Therefore You abandoned them to the hand of their enemies, so that they ruled over them.
When they cried again to You, You heard from heaven,
And [b]many times You rescued them
according to Your compassion, 29 And [a]admonished them in order to turn them back to Your law.
Yet [b]they acted arrogantly and did not listen to Your commandments but sinned against Your ordinances,
By [c]which if a man observes them he shall live.
And they [1d]turned a stubborn shoulder and stiffened their neck, and would not listen.
30 "[a]However, You bore with them for many years,
And [b]admonished them by [c]Your Spirit through Your prophets,
Yet they would not give ear.
Therefore You gave them into the hand of the peoples of the lands.
31 "Nevertheless, in Your great compassion You [a]did not make an end of them or forsake them,
For You are [b]a gracious and compassionate God.

The Egyptian story of Sinuhe (c. 2000 B.C.) describes Canaan as follows: "Figs were in it, and grapes. It had more wine than water. Plentiful was its honey, abundant its olives. Every (kind of) fruit was on its trees." grew fat. Elsewhere the Hebrew for this word always implies physical fullness and spiritual insensitivity.

Obligations of the Document

28 Now [a]the rest of the people, the priests, the Levites, the gatekeepers, the singers, the temple servants and [b]all those who had separated themselves from the peoples of the lands to the law of God, their wives, their sons and their daughters, all those who had knowledge and understanding,
29 are joining with their [1]kinsmen, their nobles, and are [2][a]taking on themselves a curse and an oath to walk in God's law, which was given through Moses, God's servant, and to keep and to observe all the commandments of [3]God our Lord, and His ordinances and His statutes;
30 and [a]that we will not give our daughters to the peoples of the land or take their daughters for our sons.
31 As [a]for the peoples of the land who bring wares or any grain on the sabbath day to sell, we will not buy from them on the sabbath or a holy day; and we will forego the crops the [b]seventh year and the [c]exaction of every debt.
32 We also [1]placed ourselves under obligation to contribute yearly [a]one third of a shekel for the service of the house of our God:
33 for the [a]showbread, for the continual grain offering, for the continual burnt offering, the sabbaths, the new moon, for the appointed times, for the holy things and for the sin offerings to make atonement for Israel, and all the work of the house of our God.
34 Likewise [a]we cast lots [b]for the supply of wood among the priests, the Levites and the people so that they might bring it to the house of our God, according to our fathers' households, at fixed times annually, to burn on the altar of the LORD our God, as it is written in the law;
35 and that they might bring the first fruits of our ground and [a]the first fruits of all the fruit of every tree to the house of the LORD annually,
36 and [a]bring to the house of our God the firstborn of our sons and of our cattle, and the firstborn of our herds and our flocks as it is written in the law, for the priests who are ministering in the house of our God.

10:2–8 About half of these names occur again in 12:1–7.
10:9–13 Most of these names appear also in the lists of Levites in 8:7; 9:4–5.
10:14–27 Almost half of the names in this category are also found in the lists of 7:6–63; Ezra 2:1–61.
10:28 Levites. See Introduction to Leviticus: Title. gatekeepers. See note on Ezra 2:42. wives . . . sons . . . daughters. See note on 8:2.
10:31–33 Perhaps a code drawn up by Nehemiah to correct the abuses listed in 13:15–22.
10:31 on the sabbath day to sell. Though Ex 20:8–11; Deut 5:12–15 do not explicitly prohibit trading on the sabbath, see Jer 17:19–27; Amos 8:5 and note. forego the crops the seventh year and . . . every debt. See note on Lev 25:4. The Romans misrepresented the sabbath and the sabbath year as caused by laziness. According to Tacitus, the Jews "were led by the charms of indolence to give over the seventh year as well to inactivity."
10:32 third of a shekel. Ex 30:13–14 speaks of "half a shekel" as a "contribution to the LORD" from each man who was 20 years old or more as a symbolic ransom. Later Joash used the annual contributions for the repair of the temple (2 Chr 24:4–14). In the NT period Jewish men from everywhere sent an offering of a half shekel (actually two drachmas, its equivalent; see Josephus, Antiquities, 3.8.2) for the temple in Jerusalem (Matt 17:24). The pledge of a third of a shekel in Nehemiah's time may have been due to economic circumstances.
10:33 showbread. See note on Lev 24:8.
10:34 cast lots. See notes on 11:1; Jon 1:7. supply of wood. Though there is no specific reference to a wood offering in the Pentateuch, the perpetual burning of fire on the sanctuary altar (Lev 6:12–13) would have required a continual supply of wood. Josephus mentions "the festival of wood offering" on the 14th day of the fifth month (Ab). The Jewish Mishnah (rabbinic interpretations and applications of Pentateuchal laws) lists nine times when certain families brought wood, and stipulates that all kinds of wood were suitable except the vine and the olive. The Temple Scroll from Qumran describes the celebration of a wood offering festival for six days following a new oil festival.
10:35 first fruits. Brought to the sanctuary to support the priests and Levites (Ex 23:19; Num 18:13; Deut 26:1–11; Ezek 44:30).
10:36 firstborn. See note on Ex 13:13.
10:37 new wine. See note on Deut 7:13. Though the Hebrew for this term can refer to freshly pressed grape juice (Is 65:8; Mic 6:15), it can also be used of intoxicating wine (Hos 4:11).

tree, the new wine and the oil [b]to the priests at the chambers of the house of our God, and the [c]tithe of our ground to the Levites, for the Levites are they who receive the tithes in all the rural towns.

38 [a]The priest, the son of Aaron, shall be with the Levites when the Levites receive tithes, and the Levites shall bring up the tenth of the tithes to the house of our God, to the chambers of [b]the storehouse.

39 For the sons of Israel and the sons of Levi shall bring the [a]contribution of the grain, the new wine and the oil to the chambers; there are the utensils of the sanctuary, the priests who are ministering, the gatekeepers and the singers. Thus [b]we will not [1]neglect the house of our God.

Time Passes; Heads of Provinces

11 Now [a]the leaders of the people lived in Jerusalem, but the rest of the people [b]cast lots to bring one out of ten to live in Jerusalem, [c]the holy city, while nine-tenths remained in the other cities.

2 And the people blessed all the men who [a]volunteered to live in Jerusalem.

3 [a]Now these are the heads of the provinces who lived in Jerusalem, but in the cities of Judah [b]each lived on his own property in their cities—the [1]Israelites, the priests, the Levites, the [2c]temple servants and the [3d]descendants of Solomon's servants.

4 Some of the sons of Judah and some of the sons of Benjamin lived in Jerusalem. From the sons of Judah: Athaiah the son of Uzziah, the son of Zechariah, the son of Amariah, the son of Shephatiah, the son of Mahalalel, of the sons of Perez;

5 and Maaseiah the son of Baruch, the son of Col-hozeh, the son of Hazaiah, the son of Adaiah, the son of Joiarib, the son of Zechariah, the son of the Shilonite.

6 All the sons of Perez who lived in Jerusalem were 468 able men.

7 Now these are the sons of Benjamin: Sallu the son of Meshullam, the son of Joed, the son of Pedaiah, the son of Kolaiah, the son of Maaseiah, the son of Ithiel, the son of Jeshaiah;

8 and after him Gabbai and Sallai, 928.

9 Joel the son of Zichri was their overseer, and Judah the son of Hassenuah was second [1]in command of the city.

10 From the priests: Jedaiah the son of Joiarib, Jachin,

11 Seraiah the son of Hilkiah, the son of Meshullam, the son of Zadok, the son of Meraioth, the son of Ahitub, the leader of the house of God,

12 and their [1]kinsmen who performed the work of the [2]temple, 822; and Adaiah the son of Jeroham, the son of Pelaliah, the son of Amzi, the son of Zechariah, the son of Pashhur, the son of Malchijah,

13 and his kinsmen, heads of fathers' households, 242; and Amashsai the son of Azarel, the son of Ahzai, the son of Meshillemoth, the son of Immer, 14 and their brothers, valiant warriors, 128. And their overseer was Zabdiel, the son of [1]Haggedolim.

15 Now from the Levites: Shemaiah the son of Hasshub, the son of Azrikam, the son of Hashabiah, the son of Bunni;

16 and Shabbethai and Jozabad, from the [1]leaders of the Levites, who were [2]in charge of [a]the outside work of the house of God;

17 and Mattaniah the son of Mica, the son of [1]Zabdi, the son of Asaph, who was the [2]leader in beginning the thanksgiving at prayer, and Bakbukiah, the second among his brethren; and [3]Abda the son of [4]Shammua, the son of Galal, the son of Jeduthun.

18 All the Levites in [a]the holy city were 284.

19 Also the gatekeepers, Akkub, Talmon and their brethren who kept watch at the gates, were 172.

tithe. See notes on Gen 14:20; 28:22; Lev 27:30; Amos 4:4. chambers. Rooms in the courts of the temple were used as storage areas for silver, gold and sacred articles (cf. vv. 38–39; 12:44; 13:4–5,9; Ezra 8:28–30). Levites. Tithes were meant for their support (13:12–13; Num 18:21–32).

10:39 See 13:11. we will not neglect. Haggai (Hag 1:4–9) had accused the people of neglecting the temple.

11:1 cast lots. See 10:34. Lots were usually made out of small stones or pieces of wood. Sometimes arrows were used (Ezek 21:21). one out of ten to live in Jerusalem. Josephus (Antiquities, 11.5.8) asserts: "But Nehemiah, seeing that the city had a small population, urged the priests and Levites to leave the countryside and move to the city and remain there, for he had prepared houses for them at his own expense." The practice of redistributing populations was also used to establish Greek and Hellenistic cities. It involved the forcible transfer from rural settlements to urban centers. Tiberias on the Sea of Galilee was populated with Gentiles by such a process by Herod Antipas in A.D. 18. holy city. See Is 48:2 and note; Dan 9:24; Matt 4:5; 27:53; Rev 11:2; cf. Joel 3:17.

11:2 In addition to those chosen by lot (v. 1), some volunteered out of a sense of duty. But evidently most preferred to stay in their hometowns.

11:3–19 A census roster that parallels 1 Chr 9:2–21, a list of the first residents in Jerusalem after the return from Babylonia. About half the names in the two lists are the same.

11:8 928. The men of Benjamin provided twice as many men as Judah (v. 6) to live in and protect the city of Jerusalem.

11:9 second in command. See 2 Chr 34:22 (in Zeph 1:10 the Hebrew for this phrase is translated "Second Quarter").

11:16 outside work. Duties outside the temple (cf. 1 Chr 26:29) but connected with it.

11:17 Asaph. See note on Ezra 2:41; see also titles of Ps 50; 73–83. Jeduthun. See 1 Chr 16:42; 25:1,3; 2 Chr 5:12; titles of Ps 39; 62; 77.

11:18 284. The relatively small number of Levites, compared the Levites, were in all the cities of Judah, each [a]on his own inheritance.

21 But [a]the temple servants were living in Ophel, and Ziha and Gishpa were [1]in charge of the temple servants.

22 Now [a]the overseer of the Levites in Jerusalem was Uzzi the son of Bani, the son of Hashabiah, the son of Mattaniah, the son of Mica, from the sons of Asaph, who were the singers for the [1]service of the house of God.

23 [a]For there was a commandment from the king concerning them and a firm regulation for the song leaders [b]day by day.

24 Pethahiah the son of Meshezabel, of the sons [a]of Zerah the son of Judah, was the [b]king's [1]representative in all matters concerning the people.

25 Now as for the villages with their fields, some of the sons of Judah lived in [a]Kiriath-arba and its [1]towns, in [b]Dibon and its [1]towns, and in Jekabzeel and its villages,

26 and in Jeshua, in Moladah and Beth-pelet,

27 and in Hazar-shual, in Beersheba and its towns,

28 and in Ziklag, in Meconah and in its towns,

29 and in En-rimmon, in Zorah and in Jarmuth,

30 Zanoah, Adullam, and their villages, Lachish and its fields, Azekah and its towns. So they encamped from Beersheba as far as the valley of Hinnom.

31 The sons of Benjamin also lived from Geba onward, at Michmash and Aija, at Bethel and its towns,

32 at Anathoth, Nob, Ananiah,

33 Hazor, Ramah, Gittaim,

34 Hadid, Zeboim, Neballat,

35 Lod and Ono, the valley of craftsmen.

36 From the Levites, some divisions in Judah belonged to Benjamin.

Priests and Levites Who Returned to Jerusalem with Zerubbabel

12 Now these are [a]the priests and the Levites who came up with Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, and Jeshua: Seraiah, Jeremiah, Ezra,

2 Amariah, Malluch, Hattush,

3 Shecaniah, Rehum, Meremoth,

4 Iddo, Ginnethoi, Abijah,

5 Mijamin, Maadiah, Bilgah,

6 Shemaiah and Joiarib, Jedaiah,

7 Sallu, Amok, Hilkiah and Jedaiah. These were the heads of the priests and their [1]kinsmen in the days of Jeshua.

with 1,192 priests (the total of 822, 242 and 128 in vv. 12–13), is striking (see note on Ezra 2:40).

11:20 his own inheritance. Ancestral property—including land, buildings and movable goods—acquired by either conquest or inheritance (Gen 31:14; Num 18:21; 27:7; 34:2; 36:3; 1 Kin 21:1–4).

11:21 Ophel. See note on 3:26.

11:23 commandment from the king. David had regulated the services of the Levites, including the singers (1 Chr 25). The Persian king, Darius I, gave a royal stipend so that the Jewish elders might "pray for the life of the king and his sons" (Ezra 6:10). Artaxerxes I may have done much the same for the Levite choir.

11:25–30 An important list, corresponding to earlier lists of towns in Judah. All these names also appear in Josh 15 with the exception of Dibon, Jekabzeel (but see Kabzeel in Josh 15:21), Jeshua, Meconah and En-rimmon (but see Ain and Rimmon in Josh 15:32). The list, however, is not comprehensive, since a number of towns listed in ch. 3; Ezra 2:21–22 are lacking. No Judean coins have been found outside the area designated by vv. 25–30.

11:25 Kiriath-arba. See note on Gen 23:2. In the Hellenistic era it fell to the Idumeans, together with other Judean towns.

11:26 Moladah. Near Beersheba; later occupied by the Idumeans. Beth-pelet. Means "house of refuge," a site near Beersheba.

11:27 Hazar-shual. Means "enclosure of a fox" (see 1 Chr 4:28). Beersheba. See note on Gen 21:31. Archaeological excavations reveal that the city was destroyed by Sennacherib in 701 B.C. and only resettled in the Persian period.

11:28 Ziklag. Given to David by Achish, king of Gath (1 Sam 27:6), and taken by the Amalekites (1 Sam 30:1); see Josh 15:31.

11:29 En-rimmon. Means "spring of the pomegranate," probably Khirbet Umm er-Ramamin, nine miles north-northeast of Beersheba (see Josh 15:32). Zorah. See note on Judg 13:2. Jarmuth. Eight miles north-northeast of Eleutheropolis (Beit Jibrin), it was one of five Canaanite cities in the south that attempted to halt Joshua's invasion (Josh 10:3–5).

11:30 Zanoah. A village in the Shephelah district of low hills between Judah and Philistia. The men of Zanoah repaired the Valley Gate (3:13). The site has been identified with Khirbet Zanu, three miles south-southeast of Beth Shemesh. Adullam. See note on Gen 38:1. Lachish. See Josh 10:3; see also notes on Is 36:2; Mic 1:13. Azekah. See note on Jer 34:7. Hinnom. The valley west and south of Jerusalem; Gehenna in the NT.

11:31–35 Most of the Benjamite towns listed here appear also in 7:26–38; Ezra 2:23–35.

11:31 Geba. See 12:29; see also note on 1 Sam 13:3. Michmash. See note on 1 Sam 13:2. Aija. An alternate name for Ai (see note on Josh 7:2). Bethel. See notes on Gen 12:8; Josh 7:2; Ezra 2:28; Amos 4:4.

11:32 Anathoth. See note on Jer 1:1. Nob. See note on 1 Sam 21:1. Ananiah. Probably Bethany, meaning "house of Ananiah" (see note on Matt 21:17).

11:33 Gittaim. Its location is not known.

11:34 Hadid. Three to four miles northeast of Lod (see 7:37; Ezra 2:33).

11:35 Lod. See note on Ezra 2:33. Ono. See note on 6:2. valley of craftsmen. Ge-harashim in Hebrew (see 1 Chr 4:14). It may be the broad valley between Lod and Ono. The name may preserve the memory of the Philistine iron monopoly (1 Sam 13:19–20).

12:1 Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel. See Ezra 3:2,8; 5:2; see also note on Hag 1:1. Jeshua. Returned from Babylonian exile in 538 B.C. (see vv. 10,26; 7:7; Ezra 2:2 and note; Hag 1:1; Zech 3:1 and note). Ezra. Not the Ezra of the book, who was the leader of the exiles who returned 80 years later.

12:7 heads of the priests. The rotation of 24 priestly houses was established at the time of David (1 Chr 24:3,7–19). Twenty-two heads of priestly houses are mentioned in vv. 1–7. Inscriptions listing the 24 divisions of the priests probably hung was [1]in charge of the songs of thanksgiving, he and his brothers.

9 Also Bakbukiah and Unni, their brothers, stood opposite them [a]in their service divisions.

10 Jeshua [1]became the father of Joiakim, and Joiakim [1]became the father of Eliashib, and Eliashib [1]became the father of Joiada, 11 and Joiada became the father of Jonathan, and Jonathan became the father of Jaddua.

12 Now in the days of Joiakim, the priests, the heads of fathers' households were: of Seraiah, Meraiah; of Jeremiah, Hananiah;

13 of Ezra, Meshullam; of Amariah, Jehohanan;

14 of [1]Malluchi, Jonathan; of Shebaniah, Joseph;

15 of Harim, Adna; of Meraioth, Helkai;

16 of Iddo, Zechariah; of Ginnethon, Meshullam;

17 of Abijah, Zichri; of Miniamin, of Moadiah, Piltai;

18 of Bilgah, Shammua; of Shemaiah, Jehonathan;

19 of Joiarib, Mattenai; of Jedaiah, Uzzi;

20 of Sallai, Kallai; of Amok, Eber;

21 of Hilkiah, Hashabiah; of Jedaiah, Nethanel.

The Chief Levites

22 As for the Levites, the heads of fathers' households were registered in the days of Eliashib, Joiada, and Johanan and Jaddua; so were the priests in the reign of Darius the Persian.

23 The sons of Levi, the heads of fathers' households, were registered in the Book of the Chronicles up to the days of Johanan the son of Eliashib.

24 The heads of the Levites were Hashabiah, Sherebiah and Jeshua the son of Kadmiel, with their brothers opposite them, [a]to praise and give thanks, [1]as prescribed by David the man of God, [b]division corresponding to division.

25 Mattaniah, Bakbukiah, Obadiah, Meshullam, Talmon and Akkub were gatekeepers keeping watch at [a]the storehouses of the gates.

26 These served in the days of Joiakim the son of Jeshua, the son of Jozadak, and in the days of [a]Nehemiah the governor and of Ezra the priest and scribe.

Dedication of the Wall

27 Now at the dedication of the wall of Jerusalem they sought out the Levites from all their places, to bring them to Jerusalem so that they might celebrate the dedication with gladness, with hymns of thanksgiving and with songs [a]to the accompaniment of cymbals, harps and lyres.

28 So the sons of the singers were assembled from the district around Jerusalem, and from [a]the villages of the Netophathites, 29 from Beth-gilgal and from their fields in Geba and Azmaveth, for the singers had built themselves villages around Jerusalem.

30 The priests and the Levites [a]purified themselves; they also purified the people, the gates and the wall.

in many synagogues in the Holy Land. So far, only fragments of two such inscriptions have been recovered—from Ashkelon in the 1920s and from Caesarea in the 1960s (dated to the third and fourth centuries A.D.).

12:9 opposite them. See v. 24; Ezra 3:11 and note; cf. 2 Chr 7:6. The singing was antiphonal, with two sections of the choir standing opposite each other. service divisions. The Hebrew for this word (Mishmarot) is the title of a work from Qumran, which discusses in detail the rotation of the priestly families' service in the temple according to the sect's solar calendar and synchronized with the conventional lunar calendar.

12:10 Jeshua. See note on v. 1. Joiakim. See vv. 12,26. Eliashib. See vv. 22–23; the high priest who assisted in rebuilding the wall (3:1,20–21; 13:28). A priest named Eliashib was guilty of defiling the temple by assigning rooms to Tobiah the Ammonite (13:4,7). It is not known whether this Eliashib was the same as the high priest.

12:11 Jonathan. Since v. 22 mentions a Johanan after Joiada and before Jaddua, and v. 23 identifies Johanan as "son" of Eliashib, some believe that "Jonathan" is an error for "Johanan." Further complicating the identification are attempts to identify this high priest with a "Johanan" mentioned in the Elephantine papyri and in Josephus (Antiquities, 11.7.1). Such an identification, however, is disputable.

12:12–21 All but one (Hattush, v. 2) of the 22 priestly families listed in vv. 1–7 are repeated (Rehum, v. 3, is a variant of Harim, v. 15; Mijamin, v. 5, is a variant of Miniamin, v. 17) in this later list, which dates to the time of Joiakim (v. 12), high priest in the late sixth and/or early fifth centuries B.C.

12:22 Darius the Persian. Either Darius II Nothus (423–404 B.C.) or Darius III Codomannus (336–331).

12:23 Book of the Chronicles. Cf. 7:5. This may have been the official temple chronicle, containing various lists and records. Cf. the annals of the Persian kings (Ezra 4:15; Esth 2:23; 6:1; 10:2); cf. also the "Book of the Chronicles of the Kings," mentioned frequently in 1, 2 Kings.

12:26 Nehemiah . . . Ezra. See note on 8:9.

12:27 dedication. See note on Ezra 6:16. cymbals. See note on Ezra 3:10. Cymbals were used in religious ceremonies (1 Chr 16:42; 25:1; 2 Chr 5:12; 29:25). Ancient examples have been found at Beth-shemesh and Tell Abu Hawam. harps. See note on Gen 31:27; used mainly in religious ceremonies (1 Sam 10:5; 2 Sam 6:5; Ps 150:3). Ancient harps have been reconstructed from information derived from the remains of harps at Ur, pictures of harps, and cuneiform texts describing in detail the tuning of harps. lyres. Had strings of the same length but of different diameters and tensions (see 1 Chr 15:16; Dan 3:5).

12:28 Netophathites. From Netophah, a town near Bethlehem (7:26).

12:29 Beth-gilgal. Perhaps the Gilgal near Jericho (see note on Josh 4:19), or the Gilgal of Elijah (2 Kin 2:1), about seven miles north of Bethel.

12:30 purified. See note on Lev 4:12. The Levites are said to have purified all that was sacred in the temple (1 Chr 23:28) and the temple itself (2 Chr 29:15) during times of revival. Ritual purity was intended to teach God's holiness and moral purity (Lev 16:30).

Procedures for the Temple

31 Then I had the leaders of Judah come up on top of the wall, and I appointed two great [1]choirs, [2a]the first proceeding to the right on top of the wall toward [b]the Refuse Gate.

32 Hoshaiah and half of the leaders of Judah followed them,

33 with Azariah, Ezra, Meshullam,

34 Judah, Benjamin, Shemaiah, Jeremiah,

35 and some of the sons of the priests with trumpets; and Zechariah the son of Jonathan, the son of Shemaiah, the son of Mattaniah, the son of Micaiah, the son of Zaccur, the son of Asaph, 36 and his [1]kinsmen, Shemaiah, Azarel, Milalai, Gilalai, Maai, Nethanel, Judah and Hanani, [a]with the musical instruments of David the man of God. And Ezra the scribe went before them.

37 At [a]the Fountain Gate they went directly up [b]the steps of the city of David by the stairway of the wall above the house of David to [c]the Water Gate on the east.

38 [a]The second [1]choir proceeded to the [2]left, while I followed them with half of the people on the wall, [b]above the Tower of Furnaces, to [c]the Broad Wall, 39 and above [a]the Gate of Ephraim, by [b]the Old Gate, by the [c]Fish Gate, [d]the Tower of Hananel and the Tower of the Hundred, as far as the Sheep Gate; and they stopped at [e]the Gate of the Guard.

40 Then the two choirs took their stand in the house of God. So did I and half of the officials with me;

41 and the priests, Eliakim, Maaseiah, Miniamin, Micaiah, Elioenai, Zechariah and Hananiah, with the trumpets;

42 and Maaseiah, Shemaiah, Eleazar, Uzzi, Jehohanan, Malchijah, Elam and Ezer. And the singers [1]sang, with Jezrahiah their leader, 43 and on that day they offered great sacrifices and rejoiced because [a]God had given them great joy, even the women and children rejoiced, so that the joy of Jerusalem was heard from afar.

44 On that day [a]men were also appointed over the chambers for the stores, the contributions, the first fruits and the tithes, to gather into them from the fields of the cities the portions required by the law for the priests and Levites; for Judah rejoiced over the priests and Levites who [1]served.

45 For they performed the [1]worship of their God and the service of purification, together with the singers and the gatekeepers [a]in accordance with the command of David and of his son Solomon.

46 For in the days of David and [a]Asaph, in ancient times, there were [1b]leaders of the singers, songs of praise and hymns of thanksgiving to God.

47 So all Israel in the days of Zerubbabel and Nehemiah gave the portions due the singers and the gatekeepers [a]as each day required, and [b]set apart the consecrated portion for the Levites, and the Levites set apart the consecrated portion for the sons of Aaron.

Foreigners Excluded

13 On that day [a]they read aloud from the book of Moses in the hearing of the people; and there was found written in it that [b]no Ammonite or Moabite should ever enter the assembly of God,

2 because they did not meet the sons of Israel with bread and water, but [a]hired Balaam against them to curse them. However, [b]our God turned the curse into a blessing.

3 So when they heard the law, [a]they excluded [b]all foreigners from Israel.

Tobiah Expelled and the Temple Cleansed

4 Now prior to this, Eliashib the priest, [a]who was appointed over the chambers of the house of our God, being [1]related to [b]Tobiah,

5 had prepared a large [1]room for him, where formerly they put the grain offerings,

12:31 two great choirs. See note on v. 38. The two great processions probably started from the area of the Valley Gate (2:13,15; 3:13) near the center of the western section of the wall. The first procession, led by Ezra (v. 36), moved in a counterclockwise direction upon the wall; the second, with Nehemiah (v. 38), moved in a clockwise direction. Both met between the Water Gate (v. 37) and the Gate of the Guard (v. 39), then entered the temple area. Cf. Ps 48:12–13. to the right. Or "to the south." The Semite oriented himself facing east, so the right hand represented the south (see Josh 17:7; 1 Sam 23:24; Job 23:9). Refuse Gate. See note on 2:13.

12:46 Asaph. See note on 11:17.

12:47 gave. The Hebrew for this verb implies continued giving.

13:1–2 See Deut 23:3–6.

13:2 Balaam. See note on Num 22:5. An Aramaic inscription of the sixth century B.C. found at Deir 'Alla in Transjordan refers to Balaam.

13:4 Eliashib. See note on 12:10. Tobiah. See note on 2:10.

13:5 prepared a large room. During Nehemiah's absence from the frankincense, the utensils and the tithes of grain, wine and oil [a]prescribed for the Levites, the singers and the gatekeepers, and the [2]contributions for the priests.

6 But during all this time I was not in Jerusalem, for in [a]the thirty-second year of [b]Artaxerxes king of Babylon I had gone to the king. After some time, however, I asked leave from the king,

7 and I came to Jerusalem and [1]learned about the evil that Eliashib had done for Tobiah, [a]by preparing a [2]room for him in the courts of the house of God.

8 It was very displeasing to me, so I [a]threw all of Tobiah's household goods out of the room.

9 Then I gave an order and [a]they cleansed the rooms; and I returned there the utensils of the house of God with the grain offerings and the frankincense.

Tithes Restored

10 I also [1]discovered that [a]the portions of the Levites had not been given them, so that the Levites and the singers who performed the service had [2]gone away, [b]each to his own field.

11 So I [1a]reprimanded the officials and said, "[b]Why is the house of God forsaken?" Then I gathered them together and restored them to their posts.

12 All Judah then brought [a]the tithe of the grain, wine and oil into the storehouses.

13 In charge of the storehouses I appointed Shelemiah the priest, Zadok the scribe, and Pedaiah of the Levites, and in addition to them was Hanan the son of Zaccur, the son of Mattaniah; for [a]they were considered reliable, and it was [1]their task to distribute to their [2]kinsmen.

14 [a]Remember me for this, O my God, and do not blot out my loyal deeds which I have performed for the house of my God and its services.

Sabbath Restored

15 In those days I saw in Judah some who were treading wine presses [a]on the sabbath, and bringing in sacks of grain and loading them on donkeys, as well as wine, grapes, figs and all kinds of loads, [b]and they brought them into Jerusalem on the sabbath day. So [c]I admonished them on the day they sold food.

16 Also men of Tyre were living [1]there who imported fish and all kinds of merchandise, and sold them to the sons of Judah on the sabbath, even in Jerusalem.

17 Then [a]I [1]reprimanded the nobles of Judah and said to them, "What is this evil thing you are doing, [2]by profaning the sabbath day?

18 "[a]Did not your fathers do the same, so that our God brought on us and on this city all this trouble? Yet you are adding to the wrath on Israel by profaning the sabbath."

the city to return to the Persian king's court, Tobiah, one of his archenemies, had used his influence with Eliashib to gain entrance into a chamber ordinarily set aside for the storage of tithes and other offerings (see 10:37 and note; cf. Num 18:21–32; Deut 14:28–29; 26:12–15). Elsewhere we read of the chamber of Meshullam (3:30) and of Jehohanan (Ezra 10:6).

13:6 thirty-second year of Artaxerxes. See note on 5:14. king of Babylon. The title was assumed by Cyrus after his conquest of Babylon (see Ezra 5:13) and was adopted by subsequent Achaemenid (Persian) kings.

13:7 came to Jerusalem. Nehemiah's second term must have ended before 407 B.C., when Bagohi (Bigvai) was governor of Judah according to the Elephantine papyri. Some have suggested that after Nehemiah's first term he was succeeded by his brother Hanani (see note on 1:2). courts. See note on 8:16. Zerubbabel's temple had two courtyards (Zech 3:7; cf. Is 62:9).

13:8 displeasing . . . threw. Nehemiah expressed his indignation by taking action (cf. vv. 24–25; 5:6–7). Contrast the reaction of Ezra, who "sat down appalled" (Ezra 9:3). Nehemiah's action reminds us of Christ's expulsion of the moneychangers from the temple area (Matt 21:12–13).

13:9 rooms. Though only a single chamber was mentioned in vv. 5–8, additional rooms were involved. A parallel to the occupation and desecration of the temple by Tobiah comes from a century earlier in Egypt, where Greek mercenaries had occupied the temple of Neith at Sais. Upon the appeal of the Egyptian priest, Udjahorresnet, the Persian king had the squatters driven out and the temple's ceremonies, processions and revenues restored: "And His Majesty commanded that all the foreigners who had settled in the temple of Neith should be driven out and that all their houses and all their superfluities that were in this temple should be thrown down, and that all their own baggage should be carried for them outside the wall of this temple."

13:10 Nehemiah was apparently correcting an abuse of long standing. Strictly speaking, the Levites had no holdings (Num 18:20,23–24; Deut 14:29; 18:1), but some may have had private income (Deut 18:8). Therefore the Levites were dependent on the faithful support of the people. This may explain the reluctance of great numbers of Levites to return from exile (see Ezra 8:15–20). For the complaints of those who found little material advantage in serving the Lord see Mal 2:17; 3:13–15.

13:11 forsaken. See note on 10:39.

13:12 tithe. See 12:44. Temples in Mesopotamia also levied tithes for the support of their personnel.

13:13 Of the four treasurers, one was a priest, one a Levite, one a scribe and one a layman of rank. reliable. Nehemiah appointed honest men to make sure that supplies were distributed equitably, just as the church appointed deacons for this purpose (Acts 6:1–5).

13:15 treading wine presses. See notes on Is 5:2; 16:10. sabbath. The temptation to violate the sabbath rest was especially characteristic of non-Jewish merchants (see 10:31; Is 56:1–8). On the other hand, the high regard that many had for the sabbath was expressed by parents who called their children Shabbethai (see 8:7; 11:16; Ezra 10:15).

13:16 Tyre. See note on Is 23:1. fish. Most of the fish exported by the Tyrians (Ezek 26:4–5,14) was dried, smoked or salted. Fish, much of it from the Sea of Galilee, was an important part of the Israelites' diet (Lev 11:9; Num 11:5; Matt 15:34; Luke 24:42; John 21:5–13). It was sold at the market near the Fish Gate (see note on 3:3).

13:17 reprimanded the nobles. Because they were the leaders. profaning. Turning what is sacred into common use and so profaning it (see Mal 2:10–11).

19 [a]It came about that just as it grew dark at the gates of Jerusalem before the sabbath, I commanded that the doors should be shut [1]and that they should not open them until after the sabbath. Then I stationed some of my servants at the gates so that no load would enter on the sabbath day.

20 Once or twice the traders and merchants of every kind of merchandise spent the night outside Jerusalem.

21 Then [a]I [1]warned them and said to them, "Why do you spend the night in front of the wall? If you do so again, I will [2]use force against you." From that time on they did not come on the sabbath.

22 And I commanded the Levites that [a]they should purify themselves and come as gatekeepers to sanctify the sabbath day. For this also [b]remember me, O my God, and have compassion on me according to the greatness of Your lovingkindness.

Mixed Marriages Forbidden

23 In those days I also saw that the Jews had [1][a]married women from [b]Ashdod, [c]Ammon and Moab.

24 As for their children, half spoke in the language of Ashdod, and none of them was able to speak the language of Judah, but [1]the language of his own people.

27 "[1]Do we then hear about you that you have committed all this great evil [a]by acting unfaithfully against our God by [2]marrying foreign women?"

28 Even one of the sons of Joiada, the son of Eliashib the high priest, was a son-in-law of [a]Sanballat the Horonite, so I drove him away from me.

29 [a]Remember them, O my God, [1]because they have defiled the priesthood and the [b]covenant of the priesthood and the Levites.

13:19 just as it grew dark. Before sunset, when the sabbath began. The Israelites, like the Babylonians, counted their days from sunset to sunset (the Egyptians reckoned theirs from dawn to dawn). The precise moment when the sabbath began was heralded by the blowing of a trumpet by a priest. According to the Jewish Mishnah, "On the eve of sabbath they used to blow six more blasts, three to cause the people to cease from work and three to mark the break between the sacred and the profane." Josephus (Jewish Wars, 4.9.12) speaks of the location on the parapet of the temple where the priests "gave a signal beforehand, with a trumpet, at the beginning of every seventh day, in the evening twilight, and also at the evening when that day was finished, announcing to the people the respective hours for ceasing work and for resuming their labors." Excavators at the temple mount recovered a stone from the southwest corner of the parapet, which had fallen to the ground in Titus's siege, with the inscription "for the place of the blowing (of the trumpet)."

13:22 remember me. See note on 1:8.

13:23 Ezra had dealt with the same problem of intermarriage some 25 years before (see note on Ezra 9:1). Ashdod. See 4:7; Is 20:1 and notes. Ammon and Moab. See note on Gen 19:36–38.

13:24 The Israelites recognized other people as foreigners by their languages (see Deut 3:9; Judg 12:6; Ps 114:1; Is 33:19; Ezek 3:5–6).

13:25 pulled out their hair. See Ezra 9:3; Is 50:6 and notes. You shall not give. Nehemiah's action was designed to prevent future intermarriages, whereas Ezra dissolved the existing unions.

13:26 Solomon. Israel's outstanding king in terms of wealth and political achievements (1 Kin 3:13; 2 Chr 1:12). Solomon began his reign by humbly asking for wisdom from the Lord (1 Kin 3:5–9). caused even him to sin. In later years his foreign wives led him to worship other gods, so that he built a high place for Chemosh, the god of the Moabites (1 Kin 11:7).

13:28 son-in-law of Sanballat. According to Lev 21:14 the high priest was not to marry a foreigner. The expulsion of Joiada's son followed either this special ban or the general prohibition against intermarriage. The union described in this verse was especially rankling to Nehemiah in the light of Sanballat's enmity (see 2:10). Josephus (Antiquities, 11.7.2) records that an almost identical episode, involving a marriage between the daughter of a Sanballat of Samaria and the brother of the Jewish high priest, took place a little over a century later in the time of Alexander the Great.

13:30 duties. Or "divisions," referring to the assignment of particular duties to groups of priests and Levites, possibly on a rotating basis (see note on 12:9).

13:31 wood. See note on 10:34. first fruits. See note on 10:35. Remember me . . . for good. The last recorded words of Nehemiah recapitulate a theme running through the final chapter (vv. 14,22; see note on 1:8). His motive throughout his ministry was to please and to serve his divine Sovereign.

Esther

INTRODUCTION

Author and Date

Although we do not know who wrote the book of Esther, from internal evidence it is possible to make some inferences about the author and the date of composition. It is clear that the author was a Jew, both from his emphasis on the origin of a Jewish festival and from the Jewish nationalism that permeates the story. The author's knowledge of Persian customs, the setting of the story in the city of Susa and the absence of any reference to the land of Judah or to Jerusalem suggest that he was a resident of a Persian city. The earliest date for the book would be shortly after the events narrated, i.e., c. 460 B.C. (before Ezra's return to Jerusalem; see note on 8:12). Internal evidence also suggests that the festival of Purim had been observed for some time prior to the writing of the book (9:19). Several scholars have dated the book in the Hellenistic period; the absence of Greek words and the style of the author's Hebrew dialect, however, suggest that the book must have been written before the Persian empire fell to Greece in 331.

Purpose, Themes and Literary Features

The author's central purpose was to record the institution of the annual festival of Purim and to keep alive for later generations the memory of the great deliverance of the Jewish people during the reign of Ahasuerus. The book accounts for both the initiation of that observance and the obligation for its perpetual commemoration (see 3:7; 9:24,28–32; see also chart, p. 164).

Throughout much of the story the author calls to mind the ongoing conflict of Israel with the Amalekites (see notes on 2:5; 3:1–6; 9:5–10), a conflict that began during the exodus (Ex 17:8–16; Deut 25:17–19) and continued through Israel's history (1 Sam 15; 1 Chr 4:43; and, of course, Esther). As the first to attack Israel after their deliverance from Egypt, the Amalekites were viewed — and the author of Esther views them — as the epitome of all the powers of the world arrayed against God's people (see Num 24:20; 1 Sam 15:1–3; 28:18). Now that Israel has been released from captivity, Haman's edict is the final major effort in the OT period to destroy them.

Closely associated with the conflict with the Amalekites is the rest that is promised to the people of God (see Deut 25:19). With Haman's defeat the Jews enjoy rest from their enemies (9:16,22).

The author also draws upon the remnant motif that recurs throughout the Bible (natural disasters, disease, warfare or other calamities threaten God's people; those who survive constitute a remnant). Events in the Persian city of Susa threatened the continuity of God's purposes in redemptive history. The future existence of God's chosen people, and ultimately the appearance of the Redeemer-Messiah, were jeopardized by Haman's edict to destroy the Jews. The author of Esther patterned much of his material on the events of the Joseph story (see notes on 2:3–4,9,21–23; 3:4; 4:14; 6:1,8,14; 8:6), in which the remnant motif is also central to the narrative (Gen 45:7).

Feasting is another prominent theme in Esther, as shown in the outline below. Banquets provide the setting for important plot developments. There are ten banquets: (1) 1:3–4, (2) 1:5–8, (3) 1:9, (4) 2:18, (5) 3:15, (6) 5:1–8, (7) 7:1–10, (8) 8:17, (9) 9:17, (10) 9:18–32. The three pairs of banquets that mark the beginning, middle and end of the story are particularly prominent: the two banquets given by Ahasuerus, the two prepared by Esther and the double celebration of Purim.

Recording duplications appears to be one of the favorite compositional techniques of the writer. In addition to the three groups of banquets that come in pairs there are two lists of the king's servants (1:10,14), two reports that Esther concealed her identity (2:10,20), two gatherings of the women (2:8,19), two houses for the women (2:12–14), two fasts (4:3,16), two consultations of Haman with his wife and friends (5:14; 6:13), two unscheduled appearances of Esther before the king (5:2; 8:3), two investitures for Mordecai (6:7–11;

8:15), two coverings of Haman's face (6:12; 7:8), two references to Haman's sons (5:11; 9:6–10, 13–14), two appearances of Harbona (1:10; 7:9), two royal edicts (3:12–14; 8:1–13), two references to the subsiding of the king's anger (2:1; 7:10), two references to the irrevocability of the Persian laws (1:19; 8:8), two days for the Jews to take vengeance (9:5–15) and two letters instituting the commemoration of Purim (9:20–32).

An outstanding feature of this book—one that has given rise to considerable discussion—is the complete absence of any explicit reference to God, worship, prayer, or sacrifice. This "secularity" has produced many detractors who have judged the book to be of little religious value. However, it appears that the author has deliberately refrained from mentioning God or any religious activity as a literary device to heighten the fact that it is God who controls and directs all the seemingly insignificant coincidences (see, e.g., note on 6:1) that make up the plot and issue in deliverance for the Jews. God's sovereign rule is assumed at every point (see note on 4:12–16), an assumption made all the more effective by the total absence of reference to Him.

The Banquets of the King

1 Now it took place in the days of [a]Ahasuerus, the Ahasuerus who reigned [b]from India to [1]Ethiopia over [c]127 provinces,

2 in those days as King Ahasuerus [a]sat on his royal throne which was at the citadel in [b]Susa,

3 in the third year of his reign [a]he gave a banquet for all his princes and attendants, the army officers of Persia and Media, the nobles and the princes of his provinces being in his presence.

4 [1]And he displayed the riches of his royal glory and the splendor of his great majesty for many days, 180 days.

5 When these days were completed, the king gave a banquet lasting seven days for all the people who were present at the citadel in Susa, from the greatest to the least, in the court of [a]the garden of the king's palace.

6 There were hangings of fine white and violet linen held by cords of fine purple linen on silver rings and marble columns, and [a]couches of gold and silver on a mosaic pavement of porphyry, marble, mother-of-pearl and precious stones.

7 Drinks were served in golden vessels of various kinds, and the royal wine was plentiful [a]according to the king's [1]bounty.

8 The drinking was done according to the law, there was no compulsion, for so the king had given orders to each official of his household that he should do according to the desires of each person.

9 Queen Vashti also gave a banquet for the women in the [1]palace which belonged to King Ahasuerus.

Queen Vashti's Refusal

10 On the seventh day, when the heart of the king was [a]merry with wine, he commanded Mehuman, Biztha, Harbona, Bigtha, Abagtha, Zethar and Carkas, the seven eunuchs who served in the presence of King Ahasuerus, 11 to bring Queen Vashti before the king with her royal [a]crown in order to display her beauty to the people and the princes, for she was beautiful.

12 But Queen Vashti refused to come at the king's command delivered by the eunuchs. Then the king became very angry and his wrath burned within him.

13 Then the king said to [a]the wise men [b]who understood the times—for it was the custom of the king so to speak before all who knew law and justice

14 and were close to him: Carshena, Shethar, Admatha, Tarshish, Meres, Marsena and Memucan, the seven princes of Persia and Media [a]who [1]had access to the king's presence and sat in the first place in the kingdom—

15 "According to law, what is to be done with Queen Vashti, because she did not [1]obey the command of King Ahasuerus delivered by the eunuchs?"

16 In the presence of the king and the princes, Memucan said, "Queen Vashti has wronged not only the king but also all the princes and all the peoples who are in all the provinces of King Ahasuerus.

17 "For the queen's conduct will [1]become known to all the women causing them [2]to look with contempt on their husbands by saying, 'King Ahasuerus commanded Queen Vashti to be brought in to his presence, but she did not come.'

18 "This day the ladies of Persia and Media who have heard of the queen's conduct will speak in the same way to all the king's

1:1 Ahasuerus. Also known as "Xerxes," a Greek form of the Persian name Khshayarshan. Ahasuerus succeeded his father Darius and ruled 486–465 B.C. 127 provinces. See 8:9. The Greek historian Herodotus (3.89) records that Ahasuerus's father Darius had organized the empire into 20 satrapies. (Satraps, the rulers of the satrapies, are mentioned in 3:12; 8:9; 9:3.) The provinces were smaller administrative units.

1:2 citadel in Susa. The fortified acropolis and palace complex; it is distinguished from the surrounding city in 3:15; 4:1–2,6; 8:15. Several archaeological investigations have been made at the site since the mid–19th century. Ahasuerus had made extensive renovations in the palace structures. Susa. The winter residence of the Persian kings; the three other capitals were Ecbatana (Ezra 6:2), Babylon and Persepolis. One of Daniel's visions was set in Susa (Dan 8:2); Nehemiah also served there (Neh 1:1).

1:3–4 The year (483–482 B.C.), the persons in attendance and the length of the meeting suggest that the purpose of the gathering may have been to plan for the disastrous campaigns of 482–479 against Greece. Herodotus (7.8) possibly describes this assembly.

1:3 banquet. Feasting is a prominent theme in Esther (see Introduction: Purpose, Themes and Literary Features).

1:5–6 The excavations at Susa have unearthed a text in which Ahasuerus's father Darius describes in some detail the building of his palace. Ahasuerus continued the work his father had begun.

1:9 Queen Vashti. Deposed in 484/483 B.C.; Esther became queen in 479/478 (2:16–17). The Greek historians call Ahasuerus's queen Amestris; they record her influence during the early part of his reign and as queen mother during the following reign of her son Artaxerxes (Ezra 7:1,7,11–12,21; 8:1; Neh 2:1; 5:14; 13:6) until the time of her own death c. 424. Artaxerxes came to the throne when he was 18 years old; therefore he was born c. 484/483, approximately at the time of Vashti's deposal. Since he was the third son of Amestris, the name Amestris cannot be identified with Esther and must be viewed as a Greek version of the name Vashti. Comparatively little is known of the late portions of Ahasuerus's reign, nor is it possible to determine the subsequent events of the life of Esther. Apparently after Esther's death or her fall from favor, Vashti was able to reassert her power and to exercise a controlling influence over her son.

1:13–14 Ezra 7:14 and the Greek historian Herodotus indicate that seven men functioned as the immediate advisers to the king.

1:13 wise men who understood the times. Court astrologers.

princes, and there will be plenty of contempt and anger.

19 "If it pleases the king, let a royal [1]edict be issued by him and let it be written in the laws of Persia and Media so [a]that it cannot [2]be repealed, that Vashti may no longer come into the presence of King Ahasuerus, and let the king give her royal position to [3]another who is more worthy than she.

20 "When the king's edict which he will make is heard throughout all his kingdom, [1]great as it is, then [a]all women will give honor to their husbands, great and small."

21 This word pleased the king and the princes, and the king did [1]as Memucan proposed.

22 So he sent letters to all the king's provinces, [a]to each province according to its script and to every people according to their language, that every man should [b]be the master in his own house and the one who speaks in the language of his own people.

Vashti's Successor Sought

2 After these things [a]when the anger of King Ahasuerus had subsided, he remembered Vashti and what she had done and [b]what had been decreed against her.

2 Then the king's attendants, who served him, said, "[a]Let beautiful young virgins be sought for the king.

3 "Let the king appoint overseers in [a]all the provinces of his kingdom that they may gather every beautiful young virgin to the citadel of Susa, to the harem, into the custody of [b]Hegai, the king's eunuch, who is in charge of the women; and [c]let their cosmetics be given them.

4 "Then let the young lady who pleases the king be queen in place of Vashti." And the matter pleased the king, and he did accordingly.

5 Now there was at the citadel in Susa a Jew whose name was [a]Mordecai, the son of Jair, the son of Shimei, the son of Kish, a Benjamite,

6 [a]who had been taken into exile from Jerusalem with the captives who had been exiled with Jeconiah king of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon had exiled.

7 He was bringing up Hadassah, that is [a]Esther, his uncle's daughter, for she had no father or mother. Now the young lady was beautiful of form and [1]face, and when her father and her mother died, Mordecai took her as his own daughter.

Esther Finds Favor

8 So it came about when the command and decree of the king were heard and [a]many young ladies were gathered to the citadel of Susa into the custody of [b]Hegai, that Esther was taken to the king's [1]palace

1:19 cannot be repealed. The irrevocability of the Persian laws is mentioned in 8:8 and Dan 6:8. no longer come into. The punishment corresponds to the crime: Since Vashti refused to appear before the king, it is decreed that she never appear before him again. Furthermore, from this point on she is no longer given the title "Queen" in the book of Esther.

1:22 that . . . people. The king's example of deposing Vashti, plus the elevation of the husband's language in ethnically mixed marriages, served to strengthen the husband's role as ruler in the home and reinforced the common language base in the empire (see Neh 13:23–24).

2:1 After these things. Esther was taken to Ahasuerus "in the seventh year of his reign" (v. 16), i.e., in December, 479 B.C., or January, 478. The Greek wars intervened before a new queen was sought (see note on 1:3–4).

2:2 virgins . . . for the king. To add to his harem.

2:3–4 The phraseology here is similar to that in Gen 41:34–37. This and numerous other parallels suggest that the author of Esther modeled his work after the Joseph story. Both accounts are set in the courts of foreign monarchs and portray Israelite heroes who rise to prominence and provide the means by which their people are saved (see notes on vv. 9,21–23; 3:4; 4:14; 6:1,8,14; 8:6).

2:5 at the citadel in Susa a Jew. As far back as the fall of the northern kingdom in 722–721 B.C. Israelites had been exiled among the cities of the Medes (2 Kin 17:6). After the conquest of Babylon by King Cyrus of Persia in 539, some of the Jewish population taken there by the Babylonians (605–586) probably moved eastward into the cities of Medo-Persia. Only 50,000 returned to Israel in the restoration of 538 (Ezra 2:64–67). The presence of a large Jewish population in Medo-Persia is confirmed by the discovery of an archive of texts in Nippur (southern Mesopotamia) from the period of Artaxerxes I (465–424) and Darius II (424–405). This archive contains the names of about 100 Jews who lived in that city. Some had attained positions of importance and wealth. Similar Jewish populations are probable in many other Medo-Persian cities. Mordecai. The name is derived from that of the Babylonian deity Marduk. There are numerous examples in the Bible of Jews having double names—a Hebrew name and a "Gentile" name. Mordecai likely had a Hebrew name, as did Esther (v. 7), Daniel and his friends (Dan 1:6–7), Joseph (Gen 41:45) and others, but the text does not mention Mordecai's Hebrew name. A cuneiform tablet from Borsippa near Babylon mentions a scribe by the name of Mardukaya; he was an accountant or minister at the court of Susa in the early years of Ahasuerus. Many scholars identify him with Mordecai. son of Jair, the son of Shimei, the son of Kish. The persons named could be immediate ancestors, in which case Mordecai would be the great-grandson of Kish, who was among the exiles with Jehoiachin in 597 B.C. It is more likely, however, that the names refer to remote ancestors in the tribe of Benjamin (see 2 Sam 16:5–14 for Shimei, 1 Sam 9:1 for Kish). This association with the tribe and family of King Saul sets the stage for the ongoing conflict between Israel and the Amalekites (see notes on 3:1–6). If the names are those of remote ancestors, the clause "who had been carried into exile" (v. 6) would not apply to Mordecai, who would have been over 100 years old in that case; rather, it would have to be taken as an elliptical construction in the sense "whose family had been taken into exile."

2:6 Jeconiah king of Judah. See 2 Kin 24:8–17; 2 Chr 36:9–10.

2:7 Hadassah. Esther's Hebrew name, meaning "myrtle." The name Esther is likely derived from the Persian word for "star," though some derive it from the name of the Babylonian goddess Ishtar (see note on Jer 7:18).

2:8 Esther was taken. Neither she nor Mordecai would have had any choice in the matter (cf. 2 Sam 11:4).

into the custody of Hegai, who was in charge of the women.

9 Now the young lady pleased him and found favor with him. So he quickly provided her with her [a]cosmetics and [1]food, gave her seven choice maids from the king's palace and transferred her and her maids to the best place in the harem.

10 [a]Esther did not make known her people or her kindred, for Mordecai had instructed her that she should not make them known.

11 Every day Mordecai walked back and forth in front of the court of the harem to learn how Esther was and how she fared.

12 Now when the turn of each young lady came to go in to King Ahasuerus, after the end of her twelve months under the regulations for the women—for the days of their beautification were completed as follows: six months with oil of myrrh and six months with spices and the cosmetics for women—

13 the young lady would go in to the king in this way: anything that she [1]desired was given her to take with her from the harem to the king's palace.

14 In the evening she would go in and in the morning she would return to the second harem, to the [1]custody of Shaashgaz, the king's eunuch who was in charge of the concubines. She would not again go in to the king unless the king delighted in her and she was summoned by name.

15 Now when the turn of Esther, [a]the daughter of Abihail the uncle of Mordecai who had taken her as his daughter, came to go in to the king, she did not request anything except what [b]Hegai, the king's eunuch who was in charge of the women, [1]advised. And Esther found favor in the eyes of all who saw her.

16 So Esther was taken to King Ahasuerus to his royal palace in the tenth month which is the month Tebeth, in the seventh year of his reign.

Esther Becomes Queen

17 The king loved Esther more than all the women, and she found favor and kindness with him more than all the virgins, so that [a]he set the royal crown on her head and made her queen instead of Vashti.

18 Then [a]the king gave a great banquet, Esther's banquet, for all his princes and his servants; he also made a holiday for the provinces and gave gifts [b]according to the king's bounty.

19 [a]When the virgins were gathered together the second time, then Mordecai [b]was sitting at the king's gate.

20 [a]Esther had not yet made known her kindred or her people, even as Mordecai had commanded her; for Esther did [1]what Mordecai told her as she had done [b]when under his care.

Mordecai Saves the King

21 In those days, while Mordecai was sitting at the king's gate, [a]Bigthan and Teresh, two of the king's officials from those who guarded the door, became angry and sought to [1]lay hands on King Ahasuerus.

22 But the [1]plot became known to Mordecai and [a]he told Queen Esther, and Esther [2]informed the king in Mordecai's name.

23 Now when the plot was investigated and found to be so, they were both hanged on a [1]gallows; and it was written in [a]the Giving such portions is a sign of special favor (1 Sam 9:22–24; 2 Kin 25:29–30; Dan 1:1–10; negatively, Jer 13:25); in the Joseph narrative cf. Gen 43:34. The motif of giving portions appears later as a practice in observing Purim (9:19,22).

2:10 The fact that Esther concealed her identity is reported twice—here and in v. 20 (for the author's use of duplications see Introduction: Purpose, Themes and Literary Features).

2:16 tenth month . . . seventh year. December, 479 B.C., or January, 478 (see notes on 1:3–4; 2:1). Esther's tenure as queen continued through the events of the book, i.e., through 473 (see 3:7 and note; see also 8:9–13; 9:1). She may have died or fallen from favor shortly thereafter (see note on 1:9).

2:18 holiday. The Hebrew for this word, unique to this verse, may imply a remission of taxes, an emancipation of slaves, a cancellation of debts or a remission of obligatory military service.

2:19 See Introduction: Purpose, Themes and Literary Features. The enlargement of the harem apparently continued unabated. Perhaps there is a causal connection between the second gathering of women and the assassination plot (vv. 21–23); some have suggested that it reflects palace intrigue in support of the deposed Vashti. king's gate. The gate of an ancient city was its major commercial and legal center. Markets were held in the gate; the court sat there to transact its business (see Deut 21:18–20; Josh 20:4; Ruth 4:1–11; Ps 69:12). A king might hold an audience at the gate (see 2 Sam 19:8; 1 Kin 22:10). Daniel was at the king's gate (NASB "king's court") as ruler over all Babylon (Dan 2:48–49). Mordecai's sitting at the king's gate confirms his holding a high position in the civil service of the empire (see note on v. 5). From this vantage point he might overhear plans for the murder of the king.

2:21–23 Another point of comparison with the Joseph narrative is the involvement of two chamberlains (Gen 40:1–3; see note on vv. 3–4).

2:23 hanged on a gallows. Or "impaled on poles." Among the Persians this form of execution was impalement, as is confirmed in pictures and statues from the ancient Near East and in the comments of the Greek historian Herodotus (3.125,129; 4.43). According to Herodotus (3.159) Darius I impaled 3,000 Babylonians when he took Babylon, an act that Darius himself recorded in his Behistun (Bisitun) inscription. In Israelite and Canaanite practice, hanging was an exhibition of the corpse and not the means of execution itself (Deut 21:22–23; Josh 8:29; 10:26; 1 Sam 31:8–10; 2 Sam 4:12; 21:9–10). The execution of a chamberlain in the Joseph narrative also appears to have been by impalement (Gen 40:19). The sons of Haman were killed by the sword, and then their corpses were displayed in this way (9:5–14). Chronicles. The concern of the author of Esther with rhetorical symmetry is seen in the fact that the Chronicles are

Book of the Chronicles in the king's presence.

Haman's Plot against the Jews

3 After these events King Ahasuerus [a]promoted Haman, the son of Hammedatha [b]the Agagite, and [a]advanced him and [1]established his authority over all the princes who were with him.

2 All the king's servants who were at the king's gate bowed down [1]and paid homage to Haman; for so the king had commanded concerning him. But [a]Mordecai neither bowed down nor paid homage.

3 Then the king's servants who were at [a]the king's gate said to Mordecai, "[b]Why are you transgressing the king's command?"

4 Now it was when they had spoken daily to him and he would not listen to them, that they told Haman to see whether Mordecai's reason would stand; for he had told them that he was a Jew.

5 When Haman saw that [a]Mordecai neither bowed down nor paid homage to him, Haman was filled with rage.

6 But he [1]disdained to [2]lay hands on Mordecai alone, for they had told him who the people of Mordecai were; therefore Haman [a]sought to destroy all the Jews, the people of Mordecai, who were throughout the whole kingdom of Ahasuerus.

8 Then Haman said to King Ahasuerus, "There is a certain people scattered and dispersed among the peoples in all the provinces of your kingdom; [a]their laws are different from those of all other people and they do not observe the king's laws, so it is not in the king's interest to let them remain.

mentioned in the beginning (here), middle (6:1) and end (10:2) of the narrative. The episode dealing with the plot of Bigthana and Teresh is a good example of the many "coincidences" in the book that later take on crucial significance for the story.

3:1 After these events. Four years have elapsed since Esther's selection as queen (v. 7; 2:16–17). The fact that no reason is given for the promotion of Haman provides an ironic contrast between the unrewarded merit of Mordecai (2:21–23; see 6:3) and the unmerited reward of Haman. son of Hammedatha the Agagite. There is some debate about the ancestry of Haman. The name Hammedatha appears to be Persian and probably refers to an immediate ancestor. The title "Agagite" could refer to some other immediate ancestor or to an unknown place; however, it is far more likely that it refers to Agag, king of Amalek (1 Sam 15:20). The Amalekites had attacked Israel after she fled from Egypt (Ex 17:8–16; 1 Sam 14:47–48); for this reason the Lord would "have war against Amalek from generation to generation" (Ex 17:16). Israel was not to forget, but must "blot out the memory of Amalek from under heaven" (Deut 25:17–19). Saul's attack on Amalek (1 Sam 15) resulted in the death of most, though not all (1 Chr 4:42–43), of the city's population and later in the death of King Agag. In Esther, about 500 years after the battle led by the Benjamite Saul, the Benjamite Mordecai (see note on 2:5) continues the war with the Amalekites.

3:2–6 Obedience to the second commandment (Ex 20:4) is not the issue in Mordecai's refusal to bow down to Haman, for the Jews were willing to bow down to kings (see 1 Sam 24:8; 2 Sam 14:4; 1 Kin 1:16) and to other persons (see Gen 23:7; 33:3; 44:14). Only the long-standing enmity between the Jews and the Amalekites accounts both for Mordecai's refusal and for Haman's intent to destroy all the Jews (vv. 5–6). The threat against the Jews "throughout the whole kingdom" (v. 6) is a threat against the ultimate issue of redemptive history (see Introduction: Purpose, Themes and Literary Features).

3:4 Compare the phraseology with that in the Joseph story (Gen 39:10).

3:7 first month . . . twelfth year. April or May, 474 B.C., the fifth year of Esther's reign. Pur. See 9:24,26. This word is found in Akkadian texts with the meaning "lot" (as here). The celebration known as Purim takes its name from the plural of this noun (see 9:23–32). There is irony in the fact that the month of the Jews' celebration of the Passover deliverance from Egypt is also the month that Haman begins plotting their destruction (Ex 12:1–11). was cast. Perhaps by the astrologers who assisted Haman (5:10,14; 6:12–13). twelfth month. An 11-month delay is contemplated between the securing of the decree and the execution of it in the month Adar (February-March).

3:8–9 The name of the people Haman wishes to destroy is slyly omitted in this blend of the true and the false: The Jews did have their own customs and laws, but they were not disobedient to the king (Jer 29:7).

3:8 scattered and dispersed. See 8:11,17; 9:2, 12,16,19–20,28.

3:9 ten thousand talents. Herodotus (3.95) records that the annual income of the Persian empire was 15,000 talents. If this figure is correct, Haman offers two-thirds of that amount—a huge sum. Presumably the money would have come from the plundered wealth of the victims of the decree. Verse 13 implies that those who would take part in the massacre were to be allowed to keep the plunder, perhaps adding financial incentive to the execution of the decree since Ahasuerus disavows taking the money (v. 11). On the other hand, 4:7 and 7:4 may imply that the king had planned on collecting some of the money. those who carry on the king's business. This clause may represent the title of revenue officers who would bring the money to the treasury, or it could refer to those who carry out the decree. The Amalekites had once before plundered Israel (see note on v. 1); Haman plans a recurrence.

3:12 thirteenth day . . . first month. In the 12th year of

according to its script, each people according to its language, being written [c]in the name of King Ahasuerus and sealed with the king's signet ring.

13 Letters were sent by [a]couriers to all the king's provinces [b]to destroy, to kill and to annihilate all the Jews, both young and old, women and children, [c]in one day, the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, which is the month Adar, and to [d]seize their possessions as plunder.

14 [a]A copy of the edict to be [1]issued as law in every province was published to all the peoples so that they should be ready for this day.

15 The couriers went out impelled by the king's command while the decree was [1]issued at the citadel in Susa; and while the king and Haman sat down to drink, [a]the city of Susa was in confusion.

Esther Learns of Haman's Plot

4 When Mordecai learned [a]all that had been done, [1]he tore his clothes, put on sackcloth and ashes, and went out into the midst of the city and wailed loudly and bitterly.

2 He went as far as the king's gate, for no one was to enter the king's gate clothed in sackcloth.

3 In each and every province where the command and decree of the king came, there was great mourning among the Jews, with [a]fasting, weeping and wailing; and many lay on sackcloth and ashes.

4 Then Esther's maidens and her eunuchs came and told her, and the queen writhed in great anguish. And she sent garments to clothe Mordecai that he might remove his sackcloth from him, but he did not accept them.

5 Then Esther summoned Hathach from the king's eunuchs, whom [1]the king had appointed to attend her, and ordered him to go to Mordecai to learn what this was and why it was.

6 So Hathach went out to Mordecai to the city square in front of the king's gate.

7 Mordecai told him all that had happened to him, and [a]the exact amount of money that Haman had promised to pay to the king's treasuries for the destruction of the Jews.

8 He also gave him [a]a copy of the text of the edict which had been issued in Susa for their destruction, that he might show Esther and inform her, and to order her to go in to the king to implore his favor and to plead with him for her people.

9 Hathach came back and related Mordecai's words to Esther.

10 Then Esther spoke to Hathach and ordered him to reply to Mordecai:

11 "All the king's servants and the people of the king's provinces know that for any man or woman who [a]comes to the king to the inner court who is not summoned, [b]he has but one law, that he be put to death, unless the king holds out [c]to him the golden scepter so that he may live. And I have not been summoned to come to the king for these thirty days."

12 They related Esther's words to Mordecai.

13 Then Mordecai told them to reply to Esther, "Do not imagine that you in the king's palace can escape any more than all the Jews.

14 "For if you remain silent at this time, relief and [a]deliverance will arise for the Jews from another place and you and your father's house will perish. And who knows whether you have not attained royalty for such a time as this?"

Esther Plans to Intercede

15 Then Esther told them to reply to Mordecai,

16 "Go, assemble all the Jews who are found in Susa, and fast for me; [a]do not eat or drink for [b]three days, night or day. I and my Ahasuerus's reign (v. 7), i.e., Apr. 17, 474 B.C.

3:13 Haman's decree against Israel is the same destruction that had earlier been decreed against Amalek (1 Sam 15:3). thirteenth day . . . twelfth month. Mar. 7, 473 B.C. (see 8:12).

3:15 Haman and the king will drink together again in the story when the fate of the Jews is once again being decided (7:1–2), but then it will be at the dissolution of their relationship and the reversal of the decree here celebrated. The celebration here is in sharp contrast to the fasting and mourning of the Jews (4:1–3,15–16).

4:2 king's gate. See note on 2:19.

4:3 See note on 3:15. The prominence of feasting throughout the book of Esther sets the fasts of vv. 3,16 in sharp relief; a pair of fasts matches the prominent pairs of banquets (see Introduction: Purpose, Themes and Literary Features; see also note on 9:31).

4:4–12 The fact that the dialogue of Esther and Mordecai is mediated by Hathach reflects the prohibition against Mordecai's entering the royal citadel dressed in mourning (v. 2) and the isolation of Esther in the harem quarters.

4:7 See note on 3:9. That Mordecai is aware of the amount Haman promised to the king is a reminder of his high position in the bureaucracy at Susa (2:21–23).

4:11 Herodotus (3.118,140) also notes that anyone approaching the Persian king unsummoned would be killed unless the king gave immediate pardon.

4:12–16 The themes of the book of Esther are most clearly expressed in this passage. Mordecai's confidence for the Jews' deliverance is based on God's sovereignty in working out His purposes and fulfilling His promises. Their deliverance will come, even if through some means other than Esther. Yet that sovereignty is not fatalistic: Unless Esther exercises her individual responsibility, she and her family will perish. Cf. Matt 26:24; Acts 2:23 for similar treatments of the relationship between divine sovereignty and human responsibility.

4:14 such a time as this. Cf. Gen 45:5–7 in the Joseph narrative.

4:16 fast. See note on v. 3. Prayer, which usually accompanied such fasting, was presumably a part of this fast as well (see Judg maidens also will fast in the same way. And thus I will go in to the king, which is not according to the law; and if I perish, I perish."

17 So Mordecai went away and did just as Esther had commanded him.

Esther Plans a Banquet

5 Now it came about [a]on the third day that Esther put on her royal robes and stood [b]in the inner court of the king's palace in front of the king's [1]rooms, and the king was sitting on his royal throne in the [2]throne room, opposite the entrance to the palace.

2 When the king saw Esther the queen standing in the court, [a]she obtained favor in his sight; and [b]the king extended to Esther the golden scepter which was in his hand. So Esther came near and touched the top of the scepter.

3 Then the king said to her, "What is troubling you, Queen Esther? And what is your request? [a]Even to half of the kingdom it shall be given to you."

4 Esther said, "If it pleases the king, may the king and Haman come this day to the banquet that I have prepared for him."

5 Then the king said, "[a]Bring Haman quickly that we may do [1]as Esther desires." So the king and Haman came to the banquet which Esther had prepared.

6 [1]As they drank their wine at the banquet, [a]the king said to Esther, "[b]What is your petition, for it shall be granted to you. And what is your request? Even to half of the kingdom it shall be done."

7 So Esther replied, "My petition and my request is:

8 [a]if I have found favor in the sight of the king, and if it pleases the king to grant my petition and do [1]what I request, may the king and Haman come to [b]the banquet which I will prepare for them, and tomorrow I will do [2]as the king says."

Haman's Pride

9 Then Haman went out that day glad and pleased of heart; but when Haman saw Mordecai [a]in the king's gate and [b]that he did not stand up or [1]tremble before him, Haman was filled with anger against Mordecai.

10 Haman controlled himself, however, went to his house and [1]sent for his friends and his wife [a]Zeresh.

11 Then Haman recounted to them the glory of his riches, and the [1a]number of his sons, and every instance where the king had magnified him and how he had [2b]promoted him above the princes and servants of the king.

12 Haman also said, "Even Esther the queen let no one but me come with the king to the banquet which she had prepared; and [a]tomorrow also I am [1]invited by her with the king.

13 "Yet all of this [1]does not satisfy me every time I see Mordecai the Jew sitting at [a]the king's gate."

14 Then Zeresh his wife and all his friends said to him, "[a]Have a [1]gallows fifty cubits high made and in the morning ask the king to have Mordecai hanged on it; then go joyfully with the king to the banquet." And the [2]advice pleased Haman, so he had the gallows made.

The King Plans to Honor Mordecai

6 During that night [1]the king [a]could not sleep so he gave an order to bring [b]the book of records, the chronicles, and they were read before the king.

2 It was found written what [a]Mordecai had reported concerning Bigthana and 20:26; 1 Sam 7:6; 2 Sam 12:16; Ezra 8:21–23; Neh 9:1–3; Is 58:3; Jer 14:12; Joel 1:14; 2:12–17; Jon 3:6–9). The omission of any reference to prayer or to God is consistent with the author's intention; absence of any distinctively religious concepts or vocabulary is a rhetorical device used to heighten the fact that it is indeed God who has been active in the whole narrative (see Introduction: Purpose, Themes and Literary Features). I and my maidens also will fast. Note the rhetorical symmetry: Where once Esther and her maids had received special foods (2:9), now they share a fast. if I perish. Cf. the similar formulation in the Joseph narrative (Gen 43:14).

5:2 See Prov 21:1.

5:6–7 One can only speculate regarding Esther's reasons for delaying her answer to the king's question until he had asked it a third time (vv. 3,6; 7:2). The author uses these delays as plot retardation devices that sustain the tension and permit the introduction of new material on Haman's self-aggrandizement (vv. 11–12) and Mordecai's reward (6:6–11).

5:9 Haman's rage is kindled when Mordecai does not rise in his presence—an ironic contrast to his earlier refusal to bow (3:2–6).

5:11 the number of his sons. Haman had ten sons (9:7–10). Herodotus (1.136) reports that the Persians prized a large number of sons second only to valor in battle; the Persian king sent gifts to the subject with the most sons (cf. Ps 127:3–5).

5:14 fifty cubits high. There may be a note of hyperbole in the height of the gallows (75 feet). Others have suggested that the gallows was erected atop some other structure to achieve this height, e.g., the city wall (see 1 Sam 31:10). hanged. See note on 2:23.

6:1 This verse marks the literary center of the narrative. When things could not look worse, a series of seemingly trivial coincidences marks a critical turn that brings resolution to the story. The king's inability to sleep, his requesting the reading of the Chronicles, the reading of the passage reporting Mordecai's past kindness, Haman's noisy carpentry in the early hours of the morning (5:14), his sudden entry into the outer court and his assumption that he was the man the king wished to honor—all are events testifying to the sovereignty of God over the events of the narrative. Circumstances that seemed incidental earlier in the narrative take on crucial significance. Just as in the Joseph story (Gen 41:1–45), the hero's personal fortunes are reversed because of the monarch's disturbed sleep (cf. Dan 2:1; 6:18).

6:2 The scribe was reading at the time from the Chronicles that recorded events five years earlier (compare 3:7 with 2:16).

Teresh, two of the king's eunuchs who were doorkeepers, that they had sought to lay hands on King Ahasuerus.

3 The king said, "What honor or dignity has been bestowed on Mordecai for this?" Then the king's servants who attended him said, "Nothing has been done for him."

4 So the king said, "Who is in the court?" Now Haman had just [a]entered the outer court of the king's palace in order to speak to the king about [b]hanging Mordecai on the gallows which he had prepared for him.

5 The king's servants said to him, "Behold, Haman is standing in the court." And the king said, "Let him come in."

6 So Haman came in and the king said to him, "What is to be done for the man [a]whom the king desires to honor?" And Haman said [1]to himself, "Whom would the king desire to honor more than me?"

7 Then Haman said to the king, "For the man whom the king desires to honor,

8 let them bring a royal robe which the king has worn, and [a]the horse on which the king has ridden, and on whose head [b]a royal crown has been placed;

9 and let the robe and the horse be handed over to one of the king's most noble princes and let them array the man whom the king desires to honor and lead him on horseback through the city square, [a]and proclaim before him, 'Thus it shall be done to the man whom the king desires to honor.' "

Haman Must Honor Mordecai

10 Then the king said to Haman, "Take quickly the robes and the horse as you have said, and do so for Mordecai the Jew, who is sitting at the king's gate; do not fall short in anything of all that you have said."

11 So Haman took the robe and the horse, and arrayed Mordecai, and led him on horseback through the city square, and proclaimed before him, "Thus it shall be done to the man whom the king desires to honor."

12 Then Mordecai returned to the king's gate. But Haman hurried home, mourning, [a]with his head covered.

13 Haman recounted [a]to Zeresh his wife and all his friends everything that had happened to him. Then his wise men and Zeresh his wife said to him, "If Mordecai, before whom you have begun to fall, is [1]of Jewish origin, you will not overcome him, but will surely fall before him."

14 While they were still talking with him, the king's eunuchs arrived and hastily [a]brought Haman to the banquet which Esther had prepared.

Esther's Plea

7 Now the king and Haman came to drink wine with Esther the queen.

2 And the king said to Esther on the second day also [1]as they drank their wine at the banquet, "[a]What is your petition, Queen Esther? It shall be granted you. And what is your request? [b]Even to half of the kingdom it shall be done."

3 Then Queen Esther replied, "[a]If I have found favor in your sight, O king, and if it pleases the king, let my life be given me as my petition, and my people as my request;

4 for [a]we have been sold, I and my people, to be destroyed, [b]to be killed and to be annihilated. Now if we had only been sold as slaves, men and women, I would have remained silent, for the [1]trouble would not be commensurate with the [2]annoyance to the king."

5 Then King Ahasuerus [1]asked Queen Esther, "Who is he, and where is he, [2]who would presume to do thus?"

6 Esther said, "[a]A foe and an enemy is this wicked Haman!" Then Haman became terrified before the king and queen.

Haman Is Hanged

7 The king arose [a]in his anger from [1]drinking wine and went into [b]the palace garden; but Haman stayed to beg for his life from Queen Esther, for he saw that harm had been determined against him by the king.

8 Now when the king returned from the palace garden into the [1]place where they were drinking wine, Haman was falling on [a]the couch where Esther was. Then the king said, "Will he even assault the queen with 6:4–6 Again, the irony is evident: Just as Haman had withheld from the king the identity of the "certain people" (3:8), so now the king unintentionally keeps from Haman the identity of the "man whom the king desires to honor" (v. 6).

6:8 royal robe which the king has worn. See 8:15; see also Introduction: Purpose, Themes and Literary Features. Cf. in the Joseph story Gen 41:41–43. Great significance was attached to the king's garment in ancient times; wearing his garments was a sign of unique favor (1 Sam 18:4). To wear another's garments was to partake of his power, stature, honor or sanctity (2 Kin 2:13–14; Is 61:3,10; Zech 3; Mark 5:27). Haman's suggestion is not only a great honor to the recipient, but it is also considerably flattering to the king: Wearing his garment was chosen instead of wealth.

6:13 See Introduction: Purpose, Themes and Literary Features.

6:14 Guests were usually escorted to feasts (see in the Joseph narrative Gen 43:15–26; cf. Matt 22:1–14).

7:2 See 5:3,6.

7:3 See 2:15,17.

7:4 sold. Esther refers to the bribe Haman offered to the king (3:9; 4:7); she also paraphrases Haman's edict (3:13). for the trouble . . . king. The statement probably means either (1) that the affliction of the Jews would be less injurious to the king if slavery was all that was involved, or (2) that Esther would not trouble the king if slavery was the only issue.

7:8 falling on the couch where Esther was. Meals were customarily taken reclining on a couch (Amos 6:4–7; John 13:23). It is ironic that Haman, who became angry when the Jew Mordecai would not bow down (which set the whole story in motion), now falls before the Jewess Esther (see 6:13). The king's me in the house?" As the word went out of the king's mouth, they covered Haman's face.

9 Then Harbonah, one of the eunuchs who were before the king said, "Behold indeed, [a]the gallows standing at Haman's house fifty cubits high, which Haman made for Mordecai [b]who spoke good on behalf of the king!" And the king said, "Hang him on it."

10 [a]So they hanged Haman on the [1]gallows which he had prepared for Mordecai, [b]and the king's anger subsided.

Mordecai Promoted

8 On that day King Ahasuerus gave the house of Haman, [a]the enemy of the Jews, to Queen Esther; and Mordecai came before the king, for Esther had disclosed [b]what he was to her.

2 [a]The king took off his signet ring which he had taken away from Haman, and gave it to Mordecai. And Esther set Mordecai over the house of Haman.

3 Then Esther spoke again to the king, fell at his feet, wept and implored him to avert the evil scheme of Haman the Agagite and his plot which he had devised against the Jews.

4 [a]The king extended the golden scepter to Esther. So Esther arose and stood before the king.

5 Then she said, "[a]If it pleases the king and if I have found favor before him and the matter seems proper to the king and I am pleasing in his sight, let it be written to revoke the [b]letters devised by Haman, the son of Hammedatha the Agagite, which he wrote to destroy the Jews who are in all the king's provinces.

6 "For [a]how can I endure to see the calamity which will befall my people, and how can I endure to see the destruction of my kindred?"

7 So King Ahasuerus said to Queen Esther and to Mordecai the Jew, "Behold, [a]I have given the house of Haman to Esther, and him they have hanged on the gallows because he had stretched out his hands against the Jews.

The King's Decree Avenges the Jews

8 "Now you write to the Jews [1]as you see fit, in the king's name, and [a]seal it with the king's signet ring; for a decree which is written in the name of the king and sealed with the king's signet ring [b]may not be revoked."

9 [a]So the king's scribes were called at that time in the third month (that is, the month Sivan), on the twenty-third [1]day; and it was written according to all that Mordecai commanded to the Jews, the satraps, the governors and the princes of the provinces which extended [b]from India to [2]Ethiopia, 127 provinces, to [c]every province according to its script, and to every people according to their language as well as to the Jews according to their script and their language.

10 He wrote in the name of King Ahasuerus, and sealed it with the king's signet ring, and sent letters by couriers on [a]horses, riding on steeds sired by the royal stud.

11 [1]In them the king granted the Jews who were in each and every city the right [a]to assemble and to defend their lives, [b]to destroy, to kill and to annihilate the entire army of any people or province which might attack them, including children and women, and [c]to plunder their spoil, 12 on [a]one day in all the provinces of King Ahasuerus, the thirteenth day of the twelfth month (that is, the month Adar).

13 [a]A copy of the edict to be [1]issued as law in each and every province was published to all the peoples, so that the Jews would be ready for this day to avenge themselves on their enemies.

leaving the room sets the stage for the final twist that would seal Haman's fate. covered Haman's face. See 6:12; see also Introduction: Purpose, Themes and Literary Features.

7:9 Before this moment there is no evidence that Esther had known of Mordecai's triumph earlier in the day (ch. 6); she has pleaded for the life of her people. Harbona's reference to the gallows in effect introduces a second charge against Haman—his attempt to kill the king's benefactor. Harbonah. See Introduction: Purpose, Themes and Literary Features. He had been sent earlier to bring Vashti and thus set in motion the events that would lead to her fall and the choice of Esther (1:10); now he is instrumental in the fall of Haman and the rise of Mordecai.

7:10 subsided. See 2:1; see also Introduction: Purpose, Themes and Literary Features.

8:1–17 The author achieves considerable literary symmetry by recapitulating much of 3:1–4:3 in almost identical terms.

8:1 gave the house of Haman . . . to Queen Esther. Herodotus (3.128–129) and Josephus (Antiquities, 11.17) confirm that the property of a traitor reverted to the crown; Ahasuerus presents Haman's wealth (5:11) to Esther.

8:2 Cf. 3:10, where the king's offer of his ring includes Haman's keeping the money; here Mordecai receives the office and the estate of Haman.

8:3–6 Esther and Mordecai are secure (7:4–5), but the irrevocable decree is still a threat to the rest of the Jews.

8:3 Agagite. See note on 3:1.

8:5 favor. See 4:11; 5:2.

8:6 Cf. the Joseph story (Gen 44:34).

8:8 See 1:19; see also Introduction: Purpose, Themes and Literary Features. The dilemma is the same as the one that confronted Darius the Mede in Daniel (Dan 6:8,12,15). The solution is to issue another decree that in effect counters the original decree of Haman without formally revoking it (see note on 9:2–3).

8:9–13 The phraseology is taken from the parallel in 3:12–14. The extent of the destruction is the same as that earlier decreed against Amalek (see note on 3:13).

8:9 third month . . . twenty-third day. In Ahasuerus's 12th year, i.e., June 25, 474 B.C., two months and ten days after the proclamation of Haman's edict (see note on 3:13).

8:12 thirteenth day . . . twelfth month. Mar. 7, 473 B.C. (see 3:13). Some 15 years after this first Purim, Ezra would lead his expedition to Jerusalem (Ezra 7:9).

14 The couriers, hastened and impelled by the king's command, went out, riding on the royal steeds; and the decree was given out at the citadel in Susa.

15 Then Mordecai went out from the presence of the king [a]in royal robes of [1]blue and white, with a large crown of gold and [b]a garment of fine linen and purple; and [c]the city of Susa shouted and rejoiced.

16 For the Jews there was [a]light and gladness and joy and honor.

17 In each and every province and in each and every city, wherever the king's commandment and his decree arrived, there was gladness and joy for the Jews, a feast and a [1][a]holiday. And [b]many among the peoples of the land became Jews, for the dread of the Jews had fallen on them.

The Jews Destroy Their Enemies

9 Now [a]in the twelfth month (that is, the month Adar), on [b]the thirteenth [1]day [c]when the king's command and edict [2]were about to be executed, on the day when the enemies of the Jews hoped to gain the mastery over them, it was turned to the contrary so that the Jews themselves gained the mastery over those who hated them.

2 [a]The Jews assembled in their cities throughout all the provinces of King Ahasuerus to lay hands on those who sought their harm; and no one could stand before them, [b]for the dread of them had fallen on all the peoples.

3 Even all the princes of the provinces, [a]the satraps, the governors and those who were doing the king's business [1]assisted the Jews, because the dread of Mordecai had fallen on them.

4 Indeed, Mordecai was great in the king's house, and his fame spread throughout all the provinces; for the man Mordecai [a]became greater and greater.

5 Thus [a]the Jews struck all their enemies with [1]the sword, killing and destroying; and they did what they pleased to those who hated them.

6 At the citadel in Susa the Jews killed and destroyed five hundred men,

7 and Parshandatha, Dalphon, Aspatha,

8 Poratha, Adalia, Aridatha,

9 Parmashta, Arisai, Aridai and Vaizatha,

10 [a]the ten sons of Haman the son of Hammedatha, the Jews' enemy; but [b]they did not lay their hands on the plunder.

11 On that day the number of those who were killed at the citadel in Susa [1]was reported to the king.

12 The king said to Queen Esther, "The Jews have killed and destroyed five hundred men and the ten sons of Haman at the citadel in Susa. What then have they done in the rest of the king's provinces! [a]Now what is your petition? It shall even be granted you. And what is your further request? It shall also be done."

13 Then said Esther, "If it pleases the king, [a]let tomorrow also be granted to the Jews who are in Susa to do according to the edict of today; and let Haman's ten sons be hanged on the gallows."

14 So the king commanded that it should be done so; and an edict was issued in Susa, and Haman's ten sons were hanged.

15 The Jews who were in Susa assembled also on the fourteenth day of the month Adar and killed [a]three hundred men in Susa, but [b]they did not lay their hands on the plunder.

16 Now [a]the rest of the Jews who were in the king's provinces [b]assembled, to defend their lives and [1]rid themselves of their enemies, and kill 75,000 of those who hated them; but they did not lay their hands on the plunder.

17 This was done on [a]the thirteenth day of the month Adar, and [b]on the fourteenth [1]day they rested and made it a day of feasting and rejoicing.

18 But the Jews who were in Susa [a]assembled on the thirteenth and [b]the fourteenth

9:1 See notes on 8:9–13. The Jews carry out the edict of Mordecai eight months and 20 days later. turned to the contrary. The statement that the opposite happened points to the author's concern with literary symmetry: He balances most of the details from the first half of the story with their explicit reversal in the second half.
9:2–3 An illustration of Gen 12:3. Confronted with two conflicting edicts issued in the king's name—the edict of Haman and the edict of Mordecai—the governors follow the edict of the current regime.
9:5–10 The Jews attend to the unfinished business of "blotting out the name of the Amalekites" (Ex 17:16; Deut 25:17–19; see notes on 3:1–6). This incident is presented as the antithesis of 1 Sam 15: The narrator is emphatic that the Jews did not take plunder, in spite of the king's permission to do so (8:11). Seizing the plunder 500 years earlier in the battle against Amalek had cost Saul his kingship (1 Sam 15:17–19); here, not taking the plunder brings royal power to Mordecai (vv. 20–23). See vv. 15–16; cf. Gen 14:22–24.
9:10 sons of Haman. The second reference to Haman's sons (see 5:11; see also Introduction: Purpose, Themes and Literary Features).
9:12 See 5:3,6; 7:2.
9:13 The reference to hanging in this case is to the display of the corpses, not to the means of the execution (see vv. 7–10 and note on 2:23).
9:15–16 See note on vv. 5–10.
9:16,22 rid themselves of their enemies. Closely associated with the vengeance on their enemies is the rest promised to Israel (Deut 25:19). The defeat of Haman brings rest to the Jews. Cf. 1 Chr 22:6–10; Ps 95:8–11; Is 32:18; Heb 3:11–4:11.
9:18–19 The author accounts for the tradition of observing Purim on two different days: It is observed on the 14th in most towns, but the Jews of Susa observed it on the 15th. Today it is observed on the 14th except in Jerusalem, where it is observed on the 15th.

[1]of the same month, and they rested on the fifteenth [1]day and made it a day of feasting and rejoicing.

19 Therefore the Jews of the rural areas, who live in [a]the rural towns, make the fourteenth day of the month Adar a [1][b]holiday for rejoicing and feasting and [c]sending portions of food to one another.

The Feast of Purim Instituted

20 Then Mordecai recorded these events, and he sent letters to all the Jews who were in all the provinces of King Ahasuerus, both near and far,

21 obliging them to celebrate the fourteenth day of the month Adar, and the fifteenth day [1]of the same month, annually,

22 because on those days the Jews [1]rid themselves of their enemies, and it was a month which was [a]turned for them from sorrow into gladness and from mourning into a [2]holiday; that they should make them days of feasting and rejoicing and [b]sending portions of food to one another and gifts to the poor.

23 Thus the Jews undertook what they had started to do, and what Mordecai had written to them.

24 For Haman the son of Hammedatha, the Agagite, the adversary of all the Jews, had schemed against the Jews to destroy them and [a]had cast Pur, that is the lot, to disturb them and destroy them.

25 But [a]when it came [1]to the king's attention, he commanded by letter [b]that his wicked scheme which he had [2]devised against the Jews, [c]should return on his own head and that he and his sons should be hanged on the [3]gallows.

26 Therefore they called these days Purim after the name of Pur. [1]And [a]because of the instructions in this letter, both what they had seen in this regard and what had happened to them,

27 the Jews established and [1]made a custom for themselves and for their [2]descendants and for [a]all those who allied themselves with them, so that [3]they would not fail [b]to celebrate these two days according to their [4]regulation and according to their appointed time annually.

28 So these days were to be remembered and celebrated throughout every generation, every family, every province and every city; and these days of Purim were not to [1]fail from among the Jews, or their memory [2]fade from their [3]descendants.

29 Then Queen Esther, [a]daughter of Abihail, with Mordecai the Jew, wrote with full authority to confirm [b]this second letter about Purim.

30 He sent letters to all the Jews, [a]to the 127 provinces of the kingdom of Ahasuerus, namely, words of peace and truth,

31 to establish these days of Purim at their appointed times, just as Mordecai the Jew and Queen Esther had established for them, and just as they had established for themselves and for their [1]descendants with [2]instructions [a]for their times of fasting and their lamentations.

32 The command of Esther established these [1]customs for [a]Purim, and it was written in the book.

Mordecai's Greatness

10 Now King Ahasuerus laid a tribute on the land and on the [a]coastlands of the sea.

2 And all the [1]accomplishments of his authority and strength, and the full account of the greatness of Mordecai [a]to which the king [2]advanced him, are they not written in [b]the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Media and Persia?

3 For Mordecai the Jew was [a]second only to King Ahasuerus, and great among the Jews and in favor with his many kinsmen, [b]one who sought the good of his people and one who spoke for the welfare of his whole nation.

9:31 fasting. See notes on 4:3,16. No date is assigned for this fast. Jews traditionally observe the 13th of Adar, Haman's propitious day (see 3:7,13), as a fast ("the fast of Esther") before the celebration of Purim. These three days of victory celebration on the 13th–15th days of Adar rhetorically balance the three days of Esther's fasting prior to interceding with the king (4:16).

10:1–2 The reference to this taxation may represent material in the author's source, to which he directs the reader for additional information and confirmation (see note on 2:23).

Wisdom Literature

The Jews sometimes speak of the OT as the Law, the Prophets and the Writings. Included within the third division are Psalms and wisdom materials such as Job, Proverbs and Ecclesiastes. These wisdom books are associated with a class of people called "wise men" or "sages" who are listed with priests and prophets as an important force in Israelite society (Jer 18:18). Wise men were called on to give advice to kings and to instruct the young. Whereas the priests and prophets dealt more with the religious side of life, wise men were concerned about practical and philosophical matters. Some of their writings, like Proverbs, were optimistic, as they showed the young how to behave in order to live prosperous and happy lives. Other materials, such as Job and Ecclesiastes, were more pessimistic as they wrestled with difficult philosophical and theological questions such as the problem of evil and the prosperity of the wicked (see also Ps 37; 73). Both viewpoints—the optimistic and the pessimistic—are also found in the literature of other nations in the ancient Near East.

Because of the nature of Proverbs, we must not interpret it as prophecy or its statements about certain effects and results as promises. For instance, 10:27 says that the years of the wicked are cut short, while the righteous live long and prosperous lives (see 3:2 and note). The righteous have abundant food (10:3), but the wicked will go hungry (13:25). While such verses are generally true, there are enough exceptions to indicate that sometimes the righteous suffer and the wicked prosper. Normally the righteous and wicked "are rewarded in the earth" (11:31), but at other times reward and punishment lie beyond the grave.

Job

Author

Although most of the book consists of the words of Job and his counselors, Job himself was not the author. We may be sure that the author was an Israelite, since he (not Job or his friends) frequently uses the Israelite covenant name for God (Yahweh; NASB "the LORD"). In the prologue (chs. 1—2), divine discourses (38:1—42:6) and epilogue (42:7–17) "LORD" occurs a total of 25 times, while in the rest of the book (chs. 3—37) it appears only once (12:9).

The unknown author probably had access to oral and/or written sources from which, under divine inspiration, he composed the book that we now have. Of course the subject matter of the prologue had to be divinely revealed to him, since it contains information only God could know. While the author preserves much of the archaic and non-Israelite flavor in the language of Job and his friends, he also reveals his own style as a writer of wisdom literature. The literary structures and the quality of the rhetoric used display the author's literary genius.

Two dates are involved: (1) the date of the man Job and his historical setting, and (2) the date of the inspired writer who composed the book. The latter could be dated anytime from the reign of Solomon to the exile. Although the writer was an Israelite, he mentions nothing of Israelite history. He had a written and/or oral account about the non-Israelite sage Job (1:1), whose setting appears to be during the second millennium B.C. (2000–1000), and probably late in that millennium (see note on 19:24). Like the Hebrew patriarchs, Job lived more than 100 years (42:16). His wealth was measured in cattle (1:3), and he acted as priest for his family (1:5). The raiding of Sabean (1:15) and Chaldean (1:17) tribes fits the second millennium, as does the mention of the qesitah, a "piece of money," in 42:11 (see Gen 33:19; Josh 24:32). The discovery of a Targum (Aramaic paraphrase) on Job from the first or second century B.C. (the earliest written Targum) makes a very late date for authorship highly unlikely.

Language and Text

In many places Job is difficult to translate because of its many unusual words and its style. For that reason, modern translations frequently differ widely. Even the early translator(s) of Job into Greek (the Septuagint) seems often to have been perplexed. The Septuagint of Job is about 400 lines shorter than the accepted Hebrew text, and it may be that the translator(s) simply omitted lines he (they) did not understand. The early Syriac (Peshitta), Aramaic (Targum) and Latin (Vulgate) translators had similar difficulties.

Theme and Message

The book provides a profound statement on the subject of theodicy (the justice of God in light of human suffering). But the manner in which the problem of theodicy is conceived and the solution offered (if it may be called that) is uniquely Israelite. The theodicy question in Greek and later Western thought has been: How can the justice of an almighty God be defended in the face of evil, especially human suffering—and, even more particularly, the suffering of the innocent? In this form of the question, three possible assumptions are left open: (1) that God is not almighty, (2) that God is not just (that there is a "demonic" element in His being) and (3) that man may be innocent. In ancient Israel, however, it was indisputable that God is almighty, that He is perfectly just and that no human is wholly innocent in His sight. These three assumptions were also fundamental to the theology of Job and his friends. Simple logic then dictated the conclusion: Every person's suffering is indicative of the measure of his guilt in the eyes of God. In the abstract, this conclusion appeared inescapable, logically imperative and theologically satisfying. Hence, in the context of such a theology, theodicy was not a problem because its solution was self-evident.

But what was thus theologically self-evident and unassailable in the abstract was often, as in the case of Job, in radical tension with actual human experience. There were those whose godliness was genuine, whose moral character was upright and who, though not sinless, had kept themselves from great transgression, but who nonetheless were made to suffer bitterly. For these the self-evident theology brought no consolation and offered no guidance. It only gave rise to a great enigma. And the God to whom the sufferer was accustomed to turn in moments of need and distress became Himself the overwhelming enigma. In the speeches of chs. 3—37, we hear on the one hand the flawless logic but wounding thrusts of those who insisted on the "orthodox" theology, and on the other hand the writhing of soul of the righteous sufferer who struggles with the great enigma. In addition he suffers from the wounds inflicted by his well-intended friends (see note on 5:27). Here, then, we have a graphic portrayal of the unique form of the problem of theodicy as experienced by righteous sufferers within orthodox Israel.

The "solution" offered is also uniquely Israelite—or, better said, Biblical. The relationship between God and man is not exclusive and closed. A third party intrudes, the great adversary (see chs. 1—2). Incapable of contending with God hand to hand, power pitted against power, he is bent on frustrating God's enterprise embodied in the creation and centered on the God-man relationship. As tempter he seeks to alienate man from God (see Gen 3; Matt 4:1); as accuser (one of the names by which he is called, śaṭan, means "accuser") he seeks to alienate God from man (see Zech 3:1; Rev 12:9–10). His all-consuming purpose is to drive an irremovable wedge between God and man, to effect an alienation that cannot be reconciled.

In the story of Job, the author portrays the adversary in his boldest and most radical assault on God and the godly man in the special and intimate relationship that is dearest to them both. When God calls up the name of Job before the accuser and testifies to the righteousness of this one on the earth—this man in whom God delights—Satan attempts with one crafty thrust both to assail God's beloved and to show up God as a fool. True to one of his modes of operation, he accuses Job before God. He charges that Job's godliness is evil. The very godliness in which God takes delight is void of all integrity; it is a terrible sin. Job's godliness is self-serving; he is righteous only because it pays. If God will only let Satan tempt Job by breaking the link between righteousness and blessing, he will expose the righteous man for the sinner he is.

It is the adversary's ultimate challenge. For if the godliness of the righteous man in whom God delights can be shown to be a terrible sin, then a chasm of alienation stands between them that cannot be bridged. Then even redemption is unthinkable, for the godliest of men will be shown to be the most ungodly. God's whole enterprise in creation and redemption will be shown to be radically flawed, and God can only sweep it all away in awful judgment.

The accusation, once raised, cannot be removed, not even by destroying the accuser. So God lets the adversary have his way with Job (within specified limits) so that God and the righteous Job may be vindicated and the great accuser silenced. Thus comes the anguish of Job, robbed of every sign of God's favor so that God becomes for him the great enigma. Also his righteousness is assailed on earth through the logic of the "orthodox" theology of his friends. Alone he agonizes. But he knows in his heart that his godliness has been authentic and that someday he will be vindicated (see 13:18; 14:13–17; 16:19; 19:25–27). And in spite of all, though he may curse the day of his birth (ch. 3) and chide God for treating him unjustly (9:28–35)—the uncalculated outcry of a distraught spirit—he will not curse God (as his wife, the human nearest his heart, proposes; see 2:9). In fact, what pains him most is God's apparent alienation from him.

In the end the adversary is silenced. And the astute theologians, Job's friends, are silenced. And Job is silenced. But God is not. And when He speaks, it is to Job that He speaks, bringing the silence of regret for hasty speech in days of suffering and the silence of repose in the ways of the Almighty (see 38:1—42:6). Furthermore, as his heavenly friend, God hears Job's intercessions for his associates (42:8–10), and He restores Job's beatitude (42:10–17).

In summary, the author's pastoral word to the godly sufferer is that his righteousness has such supreme value that God treasures it more than all. And the great adversary knows that if he is to thwart the purposes of God he must assail the righteousness of man (see 1:21–22; 2:9–10; 23:8, 10; cf. Gen 15:6). At stake in the suffering of the truly godly is the outcome of the struggle in heaven between the great adversary and God, with the all-encompassing divine purpose in the balance. Thus the suffering of the righteous has a meaning and value commensurate with the titanic spiritual struggle of the ages.

Literary Form and Structure

Like some other ancient compositions, the book of Job has a sandwich literary structure: prologue (prose), main body (poetry), and epilogue (prose), revealing a creative composition, not an arbitrary compilation. Some of Job's words are lament (cf. ch. 3 and many shorter poems in his speeches), but the form of lament is unique to Job and often unlike the regular format of most lament psalms (except Ps 88). Much of the book takes the form of legal disputation. Although the friends come to console him, they end up arguing over the reason for Job's suffering. The argument breaks down in ch. 27, and Job then proceeds to make his final appeal to God for vindication (chs. 29—31). The wisdom poem in ch. 28 appears to be the words of the author, who sees the failure of the dispute as evidence of a lack of wisdom. So in praise of true wisdom he centers his structural apex between the three cycles of dialogue-dispute (chs. 3—27) and the three monologues: Job's (chs. 29—31), Elihu's (chs. 32—37) and God's (38:1—42:6). Job's monologue turns directly to God for a legal decision: that he is innocent of the charges his counselors have leveled against him. Elihu's monologue—another human perspective on why people suffer—rebukes Job but moves beyond the punishment theme to the value of divine chastening and God's redemptive purpose in it. God's monologue gives the divine perspective: Job is not condemned, but neither is a logical or legal answer given to why Job has suffered. That remains a mystery to Job, though the reader is ready for Job's restoration in the epilogue because he has had the heavenly vantage point of the prologue all along. So the literary structure and the theological significance of the book are beautifully tied together.

Job's Character and Wealth

1 There was a man in the [a]land of Uz whose name was [b]Job; and that man was [c]blameless, upright, [d]fearing God and [e]turning away from evil.

2 [a]Seven sons and three daughters were born to him.

3 [a]His possessions also were 7,000 sheep, 3,000 camels, 500 yoke of oxen, 500 female donkeys, and very many servants; and that man was [b]the greatest of all the [1]men of the east.

4 His sons used to go and hold a feast in the house of each one on his day, and they would send and invite their three sisters to eat and drink with them.

5 When the days of feasting had completed their cycle, Job would send and consecrate them, rising up early in the morning and offering [a]burnt offerings according to the number of them all; for Job said, "[b]Perhaps my sons have sinned and [c]cursed God in their hearts." Thus Job did continually.

6 [a]Now there was a day when the [b]sons of God came to present themselves before the LORD, and [1]Satan also came among them.

7 The LORD said to Satan, "From where do you come?" Then Satan answered the LORD and said, "[a]From roaming about on the earth and walking around on it."

8 The LORD said to Satan, "Have you [1]considered [a]My servant Job? For there is no one like him on the earth, [b]a blameless and upright man, [2]fearing God and turning away from evil."

9 Then [a]Satan answered the [1]LORD, "Does Job fear God for nothing?

10 "[a]Have You not made a hedge about him and his house and all that he has, on every side? [b]You have blessed the work of his hands, and his [c]possessions have increased in the land.

11 "[a]But put forth Your hand now and [b]touch all that he has; he will surely curse You to Your face."

12 Then the LORD said to Satan, "Behold, all that he has is in your [1]power, only do not put forth your hand on him." So Satan departed from the presence of the LORD.

Satan Allowed to Test Job

13 Now on the day when his sons and his daughters were eating and drinking wine in their oldest brother's house,

14 a messenger came to Job and said, "The oxen were plowing and the [1]donkeys feeding beside them,

15 and [1]the [a]Sabeans [2]attacked and took them. They also [3]slew the servants with the edge of the sword, and [4]I alone have escaped to tell you."

16 While he was still speaking, another also came and said, "[a]The fire of God fell from heaven and burned up the sheep and the servants and consumed them, and I alone have escaped to tell you."

17 While he was still speaking, another also came and said, "The [a]Chaldeans formed three bands and made a raid on the camels and took them and [1]slew the servants with

1:1 land of Uz. A large territory east of the Jordan (see v. 3), which included Edom in the south (see Gen 36:28; Lam 4:21) and the Aramean lands in the north (see Gen 10:23; 22:21). blameless, upright. Spiritually and morally upright. This does not mean that Job was sinless. He later defends his moral integrity but also admits he is a sinner (see 6:24; 7:21). fearing God. See 28:28; Prov 3:7; see also note on Gen 20:11.

1:2 Seven sons. An ideal number, signifying completeness (see note on Ruth 4:15).

1:3 7,000 sheep. See note on 42:12. Job's enormous wealth was in livestock, not land (see Gen 12:16; 13:2; 26:14). donkeys. The Hebrew for this word is feminine in form. Donkeys that produced offspring were very valuable. men of the east. The Hebrew for this phrase is translated "eastern peoples" in Gen 29:1; Judg 6:3 (see note there).

1:5 days of feasting. On special occasions, feasts might last a week (see Gen 29:27; Judg 14:12). consecrate them. Make them ceremonially clean in preparation for the sacrifices he offered for them (see Ex 19:10,14). offering burnt offerings. Before the ceremonial laws of Moses were introduced, the father of the household acted as priest (see Gen 15:9–10).

1:6 sons of God came to present themselves. Angels who came as members of the heavenly council who stand in the presence of God (see 1 Kin 22:19; Ps 89:5–7; Jer 23:18,22). Satan. Lit. "the adversary/accuser" (see Rev 12:10). In Job the Hebrew for this word is always preceded by the definite article. In the Hebrew of 1 Chr 21:1 the article is not used, because by then "Satan" had become a proper name.

1:7 The LORD. The Israelite covenant name for God (see Introduction: Author; see also note on Gen 2:4).

1:8 Have you considered . . . Job? The Lord, not Satan, initiates the dialogue that leads to the testing of Job. He holds up Job as one against whom "the accuser" can lodge no accusation. My servant. See 42:7–8 and note; a designation for one who stands in a special relationship with God and is loyal in service (e.g., Moses, Num 12:7; David, 2 Sam 7:5; see Is 42:1; 52:13; 53:11).

1:9 "The accuser" boldly accuses the man God commends: He says Job's righteousness, in which God delights, is self-serving—the heart of Satan's attack on God and His faithful servant in the book of Job.

1:10 hedge. Symbolizes protection (see Is 5:5; contrast Job 3:23).

1:11 put forth Your hand now and touch. See 4:5.

1:12 Satan, the accuser, is given power to afflict (v. 12a) but is kept on a leash (v. 12b). In all his evil among men (vv. 15,17) or in nature (vv. 16,19), Satan is under God's power (compare 1 Chr 21:1 with 2 Sam 24:1; see 1 Sam 16:14; 2 Sam 24:16; 1 Cor 5:5; 2 Cor 12:7; Heb 2:14). The contest, however, is not a sham. Will Job curse God to His face? If Job does not, the accuser will be proven false and God's delight in Job vindicated.

1:15 Sabeans. Probably south Arabians from Sheba, whose descendants became wealthy traders in spices, gold and precious stones (see the account of the queen of Sheba in 1 Kin 10:1–13; see also Ps 72:10,15; Is 60:6; Jer 6:20; Ezek 27:22; Joel 3:8). Job 6:19 calls the Sabeans "travelers" and associates them with Tema (about 350 miles southeast of Jerusalem).

1:16 fire of God. Lightning (see Num 11:1; 1 Kin 18:38; 2 Kin 1:12).

1:17 Chaldeans. A people who were Bedouin until c. 1000 B.C., when they settled in southern Mesopotamia and later became the nucleus of Nebuchadnezzar's Babylonian empire.

the edge of the sword, and I alone have escaped to tell you."

18 While he was still speaking, another also came and said, "Your sons and your daughters were eating and drinking wine in their oldest brother's house,

19 and behold, a great wind came from across the wilderness and struck the four corners of the house, and it fell on the young people and they died, and I alone have escaped to tell you."

20 Then Job arose and [a]tore his robe and shaved his head, and he fell to the ground and worshiped.

21 He said,

"[a]Naked I came from my mother's womb,
And naked I shall return there.
The [b]LORD gave and the LORD has taken away.
Blessed be the name of the LORD."

22 [a]Through all this Job did not sin nor did he [1]blame God.

Job Loses His Health

2 [a]Again there was a day when the sons of God came to present themselves before the LORD, and Satan also came among them to present himself before the LORD.

2 The LORD said to Satan, "Where have you come from?" Then Satan answered the LORD and said, "From roaming about on the earth and walking around on it."

3 The LORD said to Satan, "Have you [1]considered My servant Job? For there is no one like him on the earth, a blameless and upright man [2]fearing God and turning away from evil. And he still [a]holds fast his integrity, although you incited Me against him to [3]ruin him without cause."

4 Satan answered the LORD and said, "Skin for skin! Yes, all that a man has he will give for his life.

5 "[a]However, put forth Your hand now, and [b]touch his bone and his flesh; he will curse You to Your face."

6 So the LORD said to Satan, "Behold, he is in your [1]power, only spare his life."

7 Then Satan went out from the presence of the LORD and smote Job with [a]sore boils from the sole of his foot to the crown of his head.

8 And he took a potsherd to scrape himself while [a]he was sitting among the ashes.

9 Then his wife said to him, "Do you still hold fast your integrity? Curse God and die!"

10 But he said to her, "You speak as one of the foolish women speaks. [a]Shall we indeed accept good from God and not accept adversity?" [b]In all this Job did not sin with his lips.

11 Now when Job's three friends heard of all this adversity that had come upon him, they came each one from his own place, Eliphaz the [a]Temanite, Bildad the [b]Shuhite and Zophar the Naamathite; and they made an appointment together to come to [c]sympathize with him and comfort him.

12 When they lifted up their eyes at a distance and did not recognize him, they raised their voices and wept. And each of them [a]tore his robe and they [b]threw dust over their heads toward the sky.

13 [a]Then they sat down on the ground with him for seven days and seven nights

1:19 great wind. Tornado.

1:20 Then Job arose. He is silent until his children are killed. tore his robe and shaved his head. In mourning (see notes on Gen 37:34; Is 15:2).

1:21 shall return there. See Gen 2:7; 3:19 and note. The LORD gave and the LORD has taken away. Job's faith leads him to see the sovereign God's hand at work, and that gives him repose even in the face of calamity.

2:1–3 Except for the final sentence, this passage is almost identical to 1:6–8. He who accused Job of having a deceitful motive is now shown to have a deceitful motive himself: to discredit the Lord through Job.

2:3 you incited Me. God cannot be stirred up to do things against His will. Though it is not always clear how, everything that happens is part of His divine purpose (see 38:2).

2:4 Skin for skin! No doubt a proverb—perhaps originally an expression of willingness to barter one animal skin for another of equal value.

2:5 touch his bone and his flesh. See 1:11–12; cf. Gen 2:23; Luke 24:39.

2:6 spare his life. Satan is still limited by God. Should Job die, neither God nor Job could be vindicated.

2:7 The precise nature of Job's sickness is uncertain, but its symptoms were painful festering sores over the whole body (7:5), nightmares (7:14), scabs that peeled and became black (30:28,30), disfigurement and revolting appearance (2:12; 19:19), bad breath (19:17), excessive thinness (17:7; 19:20), fever (30:30) and pain day and night (30:17). boils. See Ex 9:9; Lev 13:18; 2 Kin 20:7.

2:8 ashes. Symbolic of mourning (see 42:6; Esth 4:3; cf. Jon 3:6, which speaks of sitting in dust).

2:9 Curse God. The Hebrew for this expression here and in 1:5 employs a euphemism (lit. "Bless God"). Satan is using Job's wife to tempt Job as he used Eve to tempt Adam. and die. Since nothing but death is left for Job, his wife wants him to provoke God to administer the final stroke due to all who curse Him (Lev 24:10–16).

2:10 Shall we indeed accept good from God, and not accept adversity? A key theme of the book: Trouble and suffering are not merely punishment for sin; for God's people they may serve as a trial (as here) or as a discipline that culminates in spiritual gain (see 5:17; Deut 8:5; 2 Sam 7:14; Ps 94:12; Prov 3:11–12; 1 Cor 11:32; Heb 12:5–11).

2:11 three friends. Older than Job (see 15:10). Eliphaz. An Edomite name (see Gen 36:11). Temanite. Teman was a village in Edom, south of the Dead Sea (see Gen 36:11; Jer 49:7; Ezek 25:13; Amos 1:12; Obad 9). Shuhite. Bildad may have been a descendant of Shuah, the youngest son of Abraham and Keturah (Gen 25:2). Naamathite. Apart from 11:1; 20:1; 42:9, this word does not occur elsewhere in the Bible.

2:12 did not recognize him. Cf. Is 52:14; 53:3. tore his robe . . . threw dust over their heads. Visible signs of mourning (see note on 1:20).

2:13 sat down on the ground with him. See Ezek 3:15; possibly an expression of sympathy. seven. See Gen 50:10; 1 Sam 31:13; the number of completeness (see 1:2; see also note on Ruth

Job's Lament

3 Afterward Job opened his mouth and cursed [1]the day of his birth.
2 And Job [1]said,
3 "[a]Let the day perish on which I was to be born,
And the night which said, 'A [1]boy is conceived.'
4 "May that day be darkness;
Let not God above care for it,
Nor light shine on it.
5 "Let [a]darkness and black gloom claim it;
Let a cloud settle on it;
Let the blackness of the day terrify it.
6 "As for that night, let darkness seize it;
Let it not rejoice among the days of the year;
Let it not come into the number of the months.
7 "Behold, let that night be barren;
Let no joyful shout enter it.
8 "Let those curse it who curse the day,
Who are [1]prepared to [a]rouse Leviathan.
9 "Let the stars of its twilight be darkened;
Let it wait for light but have none,
And let it not see the [1]breaking dawn;
10 Because it did not shut the opening of my mother's womb,
Or hide trouble from my eyes.

11 "[a]Why did I not die [1]at birth,
Come forth from the womb and expire?
12 "Why did the knees receive me,
And why the breasts, that I should suck?
13 "For now I [a]would have lain down and been quiet;
I would have slept then, I would have been at rest,
14 With [a]kings and with [b]counselors of the earth,
Who rebuilt [c]ruins for themselves;
15 Or with [a]princes [b]who had gold,
Who were filling their houses with silver.
16 "Or like a miscarriage which is [1]discarded, I would not be,
As infants that never saw light.
17 "There the wicked cease from raging,
And there the [1]weary are at [a]rest.
18 "The prisoners are at ease together;
They do not hear the voice of the taskmaster.
19 "The small and the great are there,
And the slave is free from his master.

20 "Why is [a]light given to him who suffers,
And life to the bitter of soul,
21 Who [1][a]long for death, but there is none,
And dig for it more than for [b]hidden treasures,
22 Who rejoice greatly,
And exult when they find the grave?
23 "Why is light given to a man [a]whose way is hidden,
And whom [b]God has hedged in?
24 "For [a]my groaning comes at the sight of my food,
And [b]my cries pour out like water.
25 "For [1][a]what I fear comes upon me,
And what I dread befalls me.
26 "I [a]am not at ease, nor am I quiet,
And I am not at rest, but turmoil comes."

Eliphaz: Innocent Do Not Suffer

4 Then Eliphaz the Temanite [1]answered,
2 "If one ventures a word with you, will you become impatient?
But [a]who can refrain [1]from speaking?
3 "Behold [a]you have admonished many,
And you have strengthened weak hands.

4:15). no one speaking a word to him. A wiser response than their later speeches would prove to be (see 16:2–3).

3:3 Let the day perish on which I was . . . born. Job's very existence, which has been a joy to him because of God's favor, is now his intolerable burden. He is as close as he will ever come to cursing God, but he does not do it.

3:4 May that day be darkness. God had said in Gen 1:3, "Let there be light." Job, using similar language, would negate God's creative act.

3:8 those . . . who curse the day. Eastern soothsayers, like Balaam (see Num 22–24), who pronounced curses on people, objects and days. Leviathan. Using vivid, figurative language, Job wishes that "those . . . who curse the day" would arouse the sea monster Leviathan (see note on Is 27:1) to swallow the day-night of his birth.

3:11–12,16,20–23 A series of rhetorical questions.

3:16 Since in fact his birth had taken place, the next possibility would have been a stillbirth. He would then have lived only in the grave (or Sheol), which he envisions as a place of peace and rest (vv. 13–19; see note on Gen 37:35). Such a situation would be much better than his present intolerable condition, in which he can find neither peace nor rest (v. 26).

3:18 voice of the taskmaster. As in Egypt (see Ex 5:13–14).

3:21–22 Death has become desirable for Job.

3:23 whom God has hedged in. God, who had put a hedge of protection around him (see 1:10 and note), has now, he feels, hemmed him in with turmoil (see v. 26).

4:1 Eliphaz the Temanite. See note on 2:11. Teman was an Edomite town noted for wisdom (see Jer 49:7). The speeches of Job's three friends contain elements of truth, but they must be carefully interpreted in context. The problem is not so much with what the friends knew but with what they did not know: God's high purpose in allowing Satan to buffet Job.

4:2 ventures a word. Eliphaz seems to be genuinely concerned with Job's well-being and offers a complimentary word (vv. 3–4). impatient. See note on 9:2–3.

4 "Your words have [1]helped the tottering

And you have strengthened [2]feeble

5 "But now it has come to you, and you
[a]are impatient;
It [b]touches you, and you are dismayed.
6 "Is not your [1][a]fear of God [b]your

And the integrity of your ways your 7 "Remember now, [a]who ever perished being innocent?

Or where were the upright destroyed?
8 "According to what I have seen, [a]those

And those who sow trouble harvest it.
9 "By [a]the breath of God they perish,
And [b]by the [1]blast of His anger they come to an end.

16 "It stood still, but I could not discern its appearance;

There was silence, then I heard a

5 "Call now, is there anyone who will

2 "For [a]anger slays the foolish man,
And jealousy kills the simple.
3 "I have seen the [a]foolish taking root,
And I [b]cursed his abode immediately.
4 "His [a]sons are far from safety,
They are even [1]oppressed in the gate,
And there is no deliverer.
5 "[1]His harvest the hungry devour

And the [2][a]schemer is eager for their 6 "For [a]affliction does not come from the dust,

Nor does trouble sprout from the ground,
7 For [a]man is born for trouble,
As sparks fly upward.

4:5 touches you. See 1:11; 2:5; 19:21.
4:6–7 Eliphaz counsels Job to be confident that his piety will count with God, that though God is now chastening him for some sin, it is to a good end (see v. 17; 5:17), and he can be assured that God will not destroy him along with the wicked.
4:6 fear. See note on 1:1. The word is used only by Eliphaz (see 15:4; 22:4).
4:7–9 If Job is truly innocent, he will not be destroyed.
4:8–11 Just as the strongest lions eventually die (vv. 10–11), so the wicked are eventually destroyed (vv. 8–9).
4:9 blast of His anger. See Ex 15:7–8. God's judgment is fearfully severe.
4:12–21 Eliphaz tells of a hair-raising (see v. 15), mystical experience mediated through a dream (see v. 13), through which he claims to have received divine revelation and on which he bases his advice to Job.
4:13 Amid . . . visions . . . When deep sleep falls on men. Eliphaz's words are echoed by Elihu in 33:15.
4:14 all my bones shake. A sign of great distress (see Jer 23:9; Hab 3:16).
4:17–21 All mortals are sinful; therefore God has a right to punish them. Job should be thankful for the correction God is giving him (see 5:17).
4:18–19 If the angels, who are not made of dust, can be guilty in God's sight, how much more man (see 15:15–16)!
4:18 servants. Angels.
4:19 houses of clay. Bodies made of dust (see 10:9; 33:6; see also note on Gen 2:7). moth. A symbol of fragility (cf. 27:18).
4:20 Between morning and evening. A vivid picture of the shortness of life.
4:21 tent-cord. A tent was a temporary home, like the human body (see 2 Cor 5:1,4; 2 Pet 1:13). without wisdom. Needlessly and senselessly (see v. 20).
5:1 to which . . . will you turn? To plead your case with God. The idea of a mediator, someone to arbitrate between God and Job, is an important motif in the book (see 9:33; 16:19–20; see also note on 19:25). holy ones. Holy angels, the "sons of God" in the prologue (see 1:6 and note; 2:1).
5:2 Without mentioning him, Eliphaz implies that Job is resentful against God and that harm will follow. foolish man. One who pays no attention to God. The Hebrew for "fool" or "foolish" denotes moral deficiency.
5:3 the foolish taking root. A wicked man prospering like a tree taking root (see Ps 1:3).
5:6 Unlike a weed, trouble must be sown and cultivated.
5:7 man is born for trouble. See 14:1; proof that no one is righteous in the eyes of God (see 4:17–19). Job should stop behaving like a fool (see vv. 1–7) and should humble himself. Then

8 "But as for me, I would [a]seek God,
And I would place my cause before God;
9 Who [a]does great and unsearchable things,
[1]Wonders without number.
10 "He [a]gives rain on the earth
And sends water on the fields,
11 So that [a]He sets on high those who are lowly,
And those who mourn are lifted to safety.
12 "He [a]frustrates the plotting of the shrewd,
So that their hands cannot attain success.
13 "He [a]captures the wise by their own shrewdness,
And the advice of the cunning is quickly thwarted.
14 "By day they [a]meet with darkness,
And grope at noon as in the night.
15 "But He saves from [a]the sword of their mouth,
And [b]the poor from the hand of the mighty.
16 "So the helpless has hope,
And [a]unrighteousness must shut its mouth.

17 "Behold, how [a]happy is the man whom God reproves,
So do not despise the [b]discipline of [1]the Almighty.
18 "For [a]He inflicts pain, and [1]gives relief;
He wounds, and His hands also heal.
19 "[1]From six troubles [a]He will deliver you,
Even in seven [b]evil will not touch you.
20 "In [a]famine He will redeem you from death,
And [b]in war from the power of the sword.

Therefore my words have been rash.

God would bless, and injustice would shut its mouth (see v. 16).

sparks. Lit. "sons of Resheph." In Canaanite mythology, Resheph was a god of plague and destruction. "(Sons of) Resheph" is used as a poetic image in the OT for fire (Song 8:6), bolts of lightning (Ps 78:48) and pestilence (Deut 32:24; Hab 3:5).

5:9 Repeated in 9:10.

5:13 Quoted in part in 1 Cor 3:19 (the only clear quotation of Job in the NT).

5:17–26 While the preceding hymn (vv. 8–16) spoke of God's goodness and justice, this poem celebrates the blessedness of the man whom God disciplines (see Prov 1:2,7; 3:12; 23:13,23). Eliphaz believed that discipline is temporary and is followed by healing (v. 18), and that the good man will always be rescued. But with Job's wealth gone and his children dead, these words about security (v. 24) and children (v. 25) must have seemed cruel indeed to him.

5:17 Almighty. The first of 31 times that the Hebrew word Shaddai is used in Job (see note on Gen 17:1).

5:18–19 See Hos 6:1–2.

5:19 six . . . seven. See 33:29; 40:5; Prov 6:16; 30:15,18,21,29; Eccl 11:2; Amos 1:3,6,9,11,13; 2:1,4,6; Mic 5:5. Normally, such number patterns are not to be taken literally but are a poetic way of saying "many."

5:23 in league with the stones. A figurative way of saying that stones will "be at peace with you" and will not ruin the crops (see 2 Kin 3:19; Is 5:2; Matt 13:5).

5:25 as the grass. As numerous as blades of grass (see note on Gen 13:16).

5:26 Eliphaz's prediction was more accurate than he realized (see 42:16–17).

5:27 know for yourself. Eliphaz's conclusion: Job must turn from unrighteousness (4:7) and resentment against God (v. 2) to humility (v. 11) and the acceptance of God's righteous discipline (v. 17). Eliphaz's purpose is to offer theological comfort and counsel to Job (2:11), but instead he wounds him with false accusation.

6:2–3 Job appeals for a sympathetic understanding of the harsh words he spoke in ch. 3.

6:4 arrows of the Almighty. Job shares Eliphaz's "orthodox" theology and believes that God is aiming His arrows of judgment at him—though he does not know why (see 7:20; 16:12–13; see also Lam 3:12; cf. Deut 32:23; Ps 7:13; 38:2).

6:5–6 Job claims the right to bray and bellow, since he has been wounded by God and offered tasteless food (words) by his friends.

6 "Can something tasteless be eaten without salt,
Or is there any taste in the [1]white of an egg?
7 "My soul [a]refuses to touch them;
They are like loathsome food to me.

8 "Oh that my request might come to pass,
And that God would grant my longing!
9 "Would that God were [a]willing to crush me,
That He would loose His hand and cut me off!
10 "But it is still my consolation,
And I rejoice in unsparing pain,
That I [a]have not [1]denied the words of the Holy One.
11 "What is my strength, that I should wait?
And what is my end, that I should [1][a]endure?
12 "Is my strength the strength of stones,
Or is my flesh bronze?
13 "Is it that my [a]help is not within me,
And that [1][b]deliverance is driven from me?

14 "For the [a]despairing man there should be kindness from his friend;
So that he does not [b]forsake the [1]fear of the Almighty.
15 "My brothers have acted [a]deceitfully like a [1]wadi,
Like the torrents of [1]wadis which vanish,
16 Which are turbid because of ice
And into which the snow [1]melts.
17 "When [a]they become waterless, they [1]are silent,
When it is hot, they vanish from their place.
18 "The [1]paths of their course wind along,
They go up into nothing and perish.
19 "The caravans of [a]Tema looked,
The travelers of [b]Sheba hoped for them.
20 "They [a]were [1]disappointed for they had trusted,
They came there and were confounded.
21 "Indeed, you have now become such,
[a]You see a terror and are afraid.
22 "Have I said, 'Give me something,'
Or, 'Offer a bribe for me from your wealth,'
23 Or, 'Deliver me from the hand of the adversary,'
Or, 'Redeem me from the hand of the tyrants'?

24 "Teach me, and [a]I will be silent;
And show me how I have erred.
25 "How painful are honest words!
But what does your argument prove?
26 "Do you intend to reprove my words,
When the [a]words of one in despair belong to the wind?
27 "You would even [a]cast lots for [b]the orphans
And [c]barter over your friend.
28 "Now please look at me,
And see if I [a]lie to your face.
29 "Desist now, let there be no injustice;
Even desist, [a]my righteousness is yet in it.
30 "Is there injustice on my tongue?
Cannot [a]my palate discern [1]calamities?

Job's Life Seems Futile

7 "[1]Is not man [a]forced to labor on earth,

2 "As a slave who pants for the shade,
And as a hired man who eagerly waits for his wages,

And [a]nights of trouble are appointed me.
4 "When I [a]lie down I say,
'When shall I arise?'
But the night continues,
And I am [1]continually tossing until dawn.

6:8–9 Job repeats the thoughts of ch. 3.
6:10 But. Job has the joy of knowing that he has remained true to God.
6:11–13 With no human resources left, Job considers his condition hopeless.
6:11 endure. See note on 9:2–3.
6:14–15 See Gal 6:1. Job needs spiritual help, but his friends are proving to be undependable.
6:15 brothers. By calling his friends his "brothers," Job makes their callousness stand out more sharply.
6:19 Tema. See note on Is 21:14. Sheba. See note on 1:15.
6:22–23 Job has not asked them for anything except what will cost them nothing: their friendship and counsel.
6:25 honest words. Job is referring to his own words.
6:26 wind. See 8:2.
6:27 In addition to dishonesty, Job accuses his friends of heartless cruelty.
6:29 Job softens his tone, pleading that his friends take back their false accusations.
7:1–21 Having replied to Eliphaz, Job now addresses his complaint toward God.
7:1 forced to labor. See 14:14. The Hebrew for this expression sometimes implies military service. It is also used in reference to the Babylonian exile in Is 40:2 (see note there).
7:2 shade. End of the workday.
7:5 See note on 2:7.
7:7 my life is but breath. As a chronic sufferer he has lost all sense of purpose in life (see v. 3; see also Ps 144:3–4). He does not anticipate healing and sees death as his only escape.

Bildad Says God Rewards the Good

7:8 Your eyes will be on me, but I will not be. See v. 21.

7:9 he who goes down to Sheol does not come up. Such statements are based on common observation and are not meant to dogmatize about what happens after death. Mesopotamian descriptions of the netherworld refer to it similarly as the "land of no return" (see note on v. 21).

7:11 not restrain my mouth. Job is determined to cry out against the apparent injustice of God who, it seems, will not leave him alone (vv. 17–20). speak in . . . anguish. See Jer 4:19. bitterness of . . . soul. See 10:1; 21:25; 27:2.

7:12 the sea, or the sea monster. See 3:8. The boisterous sea monster was a symbol of chaos (see Ps 74:13–14 and note; Is 27:1; 51:9), and Job objects to being treated like him.

7:13–14 He thinks that even the nightmares that disturb his much-needed sleep are from God.

7:16 I waste away. See note on 9:21.

7:17 What is man that You magnify him . . . ? See Ps 144:3; cf. Ps 8:4–8, where the answer is given that man is created in God's image to have dominion over the world (see Gen 1:27–28). Job's words (vv. 18–21) are a parody on this theme—as if God's only interest in man is to scrutinize him unmercifully and take quick offense at his slightest fault.

7:19 until I swallow my spittle? Job's words suggest he is never free from God's gaze—not even long enough to "swallow."

7:20 Have I sinned? What have I done to you . . . ? I have not been perfect, but what terrible sin have I committed that deserves this kind of suffering? watcher. The Hebrew for this word is used in a favorable sense in Is 27:3, but here Job complains that God is too critical. set me as Your target. See note on 6:4. burden to myself. Ancient Hebrew scribes report that a change in the text had been made from "you" to "myself" because the reading "you" involved too presumptuous a questioning of God's justice.

7:21 transgression . . . iniquity. Job confesses that he is a sinner, but he cannot understand why God refuses to forgive him. lie down in the dust. Of the netherworld, as in Mesopotamian descriptions of it (see note on v. 9).

8:2 How long . . . ? See 18:2. In contrast to the older Eliphaz, Bildad is impatient.

8:3 Does God pervert justice? But Job has not yet blatantly accused God of injustice.

8:5–6 Bildad reasons as follows: God cannot be unjust, so Job and his family must be suffering as a result of sinfulness. Job should plead for mercy, and if he has been upright, God will restore him.

8:6 If you are pure and upright. We know God's verdict about Job (see 1:8; 2:3), but Bildad is confident that Job is a hypocrite (see v. 13).

8:7 See v. 21. Bildad spoke more accurately than he realized (see 42:10–17).

8:8 inquire of past generations. Eliphaz appealed to revelation from the spirit world (see 4:12–21), while Bildad appeals to the accumulated wisdom of tradition.

9 "For we are only of yesterday and know nothing,
Because [a]our days on earth are as a shadow.
10 "Will they not teach you and tell you,
And bring forth words from their minds?

11 "Can the papyrus grow up without a marsh?
Can the rushes grow without water?
12 "While it is still green and not cut down,
Yet it withers before any other [1]plant.
13 "So are the paths of [a]all who forget God;
And the [b]hope of the godless will perish,
14 Whose confidence is fragile,
And whose trust a [a]spider's [1]web.
15 "He [1]trusts in his [a]house, but it does not stand;
He holds fast to it, but it does not endure.
16 "He [1][a]thrives before the sun,
And his [b]shoots spread out over his garden.
17 "His roots wrap around a rock pile,
He [1]grasps a house of stones.

Then it will deny him, saying, '[b]I never saw you.'
19 "Behold, [a]this is the joy of His way;
And out of the dust others will spring.

Nor [b]will He [1]support the evildoers.

Job Says There Is No Arbitrator between God and Man

9 Then Job [1]answered,
2 "In truth I know that this is so;
But how can a [a]man be in the right [1]before God?
3 "If one wished to [a]dispute with Him,
He could not answer Him once in a thousand times.

8:9 our days . . . are as a shadow. A common motif in wisdom literature (see 14:2; 1 Chr 29:15; Ps 102:11; 144:4; Eccl 6:12; 8:13).
8:11–19 A practical wisdom poem, giving words of instruction learned from the fathers. It is introduced in v. 10 and applied to Job in vv. 20–22.
8:20 Bildad is blunt about Job's being an evildoer, whereas Eliphaz had resorted to insinuation (see 4:7–9).
8:21 See note on v. 7.
9:2–3 Job does not believe that he is sinless, but he wishes to have his day in court so that he can prove he is innocent of the kind of sin that deserves the suffering he endures. In his despair he voices awful complaints against God (see vv. 16–20,22–24, 29–35; 10:1–7,13–17). Yet he does not abandon God; he does not curse Him (see 10:2,8–12), as Satan said he would (see 1:11; 2:5). Ch. 42 implies that Job persevered, but chs. 9–10 show that he did so with impatience (see 4:2; 6:11; 21:4). Cf. James 5:11, which speaks of Job's endurance, not (as traditionally) his patience.
9:3 dispute. See v. 14. Job's speech is filled with the imagery of the courtroom: "answer Him" (vv. 3,14,32), "right . . . implore . . . judge" (v. 15), "summon" (v. 19), "declare me guilty" (v. 20), "judges" (v. 24), "court" (v. 32), "contend with me" (10:2), "witnesses" (10:17). Job argues his innocence, but he feels that because God is so great there is no use in contending with Him (v. 14). Job's innocence does him no good (v. 15).
9:5–10 A beautiful hymn about God's greatness. But Job is not blessed by it, for he does not see that God's power is controlled by goodness and justice.
9:6 pillars. See 26:11. The metaphor of the earth resting on a foundation (see 38:6; 1 Sam 2:8; Ps 75:3; 104:5) is changed in 26:7 to a description of the earth suspended over nothing.
9:8 stretches out the heavens. Either (1) creates the heavens (see Is 44:24), or perhaps (2) causes the dawn to spread, like a man stretching out a tent (see Ps 104:2). tramples down the waves. Canaanite texts describe the goddess Asherah as walking on the sea (or sea-god) to subdue it. Similarly, God "tramples down the waves" to control the boisterous sea.
9:9 Bear, Orion . . . Pleiades. These three constellations are mentioned again in 38:31–32, and the last two are mentioned in Amos 5:8 (see note there). Despite their limited knowledge of astronomy, the ancient Israelites were awed by the fact that God had created the constellations.
9:10 The same words are spoken by Eliphaz in 5:9.
9:12 who could restrain Him? Job argues that God has an Beneath Him crouch the helpers of [a]Rahab.

14 "How then can [a]I [1]answer Him,
And choose my words [2]before Him?
15 "For [a]though I were right, I could not [1]answer;
I would have to [b]implore the mercy of my judge.

Job Despairs of God's Dealings

10 "[1a]I loathe my own life;
I will give full vent to [b]my complaint;
I will speak in the bitterness of my soul.
2 "I will say to God, '[a]Do not condemn me;
Let me know why You contend with me.
3 'Is it [1]right for You indeed to [a]oppress,
To reject [b]the labor of Your hands,
And [2]to look favorably on [c]the schemes of the wicked?
4 'Have You eyes of flesh?
Or do You [a]see as a man sees?

unchallengeable, sovereign freedom that works to accomplish everything He pleases.

9:13 Rahab. Not the prostitute Rahab of Josh 2 but a mythical sea monster (see 26:12), elsewhere used as symbolic of Egypt (see Is 30:7 and note). See 3:8; 7:12 and notes.

9:15 judge. God's fairness is unimpeachable (see Gen 18:25 and note).

9:17 Job does not know that God has allowed Satan to crush him for a high purpose.

9:20 mouth will condemn me. See 15:6.

9:21 I despise my life. See 7:16; words of despairing resignation that would be partially echoed in Job's final outpouring of repentance (see 42:6).

9:22–24 God has become Job's great enigma. Job describes a phantom God—one who does not exist, except in Job's mind. The God of the Bible is not morally indifferent (cf. God's words in 38:2; 40:2 and Job's response in 42:3).

9:24 covers the faces of its judges. Statues of Lady Justice are blindfolded, implying that she will judge impartially. But Job's accusation against God is that He has blindfolded the judges so that they see neither crimes nor innocence.

9:26 reed boats. See note on Ex 2:3.

9:28 You will not acquit me. Job wants to stand before God as an innocent man—not sinless, but innocent of any sin commensurate with his suffering.

9:29 accounted wicked. As appears from the bitter suffering he is enduring.

9:30 lye. A vegetable alkali used as a cleansing agent. The Hebrew underlying this word is translated "soap" in Jer 2:22; Mal 3:2.

9:33 umpire between us. See note on 5:1. God is so immense that Job feels he needs someone who can help him, someone who can argue his case in court. Job's call is not directly predicting the mediatorship of Christ, for Job is not looking for one to forgive him but for one who can testify to his innocence (see 16:20–21; 19:25–26).

9:34 See 13:21. His rod. Symbolic of divine judgment and wrath (see, e.g., Ps 89:32; Lam 3:1).

10:1 I loathe my own life. See note on 9:21. bitterness of my soul. Because Job is so bitter, his mind has conjured up a false picture of God.

10:3 Job imagines that God is angry with him, an innocent man (see 9:28 and note), and that He takes delight in the wicked. Such words are a reminder that the sickroom is not the place to argue theology; in times of severe suffering, people may say things that require a response of love and understanding. Job himself will eventually repent, and God will forgive (42:1–6).

10:4 eyes of flesh. Imperfect vision, like that of a man.

5 'Are Your days as the days of a mortal,
Or [a]Your years as man's years,
6 That [a]You should seek for my guilt
And search after my sin?
7 'According to Your knowledge [a]I am indeed not guilty,
Yet there is [b]no deliverance from Your hand.

8 '[a]Your hands fashioned and made me [1]altogether,
[b]And would You destroy me?
9 'Remember now, that You have made me as [a]clay;
And would You [b]turn me into dust again?
10 'Did You not pour me out like milk
And curdle me like cheese;
11 Clothe me with skin and flesh,
And knit me together with bones and sinews?
12 'You have [a]granted me life and lovingkindness;
And Your care has preserved my spirit.
13 'Yet [a]these things You have concealed in Your heart;
I know that this is within You:
14 If I sin, then You would [a]take note of me,
And [b]would not acquit me of my guilt.
15 'If [a]I am wicked, woe to me!
And [b]if I am righteous, I dare not lift up my head.
I am sated with disgrace and [1]conscious of my misery.
16 'Should my head be lifted up, [a]You would hunt me like a lion;
And again You would show Your [b]power against me.
17 'You renew [a]Your witnesses against me
And increase Your anger toward me;

Zophar Rebukes Job

11 Then Zophar the Naamathite [1]answered,
2 "Shall a multitude of words go unanswered,
And a [a]talkative man be acquitted?
3 "Shall your boasts silence men?
And shall you [a]scoff and none rebuke?
4 "For [a]you have said, 'My teaching is pure,
And [b]I am innocent in your eyes.'
5 "But would that God might speak,
And open His lips against you,
6 And show you the secrets of wisdom!
For sound wisdom [1a]has two sides.
Know then that God [2]forgets a part of [b]your iniquity.

7 "[a]Can you discover the depths of God?
Can you discover the limits of the Almighty?
8 "They are [a]high as [1]the heavens, what can you do?
Deeper than [2b]Sheol, what can you know?

10:8–17 Job continues to question God as if He were his adversary in court. He wants to know how God, who so wonderfully formed him in the womb, could all the while have planned (see v. 13) to punish him—even though he may be innocent.
10:8–11 A poetic description of God making a baby in the womb (see Ps 139:13–16).
10:8 See Ps 119:73.
10:9 made me as clay. See note on 4:19. turn me into dust. See note on Gen 3:19.
10:15–16 Job says that whether he is guilty or innocent, the all-powerful God will not treat him justly.
10:17 witnesses against me. See note on 9:3.
10:18–22 See notes on ch. 3.
10:21 shall not return. See note on 7:9. land of darkness and deep shadow. See 38:17. Ancient Mesopotamian documents refer to the netherworld as the "house of darkness."
11:1–20 Like Eliphaz (see 4:7–11) and Bildad (see 8:3–6), Zophar claims that Job's sins have caused his troubles.
11:2–3 Zophar's failure to put himself in Job's place before condemning him shows a lack of compassion. Nor is Zophar entirely correct in his condemnation: Job has sincerely challenged what he perceives to be God's unjust actions (see 9:14–24), but he has not mocked God (as Zophar accuses him of having done).
11:4 I am innocent. In 10:7,15 Job had disclaimed being guilty, and in 9:21 he said he was "guiltless," the word God used to describe him in 1:8; 2:3. Zophar, however, implies that Job was claiming absolute purity (sinless perfection), but Job nowhere uses such terms of himself.
11:5 Zophar thought God should speak against Job, but eventually God spoke against Zophar himself (see 42:7).
11:6 sound wisdom has two sides. OT wisdom literature (especially Proverbs) makes abundant use of the term mashal ("proverb,""riddle,""parable"), which often had a hidden as well as an obvious meaning. Zophar thinks Job is shallow and lacks an understanding of the true nature of God (see vv. 7–9).
11:7 Unwittingly, Zophar anticipates the Lord's discourses in 38:1–42:6.
11:8–9 In the same way that Zophar speaks of the height, depth, length and width of God's knowledge, Paul speaks of Christ's love (see Eph 3:18).
11:8 what can you do? Can you climb into the heavens and explore God's knowledge?

9 "Its measure is longer than the earth
And broader than the sea.
10 "If He passes by or shuts up,
Or calls an assembly, [a]who can restrain Him?
11 "For [a]He knows false men,
And He [b]sees iniquity [1]without investigating.
12 "[1][a]An idiot will become intelligent
When the [2]foal of a [b]wild donkey is born a man.

13 "[a]If you would [b]direct your heart right
And [c]spread out your hand to Him,
14 If iniquity is in your hand, [a]put it far away,
And do not let wickedness dwell in your tents;
15 "Then, indeed, you could [a]lift up your face without moral defect,
And you would be steadfast and [b]not fear.
16 "For you would [a]forget your trouble,
As [b]waters that have passed by, you would remember it.
17 "Your [1]life would be [2][a]brighter than noonday;
Darkness would be like the morning.
18 "Then you would trust, because there is hope;
And you would look around and rest securely.
19 "You would [a]lie down and none would disturb you,
And many would [b]entreat your [1]favor.
20 "But the [a]eyes of the wicked will fail,
And [1]there will [b]be no escape for them;
And their [c]hope is [2][d]to breathe their last."

Job Speaks of the Power of God

13 "With Him are [a]wisdom and [a]might;
To Him belong counsel and [b]understanding.

24:23 [c]Job 22:18 9 [a]Is 41:20 10 [a]Acts 17:28 [b]Job 27:3; 33:4 11 [1]Lit tastes food for itself [a]Job 34:3 12 [1]Lit length of days [a]Job 15:10; 32:7 13 [a]Job 9:4 [b]Job 11:6; 26:12; 32:8; 36:5; 38:36

11:11–12 false . . . idiot. Zophar claims that it would take a miracle to change Job.

11:13–20 Zophar assumes that Job's problems are rooted in his sin; all Job has to do is to repent, and then his life will become blessed and happy. But God nowhere guarantees a life "brighter than noonday" (v. 17) simply because we are His children. He has higher purposes for us than our physical prosperity, or people courting our favor (v. 19). Zophar's philosophy is in conflict with Ps 73.

11:13 spread out your hand to Him. For help (see Prov 1:24; Lam 1:17).

11:15 lift up your face without moral defect. Zophar echoes Job's thought in 10:15.

11:20 Bildad ended his speech in a similar way (see 8:22).

12:1–14:22 As before, Job's reply is divided into two parts: He speaks to his three friends (12:2–13:19), then to God (13:20–14:22).

12:2 For the first time, Job reacts with sarcasm to the harshness of his counselors (see v. 20).

12:3 who does not know . . . ? See v. 9. The advice of Job's friends is trivial and commonplace.

12:4 God . . . answered. In the days before his suffering began (contrast 9:16).

12:5 The prosperous despise those who, like Job, have trouble.

12:6 Such statements (see 9:21–24) irked the counselors and made them brand Job as a man whose feet were slipping (see v. 5).

12:7–12 Job appeals to all creation to prove that God does what He pleases—that He does not use a person's piety as the sole basis for granting freedom from affliction.

12:7 let them teach you. That the righteous suffer and the evil are secure.

12:9 LORD. The only place in Job's and his friends' speeches (chs. 3–37) where the divine name "LORD" (Hebrew Yahweh) is used (see Introduction: Author).

12:11 Echoed by Elihu in 34:3. Cf. 6:6, where Job says that Eliphaz's words are like "something tasteless."

12:12 Job sarcastically chides his counselors for being elders and yet lacking in true wisdom.

12:13–25 The theme of this section is stated in v. 13: God is 14 "Behold, He [a]tears down, and it cannot be rebuilt;

He [1][b]imprisons a man, and [2]there can be no release.
15 "Behold, He [a]restrains the waters, and they dry up;
And He [b]sends them out, and they
[1]inundate the earth.
16 "With Him are strength and sound wisdom,
The [a]misled and the misleader belong
to Him.
17 "He makes [a]counselors walk [1]barefoot
And makes fools of [b]judges.
18 "He [a]loosens the [1]bond of kings
And binds their loins with a girdle.
19 "He makes priests walk [1]barefoot
And overthrows [a]the secure ones.
20 "He deprives the trusted ones of speech
And [a]takes away the discernment of the elders.
21 "He [a]pours contempt on nobles
And [b]loosens the belt of the strong.
22 "He [a]reveals mysteries from the darkness
And brings the deep darkness into light.
23 "He [a]makes the nations great, then destroys them;
He [1]enlarges the nations, then leads them away.
24 "He [a]deprives of intelligence the chiefs of the earth's people
And makes them wander in a pathless waste.
25 "They [a]grope in darkness with no light,
And He makes them [b]stagger like a drunken man.

Job Says His Friends' Proverbs Are Ashes

13 "[a]Behold, my eye has seen all this,
My ear has heard and understood it.
2 "[a]What you know I also know;
I am not inferior to you.

3 "But [a]I would speak to [1]the Almighty,
And I desire to [b]argue with God.

4 "But you [a]smear with lies;
You are all [b]worthless physicians.
5 "O that you would [a]be completely silent,
And that it would become your wisdom!
6 "Please hear my argument
And listen to the contentions of my lips.
7 "Will you [a]speak what is unjust for God,
And speak what is deceitful for Him?
8 "Will you [a]show partiality for Him?
Will you contend for God?
9 "Will it be well when He examines you?
Or [a]will you deceive Him as one deceives a man?
10 "He will surely reprove you
If you secretly [a]show partiality.
11 "Will not [a]His [1]majesty terrify you,
And the dread of Him fall on you?
12 "Your memorable sayings are proverbs of ashes,
Your defenses are defenses of clay.

Job Is Sure He Will Be Vindicated

13 "[a]Be silent before me so that I may

Then let come on me what may.
14 "Why should I take my flesh in my

And [a]put my life in my [1]hands?
15 "[a]Though He slay me,
I will hope in Him.
Nevertheless I [b]will argue my ways
[1]before Him.
16 "This also will be my [a]salvation,
For [b]a godless man may not come

17 "Listen carefully to my speech,
And let my declaration fill your ears.
18 "Behold now, I have [a]prepared my case;
I know that [b]I will be vindicated.
19 "[a]Who will contend with me?
For then I would be silent and [b]die.

sovereign in the created world, and especially in history. The rest of the poem dwells on the negative aspects of God's power and wisdom—e.g., the destructive forces of nature (vv. 14–15), how judges become fools (v. 17), how priests become humiliated (v. 19), how trusted advisers are silenced and elders deprived of good sense (v. 20). Contrast the claim of Eliphaz that God always uses His power in ways that make sense (5:10–16).

12:20 See note on v. 2.

12:21a,24b The Hebrew text of these lines is repeated verbatim in Ps 107:40.

12:22 God knows even secret, evil plans.

12:25 grope in darkness. Job concludes this section with a parody of Eliphaz's confident assertion in 5:14.

13:1–12 Job feels that his counselors have become completely untrustworthy (see v. 12). He calls them quacks (see v. 4; see also 16:2) and accuses them of showing partiality to God (since God is stronger than Job) by telling lies about Job (see vv. 7–8). Someday God will examine and punish them for their deception (see vv. 9–11).

13:1 all this. God's sovereign actions as described in ch. 12.

13:2 See 15:9. I am not inferior to you. Repeated from 12:3.

13:5 See v. 13. The friends' silent presence had ministered to Job earlier (see 2:13), but Job's current retort is intended as sarcasm (cf. Prov 17:28).

13:12 defenses. Arguments in their defense of God's judgment.

13:15 No matter what happens, Job intends to seek vindication from God and believes that he will receive it (see v. 18).

13:16 be my salvation. See Phil 1:19 (perhaps Paul was reflecting on Job's experience).

13:17 Job asks his friends to listen to what he is going to say to God in 13:20–14:22.

13:20 two things. Job wants God (1) to withdraw His hand of punishment (v. 21), and (2) to start communicating with him (v. 22).

21 [a]Remove Your [1]hand from me,
And let not the dread of You terrify me.
22 "Then call, and [a]I will answer;
Or let me speak, then reply to me.
23 "[a]How many are my iniquities and sins?
Make known to me my [1]rebellion and my sin.
24 "Why do You [a]hide Your face
And consider me [b]Your enemy?
25 "Will You cause a [a]driven leaf to tremble?
Or will You pursue the dry [b]chaff?
26 "For You write [a]bitter things against me
And [b]make me to inherit the iniquities of my youth.
27 "You [a]put my feet in the stocks
And watch all my paths;
You [1]set a limit for the soles of my feet,
28 While [1]I am decaying like a [a]rotten thing,
Like a garment that is moth-eaten.

Job Speaks of the Finality of Death

14 "[a]Man, who is born of woman,
Is [1]short-lived and [b]full of turmoil.
2 "[a]Like a flower he comes forth and withers.
He also flees like [b]a shadow and does not remain.
3 "You also [a]open Your eyes on him
And [b]bring [1]him into judgment with Yourself.
4 "[a]Who can make the clean out of the unclean?
No one!
5 "Since his days are determined,
The [a]number of his months is with You;
And his limits You have [1]set so that he cannot pass.
6 "[a]Turn Your gaze from him that he may [1]rest,
Until he [2]fulfills his day like a hired man.

7 "For there is hope for a tree,
When it is cut down, that it will sprout again,
And its shoots will not [1]fail.
8 "Though its roots grow old in the ground
And its stump dies in the dry soil,
9 At the scent of water it will flourish
And put forth sprigs like a plant.
10 "But [a]man dies and lies prostrate.
Man [b]expires, and where is he?
11 "As [a]water [1]evaporates from the sea,
And a river becomes parched and dried up,
12 So [a]man lies down and does not rise.
Until the heavens are no longer,
[1]He will not awake nor be aroused out of [2]his sleep.

13 "Oh that You would hide me in [1]Sheol,
That You would conceal me [a]until Your wrath returns to You,
That You would set a limit for me and remember me!
14 "If a man dies, will he live again?
All the days of my struggle I will wait
Until my change comes.
15 "You will call, and I will answer You;
You will long for [a]the work of Your hands.
16 "For now You [a]number my steps,
You do not [b]observe my sin.
17 "My transgression is [a]sealed up in a bag,
And You [1]wrap up my iniquity.

13:21 See 9:34.
13:23 Job's words are based on the counselors' point that suffering always implies sinfulness. He does not yet understand that God has a higher purpose in his suffering. iniquities . . . sins . . . rebellion. The three most important Hebrew terms for sin lie behind these translations (see Ex 34:7; Is 59:12 and note).
13:24 hide Your face. Withhold Your blessing (see note on Ps 13:1).
13:25 driven leaf . . . dry chaff. See note on Ps 1:4.
13:26 iniquities of my youth. Since Job feels that he is not presently guilty of a sinful life, God must still be holding the sins of his youth against him. write . . . things against me. See Ps 130:3; Hos 13:12; contrast 1 Cor 13:5.
13:27 You put . . . my paths. Elihu later quotes Job's words (see 33:11). limit for the soles of my feet. The Babylonian Code of Hammurapi (18th century B.C.) attests to the practice of putting marks on slaves. Job feels that he is being harassed by a God who has taken him captive and is tormenting him (see v. 25).
13:28–14:1 The introduction to ch. 14, expressing the pessimistic theme that man's legacy is trouble and his destiny is death.
13:28 garment that is moth-eaten. See Matt 6:19–20; Luke 12:33.
14:1 See 5:7.
14:2–6 A symmetrical poem centered around v. 4; v. 2 corresponds to v. 5, and v. 3 to v. 6. Job expostulates with God: Given man's insignificance and inherited impurity, why do You take him so seriously (see 13:25)?
14:2 he . . . withers. Life at best is brief and fragile (see 8:9; Ps 37:2; Is 40:7,24). like a shadow. See note on 8:9.
14:7–12 Man is like a flower that lives its short life and is gone (v. 2), not like a tree that revives even after it has been cut down.
14:7 sprout. The Hebrew root underlying this word is translated "change" in v. 14.
14:13–17 Job's spirit now appears to rise above the despair engendered by his rotting body. Although resurrection in the fullest sense is not taught here, Job is saying that if God so desires He is able to hide Job in the grave, then raise him back to life at a time when the divine anger is past.
14:14 struggle. See note on 7:1.
14:18–22 Job's pessimism arises not from skepticism about the possibility of resurrection from the dead but rather from God's apparent unwillingness to do something immediately for

19 Water wears away stones,
Its torrents wash away the dust of the earth;
So You [a]destroy man's hope.
20 "You forever overpower him and he [a]departs;
You change his appearance and send him away.
21 "His sons achieve honor, but [a]he does not know it;
Or they become insignificant, but he does not perceive it.
22 "But his [1]body pains him,
And he mourns only for himself."

Eliphaz Says Job Presumes Much

15 Then Eliphaz the Temanite [1]responded,
2 "Should a wise man answer with windy knowledge
[a]And fill [1]himself with the east wind?
3 "Should he argue with useless talk,
Or with words which are not profitable?
4 "Indeed, you do away with [1]reverence
And hinder meditation before God.
5 "For [a]your guilt teaches your mouth,
And you choose the language of [b]the crafty.
6 "Your [a]own mouth condemns you, and not I;
And your own lips testify against you.

7 "Were you the first man to be born,
Or [a]were you brought forth before the hills?
8 "Do you hear the [a]secret counsel of God,
And limit wisdom to yourself?
9 "[a]What do you know that we do not know?
What do you understand that [1]we do not?
10 "Both the [a]gray-haired and the aged are among us,
Older than your father.
11 "Are [a]the consolations of God too small for you,
Even the [b]word spoken gently with you?
12 "Why does your [a]heart carry you away?
And why do your eyes flash,
13 That you should turn your spirit against God
And allow such words to go out of your mouth?
14 "What is man, that [a]he should be pure,
Or [b]he who is born of a woman, that he should be righteous?
15 "Behold, He puts no trust in His [a]holy ones,
And the [b]heavens are not pure in His sight;
16 How much less one who is [a]detestable and corrupt,
Man, who [b]drinks iniquity like water!

What Eliphaz Has Seen of Life

17 "I will tell you, listen to me;
And what I have seen I will also declare;
18 What wise men have told,
And have not concealed from [a]their fathers,
19 To whom alone the land was given,
And no alien passed among them.
20 "The wicked man writhes [a]in pain all his days,
And [1]numbered are the years [b]stored up for the ruthless.
21 "[1]Sounds of [a]terror are in his ears;
[b]While at peace the destroyer comes upon him.
22 "He does not believe that he will [a]return from darkness,
And he is destined for [b]the sword.
23 "He wanders about for food, saying, 'Where is it?'

a person like him, whose life has become a nightmare of pain and mourning.

15:1–6 Up to this point Eliphaz has been the most sympathetic of the three counselors, but now he has run out of patience with Job and denounces him more severely than before.

15:2 windy. The Hebrew word is also used in 16:3, where Job hurls Eliphaz's charges back at him. east wind. See 27:21; 38:24; the sirocco that blows in from the desert (see notes on Gen 41:6; Jer 4:11).

15:4 reverence. See note on 4:6.

15:6 mouth condemns you. See 9:20.

15:7–10 Job, says Eliphaz, presumes to be wise enough to sit among the members of God's council in heaven (see note on 1:6) when in reality he is no wiser than ordinary elders and sages on earth.

15:10 Age, with its tested experience, was equated with wisdom in ancient times—a truism denied by Elihu (see 32:6–9).

15:11–13 Eliphaz chides Job for replying in rage to his friends' attempts to console him with gentle words, which Eliphaz believes come from God Himself (v. 11). But Eliphaz has been guilty of cruel insinuation (ch. 5), and the other two counselors have been even more malicious. Genuine words of comfort for Job have been few indeed (see 4:2–6).

15:14–16 See 25:4–6. Eliphaz repeats what he had already said in 4:17–19, perhaps because he thought the earlier words had come to him through divine revelation (see note on 4:12–21).

15:14 born of a woman. An echo of Job's words in 14:1.

15:15 holy ones. Angels (see note on 5:1).

15:16 drinks iniquity like water. See Elihu's description of Job in 34:7.

15:17–26 Eliphaz now bolsters his earlier advice with traditional wisdom: The wicked man (a caricature of Job) can never escape the suffering he deserves.

15:20–35 A poem on the fate of the wicked (see 8:11–19). Eliphaz's caricature continues with a variety of figures: a belligerent sinner who attacks God (vv. 24–26); a fat, rich wicked man who finally gets what he deserves (vv. 27–32); a grapevine stripped before the fruit is ripe (v. 33a); an olive tree shedding its blossoms (v. 33b). As long as Eliphaz rejects Job's insistence that the wicked go on prospering, he does not have to wrestle with the disturbing corollary: the mystery of why the innocent sometimes suffer.

He knows that a day of [a]darkness is [1]at hand.
24 "Distress and anguish terrify him,
They overpower him like a king ready for the attack,
25 Because he has stretched out his hand against God
And conducts himself [a]arrogantly against [1]the Almighty.
26 "He rushes [1]headlong at Him
With [2]his massive shield.
27 "For he has [a]covered his face with his fat
And made his thighs heavy with flesh.
28 "He has [a]lived in desolate cities,
In houses no one would inhabit,
Which are destined to become [1]ruins.
29 "He [a]will not become rich, nor will his wealth endure;
And his grain will not bend down to the ground.
30 "He will [a]not [1]escape from darkness;
The [b]flame will wither his shoots,
And by [c]the breath of His mouth he will go away.
31 "Let him not [a]trust in emptiness,
deceiving himself;
For emptiness will be his [1]reward.
32 "It will be accomplished [a]before his time,
And his palm [b]branch will not be green.
33 "He will drop off his unripe grape like the vine,
And will [a]cast off his flower like the olive tree.
34 "For the company of [a]the godless is barren,
And fire consumes [b]the tents of [1]the corrupt.
35 "They [a]conceive [1]mischief and bring forth iniquity,
And their [2]mind prepares deception."

Job Says Friends Are Sorry Comforters

16 Then Job [1]answered,
2 "I have heard many such things;
[1][a]Sorry comforters are you all.
3 "Is there no limit to [a]windy words?
Or what plagues you that you answer?
4 "I too could speak like you,
If [1]I were in your place.
I could compose words against you
And [a]shake my head at you.
5 "I could strengthen you with my mouth,
And the solace of my lips could lessen your pain.

Job Says God Shattered Him

6 "If I speak, [a]my pain is not lessened,
And if I hold back, what has left me?
7 "But now He has [a]exhausted me;
You have laid [b]waste all my company.
8 "You have shriveled me up,
[a]It has become a witness;
And my [b]leanness rises up against me,
It testifies to my face.
9 "His anger has [a]torn me and [1]hunted me down,
He has [b]gnashed at me with His teeth;
My [c]adversary [2]glares at me.
10 "They have [a]gaped at me with their
mouth,
They have [1][b]slapped me on the cheek
with contempt;
They have [c]massed themselves against
me.
11 "God hands me over to ruffians
And tosses me into the hands of the wicked.
12 "I was at ease, but [a]He shattered me,
And He has grasped me by the neck
and shaken me to pieces;
He has also set me up as His [b]target.
13 "His [a]arrows surround me.
Without mercy He splits my kidneys
open;
He pours out [b]my gall on the ground.
14 "He [a]breaks through me with breach after breach;
He [b]runs at me like a warrior.
15 "I have sewed [a]sackcloth over my skin
And [b]thrust my horn in the dust.
16 "My face is flushed from [a]weeping,
[b]And deep darkness is on my eyelids,
17 Although there is no [a]violence in my hands,
And [b]my prayer is pure.

18 "O earth, do not cover my blood,

15:23,30 darkness. Death, characterized by the journey to the netherworld (see note on 10:21).
15:35 They conceive mischief and bring forth iniquity. Repeated in Is 59:4 (see note there). Once initiated, sinful thoughts develop quickly into evil acts.
16:2–5 Helpful advice is usually brief and encouraging, not lengthy and judgmental.
16:2 Sorry comforters. See note on 13:1–12. Job would eventually be comforted, but not by his three friends (see 42:11).
16:3 windy. See note on 15:2.
16:4 shake . . . head. A gesture of insult and scorn (see Ps 22:7; Jer 48:27; Matt 27:39).
16:9 The figure here is graphic and disturbing: God, like a ferocious lion (see 10:16), attacks and tears at Job's flesh. adversary. The Hebrew for this word is translated "enemy" in 19:11.
16:10–14 Job sees himself as God's target and views his situation as the reverse of Eliphaz's description in 15:25–26.
16:12 I was at ease, but He shattered me. See 2:3 and note. set me up as His target. See note on 6:4.
16:15–17 Job summarizes his misery: Though innocent, he continues to suffer.
16:15 sackcloth . . . dust. Signs of mourning (see notes on Gen 37:34; Jon 3:5–6).
16:18–21 Verse 18 (see v. 22; 17:1) indicates that Job does

And let there be no resting place for my cry.
19 "Even now, behold, [a]my witness is in heaven,
And my [1]advocate is [b]on high.
20 "My friends are my scoffers;
[a]My eye [1]weeps to God.
21 "O that a man might plead with God
As a man with his neighbor!
22 "For when a few years are past,
I shall go the way [a]of no return.

17 "My spirit is broken, my days are extinguished,
The [1a]grave is ready for me.
2 "[a]Surely mockers are with me,
And my eye [1]gazes on their provocation.

3 "Lay down, now, a pledge [a]for me with Yourself;

4 "For You have [1a]kept their heart from understanding,
Therefore You will not exalt them.
5 "He who [a]informs against friends for a share of the spoil,
The [b]eyes of his children also will languish.

6 "But He has made me a [a]byword of the people,
And I am [1]one at whom men [b]spit.
7 "My eye has also grown [a]dim because of grief,
And all my [b]members are as a shadow.

Bildad Speaks of the Wicked

18 Then Bildad the Shuhite [1]responded,
2 "How long will you hunt for words?
Show understanding and then we can talk.
3 "Why are we [a]regarded as beasts,
As stupid in your eyes?
4 "O [1]you who tear yourself in your anger—
For your sake is the earth to be abandoned,
Or the rock to be moved from its place?

5 "Indeed, the [a]light of the wicked goes out,
And the [1]flame of his fire gives no light.

not think he will live long enough to be vindicated before his peers. His only hope is that in heaven he has a friend (v. 20), a holy one (see 5:1), who will be his "witness," his "advocate," one who will plead with God on his behalf (v. 21; see 9:33 and note).

16:18 blood . . . cry. Job felt that his blood, like Abel's (see Gen 4:10 and note), was innocent and would therefore cry out from the ground after his death.

16:22 when a few years are past. Job does not expect his death immediately. way of no return. To the netherworld (see notes on 7:9; 10:21).

17:1 The grave is ready for me. See note on vv. 10–16.

17:3 Lay down . . . a pledge for me with Yourself. Job is asking God for a guarantee that he is right, that he is not guilty of sins that deserve punishment (as his counselors have said).

17:4 their heart. Those of his three friends.

17:5 Job quotes a proverb to counter the false accusations of his friends.

17:6–9 The guarantee Job asked for is not provided, so he feels that God is responsible for making him an object of scorn. If the tone of vv. 8–9 is intended as sarcastic (as v. 10 would seem to indicate), the "upright" and "innocent" are the counselors (v.8).

17:6 byword. See 30:9; an object of scorn and ridicule (see the covenant curse in Deut 28:37). one at whom men spit. See 30:10.

17:7 members are as a shadow. See note on 2:7.

17:10–16 Zophar had promised that Job's repentance would turn his darkness into light (11:17). Job now makes a parody on such advice (vv. 12–16). His only hope is the grave (see v. 1), which will not be as his home had been (vv. 13–15).

17:13 home. See Eccl 12:5. darkness. See 18:18; the netherworld (see note on 10:21).

17:14 In the grave, one's family consists only of decomposition and maggots.

17:15 Where . . . is my hope? See 14:19.

17:16 Sheol. See 38:17; Matt 16:18. See note on Gen 37:35. dust. See note on 7:21.

18:1–4 Bildad resents what he perceives to be a belittling attitude. He considers Job's emotional reaction as self-centered and irrational.

18:5–21 Another poem on the fate of the wicked (see 8:11–19; 15:20–35). Bildad wants to convince Job that he is wrong when he claims that the righteous suffer and the wicked prosper. Bildad is absolutely certain that every wicked person gets paid in full, in this life, for his wicked deeds.

18:5 the light of the wicked goes out. See 21:17; repeated in Prov 13:9. Life, symbolized by light, is extinguished.

6 "The light in his tent is [a]darkened,
And his lamp goes out above him.
7 "His [1]vigorous stride is shortened,
And his [a]own scheme brings him down.
8 "For he is [a]thrown into the net by his own feet,
And he steps on the webbing.
9 "A snare seizes him by the heel,
And a trap snaps shut on him.
10 "A noose for him is hidden in the ground,
And a trap for him on the path.
11 "All around [a]terrors frighten him,
And [b]harry him at every step.
12 "His strength is [a]famished,
And calamity is ready at his side.
13 "[1]His skin is devoured by disease,
The firstborn of death [a]devours his [2]limbs.
14 "He is [a]torn from [1]the security of his tent,
And [2]they march him before the king of [b]terrors.
15 "[1]There dwells in his tent nothing of his;
[a]Brimstone is scattered on his habitation.
16 "His [a]roots are dried below,
And his [b]branch is cut off above.
17 "[a]Memory of him perishes from the earth,
And he has no name abroad.
18 "[1]He is driven from light [a]into darkness,
And [b]chased from the inhabited world.
19 "He has no [a]offspring or posterity among his people,
Nor any survivor where he sojourned.
20 "Those [1]in the west are appalled at [a]his [2]fate,
And those [3]in the east are seized with horror.

And this is the place of him who does not know God."

Job Feels Insulted

19 Then Job [1]responded,
2 "How long will you torment [1]me
And crush me with words?
3 "These ten times you have insulted me;
You are not ashamed to wrong me.
4 "Even if I have truly erred,
My error lodges with me.
5 "If indeed you [a]vaunt yourselves against me
And prove my disgrace to me,
6 Know then that [a]God has wronged me
And has closed [b]His net around me.

Everything Is against Him

7 "Behold, [a]I cry, 'Violence!' but I get no answer;
I shout for help, but there is no justice.
8 "He has [a]walled up my way so that I cannot pass,
And He has put [b]darkness on my paths.
9 "He has [a]stripped my honor from me
And removed the [b]crown from my head.
10 "He [a]breaks me down on every side, and I am gone;

18:13 firstborn of death. See 5:7.
18:14 king of terrors. A vivid figure of speech referring to death, which is personified in v. 13. Canaanite literature pictured death as the devouring god Mot. Isaiah reverses the figure and envisions the Lord as swallowing up death forever (Is 25:8; see 1 Cor 15:54).
18:15 Brimstone. Reminiscent of the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah (see Gen 19:24).
18:16 roots . . . And . . . branch. Cf. Amos 2:9; figurative for descendants (see, e.g., Is 11:1,10) and/or ancestors (see, e.g., Judg 5:14; Is 14:29).
18:17 Memory of him perishes. Apparently Bildad knows nothing of punishment in the realm of death. The only retribution beyond the grave is having one's memory (name) cut off by not leaving any heirs (see v. 19).
18:18 darkness. See 17:13; the netherworld (see note on 10:21).
18:21 the wicked . . . does not know God. Having no intimate knowledge of God is synonymous with being wicked (see Hos 4:1–2,6).
19:3 ten times. Several times. Ten is often used as a round number (see, e.g., Gen 31:41; 1 Sam 1:8).
19:4 lodges with me. If Job has erred, it is his responsibility. His friends have no right to interfere or to behave as if they were God (see v. 22).
19:6 wronged. Cf. 40:8. The Hebrew for this verb is twice translated "pervert" in 8:3, where Bildad denied that God perverts justice. But Job, struggling with the enigma of his suffering, can only conclude that God is his enemy, though in fact He is his friend who delights in him (see 1:8; 2:3). Job's true enemy, of course, is the Accuser. closed His net. The wicked may get themselves into trouble, as Bildad had pointed out (see 18:8–10), but Job here attributes his suffering to God.
19:7 I cry, 'Violence!' See Hab 1:2.
19:8–12 In Job's mind, God is at war with him (see 16:12–14).
19:10 uprooted my hope like a tree. See 24:20; unlike 14:7–9, where Job had used as a symbol of hope a tree that is cut down but later sprouts again.
19:12 their way. See 30:12.
19:13–19 See Jer 12:6. Nothing in life hurts more than rejec-

24 "That with an iron stylus and lead
They were engraved in the rock forever!
25 "As for me, I know that [a]my [1]Redeemer

And [2]at the last He will take His stand on the [3]earth.
26 "Even after my skin [1]is destroyed,
Yet from my flesh I shall [a]see God;
27 Whom I [1]myself shall behold,
And whom my eyes will see and not another.
My [2]heart [a]faints [3]within me!
28 "If you say, 'How shall we [a]persecute

And '[1]What pretext for a case against him can we find?'
29 "Then be afraid of [a]the sword for

For wrath brings the punishment of

So that you may know [b]there is

Zophar Says, "The Triumph of the Wicked Is Short"

20 Then Zophar the Naamathite [1]answered,
2 "Therefore my disquieting thoughts make me [1]respond,
Even because of my [2]inward agitation.
3 "I listened to [a]the reproof which insults
me,

From the establishment of man on tion by one's family and friends. Job's children are gone, and his wife, brothers, friends and servants find him repulsive.

19:17 breath is offensive. See note on 2:7.

19:18 young children despise me. An intolerable insult in a patriarchal society, where one's elders were to be honored and respected (see Ex 20:12 and note).

19:20 my skin and my flesh. See note on 2:7. skin of my teeth. It is possible that the Hebrew for "only by the skin of my teeth" refers to gums ("with only my gums"), implying that Job's teeth are gone.

19:21 hand of God has struck me. See 1:11; 2:4–6; see also note on v. 6.

19:23–27 Probably the best-known and most-loved passage in the book of Job, reaching a high point in Job's understanding of his own situation and of his relationship to God. Its position between two sections in which Job pleads with (vv. 21–22) and then warns (vv. 28–29) his friends causes it to stand out even more boldly.

19:23 my words. Job would have his complaint and defense recorded so that even after his death they would endure until he is finally vindicated. book. See note on Ex 17:14.

19:24 iron. See also 20:24; 28:2; 40:18; 41:27. Iron did not come into common use in the ancient Near East until the 12th century B.C.

19:25 I know that my Redeemer lives. This staunch confession of faith has been appropriated by generations of Christians, especially through the medium of Handel's Messiah. But these celebrate redemption from guilt and judgment; Job had something else in mind. Although in other contexts he desires a defender as an advocate in heaven who would plead with God on his behalf (see 9:33–34; 16:18–21 and notes; see also note on 5:1), here the Redeemer seems to be none other than God Himself (see note on Ruth 2:20). Job expresses confidence that ultimately God will vindicate His faithful servants in the face of all false accusations. at the last. Lit. "afterward" (after Job's life has ended). He will take His stand. To defend and vindicate me (see 42:7–10).

19:26 my skin is destroyed. Job senses that the ravages of his disease will eventually bring about his death. I shall see God. He is absolutely certain, however, that death is not the end of existence and that someday he will stand in the presence of his Redeemer and see Him with his own eyes (see v. 27; see also Matt 5:8; 1 John 3:2). See note on 42:5.

19:28 persecute. Job's tirade against the counselors is being resumed after the intervening section (vv. 23–27).

20:1–29 Yet another poem on the fate of the wicked as held by the "orthodox" theology of Job's friends (see 8:11–19; 15:20–35; 18:5–21).

20:2–3 Zophar takes Job's words, especially his closing words in 19:28–29, as a personal affront. Job has dared to assert that on Zophar's theory of retribution Zophar himself is due for punishment.

20:4–11 Zophar is proud that he is a healthy and prosperous man, for, in his view, that in itself is proof of his goodness and righteousness. But the joy and vigor of the wicked will always be brief and elusive (see Ps 73:18–20 and note).

6 "Though his loftiness [1][a]reaches the heavens,
And his head touches the clouds,
7 He [a]perishes forever like his refuse;
Those who have seen him [b]will say,
'Where is he?'
8 "He flies away like a [a]dream, and they cannot find him;
Even like a vision of the night he is [b]chased away.
9 "The [a]eye which saw him sees him no longer,
And [b]his place no longer beholds him.
10 "His [a]sons [1]favor the poor,
And his hands [b]give back his wealth.
11 "His [a]bones are full of his youthful vigor,
But it lies down with him [1]in the dust.

12 "Though [a]evil is sweet in his mouth
And he hides it under his tongue,
13 Though he [1]desires it and will not let it go,
But holds it [a]in his [2]mouth,
14 Yet his food in his stomach is changed
To the [1]venom of cobras within him.
15 "He swallows riches,
But will [a]vomit them up;
God will expel them from his belly.
16 "He sucks [a]the poison of cobras;
The viper's tongue slays him.
17 "He does not look at [a]the streams,
The rivers flowing with honey and curds.
18 "He [a]returns what he has attained
And cannot swallow it;
As to the riches of his trading,
He cannot even enjoy them.
19 "For he has [a]oppressed and forsaken the poor;
He has seized a house which he has not built.

20 "Because he knew no quiet [1]within him,
He does [a]not retain anything he desires.
21 "Nothing remains [1]for him to devour,
Therefore [a]his prosperity does not endure.
22 "In the fullness of his plenty he will be cramped;
The [a]hand of everyone who suffers will come against him.
23 "When he [a]fills his belly,
God will send His fierce anger on him
And will [b]rain it on him [1]while he is eating.
24 "He may [a]flee from the iron weapon,
But the bronze bow will pierce him.
25 "It is drawn forth and comes out of his back,
Even the glittering point from [a]his gall.
[b]Terrors come upon him,
26 Complete [a]darkness is held in reserve for his treasures,
And unfanned [b]fire will devour him;
It will consume the survivor in his tent.
27 "The [a]heavens will reveal his iniquity,
And the earth will rise up against him.
28 "The [a]increase of his house will depart;
His possessions will flow away [b]in the day of His anger.
29 "This is the wicked man's [a]portion from God,
Even the heritage decreed to him by God."

Job Says God Will Deal with the Wicked

21 Then Job [1]answered,
2 "Listen carefully to my speech,
And let this be your way of consolation.
3 "Bear with me that I may speak;
Then after I have spoken, you may [a]mock.
4 "As for me, is [a]my complaint [1]to man?
And [b]why should [2]I not be impatient?
5 "Look at me, and be astonished,
And [a]put your hand over your mouth.

20:10,19 Oppression of the poor is the mark of the truly wicked (see, e.g., Amos 2:6–8; 8:4–8). On this subject, Job had no quarrel with Zophar (see 31:16–23).
20:11 dust. See note on 7:21.
20:12–15 An evil man's wicked deeds are like tasty food that pleases his palate but turns sour in his stomach.

20:18 what he has attained . . . He cannot even enjoy. A common theme in wisdom literature (see, e.g., Eccl 2:18–23).

21:2 your way of consolation. See v. 34 ("you . . . comfort me"), which, with v. 2, frames Job's reply to Zophar.
21:4 is my complaint to man? No, says Job, I am complaining to God, because He is responsible for my condition—at least Job so perceived it. impatient. See note on 9:2–3.
21:5 Look at me. Job addresses his three friends.
21:6 when I remember. His complaint to God (see note on v.4). I am disturbed. To contemplate the morally upside-down situation in which the wicked flourish.

21:7–15 Job's counselors have elaborated on the fate of the wicked (see 8:11–19; 15:20–35; 18:5–21; ch. 20), but Job insists that experience shows just the reverse of what his friends have said. The wicked, who want to know nothing of God's ways and who even consider prayer a useless exercise (vv. 14–15), flourish in all they do. Far from dying prematurely, as Zophar assumed concerning them (see 20:11), they live long and increase in power (v. 7). Bildad's claim that the wicked have no offspring or descendants (see 18:19) Job flatly denies (vv. 8,11).

21:9 rod of God. See note on 9:34.

21:13 suddenly. Or "quietly." The Hebrew root underlying this word is translated "those who live quietly" in Ps 35:20.

21:16 See 22:18. Job disavows the unholy counsel of the wicked and knows that God is in control (see v. 17), but such knowledge makes God all the more of an enigma to him.

21:26 dust. See note on 7:21.

21:34 How then will you . . . comfort me . . . ? See 16:2 and note.

22:1–26:14 The third cycle of speeches, unlike the first (chs. 4–14) and second (chs. 15–21), is truncated and abbreviated. Bildad's speech is very brief (25:1–6), and Zophar does not speak at all. The dialogue between Job and his friends comes to an end because the friends cannot convince Job of his guilt—Job cannot acknowledge what is not true.

22:2–4 Eliphaz's odd reasoning is as follows: Since all things have their origin in God, man's giving back what God has given him does not enhance God in any way. Indeed, God is indif-

3 "Is there any pleasure to [1]the Almighty
if you are righteous,
Or profit if you make your ways perfect?
4 "Is it because of your [1]reverence that
He reproves you,
That He [a]enters into judgment against
you?
5 "Is not [a]your wickedness great,
And your iniquities without end?
6 "For you have [a]taken pledges of your brothers without cause,
And [b]stripped [1]men naked.
7 "To the weary you have [a]given no water to drink,
And from the hungry you have
[b]withheld bread.
8 "But the earth [a]belongs to the [b]mighty
man,
And [c]the honorable man dwells in it.
9 "You have sent [a]widows away empty,
And the [1]strength of the [b]orphans has been crushed.
10 "Therefore [a]snares surround you,
And sudden [b]dread terrifies you,
11 Or [a]darkness, so that you cannot see,
And an [b]abundance of water covers
you.

12 "Is not God [a]in the height of heaven?
Look also at the [1]distant stars, how high they are!
13 "You say, '[a]What does God know?
Can He judge through the thick
darkness?
14 '[a]Clouds are a hiding place for Him, so that He cannot see;
And He walks on the [1]vault of heaven.'
15 "Will you keep to the ancient path
Which [a]wicked men have trod,
16 Who were snatched away [a]before their time,
Whose [b]foundations were [1]washed away by a river?
17 "They [a]said to God, 'Depart from us!'
And 'What can [1]the Almighty do to them?'
18 "Yet He [a]filled their houses with good things;
But [b]the counsel of the wicked is far
from me.
19 "The [a]righteous see and are glad,
And the innocent mock them,
20 Saying, 'Truly our adversaries are cut off,
And their [1]abundance [a]the fire has consumed.'

21 "[1][a]Yield now and be at peace with
Him;
Thereby good will come to you.
22 "Please receive [1][a]instruction from His mouth
And establish His words in your heart.
23 "If you [a]return to [1]the Almighty, you will be [2]restored;
If you [b]remove unrighteousness far from your tent,
24 And [a]place your [1]gold in the dust,
And the gold of Ophir among the stones of the brooks,
25 Then [1]the Almighty will be your [2]gold
And choice silver to you.
26 "For then you will [a]delight in [1]the Almighty
And lift up your face to God.
27 "You will [a]pray to Him, and [b]He will hear you;
And you will pay your vows.
28 "You will also decree a thing, and it will be established for you;
And [a]light will shine on your ways.

ferent to man's goodness, because goodness is expected of him. It is when man becomes wicked that God is aroused (v. 4).

22:4 reverence. See note on 4:6. enters into judgment. See note on 9:3.

22:5–11 In his earlier speeches, Eliphaz was the least caustic and at first even offered consolation (4:6; 5:17). But despite what he said in 4:3–4, Eliphaz now reprimands Job for gross social sins against the needy, who are naked and hungry (vv. 6–7), and against widows and the fatherless (v. 9). The only proof Eliphaz has for Job's alleged wickedness is his present suffering (vv. 10–11). In ch. 29 Job emphatically denies the kind of behavior of which Eliphaz accuses him.

22:6 taken pledges . . . stripped men naked. Sins condemned by the prophets (see, e.g., Amos 2:8 and note).

22:9 widows . . . orphans. See 24:3; Is 1:17 and note; James 1:27. strength. Lit. "arms" (as in 38:15).

22:10 snares. See 19:6 and note.

22:11 darkness . . . abundance of water. Two common figures of trouble and distress (see Ps 42:7 and note; Is 8:7–8,22; 43:2).

22:12–20 Eliphaz finally appears to support the argument of Bildad and Zophar, who were fully convinced that Job was a wicked man. Eliphaz makes a severe accusation: Job follows the path of the ungodly (v. 15), who defy God's power and say, "What can the Almighty do to them?" (v. 17; see vv. 13–14). They even have contempt for God's goodness (v. 18).

22:18 See 21:16 and note.

22:21–30 Eliphaz makes one last attempt to reach Job. In many ways it is a commendable call to repentance: Submit to God (v. 21), establish God's words in your heart (v. 22), return to the Almighty and forsake wickedness (v. 23), find your delight in God rather than in gold (vv. 24–26), pray and obey (v. 27) and become concerned about sinners (vv. 29–30). But Eliphaz's advice assumes (1) that Job is a very wicked man and (2) that Job's major concern is the return of his prosperity (see v. 21). Job had already made it clear in 19:25–27 that he deeply yearned to see God and be His friend.

22:22 See Job's response in 23:12. establish His words in your heart. See Ps 119:11.

22:24 gold of Ophir. See 28:16; the finest gold (see notes on 1 Kin 9:28; 10:11; Ps 45:9; Is 13:12).

22:28 light will shine on your ways. Through obedience to the word of God (see vv. 22,27; 29:3; Ps 119:105).

29 "When [1]you are cast down, you will speak with [2]confidence,
And the [3][a]humble person He will save.
30 "He will deliver one who is not innocent,
And he will be [a]delivered through the cleanness of your hands."

Job Says He Longs for God

23 Then Job [1]replied,
2 "Even today my [a]complaint is rebellion;
[1]His hand is [b]heavy despite my groaning.
3 "Oh that I knew where I might find
Him,
That I might come to His seat!
4 "I would [a]present my case before Him
And fill my mouth with arguments.
5 "I would learn the words which He would [1]answer,
And perceive what He would say to
me.
6 "Would He contend with me by [a]the greatness of His power?
No, surely He would pay attention to
me.
7 "There the upright would [a]reason with
Him;
And I [1]would be [b]delivered forever
from my Judge.

8 "Behold, I go forward but He is not

Job Says God Seems to Ignore Wrongs

24 "[a]Why are [1]times not stored up by the Almighty,
And why do those who know Him not see [b]His days?
2 "[1]Some [a]remove the landmarks;
They seize and [2]devour flocks.
3 "They drive away the donkeys of the
[a]orphans;
They take the [b]widow's ox for a pledge.

22:30 cleanness of your hands. See note on Ps 24:4.
23:2 my complaint. See 21:4 and note. His hand is heavy. See 33:7; see also note on 1 Sam 5:6.
23:3 where I might find Him. See note on vv. 8–9.
23:6 pay attention to me. Job is seeking a fair trial. In 9:14–20 Job was fearful that he could not find words to argue with God. Now he is confident that if God would give him a hearing, he would be acquitted (see 13:13–19; see also Ps 17:1–3; 26:1–3 and notes).
23:8–9 forward . . . backward . . . left . . . right. Whatever direction Job went, he could not find God (contrast Ps 139:7–10).
23:8,10 I cannot perceive Him . . . But He knows the way I take. Job is frustrated over his apparent inability to have an audience with God, who knows that he is an upright man. Job is here answering Eliphaz's admonition beginning in 22:21: "Yield now and . . . good will come." Job replies that this is what he has always done (vv. 11–12). He treasures God's words more than his daily food. He admits that God is testing him—not to purge away his sinful dross, but to show that Job is pure gold (see Ps 119:11,101,168; 1 Pet 1:7).
23:12 Job's response to the advice offered by Eliphaz in 22:22. words . . . more than my necessary food. See Deut 8:3.
23:13 He is unique. Lit. "He is one." Though Job is not an Israelite, he worships the one true God—there is no other (see Deut 6:4 and note). what His soul desires, that He does. He is sovereign (see Ps 115:3; 135:6; Luke 10:21).
23:15 I would be dismayed. See note on 21:6. A necessary part of Job's faith is fear of a God who does what He pleases. By contrast, the counselors tried to make God predictable.
23:17 I am not silenced by the darkness. Job responds to Eliphaz's accusation in 22:11 (see note there).
24:1–12 Job describes the terrible injustice that often exists in the world. Robbery of both the "haves" (see v. 2) and the "have-nots" (see vv. 3–4) is equally obnoxious to him. But perhaps his suffering has enabled him to empathize with the poor, who must forage for food (v. 5) and "glean the vineyard of the wicked" (v. 6). The scene he depicts is heart-rending: The naked shiver in the cold of night (vv. 7–8), fatherless infants are snatched from the breast (v. 9), field hands harvest food but go hungry (v. 10), vineyard workers make wine but suffer thirst (v. 11), groans rise from the dying and wounded (v. 12). Job cannot understand why God is silent and indifferent (vv. 1,12) in the face of such misery, but the fact that God waits disproves the counselors' theory of suffering. Job is no more out of God's favor as one of the victims than the criminal in vv. 13–17 is in God's favor because of God's inaction.
24:1 See note on vv. 21–24.
24:2 remove the landmarks. A serious crime in ancient times (see note on Deut 19:14).
24:3 orphans . . . widow's. See 22:9; Is 1:17 and note; James 1:27.

4 "They push [a]the needy aside from the road;
The [b]poor of the land are made to hide themselves altogether.
5 "Behold, as [a]wild donkeys in the wilderness
They [b]go forth seeking food in their activity,
As [1]bread for their children in the desert.
6 "They harvest their fodder in the field
And glean the vineyard of the wicked.
7 "[a]They spend the night naked, without clothing,
And have no covering against the cold.
8 "They are wet with the mountain rains
And hug the rock for want of a shelter.
9 "[1]Others snatch the [a]orphan from the breast,
And against the poor they take a pledge.
10 "They cause the poor to go about naked without clothing,
And they take away the sheaves from the hungry.
11 "Within the walls they produce oil;
They tread wine presses but thirst.
12 "From the city men groan,
And the souls of the wounded cry out;
Yet God [a]does not pay attention to folly.

13 "[1]Others have been with those who rebel against the light;
They do not want to know its ways
Nor abide in its paths.
14 "The murderer [a]arises at dawn;
He [b]kills the poor and the needy,
And at night he is as a thief.
15 "The eye of the [a]adulterer waits for the twilight,
Saying, 'No eye will see me.'
And he [1]disguises his face.
16 "In the dark they [a]dig into houses,
They [b]shut themselves up by day;
They do not know the light.

Bildad Says Man Is Inferior

25 Then Bildad the Shuhite [1]answered,
2 "[a]Dominion and awe [1]belong to Him
Who establishes peace in [b]His heights.
3 "Is there any number to [a]His troops?
And upon whom does His light not rise?
4 "How then can a man be [a]just with God?
Or how can he be [b]clean who is born of woman?

24:5 wild donkeys. See 39:5–8.
24:6 glean. See note on Ruth 1:22.
24:7,10 Job implicitly denies the accusation of Eliphaz (see 22:6).
24:13–17 A description of those who cause the suffering depicted in vv. 2–12: the murderer (v. 14), the adulterer (v. 15), the robber (v. 16). Darkness is their element, the medium in which they thrive (see vv. 14–17). By contrast, God's law is the light against which they rebel (see v. 13; see also note on 22:28).
24:18–20 Job seems to agree with the counselors here. But it is also legitimate to translate the verses as Job's call for redress against evildoers: "May their portion of the earth be cursed . . . may Sheol consume . . . May their mother forget them; may the worm feed sweetly till they are no longer remembered and their wickedness is broken like a tree."
24:20 worm feeds sweetly. See 21:26; Is 14:11. broken like a tree. See note on 19:10.
24:21–24 By way of summary, Job says that God judges the wicked, but He does so in His own good time. Job wishes, however, that God would give the righteous the satisfaction of seeing it happen (v. 1).
24:24 like the heads of grain they are cut off. A symbol of judgment (see note on Is 17:5).
25:1–6 See note on 22:1–26:14. Bildad adds nothing new here, and Zophar, who has already admitted how emotionally disturbed he was (see 20:2), doesn't even comment.
25:2 establishes peace in His heights. Bildad apparently considered heaven as a place of warfare, where God must use His celestial troops (see v. 3) to establish order.
25:3 His troops. Angels. His light. The sun. All that is under God's dominion pales before Him.
25:4–6 Bildad echoes Eliphaz's earlier statements about human depravity (4:17–19; 15:14–16).

5 "If even [a]the moon has no brightness
And the [b]stars are not pure in His sight,
6 How much less [a]man, that [b]maggot,
And the son of man, that worm!"

Job Rebukes Bildad

26 Then Job [1]responded,
2 "What a help you are to [1a]the weak!
How you have saved the arm [b]without strength!
3 "What counsel you have given to one without wisdom!
What helpful insight you have abundantly [1]provided!
4 "To whom have you uttered words?
And whose [1]spirit was expressed through you?

Job Affirms His Righteousness

27 Then Job [1]continued his [a]discourse and said,
2 "As God lives, [a]who has taken away my right,
And the Almighty, [b]who has embittered my soul,
3 For as long as [1]life is in me,
And the [2a]breath of God is in my nostrils,
4 My lips certainly will not speak unjustly,
Nor will [a]my tongue mutter deceit.
5 "Far be it from me that I should declare you right;
Till I die [a]I will not put away my integrity from me.
6 "I [a]hold fast my righteousness and will not let it go.
My heart does not reproach any of my days.

The State of the Godless

7 "May my enemy be as the wicked
And [1]my opponent as the unjust.

7 [1]Lit he who rises up against me

26:2–4 With biting sarcasm, Job responds to Bildad alone (the Hebrew for the word "you" in these verses is singular rather than plural), indicating that Eliphaz and Zophar have already been silenced.

26:2 saved the arm without strength. See 4:3–4; Is 35:3; Heb 12:12.

26:5–14 Job's poem about the vast power of God, the theme of Bildad's final speech (ch. 25), is written in colorful language that is often highly figurative.

26:5 The departed spirits. The Hebrew for this expression is translated "the dead" in Prov 2:18, "spirits of the dead" in Is 14:9 and "departed spirits" in Is 26:14. The term is used figuratively of the deceased who inhabit the netherworld (see 3:13–15, 17–19; see also note on 3:16). waters. Part of the world inhabited by living beings, and therefore above the netherworld.

26:6 Sheol. Personified elsewhere as the "king of terrors" (see 18:14 and note). Abaddon. See 28:22; 31:12; Prov 15:11. In Rev 9:11, Abaddon is the name of the "angel of the abyss" (see note there).

26:7 He. God. stretches out the north. See 37:18. empty space. The Hebrew for this word is translated "formless" in Gen 1:2. nothing. See note on 9:6.

26:11 pillars of heaven. See note on 9:6.

26:12 Rahab. See note on 9:13.

26:13 fleeing serpent. A description of the sea monster Leviathan (see notes on 3:8; Is 27:1).

26:14 these are the fringes of His ways. What God has revealed of His dominion over natural and supernatural forces amounts to no more than a whisper. Job is impressed with the severely limited character of human understanding. Zophar had chided Job about his inability to fathom the mysteries of God (11:7–9), but the knowledge possessed by Job's friends was not superior to that of Job himself (see 12:3; 13:2). His mighty thunder. If it is difficult for us to comprehend the little that we know about God, how much more impossible it would be to understand the full extent of His might!

27:1–23 The dialogue-dispute section of the book begins with Job's opening lament (ch. 3), continues with the three cycles of speeches (chs. 4–14; 15–21; 22–26) and concludes with Job's closing discourse (ch. 27), in which he reasserts his own innocence (vv. 2–6) and eloquently describes the ultimate fate of the wicked (vv. 13–23).

27:2 As God lives. The most solemn of oaths (see note on Gen 42:15). Job's faith in God continued despite his perception of denied justice.

27:5 you. The Hebrew for this word is plural. In his summary statement, Job once again speaks to his three friends as a group.

27:6 hold fast my righteousness. God had spoken similarly of Job (see 2:3).

27:7 May my enemy be as the wicked. Job calls for his friends,

8 "For what is [a]the hope of the godless
[1]when he is cut off,
When God requires [b]his [2]life?
9 "Will God [a]hear his cry
When [b]distress comes upon him?
10 "Will he take [a]delight in the Almighty?
Will he call on God at all times?
11 "I will instruct you in the [1]power of God;
What is with the Almighty I will not conceal.
12 "Behold, all of you have seen it;
Why then do you [1]act foolishly?

13 "This is [a]the portion of a wicked man from God,
And the inheritance which [b]tyrants receive from the Almighty.
14 "Though his sons are many, [1]they are destined [a]for the sword;
And his [b]descendants will not be satisfied with bread.
15 "His survivors will be buried because of the plague,
And [1]their [a]widows will not be able to weep.
16 "Though he piles up silver like dust
And prepares garments as plentiful as the clay, 17 He may prepare it, [a]but the just will wear it
And the innocent will divide the silver.
18 "He has built his [a]house like the [1]spider's web,
Or as a hut which the watchman has made.
19 "He lies down rich, but never [1]again;
He opens his eyes, and [a]it is no longer.
20 "[a]Terrors overtake him like a flood;
A tempest steals him away [b]in the night.
21 "The east [a]wind carries him away, and he is gone,
For it whirls him [b]away from his place.
22 "For it will hurl at him [a]without sparing;
He will surely try to [b]flee from its [1]power.
23 "Men will clap their hands at him
And will [a]hiss him from his place.

And copper is smelted from rock.
3 "Man puts an end to darkness,
And [a]to the farthest limit he searches out
The rock in gloom and deep shadow.
4 "He [1]sinks a shaft far from [2]habitation,
Forgotten by the foot;
They hang and swing to and fro far from men.
5 "The earth, from it comes food,
And underneath it is turned up as fire.
6 "Its rocks are the [1]source of sapphires,
And its dust contains gold.
7 "The path no bird of prey knows,
Nor has the falcon's eye caught sight of it.
8 "The [1]proud beasts have not trodden it,
Nor has the fierce lion passed over it.

who had falsely accused him of being wicked, to be treated as though they themselves were wicked men (cf. Ps 109:6–15; 137:8–9).

27:11 I will instruct you. Job is about to remind his counselors about an issue on which they all agree: that the truly wicked deserve God's wrath (vv. 13–23). The three friends had falsely put Job in that category.

27:13–23 A poem that dramatizes the effect of Job's earlier call for redress (v. 7).

27:13 Job echoes the words of Zophar in 20:29 (see note there).

27:18 web . . . hut. Symbols of fragility (see note on 4:19; Is 1:8 and note; 24:20).

27:21 east wind. See note on 15:2.

28:1–28 Job's friends' application of traditional wisdom to human suffering has been even more unsatisfactory than Job's untraditional response. Both attempts to penetrate the mystery have failed, and the dialogue has come to an unsatisfactory conclusion. Therefore Job, or perhaps the unknown author of the book, inserts a striking wisdom poem that answers the question, "Where can wisdom be found?" (v. 12; see v. 20). The poem consists of three parts: (1) precious stones and metals are found in the deepest mines (vv. 1–11); (2) wisdom is not found in mines, nor can it be bought with precious stones or metals (vv. 12–19); (3) wisdom is found only in God and in the fear of Him (vv. 20–28). The chapter, then, anticipates the theme of God's speeches (38:1–42:6): God alone is the answer to the mystery that Job and his friends have sought to fathom.

28:1–11 A fascinating, lyrical description of ancient mining techniques.

28:2 Iron. See note on 19:24.

28:3 puts an end to darkness. By using an artificial source of light, such as a torch or lamp.

28:4 hang and swing. Mining, then as now, is difficult and dangerous work. Men will hazard everything to dig the earth's treasures.

28:6 sapphires. See v. 16; see also notes on Song 5:14; Is 54:11.

28:9 mountains at the base. A poetic expression emphasizing great depth (cf. Jon 2:6).

28:10 channels through the rocks. An eighth-century B.C. inscription found at Jerusalem's Pool of Siloam testifies to the sophistication of ancient tunneling technology.

The Search for Wisdom Is Harder

12 "But [a]where can wisdom be found?
And where is the place of understanding?
13 "[a]Man does not know its value,
Nor is it found in the land of the living.
14 "The deep says, 'It is not in me';
And the sea says, 'It is not with me.'
15 "[a]Pure gold cannot be given in exchange for it,
Nor can silver be weighed as its price.
16 "It cannot be valued in the gold of Ophir,
In precious onyx, or sapphire.
17 "[a]Gold or glass cannot equal it,
Nor can it be exchanged for articles of fine gold.
18 "Coral and crystal are not to be mentioned;
And the acquisition of [a]wisdom is above that of pearls.
19 "The topaz of Ethiopia cannot equal it,
Nor can it be valued in [a]pure gold.
20 "[a]Where then does wisdom come from?
And where is the place of understanding?
21 "Thus it is hidden from the eyes of all living
And concealed from the birds of the sky.
22 "[1][a]Abaddon and Death say,
'With our ears we have heard a report of it.'

23 "[a]God understands its way,
And He knows its place.
24 "For He [a]looks to the ends of the earth
And sees everything under the heavens.
25 "When He imparted [a]weight to the wind
And [b]meted out the waters by measure,
26 When He set a [a]limit for the rain
And a course for the [b]thunderbolt,
27 Then He saw it and declared it;
He established it and also searched it out.
28 "And to man He said, 'Behold, the [a]fear of the Lord, that is wisdom;
And to depart from evil is understanding.' "

28:12 The questions, repeated almost verbatim in v. 20, are answered in v. 28.
28:16 gold of Ophir. See 22:24 and note.
28:18 the acquisition of wisdom is above . . . pearls. Cf. the value of an "excellent wife" (Prov 31:10), who fears the Lord (Prov 31:30) and is therefore wise (see v. 28).
28:19 Ethiopia. The Hebrew term (Cush) actually includes the entire upper Nile region, south of Egypt.
28:21 hidden . . . from the birds. As are precious stones and metals (see v. 7).
28:22 Abaddon and Death. See note on 26:6.
28:25–27 Wisdom has been with God from the time of creation itself (see Prov 8:22–31).
28:28 fear of the Lord . . . depart from evil. See the description of Job's character in 1:1,8; 2:3. that is wisdom. "The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom" (Ps 111:10; Prov 9:10; see Prov 1:7).
29:1–31:40 Like a lawyer submitting his final brief, Job presents a three-part summation: Part one (ch. 29) is a nostalgic review of his former happiness, wealth and honor; part two (ch. 30) is a lament over the loss of everything, especially his honor; part three (ch. 31) is a final protestation of his innocence.
29:1–25 A classic example of Semitic rhetoric, using the following symmetrical pattern: blessing (vv. 2–6), honor (vv. 7–10), benevolence (vv. 11–17), blessing (vv. 18–20), honor (vv. 21–25).
29:2–6 Words charged with emotion. In earlier days, God had been Job's friend and companion.
29:3 by His light I walked. See note on 22:28.
29:4 When the friendship of God was over my tent. Lit. "When God's council was by my tent," or "When God was an intimate in my tent." The clause evokes a situation similar to that in Gen 18, where God and two members of His heavenly council eat and drink at Abraham's tent—and there God discloses to His friend the imminent birth of the promised son and God's intentions concerning Sodom and Gomorrah.
29:5 my children were around me. See 1:2.
29:6 butter . . . oil. Symbols of richness and luxury (see 20:17; Ezek 16:19).
29:7 gate of the city. Where the most important business was conducted and the most significant legal cases were tried (see note on Ruth 4:1). took my seat. As a city elder, a member of the ruling council (see note on Gen 19:1).

12 Because I delivered [a]the poor who cried for help,
And the [b]orphan who had no helper.
13 "The blessing of the one [a]ready to perish came upon me,
And I made the [b]widow's heart sing for joy.
14 "I [a]put on righteousness, and it clothed me;
My justice was like a robe and a turban.
15 "I was [a]eyes to the blind
And feet to the lame.
16 "I was a father to [a]the needy,
And I investigated the case which I did not know.
17 "I [a]broke the jaws of the wicked
And snatched the prey from his teeth.
18 "Then I [1]thought, 'I shall die [2]in my nest,
And I shall multiply my days as the sand.
19 'My [a]root is spread out to the waters,

20 'My glory is ever new with me,

21 "To me [a]they listened and waited,
And kept silent for my counsel.
22 "After my words they did not [a]speak again,

23 "They waited for me as for the rain,

29:12–13 I delivered . . . the orphan . . . I made the widow's heart sing. Implicitly responding to Eliphaz's accusation in 22:9, Job expresses his concern for the helpless and unfortunate (see 24:9; 31:16–18,21).
29:14 I put on righteousness . . . justice was like a robe. For similar imagery see Is 59:17; 61:10; Eph 6:14,17.
29:18 I thought. Job muses on what might have been the course of his life.
29:21–25 His counsel was valued (vv. 21–23), his approval sought (v. 24) and his civic leadership accepted with gratitude (v. 25).
30:1–31 In contrast to the positive notes of blessing and honor sounded in ch. 29, Job now bemoans the suffering and dishonor he has been forced to undergo. God has heaped overwhelming terrors on him (v. 15). His final, forlorn lament (see v. 31) over his condition shows that his rage has not yet subsided.
30:1,9 now . . . their taunt. Earlier both young and old had deferred to him (see 29:8–11,21–25).
30:4 mallow. Probably saltwort, which grows in otherwise infertile areas, including the regions east of Sinai where Job and his friends lived. Cf. 39:6. broom shrub. A large bush that grows in the deserts of the Middle East (see 1 Kin 19:4; Ps 120:4).
30:9 byword. See note on 17:6.
30:11 He has loosed His bowstring. Cf. 29:20.

I stand up, and You turn Your attention against me.
21 "You have [1]become cruel to me;
With the might of Your hand You [a]persecute me.

Job Asserts His Integrity

31 "I have made a covenant with my [a]eyes;
How then could I gaze at a virgin?
2 "And what is [a]the portion of God from above
Or the heritage of the Almighty from on high?
3 "Is it not [a]calamity to the unjust
And disaster to [b]those who work iniquity?
4 "Does He not [a]see my ways
And [b]number all my steps?

5 "If I have [a]walked with falsehood,
And my foot has hastened after deceit,
6 Let Him [a]weigh me with [1]accurate scales,
And let God know [b]my integrity.
7 "If my step has [a]turned from the way,
Or my heart [1]followed my eyes,
Or if any [b]spot has stuck to my hands,
8 Let me [a]sow and another eat,
And let my [1b]crops be uprooted.

9 "If my heart has been [a]enticed by a woman,
Or I have lurked at my neighbor's doorway,
10 May my wife [a]grind for another,
And let [b]others [1]kneel down over her.
11 "For that would be a [a]lustful crime;
Moreover, it would be [b]an iniquity punishable by judges.
12 "For it would be [a]fire that consumes to [1b]Abaddon,
And would [c]uproot all my [2]increase.

30:19 dust and ashes. Symbolic of humiliation and insignificance (see note on Gen 18:27). Job would someday use "dust and ashes" to symbolize repentance (42:6).

30:20–23 Job now directs his thoughts away from men and toward God. He accuses God of abusing His power by attacking him despite his pleas for mercy.

30:24 Job feels that he has been treated unjustly, whether by God or by man.

30:26 Cf. Is 5:2,7.

30:28 mourning. See v. 30; see also note on 2:7.

30:29 brother to jackals . . . companion of ostriches. The prophet Micah uses similar imagery of himself in Mic 1:8.

30:30 fever. See note on 2:7.

31:1–40 The climactic section of Job's three-part summation (see note on 29:1–31:40). It is negative in the sense that Job denies all the sins listed, but it has the positive purpose of attesting loyalty to God as his sovereign Lord. In the strongest legal terms, using a series of self-maledictory oaths, Job completes his defense. No more can be said (v. 40). He now affixes his signature to the document (v. 35), and the burden of proof that he is a wretched sinner rests with God. Job's call for vindication had reached a climax in 27:2–6. Now he amplifies that statement with the details of his godly life. Each disavowal (vv. 5–7,9,13,16–21,24–27,29–34,38–39) is accompanied by an oath that calls for the punishment the offense deserves (vv. 8,10–12,14–15,22–23,28,40). The principle at work is the so-called "law of retaliation" (see Ex 21:23–25 and note).

31:1–12 Job begins with sins of the heart, especially sexual lust (vv. 1–4), cheating in business (vv. 5–8) and marital infidelity (vv. 9–12).

31:1 gaze at a virgin. To do so is to sin (see Matt 5:28).

31:4 Echoed by Elihu in 34:21.

31:6 Him weigh me with accurate scales. See 6:2; Prov 16:12; 21:2; 24:12. integrity. Does not imply sinless perfection (see note on 1:1).

31:12 Abaddon. See note on 26:6.

13 "If I have [a]despised the claim of my male or female slaves
When they filed a complaint against
me,
14 What then could I do when God arises?
And when He calls me to account,
what will I answer Him?
15 "Did not [a]He who made me in the womb make him,
And the same one fashion us in the womb?

16 "If I have kept [a]the poor from their desire,
Or have caused the eyes of [b]the widow to fail,
17 Or have [a]eaten my morsel alone,
And [b]the orphan has not [1]shared it 18 (But from my youth he grew up with me as with a father,
And from [1]infancy I guided her), 19 If I have seen anyone perish [a]for lack of clothing,
Or that [b]the needy had no covering,
20 If his loins have not [1]thanked me,
And if he has not been warmed with
the fleece of my sheep,
21 If I have lifted up my hand against
[a]the orphan,
Because I saw [1]I had support [b]in the gate,
22 Let my shoulder fall from the [1]socket,
And my [a]arm be broken off [2]at the elbow.
23 "For [a]calamity from God is a terror to
me,
And because of [b]His [1]majesty I can do nothing.

24 "If I have put my confidence in [a]gold,
And called fine gold my trust,
25 If I have [a]gloated because my wealth was great,
And because my hand had secured so much;
26 If I have [a]looked at the [1]sun when it shone
Or the moon going in splendor,
27 And my heart became secretly
enticed,
And my hand [1]threw a kiss from my
mouth,
28 That too would have been [a]an iniquity calling for [1]judgment,
For I would have [b]denied God above.

29 "Have I [a]rejoiced at the extinction of my enemy,
Or [1]exulted when evil befell him?
30 "[1]No, [a]I have not [2]allowed my mouth to sin
By asking for his life in [b]a curse.
31 "Have the men of my tent not said,
'Who can [1]find one who has not been
[a]satisfied with his meat'?
32 "The alien has not lodged outside,
For I have opened my doors to the 33 "Have I [a]covered my transgressions like

[1]Adam,
By hiding my iniquity in my bosom,
34 Because I [a]feared the great multitude,
And the contempt of families terrified
me,
And kept silent and did not go out of doors?
35 "Oh that I had one to hear me!
Behold, here is my [1]signature;
[a]Let the Almighty answer me!
And the indictment which my [b]adversary has written,
36 Surely I would carry it on my shoulder,
I would bind it to myself like a crown.
37 "I would declare to Him [a]the number of my steps;
Like [b]a prince I would approach Him.

38 "If my [a]land cries out against me,
And its furrows weep together;
39 If I have [a]eaten its [1]fruit without money,
Or have [b]caused [2]its owners to lose their lives,

31:13–23 Job reveals genuine understanding concerning matters of social justice: Human equality is based on creation (vv. 13–15), compassion toward those in need is essential (vv. 16–20), and power and influence must not be abused (vv. 21–23).

31:16–17 widow . . . orphan. See note on 29:12–13.

31:24–28 Covetous greed (vv. 24–25) and idolatry (vv. 26–27) are equally reprehensible in the eyes of God (v. 28; see Matt 6:19–24; Col 3:5).

31:25 my wealth was great. See 1:3,10.

31:26–28 The sun and moon are not to be objects of worship (see Deut 4:19; 17:3; Ezek 8:16–17).

31:27 kiss. An ancient gesture of worship (see 1 Kin 19:18; Hos 13:2).

31:29–32 The sin of gloating over one's enemy was condemned by Moses (Ex 23:4–5) and by Christ (Matt 5:43–47).

31:33–34 A strong denial of hypocrisy.

31:33 like Adam. See Gen 3:8–10; Hos 6:7.

31:35–37 Job's final call for justice. His signature endorses every word of the oaths he has just taken.

31:35 one to hear me. See notes on 5:1; 9:33; 16:18–21; 19:25. Let the Almighty answer me! See note on 38:1. adversary. The Hebrew for this word is not the same as that for "Satan" (see note on 1:6). Here Job's accuser is either (1) a human adversary (perhaps one of the three friends) or (2) God Himself. In any event, Job assumes that accusations have been lodged against him before the court of heaven to which God has responded with judgments.

31:36 shoulder. Inscriptions were sometimes worn on the shoulder as a perpetual reminder of their importance (see Ex 28:12).

31:38–40 A climactic oath that completes an earlier theme and creates a unique emphasis. Job calls for a curse on his land if he has not been fully committed to social justice (see also vv. 13–15).

40 Let [a]briars [1]grow instead of wheat,
And stinkweed instead of barley."
The words of Job are ended.

Elihu in Anger Rebukes Job

32 Then these three men ceased answering Job, because he was [a]righteous in his own eyes.

2 But the anger of Elihu the son of Barachel the [a]Buzite, of the family of Ram burned; against Job his anger burned [b]because he justified himself [1][c]before God.

3 And his anger burned against his three friends because they had found no answer, and yet had condemned Job.

4 Now Elihu had waited [1]to speak to Job because they were years older than he.

5 And when Elihu saw that there was no answer in the mouth of the three men his anger burned.

6 So Elihu the son of Barachel the Buzite [1]spoke out and said,

"I am young in years and you are [a]old;
Therefore I was shy and afraid to tell you [2]what I think.
7 "I [1]thought [2][a]age should speak,
And [3]increased years should teach wisdom.
8 "But it is a spirit in man,
And the [a]breath of the Almighty gives them [b]understanding.
9 "The [1]abundant in years may not be wise,
Nor may [a]elders understand justice.
10 "So I [1]say, 'Listen to me,
I too will tell [2]what I think.'

11 "Behold, I waited for your words,
I listened to your reasonings,
While you [1]pondered what to say.
12 "I even paid close attention to you;
[1]Indeed, there was no one who refuted Job,
Not one of you who answered his words.
13 "Do not say,
'[a]We have found wisdom;
God will [1]rout him, not man.'
14 "For he has not arranged his words
against me,
Nor will I reply to him with your
[1]arguments.

15 "They are dismayed, they no longer
answer;
Words have [1]failed them.
16 "Shall I wait, because they do not speak,
Because they [1]stop and no longer
answer?
17 "I too will answer my share,
I also will tell my opinion.
18 "For I am full of words;
The spirit within me constrains me.
19 "Behold, my belly is like unvented
wine,
Like new wineskins it is about to burst.
20 "Let me speak that I may get relief;
Let me open my lips and answer.
21 "Let me now [a]be partial to no one,
Nor flatter any man.
22 "For I do not know how to flatter, Else my Maker would soon take me away.

Elihu Claims to Speak for God

31:40 The words of Job are ended. His complaints and arguments are now over. He will only make brief statements of contrition (40:4–5; 42:2–6) following the divine discourses.

32:1–37:24 A fourth counselor, named Elihu and younger than the other three (32:4,6–7,9), has been standing on the sidelines, giving deference to age and listening to the dialogue-dispute. But now he declares himself ready to show that both Job and the three other counselors are in the wrong. Elihu's four poetic speeches (32:5–33:33; ch. 34; ch. 35; chs. 36–37) are preceded by a prose introduction (32:1–4) written by the author of the book.

32:1 righteous in his own eyes. He insisted on his innocence in spite of the terrible suffering that he was experiencing.

32:2–3 anger. Elihu considers Job's emphasis on vindicating himself rather than God reprehensible, but he also believes that the friends' inability to refute Job was tantamount to condemning God.

32:2 Buzite. An inhabitant of Buz, a desert region in the east (see Jer 25:23).

32:6,10 tell . . . what I think. See v. 17. Elihu is eager to share his thoughts and assumes that he can communicate them effectively (see note on 36:4).

32:6 young . . . afraid. See Jer 1:6–8; 1 Tim 4:12; 2 Tim 1:7.

32:8 breath of the Almighty. See 33:4.

32:14 Nor will I reply to him with your arguments. Elihu feels that something important has been left out and, where the wisdom of age has failed, he has the understanding to supply the right answers.

32:15–22 Elihu delivers a soliloquy to himself, but it is also for the benefit of those who may be listening.

32:15–16 Words have failed them . . . they stop and no longer answer. See v. 5. The breakdown of the third cycle in the dialogue-dispute cut short Bildad's last word and left Zophar without a third speech (see note on 22:1–26:14).

32:18 I am full of words. Elihu's speeches continue unabated through ch. 37. He has a genuine contribution to make, however, to the problems Job is facing. At the same time, he does not stoop to false accusation about Job's earlier life but usually confines his criticism of Job to quotations from Job himself. This is perhaps the reason that God, in the epilogue, does not condemn Elihu along with Job's three friends (see 42:7).

32:19 new wineskins . . . about to burst. Old wineskins might be expected to crack or break (see Matt 9:17), but not new ones. Elihu is obviously eager to speak.

33:1–33 Elihu turns to Job and speaks directly to him. Unlike the three friends, he addresses Job by name (vv. 1,31; see 37:14).

33:1 listen to all my words. He is thoroughly convinced of the importance and wisdom of the advice he is about to give (see vv. 31,33).

3 "My words are from the uprightness of my heart,
And my lips speak [a]knowledge sincerely.
4 "The [a]Spirit of God has made me,
And the [b]breath of [1]the Almighty gives me life.
5 "[a]Refute me if you can;
Array yourselves before me, take your stand.
6 "Behold, I belong to God like you;
I too have been [1]formed out of the [a]clay.
7 "Behold, [a]no fear of me should terrify you,
Nor should my pressure weigh heavily on you.

8 "Surely you have spoken in my hearing,
And I have heard the sound of your words:
9 'I am [a]pure, [b]without transgression;
I am innocent and there [c]is no guilt in me.
10 'Behold, He [1]invents pretexts against me;
He [a]counts me as His enemy.
11 'He [a]puts my feet in the stocks;
He watches all my paths.'
12 "Behold, let me [1]tell you, [a]you are not right in this,
For God is greater than man.

13 "Why do you [a]complain against Him
That He does not give an account of all His doings?
14 "Indeed [a]God speaks once,
Or twice, yet no one notices it.

33:6 I . . . have been formed out of the clay. See note on 4:19.

33:7 my pressure weigh heavily on you. The idiom is elsewhere used only of God (see 23:2; see also note on 1 Sam 5:6).

33:8 Surely you have spoken. Elihu's method is to quote Job (vv. 9–11; 34:5–6,9; 35:2–3) and then show him where and how he is wrong. The quotations are not always verbatim, which indicates that Elihu is content simply to repeat the substance of Job's arguments.

33:11 Elihu quotes Job's words almost verbatim here (see 13:27).

33:12 you are not right. Elihu feels that Job needs to be corrected. Certainly Job's perception of God as his enemy (see v. 10; 13:24; 19:11) is wrong, but Elihu is also offended by what he considers Job's claim to purity (see v. 9). Job, however, had never claimed to be "pure, without transgression," though some of his words were also understood that way by Eliphaz (see 15:14–16). Job admits being a sinner (7:21; 13:26) but disclaims the outrageous sins for which he thinks he is being punished. His complaints about God's silence (see v. 13) are also an offense to Elihu. But he imputes to Job the blanket statement that God never speaks to man, whereas Job's point is that God is silent in his present experience.

33:15 In a dream . . . When sound sleep falls on men. Elihu echoes Eliphaz (see 4:13).

33:18 pit. See vv. 22,24,28,30; a metaphor for the grave, as often in the Psalms. passing over into Sheol. See NASB marg. and 36:12.

33:19 Man is also chastened with pain on his bed. Dreams and visions (see v. 15) are not the only ways in which God speaks. He can talk to us in ways that we do not perceive (see v. 14). Elihu rightly states that God speaks to man in order to turn him from sin. But he overlooks Job's reason for wanting an audience with God: to find out what sins he is being accused of (see 13:22–23).

33:23–28 Having emphasized the importance of the chastening aspect of suffering, a point mentioned only briefly by Eliphaz (see 5:17), Elihu now moves on to the possibility of redemption based on a mediator (see note on 5:1). He further allows for God's gracious response of forgiveness where sincere repentance is present (vv. 27–28). But Elihu is still ignorant of the true nature of Job's relationship to God, known only in the divine council (chs. 1–2).

33:24 Deliver him from going down to the pit. See Is 38:17. ransom. See Ps 49:7–9 and note.

33:25 flesh become fresher than in youth . . . return. Similar phrases are used in 2 Kin 5:14 with reference to healing from leprosy.

26 Then he will [a]pray to God, and He will accept him,
That [b]he may see His face with joy,
And He may restore His righteousness to man.
27 "He will sing to men and say,
'I [a]have sinned and perverted what is right,
And it is not [b]proper for me.
28 'He has redeemed my soul from going to the pit,
And my life shall [a]see the light.'

29 "Behold, God does [a]all these [1]oftentimes with men,
30 To [a]bring back his soul from the pit,
That he may be enlightened with the light of life.
31 "Pay attention, O Job, listen to me;
Keep silent, and let me speak.
32 "Then if [1]you have anything to say, answer me;
Speak, for I desire to justify you.
33 "If not, [a]listen to me;
Keep silent, and I will teach you wisdom."

Elihu Vindicates God's Justice

34 Then Elihu continued and said,
2 "Hear my words, you wise men,
And listen to me, you who know.
3 "For [a]the ear tests words
As the palate tastes food.
4 "Let us choose for ourselves what is right;
Let us know among ourselves what is good.
5 "For Job has said, '[a]I am righteous,
But [b]God has taken away my right;
6 [1]Should I lie concerning my right?
My [2a]wound is incurable, though I am without transgression.'
7 "What man is like Job,
Who [a]drinks up derision like water,
8 Who goes [a]in company with the workers of iniquity,
And walks with wicked men?
9 "For he has said, '[a]It profits a man nothing
When he [1]is pleased with God.'

10 "Therefore, listen to me, you men of understanding.
Far be it from God to [a]do wickedness,
And from the Almighty to do wrong.
11 "For He pays a man according to [a]his work,
And makes [1]him find it according to his way.
12 "Surely, [a]God will not act wickedly,
And the Almighty will not pervert justice.
13 "Who [a]gave Him authority over the earth?
And who [b]has laid on Him the whole world?
14 "If He should [1]determine to do so,
If He should [a]gather to Himself His spirit and His breath,
15 All [a]flesh would perish together,
And man would [b]return to dust.

16 "But if you have understanding, hear this;
Listen to the sound of my words.
17 "Shall [a]one who hates justice rule?
And [b]will you condemn the righteous mighty One,

33:26 see His face. Not literally (see note on Gen 16:13).
33:30 To bring back his soul from the pit. Elihu teaches that God's apparent cruelty in chastening human beings is in reality an act of love, since man is never punished in this life in keeping with what he fully deserves (see v. 27). light of life. Spiritual well-being (see Ps 49:19; see also Ps 27:1 and note). In some contexts, the phrase refers to resurrection (see note on Is 53:11).
33:32 I desire to justify you. But this will happen, Elihu insists, only if Job repents.
34:1–37 The second of Elihu's four speeches (see note on 32:1–37:24), divided into three sections: (1) addressed to a group of wise men (vv. 2–15), doubtless including the three friends; (2) addressed to Job (vv. 16–33); (3) addressed to himself (vv. 34–37), as in 32:15–22 (see note there).
34:2,10 listen to me. Although it is possible that Elihu is overly impressed with his own wisdom, it is more likely that he considered himself a messenger of God (see 32:8; 33:4), especially in the light of his humble attitude in v. 4.
34:2 wise men . . . you who know. Also referred to as "men of understanding" (vv. 10,34).
34:3 Elihu echoes the words of Job in 12:11 (see note there).
34:5,9 Job has said . . . For he has said. Elihu again quotes Job and then goes on to defend God's justice against what he considers to be Job's false theology (e.g., 9:14–24; 16:11–17; 19:7; 21:17–18; 24:1–12; 27:2). The substance of the quotation in v. 5 is accurate (cf. 12:4; 13:18; 27:6), and much of v. 6 represents Job fairly (see 21:34; 27:5; see also 6:4 and note)—though Job had never claimed to be completely guiltless. Verse 9 is not a direct quotation from Job, who had only imagined the wicked saying something similar (see 21:15). But perhaps Elihu derives it from Job's repeated statement that God treats the righteous and the wicked in the same way (cf. 9:22; 21:17; 24:1–12), leading to the conclusion that it does not pay to please God.
34:7 drinks up derision like water. See Eliphaz's description of man in 15:16.
34:10 Far be it from God to do wickedness. See Gen 18:25 and note. Elihu's concern that Job was making God the author of evil is commendable. Job, in his frustration, has come perilously close to charging God with wrongdoing (12:4–6; 24:1–12). He has suggested that this is the only conclusion he can reach on the basis of his knowledge and experience (9:24).
34:11 See 2 Cor 5:10.
34:13–15 Elihu is zealous for God's glory as the sovereign Sustainer who demonstrates His grace every moment by granting life and breath to man.
34:15 return to dust. See Eccl 12:7; see also Gen 3:19 and note.
34:16 hear . . . Listen. The Hebrew for these verbs is singular, addressed to Job. Elihu is concerned that Job's attitude about God's justice be corrected (see v. 17), so he stresses God's impartial rule as Lord of all, especially in meting out justice to the wicked in high places (see vv. 18–20).

18 Who says to a king, 'Worthless one,'
To nobles, 'Wicked ones';
19 Who shows no [a]partiality to princes
Nor regards the rich above the poor,
For they all are the [b]work of His hands?
20 "In a moment they die, and [a]at midnight
People are shaken and pass away,
And [b]the mighty are taken away without a hand.

21 "For [a]His eyes are upon the ways of a
man,
And He sees all his steps.
22 "There is [a]no darkness or deep shadow
Where the workers of iniquity may hide themselves.
23 "For He does not [a]need to consider a man further,
That he should go before God in judgment.
24 "He breaks in pieces [a]mighty men without inquiry,
And sets others in their place.
25 "Therefore He [a]knows their works,
And [b]He overthrows them in the night,
And they are crushed.
26 "He [a]strikes them like the wicked
[1]In a public place, 27 Because they [a]turned aside from following Him,
And [b]had no regard for any of His ways;
28 So that they caused [a]the cry of the poor to come to Him,
And that He might [b]hear the cry of the afflicted—
29 When He keeps quiet, who then can condemn?
And when He hides His face, who then can behold Him,
That is, in regard to both nation and
man?—
30 So that [a]godless men would not rule
Nor be snares of the people.

31 "For has anyone said to God,
'I have borne chastisement;
I will not offend anymore;
32 Teach me what I do not see;
If I have [a]done iniquity,
I will not do it again'?
33 "Shall He [a]recompense on your terms, because you have rejected it?
For you must choose, and not I;
Therefore declare what you know.
34 "Men of understanding will say to me,
And a wise man who hears me,
35 'Job [a]speaks without knowledge,
And his words are without wisdom.
36 'Job ought to be tried [1]to the limit,
Because he answers [a]like wicked men.
37 'For he adds [a]rebellion to his sin;
He [b]claps his hands among us,
And multiplies his words against God.' "

Elihu Sharply Reproves Job

35 Then Elihu continued and said,
2 "Do you think this is according to
[a]justice?
Do you say, 'My righteousness is more than God's'?
3 "For you say, '[a]What advantage will it be to [1]You?
[b]What profit will I have, more than if I had sinned?'
4 "I will answer you,
And your friends with you.
5 "[a]Look at the heavens and see;
And behold [b]the clouds—they are higher than you.
6 "If you have sinned, [a]what do you accomplish against Him?
And if your transgressions are many,
what do you do to Him?
7 "If you are righteous, [a]what do you give to Him,
Or what does He receive from your hand?
8 "Your wickedness is for a man like yourself,
And your righteousness is for a son of
man.

9 "Because of the [a]multitude of oppressions they cry out;
They cry for help because of the arm
[b]of the mighty.

34:18 Worthless. See note on Deut 13:13.
34:21–28 God's omniscience guarantees that He will not make any mistakes when He punishes evildoers. It is not necessary for Him to set times to examine people for judgment (see v. 23; contrast 24:1).
34:21 Elihu echoes the words of Job in 31:4.
34:29 When He keeps quiet, who then can condemn? Elihu attempts to answer Job's complaint about God's silence (ch. 23). God watches over men and nations to see that right is done (vv. 29–30).
34:31–33 First indirectly (vv. 31–32) and then more directly (v. 33), Elihu condemns Job and calls for his repentance.
34:35 Job speaks without knowledge. A motif in the first discourse of the Lord (see 38:2) and the final response of Job (see 42:3).
35:1–16 Elihu's third speech (see note on 32:1–37:24), addressed to Job.
35:2 My righteousness. Elihu thinks that it is unjust and inconsistent for Job to expect vindication from God and at the same time imply that God does not care whether we are righteous (see v. 3). But allowance must be made for a person to express his feelings. The psalmist who thirsted for God (Ps 42:1–2) also questioned why God had forgotten him (Ps 42:9) and rejected him (Ps 43:2).
35:5 Look at the heavens and see. Elihu asserts that God is so far above man that there is really nothing man can do, good or bad, that will affect God's essential nature (see v. 6).
35:9 they cry out; They cry for help. Elihu states that those like Job who pray for help when suffering innocently never seem to get around to trusting the justice and goodness of their Mak-

10 "But [a]no one says, 'Where is God my Maker,
Who [b]gives songs in the night,
11 Who [a]teaches us more than the beasts of the earth
And makes us wiser than the birds of the heavens?'
12 "There [a]they cry out, but He does not answer
Because of the pride of evil men.
13 "Surely [a]God will not listen to [1]an empty cry,
Nor will the Almighty regard it.
14 "How much less when [a]you say you do not behold Him,
The [b]case is before Him, and you must wait for Him!
15 "And now, because He has not visited in His anger,
Nor has He acknowledged [1]transgression well,
16 So Job opens his mouth [1]emptily;
He multiplies words [a]without knowledge."

Elihu Speaks of God's Dealings with Men

36 Then Elihu continued and said,
2 "Wait for me a little, and I will show you
That there [1]is yet more to be said in God's behalf.
3 "I will fetch my knowledge from afar,
And I will ascribe [a]righteousness to my Maker.
4 "For truly [a]my words are not false;
One who is [b]perfect in knowledge is with you.
5 "Behold, God is mighty but does not [a]despise any;
He is [b]mighty in strength of understanding.
6 "He does not [a]keep the wicked alive,
But gives justice to [b]the afflicted.
7 "He does not [a]withdraw His eyes from the righteous;
But [b]with kings on the throne
He has seated them forever, and they are exalted.
8 "And if they are bound in fetters,
And are caught in the cords of [a]affliction,
9 Then He declares to them their work
And their transgressions, that they have [a]magnified themselves.
10 "[a]He opens their ear to instruction,
And [b]commands that they return from evil.
11 "If they hear and serve Him,
They will [a]end their days in prosperity
And their years in [b]pleasures.
12 "But if they do not hear, they shall [1]perish [a]by the sword
And they will [b]die without knowledge.
13 "But the godless in heart lay up anger;
They do not cry for help when He binds them.
14 "[1]They die in youth,
And their life perishes among the [a]cult prostitutes.
15 "He delivers the afflicted in [1]their [a]affliction,
And [b]opens their ear [2]in time of oppression.
16 "Then indeed, He [a]enticed you from the mouth of distress,
Instead of it, a broad place with no constraint;
And that which was set on your table was full of [1]fatness.
17 "But you were full of [a]judgment on the wicked;
Judgment and justice take hold of you.

er, who is also the author of wisdom and joy (see vv. 10–11). Such failure is a sign of arrogance (see v. 12), so Job's complaint against God's justice and about God's silence is meaningless talk (see vv. 13–16).

35:10–11 gives songs . . . teaches . . . makes us wiser. God chooses to condescend, to reach out to man in love.

35:12 Since men are arrogant, God does not listen (see v. 13). Job himself might not be wicked, but he shares their arrogance. He too receives no answer, because he does not ask rightly (see v. 14).

35:16 The reference here to Job in the third person does not necessarily mean that someone other than Job is being addressed (see note on vv. 1–16). multiplies words. Against God (see 34:37). without knowledge. See 38:2 and note.

36:1–37:24 Elihu's fourth and final (see 36:2) speech (see note on 32:1–37:24), addressed for the most part to Job (but see note on 37:2).

36:2–4 Elihu desires to strengthen the case for God's goodness and justice.

36:4 perfect in knowledge. Here Elihu applies the phrase to himself, while in 37:16 he applies it to God—thus appearing to make himself equal to God. But the Hebrew for "knowledge" is not quite the same here as in 37:16. Elihu is probably referring to his ability as a communicator, i.e., he claims perfection in the knowledge of speech (see note on 32:6,10,17).

36:5 God's power assures the fulfillment of His purpose.

36:6–9 A classic statement of God's justice in rewarding the righteous and punishing sinners (in contrast to what Job has been claiming). In v. 7 Elihu perhaps has in mind Job's complaint that God will not leave him alone (see 7:17–19), and in v. 9 he may be thinking of Job's charge that God will not present His indictment against him (see 31:35–36).

36:10 opens their ear to instruction. Elihu states that God uses trouble to gain man's attention.

36:12 See note on 33:18.

36:13–15 Elihu understands that the basic spiritual need of man stems from his hardness of heart—his refusal to yield to God, to cry out to God in his distress (see Ps 107), or to hear the voice of God in suffering.

36:14 cult prostitutes. See note on 1 Kin 14:24.

36:16–21 Elihu warns Job to respond to God's discipline by turning away from evil (see v. 21). Verse 16 shows that he still views Job as a man for whom there is hope.

36:16 He enticed you. With tender compassion, God brings His people back to Himself (see Hos 2:14).

18 "Beware that [a]wrath does not entice you to scoffing;
And do not let the greatness of the [b]ransom turn you aside.
19 "Will your [1]riches keep you from distress,
Or all the forces of your strength?
20 "Do not long for [a]the night,
When people [1]vanish in their place.
21 "Be careful, do [a]not turn to evil,
For you have preferred this to [b]affliction.
22 "Behold, God is exalted in His power;
Who is a [a]teacher like Him?
23 "Who has appointed Him His way,
And who has said, '[a]You have done wrong'?

24 "Remember that you should [a]exalt His work,
Of which men have [b]sung.
25 "All men have seen it;
Man beholds from afar.
26 "Behold, God is [a]exalted, and [b]we do not know Him;
The [c]number of His years is unsearchable.
27 "For [a]He draws up the drops of water,
They distill rain from [1]the [2]mist,
28 Which the clouds pour down,
They drip upon man abundantly.
29 "Can anyone understand the [a]spreading of the clouds,
The [b]thundering of His [1]pavilion?
30 "Behold, He spreads His [1]lightning about Him,
And He covers the depths of the sea.
31 "For by these He [a]judges peoples;
He [b]gives food in abundance.
32 "He covers His hands with the [1]lightning,
And [a]commands it to strike the mark.
33 "Its [a]noise declares [1]His presence;
The cattle also, concerning what is coming up.

36:21 Be careful, do not turn to evil. Elihu's evaluation of Job is the opposite of God's (see 1:8; 2:3).
36:22–33 Elihu anticipates some of God's statements in the discourses of chs. 38–41.
36:24 His work, Of which men have sung. See, e.g., Ex 15:1; Judg 5:1.
36:26 we do not know Him. See 37:5. That God's ways and thoughts are infinitely higher than ours is an important theme in chs. 38–41.
36:30 covers. Here in the sense of "lighting up" the depths of the sea.
36:31 judges. The verb can be translated "nourishes," meaning the Lord nourishes the peoples with the showers mentioned in vv. 27–30.
36:32 His hands. Lit. "both hands." God works with equal effectiveness with either hand (cf. 1 Chr 12:2).
37:1–13 A continuation of Elihu's hymnic description of God's marvels exhibited in the earth's atmosphere, beginning in 36:27. His heart pounds at the awesome display (see v. 1). The passage reveals a sophisticated observation of atmospheric conditions and their effects: the evaporation and distillation of water for rain (see 36:27), the clouds as holders of moisture (see 36:28; 37:11) and the cyclonic behavior of clouds (see v. 12). Such forces originate from God's command and always perform His will for mankind, whether for good or for ill (v. 13).
37:2 Listen. The Hebrew for this verb is plural, indicating that others (including the three friends) besides Job are being addressed here (see note on 36:1–37:24). thunder of His voice . . . rumbling. Thunder (see v. 4).
37:5 we cannot comprehend. See note on 36:26.
37:10 breath of God. Here a metaphor for a chilling wind.

God Speaks Now to Job

38 Then the LORD [a]answered Job out of the whirlwind and said,
2 "Who is this that [a]darkens counsel
By words without knowledge?
3 "Now [a]gird up your loins like a man,
And [b]I will ask you, and you instruct Me!
4 "Where were you [a]when I laid the foundation of the earth?
Tell Me, if you [1]have understanding,
5 Who set its [a]measurements? Since you know.
Or who stretched the line on it?
6 "On what [a]were its bases sunk?
Or who laid its cornerstone,
7 When the morning stars sang together
And all the [a]sons of God shouted for joy?

8 "Or who [a]enclosed the sea with doors
When, bursting forth, it went out from the womb;
9 When I made a cloud its garment
And thick darkness its swaddling band,
10 And I [1a]placed boundaries on it
And set a bolt and doors,
11 And I said, 'Thus far you shall come, but no farther;
And here shall your proud waves stop'?

And caused the dawn to know its place, elements. The question format is also used in the divine discourses (chs. 38–41).

37:16 perfect in knowledge. See note on 36:4.

37:18 spread out the skies. See 26:7. Strong as . . . mirror. Ancient mirrors were made out of bronze, so they were very hard. In Deut 28:23, a bronze sky symbolizes unremitting heat (see note there; see also Deut 28:22).

37:19 We cannot arrange our case. Job had dared to sign his defense and call for an audience with God (see 31:35). For this, Elihu seeks to shame him. But he softens his tone by including himself as one equally vulnerable to God's majesty.

37:22 Out of the north comes golden splendor. See note on Ps 48:2. awesome majesty. Elihu prepares Job for the appearance of God in the storm (chs. 38–41).

37:24 fear. See 28:28; Gen 20:11 and notes.

38:1–42:6 The theophany (appearance of God) to Job, consisting of two discourses by the Lord (38:1–40:2; 40:6–41:34), each of which receives a brief response from Job (40:3–5; 42:1–6).

38:1 the LORD. The Israelite covenant name for God (see Introduction: Author). whirlwind. See 40:6. Elihu had imagined the appearance of the divine presence as a display of "golden splendor" and "awesome majesty" (37:22). He also had anticipated the storm or whirlwind (see note on 37:22), from which Job would hear the voice of God. Job had said, "Let the Almighty answer me" (31:35). He now receives the Lord's answer.

38:2 See 35:16. In 42:3, Job echoes the Lord's words. God states that Job's complaining and raging against Him are unjustified and proceed from limited understanding.

38:3 Repeated in 40:7 (see also 42:4). The format of God's response is to ply Job with rhetorical questions, to each of which Job must plead ignorance. God says nothing about Job's suffering, nor does He address Job's problem about divine justice. Job gets neither a bill of indictment nor a verdict of innocence. But, more important, God does not humiliate or condemn him—which surely would have been the case if the counselors had been right. So by implication Job is vindicated, and later his vindication is directly affirmed (see 42:7–8). The divine discourses, then, succeed in bringing Job to complete faith in God's goodness without his receiving a direct answer to his questions.

38:4–38 Inanimate creation testifies to God's sovereignty and power (the earth, vv. 4–7,18; the sea, vv. 8–11,16; the sun, vv. 12–15; the netherworld, v. 17; light and darkness, vv. 19–20; the weather, vv. 22–30,34–38; the constellations, vv. 31–33). See note on 38:39–39:30.

38:4–5 See the similar questions of Agur, and the similar irony in his demand for a response (Prov 30:4).

38:7 See Ps 148:2–3; see also note on Ps 65:13. When the earth was created, the angels were there to sing the praises of the Creator, but Job was not (see vv. 4–5). He should therefore not expect to be able to understand even lesser aspects of God's plans for the world and for mankind. sons of God. See 1:6 and note.

38:10–11 See Ps 33:7; Jer 5:22.

38:11 And I said. God the Father controls the sea by speaking to it, as does God the Son (see Luke 8:24–25).

38:12–13 The arrival of the dawn sends the wicked scurrying for cover.

13 That it might take hold of [a] the ends of the earth,
And [b] the wicked be shaken out of it?
14 "It is changed like clay under the seal;
And they stand forth like a garment.
15 "[a] From the wicked their light is withheld,
And the [b] uplifted arm is broken.

For the day of war and battle?

And to make the [1] seeds of grass to sprout?
28 "Has [a] the rain a father?
Or who has begotten the drops of dew?
29 "From whose womb has come the [a] ice?
And the frost of heaven, who has given it birth?
30 "Water [1] becomes hard like stone,
And the surface of the deep is imprisoned.

31 "Can you bind the chains of the [a] Pleiades,
Or loose the cords of Orion?
32 "Can you lead forth a [1] constellation in its season,
And guide the Bear with her [2] satellites?
33 "Do you know the [a] ordinances of the heavens,
Or fix their rule over the earth?

34 "Can you lift up your voice to the clouds,
So that an [a] abundance of water will cover you?
35 "Can you [a] send forth lightnings that they may go
And say to you, 'Here we are'?
36 "Who has [a] put wisdom in the innermost being
Or given [b] understanding to the [1] mind?
37 "Who can count the clouds by wisdom,
Or [a] tip the water jars of the heavens,
38 When the dust hardens into a mass
And the clods stick together?

39 "Can you hunt the [a] prey for the lion,
Or satisfy the appetite of the young lions,
40 When they [a] crouch in their dens
And lie in wait in their lair?
41 "Who prepares for [a] the raven its nourishment
When its young cry to God
And wander about without food?

Job: What Can I Say?

40 Then the LORD said to Job,
2 "Will the faultfinder [a]contend with the Almighty?
Let him who [b]reproves God answer it."

3 Then Job answered the LORD and said,

39:5 wild donkey. See 24:5; see also the description of Ishmael in Gen 16:12 and note there.
39:9–12 As there was an implied contrast between the wild donkey and the domestic donkey (see v. 7), here there is a more explicit contrast between the wild ox and the domestic ox.
39:11 strength is great. In the OT, the wild ox (the now virtually extinct aurochs) often symbolizes strength (see, e.g., Num 23:22; 24:8; Deut 33:17; Ps 29:6). Next to the elephant and rhinoceros, the wild ox was the largest and most powerful land animal of the OT world.
39:13–18 This stanza is unique in the discourses, because in it the Lord asks Job no questions. Could it be because the ostrich is so amusing?
39:13 pinion and plumage of love. The Hebrew for "love" can be translated "a stork" (see NASB marg.). A stork's wings were particularly impressive (see Zech 5:9).
39:18 horse and his rider. Forms a transition to the next paragraph.
39:19–25 The horse is the only domestic animal in the discourses. This fact, though unexpected, serves the Lord's purpose, since it is specifically the war horse that is in view.
39:20 like the locust. Horses and locusts are compared also in Jer 51:27; Rev 9:7; cf. Joel 2:4.
39:26 hawk. The sparrow hawk, not resident to the Holy Land, stops there in its migration south for the winter.
39:27 eagle. Or possibly "vulture" (see v. 30).
40:1–2 The conclusion of the first divine discourse. Once again, God challenges Job to answer Him.
40:3–5 Job, duly chastened and no longer "like a prince" (31:37), is unwilling to speak another word of complaint.

4 "Behold, I am insignificant; what can I reply to You?
I [a]lay my hand on my mouth.
5 "Once I have spoken, and [a]I will not answer;
Even twice, and I will add nothing more."

God Questions Job

6 Then the [a]LORD answered Job out of the storm and said,
7 "Now [a]gird up your loins like a man;
I will [b]ask you, and you instruct Me.
8 "Will you really [a]annul My judgment?
Will you [b]condemn Me [c]that you may be justified?

15 "Behold now, [1]Behemoth, which [a]I made [2]as well as you;
He eats grass like an ox.
16 "Behold now, his strength in his loins
And his power in the muscles of his belly.

The sinews of his thighs are knit together.
18 "His bones are tubes of bronze;
His [1]limbs are like bars of iron.

19 "He is the [a]first of the ways of God;
Let his [b]maker bring near his sword.
20 "Surely the mountains [a]bring him food,
And all the beasts of the field [b]play there.
21 "Under the lotus plants he lies down,
In the covert of the reeds and the marsh.
22 "The lotus plants cover him with [1]shade;
The willows of the brook surround him.
23 "If a river [1]rages, he is not alarmed;
He is confident, though the [a]Jordan rushes to his mouth.
24 "Can anyone capture him [1]when he is on watch,
With [2]barbs can anyone pierce his nose?

God's Power Shown in Creatures

41 "[1]Can you draw out [2][a]Leviathan with a fishhook?
Or press down his tongue with a cord?

Or pierce his jaw with a [2]hook?

40:4 insignificant. The Hebrew for this word can also mean "small" or "unworthy."
40:5 Once . . . twice. See note on 5:19.
40:6 See 38:1 and note.
40:7 Repeated from 38:3 (see note there).
40:8–14 The prologue to the second divine discourse, which ends at 41:34. Unlike the first discourse, God here addresses the issues of His own justice and Job's futile attempt at self-justification. In chs. 21 and 24, Job had complained about God's indifference toward the wickedness of evil men. Here the Lord asserts His ability and determination to administer justice—a matter over which Job has no control. Therefore by implication Job is admonished to leave all this, including his own vindication (see v. 14), under the power of God's strong arm (see v. 9).
40:8 Will you condemn Me that you may be justified? In 19:6, Job had said, "God has wronged me."
40:10 clothe yourself with honor and majesty. The Hebrew underlying this clause describes God in Ps 104:1: "You are clothed with splendor and majesty." The Lord here challenges Job to take on the appearance of deity—if he can.
40:11–12 See Is 13:11, where the Lord describes Himself as doing these things.
40:13 dust. See note on 7:21.
40:14 your own right hand can save you. Contrast Ps 49:7–9 (see note there).
40:15–24 The first of two poems (ch. 41 constitutes the second) in this discourse, each describing a huge beast and resuming the animal theme of ch. 39.
40:15 Behemoth. The word is Hebrew and means "beast par excellence," referring to a large land animal (possibly the hippopotamus or the elephant). Much of the language used to describe him in vv. 16–24 is highly poetic and hyperbolic. which I made. He is one of God's creatures, not a mythical being.
40:18 iron. See note on 19:24.
40:19 first of the ways of God. The Hebrew underlying this phrase is translated "beginning of His way" in Prov 8:22 with reference to the creation of wisdom (see Prov 8:12). Here the descriptive phrase stresses the importance of the Behemoth as an example of a huge animal under the control of a sovereign God.
40:21–23 reeds and the marsh . . . willows . . . Jordan. The area described is probably the Huleh region, north of the Sea of Galilee.
40:24 The proposal to capture the Behemoth forms a transition to the similar proposal concerning the Leviathan in 41:1.
41:1–34 The second of two poems in the Lord's final discourse (see note on 40:15–24).
41:1 Leviathan. The OT uses the word in both a figurative and a literal sense. For its figurative usage see note on 3:8. Literally, the Leviathan was a large marine animal (see Ps 104:26), here perhaps a crocodile (see NASB marg.). His description in ch. 41 indicates that he is even more terrifying than the Behemoth in ch. 40.

Or will he speak to you soft words?
4 "Will he make a covenant with you?
Will you take him for a servant forever?

Or will you bind him for your maidens?
6 "Will the [1]traders bargain over him?
Will they divide him among the merchants?
7 "Can you fill his skin with harpoons,
Or his head with fishing spears?
8 "Lay your hand on him;
Remember the battle; [1]you will not do it again!
9 "[1]Behold, [2]your expectation is false;
Will [3]you be laid low even at the sight of him?

Who then is he that can stand before Me?

Whatever is [b]under the whole heaven is Mine.

12 "I will not keep silence concerning his limbs,
Or his mighty strength, or his [1]orderly frame.

Who can come within his double [2]mail?

Around his teeth there is terror.

Bronze as rotten wood.
28 "The [1]arrow cannot make him flee;
Slingstones are turned into stubble for him.
29 "Clubs are regarded as stubble;
He laughs at the rattling of the javelin.
30 "His underparts are like sharp potsherds;
He [1]spreads out like a threshing sledge on the mire.
31 "He makes the depths boil like a pot;
He makes the sea like a jar of ointment.
32 "Behind him he makes a wake to shine;
One would think the deep to be gray-haired.
33 "[a]Nothing on [1]earth is like him,
One made without fear.
34 "[1]He looks on everything that is high;
He is king over all the [a]sons of pride."

Job's Confession

6 Therefore I retract,

God Displeased with Job's Friends

7 It came about after the LORD had spoken these words to Job, that the LORD said to Eliphaz the Temanite, "My wrath is kindled against you and against your two friends, because you have not spoken of Me what is right [a]as My servant Job has.

8 "Now therefore, take for yourselves [a]seven bulls and seven rams, and go to My servant Job, and offer up a [b]burnt offering for yourselves, and My servant Job will [c]pray for you. [d]For I will [1]accept him so that I may not do with you according to your folly, because you have not spoken of Me what is right, as My servant Job has."

9 So Eliphaz the Temanite and Bildad the Shuhite and Zophar the Naamathite went and did as the LORD told them; and the LORD [1]accepted Job.

God Restores Job's Fortunes

10 The LORD [a]restored the fortunes of Job when he prayed for his friends, and the LORD increased all that Job had twofold.

11 Then all his [a]brothers and all his sisters and all who had known him before came to him, and they ate bread with him in his house; and they [b]consoled him and comforted him for all the adversities that the LORD had brought on him. And each one gave him one [1]piece of money, and each a ring of gold.

12 [a]The LORD blessed the latter days of Job more than his beginning; [b]and he had 14,000 sheep and 6,000 camels and 1,000 yoke of oxen and 1,000 female donkeys.

13 [a]He had seven sons and three daughters.

14 He named the first Jemimah, and the second Keziah, and the third Keren-happuch.

42:6 I retract. See note on 9:21. To his humility (see 40:4–5) Job adds repentance for the presumptuous words he had spoken to God. dust and ashes. See 30:19 and note.

42:7–9 Despite Job's mistakes in word and attitude while he suffered, he is now commended and the counselors are rebuked. Why? Because even in his rage, even when he challenged God, he was determined to speak honestly before Him. The counselors, on the other hand, mouthed many correct and often beautiful creedal statements, but without living knowledge of the God they claimed to honor. Job spoke to God; they only spoke about God. Even worse, their spiritual arrogance caused them to claim knowledge they did not possess. They presumed to know why Job was suffering.

42:7–8 My servant Job. The phrase is used four times in these two verses (see note on 1:8).

42:10 Job's prayer for those who had abused him is a touching OT illustration of the high Christian virtue our Lord taught in Matt 5:44. Job's prayer marked the turning point back to prosperity for him.

42:11 Contrast 16:2; 19:13. piece of money. The Hebrew for this phrase is found elsewhere in the OT only in Gen 33:19 (see note there); Josh 24:32.

42:12–16 The cosmic contest with the Accuser is now over, and Job is restored. No longer is there a reason for Job to experience suffering—unless he was sinful and deserved it, which is not the case. God does not allow us to suffer for no reason, and even though the reason may be hidden in the mystery of His divine purpose (see Is 55:8–9)—never for us to know in this life—we must trust in Him as the God who does only what is right.

42:12 The number of animals is in each case twice as many (see v. 10) as Job had owned before (see 1:3).

42:13 seven sons and three daughters. To replace the children he had lost earlier (see 1:2,18–19).

42:14 Jemimah. Means "dove." Keziah. Means "cinnamon." Keren-happuch. Means "container of antimony," a highly prized eyeshadow (see note on Jer 4:30).

42:15 gave them inheritance among their brothers. Contrast Num 27:8.

42:16 lived 140 years. The longevity of a true patriarch (see note on Ex 6:16). saw . . . four generations. See Gen 50:23.

42:17 old man and full of days. See 5:26 and note; Gen 25:8.

Psalms

INTRODUCTION

Title

The titles "Psalms" and "Psalter" come from the Septuagint (the Greek translation of the OT), where they originally referred to stringed instruments (such as harp, lyre and lute), then to songs sung with their accompaniment. The traditional Hebrew title is tehillim (meaning "praises"; see note on Ps 145 title), even though many of the psalms are tephillot (meaning "prayers"). In fact, one of the first collections included in the book was titled "the prayers of David the son of Jesse" (72:20).

Collection, Arrangement and Date

The Psalter is a collection of collections and represents the final stage in a process that spanned centuries. It was put into its final form by postexilic temple personnel, who completed it probably in the third century B.C. As such, it served as the prayer book (book of prayer, praise and religious instruction) for the second (Zerubbabel's and Herod's) temple and for use in the synagogues. By the first century A.D. it was referred to as the "book of Psalms" (Luke 20:42; Acts 1:20). At that time also Psalms was used as a title for the entire section of the Hebrew OT canon known as the "Writings" (see Luke 24:44).

Many collections preceded this final compilation of the Psalms. In fact, the formation of psalters probably goes back to the early days of the first (Solomon's) temple (or even to the time of David), when the temple liturgy began to take shape. Reference has already been made to "the prayers of David." Additional collections expressly referred to in the present Psalter titles are: (1) the songs and/or psalms "of the sons of Korah" (Ps 42—49; 84—85; 87—88), (2) the psalms and/or songs "of Asaph" (Ps 50; 73—83) and (3) the songs "of Ascents" (Ps 120—134).

Other evidence points to further compilations. Ps 1—41 (Book 1) make frequent use of the divine name Yahweh ("the LORD"), while Ps 42—72 (Book 2) make frequent use of Elohim ("God"). The reason for the Elohim collection in distinction from the Yahweh collection remains unexplained, but both of them date, at least essentially in their present form, from the period of the monarchy. Moreover, Ps 93—100 appear to be a traditional collection (see "The LORD reigns" in 93:1; 96:10; 97:1; 99:1). Other apparent groupings include Ps 111—118 (a series of Hallelujah, "Praise the LORD" psalms), Ps 138—145 (all of which include "of David" in their titles) and Ps 146—150 (with their frequent "Praise the LORD"; see NASB marg. note on 111:1). Whether the "Great Hallel" (Ps 120—136) was already a recognized unit is not known. (The seven "penitential psalms" get their name from Christian liturgical usage and so were never a unit in the Jewish Psalter tradition; see introduction to Ps 6.)

In its final edition, the Psalter contained 150 psalms. On this the Septuagint and Hebrew texts agree, though they arrive at this number differently. The Septuagint has an extra psalm at the end (but not numbered separately as Ps 151); it also unites Ps 9—10 (see note on Ps 9) and Ps 114—115 and divides Ps 116 and Ps 147 each into two psalms. Strangely, both the Septuagint and Hebrew texts number Ps 42—43 as two psalms whereas they were evidently originally one (see note on Ps 42—43).

The Psalter was divided into five Books (Ps 1—41; 42—72; 73—89; 90—106; 107—150), and each was provided with an appropriate concluding doxology (see 41:13; 72:18–19; 89:52; 106:48; 150). The first two of these Books, as already noted, were probably preexilic. The division of the remaining psalms into three Books, thus attaining the number five, was possibly in imitation of the five books of Moses (otherwise known simply as the Law). At least one of these divisions (between Ps 106—107) seems arbitrary (see introduction to Ps 107). In spite of this five-book division, the Psalter was clearly thought of as a whole, with an introduction (Ps 1—2) and a conclusion (Ps 146—150). Notes throughout the Psalms give additional indications of conscious arrangement.

Authorship and Titles (or Superscriptions)

Of the 150 psalms, only 34 lack superscriptions of any kind (only 17 in the Septuagint). These so-called "orphan" psalms are found mainly in Books 3–5, where they tend to occur in clusters: Ps 91; 93—97; 99; 104—107; 111—119; 135—137; 146—150. (In Books 1–2, only Ps 1—2; 10; 33; 43; 71 lack titles, and Ps 10; 43 are actually continuations of the preceding psalms.)

The contents of the superscriptions vary but fall into a few broad categories: (1) author, (2) name of collection, (3) type of psalm, (4) musical notations, (5) liturgical notations and (6) brief indications of occasion for composition. For details see notes on the titles of the various psalms.

Students of the Psalms are not agreed on the antiquity and reliability of these superscriptions. That many of them are at least preexilic appears evident from the fact that the Septuagint translators were no longer clear as to their meaning. Furthermore, the practice of attaching titles, including the name of the author, is ancient. On the other hand, comparison between the Septuagint and the Hebrew texts shows that the content of some titles was still subject to change well into the postexilic period. Most discussion centers on categories 1 and 6 above.

As for the superscriptions regarding occasion of composition, many of these brief notations of events read as if they had been taken from 1,2 Samuel. Moreover, they are sometimes not easily correlated with the content of the psalms they head. The suspicion therefore arises that they are later attempts to fit the psalms into the real-life events of history. But then why the limited number of such notations, and why the apparent mismatches? The arguments cut both ways.

Regarding authorship, opinions are even more divided. The notations themselves are ambiguous since the Hebrew phraseology used, meaning in general "belonging to," can also be taken in the sense of "concerning" or "for the use of" or "dedicated to." The name may refer to the title of a collection of psalms that had been gathered under a certain name (as "Of Asaph" or "Of the sons of Korah"). As for Davidic authorship, there can be little doubt that the Psalter contains psalms composed by that noted singer and musician and that there was at one time a "Davidic" psalter. This, however, may have also included psalms written concerning David, or concerning one of the later Davidic kings, or even psalms written in the manner of those he authored. It is also true that the tradition as to which psalms are "Davidic" remains somewhat indefinite, and some "Davidic" psalms seem clearly to reflect later situations (see, e.g., Ps 30 title—but see also note there; and see introduction to Ps 69 and note on Ps 122 title). Moreover, "David" is sometimes used elsewhere as a collective for the kings of his dynasty, and this could also be true in the psalm titles.

The word Selah is found in 39 psalms, all but two of which (Ps 140; 143, both "Davidic") are in Books 1–3. It is also found in Hab 3, a psalm-like poem. Suggestions as to its meaning abound, but honesty must confess ignorance. Most likely, it is a liturgical notation. The common suggestions that it calls for a brief musical interlude or for a brief liturgical response by the congregation are plausible (the former may be supported by the Septuagint rendering). In some instances its present placement in the Hebrew text is highly questionable.

Psalm Types

Superscriptions to the Psalms acquaint us with an ancient system of classification: (1) mizmor ("psalm"); (2) Shiggaion (see note on Ps 7 title); (3) Mikhtam (see note on Ps 16 title); (4) shir ("song"); (5) Maskil (see note on Ps 32 title); (6) tephillah ("prayer"); (7) tehillah ("praise"); (8) lehazkir ("for being remembered"—i.e., before God, a petition); (9) letodah ("for praising" or "for giving thanks"); (10) lelammed ("for teaching"); and (11) shir yedidot ("song of loves"—i.e., a wedding song). The meaning of many of these terms, however, is uncertain. In addition, some titles contain two of these (especially mizmor and shir), indicating that the types are diversely based and overlapping.

Analysis of content has given rise to a different classification that has proven useful for study of the Psalms. The main types that can be identified are: (1) prayers of the individual (e.g., Ps 3; 7–8); (2) praise from the individual for God's saving help (e.g., Ps 30; 34); (3) prayers of the community (e.g., Ps 12; 44; 79); (4) praise from the community for God's saving help (e.g., Ps 66; 75); (5) confessions of confidence in the Lord (e.g., Ps 11; 16; 52); (6) hymns in praise of God's majesty and virtues (e.g., Ps 8; 19; 29; 65); (7) hymns celebrating God's universal reign (Ps 47; 93—99); (8) songs of Zion, the city of God (Ps 46; 48; 76; 84; 122; 126; 129; 137);

(9) royal psalms—by, for or concerning the king, the Lord's anointed (e.g., Ps 2; 18; 20; 45; 72; 89; 110); (10) pilgrimage songs (Ps 120—134); (11) liturgical songs (e.g., Ps 15; 24; 68); (12) didactic (instructional) songs (e.g., Ps 1; 34; 37; 73; 112; 119; 128; 133).

This classification also involves some overlapping. For example, "prayers of the individual" may include prayers of the king (in his special capacity as king) or even prayers of the community speaking in the collective first person singular. Nevertheless, it is helpful to study a psalm in conjunction with others of the same type. Attempts to fix specific liturgical settings for each type have not been very convincing. For those psalms about which something can be said in this regard see the introductions to the individual psalms.

Of all these psalm types, the prayers (both of the individual and of the community) are the most complex. Several modes of speech combine to form these appeals to God: (1) address to God: "O Lord," "my God," "my deliverer"; (2) initial appeal: "Arise," "Answer me," "Help," "Save me"; (3) description of distress: "Many are rising up against me," "[The wicked] attack," "I am in distress"; (4) complaint against God: "Why have You forsaken me?" "How long will You hide Your face from me?"; (5) petition: "Do not be far from me," "Vindicate me"; (6) motivation for God to hear: "for I take refuge in You," "for Your name's sake"; (7) accusation against the adversary: "Whose mouths speak deceit," "Violent men have sought my life" ("the wicked" are often quoted); (8) call for redress: "Let the wicked be put to shame," "Seek out [the wickedness of the wicked]"; (9) claims of innocence: "Vindicate me . . . according to my righteousness and my integrity," "Princes persecute me without cause"; (10) confessions of sin: "I have sinned against You," "I confess my iniquity"; (11) professions of trust: "You are a shield about me," "You will answer me"; (12) vows to praise for deliverance: "We will sing and praise Your power," "My mouth offers praise with joyful lips"; (13) calls to praise: "Magnify the LORD with me," "Sing praise to the LORD"; (14) motivations for praise: "for You have delivered my soul," "for the LORD hears the needy."

Though not all these appear in every prayer, they all belong to the conventions of prayer in the Psalter, with petition itself being but one (usually brief) element among the rest. On the whole they reflect the conventions of the court, the psalmist(s) presenting his/their case before the heavenly King/Judge. When beset by wicked adversaries, the petitioner describes his situation, pleads his innocence ("righteousness"), lodges accusation against his adversaries, and appeals for deliverance and judicial redress. When suffering at the hands of God (when God is his adversary), he confesses his guilt and pleads for mercy. Giving attention to the various modes of speech in the prayers and to their functions in the judicial appeals they present will significantly aid the reader.

Literary Features

The Psalter is from first to last poetry, even though it contains many prayers and not all OT prayers were poetic (see 1 Kin 8:23–53; Ezra 9:6–15; Neh 9:5–37; Dan 9:4–19)—nor was all praise poetic, for that matter (see 1 Kin 8:15–21). The Psalms are impassioned, vivid and concrete; they are rich in images, in simile and metaphor. Assonance, alliteration and wordplays abound in the Hebrew text. Effective use of repetition and the piling up of synonyms and complements to fill out the picture are characteristic. Key words frequently highlight major themes in prayer or song. Enclosure (repetition of a significant word or phrase at the end that occurs at the beginning) frequently wraps up a composition or a unit within it. The notes on the structure of the individual psalms often call attention to literary frames within which the psalm has been set.

Hebrew poetry lacks rhyme and regular meter. Its most distinctive and pervasive feature is parallelism. Most poetic lines are composed of two (sometimes three) balanced segments (the balance is often loose, with the second segment commonly somewhat shorter than the first). The second segment either echoes (synonymous parallelism), contrasts (antithetic parallelism) or syntactically completes (synthetic parallelism) the first. These three types are generalizations and are not wholly adequate to describe the rich variety that the creativity of the poets has achieved within the basic two-segment line structure. They can serve, however, as rough distinctions that will assist the reader.

Determining where the Hebrew poetic lines or line segments begin or end (scanning) is sometimes an uncertain matter. Even the Septuagint at times scans the lines differently from the way the Hebrew texts now available to us do. It is therefore not surprising that modern translations occasionally differ.

A related problem is the extremely concise, often elliptical writing style of the Hebrew poets. The syntactical connection of words must at times be inferred simply from context. Where more than one possibility presents itself, the translator is confronted with ambiguity. He is not always sure with which line segment a border word or phrase is to be read.

The stanza structure of Hebrew poetry is also a matter of dispute. Occasionally, recurring refrains mark off stanzas (see Ps 42—43; 57). In Ps 110 two balanced stanzas are divided by their introductory oracles (see also introduction to Ps 132), while Ps 119 devotes eight lines to each letter of the Hebrew alphabet. For the most part, however, no such obvious indicators are present. The NASB has used spaces to mark off poetic paragraphs (called "stanzas" in the notes). Usually this could be done with some confidence, and the reader is advised to be guided by them. But there are a few places where these divisions are questionable—and are challenged in the notes.

Close study of the Psalms discloses that the authors often composed with an overall design in mind. This is true of the alphabetic acrostics, in which the poet devoted to each letter of the Hebrew alphabet one line segment (as in Ps 111—112), or a single line (as in Ps 25; 34; 145), or two lines (as in Ps 37), or eight lines (as in Ps 119). In addition Ps 33; 38; 103 each have 22 lines in the Hebrew, no doubt because of the number of letters in the Hebrew alphabet (see Introduction to Lamentations: Literary Features). The oft-voiced notion that this device was used as a memory aid seems culturally prejudiced and quite unwarranted. Actually people of that time were able to memorize far more readily than most people today. It is much more likely that the alphabet—which was relatively recently invented as a simple system of symbols capable of representing in writing the rich and complex patterns of human speech and therefore of inscribing all that man can put into words (one of the greatest intellectual achievements of all time)—commended itself as a framework on which to hang significant phrases.

Other forms were also used. Ps 44 is a prayer fashioned after the design of a ziggurat (a Babylonian stepped pyramid; see note on Gen 11:4). A sense of symmetry is pervasive. Many Psalms begin and end with the same call to praise ("Praise the Lord," Ps 113; 135; "O LORD, our Lord . . . ," Ps 8). A particularly interesting device is to place a key thematic line at the very center, sometimes constructing the whole or part of the poem around that center (see note on 6:6). Still other design features are pointed out in the notes. The authors of the psalms crafted their compositions very carefully. They were heirs of an ancient art (in many details showing that they had inherited a poetic tradition that goes back hundreds of years), and they developed it to a state of high sophistication. Their works are best appreciated when carefully studied and pondered.

Theology

The Psalter is for the most part a book of prayer and praise. It speaks to God in prayer and it speaks of God in praise—also in professions of faith and trust. Although occasionally didactic (instructional) in form and purpose (teaching the way of godliness), the Psalter is not a catechism of doctrine. Its "theology" is therefore not abstract or systematic but confessional and doxological. So a summation of that "theology" impoverishes it by translating it into an objective mode.

Furthermore, any summation faces a still greater problem. The Psalter is a large collection of independent pieces of many kinds, serving different purposes and written over the course of many centuries. Not only must a brief summary of its "theology" be selective and incomplete; it will also of necessity be somewhat artificial. It will suggest that each psalm reflects or at least presupposes the "theology" outlined, that there is no "theological" tension or progression within the Psalter. Manifestly this is not so.

Still, the final editors of the Psalter were obviously not eclectic in their selection. They knew that many voices from many times spoke here, but none that in their judgment was incompatible with the Law and the Prophets. No doubt they also assumed that each psalm was to be understood in the light of the collection as a whole. That assumption we may share. Hence something, after all, can be said concerning major theological themes that, while admittedly a bit artificial, need not seriously distort and can be helpful to the student of the Psalms.

At the core of the theology of the Psalter is the conviction that the gravitational center of life (of right human understanding, trust, hope, service, morality, adoration), but also of history and of the whole creation (heaven and earth), is God (Yahweh, "the LORD"). He is the Great King over all, the One to whom all things are subject. He created all things and preserves them; they are the robe of glory with which He has clothed Himself. Because He ordered them, they have a well-defined and "true" identity (no chaos there). Because He maintains them, they are sustained and kept secure from disruption, confusion or annihilation. Because He alone is the sovereign God, they are governed by one hand and held in the service of one divine purpose. Under God creation is a cosmos — an orderly and systematic whole. What we distinguish as "nature" and history had for them one Lord, under whose rule all things worked together. Through the creation the Great King's majestic glory is displayed. He is good (wise, righteous, faithful, amazingly benevolent and merciful — evoking trust), and He is great (His knowledge, thoughts and works are beyond human comprehension — evoking reverent awe). By His good and lordly rule He is shown to be the Holy One.

As the Great King by right of creation and enduring absolute sovereignty, He ultimately will not tolerate any worldly power that opposes or denies or ignores Him. He will come to rule the nations so that all will be compelled to acknowledge Him. This expectation is no doubt the root and broadest scope of the psalmists' long view of the future. Because the Lord is the Great King beyond all challenge, His righteous and peaceable kingdom will come, overwhelming all opposition and purging the creation of all rebellion against His rule — such will be the ultimate outcome of history.

As the Great King on whom all creatures depend, He opposes the "proud," those who rely on their own resources (and/or the gods they have contrived) to work out their own destiny. These are the ones who ruthlessly wield whatever power they possess to attain worldly wealth, status and security; who are a law to themselves and exploit others as they will. In the Psalter, this kind of "pride" is the root of all evil. Those who embrace it, though they may seem to prosper, will be brought down to death, their final end. The "humble," the "poor and needy," those who acknowledge their dependence on the Lord in all things — these are the ones in whom God delights. Hence the "fear of the LORD" — i.e., humble trust in and obedience to the Lord — is the "beginning" of all wisdom (111:10). Ultimately, those who embrace it will inherit the earth. Not even death can hinder their seeing the face of God.

The psalmists' hope for the future — the future of God and His kingdom and the future of the godly — was firm, though somewhat generalized. None of the psalmists gives expression to a two-age vision of the future (the present evil age giving way to a new age of righteousness and peace on the other side of a great eschatological divide). Such a view began to appear in the intertestamental literature — a view that had been foreshadowed by Daniel (see especially 12:2–3) and by Isaiah (see 65:17–25; 66:22–24) — and it later received full expression in the teaching of Jesus and the apostles. But this revelation was only a fuller development consistent with the hopes the psalmists lived by.

Because God is the Great King, He is the ultimate Executor of justice among men (to avenge oneself is an act of the "proud"). God is the court of appeal when persons are threatened or wronged — especially when no earthly court that He has established has jurisdiction (as in the case of international conflicts) or is able to judge (as when one is wronged by public slander) or is willing to act (out of fear or corruption). He is the mighty and faithful Defender of the defenseless and the wronged. He knows every deed and the secrets of every heart. There is no escaping His scrutiny. No false testimony will mislead Him in judgment. And He hears the pleas brought to Him. As the good and faithful Judge, He delivers those who are oppressed or wrongfully attacked and redresses the wrongs committed against them (see note on 5:10). This is the unwavering conviction that accounts for the psalmists' impatient complaints when they boldly, yet as "poor and needy," cry to Him, "Why (have you not yet delivered me)?" "How long, O LORD (before you act)?"

As the Great King over all the earth, the Lord has chosen Israel to be His servant people, His "inheritance" among the nations. He has delivered them by mighty acts out of the hands of the world powers, He has given them a land of their own (territory that He took from other nations to be His own "inheritance" in the earth), and He has united them with Himself in covenant as the initial embodiment of His redeemed kingdom. Thus both their destiny and His honor came to be bound up with this relationship. To them He also gave His word of revelation, which testified of Him, made specific His promises and proclaimed His will. By God's covenant, Israel was to live among the nations, loyal only to her heavenly King. She was to trust solely in His protection, hope in His promises, live in accordance with His will and worship Him exclusively. She was to sing His praises to the whole world — which in a special sense revealed Israel's anticipatory role in the evangelization of the nations.

As the Great King, Israel's covenant Lord, God chose David to be His royal representative on earth. In this capacity, David was the Lord's "servant" — i.e., a member of the Great King's administration. The Lord Himself anointed him and adopted him as His royal "son" to rule in His name. Through him God made His people secure in the promised land and subdued all the powers that threatened them. What is more, He covenanted to preserve the Davidic dynasty. Henceforth the kingdom of God on earth, while not dependent on the house of David, was linked to it by God's decision and commitment. In its continuity and strength lay Israel's security and hope as she faced a hostile world. And since the Davidic kings were God's royal representatives in the earth, in concept seated at God's right hand (110:1), the scope of their rule was potentially worldwide (see Ps 2).

The Lord's anointed, however, was more than a warrior king. He was to be endowed by God to govern His people with godlike righteousness: to deliver the oppressed, defend the defenseless, suppress the wicked, and thus bless the nation with internal peace and prosperity. He was also an intercessor with God in behalf of the nation, the builder and maintainer of the temple (as God's earthly palace and the nation's house of prayer) and the foremost voice calling the nation to worship the Lord. It is perhaps with a view to these last duties that he is declared to be not only king, but also "priest" (see Ps 110 and notes).

As the Great King, Israel's covenant Lord, God (who had chosen David and his dynasty to be His royal representatives) also chose Jerusalem (the City of David) as His own royal city, the earthly seat of His throne. Thus Jerusalem (Zion) became the earthly capital (and symbol) of the kingdom of God. There in His palace (the temple) He sat enthroned among His people. There His people could meet with Him to bring their prayers and praise, and to see His power and glory. From there He brought salvation, dispensed blessings and judged the nations. And with Him as the city's great Defender, Jerusalem was the secure citadel of the kingdom of God, the hope and joy of God's people.

God's goodwill and faithfulness toward His people were most strikingly symbolized by His pledged presence among them at His temple in Jerusalem, the "city of the great King" (48:2). But no manifestation of His benevolence was greater than His readiness to forgive the sins of those who humbly confessed them and whose hearts showed Him that their repentance was genuine and that their professions of loyalty to Him had integrity. As they anguished over their own sinfulness, the psalmists remembered the ancient testimony of their covenant Lord: I am Yahweh ("the LORD"), "the LORD God, compassionate and gracious, slow to anger, and abounding in lovingkindness and truth, who keeps lovingkindness for thousands, forgives inquity, transgression and sin" (Ex 34:6–7). Only so did they dare to submit to Him as His people, to "fear" Him (see 130:3–4).

Unquestionably the supreme kingship of Yahweh (in which He displays His transcendent greatness and goodness) is the most basic metaphor and most pervasive theological concept in the Psalter—as in the OT generally. It provides the fundamental perspective in which man is to view Himself, the whole creation, events in "nature" and history, and the future. The whole creation is His one kingdom. To be a creature in the world is to be a part of His kingdom and under His rule. To be a human being in the world is to be dependent on and responsible to Him. To proudly deny that fact is the root of all wickedness—the wickedness that now pervades the world.

God's election of Israel and subsequently of David and Zion, together with the giving of His word, represent the renewed inbreaking of God's righteous kingdom into this world of rebellion and evil. It initiates the great divide between the righteous nation and the wicked nations, and on a deeper level between the righteous and the wicked, a more significant distinction that cuts even through Israel. In the end this divine enterprise will triumph. Human pride will be humbled, and wrongs will be redressed. The humble will be given the whole earth to possess, and the righteous and peaceable kingdom of God will come to full realization. These theological themes, of course, have profound religious and moral implications. Of these, too, the psalmists spoke.

One question that ought yet to be addressed is: Do the Psalms speak of the Christ? Yes, but in a variety of ways—and not as the prophets do. The Psalter is not a book of prophetic oracles and was never numbered among the prophetic books.

When the Psalms speak of the king on David's throne, they speak of the king who is being crowned (as in Ps 2; 72; 110—though some think 110 is an exception) or is reigning (as in Ps 45) at the time. They proclaim his status as God's anointed and declare what God will accomplish through him and his dynasty. Thus they also speak of the sons of David to come—and in the exile and the postexilic era, when there was no reigning king, they spoke to Israel only of the great Son of David whom the prophets had announced as the one in whom God's covenant with David would yet be fulfilled. So the NT quotes these psalms as testimonies to Christ, which in their unique way they are. In Him they are truly fulfilled.

When in the Psalms righteous sufferers — who are "righteous" because they are innocent, not having provoked or wronged their adversaries, and because they are among the "humble" who trust in the Lord — cry out to God in their distress (as in Ps 22; 69), they give voice to the sufferings of God's servants in a hostile and evil world.

These cries became the prayers of God's oppressed "saints," and as such they were taken up into Israel's book of prayers. When Christ came in the flesh, He identified Himself with God's "humble" people in the world. He became for them God's righteous servant par excellence, and He shared their sufferings at the hands of evil men. Thus these prayers became His prayers also — uniquely His prayers. In Him the suffering and deliverance of which these prayers speak are fulfilled (though they continue to be the prayers also of those who take up their cross and follow Him).

Similarly, in speaking of God's covenant people, of the city of God, and of the temple in which God dwells, the Psalms ultimately speak of Christ's church. The Psalter is not only the prayer book of the second temple; it is also the enduring prayer book of the people of God. Now, however, it must be used in the light of the new era of redemption that dawned with the first coming of the Messiah and that will be consummated at His second coming.

Ps 1 Author and date unknown. Godly wisdom here declares the final outcome of the two "ways": "the path of sinners" (v. 1) and "the way of the righteous" (v. 6). See 34:19–22; 37; essay, p. 689. As an introduction to the book, this psalm reminds the reader (1) that those of whom the Psalms speak (using various terms) as the people of God, those whom He receives in His presence and favors with His salvation and blessing, must be characterized by righteousness—sinners have no place among them (v. 5; see Ps 15; 24)—and (2) that the godly piety that speaks in the Psalms is a faithful response to God's revealed (and written) directives for life—which is the path that leads to blessedness.

1:1 Speaks progressively of association with the ungodly and participation in their ungodly ways. Blessed. The happy condition of those who revere the Lord and do His will (see 94:12; 112:1; 119:1–2; 128:1; Prov 29:18; cf. Ps 41:1; 106:3; Prov 14:21; Is 56:2), who put their trust in Him (see 40:4; 84:5,12; 144:15; 146:5; Prov 16:20; Is 30:18; Jer 17:7; cf. Ps 2:12; 34:8), and so are blessed by God (see especially 41:1–3; 144:12–14; see also Matt 5:3–12). The Psalter begins by proclaiming the blessedness of the godly and ends by calling all living things to praise God in His earthly and heavenly sanctuaries (Ps 150). walk in. Order his life according to. counsel. Deliberations and advice (see Prov 1:10–19). stand. Station oneself. sinners. See v. 5; those for whom evil is habitual, for whom wickedness is a way of life. sit. Settle oneself. scoffers! Those who ridicule God and defiantly reject His law (see Prov 1:22).

1:2 in His law he meditates. Seeking guidance for life in God's law rather than in the deliberations of the wicked. day and night. See Josh 1:8.

1:3 like a tree . . . does not wither. See Jer 17:8; a simile of the blessedness of the righteous. Such a tree withstands the buffeting of the winds and, flourishing, it blesses man, animals and birds with its unfailing fruit and shade.

1:4 like chaff . . . drives away. A simile of the wretchedness of the wicked. Chaff is carried away by the lightest wind, and its removal brings about cleansing by extracting what is utterly useless (see note on Ruth 1:22).

1:5 will not stand in the judgment. Will not be able to withstand God's wrath when He judges (see 76:7; 130:3; Ezra 9:15; Mal 3:2; Matt 25:31–46; Rev 6:17). assembly. The worshiping assembly at God's sanctuary (as in 22:25; 26:12; 35:18; 40:9–10; 111:1; 149:1; see Ps 15; 24). righteous. One of several terms in the OT for God's people; it presents them as those who honor God and order their lives in all things according to His will. In every human relationship they faithfully fulfill the obligations that the relationship entails, remembering that power and authority (of whatever sort: domestic, social, political, economic, religious, intellectual) are to be used to bless, not to exploit.

1:6 way . . . way. Implicit in the destinies of the two lifestyles are also the destinies of those who choose them.

Ps 2 Author and date unknown (Peter and John ascribed it to David in Acts 4:25—possibly in accordance with the Jewish practice of honoring David as the primary author of the Psalter). A royal psalm, it was originally composed for the coronation of Davidic kings, in light of the Lord's covenant with David (see 2 Sam 7). Later, prophetic words of judgment against the house of David and announcements of God's future redemption of His people through an exalted royal son of David highlighted the Messianic import of this psalm. As the second half of a two-part introduction to the Psalms, it proclaims the blessedness of all who acknowledge the lordship of God and His anointed and "take refuge in Him" (v. 12; see note on 1:1)—as does the godly piety that speaks in the Psalms. This psalm is frequently quoted in the NT, where it is applied to Christ as the great Son of David and God's Anointed.

2:1–3 The nations rebel. In the ancient Near East the coronation of a new king was often the occasion for the revolt of peoples and kings who had been subject to the crown. The newly anointed king is here pictured as ruler over an empire.

2:1–2 For a NT application see Acts 4:25–28.

2:1 Why . . . ? A rhetorical question that implies "How dare they!"

2:2 LORD . . . His Anointed. To rebel against the Lord's Anointed is also to rebel against the One who anointed Him. Anointed. The psalm refers to the Davidic king and is ultimately fulfilled in Christ. The English word "Messiah" comes from the Hebrew word for "anointed one," and the English word "Christ" from the Greek word for "anointed one."

3 "Let us [a]tear their fetters apart
And cast away their cords from us!"

4 He who [1]sits in the heavens [a]laughs,
The Lord [b]scoffs at them.
5 Then He will speak to them in His

And [b]terrify them in His fury, saying,

2:4–6 The Lord mocks the rebels. With derisive laughter the Lord meets the confederacy of rebellious world powers with the sovereign declaration that it is He who has established the Davidic king in His own royal city of Zion (Jerusalem).

2:4 See 59:8.

2:5 anger . . . fury. God's anger is always an expression of His righteousness (see 7:11; see also note on 4:1).

2:6 holy mountain. The site of the Jerusalem temple (see 2 Chr 33:15); see also 3:4; 15:1; 43:3; 99:9 ("holy hill").

2:7–9 The Lord's Anointed proclaims the Lord's coronation decree. For NT application to Jesus' resurrection see Acts 13:33; to His superiority over angels see Heb 1:5; to His appointment as high priest see Heb 5:5.

2:7 Son . . . begotten You. In the ancient Near East the relationship between a great king and one of his subject kings, who ruled by his authority and owed him allegiance, was expressed not only by the words "lord" and "servant" but also by "father" and "son." The Davidic king was the Lord's "servant" and His "son" (2 Sam 7:5,14).

2:8 Your inheritance. Your domain—as the promised land was the Lord's "inheritance" (Ex 15:17; see Josh 22:19; Ps 28:9; 79:1; 82:8). ends of the earth. Ultimately the rule of the Lord's Anointed will extend as far as the rule of God Himself.

2:9 According to Rev 12:5; 19:15 this word will be fulfilled in the triumphant reign of Christ; in Rev 2:26–27 Christ declares that He will appoint those who remain faithful to Him to share in His subjugating rule over the nations. shatter them like earthenware. See Jer 19:11.

2:10–12 The rebellious rulers are warned.

2:11 rejoice. Hail the Lord as King with joy. trembling. Awe and reverence.

2:12 Do homage to. Lit. "Kiss," as a sign of submission (see 1 Sam 10:1; 1 Kin 19:18; Hos 13:2; see also note on Gen 41:40). Submission to an Assyrian king was expressed by kissing his feet. perish in the way. See 1:6 and note. blessed. See 1:1 and note.

Ps 3 Though threatened by many foes, the psalmist prays confidently to the Lord. Ps 3 and 4 are linked by references to glory (see v. 3; 4:2) and to the psalmist's sleep at night (see v. 5; 4:8). In v. 5 David speaks of the assurance of his waking in the morning because the Lord will keep him while he sleeps; in 4:8 he speaks of the inner quietness with which he goes to sleep because of the Lord's care. This juxtaposition of prayers with references to waking (morning) and sleeping (evening) at the beginning of the Psalter suggests that God's faithful care sustains the godly day and night whatever the need or circumstances, many of which will be mentioned in this book of prayers.

3 title when he fled. See 2 Sam 15:13–17:22. References to events in David's life stand in the superscriptions of 13 psalms (3; 7; 18; 34; 51–52; 54; 56–57; 59–60; 63; 142), all but one (Ps 142) in Books 1 and 2. See Introduction: Authorship and Titles (or Superscriptions).

3:1–2 David's need: threatened by many foes.

3:2 See 22:7–8; 71:10–11. The psalmists frequently quote their wicked oppressors in order to portray how they mock (see note on 1:1) God and His servants (see note on 10:11). Selah. A word of uncertain meaning, occurring frequently in the Psalms—possibly a musical term; see Introduction: Authorship and Titles (or Superscriptions).

3:3–4 David's confidence in God, who does not fail to answer his prayers.

3:3 shield. That one's king is his shield (protector) was a common concept in ancient Israel (see 7:10; 47:9; 59:11; 84:9; 89:18; Gen 15:1). That the Lord is the shield of His people is frequently asserted (see 84:11; 91:4; 115:9–11; Deut 33:29; Prov 30:5) or claimed (see 18:2,30; 28:7; 33:20; 119:114; 144:2). My glory. The psalmist rejoices in the Lord as his royal provider and protector (see note on 2:11). lifts my head. In victory over his enemies (see 110:7).

And He [a]answered me from [b]His holy [1]mountain. Selah.

I awoke, for the LORD sustains me.

8 [1][a]Salvation belongs to the LORD;

3:4 holy mountain. The place of the Lord's sanctuary, the earthly counterpart of His heavenly throne room (see note on 2:6).

3:5–6 David's sense of security.

3:5 Even while his own watchfulness is surrendered to sleep, the watchful Lord preserves him (see 4:8).

3:7–8 David's prayer.

3:7 Arise . . . save. Hebrew idiom frequently prefaces an imperative calling for immediate action with the call to arise (see Ex 12:31, "Rise up"; Deut 2:13; Judg 7:9, "Arise"). In poetry the two imperatives of the idiom are often distributed between the two halves of the poetic line. Hence the psalmist's prayer is: "Arise (and) save me." LORD . . . my God. That is, LORD my God; the two elements of a compound divine name are also frequently distributed between the two halves of a poetic line. shattered the teeth. Probably likening the enemies to wild animals (see note on 7:2).

3:8 Salvation belongs to the LORD. A common feature in the prayers of the Psalter is a concluding expression of confidence that the prayer will be or has been heard (as in 6:8–10; 7:10–17; 10:16–18; 12:7; 13:5–6 and often elsewhere; see note on 12:5–6). Here David's confidence becomes a testimony to God's people. Your blessing be upon Your people! See 25:22; 28:8–9; 51:18. The psalmists stood before God, the royal King, as His servants responsible for the well-being of His people.

Ps 4 Perhaps a prayer for relief when some calamity (possibly drought; see v. 7) has fallen and many are turning from the Lord to the gods of Canaan, from whom they hope to receive better. See introduction to Ps 3.

4 title See Hab 3:19. For the choir director. Probably a liturgical notation, indicating either that the psalm was to be added to the collection of works to be used by the choir director in Israel's worship services, or that when the psalm was used in the temple worship it was to be spoken by the leader of the Levitical choir—or by the choir itself (see 1 Chr 23:5,30; 25; Neh 11:17). In this liturgical activity the Levites functioned as representatives of the worshiping congregation. Following their lead the people probably responded with "Amen" and "Praise the LORD" (Hallelujah); see 1 Chr 16:36; Neh 5:13; cf. 1 Cor 14:16; Rev 5:14; 7:12; 19:4. on stringed instruments. See Ps 6; 54–55; 61; 67; 76 titles. This is a liturgical notation, indicating that the Levites (see previous note) were to accompany the psalm with harp and lyre (see 1 Chr 23:5; 25:1,3,6; cf. Ps 33:2; 43:4; 71:22; see also notes on Ps 39; 42 titles).

4:1 Initial request to be heard. You have relieved me. Lit. "You have made a spacious place for me" (see 18:19 and note).

4:2–3 David rebukes those who turn away from his God to seek relief from the counterfeit gods; he assures them that the Lord will hear him.

4:2 how long . . . ? See Introduction: Theology; see also note on 6:3. my honor. Or "my glory." David's special relationship with the Lord is the source of his glory—or perhaps he here speaks directly of God ("my Glorious One become a reproach"). Selah. See note on 3:2; see also Introduction: Authorship and Titles (or Superscriptions).

4:3 godly. Hebrew hasid, which occurs 26 times in the Psalms (once of God: 145:17, "kind"; cf. 18:25) and is usually rendered (in the plural) in the NASB as "godly ones." It is one of several Hebrew words for God's people, referring to them as people who are or should be devoted to God and faithful to Him.

4:4–5 An exhortation not to give way to exasperation or anxiety (see NASB marg.) but to look to the Lord.

4:4 Tremble, and do not sin. Paul uses these words in a different context (see Eph 4:26).

4:6 In the face of widespread uncertainty, David prays for the Lord to bless. Who . . . ? Which of the gods . . . ? countenance upon us. See note on 13:1; a common expression for favor, reminiscent of the Aaronic benediction (see Num 6:25–26).

4:7–8 David's confidence (see note on 3:8).

4:7 heart. In Biblical language the center of the human spirit, from which spring emotions, thought, motivations, courage and action—"the springs of life" (Prov 4:23).

8 In peace I will [1]both [a]lie down and sleep,
For You alone, O LORD, make me to [b]dwell in safety.

4:8 See 3:5–6. In peace. Without anxiety.

Ps 5 This morning prayer, perhaps offered at the time of the morning sacrifice, is the psalmist's cry for help when his enemies spread malicious lies to destroy him.

5 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. flute. The Hebrew for this word occurs only here; meaning uncertain.

5:1–3 Initial appeal to be heard.

5:2 King. See Introduction: Theology.

5:4–6 An appeal to the righteousness of God's rule over mankind.

5:5 The boastful. See note on 31:23.

5:7–8 The psalmist presents his plea to the Lord in humble reverence (v. 7), trusting in the Lord's great mercy (v. 7) and righteousness (v. 8).

5:7 abundant lovingkindness. See note on 6:4.

5:8 lead me. As a shepherd (see 23:3). Your righteousness. Very often the "righteousness" of God in the Psalms (and frequently elsewhere in the OT) refers to the faithfulness with which He acts. This faithfulness is in full accordance with His commitments (both expressed and implied) to His people and with His status as the divine King—to whom the powerless may look for protection, the oppressed for redress and the needy for help. Make Your way straight. May the way down which You lead me be straight, level and smooth, free from obstacles and temptations. The psalmist prays that God will so direct him that his enemies will have no grounds for their malicious accusations (see 25:4; 27:11; 139:24; 143:8–10).

5:9–10 Accusation (a common element in the prayers of the Psalter) and call for redress.

5:9 what they say. The most frequent weapon used against the psalmists is the tongue (for a striking example see Ps 12; see also note on 10:7). The psalmists experienced that the tongue is as deadly as the sword (see 57:4; 64:3–4). Perhaps appeals to God against those who maliciously wield the tongue are frequent in the Psalms because only in God's courtroom can a person experience redress for such attacks. inward part. See note on 4:7. throat . . . grave. See note on 49:14. they flatter. For the plots and intrigues of enemies, usually involving lies to discredit the king and bring him down, see Ps 17; 25; 27–28; 31; 35; 41; 52; 54–57; 59; 63–64; 71; 86; 109; 140–141—all ascribed to David. Frequently such attacks came when the king was "low" and seemingly abandoned by God (as in Ps 25; 35; 41; 71; 86; 109). In that case he was viewed as no longer fit to be king—God was no longer with him (and so he could no longer secure the safety of the nation; see 1 Sam 8:20; 11:12; 12:12; 25:28; 2 Sam 3:18; 7:9–11). In any event, he was an easy prey (see 3:2; 22:7–8; 71:11). See note on 86:17. See also Paul's use of this verse in Rom 3:13.

5:10 The presence of so-called "imprecations" (curses) in the Psalms has occasioned endless discussion and has caused many Christians to wince, in view of Jesus' instructions to turn the other cheek and to pray for one's enemies (see Matt 5:39,44), and His own example on the cross (see Luke 23:34). Actually, these "imprecations" are not that at all; rather, they are appeals to God to redress wrongs perpetrated against the psalmists by imposing penalties commensurate with the violence done (see 28:4)—in accordance also with normal judicial procedure in human courts (see Deut 25:1–3). The psalmists knew that he who has been wronged is not to right that wrong by his own hand but is to leave redress to the Lord, who says, "Vengeance is Mine, and retribution" (Deut 32:35; see Prov 20:22; Rom 12:19). Therefore they appeal their cases to the divine Judge (see Jer 15:15). thrust them out. From God's presence, thus from the source of blessing and life (see Gen 3:23). rebellious against You. By their attacks on the psalmist.

5:11 The psalmist expands his prayer to include all the godly (see note on 3:8). Your name. The name of the Lord is the manifestation of His character (see notes on Ex 3:14–15; 34:6–7). It has no separate existence apart from the Lord, but is synonymous with the Lord Himself in His gracious manifestation and accessibility to His people. Hence the Jerusalem

Psalm 6

For the choir director; with stringed instruments, [†]upon an eight-string lyre. A Psalm of David.

1 O LORD, [a]do not rebuke me in Your anger,
Nor chasten me in Your wrath.
2 Be gracious to me, O LORD, for I am [a]pining away;
[b]Heal me, O LORD, for [c]my bones are dismayed.
3 And my [a]soul is greatly dismayed;
But You, O LORD—[b]how long?
4 Return, O LORD, [a]rescue my [1]soul;
Save me because of Your lovingkindness.
5 For [a]there is no [1]mention of You in death;
In [2]Sheol who will give You thanks?
6 I am [a]weary with my sighing;
Every night I make my bed swim,
I dissolve my couch with [b]my tears.
7 My [a]eye has wasted away with grief;
It has become old because of all my adversaries.
8 [a]Depart from me, all you who do iniquity,
For the LORD [b]has heard the voice of my weeping.

temple is the earthly residence of His name among His people (see 74:7; Deut 12:5,11; 2 Sam 7:13), and His people can pray to Him by calling on His name (see 79:6; 80:18; 99:6; 105:1; 116:4,13,17). The name of the Lord protects (see 20:1; Prov 18:10); the Lord saves by His name (see 54:1); and His saving acts testify that His name is near (see 52:9). Accordingly, the godly "trust in" His name (20:7; 33:21), hope in His name (see 52:9), "sing praise" to His name (7:17; 9:2; 18:49) and "rejoice in" His name (89:16). Both the "love" and the "fear" that belong alone to God are similarly directed toward His name (love: 69:36; 119:132; fear: 61:5; 86:11; 102:15).

5:12 See note on 3:8. righteous. See note on 1:5.

Ps 6 A prayer in time of severe illness, an occasion seized upon by David's enemies to vent their animosity. In early Christian liturgical tradition it was numbered with the seven penitential psalms (the others: Ps 32; 38; 51; 102; 130; 143).

6 title See note on Ps 4 title. upon. Represents a Hebrew preposition of varied usage such as "on" and "according to" (also found in the titles of Ps 8; 12; 46; 53; 81; 84; 88). eight-string lyre. Occurs also in Ps 12 title and in 1 Chr 15:21.

6:1–3 Initial appeal for mercy. Though the Lord has sent him illness to chastise him for his sin (see 32:3–5; 38:1–8,17–18), the psalmist asks that God would not in anger impose the full measure of the penalty for sin, for then death must come (see v. 5; see also 130:3).

6:1 Ps 38 begins similarly. rebuke . . . chasten. That is, rebuke-and-chasten (see 39:11; see also note on 3:7). anger . . . wrath. See note on 2:5.

6:2 bones. As the inner skeleton, they here represent the whole body.

6:3 soul. Not a spiritual aspect in distinction from the physical, nor the psalmist's "inner" being in distinction from his "outer" being, but his very self as a living, conscious, personal being. Its use in conjunction with "bones" (also in 35:9–10: "soul" and "all my bones") did not for the Hebrew writer involve reference to two distinct entities but constituted for him two ways of referring to himself, as is the case also in the combination "soul" and "body" (31:9) "soul" and "flesh" (63:1). But You . . . how long? See Introduction: Theology. Such language of impatience and complaint is found frequently in the prayers of the Psalter (usually "how long?" or "when?" or "why?"). It expresses the anguish of relief not (yet) granted and exhibits the boldness with which the psalmists wrestled with God on the basis of their relationship with Him and their conviction concerning His righteousness (see note on 5:8).

6:4–5 Earnest prayer for deliverance from death.

6:4 lovingkindness. The Hebrew for this phrase denotes befriending. Appeal to God's "(unfailing) love, kindness, mercy" is frequent in the OT since it summarizes all that the Lord covenanted to show to Israel (see Deut 7:9,12) as well as to David and his dynasty (see 89:24,28,33; 2 Sam 7:15; Is 55:3).

6:5 The psalmist urges that God's praise is at stake. It is the living, not the dead, who remember God's mercies and celebrate His deliverances. The Israelites usually viewed death as they saw it—the very opposite of life. And resurrection was not yet a part of their communal experience with God. The grave brought no escape from God (see 139:8), but just how they viewed the condition of the godly dead is not clear. (Non-Biblical documents from the ancient Near East indicate a general conception that immortality was reserved for the gods but that the dead continued to have some kind of shadowy existence in the dismal nether world.) The OT writers knew that man was created for life, that God's will for His people was life and that He had power over death. They also knew that death was every man's lot, and at its proper time the godly rested in God and accepted it with equanimity (see Gen 15:15; 25:8; 47:30; 49:33; 1 Kin 2:2). Death could even be a blessing for the righteous, affording escape from the greater evil that would overtake the living (see 2 Kin 22:20; Is 57:1–2). Furthermore, the death of the righteous was reputedly better than that of the wicked (see Num 23:10). It seems clear that there was even an awareness that death (as observed) was not the end of hope for the righteous, that God had more in store for them (see especially 16:9–11; 17:15; 49:14–15; 73:24; see also note on Gen 5:24). But when the psalmists wrestled with God for the preservation of life, it was death as they saw it, in its radical contradiction to life, that was evoked.

6:6–7 Anguish at night because of the prolongation of the illness and the barbs of the enemies.

6:6 I am weary with my sighing. The very center of the poem—thus underscoring the pathos of this prayer. This literary device—of placing a key thematic line at the very center of the psalm—was frequently used (see notes on 8:4; 21:7; 23:4; 34:8–14; 42:8; 47:5–6; 48:8; 54:4; 71:14; 74:12; 76:7; 82:5a; 86:9; 92:8; 97:7; 113:5; 138:4–5; 141:5; see also Introduction: Literary Features).

6:7 eye has wasted away . . . old. In the vivid language of the OT the eyes are dimmed by failing strength (see 38:10; 1 Sam 14:27,29; Jer 14:6), by grief (often associated with affliction: 31:9; 88:9; Job 17:7; Lam 2:11) and by longings unsatisfied or hope deferred (see 69:3; 119:82,123; Deut 28:32; Is 38:14). because of all my adversaries. See note on 5:9.

9 The LORD [a]has heard my supplication,
The LORD [b]receives my prayer.
10 All my enemies will [a]be ashamed and greatly dismayed;
They shall [1]turn back, they will [b]suddenly be ashamed.

Psalm 7

A [†]Shiggaion of David, which he sang to the LORD [•]concerning Cush, a Benjamite.

1 O LORD MY GOD, [^]in You I have taken refuge;
Save me from all those who pursue me, and [b]deliver me,
2 Or he will tear [1]my soul [a]like a lion,
[2]Dragging me away, while there is none to deliver.

3 O LORD my God, if I have done this,
If there is [a]injustice in my hands,
4 If I have [a]rewarded evil to [1]my friend,
Or have [b]plundered [2]him who without cause was my adversary,
5 Let the enemy pursue [1]my soul and overtake [2]it;
And let him trample my life down to the ground
And lay my glory in the dust. [3]Selah.

6 [a]Arise, O LORD, in Your anger;
[b]Lift up Yourself against [c]the rage of my adversaries,
And [d]arouse Yourself [1]for me; You have appointed judgment.
7 Let the assembly of the [a]peoples encompass You,
And over [1]them return on high.

6:8–10 Concluding expression of buoyant confidence (see note on 3:8).
6:10 At the psalmist's restoration, his enemies will be disgraced.
Ps 7 An appeal to the Lord's court of justice when enemies attack.
7 title Shiggaion. See NASB marg. The word occurs only here (but see its plural in Hab 3:1). Cush. Not otherwise known, but as a Benjamite he was probably a supporter of Saul. Hence the title associates the psalm with Saul's determined attempts on David's life. See Introduction: Authorship and Titles (or Superscriptions).
7:1–2 Initial summation of David's appeal.
7:2 like a lion. As a young shepherd, David had been attacked by lions (see 1 Sam 17:34–35). But it is also a convention in the Psalms to liken the attack of enemies to that of ferocious animals, especially the lion (see 10:9; 17:12; 22:12–13,16,20–21; 35:17; 57:4; 58:6; 124:6).
7:3–5 David pleads his own innocence; he has given his enemy no cause to attack him.
7:5 my soul. Lit. "my glory," a way of referring to the core of one's being (see 16:9; 30:12; 57:8; 108:1 and notes).
7:6–9 An appeal to the Judge of all the earth to execute His judgment over all peoples, and particularly to adjudicate David's cause.
7:6 Arise . . . Lift up. See note on 3:7. anger. See v. 11 and note on 2:5. arouse. The Lord does not sleep (see 121:4) while evil triumphs and the oppressed cry to Him in vain (as they do to Baal; see 1 Kin 18:27). But the psalmists' language of urgent prayer vividly expresses their anguished impatience with God's inaction in the face of their great need (see 80:2; see also 78:65; Is 51:9).
7:8 my righteousness. See vv. 3–5.
7:9 the righteous. See note on 1:5. righteous. See note on 5:8. hearts and minds. Lit. "hearts and kidneys." The Israelites used the words as virtual synonyms (but "heart" most often) to refer to man's innermost center of conscious life (see note on 4:7). To search mind and heart was a conventional expression for God's examination of man's hidden character and motives (see Jer 11:20; 17:10; 20:12).
7:10–13 David's confidence that his prayer will be heard (see note on 3:8).
7:10 shield. See note on 3:3. heart. See note on 4:7.
7:11 every day. God's judgments are not all kept in store for some future day.
7:14–16 David comforts himself with the common wisdom that under God's rule "crime does not pay."
7:17 A vow to praise. Many prayers in the Psalter include such vows in anticipation of the expected answer to prayer. They reflect Israel's religious consciousness that praise must follow deliverance as surely as prayer springs from need—if God is to be truly honored. Such praise was usually offered with thank

Psalm 8

For the choir director; on the Gittith.
A Psalm of David.

1 O LORD, our Lord,
How majestic is Your name in all the earth,
Who have [1][a]displayed Your splendor above the heavens!
2 [a]From the mouth of infants and nursing babes You have established [1][b]strength
Because of Your adversaries,
To make [c]the enemy and the revengeful cease.

3 When I [1][a]consider [b]Your heavens, the work of Your fingers,
The [c]moon and the stars, which You have [2]ordained;
4 [a]What is man that You [1]take thought of him,
And the son of man that You care for him?
5 Yet You have made him a [a]little lower than [1]God,
And [b]You crown him with [c]glory and majesty!
6 You make him to [a]rule over the works of Your hands;
You have [b]put all things under his feet,
7 All sheep and oxen,
And also the [1]beasts of the field,
8 The birds of the heavens and the fish of the sea,
Whatever passes through the paths of the seas.

9 [a]O LORD, our Lord,
How majestic is Your name in all the earth!

Psalm 9

For the choir director; on [t]Muth-labben.
A Psalm of David.

1 I will give thanks to the LORD with all [a]my heart;
I will [b]tell of all Your [1]wonders.
2 I will be glad and [a]exult in You;
I will [b]sing praise to Your name,
O [c]Most High.

offerings and involved celebrating God's saving act in the presence of those assembled at the temple (see 50:14–15,23; see also note on 9:1). name of the LORD. See note on 5:11. Most High. See note on Gen 14:19.

Ps 8 In praise of the Creator (not of man—as is evident from the doxology that encloses it, vv. 1,9; see also note on 9:1) out of wonder over His sovereign ordering of the creation. Gen 1 (particularly vv. 26–28) clearly provides the spectacles, but David speaks out of his present experience of reality (perhaps on a bright, clear night when the vast host of the heavenly lights, stretching from horizon to horizon, erased from his musings small everyday affairs and engaged his mind with deeper thoughts). Two matters especially impressed him: (1) the glory of God reflected in the starry heavens, and (2) the astonishing condescension of God to be mindful of puny man, to crown him with glory almost godlike and to grant him lordly power over His creatures.

8 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. on. See note on Ps 6 title. Gittith. See Ps 81; 84 titles. The Hebrew word perhaps refers to either the wine press ("song of the wine press") or the Philistine city of Gath ("Gittite lyre or music"; see 2 Sam 15:18).

8:1a name. See note on 5:11.

8:1b–2 The mighty God, whose glory is displayed across the face of the heavens, appoints (and evokes) the praise of little children to silence the dark powers arrayed against Him (for a NT application see Matt 21:16).

8:2 revengeful. See 44:16; one who strikes back in malicious revenge (not as in 9:12).

8:3–5 The vastness and majesty of the heavens as the handiwork of God (see 19:1–6; 104:19–23) evoke wonder for what their Maker has done for little man, who is here today and gone tomorrow (see 144:3–4). (See Job 7:17–21 for Job's complaint that God takes man too seriously.)

8:3 fingers. See note on Ex 8:19.

8:4–6 Heb 2:6–8, quoting the Septuagint (the Greek translation of the OT), applies these verses to Jesus, who as the incarnate Son of God is both the representative man and the one in whom man's appointed destiny will be fully realized. The author of Hebrews thus makes use of the eschatological implications of these words in his testimony to Christ. Paul does the same with v. 6 in 1 Cor 15:27 (see also Eph 1:22).

8:4 What. The Hebrew for this word is translated "how" in vv. 1,9 and begins the line that serves as the center of the psalm (see note on 6:6). take thought of. Lit. "remember" (see note on Gen 8:1). son of man. Often a poetic synonym for "man" (see 80:17; 144:3; see also note on Ezek 2:1).

8:5 God. The Hebrew can be translated "God" or "angels."

8:6–8 See Gen 1:26–27. Man's rule is real—a part of his "glory and majesty" (v. 5)—and it is his destiny (the eschatological import drawn on by Paul and the author of Hebrews; see note on vv. 4–6). But it is not absolute or independent. It is participation, as a subordinate, in God's rule; and it is a gift, not a right.

8:9 Repeated verbatim from v. 1a (see note there).

Ps 9 That Ps 9 and 10 were sometimes viewed (or used) as one psalm is known from the Septuagint (the Greek translation of the OT). Whether they were originally composed as one psalm is not known, though a number of indicators point in that direction. Ps 10 is the only psalm from Ps 3 to 32 that has no superscription, and the Hebrew text of the two psalms together appears to reflect an incomplete (or broken) acrostic structure. The first letter of each verse or pair of verses tends to follow the order of the Hebrew alphabet near the beginning of Ps 9 and again near the end of Ps 10. The thoughts also tend to be developed in two-verse units throughout. Ps 9 is predominantly praise (by the king) for God's deliverance from hostile nations (the specific occasion is unknown, but since there is no reference to victories on the part of Israel, God's destruction of the nations may have come by other means). It concludes with a short prayer for God's continuing righteous judgments (see v. 4) on the haughty nations. Ps 10 is predominantly prayer against the rapacity of unscrupulous men within the realm—as arrogant and wicked in their dealings with the "afflicted" (v. 2) as the nations were in their attacks on Israel (vv. 2–11 can serve equally as a description of both). The conjunction of these two within a single psalm is not unthinkable since the attacks of "the wicked" (9:5; 10:4), whether from within or from without, on the godly community are equally threatening to true Israel.

3 When my enemies turn back,
They stumble and [a]perish before You.
4 For You have [a]maintained [1]my just cause;
You have sat on the throne [2][b]judging righteously.
5 You have [a]rebuked the nations, You have destroyed the wicked;
You have [b]blotted out their name forever and ever.
6 [1]The enemy has come to an end in perpetual ruins,
And You have uprooted the cities;
The very [a]memory of them has perished.

7 But the [a]LORD [1]abides forever;
He has established His [b]throne for judgment,
8 And He will [a]judge the world in righteousness;
He will execute judgment for the peoples with equity.
9 [1]The LORD also will be a [a]stronghold for the oppressed,
A stronghold in times of trouble;
10 And [1]those who [a]know Your name will put their trust in You,
For You, O LORD, have not [b]forsaken those who seek You.

11 Sing praises to the LORD, who [a]dwells in Zion;
[b]Declare among the peoples His deeds.
12 For [a]He who [1]requires blood remembers them;
He does not forget [b]the cry of the afflicted.
13 Be gracious to me, O LORD;
See my affliction from those [a]who hate me,
You who [b]lift me up from the gates of death,
14 That I may tell of [a]all Your praises,
That in the gates of the daughter of Zion
I may [b]rejoice in Your [1]salvation.
15 The nations have sunk down [a]in the pit which they have made;
In the [b]net which they hid, their own foot has been caught.
16 The LORD has [a]made Himself known;
He has [b]executed judgment.
In the work of his own hands the wicked is snared. [1]Higgaion [2]Selah.

17 The wicked will [1][a]return to [2]Sheol,
Even all the nations who [b]forget God.
18 For the [a]needy will not always be forgotten,
Nor the [b]hope of the afflicted perish forever.

Praise of God's past deliverances is often an integral part of prayer in the Psalter (see 3:3–4,8 and notes; 25:6; 40:1–5), as also in other ancient Near Eastern prayers. Such praise expressed the ground of the psalmist's hope that his present prayer would be heard, and it also functioned to motivate the Lord to act once more in His people's (or His servant's) behalf. For other lengthy prefaces to prayer see Ps 40; 44; 89. Probably Ps 9–10 came to be separated for the purpose of separate liturgical use, as did Ps 42–43 (see introduction there).

9 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. on. See titles of Ps 22; 45; 56–60; 69; 75; 80. The Hebrew for this word (also translated "upon," "set to," or "according to") may indicate that these were tune titles.

9:1–2 Initial announcement of praise.

9:1 heart. See note on 4:7. tell of. The praise of God in the Psalter is rarely a private matter between the psalmist and the Lord. It is usually a public (at the temple) celebration of God's holy virtues or of His saving acts or gracious bestowal of blessings. In his praise the psalmist proclaims to the assembled throng God's glorious attributes or His righteous (see note on 5:8) deeds (see, e.g., 22:22–31; 56:12–13; 61:8; 65:1; 69:30–33). To this is usually added a call to praise, summoning all who hear to take up the praise—to acknowledge and joyfully celebrate God's glory, His goodness and all His righteous acts. This aspect of praise in the Psalms has rightly been called the OT anticipation of NT evangelism. wonders. God's saving acts, sometimes involving miracles—as in the exodus from Egypt, the wilderness wanderings and the entrance into the promised land—and sometimes not, but always involving the manifestation of God's sovereign lordship over events. Here reference is to the destruction of the enemies celebrated in this psalm.

9:2,10 Your name. See note on 5:11.

9:2 Most High. See note on Gen 14:19.

9:3–6 In destroying the enemies, God has redressed the wrongs committed by them against David (and Israel).

9:4 throne. See note on v. 7.

9:5 blotted out their name. As if from a register of mankind written on a papyrus scroll (see Num 5:23; see also Deut 9:14; 25:19; 29:20; 2 Kin 14:27).

9:7–10 Celebration of the righteous rule of God (see note on 5:8), which evokes trust in those who look to the Lord.

9:7 His throne. In heaven (see 11:4). See also v. 4.

9:8 See Acts 17:31.

9:11–12 A call to the assembly at the temple to take up the praise of God for His righteous judgments (see note on v. 1).

9:11 dwells in Zion. God's heavenly throne (see v. 7) has its counterpart on earth in His temple at Jerusalem, from which center He rules the world (see 2:6; 3:4 and notes; 20:2). For God's election of Zion as the seat of His rule see 132:13.

9:12 He who requires blood. See Deut 32:41,43.

9:13–14 Perhaps a recollection of David's prayer ("the cry of the afflicted," v. 12), which the Lord has now answered.

9:13 gates of death. See Job 17:16 and note.

9:14 tell. See notes on v. 1; 7:17. gates. Having been thrust down by the attacks of his enemies to "the gates of death" (v. 13), David prayed to be lifted up so he could celebrate his deliverance (see note on v. 1) in "the gates of . . . Zion." daughter of Zion. A personification of Jerusalem and its inhabitants.

9:15–18 Under the Lord's just rule, those who wickedly attack others bring destruction on themselves (see 7:14–16 and note) and their end will be the grave. But those who are attacked ("the needy," v. 18) will not trust in the Lord in vain.

9:17 forget. Take no account of.

9:18 needy . . . afflicted. In this psalm David and Israel are

19 [a]Arise, O LORD, do not let man prevail;
Let the nations be [b]judged before You.
20 Put them [a]in fear, O LORD;
Let the nations know that they are [b]but men. Selah.

8 He sits in the [a]lurking places of the villages;
In the hiding places he [b]kills the innocent;
His eyes [1]stealthily watch for the [2c]unfortunate.
9 He lurks in a hiding place as [a]a lion in his [1]lair;
He [b]lurks to catch [c]the afflicted;
He catches the afflicted when he draws him into his [d]net.
10 He [1]crouches, he [2]bows down,
And the [3]unfortunate fall [4]by his mighty ones.
11 He [a]says to himself, "God has forgotten;
He has hidden His face; He will never see it."

12 Arise, O LORD; O God, [a]lift up Your hand.
[b]Do not forget the afflicted.
13 Why has the wicked [a]spurned God?
He has said to himself, "You will not require it."
14 You have seen it, for You have beheld [a]mischief and vexation to [1]take it into Your hand.
The [2b]unfortunate commits himself to You;
You have been the [c]helper of the orphan.
15 [a]Break the arm of the wicked and the evildoer,
[1b]Seek out his wickedness until You find none.

16 The LORD is [a]King forever and ever; counted among them because of the threat from the enemies. not . . . forgotten. Those who forget God will come to nothing, but the needy and afflicted will not be forgotten by God (see v. 12).

9:19–20 A prayer at the conclusion of praise, asking that the Lord may ever rule over the nations as He has done in the event here celebrated—that those who "forget God" (v. 17) may know that they are only men, not gods, and cannot withstand the God of Israel (see 10:18).

9:19 Arise. See note on 3:7.

Ps 10 A prayer for rescue from the attacks of unscrupulous men—containing a classic OT portrayal of "the wicked." See introduction to Ps 9.

10:1 See note on 6:3; see also Introduction: Theology.

10:2–11 Accusation lodged against the oppressors (see note on 5:9–10). In the Hebrew the interchange of singular and plural indicates that these accusations are being lodged against wicked oppressors in general. Their deeds betray the arrogance (see vv. 2–5—so long as they prosper, v. 5) with which they defy God (see vv. 3–4,13; see especially their words in vv. 6,11,13). They greedily seek to glut their unrestrained appetites (see v. 3) by victimizing others, taking account of neither God (see v. 4) nor His law (see v. 5).

10:2 pursue . . . caught. The psalmists often use imagery from the hunt (see vv. 8–9).

10:3 heart's. See note on 4:7.

10:4 The wicked man does not consider that he has God to contend with (see note on v. 11; see also 14:1; 36:1; 53:1).

10:6 See vv. 11,13 and note on 3:2. to himself. Lit. "in his heart" (also in vv. 11,13); see note on 4:7. I will not be moved. Nothing will disturb my well-being, unsettle my security.

10:7 curses and deceit and oppression. The three most common weapons of the tongue in Israel's experience (see note on 5:9). curses. The ancient Near Eastern peoples thought that by pronouncing curses on someone they could bring down the power of the gods (or other mysterious powers) on that person. They had a large conventional stock of such curses. deceit. Slander and false testimony for malicious purposes (see, e.g., 1 Kin 21:8–15).

10:9 See note on 7:2.

10:11 See note on 3:2. The arrogance with which the wicked speak (see 17:10), especially their easy dismissal of God's knowledge of their evil acts and His unfailing prosecution of their malicious deeds, is frequently noted by the psalmists (see v. 13; 12:4; 42:3,10; 59:7; 64:5; 71:11; 73:11; 94:7; 115:2; see also Is 29:15; Ezek 8:12).

10:12–15 Prayer that God will call the wicked to account.

10:12 Arise. See note on 3:7. forget. See 9:18. afflicted. Those at the mercy of the oppressors (see v. 9).

10:13 Why . . . ? He. See note on 6:3.

10:14 Appeal to God's righteous rule (see 5:4–6).

10:15 Break the arm. Destroy the power to oppress. Seek out his wickedness. Humble his arrogance (see v. 13) with Your righteous judgment.

[b]Nations have perished from His land.
17 O LORD, You have heard the [a]desire of the [1]humble;
You will [b]strengthen their heart, [c]You will incline Your ear
18 To [1]vindicate the [a]orphan and the [b]oppressed,
So that man who is of the earth will no longer cause [c]terror.

Psalm 11

For the choir director. A Psalm of David.

1 In the LORD I [a]take refuge;
How can you say to my soul, "Flee as a bird to your [b]mountain;
2 For, behold, the wicked [a]bend the bow,
They [1][b]make ready their arrow upon the string
To [c]shoot in darkness at the upright in heart.
3 If the [a]foundations are destroyed,
What can the righteous do?"

4 The LORD is in His [a]holy temple; the [1]LORD'S [b]throne is in heaven;
His [c]eyes behold, His eyelids test the sons of men.
5 The LORD [a]tests the righteous and [b]the wicked,
And the one who loves violence His soul hates.
6 Upon the wicked He will [a]rain [1]snares;
[b]Fire and brimstone and [c]burning wind will be the portion of [d]their cup.
7 For the LORD is [a]righteous, [b]He loves [1]righteousness;
The upright will [c]behold His face.

Psalm 12

For the choir director; [†]upon an eight-stringed lyre. A Psalm of David.

1 Help, LORD, for [a]the godly man ceases to be,
For the faithful disappear from among the sons of men.
2 They [a]speak [1]falsehood to one another;
With [b]flattering [2]lips and with a double heart they speak.
3 May the LORD cut off all flattering lips,
The tongue that [a]speaks great things;
4 Who [a]have said, "With our tongue we will prevail;
Our lips are [1]our own; who is lord over us?"

10:16–18 The psalmist's confidence in the righteous reign of the Lord (see note on 3:8). Reference to the nations (v. 16) and to the humbling of proud man (see v. 18; see also 9:19–20) suggests links with Ps 9. As the conclusion to Ps 10, this stanza expands the vision of God's just rule to its universal scope and sets the purging of the Lord's land of all nations that do not acknowledge Him (see v. 16) alongside God's judicial dealing with the wicked oppressors. Both belong to God's assertion of His righteous rule in the face of man's arrogant denial of it.

10:18 who is of the earth. Who is not God and so constitutes no ultimate threat (see 49:12,20; 56:4,11; 62:9; 78:39; 103:14–16; 118:6,8–9; 144:4; Is 31:3; Jer 17:5).

Ps 11 A confession of confident trust in the Lord's righteous rule, at a time when wicked adversaries seem to have the upper hand.

11 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title.

11:1–3 David testifies of his unshakable trust in the Lord (his refuge) to apprehensive people around him. These people, seeing the power and underhandedness of the enemy (they "shoot in darkness," v. 2), fear that the foundations (v. 3) are crumbling and that flight to a mountain refuge is the only recourse. He dismisses their fearful advice with disdain.

11:2 It is not clear whether those who wield the bows and arrows are archers or false accusers (see 57:4; 64:4; see also note on 5:9). heart. See note on 4:7.

11:3 foundations. Of the world order (see 82:5). To those who counsel flight, the powerful upsurge of evil appears to indicate that the righteous can no longer count on a world order in which good triumphs over evil. righteous. See note on 1:5.

11:4–7 Reply to the fearful: The Lord is still securely on His heavenly throne. And the righteous Lord (see v. 7) discerns the righteous (see v. 5) to give them a place in His presence (see v. 7), while His judgment will "rain" (v. 6) on the wicked.

11:4 The LORD is in His holy temple. Repeated verbatim in Hab 2:20. Here reference is to His heavenly temple.

11:6 Perhaps recalling God's judgment on Sodom and Gomorrah (see Gen 19:24,28; see also Rev 14:10; 20:10; 21:8). their cup. See 75:8 and note on 16:5).

11:7 righteous. See note on 5:8. The upright. Those concerning whom the fearful despaired (see v. 2). behold His face. The Hebrew for "see the king's face" was an expression denoting access to the king (see Gen 43:3,5; 44:23,26; 2 Sam 3:13, "see my face . . . when you come to see me"; 14:24,28,32). Sometimes it referred to those who served before the king (see 2 Kin 25:19, "king's advisers"; Esth 1:14, those "who had access to the king's presence"). Here David speaks of special freedom of access before the heavenly King. Reference is no doubt to His presence at the temple (God's earthly royal house), but that is still the presence of the One who sits on the heavenly throne. Ultimate access to the heavenly temple may also be implied (see 16:11; 17:15; see also 23:6; 140:13). Even the pagan peoples surrounding Israel believed that man continued after death, though only in some kind of shadowy existence in the nether world (see Is 14:9–17).

Ps 12 A prayer for help when it seems that all men are faithless and every tongue false (see Mic 7:1–7).

12 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. upon. See note on Ps 6 title.

12:1–2 Initial appeal, with description of the cause of distress.

12:1 godly. See note on 4:3. the faithful. Those who maintain moral integrity.

12:2 See 5:9 and note.

12:3–4 The prayer.

12:3 cut off. Put an end to (physical mutilation is not in view). speaks great things. See note on 10:2–11.

12:4 See notes on 3:2; 10:11.

How long [b]will You hide Your face
from me?
2 How long shall I [a]take counsel in my soul,
Having [b]sorrow in my heart all the

How long will my enemy be exalted

Psalm 14

For the choir director. A Psalm of David.

1 The fool has [a]said in his heart, "There is no God."
They are corrupt, they have committed abominable [1]deeds;
There is [b]no one who does good.
2 The LORD has [a]looked down from heaven upon the sons of men
To see if there are any who [1b]understand,
Who [c]seek after God.

14:1 [1]Lit doings [a]Ps 10:4; 53:1 [b]Ps 14:1-3; 130:3; Rom 3:10-12
2 [1]Or act wisely [a]Ps 33:13, 14; 102:19 [b]Ps 92:6 [c]1 Chr 22:19

12:5–6 A reassuring word from the Lord. Such words of assurance following prayer in the Psalms were perhaps spoken by a priest (see 1 Sam 1:17) or a prophet (see 51:8 and note; 2 Sam 12:13). It may be that abrupt transitions from prayer to confidence in the Psalms (see note on 3:8) presuppose such priestly or prophetic words, even when they are not contained in the psalm. Here it is possible that David merely recalls this appropriate word from the Lord; notice that it is a general reassurance concerning the righteous rule of God (see note on 4:1).

12:5 Now I will arise. See Is 33:10.

12:6 words of the LORD. Set in sharp contrast with the boastful words of the adversaries; they are as flawless as thoroughly refined silver. furnace on the earth. See note on Deut 4:20. seven. Signifies fullness or completeness—here thoroughness of refining.

12:7–8 Concluding expression of confidence (see note on 3:8).

12:8 David is confident, even though at the present time the wicked think they have the upper hand (see vv. 1–4).

Ps 13 A cry to the Lord for deliverance from a serious illness that threatens death (see v. 3), which would give David's enemies just what they wanted. See introduction to Ps 6.

13 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title.

13:1–2 An anguished complaint concerning a prolonged serious illness.

13:1 How long . . . ? See note on 6:3; see also Introduction: Theology. forget. Ignore. hide Your face. For use in combination with "forget" see 44:24. In moments of need the psalmists frequently ask God why He hides His face (see 30:7; 44:24; 88:14), or they plead with Him not to do so (see 27:9; 69:17; 102:2; 143:7). When He does hide His face, those who depend on Him can only despair (see 30:7; 104:29). When His face shines on a person, blessing and deliverance come (see 4:6 and note; 31:16; 67:1; 80:3,7,19; 119:135).

13:2 heart. See note on 4:7.

13:3–4 Appeal for deliverance from death.

13:3 Enlighten my eyes. Restore me (see note on 6:7).

13:4 See notes on 3:2; 5:9. shaken. Referring to death (as in 18:38; 82:7; 106:26; Judg 5:27; 2 Sam 1:19; Job 18:12).

13:5–6 Concluding expression of confidence (see note on 3:8).

13:5 lovingkindness. See note on 6:4. heart. See note on 4:7. shall rejoice. It is David who will rejoice, not his enemies.

13:6 See note on 7:17.

Ps 14 A testimony concerning the folly of evil men. This psalm has many links with Ps 10; 12. It shares the view of Ps 11 that the righteous Lord is on the throne, and it stands in contrast with Ps 15, which describes those who are acceptable to God. Ps 53 is a somewhat revised duplicate of this psalm.

14 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title.

14:1–3 Characterization of the wicked. For Paul's use of these verses in a different context see Rom 3:10–12.

14:1 Not intended as a definition of the "fool"; see previous note. The Hebrew words rendered "fool" in Psalms denote one who is morally deficient. has said. See note on 3:2. heart. See note on 4:7. no God. A practical atheism (see 10:4,6,11,13; 36:1; see also note on 10:4). no one who does good. Mankind in general is corrupt. Here the reference is to those who take no account of God and do not hesitate to show their malice toward "the righteous generation" (see vv. 4–5)—as in 9:19–20; 10:2–11,13,18; 12:1–4,7–8 (this is also the situation that Ps 11 describes). Elsewhere the psalmists included themselves among those who are not righteous in God's eyes (see 130:3; 143:2; see also 1 Kin 8:46; Job 9:2; Eccl 7:20).

14:2 The LORD. Emphatically contrasted with "the fool" (v. 1). Who seek after God. Those who truly seek God are described in Ps 15.

3 They have all [a]turned aside, together they have become corrupt;
There is [b]no one who does good, not even one.

4 Do all the workers of wickedness [a]not know,
Who [b]eat up my people as they eat bread,
And [c]do not call upon the Lord?
5 There they are in great dread,
For God is with the [a]righteous generation.
6 You would put to shame the counsel of the afflicted,
But the Lord is his [a]refuge.

7 Oh, that [a]the salvation of Israel [1]would come out of Zion!
When the Lord [2b]restores His captive people,
Jacob will rejoice, Israel will be glad.

14:3 turned aside. From God and goodness.
14:4–6 The folly of the wicked exposed.
14:4 eat up . . . do not call upon the Lord. Renewed characterization of the wicked: They live by the violence of their own hands and do not rely on the Lord (see 10:2–4).
14:5 Even God's mighty defense of the righteous teaches them nothing. righteous. See note on 1:5.
14:6 afflicted. God's people as the victims of injustice. refuge. See note on 4:1.
14:7 The psalmist longs for Israel's complete deliverance from her enemies—which will come when God deals with the wicked in defense of their victims. For a similar expansion of scope see 10:16–18 and note. Zion. See note on 9:11. Jacob . . . Israel. Synonyms (see Gen 32:28).
Ps 15 Instruction to those who wish to have access to God at His temple (see 24:3–6; Is 33:14–16). See also introduction to Ps 14.
15:1 abide . . . dwell on. Not as a priest but as God's guest in His holy, royal house, the temple (see 23:6; 27:4–6; 61:4; 84:10; 2 Sam 12:20). holy hill. See note on 2:6.
15:2–5 Not sacrifices or ritual purity (as among the religions of the ancient Near East) but moral righteousness gives access to the Lord, the God of Israel (see the basic covenantal law: Ex 20:1–17; see also Is 1:10–17; 33:14–16; 58:6–10; Jer 7:2–7; Ezek 18:5–9; Hos 6:6; Amos 5:14–15,21–24; Mic 6:6–8; Zech 7:9–10; 8:16–17).
15:2 integrity. See Gen 17:1 and note. works righteousness. See note on 1:5. heart. See note on 4:7.
15:3 tongue. See note on 5:9.
15:4 those who fear the Lord. Those who honor God and order their lives in accordance with His will (see note on Gen 20:11) because of their reverence for Him.
15:5 interest. See note on Ex 22:25–27. be shaken. See note on 10:6.
Ps 16 A prayer for safekeeping (the petition element in prayer psalms is often relatively short; see 3:7; 22:19–21; 44:23–26), pleading for the Lord's protection against the threat of death. It could also be called a psalm of trust.
16 title Mikhtam. The term remains unexplained, though it always stands in the superscription of Davidic prayers occasioned by great danger (see Ps 56–60).
16:1 The petition and the basis for it. The rest of the psalm elaborates on the latter element.
16:2–4 The Lord is David's one and only good thing (see 73:25,28); David will have nothing to do with the counterfeit gods to whom others pour out their libations (see 4:2).
16:3 See Ps 101.
16:4 sorrows . . . will be multiplied. In contrast with David's good "portion" (v. 5; see note on 11:6), which affords him much joy (see 73:18–20). drink offerings of blood. Blood of sacrifices poured on altars. take their names upon. Appeal to or worship them (see Josh 23:7).
16:5–6 Joy over the inheritance received from the Lord. David refers to what the Lord bestowed on His people in the promised land, either to the gift of fields there (see Num 16:14) or to the Lord Himself (as in 73:26; 119:57; 142:5; Lam 3:24), who was the inheritance of the priests (see Num 18:20) and the Levites (see Deut 10:9).
16:5 cup. A metaphor referring to what the host offers his guests to drink. To the godly the Lord offers a cup of blessings

You support my [c]lot.
6 The [a]lines have fallen to me in pleasant places;
Indeed, my heritage is [b]beautiful to
me.

7 I will bless the LORD who has
[a]counseled me;
Indeed, my [1][b]mind instructs me in the night.
8 [a]I have [b]set the LORD continually before me;
Because He is [c]at my right hand, [d]I will not be shaken.
9 Therefore [a]my heart is glad and [b]my glory rejoices;
My flesh also will [c]dwell securely.
10 For You [a]will not abandon my soul to
[1]Sheol;
Nor will You [2][b]allow Your [3]Holy One to [4]undergo decay.
11 You will make known to me [a]the path of life;
In [b]Your presence is fullness of joy;
In Your right hand there are [c]pleasures forever.

(see 23:5) or salvation (see 116:13); He makes the wicked drink from a cup of wrath (see Jer 25:15; Rev 14:10; 16:19). support my lot. Just as each Israelite's family inheritance in the promised land was to be secure (see Lev 25; Num 36:7).

16:7–8 Praise of the Lord who counsels and keeps.

16:7 counseled. Shown the way that leads to life (see v. 11). mind. Lit. "kidneys" (see note on 7:9).

16:8 He is at my right hand. As sustainer and protector (see 73:23; 109:31; 110:5; 121:5); complemented by the reference to the Lord's right hand in v. 11. not be shaken. See note on 10:6.

16:9–11 Describes the joy of total security. David speaks here, as in the rest of his psalms, first of all of himself and of the life he now enjoys by the gracious provision and care of God. The Lord, in whom the psalmist takes refuge, wills life for him (hence he made known to him the path of life, v. 11) and will not abandon him to the grave, even though "flesh and . . . heart . . . fail" (73:26). But implicit in these words of assurance (if not actually explicit) is the confidence that, with the Lord as his refuge, even the grave cannot rob him of life (see 17:15; 73:24; see also note on 11:7). If this could be said of David, how much more of David's promised Son! So Peter quotes vv. 8–11 and declares that with these words David prophesied of Christ and His resurrection (Acts 2:25–28; see Paul's similar use of v. 10b in Acts 13:35). See also note on 6:5.

16:9 heart. See note on 4:7. glory. See note on 7:5.

16:10 Holy One. Hebrew ḥasid (see note on 4:3). Reference is first of all to David (see note on 2:2), but the psalm is ultimately fulfilled in Christ.

16:11 path of life. See Prov 15:24. Your right hand. See note on v. 8.

Ps 17 The psalmist appeals to the Lord as Judge, when under attack by ungodly foes. The psalm reflects many of the Hebrew conventions of lodging a judicial appeal before the king.

17 title A Prayer. See titles of Ps 86; 90; 102; 142; see also 72:20.

17:1–2 The initial appeal for justice.

17:1 Hear a just cause . . . my cry. His case is truly just, not a clever misrepresentation by deceitful lips (for a similar situation see 1 Sam 24:15).

17:3–5 David's claim of innocence in support of the rightness of his case. He is not guilty of the ungodly ways of his attackers—let God examine him (cf. 139:23–24).

17:3 heart. See note on 4:7.

17:4 word of Your lips. God's revealed will, by which He has made known the "paths" (v. 5) that people are to walk.

17:6–9 The petition: what the Lord is to do for him—motivated by David's trust in Him ("for You will answer me," v. 6) and the Lord's unfailing righteousness (see v. 7).

17:7 Wondrously. See note on 9:1. lovingkindness. See note on 6:4.

17:8 apple of the eye. See note on Deut 32:10. shadow. A conventional Hebrew metaphor for protection against oppression—as shade protects from the oppressive heat of the hot desert sun. Kings were spoken of as the "shade" of those dependent on them for protection (as in Num 14:9, "protection"—lit. "shade"; Lam 4:20; Ezek 31:6,12,17). Similarly, the Lord is the protective "shade" of his people (see 91:1; 121:5; Is 25:4; 49:2; 51:16). wings. Metaphor for the protective outreach of God's power (see 36:7; 57:1; 61:4; 63:7; 91:4; Ruth 2:12; see also Matt 23:37).

17:10–12 The accusation lodged against the vicious adversaries (see note on 5:9–10).

17:10 mouth. See note on 5:9. speak proudly. See note on 10:11.

10 They have [a]closed their [1]unfeeling heart,
With their mouth they [b]speak proudly.
11 They have now [a]surrounded us in our steps;
They set their eyes [b]to cast us down to the ground.
12 He is [a]like a lion that is eager to tear,
And as a young lion [b]lurking in hiding places.

13 [a]Arise, O LORD, confront him, [b]bring him low;
[c]Deliver my soul from the wicked with [d]Your sword,
14 From men with [a]Your hand, O LORD,
From men [1]of the world, [b]whose portion is in this life,
And whose belly You [c]fill with Your treasure;
They are satisfied with children,
And leave their abundance to their babes.
15 As for me, I shall [a]behold Your face in righteousness;
[b]I will be satisfied [1]with Your [c]likeness when I awake.

Psalm 18

For the choir director. A Psalm of David the servant of the LORD, [†]who spoke to the LORD the words of this song in the day that the LORD delivered him from the hand of all his enemies and from the hand of Saul. And he said,

5 The [a]cords of [1]Sheol surrounded me;
The snares of death confronted me.
6 In my [a]distress I called upon the LORD,
And cried to my God for help;
He heard my voice [b]out of His temple,
And my [c]cry for help before Him came into His ears.

7 Then the [a]earth shook and quaked;
And the [b]foundations of the mountains were trembling
And were shaken, because He was angry.

And [a]fire from His mouth devoured;
Coals were kindled by it.

With thick [b]darkness under His feet.

17:14b–15 Concluding confession of confidence (see note on 3:8).
17:15 in righteousness. The righteous Judge (see note on 5:8) will acknowledge and vindicate the innocence (righteousness) of the petitioner. behold Your face. See note on 11:7. when I awake. From the night of death (see note on 11:7)—in radical contrast to the destiny of the "men of the world" (v. 14; see notes on 6:5; 16:9–11). behold . . . Your likeness. As Moses the servant of the Lord had seen it (see Num 12:8).
Ps 18 This song of David occurs also (with minor variations) in 2 Sam 22 (see notes there). In its structure, apart from the introduction (vv. 1–3) and the conclusion (vv. 46–50), the song is composed of three major divisions: (1) the Lord's deliverance of David from his mortal enemies (vv. 4–19); (2) the moral grounds for the Lord's saving help (vv. 20–29); (3) the Lord's help recounted (vv. 30–45).
18 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. servant of the LORD. See 78:70; 89:3,20,39; 132:10; 144:10. The title designates David in his royal office as, in effect, an official in the Lord's own kingly rule over His people (see 2 Sam 7:5)—as were Moses (see Ex 14:31 and note), Joshua (see Josh 24:29) and the prophets (Elijah, 2 Kin 9:36; Jonah, 2 Kin 14:25; Isaiah, Is 20:3; Daniel, Dan 6:20). song. See note on Ps 30 title. day that the LORD delivered him. It is possible that David composed his song shortly after his victories over his foreign enemies (2 Sam 8:1–14), but it may have been later in his life.
18:1–3 A prelude of praise.
18:1 Does not occur in 2 Sam 22. I love You. From an unusual Hebrew expression that emphasizes the fervor of David's love.
18:2 rock . . . rock. The translation of two different Hebrew words. "Rock" is a common poetic figure for God (or the gods: Deut 32:31,37; Is 44:8), symbolizing His unfailing (see Is 26:4) strength as a fortress refuge (see vv. 31,46; 31:2–3; 42:9; 62:7; 71:3; 94:22; Is 17:10) or as deliverer (see 19:14; 62:2; 78:35; 89:26; 95:1; Deut 32:15). It is a figure particularly appropriate for David's experience (see 1 Sam 23:14,25; 24:2,22; 26:20), for the Lord was his true security. fortress. See note on 2 Sam 22:2. shield. See note on 3:3. horn. Here symbolizes strength (see Deut 33:17; Jer 48:25).
18:4–6 God heard his cry for help.
18:4–5 David depicts his experiences in poetic figures of mortal danger.
18:4 cords. 2 Sam 22:5 has "waves." torrents of ungodliness. See note on 30:1.
18:5 cords of Sheol . . . snares of death. See 116:3. He had, as it were, been snared by death (personified) and bound as a prisoner of the grave (see Job 36:8).
18:6 temple. God's heavenly abode, where He sits enthroned (see 11:4; 113:5; Is 6:1; 40:22).
18:7–15 The Lord came to the aid of His servant—depicted as a fearful theophany (divine manifestation) of the heavenly Warrior descending in wrathful attack upon David's enemies (see 5:4–5; 68:1–8; 77:16–19; Mic 1:3–4; Nah 1:2–6; Hab 3:3–15).

And He sped upon the [b]wings of the wind.
11 He made [a]darkness His hiding place,
[b]His [1]canopy around Him,
Darkness of waters, thick clouds of the skies.
12 From the [a]brightness before Him passed His thick clouds, Hailstones and [b]coals of fire.
13 The LORD also [a]thundered in the heavens,
And the Most High uttered His voice,
Hailstones and coals of fire.
14 He [a]sent out His arrows, and scattered them,
And lightning flashes in abundance, and [1]routed them.
15 Then the [a]channels of water appeared,
And the foundations of the world were [1]laid bare
At Your [b]rebuke, O LORD,
At the blast of the [c]breath of Your nostrils.

16 He [a]sent from on high, He took me;
He drew me out of [b]many waters.
17 He [a]delivered me from my strong enemy,
And from those who hated me, for they were [b]too mighty for me.
18 They confronted me in [a]the day of my calamity,
But [b]the LORD was my stay.
19 He brought me forth also into a [a]broad place;
He rescued me, because [b]He delighted in me.

20 The LORD has [a]rewarded me according to my righteousness;
According to the [b]cleanness of my hands He has recompensed me.
21 For I have [a]kept the ways of the LORD,
And have [b]not wickedly departed from my God.
22 For all [a]His ordinances were before me,
And I did not put away His [b]statutes from me.
23 I was also [1][a]blameless with Him,
And I [b]kept myself from my iniquity.
24 Therefore the LORD has [a]recompensed me according to my righteousness,
According to the cleanness of my hands in His eyes.

25 With [a]the kind You show Yourself kind;
With the [1]blameless [b]You show Yourself blameless;
26 With the pure You show Yourself [a]pure,
And with the crooked [b]You show Yourself [1]astute.
27 For You [a]save an afflicted people,
But [b]haughty eyes You abase.
28 For You [a]light my lamp;
The LORD my God [b]illumines my darkness.
29 For by You I can [1][a]run upon a troop;
And by my God I can [b]leap over a wall.

30 As for God, His way is [1][a]blameless;
The [b]word of the LORD is tried;
He is a [c]shield to all who take refuge in Him.

He sweeps down upon them like a fierce thunderstorm (see Josh 10:11; Judg 5:20–22; 1 Sam 2:10; 7:10; 2 Sam 5:24; Is 29:6).
18:8 God's fierce majesty is portrayed in terms similar to those applied to the awesome Leviathan (Job 41:19–21).
18:9 bowed the heavens also, and came down. See Is 64:1 and note.
18:10 cherub. A symbol of royalty (see 80:1; 99:1; see also notes on Gen 3:24; Ex 25:18). In Ezek 1; 10, cherubim appear as the bearers of the throne-chariot of God.
18:13 Most High. See note on Gen 14:19. voice. For thunder as the voice of God see Ps 29; Job 37:2–5.
18:14 arrows. For shafts of lightning as the arrows of God see 77:17; 144:6; Hab 3:11.
18:15 Perhaps recalls the great deed of the heavenly Warrior when He defeated Israel's enemy at the Red Sea (see Ex 15:1–12).
18:16–19 The deliverance.
18:16 many waters. See note on 32:6.
18:19 broad place. See 4:1 and note; where he is free to roam unconfined by the threats and dangers that had hemmed him in (vv. 4–6,16–18). To be afflicted or oppressed is like being bound by fetters (Job 36:8,13). To be delivered is to be set free (Job 36:16). delighted in me. God was pleased with David as "a man after His own heart" (1 Sam 13:14; see also 1 Sam 15:28; 1 Kin 14:8; 15:5), a man with whom He had made a covenant assuring him of an enduring dynasty (2 Sam 7). The thought is further elaborated in vv. 20–29.
18:20–24 David's righteousness rewarded. David's assertion of his righteousness (like that of Samuel, 1 Sam 12:3; Hezekiah, 2 Kin 20:3; Job, Job 13:23; 27:6; 31; see also Ps 17:3–5; 26; 44:17–18; 101) is not a pretentious boast of sinless perfection (see 51:5). Rather, it is a claim that, in contrast to his enemies, he has devoted himself heart and life to the service of the Lord, that his has been a godliness with integrity—itself the fruit of God's gracious working in his heart (see 51:10–12).
18:20 my righteousness. See note on 1:5. rewarded me. As a king benevolently rewards those who loyally serve him.
18:21 ways of the LORD. See 25:4 and note.
18:25–29 Because God responds to man in kind (see Job 34:1; Prov 3:34), David has experienced the Lord's favor.
18:26 crooked. Deviating from the straight path of truth and righteousness. astute. God responds to their perverse dealings thrust for thrust, like a wrestler countering his opponent.
18:27 The thought of this verse fits well with David's and Saul's reversals of status. It also echoes the central theme of Hannah's song, which the author of Samuel uses to highlight a major thesis of his account of the ways of God as He brings about His kingdom.
18:28 light my lamp. God causes his life and undertakings to flourish (see especially Job 18:5–6; 21:17). illumines. See note on 27:1.
18:30–36 By God's blessing David the king has thrived.

31 For [a]who is God, but the LORD?
And who is a [b]rock, except our God,
32 The God who [a]girds me with strength
And [1]makes my way [2b]blameless?
33 He [a]makes my feet like hinds' feet,
And [b]sets me upon my high places.
34 He [a]trains my hands for battle,
So that my arms can [b]bend a bow of bronze.
35 You have also given me [a]the shield of Your salvation,
And Your [b]right hand upholds me;
And [c]Your [1]gentleness makes me great.
36 You [a]enlarge my steps under me,
And my [1b]feet have not slipped.

37 I [a]pursued my enemies and overtook them,
And I did not turn back [b]until they were consumed.
38 I shattered them, so that they were [a]not able to rise;
They fell [b]under my feet.
39 For You have [a]girded me with strength for battle;
You have [1b]subdued under me those who rose up against me.
40 You have also made my enemies [a]turn their backs to me,
And I [1b]destroyed those who hated me.
41 They cried for help, but there was [a]none to save,
Even to the LORD, but [b]He did not answer them.
42 Then I beat them fine as the [a]dust before the wind;
I emptied them out as the mire of the streets.

43 You have delivered me from the [a]contentions of the people;
You have placed me as [b]head of the nations;
A [c]people whom I have not known serve me.
44 As soon as they hear, they obey me;
Foreigners [1a]submit to me.
45 Foreigners [a]fade away,
And [b]come trembling out of their [1]fortresses.

46 The LORD [a]lives, and blessed be [b]my rock;
And exalted be [c]the God of my salvation,
47 The God who [a]executes vengeance for me,
And [b]subdues peoples under me.
48 He [a]delivers me from my enemies;
Surely You [b]lift me above those who rise up against me;
You rescue me from the [c]violent man.
49 Therefore I will [a]give thanks to You among the nations, O LORD,
And I will [b]sing praises to Your name.
50 He gives great [1a]deliverance to His king,
And shows lovingkindness to [b]His anointed,
To David and [c]his [2]descendants forever.

Psalm 19

For the choir director. A Psalm of David.

1 The [a]heavens are telling of the glory of God;
And their [b]expanse is declaring the work of His hands.
2 Day to [a]day pours forth speech,
And [b]night to night reveals knowledge.

19:1 [a]Ps 8:1; 50:6; Rom 1:19, 20 [b]Gen 1:6, 7 2 [a]Ps 74:16 [b]Ps 139:12

18:30 is blameless. Does not fail—and so, because of His blessing, David's way has not failed (see v. 32). word of the LORD. While the reference is general, it applies especially to God's promise to David (see 2 Sam 7:8–16). tried. See note on 12:6. shield. See note on 3:3.

18:37–42 With God's help David has crushed all his foes.

18:43–45 God has made David the head of nations (see 2 Sam 5; 8; 10)—he who had been, it seemed, on the brink of death (see vv. 4–5), sinking into the depths (see v. 16).

18:43 contentions of the people. All the threats he had endured from his own people in the days of Saul, and perhaps also in the time of Absalom's rebellion. people whom I have not known. Those with whom he had had no previous relations.

18:46–50 Concluding doxology.

18:46 The LORD lives. God's interventions and blessings in David's behalf have shown Him to be the living God (see Deut 5:26).

18:47 executes vengeance for me. Redresses the wrongs committed against me (see Deut 32:41).

18:49 David vows to praise the Lord among the nations (see note on 9:1). name. See note on 5:11.

18:50 his king . . . his anointed. David views himself as the Lord's chosen and anointed king (see 1 Sam 16:13; see also notes on 1 Sam 10:25; 12:14–15). shows lovingkindness. David's final words recall the Lord's covenant with him (see 2 Sam 7:8–16). The whole song is to be understood in the context of David's official capacity and the Lord's covenant with him. What David claims in this grand conclusion—as, indeed, in the whole psalm—has been and is being fulfilled in Jesus Christ, David's great descendant.

Ps 19 A hymn extolling "the glory of God" (v. 1) as revealed to all by the starry heavens (see vv. 1–6) and "the law of the LORD" (v. 7), which has been given to Israel (see vv. 7–13). Placed next to Ps 18, it completes the cycle of praise—for the Lord's saving acts, for His glory reflected in creation and for His law.

19 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title.

19:1–4a The silent heavens speak, declaring the glory of their Maker to all who are on the earth (see 148:3). The heavenly lights are not divine (see Deut 4:19; 17:3), nor do they control or disclose man's destiny (see Is 47:13; Jer 10:2; Dan 4:7). Their glory testifies to the righteousness and faithfulness of the Lord who created them (see 50:6; 89:5–8; 97:6; see also Rom 1:19–20).

3 There is no speech, nor are there words;
Their voice is not heard.
4 Their [1][a]line has gone out through all the earth,
And their utterances to the end of the world.
In them He has [b]placed a tent for the sun,
5 Which is as a bridegroom coming out of his chamber;
It rejoices as a strong man to run his course.
6 Its [a]rising is from [1]one end of the heavens,
And its circuit to the [2]other end of them;
And there is nothing hidden from its heat.

7 [a]The law of the LORD is [1][b]perfect,
[c]restoring the soul;
The testimony of the LORD is [d]sure,
making [e]wise the simple.
8 The precepts of the LORD are [a]right,
[b]rejoicing the heart;
The commandment of the LORD is
[c]pure, [d]enlightening the eyes.
9 The fear of the LORD is clean, enduring forever;
The judgments of the LORD are [a]true;
they are [b]righteous altogether.
10 They are more desirable than [a]gold,
yes, than much fine gold;
[b]Sweeter also than honey and the drippings of the honeycomb.
11 Moreover, by them [a]Your servant is warned;
In keeping them there is great [b]reward.

19:4 Interpreting this heavenly proclamation eschatologically in the light of Christ, Paul applies this verse to the proclamation of the gospel in his own day (see Rom 10:18). He thus associates these two universal proclamations.
19:4b–6 The heavens are the divinely pitched "tent" for the lordly sun—widely worshiped in the ancient Near East (cf. Deut 4:19; 17:3; 2 Kin 23:5,11; Jer 8:2; Ezek 8:16), but here, as in 136:7–8; Gen 1:16, a mere creature of God. Of the created realm, the sun is the supreme metaphor of the glory of God (see 84:11; Is 60:19–20), as it makes its daily triumphant sweep across the whole extent of the heavens and pours out its heat (felt presence) on every creature.
19:7–10 Stately, rhythmic celebration of the life-nurturing effects of the Lord's revealed law (see Ps 119).
19:7 the simple. The childlike, those whose understanding and judgment have not yet matured (see 119:98–100; Prov 1:4; cf. 2 Tim 3:15; Heb 5:13–14).
19:8 heart. See note on 4:7.
19:9 fear of the LORD. The sum of what the law requires (see note on 15:4).
19:10 Sweeter also than honey. By contrast, those who abandon the law turn justice into bitterness (see Amos 5:7; 6:12).
19:11–13 The law marks the way that leads to life (see Deut 5:33). But man's moral consciousness remains flawed and imperfect; hence he errs without realizing it and has reason to seek pardon for hidden faults (v. 12; see Lev 5:2–4). Willful sins (v. 13), however, are open rebellion; they are the great transgression (v. 13) that leads to being cut off from God's people (see Num 15:30–31).
19:11,13 Your servant. The psalmist himself.
19:14 The psalmist presents this hymn as a praise offering to the Lord. heart. See note on 4:7. rock . . . Redeemer. See 78:35. rock. See notes on 18:2; Gen 49:24. Redeemer. See note on Ex 6:6.
Ps 20 A liturgy of prayer for the king just before he goes out to battle against a threatening force (see 2 Chr 20:1–30).
20 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title.
20:1–5 The people (perhaps his assembled army) address the king, adding their prayers to his prayer for victory.
20:1 answer you. Hear your prayers, offered in the present distress, accompanied by "offerings" (v. 3); see v. 9. name. See vv. 5,7; see also note on 5:11. Jacob. See note on 14:7. set you . . . on high. Lit. "raise you to a high, secure place."
20:2 Zion. See note on 9:11.
20:4 heart's desire. See note on 4:7.
20:5 We will sing . . . name of our God. See note on 7:17. banners. Probably the troop standards around which the units rallied.
20:6 A participant in the liturgy (perhaps a Levite; see 2 Chr 20:14) announces assurance that the king's prayer will be heard. His anointed. The king appointed by the Lord to rule in His name (see 2:2 and note).

He will [b]answer him from His holy heaven
With the [1c]saving strength of His right hand.
7 Some [1]boast in chariots and some in [a]horses,
But [b]we [2]will boast in the name of the LORD, our God.
8 They have [a]bowed down and fallen,
But we have [b]risen and stood upright.
9 [1a]Save, O LORD;
May the [b]King answer us in the day we call.

Psalm 21

For the choir director. A Psalm of David.

1 O LORD, in Your strength the king will [a]be glad,
And in Your [1]salvation how greatly he will rejoice!
2 You have [a]given him his heart's desire,
And You have not withheld the request of his lips. [1]Selah.
3 For You [a]meet him with the blessings of good things;
You set a [b]crown of fine gold on his head.
4 He asked life of You,
You [a]gave it to him,
[b]Length of days forever and ever.
5 His [a]glory is great through Your [1]salvation,
[b]Splendor and majesty You place upon him.
6 For You make him [1]most [a]blessed forever;
You make him joyful [b]with gladness in Your presence.
7 For the king [a]trusts in the LORD,
And through the lovingkindness of the Most High [b]he will not be shaken.
8 Your hand will [a]find out all your enemies;
Your right hand will find out those who hate you.
9 You will make them [a]as a fiery oven in the time [1]of your anger;
The LORD will [b]swallow them up in His wrath,
And [c]fire will devour them.
10 Their [1]offspring You will destroy from the earth,
And their [2a]descendants from among the sons of men.
11 Though they [1a]intended evil against You
And [b]devised a plot,
They will not succeed.
12 For You will [a]make them turn their back;
You will [1]aim [b]with Your bowstrings at their faces.

20:7–8 The army's confession of trust in the Lord rather than in a chariot corps (cf. 33:16–17)—the enemy perhaps came reinforced by such a prized corps. See David's similar confession of confidence when he faced Goliath (1 Sam 17:45–47).
20:9 The army's concluding petition. answer us. See note on v. 1. The psalm ends as it began.
Ps 21 A psalm of praise for victories granted to the king. It is thus linked with Ps 20, but whether both were occasioned by the same events is unknown. Here the people's praise follows that of the king (see v. 1); there (Ps 20) the people's prayer was added to the king's. In its structure, the psalm is framed by vv. 1,13 ("O LORD, in Your strength" is in both verses) and is centered around v. 7, which proclaims the king's trust in the Lord and the security afforded him by God's unfailing love (see Introduction: Literary Features).
21 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title.
21:2–6 The people celebrate the Lord's many favors to the king: all "his heart's desire" (v. 2). Verse 2 announces the theme; vv. 3–5 develop the theme; v. 6 climactically summarizes the theme.
21:2 heart's desire. See note on 4:7.
21:3 meet him. Welcome him back from the battles. set a crown . . . on his head. Exchange the warrior's helmet for the ceremonial emblem of royalty—possibly the captured crown of the defeated king (see 2 Sam 12:30).
21:4 The king's life has been spared—to live for ever and ever (see 1 Kin 1:31; Dan 2:4; 3:9; see also 1 Sam 10:24; 1 Kin 1:25, 34,39).
21:5 glory . . . Splendor and majesty. See 45:3; like that of his heavenly Overlord (see 96:3).
21:6 blessed forever. Either (1) blessings of enduring value or (2) an unending flow of blessings. Your presence. Your favor, which is the supreme cause of joy because it is the greatest blessing and the wellspring of all other blessings.
21:7 The center of the psalm (see note on 6:6). A participant in the liturgy (perhaps a priest or Levite) proclaims the reasons for the king's security. LORD . . . Most High. That is, LORD Most High (see 7:17; see also note on 3:7). lovingkindness. See note on 6:4. Most High. See note on Gen 14:19. shaken. See note on 10:6.
21:8–12 The people hail the future victories of their triumphant king. Verse 8 announces the theme; vv. 9–11 develop the theme; v. 12 summarizes the theme.
21:9 The LORD . . . in His wrath. Credits the king's victories to the Lord's wrath (see note on 2:5).
21:10 The king's royal enemies will be left no descendants to rise against him again.
21:13 Conclusion—and return to the beginning: Lord, assert Your strength, in which "the king will be glad" (v. 1; see also v. 7), and we will ever praise Your might.
Ps 22 The anguished prayer of David as a godly sufferer victimized by the vicious and prolonged attacks of enemies whom he has not provoked and from whom the Lord has not (yet) delivered him. It has many similarities with Ps 69, but contains no calls for redress (see note on 5:10) such as are found in 69:22–28. No other psalm fitted quite so aptly the circumstances of Jesus at His crucifixion. Hence on the cross He took it to His lips (see Matt 27:46 and parallels), and the Gospel writers, especially Matthew and John, frequently alluded to it (as

1 [a]My God, my God, why have You forsaken me?
[1][b]Far from my deliverance are the words of my [2][c]groaning.
2 O my God, I [a]cry by day, but You do not answer; they did to Ps 69) in their accounts of Christ's passion (Matt 27:35,39,43; John 19:23–24,28). They saw in the passion of Jesus the fulfillment of this cry of the righteous sufferer. The author of Hebrews placed the words of v. 22 on Jesus' lips (see Heb 2:12 and note). No psalm is quoted more frequently in the NT.

22 title See notes on Ps 4; 9 titles.

22:1 why . . . ? See note on 6:3; see also Introduction: Theology.

22:1a Quoted by Jesus in Matt 27:46; Mark 15:34.

22:3–5 Recollection of what the Lord has been for Israel (see note on vv. 9–10).

22:3 enthroned. See note on 9:11. praises of Israel. The one Israel praises for His saving acts in her behalf (see 148:14; Deut 10:21; Jer 17:14).

22:6 a worm and not a man. See Job 25:6; Is 41:14.

22:7 separate with the lip . . . wag the head. See Matt 27:39; Mark 15:29; see also note on 5:9.

22:8 Quoted in part in Matt 27:43; see note on 3:2.

22:9–10 Recollection of what the Lord has been for him (see note on vv. 3–5).

22:12–18 The psalmist's deep distress. In vv. 12–13,16–18 he uses four figures to portray the attacks of his enemies; in vv. 14–15 he describes his inner sense of powerlessness under their fierce attacks.

22:12–13,16 bulls . . . lion . . . dogs. Metaphors for the enemies (see note on 7:2).

22:12 Bashan. Noted for its good pasturage, and hence for the size and vigor of its animals (see Deut 32:14, Ezek 39:18 and note; Amos 4:1).

22:14 bones . . . heart. See note on 102:4. heart. See note on 4:7.

22:15 See John 19:28 and note. dust of death. See v. 29; see also Job 7:21 and note.

22:16 pierced my hands and my feet. The dogs and/or evil men wound his limbs as he seeks to ward off their attacks. But see also Is 53:5; Zech 12:10; John 19:34,37.

22:17 I can count all my bones. Perhaps better, "I must display all my bones." The figure may be of one attacked by highway robbers or enemy soldiers, who strip him of his garments (see v. 18; see also note on vv. 20–21).

22:18 See introduction to this psalm; see also John 19:23–24.

22:20–21 The psalmist's prayer recalls in reverse order the four figures by which he portrayed his attackers in vv. 12–13,16–18: "sword," "dog," "lion," "wild oxen." Here "sword" may evoke the scene described in vv. 16b–18, and thus many interpret it as an attack by robbers or enemy soldiers, though "sword" is often used figuratively of any violent death.

22:21 You answer me. The psalmist experiences the assurance of having been heard. The sense is: You have heard my petition and will answer me by delivering me from death at the hands of my enemies (see note on 3:8). wild oxen. Aurochs, wild ancestors of domestic cattle; or possibly oryxes, large straight-horned antelopes.

22 I will [a]tell of Your name to my brethren;
In the midst of the assembly I will praise You.
23 [a]You who fear the LORD, praise Him;
All you [1]descendants of Jacob, [b]glorify Him,
And [c]stand in awe of Him, all you [1]descendants of Israel.
24 For He has [a]not despised nor abhorred the affliction of the afflicted;
Nor has He [b]hidden His face from him;
But [c]when he cried to Him for help, He heard.

25 From You comes [a]my praise in the great assembly;
I shall [b]pay my vows before those who fear Him.
26 The [1]afflicted will eat and [a]be satisfied;
Those who seek Him will [b]praise the LORD.
Let your [c]heart live forever!
27 All the [a]ends of the earth will remember and turn to the LORD,
And all the [b]families of the nations will worship before [1]You.
28 For the [a]kingdom is the LORD's
And He [b]rules over the nations.

Psalm 23

A Psalm of David.

1 The LORD is my [a]shepherd,
I [1]shall [b]not want.
2 He makes me lie down in [a]green pastures;
He [b]leads me beside [1c]quiet waters.
3 He [a]restores my soul;
He [b]guides me in the [1c]paths of righteousness
For His name's sake.

22:22–31 Vows to praise the Lord when the Lord's sure deliverance comes (see note on 7:17). The vows proper appear in vv. 22,25. Verses 23–24 anticipate the calls to praise that will accompany the psalmist's praise (see note on 9:1). Verses 26–31 describe the expanding company of those who will take up the praise—a worldwide company of persons from every station in life and continuing through the generations. No psalm or prophecy contains a grander vision of the scope of the throng of worshipers who will join in the praise of God's saving acts.

22:22 See Heb 2:12 and note. name. See note on 5:11.

22:23 fear the LORD. See v. 25; see also note on 15:4.

22:25 assembly. See note on 1:5.

22:26 will eat and be satisfied. As they share in the ceremonial festival of praise (see Lev 7:11–27).

22:27 All the ends of the earth. They too will be told of God's saving acts (see 18:49 and note on 9:1). The good news that the God of Israel hears the prayers of His people and saves them will move them to turn from their idols to the true God.

22:28 The rule of the God of Israel is universal, and the nations will come to recognize that fact through what He does in behalf of His people (see Ps 47; Gen 12:2–3; see also Deut 32:21; Rom 10:19; 11:13–14).

22:29 All the prosperous . . . All those who go down. The most prosperous and those on the brink of death, and all those whose life situation falls in between these two extremes. dust. See v. 15; see also Job 7:21 and note.

22:31 righteousness. See note on 4:1.

Ps 23 A profession of joyful trust in the Lord as the good Shepherd-King. The psalm may have accompanied a festival of praise at "the house of the LORD" (v. 6) following a deliverance, such as is contemplated in 22:25–31 (see note on 7:17). The psalm can be divided into two balanced stanzas, each having four couplets (a couplet is one line of Hebrew poetry): (1) stanza one: vv. 1–2a,2b–3a,3b-c,4a-c (v. 4a-b is metrically a half-couplet); (2) stanza two: vv. 5a-b,5c-d,6a-b,6c-d. The triplet in the middle (v. 4d-f) is then a centering line (see note on 6:6), focusing on the Shepherd-King's reassuring presence with His people. It serves as a transition between the two stanzas, concluding the shepherd-sheep motif of the first and introducing the direct address ("you") of the second. The psalm is framed by the first and last couplets, each of which refers to "the LORD."

23:1 shepherd. A widely used metaphor for kings in the ancient Near East, and also in Israel (see 78:71–72; 2 Sam 5:2; Is 44:28; Jer 3:15; 23:1–4; Mic 5:4). For the Lord as the shepherd of Israel see 28:9; 79:13; 80:1; 95:7; 100:3; Gen 48:15; Is 40:11; Jer 17:16; 31:10; 50:19; Ezek 34:11–16. Here David the king acknowledges that the Lord is his Shepherd-King. For Jesus as the shepherd of His people see John 10:11,14; Heb 13:20; 1 Pet 5:4; Rev 7:17. not want. On the contrary, he will enjoy "goodness" all his life (v. 6).

23:2 lie down. For flocks lying down in contented and secure rest see Is 14:30; 17:2; Jer 33:12; Ezek 34:14–15; Zeph 2:7; 3:13. green pastures. Metaphor for all that makes life to flourish (see Ezek 34:14; John 10:9). leads me. Like a shepherd (see Is 40:11). quiet waters. Lit. "waters of resting places," i.e., restful waters—waters that provide refreshment and well-being (see Is 49:10).

23:3 restores my soul. Revives me, refreshes my spirit (see 19:7; Ruth 4:15; Prov 25:13; Lam 1:16). guides me in the paths of righteousness. As a shepherd leads his sheep (see 77:20; 78:72) in paths that offer safety and well-being, so David's Shepherd-King guides him in ways that cause him to be secure and prosperous. For this meaning of "righteousness" see Prov 8:18; 21:21; Is 48:18; see also Prov 8:20–21. It is also possible that "paths of righteousness" refers to the paths that conform to God's moral will. for His name's sake. The prosperity of the Lord's servant brings honor to the Lord's name (see 1 Kin 8:41–42; Is 48:9; Jer 14:21; Ezek 20:9,14,22).

I [b]fear no [2]evil, for [c]You are with me;
Your [d]rod and Your staff, they comfort me.
5 You [a]prepare a table before me in the presence of my enemies;
You [1]have [b]anointed my head with oil;
My [c]cup overflows.
6 [1]Surely [a]goodness and lovingkindness will follow me all the days of my life,
And I will [2b]dwell in the house of the LORD [3]forever.

Psalm 24

A Psalm of David.

1 The [a]earth is the LORD's, and [1]all it contains,
The [b]world, and those who dwell in it.
2 For He has [a]founded it upon the seas
And established it upon the rivers.
3 Who may [a]ascend into the [b]hill of the LORD?
And who may stand in His holy [c]place?
4 He who has [a]clean hands and a [b]pure heart,
Who has not [c]lifted up his soul [1]to falsehood
And has not [d]sworn deceitfully.
5 He shall receive a [a]blessing from the LORD
And [1b]righteousness from the God of his salvation.
6 [1]This is the generation of those who [a]seek Him,
Who seek Your face—even Jacob.

23:4 for You . . . comfort me. The very center of the psalm; see introductory note above. with me. See 16:8 and note; see also Deut 31:6,8; Matt 28:20. rod. Instrument of authority (as in 2:9; 45:6; Ex 21:20; 2 Sam 7:14; Job 9:34); used also by shepherds for counting, guiding, rescuing and protecting sheep (see Lev 27:32; Ezek 20:37). staff. Instrument of support (as in Ex 21:19; Judg 6:21; 2 Kin 4:29; Zech 8:4). comfort me. Reassure me (as in 71:21; 86:17; Ruth 2:13; Is 12:1; 40:1; 49:13).

23:5 The heavenly Shepherd-King receives David at His table as his vassal king and takes him under His protection. In the ancient Near East, covenants were often concluded with a meal expressive of the bond of friendship (see 41:9; Gen 31:54; Obad 7); in the case of vassal treaties or covenants, the vassal was present as the guest of the overlord (see Ex 24:8–12). anointed my head with oil. Customary treatment of an honored guest at a banquet (see Luke 7:46; see also 2 Sam 12:20; Eccl 9:8; Dan 10:3). cup. Of the Lord's banquet (see note on 16:5).

23:6 goodness and lovingkindness. Both frequently refer to covenant benefits (see note on 6:4); here they are personified (see 25:21; 43:3; 79:8; 89:14). follow. Lit. "pursue." dwell in the house of the LORD. See note on 15:1. forever. The Hebrew for this word suggests "throughout the years." But see also notes on 11:7; 16:9–11.

Ps 24 A processional liturgy (see Ps 47; 68; 118; 132) celebrating the Lord's entrance into Zion—composed either for the occasion when David brought the ark to Jerusalem (see 2 Sam 6) or for a festival commemorating the event. It was probably placed next to Ps 23 because it prescribes who may enter the sanctuary (see 23:6). The church has long used this psalm in celebration of Christ's ascension into the heavenly Jerusalem—and into the sanctuary on high (see introduction to Ps 47).

24:1–2 The prelude (perhaps spoken by a Levite), proclaiming the Lord as the Creator, Sustainer and Possessor of the whole world, and therefore worthy of worship and reverent loyalty as "the King of glory" (vv. 7–10; see Ps 29; 33:6–11; 89:5–18; 93; 95:3–5; 104).

24:1 The earth . . . all it contains. For Paul's use of this declaration see 1 Cor 10:25–26.

24:2 An echo of Gen 1:1–10. founded . . . established. A metaphor taken from the founding of a city (see Josh 6:26; 1 Kin 16:24; Is 14:32) or of a temple (see 1 Kin 5:17; 6:37; Ezra 3:6–12; Is 44:28; Hag 2:18; Zech 4:9; 8:9). Like a temple, the earth was depicted as having foundations (see 18:15; 82:5; 1 Sam 2:8; Prov 8:29; Is 24:18) and pillars (see 75:3; Job 9:6). In the ancient Near East, temples were thought of as microcosms of the created world, so language applicable to a temple could readily be applied to the earth. upon. Or "above" (see 104:5–9; Gen 1:9; 49:25; Ex 20:4; Deut 33:13).

24:3–6 Instruction concerning those who may enter the sanctuary (probably spoken by a priest); see Ps 15 and introduction.

24:3 hill of the LORD. See 2:6 and note.

24:4 clean hands. Guiltless actions. pure heart. Right attitudes and motives. Jesus said that the "pure in heart . . . shall see God" (Matt 5:8). heart. See note on 4:7. lifted up his soul to. Worshiped or put his trust in (see 25:1–2). soul. See note on 6:3. sworn deceitfully. Thus it includes perjury (for the same concern see Ex 20:16; Lev 19:12; Jer 5:2; 7:9; Zech 5:4; Mal 3:5).

24:5 righteousness. That is, the fruits of vindication, such as righteous treatment from a faithful God; hence, here a synonym of "blessing" (see 23:3 and note).

24:6 generation. See note on 78:8. Jacob. See note on 14:7.

24:7–10 Heralding the approach of the King of glory (perhaps spoken by the king at the head of the assembled Israelites, with responses by the keepers of the gates). The Lord's arrival at His sanctuary in Zion completes His march from Egypt. "The LORD of hosts" (v. 10), "the LORD mighty in battle" (v. 8; see Ex 15:1–18), has triumphed over all His enemies and comes now in victory to His own city (see Ps 46; 48; 76; 87), His "resting place" (132:8,14; see 68:7–8; Judg 5:4–5; Hab 3:3–7). Henceforth Jerusalem is the royal city of the kingdom of God (see note on 9:11).

24:7 Lift up your heads . . . be lifted up. In jubilant reception of the victorious King of glory (see 3:3; 27:6; 110:7). gates. Reference could be to the gates of either the city or the sanctuary. doors. A synonym for "gates," not in this case the doors of the gates (as in Judg 16:3; 1 Sam 21:13). The gates are personified for dramatic effect, as in Is 14:31.

10 Who is this King of glory?
The LORD of [a]hosts,
He is the King of glory. Selah.

Psalm 25

A Psalm of David.

1 To You, O LORD, I [a]lift up my soul.
2 O my God, in You [a]I trust,
Do not let me [b]be ashamed;
Do not let my [c]enemies exult over me.
3 Indeed, [a]none of those who wait for
You will be ashamed;
[1]Those who [b]deal treacherously without cause will be ashamed.

4 [a]Make me know Your ways, O LORD;
Teach me Your paths.
5 Lead me in [a]Your truth and teach me,
For You are the [b]God of my salvation;
For You I [c]wait all the day.
6 [a]Remember, O LORD, Your compassion and Your lovingkindnesses,
For they have been [1b]from of old.
7 Do not remember the [a]sins of my youth or my transgressions;
[b]According to Your lovingkindness remember me,
For Your [c]goodness' sake, O LORD.

8 [a]Good and [b]upright is the LORD;
Therefore He [c]instructs sinners in the way.
9 He [a]leads the [1]humble in justice,
And He [b]teaches the [1]humble His way.

[a]lovingkindness and truth
To [b]those who keep His covenant and

11 For [a]Your name's sake, O LORD,
[b]Pardon my iniquity, for it is great.

12 Who is the man who [a]fears the LORD?
He will [b]instruct him in the way he

And his [2]descendants will [b]inherit the who fear Him,

[2]And He will [b]make them know His covenant.
15 My [a]eyes are continually toward the

For He will [1b]pluck my feet out of the 16 [a]Turn to me and be gracious to me,

For I am [b]lonely and afflicted.
17 [1]The [a]troubles of my heart are

And [b]forgive all my sins.

Ps 25 The psalmist prays for God's covenant mercies when suffering affliction for sins and when enemies seize the occasion to attack, perhaps by trying to discredit the king through false accusations (see note on 5:9). Appealing to God's covenant benevolence (His compassion, lovingkindess, goodness, uprightness, truth and grace; see vv. 6–8,10,16) and to his own reliance on the Lord (see vv. 1,5,15,20–21), he prays for deliverance from his enemies (see vv. 2,19), for guidance in God's will (see vv. 4–5,21; see also vv. 8–10,12), for the forgiveness of his sins (see vv. 7,11,18) and for relief from his affliction (see vv. 2,16–18,20). These are related: God's forgiveness will express itself in removing his affliction, and then his enemies will no longer have occasion to slander him. And with God guiding him in "His way" (v. 9)—i.e., in "His covenant and His testimonies" (v. 10)—he will no longer wander into "transgressions" (v. 7). This psalm is linked with Ps 24 by its reference to "lifting up the soul" in reliance on God (see v. 1; 24:4). Structurally, the psalm is an alphabetic acrostic (somewhat irregular, with an additional, concluding verse that extends the lines beyond the alphabet). It is composed of four unequal stanzas (of three, four, eight and seven verses). The first and fourth stanzas are thematically related, as are the second and third (an a-b/b-a pattern).

25:1–3 Prayer for relief from distress or illness and the slander of his enemies that it occasions.

25:3 without cause. David has given no cause for the hostility of his adversaries.

25:4–7 Prayer for guidance and pardon.

25:4 Your ways . . . Your paths. Metaphors for "His covenant and His testimonies" (v. 10; see Deut 8:6; 10:12–13; 26:17; 30:16; Josh 22:5; see also vv. 8–9; 18:21; 51:13; 81:13; 95:10; 119:3,15; 128:1).

25:5 Your truth. A life of faithfulness to the Lord.

25:6–7 Remember . . . Do not remember. Remember your long-standing ("from of old") "compassion and . . . lovingkindnesses," but do not remember my long-standing sins (those "of my youth"). lovingkindness. See v. 10 and note on 6:4.

25:8–15 Confidence in the Lord's covenant favors. In this context of prayer for pardon, David implicitly identifies himself with sinners (v. 8) as well as with the humble (v. 9)—those who keep God's covenant (see vv. 10,14) and those who fear the Lord (see vv. 12,14). As sinner he is in need of forgiveness; as humble servant of the Lord he hopefully awaits God's pardon and guidance in covenant faithfulness.

25:9 humble. Those who acknowledge that they are without resources.

25:10 paths of the LORD. The Lord's benevolent dealings (see 103:7; 138:5) with those who are true to His ways (see note on v. 4).

25:11 For Your name's sake. See note on 23:3; see also 1 John 2:12. name's. See note on 5:11.

25:12 the way he should choose. Or "the way chosen for him."

25:13 inherit the land. Retain their family portion in the promised land (see 37:9,11,18,22,29,34; 69:36; Is 60:21).

25:14 secret of the LORD. The Lord takes into His confidence as friends those who fear Him (see Gen 18:17–19; Job 29:4). fear. See note on 15:4.

25:16–21 Prayer for relief from distress or illness and the attacks of his enemies.

25:17 heart. See note on 4:7.

19 Look upon my enemies, for they [a]are many,
And they [b]hate me with violent hatred.
20 [a]Guard my soul and deliver me;
Do not let me [b]be ashamed, for I take refuge in You.
21 Let [a]integrity and uprightness preserve me,
For [b]I wait for You.
22 [a]Redeem Israel, O God,
Out of all his troubles.

Psalm 26

A Psalm of David.

1 [1a]Vindicate me, O LORD, for I have [b]walked in my integrity,
And I have [c]trusted in the LORD [2d]without wavering.
2 [a]Examine me, O LORD, and try me;
[b]Test my [1]mind and my heart.
3 For Your [a]lovingkindness is before my eyes,
And I have [b]walked in Your [1]truth.
4 I do not [a]sit with [1]deceitful men,
Nor will I go with [2b]pretenders.
5 I [a]hate the assembly of evildoers,
And I will not sit with the wicked.
6 I shall [a]wash my hands in innocence,
And I will go about [b]Your altar, O LORD,
7 That I may proclaim with the voice of [a]thanksgiving
And declare all Your [1]wonders.

8 O LORD, I [a]love the habitation of Your house
And the place [1]where Your [b]glory dwells.
9 [a]Do not [1]take my soul away along with sinners,
Nor my life with [b]men of bloodshed,
10 In whose hands is a [a]wicked scheme,
And whose right hand is full of [b]bribes.
11 But as for me, I shall [a]walk in my integrity;
[b]Redeem me, and be gracious to me.
12 [a]My foot stands on a [b]level place;
In the [c]congregations I shall bless the LORD.

25:21 integrity and uprightness. Personified virtues (see 23:6 and note). Pardon is not enough; David prays that God will enable him to live a life of unmarred moral rectitude—even as God is "good and upright" (v. 8; see 51:10–12).
25:22 A concluding prayer in behalf of all God's people (see 3:8 and note). Redeem. Here, as often, a synonym for "deliver."
Ps 26 A prayer for God's discerning mercies—to spare His faithful and godly servant from the death that overtakes the wicked and ungodly. The prayer for vindication (see v. 1) suggests that the king is threatened by the "deceitful" (v. 4) and "men of bloodshed" (v. 9) to whom he refers (as in Ps 23; 25; 27–28). This psalm is linked with Ps 27–28 (see also Ps 23–24) by the theme of the Lord's house: Here David's "love" (v. 8) for the temple (or tabernacle) testifies to the authenticity of his piety; in Ps 27 the Lord's temple is David's sanctuary from his enemies; in Ps 28 David directs his cry for help to the Lord's throne room ("Your holy sanctuary," 28:2) in the temple.
26:1–8 An appeal for God to take account of David's moral integrity, his unwavering trust and his genuine delight in the Lord—not a boast of self-righteousness, such as that of the Pharisee (Luke 18:9–14).
26:1 walked in my integrity. See v. 11 and note; a claim of moral integrity (see vv. 2–5), not sinless perfection (see 7:8; 41:12; 101:2; and especially 1 Kin 9:4). trusted. Obedience and trust are the two sides of godliness, as the Abraham story exemplifies (see Gen 12:4 and note; 22:12; see also Ps 34:8–14 and note).
26:2 mind . . . heart. See note on 7:9.
26:3 Your lovingkindness . . . Your truth. That is, your lovingkindness-and-truth (see 40:10). David keeps his eye steadfastly on the Lord's lovingkindness (see note on 6:4) and truth (faithfulness; see 25:10), which are pledged to those "who keep His covenant and His testimonies" (25:10). have walked. In order to receive the covenant benefits.
26:4–5 sit with. David refuses to settle in or associate himself with that company he describes as "deceitful men," "pretenders," "evildoers," "the wicked" (see 1:1 and note; see also Ps 101).
26:4 pretenders. Context may suggest those who deal fraudulently—or people like those described in Prov 6:12–14.
26:6 wash my hands in innocence. Reference appears to be to a ritual claiming innocence. "Clean hands and a pure heart" are requisite for those who come to God (see 24:4 and note). go about Your altar. To vocally celebrate God's saving acts beside His altar was a public act of devotion in which one also invited all the assembled worshipers to praise (see 43:4).
26:7 proclaim with . . . thanksgiving . . . declare . . . Your wonders. See note on 9:1.
26:8 where Your glory dwells. The presence of God's glory signaled the presence of God Himself (see Ex 24:16; 33:22). His glory dwelling in the tabernacle (see Ex 40:35), and later the temple (see 1 Kin 8:11), assured Israel of the Lord's holy, yet gracious, presence among them. John 1:14 announces that same presence in the Word who became flesh and who "dwelt among us."
26:9–11 An appeal that God will not bring on David the end (death) that awaits the wicked.
26:9 soul. See note on 6:3.
26:11 walk in my integrity. A return to the appeal with which David began (see v. 1). Redeem. See note on 25:22.
26:12 A concluding confession of confidence (see note on 3:8) and a vow to praise (see note on 7:17). level place. Where the going is smooth and free from the danger of falling (see 143:10; Is 40:4; 42:16). congregations. See note on 1:5. bless. That is, "praise" (see note on 9:1).
Ps 27 David's triumphantly confident prayer to God to deliver him from all those who conspire to bring him down. The prayer presupposes the Lord's covenant with David (see 2 Sam 7). Faith's soliloquy (in two stanzas: vv. 1–3, 4–6), which publicly testifies to the king's confident reliance on the Lord, introduces the prayer of vv. 7–12. The conclusion (vv. 13–14) echoes the confidence of vv. 1–6 and adds faith's dialogue with itself—faith exhorting faith to wait patiently for that which is sure,

Whom shall I fear?
The LORD is the [1][c]defense of my life;
[d]Whom shall I dread?
2 When evildoers came upon me to
[a]devour my flesh,
My adversaries and my enemies, they
[b]stumbled and fell.
3 Though a [a]host encamp against me,
My heart will not fear;
Though war arise against me,
In spite of this I [1]shall be [b]confident.

4 [a]One thing I have asked from the LORD, that I shall seek:
That I may [b]dwell in the house of the LORD all the days of my life,
To behold [c]the [1]beauty of the LORD
And to [2d]meditate in His temple.
5 For in the [a]day of trouble He will
[b]conceal me in His [1]tabernacle;
In the secret place of His tent He will [c]hide me;
He will [d]lift me up on a rock.
6 And now [a]my head will be lifted up above my enemies around me,
And I will offer in His tent [b]sacrifices
[1]with shouts of joy;
I will [c]sing, yes, I will sing praises to
the LORD.

7 [a]Hear, O LORD, when I cry with my voice,
And be gracious to me and [b]answer
me.
8 When You said, "[a]Seek My face," my heart said to You,
"Your face, O LORD, [b]I shall seek."
9 [a]Do not hide Your face from me,
Do not turn Your servant away in [b]anger;
You have been [c]my help;
[d]Do not abandon me nor [e]forsake
me,
O God of my salvation!
10 [1]For my father and [a]my mother have forsaken me,
But [b]the LORD will take me up.

11 [a]Teach me Your way, O LORD,
And lead me in a [b]level path
Because of [1]my foes.
12 Do not deliver me over to the [1][a]desire of my adversaries,
For [b]false witnesses have risen against
me,
And such as [c]breathe out violence.

For if You [b]are silent to me, though not yet seen (see Ps 42–43; Heb 11:1). See further the introduction to Ps 26.

27:1–3 The king's security in the Lord in the face of all that his enemies can do (see Ps 2).

27:1 light. Often symbolizes well-being (see 97:11; Job 18:5–6; 22:28; 29:3; Prov 13:9; Lam 3:2) or life and salvation (see 18:28; Is 9:2; 49:6; 58:8; 59:9; Jer 13:16; Amos 5:18–20). To say "The LORD is my light" is to confess confidence in Him as the source of these benefits (see Is 10:17; 60:1–2,19–20; Mic 7:8–9). my salvation. My Savior (see v. 9).

27:2 devour my flesh. See 7:2 and note.

27:3 heart. See note on 4:7.

27:4–6 The Lord's temple (or tabernacle) is the king's stronghold—because the Lord Himself is his stronghold (see v. 1; see notes on 9:11; 18:2).

27:4 dwell in. See note on 15:1. beauty of the LORD. His unfailing benevolence (see 90:17: "favor of the Lord").

27:5 secret place of His tent. See 31:20; 32:7; 61:4; 91:1.

27:6 will offer . . . sacrifices. See note on 7:17. I will sing. See note on 9:1.

27:7–12 Prayer for deliverance from treacherous enemies. These remain unspecified, whether from inside or outside the kingdom or both. Their chief weapon is false charges intent on discrediting the king (see note on 5:9).

27:9 hide Your face. See note on 13:1. anger. See note on 2:5. You have been my help. Or "Be my helper."

27:10 the LORD will take me up. Or "may the LORD receive me."

27:11 Teach me Your way. Only those who know and do the Lord's will can expect to receive favorable response to their prayers (see Ps 24–26; see also 2 Sam 7:14). lead me in a level path. See 5:8 and note.

27:13–14 Concluding note of confidence (see note on 3:8).

27:13 goodness of the LORD. The "good" things promised in the Lord's covenant with David (see 2 Sam 7:28; see also 31:19 and note). land of the living. This life.

27:14 Wait for the LORD. Faith encouraging faith (see 42:5,11; 43:5; 62:5).

Ps 28 A prayer for deliverance from deadly peril at the hands of malicious and God-defying enemies. As with Ps 25, the prayer ends with intercession for all the people of the Lord (see 3:8 and note). Reference in the last verse to the Lord as the shepherd of His people connects this psalm with Ps 23 and probably marks off Ps 23–28 as a collection linked by many common themes. See introductions to Ps 26; 29.

28:1–2 Initial appeal to be heard.

28:1 rock. See note on 18:2. are silent. Do not act in my behalf. pit. Metaphor for the grave (see note on 30:1).

28:2 lift up my hands. In worship and prayer (see 63:4; 134:2; 141:2). Your holy sanctuary. The inner sanctuary of the temple (see 1 Kin 6:5), where the ark of the covenant stood (see

28:3–5 Prayer for the Lord, enthroned in the temple, to deliver His servant and deal in judgment with those who harbor malice toward the king and God's people and defy God Himself.

28:3 evil is in their hearts. See note on 5:9. hearts. See note on 4:7.

28:4 Requite them. See note on 5:10; see also Matt 16:27; 2 Tim 4:14; Rev 20:12–13; 22:12.

28:5 works of the LORD. His redemption of Israel, the establishment of Israel as His kingdom (by covenant, Ex 19–24), and the appointment of the house of David (also by covenant, 2 Sam 7) as His earthly regent over His people. deeds of His hands. By "the deeds of their hands" (v. 4), "the wicked" (v. 3) show that they do not acknowledge Israel and David's regency as the work of God's hands. He will tear. Or "May He tear."

28:6–7 Joyful praise, in confidence of being heard (see note on 3:8).

28:7 shield. See note on 3:3. heart. See note on 4:7. I shall thank. See note on 7:17.

28:8–9 The Lord and His people (see note on 3:8).

28:8 their . . . His anointed. See NASB marg.; these constitute a unity (see note on 2:2).

28:9 Save . . . bless. God's two primary acts by which He effects His people's well-being: He saves from time to time as circumstances require; He blesses day by day to make their lives and labors fruitful. Your inheritance. See Deut 9:29. shepherd. See introduction; see also 80:1; Is 40:11; Jer 31:10; Ezek 34; Mic 5:4. The answer to this prayer—the last, full answer—has come in the ministry of the "good shepherd" (John 10:11,14).

Ps 29 A hymn in praise of the King of creation, whose majesty and power are trumpeted by the thunderbolts of the rainstorm—as the storm rose above the Mediterranean ("thunders . . . over many waters," v. 3), swept across the Lebanon range (see vv. 5–6) and rolled over the wilds of Kadesh (northern Kadesh, on the upper reaches of the Orontes River, v. 8). The glory of the Lord is not only visible in the creation (19:1–6; 104 and often elsewhere); it is also audible in creation's most awesome voice. This hymn to Yahweh ("the LORD") served also as a testimony and protest against the worship of the Canaanite god Baal, who was thought to be the divine power present in the thunderstorm. Its climactic word (that "in His temple everything says, 'Glory!' ") suggests that in its present location it was intended to serve as a conclusion to the small collection, Ps 23–28 (see introductions to Ps 26; 28). In its structure, a two-verse introduction and a two-verse conclusion enclose a seven-verse stanza. In both the introduction and the conclusion the name Yahweh ("the LORD") is sounded four times; in the body of the psalm it is heard ten times. "The voice of the LORD" is repeated seven times—the seven thunders of God. (The numbers four, seven and ten often signified completeness in OT number symbolism.)

29:1–2 A summons to all beings in the divine realm (see note on v. 1) to worship the Lord—adapted from a conventional call to praise in the liturgy of the temple (see 96:7–9; 1 Chr 16:28–29).

29:1 sons of the mighty. Lit. "sons of god(s)." Perhaps reference is to the angelic host (see 103:20; 148:2; Job 1:6 and note; 2:1; Is 6:2), or possibly to all those foolishly thought to be gods—as in Ps 97 (see v. 7), which has several thematic links with this psalm. The Lord alone must be acknowledged as the divine King.

29:2 name. See note on 5:11. in holy array. Lit. "in the splendor of holiness." It is uncertain whether the phrase describes God Himself or the sanctuary or the (priestly) garb the worshipers are to wear when they approach God. The use of an almost identical Hebrew phrase in 110:3 (translated "in holy array") may give support for the last alternative; see NASB marg.

29:3–9 Praise of the Lord, whose voice the crashing thunder is (see 68:4,33). The sound and fury of creation's awesome displays of power proclaim the glory of Israel's God.

29:5 cedars of Lebanon. The mightiest of trees (see Is 2:13 and note).

6 He makes Lebanon [a]skip like a calf,
And [b]Sirion like a young wild ox.
7 The voice of the LORD hews out
[1]flames of fire.
8 The voice of the LORD [1]shakes the wilderness;
The LORD shakes the wilderness of [a]Kadesh.
9 The voice of the LORD makes [a]the deer to calve
And strips the forests bare;
And [b]in His temple everything says, "Glory!"

10 The LORD sat as King at the [a]flood;
Yes, the LORD sits as [b]King forever.
11 [1]The LORD will give [a]strength to His people;
[2]The LORD will bless His people with [b]peace.

Psalm 30

A Psalm; a Song at the Dedication of the House. A Psalm of David.

1 I will [a]extol You, O LORD, for You have [b]lifted me up,
And have not let my [c]enemies rejoice over me.
2 O LORD my God,
I [a]cried to You for help, and You [b]healed me.
3 O LORD, You have [a]brought up my soul from [1]Sheol;
You have kept me alive, [2]that I would not [b]go down to the pit.
4 [a]Sing praise to the LORD, you [b]His godly ones,
And [c]give thanks to His holy [1][d]name.
5 For [a]His anger is but for a moment,
His [b]favor is for a lifetime;
Weeping may [c]last for the night,
But a shout of joy comes in the morning.

6 Now as for me, I said in my prosperity,
"I will [a]never be moved."
7 O LORD, by Your favor You have made my mountain to stand strong;
You [a]hid Your face, I was dismayed.
8 To You, O LORD, I called,
And to the Lord I made supplication:

29:6 skip. See 114:4 and note.
29:9 temple. A primary thematic link with Ps 23–28. Reference may be to the temple in Jerusalem or to God's heavenly temple, where He sits enthroned (see 2:4; 11:4; 113:5; Is 6:1; 40:22) as the Lord of all creation. But perhaps it is the creation itself that here is named God's temple (see note on 24:2). Then the "everything" (that which cries "Glory!") is absolutely all—all creation shouts His praise (cf. 150:6). Glory! See note on 26:8.
29:10–11 The Lord's absolute and everlasting rule is committed to His people's complete salvation and unmixed blessedness—the crowning comfort in a world where threatening tides seem to make everything uncertain.
29:10 at the flood. As the One who by His word brought the ordered creation out of the formless "deep" (Gen 1:2,6–10); or the reference may be to the Noahic flood (see Gen 6:17).
Ps 30 A song of praise publicly celebrating the Lord's deliverance from the threat of death, probably brought on by illness ("You healed me," v. 2; see note on 7:17). The psalm is framed by commitments to praise (see vv. 1,12).
30 title A Song. See titles of Ps 18; 45–46; 48; 65–68; 75–76; 83; 87–88; 92; 108—all psalms of praise except 83; 88. In addition there are the songs "of Ascents" (Ps 120–134). at the Dedication of the House. A Psalm of David. If "of David" indicates authorship, the most probable occasion for the psalm is recorded in 1 Chr 21:1–22:6. In 1 Chr 22:1–6 David dedicated both property and building materials for the temple, and he may well have intended that Ps 30 be used at the dedication of the temple itself. If this is the case, vv. 2–3 would refer to David's predicament in 1 Chr 21:17–30. The "favor" of v. 5 would be an echo of the "mercies" of 1 Chr 21:13, and v. 6 would refer to his sin of misplaced trust in a large, superior army (see 1 Chr 21:1–8). Later, the psalm came to be applied to the exile experience of Israel. In Jewish liturgical practice dating from Talmudic times it is chanted at Hanukkah, the feast that celebrates the rededication of the temple by Judas Maccabeus (165 B.C.) after its desecration by Antiochus Epiphanes (168). In such communal use, the "I" of the psalm becomes the corporate "person" of Israel—a common mode of speaking in the OT.
30:1–3 Introductory announcement of the occasion for praise.
30:1 lifted me up. The vivid imagery that associates distress with the need to be "lifted" out of trouble—so expressive of universal human experience—is common in OT poetry (see 69:2,15; 71:20; 88:6; 130:1; Lam 3:55; Jon 2:2). The depths are often linked, as here, with Sheol and "the pit" (v. 3), together with a cluster of related associations: silence (see 31:17; 94:17; 115:17; 1 Sam 2:9), darkness (see 88:6,12; 143:3; Job 10:21–22; 17:13; Eccl 6:4; Lam 3:6), death and destruction (see v. 9; 18:4; 55:23, 88:11; Is 38:17; Hos 13:14), dust (see v. 9; 7:5; 22:15,29; Job 17:16; 40:13; Is 26:19; 29:4), mire (see 40:2; 69:2,14; 40:2) and mud (see 40:2; Job 30:19). See also note on 49:14. my enemies rejoice over me. See introduction to Ps 6.
30:3 Sheol. Figurative of a "brink-of-death" experience, as in 18:5; Jon 2:2. pit. See note on 28:1.
30:4–5 Call to the gathered worshipers to take up the praise of God (see note on 9:1).
30:4 godly ones. See note on 4:3. name. Lit. "memorial" (see Is 26:8; Hos 12:5).
30:5 anger. See note on 2:5. but for a moment. See Is 54:7. last for the night. Lit. "come in at evening to lodge." The figure is that of a guest lodging for only one night.
30:6–10 Expanded recollection of the Lord's gracious deliverance.
30:6–7 In his security he had grown arrogant, forgetful of who had made his "mountain to stand strong," but the Lord reminded him.
30:6 never be moved. He spoke as do the wicked (see 10:6), hence lost the blessing of the righteous (see 15:5). moved. See note on 10:6.
30:7 made my mountain to stand strong. Reference may be to David's security in his mountain fortress, Zion; or that mountain fortress may here serve as a metaphor for David's state as a vigorous and victorious king, the "mountain" on which he sat with such secure confidence in God. hid Your face. See note on 13:1.
30:8–10 Shattered strength swept away all self-reliance; at the brink of death his cries for God's mercy rose.

9 "What profit is there in my blood, if I
[a]go down to the pit?
Will the [b]dust praise You? Will it declare Your faithfulness?

10 "[a]Hear, O LORD, and be gracious to me;
O LORD, be my [b]helper."
11 You have turned for me [a]my mourning into dancing;
You have [b]loosed my sackcloth and girded me with [c]gladness,
12 That my [1a]soul may sing praise to You and not be silent.
O LORD my God, I will [b]give thanks to
You forever.

Psalm 31

For the choir director. A Psalm of David.

1 [a]In You, O LORD, I have taken refuge;
Let me never [b]be ashamed;
[c]In Your righteousness deliver me.
2 [a]Incline Your ear to me, rescue me quickly;
Be to me a [b]rock of [1]strength,
A stronghold to save me.
3 For You are my [1]rock and [a]my fortress;
For [b]Your name's sake You will lead me and guide me.
4 You will [a]pull me out of the net which they have secretly laid for me,
For You are my [b]strength.
5 [a]Into Your hand I commit my spirit;
You have [b]ransomed me, O LORD,
[c]God of [1]truth.

6 I hate those who [a]regard [1]vain idols,
But I [b]trust in the LORD.
7 I will [a]rejoice and be glad in Your
lovingkindness,
Because You have [b]seen my affliction;
You have known the troubles of my
soul,
8 And You have not [a]given me over into the hand of the enemy;
You have set my feet in a large place.

9 Be gracious to me, O LORD, for [a]I am in distress;
My [b]eye is wasted away from grief,
[c]my soul and my body also.
10 For my life is spent with [a]sorrow
And my years with sighing;
My [b]strength has failed because of my iniquity,
And [c]my [1]body has wasted away.
11 Because of all my adversaries, I have become a [a]reproach,
Especially to my [b]neighbors,
And an object of dread to my acquaintances;
Those who see me in the street flee
from me.
12 I am [a]forgotten as a dead man, out of mind;
I am like a broken vessel.
13 For I have heard the [1a]slander of many,
[b]Terror is on every side;
While they [c]took counsel together
against me,
They [d]schemed to take away my life.

14 But as for me, I trust in You, O LORD,
I say, "[a]You are my God."

30:9 See note on 6:5. Your faithfulness. To your covenant.
30:11–12 God answered—and David vows to prolong his praise forever (see note on 7:17). Dancing and joy replace wailing and sackcloth so that songs of praise, not silence, may attend the acts of God.
30:11 sackcloth. A symbol of mourning (see 35:13; Gen 37:34).
30:12 soul. Lit. "glory" (see note on 7:5).
Ps 31 A prayer for deliverance when confronted by a conspiracy so powerful and open that all David's friends abandoned him. According to Luke 23:46, Jesus on the cross applied Ps 31:5 to His own circumstances; thus those who share in His sufferings at the hands of anti-Christian forces are encouraged to hear and use this psalm in a new light (see Acts 7:59; 1 Pet 4:19). No psalm expresses a more sturdy trust in the Lord when powerful human forces threaten. The heart of the prayer itself is found in vv. 9–18, which is both preceded and followed by eight Hebrew poetic lines—stanzas that resound with the theme of trust (see v. 14). Verse 13, at the center of the psalm, expresses most clearly the prayer's occasion.
31 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title.
31:1–5 Initial appeal to the Lord, the faithful refuge.
31:1 righteousness. See note on 4:1.
31:2 rock. See note on 18:2.
31:3 for Your name's sake. God's honor is at stake in the safety of His servant now under attack (see note on 23:3). name's. See note on 5:11. lead me and guide me. As a shepherd (see 23:2–3 and notes).
31:4 net . . . secretly laid for me. By his enemies (see v. 11).
31:5 Into Your hand I commit my spirit. The climactic expression of trust in the Lord—quoted by Jesus in Luke 23:46. commit. Lit. "deposit" (as in Jer 36:20), here in the very hands of God, thus entrusting to God's care (see Lev 6:4; 1 Kin 14:27). my spirit. His very life. ransomed. See note on 25:22 ("Redeem"). God of truth. The faithful, trustworthy God (see note on 30:9).
31:6–8 Confession of loyal trust in the Lord, whose past mercies to David when enemies threatened are joyfully recalled.
31:6 hate. Refuse to be associated with.
31:7 lovingkindness. See vv. 16,21; see also note on 6:4. soul. See note on 6:3.
31:8 large place. See note on 18:19.
31:9–13 The distress described: He is utterly drained physically and emotionally (see vv. 9–10; see also 22:14–15); all his friends have abandoned him like a piece of broken pottery (see vv. 11–12); and all this because the conspiracy against him is so strong (v. 13).
31:9 eye is wasted. See note on 13:3. soul. See note on 6:3.
31:10 body. See note on 6:2.
31:11–12 Abandonment by friends was a common experience at a time when God seemed to have withdrawn His favor (see 38:11; 41:9; 69:8; 88:8,18; Job 19:13–19; Jer 12:6; 15:17).
31:13 slander. See note on 5:9. Terror is on every side. See notes on Jer 6:25; 20:3.
31:14–18 His trust in the Lord is unwavering; his defense

15 My [a]times are in Your hand;
[b]Deliver me from the hand of my enemies and from those who persecute me.
16 Make Your [a]face to shine upon Your servant;
[b]Save me in Your lovingkindness.
17 Let me not be [a]put to shame, O LORD, for I call upon You;
Let the [b]wicked be put to shame, let them [c]be silent in [1]Sheol.
18 Let the [a]lying lips be mute,
Which [b]speak arrogantly against the righteous
With pride and contempt.

19 How great is Your [a]goodness,
Which You have stored up for those who fear You,
Which You have wrought for those who [b]take refuge in You,
[c]Before the sons of men!
20 You hide them in the [a]secret place of Your presence from the [b]conspiracies of man;
You keep them secretly in a [1]shelter from the [c]strife of tongues.
21 [a]Blessed be the LORD,
For He has made [b]marvelous His lovingkindness to me in a besieged [c]city.
22 As for me, [a]I said in my alarm,
"I am [b]cut off from before Your eyes";
Nevertheless You [c]heard the voice of my supplications
When I cried to You.

23 O love the LORD, all you [a]His godly ones!
The LORD [b]preserves the faithful
And fully [c]recompenses the proud doer.

Psalm 32

A Psalm of David. A [†]Maskil.

1 [a]How blessed is he whose transgression is forgiven,
Whose sin is covered!
2 How blessed is the man to whom the LORD [a]does not impute iniquity,
And in whose spirit there is [b]no deceit!

3 When [a]I kept silent about my sin, [b]my [1]body wasted away
Through my [2c]groaning all day long.
4 For day and night [a]Your hand was heavy upon me;

against his powerful enemies is his reliance on God's faithfulness and discerning judgment.

31:14 Cf. v. 22.

31:15 My times are in Your hand. All the events and circumstances of life are in the hands of the Lord, "my God" (v. 14).

31:16 face to shine. See note on 13:1.

31:17–18 Let the wicked . . . be mute. See note on 5:10.

31:18 lying lips. See note on 5:9. righteous. See note on 1:5.

31:19–20 Confident anticipation of God's saving help (see note on 3:8).

31:19 stored up. David deposits his life in the hands of God to share in the covenant benefits that God has stored up for His faithful servants ("goodness"; see Ex 18:9; Num 10:29,32; Deut 26:11; Josh 21:45; 23:14–15; 2 Chr 6:41; Neh 9:25,35; Is 63:7; Jer 33:9; see also Jer 31:12,14, "bounty"). fear. See note on 15:4. wrought . . . Before the sons of men! Thus showing the Lord's approval of and His standing with His faithful servants in contrast to the accusations of their adversaries (see 86:17).

31:20 secret place of Your presence. See note on 27:5. strife of tongues. See "slander" (v. 13) and "lying lips" (v. 18).

31:21–22 Praise anticipating deliverance (see note on 12:5–6).

31:21 besieged city. Metaphor for the threat he had experienced.

31:22 cut off from before Your eyes. See note on 13:1.

31:23–24 Praise culminates by encouraging the saints (see 62:8).

31:23 godly ones. See note on 4:3. the faithful. Those who maintain moral integrity. the proud. Those who refuse to live in humble reliance on the Lord. They arrogantly try to make their way in the world either as a law to themselves (see, e.g., v. 18; 10:2–11; 73:6; 94:2–7; Deut 8:14; Is 2:17; Ezek 28:2,5; Hos 13:6) or by relying on false gods (see Jer 13:9–10). Hence "the proud" is often equivalent to "the wicked."

Ps 32 A grateful testimony of joy for God's gift of forgiveness toward those who with integrity confess their sins and are receptive to God's rule in their lives. The psalm appears to be a liturgical dialogue between David and God in the presence of the worshipers at the sanctuary. In vv. 1–2 and again in v. 11 David speaks to the assembly; in vv. 3–7 he speaks to God (in their hearing); in vv. 8–10 he is addressed by one of the Lord's priests (but see note on vv. 8–10). In traditional Christian usage the psalm has been numbered among the penitential psalms (see introduction to Ps 6).

32 title Maskil. Occurs also in the titles of Ps 42; 44–45; 52–55; 74; 78; 88–89; 142. The Hebrew word perhaps indicates that these psalms contain instruction in godliness (see 41:1, "he who considers"; 14:2; 53:2, "anyone who understands"; but see also 47:7, which uses Maskil to refer to a "skillful psalm").

32:1–2 Exuberant proclamation of the happy state of those who experience God's forgiveness. blessed . . . blessed. See note on 1:1. Repetition underscores. is forgiven . . . is covered . . . does not impute. Repetition with variation emphasizes and illumines. For Paul's use of these verses see Rom 4:6–8.

32:2 in whose spirit there is no deceit. Only those honest with God receive pardon.

32:3–5 Testimony to a personal experience of God's pardon. God's heavy hand, brought down "day and night" on the stubborn silence of unacknowledged sin, filled life with groaning, but full confession brought blessed relief. Neither the sin nor the form of suffering is identified, other than that the latter was physically and psychologically devastating. But it would be uncharacteristic of the Psalms to speak of mere emotional disturbance brought on by suppressed guilt. Some affliction, perhaps illness, was the instrument of God's chastisement (see Ps 38).

My [1][b]vitality was drained away as with the fever heat of summer.
[2]Selah.
5 I [a]acknowledged my sin to You,
And my iniquity I [b]did not hide;
I said, "[c]I will confess my transgressions to the LORD";
And You [d]forgave the [1]guilt of my sin.
Selah.
6 Therefore, let everyone who is godly pray to You [1][a]in a time when You may be found;
Surely [b]in a flood of great waters they will not reach him.
7 You are [a]my hiding place; You
[b]preserve me from trouble;
You surround me with [1][c]songs of deliverance. Selah.

8 I will [a]instruct you and teach you in the way which you should go;
I will counsel you [b]with My eye upon
you.
9 Do not be [a]as the horse or as the mule which have no understanding,
Whose trappings include bit and bridle to hold them in check,
Otherwise they will not come near to
you.
10 Many are the [a]sorrows of the wicked,
But [b]he who trusts in the LORD,
lovingkindness shall surround him.
11 Be [a]glad in the LORD and rejoice, you righteous ones;
And shout for joy, all you who are [b]upright in heart.

3 [a]Ps 40:3; 96:1; 98:1; 144:9; Is 42:10; Rev 5:9 [b]Ps 98:4

32:4 vitality was drained. Under God's heavy hand he wilted like a plant in the heat of summer.
32:5 Again repetition is used (see note on vv. 1–2). sin . . . iniquity . . . transgressions. See 51:1–2; the three most common OT words for evil thoughts and actions (see Is 59:12 and note). confess. See Ps 51; 2 Sam 12:13.
32:6–7 A chastened confession that life is secure only with God.
32:6 Though addressed to God as confession, it is also intended for the ears of the fellow worshipers. He admonishes them to "seek the LORD while He may be found . . . while He is near" (Is 55:6) and not to foolishly provoke His withdrawal—and the coming near of His heavy hand—as David had done. A God who forgives is a God to whom one can entrust and devote his life (see 130:4). godly. See note on 4:3. flood of great waters. Powerful imagery for threatening forces or circumstances. This and related imagery was borrowed from ancient Near Eastern creation myths. In many of these a primal mass of chaotic waters (their threatening and destructive forces were often depicted as a many-headed monster of the deep; see 74:13–14 and note) had to be subdued by the creator-god before he could fashion the world and/or rule as the divine king over the earth. Though in these myths the chaotic waters were subdued when the present world was created, they remained a constant threat to the security and well-being of the present order in the earth (the world in which man lives). Hence by association they were linked with anything that in human experience endangered or troubled that order. They were also associated with the sea, whose angry waves seemed determined at times to engulf the land. Since in Canaanite mythology Sea and Death were the two great enemies of Baal ("lord" of earth), imagery drawn from both realms was used by OT poets, sometimes side by side, to depict threats and distress (see 18:4–5,16; 42:7; 65:7; 74:12–14; 77:16,19; 89:9–10; 93:3–4; 124:4–5; 144:7–8; Job 7:12; 26:12; 38:8–11; Is 5:30; 8:7–8; 17:12–14; 51:9–10; Jer 5:22; 47:2; 51:55; Hab 3:8–10; see also note on Song 8:7). For imagery associated with the realm of death see notes on 30:1; 49:14.
32:7 surround me with songs of deliverance. Because of Your help, I will be surrounded by people celebrating Your acts of deliverance, as I bring my thank offerings to You (see notes on 7:17; 9:1; see also 35:27; 51:8).
32:8–10 A priestly word of godly instruction, either to David (do not be foolish toward God again) or to those who have just been exhorted to trust in the Lord (to trust add obedience). Some believe that the psalmist himself here turns to others to warn them against the ways into which he had fallen (see 51:13).
32:9 God's servant must be wiser than beasts, more open to God's will than horses and mules are to the will of their masters (see Is 1:3).
32:10 lovingkindness. See note on 6:4.
32:11 A final word to the assembled worshipers—let the praise of God resound (see note on 9:1). See also note on 1:5. heart. See note on 4:7.
Ps 33 A liturgy in praise of the Lord, the sovereign God of Israel. In the Psalms, calls to praise (as in vv. 1–3) and motivations for praise (as in vv. 4–19) belong to the language of praise (see note on 9:1). Most likely the voices of the Levitical choir (see 1 Chr 16:7–36; 25:1) are heard in this psalm. Perhaps the choir leader spoke vv. 1–3, the choir vv. 4–19, and the people responded with the words of vv. 20–22. The original occasion is unknown, but reference to a "new song" (see note on v. 3) suggests a national deliverance, such as Judah experienced in the time of Jehoshaphat (see 2 Chr 20) or Hezekiah (see 2 Kin 19); see vv. 10–11,16–17. Along with Ps 1–2; 10 (but see introduction to Ps 9), this is one of the only four psalms in Book I without a superscription. Although structurally not an alphabetic acrostic like the psalm that follows it, the length of the psalm (22 verses) has been determined by the length of the Hebrew alphabet (22 letters); see Ps 38; 103; Lam 5. The body of the psalm is framed by a three-verse introduction (call to praise) and a three-verse conclusion (response to praise). In vv. 4–19 are heard the praise of the Lord, developed in two parts of eight verses each (vv. 4–11, 12–19).
33:1–3 The call to praise. Cf. Eph 5:19.
33:1 righteous. The assembly of worshipers (see note on 1:5).
33:3 new song. Celebrating God's saving act, as in 40:3; 96:1; 98:1; 144:9; 149:1; see Is 42:10; Rev 5:9; 14:3; see also note on 7:17.

4 For the word of the LORD [a]is upright,
And all His work is done [b]in faithfulness.
5 He [a]loves righteousness and justice;
The [b]earth is full of the lovingkindness of the LORD.

6 By the [a]word of the LORD the heavens were made,
And [b]by the breath of His mouth [c]all their host.
7 He gathers the [a]waters of the sea together [1]as a heap;
He lays up the deeps in storehouses.
8 Let [a]all the earth fear the LORD;
Let all the inhabitants of the world [b]stand in awe of Him.
9 For [a]He spoke, and it was done;
He commanded, and it [1]stood fast.
10 The LORD [a]nullifies the counsel of the nations;
He frustrates the plans of the peoples.
11 The [a]counsel of the LORD stands forever,
The [b]plans of His heart from generation to generation.
12 Blessed is the [a]nation whose God is the LORD,
The people whom He has [b]chosen for His own inheritance.

13 The LORD [a]looks from heaven;
He [b]sees all the sons of men;
14 From [a]His dwelling place He looks out
On all the inhabitants of the earth,
15 He who [a]fashions [1]the hearts of them all,
He who [b]understands all their works.
16 [a]The king is not saved by a mighty army;
A warrior is not delivered by great strength.
17 A [a]horse is a false hope for victory;
Nor does it deliver anyone by its great strength.

18 Behold, [a]the eye of the LORD is on those who fear Him,
On those who [1b]hope for His lovingkindness,
19 To [a]deliver their soul from death
And to keep them alive [b]in famine.
20 Our soul [a]waits for the LORD;
He is our [b]help and our shield.
21 For our [a]heart rejoices in Him,
Because we trust in His holy name.
22 Let Your lovingkindness, O LORD, be upon us,
According as we have [1]hoped in You.

Psalm 34

A Psalm of David when he [†]feigned madness before [*]Abimelech, who drove him away and he departed.

1 I will [a]bless the LORD at all times;
His [b]praise shall continually be in my mouth.

[b]Ps 115:9 21 [a]Ps 13:5; 28:7; Zech 10:7; John 16:22 22 [1]Or waited for 34:1 [†]Or changed his behavior [*]Possibly a title of King Achish of Gath, see 1 Sam 21:10-15 [a]Eph 5:20; 1 Thess 5:18 [b]Ps 71:6

33:4–19 The praise, in two eight-verse parts.
33:4–11 Because the Lord is the Creator, who by His power imposed His order on the creation (see Gen 1), no power or combination of powers can thwart His plan and purpose to save His people. (Hence His chosen people are the blessed nation; see vv. 12–19.)
33:4 word. God's royal word by which He governs all things (see 107:20; 147:15,18). upright. Not chaotic, devious or erratic. Under the Lord's rule in the creation there is goodness, order and dependability.
33:5 loves. Delights in doing. righteousness and justice. See note on 5:8. lovingkindness of the LORD. Here, His goodness to all His creatures (see 36:5–9; 104:27–28; see also note on 6:4).
33:6 word. God's creating word (see v. 9; 104:7; 119:89; Gen 1; Job 38:8–11; Heb 11:3).
33:7 as a heap . . . storehouses. Like a householder storing up his olive oil and grain (see 104:9; Gen 1:9–10; Job 38:8–11; Prov 8:29; Jer 5:22).
33:8 all the earth . . . all the inhabitants. Not only Israel, but all mankind, for all experience the goodness of His sovereign rule (see note on 9:1)—but He foils all their contrary designs (vv. 10–11). fear the LORD. See v. 18; see also note on 15:4.
33:11 heart. See note on 4:7.
33:12–19 Israel is safe and secure under God's protective rule.
33:12 Blessed. See note on 1:1. people whom He has chosen for His own inheritance. Israel (see Deut 9:29).
33:16 king. Nation (see v. 12) and king constitute an organic social unit (see 28:8 and note).
33:18–19 The concluding couplet of the second eight-verse stanza of praise contrasts with the concluding couplet of the first (vv. 10–11); both are climactic and together they voice the heart of the praise.
33:18,22 lovingkindness. Here, His covenant favor toward Israel (see note on 6:4).
33:20–22 The people's response: faith's commitment expressed in confession (vv. 20–21) and petition (v. 22).
33:20 shield. See note on 3:3.
33:21 heart. See note on 4:7. name. See note on 5:11.
Ps 34 Praise of the Lord for deliverance in answer to prayer, and instruction in godliness. In the Psalms, praise commonly leads to a call to praise, as in v. 3 (see note on 9:1). Here, uniquely (but see also Ps 92), praise (vv. 1–7) leads into godly instruction (vv. 8–22) in the manner of the wisdom teachers (see essay, p. 689). Structurally, the psalm is a somewhat irregular alphabetic acrostic (it lacks a verse for one Hebrew letter and adds a verse at the end). It develops four major themes (see following notes).
34 title The superscription assigns this psalm to the occasion in David's life (see note on Ps 3 title) narrated in 1 Sam 21:10–15—but note "Abimelech" rather than "Achish" (perhaps Abimelech was a traditional dynastic name or title for Philistine kings; see Gen 20; 21:22–34; 26). Not all agree with this tradition, however; they feel that it is more likely that early Hebrew editors of the Psalms linked 1 Sam 21 with Ps 34 on the basis of word association (the Hebrew for "disguised his sanity," 1 Sam 21:13, comes from the same root as the Hebrew used here for "taste," v. 8).
34:1–7 Praise for the Lord's deliverance in answer to prayer.

2 My soul will [a]make its boast in the LORD;
The [b]humble will hear it and rejoice.
3 O [a]magnify the LORD with me,
And let us [b]exalt His name together.

4 I [a]sought the LORD, and He answered me,
And [b]delivered me from all my fears.
5 They [a]looked to Him and were radiant,
And their faces will [b]never be ashamed.
6 This [1]poor man cried, and [a]the LORD heard him
And saved him out of all his troubles.
7 The [a]angel of the LORD encamps around those who fear Him,
And rescues them.

8 O [a]taste and see that the LORD is good;
How [b]blessed is the man who takes refuge in Him!
9 O fear the LORD, you [a]His saints;
For to those who fear Him there is [b]no want.
10 The young lions do lack and suffer hunger;
But they who seek the LORD shall [a]not be in want of any good thing.
11 [a]Come, you children, listen to me;
[b]I will teach you [c]the fear of the LORD.
12 [a]Who is the man who desires life
And loves length of days that he may [b]see good?

34:1–3 Commitment to continual praise—to the encouragement of the godly who are afflicted (v. 2; see the instruction in vv. 8–22).
34:2 soul. See note on 6:3.
34:3 name. See note on 5:11.
34:4–7 The occasion: God's saving answer to prayer.
34:5 radiant. With joy (see Is 60:5).
34:6 poor. Here, as often in the Psalms, "poor" characterizes not necessarily one who has no possessions, but one who is (and recognizes that he is) without resources to effect his own deliverance (or secure his own life, safety or well-being)—and so is dependent on God.
34:7 angel of the LORD. God's heavenly representative, His "messenger," sent to effect His will on earth (see 35:5–6; see also note on Gen 16:7). encamps around. The line speaks of the security with which the Lord surrounds His people, individually and collectively; it does not teach a doctrine of individual "guardian angels." those who fear Him. Those described in vv. 8–14.
34:8–14 Instruction in "the fear of the LORD." The title line (v. 11) is at the center of the stanza—Hebrew authors often centered key lines (see note on 6:6). Note the pattern of the imperatives: "taste" (v. 8), "fear" (v. 9), "Come" (v. 11), "Keep" (v. 13), "Depart" (v. 14). A symmetrical development of the theme "good" dominates the stanza: Because the Lord is good (v. 8), those who trust in Him will lack nothing good (v. 10); but in order to experience good days (v. 12), they must shun evil and do good (v. 14). To trust and obey—that is "the fear of the LORD." On the instruction of this stanza see Ps 37. For Peter's use of vv. 12–16 see 1 Pet 3:8–12.
34:8 blessed. See note on 1:1.
34:9 fear the LORD. See v. 11; see also note on 15:4. saints. See note on 4:3.
34:11 Come, you children. Conventional language of the wisdom teachers (see Introduction to Proverbs: Purpose and Teaching).
34:13 See 15:2–3; James 3:5–10. For the tongue as a weapon see note on 5:9.
34:14 Seek peace. See 37:37; 120:7; Prov 12:20; Zech 8:19 (also Zech 8:16–17); Matt 5:9; Rom 12:18; 1 Cor 7:15; 2 Cor 13:11; 1 Thess 5:13; Heb 12:14; James 3:17–18.
34:15–18 Assurance that the Lord hears the prayers of the righteous. He so thoroughly thwarts those who do evil that they are forgotten (v. 16).
34:15 righteous. See vv. 8–14; see also note on 1:5.
34:16 face of the LORD. See note on 13:1.
34:17–18 See especially 51:17.
34:19–22 Assurance that the Lord is the unfailing deliverer of the righteous—and condemns the wicked for their hostility toward the righteous (see v. 21).
34:20 all his bones. His whole being (see note on 6:2). Not one of them is broken. Perhaps John's Gospel applies this word to Jesus (John 19:36; see also Ex 12:46; Num 9:12)—as the one above all others who could be called "righteous" (v. 19).
34:21–22 condemned. Dealt with as guilty.
34:22 redeems. See note on 25:22.
Ps 35 An appeal to the heavenly King, as divine Warrior and Judge, to come to the defense of "His servant" (v. 27) who is being maliciously slandered by those toward whom he had shown only the most tender friendship. The attack seems to

Psalm 35

A Psalm of David.

1 Contend, O LORD, with those who [a]contend with me;
Fight against those who [b]fight against me.
2 Take hold of [1][a]buckler and shield
And rise up for [b]my help.
3 Draw also the spear and [1]the battle-axe to meet those who pursue me;
Say to my soul, "I am [a]your salvation."
4 Let those be [a]ashamed and dishonored who seek my [1]life;
Let those be [b]turned back and humiliated who devise evil against me.
5 Let them be [a]like chaff before the wind,
With the angel of the LORD driving them on.
6 Let their way be dark and [a]slippery,
With the angel of the LORD pursuing them.
7 For [a]without cause they [b]hid their net for me;
Without cause they dug a [1]pit for my soul.
8 Let [a]destruction come upon him unawares,
And [b]let the net which he hid catch himself;
Into that very [c]destruction let him fall.

9 And my soul shall [a]rejoice in the LORD;
It shall [b]exult in His salvation.
10 All my [a]bones will say, "LORD, [b]who is like You,
Who delivers the afflicted from him [c]who is too strong for him,
And [d]the afflicted and the needy from him who robs him?"
11 [a]Malicious witnesses rise up;
They ask me of things that I do not know.
12 They [a]repay me evil for good,
To the bereavement of my soul.
13 But as for me, [a]when they were sick,
my [b]clothing was sackcloth;
I [c]humbled my soul with fasting,
And my [d]prayer kept returning to my bosom.
14 I went about as though it were my friend or brother;
I [a]bowed down [1]mourning, as one who sorrows for a mother.
15 But [a]at my [1]stumbling they rejoiced and gathered themselves together;
The [2b]smiters whom I did not know gathered together against me,
They [3c]slandered me without ceasing.
16 Like godless jesters at a feast,
They [a]gnashed at me with their teeth.

17 Lord, [a]how long will You look on?
Rescue my soul [b]from their ravages,
My [c]only life from the lions.
18 I will [a]give You thanks in the great congregation;
I will [b]praise You among a mighty throng.
19 [a]Do not let those who are wrongfully [b]my enemies rejoice over me;
Nor let those [c]who hate me without cause [1d]wink maliciously.
20 For they do not speak peace,
But they devise [a]deceitful words against those who are quiet in the land.
21 They [a]opened their mouth wide against me;
They said, "[b]Aha, aha, our eyes have seen it!"

have been occasioned by some "distress" (v. 26) that had overtaken the king (see vv. 15,19,21,25), perhaps an illness (see v. 13; see also introduction to Ps 6). Ps 35 exemplifies such a "cry" to the Lord in expectation of vindication as that spoken of in 34:15–22—except that here the author does not expressly identify himself as one of the "righteous" (34:21); he appeals to the Lord rather as innocent victim of an unmotivated attack. Regarding structure, after an initial appeal to the Lord as divine Warrior (vv. 1–3) there follows a threefold elaboration of David's petition to the divine Judge, each concluding with a vow to praise (vv. 4–10, 11–18, 19–28); see note on 7:17.

35:1–3 Appeal to the Lord as Warrior-King (see Ex 15:1–18), David's Overlord.

35:2 rise up. See note on 3:7.

35:3 soul. See note on 6:3.

35:4–10 Appeal to the Lord to deal with the attackers, matching judgment with their violent intent (see note on 5:10).

35:4 devise evil against me. See note on 5:9.

35:5–6 angel of the LORD. See 34:7 and note.

35:5 like chaff. See note on 1:4.

35:9–10 See note on 7:17.

35:9 soul. See note on 6:3.

35:10 afflicted and . . . needy. See 34:6 and note.

35:11–18 The accusation—they repaid my friendship with malicious slander—with a renewed petition (v. 17) and a vow to praise (v. 18).

35:12 soul. See note on 6:3.

35:13 sackcloth. A symbol of mourning (see 30:11; Gen 37:34). fasting. An act of mourning (see 69:10).

35:15 stumbling. Not morally. He was brought low by circumstances (see 9:3; 27:2; 37:24; 56:13; 119:165).

35:16 gnashed . . . their teeth. In malice (see 37:12; Lam 2:16).

35:17 how long . . . ? See note on 6:3 (see also Introduction: Theology). lions. See note on 7:2.

35:18 congregation. See note on 1:5.

35:19–28 Renewed appeal for judgment, with a concluding vow to praise (v. 28).

35:19 wrongfully my enemies. See vv. 11–17; an experience frequently reflected also elsewhere in the Psalter (see 38:19; 69:4; 109:3; 119:78,86,161). See also Lam 3:52. hate me without cause. See 69:4. It is not known which of these passages is referred to in John 15:25. Both psalms reflect circumstances applicable also to Jesus' experience (but see introduction to Ps 69).

35:21 Aha, aha. See v. 25; see also note on 3:2.

22 [a]You have seen it, O LORD, [b]do not keep silent;
O Lord, [c]do not be far from me.
23 [a]Stir up Yourself, and awake to my right
And to my cause, my God and my Lord.
24 [a]Judge me, O LORD my God, according to Your righteousness,
And [b]do not let them rejoice over me.
25 Do not let them say in their heart,
"[a]Aha, our desire!"
Do not let them say, "We have [b]swallowed him up!"
26 Let [a]those be ashamed and humiliated altogether who rejoice at my distress;
Let those be [b]clothed with shame and dishonor who [c]magnify themselves over me.

27 Let them [a]shout for joy and rejoice, who favor [b]my vindication;
And [c]let them say continually, "The LORD be magnified,
Who [d]delights in the prosperity of His servant."
28 And [a]my tongue shall declare Your righteousness
And Your praise all day long.

Psalm 36

For the choir director. A Psalm of David the servant of the LORD.

1 Transgression speaks to the ungodly within [1]his heart;
There is [a]no fear of God before his eyes.
2 For [1]it [a]flatters him in his own eyes
Concerning the discovery of his iniquity and the hatred of it.
3 The [a]words of his mouth are wickedness and deceit;
He has [b]ceased to [1]be wise and to do good.
4 He [a]plans wickedness upon his bed;
He sets himself on a [b]path that is not good;
He [c]does not despise evil.

5 Your [a]lovingkindness, O LORD,
[1]extends to the heavens,
Your faithfulness reaches to the skies.
6 Your [a]righteousness is like the [1]mountains of God;
Your [b]judgments are like a great deep.
O LORD, You [c]preserve man and beast.
7 How [a]precious is Your lovingkindness, O God!
And the children of men [b]take refuge in the shadow of Your wings.
8 They [a]drink their fill of the [1]abundance of Your house;
And You give them to drink of the [b]river of Your delights.
9 For with You is the [a]fountain of life;
In Your light we see light.

35:24 righteousness. See note on 4:1.

35:26 Once again: May their judgment match their evil intent (see vv. 4–10).
35:27 May all who are faithful supporters of the Lord's "servant" (here no doubt equivalent to His "anointed"; see note on 2:2) have reason to rejoice and praise the Lord.
35:28 righteousness. See note on 4:1.
Ps 36 A prayer for God's unfailing protection, as the psalmist reflects on the godlessness of the wicked and the goodness of God. In Jewish practice, vv. 7–10 form part of the morning prayer.
36 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. servant of the LORD. His royal servant (see notes on Ps 18 title; 35:27; see also 2 Sam 7:20).
36:1–4 The foolish and haughty godlessness of the wicked.
36:1 heart. See note on 4:7. no fear of God. See 55:19. They take no account of His all-seeing eye, His righteous judgment and His power to deal with them (see note on 10:11). For Paul's use of this verse see Rom 3:18.
36:2 flatters him. Out of the smug, conceited notion that he is accountable to no one.
36:3 words of his mouth. See note on 5:9. ceased to be wise. See 94:8–11; Prov 2:9–11. do good. See 34:8–14 and note.
36:4 upon his bed. When one's thoughts are free to range, and to set the course for the activities of the day. The wicked do not meditate on God's law "day and night" (1:2; see 119:55), or let a godly heart instruct them at night (see 16:7), or at night commune with God (see 42:8), think of Him (see 63:6) and reflect on His promises (see 119:148).
36:5–9 The goodness of the Lord—His benevolence toward all His creatures (see 33:4–5).
36:5 lovingkindness . . . faithfulness. That is, lovingkindness-and-faithfulness (as in 57:3; 61:7; 85:10; 86:15; 89:14; 115:1; 138:2; Prov 3:3; 14:22; 16:6; 20:28; see note on 3:7). extends to the heavens . . . to the skies. Encompasses all the realms of creaturely existence (see 57:10; 108:4).
36:6 righteousness . . . judgments. That is, righteousness-and-judgments (as in 33:5; 89:14; 97:2; Hos 2:19; see also Is 9:7; 33:5; Jer 9:24). righteousness. See note on 5:8. mountains of God . . . great deep. As high as the mountains, as deep as the sea.
36:7 lovingkindness. See v. 5; see also note on 6:4. children of men. All categories of men. shadow of Your wings. See 17:8 and note.
36:8 drink . . . drink. Life-giving water. house. Here, God's whole estate or realm—i.e., the earth, from which springs the abundance of food for all living things (see note on 24:2). river. The "channel" (Job 38:25) by which God brings forth the rain out of His "storehouses" (33:7; see Job 38:8–11,22,37; Jer 10:13) in His "upper chambers" (104:13; see 65:9; Is 30:25 and the references to "blessings" from heaven in Gen 49:25; Deut 33:23). This vivid imagery, depicting God's control over, and gift of, the waters from heaven, which feed the rivers and streams of earth to give life and health wherever they flow, is the source of the symbol of the "river of the water of life" that flows from the temple of God (Rev 22:1–2; see also Ezek 47:1–12). of Your delights. Furnishing many sources of joy.
36:9 The climax and summation of vv. 5–9. fountain of life.

10 O continue Your lovingkindness to [a]those who know You,
And Your [b]righteousness to the upright in heart.
11 Let not the foot of pride come upon me,
And let not the hand of the wicked drive me away.
12 There the doers of iniquity have fallen;
They have been thrust down and [a]cannot rise.

Psalm 37

A Psalm of David.

1 [a]Do not fret because of evildoers,
Be not [b]envious toward wrongdoers.
2 For they will [a]wither quickly like the grass
And [b]fade like the green herb.
3 [a]Trust in the LORD and do good;
[b]Dwell in the land and [1c]cultivate faithfulness.
4 [a]Delight yourself in the LORD;
And He will [b]give you the desires of your heart.
5 [a]Commit your way to the LORD,
Trust also in Him, and He will do it.
6 He will bring forth [a]your righteousness as the light
And your judgment [b]as the noonday.
7 [1]Rest in the LORD and [a]wait [2]patiently for Him;
[b]Do not fret because of him who [c]prospers in his way,
Because of the man who carries out wicked schemes.
8 Cease from anger and [a]forsake wrath;
Do not fret; it leads only to evildoing.
9 For [a]evildoers will be cut off,
But those who wait for the LORD, they will [b]inherit the land.
10 Yet [a]a little while and the wicked man will be no more;
And you will look carefully for [b]his place and he will not be there.
11 But [a]the humble will inherit the land
And will delight themselves in [b]abundant prosperity.
12 The wicked [a]plots against the righteous
And [b]gnashes at him with his teeth.
13 The Lord [a]laughs at him,
For He sees [b]his day is coming.
14 The wicked have drawn the sword and [a]bent their bow

See Jer 2:13; 17:13. Ultimately, for sinners, God provides the water of life through Jesus Christ (John 4:10,14). Your light. See 27:1 and note. see. Experience, have, enjoy, as in 16:10; 27:13; 34:8,12; 49:9,19; 89:48; 90:15; 106:5; Job 9:25; 42:5; Eccl 1:16 ("observed"); 3:13; 6:6 ("enjoy"); 8:16; Is 53:10; Lam 3:1. light. Life in its fullness as it was created to be. For the association of light with life see 49:19; 56:13; Job 3:20; 33:30; Is 53:11 (see NASB marg. there).

36:10–11 The prayer: Your "lovingkindness" (v. 5) and "righteousness" (v. 6), which you display in all creation—show these to all who know (acknowledge) you and are upright (the people of God). But keep the wicked, "foot" and "hand," from success against me (the king; see note on 33:16).

36:10 lovingkindness. See note on 6:4. righteousness. See note on 4:1.

36:11 pride. See note on 31:23.

36:12 Confidence (see note on 3:8). have fallen. Perhaps in death (see note on 13:4).

Ps 37 Instruction in godly wisdom. (For other "wisdom" psalms see 34:8–22; 49; 112; others closely related are Ps 1; 73; 91; 92:6–9,12–15; 111; 119; 127–128; 133; see essay, p. 689.) This psalm's dominant theme is related to the contrast between the wicked and the righteous reflected in Ps 36. The central issue addressed is: Who will "inherit the land" (vv. 9,11,22,29), i.e., live on to enjoy the blessings of the Lord in the promised land? Will the wicked, who plot (v. 12), scheme (vv. 7,32), default on debts (v. 21), use raw power to gain advantage (v. 14) and seem thereby to flourish (vv. 7,16,35)? Or will the righteous, who trust in the Lord (vv. 3,5,7,34) and are humble (v. 11), blameless (vv. 18,37), generous (vv. 21,26), upright (v. 37) and peaceable (v. 37), and from whose mouth is heard the moral wisdom that reflects meditation on God's law (vv. 30–31)? For a similar characterization of the wicked see 10:2–11; 73:4–12. For a similar characterization of the righteous see Ps 112. For a similar statement concerning the transitoriness of the wicked see Ps 49; 73:18–20. Structurally, in this alphabetic acrostic, two verses are devoted to each letter of the alphabet, though with some irregularity. The main theme is developed in vv. 1–11, then further elaborated in the rest of the psalm. The whole is framed by statements contrasting the brief career of the wicked (vv. 1–2) and the Lord's sustaining help of the righteous (vv. 39–40).

37:1–2 See v. 7; Ps 73.

37:2 See note on v. 20.

37:3 See 34:8–14 and note.

37:4 heart. See note on 4:7.

37:5 Commit. See 1 Pet 5:7.

37:6 righteousness . . . judgment. That is, righteousness-and-judgment (see note on 36:6). righteousness. See note on 1:5.

37:8 anger . . . wrath. Evidence of fretting over the wicked's prosperity, gained to the disadvantage of and even at the expense of the righteous.

37:9 inherit the land. Receive from the Lord secure entitlement (for them and their children) to the promised land as the created and redeemed sphere and bountiful source of provision for the life of God's people. Those who hope in the Lord—i.e., trustfully look to Him to bestow life and its blessings as a gift—will inherit the land, not those who apart from God and by evil means try to take possession of it and its wealth (see vv. 11,22,29; cf. Josh 7).

37:10 a little while. Shortness of time is here a figure for certainty of event (see 58:9; Job 20:5–11; Hag 2:6).

37:11 See Matt 5:5. humble. Those who humbly acknowledge their dependence on the goodness and grace of God and betray no arrogance toward their fellowman. abundant prosperity. Unmixed blessedness.

37:12 righteous. See note on 1:5. gnashes . . . his teeth. See 35:16 and note.

37:13 Lord laughs. See 2:4. sees his day is coming. Strikingly, the psalmist nowhere speaks of God's active involvement in bringing the wicked down—though he hints at it in v. 22. The

To cast down the [b]afflicted and the needy,
To [c]slay those who are upright in conduct.
15 Their sword will enter their own heart,
And their [a]bows will be broken.

16 [a]Better is the little of the righteous
Than the abundance of many wicked.
17 For the [a]arms of the wicked will be broken,
But the LORD [b]sustains the righteous.
18 The LORD [a]knows the days of the [1]blameless,
And their [b]inheritance will be forever.
19 They will not be ashamed in the time of evil,
And [a]in the days of famine they will have abundance.
20 But the [a]wicked will perish;
And the enemies of the LORD will be like the [1]glory of the pastures,
They vanish—[b]like smoke they vanish away.
21 The wicked borrows and does not pay back,
But the righteous [a]is gracious and gives.
22 For [a]those blessed by Him will [b]inherit the land,
But those [c]cursed by Him will be cut off.

23 [a]The steps of a man are established by the LORD,
And He [b]delights in his way.
24 When [a]he falls, he will not be hurled headlong,
Because [b]the LORD is the One [1]who holds his hand.
25 I have been young and now I am old,
Yet [a]I have not seen the righteous forsaken
Or [b]his [1]descendants begging bread.
26 All day long [a]he is gracious and lends,
And [b]his [1]descendants are a blessing.

27 [a]Depart from evil and do good,
[1]So you will abide [b]forever.

28 For the LORD [a]loves justice
And [b]does not forsake His godly ones;
They are [c]preserved forever,
But the [2d]descendants of the wicked will be cut off.
29 The righteous will [a]inherit the land
And [b]dwell in it forever.
30 The mouth of the righteous [a]utters wisdom,
And his tongue [b]speaks justice.
31 The [a]law of his God is in his heart;

32 The [a]wicked spies upon the righteous
And [b]seeks to kill him.
33 The LORD will [a]not leave him in his hand
Or [b]let him be condemned when he is judged.
34 [a]Wait for the LORD and keep His way,
And He will exalt you to inherit the land;
When the [b]wicked are cut off, you will see it.

35 I have [a]seen a wicked, violent man
Spreading himself like a [b]luxuriant [1]tree in its native soil.
36 Then [1]he passed away, and lo, he [a]was no more;
I sought for him, but he could not be found.
37 Mark the [1a]blameless man, and behold the [b]upright;
For the man of peace will have a [2c]posterity.
38 But transgressors will be altogether [a]destroyed;
The [1]posterity of the wicked will be [b]cut off.
39 But the [a]salvation of the righteous is from the LORD;
He is their strength [b]in time of trouble.

certainty that the life of the wicked "will be cut off" is frequently asserted (vv. 9,22,28,34,38; cf. vv. 2,8,10,15,17,20,36,38)—and the Lord also knows it—but God's positive action is here reserved for His care for and protection of the righteous. his day. The time for each of them, when he will be "cut off," as in 1 Sam 26:10; Job 18:20 ("his fate").

37:14 afflicted and the needy. See 34:6 and note.

37:28 godly ones. See note on 4:3.

37:30 wisdom. See 119:98,130; Deut 4:6.

37:31 heart. See note on 4:7. do not slip. From the right path (see 17:5).

37:32 spies upon. See 10:8–9; see also note on 7:2. seeks to kill him. Attempting to seize by false charges at court (see v. 33) the very livelihood of their intended victims.

37:35–36 Cf. vv. 25–26.

37:37–38 The great contrast: hope for the one, no hope for the other.

37:37 blameless. See note on v. 18.

37:39–40 the righteous . . . them. They are not at the mercy of the wicked: The Lord is their refuge, and in spite of all that the wicked do, the Lord makes secure their inheritance in the promised land.

He [b]delivers them from the wicked and saves them,
Because they [c]take refuge in Him.

Psalm 38

A Psalm of David, for a memorial.

1 O LORD, [a]rebuke me not in Your wrath,
And chasten me not in Your burning anger.
2 For Your [a]arrows have sunk deep into
me,
And [b]Your hand has pressed down on
me.
3 There is [a]no soundness in my flesh
[b]because of Your indignation;
There is no health [c]in my bones
because of my sin.
4 For my [a]iniquities are gone over my head;
As a heavy burden they weigh too much for me.
5 My [1]wounds grow foul and fester
Because of [a]my folly.
6 I am bent over and [a]greatly bowed down;
I [b]go mourning all day long.
7 For my loins are filled with [a]burning,
And there is [b]no soundness in my flesh.
8 I am [a]benumbed and [1]badly crushed;
I [2b]groan because of the [3]agitation of my heart.

9 Lord, all [a]my desire is [1]before You;
And my [b]sighing is not hidden from
You.
10 My heart throbs, [a]my strength fails
me;
And the [b]light of my eyes, even [1]that [2]has gone from me.

have [1]threatened destruction,
And they [d]devise treachery all day

And I am like a [a]mute man who does not open his mouth.
14 Yes, I am like a man who does not hear,
And in whose mouth are no
arguments.
15 For [a]I [1]hope in You, O LORD;
You [b]will answer, O Lord my God.
16 For I said, "May they not rejoice over
me,
Who, when my foot slips, [a]would magnify themselves against me."
17 For I am [a]ready to fall,
And [b]my [1]sorrow is continually before
me.
18 For I [1a]confess my iniquity;
I am full of [b]anxiety because of my sin.
19 But my [a]enemies are vigorous and
[1]strong,
And many are those who [b]hate me wrongfully.
20 And those who [a]repay evil for good,
They [b]oppose me, because I follow
what is good.
21 Do not forsake me, O LORD;
O my God, [a]do not be far from me!
22 Make [a]haste to help me,
O Lord, [b]my salvation!

Ps 38 An urgent appeal for relief from a severe and painful illness, God's "rebuke" for a sin David has committed. Neither the specific occasion nor the illness can be identified. David's suffering is aggravated by the withdrawal of his friends (see v. 11) and the unwarranted efforts of his enemies to seize this opportunity to bring him down (vv. 12,16,19–20). See introductions to Ps 39–41. In traditional Christian usage, this is one of seven penitential psalms (see introduction to Ps 6). Like Ps 33 (see introductory note on its structure), its length (22 verses) is based on the number of letters in the Hebrew alphabet. The psalm can be analyzed as composed of five stanzas of four verses each, with a two-verse conclusion.

38 title a memorial. Occurs elsewhere only in the title of Ps 70.

38:1–4 Plea for relief from the Lord's rebuke.

38:1 rebuke . . . chasten. That is, rebuke-and-chasten (see 39:11; see also note on 3:7). wrath . . . anger. See note on 2:5.

38:2 arrows. A vivid metaphor for God's blows (see Job 6:4; 34:6; Lam 3:12; Ezek 5:16). Your hand has pressed down on me. See 32:4 and note on 32:3–5.

38:3 bones. See note on 6:2.

38:4 burden. Not only a psychological "burden of guilt," but the heavy burden of suffering described in vv. 5–8.

38:5–8 The devastating physical and psychological effects of his illness.

38:8 heart. See note on 4:7.

38:9–12 Renewed appeal, with further elaboration of his troubles: his illness (v. 10), abandonment by his friends (v. 11) and the hostility of his enemies (v. 12).

38:10 light of my eyes . . . has gone from me. See note on 13:3.

38:11 See note on 31:11–12.

38:12 See note on 5:9.

38:13–16 Let the Lord answer (v. 15) my enemies. Like a deaf-mute, David will not reply to his enemies (vv. 13–14); he waits for the Lord to act in his behalf (vv. 15–16). See 1 Sam 25:32–39; 2 Sam 16:10,12.

38:16 when my foot slips. When he experiences a personal blow to health or circumstance—here referring to his illness (see 66:9; 94:18; 121:3).

38:17–20 As health declines, the vigor of his many enemies increases.

38:17 ready to fall. Death seems near (see note on 13:4).

38:18 See vv. 3–4; Ps 32.

38:19–20 He has sinned against the Lord, but he is innocent of any wrong against those attacking him (see note on 35:19).

38:20 oppose. Accuse (falsely), as in 71:13; 109:4,20,29; Zech 3:1. because. Or "though." good. Morally good (see 34:14).

38:21–22 In conclusion, a renewed appeal.

Psalm 39

For the choir director, for [1]Jeduthun.
A Psalm of David.

1 I said, "I will [a]guard my ways
That I [b]may not sin with my tongue;
I will guard [c]my mouth as with a muzzle
While the wicked are in my presence."
2 I was [a]mute [1]and silent,
I [2]refrained even from good,
And my [3]sorrow grew worse.
3 My [a]heart was hot within me,
While I was musing the fire burned;
Then I spoke with my tongue:
4 "LORD, make me to know [a]my end
And what is the extent of my days;
Let me know how [b]transient I am.
5 "Behold, You have made [a]my days as handbreadths,
And my [b]lifetime as nothing in Your sight;
Surely every man [1]at his best is [2]a mere [c]breath. [3]Selah.
6 "Surely every man [a]walks about as [1]a phantom;
Surely they make an [b]uproar for nothing;
He [c]amasses riches and does not know who will gather them.

7 "And now, Lord, for what do I wait?
My [a]hope is in You.

Psalm 40

For the choir director. A Psalm of David.

And He inclined to me and [b]heard my cry.

Ps 39 The poignant prayer of a soul deeply troubled by the fragility of human life. He is reminded of this by the present illness through which God is rebuking him (vv. 10–11) for his "transgressions" (v. 8). Ps 38 speaks of silence before the enemy, Ps 39 of silence before God. Both are prayers in times of illness (God's "reproofs," v. 11; 38:1); both acknowledge sin, and both express deep trust in God. See introduction to Ps 40. In addition, this psalm has many links with Ps 90; see also Ps 49.
39 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. Jeduthun. One of David's three choir leaders (1 Chr 16:41–42; 25:1,6; 2 Chr 5:12; called his "seer" in 2 Chr 35:15). Jeduthun is probably also the Ethan of 1 Chr 6:44; 15:19; if so, he represented the family of Merari, even as Asaph did the family of Gershon and Heman the family of Kohath, the three sons of Levi (see 1 Chr 6:16,33,39,43–44). See titles of Ps 62; 77; 89.
39:1–3 Introduction: Having determined to keep silent, he could finally no longer suppress his anguish.
39:1 He had kept a muzzle on his mouth for fear that rebellious words would escape in the hearing of the wicked (see Ps 73).
39:2–3 Suppressed anguish only intensified the agony (see Jer 20:9).
39:4–6 A prayer for understanding and patient acceptance of the brief span of human life.
39:4 how transient I am. See 78:39 and note on 37:20.
39:5 as nothing in Your sight. See 90:4. a mere breath. See v. 11; 144:4; Job 14:2; Eccl 6:12.
39:6 Could almost serve as a summary of Ecclesiastes.
39:7–11 A modest prayer: Only grant me relief from your present rebuke.
39:8 Deliver me. As from an enemy. reproach of the foolish. If the Lord does not restore him, he will be mocked (see 22:7–8; 69:6–12) by godless fools (see 14:1).
39:10 opposition of Your hand. See 32:4; 38:2.
39:11 reproofs . . . chasten. See 6:1; 38:1. a mere breath. See note on v. 5.
39:12–13 The modest prayer repeated even more modestly.
39:12 a stranger . . . A sojourner. He lives this life before God only as a pilgrim passing through.
39:13 Turn Your gaze away from me. See Job 7:17–19; 10:20–21; 14:6. smile again. See Job 9:27; 10:20. am no more. Here there is no glimpse of what lies beyond the horizon of death (see note on 6:5).
Ps 40 A prayer for help when troubles abound. The causes of distress are not specified, but David acknowledges that they are occasioned by his sin (see v. 12), as in Ps 38–39; 41 (see introductions to Ps 39; 41). They are aggravated by the gloating of his enemies, a theme also present in Ps 38–39; 41 (see introduction to Ps 6). The prayer begins with praise of God for His past mercies (vv. 1–5) and a testimony to the king's own faithfulness to the Lord (vv. 6–10). These form the grounds for his present appeal for help (vv. 11–17). See also the lengthy prefaces to prayer in Ps 44; 89. Ps 70 is a somewhat revised duplicate of vv. 13–17 of this psalm.
40 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title.
40:1–5 Praise of the Lord for past mercies (see introduction to Ps 9).
40:1–3 David's experience of God's past help in time of trouble, which moved him to praise and others to faith (see notes on 7:17; 9:1).

2 He brought me up out of the [a]pit of destruction, out of the [1]miry clay,
And [b]He set my feet upon a rock
[c]making my footsteps firm.
3 He put a [a]new song in my mouth, a song of praise to our God;
Many will [b]see and fear
And will trust in the LORD.

4 How [a]blessed is the man who has made the LORD his trust,
And [b]has not [1]turned to the proud, nor to those who [c]lapse into falsehood.
5 Many, O LORD my God, are [a]the wonders which You have done,
And Your [b]thoughts toward us;
There is none to compare with You.
If I would declare and speak of them,
They [c]would be too numerous to count.

6 [1][a]Sacrifice and meal offering You have not desired;
My ears You have [2]opened;
Burnt offering and sin offering You have not required.
7 Then I said, "Behold, I come;
In the scroll of the book it is [1]written of me.
8 [a]I delight to do Your will, O my God;
[b]Your Law is within my heart."

9 I have [a]proclaimed glad tidings of righteousness in the great congregation;
Behold, I will [b]not restrain my lips,
O LORD, [c]You know.

40:2 See 30:1 and note.
40:3 new song. See note on 33:3. Many will see. As a result of David's praise (see 18:49; 22:22–31; see also note on 9:1). fear. See note on 34:8–14.
40:4–5 The Lord's benevolence to others: to all who trust in the Lord (v. 4), and to His people Israel (v. 5).
40:4 See Jer 17:7; praise of the Lord for the blessedness of those who trust in Him (see 32:1–2; 146:5). blessed. See note on 1:1. proud. See note on 31:23.
40:5 wonders. See note on 9:1. thoughts toward us. God's actions in behalf of Israel are according to His predetermined purpose (see Is 25:1; 46:10–11).
40:6–8 David's commitment to God's will. Heb 10:5–10 applies these verses to Christ (see notes there).
40:6 have not desired . . . not required. More important is obedience (see 1 Sam 15:22), especially to God's moral law (see Is 1:10–17; Amos 5:21–24; Mic 6:6–8)—i.e., the ten basic commandments of His covenant (see Ex 20:3–17; Deut 5:7–21). opened. Lit. "dug." Translated "opened" (see NASB marg.), it refers to ears made able and eager to hear God's law (see Prov 28:9; Is 48:8; 50:4–5). If, however, it is translated "pierced," it probably refers to the sign by which a servant pledged lifelong service to his beloved master (see Ex 21:6; Deut 15:17).
40:7 Behold, I come. Probably refers to David's commitment to the Lord at the time of his enthronement. in the scroll . . . it is written of me. Some take this to be a reference to a prophecy, perhaps Deut 17:14–15. The context, however, strongly suggests that the "scroll" refers to the personal copy of the law that the king is to take at the time of his enthronement to serve as the covenant charter of his administration (see Deut 17:18–20; 2 Kin 11:12; cf. 1 Kin 2:3).
40:8 I delight. I desire whatever is in full accord with God's "desire" (v. 6)—a claim that frames the stanza.
40:9–10 David's life is filled with praise, proclaiming God's faithful and loving acts in behalf of His people. This, too, God desires more than animal sacrifices (see 50:7–15,23).
40:9 proclaimed. See 68:11; 96:2; as good tidings (see 1 Kin 1:42; Is 40:9; 41:27; 52:7; 61:1). righteousness. See note on 5:8. in the great congregation. See notes on 1:5; 9:1. not restrain my lips. He is not silent about God's praise (see 38:13–16; 39:1 and notes).
40:10 heart. See note on 4:7. Your lovingkindness and Your truth. See note on 26:3.
40:11–17 The prayer for help.
40:11 Your lovingkindness and Your truth. Which he has been proclaiming to all at the temple (see v. 10 and note).
40:12 iniquities have overtaken me. In the form of the "evils beyond number" that burden him (see Ps 38–39 and their introductions). not able to see. See note on 13:3. more . . . than the hairs of my head. See Matt 10:30; Luke 12:7. heart. See note on 4:7.
40:14–15 In the midst of his troubles his enemies harass him, as in 38:12; 39:8; 41:5,7 and often in the Psalms (see note on 5:9). May those who wish to put him to shame be put to shame themselves (see note on 5:10).
40:15 Aha, aha! See note on 3:2.

17 Since [a]I am afflicted and needy,
[1][b]Let the Lord be mindful of me.
You are my help and my deliverer;
Do not delay, O my God.

Psalm 41

For the choir director. A Psalm of David.

1 How blessed is he who [a]considers the [1]helpless;
The Lord will deliver him [b]in a day of [2]trouble.
2 The Lord will [a]protect him and keep him alive,
And he shall [1]be called [b]blessed upon the earth;
And [c]do not give him over to the desire of his enemies.
3 The Lord will sustain him upon his sickbed;
In his illness, You [1]restore him to health.

4 As for me, I said, "O Lord, be gracious to me;
[a]Heal my soul, for [b]I have sinned against You."
5 My enemies [a]speak evil against me,
"When will he die, and his name perish?"
6 And [1]when he comes to see me, he [a]speaks [2]falsehood;
His heart gathers wickedness to itself;
When he goes outside, he tells it.
7 All who hate me whisper together against me;
Against me they [a]devise my hurt,
saying,
8 "A wicked thing is poured out [1]upon him,
That when he lies down, he will [a]not rise up again."
9 Even my [a]close friend in whom I trusted,
Who ate my bread,
Has lifted up his heel against me.

10 But You, O Lord, be gracious to me and [a]raise me up,
That I may repay them.
11 By this I know that [a]You are pleased with me,
Because [b]my enemy does not shout in triumph over me.
12 As for me, [a]You uphold me in my integrity,
And You set me [b]in Your presence forever.

13 [a]Blessed be the Lord, the God of Israel,
From everlasting to everlasting.
Amen and Amen.

40:17 afflicted and needy. In need of God's help (see note on 34:6).

Ps 41 David's prayer for mercy when seriously ill. He acknowledges that his illness is related to his sin (v. 4). See the introductions to Ps 38–40. His enemies greet the prospect of his death with malicious glee (see note on 5:9), and even his "close friend" (v. 9) betrays his friendship (see note on 31:11–12). This psalm concludes a collection of four psalms connected by common themes, and also forms the conclusion to Book 1. (Book 1 begins and ends with a "Blessed" psalm.) In its structure, the psalm is very symmetrical. The first and third stanzas frame the prayer with a note of confidence; the middle stanza elaborates the prayer. Verse 13 is actually not part of the psalm but the doxology that closes Book 1 (see note on v. 13).

41 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title.

41:1–3 Confidence that the Lord will restore.

41:1 How blessed is he who considers the helpless. Especially if he is king, whose duty it is to defend the powerless (see 72:2,4,12–14; 82:3–4; Prov 29:14; 31:8–9; Is 11:4; Jer 22:16). Blessed. See note on 1:1.

41:4–6 Prayer for God to show mercy and to heal.

41:4 sinned. See note on 32:3–5.

41:5 When will he die . . . ? See note on 3:2. his name perish. See note on 9:5.

41:6 see me. Visit him in his sickness. speaks falsehood. Speaks as if he were a friend. heart. See note on 4:7.

41:7–9 His enemies and his friend.

41:9 close friend . . . Who ate my bread. One who shared the king's table—i.e., was an honored, as well as trusted, friend (see note on 31:11–12). Reference may be to one who had sealed his friendship by a covenant (see note on 23:5). For Jesus' use of this verse in application to Himself see John 13:18. In fulfilling the role of His royal ancestor as God's anointed king over Israel, the great Son of David also experienced the hostility of men and the betrayal of a trusted associate, and thus fulfilled His forefather's lament.

41:10–12 Prayer, with confidence.

41:10 That I may repay them. That I (as king) may call them to account.

41:12 set. Establish. in Your presence. As the royal servant of Israel's heavenly King. (For the idiom see 101:7; 1 Sam 16:22, "stand before me"; 1 Kin 10:8, "before you"; 17:1, "before whom I stand.") forever. Never to be rejected (see 2 Sam 7:15–16).

41:13 The doxology with which the worshiping community is to respond to the contents of Book 1 (see 72:18–19; 89:52; 106:48; 150).

Ps 42–43 A prayer for deliverance from the "oppression of the enemy" (42:9; 43:2) and for restoration to the presence of God at His temple. That these two psalms form a single prayer (though they are counted as two psalms also in the Septuagint) is evident from its unique structure (see below) and the development of common themes. Ps 43 may have come to be separated from Ps 42 for a particular liturgical purpose (see introduction to Ps 9). The speaker may have been a leading member of the Korahites whose normal duties involved him in the liturgical activities of the temple (see especially 42:4 and note on Ps 42 title). It may be that the "ungodly nation" (43:1) referred to was the Arameans of Damascus and that the author had been taken captive by the Arameans during one of their incursions into Judah, such as that of Hazael (see 2 Kin 12:17–18). (This attack by Hazael affected especially the area in which the Korahites, descendants of Kohath, had been assigned cities; see Josh 21:4,9–19.) See also notes below. This psalm begins Book 2 of the Psalter, a collection that is distinguished from Book 1 primarily by the fact that the Hebrew word for "God" (Elohim) predominates, whereas in the first book the Hebrew word for "the LORD" (Yahweh) predominates.

Structurally, the stanzas of this psalm are followed by the same refrain (42:5,11; 43:5). The middle stanza, however, has a verse (42:8) that interrupts the developing thought and injects a note of confidence, such as comes to expression also in the threefold refrain. Apart from the refrains, the prayer is framed by an expression of longing for God's presence (42:1) and a vow to praise God at His altar (43:4). For other psalms with recurring refrains see Ps 46; 49; 59; 80; 107.

42 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. Maskil. See note on Ps 32 title. of the sons of Korah. Or "for the sons of Korah"; see "for Jeduthun" in Ps 39 title. "Sons of Korah" refers to the Levitical choir made up of the descendants of Korah appointed by David to serve in the temple liturgy. The Korahites represented the Levitical family of Kohath son of Levi. Their leader in the days of David was Heman (see Ps 88 title)—just as Asaph led the choir of the Gershonites and Jeduthun (Ethan) the choir of the Merarites (see 1 Chr 6:31–47 and note on Ps 39 title). This is the first of a collection of seven psalms ascribed to the "sons of Korah" (Ps 42–49); four more occur in Book 3 (Ps 84–85; 87–88).

42:1–4 Longing to be with God at the temple.

42:1 deer pants for . . . water. Because its life depends on water—especially when being pressed by hunters, as the psalmist was by his oppressors. soul. See note on 6:3.

42:2 living God. See Deut 5:26. When . . . ? Circumstances (see v. 9; 43:1–2) now prevent him from being at the temple. appear before God. Enter His presence to commune with Him (see Ex 19:17; 29:42–43; 30:6,36).

42:3 day and night. See vv. 8,10. Where is your God? See note on 10:11.

42:4 soul. See note on 6:3. lead them in procession. Suggests that the author normally had a leading role in the liturgy of the temple.

42:5 The refrain: faith encouraging faith (see 27:13–14 and introduction to Ps 27). praise Him. For His saving help (see notes on 7:17; 9:1; see also 43:4).

42:6–10 The cause and depth of the trouble of his soul.

42:6 soul is in despair. See vv. 5,11; 43:5. Therefore I remember You. As he remembers (v. 4) in his exile the joy of his past intimacy with God, so now in his exile he remembers God and painfully wonders (vv. 7,9–10), yet not without hope (v. 8). (But some believe that the clause should be rendered "because I remember You.") from the land . . . from Mount Mizar. Probably indicating that the author speaks from exile outside the contemporary boundaries of Israel and Judah. Some think the author locates himself at Mount Mizar (a small peak or village, not otherwise known) on the flanks of Mount Hermon somewhere near the headwaters of the Jordan. Others translate the Hebrew for "from" as "far from" and understand "the land of the Jordan" to refer to the promised land (which lies along the Jordan and from which the author was separated). The mention of "the peaks of Hermon" may then be a reference to the high peak that marked the northern border of the land (see Deut 3:8; Josh 11:17; 13:11; 1 Chr 5:23) and looked down upon it (see 133:3; Song 4:8). Some have suggested that "Mount Mizar" is an additional reference to "the peaks of Hermon," calling that high peak the "little mountain" (literal translation) in comparison with Mount Zion (see 68:15–16).

42:7 Deep calls . . . Your waterfalls. Often taken to be an allusion to the cascading waters of the upper Jordan as they rush down from Mount Hermon. It is more likely, however, that this is a literary allusion to the "waterfalls" by which the waters from God's storehouse of water above (see note on 36:8)—the "deep" above—pour down into the streams and rivers that empty into the seas—the "deep" below. It pictures the great distress the author suffers, and the imagery is continued in the following reference to God's "waves" and "breakers" sweeping over him (see 69:1–2; 88:7; Jon 2:3,5; see also note on 32:6). God's hand is involved in the psalmist's suffering, at least to the extent that He has allowed this catastrophe. He seems to the psalmist to have "forgotten" (v. 9)—to have "rejected" (43:2)—him. But he makes no link between this and any sin in his life (see Ps 44; 77).

42:8 The center: confession of hope in all the trouble. That is, "Day-and-night [cf. v. 3] the LORD directs His love, and His song is with me" (see note on 3:7). the LORD. Only here at the center in this psalm (see introduction). command His lovingkindness. Send forth His love, like a messenger to do His will (see 43:3). lovingkindness. See note on 6:4. His song. A song con-

And His song will be with me [b]in the night,

Why do I go [b]mourning [1]because of the [c]oppression of the enemy?"

For the choir director. A [†]Maskil of the sons of Korah.

1 O God, we have heard with our ears,
Our [a]fathers have told us
The [b]work that You did in their days,
In the [c]days of old.
2 You with Your own hand [a]drove out the nations;
Then You [b]planted them;
You [c]afflicted the peoples,
Then You [d]spread them abroad.
3 For by their own sword they [a]did not possess the land,
And their own arm did not save them,
But Your right hand and Your [b]arm and the [c]light of Your presence,
For You [d]favored them.

4 You are [a]my King, O God;
[b]Command [1]victories for Jacob.
5 Through You we will [a]push back our adversaries;
Through Your name we will [b]trample down those who rise up against us.
6 For I will [a]not trust in my bow,
Nor will my sword save me.
7 But You [a]have saved us from our adversaries,
And You have [b]put to shame those who hate us.

43:1–4 Prayer for deliverance from the enemy and for restoration to God's presence.
43:1 A plea in the language of the court (see introduction to Ps 17).
43:2 Echoes 42:9.
43:3 Your light and Your truth. Personified as God's messengers who work out (1) His salvation (light; see note on 27:1) and (2) His faithful care in behalf of His own (truth; see 26:3; 30:9; 40:10). May these guide me back to Your temple. holy hill. See note on 2:6.

Ps 44 Israel's cry for help after suffering a devastating defeat at the hand of an enemy. In the light of vv. 17–22, it is difficult to associate this psalm with any of those defeats announced by the prophets as judgments on Israel's covenant unfaithfulness. It probably relates to an experience of the kingdom of Judah (which as a nation did not break covenant with the Lord until late in her history), perhaps during the reign of Jehoshaphat or Hezekiah. Structurally, three thematic developments rise one upon the other as the psalm advances to the prayer in the closing verses. Its structure is like the stages of a ziggurat (a stepped pyramidal structure that the Babylonians built as a mountain-like base for some of their temples; see Gen 11:4 and note) leading to the temple that crowns it. First there is praise of the Lord for past victories (vv. 1–8), second a description of the present defeat and its consequences (vv. 9–16), third a plea of innocence (vv. 17–22), then finally the prayer (vv. 23–26). Each of the themes (recalling of past mercies, description of the present distress, and claim of covenant loyalty) in its own way functions as a ground for the appeal for help (see Ps 40 and its introduction; see also the lengthy prefaces to prayer in Ps 40; 89).
44 title See note on Ps 42 title.
44:1–8 Praise to God for past victories: (1) those by which Israel became established in the land (vv. 1–3); (2) those by which Israel has been kept secure in the land (vv. 4–8).
44:1 See 78:3.
44:3 light of Your presence. See notes on 4:6; 13:1.
44:4 my. Here and elsewhere in this psalm the first-person singular pronoun refers to the nation corporately (see note on Ps 30 title). Jacob. See note on 14:7.
44:5,8 Your name. See v. 20; see also note on 5:11.

And we will [b]give thanks to Your name forever. [1]Selah.

9 Yet You [a]have rejected us and brought us to [b]dishonor,
And [c]do not go out with our armies.
10 You cause us to [a]turn back from the adversary;
And those who hate us [b]have taken spoil for themselves.
11 You give us as [a]sheep [1]to be eaten
And have [b]scattered us among the nations.
12 You [a]sell Your people [1]cheaply,
And have not [2]profited by their sale.
13 You make us a [a]reproach to our neighbors,
A scoffing and a [b]derision to those around us.
14 You make us [a]a byword among the nations,
A [1][b]laughingstock among the peoples.
15 All day long my dishonor is before me
And [1]my [a]humiliation has overwhelmed me,
16 Because of the voice of him who
[a]reproaches and reviles,
Because of the presence of the [b]enemy and the avenger.

17 All this has come upon us, but we have [a]not forgotten You,
And we have not [b]dealt falsely with
Your covenant.
18 Our heart has not [a]turned back,
And our steps [b]have not deviated from
Your way,
19 Yet You have [a]crushed us in a place of [b]jackals
And covered us with [c]the shadow of death.

20 If we had [a]forgotten the name of our God
Or extended our [1]hands to [b]a strange
god,
21 Would not God [a]find this out?
For He knows the secrets of the heart.
22 But [a]for Your sake we are killed all day long;
We are considered as [b]sheep to be slaughtered.
23 [a]Arouse Yourself, why [b]do You sleep,
O Lord?
Awake, [c]do not reject us forever.
24 Why do You [a]hide Your face
And [b]forget our affliction and our oppression?
25 For our [a]soul has sunk down into the dust;
Our body cleaves to the earth.
26 [a]Rise up, be our help,
And [b]redeem us for the sake of Your lovingkindness.

44:9–16 But now You have forsaken us: (1) You have caused us to suffer defeat (vv. 9–12); (2) You have shamed us before our enemies (vv. 13–16).
44:11 give us as sheep to be eaten. Have not protected us as our Shepherd-King (see v. 4 and note on 23:1).
44:12 sell Your people. Like chattel no longer valued (see Deut 32:30; Judg 2:14). cheaply. For nothing of value (see Is 52:3; Jer 15:13; cf. Is 43:3–4).

44:18 heart. See note on 4:7. Your way. The way marked out in God's covenant (see note on 5:8).
44:19 You have crushed us. But that cannot be used as evidence that we have been disloyal. place of jackals. A desolate place, uninhabited by man (see Is 13:22; Jer 9:11). shadow of death. The absence of all that was associated with the metaphor "light" (see notes on 30:1; 36:9).
44:20 extended our hands. Prayed (see Ex 9:29).
44:22 But. Or "As a matter of fact" or "As you, O God, know." From the time of her stay in Egypt (see Ex 1), Israel has suffered the hostility of the nations because of her relationship with the Lord (see Matt 10:34). For Paul's application of this verse to the Christian community in the light of Christ's death and resurrection see Rom 8:36.

Ps 45 A song in praise of the king on his wedding day (see title). He undoubtedly belonged to David's dynasty, and the song was probably used at more than one royal wedding. Since the bride is a foreign princess (see vv. 10,12), the wedding reflects the king's standing as a figure of international significance (see note on v. 9). Accordingly he is addressed as one whose reign is to be characterized by victories over the nations (vv. 3–5; cf. Ps 2; 110). As a royal son of David, he is a type (foreshadowing) of Christ. After the exile this psalm was applied to the Messiah, the promised Son of David who would sit on David's throne (for the application of vv. 6–7 to Christ see Heb 1:8–9). The superscription implies that it was composed and sung by a member of the Levitical temple choir, a fact not surprising in view of the close link between the temple (housing the earthly throne room of Israel's heavenly King) and the Davidic dynasty (the Lord's appointed regents over His people, described throughout the books of Samuel, Kings and Chronicles). As a word from one of the temple personnel, the song was no doubt received as a word from the temple—and from the One who sat enthroned there. In its structure, the song is framed by vv. 1,17 while vv. 2,16 constitute a secondary frame within them—all addressed to the king. The body of the song falls into two parts: (1) words addressed to the king (vv. 3–9) and (2) words addressed to the royal bride (vv. 10–15). These in turn each contain two parts, reflecting a similar pattern: (1) (a) exhortations to the king (vv. 3–5), (b) the glory of the king (vv. 6–9); (2) (a) exhortations to the bride (vv. 10–11), (b) the glory of the bride (vv. 12–15).

45 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. according to. See note on Ps 9 title. Shoshannim. Means "Lilies" (see Ps 69 title). "Lilies" may be an abbreviated form of "The Lily (Lilies) of the Covenant" found in the titles of Ps 60; 80. Maskil. See note on Ps 32 title. of the sons of Korah. See note on Ps 42 title. Song. See note on Ps 30 title.

45:1 See v. 17, where the speaker pledges (perhaps by means of this song) to perpetuate the king's memory throughout the generations and awaken the praise of the nations. heart. See note on 4:7.

45:2 fairer than the sons of men. One who excels in manly traits and beauty, as a king should (see 1 Sam 9:2; 16:18)—but he is so beyond ordinary men as to be almost Godlike (see note on v. 6). Grace is poured upon Your lips. See Prov 22:11; Eccl 10:12; cf. Is 50:4; Luke 4:22; see also v. 16, where it is suggested that such a king will be perpetuated in his sons. forever. See note on v. 6.

45:3–5 Go forth with your sword victoriously in the service of all that is right, and clothe yourself thereby with glory—make your reign adorn you more truly than the wedding garb with which you are now arrayed (v. 8).

45:3 splendor and . . . majesty. See 21:5 and note.

45:4 righteousness. See note on 1:5. awesome things. See 66:5; 106:22; 145:6.

45:5 peoples fall under You. See 2:8–9; 110:1–2,5–6.

45:6–9 The glory of the king's reign: justice and righteousness (see Ps 72).

45:6 O God. Possibly the king's throne is called God's throne because he is God's appointed regent. But it is also possible that the king himself is addressed as "god." The Davidic king (the "LORD's anointed," 2 Sam 19:21), because of his special relationship with God, was called at his enthronement the "son" of God (see 2:7; 2 Sam 7:14; 1 Chr 28:6; cf. 89:27). In this psalm, which praises the king and especially extols his "splendor and . . . majesty" (v. 3), it is not unthinkable that he was called "god" as a title of honor (cf. Is 9:6). Such a description of the Davidic king attains its fullest meaning when applied to Christ, as the author of Hebrews does (Heb 1:8–9). (The pharaohs of Egypt were sometimes addressed as "my god" by their vassal kings in Canaan, as evidenced by the Amarna letters; see chart, p. xix.) forever and ever. See vv. 2,17. Such was the language used with respect to kings (see note on 21:4). It here gains added significance in the light of God's covenant with David (see 89:4,29,36; 132:12; 2 Sam 7:16). In Christ, the Son of David, it is fulfilled.

45:7 fellows. The noble guests of the king, perhaps from other lands. oil of joy. God has anointed him with a more delightful oil than the aromatic oils with which his head and body were anointed on his wedding day—namely, with joy (see 23:5; Is 61:3).

45:8–9 The glory of the king's wedding.

45:8 myrrh. See notes on Gen 37:25; Song 1:13. aloes. See note on Song 4:14. cassia. See note on Ex 25:6. ivory palaces. See 1 Kin 22:39; Amos 3:15; 6:4.

45:9 Kings' daughters. Whether members of his royal harem (see 1 Kin 11:1–3) or guests at his wedding, they represent international recognition of the king. in gold from Ophir. Adorned with jewels of finest gold (see notes on Gen 10:29; 1 Kin 9:28) and all the finery associated with it.

45:10–15 The word to the royal bride.

45:10–11 Be totally loyal to your adoring king.

45:12–15 The royal bride's glory.

45:12 daughter of Tyre. A personification of the city of Tyre and its inhabitants (see note on 2 Kin 19:21). The king of Tyre was the first foreign ruler to recognize the Davidic dynasty (see 2 Sam 5:11), and Solomon maintained close relations with that city-state (see 1 Kin 5; 9:10–14,26–28). As a great trading center on the Mediterranean coast, Tyre was world-renowned for its wealth (see Is 23; Ezek 26:1–28:19). the rich. Such as those from your homeland. seek your favor. Desire to be in your good graces as the wife of this king.

45:14 virgins, her companions. She too has "fellows" (see v. 7), perhaps her permanent attendants. to You. To the king.
45:16 your. The king's. In place of your fathers. As the family line continues (dynastic succession). Perhaps it is also hinted that they will surpass the fathers in honor (see note on v. 2).
45:17 See note on v. 1. forever and ever. See note on v. 6.
Ps 46 A celebration of the security of Jerusalem as the city of God (the inspiration of Martin Luther's great hymn, "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God"). Thematically this psalm is closely related to Ps 48 (see also Ps 76; 87), while Ps 47 celebrates God's victorious reign over all the earth. It probably predates the exile. However, as a song concerning the "city of God" (v. 4), the royal city of His kingdom on earth (see Ps 48), it remained for Israel a song of hope celebrating the certain triumph of God's kingdom. It was originally liturgical and sung at the temple: The citizens of Jerusalem (or the Levitical choir in their stead) apparently sang the opening stanza (vv. 1–3) and the responses (vv. 7,11), while the Levitical leader of the liturgy probably sang the second and third stanzas (vv. 4–6,8–10). In its structure, apart from the refrains (vv. 7,11), the psalm is composed of three symmetrical stanzas, each containing three verses. For other psalms with recurring refrains see introduction to Ps 42–43.
46 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. of the sons of Korah. See note on Ps 42 title. set to. Or "upon." See note on Ps 6 title. Alamoth. Probably a musical term. Since the Hebrew word appears to mean "maidens," the phrase "set to alamoth" may refer to the "maidens playing tambourines" who accompanied the singers as the liturgical procession made its way to the temple (68:25). A Song. See note on Ps 30 title.
46:1–3 A triumphant confession of fearless trust in God, though the continents break up and sink beneath the resurging waters of the seas—i.e., though the creation itself may seem to become uncreated (see 104:6–9; Gen 1:9–10) and all may appear to be going down before the onslaught of the primeval deep. The described upheaval is probably imagery for great threats to Israel's existence (see note on 32:6), especially from her enemies (see vv. 6,8–10; 65:5–8).
46:4–6 A description of blessed Zion—a comforting declaration of God's mighty, sustaining presence in His city.
46:4 river. Jerusalem had no river, unlike Thebes (Nah 3:8), Damascus (2 Kin 5:12), Nineveh (Nah 2:6,8) or Babylon (137:1), yet she had a "river." Here the "river" of 36:8 (see note there) serves as a metaphor for the continual outpouring of the sustaining and refreshing blessings of God, which make the city of God like the Garden of Eden (see Gen 2:10; Is 33:21; 51:3; cf. also Ezek 31:4–9). city of God. See v. 5; see especially Ps 48. God . . . Most High. That is, God Most High (see 57:2; see also note on 3:7). dwelling places. See note on 9:11. Most High. See note on Gen 14:19.
46:5 when morning dawns. When attacks against cities were likely to be launched. His help brings on the dawn of deliverance, dispelling the night of danger (see 44:19 and note; cf. Is 37:36 for an example).
46:6 nations . . . tottered. Because of God's victory (see vv. 8–9; 48:4–7). an uproar. See v. 3 and note on vv. 1–3; see also 2:1–3; Rev 11:18. raised His voice. See 2:5; 9:5; Jer 25:30; Amos 1:2; see also 104:7. God's thunder is evoked (see introduction to Ps 29), the thunder of His wrath (see 18:13; Is 2:10). earth melted. As though struck by lightning (see 97:4–5).
46:7 The people's glad response (also v. 11). LORD of hosts. See note on 1 Sam 1:3. Jacob. See note on 14:7.
46:8–10 A declaration of the blessed effects of God's triumph over the nations.
46:8 Come, behold. An invitation to see God's victories in the world (see 48:8 and note). the LORD. Emphatic because of its rare use in Book 2 of the Psalter. in the earth. Among the hostile nations.
46:9 No more attacks against His city. The verse probably speaks of universal peace (see note on 65:6–7). breaks . . . cuts

He [b]breaks the bow and cuts the spear in two;
He [c]burns the chariots with fire.
10 "[1]Cease striving and [a]know that I am God;
I will be [b]exalted among the [2]nations, I will be exalted in the earth."
11 The LORD of hosts is with us;
The God of Jacob is our stronghold. Selah.

Psalm 47

For the choir director. A Psalm of the sons of Korah.

1 O [a]clap your hands, all peoples;
[b]Shout to God with the voice of [1]joy.
2 For the LORD Most High is to be [a]feared,
A [b]great King over all the earth.
3 He [a]subdues peoples under us
And nations under our feet.
4 He chooses our [a]inheritance for us,
The [b]glory of Jacob whom He loves. [1]Selah.
5 God has [a]ascended [1]with a shout,
The LORD, [1]with the [b]sound of a trumpet.
6 [a]Sing praises to God, sing praises;
Sing praises to [b]our King, sing praises.
7 For God is the [a]King of all the earth;
Sing praises [b]with a [1]skillful psalm.
8 God [a]reigns over the nations,
God [1]sits on [b]His holy throne.
9 The [1][a]princes of the people have assembled themselves as the [b]people of the God of Abraham,
For the [c]shields of the earth belong to God;
He [2]is [d]highly exalted.

. . . burns. See 76:3; see also 1 Sam 2:4. For the Messiah's universal victory over Israel's enemies see Is 9:2–7.

46:10 God's voice breaks through, as He addresses the nations (see v. 6)—the climax. Cease striving. Here, the Hebrew for this phrase probably means "Enough!" as in 1 Sam 15:16 ("Wait"). know. Acknowledge. I will be exalted . . . in the earth. God's mighty acts in behalf of His people will bring Him universal recognition, a major theme in the Psalter (see 22:27; 47:9; 57:5,11; 64:9; 65:8; 66:1–7; 67:2–5; 86:9; 98:2–3; 99:2–3; 102:15) and elsewhere in the OT (see Ex 7:5; 14:4,18; Lev 26:45; Num 14:15; 1 Sam 17:46; 1 Kin 8:41–43; 2 Kin 19:19; Ezek 20:41; 28:25; 36:23; Hab 2:14). This has proven to be supremely true of God's climactic saving act in the birth, life, death, resurrection and glorification of Jesus Christ—yet to be brought to complete fruition at His return.

46:11 See note on v. 7.

Ps 47 Celebration of the universal reign of Israel's God: a testimony to the nations. This psalm belongs to a group of hymns to the Great King found elsewhere clustered in Ps 92–100. Here it serves to link Ps 46 and 48, identifying the God who reigns in Zion as "a great King over all the earth" (v. 2; see v. 7; 48:2). It dates from the period of the monarchy and was composed for use in the temple liturgy on one of the high festival days. The specific setting is perhaps the Feast of Booths (see Lev 23:34), which was also the festival for which Solomon waited to dedicate the temple (see 1 Kin 8:2). A liturgical procession is presupposed (v. 5), similar to that indicated in Ps 24; 68. Later Jewish usage employed this psalm in the synagogue liturgy for Rosh Hashanah (the New Year festival). The Christian church has appropriately employed it in the celebration of Christ's ascension (see v. 5). Structurally, vv. 5–6 form a centered (see note on 6:6) couplet between two four-line stanzas (in Hebrew). This center may represent a different voice in the liturgy.

47 title See note on Ps 42 title.

47:1–4 The nations are called to rejoice in the God of Israel, the Lord over all the earth—OT anticipation of the evangelization of the nations (see notes on v. 9; 9:1).

47:1 clap your hands. As at the enthronement of a king (see 2 Kin 11:12; see also 98:8) or at other times of rejoicing (see Is 55:12). voice of joy. See 1 Kin 1:40; 2 Kin 11:14.

47:2–3 The Lord of all the earth has shaped the destiny of His people Israel (see 105:6; 135:4; Ex 9:29; 15:1–18; 19:5–6; Deut 7:6; 14:2; Is 41:8).

47:2 to be feared See 68:35; 89:7; 99:3; 111:9; see also note on 45:4. Most High. See note on Gen 14:19. great King. A title often used by the imperial rulers of Assyria (see note on 2 Kin 18:19).

47:3 See 2 Sam 5:17–25; 8:1–14; 10.

47:4 inheritance. The promised land (see Gen 12:7; 17:8; Ex 3:8; Deut 1:8; Jer 3:18). glory. That in which Jacob took supreme delight. Jacob. See note on 14:7.

47:5–6 The center of the poem (see note on 6:6). These verses portray the liturgical ascension of God to the temple—perhaps represented by the processional bearing of the ark into the temple. The ark is symbolic of God's throne; the temple is the earthly symbol of His heavenly palace (see Ps 24; 68).

47:5 a shout . . . sound of a trumpet. See note on v. 1. trumpet. The ram's horn, here announcing the presence of God as King (see 98:6; Ex 19:16,19; Josh 6:4).

47:7–9 The liturgical enthronement of God as world ruler.

47:7 God is the King of all the earth. See 2 Sam 15:10; 2 Kin 9:13; Is 52:7. skillful psalm. A Maskil (see note on Ps 32 title).

47:8 sits on His holy throne. In the most holy place of the temple, where He takes the reins of world rule into His hands (see Jer 17:12). This verse is frequently echoed in Revelation (see Rev 4:9,10; 5:1,7,13; 6:16; 7:10,15; 19:4).

47:9 The nations acknowledge the God of Israel to be the Great King—anticipated as the final effect of God's rule (see note on 46:10). as the people of the God of Abraham. Thus the promises to Abraham will be fulfilled (see Gen 12:2–3; 17:4–6; 22:17–18). shields. See note on 3:3; cf. Is 2:2; 56:7.

Ps 48 A celebration of the security of Zion (as viewed with the eyes of faith) in that it is the city of the Great King (see introductions to Ps 46–47). It may have been sung by the Levitical choir on behalf of the assembled worshipers at the temple. Structure and theme are beautifully matched. The first and last verses combine to frame the whole with a comforting confession concerning Zion's God. The center, v. 8 (see note on 6:6), summarizes the main theme of the body of the psalm. The Hebrew follows a symmetrical pattern: three lines, four lines, four lines, three lines, and develops the theme: (1) the beauty of Zion as God's

In the [b]city of our God, His [c]holy mountain.
2 [a]Beautiful in elevation, [b]the joy of the whole earth,
Is Mount Zion in the far north,
The [c]city of the great King.
3 God, in her palaces,
Has made Himself known as a [a]stronghold.

4 For, lo, the [a]kings assembled themselves,
They passed by together.
5 They saw it, then they were amazed;
They were [a]terrified, they [1]fled in alarm.
6 [1]Panic seized them there,
Anguish, as of [a]a woman in childbirth.
7 With the [a]east wind
You [b]break the [c]ships of Tarshish.
8 As we have heard, so have we seen
In the city of the LORD of hosts, in the city of our God;
God will [a]establish her forever. [1]Selah.

9 We have thought on [a]Your lovingkindness, O God,
In the midst of Your temple.
10 As is Your [a]name, O God,
So is Your [b]praise to the ends of the earth;
Your [c]right hand is full of righteousness.
11 Let Mount [a]Zion be glad,
Let the [a]daughters of Judah rejoice
Because of Your judgments.
12 Walk about Zion and go around her;
Count her [a]towers;
13 Consider her [a]ramparts;
Go through her palaces,
That you may [b]tell it to the next generation.
14 For [1]such is God,
Our God forever and ever;
He will [a]guide us [2]until death.

Psalm 49

For the choir director. A Psalm of the sons of Korah.

1 [a]Hear this, all peoples;
Give ear, all [b]inhabitants of the world,

49:1 [a]Ps 78:1; Is 1:2; Mic 1:2 [b]Ps 33:8

impregnable citadel (vv. 2–3); (2) the futility of all enemy attacks (vv. 4–7); (3) Zion's joy over God's saving acts (vv. 9–11)—related to the second stanza; (4) Zion as impregnable citadel (vv. 12–13)—related to the first stanza. Regularly distributed between the four main stanzas are allusions to the four primary directions (see notes on vv. 2,7,10,13)—suggesting that the city is secure from all points of attack.

48 title Song. See note on Ps 30 title. of the Sons of Korah. See note on Ps 42 title.

48:1 In the city of our God, His holy mountain. See 46:4. our God. Occurs in this psalm only here, in the center (v. 8) and at the end (v. 14). holy mountain. See 43:3; see also note on 2:6.

48:2–3 Describes the lofty impregnability of Mount Zion.

48:2 Beautiful. Its loftiness and secure position are its beauty (see note on 27:4). elevation. Although not the highest ridge in its environment, in its significance as the mountain of God it is the "highest" mountain in the world (see 68:15–16 and note; Is 2:2). joy of the whole earth. Perhaps referring to admiration from other nations, like that expressed by the queen of Sheba (see 1 Kin 10:1–13). great King. See note on 47:2.

48:3 God Himself, not her walls, was Zion's defense, a fact on which the next stanza elaborates (see note on vv. 12–13). her palaces. See v. 13.

48:4–7 The futile attacks of hostile nations—they fled in panic when they saw that the Great King was in Zion. Such events as the destruction of the confederacy in the days of Jehoshaphat (see 2 Chr 20) or the slaughter of the Assyrians in the time of Hezekiah (see 2 Kin 19:35–36) may have been in the psalmist's mind.

48:7 ships of Tarshish. Great merchant ships of the Mediterranean (see 1 Kin 10:22 and note). With the east wind You break. See Acts 27:14; see also 1 Kin 22:48. east. See introduction above.

48:8 The central verse and theme (see note on 6:6). heard . . . seen. "Seen" is climactic, as in Job 42:5. They had heard because "Our fathers have told us The work that You did in their days" (44:1; see 78:3), but now in the liturgical experience of God at His temple they have "seen" how secure the city of God is. LORD of hosts. See note on 1 Sam 1:3. our God. See note on v. 1.

48:9–11 The worshipers meditate at the temple with joy because of God's mighty acts in Zion's behalf.

48:9 In the midst of Your temple. In the temple courts. lovingkindness. See note on 6:4. As is clear from vv. 10–11, reference here is to God's saving acts by which He has expressed His covenant love for His people (see 31:21; 40:9–10).

48:10 name. See note on 5:11. So is Your praise. Praise of God reaches from the temple to the ends of the earth (see 9:11; 22:27). right hand. In Hebrew idiom a subtle reference to the south. righteousness. Righteous acts (see 40:9–10 and note; see also note on 4:1).

48:11 judgments. God's righteous judgments by which He has acted in defense of Zion.

48:12–13 The people contemplate Zion's defense, viewed from the perspective of what they have "seen" (v. 8) at the temple. The strength of Zion's "towers," "ramparts" and "palaces" is the presence of God.

48:13 next generation. Lit. "the generation behind"; in Hebrew idiom "behind" is a subtle reference to the west.

48:14 Our God. See note on v. 1. guide. See notes on 23:1,3.

Ps 49 A word of instruction from the temple following upon Ps 46–48 (see introductions to those psalms). It concerns rich fools who proudly rely on their great wealth and on themselves to assure their security in the world (see Ps 52). The Levitical author knows what it is to be without wealth (see Num 18:21–24; Deut 14:27–29) and has observed the attitudes of many of the rich (see vv. 5–6). He has seen through their folly, however, and offers his wisdom for all to hear (vv. 1–2), so that those who are awed by the rich may be freed from their spell. Inescapable death is their undoing and their destiny, and in the end the "upright will rule over them" (v. 14). The date of this psalm may well be postexilic. See introduction to Ps 37.

49 title See note on Ps 42 title.

49:1–4 Introduction.

49:1–2 More like the address of the prophets (see 1 Kin 22:28; Is 34:1; Mic 1:2) than that of the wisdom teachers (see 34:11; Prov 1:8,10; 2:1).

2 Both [a]low and high,
Rich and poor together.
3 My mouth will [a]speak wisdom,
And the meditation of my heart will be
[b]understanding.
4 I will incline my ear to [a]a proverb;
[b]I will [1]express my [c]riddle on the harp.

5 Why should I [a]fear in days of adversity,
When the iniquity of my [1]foes
surrounds me,
6 Even those who [a]trust in their wealth
And boast in the abundance of their riches?
7 No man can by any means [a]redeem his brother
Or give to God a [b]ransom for him—8 For [a]the redemption of [1]his soul is costly,
And he should cease trying forever—
9 That he should [a]live on eternally,
That he should not [1][b]undergo decay.

10 For he sees that even [a]wise men die;
The [b]stupid and the senseless alike perish
And [c]leave their wealth to others.
11 Their [1][a]inner thought is that their houses [b]are forever
And their dwelling places to all generations;
They have [c]called their lands after their own names.
12 But [a]man in his [1]pomp will not endure;
He is like the [2]beasts that [3]perish.

13 This is the [a]way of those who are foolish,
And of those after them who [b]approve their words. [1]Selah.
14 As sheep they are appointed [a]for [1]Sheol;
Death shall be their shepherd;
And the [b]upright shall rule over them
in the morning,
And their form shall be for [1]Sheol [c]to consume
[2]So that they have no habitation.
15 But God will [a]redeem my soul from the [1]power of [2]Sheol,
For [b]He will receive me. Selah.

16 Do not be afraid [a]when a man becomes rich,
When the [1]glory of his house is increased;
17 For when he dies he will [a]carry nothing away;
His [1]glory will not descend after him.
18 Though while he lives he
[a]congratulates [1]himself—
And though men praise you when you do well for yourself—
19 [1]He shall [a]go to the generation of his fathers;
They will never see [b]the light.
20 [a]Man in his [1]pomp, yet without understanding,
Is [b]like the [2]beasts that [3]perish.

49:3 See Matt 12:34. wisdom. See essay, p. 689. heart. See note on 4:7.
49:4 incline my ear. The wisdom he is about to speak first had to be "heard" by him—all true wisdom is from God (see Job 28). on the harp. Another hint of the author's sense of inspiration (see 1 Sam 10:5–6; 2 Kin 3:15).
49:5–11 Those of little means or power need not be unsettled when surrounded by rich fools who threaten and strut; death is their destiny.
49:7–9 Wealth cannot buy escape from death—not even one's "redeemer" can accomplish it (cf. Ex 21:30; Lev 25:47–49). Only God Himself can redeem a life from the grave (see v. 15 and note).
49:10 Anyone whose "eyes are in his head" (Eccl 2:14) can see that even the wise die (see Eccl 7:2; 9:5) and leave their wealth to others (see Eccl 2:18,21). How much more the fool (see 73:18–20; 92:6–7)! See also 89:48; Job 30:23; Eccl 2:14–16. wise men . . . stupid. Essentially the "righteous" and the "wicked" of Ps 37. wealth. Often gotten by devious means that their foolish "wisdom" had contrived (v. 5). to others. But not to their children (see note on 37:29; see also 39:6; Luke 12:20–21).
49:11 Though they lavish wealth on their tombs (see NASB marg.) and try at least to perpetuate their memory by putting their names to their large landholdings (see Num 32:41) as an enduring memorial, they only suffer the bitter irony of having their graves as their "eternal home" (Eccl 12:5).
49:12 Their epitaph (see note on 10:18; see also Eccl 3:19; 7:2) and the psalm's refrain (see introduction to Ps 42–43).
49:13–15 Their fate and mine—so "why should I fear?" (v. 5).
49:13 foolish. Foolish by trusting in themselves and their wealth, as those who have "succeeded" (see v. 6).
49:14 As sheep. Death is already their shepherd, "guiding" them to the grave. Death shall be their shepherd. Or "Death will feed on them." For the imagery of death (or the grave) as an insatiable monster feeding on its victims see 69:15; 141:7; Prov 1:12; 27:20; 30:15–16; Is 5:14; Jon 2:2 ("depth"; lit. "belly"); Hab 2:5. The imagery is borrowed from Canaanite mythology, which so depicts the god Mot (death). As one Canaanite document reads, "Do not approach divine Mot, lest he put you like a lamb into his mouth." rule over. See Lev 26:17; Is 14:2; perhaps "prevail over" in contrast to the situation referred to in v. 5. in the morning. See vv. 15,19 and notes on 6:5; 11:7; 16:9–11; 17:15. But see also introduction to Ps 57.
49:15 See note on vv. 7–9. redeem my soul from. . . Sheol. While this may refer to saving (for a while) from the universal prospect of death (as in Job 5:20; see 116:8), the context strongly suggests that the author, as one of the upright, speaks of his final destiny. Perhaps the thought is of being conveyed into the presence of God in His heavenly temple, analogous to the later Jewish thought of being conveyed to "Abraham's bosom" (Luke 16:22; see notes on 6:5; 11:7; 16:9–11; 17:15). my soul. See note on 6:3). He will receive me. See 73:24 and note; see also Gen 5:24 and note.
49:16–19 So do not let the present state of the wealthy captivate you.
49:16 his house. His whole estate (see Ex 20:17).
49:19 light. See notes on 27:1; Is 53:11.
49:20 The last word. See note on v. 12.

Psalm 50

A Psalm of [t]Asaph.

1 [a]The Mighty One, God, the LORD, has spoken,
And summoned the earth [b]from the rising of the sun to its setting.
2 Out of Zion, [a]the perfection of beauty,
God [b]has shone forth.
3 May our God [a]come and not keep silence;
[b]Fire devours before Him,
And it is very [c]tempestuous around Him.
4 He [a]summons the heavens above,
And the earth, to judge His people:
5 "Gather My [a]godly ones to Me,
Those who have made a [b]covenant with Me by [c]sacrifice."
6 And the [a]heavens declare His righteousness,
For [b]God Himself is judge. [1]Selah.

7 "[a]Hear, O My people, and I will speak;
O Israel, I will testify [1]against you;
I am God, [b]your God.
8 "I do [a]not reprove you for your sacrifices,
And your burnt offerings are continually before Me.

Ps 50 The Lord calls His covenant people to account as they meet before Him in worship at the temple. (Thus the psalm has links with Ps 46–49; see introductions to those psalms.) The psalm appears to have been composed for a temple liturgy in which Israel reaffirms her commitment to God's covenant. A leader of the Levitical choir addresses Israel on behalf of the Lord (see Ps 15; 24, either of which may have been spoken earlier in the same liturgy). This liturgy was possibly related to the Feast of Booths (see Deut 31:9–13; see also introduction to Ps 47). In its rebuke of a false understanding of sacrifice the psalm has affinity with the prophecies of Amos, Micah and Isaiah and so may date from the late eighth and/or early seventh centuries B.C. Others find a closer relationship with the reformation of Josiah (2 Kin 22:1–23:25) and the ministry of Jeremiah. Structurally, the psalm has three parts: (1) the announcement of the "coming" of Israel's covenant Lord to call His people to account (vv. 1–6); (2) the Lord's words of correction for those of honest intent (vv. 7–15); (3) His sharp rebuke of "the wicked" among them (vv. 16–23).

50 title A traditional ascription of the psalm to Asaph; or it may mean "for Asaph" (see "for Jeduthun" in Ps 39 title) or for the descendants of Asaph who functioned in his place. This psalm may have been separated from the other psalms of Asaph (73–83) because of its thematic links with Ps 46–49. Asaph was one of David's three choir leaders (see note on Ps 39 title).

50:1–6 The Lord comes (v. 3) in the temple worship to correct and rebuke His people: Israel must know that the God of Zion is the God of Sinai (see Ex 19:16–20).

50:1 The Mighty One, God, the LORD. A sequence found elsewhere only in Josh 22:22 (see note there). Ps 50 is noteworthy for its use of numerous names and titles for God (seven in all: three in v. 1, four in the rest of the psalm; see notes on vv. 6,14,21–22). the earth. See "the heavens . . . the earth" (v. 4) and "the heavens" (v. 6). When Moses renewed the covenant between the Lord and Israel on the plains of Moab, he called upon heaven and earth to serve as third-party witnesses to the covenant (Deut 30:19; 31:28). The Lord now summons these to testify that His present word to His people is in complete accord with that covenant (see Is 1:2).

50:2 perfection of beauty. Because God resides there (cf. Ezek 27:3–4,11; 28:12). shone forth. Manifested His glory as He has come to act (see 80:1; 94:1; Deut 33:2; cf. Ezek 28:7,17), now confronting His people, but not yet announcing judgment as in Is 1 or Mic 1.

50:3 May our God come. Or "Our God comes" from His enthronement between the cherubim (see 80:1; 99:1; see also 1 Sam 4:4; 2 Sam 6:2; 2 Kin 19:15) in the most holy place of the temple (see note on 28:2; see also Is 26:21; Mic 1:3). not keep silence. No longer (see v. 21) will He let their sins go unrebuked. Fire . . . tempestuous. See Ex 19:16,18.

50:4 judge. Call them to account in accordance with His covenant.

50:5 godly ones. See note on 4:3. by sacrifice. Sacrifices were a part of the ritual that sealed the covenant (see Ex 24:4–8) and continued to be an integral part of Israel's expression of covenant commitment to the Lord.

50:6 declare. See note on v. 1. righteousness. See note on 5:8. judge. Lord over His people (the Hebrew for "judge" and that for "king" are sometimes used synonymously; see, e.g., Is 33:22). "Judge" occurs as a title for God (see note on v. 1) in, e.g., 94:2; Gen 18:25; Judg 11:27.

50:7–15 The Lord corrects His people.

50:7 My people. "Our God" (v. 3) and "your God" (here) reflect the covenant bond. I am God, your God. See Ex 19:3–6; Lev 19:2–4,10,25,31,34,36; 20:7,24; 22:33; 23:22.

50:8–13 Israel had not failed to bring enough sacrifices (v. 8), but she was ever tempted to think that sacrifices were of first importance to God, as though He was dependent on them. This notion was widespread among Israel's pagan neighbors. See note on 40:6.

50:10 thousand. Used here figuratively for a very large number.

50:12 the world . . . contains. See 24:1 and note.

50:14–15 God wants Israel to acknowledge her dependence on Him, by giving thank offerings for His mercies (v. 14) and by praying to Him in times of need (v. 15; see 116:17–19). Those who do so may expect God's gracious answer to their prayers (stated more directly in v. 23). God also desires obedience to His moral law (see vv. 16–21 and note on 40:6).

50:14 sacrifice of thanksgiving. See Lev 7:12–13. God . . . Most High. That is, God Most High (see 57:2 and note on 3:7). your vows. Vows that accompanied prayer in times of need, usually involving thank offerings (see 66:13–15), always involving praise of the Lord for His answer to prayer (see note on 7:17). Psalm 51

For the choir director. A Psalm of David, when [1]Nathan the prophet came to him, after he had gone in to Bathsheba.

1 [a]Be gracious to me, O God, according to Your lovingkindness;
According to the greatness of [b]Your compassion [c]blot out my transgressions.
2 [a]Wash me thoroughly from my iniquity
And [b]cleanse me from my sin.
3 For [1]I [a]know my transgressions,
And my sin is ever before me.
4 [a]Against You, You only, I have sinned
And done what is [b]evil in Your sight,
So that [c]You [1]are justified [2]when You speak
And [3]blameless when You judge.

5 Behold, I was [a]brought forth in
iniquity,
And in sin my mother conceived me.
6 Behold, You desire [a]truth in the [1]innermost being,
And in the hidden part You will [b]make me know wisdom.
7 [1]Purify me [a]with hyssop, and I shall be clean;

Heb 13:15. Most High. See note on v. 1; see also note on Gen 14:19.

50:15 honor Me. With praise in the fulfillment of the vows (see v. 23)—and, implicitly, with obedience to His covenant law (see following verses).

50:16–23 The Lord's rebuke of the wicked.

50:16 tell of My statutes. Apparently a part of the liturgy of covenant commitment.

50:17 you hate discipline. They formally participate in the holy ritual but reject God's law as the rule for life outside the ritual.

50:19 let your mouth loose in evil. See note on 5:9.

50:21 God's merciful and patient "silence" is distorted by the wicked into bad and self-serving theology (see Eccl 8:11; Is 42:14; 57:11). thought that I was. Or "thought the 'I AM' was"; see Ex 3:14 and note (see also note on v. 1). state the case . . . before your eyes. Set forth the particulars of My indictment before your eyes.

50:22 God. A relatively rare word for "God" (Hebrew Eloah), though common in Job. See note on v. 1.

50:23 See note on vv. 14–15.

Ps 51 David's humble prayer for forgiveness and cleansing. As the prayer of a contrite sinner, it represents a proper response to the Lord's confrontation of His people in Ps 50 (compare v. 16 with 50:8–15). This psalm has many points of contact with Ps 25. In traditional Christian usage it is one of seven penitential psalms (see introduction to Ps 6). The psalm is constructed symmetrically: An introduction (vv. 1–2) balances a two-verse conclusion, and the stanzas in Hebrew consist of five lines, three lines, three lines and five lines respectively. The whole is framed by David's prayer for himself (vv. 1–2) and for Zion (vv. 18–19). The well-being of the king and the city stand and fall together (see 28:8 and note on 3:8).

51 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. when. For the event referred to see 2 Sam 11:1–12:25; see also note on Ps 3 title.

51:1–2 In mercy grant pardon (see Luke 18:13). Note the piling up of synonyms: gracious, lovingkindness, compassion; blot out, wash, cleanse; transgressions, iniquity, sin (for this last triad see note on 32:5).

51:1 lovingkindness. See note on 6:4. blot out. See v. 9. The image is that of a papyrus scroll (see note on 9:5) on which God had recorded David's deeds. The "blotting out" of sins pictures forgiveness (Jer 18:23; see Is 43:25). For the imagery of God's keeping records of the events in His realm in the way that earthly kings do, see 56:8; 87:6; 130:3; 139:16; Neh 13:14; Dan 7:10; see also Ex 32:32–33.

51:2 See v. 7. Wash. As a filthy garment. cleanse me. Make me clean in Your sight (see Lev 11:32).

51:3–6 Confession of sin (cf. Prov 28:13; 1John 1:9).

51:3 before me. On my mind.

51:4 Against You . . . only. David acknowledges that his sin was preeminently against God (see 2 Sam 12:13; cf. Gen 20:6; 39:9; Luke 15:18). He had violated specific covenant stipulations (Ex 20:13–14,17). when You speak . . . when You judge. As the Lord did through Nathan the prophet (2 Sam 12:7–12). For a NT application see Rom 3:4.

51:5 He cannot plead that this sin was a rare aberration in his life; it sprang from what he is and has been (in his "innermost being," v. 6) from birth (see 58:3; Gen 8:21; cf. John 9:34; Eph 2:3). The apparently similar statements in Job 14:4; 15:14;

[2]Wash me, and I shall be [b]whiter than snow.
8 [1]Make me to hear [a]joy and gladness,
Let the [b]bones which You have broken rejoice.
9 [a]Hide Your face from my sins
And blot out all my iniquities.

10 [a]Create [1]in me a [b]clean heart, O God,
And renew [2]a [c]steadfast spirit within me.
11 [a]Do not cast me away from Your presence
And do not take Your [b]Holy Spirit from me.
12 Restore to me the [a]joy of Your salvation
And sustain me with a [b]willing spirit.
13 Then I will [a]teach transgressors Your ways,
And sinners will [1]be [b]converted to You.

14 Deliver me from [a]bloodguiltiness, O God, [b]the God of my salvation;
Then my [c]tongue will joyfully sing of Your righteousness.

A broken and a contrite heart, O God, You will not despise.

18 [a]By Your favor do good to Zion;

19 Then You will delight in [1a]righteous sacrifices,
In [b]burnt offering and whole burnt offering;
Then [2]young bulls will be offered on Your altar.

Psalm 52

For the choir director. A [†]Maskil of David, [•]when Doeg the Edomite came and told Saul and said to him, "David has come to the house of Ahimelech."

1 Why do you [a]boast in evil, O mighty man?
The [b]lovingkindness of God endures all day long.

52:1 [†]Possibly Contemplative, or Didactic, or Skillful Psalm
[•]1 Sam 22:9 [a]Ps 94:4 [b]Ps 52:8

25:4–6 rise from a different motivation.

51:6 The great contrast: He has acted absolutely contrary to what God desires and to what God has been teaching him "in the hidden part." But it is just this "desire" of God and this "teaching" of God that are his hope—what he pleads for in vv. 7,10. truth. Moral integrity. innermost being. See 139:13–16; Job 38:36. hidden part. The most secret place within. wisdom. Whoever gives himself over to sin is a fool; he who has God's law in his heart is wise (see 37:30–31).

51:7–9 Renewed prayer for pardon.

51:7 Purify me. Lit. "Un-sin me." hyssop. Used in ritual cleansing; see note on Ex 12:22. be clean. The Hebrew root for this phrase is the same as that for "cleanse" in v. 2. whiter than snow. Like a filthy garment, he needs washing (see note on v. 2); but if God washes him, he will be so pure that there is no figurative word that can describe him (see Is 1:18; Dan 7:9; Rev 7:14; 19:14).

51:8 Make me to hear joy. Let me be surrounded by joy (see 32:7 and note; see also 35:27), or let me hear a prophetic oracle of forgiveness that will result in joy—from the assurance of sins forgiven (see 2 Sam 12:13). bones. See note on 6:2.

51:9 Hide Your face. From what is "ever before me" (v. 3). blot out. See note on v. 1.

51:10–12 Prayer for purity—for a pure heart, a steadfast spirit of faithfulness and a willing spirit of service. These can be his only if God does not reject him and take His Holy Spirit from him. If granted, the joy of God's salvation will return to gladden his troubled soul.

51:10 Create. As something new, which cannot emerge from what now is (see v. 5), and which only God can fashion (see Gen 1:1; Is 65:17; Jer 31:22). heart. See note on 4:7.

51:11 The two requests are essentially one (see 139:7; Ezek 39:29). David's prayer recalls the rejection of Saul (see 1 Sam 16:1,14; 2 Sam 7:15) and pleads for God not to take away His Spirit, by which He had equipped and qualified him for his royal office (see 1 Sam 16:13; cf. 2 Sam 23:1–2). Holy Spirit. The phrase is found elsewhere in the OT only in Is 63:10–11. By His Spirit, God effected His purposes in creation (see 104:30; Gen 1:2; Job 33:4) and redemption (see Is 32:15; 44:3; 63:11,14; Hag 2:5), equipped His servants for their appointed tasks (see Ex 31:3; Num 11:29; Judg 3:10; 1 Sam 10:6; 16:13; Is 11:2; 42:1), inspired His prophets (see Num 24:2–3; 2 Sam 23:2; Neh 9:30; Is 59:21; 61:1; Ezek 11:5; Mic 3:8; Zech 7:12) and directed their ministries (see 1 Kin 18:12; 2 Kin 2:16; Is 48:16; Ezek 2:2; 3:14). And it is by His Spirit that God gives His people a "new heart and . . . a new spirit" to live by His will (see Ezek 36:26–27; see also Jer 24:7; 32:39; Ezek 11:19; 18:31).

51:13–17 The vow to praise (see note on 7:17).

51:13 His praise for God's forgiveness and purification will be accompanied by instruction for sinners (see Ps 34 and note on 32:8–10). Your ways. See 25:4 and note.

51:14 If God will only forgive, praise will follow. righteousness. See note on 4:1.

51:15 open my lips. By granting the forgiveness and cleansing I seek.

51:16 See note on 40:6.

51:17 broken spirit; A broken and contrite heart. What pleases God more than sacrifices is a humble heart that looks to Him when troubles crush and penitently pleads for mercy when sin has been committed (see 50:7–15 and notes; see also 34:17–18).

51:18–19 Prayer for Zion (see note on 3:8).

51:19 righteous sacrifices. Such as are pleasing to God; here, sacrifices accompanied by praise for God's mercies (see 50:14–15 and notes).

Ps 52 Fearless confidence in God when under attack by an arrogant and evil enemy. David stands in the presence of God and from the high tower of that refuge hurls his denunciation (much like the prophetic denunciation in Is 22:15–19) into the face of his attacker. Though not a wisdom psalm, it has much in common with Ps 49. The extended depiction of David's enemy forms a sharp contrast with the spirit of Ps 51. See also David's denunciation of Goliath (1 Sam 17:45–47).

52 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. Maskil.

Psalm 53

For the choir director; according to [•]Mahalath.
A [•]Maskil of David.

1 [a]The fool has said in his heart, "There is no God,"
They are corrupt, and have committed abominable injustice;
[b]There is no one who does good.
2 God has looked down from heaven upon the sons of men
To see if there is [a]anyone who [1]understands,
Who [b]seeks after God.
3 [a]Every one of them has turned aside; together they have become corrupt;
There is no one who does good, not even one.

4 Have the workers of wickedness [a]no knowledge,
Who eat up My people as though they ate bread
And have not called upon God?
5 There they were in great [1]fear [a]where no [1]fear had been;
For God [b]scattered the bones of [2]him who encamped against you;
You [c]put them to shame, because [d]God had rejected them.
6 Oh, that [a]the salvation of Israel [1]would come out of Zion!

See note on Ps 32 title. when. See note on Ps 3 title. For the event referred to see 1 Sam 22:9–10.

52:1–4 The enemy castigated.

52:1 Why . . . ? By what right? See 50:16; Is 3:15. boast. By act as well as by word (see 75:4–5). mighty man. In his own estimation (see Is 22:17).

52:2 Your tongue. See v. 4; see also note on 5:9.

52:3 Your whole moral sense is perverted. love. Prefer.

52:4 tongue. See note on v. 2.

52:5–7 The enemy's end announced (implicitly a prayer): God will slay you, and the righteous will mock you.

52:5 Note the triple imagery: "break you down," "snatch you up," "uproot you." The arrogant enemy will meet the same end as the rich fools of Ps 49. from your tent. See Job 18:14. uproot you. Contrast v. 8.

52:6 righteous. See note on 1:5. fear. Learn from your downfall (see 40:3 and note on 34:8–14).

52:7 See Ps 49.

52:8–9 David's security is God.

52:8 like a green olive tree. Which lives for hundreds of years. green. See 1:3. It will not be uprooted (see v. 5). in the house of God. Olive trees were not planted in the temple courts, but David had access to God's temple as his refuge (see 15:1; 23:6; 27:4; 61:4 and note), where he was kept safe (see 27:5 and note). lovingkindness. See note on 6:4.

52:9 A vow to praise (see note on 7:17). name. See note on 5:11. godly ones. See note on 4:3.

Ps 53 A testimony concerning the folly of evil men, a somewhat revised duplicate of Ps 14; see introduction there. (The main difference between the two psalms is that here the word "God" is used instead of "the LORD"; see also note on v. 5.) The original psalm may have been revised in the light of an event such as is narrated in 2 Chr 20. Here it also serves as a further commentary on the kind of arrogant fool denounced in Ps 52.

53 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. according to. See note on Ps 6 title. Mahalath. Possibly the name of a tune (see note on Ps 9 title). The Hebrew appears to be the word for "suffering" or "sickness" (see Ps 88 title and note). Perhaps the Hebrew phrase indicates here that the psalm is to be used in a time of affliction, when the godless mock (see Ps 102; see also note on 5:9). Maskil. See note on Ps 32 title.

53:1–4 See notes on 14:1–4.

53:5 Differs considerably from 14:5–6, though the basic thought remains the same: God overwhelms the godless who attack His people. Here the verbs are in the past tense (perhaps to express the certainty of their downfall). where no fear had been. They fell victim to fear when, humanly speaking, they were not even threatened. God's curse fell on them rather than on Israel (see Lev 26:36–37; see also Judg 7:21; 2 Kin 3:22–23; 7:6–7; Prov 28:1). scattered the bones. Over the battlefield of their defeat, their bodies left unburied like something loathsome (see Is 14:18–20; Jer 8:2 and note). God had rejected them. As they had rejected Him.

53:6 See note on 14:7.

Ps 54 A prayer for deliverance from enemies who want to have David killed. The prayer is short, like that of Ps 3; 4; 13; yet it is one of the most typical prayers of the Psalter. Completely symmetrical, the prayer is framed by David's cry for vindication (v. 1) and his statement of assurance that he will look in triumph on his foes (v. 7). A confession of confidence (v. 4) centers the prayer (see 42:8 and note on 6:6). Verses 3,5

When God [2]restores His captive people,
[3]Let Jacob rejoice, let Israel be glad.

Psalm 54

For the choir director; on stringed instruments. A [†]Maskil of David, [•]when the Ziphites came and said to Saul, "Is not David hiding himself among us?"

1 Save me, O God, by [a]Your name,
And [1]vindicate me by [b]Your power.
2 [a]Hear my prayer, O God;
[b]Give ear to the words of my mouth.
3 For strangers have [a]risen against me
And [b]violent men have [c]sought my [1]life;
They have [d]not set God before them.
[2]Selah.

4 Behold, [a]God is my helper;
The Lord is [1]the [b]sustainer of my soul.
5 [1]He will [a]recompense the evil to [2]my foes;
[3b]Destroy them [c]in Your [4]faithfulness.

6 [1a]Willingly I will sacrifice to You;
I will give [b]thanks to Your name, O Lord, for it is good.
7 For [1]He has [a]delivered me from all [2]trouble,
And my eye has [b]looked with satisfaction upon my enemies.

Psalm 55

For the choir director; on stringed instruments. A [†]Maskil of David.

1 [a]Give ear to my prayer, O God;
And [b]do not hide Yourself from my supplication.
2 Give [a]heed to me and answer me;
I am restless in my [b]complaint and [1c]am surely distracted,
3 Because of the voice of the enemy,
Because of the [a]pressure of the wicked;
For they [b]bring down [1]trouble upon me
And in anger they [c]bear a grudge against me.

4 My [a]heart is in anguish within me,
And the terrors of [b]death have fallen upon me.
5 Fear and [a]trembling come upon me,
And [1b]horror has overwhelmed me.
6 I said, "Oh, that I had wings like a dove!
I would fly away and [1a]be at rest.
7 "Behold, I would wander far away,
I would [a]lodge in the wilderness.
[1]Selah.
8 "I would hasten to my place of refuge
From the [a]stormy wind and tempest."

9 [1]Confuse, O Lord, [a]divide their tongues,
For I have seen [b]violence and strife in the city.
10 Day and night they go around her upon her walls,
And iniquity and mischief are in her midst.
11 [a]Destruction is in her midst;
[b]Oppression and deceit do not depart from her [1]streets.

12 For it is [a]not an enemy who reproaches me,

54:1–2 Prayer for God to judge his case (see Ps 17).

54:1 name. See v. 6; see also note on 5:11.

54:3 The case against his enemies. have not set God before them. Like those of Ps 53.

54:4 The confession of confidence and the center of the poem (see 42:8 and note).

54:5 The call for redress (see note on 5:10).

54:6 The vow to praise (see note on 7:17). name. See v. 1; see also note on 5:11.

54:7 Assurance of being heard (see note on 3:8).

Ps 55 A prayer for God's help when threatened by a powerful conspiracy in Jerusalem under the leadership of a former friend. The situation described is like that of Absalom's conspiracy against the king (see 2 Sam 15–17): The city is in turmoil; danger is everywhere; there is uncertainty as to who can be trusted; rumors, false reports and slander are circulating freely. Under such circumstances David longs for a quiet retreat to escape it all (vv. 6–8). That being out of the question, he casts his cares on the Lord, whom he knows he can trust. In its structure, the prayer is framed by a plea for help (v. 1) and a simple confession of faith: "I will trust in You" (v. 23).

55 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. on stringed instruments. See note on Ps 4 title. Maskil. See note on Ps 32 title.

55:1–3 Initial appeal for God to hear.

55:4–8 His heart's anguish.

55:4–5 Danger is everywhere (see 31:13), a danger so great that it is as if death itself were stalking him (see 18:4–5; 116:3).

55:4 heart. See note on 4:7. terrors of death. See 1 Sam 5:11; 15:32; 28:5; Job 18:14.

55:6–8 He longs for a quiet retreat, away from treacherous and conniving people (see similarly Jer 9:2–6).

55:9–11 Prayer for God to foil the plots of his enemies.

55:9 Confuse . . . divide their tongues. Paralyze the conspirators with conflicting designs, as at Babel (Gen 11:5–9; see 2 Sam 17:1–14). the city. See v. 11; Jerusalem.

55:10 iniquity and mischief. Like watchmen on the walls (see 127:1; 130:6; Song 5:7).

55:11 Oppression and deceit. Like watchmen who patrol the city streets (see Song 3:3).

55:12–14 The insults and plots of an enemy can be endured—but those of a treacherous friend?

Then I could bear it;
Nor is it one who hates me who [b]has exalted himself against me,
Then I could hide myself from him.
13 But it is you, a man [1]my equal,
My [a]companion and my [2b]familiar friend;
14 We who had sweet [1]fellowship together
[a]Walked in the house of God in the throng.
15 Let [1]death come [a]deceitfully upon them;
Let them [b]go down alive to [2]Sheol,
For evil is in their dwelling, in their midst.

16 As for me, I shall [a]call upon God,
And the LORD will save me.
17 [a]Evening and [b]morning and at [c]noon, I will complain and murmur,
And He will hear my voice.
18 He will [a]redeem my soul in peace [1]from the battle which is against me,
For they are [b]many who strive with me.
19 God will [a]hear and [1]answer them—
Even the one [b]who [2]sits enthroned from of old— Selah.
With whom there [3]is no change,
And who [c]do not fear God.
20 He has put forth his hands against [a]those who were at peace with him;
He has [1b]violated his covenant.
21 His [1]speech was [a]smoother than butter,
But his heart was war;
His words were [a]softer than oil,
Yet they were drawn [b]swords.

22 [a]Cast [1]your burden upon the LORD and He will sustain you;
[b]He will never allow the righteous to [2c]be shaken.
23 But You, O God, will bring them down to the [1a]pit of destruction;
[b]Men of bloodshed and deceit will [c]not live out half their days.
But I will [d]trust in You.

For the choir director; according to [†]Jonath elem rehokim. A [•]Mikhtam of David, [^]when the Philistines seized him in Gath.

1 Be gracious to me, O God, for man has [1a]trampled upon me;
[2]Fighting all day long he [b]oppresses me.
2 My foes have [1a]trampled upon me all day long,
For [2]they are many who [b]fight proudly against me.
3 [1]When I am [a]afraid,
[2]I will [b]put my trust in You.
4 [a]In God, whose word I praise,
In God I have put my trust;
I shall not be afraid.
[b]What can mere [1]man do to me?
5 All day long they [1a]distort my words;
All their [2b]thoughts are against me for evil.

55:14 in the house of God. Their ties of friendship had been a bond hallowed by common commitment to the Lord and sealed by its public display in the presence of God and the worshipers at the temple.
55:15 Prayer for redress (see note on 5:10). Let death come deceitfully upon them. The conspirators were seeking his death. alive to Sheol. May they go to the grave before life has run its normal course (see v. 23; Num 16:29–33; Prov 1:12; Is 5:14).
55:16–19 Assurance of being heard (see note on 3:8).

Ps 56 A prayer for help when the psalmist is attacked by enemies and his very life is threatened. It is marked by consoling trust in the face of unsettling fear. Structurally, the prayer is framed by an urgent appeal to God (vv. 1–2) and a word of confident assurance (vv. 12–13). An inner frame, vv. 3–4 and vv. 10–11, confesses a sure trust in God in a form that is almost a refrain. The prayer itself is developed in the intervening verses (vv. 5–9).

56:1–2 Initial appeal for God's help.
56:2 proudly. Confident in their position of strength, they take no account of David's God (see notes on 3:2; 5:9; 10:11).
56:3–4 See vv. 10–11; confession of trust in the face of fear.
56:4 word. God's reassuring promise that He will be the God of His people and will come to their aid when they appeal to Him (see 50:15; 91:15; see also 119:74,81; 130:5). mere man. Lit. "flesh"—i.e., man's feebleness compared with God's power (see note on 10:18).
56:5–7 Accusation and call for redress (see note on 5:9–10).
56:5 distort my words. See v. 2.

56:7 See note on 5:10. anger. See note on 2:5.
56:8–9 Appeal for God to take special note of the psalmist's troubles.
56:8 taken account . . . in Your book. Recorded my troubles in Your heavenly royal records as matters calling for Your action (see note on 51:1).
56:9 If God takes such note of his tears that He records them in His book, He will surely respond to David's call for help.
56:10–11 Renewed confession of trust in the face of fear (see vv. 3–4).
56:12–13 Assurance of being heard (see note on 3:8).
56:12 Your vows are binding. Speaking as if his prayer has already been heard, David acknowledges that now he must keep the vows he made to God when he was in trouble (see 66:14 and note on 7:17).
56:13 my soul. See note on 6:3. stumbling. See note on 35:15. before God. See note on 11:7. light of the living. The full blessedness of life (see note on 36:9).
Ps 57 A prayer for deliverance when threatened by fierce enemies (it has many links with Ps 56). The psalm appears to reflect the imagery of the night of danger (v. 4: "I must lie [down] among") followed by the morning of salvation (v. 8: "I will awaken the dawn"). For other instances of these associations see 30:5; 46:5; 59:6,14,16; 63:1,6; 90:14. Verses 7–11 are used again in 108:1–5. The psalm is composed of two parts (vv. 1–5 and vv. 6–11) that are alike in structure—both contain three Hebrew couplets and end with an identical refrain. (For the use of refrains elsewhere see introduction to Ps 42–43.)
57 title See note on Ps 56 title. Al-tashheth. Possibly meaning "Do Not Destroy" (see Ps 58; 59; 75 titles). when. For the event referred to see 1 Sam 24:1–3; see also Ps 142 title.
57:1–5 The prayer.
57:1 Initial cry for God's merciful help. my soul. See note on 6:3. shadow of Your wings. See note on 17:8.
57:2–3 Confidence of being heard.
57:2 Most High. See note on Gen 14:19. who accomplishes all things for me. See 138:8. God will not let David's enemies thwart His divine purposes for anointing him king (see 1 Sam 16:1,12; 2 Sam 7). But the Hebrew can also be translated "who makes an end ⌊of troubles⌋ for me" (see 7:9).
57:3 He will send. God sends His love and faithfulness (here personified; see note on 23:6) as His messengers from heaven to save His servant (see note on 43:3). His lovingkindness and His truth. See note on 26:3. lovingkindness. See note on 6:4.
57:4 The threatening situation. I must lie. As a sheep among lions. those who breathe forth fire. The psalmists often compare their enemies to ferocious beasts (see note on 7:2). (The use of the metaphor here has no connection with the description of Saul and Jonathan in 2 Sam 1:23.) tongue. See note on 5:9.
57:5 A prayer for God to show His exalted power and glory throughout His creation by coming to His servant's rescue (see 7:6–7; 21:13; 46:10; 59:5,8; 113:4–9; cf. Ex 14:4; Is 26:15; 44:23; 59:19; see also note on Ps 46:10).
57:6–11 Praise for God's saving help—confidently anticipating the desired deliverance. For such a sudden transition from prayer to assurance see note on 3:8.
57:6 The threat and its outcome: The enemies suffer the calamity they plotted. net . . . pit. They hunted him as if he

Psalm 58

For the choir director; set to [†]Al-tashheth.
A [•]Mikhtam of David.

1 Do you indeed [1]speak righteousness,
O [2]gods?
Do you [a]judge [3]uprightly, O sons of men?
2 No, in heart you [a]work
unrighteousness;
On earth you [b]weigh out the violence of your hands.
3 The wicked are estranged [a]from the womb;
These who speak lies [b]go astray from [1]birth.
4 They have venom like the [a]venom of a serpent;
Like a deaf cobra that stops up its ear,
5 So that it [a]does not hear the voice of [1b]charmers,
Or a skillful caster of spells.

6 O God, [a]shatter their teeth in their mouth;
Break out the fangs of the young lions,
O LORD.
7 Let them [a]flow away like water that runs off;
When he [1b]aims his arrows, let them be as [2]headless shafts.
8 Let them be as a snail which [1]melts away as it goes along,
Like the [a]miscarriages of a woman which never see the sun.
9 Before your [a]pots can feel the fire of thorns

were a wild beast, but the "lions" themselves were caught.
57:7 All cause for fear has been removed. heart. See note on 4:7. is steadfast. Feels secure (see 112:7).
57:8 Awake . . . Awake. Greet with joy the dawn of the day of deliverance (see Is 51:9,17; 52:1). glory. See note on 7:5. harp and lyre. Instruments (here personified) to accompany the praise of the Lord at His temple in celebration of deliverance (see 71:22; 81:2; and note on Ps 4 title). awaken the dawn. With joyful cries proclaiming God's saving act. (Dawn, too, is here personified—the Canaanites even deified it.)
57:9–10 The vow to praise (see notes on 7:17; 9:1).
57:10 lovingkindness. See note on 6:4. lovingkindness . . . truth. That is, lovingkindness-and-truth (see v. 3; note on 36:5; see also note on 3:7). to the heavens . . . to the clouds. See note on 36:5.
57:11 The refrain (see v. 5), but now as praise (see 18:46; 30:1; 34:3; 35:27; 40:16; 70:4; 92:8; 97:9; 99:2; 113:4; 148:13).
Ps 58 A prayer for God, the supreme Judge, to set right the affairs of men, judging those rulers who corrupt justice, and championing the cause of the righteous. (The psalm was applied by the early church to Jesus' trial before the Sanhedrin; see Matt 26:57–68 and parallels.) Concern for the just use of judicial power is pervasive throughout the OT. This was the primary agency in the administrative structures of the ancient Near East for the protection of the innocent, usually the poor and powerless, against the assaults of unscrupulous men, usually the rich and powerful. Israelite society was troubled with the corruption of this judicial power from the days of Samuel to the end of the monarchy (see, e.g., 1 Sam 8:3; Is 1:23; 5:23; 10:1–2; Ezek 22:6,12; Amos 5:7,10–13; Mic 3:1–3,9–11; 7:2). Even in David's time all was not well (see 2 Sam 15:1–4). For the central concern of this psalm see Ps 82. Structurally, the psalm is framed by a rhetorical address to the wicked judges in their absence (vv. 1–2) and by a reassuring word to "the righteous" (vv. 9–11). The frame also emphasizes the fact that those who do not judge uprightly (v. 1) will be judged by God (v. 11).
58 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. set to. See note on Ps 9 title. Al-tashheth. See Ps 57; 59; 75 titles. Mikhtam. See note on Ps 16 title.
58:1–5 Accusation against the wicked judges whose mouths, hearts and hands (vv. 1–2) are united in the pursuit of injustice.
58:1 gods. See NASB marg.; a title applied to those whose administrative positions called upon them to act as earthly representatives of God's heavenly court (see Ex 22:8–9, where the Hebrew for "gods" is translated "judges"; see also Deut 1:17; 2 Chr 19:6). speak righteousness. Make just judicial pronouncements.
58:2 heart. See note on 4:7. weigh out the violence. Issue decisions that result in cruel injustice.
58:3 from the womb . . . from birth. Their corrupt ways are not sporadic; they act in accordance with their nature (see 51:5). Here reference is to the wicked; the author does not make a general statement about all people, as is the case in Gen 6:5; 8:21; Job 14:4; 15:14–16; 25:4–6. The wicked. See their description in Ps 10. speak lies. They have never been concerned for the truth (see John 8:44).
58:4 venom. What issues from their mouths is as cruel and deadly as the venom of snakes (see 140:3; Matt 23:33; James 3:8). stops up its ear. They are incorrigible; nothing—neither appeals nor threats—will move them.
58:6–8 Prayer for God to purge the land of such perverse judges. The author uses imagery drawn from conventional curses of the ancient Near East (see note on 5:10).
58:6 Let the weapons of their mouths (see 57:4) be broken and torn out. lions. See note on 7:2.
58:7 water that runs off. And is absorbed by the ground. arrows. Malicious pronouncements (see 57:4 and note on 5:9).
58:8 snail. Or "slug," that appears to dry up to nothing as it moves over a stone in the hot sun.
58:9–11 Assurance that God will surely judge them (see note on 3:8).
58:9 The meaning of the Hebrew for this verse is uncertain. The verse may be speaking picturesquely of the speed of God's judgment—speed probably signifying here the inescapable certainty of His judgment (see note on 37:10; see also Luke 18:7–8). thorns. Twigs from wild thorn bushes were used as fuel for quick heat (see 118:12; Eccl 7:6). sweep them away. As by a storm—God's storm (see Job 27:21).

He will [b]sweep them away with a whirlwind, the [1]green and the burning alike.

10 The [a]righteous will rejoice when he [b]sees the vengeance;
He will [c]wash his feet in the blood of the wicked.
11 And men will say, "Surely there is a [1][a]reward for the righteous;
Surely there is a God who [b]judges [2]on earth!"

58:10 righteous. Here a judicial term for those who are in the right but who have been wronged (see note on 1:5). when he sees the vengeance. When the wrongs committed against them are redressed. wash his feet in the blood. Vivid imagery borrowed from the literary conventions of the ancient Near East (see 68:23). Its origin is the exaggerated language of triumphant reports of victory on the battlefield.

58:11 The climax: When God has judged the unjust "gods" (see note on v. 1), all people will see that right ultimately triumphs under God's just rule (see note on 46:10). No more will people despair, like those in Mal 3:15.

Ps 59 A prayer for deliverance when endangered by enemy attacks. If originally composed by David under the circumstances noted in the superscription, it must have been revised for use by one of David's royal sons when Jerusalem was under siege by a hostile force made up of troops from many nations—as when Hezekiah was besieged by the Assyrians (see 2 Kin 18:19). (Some, however, ascribe it to Nehemiah; see Neh 4.) The enemy weapon most prominent is the tongue, attacking with slander and curses. In this psalm, too, the imagery of the night of danger (vv. 6,14), followed by the morning of deliverance (v. 16), is evoked (see introduction to Ps 57). Regarding the structure, the two halves of the psalm (vv. 1–9,10–17) each conclude with an almost identical refrain (vv. 9,17), preceded by a characterization of the enemies (vv. 6,14). The first half of the psalm is predominantly prayer, the second half predominantly assurance of deliverance. The whole is framed by a cry for protection (v. 1) and a joyful confession that God is the psalmist's "stronghold" (v. 17, in Hebrew the same root as that for "Set me securely" in v. 1).

59 title See note on Ps 56 title. Al-tashheth. See Ps 57; 58; 75 titles. when. For the event referred to see 1 Sam 19:11.

59:1–2 The cry for deliverance.

59:1 Set me securely. Lit. "Raise me to a high, secure place."

59:2 those who do iniquity . . . men of bloodshed. Common characterizations of those who attack the psalmists out of malice.

59:3–5 By curses and lies (v. 12) the enemies seek to justify their attacks, but the psalmist protests his innocence and pleads with God to judge those who wrong him (see 58:11).

59:3 set an ambush. See 10:8–9 and note on 7:2.

59:4 Arouse Yourself. See note on 3:7.

59:5 LORD God of hosts. See note on 1 Sam 1:3. God of Israel. This appeal to the Lord as the God of Israel to punish the nations makes clear that the attack on the psalmist involves an attack by the nations on Israel. Awake. See note on 7:6. punish . . . Do not be gracious. See note on 5:10. treacherous in iniquity. Whether Israelites had joined in the attack is not clear; the Hebrew indicates only that the enemies were treacherous.

59:6–8 Confidence: Surely God mocks such a pack of dogs (see 22:16–17).

59:6 around the city. The enemies besiege the city like dogs at night on the prowl for food (see vv. 14–15).

59:7 Swords are in their lips. Their "curses and lies" (v. 12). For the imagery see 57:4; see also note on 5:9. they say. See note on 3:2.

59:9 watch. Hebrew shamar (see note on v. 17). The psalmist watches as one who longingly waits for the morning (of salvation); see 130:6.

59:10–13 The prayer renewed. Confident that the Lord will hear his prayer (v. 10) and will punish the nations (v. 5), the psalmist prays that God will not sweep them away suddenly but will prolong their punishment so that Israel ("my people," v. 11) will not forget God's acts of salvation, as they had done so often before (see 78:11; 106:13). Nevertheless, the psalmist asks God not to allow the enemies to escape the full consequences of their malice (vv. 12–13).

59:10 lovingkindness. See note on 6:4.

11 Do not slay them, [a]or my people will forget;
[1b]Scatter them by Your power, and bring them down,
O Lord, [c]our shield.
12 [1]On account of the [a]sin of their mouth and the words of their lips,
Let them even be [b]caught in their pride,
And on account of [c]curses and [2]lies which they utter.
13 [1a]Destroy them in wrath, [1]destroy them that they may be no more;
That men may [b]know that God [2]rules in Jacob
To the ends of the earth. Selah.
14 They [a]return at evening, they howl like a dog,
And go around the city.
15 They [a]wander about [1]for food
And [2]growl if they are not satisfied.

16 But as for me, I shall [a]sing of Your strength;
Yes, I shall [b]joyfully sing of Your lovingkindness in the [c]morning,
For You have been my [d]stronghold

For the choir director; according to †Shushan Eduth. A •Mikhtam of David, to teach; ^when he struggled with Aram-naharaim and with Aram-zobah, and Joab returned, and smote twelve thousand of Edom in the Valley of Salt.

1 O God, [a]You have rejected us. You have [1b]broken us;
You have been [c]angry; O, [d]restore us.
2 You have made the [1a]land quake, You have split it open;
[b]Heal its breaches, for it totters.
3 You have [1a]made Your people experience hardship;

59:11 scatter them. Like vagabonds, with no place to settle (see Gen 4:12; 2 Sam 15:20; Lam 4:15) and having to hunt for food (like dogs, v. 15; see 109:10; Amos 4:8). shield. See note on 3:3.
59:12 See note on v. 7. caught in their pride. Let the pride with which they treacherously attack the Lord's servant and his people be the trap that catches them. curses and lies. See 10:7 and note.
59:13 That men may know. When God has thus dealt with Israel's enemies, all the world will acknowledge that the Judge of all the earth (see 58:11) is the God of Israel. Jacob. See note on 14:7.
59:14–16 Assurance of being heard (see note on 3:8). Just as God mocks the defiant pack of dogs (vv. 6–8), so the psalmist will sing for joy at God's triumph over them.
59:16 strength . . . lovingkindness . . . stronghold. See the refrain (vv. 9,17). morning. See introduction.
59:17 The vow to praise (see note on 7:17). sing. Hebrew zamar (see note on v. 9). The play on words in the refrain marks an advance from watching during the night of danger to singing in the morning of salvation.
Ps 60 A national prayer for God's help after suffering a severe blow by a foreign nation, presumably Edom (see v. 9). The prayer leader may have been the king (the "me" in v. 9), as in 2 Chr 20. The lament that God has "rejected" (v. 1) His people and no longer accompanies their armies links the psalm with Ps 44. Verses 5–12 appear again in 108:6–13. As for its structure, the prayer is framed by three verses lamenting God's rejection of His people (vv. 1–3) and three verses expressing confidence that the God who has rejected them will yet give them victory (vv. 10–12). This transition from lament to confidence constitutes the overarching movement of the prayer. Verses 4–8 contain the plea for help (v. 5) and the grounds for confidence (vv. 4,6–8).
60 title See note on Ps 56 title. Shushan Eduth. Means "The Lily of the Covenant" (see Ps 80 title and note on Ps 45 title). to teach. Only here in the psalm titles. For other songs that Israel was to learn see Deut 31:19,21; 2 Sam 1:18. That it was intended for a variety of uses, especially to convey confidence in times of national threat, is illustrated by its use in Ps 108. when. For the events referred to see 2 Sam 8; 1 Chr 18 (perhaps also 2 Sam 10). If the tradition that assigns the prayer to these events is correct, it must be supposed that our knowledge of the events is incomplete, since these accounts do not mention Edom. The Israelite war against Edom at this time of great northern battles may have been occasioned by an attack on the part of Edom trying to take advantage of Israel's preoccupation elsewhere, an attack in which Edom succeeded in overrunning the garrisons that guarded Judah's southern borders.
60:1–3 Lament over God's rejection of His people (see 44:9–16; 89:38–45) and prayer for restoration.
60:1 rejected us. At least momentarily (see 30:5). Defeat by the enemy is interpreted as a sign of God's anger (though no reason for that anger is noted, and the bond between Israel and God is not broken). broken us. Like a flood (see 2 Sam 5:20).
60:2 made the land quake. As by a devastating earthquake—such as was occasionally experienced in ancient Canaan.
60:3 wine . . . that makes us stagger. God has made them drink from the cup of His wrath rather than from His cup of blessing and salvation (see note on 16:5).
60:4–8 A plea for help, grounded in reasons for confidence.
60:4 banner. Banners were used as rallying points for troops in preparation for battle and for leading them into action. This practice is often alluded to in Isaiah (5:26; 11:10,12; 13:2; 18:3; 30:17; 49:22; 62:10) and Jeremiah (4:21, "standard"; 50:2; 51:12,27). It is possible to read v. 4 as a petition, in which case it pleads for God to rally the troops of Israel and lead them against the foe. If, however, it is an expression of confidence (as the NASB renders it), the "banner" must be the reassuring word from God recited in vv. 6–8 (see Ex 17:15). those who fear You. Your people, in distinction from the nations (see 61:5; see also note on Gen 20:11).

That it may be displayed because of the truth. [1]Selah.
5 [a]That Your [b]beloved may be delivered,

7 "[a]Gilead is Mine, and Manasseh is Mine;

8 "[a]Moab is My washbowl;

9 Who will bring me into the besieged city?
Who [1]will lead me to Edom?
10 Have not You Yourself, O God,
[a]rejected us?
And [b]will You not go forth with our armies, O God?
11 O give us help against the adversary,
For [a]deliverance [1]by man is in vain.

And it is He who will [b]tread down our adversaries.

Psalm 61

For the choir director; on a stringed instrument.
A Psalm of David.

1 [a]Hear my cry, O God;
[b]Give heed to my prayer.
2 From the [a]end of the earth I call to You when my heart is [b]faint;
Lead me to [c]the rock that is higher than I.
3 For You have been a [a]refuge for me,
A [b]tower of strength [1]against the enemy.

61:1 [a]Ps 64:1 [b]Ps 86:6
2 [a]Ps 42:6 [b]Ps 77:3 [c]Ps 18:2; 94:22
3 [1]Lit from [a]Ps 62:7 [b]Ps 59:9; Prov 18:10

60:5 Your beloved. The Hebrew for this expression is here a word of special endearment, as in 127:2; 2 Sam 12:25; Jer 11:15.

60:6–8 A comforting oracle from the Lord, perhaps recalling an already ancient word from the time of the conquest. If so, it may have been preserved in the "Book of the Wars of the LORD" (Num 21:14). In any event, the Lord is depicted as Israel's triumphant Warrior-King (see Ex 15:3,13–18).

60:6 portion out . . . measure out. Divide His conquered territory among His servant people who were with Him in the battles. Shechem . . . Succoth. Places representative of the territory west and east of the Jordan taken over by the Lord and Israel (see Gen 33:17–18; 1 Kin 12:25).

60:7 Israel is the Lord's kingdom—the land conquered and His people established within it. Gilead . . . Manasseh. Half of Manasseh was established in Gilead, east of the Jordan, and half of it west of the Jordan, just north of Ephraim (see Josh 13:29–31; 17:5–11). This once again showed that the Lord's kingdom included territory both east and west of the Jordan. Ephraim . . . Judah. The two leading tribes of Israel, the one representative of the Rachel tribes (Ephraim) in the north, the other of the Leah tribes (Judah) in the south; see Gen 48:13–20; 49:8–12; Num 2:3,18; Josh 15–16. Together they represented all Israel (Is 11:13; Zech 9:13). helmet. As a powerful and aggressive tribe (Deut 33:17; Judg 7:24–8:3; 12:1), Ephraim figuratively represents the Lord's helmet. scepter. Called such because from Judah would come (Gen 49:10)—and had now come (1 Sam 16:1–13)—the Lord's chosen earthly regent over His people (see 2 Sam 7).

60:8 Moab . . . Edom . . . Philistia. Perpetual enemies on Israel's eastern, southern and western borders respectively (see Ex 15:14–15; see also Ex 13:17; Num 20:14–21; 22–24). is My washbowl. Is reduced to a household vessel in which the Lord washes His feet (Gen 18:4). The metaphor is perhaps suggested by the fact that Moab lay along the east shore of the Dead Sea. throw My shoe. Perhaps refers to the conventional symbolic act by which one claimed possession of land (cf. Ruth 4:7).

60:9 A rhetorical question following the reassuring oracle and leading to the confidence expressed in vv. 10–12. me . . . me. Possibly referring to the king (see introduction), though the praying community may be referring to itself collectively (see note on Ps 30 title). lead me. As God went before His people into battle in the desert (Ex 13:21) and during the conquest (Ex 23:27–28; 33:2; Deut 9:3; 31:8).

60:10–12 Confidence of victory (see note on 3:8).

60:10 rejected. See v. 1.

60:11 help. Lit. "salvation" (see v. 5, "Save"). by man. See 33:17.

60:12 do valiantly. Lit. "do mighty things." With God's help Israel will achieve in a manner similar to that of the Lord Himself (see 118:15–16) and will triumph over Edom (see Num 24:18, "performs valiantly"). tread down. Like a victorious warrior (see Is 14:19, 25; Jer 12:10; Zech 10:5).

Ps 61 A prayer for restoration to God's presence. The circumstances appear to be similar to those referred to in Ps 42–43. Here, however, a king is involved (v. 6), and if the author was David, he may have composed this prayer at the time of his flight from Absalom (see 2 Sam 17:21–29). For another possibility see note on v. 2. Ps 61–64 form a series linked together by the common theme of trust in God when under threat. Structurally, the prayer is framed by a cry to God (v. 1) and a vow to praise (v. 8).

61 title See note on Ps 4 title.

61:1 Initial plea for God to hear.

61:2–3 The prayer.

61:2 end of the earth. So it seemed (see 42:6). Possibly the phrase here refers to the brink of the nether world, i.e., the grave (see 63:9); the psalmist feels himself near death. heart. See note on 4:7. Lead me. See 23:2. rock. Secure place (see 27:5; 40:2). higher than I. The place of security that he seeks is beyond his reach; only God can bring him to it. Since God is often confessed by the psalmists to be their "rock" ("rock of strength" in 31:2; "rock of habitation" in 71:3; see also 18:2; 62:2,6–7; 94:22), it may be that God Himself is that higher "rock" (the secure refuge) that the psalmist pleads for (see v. 3). Or it may be the secure refuge of God's sanctuary (see v. 4; see also 27:5).

61:3 The reason he appeals to God: God has never failed him as a refuge. enemy. If this is a prayer when faced with death, death is the present foe (see 68:20; 141:8; Job 33:22; Is 25:8; 28:15; Jer 9:21; Hos 13:14; see also 1 Cor 15:26). See note on 49:14.

4 Let me [1][a]dwell in Your tent forever;
Let me [b]take refuge in the shelter of
Your wings. [2]Selah.

5 For You have heard my [a]vows, O God;
You have given me the inheritance of those who [b]fear Your name.
6 You will [1][a]prolong the king's [2]life;
His years will be as many generations.
7 He will [1]abide [a]before God forever;
Appoint [b]lovingkindness and truth that they may preserve him.
8 So I will [a]sing praise to Your name
forever,
That I may [b]pay my vows day by day.

Psalm 62

For the choir director; [†]according to Jeduthun.
A Psalm of David.

1 [a]My soul waits in silence for God only;
From Him [b]is my salvation.
2 He only is my [a]rock and my salvation,
My [b]stronghold; I shall not be greatly shaken.

3 How long will you assail a man,
That you may murder him, all of you,
Like a [a]leaning wall, like a tottering fence?
4 They have counseled only to thrust him down from his high position;
They [a]delight in falsehood;
They [b]bless with [1]their mouth,
But inwardly they curse. [2]Selah.

5 My soul, [a]wait in silence for God only,
For my hope is from Him.
6 He only is [a]my rock and my salvation,
My stronghold; I shall not be shaken.
7 On God my [a]salvation and my glory rest;
The rock of my strength, my [b]refuge is in God.
8 [a]Trust in Him at all times, O people;
[b]Pour out your heart before Him;
God is a refuge for us. Selah.

9 Men of [a]low degree are only [b]vanity and men of rank are a [c]lie;
In the [d]balances they go up;
They are together lighter than breath.
10 [a]Do not trust in oppression
And do not [1]vainly hope in [b]robbery;
If riches increase, [c]do not set your heart upon them.

61:4–5 Longing for the security of God's sanctuary (see 27:5 and note).
61:4 dwell in. See note on 15:1. tent. Residence (see 2 Sam 6:17; 7:2; 1 Kin 1:39; 2:28–30). shelter of Your wings. See note on 17:8.
61:5 The reason for his longing: Either (1) because God has been so responsive to him in the past, or (2) confidence that his longing is about to be satisfied. my vows. The vows that accompanied his prayers (see 50:14; 66:14; see also note on 7:17). inheritance. A place with God's people in the promised land, together with all that the Lord had promised to give and to be to His people (see 16:6; 37:18; 135:12; 136:21–22). those who fear. See 60:4 and note. Your name. See note on 5:11.
61:6–7 Prayer for the king's long life. The king himself may have made this prayer—such transitions to the third person are known from the literature of the ancient Near East—or it may be the prayer of the people, perhaps voiced by a priest or Levite. Later Jewish interpretations applied these verses to the Messiah. They are fulfilled in Christ, David's great Son.
61:6 May the king live forever (see note on 45:6).
61:7 abide before God. See note on 41:12. lovingkindness and truth. Personified as God's messengers (see notes on 23:6; 43:3; see also note on 26:3).
61:8 The vow to praise (see note on 7:17).
Ps 62 The psalmist commits himself to God when threatened by the assaults of conspirators who wish to dethrone him. The author surely was a king and, if it was David, the circumstances could well have been the efforts of the family of Saul to topple him. Verse 3 suggests a time of weakness and may indicate advanced age. Implicitly the psalm is an appeal to God to uphold him. No psalm surpasses it in its expression of simple trust in God (see Ps 31 and introduction to Ps 61). The psalm is composed of three parts: vv. 1–4, 5–8, 9–12. The middle stanza (vv. 5–8), which begins by echoing vv. 1–2, constitutes the central expression of trust and hope. The whole is framed by a confession of tranquil resting in God (vv. 1–2) and the reason for such trust (vv. 11–12). The remaining verses (vv. 3–4,9–10) speak of those who threaten.
62 title See note on Ps 39 title.
62:1–4 Confidence in God in the face of conspiracy.
62:1 My soul. See note on 6:3. waits in silence. Lit. "is silence," i.e., is in repose.
62:2,6 shaken. See note on 10:6.
62:3 Question to the assailants: Will you never give up? leaning wall . . . tottering fence. A metaphor for David's fragile condition: either (1) a confession that he has no strength in himself, or (2) an acknowledgment that he is in a weakened condition—or, perhaps, (3) a reflection on how his enemies perceive him, a "pushover."
62:4 high position. Throne. falsehood . . . curse. See note on 10:7. bless. For example, "Long live the king!" (1 Sam 10:24; 2 Sam 16:16; see also 1 Kin 1:25,34,39).
62:5–8 Trust in God: an exhortation to himself (v. 5) and to the people (v. 8).
62:5 wait in silence. See note on v. 1; faith encouraging faith (see 27:13–14; 42:5,11; 43:5).
62:8 Exhortation to God's people (see 31:23–24). Pour out your heart. In earnest prayer (see Lam 2:19). heart. See note on 4:7.
62:9–12 Frail, misguided man; mighty, trustworthy God.
62:9–10 Man, as a threat, is nothing (see note on 10:18).
62:9 Men of low degree . . . men of rank. Persons of every condition. lie . . . breath. People appear to be much more than a puff of wind, especially the rich and powerful.
62:10 A warning to those (including those conspiring against him) who trust in their own devices to get what they want (by fair means or foul) rather than trusting in God to sustain them—a virtual summary of Ps 49. heart. See note on 4:7.

12 And lovingkindness [a]is Yours, O Lord,
For You [b]recompense a man according to his work.

Psalm 63

A Psalm of David, [†]when he was in the wilderness of Judah.

1 O God, [a]You are my God; I shall seek You [1]earnestly;
My soul [b]thirsts for You, my flesh [2]yearns for You,
In a [c]dry and weary land where there is no water.
2 Thus I have [a]seen You in the sanctuary,
To see Your power and Your glory.
3 Because Your [a]lovingkindness is better than life,
My lips will praise You.
4 So I will bless You [a]as long as I live;
I will [b]lift up my hands in Your name.
5 My soul is [a]satisfied as with [1]marrow and fatness,
And my mouth offers [b]praises with joyful lips.

Psalm 64

For the choir director. A Psalm of David.

1 Hear my voice, O God, in [a]my [1]complaint;
[b]Preserve my life from dread of the enemy.
2 Hide me from the [a]secret counsel of evildoers,

62:11–12 The climax: recollection of God's reassuring word to His people. power . . . lovingkindness. Able to do all that He has promised; committed to His people's salvation and blessedness.
62:11 Once . . . Twice. See note on Amos 1:3.
62:12 lovingkindness. See note on 6:4. For. Ultimately every person will experience God's righteousness (see note on 5:8). recompense . . . according to. See notes on Jer 17:10; 32:19.
Ps 63 A confession of longing for God and for the security His presence offers when deadly enemies threaten. That longing is vividly described by the metaphor of thirst (v. 1) and hunger (v. 5; see 42:1–2). Like Ps 62 this psalm is an implicit prayer. It is linked to that psalm also by the advancement from hearing (62:11) to seeing (v. 2; see 48:8 and note). The imagery of the night of danger (v. 6) and the morning of salvation (see note on v. 1) once more occurs (see introduction to Ps 57). This psalm was prescribed for daily public prayers of the early church. In its structure, the initial expression of longing (v. 1) gives way at the end to the expectation of joy (v. 11)—the literary frame of the psalm. What he has seen in the sanctuary (v. 2) he remembers on his bed at night (v. 6), and that reassures him that his enemies will suffer the end they plot for him (vv. 9–10).
63 title See note on Ps 3 title. when. If this tradition is correct, the reference is probably to 2 Sam 15:23–28; 16:2,14; 17:16,29 since the psalmist is referred to as king (see v. 11).
63:1 Intense longing for God in a time of need. earnestly. Lit. "at dawn," "in the morning." My soul . . . my flesh. I, with my whole being (see note on 6:3). dry and weary land. A metaphor for his situation of need, in which he does not taste "marrow and fatness" (v. 5) supplied by the "river whose streams make glad the city of God" (see 46:4 and note).
63:2–5 Comforting reflection on what he had seen in the sanctuary; it awakens joyful expectations.
63:2 See 27:4; 48:8 and notes.
63:3 lovingkindness. See note on 6:4.
63:4 name. See note on 5:11. lift up my hands. In praise.
63:5 soul. See note on 6:3.
63:6–8 Night reflections, remembering what he had seen "in the sanctuary" (v. 2).
63:6 on my bed. At night as he expectantly awaits the dawning of the morning of deliverance. the night watches. See note on Judg 7:19; see also 119:148; Lam 2:19.
63:7 shadow of Your wings. See note on 17:8.
63:9–10 His enemies will get what they deserve; in seeking his life they forfeit their own (see Gen 9:5; Ex 21:23; Deut 19:21; see also note on Ps 5:10).
63:9 depths. See note on 30:1. earth. Here, the nether world or grave (see note on 61:2).
63:10 prey for foxes. Like bodies of enemies left unburied on the battlefield to add to their disgrace (see note on 53:5).
63:11 Everyone who swears by Him. Those who revere and trust God (see Deut 6:13). mouths of those who speak lies. Those who live by falsehood.
Ps 64 Prayer to God for protection when threatened by a conspiracy. The circumstances may be similar to those reflected in Ps 62 (see introduction to that psalm), but here there is no allusion to the king's weakened condition, and it is not clear whether the conspirators come from within or outside Israel (see note on v. 2). As so often in the prayers of the Psalter, the enemy's tongue is his main weapon (see note on 5:9). The prayer is framed by a plea for protection (vv. 1–2) and a confident word concerning the effects of God's saving action (vv. 9–10). At the center, vv. 5–6 describe the disdainful confidence of the conspirators. Verses 3–4 relate how the enemies attack with their tongues, while vv. 7–8 proclaim how God will turn their tongues against them.
64 title See note on Ps 4 title.
64:1–2 The prayer for protection.
64:1 Hear. In Hebrew a wordplay on the word for "be glad" in v. 10 (see note there).

They say, "[b]Who can see them?"
6 They [1]devise injustices, saying,
"We are [2]ready with a well-conceived plot";
For the [3][a]inward thought and the heart of a man are [4]deep.

7 But [a]God [1]will shoot at them with an arrow;
Suddenly [2]they will be wounded.
8 So [1]they [2]will [a]make him stumble;
[b]Their own tongue is against them;
All who see them will [c]shake the
head.
9 Then all men [1]will [a]fear,
And they [2]will [b]declare the work of God,
And [3]will consider [4]what He has done.
10 The righteous man will be [a]glad in the LORD and will [b]take refuge in Him;
And all the upright in heart will glory.

Psalm 65

For the choir director. A Psalm of David. A Song.

1 There will be silence [1]before You, and praise in Zion, O God,
And to You the [a]vow will be performed.
2 O You who hear prayer,
To You [a]all [1]men come.
3 [1][a]Iniquities prevail against me;
As for our transgressions, You
[2][b]forgive them.
4 How [a]blessed is the one whom You
[b]choose and bring near to You
To dwell in Your courts.
We will be [c]satisfied with the goodness of Your house,
Your holy temple.

5 By [a]awesome deeds You answer us in righteousness, O [b]God of our salvation,
You who are the trust of all the [c]ends of the earth and of the farthest
[1][d]sea;
6 Who [a]establishes the mountains by
His strength,
Being [b]girded with might;
7 Who [a]stills the roaring of the seas,
The roaring of their waves,

64:2 tumult. The Hebrew root underlying this expression is the same as that for "uproar" in 2:1.
64:3–4 The enemy attacks.
64:3 tongue. See note on 5:9. swords . . . arrow. See 59:7.
64:4 do not fear. They feel themselves secure from exposure and retaliation, but see vv. 7–8.
64:5–6 The enemies' contemptuous self-confidence.
64:5 They say. See notes on 3:2; 10:11.
64:6 heart. See note on 4:7. deep. See Prov 18:4; 20:5.
64:7–8 Confidence in God's righteous judgment: He will do to them what they had intended to do to David (see 63:9–10 and note). shoot . . . arrow, Suddenly . . . tongue. See vv. 3–4.
64:8 shake the head. In scorn (see 44:14 and note).
64:9–10 The happy effects of God's judgment: All mankind will fear, proclaim, ponder (see note on 46:10); the righteous will rejoice, take refuge, praise.
64:9 See 58:11; see also 40:3; 52:6; 65:8.
64:10 righteous. See note on 1:5. be glad. In Hebrew this is the first word of this verse, and it is a wordplay on the Hebrew for "Hear," which is the first word of the first verse.
Ps 65 A hymn in praise of God's great goodness to His people. In answer to their prayers (1) He pardons their sins so that they continue to enjoy the "goodness" of fellowship with Him at His temple (vv. 3–4); (2) He orders the affairs of the world so that international turbulence is put to rest and Israel is secure in her land (vv. 5–8); and (3) He turns the promised land into a veritable Garden of Eden (vv. 9–13). This hymn begins a series of four that are linked by many common themes.
65 title See notes on Ps 4; 30 titles.
65:1–2 Introductory commitment to praise.
65:1 silence before You. Perhaps the imagery is that of praise personified as a permanent resident of the temple, lying quietly at rest, whom the people will awaken when they come to make good their vows (see 57:8). the vow. Made in conjunction with their prayers in time of need (see 66:14 and note on 7:17).
65:2 all men. Lit. "all flesh," perhaps referring to all God's people, as in Joel 2:28 ("all mankind"). Most interpreters believe (in light of vv. 5,8) that the reference is more universal, as in 64:9; 66:1,4,8; 67:3–5 and elsewhere. come. To praise God as the (only) God who hears and graciously answers prayers.
65:3–4 The first and primary blessing.
65:3 our transgressions, You forgive them. You accept the atonement sacrifices You appointed and so forgive (make atonement for—see NASB marg.) our sins (see 32:1–2; 78:38; 79:9 and notes on Lev 16:20–22; 17:11; Heb 2:17; 9:5,7).
65:4 blessed. See note on 1:1. the one whom You choose and bring near. Everyone belonging to Israel as God's chosen people (see, e.g., 33:12; Deut 4:37) and whom God accepts at His temple. dwell in Your courts. See note on 15:1; see also 23:6. goodness of Your house. All the blessings that flow from God's presence (see 36:8 and note).
65:5–8 God stills the nations and makes Israel secure in answer to her prayers.
65:5 awesome deeds. Acts of God such as were associated with His deliverance of Israel from Egypt and the conquest of Canaan, acts of power that made Israel's enemies cringe (see 66:3; see also 106:22; 145:6; Deut 10:21; 2 Sam 7:23; Is 64:3). righteousness. Saving acts by which God kept His covenanted promises to Israel (see note on 5:8). trust of all. Even though the nations of the world did not yet know it.
65:6–7 The God of creation who by His power brought order

And the [b]tumult of the peoples.
8 They who dwell in the [a]ends of the earth stand in awe of Your signs;
You make the [1]dawn and the sunset shout for joy.

9 You visit the earth and [a]cause it to overflow;
You greatly [b]enrich it;
The [1c]stream of God is full of water;
You prepare their [d]grain, for thus You prepare [2]the earth.
10 You water its furrows abundantly,
You [1]settle its ridges,
You soften it [a]with showers,
You bless its growth.
11 You have crowned the year [1]with Your [2a]bounty,
And Your [3]paths [b]drip with fatness.
12 [a]The pastures of the wilderness drip,
And the [b]hills gird themselves with rejoicing.
13 The meadows are [a]clothed with flocks
And the valleys are [b]covered with grain;
They [c]shout for joy, yes, they sing.

Psalm 66

For the choir director. A Song. A Psalm.

1 [a]Shout joyfully to God, all the earth;
2 Sing the [a]glory of His name;
Make His [b]praise glorious.
3 Say to God, "How [a]awesome are Your works!
Because of the greatness of Your power Your enemies will [1b]give feigned obedience to You.
4 "[a]All the earth will worship You,
And will [b]sing praises to You;
They will sing praises to Your name."
[1]Selah.

5 [a]Come and see the works of God,
Who is [b]awesome in His deeds toward the sons of men.
6 He [a]turned the sea into dry land;
They passed through [b]the river on foot;
There let us [c]rejoice in Him!
7 He [a]rules by His might forever;
His [b]eyes keep watch on the nations;

to the world out of the earlier chaos (see Gen 1) similarly in the redemption of His people establishes a peaceful order among nations (see Is 2:4; 11:6–9; Mic 4:3–4) so that Israel may be at rest in the promised land (see also Ps 33; 46). God's mighty acts in redemption are often compared by OT poets with His mighty acts in creation (see 74:12–17; 89:9–18; Is 27:1; 40:6–14,21–31; 51:9–11), since His power as Creator guaranteed His power as Redeemer. establishes the mountains . . . stills . . . the seas. Gives order to the whole creation (see 95:4–5).

65:7 tumult of the peoples. God's stilling the turbulence of the nations—which often threatened Israel—is compared to His taming the turbulence of the primeval waters of chaos (see notes on 32:6; 33:7).

65:8 All peoples will (ultimately) see God's saving acts in behalf of His people and will be moved to fear (see note on 46:10). And all creation will rejoice (see v. 13). signs. Referring to God's great saving acts, such as those He performed when He delivered Israel out of Egypt (Deut 4:34; see Ps 78:43; 105:27; 135:9). As "signs" they indicated that God was at work (see John 2:11 and note).

65:9–13 God blesses the promised land with all good things in answer to Israel's prayers.

65:9 stream of God. See note on 36:8.

65:11 bounty. Lit. "goodness" (see 68:10; see also 31:19 and note).

65:13 They shout for joy, yes, they sing. In the exuberant language of the psalmists, all creation—even its inanimate elements—joins the human chorus to celebrate the goodness of God in creation, blessing and redemption (see 89:12; 96:11–13; 98:8–9; 103:22; 145:10; 148:3–4,7–10; see also Job 38:7; Is 44:23; 49:13; 55:12).

Ps 66 A psalm of praise for God's answer to prayer. It seems that God has saved the author, probably a king, from an enemy threat, and his deliverance has involved also that of the whole nation. It has often been suggested that the psalm speaks of Judah's remarkable deliverance from the Assyrians (see 2 Kin 19). The praise is offered at the temple in fulfillment of a vow (vv. 13–14; see note on 7:17). Such praise was often climaxed by a call for others to take up the praise (see note on 9:1). Here the psalmist exuberantly begins with that call and, as often elsewhere (e.g., 67:3–5; 68:32; 98:4; 99:3; 100:1; 117:1), addresses it even to the far corners of the earth. This psalm is the second in a series of four (see introduction to Ps 65). The psalm is framed by a call to praise (vv. 1–2) and a declaration of the present occasion for praise (vv. 19–20, in Hebrew involving a play on words—the Hebrew for "Blessed" and "prayer" sound very much alike). The first line of the first stanza of the first sequence (v. 5) begins with "Come and see"; the first line of the second stanza of the second sequence (v. 16) begins with "Come and hear."

66 title See notes on Ps 4; 30 titles.

66:1–4 Calling all the earth to joyful praise.

66:1 all the earth. See note on 65:2.

66:2 name. See note on 5:11.

66:3 awesome. See v. 5; see also note on 65:5. give feigned obedience. See 81:15.

66:4 See note on 46:10.

66:5–7 Recollection of God's deliverance of Israel at the Red Sea as a sign of His power to rule over the nations. The psalmist portrays His deliverance (see introduction above) both as similar to this Red Sea rescue in its manifestation of God's saving power (see 65:5–7 for a comparison of God's mighty saving acts with His mighty acts of creation) and as a continuation of God's same saving purposes.

66:5 Come and see. God's saving acts of old can still be "seen" at His temple, where they are continually celebrated (see 46:8; 48:8–9 and notes). toward the sons of men. Specifically in behalf of His people.

66:6 river. Possibly the Jordan, but more likely a parallel reference to the Red Sea.

66:7 rebellious. Nations that are in revolt against God's rule (see 68:6).

Let not the rebellious [c]exalt themselves. Selah.

8 Bless our God, O peoples,
And [1][a]sound His praise abroad,
9 Who [1][a]keeps us in life
And [b]does not allow our feet to [2]slip.
10 For You have [a]tried us, O God;
You have [b]refined us as silver is refined.
11 You [a]brought us into the net;
You laid an oppressive burden upon our loins.
12 You made men [a]ride over our heads;
We went through [b]fire and through water,
Yet You [c]brought us out into a place of abundance.
13 I shall [a]come into Your house with burnt offerings;
I shall [b]pay You my vows,
14 Which my lips uttered
And my mouth spoke when I was [a]in distress.
15 I shall [a]offer to You burnt offerings of fat beasts,
With the smoke of [b]rams;
I shall make an offering of [1]bulls with male goats. Selah.

16 [a]Come and hear, all who [1]fear God,
And I will [b]tell of what He has done for my soul.
17 I cried to Him with my mouth,
And [1]He was [a]extolled with my tongue.
18 If I [1][a]regard wickedness in my heart,
The [b]Lord [2]will not [3]hear;
19 But certainly [a]God has heard;
He has given heed to the voice of my prayer.
20 [a]Blessed be God,
Who [b]has not turned away my prayer
Nor His lovingkindness from me.

Psalm 67

For the choir director; with stringed instruments. A Psalm. A Song.

1 God be gracious to us and [a]bless us,
And [b]cause His face to shine [1]upon us— [2]Selah.
2 That [a]Your way may be known on the earth,
[b]Your salvation among all nations.
3 Let the [a]peoples praise You, O God;
Let all the peoples praise You.
4 Let the [a]nations be glad and sing for joy;
For You will [b]judge the peoples with uprightness
And [c]guide the nations on the earth. Selah.
5 Let the [a]peoples praise You, O God;
Let all the peoples praise You.

66:8–12 Proclamation in praise of God's new deliverance of His people.

66:8 peoples. Here probably the grateful throng of worshipers (see 2 Chr 20:27–28).

66:9 feet to slip. See note on 38:16.

66:10 have tried . . . have refined. From one point of view, times of distress constitute a testing of God's people as to their trust in and loyalty to God. The metaphor is borrowed from the technology of refining precious metals, which included heating the metals in a crucible to see if all impurities had been removed (see 12:6; 17:3).

66:11–12 You . . . You. God's rule is all-pervasive; even when enemies for malicious purposes attack His people, God is not a mere passive observer but has His own holy purposes in it (see Is 45:7; Amos 3:6). net . . . burden . . . ride over. Three metaphors describe their suffering: captives thrown into prison, prisoners of war turned into slaves, defeated troops overrun by a chariot force.

66:12 fire and . . . water. Conventional metaphors for severe trials (see Is 43:2). into a place of abundance. Lit. "to an overflowing" (see 23:5). They were brought out of a situation of distress into a situation of overflowing well-being.

66:13–15 Announcement of fulfillment of vows: addressed to God (see note on 7:17; see also 50:14; 116:17–19).

66:13 I. The king.

66:16–20 Proclamation of what God has done: in praise of God, addressed to the worshiping congregation.

66:16 fear God. See note on Gen 20:11.

66:17 He was extolled. Prayer and praise belonged together in the OT (see also Phil 4:6; 1 Tim 2:1).

66:20 Blessed be God. See v. 8. lovingkindness. See note on 6:4.

Ps 67 A communal prayer for God's blessing. Its content, form and brevity suggest that it served as a liturgical prayer of the people at the conclusion of worship, perhaps just prior to (or immediately after) the priestly benediction (see note on v. 1). God's blessing of His people (as well as His saving acts in their behalf) will catch the attention of the nations and move them to praise (see 65:2). This psalm is the third in a series of four (see introduction to Ps 65). It has a symmetrical structure: Two verses at the beginning contain the prayer, while the two concluding verses speak of the effects of God's answer. In the intervening verses, framed by a refrain (vv. 3,5), the people seek to motivate God's answer by referring to the worldwide praise that His mercies to His people will awaken.

67 title See notes on Ps 4; 30 titles.

67:1–2 The prayer.

67:1 The heart of the prayer, anticipating (or echoing) the priestly benediction (see Num 6:24–26). cause His face to shine. See notes on 4:6; 13:1.

67:2 May God's favors to His people be so obvious that all the world takes notice (see note on 46:10).

67:3–5 The motivation. Elaborating on v. 2, the people speak of the worldwide praise that will resound to God when He graciously blesses His people. Their wish is twofold: (1) that God's blessings may be so abundant that the people will be moved to praise, and (2) that the nations may indeed add their praise to that of Israel—an appropriate expression at this climax of the liturgy of worship.

67:4 May the nations rejoice in the Lord when they see how benevolent the rule of God is (see 98:4–6; 100:1).

6 The [a]earth has yielded its produce;
God, our God, [b]blesses us.
7 God blesses us,
[1]That [a]all the ends of the earth may fear Him.

Psalm 68

For the choir director. A Psalm of David. A Song.

1 [1]Let [a]God arise, [2]let His enemies be scattered,
And [3]let those who hate Him flee before Him.
2 As [a]smoke is driven away, so drive them away;
As [b]wax melts before the fire,
So let the [c]wicked perish before God.
3 But let the [a]righteous be glad; let them exult before God;
Yes, let them rejoice with gladness.
4 Sing to God, [a]sing praises to His name;
[1][b]Lift up a song for Him who [c]rides through the deserts,
Whose [d]name is [2]the LORD, and exult before Him.

5 A [a]father of the fatherless and a [b]judge [1]for the widows,
Is God in His [c]holy habitation.

6 God [1][a]makes a home for the lonely;
He [b]leads out the prisoners into prosperity,
Only [c]the rebellious dwell in a parched land.

7 O God, when You [a]went forth before Your people,
When You [b]marched through the wilderness, [1]Selah.
8 The [a]earth quaked;
The [b]heavens also dropped rain at the presence of God;
[1][c]Sinai itself quaked at the presence of God, the God of Israel.

You confirmed Your inheritance when it was [1]parched.
10 Your creatures settled in it;
You [a]provided in Your goodness for the poor, O God.

67:6–7 The effects of God's blessing His people.
67:6 The promised land will yield its abundance (see 65:9–13).
Ps 68 A processional liturgy celebrating the glorious and triumphant rule of Israel's God (see introductions to Ps 24; 47; 118; 132). Verses 1–18 contain many clear references to God's triumphal march from Mount Sinai (in the days of Moses) to Mount Zion (in the days of David). The events at Mount Sinai marked the birth of the kingdom of God among His people; the establishing of the ark of the covenant, symbol of God's throne, in Jerusalem marked the establishment of God's redemptive kingdom in the earth, with Jerusalem as its royal city. The early church, taking its cue from Eph 4:8–13, understood this psalm to foreshadow the resurrection, ascension and present rule of Christ and the final triumph of His church over the hostile world. Ps 68 is the last in a series of four (see introduction to Ps 65).

The psalm is composed of nine stanzas, with the last line as a concluding doxology. The first stanza indicates the beginning of the liturgical procession, and the last refers to its conclusion—God enthroned in His sanctuary. The seventh (vv. 24–27) speaks expressly of the procession coming into view and entering the sanctuary. In light of these clear references, the third stanza (vv. 7–10) suggests a stage in the procession recalling the wilderness journey from Sinai to the promised land, while the fifth (vv. 15–18) marks that stage in which the Lord ascends Mount Zion. On the other hand, the second stanza (vv. 5–6) reflects on the benevolence of God's rule; the fourth (vv. 11–14) recalls His victories over the kings of Canaan; the sixth (vv. 19–23) speaks reassuringly of God's future victories; and the eighth (vv. 28–31) contains prayers that God may muster His power to subdue the enemy as He had done before.
68 title See notes on Ps 4; 30 titles.
68:1–3 The start of the procession, liturgically recalling the beginning of God's march with his people in army formation from Sinai (see Num 10:33–35).
68:1 enemies be scattered. See note on v. 30.
68:3 righteous. Israel as the committed people of God in distinction from those opposed to the coming of God's kingdom (the "wicked" of v. 2).
68:4–6 A call to praise God for the benevolence of His rule.
68:4 name. See note on 5:11. who rides through the deserts. Or "who rides on the clouds." With this reading, an epithet of Baal found in Canaanite literature is used to make the point that the Lord (Yahweh, not Baal) is the exalted One who truly makes the storm cloud His chariot (see v. 33; 18:9; 104:3; Is 19:1; Matt 26:64).
68:5–6 God is the defender of the powerless (see 10:14; 146:7–9; 147:6; Deut 10:18).
68:6 makes a home for the lonely. See Ex 1:21; Ruth 4:14–17; 1 Sam 2:5. leads out the prisoners. As He led Israel out of Egypt (see 69:33; 107:10,14). rebellious. See notes on v. 18; 66:7. parched land. A place utterly barren, lacking even soil for vegetation (see Ezek 26:4,14).
68:7–10 Recollection of God's march through the wilderness from Sinai into the promised land (see Judg 5:4–5; Hab 3:3–6).
68:8 earth quaked. A reference to the quaking of Mount Sinai (Ex 19:18). heavens also dropped rain. The Pentateuch preserves no tradition of rain during the wilderness wanderings, but here (and in Judg 5:4) rain is closely associated with the quaking of the earth as a manifestation of the majesty of God. Perhaps the "thunder and lightning flashes and a thick cloud" over Mount Sinai (Ex 19:16) were accompanied by rain. But see also v. 9, which suggests rains that refreshed the people on their journey.
68:9 Your inheritance. The people of Israel (see Deut 9:29).
68:10 it. Probably refers to the promised land. goodness. See 65:11 and note. provided. From the produce of Canaan (see Josh 5:11–12). poor. Israel as a people dependent on God.
68:11–14 Recollection of God's victories over the kings of Canaan.
68:11 gives the command. God declares beforehand that He would be victorious over the Canaanite kings (see Ex 23:22–23, 27–28,31; Deut 7:10–24; 11:23–25; Josh 1:2–6). proclaim the good tidings. Celebrate God's victories (see Ex 15:1–21; 1 Sam 18:6–7; 2 Chr 20:26–28). proclaim. See 40:9 and note.

68:13 lie down among the sheepfolds. Rest in camp (see NASB marg.; see also Gen 49:14; Judg 5:16). wings of a dove covered with silver. Israel, God's "dove" (see 74:19 and note; cf. Hos 7:11), is enriched with the silver and gold of plunder from the kings of Canaan even though she still remains in camp. This poetic hyperbole (a figure of speech that uses exaggeration for emphasis) celebrates the fact that God had defeated the kings even before Israel met them in battle (see Josh 2:8–11; 5:1; 6:16; see also 2 Sam 5:24; 2 Kin 7:5–7; 19:35; 2 Chr 20:22–30).

68:14 Almighty. Hebrew Shaddai (see note on Gen 17:1). snowing in Zalmon. Zalmon was a mountain near Shechem (see Judg 9:46–48), but others identify it here as Jebel Druze, a dark volcanic mountain east of Bashan. Its name appears to mean "the dark one"—in distinction from the Lebanon ("the white one") range, composed of limestone—and the figure may involve the contrast of white snow scattered on "Dark Mountain." The reference may then be to abandoned weapons littering the field from which the kings have fled headlong (see 2 Kin 7:15).

68:15–18 Celebration of God's ascent to Mount Zion.

68:15–16 The mountains surrounding Bashan, including the towering Mount Hermon, are portrayed as being jealous because God has chosen Mount Zion as the seat of His rule, making it the "highest" of mountains (see 48:2 and note).

68:17 chariots of God. God's great heavenly host, here likened to a vast chariot force (see 2 Kin 6:17; Hab 3:8,15). In the time of the Roman empire Jesus referred to God's host in terms of "legions" (Matt 26:53).

68:18 ascended on high. Went up to Your place of enthronement on Mount Zion (see 47:5–6 and note; see also 7:7). led captive . . . received gifts. Like a victorious king after triumphs on the field of battle. rebellious. Those who had opposed the kingdom of God (see v. 6 and note on 66:7) are compelled to submit to Him and bring tribute. that the LORD God may dwell there. Grammatically completes the clause, "You have ascended on high." Paul applies this verse (as translated in the Septuagint) to the ascended Christ (Eph 4:8–13), thereby implying that Christ's ascension was a continuation of, and a fulfillment of, God's establishment of His kingdom in His royal city Jerusalem (see introduction).

68:19–23 Joyous confession of hope that God's victorious campaigns will continue until the salvation of His people is complete.

68:19 bears our burden. Releases us from bearing the burdens that enslavement to our enemies would impose on us (see 81:6; Is 9:4; 10:27). But some associate this line with such passages as 55:22; Is 46:4.

68:20 escapes from death. At the hand of our enemies—implicitly, perhaps, also from death itself as the last great enemy (see notes on 6:5; 11:7; 16:9–11; 17:15; 49:14–15).

68:21 As God assures the life of His people (see v. 20), so He will crush those who oppose Him. shatter the head. See Num 24:17.

68:22 them. The enemies who fled at the victorious onward march of God and His host (see vv. 12,17). Bashan . . . depths of the sea. The former (see also v. 15) was the high plateau east of the Jordan, the latter the Mediterranean Sea—none of the enemies will escape (see Amos 9:1–4).

68:23 See note on 58:10.

68:24–27 The liturgical procession approaches the temple (see Ps 24; 47).

68:25 maidens beating tambourines. See note on Jer 31:4.

Psalm 69

For the choir director; according to [1]Shoshannim. A Psalm of David.

1 Save me, O God,
For the [a]waters have [1]threatened my life.
2 I have sunk in deep [a]mire, and there is no foothold;
I have come into deep waters, and a [1b]flood overflows me.
3 I am [a]weary with my crying; my throat is parched;
My [b]eyes fail while I wait for my God.
4 Those [a]who hate me without a cause are more than the hairs of my head;
Those who would [1]destroy me [b]are powerful, being wrongfully my enemies;
[c]What I did not steal, I then have to restore.

68:27 All Israel is represented, from little Benjamin to powerful Judah, and tribes from the north as well as the south. Benjamin . . . ruling. Perhaps reflecting the fact that from the tribe of Benjamin came the first king (Saul), who began the royal victories over Israel's enemies (see 1 Sam 11:11; 14:20–23).

68:28–31 Prayer for God to continue His conquest of the threatening powers.

68:28 Your God has commanded your strength. Or, perhaps, "Command Your power to act, O God."

68:29 Because of Your temple. Because Your earthly royal house has been established in Jerusalem. bring gifts to You. Acknowledge You by bringing tribute, as subjected kings brought tribute to their conquerers (see 2 Sam 8:2,6,10; 2 Kin 3:4).

68:30 Rebuke. See note on 76:6. beast in the reeds. Pharaoh (see Ezek 29:3). herd of bulls with the calves. Powerful princes supporting the pharaoh, and the lesser princes of other nations. Egypt is singled out here as representative of the hostile nations—because of Israel's past experiences with that world power and because at the time the psalm was composed it was the one great empire on Israel's immediate horizons. scattered the peoples. See v. 1; so that Israel may have peace (see 46:9; 48:4–7; 65:7; 76:3).

68:32–35 Climax of the liturgical procession: a call for all kingdoms to hail with praise the God of Israel as the God who reigns in heaven and has established His earthly throne in the temple in Jerusalem (see Ps 47).

68:33 See v. 4 and note. speaks forth with . . . a mighty voice. See note on 29:3–9.

68:35 awesome. See 45:4 and note. gives strength and power to the people. The Lord of all has made Israel His people (His "kingdom"; see Ex 19:5–6), and His rule among them makes them participants in His victorious power (see 29:10–11).

Ps 69 A plea for God to have mercy and to save from a host of enemies: the prayer of a godly king when under vicious attack by a widespread conspiracy at a time when God had "wounded" him (see v. 26) for some sin in his life (see v. 5). If, as tradition claims, David authored the original psalm (see the superscription), the occasion is unknown. In its present form the prayer suggests a later son of David who ruled over the southern kingdom of Judah (see v. 35). That king may have been Hezekiah (see 2 Kin 18–20; 2 Chr 29–32). In themes and language this psalm has many links with Ps 32; 35; 38; 40; 109 (all psalms "of David"; see also Ps 18). It begins a series of three prayers for deliverance when threatened by enemies. The authors of the NT viewed this cry of a godly sufferer as foreshadowing the sufferings of Christ; no psalm, except Ps 22, is quoted more frequently in the NT.

69 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. according to. See note on Ps 9 title. Shoshannim. See note on Ps 45 title.

69:1–4 Initial plea for God to save.

69:1–2 waters . . . deep mire . . . deep waters . . . flood. Conventional imagery for great distress (see notes on 30:1; 32:6)—here the results of God's "wounding" (see v. 26), but especially of the attacks of the enemies (see vv. 14–15,29).

69:3 throat is parched. See 22:15. eyes fail. See 6:7 and note.

69:4 without a cause . . . wrongfully my enemies. Those whom he has not wronged are pitted against him (see 35:19 and note). more than the hairs of my head. See note on 40:12. I then have to. An illustrative way of saying that his enemies are spreading false accusations about him (see 5:9 and note).

5 O God, it is You who knows [a]my folly,
And [b]my wrongs are not hidden from You.
6 May those who wait for You not [a]be ashamed through me, O Lord [1]God of hosts;
May those who seek You not be dishonored through me, O God of Israel,
7 Because [a]for Your sake I have borne reproach;
[b]Dishonor has covered my face.

23 [a]Is 6:10

69:5–12 Prayer that God's discipline of His godly servant may not bring disgrace on all those who trustingly look to the Lord. The author acknowledges (v. 5) that God's "wounding" of him (see v. 26) has been occasioned by some sin in his life (but he has not sinned against those who have become his enemies). Because of his present suffering, his enemies mock his deep commitment to the Lord (see 22:6–8; 42:3; 79:10; 115:2; Job 2:9). Implicitly he prays that God will restore him again and vindicate his trust in Him.

69:5 folly. See note on 14:1.

69:8 Even those nearest him dissociate themselves from him (see 31:11–12 and note).

69:9 zeal for Your house. What was true of the author was even more true of Jesus (see John 2:17). reproaches of those who reproach You. Those who mock God also mock His servant who trusts in Him (see 74:18,22–23; 2 Kin 18:31–35)—as Christ also experienced (see Rom 15:3).

69:10–11 wept . . . with fasting . . . made sackcloth my clothing. As tokens of humbling himself before the Lord in repentance as he prays for God to have mercy and restore him (see 35:13 and note; see also Gen 37:34; 2 Sam 12:16–17; Joel 1:13–14; 2:15–17; Jon 3:5).

69:12 Those who sit in the gate . . . drunkards. Everyone, from the elders of the city to the town drunks.

69:13–18 Though they mock, I pray to You.

69:13 at an acceptable time. When God is near to save (see 32:6 and note; see also Is 49:8; 61:2; 2 Cor 6:2). greatness of Your lovingkindness. See note on 6:4.

69:14–15 mire . . . deep waters . . . flood of water . . . deep. See note on vv. 1–2.

69:15 swallow me. See note on 49:14. pit. See note on 30:1.

69:16 lovingkindness. See note on 6:4.

69:17 hide Your face. See note on 13:1.

69:18 redeem. See note on 25:22.

69:19–21 In my trouble they heaped on scorn instead of bringing comfort (see 35:11–16; see also 142:4; Job 13:4; 16:2; 21:34).

69:20 heart. See note on 4:7.

69:21 gall for my food . . . vinegar to drink. Vivid metaphors for the bitter scorn they made him eat and drink when his whole being craved for the nourishment and refreshment of comfort. The authors of the Gospels, especially Matthew, suggest that the suffering expressed in this verse foreshadowed Christ's suffering on the cross (see Matt 27:34,48; Mark 15:23,36; Luke 23:36; John 19:29).

69:22–28 Prayer for God to redress the wrongs committed (see note on 5:10).

69:22–23 For Paul's application of these verses to the Jews who rejected the Christ see Rom 11:9–10.

69:22 They had set his table with "gall" and "vinegar" (v. 21). table before them. Reference may be to the meal accompanying the sealing of a covenant (see note on 23:5). In that case, this verse alludes to a pact uniting the enemies and calls on God to turn it against them.

69:23 They mocked him for his "wound" (v. 26); now may they experience the same failing of the eyes (see v. 3 and note on 6:7) and bending of the back (from weakness and pain; see

And make their [b]loins shake continually.
24 [a]Pour out Your indignation on them,
And may Your burning anger overtake
them.
25 May their [1][a]camp be desolate;
May none dwell in their tents.
26 For they have [a]persecuted him whom
[b]You Yourself have smitten,
And they tell of the pain of those whom [c]You have [1]wounded.
27 Add [a]iniquity to their iniquity,
And [b]may they not come into [c]Your

28 May they be [a]blotted out of the [b]book

And may they not be [1][c]recorded with 29 But I am [a]afflicted and in pain;

You who seek God, [b]let your heart

33 For [a]the LORD hears the needy
And [b]does not despise His who are

34 Let [a]heaven and earth praise Him,
The seas and [b]everything that moves

35 For God will [a]save Zion and [b]build the

And those who love His name [b]will

Psalm 70

For the choir director. A Psalm of David;
for a memorial.

1 [a]O God, hasten to deliver me;
O LORD, hasten to my help!
2 [a]Let those be ashamed and humiliated
Who seek my [1]life;
Let those be turned back and dishonored
Who delight [2]in my hurt.
3 [a]Let those be [1]turned back because of their shame
Who say, "Aha, aha!"

4 Let all who seek You rejoice and be glad in You;
And let those who love Your salvation say continually,
"Let God be magnified."
5 But [a]I am afflicted and needy;
[b]Hasten to me, O God!
You are my help and my deliverer;
O LORD, do not delay.

2 [1]Or soul [2]Or to injure me [a]Ps 35:4, 26 3 [1]Some mss read appalled [a]Ps 40:15 5 [a]Ps 40:17 [b]Ps 141:1

38:5–8). May . . . their loins shake. "Loins" refers to the belly and lower part of the back; they were viewed as the back's center of strength (see 66:11; see also Job 40:16).

69:24 indignation . . . anger. See note on 2:5. overtake them. Like a flash flood.

69:25 They sought to remove him from his place; may they be removed. Cf. Peter's application of this judgment to Judas (Acts 1:20).

69:26 The great wrong committed by his enemies against him and to which reference has repeatedly been made.

69:27 They have falsely charged him with crimes (v. 4); may their real crimes all be charged against them.

69:28 They had plotted his death; may death be their destiny. book of life. God's royal list of the righteous, whom God blesses with life (see 1:3; 7:9; 11:7; 34:12; 37:17,29; 55:22; 75:10; 92:12–14; 140:13). For other references to God's books see notes on 9:5; 51:1. In the NT the "book of life" refers to God's list of those destined for eternal life (see Phil 4:3; Rev 3:5; 13:8; 17:8; 20:12,15; 21:27).

69:29 Renewal of the prayer just prior to the vow to praise.

69:30–33 A vow to praise (see note on 7:17) out of assurance that the prayer will be heard (see note on 3:8).

69:30 name of God. See v. 36 and note on 5:11.

69:32 humble. See note on 34:6. have seen it and are glad. See 22:26 and note. heart. See note on 4:7. revive. Bubble over with the joy of life, because the Lord does hear the prayers of His people in need—contrary to the mocking of scoffers.

69:34–36 A call to praise (see note on 9:1) in the assurance that God will restore Judah and assure His people's inheritance in the promised land. This stanza appears to indicate that in its final form this royal prayer was used at a time when not only the king was in trouble but the kingdom of Judah had also suffered devastating defeat.

69:34 Let all creation praise Him (see 148:1–13; Is 49:13).

69:35–36 they . . . descendants. God's people and their children through the generations, specifically "those who love His name."

69:35 Zion. See note on 9:11.

Ps 70 An urgent prayer for God's help when threatened by enemies—a somewhat revised duplicate of 40:13–17 (see notes there). This is the second in a series of three such prayers; its language has many links with that of Ps 71. The prayer is framed by pleas for God to "hasten" with His help (vv. 1,5). The rest of the prayer focuses on the effects of God's saving help: (1) upon those "who seek my life" (vv. 2–3) and (2) for those "who seek You" (v. 4).

70 title See note on Ps 4 title. A memorial. See note on Ps 38 title.

70:4 God's deliverance of His servant will give joy to all who trust in the Lord, because they see in it the assurance of their own salvation. Let God be magnified. Because His saving help is sure and effective (contrast v. 3).

Psalm 71

1 [a]In You, O LORD, I have taken refuge;
Let me never be ashamed.
2 [a]In Your righteousness deliver me and rescue me;
[b]Incline Your ear to me and save me.
3 [a]Be to me a rock of [b]habitation to which I may continually come;
You have given [c]commandment to save me,
For You are [d]my [1]rock and my fortress.
4 [a]Rescue me, O my God, out of the hand of the wicked,
Out of the [1]grasp of the wrongdoer and ruthless man,
5 For You are my [a]hope;
O Lord [1]GOD, You are my [b]confidence from my youth.
6 [1]By You I have been [a]sustained from my birth;
You are He who [b]took me from my mother's womb;
My [c]praise is continually [2]of You.

7 I have become a [a]marvel to many,
For You are [b]my strong refuge.
8 My [a]mouth is filled with Your praise
And with [b]Your glory all day long.
9 Do not cast me off in the [a]time of old age;
Do not forsake me when my strength fails.
10 For my enemies have spoken [1]against me;
And those who [a]watch for my [2]life [b]have consulted together,
11 Saying, "[a]God has forsaken him;
Pursue and seize him, for there is [b]no one to deliver."

Ps 71 A prayer for God's help in old age when enemies threaten because they see that the king's strength is waning (see note on 5:9). The psalm bears no superscription, but it may well be that Ps 70 was viewed by the editors of the Psalms as the introduction to Ps 71, in which case the psalm is ascribed to David (in his old age; see vv. 9,18). This suggestion gains support from the fact that Ps 72 is identified as a prayer by and/or for King Solomon (see introduction to that psalm). This is the third in a series of three prayers; its dominant theme is hope (see v. 14). Formally symmetrical, the psalm has a five-four-five, five-four-five (in Hebrew) line pattern: vv. 1–4 (five lines), vv. 5–8 (four lines), vv. 9–13 (five lines), vv. 15–18 (five lines), vv. 19–21 (four lines), vv. 22–24 (five lines). At the center (v. 14; see note on 6:6) stands a confident confession of hope. The whole is framed by an appeal for help (vv. 1–4) and a vow to praise in anticipation of deliverance (vv. 22–24). The intervening verses are linked by references to the troubles the king has experienced and references to old age.

71:1–4 The initial appeal for God's help.

71:2 Your righteousness. See vv. 15–16,19,24; see also note on 5:8.

71:5–8 A confession that the Lord has always been his hope (see vv. 14,19–21).

71:5 from my youth. See 22:9.

71:7 a marvel. The troubles of his life (see v. 20) have been viewed by others as holding some special significance—especially since the Lord has been his "strong refuge" through them all.

71:9–13 A prayer for God's continuing help in the waning years of his life.

71:10 enemies have spoken against me. See notes on 3:2; 5:9.

71:13 A plea for redress (see note on 5:10).

71:14 The centered confession of unfaltering hope (see 42:8; see also notes on 6:6; 42:8).

71:15–18 A vow to praise, accompanying the renewal of his prayer (v. 18); see note on 7:17.

71:16–17 mighty deeds . . . righteousness . . . wondrous deeds. God's "mighty deeds" in behalf of His people are expressions of His righteousness; thus they can also be called His "righteousness" (v. 24).

71:16 come. To the temple, where God's people assemble for worship.

71:19–21 A confession that the Lord is still his hope, in the face of all his troubles (see vv. 5–8,14).

71:19 reaches to the heavens. Is as expansive as all space above the earth (see also 36:5 and note). O God, who is like You? See Mic 7:18.

71:20 revive me again. He who gave him life (see v. 6) will renew his life. depths of the earth. The realm of the dead, of which the grave is the portal (see note on 30:1).

21 May You increase my [a]greatness
And turn to [b]comfort me.

22 I will also praise You with [1][a]a harp,
Even Your [2]truth, O my God;
To You I will sing praises with the [b]lyre,
O [c]Holy One of Israel.
23 My lips will [a]shout for joy when I sing
praises to You;
And my [b]soul, which You have redeemed.
24 My [a]tongue also will utter Your righteousness all day long;
For they are [b]ashamed, for they are humiliated who seek [1]my hurt.

Psalm 72

A Psalm of Solomon.

1 Give the king [a]Your judgments, O God,
And [b]Your righteousness to the king's son.
2 [1]May [2]he [a]judge Your people with righteousness
And [3b]Your afflicted with justice.
3 [1]Let the mountains bring [2a]peace to
the people,
And the hills, in righteousness.
4 [1]May he [a]vindicate the [2]afflicted of
the people,
Save the children of the needy
And crush the oppressor.

5 [1]Let them fear You [a]while the sun endures,
And [2]as long as the moon, throughout all generations.
6 [1]May he come down [a]like rain upon the mown grass,
Like [b]showers that water the earth.
7 In his days [1]may the [a]righteous flourish,
And [b]abundance of peace till the moon is no more.

8 May he also rule [a]from sea to sea
And from the River to the ends of the earth.
9 [1]Let [a]the nomads of the desert [b]bow
before him,
And his enemies [c]lick the dust.
10 [1]Let the kings of [a]Tarshish and of the [2b]islands bring presents;
The kings of [c]Sheba and [d]Seba [e]offer
[3]gifts.
11 [1]And let all [a]kings bow down before
him,
All [b]nations serve him.

12 For he will [a]deliver the needy when he cries for help,
The [1]afflicted also, and him who has no helper.
13 He will have [a]compassion on the poor and needy,

71:22–24 A vow to praise in confident anticipation of God's saving help (see notes on 3:8; 7:17).
71:22 harp . . . lyre. See note on 57:8. Holy One of Israel. See 78:41; 89:18; see also note on Is 1:4.
71:23 redeemed. Here, as often, a synonym for "deliver."
71:24 righteousness. God's saving acts in behalf of His people according to His covenant promises.
Ps 72 A prayer for the king, a son of David who rules on David's throne as God's earthly regent over His people. It may have been used at the time of the king's coronation (as were Ps 2; 110). Written as a petition, vv. 2–11, 17 express the desire of the nation that the king's reign will, as a consequence of God's endowment of His servant, be characterized by justice and righteousness, the supreme virtues of kingship. The prayer reflects the ideal concept of the king and the glorious effects of his reign. See Jeremiah's indictment of some of the last Davidic kings (e.g., Jer 22:2–3,13,15) and the prophetic announcement of the Messiah's righteous rule (see Is 9:7; 11:4–5; Jer 23:5–6; 33:15–16; Zech 9:9). Later Jewish tradition saw in this psalm a description of the Messiah, as did the early church. The last three verses do not belong to the prayer (see notes there).
72 title of Solomon. Either by him or for him—of course, both may be true. Undoubtedly it was also used by Israel (Judah) as a prayer for later Davidic kings.
72:1 The basic prayer. judgments . . . righteousness. May the king be endowed with the gift for and the love of justice and righteousness so that his reign reflects the rule of God Himself. Solomon asked for wisdom (see 1 Kin 3:9,11–12; see also Prov 16:12). righteousness. See note on 5:8.
72:2–7 The quality of his reign: May it be righteous, prosperous and enduring.
72:3 Righteousness in the realm will be like fertilizing rain on the land, for then the Lord will bless His people with abundance (see vv. 6–7; 5:12; 65:9–13; 133:3; Lev 25:19; Deut 28:8).
72:5 while the sun endures. See 21:4 and note.
72:6 See v. 3 and note; see also v. 7. For another vivid metaphor expressive of the significance of the Lord's anointed for the realm see Lam 4:20.
72:7 righteous. See note on 1:5. flourish. Because the king supports and protects them, but uses all his royal power to suppress the wicked (see Ps 101).
72:8–14 The extent of his domain (vv. 8–11) as the result of his righteous rule (vv. 12–14).
72:8 His kingdom and his authority will extend to all the world (see vv. 9–11). Ideally and potentially, as God's earthly regent, he possesses royal authority that extends on earth as far as God's—an expectation that is fulfilled in Christ. See Zech 9:10 and note.
72:9 The tribes of the Arabian Desert to the east will yield to him. lick the dust. See Mic 7:17.
72:10 The kings whose lands border the Mediterranean Sea to the west will acknowledge him as overlord, as will those who rule in south Arabia and along the eastern African coast. Tarshish. A distant Mediterranean seaport, perhaps as far west as modern Spain. Sheba. See notes on Gen 10:28; 1 Kin 10:1; Joel 3:8. Seba. Elsewhere in the OT associated with Cush (Gen 10:7; Is 43:3); it may refer to a region in modern Sudan, south of Egypt.

And the [1]lives of the needy he will save.
14 He will [1][a]rescue their [2]life from oppression and violence,
And their blood will be [b]precious in his sight;
15 So may he live, and may the [a]gold of Sheba be given to him;
And let [1]them pray for him continually;
Let [1]them bless him all day long.

16 May there be abundance of grain in the earth on top of the mountains;
Its fruit will wave like the cedars of [a]Lebanon;
And may those from the city flourish like [b]vegetation of the earth.
17 May his [a]name endure forever;
May his name [1]increase [2][b]as long as the sun shines;
And let men [c]bless themselves by him;
[d]Let all nations call him blessed.

18 [a]Blessed be the LORD God, the God of Israel,
Who alone [b]works wonders.
19 And blessed be His [a]glorious name forever;
And may the whole [b]earth be filled with His glory.
[c]Amen, and Amen.

20 The prayers of David the son of Jesse are ended.

BOOK 3

Psalm 73

A Psalm of Asaph.

1 Surely God is [a]good to Israel,
To those who are [b]pure in heart!
2 But as for me, [a]my feet came close to stumbling,
My steps [1]had almost slipped.
3 For I was [a]envious of the [1]arrogant
As I saw the [b]prosperity of the wicked.
4 For there are no pains in their death,
And their [1]body is fat.
5 They are [a]not [1]in trouble as other [2]men,
Nor are they [b]plagued [3]like mankind.
6 Therefore pride is [a]their necklace;
The [b]garment of violence covers them.
7 Their eye [1]bulges from [a]fatness;
The imaginations of their heart [2]run riot.
8 They [a]mock and [1]wickedly speak of oppression;
They [b]speak from on high.
9 They have [a]set their mouth [1]against the heavens,
And their tongue [2]parades through the earth.

10 Therefore [1]his people return to this place,
And waters of [a]abundance are [2]drunk by them.

72:15–17 Concluding summation: May the king enjoy a long, prosperous, world-renowned reign—one that blesses all the nations.

72:17 all nations. The language recalls the promise to Abraham (see Gen 12:3; 22:18) and suggests that it will be fulfilled through the royal son of David—ultimately the Messiah.

72:18–19 A doxology at the conclusion of Book 2 of the Psalter (see 41:13 and note). It is the people's response, their "Amen," to the contents of Book 2 (see note on Ps 4 title).

72:19 filled with His glory. See note on 85:9.

72:20 An editorial notation probably carried over from an earlier collection of psalms ascribed exclusively to David. prayers of David. See titles of Ps 86; 142.

Ps 73 A word of godly wisdom concerning the destinies of the righteous and the wicked. The editors of the Psalter placed it at the beginning of Book 3, as they did Ps 1 at the beginning of the whole collection (see introduction to Ps 1). Here is addressed one of the most disturbing problems of the OT saints: How is it that the wicked so often prosper while the godly suffer so much? Thematically the psalm has many links with Ps 49 (see introduction to that psalm; see also Ps 37). Its date may be as late as the postexilic era. Thematic development divides the psalm's structure into two halves of 14 verses each. The whole is framed by the sharply etched contrast of v. 1 and v. 27.

73 title The psalm is ascribed to Asaph, leader of one of David's Levitical choirs (see notes on Ps 39; 42; 50 titles). It begins a collection of 11 Asaphite psalms (Ps 73–83), to which Ps 50 at one time probably belonged. In view of the fact that the collection clearly contains prayers from a later date (e.g., Ps 74; 79; 83), references to Asaph in these titles must sometimes include descendants of Asaph who functioned in his place (see note on Ps 50 title). The Asaphite psalms are dominated by the theme of God's rule over His people and the nations. Apart from an introductory word of instruction (Ps 73) the collection is bracketed by prayers for God to rescue His people from foreign oppression (Ps 74; 83). The rest of the collection (Ps 75–82) appears to reflect thematic pairing: 1. The God who brings down the wicked and exalts the righteous (Ps 75) is the God and Savior of Israel (Ps 76). 2. God's saving acts in behalf of His people are remembered (Ps 77–78). 3. God is petitioned for help against the devastating attacks of Israel's enemies (Ps 79–80). 4. God is portrayed as presiding in judgment over His people (Ps 81) and over the world powers (Ps 82).

73:1–14 An almost fatal trial of faith: In the midst of his many troubles a godly man lets his eyes become fixed on the prosperity of the wicked.

73:1 pure in heart! See v. 13; see also note on 24:4. heart. See note on 4:7.

73:2 feet came close to stumbling. From the path of truth and godliness (see 37:31 and note).

73:4–12 A description of the prosperous state of the wicked and the haughty self-reliance such prosperity engenders—hardly an objective account; it is rather the exaggerated picture that envious and troubled eyes perceived (see the description of the wicked in 10:2–11; cf. Job's anguished portrayal of the prosperity of the wicked in Job 21).

73:6 pride is their necklace. Contrast Prov 1:9; 3:3,22.

11 They say, "[a]How does God know?
And is there knowledge [1]with the Most High?"
12 Behold, [a]these are the wicked;
And always [b]at ease, they have increased in wealth.
13 Surely [a]in vain I have [1]kept my heart pure
And [b]washed my hands in innocence;
14 For I have been stricken [a]all day long
And [1b]chastened every morning.

15 If I had said, "I will speak thus,"
Behold, I would have betrayed the [a]generation of Your children.
16 When I [a]pondered to understand this,
It was [1]troublesome in my sight
17 Until I came into the [1a]sanctuary of God;
Then I perceived their [b]end.
18 Surely You set them in [a]slippery places;
You cast them down to [1b]destruction.
19 How they are [1a]destroyed in a moment!
They are utterly swept away by [b]sudden terrors!
20 Like a [a]dream when one awakes,
O Lord, when [b]aroused, You will [c]despise their [1]form.

21 When my [a]heart was embittered
And I was [b]pierced [1]within,
22 Then I was [a]senseless and ignorant;
I was like [1]a [b]beast [2]before You.

23 Nevertheless [a]I am continually with You;
You have taken hold of my right hand.
24 With Your counsel You will [a]guide me,
And afterward [b]receive me [1]to glory.

25 [a]Whom have I in heaven but You?
And [1]besides You, I desire nothing on earth.
26 My [a]flesh and my heart may fail,
But God is the [1]strength of my heart and my [b]portion forever.
27 For, behold, [a]those who are far from You will [b]perish;
You have [1]destroyed all those who [2c]are unfaithful to You.
28 But as for me, [a]the nearness of God is my good;
I have made the Lord [1]GOD my [b]refuge,
That I may [c]tell of all Your works.

73:11 God . . . Most High. That is, God Most High (see 57:2; see also note on 3:7). Most High. See note on Gen 14:19.
73:13–14 The thoughts that plagued him when he compared the state of the wicked with his own troubled lot.
73:13 heart pure. See note on v. 1.
73:14 chastened. As a child by his father to keep him in the right way (see Prov 3:12; 23:13–14).
73:15–28 The renewal of faith: In the temple the godly man sees the destiny God has appointed for the wicked.
73:15 If I had said. If he had given public expression to his thoughts as embodying true insight. Your children. Those characterized by a humble reliance on and commitment to God.
73:18–20 Though the wicked seem to prosper, God has made their position precarious, and without warning they are swept away. The psalmist does not reflect on their state after death but leaves it as his final word that the wicked fall utterly and inevitably from their state of proud prosperity (see Ps 49; cf. the final state of the godly in v. 24).
73:20 When God arouses Himself as from sleep (see note on 7:6) and deals with the wicked, they vanish like the shadowy characters of a dream.
73:21 heart. See note on 4:7. within. Lit. "in my kidneys" (see note on 7:9).
73:22 a beast. As stupid as a beast (see Job 18:3).
73:23–26 Although he had (almost) fallen to the level of beastly stupidity, God has not, will not, let him go—ever!
73:24 God's counsel has overcome his folly and will guide him through all the pitfalls of life (see 16:7; 32:8; 48:14). receive me to glory. At the end of the believer's pilgrimage (see 49:15 and note).
73:25 Though he has envied the prosperity of the wicked, he now confesses that nothing in heaven or earth is more desirable than God.
73:26 My flesh . . . heart. My whole being (see 84:2). heart. See note on 4:7. portion. Since the psalmist was a Levite, the Lord was his portion in the promised land in that he lived by the people's tithes dedicated to the Lord (see Num 18:21–24; Deut 10:9; 18:1–2). Here he confesses more: The Lord Himself is his sustainer, his preserver—his very life.
73:28 I may tell of all Your works. A concluding vow to praise God for all His mercies to him (see note on 7:17).
Ps 74 A prayer for God to come to the aid of His people and defend His cause in the face of the mocking of the enemies—the Lord's relation to His people is like that of a king to his nation. The psalm dates from the time of the exile when Israel had been destroyed as a nation, the promised land devastated and the temple reduced to ruins (see Ps 79; Lam 2). Its relationship to the ministries of Jeremiah and Ezekiel is uncertain (see note on v. 9). Thematically the psalm divides into two halves of 11 verses each, with v. 12 (the center line; see note there) highlighting the primary thematic element that unifies the prayer. Verses 1–11 are framed by the "Why's" of the people's complaint (vv. 1,11); the whole psalm is framed by pleas for God to "remember" (vv. 2,22). Note also that the "they's" of vv. 4–8 have their counterpoint in the "You's" of vv. 13–17 (highlighted in the Hebrew by seven emphatic pronouns)—the mighty acts of God are appealed to against the destructive and haughty deeds of the enemies.
74 title Maskil. See note on Ps 32 title. Asaph. See note on Ps 73 title.
74:1–2 Initial complaint and appeal.
74:1 why . . . ? Why . . . ? Cf. "How long . . . ?" (v. 10) and "Why . . . ?" (v. 11). See note on 6:3; see also Introduction:

2 Remember Your congregation, which
You have [a]purchased of old,
Which You have [b]redeemed to be the [c]tribe of Your inheritance;
And this Mount [d]Zion, where You have dwelt.
3 [1]Turn Your footsteps toward the
[a]perpetual ruins;
The enemy [b]has damaged everything within the sanctuary.
4 Your adversaries have [a]roared in the midst of Your meeting place;
They have set up their [b]own
[1]standards [c]for signs.
5 It seems as if one had lifted up
His [1a]axe in a [2]forest of trees.
6 And now [1]all its [a]carved work
They smash with hatchet and
[2]hammers.
7 They have [1a]burned Your sanctuary
[2]to the ground;
They have [b]defiled the dwelling place of Your name.
8 They [a]said in their heart, "Let us
[1]completely [2]subdue them."
They have burned all the meeting places of God in the land.
9 We do not see our [a]signs;
There is [b]no longer any prophet,
Nor is there any among us who knows
[c]how long.
10 How long, O God, will the adversary
[a]revile,
And the enemy [b]spurn Your name
forever?
11 Why [a]do You withdraw Your hand, even Your right hand?
From within Your bosom, [b]destroy
them!

12 Yet God is [a]my king from of old,
Who works deeds of deliverance in the midst of the earth.
13 [1]You [a]divided the sea by Your strength;
[1]You [b]broke the heads of the [c]sea
monsters [2]in the waters.
14 [1]You crushed the heads of [2a]Leviathan;
[1]You gave him as food for the
[3]creatures [b]of the wilderness.
15 [1]You [a]broke open springs and torrents;
[1]You [b]dried up ever-flowing streams.
16 Yours is the day, Yours also is the
night;
[1]You have [a]prepared the [2]light and the sun.
17 [1]You have [a]established all the Theology. forever. So it seemed, since no relief was in sight. anger. See note on 2:5. sheep of Your pasture. See note on 23:1.

74:2 purchased. Or "acquired"; or "created." redeemed. Here, as often, a synonym for "deliver." Mount Zion. See note on 9:11. This verse recalls the victory song of Ex 15 (see especially vv. 13–17, and compare the center verse of this psalm, v. 12, with the last verse of the song, Ex 15:18) and thus sets the stage for the other exodus recollections that follow. The Babylonian destruction of Zion seems to be the undoing of God's great victory over Egypt when He redeemed His people. tribe. Here referring to all Israel. Your inheritance. See Deut 9:29.

74:3–8 The Babylonians' high-handed destruction of the Lord's temple.

74:3 Turn Your footsteps toward. Hurry to restore.

74:4 standards. Probably troop standards (see Num 1:52; Is 31:9; Jer 4:21). for signs. Signifying their triumph.

74:6 carved work. See 1 Kin 6:15.

74:7 Your name. See note on 5:11.

74:8 They said. See note on 10:11. all the meeting places of God. The reference is uncertain. At the time of the Babylonian attacks there may have been a number of (illegitimate) places in Judah where people went to worship God (see notes on 1 Kin 3:2; 2 Kin 18:4).

74:9–11 The complaint and prayer renewed (see vv. 1–2).

74:9 not see . . . signs. As we did at the time of the exodus (see vv. 13–15; 78:43). no . . . prophet. Jeremiah had been taken to Egypt (see Jer 43:6–7), but whether Ezekiel was no longer prophesying is unknown. Perhaps this psalm was composed by an Asaphite who remained in Israel, part of a small group overlooked by Johanan when that army officer led the remnant to Egypt (see Jer 43:4–7).

74:10 revile . . . spurn Your name. See v. 18; see also v. 22; 2 Kin 18:32–35; Is 37:6,23.

74:12 The center verse (center line in the Hebrew text; see note on 6:6). The whole psalm presupposes the truth confessed here: God is Israel's King, her hope and Savior; Israel is God's people (kingdom). This accounts for both the complaint and the prayer, and why the destruction of Israel brings with it the mocking of God. my. Communal use of the singular pronoun (see note on Ps 30 title). from of old. From the days of the exodus (see Ex 3:7; 19:5–6).

74:13–17 The Lord is the mighty God of salvation and creation (see 65:6–7 and note).

74:13–14 Recollection of God's mighty acts when He delivered His people from Egypt. The imagery is borrowed from ancient Near Eastern creation myths, in which the primeval chaotic waters were depicted as a many-headed monster that the creator-god overcame, after which he established the world order (see note on 32:6). The poet here interweaves creation and salvation themes to celebrate the fact that the God of Israel has shown by His saving acts (His opening of the Red Sea for His people and His destruction of the Egyptians) that He is able to overcome all hostile powers to redeem His people and establish His new order in the world. For poetic use of this imagery (1) to celebrate God's creation works see 89:10; Job 9:13; 26:12–13; (2) to celebrate the deliverance from Egypt see Is 51:9; (3) to announce a future deliverance of Israel see Is 27:1. Echoes of the same imagery are present in the judgment announced against Egypt in Ezek 29:3–5; 32:2–6.

74:15 Recollection of God's water miracles at the Red Sea, in the wilderness and at the Jordan.

74:16–17 God is the One who established the orders of creation; He (alone) is able to effect redemption and establish His kingdom in the world against all creaturely opposition.

18 Remember this, [1]O LORD, that the enemy has [a]reviled,
And a [b]foolish people has spurned Your name.
19 Do not deliver the soul of Your [a]turtledove to the wild beast;
[b]Do not forget the life of Your afflicted forever.
20 Consider the [a]covenant;
For the [b]dark places of the land are full of the habitations of violence.
21 Let not the [a]oppressed return dishonored;
Let the [b]afflicted and needy praise Your name.

22 Arise, O God, and [a]plead Your own cause;
Remember [1]how the [b]foolish man reproaches You all day long.
23 Do not forget the voice of Your [a]adversaries,
The [b]uproar of those who rise against You which ascends continually.

Psalm 75

For the choir director; set to [†]Al-tashheth.
A Psalm of Asaph, a Song.

1 We [a]give thanks to You, O God, we give thanks,
For Your name is [b]near;
Men declare [c]Your wondrous works.

2 "When I select an [a]appointed time,
It is I who [b]judge with equity.
3 "The [a]earth and all who dwell in it [1]melt;
It is I who have firmly set its [b]pillars. [2]Selah.
4 "I said to the boastful, 'Do not boast,'
And to the wicked, '[a]Do not lift up the horn;
5 Do not lift up your horn on high,
[a]Do not speak with insolent [1]pride.' "

6 For not from the east, nor from the west,
Nor from the [1][a]desert comes exaltation;
7 But [a]God is the Judge;
He [b]puts down one and exalts another.
8 For a [a]cup is in the hand of the LORD, and the wine foams;
It is [1][b]well mixed, and He pours out of this;
Surely all the wicked of the earth must drain and [c]drink down its dregs.

9 But as for me, I will [a]declare it forever;
I will sing praises to the God of Jacob.

74:18–23 A prayer for God to defend His cause and restore His people.
74:18 See vv. 2,10. foolish people. The "enemies" of v. 10 are here called fools for their contempt of God (see v. 22; see also note on 14:1).
74:19 Your turtledove. Israel—probably a figure of endearment (see Song 2:14; 5:2; 6:9; see also Ps 68:13 and note). wild beast. See note on 7:2.
74:20 the covenant. God's covenant to be the God of Israel, who makes them secure and richly blessed in the promised land (see Ex 19:5–6; 23:27–31; 34:10–11; Lev 26:11–12,42,44–45; Deut 28:1–14; see also Ps 105:8–11; 106:45; 111:5,9; Is 54:10; Jer 14:21; Ezek 16:60).
74:21 afflicted and needy. See note on 34:6. praise Your name. May they have cause to do so.
74:22 Arise. See note on 3:7.
74:23 voice . . . uproar. See 64:2.
Ps 75 A song of reassurance when arrogant worldly powers threaten Israel's security. The psalm may date from the time of the Assyrian menace (see 2 Kin 18:13–19:37). See also Ps 11; 76. Thematic parallels to the song of Hannah (1 Sam 2:1–10) are numerous. The worshiping congregation speaks (v. 1), perhaps led in its praise by one of the descendants of Asaph (v. 9). The psalm is framed by thanksgiving (v. 1) and praise (vv. 9–10). Two (Hebrew) stanzas of four lines each form the body of the psalm, and each stanza is composed of two couplets. The first stanza contains a reassuring word from heaven; the second contains a triumphant response from earth.
75 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. set to. See note on Ps 9 title. Al-tashheth. See note on Ps 57 title; see also Ps 58; 59 titles. Asaph. See note on Ps 73 title. Song. See note on Ps 30 title.
75:1 The congregation begins with thanksgiving in the form of praise (see 7:17; 28:7; 30:12; 35:18). name. See notes on 5:11; 74:7. wondrous works. See note on 9:1.
75:2–5 A reassuring word from above: God will not fail to call the arrogant to account. It is not clear whether a new word from the Lord is heard or whether these verses recall (and perhaps summarize) earlier prophetic words (such as those of Isaiah in 2 Kin 19:21–34).
75:2 God will not fail to judge—but in His own time.
75:3 When, because of the upsurge of evil powers, the whole moral order of the world seems to have crumbled, God still guarantees its stability (see note on 11:3). pillars. A figure for that which stabilizes the world order (see note on 24:2).
75:4 boastful . . . wicked. To the psalmists the wicked are both arrogant (see especially Ps 10; 73:4–12; 94:4; see also note on 31:23) and foolish (see 14:1; 74:18,22; 92:6; 94:8). lift up the horn. A figure for defiant opposition, based on the action of attacking bulls. "Horn" (see also v. 10) is a common Biblical metaphor for vigor or strength (see note on 18:2).
75:6–8 Triumphant echo from earth: perhaps spoken by the Levitical song leader in elaboration of the comforting word from God.
75:8 cup. See note on 16:5. well mixed. Probably mixed with spices to increase the intoxicating effect (see Prov 9:2,5; 23:29–30; Song 8:2; Is 65:11). drink down its dregs. Because God pours it out, they have no choice.
75:9 Concluding vow to praise God forever (see note on 7:17) for His righteous judgments. me. Probably the Levitical song leader speaking representatively for the people, but the pronoun may be a communal use of the singular, as in 74:12 (see note on Ps 30 title). Jacob. A synonym for Israel (see Gen 32:28).

10 And all the [a]horns of the wicked [1]He will cut off,
But [b]the horns of the righteous will be lifted up.

Psalm 76

For the choir director; on stringed instruments. A Psalm of Asaph, a Song.

1 God is [a]known in Judah;
His name is [b]great in Israel.
2 His [1a]tabernacle is in [b]Salem;
His [c]dwelling place also is in Zion.
3 There He [a]broke the [1]flaming arrows,
The shield and the sword and the [2]weapons of war. [3]Selah.

4 You are resplendent,
[1]More majestic than the mountains of prey.
5 The [a]stouthearted were plundered,
[1]They sank into sleep;
And none of the [2]warriors could use his hands.
6 At Your [a]rebuke, O God of Jacob,
Both [1b]rider and horse were cast into a dead sleep.
7 You, even You, are [a]to be feared;
And [b]who may stand in Your presence when once [1]You are angry?
8 You caused judgment to be heard from heaven;
The earth [a]feared and was still 9 When God [a]arose to judgment,
To save all the humble of the earth. Selah.
10 For the [1a]wrath of man shall praise You;
With a remnant of wrath You will gird Yourself.

11 [a]Make vows to the LORD your God and [b]fulfill them;
Let all who are around Him [c]bring gifts to Him who is to be feared.
12 He will cut off the spirit of princes;
He is [1a]feared by the kings of the earth.

Ps 76 A celebration of the Lord's invincible power in defense of Jerusalem, His royal city. The psalm is thematically related to Ps 46; 48; 87 (see introduction to Ps 46). The ancient tradition may well be correct that the psalm was composed after the Lord's destruction of Sennacherib's army when it threatened Jerusalem (see 2 Kin 19:35). Structurally, the opening (vv. 1–3) and closing (vv. 11–12) stanzas contain the main thematic development. Between them, a seven-verse stanza of praise addressed to God (vv. 4–10) celebrates His awesome act of judgment. The internal structure is notable: Verses 4,7,10 present general reflections, while the intervening verses recall the judgment itself. Verse 7, the center line (see note on 6:6), states the main theme of this stanza.

76 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. on stringed instruments. See note on Ps 4 title. Asaph. See note on Ps 73 title. Song. See note on Ps 30 title.

76:1–3 God's crushing defeat of the enemy in defense of Zion.

76:1 is known. Now especially—as a result of His marvelous act. Israel. The poet probably does not intend to distinguish between the two kingdoms (Judah and Israel) but only, by joining their names together, to refer to the whole of God's covenant people. Moreover, as a result of the Assyrian invasions, many displaced Israelites from the northern kingdom now resided in and around Jerusalem.

76:2 tabernacle. Lit."booth," referring to the temple. Since the Lord has just achieved a great victory over a menacing army, the poet may have wished to speak of the temple as the Lord's campaign tent (see 2 Sam 11:11; 1 Kin 20:12,16). But see also 18:11 ("canopy"); 31:20 ("shelter"). Salem. Jerusalem, as the parallelism makes clear (see note on Gen 14:18). Zion. See note on 9:11.

76:4–10 Praise of God's awesome majesty, whose mighty judgment evokes fearful reverence (see introduction).

76:5–6 Perhaps echoes also God's victory over the Egyptians at the Red Sea (see Ex 14:28,30; 15:4–5,10).

76:6 rebuke. This word, when predicated of God, usually refers to either (1) the thunder of His fierce majesty by which He wields His sovereign control over cosmic entities (see 18:15; 104:7; 106:9; Job 26:11; Is 50:2; Nah 1:4) or repulses His enemies (as here; see also 9:5; 68:30; Is 17:13), or (2) the thunder of His wrath (see 80:16; Is 51:20; 54:9; 66:15; Mal 2:3). God of Jacob. A link with Ps 75 (see 75:9 and note).

76:7 The thematic center of vv. 4–10 (see note on 6:6).

76:8 from heaven. Though God is present in Zion (see v. 2), He sovereignly rules from heaven.

76:10 wrath. See note on 2:5. shall praise You. When His judgments bring deliverance, those rescued praise Him. When men rise against God's kingdom, He crushes them in wrath to His own praise as Victor and Deliverer. The "remnant of wrath" indicates that particular judgments do not exhaust His wrath; a remainder is left to deal with other hostile powers.

76:11–12 Let Israel acknowledge God's help with grateful vows; let the nations acknowledge His sovereign rule with tribute.

76:11 Make vows. See note on 50:14.

76:12 spirit of princes. Their bold rebelliousness.

Ps 77 Comforting reflections in a time of great distress. The distress appears to be personal rather than national. Comparison of vv. 16–19 with Hab 3:8–10 suggests, but does not prove, a time late in the monarchy. The poetic development advances from anguished bewilderment (vv. 1–9) to comforting recollection (vv. 10–20). A striking and dramatic feature is the insertion of a four-verse section (vv. 16–19) between the third and fourth verses of another four-verse section (vv. 13–15,20).

77 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. Jeduthun. See note on Ps 39 title. Asaph. See note on Ps 73 title.

77:1–9 Anguished perplexity over God's apparent inaction, when He fails to respond to unceasing and urgent prayers.

2 In the [a]day of my trouble I sought the Lord;
[b]In the night my [c]hand was stretched out [1]without weariness;
My soul [d]refused to be comforted.
3 When I remember God, then I am [a]disturbed;
When I [b]sigh, then [c]my spirit grows faint. [1]Selah.
4 You have held my eyelids open;
I am so troubled that I [a]cannot speak.
5 I have considered the [a]days of old,
The years of long ago.
6 I will remember my [a]song in the night;
I [b]will meditate with my heart,
And my spirit [1]ponders:

7 Will the Lord [a]reject forever?
And will He [b]never be favorable again?
8 Has His [a]lovingkindness ceased forever?
Has His [1][b]promise come to an end [2]forever?
9 Has God [a]forgotten to be gracious,
Or has He in anger [1]withdrawn His [b]compassion? Selah.
10 Then I said, "[a]It is my [1]grief,
That the [b]right hand of the Most High has changed."

11 I shall remember the [a]deeds of [1]the LORD;
Surely I will [a]remember Your wonders of old.
12 I will [a]meditate on all Your work
And muse on Your deeds.

77:2 soul. See note on 6:3.
77:3–6 Remembrance of God's past mercies intensifies the present perplexity (as also in 22:1–11). God's failure to act now is so troubling that the psalmist cannot sleep (cf. 3:5; 4:8) and words fail (but see vv. 10–20).
77:6 heart. See note on 4:7.
77:7–9 Though words fail (v. 4), troubled thoughts will not go away.
77:8 lovingkindness. See note on 6:4.
77:9 anger. See note on 2:5.
77:10–20 Reassuring recollection of God's mighty acts in behalf of Israel in the exodus.
77:10–12 Faith's decision to look beyond the present troubles—and God's bewildering inactivity—to draw hope anew from God's saving acts of old.
77:10 Most High. See note on Gen 14:19.
77:11,14 wonders. See note on 9:1.
77:13–20 God's mighty acts in the exodus recalled.
77:13 Appears to echo Ex 15:11. is holy. Or "is seen in the sanctuary" (see 63:2).
77:15 redeemed. Here, as often, a synonym for "deliver" (see 74:2). Joseph. OT authors sometimes refer to the northern kingdom as "Joseph" (or "Ephraim," Joseph's son) in distinction from the southern kingdom of Judah (see 78:67; 2 Sam 19:20; 1 Kin 11:28; Ezek 37:16,19; Amos 5:6,15; 6:6; Zech 10:6). However, here and elsewhere (see 80:1; 81:5; Obad 18) Joseph—the one elevated to the position of firstborn (see Gen 48:5 and note; Josh 16:1–4; 1 Chr 5:2; Ezek 47:13)—represents the whole of his generation and thus also all the descendants of Jacob.
77:16–19 A poetically heightened description of the majesty of God displayed when He opened a way through the Red Sea. Verses 16,19 speak expressly of that event; the intervening verses (vv. 17–18) evoke the majesty of God displayed in the thunderstorm and earthquake. Ex 14:19 speaks only of God's cloud, not of a thunderstorm or earthquake, but the Hebrew poets often associated either or both with the Lord's coming to effect redemption or judgment—no doubt because these were the two most fearsome displays of power known to them (see 18:12–14; 68:8; Judg 5:4–5; Hab 3:6,10). Here the psalmist declares: It was the God of thunderstorm and earthquake who made His majestic way through the mighty waters of the sea to bring His people out of bondage. For Christians the display of God's power in behalf of His people now includes the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead (see Matt 28:2; cf. Eph 1:18–23).
77:17 arrows. Lightning bolts.
77:20 Completes the thought of v. 15 (see introduction). led Your people. Through the Wilderness of Sinai.
Ps 78 A psalm of instruction—of warnings not to repeat Israel's sins of the past but to remember God's saving acts and marvelously persistent grace and, remembering, to keep faith with Him and His covenant. Here as elsewhere (pervasively in the OT), trust in and loyalty to God on the part of God's people are covenant matters. They do not spring from abstract principles

2 I will [a]open my mouth in a parable;
I will utter [b]dark sayings of old,
3 Which we have heard and known,
And [a]our fathers have told us.
4 We will [a]not conceal them from their children,
But [b]tell to the generation to come the praises of the LORD,
And His strength and His [c]wondrous works that He has done.

5 For He established a [a]testimony in Jacob

And whose spirit was not [d]faithful to God.

11 [1]Or wonderful works [a]Ps 106:13
12 [a]Ex chs 7-12; Ps 106:22

(such as the formal structure of the God-man relationship) or from general human consciousness (such as feelings of dependence on "God" or a sense of awe in the presence of the "holy"), but they result from remembering God's mighty saving acts. Correspondingly, unfaithfulness is the more blameworthy because it contemptuously disregards all God's wonderful acts in His people's behalf (see Ps 105–106).

The psalm probably dates from the period of the divided monarchy and may have been composed about the time of the prophet Hosea (both Hosea and Isaiah speak frequently of the northern kingdom as Ephraim since it was the dominant tribe of that realm). Israel's unfaithfulness is here epitomized in the sin of Ephraim (v. 9); the psalm concludes by recalling the rejection of "Israel" (v. 59) and the abandonment of Shiloh (v. 60), but the election of Judah and Mount Zion (v. 68). Coming, as may be assumed, from the pen of an Asaphite, the psalm was no doubt a warning to worshipers at Jerusalem not to fall away after the manner of their brothers to the north.

By placing this psalm next to Ps 77, the editors of the Psalter ranged David alongside Moses (and Aaron) as the Lord's shepherd over His people (see vv. 70–72; 77:20) who brought the exodus to its (provisionally) climactic fruition by completing the conquest of the promised land—a perspective apparently shared by the author of the psalm.

The psalm is composed of 77 (Hebrew) lines (72 numbered verses) and seven stanzas—with an 11-line introduction. After the introduction, the structure of the stanzas in Hebrew is symmetrical: 8 lines, 16 lines, 9 lines, 16 lines, 9 lines, 8 lines. The two sequences of 16 lines–9 lines constitute a thematic cycle, while the two 8-line stanzas frame the double cycle and underscore the contrast between the sin of Israel ("Ephraim," vv. 9–16) and the unending mercy of God to His people—mercy that is evidenced in His victory over His enemies and His election of Zion (in Judah) and David (vv. 65–72).

78 title Maskil. See note on Ps 32 title. Asaph. See note on Ps 73 title.

78:1–8 Our children must hear what our fathers have told us, so that they may be faithful to the Lord.

78:1–2 This introduction is written in the style of a wisdom writer (see essay, p. 689; see also Ps 49:1–4).

78:2 parable . . . dark sayings. The Hebrew underlying these two expressions occurs in 49:4 ("proverb," "riddle") and Ezek 17:2 ("riddle," "parable")—which raises the question of whether the author is here influenced by prophetic use of wisdom language. While both terms had specialized uses—those reflected in 49:4—they apparently also became conventionalized more generally for instruction in a wide variety of forms. of old. Things for instruction from the past. Matt 13:35 refers to this verse as a prophecy of Jesus' parabolic teaching. Matthew apparently perceived in this psalm a prophetic voice anticipating that of the great Prophet. The "parables" of the psalm are, however, more like the teaching of Stephen (Acts 7) than that of Jesus.

78:4–5 The Lord's saving acts and covenant statutes—both must be taught, and in relationship, for together they remain the focal point for faith and obedience down through the generations (see vv. 7–8).

78:4 not conceal them. See Job 15:18.

78:5 teach . . . their children. See, e.g., Ex 10:2; 12:26–27; 13:8,14; Deut 4:9; 6:20–21.

78:8 stubborn and rebellious. Like a rebellious son (see Deut 9:6–7, 24; 31:27). generation. A people with certain characteristics (see 24:6; Deut 32:5,20), thus not limited to the exodus generation (see vv. 9–11,56–64). heart. See note on 4:7.

78:9–16 The northern kingdom has violated God's covenant, not remembering His saving acts (a message emphasized by the prophets Amos and Hosea). Israel's history with God has been a long series of rebellions on her part (vv. 9–16,32–39, 56–64), beginning already in the wilderness (vv. 17–31,40–55).

78:9 sons of Ephraim. The northern kingdom, dominated by the tribe of Ephraim (see introduction). turned back. Neither the tribe of Ephraim nor the northern kingdom had a reputation for cowardice or ineffectiveness in battle (see, e.g., Deut 33:17). This verse is best understood as a metaphor for Israel's betrayal of God's covenant (see v. 10), related to the figure of the "treacherous bow" (v. 57).

78:12–16 A summary reference to the plagues in Egypt and to the water miracles at the Red Sea and in the wilderness. In the two cycles that follow (vv. 17–39,40–64), further elaboration intensifies the indictment.

78:12 See Ex 7–12. Zoan. A city in the northeast part of the Nile delta (see v. 43; see also Num 13:22 and note).

In the land of Egypt, in the [b]field of Zoan.
13 He [a]divided the sea and caused them to pass through,
And He made the waters stand [b]up like a heap.
14 Then He led them with the cloud by [a]day
And all the night with a [b]light of fire.
15 He [a]split the rocks in the wilderness
And gave them abundant drink like the ocean depths.
16 He [a]brought forth streams also from the rock
And caused waters to run down like rivers.

17 Yet they still continued to sin against Him,
To [a]rebel against the Most High in the desert.
18 And in their heart they [a]put God to the test
By asking [b]food according to their desire.
19 Then they spoke against God;
They said, "[a]Can God prepare a table in the wilderness?
20 "Behold, He [a]struck the rock so that waters gushed out,
And streams were overflowing;
Can He give bread also?
Will He provide [1][b]meat for His people?"

21 Therefore the LORD heard and [1]was [a]full of wrath;
And a fire was kindled against Jacob
And anger also mounted against Israel,
22 Because they [a]did not believe in God
And did not trust in His salvation.
23 Yet He commanded the clouds above
And [a]opened the doors of heaven;
24 He [a]rained down manna upon them to eat
And gave them [1][b]food from heaven.
25 Man did eat the bread of [1]angels;
He sent them [2]food [3][a]in abundance.
26 He [a]caused the east wind to blow in the heavens
And by His [1]power He directed the south wind.
27 When He rained [1]meat upon them like the dust,
Even [a]winged fowl like the sand of the seas,
28 Then He let them fall in the midst of [1]their camp,
Round about their dwellings.
29 So they [a]ate and were well filled,
And their desire He gave to them.
30 [1]Before they had satisfied their desire,
[a]While their food was in their mouths,
31 The [a]anger of God rose against them
And killed [1]some of their [b]stoutest ones,
And [2]subdued the choice men of Israel.
32 In spite of all this they [a]still sinned
And [b]did not believe in His wonderful works.
33 So He brought [a]their days to an end in [1]futility
And their years in sudden terror.

34 When He killed them, then they [a]sought Him,
And returned and searched [b]diligently for God;
35 And they remembered that God was their [a]rock,
And the Most High God their [b]Redeemer.

78:15–16 See v. 20; Ex 17:6; Num 20:8,10–11.
78:17–31 Israel's rebelliousness in the wilderness; God's marvelous provision of food—and His anger.
78:17 continued. Although no sin in the wilderness has yet been mentioned, the poet probably expected his readers to recall (in conjunction with the miraculous provisions of water just mentioned) how the people grumbled at Marah because of lack of water (see Ex 15:24). Most High. See vv. 35,56; see also note on Gen 14:19.
78:18 See Ex 16:2–3. put God to the test. See vv. 41,56; see also note on Ex 17:2.
78:19 Can God prepare a table . . . ? For a different use of the same imagery see 23:5.
78:20 bread . . . meat. The poet is probably combining and compressing two episodes (Ex 16:2–3; Num 11:4).
78:21 wrath. See vv. 31,49–50,58–59,62; see also note on 2:5.
78:23 opened the doors of heaven. For this imagery see Gen 7:11; 2 Kin 7:2; Mal 3:10.
78:25 bread of angels. So called because it came down from heaven. angels. Lit. "mighty ones." The Hebrew word is used only here of the angels, but reference is clearly to heavenly beings (see 103:20).
78:26–28 See Ex 16:13; Num 11:31.
78:26 east wind . . . south wind. Since the quails were migrating from Egypt at this time, the south wind may have carried them north and the east wind may have diverted them to the wilderness area occupied by the Israelites (the book of Numbers does not provide wind directions).
78:27 like the dust . . . like the sand. Similes for a huge number (see note on Gen 13:16).
78:30–31 See Num 11:33.
78:32–39 Rebelliousness, which became Israel's way of life, showed itself early in the wilderness wandering (vv. 17–31) and continued throughout that journey.
78:32 did not believe. That God could give them victory over the Canaanites (see Num 14:11).
78:33 The exodus generation was condemned to die in the wilderness (see Num 14:22–23,28–35).
78:34–37 A cycle repeated frequently during the period of the judges.

36 But they [a]deceived Him with their mouth
And [b]lied to Him with their tongue.
37 For their heart was not [a]steadfast toward Him,
Nor were they faithful in His covenant.
38 But He, being [a]compassionate,
[1b]forgave their iniquity and did not destroy them;
And often He [2c]restrained His anger
And did not arouse all His wrath.
39 Thus [a]He remembered that they were but [b]flesh,
A [1c]wind that passes and does not return.

40 How often they [a]rebelled against Him in the wilderness
And [b]grieved Him in the [c]desert!
41 Again and again they [1a]tempted God,
And pained the [b]Holy One of Israel.
42 They [a]did not remember [b]His [1]power,
The day when He [c]redeemed them from the adversary,
43 When He performed His [a]signs in Egypt
And His [b]marvels in the field of Zoan,
44 And [a]turned their rivers to blood,
And their streams, they could not drink.
45 He sent among them swarms of [a]flies which devoured them,
And [b]frogs which destroyed them.
46 He gave also their crops to the [a]grasshopper
And the product of their labor to the [b]locust.
47 He [1]destroyed their vines with [a]hailstones
And their sycamore trees with frost.
48 He gave over their [a]cattle also to the hailstones
And their herds to bolts of lightning.
49 He [a]sent upon them His burning anger,
Fury and indignation and trouble,
[1]A band of destroying angels.

50 He leveled a path for His anger;
He did not spare their soul from death,
But [a]gave over their life to the plague,
51 And [a]smote all the firstborn in Egypt,
The [b]first issue of their virility in the tents of [c]Ham.

But [b]the sea engulfed their enemies.

54 So [a]He brought them to His holy [1]land,
To this [2b]hill country [c]which His right hand had gained.
55 He also [a]drove out the nations before them
And [b]apportioned them for an inheritance by measurement,
And made the tribes of Israel dwell in their tents.
56 Yet they [1a]tempted and [b]rebelled against the Most High God
And did not keep His testimonies,
57 But turned back and [a]acted treacherously like their fathers;
They [b]turned aside like a treacherous bow.
58 For they [a]provoked Him with their [b]high places
And [c]aroused His jealousy with their [d]graven images.
59 When God heard, He [1]was filled with [a]wrath
And greatly [b]abhorred Israel;

78:40–64 The second cycle (the first is vv. 17–39).
78:40–55 Israel's rebelliousness began in the wilderness; she did not remember how she had been delivered from oppression by God's plagues upon Egypt (see v. 12). Yet He brought them through the sea and the wilderness and established them in the promised land.
78:41 Holy One of Israel. See 71:22; 89:18; see also note on Is 1:4.
78:44–51 The plagues upon Egypt (see Ex 7–12): The sequence in Exodus is followed only in the first and last; the third, fifth, sixth and ninth plagues are not mentioned.
78:47 sycamore trees. See note on Amos 7:14.
78:49 destroying angels. The poet personifies God's wrath, indignation and hostility as agents of His anger.
78:51 tents. Dwellings. Ham. For the association of Ham with Egypt see 105:23,27; 106:21–22; Gen 10:6 and note.
78:53 sea. Red Sea.
78:55 Summarizes the story told in Joshua.
78:56–64 Rebelliousness continued to be Israel's way of life in the promised land (a recurring theme of Judges; see also 1 Sam 2:12–7:2), so God rejected Israel (v. 59; see Jer 7:15).
78:57 treacherous bow. See note on v. 9.
78:58 high places. See note on 1 Sam 9:12. jealousy. God's intense reaction to disloyalty to Him (see note on Ex 20:5).
78:59 greatly abhorred Israel. Abandoned her to her enemies. The psalmist does not speak of a permanent casting off of Israel, not even of the ten northern tribes.
78:60 Shiloh. The center of worship since the time of Joshua (see Josh 18:1,8; 21:1–2; Judg 18:31; 1 Sam 1:3; Jer 7:12), it was located in Ephraim between Bethel and Shechem (see Judg

Psalm 79

A Psalm of Asaph.

1 O God, the [a]nations have [1]invaded
[b]Your inheritance;
They have defiled Your [c]holy temple;
They have [d]laid Jerusalem in ruins.

21:19). Apparently it was destroyed by the Philistines when they captured the ark or shortly afterward (see note on Jer 7:12).

78:61 His strength ... His glory. The ark is here so called because it was the sign of God's kingship in Israel and the focal point for the display of His power and glory (see 26:8; 63:2; 1 Sam 4:3,21–22).

78:62,71 His inheritance. See Deut 9:29.

78:63 Fire. Often associated with the sword (see vv. 62,64) as the two primary instruments of destruction in ancient warfare. no wedding songs. So great was the catastrophe that both the wedding songs of the brides and the wailing of the widows (see v. 64) were silenced in the land.

78:64 priests fell by the sword. See 1 Sam 4:11.

78:65–72 The Lord's election of Judah (instead of Ephraim) as the leading tribe in Israel (anticipated in Jacob's deathbed blessing of his sons, Gen 49:8–12), of Mount Zion (instead of Shiloh) as the place of His sanctuary (royal seat), and of David as His regent to shepherd His people. By these acts the Lord established His people securely as His kingdom in the promised land, following the long period of Israel's troubles from the death of Joshua to the death of Saul—by then God's salvation of Israel begun in the exodus reached its climactic (if provisional) fulfillment (see introduction to Ps 68 and the combination of echoes of God's saving act in the exodus and through David in Isaiah's prophecy of Israel's future deliverance, Is 11:11–16).

78:65 awoke as if from sleep. Poetic hyperbole to highlight the contrast between God's action in behalf of His people in the days of David and the preceding time of Israel's troubles (see note on 7:6).

78:66–72 The saving events noted have two focal points: (1) God's decisive victory over His enemies (thus securing His realm) and the establishment of Zion as His royal city, and (2) the appointment of David to be the shepherd of His people.

78:67 tent of Joseph. A figure for the tribe of Ephraim (for the figurative use of "tent" see v. 51; see also 69:25; 83:6; 84:10; 120:5; Gen 9:27; Deut 33:18; 1 Kin 12:16; Job 8:22; 12:6; Hab 3:7; Mal 2:12).

78:68,70 chose ... Mount Zion ... chose David. See Ps 132.

78:69 heights ... earth. The verse is subject to two interpretations: (1) The Lord built His sanctuary as impregnable as a mountain fortress and as enduring and unmovable as the age-old earth, or (2) the Lord built His sanctuary as secure and enduring as the heavens and the earth (see note on 24:2) and there manifests Himself as the Lord of glory (see 24:7–10; 26:8; 63:2; 96:6), even as He does in the creation (see 19:1; 29:9; 97:6).

78:70–71 See 1 Sam 16:11–13; 2 Sam 7:8.

78:70 His servant. Here an official title marking David as a member of God's royal administration (see notes on Ex 14:31; Ps 18 title; Is 41:8–9; 42:1).

78:71 shepherd. See note on 23:1.

78:72 Israel under the care of the Lord's royal shepherd from the house of David was for the prophets the hope of God's people (see Ezek 34:23; 37:24; Mic 5:4—fulfilled in Jesus Christ, Matt 2:6; John 10:11; Rev 7:17).

Ps 79 Israel's prayer for God's forgiveness and help and for His judgment on the nations that have so cruelly destroyed her, showing utter contempt for both the Lord and His people. Like Ps 74, with which it has many thematic links, it dates from the time of the exile. The poignancy of its appeal is heightened by its juxtaposition to Ps 77 (recalling God's saving acts under Moses) and Ps 78 (recalling God's saving acts under David), two psalms with which it is significantly linked by the shepherd-sheep figure and other thematic elements. Israel acknowledges that the Lord has used the nations to punish her for her sins, so she pleads for pardon. But she knows too that the nations have acted out of their hostility to and disdain for God and His people; that warrants her plea for God's judgment on them (see Is 10:5–11; 47:6–7). Daniel's prayer (Dan 9:4–19) contains much that is similar to the elements of penitence in this psalm.

79 title Asaph. See note on Ps 73 title.

79:1–4 What the nations have done: They have attacked God's own special domain, violated His temple, destroyed His royal city, slaughtered His people, degraded them in death (by withholding burial—see note on 53:5—and leaving their bodies as carrion for birds and beasts) and reduced them to the scorn of the world.

79:1 Your inheritance. Cf. 78:62,71. Here reference is to Israel's homeland as the Lord's domain (see note on 2:8). holy temple. See note on 78:69.

2 They have given the [a]dead bodies of Your servants for food to the birds of the heavens,
The flesh of Your godly ones to the 3 They have poured out their blood like water round about Jerusalem;

And there was [a]no one to bury them.
4 We have become a [a]reproach to our neighbors,
A scoffing and derision to those
around us.
5 [a]How long, O LORD? Will You be angry
forever?
Will Your [b]jealousy [c]burn like fire?
6 [a]Pour out Your wrath upon the nations which [b]do not know You,
And upon the kingdoms which [c]do not call upon Your name.
7 For they have [a]devoured Jacob
And [b]laid waste his [1]habitation.

8 [a]Do not remember [1]the iniquities of our forefathers against us;
Let Your compassion come quickly to

For we are [c]brought very low.

And deliver us and [1c]forgive our sins

Psalm 80

For the choir director; set to [†]El Shoshannim; [•]Eduth. A Psalm of Asaph.

1 Oh, give ear, [a]Shepherd of Israel,
You who lead [b]Joseph like a flock;

79:2 Your servants. Though banished from the Lord's land for sins that cannot be denied, the exiles plead their special covenant relationship with God (see "Your godly ones," here, and "Your people and the sheep of Your pasture," v. 13). godly ones. See note on 4:3.

79:3 poured out their blood . . . round about Jerusalem. Cf. 2 Kin 21:16.

79:5–8 A prayer for God to relent and deal with the nations who do not acknowledge Him.

79:5 How long . . . ? See note on 6:3 (see also Introduction: Theology). angry. See v. 6 ("wrath"); see also note on 2:5. jealousy. See note on 78:58. burn like fire. See Deut 4:24; 6:15; Zeph 1:18; 3:8.

79:6–7 See Jer 10:25 and note. Perhaps the psalmist is quoting Jeremiah here.

79:6 Pour out Your wrath. As they "poured out" (v. 3) the blood of Your people. The exiles plead with God to redress the wrongs committed against them (see note on 5:10).

79:7 devoured. Like wild beasts (see 44:11; 74:19 and note on 7:2). Jacob. A synonym for Israel (see Gen 32:28).

79:8 iniquities of our forefathers. Israel suffered exile because of the accumulated sins of the nation (see 2 Kin 17:7–23; 23:26–27; 24:3–4; Dan 9:4–14), from which she did not repent until the judgment of God had fallen on her. The exiles here pray that God will take notice of their penitence and not continue to hold the sins of past generations against His now repentant people. compassion. Here personified as God's agent sent to bring relief (see notes on 23:6; 43:3).

79:9–11 A prayer for God to help and forgive His people and to redress the violent acts of the enemies.

79:9 for the glory of Your name. As the desolation of God's people brings reproach to God (see v. 10), so their salvation and prosperity bring Him glory (see note on 23:3). forgive. See note on 65:3.

79:10 Where is their God? See note on 3:2. Vengeance. Redress (see Deut 32:35,43).

79:11 prisoners . . . those who are doomed to die. The exiles, as imperial captives in Babylonia (see 102:20)—not actually in prisons, but under threat of death should they seek to return to their homeland.

79:12–13 Concluding prayer and vow to praise.

79:12 return . . . into their bosom. See note on Jer 32:18. sevenfold. In full measure; the number seven symbolized completeness. reproach . . . reproached You. The enemies' violent action against Israel was above all a high-handed reviling of God (see vv. 1,10; 2 Kin 19:10–12,22–23; Is 52:5).

79:13 See note on 7:17. sheep of Your pasture. See 74:1; 77:20; 78:72. To all generations. See 78:4.

Ps 80 Israel's prayer for restoration when she had been ravaged by a foreign power. It seems likely that "Ephraim and Benjamin and Manasseh" (v. 2) here represent the northern kingdom. If Jeroboam was indeed given ten tribes (see 1 Kin 11:29–36), leaving only one to Rehoboam—Judah (see 1 Kin 12:20), which was actually two tribes because Simeon was located within Judah (see Josh 19:1–9)—then Benjamin belonged to the northern kingdom. However, part of Benjamin must always have remained with the southern kingdom since its territory actually bordered on Jerusalem itself, and the southern kingdom continued to control Jerusalem's environs (see 1 Kin 12:21). This suggests that the disaster suffered was the Assyrian campaign that swept the northern kingdom away (see 2 Kin 17:1–6). Recent archaeological surveys of the Holy Land have shown that Jerusalem and the surrounding countryside experienced at this time a dramatic increase of population, no doubt the result of a massive influx of displaced persons from the north fleeing the Assyrian beast. This could account for the presence of "Ephraim and Benjamin and Manasseh" at the Jerusalem sanctuary, and for a national prayer for restoration with special

You who [c]are enthroned above the cherubim, shine forth!
2 Before [a]Ephraim and Benjamin and Manasseh, [b]stir up Your power
And come to save us!
3 O God, [a]restore us
And [b]cause Your face to shine upon us, [1]and we will be saved.

4 O [a]LORD God of hosts,
[b]How long will You [1]be angry with the prayer of Your people?
5 You have fed them with the [a]bread of tears,
And You have made them to drink tears in [1]large measure.
6 You make us [1]an object of contention [a]to our neighbors,
And our enemies laugh among themselves.
7 O God of hosts, restore us
And cause Your face to shine upon us, [1]and we will be saved.

8 You removed a [a]vine from Egypt;
You [b]drove out the [1]nations and [c]planted it.
9 You [a]cleared the ground before it,
And it [b]took deep root and filled the land.
10 The mountains were covered with its shadow,
And [1]the cedars of God with its [a]boughs.
11 It was sending out its branches [a]to the sea
And its shoots to the River.
12 Why have You [a]broken down its [1]hedges,
So that all who pass that way pick its fruit?
13 A boar from the forest [a]eats it away
And whatever moves in the field feeds on it.

14 O God of hosts, [a]turn again now, we beseech You;
[b]Look down from heaven and see, and take care of this vine,
15 Even the [1a]shoot which Your right hand has planted,
And on the [2]son whom You have [3]strengthened for Yourself.
16 It is [a]burned with fire, it is cut down;
They perish at the [b]rebuke of Your countenance.
17 Let [a]Your hand be upon the man of Your right hand,
Upon the son of man whom You [b]made strong for Yourself.

focus on these tribes (see notes below).

The prayer has five (Hebrew) stanzas of four lines each. A recurring petition climaxes the first, second and last (for other refrains see introduction to Ps 42–43), with a progressing urgency of appeal: "O God" (v. 3); "O God of hosts" (v. 7); "O LORD God of hosts" (v. 19).

80 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. set to. See note on Ps 9 title. El Shoshannim. See note on Ps 45 title. Asaph. See note on Ps 73 title.

80:1–3 An appeal for God to arouse Himself and go before His people again with all His glory and might as He did in days of old in the wilderness.

80:1 See the shepherd-flock motif in 74:1; 77:20; 78:52,71–72; 79:13. Joseph. See note on 77:15. enthroned above the cherubim. See note on Ex 25:18. shine forth! Let Your glory be seen again, as in the wilderness journey (see Ex 24:16–17; 40:34–35), but now especially through Your new saving act (see 102:15–16; Ex 14:4,17–18; Num 14:22; Is 40:5; 44:23; 60:1–2).

80:2 Ephraim and Benjamin and Manasseh. March against the nations as You marched in the midst of Your army from Sinai into the promised land (in that march the ark of the covenant advanced in front of the troops of these three tribes; see Num 10:21–24; see also introduction to Ps 68). stir up. See note on 7:6.

80:3 cause Your face to shine. See vv. 7,19; an echo of the priestly benediction (see Num 6:25; see also notes on 4:6; 13:1).

80:4–7 A lament over the Lord's severe punishment of His people.

80:4 LORD . . . of hosts. See vv. 7,14,19; see also note on 1 Sam 1:3. How long . . . ? See note on 6:3 (see also Introduction: Theology). angry. See note on 2:5.

80:5 God has now given them tears to eat and tears to drink rather than "the bread of angels" and water from the rock (see 78:20,25).

80:8–16 This use of the vine-vineyard metaphor (here to describe Israel's changed condition) is found also in the prophets (see Is 3:14; 5:1–7; 27:2; Jer 2:21; 12:10; Ezek 17:6–8; 19:10–14; Hos 10:1; 14:7; Mic 7:1; see also Gen 49:22; Matt 20:1–16; Mark 12:1–9; Luke 20:9–16; John 15:1–5).

80:8–11 Israel was once God's flourishing transplanted vine.

80:8 removed. See 78:52; here the Hebrew for this verb has the sense of "uprooted" (as in Job 19:10). drove out the nations and planted. See 44:2. planted. Transplanted.

80:9 cleared the ground. See Is 5:2.

80:10 cedars of God. Or "mighty cedars." The Hebrew word for "God" is sometimes used in the sense of "mighty" (see, e.g., note on 29:1).

80:11 sea . . . River. The "sea" is probably the Mediterranean and the "River" the Euphrates (see Ex 23:31 and note).

80:12–15 A prayer for God to renew His care for His ravaged vine.

80:12 Why . . . ? Israel's anguished perplexity over God's abandonment (see note on 6:3). broken down its hedges. Taken away its defenses.

80:14 take care of. See Ex 3:16. But the Hebrew for this phrase may have the sense here that it has in Ruth 1:6: "visited" for the purpose of giving aid.

80:15 son. Israel (see Ex 4:22–23; Hos 11:1). But "son" may sometimes be used also to refer to a vine branch (see NASB marg.; see also note on Gen 49:22). That may be the case here, thus yielding the conventional pair "shoot and branch," a figure for the whole vine (see Job 18:16; 29:19; Ezek 17:7; Mal 4:1; see also Is 5:24; 27:6; 37:31; Ezek 17:9; 31:7; Hos 9:16; Amos 2:9; Rom 11:16). strengthened. See v. 17; lit. "made vigorous."

80:16–19 Concluding prayer for restoration.

80:16 rebuke. See 9:5 and note on 76:6.

80:17 Let Your hand be upon. Show your favor to (see Ezra

18 Then we shall not [a]turn back from You;

19 O LORD God of hosts, [a]restore us;

Psalm 81

For the choir director; [1]on the Gittith.
A Psalm of Asaph.

1 [a]Sing for joy to God our [b]strength;
Shout [c]joyfully to the [d]God of Jacob.

At the full moon, on our [b]feast day.

An ordinance of the God of Jacob.
5 He established it for a testimony in Joseph
When he [1][a]went throughout the land of Egypt.
I heard a [b]language that I did not know:
6 "I [1][a]relieved his shoulder of the burden,
His hands were freed from the [2]basket.
7 "You [a]called in trouble and I rescued you;
I [b]answered you in the hiding place of thunder;
I proved you at the [c]waters of Meribah. [1]Selah.

O Israel, if you [b]would listen to Me!

Nor shall you worship any foreign god.

Who brought you up from the land of Egypt;

7:6,9,28; 8:18,22,31; Neh 2:8,18). Your right hand. Reference may be to the Davidic king as the Lord's anointed, seated in the place of honor in God's presence (see 110:1) and the one in whom the hope of the nation rested (see 2:7–9; 72:8–11; 89:21–25). But v. 15 strongly suggests another sense: that "the man" is Jacob/Israel and that he is "of" God's "right hand" in that he has been "planted" and "strengthened" by Him.

80:18 A vow to be loyal to God and to trust in Him alone. It occurs in a place where it would be more common to find a vow to praise (see note on 7:17).

Ps 81 A festival song. But it is unclear whether the festival is Passover/Unleavened Bread (v. 5; see Ex 12:14–17) or the Jewish New Year (v. 3; see Lev 23:24; Num 29:1) or the Feast of Booths (v. 3; see Lev 23:34; Num 29:12). It may have been used at all three. But more likely it was composed for use at both New Year (the first day of the month, "New Moon") and the beginning of Booths (the 15th day of the month, full moon); see notes below. Whether the psalm is preexilic or postexilic cannot be determined, but it clearly shows the grand significance of Israel's annual religious festivals (see chart, pp. 164–165). As memorials of God's saving acts they called Israel to celebration, remembrance and recommitment (see Ps 95). In this psalm Israel is addressed by a Levite, speaking (prophetically) on behalf of God.

The psalm's thematic development follows a symmetrical pattern: two verses, three verses; two verses, three verses; two verses, four verses. Note also the contrast between vv. 6–7 and vv. 11–12, and the thematic link between v. 10c and v. 16.

81 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. on. See note on Ps 6 title. Gittith. See note on Ps 8 title. Asaph. See note on Ps 73 title.

81:1–5 A summons to celebrate the appointed sacred feast.

81:1 Jacob. A synonym for Israel (see Gen 32:28).

81:2 timbrel. See note on Jer 31:4. lyre with the harp. See note on 57:8.

81:3 trumpet. The ram's horn trumpet (see Ex 19:13). our feast. Probably the Feast of Booths, often called simply "the feast" (see 1 Kin 8:2,65; 12:32; 2 Chr 5:3; 7:8; Neh 8:14,18; Ezek 45:25; see also Deut 16:14). As the great seven-day autumn festival, beginning on the 15th of the month (full moon), it followed shortly after the day of atonement (observed on the tenth of the month, Lev 16:29), recalled God's care for His people during the wilderness journey (see Lev 23:43), served as a feast of thanksgiving for the harvest (see Lev 23:39–40; Deut 16:13–15) and marked the conclusion of the annual cycle of religious festivals that began with Passover and Unleavened Bread six months earlier (see Ex 23:14–17; Lev 23; Deut 16:16). Every seventh year at this festival the covenant law was to be read to all the people (see Deut 31:9–13; Neh 8:2,15). The first day of this month (New Moon) was commemorated with trumpets (see Lev 23:24). It later came to be known as New Year since the seventh month marked the end of harvest and the beginning of the rainy season, when the new crops were planted.

81:4–5 statute . . . ordinance . . . testimony. See the passages referred to in note on v. 3.

81:5 Joseph. See note on 77:15. went throughout the land of Egypt. Some believe this indicates that the festival referred to is Passover and Unleavened Bread (see Ex 12:14,42). More likely it serves as a reference to the whole exodus period, while highlighting especially God's triumph over Egypt by which He had set His people free (see vv. 6–7). heard a language that I did not know. Was an alien in a foreign land (see 114:1; see also Deut 28:49; Is 19:18; 33:19; Jer 5:15; Ezek 3:5–6). An alternative translation is "heard a voice that I did not know." In this case, the "voice" is the "thunder" of God's judgment against Egypt (see v. 7), which the Levitical author then proceeds to interpret as to its present reference for the celebrating congregation (vv. 6–16).

81:6–10 God heard and delivered and now summons His people to loyalty.

81:6 burden . . . basket. The forced labor to which the Israelites were subjected in Egypt (see Ex 1:11–14).

81:7 You called . . . I rescued. See Ex 3:7–10. in the hiding place of thunder. See 106:9; Ex 14:21,24; 15:8,10; see also note on 76:6. I proved you. See Ex 17:1–7.

81:8–10 God heard His people in their distress (vv. 6–7); now they must listen to Him.

81:9–10 See Ex 19:4–5; 20:2–4; Deut 4:15–20.

81:10 Open your mouth wide. Trust in the Lord alone for all of life's needs. I will fill it. See v. 16; as He did in the wilderness (see 78:23–29; see also 37:3–4; Deut 11:13–15; 28:1–4).

11 "But My people [a]did not listen to My voice,
And Israel did not [1]obey Me.
12 "So I [a]gave [1]them over to the stubbornness of their heart,
To walk in their own devices.
13 "Oh that My people [a]would listen to Me,
That Israel would [b]walk in My ways!
14 "I would quickly [a]subdue their enemies
And [b]turn My hand against their adversaries.
15 "[a]Those who hate the LORD would [b]pretend obedience to Him,
And their time of punishment would be forever.
16 "[1]But I would feed you with the [2a]finest of the wheat,
And with [b]honey from the rock I would satisfy you."

A Psalm of Asaph.

1 God takes His [a]stand in [1]His own congregation;
He [b]judges in the midst of the [2c]rulers.
2 How long will you [a]judge unjustly
And [b]show partiality to the wicked? [1]Selah.

Do justice to the afflicted and destitute.
4 [a]Rescue the weak and needy;

They [b]walk about in darkness;
All the [c]foundations of the earth are shaken.
6 [1]I [a]said, "You are gods,
And all of you are [b]sons of the Most High.
7 "Nevertheless [a]you will die like men
And fall like any [b]one of the princes."

81:11 See 78:10,17,32,40,56; Deut 9:7,24; Jer 7:24–26.
81:12 It is God who "circumcises" the heart (see Deut 30:6; see also 1 Kin 8:58; Jer 31:33; Ezek 11:19; 36:26). Thus for God to abandon His people to their sins is the most fearful of punishments (see 78:29; Is 6:9–10; 29:10; 63:17; cf. Rom 1:24,26,28).

Ps 82 A word of judgment on unjust rulers and judges. The Levitical author of this psalm evokes a vision of God presiding over His heavenly court—analogous to the experiences of the prophets (see 1 Kin 22:19–22; Is 6:1–7; Jer 23:18,22; see also Job 15:8). As the Great King (see introduction to Ps 47) and the Judge of all the earth (see 94:2; Gen 18:25; 1 Sam 2:10) who "loves justice" (99:4) and judges the nations in righteousness (see 9:8; 96:13; 98:9), he is seen calling to account those responsible for defending the weak and oppressed on earth. An early rabbinic interpretation (see John 10:34–35) understood the "gods" (v. 6) to be unjust rulers and judges in Israel, of whom there were many (see 1 Sam 8:3; Is 1:16–17; 3:13–15; Jer 21:12; 22:3; Ezek 34:4,21; Mic 3:1–3; 7:3). Today many identify the "gods" as the kings of surrounding nations who encouraged the conceit that they were actually or virtually divine beings but who ruled with lofty disregard for justice—though honoring it as a royal ideal. Others hold that the "gods" are the divine beings in whose names the kings claimed to rule (see 95:3). In any event, rulers and judges here are confronted by their King and Judge (see Ps 58). Structurally, the words of the Levite (vv. 1,6) frame the words of God. At the very center (v. 5a; see note on 6:6) stands the most devastating judgment of all.
82 title See note on Ps 73 title.
82:1 congregation. The assembly in the great hall of judgment (cf. 1 Kin 7:7) in heaven (see 89:5; 1 Kin 22:19; Job 1:6; 2:1; Is 6:1–4). As if in a vision, the psalmist sees the rulers and judges gathered before the Great King to give account of their administration of justice. rulers. Or "gods" (see NASB marg.; see also v. 6. In the language of the OT—and in accordance with the conceptual world of the ancient Near East—rulers and judges, as deputies of the heavenly King, could be given the honorific title "god" (see note on 45:6; 58:1) or be called "son of God" (see 2:7 and note).
82:3–4 In the OT a first-order task of kings and judges was to protect the powerless against all who would exploit or oppress them (see 72:2,4,12–14; Prov 31:8–9; Is 11:4; Jer 22:3,16).
82:5 They do not know nor . . . understand. The center of the poem (see note on 6:6). They ought to have shared in the wisdom of God (see 1 Kin 3:9; Prov 8:14–16; Is 11:2), but they are utterly devoid of true understanding of moral issues or of the moral order that God's rule sustains (see Is 44:19). foundations . . . are shaken. When such men are the wardens of justice, the whole world order crumbles (see 11:3; 75:3 and notes).
82:6 I said. Those who rule (or judge) do so by God's appointment (see 2:7; Is 44:28) and thus they are His representatives—whether they acknowledge Him or not (see Ex 9:16; Jer 27:6; Dan 2:21; 4:17,32; 5:18; John 19:11; Rom 13:1). gods. See note on v. 1. sons of. See note on v. 1. Most High. See note on Gen 14:19.
82:7 However exalted their position, these corrupt "gods" will be brought low by the same judgment as other men. fall. See note on 13:4.
82:8 Having seen the prospect in store, the psalmist prays for God's judgment to hasten and for the perfect reign of God to come quickly to the whole world. Arise. See note on 3:7. possesses. The nations are Your domain (see note on 79:1).
Ps 83 Israel's prayer for God to crush His enemies when the whole world—or so it seemed—was arrayed against His people. Neither Kings nor Chronicles tells of a confederacy as extensive as that described here. Perhaps only some of the nations mentioned were actually attacking, while the rest of Israel's his-

4 They have said, "Come, and [a]let us wipe them out [1]as a nation,
That the [b]name of Israel be remembered no more."
5 For they have [1][a]conspired together with one mind;
Against You they make a covenant:

That they may seek Your name, O LORD.
17 Let them be [a]ashamed and dismayed forever,

Psalm 84

For the choir director; [†]on the Gittith.
A Psalm of the sons of Korah.

1 How lovely are Your [a]dwelling places,
O LORD of hosts!

84:1 [†]Or according to [a]Ps 43:3; 132:5

toric enemies were more passively supporting the campaign. If so, the occasion may have been that reported in 2 Chr 20, when Moab, Ammon, Edom and their allies were invading Judah. In any event, the psalm must date from sometime after the reign of Solomon and before the great thrust of Assyria in the time of King Menahem (see 2 Kin 15:19).

Each of the two main divisions (vv. 1–8, 9–18) consists of two four-verse stanzas, with the latter division being extended by a two-verse stanza that brings the prayer to its climactic conclusion.

83 title Song. See note on Ps 30 title. Asaph. See note on Ps 73 title.

83:1–4 An appeal to God to act in the face of Israel's imminent danger.

83:1 do not remain quiet. Do not remain inactive (see 35:22; 109:1).

83:4 They have said. See note on 3:2. let us wipe them out. Israel's very existence is at stake (see v. 12).

83:5–8 The array of nations allied against Israel—threat from every quarter.

83:6 Hagrites. Either Ishmaelites (descendants of Hagar) or a group mentioned in Assyrian inscriptions as an Aramean confederacy (see 1 Chr 5:10,18–22; 27:31).

83:7 Gebal. See 1 Kin 5:18; Ezek 27:9. Gebal was an important Phoenician city (also called Byblos).

83:8 Assyria. Since it is mentioned only as an ally of Moab and Ammon (the descendants of Lot; see note on Gen 19:36–38), Assyria, though distantly active in the region, must not yet have become a major threat in its own right.

83:9–12 A plea for God to destroy His enemies as He did of old in the time of the judges. Those who hurl themselves against the kingdom of God to destroy it from the earth—so that the godless powers are left to shape the destiny of the world as they will—must be crushed if God's kingdom of righteousness and peace is to come and be at rest (see note on 5:10).

83:9 as with Midian. In Gideon's great victory (see Judg 7). as with Sisera and Jabin. In Barak's defeat of the Canaanite coalition (see Judg 4).

83:10 En-dor. See Josh 17:11 and note; northeast of where the main battle was fought—apparently where much of the fleeing army was overtaken and decimated.

83:11 Oreb and Zeeb . . . Zebah and Zalmunna. Leaders of the Midianite host destroyed by Gideon.

83:12 See v. 4.

83:13–16 The plea renewed, with vivid imagery of fleeing armies and of God's fearsome power.

83:15 Imagery of the heavenly Warrior attacking His enemies out of the thunderstorm (see 18:7–15; 68:33; 77:17–18; Ex 15:7–10; Josh 10:11; Judg 5:4,20–21; 1 Sam 2:10; 7:10; Is 29:5–6; 33:3). For the storm cloud as God's chariot see 68:4 and note.

83:16 may seek. See note on v. 18. name. See note on 5:11.

83:17–18 The prayer's climactic conclusion.

83:18 The ultimate goal of God's warfare is not merely the security of Israel and the destruction of Israel's (and God's) enemies but the worldwide acknowledgment of the true God and of His rule, even to the point of seeking Him as His people do (see v. 16; see also 40:9; 47:9; 58:11; 59:13 and notes). Most High. See note on Gen 14:19.

Ps 84 A prayer of longing for the house of the Lord. In tone and perspective it stands close to Ps 42 and may reflect similar circumstances. If so, the author (presumably a Levite who normally functioned in the temple service), now barred from access to God's house (perhaps when Sennacherib was ravaging Judah; see 2 Kin 18:13–16), gives voice to his longing for the sweet nearness to God in His temple that he had known in the past. Reference to God and His temple and to the "blessedness" (see vv. 4–5,12) of those having free access to both dominates the psalm and highlights its central themes.

The psalm has three main divisions (vv. 1–4, 5–7, 8–11) and a conclusion (v. 12). In the Hebrew text, a six-line unit precedes and follows a three-line reflection on the blessedness of those free to make pilgrimage to Zion. Each of these six-line divisions contains three references to the "LORD," while the seventh reference (symbolizing completeness or perfection) appears in the conclusion.

84 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. on. See note on Ps 6 title. Gittith. See note on Ps 8 title. of the sons of Korah. See note on Ps 42 title.

84:1–4 A confession of deep longing for the house of the Lord.

84:1 lovely. The traditional rendering of the Hebrew here, but perhaps better translated "beloved" or "loved." LORD of hosts. See vv. 3,8,12; see also note on 1 Sam 1:3.

84:2 My soul. I (see note on 6:3). courts. Of the temple (see v. 10; 2 Kin 21:5; 23:11–12). My heart . . . flesh. My whole being (see 73:26). heart. See note on 4:7. living God. See Deut 5:26.

84:3 The psalmist is jealous of the small birds that have such unhindered access to the temple and the altar. They are able even to build their nests there for their young—the place where Israel was to have communion with God.

84:4–5,12 blessed. See note on 1:1.

84:4 who dwell in Your house. See note on 15:1.

84:5–7 The joyful blessedness of those who are free to make pilgrimage to Zion—them too the psalmist envies.

84:5 the man whose strength is in You. The one who has come to know the Lord as his deliverer and the sustainer of his life. In whose heart are the highways to Zion. The highways the Israelites took to observe the religious festivals at Jerusalem (Zion, v. 7). heart. See note on 4:7.

84:6 Passing. On their way to the temple. Baca. Means either "weeping" or "balsam trees" (common in arid valleys). The place is unknown and may be figurative (see 23:4) for arid stretches the pilgrims had to traverse. spring. The joyful expectations of the pilgrims transform the difficult ways into places of refreshment. early rain. The gentle early showers that are harbingers of the later spring rains (see Joel 2:23). blessings. The Hebrew for this word may refer to "blessings" or to "pools"; it is likely that both are intended. By God's benevolent care over His pilgrims, the vale of weeping (or balsam trees), already transformed by the glad hearts of the expectant wayfarers, is turned into a valley of praise (see 2 Chr 20:26). God's saints on their hopeful way to Zion experience anew the bountiful hand of God as their ancestors did on their way through the Wilderness of Sinai to the promised land (see 78:15–16; 105:41; 114:8)—and as their descendants would on their return to Zion from Babylonian exile (see Is 41:17–20; 43:19–20; 49:10).

84:7 from strength to strength. Whatever the toils and hardships of the journey (see Is 40:31). Zion. See 9:11 and note.

84:8–11 A prayer for the king, and its motivation: Only as God blesses the king in Jerusalem will the psalmist once more realize his great desire to return to his accustomed service in the temple (see introduction).

84:8 LORD God of hosts . . . God of Jacob. That is, LORD God of Hosts, the God of Jacob (see 59:5; see also note on 3:7). Jacob. A synonym for Israel (see Gen 32:28).

84:9 our shield. The king in Jerusalem (see note on 3:3). Your anointed. God's earthly regent over His people (from David's line); see note on 2:2.

84:10 stand at the threshold. Perhaps the psalmist's normal (and humble) service at the temple was that of doorkeeper (see 2 Kin 22:4). dwell in the tents of wickedness. Share in the life of those who do not honor the God of Zion.

84:11 sun. The glorious source of the light of life (see note on 27:1). shield. See note on 3:3. uprightly. See 15:2 and note on Gen 17:1.

84:12 The sum of it all (see 40:4).

Ps 85 A communal prayer for the renewal of God's mercies to His people at a time when they are once more suffering distress. Many believe that vv. 1–3 refer to the return from exile and that the troubles experienced are those alluded to by Nehemiah and Malachi. Verse 12 suggests that a drought has ravaged the land and may reflect the drought with which the Lord chastened His people in the time of Haggai (see Hag 1:5–11).

2 You [a]forgave the iniquity of Your people;
You [b]covered all their sin. [1]Selah.
3 You [a]withdrew all Your fury;
You [b]turned away from Your burning anger.

4 [a]Restore us, O God of our salvation,
And [b]cause Your indignation toward us to cease.
5 Will [a]You be angry with us forever?
Will You prolong Your anger to [1]all generations?
6 Will You not Yourself [1][a]revive us again,
That Your people may [b]rejoice in You?
7 Show us Your lovingkindness, O LORD,
And [a]grant us Your salvation.

8 [1]I will hear what God the LORD will say;
For He will [a]speak peace to His people, [2]to His godly ones;
But let them not [b]turn back to [3]folly.
9 Surely [a]His salvation is near to those who [1]fear Him,
That [b]glory may dwell in our land.

Psalm 86

A Prayer of David.

1 [a]Incline Your ear, O LORD, and answer me;
For I am [b]afflicted and needy.
2 [a]Preserve my [1]soul, for I am a [b]godly man;

Christian liturgical usage has often employed this psalm in the Christmas season.

The psalm has two main divisions of seven (Hebrew) lines each: (1) the prayer (vv. 1–7); (2) a reassuring word (vv. 8–13). Each division contains a three-line stanza followed by a four-line stanza, with the corresponding stanzas of the second half answering to those of the first: Verses 1–3 speak of mercies granted, while vv. 8–9 speak of mercies soon to come; vv. 4–7 voice the prayer, and vv. 10–13 offer the blessed reassurance that the prayer will be heard. Each of the four stanzas contains one reference to the "LORD."

85 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. of the sons of Korah. See note on Ps 42 title.

85:1–7 Prayer for the renewal of God's favor.

85:1–3 Israel begins her prayer by appealing to the Lord's past mercies, recalling how He has forgiven and restored them before (perhaps a reference to the restoration from exile).

85:1 restored the captivity of Jacob. Or "restored the fortunes of Jacob" (see Jer 29:14). Jacob. A synonym for Israel (see Gen 32:28).

85:3 fury . . . anger. See v. 5; see also note on 2:5.

85:4–7 The prayer acknowledges that the present troubles are indicative of God's displeasure. No confession of sin is expressed, but in the light of v. 3 (and possibly v. 8; see below) it is probably implicit.

85:7 lovingkindness. See v. 10; see also note on 6:4.

85:8–13 God's reassuring answer to the prayer, conveyed through a priest or Levite, perhaps one of the Korahites (see note on 12:5–6; see also 2 Chr 20:14).

85:8–9 The assurance that God will again bless His people.

85:8 I will hear. The speaker awaits the word from the Lord. speak peace. The word from the Lord perhaps takes the form of the priestly benediction (see Num 6:22–26). godly ones. See note on 4:3. But let them not turn back to folly. And so provoke God's displeasure again. But it is also possible to translate the clause: "and to those who turn from folly." folly. See note on 14:1.

85:9 glory. Wherever God's saving power is displayed, His glory is revealed (see 57:5,11; 72:18–19; Ex 14:4,17–18; Num 14:22; Is 40:5; 44:23; 66:19; Ezek 39:21).

85:10–13 God's sure mercies to His people spring from His covenant love, to which in His faithfulness and righteousness He remains true, and that assures His people's welfare (peace).

85:10 Lovingkindness and truth . . . Righteousness and peace. These expressions of God's favor toward His people are here personified (see note on 23:6), and the vivid portrayal of their meeting and embracing offers one of the most beautiful images in all Scripture of God's gracious dealings with His covenant people. righteousness. See vv. 11,13; see also note on 5:8. peace. See note on Num 6:26.

85:11 Truth springs. As new growth springs from the earth to bless mankind with plenty. righteousness looks down. It shines down benevolently. From heaven and from earth, God's covenant blessings will abound till Israel's cup overflows.

85:12 what is good. See 31:19 and note.

85:13 righteousness will go before. Again the psalmist personifies. Acting either as herald or guide, righteousness leads the way and marks the course for God's engagement in His people's behalf—and righteousness is God's perfect faithfulness to all His covenant commitments (see note on 5:8).

Ps 86 A prayer for God's help when attacked by enemies, whose fierce onslaughts betray their disdain for the Lord. Whether or not David was the author (see Introduction: Authorship and Titles), the psalmist's identification of himself as God's "servant" (v. 2) suggests his royal status and thus his special relationship with the Lord (see 2 Sam 7:5,8 and note on Ps 18 title). The enemies may then be either those within the kingdom who refuse to acknowledge him as the Lord's anointed, or foreign powers that are attempting to remove him from the international scene.

The psalm has a symmetrical verse pattern (four, three, three, three, four). The author identifies himself as the Lord's servant in the first and last stanzas, which also contain the prayer for God's mercy and deliverance from the enemy threat. The center stanza (vv. 8–10) hails the Lord as the incomparable, the only God, whom all the nations will someday worship. Verse 9 is the center verse (see note on 6:6).

86 title Prayer. See note on Ps 17 title; see also note on 72:20. of David. This is the only psalm in Book 3 (Ps 73–89) that is ascribed to David. Perhaps its placement among the Korahite

O You my God, save Your servant who [c]trusts in You.
3 Be [a]gracious to me, O Lord,
For [b]to You I cry all day long.
4 Make glad the soul of Your servant,
For to You, O Lord, [a]I lift up my soul.
5 For You, Lord, are [a]good, and [b]ready to forgive,
And [c]abundant in lovingkindness to all who call upon You.
6 [a]Give ear, O Lord, to my prayer;
And give heed to the voice of my supplications!
7 In [a]the day of my trouble I shall call upon You,
For [b]You will answer me.
8 There is [a]no one like You among the gods, O Lord,
Nor are there any works [b]like Yours.
9 [a]All nations whom You have made shall come and worship before You, O Lord,
And they shall glorify Your name.
10 For You are [a]great and [b]do [1]wondrous deeds;
You alone [c]are God.

11 [a]Teach me Your way, O Lord;
I will walk in Your truth;
[b]Unite my heart to fear Your name.
12 I will [a]give thanks to You, O Lord my God, with all my heart,
And will glorify Your name forever.
13 For Your lovingkindness toward me is great,
And You have [a]delivered my soul from the [1]depths of [2]Sheol.

14 O God, arrogant men have [a]risen up against me,
And [1]a band of violent men have sought my [2]life,
And they have not set You before them.
15 But You, O Lord, are a God [a]merciful and gracious,
Slow to anger and abundant in lovingkindness and [1]truth.
16 [a]Turn to me, and be gracious to me;
Oh [b]grant Your strength to Your servant,
And save the [c]son of Your handmaid.
17 [a]Show me a sign for good,
That those who hate me may [b]see it and be ashamed,
Because You, O Lord, [c]have helped me and comforted me.

Psalm 87

A Psalm of the sons of Korah. A Song.

1 His [a]foundation is in the holy mountains.

87:1 [a]Ps 78:69; Is 28:16

psalms is because those who arranged the Psalter perceived a thematic link between v. 9 and 87:4.

86:1–4 Initial prayer for God to have mercy and protect the life of His servant.

86:1 afflicted and needy. See 35:10; see also 34:6 and note.

86:2 a godly man. The Hebrew for this phrase is hasid (see note on 4:3). You my God. Not that David has chosen Him, but that He has chosen David to be His servant (see 1 Sam 13:14; 15:28; 16:12; 2 Sam 7:8). David's devotion to God and God's commitment to him are deliberately juxtaposed. Your servant. See vv. 4,16; see also introduction.

86:4 my soul. See note on 6:3.

86:5–7 In his need David prays to the Lord because, out of His kindness and love, God answers prayer.

86:5 lovingkindness. See vv. 13,15; see also note on 6:4.

86:8–10 The God to whom David appeals is the only true God. No other "god" acts with such sovereign power (see 115:3–7; 135:13–17)—that is why David appeals to Him and why all the nations will someday worship Him.

86:9 All nations. See note on 46:10. This is the center verse of the psalm (see note on 6:6) and contains the psalm's most exalted confession of faith concerning God's sovereign and universal rule. they shall glorify. As David vows to do (v. 12). Your name. See vv. 11–12; see also note on 5:11.

86:10 wondrous deeds. See note on 9:1.

86:11–13 A prayer for godliness and a vow to praise.

86:11 Teach me . . . Unite my. What would be the benefit if God saved him from his enemies but abandoned him to his own waywardness? David's dependence on God is complete, and so is his devotion to God—save me from the enemy outside but also from my frailty within (see 25:5; 51:7,10). Only one who is thus devoted to God may expect God's help and will truly fulfill the vow (v. 12). Unite my heart. See Ezek 11:19; see also 1 Chr 12:33; 1 Cor 7:35. heart. See note on 4:7.

86:12 Vow to praise (see note on 7:17).

86:13 David anticipates the answer to his prayer (see note on 3:8). depths. See note on 30:1.

86:14–17 Conclusion: the prayer renewed.

86:14 violent. The Hebrew for this word suggests also ferocity. have not set You before them. In their arrogance they dismiss the heavenly Warrior, who is David's defender (see note on 10:11; see also Jer 20:11).

86:15 Echoes v. 5, but is even more similar to Ex 34:6 (see note on Ex 34:6–7).

86:16 grant Your strength. Exert Your power in my behalf. son of Your handmaid. See 116:16.

86:17 good. Covenanted favors (see 27:13 and note). may see it. May see that You stand with me and help me (see 31:19 and note).

Ps 87 A celebration of Zion as the "city of God" (v. 3), the special object of His love and the royal city of His kingdom (see introductions to Ps 46; 48; 76). According to the ancient and consistent interpretation of Jewish and Christian scholars alike, this psalm stands in lonely isolation in the Psalter (but see 47:9) in that it foresees the ingathering of the nations into Zion as fellow citizens with Israel in the kingdom of God—after the manner of such prophetic visions as Is 2:2–4; 19:19–25; 25:6; 45:14,22–24; 56:6–8; 60:3; 66:23; Dan 7:14; Mic 4:1–3; Zech 8:23; 14:16. (Accordingly, some have assigned it to the time of Isaiah and Micah, while others have thought it to be postexilic.) So interpreted, this psalm stands in sharpest possible contrast with the other Zion songs of the Psalter (see Ps 46; 48; 76; 125; 129; 137). The key to its main thrust lies in v. 4.

87 title of the sons of Korah. See note on Ps 42 title. Song. See note on Ps 30 title.

87:1 His foundation. The Lord Himself has laid the foundations

2 The LORD [a]loves the gates of Zion
More than all the other dwelling places of Jacob.
3 [a]Glorious things are spoken of you,
O [b]city of God. [1]Selah.

Psalm 88

A Song. A Psalm of the sons of Korah. For the choir director; according to Mahalath Leannoth. A [†]Maskil of Heman [•]the Ezrahite.

1 O LORD, the [a]God of my salvation,
I have [b]cried out by day and in the night before You.
2 Let my prayer [a]come before You;
[b]Incline Your ear to my cry!
3 For my [a]soul has [1]had enough troubles,
And [b]my life has drawn near to
[2]Sheol.
4 I am reckoned among those who [a]go down to the pit;
I have become like a man [b]without
strength,
5 [1]Forsaken [a]among the dead,
Like the slain who lie in the grave,
Whom You remember no more,
And they are [b]cut off from Your hand.
6 You have put me in [a]the lowest pit,
In [b]dark places, in the [c]depths.
7 Your wrath [a]has rested upon me,
And You have afflicted me with [b]all
Your waves. [1]Selah.
8 You have removed [a]my acquaintances far from me;
You have made me an [1][b]object of loathing to them;
I am [c]shut up and cannot go out.

of Zion (see Is 14:32) and of the temple as His royal house. mountains. Though "Zion" (v. 2) is singular, the Hebrew for this word is plural, emphasizing the majesty of the holy mountain on which God's throne has been set (see 48:2 and note).

87:2 loves . . . More than. As the city of His founding, His chosen seat of rule over His people, Zion is the Lord's most cherished city, even among the towns of Israel (see 9:11; 78:68; 132:12–14). Jacob. A synonym for Israel (see Gen 32:28).

87:4 I shall mention. . . This one was born there. God will list them in His royal register (see notes on 9:5; 51:1; 69:28) as those who are native (born) citizens of His royal city, having all the privileges and enjoying all the benefits and security of such citizenship. Rahab. Whereas elsewhere this name is applied to the mythical monster of the deep (see 89:10; see also notes on 32:6; Job 9:13), here the reference is to Egypt (Rahab was a poetic name for Egypt), as in Is 30:7 (see note there); 51:9. The nations listed are representative of all Gentile peoples. As usually interpreted, the psalm here foresees a widespread conversion to the Lord from the peoples who from time immemorial had been hostile to Him and to His kingdom (see Is 19:21; 26:18 and note).

87:5 This one and that one. Wherever they may be dispersed among the nations. Most High. See note on Gen 14:19.

87:7 All my springs. All that refreshes them is found in the city of God, a possible allusion to God's "river of Your delights" (36:8) "whose streams make glad the city of God" (46:4); see notes on those passages. Alternatively, "springs" may be a metaphor for sources; the sense of the line would then be: We all spring from you. my. Communal use of the singular pronoun (see note on Ps 30 title).

Ps 88 A cry out of the depths, the prayer of one on the edge of death, whose whole life has been lived, as it were, in the near vicinity of the grave. So troubled have been his years that he seems to have known only the back of God's hand (God's "wrath," v. 7), and even those nearest him have withdrawn themselves as from one with an infectious skin disease (see v. 8). No expressions of hopeful expectation (as in most prayers of the Psalter) burst from these lips. Ending on a desparing note, the last word says "My acquaintances are in darkness." And yet the prayer begins, "O LORD, the God of my salvation." The psalm recalls the fact that although sometimes godly persons live lives of unremitting trouble (see 73:14), they can still grasp the hope that God is Savior. In its Hebrew structure, three four-line stanzas (vv. 3–5, 6–9a, 9b–12) are framed by two two-line prayers; to this is appended an additional four-line stanza in which the psalmist complains that his present distress is but characteristic of his whole troubled life.

88 title The psalm bears a double title, perhaps representing two different traditions. Song. See note on Ps 30 title. of the sons of Korah. See note on Ps 42 title. For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. according to. See note on Ps 6 title. Maskil. See note on Ps 32 title. Heman. See note on Ps 39 title. Ezrahite. The reference appears to be to Zerah, one of Judah's sons, who is recorded as having a Heman and an Ethan (see Ps 89 title) among his sons (see 1 Chr 2:6). If so, the title here represents a confusion in the tradition, arising from the similarity between these two Judahite names and those of two famous Korahite choir leaders, Heman and Ethan (Jeduthun; see note on Ps 39 title).

88:1–2 Opening appeal to the Lord as "the God of my salvation."

88:3–5 Living on the brink of death. Whether the psalmist lies mortally ill or experiences some analogous trouble or peril cannot be known.

88:3 my soul. See note on 6:3.

88:4 pit. See note on 30:1.

88:5 remember no more. From the perspective of this life, death cuts off from God's care; there is no remembering by God of the needy sufferer to rescue and restore (see 25:7; 74:2; 106:4). In his dark mood the author portrays his situation in bleakest colors (see note on 6:5).

88:6–9a You, O God, have done this! The psalmist knows no reason for it (see v. 14), but he knows God's hand is in it (see

A [†]Maskil of [•]Ethan [^]the Ezrahite.

1 I will [a]sing of the lovingkindness of the LORD forever;
To all generations I will [b]make known Your [c]faithfulness with my mouth.
2 For I have said, "[a]Lovingkindness will be built up forever;
In the heavens You will establish Your [b]faithfulness."
3 "I have made a covenant with [a]My chosen;
I have [b]sworn to David My servant,
4 I will establish your [a]seed forever
And build up your [b]throne to all generations." [1]Selah.

5 The [a]heavens will praise Your wonders, O LORD;

Ruth 1:20–21; Amos 3:6). That his Savior-God shows him the face of wrath deepens his anguish and helplessness. But he does not try to resolve the dark enigma; he simply pleads his case—and it is to his Savior-God that he can appeal.

88:6 lowest pit . . . dark places. See note on 30:1.

88:7 wrath. See v. 16; see also note on 2:5. all Your waves. See note on 32:6.

88:9 eye has wasted away. See note on 6:7.

88:9b–12 Appeal to God to help before the psalmist sinks into "the land of forgetfulness" (see note on v. 5).

88:10,12 wonders. God's saving acts in behalf of His people (see note on 9:1).

88:10 rise. In the realm of the dead (not in the resurrection); see Is 14:9.

88:11 lovingkindness . . . faithfulness. That is, lovingkindness-and-faithfulness (see note on 36:5; see also note on 3:7). lovingkindness. See note on 6:4.

88:12 righteousness. See note on 71:24.

88:13–14 Concluding prayer.

88:14 why . . . ? See note on 6:3; see also Introduction: Theology. hide Your face. See note on 13:1.

88:15–18 The psalmist has been no stranger to trouble; all his life he has suffered the terrors of God.

88:17 like water. See v. 7; see also note on 32:6.

Ps 89 A prayer that mourns the downfall of the Davidic dynasty and pleads for its restoration. The bitter shock of that event (reflected partially in the sudden transition of v. 38) is almost unbearable—that God, the faithful and almighty One, has abandoned His anointed and made him the mockery of the nations, in seeming violation of His firm covenant with David—and it evokes from the psalmist a lament that borders on reproach (vv. 38–45). The event may have been the attack on Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar and the exile of King Jehoiachin in 597 B.C. (see 2 Kin 24:8–17).

As with Ps 44 (see introduction to that psalm), a massive foundation is laid for the prayer with which the psalm concludes. An introduction (vv. 1–4) sings of God's love and faithfulness (vv. 1–2) and His covenant with David (vv. 3–4). These two themes are then jubilantly expanded in order: vv. 5–18, God's love and faithfulness; vv. 19–37, His covenant with David. Suddenly jubilation turns to lament, and the psalmist recounts in detail how God has rejected His anointed (vv. 38–45). Thus he comes to his prayer, impatient and urgent, that God will remember once more His covenant with David (vv. 46–51). (Verse 52 concludes not the psalm but Book 3 of the Psalter.)

89 title Maskil. See note on Ps 32 title. Ethan. Jeduthun (see note on Ps 39 title). The author was no doubt a Levite (perhaps a descendant of Jeduthun) who voiced this agonizing prayer as spokesman for the nation. Ezrahite. See note on Ps 88 title.

89:1–2 God's love and faithfulness celebrated.

89:1 lovingkindness . . . faithfulness. See vv. 2,33,49; that is, lovingkindness-and-faithfulness (see v. 14); see note on 36:5. lovingkindness. See vv. 2,14,24,28,33,49; see also note on 6:4. It is God's love and faithfulness that appear to have failed in His rejection (see vv. 38–45) of the Davidic king. The author repeats each of these words precisely seven times.

89:2 In the heavens. God's love and faithfulness have been made sure in the highest seat of power and authority (see vv. 5–8).

89:3–4 God's covenant with David celebrated (see 2 Sam 7:8–16).

89:3 servant. See vv. 20,39,50; here an official title (see note on 78:70).

89:5–8 The Lord's faithfulness and awesome power set Him apart among all the powers in the heavenly realm, and they acknowledge Him with praise and reverence.

89:5 The heavens. All beings belonging to the divine realm in the heavens. wonders. God's mighty acts in creation and redemption (see note on 9:1). assembly of the holy ones. The divine council in heaven (see v. 7; see also note on 82:1).

89:6 sons of the mighty. Lit."sons of god(s)" (see 29:1 and note).

89:8 LORD . . . of hosts. See note on 1 Sam 1:3. Your faithfulness also surrounds you. It also surrounds this stanza (see v. 5).

89:9–13 The Lord's power as Creator—and creation's joy in Him.

89:9–10 Poetic imagery borrowed from ancient Near Eastern myths of creation, here celebrating God's power in ordering the primeval chaotic waters so that the creation order could be established (see Gen 1:6–10; see also notes on 65:6–7; 74:13–14).

89:10 Rahab. Mythical monster of the deep (see notes on 32:6; 87:4), probably another name for Leviathan (see 74:14; 104:26). The last half of this verse is probably echoed in Luke 1:51.

89:12 The north and the south. Reference may be to two mountains, here parallel to Tabor and Hermon: Mount Zaphon ("North"; see note on Is 14:13) and Mount Amana (see Song 4:8). Tabor. See note on Judg 4:6. Hermon. See note on Deut 3:8. shout for joy. See note on 65:13. name. See vv. 16,24; see also note on 5:11.

89:14–18 The Lord's righteousness and faithfulness in His rule in behalf of His people—and their joy in Him.

89:14 Righteousness and justice are the foundation stones of God's throne; love and truth are personified as angelic attendants that herald His royal movements (see note on 23:6). Righteousness. See v. 16; see also note on 5:8.

89:17 horn. King ("horn" here symbolizes "strong one"; see v. 18).

89:18 Holy One of Israel. See note on Is 1:4.

89:19–29 The Lord's election of David to be His regent over His people, and His everlasting covenant with him. The thought is developed by couplets: (1) introduction (v. 19); (2) I have anointed David as My servant and will sustain him (vv. 20–21); (3) I will crush all his foes (vv. 22–23); (4) I will extend his realm (vv. 24–25); (5) I will make him first among the kings (vv. 26–27); (6) I will cause his dynasty to endure forever (vv. 28–29)—a promise fulfilled in the eternal reign of Jesus Christ (see John 12:34).

89:19 vision. Reference is to the revelation to Samuel (see 1 Sam 16:12) and/or to Nathan (see 2 Sam 7:4–16). godly ones. See note on 4:3.

89:25 sea . . . rivers. David's rule will reach from the Mediterranean Sea to the Euphrates River (see 72:8; 80:11 and note on Ex 23:31). But the author uses imagery that underscores the fact that, as His royal "son" (see v. 26) and regent, David's rule will be a reflection of God's (see vv. 9–10 and notes; also compare v. 23 with v. 10).

89:27 firstborn. The royal son of highest privilege and posi-

And My [b]covenant shall be confirmed to him.

30 "If his sons [a]forsake My law
And do not walk in My judgments,
31 If they [1]violate My statutes
And do not keep My commandments,
32 Then I will punish their transgression with the [a]rod
And their iniquity with stripes.
33 "But I will not break off [a]My lovingkindness from him,
Nor deal falsely in My faithfulness.
34 "My [a]covenant I will not [1]violate,
Nor will I [b]alter [2]the utterance of My lips.

89:30–37 The Lord's covenant with David and his dynasty (see chart, p. 16) was everlasting (see v. 28) and unconditional—though if any of his royal descendants is unfaithful, he will individually suffer under God's rod (to the detriment of the entire nation).

89:38–45 God's present rejection of David's son, and all its fearful consequences—the undoing of all that had been promised and assured by covenant (see especially vv. 19–29).

89:46–51 The prayer, an appeal—in spite of all—to God's faithfulness to His covenant with David. In this dark hour, that remains the psalmist's hope.

89:52 A brief doxology with which the final editors concluded Book 3 of the Psalter (see note on 41:13).

Ps 90 A prayer to the everlasting God to have compassion on His servants, who live their melancholy lives under the rod of divine wrath and under His sentence of death—a plea that God will yet show them His love, give them cause for joy and bless their labors with enduring worth. No other psalm depicts so poignantly the dismal state of man before the face of God, holy and eternal. Yet there is neither defiance nor despair; honesty acknowledges guilt (God's anger is warranted), and faith knows of God's "lovingkindness" (v. 14) to which appeal can confidently be made. That Israel's 40 years of enforced sojourn in the "great and terrible wilderness" (Deut 8:15) on its pilgrimage to the promised land (see Num 14:26–35) should evoke such a prayer ought not be surprising.

Two passages descriptive of the human condition under God's aggrieved anger (vv. 3–6, 7–10) are framed by two couplets (vv. 1–2, 11–12) that, by their implicit contrasts, highlight the major polarities over which the intervening stanzas brood: 1. The Lord, who has ever been our "dwelling place" (v. 1), has shown us the power of His wrath (v. 7). 2. God is the Everlasting One (v. 2), while we must come to terms with the small number of our days (v. 12). These reflections lead to the prayer with which the psalm concludes (vv. 13–17).

90 title A Prayer. See note on Ps 17 title. man of God. A phrase normally applied in the OT to prophets (see note on 1 Sam 2:27), including Moses (see, e.g., Josh 14:6).

90:1 dwelling place. See 91:9. The Hebrew for this phrase is translated "habitation" in 71:3.

90:3–6 Man lives under God's sentence of death—"dust . . . to dust" (Gen 3:19).

90:4–5 For . . . You. Perhaps better "Though . . . , You": Though for God 1,000 years are like a watch in the night, which man sleeps through with no sense of the passage of time, He cuts man's life short like new grass that shows itself at dawn's light but is withered away by the hot Canaanite sun before evening falls.

90:4 watch in the night. See note on Judg 7:19.

90:7–10 Even life's short span is filled with trouble, as God ferrets out man's every sin and makes him feel His righteous anger.

90:7 anger . . . wrath. See vv. 9,11; see also note on 2:5.

90:8 light of Your presence. The holy light of God that illumines the hidden corners of the heart and exposes its dark secrets.

90:10 eighty. Hebrew poetic convention called for 80 following 70 in parallel construction (see note on Amos 1:3). their pride. What people prize in their years. The thought could be: All their health, joys, riches and honor are soured by trouble and sorrow. sorrow. Or "emptiness."

90:11–12 Who understands . . . ? . . . teach us. No one has taken the measure of God's anger. But everyone ought to know the measure of his (few) days or he will play the arrogant fool, with no thought of his mortality or of his accountability to God (see Ps 49; 73:4–12).

90:11 fear that is due You. See note on Gen 20:11.

90:12 present to You. Or "harvest." heart. See note on 4:7.

90:13–17 Prayer for God's compassion—from Him come also joy and gladness.

90:13 return. Lit. "turn" (cf. v. 3). how long . . . ? See note on 6:3 (see also Introduction: Theology).

90:14 in the morning. Let there be for us a dawning of Your love to relieve this long, dark night of Your anger. Perhaps Moses (see title) pleads for the promised rest of the promised land (see Ex 33:14; Deut 12:9). The final answer to his prayer comes with the resurrection (see Rom 5:2–5; 8:18; 2 Cor 4:16–18). lovingkindness. See note on 6:4.

90:16 work . . . majesty. That is, work-of-majesty (see 111:3; see also note on 3:7). For a fuller description of such works see the whole of Ps 111. to their children. As to past generations (v. 1).

90:17 favor. Or "beauty"; see 27:4 and note. confirm. As You only have been our security in the world (see v. 1), so also make our labors to be effective and enduring—though we are so transient.

Psalm 91

1 He who dwells in the [a]shelter of the Most High
Will abide in the [b]shadow of the Almighty.
2 I will say to the LORD, "My [a]refuge and my [b]fortress,
My God, in whom I [c]trust!"
3 For it is He who delivers you from the [a]snare of the trapper
And from the deadly [b]pestilence.
4 He will [a]cover you with His pinions,
And [b]under His wings you may seek refuge;
His [c]faithfulness is a [d]shield and bulwark.

5 You [a]will not be afraid of the [b]terror by night,
Or of the [c]arrow that flies by day;
6 Of the [a]pestilence that [1]stalks in darkness,
Or of the [b]destruction that lays waste at noon.
7 A thousand may fall at your side
And ten thousand at your right hand,
But [a]it shall not approach you.
8 You will only look on with your eyes
And [a]see the recompense of the wicked.
9 [1]For you have made the LORD, [a]my refuge,
Even the Most High, [b]your dwelling place.
10 [a]No evil will befall you,
Nor will any plague come near your [1]tent.

11 For He will give [a]His angels charge concerning you,
To guard you in all your ways.
12 They will [a]bear you up in their hands,
That you do not strike your foot against a stone.
13 You will [a]tread upon the lion and cobra,
The young lion and the [1]serpent you will trample down.

14 "[a]Because he has loved Me, therefore I will deliver him;
I will [b]set him securely on high, because he has [c]known My name.
15 "He will [a]call upon Me, and I will answer him;
I will be with him in [1]trouble;
I will rescue him and [b]honor him.
16 "With [1]a [a]long life I will satisfy him
And [2b]let him see My salvation."

Psalm 92

A Psalm, a Song for the Sabbath day.

1 It is [a]good to give thanks to the LORD
And to [b]sing praises to Your name, O Most High;

92:1 [a]Ps 147:1 [b]Ps 135:3

Ps 91 A glowing testimony to the security of those who trust in God. It was probably written by one of the temple personnel (a priest or Levite) as a word of assurance to godly worshipers. Because the "you" of vv. 3–13 applies to any of the godly who make "the Most High, your dwelling place" (v. 9; see 90:1), the devil applied vv. 11–12 to Jesus (see Matt 4:6; Luke 4:10–11). Thematically, the psalm is divided into two halves. The opening couplet of the second half (vv. 9–10) echoes the theme of vv. 1–2. In the first half, the godly are assured of security from four threats (vv. 5–6)—though thousands fall (v. 7). In the second half, they are assured of triumphing over four menacing beasts (v. 13). The oracle of vv. 14–16 offers climactic assurance.

91:1 shelter. The temple (as in 27:5; 31:20; see also 23:6; 27:4), where the godly find safety under the protective wings of the Lord (see v. 4; 61:4). Most High. See v. 9; see also note on Gen 14:19. shadow. See note on 17:8. Almighty. Hebrew Shaddai (see note on Gen 17:1).

91:3 snare of the trapper. Metaphor for danger from an enemy (see 124:7). pestilence. These two threats are further elaborated in vv. 5–6.

91:4 with His pinions. See note on 17:8.

91:5 terror. As in 64:1 ("dread"), reference is to attack by enemies; thus it is paired with "arrow." These two references to threats from war are arrayed alongside "pestilence" and "destruction" (v. 6), two references to mortal diseases that often reached epidemic proportions. night . . . day. At whatever time of day or night the threat may come, you will be kept safe—the time references are not specific to their respective phrases (see also v. 6).

91:7 ten thousand. Hebrew poetic convention called for 10,000 following 1,000 in parallel construction (see notes on 90:10; Amos 1:3). Cf. 1 Sam 18:7.

91:9 dwelling. See 90:1 and note.

91:11–12 Quoted by Satan in Matt 4:6; Luke 4:10–11.

91:11 His angels. See note on 34:7.

91:12 against a stone. On the stony trails of Canaan (see Prov 3:23).

91:13 lion . . . cobra . . . young lion . . . serpent. These double references to lions and to poisonous snakes balance the double references of vv. 5–6, and complete the illustrative roster of mortal threats (see Amos 5:19).

91:14–16 Employing the form of a prophetic oracle, the author (see introduction) supports his testimony by assuring the godly that it is confirmed by all the promises of God to those who truly love and trust Him.

91:14 set him securely on high. Protect him. My name. See note on 5:11.

Ps 92 A joyful celebration of the righteous rule of God. Its testimony to the prosperity of the righteous, "planted in the house of the LORD" (v. 13), links it thematically with Ps 91, while its joy over God's righteous reign relates it to the cluster of psalms that follow (Ps 93–100; see especially Ps 94). In fact, celebration of God's love and faithfulness as characteristic of His reign (see v. 2; 100:5) may have served for the editors of the Psalter as a frame enclosing the collection. The psalmist here may have been the king (see vv. 10–11). Following the introduction on praise (vv. 1–3), vv. 4–5 offer the motivation for the praise ("me," "I"), which is picked up again in vv. 10–11 ("my," "I," "my," "my," "My," "me"). Verses 6–9 expound the folly and destiny of evildoers, while vv. 12–15 expound the prosperity of the righteous. Notice also the link between v. 7 and v. 13. The NASB text offers

2 To [a]declare Your lovingkindness in the morning
And Your [b]faithfulness [1]by night,
3 [1]With the [a]ten-stringed lute and [1]with the [a]harp,
[1]With resounding music [2]upon the [a]lyre.
4 For You, O LORD, have made me glad by [1]what You [a]have done,
I will [b]sing for joy at the [c]works of Your hands.

5 How [a]great are Your works, O LORD!
Your [1][b]thoughts are very [c]deep.
6 A [a]senseless man has no knowledge,
Nor does a [a]stupid man understand this:
7 That when the wicked [a]sprouted up like grass
And all [b]who did iniquity flourished,
It was only that they might be [c]destroyed forevermore.
8 But You, O LORD, are [a]on high forever.
9 For, behold, Your enemies, O LORD,
For, behold, [a]Your enemies will perish;
All who do iniquity will be [b]scattered.

10 But You have exalted my [a]horn like that of the wild ox;
I have [1]been [b]anointed with fresh oil.
11 And my eye has [a]looked exultantly upon [1]my foes,
My ears hear of the evildoers who rise up against me.
12 The [a]righteous man will [1]flourish like the palm tree,
He will grow like a [b]cedar in Lebanon.
13 [a]Planted in the house of the LORD,
They will flourish [b]in the courts of our God.
14 They will still [1][a]yield fruit in old age;
They shall be [2]full of sap and very green,
15 To [1]declare that [a]the LORD is upright;
He is my [b]rock, and there is [c]no unrighteousness in Him.

92 title a Song. See note on Ps 30 title. for the Sabbath day. In the postexilic liturgy of the temple, this psalm came to be sung at the time of the morning sacrifice on the Sabbath. (The rest of the weekly schedule was: first day, Ps 24; second day, Ps 48; third day, Ps 82; fourth day, Ps 94; fifth day, Ps 81; sixth day, Ps 93.)

92:1–3 Hymnic introduction.

92:1 LORD . . . Most High. That is, LORD Most High (see 7:17; see also note on 3:7). name. See note on 5:11. Most High. See note on Gen 14:19.

92:2 lovingkindness . . . faithfulness. That is, lovingkindness-and-faithfulness (see note on 36:5; see also note on 3:7). love. See note on 6:4. morning . . . night. Continuously.

92:3 harp . . . lyre. See note on 57:8. lyre. See note on Gen 31:27.

92:4–5 Joy over God's saving acts (see vv. 10–11).

92:5 Your thoughts. As shown by your deeds.

92:6–9 The fatal folly of evildoers (contrast vv. 12–15).

92:6 senseless . . . stupid man. See note on 14:1; see also 49:10; 94:8–11. They do not know that the Lord rules righteously. They see the wicked flourishing, but do not see the Lord or foresee the end he has appointed for them. The author thus characterizes his "evildoers" (v. 11), whom the Lord has routed.

92:7 A condensed statement of what is expounded more fully in Ps 73 (see note on 90:4–5).

92:8 on high forever. God's eternal exaltation assures the destruction of His enemies.

92:9 enemies. Here the evildoers, referred to also in v. 7.

92:10–11 Joy over God's favors (see vv. 4–5): God has made him triumphant (see 89:24) and anointed him with "the oil of joy" (45:7; see also 23:5) by giving him victory over all his enemies.

92:12–15 The secure prosperity of the righteous (contrast vv. 6–9).

92:13 Planted in the house of the LORD. Though the wicked may have "sprouted up like grass," their end is sure (see v. 7). But the righteous are planted in a secure place (see Ps 91) and so retain the vigor of youth into old age, rejoicing in God's just discrimination (see v. 15). courts. Of the temple (see 84:2,10; 2 Kin 21:5; 23:11–12).

Ps 93 A hymn to the eternal, universal and invincible reign of the Lord, a theme it shares with Ps 47; 94–100. Together they offer a majestic confession of faith in and hope for the kingdom of God on earth. These hymns were composed for the liturgy of a high religious festival in which the kingship of the Lord—over the cosmic order, over the nations and in a special sense over Israel—was annually celebrated (see introduction to Ps 47). And implicitly, where not explicitly, the Lord's kingship is hailed in contrast to the claims of all other gods; He is "a great King above all gods" (95:3). Ps 93–100 may all have been composed by temple personnel and spoken by them in the liturgy. They probably date from the preexilic era. Structurally, the psalm has two short stanzas (vv. 1–2, 3–4) and a conclusion (v. 5).

93:1–2 The Lord's reign, by which the creation order has been and will be secure throughout the ages, is from eternity (see Gen 1:1). Though Israel as a nation has come late on the scene, her God has been King since before the creation of the world.

93:1 The LORD reigns. The ultimate truth, and first article, in Israel's creed (see 96:10; 97:1; 99:1; see also Zech 14:9 and note).

93:3–4 Since His founding of the world, the Lord has shown

4 More than the sounds of many waters,
Than the mighty breakers of the sea,
The LORD [a]on high is mighty.
5 Your [a]testimonies are fully confirmed;
[b]Holiness befits Your house,
O LORD, [1]forevermore.

Psalm 94

1 O LORD, God of [1a]vengeance,
God of [1]vengeance, [2b]shine forth!
2 [a]Rise up, O [b]Judge of the earth,
Render recompense [c]to the proud.
3 How long shall the wicked, O LORD,
How long shall the [a]wicked exult?
4 They pour forth words, they [a]speak arrogantly;
All who do wickedness [b]vaunt themselves.
5 They [a]crush Your people, O LORD,
And [b]afflict Your heritage.
6 They [a]slay the widow and the [1]stranger
And murder the orphans.
7 [a]They have said, "[1]The LORD does not see, Nor does the God of Jacob pay heed."

8 Pay heed, you [a]senseless among the people;
And when will you understand, [a]stupid ones?
9 He who [a]planted the ear, [1]does He not hear?
He who formed the eye, [1]does He not see?

Himself to be mightier than all the forces of disorder that threaten His kingdom.

93:3 floods. Reference is to the primeval chaotic waters, tamed and assigned a place by the Lord's creative word (see 33:7; 104:7–9; Gen 1:6–10; Job 38:8–11). Implicitly they symbolize all that opposes the coming of the Lord's kingdom (see 65:6–7; 74:13–14 and notes).

93:4 The thunder of the chaotic waters is no match for the thunder of the Lord's ordering word (see 104:7).

93:5 testimonies. He whose indisputable rule has made the world secure has given His people life directives that are stable and reliable (see 19:7)—and that they must honor (see 95:8–11). Your house. His earthly temple—but also the heavenly. forevermore. Qualifies both clauses.

Ps 94 An appeal to the Lord, as "Judge of the earth" (v. 2), to redress the wrongs perpetrated against the weak by arrogant and wicked men who occupy seats of power. The psalm has links with Ps 92, but is the voice of the oppressed within Israel (thus not the king), seeking redress at God's throne for injustices done them by those smugly established in the power structures of the nation. Thus it is unique within the Ps 92–100 collection. (See introduction to Ps 93.)

94:1–3 Initial appeal to God, the Judge.

94:1 vengeance. Redress of wrongs (see Deut 32:35,41 and note on Deut 32:35).

94:2 the proud. See vv. 4–7 for a description of them.

94:3 How long . . . ? See note on 6:3; see also Introduction: Theology.

94:4–7 Indictment of the wicked.

94:4 words . . . vaunt themselves. For the arrogance of the wicked see 10:2–11 and notes.

94:5 Your people . . . Your heritage. Those among them who are vulnerable (see v. 6).

94:7 They have said. See notes on 3:2; 10:11. Jacob. A synonym for Israel (see Gen 32:28).

94:8–11 Warning to the wicked—those "senseless . . . stupid ones" (see 92:6–9; see also note on 14:1).

94:10 chastens. Keeps them in line by means of punishment (see Lev 26:18; Jer 31:18). teaches. Gives him some knowledge of the creation order (see Is 28:26).

94:11 The LORD knows. Contrary to their foolish supposition (see v. 7).

94:12–15 Those whose lives are directed by God's law are the blessed ones (see Ps 1)—contrary to the arrogant expectations of the wicked and in spite of their oppressions.

94:12 Blessed. See note on 1:1. chasten . . . teach. See v. 10. Here the author speaks of God's correcting and teaching His people in the ways of His law.

94:14 people . . . inheritance. See v. 5. The Lord will not abandon the powerless among His people to the injustice of their oppressors. Paul may be echoing this verse in Rom 11:1–2.

94:15 again be righteous. Or "restore righteousness." heart. See note on 4:7. will follow it. Or "with it." In any event, the author appears to say that God's judgment will restore justice for the upright in heart.

94:16–19 The Lord is the only sure court of appeal.

94:17 abode of silence. See note on 30:1. Without God's help the wicked would have silenced the psalmist in the grave, but now it is the wicked for whom the pit will be dug (see v. 13).

18 If I should say, "[a]My foot has slipped,"
Your lovingkindness, O LORD, will hold me up.
19 When my anxious thoughts [1]multiply within me,
Your [a]consolations delight my soul.
20 Can a [1a]throne of destruction be allied with You,
One [b]which devises [2]mischief by decree?
21 They [a]band themselves together against the [1]life of the righteous
And [b]condemn [2]the innocent to death.
22 But the LORD has been my [a]stronghold,
And my God the [b]rock of my refuge.
23 He has [a]brought back their wickedness upon them
And will [1b]destroy them in their evil;
The LORD our God will [1]destroy them.

Psalm 95

1 O come, let us [a]sing for joy to the LORD,
Let us shout joyfully to [b]the rock of our salvation.
2 Let us [a]come before His presence [b]with [1]thanksgiving,
Let us shout joyfully to Him [c]with [2]psalms.
3 For the LORD is a [a]great God
And a great King [b]above all gods,
4 In whose hand are the [a]depths of the earth,
The peaks of the mountains are His also.
5 [1]The sea is His, for it was He [a]who made it,
And His hands formed the dry land.

6 Come, let us [a]worship and bow down,
Let us [b]kneel before the LORD our [c]Maker.
7 For He is our God,
And [a]we are the people of His [1b]pasture and the sheep of His hand.
[c]Today, [2]if you would hear His voice,
8 Do not harden your hearts, as at [1a]Meribah,
As in the day of [2b]Massah in the wilderness,
9 "When your fathers [a]tested Me,
They tried Me, though they had seen My work.
10 "For [a]forty years I loathed that generation,
And said they are a people who err in their heart,
And they do not know My ways.
11 "Therefore I [a]swore in My anger,
Truly they shall not enter into My [b]rest."

94:18 If I should say. If he feels he is about to be overwhelmed by the wicked (see note on 38:16). lovingkindness. See note on 6:4.
94:19 soul. See note on 6:3.
94:20–23 Confidence that the Lord's justice will prevail.
94:20 throne of destruction. A seat of authority that works mischief. The author speaks of injustice at the center of power.
94:21 righteous. See note on 1:5.
Ps 95 A call to worship the Lord, spoken by a priest or Levite to the assembled Israelites at the temple. (See introduction to Ps 93.) The psalm is composed of two parts: (1) a call to praise the Lord of all the earth (vv. 1–5); (2) a call to acknowledge by submissive attitude and obedient heart the Lord's kingship over His people (vv. 6–11). Each part also has two subdivisions, the latter of which forms the climax. Cf. the structure of Ps 96.
95:1–2 The call to praise.
95:1 rock of our salvation. See note on 18:2.
95:3–5 Why Israel is to praise the Lord—because He is above all gods, and there is no corner of the universe that is not in His hand. The ancient pagan world had different gods for different peoples, different geographical areas, different cosmic regions (heaven, earth, nether world) and different aspects of life (e.g., war, fertility, crafts).
95:4–5 depths . . . peaks of the mountains . . . sea . . . dry land. All the world—the extremes and all that lies between and all that is in them.
95:6–11 The exhortation to submit to the Lord with obedient hearts—a bent knee is not enough. For a NT reflection on these verses in the light of the advent of Christ see Heb 3:7–4:13.
95:6–7 The call to confess submission to the Lord by kneeling before him.
95:6 our Maker. Both as Creator of all things (see Gen 1) and as Israel's Redeemer, He has "made" her what she is: the people of the Lord in the earth (see Is 45:9–13; 51:12–16).
95:7 people of His pasture. See 100:3; Jer 23:1; Ezek 34:21. Since kings were commonly called the "shepherds" of their people (see note on 23:1), their realms could be referred to as their "pastures" (see Jer 25:36; 49:20; 50:45). if you would hear His voice. In the liturgy of the religious festival, possibly in some such manner as Ps 50 and/or 78.
95:8 Meribah . . . Massah. Meribah means "quarreling," Massah means "testing." The leader of the liturgy reminds Israel of times of her rebellion in the wilderness (see Ex 17:7; Num 20:13).
95:9 had seen My work. In Egypt and at the Red Sea—and His provision of food in the wilderness (see Ex 16; see also Num 14:11).
95:10 forty years. The climax of Israel's rebellion came when she faithlessly refused to undertake the conquest of Canaan and considered returning to Egypt (see Num 14:1–4). It was then that God condemned her to a 40-year stay in the wilderness (see Num 14:34). that generation. The (adult) Israelites who came out of Egypt and covenanted with God at Sinai (see Num 32:13). they are a people . . . My ways. A restatement of the Lord's word in Num 14:11. heart. See note on 4:7. My ways. See 25:4 and note.
95:11 swore. See Num 14:28. not enter into My rest. The language of Num 14:30 is "Surely you shall not come into the land," but since the promised land was also called the place where God will give His people "rest" (Josh 1:13,15; see Ex 33:14; Deut 12:10; 25:19), the two statements are equivalent. rest. Here a fertile concept indicating Israel's possession of a place with God in the earth where she is secure from all external threats and internal calamities (see 1 Kin 5:4).

Ps 96 A call to all nations to praise the Lord as the only God and to proclaim the glory of His reign throughout the world—an OT anticipation of the world mission of the NT people of God (see Matt 28:16–20). (See introductions to Ps 93; 95.) This psalm appears in slightly altered form in 1 Chr 16:23–33. The psalm is composed of two thematic parts: (1) a call to all nations to sing the praise of the Lord (vv. 1–6); (2) a call to all nations to worship the Lord and to hail throughout the world the glory of His righteous rule (vv. 7–13). Each part has two subdivisions, the last of which forms the climax to the whole psalm. Cf. the structure of Ps 95.

96:1–3 The call to all the earth to sing the praise of the Lord among the nations. Triple repetition ("Sing . . . Sing . . . Sing") was a common feature in OT liturgical calls to worship (see vv. 7–9 and note; see also 103:20–22; 118:2–4; 135:1; 136:1–3).

96:1 new song. See note on 33:3. all the earth. See v. 9; or "all the land," in which case the call is addressed to all Israel. However, the worldwide perspective of this psalm (see especially v. 7) suggests that here the psalmist has in view broader horizons (see 97:1; 100:1 and note; 117:1; see also note on 9:1).

96:2 name. See v. 8; see also note on 5:11. Proclaim . . . His salvation. Proclaim (see 40:9 and note) that deliverance comes from the Lord (see 3:8; see also 85:9).

96:3 glory. See note on 85:9. wonderful deeds. See note on 71:16–17.

96:4–6 Why "all the earth" is to praise the Lord: He alone is God (see Ps 115).

96:4 feared. See note on Gen 20:11.

96:5 made the heavens. As the Maker of the heavenly realm, in pagan eyes the abode of the gods, the Lord is greater than all the gods (see 97:7).

96:6 Splendor and majesty . . . Strength and beauty. Two pairs of divine attributes personified as throne attendants whose presence before the Lord heralds the exalted nature of the one, universal King. For similar personifications see 23:6 and note.

96:7–9 The call to all nations to worship the Lord (see 29:1–2 and note). The two half-sentences of 29:2 have been expanded in this psalm. The threefold "ascribe" here balances the threefold "sing" of vv. 1–2.

96:8 courts. Of the temple (see 84:2,10; 2 Kin 21:5; 23:11–12).

96:9 Tremble. In reverent awe, equivalent to "fear" (see v. 4).

96:10–13 The call to all nations to proclaim among the nations the righteous reign of the Lord.

96:10 The Lord reigns. See 93:1 and note. the world . . . with equity. In OT perspective, the world order is one, embracing both its physical and moral aspects because both have been established by God as aspects of His one kingdom and both are upheld by His one rule. Therefore God's rule over creation and over the affairs of men (also His acts of creation and redemption) is often spoken of in one breath, and "righteousness," "faithfulness" and "love" are equally ascribable to both. And since the creation order is secure in its "goodness" (see Gen 1), it often serves in OT poetry (as it does here) as a manifest assurance that God's rule over the affairs of men will also be "with equity," "in righteousness" and "in . . . faithfulness" (v. 13; see 11:3; 33:4–11; 36:5–9; 57:10; 65:6–7; 71:19; 74:13–14,16–17; 75:3; 82:5; 93:3–4; 119:89–91 and notes). will judge. See v. 13 and note.

96:11–12 Because God's kingdom is one (see v. 10 and note), all His creatures will rejoice when God's rule over mankind brings righteousness to full expression in His cosmic kingdom (see note on 65:13; see also 97:7–9). For the present state of the creation as it awaits the fullness of redemption see Rom 8:21–22 and notes.

96:13 coming . . . coming . . . will judge. Because God reigns over all things and is the Lord of history, Israel lived in hope (as the prophets announced) of the "coming" of God—His future acts by which He would decisively deal with all wickedness and establish His righteousness in the earth. righteousness. See note on 5:8.

Ps 97 A joyful celebration of the Lord's righteous reign over all the earth. (See introductions to Ps 93; 95.) The psalm's two main thematic divisions (vv. 1–6, 8–12) are joined by a centered verse (v. 7; see note on 6:6) that serves as a counterpoint to the main theme. The opening verses of the two main divisions are thematically linked: v. 1, "rejoice . . . be glad"; v. 8, "was glad . . . have rejoiced"—in reverse order, a frequent stylistic device in OT poetry.

97:1–6 A testimony to the nations—that they too have seen

2 [a]Clouds and thick darkness surround Him;
[b]Righteousness and justice are the foundation of His throne.
3 [a]Fire goes before Him
And [b]burns up His adversaries round about.
4 His [a]lightnings lit up the world;
The earth saw and [b]trembled.
5 The mountains [a]melted like wax at the presence of the LORD,
At the presence of the [b]Lord of the whole earth.
6 The [a]heavens declare His righteousness,
And [b]all the peoples have seen His glory.

Who boast themselves of [b]idols;

8 Zion [1]heard this and [a]was glad,
And the daughters of Judah have rejoiced
Because of Your judgments, O LORD.
9 For You are the LORD [a]Most High over all the earth;
You are exalted far [b]above all [1]gods.

10 [a]Hate evil, you who love the LORD,
Who [b]preserves the souls of His godly ones;
He [c]delivers them from the hand of the wicked.
11 [a]Light is sown like seed for the righteous
And [b]gladness for the upright in heart.
12 Be [a]glad in the LORD, you righteous ones,
And [b]give thanks [1]to His holy name.

Psalm 98

A Psalm.

1 O sing to the LORD a [a]new song,
For He has done [b]wonderful things,
His [c]right hand and His [d]holy arm have [1]gained the victory for Him.
2 [a]The LORD has made known His salvation;

3 [a]Luke 1:54, 72

God's majesty displayed (vv. 2–6) and ought to rejoice with Israel that the Lord reigns supreme.

97:1 The Lord reigns. See 93:1 and note. earth. See 96:1; 99:1; 117:1; see also note on 9:1. many islands. Even distant lands reached by the far-ranging ships that sail the seas (see 1 Kin 9:26–28; 10:22; Is 60:9; Jon 1:3).

97:2–6 The Lord's majestic glory revealed in the sky's awesome displays, especially in the thunderstorm (see 18:7–15 and note; see also introduction to Ps 29).

97:2 Clouds and thick darkness. The dark storm clouds that hide the sun and cast a veil across the sky are dramatic visual reminders that the fierce heat and brilliance (also metaphors) of God's naked glory must be veiled from creaturely eyes (see Ex 19:9; 1 Kin 8:12). Thus also a curtain closed off the most holy place in the tabernacle and temple (see Ex 26:33; 2 Chr 3:14), veiling it in darkness. Righteousness. See v. 6; see also note on 5:8. foundation of His throne. God rules by His power (see 66:7), but His reign is founded on righteousness and justice, which also the heavens proclaim (see v. 6 and note).

97:3 Fire. Manifested in the storm cloud's lightning bolts (see v. 4), fire often signified God's judicial wrath (see, e.g., 21:9; 50:3; 83:14; Deut 4:24; 9:3; 32:22; 1 Kin 19:12; Is 10:17; 30:27,30).

97:4 earth. Here probably the physical earth personified.

97:6 declare His righteousness. The stable order of the heaven's vast array "speaks" (see 19:1–4); it declares that God's reign similarly upholds the moral order (see note on 96:10). all the peoples have seen. Verses 2–6 have spoken of general revelation (cf. 19:1–6).

97:7 The center verse (see note on 6:6) and counterpoint of the psalm: joy to all who acknowledge the Lord; shame and disgrace to those who trust in the false gods. worship Him. With biting irony the psalm calls on all the gods that people foolishly worship to bow in worship before the Lord (see v. 9; see also 29:1 and note).

97:8–12 A declaration of Zion's joy that the Lord reigns (vv. 8–9), and a reminder that only those who hate evil have real cause to rejoice in His righteous rule (vv. 10–12).

97:8 Zion heard. That "the LORD reigns" (v. 1) in "righteousness" (v. 6). judgments. God's righteous acts in the affairs of mankind (see 105:7; Is 26:9), especially His saving acts in Israel's behalf (see 48:11; 105:5; Deut 33:21).

97:9 Most High. See note on Gen 14:19.

97:10 godly ones. See note on 4:3.

97:11 Light. See 27:1 and note; see also 36:9. righteous. See v. 12; see also note on 1:5. heart. See note on 4:7.

97:12 name. See note on 30:4.

Ps 98 A call to celebrate with joy the righteous reign of the Lord. Its beginning and end echo Ps 96. (See introductions to Ps 93; 95.) The three stanzas progressively extend the call to ever wider circles: (1) the worshiping congregation at the temple; (2) all the peoples of the earth; (3) the whole creation. The first stanza recalls God's revelation of His righteousness (v. 2) in the past; the last stanza speaks confidently of His coming rule "with righteousness" (v. 9); the middle stanza is enclosed by the jubilant cry, "Shout joyfully" (vv. 4,6).

98:1–3 The call to celebrate in song God's saving acts in behalf of His people.

98:1 new song. See note on 33:3. wonderful things. See note on 9:1 ("wonders").

98:2 made known . . . revealed . . . in the sight of the nations. God's saving acts in behalf of His people are also His self-revelation to the nations; in this sense God is His own evangelist (see note on 46:10; see also Is 52:10). salvation . . . righteousness. God's saving acts reveal His righteousness (see notes on 5:8; 71:24).

98:3 lovingkindness . . . faithfulness. That is, lovingkindness-and-faithfulness (see note on 36:5; see also note on 3:7). This compound expression often sums up God's covenant commitment to His people (see note on 6:4).

[b]All the ends of the earth have seen the salvation of our God.

4 [a]Shout joyfully to the LORD, all the earth;
[b]Break forth and sing for joy and sing praises.
5 Sing praises to the LORD with the [a]lyre,
With the lyre and the [1b]sound of melody.
6 With [a]trumpets and the sound of the horn
[b]Shout joyfully before [c]the King, the LORD.

7 Let the [a]sea roar and [1]all it contains,
The [b]world and those who dwell in it.
8 Let the [a]rivers clap their hands,
Let the [b]mountains sing together for joy
9 Before the LORD, for He is coming to [a]judge the earth;
He will judge the world with
righteousness
And [b]the peoples with [1]equity.

Psalm 99

1 [a]The LORD reigns, let the peoples tremble;
He [1b]is enthroned above the cherubim, let the earth shake!

2 The LORD [1]is [a]great in Zion,
And He is [b]exalted above all the peoples.
3 Let them praise Your [a]great and awesome name;
[b]Holy is [1]He.
4 The [1]strength of the King [a]loves
[2]justice;
You have established [3b]equity;
You have [c]executed [2]justice and righteousness in Jacob.
5 [1a]Exalt the LORD our God
And [b]worship at His footstool;
[c]Holy is He.

6 [a]Moses and Aaron were among His [b]priests,
And [a]Samuel was among those who [c]called on His name;
They [d]called upon the LORD and He answered them.
7 He [a]spoke to them in the pillar of cloud;
They [b]kept His testimonies
And the statute that He gave them.

98:4–6 The call to all the earth to join in the celebration.
98:4 See 100:1. all the earth. The peoples of the earth (see 96:1 and note; see also 99:1).
98:5 lyre. See note on Gen 31:27.
98:6 trumpets. The special long, straight trumpets of the sanctuary (referred to only here in Psalms; see notes on Num 10:2–3,10). horn. The more common trumpet (referred to also in 47:5; 81:3; 150:3; see note on Joel 2:1).
98:7–9 The call to the whole creation to celebrate (see note on 96:11–12).
98:7 sea . . . world. The two great regions of creaturely life.
98:8 rivers . . . mountains. From the rivers to the mountains, let every feature of the whole earth clap and sing (see note on 65:13).
98:9 coming to judge. See 96:13 and note. Israel in faith lived between the past (see vv. 1–3) and the future righteous (saving) acts of God.
Ps 99 A hymn celebrating the Lord as the great and holy King in Zion. In developing his theme, the poet makes striking use of the symbolic significance (completeness) of the number seven: Seven times he speaks of the "LORD," and seven times he refers to Him by means of independent personal pronouns (Hebrew). (See introduction to Ps 93.) The form is symmetrical, with four stanzas of three (Hebrew) poetic lines and with each of the two main divisions concluded by the major refrain (vv. 5,9). The lesser refrain, "Holy is He" (vv. 3,5, and expanded in v. 9), probably reflects a traditional threefold liturgical rubric (see Is 6:3; Rev 4:8; see also Ps 96:1–3,7–9 and notes for further evidence of a liturgical penchant for triple repetition). The second half of the psalm develops the theme introduced in the second stanza.
99:1–3 The God enthroned in Zion is ruler over all the nations—let them acknowledge him.
99:1 The LORD reigns. See 93:1 and note. tremble . . . shake! In reverent awe before God. cherubim. See 80:1; see also note on Ex 25:18.
99:3 Let them praise. As the Great King, He ought to be shown the fear (v. 1) and honor that are His due. name. See v. 6; see also note on 5:11. Holy. See vv. 5,9; see also Introduction to Leviticus: Themes; note on Lev 11:44.
99:4–5 The Lord has shown the quality of His rule by what He has done for Israel.
99:4 See 103:6–12. strength . . . loves justice. Two chief characteristics of God's reign. established equity. As a (His) throne (see 9:7–8; 97:2; 2 Sam 7:13). justice and righteousness. See 97:2. Though even the heavens proclaim God's righteousness (see 97:6 and note), it is in the whole complex of His saving acts in and for Israel that the "righteousness" of God's reign is especially disclosed (see 98:2 and note). Jacob. A synonym for Israel (see Gen 32:28).
99:5 See also v. 9. For other refrains in the Psalms see introduction to Ps 42–43. footstool. God's royal footstool (see 2 Chr 9:18), here a metaphor linking the heavenly throne with the earthly; when God sits on His heavenly throne, His earthly throne is His footstool (here "His holy hill," v. 9; see 132:7; 1 Chr 28:2; Lam 2:1).
99:6–7 In Israel the Lord provided priestly intermediaries, who (1) were appointed to intercede with Him on behalf of His faltering people (v. 6), and (2) were given knowledge of His will so they could instruct Israel.
99:6 Moses . . . Aaron . . . Samuel. These three no doubt serve here as representatives of all those the Lord used as intermediaries with His people in times of great crises. priests . . . who called on His name. The priestly function of intercession is highlighted (see Ex 17:11 and note; 32:11–13,31–32; Num 14:13–19; 21:7; 1 Sam 7:5,8–9; 12:19,23; Jer 15:1). answered them. See v. 8; see also the Lord's responses to the intercessions referred to in note on vv. 6–7.
99:7 spoke to them in the pillar of cloud. Though reference may be to all Israel ("them"), more likely the hymn recalls God's speaking with Moses (see Ex 33:9) and Aaron (see Num 12:5–6).

8 O LORD our God, You [a]answered them;
You were a [b]forgiving God to them,
And yet an [c]avenger of their evil deeds.
9 Exalt the LORD our God
And worship at His holy hill,
For holy is the LORD our God.

Psalm 100

A Psalm for [1]Thanksgiving.

1 [a]Shout joyfully to the LORD, all the earth.
2 [a]Serve the LORD with gladness;
[b]Come before Him with joyful singing.
3 Know that [a]the LORD [1]Himself is God;
It is He who has [b]made us, and [2]not we ourselves;
We are [c]His people and the sheep of His pasture.
4 Enter His gates [a]with [1]thanksgiving
And His courts with praise.
Give thanks to Him, [b]bless His name.

[b]His lovingkindness is everlasting
And His [c]faithfulness to all generations.

Psalm 101

A Psalm of David.

1 I will [a]sing of lovingkindness and [1]justice,
To You, O LORD, I will sing praises.
2 I will [1][a]give heed to the [2]blameless way.
When will You come to me?
I will walk within my house in the [3][b]integrity of my heart.

101:1 [1]Or judgment [a]Ps 51:14; 89:1; 145:7 2 [1]Or behave prudently in [2]Or way of integrity [3]Or blamelessness [a]1 Sam 18:5, 14 [b]1 Kin 9:4

But that special mode of revelation in the wilderness may also be generalized here to include God's revelations to Samuel, who was called to his prophetic ministry at the sanctuary, "where the ark of God was" (1 Sam 3:3; see also 1 Sam 12:23). They kept. However imperfectly, it was in Israel that God's righteous statutes and decrees were kept because only in Israel had they been made known (see 147:19–20; Deut 4:5–8).

99:8–9 The justice and righteousness of God's rule in Israel (see v. 4) have been especially shown in the manner in which He has dealt with their sins (see Ex 34:6–7; see also note on 5:8).

99:9 holy hill. See v. 5 and note. holy is the LORD our God. Climactic expansion of the secondary refrain.

Ps 100 A call to praise the Lord. Whether or not it was composed for that purpose, the final editors of the Psalter here used it to close the series that begins with Ps 93. It has special affinity with 95:1–2,6–7; see also Ps 117. (See introduction to Ps 93.) The second main division (vv. 4–5) parallels the structure of the first (vv. 1–3), namely, a call to praise followed by a declaration of why the Lord is worthy of praise—the corresponding elements of the two divisions are complementary.

100 title Thanksgiving. Grateful praise (see v. 4; see also note on 75:1). Perhaps it indicates that the psalm was to accompany a thank offering (see Lev 7:12).

100:1 all the earth. Though vv. 3,5 clearly speak of God's special relationship with Israel, the call to worship goes out to the whole world, which ought to acknowledge the Lord because of what He has done for His people (see also Ps 98–99; 117).

100:3 Know. Acknowledge. made us. See 95:6 and note. not we ourselves. Or "we are His" (see NASB marg.). sheep of His pasture. See 95:7 and note.

100:4 His gates. The gates of the temple (see 24:7 and note). courts. Of the temple (see 84:2,10; 2 Kin 21:5; 23:11–12).

100:5 the LORD is good. In that His lovingkindness-and-faithfulness (see note on 36:5) are unfailing through all time (see 98:3 and note). lovingkindness. See note on 6:4.

Ps 101 A king's pledge to reign righteously (see 2 Kin 23:3). If authored by David (see title), it may have been composed for Solomon's use at his coronation (see 1 Kin 2:2–4; see also 2 Sam 23:1–7 and introduction to Ps 72). Only Christ, the great Son of David, has perfectly fulfilled these commitments. In the final arrangement of the Psalter this psalm, together with Ps 110 (both relating to the king), frames the collection of ten psalms located between the preceding thematic group (Ps 92–100; see introduction to Ps 92) and that which follows (Ps 111–118; see introduction to Ps 111). This little psalter-within-the-Psalter is concentrically arranged: Ps 102 and 109 are individual prayers; Ps 103 and 108 praise the Lord for His "great . . . lovingkindness" (103:11; 108:4) that reaches to the heavens; Ps 104, which celebrates God's many wise and benevolent acts in creation, and Ps 107, which celebrates God's "wonders" (107:8,15,21,24,31) for man through His lordship over creation, are complements; and so also are Ps 105, which recites the history of Israel's redemption, and Ps 106, which recites the same history as a history of Israel's rebellion. As a mini-Psalter, it includes most of the forms and themes found in the rest of the Psalter. Its outer frame is devoted to royal psalms and its center pair is devoted to recitals of Israel's history with God—with its themes ranging from creation and God's eternal enthronement to the covenant with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, the exodus from Egypt and entrance into Canaan, the exile and restoration, and finally the ultimate triumph of the Lord's anointed. The collection bears a distinctive redemption-history stamp and evokes recollection of all the salient elements of the OT message. (For the problem of the Book division at Ps 107 see introduction to that psalm.)

Composed of seven (Hebrew) couplets (the number of completeness), the psalm begins with a twofold introduction (vv. 1–3a; see notes below), followed by an elaboration (vv. 3b–8) of the theme of the second couplet. The middle one (v. 6) speaks of the king's commitment to the "faithful" and "blameless," while the other four (vv. 3b–4, 5, 7, 8) declare His repudiation of all "those who fall away" and the "wicked" in the land. (See also notes below.) The middle couplet is linked with couplets one and two also by the catchword "blameless." (For centering in the Psalms see note on 6:6.)

101:1–2a Celebration of the pattern of God's reign, which the king makes the model for his own.

101:1 lovingkindness and justice. Two of the chief qualities of God's rule (see 6:4; 99:4 and notes).

101:2a blameless. See vv. 2b,6; see also note on Gen 17:1. When . . . ? An urgent prayer for God to come and sustain in him his pledge (see 1 Kin 3:7–9; see also Ps 72).

101:2b–3a The essential commitment. heart . . . eyes. In OT understanding, a person follows the dictates of the heart—the inner man (see note on 4:7)—and/or the attractions of the eye—external influences (see 119:37; Judg 14:1–2; 2 Sam 11:2; 2 Kin 16:10; Job 31:1; Prov 4:25; 17:24). For the combination heart-eyes see v. 5; Num 15:39; Job 31:7; Prov 21:4; Eccl 2:10; Jer 22:17.

In the day when I call [a]answer me quickly.

101:2b house. Royal administration (also in v. 7).

101:3a worthless. Belial (2 Cor 6:15) is derived from the Hebrew for this word (see note on Deut 13:13).

101:3b–4 A repudiation of evil deeds and those who promote them (see v. 7).

101:3b those who fall away. Those who rebel against what is right (see Hos 5:2, "revolters").

101:4 perverse. The opposite of "blameless" (see 18:26, "crooked"; see also Prov 11:20; 19:1; 28:6). A perverse heart and a deceitful tongue (see v. 7) are root and fruit (see Prov 17:20).

101:5 A pledge to remove from his presence all slanderous and all arrogant persons (see v. 8). I will destroy. See v. 8; 54:5; 94:23). haughty look . . . arrogant heart. See vv. 2b–3a and note; see also 131:1; Prov 21:4; Is 10:12. The arrogant tend to be ruthless (see Is 10:12) and are a law to themselves (see note on 31:23).

101:6 A pledge to surround himself in his reign with the faithful and blameless. My eyes shall be upon. I will look with favor on (see 33:18; 34:15). the faithful. Those who maintain moral integrity. minister to me. Minister as my servant (see Ex 24:13), personal servant (Gen 39:4; 1 Kin 19:21), attendant (2 Kin 4:43), commanders and officials (1 Chr 27:1; 2 Chr 17:19; Prov 29:12).

101:7 A repudiation of all those who make their way by double-dealing (see vv. 3b–4).

101:8 A pledge to remove all the wicked from the Lord's kingdom (see v. 5). Every morning. With diligence and persistence (see Jer 21:12; Zeph 3:5). It may have been traditional for kings to hear cases in the morning. city of the LORD. See Ps 46; 48; 87; see also note on 3:4.

Ps 102 The prayer of an individual in a time of great distress. It is also one of the traditional penitential psalms (see introduction to Ps 6). Some interpreters believe that the "I" of vv. 1–11,23–24 was originally communal (see note on Ps 30 title; see also note on title below). (See introduction to Ps 101.) The main body of the psalm (vv. 1–22) is developed in four themes (initial appeal for God to hear, vv. 1–2; description of distress, vv. 3–11; assurance that the Lord will surely hear, vv. 12–17; call for the Lord's certain deliverance to be recorded for His enduring praise, vv. 18–22), followed by a concluding recapitulation (vv. 23–28).

102 title Unique in the Psalter (no author named and no liturgical or historical notes), the title identifies only the life situation in which the prayer is to be used, and in accordance with vv. 1–11,23–24 it designates the prayer as that of an individual. But vv. 12–22,28 clearly indicate national involvement in the calamity. It may be that the distress suffered by the individual, while its description suggests physical illness, is the result of his sharing in a national disaster such as the exile—a suggestion supported by references to the restoration of Zion. Because of the close relationship of the fortunes of king and nation and because of the many themes shared by this and some of the royal psalms, it has been plausibly suggested that the prayer was originally that of a Davidic king, or of a member of the Davidic royal house, while in Babylonian exile. Prayer. See vv. 1,17. faint. See 61:2; 77:3; 142:3; 143:4; see also 107:5; Jon 2:7. complaint. See 64:1; 142:2; Job 7:13; 9:27; 10:1; 21:4.

102:1–2 Initial appeal for God to hear.

102:2 hide Your face. See note on 13:1.

102:3–11 The description of distress—a suffering so great that it withers body and spirit—brought on by a visitation of God's wrath (v. 10) and making him the mockery of his enemies (v. 8).

102:3 my days. His life wastes away—a lament that frames the whole stanza (see v. 11). bones have been scorched. As if a fire is consuming his physical frame (see 31:10; 32:3; 42:10).

102:4 heart. See note on 4:7. Here "heart" is used in combination with "bones" (v. 3) to refer to the whole man (body and spirit); see 22:14; Prov 14:30; 15:30; Is 66:14; Jer 20:9; 23:9. smitten. Or "scorched" (by the hot sun); see 121:6. withered away. See v. 11; see also note on 90:4–5.

102:6 pelican . . . owl. The owl was associated with wilderness areas and ruins (see Is 34:11,15; Jer 50:39; Zeph 2:14).

I have become like an owl of the waste places.
7 I [a]lie awake,
I have become like a lonely bird on a housetop.

8 My enemies [a]have reproached me all
day long;
Those who [1b]deride me [2]have used my name as a [c]curse.
9 For I have eaten ashes like bread
And [a]mingled my drink with weeping 10 [a]Because of Your indignation and Your wrath,
For You have [b]lifted me up and cast me away.
11 My days are like a [1a]lengthened shadow,
And [2]I [b]wither away like [3]grass.

12 But You, O LORD, [1a]abide forever,
And Your [2b]name to all generations.
13 You will [a]arise and have [b]compassion on Zion;
For [c]it is time to be gracious to her,
For the [d]appointed time has come.
14 Surely Your servants [1]find pleasure in her stones
And feel pity for her dust.
15 [1]So the [2a]nations will fear the name of
the LORD
And [b]all the kings of the earth Your glory.
16 For the LORD has [a]built up Zion;
He has [b]appeared in His glory.
17 He has [a]regarded the prayer of the [1]destitute
And has not despised their prayer.

18 [1]This will be [a]written for the [b]generation to come,
[2]That [c]a people yet to be created [3]may praise [4]the LORD.
19 For He [a]looked down from His holy height;
[b]From heaven the LORD gazed [1]upon
the earth,
20 To hear the [a]groaning of the prisoner,
To [b]set free [1]those who were doomed
to death,
21 That men may [a]tell of the name of the LORD in Zion
And His praise in Jerusalem, 22 When [a]the peoples are gathered together,
And the kingdoms, to serve the LORD.

23 He has weakened my strength in the
way;
He has [a]shortened my days.
24 I say, "O my God, [a]do not take me away in the [1]midst of my days,
Your [b]years are throughout all
generations.
25 "Of old You [a]founded the earth,
And the [b]heavens are the work of
Your hands.

endure;
And all of them will wear out like a garment;
Like clothing You will change them
and they will be changed.
27 "But You are [1a]the same,
And Your years will not come to an end.

102:11 A concluding summation of vv. 3–4.
102:12–17 Assurance that the King eternal will surely hear the prayer of the destitute (v. 17) and restore Zion (see note on 3:8).
102:12 abide forever. A central theme of the preceding collection (Ps 92–100). Because God reigns forever and remains the same (see v. 27), His mercies to those who look to Him for salvation will not fail. name. Or "renown" (see NASB marg.). For elaborate celebrations of the Lord's renown see Ps 111; 135; 145.
102:13 This verse and v. 16 form an inner frame around the stanza. The two verses (see v. 14) suggest that the psalmist's distress was occasioned by the Babylonian exile. arise. See note on 3:7. appointed time. The time set by God for judgment and deliverance (see 75:2; Ex 9:5; 2 Sam 24:15; Dan 11:27,35). Perhaps the psalmist is referring to a time announced by a prophet.
102:14 Your servants find pleasure. If Zion, the city of God (see 46:4; 48:1–2,8; 87:3; 101:8; 132:13), is so loved by the Lord's servants (see Ps 126; 137), how much more is she cherished by the Lord!
102:15 See note on 46:10. name. See note on 5:11.
102:18–22 Let God's certain deliverance of His people be recorded for His continual praise (see NASB marg.).
102:18 written. Only here does a psalmist call for memory to be sustained by a written record of God's saving act; usually oral transmission suffices (see 22:30; 44:1; 78:1–4). created. Brought into being by God's sovereign act (see 51:10; 104:30; 139:13).
102:20 prisoner . . . those who were doomed to death. Perhaps prisoners of war, but more likely the exiles in Babylon (see 79:11 and note).
102:21 praise. See note on 9:1.
102:22 See note on 46:10; see also 47:9 and note; 96; 98; 100. The expectation here expressed may also be influenced by such prophecies as Is 2:2–4; Mic 4:1–3.
102:23–28 Concluding recapitulation.
102:23–24a See vv. 3–11.
102:24b–27 See v. 12 and note. For a NT application of vv. 25–27 to Christ see Heb 1:10–12 and note on Heb 1:10.
102:26 Like clothing. With His first creation God clothed Himself with the manifestation of His glory (see 8:1,3–4; 19:1; 29:3–9; 104:1,31; Is 6:3; see also Job 38–41, especially 40:10). But He is more enduring than what He has made—and the first creation will give way to a new creation (see Is 65:17; 66:22).
102:28 Because the Lord does not change (see v. 27), Israel's

Psalm 103

A Psalm of David.

1 [a]Bless the LORD, O my soul,
And all that is within me, bless His [b]holy name.
2 Bless the LORD, O my soul,
And [a]forget none of His benefits;
3 Who [a]pardons all your iniquities,
Who [b]heals all your diseases;
4 Who [a]redeems your life from the pit,
Who [b]crowns you with lovingkindness and compassion;
5 Who [a]satisfies your [1]years with good things,
So that your youth is [b]renewed like the eagle.

6 The LORD [a]performs [1]righteous deeds
And judgments for all who are [b]oppressed.
7 He [a]made known His ways to Moses,
His [b]acts to the sons of Israel.
8 The LORD is [a]compassionate and gracious,
[b]Slow to anger and abounding in lovingkindness.
9 He [a]will not always strive with us,
Nor will He [b]keep His anger forever.
10 He has [a]not dealt with us according to our sins,
Nor rewarded us according to our iniquities.

So far has He [a]removed our transgressions from us.
13 Just [a]as a father has compassion on his children,
So the LORD has compassion on those who [1]fear Him.
14 For [a]He Himself knows [1]our frame;

Ps 103 A hymn to God's love and compassion toward His people. (See introduction to Ps 101.) Calls to praise frame the body of the hymn (vv. 1–2, 20–22) and set its tone. The recital of praise falls into two unequal parts: (1) a three-verse celebration of personal benefits received (vv. 3–5) and (2) a 14-verse recollection of God's mercies to His people Israel (vv. 6–19). The major thematic division (vv. 6–19) is composed of six couplets framed by vv. 6 and 19, which describe the general character of God's reign. Thematic development divides the six couplets into two equal parts (vv. 7–12, 13–18), of which the first celebrates God's compassion on His people as sinners while the second sings of His compassion on them as frail mortals. The two concluding couplets proclaim the vastness of His love (vv. 11–12) and its unending perseverance (vv. 17–18). As with the hymn found in Ps 33, the length of the psalm has been determined by the number of letters in the Hebrew alphabet (see introduction to Ps 33).

103:1–2 Call to praise, directed inward (cf. vv. 20–22).

103:1–2,22 O my soul. A conventional Hebrew way of addressing oneself (see 104:1,35; 116:7). soul. See note on 6:3.

103:3–5 Recital of personal blessings received.

103:4 redeems. A synonym for "delivers." pit. A metaphor for the grave (see note on 30:1). lovingkindness and compassion. The key words of the hymn (see vv. 8,11,13,17). lovingkindness. See vv. 8,11,17; see also note on 6:4.

103:5 like the eagle. The vigor of youth is restored to match the proverbial unflagging strength of the eagle (see Is 40:31).

103:6–19 God's love and compassion toward His people.

103:6 Together with v. 19 (the other side of the literary frame) it characterizes the reign of God under which Israel has been so graciously blessed. righteous. See v. 17; see also note on 5:8.

103:7–12 God's compassion on His people as sinners.

103:7–8 See 99:7; Ex 33:13; see also note on Ex 34:6–7.

103:7 His ways. See 25:10 and note.

103:9 anger. See note on 2:5.

103:11–12 The vastness of God's love is supremely shown in His forgiving Israel's sins.

103:11 See 36:5–9. So great is. So prevails. those who fear Him. See vv. 13,17–18; see also 34:8–14 and note.

103:12 See Is 1:18; 38:17; 43:25; Jer 31:34; 50:20; Mic 7:18–19.

103:13–18 God's compassion on His people as frail mortals; perhaps echoed in Luke 1:50.

103:14 we are but dust. See note on 78:39.

103:17 The infinite span of God's love overarches man's little time (see v. 11). to children's children. See note on 109:12.

103:19 See v. 6 and note; see also 9:4,7; 11:4; 47:2,7–8; 123:1.

103:20–22 Concluding call to praise, directed to all creatures (cf. vv. 1–2). A call to praise is often the climax of praise in the Psalter (as also of the whole collection; see Ps 148–150). See note on 9:1. Bless . . . Bless . . . Bless. See note on 96:1–3 (the final line was probably added by the editors of the Psalter; see 104:1,35).

[b]Mighty in strength, who [c]perform His word,
[d]Obeying the voice of His word!
21 Bless the LORD, all you [a]His hosts,
You [b]who serve Him, doing His will.
22 Bless the LORD, [a]all you works of His,
In all places of His dominion;
Bless the LORD, O my soul!

Psalm 104

1 [a]Bless the LORD, O my soul!
O LORD my God, You are very great;
You are [b]clothed with splendor and majesty,
2 Covering Yourself with [a]light as with a cloak,
[b]Stretching out heaven like a tent curtain.
3 [1]He [a]lays the beams of His upper chambers in the waters;
[1]He makes the [b]clouds His chariot;
[1]He walks upon the [c]wings of the wind;
4 [1]He makes [2][a]the winds His messengers,
[3]Flaming [b]fire His ministers.

5 He [a]established the earth upon its foundations,
So that it will not [1]totter forever and ever.
6 You [a]covered it with the deep as with a garment;
The waters were standing above the mountains.
7 At Your [a]rebuke they fled,
At the [b]sound of Your thunder they hurried away.
8 The mountains rose; the valleys sank down
To the [a]place which You established for them.
9 You set a [a]boundary that they may not pass over,
So that they will not return to cover the earth.

10 [1]He sends forth [a]springs in the valleys;
They flow between the mountains;
11 They [a]give drink to every beast of the field;
The [b]wild donkeys quench their thirst.
12 [1]Beside them the birds of the heavens [a]dwell;
They [2]lift up their voices among the branches.
13 [1]He [a]waters the mountains from His upper chambers;
[b]The earth is satisfied with the fruit of His works.

Ps 104 A hymn to the Creator. Obviously influenced by Gen 1, the preexilic author has adapted that account to his different purpose and has subordinated its sequence somewhat to his own design (see next paragraph). Whereas Gen 1 recounts creation as God's first work at the beginning, the poet views the creation displayed before his eyes and sings the glory of its Maker and Sustainer. Surprisingly, he only hints at the angelic world (v. 4) and mentions man only in passing (vv. 14,23); his theme is the visible creation around him, which he views as the radiant and stately robe with which the invisible Creator has clothed Himself to display His glory. (See introduction to Ps 101.)

Following his one-verse introduction, the poet designed the main body of his poem concentrically, with stanzas of three-five-nine-five-three verses. The first stanza speaks of the celestial realm (vv. 2–4) and the fifth of the nautical (vv. 24–26)—the two realms that bracket the "earth" of his experience. The second sings of the earth's solid foundations and secure boundaries (vv. 5–9) and the fourth of the orderly cycles of life on earth governed by sun and moon (vv. 19–23). At the center an eight-verse stanza celebrates the luxuriation of life in the earth (vv. 10–18). To the poem's main body he added a four-verse stanza that recites how God maintains life on earth (vv. 27–30), a two-verse conclusion (vv. 31–32—which together with v. 1 frames the whole), and a three-verse epilogue (vv. 33–35). The outer frame ("Bless the LORD, O my soul") was probably added by the editors of the Psalter when they inserted the Book division after Ps 106—thus concluding Book 4 with doxologies (see the liturgical frames added to Ps 105–106 and the similar conclusion to Book 5: Ps 146–150).

104:1 Introduction: the theme of the hymn. clothed. See note on 102:26.
104:2–4 The celestial realm.
104:2 light. Cf. the first day of creation in Gen 1. heaven. Cf. the second day of creation in Gen 1. like a tent. Over the earth and the luminaries that give it light.
104:3 upper chambers. Vivid imagery for the heavenly abode of God (see v. 13). In the singular, the Hebrew for this phrase usually refers to the upper-level room of a house (as in 1 Kin 17:19; 2 Kin 1:2). waters. The waters above the "tent" (v. 2; see Gen 1:7), from which, in the imagery of the OT, God gives the rain (see v. 13; see also 36:8 and note). clouds His chariot. See 18:7–15; 68:4; 77:16–19 and notes.
104:4 winds . . . flaming fire. The winds and lightning bolts of the thunderstorm, here personified as the agents of God's purposes (see 148:8; cf. 103:21).
104:5–9 The earth realm made secure (vv. 5,9 frame the stanza, highlighting its two main themes).
104:5 earth. Land in distinction from sky and seas, not the earth as a planet (see Gen 1:10). foundations. See 24:2 and note. it will not totter forever. Firmly founded (see 93:1; 96:10), it will not give way (cf. v. 9).
104:7 rebuke. See note on 76:6. they fled. Cf. the third day of creation in Gen 1.
104:9 set a boundary. So that the land ("earth") will never be overwhelmed by the sea (cf. v. 5; see 33:7 and note; see also Gen 9:15).
104:10–18 The earth a flourishing garden of life—the center of the psalm and the focal point of the author's contemplation of the creation (the earth, bounded by sky, vv. 2–4, and sea, vv. 24–26). Cf. the third and sixth days of creation in Gen 1.
104:10–12 The gift of water from below—watering the ravines of the Negev.

14 [1]He causes the [a]grass to grow for the [2]cattle,
And [b]vegetation for the [3]labor of man,
So that [4]he may bring forth [5]food
[c]from the earth,
15 And [a]wine which makes man's heart glad,
[b]So that he may make his face glisten with oil,
And [1]food which [c]sustains man's heart.
16 The trees of the LORD [1]drink their fill,
The cedars of Lebanon which He planted,
17 Where the [a]birds build their nests,
And the [b]stork, whose home is the [1]fir trees.

18 The high mountains are for the [a]wild goats;
The [b]cliffs are a refuge for the [1c]shephanim.
19 He made the moon [a]for the seasons;
The [b]sun knows the place of its setting.
20 You [a]appoint darkness and it becomes night,
In which all the [b]beasts of the forest
[1]prowl about.
21 The [a]young lions roar after their prey
[1]And [b]seek their food from God.
22 When the sun rises they withdraw
And lie down in their [a]dens.
23 Man goes forth to [a]his work
And to his labor until evening.

24 O LORD, how [a]many are Your works!
[1]In [b]wisdom You have made them all;
The [c]earth is full of Your [2]possessions.
25 [1]There is the [a]sea, great and [2]broad,
In which are swarms without number,
Animals both small and great.
26 There the [a]ships move along,
And [1b]Leviathan, which You have formed to sport in it.

27 They all [a]wait for You
To [b]give them their food in [1]due season.
28 You give to them, they gather it up;
You [a]open Your hand, they are satisfied with good.
29 You [a]hide Your face, they are dismayed;
You [b]take away their [1]spirit, they expire
And [c]return to their dust.
30 You send forth Your [1a]Spirit, they are created;
And You renew the face of the ground.

31 Let the [a]glory of the LORD endure
forever;
Let the LORD [b]be glad in His works;
32 [1]He [a]looks at the earth, and it
[b]trembles;
He [c]touches the mountains, and they smoke.
33 [1]I will sing to the LORD [2a]as long as I live;
[1]I will [b]sing praise to my God [3]while I have my being.
34 Let my [a]meditation be pleasing to
Him;
As for me, I shall [b]be glad in the LORD.
35 Let sinners be [a]consumed from the earth
And let the [b]wicked be no more.
[c]Bless the LORD, O my soul.
[1d]Praise [2]the LORD!

Psalm 105

1 Oh [a]give thanks to the LORD, [b]call upon His name;

104:16–18 Well-watered Lebanon, with its great trees, its hordes of birds and its alpine animals, the very epitome of God's earthly parkland (see 72:16; 2 Kin 14:9; 19:23; Is 10:34; 35:2; 40:16; 60:13; Jer 22:6; Hos 14:7).
104:19–23 The orderly cycles of life on earth, governed by the moon and sun. Cf. the fourth day of creation in Gen 1.
104:21,23 lions . . . Man. The one (representing the animal world), lord of the night; the other, lord of the day.
104:24–26 The nautical realm. Cf. the fifth day of creation in Gen 1. The realm of the sea is structurally balanced with the celestial realm (vv. 2–4) as the other boundary to the realm of earth.

Ps 105 An exhortation to Israel to worship and trust in the Lord because of all His saving acts in fulfillment of His covenant with Abraham to give his descendants the land of Canaan. It was [c]Make known His deeds among the peoples.

2 Sing to Him, [a]sing praises to Him;
[1][b]Speak of all His [2]wonders.
3 [1]Glory in His holy name;
Let the [a]heart of those who seek the LORD be glad.
4 Seek the LORD and [a]His strength;
[b]Seek His face continually.
5 Remember His [1][a]wonders which He has done,
His marvels and the [b]judgments
[2]uttered by His mouth,
6 O seed of [a]Abraham, His servant,
O sons of [b]Jacob, His [c]chosen ones!
7 He is the LORD our God;
His [a]judgments are in all the earth.

8 He has [a]remembered His covenant forever,
The word which He commanded to a
[b]thousand generations,
9 The [a]covenant which He made with Abraham,
And His [b]oath to Isaac.
10 Then He [a]confirmed it to Jacob for a statute,
To Israel as an everlasting covenant,
11 Saying, "[a]To you I will give the land of Canaan
As the [1][b]portion of your inheritance," 12 When they were only a [a]few men in number,
Very few, and [b]strangers in it.
13 And they wandered about from nation to nation,
From one kingdom to another people.
14 He [a]permitted no man to oppress them,
And He [b]reproved kings for their sakes:
15 "[a]Do not touch My anointed ones,
And do My prophets no harm."

16 And He [a]called for a famine upon the land;
He [b]broke the whole staff of bread.
17 He [a]sent a man before them,
Joseph, who was [b]sold as a slave.
18 They afflicted his [a]feet with fetters,
[1]He himself was laid in irons;
19 Until the time that his [a]word came to pass,
The word of the LORD [1][b]tested him.
20 The [a]king sent and released him,
The ruler of peoples, and set him free.
21 He [a]made him lord of his house
And ruler over all his possessions,
22 To [1]imprison his princes [2][a]at will,
That he might teach his elders wisdom.
23 [a]Israel also came into Egypt;
Thus Jacob [b]sojourned in the land of Ham.
24 And He [a]caused His people to be very fruitful,
And made them stronger than their adversaries.

25 He [a]turned their heart to hate His people,
To [b]deal craftily with His servants.

composed to be addressed to Israel by a Levite (see 1 Chr 16:7 and compare vv. 1–15 with 1 Chr 16:8–22) on one of her annual religious festivals (see chart, p. 164), possibly the Feast of Booths (see Lev 23:34) but more likely the Feast of Weeks (see Ex 23:16; Lev 23:15–21; Num 28:26; Deut 16:9–12; see also Deut 26:1–11). For other recitals of the same history (but for different purposes) see Ps 78; 106; Josh 24:2–13; Neh 9:7–25.

The introduction is composed of seven verses in two parts: (1) an exhortation (with ten imperatives) to worship the Lord (vv. 1–4); (2) a call to remember what the Lord has done (vv. 5–7). The main body that follows is framed by two four-verse groupings (vv. 8–11, 42–45) that summarize—as introduction and conclusion—its main theme: The Lord has remembered His covenant with Abraham.

105:1–4 The exhortation to worship and trust.

105:1 give thanks. Through praise (see note on Ps 100 title). call upon. In prayer (see v. 4). The first two imperatives highlight the two themes of the ten imperatives of the exhortation: praise and prayer as expressions of devotion to the Lord (celebration of His past saving acts; trust in Him for future deliverance and blessing). His name. See v. 3; see also note on 5:11. Make known . . . among the peoples. As an integral part of praise (see note on 9:1).

105:2 wonders. See NASB marg.; see also note on 9:1.

105:3,25 heart. See note on 4:7.

105:5–7 Exhortation to remember God's saving acts.

105:5 Remember. As a motivation for and focus of worship and the basis for trust—remember how the Lord has remembered (see vv. 8–11). judgments. See v. 7; see also notes on 48:11; 97:8. uttered. As Lord, He commands and it is done.

105:8–11 The Lord remembers His covenant with Abraham (see vv. 42–45).

105:8 covenant. The promissory covenant of Gen 15:9–21. This verse and v. 9 may be echoed in Luke 1:72–73. thousand generations. See Ex 20:6; Deut 7:9; 1 Chr 16:15.

105:10 for a statute. As a fixed policy governing His future actions (see note on v. 45).

105:12–41 A recital of God's saving acts in Israel's behalf from the granting of the covenant (see v. 11; Gen 15:9–20) to its fulfillment (see v. 44; Josh 21:43). Cf. the recital prescribed by Moses in conjunction with the offering of first fruits (Deut 26:1–11).

105:14–15 See Gen 20:2–7; see also note on Gen 20:7.

105:18 fetters . . . irons. That is, shackles of iron (see 149:8; see also note on 3:7). The poet takes the freedom to use a later conventional description of prisoners (see Job 13:27; 33:11). (Shackles are not spoken of in Gen 39:20–23, and iron came into common use for them at a later time—earlier shackles were made of bronze; see Judg 16:21.)

105:22 imprison. Lit. "bind," i.e., govern or control. He who was himself (v. 18; Hebrew nephesh) put in fetters was given authority to "bind" Pharaoh's princes "as he pleased" (Hebrew "with his nephesh"—here meaning his will). elders. Pharaoh's counselors, conventionally older men of wide experience and learning (see note on Ex 3:16).

105:23,27 land of Ham. See 78:51 and note.

105:25 turned. In OT perspective God's sovereign control over Israel's destiny is so complete that it governs—mysteriously—

26 He [a]sent Moses His servant,
And [b]Aaron, whom He had chosen.
27 They [1][a]performed His wondrous acts among them,
And miracles in the land of Ham.
28 He [a]sent darkness and made it dark;
And they did not [b]rebel against His words.
29 He [a]turned their waters into blood
And caused their fish to die.
30 Their land swarmed with [a]frogs
Even in the [b]chambers of their kings.
31 He spoke, and there came a [a]swarm of flies
And [b]gnats in all their territory.
32 He [1]gave them [a]hail for rain,
And flaming fire in their land.
33 He [a]struck down their vines also and their fig trees,
And shattered the trees of their territory.
34 He spoke, and [a]locusts came,
And young locusts, even without number,
35 And ate up all vegetation in their land,
And ate up the fruit of their ground.
36 He also [a]struck down all the firstborn in their land,
The [b]first fruits of all their vigor.

37 Then He brought them out with [a]silver and gold,
And among His tribes there was not one who stumbled.

38 Egypt was [a]glad when they departed,
For the [b]dread of them had fallen upon them.
39 He spread a [a]cloud for a [1]covering,
And [b]fire to illumine by night.
40 [1]They [a]asked, and He brought [b]quail,
And satisfied them with the [2c]bread of heaven.
41 He opened the [1]rock and [a]water flowed out;
[2]It ran in the dry places like a river.
42 For He [a]remembered His holy word
With Abraham His servant;
43 And He brought forth His people with joy,
His chosen ones with a joyful [a]shout.
44 He [a]gave them also the lands of the [1]nations,
That they [b]might take possession of the fruit of the peoples' labor, 45 So that they might [a]keep His statutes
And observe His laws,
[1]Praise [2]the LORD!

Psalm 106

1 [1]Praise [2]the LORD!
Oh [a]give thanks to the LORD, for He [b]is good;
For [c]His lovingkindness is everlasting.

106:1 [1]Or Hallelujah! [2]Heb YAH [a]Ps 105:1; 107:1; 118:1; 136:1; Jer 33:11 [b]2 Chr 5:13; 7:3; Ezra 3:11; Ps 100:5 [c]1 Chr 16:34, 41 even the evil that men commit against her; hence the bold language used here (see Ex 4:21; 7:3; Josh 11:20; 2 Sam 24:1; Is 10:5–7; 37:26–27; Jer 34:22).

105:26,42 servant. See 78:70 and note.

105:28–36 Recital of the plagues against Egypt. In this poetic recollection seven plagues (symbolizing completeness) represent the ten plagues of Ex 7–11. Apart from omissions (the plagues of livestock disease and boils) the poet follows the order of Exodus except that he combines the third and fourth plagues (gnats and insects)—in reverse order—to stay within the number seven. He also places the ninth plague (darkness) first in order to frame his recital with mention of the two plagues that climaxed the series.

105:39 for a covering. Elsewhere it is said that the cloud (symbolic of God's presence) served (1) as a guide for Israel in her wilderness journeys (see 78:14; Ex 13:21; Num 9:17; Neh 9:12,19), (2) as a shield of darkness to protect Israel from the pursuing Egyptians (see Ex 14:19–20) and (3) as a covering for the fiery manifestations of God's glorious presence (see Ex 16:10; 24:16; 34:5; 40:34–35,38; Num 11:25; 12:5; 16:42; Deut 31:15; 1 Kin 8:11). The psalmist appears to highlight yet another function: God's protective cover over His people in the wilderness, perhaps as His shading "wings" (17:8; see note there), so that the sun would not harm them by day (see 121:5–6).

105:40 bread of heaven. See 78:24–25 and notes.

105:41 like a river. Poetically heightened imagery to evoke due wonder for the event. This miracle of the wilderness wanderings concludes the recital and has been placed in climactic position as one of the most striking manifestations of God's redeeming power and benevolence (see 114:8; Is 43:19–20; cf. Is 50:2).

105:42–45 Concluding summary (balancing the introduction to the recital: vv. 8–11).

105:44 gave them also the lands. See v. 11.

105:45 statutes. God has kept His "statute" (v. 10) so that Israel might keep His "statutes"—the Hebrew word is the same (see note on v. 5: "remember"). God's redemptive working in fulfillment of His covenant promise has as its goal the creating of a people in the earth who conform their lives to His holy will. Thus the list of appropriate responses begun in v. 1—praise and prayer (trust)—is completed by the third: obedience (see Gen 18:19).

Ps 106 A confession of Israel's long history of rebellion and a prayer for God to once again save His people. In length, poetic style and shared themes it has much affinity with Ps 105 even while it contrasts with it by reciting the past as a history of rebellion (see Ps 78; Neh 9:5–37). It was most likely authored by a Levite in Jerusalem sometime after the return of some of the exiles. The first verse and the last two verses seem to have been taken over from an earlier composition (see 1 Chr 16:34–36). These may have been added, along with the "Hallelujah" (Hebrew Hallelu Yah, meaning "praise the Lord"), by the editors of the Psalter (borrowing from an earlier Davidic psalter) when they set the Book divisions between Ps 106 and 107. (See introduction to Ps 101.)

Apart from the fact that the psalm has an introduction (vv. 1–5) and a (composite) conclusion (vv. 44–48), the recital character of its main theme (as in Ps 105) controls its basic outline. Beginning with the events at the Red Sea (vv. 6–12), the psalm next narrates at length Israel's many rebellions during the wilderness wanderings (vv. 13–33), follows with a summary description of Israel's apostasy in the promised land (vv. 34–39) and completes its recital with a general statement of God's stern measures in the promised land (vv. 40–43).

106:1–5 Introduction.

106:1 give thanks. With praise (see note on Ps 100 title); a con-

2 Who can speak of the [a]mighty deeds of the LORD,
Or can show forth all His praise?
3 How blessed are those who keep [1]justice,
[2]Who [a]practice righteousness at all times!

4 Remember me, O LORD, in Your [a]favor [1]toward Your people;
Visit me with Your salvation,
5 That I may see the [a]prosperity of Your chosen ones,
That I may [b]rejoice in the gladness of Your nation,
That I may [c]glory with Your [1]inheritance.

6 [a]We have sinned [1][b]like our fathers,
We have committed iniquity, we have behaved wickedly.
7 Our fathers in Egypt did not understand Your [1]wonders;
They [a]did not remember [2]Your abundant kindnesses,
But [b]rebelled by the sea, at the [3]Red Sea.
8 Nevertheless He saved them [a]for the sake of His name,
That He might [b]make His power known.
9 Thus He [a]rebuked the [1]Red Sea and it [b]dried up,
And He [c]led them through the deeps, as through the wilderness.
10 So He [a]saved them from the [1]hand of the one who hated them,
And [b]redeemed them from the [1]hand of the enemy.
11 [a]The waters covered their adversaries; Not one of them was left.
12 Then they [a]believed His words;
They [b]sang His praise.

13 They quickly [a]forgot His works;
They [b]did not wait for His counsel,
14 But [a]craved intensely in the wilderness,
And [1][b]tempted God in the desert.
15 So He [a]gave them their request,
But [b]sent a [1]wasting disease among them.

16 When they became [a]envious of Moses in the camp,
And of Aaron, the holy one of the LORD,
17 The [a]earth opened and swallowed up Dathan,
And engulfed the [1]company of Abiram.
18 And a [a]fire blazed up in their [1]company;
The flame consumed the wicked.

19 They [a]made a calf in Horeb
And worshiped a molten image.
20 Thus they [a]exchanged their glory
For the image of an ox that eats grass.
21 They [a]forgot God their Savior,
Who had done [b]great things in Egypt,
22 [1][a]Wonders in the land of Ham
And awesome things by the [2]Red Sea.
23 Therefore [a]He said that He would destroy them,
Had not [b]Moses His chosen one stood in the breach before Him,
To turn away His wrath from destroying them.
24 Then they [a]despised the [b]pleasant land;
They [c]did not believe in His word,
25 But [a]grumbled in their tents;
They did not listen to the voice of the LORD.
26 Therefore He [1][a]swore to them
That He would cast them down in the wilderness, ventional liturgical call to praise (see 107:1; 118:1,29; 136:1–3). lovingkindness. See note on 6:4.

106:2 Who can . . . ? With integrity. His praise. Praise for His mighty acts (see v. 47; see also note on 9:1).

106:3 blessed. See note on 1:1. justice . . . righteousness. That is, justice-and-righteousness (see 36:6 and note; see also note on 3:7). This verse answers the question posed in v. 2.

106:4 Remember me. As one committed to the way of life described in v. 3. in Your favor. Or "with the favor You show" (see vv. 44–46). with Your salvation. The psalmist prays that God will include him in "the greatness of His lovingkindness" (v. 45), which He shows to His people. Thus the inner logic of the prayer seems to be completed at v. 46. The editors of the Psalter appear to have converted an individual prayer into a communal one by their additions (see introduction).

106:5 prosperity . . . rejoice . . . glory. A progressive sequence of cause and effect. Your inheritance. See v. 40.

106:6–43 Israel's history of rebellion.

106:6 A general confession of sin introducing the recital. We. The author identifies himself with Israel in her rebellion even as he prays for inclusion in God's mercies toward His people (see Ezra 9:6–7).

106:7,22 wonders. For example, the plagues against Egypt (see note on 9:1).

106:10 redeemed. Here, as often, a synonym for "delivered."

106:13 His counsel. The working out of His plan.

106:16–18 See Num 16:1–35.

106:19 Horeb. See note on Ex 3:1.

106:20 glory. Glorious One (see 1 Sam 15:29; Jer 2:11).

106:22 land of Ham. See 78:51 and note.

106:23 stood in the breach. See Ex 32:11–14,31–32. wrath. See note on 2:5.

106:24 pleasant land. So described in Jer 3:19; 12:10; Zech 7:14; see also Deut 8:7–9; Ezek 20:6.

106:26–27 cast them down. See note on 13:4 ("shaken").

27 And that He would [a]cast their seed among the nations
And [b]scatter them in the lands.

28 They [a]joined themselves also to [1]Baal-peor,
And ate [b]sacrifices offered to the dead.
29 Thus they [a]provoked Him to anger with their deeds,
And the plague broke out among them.
30 Then Phinehas [a]stood up and interposed,
And so the [b]plague was stayed.
31 And it was [a]reckoned to him for righteousness,
To all generations forever.

32 They also [a]provoked Him to wrath at the waters of [1]Meribah,
So that it [b]went hard with Moses on their account;
33 Because they [a]were rebellious against [1]His Spirit,
He spoke rashly with his lips.

34 They [a]did not destroy the peoples,
As [b]the LORD commanded them,
35 But [a]they mingled with the nations
And learned their [1]practices,
36 And [a]served their idols,
[b]Which became a snare to them.
37 They even [a]sacrificed their sons and their daughters to the [b]demons,
38 And shed [a]innocent blood,
The blood of their [b]sons and their daughters,
Whom they sacrificed to the idols of Canaan;
And the land was [c]polluted with the blood.
39 Thus they became [a]unclean in their [1]practices,
And [b]played the harlot in their deeds.

40 Therefore the [a]anger of the LORD was kindled against His people
And He [b]abhorred His [1][c]inheritance.
41 Then [a]He gave them into the hand of the [1]nations,
And those who hated them ruled over them.
42 Their enemies also [a]oppressed them,
And they were subdued under their [1]power.
43 Many times He would [a]deliver them;
They, however, were rebellious in their [b]counsel,
And so [c]sank down in their iniquity.

44 Nevertheless He looked upon their distress
When He [a]heard their cry;
45 And He [a]remembered His covenant for their sake,
And [1][b]relented [c]according to the greatness of His lovingkindness.
46 He also made them [a]objects of compassion
In the presence of all their captors.

47 [a]Save us, O LORD our God,
And [b]gather us from among the nations,
To give thanks to Your holy name

106:28–31 See Num 25.
106:31 reckoned to him for righteousness. When Abram "believed in the Lord, . . . He reckoned it to him as righteousness" (Gen 15:6). So, says the psalmist, was Phinehas's priestly zeal for the Lord (see Num 25:7–8). To all generations forever. The psalmist refers to the "covenant of a perpetual priesthood" (Num 25:13) that the Lord granted Phinehas as a gracious reward for his zealous act. It was the granting of this promissory covenant that warranted the statement about crediting righteousness, for God's granting of a promissory covenant to Abram had followed upon His crediting Abram's faith to him as righteousness (see Gen 15:9–21). Similarly, God's promissory covenants with Noah (see Gen 9:9–17) and with David (see 2 Sam 7:5–16) followed upon God's testimony to their righteousness (see Gen 7:1; 1 Sam 13:14). See chart, p. 16.
106:32 Meribah. See note on Ex 17:7.
106:33 against His Spirit. For the Spirit of God present and at work in the wilderness wanderings see Ex 31:3; Num 11:17; 24:2; Neh 9:20; Is 63:10–14.
106:34–39 A general description of the worst of rebellious Israel's sins, applicable from the time of the judges to the Babylonian exile.
106:37 demons. The Hebrew for this word occurs elsewhere in the OT only in Deut 32:17, where it refers to false gods. It is related to a Babylonian word referring to (pagan) protective spirits.
106:38 Cf. Jer 19:4–5. innocent blood. The blood of anyone not guilty of a capital crime. polluted. The very land itself is defiled by the slaughter of innocents (see Num 35:33; Jer 3:2,9).
106:39 unclean. See Lev 18:24; Jer 2:23; Ezek 20:30–31; 22:3–4. played the harlot. Committed prostitution by joining themselves with false gods (see Ezek 23:3,5–8; Hos 5:3; 6:10; see also note on Judg 2:17).
106:40–43 God's stern measures against His rebellious people—a general description applicable from the days of the judges to the Babylonian exile and focusing particularly on God's most severe form of covenant sanctions (see Lev 26:25–26,33,38–39; Deut 28:25,36–37,48–57,64–68).
106:40 anger. See note on 2:5. abhorred. See 5:6.
106:44–46 God's gracious remembering of His covenant—a general description applicable from the days of the judges to the Babylonian exile.
106:44 heard their cry. See Ex 2:23; 3:7–9; Num 20:16; Judg 3:9,15; 4:3; 6:6–7; 10:10; 1 Sam 9:16; 2 Chr 20:6–12; Neh 9:27–28.
106:45 remembered His covenant. See 105:8,42; Ex 2:24; Lev 26:42,45. lovingkindness. See note on 6:4.
106:46 objects of compassion . . . their captors. Makes clear that the author's recital includes the Babylonian captivity (see 1 Kin 8:50; 2 Chr 30:9; Ezra 9:9; Jer 42:12). Although there were earlier captivities of Israelite communities, no other captive group was said to have been shown pity.
106:47 A communal prayer for deliverance and restoration from dispersion (see introduction and note on v. 4). name. See

And [1c]glory in Your praise.
48 [a]Blessed be the LORD, the God of Israel,
From everlasting even to everlasting.
And let all the people say, "Amen."

Psalm 107

1 Oh [a]give thanks to the LORD, for [b]He is good,
For His lovingkindness is everlasting.
2 Let [a]the redeemed of the LORD say so,
Whom He has [b]redeemed from the hand of the adversary
3 And [a]gathered from the lands,
From the east and from the west,
From the north and from the [1]south.

4 They [a]wandered in the wilderness in a [1]desert region;
They did not find a way to [2]an inhabited [b]city.
5 They were hungry [1]and thirsty;
Their [a]soul fainted within them.
6 Then they [a]cried out to the LORD in their trouble;
He delivered them out of their distresses.
7 He led them also by a [1a]straight way,
To go to [2b]an inhabited city.
8 [a]Let them give thanks to the LORD for His lovingkindness,
And for His [1]wonders to the sons of men!
9 For He has [a]satisfied the [1]thirsty soul,
And the [b]hungry soul He has filled with what is good.

Ps 107 An exhortation to praise the Lord for His unfailing love in that He hears the prayers of those in need and saves them (see next paragraph—on structure). It was composed for liturgical use at one of Israel's annual religious festivals. Interpretations vary widely, but the following is most likely: Having experienced anew God's mercies in her return from Babylonian exile (v. 3; see Jer 33:11), Israel is led by a Levite in celebrating God's unfailing benevolence toward those who have cried to Him in the crises of their lives. In its recitational style the psalm is closely related to Ps 104–106, and in its language to Ps 105–106. For that reason it has been seriously proposed that with these last two psalms it forms a trilogy from the same author. Whether or not this is so, its affinity with the preceding psalms strongly suggests that it was associated with them before the insertion of a Book division between Ps 106 and 107 and that it was intended to conclude the little series, Ps 104–107. Its recital of God's "wonders to the sons of men" (v. 8)—which climaxes Ps 105–106—balances the recital of His many wise works in creation (see 104:2–26) and His benevolent care over the animal world (see 104:27–30). The editors may have inserted a Book division between Ps 106 and 107 with a view to a fivefold division of the Psalter (see Introduction: Collection, Arrangement and Date). (See introduction to Ps 101.)

The introduction (vv. 1–3) and conclusion (v. 43) enclose six thematic stanzas, of which the last two (vv. 33–38, 39–42) stand apart as an instructive supplement focusing in a more general way on reversals in fortunes—which, however, end up with God restoring the "hungry" (v. 36) and the "needy" (v. 41). Of the four remaining thematic stanzas (marked by recurring refrains: vv. 6,13,19,28; vv. 8,15,21,31), the first and last refer to God's deliverance of those lost in the trackless wilderness (vv. 4–9) and those imperiled on the boisterous sea (vv. 23–32). The two central stanzas celebrate deliverance from the punishment of foreign bondage (vv. 10–16) and from the punishment of disease (vv. 17–22). Of the concluding lines to these four stanzas, the first two (vv. 9,16) and the last two (vv. 22,32) are similar. The verse pattern of these four thematic stanzas (six-seven-six-ten) makes deliberate use of the significant numbers seven and ten.

107:1–3 Introductory call to praise.

107:1 A conventional liturgical call to praise (see 106:1; 118:1,29; 136:1; Jer 33:11). give thanks. See vv. 8,15,21,31; see also note on Ps 100 title. lovingkindness. See vv. 8,15,21,31,43; see also note on 6:4.

107:2 redeemed. Here, as often, a synonym for "delivered."

107:3 from the lands. From the dispersion resulting from the Assyrian (see 2 Kin 17:6) and Babylonian captivities (see 2 Kin 24:14,16; 25:11,26; Jer 52:28–30; see also Neh 1:8; Esth 8:5,9,13; Is 11:12; 43:5–6; Ezek 11:17; 20:34). south. Lit. "(the) sea" (see NASB marg.), i.e., the west, as in Is 49:12. But perhaps the final letter of the Hebrew word has been lost, which if supplied yields "south."

107:4–9 Deliverance for those lost in the trackless wilderness. No reference is made to rebellion (as in the third and fourth stanzas), but since Israel had journeyed through the wilderness on her way to Canaan she had firsthand experience of the terrors of the wilderness. She was, moreover, bounded on the east by the great Arabian Desert (as on the west by the Mediterranean Sea; see vv. 23–32), across which her merchant caravans traveled.

107:4,7,36 an inhabited city. Where people live and where a steady supply of food and water makes human life secure.

107:6 they cried out. The author uses the same Hebrew verb in v. 28 to establish linkage. In vv. 13,19 he uses a different (but similar-sounding) Hebrew verb for the same reason. Just as Israel's history was a history of divine deliverance (see Ps 105) and a history of rebellion (see Ps 106), so also it was a history of crying out to the Lord in distress (see references in note on 106:44).

107:7 straight way. Direct route, clear of dangerous and difficult obstacles.

107:8 For other refrains see introduction to Ps 42–43. wonders. See vv. 15,21,24,31; see also note on 9:1.

107:9 satisfied the thirsty . . . the hungry soul He has filled. See v. 5; see also 105:40–41.

107:10–16 Deliverance from the punishment of foreign bondage. God even delivers those who cry to Him when their distress is a result of His discipline for their sins (see vv. 17–20,33–41).

10 There were those who [a]dwelt in darkness and in the shadow of death,
[b]Prisoners in [1]misery and [2]chains,
11 Because they had [a]rebelled against the words of God
And [b]spurned the [c]counsel of the Most High.
12 Therefore He humbled their heart with labor;
They stumbled and there was [a]none to help.
13 Then they [a]cried out to the LORD in their trouble;
He saved them out of their distresses.
14 He [a]brought them out of darkness and the shadow of death
And [b]broke their bands apart.
15 [a]Let them give thanks to the LORD for His lovingkindness,
And for His [1]wonders to the sons of men!
16 For He has [a]shattered gates of bronze
And cut bars of iron asunder.

17 Fools, because of [1]their rebellious way,
And [a]because of their iniquities, were afflicted.
18 Their [a]soul abhorred all kinds of food,
And they [b]drew near to the [c]gates of death.
19 Then they cried out to the LORD in their trouble;
He saved them out of their distresses.
20 He [a]sent His word and [b]healed them,
And [c]delivered them from their [1]destructions.

21 [a]Let them give thanks to the LORD for His lovingkindness,
And for His [1]wonders to the sons of men!
22 Let them also offer [a]sacrifices of thanksgiving,
And [b]tell of His works with joyful singing.

23 Those who [a]go down to the sea in ships,
Who do business on great waters;
24 They have seen the works of the LORD,
And His [1]wonders in the deep.
25 For He [a]spoke and raised up a [b]stormy wind,
Which [c]lifted up the waves [1]of the sea.
26 They rose up to the heavens, they went down to the depths;
Their soul [a]melted away in their misery.
27 They reeled and [a]staggered like a drunken man,
And [1]were at their wits' end.
28 Then they cried to the LORD in their trouble,
And He brought them out of their distresses.
29 He [a]caused the storm to be still,
So that the waves [1]of the sea were hushed.
30 Then they were glad because they were quiet,

29 [1]Lit of it [a]Ps 65:7; 89:9; Matt 8:26; Luke 8:24

107:10 dwelt in darkness . . . shadow of death. Vivid imagery for distress (see 18:28; Is 5:30; 8:22; 59:9; see also note on 44:19). Prisoners. While reference is no doubt to foreign bondage, the imagery of being bound was also used by OT poets to refer to other forms of distress (see Job 36:8; Is 28:22; Lam 3:7); so the reference may be deliberately ambiguous.
107:11 God . . . Most High. That is, God Most High (see Gen 14:19 and note; see also note on 3:7). counsel. God's wise directives embodied in His words.
107:12 humbled their heart with labor. Lit. "brought down their heart with labor," i.e., a labor so burdensome it broke their spirit. stumbled. Their strength failed (see 31:10; 109:24; Neh 4:10; Is 40:30; Zech 12:8).
107:13 cried out to. See note on v. 6.
107:16 Either this verse is quoted from Is 45:2, or both verses quote an established saying. gates of bronze. City gates—normally of wood; here proverbially of bronze, the strongest gates then imaginable (see Jer 1:18). bars of iron. Bars that secured city gates (see Deut 3:5; Jer 51:30), usually made of wood (see Nah 3:13) but sometimes of bronze (see 1 Kin 4:13). "Can anyone smash iron . . . or bronze?" was a proverb of the time (see Jer 15:12).
107:17–22 Deliverance from the punishment of wasting disease (see note on vv. 10–16).
107:17 Fools. See note on 14:1; see also Jer 4:22. "Fools despise wisdom and instruction" (Prov 1:7; see v. 43). because of their iniquities, were afflicted. See Lev 26:16,25; Deut 28:20–22,35, 58–61.
107:18 gates of death. The realm of the dead was sometimes depicted as a nether world city with a series of concentric walls and gates (seven, each inside the other, according to ancient Near Eastern mythology) to keep those descending there from returning to the land of the living (see 9:13 and note on Job 38:17; see also Matt 16:18).
107:19 cried out to. See note on v. 6. saved. See v. 13; cf. vv. 6,28.
107:20 His word. His command, here personified as the agent of His purpose (see 147:15,18; see also note on 23:6).
107:22 sacrifices of thanksgiving. See Lev 7:12–15; 22:29–30. tell of His works. See note on 7:17. joyful singing. See, e.g., Ps 116.
107:23–32 Deliverance from the perils of the sea (see note on vv. 4–9). Israel's merchants also braved the sea in pursuit of trade (see Gen 49:13; Judg 5:17; 1 Kin 9:26–28; 10:22).
107:23 great waters. See 29:3.
107:24 wonders in the deep. Since the peoples of the eastern Mediterranean coastlands associated the "great waters" (v. 23) of the sea with the primeval chaotic waters (see note on 32:6), the Lord's total control of them was always for Israel a cause of wonder and of a sense of security. Therefore the terrifying storms that sometimes swept the Mediterranean (see Jon 1; Acts 27) are here included among His wonderful deeds.

So He guided them to their desired haven.
31 [a]Let them give thanks to the LORD for His lovingkindness,
And for His [1][b]wonders to the sons of men!
32 Let them [a]extol Him also [b]in the congregation of the people,
And [c]praise Him at the seat of the elders.

33 He [1][a]changes rivers into a [2]wilderness
And springs of water into a thirsty ground;
34 A [a]fruitful land into a [b]salt waste,
Because of the wickedness of those who dwell in it.
35 He [1][a]changes a [2]wilderness into a pool of water
And a dry land into springs of water;
36 And there He makes the hungry to dwell,
So that they may establish [1][a]an inhabited city,
37 And sow fields and [a]plant vineyards,
And [1]gather a fruitful harvest.
38 Also He blesses them and they [a]multiply greatly,
And He [b]does not let their cattle decrease.

39 When they are [a]diminished and [b]bowed down
Through oppression, misery and sorrow,
40 He [a]pours contempt upon [1]princes
And [b]makes them wander [c]in a pathless waste.
41 But He [a]sets the needy [1]securely on high away from affliction,
And [b]makes his families like a flock.

Psalm 108

A Song, a Psalm of David.

1 [a]My heart is steadfast, O God;
I will sing, I will sing praises, even with my [1]soul.
2 Awake, harp and lyre;
I will awaken the dawn!
3 I will give thanks to You, O LORD, among the peoples,
And I will sing praises to You among the nations.
4 For Your [a]lovingkindness is great [b]above the heavens,
And Your truth reaches to the skies.
5 [a]Be exalted, O God, above the heavens,
And Your glory above all the earth.
6 [a]That Your beloved may be delivered,
Save with Your right hand, and answer me!

7 God has spoken in His [1]holiness:
"I will exult, I will portion out Shechem
And measure out the valley of Succoth.
8 "Gilead is Mine, Manasseh is Mine;
Ephraim also is the [1]helmet of My head;
[a]Judah is My [2]scepter.
9 "Moab is My washbowl;
Over Edom I shall throw My shoe;
Over Philistia I will shout aloud."

107:30 haven. Perhaps trading center.
107:32 See v. 22. elders. See note on Ex 3:16.
107:33–42 A twofold instructive supplement recalling how the Lord sometimes disciplined His people by turning the fruitful land (v. 34) into a virtual wilderness (see 1 Kin 17:1–7; 2 Kin 8:1) but then restored the land again (see Ruth 1:6; 1 Kin 18:44–45), so that the hungry (v. 36) could live there and prosper in the midst of plenty. But then He sent powerful armies against them (such as the Assyrians, 2 Kin 17:3–6, and the Babylonians, 2 Kin 24:10–17) that devastated the land once more and deported its people; yet afterward He restored the needy (v. 41). But the poet generalizes upon these experiences in the manner of the wisdom teachers.
107:33–35 The imagery is similar to that found in Is 35:6–7; 41:18; 42:15; 43:19–20; 50:2 and may indicate that the author has been influenced by Isaiah.
107:40 Perhaps quoted from Job 12:21,24. In their prosperity the people, led by their nobles, grow proud and turn their backs on the God who has blessed them (see Deut 31:20; 32:15), so He returns them to the wilderness (see Deut 32:10; Hos 2:3,14).
107:41 needy. Those in need of help (see v. 39; see also 9:18 and note).
107:42 Conclusion to the instruction (vv. 33–41); perhaps an echo of Job 5:16. upright . . . unrighteousness. A frequent contrast in OT wisdom literature (see Prov 2:21–22; 11:6–7; 12:6; 14:11; 15:8; 21:18,29; 29:27—but the Hebrew for "unrighteousness" here is shared more often with Job).
107:43 Conclusion to the psalm. Who is wise? See Deut 32:29; Hos 14:9. these things. The instruction in vv. 33–42. consider the lovingkindnesses of the LORD. The theme of vv. 4–32.
Ps 108 Praise of God's love, and prayer for His help against the enemies—a combination (with very slight modifications) of 57:7–11 and 60:5–12. For a similar composition of a new psalm by combination of portions from several psalms see 1 Chr 16:8–36. The celebration of the greatness of God's love (v. 4) links this psalm thematically with Ps 103 (see 103:11). See introduction to Ps 101.
108 title Song. See note on Ps 30 title. of David. Both sources (Ps 57; 60) were credited to him.
108:1–5 Praise of God's love, possibly intended to function here as an expression of trust in God (the God of vv. 7–9,11), to whom appeal is to be made (vv. 6,12); see 109:1 and note. For this stanza see notes on 57:7–11.
108:1 soul. Lit. "glory" (see note on 7:5).
108:6–13 Prayer for God's help against enemies (see notes on 60:5–12).

10 [a]Who will bring me into the besieged city?
Who [1]will lead me to Edom?
11 Have not You Yourself, O God,
[a]rejected us?
And will You not go forth with our armies, O God?
12 Oh give us help against the adversary,
For [a]deliverance [1]by man is in vain.
13 [1]Through God we will do valiantly,
And [a]it is He who shall tread down our adversaries.

Psalm 109

For the choir director. A Psalm of David.

1 O [a]God of my praise,
[b]Do not be silent!
2 For they have opened the [1]wicked and
[a]deceitful mouth against me;
They have spoken [2]against me with a [b]lying tongue.
3 They have also surrounded me with words of hatred,
And fought against me [a]without cause.
4 In return [a]for my love they act as my accusers;
But [b]I am in prayer.
5 Thus they have [1][a]repaid me evil for good
And [b]hatred for my love.

6 Appoint a wicked man over him,
And let an [1][a]accuser stand at his right hand.
7 When he is judged, let him [a]come forth guilty,
And let his [b]prayer become sin.
8 Let [a]his days be few;
Let [b]another take his office.
9 Let his [a]children be fatherless
And his [b]wife a widow.
10 Let his [a]children wander about and beg;
And let them [b]seek sustenance [1]far from their ruined homes.
11 Let [a]the creditor [1]seize all that he has,
And let [b]strangers plunder the product of his labor.
12 Let there be none to [1][a]extend lovingkindness to him,
Nor [b]any to be gracious to his fatherless children.
13 Let his [a]posterity be [1]cut off;
In a following generation let their [b]name be blotted out.

14 Let [a]the iniquity of his fathers be remembered [1]before the LORD,
And do not let the sin of his mother be [b]blotted out.
15 Let [a]them be before the LORD continually,

Ps 109 A prayer for God to judge a case of false accusation. The author speaks of his enemies in the singular in vv. 6–19 but in the plural elsewhere. Some therefore suppose that vv. 6–19 contain the enemies' curses pronounced against the author (if so, v. 6 would read, "They say, 'Appoint a wicked man . . .'"). But it is more likely that either (1) the author shifts here to a collective mode of speaking, or (2) the enemies are united under a leader whose personal animosity toward the psalmist has fired the antagonism of others and so is singled out for special attention. Traditional attempts to isolate a distinct class of psalms called "imprecatory" (and then identify Ps 109 as the climax of the series) are mistaken (see note on vv. 6–15). This prayer has much affinity with Ps 35. See introduction to Ps 101.

Two (Hebrew) four-line stanzas of petition frame the whole (vv. 1–5, 26–29), followed by a two-line conclusion (vv. 30–31). The remaining 20 lines fall into two main divisions of ten lines each (vv. 6–15, 16–25). Of these, the second is thematically divided into two parts of five lines each, the first of which (vv. 16–20) catalogues what "he" has done while the second (vv. 21–25) describes how "I" am suffering.

109 title See note on Ps 4 title.

109:1–5 Appeal to God to deliver him from false accusers.

109:1 God of my praise. The one he publicly praises as his trustworthy deliverer and defender (see 22:3 and note; see also 35:18; 74:21; 76:10; 79:13; 102:18). silent. (Judicially) inactive (see 28:1; 35:22; 50:3,21; 83:1).

109:2–5 The particulars of his case, which he presents before the heavenly bar of justice (see 35:11–16).

109:2 opened the . . . mouth against me. See note on 5:9.

109:4 But I am in prayer. In contrast to the enemy (see vv. 16–18). The intent may be: But I have prayed for them (as in 35:13–14).

109:6–15 Appeal for judicial redress—that the Lord will deal with them in accordance with their malicious intent against him, matching punishment with crime (see note on 5:10; see also 35:4–10 and note).

109:6 wicked man . . . accuser. The psalmist's enemy falsely accused him in order to bring him down; now let the enemy be confronted by an accuser.

109:7 his prayer. The petitions he offers in his defense.

109:8 days be few. The false accuser was no doubt seeking to effect David's death (see 1 Kin 21:8–15). another take his office. The enemy held some official position and was perhaps plotting a coup. For a NT application of these words to Judas see Acts 1:20.

109:10–11 May he also be deprived of all his property so that he has no inheritance to pass on to his children.

109:12 none to extend lovingkindness. See v. 16. his . . . children. The close identity of a man with his children and of children with their parents, resulting from the tightly bonded unity of the three- or four-generation households of that ancient society, is alien to the modern reader, whose sense of self is highly individualistic. But that deep, profoundly human bond accounts for the ancient legal principle of "visiting the iniquity of the fathers on the children, on the third and the fourth generations" (see Ex 20:5; but see also 103:17; Gen 18:19).

109:13 Since a man lived on in his children (see previous note), the focus of judgment remains on the false accuser (see 21:10; 37:28). name be blotted out. See note on 9:5.

109:14–15 iniquity of his fathers . . . sin of his mother . . . them. These verses return to the theme of vv. 7–8 (and thus form a frame around the stanza): May the indictment the accuser lodges against him include the sins of his parents (see note on v. 12).

That He may [b]cut off their memory
from the earth;
16 Because he did not remember to show
lovingkindness,
But persecuted the [a]afflicted and needy man,
And the [b]despondent in heart, to [c]put them to death.
17 He also loved cursing, so [a]it came to
him;
And he did not delight in blessing, so it was far from him.
18 But he [a]clothed himself with cursing
as with his garment,
And it [b]entered into [1]his body like water
And like oil into his bones.
19 Let it be to him as [a]a garment with which he covers himself,
And for a belt with which he constantly [b]girds himself.
20 [1]Let this be the [a]reward of my accusers from the LORD,
And of those who [b]speak evil against my soul.

21 But You, O [1]GOD, the Lord, deal kindly with me [a]for Your name's sake;
Because [b]Your lovingkindness is good,
deliver me;
22 For [a]I am afflicted and needy,
And [1]my heart is [b]wounded within me.
23 I am passing [a]like a shadow when it lengthens;
I am shaken off [b]like the locust.

109:15 cut off their memory. May this slanderer be the last of their family line.
109:16–20 The ruthless character of the enemy—may he be made to suffer the due consequences (see 10:2–15; 59:12–13). Accusation of the adversary is a common feature in psalms that are appeals to the heavenly Judge (see, e.g., 5:9–10; 10:2–11; 17:10–12).
109:17 cursing. The enemy added curses to lies (see note on 10:7).
109:18 into his body like water, And like oil into his bones. Cursing was his food and drink as well as his clothing; he lived by cursing (see Prov 4:17).
109:21–25 The intensity of "my" suffering—Lord, deliver me!
109:21 for Your name's sake. See notes on 5:11; 23:3. lovingkindness. See v. 26; see also note on 6:4.
109:22 The psalmist's description of his situation echoes the words of v. 16. afflicted and needy. Dependent on the Lord (see note on 34:6). heart. See note on 4:7. is wounded. The Hebrew for this phrase sounds like the Hebrew for "cursing" in vv. 17–18, a deliberate wordplay—while he lives by cursing, I live with deep inward pain.
109:23 I am passing. Apparently the psalmist suffers a life-sapping affliction, which is the occasion for his enemies to turn on him (see vv. 24–25; see also note on 5:9). like a shadow. See 102:11. shaken off. See Neh 5:13; Job 38:13.
109:26–29 Concluding petition, with many echoes of preceding themes.
109:28 servant. Perhaps identifies the psalmist as the Lord's anointed (see title; see also 78:70 and note).
109:30–31 A vow to praise the Lord for His deliverance (see note on 7:17).
Ps 110 Oracles concerning the Messianic King-Priest. This psalm (specifically its two brief oracles, vv. 1,4) is frequently referred to in the NT testimony to Christ. Like Ps 2, it has the marks of a coronation psalm, composed for use at the enthronement of a new Davidic king. Before the Christian era Jews already viewed it as Messianic. Because of the manner in which it has been interpreted in the NT—especially by Jesus (see Matt 22:43–45; Mark 12:36–37; Luke 20:42–44), but also by Peter (see Acts 2:34–36) and the author of Hebrews (see especially Heb 1:13; 5:6–10; 7:11–28)—Christians have generally held that this is the most directly "prophetic" of all the psalms. If so, David, speaking prophetically (see 2 Sam 23:2), composed a coronation psalm for his great future Son, of whom the prophets did not speak until later. It may be, however, that David composed the psalm for the coronation of his son Solomon, that he called him "my Lord" (v. 1) in view of his new status, which placed him above the aged David, and that in so doing he spoke a word that had far larger meaning than he knew. This would seem to be in more accord with what we know of David from Samuel, Kings and Chronicles. See introduction to Ps 101.

The psalm falls into two precisely balanced halves (vv. 1–3, 4–7). Each of the two brief oracles (vv. 1,4) is followed by thematically similar elaboration.

110:1–3 The Lord's decree, establishing His anointed as His regent in the face of all opposition (see 2:7–12).

110:1 The first oracle (see note on v. 4). my Lord. My sovereign, therefore superior to David (see Matt 22:44–45; Mark 12:36–37; Luke 20:42–44; Acts 2:34–35; Heb 1:13 and their contexts). Sit. Sit enthroned. right hand. The place of honor beside a king (see 45:9; 1 Kin 2:19); thus he is made second in authority to God Himself. NT references to Jesus' exaltation to this position are many (see Matt 26:64; Mark 14:62; 16:19; Luke 22:69; Acts 2:33; 5:31; 7:55–56; Rom 8:34; Eph 1:20; Col 3:1; Heb 1:3; 8:1; 10:12; 12:2). enemies. See note on 2:1–3. footstool for Your feet. See Heb 10:12–13. Ancient kings often had themselves portrayed as placing their feet on vanquished enemies (see Josh 10:24). For a royal footstool as part of the throne see 2 Chr 9:18. For the thought here see 1 Kin 5:3. Paul applies this word to Christ in 1 Cor 15:25; Eph 1:22.

110:2 stretch forth Your strong scepter. Expand Your reign in ever widening circles until no foe remains to oppose Your rule. Zion. David's royal city (see 2 Sam 5:7,9), but also God's (see 9:11 and note), where He rules as the Great King (see Ps 46; 48; 132:13–18). The Lord's anointed is His regent over His emerging kingdom in the world.

110:3 volunteer freely. Lit."freewill offerings," i.e., they will offer themselves as dedicated warriors to support You on the battlefield (see Judg 5:2)—as the Israelites offered of their treasures for the building of the tabernacle in the wilderness (see Ex 35:29; 36:3; see also Ezra 1:4; 2:68). Accordingly, Paul speaks of Christ's followers offering their bodies as "a living and holy sacrifice" (Rom 12:1) and of himself as a "drink offering" (Phil 2:17); see also 2 Cor 8:5. holy array . . . dew. See NASB marg. If the text is descriptive of the Lord's anointed, as seems likely, it depicts Him as clothed in royal majesty and glory and perpetually preserving the bloom of youth even as the "womb of the dawn" gives birth each morning to the dew (for a different use of this imagery see Is 26:19). If it speaks of the young warriors who flock to Him, it apparently describes them as dressed in priestly garb, ready for participation in a holy war (see 1 Sam 21:4–5; 25:28; 2 Chr 13:8,12; 20:15,21; Is 13:3–4; Jer 6:4; 51:27), and pouring into His camp morning by morning as copious as the dew (see 2 Sam 17:11–12). holy array. See note on 29:2.

110:4–7 The Lord's oath establishing His anointed as king-priest in Zion and assuring Him victory over all powers that oppose Him.

110:4 The second oracle (see note on v. 1). has sworn. In accordance also with His sworn covenant to maintain David's royal line forever (see 89:35–37). The force of this oath is elaborated by the author of Hebrews (Heb 6:16–18; 7:20–22). priest . . . order of Melchizedek. David and his royal sons, as chief representatives of the rule of God, performed many worship-focused activities, such as overseeing the ark of the covenant (see 2 Sam 6:1–15, especially v. 14; 1 Kin 8:1), building and overseeing the temple (see 1 Kin 5–7; 2 Kin 12:4–7; 22:3–7; 23:4–7; 2 Chr 15:8; 24:4–12; 29:3–11; 34:8) and overseeing the work of the priests and Levites and the temple liturgy (see 1 Chr 6:31; 15:11–16; 16:4–42; 23:3–31; 25:1; 2 Chr 17:7–9; 19:8–11; 29:25,30; 31:2; 35:15–16; Ezra 3:10; 8:20; Neh 12:24,36,45). In all these duties they exercised authority over even the high priest. But they could not engage in those specifically priestly functions that had been assigned to the Aaronic priesthood (see 2 Chr 26:16–18). In the present oracle the son of David is installed by God as king-priest in Zion after the manner of Melchizedek, the king-priest of God Most High at Jerusalem in the days of Abraham (see Gen 14:18). As such a king-priest, He was appointed to a higher order of priesthood than that of Aaron and his sons. (For the union of king and priest in one person see Zech 6:13.) What this means for Christ's priesthood is the main theme of Heb 7. forever. Permanently and irrevocably; perhaps alluded to in John 12:34.

110:5 The Lord is at Your right hand. God is near to assist you in your warfare (see v. 2; 109:31). Some take these words as an address to God: The Lord (David's superior son) is at your (God's) right hand (as in v. 1). in the day of His wrath. See 2:5 and note.

110:6 He. The Lord's anointed. fill them with corpses. Battlefield imagery (borrowed from David's victories) that depicts the victory of the Lord's anointed over all powers that oppose the kingdom of God (see 2:9; Rev 19:11–21).

110:7 drink from the brook. Even in the heat of battle He will find refreshment and lift up His head with undiminished vigor (see note on v. 3).

Ps 111 Praise of God for His unfailing righteousness. The psalm combines hymnic praise with wisdom instruction, as its first and last verses indicate. Close comparison with Ps 112 shows that these two psalms are twins, probably written by the same author and intended to be kept together. The two psalms are most likely postexilic. They introduce a series of Hallelujah psalms (Ps 111–118), but stand apart from them in traditional Jewish liturgical use (see introduction to Ps 113). Structurally, both Ps 111 and Ps 112 are alphabetic acrostics, but unique in that each (Hebrew) half-line advances the alphabet. Both psalms are framed by first and last verses that highlight their primary themes, and in both psalms the main body develops the theme introduced by the first verse, while the closing verse adds a counterpart. In both psalms the main body of eight verses falls thematically into two halves of four verses each, with the corresponding verses of each half containing certain thematic links (compare, e.g., 111:2 and 111:6; also vv. 5 and 9).

Corresponding verses of the two psalms also tend to share common themes (compare, e.g., 111:3–5 with 112:3–5).

111:1 I will give thanks. Introductory to the praise that follows in vv. 2–9. company of the upright. Probably a more intimate circle than the assembly (see 107:32 for a similar distinction) and referring to those who are truly godly—such as the "upright" of 112:2,4 (see 11:7; 33:1; 49:14; 97:11; 107:42; 140:13). in the assembly. See note on 9:1.

111:2 works of the LORD. The hymn focuses especially on what God has done for His people. Verses 2,9 sum it up. studied. Reflectively examined (see Ezra 10:16, "investigate"; Eccl 1:13, "seek").

111:3 righteousness. As embodied in His deeds (see note on 4:1).

111:4 wonders. See note on 9:1. gracious and compassionate. See Ex 34:6–7 and note.

111:5 given food. Illustrative of His bountiful provisions for the daily needs of His people (as in the Lord's prayer: "Give us this day our daily bread," Matt 6:11). fear. See v. 10 and note. His covenant. See v. 9; see also 105:8–11.

111:6 Cf. v. 2.

111:7 truth and justice. Cf. "Splendid and majestic" (v. 3). precepts are sure. See note on 93:5.

111:8 They. "The works of His hands" (v. 7). truth and uprightness. Cf. "gracious and compassionate" (v. 4).

111:9 sent redemption. The other great benefit of God's deeds in behalf of His people (cf. "has given food," v. 5). Holy and awesome. As shown by His works. name. See note on 5:11.

111:10 Concluding word of godly wisdom. The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom. The classic OT statement concerning the religious basis of what it means to be wise (see Job 28:28; Prov 1:7; 9:10; see also note on Gen 20:11). who do His commandments. Lit. "who do them." The plural Hebrew pronoun refers back to "precepts" in v. 7 (see 19:7–9, where "The fear of the LORD" stands parallel to "testimony," "precepts," "commandment," "judgments"; see also 112:1).

Ps 112 A eulogy to the godly man—in the spirit of Ps 1 but formed after the pattern of Ps 111 and likely intended as its complement (see introduction to Ps 111).

112:1 The basic theme, developed more fully in vv. 2–9. Verse 10 states its converse. See 1:1–2; 128:1. blessed. See note on 1:1. fears the LORD. See 34:8–14 and note.

112:2 decendants. The godly man brings blessing to his children and is himself blessed through them (cf. v. 6; see 37:26; 127:3–5; 128:3; see also note on 109:12). will be mighty. Will be persons of influence and reputation.

112:3 Wealth and riches. See 1:3; 128:2. righteousness. See v. 9; see also note on 1:5. endures. It is not an occasional characteristic of his actions (see "steadfast," v. 7).

112:4 Light. See note on 27:1. darkness. A metaphor for calamitous times (see 107:10 and note). gracious and compassionate. See Ex 34:6–7 and note.

112:5 It is well with. Well-being and prosperity (see 34:8–14 and note). gracious and lends. See v. 9; see also 111:5.

112:6 shaken. See note on 10:6. remembered forever. His righteousness will have erected an enduring memorial of honor in the memory of both God and man (see v. 2 and note).

112:7 heart. See v. 8; see also note on 4:7. trusting. His trust in God will be as steadfast as His righteousness is enduring (see v. 3). For trust and obedience to God's righteous will as the sum of true godliness see 34:8–14 and note.

112:8 looks with satisfaction. "Light arises in the darkness" (v. 4).

112:9 given freely to the poor. See v. 5. exalted in honor. As God's name is held in holy awe (see 111:9), so the godly man will be held in honor.

112:10 The counterpart. see it and be vexed. That godliness is the way to blessedness is the reverse of the expectations of the wicked (see 10:2–11; 107:42). will perish. See 1:4–6; see also Ps 37; cf. 111:10.

Ps 113 A hymn to the Lord celebrating His high majesty and His mercies to the lowly (see 138:6). It was probably composed originally for the temple liturgy. This psalm begins the "Egyptian Hallel" (Ps 113–118), which came to be used in Jewish liturgy at the great religious festivals (Passover, Weeks, Booths, Dedication, New Moon; see Lev 23; Num 10:10; John 10:22; see also chart, pp. 164–165). At Passover, Ps 113 and 114 were sung before the meal and Ps 115–118 after the meal. (See introduction to Ps 111.)

Three precisely balanced thematic stanzas (each having three verses) give the psalm a pleasing symmetry. With seven (the number of completeness) verbs the author celebrates God's praise in stanzas two and three ("is high," "is enthroned on high," "humbles Himself," "raises," "lifts," "make them sit," "makes abide")—and note the fourfold praise in the first stanza. At the center (v. 5; see note on 6:6) a rhetorical question focuses and heightens the hymnic theme.

113:1b–3 The fourfold call to praise.

113:1 name of the LORD. See vv. 2–3. Triple repetition was a common liturgical convention (see note on 96:1–3). name. See note on 5:11.

113:2 this time forth and forever. The praise of those who truly praise the Lord cannot rest content until it fills all time—and space (v. 3).

113:4–6 The Lord is enthroned on high, exalted over all creation.

113:4 See the refrain in 57:5,11. above all nations. And implicitly over all their gods (see 95:3; 96:4–5; 97:9; see also 47:2,7–8). above the heavens. Above even the most exalted aspect of the creation (see v. 6).

113:5 The rhetorical center (see note on 6:6). our God. What grace, that He has covenanted to be "our" God (see Gen 17:7; Ex 19:5–6; 20:2)!

113:7–9 The Lord exalts the lowly—the God of highest majesty does not ally Himself with the high and mighty of the earth but stands with and raises up the poor and needy (see 1 Sam 2:3–8; Luke 1:46–55).

113:7–8 Repeated almost verbatim from 1 Sam 2:8.

113:7 poor . . . needy. See 9:18; 34:6 and notes. dust . . . ash heap. Symbolic of a humble status (see Gen 18:27; 1 Kin 16:2), but here probably also of extreme distress and need (see Job 30:19; 42:6; Is 47:1; Jer 25:34).

113:9 barren woman. In that ancient society barrenness was for a woman the greatest disgrace and the deepest tragedy (see Gen 30:1; 1 Sam 1:6–7,10); in her old age she would be as desolate as Naomi because she would have no one to sustain her (see Ruth 1:11–13; see also 2 Kin 4:14). house. Family circle. joyful mother. Because of God's gracious provision, as in the case of Sarah (see Gen 21:2), Rebekah (see Gen 25:21), Rachel (see Gen 30:23), Hannah (see 1 Sam 1:20), the Shunammite (see 2 Kin 4:17) and others. Praise the LORD! Probably once stood at the beginning of Ps 114, which now lacks a Hallelujah.

Ps 114 A hymnic celebration of the exodus—one of the most exquisitely fashioned songs of the Psalter. It probably dates from the period of the monarchy sometime after the division of the kingdom (see v. 2). No doubt it was composed for liturgical use at the temple during one of the annual religious festivals (see introduction to Ps 113). The theme is progressively developed through four balanced thematic stanzas, reaching its climax in the fourth. The first two stanzas (vv. 1–4) recall the great events of the exodus; the last two (vv. 5–8) celebrate their continuing significance.

114:1–2 The great OT redemptive event.

114:1 Israel . . . house of Jacob. Synonyms (see Ex 19:3). went forth from Egypt. Recalls the exodus and all the great events of the wilderness journey.

114:2 Judah . . . Israel. The southern and northern kingdoms, viewed here as the one people of God. became. The crucial event was the establishment of the covenant at Sinai, where Israel became bound to the Lord as a "kingdom of priests and a holy nation" (Ex 19:3–6). His. The "antecedent" is not expressed until the climax (v. 7). sanctuary. His temple in which He took up His residence in the world—symbolized by the tabernacle, later the temple. In Ex 15:17 the promised land is similarly called God's sanctuary. dominion. The special realm over which He ruled as King. This, rather than the exodus itself, was the great wonder of God's grace.

114:3–4 The author evokes a fearsome scene such as that portrayed by other poets (see 18:7–15; 68:7–8; 77:16–19; Judg 5:4–5; Hab 3:3–10).

114:3 sea . . . Jordan. The Red Sea and the Jordan River, through which the Lord brought His people—here they are personified. looked and fled. Saw the mighty God approach in His awesome pillar of cloud and fled.

114:4 skipped. Or "leaped"; the mountains and hills quaked at God's approach (see 29:6).

114:7–8 The Lord of yesterday (vv. 5–6)—the God of Jacob—is still with us.

114:7 Tremble. In awesome recognition. earth. All creation. Jacob. A synonym for Israel (see Gen 32:28).

114:8 turned the rock into a pool. Thus sustaining and refreshing life (see Ex 17:6; Num 20:11).

Ps 115 Praise of the Lord, the one true God, for His love and faithfulness toward His people. It was composed as a liturgy of praise for the temple worship. It may have been written for use at the dedication of the second temple (see Ezra 6:16) when Israel was beginning to revive after the disruption of the exile. See introduction to Ps 113. Structurally, the song advances in five movements involving a liturgical exchange between the people and temple personnel: (1) vv. 1–8: the people; (2) vv. 9–11: Levitical choir leader (the refrain perhaps spoken by the Levitical choir); (3) vv. 12–13: the people; (4) vv. 14–15: the priests; (5) vv. 16–18: the people.

115:1–8 Praise of God's love and faithfulness toward His people, which silences the taunts of the nations.

115:1 Not to us . . . not to us. Israel's existence, and now her revival, is not her own achievement. name. See note on 5:11. lovingkindness . . . truth. The most common OT expression for God's covenant benefits (see note on 26:3; see also NASB marg.). lovingkindness. See note on 6:4.

115:2 Where . . . is their God? The taunt of the nations when Israel is decimated by natural disasters (see Joel 2:17) or crushed by enemies, especially when Judah is destroyed and the temple of God razed (see 79:10; Mic 7:10).

115:3 is in the heavens. Sits enthroned (see 113:5) in the "heavens of the LORD" (v. 16). whatever He pleases. If Israel is decimated or destroyed, it is God's doing; it is not His failure or inability to act, nor is it the achievement of the idols the nations worship. And when Israel is revived, that is also God's doing, and no other god can oppose Him.

115:4–7 Whatever glory and power the false gods are thought to have (as symbolized in the images made to represent them), they are mere figments of human imagination and utterly worthless (see 135:15–18; Is 46:1–7).

115:8 Those who make them. The taunting nations (cf. v. 2). like them. Powerless and ineffectual. For a graphic elaboration of this truth see Is 44:9–20.

115:9–11 The call to trust in the Lord, not in idols (see v. 8). For triple repetition as a liturgical convention see note on 96:1–3. For the same groupings see 118:2–4; see also 135:19–20.

115:11 You who fear the LORD. Perhaps proselytes (see 1 Kin 8:41–43; Ezra 6:21; Neh 10:28).

115:12–13 The people's confession of trust.

115:14–15 The priestly blessing.

115:14 give you increase. In numbers, wealth and strength (cf. Eccl 2:9: "became great and increased more than").

115:16–18 The people's concluding doxology.

115:16 heavens . . . earth. The one the exclusive realm of the exalted, all-sovereign God; the other the divinely appointed

But [b]the earth He has given to the sons of men.
17 The [a]dead do not praise [1]the LORD, Nor do any who go down into [b]silence;
18 But as for us, we will [a]bless [1]the LORD From this time forth and forever. [2]Praise [1]the LORD!

Psalm 116

1 [a]I love the LORD, because He [b]hears My voice and my supplications.
2 Because He has [a]inclined His ear to me, Therefore I shall call upon Him as long as I live.
3 The [a]cords of death encompassed me And the [1]terrors of [2]Sheol [3]came upon me; I found distress and sorrow.
4 Then [a]I called upon the name of the LORD: "O LORD, I beseech You, [1b]save my life!"

5 [a]Gracious is the LORD, and [b]righteous; Yes, our God is [c]compassionate.
6 The LORD preserves [a]the simple; I was [b]brought low, and He saved me.
7 Return to your [a]rest, O my soul, For the LORD has [b]dealt bountifully with you.
8 For You have [a]rescued my soul from death, My eyes from tears, My feet from stumbling.
9 I shall walk before the LORD In the [1a]land of the living.
10 I [a]believed when I said, "I am [b]greatly afflicted."
11 I [a]said in my alarm, "[b]All men are liars."

12 What shall I [a]render to the LORD For all His [b]benefits [1]toward me?
13 I shall lift up the [a]cup of salvation And [b]call upon the name of the LORD.
14 I shall [a]pay my vows to the LORD, Oh may it be [b]in the presence of all His people.
15 [a]Precious in the sight of the LORD Is the death of His godly ones.

place for man, where he lives under God's rule and care, enjoys His abundant blessings (vv. 12–13) and celebrates His praise (v. 18).

115:17 dead do not. The dead no longer live in "the earth" (v. 16) but have descended to the silent realm below, where blessings are no longer enjoyed and hence praise is absent (see notes on 6:5; 30:1).

Ps 116 Praise of the Lord for deliverance from death. It may have been written by a king (see v. 16 and note; cf. also Hezekiah's thanksgiving, Is 38:10–20); its language echoes many of the psalms of David. As used in Jewish liturgy (see introduction to Ps 113), the singular personal pronoun must have been used corporately (see note on Ps 30 title), and the references to "death" may have been understood as alluding to the Egyptian bondage and/or the exile. This thanksgiving song falls into three main divisions (vv. 1–6, 7–14, 15–19), each of which contains a unified thematic development.

116:1–6 I love the Lord because He has heard and saved me.

116:2 I shall call upon Him. In Him I will trust and my prayers will ever be to Him—a declaration repeated in each of the main divisions (see vv. 13,17).

116:3–4 See 18:4–6.

116:3 cords of death. See note on 18:5.

116:5 our God. The author is conscious of those about him; he is praising the Lord "in the presence of all His people" (vv. 14,18).

116:6 simple. The person who is childlike in his sense of dependence on and trust in the Lord (see note on 19:7).

116:7–14 The Lord's goodness to me and how I will repay Him.

116:7 rest. A state of unthreatened well-being (cf. Jer 6:16; see 1 Kin 5:4; see also note on 23:2, "quiet waters"). O my soul. See note on 103:1–2,22. has dealt bountifully. The Hebrew underlying this phrase is the same as that underlying "benefits" in v. 12 (see note there) and so marks v. 7 as introductory to vv. 7–14.

116:8 my soul. Me (see note on 6:3).

116:10 I believed. The author speaks of his faith that moved him to call on the Lord when he was threatened. I am greatly afflicted. This and the quotation in v. 11 should perhaps be taken, together with the one in v. 4, as a brief recollection of the prayer offered when the psalmist was in distress. The threat of death from which he had been delivered was brought on by the false accusations of enemies, as in Ps 109 (see notes on 5:9; 10:7). (For another interpretation see following note.)

116:11 All men are liars. The heart of the accusation he had lodged against his false accusers (for examples of similar accusations see 5:9–10; 35:11,15; 109:2–4). Others interpret these words as a declaration that all men offer but a false hope for deliverance (see 60:11; 118:8–9)—therefore the psalmist called on the Lord.

116:12 What shall I render . . . ? Expressions of devotion He desires (compare vv. 13–14,17–18 with 50:14–15,23). benefits. The Hebrew for this word occurs only here in the OT, but represents the same basic root as "has dealt bountifully" in v. 7 (see note there).

116:13 cup of salvation. Often thought to be related to the cup of the Passover meal referred to in Matt 26:27 and parallels, but far more likely the cup of wine drunk at the festal meal that climaxed a thank offering (cf. 22:26,29; Lev 7:11–21)—called the "cup of salvation" because the thank offering and its meal celebrated deliverance by the Lord. See the parallel with "sacrifice of thanksgiving" in the corresponding series in vv. 17–18.

116:14 vows. To praise the Lord (see note on 7:17).

116:15–19 Because God has counted my life precious, I offer Him the expressions of my devotion.

116:15 Precious . . . Is the death. Not in the sense of highly valued but of that which is carefully watched over; cf. the analogous expression, "their blood will be precious in His sight" (72:14). godly ones. See note on 4:3.

116:16 Your servant. This may identify the psalmist as the Lord's anointed (see 78:70), but in any event as one devoted to the Lord (see 19:11,13). son of Your handmaid. See 86:16.

You have [c]loosed my bonds.
17 To You I shall offer [a]a sacrifice of thanksgiving,
And [b]call upon the name of the LORD.
18 I shall [a]pay my vows to the LORD,
Oh may it be in the presence of all His people,
19 In the [a]courts of the LORD's house,
In the midst of you, O [b]Jerusalem.

Ps 117 The shortest psalm in the Psalter—and the shortest chapter in the Bible—Ps 117 is an expanded Hallelujah (sometimes joined with Ps 118). It may originally have served as the conclusion to the preceding collection of Hallelujah psalms (Ps 111–116)—of which it is the seventh. All nations and peoples are called on to praise the Lord (as in 47:1; 67:3–5; 96:7; 98:4; 100:1; see note on 9:1) for His great love and enduring faithfulness toward Israel (see Is 12:4–6). Thus the Hallelujahs of the OT Psalter, when fully expounded, express that great truth, so often emphasized in the OT, that the destiny of all peoples is involved in what God was doing in and for His people Israel (see, e.g., 2:8–12; 47:9; 67:2; 72:17; 102:15; 110; Gen 12:3; Deut 32:43; 1 Kin 8:41–43; Is 2:2–4; 11:10; 14:2; 25:6–7; 52:15; 56:7; 60:3; 66:18–24; Jer 3:17; 16:19–21; 33:9; Amos 9:11–12; Mic 5:7–9; Zeph 3:8–9; Hag 2:7; Zech 2:10–11; 8:20–23; 9:9–10; 14:2–3; Mal 3:12). See introduction to Ps 113.

117:1 Quoted in Rom 15:11 as proof that the salvation of Gentiles and the glorifying of God by Gentiles was not a divine afterthought.

117:2 The reason for the praise. lovingkindness . . . truth. That is, lovingkindness-and-truth (see NASB marg.; 36:5 and note; also note on 3:7). lovingkindness. See note on 6:4.

Ps 118 A hymn of thanksgiving for deliverance from enemies. Of the many interpretations of this psalm, three have gained the most adherents (but with much variation in detail): 1. A Davidic king leads the nation in a liturgy of thanksgiving for deliverance and victory after a hard-fought battle with a powerful confederacy of nations (cf. 2 Chr 20:27–28; see note on v. 19). 2. Israel celebrates—probably at the Feast of Booths—her deliverance from Egypt and victory over the Canaanites. 3. The postexilic Jews celebrate deliverance from their enemies, either at the dedication of the second temple (see Ezra 6:16) or at the dedication of the rebuilt walls of Jerusalem (see Neh 12:37–43). According to the first interpretation, the speaker in vv. 5–21 is the king; according to the second and third, the speaker is the Levitical (or priestly) leader of the liturgy, speaking (representatively) on behalf of the people. The notes that follow assume the first interpretation. In the postexilic liturgy developed for the annual festivals (see introduction to Ps 113), the song was used as a thanksgiving for national deliverance. As the last song of that liturgy, it may have been the hymn sung by Jesus and His disciples at the conclusion of the Last Supper (see Matt 26:30).

Following a liturgical call to praise (vv. 1–4), the king offers a song of thanksgiving for deliverance and victory in battle (vv. 5–21). In vv. 22–27 the people rejoice over what the Lord has done. Thereafter, the king speaks his final word of praise (v. 28), and a liturgical conclusion (v. 29) repeats the opening call to praise, thus framing the whole service.

118:1–4 The liturgical call to praise.

118:1 A conventional call to praise (shared in whole or in part with Ps 105–107; 136; 1 Chr 16:8,34; 2 Chr 20:21). Give thanks. See note on Ps 100 title. This, together with vv. 2–4 (except for the refrain) and 29, may have been by the same voice that speaks in vv. 5–21. lovingkindness. See vv. 2–4,29; see also note on 6:4.

118:2–4 Israel . . . house of Aaron . . . those who fear the LORD. See 115:9–11 and note. Triple repetition is a common feature in this psalm (see note on 96:1–3).

118:5–21 The king's song of thanksgiving for deliverance and victory.

118:5 in a large place. See 18:19 and note ("broad place").

118:7 I will look. Or "I look."

118:8–9 See 33:16–19; see also Ps 62; 146.

118:10 In the name of the LORD. See 1 Sam 17:45. name. See vv. 11–12,26; see also note on 5:11.

118:12 as a fire of thorns. See 58:9 and note.

Psalm 119

א Aleph.

1 How blessed are those whose way is
[1][a]blameless,

Ps 18:28; 27:1; 1 Pet 2:9 [c]Ex 27:2 28 [a]Ps 63:1; 140:6 [b]Ex 15:2; Is 25:1 29 [a]Ps 118:1 119:1 [1]Lit complete; or having integrity [a]Ps 101:2, 6; Prov 11:20; 13:6

118:13 was falling. About to be killed (see vv. 17–18; see also note on 13:4).
118:14 Perhaps recalls the triumph song of Ex 15, but more likely the verse had become a widely used testimony of praise (see Is 12:2).
118:15 tents. Dwellings. righteous. Israel as the people (ideally) committed in heart and life to the Lord (see v. 20; see also 68:3 and note). Cf. "the tents of wickedness" (84:10).
118:17 live, And tell. See 115:17–18; see also note on 6:5.
118:18 disciplined me. The king acknowledges that the grave threat through which he has passed has also served God's purpose—to discipline him and teach him humble godliness (see 6:1; 38:1; 94:12; Deut 4:36; 8:5).
118:19 Open to me. This line suggests a liturgical procession (see v. 27) in which the king approaches the inner court of the temple at the head of the jubilant worshipers (see Ps 24; 68). gates. Those leading to the inner temple court. of righteousness. Often thought to be the name of a particular gateway, but more likely only descriptive here of the gate through which "the righteous will enter" (v. 20). It is possible that the procession began outside the city and that "the gates of righteousness" are the gates of Jerusalem, the city of God (see note on 24:7; see also Is 26:2).
118:21 This closing verse of the thanksgiving song echoes the "Give thanks" of v. 1, the "answered . . . me" of v. 5 and the testimony of v. 14.
118:22–27 The people's exultation.
118:22 The stone . . . the builders rejected. Most likely a reference to the king (whose deliverance and victory are being celebrated), who had been looked on with disdain by the kings invading his realm—the builders of worldly empires. Others suppose that the stone refers to Israel, a nation held in contempt by the world powers. chief corner stone. Lit. "head of the corner"—either a capstone over a door (a large stone used as a lintel), or a large stone used to anchor and align the corner of a wall, or the keystone of an arch (see Zech 4:7; 10:4). By a wordplay (pun) the author hints at "chief ruler" (the Hebrew word for "corner" is sometimes used as a metaphor for leader/ruler; see Is 19:13; see also Judg 20:2; 1 Sam 14:38). This stone, disdained by the worldly powers, has become the most important stone in the structure of the new world order that God is bringing about through Israel. Jesus applied this verse (and v. 23) to Himself (see Matt 21:42; Mark 12:10–11; Luke 20:17; see also Acts 4:11; Eph 2:20; 1 Pet 2:7).
118:24 day which the LORD has made . . . rejoice. This day of rejoicing was made possible by God's deliverance in the victory being celebrated. Others suppose a reference to Passover or the Feast of Booths. has made. Or "has done it" (see vv. 15–17, 23)—has made the "stone" the "corner stone" (v. 22).
118:25 Prayer for the Lord to continue to save and sustain His people.
118:26 who comes in the name of the LORD. The one who with God's help had defeated the enemies "in the name of the LORD" (see vv. 10–12). from the house of the LORD. From God's very presence (see 134:3). you. The plural ("you" is plural in the Hebrew) may have been used to exalt the king (the plural was often used with reference to God), whom God had so singularly blessed (as in 1 Kin 9:6). Alternatively, it may refer to those who have come with the king victoriously from the battle. The crowds who greeted Jesus at His Triumphal Entry into Jerusalem used the words of vv. 25–26 (see John 12:13).
118:27 He has given us light. An echo of the priestly benediction (see Num 6:25). Bind . . . with cords. Apparently a call to complete the climax of the liturgy of a thank offering (see Lev 7:11–21), though others suggest the liturgy of the Feast of Booths.
118:28–29 See introduction.

7 [a]Ps 119:62 8 [a]Ps 38:21; 71:9, 18 9 [a]1 Kin 2:4; 8:25; 2 Chr 6:16 10 [a]2 Chr 15:15; Ps 119:2, 145

Israelite of exemplary piety (probably postexilic) who (1) was passionately devoted to the word of God as the word of life; (2) humbly acknowledged, nevertheless, the errant ways of his heart and life; (3) knew the pain—but also the fruits—of God's corrective discipline; and (4) had suffered much at the hands of those who arrogantly disregarded God's word and made him the target of their hostility, ridicule and slander. It is possible that he was a priest (see notes on vv. 23,57)—and the psalm might well be a vehicle for priestly instruction in godliness. He elaborated on the themes of 19:7–13 and interwove with them many prayers for deliverance, composing a massive alphabetic acrostic (the psalm is an acrostic poem; the verses of each stanza begin with the same letter of the Hebrew alphabet) that demands patient, meditative reading. In regard to length, form and type it stands alone in the Psalter. And of all the psalms, this one is the most likely to have been composed originally in writing and intended to be read rather than sung or recited. Most of its lines are addressed to God, mingling prayers with professions of devotion to God's law. Yet, as the opening verses (and perhaps also its elaborate acrostic form) make clear, it was intended for godly instruction (in the manner of Ps 1; see v. 9 and note). It was included in the Psalter no doubt as a model of piety.

Whereas elsewhere in the Psalter the focus falls primarily on God's mighty acts of creation and redemption and His rule over all the world, here devotion to the word of God (and the God of the word) is the dominant theme. The author highlights two aspects of that word: (1) God's directives for life and (2) God's promises—the one calling for obedience, the other for faith (the two elements of true godliness; see 34:8–14 and note). In referring to these, he makes use of eight Hebrew terms supplied him by OT traditions: torah, "law"; 'edot, "statutes"; piqqudim, "precepts"; miṣwot, "commands, commandments"; mishpaṭim, "laws" (all shared with 19:7–9; mishpaṭim is translated "judgments" in 19:9); ḥuqqim, "decrees"; dabar, "word" (sometimes in the sense of "law," sometimes in the sense of "promise"); 'imrah, "word," but more often "promise." These terms he distributes throughout the 22 stanzas (using all eight in He, Waw, Heth, Yodh, Kaph, Pe—never using less than six), employing a different order in each stanza. It may be that the availability of these eight terms determined (in large part) for the author the decision to devote eight verses to each letter of the alphabet. The alphabetic acrostic form, especially one as elaborate as this, may appear arbitrary and artificial to a modern reader (as if the author merely selected a traditional form from the poet's workshop and then labored to fill it with pious sentences), but a sympathetic and reflective reading of this devotional will compel a more favorable judgment. The author had a theme that filled his soul, a theme as big as life, that ranged the length and breadth and height and depth of a person's walk with God. Nothing less than the use of the full power of language would suffice, and of that the alphabet was a most apt symbol.

Apart from the obvious formal structure dictated by the chosen acrostic form, little need (or can) be said. It must be noted, however, that the first three and the last three verses were designed as introduction and conclusion to the whole. The former sets the tone of instruction in godly wisdom; the latter succinctly restates and summarizes the main themes. It may also be observed that the middle of the psalm has been marked by a similar three-verse introduction to the second half (see note on vv. 89–91). For the rest, the thought meanders, turns back upon itself and repeats (with varied nuances). The following notes point out continuities of thought and possible structure within stanzas.

119:1–3 General introduction.

119:1–2 blessed. See note on 1:1.

119:1 whose way is blameless. This opening general description is further elaborated in the rest of the introduction, which concludes with an equally general statement: "They walk in His ways" (v. 3). See Gen 17:1; cf. Gen 26:5. law. Hebrew torah, a collective term for God's covenant directives for His people (see Deut 4:44). "Law" often came, especially later, to have a broader reference—the whole Pentateuch (see Luke 24:44) or even the whole OT (see John 15:25; 1 Cor 14:21)—but here it is limited by the synonyms with which it is used interchangeably.

119:2 testimonies. Hebrew 'edot, a specifically covenantal term referring to stipulations laid down by the covenant Lord (see 25:10; Deut 4:45). heart. See v. 7; see also note on 4:7.

119:3 ways. The Hebrew for this word occurs only rarely in this psalm, but is common in Deuteronomy and elsewhere as a general reference to God's covenant requirements (see note on 25:4)—used here to balance "way" in v. 1.

119:4–8 Those who obey God's law (see vv. 4–5,8) can hope for God's help (see vv. 6–8).

119:4 precepts. Hebrew piqqudim, covenant regulations laid down by the Lord (see 19:8; 111:7).

119:5 statutes. Hebrew ḥuqqim, covenant directives (see Deut 6:2; 28:15,45; 30:10,16; 1 Kin 11:11), emphasizing their fixed character.

119:6 not be ashamed. The psalmist would not suffer poverty or sickness, or humiliation at the hands of his enemies, and so become the object of sneers (see vv. 31,46,80; 25:2–3,20), but he would have reason to praise the Lord (see v. 7) for blessings received and deliverances granted because the Lord does not forsake him (see v. 8). look upon. Respect, have regard for (see v. 15; 74:20). commandments. Hebrew miṣwot, covenant directives (see Ex 20:6; 24:12; Deut 4:2), designated specifically as that which God has commanded.

119:7 righteous. One of the author's favorite characterizations of God's law (see vv. 62,75,106,123,144,160,164; see also 19:9). judgments. Hebrew mishpaṭim, covenant directives (see Ex 21:1; 24:3; Deut 4:1), as the laws laid down by a ruler (king).

119:8 not forsake me. Not abandon me to poverty, sickness or my enemies.

Do not let me [b]wander from Your commandments.
11 Your word I have [a]treasured in my heart,
That I may not sin against You.
12 Blessed are You, O LORD;
[a]Teach me Your statutes.
13 With my lips I have [a]told of
All the [b]ordinances of Your mouth.
14 I have [a]rejoiced in the way of Your testimonies,
[1]As much as in all riches.
15 I will [a]meditate on Your precepts
And [1]regard [b]Your ways.
16 I shall [1][a]delight in Your statutes;
I shall [b]not forget Your word.

ג Gimel.

17 [a]Deal bountifully with Your servant,
That I may live and keep Your word.
18 Open my eyes, that I may behold
Wonderful things from Your law.
19 I am a [a]stranger in the earth;
Do not hide Your commandments from me.
20 My soul is crushed [1][a]with longing
After Your ordinances at all times.
21 You [a]rebuke the arrogant, [1]the [b]cursed,
Who [c]wander from Your commandments.
22 [a]Take away reproach and contempt from me,
For I [b]observe Your testimonies.
23 Even though [a]princes sit and talk against me,
Your servant [b]meditates on Your statutes.
24 Your testimonies also are my [a]delight;
They are [1]my counselors.

ד Daleth.

25 My [a]soul cleaves to the dust;
[b]Revive me [c]according to Your word.
26 I have told of my ways, and You have answered me;

27 Make me understand the way of Your precepts,
So I will [a]meditate on Your wonders.
28 My [a]soul [1]weeps because of grief;

29 Remove the false way from me,
And graciously grant me Your law.
30 I have chosen the faithful way;
I have [1]placed Your ordinances before me.

119:9 young man. Some have thought this a characterization of the author, but more likely it indicates instruction addressed to the young after the manner of the wisdom teachers (see 34:11; Prov 1:4; Eccl 11:9; 12:1). pure. Free from all moral taint (see 73:13). word. Hebrew dabar, a general designation for God's (word) revelation, but here used with special reference to His law (sometimes promises).

119:10 heart. See v. 11; see also note on 4:7. I have sought You. The author's devotion is first of all to the God of the law and the promises; they have meaning for him only because they are God's word of life for him.

119:11 word. Hebrew 'imrah, a synonym of dabar ("word"; see note on v. 9; see also Deut 33:9; Prov 30:5).

119:13 have told. Either in meditation or in liturgies of covenant commitment to the Lord (see 50:16).

119:14 As much as in all riches. See vv. 72,111,162.

119:15 ways. The Hebrew for this word is a synonym of the Hebrew for "way" in v. 3 (the two Hebrew words parallel each other in 25:4).

119:17–24 Devotion to God's law marks the Lord's servant, but alienates him from the arrogant (v. 21) of the world.

119:17 I may . . . keep. Out of gratitude for God's care and blessing.

119:18 Wonderful things. Usually ascribed to God's redeeming acts (see 9:1 and note)—but God's law contains matters just as wonderful (see v. 27).

119:19 stranger in the earth. As a servant of the Lord, i.e., a citizen of His kingdom, he is not at home in any of the kingdoms of the world (see 39:12 and note; see also note on v. 54).

119:20 My soul is. I am (see vv. 28,81; see also note on 6:3).

119:21 the arrogant. Those who are a law to themselves, most fully described in 10:2–11 (see vv. 51,69,78,85,122; see also note on 31:23). The author has suffered much from their hostility because of his zeal for God and His law, as the next two verses and many others indicate. cursed. Ripe for God's judgment.

119:22 reproach and contempt. Of the arrogant.

119:23 princes. Because the author mentions also speaking "before kings" (v. 46) and being persecuted by "princes" (v. 161), it may be that he held some official position, such as priest (one of whose functions it would have been to teach God's law; see Lev 10:11; Ezra 7:6; Neh 8:2–8; Jer 2:8; 18:18; Mal 2:7; see also note on v. 57). (These kings and rulers are probably either Israelite from the time of the monarchy or Persian in the postexilic period.) sit. As those securely settled in the world—not as strangers (cf. v. 19). talk against me. As they share their worldly counsels, they speak derisively of the one who stands apart because he delights in God's statutes and makes them his "counselors" (v. 24).

119:25–32 Regardless of his circumstances, he is determined to "cling to" (v. 31) God's word.

119:25 cleaves to the dust. The author speaks much of his sorrow, suffering and affliction (see vv. 28,50,67,71,75,83,92, 107,143,153). It is likely that the ridicule, slander and persecution from his adversaries are usually occasioned by this suffering of God's devoted servant, who makes God's word (His law and promises) the hope of his life (see vv. 42,51,65,69,78,85,95, 110,134,141,150,154,157,161; see also notes on v. 6; 5:9; 31:11–12). See 44:25 and note. word. Especially its promises, as also in vv. 28,37,42,49,65,74,81,107,114,147.

119:27 wonders. See note on v. 18.

119:29 false way. The way that seems right but leads to death (see Prov 14:12)—in contrast to the way prescribed by God's law, which is trustworthy (see vv. 86,138) and true (see vv. 142,151,160). grant me Your law. By keeping me true to Your law, let me enjoy Your blessings.

119:30 faithful way. See note on v. 29.

O LORD, do not put me to shame!
32 I shall run the way of Your commandments,
For You will [a]enlarge my heart.

ה He.

33 [a]Teach me, O LORD, the way of Your statutes,
And I shall observe it to the end.
34 [a]Give me understanding, that I may [b]observe Your law
And keep it [c]with all my heart.
35 Make me walk in the [a]path of Your commandments,
For I [b]delight in it.
36 [a]Incline my heart to Your testimonies
And not to [b]dishonest gain.
37 Turn away my [a]eyes from looking at vanity,
And [b]revive me in Your ways.
38 [a]Establish Your [1]word to Your servant,
[2]As that which produces reverence for You.
39 [a]Turn away my reproach which I dread,
For Your ordinances are good.
40 Behold, I [a]long for Your precepts;
Revive me through Your righteousness.

ו Vav.

41 May Your [a]lovingkindnesses also come to me, O LORD,
Your salvation [b]according to Your [1]word;
42 So I will have an [a]answer for him who [b]reproaches me,
For I trust in Your word.
43 And do not take the word of truth utterly out of my mouth,
For I [1a]wait for Your ordinances.
44 So I will [a]keep Your law continually,
Forever and ever.
45 And I will [a]walk [1]at liberty,
For I [b]seek Your precepts.
46 I will also speak of Your testimonies [a]before kings
And shall not be ashamed.
47 I shall [1a]delight in Your commandments,
Which I [b]love.
48 And I shall lift up my hands to Your commandments,
Which I [a]love;
And I will [b]meditate on Your statutes.

49 Remember the word to Your servant,
[1]In which You have made me hope.
50 This is my [a]comfort in my affliction,
That Your word has [1]revived me.
51 The arrogant [a]utterly deride me,
Yet I do not [b]turn aside from Your law.
52 I have [a]remembered Your ordinances from [1]of old, O LORD,
And comfort myself.
53 Burning [a]indignation has seized me because of the wicked,
Who [b]forsake Your law.
54 Your statutes are my songs

55 O LORD, I [a]remember Your name [b]in the night,

119:31 put me to shame. See note on v. 6.
119:32 enlarge my heart. Expand my heart with joy (see Is 60:5). Others translate it "increase my understanding" (see 1 Kin 4:29, "breadth of mind"). heart. See note on 4:7.
119:33–40 Prayer for instruction in God's will as he longs for His precepts.
119:34 heart. See v. 36; see also note on 4:7.
119:36–37 heart . . . eyes. See 101:2b–3a and note.
119:38 produces reverence for You. The Lord's saving acts in fulfillment of His promises contribute to the recognition that He is the true God (see 130:4; 2 Sam 7:25–26; 1 Kin 8:39–40; Jer 33:8–9).

119:41 lovingkindnesses. See vv. 64,76,88,124,149,159; see also note on 6:4.
119:42 him who reproaches me. See note on v. 25 ("cleaves to the dust"). word. See note on v. 25.

119:46 before kings. Such will be his boldness (see note on v. 23).
119:48 I shall lift up my hands to. An act accompanying praise (as in 63:4; 134:2); so the sense may be: I praise.
119:49–56 God's word is my comfort and my guide whatever my circumstances.
119:49 word. See note on v. 25.
119:50–51 in my affliction . . . The arrogant utterly deride. See note on v. 25 ("cleaves to the dust").
119:51 arrogant. See note on v. 21.
119:52 of old. God's law is not fickle, but it is grounded firmly in His unchanging moral character. This is a major source of the author's comfort and one of the main reasons he cherishes the law so highly (see vv. 89,144,152,160).
119:53 indignation has seized me. Zeal for God's law (see vv. 136,139) awakens righteous anger against those who reject it (see vv. 113,115,158), and it brings abhorrence of all that is contrary to it (see vv. 104,128,163); but it draws together those who honor it (see v. 63).
119:54 In the house of my pilgrimage. Lit. "in my temporary house." The sense may be that of v. 19 (see note there).
119:55 name. See note on 5:11.

57 The LORD is my [a]portion;
I have [1]promised to [b]keep Your words.
58 I [a]sought Your favor [b]with all my heart;
[c]Be gracious to me [d]according to Your [1]word.
59 I [a]considered my ways
And turned my feet to Your testimonies.
60 I hastened and did not delay
To keep Your commandments.
61 The [a]cords of the wicked have encircled me,
But I have [b]not forgotten Your law.
62 At [a]midnight I shall rise to give thanks to You
Because of Your [b]righteous ordinances.

And of those who keep Your precepts.
64 [a]The earth is full of Your lovingkindness, O LORD;

But now I keep Your word.
68 You are [a]good and [b]do good;

69 The arrogant [1]have [a]forged a lie against me;
With all my heart I will [b]observe Your precepts.
70 Their heart is [1][a]covered with fat,
But I [b]delight in Your law.
71 It is [a]good for me that I was afflicted,
That I may learn Your statutes.
72 The [a]law of Your mouth is better to me

[b]Give me understanding, that I may learn Your commandments.
74 May those who [1]fear You [a]see me and be glad,
Because I [2][b]wait for Your word.
75 I know, O LORD, that Your judgments are [a]righteous,
And that [b]in faithfulness You have afflicted me.
76 O may Your lovingkindness [1]comfort me,
According to Your [2]word to Your servant.
77 May [a]Your compassion come to me that I may live,
For Your law is my [b]delight.
78 May [a]the arrogant be ashamed, for they subvert me [b]with a lie;
But I shall [c]meditate on Your precepts.
79 May those who [1]fear You turn to me,
Even those who know Your testimonies.
80 May my heart be [1][a]blameless in Your statutes,
So that I will not [b]be ashamed.

119:73–80 Complete Your forming of me by helping me to conform to Your righteous laws so that the arrogant may be put to shame and those who fear You may rejoice with me. (The stanza has a concentric structure; compare vv. 73 and 80, 74 and 79, 75 and 78, 76 and 77.)

84 How many are the [a]days of Your servant?
When will You [b]execute judgment on those who persecute me?
85 The arrogant have [a]dug pits for me,

86 All Your commandments are [a]faithful;
They have [b]persecuted me with a lie;

119:81–88 Save me from my affliction and my persecutors, according to Your promises, and I will obey Your statutes. This last stanza of the first half of the psalm, like the closing stanza, is dominated by prayer for God's help (see note on v. 25).
119:81 soul. See note on 6:3.
119:82 My eyes fail. See note on 6:7.
119:83 like a wineskin in the smoke. As a wineskin hanging in the smoke and heat above a fire becomes smudged and shriveled, so the psalmist bears the marks of his affliction.
119:84 How many . . . days? That is, do not delay the punishment of my persecutors, because my life is short. execute judgment. Lit."effect justice upon" (the Hebrew for "justice" is mishpat; see note on v. 7,"judgments"; see also note on 5:10).
119:85 The arrogant. See note on v. 21. dug pits. Probably referring to slander—public accusations that the psalmist must be guilty of vile sins or he would not be suffering such affliction. not in accord with Your law. See Ex 20:16.
119:86 faithful. See note on v. 29 ("false way").
119:88 lovingkindness. See note on 6:4.
119:89–91 God's sovereign and unchanging word governs and maintains all creation. (These first three verses of the second half of the psalm teach a general truth; cf. vv. 1–3.)
119:89 Your word. Here God's word by which He created, maintains and governs all things (see 33:4,6; 107:20; 147:15,18). settled in heaven. The secure order of the heavens and the earth (v. 90) declares (19:1–4) the reassuring truth that God's word (His "ordinances," v. 91), by which He upholds and governs all things, is enduring (eternal) and trustworthy ("Your faithfulness," v. 90). And that is the larger truth that confirms the godly man's confidence in the trustworthiness of God's word (His laws and promises) of special revelation (see notes on 93:5; 96:10; see also note on v. 29,"false way").
119:90 Your faithfulness. An indirect reference to God's word (see v. 89 and note).
119:92 would have perished in my affliction. Would not have learned the way of life (see v. 93) from your law (see vv. 67,71 and note on vv. 65–72).
119:95 The wicked. See note on v. 21 ("the arrogant"). wait for me to destroy me. See note on v. 25 ("cleaves to the dust").
119:96 perfection. Probably that which has been perfected in the sense of completed, given fixed bounds so that it is no longer open-ended. exceedingly broad. An inexhaustible source of wise counsel for life (see vv. 97–100).
119:97–104 Meditation on God's law yields the highest wisdom.
119:98 my enemies. Those arrogant ones (see note on v. 21) who place confidence in worldly wisdom. they. Your commands.
119:99 teachers. Merely human teachers.
119:100 aged. Old men, taught by experience (see note on Ex 3:16).
119:102 You . . . have taught me. Through Your laws.
119:103 words. Perhaps better understood here as "laws" (see

119:121–128 As Your faithful servant I pray for deliverance from my oppressors—another stanza in which prayer for deliverance is dominant (see vv. 81–88 and note; see also note on v. 25, "cleaves to the dust").

119:165 great peace. Complete security and well-being.
119:169–176 See note on vv. 145–152.
119:171 utter praise. Because You have delivered me.
119:172 righteousness. See note on v. 7.
119:174–176 The conclusion to the psalm.
119:176 I have gone astray. See Is 53:6; the clearest expression of the author's acknowledgment that, for all his devotion to God's law, he has again and again wandered into other (deceitful) ways and, like a lost sheep, must be brought back by his heavenly Shepherd. For one who has made God's law the guide and dearest treasure of his life, the last word can only be such a confession—and such a prayer.
Ps 120 A prayer for deliverance from false accusers. Verse 7 suggests that the speaker is a king, in which case the accusers seek either to discredit him before his people or, more likely, to awaken suspicion concerning him in foreign courts. But if "war" is understood metaphorically, the psalm could be used also by a private individual beset by slanderers.
120 title Ascents. Some have thought that the Hebrew for this word refers to stairs leading to the temple, hence "a song of the stairs," to be used in the temple liturgy (probably at the Feast of Booths). Most believe it refers to the annual religious pilgrimages to Jerusalem (see 84:5–7; Ex 23:14–17; Deut 16:16; Mic 4:2; Zech 14:16), which brought the worshipers singing to Mount Zion (Is 30:29)—a view that does not exclude the psalm's use also in the temple liturgy. This title, found also at the head of Ps 121–134, no doubt reflects postexilic usage rather than the original purpose of composition and also marks Ps 120–134 as a collection that was taken up as a unit into the final postexilic arrangement of the Psalter. Together with Ps 135–136, it came to be known in Jewish liturgy as the "Great Hallel" (in distinction from the "Egyptian Hallel"; see introduction to Ps 113). The spirit of Ps 84 pervades it (see also Ps 42–43). Whether a thematic (or some other) scheme controls the arrangement of Ps 120–134 is unclear, though it is probably not coincidental that they begin with a prayer that evokes the experience of one far from home and beset by barbarians and end with a call to praise in the sanctuary. See introduction to Ps 122.
120:2 lying lips . . . deceitful tongue. See note on 5:9.
120:3–4 Assurance that God will act (see 6:8–10 and note on 3:8).
120:3 what more. An echo of a common oath formula (see 1 Sam 3:17 and note), thus suggesting the certainty of God's judgment on the enemies.
120:4 Sharp arrows . . . burning coals. As a weapon, the tongue is a sharp arrow (see Prov 25:18; Jer 9:8; see also 57:4; 64:3) and a searing fire (see Prov 16:27; James 3:6), and God's judgment will answer in kind (see 7:11–13; 11:6; 64:7). For judgment in kind see 63:9–10; 64:7–8 and notes. broom tree. A desert shrub, sometimes large enough to provide shade.

120:5–7 Complaint over prolonged harassment.

120:5 Meshech . . . Kedar. The former was in central Asia Minor (see note on Gen 10:2), the latter in Arabia (see note on Is 21:16). Besieged by slanderers, the psalmist feels as if far from home, surrounded by barbarians.

Ps 121 A dialogue (perhaps liturgical) of confession and assurance. Its use as a pilgrimage song provides the key to its understanding. Whether the dialogue takes place in a single heart (cf. the refrain in Ps 42–43) or between individuals in the caravan is of no great consequence since all would share the same convictions. The comforting assurance expressed (see Ps 33) is equally appropriate for the pilgrimage to Jerusalem and for the pilgrimage of life to the "glory" into which the faithful will be received (see notes on 49:15; 73:24). The psalm is composed of four (Hebrew) couplets, each having an introductory line, which the rest of the couplet develops. Key terms are "the LORD" and "keep" ("guard" in v. 8), each occurring five times.

121 title See note on Ps 120 title.

121:1–2 Confession of trust in the Lord.

121:1 mountains. Those in the vicinity of Jerusalem, of which Mount Zion is one (125:2), or, if the plural indicates majesty (as in the Hebrew in 87:1; 133:3), Mount Zion itself.

121:2 Who made heaven and earth. The one true God, the King of all creation (see 124:8; 134:3; see also 33:6; 89:11–13; 96:4–5; 104:2–9; 136:4–9).

121:3–4 Assurance concerning the unsleeping guardian over Israel.

121:3 not allow your foot to slip. Not even where the way is treacherous. not slumber. Like the pagan god Baal (see 1 Kin 18:27).

121:4 He who keeps Israel. The Lord of all creation and the guardian over Israel—the One in whom the faithful may put unfaltering trust.

121:5–6 Assurance concerning unfailing protection.

121:5 shade. See 91:1 ("shadow") and note on 17:8. on your right hand. See 16:8 and note.

121:6 sun . . . moon. Here, in agreement with the "shade" metaphor, these serve as figures for all that distresses or threatens, day or night (see Is 4:6; 25:4–5; 49:10; Jon 4:8).

121:7–8 Assurance concerning all of life.

121:8 your going out and your coming in. See 1 Sam 29:6 and 2 Sam 3:25 for the use of the phrase in military contexts. See Deut 28:6 for a context perhaps more like v.8.

Ps 122 A hymn of joy over Jerusalem (see Ps 42–43; 46; 48; 84; 87; 137 and the introductions to those psalms). Sung by a pilgrim in Jerusalem (very likely at one of the three annual festivals, Deut 16:16), it expresses his deep joy over the city and his prayer for its welfare. As the third of the pilgrimage psalms (see introduction to Ps 120), it shares many dominant themes with Ps 132, the third from the end of this collection—possibly a deliberate arrangement. Structurally, a two-verse introduction locates the worshiper with the festival throng in the city of his joy, and the major themes are developed in two stanzas of four (Hebrew) lines each. References to "the house of the LORD" (vv. 1,9) frame the song.

122 title Ascents. See note on Ps 120 title. of David. This element is not present in all ancient witnesses to the text, and the content suggests a later date (see note on v. 1).

122:1–2 Joy for having joined the pilgrimage to Jerusalem.

122:1 the house of the LORD. The temple (2 Sam 7:5,13; 1 Kin 5:3,5; 8:10). That Jerusalem became the city of pilgrimage before the dedication of the temple is doubtful in light of 1 Kin 3:4; 8:1–11.

122:2 gates. Gateways.

122:3–5 Jerusalem's significance for the faithful.

122:3 compact together. Perhaps refers to the city's well-knit construction (see Ps 48) and probably recalls the construction of the tabernacle (cf. Ex 26:11, "join . . . so that it will be a unit"). If so, Jerusalem is being celebrated as the earthly residence of God (see note on 9:11; see also Is 4:5).

122:4 An ordinance for Israel. See 81:3–5; Deut 16:1–17. To give thanks. For God's saving acts in behalf of Israel and His blessings on the nation. name. See note on 5:11.

122:5 there . . . The thrones of the house of David. Jerusalem is both the city of the Lord and the royal city of His chosen dynasty, through which He (ideally) protects and governs the nation (see 2:2,6–7; 89:3–4,19–37; 110; 2 Sam 7:8–16 and notes). In postexilic times it remained, though now in Messianic hope, the city of David.

122:6–9 Prayers for Jerusalem's peace.

122:6 In Hebrew a beautiful wordplay tightly binds together "pray," "peace," "Jerusalem" and "prosper." peace. See vv. 7–8; includes both security and prosperity. who love you. The psalmist, those referred to in vv. 1,8 and all who love Jerusalem because they are devoted to the Lord and His chosen king. These constitute a loving brotherhood, who worship together, pray together and seek each other's welfare as the people of God (see Ps 133).

122:7 walls . . . palaces. See 48:13 ("ramparts . . . palaces").

122:8–9 For the sake of . . . For the sake of. Because Jerusalem is the place supreme where God and His people meet together in fruitful union, the psalmist vows to seek the city's peace.

Ps 123 A prayer of God's humble people for Him to show mercy and so foil the contempt of the proud. See introduction to Ps 124. As to its structure, a one-verse introduction is followed by two couplets, each developing its own theme.

123 title See note on Ps 120 title.

123:1 who are enthroned in the heavens. The same God whose earthly throne is in the temple on Mount Zion (see 122:5 and note; see also 2:4; 9:11; 11:4; 80:1; 99:1; 113:5; 132:14).

123:2 servants . . . maid. Similes by which the faithful (men and women alike) present themselves as humbly dependent on God.

123:4 those . . . at ease, And . . . the proud. Those who live by their own wits and strength (see notes on 10:2–11; 31:23) pour contempt on those who humbly rely on God, especially when those who rely on God suffer or do not prosper.

Ps 124 Israel's praise of the Lord for deliverance from powerful enemies—an appropriate sequel to Ps 123. Very likely a Levite speaks in vv. 1–5, while the worshipers answer in vv. 6–8. Like Ps 129 it divides into two well-balanced stanzas.

124 title Ascents. See note on Ps 120 title. of David. Not all ancient witnesses to the text contain this element, and both language and theme suggest a postexilic date (see note on Ps 122 title). It may have been assigned to David because of supposed echoes of Ps 18; 69.

124:1–5 Let Israel acknowledge that the Lord alone has saved her from extinction (see 20:7; 94:17).

124:2 men rose up against us. Proud and arrogant men (123:4) may attack, but the Lord is Israel's help (v. 8).

124:3 swallowed us. Like death (see note on 49:14). But see 69:15.

124:4–5 waters . . . stream . . . raging waters. See 18:16; see also 32:6; 69:1–2 and notes.

124:6–8 Response of praise for deliverance—with a vivid enrichment of the imagery.

124:6 torn by their teeth. As by wild beasts (see note on 7:2).

124:7 escaped as a bird out of the snare of the trapper. A most apt figure for Israel's release from Babylonian captivity.

124:8 In climax, the great confession (see 121:2 and note).

Ps 125 Israel's peace: in testimony, prayer and benediction. The psalm is most likely postexilic and was probably spoken in the temple liturgy by a Levite.

125 title See note on Ps 120 title.

125:1–2 The solid security of God's people.

125:1 Those who trust in the LORD. God's "people" (v. 2) are also characterized as "the righteous" (v. 3) and "those who are good," "who are upright in their hearts" (v. 4). For a similar description of the "righteous" see 34:8–14 and note. as Mount Zion. In their security (see Ps 46; 48).

125:2 mountains surround Jerusalem. Though Jerusalem is not surrounded by a ring of peaks, the city is located in what OT writers called a mountainous region. so the LORD surrounds His people. As surely, as substantially and as immovably (see 2 Kin 6:17; Zech 2:5).

125:3 Wicked rulers, whether by example or by oppression, tend to corrupt even the righteous, but the Lord will preserve His people also from this corrosive threat. scepter of wickedness. Probably referring to Persian rule (see Neh 9:36–37) and its invidious underlings, such as those Nehemiah had to contend with (see Neh 2:19; 4:1–3,7–8; 6:1–14,17–19; 13:7–8,28). land of the righteous. The promised land (see 78:55).

125:4–5 To each according as he is and does—that is God's way (see 18:25–27); thus the confident prayer (v. 4) and the equally confident assertion (v. 5).

125:4 hearts. See note on 4:7.

125:5 Peace be upon Israel. Perhaps a concise form of the priestly benediction (Num 6:24–26).

Ps 126 A song of joy for restoration to Zion. If not composed for those who returned from Babylonian exile (see Ezra and Nehemiah)—the place of exile is not named—it surely served to voice the joy of that restored community (cf. Ps 42–43; 84; 137). The psalm divides into two stanzas of four (Hebrew) lines each, with their initial lines sharing a common theme. Thematic unity is further served by repetition (cf. vv. 2–3) and other key words ("the LORD," "joyful shouting," "carrying . . . bringing"). References to God's action (vv. 1,3) frame the first stanza, while v. 2 offers exposition.

126 title See note on Ps 120 title.

126:1–3 Joy over restoration experienced.

126:1 dream. The wonder and joy of the reality were so marvelous that they hardly dared believe it. It seemed more like the dreams with which they had so long been tantalized.

126:2 The twofold effect: joy for those who returned and honor for God among the nations (see note on 46:10).

126:4–6 Prayer for restoration to be completed.

126:4 Restore our captivity. Either complete the repatriation of exiles or fully restore the security and prosperity of former times. As the streams in the South. Which are bone-dry in summer, until the winter rains renew their flow.

126:5–6 An apt metaphorical portrayal of the joy already experienced and the joy anticipated. in tears . . . weeping. Even when sowing is accompanied by trouble or sorrow, harvest brings joy. For a related figure see 20:5.

Ps 127 Godly wisdom concerning home and hearth. Its theme is timeless; it reminded the pilgrims on their way to Jerusalem that all of life's securities and blessings are gifts from God rather than their own achievements (see Deut 28:1–14). Two balanced stanzas develop, respectively, two distinct but related themes.

127 title Ascents. See note on Ps 120 title. of Solomon. If Solomon was not the author (not all witnesses to the text ascribe it to him), it is easy to see why some thought him so.

127:1–2 It is the Lord who provides shelter, security and food.

127:1 house. Domestic shelter. They . . . who build it. The Hebrew here is a pun on that for "Sons" in v. 3. guards. See 121:3–8. city. The center of power, the refuge when enemies invade the land. watchman. See 2 Sam 13:34; 18:24–27; Song 3:3; 5:7.

127:2 He gives . . . in his sleep. A good harvest is not the achievement of endless toil, but it is the result of God's blessing (see Prov 10:22; Matt 6:25–34; 1 Pet 5:7). His beloved. See especially Deut 33:12; Jer 11:15.

3 Behold, [a]children are a [1]gift of the LORD,
The [b]fruit of the womb is a reward.
4 Like arrows in the hand of a [a]warrior,
So are the children of one's youth.
5 How [a]blessed is the man whose quiver is full of them;
[b]They will not be ashamed
When they [c]speak with their enemies [d]in the gate.

127:3–5 Children are God's gift and a sign of His favor.
127:3 children. See note on v. 1. Children too are a gift—not the mere product of virility and fertility (see 113:9 and note; Gen 30:2). gift. Emphasis here is on gift rather than possession. But perhaps more is implied. In the OT economy, an Israelite's "inheritance" from the Lord was first of all property in the promised land (Num 26:53; Josh 11:23; Judg 2:6), which provided a sure place in the life and "rest" (Josh 1:13) of the Lord's kingdom. But without children the inheritance in the land would be lost (Num 27:8–11), so that offspring were a heritage in a double sense. reward. Bestowed by God on one who stands in His favor because he has been faithful.
127:5 When they speak with their enemies. Fathers with many sons have many defenders when falsely accused in court. Moreover, the very fact that they have many sons as God's "reward" (v. 3) testifies to God's favor toward them (in effect, they are God-provided character witnesses; see 128:3–4). in the gate. For the use of "gate" and "gates" as a judicial site see Deut 17:5; 21:19; 22:15,24; 25:7; Ruth 4:1; Is 29:21; Amos 5:12.
Ps 128 The blessedness of the godly man; another word of wisdom concerning hearth and home (see Ps 127). The concluding benediction suggests that the psalm originally served as a Levitical (or priestly) word of instruction to those assembled from their homes to worship in Jerusalem. Its date may well be preexilic. Structurally, the frame ("who fears the LORD") around vv. 1–4 sets off those verses as the main body of the psalm.
128 title See note on Ps 120 title.
128:1–4 Blessedness affirmed.
128:1 blessed. See note on 1:1. fears the LORD. See note on 34:8–14. His ways. See note on 25:4.
128:2 Blessings upon labor.
128:3 A faithful and fruitful wife. vine. Symbol of fruitfulness (Gen 49:22)—and perhaps also of sexual charms (Song 7:8–12) and festivity (Judg 9:13). Within your house. She is not like the faithless wife whose "feet do not remain at home" (Prov 7:11). olive plants. Ever green and with the promises of both long life and productivity (of staples: wood, fruit, oil). The vine and the olive tree are frequently paired in the OT (as, e.g., in Ex 23:11). Both were especially long-lived, and they produced the wine and the oil that played such a central role in the lives of the people. Around your table. Converting each family meal into a banquet of domestic joys.
128:5–6 The benediction pronounced—completing the scope of true blessedness: unbroken prosperity, secure relationship with God and secure national existence (the prosperity of Jerusalem entailed both), and long life.
128:5 from Zion. See 9:11 and note; 20:2; 135:21.
128:6 Peace be upon Israel! See 125:5 and note.
Ps 129 Israel's prayer for the continued withering of all her powerful enemies. The rescue celebrated (v. 4) is probably from Babylonian exile. Against the background of Ps 124–128, this prayer for the withholding of God's blessing is set in sharp relief. Like Ps 124 (with which Ps 129 shares other affinities), the psalm is composed of two nicely balanced stanzas.
129 title See note on Ps 120 title.
129:1–4 The wicked oppressors have not prevailed.
129:1 from my youth. From the time Israel was enslaved in Egypt, she has suffered much at the hands of hostile powers.
129:2 have not prevailed. Have not succeeded in their efforts to destroy Israel totally or to hold her permanently in bondage.
129:4 righteous. See note on 4:1.
129:5–8 May all who hate Zion wither.
129:5 See note on 5:10.
129:6 like grass upon the housetops. May those who would "plow" the backs of Israel (see v. 3) wither like grass that sprouts on the flat, sunbaked housetops, where no plow can prepare a

5 I wait for the LORD, my [a]soul does wait,
And [1][b]in His word do I hope.
6 My soul waits for the Lord
More than the watchmen [a]for the morning;
Indeed, more than the watchmen for the morning.
7 O Israel, [a]hope in the LORD;
For with the LORD there is [b]lovingkindness,
And with Him is [c]abundant redemption.
8 And He will [a]redeem Israel
From all his iniquities.

Psalm 131

A Song of Ascents, of David.

1 O LORD, my heart is not [a]proud, nor my eyes [1][b]haughty;
Nor do I [2]involve myself in [c]great matters,
Or in things [d]too [3]difficult for me.
2 Surely I have [a]composed and quieted my soul;
Like a weaned [b]child rests [1]against his mother,
My soul is like a weaned child [1]within me.
3 O Israel, [a]hope in the LORD
[b]From this time forth and forever.

nurturing soil to sustain the young shoots—and so there is no harvest (v. 7).

129:8 those who pass by. Whoever may pass by the harvesters in the fields will exchange no joyful greetings (Ruth 2:4) because the hands of the harvesters will be empty.

Ps 130 A testimony of trust in the Lord—by one who knows that even though he is a sinner, the Lord hears his cry out of the depths. The language of the psalm suggests a postexilic date. This is the sixth of seven penitential psalms (see introduction to Ps 6). Composed of four thematic couplets, the psalm further divides into two halves of two couplets each.

130 title See note on Ps 120 title.

130:1–4 A prayer for mercy, and grounds for assurance.

130:1 the depths. As in 69:2 (see notes on 30:1; 32:6).

130:4 there is forgiveness. No doubt recalling such reassuring words as Ex 34:6–7. feared. Honored, worshiped, trusted and served as the one true God. If God were not forgiving, people could only flee from Him in terror.

130:5–8 Trust in the Lord: a personal testimony, expanding into a reassuring invitation (see 131:3).

130:5 I wait. In hopeful expectation. my soul. See note on 6:3. His word. Especially His covenant promises (see 119:25,28,37,42,49,65,74,81,107,114,147).

130:6 watchmen. See 127:1; 2 Sam 13:34; 18:24–27; Song 3:3; 5:7. the morning. See introduction to Ps 57; see also note on 59:9.

130:7 lovingkindness. See note on 6:4.

130:8 From all his iniquities. From the root of trouble—but also from all its consequences. This greatest of all hopes has been fulfilled in Christ.

Ps 131 A confession of humble trust in the Lord—appropriately placed next to Ps 130.

131 title Ascents. See note on Ps 120 title.

131:1 heart. See note on 4:7. proud . . . haughty. More than all else, it is human pride that pits man against God (see note on 31:23; cf. 2 Sam 6:21–22). involve myself in. (Presume to) walk among, live among, be party to. great matters . . . too difficult for me. Heroic exploits or achievements to rival, if not substitute for, the mighty works of God. The focus seems to be on not claiming Godlike powers (thus trusting in God for deliverance and blessing) rather than on seeking (or claiming) Godlike understanding.

131:2 soul. See note on 6:3. weaned child. A child of four or five who walks trustingly beside his mother.

131:3 As he has done, so ought all Israel—for all time.

Ps 132 A prayer for God's favor on the son of David who reigns on David's throne—as the structure makes clear (and see note on v. 10). Its language suggests a date early in the monarchy. The venerable belief that it was composed for the dedication of the temple may be correct (compare vv. 8–10 with 2 Chr 6:41–42), but the possibility cannot be ruled out that it was used in the coronation ritual (cf. Ps 2; 72; 110). The author of Chronicles places the prayer (or a portion of it) on the lips of the king himself. In the postexilic liturgy it had Messianic implications.

Two verses of petition (vv. 1,10) are each followed (in Hebrew) by two four-line stanzas, all having an identical form: an introductory line followed by a three-line quotation (see the structure of these quotations). A final couplet brings the prayer to its climactic conclusion. The four thematic stanzas, together with the final couplet, ground the prayer made in vv. 1,10. Verses 2–9 appeal to David's oath to the Lord to find a "place" for the Lord and to his bringing the ark to its "resting place," while vv. 11–18 appeal to the Lord's oath to David and to His election of Zion as His "resting place" (but see note on v. 10).

132 title See note on Ps 120 title.

132:1 Remember. See 20:3; see also 1 Kin 11:12–13; 15:4–5. affliction. The affliction he took on himself in his vow (vv. 2–5; see Num 30:13, where the same technical term for a self-denying oath is used).

132:2 he swore. This prayer for David's son is grounded in the special relationship between David and the Lord, as epitomized in their mutual oaths (see vv. 11–12). In 2 Sam 6–7, which narrates the events here recalled, David's oath is not mentioned. LORD . . . Mighty One of Jacob. See v. 5; Is 1:24; see also note on 3:7. Jacob. A synonym for Israel (see Gen 32:28).

132:6 it . . . it. Often thought to refer to the ark, but more likely it refers to the call to worship that follows (in Hebrew the pronoun is feminine, but the Hebrew for "ark" is masculine). Ephrathah. The region around Bethlehem, David's hometown (see Ruth 4:11; Mic 5:2). field of Jaar. Kiriath-jearim; called "Baale-judah" in 2 Sam 6:2. The call to worship is depicted as emanating from David's city and the city where the ark had been since the days of Samuel (see 1 Sam 7:1). The call appears to come from a time after the temple had been built—thus involving a poetic compression of events.

132:7 footstool. See 99:5 and note.

132:8 Arise. Although the Hebrew omits (a common feature in Hebrew poetry) an introductory word, such as "saying," vv. 8–9 are probably words on the lips of the worshipers. See introduction to Ps 24. resting place. As the promised land was Israel's place of rest at the end of her wanderings (see Num 10:33; Josh 1:13; Mic 2:10), so the temple was the Lord's resting place after He had been moving about in a tent (see 2 Sam 7:6; see also 1 Chr 28:2). The expression may suggest that the temple was the place of God's throne (v. 14). ark of Your strength. See note on 78:61.

132:9 clothed with. Beyond their normal priestly garb—may their ministry bear the character of (see Job 29:14; Prov 31:25), i.e., result in. righteousness. Since the corresponding word in v. 16 is "salvation," the same word used by the author of Chronicles when quoting this verse (2 Chr 6:41), and since "righteousness" and "salvation" are often paralleled (40:10; 51:14; 71:15; 98:2; Is 45:8; 46:13; 51:5–6; 56:1; 59:17; 60:17–18; 61:10; 62:1), the reference is clearly to God's righteousness that effects the salvation of His people (see note on 5:8). godly ones. See note on 4:3.

132:10 See v. 1. Your servant. See note on Ps 18 title. Do not turn away. Do not refuse his petitions (as in 1 Kin 2:16–17,20; see 1 Kin 8:59; 2 Chr 6:41–42). If, as some have proposed, the petitions in vv. 1,10 form a frame around the first half of the psalm, the second half offers assurance that the prayer will be heard (perhaps spoken by a priest or Levite). In any event, David's vow to provide the Lord a dwelling place, which would be for His royal sons and for Israel a house of prayer (see 1 Kin 8:27–53; 9:3; 2 Chr 7:15–16; Is 56:7), is made the basis for the appeal that God will hear His anointed's prayer. Your anointed. See note on 2:2.

132:11–12 The Lord's covenant with David is recalled, as grounds for the prayer. These and vv. 13–18 are a poetic recollection of 1 Kin 9:1–5 (see 2 Chr 7:11–18).

132:11 has sworn. See v. 2 and note. 2 Sam 7 does not mention an oath, but elsewhere God's promise to David is called a covenant (89:3,28,34,39; 2 Sam 23:5; Is 55:3), and covenants were made on oath. will not turn back. See 110:4.

132:12 covenant . . . testimony. The stipulations of the Sinai covenant, which all Israelites were to keep (see 1 Sam 10:25 and note; see also 1 Kin 2:3–4).

132:13–16 The Lord's election of Zion recalled, as grounds for the prayer.

132:13 desired it for His habitation. David's and the Lord's desires harmonize (see Deut 12:5–14).

132:15 The Lord enthroned in His resting place (see vv. 8,14) will bless the land, making it a place of rest for His people (see Deut 12:9; Josh 1:13; 1 Kin 5:4).

132:16 See note on v. 9.

132:17–18 Concluding word of assurance, which addresses the petition (vv. 1,10) directly and climactically.

132:17 horn. The Lord's anointed. spring forth. Like a plant or branch. prepared a lamp for. See note on 1 Kin 11:36.

132:18 clothe with shame. In contrast with v. 16. shall shine. Lit. "blossom"—subtly evoking the imagery: spring forth (v. 17) and blossom.

Ps 133 A song in praise of brotherly unity among the people of God. If David was the author (see title), he may have been moved to write it by some such occasion as when, after many years of conflict, all Israel came to Hebron to make him king (2 Sam 5:1–3). The first and last (Hebrew) lines (vv. 1,3b) frame the whole with the song's main theme. Next to these an inner frame (lines 2,4) elaborates with two striking complementary similes (vv. 2a,3a). The center line (v. 2b) extends the first simile.

133 title Ascents. See note on Ps 120 title. of David. Not all textual sources ascribe the psalm to him.

133:1 how good and how pleasant. See 135:3; 147:1.

133:2 like the precious oil . . . Aaron's beard . . . upon the edge of his robes. The oil of Aaron's anointing (Ex 29:7; Lev 21:10) saturated all the hair of his beard and ran down on his priestly robes, signifying his total consecration to holy service. Similarly, brotherly harmony sanctifies God's people.

133:3 dew of Hermon . . . upon the mountains of Zion. A dew as profuse as that of Mount Hermon would make the mountains of Zion (or Mount Zion) richly fruitful (see Gen 27:28; Hag 1:10; Zech 8:12). So would brotherly unity make Israel richly fruitful. The two similes (vv. 2–3) are well chosen: God's blessings flowed to Israel through the priestly ministrations at the sanctuary (Ex 29:44–46; Lev 9:22–24; Num 6:24–26)—epitomizing God's redemptive mercies—and through heaven's dew that sustained life in the fields—epitomizing God's providential mercies in the creation order. life. The great covenant blessing (see Deut 30:15,19–20; 32:47).

Ps 134 A liturgy of praise—a brief exchange between the worshipers, as they are about to leave the temple after the evening service, and the Levites, who kept the temple watch through the night. In the Psalter it concludes the "songs of Ascents," as Ps 117 concludes a collection of Hallelujah psalms (Ps 111–117). Its date is probably postexilic.

134 title See note on Ps 120 title.

134:1–2 The departing worshipers call on the Levites to continue the praise of the Lord through the night (see 1 Chr 9:33).

134:2 Lift up your hands. See 63:4.

134:3 One of the Levites responds with a benediction on the worshipers (see note on 121:2; see also 124:8; 128:5).

Ps 135 A call to praise the Lord—the one true God: Lord of all creation, Lord over all the nations, Israel's Redeemer. No doubt postexilic, it echoes many lines found elsewhere in the OT. It was clearly composed for the temple liturgy. For its place in the Great Hallel see note on Ps 120 title. Framed with "Hallelujahs" (as are also Ps 146–150), its first and last stanzas are also calls to praise. Recital of God's saving acts for Israel in Egypt and Canaan (vv. 8–12) makes up the middle of seven stanzas, while the remaining four constitute two pairs related to each other by theme and language (vv. 3–4, 13–14; vv. 5–7, 15–18).

135:1–2 Initial call to praise, addressed to priests and Levites (see 134:1–2).

135:1,3,13 name. See note on 5:11.

135:3–4 A central reason for Israel to praise the Lord (see vv. 13–14).

135:3 it is lovely. See 133:1. Or "He (the Lord) is beautiful" (see 27:4 and note).

135:4 Jacob. A synonym for Israel (see Gen 32:28). His own possession. See Ex 19:5 and note.

135:5–7 The Lord is great as well as good (v. 3); He is the absolute Lord in all creation (cf. the word about idols in vv. 15–18; see Jer 10:11–16; see also 115:3 and 96:5; 97:7 and notes).

135:6 Whatever the Lord pleases, He does. The idols can do nothing (vv. 16–17); they are themselves "done" (made) by their worshipers (v. 18). heaven . . . earth . . . seas. The three great domains of the visible creation, as the ancients viewed it (see Gen 1:8–10 and introduction to Ps 104).

135:7 He causes the vapors to ascend. See NASB marg. The Lord, not Baal or any other god, causes clouds to bring the life-giving rains (see Ps 29). wind. See 104:4; 148:8. The idols do not even

For His lovingkindness is everlasting;
15 But [a]He [1]overthrew Pharaoh and his army in the [2]Red Sea,
For His lovingkindness is everlasting.

135:15–18 The powerlessness of the false gods and of those who trust in them (see vv. 5–7 and note; see also 115:4–8 and notes).

135:19–21 Concluding call to praise, addressed to all who are assembled at the temple (see 115:9–11; 118:2–4).

Ps 136 A liturgy of praise to the Lord as Creator and as Israel's Redeemer. Its theme and many of its verses parallel much of Ps 135. Most likely a Levitical song leader led the recital, while the Levitical choir (1 Chr 16:41; 2 Chr 5:13; Ezra 3:11) or the worshipers (2 Chr 7:3,6; 20:21) responded with the refrain (see 106:1; 107:1; 118:1–4,29). This liturgy concludes the Great Hallel (see note on Ps 120 title). Following the initial call to praise (vv. 1–3), the recital devotes six verses to God's creation acts (vv. 4–9), six to His deliverance of Israel out of Egypt (vv. 10–15), one to the wilderness journey (v. 16) and six to the conquest (vv. 17–22). The four concluding verses return to the same basic themes in reverse order: God's action in history in behalf of His people (vv. 23–24), God's action in the creation order (v. 25) and a closing call to praise (v. 26).

136:1–3,26 Give thanks to. Or "Praise" (see 7:17 and note).

136:2 the God of gods. See Deut 10:17; see also 135:5.

136:5 with skill. See Prov 3:19; Jer 10:12.

136:6 above the waters. See 24:2 and note.

136:7–9 Direct echoes of Gen 1:16.

For His lovingkindness is everlasting:
19 [a]Sihon, king of the Amorites,
For His lovingkindness is everlasting,
20 And [a]Og, king of Bashan,
For His lovingkindness is everlasting,
21 And [a]gave their land as a heritage,
For His lovingkindness is everlasting,
22 Even a heritage to Israel His [a]servant,
For His lovingkindness is everlasting.

23 Who [a]remembered us in our low estate,
For His lovingkindness is everlasting,
24 And has [a]rescued us from our adversaries,
For His lovingkindness is everlasting;
25 Who [a]gives food to all flesh,
For His lovingkindness is everlasting.
26 Give thanks to the [a]God of heaven,
For His lovingkindness is everlasting.

Psalm 137

1 By the [a]rivers of Babylon,
There we sat down and [b]wept,
When we remembered Zion.
2 Upon the [1a]willows in the midst of it
We [b]hung our [2]harps.
3 For there our captors [1a]demanded of us [2]songs,
And [b]our tormentors mirth, saying,
"Sing us one of the songs of Zion."

4 How can we sing [a]the LORD'S song
In a foreign land?
5 If I [a]forget you, O Jerusalem,
May my right hand [1]forget her skill.
6 May my [a]tongue cling to the roof of my mouth
If I do not remember you,
If I do not [1b]exalt Jerusalem
Above my chief joy.

7 Remember, O LORD, against the sons of [a]Edom
The day of Jerusalem,
Who said, "Raze it, raze it
[b]To its very foundation."
8 O daughter of Babylon, you [1a]devastated one,
How blessed will be the one who [b]repays you
With [2]the recompense with which you have repaid us.
9 How blessed will be the one who seizes and [a]dashes your little ones
Against the rock.

136:23–24 Probably a concluding summary of the deliverance recalled above, but may allude also to the deliverances experienced during the period of the judges and the reign of David.
136:26 the God of heaven. A Persian title for God (see note on Ezra 1:2) found frequently in Ezra, Nehemiah and Daniel. Its intent is similar to that of the language of vv. 2–3.
Ps 137 A plaintive song of the exile—of one who has recently returned from Babylon but in whose soul there lingers the bitter memory of the years in a foreign land and of the cruel events that led to that enforced stay. Here speaks the same deep love of Zion as that found in Ps 42–43; 46; 48; 84; 122; 126. The 12 poetic lines of the Hebrew song divide symmetrically into three stanzas of four lines each: the remembered sorrow and torment (vv. 1–3), an oath of total commitment to Jerusalem (vv. 4–6), a call for retribution on Edom and Babylon (vv. 7–9).
137:1 rivers. The Tigris and Euphrates and the many canals associated with them. we sat. Again and again the thought of their forced separation from Zion brought them down to the posture of mourning (see Job 2:8,13; Lam 2:10).
137:2 We hung our harps. "The gaiety of the harp ceases" (Is 24:8) because the callous Babylonians demanded exotic entertainment with the joyful songs of distant Zion, while the exiles' instruments were only "turned to mourning" (Job 30:31).
137:4–6 Only he whose heart had disowned the Lord and His holy city Jerusalem could play the puppet on a Babylonian stage. But may I never play the harp again or sing another syllable if I am untrue to that beloved city!
137:7–9 Lord, remember Edom; and as for you, Babylon, I bless whoever does to you what you did to Jerusalem: a passionate call for redress from a loyal son of the ravaged city (see note on 5:10).
137:7 sons of Edom. The agelong animosity of Edom—descendants of Esau, Jacob's brother—showed its most dastardly face in Jerusalem's darkest hour. No doubt the author knew the Lord's judgments against that nation announced by the prophets (Is 63:1–4; Jer 49:7–22; Ezek 25:8,12–14; 35; Obadiah). Raze it. Lit. "Strip her"—cities were conventionally portrayed as women. Lam 4:21 anticipates that Edom will be punished by suffering the same humiliation.
137:8 daughter. A personification of Babylon and its inhabitants. devastated one. The author may have known the Lord's announced judgments on this cruel destroyer (Is 13; 21:1–10; 47; Jer 50–51; Hab 2:4–20).
137:9 your little ones. War was as cruel then as now; women and children were not spared (see 2 Kin 8:12; 15:16; Is 13:16,18; Hos 10:14; 13:16; Amos 1:13; Nah 3:10). For the final announcement of the destruction of the "Babylon" that persists in its warfare against the City of God, and the joy with which that announcement is greeted, see Rev 18:1–19:4.
Ps 138 A royal song of praise for God's saving help against threatening foes. In many respects it is like Ps 18, though it is more concise and direct. Two (Hebrew) four-line stanzas (vv. 1–3, 6–8) develop the main theme; at the center a two-line stanza (vv. 4–5) expands the praise of the Lord to a universal company of earth's royalty.
138 title This begins a collection of eight "Davidic" psalms (Ps 138–145): six prayers framed by two psalms of praise.
138:1–3 Praise for God's faithful love shown in answer to prayers for help.
138:1 heart. See note on 4:7. gods. Either pagan kings (see vv. 4–5) or the gods they claimed to represent (see introduction to Ps 82; see also note on 82:1).

2 I will bow down [a]toward Your holy temple
And [b]give thanks to Your name for Your lovingkindness and Your [1]truth;
For You have [c]magnified Your [2]word [3]according to all Your name.
3 On the day I [a]called, You answered me;
You made me bold with [b]strength in my soul.

4 [a]All the kings of the earth will give thanks to You, O LORD,
When they have heard the words of Your mouth.
5 And they will [a]sing of the ways of the LORD,
For [b]great is the glory of the LORD.
6 For [a]though the LORD is exalted,
Yet He [b]regards the lowly,
But the [c]haughty He knows from afar.

7 Though I [a]walk in the midst of trouble, You will [1][b]revive me;
You will [c]stretch forth Your hand against the wrath of my enemies,
And Your right hand will [d]save me.

Psalm 139

For the choir director. A Psalm of David.

1 O LORD, You have [a]searched me and known me.
2 You [a]know [1]when I sit down and [2]when I rise up;
You [b]understand my thought from afar.
3 You [1][a]scrutinize my [2]path and my lying down,
And are intimately acquainted with all my ways.
4 [1]Even before there is a word on my tongue,
Behold, O LORD, You [a]know it all.
5 You have [a]enclosed me behind and before,
And [b]laid Your hand upon me.
6 Such [a]knowledge is [b]too wonderful for me;
It is too high, I cannot attain to it.

7 [a]Where can I go from Your Spirit?
Or where can I flee from Your presence?
8 [a]If I ascend to heaven, You are there;
If I make my bed in [1]Sheol, behold, [b]You are there.
9 If I take the wings of the dawn,
If I dwell in the remotest part of the sea,

138:2 Your holy temple. If David is in fact the author, reference is to the tent he set up for the ark (2 Sam 6:17)—many psalms ascribed to David refer to the "temple" (see, e.g., 5:7; 11:4; 18:6; 27:4; see also Ps 30 title). name. See note on 5:11. lovingkindness and . . . truth. See note on 36:5. lovingkindness. See v. 8; see also note on 6:4. Your word. Especially God's promises. God's display of His love and faithfulness in His answers to prayer (v. 3) has made His name and promises more precious than all else that even a king may possess.

138:4–5 The center of the poem (see note on 6:6): a wish and hope that all the kings of earth may come to join him in his praise of the Lord (see note on 9:1).

138:4 words of Your mouth. God's grand commitments to His people.

138:5 ways of the LORD. See 25:10 and note. God's words and His ways are in harmony, and together they display His great glory (see Ps 145).

138:6–8 A testimony to God's condescending and faithful love, concluded with a prayer.

138:6 See 113:4–9 and notes. regards. With favor. the haughty. See notes on 31:23; 101:5; 131:1. knows from afar. Already from a great distance recognizes them for what they are and so does not let them "behold His face" (see note on 11:7).

138:8 will accomplish what concerns me. See note on 57:2. works of Your hands. The king himself, whom the Lord had made. The Hebrew often uses plurals to refer to God or the king.

Ps 139 A prayer for God to examine the heart and see its true devotion. Like Job, the author firmly claims his loyalty to the Lord. Nowhere (outside Job) does one find expressed such profound awareness of how awesome it is to ask God to examine not only one's life but also his soul—God, who knows every thought, word and deed, from whom there is no hiding, who has been privy even to one's formation in the dark concealment of the womb. The thought progresses steadily in four poetic paragraphs of six verses each (vv. 1–6, 7–12, 13–18, 19–24), and each paragraph is concluded with a couplet that elaborates on the unit's central theme. References to God's searching and knowing begin and end the prayer.

139 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. of David. See note on Ps 138 title.

139:1–6 God, You know me perfectly, far beyond my knowledge of myself: my every action (v. 2a), my every undertaking (v. 3a) and the manner in which I pursue it (v. 3b), even my thoughts before they are fully crystallized (v. 2b) and my words before they are uttered (v. 4).

139:5 You have enclosed me. To keep me under scrutiny. laid Your hand upon me. So that I do not escape You. The figures are different in Job 13:27, but the thought is much the same. hand. Or "hands."

139:6 too wonderful for me. Yours is a "wonder" knowledge, beyond my human capacity—the Hebrew term regularly applies to God's wondrous acts (see 77:11,14; Ex 15:11).

139:7–12 There is no hiding from You—here no abstract doctrine of divine omnipresence but an awed confession that God cannot be escaped (see Jer 23:23–24).

139:7 Your Spirit . . . Your presence. See 51:11; Is 63:9–10; Ezek 39:29 ("face . . . Spirit").

139:8 to heaven . . . in Sheol. The two vertical extremes.

139:9 wings of the dawn . . . remotest part of the sea. The two horizontal extremes: east and west (the sea is the Mediterranean). Using a literary figure in which the totality is denoted

10 Even there Your hand will [a]lead me,
And Your right hand will lay hold of me.
11 If I say, "Surely the [a]darkness will [1]overwhelm me,
And the light around me will be night,"
12 Even the [a]darkness is not dark [1]to You,
And the night is as bright as the day.
[b]Darkness and light are alike to You.

13 For You [a]formed my [1]inward parts;
You [b]wove me in my mother's womb.
14 I will give thanks to You, for [1]I am fearfully and wonderfully made;

And my soul knows it very well.

16 Your [a]eyes have seen my unformed substance;
And in [b]Your book were all written
The [c]days that were ordained for me,
When as yet there was not one of them.

17 How precious also are Your [a]thoughts to me, O God!
How vast is the sum of them!
18 If I should count them, they would [a]outnumber the sand.

139:10 lead me . . . lay hold of me. Though this language occurs in 73:23–24 to indicate God's solicitous care, it here denotes God's inescapable supervision, not unlike the thought of v. 5.

139:11–12 Just as the whole creation offers no hiding place (vv. 8–9), neither does even the darkness.

139:13–16 You Yourself put me together in the womb and ordained the span of my life before I was born.

139:13 inward parts. Lit. "kidneys"—in Hebrew idiom, the innermost center of emotions and of moral sensitivity—that which God tests and examines when He "tries" a person (see note on 7:9).

139:14 fearfully . . . wonderfully . . . Wonderful. You know me as the One who formed me (see vv. 15–16), but I cannot begin to comprehend this creature You have fashioned. I can only look upon him with awe and wonder (see note on v. 6)—and praise You (see Eccl 11:5).

139:15 in secret . . . depths of the earth. Reference is to the womb: called a "secret" place because it normally conceals (see 2 Sam 12:12), and it shares with "the depths of the earth" (see note on 30:1) associations with darkness, dampness and separation from the visible realm of life. Moreover, both phrases refer to the place of the dead (63:9; Job 14:13; Is 44:23; 45:19), with which on one level the womb appears to have been associated: Man comes from the dust and returns to the dust (90:3; Gen 3:19; Eccl 3:20; 12:7), and the womb is the "depth"-like place where he is formed (see Is 44:2,24; 49:5; Jer 1:5).

139:16 days that were ordained. The span of life sovereignly determined. Your book. The heavenly royal register of God's decisions (see note on 56:8).

139:17 Your thoughts. As expressed in His works—and in contrast with "my thought" (v. 2).

139:18 When I awake. The sleep of exhaustion overcomes every attempt to count God's thoughts/works (see 63:6; 119:148), and waking only floods my soul once more with the sense of the presence of this God.

139:19–22 My zeal for You sets me against all Your adversaries.

139:19 O that You would. Jealous impatience with God's patience toward the wicked—whose end will come (Is 11:4). But the psalmist leaves it to God.

139:20 take Your name in vain. Perhaps by calling down curses on those trying to be the faithful servants of God.

139:21–22 A declaration of loyalty that echoes the pledge required by ancient Near Eastern kings of their vassals (e.g., "With my friend you shall be friend, and with my enemy you shall be enemy," from a treaty between Mursilis II, a Hittite king, and Tette of Nuhassi, 14th century B.C.).

139:23–24 Examine me, see the integrity of my devotion and keep me true (see 17:3–5 and note).

139:23 heart. See note on 4:7. anxious thoughts. See 94:19. It is no light matter to be examined by God.

139:24 the everlasting way. See note on 16:9–11.

Ps 140 A prayer for deliverance from the plots and slander of unscrupulous enemies. It recalls Ps 58; 64 but employs a number of words found nowhere else in the OT. The prayer is strikingly rich in physiological allusions: heart, head, tongue, lips, hands, feet—also ears ("Give ear, O Lord, to," v. 6) and teeth (by a wordplay on the Hebrew for "sharpen," v. 3). See Ps 141.

140 title For the choir director. See note on Ps 4 title. of David. See note on Ps 138 title.

140:1–3 Rescue me from those "vipers."

140:2 hearts. See note on 4:7.

3 They [a]sharpen their tongues as a serpent;
[b]Poison of a viper is under their lips.
[1]Selah.

4 [a]Keep me, O LORD, from the hands of the wicked;
[b]Preserve me from violent men
Who have [1]purposed to [2c]trip up my feet.
5 The proud have [a]hidden a trap for me, and cords;
They have spread a [b]net by the [1]wayside;
They have set [c]snares for me. Selah.

6 I [a]said to the LORD, "You are my God;
[b]Give ear, O LORD, to the [c]voice of my supplications.
7 "O [1]GOD the Lord, [a]the strength of my salvation,
You have [b]covered my head in the day of [2]battle.
8 "Do not grant, O LORD, the [a]desires of the wicked;
Do not promote [b]his evil device, that they not be exalted. Selah.

9 "As for the head of those who surround me,
May the [a]mischief of their lips cover them.
10 "May [a]burning coals fall upon them;
May they be [b]cast into the fire,
Into [1]deep pits from which they [c]cannot rise.
11 "May a [1]slanderer not be established in the earth;
[a]May evil hunt the violent man [2]speedily."

Psalm 141

A Psalm of David.

1 O LORD, I call upon You; [a]hasten to me!
[b]Give ear to my voice when I call to You!
2 May my prayer be [1]counted as [a]incense before You;
The [b]lifting up of my hands as the [c]evening offering.
3 Set a [a]guard, O LORD, [1]over my mouth;
Keep watch over the [b]door of my lips.
4 [a]Do not incline my heart to any evil thing,
To practice deeds [1]of wickedness
With men who [b]do iniquity;
And [c]do not let me eat of their delicacies.

5 Let the [a]righteous smite me [1]in kindness and reprove me;
It is [b]oil upon the head;
Do not let my head refuse it,
[2]For still my prayer [c]is [3]against their wicked deeds.
6 Their judges are [a]thrown down by the sides of the rock,

6 [a]2 Chr 25:12

140:3 tongues. See note on 5:9. Poison of a viper. See 58:4 and note.

140:4–5 Protect me from those proud and wicked hunters (see 10:2–11 and notes).

140:5 The proud. See note on 31:23.

140:6–8 Do not let these wicked men attain their evil designs against me.

140:9–11 Let the harm they plot against me recoil on their heads (see note on 5:10).

140:10 burning coals. See note on 11:6. fire . . . deep pits. This combination, together with the conjunction of fire and darkness in Job 15:30; 20:26, suggests the idea that the fire of God's judgment (see, e.g., 21:9; 97:3; Is 1:31; 26:11; 33:14) reaches even into the realm of the dead (see Job 31:12 and note on Ps 30:1). from which they cannot arise. See 36:12; Is 26:14.

140:11 hunt. May these hunters (vv. 4–5) themselves be hunted by the ruin they intended to bring on me.

140:12–13 Confidence in God's just judgment (see note on 3:8).

140:12 afflicted . . . poor. See notes on 9:18; 34:6.

140:13 the righteous. See note on 1:5. will give thanks. Having experienced God's help (see notes on 7:17; 9:1). will dwell in Your presence. In contrast to the wicked (v. 10; see notes on 11:7; 16:9–11).

Ps 141 A prayer for deliverance from the wicked and their evil ways. The structure of the first half (two Hebrew lines plus three lines) is repeated in the second half, while at the center a couplet develops a complementary theme (see note on v. 5). Like Ps 140, the prayer is profuse in its physiological allusions: hands, mouth, lips, heart, head, bones, eyes.

141 title See note on Ps 138 title.

141:1–2 Initial appeal for God to hear.

141:3–4 A plea that God will keep him from speaking, desiring or doing what is evil.

141:4 Do not incline my heart. Keep me from yielding to the example and urgings of the wicked (see Prov 1:10–16). heart. See note on 4:7. their delicacies. The luxuriant tables the wicked set from their unjust gains—keep me from acquiring an appetite for such unholy dainties.

141:5 The center of the poem (see note on 6:6). Let the righteous smite me. The disciplining blows and rebukes of the righteous are the true "kindness" (Hebrew hesed, meaning "faithful love"—normally translated as "lovingkindness" in the NASB—or "acts of authentic friendship"; see Prov 27:6; see also note on 6:4). oil upon the head. See note on 23:5.

141:6–7 The destiny of the wicked.

And they hear my words, for they are pleasant.
7 As when one [a]plows and breaks open the earth,
Our [b]bones have been scattered at the [c]mouth of [1]Sheol.

8 For my [a]eyes are toward You, O [1]GOD, the Lord;
In You I [b]take refuge; [c]do not [2]leave me defenseless.
9 Keep me from the [1a]jaws of the trap which they have set for me,
And from the [b]snares of those who do iniquity.
10 Let the wicked [a]fall into their own nets,
While I pass by [1b]safely.

Psalm 142

[†]Maskil of David, when he was [•]in the cave. A Prayer.

1 I [a]cry aloud with my voice to the LORD;
I [b]make supplication with my voice to the LORD.
2 I [a]pour out my complaint before Him;
I declare my [b]trouble before Him.
3 When [a]my spirit [1]was overwhelmed within me,
You knew my path.
In the way where I walk
They have [b]hidden a trap for me.
4 Look to the right and see;
For there is [a]no one who regards me;
[1]There is no [b]escape for me;
[c]No one cares for my soul.

5 I cried out to You, O LORD;
I said, "You are [a]my refuge,
My [b]portion in the [c]land of the living.
6 "[a]Give heed to my cry,
For I am [b]brought very low;
Deliver me from my persecutors,
For they are too [c]strong for me.
7 "[a]Bring my soul out of prison,
So that I may give thanks to Your name;
The righteous will surround me,
For You will [b]deal bountifully with me."

Psalm 143

A Psalm of David.

1 Hear my prayer, O LORD,
[a]Give ear to my supplications!
Answer me in Your [b]faithfulness, in Your [c]righteousness!
2 And [a]do not enter into judgment with Your servant,
For in Your sight [b]no man living is righteous.
3 For the enemy has persecuted my soul;
He has crushed my life [a]to the ground;
He [b]has made me dwell in dark places, like those who have long been dead.

141:6 my words. Of commitment to righteousness, as in vv. 3–5. pleasant. Good and right.
141:8–10 A plea that God will deliver from the designs of the wicked.
141:8 do not leave me defenseless. As you do the wicked (see v. 7; see also 73:18–20,23–26 and notes).
141:9 trap . . . snares. Perhaps, as usual, the plots of men to bring him down (as in 38:12; 64:5; 91:3; 140:5; 142:3)—but here reference may be to the enticements to evil that the wicked lay before him (see Ex 23:33; Deut 7:16; Josh 23:13; Judg 2:3).
141:10 Let the wicked fall. See note on 5:10.
Ps 142 A plaintive prayer for deliverance from powerful enemies—when powerless, alone and without refuge. Apart from the introduction (vv. 1–2) and conclusion (v. 7b), the prayer (in Hebrew) is composed of two four-line stanzas (vv. 3–7a).
142 title Maskil. See note on Ps 32 title. of David. See note on Ps 138 title. when . . . cave. See note on Ps 57 title. A Prayer. See note on Ps 17 title.
142:1–2 Initial appeal—using the formal third person (as was often done when addressing kings), equivalent to: "I cry aloud to You, O LORD."
142:3–4 Description of when he had been "brought very low" (v. 6).
142:3 When my spirit was overwhelmed. Because he is overwhelmed by his situation (see 22:14–15). You knew. And were concerned about (cf. v. 4).
142:4 to the right. To my right hand, where one's helper or defender stands (see 16:8 and note). regards me. In Hebrew a less common synonym of "know" (v. 3); see Ruth 2:10,19 ("notice").
142:5–7 Prayer for rescue.
142:5 portion. The sustainer and preserver of his life (see 73:26 and note).
142:7 prison. Metaphor for the sense of being fettered by affliction (see note on 18:19; see also Job 36:8). that I may give thanks. In celebration of God's saving help (see note on 7:17). name. See note on 5:11. righteous. See note on 1:5. will surround me. He will no longer be alone. The conclusion expresses an expectant word of confidence (see note on 3:8).
Ps 143 A prayer for deliverance from enemies and for divine leading. This is the seventh and final penitential psalm (see introduction to Ps 6). In the first half (vv. 1–6) the psalmist makes his appeal and describes his situation; in the second half (vv. 7–12) he presents his prayer. Appeal to God's righteousness (vv. 1,11) and the author's self-identification as "Your servant" (vv. 2,12) enclose the prayer. See also his appeal to God's faithfulness (v. 1) and lovingkindness (v. 12), which together form a frequent pair (see note on 36:5). For another enclosure see note on v. 7.
143 title See note on Ps 138 title.
143:1–2 Initial appeal.
143:1 righteousness. See note on 4:1.
143:2 As he begins his prayer, he pleads that God not sit in judgment over His servant (he knows his own failings) but that He focus His judicial attention on the enemy's harsh and unwarranted attacks.
143:3–4 The distress he suffers.
143:3 The last half of this verse appears almost verbatim in Lam 3:6. in dark places. As one cut off from the enjoyments of life (see v. 7; see also notes on 27:1; 30:1).

4 Therefore [a]my spirit [1]is overwhelmed within me;
My heart is [2b]appalled within me.

5 I [a]remember the days of old;
I [b]meditate on all Your doings;
I [c]muse on the work of Your hands.
6 I [a]stretch out my hands to You;
My [b]soul longs for You, as a [1]parched land. [2]Selah.

7 [a]Answer me quickly, O LORD, my [b]spirit fails;
[c]Do not hide Your face from me,
Or I will become like [d]those who go down to the pit.
8 Let me hear Your [a]lovingkindness [b]in the morning;
For I trust [c]in You;
Teach me the [d]way in which I should walk;
For to You I [e]lift up my soul.
9 [a]Deliver me, O LORD, from my enemies;
[1]I take refuge in You.

10 [a]Teach me to do Your will,
For You are my God;
Let [b]Your good Spirit [c]lead me on level [1]ground.
11 [a]For the sake of Your name, O LORD, [b]revive me.
[c]In Your righteousness bring my soul out of trouble.
12 And in Your lovingkindness, [1a]cut off my enemies
And [b]destroy all those who afflict my soul,
For [c]I am Your servant.

Psalm 144

A Psalm of David.

1 Blessed be the LORD, [a]my rock,
Who [b]trains my hands for war,
And my fingers for battle;
2 My lovingkindness and [a]my fortress,
My [b]stronghold and my deliverer,
My [c]shield and He in whom I take refuge,
Who [d]subdues [1]my people under me.
3 O LORD, [a]what is man, that You take knowledge of him?
Or the son of man, that You think of him?
4 [a]Man is like a mere breath;
His [b]days are like a passing shadow.

5 [a]Bow Your heavens, O LORD, and [b]come down;
[c]Touch the mountains, that they may smoke.
6 Flash forth [a]lightning and scatter them;
Send out Your [b]arrows and confuse them.
7 Stretch forth Your hand [a]from on high;
Rescue me and [b]deliver me out of great waters,
Out of the hand of [c]aliens
8 Whose mouths [a]speak deceit,
And whose [b]right hand is a right hand of falsehood.

143:4 my spirit is overwhelmed. See note on 142:3. heart. See note on 4:7.
143:5–6 Remembrance of God's past acts of deliverance encourages him in his appeal.
143:6 stretch out my hands. In prayer (see 44:20; 88:9; Ex 9:29). soul. See v. 8; see also note on 6:3. longs for You. See note on 63:1.
143:7–10 The prayer.
143:7 my spirit fails. Or perhaps: "my spirit faints with longing," which parallels that in 119:81; in view of the next line the thought appears closer to that of 104:29. Ultimately, the failing of "my spirit" will be healed by the leading of "Your good Spirit" (v. 10)—the two references enclose the prayer. hide Your face. See note on 13:1. the pit. See v. 3 and note on 30:1.
143:8 the morning. Of salvation from the present "dark places" (v. 3; see introduction to Ps 57). lovingkindness. See v. 12; see also note on 6:4. Teach me the way. See v. 10. Deliverance from the enemy is not enough—either for God's "servant" (vv. 2,12) or for entrance into life.
143:10 level ground. See note on 26:12.
143:11–12 Concluding summary of the prayer (see introduction).
143:11 For the sake of Your name. See note on 23:3.
143:12 destroy all those who afflict my soul. See note on 5:10.
Ps 144 A royal prayer for victory over treacherous enemies (but see note on vv. 12–15). Verses 1–10 show much affinity with Ps 18; this section begins and ends like that psalm, and vv. 5–7 all appear to be variations on corresponding lines found there (see notes below). The remaining lines of this section contain similar echoes of other psalms, and the author may have drawn directly on them. The main body (vv. 1–10) is fairly typical of the prayers of the Psalter, but the conclusion (vv. 12–15) is unique. Verse 11 appears to be transitional.
144 title See note on Ps 138 title.
144:1–2 Praise of the Lord. As the opening words of a prayer, it seems to function both as an initial appeal (see 143:1–2) and as a confession of confidence that the prayer will be heard. Notice the unusual piling up of epithets for God—all having their counterparts in Ps 18.
144:2 My lovingkindness. See note on 6:4. God is here called "my lovingkindness" because He is the source of benevolent acts of love that David can count on—just as God can be called "my salvation" because He is the source of salvation (see 27:1; 35:3; 62:2).
144:3–4 Confession of man's insignificance and of his dependence on God's help.
144:3 A variation of 8:4.

9 I will sing a [a]new song to You, O God;
Upon a [b]harp of ten strings I will sing praises to You,
10 Who [a]gives salvation to kings,
Who [b]rescues David His servant from the evil sword.
11 Rescue me and deliver me out of the hand of [a]aliens,
Whose mouth [b]speaks deceit
And whose [c]right hand is a right hand of falsehood.

12 Let our sons in their youth be as [a]grown-up plants,
And our daughters as [b]corner pillars [1]fashioned as for a palace;
13 Let our [a]garners be full, furnishing every kind of produce,
And our flocks bring forth thousands and ten thousands in our [1]fields;
14 Let our [a]cattle [1]bear
Without [2b]mishap and without [3c]loss,
Let there be no [d]outcry in our streets!
15 How blessed are the people who are so situated;
How [a]blessed are the people whose God is the LORD!

Psalm 145

A Psalm of Praise, of David.

1 I will [a]extol You, [b]my God, O King,
And I will [c]bless Your name forever and ever.
2 Every day I will bless You,
And I will [a]praise Your name forever and ever.
3 [a]Great is the LORD, and highly to be praised,
And His [b]greatness is unsearchable.
4 One [a]generation shall praise Your works to another,
And shall declare Your mighty acts.
5 On the [a]glorious [1]splendor of Your majesty
And [b]on Your wonderful works, I will meditate.
6 Men shall speak of the [1]power of Your [a]awesome acts,
And I will [b]tell of Your greatness.
7 They shall [1]eagerly utter the memory of Your [a]abundant goodness
And will [b]shout joyfully of Your righteousness.

8 The LORD is [a]gracious and merciful;
Slow to anger and great in lovingkindness.
9 The LORD is [a]good to all,
And His [b]mercies are over all His works.
10 [a]All Your works shall give thanks to You, O LORD,
And Your [b]godly ones shall bless You.
11 They shall speak of the [a]glory of Your kingdom
And talk of Your power;
12 To [a]make known to the sons of men [1]Your mighty acts
And the [b]glory of the majesty of [1]Your kingdom.
13 Your kingdom is [1]an [a]everlasting kingdom,
And Your dominion endures throughout all generations.

14 The LORD [a]sustains all who fall
And [b]raises up all who are bowed down.
15 The eyes of all [1]look to You,
And You [a]give them their food in due time.
16 You [a]open Your hand
And satisfy the desire of every living thing.

swear a covenant oath of allegiance or submission (see 106:26; Ex 6:8; Deut 32:40).

144:9–10 Vow to praise (see note on 7:17).

144:9 new song. See note on 33:3.

144:10 David His servant. See note on Ps 18 title.

144:11 Repetition of the prayer in vv. 7–8, apparently to serve as transition to what follows: If God will deliver His servant David, the realm will prosper and be secure.

144:12 daughters as . . . pillars fashioned. Temple columns in the shape of women were not uncommon (e.g., on the Acropolis in Athens).

144:14 Let our cattle bear. Or "Let our cattle be heavy with flesh" or "Let our cattle be heavy with young."

144:15 blessed. See note on 1:1.

Ps 145 A hymn to the Lord, the Great King, for His mighty acts and benevolent virtues, which are the glory of His kingly rule. It exploits to the full the traditional language of praise and, as an alphabetic acrostic, reflects the care of studied composition. Between the two-line introduction (vv. 1–2) and one-line conclusion (v. 21), four poetic paragraphs develop as many themes, each introduced with a thematic line (see vv. 3,8,13b,17).

145 title Praise. Hebrew tehillah, occurring only here in the psalm titles, but from a plural form (tehillim) has come the traditional Hebrew name of the Psalter. of David. See note on Ps 138 title.

145:1–2 Initial commitment to praise. name. See v. 21, thus framing the psalm (see note on 5:11).

145:3–7 Praise of God's mighty acts, which display His greatness (v. 3) and His goodness (v. 7)—as the author underscores by enclosing the paragraph with these two references. For the same combination see 86:10,17; 135:3,5.

145:4 shall praise . . . shall declare. See vv. 5–7,10–12,21; see also note on 9:1. Your works. In creation, providence and redemption.

145:7 righteousness. See v. 17; see also note on 4:1.

145:8–13a Praise of God's benevolent virtues, which move all creatures to celebrate the glory of His kingdom.

145:8 See Ex 34:6–7 and note.

145:10 All Your works shall give thanks to You. See v. 21; see also note on 65:13. godly ones. See note on 4:3.

145:14–16 Praise God's faithfulness.

17 The LORD is [a]righteous in all His ways
And kind in all His deeds.
18 The LORD is [a]near to all who call upon Him,
To all who call upon Him [b]in truth.
19 He will [a]fulfill the desire of those who fear Him;
He will also [b]hear their cry and will save them.
20 The LORD [a]keeps all who love Him,
But all the [b]wicked He will destroy.
21 My [a]mouth will speak the praise of the LORD,
And [b]all flesh will [c]bless His holy name forever and ever.

Psalm 146

1 [1]Praise [2]the LORD!
[a]Praise the LORD, O my soul!
2 I will praise the LORD [a]while I live;
I will [b]sing praises to my God while I have my being.
3 [a]Do not trust in princes,
In [1]mortal [b]man, in whom there is [c]no salvation.
4 His [a]spirit departs, he [b]returns to [1]the earth;
In that very day his [c]thoughts perish.
5 How [a]blessed is he whose help is the God of Jacob,
Whose [b]hope is in the LORD his God,
6 Who [a]made heaven and earth,
The [b]sea and all that is in them;
Who [c]keeps [1]faith forever;
7 Who [a]executes justice for the oppressed;
Who [b]gives food to the hungry.
The LORD [c]sets the prisoners free.
8 The LORD [a]opens the eyes of the blind;
The LORD [b]raises up those who are bowed down;
The LORD [c]loves the righteous;
9 The LORD [1a]protects the [2]strangers;
He [3b]supports the fatherless and the widow,
But He [4]thwarts [c]the way of the wicked.
10 The LORD will [a]reign forever,
Your God, O Zion, to all generations.
[1]Praise [2]the LORD!

Psalm 147

1 [1]Praise [2]the LORD!
For [a]it is good to sing praises to our God;
For [3]it is pleasant and praise is [b]becoming.
2 The LORD [a]builds up Jerusalem;
He [b]gathers the outcasts of Israel.
3 He heals the [a]brokenhearted
And [b]binds up their [1]wounds.
4 He [a]counts the number of the stars;
He [1b]gives names to all of them.
5 [a]Great is our Lord and abundant in strength;
His [b]understanding is [1]infinite.
6 The LORD [1a]supports the afflicted;
He brings down the wicked to the ground.
7 [a]Sing to the LORD with thanksgiving;
Sing praises to our God on the lyre,

145:17–20 Praise of God's righteousness.
145:17 kind. See note on 6:4.
145:18 in truth. With godly integrity.
145:21 The praise of God must continue, and every creature take it up—forever. all flesh. Or perhaps "every human" (see 65:2, "all men"; but see also 150:6).
Ps 146 An exhortation to trust in the Lord, Zion's King. The first of five Hallelujah psalms with which the Psalter closes, its date is probably postexilic. This and the remaining four psalms are all framed with Hallelujahs, which may have been added by the final editors (see Ps 105–106; 111–117).
146:1–2 Initial vow to praise—as long as life continues (see 145:21).
146:1 Praise the LORD, O my soul! See the frames around Ps 103–104. soul. See note on 6:3.
146:3–4 The call to trust in the Lord (see vv. 5–9) is heightened by contrast.
146:5–9 Exhortation to trust in the covenant God of Jacob (see note on 14:7), who as Creator is Lord over all, as the Faithful One defends the defenseless and provides for the needy, and as the Righteous One shows favor to the righteous but checks the wicked in their pursuits.
146:6 Who made heaven and earth. See note on 121:2.
146:8 righteous. See note on 1:5.
146:10 Concluding exultant testimony to the citizens of God's royal city. Zion. See note on 9:11.
Ps 147 Praise of God, the Creator, for His special mercies to Israel—possibly composed for the Levitical choirs on the joyous occasion of the dedication of the rebuilt walls of Jerusalem (see Neh 12:27–43). The Septuagint (the Greek translation of the OT) divides the work into two separate psalms (vv. 1–11, 12–20), but it is actually a three-part song (vv. 1–6, 7–11, 12–20), bound together by the frame (vv. 2–3, 19–20), in which the Lord's unique favors to Israel are celebrated. See introduction to Ps 146.
147:1 See note on 135:3.
147:2 builds up . . . gathers. Refers to the postexilic restoration of Jerusalem and Israel.
147:3 brokenhearted. Such as the exiles (see Ps 137; cf. Ps 126) and those who struggled in the face of great opposition to rebuild Jerusalem's walls (Neh 2:17–20; 4:1–23).
147:4–6 He whose power and understanding are such that He fixes the number of (or counts) the stars and names them is able to sustain His humble ones and bring the wicked down (see 20:8; 146:9; see also Is 40:26–29).
147:6 afflicted. Those who acknowledge that they are without resources (see 149:4). ground. Probably the grave (see note on 61:2).
147:7–11 The God who governs the rain and thus provides food for beast and bird is not pleased by man's reliance on his own capabilities or those of the animals he has domesticated (or the technologies he has developed); He is pleased when people serve Him and trust His loving care.

8 Who [a]covers the heavens with clouds,
Who [b]provides rain for the earth,
Who [c]makes grass to [1]grow on the mountains.
9 He [a]gives to the beast its food,
And to the [b]young ravens which cry.
10 He does not delight in the strength of the [a]horse;
He [b]does not take pleasure in the legs of a man.
11 The LORD [a]favors those who fear Him,
[b]Those who wait for His lovingkindness.

12 Praise the LORD, O Jerusalem!
Praise your God, O Zion!
13 For He has strengthened the [a]bars of your gates;
He has [b]blessed your sons within you.
14 He [a]makes [1]peace in your borders;
He [b]satisfies you with [c]the [2]finest of the wheat.
15 He sends forth His [a]command to the earth;
His [b]word runs very swiftly.
16 He gives [a]snow like wool;
He scatters the [b]frost like ashes.
17 He casts forth His [a]ice as fragments;
Who can stand before His [b]cold?
18 He [a]sends forth His word and melts them;
He [b]causes His wind to blow and the waters to flow.
19 He [a]declares His words to Jacob,
His [b]statutes and His ordinances to Israel.
20 He [a]has not dealt thus with any nation;
And as for His ordinances, they have [b]not known them.

Old men and children.

13 Let them praise the name of the LORD,
For His [a]name alone is exalted;
His [b]glory is above earth and heaven.

147:11 fear. See note on 34:8–14. lovingkindness. See note on 6:4.
147:12–18 The Lord of all creation, Zion's God, secures His people's defenses and prosperity, their peace and abundant provision. The verses mention clouds and rain (v. 8); snow, frost and hail (vv. 16–17); icy winds and warm breezes (vv. 17–18)—the whole range of weather.
147:15 His command . . . His word. Personified as messengers commissioned to carry out a divine order (see notes on 23:6; 33:4; 104:4).
147:19–20 God's most unique gift to Israel: His other word, His redemptive word, by which He makes known His program of salvation and His holy will.
Ps 148 A call to all things in all creation to praise the Lord. Whatever its original liturgical purpose, its placement here serves to complete the scope of the calls to praise with which the Psalter concludes. Two balanced stanzas of six verses each are followed by a two-verse conclusion. In the first stanza (vv. 1–6) the call goes to all creatures in the heavens, in the second (vv. 7–12) to all beneath the heavens (see 103:20–22). The conclusion (vv. 13–14) focuses on motivation for praise. See introduction to Ps 146.
148:1–6 Let all creatures in the heavens praise the Lord.
148:3 sun and moon . . . stars of light. See note on 65:13.
148:4 waters . . . above the heavens. The "deep" above (see Gen 1:7; cf. "all deeps" in v. 7; see also note on 42:7).
148:5 name of the LORD. See v. 13; see also note on 5:11. They are to praise the Lord because He has created them and made their existence secure.
148:7–12 Let all creatures of earth praise the Lord. ("Heaven and earth" are the sum of all creation; see v. 13; see also 89:11; 113:6; 136:5–6; Gen 2:1,4.)
148:7 Sea monsters and all deeps. Likely with Gen 1 in mind (see Gen 1:7,10,21), the call begins with these and moves toward the human components. This and the pairs that follow employ a figure of speech (merism) that refers to all reality pertaining to the sphere to which they belong—here, all creatures great and small that belong to the realm of lakes and seas.
148:8 His word. See 147:15 and note.
148:13–14 Conclusion, with focus on motivation for praise.
148:13 His name . . . His glory. As shown in the glory of His creation. is above. The glory of the Creator is greater than the glory of the creation.
148:14 horn. The Lord's anointed ("horn" here symbolizes strong one, that is, the king; see notes on 2:2; Ps 18 title). It may be, however, that "horn" here represents the strength and vig-

1 [1]Praise [2]the LORD!
Sing to the LORD a [a]new song,
And His praise [b]in the congregation of the godly ones.
2 Let Israel be glad in [a]his Maker;
Let the sons of Zion rejoice in their [b]King.
3 Let them praise His name with [a]dancing;
Let them sing praises to Him with [b]timbrel and lyre.
4 For the LORD [a]takes pleasure in His people;
He will [b]beautify the afflicted ones with salvation.

5 Let the [a]godly ones exult in glory;
Let them [b]sing for joy on their beds.
6 Let the [a]high praises of God be in their [1]mouth,
And a [b]two-edged [c]sword in their hand,
7 To [a]execute vengeance on the nations
And punishment on the peoples,
8 To bind their kings [a]with chains
And their [b]nobles with fetters of iron,
9 To [a]execute on them the judgment written;
This is an [b]honor for all His godly ones.

or of God's people (see 92:10; 1 Sam 2:1; Jer 48:25; Lam 2:17). In any event, reference is to God's saving acts for Israel—God is to be praised for His works in creation and redemption (see note on 65:6–7). Praise. See 22:3 and note.

Ps 149 Praise of God for the high honor bestowed on His people. It is no doubt postexilic. Israel's unique honor has two sides: She has been granted salvation (in fact and in promise), and she has been armed to execute God's sentence of judgment on the world powers that have launched their attacks against the kingdom of God—she is the earthly contingent of the armies of the King of heaven (see 68:17 and note; see also Josh 5:14; 2 Sam 5:23–24; 2 Chr 20:15–17,22; Hab 3:3–15). This next-to-last psalm clearly marks the Psalter as the prayer book (liturgical book of prayer and praise) of OT Israel.

Following an introductory verse, the two main themes are developed in two balanced stanzas of four verses each. References to God's "godly ones" enclose the song (see also v. 5). The common pair of synonyms, "glory" (v. 5) and "honor" (v. 9), effectively link the two stanzas (see 8:5; 21:5, "glory . . . majesty"; 104:1,31, "majesty . . . glory"; 145:5, "glorious splendor"; Is 35:2, "glory . . . majesty").

149:1 new song. See note on 33:3. in the congregation. See note on 9:1. godly ones. See vv. 5,9; see also note on 4:3.

149:2–5 Let Israel rejoice in their King, who has crowned them with the honor of salvation.

149:3 His name. See note on 5:11.

149:4 Beautify. Endow with splendor (see Is 55:5; 60:9; 61:3). afflicted ones. Those who acknowledge that they are without resources (see 147:6).

149:5 on their beds. The salvation (v. 4) so tangible in the daytime evokes songs in the night (see 42:8; 63:6; 77:6).

149:6–9 Let Israel praise their God, who has given them the glory of bearing the sword as His army in service.

149:7 vengeance. God's just retribution on those who have attacked His kingdom. Of this divine retribution the OT speaks often: 58:10; 79:10; 94:1; Num 31:2; Deut 32:35,41,43; 2 Kin 9:7; Is 34:8; 35:4; 47:3; 59:17; 61:2; 63:4; Jer 46:10; 50:15,28; 51:6,11,36; Ezek 25:14,17; Mic 5:15; Nah 1:2. In the NT age, however, God's people are armed with the "sword of the Spirit" for overcoming the powers arrayed against God's kingdom (see 2 Cor 6:7; 10:4; Eph 6:12,17; Heb 4:12); their participation in God's retribution on the world awaits the final judgment (see 1 Cor 6:2–3).

149:9 judgment written. God's firmly determined judgment (see 139:16 and note).

Ps 150 The final great Hallelujah—perhaps composed specifically to close the Psalter. See the conclusions to the first four Books: 41:13; 72:18–19; 89:52; 106:48. This final call to praise moves powerfully by stages from place to themes to orchestra to choir, framed with Hallelujahs. See introduction to Ps 146.

150:1 Where God should be praised. His sanctuary. At Jerusalem. His mighty expanse. Lit. "the expanse of his power" (see 19:1; Gen 1:6), i.e., the expanse that displays or symbolizes His power or in which His power resides. Usually thought to refer to God's heavenly temple (see 11:4), it may signify the vaulted ceiling of the visible universe viewed as a cosmic temple.

150:2 Why God should be praised. His mighty deeds. In creation and redemption.

150:3–5 How God should be praised—with the whole orchestra (eight instruments: wind, string, percussion), with dancing aptly placed at the middle.

150:6 Who should praise God. Finally the choir, with articulate expression, celebrates God's mighty acts and surpassing greatness.

Proverbs

INTRODUCTION

Authors

Although the book begins with a title ascribing the proverbs to Solomon, it is clear from later chapters that he was not the only author of the book. Prov 22:17 refers to the "words of the wise," and 24:23 mentions additional "sayings of the wise." The presence of an introduction in 22:17–21 further indicates that these sections stem from a circle of wise men, not from Solomon himself. Ch. 30 is attributed to Agur son of Jakeh and 31:1–9 to King Lemuel, neither of whom is mentioned elsewhere. Lemuel's sayings contain several Aramaic spellings that point to a non-Israelite background.

Most of the book, however, is closely linked with Solomon. The headings in 10:1 and 25:1 again include his name, though 25:1 states that these proverbs were transcribed by the men of Hezekiah. This indicates that a group of wise men or scribes compiled these proverbs as editors and added chs. 25—29 to the earlier collections. Solomon's ability to produce proverbs is specified in 1 Kin 4:32, where 3,000 proverbs are attributed to him. Coupled with the statements about his unparalleled wisdom (1 Kin 4:29–31), it is quite likely that he was the source of most of Proverbs. The book contains a short prologue (1:1–7) and a longer epilogue (31:10–31), which may have been added to the other materials. It is possible that the discourses in the large opening section (1:8—9:18) were the work of a compiler or editor, but the similarities of this section with other chapters (compare 6:1 with 11:15; 17:18; 20:16; 27:13; compare 6:19 with 14:5,25; 19:5) fit a Solomonic origin equally well. The emphasis on the "fear of the LORD" (1:7) throughout the book ties the various segments together.

Date

If Solomon is granted a prominent role in the book, most of Proverbs would stem from the tenth century B.C. during the time of Israel's united kingdom. The peace and prosperity that characterized that era accord well with the development of reflective wisdom and the production of literary works. Moreover, several scholars have noted that the 30 sayings of the wise in 22:17—24:22 contain similarities to the 30 sections of the Egyptian "Wisdom of Amenemope," an instructional piece that is roughly contemporary with the time of Solomon (see chart, p. xix). Likewise, the personification of wisdom so prominent in chs. 1—9 (see 1:20 and note; 3:15–18; 8:1–36) can be compared with the personification of abstract ideas in both Mesopotamian and Egyptian writings of the second millennium B.C.

The role of Hezekiah's men (see 25:1) indicates that important sections of Proverbs were compiled and edited from 715 to 686 B.C. This was a time of spiritual renewal led by the king, who also showed great interest in the writings of David and Asaph (see 2 Chr 29:30). Perhaps it was also at this time that the sayings of Agur (ch. 30) and Lemuel (31:1–9) and the other "words of the wise" (22:17—24:22; 24:23–34) were added to the Solomonic collections, though it is possible that the task of compilation was not completed until after the reign of Hezekiah.

The Nature of a Proverb

The Hebrew word translated "proverb" is also translated "taunt" (Is 14:4), "discourse" (Num 23:7,18) and "parable" (Ezek 17:2); so its meaning is considerably broader than the English term. This may help explain the presence of the longer discourse sections in chs. 1—9. Most proverbs are short, compact statements that express truths about human behavior. Often there is some repetition of a word or sound that aids memorization. In 30:33, e.g., the same Hebrew verb is translated "churning" and "pressing."

In the largest section of the book (10:1—22:16) most of the proverbs are two lines long, and those in chs. 10—15 almost always express a contrast. Sometimes the writer simply makes a general observation, such as "a bribe is a charm in the sight of its owner" (17:8; cf. 14:20), but usually he evaluates conduct: "But he who hates bribes will live" (15:27). Many proverbs, in fact, describe the consequences of a particular action or character trait: "A wise son makes a father glad" (10:1). Since the proverbs were written primarily for instruction, often they are given in the form of commands: "Do not love sleep, or you will become poor" (20:13). Even where the imperative form is not used, the desired action is quite clear (see 14:5).

A common feature of the proverbs is the use of figurative language: "Like cold water to a weary soul / So is good news from a distant land" (25:25). In ch. 25 alone there are 11 verses that begin with "like" or "as." These similes make the proverbs more vivid and powerful. Occasionally the simile is used in a humorous or sarcastic way: "As a ring of gold in a swine's snout / So is a beautiful woman who lacks discretion" (11:22; cf. 26:9), or, "As the door turns on its hinges, / So does the sluggard on his bed" (26:14). Equally effective is the use of metaphors: "The teaching of the wise is a fountain of life" (13:14), and "A soothing tongue is a tree of life" (15:4). According to 16:24, "Pleasant words are a honeycomb." The figure of sowing and reaping is used in both a positive and a negative way (cf. 11:18; 22:8).

In order to develop a proper set of values, a number of proverbs use direct comparisons: "Better is the poor who walks in his integrity / Than he who is crooked though he be rich" (28:6). This "better . . . than" pattern can be seen also in 15:16–17; 16:19,32; 17:1,12; a modified form occurs in 22:1. Another pattern found in the book is the so-called numerical proverb. Used for the first time in 6:16 (see note there), this type of saying normally has the number three in the first line and four in the second (cf. 30:15,18,21,29).

The repetition of entire proverbs (compare 6:10–11 with 24:33–34; 14:12 with 16:25; 20:16 with 27:13) or parts of proverbs may serve a poetic purpose. A slight variation allows the writer(s) to use the same image to make a related point (as in 17:3; 27:21) or to substitute a word to achieve greater clarity or a different emphasis (cf. 19:1; 28:6). In 26:4–5 the same line is repeated in a seemingly contradictory way, but this was designed to make two different points (see notes there).

At times the book of Proverbs is very direct and earthy (cf. 6:6; 21:9; 25:16; 26:3,11). This is the nature of wisdom literature as it seeks to drive home truth and to turn sinners from their wicked ways (see essay, p. 689).

Purpose and Teaching

According to the prologue, Proverbs was written to give "prudence to the naive, to the youth knowledge and discretion" (1:4), and to make wise men wiser (1:5). The frequent references to "my son" (1:8,10; 2:1; 3:1; 4:1; 5:1) emphasize instructing the young and guiding them into a happy and prosperous life. Acquiring wisdom and knowing how to avoid the pitfalls of folly will lead to health and success. Although Proverbs is a practical book dealing with the art of living, it bases wisdom solidly on the fear of the Lord (1:7). Throughout the book this reverence for God is set forth as the path to life and security (cf. 3:5; 9:10; 22:4). People must trust in the Lord (3:5) and not in themselves (28:26). The references to the "tree of life" (3:18; 11:30; 13:12) recall the joyful bliss of the Garden of Eden and figuratively say that the one who finds wisdom will be greatly blessed.

In chs. 1—9 the writer contrasts the way of wisdom with the path of violence (1:11–18) and immorality (2:16–18). The adulteress with her seductive words tries to lure a young man to her house and ultimately to death (cf. ch. 5; 6:24–35; 7; 9:13–18). Sexual immorality is thus an example of and a symbol for the antithesis of wisdom (cf. 22:14; 23:27; 30:20).

At the same time, Proverbs condemns the quarrelsome wife and her unbearable ways (19:13; 21:9,19). The home is supposed to be a place of love, not dissension (cf. 15:17; 17:1). Quarrelsome, quick-tempered men are also denounced (cf. 14:29; 26:21), and gossiping is viewed as a source of great trouble (11:13; 18:8; 26:22). If anyone is able to control his tongue, he is a man of knowledge (cf. 10:19; 17:27). At the same time, the tongue must be used to instruct one's children (cf. 1:8; 22:6; 31:26), and discipline is necessary for their well-being (see 13:24 and note).

Proverbs strongly encourages diligence and hard work (see 10:4 and note; 31:17–19) and holds the sluggard up to contempt for his laziness (see 6:6 and note). A son "who sleeps in harvest is a son who acts shamefully" (10:5), and those who love sleep are sure to grow poor (cf. 20:13). Generally, wealth is connected to righteousness (cf. 3:16) and poverty to wickedness (cf. 22:16), but some verses link riches with the wicked (15:16;

28:6). Honesty and justice are praised repeatedly, and it is expected that a king will defend the rights of the poor and needy (cf. 31:5). Those who are kind to the needy will be richly blessed (see 14:21 and note), but there are several warnings against putting up security for a neighbor (see 6:1 and note).

The proud and the arrogant are sure to be destroyed (cf. 11:2; 16:18), especially the mocker with his "insolent pride" (see 21:24 and note on 1:22). Drunkards are depicted as the epitome of the fool (cf. 20:1), and their woes and miseries are described in graphic terms in 23:29–35.

Although Proverbs is more practical than theological, God's work as Creator is especially highlighted. The role of wisdom in creation is the subject of 8:22–31 (see notes there), where wisdom as an attribute of God is personified. Twice God is called the Maker of the poor (14:31; 17:5). He also directs the steps of a man (cf. 16:9; 20:24), and his eyes observe all his actions (cf. 5:21; 15:3). God is sovereign over the kings of the earth (21:1), and all history moves forward under his control (see notes on 16:4,33).

Literary Structure

A short prologue (stating the purpose and theme, 1:1–7) opens the book, and a longer epilogue (identifiable by its subject matter and its alphabetic form, 31:10–31) closes it. The first nine chapters contain a series of discourses that contrast the way and benefits of wisdom with the way of the fool. Except for the sections where personified wisdom speaks (1:20; 8:1,22; 9:1), each discourse begins with "my son" or "my sons." These units are similar to the discourses found in Job and Ecclesiastes, which also contain speeches given in poetic form.

A key feature in the introductory discourses of Proverbs is the personification of both wisdom and folly (as women), each of whom (by appeals and warnings on the part of Lady Wisdom, by enticements on the part of Lady Folly) seeks to persuade "naive" youths to follow her ways. These discourses are strikingly organized. Beginning (1:8–33) and ending (chs. 8—9) with direct enticements and appeals, the main body of the discourses is made up of two nicely balanced sections, one devoted to the commendation of wisdom (chs. 2—4) and the other to warnings against folly (chs. 5—7). In these discourses the young man is depicted as being enticed to folly by men who try to get ahead in the world by exploiting others (1:10–19) and by women who seek sexual pleasure outside the bond of marriage (ch. 5; 6:20–25; 7). In the social structures of that day, these were the two great temptations for young men. The second especially functions here as illustrative and emblematic of the appeal of Lady Folly.

The main collection of Solomon's proverbs in 10:1—22:16 consists of individual couplets, many of which express a contrast. On the surface, there does not seem to be any discernible arrangement, though occasionally two or three proverbs deal with the same subject. For example, 11:24–25 deals with generosity, 16:12–15 mentions a king, and 19:4,6–7 talks about friendship. However, there is growing evidence that arrangements of larger units were deliberate. Further study of this possibility is necessary. The second Solomonic collection (chs. 25—29) continues the pattern of two-line verses, but there are also examples of proverbs with three (25:13; 27:10,22) or four (25:4–5,21–22; 26:18–19) lines. The last five verses of ch. 27 (vv. 23–27) present a short discourse on the benefits of raising flocks and herds.

In the "words of the wise" (22:17—24:22) and the "sayings of the wise" of 24:23–34, there is a prevalence of two- or three-verse units and something of a return to the style of chs. 1—9 (see 23:29–35 especially). These sections function as an appendix to 10:1—22:16 and contain some similar proverbs (compare 24:6 with 11:14; 24:16 with 11:5). Even stronger are the links with chs. 1—9 (compare 23:27 with 2:16; 24:33–34 with 6:10–11).

The last two chapters serve as an appendix to chs. 25 — 29. The words of Agur are dominated by the numerical proverb (30:15,18,21,24,29) and include a close parallel to Ps 18:30 in 30:5 (also compare 30:6 with Deut 4:2). After the nine verses attributed to King Lemuel (31:1 – 9), Proverbs concludes with an epilogue, an impressive acrostic poem honoring a worthy woman. She demonstrates, and thus epitomizes, many of the qualities and values identified with wisdom throughout the book. In view of the fact that Proverbs is primarily addressed to young men on the threshold of mature life, this focus on a worthy woman appears surprising. But its purpose may be twofold: (1) to offer counsel on the kind of wife a young man ought to seek, and (2) in a subtle way to advise the young man (again) to marry Lady Wisdom, thus returning to the theme of chs. 1 — 9 (as climaxed in ch. 9; compare the description of Lady Wisdom in 9:1 – 2 with the virtues of the wife of noble character). In any event, the concluding epitomizing of wisdom in the wife of noble character forms a literary frame with the opening discourses, where wisdom is personified as a woman.

The Usefulness of Proverbs

1 The [a]proverbs of Solomon [b]the son of David, king of Israel:
2 To know [a]wisdom and instruction,
To discern the sayings of
[b]understanding,
3 To [a]receive instruction in wise behavior,
[b]Righteousness, justice and equity;
4 To give [a]prudence to the [1]naive,
To the youth [b]knowledge and discretion,
5 A wise man will hear and [a]increase in learning,
And a [b]man of understanding will acquire wise counsel,
6 To understand a proverb and a figure,
The words of the wise and their
[a]riddles.

7 [a]The fear of the LORD is the beginning of knowledge;
Fools despise wisdom and instruction.

The Enticement of Sinners

8 [a]Hear, my son, your father's instruction
And [b]do not forsake your mother's teaching;
9 Indeed, they are a [a]graceful wreath to your head
And [1b]ornaments about your neck.
10 My son, if sinners [a]entice you,
[b]Do not consent.
11 If they say, "Come with us,
Let us [a]lie in wait for blood,
Let us [b]ambush the innocent without cause;
12 Let us [a]swallow them alive like Sheol,
Even whole, as those who [b]go down to the pit;
13 We will find all kinds of precious wealth,
We will fill our houses with spoil;
14 Throw in your lot [1]with us,
We shall all have one purse," 15 My son, [a]do not walk in the way with
them.
[b]Keep your feet from their path,
16 For [a]their feet run to evil
And they hasten to shed blood.
17 Indeed, it is [1]useless to spread the baited net
In the sight of any [2]bird;
18 But they [a]lie in wait for their own blood;
They ambush their own lives.
19 So are the ways of everyone who
[a]gains by violence;
It takes away the life of its possessors.

1:1 Solomon. His wisdom and prolific production of proverbs and songs are mentioned in 1 Kin 4:32. His name occurs again in the headings of 10:1 and 25:1. Cf. Eccl 1:1; Song 1:1.
1:2–4 Verses 2–3 apply to the son (or student); v. 4 refers to the father (or teacher).
1:2 wisdom. This key term occurs over 40 times in the book. It includes skill in living—following God's design and thus avoiding moral pitfalls. A craftsman can be called a wise (skillful) man (Ex 31:3). Proverbs urges people to get wisdom (4:5), for it is worth more than silver or gold (3:13–14). The NT refers to Christ as "wisdom from God" (1 Cor 1:30; cf. Col 2:3).
1:3 Righteousness, justice and equity. See 2:9.
1:4 prudence. Good judgment or good sense (see 15:5; 19:25). Outside Proverbs the Hebrew word is used in the negative sense of "crafty" or "shrewd" (Gen 3:1; Job 5:13). naive. Another key word in Proverbs, occurring some 15 times. It denotes those who are easily persuaded and who "lack understanding" (9:4,16), who are immature, inexperienced and simple (cf. Ps 19:7). Generally speaking, the Hebrew term for "naive" denotes one without moral direction and inclined to evil; see 1:22.
1:6 riddles. The Hebrew for this word can sometimes refer to allegories (cf. Ezek 17:2).
1:7 The theme of the book (see 9:10; 31:30; cf. Job 28:28; Ps 111:10). fear of the LORD. A loving reverence for God that includes submission to His lordship and to the commands of His word (Eccl 12:13). God is our king (Mal 1:14), but even as we stand in awe of Him we can rejoice (see Ps 2:11; Is 12:6). Fools. Those who hate knowledge (v. 22) and correction of any kind (12:1), who are ready to "quarrel" (20:3) and make no effort to restrain their anger (29:11), who are complacent (1:32) and who trust in themselves (28:26) rather than in God (Ps 14:1). despise wisdom and instruction. See 5:12 and note.
1:8 A typical introduction to an instruction speech in Proverbs, evoking a domestic situation of a father preparing his son for life in the world. Here and in 6:20 the mother is also depicted as teacher.
1:9 graceful . . . ornaments. Those who follow wisdom add beauty and honor to their lives.
1:11 lie in wait for blood. Their goal is personal enrichment by theft or oppression (vv. 13,19), even if they have to commit murder. The author uses two major enticements that confronted the young man (in that culture) as examples of the way of folly: (1) to get rich by exploiting others (here) and (2) to be drawn into illicit sexual pleasure by immoral women who fail to honor their marriage vows (5:1–6; 6:24; 7:5; cf. 2:12–19).
1:12 swallow . . . like Sheol. Vivid poetic imagery for shamelessly victimizing others (see note on Ps 49:14).
1:13 precious wealth. By contrast, the book of Proverbs teaches that wisdom brings the greatest riches man could ever gain (3:14–16; 16:16; see also Job 28:12–19).
1:15 path. Cf. the destructive paths of the adulteress in 2:18; 7:25.
1:16 The same as the first two lines of Is 59:7 and partially quoted in Rom 3:15. Cf. Prov 6:17–18.
1:17 net. Nets were used to catch birds and animals (see 6:5; 7:23; Eccl 9:12; Is 51:20; Jer 5:26).
1:18 ambush their own lives. The wicked unintentionally spread a net for their own feet (29:6; Ps 35:8), so they are less intelligent than birds (see 7:22–23). According to Is 17:14, the lot of those who plunder God's people is destruction.
1:19 Cf. Is 17:14. Contrast the long life enjoyed by the one who hates ill-gotten gain (28:16).
1:20 Wisdom shouts in the street. Here and in 3:15–18; 8; 9:1–12 wisdom is personified. This is a poetic device common also in Isaiah (cf. 55:12; 59:14). square. An open area inside the gate of a fortified city.

21 At the head of the noisy streets she cries out;
At the entrance of the gates in the city she utters her sayings:
22 "How long, O [1][a]naive ones, will you love [2]being simple-minded?
And [b]scoffers delight themselves in scoffing
And fools [c]hate knowledge?
23 "Turn to my reproof,
Behold, I will [a]pour out my spirit on you;
I will make my words known to you.
24 "Because [a]I called and you [b]refused,
I [c]stretched out my hand and no one paid attention;
25 And you [a]neglected all my counsel
And did not [b]want my reproof;
26 I will also [a]laugh at your [b]calamity;
I will mock when your [c]dread comes,
27 When your dread comes like a storm
And your calamity comes like a [a]whirlwind,
When distress and anguish come upon you.
28 "Then they will [a]call on me, but I will not answer;
They will [b]seek me diligently but they will not find me,
29 Because they [a]hated knowledge
And did not choose the fear of the LORD.

The Pursuit of Wisdom Brings Security

2 My son, if you will [a]receive my words
And [b]treasure my commandments within you,
2 [a]Make your ear attentive to wisdom,
Incline your heart to understanding;
3 For if you cry for discernment,
[1]Lift your voice for understanding;
4 If you seek her as [a]silver
And search for her as for [b]hidden treasures;
5 Then you will discern the [a]fear of the LORD
And discover the knowledge of God.
6 For [a]the LORD gives wisdom;

4 [a]Prov 3:14 [b]Job 3:21; Matt 13:44 5 [a]Prov 1:7
6 [a]1 Kin 3:12; Job 32:8; James 1:5

1:21 gates. Where the leaders of the city met to hold court (see 31:23; Ruth 4:11; Job 29:7) and where the marketplace was located (2 Kin 7:1). As a young man confronts life in its social context, two voices lure him, appeal for his allegiance, and seek to shape his life: (1) the voice of wisdom (as exemplified in the instructions of the teachers of wisdom) and (2) the voice of folly (as exemplified in the sinners of vv. 10–14 and in the adulteress of 5:3; 6:24; 7:5). Thus in the midst of life the youth must learn to exercise discretion. Here and in chs. 8–9 wisdom makes her appeal. She speaks neither out of heaven (by special revelation, as do the prophets) nor out of the earth (through voices from the dead—necromancy; see Lev 19:31; Deut 18:11; 1 Sam 28:7–19), but out of the center of the life of the city, where man's communal experience of the creation order (established by God's wisdom, 8:22–31) is concentrated (see, e.g., 11:10 and note). And it is there also that the godly, the truly wise, test human experience in the crucible of faith and afterward give divine wisdom a human voice in their wise instructions—as in Proverbs.

1:22 scoffers. Those who are proud and arrogant (21:24), who are full of insults, hatred and strife (9:7–8; 22:10; 29:8), who resist correction (13:1; 15:12) even though they deserve flogging (19:25; 21:11).

1:23 pour out my spirit. Wisdom is like a fountain. Her words would constantly refresh and strengthen (see 18:4).

1:24 refused. As God was refused by Israel (see Is 1:4; 5:24) and Jesus by the people of Jerusalem (Matt 23:37). stretched out my hand. Cf. Is 65:2, where God held out His hands all day long to a stubborn people.

1:25 neglected . . . counsel. Cf. 8:33.

1:26 laugh at your calamity. Not an expression of heartlessness but a reaction to the absurdity of fools, who laugh at wisdom, choose folly and bring disaster on themselves. Cf. the Lord's response to kings who think they can rebel against Him (Ps 2:4). dread comes. Also the fate of "a worthless person, a wicked man" (6:12–15).

1:27 like a storm. See 10:25. like a whirlwind. When Job's family was killed by a mighty wind (Job 1:19), his comforters concluded that his wickedness was the cause of the disaster (Job 18:5,12). distress and anguish. See Is 8:22.

1:28 I will not answer. Just as God refused to listen to Israel when the people sinned (Deut 1:45; Is 1:15). find me. Those who find wisdom find life and blessing (see v. 33; 3:13; 8:17,35).

1:29 fear of the LORD. See note on v. 7.

1:31 eat . . . be satiated. The consequences depend on their actions (18:20; 31:31; Is 3:10). "Whatever a man sows, this he will also reap" (Gal 6:7).

1:32 complacency. A false sense of security (see Is 32:9; Amos 6:1; Zeph 1:12).

1:33 securely . . . at ease. Words used of places that enjoy God's protection (see Is 32:18; Ezek 34:27).

2:1 treasure . . . within you. Just as the psalmist urged young men to avoid sin by hiding God's word in their hearts (Ps 119:11).

2:2 Make your ear attentive. Listening implies attentiveness and obedience (Is 55:3; Jer 13:15). heart. The Hebrew word translated "heart" here (and in 4:21; 1 Kin 3:9) can sometimes be translated "mind" or "intelligence" (see Job 12:3).

2:4 silver . . . hidden treasures. Job 28:1–11 describes ancient mining techniques, comparing mining with the search for wisdom (see Job 28:12).

2:5 fear of the LORD. See note on 1:7. knowledge of God. Involves knowing God as a person (Phil 3:10) and knowing what He is teaching us (v. 6). God. Hebrew Elohim (see note on Gen 2:4); occurs elsewhere in Proverbs only in v. 17; 3:4; 25:2; 30:9.

From His mouth come knowledge and understanding.
7 He stores up sound wisdom for the upright;
He is a [a]shield to those who walk in integrity,
8 Guarding the paths of justice,
And He [a]preserves the way of His godly ones.
9 Then you will discern [a]righteousness and justice
And equity and every [b]good course.
10 For [a]wisdom will enter your heart
And [b]knowledge will be pleasant to your soul;
11 Discretion will [a]guard you,
Understanding will watch over you,
12 To [a]deliver you from the way of evil,
From the man who speaks [b]perverse things;
13 From those who [a]leave the paths of uprightness
To walk in the [b]ways of darkness;
14 Who [a]delight in doing evil
And rejoice in the perversity of evil;
15 Whose paths are [a]crooked,
And who are devious in their ways;
16 To [a]deliver you from the strange woman,
From the [1][b]adulteress who flatters with her words;
17 That leaves the [a]companion of her youth
And forgets the [b]covenant of her God;
18 For [a]her house [1]sinks down to death
And her tracks lead to the [2]dead;
19 None [a]who go to her return again,
Nor do they reach the [b]paths of life.
20 So you will [a]walk in the way of good men
And keep to the [b]paths of the righteous.
21 For [a]the upright will [1]live in the land
And [b]the blameless will remain in it;
22 But [a]the wicked will be cut off from the land
And [b]the treacherous will be [c]uprooted from it.

The Rewards of Wisdom

3 My son, [a]do not forget my [1]teaching,
But let your heart [b]keep my commandments;
2 For [a]length of days and years of life
And peace they will add to you.
3 Do not let [a]kindness and truth leave you;
[b]Bind them around your neck,
[c]Write them on the tablet of your heart.
4 So you will [a]find favor and [b]good [1]repute
In the sight of God and man.
5 [a]Trust in the LORD with all your heart
And [b]do not lean on your own understanding.

2:7 stores up. For those who "store up" ("treasure") His commands (v. 1). shield. Associated with victory also in Ps 18:2,35; cf. Prov 30:5. in integrity. See 19:1.
2:8 Guarding . . . preserves. See Ps 91:3–7,11–12.
2:9–11 Those who know the Lord and the wisdom He gives will know what course of action to follow (cf. Heb 5:11–14).
2:9 righteousness and justice And equity. See 1:3; Phil 4:8. good course. See "the paths of righteousness" of Ps 23:3.
2:10 pleasant to your soul. Just as the words of a wise man are "sweet to the soul" of another (16:24; cf. 3:17).
2:11 guard . . . watch over. As God guards the faithful (v. 8).
2:12–19 Wisdom will save from the enticements of men to follow perverse ways (vv. 12–15) and from the enticements of the adulteress (vv. 16–19). See note on 1:11.
2:12 speaks perverse things. Cf. v. 14. The deceitfulness of men's speech is also mentioned in 8:13; 10:31–32; 17:20.
2:13 paths of uprightness. See 3:6; 9:15–16. ways of darkness. Men love darkness instead of light (see John 3:19–21; see also Job 24:15–16; Is 29:15; Rom 13:12).
2:14 delight . . . rejoice in . . . evil. Like the sinners of 1:10–16.
2:15 paths are crooked. See Is 59:7–8.
2:16 strange woman . . . adulteress. The Hebrew for these terms occurs again in 5:20 and 7:5. The terms mean lit. "stranger" and "foreigner" (cf. 5:10) because anyone other than one's own wife was to be considered off limits, like a foreigner who worshiped another god (cf. 1 Kin 11:1). "Adulteress" is parallel to "evil woman" in 6:24 and "harlot" in 23:27. words. Equal to the "flattering lips" of 6:24 and the "smooth talk" of 7:21. Cf. 5:3.
2:17 companion of her youth. Her husband, whom she married when she was a young woman (cf. Is 54:6). covenant of her God. Perhaps the marriage covenant, spoken in God's presence (see Ezek 16:8; Mal 2:14). Here, however, the "covenant of her God" more likely refers to the breaking of the seventh commandment (Ex 20:14).
2:18 sinks down to death. According to 7:27, "her house is the way to Sheol." A life of immorality leads to the destruction and death of all who are involved (cf. 5:5; 9:18). the dead. See Job 26:5 and note. The deceased are in the grave (or Sheol), "the chambers of death" (7:27).
2:21 live in the land. Israel had been promised the land of Canaan (Gen 17:8; Deut 4:1), and Ps 37:29 says that "The righteous will inherit the land" (see Ps 37:9,11; Matt 5:5).
2:22 cut off from the land . . . uprooted from it. In Deut 28:63 God warned that if the people refuse to obey Him, they "will be torn from the land." Evil men and their offspring will be cut off (Ps 37:9,28).
3:2 days and years . . . they will add to you. Fear of the Lord (10:27; 19:23) brings health to the body (v. 8) and "prolongs life" (10:27; see also 9:10–11). peace. Or "prosperity." When Solomon prayed for wisdom, God promised him riches as well as long life if he obeyed God's commands (1 Kin 3:13–14). Normally the righteous are prosperous and happy (12:21), but sometimes it is the wicked who are strong and prosperous (Ps 73:3,12), temporary though that may be (Ps 73:17–19). Job 1–2 also shows how disaster and death can strike a godly person.
3:3 Bind . . . neck. Like a beautiful necklace (cf. 1:9; 3:22). Write them on the tablet of your heart. See Jer 31:33.
3:4 favor. See 8:35; Gen 6:8. God and man. See Luke 2:52; Rom 12:17; 2 Cor 8:21.
3:5 Trust in the LORD. Commit your way to the Lord (Ps 37:5), like Israel's forefathers, who trusted in God and were rescued

6 In all your ways [a]acknowledge Him,
And He will [b]make your paths straight.
7 [a]Do not be wise in your own eyes;
[b]Fear the LORD and turn away from evil.
8 It will be [a]healing to your [1]body

10 So your [a]barns will be filled with plenty

11 [a]My son, do not reject the [1]discipline of the LORD
Or loathe His reproof,
12 For [a]whom the LORD loves He reproves,
Even [b]as a father corrects the son in whom he delights.

13 [a]How blessed is the man who finds wisdom
And the man who gains understanding.
14 For her [a]profit is better than the profit of silver
And her gain better than fine gold.

(Ps 22:4–5). with all your heart. Like Caleb (Num 14:24; Deut 1:36) or the godly King Hezekiah (Is 38:3). David challenged Solomon to serve God with wholehearted devotion (1 Chr 28:9).
3:6 acknowledge Him. Be ever mindful of God and serve Him with a willing and faithful heart (see 1 Chr 28:9; Hos 4:1; 6:6). make your paths straight. He will remove the obstacles from your pathway and bring you to your appointed goal (see 11:5; Is 45:13).
3:7 Fear the LORD and turn away from evil. Cf. Job, who was a "blameless, upright" man (Job 1:1). See note on 1:7.
3:8 bones. The whole body. Elsewhere, good news and pleasant words bring health to the bones (15:30; 16:24; cf. 17:22).
3:9 first of . . . your produce. The Israelites were required to give to the priests the first part of the olive oil, wine and grain produced each year (see Lev 23:10; Num 18:12–13).
3:10 filled with plenty. For those who bring to the Lord His tithes and offerings, God promises to pour out more blessing than they have room for (see Mal 3:10; see also Deut 28:8,12; 2 Cor 9:8).
3:11–12 A warning that the righteous are not always prosperous (see v. 2 and note). Through times of testing and affliction, God is teaching them (see 12:1; Job 5:17; 36:22; Ps 119:71). Heb 12:5–6 quotes both of these verses to encourage believers to endure hardship (Heb 12:7). "He disciplines us for our good" (Heb 12:10).
3:12 as a father. God disciplined His son Israel by testing the nation in the wilderness 40 years (Deut 8:2–5).
3:13–18 A poem praising wisdom, the first and last verse of which suggest that blessedness (v.13) and happiness (v.18) attend those who find it. The same Hebrew word underlies both.
3:14 her profit is better than . . . silver And . . . gold. The psalmist makes the same claim for the commands and precepts of the Lord (Ps 19:10; 119:72,127).
3:15–18 Wisdom is personified.
3:15 jewels. See Job 28:18, where wisdom is more valuable than pearls, and Prov 31:10, where an "excellent wife" is worth more than jewels.
3:16 Long life. See note on v. 2. riches and honor. See 8:18; 22:4.
3:17 peace. Hebrew shalom (see v. 2; 16:7; Ps 119:165).
3:18 tree of life. Source of life. This figure of speech may allude to the tree in the Garden of Eden (see Gen 2:9 and note; cf. Prov 11:30; 13:12; 15:4).
3:19–20 The role of wisdom in creation is described more fully in 8:22–31. Divine wisdom guided the Creator and now permeates the whole creation. To live by wisdom is to imitate the Lord and conform to the divinely appointed creation order.
3:19 founded the earth. God's work in creation is compared to the construction of a building (see 1 Kin 5:17; 6:37; see also 8:29; Job 38:4–6; Ps 104:5; Zech 12:1). established the heavens. See Is 42:5; 51:16.
3:20 broken up. God opened up springs and streams (see Gen 7:11; 49:25; Ps 74:15). Alternatively, though perhaps less likely, reference is to the dividing of the waters above from the waters below (see Gen 1:7; Ps 42:7 and note). dew. Probably also includes rain (see Deut 33:13; 2 Sam 1:21).
3:22 adornment to your neck. Like a beautiful necklace (see v. 3).
3:23 securely And your foot will not stumble. Cf. 10:9.
3:24 When you lie down, you will not be afraid. Also listed among the covenant blessings (see Lev 26:6; Job 11:18–19; Mic 4:4; Zeph 3:13; see also Prov 1:33). your sleep will be sweet. See 6:22; Ps 4:8.
3:25 fear . . . onslaught. The Lord shields the godly from deadly arrows and plagues (see 10:25; Ps 91:3–8; Job 5:21).

26 For the LORD will be [1]your confidence
And will [a]keep your foot from being caught.

27 [a]Do not withhold good from [1]those to whom it is due,
When it is in your power to do it.
28 [a]Do not say to your neighbor, "Go, and come back,
And tomorrow I will give it,"
When you have it with you.
29 [a]Do not devise harm against your neighbor,
While he lives securely beside you.
30 [a]Do not contend with a man without cause,
If he has done you no harm.
31 [a]Do not envy a man of violence
And do not choose any of his ways.
32 For the [a]devious are an abomination to the LORD;
But [1]He is [b]intimate with the upright.
33 The [a]curse of the LORD is on the house of the wicked,
But He [b]blesses the dwelling of the righteous.
34 Though [a]He scoffs at the scoffers,
Yet [b]He gives grace to the afflicted.
35 [a]The wise will inherit honor,
But fools [1]display dishonor.

A Father's Instruction

4 Hear, O sons, the [a]instruction of a father,
And [b]give attention that you may [1]gain understanding,
2 For I give you [1]sound [a]teaching;
[b]Do not abandon my [2]instruction.
3 When I was a son to my father,
[a]Tender and [b]the only son in the sight of my mother,
4 Then he [a]taught me and said to me,
"Let your heart [b]hold fast my words;
[c]Keep my commandments and live;
5 [a]Acquire wisdom! [b]Acquire understanding!
Do not forget nor turn away from the words of my mouth.
6 "Do not forsake her, and she will guard you;
[a]Love her, and she will watch over you.
7 "[a]The [1]beginning of wisdom is:
[b]Acquire wisdom;
And with all your acquiring, get understanding.
8 "[a]Prize her, and she will exalt you;
She will honor you if you embrace her.
9 "She will place [a]on your head a garland of grace;
She will present you with a crown of beauty."

10 Hear, my son, and [a]accept my sayings
And the [b]years of your life will be many.
11 I have [a]directed you in the way of wisdom;
I have led you in upright paths.
12 When you walk, your [a]steps will not be impeded;
And if you run, you [b]will not stumble.
13 [a]Take hold of instruction; do not let go.
Guard her, for she is your [b]life.
14 [a]Do not enter the path of the wicked
And do not proceed in the way of evil men.
15 Avoid it, do not pass by it;
Turn away from it and pass on.
16 For they [a]cannot sleep unless they do evil;
And [1]they are robbed of sleep unless they make someone stumble.

3:26 will keep your foot from being caught. Contrast the fate of the fool in 1:18; 7:22–23.
3:27 withhold good. See Acts 9:36; Gal 6:10; 1 John 3:17–18. those to whom it is due. Especially the poor and needy.
3:28 See Luke 11:5–8; James 2:15–16.
3:30 Do not contend . . . without cause. See Job 2:3.
3:31 Do not envy. See 24:19; Ps 37:1,7. man of violence. Like the sinners of 1:10–16 (cf. 16:29).
3:32 abomination. A word that elsewhere expresses abhorrence of pagan practices (see Deut 18:9,12) and moral abuses. It is common in Proverbs (e.g., 6:16; 8:7; 11:20). He is intimate with the upright. See Gen 18:17–19; Job 29:4; Ps 25:14; John 15:15.
3:33 This contrast is seen also in Deut 11:26–28. The curse of the LORD is on the house of the wicked. See Josh 7:24–25; Zech 5:3–4. blesses the dwelling of the righteous. See Job 42:12–14.
3:34 scoffs at the scoffers. See note on 1:26. gives grace. Shows favor (see v. 4).
4:3 Tender. Cf. David's words about Solomon, who was "young and inexperienced" (1 Chr 22:5; 29:1). This is part of an autobiographical statement, such as was sometimes used by the wisdom teachers (see 24:30–34; see also the book of Ecclesiastes). only son. Therefore deeply loved (cf. Gen 37:3; Zech 12:10).
4:4 Let your heart hold fast. See note on 3:5.
4:6 guard . . . watch over. The Hebrew for these two verbs is used together also in 2:8,11. Love her. To love wisdom is to prosper (8:21); to hate wisdom is to "love death" (8:36).
4:7 The beginning of wisdom is: Acquire. Or "Wisdom ranks first, so acquire" (see NASB marg.; see also 1:7). with all your acquiring. Make acquiring wisdom the top priority. Cf. the merchant who sold everything to buy a pearl of great value (Matt 13:45–46).
4:9 crown of beauty. Wreaths or crowns were worn at joyous occasions, such as weddings or feasts (see Ezek 16:12; 23:42).
4:10 years . . . will be many. See note on 3:2.
4:11 upright paths. Right paths (see notes on 3:6; Ps 23:3).
4:12 you will not stumble. Because of some obstacle or lack of light (see v. 19; 3:23; 10:9; Ps 18:36; Is 40:30–31).
4:14 path of the wicked. Cf. the destructive paths of the adulteress in 2:18; 7:25; see Ps 1:1; 17:4–5.
4:16 cannot sleep unless they do evil. See Ps 36:4; Mic 2:1. Contrast the attitude of David, who would not sleep until he found a permanent place for God's house (Ps 132:3–5).

17 For they [a]eat the bread of wickedness
And drink the wine of violence.
18 But the [a]path of the righteous is like the [b]light of dawn,
That [c]shines brighter and brighter
until the [d]full day.
19 The [a]way of the wicked is like
darkness;
They do not know over what they [1b]stumble.

20 My son, [a]give attention to my words;
[b]Incline your ear to my sayings.
21 [a]Do not let them depart from your sight;
[b]Keep them in the midst of your heart.
22 For they are [a]life to those who find
them
And [b]health to all [1]their body.
23 Watch over your heart with all diligence,
For [a]from it flow the springs of life.
24 Put away from you a [a]deceitful mouth
And [b]put devious [1]speech far from
you.
25 Let your eyes look directly ahead
And let your [1]gaze be fixed straight in front of you.
26 [a]Watch the path of your feet
And all your [b]ways will be established.
27 [a]Do not turn to the right nor to the left;
[b]Turn your foot from evil.

Pitfalls of Immorality

5 My son, [a]give attention to my wisdom,
[b]Incline your ear to my understanding;
2 That you may [a]observe discretion
And your [b]lips may reserve knowledge.
3 For the lips of an [1a]adulteress [b]drip honey
And [c]smoother than oil is her [2]speech;
4 But in the end she is [a]bitter as wormwood,
[b]Sharp as a two-edged sword.
5 Her feet [a]go down to death,
Her steps take hold of Sheol.
6 [1]She does not ponder the [a]path of life;
Her ways are [b]unstable, she [c]does not know it.

7 [a]Now then, my sons, listen to me
And [b]do not depart from the words of my mouth.
8 [a]Keep your way far from her
And do not go near the [b]door of her house,
9 Or you will give your vigor to others
And your years to the cruel one;
10 And strangers will be filled with your strength
And your hard-earned goods will go to the house of an alien;
11 And you groan at your [1]final end,
When your flesh and your body are
consumed;
12 And you say, "How I have [a]hated instruction!
And my heart [b]spurned reproof!
13 "I have not listened to the voice of my
[a]teachers,
Nor inclined my ear to my instructors!
14 "I was almost in utter ruin
In the midst of the assembly and congregation."

4:17 eat the bread . . . drink the wine. They thrive on wickedness and violence (see 13:2; Job 15:16).
4:18 path of the righteous is . . . brighter and brighter. The godly have all the guidance and protection they need (see vv. 11–12) and are able to lead others to righteousness (Dan 12:3).
4:19 darkness. A dangerous path that leads to destruction (see note on 2:13; see also Is 59:9–10; Jer 23:12; John 11:10; 12:35).
4:21 heart. See 3:1,3.
4:22 health. Physical, psychological and spiritual (see 3:8 and note).
4:23 springs of life. If we store up good things (2:1) in our hearts, our words and actions will be good. "The mouth speaks out of that which fills the heart" (Matt 12:34; cf. Mark 7:21).
4:24 Put away from you a deceitful mouth. See note on 2:12; see also 19:1. devious speech. See 6:12; 19:28; Eph 4:29; James 3:6.
4:25 look directly ahead. Not at worthless things (Ps 119:37).
4:26 Watch the path. Remove every moral hindrance (see vv. 11–12; Is 26:7).
4:27 Do not turn to the right nor to the left. A warning found also in Deut 5:32–33; 28:14; Josh 1:7. foot from evil. See 1:15.
5:2 lips may reserve knowledge. Applied to a priest in Mal 2:7.
5:3 lips . . . drip honey. Probably a reference to the pleasant-sounding talk (cf. 16:24) of the adulteress, though some explain it as kisses (cf. Song 4:11; 5:13; 7:9). adulteress. See note on 2:16. smoother than oil. See 2:16. Her words are soothing (see Ps 55:21) but full of flattery (Prov 29:5) and hypocrisy (Ps 5:9).
5:4 wormwood. A bitter herb (see Deut 29:18; Lam 3:15,19; Amos 6:12). two-edged sword. A lethal weapon (see Judg 3:16; see also Ps 55:21; 149:6; Heb 4:12; Rev 1:16).
5:5 down to death. Her immorality hastens her end (see note on 2:18).
5:6 ways are unstable. See 2:15; 10:9. does not know it. Or "does not acknowledge it."
5:7–14 The father (teacher) warns the son (student) about the price of immorality.
5:8 far from her. See Gen 39:12; 2 Tim 2:22. door of her house. Cf. 7:25; 9:14.
5:9 the cruel one. Possibly the vengeful husband (see 6:34–35).
5:10 strangers will be filled with your strength. Contrast the riches and honor that come to the man who embraces wisdom (3:16–18). Immorality eventually reduces one "to a loaf of bread" (6:26).
5:11 flesh and . . . body are consumed. Possibly because of the debilitating effects of immorality (see 1 Cor 6:18; cf. Prov 3:8; 4:22), but more likely referring to the loss of vigor that accompanies old age.
5:12 hated instruction . . . spurned reproof. In old age he will look back and sadly acknowledge that he has played the fool (see 1:7,22,29–30).
5:13 have not listened. In spite of the repeated urging to "listen" or "pay attention" to their instruction (1:8; 3:1; 4:1; 5:1).
5:14 utter ruin. Physical, financial and social. In the midst of the assembly. The offender was subject to "wounds and disgrace" (6:33) or even death (see Deut 22:22).

20 For why should you, my son, be exhilarated with an [1][a]adulteress
And embrace the bosom of a [b]foreigner?
21 For the [a]ways of a man are before the eyes of the LORD,
And He [b]watches all his paths.
22 His [a]own iniquities will capture the wicked,
And he will be held with the cords of his sin.

Parental Counsel

6:1 My son, if you have become [a]surety for your neighbor,
Have [1]given a pledge for a stranger,
2 If you have been snared with the words of your mouth,
Have been caught with the words of your mouth,
3 Do this then, my son, and deliver yourself;
Since you have come into the [1]hand of your neighbor,
Go, humble yourself, and importune your neighbor.
4 Give no [a]sleep to your eyes,
Nor slumber to your eyelids;
5 Deliver yourself like a gazelle from the hunter's hand
And like a [a]bird from the hand of the fowler.

6 Go to the [a]ant, O [b]sluggard,
Observe her ways and be wise,
7 Which, having [a]no chief,
Officer or ruler,
8 Prepares her food [a]in the summer
And gathers her provision in the harvest.
9 How long will you lie down,
O sluggard?
When will you arise from your sleep?
10 "[a]A little sleep, a little slumber,
A little folding of the hands to [1]rest"—
11 [a]Your poverty will come in like a [1]vagabond
And your need like [2]an armed man.

5:15 your own cistern . . . your own well. Your own wife (see Song 4:12,15). Let your own wife be your source of pleasure, as water refreshes a thirsty man. Wells and cisterns were privately owned and of great value (2 Kin 18:31; Jer 38:6).
5:16 springs . . . Streams of water. Like "cistern" and "well" in v. 15 and "fountain" in v. 18, these also refer to the wife (see Song 4:12,15). in the streets. The wife may become promiscuous if the husband is unfaithful.
5:18 wife of your youth. Chosen by you when you were young.
5:19 hind . . . doe. Descriptive of the wife, perhaps because of the delicate beauty of the doe's limbs (see Song 2:9). Let her breasts satisfy you at all times. See Song 7:7–8. exhilarated. Or "intoxicated," "captivated." Marital love is portrayed as better than wine in Song 4:10 (cf. Song 7:9).
5:20 why . . . ? In light of the sheer joy found within the bonds of marriage and the "utter ruin" (v. 14) outside it, why commit adultery? adulteress. See v. 3; 2:16 and note.
5:21 before the eyes of the LORD. See 15:3; Job 31:4; 34:21; Jer 16:17. watches all his paths. See Job 7:18; 34:23; Ps 11:4; 26:2; 139:23; Jer 17:10.
5:22 capture the wicked. See 1:18 and note; Deut 7:25; 12:30. In Eccl 7:26 the sinner is captured by a woman "whose heart is snares and nets." cords of his sin. See Job 36:8; Eccl 4:12; Is 5:18.
5:23 The death of the fool is described in similar terms in 1:29–32; 7:21–25; cf. Job 36:12. instruction. See v. 12.
6:1 become surety . . . given a pledge. Refers to responsibility for someone else's debt (cf. 22:26) or for some other obligation. It can end in abject poverty (cf. 22:27) or even slavery if you cannot pay. For example, Judah volunteered to personally guarantee the safe return of Benjamin to Jacob (Gen 43:9), and when this seemed impossible, he had to offer himself to Joseph as a slave (Gen 44:32–33). Such an arrangement was sealed by "striking hands," equivalent to our handshake (see 11:15; 17:18; 20:16; 22:26; cf. Job 17:3).
6:2 snared . . . caught. Cf. v. 5; 5:22.
6:3 deliver yourself. To gain release from the obligation. come into the hand of your neighbor. Assumed responsibility for his obligation. importune your neighbor. Be as persistent as the man in Luke 11:8.
6:4 no sleep . . . Nor slumber. Like David in Ps 132:4.
6:5 hand of the fowler. See Ps 124:7.
6:6 sluggard. A lazy individual who refuses to work and whose desires are not met (see 10:26; 13:4; 15:19; 19:24; 22:13; 24:30; 26:13–16).
6:7 no chief. Cf. the locust in 30:27.
6:9 How long will you lie down, O sluggard? His love for sleep is described also in 26:14.
6:10–11 Repeated in 24:33–34.
6:11 poverty . . . need. Connected with too much sleep also in 10:5; 19:15; 20:13. Hard work is an antidote to poverty (see 12:11; 14:23; 28:19). like a vagabond . . . an armed man. Poverty will come when it is too late to do anything about it (cf. Matt 24:43).
6:12–14 A vivid description of one who uses mouth, eyes, feet and fingers (all a person's means of communication) in devious ways to achieve the deceitful plots of his heart—here especially to spread slander about someone to destroy him.
6:12 worthless person. See Judg 19:22; 1 Sam 25:25; Job 34:18; see also note on Deut 13:13. perverse mouth. See 19:28; 2:12 and note.

13 Who [a]winks with his eyes, who
[1]signals with his feet,
Who [2]points with his fingers;
14 Who with [a]perversity in his heart continually [b]devises evil,
Who [1][c]spreads strife.
15 Therefore [a]his calamity will come suddenly;
[b]Instantly he will be broken and there will be [c]no healing.

16 There are six things which the LORD
hates,
Yes, seven which are an abomination
[1]to Him:
17 [a]Haughty eyes, a [b]lying tongue,
And hands that [c]shed innocent blood,
18 A heart that devises [a]wicked plans,
[b]Feet that run rapidly to evil,
19 A [a]false witness who utters lies,
And one who [1][b]spreads strife among brothers.

20 [a]My son, observe the commandment of your father
And do not forsake the [1]teaching of your mother;
21 [a]Bind them continually on your heart;
Tie them around your neck.
22 When you [a]walk about, [1]they will guide you;
When you sleep, [1]they will watch over
you;
And when you awake, [1]they will talk
to you.
23 For [a]the commandment is a lamp and the [1]teaching is light;
And reproofs for discipline are the way of life
24 To [a]keep you from the evil woman,
From the smooth tongue of the
[1]adulteress.
25 [a]Do not desire her beauty in your heart,
Nor let her capture you with her
[b]eyelids.
26 For [a]on account of a harlot one is reduced to a loaf of bread,
And [1]an adulteress [b]hunts for the precious life.
27 Can a man [1]take fire in his bosom
And his clothes not be burned?
28 Or can a man walk on hot coals
And his feet not be scorched?
29 So is the one who [a]goes in to his neighbor's wife;
Whoever touches her [b]will not [1]go unpunished.
30 [1]Men do not despise a thief if he steals
To [a]satisfy [2]himself when he is hungry;
31 But when he is found, he must [a]repay
sevenfold;
He must give all the [1]substance of his house.
32 The one who commits adultery with a woman is [a]lacking [1]sense;
He who would [b]destroy [2]himself does
it.
33 Wounds and disgrace he will find,
And his reproach will not be blotted out.
34 For [a]jealousy [1]enrages a man,
And he will not spare in the [b]day of vengeance.
35 He will not [1]accept any ransom,

6:13 winks with his eyes. To make insinuations (see 10:10; 16:30).
6:14 devises evil. See v. 18; 3:29; Mic 2:1. spreads strife. Through slander he creates distrust that culminates in alienation and conflict.
6:15 calamity will come suddenly. Usually a sign of God's judgment (see 1:26; 24:22; Job 34:20). Instantly . . . be broken and there will be no healing. He will suffer the same fate he thought to bring upon another—his punishment will fit his crime.
6:16–19 A further elaboration on the theme of vv. 12–15, explaining why "calamity will come suddenly" (v. 15) on the scoundrel described here.
6:16 six . . . seven. A way of handling numbers in synonymous parallelism in Hebrew poetry (see Introduction: The Nature of a Proverb). Such catalogues of items are frequent in the wisdom literature of the OT (see 30:15,18,21,29; see also Job 5:19). abomination. See 3:32 and note.
6:17 Haughty eyes. They reflect a proud heart, and God will judge them (see 21:4; 30:13; Ps 18:27; 101:5). lying tongue. See 2:12 and note; 12:19; 17:7; 21:6. hands that shed innocent blood. See 1:11,16 and notes; 28:17.
6:18 heart that devises wicked plans. See 1:31; 24:2; Gen 6:5. Feet that run rapidly to evil. See 1:16 and note.
6:19 false witness. Proverbs emphasizes the damage done by the false witness (12:17–18; 25:18; see note on Ps 5:9) and the punishment he receives (see note on v. 15; see also 19:5,9; 21:28). utters lies. See 14:5,25. spreads strife. See note on v. 14.
6:20 See 1:8.
6:21 Those who follow wisdom add beauty and honor to their lives.
6:22 walk. Cf. 4:11. When you sleep. See note on 3:24. watch over you. See 4:6.
6:23 lamp . . . light. Just as the word of God "is a lamp to my feet And a light to my path" (Ps 119:105; cf. Ps 19:8). way of life. See 3:22; 4:22. Contrast the way to death for the one who hates discipline (5:23).
6:24 See notes on 2:16; 5:3.
6:25 Do not desire. Jesus shows the close connection between lust and adultery (Matt 5:28; cf. Ex 20:17). capture you. See 5:20.
6:26 reduced to a loaf of bread. Both the prostitute (29:3) and the adulteress (5:10) reduce a man to poverty (see 1 Sam 2:36).
6:29 Whoever . . . will not go unpunished. See vv. 33–34; see also note on 5:14.
6:31 sevenfold. Hebrew law demanded no more than fivefold payment as a penalty for any theft (Ex 22:1–9). The number seven is here symbolic—he will pay in full.
6:32 destroy himself. See 5:14 and note; 7:22–23.
6:33 disgrace. Disgrace followed Amnon's raping of Tamar (2 Sam 13:13,22).
6:34 jealousy. Its strength is also illustrated in 27:4; Song 8:6.

Nor will he be [2]satisfied though you give many [3]gifts.

The Wiles of the Harlot

7 My son, [a]keep my words
And treasure my commandments within you.
2 [a]Keep my commandments and live,
And my [1]teaching [b]as the [2]apple of your eye.
3 [a]Bind them on your fingers;
[b]Write them on the tablet of your heart.
4 Say to wisdom, "You are my sister,"
And call understanding your intimate friend;
5 That they may keep you from an
[1]adulteress,
From the foreigner who [2]flatters with her words.

6 For [a]at the window of my house
I looked out [b]through my lattice,
7 And I saw among the [1][a]naive,
And discerned among the [2]youths
A young man [b]lacking [3]sense,
8 Passing through the street near [a]her corner;
And he [1]takes the way to [b]her house,
9 In the [a]twilight, in the [1]evening,
In the [2]middle of the night and in the darkness.
10 And behold, a woman comes to meet
him,
[a]Dressed as a harlot and cunning of
heart.
11 She is [a]boisterous and rebellious,
Her [b]feet do not remain at home;
12 She is now in the streets, now [a]in the squares,
And [b]lurks by every corner.

15 "Therefore I have come out to meet

23 [a]Eccl 9:12 24 [a]Prov 5:7

7:1 See Ps. 119:11.
7:2 the apple of your eye. The pupil, which is cared for and protected because of its great value (see Deut 32:10 and note).
7:3 Bind them on your fingers. As a reminder (see 6:21; Deut 6:8). tablet of your heart. See Jer 31:33.
7:4 wisdom. As embodied in the instructions of the wisdom teacher (vv. 1–3). my sister . . . intimate friend. Make wisdom your most intimate companion. "Sister" may be used here in the sense of "bride" (see Song 4:9–10,12; 5:1–2).
7:5 See note on 2:16.
7:7 naive. See note on 1:4. lacking sense. See 6:32; 9:4,16.
7:8 the way to her house. See 5:8.
7:9 middle of the night and . . . darkness. He was hoping no one would see him (see 2:13 and note).
7:10 Dressed as a harlot. Perhaps in a gaudy manner (see Ezek 16:16) and heavily veiled (see Gen 38:14–15).
7:11 boisterous. Applied to the "woman of folly" in 9:13.
7:12 She . . . lurks. Ready to catch her prey (see v. 22).
7:13 kisses him. A bold greeting (see Gen 29:11).
7:14 peace offerings. Part of the meat could be eaten by the one who brought the offering and by his (or her) family (Lev 7:12–15). Today I have paid my vows. An offering made as the result of a vow was one of the peace offerings, and the meat had to be eaten on the first or second day (see Lev 7:15–16). So the young man had an opportunity to enjoy a real feast, one that ironically had a religious significance (cf. Amos 5:21–22).
7:16 colored linens of Egypt. Linen is associated with the wealthy in 31:22. Egyptian linen was of great value (see Is 19:9; Ezek 27:7).
7:17 myrrh, aloes and cinnamon. Fragrant perfumes that are linked with making love also in Ps 45:8; Song 4:14; 5:5.
7:18 drink our fill of love. Making love is compared to eating and drinking also in 9:17; 30:20; Song 4:16; 5:1. delight ourselves. See Song 4:10.
7:19 not at home. So he will never know (cf. 6:34–35). long journey. Perhaps he was a wealthy merchant.
7:20 money. Pieces of silver of various weights were a common medium of exchange, but not in the form of coins until a later period.
7:21 persuasions . . . flattering lips. See notes on 2:16; 5:3; see also 6:24; 7:5. entices him. Cf. 5:23.
7:22 As an ox goes to the slaughter. Totally oblivious of the fate that awaits him.
7:23 pierces through his liver. The terrible fate of the wicked is similarly described in Job 20:24–25. hastens to the snare. See notes on 1:17–18; 5:22.
7:24 See 5:7.

25 Do not let your heart [a]turn aside to her ways,
Do not stray into her paths.
26 For many are the [1]victims she has cast down,
And [a]numerous are all her slain.
27 Her [a]house is the way to Sheol,
Descending to the chambers of death.

The Commendation of Wisdom

8 Does not [a]wisdom call,
And understanding [1]lift up her voice?
2 On top of [a]the heights beside the way,
Where the paths meet, she takes her stand;
3 Beside the [a]gates, at the opening to the city,
At the entrance of the doors, she cries out:
4 "To you, O men, I call,
And my voice is to the sons of men.
5 "O [1][a]naive ones, understand prudence;
And, O [b]fools, understand [2]wisdom.
6 "Listen, for I will speak [a]noble things;
And the opening of my lips will reveal [b]right things.
7 "For my [a]mouth will utter truth;
And wickedness is an abomination to my lips.
8 "All the utterances of my mouth are in righteousness;
There is nothing [a]crooked or perverted in them.
9 "They are all [a]straightforward to him who understands,
And right to those who [b]find knowledge.
10 "Take my [a]instruction and not silver,
And knowledge rather than choicest gold.
11 "For wisdom is [a]better than [1]jewels;
And [b]all desirable things cannot compare with her.

12 "I, wisdom, [a]dwell with prudence,
And I find [b]knowledge and discretion.
13 "The [a]fear of the LORD is to hate evil;
[b]Pride and arrogance and [c]the evil way
And the [d]perverted mouth, I hate.
14 "[a]Counsel is mine and [b]sound wisdom;
I am understanding, [c]power is mine.
15 "By me [a]kings reign,
And rulers decree justice.
16 "By me princes rule, and nobles,
All who judge rightly.
17 "I [a]love those who love me;
And [b]those who diligently seek me will find me.
18 "[a]Riches and honor are with me,
Enduring [b]wealth and righteousness.
19 "My fruit is [a]better than gold, even pure gold,
And my yield better than [b]choicest silver.
20 "I walk in the way of righteousness,
In the midst of the paths of justice,
21 To endow those who love me with wealth,
That I may [a]fill their treasuries.

22 "The LORD possessed me [a]at the beginning of His way,
Before His works [1]of old.

8:10 silver . . . gold. See v. 19; 2:4; 3:14 and note.
8:11 Almost identical with 3:15 (see note there).
8:12 dwell with prudence. Cf. Job 28:20. prudence . . . knowledge and discretion. See 1:4 and note.
8:13 The fear of the LORD is to hate evil. See 1:7; 3:7 and notes; see also 9:10; 16:6. Pride and arrogance . . . I hate. See 16:18; 1 Sam 2:3; Is 13:11; see also Ps 10:2–11 and note. evil way And the perverted mouth. See note on 2:12; see also 6:12,16–19.

8:15 By me kings reign. See 29:4. Solomon prayed for wisdom to govern Israel (see 1 Kin 3:9; 2 Chr 1:10).

8:18 Riches and honor. See 3:16; 22:4.

8:20 way . . . paths. See 3:17. justice. See v. 15.
8:21 endow . . . with wealth. See v. 18; Zech 8:12. fill their treasuries. See note on 3:10; see also 24:4.
8:22–31 A hymn describing wisdom's role in creation. Wisdom is here personified, as in 1:20–33; 3:15–18; 9:1–12. Therefore these verses should not be interpreted as a direct description of Christ. Yet they provide part of the background for the NT portrayal of Christ as the divine Word (John 1:1–3) and as the wisdom of God (1 Cor 1:24,30; Col 2:3). Here, wisdom is an attribute of God involved with Him in creation.
8:22 possessed me. The Hebrew for this verb is also used in Gen 4:1; 14:19,22. me. Wisdom (see 3:19; Ps 104:24). at the beginning of His way. Cf. Job's statement about the Behemoth (Job 40:19).

23 "From everlasting I was [1][a]established,
From the beginning, [b]from the earliest times of the earth.
24 "When there were no [a]depths I was [1]brought forth,
When there were no springs abounding with water.
25 "[a]Before the mountains were settled,

33 "[a]Heed instruction and be wise,

34 "[a]Blessed is the man who listens to me,

Wisdom's Invitation

9 Wisdom has [a]built her house,
She has hewn out her seven pillars;
2 She has [1][a]prepared her food, she has [b]mixed her wine;
She has also [c]set her table;
3 She has [a]sent out her maidens, she [b]calls
From the [c]tops of the heights of the city:
4 "[a]Whoever is [1]naive, let him turn in here!"
To him who [b]lacks [2]understanding she says,
5 "Come, [a]eat of my food
And drink of the wine I have mixed.
6 "[1]Forsake your folly and [a]live,
And [b]proceed in the way of understanding."

7 He who [a]corrects a scoffer gets dishonor for himself,
And he who reproves a wicked man gets [1]insults for himself.
8 [a]Do not reprove a scoffer, or he will hate you,
[b]Reprove a wise man and he will love you.

8:23 From everlasting. Descriptive also of Christ (see John 1:1; cf. Mic 5:2). from the earliest times of the earth. Wisdom was already there before God began to create the world (cf. Christ's statement in John 17:5).
8:24 I was brought forth. Elsewhere the sea came "bursting forth" (Job 38:8–9), the mountains "were born" (Ps 90:2) and the hills were "brought forth" (Job 15:7). springs abounding with water. See Ps 104:10.
8:25 mountains. See Ps 90:2.
8:27 established the heavens. See 3:19. When He inscribed a circle on the face of the deep. See Job 26:10.
8:28 springs of the deep. Earth's springs and streams (see note on 3:20; cf. Gen 7:11).
8:29 the sea its boundary. See Gen 1:9; Job 38:10–11; Ps 104:9. foundations of the earth. See note on 3:19.
8:30 master workman. A craftsman was sometimes called a wise man. See, e.g., Bezalel, who designed and built the tabernacle (Ex 31:3). Here the term stresses the skill demonstrated in creation. His delight, Rejoicing always. Cf. the joyful shouts of the angels at the time of creation (Job 38:7).
8:31 delight in the sons of men. Cf. v. 4. Man, made in the image of God, represented the climax of creation (see Gen 1:26–28).
8:32 blessed. The blessings associated with gaining wisdom are also given in 3:13–18; see also Ps 119:1–2; 128:1.
8:34 Watching daily at my gates. Contrast the warning not to go near the door of the adulteress's house (5:8).
8:35 finds life. See 3:2; 4:22 and notes. favor. See 3:4; 12:2; 18:22.
8:36 All those who hate me love death. See 1:28–33; 5:12,23; 7:27 and notes.
9:1 has built her house. Both wisdom and folly have a house to which mankind is invited (see v. 14; 7:8; 8:34), but wisdom has built her house (see note on 14:1)—for her there is no "sitting" (v. 14). Cf. the virtues of the wife of noble character (31:10–27). seven pillars. Indicating a large house. Perhaps "seven" refers to seven major aspects of wisdom.
9:2 See v. 17 and note. The banquet prepared by wisdom contrasts with the perfumed bed made ready by the adulteress in 7:17. mixed her wine. With spices, to make it tastier (see Song 8:2).
9:3 she calls From the tops of the heights of the city. See the description of folly in v. 14; see also 8:1–3.
9:4 The same invitation is given by folly in v. 16. naive. See 1:4 and note on 8:5. lacks understanding. See v. 16; 7:7.
9:5 As in v. 2, wisdom's gifts to mankind are described symbolically as a great banquet (see Is 55:1–2; cf. John 6:27,35).
9:6 Forsake your folly. See 1:22. live. See v. 11; 8:35; see also note on 3:2.
9:7 He who corrects a scoffer gets dishonor. See 1:22 and note; cf. 1:30. gets insults. Cf. 1 Pet 4:4.
9:8 he will hate you. See 15:12,32. Reprove a wise man and he will love you. See 10:8; 17:10.

9 Give instruction to a wise man and he will be still wiser,
Teach a righteous man and he will [a]increase his learning.
10 The [a]fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom,
And the knowledge of the Holy One is understanding.
11 For [a]by me your days will be multiplied,
And years of life will be added to you.
12 If you are wise, you are wise [a]for yourself,
And if you [b]scoff, you alone will bear it.

13 The [1]woman of folly is [a]boisterous,
She is [2]naive and [b]knows nothing.
14 She sits at the doorway of her house,
On a seat by [a]the high places of the city,
15 Calling to those who pass by,
Who are making their paths straight:
16 "[a]Whoever is [1]naive, let him turn in here,"
And to him who lacks [2]understanding she says,
17 "Stolen water is sweet;
And [a]bread eaten in secret is pleasant."
18 But he does not know that the [1]dead are there,
That her guests are in the [a]depths of Sheol.

10 The [a]proverbs of Solomon.
[b]A wise son makes a father glad,
But [c]a foolish son is a grief to his mother.
2 [1a]Ill-gotten gains do not profit,
But righteousness delivers from death.
3 The LORD [a]will not allow the [1]righteous to hunger,
But He [b]will [2]reject the craving of the wicked.
4 Poor is he who works with a negligent hand,
But the [a]hand of the diligent makes rich.
5 He who gathers in summer is a son who acts wisely,
But he who sleeps in harvest is a son who acts shamefully.
6 [a]Blessings are on the head of the righteous,
But [b]the mouth of the wicked conceals violence.
7 The [a]memory of the righteous is blessed,
But [b]the name of the wicked will rot.
8 The [a]wise of heart will receive commands,
But [1]a babbling fool will be [2]ruined.
9 He [a]who walks in integrity walks securely,

[a]Prov 9:8; Matt 7:24 9 [a]Ps 23:4; Prov 3:23; 28:18; Is 33:15, 16

9:9 he will be still wiser. See 18:15; 21:11.
9:10–12 Wisdom's final words summarize the heart of the message in chs. 1–9.
9:10 The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom. See 1:7 and note. knowledge of the Holy One. See note on 2:5. "Holy One" occurs elsewhere in Proverbs only in 30:3.
9:11 years of life will be added to you. See note on 3:2; see also 3:16; 10:27; 14:27; 19:23.
9:12 you are wise for yourself. Some of wisdom's rewards are given in 3:16–18; 4:22; 8:35; 14:14. scoff. See v. 7; see note on 1:22. will bear it. See 1:26; 19:29.
9:13 The woman of folly is boisterous. "Boisterous" links the personified "folly" with the adulteress, the wayward wife of 2:16 and 7:11. naive and knows nothing. She lacks good judgment, prudence and the fear of the Lord (see 1:3–4,22,29; 5:6).
9:14 sits. Cf. wisdom's building her house (v. 1). at the doorway of her house. See 5:8; 8:34. by the high places of the city. Cf. the position of wisdom in v. 3; 8:2.
9:15 Calling. Cf. the appeal of wisdom in v. 3; 8:1,4.
9:16 Her invitation is identical to wisdom's (v. 4; see note on 1:21).
9:17 Stolen water . . . bread eaten in secret. The "banquet" prepared by "folly" seems poorer than the wine and meat of wisdom (v. 2). And it was stolen at that! This "meal" refers to stolen pleasures, exemplified by the illicit sex offered by the adulteress (see 7:18 and note; cf. 5:15–16). sweet. But see Job 20:12–14.
9:18 the dead are there . . . her guests are in the depths of Sheol. Similar to 2:18; 5:5; 7:27 (see notes).
10:1 The proverbs of Solomon. The title of a collection of individual proverbs that extends through 22:16. The numerical values of the consonants in the Hebrew word for "Solomon" total 375—the exact number of verses in 10:1–22:16; 375 of Solomon's proverbs were selected from a much larger number (cf. 1 Kin 4:32). wise son. See v. 5; 15:20; 17:21,25; 29:3,15. In later collections he is described as "righteous" (23:24–25) and as one "who keeps the law" (28:7).
10:2 Ill-gotten gains do not profit. They are fleeting (21:6) and result in God's judgment (see 1:19 and note; 10:16; Ezek 7:19). righteousness delivers from death. See 2:16–18; 3:2; 13:21.
10:3 not allow the righteous to hunger. See 13:25; 28:25; Ps 34:9–10; 37:19,25. But see note on Prov 3:2. reject the craving of the wicked. See Num 11:34; Ps 112:10.
10:4 Many proverbs praise diligence and the profit it brings, and they condemn laziness as a cause of hunger and poverty (see 6:6–11 and notes; 12:11,24,27; 13:4; 14:23; 18:9; 27:23–27; 28:19).
10:5 sleeps in harvest. Sleeping when there is work to be done is condemned also in 6:9–11; 19:15; 20:13. son who acts shamefully. See 17:2; 19:26; 28:7; 29:15.
10:6 Blessings. God's gifts and favors (see 3:13–18; 28:20; Gen 49:26; Deut 33:16). are on the head. See 11:26. mouth of the wicked conceals violence. The trouble caused by their lips will eventually ruin them (see Ps 140:9; Hab 2:17; but cf. Prov 2:11).
10:7 memory of the righteous. Remembering the righteous (see 22:1).
10:8 The wise . . . receive commands. See 9:8–9. babbling fool will be ruined. See vv. 10,14,18,19.
10:9 He who walks in integrity walks securely. See 2:7; 3:23; 13:6; Ps 23:4; Is 33:15–16. he who perverts his ways will be found out. See 26:26; Luke 8:17; 1 Tim 5:24–25; 2 Tim 3:9.

But [b]he who perverts his ways will be found out.
10 He [a]who winks the eye causes trouble,
And [1][b]a babbling fool will be [2]ruined.
11 The [a]mouth of the righteous is a fountain of life,
But [b]the mouth of the wicked conceals violence.
12 Hatred stirs up strife,
But [a]love covers all transgressions.
13 On [a]the lips of the discerning, wisdom is found,
But [b]a rod is for the back of him who lacks [1]understanding.
14 Wise men [a]store up knowledge,
But with [b]the mouth of the foolish, ruin is at hand.
15 The [a]rich man's wealth is his [1]fortress,
The [b]ruin of the poor is their poverty.
16 The [1][a]wages of the righteous is life,
The income of the wicked, punishment.
17 He [a]is on the path of life who heeds instruction,
But he who ignores reproof goes astray.
18 He [a]who conceals hatred has lying lips,
And he who spreads slander is a fool.
19 When there are [a]many words, transgression is unavoidable,
But [b]he who restrains his lips is wise.
20 The tongue of the righteous is as [a]choice silver,
The heart of the wicked is worth little.
21 The [a]lips of the righteous feed many,
But fools [b]die for lack of [1]understanding.
22 It is the [a]blessing of the LORD that makes rich,
And He adds no sorrow to it.
23 Doing wickedness is like [a]sport to a fool,
And so is wisdom to a man of understanding.
24 What [a]the wicked fears will come upon him,
But the [b]desire of the righteous will be granted.
25 When the [a]whirlwind passes, the wicked is no more,
But the [b]righteous has an everlasting foundation.
26 Like vinegar to the teeth and smoke to the eyes,
So is the [a]lazy one to those who send him.
27 The [a]fear of the LORD prolongs [1]life,
But the [b]years of the wicked will be shortened.
28 The [a]hope of the righteous is gladness,
But the [b]expectation of the wicked perishes.
29 The [a]way of the LORD is a stronghold to the upright,
But [b]ruin to the workers of iniquity.
30 The [a]righteous will never be shaken,
But [b]the wicked will not dwell in the land.

10:10 winks the eye. See note on 6:13. babbling fool. See v. 8.
10:11 fountain of life. A source of life-giving wisdom (see 13:14; 14:27; 16:22; see also Ps 37:30). conceals violence. The wicked may disguise their ill intent by their words (see v. 6 and note.
10:12 stirs up strife. See note on 6:14. covers all transgressions. Promotes forgiveness (see 17:9). This line is quoted in James 5:20; 1 Pet 4:8.
10:13 rod is for the back. See 14:3; 19:29.
10:14 store up knowledge. Rather than babbling folly—and so the wise prosper. See 2:1 and note. ruin is at hand. Quick with his mouth, the fool only brings ruin on himself (see vv. 8,10; 13:3).
10:15 An observation about wealth and poverty. wealth is his fortress. Wealth brings friends (14:20; 19:4) and power (18:23; 22:7)—but ultimate security is found only in God (Ps 52:7). The ruin of the poor is their poverty. Poverty has no influence (18:23), no friends (19:4,7), no security. See v. 4 and note.
10:16 wages of the righteous is life. Not wealth (v. 15) but righteousness assures life (see note on 3:2; see also 3:16; 4:22). income of the wicked, punishment. See 1:13,31 and notes. "The wages of sin is death" (Rom 6:23).
10:17 path of life. See note on 6:23. he who ignores reproof. See 5:12; 15:10.
10:18 conceals hatred. By pretending friendliness (see 26:24,26,28).
10:20 choice silver. What the righteous say has great value (see 3:14; 8:10; 25:11). heart of the wicked. Their thoughts and schemes (see 6:14,18).
10:21 feed many. See v. 11 and note. die for lack of understanding. See 5:23 and note; see also 7:7; 9:16.
10:22 blessing of the LORD that makes rich. Wealth is a gift from God, not a product of human attainment (see notes on v. 6; 3:10; see also 8:21; Gen 24:35; 26:12). adds no sorrow to it. Unlike the "ill-gotten gains" of v. 2 (see note); cf. 15:6.
10:23 wickedness is like sport. See 2:14; 15:21; 26:19.
10:24 What the wicked fears. Calamity and distress (see 1:26–27; 3:25; Job 15:21; Is 66:4). the desire of the righteous. See Ps 37:4; 145:19; Matt 5:6; 1 John 5:14–15.
10:25 Cf. the wise man who built his house on a rock, and the foolish man who built his on the sand (Matt 7:24–27). the wicked is no more. See Ps 37:10; Is 28:18. the righteous . . . foundation. Unshakable, unmovable (see 3:25 and note; see also 12:3,7; 14:11; Ps 15:5; 1 Cor 15:58).
10:26 vinegar. See 25:20; Ps 69:21. lazy one. See note on 6:6. who send him. As a messenger (cf. 25:13; 26:6) or worker.

10:28 hope of the righteous. See v. 24 and note; Ps 9:18. gladness. Of fulfillment (cf. 11:23). expectation of the wicked perishes. See 11:7,23.
10:29 way of the LORD. The way He prescribes, the life of wisdom (see Ps 27:11; 143:8; Matt 22:16; Acts 18:25). ruin to the workers of iniquity. Since judgment comes to those who refuse God's way (see 21:15; 2 Cor 2:15–16; 2 Pet 2:21).
10:30 never be shaken. See 2:21 and note; 10:25; 12:3; Ps 125:1. not dwell in the land. See note on 2:22.

31 The [a]mouth of the righteous flows with wisdom,
But the [b]perverted tongue will be cut out.
32 The lips of the righteous bring forth [a]what is acceptable,
But the [b]mouth of the wicked what is perverted.

Contrast the Upright and the Wicked

11 A [a]false balance is an abomination to the LORD,
But a [b]just weight is His delight.
2 When [a]pride comes, then comes dishonor,
But with the humble is wisdom.
3 The [a]integrity of the upright will guide them,
But the [b]crookedness of the treacherous will destroy them.
4 [a]Riches do not profit in the day of wrath,
But [b]righteousness delivers from death.
5 The [a]righteousness of the blameless will smooth his way,
But [b]the wicked will fall by his own wickedness.
6 The righteousness of the upright will deliver them,
But the treacherous will [a]be caught by their own greed.
7 When a wicked man dies, his [a]expectation will perish,
And the [b]hope of strong men perishes.
8 The righteous is delivered from trouble,
But the wicked [1]takes his place.
9 With his [a]mouth the godless man destroys his neighbor,
But through knowledge the [b]righteous will be delivered.
10 When it [a]goes well with the righteous, the city rejoices,
And when the wicked perish, there is joyful shouting.
11 By the blessing of the upright a city is exalted,
But by the mouth of the wicked it is torn down.
12 He who despises his neighbor lacks [1]sense,
But a man of understanding keeps silent.
13 He [a]who goes about as a talebearer reveals secrets,
But he who is [1]trustworthy [b]conceals a matter.
14 Where there is no [a]guidance the people fall,
But in abundance of counselors there is [1]victory.
15 He who is [a]guarantor for a stranger will surely suffer for it,
But he who hates [1]being a guarantor is secure.
16 A [a]gracious woman attains honor,
And ruthless men attain riches.
17 The [a]merciful man does [1]himself good,
But the cruel man [2]does himself harm.
18 The wicked earns deceptive wages,
But he who [a]sows righteousness gets a true reward.
19 He who is steadfast in [a]righteousness will attain to life,
And [b]he who pursues evil will bring about his own death.
20 The perverse in heart are an abomination to the LORD,

10:31 perverted tongue. See note on 2:12. cut out. See Ps 12:3; cf. Matt 5:30.
11:1 false balance is an abomination. Similar denunciation is found in the law (see Lev 19:35 and note) and the prophets (Amos 8:5; Mic 6:11). See also 16:11; 20:10,23. just weight. Silver was weighed on scales balanced against a stone weight. Weights with dishonest labels were used for cheating.
11:2 When pride comes, then comes dishonor. Along with destruction (see 16:18; cf. the humbling of proud Assyria in Is 10:12; cf. also Is 14:13–15). with the humble is wisdom. Along with honor (see note on 15:33).
11:3 integrity . . . will guide them. Cf. the actions of Joseph in Gen 39:6–12. crookedness . . . will destroy them. See 2:22 and note; see also 19:3. crookedness. Cf. Luke 20:23.
11:4 day of wrath. The day of judgment (see Is 10:3; Zeph 1:18). righteousness delivers from death. See 2:16–18; 3:2; 10:2; 13:21.
11:5 blameless. See 2:21. will smooth his way. Will enable him to reach his goals (see note on 3:6; see also v. 3; 10:9).
11:6 righteousness . . . will deliver them. See vv. 3–4. caught. See 5:22 and note.
11:7 his expectation will perish. See v. 23; 10:28.
11:8 Cf. the rescue of Mordecai and the execution of Haman in Esth 5:14; 7:10.
11:9 destroys his neighbor. By spreading slander (cf. 10:18). through knowledge. Perhaps the knowledge of the schemes and distortions of the godless (cf. John 2:25).
11:10 city rejoices. See 28:12; 29:2. Thus life in the city is itself a teacher of wisdom (see note on 1:21). joyful shouting. Cf. the joy at the fall of Assyria (Is 30:32; Nah 3:19; cf. 2 Chr 21:20).
11:11 blessing of the upright. Their good influence and desire for justice as well as their prosperity (v. 10) bring honor to the city. mouth of the wicked. Their deceit, dishonesty and sowing of discord (see v. 9; 6:12–14).
11:12 despises his neighbor. Shows his contempt openly (see 10:18; 14:21). keeps silent. See 10:19.

11:20 perverse in heart are an abomination. See 3:32 and note;

But the [a]blameless in their [1]walk are
His [b]delight.
21 [1]Assuredly, the evil man will not go
unpunished,
But the [2]descendants of the righteous will be delivered.
22 As a [a]ring of gold in a swine's snout
So is a beautiful woman who lacks

23 The desire of the righteous is only good,
But the [a]expectation of the wicked is
wrath.
24 There is one who scatters, and yet

25 The [1][a]generous man will be

And he who [b]waters will himself be watered.
26 He who withholds grain, the [a]people

27 He who diligently seeks good seeks favor,
But [a]he who seeks evil, evil will come

28 He who [a]trusts in his riches will fall,

the green leaf.
29 He who [a]troubles his own house will

And [c]the foolish will be servant to the wisehearted.
30 The fruit of the righteous is [a]a tree of

Contrast the Upright and the Wicked

12 Whoever loves [1]discipline loves knowledge,
But he who hates reproof is stupid.
2 A [a]good man will obtain favor from
the LORD,
But He will condemn a man [1]who devises evil.
3 A man will [a]not be established by wickedness,
But the root of the [b]righteous will not be moved.
4 An [1][a]excellent wife is the crown of her husband,
But she who shames him is like
[b]rottenness in his bones.
5 The thoughts of the righteous are just,
But the counsels of the wicked are deceitful.
6 The [a]words of the wicked lie in wait for blood,
But the [b]mouth of the upright will deliver them.
7 The [a]wicked are overthrown and are no more,
But the [b]house of the righteous will stand.
8 A man will be praised according to his insight,

16:5. blameless. See note on 2:7.
11:21 will not go unpunished. See 6:29. will be delivered. See Ps 118:5.
11:22 ring of gold. Commonly worn by women on their noses (see Gen 24:47; Ezek 16:12). lacks discretion. Abigail was praised by David for her display of "discernment" (1 Sam 25:33).
11:23 See 10:24,28. wrath. Judgment (see v. 4; Is 10:3; Zeph 1:18; Rom 2:8–9).
11:24 Generosity is the path to blessing and further prosperity (see 3:9–10 and notes; Eccl 11:1–2 and notes; Ps 112:9; 2 Cor 9:6–9). By contrast, the stingy person does not make any friends and hurts himself in the long run (21:13).
11:25 generous man will be prosperous. "For he gives some of his food to the poor" (22:9). "He who sows bountifully will also reap bountifully" (2 Cor 9:6; cf. Luke 6:38). be watered. See Rom 15:32.
11:26 withholds grain. Probably in times of scarcity to raise the price. blessing will be on the head. See 10:6. him who sells. Like Joseph during the famine in Egypt (Gen 41:53–57).
11:27 He who diligently seeks good seeks favor. Like the man in v. 25 (cf. Matt 7:12). he who seeks evil, evil will come to him. His wicked schemes will backfire (see v. 8 and note; 1:18).
11:28 He who trusts in his riches. Usually said of the wicked (Ps 49:6; 62:10; but see Mark 10:25; 1 Tim 6:17). like the green leaf. See Ps 1:3.
11:29 He who troubles his own house will inherit wind. The inheritance of Levi and Simeon was affected because of their cruelty against Shechem (Gen 34:25–30; 49:7). See 15:27 and note. servant to the wisehearted. As the evil man serves the good (14:19; cf. 17:2).
11:30 fruit of the righteous. What a wise man produces (8:18–19). tree of life. See note on 3:18. wins souls. Wins people over to wisdom and righteousness (see Dan 12:3; 1 Cor 9:19–22; James 5:20). However, the Hebrew for this expression is unusual so that its translation is somewhat uncertain.
11:31 the righteous will be rewarded. Even Moses and David were punished for their sins (see Num 20:11–12; 2 Sam 12:10). How much more the wicked and the sinner! See 1:18,31 and notes; Ps 11:6; 73:18–19.
12:1 loves discipline loves knowledge. See 1:7; 10:17; see also 6:23 and note. hates reproof is stupid. See 1:22; 5:12 and note.
12:2 obtain favor. See 3:4; 8:35. condemn a man who devises evil. Cf. Job 5:12–13; 1 Cor 3:19.
12:3 will not be established. See 11:5. root of the righteous will not be moved. See 2:21; see also notes on 10:25,30.
12:4 excellent wife. Someone like Ruth (Ruth 3:11). Such a woman is fully described in 31:10–31. crown of her husband. She brings him honor and joy (see 4:9 and note). rottenness. See Hab 3:16. his bones. See note on 3:8.
12:5 counsels of the wicked are deceitful. See Ps 1:1.
12:6 lie in wait for blood. See note on 1:11; see also 1:16. mouth of the upright will deliver them. See 11:3–4,6,9.
12:7 See 10:25 and note.
12:8 praised according to his insight. See 3:4 and note. one of perverse mind will be despised. See Deut 32:5; Titus 3:11.

But one of perverse [1]mind will be despised.
9 Better is he who is lightly esteemed and has a servant
Than he who honors himself and lacks bread.
10 A [a]righteous man has regard for the life of his animal,
But even the compassion of the wicked is cruel.
11 He [a]who tills his land will have plenty of bread,
But he who pursues worthless things lacks [1]sense.
12 The [a]wicked man desires the [1]booty of evil men,
But the root of the righteous [b]yields fruit.
13 [1]An evil man is ensnared by the transgression of his lips,
But the [a]righteous will escape from trouble.
14 A man will be [a]satisfied with good by the fruit of his [1]words,
And the [b]deeds of a man's hands will return to him.
15 The [a]way of a fool is right in his own eyes,
But a wise man is he who listens to counsel.
16 A [a]fool's anger is known at once,
But a prudent man conceals dishonor.
17 He who [1]speaks truth tells what is right,
But a false witness, deceit.
18 There is one who [a]speaks rashly like the thrusts of a sword,
But the [b]tongue of the wise brings healing.
19 Truthful lips will be established forever,
But a [a]lying tongue is only for a moment.
20 Deceit is in the heart of those who devise evil,
But counselors of peace have joy.
21 [a]No harm befalls the righteous,
But the wicked are filled with trouble.
22 [a]Lying lips are an abomination to the LORD,
But those who deal faithfully are His delight.
23 A [a]prudent man conceals knowledge,
But the heart of fools proclaims folly.
24 The hand of the diligent will rule,
But the [1]slack hand will be [a]put to forced labor.
25 [a]Anxiety in a man's heart weighs it down,
But a [b]good word makes it glad.
26 The righteous is a guide to his neighbor,
But the way of the wicked leads them astray.
27 A [1]lazy man does not [2]roast his prey,
But the [a]precious possession of a man is diligence.
28 [a]In the way of righteousness is life,
And in its pathway there is no death.

Contrast the Upright and the Wicked

13 A [a]wise son accepts his father's discipline,
But a [b]scoffer does not listen to rebuke.
2 From the fruit of a man's mouth he [1][a]enjoys good,
But the [2]desire of the treacherous is [b]violence.

12:12 desires the booty of evil men. See 1:13 and note; 21:10. root of the righteous yields fruit. Like firmly rooted trees (see vv. 3,7; 11:30; Ps 1:3; see also 10:25 and note).

12:20 Deceit is in the heart. See 6:14 and note; see also 1:31; 24:2; Gen 6:5. counselors of peace have joy. "Blessed are the peacemakers" (Matt 5:9).

12:22 Compare the structure of this verse with that of 11:1,20. abomination. See note on 3:32. those who deal faithfully. See 16:13.
12:23 conceals knowledge. Stores up knowledge (see 10:14). proclaims folly. See v. 16; 13:16; 15:2; 29:11.

3 The one who [a]guards his mouth preserves his life;
The one who [b]opens wide his lips [1]comes to ruin.
4 The soul of the sluggard craves and gets nothing,
But the soul of the diligent is made fat.
5 A righteous man [a]hates falsehood,
But a wicked man [1][b]acts disgustingly and shamefully.
6 Righteousness [a]guards the [1]one whose way is blameless,
But wickedness subverts the [2]sinner.
7 There is one who [a]pretends to be rich, but has nothing;
Another [1]pretends to be [b]poor, but has great wealth.

14 The [1]teaching of the wise is a [a]fountain of life,

But [a]a faithful envoy brings healing.
18 Poverty and shame will come to him who [a]neglects [1]discipline,
But he who regards reproof will be honored.
19 Desire realized is sweet to the soul,
But it is an abomination to fools to turn away from evil.
20 [a]He who walks with wise men will be wise,
But the companion of fools will suffer harm.
21 [a]Adversity pursues sinners,
But the [b]righteous will be rewarded with prosperity.
22 A good man [a]leaves an inheritance to his [1]children's children,
And the [b]wealth of the sinner is stored up for the righteous.
23 [a]Abundant food is in the fallow ground of the poor,
But [1]it is swept away by injustice.

13:3 guards his mouth preserves his life. The ability to control the tongue is one of the clearest marks of wisdom. "Death and life are in the power of the tongue" (18:21; see 10:19; 21:23; James 3:2). one who opens wide his lips comes to ruin. See 12:18 and note; see also 10:14; 18:7; 2 Tim 3:3–4.
13:4 sluggard. See 6:6 and note. craves and gets nothing. Is never satisfied, yet refuses to work (see 21:25–26). soul of the diligent is made fat. Diligence yields a profit (see 6:6; see also notes on 10:4,24).
13:5 acts disgustingly and shamefully. Like a lazy or ungrateful son (10:5; 19:26).
13:6 This contrast repeats the thought of 2:21–22; 10:9; 11:3,5 (see notes); cf. 21:12; Ps 25:21.
13:7 Both pretenses are folly and lead to folly (see 14:8 and note; see also 11:24; 12:9).
13:8 ransom of a man's life. He has the means to pay off robbers or enemies (see 10:15 and note; Jer 41:8). poor hears no rebuke. Even poverty has its advantages.
13:9 light . . . lamp. Symbols of life (cf. Job 3:20). rejoices. There is joy and prosperity (see note on 4:18). lamp of the wicked goes out. His life will end (see 20:20; 24:20; Job 18:5; 21:17).
13:10 insolence. See 11:2 and note.
13:11 Wealth . . . by fraud dwindles. Such as wealth gained by extortion (Ps 62:10) or deceit (Prov 21:6). See note on 10:2; see also Jer 17:11. increases it. See note on 10:4.
13:12 Hope deferred makes the heart sick. Cf. Gen 30:1. desire fulfilled is a tree of life. It revives and strengthens (see note on 3:18; see also 10:28; 13:19).
13:13 who despises the word will be in debt to it. See 1:29–31; see also 5:12 and note. who fears the commandment will be rewarded. With the benefits wisdom gives (see 3:2 and note; 3:16–18; 13:21).
13:14 fountain of life. See note on 10:11. from the snares of death. See notes on 1:17; 5:22; see also 7:23; 22:5.
13:15 produces favor. See 3:4; 8:35. is hard. See v. 13 and note.
13:16 See 12:23 and note.
13:17 falls into adversity. Perhaps by misrepresenting those who sent him. brings healing. His tactful, honest approach benefits both parties (see 25:13; cf. 12:18; 15:4).
13:18 Poverty and shame. See 5:10–12 and notes. who regards reproof will be honored. See v. 1; 3:16–18; 8:35; 10:17.
13:19 Desire realized. See v. 12. an abomination . . . to turn away from evil. Cf. their hatred of correction in 5:12.
13:20 who walks with wise men will be wise. Choose your friends with care (see 2:20; 12:26). companion of fools will suffer harm. See 1:10,18; 2:12; 16:29; 22:24–25.
13:21 See v. 13 and note.
13:22 is stored up for the righteous. Job agrees that this is often what happens to a wicked man's possessions (Job 27:16–17; cf. Prov 28:8).
13:23 it is swept away by injustice. Probably a case of the rich and powerful oppressing the poor (cf. Ps 35:10).
13:24 who withholds his rod hates his son. Parents are encouraged to apply the rod of punishment to drive out folly (22:15) so that the child will not follow a path of destruction (19:18; 23:13–14). "The rod and reproof give wisdom" (29:15) and pro-

Contrast the Upright and the Wicked

14 The [a]wise woman builds her house,
But the foolish tears it down with her own hands.
2 He who [a]walks in his uprightness
fears the LORD,
But he who is [b]devious in his ways
despises Him.
3 In the mouth of the foolish is a rod
[1]for his back,
But [a]the lips of the wise will protect
them.
4 Where no oxen are, the manger is clean,
But much revenue comes by the strength of the ox.
5 A [a]trustworthy witness will not lie,
But a [b]false witness [1][c]utters lies.
6 A scoffer seeks wisdom and finds none,
But knowledge is easy to one who has understanding.
7 Leave the [a]presence of a fool,
Or you will not [1]discern [2]words of
knowledge.
8 The wisdom of the sensible is to understand his way,
But [a]the foolishness of fools is deceit.
9 Fools mock at [1]sin,
But [a]among the upright there is [2]good will.
10 The heart knows its own [a]bitterness,
And a stranger does not share its joy.
11 The [a]house of the wicked will be destroyed,
But the tent of the upright will
flourish.
12 There [a]is a way which seems right to a
man,
But its [b]end is the way of death.
13 Even in laughter the heart may be in pain,
And the [a]end of joy may be grief.
14 The backslider in heart will have his
[a]fill of his own ways,
But a good man will [b]be satisfied
[1]with his.
15 The [1]naive believes everything,
But the sensible man considers his steps.
16 A wise man [1]is cautious and [a]turns away from evil,
But a fool is arrogant and careless.
17 A quick-tempered man acts foolishly,
And a man of evil devices is hated.
18 The [1]naive inherit foolishness,
But the sensible are crowned with knowledge.
19 The [a]evil will bow down before the
good,
And the wicked at the gates of the righteous.
20 The [a]poor is hated even by his neighbor,
But those who love the rich are many.
21 He who [a]despises his neighbor sins,
But [b]happy is he who is gracious to the [1]poor.
22 Will they not go astray who [a]devise evil?

mote a healthy and happy family (29:17). Discipline is rooted in love (see 3:11–12 and note). rod. Probably a figure of speech for discipline of any kind.

13:25 States more specifically the teaching of vv. 13,18,21; see 10:3 and note.

14:1 wise woman builds her house. She is a source of strength and an example of diligence for her family (see 31:10–31). Cf. the house built by wisdom in 9:1.

14:2 fears the LORD. See note on 1:7.

14:3 rod for his back. See 10:13; 19:29; 26:3.

14:4 Perhaps the thought is that men need to take good care of their oxen (the means of production) if they expect an abundant harvest (see 12:10).

14:5 See note on 6:19.

14:6 scoffer. See 1:22 and note. seeks wisdom and finds none. Because he refuses to fear the Lord or accept any correction.

14:8 foolishness of fools is deceit. What a fool believes to be prudent (but is really folly) does not bring success; instead, it tends toward his ruin.

14:9 among the upright . . . good will. See 11:27.

14:10 knows its own bitterness. See 1 Kin 8:38. Cf. the experience of Hannah (1 Sam 1:10) and Peter (Matt 26:75). share its joy. Cf. Matt 13:44; 1 Pet 1:8.

14:11 See 10:25 and note.

14:12 its end is the way of death. See 5:4,23; 7:21–27; Matt 7:13–14.

14:13 in laughter the heart may be in pain. Cf. Ezra 3:11–12. end of joy may be grief. As the death of Rachel in childbirth (Gen 35:17–18).

14:14 See 1:31; 12:14 and notes; see also 11:5,8; 18:20; 22:8; Job 4:8.

14:15 naive. See note on 1:4. considers his steps. See 4:26 and note; 21:29.

14:16 cautious and turns away from evil. See NASB marg.; see also notes on 1:7; 3:7. arrogant. Cf. 21:24. careless. In words (12:18; 13:3) and actions (Judg 9:4).

14:17 quick-tempered. See Titus 1:7. evil devices. Cf. 12:2; Job 5:12–13; 1 Cor 3:19.

14:18 crowned with knowledge. Adorned and blessed with knowledge (see note on 4:9; see also v. 24; 12:4; Ps 103:4).

14:19 evil will bow down. Cf. 17:2. at the gates of the righteous. Perhaps to beg for some favor (cf. 1 Sam 2:36).

14:20 hated even by his neighbor. And sometimes by his relatives (see 19:7).

14:21 happy is he who is gracious to the poor. Sharing food (22:9), lending money (28:8) and defending rights (31:9) are ways one can show kindness. Such a person honors God (v. 31; cf. 17:5) and will lack nothing (28:27). Cf. 21:13; Ps 41:1.

14:22 go astray. See 5:23; 12:26. devise evil. See 3:29; 6:14,18; Mic 2:1. kindness and truth . . . to those. They receive the support and care of faithful friends (cf. 3:3; 16:6; 20:28)—perhaps God's support and care are also implied here.

But kindness and truth will be to those who devise good.
23 In all labor there is profit,
But [1]mere talk leads only to poverty.
24 The [a]crown of the wise is their riches,
But the folly of fools is foolishness.
25 A truthful witness saves lives,
But he who [1][a]utters lies is

26 In the [1][a]fear of the LORD there is strong confidence,
And [2]his children will have refuge.
27 The [1]fear of the LORD is a fountain of life,
That one may avoid the snares of death.
28 In a multitude of people is a king's glory,
But in the dearth of people is a prince's ruin.
29 He who is [a]slow to anger has great understanding,

But he who is gracious to the needy honors Him.
32 The wicked is [a]thrust down by his [1]wrongdoing,
But the [b]righteous has a refuge when he dies.
33 Wisdom rests in the heart of one who has understanding,
But in the [1]hearts of fools it is made known.
34 Righteousness exalts a nation,
But sin is a disgrace to any people.

Contrast the Upright and the Wicked

15 A [a]gentle answer turns away wrath,
But a [1][b]harsh word stirs up anger.
2 The [a]tongue of the wise makes knowledge [1]acceptable,
But the [b]mouth of fools spouts folly.
3 The [a]eyes of the LORD are in every place,
Watching the evil and the good.
4 A [1]soothing tongue is a tree of life,
But perversion in it [2]crushes the spirit.
5 A fool [1]rejects his father's discipline,
But he who regards reproof is sensible.
6 Great wealth is in the house of the [a]righteous,
But trouble is in the income of the wicked.
7 The lips of the wise spread knowledge,
But the hearts of fools are not so.
8 The [a]sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination to the LORD,
But [b]the prayer of the upright is His delight.
9 The way of the wicked is an abomination to the LORD,
But He loves one who [a]pursues righteousness.
10 Grievous punishment is for him who forsakes the way;
He who hates reproof will die.

14:23 in all labor there is profit. See note on 10:4; see also 21:5.
14:24 crown of the wise is . . . riches. The wise obtain wealth, and it adorns them like a crown (see 10:22).
14:25 See v. 5; 12:17; see also note on 6:19.
14:26 fear of the LORD. See 1:7; 3:7 and notes. strong confidence . . . refuge. Means either that the father's godliness will result in blessing for himself and his children (see 20:7) or that the "fear of the LORD" will be a strong tower where the children also can find refuge (see 18:10; Ps 71:7; Is 33:6).
14:27 See note on 10:11; see also 13:14.
14:29 He who is slow to anger. See 15:18; 16:32; 19:11; James 1:19.
14:30 life to the body. Cf. the healthy effects of fearing the Lord and walking in wisdom in 3:7–8,16–18. passion is rottenness to the bones. See note on 3:8; see also 12:4; Ps 37:7–8.
14:31 taunts his Maker. Because God created both the rich and the poor in His image (see 22:2; Job 31:15; James 3:9). gracious to the needy. See note on v. 21. honors Him. Does God's will, and in a sense gives to God Himself (see 19:17; Matt 25:40).
14:32 wicked is thrust down. See 1:26–27 and note; 11:5; 24:16. righteous has a refuge when he dies. His faith in God gives him hope beyond the grave (see note on 12:28; see also Ps 49:14–15; 73:24).
14:33 in the hearts of fools it is made known. Perhaps means that even fools occasionally display a bit of wisdom (cf. Acts 17:27–28; Rom 1:19–20).
14:34 Righteousness exalts a nation. See note on 11:11. Israel was promised prosperity and prestige if she obeyed God's laws (see Deut 28:1–14). sin is a disgrace to any people. The Canaanites were driven out because of their terrible sin (Lev 18:24–25), and Israel later received the same curse (Deut 28:15–68; cf. 2 Sam 12:10).
14:35 his anger is toward him. See 16:14; 19:12; Dan 2:12.
15:1 gentle answer turns away wrath. Cf. the way Gideon calmed the anger of the men of Ephraim in Judg 8:1–3 (cf. also Prov 15:18; Eccl 10:4). harsh word stirs up anger. Nabal's sarcastic response put David in a fighting mood (1 Sam 25:10–13).
15:2 spouts folly. See vv. 7, 28; 12:23; 13:16.
15:3 eyes of the LORD are in every place. See 5:21; Job 31:4; 34:21; Jer 16:17.
15:4 soothing tongue. See note on 12:18. tree of life. See note on 3:18. perversion in it crushes the spirit. Especially false testimony in court (see 6:19; 22:22), or slander in the community.
15:6 See 10:2,16,22 and notes. Great wealth. See 8:18,21; 24:4; Zech 8:12; see also note on 3:10.
15:8 sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination. Those whose hearts are not right with God gain nothing by offering sacrifices (see 21:3,27; Eccl 5:1; Is 1:11–15; Jer 6:20). prayer of the upright. See 3:32.
15:9 who pursues righteousness. See 21:21; 1 Tim 6:11.
15:10 the way. The right path (see 2:13). who hates reproof will die. See 5:12,23 and notes.

11 [1][a]Sheol and [2]Abaddon lie open before the LORD,
How much more the [b]hearts of [3]men!
12 A [a]scoffer does not love one who reproves him,
He will not go to the wise.
13 A [a]joyful heart makes a [1]cheerful face,
But [2]when the heart is [b]sad, the [c]spirit is broken.
14 The [a]mind of the intelligent seeks knowledge,
But the mouth of fools feeds on folly.
15 All the days of the afflicted are bad,
But a [1]cheerful heart has a continual feast.
16 [a]Better is a little with the [1]fear of the LORD
Than great treasure and turmoil with it.
17 [a]Better is a [1]dish of [2]vegetables where love is
Than a [b]fattened ox served with hatred.
18 A [a]hot-tempered man stirs up strife,
But the [b]slow to anger [c]calms a dispute.
19 The way of the lazy is as a hedge of thorns,
But the path of the upright is a highway.
20 A [a]wise son makes a father glad,
But a foolish man [b]despises his mother.
21 Folly is joy to him who lacks [1]sense,
But a man of understanding [a]walks straight.
22 Without consultation, plans are frustrated,
But with many counselors they [1]succeed.
23 A [a]man has joy in an [1]apt answer,
And how delightful is a timely [b]word!
24 The [a]path of life leads upward for the wise
That he may keep away from [1]Sheol below.
25 The LORD will [a]tear down the house of the proud,
But He will [b]establish the boundary of the [c]widow.
26 Evil plans are an abomination to the LORD,
But pleasant words are pure.
27 He who [a]profits illicitly troubles his own house,
But he who [b]hates bribes will live.
28 The heart of the righteous [a]ponders how to answer,
But the [b]mouth of the wicked pours out evil things.
29 The LORD is [a]far from the wicked,
But He [b]hears the prayer of the righteous.
30 [1]Bright eyes gladden the heart;
Good news puts fat on the bones.
31 He whose ear listens to the life-giving reproof
Will dwell among the wise.
32 He who [a]neglects discipline [b]despises himself,
But he who [c]listens to reproof acquires [1]understanding.
33 The [1]fear of the LORD is the instruction for wisdom,
And before honor comes humility.

15:11 Sheol and Abaddon lie open before the LORD. Not even the grave, the nether world, is inaccessible to God (see Job 26:6; Ps 139:8). Therefore He knows the secrets of man's innermost being (cf. 1 Sam 16:7).
15:12 See 1:30; 10:8; 13:1; 17:10. scoffer. See note on 1:22.
15:13 joyful heart makes a cheerful face. . . . heart is sad . . . spirit is broken. Cf. the great sorrow of Job (Job 3) and David (Ps 51:8,10).
15:15 cheerful heart has a continual feast. Life is as joyful and satisfying as the days of a festival (see v. 13; 14:30; cf. Lev 23:39–41).
15:16 great treasure and turmoil. The "ill-gotten gains" of 10:2.
15:17 fattened ox. Such meat was something of a luxury, reserved for special occasions (cf. 7:14; Matt 22:4; Luke 15:23).
15:18 stirs up strife. See note on 6:14. slow to anger. See 14:29; 16:32; 19:11; James 1:19.
15:19 lazy. See note on 6:6. as a hedge of thorns. Mainly because he was too lazy to remove them (see 24:30–31; Hos 2:6). highway. The upright can make progress and reach their goals (see note on 3:6).
15:20 See 10:1 and note.
15:21 A variation of 10:23.
15:22 See the close parallel in 11:14; 20:18; 24:6.
15:23 apt answer. Cf. Is 50:4. how delightful is a timely word! Cf. 24:26.
15:24 leads upward. Along the highway (v. 19), the straight course (v. 21) that leads to life. he may keep away from Sheol below. See note on 2:18.
15:25 tear down the house of the proud. See 2:22; 14:11; see also 10:25 and note. establish the boundary of the widow. In ancient times boundary stones marked a person's property. Anyone who moved such a stone was, in effect, stealing land (see 22:28; Job 24:2; Ps 68:5; see also Deut 19:14 and note).
15:26 Evil plans are an abomination. Cf. vv. 8–9. pleasant words are pure. See 22:11; Ps 24:4.
15:27 who profits illicitly troubles his own house. See 1:19; 11:29; 28:25. Achan's whole family perished because of his greed at Jericho (Josh 7:24–26). he who hates bribes will live. See 17:8; 28:16; Deut 16:19; 1 Sam 12:3; Eccl 7:7; 1 Tim 6:10.
15:28 ponders how to answer. Cf. 10:32; 1 Pet 3:15. pours out evil things. See v. 2; see also v. 7; 12:23.
15:29 far from the wicked. See 1:28 and note.
15:30 Bright eyes gladden the heart. Cf. v. 13; 16:15; Job 29:24. Good news puts fat on the bones. See 3:8 and note; see also Phil 2:19.
15:31 whose ear listens to the life-giving reproof. See 1:23; 6:23 and note.
15:32 who neglects discipline despises himself. See note on 5:12; see also 1:7; 5:23; 8:36. who listens to reproof. Cf. vv. 5,31.
15:33 fear of the LORD. See note on 1:7. before honor comes humility. See 22:24; 25:6–7; Matt 23:12; Luke 14:11; 18:14; 1 Pet 5:6. Wisdom also comes with humility (11:2; 13:10).

Contrast the Upright and the Wicked

16 The [a]plans of the heart belong to man,
But the answer of the tongue is from the LORD.
2 All the ways of a man are clean in his own sight,
But the [a]LORD weighs the [1]motives.
3 [1a]Commit your works to the LORD
And your plans will be established.
4 The LORD [a]has made everything for [1]its own purpose,
Even the [b]wicked for the day of evil.
5 Everyone who is proud in heart is an abomination to the LORD;
Assuredly, he will not be unpunished.
6 By [a]lovingkindness and truth iniquity is atoned for,
And by the [1b]fear of the LORD one keeps away from evil.
7 When a man's ways are pleasing to the LORD,
He [a]makes even his enemies to be at peace with him.
8 Better is a little with righteousness
Than great income with injustice.
9 The mind of [a]man plans his way,
But [b]the LORD directs his steps.
10 A divine [a]decision is in the lips of the king;
His mouth should not [1]err in judgment.
11 A [a]just balance and scales belong to the LORD;
All the [1]weights of the bag are His [2]concern.
12 It is an abomination for kings to commit wicked acts,
For a [a]throne is established on righteousness.
13 Righteous lips are the delight of kings,
And he who speaks right is loved.
14 The fury of a king is like messengers of death,
But a wise man will appease it.
15 In the light of a king's face is life,
And his favor is like a cloud with the [1a]spring rain.
16 How much [a]better it is to get wisdom than gold!
And to get understanding is to be chosen above silver.
17 The [a]highway of the upright is to depart from evil;
He who watches his way preserves his [1]life.
18 [a]Pride goes before destruction,
And a haughty spirit before stumbling.
19 It is better to be [a]humble in spirit with the lowly
Than to [b]divide the spoil with the proud.
20 He who gives attention to the word will [a]find good,
And [b]blessed is he who trusts in the LORD.
21 The [a]wise in heart will be called understanding,
And sweetness of [1]speech [b]increases [2]persuasiveness.

16:1 the answer of the tongue is from the LORD. God must give the ability to articulate and accomplish those plans (cf. 19:21).
16:2 are clean. See 14:12. the LORD weighs the motives. See 24:12; Ps 139:23; 1 Cor 4:4–5; Heb 4:12.
16:3 Commit. See 1 Pet 5:7. plans will be established. Goals will be reached (see 3:5–6 and notes; Ps 1:3; 55:22; 90:17).
16:4 made everything for its own purpose. God is sovereign in every life and in all of history (see Eccl 7:14; Rom 8:28). the wicked for the day of evil. Even through wicked men God displays His power (cf. Ex 9:16), and all evil will be judged (cf. Ezek 38:22–23; Rom 2:5–11).
16:5 See 11:20–21 and notes.
16:6 By lovingkindness and truth iniquity is atoned for. The moral quality of conduct that God desires is sometimes summed up by two Hebrew terms often translated as "lovingkindness and truth" (3:3; Hos 4:1). When His people repent of sin and bring their lives into accord with His will, God forgives and withdraws His judgment (see Is 1:18–19; 55:7; Jer 3:22; Ezek 18:23,30–32; 33:11–12,14–16; Hos 14:1–2,4). Thus it can be said that lovingkindness and truth, in a manner of speaking, "atone for" sin, i.e., they turn away God's wrath against it. fear of the LORD. See note on 1:7.
16:7 makes even his enemies to be at peace with him. As in the reigns of godly Asa and Jehoshaphat (2 Chr 14:6–7; 17:10). peace. See 3:17 and note; Rom 12:18; Heb 12:14.
16:8 See 10:2 and note.
16:9 the LORD directs his steps. Verses 1,3–4 (see notes) also emphasize God's control of men's lives (see 19:21; 20:24; Ps 37:23; Jer 10:23).
16:10 divine decision . . . lips of the king. In judging cases brought before him, a king functioned as God's representative (see Deut 1:17). Therefore he needed the divine gift of wisdom to discern between right and wrong in order to render God's judgment (see 1 Kin 3:9). When he did so, his judgment was tantamount to a divine oracle for the people (see 1 Kin 3:28; see also 2 Sam 14:17,20; 19:27).
16:11 See note on 11:1. just balance . . . to the LORD. Cf. 21:2; 24:12; Job 6:2; 31:6. All the weights of the bag. Merchants carried stones of different sizes with them to weigh and measure quantities of silver for payment (cf. Mic 6:11).
16:12 throne is established on righteousness. When the king "judges the poor with truth" (29:14), refuses to take bribes (29:4) and removes any wicked advisers (25:5). See 14:34; Deut 17:19–20; Is 16:5; Rom 13:3.
16:13 Righteous lips. Rather than flattering lips (cf. 20:28).
16:14 messengers of death. Any angry king can pronounce death quickly and effectively (see 19:12; Esth 7:7–10; Matt 22:7; Luke 19:27). wise man will appease it. Cf. Daniel's response to the rage of Nebuchadnezzar (Dan 2:12–16).
16:15 light of a king's face. Cf. Num 6:25. his favor is like a cloud with spring rain. The spring rain was essential for the full development of barley and wheat; it was therefore a sign of good things to come. Cf. the "dew" of 19:12; see Ps 72:6.
16:16 See 3:14 and note; 8:10,19.
16:17 highway of the upright. See note on 15:19. depart from evil. Cf. the thorns and snares in the paths of the wicked (22:5).
16:18 See 11:2 and note.
16:19 better to be humble in spirit. See 3:34; Is 57:15; Matt 5:3. divide the spoil with the proud. See 1:13–14; Judg 5:30.
16:20 find good. See 13:13 and note. blessed is he who trusts in the LORD. See v. 3; 3:5–6; 28:25; Ps 34:8; 37:4–5.
16:21 sweetness of speech increases persuasiveness. Cf. the last

22 Understanding is a fountain of life to one who has it,
But the discipline of fools is folly.
23 The [a]heart of the wise instructs his mouth
And adds [1]persuasiveness to his lips.
24 [a]Pleasant words are a honeycomb,
Sweet to the soul and [b]healing to the bones.
25 [a]There is a way which seems right to a man,
But its end is the way of death.
26 A worker's appetite works for him,
For his [1]hunger urges him on.
27 A [a]worthless man digs up evil,

28 A perverse man spreads strife,
And a slanderer separates intimate friends.
29 A man of violence [a]entices his neighbor
And leads him in a way that is not good.
30 He who winks his eyes does so to devise perverse things;
He who compresses his lips brings evil to pass.
31 A [a]gray head is a crown of glory;

Contrast the Upright and the Wicked

17 [a]Better is a dry morsel and quietness with it
Than a house full of [1]feasting with strife.
2 A servant who acts wisely will rule over a son who acts shamefully,
And will share in the inheritance among brothers.
3 The [a]refining pot is for silver and the furnace for gold,
But [b]the LORD tests hearts.
4 An [a]evildoer listens to wicked lips;
A [1]liar pays attention to a destructive tongue.
5 He who mocks the [a]poor taunts his Maker;
He who [b]rejoices at calamity will not go unpunished.
6 [a]Grandchildren are the crown of old men,
And the [b]glory of sons is their fathers.
7 [1][a]Excellent speech is not fitting for a fool,
Much less are [b]lying lips to a prince.
8 A [a]bribe is a [1]charm in the sight of its owner;
Wherever he turns, he prospers.
9 He who [a]conceals a transgression seeks love,
But he who repeats a matter [b]separates intimate friends.

line of v. 23. "Sweetness" is expanded in v. 24. Cf. the persuasive but destructive words of the adulteress in 7:21.

16:22 fountain of life. See note on 10:11. discipline of fools. See 13:13 and note; see also 7:22; 13:15; 15:10.

16:23 instructs his mouth. See 22:17–18.

16:24 Pleasant words are a honeycomb. They are good for you (see 24:13–14), and they taste good (cf. 2:10; Ps 19:10). healing to the bones. See notes on 4:22; 12:18; 15:30. bones. See note on 3:8.

16:25 its end is the way of death. See 5:4,23; 7:21–27; Matt 7:13–14.

16:26 Cf. 2 Thess 3:10: "If anyone is not willing to work, then he is not to eat, either"; see also Eccl 6:7; Eph 4:28.

16:27 worthless man. See 6:12 and note; see also note on Deut 13:13. digs up evil. See 3:29; 6:14; Mic 2:1. scorching fire. His speech is inflammatory and destructive (see James 3:6).

16:28 spreads strife. See note on 6:14. slanderer. See 11:13.

16:30 winks his eyes. See note on 6:13. compresses his lips. Thereby making insinuations (see note on 6:12–14).

16:31 gray head is a crown of glory. The elderly were to receive deep respect (see Lev 19:32). in the way of righteousness. See 3:1–2,16.

16:32 who is slow to anger is . . . mighty. See 14:29; 15:18; 19:11; James 1:19. "Wisdom is better than weapons of war" (Eccl 9:18). he who rules his spirit, than he who captures a city. Although one who practices patience and self-control receives far less attention and acclaim than a warrior who takes a city, he accomplishes better things.

16:33 The lot is cast into the lap. Here the lot may have been several pebbles held in the fold of a garment and then drawn out or shaken to the ground. It was commonly used to make decisions (see notes on Ex 28:30; Num 26:53; Neh 11:1; Jon 1:7; Acts 1:26; see also Ps 22:18). every decision is from the LORD. God, not chance, is in control (see vv. 1,3–4,9).

17:2 A servant . . . will rule over a son. See 11:29 and note. son who acts shamefully. See 10:5; 19:26; 28:7; 29:15.

17:3 The refining pot . . . the furnace. Silver and gold were refined to remove their impurities (cf. Is 1:25; Mal 3:3). tests hearts. See 15:11; 16:2 and notes; Jer 17:10.

17:5 who mocks the poor taunts his Maker. See 14:31 and note. who rejoices at calamity will not go unpunished. The people of Edom in particular were condemned for gloating over the collapse of "brother" Israel ("Jacob," Obad 10; see Ezek 35:12,15; see also Prov 24:17).

17:6 crown of old men. Cf. the "gray head" of 16:31. To live to see one's grandchildren was considered a great blessing (see Gen 48:11; Ps 128:5–6). the glory of sons is their fathers. See Gen 47:7.

17:7 For the structure of this verse cf. 19:10; 26:1. lying lips to a prince. His right to rule depends on honesty and justice (see 12:22; 16:12–13).

17:8 A bribe is a charm. A sad commentary on human behavior (see 18:16; 21:14; Eccl 10:19). Elsewhere, bribes are condemned (see v. 23; 15:27; 28:16; Deut 16:19; 1 Sam 12:3; Eccl 7:7; Is 1:23; Amos 5:12; 1 Tim 6:10).

17:9 He who conceals a transgression seeks love. See 10:12 and note.

10 A rebuke goes deeper into one who has understanding
Than a hundred blows into a fool.
11 A rebellious man seeks only evil,
So a cruel messenger will be sent against him.
12 Let a [a]man meet a [b]bear robbed of her cubs,
Rather than a fool in his folly.
13 He who [a]returns evil for good,
[b]Evil will not depart from his house.
14 The beginning of strife is like letting out water,
So [a]abandon the quarrel before it breaks out.
15 He who [a]justifies the wicked and he who condemns the righteous,
Both of them alike are an abomination to the LORD.
16 Why is there a price in the hand of a fool to [a]buy wisdom,
When [1]he has no sense?
17 A [a]friend loves at all times,
And a brother is born for adversity.
18 A man lacking in [1]sense [2][a]pledges
And becomes guarantor in the presence of his neighbor.
19 He who [a]loves transgression loves strife;
He who [b]raises his door seeks destruction.
20 He who has a crooked [1]mind [a]finds no good,
And he who is [b]perverted in his language falls into evil.
21 He who [a]sires a fool does so to his sorrow,
And the father of a fool has no joy.
22 A [a]joyful heart [1]is good medicine,
But a broken spirit [b]dries up the bones.
23 A wicked man receives a [a]bribe from the bosom
To [b]pervert the ways of justice.
24 Wisdom is in the presence of the one who has understanding,
But the [a]eyes of a fool are on the ends of the earth.
25 A [a]foolish son is a grief to his father
And [b]bitterness to her who bore him.
26 It is also not good to [a]fine the righteous,
Nor to strike the noble for their uprightness.
27 He who [a]restrains his words [1]has knowledge,
And he who has a [b]cool spirit is a man of understanding.
28 Even a fool, when he [a]keeps silent, is considered wise;
When he closes his lips, he is considered prudent.

Contrast the Upright and the Wicked

18 He who separates himself seeks his own desire,
He [1][a]quarrels against all sound wisdom.
2 A fool does not delight in understanding,
But only [a]in revealing his own [1]mind.
3 When a wicked man comes, contempt also comes,
And with dishonor comes scorn.
4 The words of a man's mouth are [a]deep waters;
[1]The fountain of wisdom is a bubbling brook.

17:11 cruel messenger. Cf. the dispatching of Abishai and Joab to end Sheba's rebellion against David (2 Sam 20:1–22; see 1 Kin 2:25,29,46; Prov 16:14).
17:12 bear robbed of her cubs. Sure to attack you and rip you open (see 2 Sam 17:8; Hos 13:8; cf. the raging of the fool in 29:9).
17:13 returns evil for good. Like Nabal, who refused to pay David's men (1 Sam 25:21; see Ps 109:5; Rom 12:17–21). Evil will not depart from his house. The fate of David's family after his affair with Bathsheba and the murder of Uriah (2 Sam 12:10; cf. Jer 18:20–23).
17:15 justifies the wicked. Perhaps because of a bribe (see v. 8; 24:24).
17:16 price in the hand of a fool. Perhaps to pay the fee for his schooling.
17:17 friend loves at all times. Cf. David's friendship with Jonathan (2 Sam 1:26; see 18:24; Ruth 1:16; 1 Cor 13:4–7).
17:18 See 6:1 and note.
17:19 who loves transgression loves strife. A hot-tempered man commits many sins (29:22). raises his door. Out of pride (cf. 16:18; 29:23). Or "door" (lit. "opening") in this context may be a figure for the mouth ("he who opens his mouth wide"), meaning "he brags too much" and so "invites destruction," including his own.
17:20 finds no good. Contrast 16:20. perverted in his language. See note on 2:12.
17:21 sorrow . . . no joy. See v. 25; 19:13.
17:22 joyful heart. See 14:30; 15:13,30; 16:15; Job 29:24. broken spirit dries up the bones. See note on 3:8; see also 12:4; 14:30; Ps 32:3; 37:7–8.
17:23 receives a bribe. See note on v. 8.
17:24 are on the ends of the earth. He chases fantasies and is interested in everything except wisdom (see 12:11; cf. Deut 30:11–14).
17:25 See v. 21. bitterness. See 14:10 and note.
17:26 fine the righteous. See v. 15 and note. strike the noble. Cf. the beating and disgrace endured by Jeremiah (Jer 20:2; see v. 10 and note).
17:27 restrains his words. See 10:19. cool spirit. See 16:32.
17:28 a fool, when . . . silent, is considered wise. Cf. Job's sarcastic comment in Job 13:5.
18:1 seeks his own desire. He is quarrelsome and hot-tempered (cf. 17:14; Gal 5:20).
18:2 revealing his own mind. Cf. Eccl 10:3.
18:3 contempt . . . dishonor . . . scorn. Cf. 3:35; 6:33; 10:5; 11:2; Ps 31:17; Is 22:18.
18:4 deep waters. Profound or obscure (cf. 20:5). fountain of wisdom is a bubbling brook. A wise man's words are refreshing and a source of life (see 1:23; 13:14; see also 10:11 and note).

5 To [a]show partiality to the wicked is not good,
Nor to [b]thrust aside the righteous in judgment.
6 A fool's lips [1]bring strife,
And his mouth calls for [a]blows.
7 A [a]fool's mouth is his ruin,
And his lips are the snare of his soul.
8 The words of a whisperer are like dainty morsels,
And they go down into the [1]innermost parts of the body.
9 He also who is [a]slack in his work
[b]Is brother to him who destroys.
10 The [a]name of the LORD is a [b]strong tower;
The righteous runs into it and [c]is [1]safe.
11 A [a]rich man's wealth is his strong city,
And like a high wall in his own imagination.
12 [a]Before destruction the heart of man is haughty,
But [b]humility goes before honor.
13 He who [a]gives an answer before he hears,
It is folly and shame to him.
14 The [a]spirit of a man can endure his sickness,
But as for a [b]broken spirit who can bear it?
15 The [1][a]mind of the prudent acquires knowledge,
And the [b]ear of the wise seeks knowledge.
16 A man's [a]gift makes room for him
And brings him before great men.
17 The first [1]to plead his case seems right,
Until [2]another comes and examines him.
18 The cast [a]lot puts an end to strife
And [1]decides between the mighty ones.
19 A brother offended is harder to be won than a strong city,
And contentions are like the bars of a citadel.
20 With the [1][a]fruit of a man's mouth his stomach will be satisfied;
[b]He will be satisfied with the product of his lips.
21 [a]Death and life are in the [1]power of the tongue,
And those who love it will eat its [b]fruit.
22 He who finds a [a]wife finds a good thing
And [b]obtains favor from the LORD.
23 The [a]poor man utters supplications,
But the [b]rich man [c]answers roughly.
24 A man of too many friends comes to [1]ruin,
But there is [a]a [2]friend who sticks closer than a brother.

On Life and Conduct

19 [a]Better is a poor man who [b]walks in his integrity
Than he who is perverse in [1]speech and is a fool.
2 Also it is not good for a person to be without knowledge,
And he who hurries [1][a]his footsteps [2]errs.
3 The [a]foolishness of man ruins his way,
And his heart [b]rages against the LORD.
4 [a]Wealth adds many friends,
But a poor man is separated from his friend.

18:5 partiality to the wicked. See 17:15 and note. Favoritism of any kind was condemned in the law (see Lev 19:15; Deut 1:17; 16:19). to thrust aside the righteous in judgment. See 17:26; 31:5; Mal 3:5.
18:6 bring strife. A fool is quick to quarrel (see 17:14,19; 20:3). calls for blows. By a rod on his back (see 10:13; 19:29).
18:7 See 10:14 and note.
18:8 words of a whisperer are like dainty morsels. They are as pleasant as a wise man's words (cf. 16:21,23), but they promote dissension (see 11:13; 26:20,22). they go down into the innermost parts of the body. Where they are thoroughly digested and so are carried about and live on and on.
18:9 who is slack in his work. See 10:4 and note.
18:10 name of the LORD. The "name" equals the person, since it expresses his nature and qualities (see Ex 3:14–15 and notes). strong tower. See Ps 18:2; 91:2; 144:2. safe. See 29:25; Ps 27:5.
18:11 wealth is his strong city. Identical to 10:15 (see note there). high wall. But God can bring it down (see Is 25:12).
18:12 See 15:33 and note.
18:14 See 15:13; 17:22 and notes.
18:16 A man's gift makes room for him. A reference to the effectiveness of a bribe (see note on 17:8).
18:17 A warning to judges to hear both sides of a case (cf. Deut 1:16), but applicable to many situations.
18:18 The cast lot puts an end to strife. See note on 16:33. Cf. Matt 27:35.
18:19 A brother offended. Cf. Esau's anger because of the blessing Jacob received from Isaac (Gen 27:41).
18:20 See 12:14 and note.
18:21 Death and life are in the power of the tongue. See note on 13:3. its fruit. See v. 20.
18:22 who finds a wife finds a good thing. See 12:4 and note; 19:14. obtains favor from the LORD. Identical to 8:35, where finding wisdom brought such favor.

19:1 in his integrity. See note on 2:7. Than he who is . . . a fool. Even if he becomes rich (see 28:6).
19:2 be without knowledge. Cf. Rom 10:2. hurries. Haste can lead to poverty (21:5) or folly (29:20). errs. The Hebrew for this expression often refers to sin.

19:4 See v. 7; 14:20.

5 A [a]false witness will not go unpunished,
And he who [1][b]tells lies will not escape.
6 [a]Many will seek the favor of a [1]generous man,
And every man is a friend to him who [b]gives gifts.
7 All the brothers of a poor man hate him;
How much more do his [a]friends abandon him!
He [b]pursues them with words, but they are [1]gone.
8 He who gets [1]wisdom loves his own soul;
He who keeps understanding will [a]find good.
9 A [a]false witness will not go unpunished,
And he who [1]tells lies will perish.
10 Luxury is [a]not fitting for a fool;
Much less for a [b]slave to rule over princes.
11 A man's [a]discretion makes him slow to anger,
And it is his glory [b]to overlook a transgression.
12 The [a]king's wrath is like the roaring of a lion,
But his favor is like [b]dew on the grass.
13 A [a]foolish son is destruction to his father,
And the [b]contentions of a wife are a constant dripping.
14 House and wealth are an [a]inheritance from fathers,
But a prudent wife is from the LORD.
15 [a]Laziness casts into a deep sleep,
And an idle [1]man will suffer hunger.
16 He who [a]keeps the commandment keeps his soul,
But he who [1]is careless of [2]conduct will die.

17 One who [a]is gracious to a poor man lends to the LORD,
And He will repay him for his [1][b]good deed.
18 [a]Discipline your son while there is hope,
And do not desire [1]his death.
19 A man of great anger will bear the penalty,
For if you rescue him, you will only have to do it again.
20 [a]Listen to counsel and accept discipline,
That you may be wise [1]the rest of your days.
21 Many [a]plans are in a man's heart,
But the [b]counsel of the LORD will stand.
22 What is desirable in a man is his [1]kindness,
And it is better to be a poor man than a liar.
23 The [1][a]fear of the LORD leads to life,
So that one may sleep [b]satisfied,
[2][c]untouched by evil.
24 The [a]sluggard buries his hand [b]in the dish,
But will not even bring it back to his mouth.
25 [a]Strike a scoffer and the [1]naive may become shrewd,
But [b]reprove one who has understanding and he will [2]gain knowledge.
26 He [a]who assaults his father and drives his mother away
Is a shameful and disgraceful son.

And you will stray from the words of knowledge.

19:7 brothers of a poor man hate him. See v. 4; 14:20; Job 19:19; Ps 38:11.
19:8 loves his own soul. Cf. 8:35–36. will find good. See 13:13 and note.
19:10 Luxury is not fitting for a fool. Nor is honor (26:1). for a slave to rule over princes. Because of his lack of wisdom and tendency to become a tyrant (see 17:2; 29:2; Is 3:4).
19:11 slow to anger. See 14:29; 15:18; 16:32; Eccl 7:9; James 1:19. overlook a transgression. He has good self-control (see 12:16; 29:11; 2 Sam 16:11–12).

19:13 foolish son. See 17:21,25. contentions of a wife. Also denounced in 21:9,19; 25:24; 27:15. Stirring up dissension is condemned throughout Proverbs (see 6:14 and note).

19:25 Strike a scoffer. See v. 29; 14:3; see also notes on 1:22; 17:10. naive. Not to be confused with the mocker (see note on 1:4).
19:26 assaults his father and drives his mother away. Children were expected to take care of their parents when they were sick or elderly (cf. Is 51:18). Robbing them (cf. Judg 17:1–2) and attacking them (Ex 21:15,17) were serious crimes. shameful and disgraceful. See 10:5; 13:5.
19:27 See 5:1–2.

28 A rascally witness makes a mockery of justice,
And the mouth of the wicked [1][a]spreads iniquity.
29 [1]Judgments are prepared for [a]scoffers,
And [b]blows for the back of fools.

On Life and Conduct

20 [a]Wine is a mocker, [b]strong drink a brawler,
And whoever [1]is intoxicated by it is not wise.
2 The terror of a king is like the growling of a lion;
He who provokes him to anger [1][a]forfeits his own life.
3 [1][a]Keeping away from strife is an honor for a man,
But any fool will [2]quarrel.
4 The [a]sluggard does not plow after the autumn,
So he [1]begs during the harvest and has nothing.
5 A plan in the heart of a man is like deep water,
But a man of understanding draws it out.
6 Many a man [a]proclaims his own loyalty,
But who can find a [b]trustworthy man?
7 A righteous man who [a]walks in his integrity—
[b]How blessed are his sons after him.
8 [a]A king who sits on the throne of justice
[1]Disperses all evil with his eyes.
9 [a]Who can say, "I have cleansed my heart,
I am pure from my sin"?
10 [1][a]Differing weights and differing measures,
Both of them are abominable to the LORD.
11 It is by his deeds that a lad [1][a]distinguishes himself
If his conduct is pure and right.
12 The hearing [a]ear and the seeing eye,
The LORD has made both of them.
13 [a]Do not love sleep, or you will become poor;
Open your eyes, and you will be satisfied with [1]food.
14 "Bad, bad," says the buyer,
But when he goes his way, then he boasts.
15 There is gold, and an abundance of [1]jewels;
But the lips of knowledge are a more precious thing.
16 Take his garment when he becomes surety for a stranger;
And for foreigners, hold him in pledge.
17 [a]Bread obtained by falsehood is sweet to a man,
But afterward his mouth will be filled with gravel.
18 Prepare [a]plans by consultation,
And [b]make war by wise guidance.
19 He who [a]goes about as a slanderer reveals secrets,
Therefore do not associate with [1][b]a gossip.
20 He who [a]curses his father or his mother,
His [b]lamp will go out in [1]time of darkness.
21 An inheritance gained hurriedly at the beginning
Will not be blessed in the end.

19:29 Judgments . . . for scoffers. See v. 25. blows for the back of fools. See 10:13; 14:3; 26:3.

20:1 Wine is a mocker, strong drink a brawler. Those who overindulge become mockers and brawlers (see Hos 7:5). Proverbs associates drunkenness with poverty (23:20–21), strife (23:29–30) and injustice (31:4–5). intoxicated. See Gen 9:21; Is 28:7.

20:6 loyalty. See note on 19:22. who can find a trustworthy man? Cf. Eccl 7:28–29.

20:7 walks in . . . integrity. See note on 2:7. blessed are his sons. See 13:22; see also note on 14:26.

20:8 Disperses all evil. See 16:10; Ps 11:4.

20:9 cleansed . . . pure from my sin. No one is without sin (cf. Job 14:4; Rom 3:23)—but those whose sins have been forgiven have "clean hands and a pure heart" (Ps 24:4; see also 51:1–2, 9–10).

20:10 See note on 11:1; cf. 16:11.

20:13 sleep . . . become poor. See 24:33–34.

20:14 Bad, bad. Prices were often agreed upon by bargaining, so the buyer is questioning the quality of the article in order to buy it more cheaply.

20:15 gold . . . jewels. Earlier, wisdom itself was valued more highly than gold or jewels (3:14–15; 8:10–11).

20:16 See note on 6:1. Take his garment. A garment could be taken as security for a debt (Deut 24:10–13). Anyone who foolishly assumes responsibility for the debt of a stranger, whose reliability is unknown, or of a wayward woman, whose unreliability is known, ought to be held accountable, even to the degree of taking his garment as a pledge.

20:17 is sweet to a man. Cf. the sweet "bread" prepared by the adulteress in 9:17. Zophar observes that evil is sweet in the mouth of a wicked man, but it turns sour in his stomach (Job 20:12–18). See note on 10:2.

20:18 consultation . . . guidance. See 15:22; Luke 14:31.

20:20 curses his father or his mother. Punishable by death (see Lev 20:9; cf. Prov 30:11,17). lamp will go out. He will die (see note on 13:9).

20:21 inheritance gained hurriedly . . . Will not be blessed. Cf.

22 [a]Do not say, "I will repay evil";
[b]Wait for the LORD, and He will save you.
23 [1][a]Differing weights are an abomination to the LORD,
And a [2][b]false scale is not good.
24 [a]Man's steps are ordained by the LORD,
How then can man understand his way?
25 It is a trap for a man to say rashly, "It is holy!"
And [a]after the vows to make inquiry.
26 A [a]wise king winnows the wicked,
And [1]drives the [b]threshing wheel over them.
27 The [1][a]spirit of man is the lamp of the LORD,
Searching all the [2]innermost parts of his being.
28 [1]Loyalty and [a]truth preserve the king,
And he upholds his throne by [1]righteousness.
29 The glory of young men is their strength,
And the [1][a]honor of old men is their gray hair.
30 [a]Stripes that wound scour away evil,
And strokes reach the [1]innermost parts.

On Life and Conduct

21 The king's heart is like channels of water in the hand of the LORD;
He [a]turns it wherever He wishes.
2 [a]Every man's way is right in his own eyes,
But the LORD [b]weighs the hearts.
3 To do [a]righteousness and justice
Is desired by the LORD more than sacrifice.
4 Haughty eyes and a proud heart,
The [a]lamp of the wicked, is sin.
5 The plans of the [a]diligent lead surely to advantage,
But everyone [b]who is hasty comes surely to poverty.
6 The [a]acquisition of treasures by a lying tongue
Is a fleeting vapor, the [1]pursuit of [b]death.
7 The violence of the wicked will drag them away,
Because they [a]refuse to act with justice.
8 The way of a guilty man is [a]crooked,
But as for the pure, his conduct is upright.
9 It is better to live in a corner of a roof
Than [1]in a house shared with a contentious woman.
10 The soul of the wicked desires evil;
His [a]neighbor finds no favor in his eyes.
11 When the [a]scoffer is punished, the [1]naive becomes wise;
But when the wise is instructed, he receives knowledge.
12 The righteous one considers the house of the wicked,
Turning the [a]wicked to ruin.
13 He who [a]shuts his ear to the cry of the poor
Will also cry himself and not be [b]answered.

19:26; cf. also the sad experience of the son who "squandered his estate with loose living" (Luke 15:12–13).

20:22 I will repay evil. Vengeance was God's prerogative. He would repay the wicked for their actions (see Deut 32:35; Ps 94:1). Wait for the LORD. See Ps 27:14; 37:34.

20:23 See v. 10; see also note on 11:1.

20:24 See notes on 3:5–6; 16:9.

20:25 say rashly. Promise to make a special gift to the Lord if He answers an earnest request (see Lev 27:1–25; Deut 23:21; Judg 11:30–31,34–35; 1 Sam 1:11). Sometimes such a vow was made hastily and was not carried out (cf. Eccl 5:4–6).

20:26 threshing wheel. The wheel of the threshing cart that separated the grain from the husk (cf. Is 28:27–28). The wicked will be separated from the righteous and duly punished.

20:27 Searching all the innermost parts of his being. See note on 15:11.

20:28 Loyalty and truth preserve the king . . . righteousness. Kindness and moral uprightness endear a king to his people and encourage them to be loyal subjects (cf. 3:3; 14:22; 16:12; 29:14).

20:29 their strength. Cf. Jer 9:23. honor of old men is their gray hair. See note on 16:31.

20:30 Stripes that wound scour away evil. Stern punishment is necessary to restrain evil. Several verses refer to fools whose backs are beaten (10:13; 14:3; 19:29), but even then, because they are fools, they may not change their ways (cf. 17:10; 27:22).

21:1 king's heart is . . . in the hand of the LORD. God controls the lives and actions even of kings, such as Nebuchadnezzar (Dan 4:31–32,35) and Cyrus (Is 45:1–3; cf. Ezra 6:22). turns it wherever He wishes. See 16:9; see also 16:1; 19:21; 20:24.

21:2 is right. See 14:12; 16:2. weighs the hearts. See 24:12; Job 31:6; Ps 139:23; 1 Cor 4:4–5; Heb 4:12.

21:3 desired . . . more than sacrifice. A theme also found in the prophets (Hos 6:6; Mic 6:7–8). See v. 27; see also note on 15:8.

21:4 Haughty eyes. See note on 6:17; see also 16:5,18.

21:5 The plans of the diligent lead . . . to advantage. See note on 10:4. hasty. Either rash actions (19:2) or a desire to get rich quick (see 13:11 and note; 20:21; 28:20).

21:6 treasures by a lying tongue. See note on 10:2; cf. 19:1. fleeting vapor. See 13:11 and note; Eccl 1:14. pursuit of death. Cf. 5:22; 7:23.

21:7 violence of the wicked will drag them away. See 1:18–19 and notes.

21:9 corner of a roof. Roofs were flat, and small rooms could be built there (see Deut 22:8; 2 Kin 4:10). contentious woman. See note on 19:13.

21:10 desires evil. See 4:16; 10:23. His neighbor finds no favor. Cf. 14:21.

21:11 See 19:25 and note.

21:12 house of the wicked . . . to ruin. See 10:25 and note; 14:11.

21:13 cry of the poor. See note on 14:21; see also 28:27. Will also cry himself and not be answered. See note on 1:28. Cf. the fate of the rich man (Luke 16:19–31) and the unmerciful servant (Matt 18:23–34).

14 A [a]gift in secret subdues anger,
And a bribe in the bosom, strong wrath.
15 The exercise of justice is joy for the righteous,
But is [a]terror to the workers of iniquity.
16 A man who wanders from the way of understanding
Will [a]rest in the assembly of the [1]dead.
17 He who [a]loves pleasure will become a poor man;
He who loves wine and oil will not become rich.
18 The wicked is a [a]ransom for the righteous,
And the [b]treacherous is in the place of the upright.
19 [a]It is better to live in a desert land
Than with a contentious and vexing woman.
20 There is precious [a]treasure and oil in the dwelling of the wise,
But a foolish man [b]swallows it up.
21 He who [a]pursues righteousness and loyalty
Finds life, righteousness and honor.
22 A [a]wise man scales the city of the mighty
And brings down the [1]stronghold in which they trust.
23 He who [a]guards his mouth and his tongue,
Guards his soul from troubles.
24 "Proud," "Haughty," "[a]Scoffer," are his names,
Who acts with [b]insolent pride.
25 The [a]desire of the sluggard puts him to death,
For his hands refuse to work;
26 All day long he [1]is craving,
While the righteous [a]gives and does not hold back.
27 The [a]sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination,
How much more when he brings it with evil intent!
28 A [a]false witness will perish,
But the man who listens to the truth will speak forever.
29 A wicked man [1][a]displays a bold face,
But as for the [b]upright, he makes his way sure.
30 There is [a]no wisdom and no understanding
And no counsel against the LORD.
31 The [a]horse is prepared for the day of battle,
But [b]victory belongs to the LORD.

On Life and Conduct

22:1 A [a]good name is to be more desired than great wealth,
Favor is better than silver and gold.
2 The rich and the poor [1]have a common bond,
The LORD is the [a]maker of them all.
3 The [a]prudent sees the evil and hides himself,
But the [1]naive go on, and are punished for it.
4 The reward of humility and the [1]fear of the LORD

[a]Prov 14:16; 27:12; Is 26:20 4 [1]Or reverence

21:14 gift . . . bribe. See note on 17:8; see also 18:16; 19:6. subdues anger . . . wrath. Perhaps that of an offended party (see 6:34–35).

21:15 joy for the righteous. See 11:10 and note. terror to the workers of iniquity. See 10:29 and note; Rom 13:3.

21:16 Graphically illustrated by the man who succumbed to the adulteress (see 2:18; 5:23; 7:22–23; 9:18).

21:17 wine and oil. Both were associated with lavish feasting (see 23:20–21; Amos 6:6). Oil was used in various lotions or perfumes, some of which were very expensive (John 12:5).

21:18 The wicked is a ransom for the righteous. Close to the thought of 11:8. In Is 43:3–4 God gave three nations to Persia in exchange for Persia's willingness to release the exiles of Judah (see note on Is 43:4).

21:19 See 19:13 and note.

21:20 treasure and oil . . . dwelling of the wise. See 3:10 and note; 8:21. oil. Olive oil (see note on v. 17; see also Deut 7:13).

21:21 pursues righteousness. See 15:9. life, righteousness and honor. Benefits for those who seek wisdom (see note on 3:2; see also 3:16; 8:18; cf. 22:4).

21:22 wise man . . . brings down the stronghold. Probably another way of saying, "Wisdom is better than strength" (Eccl 9:16). Cf. 24:5; 2 Cor 10:4, where spiritual weapons are "divinely powerful for the destruction of fortresses."

21:23 See 13:3 and note; 18:21.

21:24 "Proud," . . . "Scoffer," are his names. See note on 1:22. God mocks and punishes him for his "insolent pride" (cf. 3:34; 19:25,29; 21:11).

21:25 desire of the sluggard. See notes on 6:6; 13:4.

21:26 gives and does not hold back. The righteous are prosperous, so they can share with those in need (see Ps 37:26; 112:9; cf. Eph 4:28).

21:27 The sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination. See notes on v. 3; 15:8.

21:28 false witness will perish. See 19:5,9; see also note on 6:19.

21:29 bold face. Cf. the behavior of the adulteress in 7:13.

21:30 no counsel against the LORD. Because He is sovereign and controls people and nations (see 16:4,9 and notes; 19:21; 21:1; 1 Cor 3:19–20).

21:31 horse. Many times God cautions against trusting in horses and chariots for victory (e.g., Ps 20:7; Hos 1:7; cf. Deut 17:16). victory belongs to the LORD. See 1 Sam 17:47; Ps 3:8.

22:1 good name. Its value is recognized also in 3:4; 10:7; Eccl 7:1. better than silver and gold. Like the possession of wisdom (see 3:14; 16:16).

22:2 maker of them all. See 14:31 and note.

22:3 prudent . . . hides himself. Cf. 14:8. the naive. See note on 1:4; see also 9:16.

22:4 See 18:12. humility and the fear of the LORD. Associated also in 15:33 (see note on 1:7). riches, honor and life. Benefits for those who seek wisdom (see note on 3:2; see also 3:16; 8:18; cf. 21:21).

Are riches, honor and life.
5 [a]Thorns and snares are in the way of the perverse;
He who guards himself will be far from them.
6 [a]Train up a child [1]in the way he should go,
Even when he is old he will not depart from it.
7 The [a]rich rules over the poor,
And the borrower becomes the lender's slave.
8 He who [a]sows iniquity will reap vanity,
And the [b]rod of his fury will perish.
9 He who [1]is [a]generous will be blessed,
For he [b]gives some of his food to the poor.
10 [a]Drive out the scoffer, and contention will go out,
Even strife and dishonor will cease.
11 He who loves [a]purity of heart
And [1]whose speech is [b]gracious, the king is his friend.
12 The eyes of the LORD preserve knowledge,
But He overthrows the words of the treacherous man.
13 The [a]sluggard says, "There is a lion outside;
I will be killed in the streets!"
14 The mouth of [1][a]an adulteress is a deep pit;
He who is [b]cursed of the LORD will fall [2]into it.
15 Foolishness is bound up in the heart of a child;
The [a]rod of discipline will remove it far from him.
16 He [a]who oppresses the poor to make [1]more for himself
Or who gives to the rich, [b]will only come to poverty.

17 [a]Incline your ear and hear the words of the wise,
And apply your mind to my knowledge;
18 For it will be [a]pleasant if you keep them within you,
[1]That they may be ready on your lips.
19 So that your [a]trust may be in the LORD,
I have [1]taught you today, even you.
20 Have I not written to you [1][a]excellent things
Of counsels and knowledge,
21 To make you [a]know the [1]certainty of the words of truth
That you may [2][b]correctly answer him who sent you?

22 [a]Do not rob the poor because he is poor,
Or [b]crush the afflicted at the gate;
23 For the LORD will [a]plead their case
And [1]take the life of those who rob them.

24 Do not associate with a man given to anger;
Or go with a [a]hot-tempered man,
25 Or you will [a]learn his ways
And [1]find a snare for yourself.

22:5 Thorns and snares. Evil (cf. 15:19). will be far from them. By taking the "highway of the upright" (16:17).
22:6 Train. Or "Dedicate," as in 1 Kin 8:63; or "Start." Instruction (1:8) and discipline (22:15) are primarily involved. way he should go. The right way, the way of wisdom (see 4:11 and note). old. Or "grown."
22:7 The rich. See note on 10:15. the borrower becomes the lender's slave. One of the reasons why putting up security for someone else (v. 26) was frowned upon (cf. Neh 5:4–5).
22:8 sows iniquity will reap vanity. See 12:21. rod of his fury. His ability to oppress others (see Ps 125:3; Is 14:5–6).

22:11 purity of heart. Cf. Ps 24:4. whose speech is gracious. Characteristic of the wise man in Eccl 10:12. king is his friend. Cf. v. 29.
22:12 The eyes of the LORD preserve. See 5:21; 15:3; Job 31:4; 34:21; Jer 16:17; Heb 4:13. knowledge. God protects those who have knowledge (cf. Ps 1:6; 34:15). overthrows . . . the treacherous man. Overrules their plans and desires (see 16:9; see also note on 21:30).
22:13 The sluggard (see note on 6:6) creates excuses to avoid work.
22:14 mouth of an adulteress. Her seductive words (see note on 5:3; see also 2:16; 7:5). deep pit. Perhaps a well or a hunter's trap (see 5:22 and note; 7:22).
22:15 rod of discipline. See note on 13:24.
22:16 who oppresses the poor. Condemned also in 14:31; 28:3. gives to the rich. Perhaps bribes (see 17:8; 18:16; 19:6). poverty. See 21:5; 28:22.
22:17–24:22 A new section that returns more to the style of chs. 1–9. Verses 17–21 form the introduction to these 30 sayings (see Introduction: Date). The 30 sayings are (1) 22:22–23; (2) 22:24–25; (3) 22:26–27; (4) 22:28; (5) 22:29; (6) 23:1–3; (7) 23:4–5; (8) 23:6–8; (9) 23:9; (10) 23:10–11; (11) 23:12; (12) 23:13–14; (13) 23:15–16; (14) 23:17–18; (15) 23:19–21; (16) 23:22–25; (17) 23:26–28; (18) 23:29–35; (19) 24:1–2; (20) 24:3–4; (21) 24:5–6; (22) 24:7; (23) 24:8–9; (24) 24:10; (25) 24:11–12; (26) 24:13–14; (27) 24:15–16; (28) 24:17–18; (29) 24:19–20; (30) 24:21–22.

22:25 will learn his ways. "Bad company corrupts good morals"

26 Do not be among those who [a]give
[1]pledges,
Among those who become guarantors
for debts.
27 If you have nothing with which to pay,
Why should he [a]take your bed from under you?

28 [a]Do not move the ancient boundary
Which your fathers have set.

29 Do you see a man skilled in his work?
He will [a]stand before kings;
He will not stand before obscure men.

On Life and Conduct

23 When you sit down to dine with a ruler,
Consider carefully [1]what is before you,
2 And put a knife to your throat
If you are a [a]man of great appetite.
3 Do not [a]desire his delicacies,
For it is deceptive food.

4 [a]Do not weary yourself to gain wealth,
[b]Cease from your [1]consideration of it.
5 [1]When you set your eyes on it, it is gone.
For [a]wealth certainly makes itself wings
Like an eagle that flies toward the heavens.

6 [a]Do not eat the bread of [1]a [b]selfish
man,
Or desire his delicacies;
7 For as he [1]thinks within himself, so he is.
He says to you, "Eat and drink!"
But [a]his heart is not with you.

8 You will [a]vomit up [1]the morsel you have eaten,
And waste your [2]compliments.

9 [a]Do not speak in the [1]hearing of a fool,
For he will [b]despise the wisdom of your words.

10 Do not move the ancient boundary
Or [a]go into the fields of the fatherless,
11 For their [a]Redeemer is strong;
[b]He will plead their case against you.
12 Apply your heart to discipline
And your ears to words of knowledge.

13 [a]Do not hold back discipline from the child,
Although you [1]strike him with the rod, he will not die.
14 You shall [1]strike him with the rod
And [a]rescue his soul from Sheol.

15 My son, if your heart is [a]wise,
My own heart also will be glad;
16 And my [1]inmost being will rejoice
When your lips speak [a]what is right.

17 [a]Do not let your heart envy sinners,
But live in the [1][b]fear of the LORD
[2]always.
18 Surely there is a [1][a]future,
And your [b]hope will not be cut off.
19 Listen, my son, and [a]be wise,
And [b]direct your heart in the way.
20 Do not be with [a]heavy drinkers of
wine,
Or with [b]gluttonous eaters of meat;

(1 Cor 15:33). find a snare. See note on 5:22; see also 12:13; 13:14; 29:6.
22:26 See note on 6:1.
22:27 take your bed from under you. You will be reduced to poverty.
22:28 ancient boundary. See note on 15:25; see also 23:10.
22:29 skilled in his work. Craftsmen were considered to be wise (see note on 8:30; see also Ex 35:30–35). stand before kings. Like Joseph, an administrator (Gen 41:46); David, a musician (1 Sam 16:21–23); and Hiram, a worker in bronze (1 Kin 7:13–14).
23:2 great appetite. Cf. the similar warning in vv. 20–21.
23:3 Do not desire his delicacies. Repeated in a different context in v. 6. deceptive. Perhaps the meaning is that the ruler wants to obligate you in some way, even to influence you to support a wicked scheme (cf. Ps 141:4).
23:4 Do not weary yourself to gain wealth. The desire to get rich can ruin a person physically and spiritually. "For the love of money is a root of all sorts of evil" (1 Tim 6:10; cf. 15:27; 28:20; Heb 13:5).
23:5 it is gone. Our trust must be in God, not in riches (see Jer 17:11; Luke 12:21; 1 Tim 6:17).
23:6 selfish man. One eager to get rich (see 28:22).
23:7 his heart is not with you. Cf. 26:24–25.
23:8 vomit. Out of disgust at the attitude of the host.
23:9 despise the wisdom of your words. Fools despise wisdom (1:7) and hate knowledge and correction (1:22; 12:1). They heap abuse on one who rebukes them (9:7).
23:10 ancient boundary. See note on 15:25; see also 22:28. fatherless. Oppressing the widow and the fatherless is strongly denounced (see Is 10:2; Jer 22:3; Zech 7:10).
23:11 Redeemer. Kinsman-Redeemer, someone who helped a close relative regain land (see Lev 25:25 and note) or who avenged his death (Num 35:12,19). God is a "father of the fatherless and a judge for the widows" (Ps 68:5). See notes on Ruth 2:20; Jer 31:11; see also Jer 50:34. will plead their case. See Ps 12:5; 140:12; Is 3:13–15; Mal 3:5.
23:13–14 See 13:24 and note.
23:15 See 10:1 and note; see also v. 24; 27:11; 29:3. My son. See 1:8,10.
23:17 Do not . . . envy sinners. See 3:31; 24:1,19. fear of the LORD. See notes on 1:7; 3:7.
23:18 future. See Ps 37:37; Jer 29:11.
23:19 the way. Cf. 4:25–26.
23:20 Do not be with. See 1:15; 12:26. heavy drinkers of wine. Drunkenness is also condemned in vv. 29–35; 20:1 (see note there); cf. Deut 21:20; Matt 24:49; Luke 21:34; Rom 13:13; Eph 5:18; 1 Tim 3:3.

21 For the [a]heavy drinker and the glutton will come to poverty,
And [b]drowsiness will clothe one with rags.

22 [a]Listen to your father who begot you,
And [b]do not despise your mother when she is old.
23 [a]Buy truth, and do not sell it,
Get wisdom and instruction and understanding.

24 The father of the righteous will greatly rejoice,
And [a]he who sires a wise son will be glad in him.
25 Let your [a]father and your mother be glad,
And let her rejoice who gave birth to you.

26 [a]Give me your heart, my son,
And let your eyes [1][b]delight in my ways.
27 For a harlot is a [a]deep pit
And an [1][b]adulterous woman is a narrow well.
28 Surely she [a]lurks as a robber,
And increases the [1]faithless among men.

29 Who has [a]woe? Who has sorrow?
Who has contentions? Who has complaining?
Who has wounds without cause?
Who has redness of eyes?
30 Those who [a]linger long over wine,
Those who go to [1]taste [b]mixed wine.
31 Do not look on the wine when it is red,
When it [1]sparkles in the cup,
When it [a]goes down smoothly;
32 At the last it [a]bites like a serpent
And stings like a [b]viper.

Precepts and Warnings

24 Do not be [a]envious of evil men,
Nor desire to [b]be with them;
2 For their [1]minds devise [a]violence,
And their lips [b]talk of trouble.

3 [a]By wisdom a house is built,
And by understanding it is established;
4 And by knowledge the rooms are [a]filled
With all precious and pleasant riches.

5 A [a]wise man is [1]strong,
And a man of knowledge [2]increases power.
6 For [a]by wise guidance you will [1]wage war,
And [b]in abundance of counselors there is victory.

7 Wisdom is [a]too exalted for a fool,
He does not open his mouth [b]in the gate.

8 One who [a]plans to do evil,
Men will call a [1]schemer.
9 The [a]devising of folly is sin,

23:30 linger long over wine. See 1 Sam 25:36. mixed wine. Probably with spices (see 9:2; Ps 75:8).
23:32 bites like a serpent. Death will be the result (cf. Num 21:6).
23:33 see strange things. Perhaps a reference to the delirium that afflicts the alcoholic.
23:34 you will be like one who lies down in the middle of the sea. Your head will be spinning.
23:35 They beat me, but I did not know it. Cf. the condition of Israel in Jer 5:3. I will seek another drink. The woe and misery do not prevent him from repeating his folly (cf. 26:11; 27:22; Is 56:12).

24:9 devising of folly is sin. Cf. 1:11–16; 9:13–18. scoffer is an

And the scoffer is an abomination to men.

10 If you [a]are slack in the day of distress,
Your strength is limited.

11 [a]Deliver those who are being taken away to death,
And those who are staggering to slaughter, Oh hold them back.
12 If you say, "See, we did not know this,"
Does He not [a]consider it [b]who weighs the hearts?
And [c]does He not know it who [d]keeps your soul?
And will He not [1e]render to man according to his work?

13 My son, eat [a]honey, for it is good,
Yes, the [b]honey from the comb is sweet to your taste;
14 Know that [a]wisdom is thus for your soul;
If you find it, then there will be a [1b]future,
And your hope will not be cut off.

15 [a]Do not lie in wait, O wicked man, against the dwelling of the righteous;
Do not destroy his resting place;
16 For a [a]righteous man falls seven times, and rises again,
But the [b]wicked stumble in time of calamity.

17 [a]Do not rejoice when your enemy falls,
And do not let your heart be glad when he stumbles;
18 Or the LORD will see it and [1]be displeased,
And turn His anger away from him.

Or be [b]envious of the wicked;
20 For [a]there will be no [1b]future for the evil man;
The [c]lamp of the wicked will be put out.

21 My son, [1a]fear the LORD and the king;
Do not associate with those who are given to change,
22 For their [a]calamity will rise suddenly,
And who knows the ruin that comes from both of them?

23 These also are [a]sayings of the wise.
To [1b]show partiality in judgment is not good.
24 He [a]who says to the wicked, "You are righteous,"
[b]Peoples will curse him, nations will abhor him;
25 But [a]to those who rebuke the wicked will be delight,
And a good blessing will come upon them.
26 He kisses the lips
Who gives [1]a right answer.

27 Prepare your work outside abomination to men. Because he is proud, dishonoring (9:7) and contentious (22:10). See note on 1:22.

24:10 Cf. Jer 12:5; Gal 6:9.

24:11 those . . . being taken away to death. Perhaps innocent men condemned to die (cf. 17:15; Is 58:6–7).

24:12 Does He not consider it who weighs the hearts? God knows even our thoughts and motives (see 16:2; 21:2; Ps 94:9–11).

24:14 wisdom is thus for your soul. It nourishes and brings healing (see 16:24 and note). future. See Ps 9:18; 37:37; Jer 29:11.

24:15 lie in wait. Cf. 1:11; 12:6; Ps 10:9–10.

24:16 seven times. Many times (see 6:16; Job 5:19 and note). rises again. God promises to uphold and rescue the righteous (cf. Ps 34:19; 37:24; Mic 7:8). wicked stumble. See v. 22; 4:19; 6:15; 11:3,5.

24:17 Do not rejoice. See 17:5 and note.

24:18 turn His anger away from him. Edom was made desolate because she rejoiced over Israel's destruction (see Ezek 35:15).

24:19 Almost identical to Ps 37:1; see v. 1; 23:17.

24:20 no future. For himself or his posterity (see Ps 37:2,28,38; contrast v. 14; 23:18). lamp . . . will be put out. See note on 13:9.

24:21 Fear the LORD and the king. Submission to civil authority is also commanded in Eccl 8:2–5. 1 Pet 2:17 says, "fear God, honor the king," and Rom 13:1–7 urges the same obedience. These passages all view the king as a terror to the wicked (cf. 20:8,26).

24:22 calamity will rise suddenly, And . . . ruin. God's judgment is more common (see 6:15; 11:3,5), but the power of the king is seen in 20:26. both of them. God and the king.

24:23–34 An appendix to 22:17–24:22, giving a few additional sayings of the wise.

24:23 partiality in judgment is not good. See 18:5 and note.

24:24 You are righteous. See 17:15. Peoples will curse him. Just as they curse the man who "withholds grain" (11:26).

24:25 good blessing. See 10:6; Deut 16:20.

24:26 kisses the lips. Cf. the "pleasant words" that are "sweet to the soul" in 16:24. right answer. Cf. 16:13.

24:27 make it ready . . . in the field. Plan carefully and acquire the means as you build your house. house. See note on v. 3.

24:28 witness . . . without cause. See 3:30. deceive with your lips. See 6:19 and note; 12:17; 25:18.

24:29 I will render to the man. A spirit of revenge is discouraged also in 20:22 (see note there); cf. 25:21–22; Matt 5:43–45; Rom 12:17.

30 I passed by the field of the sluggard
And by the vineyard of the man
[a]lacking [1]sense,
31 And behold, it was completely
[a]overgrown with thistles;
Its surface was covered with [1b]nettles,
And its stone [c]wall was broken down.
32 When I saw, I [1]reflected upon it;
I looked, and received instruction.
33 "[a]A little sleep, a little slumber,
A little folding of the hands to rest,"
34 Then your poverty will come as [1]a robber
And your want like [2]an armed man.

Similitudes, Instructions

25 These also are [a]proverbs of Solomon which the men of Hezekiah, king of Judah, transcribed.

2 It is the glory of God to [a]conceal a matter,
But the glory of [b]kings is to search out a matter.
3 As the heavens for height and the earth for depth,
So the heart of kings is unsearchable.
4 Take away the [a]dross from the silver,
And there comes out a vessel for the [b]smith;
5 Take away the [a]wicked before the king,
And his [b]throne will be established in righteousness.
6 Do not claim honor in the presence of the king,
And do not stand in the place of great men;
7 For [a]it is better that it be said to you, "Come up here,"
Than for you to be placed lower in the presence of the prince,
Whom your eyes have seen.

8 Do not go out [a]hastily to [1]argue your case;
[2]Otherwise, what will you do in [3]the end,
When your neighbor humiliates you?
9 [1a]Argue your case with your neighbor,
And [b]do not reveal the secret of another,
10 Or he who hears it will reproach you,
And the evil report about you will not [1]pass away.

11 Like apples of gold in settings of silver
Is a [a]word spoken in [1]right circumstances.
12 Like [1]an [a]earring of gold and an [b]ornament of [c]fine gold
Is a wise reprover to a [d]listening ear.
13 Like the cold of snow in the [1]time of harvest
Is a [a]faithful messenger to those who send him,
For he refreshes the soul of his masters.
14 Like [a]clouds and [b]wind without rain
Is a man who boasts [1]of his gifts falsely.
15 By [1a]forbearance a ruler may be persuaded,
And a soft tongue breaks the bone.
16 Have you [a]found honey? Eat only [1]what you need,
That you not have it in excess and vomit it.

24:30 sluggard. See note on 6:6; see also 20:4.
24:31 thistles . . . nettles. Cf. 15:19; Is 34:13.
24:33–34 See 6:10–11 and note on 6:11.
25:1–29:27 Another collection of Solomon's proverbs similar to 10:1–22:16.
25:1 proverbs of Solomon. See notes on 1:1; 10:1. men of Hezekiah . . . transcribed. There was a great revival in the reign of Hezekiah (c. 715–686 B.C.), and the king restored the singing of hymns to its proper place (2 Chr 29:30). His interest in the words of David corresponds to his support of a compilation of Solomon's proverbs. Solomon was the last king to rule over all Israel during the united monarchy; Hezekiah was the first king to rule over all Israel (now restricted to the southern kingdom) after the destruction of the divided monarchy's northern kingdom.
25:2 to conceal a matter. God gets glory because man cannot understand His universe or the way He rules it (see Deut 29:29; Job 26:14 and note; Is 40:12–24; Rom 11:33–36). to search out a matter. A king gets glory if he can uncover the truth and administer justice (see 1 Kin 3:9; 4:34).
25:3 is unsearchable. Cannot be understood; like the four things in 30:18–19. Yet God controls the hearts of kings (see note on 21:1).
25:4 Take away the dross from the silver. A process compared to the purification of society in general and rulers in particular in Is 1:22–25; Ezek 22:18; Mal 3:2–3.
25:5 his throne will be established in righteousness. See note on 16:12; see also 20:26.
25:6 in the presence of the king. Probably at a feast (cf. 23:1). Jesus spoke about the place of honor at a wedding feast (Luke 14:7–11).
25:7 Come up here. Cf. "Friend, move up higher" (Luke 14:10); contrast Is 22:15–19.
25:8 Do not go out hastily to argue your case. A warning about the seriousness of disputes (see 17:14) and the need to exercise caution (see 24:28).
25:9 do not reveal the secret of another. If you do, you are a gossip (see 11:13; 20:19).
25:10 evil report about you. A good name is one of life's most valuable possessions (see 22:1 and note).
25:11 gold . . . silver. Cf. the fruit of wisdom in 8:19.
25:12 earring of gold. Comparable to the beautiful wreath and necklace that represent the adornment of wisdom and sound teaching (see 1:9; 3:22; 4:9). wise reprover. Cf. the "life-giving reproof" of 15:31.
25:13 cold of snow. Probably a drink cooled by snow from the mountains; it did not snow at harvest time. See 26:1; contrast 10:26. faithful messenger. See 13:17 and note.
25:14 Like clouds . . . without rain. An image applied to unproductive men in Jude 12.
25:15 By forbearance a ruler may be persuaded. Cf. 14:29. soft tongue. See note on 15:1.

17 Let your foot rarely be in your neighbor's house,
Or he will become [1]weary of you and hate you.
18 Like a club and a [a]sword and a sharp [b]arrow
Is a man who bears [c]false witness against his neighbor.
19 Like a bad tooth and [1]an unsteady foot
Is confidence in a [a]faithless man in time of trouble.
20 Like one who takes off a garment on a cold day, or like vinegar on [1]soda,
Is he who sings songs to [2]a troubled heart.
21 [a]If [1]your enemy is hungry, give him food to eat;
And if he is thirsty, give him water to drink;
22 For you will [1]heap burning coals on his head,
And [a]the LORD will reward you.
23 The north wind brings forth rain,
And a [1][a]backbiting tongue, an angry countenance.
24 It is [a]better to live in a corner of the roof
Than [1]in a house shared with a contentious woman.
25 Like cold water to a weary soul,
So is [a]good news from a distant land.
26 Like a [a]trampled spring and a [1]polluted well
Is a righteous man who gives way before the wicked.
27 It is not good to eat much honey,
Nor is it glory to [a]search out [1]one's own glory.

Similitudes, Instructions

26 Like snow in summer and like [a]rain in harvest,
So honor is not [b]fitting for a fool.
2 Like a [a]sparrow in its [1]flitting, like a swallow in its flying,
So a [b]curse without cause does not [2]alight.
3 A [a]whip is for the horse, a bridle for the donkey,
And a [b]rod for the back of fools.
4 [a]Do not answer a fool according to his folly,
Or you will also be like him.
5 [a]Answer a fool as his folly deserves,
That he not be [b]wise in his own eyes.
6 He cuts off his own feet and drinks violence
Who sends a message by the hand of a fool.
7 Like the legs which [1]are useless to the lame,
So is a proverb in the mouth of fools.
8 Like [1]one who binds a stone in a sling,
So is he who gives honor to a fool.
9 Like a thorn which [1]falls into the hand of a drunkard,
So is a proverb in the mouth of fools.

25:18 club . . . sword . . . arrow. Cf. Ps 57:4; Jer 9:8. false witness. See note on 6:19; see also 24:28; Ex 20:16.
25:19 bad tooth . . . unsteady foot. Relying on Egypt was like leaning on a crushed reed (Is 36:6).
25:20 soda. Probably sodium carbonate, natron (see Jer 2:22). There is a vigorous reaction when vinegar is poured on it. sings songs to a troubled heart. The exiles were reluctant to sing the songs of Zion (Ps 137:3–4).
25:21–22 Quoted in Rom 12:20 as a way to overcome evil with good.
25:21 Kindness to one's enemy is encouraged in 20:22; Ex 23:4–5. give him food . . . water. At Elisha's request, a trapped Aramean army was given a great feast and then sent home (2 Kin 6:21–23; cf. 2 Chr 28:15).
25:22 heap burning coals on his head. Horrible punishment reserved for the wicked (see Ps 140:10). Here, however, it is kindness that will hurt the enemy (cf. the broken bone of v. 15) but perhaps win him over. Alternatively, the expression may reflect an Egyptian expiation ritual, in which a guilty person, as a sign of his repentance, carried a basin of glowing coals on his head. The meaning here, then, would be that in returning good for evil and so being kind to your enemy, you may cause him to repent or change. LORD will reward you. Even if the enemy remains hostile (cf. 11:18; 19:17).
25:23 north. Perhaps northwest (cf. Luke 12:54). backbiting tongue. One that spreads slander (cf. 10:18).
25:25 good news from a distant land. See Gen 45:25–28.
25:26 trampled spring. Cf. Ezek 34:18–19. righteous man who gives way. Perhaps through bribery (cf. 17:8; 29:4; Is 1:21–23).
25:27 to search out one's own glory. See vv. 6–7 and notes.
25:28 city that is . . . without walls. Defenseless and disgraced (cf. Neh 1:3). man who has no control over his spirit. See 16:32 and note.
26:1 rain in harvest. It rarely rains in the Holy Land from June through September, but see 1 Sam 12:17–18. honor is not fitting for a fool. See v. 8; 30:22.
26:2 curse without cause does not alight. When David was cursed by Shimei, he realized that the curse would not take effect because he was innocent of the charge of murdering members of Saul's family (2 Sam 16:8,12).
26:3 rod for the back of fools. See 14:3; 19:29.
26:4 Do not answer a fool according to his folly. Do not stoop to his level (see 23:9; Matt 7:6).
26:5 Answer a fool as his folly deserves. Sometimes folly must be plainly exposed and denounced.
26:6 drinks violence. See 4:17; Job 34:7. sends a message by the hand of a fool. He will likely misrepresent the one who sends him, or in some other manner frustrate the sender's purpose (see 13:17).
26:8 Like one who binds a stone in a sling. A fool with authority wields a formidable weapon, but it is useless in his hands—as useless as a stone that is tied, not placed, in the sling.
26:9 A fool reciting a proverb will do as much damage to himself and others as a drunkard wielding a thorn bush.

10 [1]Like an archer who wounds everyone,
So is he who hires a fool or who hires
those who pass by.
11 Like [a]a dog that returns to its vomit
Is a fool who [b]repeats [1]his folly.
12 Do you see a man [a]wise in his own eyes?
[b]There is more hope for a fool than for
him.
13 The [a]sluggard says, "There is a lion in the road!
A lion is [1]in the open square!"
14 As the door turns on its hinges,
So does the [a]sluggard on his bed.
15 The [a]sluggard buries his hand in the dish;
He is weary of bringing it to his mouth again.
16 The sluggard is [a]wiser in his own eyes
Than seven men who can [1]give a discreet answer.
17 Like one who takes a dog by the ears
Is he who passes by and [1]meddles with [a]strife not belonging to him.
18 Like a madman who throws
[a]Firebrands, arrows and death,
19 So is the man who [a]deceives his
neighbor,
And says, "[b]Was I not joking?"
20 For lack of wood the fire goes out,
And where there is no [a]whisperer,
[b]contention quiets down.
21 Like charcoal to hot embers and wood to fire,
So is a [a]contentious man to kindle strife.
22 The [a]words of a whisperer are like dainty morsels,
And they go down into the [1]innermost parts of the body.
23 Like an earthen [a]vessel overlaid with silver [b]dross
Are burning lips and a wicked heart.
24 He who [a]hates disguises it with his lips,
But he lays up [b]deceit in his [1]heart.
25 When [1]he [a]speaks graciously, do not believe him,
For there are seven abominations in his heart.
26 Though his hatred [a]covers itself with guile,
His wickedness will be [b]revealed before the assembly.
27 He who [a]digs a pit will fall into it,
And he who rolls a stone, it will come back on him.
28 A lying tongue hates [1]those it crushes,
And a [a]flattering mouth works ruin.

Warnings and Instructions

27 [a]Do not boast about tomorrow,
For you [b]do not know what a day may bring forth.
2 Let [a]another praise you, and not your own mouth;
A stranger, and not your own lips.
3 A stone is heavy and the sand weighty,
But the provocation of a fool is heavier than both of them.
4 Wrath is fierce and anger is a flood,
But [a]who can stand before jealousy?
5 Better is [a]open rebuke
Than love that is concealed.
6 Faithful are the [a]wounds of a friend,
But [1]deceitful are the [b]kisses of an enemy.
7 A sated [1]man [2]loathes honey,
But to a famished [1]man any bitter thing is sweet.
8 Like a [a]bird that wanders from her

So is a man who [b]wanders from his 26:10 he who hires a fool or who hires those who pass by. Abimelech hired "worthless and reckless fellows" to help him murder his half brothers and set up a brief and ill-fated rule (Judg 9:4–6).

26:11 Like a dog that returns to its vomit. Quoted in 2 Pet 2:22 with reference to false teachers. fool who repeats his folly. The drunkard returns to his drink (23:35).
26:12 wise in his own eyes. This conceit is applied to the sluggard in v. 16 and the rich in 28:11; cf. 26:5.
26:13 See 22:13 and note.
26:14 The sluggard loves to sleep and seems to be attached to his bed as a door to its hinges.
26:16 wiser in his own eyes. See v. 12 and note.
26:17 takes a dog by the ears. To do so is to immediately create a disturbance.
26:18 Like a madman who throws. Cf. the archer in v. 10. Firebrands. Could easily ignite sheaves of grain (cf. Zech 12:6).
26:19 Was I not joking? Explaining it as a prank is a poor excuse.
26:21 kindle strife. See 6:14 and note.
26:22 See 18:8 and note.
26:23 silver dross. Or "glaze." Cf. the clean outside of the cup and dish (Luke 11:39; cf. Matt 23:27). burning lips and a wicked heart. The speech of the adulteress is seductive (2:16; 5:3).
26:24 lays up deceit in his heart. See 12:20.
26:25 he speaks graciously. See Jer 9:8. seven. Many (see note on Job 5:19). For seven things the Lord detests see 6:16–19.
26:26 will be revealed before the assembly. See 5:14; Luke 8:17.
26:27 He who digs a pit will fall into it. "His mischief will return upon his own head" (Ps 7:16). See 1:18 and note; 28:10; 29:6; Esth 7:10; Ps 7:15; Eccl 10:8–9.
26:28 lying tongue hates those it crushes. See 10:18. flattering mouth works ruin. See 29:5; cf. 16:13.
27:1 Cf. the words of the rich fool in Luke 12:19–20; see Prov 16:9; Is 56:12.
27:2 Let another praise you. See 2 Cor 10:12,18.
27:4 who can stand before jealousy? See 6:34; Song 8:6.
27:5 open rebuke. Called "life-giving reproof" in 15:31; cf. Gal 2:14.
27:6 Faithful are the wounds of a friend. Called a sign of kindness in Ps 141:5. kisses of an enemy. See 5:3–4; Matt 26:49.
27:7 loathes honey. Cf. 25:16,27.
27:8 man who wanders from his home. He has lost his security and may be vulnerable to temptation (cf. 7:21–23).

9 [a]Oil and perfume make the heart glad,
So a [1]man's counsel is sweet to his friend.
10 Do not forsake your own [a]friend or [b]your father's friend,
And do not go to your brother's house in the day of your calamity;
Better is a neighbor who is near than a brother far away.
11 [a]Be wise, my son, and make my heart glad,
That I may [b]reply to him who reproaches me.
12 A prudent man sees evil and hides himself,
The [1]naive proceed and pay the penalty.
13 [a]Take his garment when he becomes surety for a stranger;
And for an [1]adulterous woman hold him in pledge.
14 [a]He who blesses his friend with a loud voice early in the morning,
It will be reckoned a curse to him.
15 A [a]constant dripping on a day of steady rain
And a contentious woman are alike;
16 He who would [1]restrain her [1]restrains the wind,
And [2]grasps oil with his right hand.
17 Iron sharpens iron,
So one man sharpens another.
18 He who tends the [a]fig tree will eat its fruit,
And he who [b]cares for his master will be honored.
19 As in water face reflects face,
So the heart of man reflects man.
20 [1][a]Sheol and [2]Abaddon are [b]never satisfied,
Nor are the [c]eyes of man ever satisfied.
21 The [a]crucible is for silver and the furnace for gold,
And each [b]is tested by the praise accorded him.
22 Though you [a]pound a fool in a mortar with a pestle along with crushed grain,
Yet his foolishness will not depart from him.

23 [a]Know well the [1]condition of your flocks,
And pay attention to your herds;
24 For riches are not forever,
Nor does a [a]crown endure to all generations.
25 When the grass disappears, the new growth is seen,
And the herbs of the mountains are [a]gathered in,
26 The lambs will be for your clothing,
And the goats will bring the price of a field,
27 And there will be goats' milk enough for your food,
For the food of your household,
And sustenance for your maidens.

Warnings and Instructions

28 The wicked [a]flee when no one is pursuing,
But the righteous are [1]bold as a lion.
2 By the transgression of a land [a]many are its princes,

27:20 Sheol and Abaddon. See note on Job 26:6; see also 15:11. are never satisfied. Their appetite is insatiable (see Is 5:14). Nor are the eyes of man. See Eccl 4:8.
27:21 crucible . . . gold. Silver and gold were refined to remove their impurities (cf. Is 1:25; Mal 3:3). each is tested by the praise accorded him. He must not become proud, and he must be wary of flattery (cf. 12:8; Luke 6:26).
27:22 mortar. A bowl (see Num 11:8). pestle. A club-like tool for pounding grain in a mortar. his foolishness will not depart from him. In spite of severe punishment, fools refuse to change (see note on 20:30; see also 26:11; Jer 5:3).
27:23–27 A section praising the basic security afforded by agricultural pursuits—reflecting the agricultural base of the ancient economy.

27:24 riches are not forever. See note on 23:5. Nor does a crown endure. Even kings may lose their wealth and power (see Job 19:9; Lam 5:16).
27:25 grass disappears. This began in March or April.
27:26 price of a field. See 31:16. Sheep and goats sometimes also served as tribute payments (see 2 Kin 3:4).

3 A [a]poor man who oppresses the lowly
Is like a driving rain [1]which leaves no food.
4 Those who forsake the law [a]praise the wicked,
But those who keep the law [b]strive with them.
5 Evil men [a]do not understand justice,
But those who seek the LORD
[b]understand all things.
6 [a]Better is the poor who walks in his integrity
Than he who is [1]crooked though he be rich.
7 He who keeps the law is a discerning son,
But he who is a companion of
[a]gluttons humiliates his father.
8 He who increases his wealth by
[a]interest and usury
Gathers it [b]for him who is gracious to the poor.
9 He who turns away his ear from listening to the law,
Even his [a]prayer is an abomination.
10 He who leads the upright astray in an evil way
Will [a]himself fall into his own pit,
But the [b]blameless will inherit good.
11 The rich man is [a]wise in his own eyes,
But the poor who has understanding
[1]sees through him.
12 When the [a]righteous triumph, there is great glory,
But [b]when the wicked rise, men [1]hide themselves.
13 He who [a]conceals his transgressions will not prosper,
But he who [b]confesses and forsakes them will find compassion.
14 How blessed is the man who [a]fears always,
But he who [b]hardens his heart will fall into calamity.
15 Like a [a]roaring lion and a rushing bear
Is a [b]wicked ruler over a poor people.
16 A [a]leader who is a great oppressor lacks understanding,
But he who hates unjust gain will prolong his days.
17 A man who is [a]laden with the guilt of human blood
Will [1]be a fugitive until death; let no one support him.
18 He who walks blamelessly will be delivered,
But he who is [1][a]crooked will fall all at once.
19 [a]He who tills his land will [b]have plenty of food,
But he who follows empty pursuits will have poverty in plenty.
20 A [a]faithful man will abound with blessings,
But he who [b]makes haste to be rich will not go unpunished.
21 To [1][a]show partiality is not good,
[b]Because for a piece of bread a man will transgress.
22 A man with an [a]evil eye [b]hastens after wealth

28:12 there is great glory. See 11:10 and note. men hide themselves. Obadiah hid 100 prophets during the reign of Ahab (1 Kin 18:13), and Joash was hidden for six years while the wicked Athaliah ruled (2 Kin 11:2–3).
28:13 He who conceals his transgressions will not prosper. Note the physical and psychological pain referred to in 3:7–8; Ps 32:3. he who confesses and forsakes them will find compassion. Note the joy of forgiveness in Ps 32:5,10–11.
28:14 fears always. See note on 1:7; see also 23:17. who hardens his heart. Like Pharaoh (Ex 7:13), and the Israelites who tested the Lord at Horeb (Ex 17:7; cf. Ps 95:8; Rom 2:5).

And does not know that want will come upon him.
23 He who [a]rebukes a man will afterward find more favor
Than he who [b]flatters with the tongue.
24 He who [a]robs his father or his mother
And says, "It is not a transgression,"
Is the [b]companion of a man who destroys.
25 An [1]arrogant man [a]stirs up strife,
But he who [b]trusts in the LORD [c]will
[2]prosper.
26 He who [a]trusts in his own heart is a fool,
But he who walks wisely will be delivered.
27 He who [a]gives to the poor will never want,
But he who [1]shuts his eyes will have many curses.
28 When the wicked rise, men hide themselves;
But when they perish, the righteous increase.

Warnings and Instructions

29 A man who hardens his neck after
[a]much reproof
Will [b]suddenly be broken [1]beyond remedy.
2 When the [a]righteous [1]increase, the people rejoice,
But when a wicked man rules, people groan.
3 A man who [a]loves wisdom makes his father glad,
But he who [b]keeps company with harlots wastes his wealth.
4 The [a]king gives stability to the land by justice,
But a man who takes bribes
overthrows it.
5 A man who [a]flatters his neighbor
Is spreading a net for his steps.
6 By transgression an evil man is
[a]ensnared,
But the righteous [b]sings and rejoices.
7 The [a]righteous [1]is concerned for the rights of the poor,
The wicked does not understand such
[2]concern.
8 Scorners [a]set a city aflame,
But [b]wise men turn away anger.
9 When a wise man has a controversy with a foolish man,
[1]The foolish man either rages or laughs, and there is no rest.
10 Men of [a]bloodshed hate the blameless,
But the upright [1]are concerned for his life.
11 A [a]fool [1]always loses his temper,
But a [b]wise man holds it back.
12 If a [a]ruler pays attention to falsehood,
All his ministers become wicked.
13 The [a]poor man and the oppressor
[1]have this in common:
The LORD gives [b]light to the eyes of both.
14 If a [a]king judges the poor with truth,
His [b]throne will be established forever.
15 The [a]rod and reproof give wisdom,
But a child [1]who gets his own way
[b]brings shame to his mother.
16 When the wicked [1]increase,
transgression increases;
But the [a]righteous will see their fall.
17 [a]Correct your son, and he will give you comfort;

28:25 stirs up strife. See note on 6:14. will prosper. As does also the generous person (11:25) and the one who is diligent (13:4, "the soul of the diligent is made fat").

28:26 who walks wisely. Equals "who trusts in the LORD" in 29:25; cf. 3:5.

28:27 gives to the poor. See note on 14:21. will never want. Generosity is the path to blessing (see 11:24 and note; 14:21; 19:17). shuts his eyes. See 21:13.

28:28 men hide themselves. See v. 12 and note. righteous increase. See 11:10; 29:2.

29:1 hardens his neck after much reproof. Eli's sons died because of their stubbornness (see 1 Sam 2:25; cf. Deut 9:6,13). Will suddenly be broken beyond remedy. Identical to 6:15. Cf. the fate of the mockers in 1:22–27.

29:2 When the righteous increase, the people rejoice. See 11:10 and note. when a wicked man rules, people groan. See 28:12 and note; see also Judg 2:18. The Israelites groaned in Egypt (Ex 2:23–24).

29:6 By transgression . . . ensnared. See 1:18 and note; 22:5.

29:17 Correct your son. Teach him and train him (see 13:24 and note; 22:6).

He will also [1][b]delight your soul.
18 Where there is [a]no [1]vision, the people
[b]are unrestrained,
But [c]happy is he who keeps the law.
19 A slave will not be instructed by words alone;
For though he understands, there will be no response.
20 Do you see a man who is [a]hasty in his words?
There is [b]more hope for a fool than for
him.
21 He who pampers his slave from childhood
Will in the end find him to be a son.
22 An [a]angry man stirs up strife,
And a hot-tempered man abounds in transgression.
23 A man's [a]pride will bring him low,
But a [b]humble spirit will obtain honor.
24 He who is a partner with a thief hates
his own life;
He [a]hears the oath but tells nothing.
25 The [a]fear of man [1]brings a snare,
But he who [b]trusts in the LORD will be exalted.
26 [a]Many seek the ruler's [1]favor,
But [b]justice for man comes from the LORD.
27 An [a]unjust man is abominable to the righteous,
And he who is [b]upright in the way is abominable to the wicked.

29:19 will not be instructed by words alone. Servants, like sons (vv. 15,17), must be disciplined (see note on 22:6).

29:26 Many seek the ruler's favor. See 2 Sam 14:22; 16:4; Esth 4:8; 5:2; 7:3; 8:5. justice for man comes from the LORD. God controls a king's actions (see note on 21:1) and defends the cause of the poor and the just (cf. Job 36:6).
30:1–33 The first of two chapters that serve as an appendix to Proverbs.
30:1 Agur the son of Jakeh. Probably a wise man like Ethan and Heman (1 Kin 4:31). oracle. Usually the message of a prophet (see note on Is 13:1). If "oracle" is taken as the place name "Massa" (that is, "Jakeh of Massa"), Agur would then be associated with an Ishmaelite people (cf. Gen 25:13–14). Ithiel . . . Ucal. Perhaps students of Agur.
30:2 I am more stupid than any man. Paul described himself as "the foremost of sinners" (1 Tim 1:16).
30:3 knowledge of the Holy One. See note on 2:5. "Holy One" occurs elsewhere in Proverbs only in 9:10.
30:4 The use of rhetorical questions to express God's greatness as Creator occurs also in Job 38:4–11; Is 40:12. gathered the wind. Cf. Ps 135:7. wrapped up the waters in His garment. See Job 26:8; 38:8–9. Surely you know! God similarly challenged Job (Job 38:4).
30:5 Almost identical to Ps 18:30. shield. See note on 2:7. to those who take refuge in Him. See 14:32; 18:10.
30:6 Do not add to His words. Cf. Moses' warning to the Israelites in Deut 4:2.
30:7 Two things. The use of lists characterizes Agur's sayings (see vv. 15,18,21,24,29).
30:8 food that is my portion. Cf. Job 23:12 and the Lord's Prayer (Matt 6:11).
30:9 I not be full and deny You. Moses predicted that Israel would forget God when their food was plentiful and their herds large (Deut 8:12–17; 31:20). Who is the LORD? Or, Why should I serve Him (see Job 21:14–16)? not be in want and steal. Cf. 6:30.

10 Do not slander a slave to his master,
Or he will [a]curse you and you will be found guilty.

11 There is a [1]kind of man who [a]curses his father
And does not bless his mother.
12 There is a [1]kind who is [a]pure in his own eyes,
Yet is not washed from his filthiness.
13 There is a [1]kind—oh how [a]lofty are his eyes!
And his eyelids are raised in arrogance.
14 There is a [1]kind of man whose [a]teeth are like swords
And his [b]jaw teeth like knives,
To [c]devour the afflicted from the earth
And the needy from among men.

15 The leech has two daughters,
"Give," "Give."
There are three things that will not be satisfied,
Four that will not say, "Enough":
16 [1a]Sheol, and the [b]barren womb,
Earth that is never satisfied with water,
And fire that never says, "Enough."
17 The eye that [a]mocks a father
And [1b]scorns a mother,
The [c]ravens of the valley will pick it out,
And the young [c]eagles will eat it.

18 There are three things which are too wonderful for me,
Four which I do not understand:
19 The way of an [a]eagle in the sky,
The way of a serpent on a rock,
The way of a ship in the middle of the sea,
And the way of a man with a maid.
20 This is the way of an [a]adulterous woman:
She eats and wipes her mouth,
And says, "I have done no wrong."

21 Under three things the earth quakes,
And under four, it cannot bear up:
22 Under a [a]slave when he becomes king,
And a fool when he is satisfied with food,
23 Under an unloved woman when she gets a husband,
And a maidservant when she supplants her mistress.

24 Four things are small on the earth,
But they are exceedingly wise:
25 The [a]ants are not a strong people,
But they prepare their food in the summer;
26 The [1a]shephanim are not mighty people,
Yet they make their houses in the rocks;
27 The locusts have no king,
Yet all of them go out in [a]ranks;
28 The lizard you may grasp with the hands,
Yet it is in kings' palaces.

29 There are three things which are stately in their march,
Even four which are stately when they walk:
30 The lion which is [a]mighty among beasts
And does not [1b]retreat before any,
31 The [1]strutting rooster, the male goat also,
And a king when his army is with him.

30:10 you will be found guilty. Since the accusation is false, the servant's curse will be effective (cf. 26:2)—so do not suppose you can take advantage of a servant's lowly position.
30:11 curses his father. Punishable by death (see Ex 21:17; Lev 20:9; cf. v. 17).
30:12 who is pure in his own eyes. Like the Pharisee (Luke 18:11; cf. Is 65:5).
30:13 how lofty are his eyes! See note on 6:17; see also Is 3:16.
30:14 whose teeth are like swords . . . like knives. The wicked are like ravenous beasts that devour the prey (see Job 29:17). To devour the afflicted . . . the needy. Cf. Ps 14:4; Mic 3:2–3.
30:15,18,21,29 three . . . four. See note on 6:16.
30:16 Sheol. Its appetite is never satisfied (Is 5:14; Hab 2:5). barren womb. In ancient Israel, a wife without children was desolate, even desperate (cf. Gen 16:2; 30:1; Ruth 1:11–13,20–21; 1 Sam 1:6,10–11; 2 Kin 4:14).
30:17 The eye. Haughty and disdainful (see v. 13). mocks a father And scorns a mother. See v. 11 and note; 15:20. The ravens . . . will pick it out, And the young eagles. The loss of an eye was a terrible curse (see the story of Samson in Judg 16:21). Since vultures normally devoured the dead (see Jer 16:4; Matt 24:28), the meaning may be that the body of a disgraceful son will lie unburied and exposed.
30:18–19 It is difficult to understand the four "ways" because there are no tracks that can be readily followed.
30:19 way of an eagle. Soaring and swooping majestically (cf. Job 39:27; Jer 48:40; 49:22). way of a man with a maid. Probably a reference to the mystery of courting and how it leads to consummation.
30:20 adulterous. See 2:16 and note. She eats and wipes her mouth. Making love is compared to eating food also in 9:17 (see note there; see also 7:18 and note).
30:22 slave when he becomes king. See 19:10 and note.
30:23 unloved woman when she gets a husband. Probably one of several wives, who is miserable because her husband does not love her (cf. Leah in Gen 29:31–32). maidservant when she supplants her mistress. Perhaps because she was able to bear a child, whereas the wife was barren (cf. Hagar and Sarah in Gen 16:1–6).
30:26 in the rocks. Which provide a refuge for them (see Ps 104:18).
30:27 locusts have no king. Cf. 6:7. all . . . go out in ranks. Locusts are portrayed as a mighty army in Joel 2:3–9.
30:28 in kings' palaces. Lizards climb stone walls easily.
30:30 lion . . . mighty among beasts. See 2 Sam 1:23; Mic 5:8.
30:31 male goat. Goats were used to lead flocks of sheep (see Jer 50:8; Dan 8:5).

32 If you have been foolish in exalting yourself
Or if you have plotted evil, [a]put your hand on your mouth.
33 For the [1]churning of milk produces butter,
And pressing the nose brings forth blood;
So the [1]churning of [a]anger produces strife.

The Words of Lemuel

31 The words of King Lemuel, the [1]oracle which his mother taught him:
2 What, O my son?
And what, O [a]son of my womb?
And what, O son of my [b]vows?
3 [a]Do not give your strength to women,
Or your ways to that which [b]destroys kings.
4 It is not for [a]kings, O Lemuel,
It is not for kings to [b]drink wine,
Or for rulers to desire strong drink,
5 For they will drink and forget what is decreed,
And [a]pervert the [1]rights of all the [2]afflicted.
6 Give strong drink to him who is [a]perishing,
And wine to him [1b]whose life is bitter.
7 Let him drink and forget his poverty
And remember his trouble no more.
8 [a]Open your mouth for the mute,
For the [1]rights of all the [2]unfortunate.
9 Open your mouth, [a]judge righteously,
And [1]defend the [b]rights of the afflicted and needy.

Description of a Worthy Woman

10 An [a]excellent wife, who can find?
For her worth is far [b]above jewels.
11 The heart of her husband trusts in her,
And he will have no lack of gain.
12 She does him good and not evil
All the days of her life.
13 She looks for wool and flax
And works with her [1]hands [2]in delight.
14 She is like [a]merchant ships;
She brings her food from afar.
15 She [a]rises also while it is still night
And [b]gives food to her household
And [1]portions to her maidens.
16 She considers a field and buys it;
From [1]her earnings she plants a vineyard.
17 She [a]girds [1]herself with strength
And makes her arms strong.
18 She senses that her gain is good;
Her lamp does not go out at night.
19 She stretches out her hands to the distaff,
And her [1]hands grasp the spindle.
20 She [1a]extends her hand to the poor,
And she stretches out her hands to the needy.
21 She is not afraid of the snow for her household,
For all her household are [a]clothed with scarlet.
22 She makes [a]coverings for herself;
Her clothing is [b]fine linen and [c]purple.
23 Her husband is known [a]in the gates,

30:32 exalting yourself. Pride is condemned in 8:13; 11:2; 16:18. plotted evil. Cf. 6:14; 16:27. put your hand on your mouth. Stop your plotting immediately (cf. Job 21:5; 40:4).

30:33 churning of anger produces strife. See notes on 6:14; 15:1; see also 29:22.

31:1–9 This brief section is also of non-Israelite origin. King Lemuel is otherwise unknown.

31:1 oracle. See note on 30:1. his mother. This entire chapter emphasizes the role and significance of wise women. The queen mother was an influential figure (see 1 Kin 1:11–13; 15:13).

31:2 son of my vows. Hannah made a vow as she prayed for a son (1 Sam 1:11). vows. See 20:25 and note.

31:3 strength to women. A warning against a large harem and sexual immorality (see 5:9–11 and notes; 1 Kin 11:1; Neh 13:26).

31:4 It is not for kings . . . to drink wine. Woe to the land whose rulers are drunkards (Eccl 10:16–17; see 20:1 and note; Hos 7:5).

31:5 pervert the rights of all the afflicted. See 30:14 and note; see also 17:15; Is 5:23; 10:2.

31:8–9 The king represents God as the defender of the poor and needy (see 16:10; Ps 82:3; cf. Lev 19:15; Job 29:12–17; Is 1:17).

31:10–31 The epilogue: an acrostic poem (each verse begins with a successive letter of the Hebrew alphabet) praising the "excellent wife" (v. 10). It corresponds to 1:1–7 (the prologue) as it describes a "woman who fears the LORD" (v. 30; see note on 1:7). Such a wife is almost a personification of wisdom. Like wisdom, "her worth is far above jewels" (v. 10; 3:15; 8:11), and he who finds her "obtains favor from the LORD" (8:35; 18:22). See Introduction: Literary Structure.

31:10 excellent wife. Like Ruth (Ruth 3:11). She is "the crown of her husband" (12:4).

31:12 She does him good. See 18:22; 19:14.

31:13 flax. Its fibers were made into linen (see vv. 19,22,24; cf. Is 19:9).

31:14 like merchant ships. She is an enterprising person (see v. 18).

31:15 She rises also while it is still night. She is the opposite of the sluggard (see 6:9–10; 20:13). portions to her maidens. See 27:27; Luke 12:42.

31:16 considers a field . . . plants a vineyard. She shows good judgment—unlike the sluggard, whose vineyard is overgrown with thorns and weeds (24:30–31).

31:17 girds herself with strength. See 10:4 and note.

31:18 her gain is good. Like wisdom, "her worth is far above jewels" (v. 10; 3:15; 8:11). The profit of wisdom "is better than the profit of silver" (3:14).

31:19 distaff . . . spindle. Spinning thread was women's work.

31:20 extends her hand to the poor. See note on 14:21; see also 22:9; Job 31:16–20.

31:21 clothed with scarlet. Of high quality, probably made of wool (cf. 2 Sam 1:24; Rev 18:16).

31:22 fine linen. Associated with nobility (see note on 7:16; see also Gen 41:42). purple. Linked with kings (Judg 8:26; Song 3:10) or the rich (Luke 16:19; Rev 18:16).

31:23 in the gates. The court (see note on 1:21).

When he sits among the elders of the land.
24 She makes [a] linen garments and sells them,
And [1] supplies belts to the [2] tradesmen.
25 Strength and [a] dignity are her clothing,
And she smiles at the [1] future.
26 She [a] opens her mouth in wisdom,
And the [1] teaching of kindness is on her tongue.
27 She looks well to the ways of her household,
And does not eat the [a] bread of idleness.
28 Her children rise up and bless her;
Her husband also, and he praises her, saying:
29 "Many daughters have done nobly,
But you excel them all."
30 Charm is deceitful and beauty is vain,
But a woman who [1] [a] fears the LORD, she shall be praised.
31 Give her the [1] product of her hands,
And let her works praise her in the gates.

31:25 Strength and dignity are her clothing. See Is 52:1; 1 Tim 2:9–10. The opposite is to be "clothed with shame and dishonor" (Ps 35:26). she smiles at the future. She is free of anxiety and worry (cf. Job 39:7).

31:26 teaching of kindness. Given to her children and friends. She is a wise and loving counselor (see 1:8; 6:20).

31:28 bless her. Because of the happy environment she creates and the joy she radiates to others. See Gen 30:13; Ps 72:17; Song 6:9; Mal 3:12; cf. Ruth 4:14–15.

31:29 done nobly. See Is 32:8.

31:30 Charm is deceitful. Cf. 5:3. beauty is vain. Cf. Job 14:2; 1 Pet 3:3–5. who fears the LORD. See note on 1:7.

31:31 product of her hands. See 12:14 and note. praise her. Honor comes through "humility and the fear of the LORD" (22:4). in the gates. See v. 23; see also note on 1:21.

Ecclesiastes

Author and Date

No time period or writer's name is mentioned in the book, but several passages strongly suggest that King Solomon is the author (1:1,12,16; 2:4–9; 7:26–29; 12:9; cf. 1 Kin 2:9; 3:12; 4:29–34; 5:12; 10:1–8). On the other hand, the writer's title ("Preacher," Hebrew qoheleth; see note on 1:1), his unique style of Hebrew and his attitude toward rulers (suggesting that of a subject rather than a monarch—see, e.g., 4:1–2; 5:8–9; 8:2–4; 10:20) may point to another person and a later period.

Purpose and Method

With his life largely behind him, the author takes stock of the world as he has experienced it between the horizons of birth and death—the latter a horizon beyond which man cannot see. The world is seen as being full of enigmas, the greatest of which is man himself.

From the perspective of his own understanding, the Preacher takes measure of man, examining his capabilities. He discovers that human wisdom, even that of a godly person, has limits (1:13,16–18; 7:24; 8:16–17). It cannot find out the larger purposes of God or the ultimate meaning of man's existence.

As the author looks about at the human enterprise, he sees man in mad pursuit of one thing and then another—laboring as if he could master the world, lay bare its secrets, change its fundamental structures, break through the bounds of human limitations and master his own destiny. He sees man vainly pursuing hopes and expectations that in reality are "vanity and striving after wind" (1:14; 2:11,17,26; 4:4,16; 6:9; cf. 1:17; 4:6).

But faith teaches him that God has ordered all things according to His own purposes (3:1–15; 5:19; 6:1–2; 9:1) and that man's role is to accept these, including his own limitations, as God's appointments. Man, therefore, should be patient and enjoy life as God gives it. He should know his own limitations and not vex himself with unrealistic expectations. He should be prudent in everything, living carefully before God and the king and, above all, fearing God and keeping His commandments (12:13).

Teaching

Life not centered on God is purposeless and meaningless (see notes on 1:2; 2:24–25). Without Him, nothing else can satisfy (2:25). With Him, all of life and His other good gifts are to be gratefully received (see James 1:17) and used and enjoyed to the full (2:26; 11:8). The book contains the philosophical and theological reflections of an old man (12:1–7), most of whose life was meaningless because he had not himself relied on God as he should have.

Outline

I. Author (1:1)
II. Theme: The vanity of man's efforts on earth apart from God (1:2)
III. Introduction: The profitlessness of working to accumulate things to achieve happiness (1:3–11)
IV. Discourse, Part 1: In spite of life's apparent enigmas and vanity, it is to be enjoyed as a gift from God (1:12—11:6)
V. Discourse, Part 2: Since old age and death will soon come, man should enjoy life in his youth, remembering that God will judge (11:7—12:7)
VI. Theme Repeated (12:8)
VII. Conclusion: Reverently trust in and obey God (12:9–14)

The Futility of All Endeavor

1 The words of the [a]Preacher, the son of David, king in Jerusalem.
2 "[1a]Vanity of vanities," says the Preacher,
"[1]Vanity of vanities! All is [2]vanity."
3 [a]What advantage does man have in all his work
Which he does under the sun?
4 A generation goes and a generation comes,
But the [a]earth [1]remains forever.
5 Also, [a]the sun rises and the sun sets;
And [1]hastening to its place it rises there again.
6 [1a]Blowing toward the south,
Then turning toward the north,
The wind continues [2]swirling along;
And on its circular courses the wind returns.
7 All the rivers [1]flow into the sea,
Yet the sea is not full.
To the place where the rivers [1]flow,
There they [1]flow again.
8 All things are wearisome;
Man is not able to tell it.
[a]The eye is not satisfied with seeing,
Nor is the ear filled with hearing.
9 [a]That which has been is that which will be,
And that which has been done is that which will be done.
So there is nothing new under the sun.
10 Is there anything of which one might say,
"See this, it is new"?
Already it has existed for ages
Which were before us.
11 There is [a]no remembrance of [1]earlier things;
And also of the [2]later things which will occur,
There will be for them no remembrance
Among those who will come [2]later still.

The Futility of Wisdom

12 I, the [a]Preacher, have been king over Israel in Jerusalem.
13 And I [a]set my [1]mind to seek and [b]explore by wisdom concerning all that has been done under heaven. It is [2]a grievous [c]task which God has given to the sons of men to be afflicted with.
14 I have seen all the works which have been done under the sun, and behold, all is [1a]vanity and striving after wind.
15 What is [a]crooked cannot be straightened and what is lacking cannot be counted.
16 I [1]said to myself, "Behold, I have magnified and increased [a]wisdom more than all who were over Jerusalem before me; and my [2]mind has observed [3]a wealth of wisdom and knowledge."
17 And I [a]set my [1]mind to know wisdom and to [b]know madness and folly; I realized that this also is [c]striving after wind.

1:1 Preacher. The preacher of wisdom (12:9). The Hebrew term for "Preacher" (qoheleth) is related to that for "assembly" (possibly meaning "leader of the assembly"; also in vv.2,12; Ex 16:3; Num 16:3). Perhaps the Preacher, whose work is described in 12:9–10, also held an office in the assembly. The Septuagint (the Greek translation of the OT) word for "Preacher" is ekklesiastes, from which most English titles of the book are taken, and from which such English words as "ecclesiastical" are derived. son of David. Suggests Solomon, though his name occurs nowhere in the book. The Hebrew word for "son" can refer to a descendant (even many generations removed)—or even to someone who follows in the footsteps of another (see Gen 4:21; see also Introduction: Author and Date).

1:2 Briefly states the author's theme (see 12:8). Vanity. This key term is translated "vanity" or "vanities" about 22 times in Ecclesiastes and only a few other places in the OT (see 2 Kin 17:15; Ps 62;9; Is 49:4). The Hebrew for it originally meant "breath" (see Ps 39:5,11; 62:9; 144:4). The basic thrust of Ecclesiastes is that all of life is meaningless, useless, hollow, futile and vain if it is not rightly related to God. Only when based on God and His word is life worthwhile. All. See v. 8; whatever man undertakes apart from God.

1:3–11 In this section the author elaborates his theme that human effort appears to be without benefit or purpose.

1:3 Jesus expands on this question in Mark 8:36–38. under the sun. Another key expression (used 29 times), which refers to this present world and the limits of what it offers. "Under heaven," though it occurs less frequently (v. 13; 2:3; 3:1), is used synonymously.

1:4 earth remains forever. By contrast, man's life is fleeting.

1:8 All things. Everything mentioned in vv. 4–7 (see note on v. 2).

1:10 new. Many things seem to be new simply because the past is easily and quickly forgotten. The old ways reappear in new guises.

1:12–18 Having set forth his theme that all human striving seems futile (see especially vv. 3,11, which frame the section), the Preacher shows that both human endeavor (vv. 12–15; cf. 2:1–11) and the pursuit of human wisdom (vv. 16–18; cf. 2:12–17) are futile and meaningless.

1:12 I. The author shifts to the first person, returning to the third person only in the conclusion (12:9–14).

1:13 God. The only Hebrew word the writer uses for God is Elohim (used almost 30 times), which emphasizes His absolute sovereignty. He does not use the covenant name, Yahweh (translated "LORD"; see note on Ex 3:15).

1:14 striving after wind. A graphic illustration of futility and meaninglessness (see Introduction: Purpose and Method). These words are used nine times in the first half of the discourse (here; v. 17; 2:11,17,26; 4:4,6,16; 6:9; see also 5:16).

1:15 See 7:13 and note. Because of the unalterableness of events, human effort is meaningless and hopeless. We should therefore learn to happily accept things the way they are and to accept our divinely appointed lot in life, as the Preacher later counsels.

1:16 all who were over Jerusalem before me. See 2:7,9. This does not necessarily exclude Solomon as the Preacher. The reference could include kings prior to David, such as Melchizedek (Gen 14:18), Adoni-zedek (Josh 10:1) and Abdi-khepa (mentioned in the Amarna letters from Egypt; see chart, p. xix).

18 Because [a]in much wisdom there is much grief, and increasing knowledge results in increasing pain.

The Futility of Pleasure and Possessions

2 I said [1]to myself, "Come now, I will test you with [a]pleasure. So [2]enjoy yourself."
And behold, it too was futility.

2 [a]I said of laughter, "It is madness," and of pleasure, "What does it accomplish?"

3 I explored with my [1]mind how to [a]stimulate my body with wine while my [1]mind was guiding me wisely, and how to take hold of [b]folly, until I could see [c]what good there is for the sons of men [2]to do under heaven the few [3]years of their lives.

4 I enlarged my works: I [a]built houses for myself, I planted [b]vineyards for myself;

5 I made [a]gardens and [b]parks for myself and I planted in them all kinds of fruit trees;

6 I made [a]ponds of water for myself from which to irrigate a forest of growing trees.

7 I bought male and female slaves and I had [1a]homeborn slaves. Also I possessed flocks and [b]herds larger than all who preceded me in Jerusalem.

8 Also, I collected for myself silver and [a]gold and the treasure of kings and provinces. I provided for myself [b]male and female singers and the pleasures of men—many concubines.

9 Then I became [a]great and increased more than all who preceded me in Jerusalem. My wisdom also stood by me.

10 [a]All that my eyes desired I did not refuse them. I did not withhold my heart from any pleasure, for my heart was pleased because of all my labor and this was my [b]reward for all my labor.

11 Thus I considered all my activities which my hands had done and the labor which I had [1]exerted, and behold all was [2a]vanity and striving after wind and there was [b]no profit under the sun.

Wisdom Excels Folly

12 So I turned to [a]consider wisdom, madness and folly; for what will the man do who will come after the king except [b]what has already been done?

13 And I saw that [a]wisdom excels folly as light excels darkness.

14 The wise man's eyes are in his head, but the [a]fool walks in darkness. And yet I know that [b]one fate befalls them both.

15 Then I said [1]to myself, "[a]As is the fate of the fool, it will also befall me. [b]Why then have I been extremely wise?" So [2]I said to myself, "This too is vanity."

16 For there is [a]no [1]lasting remembrance of the wise man as with the fool, inasmuch as in the coming days all will be forgotten.
And [b]how the wise man and the fool alike die!

17 So I [a]hated life, for the work which had been done under the sun was [1]grievous to me; because everything is futility and striving after wind.

The Futility of Labor

18 Thus I hated [a]all the fruit of my labor for which I had labored under the sun, for I must [b]leave it to the man who will come after me.

19 And who knows whether he will be a wise man or [a]a fool? Yet he will have [1]control over all the fruit of my labor for which I have labored by acting wisely under the sun.
This too is [b]vanity.

20 Therefore I [1]completely despaired of all the fruit of my labor for which I had labored under the sun.

21 When there is a man who has labored with wisdom, knowledge and [a]skill, then he [b]gives his [1]legacy to one who has not labored with them. This too is vanity and a great evil.

22 For what does a man get in [a]all his labor and in [1]his striving with which he labors under the sun?

23 Because all his days his task is painful and [a]grievous; even at night his [1]mind [b]does not rest. This too is vanity.

1:18 Humanistic wisdom—wisdom without God—leads to grief and sorrow.
2:1–11 The Preacher now shows that mere pleasure cannot give meaning or satisfaction (see 1:12–15; see also note on 1:12–18).
2:1 I said to myself. See v. 15; 1:16.
2:3 my mind was guiding me wisely. From first to last (v. 9) the author used wisdom to discover the good (v. 1) and the worthwhile (v. 3).
2:4–9 See 1 Kin 4–11, which tells of Solomon's splendor and of his wives.
2:8 concubines. The Hebrew for this word occurs only here in Scripture, and its meaning is uncertain. The meaning seems to be indicated in an early Egyptian letter that uses a similar Canaanite term for concubines. It fits the situation of Solomon, who had 300 concubines in addition to 700 wives (1 Kin 11:3).
2:10 labor . . . labor. A key thought in Ecclesiastes is the vanity (v. 11), apart from God, of toil, labor, work—words that occur more than 25 times.
2:12–17 The Preacher returns to the folly of trying to find satisfaction in merely human wisdom (see 1:16–18; see also note on 1:12–18).
2:13 wisdom excels folly. Even secular wisdom is better than folly, but in the end it is of no value, since "one fate befalls them both" (i.e., befalls both the wise believer and the foolish unbeliever, v. 14; see Ps 49:10).
2:14 eyes. Understanding.
2:16 People tend to soon forget even the greatest leaders and heroes (see 1:11).
2:18 leave it to the man who will come after me. See v. 21; Ps 39:6; Luke 12:20.
2:19 who knows . . . ? For a more searching "Who knows . . . ?" for secular man see 3:21.

24 There is [a]nothing better for a man than to eat and drink and [1]tell himself that his labor is good. This also I have seen that it is [b]from the hand of God.

25 For who can eat and who can have enjoyment without [1]Him?

26 For to a person who is good in His sight [a]He has given wisdom and knowledge and joy, while to the sinner He has given the task of gathering and collecting so that he may [b]give to one who is good in God's sight. This too is [c]vanity and striving after wind.

A Time for Everything

3 There is an appointed time for everything.
And there is a [a]time for every [1]event under heaven—

2 A time to give birth and a [a]time to die;
A time to plant and a time to uproot what is planted.

3 A [a]time to kill and a time to heal;
A time to tear down and a time to build up.

4 A time to [a]weep and a time to [b]laugh;
A time to mourn and a time to [c]dance.

5 A time to throw stones and a time to gather stones;
A time to embrace and a time to shun embracing.

6 A time to search and a time to give up as lost;
A time to keep and a time to throw away.

7 A time to tear apart and a time to sew together;
A time to [a]be silent and a time to speak.

8 A time to love and a time to [a]hate;
A time for war and a time for peace.

9 [a]What profit is there to the worker from that in which he toils?

10 I have seen the [a]task which God has given the sons of men with which to occupy themselves.

God Set Eternity in the Heart of Man

11 He has [a]made everything [1]appropriate in its time. He has also set eternity in their heart, [2]yet so that man [b]will not find out the work which God has done from the beginning even to the end.

12 I know that there is [a]nothing better for them than to rejoice and to do good in one's lifetime;

13 moreover, that every man who eats and drinks sees good in all his labor—it is the [a]gift of God.

14 I know that everything God does will remain forever; there is nothing to add to it and there is nothing to take from it, for God has so worked that men should [1][a]fear Him.

15 That [a]which is has been already and that which will be has already been, for God seeks what has passed by.

16 Furthermore, I have seen under the sun that in the place of justice there is [a]wickedness and in the place of righteousness there is wickedness.

17 I said [1]to myself, "[a]God will judge both the righteous man and the wicked man," for a [b]time for every [2]matter and for every deed is there.

18 I said [1]to myself concerning the sons of men, "God has surely tested them in order for them to see that they are but [a]beasts."

19 [a]For the fate of the sons of men and the fate of beasts [1]is the same. As one dies so dies the other; indeed, they all have the same breath and there is no advantage for man over beast, for all is [2]vanity.

20 All go to the same place. All came from the [a]dust and all return to the dust.

21 Who knows that the [a]breath of man ascends upward and the breath of the beast descends downward to the earth?

2:24–25 The heart of Ecclesiastes, a theme repeated in 3:12–13,22; 5:18–20; 8:15; 9:7 and climaxed in 12:13. Only in God does life have meaning and true pleasure. Without Him nothing satisfies, but with Him we find satisfaction and enjoyment. True pleasure comes only when we acknowledge and revere God (12:13).

2:26 while to the sinner. For exceptions to this general principle see 8:14; Ps 73:1–12.

3:1–22 The Preacher shows that we are subject to times and changes over which we have little or no control, and contrasts this state with God's eternity and sovereignty. God sovereignly predetermines all of life's activities (e.g., the 14 opposites of vv. 2–8).

3:1 Cf. 8:6. under heaven. See note on 1:3.

3:2 A time. Divinely appointed (see Ps 31:15; Prov 16:1–9).

3:11 The chapter summarized: God's beautiful but tantalizing world is too big for us, yet its satisfactions are too small. Since we were made for eternity, the things of time cannot fully and permanently satisfy.

3:12–13 A pointer to the book's conclusion. God's people find meaning in life when they cheerfully accept it from the hand of God.

3:14 forever. In this word the "eternity" of v. 11 becomes clearer. fear. Sums up the message of the book (cf. 12:13).

3:15 See 1:9.

3:17 judge. God's true judgments are the answer to human cynicism about man's injustices. "What has passed by" (v. 15) is not meaningless (as people dismiss it as being, 1:11), and God will override the perverse judgments (v. 16) of men (see 12:14).

3:18 but beasts. Man "under the sun" (man on his own) is as mortal as any animal; but, unlike them, he must be made to see this condition and, through his dim awareness of eternity (v. 11), be distressed.

3:19 same breath. See Ps 104:27–30.

3:20 to the same place. Not heaven or hell but man's observable destination, which is a return to dust, just like the animals. Death is the great leveler of all living things (see Gen 3:19; Ps 103:14).

3:21 Who knows . . . ? See 2:19 and note; cf. 12:7. Man on his own cannot know; he can only guess. The answer, revealed at first in glimpses (e.g., Ps 16:9–11; 49:15; 73:23–26; Is 26:19; Dan

22 I have seen that [a]nothing is better than that man should be happy in his activities, for that is his lot. For who will bring him to see [b]what will occur after him?

The Evils of Oppression

4 Then I looked again at all the acts of [a]oppression which were being done under the sun. And behold I saw the tears of the oppressed and that they had [b]no one to comfort them; and on the side of their oppressors was power, but they had no one to comfort them.

2 So [a]I congratulated the dead who are already dead more than the living who are still living.

3 But [a]better off than both of them is the one who has never existed, who has never seen the evil activity that is done under the sun.

4 I have seen that every labor and every [a]skill which is done is the result of rivalry between a man and his neighbor. This too is [1][b]vanity and striving after wind.

5 The fool [a]folds his hands and [b]consumes his own flesh.

6 One hand full of rest is [a]better than two fists full of labor and striving after wind.

7 Then I looked again at vanity under the sun.

8 There was a certain man without a [1]dependent, having neither a son nor a brother, yet there was no end to all his labor. Indeed, [a]his eyes were not satisfied with riches and he never asked, "And [b]for whom am I laboring and depriving myself of pleasure?" This too is vanity and it is a [c]grievous task.

9 Two are better than one because they have a good return for their labor.

10 For if [1]either of them falls, the one will lift up his companion. But woe to the one who falls when there is not [2]another to lift him up.

12 And if [1]one can overpower him who is alone, two can resist him. A cord of three strands is not quickly torn apart.

13 A [a]poor yet wise lad is better than an old and foolish king who no longer knows how to receive [1]instruction.

14 For he has come [a]out of prison to become king, even though he was born poor in his kingdom.

15 I have seen all the living under the sun throng to the side of the second lad who [1]replaces him.

16 There is no end to all the people, to all who were before them, and even the ones who will come later will not be happy with him, for this too is [a]vanity and striving after wind.

Your Attitude Toward God

5 [1][a]Guard your steps as you go to the house of God and draw near to listen rather than to offer the [b]sacrifice of fools; for they do not know they are doing evil.

2 [1]Do not be [a]hasty [2]in word or [3]impulsive in thought to bring up a matter in the presence of God. For God is in heaven and you are on the earth; therefore let your [b]words be few.

3 For the dream comes through much [1]effort and the voice of a [c]fool through many words.

4 When you [a]make a vow to God, do not be late in paying it; for He takes no delight in fools. [b]Pay what you vow!

5 It is [a]better that you should not vow than that you should vow and not pay.

6 Do not let your [1]speech cause [2]you to sin and do not say in the presence of the messenger of God that it was a [a]mistake. Why should God be angry on account of your voice and destroy the work of your hands?

12:2–3), was brought fully "to light through the gospel" (2 Tim 1:10).

3:22 nothing is better. As an end in itself, work too is meaningless (see 4:4; 9:9). Only receiving it as a gift from God (v. 13) gives it enduring worth (v. 14).

4:1 oppression. A theme already touched on (3:16) and another ingredient in the human tragedy. To find life meaningless is sad enough, but to taste its cruelty is bitter beyond words.

4:2 more than the living. See Job 3; Jer 20:14–18. For faith that sees a bigger picture see Rom 8:35–39.

4:4–6 Neither hard work (motivated by envy) nor idleness brings happiness, meaning or fulfillment.

4:4 every labor and every skill. This too is meaningless unless done with God's blessing (see 3:13; cf. the selfless success of Joseph, Gen 39).

4:5 The ruin of the idle person is vividly pictured in 10:18; Prov 6:6–11; 24:30–34.

4:6 rest. See Prov 30:7–9. Paul says the last word on this subject (Phil 4:11–13).

4:7–12 The loner, too, has a meaningless and difficult life if he is an unbeliever.

4:12 two . . . three. A climactic construction.

4:13–16 Advancement without God is another example of the vanity of secularism.

5:1–7 The theme of this section is the vanity of superficial religion, as reflected in making rash vows.

5:1 Guard your steps. Think about what you ought to say and do. listen. Obey. 1 Sam 15:22 uses the same Hebrew verb and makes the same contrast between real and superficial worship. sacrifice. Probably connected with the vow of vv. 4–6.

5:2 hasty in word. As in a rash vow.

5:3 A proverb. In the context it suggests that in the midst of cares a person dreams of bliss (as a starving man dreams of a banquet), and in anticipation may offer rash vows ("many words") to God (see v. 7).

5:4 vow. See Deut 23:21–23; 1 Sam 1:11, 24–28. no delight in fools. In Scripture the fool is not one who cannot learn, but one who refuses to learn due to moral deficiency (see Prov 1:7,20–27).

5:6 messenger. See Mal 2:7.

7 For in many dreams and in many words there is [1]emptiness. Rather, [2][a]fear God.

8 If you see [a]oppression of the poor and [b]denial of justice and righteousness in the province, do not be [c]shocked at the [1]sight;
for one [2]official watches over another [2]official, and there are higher [3]officials over
them.

9 After all, a king who cultivates the field is an advantage to the land.

The Folly of Riches

10 [a]He who loves money will not be satisfied with money, nor he who loves abundance with its income. This too is [1]vanity.

11 [a]When good things increase, those who consume them increase. So what is the advantage to their owners except to [1]look on?

12 The sleep of the working man is [a]pleasant, whether he eats little or much; but the [1]full stomach of the rich man does not allow him to sleep.

13 There is a grievous evil which I have seen under the sun: [a]riches being [1]hoarded by their owner to his hurt.

14 When those riches were lost through [1]a bad investment and he had fathered a son, then there was nothing [2]to support him.

15 [a]As he had come naked from his mother's womb, so will he return as he came. He will [b]take nothing from the fruit of his labor that he can carry in his hand.

16 This also is a grievous evil—exactly as a man [1]is born, thus will he [2]die. So [a]what is the advantage to him who [b]toils for the wind?

17 Throughout his life [a]he also eats in darkness with [b]great vexation, sickness and anger.

18 Here is what I have seen to be [a]good and [1]fitting: to eat, to drink and [2]enjoy oneself in all one's labor in which he toils under the sun during the few [3]years of his life which God has given him; for this is his [4b]reward.

19 Furthermore, as for every man to whom [a]God has given riches and wealth, He has also [b]empowered him to eat from them and to receive his [1]reward and rejoice in his labor; this is the [c]gift of God.

20 For he will not often [1]consider the [2]years of his life, because [a]God keeps [3]him occupied with the gladness of his heart.

The Futility of Life

6 There is an [a]evil which I have seen under the sun and it is prevalent [1]among men—

2 a man to whom God has [a]given riches and wealth and honor so that his soul [b]lacks nothing of all that he desires; yet God has not empowered him to eat from them, for a foreigner [1]enjoys them. This is [2]vanity and a severe affliction.

3 If a man fathers a hundred children and lives many years, however many [1]they be, but his soul is not satisfied with good things and he does not even have a proper [a]burial, then I say, "Better [b]the miscarriage than he,

4 for it comes in futility and goes into obscurity; and its name is covered in obscurity.

5 "It never sees the sun and it never knows anything; [1]it is better off than he.

6 "Even if the other man lives a thousand years twice and does not [1]enjoy good things—[a]do not all go to one place?"

7 [a]All a man's labor is for his mouth and yet the [1]appetite is not [2]satisfied.

8 For [a]what advantage does the wise man have over the fool? What advantage does the poor man have, knowing how to walk before the living?

9 What the eyes [a]see is better than what the soul [1]desires. This too is [b]futility and a striving after wind.

10 Whatever [a]exists has already been named, and it is known what man is; for he [b]cannot dispute with him who is stronger than he is.

11 For there are many words which increase futility. What then is the advantage to a man?

12 For who knows what is good for a man during his lifetime, during the few [1]years of his futile life? He will [2]spend them like a shadow. For who can tell a man [a]what will be after him under the sun?

5:8 do not be shocked. For other frank appraisals of human society see 4:1–3. This teacher, like Jesus, who "knew what was in man" (John 2:25), had no illusions or utopian schemes.
5:10 Greater wealth does not bring satisfaction (see 1 Tim 6:9–10).
5:11–12 Greater wealth brings greater anxiety.
5:13 hurt. Including worry about his possessions.
5:15 He will take nothing. See Luke 12:14–21.
5:18–20 See note on 2:24–25.
6:2 enjoys. Comparing v. 2 with 5:19 demonstrates that the ability to enjoy God's blessings is a bonus—a gift of God, not a right or guarantee (see also vv.3,6). God calls the person who forgets this truth a fool (Luke 12:20).
6:3 does not even have a proper burial. Dies unlamented or dishonored, like King Jehoiakim (Jer 22:18–19). miscarriage. For the secularist, life is a pointless journey to extinction, to which miscarriage is the quickest and easiest route (cf. Job 3:16; Ps 58:8).
6:6 to one place. Still talking in terms of what we can observe (that all men die), not of what lies beyond death (see v. 12; 3:21).
6:7–12 In confronting complacency, the Preacher gives several causes for concern: the short-lived (v. 7), debatable (v. 8) and elusive (v. 9) rewards of life; the limits of our creativity, power and wisdom (vv. 10–11); and the unreliability of merely human values and predictions (v. 12).
6:10 named. Predetermined by God. known. Foreknown by God. him who is stronger than he is. Especially if the "stronger" one is God.
6:12 like a shadow. See 1 Chr 29:15.

Wisdom and Folly Contrasted

7 A [a]good name is better than a good ointment,
And the [b]day of one's death is better than the day of one's birth.
2 It is better to go to a house of mourning
Than to go to a house of feasting,
Because [1]that is the [a]end of every man,
And the living [2b]takes it to [3]heart.
3 [a]Sorrow is better than laughter,
For [b]when a face is sad a heart may be happy.
4 The [1]mind of the wise is in the house of mourning,
While the [1]mind of fools is in the house of pleasure.
5 It is better to [a]listen to the rebuke of a wise man
Than for one to listen to the song of fools.
6 For as the [1]crackling of [a]thorn bushes under a pot,
So is the [b]laughter of the fool;
And this too is futility.
7 For [a]oppression makes a wise man mad,
And a [b]bribe [1]corrupts the heart.
8 The [a]end of a matter is better than its beginning;
[b]Patience of spirit is better than haughtiness of spirit.
9 Do not be [1a]eager in your heart to be angry,
For anger resides in the bosom of fools.
10 Do not say, "Why is it that the former days were better than these?"
For it is not from wisdom that you ask about this.
11 Wisdom along with an inheritance is good
And an [a]advantage to those who see the sun.
12 For [a]wisdom is [1]protection just as money is [1]protection,
But the advantage of knowledge is that [b]wisdom preserves the lives of its possessors.
13 Consider the [a]work of God,
For who is [b]able to straighten what He has bent?
14 [a]In the day of prosperity be happy,
But [b]in the day of adversity consider—
God has made the one as well as the other
So that man will [c]not discover anything that will be after him.
15 I have seen everything during my [1a]lifetime of futility; there is [b]a righteous man who perishes in his righteousness and there is [c]a wicked man who prolongs his life in his wickedness.
16 Do not be excessively [a]righteous and do not [b]be overly wise. Why should you ruin yourself?
17 Do not be excessively wicked and do not be a fool. Why should you [a]die before your time?
18 It is good that you grasp one thing and also not [1]let go of the other; for the one who [a]fears God comes forth with [2]both of them.
19 [a]Wisdom strengthens a wise man more than ten rulers who are in a city.
20 Indeed, [a]there is not a righteous man on earth who continually does good and who never sins.
21 Also, do not [1]take seriously all words which are spoken, so that you will not hear your servant [a]cursing you.
22 For [1]you also have realized that you likewise have many times cursed others.
23 I tested all this with wisdom, and I said, "I will be wise," [a]but it was far from me.
24 What has been is remote and [a]exceedingly [1]mysterious. [b]Who can discover it?
25 I [1a]directed my [2]mind to know, to investigate and to seek wisdom and an explanation, and to know the evil of folly and the foolishness of madness.
26 And I discovered more [a]bitter than death the woman whose heart is [b]snares and nets, whose hands are chains. [c]One who is pleasing to God will escape from her, but [d]the sinner will be captured by her.

7:1 day of one's death is better. Omit "one's." The Christian has ample reason to say this (2 Cor 5:1–10; Phil 1:21–23). But the Preacher's point is valid, as explained in vv. 2–6, namely, that happy times generally teach us less than hard times.
7:7 bribe. See Matt 28:11–15; Luke 22:4–6.
7:9 anger. See, e.g., Prov 16:32; 17:14; 1 Cor 13:4–5.
7:12 preserves the lives. The Hebrew for this expression can also mean "gives life" or "renews life" (see Prov 3:13–18; 13:14).
7:13 who is able to straighten . . . ? Not fatalism, but a reminder of who is God. Man cannot change what God determines (see note on 1:15).
7:14 God has made the one [bad times] as well as the other [good times]. Cf. Rom 8:28–29.
7:15 righteous man who perishes. Righteousness is no sure protection against hard times or an early death.
7:16 not . . . excessively righteous . . . overly wise. If true righteousness and wisdom do not necessarily prevent ruin, then extreme, legalistic righteousness and wisdom will surely not help.
7:17 not . . . excessively wicked. Extreme wickedness is even more foolhardy.
7:18 one thing . . . the other. The God-fearing person will avoid both extremes (legalism and libertinism) and lead a balanced—truly righteous and wise—life.
7:20 not a righteous man on earth. A sober Biblical truth (see Rom 3:10–20).
7:24 See Job 28:12–28; 1 Cor 2:9–16.
7:26 See Prov 7:6–27.

27 "Behold, I have discovered this," says the Preacher, "adding one thing to another to find an explanation, 28 which [1]I am still seeking but have not found. I have found one man among a thousand, but I have not found a [a]woman among all these.

29 "Behold, I have found only this, that [a]God made men upright, but they have sought out many devices."

Obey Rulers

8 Who is like the wise man and who knows the interpretation of a matter? A man's wisdom [a]illumines [1]him and causes his [b]stern face to [2]beam.

2 I say, "Keep the [1]command of the king because of the [a]oath [2]before God.

3 "Do not be in a hurry [1a]to leave him. Do not join in an evil matter, for he will do whatever he pleases."

4 Since the word of the king is authoritative, [a]who will say to him, "What are you doing?"

5 He who [a]keeps a royal command [b]experiences no [1]trouble, for a wise heart knows the proper time and procedure.

6 For [a]there is a proper time and procedure for every delight, though a man's trouble is heavy upon him.

7 If no one [a]knows what will happen, who can tell him when it will happen?

8 [a]No man has authority to restrain the wind with the wind, or authority over the day of death; and there is no discharge in the time of war, and [b]evil will not deliver [1]those who practice it.

9 All this I have seen and applied my [1]mind to every deed that has been done under the sun wherein a man has exercised [a]authority over another man to his hurt.

10 So then, I have seen the wicked buried, those who used to go in and out from the holy place, and they are [a]soon forgotten in the city where they did thus. This too is futility.

11 Because the [a]sentence against an evil deed is not executed quickly, therefore [b]the hearts of the sons of men among them are given fully to do evil.

12 Although a sinner does evil a hundred times and may [a]lengthen his life, still I know that it will be [b]well for those who fear God, who fear [1]Him openly.

13 But it will [a]not be well for the evil man and he will not lengthen his days like a [b]shadow, because he does not fear God.

14 There is futility which is done on the earth, that is, there are [a]righteous men to whom it [1]happens according to the deeds of the wicked. On the other hand, there are [b]evil men to whom it [1]happens according to the deeds of the righteous. I say that this too is futility.

15 So I commended pleasure, for there is nothing good for [a]a man under the sun except to eat and to drink and to be merry, and this will stand by him in his [1]toils throughout the days of his life which God has given him under the sun.

16 When I [a]gave my heart to know wisdom and to see the task which has been done on the earth (even though one should [1][b]never sleep day or night), 17 and I saw every work of God, I concluded that [a]man cannot discover the work which has been done under the sun. Even though man should seek laboriously, he will not discover; and [b]though the wise man should say, "I know," he cannot discover.

Men Are in the Hand of God

9 For I have taken all this to my heart and explain [1]it that righteous men, wise men, and their deeds are [a]in the hand of God. [b]Man does not know whether it will be [c]love or hatred; anything [2]awaits him.

2 [a]It is the same for all. There is [b]one fate for the righteous and for the wicked; for the good, for the clean and for the unclean; for the man who offers a sacrifice and for the one who does not sacrifice. As the good man is, so is the sinner; as the swearer is, so is the one who [1]is afraid to swear.

7:27 Preacher. See note on 1:1. adding one thing to another to find an explanation. This inductive method can never be complete, nor can we reliably interpret all that we manage to observe (3:11b). Human wisdom and understanding must always yield to revealed truth.

7:29 God made men upright, but. See Gen 3:1–6; Rom 5:12.

8:2 command of the king. Both principle (v. 2) and prudence (vv. 3–6) set limits on our freedom. the oath. Of loyalty to the king (as seen, e.g., in 1 Chr 29:24).

8:4 who will say . . . , "What are you doing?" Cf. Is 45:9; Rom 9:20.

8:6 a man's trouble. One should put the king's command above his own misery.

8:7–8 no one knows . . . . No man has authority. See Ps 31:15; 2Cor 5:1–10; James 4:13–16.

8:10 the wicked buried. In this context it implies undeserved respect (see note on 6:3; cf. Job 21:28–33; Luke 16:22).

8:11 Delayed punishment tends to induce more wrongdoing.

8:12 I know. Here the Preacher speaks from mature faith, not as one "still seeking" but not finding (7:28). For similar declarations see 3:17; 11:9; 12:14.

8:14 Job 21–24 enlarges on this; Ps 73 draws the sting of it; and John 5:28–29 gives the final explanation.

8:15 eat . . . drink . . . be merry. Spoken gratefully (see 5:19; 9:7; Deut 8). For such words spoken arrogantly see Luke 12:19–20; 1 Cor 15:32.

8:17 man cannot discover. Deut 29:29 sums up what we are allowed and not allowed to know.

9:1 whether . . . love or hatred. The future is under God's control, and no one knows whether that future will be good or bad.

9:2 the same for all. Not only the wise and foolish (2:14), but also the good and the bad are seen leveled, in the sense noted at 3:20. For the Preacher's conviction (beyond mere observation) that God ultimately will see justice done see note on 8:12.

3 This is an evil in all that is done under the sun, that there is [a]one fate for all men. Furthermore, [b]the hearts of the sons of men are full of evil and [c]insanity is in their hearts throughout their lives. Afterwards they go to the dead.

4 For whoever is joined with all the living, there is hope; surely a live dog is better than a dead lion.

5 For the living know they will die; but the dead [a]do not know anything, nor have they any longer a reward, for their [b]memory is forgotten.

6 Indeed their love, their hate and their zeal have already perished, and they will no longer have a [a]share in all that is done under the sun.

7 Go then, [a]eat your bread in happiness and drink your wine with a cheerful heart; for God has already approved your works.

8 Let your [a]clothes be white all the time, and let not [b]oil be lacking on your head.

9 Enjoy life with the woman whom you love all the days of your [1a]fleeting life which He has given to you under the sun[2]; for this is your [b]reward in life and in your toil in which you have labored under the sun.

Whatever Your Hand Finds to Do

10 Whatever your hand finds to do, [a]do it with all your might; for there is no [b]activity or planning or knowledge or wisdom in [c]Sheol where you are going.

11 I again saw under the sun that the [a]race is not to the swift and the [b]battle is not to the warriors, and neither is bread to the wise nor [c]wealth to the discerning nor favor to men of ability; for time and [d]chance overtake them all.

12 Moreover, man does not [a]know his time: like fish caught in a treacherous net and [b]birds trapped in a snare, so the sons of men are [c]ensnared at an evil time when it [d]suddenly falls on them.

13 Also this I came to see as wisdom under the sun, and [1]it impressed me.

14 There [a]was a small city with few men in it and a great king came to it, surrounded it and constructed large siegeworks against it.

15 But there was found in it a [a]poor wise man and he [1]delivered the city [b]by his wisdom. Yet [c]no one remembered that poor man.

16 So I said, "[a]Wisdom is better than strength." But the wisdom of the poor man is despised and his words are not heeded.

17 The [a]words of the wise heard in quietness are better than the shouting of a ruler among fools.

18 [a]Wisdom is better than weapons of war, but [b]one sinner destroys much good.

A Little Foolishness

10 Dead flies make a [a]perfumer's oil stink, so a little foolishness is weightier than wisdom and honor.

2 A wise man's heart directs him toward the right, but the foolish [a]man's heart directs him toward the left.

3 Even when the fool walks along the road, his [1]sense is lacking and he [2a]demonstrates to everyone that he is a fool.

4 If the ruler's [1]temper rises against you, [a]do not abandon your position, because [b]composure allays great offenses.

5 There is an evil I have seen under the sun, like an error which goes forth from the ruler—

6 [a]folly is set in many exalted places while rich men sit in humble places.

7 I have seen [a]slaves riding [b]on horses and princes walking like slaves on the land.

8 [a]He who digs a pit may fall into it, and a [b]serpent may bite him who breaks through a wall.

9 He who quarries stones may be hurt by them, and he who splits logs may be endangered by them.

10 If the [1]axe is dull and he does not sharpen its edge, then he must [2]exert more strength. Wisdom has the advantage of giving success.

11 If the serpent bites [1a]before being charmed, there is no profit for the charmer.

12 [a]Words from the mouth of a wise man are gracious, while the lips of a [b]fool consume him;

12 [a]Prov 10:32; 22:11; Luke 4:22 [b]Prov 10:14; 18:7; Eccl 4:5

9:3 evil . . . evil. The apparently common destiny (both the righteous and the wicked die) encourages some people to sin.
9:5 nor . . . any longer a reward. The dead have lost all opportunity in this life for enjoyment and reward from labor (see v. 6).
9:7–9 The Babylonian Epic of Gilgamesh contains a section (10.3.6–14) remarkably similar to this passage, illustrating the international flavor of ancient wisdom literature (see chart, p. xix).
9:7 See note on 8:15.
9:10 Cf. Col 3:23.
9:11 time and chance. Success is uncertain—more evidence that man does not ultimately control events.
9:12 time. Of disaster. men are ensnared. Success is unpredictable, because man is not wise enough to know when misfortune may overtake him.
9:15 Yet no one remembered. Further warning against placing too high hopes on one's wisdom. Its reputation fades, its good is soon undone (v. 18b), and it has no answer to death (2:15–16).
10:1 a little foolishness is weightier. 2 Kin 20:12–19 presents a striking example.
10:2 toward the right . . . toward the left. These can stand for the greater and the lesser good (cf. Gen 48:13–20); or perhaps here, as in some later Jewish writings, for good and evil.
10:5 error . . . from the ruler. For the Preacher's observations on human regimes see vv. 4,6–7,16–17,20; 3:16; 4:1–3,13–16; 5:8–9; 8:2–6,10–11; 9:17.
10:12 Words. A favorite topic in wisdom literature (see, e.g., Prov 15).

13 the beginning of [1]his talking is folly and the end of [2]it is wicked [a]madness.
14 Yet the [a]fool multiplies words. No man knows what will happen, and who can tell him [b]what will come after him?
15 The toil of [1]a fool so wearies him that he does not even know how to go to a city.
16 Woe to you, O land, whose [a]king is a lad and whose princes [1]feast in the morning.
17 Blessed are you, O land, whose king is of nobility and whose princes eat at the appropriate time—for strength and not for [a]drunkenness.
18 Through [a]indolence the rafters sag, and through slackness the house leaks.
19 Men prepare a meal for enjoyment, and
[a]wine makes life merry, and [b]money [1]is the answer to everything.
20 Furthermore, [a]in your bedchamber do not [b]curse a king, and in your sleeping rooms do not curse a rich man, for a bird of the heavens will carry the sound and the winged creature will make the matter known.

Cast Your Bread on the Waters

11 [a]Cast your bread on the surface of the waters, for you [a]will find it [1]after many days.
2 [a]Divide your portion to seven, or even to eight, for you do not know what [b]misfortune may occur on the earth.
3 If the clouds are full, they pour out rain upon the earth; and whether a tree falls toward the south or toward the north, wherever the tree falls, there it [1]lies.
4 He who watches the wind will not sow and he who looks at the clouds will not reap.
5 Just as you do not [a]know [1]the path of the wind and [b]how bones are formed in the womb of the [2]pregnant woman, so you do not [c]know the activity of God who makes all things.

know whether [2]morning or evening sowing will succeed, or whether both of them alike will be good.
7 The light is pleasant, and it is good for the eyes to [a]see the sun.
8 Indeed, if a man should live many years, let him [a]rejoice in them all, and let him remember the [b]days of darkness, for they will be many. Everything that is to come will be futility.
9 Rejoice, young man, during your childhood, and let your heart be pleasant during the days of young manhood. And follow the [1]impulses of your heart and the [2a]desires of your eyes. Yet know that [b]God will bring you to judgment for all these things.
10 So, remove grief and anger from your heart and put away [1a]pain from your body, because childhood and the prime of life are fleeting.

Remember God in Your Youth

12 [a]Remember also your Creator in the days of your youth, before the [b]evil days come and the years draw near when you will say, "I have no delight in them";
2 before the [a]sun and the light, the moon and the stars are darkened, and clouds return after the rain;
3 in the day that the watchmen of the house tremble, and mighty men [a]stoop, the grinding ones stand idle because they are few, and [b]those who look through [1]windows grow dim;
4 and the doors on the street are shut as the [a]sound of the grinding mill is low, and one will arise at the sound of the bird, and all the [b]daughters of song will [1]sing softly.

4 [1]Lit be brought low [a]Jer 25:10; Rev 18:22 [b]2 Sam 19:35

10:15 does not even know how to go to a city. Since in Scripture a fool is one who refuses God's teaching (see note on 5:4), this caustic saying (probably proverbial) refers to more than mere stupidity.
10:16 whose king is a lad. A small-minded upstart, not a "poor yet wise lad" as in 4:13. See 2 Kin 15:8–25; Hos 7:3–7, which portray some of the short-lived usurpers and vicious courtiers who hastened the downfall of Israel.
10:18 indolence . . . slackness. See note on 4:5.
10:19 money is the answer to everything. Can be read at various levels—as a wry comment on human values, as sober advice to earn a good living rather than have a good time (see the first two lines) or as stating the great versatility of money (cf. Luke 16:9).
11:1 Cast your bread on the . . . waters. Be adventurous, like those who accept the risks and reap the benefits of seaborne trade. Do not always play it safe (see Prov 11:24).
11:2 Divide your portion to seven. Be generous while you have plenty; unforeseen disasters may make you dependent on the generosity of others.
11:3–6 clouds . . . tree . . . wind . . . seed. Do not toy with maybes and might-have-beens. Start where you can, and recognize how limited your role (or knowledge) is.
11:5 wind. See NASB marg.; cf. John 3:8 ("wind" and "spirit" translate the same word in the original in both verses).
11:7–10 Live life to the fullest.
11:8,10 futility . . . fleeting. Warns against letting the wonderful gifts mentioned in vv. 7–10 dazzle and distract us. Verse 9 sets us on the true course.
11:9 judgment. See 12:14 and note. The prospect of divine praise or blame makes every detail of life significant rather than meaningless. To know this gives direction to our heart and discrimination to our eyes. The stage is set for ch. 12.
12:2–5 A graphic description of man's progressive deterioration; an allegory of aging.
12:3 watchmen of the house. This and the other metaphors may refer to parts of the body (hands, legs, etc.). But the imagery should not be pressed to the extent that it destroys the poetry, which moves freely between figures such as darkness, storm, a house in decline and a deserted well, and such literal descriptions as in v. 5a.

5 Furthermore, [1]men are afraid of a high place and of terrors on the road; the almond tree blossoms, the grasshopper drags himself along, and the caperberry is ineffective. For man goes to his eternal [a]home while [b]mourners go about in the street.

6 Remember Him before the silver cord is [1]broken and the [a]golden bowl is crushed, the pitcher by the well is shattered and the wheel at the cistern is crushed;

7 then the [a]dust will return to the earth as it was, and the [1b]spirit will return to [c]God who gave it.

8 "[a]Vanity of vanities," says the Preacher,
"all is vanity!"

Purpose of the Preacher

9 In addition to being a wise man, the Preacher also taught the people knowledge;
and he pondered, searched out and arranged
[a]many proverbs.

5 [1]Lit they [a]Job 17:13; 30:23 [b]Gen 50:10; Jer 9:17
6 [1]So with Gr; Heb removed [a]Zech 4:2, 3

8 [a]Eccl 1:2
9 [a]1 Kin 4:32

10 The Preacher sought to find [a]delightful words and to write [b]words of truth correctly.

11 The [a]words of wise men are like [b]goads, and masters of these collections are like [1]well-driven [c]nails; they are given by one Shepherd.

12 But beyond this, my son, be warned:
the [1]writing of [a]many books is endless, and excessive [b]devotion to books is wearying to the body.

13 The conclusion, when all has been heard, is: [a]fear God and [b]keep His commandments, because this applies to [c]every person.

14 For [a]God will bring every act to judgment, everything which is hidden, whether it is good or evil.

14 [a]Eccl 3:17; 11:9; Matt 10:26; Rom 2:16; 1 Cor 4:5

12:5 almond tree. Its pale blossom possibly suggests the white hair of age. grasshopper. Normally agile, its slow movements on a cold morning (cf. Nah 3:17) recall the stiffness of old age. eternal home. In context, probably points simply to the grave, not beyond it (cf. Job 10:21; 17:13).
12:6 silver cord . . . golden bowl. A hanging lamp suspended by a silver chain. If only one link snaps, this light and beauty will perish, suggesting how fragile life is.
12:8 Vanity. Such is life "under the sun" (on earth, apart from God), ending in brokenness. But with a relationship to our Creator already demanded (v. 1), and with the fact of His judgment affirmed (11:9), vanity is not the last word. Preacher. See note on 1:1.
12:9 pondered, searched. The rigorous process on man's side, with no pains spared in seeking truth and comprehension.
12:11 given by one Shepherd. The other side of the matter, recognizing that Scripture is in a class of its own, as v. 12 insists.
12:13–14 The chief end of man.
12:13 fear God. Loving reverence is the foundation of wisdom (Ps 111:10; Prov 1:7; 9:10), as well as its content (Job 28:28) and its goal and conclusion. this applies to every person. To "fear God" is our fulfillment, our all—a far cry from "vanity."
12:14 every act to judgment. Glimpses of this truth are given at intervals in the book: 3:17; 8:12–13; 11:9 and note; see Matt 12:36; 1 Cor 3:12–15; 2 Cor 5:9–10; Heb 4:12–13. everything which is hidden. See Rom 2:16.

Song of Solomon

INTRODUCTION

Title

The title in the Hebrew text is "Solomon's Song of Songs," meaning a song by, for, or about Solomon. The phrase "Song of Songs" means the greatest of songs (cf. Deut 10:17, "God of gods and the Lord of lords"; 1 Tim 6:15, "King of kings").

Author and Date

Verse 1 appears to ascribe authorship to Solomon (see note on 1:1; but see also Title above). Solomon is referred to seven times (1:1,5; 3:7,9,11; 8:11–12), and several verses speak of the "king" (1:4,12; 7:5), but whether he was the author remains an open question.

To date the Song in the tenth century B.C. during Solomon's reign is not impossible. In fact, mention of Tirzah and Jerusalem in one breath (6:4) has been used to prove a date prior to King Omri (885–874 B.C.; see 1 Kin 16:23–24), though the reason for Tirzah's mention is not clear. On the other hand, many have appealed to the language of the Song as proof of a much later date, but on present evidence the linguistic data are ambiguous.

Consistency of language, style, tone, perspective and recurring refrains seems to argue for a single author. However, many who have doubted that the Song came from one pen, or even from one time or place, explain this consistency by ascribing all the Song's parts to a single literary tradition, since Near Eastern traditions were very careful to maintain stylistic uniformity.

Interpretation

To find the key for unlocking the Song, interpreters have looked to prophetic, wisdom and apocalyptic passages of Scripture, as well as to ancient Egyptian and Babylonian love songs, traditional Semitic wedding songs and songs related to ancient Mesopotamian fertility cults. The closest parallels appear to be those found in Proverbs (see Prov 5:15–20; 6:24–29; 7:6–23). The description of love in 8:6–7 (cf. the descriptions of wisdom found in Prov 1—9 and Job 28) seems to confirm that the Song belongs to Biblical wisdom literature and that it is wisdom's description of an amorous relationship. The Bible speaks of both wisdom and love as gifts of God, to be received with gratitude and celebration.

This understanding of the Song contrasts with the long-held view that the Song is an allegory of the love relationship between God and Israel, or between Christ and the church, or between Christ and the soul (the NT nowhere quotes from or even alludes to the Song). It is also distinct from more modern interpretations of the Song, such as that which sees it as a poetic drama celebrating the triumph of a maiden's pure, spontaneous love for her rustic shepherd lover over the courtly blandishments of Solomon, who sought to win her for his royal harem. Rather, it views the Song as a linked chain of lyrics depicting love in all its spontaneity, beauty, power and exclusiveness—experienced in its varied moments of separation and intimacy, anguish and ecstasy, tension and contentment. The Song shares with the love poetry of many cultures its extensive use of highly sensuous and suggestive imagery drawn from nature.

Theme and Theology

In ancient Israel everything human came to expression in words: reverence, gratitude, anger, sorrow, suffering, trust, friendship, commitment, loyalty, hope, wisdom, moral outrage, repentance. In the Song, it is love that finds words—inspired words that disclose its exquisite charm and beauty as one of God's choicest gifts. The voice of love in the Song, like that of wisdom in Prov 8:1—9:12, is a woman's voice, suggesting that love and wisdom draw men powerfully with the subtlety and mystery of a woman's allurements.

This feminine voice speaks profoundly of love. She portrays its beauty and delights. She claims its exclusiveness ("My beloved is mine, and I am his," 2:16) and insists on the necessity of its pure spontaneity ("Do not arouse or awaken my love until she pleases," 2:7; see NASB marg.). She also proclaims its overwhelming power — it rivals that of the fearsome enemy, death; it burns with the intensity of a blazing fire; it is unquenchable even by the ocean depths (8:6–7a). She affirms its preciousness: All a man's possessions cannot purchase it, nor (alternatively) should they be exchanged for it (8:7b). She hints, without saying so explicitly (see 8:6), that it is a gift of the Lord to man.

God intends that such love — grossly distorted and abused by both ancient and modern people — be a normal part of marital life in His good creation (see Gen 1:26–31; 2:24).

Literary Features

No one who reads the Song with care can question the artistry of the poet. The subtle delicacy with which he evokes intense sensuous awareness while avoiding crude titillation is one of the chief marks of his achievement. This he accomplishes largely by indirection, by analogy and by bringing to the foreground the sensuous in the world of nature (or in food, drink, cosmetics and jewelry). To liken a lover's enjoyment of his beloved to one who "pastures his flock among the lilies" (2:16), or her breasts to "two fawns, twins of a gazelle which feed among the lilies" (4:5), or the beloved herself to a garden filled with choice fruits inviting the lover to feast (4:12–16) — these combine exquisite artistry and fine sensitivity.

Whether the Song has the unity of a single dramatic line linking all the subunits into a continuing story is a matter of ongoing debate among interpreters. There do appear to be connected scenes in the love relationship (see Outline).

Virtually all agree that the literary climax of the Song is found in 8:6–7, where the unsurpassed power and value of love — the love that draws man and woman together — are finally expressly asserted. Literary relaxation follows the intenseness of that declaration. A final expression of mutual desire between the lovers brings the Song to an end, suggesting that love goes on. This last segment (8:8–14) is in some sense also a return to the beginning, as references to the beloved's brothers, to her vineyard and to Solomon (the king) link 8:8–12 with 1:2–6.

In this song of love the voice of the beloved is dominant. It is her experience of love, both as the one who loves and as the one who is loved, that is most clearly expressed. The Song begins with her wish for the lover's kiss and ends with her urgent invitation to him for love's intimacy.

The Young Shulammite Bride and Jerusalem's Daughters

1 The [1]Song of [a]Songs, which is Solomon's.
2 "[1]May he kiss me with the kisses of his mouth!
For your [a]love is better than wine.
3 "Your [a]oils have a pleasing fragrance,
Your [b]name is like [1]purified oil;
Therefore the [2c]maidens love you.
4 "Draw me after you and let us run
together!
The [a]king has brought me into his chambers."

"[1]We will rejoice in you and be glad;
We will [2]extol your [b]love more than wine.
Rightly do they love you."

5 "[1]I am black but [a]lovely,
O [b]daughters of Jerusalem,
Like the [c]tents of [d]Kedar,
Like the curtains of Solomon.
6 "Do not stare at me because I am
[1]swarthy,
For the sun has burned me.
My [a]mother's sons were angry with
me;
They made me [b]caretaker of the vineyards,
But I have not taken care of my own vineyard.
7 "Tell me, O you [a]whom my soul loves,

Solomon, the Lover, Speaks

8 "[1]If you yourself do not know,
[a]Most beautiful among women,
Go forth on the trail of the flock
And pasture your young goats
By the tents of the shepherds.

9 "[1]To me, [a]my darling, you are like
My [b]mare among the chariots of Pharaoh.
10 "Your [a]cheeks are lovely with ornaments,
Your neck with strings of [b]beads."

11 "[1]We will make for you ornaments of gold
With beads of silver."

12 "[1]While the king was at his [2]table,
My [3a]perfume gave forth its fragrance.
13 "My beloved is to me a pouch of
[a]myrrh
Which lies all night between my breasts.
14 "My beloved is to me a cluster of
[a]henna blossoms
In the vineyards of [b]Engedi."

13 [a]Ps 45:8; John 19:39 14 [a]Song 4:13 [b]1 Sam 23:29

1:1 Song of Songs. Greatest of songs (see Introduction: Title). 1 Kin 4:32 says that Solomon wrote 1,005 songs. Solomon's. See Introduction: Title; Author and Date.

1:2–3 kisses . . . your love . . . Your oils. Cf. 4:10–11, "your love . . . your oils . . . Your lips."

1:2 he . . . his . . . your. These pronouns all refer to the same person, the lover (Solomon). love. Expressions of love—caresses, embraces and consummation (see v. 4; 4:10; 7:12; see also Prov 7:18; Ezek 16:8; 23:17). better than wine. See v. 4. In 4:10 the lover speaks similarly of the beloved's love.

1:3 oils . . . fragrance. Aromatic spices and gums blended in cosmetic oil. Your name. The very mention of the lover's name fills the air as with a pleasant aroma. The Hebrew words for "name" and "fragrance" sound alike. maidens. Probably young women of the court or of the royal city (see 6:8–9).

1:4 king. Solomon. his chambers. The king's private quarters. We. Probably the maidens of v. 3. extol your love more than wine. For the reason given in v. 2.

1:5 black. Deeply browned by the sun (see v. 6); not considered desirable. daughters of Jerusalem. Probably the maidens of v. 3. tents . . . curtains. Handwoven from black goat hair. Kedar. See note on Is 21:16.

1:6 my own vineyard. Her body, as in 8:12 (see 2:15). Vineyard is an apt metaphor since it yields wine, and the excitements of love are compared with those produced by wine (see note on v. 2). The beloved is also compared to a garden, yielding precious fruits for the lover (see note on 4:12).

1:7 whom my soul loves. See 3:1. Where do you pasture your flock . . . ? The lover is portrayed as a shepherd. In v. 8 the beloved is depicted as a shepherdess. noon. A time of rest in warm climates. one who veils herself. Prostitute (see Gen 38:14–15). The beloved does not wish to look for her lover among the shepherds, appearing as though she were a prostitute.

1:8 beautiful. The beloved; also in v. 15; 2:10,13; 4:1,7; 5:9; 6:1,4,10. The lover is called "handsome" in v. 16 (in Hebrew the same word as that for "beautiful"). your young goats. The beloved is pictured as a shepherdess (see v. 7). By the tents of the shepherds. The beloved is instructed to learn where the lover is by joining the shepherds in the fields.

1:9 my darling. Used only of the beloved (see note on v. 13). mare. A flattering comparison, similar to Theocritus's praise of the beautiful Helen of Troy (Idyl, 18.30–31). among the chariots of Pharaoh. Her beauty attracts attention the way a mare would among the Egyptian chariot stallions. According to 1 Kin 10:28, Solomon imported horses from Egypt.

1:11 We. Perhaps the "daughters of Jerusalem" (v. 5).

1:12 king. Solomon. at his table. Reclining on his couch at the table. My perfume. Nard, an aromatic oil extracted from the roots of a perennial herb that grows in India (see 4:13–14; Mark 14:3; John 12:3).

1:13 My beloved. Used only of the lover (see note on v. 9). myrrh. An aromatic gum exuding from the bark of a balsam tree that grows in Arabia, Ethiopia and India. It was commonly used as an alluring feminine perfume (Esth 2:12; Prov 7:17). It was also used to perfume royal nuptial robes (Ps 45:8). The Magi brought myrrh to the young Jesus as a gift fit for a king (Matt 2:2,11). Myrrh was an ingredient in the holy anointing oil (Ex 30:23).

1:14 henna. A shrub of the Holy Land (perhaps the cypress) with tightly clustered, aromatic blossoms. Engedi. An oasis

15 "[1,2a]How beautiful you are, my darling,
[2]How beautiful you are!
Your [b]eyes are like doves."

16 "[1,2]How handsome you are, [a]my beloved,
And so pleasant!
Indeed, our couch is luxuriant!
17 "The beams of our houses are [a]cedars,
Our rafters, [1b]cypresses.

The Bride's Admiration

2 "[1]I am the [2a]rose of [b]Sharon,
The [c]lily of the valleys."

2 "[1]Like a lily among the thorns,
So is [a]my darling among the
[2]maidens."

3 "[1]Like an [2a]apple tree among the trees of the forest,
So is my beloved among the [3]young
men.
In his shade I took great delight and sat down,
And his [b]fruit was sweet to my [4]taste.
4 "He has [a]brought me to his [1]banquet hall,
And his [b]banner over me is love.
5 "Sustain me with [a]raisin cakes,
Refresh me with [1b]apples,
Because [c]I am lovesick.
6 "Let [a]his left hand be under my head
And [a]his right hand [b]embrace me."

7 "[1]I [a]adjure you, O [b]daughters of Jerusalem,
By the [c]gazelles or by the [d]hinds of
the field,
[a]That you do not arouse or awaken my love
Until [2]she pleases."

8 "[1]Listen! My beloved!
Behold, he is coming,
Climbing [a]on the mountains,
Leaping on the hills!
9 "My beloved is like a [a]gazelle or a
[b]young [1]stag.
Behold, he is standing behind our wall,
He is looking through the windows,
He is peering [c]through the lattice.

10 "My beloved responded and said to me,
'[a]Arise, my darling, my beautiful one,
And come along.
11 'For behold, the winter is past,
The rain is over and gone.
12 'The flowers have already appeared in the land;
The time has arrived for [1]pruning the vines,
And the voice of the [a]turtledove has been heard in our land.
13 'The [a]fig tree has ripened its figs,
And the [b]vines in blossom have given forth their fragrance.
Arise, my darling, my beautiful one,
And come along!' "

14 "[1]O [a]my dove, [b]in the clefts of the [2]rock,
In the secret place of the steep
[3]pathway,
Let me see your [4]form,
[c]Let me hear your voice;
For your voice is sweet,
And your [4]form is [d]lovely."

vineyards,
While our [b]vineyards are in blossom."

watered by a spring, located on the west side of the Dead Sea. David sought refuge there from King Saul (1 Sam 24:1).

1:15 How beautiful . . . darling. See 4:1; 6:4; cf. v. 16. my darling. See note on v. 9. doves. See 4:1.

1:16 handsome. See note on v. 8 ("beautiful"). luxuriant. The lovers lie together in the field under the trees.

2:1 rose. Possibly a member of the crocus family (see NASB marg.; see also Is 35:1–2). Sharon. The fertile coastal plain south of Mount Carmel (see map No. 2 at the end of the study Bible). lily. Probably either lotus or anemone.

2:2 my darling. See note on 1:9. maidens. See note on 1:3.

2:3 apple tree. The precise nature of this fruit tree is uncertain.

2:4 banner. See 6:4; Num 2:2; Ps 20:5. The king's love for her is displayed for all to see, like a large military banner.

2:5 raisin cakes . . . apples. Probably metaphors for love's caresses and embraces.

2:7 A recurring refrain in the Song (see 3:5; 8:4; cf. 5:8). It is always spoken by the beloved and always in a context of physical intimacy with her lover. adjure. Place under oath. daughters of Jerusalem. See note on 1:5. gazelles . . . hinds. Perhaps in the imaginative language of love the gazelles and hinds are portrayed as witnesses to the oath. This would be in harmony with the author's frequent reference to nature. Until she pleases. Out of the beloved's experience of love comes wise admonition that love is not to be artificially stimulated; utter spontaneity is essential to its genuine truth and beauty.

2:9 gazelle. Celebrated for its form and beauty. young stag. An apt simile for youthful vigor (cf. Is 35:6). looking . . . lattice. The eager lover tries to catch sight of the beloved while she is still preparing herself for their meeting.

2:10 Arise . . . come along. See v. 13; cf. 7:11–13. my beautiful one. See note on 1:8.

2:11–13 The first signs of spring appear (see 6:11; 7:12)—the time of love.

2:14 dove . . . of the steep pathway. Cf. Ps 55:6–8; Jer 48:28.

2:15 Perhaps spoken by the beloved. vineyards. As in 1:6 ("my own vineyard"), probably a metaphor for the lovers' physical beauty. Thus the desire is expressed that the lovers be kept safe from whatever ("foxes") might mar their mutual attractiveness. in blossom. Their attractiveness is in its prime.

16 "[1][a]My beloved is mine, and I am his;
He [b]pastures his flock among the lilies.
17 "[a]Until [1]the cool of the day when the shadows flee away,
Turn, my beloved, and be like a [b]gazelle
Or a young stag [c]on the mountains of [2]Bether."

The Bride's Troubled Dream

3 "[1]On my bed night after night I sought him
[a]Whom my soul loves;
I [b]sought him but did not find him.
2 '[1]I must arise now and [1]go about the city;
In the [a]streets and in the squares
[2]I must seek him whom my soul loves.'
I sought him but did not find him.
3 "[a]The watchmen who make the rounds in the city found me,
And I said, 'Have you seen him whom my soul loves?'
4 "[a]Scarcely had I [1]left them
When I found him whom my soul loves;
I [b]held on to him and would not let him go
Until I had [c]brought him to my mother's house,
And into the room of her who conceived me."

5 "[1]I [a]adjure you, O daughters of Jerusalem,

Solomon's Wedding Day

6 "[1,2][a]What is this coming up from the wilderness
Like [b]columns of smoke,
Perfumed with [c]myrrh and [d]frankincense,
With all scented powders of the merchant?
7 "Behold, it is the traveling couch of Solomon;
Sixty mighty men around it,
Of the mighty men of Israel.
8 "All of them are wielders of the sword,
[a]Expert in war;
Each man has his [b]sword at his side,
Guarding against the [1][c]terrors of the night.
9 "King Solomon has made for himself a sedan chair
From the timber of Lebanon.
10 "He made its posts of silver,
Its [1]back of gold
And its seat of purple fabric,
With its interior lovingly fitted out
By the [a]daughters of Jerusalem.
11 "Go forth, O [a]daughters of Zion,
And gaze on King Solomon with the [1]crown
With which his mother has crowned him
On the [b]day of his wedding,
And on the day of his gladness of heart."

Solomon's Love Expressed

4 "[1,2]How beautiful [a]you are, my darling,
[2]How beautiful you are!
Your [b]eyes are like doves [c]behind your veil;
Your [d]hair is like a flock of goats
That have descended from Mount [e]Gilead.

2:16 My beloved is mine, and I am his. See 6:3; 7:10. They belong to each other exclusively in a relationship that allows no intrusion. pastures . . . among the lilies. The lover is compared to a gazelle (see v. 17). The pasturing is a metaphor for the lover's intimate enjoyment of her charms (see 6:2–3).

3:1 This verse begins a new moment in love's experience. night after night. Night, with its freedom from the distractions of the day, allows the heart to be filled with its own preoccupations.

3:3 watchmen. Were stationed at the city gates (see Neh 3:29; 11:19; 13:22) and on the walls (see 5:7; 2 Sam 13:34; 18:24–27; 2 Kin 9:17–20; Ps 127:1; Is 52:8; 62:6). Apparently they also patrolled the streets at night (see 5:7).

3:4 mother's. Mothers are referred to frequently in the Song; fathers are never mentioned.

3:5 See note on 2:7. Once again the charge occurs at the moment of intimacy.

3:6–11 Perhaps spoken by friends (see 8:5). If so, this section probably portrays the wedding procession of Solomon and his bride approaching the city.

3:6 This verse begins a new moment in the relationship. What . . . wilderness. See 8:5, where the reference is to the beloved. wilderness. Uncultivated seasonal grasslands. smoke. Incense (see note on Ex 30:34). of the merchant. Imported.

3:7 couch. A richly adorned royal conveyance, a palanquin (see vv. 9–10).

3:8 terrors of the night. See Ps 91:5.

3:10 posts. Supporting the canopy. silver . . . gold. Probably metals that overlay the Lebanon wood. purple. See notes on 7:5; Ex 25:4.

3:11 daughters of Zion. Elsewhere "daughters of Jerusalem" (see note on 1:5). crown. A wedding wreath (see Is 61:10). mother. See note on v. 4. Here the reference is to Bathsheba.

4:1–7 For other exuberant descriptions of the beloved's beauty see 6:4–9; 7:1–7.

4:1b–2 See 6:5b–6.

4:1 How beautiful . . . darling. See 1:15 and note. eyes . . . behind your veil. With the rest of her face concealed, the lover's attention is focused on the beloved's eyes. doves. See 1:15 and note. flock of goats. The goats of Canaan were usually black (see note on 1:5). The lover's hair was also black (5:11). descended from Mount Gilead. The beloved's black tresses flowing from her head remind the lover of a flock of sleek black goats streaming down one of the hills of Gilead (noted for its good pasturage).

2 "Your [a]teeth are like a flock of newly shorn ewes
Which have come up from their washing,
All of which bear twins,
And not one among them has [1]lost her young.
3 "Your lips are like a [a]scarlet thread,
And your [b]mouth is lovely.
Your [c]temples are like a slice of a pomegranate
Behind your veil.
4 "Your [a]neck is like the tower of David,
Built [1]with rows of stones
On which are [b]hung a thousand shields,
All the round [c]shields of the mighty men.
5 "Your [a]two breasts are like two fawns,
Twins of a gazelle
Which [b]feed among the lilies.
6 "[a]Until [1]the cool of the day
When the shadows flee away,
I will go my way to the mountain of [b]myrrh
And to the hill of [b]frankincense.

7 "[a]You are altogether beautiful, my darling,
And there is no blemish in you.
8 "Come with me from [a]Lebanon, my [b]bride,
May you come with me from Lebanon.
[1]Journey down from the summit of [c]Amana,
From the summit of [d]Senir and Hermon,
From the dens of lions,
From the mountains of leopards.
9 "You have made my heart beat faster, [a]my sister, my bride;
You have made my heart beat faster
With a single glance of your eyes,
With a single strand of your [b]necklace.
10 "[a]How beautiful is your love, my sister, my bride!
How much [b]better is your love than wine,
And the [c]fragrance of your oils
Than all kinds of [1]spices!
11 "Your lips, my bride, [a]drip [b]honey;
Honey and milk are under your tongue,
And the fragrance of your garments is like the [c]fragrance of Lebanon.
12 "A garden locked is my sister, my bride,
A [1]rock garden locked, a [a]spring [b]sealed up.
13 "Your shoots are an [1][a]orchard of [b]pomegranates
With [c]choice fruits, [d]henna with nard plants,
14 [a]Nard and saffron, calamus and [b]cinnamon,
With all the trees of [c]frankincense,
[d]Myrrh and aloes, along with all the finest [1]spices.

4:8 To the lover the beloved seems to have withdrawn as if to a remote mountain. Lebanon . . . Amana . . . Hermon. Mountain peaks on the northern horizon. Senir. Amorite name for Mount Hermon (Deut 3:9).
4:9 my sister. For lovers to address each other as "brother" and "sister" was common in the love poetry of the ancient Near East (see vv. 10,12; 5:1). single glance of your eyes. See 6:5 and note.
4:10 better . . . than wine. See note on 1:2. fragrance of your oils. See 1:3. spices. See v. 14; 5:1,13; 6:2; 8:14. Spice was an imported luxury item (see 1 Kin 10:2,10,25; Ezek 27:22). Spices were used for fragrance in the holy anointing oil (Ex 25:6; 30:23–25; 35:8) and for fragrant incense (Ex 25:6; 35:8) as well as for perfume.
4:11 Your lips . . . drip honey. The beloved speaks to him of love (cf. Prov 5:3; 16:24). People in the ancient Near East associated sweetness with the delights of love. Honey and milk. Perhaps reminiscent of the description of the promised land (see note on Ex 3:8). under your tongue. See Job 20:12; Ps 10:7.
4:12 garden. A place of sensual delights (see v. 16; 5:1; 6:2; see also note on 1:6). locked . . . locked . . . sealed up. Metaphors for the beloved's virginity—or perhaps for the fact that she keeps herself exclusively for her husband. rock garden . . . spring. Sources of refreshment; metaphors for the beloved as a sexual partner, as in Prov 5:15–20.
4:13–15 Verses 13–14 elaborate on the garden metaphor of v. 12a, and v. 15 on the fountain metaphor of v. 12b. The trees and spices in vv. 13–14 are mostly exotic, referring to the beloved's charms.
4:13 Your shoots. All the beloved's features that delight the lover. orchard. Hebrew pardes (from which the English word "paradise" comes), a loanword from Old Persian meaning "enclosure" or "park." In Neh 2:8 and Eccl 2:5 it refers to royal parks and forests. henna. See note on 1:14. nard. See note on 1:12.
4:14 saffron. A plant of the crocus family bearing purple or white flowers, parts of which, when dried, were used as a cooking spice. calamus. An imported (see Jer 6:20), aromatic spice cane, used also in the holy anointing oil and incense ("cane" in Ex 30:23,25; Is 43:23–24). cinnamon. Used in the holy anointing oil (Ex 30:23,25). Myrrh. See note on 1:13. aloes. Aromatic aloes, used to perfume royal nuptial robes (Ps 45:8). Prov 7:17 says that the adulteress perfumed her bed "with myrrh, aloes and cinnamon."
4:15 fresh. Not stagnant. streams . . . from Lebanon. Fresh, cool, sparkling water from the snowfields on the Lebanon mountains.

16 "[1]Awake, O north wind,
And come, wind of the south;
Make my [a]garden breathe out
fragrance,
Let its [2]spices [3]be wafted abroad.

And eat its [c]choice fruits!"

The Torment of Separation

5 "[1]I have [a]come into my garden, [b]my sister, my bride;
I have gathered my [c]myrrh along with my balsam.
I have eaten my honeycomb [2]and my [d]honey;
I have [e]drunk my wine [2]and my milk.
Eat, [f]friends;
Drink and [3]imbibe deeply, O lovers."

2 "[1]I was asleep but my heart was awake.
A voice! My beloved was knocking:
'Open to me, [a]my sister, my darling,
[b]My dove, my perfect one!
For my head is [2]drenched with dew,
My [c]locks with the [3]damp of the night.'
3 "I have [a]taken off my dress,
How can I put it on again?
I have [b]washed my feet,
How can I dirty them again?
4 "My beloved extended his hand
through the opening,
And my [1][a]feelings were aroused for
him.
5 "I arose to open to my beloved;
And my hands [a]dripped with myrrh,
And my fingers with [1]liquid myrrh,
On the handles of the bolt.
6 "I opened to my beloved,
But my beloved had [a]turned away and had gone!
My [1]heart went out to him as he [b]spoke.
I [c]searched for him but I did not find
him;
I [d]called him but he did not answer me.
7 "The [a]watchmen who make the rounds
in the city found me,
They struck me and wounded me;
The guardsmen of the walls took away
my shawl from me.
8 "I [a]adjure you, O daughters of Jerusalem,
If you find my beloved,
As to what you will tell him:
For [b]I am lovesick."

beloved,
O [a]most beautiful among women?
[2]What kind of beloved is your
beloved,
That thus you adjure us?"

Admiration by the Bride

His [a]locks are like clusters of dates
And black as a raven.

Beside streams of water,
Bathed in milk,
And [1]reposed in their [b]setting.
13 "His cheeks are like a [a]bed of balsam,
Banks of sweet-scented herbs;
His lips are [b]lilies
[c]Dripping with liquid myrrh.
14 "His hands are rods of gold
Set with [a]beryl;
His abdomen is carved ivory
Inlaid with [1b]sapphires.
15 "His legs are pillars of alabaster
Set on pedestals of pure gold;
His appearance is like [a]Lebanon
Choice as the [b]cedars.
16 "His [1a]mouth is full of sweetness.

This is my beloved and this is my friend,
O daughters of Jerusalem."

4:16 May the fragrance of my charms be wafted about to draw my lover to me so that we may enjoy love's intimacies. his garden. She belongs to him and she yields herself to her lover (see 6:2).
5:1 The lover claims the beloved as his garden and enjoys all her delights. my sister. See note on 4:9. Eat . . . O lovers. The friends of the lovers applaud their enjoyment of love.
5:2–8 See 3:1–5 and note on 3:1.
5:2 I was asleep . . . was awake. Love holds sway even in sleep—just as a new mother sleeps with an ear open to her baby's slightest whimper.
5:3 Instinctive reaction raises a foolish complaint before the language of love takes over.
5:5 my hands . . . liquid myrrh. Love's eager imagination extravagantly lotioned the beloved's hands with perfume.
5:9 The friends' question provides an opportunity for the beloved to describe the beauty of her lover—which she does only here.
5:10 ruddy. See 1 Sam 16:12.
5:11 black. The beloved's hair was also black (see note on 4:1).
5:12 doves. See note on 1:15. Beside streams of water. The lover's eyes sparkle. Bathed in milk. Describing the white of the eye.
5:13 balsam . . . lilies. These similes probably compare sensuous effects rather than appearances, as do the following similes and metaphors, at least in part. lilies. See note on 2:1. Dripping with . . . myrrh. Love's pleasant excitements are aroused by the lover's lips.
5:14 beryl. See note on Ezek 1:16. sapphires. Hebrew sappir (from which the English word "sapphire" comes).
5:15 appearance is like Lebanon. Awesome and majestic. Choice as the cedars. The cedars of Lebanon were renowned throughout the ancient Near East, and their wood was desired for adorning temples and palaces.
5:16 mouth. The lover's kisses and loving speech. daughters of Jerusalem. See note on 1:5.

Mutual Delight in Each Other

Where has your beloved turned,
That we may seek him with you?"

The [c]queens and the concubines also,

6:1 The question asked by the friends forms a transition from the beloved's description of the lover to her delighted acknowledgment of his intimacy with her and the exclusiveness of their relationship.
6:2 his garden. The beloved. beds of balsam. Her sensuous attractions (cf. 5:13). gather lilies. See note on 2:1. The lover, enjoying intimacies with the beloved, is compared to a graceful gazelle (see notes on 2:7,9) nibbling from lily to lily in undisturbed enjoyment of exotic delicacies.
6:3 I . . . mine. See note on 2:16. Notice the reversal; here her yielding to her lover is emphasized.
6:4 Tirzah. An old Canaanite city in the middle of the land (see Josh 12:24). It was chosen by Jeroboam I (930–909 B.C.) as the first royal city of the northern kingdom (see 1 Kin 14:17; see also 1 Kin 15:21; 16:23–24). The meaning of its name ("pleasure, beauty") suggests that it was a beautiful site, perhaps explaining why the author here sets it alongside Jerusalem (though what constituted the beauty of Tirzah is not known). Comparison of the beloved's beauty to that of cities was perhaps not so unusual in the ancient Near East, since cities were regularly depicted as women (see note on 2 Kin 19:21). awesome. See v. 10. as an army with banners. The beloved's noble beauty evoked in the lover emotions like those aroused by a troop marching under its banners.
6:5–7 See 4:1–3 and notes.
6:5 your eyes . . . have confused me. The beloved's eyes awaken in the lover such intensity of love that he is held captive (see 4:9).
6:8 queens . . . concubines . . . maidens. The reference is either to Solomon's harem or to all the beautiful women of the realm.
6:9 perfect one. See 5:2. only daughter. Not literally, but the one uniquely loved (cf. Gen 22:2; Judg 11:34; Prov 4:3). maidens . . . praised her. All the other women praised her beauty (see 1:8; 5:9; 6:1).
6:10 See 5:9; 6:1.
6:11 nut. Perhaps walnut. see . . . the valley. For the first signs of spring (see note on 2:11–13).
6:12 See NASB marg. chariots. Solomon was famous for his chariots (1 Kin 10:26).
6:13 Shulammite. The beloved. It is either a variant of "Shunammite" (see 1 Kin 1:3), i.e., a young woman from Shunem (see Josh 19:18), or a feminine form of the word "Solomon," meaning "Solomon's girl." In ancient Semitic languages the letters l and n were sometimes interchanged.
7:1–7 Here the description moves up from the feet rather than down from the head (cf. 5:11–15).
7:1 Cf. v. 6. prince's daughter. Alludes to the nobility of her beauty (see Ps 45:13).
7:2 goblet. A large, two-handled, ring-based bowl (see Ex 24:6; Is 22:24; see also Amos 6:6). Fenced about with lilies. The

Your belly is like a heap of wheat

3 "Your [a]two breasts are like two fawns,
Twins of a gazelle.
4 "Your [a]neck is like a tower of ivory,
Your eyes like the pools in [b]Heshbon

Your nose is like the tower of Lebanon,
Which faces toward Damascus.
5 "Your head [1]crowns you like [a]Carmel,
And the flowing locks of your head
are like purple threads;
The king is captivated by your tresses.
6 "How [a]beautiful and how delightful you are,

7 "[1]Your stature is like a palm tree,
And your breasts are like its clusters.
8 "I said, 'I will climb the palm tree,
I will take hold of its fruit stalks.'
Oh, may your breasts be like clusters of the vine,
And the fragrance of your [1]breath like
[2a]apples,
9 And your [1a]mouth like the best wine!"

"[2]It [b]goes down smoothly for my beloved,
Flowing gently through the lips of those who fall asleep.

The Union of Love

10 "[a]I am my beloved's,
And his [b]desire is for me.
11 "Come, my beloved, let us go out into the [1]country,
Let us spend the night in the villages.
12 "Let us rise early and go to the
vineyards;
Let us [a]see whether the vine has budded
And its blossoms have opened,
And whether the pomegranates have bloomed.
There I will give you my love.
13 "The [a]mandrakes have given forth
fragrance;
And over our doors are all [b]choice
fruits,
Both new and old,
Which I have saved up for you, my beloved.

The Lovers Speak

8 "Oh that you were like a brother to me
Who nursed at my mother's breasts.
If I found you outdoors, I would kiss
you;
No one would despise me, either.
2 "I would lead you and [a]bring you Into the house of my mother, who used to instruct me;
I would give you spiced wine to drink
from the juice of my pomegranates.
3 "Let [a]his left hand be under my head
And his right hand embrace me."

4 "[1a]I want you to swear, O daughters of Jerusalem,
[2]Do not arouse or awaken my love
Until [3]she pleases."

5 "[1a]Who is this coming up from the wilderness
Leaning on her beloved?"

"[2]Beneath the [3b]apple tree I awakened
you;
There your mother was in labor with
you,
There she was in labor and gave you beloved perhaps wore a loose garland of flowers around her waist.

7:3 See note on 4:5.

7:4 tower of ivory. Mixed imagery, referring to shape as well as to color and texture. pools. The beloved's eyes reflect like the surface of a pool; or the imagery may depict serenity and gentleness. Heshbon. Once the royal city of King Sihon (Num 21:26), it was blessed with an abundant supply of spring water. Bath-rabbim. Means "daughter of many"; perhaps a popular name for Heshbon. tower of Lebanon. Perhaps a military tower on the northern frontier of Solomon's kingdom, but more likely the beautiful, towering Lebanon mountain range.

7:5 Carmel. A promontory midway along the western coast of the kingdom, with a wooded top and known for its beauty. purple threads. A reference to purple, royal cloth, as in 3:10 (see note on Ex 25:4). king. Solomon. tresses. The Hebrew for this word suggests a similarity to flowing water (cf. 4:1; 6:5).

7:7 palm. The stately date palm.

7:8 I said. To myself. I will climb. The beloved's beauty draws him irresistibly. vine. Grape. apples. Perhaps the fragrance of apple blossoms (but see note on 2:3).

7:9 It goes down smoothly for my beloved. The beloved offers the wine (see 5:1) of her love to her lover.

7:10 I am my beloved's. See notes on 2:16; 6:3. desire. Cf. Gen 3:16.

7:11–12 In 2:10–13 the beloved reports a similar invitation from her lover.

7:12 I will give you my love. She offers herself completely to her lover.

7:13 mandrakes. Short-stemmed herbs associated with fertility (see note on Gen 30:14). The odor of its blossom is pungent. over our doors. The doors where the lovers meet. choice fruits. Metaphor for the delights the beloved has for her lover from her "garden" (cf. 4:13–14). Both new and old. Those already shared and those still to be enjoyed.

8:1 No one would despise me. The beloved could openly show affection without any public disgrace.

8:2 I would give you. She would offer her lover the delights of her love. juice. The Hebrew for this word refers to intoxicating juices.

8:4 See 2:7 and note.

8:5 Who . . . wilderness. See 3:6. Beneath the apple tree. In the ancient world, sexual union and birth were often associated with fruit trees.

For love is as strong as death,
[2][b]Jealousy is as severe as Sheol;
Its flashes are flashes of fire,
[3]The very flame of the LORD.
7 "Many waters cannot quench love,
Nor will rivers overflow it;
[a]If a man were to give all the riches of his house for love,
It would be utterly despised."

And she [a]has no breasts;
What shall we do for our sister
On the day when she is spoken for?
9 "If she is a wall,
We will build on her a battlement of silver;
But if she is a door,
We will barricade her with [a]planks of cedar."

10 "[1]I was a wall, and [a]my breasts were like towers;
Then I became in his eyes as one who finds peace.
11 "Solomon had a [a]vineyard at Baal-hamon;
He [b]entrusted the vineyard to [c]caretakers.
Each one was to bring a [d]thousand shekels of silver for its [e]fruit.
12 "My very own vineyard is [1]at my disposal;

8:6–7 love is . . . Sheol. Its flashes . . . flame. Many waters . . . overflow it. These three wisdom statements (see essay, p. 689) characterize marital love as the strongest, most unyielding and invincible force in human experience. With these statements the Song reaches its literary climax and discloses its purpose.
8:6 seal. Seals were precious to their owners, as personal as their names (see note on Gen 38:18). arm. Probably a poetic synonym for "hand." as severe as Sheol. As the grave will not give up the dead, so love will not surrender the loved one. flame of the Lord. The Hebrew expression conveys the idea of a most intense flame.
8:7 Many waters. Words that suggest not only the ocean depths (see Ps 107:23) but also the primeval waters that the people of the ancient Near East regarded as a permanent threat to the world (see note on Ps 32:6). The waters were also associated with the realm of the dead (see note on Ps 30:1). If a man . . . despised. A fourth wisdom statement (see note on vv. 6–7), declaring love's unsurpassed worth.
8:8–14 In the closing lines of the Song, the words of the brothers (vv. 8–9), the beloved's reference to her own vineyard (v. 12) and her final reference to Solomon (vv. 11–12) suggest a return to the beginning of the Song (see 1:2–7). The lines may recall the beloved's development into the age for love and marriage and the blossoming of her relationship with her lover.
8:8 In the ancient Near East, brothers often were guardians of their sisters, especially in matters pertaining to marriage (see Gen 24:50–60; 34:13–27). On the day when she is spoken for. Marriage was often contracted at an early age.
8:9 This imaginative verse probably expresses the brothers' determination to defend their young sister (the beloved) until her proper time for love and marriage has come. Or it may mean that the brothers are concerned to see that she is properly adorned for marriage before she is spoken for.
8:10 I . . . like towers. In contrast to the time when she was watched over by her brothers, the beloved rejoices in her maturity (see Ezek 16:7–8). his. The lover's.
8:11–12 thousand shekels . . . two hundred. Whether these figures are to be taken literally (see Is 7:23) is uncertain.
8:11 Baal-hamon. Location unknown. The Hebrew hamon sometimes means "wealth" or "abundance"; hence Baal (i.e., "lord") Hamon could mean "lord of abundance," bringing to mind Solomon's great wealth.
8:12 My very own vineyard. Her body (see note on 1:6). at my disposal. As Solomon is master of his vineyard, so the beloved is mistress of her attractions to dispense them as she will. She offers Solomon the owner's portion of her vineyard.
8:13 in the gardens. In 7:11–12 the beloved invites her lover to accompany her to the countryside and the vineyards. Here the imagery places her appropriately in a garden. companions. Male; perhaps the companions of the lover (see 1:7). Let me hear it! See 2:14.
8:14 be like a gazelle or . . . stag. Display your virile strength and agility for my delight (see note on 2:9). On the mountains of spices. Cf. 2:17.

Isaiah

INTRODUCTION

Author

Isaiah son of Amoz is often thought of as the greatest of the writing prophets. His name means "The LORD saves." He was a contemporary of Amos, Hosea and Micah, beginning his ministry in 740 B.C., the year King Uzziah died (see note on 6:1). According to an unsubstantiated Jewish tradition (The Ascension of Isaiah), he was sawed in half during the reign of Manasseh (cf. Heb 11:37). Isaiah was married and had at least two sons, Shear-jashub (7:3) and Maher-shalal-hash-baz (8:3). He probably spent most of his life in Jerusalem, enjoying his greatest influence under King Hezekiah (see 37:1–2). Isaiah is also credited with writing a history of the reign of King Uzziah (2 Chr 26:22).

Many scholars today challenge the claim that Isaiah wrote the entire book that bears his name. Yet his is the only name attached to it (see 1:1; 2:1; 13:1). The strongest argument for the unity of Isaiah is the expression "the Holy One of Israel," a title for God that occurs 12 times in chs. 1—39 and 14 times in chs. 40—66. Outside Isaiah it appears in the OT only 6 times. There are other striking verbal parallels between chs. 1—39 and chs. 40—66. Compare the following verses:

1:2	66:24
1:5–6	53:4–5
5:27	40:30
6:1	52:13; 57:15
6:11–12	62:4
11:1	53:2
11:6–9	65:25
11:12	49:22
35:10	51:11

Altogether, there are at least 25 Hebrew words or forms found in Isaiah (i.e., in both major divisions of the book) that occur in no other prophetic writing.

Isaiah's use of fire as a figure of punishment (see 1:31; 10:17; 26:11; 33:11–14; 34:9–10; 66:24), his references to the "holy mountain" of Jerusalem (see note on 2:2–4) and his mention of the highway to Jerusalem (see note on 11:16) are themes that recur throughout the book.

The structure of Isaiah also argues for its unity. Chs. 36—39 constitute a historical interlude, which concludes chs. 1—35 and introduces chs. 40—66 (see note on 36:1).

Several NT verses refer to the prophet Isaiah in connection with various parts of the book: Matt 12:17–21 (Is 42:1–4); Matt 3:3 and Luke 3:4 (Is 40:3); Rom 10:16,20 (Is 53:1; 65:1); see especially John 12:38–41 (Is 53:1; 6:10).

Date

Most of the events discussed in chs. 1—39 occurred during Isaiah's ministry (see 6:1; 14:28; 36:1), so it is likely that these chapters were completed not long after 701 B.C., the year the Assyrian army was destroyed (see note on 10:16). The prophet lived until at least 681 (see note on 37:38) and may have written chs. 40—66 during his later years. In his message to the exiles of the sixth century B.C., Isaiah was projected into the future, just as the apostle John was in Rev 4—22.

Background

Isaiah wrote during the stormy period marking the expansion of the Assyrian empire and the decline of Israel. Under King Tiglath-pileser III (745–727 B.C.) the Assyrians swept westward into Aram (Syria) and Canaan.

About 733 the kings of Aram and Israel tried to pressure Ahaz king of Judah into joining a coalition against Assyria. Ahaz chose instead to ask Tiglath-pileser for help, a decision condemned by Isaiah (see note on 7:1). Assyria did assist Judah and conquered the northern kingdom in 722–721. This made Judah even more vulnerable, and in 701 King Sennacherib of Assyria threatened Jerusalem itself (see 36:1 and note). The godly King Hezekiah prayed earnestly, and Isaiah predicted that God would force the Assyrians to withdraw from the city (37:6–7).

Nevertheless Isaiah warned Judah that her sin would bring captivity at the hands of Babylon. The visit of the Babylonian king's envoys to Hezekiah set the stage for this prediction (see 39:1,6 and notes). Although the fall of Jerusalem would not take place until 586 B.C., Isaiah assumes the demise of Judah and proceeds to predict the restoration of the people from captivity (see 40:2–3 and notes). God would redeem His people from Babylon just as He rescued them from Egypt (see notes on 35:9; 41:14). Isaiah predicts the rise of Cyrus the Persian, who would unite the Medes and Persians and conquer Babylon in 539 (see 41:2 and note). The decree of Cyrus would allow the Jews to return home in 538, a deliverance that prefigured the greater salvation from sin through Christ (see 52:7 and note).

Themes and Theology

Isaiah is a book that unveils the full dimensions of God's judgment and salvation. God is "the Holy One of Israel" (see 1:4; 6:1 and notes) who must punish His rebellious people (1:2) but will afterward redeem them (41:14,16). Israel is a nation blind and deaf (6:9–10; 42:7), a vineyard that will be trampled (5:1–7), a people devoid of justice or righteousness (5:7; 10:1–2). The awful judgment that will be unleashed upon Israel and all the nations that defy God is called "the day of the LORD." Although Israel has a foretaste of that day (5:30; 42:25), the nations bear its full power (see 2:11,17,20 and note). It is a day associated in the NT with Christ's second coming and the accompanying judgment (see 24:1,21; 34:1–2 and notes). Throughout the book, God's judgment is referred to as "fire" (see 1:31; 30:33 and notes). He is the "Lord GOD" (see note on 25:8), far above all nations and rulers (40:15–24).

Yet God will have compassion on His people (14:1–2) and will rescue them from both political and spiritual oppression. Their restoration is like a new exodus (43:2,16–19; 52:10–12) as God redeems them (see 35:9; 41:14 and notes) and saves them (see 43:3; 49:8 and notes). Israel's mighty Creator (40:21–22; 48:13) will make streams spring up in the desert (32:2) as He graciously leads them home. The theme of a highway for the return of exiles is a prominent one (see 11:16; 40:3 and notes) in both major parts of the book. The Lord raises a banner to summon the nations to bring Israel home (see 5:26 and note).

Peace and safety mark this new Messianic age (11:6–9). A king descended from David will reign in righteousness (9:7; 32:1), and all nations will stream to the holy mountain of Jerusalem (see 2:2–4 and note). God's people will no longer be oppressed by wicked rulers (11:14; 45:14), and Jerusalem will truly be the "city of the LORD" (60:14).

The Lord calls the Messianic King "My Servant" in chs. 42—53, a term also applied to Israel as a nation (see 41:8–9; 42:1 and notes). It is through the suffering of the servant that salvation in its fullest sense is achieved. Cyrus was God's instrument to deliver Israel from Babylon (41:2), but Christ delivered mankind from the prison of sin (52:13—53:12). He became a "light to the Gentiles" (42:6), so that those nations that faced judgment (chs. 13—23) could find salvation (55:4–5). These Gentiles also became "servants of the LORD" (see 54:17 and note).

The Lord's kingdom on earth, with its righteous Ruler and His righteous subjects, is the goal toward which the book of Isaiah steadily moves. The restored earth and the restored people will then conform to the divine ideal, and all will result in the praise and glory of the Holy One of Israel for what He has accomplished.

Literary Features

Isaiah contains both prose and poetry; the beauty of its poetry is unsurpassed in the OT. The main prose material is found in chs. 36—39, the historical interlude that unites the two parts of the book (see Author). The poetic material includes a series of oracles in chs. 13—23. A taunting song against the king of Babylon is found in 14:4–23. Chs. 24—27 comprise an apocalyptic section stressing the last days (see note on 24:1—27:13). A wisdom poem is found in 28:23–29 (also cf. 32:5–8). The song of the vineyard (5:1–7) begins as a love song as Isaiah describes God's relationship with Israel. Hymns of praise are given in 12:1–6 and 38:10–20, and a national lament occurs in 63:7—64:12. The poetry is indeed rich and varied, as is the prophet's vocabulary (e.g., he uses nearly 2,200 different Hebrew words—more than any other OT writer).

One of Isaiah's favorite techniques is personification. The sun and moon are ashamed (24:23), while the desert and parched land rejoice (see 35:1 and note) and the mountains and forests burst into song (44:23). The trees "clap their hands" (55:12). A favorite figure is the vineyard, which represents Israel (5:7). Treading the wine press is a picture of judgment (see 63:3 and note), and to drink God's "cup of anger" is to stagger under His punishment (see 51:17 and note). Isaiah uses the name "rock" to describe God (17:10), and animals such as Leviathan and Rahab represent nations (see 27:1; 30:7; 51:9).

The power of Isaiah's imagery is seen in 30:27–33, and he makes full use of sarcasm in his denunciation of idols in 44:9–20. A forceful example of wordplay appears in 5:7 (see note there), and one finds chiasm (inversion) in 6:10 (see note there; see also note on 16:7) and alliteration and assonance in 24:17 (see note there). The "overwhelming scourge" of 28:15,18 is an illustration of mixed metaphor.

Isaiah often alludes to earlier events in Israel's history, especially the exodus from Egypt. The crossing of the Red Sea forms the background for 11:15 and 43:2,16–17, and other allusions occur in 4:5–6; 31:5; 37:36 (see notes on these verses). The overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah is referred to in 1:9, and Gideon's victory over Midian is mentioned in 9:4; 10:26 (see also 28:21). Several times Isaiah draws upon the song of Moses in Deut 32 (cf. 1:2 and Deut 32:1; 30:17 and Deut 32:30; 43:11,13 and Deut 32:39). Isaiah, like Moses, called the nation to repentance and to faith in a holy, all-powerful God. See also note on 49:8.

Rebellion of God's People

1 The vision of Isaiah the son of Amoz concerning [a]Judah and Jerusalem, which he saw during the [1]reigns of [b]Uzziah, [c]Jotham, [d]Ahaz and [e]Hezekiah, kings of Judah.

2 [a]Listen, O heavens, and hear, O [b]earth;
For the LORD speaks,
"[c]Sons I have reared and brought up,
But they have [d]revolted against Me.
3 "An ox knows its owner,
And a donkey its master's manger,
But Israel [a]does not know,
My people [b]do not understand."

4 Alas, sinful nation,
People weighed down with iniquity,
[1][a]Offspring of evildoers,
Sons who [b]act corruptly!
They have [c]abandoned the LORD,
They have [d]despised the Holy One of Israel,
They have turned away [2]from Him.

5 Where will you be stricken again,
As you [a]continue in your rebellion?
The whole head is [b]sick
And the whole heart is faint.
6 [a]From the sole of the foot even to the head
There is [b]nothing sound in it,
Only bruises, welts and raw wounds,
[c]Not pressed out or bandaged,
Nor softened with oil.

7 Your [a]land is desolate,
Your cities are burned with fire,
Your fields—strangers are devouring them in your presence;
It is desolation, as overthrown by strangers.
8 The daughter of Zion is left like a shelter in a vineyard,
Like a watchman's hut in a cucumber field, like a besieged city.
9 [a]Unless the LORD of hosts
Had left us a few [b]survivors,
We would be like [c]Sodom,
We would be like Gomorrah.

God Has Had Enough

10 Hear [a]the word of the LORD,
You rulers of [b]Sodom;
Give ear to the instruction of our God,
You people of Gomorrah.
11 "[a]What are your multiplied sacrifices to Me?"
Says the LORD.
"I [1]have had enough of burnt offerings of rams
And the fat of fed cattle;
And I take no pleasure in the blood of bulls, lambs or goats.
12 "When you come [a]to appear before Me,
Who requires [1]of you this trampling of My courts?
13 "Bring your worthless offerings no longer,
[a]Incense is an abomination to Me.
[b]New moon and sabbath, the [c]calling of assemblies—
I cannot [d]endure iniquity and the solemn assembly.
14 "I hate your new moon festivals and your [a]appointed feasts,
They have become a burden to Me;
I am [b]weary of bearing them.

1:1–31 Compare the indictment of ch. 1 with that of ch. 5; the two enclose the first series of oracles. Ch. 1 also serves as an introduction to the whole book.

1:1 The title of the book. Other headings occur in 2:1; 13:1; 14:28; 15:1; 17:1; 19:1; 21:1,11,13; 22:1; 23:1. vision. In the sense of "revelation" or "prophecy" (see 1 Sam 3:1; Prov 29:18; Obad 1). Amoz. Not to be confused with the prophet Amos. Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz and Hezekiah. These kings reigned from 792 to 686 B.C. None of the kings of Israel is mentioned since Isaiah ministered primarily to the southern kingdom (Judah).

1:2 Isaiah begins and ends (66:24) with a condemnation of those who rebel against God. The prophet calls on heaven and earth to testify to the truth of God's accusation against Israel and the rightness of His judgment—since they were witnesses of His covenant (see Deut 30:19; 31:28; 32:1).

1:3 manger. Feeding trough. does not know. Refusal to know and understand God later resulted in Judah's exile from her land (5:13).

1:4 Holy One of Israel. Occurs 25 times in Isaiah (see especially 5:24) and only 6 times elsewhere in the OT (see Introduction: Author).

1:5–6 The pitiable moral and spiritual condition of Israel is transferred to the suffering servant in 53:4–5. The Hebrew words for "stricken," "sick" and "welts" correspond to those for "smitten," "griefs" and "scourging."

1:6 The disease ravages the entire body, as with Job (2:7). oil. Commonly used for treating wounds (see Luke 10:34).

1:7–9 The desolation of the land of Judah is the result of foreign invasion: e.g., by Aram, the northern kingdom of Israel, Edom and Philistia (2 Chr 28:5–18); later (701 B.C.), by King Sennacherib and the Assyrian army (36:1–2); still later (605–586), by King Nebuchadnezzar and the Neo-Babylonian army.

1:8 Daughter of Zion. A personification of Jerusalem and its inhabitants. shelter . . . hut. Temporary structures used by watchmen (Job 27:18), who were on the lookout for thieves and intruders. Thus Jerusalem was not very defensible.

1:9–10 Sodom . . . Gomorrah. Classic examples of sinful cities that were completely destroyed (see 3:9; Gen 13:13; 18:20–21; 19:5,24–25). Just as Jesus addressed Peter as though he were Satan (Matt 16:23), so Isaiah addresses his countrymen as though they were the rulers of Sodom and the people of Gomorrah.

1:9 Quoted in Rom 9:29, where it is linked with Is 10:22–23. Isaiah often refers to the remnant that will survive God's judgment on the nation and take possession of the land (see 4:3; 10:20–23; 11:11,16; 46:3).

1:11–15 The sincerity of the worshiper, not the number of his religious activities, is most important (see 66:3; Jer 7:21–26; Hos 6:6; Amos 5:21–24; Mic 6:6–8).

1:11 fed cattle. Those kept in confinement for special feeding.

1:14 new moon festivals. Celebrated on the first day of each Hebrew month. Special sacrifices and feasts were part of the observance (see Num 28:11–15). appointed feasts. Included the annual feasts, such as Passover, Weeks (Pentecost) and Booths (Ex 23:14–17; 34:18–25; Lev 23; Deut 16:1–17).

15 "So when you [a]spread out your hands
in prayer,
[b]I will hide My eyes from you;
Yes, even though you [c]multiply prayers,
I will not listen.
[d]Your hands are [1]covered with blood.

16 "[a]Wash yourselves, [b]make yourselves
clean;
[c]Remove the evil of your deeds from
My sight.
[d]Cease to do evil,
17 Learn to do good;
[a]Seek justice,
Reprove the ruthless,
[1][b]Defend the orphan,
Plead for the widow.

"Let Us Reason"

18 "Come now, and [a]let us reason together,"
Says the LORD,
"[b]Though your sins are as scarlet,
They will be as white as snow;
Though they are red like crimson,
They will be like wool.
19 "[a]If you consent and obey,
You will [b]eat the best of the land;
20 "But if you refuse and rebel,
You will be [a]devoured by the sword."
Truly, [b]the mouth of the LORD has spoken.

Zion Corrupted, to be Redeemed

21 How the faithful city has become a
[a]harlot,
She who was full of justice!
Righteousness once lodged in her,
But now murderers.
22 Your silver has become dross,
Your drink diluted with water.
23 Your [a]rulers are rebels
And companions of thieves;
Everyone [b]loves a bribe
And chases after rewards.
They [c]do not [1]defend the [2]orphan,
Nor does the widow's plea come before them.

24 Therefore the Lord [1]GOD of hosts,
The [a]Mighty One of Israel, declares,
"Ah, I will be relieved of My adversaries
And [b]avenge Myself on My foes.
25 "I will also turn My hand against you,
And will [a]smelt away your dross as with lye
And will remove all your alloy.
26 "Then I will restore your [a]judges as at the first,
And your counselors as at the beginning;
After that you will be called the [b]city
of righteousness,
A faithful city."

27 Zion will be [a]redeemed with justice
And her [1]repentant ones with righteousness.
28 But [1]transgressors and sinners will be
[a]crushed together,
And those who forsake the LORD will
come to an end.
29 Surely [1]you will be ashamed of the [2][a]oaks which you have desired,
And you will be embarrassed at the [b]gardens which you have chosen.
30 For you will be like an [1]oak whose
[a]leaf fades away
Or as a garden that has no water.
31 The strong man will become tinder,
His work also a spark.
Thus they shall both [a]burn together
And there will be [b]none to quench
them.

God's Universal Reign

2 The word which [a]Isaiah the son of Amoz saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem.
2 Now it will come about that

1:15 hide My eyes. In 8:17; 59:2 God hides His face from Israel (see also Mic 3:4).
1:17 See Jer 22:16; James 1:27. orphan . . . widow. Represented the weak and often oppressed part of society. Rulers were warned not to take advantage of them (see v. 23; 10:2; Jer 22:3).
1:18 scarlet . . . crimson. Refers to the blood that has stained the hands of murderers (see vv. 15,21). white as snow. A powerful figurative description of the result of forgiveness (see Ps 51:7). This offer of forgiveness is conditioned on the reformation of life called for in v. 19.
1:19–20 eat . . . be devoured. The vivid contrast is stressed by the use of the same Hebrew verb.
1:21 Jerusalem (representing all Judah) has been an unfaithful wife to the Lord. By following idols and foreign gods she has become a harlot in a spiritual sense (see v. 4; Jer 3:6–14; Ezek 16:25–26).
1:24 the Lord GOD of hosts, The Mighty One of Israel. Stressing God's authority as Judge.
1:25–26 turn . . . restore. The use of the same Hebrew verb emphasizes the contrast (see note on vv. 19–20).
1:25 smelt away your dross. Purifying fire is also mentioned in 4:4; 48:10.
1:26 faithful city. See v. 21. Using a related Hebrew noun, Zech 8:3 similarly refers to the future Jerusalem as the "City of Truth."
1:27–28 This contrast between the redemption of Zion (Jerusalem) as a whole and the perishing of individuals who refuse to repent is developed in 65:8–16.
1:29 oaks . . . gardens. Pagan sacrifices were offered and sexual immorality occurred at such places (see 65:3; 66:17).
1:31 burn. Fire is often a figure of punishment (see 33:11–14; 34:9–10).
2:1 A second introduction, probably relating to chs. 2–4 or to chs. 2–12 (see 13:1).
2:2–5 See note on 4:2–6.
2:2–4 Almost identical to Mic 4:1–3. The theme of the "mountain of the LORD" (Mount Zion) is common in Isaiah; it occurs in

The [b]mountain of the house of the LORD
Will be established [1]as the chief of the mountains,
And will be raised above the hills;
And [c]all the nations will stream to it.
3 And many peoples will come and say,
"Come, let us go up to the mountain of the LORD,
To the house of the God of Jacob;
That He may teach us [1]concerning His ways
And that we may walk in His paths."
For the [2]law will go forth [a]from Zion
And the word of the LORD from Jerusalem.
4 And He will judge between the nations,
And will [1]render decisions for many peoples;
And [a]they will hammer their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks.
[b]Nation will not lift up sword against nation,
And never again will they learn war.

5 Come, [a]house of Jacob, and let us walk in the [b]light of the LORD.
6 For You have [a]abandoned Your people, the house of Jacob,
Because they are filled with influences from the east,
And they are soothsayers [b]like the Philistines,
And they [c]strike bargains with the children of foreigners.
7 Their land has also been filled with silver and gold
And there is no end to their treasures;
Their land has also been filled with [a]horses
And there is no end to their chariots.

A Day of Reckoning Coming

12 For the LORD of hosts will have a day of reckoning
Against [a]everyone who is proud and lofty
And against everyone who is lifted up,
That he may be abased.
13 And it will be against all the cedars of Lebanon that are lofty and lifted up,
Against all the [a]oaks of Bashan,
14 Against all the [a]lofty mountains,
Against all the hills that are lifted up,
15 Against every [a]high tower,
Against every fortified wall,
16 Against all the [a]ships of Tarshish
And against all the beautiful craft.
17 The pride of man will be humbled
And the loftiness of men will be abased;
And the LORD alone will be exalted in that day, passages that depict the coming of both Jews and Gentiles to Jerusalem (Zion) in the last days (see 11:9; 27:13; 56:7; 57:13; 65:25; 66:20; see also 60:3–5; Zech 14:16). Some believe that the peace described in this passage has been inaugurated through the coming of Christ and the preaching of the gospel, and will be consummated at the return of Christ. Others maintain that it is a prophecy of conditions during a future reign of Christ on the earth.

2:2 the last days. Can refer to the future generally (see Gen 49:1), but usually it seems to have in view the Messianic era. In a real sense the last days began with the first coming of Christ (see Acts 2:17; Heb 1:2) and will be fulfilled at His second coming.

2:4 swords into plowshares. The reverse process occurs in Joel 3:10. What is here called a plowshare was actually an iron point mounted on a wooden beam. Ancient plows did not have a plowshare proper.

2:6 east. Probably means Aram (Syria) and Mesopotamia. soothsayers like the Philistines. See 1 Sam 6:2; see also Deut 18:10–11 for a description of such practices.

2:7 silver and gold . . . horses. Accumulating large quantities of these was forbidden to the king (Deut 17:16–17). They usually led to a failure to trust in God (see 31:1).

2:10,19,21 These verses form a refrain that builds to a climax in v. 21. Lines 3–4 of each verse are identical.

2:10 rock . . . dust. During times of severe oppression the Israelites took refuge in caves and holes in the ground (see Judg 6:1–2; 1 Sam 13:6). majesty. The Hebrew for this word is translated "pride" when used of man. Pride is an attempt by man to be his own god (see 14:13–14).

2:11,17,20 in that day. The phrase occurs seven times in chs. 2–4 (see 3:7, "on that day," 18; 4:1–2). The day of the Lord (see also v. 12) is a time of judgment and/or blessing as God intervenes decisively in the affairs of the nations (see Zeph 1:14–2:3). Assyria and Babylon would bring the terror of judgment upon Judah in Isaiah's day (5:30).

2:13 cedars of Lebanon. Even inanimate things that people stand in awe of will be humbled so that "the LORD alone will be exalted" (v. 11). Bashan. A region east of the Jordan River and north of Gilead. It was famous for its oaks (Ezek 27:6) and its animals (Ezek 39:18).

2:16 ships of Tarshish. Large vessels such as those used by Solomon (1 Kin 10:22) and the Phoenicians (Is 23:1,14) to ply the sea in far-flung commercial ventures. For the location of Tarshish see notes on 23:6; Ezek 27:12.

18 But the [a]idols will completely vanish.
19 Men will [a]go into caves of the rocks
And into holes of the [1]ground
Before the terror of the LORD
And the splendor of His majesty,
When He arises [b]to make the earth tremble.
20 In that day men will [a]cast away to the moles and the [b]bats
Their idols of silver and their idols of gold,
Which they made for themselves to worship,
21 In order to [a]go into the caverns of the rocks and the clefts of the cliffs
Before the terror of the LORD and the splendor of His majesty,
When He arises to make the earth tremble.
22 [1a]Stop regarding man, whose breath of life is in his nostrils;
For [2b]why should he be esteemed?

God Will Remove the Leaders

3 For behold, the Lord [1]GOD of hosts [a]is going to remove from Jerusalem and Judah
Both [2]supply and support, the whole [2]supply of bread
And the whole [2]supply of water;
2 [a]The mighty man and the warrior,
The judge and the prophet,
The diviner and the elder,
3 The captain of fifty and the honorable man,
The counselor and the expert artisan,
And the skillful enchanter.
4 And I will make mere [a]lads their princes,
And [1]capricious children will rule over them,
5 And the people will be [a]oppressed,
Each one by another, and each one by his [b]neighbor;
The youth will storm against the elder
And the inferior against the honorable.

And these ruins will be under your [1]charge," 7 He will [1]protest on that day, saying,
"I will not be your [2a]healer,
For in my house there is neither bread nor cloak;
You should not appoint me ruler of the people."
8 For [a]Jerusalem has stumbled and Judah has fallen,
Because their [1b]speech and their actions are against the LORD,
To [c]rebel against [2]His glorious presence.
9 [1]The expression of their faces bears witness against them,
And they display their sin like [a]Sodom;
They do not even conceal it.
Woe to [2]them!
For they have [b]brought evil on themselves.
10 Say to the [a]righteous that it will go well with them,
For they will eat the fruit of their actions.
11 Woe to the wicked! It will go badly with him,
For [1a]what he deserves will be done to him.
12 O My people! Their oppressors [1]are [a]children,
And women rule over them.
O My people! [b]Those who guide you lead you astray
And confuse the direction of your paths.

God Will Judge

13 [a]The LORD arises to contend,
And stands to judge the people.
14 The LORD [a]enters into judgment with the elders and princes of His people,
"It is you who have [b]devoured the vineyard;
The [c]plunder of the poor is in your houses.

2:20 The futility of worshiping idols is repeatedly noted by Isaiah (see, e.g., 30:22; 31:7; 40:19–20; 44:9–20). See also note on 40:18–20.
2:22 Stop regarding man. Lit."Cease from man" or "Give up on man." The term describes the rejection of the Messiah in 53:3. Ironically, the one Man who should have been trusted and "esteemed" (equals "why should he be esteemed?" here) was "forsaken," "given up on" by men. He alone was worthy of the esteem wrongly given to frail leaders.
3:1–3 Leaders would be taken away by either death or deportation (see 2 Kin 24:14; 25:18–21).
3:2–3 diviner . . . enchanter. Occult practitioners and snake charmers (see Deut 18:10; Jer 8:17), whose activities were condemned. Both legitimate and illegitimate kinds of assistance would be removed or deported (see 2 Kin 24:14–16; Hos 3:4).
3:3 captain of fifty. A company of 50 was a common military unit (see 2 Kin 1:9). It was also used for civil groupings (Ex 18:25).
3:6 Normally it was unnecessary to force anyone to be a leader. In 4:1 the same social upheaval is seen as seven women "take hold of" one man. You have a cloak. Perhaps the one brother was not as poor as the others. ruins. Probably Jerusalem (v. 8).
3:7,18 that day. See note on 2:11,17,20.
3:8 Judah has fallen. A prophecy not completely fulfilled until almost 150 years later.
3:9 Sodom. See note on 1:9–10.
3:12 In the Near East, neither the rule of the young nor that of women was looked on with favor.
3:14 vineyard. Represents Israel (see 5:1).

15 "What do you mean by [a]crushing My people
And grinding the face of the poor?"
Declares the Lord [1]God of hosts.

Judah's Women Denounced

16 Moreover, the Lord said, "Because the [a]daughters of Zion are proud
And walk with [1]heads held high and seductive eyes,
And go along with mincing steps
And tinkle the bangles on their feet,
17 Therefore the Lord will afflict the scalp of the daughters of Zion with scabs,
And the Lord will make their foreheads bare."

18 In that day the Lord will take away the beauty of their anklets, headbands, [a]crescent ornaments,
19 dangling earrings, bracelets, veils,
20 [a]headdresses, ankle chains, sashes, perfume boxes, amulets,
21 [1]finger rings, [a]nose rings,
22 festal robes, outer tunics, cloaks, money purses,
23 hand mirrors, undergarments, turbans and veils.
24 Now it will come about that instead of
[1]sweet [a]perfume there will be putrefaction;
Instead of a belt, a rope;
Instead of [b]well-set hair, a [c]plucked-out scalp;
Instead of fine clothes, a [d]donning of sackcloth;
And branding instead of beauty.
25 Your men will [a]fall by the sword
And your [1]mighty ones in battle.

A Remnant Prepared

4 For seven women will take hold of [a]one man in that day, saying, "We will eat our own bread and wear our own clothes, only let us be called by your name; [b]take away our reproach!"

2 In that day the [a]Branch of the Lord will be beautiful and glorious, and the [b]fruit of the earth will be the pride and the adornment of the [c]survivors of Israel.

3 It will come about that he who is [a]left in Zion and remains in Jerusalem will be called [b]holy—everyone who is [c]recorded for life in Jerusalem.

4 When the Lord has washed away the filth of the [a]daughters of Zion and [1]purged the [b]bloodshed of Jerusalem from her midst, by the [c]spirit of judgment and the [d]spirit of burning,

5 then the Lord will create over the whole area of Mount Zion and over her assemblies [a]a cloud by day, even smoke, and the brightness of a flaming fire by night; for over all the [b]glory will be a canopy.

6 There will be a [a]shelter to give shade from the heat by day, and refuge and [1]protection from the storm and the rain.

Parable of the Vineyard

5 Let me sing now for my well-beloved
A song of my beloved concerning His vineyard.

3:15 The leaders were grinding the poor, as men grind grain between two millstones.
3:16–24 For a NT warning against overemphasis on outward adornment see 1 Pet 3:3–4.
3:16 walk with . . . mincing steps. In the Near East the way one walked communicated specific attitudes. Ornaments on ankles made short steps necessary.
3:17 bare. Baldness was associated with mourning over catastrophe (see v. 24; 15:2).
3:18 crescent ornaments. Probably moon-shaped; they implied veneration of the popular moon-god.
3:20 headdresses. Perhaps a kind of turban (see Ezek 24:17,23).
3:21 finger rings. Contained a seal and were a mark of authority (see Gen 41:42 and note). nose rings. Sometimes made of gold and worn by brides.
3:24 rope . . . branding. Captives were treated like cattle. They were led away by ropes and sometimes branded.
3:26 her gates. The gates are personified, as in Ps 24:7,9. They will lament because the crowds that used to assemble there are gone.
4:1–2 in that day. See notes on 2:2 and 2:11,17,20. After judgment comes salvation.
4:1 See note on 3:6. War will decimate the male population (3:25; see 13:12), leaving many women with the double disgrace of being widows and childless. See 54:4.
4:2–6 An oracle of redemption just before the long message of indictment and judgment in ch. 5. It balances that found in 2:2–5, which immediately follows the long message of indictment and judgment in ch. 1 (see note on 1:1–31). These two oracles of redemption were intended to complement each other.
4:2–3 survivors . . . left. See note on 1:9.
4:2 Branch. A Messianic title related to the "shoot" and "branch" (11:1; 53:2) descended from David—but some believe that here "branch" refers to Judah. pride. A legitimate pride in the fruitfulness of the land that will characterize the Messiah's reign (see Ps 72:3,6,16). Contrast the pride of 2:11,17. adornment. Here the fruitfulness of the land will be Israel's glory; in 46:13 God's salvation will be her glory; in 60:19 God Himself will be her glory.
4:3 holy. Means "set apart" to God. See 1:26; 6:13; see also Zech 14:20.
4:4 judgment . . . burning. Purifying fire is also mentioned in 1:25; 48:10.
4:5–6 cloud . . . fire . . . shelter. These words recall Israel's wilderness wanderings, when the pillar of cloud and fire guided and protected the people (Ex 13:21–22; 14:21–22). Isaiah often refers to the time of the exodus (see 11:15–16; 31:5; 51:10).
4:5 the glory. The manifestation of God's presence represented by a glow of flaming fire (see Ex 16:10; 24:17; 40:34–35). canopy. The cloud of smoke.
4:6 God's presence in cloud and fire will protect and preserve redeemed Zion (cf. Ps 121:5–6).
5:1–30 See note on 1:1–31.
5:1 well-beloved. God. vineyard. Israel (see v. 7; 3:14; Ps

My well-beloved had a [a]vineyard on [1]a fertile hill.
2 He dug it all around, removed its stones,
And planted it with [1]the [a]choicest vine.
And He built a tower in the middle of it
And also hewed out a [2]wine vat in it;
Then He [b]expected it to produce good grapes,
But it produced only [3]worthless ones.

3 "And now, O inhabitants of Jerusalem and men of Judah,
[a]Judge between Me and My vineyard.
4 "[a]What more was there to do for My vineyard [1]that I have not done in it?
Why, when I expected it to produce good grapes did it produce
[2]worthless ones?
5 "So now let Me tell you what I am going to do to My vineyard:
I will [a]remove its hedge and it will be
consumed;
I will [b]break down its wall and it will become [c]trampled ground.
6 "I will [a]lay it waste;
It will not be pruned or hoed,
But briars and thorns will come up.
I will also charge the clouds to [b]rain
no rain on it."

7 For the [a]vineyard of the LORD of hosts is the house of Israel
And the men of Judah His delightful plant.
Thus He looked for justice, but behold, [b]bloodshed;
For righteousness, but behold, a cry of distress.

Woes for the Wicked

8 Woe to those who [a]add house to house and join field to field,
Until there is no more room,
So that you have to live alone in the midst of the land!
9 In my ears the LORD of hosts has sworn, "Surely, [a]many houses shall become [b]desolate,
Even great and fine ones, without occupants.
10 "For [a]ten acres of vineyard will yield only one [1]bath of wine,
And a [b]homer of seed will yield but an
[2]ephah of grain."
11 Woe to those who rise early in the morning that they may pursue [a]strong drink,
Who stay up late in the evening that wine may inflame them!
12 Their banquets are accompanied by lyre and [a]harp, by tambourine and flute, and by wine;
But they [b]do not pay attention to the
deeds of the LORD,
Nor do they consider the work of His hands.

13 Therefore My people go into exile for their [a]lack of knowledge;
And [1]their [b]honorable men are famished,
And their multitude is parched with thirst.
14 Therefore [a]Sheol has enlarged its [1]throat and opened its mouth without measure;
And [2]Jerusalem's splendor, her multitude, her din of revelry and the jubilant within her, descend into it.
15 So the common man will be humbled and the man of importance abased,
[a]The eyes of the proud also will be abased.
16 But the [a]LORD of hosts will be [b]exalted in judgment,
And the holy God will show Himself
[c]holy in righteousness.
17 [a]Then the lambs will graze as in their pasture,
And strangers will eat in the waste places of the [1]wealthy.

18 Woe to those who drag [a]iniquity with the cords of [1]falsehood,
And sin as if with cart ropes;

80:8–16). Jesus' parable of the tenants (Matt 21:33–44; Mark 12:1–11; Luke 20:9–18) is probably based on this song. See John 15:1–17.

5:2 tower. Contrast the more modest "shelter" of 1:8. God's vineyard had every advantage (see Matt 21:33). wine vat. A trough into which the grape juice flowed (see 16:10). He expected . . . But. The interpretation (v. 7) uses the same expression ("He looked for . . . but").

5:6 briers and thorns. This pair occurs five more times (7:23–25; 9:18; 27:4). to rain no rain. The withholding of rain constituted a curse on the land. See Deut 28:23–24; 2 Sam 1:21; 1 Kin 17:1.

5:7 The song of the vineyard (vv. 1–6) is now interpreted. A powerful play on words makes the point: The words for "justice" and "bloodshed" (mishpaṭ and mispaḥ) sound alike, as do those for "righteousness" (ṣedaqah) and "distress" (ṣe'aqah).

5:8–23 A series of six woes are pronounced (vv. 8, 11–12, 18–19, 20, 21, 22–23), followed by three judgment sections (vv. 9–10, 13–15, 24–25).

5:8 house to house . . . field to field. Land in Israel could only be leased, never sold, because parcels had been permanently assigned to individual families (see Num 27:7–11; 1 Kin 21:1–3).

5:10 ephah. A tenth of a homer. Meager crops often accompanied national sin (Deut 28:38–39; Hag 2:16–17). The amount of wine and grain is only a tiny fraction of what a ten-acre vineyard and a homer of seed would normally produce.

5:11–13 See Amos 4:1–3; 6:6–7, where a style of life characterized by drunkenness and revelry is likewise condemned.

5:14 Sheol. See note on Gen 37:35. The grave has an insatiable appetite (see Ps 49:14 and note; Hab 2:5).

5:18 Contrast Hos 11:4, where God leads His people with "cords of . . . love."

19 [a]Who say, "Let Him make speed, let Him hasten His work, that we may see it;
And let the purpose of the Holy One of Israel draw near
And come to pass, that we may know
it!"
20 Woe to those who [a]call evil good, and good evil;
Who [1][b]substitute darkness for light
and light for darkness;
Who [1]substitute bitter for sweet and sweet for bitter!
21 Woe to those who are [a]wise in their own eyes
And clever in their own sight!
22 [a]Woe to those who are heroes in drinking wine
And valiant men in mixing strong drink,
23 [a]Who justify the wicked for a bribe,
And [b]take away the [1]rights of the ones who are in the right!

24 Therefore, [a]as a tongue of fire consumes stubble
And dry grass collapses into the flame,
So their [b]root will become [c]like rot and their blossom [1]blow away as dust;
For they have [d]rejected the law of the
LORD of hosts
And despised the word of the Holy
One of Israel.
25 On this account the [a]anger of the LORD has burned against His people,
And He has stretched out His hand against them and struck them down.
And the [b]mountains quaked, and their [c]corpses [1]lay like refuse in the middle of the streets.

Isaiah's Vision

6 In the year of [a]King Uzziah's death [b]I saw the Lord sitting on a throne, lofty and exalted, with the train of His robe filling the temple.

2 Seraphim stood above Him, [a]each hav-

5:19 The Hebrew for the words "make speed" and "hasten" corresponds to that of the first and third elements of the name "Maher-shalal-hash-baz" (meaning, "Swift is the booty, speedy is the prey"; see 8:1,3). When Isaiah named his son (8:3), he may have been responding to the sarcastic taunts of these sinners. God did bring swift judgment, according to v. 26. Holy One of Israel. See 1:4 and note.

5:22 mixing strong drink. Spices were added to beer and wine (see Prov 23:30).

5:23 See 1:23; 10:1–2.

5:24 despised . . . the Holy One of Israel. See v. 19; see also 1:4 and note.

5:25 the mountains quaked. When God takes action, even the mountains tremble (see 64:3; Jer 4:24–26). This is the language of theophany (a manifestation or appearance of God). For . . . stretched out. A refrain repeated in 9:12,17,21; 10:4.

5:26 lift up a standard. A pole with a banner was often placed on a hill as a signal for gathering troops (13:2) or for summoning the nations to bring Israel back home (11:10,12; 49:22; 62:10). distant nation. Such as Assyria, whose armies struck Israel and Judah in 722 and 701 B.C., and Babylon, which began its invasions in 605. from the ends of the earth. Nations like Egypt and Assyria.

5:27 No one . . . is weary or stumbles. Cf. the use of these terms in 40:29–31.

5:30 in that day. See note on 2:11,17,20. darkness and distress. Similar words describe the horrors of war in 8:22.

6:1 the year of King Uzziah's death. 740 B.C. Isaiah's commission probably preceded his preaching ministry; the account was postponed to serve as a climax to the opening series of oracles and to provide warrant for the shocking announcements of judgment they contain. The people had mocked the "Holy One of Israel" (5:19), and now He has commissioned Isaiah to call them to account. Uzziah reigned from 792 to 740 and was a godly and powerful king. When he insisted on burning incense in the temple, however, he was struck with leprosy and remained leprous until his death (2 Chr 26:16–21). He was also called Azariah (2 Kin 14:21; 2 Chr 26:1). I saw. Probably in a vision in the temple. the Lord. The true King (see v. 5). lofty and exalted. The same Hebrew words are applied to God in 57:15, and similar terms are used of the suffering servant in 52:13. train of His robe. A long, flowing garment. Cf. the robe of the "son of man" in Rev 1:13. temple. Probably the heavenly temple, with which the earthly temple was closely associated. John's vision of God on His throne is similar (Rev 4:1–8).

6:2 Seraphim. See v. 6; angelic beings not mentioned elsewhere. The Hebrew root underlying this word means "burn," perhaps to indicate their purity as God's ministers. (It refers to venomous snakes in 14:29; 30:6; see Num 21:6.) They correspond to the "living creatures" of Rev 4:6–9, each of whom also ing six wings: with two he covered his face, and with two he covered his feet, and with two he flew.

3 And one called out to another and said,
"[a]Holy, Holy, Holy, is the LORD of hosts,
The [1][b]whole earth is full of His glory."

4 And the [1]foundations of the thresholds trembled at the voice of him who called out, while the [2][a]temple was filling with smoke.

5 Then I said,
"[a]Woe is me, for I am ruined!
Because I am a man of [b]unclean lips,
And I live among a [c]people of unclean lips;
For my eyes have seen the [d]King, the LORD of hosts."

6 Then one of the seraphim flew to me with a burning coal in his hand, which he had taken from the [a]altar with tongs.

7 He [a]touched my mouth with it and said, "Behold, this has touched your lips; and [b]your iniquity is taken away and your sin is [1]forgiven."

Isaiah's Commission

8 Then I heard the [a]voice of the Lord, saying, "Whom shall I send, and who will go for Us?" Then [b]I said, "Here am I. Send me!"

9 He said, "Go, and tell this people:
'Keep on [a]listening, but do not perceive;
Keep on looking, but do not understand.'

10 "[a]Render the hearts of this people [1][b]insensitive,
Their ears [2]dull,
And their eyes [3]dim,
[c]Otherwise they might see with their eyes,
Hear with their ears,
Understand with their hearts,
And return and be healed."

11 Then I said, "Lord, [a]how long?" And He answered,
"Until [b]cities are devastated and without inhabitant,
Houses are without people
And the land is utterly desolate,

12 "The LORD has [a]removed men far away,
And the [1][b]forsaken places are many in the midst of the land.

13 "Yet there will be a tenth portion in it,
And it will again be subject to burning,
Like a terebinth or an [a]oak
Whose stump remains when it is felled.
The [b]holy seed is its stump."

War against Jerusalem

7 Now it came about in the days of [a]Ahaz, the son of Jotham, the son of Uzziah, king of Judah, that [b]Rezin the king of Aram and [c]Pekah the son of Remaliah, king of Israel, went up to Jerusalem to wage war against it, but [d]could not [1]conquer it.

2 When it was reported to the [a]house of David, saying, "The Arameans [1][b]have camped in [c]Ephraim," his heart and the hearts of his people shook as the trees of the forest shake [2]with the wind.

3 Then the LORD said to Isaiah, "Go out now to meet Ahaz, you and your son [1]Shear-had six wings. covered his face. Apparently the Seraphim could not gaze directly at the glory of God.

6:3 Holy, Holy, Holy. The repetition underscores God's infinite holiness. Note the triple use of "the temple of the LORD" in Jer 7:4 to stress the people's confidence in the security of Jerusalem because of the presence of that sanctuary. full of His glory. In Num 14:21–22; Ps 72:18–19 the worldwide glory of God is linked with His miraculous signs.

6:4 foundations . . . trembled . . . filling with smoke. Similarly the power of God's voice terrified the Israelites at Mount Sinai, and the mountain was covered with smoke (see Ex 19:18–19; 20:18–19).

6:5 eyes have seen the King. Isaiah was dismayed because anyone who saw God expected to die immediately (see Gen 16:13; 32:30 and notes; Ex 33:20).

6:6 burning coal. Coals of fire were taken inside the most holy place on the day of atonement (Lev 16:12), when sacrifice was made to atone for sin. See note on 1:25.

6:7 touched my mouth. When God commissioned Jeremiah, His hand touched the prophet's mouth (Jer 1:9).

6:8–10 Isaiah's prophetic commission will have the ironic but justly deserved effect of hardening the callous hearts of rebellious Israel—and so rendering the warnings of judgment sure (see vv. 11–13). See also Jer 1:8,19; Ezek 2:3–4.

6:8 for Us. The heavenly King speaks in the divine council. As a true prophet, Isaiah is made privy to that council, as were Micaiah (1 Kin 22:19–20) and Jeremiah (23:18,22). Cf. Gen 1:26; 11:7; Amos 3:7. Here am I. See note on Gen 22:1.

6:9–10 Quoted by Jesus in the parable of the sower (Matt 13:14–15; Mark 4:12; Luke 8:10). See also Rom 11:7–10,25.

6:10 hearts . . . ears . . . eyes . . . eyes . . . ears . . . hearts. The a-b-c/c-b-a inversion is called a "chiastic" arrangement, a common literary device in the OT. ears dull . . . eyes dim. Israel's deafness and blindness are also mentioned in 29:9; 42:18; 43:8. One day, however, the nation will be able to see and hear (29:18; 35:5).

6:12 far away. See 5:13.

6:13 a tenth. A remnant—even it will be laid waste. holy seed. The few who are faithful in Israel (cf. 1 Kin 19:18; see note on 1:9). stump. Out of which the nation will grow again. For a similar use of this imagery see 11:1.

7:1–12:6 The second section of Isaiah's prophecies, climaxing in the songs of praise found in ch. 12.

7:1 The invasion of Rezin and Pekah (probably in 735/734 B.C.) is known as the Syro-Ephraimite War. Aram (Syria) and Israel (Ephraim; see note on v. 2) were trying unsuccessfully to persuade Ahaz to join a coalition against Assyria, which had strong designs on lands to the west. Isaiah was trying to keep Ahaz from forming a counteralliance with Assyria (see 2 Kin 16:5–18; 2 Chr 28:16–21). Pekah. Ruled 752–732 B.C. (see 2 Kin 15:27–31).

7:2 house of David. A reference to Ahaz, who belonged to David's dynasty (see 2 Sam 7:8–11). Ephraim. Another name for Israel, the northern kingdom. hearts . . . shook. Ahaz had been defeated by Aram and Israel earlier (2 Chr 28:5–8).

7:3 Shear-jashub. See NASB marg.; see also 10:21–22. Isaiah gave each of his sons symbolic names (see 8:1,3,18). conduit jashub, at the end of the [a]conduit of the upper pool, on the highway to the [2]fuller's field,

4 and say to him, 'Take care and be [a]calm, have no [b]fear and [c]do not be faint-hearted because of these two stubs of smoldering [d]firebrands, on account of the fierce anger of Rezin and Aram and the [e]son of Remaliah.

5 'Because [a]Aram, with Ephraim and the son of Remaliah, has planned evil against you, saying,

6 "Let us go up against Judah and [1]terrorize it, and make for ourselves a breach in [2]its walls and set up the son of Tabeel as king in the midst of it,"

7 thus says the Lord [1]GOD: "[a]It shall not stand nor shall it come to pass.

8 "For the head of Aram is [a]Damascus and the head of Damascus is Rezin (now within another 65 years Ephraim will be shattered, so that it is no longer a people),

9 and the head of Ephraim is Samaria and the head of Samaria is the son of Remaliah. [a]If you will not believe, you surely shall not [1]last." ' "

The Child Immanuel

10 Then the LORD spoke again to Ahaz, saying,

11 "Ask a [a]sign for yourself from the LORD your God; [1]make it deep as Sheol or high as [2]heaven."

12 But Ahaz said, "I will not ask, nor will I test the LORD!"

13 Then he said, "Listen now, O [a]house of David! Is it too slight a thing for you to try the patience of men, that you will [b]try the patience of [c]my God as well?

14 "Therefore the Lord Himself will give you a sign: Behold, [a]a [1]virgin will be with child and bear a son, and she will call His name [2b]Immanuel.

15 "He will eat [a]curds and honey [1]at the time He knows enough to refuse evil and choose good.

16 "[a]For before the boy will know enough to refuse evil and choose good, [b]the land whose two kings you dread will be forsaken.

Trials to Come for Judah

17 "The LORD will bring on you, on your people, and on your father's house such days as have never come since the day that [a]Ephraim separated from Judah, the [b]king of Assyria."

18 In that day the LORD will [a]whistle for the fly that is in the [1b]remotest part of the rivers of Egypt and for the bee that is in the land of Assyria.

19 They will all come and settle on the steep [1]ravines, on the [a]ledges of the cliffs, [b]on all the thorn bushes and on all the [2]watering places.

of the upper pool. Location unknown. Ahaz was probably inspecting the city's water supply. fuller's field. Clothes were cleaned by trampling on them in cold water and using a kind of soap (soda) or bleach (see Mal 3:2; Mark 9:3).

7:4 two stubs . . . smoldering. Damascus (Aram's capital; see v. 8) was crushed by Tiglath-pileser III in 732 B.C., and Israel was soundly defeated the same year.

7:6 Tabeel. An Aramaic name sometimes associated with the "land of Tob" east of the Jordan River (see Judg 11:3).

7:8 within another 65 years. By c. 670 B.C. Esarhaddon (and, shortly after him, Ashurbanipal) king of Assyria settled foreign colonists in Israel. Their intermarriage with the few Israelites who had not been deported resulted in the "Samaritans" (see 2 Kin 17:24–34 and note on 2 Kin 17:29) and marked the end of Ephraim as a separate nation.

7:9 son of Remaliah. Pekah was a usurper and hardly worthy to challenge Ahaz, a son of David. Aram (v. 8) and Israel (v. 9) had human heads. Judah had a divine head; God was with them (v. 14; 8:8,10). believe . . . last. The use of the same Hebrew verb emphasizes the seriousness of the Lord's warning (see 1:19–20,25–26 and notes).

7:11 a sign. God was willing to strengthen the faith of Ahaz through a sign (see Ex 3:12).

7:13 house of David. See note on v. 2.

7:14 sign. A sign was normally fulfilled within a few years (see 20:3; 37:30; cf. 8:18). virgin. May refer to a young woman betrothed to Isaiah (8:3), who was to become his second wife (his first wife presumably having died after Shear-jashub was born). In Gen 24:43 the same Hebrew word ('almah) refers to a woman about to be married (see also Prov 30:19). Matt 1:23 apparently understood the woman mentioned here to be a type (a foreshadowing) of the Virgin Mary. Immanuel. The name "God is with us" was meant to convince Ahaz that God could rescue him from his enemies. See Num 14:9; 2 Chr 13:12; Ps 46:7. The Hebrew for "Immanuel" is used again in 8:8,10, and it may be another name for Maher-shalal-hash-baz (8:3). If so, the boy's names had complementary significance (see note on 8:3). Jesus was the final fulfillment of this prophecy, for He was "God with us" in the fullest sense (Matt 1:23; cf. Is 9:6–7).

7:15 curds and honey. Curds (a kind of yogurt) and honey meant a return to the simple diet of those who lived off the land. The Assyrian invasion would devastate the countryside and make farming impossible. (See vv. 22–25 for the significance of the expression.) at the time He knows . . . evil . . . good. Suggests the age of moral determination and responsibility under the law—most likely 12 or 13 years of age. Thus, "at the time" this boy is 12 or 13 (722/721 B.C.), he will be eating curds and honey instead of agricultural products—due to the devastation of Israel by Assyria. Some believe that this expression involves a shorter period of time, identical to that in v. 16 and 8:4.

7:16 before the boy will know . . . land . . . forsaken. See note on v. 4; cf. 8:4. "Before" the boy is 12 or 13 years old, Aram and Israel will be plundered. This happened in 732 B.C., when the boy was about two years old.

7:17 Ephraim separated from Judah. Almost two centuries earlier (see 1 Kin 12:19–20). king of Assyria. Ahaz's appeal to Assyria would bring temporary relief (2 Kin 16:8–9), but eventually Assyria would attack Judah (see 8:7–8; 36:1).

7:18,20,23 In that day. Their difficulties will be a foretaste of the "day of the LORD." See note on 2:11,17,20.

7:18 fly . . . bee. See Ex 23:28 and note.

7:19 ledges of the cliffs. See note on 2:10. It will be impossible to escape from the invaders.

20 In that day the Lord will [a]shave with a [b]razor, [c]hired from regions beyond [d]the [1]Euphrates (that is, with the king of Assyria), the head and the hair of the legs; and it will also remove the beard.

21 Now in that day a man may keep alive a [a]heifer and a pair of sheep;

22 and because of the abundance of the milk produced he will eat curds, for everyone that is left within the land will eat [a]curds and honey.

23 And it will come about in that day, [a]that every place where there used to be a thousand vines, valued at a thousand shekels of silver, will become [b]briars and thorns.

24 People will come there with bows and arrows because all the land will be briars and thorns.

25 As for all the hills which used to be cultivated with the hoe, you will not go there for fear of briars and thorns; but they will become a place for [1a]pasturing oxen and for sheep to trample.

Damascus and Samaria Fall

8 Then the Lord said to me, "Take for yourself a large tablet and [a]write on it [1]in ordinary letters: [2b]Swift is the booty, speedy is the prey.

2 "And [1]I will take to Myself faithful witnesses for testimony, [a]Uriah the priest and Zechariah the son of Jeberechiah."

3 So I approached the prophetess, and she conceived and gave birth to a son. Then the Lord said to me, "Name him [1a]Maher-shalal-hash-baz;

4 for [a]before the boy knows how to cry out 'My father' or 'My mother,' the wealth of [b]Damascus and the spoil of Samaria will be carried away before the king of Assyria."

5 Again the Lord spoke to me further, saying,

6 "Inasmuch as these people have
[a]rejected the gently flowing waters of Shiloah
And rejoice in [b]Rezin and the son of Remaliah;

7 "Now therefore, behold, the Lord is about to bring on them the [a]strong and abundant waters of the [1b]Euphrates,
Even the [c]king of Assyria and all his glory;
And it will [d]rise up over all its channels and go over all its banks.

8 "Then [a]it will sweep on into Judah, it will overflow and pass through,
It will [b]reach even to the neck;
And the spread of its wings will [1]fill the breadth of [2]your land,
O [c]Immanuel.

A Believing Remnant

9 "[a]Be broken, O peoples, and be [1b]shattered;
And give ear, all remote places of the earth.
Gird yourselves, yet be [1]shattered;
Gird yourselves, yet be [1]shattered.

10 "[a]Devise a plan, but it will be thwarted;
State a [1]proposal, but [b]it will not stand,
For [2c]God is with us."

11 For thus the Lord spoke to me [1]with [a]mighty power and instructed me [b]not to walk in the way of this people, saying,

12 "You are not to say, 'It is a
[a]conspiracy!'
In regard to all that this people call a conspiracy,

7:20 shave . . . head . . . beard. The forcible shaving of the beard was considered a great insult (2 Sam 10:4–5). In times of mourning, a man would shave his own head and beard (see 15:2; see also note on 3:17).
7:23 briers and thorns. See note on 5:6. The destruction of the vineyards and the farmlands would fulfill 5:5–6.
8:1–2 tablet . . . witnesses. The witnesses would attest to a legal transaction, either the marriage of Isaiah (see note on 7:14) or a symbolic deed connected with Maher-shalal-hash-baz. The Hebrew word for "tablet" is related to the word for "open copy" in Jer 32:11.
8:2 Uriah the priest. Served under King Ahaz (see 2 Kin 16:10–11).
8:3–10 See 7:14–17.
8:3 prophetess . . . son. Probably the initial fulfillment of 7:14. This is the only known case of a prophetess (see note on Ex 15:20) marrying a prophet. But the young woman may be called a prophetess here because she had become the wife of a prophet. Maher-shalal-hash-baz. This symbolic name ("Swift is the booty, speedy is the prey"; see v. 1) meant that Ahaz's enemies would be plundered (see v. 4 and note on 7:4), but it also implied that Judah would suffer (see vv. 7–8).
8:4 knows how to cry out. At about age two. The time period is identical to that in 7:16 (see notes on 7:4,16). spoil of Samaria will be carried away. The first stage of the destruction of the northern kingdom (see note on 7:4), which was not completed until 722–721 B.C. (see note on 7:15).
8:6 waters of Shiloah. The waters in Jerusalem that flow from the Gihon spring (see 2 Chr 32:30) to the Pool of Siloam (see John 9:7) may be intended (see Neh 3:15). Here they symbolize the sustaining power of the Lord. Rezin and the son of Remaliah. Rezin and Pekah both died in 732 B.C. (see 2 Kin 16:9; see note on Is 7:1).
8:7–8 strong . . . waters . . . sweep on. Mighty rivers were often used to symbolize a powerful invading army (see 28:17–19).
8:8 even to the neck. Sennacherib's invasion in 701 B.C. overwhelmed all the cities of Judah except Jerusalem (see 1:7–9). spread of its wings. The figure changes to a bird of prey, perhaps the eagle, renowned for its speed. Immanuel. All seems lost, but "God is with us" (v. 10) and defeats the enemy (see note on 7:14).
8:9 peoples . . . be shattered. Just as Aram and Israel would be shattered (7:7–9), so Assyria and Babylon would eventually fall.
8:10 it will not stand. Only God's plans and purposes will last.
8:11 with mighty power. See Ezek 1:3; 37:1; 40:1. The prophets were conscious of God's presence in and control over their lives.
8:12 conspiracy. Isaiah's warning against relying on Assyria was considered treason (see note on 7:1; cf. Jer 37:13–14).

And [b]you are not to fear [1]what they fear or be in dread of it.
13 "It is the [a]LORD of hosts [b]whom you should regard as holy.
And He shall be your fear,
And He shall be your dread.
14 "Then He shall become a [a]sanctuary;
But to both the houses of Israel, a [b]stone to strike and a rock to stumble over,
And a snare and a [c]trap for the inhabitants of Jerusalem.
15 "Many [a]will stumble over them,
Then they will fall and be broken;
They will even be snared and caught."
16 [a]Bind up the testimony, [b]seal the [1]law among [c]my disciples.
17 And I will [a]wait for the LORD [b]who is hiding His face from the house of Jacob; I will even look eagerly for Him.
18 [a]Behold, I and the children whom the LORD has given me are for [b]signs and wonders in Israel from the LORD of hosts, who [c]dwells on Mount Zion.
19 When they say to you, "[a]Consult the mediums and the spiritists who whisper and mutter," should not a people [b]consult their God? Should they [c]consult the dead on behalf of the living?
20 To the [1][a]law and to the testimony! If they do not speak according to this word, it is because [b]they have no dawn.
21 They will pass through [1]the land [a]hard-pressed and famished, and it will turn out that when they are hungry, they will be enraged and curse [2]their king and their God
as they face upward.
22 Then they will [a]look to the earth, and behold, distress and darkness, the gloom of anguish; and they will be [b]driven away into darkness.

8:13 shall be your fear. See 7:2; Prov 1:7.
8:14 sanctuary . . . stone . . . stumble. Either the Lord is the cornerstone of our lives (see 28:16) or He is a rock over which we fall. See Rom 9:33; 1 Pet 2:6–8 for an application to Christ. both the houses. The northern and southern kingdoms, Israel and Judah.
8:16 Perhaps a reference to the legal transaction connected with vv. 1–2 (see note there). testimony. See v. 20. By preserving Isaiah's teaching ("the law"), his disciples could later prove that his predictions had come true. This term occurs elsewhere only in Ruth 4:7 ("manner of attestation in Israel"). law. The Hebrew for this word can also mean "teaching" or "instruction." The legal document containing Isaiah's teaching about Assyria's invasion was tied and sealed and then given to the prophet's followers, who were to preserve it until the time of its fulfillment, when God would authenticate it by the events of history (see Jer 32:12–14,44).
8:17–18 In Heb 2:13 these verses are applied to Christ.
8:17 hiding His face. See 1:15; 59:2; Mic 3:4.
8:18 signs and wonders. See notes on 7:3,14; cf. 20:3.
8:19 mediums . . . spiritists. In the present crisis, people were turning to the spirits of the dead (necromancy), as King Saul did when he went to a medium to contact the spirit of Samuel (1 Sam 28:8–11) and learn about the future. See note on 3:2–3.
8:20 the law . . . the testimony. See v. 16 and note. Only by heeding the Lord's word through Isaiah—reinforced by the "signs and wonders" (v. 18) that Isaiah and his sons represented—would the light dawn for Israel.
8:21–22 The Assyrian invasion would bring deep distress on all Israel.
8:21 curse . . . king and . . . God. Because of their terrible suffering (cf. Prov 19:3)—but severe punishment awaited anyone who cursed God or a ruler (Ex 22:28; Lev 24:15–16).
9:1 Naphtali. This tribe in northern Israel suffered greatly when the Assyrian Tiglath-pileser III attacked in 734 and 732 B.C. (2 Kin 15:29). shall make it glorious . . . Galilee. Fulfilled when Jesus ministered in Capernaum—near the major highway from Egypt to Damascus, called the "way of the sea" (Matt 4:13–15).
9:2 great light. Jesus and His salvation would be a "light to the nations" (42:6; "light of the nations," 49:6).
9:4 battle of Midian. Gideon defeated the hordes of Midian and broke their domination over Israel (Judg 7:22–25). yoke . . . staff. In 10:26–27 Isaiah predicts that God will destroy the Assyrian army and their oppressive yoke. This was fulfilled in 701 B.C. (see 37:36–38).
9:5 boot . . . cloak. Military equipment will no longer be needed. See notes on 2:2–4.
9:6 son. A royal son, a son of David (see v. 7; see also 2 Sam

7 There will be [a]no end to the increase

From then on and forevermore.
[d]The zeal of the LORD of hosts will accomplish this.

God's Anger with Israel's Arrogance

8 The Lord sends a [1]message against Jacob,
And it falls on Israel.
9 And all the people know it,
That is, [a]Ephraim and the inhabitants of Samaria,
Asserting in pride and in [b]arrogance of
heart:
10 "The bricks have fallen down,
But we will [a]rebuild with smooth
stones;
The sycamores have been cut down,
But we will replace them with cedars."
11 Therefore the LORD raises against them adversaries from [a]Rezin
And spurs their enemies on,
12 The Arameans on the east and the
[a]Philistines on the west;
And they [b]devour Israel with [1]gaping jaws.
[c]In spite of all this, His anger does not turn away
And His hand is still stretched out.

13 Yet the people [a]do not turn back to Him who struck them,
Nor do they [b]seek the LORD of hosts.
14 So the LORD cuts off [a]head and tail from Israel,
Both palm branch and bulrush [b]in a single day.

15 The head is [a]the elder and honorable
man,
And the prophet who teaches
[b]falsehood is the tail.
16 [a]For those who guide this people are leading them astray;
And those who are guided by them are [1]brought to confusion.
17 Therefore the Lord does [a]not take pleasure in their young men,
[b]Nor does He have pity on their
[1]orphans or their widows;
For every one of them is [c]godless and an [d]evildoer,
And every [e]mouth is speaking foolishness.
[f]In spite of all this, His anger does not turn away
And His hand is still stretched out.

18 [a]For wickedness burns like a fire;
It consumes briars and thorns;
It even sets the thickets of the forest aflame
And they roll upward in a column of smoke.
19 By the [a]fury of the LORD of hosts the [b]land is burned up,
And the [c]people are like fuel for the fire;
No [d]man spares his brother.
20 [1]They slice off what is on the right hand but still are [a]hungry,
And [2]they eat what is on the left hand
but they are not satisfied;
Each of them eats the [b]flesh of his own arm.
21 Manasseh devours Ephraim, and Ephraim Manasseh,
[a]And together they are against Judah.
[b]In spite of all this, His anger does not turn away
And His hand is still stretched out.

7:14; Ps 2:7; Matt 1:1; 3:17; Luke 1:32). Wonderful Counselor. Each of the four throne names of the Messiah consists of two elements. Unlike Immanuel (see note on 7:14), these titles were not like normal OT personal names. "Counselor" points to the Messiah as a king (see Mic 4:9) who determines upon and carries out a program of action (see 14:27, "planned"; Ps 20:4, "counsel"). As Wonderful Counselor, the coming Son of David will carry out a royal program that will cause all the world to marvel. What that program will be is spelled out in ch. 11, and more fully in chs. 24–27 (see 25:1—"worked wonders, Plans formed [counseled] long ago"). Mighty God. See 10:21. His divine power as a warrior is stressed. Eternal Father. He will be an enduring, compassionate provider and protector (cf. 40:9–11). Prince of Peace. His rule will bring wholeness and well-being to individuals and to society (see 11:6–9).

9:7 throne of David . . . righteousness . . . forevermore. In spite of the sins of kings like Ahaz, Christ will be a descendant of David who will rule in righteousness forever (see 11:3–5; 2 Sam 7:12–13, 16; Jer 33:15, 20–22). The zeal . . . this. God is like a jealous lover who will not abandon His people.

9:9 Ephraim. See note on 7:2.

9:10 bricks have fallen down. Bricks made of clay and dried by the sun crumbled easily. smooth stone. Amos denounces the stone mansions of the wicked (Amos 5:11). cedars. The cedars of Lebanon provided the most valuable wood in the ancient Near East (see 1 Kin 7:2–3).

9:12,17,21 In spite of . . . still stretched out. See 5:25. This refrain is repeated in 10:4, where the anger of the Lord reaches a climax in the captivity of His people.

9:14 head and tail . . . palm branch and bulrush. The leaders of Israel (see also 3:1–3). These two pairs refer to Egyptian leaders in 19:15.

9:17 orphans or . . . widows. They often suffered at the hands of the powerful (see note on 1:17), but now even they are wicked.

9:18 briars and thorns. See note on 5:6.

9:19 fuel for the fire. Contrast v. 5.

9:21 Manasseh . . . Ephraim. These two prominent tribes in the northern kingdom were descended from the two sons of Joseph (see Gen 46:20; see also Gen 48:5–6 and notes). They had fought each other centuries earlier (Judg 12:4).

Assyria Is God's Instrument

10 Woe to those who [a]enact evil statutes
And to those who constantly record
[1]unjust decisions,
2 So as [a]to [1]deprive the needy of justice
And rob the poor of My people of their rights,
So [b]that widows may be their spoil
And that they may plunder the [2]orphans.
3 Now [a]what will you do in the [b]day of punishment,
And in the devastation which will come [c]from afar?
[d]To whom will you flee for help?
And where will you leave your
[1]wealth?
4 Nothing remains but to crouch
[1]among the [a]captives
Or fall [1]among the [b]slain.
[c]In spite of all this, His anger does not turn away
And His hand is still stretched out.

5 Woe to [a]Assyria, the [b]rod of My anger
And the staff in whose hands is [c]My indignation,
6 I send it against a [a]godless nation
And commission it against the [b]people of My fury
To capture booty and [c]to seize plunder,
And to [1]trample them down like [d]mud in the streets.
7 Yet it [a]does not so intend,
Nor does [1]it plan so in its heart,
But rather it is [2]its purpose to destroy
And to cut off [3]many nations.
8 For it says, "Are not my princes [1]all kings?
9 "Is not [a]Calno like [b]Carchemish,
Or [c]Hamath like Arpad,
Or [d]Samaria like [e]Damascus?
10 "As my hand has reached to the [a]kingdoms of the idols,
Whose graven images were greater than those of Jerusalem and Samaria, 11 Shall I not [1]do to Jerusalem and her images
Just as I have done to Samaria and [a]her idols?"
12 So it will be that when the Lord has completed all His [a]work on Mount Zion and on Jerusalem, He will say, "I will [1]punish the fruit of the arrogant heart of the king of Assyria and [b]the pomp of [2]his haughtiness."
13 For [a]he has said,
"By the power of my hand and by my wisdom I did this,
For I have understanding;
And I [b]removed the boundaries of the peoples
And plundered their treasures,
And like a mighty man I brought down [1]their inhabitants,
14 And my hand reached to the riches of the peoples like a [a]nest,
And as one gathers abandoned eggs, I gathered all the earth;
And there was not one that flapped its wing or opened its beak or chirped."

15 Is the [a]axe to [b]boast itself over the one who chops with it?
Is the saw to exalt itself over the one who wields it?
That would be like [c]a [1]club wielding those who lift it,
Or like [c]a rod lifting him who is not wood.
16 Therefore the Lord, the [1]God of hosts, will send a [a]wasting disease among his [b]stout warriors;
And under his [c]glory a fire will be kindled like a burning flame.
17 And the [a]light of Israel will become a fire and his [b]Holy One a flame,
And it will [c]burn and devour his thorns and his briars in a single day.

10:2 widows . . . orphans. See notes on 1:17; 9:17.
10:4 captives . . . slain. Jer 39:6–7 similarly describes the plight of Judah's rulers when Nebuchadnezzar captured Jerusalem in 586 B.C. In spite of . . . still stretched out. See note on 9:12,17,21.
10:5 rod . . . staff. See 9:4 and note. Babylon also was a hammer or club used by God to punish other nations (Jer 50:23; 51:20; Hab 1:6).
10:6 godless nation. Judah (see v. 10). booty . . . plunder. The last part of the fulfillment symbolized by Maher-shalal-hash-baz ("booty" here is the translation of Hebrew shalal, and "plunder" is the translation of baz). See 8:1–4 and note on 8:3.
10:9 Calno. A region in northern Aram (Syria). See Calneh in Amos 6:2. Carchemish. The great fortress on the Euphrates River east of Calno (see Jer 46:2). Hamath. A city on the Orontes River that marked the northern extent of Solomon's rule (2 Chr 8:4). See note on 2 Kin 17:24. Arpad. A city near Hamath and just south of Calno. All these areas submitted to Assyria by c. 717 B.C. (see 36:19).
10:10 images . . . of Jerusalem and Samaria. No Israelite was supposed to worship idols, but the land was full of them (2:8). Samaria fell to Shalmaneser V (2 Kin 17:3–6) and Sargon II in 722–721 B.C.
10:12 arrogant heart. Judgment against the proud was announced in 2:11,17.
10:13–14 my . . . I. The king of Assyria boastfully refers to himself eight times. Cf. 14:13–14; Ezek 28:2–5.
10:15 axe . . . saw . . . club . . . rod. See v. 5; 9:4 and notes.
10:16 the Lord, the God of hosts. See 1:24 and note. wasting disease. When the angel put to death 185,000 soldiers of the Assyrian king Sennacherib in 701 B.C., he may have used a rapidly spreading plague (see note on 37:36; see also 2 Sam 24:15–16; 1 Chr 21:22,27).
10:17,20 Holy One. See note on 1:4.

18 And He will [a]destroy the glory of his forest and of his fruitful garden, both soul and body,
And it will be as when a sick man wastes away.
19 And the [a]rest of the trees of his forest will be so small in number
That a child could write them down.

A Remnant Will Return

20 Now in that day the [a]remnant of Israel, and those of the house of Jacob [b]who have escaped, will never again rely on the one who struck them, but will truly [c]rely on the LORD, the Holy One of Israel.
21 A [a]remnant will return, the remnant of Jacob, to the [b]mighty God.
22 For [a]though your people, O Israel, may be like the sand of the sea,
Only a remnant within them will return;
A [b]destruction is determined, overflowing with righteousness.
23 For a complete destruction, one that is decreed, [a]the Lord [1]GOD of hosts will execute in the midst of the whole land.
24 Therefore thus says the Lord [1]GOD of hosts, "O My people who dwell in [a]Zion, [b]do not fear the Assyrian [2]who [c]strikes you with the rod and lifts up his staff against you, the way Egypt did.
25 "For in a very [a]little while [b]My indignation against you will be spent and My anger will be directed to their destruction."
26 The LORD of hosts will [a]arouse a scourge against him like the slaughter of [b]Midian at the rock of Oreb; and His [c]staff will be over the sea and He will lift it up [d]the way He did in Egypt.
27 So it will be in that day, that [1]his [a]burden will be removed from your shoulders and his yoke from your neck, and the yoke will be broken because [b]of fatness.
28 He has come against Aiath,
He has passed through [a]Migron;
At [b]Michmash he deposited his [c]baggage.
29 They have gone through [a]the pass, saying,
"[b]Geba will be our lodging place."
[c]Ramah is terrified, and [d]Gibeah of Saul has fled away.
30 Cry aloud with your voice, O daughter of [a]Gallim!
Pay attention, Laishah and [1]wretched [b]Anathoth!
31 Madmenah has fled.
The inhabitants of Gebim have sought refuge.
32 Yet today he will halt at [a]Nob;
He [b]shakes his fist at the mountain of the [1][c]daughter of Zion, the hill of Jerusalem.

33 Behold, the Lord, the [1]GOD of hosts, will lop off the boughs with a terrible crash;
Those also who are [a]tall in stature will be cut down
And those who are lofty will be abased.
34 He will cut down the thickets of the forest with an iron axe,
And [a]Lebanon will fall [1]by the Mighty One.

10:18–19 forest. A reference to the Assyrian army. See vv. 33–34.
10:19 Probably fulfilled between 612 B.C. (fall of Nineveh) and 605 (battle of Carchemish).
10:20,27 in that day. The day of victory and joy, the positive aspect of the "day of the LORD" (see notes on 2:11,17,20; 9:4). Israel is restored and the people praise God. Ch. 11 connects this "day" with the Messianic age (see 11:10–11; see also 12:1,4).
10:20–22 remnant. See note on 1:9. "A remnant shall return" was the name of Isaiah's first son (see NASB marg. on 7:3). A faithful remnant led by Hezekiah survived the Assyrian invasion of 701 B.C. (see 37:4). Later, a remnant returned from Babylonian exile.
10:20 the one who struck them. The king of Assyria (see note on 7:17).
10:21 mighty God. See note on 9:6.
10:22 the sand of the sea. See notes on Gen 13:16; 22:17. destruction is determined. Because of Israel's sin, God would punish the nation through foreign invaders.
10:23–24 the Lord GOD of hosts. See 1:24 and note.
10:24 rod . . . staff. See v. 5; 9:4 and notes.
10:26–27 Midian . . . burden . . . yoke. See note on 9:4.
10:26 Oreb. One of the Midianite leaders (Judg 7:25). the sea . . . in Egypt. When Moses stretched out his hand over the Red Sea, the waters engulfed the chariots of Pharaoh (see Ex 14:26–28).
10:27 fatness. Like a sturdy animal, Israel is able to break the yoke.
10:28–32 As if seeing a vision, Isaiah describes the approach of the Assyrian army to Jerusalem from about ten miles north of the city.
10:28 Michmash. Located about seven miles north of Jerusalem.
10:29 Ramah. The home of Samuel. It was about five miles from Jerusalem (1 Sam 7:17). Gibeah of Saul. About three miles from Jerusalem. It had been the capital of Israel's first king (see 1 Sam 10:26).
10:30 wretched Anathoth. Jeremiah's hometown (see Jer 1:1). The Hebrew for "wretched" sounds like the word "Anathoth," thus a wordplay.
10:32 Nob. Perhaps on present-day Mount Scopus, on the outskirts of Jerusalem. daughter of Zion. A personification of Jerusalem and its inhabitants.
10:33 the Lord, the GOD of hosts. See 1:24 and note. boughs . . . tall in stature. Sennacherib and his armies will fall (see vv. 16–19 and notes).
10:34 Lebanon. Refers to the famed cedars of Lebanon (see note on 2:13).

And a [c]branch from [d]his roots will bear fruit.
2 The [a]Spirit of the LORD will rest on Him,
The spirit of [b]wisdom and understanding,
The spirit of counsel and [c]strength,
The spirit of knowledge and the fear of the LORD.
3 And He will delight in the fear of the LORD,
And He will not judge by what His eyes [a]see,
Nor make a decision by what His ears hear;
4 But with [a]righteousness He will judge the [b]poor,
And decide with fairness for the [c]afflicted of the earth;
And He will strike the earth with the [d]rod of His mouth,
And with the [e]breath of His lips He will slay the wicked.
5 Also [a]righteousness will be the belt about His loins,
And [b]faithfulness the belt about His waist.

6 And the [a]wolf will dwell with the lamb,
And the leopard will lie down with the young goat,
And the calf and the young lion [1]and the fatling together;
And a little boy will lead them.
7 Also the cow and the bear will graze,
Their young will lie down together,
And the [a]lion will eat straw like the ox.
8 The nursing child will play by the hole of the cobra,
And the weaned child will put his hand on the viper's den.
9 They will [a]not hurt or destroy in all My holy mountain,
For the [b]earth will be full of the knowledge of the LORD
As the waters cover the sea.

10 Then in that day
The [a]nations will resort to the [b]root of Jesse,
Who will stand as a [1c]signal for the peoples;
And His [d]resting place will be [2]glorious.

The Restored Remnant

11 Then it will happen on that day that the Lord
Will again recover the second time with His hand
The [a]remnant of His people, who will remain,
From [b]Assyria, [c]Egypt, Pathros, Cush,
[d]Elam, Shinar, Hamath,
And from the [1e]islands of the sea.
12 And He will lift up a [a]standard for the nations
And [b]assemble the banished ones of Israel,
And will gather the dispersed of Judah
From the four corners of the earth.
13 Then the [a]jealousy of Ephraim will depart,
And those who harass Judah will be cut off;
Ephraim will not be jealous of Judah,
And Judah will not harass Ephraim.

11:1 shoot . . . stem. The Assyrians all but destroyed Judah, but it was the Babylonian exile that brought the kingdom of Judah to an end in 586 B.C. The Messiah will grow as a shoot from that stump of David's dynasty. See 6:13 and note. Jesse. David's father (see 1 Sam 16:10–13). branch. See notes on 4:2; Matt 2:23.

11:2 The Spirit . . . will rest on Him. The Messiah, like David (1 Sam 16:13), will be empowered by the Holy Spirit. counsel and strength. The Spirit will endow Him with the wisdom to undertake wise purposes and with the power to carry them out (see note on 9:6). fear of the LORD. See Prov 1:7.

11:3 delight in the fear of the LORD. See John 8:29.

11:4 righteousness . . . fairness. The rulers of Isaiah's day lacked these qualities (see 1:17; 5:7; see also note on 9:7). rod of his mouth. Assyria was God's rod in 10:5,24, but the Messiah will rule the nations with an iron scepter (Ps 2:9; Rev 19:15).

11:5 belt. When a man prepared for vigorous action, he tied up his loose, flowing garments with a belt (see 5:27).

11:6–9 The peace and safety of the Messianic age are reflected in the fact that little children will be unharmed as they play with formerly ferocious animals. Such conditions are a description of the future consummation of the Messianic kingdom. See 2:2–4 and notes; 35:9; 65:20–25; Ezek 34:25–29.

11:9 My holy mountain. See 2:2–4 and note. full of the knowledge. See 2:3, where the word of the Lord is taught in Jerusalem. Cf. Hab 2:14.

11:10 in that day. See note on 10:20,27. root of Jesse. A Messianic title closely connected with v. 1 (see also 53:2; Rom 15:12; Rev 5:5; 22:16). signal. See 5:26 and note.

11:11 second time. The first time was the exodus from Egypt (see v. 16). The second is probably the return from Assyrian and Babylonian exile, though some interpreters, who believe that the passage refers to the dispersion after the destruction of Jerusalem in A.D. 70, place the regathering at Christ's second coming. remnant. See notes on 1:9; 10:20–22. Egypt. The delta region of the Nile, in the north. Pathros. Southern Egypt, upstream from the delta. Elam. The land northeast of the lower Tigris Valley (see 21:2; Jer 49:34–39; Dan 8:2). Hamath. See note on 10:9. islands of the sea. The coastlands and islands of the Mediterranean are probably intended (see 41:1,5; 42:4; Gen 10:5).

11:12 assemble the banished ones. See 27:13; 49:22; 56:8; 62:10; 66:20. four corners. Lit. "four wings." "Four corners of the earth" is equivalent to "ends of the earth" (see 24:16; Job 37:3).

11:13 jealousy of Ephraim. See note on 7:2. Prior to the exile, Ephraim and Judah were frequently fighting each other (see 9:21).

14 They will [a]swoop down on the slopes of the Philistines on the [b]west;
Together they will [c]plunder the sons of the east;
[1]They will possess [d]Edom and [e]Moab,
And the sons of Ammon will be
[2]subject to them.
15 And the LORD will [1a]utterly destroy
The tongue of the [2]Sea of Egypt;
And He will [b]wave His hand over the [3c]River
With His scorching wind;
And He will strike it into seven streams
And make men walk over [4]dry-shod.
16 And there will be a [a]highway from Assyria
For the [b]remnant of His people who will be left,
Just as there was for Israel
In [c]the day that they came up out of the land of Egypt.

Thanksgiving Expressed

12 Then you will say on that day,
"[a]I will give thanks to You, O LORD;
For [b]although You were angry with me,
Your anger is turned away,
And You comfort me.
2 "Behold, [a]God is my salvation,
I will [b]trust and not be afraid;
For [c]the LORD GOD is my strength and song,
And He has become my salvation."
3 Therefore you will joyously [a]draw water
From the [b]springs of salvation.
4 And in that day you will [a]say,
"[b]Give thanks to the LORD, call on His name.
[c]Make known His deeds among the peoples;
[1]Make them remember that His name is exalted."
5 [a]Praise the LORD in song, for He has done [1]excellent things;
Let this be known throughout the earth.
6 [a]Cry aloud and shout for joy,
O inhabitant of Zion,
For [b]great in your midst is the Holy
One of Israel.

11:14 sons of the east. Perhaps the Midianites, who plundered Israel, along with other eastern peoples (see 9:4). Edom . . . Moab . . . sons of Ammon. After the exodus, Israel did not attack these nations (see Judg 11:14–18). Israel's future political domination is also referred to in 14:2; 49:23; 60:12 (see also 25:10; 34:5).

11:15 destroy . . . the Sea of Egypt. An allusion to the drying up of the Red Sea during the exodus (see Ex 14:21–22). tongue. See "bay" in Josh 15:2,5. the River. Rev 16:12 refers to the drying up of the Euphrates, perhaps symbolizing the removal of barriers preventing the coming of "the kings from the east."

11:16 highway. The removal of obstacles and the building of a highway leading to Jerusalem are also described in 57:14; 62:10 (cf. 40:3–4).

12:1–6 Two short psalms of praise for deliverance (vv. 1–3, 4–6) climax chs. 7–11 (see note on 7:1–12:6; see also note on 6:1).

12:1 on that day. Also "in that day," v. 4. For both see note on 10:20,27. I will give thanks to You. The "I" is probably the nation, praising the Lord for the deliverance He is sure to bring. Your anger is turned away. See note on 9:12,17,21. After God punishes Israel, His anger will be directed against nations like Assyria and Babylon.

12:2 the LORD GOD. Two Hebrew forms for the personal name of God are given: The first is "Yah"; the second was probably pronounced "Yahweh." See note on Ex 3:15. the LORD . . . salvation. These lines quote Ex 15:2, a verse commemorating the defeat of the Egyptians at the Red Sea. See also Ps 118:14.

12:3 springs. Perhaps an allusion to God's abundant provision of water for Israel during the wilderness wanderings (cf. Ex 15:25,27). But here God's future saving act is itself the "spring" from which Israel will draw life-giving water (see Ps 36:9; Jer 2:13; John 4:10).

12:6 Cry aloud and shout for joy. These two imperatives occur again in 54:1, where Zion rejoices over the restoration of her people. Holy One of Israel. See notes on 1:4; 6:1.

13:1–23:18 A series of prophecies against the nations (see also Jer 46–51; Ezek 25–32; Amos 1–2; Zeph 2:4–15). They begin with Babylon (13:1–14:23) and Assyria (14:24–27) before moving on to smaller nations. God's judgment on His people does not mean that the pagan nations will be spared (see Jer 25:29). In fact, God's judgments on the nations are often a part of His salvation of His people (see, e.g., 10:12).

13:1–14:27 This prophecy concerns Babylon during the Assyrian empire rather than during the Neo-Babylonian empire. Thus the prophecy is actually against the Assyrian empire, Babylon being its most important city. From 729 B.C. on, the kings of Assyria also assumed the title "king of Babylon." Note that there is no new "oracle" heading at 14:24, even though 14:24–27 clearly pertains to Assyria; so 13:1–14:27 forms a unit.

13:1 See note on 1:1. oracle. The Hebrew for this word is related to a Hebrew verb meaning "to lift up, carry" and is possibly to be understood as either lifting up one's voice or carrying a burden. Such an "oracle" often contains a message of doom. Babylon. See 21:1–9; 46:1–2; 47:1–15; Jer 50–51. Its judgment is announced first because of the present Assyrian threat and because Babylon would later bring about the downfall of Judah and Jerusalem between 605 and 586 B.C. Babylon was conquered by Cyrus the Persian (see 45:1; 47:1) in 539. Subsequently it came to symbolize the world powers arrayed against God's kingdom (cf. 1 Pet 5:13), and its final destruction is announced in Rev 14:8; 16:19; 17–18. Here, however, Babylon is still part of the Assyrian empire (see 14:24–27; see also note on 13:1–14:27).

13:2 Lift up a standard. See note on 5:26.

13:3 My consecrated ones. Those set apart to carry out God's will. Cf. 10:5, where the Lord calls Assyria "the rod of My anger";

I have even called My [a]mighty warriors,
My proudly exulting ones,
To execute My anger.
4 A [a]sound of tumult on the mountains,
Like that of many people!
A sound of the uproar of kingdoms,
Of nations gathered together!
The LORD of hosts is mustering the army for battle.
5 They are coming from a far country,
From the [1a]farthest horizons,
The LORD and His instruments of [b]indignation,
To [c]destroy the whole land.

Judgment on the Day of the LORD

6 Wail, for the [a]day of the LORD is near!
It will come as [b]destruction from [1]the Almighty.
7 Therefore [a]all hands will fall limp,
And every man's [b]heart will melt.
8 They will be [a]terrified,
Pains and anguish will take hold of them;
They will [b]writhe like a woman in labor,
They will look at one another in astonishment,
Their faces aflame.
9 Behold, [a]the day of the LORD is coming,
Cruel, with fury and burning anger,
To make the land a desolation;
And He will exterminate its sinners from it.
10 For the [a]stars of heaven and their constellations
Will not flash forth their light;
The [b]sun will be dark when it rises
And the moon will not shed its light.
11 Thus I will [a]punish the world for its evil
And the [b]wicked for their iniquity;
I will also put an end to the [c]arrogance of the proud
And abase the [d]haughtiness of the [1e]ruthless.
12 I will make mortal man [1a]scarcer than pure gold
And mankind than the [b]gold of Ophir.
13 Therefore I will make the [a]heavens tremble,
And [b]the earth will be shaken from its place
At the fury of the LORD of hosts
In [c]the day of His burning anger.
14 And it will be that like a hunted gazelle,
Or like [a]sheep with none to gather them,
They will each turn to his own people,
And each one flee to his own land.
15 Anyone who is found will be [a]thrust through,
And anyone who is captured will fall by the sword.
16 Their [a]little ones also will be dashed to pieces
Before their eyes;
Their houses will be plundered
And their wives ravished.

Babylon Will Fall to the Medes

17 Behold, I am going to [a]stir up the Medes against them,
Who will not value silver or [b]take pleasure in gold.
18 And their bows will [1]mow down the [a]young men,

18 [1]Lit dash in pieces [a]2 Kin 8:12; 2 Chr 36:17

see also 45:1. anger. God's anger is no longer turned against Israel (see 5:25; 9:12,17,21; 10:4) but against her enemies (see vv. 5,9,13; cf. 30:27). God must punish sin, particularly arrogance (see v. 11).

13:4 The LORD of hosts is mustering the army. The Hebrew for "army" is the singular form of the word for "Almighty." God is the head of the armies of Israel (1 Sam 17:45), of angelic powers (1 Kin 22:19; Luke 2:13) and, here, of the armies that will destroy Babylon. See note on 1 Sam 1:3.

13:5 instruments of indignation. Assyria was the club in God's hand during Isaiah's day, and Babylon itself would later serve as God's weapon (see 10:5 and note).

13:6,9 day of the LORD. See note on 2:11,17,20.

13:6 destruction. Hebrew shod, forming a wordplay on "Almighty" (Hebrew Shaddai)—as also in Joel 1:15. See note on 5:7. For Shaddai see note on Gen 17:1.

13:7 hands will fall limp. Courage will fail. See Jer 6:24.

13:8 terrified. Holy war usually brings panic to the enemy (see Ex 15:14–16; Judg 7:21–22). Pains . . . labor. The prophets often compare the suffering of judgment and war with the pain and anguish that frequently accompany childbirth (see 26:17; Jer 4:31; 6:24).

13:10 stars . . . sun . . . moon. Cosmic darkness is associated with the day of the Lord also in Joel 2:10,31; Rev 6:12–13. Cf. Judg 5:20.

13:11 arrogance . . . haughtiness. Cf. 2:9,11,17; 5:15.

13:12 scarcer . . . than. War will reduce the male population drastically (see 4:1 and note). gold of Ophir. Solomon imported large quantities of gold from this place (see 1 Kin 9:28; 10:11 and notes).

13:13 heavens tremble . . . earth . . . be shaken. Thunderstorms and earthquakes often accompany the powerful presence of the Lord (see notes on v. 10; 34:4; Ex 19:16). Hail may also be involved (cf. 30:30; Josh 10:11).

13:14 flee. From parts of the Assyrian empire.

13:16 little ones . . . dashed to pieces. Invading armies often slaughtered infants and children; thus there would be no future warriors, nor would there be a remnant through which the city (or country or people) might be revived (see Ps 137:8–9; Hos 10:14; Nah 3:10). wives ravished. Women also suffered greatly in war. With their husbands killed, they were often used as prostitutes (see note on Amos 7:17).

13:17 the Medes. Located in what is today northwestern Iran. There was conflict between Assyria and Media during the eighth century B.C. Some, however, relate the fulfillment of this verse to the period when the Medes joined the Babylonians in defeating Assyria in 612–609 but later united with Cyrus to conquer Babylon in 539. See Jer 51:11,28; Dan 5:31; 6:28.

They will not even have compassion on the fruit of the womb,
Nor will their [b]eye pity [2]children.
19 And [a]Babylon, the [b]beauty of kingdoms, the glory of the Chaldeans' pride,
Will be as when God [c]overthrew
Sodom and Gomorrah.
20 It will [a]never be inhabited or lived in from generation to generation;
Nor will the [b]Arab pitch his tent there,
Nor will shepherds make their flocks
lie down there.
21 But [a]desert creatures will lie down
there,
And their houses will be full of [1]owls;
Ostriches also will live there, and
[2]shaggy goats will frolic there.
22 [1]Hyenas will howl in their fortified towers
And jackals in their luxurious [a]palaces.
Her fateful time also [2]will soon come
And her days will not be prolonged.

Israel's Taunt

14 When the LORD will [a]have compassion on Jacob and again [b]choose Israel, and settle them in their own land, then [c]strangers will join them and attach themselves to the house of Jacob.
2 The peoples will take them along and bring them to their place, and the [a]house of Israel will possess them as an inheritance in the land of the LORD [b]as male servants and female servants; and [1]they will take their cap-tors captive and will rule over their oppressors.
3 And it will be in the day when the LORD gives you [a]rest from your pain and turmoil and harsh service in which you have been enslaved,

13:19 glory . . . pride. Babylon with its temples and palaces became a very beautiful city (see Dan 4:29–30). The hanging gardens of Nebuchadnezzar were one of the seven wonders of the ancient world. In 4:2 the Hebrew words for "adornment" and "pride" were used to describe the "Branch of the LORD." Chaldeans. The Neo-Babylonian empire of 612–539 B.C. was led by the Chaldean people of southern Babylonia. Nabopolassar welded the tribes together c. 626, and his son Nebuchadnezzar became their most powerful ruler (605–562). Sodom and Gomorrah. Previously Isaiah compared Judah to these cities (see 1:9–10 and note).
13:20–22 See the similar description of the desolation of Edom in 34:10–15. Cf. Rev 18:2.
13:20 never be inhabited. Babylon was completely deserted by the seventh century A.D.
13:21 shaggy goats. This term is connected with demons in Lev 17:7 ("goat idols") and 2 Chr 11:15 ("satyrs"). In Rev 18:2 fallen Babylon is described as a home for demons and evil spirits.
14:1 will have compassion . . . and settle them. Babylon's fall will be linked with Israel's restoration. God's compassion on His people is the theme of chs. 40–66 (see 40:1–2). in their own land. See 2:2–4; 11:10–12 and notes. strangers will join them. See 11:10; 56:6–7; 60:3.
14:2 peoples . . . place. See note on 5:26. will possess them. See note on 11:14.
14:3–21 However exalted (and almost divine) the king of Babylon may have thought himself (see vv. 12–14), he will go the way of all world rulers—down to the grave.
14:3 pain . . . enslaved. The Babylonian captivity was much like Israel's experience in Egypt (cf. Ex 1:14).
14:4 taunt. Cf. the taunts against Babylon in Rev 18. king of Babylon. Another title used by the king of Assyria at this time.
14:5 staff . . . scepter. See 10:5 and note; see also 10:24.
14:7 break forth into shouts of joy. See 12:6 and note.
14:8 cypress trees . . . cedars. Isaiah often personified nature. The trees along with the mountains burst into song in 44:23 (cf. 55:12). cedars of Lebanon. These highly prized timbers were hauled away by the kings of Assyria and Babylon for centuries.
14:9 leaders. Lit. "goats"; a goat often led a flock of sheep (see Jer 50:8). In Zech 10:3 the term is parallel to "shepherds." raises . . . from their thrones. Conditions among the dead are described in terms of their roles on earth.
14:11 pomp . . . Sheol. Cf. 5:14. music of your harps. Music is sometimes a sign of luxury and pleasure (see Amos 6:5–6).
14:12–15 Some believe that Isaiah is giving a description of the fall of Satan (cf. Luke 10:18—where, however, Jesus seems to be referring to an event contemporary with Himself). But the passage clearly applies to the king of Babylon, who is later used 13 "But you said in your heart,

'I will [a]ascend to heaven;
I will [b]raise my throne above the stars of God,
And I will sit on the mount of assembly
In the recesses of the north.
14 'I will ascend above the heights of the clouds;
[a]I will make myself like the Most High.'
15 "Nevertheless you [a]will be thrust down to Sheol,
To the recesses of the pit.
16 "Those who see you will gaze at you,
They will [1]ponder over you, saying,
'Is this the man who made the earth tremble,
Who shook kingdoms,
17 Who made the world like a [a]wilderness
And overthrew its cities,
Who [b]did not [1]allow his prisoners to go home?'
18 "All the kings of the nations lie in glory,
Each in his own [1]tomb.
19 "But you have been [a]cast out of your tomb
Like [1]a rejected branch,
[2]Clothed with the slain who are pierced with a sword,
Who go down to the stones of the [b]pit
Like a [c]trampled corpse.
20 "You will not be united with them in burial,
Because you have ruined your country,
You have slain your people.
May the [a]offspring of evildoers not be mentioned forever.
21 "Prepare for his sons a place of slaughter
Because of the [a]iniquity of their fathers.
They must not arise and take possession of the earth
And fill the face of the world with cities."
22 "I will rise up against them," declares the LORD of hosts, "and will cut off from Babylon [a]name and survivors, [b]offspring and posterity," declares the LORD.
23 "I will also make it a possession for the [a]hedgehog and swamps of water, and I will sweep it with the broom of [b]destruction," declares the LORD of hosts.

Judgment on Assyria

24 The LORD of hosts has sworn saying, "Surely, [a]just as I have intended so it has happened, and just as I have planned so it will stand,
25 to [a]break Assyria in My land, and I will trample him on My mountains. Then his [b]yoke will be removed from them and his burden removed from their shoulder.
26 "This is the [a]plan [1]devised against the whole earth; and this is the [b]hand that is stretched out against all the nations.
27 "For [a]the LORD of hosts has planned, and who can frustrate it? And as for His stretched-out hand, who can turn it back?"
28 In the [a]year that King Ahaz died this [1][b]oracle came:

Judgment on Philistia

29 "Do not rejoice, O [a]Philistia, all of you,
Because the rod that [b]struck you is broken;
For from the serpent's root a [c]viper will come out,
And its fruit will be a [d]flying serpent.

as a type (prefiguration) of the "beast" who will lead the Babylon of the last days (see Rev 13:4; 17:3). Cf. the description of the ruler of Tyre in Ezek 28.

14:12 star of the morning. The Hebrew for this expression is translated "Lucifer" in the Latin Vulgate.

14:13 of the north. Most likely referring to Mount Zaphon (see Ps 48:1–2), also called Mount Casius, which was about 25 miles northeast of Ugarit in Syria. The Canaanites considered it the home and meeting place of the gods, much like Mount Olympus for the Greeks (see Ps 48:2 and note). Cf. Ps 82:1.

14:16–20a These verses seem to take place on earth, not in the realm of the dead (Sheol)—probably also vv. 9–10.

14:17 prisoners to go home. Babylon, like Assyria, deported large segments of defeated populations to subdue the rebellious among them (see 2 Kin 24:14–16).

14:19 cast out of your tomb. A proper burial was considered important for an ordinary individual, and especially so for a king. To have one's body simply discarded was a terrible fate. trampled corpse. See 5:25.

14:21 sons a place of slaughter. A man's children, as well as his tombstone, were his memorial (cf. 2 Sam 18:18). The king of Babylon would have neither (cf. 47:9).

14:22–23 The taunt is extended to include Babylon itself (see note on vv. 3–21); fulfilled, at least partially, through Sennacherib's destruction of Babylon in 689 B.C.—ultimately by the Medes and Persians after they took Babylon in 539.

14:22 survivors. A remnant; Israel will survive through a remnant (see 10:20–22; 11:11,16), but Babylon will not.

14:23 See 13:20–22 and notes. swamps. Southern Babylonia, where the Chaldean tribes once lived, was a region of marshlands.

14:24–27 See Zeph 2:13–15; see also note on 13:1–14:27.

14:24 it will stand. See 8:10 and note. God's sovereign purposes regarding Assyria and Babylon will be carried out.

14:25 yoke . . . burden. See 9:4 and note.

14:26 hand . . . stretched out. See 9:12; 12:1 and notes. God's hand was stretched out against Egypt at the Red Sea (see Ex 15:12).

14:28–32 See Jer 47; Ezek 25:15–17; Amos 1:6–8; Zeph 2:4–7.

14:28 the year. Perhaps 715 B.C. The occasion appears to be the Philistine revolt against Assyria while King Sargon (see 20:1) was too preoccupied with serious revolts elsewhere to give much attention to Canaan. oracle. See note on 13:1.

14:29 Philistia. See note on Gen 10:14. Philistine territory was vulnerable to attack by the great empires (Egypt and Assyria) since it lay along the main route from Egypt to Mesopotamia. the rod. Probably Sargon of Assyria. is broken. If the rod was Sargon, reference is to the threats to his empire by a series of

And the needy will lie down in security;
I will [2]destroy your root with [b]famine,
And it will kill off your survivors.
31 "Wail, O [a]gate; cry, O city;
[1]Melt away, O [b]Philistia, all of you;
For smoke comes from the [c]north,
And [d]there is no straggler in his ranks.
32 "How then will one answer the [a]messengers of the nation?
That [b]the LORD has founded Zion,
And [c]the afflicted of His people will seek refuge in it."

Judgment on Moab

15 The [1]oracle concerning [a]Moab.
Surely in a night [b]Ar of Moab is devastated and ruined;
Surely in a night Kir of Moab is devastated and ruined.
2 They have gone up to the [1]temple and to [a]Dibon, even to the high places to weep.
Moab wails over Nebo and Medeba;
Everyone's head is [b]bald and every beard is cut off.
3 In their streets they have girded themselves with [a]sackcloth;
[b]On their housetops and in their squares
Everyone is wailing, [1c]dissolved in tears.
4 [a]Heshbon and Elealeh also cry out,
Their voice is heard all the way to Jahaz;
Therefore the [1]armed men of Moab cry aloud;
His soul trembles within him.
5 My heart cries out for Moab;
His fugitives are as far as [a]Zoar and Eglath-shelishiyah,
For they go up the [b]ascent of Luhith weeping;
Surely on the road to Horonaim they raise a cry of distress [c]over their ruin.
6 For the [a]waters of Nimrim are [1]desolate.
Surely the grass is withered, the tender grass [2]died out,
There is [b]no green thing.
7 Therefore the [a]abundance which they have acquired and stored up
They carry off over the brook of [1]Arabim.
8 For the cry of distress has gone around the territory of Moab,
Its wail goes as far as Eglaim and its wailing even to Beer-elim.
9 For the waters of Dimon are full of [1]blood;
Surely I will bring added woes upon Dimon,
A [a]lion upon the fugitives of Moab and upon the remnant of the land.

revolts in Babylonia and Asia Minor. root . . . fruit. A figure of speech that refers to the whole (tree) by speaking of its two extremes. After Sargon will come other Assyrian kings: Sennacherib, Esarhaddon, Ashurbanipal.

14:30 helpless . . . needy. Israelites (see v. 32).

14:31 Wail. Cf. the similar reaction in 13:6; 15:2; 16:7; 23:1. smoke. The dust raised by the marching feet and the chariots of the Assyrians—who always invaded Canaan from the north. no straggler. A longer description is found in 5:26–29.

14:32 has founded Zion. God will protect Jerusalem from the Assyrians (compare 31:4–5 with 2:2).

15:1–16:14 See Jer 48; Ezek 25:8–11; Amos 2:1–3; Zeph 2:8–11.

15:1 oracle. See note on 13:1. Moab. A country east of the Dead Sea that was a perpetual enemy of Israel (see 25:10; 2 Kin 13:20). Ar. The location of this city is unknown. devastated. The same Hebrew word describes Isaiah's feelings about himself in 6:5. The destruction of Moab was probably connected with an invasion by Sargon of Assyria in 715/713 B.C. Cf. Jer 48:1–17. Kir. Probably Kir Hareseth, 15 miles south of the Arnon River and perhaps the capital of Moab at this time. Kir means "city."

15:2 Dibon. Located four miles north of the Arnon River and given to the tribe of Gad at one time (see Num 32:34). high places. Shrines originally built on hilltops and usually associated with pagan worship. Nebo. North of the Arnon River, perhaps near Mount Nebo (Deut 34:1). Medeba. About six miles south of Heshbon (see v. 4) and once captured by Israel from Sihon (see Num 21:26,30). head is bald . . . beard is cut off. Characteristic of intense mourning (Jer 48:37).

15:3 sackcloth. The coarse garb of mourners (see Job 16:15; Jer 48:37; Lam 2:10), made of goat hair. housetops. Perhaps chosen because incense was sometimes offered there (see Jer 19:13).

15:4 Heshbon. Located about 18 miles east of the northern tip of the Dead Sea. See also Jer 48:34. It was King Sihon's capital before Israel captured it (see Num 21:23–26). Elealeh. About a mile north of Heshbon and always mentioned with it. Jahaz. Just north of the Arnon River and about 20 miles from Heshbon (Num 21:23; Jer 48:34).

15:5 Zoar. Probably located near the southern end of the Dead Sea. Lot fled there from Sodom (see Gen 14:2; 19:23,30). Eglath-shelishiyah. Location unknown (see also Jer 48:34). The words may mean "a three-year-old heifer" (cf. 1 Sam 1:24). Luhith. Location unknown (see also Jer 48:5). Horonaim. Location unknown (see also Jer 48:3,5,34).

15:6 waters of Nimrim. Perhaps to be identified with the Wadi en-Numeirah, ten miles from the southern end of the Dead Sea (cf. Jer 48:34). grass is withered. The advancing enemy may have stopped up the major springs of Moab.

15:7 brook of Arabim. Probably at the border between Moab and Edom (see v. 8).

15:8 Eglaim. Perhaps near the northern border of Moab. Beer-elim. Beer means "well" (cf. Num 21:16). This site may have been close to the southern border.

15:9 waters of Dimon . . . blood. The Hebrew for "blood" (dam) sounds like "Dimon." This is probably also a wordplay on the name "Dibon" (v. 2), close to the Arnon River. Many Moabites will die in the conflict. A lion. A reference to either the Assyrian army (cf. 5:29; Jer 50:17) or actual lions (cf. 13:21–22).

Prophecy of Moab's Devastation

16 [a]Send the tribute lamb to the ruler of the land,
From [1][b]Sela by way of the wilderness to the [c]mountain of the daughter of Zion.
2 Then, like [1][a]fleeing birds or scattered [2]nestlings,
The daughters of [b]Moab will be at the fords of the [c]Arnon.
3 "[1]Give us advice, make a decision;
[2]Cast your [a]shadow like night [3]at high noon;
[b]Hide the outcasts, do not betray the fugitive.
4 "Let the [1]outcasts of Moab stay with you;
Be a hiding place to them from the destroyer."
For the extortioner has come to an end, destruction has ceased,
[a]Oppressors have completely disappeared from the land.
5 A [a]throne will even be established in lovingkindness,
And a judge will sit on it in faithfulness in the tent of [b]David;
Moreover, he will seek justice
And be prompt in righteousness.

6 [a]We have heard of the pride of Moab, an excessive pride;
Even of his arrogance, pride, and fury;
[b]His idle boasts are [1]false.
7 Therefore Moab will wail; everyone of Moab will wail.
You will moan for the [a]raisin cakes of [b]Kir-hareseth
As those who are utterly stricken.
8 For the fields of [a]Heshbon have [1]withered, the vines of [b]Sibmah as well;
The lords of the nations have trampled down its choice clusters
Which reached as far as Jazer and wandered to the deserts;
[c]Its tendrils spread themselves out and passed over the sea.
9 Therefore I will [a]weep bitterly for Jazer, for the vine of Sibmah;
I will drench you with my tears, O [b]Heshbon and Elealeh;
For the shouting over your [c]summer fruits and your harvest has fallen away.
10 [a]Gladness and joy are taken away from the fruitful field;
In the [b]vineyards also there will be no cries of joy or jubilant shouting,
No [c]treader treads out wine in the presses,
For I have made the shouting to cease.
11 Therefore my [1][a]heart intones like a harp for Moab
And my [2]inward feelings for Kir-hareseth.
12 So it will come about when Moab [a]presents himself,
When he [b]wearies himself upon his [c]high place
And comes to his sanctuary to pray,
That he will not prevail.
13 This is the word which the LORD spoke earlier concerning Moab.
14 But now the LORD speaks, saying, "Within three years, as [1][a]a hired man would count them, the glory of [b]Moab will be degraded along with all his great population, 16:1 tribute lamb. As King Mesha sent 100,000 lambs to King Ahab of Israel each year (see 2 Kin 3:4), so now proud Moab, which has often oppressed Israel, is advised in her crisis to submit to the king in Jerusalem. Sela. The naturally fortified capital of the Edomites south of the Dead Sea, situated on a rocky plateau that towers 1,000 feet above the nearby Petra (cf. 42:11). The name means "cliff." The tribute would be sent around the southern end of the Dead Sea. daughter of Zion. A personification of Jerusalem and its inhabitants.

16:2 fords of the Arnon. The women were fleeing south, away from the northern invader.
16:3 Hide the outcasts. The Moabites are asking Judah for refuge (contrast Ruth 1:1; 1 Sam 22:3–4).
16:4 destroyer. Probably Assyria (see notes on 15:1; 33:1). extortioner. Moab.
16:5 tent of David. See 9:7; Amos 9:11 and notes. "Tent" equals "dynasty" (see note on 7:2). judge . . . will seek justice. See 11:2–4 and notes. The Messiah is again in view.
16:6 pride of Moab. Though a small nation, Moab is proud and defiant like Assyria and Babylon. Cf. 10:12; 14:13; 25:11; Jer 48:42.
16:7 raisin cakes. Or "men," a wordplay. Kir-hareseth. See note on 15:1. The four cities in vv. 7–8 appear in inverted (chiastic) order in vv. 9–11.
16:8 Heshbon. See note on 15:4. Sibmah. Perhaps three miles west of Heshbon. See Jer 48:32. choice clusters. The poet shifts to a metaphor, comparing Moab to a vineyard (see 5:1–7). He returns to a literal description again in v. 10. Jazer. Possibly located about 15 miles north of the Dead Sea. deserts. On the eastern edge of Moab. tendrils spread themselves. This is hyperbole, as in Ps 80:11, where Israel is the vineyard. sea. Probably the Dead Sea.
16:9–11 I . . . I . . . I . . . my . . . my. The Lord (and/or Isaiah) weeps and laments over the destruction brought on proud Moab to humble her.
16:9 Elealeh. See note on 15:4.
16:10 treads out wine. The grapes were trampled on, and the juice flowed into the wine vat (see note on 5:2; cf. Jer 48:33; Amos 9:13).
16:11 Cf. Jer 48:36.
16:12 high place. See 15:2 and note. pray . . . not prevail. Moab's god, Chemosh, was a mere idol (see 44:17–20; 1 Kin 11:7).
16:13–14 An epilogue to 15:1–16:12.
16:14 Within three years. Other signs that have a three-year limit are given in 20:3; 37:30; see also notes on 7:14,16. Moab's three years were over by c. 715 B.C. (see note on 15:1). hired man. Cf. 21:16–17, where the prophecy against Kedar follows the pattern of this verse.

and his remnant will be very small and [2]impotent."

Prophecy about Damascus

17 The [1][a]oracle concerning [b]Damascus.
"Behold, Damascus is about to be
[c]removed from being a city
And will become a [d]fallen ruin.
2 "The cities [1]of [a]Aroer are forsaken;
They will be for [b]flocks [2]to lie down in,
And there will be [c]no one to frighten them.
3 "The [1][a]fortified city will disappear from Ephraim,
And [2]sovereignty from Damascus
And the remnant of Aram;
They will be like the [b]glory of the sons of Israel,"
Declares the LORD of hosts.

4 Now in that day the [a]glory of Jacob will [1]fade,
And [b]the fatness of his flesh will become lean.
5 It will be [a]even like the [1]reaper gathering the standing grain,
As his arm harvests the ears,
Or it will be like one gleaning ears of grain
In the [b]valley of Rephaim.
6 Yet [a]gleanings will be left in it like the [1]shaking of an olive tree,
Two or three olives on the topmost bough,
Four or five on the branches of a fruitful tree,
Declares the LORD, the God of Israel.
7 In that day man will [a]have regard for his Maker
And his eyes will look to the Holy One of Israel.
8 He will not have regard for the [a]altars, the work of his hands,
Nor will he look to that which his [b]fingers have made,
Even the [1][c]Asherim and [2]incense stands.
9 In that day [1]their strong cities will be like [2]forsaken places in the forest,
Or like [3]branches which they abandoned before the sons of Israel;
And [4]the land will be a desolation.
10 For [a]you have forgotten the [b]God of your salvation
And have not remembered the [c]rock of your refuge.
Therefore you plant delightful plants
And set them with vine slips of a strange god.
11 In the day that you plant it you carefully fence it in,
And in the [a]morning you bring your seed to blossom;
But the harvest will [b]be a heap
In a day of sickliness and incurable pain.

12 Alas, the uproar of many peoples
[a]Who roar like the roaring of the seas,
And the rumbling of nations
Who rush on like the [b]rumbling of mighty waters!
13 The [a]nations rumble on like the rumbling of many waters,
But He will [b]rebuke them and they will flee far away,
And be chased [c]like chaff in the mountains before the wind,
Or like whirling dust before a gale.

17:1–14 See Jer 49:23–27; Amos 1:3–5.

17:1 oracle. See note on 13:1. Damascus. The capital of Aram (Syria), located northeast of Mount Hermon on strategic trade routes between Mesopotamia, Egypt and Arabia. Since the time of David, the Arameans of Damascus were frequent enemies of Israel (see 2 Sam 8:5; 1 Kin 22:31).

17:2 Aroer. About 14 miles east of the Dead Sea on the Arnon River. It marked the southern boundary of Aram's sphere of control (see 2 Kin 10:32–33).

17:3 Ephraim. The northern kingdom (see note on 7:2) is mentioned here because of its alliance with Damascus against Assyria (see note on 7:1). sovereignty. In 732 B.C. Tiglath-pileser III captured Damascus and made it an Assyrian province. Many of the cities of Israel were also captured (see note on 9:1).

17:4–11 The prophet shifts from Damascus to Israel (likely the northern kingdom)—a shift prepared for at the end of v. 3. This association of judgment on Damascus and Israel reflects the same linkage as that in ch. 7.

17:4,7,9 in that day. See notes on 2:11,17,20; 10:20,27.

17:5 harvests the ears. Harvest can signify a time of judgment (see Joel 3:13). valley of Rephaim. A fertile area west of Jerusalem (Josh 15:8) and the scene of Philistine raids (1 Chr 14:9).

17:7–8 Cf. 2:20; 10:20.

17:7 Holy One of Israel. See note on 1:4.

17:8 altars. Probably altars for Baal (cf. 1 Kin 16:32). Asherim. Wooden symbols of the goddess Asherah; see notes on Ex 34:13; Judg 2:13. incense stands. Associated with high places in Lev 26:30 and with altars for Baal in 2 Chr 34:4.

17:9 forest ... branches. Cf. 7:23–25. they. Perhaps the Canaanites, whose religious practices are referred to in v. 8.

17:10 the rock. See 26:4; 30:29; 44:8; Deut 32:4,15,18; Ps 19:14. vine slips. Probably representing the people of Israel (see 5:7; 18:5; 37:30–31).

17:11 sickliness and incurable pain. Brought by the Assyrian invasions.

17:12–14 The same sequence of a powerful invader that is quickly cut down occurs in 10:28–34. Both passages may refer to Sennacherib's invasion of 701 B.C. (see 37:36–37). But it is more likely that the prophet here speaks more generally of Israel's experience of the world of nations as a perpetual threat to her existence.

17:12 roaring of the seas. Assyria is called "strong and abundant waters" in 8:7.

17:13 chaff ... whirling dust. Symbolic of the enemy also in 29:5; 41:15–16; Ps 83:13.

14 At evening time, behold, there is terror!
Before morning [a]they are no more.
[1]Such will be the portion of those who plunder us
And the lot of those who pillage us.

Message to Ethiopia

18 Alas, oh land of whirring wings
Which lies beyond the rivers of [1a]Cush,
2 Which sends envoys by the sea,
Even in [a]papyrus vessels on the surface of the waters.
Go, swift messengers, to a nation
[1b]tall and smooth,
To a people [c]feared [2]far and wide,
A powerful and oppressive nation
Whose land the rivers divide.
3 [a]All you inhabitants of the world and dwellers on earth,
As soon as a standard is raised on the mountains, [b]you will see it,
And as soon as the trumpet is blown, you will hear it.
4 For thus the LORD has told me,
"I will look [1]from My [a]dwelling place quietly
Like dazzling heat in the [2b]sunshine,
Like a cloud of [c]dew in the heat of harvest."
5 For [a]before the harvest, as soon as the bud [1]blossoms
And the flower becomes a ripening grape,
Then He will cut off the sprigs with pruning knives
And remove and cut away the spreading branches.
6 They will be left together for mountain birds [a]of prey,
And for the beasts of the earth;
And the birds of prey will spend the summer feeding on them,
And all the beasts of the earth will spend harvest time on them.

7 At that time a gift of homage will be brought to the LORD of hosts
[1]From a [a]people [2]tall and smooth,
Even from a people feared [3]far and wide,
A powerful and oppressive nation,
Whose land the rivers divide—
To the [b]place of the name of the LORD of hosts, even Mount Zion.

Message to Egypt

19 The [1a]oracle concerning [b]Egypt.
Behold, the LORD is [c]riding on a swift cloud and is about to come to Egypt;
The [d]idols of Egypt will tremble at His presence,
And the [e]heart of the Egyptians will melt within them.
2 "So I will incite Egyptians against Egyptians;
And they will [a]each fight against his brother and each against his neighbor,
City against city and kingdom against kingdom.
3 "Then the spirit of the Egyptians will be demoralized within them;
And I will confound their strategy,
So that [a]they will resort to idols and ghosts of the dead
And to [1]mediums and spiritists.
4 "Moreover, I will deliver the Egyptians into the hand of a [a]cruel master,
And a [1]mighty king will rule over them," declares the Lord [2]GOD of hosts.

5 [a]The waters from the sea will dry up,
And the river will be parched and dry.
6 The [1a]canals will emit a stench,

18:1–7 See Zeph 2:12.
18:1 whirring wings. Either a reference to insects (perhaps locusts) or a figurative description of the armies of Cush (see 7:18–19). Cush. Nubia or ancient Ethiopia (not to be confused with modern Ethiopia, which is located farther to the southeast), south of Egypt. In 715 B.C. a Cushite named Shabako gained control of Egypt and founded the 25th dynasty.
18:2 sea. Perhaps the Nile River (cf. 19:5; Nah 3:8). papyrus vessels. See note on Ex 2:3. Go, swift messengers. With the message contained in vv. 3–6. nation tall and smooth. Probably the peoples of Cush and Egypt. Unlike Semites, they were clean-shaven (see note on Gen 41:14). rivers. The Nile and its tributaries.
18:3 All you inhabitants of the world. All the nations arrayed against God's people Israel (see 17:12–14 and note). standard. See 5:26 and note. trumpet. Used to summon troops.
18:4 look . . . quietly. In the face of the hostility of the nations, the Lord will not act immediately; but when they are in the full growth of summer (v. 5), He will cut them down.
18:6 birds of prey . . . beasts of the earth. Cf. 56:9; Jer 7:33; Ezek 32:4; 39:17–20.
18:7 See v. 2. gift. According to 2 Chr 32:23 gifts were brought to Hezekiah after Sennacherib's death. The Moabites were asked to send tribute to Mount Zion in 16:1 (cf. 45:14; Zeph 3:10). place of the name. See Deut 12:5 and note.
19:1–20:6 See Jer 46; Ezek 29–32.
19:1 oracle. See note on 13:1. riding on a swift cloud. A metaphor used also in Ps 68:4; 104:3; cf. Matt 26:64. idols . . . tremble. See Jer 50:2. God had also previously judged Egypt's idols during the ten plagues (see Ex 12:12 and note). heart . . . melt. See 13:7.
19:2 Egyptians against Egyptians. Cf. 9:21. The Libyan dynasty clashed with the "Ethiopians" (Cushites; see note on 18:1) and with the Saites of Dynasty 24.
19:3 resort to . . . spiritists. Israel also did so in desperate times (see 8:19 and note).
19:4 cruel master. The king of Assyria (see 20:4). Esarhaddon conquered Egypt in 670 B.C.
19:5 sea will dry up. The Nile was the lifeline of Egypt; its annual flooding provided essential water and produced the only fertile soil there.
19:6 canals. For irrigation.

The [2b]streams of Egypt will thin out and dry up;
[c]The reeds and rushes will rot away.
7 The bulrushes by the [a]Nile, by the
[1]edge of the Nile
And all the sown fields by the Nile
Will become dry, be driven away, and be no more.
8 And the [a]fishermen will lament,
And all those who cast a [1]line into the Nile will mourn,
And those who spread nets on the waters will [2]pine away.
9 Moreover, the manufacturers of linen made from combed flax
And the weavers of white [a]cloth will be [1]utterly dejected.
10 And [1]the [a]pillars of Egypt will be crushed;
All the hired laborers will be grieved
in soul.

11 The princes of [1][a]Zoan are mere fools;
The advice of Pharaoh's wisest advisers has become [2]stupid.
How can you men say to Pharaoh,
"I am a son of the [b]wise, a son of ancient kings"?
12 Well then, where are your wise men?
Please let them tell you,
And let them [1]understand what the
LORD of hosts
Has [a]purposed against Egypt.
13 The princes of [1]Zoan have acted foolishly,
The princes of [a]Memphis are deluded;
Those who are the [b]cornerstone of her tribes
Have [2]led Egypt astray.
14 The LORD has mixed within her a spirit of [a]distortion;
[b]They have led Egypt astray in all
[1]that it does,
As a [c]drunken man [2]staggers in his vomit.
15 There will be no work for Egypt
[a]Which its head or tail, its palm branch or bulrush, may do.
16 In that day the Egyptians will become like women, and they will tremble and be in [a]dread because of the [b]waving of the hand of the LORD of hosts, which He is going to wave over them.
17 The land of Judah will become a [1]terror to Egypt; everyone [2]to whom it is mentioned will be in dread of it, because of the [a]purpose of the LORD of hosts which He is purposing against them.
18 In that day five cities in the land of Egypt will be speaking the language of Canaan and [a]swearing allegiance to the LORD of hosts; one will be called the City of [1]Destruction.
19 In that day there will be an [a]altar to the LORD in the midst of the land of Egypt, and a [b]pillar to the LORD near its border.
20 It will become a sign and a witness to the LORD of hosts in the land of Egypt; for they will cry to the LORD because of oppressors, and He will send them a [a]Savior and a [1b]Champion, and He will deliver them.

19:7 sown fields. Egypt's crops were normally abundant, and some were exported.
19:8 fishermen. Fish were usually plentiful (see Num 11:5).
19:9 manufacturers of linen. Large amounts of water were needed to process flax. white cloth. Another well-known Egyptian export.
19:11 Zoan. A city (possibly Tanis) in the northeastern part of the Nile delta. It would have been familiar to the Israelites enslaved in Egypt (see Num 13:22; Ps 78:12,43). It was the northern capital for the 25th dynasty (see note on 18:1). son of the wise. See v. 12. Egypt was famous for its wise men (see 1 Kin 4:30).
19:13 Memphis. An important city 15 miles south of the delta that was the capital during the Old Kingdom (c. 2686–2160 B.C.). cornerstone. Prophets and priests, as well as political leaders (see 9:15–16).
19:14 drunken man staggers. Israel's leaders stagger in 28:7–8.
19:15 head or tail . . . palm branch or bulrush. Egypt's leaders. The same two pairs are used of Israel's leaders in 9:14–15.
19:16–25 A chain of four announcements of coming events associated with "that day": 1. An act of divine judgment will cause Egypt to "tremble and be in dread" (v. 16) and be in terror of Judah (vv. 16–17). 2. "Five cities" in Egypt will be "swearing allegiance" to the Lord (v. 18). 3. Because of a divine act of deliverance and healing in Egypt, an altar will be erected in Egypt where Egyptians will offer sacrifices to the Lord (vv. 19–22). 4. Egypt, Assyria and Israel will be linked into one people of the Lord (vv. 23–25). The prophet looks well beyond the present realities in which the world powers do not acknowledge the true God and proudly pursue their own destinies, running roughshod over the people of the Lord. He foresees a series of divine acts that will bring about the conversion of the nations.
19:16,18–19,23–24 In that day. The coming day of the Lord (see 10:20,27 and note; cf. 11:10–11).
19:16 tremble and be in dread. Like the people of Jericho (Josh 2:9,11). hand of the LORD . . . wave over them. See 14:26–27 and note.
19:17 land of Judah. The Egyptians will somehow recognize (perhaps through court contacts with Hezekiah) that it is the God of Judah who has brought judgment upon them.
19:18 five. Perhaps in the sense of "many." speaking the language of Canaan. Either a symbolic reference to Egypt's allegiance to the Lord (see vv. 21–22,25) or a literal reference to Jews living in Egypt. After the fall of Jerusalem in 586 B.C., many Jews fled to Egypt (Jer 44:1). City of Destruction. Probably a reference to Heliopolis, city of the sun-god; it was destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar (see Jer 43:12–13). The Hebrew for "destruction" is almost identical to the Hebrew for "sun."
19:19 altar. Some relate this to the temple built in Egypt by the Jewish high priest Onias IV, who fled to Egypt in the second century B.C., but the reference appears to be to a conversion to the Lord of a significant number of Egyptians.
19:20 sign and a witness. Cf. the purpose of the altar built near the Jordan River by the Transjordan tribes in Josh 22:26–27. oppressors . . . Savior. The language of the book of Judges (see Judg 2:18). The "Savior" is the promised Son of the house of David (see 11:1–10).

21 Thus the LORD will make Himself known to Egypt, and the Egyptians will know the LORD in that day. They will even worship with [a]sacrifice and offering, and will make a vow to the LORD and perform it.

22 The LORD will strike Egypt, striking but [a]healing; so they will [b]return to the LORD, and He will respond to them and will heal them.

23 In that day there will be a [a]highway from Egypt to Assyria, and the Assyrians will come into Egypt and the Egyptians into Assyria, and the Egyptians will [b]worship with the Assyrians.

24 In that day Israel will be the third party with Egypt and Assyria, a blessing in the midst of the earth,

25 whom the LORD of hosts has blessed, saying, "Blessed is [a]Egypt My people, and Assyria [b]the work of My hands, and Israel My inheritance."

Prophecy about Egypt and Ethiopia

20 In the year that the [1a]commander came to [b]Ashdod, when Sargon the king of Assyria sent him and he fought against Ashdod and captured it,

2 at that time the LORD spoke through [a]Isaiah the son of Amoz, saying, "Go and loosen the [b]sackcloth from your hips and take your [c]shoes off your feet." And he did so, going [d]naked and barefoot.

3 And the LORD said, "Even as My servant Isaiah has gone naked and barefoot three years as a [1a]sign and token against Egypt and [2b]Cush,

God Commands That Babylon Be Taken

21 The [1a]oracle concerning the [2b]wilderness of the sea.
As [c]windstorms in the [3]Negev sweep on,
It comes from the wilderness, from a terrifying land.
2 A [a]harsh vision has been shown to me;
The [b]treacherous one still deals treacherously, and the destroyer still destroys.
Go up, [c]Elam, lay siege, Media;
I have made an end of all [1]the groaning she has caused.
3 For this reason my [a]loins are full of anguish;
Pains have seized me like the pains of a [b]woman in labor.
I am so bewildered I cannot hear, so terrified I cannot see.

3 [a]Is 13:8; 16:11 [b]Ps 48:6; Is 13:8; 26:17; 1 Thess 5:3

19:21 make Himself known. Cf. Ex 7:5. worship with sacrifice. Offerings of foreigners are also mentioned in 56:7; 60:7 (cf. Zech 14:16–19).

19:22 strike Egypt. Oppression (see v. 20) and plague were two common forms of divine affliction. Contrast the results of the plague on the firstborn in Ex 12:23. respond . . . heal. Cf. 6:10; here parallel to sending Egypt a "Savior and Champion" (v. 20). Earlier a hardhearted pharaoh had not turned to the Lord (Ex 9:34–35).

19:23 highway. Cf. the highway to Jerusalem in 11:16 (see note there). For centuries Egyptians and Assyrians had fought each other (see 20:4), but in the future they would be linked in a bond of friendship sealed by their common allegiance to the Lord (cf. 25:3). worship with. This description of peace and of unity in worship is similar to 2:2–4 (see note there; see also note on v. 21).

19:25 has blessed. A fulfillment of Gen 12:3. Egypt My people. Such a universal vision seems possible for Isaiah only in the light of what has been said about the "shoot . . . from the stem of Jesse" (11:1; see 11:1–10). Cf. 45:14; Eph 2:11–13.

20:1–6 An epilogue to chs. 18–19, as 16:13–14 is to 15:1–16:12.

20:1 the year. Probably 712 B.C. Sargon. Sargon II, who reigned 721–705 B.C. He is mentioned by name only here in the OT. Ashdod. One of the five Philistine cities (see map, p. 312), Ashdod was located near the Mediterranean Sea about 18 miles northeast of Gaza. The city had rebelled against Assyria in 713 under King Azuri. In 1963 three fragments of an Assyrian monument commemorating Sargon's victory and mentioning Sargon by name were discovered at Ashdod.

20:2 sackcloth. Normally the garment of mourners (see note on 15:3), but perhaps also the usual garb of prophets (see 2 Kin 1:8; Zech 13:4).

20:3 My servant. A title for prophets and others used by God in a special way. three years. See 16:14 and note. sign and token. See 8:18; see also 7:3,14 and notes. The prophet Ezekiel's behavior also had symbolic significance (Ezek 24:24,27; cf. Zech 3:8). Egypt and Cush. See 18:1; 19:1.

20:4 naked and barefoot. Cf. 2 Chr 28:15; Mic 1:8.

20:5 Cush their hope . . . Egypt their boast. After Assyria conquered the northern kingdom of Israel in 722–721 B.C., King Hezekiah of Judah was under great pressure to make an alliance with Egypt. Isaiah urgently warned against such a policy (cf. 30:1–2; 31:1).

21:1 oracle. See note on 13:1. wilderness. The coming judgment would eventually turn Babylon (see v. 9) into a wasteland (cf. 13:20–22). the sea. Refers either to the Persian Gulf, which was just south of Babylon, or to the alluvial plain deposited by the Euphrates and Tigris rivers and their tributaries. windstorms . . . wilderness. The wilderness sometimes spawns powerful winds (see Hos 13:15). it. It is not clear whether "comes from the wilderness, from a terrifying land" is ascribed to an invader or continues the description of the whirlwinds.

21:2 Elam. See note on 11:11. The Elamites were a perpetual enemy of Assyria and Babylon. Much later, they were part of the Persian army that conquered Babylon under Cyrus in 539 B.C. Media. See note on 13:17. she. Babylon.

21:3 full of anguish; Pains have seized me. See Daniel's reaction to visions in Dan 8:27; 10:16–17; but see also notes on 29:9–11.

4 My [1]mind reels, [2]horror overwhelms me;
The twilight I longed for has been [a]turned for me into trembling.
5 They [a]set the table, they [1]spread out the cloth, they eat, they drink;
"Rise up, captains, oil the shields,"
6 For thus the Lord says to me,
"Go, station the lookout, let him [a]report what he sees.
7 "When he sees [a]riders, horsemen in pairs,
A train of donkeys, a train of camels,
Let him pay close attention, very close attention."
8 Then [1]the lookout called,
"[a]O Lord, I stand continually by day on the watchtower,
And I am stationed every night at my guard post.
9 "Now behold, here comes a troop of riders, horsemen in pairs."
And one said, "[a]Fallen, fallen is Babylon;
And all the [b]images of her gods [1]are shattered on the ground."
10 O my [a]threshed people, and my [1]afflicted of the threshing floor!
What I have heard from the LORD of hosts,
The God of Israel, I make known to you.

Oracles about Edom and Arabia

11 The [1]oracle concerning [2a]Edom.
One keeps calling to me from [b]Seir,
"Watchman, [3]how far gone is the night?
Watchman, [3]how far gone is the night?"
12 The watchman says,
"Morning comes but also night.
If you would inquire, inquire;
Come back again."

13 The [1]oracle about [a]Arabia.
In the thickets of Arabia you [2]must spend the night,
O caravans of [b]Dedanites.
14 Bring water [1]for the thirsty,
O inhabitants of the land of [a]Tema,
Meet the fugitive with bread.
15 For they have [a]fled from the swords,
From the drawn sword, and from the bent bow
And from the press of battle.
16 For thus the Lord said to me, "In a [a]year, as [1]a hired man would count it, all the splendor of [b]Kedar will terminate;
17 and the [a]remainder of the number of bowmen, the mighty men of the sons of Kedar, will be few; for the LORD God of Israel [b]has spoken."

The Valley of Vision

22 The [1]oracle concerning the [a]valley of vision.

2 [a]Is 23:7; 32:13

21:4 twilight. Perhaps the end of the Babylonian empire (see note on v. 12). turned for me into trembling. The devastation is beyond even what he had desired.
21:5 eat . . . drink. With the kind of confident assurance reflected in Belshazzar's feast (see Dan 5:1). Rise up. Rhetorically the prophet, who has seen in a vision the coming attack on Babylon, calls on the officers of Babylon to prepare. oil the shields. See note on 2 Sam 1:21.
21:6 Go, station the lookout. Probably on the walls of Jerusalem.
21:7 riders . . . donkeys . . . camels. Bearing messengers from afar.
21:9 Fallen . . . is Babylon. See 13:19. Babylon fell in 689 B.C. and again in 539. These words were adapted by John in Rev 14:8; 18:2. images . . . are shattered. The fall of a kingdom meant the disgrace of its gods (cf. 46:1–2).
21:10 afflicted. Judah would be punished by the Babylonians and taken into captivity (see 39:5–7). of the threshing floor. Threshing was a common metaphor for judgment or destruction from war (see Amos 1:3).
21:11–12 See Jer 49:7–22; Ezek 25:12–14; Amos 1:11–12.
21:11 oracle. See note on 13:1. Seir. A synonym for Edom (Gen 32:3), homeland of Esau's descendants, south of the Dead Sea. Edom is dealt with more extensively in 34:5–15 (cf. 63:1).
21:12 Morning . . . but also night. Perhaps meaning that the long night of Assyrian oppression is almost over, but only a short "morning" will precede Babylonian domination.
21:13–17 See Jer 49:28–33.
21:13 oracle. See note on 13:1. thickets. The caravans had to hide from the invader (cf. Judg 5:6). The Assyrians began to attack the Arabs in 732 B.C., and the Babylonians did the same under Nebuchadnezzar (see Jer 25:17,23–24). Dedanites. An Arabian tribe whose merchant activities are mentioned also in Ezek 27:20; 38:13.
21:14 Tema. An oasis in northern Arabia about 400 miles southwest of Babylon (cf. Job 6:19; Jer 25:23).
21:15 sword . . . bow. The simple bows of the Arabs were ineffective against the swords and composite bows of Assyria.
21:16 hired man. See 16:14 and note. splendor. See 14:11; 16:14. Kedar. The home of Bedouin tribes in the Arabian Desert. Kedar was known for its flocks (60:7; Ezek 27:21). Nebuchadnezzar defeated the people of Kedar (Jer 49:28–29; cf. Jer 2:10).
21:17 remainder . . . will be few. Cf. 10:19; 16:14; 17:6.
22:1–13 The notes on this prophecy assume that it refers primarily to the final Babylonian siege of Jerusalem in 588–586 B.C. But it is also possible that the primary reference is to the siege by the Assyrian king Sennacherib in 701.
22:1 oracle. See note on 13:1. valley of vision. A valley where God revealed Himself in visions, probably one of the valleys near Jerusalem (see note on v. 7). See also v. 5. housetops. See 15:3 and note.
22:2 boisterous . . . exultant. See v. 13; 5:11–12; 32:13. Jerusalem is behaving just like Babylon (see 21:5; cf. 23:7). not

Your slain were [b]not slain with the sword,
Nor [1]did they die in battle.
3 [a]All your rulers have fled together,
And have been captured [1]without the bow;
All of you who were found were taken captive together,
[2]Though they had fled far away.
4 Therefore I say, "Turn your eyes away from me,
Let me [a]weep bitterly,
Do not [1]try to comfort me concerning the destruction of the daughter of my people."
5 [a]For the Lord [1]God of hosts has a [b]day of panic, [c]subjugation and confusion
[d]In the valley of vision,
A breaking down of walls
And a crying [2]to the mountain.
6 [a]Elam took up the quiver
With the chariots, [1]infantry and horsemen;
And [b]Kir uncovered the shield.
7 Then your choicest valleys were full of chariots,
And the horsemen took up fixed positions at the gate.
8 And He removed the [1]defense of Judah.
In that day you [2]depended on the weapons of the [a]house of the forest,
9 And you saw that the breaches
In the wall of the city of David were many;
And you [a]collected the waters of the lower pool.
10 Then you counted the houses of Jerusalem
And tore down houses to fortify the wall.
11 And you made a reservoir [a]between the two walls
For the waters of the [b]old pool.
But you did not [1]depend on Him who made it,
Nor did you [2]take into consideration Him who planned it long ago.

12 Therefore in that day the Lord [1]God of hosts called you to [a]weeping, to wailing,
To [b]shaving the head and to wearing sackcloth.
13 Instead, there is [a]gaiety and gladness,
Killing of cattle and slaughtering of sheep,
Eating of meat and drinking of wine:
"[b]Let us eat and drink, for tomorrow we may die."
14 But the Lord of hosts revealed Himself [1]to me,
"Surely this [a]iniquity [b]shall not be [2]forgiven you
[c]Until you die," says the Lord [3]God of hosts.

15 Thus says the Lord [1]God of hosts,
"Come, go to this steward,
To [a]Shebna, who is in charge of the royal household, 16 'What right do you have here,
And whom do you have here,
That you have [a]hewn a tomb for yourself here,
You who hew a tomb on the height,
You who carve a resting place for [1]yourself in the rock?
17 'Behold, the Lord is about to hurl you headlong, O man.
And He is about to grasp you firmly
18 And roll you tightly like a ball,
To be [a]cast into a vast country;
There you will die
And there your splendid chariots will be, slain with the sword. Perhaps a reference to death from disease and famine when the Babylonians besieged Jerusalem in 586 B.C.

22:3 rulers have fled. King Zedekiah and his army fled Jerusalem but were captured near Jericho (see 2 Kin 25:4–6).

22:5 has a day. See 2:12 and note on 2:11,17,20. Also cf. "in that day" in vv. 8,12. panic. A fulfillment of the curse of Deut 28:20.

22:6 Elam. See note on 11:11. Elamites probably fought in the Babylonian army. Kir. Perhaps another name for Media (see 21:2).

22:7 choicest valleys. The Kidron Valley lay east of Jerusalem (see John 18:1), the Hinnom Valley to the south and west (see Josh 15:8).

22:8 house of the forest. Built by King Solomon out of cedars from Lebanon (see 1 Kin 7:2–6; 10:17,21).

22:9 city of David. See 2 Sam 5:6–7,9. lower pool. Probably the same as the "old pool" of v. 11. Hezekiah made a pool and a tunnel as a precaution against Sennacherib's invasion (see 2 Kin 20:20). The "upper pool" is mentioned in 7:3; 36:2.

22:10 fortify the wall. Cf. Hezekiah's preparations in 2 Chr 32:5.

22:11 did not depend on Him. In 31:1 those who look to horses and chariots rather than to God are similarly condemned.

22:12 shaving the head. The hair was either torn out or shaved off (cf. Jer 16:6; Ezek 27:31).

22:13 gaiety and gladness. The same Hebrew phrase is translated "gladness and joy" in 35:10; 51:11, passages depicting great hope in connection with restoration. But this was a time to mourn (Eccl 3:4). See note on v. 2.

22:15 Shebna. Apparently a foreigner, possibly Egyptian; a contemporary of King Hezekiah. in charge of the royal household. A position second only to the king (see note on v. 21; cf. 36:3; 1 Kin 4:6; 2 Kin 15:5).

22:16 hewn a tomb. One's place of burial was considered very important, and Shebna coveted a tomb worthy of a king (cf. 2 Chr 16:14).

22:17 hurl you headlong. Cf. Jer 22:24–26.

22:18 There you will die. Apparently without an honorable burial (see note on 14:19). chariots. A sign of luxury and high office (see 2:7; Gen 41:43).

You shame of your master's house.'
19 "I will [a]depose you from your office,
And [1]I will pull you down from your station.
20 "Then it will come about in that day,
That I will summon My servant
[a]Eliakim the son of Hilkiah,
21 And I will clothe him with your tunic
And tie your sash securely about him.
I will entrust him with your [1]authority,
And he will become a [a]father to the inhabitants of Jerusalem and to the house of Judah.
22 "Then I will set [a]the key of the [b]house of David on his shoulder,
When he opens no one will shut,
When he shuts no one will [c]open.
23 "I will drive him like a [a]peg in a firm place,
And he will become a [b]throne of glory to his father's house.
24 "So they will hang on him all the glory of his father's house, offspring and [1]issue, all the least of vessels, from bowls to all the jars.
25 "In that day," declares the LORD of hosts, "the [a]peg driven in a firm place will give way; it will even [b]break off and fall, and the load hanging on it will be cut off, for the [c]LORD has spoken."

The Fall of Tyre

23 The [1]oracle concerning [a]Tyre.
Wail, O [b]ships of [c]Tarshish,
For Tyre is destroyed, without house or [2d]harbor;
It is reported to them from the land of [3e]Cyprus.
2 [a]Be silent, you inhabitants of the coastland,
You merchants of Sidon;
[1]Your messengers crossed the sea
3 And were on many waters.
[a]The grain of the [1b]Nile, the harvest of the River was her revenue;
And she was the [c]market of nations.
4 Be ashamed, O [a]Sidon;
For the sea speaks, the stronghold of the sea, saying,
"I have neither travailed nor given birth,
I have neither brought up young men nor reared virgins."
5 When the report reaches Egypt,
They will be in [a]anguish at the report of Tyre.
6 Pass over to [a]Tarshish;
Wail, O inhabitants of the coastland.
7 Is this your [a]jubilant city,
Whose origin is from antiquity,
Whose feet used to carry her to [1]colonize distant places?
8 Who has planned this against Tyre,
[a]the bestower of crowns,
Whose merchants were princes,
whose traders were the honored of the earth?
9 [a]The LORD of hosts has planned it, to [b]defile the pride of all beauty,
To despise all the [c]honored of the earth.
10 [1]Overflow your land like the Nile,
O daughter of Tarshish,
There is no more [2]restraint.

22:20 in that day. When the Lord acts in judgment (see vv. 17–19). My servant. See note on 20:3. Eliakim. See 36:3,11,22; 37:2.

22:21 entrust him with your authority. By 701 B.C. (see 36:3) Eliakim had replaced Shebna, who was demoted to "scribe."

22:22 Quoted in part in Rev 3:7. The mention of "father" (v. 21) and of the responsibility "on his shoulder" recalls the words about the Messiah in 9:6. key of the house of David. The authority delegated to him by the king, who belongs to David's dynasty—perhaps controlling entrance into the royal palace. Cf. the "keys of the kingdom" given to Peter (Matt 16:19).

22:23 peg. Normally the Hebrew for this word refers to a tent peg, but here to a peg driven into wood (see Ezek 15:3). throne of glory. Cf. 1 Sam 2:8.

22:25 In that day. Another (unspecified) day when the Lord will come in judgment. peg . . . will give way. Eliakim, like Shebna, will eventually fall from power.

23:1–18 See Ezek 26:1–28:19; Amos 1:9–10.

23:1 oracle. See note on 13:1. Tyre. The main seaport along the Phoenician coast, about 35 miles north of Mount Carmel. Part of the city was built on two rocky islands about half a mile from the shore. King Hiram of Tyre supplied cedars and craftsmen for the temple (see 1 Kin 5:8–9) and sailors for Solomon's commercial fleet (1 Kin 9:27). Wail, O ships. See v. 14. ships of Tarshish. Trading ships (see note on 2:16). destroyed. Fulfilled through Assyria, Nebuchadnezzar and Alexander. Nebuchadnezzar captured the mainland city in 572 B.C. (see Ezek 26:7–11), but the island fortress was not taken until Alexander the Great destroyed it in 332 (cf. Ezek 26:3–5). Cyprus. An island that had close ties with Tyre (see Ezek 27:6).

23:2,4,12 Sidon. See Ezek 28:20–26, the other prominent Phoenician city, about 25 miles north of Tyre.

23:2 merchants . . . messengers. Tyre's commercial ventures affected the entire Mediterranean world (see vv. 3,8).

23:3 Nile. Probably the easternmost branch of the Nile. harvest of the River. See 19:7 and note.

23:4 stronghold of the sea. Tyre (see note on v. 1). travailed . . . birth. Contrast 54:1.

23:6 Tarshish. Perhaps Tartessus in Spain (see Jon 1:3 and note), or an island in the western Mediterranean, or a site on the coast of North Africa.

23:7 jubilant. See note on 22:2. from antiquity. Tyre was founded before 2000 B.C. colonize distant places. Carthage in North Africa was a colony of Tyre. Tarshish may have been another.

23:8–9 planned. See 14:24,26–27; 25:1.

23:8 bestower of crowns. Tyre crowned kings in her colonies. traders were . . . honored. See Ezek 28:4–5.

23:9 pride of all beauty. See Ezek 27:3–4.

23:10 daughter of Tarshish. A personification of Tarshish and its inhabitants.

11 He has [a]stretched His hand out [b]over the sea,
He has [c]made the kingdoms tremble;
The LORD has given a command concerning Canaan to [d]demolish its strongholds.

12 He has said, "[a]You shall exult no more, O crushed virgin daughter of Sidon.
Arise, pass over to [1][b]Cyprus; even there you will find no rest."

13 Behold, the land of the Chaldeans—this is the people which was not; [a]Assyria appointed it for [b]desert creatures—they erected their siege towers, they stripped its palaces, [c]they made it a ruin.

14 Wail, O [a]ships of Tarshish,
For your stronghold is destroyed.

15 Now in that day Tyre will be forgotten for [a]seventy years like the days of one king. At the end of seventy years it will happen to Tyre as in the song of the harlot:

16 Take your harp, walk about the city,
O forgotten harlot;
Pluck the strings skillfully, sing many songs,
That you may be remembered.

17 It will come about at [a]the end of seventy years that the LORD will visit Tyre. Then she will go back to her harlot's wages and will [b]play the harlot with all the kingdoms [1]on the face of the earth.

18 Her [a]gain and her harlot's wages will be [b]set apart to the LORD; it will not be stored up or hoarded, but her gain will become sufficient food and choice attire for those who dwell in the presence of the LORD.

Judgment on the Earth

24 Behold, the LORD [a]lays the earth waste, devastates it, distorts its surface and scatters its inhabitants.

2 And the people will be like the priest, the servant like his master, the maid like her mistress, the buyer like the seller, the lender like the borrower, the [a]creditor like the debtor.

3 The earth will be completely laid waste and completely despoiled, for the LORD has spoken this word.

4 The [a]earth mourns and withers, the world fades and withers, the [b]exalted of the people of the earth fade away.

5 The earth is also [a]polluted [1]by its inhabitants, for they transgressed laws, violated statutes, [b]broke the everlasting covenant.

6 Therefore, a [a]curse devours the earth, and those who live in it are held guilty. Therefore, the [b]inhabitants of the earth are burned, and few men are left.

7 The [a]new wine mourns,
The vine decays,
All the merry-hearted sigh.
8 The [a]gaiety of tambourines ceases,
The noise of revelers stops,
The gaiety of the harp ceases.
9 They do not drink wine with song;
[a]Strong drink is [b]bitter to those who drink it.
10 The [a]city of chaos is broken down;
[b]Every house is shut up so that none may enter.
11 There is an [a]outcry in the streets concerning the wine;
[b]All joy [1]turns to gloom.
The gaiety of the earth is banished.
12 Desolation is left in the city
And the [a]gate is battered to ruins.

12 [a]Is 14:31; 45:2

23:11 stretched His hand out. See note on 14:26–27. Canaan. Here roughly the same as modern Lebanon.
23:12 crushed. Sidon was captured by Esarhaddon in the seventh century B.C. and later by Nebuchadnezzar c. 587 (cf. Jer 25:22). virgin daughter of Sidon. See note on v. 10.
23:13 Assyria. Sennacherib destroyed the city of Babylon in 689 B.C. Phoenicia would look like the Babylon of that time. desert creatures. Cf. 13:21. siege towers. See note on 2 Kin 25:1.
23:14 See v. 1 and note.
23:15 seventy years. Also the length of the Babylonian captivity (see Jer 25:11; 29:10), and the length of time Sennacherib decreed that Babylon should remain devastated.
23:16 Cf. Prov 7:10–15.
23:17 her harlot's wages. A "harlot" nation was one that sought to make the highest profits, regardless of the means. Self-gratification was the key (cf. Rev 17:5).
23:18 set apart to the LORD. The earnings of a prostitute could not be given to the Lord (Deut 23:18), but the silver and gold of a city devoted to destruction (see note on Deut 2:34) were placed in the Lord's treasury (see Josh 6:17,19; cf. Mic 4:13). for those. Israel will one day receive the wealth of the nations (see note on 18:7; cf. 60:5–11; 61:6).
24:1–27:13 Chs. 24–27 deal with judgment and blessing in the last days, the time of God's final victory over the forces of evil. These chapters form a conclusion to chs. 13–23 just as chs. 34–35 form a conclusion to chs. 28–33.
24:1 lays the earth waste. Cf. 2:10,19,21; see also 13:13 and note. scatters its inhabitants. See Gen 11:9.
24:2 Social distinctions will provide no escape from the judgment (cf. 3:1–3).
24:4 mourns and withers. Words applied to Moab in 15:6; 16:8. Cf. 34:4.
24:5 broke the everlasting covenant. Reference is probably to the covenant of Gen 9:8–17 (see Gen 9:11 and note). See also v. 18 and note. Although everlasting from the divine viewpoint, God's covenants can be broken by sinful mankind.
24:6 curse. Because of the intensification of evil in the world, God's devastating curse will burn up the earth's inhabitants (cf. Gen 8:21–22; cf. also the covenant of Gen 9:8–17).
24:7 vine decays. See v. 4 and note.
24:8 gaiety . . . ceases. Cf. 22:2,13; 23:7.
24:9 wine with song. Characteristic of Judah in 5:11–13 (see note there).
24:10 city of chaos. The same idea appears in 25:2; 26:5 (cf. 17:1; 19:18). It is probably a composite of all the cities opposed to God—such as Babylon, Tyre, Jerusalem and Rome.

13 For [a]thus it will be in the midst of the earth among the peoples,
As the [1]shaking of an olive tree,
As the gleanings when the grape harvest is over.
14 [a]They raise their voices, they shout for joy;
They cry out from the [1]west concerning the majesty of the LORD.
15 Therefore [a]glorify the LORD in the [1]east,
The [b]name of the LORD, the God of Israel,
In the [2][c]coastlands of the sea.
16 From the [a]ends of the earth we hear songs, "[b]Glory to the Righteous One,"
But I say, "[1][c]Woe to me! [1]Woe to me! Alas for me!
The [d]treacherous deal treacherously,
And the treacherous deal very treacherously."
17 [a]Terror and pit and snare
[1]Confront you, O inhabitant of the earth.
18 Then it will be that he who flees the [1]report of disaster will fall into the pit,
And he who [2]climbs out of the pit will be caught in the snare;
For the [a]windows [3]above are opened,
and the [b]foundations of the earth shake.
19 [a]The earth is broken asunder,
The earth is [b]split through,
The earth is shaken violently.
20 The earth [a]reels to and fro like a drunkard
And it totters like a [1]shack,
For its [b]transgression is heavy upon it,
And it will fall, [c]never to rise again.
21 So it will happen in that day,
That the LORD will [a]punish the host of [1]heaven on high,
And the [b]kings of the earth on earth.
22 They will be gathered together
Like [a]prisoners in the [1]dungeon,
And will be confined in prison;
And after many days they will [b]be punished.
23 Then the [a]moon will be abashed and the sun ashamed,
For the [b]LORD of hosts will reign on [c]Mount Zion and in Jerusalem,
And His glory will be before His elders.

Song of Praise for God's Favor

25:1 O LORD, You are [a]my God;
I will exalt You, I will give thanks to Your name;
For You have [b]worked wonders,
[c]Plans formed long ago, with perfect faithfulness.
2 For You have made a city into a [a]heap,
A [b]fortified city into a ruin;
A [c]palace of strangers is a city no more,
It will never be rebuilt.
3 Therefore a strong people will [a]glorify You;
[b]Cities of ruthless nations will revere You.
4 For You have been a [a]defense for the helpless,
A defense for the needy in his distress,
A [b]refuge from the storm, a shade from the heat;
For the breath of the [c]ruthless
Is like a rain storm against a wall.
5 Like heat in drought, You subdue the [a]uproar of aliens;
Like heat by the shadow of a cloud,
the song of the ruthless is [1]silenced.

24:13 Only a few olives and grapes will be left (see v. 6; 17:6,11).
24:14 They. The godly remnant that survives the judgment.
24:15 coastlands. See note on 11:11.
24:16 ends of the earth. See note on 11:12. I. Probably collective for the godly community that wastes away because of the villainy of the treacherous nations that seek to crush the people of God. Woe to me . . . treacherously. In the Hebrew text these last four lines of the verse (Razi li, razi li! 'Oy li! Bogedim bagadu! Ubeged bogedim bagadu!) contain a powerful example of alliteration and assonance. Woe to me! Isaiah had the same reaction in 6:5 ("Woe is me"). the treacherous. The enemies of God's people.
24:17–18 Cf. Amos 5:19.
24:17 Terror and pit and snare. Another example (see note on v. 16) of alliteration and assonance (see note on Jer 48:43). The Hebrew words are paḥad, paḥat and paḥ.
24:18 windows above. An echo of Noah's flood (Gen 7:11; 8:2). foundations . . . shake. Earthquakes and thunder (see note on 13:13; cf. Joel 3:16).
24:20 like a drunkard. Cf. 19:14. like a shack. See 1:8 and note.
24:21 in that day. The day of the Lord (see notes on 2:11,17,20; 10:20,27; cf. 25:9; 26:1; 27:1–2,12–13). host of heaven. Satan and the fallen angels (see Eph 6:11–12).
24:22 confined in prison. Cf. Rev 20:2. punished. Or "released"; cf. Rev 20:7–10.
24:23 moon . . . abashed and the sun ashamed. The sun and moon do not shine during judgment (see note on 13:10) or when the Lord is the "everlasting light" (60:19–20; cf. Rev 21:23; 22:5). reign on Mount Zion. See 2:2–4 and note.
25:1–5 A song of praise celebrating the deliverance brought about by the judgments of ch. 24 (see 24:14–16; see also ch. 12).
25:1 Plans formed long ago. See 14:24,26–27; 23:8–9.
25:2 a city . . . a ruin. See 24:10 and note. never be rebuilt. Cf. 24:20.
25:3 strong people . . . ruthless nations. Such as Egypt and Assyria (see 19:18–25 and notes). glorify You . . . revere You. See 24:15.
25:4–5 defense . . . refuge . . . shade . . . cloud. See 4:5–6 and note; cf. 32:2.

6 [a]The LORD of hosts will prepare a [1]lavish banquet for [b]all peoples on
this mountain;
A banquet of [2]aged wine, [3]choice pieces with marrow,
And [4]refined, aged wine.
7 And on this mountain He will swallow up the [1][a]covering which is over all
peoples,
Even the veil which is [2]stretched over all nations.
8 He will [a]swallow up death for all
time,
And the Lord [1]GOD will [b]wipe tears
away from all faces,
And He will remove the [c]reproach of
His people from all the earth;
For the LORD has spoken.
9 And it will be said in that day,
"Behold, [a]this is our God for whom we have [b]waited that [c]He might save us.
This is the LORD for whom we have waited;
[d]Let us rejoice and be glad in His salvation."
10 For the hand of the LORD will rest on
this mountain,
And [a]Moab will be trodden down in his place
As straw is trodden down in the water of a manure pile.
11 And he will [a]spread out his hands in the middle of it
As a swimmer spreads out his hands
to swim,
But the Lord will [b]lay low his pride together with the trickery of his hands.
12 The [a]unassailable fortifications of your walls He will bring down,
Lay low and cast to the ground, even to the dust.

Song of Trust in God's Protection

26 [a]In that day this song will be sung in the land of Judah:
"We have a [b]strong city;
He sets up walls and ramparts for [1][c]security.
2 "Open the [a]gates, that the [b]righteous nation may enter,
The one that [1]remains faithful.
3 "The steadfast of mind You will keep in perfect [a]peace,
Because he trusts in You.
4 "[a]Trust in the LORD forever,
For in [1]GOD the LORD, we have an everlasting [b]Rock.
5 "For He has brought low those who dwell on high, the [a]unassailable city;
[b]He lays it low, He lays it low to the ground, He casts it to the dust.
6 "[a]The foot will trample it,
The feet of the [b]afflicted, the steps of the helpless."

7 The [a]way of the righteous is smooth;
O Upright One, [b]make the path of the righteous level.
8 Indeed, while following the way of
[a]Your judgments, O LORD,
We have waited for You eagerly;
[b]Your name, even Your [c]memory, is the desire of our souls.
9 [a]At night [1]my soul longs for You,
Indeed, [2]my spirit within me [b]seeks
You diligently;
For when the earth [3]experiences Your judgments
The inhabitants of the world [c]learn righteousness.

25:6–8 The eschatological feast of God.
25:6–7,10 this mountain. Mount Zion. See 2:2–4 and note; cf. 24:23.
25:6 lavish. Rich food is symbolic of great spiritual blessings (see 55:2). banquet. Associated with a coronation (1 Kin 1:25) or wedding (Judg 14:10); cf. the "marriage supper of the Lamb" (Rev 19:9). aged wine. The best wine—aged by being left on its dregs (see Jer 48:11; Zeph 1:12).
25:7 covering . . . veil. Used to cover faces in mourning—in any event, the associations are with death.
25:8 Quoted in part in 1 Cor 15:54. swallow up death. Death, the great swallower (see Ps 49:14 and note), will be swallowed up. Lord GOD. See 7:7; 28:16; 30:15; 40:10; 49:22; 52:4; 61:11; 65:13. remove the reproach. See 54:4.
25:9 Another brief song of praise. in that day. See 12:1,4; 24:21; see also 10:20,27 and note. we have waited that He might save. Cf. Ps 22:4–5. rejoice and be glad. Cf. 35:10; 51:11; 66:10.
25:10–12 An elaboration on the theme of judgment.
25:10 Moab. Symbolic of all the enemies of God, like Edom in 34:5–17. See note on 15:1.
25:11 pride. See note on 16:6.
25:12 unassailable . . . walls. See v. 2; 2:15; 2 Kin 3:27; Jer 51:58.
26:1–15 Another song of praise for God's deliverance.
26:1 In that day. See 12:1,4; 24:21; 25:9; see also note on 10:20,27. ramparts. Sloping fortifications of earth or stone (cf. 2 Sam 20:15).
26:3 See 30:15. steadfast of mind. Cf. Ps 112:6–8. trusts. Cf. 25:9.
26:4 Rock. See 17:10 and note.
26:5 unassailable city. See note on 24:10. lays it low . . . to the dust. Cf. 25:2,12.
26:6 feet of the afflicted. The oppressors are humiliated also in 49:24–26; 51:22–23 (contrast 3:14–15).
26:7 way . . . smooth; . . . path . . . level. A theme found also in 40:3–4; 42:16; 45:13.
26:8 A desire for God to reveal His power in their behalf (see Hos 12:5–6). name . . . memory. See v. 13; 24:15; 25:1.
26:9 judgments. Punishment (cf. 4:4).
26:10 favor. Such as the blessings of harvest and general prosperity (cf. Mt. 5:45).

He does not [a]learn righteousness;
He [b]deals unjustly in the land of uprightness,
And does not perceive the majesty of the LORD.

11 O LORD, Your hand is lifted up yet they [a]do not see it.
[1]They see [b]Your zeal for the people and are put to shame;
Indeed, [2c]fire will devour Your enemies.
12 LORD, You will establish [a]peace for us,
Since You have also performed for us all our works.
13 O LORD our God, [a]other masters besides You have ruled us;
But through You alone we [1b]confess Your name.
14 [a]The dead will not live, the [1]departed spirits will not rise;
Therefore You have [b]punished and destroyed them,
And You have wiped out all remembrance of them.
15 [a]You have increased the nation, O LORD,
You have increased the nation, You are glorified;
You have [b]extended all the borders of the land.
16 O LORD, they sought You [a]in distress;
They [1]could only whisper a prayer,
Your chastening was upon them.
17 [a]As the pregnant woman approaches the time to give birth,
She writhes and cries out in her labor pains,
Thus were we before You, O LORD.
18 We were pregnant, we writhed in labor,
We [a]gave birth, as it seems, only to wind.
We could not accomplish deliverance for the earth,
Nor were [b]inhabitants of the world [1]born.
19 Your [a]dead will live;
[1]Their corpses will rise.
You who lie in the dust, [b]awake and shout for joy,
For your dew is as the dew of the [2]dawn,
And the earth will [3]give birth to the [4]departed spirits.

20 Come, my people, [a]enter into your rooms
And close your doors behind you;
Hide for a little [1b]while
Until [c]indignation [2]runs its course.
21 For behold, the LORD is about to [a]come out from His place
To [b]punish the inhabitants of the earth for their iniquity;
And the earth will [c]reveal her bloodshed
And will no longer cover her slain.

The Deliverance of Israel

27 In that day [a]the LORD will punish [1b]Leviathan the fleeing serpent,
With His fierce and great and mighty sword,
Even [1]Leviathan the twisted serpent;
And [c]He will kill the dragon who lives in the sea.

2 In that day,
"A [1a]vineyard of wine, sing of it!

26:11 hand is lifted up. A sign of power. See 9:12,17,21 and note; Ps 89:13. zeal. See 9:7 and note; cf. 37:32; 63:15. fire. See note on 1:31.
26:12 peace. See v. 3.
26:13 other masters. Foreign rulers, such as those of Egypt or Assyria.
26:14 dead... departed spirits. Cf. the fate of the king of Babylon in 14:9–10.
26:15 increased the nation. Applied to the return from Babylonian exile in 54:2–3; also cf. 9:3.
26:16–18 The prophet speaks to the Lord on behalf of God's people.
26:16 distress. Perhaps the Assyrian oppression, described in 5:30; 8:21–22. The period of the judges is also possible (see Judg 6:2,6).
26:17–18 give birth... writhes... in labor. See 13:8 and note (cf. 37:3).
26:18 deliverance for the earth. Israel was designed to be "a light to the nations" (42:6—see note there; see also 9:2; 49:6 and notes).
26:19–21 The prophet speaks a word of reassurance to God's people.
26:19 dead will live... corpses will rise. A reference to the restoration of Israel (see Ezek 37:11–12)—perhaps including the resurrection of the body (Dan 12:2). Cf. 25:8; contrast 26:14. dew. A symbol of fruitfulness (see 2 Sam 1:21; Hos 14:5).
26:20–21 See 24:21–22 and note on 2:11,17,20.
26:20 a little while... indignation. Cf. 10:25; 54:7–8. Assyrian tyranny and Babylonian exile, as well as all other oppressions, will end.
26:21 punish. See 66:14–16. will reveal... will no longer cover. The blood and bodies of the innocent/righteous who have been slaughtered by the oppressive powers will no longer be hidden in the ground, but will be brought forth to testify against their murderers, so that God may in judgment avenge their deaths (see Gen 4:10).
27:1–2,12–13 In that day. See 10:20,27 and note; see also 12:1,4; 24:21; 25:9; 26:1.
27:1 The climactic word of judgment. Leviathan... dragon. A symbol (drawn from Canaanite myths) of wicked nations, such as Egypt (see 30:7 and note; 51:9; Ezek 29:3; 32:2). fleeing... twisted serpent. Cf. Job 3:8; 41:1; Ps 74:14. Such descriptions of Leviathan occur outside the Bible as well.
27:2–6 A second vineyard song (see 5:1–7 and notes).
27:2 vineyard. Israel.

3 "I, the LORD, am its keeper;
[a]I water it every moment.
So that no one will [1]damage it,
I [b]guard it night and day.
4 "I have no wrath.
Should [1]someone give Me [a]briars and thorns in battle,
Then I would step on them, [b]I would burn them [2]completely.

Let him make peace with Me,
Let him [b]make peace with Me."

With His fierce wind He has expelled them on the day of the [b]east wind.
9 Therefore through this Jacob's iniquity will be [a]forgiven;
And this will be [1]the full price of the [2][b]pardoning of his sin:
When he makes all the [c]altar stones like pulverized chalk stones;
When [3]Asherim and incense altars will not stand.

Ephraim's Captivity Predicted

28 Woe to the proud crown of the [a]drunkards of [b]Ephraim,
And to the fading flower of its glorious beauty,
Which is at the head of the [1]fertile valley
Of those who are [2]overcome with wine!
2 Behold, the Lord has a strong and [a]mighty agent;
As a storm of [b]hail, a tempest of destruction,
Like a storm of [c]mighty overflowing waters,
He has cast it down to the earth with His hand.
3 The proud crown of the drunkards of Ephraim is [a]trodden under foot.

27:4–5 A picture of Israel's lukewarmness toward the Lord—not "briars and thorns" (v. 4) like the other nations, but not fully trusting in the Lord either (see 29:13).
27:4 briars and thorns. See 5:6 and note.
27:6 take root. See 11:1,10 and notes. blossom and sprout. See 4:2 and note. The Messianic age is in view. fill the whole world. Contrast 26:18.
27:7–11 What the Lord is going to do with Israel in the judgments that are about to overtake her in Isaiah's day.
27:7 struck them. Cf. 10:24–26.
27:8 banishing them. Probably the Babylonian captivity. east wind. A hot wind from the desert (see Jer 4:11; Ezek 19:12).
27:9 forgiven. Israel (Jacob) will have to atone for her guilt through the coming judgment. altar . . . Asherim . . . incense altars. See 17:8 and note. pulverized. See Ex 34:13.
27:10 fortified city. Jerusalem. isolated . . . forsaken. Cf. 6:11–12. calf will graze. Cf. 5:5; 7:25.
27:12–13 The redemption that lies beyond the coming judgment.
27:12 start His threshing. Judgment on the nations into which Israel has been dispersed (see note on 21:10). The threshing will separate Israelites from Gentiles. brook of Egypt. Probably the Wadi el-Arish, the southern border of the promised land (the Euphrates is the northern border). See Gen 15:18 and note; 1 Kin 4:21; 8:65.
27:13 great trumpet. Used especially to summon troops (see 1 Sam 13:3). Assyria . . . Egypt. See 11:11–12 and notes. holy mountain. Mount Zion (see 2:2–4 and note; see also 24:23; 25:6–7,10 and note).
28:1–35:10 A series of six woes (28:1; 29:1; 29:15; 30:1; 31:1; 33:1), concluded with an announcement of judgment on the nations (ch. 34) and a song celebrating the joy of the redeemed (ch. 35). Cf. the six woes in ch. 5 (see note on 5:8–23).
28:1 proud. See v. 3 and note on 16:6. crown. Samaria, the capital of the northern kingdom, was a beautiful city on a prominent hill (see note on 1 Kin 16:24). drunkards. In the eighth century B.C. Samaria was a city of luxury and indulgence. See 5:11–13 and note; Amos 6:4–7. Ephraim. See note on 7:2. fertile valley. Cf. 5:1.
28:2 strong . . . agent. The king of Assyria. storm of hail . . . overflowing waters. See v. 17; 8:7–8 and note; 17:12 and note. Cf. 30:30; 32:19.

Which is at the head of the [1]fertile valley,
Will be like the [a]first-ripe fig prior to summer,
Which [2]one sees,
And [3]as soon as it is in his [4]hand,
He swallows it.
5 In that day the [a]LORD of hosts will become a beautiful [b]crown
And a glorious diadem to the remnant of His people;
6 A [a]spirit of justice for him who sits in judgment,
A [b]strength to those who repel the [1]onslaught at the gate.
7 And these also [a]reel with wine and stagger from strong drink:
[b]The priest and [c]the prophet reel with strong drink,
They are confused by wine, they stagger from [d]strong drink;
They reel while [1]having [e]visions,
They totter when rendering judgment.
8 For all the tables are full of filthy [a]vomit, without a single clean place.

9 "To [a]whom would He teach knowledge,
And to whom would He interpret the message?
Those just [b]weaned from milk?
Those just taken from the breast?
10 "For He says,
'[1a]Order on order, order on order,
Line on line, line on line,
A little here, a little there.' "
11 Indeed, He will speak to this people
Through [a]stammering lips and a foreign tongue,
12 He who said to them, "Here is [a]rest, give rest to the weary,"
And, "Here is repose," but they would not listen.
13 So the word of the LORD to them will be,
"[1]Order on order, order on order,
Line on line, line on line,
A little here, a little there,"
That they may go and [a]stumble backward, be broken, snared and taken captive.

Judah Is Warned

14 Therefore, [a]hear the word of the LORD,
O [b]scoffers,
Who rule this people who are in Jerusalem,
15 Because you have said, "We have made a [a]covenant with death,
And with [1]Sheol we have made a [2]pact.
[b]The overwhelming [3]scourge will not reach us when it passes by,
For we have made [c]falsehood our refuge and we have [d]concealed ourselves with deception."
16 Therefore thus says the Lord [1]GOD,
"[a]Behold, I am laying in Zion a stone, a tested [b]stone,
A costly cornerstone for the foundation, [2]firmly placed.
He who believes in it will not be [3]disturbed.
17 "I will make [a]justice the measuring line
And righteousness the level;
Then [b]hail will sweep away the refuge of lies
And the waters will overflow the secret place.
18 "Your [a]covenant with death will be [1b]canceled,
And your pact with Sheol will not stand;
When the [a]overwhelming scourge passes through,
Then you become its [c]trampling place.

28:8 vomit. Cf. Jer 25:16,27.

28:9–10 The mocking response of Isaiah's hearers (see NASB marg.). Cf. the mocking tones of 5:19.

28:11–12 Quoted in part in 1 Cor 14:21.

28:11 stammering lips. The language of the Assyrians.

28:12 rest. The land given to them by the Lord, in whom they were to trust (see 26:3; 30:15; 40:31; Josh 1:13). would not listen. Cf. Jer 6:16.

28:13 will be. They say the prophet is speaking nonsense, so the word of the Lord that he speaks will remain nonsense to them (see 6:9–10 and notes).

28:15,18 covenant with death. Possibly an allusion to necromancy and worship of idols (see 8:19). By using a vivid figure of speech, Isaiah mocks their sense of assurance against national calamity, placing on their lips a claim to have a covenant with death that it will not harm them (see Hos 2:18). overwhelming scourge. A mixed metaphor referring to the armies of Assyria and Babylonia. "Overwhelming" pictures an army as a flooding river (see 8:7); a "scourge" is a whip (10:26).

28:16 stone. The Lord (see 8:14; 17:10 and notes). cornerstone. Cf. the "chief corner stone" of Ps 118:22. foundation. See 1 Cor 3:11; cf. 1 Pet 2:4–7.

28:17 measuring line . . . level. The standards and tests the Lord will apply are His justice and righteousness. hail. See v. 2; 30:30; 32:19.

Jerusalem Is Warned

29 Woe, O [1]Ariel, [1]Ariel the city where David once [a]camped!
Add year to year, [2][b]observe your feasts on schedule.
2 I will bring distress to Ariel,
And she will be a city of lamenting
and [a]mourning;
And she will be like an Ariel to me.
3 I will [a]camp against you [1]encircling
you,
And I will set siegeworks against you,
And I will raise up battle towers against you.
4 Then you will [a]be brought low;
From the earth you will speak,
And from the dust where you are prostrate
Your words will come.
Your voice will also be like that of a
[1]spirit from the ground,
And your speech will whisper from the dust.

5 But the multitude of your [1]enemies will become like fine [a]dust,
And the multitude of the [b]ruthless ones like the chaff which [2]blows
away;
And it will happen [c]instantly,
suddenly.
6 From the LORD of hosts you will be [a]punished with [b]thunder and earthquake and loud noise,
With whirlwind and tempest and the flame of a consuming fire.

Matt 24:7; Mark 13:8; Luke 21:11; Rev 11:13, 19; 16:18

28:20 too short . . . too small. Israel was unprepared both militarily and spiritually.
28:21 Mount Perazim. Where God "broke through" against the Philistines (2 Sam 5:20). valley of Gibeon. Where God sent hail to demolish the Amorites (Josh 10:10–12). unusual task . . . extraordinary work. This time God would fight against Israel.
28:22 decisive destruction. See 10:22–23 and note on 10:22.
28:23–29 A wisdom poem (a poetic parable) in two stanzas, each ending in a verse that praises the wisdom of God. In the context, and since "threshing" is emphasized (vv. 27–28), the point may be that though God must punish Israel, His actions will be as measured and as well-timed as a farmer's. See 27:12 and note.
28:25 cummin. An herb for seasoning. rye. A kind of wheat (see note on Ex 9:32).
28:27 rod. See 10:5 and note.
28:29 counsel wonderful. See 9:6 and note.
29:1–2,7 Ariel. Jerusalem. Fighting and bloodshed will turn Jerusalem into a virtual "altar hearth" (Hebrew 'ari'el; the Hebrew for "altar and hearth" and Ariel sound the same). Similar Hebrew words for the same term are used in Ezek 43:15–16 (see note there).
29:1 Woe. See note on 28:1. city where David . . . camped. See 2 Sam 5:6–9. feasts on schedule. See 1:13–14 and note on 1:14.
29:3 towers. Pushed up to the city wall by attackers so they could fight the defenders on the same level.
29:4 whisper. Used of mediums and spiritists in 8:19. Judah speaks as from the realm of the dead—so much for their covenant with death (see 28:15,18).
29:5–8 In God's time, those nations that devastate Jerusalem will be devastated (see 10:5–19; 27:1). The sudden destruction of the enemy resembles that of Assyria's army in 701 B.C. (see 10:16 and note).
29:5 chaff. See 17:13; Ps 1:4 and notes.
29:6 thunder and earthquake . . . whirlwind and tempest. As in Judg 5:4–5; Ps 18:7–15; Hab 3:3–7; see also 28:2; Ps 83:13–15 and notes.

7 And the [a]multitude of all the nations who wage war against [1]Ariel,
Even all who wage war against her and her stronghold, and who distress her,
Will be like a dream, a [b]vision of the
night.
8 It will be as when a hungry man dreams—
And behold, he is eating;
But when he awakens, his [1]hunger is not satisfied,
Or as when a thirsty man dreams—
And behold, he is drinking,
But when he awakens, behold, he is faint
And his [1]thirst is not quenched.
[a]Thus the multitude of all the nations will be
Who wage war against Mount Zion.

9 [a]Be delayed and wait,
Blind yourselves and be blind;
They [b]become drunk, but not with
wine,
They stagger, but not with strong drink.
10 For the LORD has poured over you a spirit of deep [a]sleep,
He has [b]shut your eyes, the prophets;
And He has covered your heads, the seers.
11 The entire vision will be to you like the words of a sealed [1][a]book, which when they give it to the one who [2]is literate, saying,
"Please read this," he will say, "I cannot, for it is sealed."
12 Then the [1]book will be given to the one who [2]is illiterate, saying, "Please read this."
And he will say, "I [3]cannot read."
13 Then the Lord said,
"Because [a]this people draw near with their [1]words
And honor Me with their [2]lip service,
But they remove their hearts far from
Me,
And their [3]reverence for Me [4]consists of [5]tradition learned by rote,

Blessing after Discipline

17 Is it not yet just a little while
[1]Before Lebanon will be turned into a
[a]fertile field,
And the fertile field will be considered as a forest?
18 On that day the [a]deaf will hear [b]words of a book,
And out of their gloom and darkness
the [c]eyes of the blind will see.
19 The [a]afflicted also will increase their

And [a]ensnare him who adjudicates at 21 [1]Lit bring a person under condemnation [a]Amos 5:10

29:9–14 Isaiah speaks again of Israel's spiritual state and warns of the Lord's impending judgment.
29:9 Blind yourselves . . . become drunk. Refers to spiritual stupor (see 6:10 and note; cf. 28:1,7).
29:10 Quoted in part in Rom 11:8. seers. See 1 Sam 9:9 and note; 2 Kin 17:13.
29:11 vision. See 1:1 and note. I cannot. God's word is a closed book even to the educated.
29:13 Quoted in part by Jesus to show the hypocrisy of the Pharisees (Matt 15:8–9). this people. Not "my people" (cf. 8:6,11–12; Jer 14:10–11; Hag 1:2).
29:14 Quoted in part in 1 Cor 1:19. wondrously marvelous. He who showed them wonders in the exodus (see Ex 15:11; Ps 78:12) will now show them wonders in judgment. wisdom . . . will perish. Cf. 44:25; Jer 8:9.
29:15 Woe. A new woe begins (see note on 28:1–35:10). their plans. Perhaps the alliance between Ahaz and Assyria or between Hezekiah and Egypt (see 30:1–2). Who sees us? See note on Ps 10:11.
29:16 Quoted in part in Rom 9:20. Cf. the creation of Adam in Gen 2:7; also cf. Is 10:15.
29:17–24 Another sudden shift to the theme of redemption, as in 28:5–8.
29:17 Lebanon. Perhaps symbolic of Assyria (see 10:34). The forests of Lebanon were unequaled (see 2:13), so "fertile field" represents a lesser status (see 32:15).
29:18 On that day. See notes on 10:20,27; 26:1. Beyond the day of Assyria's destruction lies the day of Israel's restoration. deaf will hear . . . blind will see. Linked with the Messianic age in 35:5.
29:19 needy. See 11:4. Holy One of Israel. See note on 1:4.
29:20 ruthless. See v. 21. scorner. Cf. 28:14,22.
29:21 defraud. See 1:17; 9:17 and notes; see also 10:2; Amos 5:10,12.

And [2b]defraud the one in the right with [3]meaningless arguments.
22 Therefore thus says the LORD, who redeemed [a]Abraham, concerning the house of Jacob:
"Jacob [b]shall not now be ashamed, nor shall his face now turn pale;
23 But when [1]he sees his [a]children, the [b]work of My hands, in his midst,
They will sanctify My name;
Indeed, they will [c]sanctify the Holy
One of Jacob
And will stand in awe of the God of Israel.
24 "Those who [a]err in [1]mind will [b]know
[2]the truth,
And those who [3]criticize will [4c]accept instruction.

Judah Warned against Egyptian Alliance

30 "Woe to the [a]rebellious children," declares the LORD,
"Who [b]execute a plan, but not Mine,
And [1c]make an alliance, but not of My Spirit,
In order to add sin to sin;
2 Who [a]proceed down to Egypt
Without [b]consulting [1]Me,
[c]To take refuge in the safety of Pharaoh
And to seek shelter in the shadow of Egypt!
3 "Therefore the safety of Pharaoh will be [a]your shame
And the shelter in the shadow of Egypt, your humiliation.
4 "For [a]their princes are at Zoan
And their ambassadors arrive at Hanes.
5 "Everyone will be [a]ashamed because of 29:22 redeemed. Normally used of the deliverance of Israel from Egypt (see Ex 6:6; 15:13). Cf. 43:1,3,14. But Abraham also had an "exodus" out of a pagan world (see Gen 12:1; Josh 24:2–3,14–15). be ashamed. Cf. 45:17; 50:7; 54:4. turn pale. From fear of the enemy.

29:23 sees his children. Cf. 49:20–21; 54:1–2. Restoration from exile may be in view. See also 53:10. children, the work of My hands. See 45:11 (cf. Eph 2:10). sanctify . . . stand in awe. See 8:13. Isaiah's contemporaries showed little respect for the Lord. Holy One of Jacob. Cf. v. 19; see note on 1:4.
29:24 err in mind. See 19:14. know the truth. Contrast 1:3.
30:1 Woe. See note on 28:1–35:10. rebellious children. See 1:2 and note. plan . . . not Mine. See 29:15 and note. alliance. After Shabako became pharaoh in 715 B.C., the smaller nations in Aram (Syria) and Canaan sought his help against Assyria. Judah apparently joined them (see 20:5 and note). My Spirit. Who spoke through His prophet.
30:2 Hezekiah did this (see 2 Kin 18:21). shadow. A metaphor for a king as one who provides protection (see Judg 9:15; Lam 4:20). The Lord should have been Israel's "shadow" (cf. 49:2; 51:16; see Ps 91:1; 121:5).
30:3 shame . . . humiliation. See also "shame . . . reproach" in v.5. Cf. 20:4–5; see Judg 9:14–15 and notes.
30:4 Zoan. Ironically, where the Israelites once served as slaves; see 19:11 and note. Hanes. Possibly Heracleopolis Magna, about 50 miles south of Cairo, or perhaps a city in the Nile delta, close to Zoan.
30:6 oracle. See 13:1 and note. Negev. The dry region in the southern part of the Holy Land (see Gen 12:9 and note; cf. Judg 1:9). distress and anguish. Perhaps it was necessary to use back roads because the Assyrians had control of the main coastal road (see Deut 8:15; Judg 5:6). flying serpent. See 14:29.
30:7 Rahab. A mythical sea monster, here symbolic of Egypt. The name itself means "storm," and also "arrogance." See 27:1 and note.
30:8 write it. Probably the name "Rahab who has been exterminated."
30:9 rebellious people. See v. 1; see also 1:2 and note.
30:10 seers. See 1 Sam 9:9 and note; 2 Kin 17:13. You must not see visions. Cf. Amos 2:12. Speak to us pleasant words. As false prophets do (1 Kin 22:13; Jer 6:14; 8:11; 23:17,26).
30:11–12,15 Holy One of Israel. See 1:4 and note.

And have put your trust in [b]oppression and guile, and have relied on them,
13 Therefore this [a]iniquity will be to you
Like a [b]breach about to fall,
A bulge in a high wall,
Whose collapse comes [c]suddenly in an instant,
14 Whose collapse is like the smashing of a [a]potter's jar,
[1]So ruthlessly shattered
That a sherd will not be found among its pieces
To [2]take fire from a hearth
Or to scoop water from a cistern."
15 For thus the Lord [1]God, the Holy One of Israel, has said,
"In [2]repentance and [a]rest you will be saved,
In [b]quietness and trust is your strength."
But you were not willing,
16 And you said, "No, for we will flee on
[a]horses,"
Therefore you shall flee!
"And we will ride on swift horses,"
Therefore those who pursue you shall be swift.
17 [a]One thousand will flee at the threat of one man;
You will flee at the threat of five,
Until you are left as a [1]flag on a mountain top
And as a signal on a hill.

God Is Gracious and Just

18 Therefore the Lord [1][a]longs to be gracious to you,
And therefore He [2]waits on [b]high to have compassion on you.
For the Lord is a [c]God of justice;
How blessed are all those who [3][d]long for Him.
19 [1]O people in Zion, [a]inhabitant in Jerusalem, you will [b]weep no longer. He will surely be gracious to you at the sound of your cry; when He hears it, He will [c]answer you.
20 Although the Lord has given you
[a]bread of privation and water of oppression,
He, your Teacher will no longer [b]hide Himself, but your eyes will behold your Teacher.
21 Your ears will hear a word behind you,
"[1]This is the [a]way, walk in it," whenever you
[b]turn to the right or to the left.
22 And you will defile your graven
[a]images overlaid with silver, and your molten [a]images plated with gold. You will scatter them as an impure thing, and say to [1]them, "[b]Be gone!"
23 Then He will [a]give you rain for [1]the seed which you will sow in the ground, and bread from the yield of the ground, and it will be [2]rich and [3]plenteous; on that day [b]your livestock will graze in a roomy pasture.
24 Also the oxen and the donkeys which work the ground will eat salted fodder, which [1]has been [a]winnowed with shovel and fork.
25 On every lofty mountain and on [a]every high hill there will be [1]streams running with water on the day of the great [b]slaughter, when the towers fall.
26 [a]The light of the moon will be as the light of the sun, and the light of the sun will be seven times brighter, like the light of seven days, on the day [b]the Lord binds up the [c]fracture of His people and [d]heals the bruise
[1]He has inflicted.
27 Behold, [a]the name of the Lord comes

30:12 oppression. Especially in their domestic policy (see 1:15–17,23; 5:7; 29:21; 58:3–4; 59:3,6–8,13). guile. Especially in their foreign policy (see vv. 1–2; 29:15).

30:13 Like a breach . . . bulge in a high wall. Oppression and deceit (v. 12) had been the "wall" they built to assure their safety and prosperity, but it will be shattered to pieces.

30:15 See 26:3. repentance and rest. The true way to salvation and security.

30:16 horses. See Ps 33:17.

30:17 One thousand will flee. A fulfillment of the curse of Deut 32:30. flag . . . signal. See 5:26 and note (see also 1:8 and note).

30:18 longs to be gracious. After punishing Israel, God will once again bless them (cf. 40:2).

30:19 weep no longer. See 25:8 and note. God's response is similar to His zeal for the vineyard (Israel) in 27:2–6.

30:20 bread of privation . . . water of oppression. Prisoners' food (see 1 Kin 22:27). Teacher. God Himself.

30:21 This is the way. Contrast the attitude shown in vv. 10–11 (cf. 29:24).

30:22 defile your . . . images. In repentance, not in despair as in 2:20 (see note there).

30:23 rain . . . bread . . . rich and plenteous. Part of the covenant blessings promised in Deut 28:11–12. See 5:6 and note. on that day. Cf. 29:18; see notes on 10:20,27; 26:1. livestock will graze. Cf. 32:20.

30:24 salted fodder. Seasoned and tasty.

30:25 on every high hill . . . streams. Paradise-like conditions will return to the land (see 41:18; Ps 104:13–15). day of the great slaughter. Cf. 24:1; 34:2,6. Assyria's fall (v. 31) is one illustration.

30:26 moon . . . brighter. The darkness will be past: Night will be like the day, and day will be illumined with sevenfold light. binds up the fracture . . . heals the bruise. Israel was bruised politically because of the sins of the people (see 1:6; 61:1; Jer 33:6).

30:27 the name. The revelation of God, especially His power and glory. anger . . . His smoke. The language of theophany (a manifestation or appearance of God). God is portrayed as coming in a storm (see v. 30; see also 28:2; 29:6; Ps 18:7–15 and notes). consuming fire. Perhaps lightning.

28 His [a]breath is like an overflowing torrent,
Which [b]reaches to the neck,
To [c]shake the nations back and forth in a [1]sieve,
And to put in the jaws of the peoples [d]the bridle which [2]leads to ruin.
29 You will have [1]songs as in the night when you keep the festival,
And gladness of heart as when one marches to the sound of the flute,
To go to the mountain of the LORD, to the Rock of Israel.
30 And the LORD will cause [1]His voice of authority to be heard,
And the [2]descending of His arm to be seen in fierce anger,
And in the flame of a consuming fire
In cloudburst, downpour and hailstones.
31 For [a]at the voice of the LORD [b]Assyria will be terrified,
When He strikes with the [c]rod.
32 And every [1]blow of the [2a]rod of punishment,
Which the LORD will lay on him,
Will be with the music of [b]tambourines and lyres;
And in battles, [c]brandishing weapons,
He will fight them.
33 For [1a]Topheth has long been ready,
Indeed, it has been prepared for the king.
He has made it deep and large,
[2]A pyre of fire with plenty of wood;
The [b]breath of the LORD, like a torrent of [c]brimstone, sets it afire.

Help Not in Egypt but in God

31 Woe to those who go down to [a]Egypt for help
And [b]rely on horses,
And trust in chariots because they are many
And in horsemen because they are very strong,
But they do not [c]look to the [d]Holy One of Israel, nor seek the LORD!
2 Yet He also is [a]wise and will [b]bring disaster
And does [c]not retract His words,
But will arise against the house of [d]evildoers
And against the help of the [e]workers of iniquity.
3 Now the Egyptians are [a]men and not God,
And their [b]horses are flesh and not spirit;
So the LORD will [c]stretch out His hand,
And [d]he who helps will stumble
And he who is helped will fall,
And all of them will come to an end together.

4 For thus says the LORD to me,
"As the [a]lion or the young lion growls over his prey,
Against which a band of shepherds is called out,
And he will not be terrified at their voice nor disturbed at their noise,
So will the LORD of hosts come down to wage [b]war on Mount Zion and on its hill."
5 Like [1]flying [a]birds so the LORD of hosts will protect Jerusalem.
He will [b]protect and deliver it;
He will pass over and rescue it.
6 [a]Return to Him from whom [1]you have [b]deeply defected, O sons of Israel.
7 For in that day every man will [a]cast away his silver idols and his gold idols, which your [b]sinful hands have made for you as [b]a sin.
8 And the [a]Assyrian will fall by a sword not of man,
And a [b]sword not of man will devour him.
So he will [1c]not escape the sword,

30:28 reaches to the neck. The army of Assyria was similarly described in 8:8 (see note there). bridle. Cf. 37:29.
30:29 songs . . . festival. Perhaps the Passover, alluded to in 31:5 (cf. Matt 26:30). mountain of the LORD. Zion, where the temple was (see 2:2–4 and note). Rock. God Himself (see 17:10 and note).
30:30–31 voice. Associated with thunder in Ex 20:18–19; Ps 29:3–4.

30:32 rod of punishment. See 11:4 and note. music of tambourines. After a great victory the women rejoiced with singing and dancing (see Ex 15:20–21; 1 Sam 18:6).
30:33 Topheth. A region outside Jerusalem where children were sacrificed to Molech (see 2 Kin 23:10; Jer 7:31–32; 19:6, 11–14), the god of the Ammonites (see 1 Kin 11:7). Thus it was a place of burning. king. Of Assyria. brimstone. See 1:31; Gen 19:24 and notes.
31:1 See 30:1 and note. Ch. 31 recapitulates ch. 30. go down to Egypt. See Gen 26:2. horses . . . chariots. Egypt had large numbers of horses and chariots (see 1 Kin 10:28–29). Holy One of Israel. See 1:4 and note.
31:2 He also is wise. People had questioned God's wisdom in 29:14–16.
31:3 stretch out His hand. Cf. the refrain in 5:25; 9:12,17,21; 10:4. helps will stumble. Cf. 30:3,5.
31:4 lion. A simile, but perhaps also an allusion to the Assyrian king (see note on 15:9). shepherds. Perhaps an allusion to the rulers of the nations (see Nah 3:18 and note).
31:5 birds . . . will protect. Cf. Deut 32:10–11. pass over. The technical word used of the destroying angel who "passed over" every house in Egypt that had blood on the doorposts (see Ex 12:13,23). Cf. Is 37:35.
31:6 deeply defected. See 1:2 and note.
31:7 cast away his . . . idols. See 2:20 and note.
31:8 sword not of man. The angel of the Lord struck down

And his young men will become [d]forced laborers.
9 "His [a]rock will pass away because of panic,
And his princes will be terrified at the [b]standard,"
Declares the LORD, whose [c]fire is in Zion and whose furnace is in Jerusalem.

The Glorious Future

32 Behold, a [a]king will reign righteously
And princes will rule justly.
2 Each will be like a [a]refuge from the wind
And a shelter from the storm,
Like [1][b]streams of water in a dry country,
Like the [a]shade of a [2]huge rock in [3]a parched land.
3 Then [a]the eyes of those who see will not be [1]blinded,
And the ears of those who hear will listen.
4 The [1]mind of the [a]hasty will discern the [2]truth,
And the tongue of the stammerers will hasten to speak clearly.
5 No longer will the [a]fool be called noble,
Or the rogue be spoken of as generous.
6 For a fool speaks nonsense,
And his heart [1][a]inclines toward wickedness:
To practice [b]ungodliness and to speak error against the LORD,
To [2][c]keep the hungry person unsatisfied
And [3]to withhold drink from the thirsty.
7 As for a rogue, his weapons are evil;
He [a]devises wicked schemes
To [b]destroy the afflicted with [1]slander,
[c]Even though the needy one speaks
[2]what is right.
8 But [a]the noble man devises noble plans;
And by noble plans he stands.

9 Rise up, you [a]women who are at ease,
And hear my voice;
[b]Give ear to my word,
You complacent daughters.
10 Within a year and a few days
You will be troubled, O complacent daughters;
[a]For the vintage is ended,
And the fruit gathering will not come.
11 Tremble, you women who are at ease;
[a]Be troubled, you complacent daughters;
[b]Strip, undress and put sackcloth on your waist,
12 [a]Beat your breasts for the pleasant fields, for the fruitful vine,
13 [a]For the land of my people in which thorns and briars shall come up;
Yea, for all the joyful houses and for the [b]jubilant city.
14 Because [a]the palace has been abandoned, the [1]populated [b]city forsaken.
[2]Hill and watch-tower have become [c]caves forever,
A delight for [d]wild donkeys, a pasture for flocks;
15 Until the [a]Spirit is poured out upon us from on high,
And the wilderness becomes a [b]fertile field,
And the fertile field is considered as a forest.
16 Then [a]justice will dwell in the wilderness

185,000 soldiers (see 37:36). become forced laborers. As prisoners of war.

31:9 rock. Nineveh was destroyed by the Medes and Babylonians in 612 B.C. (see Nah 3:7). princes will be terrified. Cf. Nah 2:10. fire . . . furnace. The Lord's glory resides in Zion, and from that center of His people His fire of judgment breaks out upon the wicked (see 10:17; 30:33; cf. Lev 10:2; Joel 3:16; Amos 1:2).

32:1 king . . . reign righteously. The Messianic age is again in view (see 9:7; 11:4; 16:5 and notes). Cf. vv. 16–17; 33:17.

32:2 Each. The Lord's redeemed, as sources of protection and blessing, will reflect Him (see the rest of this note; see also vv. 3–8). refuge . . . shelter . . . shade. Similar terms are applied to the Lord in 25:4 (see 4:5–6 and note). streams . . . in a dry country. See 35:6–7; 41:18; 49:10.

32:3 eyes . . . not be blinded . . . ears . . . will listen. See 35:5 and note (contrast 6:9–10).

32:5–8 The redeemed will no longer be among the fools. The contrast between the fool and the wise or noble man is characteristic of wisdom literature (compare Prov 9:1–6 with Prov 9:13–18).

32:6 fool speaks nonsense. Cf. 9:16–17; Ps 14:1; 53:1.

32:7 the needy one speaks. See 1:17 and note.

32:8 plans . . . stands. See 8:10 and note.

32:9 women. Cf. 3:16–4:1. at ease . . . complacent. See v. 11; Amos 6:1. These words are used in a good sense in v. 18 (the Hebrew for "undisturbed" is the same as that for "complacent").

32:10 a year. Perhaps the invasion of Sennacherib (701 B.C.) is in view. the vintage is ended. Cf. 37:30. The armies of Assyria would bring widespread destruction, ruining the summer fruit.

32:11 Strip. Cf. 47:2–3. sackcloth. Cf. 3:24; 22:12; see note on Gen 37:34.

32:12 Beat your breasts. Like the slave girls of Nineveh (Nah 2:7). for the fruitful vine. Cf. the Lord's weeping in 16:9.

32:13 thorns and briars. See 5:6; 7:23 and notes. joyful . . . jubilant. See 22:2 and note; cf. Jer 16:8–9.

32:14 palace . . . populated city. Assyria's invasion is a warning that Jerusalem (see 24:10 and note) will one day be destroyed. donkeys . . . flocks. Cf. 7:25; 13:21–22; 34:13.

32:15 Until the Spirit. The outpouring of the Spirit is linked with abundance also in 44:3 (see v. 2; 11:2 and notes; see also Joel 2:28–32). fertile field . . . forest. The forest probably stands for Lebanon (see 29:17 and note; cf. 35:1–2).

And righteousness will abide in the fertile field.
17 And the [a]work of righteousness will be peace,
And the service of righteousness, [b]quietness and [1]confidence forever.
18 Then my people will live in a [a]peaceful habitation,
And in secure dwellings and in undisturbed [b]resting places;
19 And it will [a]hail when the [b]forest comes down,
And [c]the city will be utterly laid low.
20 How [a]blessed will you be, you who sow beside all waters,
Who [1]let out freely the ox and the donkey.

The Judgment of God

33 Woe [a]to you, O destroyer,
While you were not destroyed;
And he [b]who is treacherous, while others did not deal treacherously with him.
As soon as you finish destroying, [c]you will be destroyed;
As soon as you cease to deal treacherously, others will [d]deal treacherously with you.
2 O LORD, [a]be gracious to us; we have [b]waited for You.
Be [1]their [2c]strength every morning,
Our salvation also in the [d]time of distress.
3 At the sound of the tumult [a]peoples flee;
At the [b]lifting up of Yourself nations disperse.
4 Your spoil is gathered as the caterpillar gathers;
As locusts rushing about men rush about on it.
5 The LORD is [a]exalted, for He dwells on high;
He has [b]filled Zion with justice and righteousness.
6 And He will be the [1a]stability of your times,
A [b]wealth of salvation, wisdom and [c]knowledge;
The [d]fear of the LORD is his treasure.
7 Behold, their brave men cry in [1]the streets,
The [2a]ambassadors of peace weep bitterly.
8 The highways are desolate, [1]the [a]traveler has ceased,
He has [b]broken the covenant, he has despised the cities,
He has no regard for man.
9 [a]The land mourns and pines away,
[b]Lebanon is shamed and withers;
[c]Sharon is like a desert plain,
And Bashan and Carmel [1]lose their foliage.
10 "Now [a]I will arise," says the LORD,
"Now I will be exalted, now I will be lifted up.
11 "You have [a]conceived [1]chaff, you will give birth to stubble;
[2]My [b]breath will consume you like a fire.
12 "The peoples will be burned to lime,

14 [a]Sinners in Zion are terrified;
[b]Trembling has seized the godless.
"Who among us can live with [c]the consuming fire?
Who among us can live with [1]continual [d]burning?"
15 He who [a]walks righteously and speaks with sincerity,
He who rejects [1]unjust gain
And shakes his hands so that they hold no bribe;
He who stops his ears from hearing about bloodshed
And [b]shuts his eyes from looking upon evil;
16 He will dwell on the heights,
[a]His refuge will be the [1]impregnable rock;
[b]His bread will be given him,
His water will be sure.

17 Your eyes will see [a]the King in His beauty;
They will behold [b]a far-distant land.
18 Your heart will meditate on [a]terror:
"Where is [b]he who counts?
Where is he who weighs?
Where is he who counts the towers?"
19 You will no longer see a fierce people,
A people of [1a]unintelligible speech
[2]which no one comprehends,
Of a stammering tongue [3]which no one understands.
20 [a]Look upon Zion, the city of our appointed feasts;
Your eyes will see Jerusalem, an [b]undisturbed habitation,
[c]A tent which will not be folded;
Its stakes will never be pulled up,
Nor any of its cords be torn apart.
21 But there the majestic One, the LORD, will be for us
A place of [a]rivers and wide canals
On which no boat with oars will go,
And on which no mighty ship will pass—
22 For the LORD is our [a]judge,
The LORD is [b]our lawgiver,
The LORD is [c]our king;
[d]He will save us—
23 Your tackle hangs slack;
It cannot hold the base of its mast firmly,
Nor spread out the sail.
Then the [a]prey of an abundant spoil will be divided;
[b]The lame will take the plunder.
24 And no resident will say, "I am [a]sick";
The people who dwell [1]there will be [b]forgiven their iniquity.

God's Wrath against Nations

34 Draw near, [a]O nations, to hear; and listen, O peoples!
[b]Let the earth and [1]all it contains hear,
and the world and all that springs from it.
2 For the LORD'S [a]indignation is against all the nations,
And His wrath against all their armies;
He has [1b]utterly destroyed them,
He has given them over to [c]slaughter.
3 So their slain will be [a]thrown out,
And their corpses [1]will give off their [b]stench,
And the mountains will [2]be drenched with their [c]blood.
4 And [a]all the host of heaven will [1]wear away,

33:17 King. See 32:1 and note; cf. 6:5. in His beauty. Reflecting on the splendor and majesty of a Davidic king; probably a foreshadowing of the Messianic kingdom (cf. 4:2; Ps 45:3–4; contrast Is 53:2). far-distant land. See 26:15 and note.
33:18 terror. The Assyrian invasion (see 17:12–14 and note). he who weighs. Forced tribute (see note on v. 8). towers. Judah's fortifications were probably under strict Assyrian control (see 2:15).

33:24 Looking beyond Isaiah's own day to the physically and spiritually whole Jerusalem of vv. 17,20–22.

And the [b]sky will be rolled up like a scroll;
All their hosts will also wither away
As a leaf withers from the vine,
Or as one withers from the fig tree.
5 For [a]My sword is satiated in heaven,
Behold it shall descend for judgment upon [b]Edom
And upon the people whom I have [c]devoted to destruction.
6 The sword of the LORD is filled with blood,
It is [1]sated with fat, with the blood of lambs and goats,
With the fat of the kidneys of rams.
For the LORD has a sacrifice in [a]Bozrah
And a great slaughter in the land of [b]Edom.
7 [a]Wild oxen will also [1]fall with them
And [b]young bulls with strong ones;
Thus their land will be [c]soaked with blood,
And their dust [2]become greasy with fat.
8 For the LORD has a day of [a]vengeance,
A year of recompense for the [1]cause of Zion.
9 [1]Its streams will be turned into pitch,
And its loose earth into [a]brimstone,
And its land will become burning pitch.
10 It will [a]not be quenched night or day;
Its [b]smoke will go up forever.
From [c]generation to generation it will be desolate;
[d]None will pass through it forever and ever.
11 But [1a]pelican and hedgehog will possess it,
And [2]owl and raven will dwell in it;
And He will stretch over it the [b]line of [3]desolation
And the [4]plumb line of emptiness.

Ezek 32:7–8). sky . . . scroll . . . hosts will also wither away. Referred to in Matt 24:29; Rev 6:13–14 in connection with the "great tribulation" (Matt 24:21) and the second coming of Christ. As a leaf withers. Cf. 24:4; 40:7–8.

34:5 satiated. Cf. Ezek 39:18–20. Edom. Symbolic of all the enemies of God and His people, like Moab in 25:10–12. See note on 21:11. The Edomites were driven from their homeland by the Nabatean Arabs, perhaps as early as 500 B.C.

34:6 fat. Considered the best part of the meat, and therefore offered to the Lord in the sacrifices (see Lev 3:9–11). lambs and goats. Symbolizing the people. sacrifice. Battles are often compared to sacrifices (see Jer 46:10; 50:27; Ezek 39:17–19). Bozrah. An important city of Edom and a sheepherding center, it was located about 25 miles southeast of the southern end of the Dead Sea. The name means "grape-gathering" (cf. 63:1–3).

34:7 Wild oxen . . . strong ones. Symbolizing the troops and/or leaders of the nations. soaked with blood. See v. 3.

34:8 day of vengeance. See 35:4; 61:2. The Edomites opposed Israel at every opportunity (see 2 Sam 8:13–14) and rejoiced when Jerusalem was destroyed (Lam 4:21; Ps 137:7). But Edom's day would come (see 63:4).

34:9 brimstone. Edom's destruction is compared with the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah (see Jer 49:17–18). See also 1:31 and note; Gen 19:24 and note.

34:10 smoke . . . forever. Applied to Babylon in Rev 19:3 (see also Rev 14:10–11). be desolate. See 13:20–22 and note; Mal 1:3–4.

34:11 pelican . . . owl . . . raven. "Unclean" birds (see Deut 14:14–17). Such birds would also live in the ruins of Babylon (13:21) and Nineveh (Zeph 2:14). line . . . plumb line. See 28:17 and note. desolation . . . emptiness. The Hebrew for these words is used in Gen 1:2 (see note there) to describe the earth in its "formless" and "void" state (see also Jer 4:23 and note).

34:13 Thorns . . . Nettles. Cf. 7:24–25.

34:14 desert creatures . . . wolves. See 13:21–22. hairy goat. Sometimes connected with demons (see note on 13:21). night monster. Outside the Bible a related Semitic word refers to a "night demon."

34:15 hawks. Ceremonially unclean (see v. 11 and note; Deut 14:13,15–17).

Sennacherib Invades Judah

36 [a]Now in the fourteenth year of King Hezekiah, [b]Sennacherib king of Assyria came up against all the fortified cities of Judah and seized them.

2 And the [a]king of Assyria sent Rabshakeh from Lachish to Jerusalem to King Hezekiah with a large army. And he stood by the [b]conduit of the upper pool on the highway of the [1]fuller's field.

3 Then [a]Eliakim the son of Hilkiah, who was over the household, and [b]Shebna the scribe, and Joah the son of Asaph, the recorder, came out to him.

mon in Isaiah (see 33:9; 44:23; 55:12). Arabah. The wilderness (see note on 33:9). crocus. See Song 2:1 and note.

35:2 rejoice . . . shout of joy. See 54:1. Lebanon . . . Carmel . . . Sharon. Fertile areas renowned for their beautiful trees and foliage (see note on 33:9). glory of the LORD. In the great transformation just announced. See 6:3 and note.

35:7 springs. Cf. 41:18. reeds and rushes. Plants that grow in marshes and lakes (cf. 19:6–7).

35:8 highway. A road built up to make travel easier (see 11:16; 40:3 and notes). Highway of Holiness. The way set apart for those who are holy; only the redeemed (v. 9) could use it. In ancient times, certain roads between temples were open only to those who were ceremonially pure.

35:9 lion . . . beast. Sometimes wild animals made travel dangerous (see Deut 8:15; Judg 14:5). redeemed. Those the Lord has delivered from bondage (cf. 1:27; 51:10; 62:12; Lev 25:47–48; Deut 7:8).

35:10 Repeated verbatim in 51:11. come with joyful shouting to Zion. As the Israelites did when they returned from Babylonian exile (see Ps 126). They will find. They will encounter not wild animals, (v. 9) but gladness and joy (cf. Ps 23:6). sorrow . . . will flee. Cf. 25:8; 65:19.

36:1–39:8 Much of chs. 36–39 is paralleled, sometimes verbatim, in 2 Kin 18:13–20:19. The compiler of 2 Kings may have used Is 36–39 as one of his sources, or both may have drawn on a common source. Chs. 36–37 describe the fulfillment of many predictions about Assyria's collapse, while chs. 38–39 point toward the Babylonian context of chs. 40–66.

36:1 fourteenth year of King Hezekiah. 701 B.C., the 14th year of his sole reign. Hezekiah ruled as sole king from 715 to 686 but was a co-regent from c. 729 (see note on 2 Kin 18:1). Sennacherib. Reigned over Assyria from 705 to 681. all the . . . cities. In his annals Sennacherib lists 46 such cities (see note on 2 Kin 18:13).

36:2 Lachish. An important city about 30 miles southwest of Jerusalem that guarded the main approach to Judah's capital from that quarter (see Jer 34:7). large army. Cf. 37:36. conduit . . . field. See 7:3 and note; see also note on 2 Kin 18:17.

36:3 Eliakim. See 22:20–21 and notes. over the household. In charge of the palace (see 22:15 and note). Shebna. See 22:15 and note. scribe. Perhaps equivalent to secretary of state (see Jer 36:12; see also note on 2 Sam 8:17). recorder. An official position also associated elsewhere with "secretary" (see 1 Kin 4:3). See also note on 2 Sam 8:16.

4 Then [a]Rabshakeh said to them, "Say now to Hezekiah, 'Thus says the great king, the king of Assyria, "What is this confidence that you [1]have?

5 "I say, 'Your counsel and strength for the war are only [1]empty words.' Now on whom do you rely, that [a]you have rebelled against me?

6 "Behold, you rely on the [a]staff of this crushed reed, even on Egypt, on which if a man leans, it will go into his [1]hand and pierce it. [b]So is Pharaoh king of Egypt to all who rely on him.

7 "But if you say to me, 'We trust in the LORD our God,' is it not He [a]whose high places and whose altars Hezekiah has taken away and has said to Judah and to Jerusalem, 'You shall worship before this altar'?

8 "Now therefore, [1]come make a bargain with my master the king of Assyria, and I will give you two thousand horses, if you are able on your part to set riders on them.

9 "How then can you [1]repulse one [2]official of the least of my master's servants and [3][a]rely on Egypt for chariots and for horsemen?

10 "Have I now come up [1]without the LORD's approval against this land to destroy it? [a]The LORD said to me, 'Go up against this land and destroy it.' " ' "

11 Then Eliakim and Shebna and Joah said to Rabshakeh, "Speak now to your servants in [a]Aramaic, for we [1]understand it; and do not speak with us in [2b]Judean in the hearing of the people who are on the wall."

12 But Rabshakeh said, "Has my master sent me only to your master and to you to speak these words, and not to the men who sit on the wall, doomed to eat their own dung and drink their own urine with you?"

13 Then Rabshakeh stood and [a]cried with a loud voice in Judean and said, "Hear the words of the great king, the king of Assyria.

14 "Thus says the king, 'Do not let Hezekiah [a]deceive you, for he will not be able to deliver you;

15 nor let Hezekiah make you [a]trust in the LORD, saying, "The LORD will surely deliver us, this city will not be given into the hand of the king of Assyria."

16 'Do not listen to Hezekiah,' for thus says the king of Assyria, '[1]Make your peace with me and come out to me, and eat each of his [a]vine and each of his fig tree and drink each of the [b]waters of his own cistern,

17 until I come and take you away to a land like your own land, a land of grain and new wine, a land of bread and vineyards.

18 'Beware that Hezekiah does not mislead you, saying, "[a]The LORD will deliver us." Has any one of the gods of the nations delivered his land from the hand of the king of Assyria?

19 'Where are the gods of [a]Hamath and Arpad? Where are the gods of [a]Sepharvaim? And when have they [b]delivered Samaria from my hand?

20 'Who among all the [a]gods of these lands have delivered their land from my hand, that the [b]LORD would deliver Jerusalem from my hand?' "

21 But they were silent and [a]answered him not a word; for the king's commandment was, "Do not answer him."

22 Then [a]Eliakim the son of Hilkiah, who was over the household, and [b]Shebna the scribe and Joah the son of Asaph, the recorder, came to Hezekiah with their clothes torn and told him the words of Rabshakeh.

36:4,13 great king. See note on 2 Kin 18:19.
36:5 rebelled. By refusing to pay the expected tribute (see 2 Kin 17:4; 18:7).
36:6 crushed reed. Egypt is compared to a reed again in Ezek 29:6–7. Egypt. Hezekiah had been under pressure to make an alliance with Egypt since 715 B.C. or earlier (see 20:5; 30:1 and notes). So is Pharaoh. Cf. 30:3,7.
36:7 high places and . . . altars. Hezekiah had destroyed these popular shrines often dedicated to Baal worship (see note on 2 Kin 18:4; see also 2 Chr 31:1). this altar. In Solomon's temple.
36:8 two thousand horses. A sizable number for any army. Horses and chariots were highly prized (see note on 30:16). if you are able . . . to set riders on them. See note on 2 Kin 18:23. riders. Probably charioteers, since cavalry was not employed by these nations this early (see v. 9).
36:10 The LORD said to me. The Lord had used Assyria to punish Israel (see 10:5–6), but now it was Assyria's turn to be judged. Pharaoh Neco claimed God's approval on his mission according to 2 Chr 35:21.
36:11 Eliakim . . . Joah. See v. 3 and note. Aramaic. The diplomatic language of that day (see note on 2 Kin 18:26). do not speak . . . in Judean. The officials feared that the commander's speech might damage the people's morale.
36:12 eat . . . dung . . . drink . . . urine. A crude way of describing the horrors of famine if Jerusalem was to be besieged (cf. 2 Kin 6:25). Contrast v. 16.
36:14 deceive you. Cf. 37:10.
36:16 his vine . . . his fig tree. Symbols of security and prosperity in the best of times (see 1 Kin 4:25; Mic 4:4).
36:17 come and take you. The Assyrians deported rebellious peoples to reduce their will to revolt (see 2 Kin 15:29; 17:6). grain and new wine. Two of the staples of Israel (cf. Deut 28:51; Hag 1:11).
36:18–20 The commander's words echo the boasts of the proud Assyrians in 10:8–11. See note on 2 Kin 18:33–35.
36:19 Hamath and Arpad. See 10:9 and note. Sepharvaim. Probably located in northern Aram (Syria) not far from Hamath. Residents of Sepharvaim were deported to Samaria, though they still worshiped the gods Adrammelech and Anammelech. See 2 Kin 17:24,31. Samaria. The Assyrians assumed that each people had its own gods and so did not associate the God of Judah with that of Samaria.
36:21 they were silent. The Assyrians had hoped that the masterful psychology of vv. 4–20 would produce panic.
36:22 See v. 3 and note. clothes torn. See note on 2 Kin 18:37.
37:1 clothes . . . sackcloth. See Gen 37:34 and note; see also

2 Then he sent [a]Eliakim who was over the household with [b]Shebna the scribe and the elders of the priests, covered with sackcloth, to [c]Isaiah the prophet, the son of Amoz.

3 They said to him, "Thus says Hezekiah, 'This day is a [a]day of distress, rebuke and rejection; for [b]children have come to birth, and there is no strength to [1]deliver.

4 'Perhaps the LORD your God will hear the words of Rabshakeh, whom his master the king of Assyria has sent to [a]reproach the living God, and will rebuke the words which the LORD your God has heard. Therefore, offer a prayer for [b]the remnant that is left.' "

5 So the servants of King Hezekiah came to Isaiah.

6 Isaiah said to them, "Thus you shall say to your master, 'Thus says the LORD, "[a]Do not be afraid because of the words that you have heard, with which the servants of the king of Assyria have blasphemed Me.

7 "Behold, I will put a spirit in him so that he will [a]hear a rumor and [b]return to his own land. And I will make him fall by the sword in his own land." ' "

8 Then Rabshakeh returned and found the king of Assyria fighting against [a]Libnah, for he had heard that [1]the king had left [b]Lachish.

9 When he [a]heard them say concerning Tirhakah king of [1b]Cush, "He has come out to fight against you," and when he heard it he sent messengers to Hezekiah, saying,

10 "Thus you shall say to Hezekiah king of [1]Judah, '[a]Do not let your God in whom you trust deceive you, saying, "Jerusalem will not be given into the hand of the king of Assyria."

11 '[a]Behold, you have heard what the kings of Assyria have done to all the lands, destroying them completely. So will you be [1]spared?

12 'Did the gods of [1]those nations which my fathers have destroyed deliver them, even [a]Gozan and [b]Haran and Rezeph and the sons of Eden who were in Telassar?

13 'Where is the king of Hamath, the king of Arpad, the king of the city of Sepharvaim, and of Hena and Ivvah?' "

Hezekiah's Prayer in the Temple

14 Then Hezekiah took the [1]letter from the hand of the messengers and read it, and he went up to the house of the LORD and [2]spread it out before the LORD.

15 Hezekiah prayed to the LORD saying,

16 "O LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, [a]who is enthroned above the cherubim, You are the [b]God, You alone, of all the kingdoms of the earth. [c]You have made heaven and earth.

17 "[a]Incline Your ear, O LORD, and hear; open Your eyes, O LORD, and see; and [b]listen to all the words of Sennacherib, who sent them to [c]reproach the living God.

18 "Truly, O LORD, the [a]kings of Assyria have devastated all the countries and their lands, 19 and have cast their gods into the fire, for they were not gods but the [a]work of men's hands, wood and stone. So they have [b]destroyed them.

20 "Now, O LORD our God, [a]deliver us from his hand that [b]all the kingdoms of the earth may know that You alone, LORD, [1]are God."

note on 2 Kin 18:37. house of the LORD. Designated as a place of prayer by Solomon (see 1 Kin 8:33). The Assyrian references to Hezekiah's dependence on the Lord (36:7,15,18) were true.

37:2 Eliakim . . . Shebna. See note on 36:3. elders of the priests. See note on 2 Kin 19:2. Isaiah . . . son of Amoz. See note on 1:1. Prophet, priests and king join in supplication.

37:3 day of distress. See 5:30; 26:16; 33:2 and notes. come to birth. An even more vivid description than that of the pains of childbirth (see 13:8 and note).

37:4 reproach. See vv. 17,23–24. offer a prayer. See note on 2 Kin 19:4. remnant. Jerusalem was left almost alone (see 36:1 and notes on 1:9; 2 Kin 19:4; see also 10:20–22).

37:6 Do not be afraid. Cf. 7:4; see 35:4 and note.

37:7 spirit. Perhaps a compulsion or a disposition (cf. 1 Chr 5:26). rumor. See note on 2 Kin 19:7. return . . . fall by the sword. See vv. 37–38.

37:8 Libnah. See note on 2 Kin 8:22; see also Josh 10:31. Lachish. See note on 36:2.

37:9 Tirhakah, king of Cush. In 701 B.C. he was actually a prince (the brother of the new pharaoh Shebitku, who sent him with an army to help Hezekiah withstand the Assyrian invasion); he did not become king until 690. But this part of Isaiah was not written before 681 (see note on v. 38), so it was natural to speak of Tirhakah as king. See 18:1 and note.

37:10 God . . . deceive. See 36:14–15,18. The message of vv. 10–13 is similar to that of 36:18–20 (see note there).

37:12 Gozan. A city in northern Mesopotamia to which some of the Israelites had been deported by the Assyrians (see 2 Kin 17:6). Haran. A city west of Gozan where Abraham lived for a number of years (see Gen 11:31 and note). Rezeph. A city between Haran and the Euphrates River. Eden. The state of Bit Adini, located between the Euphrates and Balikh rivers (see note on 2 Kin 19:12).

37:13 Hamath . . . Arpad. See 10:9 and note. Sepharvaim. See 36:19 and note.

37:14 house of the LORD. See v. 1 and note. spread it out. Contrast the hypocritical spreading out of hands to pray in 1:15.

37:16 LORD of hosts. See 13:4 and note. enthroned . . . cherubim. See note on 1 Sam 4:4. all the kingdoms. Cf. 40:17. made heaven and earth. The role of God as Creator is emphasized also in 40:26,28; 42:5; 45:12.

37:17 Incline Your ear . . . open Your eyes. Cf. Solomon's prayer in 1 Kin 8:52; 2 Chr 6:40. reproach the living God. See v. 4 and note.

37:19 not gods. See 36:19 and note. wood and stone. Cf. 2:8; 44:9–20.

prayed to Me about Sennacherib king of Assyria,

22 this is the word that the LORD has spoken against him:

"She has despised you and mocked you,
The [a]virgin [b]daughter of Zion;
She has [c]shaken her head behind you,
The daughter of Jerusalem!

23 "Whom have you [a]reproached and blasphemed?
And against whom have you raised your voice
And [1]haughtily [b]lifted up your eyes?
Against the [c]Holy One of Israel!

24 "Through your servants you have reproached the Lord,
And you have said, 'With my many chariots I came up to the heights of the mountains,
To the remotest parts of [a]Lebanon;
And I cut down its tall [b]cedars and its choice cypresses.
And I will go to its [1]highest peak, its thickest [c]forest.

25 'I dug wells and drank waters,
And [a]with the sole of my feet I dried up
All the rivers of [1]Egypt.'

26 "[a]Have you not heard?
Long ago I did it,
From ancient times I [b]planned it.
Now [c]I have brought it to pass,
That [d]you should turn fortified cities into [e]ruinous heaps.

27 "Therefore their inhabitants were short of strength,
They were dismayed and put to shame;
They were as the [a]vegetation of the field and as the green herb,
As [b]grass on the housetops [1]is scorched before it is grown up.

28 "But I [a]know your sitting down
And your going out and your coming in
And your raging against Me.

29 "Because of your raging against Me
And because your [1][a]arrogance has come up to My ears,
Therefore I will put My [b]hook in your nose
And My [c]bridle in your lips,
And I will turn you back [d]by the way which you came.

30 "Then this shall be the sign for you: [1]you will eat this year what [a]grows of itself, in the second year what springs from the same, and in the third year sow, reap, plant vineyards and eat their fruit.

31 "The [a]surviving [b]remnant of the house of Judah will again [c]take root downward and bear fruit upward.

32 "For out of Jerusalem will go forth a [a]remnant and out of Mount Zion [1]survivors. The [b]zeal of the LORD of hosts will perform this." '

33 "Therefore, thus says the LORD concerning the king of Assyria, 'He will not come to this city or shoot an arrow there; and he will not come before it with a shield, or throw up a [a]siege ramp against it.

34 '[a]By the way that he came, by the same he will return, and he will not come to this city,' declares the LORD.

35 'For I will [a]defend this city to save it [b]for My own sake and for My servant David's sake.' "

Assyrians Destroyed

36 Then the [a]angel of the LORD went out and struck 185,000 in the camp of the Assyrians; and when [1]men arose early in the morning, behold, all of these were [2]dead.

37 So Sennacherib king of Assyria departed and [1]returned home and lived at [a]Nineveh.

37:23 haughtily lifted. Assyria's great pride had been condemned earlier (see 10:12 and note). Holy One of Israel. A designation of the God of Israel characteristic of Isaiah (see 1:4 and note).

37:24 many chariots. See 36:8 and note. came up to the heights. Cf. the words of the king of Babylon in 14:13–14. Lebanon. See 33:9; 35:2 and notes. cut down . . . cedars. For many centuries the kings of Mesopotamia had used the cedars of Lebanon in their royal buildings (cf. 1 Kin 5:8–10).

37:26 Cf. 40:21. fortified cities into ruinous heaps. Assyria had been God's tool of judgment against the nations (see 10:5–6).

37:27 See 40:6–8; Ps 37:1–2. grass on the housetops. Roofs in the Near East were flat.

37:29 hook in your nose. The Assyrians often led away captives by tying ropes to rings placed in their noses (see note on 2 Kin 19:28). bridle. Cf. 30:28.

37:30 sign. See 7:11,14 and notes. what grows of itself. See note on 2 Kin 19:29. second . . . third year. See note on 2 Kin 19:29. Probably the second year was to begin shortly, so the total time was less than 36 months. Another three-year sign was given in 20:3. plant vineyards and eat. The response to Assyria's proposal in 36:16 (see note there).

37:31–32 remnant. See notes on v. 4; 1:9; 2 Kin 19:4,30–31.

37:31 take root . . . bear fruit. See 4:2; 11:1,10; 27:6 and notes.

37:32 The zeal . . . this. See 9:7 and note.

37:33 siege ramp. To help the invaders bring up battering rams and scale the walls (see 2 Sam 20:15).

37:35 David's sake. God had promised David an enduring throne in Jerusalem (see 9:7; 55:3; 2 Sam 7:16).

37:36 angel of the LORD . . . struck. Cf. the striking down of the firstborn in Egypt (Ex 12:12) and the angel's sword poised against Jerusalem (2 Sam 24:16). The Greek historian Herodotus attributed this destruction to a bubonic plague. The death of these soldiers fulfills the prophecies of 10:33–34; 30:31; 31:8.

37:37 Nineveh. The capital of Assyria. See Jon 1:2.

38 It came about as he was worshiping in the house of Nisroch his god, that Adrammelech and Sharezer his sons killed him with the sword; and they escaped into the land of [a]Ararat. And [b]Esarhaddon his son became king in his place.

Hezekiah Healed

38 [a]In those days Hezekiah became [1]mortally ill. And [b]Isaiah the prophet the son of Amoz came to him and said to him, "Thus says the LORD, 'Set your house in order, for you shall die and not live.' "

2 Then Hezekiah turned his face to the wall and prayed to the LORD,

3 and said, "[a]Remember now, O LORD, I beseech You, how I have [b]walked before You in truth and with a [c]whole heart, and [d]have done what is good in Your sight." And Hezekiah [e]wept [1]bitterly.

4 Then the word of the LORD came to Isaiah, saying,

5 "Go and say to Hezekiah, 'Thus says the LORD, the God of your father David, "I have heard your prayer, I have seen your tears; behold, I will add [a]fifteen years to your [1]life.

6 "I will [a]deliver you and this city from the hand of the king of Assyria; and I will defend this city." '

7 "This shall be the [a]sign to you from the LORD, that the LORD will do this thing that He has spoken:

8 "Behold, I will [a]cause the shadow on the stairway, which has gone down with the sun on the stairway of Ahaz, to go back ten steps." So the [b]sun's shadow went back ten steps on the stairway on which it had gone down.

9 A writing of Hezekiah king of Judah after his illness and [1]recovery:

10 I said, "[a]In the middle of my [1]life
I am to enter the [b]gates of Sheol;
I am to be [c]deprived of the rest of my years."

11 I said, "I will not see the LORD,
The LORD [a]in the land of the living;
I will look on man no more among the inhabitants of the world.

12 "Like a shepherd's [a]tent my dwelling is pulled up and removed from me;
As a [b]weaver I [c]rolled up my life.
He [d]cuts me off from the loom;
From [e]day until night You make an end of me.

13 "I composed my soul until morning.
[a]Like a lion—so He [b]breaks all my bones,
From [c]day until night You make an end of me.

14 "[a]Like a swallow, like a crane, so I twitter;
I [b]moan like a dove;
My [c]eyes look wistfully to the heights;
O Lord, I am oppressed, be my [d]security.

15 "[a]What shall I say?
[1]For He has spoken to me, and He Himself has done it;
I will [b]wander about all my years because of the [c]bitterness of my soul.

16 "O Lord, [a]by these things men live,
And in all these is the life of my spirit;
[1b]O restore me to health and [c]let me live!

17 "Lo, for my own welfare I had great bitterness;
It is You who has [1a]kept my soul from the pit of [2]nothingness,
For You have [b]cast all my sins behind Your back.

18 "For [a]Sheol cannot thank You,
Death cannot praise You;
Those who go down [b]to the pit cannot hope for Your faithfulness.

37:38 in the house. Hezekiah had gone to the Lord's temple and gained strength (vv. 1,14). Twenty years later (681 B.C.) Sennacherib went to the temple of his god and was killed. Ararat. Urartu, north of Assyria in Armenia (see note on Gen 8:4). Esarhaddon. Reigned 681–669. See Ezra 4:2.

38:1 In those days. Sometime before Sennacherib's invasion of 701 B.C. (see v. 6). Isaiah. He is prominent in this historical interlude (chs. 36–39). Set your house in order. See note on 2 Kin 20:1. you shall die. Elisha similarly predicted the death of Ben-Hadad (2 Kin 8:9–10). See note on 2 Kin 20:1.

38:2 wall. Perhaps of the nearby temple. prayed. Hezekiah apparently had no son and successor to the throne yet (cf. 39:7; 2 Kin 21:1).

38:3 whole heart. Like David (1 Kin 11:4), Hezekiah was truly faithful (see 36:7; 2 Kin 18:3–5).

38:6 deliver . . . this city. See 31:5; 37:35.

38:7 sign. See 7:11,14 and notes.

38:8 sun's shadow went back. Perhaps the miracle involved the refraction of light. See 2 Kin 20:9–11; Josh 10:12–14.

38:10–20 A hymn of thanksgiving in two stanzas, similar to many of the psalms. Hezekiah was deeply interested in the psalms of David and Asaph (see 2 Chr 29:30).

38:10–14 Hezekiah voices his complaint.

38:11 the LORD, The LORD. See 26:4. land of the living. Cf. Ps 27:13.

38:12 rolled up my life. Cf. the rolling up of the sky like a scroll in 34:4 (see also Heb 1:12).

38:13 breaks all my bones. Physical or spiritual distress is often described in terms of aching or broken bones (see Ps 6:2; 32:3).

38:15–20 Hezekiah offers praise for God's healing.

38:15 What shall I say? See 2 Sam 7:20. Hezekiah wonders how he can praise God.

38:16 by these things. Perhaps referring to God's promises and gracious acts, though His gracious acts can include such experiences as sickness and peril.

38:17 pit of nothingness. The grave (see Ps 55:23). all my sins. Physical and spiritual healing are sometimes linked together (see 53:4–5). sins behind Your back. God not only puts our sins out of sight; He also puts them out of reach (Mic 7:19; Ps 103:12), out of mind (Jer 31:34) and out of existence (Is 43:25; 44:22; Ps 51:1,9; Acts 3:19).

38:18 cannot hope. Knowledge about the afterlife was limit-

19 "It is the [a]living who give thanks to
You, as I do today;
A [b]father tells his sons about Your faithfulness.
20 "The LORD will surely save me;
So we will [a]play my songs on stringed instruments
[b]All the days of our life [c]at the house of the LORD."

21 Now [a]Isaiah had said, "Let them take a cake of figs and apply it to the boil, that he may recover."

22 Then Hezekiah had said, "What is the [a]sign that I shall go up to the house of the LORD?"

Hezekiah Shows His Treasures

39 [a]At that time Merodach-baladan son of Baladan, king of Babylon, sent letters and a present to Hezekiah, for he heard that he had been sick and had recovered.

2 Hezekiah [1]was [a]pleased, and showed them all his treasure house, the [b]silver and the gold and the spices and the precious oil and his whole armory and all that was found in his treasuries. There was nothing in his house nor in all his dominion that Hezekiah did not show them.

3 Then Isaiah the [a]prophet came to King Hezekiah and said to him, "What did these men say, and from where have they come to you?" And Hezekiah said, "They have come to me from a far [b]country, from Babylon."

4 He said, "What have they seen in your house?" So Hezekiah [1]answered, "They have seen all that is in my house; there is nothing among my treasuries that I have not shown them."

5 Then Isaiah said to Hezekiah, "Hear the [a]word of the LORD of hosts,

6 'Behold, the days are coming when [a]all that is in your house and all that your fathers have laid up in store to this day will be carried to Babylon; nothing will be left,' says the LORD.

7 'And some of your sons who will issue from you, whom you will beget, [a]will be taken away, and [b]they will become officials in the palace of the king of Babylon.' "

8 [a]Then Hezekiah said to Isaiah, "The word of the LORD which you have spoken is good." For he [1]thought, "For there will be peace and truth [b]in my days."

ed in the OT period, but the gospel of Christ has "brought . . . immortality to light" (2 Tim 1:10).

38:20 play . . . on stringed instruments. Instrumental music and hymns of praise were closely linked in worship (cf. Ps 33:1–3). All . . . our life at the house of the LORD. Hezekiah, like David (Ps 23:6), loved God's house.

38:21 take . . . apply. The verbs are plural (probably addressed to the court physicians). cake of figs. Figs were used for medicinal purposes in ancient Ugarit. he may recover. Contrast v. 1. God answered Hezekiah's prayer for healing (see v. 5).

38:22 sign. Perhaps the healing of the boil (see v. 21).

39:1 Merodach-baladan. Reigned 721–710 B.C. and again later (see note on 2 Kin 20:12). Babylon. See note on 13:1. sent letters and a present. Merodach-baladan probably wanted Hezekiah's support in a campaign against Assyria. During his career, he organized several revolts against his hated neighbors. See note on 2 Kin 20:12.

39:2 silver . . . gold . . . treasuries. See 2 Chr 32:27–29,31. Probably Hezekiah was seeking help from the Babylonians against the Assyrian threat (see note on 2 Kin 20:13). But the information gained during this ill-advised tour escorted by Hezekiah would be valuable to Merodach-Baladan's powerful successors (vv. 5–7).

39:3 Isaiah the prophet. Earlier God had sent Isaiah to confront Ahaz (7:3); cf. also Nathan's rebuke of David (2 Sam 12:1,7).

39:5 word of the LORD. Contrast the word of hope in 38:4–6.

39:6 carried to Babylon. The first mention of Babylon as Jerusalem's conqueror, though 14:3–4 implied the Babylonian captivity. The wickedness of Hezekiah's son Manasseh was a major cause of the captivity (see 2 Kin 21:11–15). See also note on 2 Kin 20:17.

39:7 your sons. Such as King Jehoiachin (2 Kin 24:15). officials. The Hebrew word can be translated "eunuch" (see 56:3; see also Esth 2:3, 14–15; Jer 38:7). king of Babylon. Nebuchadnezzar.

39:8 word . . . is good. See note on 2 Kin 20:19. peace . . . in my days. See 2 Kin 22:20. "Peace" recurs in a refrain in 48:22; 57:21, dividing the last 27 chapters into 3 sections of 9 chapters each (40–48; 49–57; 58–66).

40:1–66:24 In chs. 1–35 Isaiah prophesied against the backdrop of the Assyrian threat against Judah and Jerusalem, in chs. 36–39 he recorded Assyria's failure and warned about the future rise of Babylon, and in chs. 40–66 he wrote as if the Babylonian exile of Judah was almost over.

40:1 Comfort, O comfort. Repeated for emphasis ("Comfort greatly"). The double imperative is found also in 51:9,17; 52:1,11; 57:14; 62:10.

40:2 Speak kindly. The Hebrew for this phrase is used also in 2 Chr 32:6, where Hezekiah "spoke encouragingly" to Judah that she might trust in God in spite of the Assyrian invasion. warfare. The exile in Babylon (cf. Ps 137:1–6; Lam 1:1–2,9,16–17,21). iniquity . . . removed. By enduring the punishment of captivity (see Lev 26:41). Double. Full (or enough) punishment. Cf. the "two things" of 51:19.

40:3 voice. Three voices are mentioned (vv. 3,6,9), each showing how the comfort of v. 1 will come about. The NT links the voice of v. 3 with John the Baptist in Matt 3:3; Mark 1:3; Luke 3:4; John 1:23. Clear the way. Clear obstacles out of the road (cf. 57:14; 62:10). The language of vv. 3–4 has in view the ancient Near Eastern custom of sending representatives ahead to prepare the way for the visit of a monarch. The picture is that of 18 [a]To whom then will you liken God?

18 [a]Ex 8:10; 15:11; 1 Sam 2:2; Is 40:25; 46:5; Mic 7:18; Acts 17:29 preparing a processional highway for the Lord's coming to Jerusalem. In Matt 3:1–8 John declares that repentance is necessary to prepare the way for Christ. Make smooth . . . a highway. See 11:16; 35:8 and notes.

40:4 rough ground . . . plain. See 26:7 and note.

40:5 glory . . . revealed. God would redeem Israel from Babylon (see 35:2 and note; 44:23), and all the nations would see the deliverance (52:10; cf. Luke 3:6). Ultimately the glory of the redeeming God would be seen in Jesus Christ (John 1:14; 11:4,40; 17:4; Heb 1:3), especially at His return (Matt 16:27; 24:30; 25:31; Rev 1:7)—but also in the redeemed (see 1 Cor 10:31; 2 Cor 3:18; Eph 3:21). See also Is 6:3 and note.

40:6,8 Quoted in part in 1 Pet 1:24–25.

40:6 is grass. See 37:27 and note; 51:12. all its loveliness . . . field. Even the power of Assyria and Babylon would soon vanish.

40:8 word of our God stands. The plans and purposes of the nations will not prevail (see 8:10 and note).

40:9 good news. The news that God is leading His people back to Judah (vv. 10–11). He cares for His people and will redeem them (52:7–10; 61:1). The NT expands this "good news" or "gospel" to refer to the salvation that Christ brings to all people (1 Cor 15:1–4). Here is your God! The Lord is returning to Jerusalem. These words apply to the return from exile (52:7–9), the first coming of Christ (Matt 21:5) and the second coming of Christ (62:11; Rev 22:12). See 35:4 and note.

40:10 arm ruling. Cf. 51:9; 59:16. He is characterized by both strength and gentleness (v. 11). reward . . . recompense. His delivered people, the flock of v. 11 (see 62:11–12).

40:11 tend His flock. Cf. Jer 31:10; Ezek 34:11–16.

40:12–31 Rhetorical questions are used to persuade the people to trust in the Lord, who has the ability to deliver, strengthen and restore His people.

40:12 measured the waters. See Job 28:25; 38:8. In Job 38–41 the Lord overwhelms Job with a description of His greatness. marked off the heavens. See 48:13.

40:13 Quoted in Rom 11:34; 1 Cor 2:16. counselor. See 9:6 and note.

40:15 nations . . . a drop from a bucket. See note on v. 6. dust. See 17:13 and note; 29:5.

40:16 Lebanon. The wood of its cedar trees. its beasts. Cf. Ps 104:16–18. Sacrifices, however numerous, could never do justice to the greatness of God.

40:17 nothing . . . meaningless. In spite of the temporary splendor they might possess (see 13:19 and note).

40:18–20 More than any other prophet, Isaiah shows the folly of worshiping idols. His sarcastic caricature, satire and denunciation of these false gods reach a peak in 44:9–20 (see 41:7,22–24; 42:17; 46:5–7; 48:5).

an offering
Selects a [a]tree that does not rot;
He seeks out for himself a skillful craftsman
To [1]prepare [2]an idol that [b]will not totter.

21 [a]Do you not know? Have you not heard?
Has it not been declared to you from the beginning?
Have you not understood [b]from the foundations of the earth?
22 It is He who [1]sits above the [2][a]circle of
the earth,
And its inhabitants are like
[b]grasshoppers,
Who [c]stretches out the heavens like a [d]curtain
And spreads them out like a [e]tent to dwell in.
23 He it is who reduces [a]rulers to nothing,
Who [b]makes the judges of the earth
[1]meaningless.
24 [1]Scarcely have they been planted,
[1]Scarcely have they been sown,
[1]Scarcely has their stock taken root in
the earth,
But He merely blows on them, and they wither,
And the [a]storm carries them away like stubble.
25 "[a]To whom then will you liken Me
That I would be his equal?" says the Holy One.

He calls them all by name;

and the [1]strength of His power,

heard?
The [b]Everlasting God, the LORD, the Creator of the ends of the earth
Does not become weary or tired.
His understanding is [c]inscrutable.
29 He gives strength to the [a]weary,
And to him who lacks might He [b]increases power.

40:20 tree. See 44:14–16,19. that will not totter. See 41:7; 46:7.
40:21 from the beginning. God's work as Creator is emphasized in the rest of the chapter (cf. 37:26; 41:4,26).
40:22 sits above. Cf. 66:1; see 37:16 and note. circle. Or "horizon." See Job 22:14; Prov 8:27. stretches out the heavens . . . like a tent. See 42:5; 44:24; 51:13; Ps 19:4; 104:2.
40:23 rulers . . . judges . . . meaningless. See v. 17; 2:22 and notes; cf. Jer 25:17–26; Dan 2:21.
40:24 storm . . . like stubble. See 17:13 and note; 41:15–16.
40:25 See v. 18. Apparently some Israelite doubters were comparing their God with the gods of their captors, and they believed that the Lord was failing the test. Holy One. See 1:4 and note.
40:26 created. See vv. 21–22 and notes. leads forth. The Hebrew for this expression is used for bringing forth the constellations in Job 38:32. their host. The stars were worshiped by the people (see 47:13; Jer 19:13). all by name. See Ps 147:4. Not one . . . missing. See 34:16 and note.
40:27–31 As in many psalms of praise, Isaiah now stresses the goodness of God after describing His majesty (vv. 12–26). Such a God is able to deliver and restore His distressed people if they will wait in faith for Him to act. They are to trust in Him and draw strength from Him.
40:27 way. Condition. hidden . . . escapes the notice. Cf. 49:14; 54:8.
40:28 Everlasting God. See 9:6. Creator. See vv. 21–22 and notes. ends of the earth. See 11:12 and note; cf. 5:26; 41:9; 43:6. not become weary. Contrast 44:12.
40:30 grow weary . . . stumble. See note on 5:27.
40:31 wait for. Trust in or look expectantly to (see 5:2; 49:23). gain. Lit. "exchange." Their weakness will give way to God's strength (v. 29). The Hebrew for this verb is used of changes of clothes (Gen 35:2; Judg 14:12), which can symbolize strength and beauty (Is 52:1). Paul tells believers to clothe themselves with Christ (Rom 13:14; cf. Eph 4:24; Col 3:10). eagles. Known for their vigor (Ps 103:5) and speed (Jer 4:13; 48:40).
41:1,5 Coastlands. See 11:11 and note).
41:1 gain new strength. See 40:31. The nations and their gods are challenged to display the same power and wisdom as Israel's God (see vv. 21–24).

2 "[a]Who has aroused one from the east
Whom He [b]calls in righteousness to
His [1]feet?
He [c]delivers up nations before him
And subdues kings.
He makes them like [d]dust with his

As the wind-driven [e]chaff with his

3 "He pursues them, passing on in safety,
By a way he had not been [1]traversing

41:2 one from the east. Cyrus the Great, king of Persia (559–530 B.C.), who conquered Babylon in 539 (see 13:17 and note) and issued the decree allowing the Jews to return to Jerusalem (see Ezra 1:1–4; 6:3–5). Cyrus is referred to also in v. 25; 44:28–45:5,13; 46:11. calls in righteousness. Like the servant of the Lord in 42:6, Cyrus was chosen to carry out God's righteous purposes. subdues kings. Such as Croesus king of Lydia in Asia Minor. wind-driven chaff. See 17:13 and note. his bow. The Persians were renowned for their ability as archers.

41:4 from the beginning. See 40:21 and note. am the first . . . with the last. Since the Lord was present when the first generations were called and will still be there with the last of them, He is the eternal Lord of history and nations (see Heb 13:8; Rev 1:8,17; 2:8; 21:6; 22:13).

41:5–7 By 546 B.C. Cyrus had fought his way victoriously to the west coast of Asia Minor, where his leading opponent was Croesus king of Lydia. Sarcasm and satire are used in the description of the frantic efforts in vv. 6–7—all of them futile (cf. 40:19–20).

41:5 ends of the earth. See 11:12 and note.

41:6 Be strong! See 35:4 and note.

41:7 hammer. Cf. 44:12. So that it will not totter. See 40:18–20 and notes.

41:8–9 My servant. A significant term in chs. 41–53, referring sometimes to the nation of Israel and other times to an individual. In these passages the title refers to one who occupies a special position in God's royal administration of His kingdom, as in "His servant Moses" (Ex 14:31; Num 12:7), "My servant David" (2 Sam 3:18; 7:5,8), "My servants the prophets" (2 Kin 17:13; Jer 7:25). See note on 42:1; see also 20:3; 22:20; 42:1,19; 43:10; 44:1–2,21; 45:4; 49:3,5–7; 50:10; 52:13; 53:11.

41:8 But. In contrast to the nations of vv. 5–7, Israel does not need to be afraid (v. 10). My friend. See Gen 18; 2 Chr 20:7; James 2:23. Some believe, however, that here "My friend" refers to "descendants" (Israel), thus paralleling "My servant" and "whom I have chosen."

41:9 ends of the earth. See v. 5; probably a reference to Mesopotamia and Egypt (see Gen 11:31; 12:1; 15:7; Ps 114:1–2; Jer 31:32).

41:10 Do not fear . . . anxiously look about. See vv. 13–14; 43:1,5; see also 35:4 and note. strengthen . . . help you. As one called to God's service (see vv. 9,15–16). See also v. 14; 40:29; 44:2; 49:8. right hand. A hand of power and salvation (see Ex 15:6,12; Ps 20:6; 48:10; 89:13; 98:1).

41:11 be ashamed and dishonored. Cf. 45:17; 50:7; 54:4. will be as nothing. See vv. 15–16 and notes.

41:13 upholds your right hand. To strengthen them and keep them from stumbling. Do not fear. See v. 10 and note.

41:14 worm. A reference to their feeble and despised condition in exile (cf. Job 25:6). Redeemer. Deliverer from Babylonian exile (in a new exodus). The Hebrew for this word refers to an obligated family protector and thus portrays the Lord as the Family Protector of Israel. He is related to Israel as Father (63:16; 64:8) and Husband (54:5). As Redeemer (or Family Protector), He redeems their property (for He regathers them to their land, 54:1–8), guarantees their freedom (35:9; 43:1–4; 48:20; 52:11–12), avenges them against their tormentors (47:3; 49:25–26; 64:4) and secures their posterity for the future (61:8–9). See note on Ruth 2:20. Holy One of Israel. See vv. 16,20; see also 1:4 and note. The title occurs with "Redeemer" also in 43:14; 47:4; 48:17; 49:7; 54:5.

15 "Behold, I have made you a new, sharp threshing sledge with double edges;
[a]You will thresh the [b]mountains and pulverize them,
And will make the hills like chaff.
16 "You will [a]winnow them, and the wind
