THE ANALYTICAL LEXICON TO THE GREEK NEW TESTAMENT

William D. Mounce

The Analytical Lexicon to the Greek New Testament was created to aid in the study of the Greek New Testament, using sophisticated computer resources to ensure an accurate, helpful, and in-depth analysis of the word forms that make up the New Testament. Its combination of features sets it apart from all previously published analytical lexicons:

- Based on the latest Greek text (UBS 3d edition, revised)
- Includes both accepted and variant readings
- Up-to-date definitions
- Consistent with today's standard Greek lexicons
- Gives the frequency of each inflected form, verse references for forms that occur only once
- Includes Goodrick/Kohlenberger numbers for all words
- Includes principal parts for all verbs
- Contains an entirely new grammatical section, with a discussion of paradigms and explanations as to why paradigms are formed as they are

Most significantly, the Analytical Lexicon to the Greek New Testament is keyed to the author's forthcoming Morphology of Biblical Greek, which explains in detail why some Greek words follow certain patterns and other Greek words follow seemingly very different patterns.

In short, the Analytical Lexicon to the Greek New Testament is more than a tool for quick reference — it is an index to another body of literature.

William D. Mounce, Ph.D., studied at the University of Aberdeen, Scotland, and has been teaching Greek for many years. He is the author of the forthcoming commentary on the Pastoral Epistles in the Word Biblical Commentary. He has also created many educational computer programs and software packages for churches.

How to Use the Analytical

An Analytical can be both a person's friend and a person's enemy. For the pastor with limited time for sermon preparation, it can prevent spending 30 minutes on parsing. It can keep the translator from making a serious translation error. For the layperson, it can provide some access to the Greek Testament. However, it can also do great harm. If used as a crutch, the student will never develop a true facility with the language. And it may lull laypersons into a false sense of security, thinking that because they can parse a word, they therefore know what it means.

Who should not use this volume? (1) A first-year Greek student. The only way to learn the language is to struggle. If you use this volume instead of learning the basic paradigms, you are cheating yourself and most likely will never develop a true facility in the language. (2) Those who know a little Greek. This can be very dangerous, because a cursory exposure to Greek cannot convey the complexity and beauty of the language. For example, just because a verb is an aorist tells you nothing, necessarily, about its meaning. Only prolonged exposure with adequate guidance can do that.

When and who should use this volume?

- When you cannot discover the word's parsing or are not sure, and without the answer you cannot understand the text or the commentator. It is always preferable to struggle, and when you think you have the correct answer or just are unable to see it, then use this book.
- In second-year Greek it is helpful to read large portions of the biblical text. An analytical can help you from spending large portions of time on a very difficult word. However, if you find that you are consistently looking up forms you should know, go back to your beginning grammar and relearn the basic forms.
- Those who know a little Greek and are trying to do word studies. Because each form lists the dictionary form and the G/K number, it is possible to do elementary word studies once you discover what word is being used. If you do this kind of biblical study, please be sure you are aware of the limitations of word studies. For example, do not look at μετανοέω and assume the meaning of the word (to repent) on the basis of the fact it is comprised of two words, μετά and νοέω. Do not look at English cognates and define the Greek on the basis of the English. For example, δύναμις does not mean dynamite. And be aware of the fact that biblical Greek, or "koine," is different from classical Greek, and many of the nice and neat differences between words and grammatical functions that were present in classical times are ignored or minimized biblical times. A book like D.A. Carson's Exegetical Fallacies will send you well down the road in dealing with these types of problems.

Analytical

Instead of reproducing the old analytical, we have tried to include additional information that you will find helpful.

1	2	3	4	5	6

1. Inflected form
2. Parsing. See the list of abbreviations (below) if you are unsure.
3. Inside the square brackets the first information is either how many times that inflected form occurs or the verse reference if it occurs only once. If the entry is too long to fit on one line, the information inthe square brackets is indented on a second line, as is the case with βασιλείοις in the example.

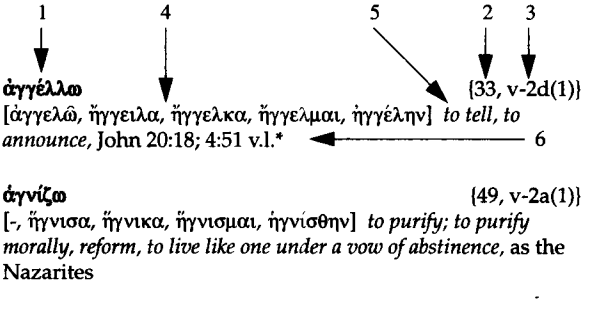
4. The morphological tag. See below.
5. The G/K number for cross reference. This new numbering system replaces that of Strong. It includes all the Greek words used in our Greek Testament; the texts used by Strong were different in places from those used today. The Goodrick/Kohlenberger number ties the entry in with other reference works that use the systems. If you are still using the Strong numbering system, there is a cross reference between the two systems in the Index.
6. The lexical form of the word. If it is the same as the preceeding word, there are just ditto (") marks.

Lexicon

Inserted into the analytical listings is a dictionary. It has been greatly updated from the version in the earlier analytical. It is not designed to replace a full lexicon such as Bauer, Arndt, Gingrich, Danker (BAGD), but it is good for quick reference. The spellings of the words have been updated to match those used by BAGD, the old English has been removed from the definitions, and the definitions have been generally updated. For students, we have included very important information. The principal parts of verbs are listed, as well as the G/K number and the Mounce morphological tag. If a word occurs less than ten times we have usually listed all biblical passages of that word. The asterisk at the end of an entry confirms that all biblical references have been cited. We also discovered that the old lexicon was replete with errors; many of the biblical references were wrong. We have corrected these. And all dictionary entries are listed alphabetically and not grouped by root, as the older analytical did.



1. Lexical form
2. G/K number.
3. Morphological tag.
4. Principal parts if it is a verb.
5. Definitions and references.
6. If there is a final asterisk, then all biblical references have been cited.

Morphological tags

One of the unique features in this analytical is the fact that it is tied into the author's Morphology of Biblical Greek (MBG). This book categorizes all words in the biblical text on the basis of how they inflect. This way all words that behave similarly are grouped together. The morphological tag cited in the entry keys you in as to where you should look in MBG for more information about the word. The process works like this.

1. If you cannot parse a form, look it up in the analytical.
2. If you want more information about the form and why it is formed the way it is, see its tag and refer to the charts in the front of this volume. There we discuss the different classifications and the basic information for the class as a whole.
3. If you want to know more about the word, especially any irregularities experienced by the word that are not common to the classification as a whole, turn to MBG.

Section numbers (§) refer to the sections in MBG. (Because MBG is still in its final stages, there may be some discrepancy between these section numbers and those actually used in MBG.) If your question is about the formation of verbs or tenses in general, look up the section number. If your question is about a specific word, look up the word using its morphological tag. The analytical is therefore much more than a mere lookup book.

Structure of the Analytical

The Analytical breaks down into three divisions.

1. A series of charts at the beginning show basic rules and inflectional patterns for every classification of Greek words in the New Testament.
   - Section I: Nouns and Adjectives.
   - Section II: Verb formation, where we discuss the verb from left to right (augment, reduplications, etc.).
   - Section III: Tense formation, where we have a series of charts providing an overview of some basic verbal forms, and then break the discussion down by tense, voice, and mood with more detail.

   They spell out the rules for noun and verb formation, and then show the rules at work in the paradigms. These are an abridgment of the charts in MBG. We have limited our comments to those pertaining to the category of words as a whole; any comments necessary to explain the abnormalities of one specific word are to be found in MBG. We did not feel it helpful to discuss some of the difficult forms and omit others. The charts assume a basic knowledge of Greek, so discussion of fundamental concepts such as the nu--movable are omitted.
2. The analytical itself with the lexicon interspersed throughout.
3. An Index of several important lists.

Principal parts

We followed the following rules when determining the principal parts listed in the lexicon.

1. We listed the tense stem if it occurs in the New Testament.
2. Other principal parts were included for the sake of completeness. If we do not list the principal part, there is a dash in its place [-, ἠγαλλίασα, -, -, ἠγαλλιάθην].
3. If the imperfect occurs, we have usually included it before the future tense form in parentheses [(ἠπείλουν), -, ἠπειλησάμην -, -, -].
4. If the word occurs in the optative or pluperfect, we have included it after the listing of the principal parts.

Analytical listings

We parsed the words in the analytical listings primary on the basis of form, not function. For example, when an accusative singular neuter of an adjective can function adverbially, we still list it as an adjective. If the accusative singular neuter form of the adjective is listed as its own word in BAGD, or if it is used widely adverbially, we mention the fact in the entry. See the Appendix for a further discussion.

Explanation of the Morphological Tags and the Paradigms

We have developed a system for tagging inflected Greek forms so that words that inflect similarly can be grouped together and studied. Following a summary of that system.

Basic division

The first letter specifies the basic part of speech.

n-	Noun
a-	Adjective
v-	Verb
cv-	Compound verb

Other types of words do not use abbreviations (conjunction, preposition, interjection, adverb, particle).

Nouns

The second letter specifies the declension: "n-1" (first), "n-2" (second), "n-3" (third).

Adjectives

The second letter specifies how many different endings are used, and what declension those endings are.

a-1	(2-1-2)	Uses three sets of case endings. The masculine uses second declension endings, the feminine uses first, and the neuter uses second.
a-2	(3-1-3)	Uses three sets of case endings. The masculine uses third declension endings, the feminine uses first, and the neuter uses third.
a-3	(2-2)	Uses two sets of case endings. The masculine and feminine use second declension endings, and the neuter uses second.
a-3	(3-3)	Uses two sets of case endings. The masculine and feminine use third declension endings, and the neuter uses third.

Verbs

Verbs are categorized on the basis of how their verbal root is modified in order to form their present tense stem. A fuller discussion is given below in §33.

v-1	Present tense is the same as the verbal base (*αγαπα ‣ ἀγαπάω)
v-2	Present tense is formed by adding a consonantal iota to the verbal base (*βαπτιδ + ι̯ ‣ βαπτίζω)
v-3	Present tense is formed by adding ν to the verbal base (*πι + ν ‣ πίνω)
v-4	Present tense is formed by adding τ to the verbal base (*κρυπ + τ ‣ κρύπτω)
v-5	Present tense is formed by adding (ι)σκ to the verbal base (*γνω ‣ γιγνω ‣ γινω + ισκ ‣ γινώσκω)
v-6	μι verbs

Many of the verbs within these categories also show other types of modifications. Verbs in almost all categories show ablaut in their stem vowel. Many of the verbs also use more than one verbal base in forming their different tense stems. Therefore, out of these 6 categories we have drawn all bases that undergo ablaut and use different verbal bases, and have repeated them in v-7 and v-8.

v-7 Verbal bases that undergo ablaut (*καλε ‣ καλέω ‣ κέκληκα)

v-8 Verbs that use more than one verbal base to form their different tense stems (*φερ ‣ φέρω; *οι ‣ οἴσω; *ενεκ ‣ ἤνεγκα)

Each of these categories can be broken down further, and they will done so in the charts that follow. For a fuller description of the categories and a discussion of individual forms, see MBG.

Paradigms

In order to preserve space and to allow the paradigms to be as readable as possible, we have omitted some of the labels on them. The cases are listed down the left side of the paradigm: nom, n/v (nominative and vocative), gen, dat, acc, voc. The left to right order in masculine, feminine, and neuter. In nouns and adjectives, the singular is on the top and the plural is below.

In verbs, the labels read 1 sg, 2 sg, 3 sg, 1 pl, 2 pl, 3 pl. Usually the singular is on top and the plural on the bottom.

When a form is in parentheses such as "(γήρας)," it means that no word in that classification occurs in the Greek Testament.

Section I

Nouns and Adjectives

The Basic Rules Governing Case Endings[1]

1. Stems ending in α or η are in the first declension, stems in ο are in the second, and consonantal stems are in the third.
2. Almost all neuter words are the same form in the nominative and accusative.
3. All neuter words, in the nominative and accusative plural, end in α.
   - In the second declension the α is the changed stem vowel; in the third it is the case ending.
4. In the dative singular, the ι subscripts if possible.
   - Because an ι can subscript only under a vowel (in which case the vowel lengthens), it subscripts only in the first and second declensions.
5. Vowels often change their length ("ablaut").
   - "Contraction" occurs when two vowels meet and form a different vowel or diphthong.

     λογο + ι ‣ λόγῳ (dative singular) λογο + ο ‣ λόγου (genitive singular) γραφη + ων ‣ γραφῶν (genitive plural)
   - "Compensatory lengthening" occur when a vowel is lengthened to compensate for the loss of another letter.

     λογο + νς ‣ λόγος ‣ λογους (accusative plural)
6. In the genitive and dative, the masculine and neuter will always be identical.
7. The Square of Stops.

Labials	π	β	φ
Velars	κ	γ	χ
Dentals	τ	δ	θ

   - Labials + σ form ψ; velars plus σ form ξ; dentals plus σ form σ.
   - The ντ combination drops out when followed by σ (παντ + ς ‣ πᾶς).
   - Whatever happens in the nominative singular third declension also happens in the dative plural. σαρκ + σ ‣ σαρξ. σαρκ + σι ‣ σάρξι.
8. A τ cannot stand at the end of a word and will drop off.
   - No case ending is used in stems ending in ματ. The τ then drops out.

     *ὀνοματ + - ‣ ὀνοματ ‣ ὄνομα
   - Sometimes the preceding vowel lengthens to compensate for the loss.

     *αρχοντ ‣ αρχον ‣ ἄρχων

[1] These rules come from the author's The Basics of Biblical Greek.

Case Endings

A dash means that no case ending is used. The underline means that the case ending has joined with the final stem vowel (cf. rule 5). The case endings for the masc/fem in the third declension are repeated for the sake of clarity, even though in several cases they are the same as in the first and second declensions.

Notice that the third declension case endings are not substantially different from those used for the first and second declensions. Because third declension stems end in a consonant, there are more changes than in the first and second declension words. Contrary to some, we do not list the final stem vowel of the first or second declension word as part of the case ending. For a fuller discussion of this method, see the author's The Basics of Biblical Greek.

dat pl	ις	ις	ις	σι(ν)[8]	σι(ν)	σι(ν)
acc pl	υς[9]	ς[10]	α	ας[11]	ας	α

2 Be prepared for the final stem vowel to undergo changes (rule 8).

3 The omicron contracts with the final stem vowel and forms ου (rule 5).

4 The iota subscripts and the vowel lengthens (rule 5).

5 Because third declension stems end in a consonant, the iota cannot subscript as it does in the first and second declensions; so it remains on the line.

6 The case ending alternates between alpha and nu.

7 As opposed to the first and second declensions, this alpha is an actual case ending and not a changed stem vowel.

8 The nu is a nu-movable. Notice that the ending σι is a flipped version of ις found in the first and second declensions.

9 The actual accusative plural case ending for the first and second declension is νς, but the nu drops out because of the following sigma.

In the first declension the alpha simply joins with the sigma (ὥρα + νς ‣ ὥρας).

In the second declension the omicron lengthens to ου (λογο + νς ‣ λογος ‣ λόγους; rule 5).

10 See previous footnote.

11 As opposed to the first declension, the alpha here is part of the case ending.

Third Declension Nouns

Stems that end in a consonant follow the third declension pattern. Because there is no intervening vowel, the case ending is added directly to the stem and there can be significant changes in the form of the word. But the changes are very predictable, if you know the rules (see MBG, §10 - §27). The most notable changes are in the nominative singular and dative plural where the case ending begins with a σ; sigmas are very volatile in that they can effect a significant amount of change depending on the preceding consonant.

The root of the noun is best seen by dropping the genitive singular case ending (*σαρκ › σάρξ › σαρκός)

n-3a Stems ending in a labial or velar

When the σ of the case ending in the nominative singular and dative plural join with the final stem letter, the two letters are rewritten as a double consonant (rule #7).

[12] The changes between θ and τ in θρίξ are not indicative of this class of nouns. It is a peculiarity of this word. See MBG for discussion.

n-3c Stems ending in a dental

The dental drops out of the nominative singular and dative plural because of the σ of the case ending (*χαριτ + ς ‣ χάρις; #22.3). The preceding vowel can lengthen to compensate for the loss (*οδοντ + ς ‣ οδος ‣ ὀδούς; #22).

n-3c(5a) Stems ending in ντ (with σ in the nominative singular). When the τ drops out in the nominative singular and dative plural due to the σ, the ν also drops out and the preceding vowels lengthen to compensate (e.g., ο ‣ ου; ο ‣ ω; rule 7).
n-3c(5b) Stems ending in ντ (with no ending in the nominative singular). A τ cannot stand at the end of a word so it drops off (rule 8). The preceding vowel can lengthen to compensate (*αρχοντ ‣ αρχον ‣ ἄρχων; rule 8).

n-3e Stems ending in a semi-vowel (digamma [Ϝ], consonantal iota [i̯]).

The Ϝ and i̯ were letters that used to be in the Greek alphabet, but had long since dropped out, centuries before the koine period. However, because they once had been part of the language, their presence has had a remarkable effect on the Greek language; when they dropped out, they usually changed the words with which they had been associated. For more discussion see MBG, §26(Ϝ) and §27 (i̯; also §33.5 below). In most cases, the Ϝ became an υ or dropped out. The i̯ either dropped out or became an ι or ε.

n-3f Stems in ν that show different degrees of ablaut

No case ending is used in the nominative singular. "Strong" ablaut means the vowel has shifted to a long vowel (ἡγεμόνος ‣ ἡγεμών). "Weak" ablaut means the vowel has shifted to a short vowel (ἀνηρ ‣ ἄνερ). "Zero" ablaut means the vowel has dropped out altogether (μητηρ ‣ μητρί). (Some prefer to speak of "strong," "middle," and "weak.")

Section II

Verb Formation

In this section we will look at how the Greek verb is formed, starting at the left side of the word with the augment and reduplication, and work through to the right and personal endings. The reference numbers (e.g., §31), refer to sections in MBG. We will skip over those discussions that are secondary in importance.

Augment (§31)

§31.2 Syllabic Augment If the word begins with a consonant, the syllabic augment ε is added before the initial consonant. λύω ‣ ἔλυον. It is called "syllabic" because it adds another "syllable" to the word.

- §31.2a Sometimes there is a η (temporal augment; §32.3) where we would expect to find an ε (syllabic augment; cf. §31.5). θέλω ‣ ἤθελον.
- §31.2b Verbs beginning with ρ sometime double the ρ before the augment. ῥαίνω ‣ ἔρρανα.
- §31.2c If the verb begins with a consonant cluster (except the combination of a stop and a liquid; §32.2), in the perfect the verb will augment instead of reduplicate. κτίζω ‣ ἔκτικα.
- §31.2d Sometimes words beginning with λ augment instead of reduplicate. *λαβ (λαμβάνω) ‣ εἴληφα.
- §31.2e Sometimes, words beginning with βλ or γλ augment instead of reduplicate.
- §31.2f Words beginning with γν always augment in the perfect instead of reduplicating. *γνω (γινώσκω) ‣ ἔγνωκα.

§31.3 Temporal Augment. Verbs with an initial vowel are augmented by lengthening that vowel. It is called a "temporal" augment because it lengthens the time required to say the word. Vowels lengthen according to the pattern in §2.4. ἀγαπάω ‣ ἠγάπησα.

§31.4 Initial Diphthong. Verbs with an initial diphthong lengthen the first vowel according to the pattern in §2.4. If the second vowel of the diphthong is an υ, it will remain. If the second vowel is an ι, it will subscript. αὐξάνω ‣ ηὔξανεν. οἰκοδομέω ‣ ᾠκοδόμησεν.

- §31.4a Initial diphthongs often are not augmented. ου is never augmented and ει only rarely. εὑρίσκω ‣ εὗρισκον. οὐδενέω ‣ οὐδενήθην.
- §31.4b Some words with an initial diphthong vary between augmenting and not augmenting. εὔχομαι ‣ εὐχόμην or ηὐχόμην.

§31.5 Initial σ and F. There are words that originally began with a σ or a digamma, but by the time of the koine these initial consonants had dropped out in the present tense. However, the words will augment as if the σ or F were still there.When the augment is added, the σ/F drops out and the vowels contract. *σεχ (ἔχω) ‣ εεχ ‣ εἶχον. F*επ ‣ εεπ ‣ εἶπον.

§31.6 Compound verbs. Compound verbs augment the verbal part of the compound (which is the second part of the compound). This makes sense since the augment indicates past time, and the nonverbal element of the compound cannot express time (Bl-D §67.2). καταβαίνω ‣ κατέβην.

- §31.6a Some compounds are treated as if they are not compounds, and therefore the augment will affect the first part of the word. ψευδομαρτυρέω ‣ ἐψευδομαρτύρησα.
- §31.6b Some compound verbs receive two augments, one for each element of the compound. For example, ἀνοίγω is actually a compound verb that can accent both parts (ἠνέῳξα) or just the preposition (ἤνοιγον) or just the verbal element (ἀνέῳξα).
- §31.6c If a compound is formed with a preposition ending in a vowel and a verb beginning with a consonant, the final vowel of the preposition will be dropped and the verb will receive the syllabic augment ("apocope"; §7.1). This is true for all prepositions except περί and πρό. ἐπικαλέω ‣ ἐπεκάλεσα.
- §31.6d If the verbal part of the compound begins with a vowel, the final vowel of the preposition will already have dropped out. In this case the initial vowel of the verbal part of the compound will receive the temporal augment. (As above, περί and πρό do not elide; §6.5d,e). ἐπί + αἴρω ▸ ἐπαίρω ▸ ἐπῆρα.

§31.6e When a preposition has undergone some morphological change in the formation of a compound verb such as elision or assimilation, when the augment is added the morphological change on the preposition is often reversed.

A good example is a compound using ἐκ. As discussed in §21.3, the preposition is properly ἐξ (i.e., "eks"). When the following word begins with a consonant, the σ in the ξ becomes interconsonantal and therefore drops out (§27.4). But when the verbal part of the compound is augmented, the σ is no longer interconsonantal and therefore remains εξ. ἐξ + βάλλω ▸ ἐκβάλλω ▸ ἐξέβαλον.

§31.7 Lack of augment. In certain circumstances it is not unusual to find a word in an augmented tense without an augment.

§31.7a Words beginning with diphthongs frequently do not augment. Verbs with initial ει rarely augment and verbs with ου never augment; cf. §31.3b. εὐλογέω ▸ εὐλόγησα.

§31.7b Compound verbs frequently lack augment.

§31.7c The pluperfect frequently has no augment (especially in compound verbs; Bl-D §66.1).

§31.8 Double augment. Some verbs receive double augments (see §32.6b). ὁράω ▸ εορων ▸ ἑώρων.

Reduplication (§32)

§32.1 Reduplication is primarily a characteristic of the perfect tense. Yet it is found in the present and even twice in the aorist.

In the present, v-6a verbs (and a few other isolated examples) alter their verbal base to form their present tense stem. A verb that is formed thus can also reduplicate in the perfect, but the vowel in between the reduplicated consonants will be different: ι in the present; ε in the perfect.

§32.2 Single consonant. If a word begins with a single consonant, that consonant is reduplicated and separated from the original with a vowel. If it is the perfect, the vowel is ε; if present it is an ι. λύω ▸ λέλυκα. *δω ▸ δίδωμι.

§32.2a If that consonant is an aspirate, when it reduplicates the reduplicated aspirate will deaspirate (§15.5). φανερόω ▸ φεφανεροω ▸ πεφανέρωκα. χαρίζομαι ▸ χεχαρισμαι ▸ κεχάρισμαι. θεραπείω ▸ θεθεραπευμένον ▸ τεθεραπευμένον.

§32.3 Consonant cluster. In the perfect, if a verb begins with a consonant cluster composed of a stop + λ or ρ, the stop is usually reduplicated and the two stops are separated with an ε. γράφω ▸ γέγραφα.

§32.3a Words beginning with any other cluster will not reduplicate to form the perfect but will have a syllabic augment (§32.4).

§32.4 Consonant cluster. In the present, even if the word begins with a cluster, the first consonant of the cluster will reduplicate and be separated with an ι. *πτ ▸ πίπτω.

§32.5 Compound verbs. Compound verbs reduplicate the second element of the compound. ἐν + ἐργέω ▸ ἐνεργέω ▸ ἐνήργηκα.

§32.5a Some compounds became viewed as simple verbs, and therefore reduplicate the beginning of the first element. ἀνοίγω ▸ ἤνοιγον.

§32.6 Attic reduplication. This is a special form of reduplication. It applies only to certain words. If one of these verbs began with α, ε, or ο followed by a single consonant, the vowel and consonant were both reduplicated, and the second vowel was then lengthened. In other words, the word underwent both a reduplication and a lengthening. Cf. Funk §344. *ακο (ἀκούω) ▸ ακακο ▸ ἀκηκοα (second perfect).

§32.7 Initial σ / *F. If a verb originally began with σ or F, the reduplicated σ or F may dissimilate to a rough breathing (§27.6b). στα ▸ σιστημι ▸ ἵστημι. F ορα ▸ F ε*F* ωρακα ▸ ἐ*F* ωρακα ▸ ἑώρακα.

Tense formation (§33)

§33.1 The "root" of a verb is its most basic form. For example, the root of ἀγαπάω is *αγαπα. We always preface the verbal root with an asterisk. This root shows itself in the verb ἀγαπάω as well as the noun ἀγάπη and the adjective ἀγαπητός.

§33.2 The "stem" of a verb is the basic form of that verb in a particular tense. The stem of the present tense λύω is λυ. The stem of the future tense λύσω is also λυ. (Usage differs with these terms, but this is how we will use them.)

§33.3 The present tense stem and the verbal root of some verbs are the same. For example, the root of ἀγαπάω is *αγαπα. The present tense stem is also αγαπα. In other words, the root and the present tense stem are identical.

In verbs where this is the case, the root is usually used without modification in all the tenses and is therefore quite recognizable. Most call these the "regular" verbs.

§33.4 Other verbs modify their verbal root when forming their different tense stems. This is especially true in the formation of the present tense. The present tense is by far the most "irregular" of all the tenses. If you assume that the present tense stem is the base form and all other tenses are derived from it, you will become very confused and potentially discouraged since this approach forces you to memorize hundreds of "irregular" forms. However, if you can learn that the different tense stems are formed from the verbal root and not the present tense stem, memorization and frustration can be kept to a minimum.

For example, the verbal root *βαλ is modified to form its present tense stem by doubling the lambda: βάλλω ("I throw"). However, when you arrive at the future, you will see that there is only one lambda: βαλῶ. The aorist tense also has one lambda: ἔβαλον. If you learn the present tense as the base form, both these forms will appear irregular. But if you learn the present form and its root, these two forms are perfectly regular.

Most grammars describe these changes by saying that the present tense stem has lost a lambda. Although this may be easier at first, it builds a significant error into your way of thinking and will come back to haunt you. The present tense stem is never altered to form another tense stem! The present tense stem is usually a modified form of the verbal root.

§33.5 Consonantal iota. One of the more important elements in this entire discussion is a letter in the Greek alphabet called the "consonantal iota," usually written in grammars as "̯ι". It fell out of use many centuries before the time of the koine, but the fact that it used to be present explains the formation of many words.

For example, the iota in the noun πόλις actually was a consonantal iota. Sometimes the consonantal iota stayed as an iota as it does here. But notice that in the genitive the form is πόλεως. The consonantal iota stayed as an epsilon.

Another example is the verb βάλλω, "I throw." In the future it is βαλῶ with the single lambda. Why the change? In the formation of the present tense stem, the consonantal iota was added to the root *βαλ, and a lambda and consonantal iota form two lambdas. *βαλ + ̯ι ‣ βαλλ ‣ βάλλω.

§33.6 Verbs are properly classified by how the verbal base is modified in order to form the present tense stem.

v-1	Present tense = verbal base	*λυ ‣ λύω
v-2	Present tense = verbal base + ̯ι	*βαπτιδ + ̯ι ‣ βαπτίζω
v-3	Present tense = verbal base + ν	*πι + ν ‣ πίνω
v-4	Present tense = verbal base + τ	*θαπ + τ ‣ θάπτω
v-5	Present tense = verbal base + σκ	*αρε + σκ ‣ ἀρέσκω

§33.7 v-6. The sixth category is composed of μι verbs. These stems follow the athematic conjugation, use the alternate personal endings, and some of them reduplicate their verbal bases to form their present tense stems.

§33.8 These are the six basic categories. But many of the verbs within these categories also show other types of modifications. Verbs in almost all categories show ablaut in their stem vowel. Many of the verbs also use more than one verbal base in forming their different tense stems. Therefore, out of these 6 categories we have drawn all bases that undergo ablaut and use different verbal bases, and have repeated them in v-7 and v-8.

§33.9 v-7. Verbal bases that undergo ablaut (*καλε ‣ καλέω ‣ κέκληκα)

§33.10 v-8. Verbs that use more than one verbal base to form their different tense stems (*φερ ‣ φέρω; *οι ‣ οἴσω; *ενεκ ‣ ἤνεγκα)

Tense and Mood Formatives (§34)

§34.1 Between the stem and the personal endings we find final stem consonants and vowels, tense formatives, connecting vowels, and mood formatives.

§34.2 Final stem consonant. If the word's stem ends in a consonant, and the next element in the inflectional form of the word begins with a consonant, the final stem consonant very frequently is modified. These types of changes are especially evident in the future and first aorist where the σ is added to the stem, and the perfect middle/passive where the endings are added directly to the stem without a connecting vowel. Our discussions in MBG (§21 - §29) cover all these types of changes that occur in the New Testament, especially §25 (σ) and §46.2 (stem changes in the perfect middle/passive). For illustrations see the discussion of the tenses below (§43-§46).

§34.3 Final stem vowel. If the stem of a word ends in a vowel, that vowel will be lengthened before all of the tense formatives, and before the personal endings in the perfect middle/passive, according to the pattern in §3.1.γεννάω ‣ γεννήσω, ποιέω ‣ ποιήσω, φανερόω ‣ φανερώσω.

§34.4 Tense formatives. The following suffixes are added in the formation of the different tenses.

future	σ
1 aorist (act)	σα	(which becomes σε in the third person singular in order to distinguish it from the first person singular)
1 perfect (act)	κα	(which becomes κε in the third person singular in order to distinguish it from the first person singular)
2 perfect (act)	α
1 pluperfect	κει
2 pluperfect	ει
1 aorist (pas)	θε	(which lengthens to θη)
2 aorist (pas)	ε	(which lengthens to η)
1 future (pas)	θησ
2 future (pas)	ησ

§34.5 Mood formative. The optative adds a mood formative between the stem and the personal ending.

οι	All tenses (except the 1 aorist [act/mid]) αι	1 aorist (act/mid)

§34.5a The subjunctive's use of lengthened connecting vowels (ω/η) function practically as if they were mood formatives.

Thematic and Athematic Conjugations (§35)

§35.1 Certain verbs use a thematic vowel immediately before the personal endings ("thematic" conjugation). The "thematic" vowel is also called a "connecting" or "variable" vowel. Other verbs join the personal endings directly to the stem ("athematic" = α privative + "thematic").

§35.1a A verb that uses the athematic conjugation in a certain tense will use that conjugation consistently throughout that tense. But a verb can alternate between thematic and athematic conjugations from tense to tense.

§35.2 Thematic. In the indicative of some formations of the present, imperfect, second aorist (active/middle), and all futures, a connecting vowel is inserted between the stem (or tense formative) and the personal ending.

§35.2a In the indicative and optative, ο is used with personal endings beginning with μ or ν and ε is used elsewhere. *λυ + ο + μεν ‣ λύομεν. *λυ + ε + τε ‣ λύετε.

§35.2b In the subjunctive, the connecting vowels are lengthened so that ω is used with personal endings beginning with μ or ν. η is used elsewhere.

§35.2c For the sake of simplicity, most beginning grammars teach that the connecting vowel is part of the personal ending. For example, the first person plural ending in the present middle indicative is ομεθα. But if you realize that the ο is really not part of the personal ending, it makes it much easier to understand the similarity between the indicative (ομεθα) and subjunctive (ωμεθα), and between the present and the perfect middle/passive: μεθα.

§35.3 Athematic conjugation. Some verbs add the personal endings directly to their stems (or tense formatives). These words will use the alternate personal endings (§39). διδω + μι ‣ δίδωμι.

§35.3a Athematic conjugations are found in some present, imperfect, and second aorist constructions, and in all perfect (middle/passive), pluperfect (middle), and aorist (passive) constructions. It is also found in a few second perfect and pluperfect (active) constructions.

Personal Endings (§36)

§36.1 Before studying the following discussion, be sure you understand connecting vowels (§35). In order to make the verb structure simple for beginners, most teach that the connecting vowel and the personal ending together form the personal ending. This may be necessary step at first, but one that must be refined. Following is a technically correct discussion of the personal endings (albeit with a few simplifications as any student of classical Greek will realize). If you wish even further discussion, see the major grammars: Smyth §463-464; F §318-319).

§36.2 The endings are broken down into primary and secondary, and for each there are regular and alternate endings.

§36.3 The primary endings are used on the unaugmented tenses. In the indicative these are the present, future, and perfect. In the subjunctive they are all tenses.

§36.4 The secondary endings are used on the augmented tenses (i.e., those that are past in time). In the indicative these are the imperfect, aorist, and pluperfect. In the optative they are all tenses.

§36.5 Indicative

	primary endings		secondary endings active
	regular	alternate	regular	alternate
1 sg	- [13]	μι	ν [14]
2 sg	σ [15]		ς
3 sg	- [16]	σι(ν)	-(ν) [17]

13 No ending is used. The ω which stands at the end of the first person singular of verbs in the thematic conjugation is really the lengthened connecting vowel ο.

14 The ending was originally μ. It assimilates to ν when preceded by a vowel. When it is preceded by a consonant it assimilates to an α (e.g., ἔλυσα; Smyth §464a).

15 The ending is actually σι. When added to the connecting vowel, the σ became intervocalic and dropped out. In the present this left, e.g., λυει which then added a final ς. The subjunctive also adds σ by analogy to the indicative. In the perfect σ (not σι) is the ending (Smyth §463b.2). There is an old alternate ending θα (derived from σθα) used only rarely.

2 pl	τε	τε
3 pl	νσι(ν)[18]	ανσι(ν) [19]	ν

1 sg	μαι	μην
2 sg	σαι [20]	σο [21]
3 sg	ται	το
1 pl	μεθα	μεθα
2 pl	σθε	σθε
3 pl	σαν	νται	ντο

§36.6 Subjunctive. The subjunctive uses lengthened connecting vowels and primary endings. Exactly the same endings are found everywhere, regardless of tense. (In the first aorist passive, the η of the tense formative is absorbed.) See general discussion at §36.1,5, and especially Smyth §463.

1 sg	ω [22]
2 sg	η	+	σι	‣	ης [23]
3 sg	η	+	ε	‣	η [24]
1 pl	ω	+	μεν	‣	ωμεν
2 pl	η	+	τε	‣	ητε
3 pl	ω	+	νσι	‣	ωσι [25]

16 The third singular ending is difficult. Smyth lists τι as the only ending (used for example by ἐστί) and adds that ει (e.g., λύει) cannot be derived from it (§463c). Many times no ending is used, and if the connecting vowel is ε, a movable ν may be added.

17 " - " indicates that no ending is used. If the connecting vowel is ε, then a movable ν may be added.

18 In every case the initial ν will drop out because of the σ (§24.4). What happens to the preceding stem vowel varies from case to case.

19 Funk says the ending was ανσι (short α) that, when ν dropped out (§24.4), was lengthened to ασι (long α).

20 The ending is properly σαι. When the connecting vowel ε precedes it, the σ becomes intervocalic (§27.4) and drops out (except in the athematic conjugation where there is no connecting vowel and the σ is not lost). Contraction differs from case to case.

21 The ending is properly σο. When the connecting vowel ε precedes it, the σ becomes intervocalic (§27.4) and drops out (except in the athematic conjugation where there is no connecting vowel and the σ is not lost). Contraction differs from case to case.

22 No ending is used. The connecting vowel stands alone.

23 Intervocalic σ drops out (§25.5), ι subscripts, and σ is added by analogy to the indicative.

24 ι is provided by analogy to the present indicative, and it subscripts.

25 ν drops out when immediately followed by σ (§24.4).

§36.7 Imperative. Following are the imperative endings.

	active	middle
2 sg	–	σο
3 sg	τω	σθω
2 pl	τε	σθε
3 pl	τωσαν	σθωσαν

§36.8 Movable-ν. The basic rule is that a ν is added to a word ending in a vowel when the next word begins with a vowel. This is to prevent haitus (§6.3).

We often find movable-ν when the following word begins with a consonant, thus deserving the name "irrational ν." On verbs it is found normally on the third person singular and plural primary endings (λύεν, λύουσιν) and on ἐστίν. In grammars, movable-ν is written in brackets; λυέ(ν).

Section III

Tense formation

In this section we will spell out the basic rules governing the formation of the different tenses. The reference numbers (e.g., §41) correspond to the reference numbers in MBG.

The paradigms are listed vertically first, second, and third person singular, first, second, and third person plural. When the active and middle/passive are both listed, they are usually listed to the right of the active. Following are a few master charts, and then the charts are broken down by tense.

Master Indicative Verb Chart

This chart summarizes the basic elements of the verb in each of the tenses in the indicative mood. If you can remember the parts, you can almost always determine the tense and voice of a verb.

Formation of Tenses

Present Indicative (§41)

The present tense is subdivided between those words using a connecting vowel ("thematic" conjugation) and those not using a connecting vowel ("athematic" conjugation). "Thematic" is subdivided between stems ending in a consonant and those ending in a vowel. "Athematic" is subdivided among stems ending in different stem vowels.

3 pl	γεννῶνται	ποιοῦνται	φανεροῦνται

Athematic (§41.2)

The athematic conjugation (otherwise known as the μι verbs) is so named because these verbs do not use a thematic vowel between their stem and the personal ending. ("Athematic" being a compound of the alpha-privative and the word "thematic".) They have several peculiarities which if remembered, make recognition quite easy.

1. They use no connecting vowel.
2. They use the alternate personal endings μι, σι, and ασι.
3. They reduplicate their verbal base to form the present tense stem.
4. They lengthen the stem vowel in the singular active (ablaut: §4).
5. Most use a κα for their tense formative in the aorist active/middle.

All the μι verbs all collected in v-6. The only contraction in the paradigm below is with the third person plural as evidenced by the accent. As opposed to the thematic conjugation, the intervocalic σ of the σαι and σι endings does not drop out.

Reduplicated tense stem + primary personal endings (with alternate endings).

Future Indicative (§43)

Athematic Conjugation (μι verbs) (§43.3) μι verbs form their future with just their verbal base; there is no reduplication as there is in the present. The stem vowel is always long, and their conjugation is regular.

Stems ending in a stop (§43.4)

labial If a stem ends with a π, β, or φ, the final consonant and the σ will be written as a ψ (§22.1).

*βλεπ + σ + ω ▸ βλέψω

*θλιβ + σ + ω ▸ θλίψω

*γραφ + σ + ω ▸ γράψω

velar If a stem ends with a κ, γ, or χ, the final consonant and the σ will be written as a ξ (§22.2).

*διωκ + σ + ω ▸ διώξω

*φευγ + σ + ομαι ▸ φεύξομαι

*ηκ + σ + ω ▸ ἥξω

dental If a stem ends with a τ, δ, or θ, the final consonant becomes a σ, joins with the other σ, and then the double σ simplifies to one σ (§22.3).

*ερειδ + σ + ω ▸ ερεισσω ▸ ἐρείσω

*ψευδ + σ + ομαι ▸ ψευσσομαι ▸ ψεύσομαι

*πειθ + σ + ω ▸ πεισσω ▸ πείσω

Words ending in αζω or ιζω (§43.5)

§43.5a The verbal stems in these categories really end in δ (v-2a(1)) or γ (v-2a(2)). In order to form the present stem, ι̯ is added to the verbal stem. But δ or γ added to ι̯ form ζ (§26.2), thus making it appear that the verb actually ends in ζ. Therefore, what we described in §43.3 above concerning dentals applies also to these words. (The original δ or γ reappear in the other tenses, only to be modified for other reasons.)

*βαπτιδ	+	ι̯	+	ω	▸	βαπτίζω	(present)
*βαπτιδ	+	σ	+	ω	▸	βαπτισσω ▸ βαπτίσω	(future)
*κραγ	+	ι̯	+	ω	▸	κράζω	(present)
*κραγ	+	σ	+	ω	▸	κρασσω ▸ κράσω	(future)

§43.5b Attic future. Certain verbs follow a different formula in the future. They are called "Attic futures" because this formation was used in the Attic dialect. In this formulation, if a verb ending in a dental had more than two syllables, it formed the future not by adding σ but by adding σε. Not only did the final dental of the stem drop out, but the σ of the tense formative was then intervocalic (because the stem would have had a vowel preceding the final dental), the σ dropped out (§24.4), and the two vowels contracted. Therefore, a verb with an Attic future will be conjugated just like a liquid verb (§43.6).*ελπιδ (ἐλπίζω) + σε ▸ ελπισε ▸ ελπιε ▸ ἐλπίῶ

Liquid stems (§43.6)

Verbs whose verbal stems end in a liquid (λ ρ) or a nasal (μ ν) are called "liquid verbs." They form their future by adding not σ but εσ and then the thematic vowel. The σ is therefore always between vowels ("intervocalic"), drops out (§25.5), and the ε of the tense formative and the connecting vowel contract. Liquid verbs are therefore conjugated in the future just as if they were ε contract verbs in the present. We included two other forms for comparison.

Aorist Active/Middle Indicative (§44)

The aorist is the most regular of the Greek tenses; the present is the most irregular (cf. §33 above). In fact, the second aorist tense stem is almost always exactly the same as the verbal root.

First Aorist (§44.1a)

3 pl	ἔλυσαν	ἐλύσαντο

Stems ending in a Stop (§44.1b)

As is the case in the future (§43.3), if a stem ends in a stop, the stop and the σ will be written as a different letter.

labial — If a stem ends with a π, β, or φ, the final consonant and the σ will be written as a ψ (§22.1).

Liquid Aorist (§44.1c)

Verbs whose verbal stems end in a liquid (λ ρ) or a nasal (μ ν) are called "liquid verbs." They form their aorist by adding only α (not σα) and by modifying their stem vowel.

κ Aorists (§44.1d)

κ-aorists are formed just like regular first aorists, except that the tense formative is κα instead of σα. All examples in the New Testament are μι verbs; since this is the aorist there will not be reduplication of the verbal base. See the paradigms below (§44.2b).

Perfect Active Indicative (§45)

First Perfect (§45.1)

Two things of special note happen in the perfect active. Several times a final stem ν will drop out because of the following κ of the tense formative. Also, several times the final stem consonant, if it is a labial (π β) or a velar (κ γ), will aspirate to φ and χ respectively. There also is a substantial number of examples of ablaut (§4).

reduplication + verbal stem + tense formative (κα) + primary personal endings

1 sg	λέλυκα	1 pl	λελύκαμεν
2 sg	λέλυκας	2 pl	λελύκατε
3 sg	λέλυκε(ν)	3 pl	λελύκασι(ν)

Insertion of an η (§45.2)

Ten words in the New Testament insert an η between the verbal base and the perfect active tense formative. A similar insertion occurs in the other stems. *βαλ ‣ βάλλω ‣ βεβλήκα.

Second Perfect Active Indicative (§45.3)

The second perfect is just like the first perfect except that it uses α and not κα as the tense formative.

2 sg	γέγονας	2 pl	γεγόνατε
3 sg	γέγονε(ν)	3 pl	γεγόνασι(ν)

[27] First aorist, ἐδωκάμην.

Pluperfect Active (§45.4)

The pluperfect is formed from the fourth principal part. There are 22 verbs in the New Testament that appear as a pluperfect. As is the case with the perfect, a first pluperfect is formed with the tense formative (κ) where the second pluperfect has none. Following the tense formative are the connecting vowels ει. Preceding the reduplication can be an augment, although this is not necessary, so we have placed the augment in parentheses.

1 pl	(ἐ)λελύκειμεν	(ἐ)γεγράφειμεν
2 pl	(ἐ)λελύκειτε	(ἐ)γεγράφειτε
3 pl	(ἐ)λελύκεισαν	(ἐ)γεγράφεισαν

The first person singular forms of the μι verbs are ἐστήκειν, ἐτεθείκειν, and ἐδεδώκειν.

middle/passive

The middle/passive of the pluperfect follows the same pattern as the active except that there is no tense formative and no connecting vowels.

(augment +) reduplication + tense stem + secondary personal endings

1 sg	(ἐ)λελύμην
2 sg	(ἐ)λέλυσο
3 sg	(ἐ)λέλυτο
1 pl	(ἐ)λελύμεθα
2 pl	(ἐ)λέλυσθε
3 pl	(ἐ)λέλυντο

The first person singular forms of the μι verbs are, ἐστάμην, ἐτεθείμην ἐδεδόμην.

Perfect Middle/Passive Indicative (§46)

The perfect middle/passive is built from the fifth principal part. The middle/passive does not use the tense formative and uses secondary endings. If the stem of the verb ends in a consonant, the third person plural is formed periphrastically.

Perfect middle/passive (§46.1)

reduplication + stem + primary personal endings

1 sg	λέλυμαι	1 pl	λελύμεθα
2 sg	λέλυσαι	2 pl	λέλυσθε
3 sg	λέλυται	3 pl	λέλυνται

Stems ending in a Stop (§46.2)

Because there is no connecting vowel or tense formative, the personal endings are added directly to the stem. When the stem ends in a consonant this will usually produce substantial consonantal change. Below is the basic paradigm.

μ	μαι/μεθα	labial	+ μ	‣ μμ	(§21.1)
		velar	+ μ	‣ γμ	(§21.2)
		dental	+ μ	‣ σμ	(§21.3)
σ	σαι/σθε	labial	+ σ	‣ ψ	(§22.1)
		velar	+ σ	‣ ξ	(§22.2)
		dental	+ σ	‣ σ	(§22.3)
τ	ται	labial	+ τ	‣ πτ	(§20.1)
		velar	+ τ	‣ κτ	(§20.2)
		dental	+ τ	‣ σ	(§20.3)

If you take the rules above and apply them in paradigm form, this is how they will be put into effect.

	labial (*γραφ)	velar (*διωκ)	dental (*πειθ)
1 sg	γέγραμμαι	δεδίωγμαι	πέπεισμαι
2 sg	γέγραψαι	δεδίωξαι	πέπεισαι

2 pl	γέγραψθε	δεδίωξθε	πέπεισθε
3 pl	εἰσὶ γεγραμμένοι	εἰσὶ δεδιωγμένοι	εἰσὶ πεπεισμένοι

Stems ending in ν (§46.3)

The final stem consonant (ν) consonant will be changed if the personal ending begins with σ or μ. The σ is lost in the second plural, and the ν totally assimilates to a μ with endings beginning in μ (μαι; μεθα).

1 sg	κέκλιμμαι	1 pl	κεκλίμμεθα
2 sg	κέκλινσαι	2 pl	κέκλινθε
3 sg	κέκλινται	3 pl	κέκλινται

Insertion of a σ between the stem and personal ending (§46.4)

A σ is inserted after the stem and before the personal ending. This same phenomena is found in the aorist passive (§47.3). κλείω ‣ κέκλεισμαι.

Insertion of an η between the stem and the personal ending (§46.5)

As in the other tenses, words may insert an η into this principal part between the tense stem and the personal endings. βάλλω ‣ βέβλημαι.

Pluperfect middle/passive (§46.6)

The middle passive of the pluperfect follows the same pattern as the active except that there is no tense formative and no connecting vowels.

(augment +) reduplication + tense stem + secondary personal endings

1 sg	(ἐ)λελύμην
2 sg	(ἐ)λέλυσο
3 sg	(ἐ)λέλυτο
1 pl	(ἐ)λελύμεθα
2 pl	(ἐ)λέλυσθε
3 pl	(ἐ)λέλυντο

The first person singular forms of the μι verbs are ἑστάμην, ἐτεθείμην, and ἐδεδόμην.

Aorist/Future Passive (§47)

The aorist and future passive is built from the sixth principal part. The future passive does not augment.

First Aorist Passive (§47.1)

β	+	θ	‣ φθ	*συντρίβ	‣ συντετρίφθαι

A velar is aspirated (§20.2).

κ	+	θ
γ	+	θ	‣ χθ	*ανοιγ	‣ ἀνεῴχθη
χ	+	θ

A dental dissimilates to σ (§20.3).

τ	+	θ
δ	+	θ	‣ σθ	*θαυμαδ	‣ ἐθαυμάσθη (‣ θαυμάζω)
θ	+	θ		*πείθ	‣ ἐπείσθησαν

Insertion of a σ between the Stem and the Tense Formative (§47.3)

As is the case in the pefect middle/passive, some words insert a σ between the stem of the word and the θη of the aorist (and future) passive. ἀκούω ‣ ἠκούσθην.

Insertion of an η between the stem and the tense formative (§47.4)

As is the case in other tenses, some stems insert an η between the tense stem and the θη tense formative. βάλλω ‣ ἐβλήθην.

Second aorist passive (§47.5)

The second aorist passive is identical to the first aorist passive except that it uses only η and not θη as the tense formative.

Subjunctive (§50)

The subjunctive is easy to learn. It occurs only in the present, aorist, and the perfect tenses. The connecting vowel is lengthened to η or ω and behaves almost as a mood formative, and all tenses use the same primary personal endings.

In the aorist, there is no augment. Since only the indicative mood can indicate time, and since the augment indicates past time, there can be no augment in the aorist subjunctive. For the changes that will occur due to the connecting of the final stem consonant and the tense formative, see the aorist indicative (§44.1b).

The perfect is always formed periphrastically. It will use the perfect participle followed by the subjunctive of εἰμί.

Thematic: Uncontracted (§51)

The paradigms are ordered vertically active, middle, passive.

Optative (§60)

There are only 67 examples of the optative in the New Testament, 14 of which are the Pauline phrase μὴ γένοιτο. It is found only in the present (linear aspect) and aorist (undefined aspect). The optative uses secondary personal endings except in the first person singular active, where it uses μι. Its mood formative in the thematic conjugation is ι and in the athematic conjugation it is ιη.

---

[28] First aorist, στήσω.

[29] First aorsit, στήσωμαι.

Thematic (§61)

Because the optative can have no real time significance, it can have no augment. The thematic vowel is ο, and the mood formative is ι (except in the aorist passive where it is ιη). All forms of the present optative will have this οι. The tense formative for the aorist active/middle is σα which contracts with the mood formative so that all forms have σαι. The tense formative for the aorist passive in θε, and the mood formative in ιη, which result in θειη in all forms.

Imperative (§70)

The imperative occurs in the New Testament only in the present and the aorist. In the present, the connecting vowel ε is used between the stem and the ending. In the aorist, the endings are added directly onto the tense formative. There will be no augment in the aorist, since the imperative cannot indicate time.

Infinitive (§80)

There are three possible morphemes for active infinitives, and two for middle/passive infinitive. They are added to the tense stem (without augment); when used, the connecting vowel is always ε. The active morphemes are ειν, αι, and ναι. The middle passive morpheme is σθαι. The aorist passive uses ναι, the same morpheme that is used in the aorist active.

In the present, μι verbs will always have a short stem vowel. In the future, contract verbs lengthen their final stem vowel before the tense formative. In the aorist, contract verbs lengthen their final stem vowel before the tense formative. μι verbs lengthen their final stem vowel in various ways.

Participle (§90)

When we only list two forms for a participle and not the entire paradigm, the forms are the nominative and genitive singular. The order of the paradigms is from left to right, masculine, feminine, and neuter.

There are only four participle morphemes:

ντ	active (except perfect) and aorist passive (feminine formed by adding ι̯α to ντ to form ουσα) μεν	middle/passive (future passive included)
τ	masculine/neuter perfect active (which uses the connecting vowel ο)
υσ	feminine in the perfect active (to which is added ι̯ to form υια)

Thematic (Uncontracted) (§91)

ντ is the morpheme for all active participles (except the perfect), and for the aorist passive participle. In the present, the participle is preceded by the connecting vowel ο, making the participle appear to be οντ. In the aorist active it is preceded by the tense formative σα, forming σαντ. In the aorist passive it is preceded by θε, forming θεντ.

To form the feminine active, ι̯α is added to ντ. τ + ι̯ form σ (§26.4), ν drops out when followed immediately by σ, and ο lengthens to ου in order to compensate for the loss (§24.4: οντ + ι + α ‣ ονσα ‣ οσα ‣ ουσα).

Present participle (§91.1)

The present active participle follows the pattern in a-2; the mid/pas follows the pattern from a-1a(2a).

Future participle (§91.2)

Follows the same form as the present except that the tense formative is inserted between the tense stem and the participle. The passive is formed from the fifth principle part (aorist passive).

active	nom sg	λύσων	λύσουσα	λῦσον

First aorist participle (§91.3)

The aorist participle uses the same participle morpheme as does the present. There is no augment. The active and middle follow the third declension in the masculine and feminine, and the first declension in the feminine (3-1-3). The tense formative will affect the form (cf. aorist indicative).

The active inserts the tense formative σα between the stem and the participle and does not use a connecting vowel.

first aorist middle participle

The middle uses the tense formative σα and no connecting vowel. It looks just like the present middle with σα replacing ο.

nom sg	λυσάμενος	λυσαμένη	λυσάμενον

The aorist passive uses the tense formative θε.

dat pl	λυθεῖσι(ν)	λυθείσαις	λυθεῖσι(ν)

Second aorist participle (§91.4)

The second aorist participle is formed on the second aorist stem without the augment. The endings for the active and middle are exactly like those in the present of λύω. The second aorist passive uses the same forms as the aorist active.

active	nom sg	βαλών	βαλοῦσα	βαλόν

middle	nom sg	βαλόμενος	βαλομένη	βαλόμενον
	gen sg	βαλόμενου	βαλομένης	βαλόμενου
passive	nom sg	γραφείς	γραφεῖσα	γραφέν
	gen sg	γραγέντος	γραφείσης	γραφέντος

Perfect (§91.5)

The perfect participle (masculine and neuter) is τ with a connecting vowel (ο). It is otherwise very much like the aorist.

The feminine stem is totally different from the one used in the masculine and neuter. It is υσ to which is added ι̯α. The σ becomes intervocalic and drops out (§25.5), and ι̯ becomes vocalic ι resulting in υια. υσ + ι̯α ‣ υι̯α ‣ υια.

The middle/passive adds the participle directly onto the stem with no tense formative. The case endings are the same as λυόμενος, λυομένη, λυόμενον.

The only difference between first and second perfects is that first perfects include the tense formative κ while the second perfect does not (γεγονώς, γεγονυῖα, γεγονός).

Thematic (contract verbs) (§92)

Contract verbs form their participles just like the uncontracted stems, except that if there is a tense formative it will lengthen (γεννάω 5 γεννησας). If there is no tense formative (as in the present), the final stem vowel will contract regularly with the connecting vowel (γεννα + οντ 5 γενναον 5 γεννῶν).

Athematic μι Verbs (§93)

μι verbs do not use a connecting vowel; they add the participle directly onto the stem. Their final stem vowel is always short. They are otherwise declined like a thematic stem. The genitive form is listed after the nominative.

Methodology

Following is a list of our basic guidelines as we constructed the data base, chose parsings and lexical forms, etc.

- Form was given preference over function. For example, if an adverb can also function as a preposition, we usually stated it as such but listed the form as an adverb. If a nominative is functioning as a vocative, we still list it as a nominative.
- Indeclinable words are listed as such. We did not specify the case in which they were functioning.
- We based the data base on the UBS 3rd edition revised. In choosing variants, we always agreed with the UBS text.
- The following verses are omitted from the UBS text and the analytical: Matt 17:21; 18:11; 23:14; Mark 7:16; 9:44, 46; 11:26; 15:28; Luke 17:36; 23:17; John 5:4; Acts 8:37; 15:34; 24:7; 28:29; Rom 16:24. 2 Cor 13:13-14 in the English is 2 Cor 13:13 in the Greek.

  We included both the shorter and longer ending to Mark as well as John 7:53-8:11.
- Forms listed in the text with square brackets were accepted. For example, [κατα]καίεται is recorded as κατακαίεται (see list below).
- In choosing lexical forms we tried to agree with the form of the word in BAGD. However, if their form disagreed with the form in the text, we sided with the text.
- Any alternate spelling for a word is listed in the lexical entry of the primary spelling and usually in the analytical listing. If the alternate form is evidenced in the text, it will have its own entry in the lexicon.
- Different texts categorize words such as adverbs, particles, conjunctions, and improper prepositions differently. Again, we agreed with BAGD.
- Crasis forms are listed as such.
- If a form could be either masculine or neuter and a decision could not be reached on the basis on the context, we list it as a (generic) masculine.
- Care was taken with those words that are spelled the same and are yet different because of a capital letter or a diacritical mark. See list below.
- If a verbal form could be middle or deponent, we tried to chose on the basis of function. If function were not clear, we tagged it as passive.
- Comparative and superlative forms are generally associated with the regular adjectival or adverbial form.
- εἶδον is listed as the aorist stem of ὁράω, and εἶπον is listed as the aorist stem of λέγω, both in the simple verb as well as compounds.

Bracketed forms

Whenever the UBS lists a form in brackets, we always used the full form of the word. For example, if the text listed κρ[αυγ]άζομτα, we list the word as κραυγάζομτα. Following is a list of all those words with the reference, form, a partial parsing of the word including the bracketed letters, and a parsing of the word not including the bracketed letters.

Goodrick/Kohlenberger's numbers compared to Strong's numbers

This table lists the correspondence between the Goodrick/Kohlenberger numbers for the Greek New Testament (column 1) and Strong's numbering system (column 2).

When a G/K number corresponds to more than one Strong number, the ditto mark (") is used for each additional occurrence (94 times).

When more than one Strong number corresponds to one G/K number, the plus sign (+) is used to show the combination (30 times).

When no Strong number corresponds to the G/K number, the G/K number is followed by percent sign (%) (118 times).

1 *αγ. An unusual second aorist. There actually is a reduplication and an augment. The stem reduplicates (*αγ ‣ αγαγ) and then the reduplicated vowel lengthens (αγαγ ‣ ηγαγ ‣ ἤγαγον).

2 Because it is a second perfect, the tense formative is α, not κα.

3 Shows a double augment with the ι subscripting (ἀνοιγ + σα ‣ ἀνεοιξα ‣ ἀνεωιξα ‣ ἀνέῳξα). Can also be ἠνέῳξα, which adds a third augment by lengthening the first vowel.

4 Shows the same augmentation pattern as in the aorist active. Here the final stem gamma has changed to a χ because of the θ in the tense formative.
Can also be ἠνεῴχθην .

5 Loses its stem ν before the θ. This is not normal.

6 *απολε. This is a compound verb, as you can tell from the augment in the aorist active (ἀπώλεσα).

7 Second perfect.

8 Usually liquid aorists are first aorist and use the α as the tense formative. βάλλω follows the pattern of a normal second aorist.

9 Due to ablaut, the stem vowel has dropped out and an η has been inserted before the tense formative. This form follows the normal rules.

10 See the explanation for the perfect active tense form.

11 See the explanation for the perfect active tense form.

12 The stem vowel has shifted from ε to ο due to ablaut. It is a second perfect and therefore uses the tense formative α.

13 Reduplicates and augments: εγερ ‣ εγεγερ ‣ εγηγερ ‣ ἐγήγερμαι.

14 εἶδον is a second aorist of a verb that does not occur in any other tenses. Most associate it with ὁράω.

15 Actually an imperfect, but we have included it here for clarity's sake.

16 *ελευθ. Future middle deponent.

17 *ελευθ, just like the future. The ευ has dropped out due to ablaut (*ελευθ ‣ ελθ ‣ ἦλθον). Second aorist.

18 *ελευθ, just like the future. The form has both reduplicated and then augmented, and the ε has dropped out. It is a second perfect. *ελευθ ‣ ελελευθ ‣ εληλυθ ‣ ἐλήλυθα.

19 *φαγ. Future middle deponent.

20 *φαγ. Second aorist.

παρακαλέω	παρακαλέσω	παρεκάλεσα	παρακέκληκα	παρακέκλημαι	παρεκλήθην

21 *λαβ. The α lengthens to η, a μ is inserted, and the β joins with the σ of the tense formative to form ψ. It is a future middle deponent.

*λαβ ‣ ληβ ‣ λημβ + σομαι ‣ λήμψομαι.

22 *λαβ. Second aorist.

23 *λαβ. The augment is ει instead of the usual ε (see MBG for an explanation), the stem vowel ε lengthens to η (ablaut), and the β is aspirated to a φ. It is a second perfect, so the tense formative is α and not κα.

*λαβ ‣ ειλαβ ‣ ειληβ ‣ ειληφ ‣ εἴληφα.

24 The same changes present in the perfect active are active here as well. The β has changed to μ because of the following μ.

25 The same changes present in the perfect active are active here as well, except that the augment is the simple ε. The β has changed to φ because of the following θ.

26 *ϝερ. Liquid future. The digamma (ϝ) has dropped out.

27 *ϝιπ. Second aorist. It receives a syllabic augment, the digamma (ϝ) drops out because it is between vowels, and they contract. ε + ϝιπ + ο + ν ‣ εἶπον.

28 *ϝερ. It received the syllabic augment and the digamma (ϝ) dropped out. It inserts an η before the tense stem. ε + ϝερ + η + κα ‣ εερηκα ‣ εἴρηκα.

29 Follows the same pattern of change as in the perfect active.

30 *ϝερ. When the digamma (ϝ) was lost, evidently the ρ doubled. This is common in verbs beginning with ρ. An ε was inserted before the tense stem, much like an η can be inserted.

31 There is both a lengthening and an augment: ορα ‣ ωρα ‣ εωρα ‣ ἑώρακα.

πείθω	πείσω	ἔπεισα	πέποιθα	πέπεισμαι	ἐπείσθην

φημί
φοβέομαι	-	-	-	-	ἐφοβήθην
χαίρω	χαρήσομαι	-	-	-	ἐχάρην

32 The stem vowel ι has shifted to ο due to ablaut.

33 The τ has dropped out because of the σ tense formative, and for some reason there is a contraction.
*πετ + σ + ο + μαι ‣ πεσομαι ‣ πεσοῦμαι.

34 Second aorist. The τ has dropped out because of the σ, which implies that πίπτω would have a first aorist. But actually it is a second aorist.

35 The ε has dropped out and an ο has been inserted before the tense formative.

36 The stem vowel has shifted to ει due to ablaut.

37 The stem vowel has shifted to ει due to ablaut.

38 Believe it or not, this form is regular. What is a little confusing is that the root *θε has shifted to τε ("transfer of aspiration"). When the θη is added for the aorist passive, there is the θεθ combination. The Greeks tried to avoid two aspirates (θ is an "aspirate") in successive vowels, so they "deaspirated" the first one, i.e., shifted it to a τ.
ε + *θε + θη + ν ‣ εθεθην ‣ ἐτέθην.

39 Second perfect.
