With "to" the verb can signify being in a certain place to accomplish a pre-designated task—(13a1) so Moses said that certain tribes should "stand upon mount Gerizim to bless the people" (Deut 27:12). (13a2) With this same preposition this verb can be used (13a2i) judicially of the act of being in court, or standing before a judge (1 Kin 3:16), and (13a2ii) the position (whether literal or figurative) assumed by a judge when pronouncing the sentence (Eze 44:24) or (13a2iii) delivering judgment (Is 3:13; cf. Ex 17:6). (13a3) With the preposition "before" ʿamad is used to describe the service of a servant before a master—so Joshua "stood" before Moses (Deut 1:38). This is not inactivity but activity. (14) In Neh 8:5 the verb means "to stand up or rise up"; when Ezra opened the book, all the people "stood up" (cf. Dan 12:13). Syn.: 4612, 4613, 5977, 5979, 5982. See: TWOT—1637; BDB—763c.

Judg 16:25). (2) It may occasionally refer to a "standing place": "And when she looked, behold, the king stood by a pillar, as the manner was, and the princes and the trumpeters by the king, and all the people of the land rejoiced," (2 Kin 11:14). 'Amal means labor; toil; anguish; troublesome work; trouble; misery, evil; trouble; misfortune; mischief; grievance; wickedness. (1) The Book of Ecclesiastes clearly represents this use: (1a) "Yea, I hated all my labor which I had taken under the sun" (Eccl 2:18). (1b) "And also that every man should eat and drink, and enjoy the good of all his labor" (Eccl 3:13). (1c) A related example appears in Ps 107:12: "Therefore he brought down their heart with labor; they fell down and there was none to help." (2) In general, 'amal refers either to the trouble and suffering which sin causes the sinner or to the trouble that he inflicts upon others. (2a) Jer 20:18 depicts self-inflicted sorrow: "Wherefore came I forth out of the womb to see labor ['amal] and sorrow [3015 - yagon], that my days should be consumed with shame?" (2b) Another instance is found in Deut 26:7: "And when we cried unto the Lord God of our fathers, the Lord heard our voice, and looked on our affliction [6040 - 'oni], and our labor ['amal], and our oppression [3906 - lachats]."

(3) Job 4:8 illustrates the sense of trouble as mischief inflicted on others: "They that plow iniquity [205 - 'awen], and sow wickedness ['amal] reap the same." (3a) The word appears in Ps 140:9: "As for the head of those that compass me about, let the mischief of their own lips cover them." (3b) Hab 1:3 also refers to the trouble inficted on others: "Why dost thou show me iniquity [205 - 'awen], and cause me to behold grievance ['amal]? For spoiling and violence are before me; and there are that raise up strife and contention." (4) The word means labor in the sense of toil or oppression, (4a) generally (Deut 26:7) or (4b) of Messiah (Is 53:11). (5) Something gained by toil or labor is 'amal (Ps 105:44). (6) 'Amal means troublesome work, emphasizing the difficulty involved in a task or work as troublesome and burdensome (Eccl 1:3). (7) It can ethically connote sin (Ps 7:14; cf. Job 4:8). See: TWOT—1639a; BDB—765d.

ʿAnah means "to respond, answer, reply." (1) ʿAnah means "to respond," but not necessarily with a verbal response. (1a) For example, in Gen 35:3 Jacob tells his household, "And let us arise, and go up to Bethel; and I will make there an altar unto God, who answered [ʿanah] me in the day of my distress." (1a1) In Gen 28:10ff., where this "answering" is recorded, it is quite clear that God initiated the encounter and that, although He spoke with Jacob, (1a2) the emphasis is on the vision of the ladder and the relationship with God that it represented. (1b) This meaning is even clearer in Ex 19:18, where we read that God reacted to the situation at Sinai with a sound (of thunder). (1c) A nonverbal reaction is also indicated in Deut 20:11. God tells Israel that before they besiege a city they should demand its surrender. Its inhabitants are to live as Israel's slaves "if it [the city] make thee answer of peace [literally, "responds peaceably"], and open unto thee." (1d) In Job 30:20, Job says he cried out to God, who did not "respond" to him (i.e., did not pay any attention to him). (1e) In Is 49:8 the Lord tells the Messiah, "In an acceptable time have I heard thee, and in a day of salvation have I helped thee." Here responding ("hearing") is synonymously parallel to helping—i.e., it is an action (cf. Ps 69:17; Is 41:17).

(2) A second major meaning of ʿanah is "to respond with words," as when one engages in dialogue. (2a) In Gen 18:27 (the first occurrence of ʿanah), we read: "Abraham answered and said" to the Lord, who had just spoken. (2a1) In this formula, the two verbs represent one idea (i.e., they form an hendiadys). (2a2) A simpler translation might be "respond," since God had asked no question and required no reply. (2b) On the other hand, when the sons of Heth "answer and say" (Gen 23:5), they are responding verbally to the implied inquiry made by Abraham (v. 4). Therefore, they really do answer. (3) ʿAnah may mean "respond" in the special sense of verbally reacting to a truth discovered: (3a) "Then answered the five men that went to spy out the country of Laish, and said . . ." (Judg 18:14). Since no inquiry was addressed to them, this word implies that they gave a report; they responded to what they had discovered. (3b) In Deut 21:7, the children of Israel are told how to respond to the rite of the heifer—viz., "They shall answer and say, Our hands have not shed this blood, neither have our eyes seen it."

(4) ʿAnah can also be used in the legal sense of "testify": "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor" (Ex 20:16). (4a) Or we read in Ex 23:2: "Thou shalt not follow a multitude to do evil." (4b) In a similar sense, Jacob proposed that Laban give him all the spotted and speckled sheep of the flock, so that "my righteousness [will] answer [i.e., testify] for me in time to come, when it shall come [to make an investigation] for my hire before thy face" (Gen 30:33). See: TWOT—1650, 1653; BDB—732d, 772c, 777a, 1107a. See also 1042, 1043.

6031. עָנָה {84x} ʿânâh, aw-naw'; a prim. root [possibly rather ident. with 6030 through the idea of looking down or browbeating]; to depress lit. or fig., tran. or intr. (in various applications, as follows):—afflict {50x}, humble {11x}, force {5x}, exercised {2x}, sing {2x}, Leannoth {1x}, troubled {1x}, weakened {1x}, misc. {11}.

ʿAnah, as a verb, means "to be afflicted, be bowed down, be humbled, be meek." (1) This word, common to both ancient and modern Hebrew, is the source of several important words in the history and experience of Judaism: "humble, meek, poor, and affliction." (2) It is found for the first time in Gen 15:13: "they shall afflict them four hundred years." (3) ʿAnah often expresses harsh and painful treatment. (3a) Sarai "dealt hardly" with Hagar (Gen 16:6). (3b) When Joseph was sold as a slave, his feet were hurt with fetters (Ps 105:18). (4) Frequently the verb expresses the idea that God sends affliction for disciplinary purposes: "the Lord thy God led thee these forty years in the wilderness, to humble thee, and to prove thee, to know what was in thine heart" (Deut 8:2; see also 1 Kin 11:39; Ps 90:15). (5) To take a woman sexually by force may be "to humble" her (Gen 34:2). (6) In the Day of Atonement observance, "to humble oneself" is probably connected with the requirement for fasting on that day (Lev 23:28–29). (7) ʿAnah means "to be exercised": "And I gave my heart to seek and search out by wisdom concerning all things that are done under heaven: this sore travail hath God given to the sons of man to be exercised therewith" (Eccl 1:13). See: TWOT—1651, 1652; BDB—775d, 776a, 1107c.

6032. עֲנָה {30x} ʿănâh (Aram.), an-aw'; corresp. to 6030:—answered {16x}, spake {14x}. See: TWOT—2918; BDB—1107a.

6033. עֲנָה {1x} ʿănâh (Aram.), an-aw'; corresp. to 6031:—poor {1x}. See: TWOT—2919a; BDB—1107c.

6034. עֲנָה {12x} ʿĂnâh, an-aw'; prob. from 6030; an answer; Anah, the name of two Edomites and one Edomitess:—Anah {12x}. See: BDB—777b.

6035. עָנָו {26x} ʿânâv, aw-nawv'; or [by intermixture with 6041]

עָנִיו ʿânâyv, aw-nawv'; from 6031; depressed (fig.), in mind (gentle) or circumstances (needy, espec. saintly):—meek {13x}, humble {5x}, poor {5x}, lowly {2x}, very meek {1x}.

ʿAnayv, as an adjective, means "humble; poor; meek." (1) This adjective, which appears about 21 times in biblical Hebrew, is closely related to ʿani (6041) and derived from the same verb. (1a) Sometimes this word is synonymous with ʿani. Perhaps this is due to the well-known waw-yodh interchange. (1b) ʿAnayv appears almost exclusively in poetical passages and describes the intended outcome of affliction from God, namely "humility." (2) In its first appearance the word depicts the objective condition as well as the subjective stance of Moses. He was entirely dependent on God and saw that he was: "Now the man Moses was very meek, above all the men which were upon the face of the earth" (Num 12:3). See: TWOT—1652a; BDB—776c, 1107c. comp. 6041.

6036. עָנוּב {1x} ʿÂnûwb, aw-noob'; pass. part. from the same as 6025; borne (as fruit); Anub, an Isr.:—Anub {1x}. See: BDB—772b.

6037. עַנְוָה {2x} ʿanvâh, an-vaw'; fem. of 6035; mildness (royal); also (concr.) oppressed:—gentleness {1x}, meekness {1x}.

This word occurs only 5 times, setting forth the two characteristics gained from affliction: "humility and gentleness." Applied to God, it represents His submission to His own nature: "And in thy majesty ride prosperously because of truth and meekness and righteousness; and thy right hand shall teach thee terrible things" (Ps 45:4). See: TWOT—1652b; BDB—776c.

6038. עֲנָוָה {5x} ʿănâvâh, an-aw-vaw'; from 6035; condescension, human and subj. (modesty), or divine and obj. (clemency):—humility {3x}, gentleness {1x}, meekness {1x}. See: TWOT—1652b; BDB—776c.

6039. עֲנוּת {1x} ʿênûwth, en-ooth'; from 6031; affliction:—affliction {1x}. See: TWOT—1652c; BDB—776d.

6040. עֳנִי {37x} ʿŏnîy, on-ee'; from 6031; depression, i.e. misery:—affliction {32x}, trouble {3x}, afflicted + 1121 {1x}, variant {1x}.

The noun ʿoniy, means "affliction." (1) ʿOniy represents the state of pain and/or punishment resulting from affliction. (2) In Deut 16:3 the shewbread is termed the bread of "affliction" because it is a physical reminder of (2a) sin, the cause of "affliction": "Look upon mine affliction and my pain; and forgive all my sins" (Ps 25:18), (2b) the hardship involved in sin (especially the Egyptian bondage), and (2c) divine deliverance from sin: "This is my comfort in my affliction: for thy word hath quickened me" (Ps 119:50). See: TWOT—1652e; BDB—777a.

6041. עָנִי {80x} ʿânîy, aw-nee'; from 6031; depressed, in mind or circumstances [practically the same as 6035, although the marg. constantly disputes this, making 6035

subj. and 6041 obj.]:—poor {58x}, afflicted {15x}, lowly {1x}, man {1x}, variant {3x}.

'Aniy, as a noun, means "poor; weak; afflicted; humble." (1) This noun is frequently used in synonymous parallelism with 'ebyon (34 - "needy") and/or dal (1802 - "poor"). (1a) It differs from both in emphasizing some kind of disability or distress. (1b) A hired servant as one who is in a lower (oppressive) social and material condition is described both as an 'ebyon and 'aniy: "Thou shalt not oppress a hired servant that is poor and needy, whether he be of thy brethren, or of thy strangers that are in thy land within thy gates: At his day thou shalt give him his hire, neither shall the sun go down upon it; for he is poor, and setteth his heart upon it: lest he cry against thee unto the Lord, and it be sin unto thee" (Deut 24:14–15). (1c) If wrongly oppressed, he can call on God for defense.

(2) Financially, the 'aniy lives from day to day and is socially defenseless, being subject to oppression. (2a) In its first biblical occurrence the 'aniy is guaranteed (if men obey God's law) his outer garment for warmth at night even though that garment might be held as collateral during the day: "If thou lend money to any of my people that is poor by thee, thou shall not be to him as a usurer, neither shalt thou lay upon him usury" (Ex 22:25). (2b) The godly protect and deliver the "afflicted" (Is 10:2; Eze 18:17), while the ungodly take advantage of them, increasing their oppressed condition: "Is it not to deal thy bread to the hungry, and that thou bring the poor that are cast out to thy house? when thou seest the naked, that thou cover him; and that thou hide not thyself from thine own flesh?" (Is 58:7). (2c) The king is especially charged to protect the 'aniy: "Open thy mouth, judge righteously, and plead the cause of the poor and needy" (Prov 31:9.)

(3) 'Aniy can refer to one who is physically oppressed: "Therefore hear now this, thou afflicted, and drunken, but not with wine" (Is 51:21). (4) Physical oppression is sometimes related to spiritual oppression as in Ps 22:24: "For he hath not despised nor abhorred the affliction of the afflicted; neither hath he hid his face from him." Outward affliction frequently leads to inner spiritual affliction and results in an outcry to God: "Turn thee unto me, and have mercy upon me; for I am desolate and afflicted" (Ps 25:16). (5) Even apart from outward affliction, the pious are frequently described as the "afflicted" or "poor" for whom God provides: "Thy congregation hath dwelt therein: thou, O God, hast prepared of thy goodness for the poor" (Ps 68:10). In such cases spiritual poverty and want are clearly in view. (6) Sometimes the word means "humble" or "lowly," as it does in Zec 9:9, where it describes the Messiah: "Behold, thy King cometh unto thee: he is just, and having salvation; lowly, and riding upon an ass" (cf. Ps 18:27; Prov 3:34; Is 66:2). See: TWOT—1652d; BDB—776c, 776d, 1107c.

(1) A mode of attempting to obtain information was by the examination of the clouds. (2) These observers are ranked with all the other intruders into unlawful pursuits in Deut 18:10, under the title of soothsayers. (3) They are called "sons of the sorceress" (Is 57:3) and are classed with the vile, the impure, and the idolater. (4) They are called enchanters (Jer 27:9). (5) They are also called "observers of times," persons who by examining the clouds profess to be able to tell at what exact crisis any event is to be expected to take place, and when a good opportunity arrives for doing a certain work (Lev 1:26; 2 Kin 21:6; 2 Chr 33:6). Syn.: 825, 826, 1505, 2267, 3858, 3907, 5172. See: TWOT—1655, 1656; BDB—778a, 1107c.

6050. עֲנַן {1x} ʿănan (Aram.), an-an'; corresp. to 6051:—cloud {1x}. See: TWOT—2921; BDB—1107c.

6051. עָנָן {81x} ʿânân, aw-nawn'; from 6049; a cloud (as covering the sky), i.e. the nimbus or thunder-cloud:—cloud {81x}, cloudy {6x}.

ʿAnan, means "cloud; fog; storm cloud; smoke." (1) The word commonly means "cloud mass." (1a) ʿAnan is used especially of the "cloud mass" that evidenced the special presence of God: "And the Lord went before them by day in a pillar of a cloud, to lead them the way" (Ex 13:21). (1b) In Ex 34:5, this presence is represented by ʿanan only: "And the Lord descended in the cloud, and stood with him [Moses] there, and proclaimed the name of the Lord." (2) When the ark of the covenant was brought into the holy place, "The cloud filled the house of the Lord, so that the priests could not stand to minister because of the cloud: for the glory of the Lord had filled the house of the Lord" (1 Kin 8:10–11). (2a) Thus the "cloud" evidenced the presence of God's glory. (2b) So the psalmist wrote that God was surrounded by "clouds and darkness" (Ps 97:2); hence, (2b) God appears as the controller and sovereign of nature. (3) The "cloud" is a sign and figure of "divine protection": "And the LORD will create upon every dwelling place of mount Zion, and upon her assemblies, a cloud and smoke by day, and the shining of a flaming fire by night: for upon all the glory shall be a defence" (Is 4:5), and (4) serves as a barrier hiding the fullness of divine holiness and glory, as well as barring sinful man's approach to God: "Thou hast covered thyself with a cloud, that our prayer should not pass through" (Lam 3:44). Man's relationship to God, therefore, is God-initiated and God-sustained, not humanly initiated or humanly sustained.

(5) In its first biblical occurrence, ʿanan is used in conjunction with God's sign that He would never again destroy the earth by a flood: "I do set my bow in the cloud, and it shall be for a token of a covenant between me and the earth" (Gen 9:13). (6) Elsewhere, the transitory quality of a cloud is used to symbolize (6a) the loyalty: "O Ephraim, what shall I do unto thee? O Judah, what shall I do unto thee? for your goodness is as a morning cloud, and as the early dew it goeth away" (Hos 6:4) and (6b) existence of Israel: "Therefore they shall be as the morning cloud, and as the early dew that passeth away, as the chaff that is driven with the whirlwind out of the floor, and as the smoke out of the chimney" (Hos 13:3).

(7) In Is 44:22, God says that after proper punishment He will wipe out, "as a thick cloud, thy transgressions, and, as a cloud, thy sins." (8) ʿAnan can mean "storm cloud" and is used (8a) to symbolize "an invading force": "Thou shalt ascend and come like a storm, thou shalt be like a cloud to cover the land, thou, and all thy bands, and many people with thee" (Eze 38:9; cf. Jer 4:13). (8b) In Job 26:8, the storm cloud is said to be God's: "He bindeth up the waters in his thick clouds; and the cloud is not rent under them." (8c) In several passages, the thick storm cloud and the darkness accompanying it are symbols of "gloom" (Eze 30:18) and/or "divine judgment" (Eze 30:3). (9) ʿAnan can represent the "smoke" arising from burning incense: "And he shall put the incense upon the fire before the Lord, that the cloud of the incense may cover the mercy seat that is upon the testimony, that he die not" (Lev 16:13). (9a) This "cloud of smoke" may represent the covering between God's presence (above the mercy seat) and sinful man. (9b) If so, it probably also symbolizes the "divine glory." (9c) On the other hand, many scholars feel it represents the human prayers offered up to God. See: TWOT—1655a; BDB—777d, 1107c.

6083. עָפָר {110x} ʿâphâr, aw-fawr'; from 6080; dust (as powdered or gray); hence, clay, earth, mud:—dust {93x}, earth {7x}, powder {3x}, rubbish {2x}, ashes {2x}, morter {2x}, ground {1x}.

'Apar means "dust; clods; plaster; ashes." (1) This noun represents the "porous loose earth on the ground," or "dust." (2) In its first biblical occurrence, 'apar appears to mean this porous loose earth: "And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life" (Gen 2:7). (3) In Gen 13:16, the word means the "fine particles of the soil": "And I will make thy [descendants] as the dust of the earth." (4) In the plural, the noun can mean "dust masses" or "clods" of earth: ". . . While as yet he had not made the earth, nor the fields, nor the highest part of the dust of the world" (Prov 8:26). (5) ʿApar can signify "dry crumbled mortar or plaster": "And he shall cause the house to be scraped within round about, and they shall pour out the dust that they scrape off without the city into an unclean place" (Lev 14:41). (6) In Lev 14:42, the word means "wet plaster": "And they shall take other stones, and put them in the place of those stones; and he shall take other mortar, and shall plaster the house." (7) ʿApar represents "finely ground material" in Deut 9:21: "And I took your sin, the calf which ye had made, and burnt it with fire, and stamped it, and ground it very small, even until it was as small as dust: and I cast the dust thereof into the brook that descended out of the mount."

(8) ʿApar can represent the "ashes" of something that has been burned: (8a) "And the king commanded Hilkiah the high priest, and the priests of the second order, and the keepers of the door, to bring forth out of the temple of the Lord all the vessels that were made for Baal, and for the grove, and for all the host of heaven: and he burned them [outside] Jerusalem . . . and carried the ashes of them unto Bethel" (2 Kin 23:4). (8a) In a similar use, the word represents the "ashes" of a burnt offering (Num 19:17). (9) The "rubble" of a destroyed city sometimes is called "dust": "And Ben-hadad sent unto him, and said, The gods do so unto me, and more also, if the dust of Samaria shall suffice for handfuls for all the people that follow me" (1 Kin 20:10). (10) In Gen 3:14 the serpent was cursed with "dust" as his perpetual food (cf. Is 65:25; Mic 7:17). (11) Another nuance arising from the characteristics of dust appears in Job 28:6, where the word parallels "stones." Here the word seems to represent "the ground": "The stones of it are the place of sapphires: and it hath dust of gold."

(12) ʿApar may be used as a symbol of a "large mass" or "superabundance" of something. This use, already cited (Gen 13:16), appears again in its fulfillment in Num 23:10: "Who can count the dust of Jacob, and the number of the fourth part of Israel?" (13) "Complete destruction" is represented by ʿapar in 2 Sa 22:43: "Then did I beat them as small as the dust of the earth: I did stamp them as the mire of the street." (14) In Ps 7:5, the word is used of "valuelessness" and "futility": "Let the enemy persecute my soul, and take it; yea, let him tread down my life upon the earth, and lay mine honor in the dust." (15) To experience defeat is "to lick the dust" (Ps 72:9), and (16) to be restored from defeat is "to shake oneself from the dust" (Is 52:2). (17) To throw "dust" ("dirt") at someone is a sign of shame and humiliation (2 Sa 16:13), (18) while mourning is expressed by various acts of self-abasement, which may include throwing "dust" or "dirt" on one's own head (Josh 7:6). (19) Abraham says he is but "dust and ashes," not really important (Gen 18:27). (20) In Job 7:21 and similar passages, ʿapar represents "the earth" of the grave: "For now shall I sleep in the dust; and thou shalt seek me in the morning, but I shall not be." (21) This word is also used as a simile for a "widely scattered army": "For the king of Syria had destroyed them, and had made them like the dust by threshing" (2 Kin 13:7). See: TWOT—1664a; BDB—779c.

עָפְרָה ʿAphrâh. See 1036.

6084. עָפְרָה {8x} ʿOphrâh, of-raw'; fem. of 6082; female fawn; Ophrah, the name of an Isr. and of two places in Pal.:—Ophrah {8x}. See: BDB—780b.

6085. עָפְרוֹן {14x} ʿEphrôwn, ef-rone'; from the same as 6081; fawn-like; Ephron, the name of a Canaanite and of two places in Pal.:—Ephron {13x}, Ephrain {1x}. See: BDB—780b.

עָפֶרֶת ʿôphereth. See 5777.

6086. עֵץ {328x} ʿêts, ates; from 6095; a tree (from its firmness); hence, wood (plur. sticks):—tree {162x}, wood {107x}, timber {23x}, stick {14x}, gallows {8x}, staff {4x}, stock {4x}, carpenter + 2796 {2x}, branches {1x}, helve {1x}, planks {1x}, stalks {1x}.

ʿEts means "tree; wood; timber; stick; stalk." (1) In its first biblical appearance ʿets is used as a collective noun representing all trees bearing fruit (Gen 1:11). (2) In Ex 9:25 the word means "tree" indiscriminately: ". . . And the hail smote every herb of the field, and brake every tree of the field." (3) God forbids Israel to destroy the orchards around besieged cities: "When thou shalt besiege a city a long time, in making war against it to take it, thou shalt not destroy the trees . . . : for thou mayest eat of them [literally, ". . . its tree or orchard . . . for you may eat from it . . ."]" (Deut 20:19). (4) This word may signify a single "tree," as it does in Gen 2:9: "The tree of life also in the midst of the garden, and the tree of knowledge of good and evil." (5) This word may be used of the genus "tree." So Is 41:19 lists the olive "tree" and the box "tree" in the midst of a long list of various species of trees. (6) ʿEts can mean "wood." Thus, Deut 16:21: "Thou shalt not plant thee a grove of any trees near unto the altar of the LORD thy God, which thou shalt make thee."

(7) This word can represent "wood" as a material from which things are constructed, as a raw material to be carved: "And in carving of timber, to work in all manner of workmanship" (Ex 31:5). (7a) Large unprocessed pieces of "wood or timber" are also signified by 'ets: "Go up to the mountain, and bring wood [timber], and build the house" (Hag 1:8). (7b) The end product of wood already processed and fashioned into something may be indicated by 'ets: "And upon whatsoever any of them, when they are dead, doth fall, it shall be unclean; whether it be any vessel of wood . . ." (Lev 11:32). (8) This word means "stick" or "piece of wood" in Eze 37:16: "Thou son of man, take thee one stick, and write upon it." (9) This may also refer to a "pole" or "gallows": "Within three days shall Pharaoh lift up thy head from off thee, and shall hang thee on a tree [gallows or pole]" (Gen 40:19).

(10) 'Ets once means "stalk": "But she had brought them up to the roof of the house, and hid them with the stalks of flax, which she had laid in order upon the roof" (Josh 2:6). Syn.: (A) 'Ayil (352) means "large, mighty tree." This word occurs 4 times and only in poetical passages. This does not mean a particular genus or species of tree but merely a large, mighty tree: "For they shall be ashamed of the oaks which ye have desired" (Is 1:29—the first biblical occurrence). (B) 'Elon (436) means "large tree." (B1) This noun is probably related to 'ayil (352), "large tree." 'Elon occurs 10 times and only in relation to places of worship. It may well be that these were all ancient cultic sites. (B2) The word does not represent a particular genus or species of tree but, like the noun to which it is related, simply a "big tree": "And Gaal spake again and said, See there come people down by the middle of the land, and another company come along by the plain of Meonenim" (Judg 9:37). (B3) Judg 9:6 speaks of the "plain ('elon) of the pillar" in Shechem where the men of Shechem and Beth-millo made Abimelech king." This is probably stressing a lone tree on a plain. See: TWOT—1670a; BDB—780c, 781c, 1082b.

6087. עָצַב {17x} ʿâtsab, aw-tsab'; a prim. root; prop. to carve, i.e. fabricate or fashion; hence, (in a bad sense) to worry, pain or anger:—grieve {10x}, displeased {1x}, hurt {1x}, made {1x}, sorry {1x}, vexed {1x}, worship {1x}, wrest {1x}.

In Jer 44:19 this word signifies the fashioning of cakes as images of the "the queen of heaven." See: TWOT—1666, 1667; BDB—780c, 781a, 1107d.

6088. עֲצַב {1x} ʿătsab (Aram.), ats-ab'; corresp. to 6087; to afflict:—lamentable {1x}. See: TWOT—2925; BDB—1107d.

The stress of this word is labor [see 6090, 6092]. Does this mean that worship is laborious? Scripture always teaches that true worship is not wearisome to the child of God whereas the worship of idols is hard labor without profit. Syn.: 205, 367, 457, 1534, 4656, 6089, 8251. (1) This word commonly represents a human bone as one of the constitutent parts of the human body: "Thou hast clothed me with skin and flesh, and hast fenced me with bones and sinews" (Job 10:11). (2) 'Etsem used with flesh (1320) can indicate a blood relationship: "And Laban said to him, Surely thou art my bone and my flesh. And he abode with him the space of a month" (Gen 29:14). (3) In Job 2:5, used with flesh (1320), 'etsem represents one's body: "But put forth thine hand now, and touch his bone and his flesh, and he will curse thee to thy face." (4) The plural form represents (4a) the seat of vigor or sensation: "His bones are full of the sin of his youth, which shall lie down with him in the dust" (Job 20:11; cf. 4:14), or (4b) one's whole being: "Have mercy upon me, O LORD; for I am weak: O LORD, heal me; for my bones are vexed" (Ps 6:2). (5) This word is frequently used for the bones of the dead (Num 19:16) or (6) human remains, including a mummified corpse (Gen 50:25). (7) 'Etsem sometimes represents animal bones (Ex 12:46). 'Ervah, as a noun, means "nakedness; indecent thing." (1) Thirty-two of the 54 occurrences of this noun are in the social laws of Lev 18, 20. (2) This word represents the male sexual organ. In its first biblical appearance 'ervah implies shameful exposure: "And Ham, the father of Canaan, saw the nakedness of his father. . . . And Shem and Japheth took a garment, and laid it upon both their shoulders, and went backward, and covered the nakedness of their father; and their faces were backward, and they saw not their father's nakedness" (Gen 9:22–23). (3) This word is often used of female nakedness (the uncovered sex organs) and (3a) is symbolical of shame. (3b) In Lam 1:8 plundered, devastated Jerusalem is pictured as a woman whose nakedness is exposed. (4) To uncover one's nakedness is a frequent euphemism for cohabitation: "None of you shall approach to any that is near of kin to him, to uncover their nakedness: I am the Lord" (Lev 18:6).

(5) The phrase "indecent thing" represents any uncleanness in a military camp or any violation of the laws of sexual abstinence—nocturnal emission not properly cleansed, sexual cohabitation and other laws of purity (for example, excrement buried in the camp): "For the Lord thy God walketh in the midst of thy camp, to deliver thee, and to give up thine enemies before thee; therefore shall thy camp be holy: that he see no unclean thing [literally, "a matter of an indecent thing"] in thee, and turn away from thee" (Deut 23:14). (6) In Deut 24:1 'ervah appears to bear this emphasis on any violation of the laws of purity—if a groom is dissatisfied with his bride "because he hath found some uncleanness in her," he may divorce her. Obviously this evidence is not of previous cohabitation, since such a sin merits death (Deut 22:13ff.).

(7) The "undefended parts" or "nakedness" of a land is represented by 'ervah in Gen 42:9: "Ye are spies; to see the nakedness of the land ye are come." Syn.: Other nouns related to this word appear less often. (A) Ma'ar (4626), which refers to "sexual nakedness," appears in a figurative sense in Nah 3:5: "Behold, I am against thee, saith the LORD of hosts; and I will discover thy skirts upon thy face, and I will shew the nations thy nakedness, and the kingdoms thy shame." (B) 'Erom (6174) appears as a noun abstract in several instances. This word represents the more general idea of being without clothes, with no necessary suggestion of shamefulness; it means the "state of being unclothed." In Eze 16:7, 39 the word ʿerom appears as "naked," but it can literally be translated as "nakedness" or one being in his "nakedness." (C) Taʿar (8593), which occurs 13 times, means "razor" (Num 6:5), a "knife" to sharpen scribal pens (Jer 36:23), or "sword sheath" (1 Sa 17:51). (D) Morah (4177) also means "razor" (1 Sa 1:11). ʿArak means "to arrange, set in order, compare." (1) The word is first found in the Old Testament in Gen 14:8: "They joined battle [literally, "they arranged," referring to opposing battle lines]. . . ." It is used in this way many times in the record of the battles of Israel. (2) A common word in everyday life, ʿarak often refers to "arranging" a table: "Prepare the table, watch in the watchtower, eat, drink: arise, ye princes, and anoint the shield" (Is 21:5; cf. Eze 23:41). (3) The word is used several times in the Book of Job with reference to "arranging" or "setting" words "in order," (3a) as in an argument or rebuttal (Job 32:14; 33:5; 37:19). (3b) In Job 13:18, Job declares: "Behold now, I have ordered my cause [literally, "I have set my judgment in order"]." (3c) "To arrange in order" makes it possible "to compare" one thing with another. (4) So, to show the superiority of God over the idols, the prophet asks: "To whom then will ye liken God? or what likeness will ye compare unto him?" ʿAsah means "to create, do, make." I. CREATION: (1) This verb, which occurs over 2,600 times in the Old Testament, is used as a synonym for "create" only about 60 times. (1a) There is nothing inherent in the word to indicate the nature of the creation involved; (1b) it is only when ʿasah is parallel to bara' that we can be sure that it implies creation. (1c) Because ʿasah describes the most common of human (and divine) activities, it is ill-suited to communicate theological meaning—except where it is used with bara' or other terms whose technical meanings are clearly established. (1d) The most instructive occurrences of ʿasah are in the early chapters of Genesis. (1d1) Gen 1:1 uses the verb bara' to introduce the Creation account, and Gen 1:7 speaks of its detailed execution: "And God made [ʿasah] the firmament. . . ." (1d2) Whether or not the firmament was made of existing material cannot be determined, since the passage uses only ʿasah. (1d3) But it is clear that the verb expresses creation, since it is used in that context and follows the technical word bara'. The same can be said of other verses in Genesis: 1:16 (the lights of heaven); 1:25, 3:1 (the animals); 1:31; 2:2 (all his work); and 6:6 (man). (1d4) In Gen 1:26–27, however, ʿasah must mean creation from nothing, since it is used as a synonym for bara'. The text reads, "Let us make [ʿasah] man in our image, after our likeness. . . . So God created [bara'] man in his own image." (1d5) Similarly, Gen 2:4 states: "These are the generations of the heavens and of the earth when they were created [bara'], in the day that the Lord God made [ʿasah] the earth and the heavens." (1d6) Finally, Gen 5:1 equates the two as follows: "In the day that God created [bara'] man, in the likeness of God made [ʿasah] he him." (1d7) The unusual juxtaposition of bara' and ʿasah in Gen 2:3 refers to the totality of creation, which God had "created" by "making." (2) It is unwarranted to overly refine the meaning of ʿasah to suggest that it means creation from something, as opposed to creation from nothing. (3) Only context can determine its special nuance. It can mean either, depending upon the situation.

II. GENERAL: ʿAshah means "to make, do, create." (1) In its primary sense this verb represents the production of various objects. (1a) This includes making images and idols: "Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image" (Ex 20:4). (1b) The verb can mean to make something into something: "And the residue thereof he maketh a god, even his graven image" (Is 44:17). (2) In an extended use this verb means to prepare a meal, a banquet, or even an offering: "And he [Abraham] took butter, and milk, and the calf which he had dressed, and set it before them [his three guests]" (Gen 18:8). (3) In Gen 12:5 ʿashah means "to acquire" (as it often does): "And Abram took Sarai his wife, and Lot his brother's son, and all their substance that they had gathered, and the souls that they had gotten in Haran. . . ." The "souls that they had gotten" probably were slaves. (4) Used in association with "Sabbath" or the name of other holy days, this word signifies "keeping" or "celebrating": "All the congregation of Israel shall keep it [the Passover]" (Ex 12:47).

(5) In a related sense the word means "to spend" a day: "For who knoweth what is good for man in this life, all the days of his vain life which he spendeth as a shadow?" (Eccl 6:12). (6) Depending upon its object, ʿashah has several other nuances within the general concept of producing some product. (6a) For example, with the object "book" the verb means "to write": "Of making many books there is no end" (Eccl 12:12). (6b) The Bible also uses this word of the process of war: "These made war with Bera king of Sodom" (Gen 14:2). (6c) Sometimes the word represents an action: "And Joshua made peace with them, and made a league with them . . ." (Josh 9:15). (6d) "To make a mourning" is to observe it: "And he [Joseph] made a mourning for his father seven days" (Gen 50:10). (6d) With "name" the verb means "to gain prominence and fame": "Go to, let us build us a city and a tower, whose top may reach unto heaven; and let us make us a name" (Gen 11:4). (6e) With the word "workmanship" the word signifies "to work": "And I have filled him with the spirit of God . . . , and in all manner of workmanship, . . . to work in gold, and in silver, and in brass" (Ex 31:3–4). (7) 'Ashah may represent the relationship of an individual to another in his action or behavior, in the sense of what one does. So Pharaoh asks Abram: "What is this that thou hast done unto me?" (Gen 12:18).

(8) Israel pledged: "All that the Lord hath said will we do, and be obedient" (Ex 24:7). (9) With the particle le the verb signifies inflicting upon another some act or behavior: "Then Abimelech called Abraham, and said unto him, What hast thou done unto us?" (Gen 20:9). (10) With the particle 'im the word may mean "to show," or "to practice" something toward someone. The emphasis here is on an ongoing mutual relationship between two parties obligating them to a reciprocal act: "O Lord God of my master Abraham, I pray thee, send me good speed this day, and show kindness unto my master Abraham" (Gen 24:12). (11) In Gen 26:29 'ashah appears twice in the sense "to practice toward": "That thou wilt do us no harm, as we have not touched thee, and as we have done unto thee nothing but good. . . ." (12) Used absolutely this verb sometimes means "to take action": "Let Pharaoh do this, and let him appoint officers over the land" (Gen 41:34). (12a) In the Hebrew 'ashah has no object in this passage—it is used absolutely. (12b) Used in this manner it may also signify "to be active": "She seeketh wool, and flax, and worketh willingly with her hands" (Prov 31:13). (13) In 1 Chr 28:10 the verb (used absolutely) means "to go to work," to go about doing a task: "Take heed now; for the Lord hath chosen thee to build a house for the sanctuary: be strong, and do it."

(14) This verb used of plants signifies "bringing forth." In Gen 1:11 it means "to bear" fruit: "And the fruit tree [bearing] fruit after his kind. . . ." (15) In another nuance this verb represents what a plant does in producing grain: "It hath no stalk: the bud shall yield no meal" (Hos 8:7). (16) The word signifies the production of branches, too: "It was planted in a good soil by great waters, that it might bring forth branches, and that it might bear fruit, that it might be a goodly vine" (Eze 17:8). (17) 'Ashah is used theologically of man's response to divine commands. (17a) God commanded Noah: "Make thee an ark of gopher wood" (Gen 6:14). (17b) Similarly Israel was commanded "to construct" a sanctuary for God (Ex 25:8). (18) The manipulation of the blood of the sacrifice is what the priest is to do (Lev 4:20). (19) The entire cultic [religious] activity is described by 'ashah: "As he hath done this day, so the Lord hath commanded to do" (Lev 8:34). (20) Thus in his acts a man demonstrates his inward commitment and, therefore, his relationship to God (Deut 4:13). (21) Doing God's commands brings life upon a man (Lev 18:5).

(22) This verb is also applied specifically to all aspects of divine acts and actions. (22a) In the general sense of His actions toward His people Israel, the word first occurs in Gen 12:2, where God promises "to make" Abram a great nation. (22b) 'Ashah is also the most general Old Testament expression for divine creating. Every aspect of this activity is described by this word: "For in six days the Lord made heaven and earth . . ." (Ex 20:11). This is its meaning in its first biblical occurrence: "And God made the firmament, and divided the waters which were under the firmament from the waters which were above the firmament . . ." (Gen 1:7). (23) This word is used of God's acts effecting the entire created world and individual men (Ex 20:6). (24) God's acts and words perfectly correspond, so that what He says He does, and what He does is what He has said (Gen 21:1; Ps 115:3). ʿEth means "time; period of time; appointed time; proper time; season." (1) Basically this noun connotes "time" conceived as an opportunity or season. (1a) First, the word signifies an appointed, fixed, and set time or period. This is what astrologers claimed to discern: "Then the king said to the wise men, which knew the times" (Est 1:13). (1b) God alone, however, knows and reveals such "appointed times": "In the time of their visitation they shall be cast down, saith the Lord" (Jer 8:12). (2) This noun also is used of the concept "proper or appropriate time." This nuance is applied to the "time" God has appointed for one to die: "Be not over much wicked, neither be thou foolish: why shouldest thou die before thy time?" (Eccl 7:17). (2a) It is used of the "appropriate or suitable time" for a given activity in life: "He hath made every thing beautiful in his time" (Eccl 3:11; cf. Ps 104:27). (2b) Finally, the "appropriate time" for divine judgment is represented by ʿeth: "It is time for thee, Lord, to work: for they have made void thy law" (Ps 119:126).

(3) A third use connotes "season," or a regular fixed period of time such as springtime: "And he said, I will certainly return unto thee according to the time of life; and, lo, Sarah thy wife shall have a son" (Gen 18:10). (3a) Similarly, the word is used of the rainy "season" (Ezra 10:13), (3b) the harvest "time" (Jer 50:16), (3c) the migratory "period" (Jer 8:7), and (3d) the mating "season" (Gen 31:10). (4) This noun also is applied to differing "extensions of time." In its first biblical appearance, for example, ʿeth represents the "time" (period of the day) when the sun is setting: "And the dove came in to him in the evening [literally, time of the evening]" (Gen 8:11). (5) The word is used of special occasions such as the birth of a child: "Therefore will he give them up, until the time that she which travaileth hath brought forth: then the remnant of his brethren shall return unto the children of Israel" (Mic 5:3) and (6) of periods during which certain conditions persist: "And let them judge the people at all seasons: and it shall be, that every great matter they shall bring unto thee, but every small matter they shall judge: so shall it be easier for thyself, and they shall bear the burden with thee" (Ex 18:22; cf. Dan 12:11). See: TWOT—1650b; BDB—773b, 800c.

Padah means "to redeem, ransom." (1) Padah indicates that some intervening or substitutionary action effects a release from an undesirable condition. (1a) In more secular contexts, it implies a payment of some sort. (1b) But 1 Sa 14:45 indicates that money is not intrinsic in the word; Saul is determined to execute Jonathan for his involuntary transgression, but ". . . the people rescued Jonathan, that he died not." (1c) Slavery appears as a condition from which one may be "ransomed" (Ex 21:8; Lev 19:20). (2) The word is connected with the laws of the firstborn. As a reminder of slaying all the Egyptian firstborn but sparing the Israelites, God retained an eternal claim on the life of all Israelite firstborn males, both of men and of cattle. The latter were often sacrificed, "but all the firstborn of my children I redeem" (Ex 13:15). (3) God accepted the separation of the tribe of Levi for liturgical service in lieu of all Israelite firstborn (Num 3:40ff.). However, the Israelite males still had to be "redeemed" (padah) from this service by payment of specified "redemption money" (Num 3:44–51).

(4) When God is the subject of padah, the word emphasizes His complete, sovereign freedom to liberate human beings. (5) Sometimes God is said to "redeem" (5a) individuals (Abraham, Is 29:22; David, 1 Kin 1:29; Ps 26:11; 21:5; 71:23); (5b) but usually Israel, the elect people, is the beneficiary. (5c) Sometimes the redemption or deliverance is proclaimed absolutely (2 Sa 7:23; Ps 44:26; Hos 7:13); but the subject is said to be "ransomed" from a specific oppression. (5d) At other times, the reference is less explicit—e.g., from "troubles" (Ps 25:22) and from "wicked" men (Jer 15:21). (6) Only once is padah used to describe liberation from sin or iniquity: "And he shall redeem Israel from all his iniquity" (Ps 130:8). Syn.: 1350, 1353, 3722, 6304. Syn.: 1350, 3724. See: TWOT—1734; BDB—804a, 804b.

The noun related to padah (6299) is peduth. It occurs about 5 times and means "ransom or redemption": "He sent redemption unto his people: he hath commanded his covenant for ever" (Ps 111:9). See: TWOT—1734b; BDB—804b.

35:30); (4g) in Jer. 36:4 "from the mouth of Jeremiah" means "by dictation."

(5) This word can also stand for utterance or order (Gen 41:40). (6) Peh used with various prepositions has special meanings. (6a) Used with ke, it means (6a1) "according to" (Num 7:5), or (6a2) "in proportion to" (Lev 25:52), or (6a3) "as much as" (Ex 16:21). (7) When the word is preceded by le, it means (7a) "in proportion to" (Lev 25:51), (7b) "according to" (Jer 29:10). (8) With 'al the word also means "according to" or "in proportion to" (cf. Lev 27:18). (9) The phrase pi shenayim (literally, "two mouths") has two different meanings. (9a) In Deut 21:17 it means "double portion" (two parts); and (9b) in Zec 13:8 it means "two thirds." 6419. פָּלַל {84x} pâlal, paw-lal'; a prim. root; to judge (officially or mentally); by extens. to intercede, pray:—pray {74x}, made {3x}, judge {2x}, intreat {1x}, judgment {1x}, prayer {1x}, supplication {1x}, thought {1x}.

Palal, as a verb, means "to pray, intervene, mediate, judge." (1) The word is used 4 times in the intensive verbal form; the remaining 80 times are found in the reflexive or reciprocal form, in which the action generally points back to the subject. (1a) In the intensive form palal expresses the idea of "to mediate, to come between two parties," always between human beings. (1b) Thus, "If one man sins against another, the judge shall judge him: but if a man sins against the LORD, who shall intreat for him?" (1 Sa 2:25). (1c) "To mediate" requires "making a judgment," as in Eze 16:52: "Thou also, which hast judged thy sisters. . . ." (1d) In the remaining 2 references in which the intensive form is used, palal expresses (1d1) "having thought" in Gen 48:11: "And Israel said unto Joseph, I had not thought [palal] to see thy face: and, lo, God hath shewed me also thy seed." and (1d2) "coming between/executing judgment for another" in Ps 106:30: "Then stood up Phinehas, and executed judgment [palal]: and so the plague was stayed."

(2) The reflexive/reciprocal form: The first occurrence of palal in the Old Testament is in Gen 20:7, where the reflexive or reciprocal form of the verb expresses the idea of "interceding for, prayer in behalf of": "He shall pray for thee. . . ." Such intercessory praying is frequent in the Old Testament: (2a) Moses "prays" for the people's deliverance from the fiery serpents (Num 21:7); (2b) he "prays" for Aaron (Deut 9:20); and (2c) Samuel "intercedes" continually for Israel (1 Sa 12:23). (3) Prayer is directed not only toward Yahweh but toward pagan idols as well (Is 44:17). (4) Sometimes prayer is made to Yahweh that He would act against an enemy: "That which thou hast prayed to me against Sennacherib king of Assyria I have heard" (2 Kin 19:20). (5) Just why this verb form is used to express the act of praying is not completely clear. (5a) Since this verb form points back to the subject, in a reflexive sense, perhaps it emphasizes the part which the person praying has in his prayers. (5b) Also, since the verb form can have a reciprocal meaning between subject and object, it may emphasize the fact that prayer is basically communication, which always has to be two-way in order to be real. (6) Prayer is directed also toward pagan idols (Is 44:17). Panah, as a verb, means "to turn towards, turn back, turn around, attach to, pass away, make clear." (1) Most occurrences of this verb carry the sense "to turn in another direction"; this is a verb of either physical or mental motion. (1a) Used of physical motion, the word signifies turning so as to move in another direction: "Ye have compassed this mountain long enough: turn you northward" (Deut 2:3). (1b) Panah can also mean to turn so as to face or look at something or someone: "And it came to pass, as Aaron spake unto the whole congregation of the children of Israel, that they looked toward the wilderness" (Ex 16:10). (2) "Turning toward" something may also signify looking at, or seeing it: "Remember thy servants, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; look not unto [do not see] the stubbornness of this people, nor to their wickedness, nor to their sin" (Deut 9:27). (3) A further extension in meaning is seen in Hag 1:9, where panah means "to look for," or to expect: "Ye looked for much, and, lo, it came to little." (4) Another focus of meaning is "to turn back" so as to see. This is found in Josh 8:20: "And when the men of Ai looked behind them, they saw, and, behold, the smoke of the city ascended up to heaven, and they had no power to flee this way or that way: and the people that fled to the wilderness turned back upon the pursuers."

(5) In other passages the verb means "to turn around," in the sense of to look in every direction. So Moses "looked this way and that way, and when he saw there was no man, he slew the Egyptian, and hid him in the sand" (Ex 2:12). (6) In the sense of "to turn around" panah is used of changing one's direction so as to leave the scene. So "the men turned their faces from thence, and went toward Sodom" (Gen 18:22—the first biblical occurrence of the verb). (7) Used of intellectual and spiritual turning, this verb signifies attaching oneself to something. God commanded Israel: "Turn ye not unto idols, nor make to yourselves molten gods" (Lev 19:4); they should not shift their attention to and attach themselves to idols. In an even stronger use this verb represents dependence on someone: "Which bringeth their iniquity to remembrance, when they shall look after [depend on] them . . ." (Eze 29:16). (8) "To turn towards" sometimes means to pay attention to someone. Job tells his friends: "Now . . . look upon me; for it is evident unto you if I lie" (Job 6:28).

(9) In a still different emphasis the word connotes the "passing away" of something, such as the turning away of a day: "And Isaac went out to meditate in the field at the eventide"—he went out "at the turning of the evening" (Gen 24:63). (9a) Similarly the Bible speaks of the dawn as the "turning of the morning" (Ex 14:27). (9b) The "turning of the day" is the end of the day (Jer 6:4). (10) Used in a military context, panah can signify giving up fighting or fleeing before one's enemies. Because of Achan's sin the Lord was not with Israel at the battle of Ai: "Therefore the children of Israel could not stand before their enemies, but turned their backs before their enemies, because they were accursed" (Josh 7:12). (11) In the intensive stem the verb means "to remove," to take away: "The Lord hath taken away thy judgments, he hath cast out thine enemy" (Zeph 3:15). (12) "To clear a house" (to set things in order) is often the means by which conditions are prepared for guests: "Come in, thou blessed of the Lord; wherefore standest thou without? for I have prepared the house" (Gen 24:31). (13) Another nuance is "to prepare" a road for a victory march; Isaiah says: "Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make straight in the desert a highway for our God" (Is 40:3; cf. Mt 3:3). See: TWOT—1782; BDB—806d, 815a.

Pinnah, as a noun, means "corner." (1) The word refers to "corners" in Ex 27:2: "And thou shalt make the horns of it upon the four corners thereof." (2) In 2 Kin 14:13 the word refers to a corner-tower, and (3) in Judg 20:2 pinnah is used figuratively of a "chief" as the "corner" or defense of the people. See: TWOT—1783a; BDB—806d, 819c.

6440. פָּנִים {2109x} pânîym, paw-neem'; plur. (but always as sing.) of an unused noun.

Paniym means "face." (1) This noun appears in biblical Hebrew about 2,100 times and in all periods, except when it occurs with the names of persons and places, it always appears in the plural. (2) In its most basic meaning, this noun refers to the "face" of something. (2a) First, it refers to the "face" of a human being: "And Abram fell on his face: and God talked with him" (Gen 17:3). (2b) In a more specific application, the word represents the look on one's face, or one's "countenance": "And Cain was very [angry], and his countenance fell" (Gen 4:5). (3) To pay something to someone's "face" is to pay it to him personally (Deut 7:10); in such contexts, the word connotes the person himself. (4) Paniym can also be used of the surface or visible side of a thing, as in Gen 1:2: "The Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters." (5) In other contexts, the word represents the "front side" of something: "And thou shalt couple five curtains by themselves, and six curtains by themselves and shalt double the sixth curtain in the forefront of the tabernacle" (Ex 26:9).

(6) When applied to time, the word (preceded by the preposition le) means "formerly": "The Horim also dwelt in Seir [formerly] . . . (Deut 2:12). (7) This noun is sometimes used anthropomorphically of God; the Bible speaks of God as though He had a "face": "For therefore I have seen thy face, as though I had seen the face of God" (Gen 33:10). (7a) The Bible clearly teaches that God is a spiritual being and ought not to be depicted by an image or any likeness whatever (Ex 20:4). (7b) Therefore, there was no image or likeness of God in the innermost sanctuary—only the ark of the covenant was there, and God spoke from above it (Ex 25:22). (8) The word paniym, then, is used to identify the bread that was kept in the holy place, "the shewbread" (Num 4:7). This bread was always kept in the presence of God. Syn.: 977, 5375, 7521. See: TWOT—1782a; BDB—542b, 815d, 819d, 819c.

Peniymah, as an adverb, means "within." One appearance is in 1 Kin 6:18: "And the cedar of the house within was carved with knobs and open flowers." Here the word refers to the inside of the house. See: TWOT—1782c; BDB—542b, 819b.

Pa'al means "to do, work." (1) Found only 56 times in the Hebrew Old Testament, (1a) it is used primarily as a poetic synonym for the much more common verb 'ashah (6213), "to do, to make." (1b) Thus, almost half the occurrences of this verb are in the Book of Psalms. (2) Pa'al is used for the first time in the Old Testament in the Song of Moses: "The place, O Lord, which thou hast made for thee to dwell in . . ." (Ex 15:17). (3) There is no distinction in the use of this verb, whether God or man is its subject. In Ps 15:2 man is the subject: "He that walketh uprightly and worketh righteousness, and speaketh the truth in his heart." Syn.: 6213. See: TWOT—1792; BDB—821b.

פַּעֲמָה paʿămâh, pah-am-aw'; from 6470; a stroke, lit. or fig. (in various applications, as follow):— . . . time {58x}, once {14x}, now {7x}, feet {6x}, twice {5x}, thrice + 7969 {4x}, steps {4x}, corners {3x}, ranks {2x}, oftentimes {2x}, misc. {7x}= hoofbeats, pedestal, stroke, anvil.

I. Pa'am, as a noun, means "step; foot; hoofbeats; pedestal; stroke; anvil." (1) The nuances of this word are related to the basic meaning "a human foot." The psalmist uses this meaning in Ps 58:10: "The righteous shall rejoice when he seeth the vengeance: he shall wash his feet in the blood of the wicked." (2) In Ex 25:12 the word is applied to the "pedestals or feet" of the ark of the covenant: "And thou shalt cast four rings of gold for it, and put them in the four [feet] thereof; and two rings shall be in the one side of it, and two rings in the other side of it." (3) Elsewhere the word signifies the "steps" one takes, or "footsteps": "Hold up my goings in thy paths, that my footsteps slip not" (Ps 17:5). (4) Judg 5:28 applies the word to the "steps" of a galloping horse, or its hoofbeats. (5) This focus on the falling of a foot once is extended to the "stroke" of a spear: "Then said Abishai to David, God hath delivered thine enemy into thine hand this day: now therefore let me smite him, I pray thee, with the spear even to the earth at once, and I will not smite him the second time" (1 Sa 26:8). (6) Finally, pa'am represents a foot-shaped object, an "anvil" (Is 41:7).

II. Pa'am as an adverb, means "once; now; anymore." (1) This word functions as an adverb with the focus on an occurrence or time. (2) In Ex 10:17 the word bears this emphasis: "Now therefore forgive, I pray thee, my sin only this once, and entreat the Lord your God. . . ." (3) The first biblical appearance of the word focuses on the finality, the absoluteness, of an event: "This is now bone of my bones" (Gen 2:23). (4) The thrust of this meaning appears clearly in the translation of Gen 18:32—Abraham said to God: "Oh, let not the Lord be angry, and I will speak yet but this once [only one more time]." See: TWOT—1793a; BDB—821d.

Paqad means to number, visit, be concerned with, look after, make a search for, punish. (1) The first occurrence is in Gen 21:1 (1a) ("The Lord visited Sarah") in the special sense of "to intervene on behalf of," so as to demonstrate the divine intervention in the normal course of events to bring about or fulfill a divine intent. (1b) Often this intervention is by miraculous means. (2) The verb is used in an expression which is unique to Hebrew and which shows great intensity of meaning. (2a) Such an occurrence appears in Ex 3:16ff. (2b) in which it is used twice in two different grammatical forms to portray the intensity of the action; the text reads (literally): "Looking after, I have surely visited". (2c) The usage refers to God's intervention in His saving the children of Israel from their bondage in Egypt.

(3) The same verb in a similar expression can also be used for divine intervention for punishment: "Shall I not visit them for these things?" (Jer 9:9), which means literally: "Shall I not punish them for these things?" (4) Hebrew usage also allows a use which applies to the speaker in a nearly passive sense. (4a) This is termed the reflexive, since it turns back upon the speaker. (4b) Paqad is used in such a sense meaning "be missed, be lacking," as in 1 Sa 25:7: "Neither was there aught missing." (5) However, the most common usage of the verb in the whole of the Old Testament is in the sense of "drawing up, mustering, or numbering," as of troops for marching or battle (Ex 30:12 and very frequently in Num; less so in 1 and 2 Samuel). Syn.: 502, 7101, 7218, 7336. See: TWOT—1802; BDB—823a, 824b.

Paqiyd, as a noun, means "one who looks after." (1) This noun, derived from paqad (6485) in the sense "to number, muster, draw up (troops)," possibly means "one who draws up troops," hence "officer" (2 Chr 24:11). (2) Another example of this meaning occurs in Jer 20:1: "Now Pashur the son of Immer the priest, who was also chief governor in the house of the Lord. . . ." Par*, the masculine noun, means "bullock." (1) Par means "young bull," which is the significance in its first biblical appearance (Gen 32:15), which tells us that among the gifts Jacob sent to placate Esau were "ten bulls." (2) In Ps 22:12, the word is used to describe "fierce, strong enemies": "Many bulls have compassed me: strong bulls of Bashan have beset me round." (3) When God threatens the nations with judgment in Is 34:7, He describes their princes and warriors as "young bulls," which He will slaughter (cf. Jer 50:27; Eze 39:18). (4) Parah*, the feminine form of par, is used disdainfully of women in Amos 4:1: "Hear this word, you kine of Bashan. . . ." See: TWOT—1831a; BDB—825a, 830d.

Parad (6504) means "to divide, separate." (1) Parad occurs for the first time in the text in Gen 2:10: "And a river went out of Eden . . . and from thence it was parted, and became into four heads." The meaning here must be "dividing into four branches." (2) This word often expresses separation of people from each other, sometimes with hostility: "Separate thyself . . . from me . . ." (Gen 13:9). (3) A reciprocal separation seems to be implied in the birth of Jacob and Esau: "Two nations are in thy womb, and two manner of people shall be separated from thy bowels" (Gen 25:23). (4) Sometimes economic status brings about separation: "The poor is separated from his neighbor" (Prov 19:4). (5) Generally speaking, parad has more negative than positive connotations. Syn.: 5139, 5144. See: TWOT—1806; BDB—825b.

Periy, as a noun, means "fruit; reward; price; earnings; product; result." (1) First, periy represents the mature edible product of a plant, which is its "fruit." (1a) This broad meaning is evident in Deut 7:13: "He will also bless the fruit of thy womb, and the fruit of thy land, thy corn, and thy wine, and thine oil, the increase of thy kine and the flocks of thy sheep." (1b) In its first biblical appearance, the word is used to signify both "trees" and the "fruit" of trees: "And God said, Let the earth bring forth grass, the herb yielding seed, and the fruit tree yielding fruit after his kind" (Gen 1:11). (1c) In Ps 107:34, the word is used as a modifier of land. The resulting term is "a fruitful land" in the sense of a "land of fruit." (2) Second, periy means "offspring," or the "fruit of a womb." (2a) In Deut 7:13, the word represents "human offspring," but it can also be used (2b) of animal "offspring" (Gen 1:22).

(3) Third, the "product" or "result" of an action is, in poetry, sometimes called its "fruit": (3a) "A man shall say, Verily there is a reward [periy] for the righteous: verily he is a God that judgeth in the earth" (Ps 58:11). (3b) Is 27:9 speaks of "all the fruit to take away his sin"), i.e., the result of God's purifying acts toward Israel. (3c) The wise woman buys and plants a field with her earnings or the "fruit of her hands" (Prov 31:16). In other words, she is to be rewarded by receiving the "product" of her hands (Prov 31:31). (3d) The righteous will be rewarded "I the LORD search the heart, I try the reins, even to give every man according to his ways, and according to the fruit of his doings" (Jer 17:10; cf. 21:14). Paras, as a verb, means "to spread out, scatter, display." (1) It is found for the first time in Ex 9:29: "I will spread abroad my hands unto the Lord." Such stretching of the hands probably reflected the characteristic posture of prayer in the Bible (cf. Ps 143:6; Is 1:15). (2) Paras sometimes expresses the "spreading out" of a garment to its widest extent (Judg 8:25). (3) It is commonly used of wings' "being spread," opened fully (Deut 32:11; 1 Kin 6:27). (4) "To spread out" a net is to set a snare or trap (Hos 7:12). (5) Sometimes "to spread out" is "to display": "A fool layeth open his folly" (Prov 13:16). (6) "To spread" may mean "to cover over" and thus to hide from vision: "And the woman took and spread a covering over the well's mouth, and spread ground corn thereon; and the thing was not known" (2 Sa 17:19). (7) In some instances, "to spread" may have a more violent meaning of "to scatter": "They that remain shall be scattered toward all winds" (Eze 17:21). Pasha' means to transgress, rebel. (1) The basic sense of pasha' is to rebel with one of two rebellion's stages in focus: (1a) a goal of independence (2 Kin 1:1), and (1b) the state of independence itself (2 Kin 8:20). (2) A more radical meaning is the state of rebellion in which there is no end of the rebellion in view; it is no longer goal-oriented (1 Kin 12:19). (3) When the act is committed against the Lord it is usually translated "transgress" (Hos 7:13; Is 66:24) and is an expression of an apostate way of life (Is 59:13). See: TWOT—1846; BDB—833b.

Pesha', as a noun, means "transgression; guilt; punishment; offering." (1) Basically, this noun signifies willful deviation from, and therefore rebellion against, the path of godly living. (2) This emphasis is especially prominent in Amos 2:4: "For three transgressions of Judah, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because they have despised the law of the Lord, and have not kept his commandments, and their lies caused them to err, after the which their fathers have walked." Such a willful rebellion from a prescribed or agreed-upon path may be perpetrated against another man: (3) "Jacob answered and said to Laban, What is my trespass? what is my sin, that thou hast so hotly pursued after me?" (Gen 31:36—the first occurrence of the word). Jacob is asking what he has done by way of violating or not keeping his responsibility (contract) with Laban.

(4) A nation can sin in this sense against another nation: "For three transgressions of Damascus, and for four . . . because they have threshed Gilead with threshing instruments of iron" (Amos 1:3). (5) Usually, however, pesha' has immediate reference to one's relationship to God. (6) This word sometimes represents the guilt of such a transgression: "I am clean, without [guilt of] transgression, I am innocent; neither is there iniquity in me" (Job 33:9). (7) Pesha' can signify the punishment for transgression: (7a) "And a host was given him against the daily sacrifice by reason of transgression" (Dan 8:12); (7b) "How long shall be the vision concerning the daily sacrifice, and [punishment for] the transgression of desolation, to give both the sanctuary and the host to be trodden under foot?" (Dan 8:13). (8) Finally, in Mic 6:7 pesha' signifies an offering for "transgression": "Shall I give my first-born for my transgression?"

Pathach, as a verb, means "to open." (1) The first occurrence is in Gen 7:11: "In the six hundredth year of Noah's life, in the second month, the seventeenth day of the month, the same day were all the fountains of the great deep broken up, and the windows of heaven were opened." (2) Although the basic meaning of pathach is "to open," the word is extended to mean "to cause to flow," "to offer for sale," "to conquer," "to surrender," "to draw a sword," "to solve [a riddle]," "to free." (3) In association with min, the word becomes "to deprive of." See: TWOT—1854, 1855; BDB—834d, 836b, 1109b.

6606. פְּתַח {2x} p'thach (Aram.), peth-akh'; corresp. to 6605; to open:—open {2x}. See: TWOT—2951; BDB—1109b.

6607. פֶּתַח {163x} pethach, peh'-thakh; from 6605; an opening (lit.), i.e. door (gate) or entrance way:—door {126x}, entering {10x}, entry {8x}, gate {7x}, in {7x}, entrance {3x}, openings {1x}, place {1x}.

Pethach, as a noun, means "doorway; opening; entrance; gate." (1) Pethach basically represents the "opening through which one enters a building, tent, tower (fortress), or city." (1a) Abraham was sitting at the "doorway" of his tent in the heat of the day when his three heavenly visitors appeared (Gen 18:1). (1b) Lot met the men of Sodom at the "doorway" of his home, having shut the door behind him (Gen 19:6). (2) Larger buildings had larger entryways, so in Gen 43:19 pethach may be rendered by the more general word, "entrance." (3) In Gen 38:14, pethach may be translated "gateway": Tamar "sat in the open place." (4) Thus a pethach was both a place to sit (a location) and an opening for entry (a passageway): "And the incense altar, and his staves, and the anointing oil, and the sweet incense, and the hanging for the door at the entering in of the tabernacle . . ." (Ex 35:15). (5) There are a few notable special uses of pethach. (5a) The word normally refers to a part of the intended construction plans of a dwelling, housing, or building; (5a) but in Eze 8:8 it represents an "entrance" not included in the original design of the building: "When I had digged in the wall, behold a door." (5b) This is clearly not a doorway.

(6) This word may be used of a cave's "opening," as when Elijah heard the gentle blowing that signified the end of a violent natural phenomenon: "He wrapped his face in his mantle, and went out, and stood in the entering in of the cave" (1 Kin 19:13). (7) In the plural form, pethach sometimes (7a) represents the "city gates" themselves: "And her [Zion's] gates shall lament and mourn" (Is 3:26). (7b) This form of the word is used as a figure for one's lips; in Mic 7:5, for example, the prophet mourns the low morality of his people and advises his hearers to trust no one, telling them to guard their lips (literally, the "openings" of their mouths). (8) In its first biblical occurrence, pethach is used figuratively. The heart of men is depicted as a house or building with the devil crouching at the "entrance," ready to subdue it utterly and destroy its occupant (Gen 4:7). See: TWOT—1854a; BDB—835d.

Ts'own means flock; small cattle; sheep; goats. (1) The primary meaning of ts'own is small cattle, to be distinguished from baqar (1241 - herd). (2) The word may refer to (2a) sheep only (1 Sa 25:2), or (2b) to both sheep and goats (Gen 30:33). (3) The flock was important economically with the animals being (3a) eaten (1 Sa 14:32; Ps 44:11), (3b) shorn for their wool (Gen 31:19), (3c) milked (Deut 32:14), and offered as a sacrifice (Gen 4:4). (4) Metaphorically, it applies to people (Eze 36:38) with God viewed as the shepherd (Ps 100:3; Ps 23; 79:13; Mic 7:14). (5) God's people are considered as (5a) sheep for the slaughter (Ps 44:22); (5b) a flock without a shepherd (1 Kin 22:17; Zec 10:2; 13:7); (5c) guided astray by their shepherds, or leaders (Jer 50:6); (5d) individually going astray (Is 53:6); and (5e) prophetically promised to be regathered (5e1) under Messiah (Jer 23:3) (5e2) as Israel's Shepherd (Eze 34:23-24). Tsaba', as a verb, means "to wage war, to muster an army, to serve in worship." (1) Tsaba' means "to wage war" in Num 31:7: "And they warred against the Midianites, as the Lord commanded Moses." (2) The word is used in 2 Kin 25:19 to refer to "mustering an army." (3) Another sense of tsaba' appears in Num. 4:23 with the meaning of "serving in worship": ". . . all that enter in to perform the service, to do the work in the tabernacle of the congregation." See: TWOT—1865; BDB—838c, 1109b.

Tsaba', as a noun, means "host; military service; war; army; service; labor; forced labor; conflict." (1) This word involves several interrelated ideas: a group; impetus; difficulty; and force. (1a) These ideas undergird the general concept of "service" which one does for or under a superior rather than for himself. (1b) Tsaba' is usually applied to "military service" but is sometimes used of "work" in general (under or for a superior). (1c) In Num 1:2–3 the word means "military service": "Take ye the sum of all the congregation of the children of Israel . . . from twenty years old and upward, all that are able to go forth to war in Israel." (1d) The idea is more concrete in Josh 22:12, where the word represents serving in a military campaign: "And when the children of Israel heard of it, the whole congregation of the children of Israel gathered themselves together at Shiloh, to go to war against them." (1e) Num 31:14 uses tsaba' of the actual battling itself: "And Moses was wroth with the officers of the host [army], . . . which came from the battle."

(2) The word can also represent an "army host": (2a) "And Eleazer the priest said unto the men of war which went to the battle . . ." (Num 31:21). (2b) Even clearer is Num 31:48: "And the officers which were over thousands of the host, the captains of thousands, and captains of hundreds, came near unto Moses." (2c) This meaning first appears in Gen 21:22, which mentions Phichol, the captain of Abimelech's "army." (3) At several points this is the meaning of the feminine plural: "And it shall be, when the officers have made an end of speaking unto the people, that they shall make captains of the armies to lead the people" (Deut 20:9). (4) In Num 1, 2, and 10, where tsaba' occurs with regard to a census of Israel, it is suggested that this was a military census by which God organized His "army" to march through the wilderness. (4a) Some scholars have noted that the plan of the march, or the positioning of the tribes, recalls the way ancient armies were positioned during military campaigns. (4b) On the other hand, groupings of people might be indicated regardless of military implications, as seems to be the case in passages such as Ex 6:26: "These are that Aaron and Moses, to whom the Lord said, Bring out the children of Israel from the land of Egypt according to their armies."

(5) That tsaba' can refer to a "nonmilitary host" is especially clear in Ps 68:11: "The Lord gave the word: great was the company of those that published it." (6) The phrase "hosts of heaven" signifies the stars as visual indications of the gods of the heathen: (6a) "And them that worship the host of heaven upon the housetops; and them that worship and that swear by the Lord, and that swear by Malcham . . ." (Zeph 1:5). (6b) This meaning first appears in Deut 4:19: "And lest thou lift up thine eyes unto heaven, and when thou seest the sun, and the moon, and the stars, even all the host of heaven, shouldest be driven to worship them, and serve them, which the LORD thy God hath divided unto all nations under the whole heaven."

(7) Sometimes this phrase refers to the "host of heaven," or the angels: "And [Micaiah] said, Hear thou therefore the word of the Lord: I saw the Lord sitting on his throne, and all the host of heaven [the angels] standing by him on his right hand and on his left" (1 Kin 22:19). (7a) God Himself is the commander of this "host" (Dan 8:10–11). (7b) In Josh 6:14 the commander of the "host" of God confronted Joshua. (7c) This heavenly "host" not only worships God but serves to do all His will: "Bless ye the Lord, all ye his hosts; ye ministers of his, that do his pleasure" (Ps 103:21). (7d) Another meaning of the phrase "the host(s) of heaven" is simply "the numberless stars": "As the host of heaven cannot be numbered, neither the sand of the sea measured: so will I multiply the seed of David my servant, and the Levites that minister unto me" (Jer 33:22). (7e) This phrase can include all the heavenly bodies, as it does in Ps 33:6: "By the word of the Lord were the heavens made; and all the host of them by the breath of his mouth." (8) In Gen 2:1 tsaba' includes the heavens, the earth, and everything in the creation: "Thus the heavens and the earth were finished, and all the host of them."

(9) The meaning "nonmilitary service in behalf of a superior" emerges in Num 4:2–3: "Take the sum of the sons of Kohath . . . from thirty years old and upward even until fifty years old, all that enter [the service], to do the work in the tabernacle of the congregation." (10) In Job 7:1 the word represents the burdensome everyday "toil" of mankind: "Is there not an appointed time to man upon earth? Are not his days also like the days of a hireling?" (11) In Job 14:14 tsaba' seems to represent "forced labor." (12) In Dan 10:1 the word is used for "conflict": "In the third year of Cyrus king of Persia a thing was revealed unto Daniel, whose name was called Belteshazzar; and the thing was true, but the time appointed was long: and he understood the thing, and had understanding of the vision." See: TWOT—1865a, 1865b; BDB—219b, 838d.

6663. צָדַק {41x} tsâdaq, tsaw-dak'; a prim. root; to be (caus. make) right (in a moral or forensic sense):—justify {23x}, righteous {10x}, just {3x}, justice {2x}, cleansed {1x}, clear ourselves {1x}, righteousness {1x}.

The basic meaning of tsadaq is to be righteous, be in the right, be justified, be just. (1) Originally this word meant to be stiff or straight. (1a) This word is used of a man regarded as having obtained deliverance from condemnation, and as being thus entitled to a certain inheritance. (1b) Thus a man is accounted or dealt with as righteous. It is really the reception and exercise of tsedeq (6664). (1c) Nowhere is the issue of righteousness more appropriate than in the problem of the suffering of the righteous presented to us in Job, (1c1) where the verb occurs 17 times. (1c2) Apart from the Book of Job the frequency of tsadaq in the various books is small. (1d) The first occurrence of the verb is in Gen 38:26, where Judah admits that Tamar was just in her demands: "She hath been more righteous than I; because that I gave her not to Shelah my son."

(2) The basic meaning of tsadaq is "to be righteous." (2a) It is a legal term which involves the whole process of justice. (2b) God "is righteous" in all of His relations, and (2c) in comparison with Him man is not righteous: "Shall mortal man be more just [righteous] than God?" (Job 4:17). (3) In a derived sense, the case presented may be characterized as a just cause in that all facts indicate that the person is to be cleared of all charges. (3a) Isaiah called upon the nations to produce witnesses who might testify that their case was right: "Let them bring forth their witnesses that they may be justified: or let them hear, and say, It is truth" (43:9). (3b) Job was concerned about his case and defended it before his friends: "Though I were righteous, yet would I not answer, but I would make supplication to my judge" (9:15). (4) Tsadaq may also be used to signify the outcome of the verdict, when a man is pronounced "just" and is judicially cleared of all charges. Job believed that the Lord would ultimately vindicate him against his opponents (Job 13:18).

(5) In its causative pattern, the meaning of the verb brings out more clearly the sense of a judicial pronouncement of innocence: "If there be a controversy between men, and they come unto judgment, that the judges may judge them; then they shall justify [tsadaq] the righteous [tsaddiq], and condemn the wicked" (Deut 25:1). (6) The Israelites were charged with upholding righteousness in all areas of life. (6a) When the court system failed because of corruption, the wicked were falsely "justified" and the poor were robbed of justice because of trumped-up charges. (6b) Absalom, thus, gained a large following by promising justice to the landowner (2 Sa 15:4). (7) God, however, assured Israel that justice would be done in the end: "Thou shalt not wrest the judgment of thy poor in his cause. Keep thee far from a false matter; and the innocent and righteous slay thou not: for I will not justify the wicked" (Ex 23:6–7). The righteous person followed God's example. (8) The psalmist exhorts his people to change their judicial system: "Defend the poor and fatherless: do justice to the afflicted and needy" (Ps 82:3). (9) Job's ultimate hope was in God's declaration of justification. The Old Testament is in agreement with this hope. When injustice prevails, God is the One who "justifies." See: TWOT—1879; BDB—842c, 1109d.

6664. צֶדֶק {116x} tsedeq, tseh'-dek; from 6663; the right (nat., mor. or legal); also (abstr.) equity or (fig.) prosperity:—righteousness {77x}, just {11x}, justice {10x}, righteous {8x}, righteously {3x}, right {3x}, righteous cause {1x}, unrighteousness {1x}, misc. {2x}.

Tsedeq, the masculine noun form, and tsedaqah (6666), the feminine form of the noun, (1) mean "righteousness." (1a) The feminine form of the word tsedaqah, which occurs 157 times, is found throughout the Old Testament (except for Ex, Lev, 2 Kin, Eccl, Lam, Hab, and Zeph). (1b) Tsedeq, which occurs 119 times, is found mainly in poetic literature. (1b1) The first usage of tsedeq is: "Ye shall do no unrighteousness in judgment: thou shalt not respect the person of the poor, nor honor the person of the mighty: but in righteousness shalt thou judge thy neighbor" (Lev 19:15); and (1b2) of tsedaqah is: "[Abram] believed in the Lord; and he counted it to him for righteousness" (Gen 15:6).

(2) Exegetes have spilled much ink in an attempt to understand contextually the words tsedeq and tsedaqah. (2a) The conclusions of the researchers indicate a two-fold significance: relational and legal. (2a1) On the one hand, the relationships among people and of a man to his God can be described as tsedeq, supposing the parties are faithful to each other's expectations. It is a relational word. (2a2) In Jacob's proposal to Laban, Jacob used the word tsedaqah to indicate the relationship. The KJV gives the following translation of tsedaqah: "So shall my righteousness answer for me in time to come, when it shall come for my hire before thy face" (Gen 30:33). (2b) On the other hand "righteousness" as an abstract or as the legal status of a relationship is also present in the Old Testament. The locus classicus is Gen 15:6: "And he [the Lord] counted it to him [Abraham] for righteousness." (2c) Regrettably, in a discussion of the dynamic versus the static sense of the word, one or the other wins out, though both elements are present. (2c1) The books of Psalms and of the prophets particularly use the sense of "righteousness" as a state; cf. "Hearken to me, ye that follow after righteousness, ye that seek the Lord: look unto the rock whence ye are hewn, and to the hole of the pit whence ye are digged" (Is 51:1); and (2c2) "My righteousness is near; my salvation is gone forth, and mine arms shall judge the people; the isles shall wait upon me, and on mine arm shall they trust" (Is 51:5). (2d) Thus, in the discussion of the two nouns below the meanings lie between the dynamic and the static.

(3) Tsedeq and tsedaqah are legal terms signifying justice in conformity (3a) with the legal corpus (the Law; Deut 16:20), (3b) the judicial process (Jer 22:3), (3c) the justice of the king as judge (1 Kin 10:9; Ps 119:121; Prov 8:15), and also (3d) the source of justice, God Himself: "Judge me, O Lord my God, according to thy righteousness; and let them not rejoice over me. . . . And my tongue shall speak of thy righteousness and of thy praise all the day long" (Ps 35:24, 28). (4) The word "righteousness" also embodies all that God expects of His people. (4a) The verbs associated with "righteousness" indicate the practicality of this concept. One judges, deals, sacrifices, and speaks righteously; and one learns, teaches, and pursues after righteousness. (4b) Based upon a special relationship with God, the Old Testament saint asked God to deal righteously with him: "Give the king thy judgments, O God, and thy righteousness unto the king's son" (Ps 72:1). This word signifies to set up or appoint. Tsavah, as a verb, means "to command." (1) Essentially, this verb refers to verbal communication by which a superior "orders" or "commands" a subordinate. (1a) The word implies the content of what was said. (1b) Pharaoh "ordered" ("commanded") his men concerning Abraham, and they escorted Abraham and his party out of Egypt (Gen 12:20). (1c) This "order" defines an action relevant to a specific situation. (2) Tsavah can also connote "command" in the sense of the establishment of a rule by which a subordinate is to act in every recurring similar situation. (2a) In the Garden of Eden (the first appearance of this word in the Bible), God "commanded" ("set down the rule"): "Of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat: . . ." (Gen 2:16). (2b) In this case, the word does not contain the content of the action but focuses on the action itself. (2c) One of the recurring formulas in the Bible is "X did all that Y commanded him"—e.g., Ruth "did according to all that her mother-in-law bade her" (Ruth 3:6). This means that she carried out Naomi's "orders." (2d) A similar formula, "X did just as Y commanded," is first found in Num 32:25, where the sons of Reuben and Gad say to Moses that they "will do as my lord commandeth." (2e) These formulas indicate the accomplishment of, or the intention to accomplish, the "orders" of a superior.

(3) The verb tsavah can be used of a commission or charge, such as the act of "commanding," "telling," or "sending" someone to do a particular task. (3a) In Gen 32:4, Jacob "commissioned" his servants to deliver a particular message to his brother Esau. They acted as his emissaries. (3b) Jacob commissioned (literally, "commanded") his sons to bury him in the cave of Machpelah (Gen 49:30), and then he died. This "command" constituted a last will and testament—an obligation or duty. The verb again indicates, therefore, appointing someone to be one's emissary. (4) The most frequent subject of this verb is God. (4a) However, He is not to be questioned or "commanded" to explain the work of His hands (Is 45:11). (4b) He tells Israel that His "commands" are unique, requiring an inner commitment and not just external obedience, as the commands of men do (Gen 29:13). (4c) His "ordering" is given to Moses from above the mercy seat (Ex 25:22) and from His "commands" at Sinai (Lev 7:38; cf. 17:1ff.). (4d) At other times when He "commands," the thing simply occurs; His word is active and powerful (Ps 33:9). (4e) He also issues "orders" through and to the prophets (Jer 27:4) who explain, apply, and speak His "commands" (Jer 1:17). Tsaleach means "to succeed, prosper." (1) The word is first found in Gen 24:21: ". . . whether the Lord had made his journey prosperous [literally, "to prosper"] or not." (2) This word generally expresses the idea of a successful venture, as contrasted with failure. The source of such success is God: "as long as he sought the Lord, God made him to prosper" (2 Chr 26:5). (3) In spite of that, the circumstances of life often raise the question, "Wherefore doth the way of the wicked prosper?" (Jer 12:1). (4) It is sometimes used in such a way as to indicate "victory": "In your majesty ride prosperously" (Ps 45:4). See: TWOT—1916, 1917; BDB—852a, 852b, 1109d.

Tsa'aq means "to cry, cry out, call." (1) Its first occurrence is in the record of the suffering of the Israelite bondage in Egypt: "And the children of Israel sighed by reason of the bondage, and they cried [for help]" (Ex 2:23). (2) Tsa'aq is perhaps most frequently used to indicate the "crying out" for aid in time of emergency, (2a) especially "crying out" for divine aid. (2b) God often heard this "cry" for help in the time of the judges, as Israel found itself in trouble because of its backsliding (Judg 3:9, 15; 6:7; 10:10). (3) The word is used also in appeals to pagan gods (Judg 10:14; Jer 11:12; Jonah 1:5). (4) That tsa'aq means more than a normal speaking volume is indicated in appeals to the king: "For all of my father's house were but dead men before my lord the king: yet didst thou set thy servant among them that did eat at thine own table. What right therefore have I yet to cry any more unto the king?" (2 Sa 19:28). (5) The word may imply (5a) a "crying out" in distress (1 Sa 4:13), (5b) a "cry" of horror (1 Sa 5:10), or (5c) a "cry" of sorrow (2 Sa 13:19). (6) Used figuratively, it is said that "the stone shall cry out of the wall" (Hab 2:11) of a house that is built by means of evil gain. I. Tsapah, as a verb, means "to overlay, spy, keep watch." (1) It occurs for the first time in the Old Testament in the so-called Mizpah Benediction: "The Lord watch between me and thee . . ." (Gen 31:49). (1a) The meaning in this context is "to watch" with a purpose, that of seeing that the covenant between Laban and Jacob was kept. (1b) Thus, the statement by Laban is more of a threat than a benediction. (2) Similarly, when God's "eyes behold the nations" (Ps 66:7), it is much more than a casual look. Perhaps in most uses, the connotation of "to spy" would be the most accurate.

II. As a participle, tsaphah is often used as a noun, tsopeh, meaning "watchman," or one whose task it is "to keep close watch": "But Absalom fled. And the young man that kept the watch lifted up his eyes, and looked, and, behold, there came much people by the way of the hill side behind him" (2 Sa 13:34). See: TWOT—1950; BDB—859b.
